8. Mr. Rajesh Mandhotra, Advocate submits that his client on 26.5.2014 was out of station but he was in constant touch with Dr. Indu Bhardwaj. According to the contents of reply, patient was advised not to take food. However, ryles tube of patient was removed and some food was given to the patient against the advice of the doctor, which led to deterioration of the condition of patient. It is evident from the report, reproduced above, that it was not a case of appendicitis, rather she was diagnosed in PGI for faecal fiotula where leak was found from the ileotrass verse anastomosis with multiple perforation in the terminal ileum although the disclosure of caecum was intact. Right hemicolectomy with end ileostomy and also distal mucous fistula was done. Report of the PGI if read in its totality leaves no manner of doubt that respondent No. 2 was prima facie negligent in diagnosing the disease and has operated the patient primarily for appendicitis though, as per report of PGI, there was faecal fiotula where leak was found from the ileotrass verse anastomosis with multiple perforation in the terminal ileum although the disclosure of caecum was intact. Court has also gone through annexure R-2 filed with the reply.

9. Whether the condition of Alka Sharma has deteriorated as argued by Mr. Rajesh Mandhotra, Advocate, after removal of food pipe or not, would be clear from the evidence adduced by the parties.

10. Contents of annexure P-3, complaint, prima facie disclose negligence of respondent No.2 while treating Ms. Alka Sharma. Learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class has erred in law by dismissing the complaint only on the ground that no affidavit was filed.

11. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Priyanka Srivastava v. State of U.P. reported in (2015) 6 SCC 287 have held that application under Section 156(3) CrPC seeking direction for registration of FIR must be supported by an affidavit. Purpose of filing of such affidavit is to prevent abuse of process. Their lordships have further held that remedy available under Section 156(3) CrPC is not of routine nature. Exercise of power thereunder requires application of judicial mind. Magistrate exercising said power must remain vigilant with regard to nature of allegations made in application and not to issue direction without proper application of mind. Their lordships have held as under:

> 20. The learned Magistrate, as we find, while exercising the power under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. has narrated the allegations and, thereafter, without any application of mind, has passed an order to register an FIR for the offences mentioned in the application. The duty cast on the learned Magistrate, while exercising power under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., cannot be marginalized. To understand the real purport of the same, we think it apt to reproduce the said provision:
> "156. Police officer's power to investigate congnizable case. -(1) Any officer in charge of a police station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to inquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XIII.
>
> (2) No proceeding of a police officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was no empowered under this section to investigate.
> (3) Any Magistrate empowered under section 190 may order such an investigation as above-mentioned."
>
> 27. Regard being had to the aforesaid enunciation of law, it needs to be reiterated that the learned Magistrate has to remain vigilant with regard to the allegations made and the nature of allegations and not to issue directions without proper application of mind. He has also to bear in mind that sending the matter would be conducive to justice and then he may pass the requisite order. The present is a case where the accused persons are serving in high positions in the bank. We are absolutely conscious that the position does not matter, for nobody is above law. But, the learned Magistrate should take note of the allegations in entirety, the date of incident and whether any cognizable case is remotely made out. It is also to be noted that when a borrower of the financial institution covered under the SARFAESI Act, invokes the jurisdiction under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and also there is a separate procedure under the Recovery of Debts due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993, an attitude of more care, caution and circumspection has to be adhered to.
> 30. In our considered opinion, a stage has come in this country where Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. applications are to be supported by an affidavit duly sworn by the applicant who seeks the invocation of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate. That apart, in an appropriate case, the learned Magistrate would be well advised to verify the truth and also can verify the veracity of the allegations. This affidavit can make the applicant more responsible. We are compelled to say so as such kind of applications are being filed in a routine manner without taking any responsibility whatsoever only to harass certain persons. That apart, it becomes more disturbing and alarming when one tries to pick up people who are passing orders under a statutory provision which can be challenged under the framework of said Act or under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. But it cannot be done to take undue advantage in a criminal court as if somebody is determined to settle the scores.

31. We have already indicated that there has to be prior applications under Section 154(1) and 154(3) while filing a petition under Section 156(3). Both the aspects should be clearly spelt out in the application and necessary documents to that effect shall be filed. The warrant for giving a direction that an the application under Section 156(3) be supported by an affidavit so that the person making the application should be conscious and also endeavour to see that no false affidavit is made. It is because once an affidavit is found to be false, he will be liable for prosecution in accordance with law. This will deter him to casually invoke the authority of the Magistrate under Section 156(3). That apart, we have already stated that the veracity of the same can also be verified by the learned Magistrate, regard being had to the nature of allegations of the case. We are compelled to say so as a number of cases pertaining to fiscal sphere, matrimonial dispute/family disputes, commercial offences, medical negligence cases, corruption cases and the cases where there is abnormal delay/laches in initiating criminal prosecution, as are illustrated in Lalita Kumari are being filed. That apart, the learned Magistrate would also be aware of the delay in lodging of the FIR.

12. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ramdev Food Products (P) Ltd. v. State of Gujarat reported in (2015) 6 SCC 439 have held that power to direct investigation under Section 156 (3) CrPC is distinguished from power to direct investigation under Section 202(1) CrPC. Their lordships have further held that where on account of credibility of information available, or weighing the interest of justice, it is considered appropriate to straightaway direct investigation, a direction under Section 156(3) CrPC is issued. Power under Section 202 CrPC is available for limited purpose to seek report from police to decide whether or not there is sufficient ground to proceed in the case. Their lordships have held as under:

[14] The two provisions are in two different chapters of the Code, though common expression 'investigation' is used in both the provisions. Normal rule is to understand the same expression in two provisions of an enactment in same sense unless the context otherwise requires. Heading of Chapter XII is "Information to the Police and their Powers to Investigate" and that of Chapter XV is "Complaints to Magistrate". Heading of Chapter XIV is "Conditions Requisite for Initiation of Proceedings". The two provisions i.e. Sections 156 and 202 in Chapters XII and XV respectively are as follows :

"156. Police officer's power to investigate cognizable case.

(1) Any officer in charge of a police station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to inquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XIII.

(2) No proceeding of a police officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate.

(3) Any Magistrate empowered under section 190 may order such an investigation as above- mentioned.

202. Postponement of issue of process.-

(1) Any Magistrate , on receipt of a complaint of an offence of which he is authorized to take cognizance or which has been made over to him under section 192, may, if he thinks fit, [and shall in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction] postpone the issue of process against the accused, and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding:

Provided that no such direction for investigation shall be made, -

(a) where it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Sessions; or

(b) where the complaint has not been made by a Court, unless the complainant and the witnesses present (if any) have been examined on oath under section 200.

(2) In an inquiry under sub-section (1), the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, take evidence of witnesses on oath:

Provided that if it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, he shall call upon the complainant to produce all his witnesses and examine them on oath.

(3) If an investigation under sub-section (1) is made by a person not being a police officer, he shall have for that investigation all the powers conferred by this Code on an officer in charge of a police station except the power to arrest without warrant."

15. Cognizance is taken by a Magistrate under Section 190 (in Chapter XIV) either on "receiving a complaint", on "a police report" or "information received" from any person other than a police officer or upon his own knowledge.

38. In Devrapalli Lakshminaryanan Reddy & Ors. vs. V. Narayana Reddy & Ors, 1976 3 SCC 252 National Bank of Oman vs. Barakara Abdul Aziz & Anr, 2013 2 SCC 488 Madhao & Anr. vs. State of Maharashtra & Anr, 2013 5 SCC 615 Rameshbhai Pandurao Hedau vs. State of Gujarat, 2010 4 SCC 185, the scheme of Section 156(3) and 202 has been discussed. It was observed that power under Section 156(3) can be invoked by the Magistrate before taking cognizance and was in the nature of pre-emptory reminder or intimation to the police to exercise its plenary power of investigation beginning Section 156 and ending with report or chargesheet under Section 173. On the other hand, Section 202 applies at post cognizance stage and the direction for investigation was for the purpose of deciding whether there was sufficient ground to proceed.

13. It is a fact that the affidavit has not been filed with the application filed by the petitioner being ignorant of the procedure. However, the present petition has been duly supported by an affidavit. In normal circumstances, Court might have remanded the matter to the Judicial Magistrate 1st Class with a direction to permit the petitioner to file an affidavit alongwith the complaint. However, in the interests of justice, since affidavit has been filed with this petition, it would amount to sufficient compliance and the matter need not be remanded back to the court below.

14. Accordingly, the present petition is allowed. Order dated 15.9.2015 rendered by the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class (IV) Una, District Una, HP in Criminal Complaint No.

128-I-14 is quashed and set aside. Station House Officer, Police Station Sadar, Una, District Una, Himachal Pradesh is directed to register a case under Sections 166-B, 337 and 338 IPC against respondent No.2, forthwith and to complete the investigation within three months.

Case referred:

State of Rajasthan v. Parmanand, (2014) 5 SCC 345

For the appellant: Mr. V.S.Chauhan, Addl. AG with Mr. Vikram Thakur, Dy. AG and Mr. Puneet Rajta, Asstt. AG.

For the respondent: Ms. Kanta Thakur, Advocate as amicus curiae.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This appeal is instituted against the judgment dated 27.10.2007, rendered by the learned Addl. Sessions Judge, (Fast Track Court), Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P., in Sessions case No. 19-D/VII/07, whereby the respondents-accused (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who were charged with and tried for offences punishable under Sections 20 & 29 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the ND & PS Act), have been acquitted.

2. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that on the intervening night of 25/26.3.2007, the police personnel were on patrolling in Government vehicle. When they were coming back to Police Station Dharamshala at about 12:30 AM and when they reached near the Post Office and rain shelter they found accused sitting in the rain shelter. Both of them tried to run away. They were apprehended. They were carrying contraband. They disclosed their identity. Accused Puran Bahadur was found in possession of polythene bag which was smelling of charas. They were given notice as to whether they wanted to be searched before the Gazetted Officer or the Magistrate whereby they consented to be searched by the police party. The In-charge Police Party informed Addl. S.P. regarding the apprehending of the accused. The Addl.

S.P. reached the spot. Thereafter, the police officials firstly gave their personal search to both the accused. Nothing incriminating was recovered from them. The personal search of the accused was conducted in the presence of Addl. S.P. Accused Puran Bahadur was found possessing polythene bag which was containing charas in the shape of "tikkies". It weighed 2.750 kgs. Two samples of 25 grams each were taken out. The bulk as well as the samples were packed and sealed in a cloth piece on the spot. Thereafter, the case property was taken to the Police Station. It was deposited in the malkhana. The sample was sent for chemical analysis. Accused Puran Bahadur was charged under Section 20 and accused Bhim Bahadur was charged under Section 29 of the ND & PS Act. The investigation was completed and the challan was put up before the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as eleven witnesses. The accused were also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. According to them, they were falsely implicated. They also examined one witness in defence. The learned trial Court acquitted the accused, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. V.S.Chauhan, Addl. AG has vehemently argued that the prosecution has proved its case against the accused. On the other hand, Ms. Kanta Thakur, Advocate, has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 27.10.2007.

5. We have heard the learned counsel for both the sides and have also gone through the judgment and records of the case carefully.

6. PW-1 Const. Surjeet Kumar testified that on 26.3.2007 SI Gulzari Lal accompanied by police officials including him were on patrolling duty in a jeep. At 12:30 AM, when they were at Post Office Chowk near rain shelter, the accused were standing near the rain shelter. On seeing the police party they tried to run away. They were apprehended. A polythene bag of white colour was found with the accused Puran Bahadur. It contained charas. Accused consented to be searched before the gazetted officer. Addl. S.P. Patial was called and thereafter the search of the accused was conducted. Charas in the shape of "tikkies" was recovered in the polythene bag. It weighed 2.750 kgs. Two samples of 25 grams each were drawn. The samples and the bulk charas was packed and sealed with seal "A" at four places each. The impression of seal was taken separately. The seal after use was handed over to Vinod Kumar. NCB form in triplicate was filled in at the spot. In his cross-examination, he admitted that near the rain shelter there was Complaint Office of the HPSEB. None was visible at that time in the Complaint Office. There was Park Café nearby.

7. PW-4 Const. Madan Lal, deposed that MHC Pawan Kumar handed over to him one parcel sealed along with a form vide RC No. 59/21 on 15.4.2007, which he deposited at FSL Junga and handed over the receipt to MHC.

8. PW-5 HC Mohinder Singh deposed that on receipt of rukka, he recorded FIR on the instructions of ASI Jatinder Kumar. On 26.3.2007, SI Gulzari Lal deposited three parcels. He entered the same in register No. 19.

9. PW-6 HC Pawan Kumar deposed that on 3.4.2007, he has taken charge of MHC from HC Mohinder Singh. On 15.4.2007 he sent sample along with NCB form through Const. Madan Lal to FSL Junga vide RC No. 59/21. The receipt was handed over to him after depositing the same at FSL Junga.

10. PW-7 ASI Vinod Kumar deposed the manner in which the accused were apprehended. They were apprised of their right to be searched before the gazetted officer. The accused told that they will get searched before a gazetted officer. Addl. S.P. Santosh Patial was informed telephonically. He reached the spot. The search was carried out whereby charas was recovered. It weighed 2.750 kgs. Sealing proceedings were completed on the spot. In his cross-examination, he denied the suggestion that bag was found in the rack of the bus.

11. PW-8 Addl. S.P. Santosh Patial deposed that he proceeded to the spot. Accused were present on the spot. The accused were given option if they wanted to be searched before him or before any other gazetted officer. They consented to be searched before him. Their written consent was taken. The polythene was searched. It contained charas as noticed hereinabove.

12. PW-11 SI Gulzari Lal deposed that he was on patrolling duty on 26.3.2007. When they reached near rain shelter, two persons were found sitting inside the rain shelter. They tried to run away. They were apprehended. Addl. S.P. was informed. He reached the spot. The polythene bag Ext. P-5 was recovered from accused Puran Bahadur. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot. FIR Ext. PW-5/A was registered. He denied the suggestion in his cross-examination that no recovery from the accused was effected. He admitted that in Ext. PW-11/B, he has not shown the electric pole.

13. The accused were apprehended near the rain shelter. Accused Puran Bahadur was carrying a polythene bag. It contained charas. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot. The case property was deposited with PW-5 HC Mohinder Singh. The samples were sent to FSL Junga by MHC Pawan Kumar on 15.4.2007 through Const. Madan Lal vide RC No. 59/21. It was found to be charas as per report Ext. PW-10/A.

14. In the instant case, since the charas was recovered from the polythene bag, the personal search of the accused was not required to be carried out. However, the fact of the matter is that the personal search of both the accused was carried out as per consent memo Ext. PW-11/A. We have gone through consent memo Ext. PW-11/A. The accused were required to be asked independently whether they wanted to be searched before the gazetted officer or before the Magistrate. Both the accused were asked in the present case by the same consent memo Ext. PW-11/A as to whether they wanted to be searched before the police officer or gazetted officer or Magistrate. According to Section 50 of the ND & PS Act, there are only two officers i.e. nearest Gazetted Officer or nearest Magistrate. There is no third option mentioned in Section 50 of the ND & PS Act.

15. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Rajasthan v. Parmanand reported in (2014) 5 SCC 345, have held that there is a need for individual communication to each accused and individual consent by each accused under Section 50 of the Act. Their lordships have also held that Section 50 does not provide for third option. Their lordships have also held that if a bag carried by the accused is searched and his personal search is also started, Section 50 would be applicable. Their lordships have held as under:

> "15. Thus, if merely a bag carried by a person is searched without there being any search of his person, Section 50 of the NDPS Act will have no application. But if the bag carried by him is searched and his person is also searched, Section 50 of the NDPS Act will have application. In this case, respondent No.1 Parmanand's bag was searched. From the bag, opium was recovered. His personal search was also carried out. Personal search of respondent No.2 Surajmal was also conducted. Therefore, in light of judgments of this Court mentioned in the preceding paragraphs,Section 50 of the NDPS Act will have application.
> 16. It is now necessary to examine whether in this case, Section 50 of the NDPS Act is breached or not. The police witnesses have stated that the respondents were informed that they have a right to be searched before a nearest gazetted officer or a nearest Magistrate or before PW-5 J.S. Negi, the Superintendent. They were given a written notice. As stated by the Constitution Bench in Baldev Singh, it is not necessary to inform the accused person, in writing, of his right under Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act. His right can be orally communicated to him. But, in this case, there was no individual communication of right. A common notice was given on which only respondent No.2 – Surajmal is stated to have signed for himself and for respondent No.1 – Parmanand. Respondent No.1 Parmanand did not sign.

17. In our opinion, a joint communication of the right available under Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act to the accused would frustrate the very purport of Section 50. Communication of the said right to the person who is about to be searched is not an empty formality. It has a purpose. Most of the offences under the NDPS Act carry stringent punishment and, therefore, the prescribed procedure has to be meticulously followed. These are minimum safeguards available to an accused against the possibility of false involvement. The communication of this right has to be clear, unambiguous and individual. The accused must be made aware of the existence of such a right. This right would be of little significance if the beneficiary thereof is not able to exercise it for want of knowledge about its existence. A joint communication of the right may not be clear or unequivocal. It may create confusion. It may result in diluting the right. We are, therefore, of the view that the accused must be individually informed that under Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act, he has a right to be searched before a nearest gazetted officer or before a nearest Magistrate. Similar view taken by the Punjab & Haryana High Court in Paramjit Singh and the Bombay High Court in Dharamveer Lekhram Sharma meets with our approval.

18. It bears repetition to state that on the written communication of the right available under Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act, respondent No.2 Surajmal has signed for himself and for respondent No.1 Parmanand. Respondent No.1 Parmanand has not signed on it at all. He did not give his independent consent. It is only to be presumed that he had authorized respondent No.2 Surajmal to sign on his behalf and convey his consent. Therefore, in our opinion, the right has not been properly communicated to the respondents. The search of the bag of respondent No.1 Parnanand and search of person of the respondents is, therefore, vitiated and resultantly their conviction is also vitiated.

19. We also notice that PW-10 SI Qureshi informed the respondents that they could be searched before the nearest Magistrate or before a nearest gazetted officer or before PW-5 J.S. Negi, the Superintendent, who was a part of the raiding party. It is the prosecution case that the respondents informed the officers that they would like to be searched before PW-5 J.S. Negi by PW-10 SI Qureshi. This, in our opinion, is again a breach of Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act. The idea behind taking an accused to a nearest Magistrate or a nearest gazetted officer, if he so requires, is to give him a chance of being searched in the presence of an independent officer. Therefore, it was improper for PW-10 SI Qureshi to tell the respondents that a third alternative was available and that they could be searched before PW-5 J.S. Negi, the Superintendent, who was part of the raiding party. PW-5 J.S. Negi cannot be called an independent officer. We are not expressing any opinion on the question whether if the respondents had voluntarily expressed that they wanted to be searched before PW-5 J.S. Negi, the search would have been vitiated or not. But PW-10 SI Qureshi could not have given a third option to the respondents when Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act does not provide for it and when such option would frustrate the provisions of Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act. On this ground also, in our opinion, the search conducted by PW-10 SI Qureshi is vitiated.

20. We have, therefore, no hesitation in concluding that breach of Section 50(1) of the NDPS Act has vitiated the search. The conviction of the respondents was, therefore, illegal. The respondents have rightly been acquitted by the High Court. It is not possible to hold that the High Court's view is perverse. The appeal is, therefore, dismissed."

16. The non-compliance of the mandatory procedure under Section 50 of the N.D & P.S. Act, in the present case, has vitiated the entire proceedings initiated against the accused.

17. The case property was also not produced before PW-10 SHO R.P. Jaswal. PW-10 SHO R.P. Jaswal has not deposed that he was on leave on that date when the accused were apprehended and the contraband was recovered. It was only if the SHO himself was the I.O., he was not required to fill up column Nos. 9 to 11 of the NCB form. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt and there is no occasion for us to interfere with the well reasoned judgment of the learned trial Court dated 27.10.2007.

18. Accordingly, there is no merit in this appeal and the same is dismissed. Bail bonds are discharged.

Maruti car bearing registration No. HR-20E-0102 came from Chhonti side and the police stopped the car to check documents. Accused Tara Chand was driver of the car. Accused Surinder Kumar was sitting on the front seat of the car. Accused Surinder Kumar tried to hide the bag in the car. The accused were apprised of their right to be searched before a Magistrate or gazetted officer vide Ext. PW-5/A. The search of the bag was carried out. It contained charas. It weighed 4 kg. 500 grams. in the shape of balls and sticks. Out of the recovered charas, two samples of 25 grams each were taken out and sealed in separate parcels with seal impression "H" and bulk of charas was also sealed separately with impression "H". NCB form in triplicate was filled in at the spot. The specimen impression was also taken on separate cloth. Rukka Ext. PW-11/E was prepared and sent to the Police Station, upon which FIR Ext. PW-3/A was registered. The case property was deposited with MHC of the Police Station. It was sent to chemical examination. It was found to be charas vide report Ext. PY. On the other hand, Mr. Manoj Pathak Advocate appearing for respondent No. 1 and Mr. Ashish Verma, Advocate appearing vice counsel for respondents No. 2 & 3 have supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 6.6.2008.

He also admitted that village Chhonti was at a distance of 1.5 km. from the spot. He denied the suggestion in the cross-examination by Mr. Swadesh Kainthla and Mr. Puneet Gupta, Advocates that nothing was recovered in the presence of accused Tara Chand.

10. PW-7 HC Pushap Dev deposed that on 18.11.2006, MHC Lal Chand handed over to him case property along with samples, sample seals and NCB form. He sent one of the sample along with the NCB form and sample of seal through Const. Neel Chand to CFSL, Chandigarh on 20.11.2006 vide RC No. 67/06. MHC Neel Chand came back from CFSL, Chandigarh on 22.11.2006 and told that CFSL, Chandigarh had raised objection. He called S.I. Balwant Singh from PP Luhri to fill the new NCB form. S.I. Balwant Singh came and filled the new NCB form. On 23.11.2006, he again sent the samples along with new NCB form to CFSL, Chandigarh through HHC Neel Chand, who deposited the same there under receipt.

11. PW-8 MHC Gulab Chand deposed that MHC Lal Singh handed over one parcel of sample weighing about 25 grams duly sealed with seal impression “H” and “X” along with NCB form in triplicate vide RC No. 61/06 dated 13.11.2006, which he took to CFSL, Chandigarh but the same were brought back as objection was raised by CFSL, Chandigarh. He deposited the same back with MHC On 16.11.2006.

12. PW-10 ASI Lal Singh deposed that on 6.11.2006 SI Daya Sagar handed over to him two sealed parcels containing 25 grams charas each and sealed with seal “H” and resealed with seal “X” along with one parcel of bulk charas containing 4.450 Kg charas, duly sealed with seal “H and resealed with seal “X”. The bag carried by accused Surender Kumar was searched. It contained charas. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot. New NCB form was filled by him vide Ext. PW-3/B. He filled in column Nos. 1 to 8 and columns No. 9 to 11 were filled by SHO Daya Sagar. The resealing was done by SHO PS Ani and he deposited the case property with MHC. He had gone to PS Anni on 23.11.2006 and on the same day he filled the columns No. 1 to 8 and SHO Daya Sagar filled column No. 9 to 12. He denied the suggestion that no charas was recovered from the accused.

14. The accused were acquitted by the learned trial Court on the premise that Section 42 of the ND & PS Act has not been complied with. Independent witnesses, though available were not examined. There is variation in the contents of new NCB form Ext. PW-3/B vis-à-vis old format Ext. PW-10/B. The vehicle in which the accused were travelling was intercepted at 3:00 AM, which was coming from Chhonti side towards Luhri. It was a chance recovery. The police had no prior information that charas was being transported. Thus, Section 42 of the ND & PS Act was not required to be complied with.

15. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Hamid Bhai Azambhai Malik vs. State of Gujarat, reported in (2009) 3 SCC 403, have held that Section 42 of the ND & PS Act is invocable only if search is made by police officer or authority concerned, upon prior information. When such information or intimation or knowledge comes to the notice of investigating Officer in the course of regular patrolling or investigation of some other offence, it is not necessary to follow the conditions incorporated in Section 42 in all cases. It has been held as follows:

> "12. Coming to the factual background it has to be noted as follows:
> The search was made by the raiding party at about 4.30 P.M. on 15. 12.1995. Section 42 will be invocable only if the search is made by the police officer or the concerned authority, upon the prior information. If such a person has reason to believe from personal knowledge or information given by any person and obliged to take down in writing as such the information about the accused having possessed of and dealing with contraband article like 'charas' came to be appraised of by the concerned PSI Mr. K,D,Pandya, LCB Branch of Bharuch Police Station, in course of his investigation of an offence, registered vide CR No.II-135 of 1995. Therefore, it is settled proposition of law when such an information or intimation or knowledge comes to the notice of the Investigating officer in course of the regular patrolling or an investigation of some other offence, it is not necessary to follow in all cases the conditions incorporated in Section 42."

16. Thus, in the instant case, the learned trial Court has erred in law by holding that Section 42 of the ND & PS Act was not complied with.

17. The maruti car was intercepted at 3:00 AM. The place was isolated and desolate. No independent witnesses could be present at 3:00 AM, though PW-6 HHC Darshan Singh has stated that village Kot was at a distance of 3 minute walk from Kot Nullah. He also admitted that village Chhonti was at a distance of 1.5 km. from the spot. The statements of official witnesses, as stated hereinabove, are trustworthy and inspire confidence.

18. The learned trial Court has given undue importance by comparing contents of NCB form Ext. PW-10/B vis-à-vis new format Ext. PW-3/B. According to the old format of NCB form also, the charas was recovered on 6.11.2006 at Kot nullah and two samples of 25 grams each were drawn and the net weight of the contraband was 4.500 kgs. The description of the contraband was also given. It was signed by S.I. Balwant Singh. Ext. Ext. PW-10/B was returned by CFSL, Chandigarh and new NCB form was filled in by PW-10-A SI Balwant Singh. He has filled in column Nos. 1 to 8 of Ext. PW-3/B and columns No. 9 to 11 have been filled in by the SHO. PW-10-A SI Balwant Singh had gone to PS Luhri to fill up the new form. Merely that some additional information was supplied in Ext. PW-3/B has not prejudiced the case of the accused since earlier there were only 7 columns in the NCB form and in the new format Ext. PW-3/B, there were 12 columns. The additional information was required to be supplied. Column Nos. 9 to 11 of Ext. PW-3/B have been filled in by the SHO and column No. 12 has been filled in by the MHC, PS Anni. The date, time and place of seizure has remained the same. The weight of the contraband has also remained the same. The seals were embossed on Ext. PW-3/B as well as on Ext. PW-10/B. It has come in the statement of PW-5 Const. Mukesh Kumar that the I.O. took two samples of 25 grams each out of the recovered bulk of charas and sealed the bulk and samples in a piece of cloth with seal "H" and prepared seizure memo Ext. PW-5/C. PW-10-A SI Balwant Singh has also deposed that the charas was put in saffron cloth and said cloth was put in bag and the bag was put in white coloured cloth and was sealed with seal "H". He has produced the case property and accused at Police Station Anni. The SHO re-sealed the case property and put seal on the NCB form and deposited the same with MHC PS Anni. The MHC has also admitted that the case property was sealed with seal "H" and resealed with seal "X".

19. The learned trial Court has also erred in law that the prosecution has failed to prove as to wherefrom the accused collected Rs. 45,000/-. It has come in the statement of PW-10-A SI Balwant Singh that he made inquiry from accused and they told that they contributed Rs. 15,000/- each and purchased the recovered charas for Rs. 45,000/-. The accused had come to this area for this purpose of purchasing charas. The accused were travelling in the same Maruti car bearing registration No. HR-20E-0102. Two accused, namely, Surender Kumar and Tara Chand are residents of Narwana, Thesil Narwana, Distt. Jind (Haryana) and accused Mani Ram is resident of Vill. Sulehsa, Tehsil Narwana, Distt. Jind (Haryana). The accused have conspired and agreed to buy charas from the area and were travelling in a Maruti car bearing registration No. HR-20E-0102, when their car was intercepted on 6.11.2006 at about 3:00 AM at Kot nullah. Thus, the prosecution has proved its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

20. Accordingly, the appeal preferred by the State is allowed. The judgment of the trial Court dated 6.6.2008 is set aside. Accused Surender Kumar is convicted under Section 20 of the ND & PS Act. Accused Tara Chand and accused Mani Ram are convicted under Section 29 of the ND & PS Act. The accused be heard on the quantum of sentence on 18.7.2016. The Registry is directed to prepare and sent the production warrants to the quarter concerned.

It was deposited with MHC Police Station Manali by SI Om Prakash. He deposited the same in Malkhana. He filled in column No. 12 of NCB form Ext.PW-12/B. Case property was sent by him to FSL Junga through Constable Om Prakash on 25.12.2008. He deposited the same with FSL on 26.12.2008. Bulk property was sent to FSL Junga as noticed herein above through Sumer Bahadur. Case property has reached FSL Juna intact and all the seals were found intact. It was also accompanied by NCB form. Report is Ext. PW-9/B. Samples were also sent through Om Prakash on 26.12.2008 and bulk was sent to FSL through Sumer Bahadur on 18.12.2008. According to the reports, the contraband was found to be Charas.

17. Accused has not challenged the reports Ext. PW-9/A and Ext. PW-9/B. These reports were per se admissible. It was not necessary for the police to examine Constable Sumer Bahadur, who has taken bulk Charas to FSL on 18.12.2009. In fact, bulk was also deposited in Malkhana as per Ext. PW-6/A. Prosecution has conclusively proved that house was searched in the presence of PW-1 Kehar Singh and official witnesses. It was not necessary for the prosecution to prove that a particular room was occupied by accused. It was sufficient that accused was found in the house since he was living with his wife Jai Wanti, in her house.

According to learned trial Court, accused was not alone in the house on that day. Prosecution has proved to the hilt that accused was living in the house of Jaiwanti and he was in conscious and exclusive possession of the contraband recovered from him. PW-1 Kehar Singh has also deposed, as noticed hereinabove, that the accused at the time of the search was all alone. Loss of weight of 50 grams is minimal. It could be due to weather conditions prevailing in the area where the sample/bulk was kept.

18. Judgment relied upon by the learned trial Court in Sunil vs. State has been overruled by this Court in the case of State of H.P. vrs. Mehboon Khan and analogous matters, reported in Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) (FB) 900. The Full Bench of this Court has categorically held that there is no legal requirement of the presence of particular percentage of resin to be there in the sample and the presence of the resin in purified or crude form is sufficient to hold that the sample was that of Charas. It has been held as follows:

> "………….The separated resin is cannabis resin not only when it is in 'purified' form, but also when in 'crude' form or still mixed with other parts of the plant. Therefore, the resin mixed with other parts of the plant i.e. in 'crude' form is also charas within the meaning of the Convention and the Legislature in its wisdom has never intended to exclude the weight of the mixture i.e. other parts of the plant in the resin unless or until such mixture proves to be some other neutral substance and not that of other parts of the cannabis plant. Once the expert expressed the opinion that after conducting the required tests, he found the resin present in the stuff and as charas is a resinous mass and after conducting tests if in the opinion of the expert, the entire mass is a sample of charas, no fault can be found with the opinion so expressed by the expert nor would it be appropriate to embark upon the admissibility of the report on any ground, including non-mentioning of the percentage of tetrahydrocannabinol or resin contents in the sample………….
> f. We are also not in agreement with the findings recorded by the Division Bench in Sunil's case that " mere presence of tetrahydrocannabinol and cystolithic hair without there being any mention of the percentage of tetrahydrocannabinol in a sample of charas is not an indicator of the entire stuff analyzed to be charas" for the reason that the statute does not insist for the presence of percentage in the stuff of charas and mere presence of tetrahydrocannabinol along with cystolithic hair in a sample stuff is an indicator of the same being the resin of cannabis plant because the cystolithic hair are present only in the cannabis plant. When after observing the presence of tetrahydrocannabinol and cystolithic hair, the expert arrives at a conclusion that the sample contains the resin contents, it is more than sufficient to hold that the sample is of charas and the view so expressed by the expert normally should be honoured and not called into question. Of course, neutral material which is not obtained from cannabis plant cannot be treated as resin of the cannabis plants. The resin rather must have been obtained from the cannabis plants may be in 'crude' form or 'purified' form. In common parlance charas is a hand made drug made from extract of cannabis plant. Therefore, any mixture with or without any neutral material of any of the forms of cannabis is to be considered as a contraband article. No concentration and percentage of resin is prescribed for 'charas' under the Act"

19. Prosecution was required to prove only that accused was residing in the house of Jai Wanti. Prosecution has proved beyond reasonable doubt that the contraband was recovered from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused

20. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. Judgment dated 18.2.2011 rendered by the learned Special Judge, Fast Track, Kullu, Himachal Pradesh in Sessions Trial No. 44 of 2009 is set aside. The accused is convicted for the commission of offence punishable under Sections 20

(b)(ii)(B) and 20(I)(a) of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985. Accused be produced to be heard on quantum of sentence on 18.7.2016. Bail bonds of the accused are cancelled.

21. Registry is directed to prepare and send the production warrant to the quarter concerned.

According to post-mortem report, Veena Devi died due to asphyxia due to consuming Phosphate releasing poison.

18. Giatri Devi (PW-14) deposed that whenever, Veena Devi used to visit her, she informed her that the accused used to harass her.

19. Iqbal Mohd. (PW-15) deposed that on 13.7.2008, Rattan Lal lodged an FIR Ext. PW-1/A in the Police Station. He visited the hospital where dead body was kept. Photographs were taken. Site map was prepared. Accused were present in the hospital. Post mortem was got conducted. House of accused was searched. Danda Ext. P1 was recovered. He obtained marriage certificate. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that accused had brought deceased to the hospital after her condition deteriorated. Doctor declared her dead. Factum of death was conveyed by Suneel Dutt to the uncle of deceased.

20. Marriage of deceased was solemnised with the accused Suneel Dutt on 17.4.2008. She lost her father and was brought up by her uncle Rattan Lal. He performed marriage of deceased with Suneel Dutt.

21. FIR Ext. PW-1/A was lodged by PW-1 Rattan Lal. It is specifically mentioned that Veena Devi was physically and mentally tortured and she was forced to consume poisonous substance. In laws of deceased harassed her for bringing insufficient dowry. Whenever she used to come to his house, she used to narrate about maltreatment meted to her by her in laws. Veena Devi had visited three times prior to her death and told him that her father-in-law, mother-in-law and husband were maltreating her more and more. Rattan Lal (PW-1) has categorically deposed that Veena Devi used to tell him that her husband, father-in-law and mother-in-law were harassing her for bringing insufficient dowry. She was given beatings by them. He has noticed injuries on the dead body when he visited Bharari Hospital. PW-2 Raghunath has also deposed that deceased used to tell him that her in laws were maltreating her for bringing insufficient dowry. He has also noticed injuries on her arm and froth coming from her mouth. PW-1 Rattan Lal and Raghunath (PW-2). Nirmla Devi (PW-3) has also deposed that accused used to harass her and used to give beatings for bringing insufficient dowry. PW-4 Parmeshwari Devi also deposed that husband, mother-in-law and father-in-law of deceased were maltreating her for bringing insufficient dowry. PW-3 Arvind Kumar testified that he took Veena Devi to Hospital. PW-7 Jagdish Ram also deposed that whenever, Veena Devi met him, she told that she was being mentally and physically tortured by in laws. He has signed the inquest papers. PW-8 Vidya Devi stated that Veena Devi used to tell her that her mother-in-law used to give her beatings, father-in-law used to abuse her and her husband used to give her beatings after consuming liquor. PW-9 Rakesh Kumar is the witness of recovery. A small vial of Cypher-guard 10% EC was taken into possession vide Ext. PW-1/A. PW-11 Dr. Bharti Ranoute has stated that deceased was suffering from fever when she was brought to the hospital on 12.7.2008. Dr. N.K. Sankhyan, (PW-13) has noticed 25 injuries on the body of Veena Devi. According to his final opinion Ext. PW-13/F, deceased died due to asphyxia after consuming Phosphate releasing poison. Deceased has died within less than three months of marriage. She was tortured mentally and physically by all the accused. They used to harass her for bringing insufficient dowry. They were asking her to bring more money to buy vehicle. Learned trial Court has acquitted the accused on the ground that PW-1 Rattan Lal has not stated in FIR that the accused were asking for money to buy vehicle. FIR is not an encyclopaedia. PW-1 Rattan Lal who is uncle of deceased and has got married her with accused Suneel Dutt, on 17.4.2008, has categorically stated in FIR that Veena Devi was harassed for bringing insufficient dowry and she was thus physically and mentally tortured. According to the contents of FIR, she was also beaten up by accused. PW-1 Rattan Lal and PW-2 Raghunath have also noticed as many as 25 injuries on the body of Veena Devi. These could not be self inflicted injuries. There is no merit in the contention of the learned Advocate for the respondent that the deceased was hit by an ox. It is, thus, evident that she was mercilessly beaten up by accused. They have abetted in committing suicide by Veena Devi by consuming poison. Nirmla Devi, PW-3 has also categorically stated in her deposition before the Court that the deceased used be beaten up by accused for bringing insufficient dowry. She, in her statement, recorded under Section 161 CrPC, has also stated that Veena Devi was given beatings by Suneel Dutt, Savitri Devi (mother-in-law) and Rattan Lal (father-in-law) for bringing insufficient dowry.

22. Learned trial Court has wrongly relied upon explanation under Section 162 CrPC while acquitting accused. It is true that the witnesses produced by prosecution are uncle, aunt and other relatives of the deceased. But it is settled law that statements of close relatives can be relied upon if they inspire confidence. It was a sensitive matter. Deceased could only confide in her close relations about harassment and beatings given to her for bringing insufficient dowry. Consistent harassment by all the accused, physical and mental, has forced Veena Devi to consume poison. She was left with no other alternative but to end her left. She has lost her father and her marriage with Suneel Dutt was performed by her uncle, PW-1 Rattan Lal. Accused have abetted commitment of suicide by Veena Devi. Acts of accused have forced Veena Devi to commit suicide. She has visited only three days before her death and told that she was being harassed by the accused for bringing insufficient dowry. Acts of the accused have created such circumstances that Veena Devi was left with no other option but to commit suicide.

23. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in S. Mahaboob Basha v. State of Karnataka reported in (2014)10 SCC 244, have held that examination of independent witnesses to the acts of ill-treatment and cruelty can not be insisted upon. Their lordships have held as under:

> "8. It is brought on evidence that the appellant-first accused married second time and has begotten three children through his second wife and on account of his second marriage, difference arose between the spouses …….. By the learned Courts below, PW 1 was subjected to thorough cross-examination and despite the same, nothing was elicited from her to discredit her testimony..”

24. Accused have subjected the deceased to cruelty. The prosecution has proved its case against the accused under charged sections beyond reasonable doubt.

25. In view of the discussions and analysis made hereinabove, the present appeal is allowed. Judgment dated 20.9.2010 rendered by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, HP (camp at Bilaspur) in Sessions Trial No. 9/7 of 2008 is set aside. The accused are convicted for the commission of offence under Sections 498-A and 306/34 IPC. Accused be produced to be heard on quantum of sentence on 18.7.2016.

26. The registry is directed to prepare and send the production warrant to the quarter concerned. Bail bonds are cancelled.

(iv) That the entire record pertaining to the construction of the road from the respondents be summoned for the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court.

(v) Any other relief which this Hon'ble Court deem just and proper keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case may kindly be granted in favour of the petitioners and against the respondents."

2. Case of the petitioners in brief is that they are owners in possession of land comprised in Khasra Nos. 264, 266, 271 and 272, situated at Mohal Thogi, Tehsil Karsog, District Mandi, H.P. and in the course of the construction/widening of 'Tattapani-Lamshar Khanderi Savindhar Road' which has been constructed under the Pradhan Mantri Gram Sarak Yojna (hereinafter referred to as 'PMGSY'), the abovesaid land of the petitioners is being threatened to be utilized by the respondents without acquiring the same and without adequately compensating the petitioners. It is further the case of the petitioners that they have approached the authorities concerned and have intimated them that they are not willing to permit the construction/widening of the said road by utilizing their land without due compensation, however, despite their request and notices, the respondents were persisting to utilize the land of the petitioners without acquiring the same in accordance with law. Hence in these circumstances, the petitioners filed the present writ petition.

3. A perusal of the reply filed by the State demonstrates that the factum of the intent of the respondents to utilize the land of the petitioners is not denied. However, as per the respondents, no objection was raised by the petitioners at the time of survey of the road and the earlier construction carried out of the road in issue which was being partially widened to facilitate the plying of heavy vehicles. It is further the case of the respondent-State that the road has been constructed under PMGSY, in which there is no provision of acquisition of land and payment of compensation to land owner. According to the State, as per the said Scheme, beneficiaries of the area are getting connectivity and they have to arrange the land free from all encumbrances and free of cost as the construction of the road is done on the demand of the public. It is further the case of the respondent-State that the petitioners are claiming the compensation unnecessarily, whereas they alongwith other beneficiaries are getting benefit of the road facility.

4. During the pendency of the petition, the petitioners filed CMP No. 19385 of 2013 praying therein that the respondents be restrained from carrying out any construction activity over the land of the petitioners which was apprehended at the time when the said miscellaneous application was filed. The reply filed to the said application by the respondent-State reveals that it is mentioned therein that on the objection of the petitioners, no widening work has been done on that portion of the land which is adjoining to the suit land and no land of the petitioners has been used for widening of the road.

5. Be that as it may, the fact of the matter remains that the petitioners are not willing to let the respondents utilize their land for the purpose of construction/widening of the road in issue which has been constructed under the PMGSY without the petitioners being adequately compensated in accordance with law and according to the State, no compensation can be paid to the petitioner because there is no provision of compensating the land owners under the PMGSY and further the petitioners themselves are the beneficiaries of the project in issue.

6. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case.

7. In my considered view, the respondent-State cannot deprive a citizen of his property without following the due process of law. No doubt under the PMGSY, there is no provision of acquiring the land and compensating the land owner for the use of the land, but the fact still remains that roads are constructed under the abovementioned Schemes only when the land owners either give an affidavit in writing that they shall not be claiming any compensation for utilization of their land or the said land is duly donated in accordance with law by the land owner in favour of the department. Thus, there is no provision under the PMGSY that the respondents can utilize the land of a person without his consent in writing to the effect that he shall not claim any compensation for the same or without the said land having been donated in favour of the department as per law.

8. Right to property is a Constitutional right guaranteed under Article 300 (A) of the Constitution of India, according to which, no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law.

9. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Tukaram Kana Joshi and others Vs. Maharashtra Industrial Development Corporation and others (2013) 1 Supreme Court Cases 353 has held that the State, especially a welfare State which is governed by the rule of law, cannot arrogate itself to a status beyond one that is provided by the Constitution. It has also held that in a welfare State, statutory authorities are bound not only to pay adequate compensation, but there is also a legal obligation upon them to rehabilitate such persons. It has also held that it is not permissible for any welfare State to uproot a person and deprive him of his fundamental/constitutional/human rights, under the garb of development.

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. and others Vs. Manohar (2005) 2 Supreme Court Cases 126 has held that ours is a constitutional democracy and the rights available to the citizens are declared by the Constitution. Although Article 19(1)(f) was deleted by the Forty-fourth Amendment to the Constitution, Article 300-A has been placed in the Constitution of India, which expressly provides that no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law.

11. This Court has repeatedly held in Jeet Ram Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others, Latest HLJ 2016 (HP) 615 and Lal Chand Vs. State of H.P. and others, CWP No. 2540 of 2009, decided on 13.05.2016 that no person can be deprived of his property without following the due process of law.

12. Thus, in view of what has been discussed above, the present writ petition is disposed of with the directions that the respondent-State shall not utilize the land of the petitioners subject matter of the present petition for the purpose of construction/widening of 'Tattapani-Lamshar Khanderi Savindhar Road' without the express consent of the petitioners as is envisaged in the PMGSY or without the said land being donated by the petitioners to the concerned department as per law or in the alternative without acquiring the said land as per the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act.

With the said directions, the writ petition is disposed of.

Satya Gupta Vs. Brijesh Kumar (1998) 6 Supreme Court Cases 423

For the appellant: Mr. Vinod Gupta, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. G.R. Palsra, Adovocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.* :

The present appeal has been filed by the appellant-defendant against judgment passed by the Court of learned Additional District Judge, Mandi in Civil Appeal No. 47 of 2004 dated 28.12.2006 vide which, the appellate Court has dismissed the appeal filed by the present appellant and upheld the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Chachiot at Gohar in Civil Suit No. 24 of 2002 dated 14.01.2004.

2. This appeal was admitted on the following substantial questions of law on 29.11.2010:

1. Whether the devolution of interest in coparcenary property on the death of a male Hindu having interest in such a property, having been survived by the family relation specified in Clause 1 of the schedule shall be treated as self acquired property and is liable to devolve by testamentary or intestate succession.

2. Whether Section 6 of the Hindu Succession Act postulates that a family having acquired interest in coparcenary property after the death of a husband could further devolve the property by testamentary ror intestate succession. If so, its effect thereto.

3. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of the present case are that the plaintiffs/respondents (hereinafter referred to as 'plaintiffs') filed a suit for declaration and injunction to the effect that the suit land was recorded in joint ownership and possession of plaintiffs and Smt. Dromti, Wd/o late Sh. Som Dutt and one another as per revenue records. According to the plaintiffs, the suit land was earlier owned and possessed by one Sh. Poushu, grand father of plaintiffs No. 1 and 2 and great grand father of plaintiffs No. 3 to 5. After the death of Sh. Poushu, the suit land was inherited by two sons, namely Tana and Mastu. Thus, the suit land was ancestral, joint Hindu family and coparcenary property of the plaintiffs. It was further averred that Tana had three sons, namely Tulsi Ram, Hari Ram and Rameshwar. Tulsi Ram was the father of plaintiffs No. 3 to 5. Mastu died leaving behind one son, Som Dutt and Dromti was the widow of said Som Dutt. Som Dutt had died issueless and after his death, his property was inherited by the plaintiffs being coparceners and legal heirs of the husband of Smt. Dromti. As per the plaintiffs, after the death of Dromti, they went to Patwari Halqua to inform about her death. There they came to know that defendant had come to Patwarkhana with an alleged Will of Smt. Dromti qua the suit land. Plaintiffs on inquiry came to know that the alleged Will had been executed on 17.12.1994 which was procured by defendant qua the suit land, which was a result of clear manipulation on the part of defendant, who had played an active role in the execution and registration of the said Will in collusion and in connivance with the scribe and attesting witnesses of the same, which was without the consent and knowledge of the testator. According to the plaintiffs, the Will was neither a genuine nor valid one and late Smt. Dromti had not executed any such Will nor otherwise she could have had legally bequeathed the said property to the defendant because the property was ancestral, joint Hindu family and coparcenary property of the parties. It was further stated in the plaint that the alleged Will was shrouded with suspicious circumstances as Dromti was an old and ailing woman of more than 80 years of age and she besides being feeble was also not mentally capable of expressing her free mind. According to the plaintiffs, the alleged Will was the outcome of mis-representation and collusion between the defendants, scribe and witnesses as the testator during her life time never disclosed the alleged Will to the plaintiffs who are her husband's, brothers and nephews. As per the plaintiffs, they were looking after and rendering all services to Dromti and there was no occasion for her to execute the alleged Will in favour of the defendant.

4. On these basis, the suit was filed by the plaintiffs for declaration that Will No. 127, dated 17.12.1994 was wrong, illegal, null and void and inoperative and that it did not confer any right, title or interest upon the defendant. According to the plaintiffs, the defendant was also liable to be restrained from causing any unlawful interference in the peaceful possession and enjoyment of the plaintiffs over the suit property through a decree of permanent prohibitory injunction.

5. In the written statement, the defendant denied the case of the plaintiffs. According to the defendant, the suit land was joint inter se the parties and the share of the deceased Dromti was in the hands of the defendant because Dromti was living in the house of defendant and was looked after by him. As per the defendant, Dromti had executed and registered the Will in issue with full consent and willingness and the plaintiffs were fully aware about the said Will.

6. On the basis of the pleadings of the parties, learned trial Court framed the following issues on 17.06.2003:

> 1. Whether Will No. 127 dated 17.12.1994 us a genuine Will, as alleged? OPD
>
> 2. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is not maintainable in the present form?OPD
>
> 3. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is barred by limitation? OPD
>
> 4. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action to file the suit? OPD
>
> 5. Whether the plaintiffs are estopped by their own act and conduct to file the suit? OPD
>
> 6. Whether the suit land is ancestral, Joint Hindu family, Coparcenary property of the plaintiffs, as alleged? OPP
>
> 7. Whether the plaintiffs are legal heirs of husband of late Smt. Drompti Devi, as alleged? OPP
> 8. Relief.

7. On the basis of averments produced on record by the respective parties, the following findings were returned on the said issues by the learned trial Court:

Issue No. 1: No.
Issue No. 2: No.
Issue No. 3: No.
Issue No. 4: No.
Issue No. 5: No.
Issue No. 6: Yes.
Issue No. 7: Yes.
Relief: Suit succeeds and is decreed per operative part of the judgment.

8. The suit of the plaintiffs was accordingly decreed in the following terms:

"It is ordered that the suit of the plaintiffs succeeds and is decreed to the effect that plaintiffs who are in possession of the suit land and being legal heirs of husband of deceased Drompti Devi have every right to protect their land from defendant, who has failed to succeed the property on the basis of alleged will, which has been declared by me as invalid and void. The defendant is also restrained by way of permanent prohibitory injunction from causing any sort of interference in peaceful possession and enjoyment of the plaintiffs over the suit land. Keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case, the parties are left to bear their own costs."

9. The learned trial Court on the basis of appreciation of evidence placed on record by the respective parties thus held that the defendants had failed to prove the attestation of the alleged Will as per the requirements of law and accordingly, the alleged Will Ex. DW2/A was bad and invalid Will. It further held that defendant Tilak Raj had taken active part in the execution of the Will as he had called the witnesses himself and had got the Will registered himself and signatures of the marginal witnesses were also procured by him afterwards, which also rendered the Will highly suspicious. Thus, the learned trial Court held that Will Ex. DW2/A was not a genuine Will. Learned trial Court further held that the suit land was ancestral joint Hindu family and coparcenary property of the plaintiffs and they were the legal heirs of deceased husband of Dromti.

10. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court, the defendant filed an appeal.

11. The said appeal was dismissed by the learned Appellate Court vide judgment dated 28.12.2006 in Civil Appeal No. 47 of 2004.

12. Learned Appellate Court framed the following points for determination:

"1. Whether the lower Court had not granted sufficient opportunity to the defendant to lead evidence and the defendant is entitled to lead additional evidence?

2. Whether the judgment and decree are not sustainable in the eyes of law?

3. Final order."

13. The learned Appellate Court returned the following findings on the points so formulated by it:

"Point No. 1: No.
Point No. 2: No.
Final order: Appeal dismissed as per operative part of judgment.

14. It was held by the learned Appellate Court that sufficient opportunities were granted to the defendant by the learned trial Court to lead evidence and the defendant was thus not entitled to lead any additional evidence. Learned Appellate Court held that the facts stated by the defendant in his application did not fall within the purview of Order 41 Rules 28, 29 and Sections 107 and 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Learned Appellate Court also held that it stood proved on record that the suit land was ancestral, joint Hindu family and coparcenary property qua Dromti and the plaintiffs and they being legal heirs of Som Dutt had inherited the same. According to the learned Appellate Court, the findings returned to this effect by the learned lower Court did not require any interference. It also held that the execution of the Will had not been proved in accordance with law as DW-2 and DW-3 who were the attesting witnesses had categorically stated that Smt. Dromti had not put her thumb mark in their presence on the Will. Learned Appellate Court has also held that both these witnesses had stated that they signed the Will later on which was already prepared. Learned Appellate Court further held that the defendant had taken prominent part in the execution of the Will, which fact stood admitted by defendant Tilak Raj in his cross-examination and thus, the execution of the Will was shrouded by suspicious circumstances, which had not been removed by the defendant. Therefore, on the basis of the said findings returned by the learned Appellate Court, it dismissed the appeal.

15. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by the learned Courts below.

16. The factum of the alleged Will executed by deceased Dromti not being proper and valid has been concurrently decided by both the Courts below in favour of the plaintiffs and against the appellant/defendant. Judgments to this effect passed by both the Courts below has not been challenged in the Second Appeal as is evident from the grounds of appeal. Therefore, this Court shall now return its findings on the substantial questions of law, on which the appeal was admitted.

17. Before proceeding further, it is relevant to refer to certain judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court with regard to the scope of interference by this Court while exercising its power under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vishwanath Agrawal Vs. Sarla Vishwanath Agarawal (2012) 7 Supreme Court Cases 288 in paragraphs No. 36 and 37 has held:

> "36. In Major Singh v. Rattan Singh (Dead) by LRs and others[15], it has been observed that when the courts below had rejected and disbelieved the evidence on unacceptable grounds, it is the duty of the High Court to consider whether the reasons given by the courts below are sustainable in law while hearing an appeal under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure.
> 37. In Vidhyadhar v. Manikrao and another[16], it has been ruled that the High Court in a second appeal should not disturb the concurrent findings of fact unless it is shown that the findings recorded by the courts below are perverse being based on no evidence or that on the evidence on record, no reasonable person could have come to that conclusion. We may note here that solely because another view is possible on the basis of the evidence, the High Court would not be entitled to exercise the jurisdiction under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure. This view of ours has been fortified by the decision of this Court in Abdul Raheem v. Karnataka Electricity Board & Ors."

19. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Veerayee Ammal Vs. Seeni Ammal (2002) 1 Supreme Court Cases 134 has held:

> "7. Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure (hereinafter referred to as "the Code") was amended by the Amending Act No.104 of 1976 making it obligatory upon the High Court to entertain the second appeal only if it was satisfied that the case involved a substantial question of law. Such question of law has to be precisely stated in the Memorandum of Appeal and formulated by the High Court in its judgment, for decision. The appeal can be heard only on the question, so formulated, giving liberty to the respondent to argue that the case before the High Court did not involve any such question. The Amending Act was introduced on the basis of various Law Commission Reports recommending for making appropriate provisions in the Code of Civil Procedure which were intended to minimise the litigation, to give the litigant fair trial in accordance with the accepted principles of natural justice, to expedite the disposal of civil suits and proceedings so that justice is not delayed, to avoid complicated procedure, to ensure fair deal to the poor sections of the community and restrict the second appeals only on such questions which are certified by the courts to be substantial question of law. We have noticed with distress that despite amendment, the provisions of Section 100 of the Code have been liberally construed and generously applied by some judges of the High Courts with the result that objective intended to be achieved by the amendment of Section 100 appears to have been frustrated. Even before the amendment of Section 100 of the Code, the concurrent finding of facts could not be disturbed in the second appeal. This Court in Paras Nath Thakur v. Smt.Mohani Dasi (Deceased) & Ors. [AIR 1959 SC 1204] held:

"It is a well settled by a long series of decisions of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council and of this Court, that a High Cour,t on second appeal, cannot go into questions of fact, however, erroneous the findings of fact recorded by the courts of fact may be. It is not necessary to cite those decisions. Indeed, the learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondents did not and could not contend that the High Court was competent to go behind the findings of fact concurrently recorded by the two courts of fact."

8. To the same effect are the judgments reported in Sri Sinha Ramanuja Jeer Swamigal v. Sri Ranga Ramanuja Jeer alias Emberumanar Jeer & Ors. [AIR 1961 SC 1720], V.Ramachandra Ayyar & Anr. v. Ramalingam Chettiar & Anr.[AIR 1963 SC 302] and Madamanchi Ramappa & Anr. v. Muthaluru Bojjappa [AIR 1963 SC 1633]. After its amendment, this Court in various judgments held that the existence of the substantial question of law is a condition precedent for the High Court to assume jurisdiction of entertaining the second appeal. The conditions specified in Section 100 of the Code are required to be strictly fulfilled and that the second appeal cannot be decided on merely equitable grounds. As to what is the substantial question of law, this Court in Sir Chunilal v. Mehta & Sons Ltd. v. Century Spinning & Manufacturing Co.Ltd. [AIR 1962 SC 1314] held that:

"The proper test for determining whether a question of law raised in the case is substantial would, in our opinion, be whether it is of general public importance or whether it directly and substantially affects the rights of the parties and if so whether it is either an open question in the sense that it is not finally settled by this Court or by the Privy Council or by the Federal Court or is not free from difficulty or calls for discussion or alternative views. If the question is settled by the highest court or the general principles to be applied in determining the question are well settled and there is a mere question of applying those principles or that the plea raised is palpably absurd the question would not be a substantial question of law."

9. In Kondiba Dagadu Kadam v. Savitribai Sopan Gujar & Ors. [JT 1999 (3) SC 163] this Court again considered this aspect of the matter and held:

"6. If the question of law termed as substantial question stands already decided by a large bench of the High Court concerned or by the Privy Council or by the Federal Court or by the Supreme Court, its merely wrong application on facts of the case would not be termed to be a substantial question of law. Where a point of law has not been pleaded or is found to be arising between the parties in the absence of any factual format, a litigant should not be allowed to raise that question as substantial question of law in second appeal. The mere appreciation of the facts, the documentary evidence or the meaning of entries and the contents of the document cannot be held to be raising a substantial question of law. But where it is found that the appellate court has assumed jurisdiction which did not vest in it, the same can be adjudicated in the second appeal, treating it as substantial question of law. Where the first appellate court is shown to have exercised its discretion in a judicial manner, it cannot be termed to be an error either of law or of procedure requiring interference in second appeal. This Court in Reserve Bank of India & Anr. v. Ramakrishna Govind Morey (AIR 1976 SC830) held that whether trial court should not have exercised its jurisdiction differently is not a question of law justifying interference."

10. The question of law formulated as substantial question of law in the instant case cannot, in any way, be termed to be a question of law much less as substantial question of law. The question formulated in fact is a question of fact. Merely because of appreciation of evidence another view is also possible would not clothe the High Court to assume the jurisdiction by terming the question as substantial question of law. In this case Issue NO.1, as framed by the Trial Court, was, admittedly, an issue of fact which was concurrently held in favour of the appellant-plaintiff and did not justify the High Court to disturb the same by substituting its own finding for the findings of the courts below, arrived at on appreciation of evidence."

20. Similarly, it has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Satya Gupta Vs. Brijesh Kumar (1998) 6 Supreme Court Cases 423:

"16. At the outset, we would like to point out that the findings on facts by the Lower Appellate Court as a final Court on facts, are based on appreciation of evidence and the same cannot be treated as perverse or based on no evidence. That being the position, were] are of the view that the High Court, after reappreciating the evidence and without finding that the conclusions reached by the Lower Appellate Court were not based on the evidence, reversed the conclusions on facts on the ground that the view taken by it was also a possible view n the facts. The High Court, it is well settled, while exercising jurisdiction under Section 100, C.P.C., cannot reverse the findings of the Lower Appellate Court on facts merely on the ground that on the facts found by the Lower Appellate Court another view was possible."

21. It has been urged in the present appeal that the judgments passed by both the learned Courts below are liable to be set aside because both the Courts below have erred in not appreciating the provisions of Section 6 of the Hindu Succession Act, and the fact that devolution of interest in coparcenary property on male Hindu having interest in such property shall be treated as self acquired property and as such, it could devolve by testamentary or intestate succession. It was on this ground that learned counsel for the appellant urged that the judgments and decrees passed by both the Courts below were liable to be set aside. No other point was argued.

22. Section 6 of the Hindu Succession Act as it stood before its amendment in the year 2005 is reproduced hereinbelow:

"6. Devolution of interest in coparcenary property: When a male Hindu dies after the commencement of this Act, having at the time of his death an interest in a Mitakshara coparcenary property, his interest in the property shall devolve by survivorship upon the surviving members of the coparcenary and not in accordance with this Act:

Provided that, if the deceased had left him surviving a female relative specified in Class I of the Schedule or a male relative specified in that class who claims through such female relative, the interest of the deceased in the Mitakahsra coparcenary property shall devolve by testamentary or intestate succession, as the case may be, under this Act and not by survivorship.

Explanation 1. For the purposes of this Section, the interest of a Hindu Mitakshra coparcener shall be deemed to be the share in the property that would have been allotted to him if a partition of the property had taken place immediately before his death, irrespective of whether he was entitled to claim partition or not.

Explanation 2. Nothing contained in the proviso to this Section shall be construed as enabling a person who has separated himself from the coparcenary before the death of the deceased or any of his heirs to claim on intestacy a share in the interest referred to therein."

23. As per the plaintiffs, they are the brothers and nephews of Som Dutt, S/o Poushu and husband of deceased Dromti. Defendant claims himself to be nephew of Dromti. According to him, Dromti was his Bua. Interestingly, the case set up by the present appellant in the written statement filed by him to the plaint was that the share of deceased Dromti Devi was in the hands of the defendant because deceased Dromti was living in the house of defendant and she was looked after by him. Thus, according to him, for this reason, she had executed the registered Will in his favour and the defendant was therefore owner of the suit property by virtue of the same having been bequeathed in his favour by deceased Dromti by way of a Will. It is therefore clear that as far as the written statement filed by the defendant is concerned, it was not his case that he had inherited the property by virtue of the provisions of the Hindu Succession Act.

24. As I have already mentioned above, the factum of the alleged Will executed by Dromti not having been proved in accordance with law has been concurrently decided against the appellant by both the learned Courts below. This finding has attained finality as there is no substantial question of law framed challenging the findings so returned by the learned Courts below. The substantial questions of law on which the present appeal has been argued by the appellant are only with regard to devolution of interest in coparcenary property on the death of male Hindu having interest in the same who is survived by a family relation specified in Clause-1 of the Schedule and the effect of the provisions of Section 6 of the Hindu Succession Act. A perusal of the record of the case categorically demonstrates the relationship between the plaintiffs and deceased Dromti and her husband. It is also established from the material on record that deceased Dromti inherited the suit property after the death of her husband. The property inherited by her was not the self acquired property of her husband, but the same had been inherited by her husband from his ancestors. Further, the evidence produced on record by the plaintiffs, i.e. pedigree table Ex.-PA, mutation, Mauja Katwahari, Number Hadbast 92 and Jamabandi for the year 1938-39, mutation No. 67 Ex. PW-3/A clearly establish that the suit land was ancestral joint Hindu family and coparcenary property. The defendant has not been able to prove to the contrary.

25. It is also an admitted position that Som Dutt and Dromti Devi had no children. Section 15 of the Hindu Succession Act provides as under:

"15. General rules of Succession in the case of female. (1) The property of a female Hindu dying intestate shall devolve according to the rules set out in Section 16-

(a) firstly, upon the sons and daughters (including the children of any pre-deceased son or daughter) and the husband;

(b) secondly, upon the heirs of the husband;

(c) thirdly, upon the mother and father;

(d) fourthly, upon the heirs of the father; and

(e) lastly, upon the heirs of the mother.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1)-

(a) any property inherited by a female Hindu from her father or mother shall devolve, in the absence of any son or daughter of the deceased (including the children of any pre-deceased son or daughter), not upon the other heirs referred to in sub-section (1) in the order specified therein, but upon the heirs of the father; and

(b) any property inherited by a female Hindu from her husband or from her father-in-law shall devolve, in the absence of any son or daughter of the deceased (including the children of any pre-deceased son or daughter) not upon the other heirs referred to in sub-section (1) in the order specified therein, but upon the heirs of the husband."

26. In the present case, it is not disputed that the suit property was inherited by deceased Dromti from her husband. Her husband had inherited the said property from his forefathers. Section 15(1)(b) of the Hindu Succession Act provides that the property of a female Hindu dying intestate shall devolve in the absence of sons and daughters (including children of any pre-deceased son or daughter) upon the heirs of the husband. Section 15(1)(2) further provided that any property inherited by a female Hindu from her husband or from her father-in-law shall devolve in the absence of any son or daughter of the deceased not upon other heirs referred in Sub-section (1) in the order specified therein but upon the heirs of the husband.

27. Plaintiffs admittedly are the heirs of the husband of the deceased Dromti. Therefore, in this view of the matter, in my considered view, the suit property after the death of deceased Dromti was to vest upon the plaintiffs and plaintiffs alone. Reliance being placed by the learned counsel for the appellant under the provisions of Section 6 of the Hindu Succession Act is totally misplaced. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court will demonstrate that it has dwelled into all these aspects of the matter and concluded that the suit property was to devolve upon the plaintiffs in view of the provisions of Section 15 of the Hindu Succession Act.

28. Similarly, the learned Appellate Court has also decided this point in favour of the plaintiffs by relying upon the provisions in the revenue records as well as the pedigree table and after concluding that the suit property was inherited by Dromti Devi from the common ancestor of deceased husband and plaintiffs namely Shri Poushu.

29. In my considered view, there is no infirmity in the findings which have been returned in this regard by both the learned Courts below. The substantial questions of law are answered accordingly. Therefore, as there is no merit in the present appeal, the same is accordingly dismissed with costs. All the miscellaneous applications also stand disposed of.

Cases referred:

Ganeshmal Jashraj v. Govt. of Gujarat, AIR 1980 SC 264

For the petitioner : Mr. K.D. Sood, Senior Advocate with Mr. Sanjeev Sood, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Rajiv Sharma, Judge (oral)

This petition is directed against Order dated 25.6.2016 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Kullu, HP in Criminal Revision No. 15 of 2015.

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of the present petition are that a sample of Pineapple ice-cream was lifted by the Food Inspector on 27.3.2008 from Sh. Sanjeev Kumar of M/s Kullu Ice Cream Corner, Kullu. One part of the sampled commodity was forwarded to the public analyst, Kandaghat, who vide its report dated 6.5.2008 found the sample to be adulterated as the milk fat content was found to be 9.23% against the prescribed standard of 10% and total solids were found to be 34.19% against 36%. On the basis of the report of the public analyst, the then Food Inspector made a request to the Chief Medical Officer, Kullu on 26.5.2008 for written consent to launch prosecution against Sanjeev Kumar of M/s Kullu Ice Cream Corner and all the directors/partners of M/s Devyani Food Industries Private Limited, Plot No. 1-21 EPIP, Phase-II, Village Thana, Baddi, Nalagarh, District Solan, HP. Chief Medical Officer granted written consent to launch prosecution against Sh. Sanjeev Kumar of M/s Kullu Ice Cream Corner and against M/s Devyani Food Industries Private Limited, Plot No. 1-21 EPIP, Phase-II, Village Thana, Baddi, Nalagarh, District Solan, HP. Thereafter, Food Inspector filed a complaint under Sections 7 and 16 of the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act against Sanjeev Kumar of M/s Kullu Ice Cream Corner, Kullu and MD of M/s Devyani Food Industries Private Limited, Plot No. 1-21 EPIP, Phase-II, Village Thana, Baddi, Nalagarh, District Solan, HP under Section 16(1)(a)(ii) read with Section 7(i)(iii), Section 2(i-a)(m) of Prevention of Food Adulteration Act.

3. The Food Safety Officer moved an application under Section 319 CrPC before Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kullu for impleading the petitioner i.e. M/s Devyani Food Industries Private Limited, Plot No. 1-21 EPIP, Phase-II, Village Thana, Baddi, Nalagarh, District Solan, HP as necessary party through its partners/directors/responsible persons. According to the averments made in the application, proceedings were launched against Sanjeev Kumar as accused No.1 and Managing Director of M/s Devyani Food Industries Limited as accused No.2 whereas above company through its partners/directors being responsible persons, has inadvertently been left out from the list of accused persons. Application was allowed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kullu on 14.10.2015

4. Petitioner feeling aggrieved by order dated 14.10.2015, filed a criminal revision before the learned Sessions Judge, Kullu bearing No. 15/2015. He dismissed the same on 25.6.2016. Hence, this petition.

5. Mr. K.D. Sood, learned Senior Advocate, has vehemently argued that the application annexure P-4 was preferred after more than five years of the launching of the prosecution against the accused. He then argued that the inherent defect could not be cured under Section 319 CrPC.

6. Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Deputy Advocate General has supported the order dated 25.6.2016.

7. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the record carefully.

8. It is evident from the record that sample was lifted by the then Food Inspector on 27.3.2008. It was found to be adulterated. Chief Medical Officer was requested by Food Inspector to give written consent to launch prosecution against Sanjeev Kumar and all the Directors/ Managing Directors/partners of M/s Devyani Food Industries Private Limited, Plot No. 1-21 EPIP, Phase-II, Village Thana, Baddi, Nalagarh, District Solan, HP. It is in these circumstances, application under Section 319 CrPC was preferred by the Food Inspector. Trial was going on when application under Section 319 CrPC was filed for impleadment of the company through is Managing Director/partners. These persons were necessary parties for the full adjudication of the matter. Company, as per complaint, has committed an offence and was a necessary party. Chief Medical Officer has granted permission to launch proceedings against the Managing Director/all the directors/ partners but it was due to inadvertence on the part of Food Inspector that he did not array the company as party through its other Directors/ partners. Learned trial Court has rightly relied upon Section 17 of the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act while allowing application. Matter was tried by the Magistrate and thus, power under Section 319 CrPC could be exercised by him adding the company as accused through its Managing Director/all directors/ partners. There is no undue delay in filing application under Section 319 CrPC taking into consideration the chequered history of the case. Rather, this Court in CrMMO No. 4036 of 2013 decided on 20.8.2015 has directed the trial Court to decide the application preferred by the Food Inspector under Section 319 CrPC as expeditiously as possible. Copy of this order is annexure P-3. There is no merit in the contention of Mr. K.D. Sood, learned Senior Advocate that non-impleadment of company at the time of initiation of trial was an inherent infirmity.

9. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab reported in (2014) 3 SCC 92, have held that object of Section 319 CrPC is that the real culprit should not get away unpunished. This is part of concept of 'fair trial' and provision is based on the doctrine of judex damnatur cum nocens absolvitur. Constructive and purposive interpretation should be adopted so as to advance the object and cause of justice. Courts should give full respect to the words used in the provision. Their lordships have further held that power under Section 319 CrPC can be exercised at any time after commencement of inquiry into an offence by court i.e. inquiry commences before court with filing of charge-sheet/ complaint before court and before conclusion of trial, except during stage of Sections 207 to 209 which is not a judicial step in the true sense. Their lordships have held as under:

> "12 Section 319 Cr.P.C. springs out of the doctrine judex damnatur cum nocens absolvitur (Judge is condemned when guilty is acquitted) and this doctrine must be used as a beacon light while explaining the ambit and the spirit underlying the enactment of Section 319 Cr.P.C.
> 13. It is the duty of the Court to do justice by punishing the real culprit. Where the investigating agency for any reason does not array one of the real culprits as an accused, the court is not powerless in calling the said accused to face trial. The question remains under what circumstances and at what stage should the court exercise its power as contemplated in Section 319 Cr.P.C.?
> 18. The legislature cannot be presumed to have imagined all the circumstances and, therefore, it is the duty of the court to give full effect to the words used by the legislature so as to encompass any situation which the court may have to tackle while proceeding to try an offence and not allow a person who deserves to be tried to go scot free by being not arraigned in the trial in spite of possibility of his complicity which can be gathered from the documents presented by the prosecutio

19. The court is the sole repository of justice and a duty is cast upon it to uphold the rule of law and, therefore, it will be inappropriate to deny the existence of such powers with the courts in our criminal justice system where it is not uncommon that the real accused, at times, get away by manipulating the investigating and/or the prosecuting agency. The desire to avoid trial is so strong that an accused makes efforts at times to get himself absolved even at the stage of investigation or inquiry even though he may be connected with the commission of the offence.

27. The stage of inquiry commences, insofar as the court is concerned, with the filing of the charge-sheet and the consideration of the material collected by the prosecution, that is mentioned in the charge-sheet for the purpose of trying the accused. This has to be understood in terms ofSection 2(g) Cr.P.C., which defines an inquiry as follows:

"2(g) "inquiry" means every inquiry, other than a trial, conducted under this Code by a Magistrate or Court."

39. Section 2(g) Cr.P.C. and the case laws referred to above, therefore, clearly envisage inquiry before the actual commencement of the trial, and is an act conducted under Cr.P.C. by the Magistrate or the court. The word 'inquiry' is, therefore, not any inquiry relating to the investigation of the case by the investigating agency but is an inquiry after the case is brought to the notice of the court on the filing of the charge-sheet. The court can thereafter proceed to make inquiries and it is for this reason that an inquiry has been given to mean something other than the actual trial.

40. Even the word "course" occurring in Section 319 Cr.P.C., clearly indicates that the power can be exercised only during the period when the inquiry has been commenced and is going on or the trial which has commenced and is going on. It covers the entire wide range of the process of the pre-trial and the trial stage. The word "course" therefore, allows the court to invoke this power to proceed against any person from the initial stage of inquiry upto the stage of the conclusion of the trial. The court does not become functus officio even if cognizance is taken so far as it is looking into the material qua any other person who is not an accused. The word "course" ordinarily conveys a meaning of a continuous progress from one point to the next in time and conveys the idea of a period of time; duration and not a fixed point of time. (See: Commissioner of Income-tax, New Delhi (Now Rajasthan) v. M/s. East West Import & Export (P) Ltd. (Now known as Asian Distributors Ltd.)

84. The word "evidence" therefore has to be understood in its wider sense both at the stage of trial and, as discussed earlier, even at the stage of inquiry, as used under Section 319 Cr.P.C. The court, therefore, should be understood to have the power to proceed against any person after summoning him on the basis of any such material as brought forth before it. The duty and obligation of the court becomes more onerous to invoke such powers cautiously on such material after evidence has been led during trial."

10. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ganeshmal Jashraj v. Govt. of Gujarat, reported in AIR 1980 SC 264, have held that "We would, therefore, strongly urge upon the Food Inspection Department not to remain content with paying homage to anti-adulteration law by catching small tradesmen but direct the full fury of their investigative machinery against the wholesalers and manufactures who are in a large majority of cases really responsible of adulteration of the food stuff which is being sold by the small retailers. Then only would the true purpose of the prevention of food adulteration law be fulfilled and the great gap between expectation and fulfillment in respect of welfare laws be bridged"

11. There is neither any perversity nor any illegality in Order dated 3.7.2015 rendered by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Kullu.

12. Accordingly, there is no merit in the present petition and the same is dismissed. Pending applications, if any, are disposed of. Since, the trial has already been delayed considerably, learned trial Court is directed to conclude the trial itself within a period of six months from today, if necessary by recording evidence on day to day basis.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.

This appeal has been filed against judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Addl. District Judge, Mandi dated 17.1.2003 in Civil Appeal No. 29 of 1997, whereby the learned Appellate Court has upheld the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Senior Sub Judge, Mandi dated 30.9.1996 in Civil Suit No. 124 of 1990 vide which the learned Trial Court had decreed the suit of the plaintiff partly.

2. This regular second appeal was admitted on 11.8.2004, on the following substantial questions of law:-

> "1. Whether there has been non-compliance of provisions of Order 20, Rule 5, Code of Civil Procedure by the learned Trial Court? If so, to what effect?
> 2. Whether the appellant can raise the question involved above having failed to raise such question before the first Appellate Court?

3. Brief facts necessary for the purposes of adjudication are that appellant/plaintiff (hereinafter to be referred as 'the plaintiff') filed a suit for declaration and for confirmation of joint possession as consequential relief or in the alternative for joint possession of the suit land on the pleadings that late Doom Ram, father of the plaintiff and defendants No. 1 to 5 and predecessor-in-interest of the proforma defendants was owner in possession of the suit land. The said property was joint Hindu family property, ancestral in nature and after the death of Doom Ram said property was inherited by plaintiff and defendants as per order of succession. Defendants No.1 to 4 set up a 'Will' on the basis of which they got mutation of succession attested in their favour from the Revenue Officer to the exclusion of plaintiff and remaining defendants. Plaintiff was the eldest son and was living jointly with his father Doom Ram. He was under impression that the land would automatically devolve upon natural heirs as per provisions of Hindu Succession Act. Plaintiff was step brother of defendants No.1 to 4. Defendant No.1 being educated and shrewd, manipulated a 'Will' alleged to have been executed by Doom Ram on 14.3.1969 to exclude plaintiff and other heirs, though, the plaintiff being eldest son was never aware of any such 'Will' nor Doom Ram ever informed plaintiff of the execution of any 'Will' depriving plaintiff of his share over the suit land. According to the plaintiff, he had good relation with his father Doom Ram and he was serving his father till his death. There was no occasion for Doom Ram to deprive plaintiff from inheritance of his estate. It was further the case of plaintiff that defendant No.1 was Gram Sewak and was in service of Himachal Pradesh Government. He secretly manipulated attestation of mutation in respect of the suit land after the death of his father. Plaintiff was not informed of any such proceedings. Plaintiff never appeared in any such mutation proceedings nor did he give his consent to the attestation of mutation on the basis of impugned 'Will'. Plaintiff came to know of this fraud during the proceedings of a suit filed by defendant No.5 against defendants No.1 to 4 in the year 1980-81. During the course of abovementioned proceedings, application to bring on record remaining heirs of Doom Ram was made which was disallowed by the Court of learned Sub Judge (2), Mandi. Suit was decreed by learned Sub Judge (2), Mandi. As per the plaintiff, the 'Will' was declared null and void and decree for joint possession was passed in favour of all heirs of Doom Ram. Defendants No.1 to 4 went in appeal before learned District Judge, Mandi. In appeal, a compromise was entered into between defendants No.1 to 4 on one side and defendant No.5 on the other side allowing defendant No.5 1/7th share in the suit land. On the basis of said compromise recorded between defendant No.1 to 4 and defendant No.5, defendants No.1 to 4 denied the right of the plaintiff to have any share in the suit land. Further as per the plaintiff since 1.8.1990 defendants No.1 to 4 were obstructing him in exercising his right of ownership and possession over the suit land. It was further mentioned in the plaint that the suit property was joint Hindu family property, ancestral in nature and it came in the hands of Doom Ram grandfather of plaintiff and defendants No.1 to 5 and was not self acquired property of Doom Ram. Thus, according to the plaintiff the same could not have been disposed of by Doom Ram by way of a 'Will'. It was further averred that though it was not admitted that Doom Ram had executed any 'Will' and the 'Will' was a forged one, yet if at all execution of the 'Will' is proved in that event the same is outcome of undue influence exercised by Netar Singh. According to the plaintiff, Doom Ram was an old and ailing person and Netar Singh was occupying dominant and fiduciary position and taking advantage of his position as he was capable of exercising undue influence on Doom Ram, he got the said 'Will' executed. It was further averred that assuming that the 'Will' is valid one, in that situation it does not affect the suit land which is not self acquired property of Doom Ram. It was on these bases that suit was filed by the plaintiff.

4. This suit was contested by defendants No.1 to 4, who denied the case as set up by the plaintiff. According to defendants No.1 to 4, the suit property was bequeathed by Doom Ram during his lifetime by way of a registered 'Will' in their favour and they were exclusive owner in possession of the suit land. It was denied by defendants that the plaintiff was not aware of the 'Will' or that it was plaintiff who was serving Doom Ram till his death. It was also denied that defendant No.1 had manipulated execution of the will, as was alleged by the plaintiff. It was further the case of defendants No. 1 to 4 that the suit property was self acquired property of Doom Ram and was not ancestral or joint Hindu family property. It was further mentioned in the written statement that plaintiff had knowledge of mutation proceedings and had never objected to the attestation of the same on the basis of 'Will'. It was further averred that after the mutation it was plaintiff who got the suit filed against defendants No.1 to 4 by defendant No.5. Accordingly, the claim as was put-forth in the plaint was denied in totality by the defendants.

5. On the basis of pleadings on record, the learned Trial Court framed the following issues:-

> "1. Whether the property in dispute was ancestral in nature qua plaintiff and Doom Ram deceased as alleged ?...OPP.
> 2. Whether the property in dispute was joint Hindu family property and plaintiff is class-I heir of deceased Doom Ram?....OPP.
>
> 3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to confirmation of joint possession of the property in dispute ? …OPP.
>
> 4. Whether deceased Doom Ram executed a valid will in favour of the defendants No.1 to 4?...OPP
>
> 4A. Whether the suit is barred by the principle of res-judicate?...OPD.
>
> 4B, Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act and conduct from filing the present suit?...OPD.
>
> 4C. Whether the defendants No.1 to 4 have become owners of the shares of other co-sharers by way of adverse possession? …OPD.

6. The following findings were returned on the issues so framed by the learned Trial Court.

"Issue No.1	Yes partly.
Issue No.2	Yes partly.
Issue No.3	Yes partly.
Issue No.4	Yes.
Issue No.4A	No.
Issue No.4B	No.
Issue No.4C	No."
Relief	Suit of the plaintiff decreed partly as per operative portion of judgment."

7. Accordingly, the suit was partly decreed by the learned Trial Court. Para 19 of the judgment is reproduced hereinabelow:-

> "19. Thus, for the foregoing reasons recorded for deciding the aforesaid issues, the suit of the plaintiff succeeds partly, therefore, a decree for declaration that the plaintiff are co-owners in possession to the extent of 1/7th share in land measuring 12-17-12 bighas comprising khata khatauni No. 8/13, khasra Nos. 44, 51, 59, 64, 287/90, 136,141, 144,150,154,160,165,175,176,178,191,204,212 and 213 situate in village Pargi, 1/21 share in khasra Nos. 211 and 210 measuring 0-6-19 bighas situate in village Pargi and 1/21 share in land measuring 63-2-0 bighas comprised in khata khatauni No. 9/17, khasra Nos. 373, 380, 392, 404, 407, 408, 409, 413, 418, 370, 374, 376, 378, 400, 401, 402, 403, 405, 406, 410, 372, 375, 381, 382, 383, 391, 393 to 397, 412, 414, 415, 417, 368, 369, 377, 398, 399, 416, 411 and 367 situate in village Nalwari alongwith decree for confirmation of the joint possession of the parties in respect of the aforesaid land is granted in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants. Rest of the claim of the plaintiff is dismissed. No order as to costs. Decree sheet be prepared. File, after completion, be consigned to the record room."

8. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by learned Trial Court, the plaintiff filed an appeal which was dismissed by the court of learned Addl. District Judge, Mandi vide judgment dated 17.1.2003.

9. The learned Appellate Court upheld the judgment and decree passed by the learned Trial Court.

10. The learned Appellate Court held that statement recorded of the scribe of the 'Will' and the witnesses were on record as Ext. DA to Ext. DS and a perusal of the same made it manifestly clear that the 'Will' in issue was validly executed in accordance with law. The learned Appellate Court further held that the question of validity of the execution of the 'Will' was also subject matter of the trial before the learned Sub Judge 1st Class (Court No.2) Mandi in civil suit titled as Damodar Vs. Netar Singh, wherein the learned Trial Court on consideration of the entire evidence on record including the testimony of one of the marginal witness Parma Ram who testified that the 'Will' was scribed by Badri Dass and that he and Roop Singh were attesting witnesses to the execution of the 'Will' and Doom Ram put his signature in presence of Roop Singh held that the same adequately and conclusively established the valid and due execution of the 'Will' in accordance with the provisions of Indian Succession Act. The learned Appellate Court held that the question of sound disposing mind of deceased Doom Ram was also considered in the said proceedings and Parma Ram had stated that Doom Ram was mentally fit and sound at the time of execution of the 'Will'. The learned Appellate Court further held that the contention of the plaintiff that he being the eldest son has been excluded from inheritance from the estate of Doom Ram was also without merit in view of the fact that besides the 'Will' being valid having been executed in accordance with law, it stood established that deceased testator Doom Ram was not having cordial relation with Dhani Devi mother of the plaintiff which was proved vide Ext. DA-1 which was judgment in suit for maintenance which was instituted by mother of the plaintiff against Damodar Dass, wherein the learned Judge while dismissing the suit for maintenance had recorded findings that Dhani Devi, mother of the plaintiff/appellant was living an unchaste life and that was the reason for dismissing the suit for maintenance instituted by the mother of plaintiff/appellant against deceased testator Doom Ram. Therefore, the learned Appellate Court held that there was an explanation as to why the plaintiff was excluded from inherence by Doom Ram and the 'Will' being proved to be valid in accordance with law and having been registered, the disinheritance of the plaintiff was not all that material to doubt validity of the 'Will'. The learned Appellate Court further held that the contention of the plaintiff that the property situate in village Dahnoo was not ancestral property but self acquired property of deceased testator was also not proved by the plaintiff. Similar was the findings returned by the learned Appellate Court with regard to property at village Malthar. Accordingly, the Appellate Court upheld the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court and dismissed the appeal filed by the plaintiff.

11. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as judgments passed by learned Courts below.

12. Order XX Rule 5 of the Code of Civil Procedure (CPC) provides that Court has to state its finding or decision on each issue. As per the said provision, in a suit in which issues have been framed, the Court has to state its findings and judgment with reasons upon each separate issue unless the findings upon any one or more of the issue is sufficient for the decision of the suit.

13. The learned Trial Court in the present case framed, in all, eight issues. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court demonstrates that issues No.1 to 4 and 4-C were discussed together by it, whereas issue No. 4-A and 4-B were discussed separately. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court further demonstrates that it has dwelled on all aspects of the matter in its judgment which were covered in issues No. 1 to 4 and 4-C in para 6 to 16 of the judgment.

14. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Karnataka Vs. Registrar General, High Court of Karnataka, (2000)7 Supreme Court Cases 333 that judicial disposition is definitely different from a paper presented for seminar discussion nor it can be equated with a dissertation. Judicial decorum requires that judgments and orders should confine to the facts and legal points involved in the particular cases which Judges deal with under Order XX Rule 5. It is mandatory that reasons upon each separate issue and all distinct issues have to be answered by the findings supported by reasons.

15. This Court has held in Jabbar Singh Vs. Shanti Swaroop, 2007 HLJ 192 that normally the Court should decide the issues together but if some common question of law and fact is involved, which would involve the repetition of evidence, the Court can decide such issues together. This Court has further held in Hiru Vs. Mansa Ram, 2003 (1) Cur.L.J. 133 that there is no bar in Code of Civil Procedure for clubbing the issues together, if the evidence related to them is common and the case cannot be remanded on the ground that the issue can be clubbed together.

16. When I judge the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court on the said basis, it is clear and evident from the findings returned by the learned Trial Court that though issues No. 1 to 4 and 4-C have been discussed together, however, the learned Trial Court has answered all the said issues by returning findings on the same which are duly supported by reasons. Issue No.1 whether the property in dispute was ancestral in nature qua plaintiff and Doom Ram deceased as alleged has been answered by the learned Trial Court by holding that part of the suit property was ancestral in nature qua the plaintiff and deceased Doom Ram. Similarly the second and third issue whether the property in dispute was joint Hindu family property and plaintiff is Class-I heir of deceased Doom Ram and whether the plaintiff is entitled to confirmation of joint possession of the property in dispute have also been answered with reasons by the learned Trial Court, as is evident from the findings returned in para 8 to 10 of the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court. The learned Trial Court has categorically held in para 12 of the judgment that the plaintiff has established that the land situated in village Pargi and Nalwari is joint Hindu family property and plaintiff has failed to prove that the land situated in village Dahnoo, Tanda, Galma and Malthar was joint Hindu family and co-parcenary property. Similarly, Issue No.4 whether deceased Doom Ram executed a valid will in favour of the defendants No.1 to 4 has also been dealt with in detail in para 13 to 15 of the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court and on the basis of discussions returned in these paras, the learned Trial Court has concluded that the 'Will' executed by Doom Ram was a valid 'Will' in respect of self acquired property of Doom Ram and further that the same was to take effect to the extent of his share in respect of the ancestral and co-parcenary property. Issue No. 4-C, whether the defendants No.1 to 4 have become owners of the shares of other co-sharers by way of adverse possession has also been dealt with in para 16 of the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court in detail. The learned Trial Court has held that it cannot be said that the defendants have acquired title to the suit property discussed therein by virtue of adverse possession.

17. In fact on the basis of the discussions held in these paras, the learned Trial Court held that the plaintiff was son of late Doom Ram and lands situated in Mauza Pargi and Nalwari were joint Hindu family and co-parcenary property and plaintiff had 1/7th share therein and as such the plaintiff is joint owner of possession of the suit property and entitled to decree for confirmation of joint possession over the aforesaid land and rest of the land is self acquired property of Doom Ram and he had executed 'Will' in favour of defendants No.1 to 4 and as such the 'Will' is valid qua his 1/7th share in respect of the land situated in Mauza Pargi and Nalwari and is valid qua lands measuring 12-17-12 bighas and 63-2-0 bighas. Similarly, issue No. 4A and 4B were discussed and decided separately by the learned Trial Court and both these issues have been decided against the defendants and in favour of the plaintiff.

18. From what has been discussed above, it cannot be said that there has been non-compliance of provisions of under Order XX Rule 5 CPC by the learned Trial Court, keeping in view the fact that this Court has already dealt with the first substantial question of law on merit, therefore, the second substantial question of law needs no further adjudication. The substantial questions of law are answered accordingly.

19. During the course of arguments, it has been urged on behalf of the appellants that the judgments passed by both the learned Courts below were liable to be set aside because both the learned Courts below have erred in not appreciating that there was no valid 'Will' executed by deceased Doom Ram in favour of the defendants. It was contended on behalf of the appellants that the 'Will' was not proved in accordance with law by the defendants who were the beneficiaries of the same and keeping in view the fact that in the case of a 'Will' the onus is on the benefactor to prove the same, the learned Courts below erred in holding that the alleged 'Will' executed by late Doom Ram was a valid 'Will' in the absence of the same having been proved as per the provisions of Indian Succession Act.

20. On the other hand it was submitted on behalf of the respondents that the factum of deceased Doom Ram having executed a valid 'Will' in favour of the defendants has been upheld by both the learned Courts below, therefore, there being a concurrent finding of fact returned in this regard, the same did not warrant any interference in the second appeal especially and more so in view of the fact that there was no substantial question of law framed in this regard.

21. Mr. G.D. Verma, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellants has argued that a perusal of the record of the learned Trial Court will demonstrate that the 'Will' in issue was not proved in consonance with the provisions of Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act. According to him, simply by tendering the documents which were exhibited in the previous case, i.e. in Civil Suit No. 137 of 1983 decided on 16.6.1986 the onus of proving the 'Will' cannot be said to have been discharged by the defendants. It was further argued by Mr. Verma that scribe of the 'Will' was not produced in the court by the defendants and because the best evidence was withheld by them, therefore, adverse inference should have been drawn against the defendants by the learned Trial Court. Mr. Verma has relied upon the following judgments:-

1. 2010 (3) Shim. LC 91 and 141;
2. (2010) 5 Supreme Court Cases 274;
3. (2010) 9 Supreme Court Cases 712;
4. (2013) 2 Supreme Court Cases 114; and
5. 2013 (2) Shim. LC 1153.

22. On the other hand, Mr. N.K. Thakur, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the defendants has argued that as per the records the present appellant/plaintiff himself was a party in Civil Suit No. 137/83 and he was impleaded as defendant No.7 in the same which suit in fact was initiated by none else but his real brother Damodar Dass, copy of which is on record as Ext. DA. Mr. Thakur has also argued that the present appellant moved an application under Order 1 Rule 10 CPC, Ext. DB, in the said case praying therein that he may be allowed to array as plaintiff in the above suit but the said application of his was rejected vide order Ext. DC. Mr. Thakur has also drawn the attention of this Court to Ext. DF which is a statement given by the present appellant as PW4 in the suit which was instituted by his brother Damodar Dass. Mr. Thakur has also stated that the judgment so passed by the learned Trial Court in the case instituted by the brother of the present appellant was compromised in appeal. Mr. Thakur has accordingly argued that keeping in view the fact that the validity of the 'Will' already stood adjudicated upon by a competent Court of Law in civil proceedings in which the present appellant was also a party, he cannot be permitted to say that the validity of the said 'Will' has not been proved in accordance with law by the present respondents/defendants before the learned Trial Court in the present case. Mr. Thakur has further argued that a perusal of the averments made in the plaint filed by the present appellant/plaintiff will demonstrate that he has not approached with the court with clean hands. In para 5 of the plaint he has stated that when mutation was carried out on the basis of the 'Will' executed by Doom Ram, he did not appear in the mutation proceedings, whereas it stands established on record that he was not only aware of the mutation proceedings but was also present during the said proceedings. He has further argued that the appellant/plaintiff has stated further in para 5 of the plaint that in the suit instituted by his brother the 'Will' was declared null and void, whereas fact of the matter is that the learned Trial Court in that case had returned finding that Doom Ram had executed a valid 'Will' on 14.3.1969. Accordingly, he has submitted that there was neither any force nor any merit in the contention which had been raised in the present appeal by the appellant with regard to the 'Will' not having been proved in accordance with law by the defendants before the learned Trial Court.

23. This Court in Shri Pawan Kumar and others Vs. Shri Tilak Raj and another 2010 (3) Shim. LC 91 has held that a gift-deed is a document which requires the attestation of two or more witnesses. Section 3 of the Transfer of Property Act defines the essential conditions of a valid attestation which were found absent in that case.

24. Similarly, this Court in Kamlesh Rani Vs. Balwant Singh 2010 (3) Shim. LC 141 has held that document which requires formal proof cannot be tendered in evidence and no presumption of correctness is attached to it simply because other party has not objected to its tendering in evidence.

25. In my considered view the said judgments have no bearing on the facts of the present case because of the reason that here is a case in which the present appellant was himself a party in the suit in which all the documents were tendered and proved in accordance with law. The appellant herein had the opportunity to cross-examine the relevant witnesses in the said civil suit and also to assail the veracity of the documents. Fact of the matter remains that the 'Will' has been held to be a valid 'Will' in those proceedings and in view of this matter the judgments referred to above are of no assistance to the appellant.

26. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in S.R. Srinivasa and others Vs. S. Padmavathamma, (2010) 5 Supreme Court Cases 274 has reiterated the principles laid down by it in H. Venkatachala Iyengar V. B.N. Thimmajamma, AIR 1959 SC 443 in the matter of proof of 'Will'.

27. Similarly, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in M. Chandra Vs. M. Thangamuthu and another, (2010) 9 Supreme Court Cases 712 has held that a party who wishes to rely upon the contents of a document must adduce primary evidence of the contents, and only in exceptional cases will secondary evidence be admissible. It has further held that if secondary evidence is admissible, it may be adduced in any form in which it may be available whether by production of a copy, duplicate copy of a copy by oral evidence of the contents or in another form. It has further held that the secondary evidence must be authenticated by foundational evidence that the alleged copy is in fact a true copy of the original. It should be emphasized that the exceptions to the rule requiring primary evidence are designed to provide relief in a case where a party is genuinely unable to produce the original through no fault of that party.

28. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in U. Sree Vs. U. Srinivas, (2013) 2 Supreme Court Cases 114 has held that mere admission of a document does not amount to its proof and it is the obligation of the Court to decide the question of admissibility of a document in secondary evidence before making endorsement thereon.

29. This Court in Prem Kumar Vs. Tek Singh, 2013 (2) Shim. LC 1153 has held as under:-

"13. It may be seen that subsequently the Apex Court in M.Chandra v. M.Thangamuthu, (2010) 9 SCC 712, has been held as follows:-

"47. … It is true that a party who wishes to reply upon the contents of a document must adduce primary evidence of the contents, and only in the exceptional cases will secondary evidence be admissible. However, if secondary evidence is admissible, it may be adduced in any form in which it may be available, whether by production of a copy, duplicate copy of a copy, by oral evidence of the contents or in another form. The secondary evidence must be authenticated by foundational evidence that the alleged copy is in fact a true copy of the original. It should be emphasized that the exceptions to the rule requiring primary evidence are designed to provide relief in a case where a party is genuinely unable to produce the original through no fault of that party".

14. The aforesaid view has been reiterated in U. Sree vs. U. Srinivas¸ (2013) 2 SCC 114.

15. As already noticed earlier, the plaintiff in support of the application has stepped into the witness box and has categorically deposed that the original Will was destroyed by the concerned Revenue office at the time when the record pertaining the mutation was weeded out in accordance with the procedure established by law.

16. Plaintiff has been able to show sufficient reasons for non-production of the original document. The said document is not in his possession, which fact stands corroborated by the testimony of another witness Shri Mohan Singh (AW-1), who has produced the record from the Revenue Office.

17. For the purpose of leading secondary evidence, the Court has to form an opinion about the loss of the document and not with regard to its existence. In the instant case, the Court below has come to this conclusion and hence rightly allowed the plaintiff to lead secondary evidence."

30. In my considered view, the above judgments relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant do not have any bearing on the merits of the present case. It is not the case of the appellant that he was a stranger as far as the civil suit filed by his brother is concerned. It is not a case where the documents exhibited in that suit which have been relied upon by the present respondent before the learned Trial Court in the present case have taken the present appellant by surprise, as appellant was a party defendant in that civil suit and the proceedings therein took place in his presence. It is a matter of record that he has deposed as a witness in that case. His applications and statement made by him in that case have also been relied upon by the present respondent before the learned Trial Court in the present case. Therefore, keeping in view this aspect of the matter that the present appellant was a party in the previous case instituted by his brother, it cannot be said that the documents etc. tendered therein including the statements made by various witnesses could not have been relied upon by the learned Trial Court in the present case.

31. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court will demonstrate that it has dealt with the validity of 'Will' dated 5.3.1969 in para 13 and 14 of the said judgment. On the basis of the material on record, the learned Trial Court has held that the defendant while deposing as DW2 has stated that the 'Will' executed by Doom Ram dated 5.3.1969 was scribed by Badri Dass and witnesses by Roop Singh and Panna Ram and both of said witnesses were since dead. The learned Trial Court has further taken into consideration Ext. DD to DR which are copies of statements of Badri Dass the scribe of the 'Will' and Param Ram the witness of the execution of the said 'Will' which was recorded in the earlier suit filed by the brother of the present appellant/plaintiff. The learned Trial Court has also dealt with the statement of the present appellant/plaintiff in which the plaintiff himself has admitted the execution of the will by Doom Ram. The learned Trial Court has also taken note of the fact that present appellant while appearing as PW4 in the previous suit filed by his brother has also admitted about the execution of the 'Will' by late Doom Ram. Taking into consideration all these aspects of the matter, the learned Trial Court concluded that there was a valid 'Will' executed by Doom Ram in favour of defendants No.1 to 4.

32. The learned Appellate Court has also minutely dealt with all these aspects of the matter and thereafter it has concluded that there was no infirmity with the findings returned by the learned Trial Court to the effect that there was a valid 'Will' executed by Doom Ram in favour of defendants No.1 to 4.

In my considered view, there is no merit in the contention of the appellant that the said 'Will' executed by Doom Ram has not been duly proved by the defendants in accordance with the provisions of Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act before the learned Trial Court, in view of the fact that in previous legal proceedings instituted by the real brother of present appellant in which the appellant was also a party and which case was also pertaining to the same 'Will' and was filed against the defendants No.1 to 4, there was a finding returned that the said 'Will' executed by Doom Ram was a valid 'Will' and the learned Trial Court (in the present case) relying upon the documents produced by the defendants pertaining to the earlier suit has returned the findings that the 'Will' so executed by late Doom Ram in favour of defendants No.1 to 4 was a valid 'Will'. In my considered view as the present appellant was a party in the said civil proceedings, he cannot be permitted to agitate the findings returned by the learned Trial Court with regard to the validity of the 'Will', on the grounds which have been raised in the present appeal. Furthermore, when both the learned Courts below have concurrently held that the 'Will' executed by late Doom Ram was a valid 'Will', there is no reason as to why this concurrent finding should be interfered with by this Court when the appellant has not placed any material on record from which it can be inferred that the said findings returned by the learned Trial Court and confirmed by the Appellate Court are not borne out from the records of the case. As a result of the findings recorded hereinabove, I do not find any merit in the present appeal and the same is dismissed with cost.

Date of decision : 8th July , 2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- A car was checked and 20 bottles of Corex and 299 bottles of Nitrazepam Nitrosum-10 were recovered from it - it was contended that petitioner was not found in possession of any manufactured drugs- held, that Codeine has been declared a manufactured drug - its small and commercial quantity have also been prescribed - prohibition applies to the entire mixture or any solution or any one or more of narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances- mere fact that drugs are covered under Drugs and Cosmetic Act would not mean that the offender can be penalized only under the Drugs and Cosmetic Act and not under N.D.P.S. Act- petition dismissed. (Para-12 to 40)

For the Respondent : Ms. Meenakshi Sharma, Addl. Advocate General with Mr. J.S. Guleria, Assistant Advocate General.
SI Ashish Samuel, P.S. West, Shimla, present alongwith records.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The petitioner has filed this petition under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short 'Code') for grant of regular bail in case FIR No. 95 of 2016 dated 15.4.2016, registered at Police Station, Boileauganj (Shimla West), under Sections 21, 22 and 29 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (for short 'Act').

2. The brief facts of the case are that the police party of Police Station, Boileauganj was on patrolling duty near Glen Moad (curve) and Annadale etc. and at about 3.30 when they reached at place Glen Moad (curve) and Annadale they found one white coloured car bearing No. CH-03Q-6259 was parked in the road in which two persons were there and seeing the police they tried to run away and one person fell down and was over powered and second person ran away. The person who was over powered disclosed his name Praduman Justa and the person who fled away from the spot was Kinchit Justa. The alleged maruti car was checked and one black and white coloured bag on which "Attire Watch ones step" was written was recovered. After checking the bag, some bottles and few medicines were recovered and after counting it was found to be containing 20 bottles of Chlorpheniramine maleate and codeine phosphate cough syrup mark Corex of 100 ml and 299 tablets of Nitrazepam in 15 strips of Nitrosum-10 and on the back seat of the car, one black coloured mobile of Nokia brand was found which was stated to be mobile phone of Kinchit Justa. The accused could not produce any licence/prescription slip of the Corex and Nitrosun 10 and the bag was thereafter sealed in which 15 stamps of 'Z' was marked and then after completing all the codal formalities as required under the law, the accused persons were found to have committed offence under Sections 21, 22 and 29 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act (for short 'Act') and were arrested by the Investigating Officer and recovered contraband sent to the FSL, Junga. On receipt of the report, it was found that the codeine phosphate was found present in Corex Cough Syrup and Nitrazemam was found present in the tablets of Nitrosum-10.

3. The learned counsel for the petitioner has raised the following contentions:

(i) That there is no mention of any drug under the Act which may be considered as a 'manufactured drug'. It is only by virtue of Section 2 (xi) that powers have been conferred upon the Government to declare any drug as a manufactured drug having some concentration of coca derivatives or Medicinal cannabis or opium derivatives or poppy straw concentrate according to the requirement of the Indian Pharmacopoeia or any other pharmacopoeia notified by the Government. The Central Government while exercising the powers conferred under Section 2 (xi) (b) of NDPS, Act had issued notification dated 14th November, 1985 declaring certain Narcotic Substances and preparation of manufactured drug as manufactured drugs.

(ii). That in the notification dated 14.11.1985, codeine has been declared as 'manufactured drug' with certain restriction and figures at serial No. 35 and would only be considered to be a prohibited substance in case the preparations contains more than 100 milligrams of the drug per dosage unit with a concentration of not more than 2.5% in undivided preparation which has been established in therapeutic practice and is exempted and cannot be considered as manufactured drug under Section 2 (xi) of the Act.

(iii). That from the perusal of the aforesaid entry No.35 of the notification dated 14.11.1985 it is clear that the preparation containing not more than 100 mg of codeine phosphate per dosage unit with the concentration of not more than 2.5% in undivided preparation which has been established in therapeutic practice is exempted from being a manufactured drug under Section 2 (xi) of NDPS, Act.

(iv). That as per the prosecution the corex cough syrup which was allegedly recovered from the petitioner contained 1.930 mg/ml codeine phosphate in 100 ml of bottle. The concentration of codeine in 100 ml bottle or dosage per unit is approximately less than .02% that is to say that the same is within the permissible limit of less than 2.5%. As such, Corex is not a manufactured drug as per Section 2 (xi) of NDPS, Act as the concentration of codeine phosphate is less than 2.5%. Hence, the cough syrup comes under Schedule H-1 of Drugs and Cosmetic Rule, 1945 and Rule 65A and Rule 66 of NDPS Act are not attracted in the facts and circumstances of the present case as such no offence under Section NDPS Act is made out.

(v) That Rule 52-A of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Rules (for short 'Rules') was introduced in the year 2015 in order to bring codeine phosphate within the purview of the Act only if the concentration of codeine in 100 ml of bottle is more than 2.5% and below the said concentration, same would not fall under the said Act. Apart from this, learned counsel for the petitioner has also relied upon table No.2 wherein same language as contained in entry No.35 of 1985 notification is contained.

4. In reply, Mr. J.S. Guleria, learned Assistant Advocate General would argue that the arguments raised by learned counsel for the petitioner to the effect that cough syrup in which codeine phosphate was found should have been mentioned in the notification issued by the Government of India as stated in (b) (xi) of Section 2 of the Act and that codeine phosphate is not a manufactured Narcotic Drug and as per GOI Gazette Notification No. S.O.826 (E) dated 14.11.1985 and S.O. 40(E) dated 29.01.1993 is totally fallacious.

5. It is argued that codeine phosphate being opium derivative is covered under the definition (a) of sub section (xi) of Section 2 of the Act. In so far as the aforesaid notifications dated 14.11.1985 and 29.1.1993 are concerned, it is argued that the Codeine and its preparations is mentioned and holds good only for licensed pharmaceutical manufacturers as is evident from entry No. 35 wherein it is clearly mentioned at the end that such preparations have been established in Therapeutic practice and act as a rider for them not to manufacture the preparations of codeine phosphate beyond the limits defined in the said notification.

6. In rebuttal, learned counsel for the petitioner would argue that the arguments advanced by the prosecution are completely misplaced because as per prosecution, codeine is a derivative of opium and is a manufactured drug within the meaning of Section 2 (xi) and (xvi-c) and notification as envisaged under Section 2 (xi-b) would therefore be necessary for other drugs but not for coca derivates, medicinal cannabis, opium derivates and poppy straw concentrate. If the argument of the State is taken as it is then there was no need of notification of 1985 as all the drugs containing all coca derivates or medicinal cannabis or opium derivates or poppy straw concentrate would automatically fall in the category manufactured drug.

7. The learned counsel for the petitioner would further argue that codeine in isolation is not a manufactured drug. It is only when it undergoes the process of preparation as defined under Section 2 (xx) of the Act that it becomes a manufactured drug. After going through the process, salt is added to it and then concentration of codeine converts into codeine phosphate, which is found in the drug in question.

8. It is further submitted that the Act nowhere defines any drug, it is by virtue of notification dated 14.11.1985, 29.1.1993 and 21.6.2011 the manufactured narcotic drug has been notified.

9. The learned counsel for the petitioner would further argue that the crux of the prosecution argument is that the aforesaid notification is bad as there was no need of such notification in view of Section 2 (xi-a) which is completely misplaced. According to him, a bare perusal of the notification will indicate that majority of the drugs mentioned in the said notification are consisting of coca derivates, medicinal cannabis, opium derivates and poppy straw concentrate. Apart from this, in order to counter the argument of the State, the petitioner would submit that codeine has not been found in the drug in question, it is codeine phosphate, which has not been defined in Section 2 of the Act.

10. With regard to the notification dated 18.11.2009, the learned counsel for the petitioner would argue that the said notification would be applicable for codeine phosphate only if it exceeds the prescribe limit that is 2.5%. The said notification will not be applicable for the concentration of codeine phosphate which is less than 2.5% as the said drug does not fall within the meaning of manufactured drug and is not covered under the Act.

11. Notably, most of the contentions as raised by learned counsel for the petitioner have already been considered by me in detail in Cr.MP(M) No. 502 of 2014 titled Om Pal vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, decided on 6.5.2014, but the learned counsel for the petitioner would still contend that this judgment requires to be re-looked and re-visited and may possibly be required to be referred to a larger Bench as this Court has not considered the effect of the notification dated 14.11.1985 as the same was in fact not brought to its notice.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records of the case carefully and meticulously.

12. One of the question that arises for consideration is as to whether the petitioner can be tried for an offence under the NDPS Act in case he is found in possession of 'manufactured drugs' as defined under Section 2 (xi) of the Act and has been notified as such by notifications dated 14.11.1985 and 29.1.1993 as 'manufactured drugs', but contains an exception as regards the percentage of dosage in the drug. Therefore, in order to understand this issue, one is required to look into the relevant provisions of the Act, which are noted below:

> "2 (xi) "manufactured drug" means –
> (a) all coca derivatives, medicinal cannabis, opium derivatives and poppy straw concentrate;
>
> (b) any other narcotic substance or preparation which the Central Government may, having regard to the available information as to its nature or to a decision, if any, under any International Convention, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare to be a manufactured drug ;
>
> but does not include any narcotic substance or preparation which the Central Government may, having regard to the available information as to its nature or to a decision, if any, under any International Convention, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare not to be a manufactured drug.
>
> 2.(xiv) "narcotic drug" means coca leaf, cannabis (hemp), opium, poppy straw and includes all manufactured drugs.*
> Explanation, - For the purposes of clauses (v), (vi), (xv) and (xvi) the percentages in the case of liquid preparations shall be calculated on the basis that a preparation containing one percent of a substance means a preparation in which one gram of substance, if solid, or one mililitre of substance, if liquid, is contained in every one hundred mililitre of the preparation and so on in proportion for any greater or less percentage:*

Provided that the Central Government may, having regard to the developments in the field of methods of calculating percentages in liquid preparations prescribed, by rules, any other basis which it may deem appropriate for such calculation."

13. In terms of clause (b) of Section 2 (xi) NDPS Act relating to 'manufactured drug', any narcotic substance or preparation which the Central Government may, having regard to the available information as to its nature or to a decision, if any, under any international convention, by notification in the official Gazette, declare to be a manufactured drug, are to be considered as such, that is, as manufactured drug. The Ministry of Finance, Department of Revenue, has published notification S.O. 826 (E) dated 14.11.1985 in the Gazette of India, Extraordinary, Part II, Section 3, sub-Section (ii). The said notification has been issued in exercise of power conferred by sub clause (b) of clause (xi) of Section 2 NDPS Act, in terms of which the Central Government has declared the narcotic substances and preparations mentioned therein to be "manufactured drug".

14. In terms of the notification dated 14.11.1985, as many as 88 drugs have been notified and 10 out of the same, have been provided with some kind of exceptions and relevant entry for our purpose is contained at serial No. 35 and the same reads thus:

"35. Methyl morphine (commonly known as 'Codeine') and Ethyl morphine and their salts (including Dionine), all dilutions and preparations except those which are compounded with one or more other ingredients and containing not more than 100 milligrammes of the drug per dosage unit and with a concentration of not more than 2.5% in undivided preparations and which have been established in Therapeutic practice."

15. Notably, Central Government vide notification dated 29.1.1993 notified 17 more drugs as "manufactured drugs" and, therefore, in all as many as 105 drugs have been notified as "manufactured drugs".

16. Section 21 of the Act, relates to punishment for contravention in relation to manufactured drugs and preparations and provided for different punishments in respect of contravention of any provision of the NDPS Act and the Rules etc.

17. Clause (viia) and Clause (xxiiia) of NDPS Act defines "commercial quantity" and "small quantity" which read as follows:

"(viia) "commercial quantity", in relation to narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, means any quantity greater than the quantity specified by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette."

"(xxiiia) "small quantity", in relation to narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, means any quantity lesser than the quantity specified by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette."

18. The Central Government vide notification dated 19.10.2001 has specified the 'small quantity' and commercial quantity' in a tabular form which contains horizontal columns from (1) to (6) mentioning the serial number, name of narcotic drug and psychotropic substance, other non-proprietary name, chemical name, small quantity (in grams) and commercial quantity (in grams/kilograms) respectively.

19. On 18.11.2009, the Central Government issued another notification so as to add Note 4 after Note 3 to the table specifying 'small quantity' and 'commercial quantity' of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances in terms of notification dated 19.10.2001 and the same is reproduced as under:

"Notifications, New Delhi, the 18th November, 2009 S.O. 2941 (E).- In exercise of the powers conferred by clause (vii a) and (xxiii a) of Section 2 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substance Act, 1985 (61 of 1985) the Central Government, hereby makes the following amendment in the Notification S.O. 1055 (E), dated 19th October, 2001 namely, in the Table at the end after Note 3, the following Note shall be inserted namely:-

> "(4). The quantities shown in column 5 and column 6 of the Table relating to the respective drugs shown in column 2 shall apply to the entire mixture or any solution or any one or more narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances of that particular drug in dosage form or isomers, esters, ethers and salts of these drugs, including salts of esters, ethers and isomers, wherever existence of such substance is possible and not just its pure drug content."

20. Thus, the effect of the notification dated 19.10.2001 was that the quantity shown in column No.5 that relates to 'small quantity, and column No.6 that relates to 'commercial quantity' of the table relating to respective drugs shown in column No.2 that relates to the name of narcotic drug and psychotropic substance, is to apply to the entire mixture or any solution or any one or more of narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances of that particular drug in dosage form etc. wherever existence of such substance is possible and not just its pure drug content. This was so held by me in Om Pal's case (supra) and the relevant observations read as under:

"14. The sum and substance of the arguments raised by learned counsel for the petitioner is that in case of seizure of narcotic substance, the Court is to rely upon the report of the Chemical Examiner in order to find out the pure drug content per dosage and if it is found to be below the exempted limit, i.e. less than commercial quantity, then the petitioner is entitled to statutory bail under Section 167 (2) Cr.P.C. and since the prosecution had failed to file the final report within the statutory period of 90 days.

15. Learned Advocate General on the other hand contended that once the petitioner admits the applicability of Section 21, then in so far as the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substance is concerned, it is not pure drug content which will have to be seen but it would be the entire weight of the drugs recovered which will have to be taken into consideration for calculating its quantity in view of the notification No.S.O. 294 (E) dated 18.11.2009.

16. Notification No. S.O. 1055 (E) dated 19.10.2001 was issued in terms of clause (vii-a) and xxiii-a) of Section 2 of the Act, whereby and wherein the small quantity and commercial quantity of each of the substance had been stipulated as follows:

""Small quantity", in relation to narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, means any quantity lesser than the quantity specified by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette."

""Commercial quantity", in relation to narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, means any quantity greater than the quantity specified by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette."

The said notification did not introduce a new psychotropic substance other than those mentioned in the schedule of the Act. Since intention of the notification appears to be only to prescribe small and commercial quantity of psychotropic substance by maintaining its statutory definition. However, by notification No. S.O. 294 (E) dated 18.11.2009, the amendment was brought in the notification dated 19.10.2001 and in the table at the end after Note 3, the following Note was added:

"(4). The quantities shown in column 5 and 6 of the Table relating to the respective drugs shown in column 2 shall apply to the entire mixture or any solution or any one or more narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances of that particular drug in dosage form or isomers, esters, ethers and salts of these drugs, including salts of esters, ethers and isomers, wherever existence of such substance is possible and not just its pure drug content."

17. Thus, what is established from the perusal of notification of 2009 is that the pure content test to ascertain the exact quantity of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substance or manufactured drugs is not required nor can it be used for any advantage especially by the accused. Because now the whole contraband seized is required to be considered and not the quantity of drug or contraband reflected in the report of the Chemical Analyst.

18. In so far as the reliance placed by learned counsel for the petitioner on the judgment of the Full Bench in State of H.P. vs. Mehboon Khan, decided on 24.9.2013 is concerned, the same cannot be read and interpreted in a manner as is sought by the petitioner. In fact the reference to the Larger Bench was only to consider the correctness of the Division Bench Judgment which had held that it was the percentage of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) which alone would determine the quantity of resin and not the entire stuff. In this background, the question has been answered and reference to the judgment in E. Micheal Raj vs. Intelligence Officer, Narcotic Control Bureau (2008) 5 SCC 161 has been made. The question of applicability of the amendment carried out in the notification No. S.O. 294 (E) dated 18.11.2009 was neither raised nor its applicability considered. Thus, no reliance whatsoever can be made upon reading stray paragraph of the judgment.

20. It cannot be disputed that prior to the issuance of the notification there was a controversy regarding what would constitute small, intermediate or commercial quantity which was set at rest by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in E. Micheal Raj case (supra). The Hon'ble Supreme Court after analyzing the provisions of the Act and also the relevant entries made in the notification dated 19.10.2001 had held "when any narcotic drugs or psychotropic substance is found mixed with one or more neutral substance for the purpose of imposition of punishment, it is the content of the narcotic drug or psychotropic substance which shall be taken into consideration."

21. Probably it was this view of the Hon'ble Supreme Court which resulted in the issuance of notification dated 18.11.2009. Though, this Court is not going into the constitutional validity of this notification since it has not been raised, however, suffice is to say that it cannot be denied that the Central Government had the legislative mandate to issue such a notification as it has been given the power to specify by a notification in the Official Gazette the quantity representing the small quantity or commercial quantity in relation to each narcotic drugs and psychotropic substance.

22. The constitutional validity of the notification as observed earlier is not in question before this Court. However, to straighten the record, it may be observed that the same has already been upheld by the Delhi High Court in Abdul Mateen vs. Union of India, WP(Crl.) 1552 of 2010 decided on 6.11.2012.

23. As observed above, while determining whether the quantity small or commercial, the weight of the entire bulk contraband has to be taken into consideration and the pure content test cannot be applied.

28. Since the petitioner admittedly has been found to be in possession of 229 vials of Rexcof (cough syrup) of 100 ml quantity and the entire quantity is now required to be taken into consideration to determine the quantity i.e. small, intermediate or commercial, therefore, the case of the petitioner admittedly does not fall within the purview of Section 167 (2) of the Code and is covered by Section 36A (4) of the Act. Therefore, the present petition being pre-mature is accordingly dismissed. "

21. Thus, it is clear that 'manufactured drugs' of which there has been a contravention in the instant case is possessed without proper licence or authorization and in case the drugs which are carried in bulk form, the notification dated 18.11.2009 would apply and the question that these drugs contain an exception would not be applicable as the exceptions would only apply when the drugs are for medicinal or therapeutic use. Besides this, the quantity of manufactured drugs is not to be determined on the pure drug content, but the entire quantity is required to be taken into consideration to determine the quantity i.e. small, intermediate or commercial.

22. Therefore, the question of exceptions being provided in respect of drugs at serial No. 35 of the notification dated 14.11.1985 is inconsequential when these drugs are being carried in a bulk form because then the entire quantity of the bulk is to be taken into consideration and not the pure drug content as canvassed by the petitioner particularly when these are sold, purchased, distributed, stored, transported, carried etc. without a valid licence or kept without a valid authorization.

23. At this stage, learned counsel for the petitioner would rely upon the judgment rendered by the learned Single Judge of Madhya Pradesh High Court in Rohit Chadha vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2016 Cr.L.J. 2025, to contend that the theory of entire quantity would only apply in case the recovered substance is a 'manufactured drug' and would particularly rely upon the following observations from judgment, which are as under:

> "3. The learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that the police had sent some bottles of the seized syrup as samples for chemical analysis to the ITL Labs Pvt. Ltd., Indore, which is recognized by the Government of Madhya Pradesh. According to the report of aforesaid laboratory, each bottle contains 100 ml. syrup and each 5 ml. syrup contains 9.825 mg. codeine phosphate, whereas a label pasted on each of the bottles claims 10 mgs. Having referred to the circular letters Nos. X-11029/27-D, dated 26.10.2005 and X-11029/09-D, dated 01.03.2009 issued by the Drugs Controller General India to all the State Drugs Controllers and notifications No. G.S.R. 588 (E), dated 30.08.2013, the learned counsel for the applicant submitted that the syrup is not a manufactured drug as per Section 2(11) of the Act as the concentration of codeine phosphate in it is mere 0.20% as compare to permissible limit 2.5%. Hence, the syrup comes under the Schedule H-1 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1940. Consequently, the acts of purchase, stocking, transportation and sale of the syrup do not attract the provisions of the Act and the Rules 1985 made thereunder. He further submitted that the syrup is used in therapeutic practice for the treatment of cough. Therefore, no offence is made out against the applicant under Section 8(C) read with 21(B) of the Act. Consequently, the learned trial judge has committed gross errors of law and facts by framing the aforesaid charges against the applicant. Therefore, the impugned order of framing of charge insofar as it relates to the applicant deserves to be quashed. In support of the submissions, he placed reliance upon the decisions rendered in the matters of Amrik Singh Vs. State of Punjab [1996 Cr.L.J. 3329 (P&H High Court)] Ashok Kumar Vs. Union of India, 2015 2 All L.J. 193 (date of order 15.10.2014 passed in Criminal Appeal No.2976/2014 by Hon'ble Shri Justice Ajay Lamba of the Allahabad High Court) and Deep Kumar Vs. State of Punjab [1997 Cr.L.J. 3104 (P&H High Court)].
> 4 . Per contra, learned Panel Lawyer for the respondent/State has supported the impugned order of framing of the charge. He argued that the syrup is widely consumed by the drug addicts for getting intoxication and the applicant is found in possession of huge quantity of syrup for which he has not offered any proper explanation let alone valid licence or permit, meaning thereby the seized quantity of syrup was meant for sale to the drug addicts on premium and not for therapeutic benefits. Hence, the learned judge has rightly framed the charges against the applicant.
> 5 . A seminal question that arises for consideration is whether the syrup comes under the category of the manufactured drugs, as defined and made punishable under the Act?

6. Needless to say that no charge can be framed under the Act if the syrup does not fall within the sweep of the manufactured drug as defined in Section 2(11) of the Act or is exempted from the penal provisions of the Act by framing rules or issuing notifications or orders by the concerned Authority.

7. Section 21 of the Act provides for punishment for contravention in relation to the manufactured drugs and preparations. The term manufactured drug has been defined in Section 2(11) of the Act. It means inter alia any narcotic substances or preparation which the Central Government may declare by notification in the official gazette to be a manufactured drug.

8. In exercise of powers conferred by clause (xi) of sub clause (b) of Section 2 of the Act, the Central Government has issued Notification No.S.O.826 (E), dated 14th November, 1985, which declares certain narcotics substances to be manufactured drugs. The relevant Entry No.35 of the notification reads as follows:-

> "Methyl morphine (commonly known as 'Codeine') and Ethyl morphine and their salts (including Dionine), all dilutions and preparations except those which are compounded with one or more other ingredients and containing not more than 100 milligrams of the drug per dosage unit and with a concentration of not more than 2.5 percent in undivided preparations and which have been established in therapeutic practice."

9. From the perusal of the aforesaid entry, it is clear that a preparation containing not more than 100 mgs. of codeine phosphate per dosage unit with the concentration of not more than 2.5% in undivided preparations and which have been established in therapeutic practice is exempted from the application of Section 21 of the Act.

10. According to the aforestated report of the laboratory, each 5 ml. syrup contains 9.825 mg. codeine phosphate, which is permissible in view of aforesaid entry of the notification. Thus, it is held that the syrup is not a manufactured drug.

11. The learned panel lawyer has justified the prosecution of the applicant on the ground that he had been found in possession of huge quantity of the syrup for which he has not offered any convincing explanation, meaning thereby he wanted to sell the syrup on premium to the drug addicts as they use it for intoxication, whereas the syrup is meant for allopathic treatment of cough. This argument is not tenable for want of any express penal provision in the Act which prescribes the possession of the syrup beyond certain quantity is an offence. This view of mine is fortified by the observations made in the matters of Amrik Singh Vs. State of Punjab (Supra) and Rajiv Kumar Vs. State of Punjab and another [1998 Cr.L.J. 1460 P&H High Court]

12. It is pertinent to mention here that in Criminal Revision No.200/2015 Shiv Kumar Gupta Vs. State of M.P., decided by the order dated 16.02.2015, the applicant has been charged under Section 8(B) read with 21 of the Act on the ground that he and his associates were found in possession of 32 bottles of Cosome LCD Syrup and 38 bottles of Codex Syrup, which are cough syrups. In this case, Hon'ble Justice C.V. Sirpurkar has discharged the applicant of the aforesaid charge on the ground that 5 ml. dosage of the syrup contains 10 mg. codeine phosphate which is less than permissible limit of 2.5%. Hence, the aforesaid seized syrups are not manufactured drugs as defined under the Act. The view taken by his Lordship further strengthens the view which I have taken in the present case."

With due respect, deference and humility, I express my inability to agree with the proposition laid down in the aforesaid case for detailed reasons as already set out above and for other reasons which are contained in the latter part of the judgment.

24. The arguments raised by learned counsel for the petitioner is that cough syrup in which codeine phosphate was found should have been mentioned in the notification issued by the Government of India as stated in (b) (xi) of Section 2 of the Act and that codeine phosphate is not a manufactured Narcotic Drug and as per GOI Gazette Notification No. S.O.826 (E) dated 14.11.1985 and S.O. 40(E) dated 29.1.1993. The aforesaid argument is fallacious because in the notifications dated 14.11.1985 and 29.1.1993, respectively, 'Codeine' has been mentioned at serial No. 35 and this is only relevant for licensed pharmaceutical manufacturers in which it is clearly mentioned at the end that such preparations have been established in therapeutic practice and act as a rider for them not to manufacture the preparations of codeine phosphate beyond the limits defined in the said notification.

25. In Baldev Singh vs. State of H.P. Cr.MP(M) No. 517 of 2013, decided on 19.7.2013, this Court was dealing with a bail petition wherein the investigating agency had recovered the following quantity of drugs from the accused as under:

Sr.No.	2.	3.	4
	Name/quantity of drug recovered.	Narcotics/psychotropic substance found on analysis.	Item No. in notification/ Schedule of the NDPS Act.
1.	SPASMOIS-1 PROXYVON 8640 CAPSULES Batch No. JN10154 MFD FEB 13.	Dextropropoxyphene Napsylate	Manufactured narcotic drug at sr. No. 33 of Notification specifying small quantity and commercial quantity.
2.	Two boxes of microlit 100 packet total 10,000 tablets.	Diphenoxylate Hydrochloride 2.5 mg per tab.	At Sr. No. 44 of Notification specifying small quantity and commercial quantity.
3.	49 bottles Lomotil containing 100 tablets each total 4900 tablets.	Diphenoxylate Hydrochloride 2.5 mg per tab and atropine sulphate 0.025 mg.	-do-
4.	15 packets 10 in each of Equilibrium total 150 tablets.	Chlordiazepoxide 10 mg per tab.	Psychotropic at Sr. No. 187 in Notification at Sr. No. 36 in Schedule attached to this Act.

26. The petitioner therein had sought bail on the plea that recovered substance fell within the category of small quantity and this Court repelled this contention and held as under:

" 9. The perusal of record shows that the 15 packets (150 tablets) of quilibrium contained chlordiazepoxide 10 mg per tablet. It is a psychotropic substance mentioned in Sr. No. 187 of Notification at Sr. No. 36 in the schedule. The total recovered quantity comes to 1500 mg. which is punishable under Section 22 of the NDPS Act. The other drugs recovered are the "Manufactured drugs" which are also narcotic drugs, possession of which is prohibited under Section 8 of the Act; except for medical or scientific purposes and in the manner and to the extent provided by the provisions of the NDPS Act or the Rules or orders made thereunder and in case where any such provision, imposes any requirement by way of license, permit or authorization also in accordance with the terms and conditions of such license, permit or authorization. The petitioners herein were illegally transporting these drugs in the area of Himachal Pradesh.

10. The import, export and transhipment of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances are prohibited into and out of India which are specified in schedule-I of the NDPS Act as per Chapter VI of the 1985 Rules. Even as per Rules 66 and 67 Chapter VII of the Rules aforesaid, the possession and inter-State transportation of psychotropic substances is prohibited unless accompanied by consignment note in (Form 6) appended to Rules in the manner provided therein.

11. Chapter VII-A of 1985 Rules introduced by notification dated 25.6.1997 w.e.f. 27.6.1997 provides for special provision regarding manufacture, possession, transport, import, export, purchase and consumption of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances for medical and scientific purposes; which prevents use of Narcotics drugs and psychotropic substances for the purposes mentioned therein and the case of the petitioners is not covered under any of the rules contained therein.

12. The recovered capsules of spasmois-1 proxyvon mentioned in para 3 ante at Sr. NO. 1 contained 'Dextropropoxyphene', whereas microlit and lomotil contained 'Diphenoxylate' and its salt. These recovered drugs at Sr. Nos. 1 to 3 above are prescription drugs as per schedule 'H' of the rules framed under the Drugs and Cosmetic Act, 1940. The petitioners did not have any permit/license to deal with or transport the said drugs in Baddi area of Himachal Pradesh; nor any prescription which, prima facie besides commission of offence under the Drugs and Cosmetic Act, 1940, attracts the provisions of NDPS Act, as Section 80 of the NDPS Act also provides that the provisions of this Act or the Rules made thereunder shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 or the Rules made thereunder. Therefore, the accused can be prosecuted under the relevant provisions of both the Acts.

13. Now, the manufacture for sale, and distribution and formation of Dextropropoxyphene for human use has also been suspended by the Central Government, vide notification dated 25.5.2013 published in the Gazette of India (Extra Ordinary) as being used by addicts.

14. Since these manufactured drugs aforesaid contain the preparation of offensive substance which falls within the definition of 'Narcotic drug' the plea that it fell within the permissive dose as per the notification thus excepted is also belabouring under the interpretational misconception as 'dosage' or 'dose' does not mean per capsule but it relates to the dosage/dose prescribed by the doctor according to weight of the patient, disease and the time taken for recovery."

27. In Mohd. Sahabuddin and another vs. State of Assam (2012) 13 SCC 491, the Hon'ble Supreme Court was dealing with a case where the bail had been refused by the Gauhati High Court and thereafter the petitioner had sought regular bail from the Hon'ble Supreme Court after being apprehended with 347 cartons each carton containing 100 bottles of 100 ml phensedyl cough syrup and 102 cartons, each carton containing 100 bottles of 100 ml Recodex cough syrup which had been concealed alongwith the other articles. The recovered substance contained codeine phosphate which was beyond the prescribed quantity. It was argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that the bail petitioner was only transporting cough syrup in which the content of condeine phosphate was less than 10 mg (per dose) namely 5 ml and therefore by virtue of notification bearing No. 826(E) dated 14.11.1985 and S.O. 40 (E) dated 29.1.1993, no offence was made out under the provisions of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act and, therefore, in such circumstances rejection of the bail application by the Sessions Judge and Gauhati High Court was not justified.

28. Four fold arguments were raised on behalf of the bail petitioner before the Hon'ble Supreme Court which dealt with in the following manner:

> "8. The contentions of the appellants were fourfold. In the first place, it was contended that the cough syrup Phensedyl and Recodex are pharmaceutical products covered under the provisions of the Drugs & Cosmetics Act, that the Rules prescribe the measure of dosage as 5 ml. and that under Rules 65 and 97 of the Drugs & Cosmetics Rules, it is lawfully permissible to sell such cough syrups in the open market, which can also be transported, kept in stock and sold in the pharmaceutical shops as a prescribed drug under Schedule 'H' at Serial No.132. According to the appellants, such prescribed drugs under the Rules can contain codeine to the extent permissible. While referring to Rule 97, it was contended that Schedule H Drugs containing permissible extent of narcotic substance could be sold in retail on the prescription of Registered Medical Practitioner. The learned counsel, therefore, contended that each of the 100 ml. bottle, seized from the appellants, satisfy the requirement prescribed under the above referred to two Rules 65 and 97 and in the circumstances there was no question of proceeding against the appellants under the N.D.P.S. Act.
>
> 9. By referring to Rules 61(1) and 61(2) of the Drugs & Cosmetics Rules, it was contended that the prescribed licence which is required for sale, stock, exhibit, offer for sale or distribution as a mandatory requirement under Section 27 of the Drugs & Cosmetics Act providing for imposition of penalty would be applicable only to manufacturers or those who sell, stock, exhibit or offer for sale or distribution of drugs and that a transporter, in particular, the driver and a khalasi was under no obligation to hold a licence under the Drugs & Cosmetics Act.
>
> 10. At the very outset, the abovesaid submission of the learned counsel is liable to be rejected, inasmuch as, the conduct of the appellants in having transported huge quantity of 347 cartons containing 100 bottles in each carton of 100 ml. Phensedyl cough syrup and 102 cartons, each carton containing 100 bottles of 100 ml. Recodex cough syrup without valid documents for such transportation cannot be heard to state that he was not expected to fulfill any of the statutory requirements either under the provisions of Drugs & Cosmetics Act or under the provisions of the N.D.P.S. Act.
> 11. It is not in dispute that each 100 ml. bottle of Phensedyl cough syrup contained 183.15 to 189.85 mg. of codeine phosphate and the each 100 ml. bottle of Recodex cough syrup contained 182.73 mg. of codeine phosphate. When the appellants were not in a position to explain as to whom the supply was meant either for distribution or for any licensed dealer dealing with pharmaceutical products and in the absence of any other valid explanation for effecting the transportation of such a huge quantity of the cough syrup which contained the narcotic substance of codeine phosphate beyond the prescribed limit, the application for grant of bail cannot be considered based on the above submissions made on behalf of the appellants.
> 12. The submission of the learned counsel for the appellants was that the content of the codeine phosphate in each 100 ml. bottle if related to the permissible dosage, namely, 5 ml. would only result in less than 10 mg. of codeine phosphate thereby would fall within the permissible limit as stipulated in the Notifications dated 14.11.1985 and 29.1.1993. As rightly held by the High Court, the said contention should have satisfied the twin conditions, namely, that the contents of the narcotic substance should not be more than 100 mg. of codeine, per dose unit and with a concentration of not more than 2.5% in undivided preparation apart from the other condition, namely, that it should be only for therapeutic practice. Therapeutic practice as per dictionary meaning means 'contributing to cure of disease'. In other words, the assessment of codeine content on dosage basis can only be made only when the cough syrup is definitely kept or transported which is exclusively meant for its usage for curing a disease and as an action of remedial agent."

29. It would be noticed that the contention of the petitioner before the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the content of codeine phosphate in each 100 ml bottle if related to the permissible dosage, namely, 5 ml would only result in less than 10 mg of codeine phosphate thereby would fall within the permissible limit as stipulated in the notifications dated 14.11.1985 and 29.1.1993 was negated by observing that the said contention should have satisfied the twin conditions, namely that the contents of the narcotic substance should not be more than 100 mg of codeine, per dose unit and with a concentration of not more than 2.5% in undivided preparation apart from the other condition, namely, that it should be only for therapeutic practice which means for contributing to cure of disease. It was made absolutely clear that the assessment of codeine content on dosage basis can be made only when the cough syrup is definitely kept or transported which is exclusively meant for curing a disease and as an action of remedial agent.

30. That apart, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India and another vs. Sanjeev V. Deshpande (2014) 13 SCC 1 considered the controversy as to whether the content of psychotropic salt in the tablet could be separately counted for calculating the weight/volume of psychotropic substance in a medicinal preparation as had been canvassed before it by the petitioner. This contention was repelled and it was held that the gross weight of the drug is to be counted and not merely the net percentage/content of the salt in the medicinal preparation for finding out the actual weight of the drugs in reference to the Schedule under the NDPS Act.

31. Now, insofar as the contention of the petitioner that the violation, if any, falls within the ambit of Drugs and Cosmetic Act and the Rules framed thereunder and, therefore, the petitioner cannot be punished or even tried under the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, the same is equally without any force in view of the detailed judgment rendered by a learned Division Bench of the Punjab & Haryana High Court in Inderjeet Singh @ Laddi and others vs. State of Punjab, 2015 (1) Crimes 308, wherein it was categorically held that the mere fact that the drugs which are covered under 'manufactured drugs' under the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules as mentioned in the Schedule of the NDPS Act and Schedule I of the NDPS Rules and are also covered by the Drugs and Cosmetic Act and the Rules framed thereunder would not mean that the offender can be penalized only under the Drugs and Cosmetic Act and the Rules and not proceeded against the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules, the stringent provisions of the latter can be resorted to. The relevant observations read thus:

> "[11] A perusal of the order dated 6.9.2012 passed in the case of Inderjeet Singh @ Laddi shows that it was contended by the learned counsel for the petitioner in the said case that "manufactured drugs" do not come within the purview of the NDPS Act and the petitioner can at the most be prosecuted only under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act and not under the NDPS Act. In any case he can be prosecuted only under Section 21 and not under Section 22 of the NDPS Act.
> [12] Learned Counsel appearing for the petitioners have inter alia primarily contended that in respect of recoveries from an accused in respect of 'manufactured drugs', an accused is not liable to be prosecuted under the NDPS Act. This is more so for the reason that certain 'manufactured drugs' were declared as 'narcotic drugs' by notification of the Central Government vide notification dated 14.11.1985 in which 88 drugs were declared as 'narcotic drugs', besides, vide notification dated 29.1.1993, 17 more drugs were notified as 'manufactured drugs'. However, these notifications contain various exceptions and in case the 'manufactured drug' in respect of which contravention is alleged but which falls within the exceptions then the case would not come within the purview of the NDPS Act.
> [13] Therefore, it is submitted that the drugs in respect of which exceptions have been made in the notifications afore-stated, a prosecution cannot be launched under the NDPS Act. It is submitted that in terms of Rule 97 of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules 1945 ("1945 Rules" - for short), labelling of medicines is to be done according to the contents of the medicine and the Schedule under which it falls as is mentioned therein. If any drug for example mentioned in Schedule 'H' of the 1945 Rules is found without labelling, then the same is at the most liable to be tried only under the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules. Besides, if a person is found in possession of any of the drugs mentioned in Schedule 'H' of 1945 Rules, as well as in the notifications dated 4.11.1985 and 29.1.1993, which fall within any of the exceptions mentioned therein then these are also liable to be tried under the D&C Act only. This, it is submitted, is the combined effect of reading Sections 16, 17, 17-A, 17-B and 18 of the D&C Act and Rules 97, 104, 104-A and 105 of the 1945 Rules, which provide for standards to be maintained under the D&C Act and violation thereof is an offence under Section 18 of the D&C Act. There is no provision under the NDPS Act which prescribes for such an offence to be tried under the said Act. It is submitted that if any drug/psychotropic substance recovered from any unauthorized person and is covered by Schedule I of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Rules 1985 (as amended) ("NDPS Rules" - for short), then it is to be tried under the NDPS Act and if such drug and psychotropic substance is not covered by Schedule I of the NDPS Rules as provided under Rule 64 of the NDPS Rules then it is liable to be tried under the D&C Act.

[14] In response, learned State counsel have submitted that the menace of drugs is so rampant in this part of the country that it is to be curbed with a heavy hand. It is submitted that the provision of the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules, besides, the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules have only provided the procedure for trying the offences. It is submitted that there may be overlapping of certain drugs under the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules as also the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules, however, the same is inconsequential as it is for the State to prosecute the offender in accordance with law and if a harsher provision under the NDPS Act and NDPS Rules is resorted to in respect of drugs which fall under the NDPS Act, the same is not to be nullified or the trial declared illegal merely because a harsher provision has been followed. In any case it is submitted that the quantity of the manufactured drugs of which there has been a contravention is to be taken in bulk and not on the basis of the dosage of the drugs per capsule. Even if the contents of the offending drug fall within the exception then the same is to be taken in respect of the entire contraband of which there has been a contravention or has been recovered being carried unauthorizedly.

[15] We have given our thoughtful considerations to the matter.

[16] The question that arises for consideration is whether an accused can be tried for an offence under the NDPS Act in case he is found in possession of 'manufactured drugs' which fall in the definition of 'manufactured drug' in terms of Section 2 (xi) of the NDPS Act and has been notified as such by notifications dated 14.11.1985 and 29.1.1993 as 'manufactured drugs', but contain an exception as regards the percentage of dosage in the drug.

[17] In order to consider the said issue, the definitions of 'narcotic drug, 'manufactured drug' and 'psychotropic substances' as defined in Section 2 (xiv), (xi) and (xxiii) of the NDPS Act may be noticed which read as under:-

> (xiv) "narcotic drug" means coca leaf, cannabis (hemp), opium, poppy straw and includes all manufactured goods;

A perusal of the above shows that coca leaf, cannabis (hemp), opium, poppy straw and including manufactured goods are included in the definition of 'narcotic drug'.

> (xi) "manufactured drug" means -

(a) all coca derivatives, medicinal cannabis, opium derivatives and poppy straw concentrate;

(b) any other narcotic substance or preparation which the Central Government may, having regard to the available information as to its nature or to a decision, if any, under any International Convention, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare to be a manufactured drug;" .

[18] Therefore, the Central Government may by notification in the official Gazette, declare any other narcotic substance or preparation to be a 'manufactured drug'.

(xxiii)"psychotropic substance" means any substance, natural or synthetic, or any natural material or any salt or preparation of such substance or material included in the list of psychotropic substances specified in the Schedule;"

[19] Psychotropic substance has been defined to mean any substance, natural or synthetic, or any natural material or any salt or preparation of such substance or material included in the list of psychotropic substances specified in the Schedule to the NDPS Act.

[20] In terms of clause (b) of Section 2 (xi) NDPS Act relating to 'manufactured drug', any narcotic substance or preparation which the Central Government may, having regard to the available information as to its nature or to a decision, if any, under any international convention, by notification in the official Gazette, declare to be a manufactured drug, are to be considered as such, that is, as manufactured drug. The Ministry of Finance, Department of Revenue, has published notification S.O. 826 (E) dated 14.11.1985 in the Gazette of India, Extraordinary, Part II, Section 3, Sub-Section (ii).

[21] The said notification has been issued in exercise of power conferred by sub clause (b) of clause (xi) of Section 2 NDPS Act, in terms of which the Central Government has declared the narcotic substances and preparations mentioned therein to be "manufactured drug". Insofar as the drugs mentioned in the present cases are concerned, it may be noticed that in the case of Inderjeet Singh @ Laddi (CRM No. M-13140 of 2012), 30 Rexcof bottles containing 5.88 gms of codeine; 1500 Momolit of tablets containing 3.45 gms of Diphenoxylate; 500 Phenotil tablets containing 1.1 gms Diphenoxylate and 150 Parvon Spas capsules containing 9.70 gms of Dextropropoxyphene were recovered.

[22] The various drugs that are provided for under the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules are also provided in the NDPS Act and therefore, there is a somewhat overlapping of the same. The D&C Act was enacted in 1940. The Second Schedule of the D&C Act prescribes the standards to be complied with by imported drugs and by drugs manufactured for sale, sold, stocked or exhibited for sale or distributed. Chapter III of the D&C Act relates to 'Import of Drugs and Cosmetics'. Section 8 thereof relates to 'Standards of Quality.' It is provided in terms of Section 8 (1) (a) of the D&C Act that for the purposes of Chapter III, the expression 'standard quality' means in relation to a drug, that the drug complies with the standard set out in the Second Schedule.

[23] Besides, Chapter IV of the D&C Act relates to 'Manufacture, Sale and Distribution of Drugs and Cosmetics.' In terms of Section 16 (1) (a) of the D&C Act that for the purposes of Chapter IV, the expression 'standard quality' means in relation to a drug, that the drug complies with the standard set out in the Second Schedule. The object of the said D&C Act is to regulate the import, manufacture, distribution and sale of drugs and cosmetics. The basic object is of a regulatory nature for the regulation of import, manufacture, distribution and sale of drugs and cosmetics. The D&C Act provides for penal consequences in respect of certain violations of the said Act and the 1945 Rules. Section 27 of the D&C Act provides for penalty for manufacture, sale etc. of drugs in contravention of Chapter IV. Section 27A provides for penalty for manufacture, sale etc. of cosmetics in contravention of Chapter IV. Section 28 provides for penalty for non-disclosure of the name of the manufacturer etc. Section 28A provides for penalty for not keeping documents etc. and for non-disclosure of information. Section 28B provides penalty for manufacture etc. of drugs or cosmetics in contravention of Section 26A which relates to the power of Central Government to prohibit manufacture etc. of drugs in public interest. Section 29 provides for penalty for use of Government Analyst's Report for advertising. Section 30 relates to penalty for subsequent offences. Section 32 deals with cognizance of offences. Section 32B relates to compounding of certain offences. The violation of the 1945 Rules, therefore, entails penalty in terms of aforesaid provisions. As against this, the NDPS Act is an act to consolidate and amend the law relating to narcotic drugs to make it comprehensive, besides, provide for stringent provisions for the control and regulation of operations relating to narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, to provide for the forfeiture of property derived from, or used in, illicit traffic in narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, to implement the provisions of the International Convention on Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances and for matters connected therewith. The NDPS Act provides for stringent provisions for the control and regulation of operations relating to narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances. The Schedule with reference to clause (xxiii) of Section 2 NDPS Act mentions various psychotropic substance which include alprazolam at serial No.30, chlordiazepoxide at serial No.36, delorazepam at serial No.42 and various others, besides, salts and preparations of the drugs mentioned therein. In the NDPS Rules, Chapter VII relates to psychotropic substances.

[24] Rules 64, 65 and 65A of the NDPS Rules read as under:-

> "64. General prohibition - No person shall manufacture, possess, transport, import inter-State, export inter-State, sell, purchase, consume or use any of the psychotropic substances specified in Schedule I.
>
> 65. Manufacture of psychotropic substances (1) Subject to the provisions of sub-rule (2), the manufacture of any of the psychotropic substances other than those specified in Schedule I shall be in accordance with the conditions of a licence granted under the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 (hereinafter referred to as the 1945 Rules) framed under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 (23 of 1940), by an authority in charge of Drugs Control in a State appointed by the State Government in this behalf: Provided that the authority in charge of drug control in a State referred to above may issue a licence to manufacture a psychotropic substance specified in Schedule III for the purpose of export only;
>
> (2) The authority in charge of drugs control in a State (hereinafter referred to as the Licensing Authority) shall consult the Drugs Controller (India) in regard to the assessed annual requirements of each of the psychotropic substances in bulk form referred to in sub-rule (1) in the country and taking into account the requirement of such psychotropic substances in the State, the quantity of such substance required for supply to other manufacturers outside the State and the quantity of such substance required for reasonable inventory to be held by a manufacturer, shall specify, by order, the limit of the quantity of such substance which may be manufactured by the manufacturer in the State.
> (3) The quantity of the said psychotropic substance which may be manufactured by a licensee in an year shall be intimated by the Licencing Authority to the licensee at the time of issuing the licence:

Provided that nothing contained in this rule shall apply in case the psychotropic substances specified in Schedule I are manufactured, possessed, transported, imported inter-State, exported inter-State, sold, purchased, consumed or used subject to other provisions of this Chapter which applies to psychotropic substances which are not included in Schedule I and for the purposes mentioned in Chapter VII A:

Provided further that the authority in charge of the drug control in a State referred to in sub-Rule (2) of Rule 65 shall consult the Narcotics Commissioner before issuing a licence under Rule 65 in respect of psychotropic substances included in Schedule I [and Schedule III]

65A. Sale, purchase, consumption or use of psychotropic substances No person shall sell, purchase, consume or use any psychotropic substance except in accordance with the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945.

[25] In terms of Rule 64 of the NDPS Rules, no person is to manufacture, possess, transport, import inter-State, export inter State, sell, purchase, consume or use any of the psychotropic substances specified in Schedule I of the NDPS Rules. Rule 65 relates to manufacture of psychotropic substances and it is provided in subRule (1) that manufacture of any of the psychotropic substances other than those specified in Schedule I of the NDPS Rules shall be in accordance with the conditions of a licence granted under the 1945 Rules, by an authority in charge of Drugs Control in a State appointed by the State Government in this behalf. In terms of sub-Rule (2) of Rule 65 of the NDPS Rules, the authority in charge of drugs control in a State that is the Licensing Authority is to consult the Drugs Controller (India) in regard to the assessed annual requirements of each of the psychotropic substances in bulk form referred to in subRule (1) in the country and taking into account the requirement of such psychotropic substances in the State, the quantity of such substance required for supply to other manufacturers outside the State and the quantity of such substance required for reasonable inventory to be held by a manufacturer, shall specify, by order, the limit of the quantity of such substance which may be manufactured by the manufacturer in the State. In terms of Rule 65A of the NDPS Rules, no person is to sell, purchase, consume or use of psychotropic substance except in accordance with the 1945 Rules. Schedule I of the NDPS Rules referred to in Rule 64 provides for various narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances. The provisions of the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules as also the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules show that there is overlapping of drugs of various types.

[26] In terms of the afore-referred notification dated 14.11.1985, 88 drugs have been notified and 10 of the drugs provide for some kind of exceptions which are mentioned at serial No.16, 35, 36, 37, 48, 58, 70, 76, 83 and 87 which read as under:-

"(16) Preparations made from the extract or tincture of Indian Hemp, except those which are capable only of external use.

[27] Thereafter, the Central Government vide notification dated 29.1.1993 has notified 17 more drugs as "manufactured drugs". In all 105 drugs have been notified as "manufactured drugs" by the Central Government. Most of the drugs that have been notified by the Central Government as "manufactured drugs" are covered under Scheduled 'H' of the 1945 Rules. Section 3 (b) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act defines 'drug' as follows:-

"(b) "drug" includes-

> (i) all medicines for internal or external use of human beings or animals and all substances intended to be used for or in the diagnosis, treatment, mitigation or prevention of any disease or disorder in human beings or animals, including preparations applied on human body for the purpose of repelling insects like mosquitoes;]
> (ii) such substances (other than food) intended to affect the structure of any function of the human body or intended to be used for the destruction of [vermin] or insects which cause disease in human beings or animals, as may be specified from time to time by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette;]
>
> [(iii) all substances intended for use as components of a drug including empty gelatin capsules; and
> (iv) such devices intended for internal or external use in the diagnosis, treatment, mitigation or prevention of disease or disorder in human beings or animals, as may be specified from time to time by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette, after consultation with the Board;]

[28] The Central Government in terms of the 1945 Rules has conferred powers on the State Government to grant licences. Part VI of the 1945 Rules provides for sale of drugs other than homeopathic medicines. Rule 59 (1) of the 1945 Rules envisages that the State Government shall appoint licensing authorities for the purpose of this part for such areas as may be specified. Sub-Rule (2) of Rule 59 provides for grant or renewal of a licence to sell, stock, exhibit or offer for sale or distribute drugs, other than those included in Schedule 'X' of the 1945 Rules, which relates to special drugs for import licenses, shall be made in Form 19 or Form 19A, as the case may be, or in the case of drugs included in Schedule 'X' shall be made in Form 19 C to the licensing authority. Rule 60 of the 1945 Rules envisages that a licensing authority may with the approval of the State Government by an order in writing delegate the power to sign licences and such other powers as may be specified in the order to any other person under his control. Rule 61 of the 1945 Rules provides for forms of licences to sell drugs. Rule 62 relates to sale at more than one place. Rule 62A relates to restricted licences in Forms 20A and 21A. Rule 62B relates to conditions to be satisfied before a licence in Form 20A or Form 21A is granted. Rule 62C relates to application for licence to sell drugs by wholesale or to distribute the same from a motor vehicle. Rule 62D relates to Form of licences to sell drugs by wholesale or distribute drugs from a motor vehicle. Rule 63 relates to duration of licence. Rule 63A relates to certificate of renewal of a sale licence and Rule 63B relates to certificate of renewal of licence. Rule 64 relates to conditions to be satisfied before a licence in Form 20, 20B, 20F, 20G 21 and 21B is granted or renewed. Rule 65 relates to condition of licences. Rule 65A deals with additional information to be furnished by an applicant for licence or a licensee to the licensing authority. Rule 66 deals with cancellation and suspension of licences. Rule 66A deals with procedure for disposal of drugs in the event of cancellation of licence. The said Rules fall under Part VI of the 1945 Rules, the powers in respect of which are conferred on the State Government.

[29] In terms of Section 26A of the D&C Act, the Central Government has power to prohibit manufacture etc. of drug and cosmetic in public interest. It is provided therein that without prejudice to any other provision contained in this Chapter i.e. Chapter IV, if the Central Government is satisfied, that the use of any drug or cosmetic is likely to involve any risk to human beings or animals or that any drug does not have the therapeutic value claimed or purported to be claimed for it or contains ingredients and in such quantity for which there is no therapeutic justification and that in the public interest it is necessary or expedient so to do, then, that Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, prohibit the manufacture, sale or distribution of such drug or cosmetic. In terms of Section 26B of the D&C Act, the Central Government has the power to regulate or restrict, manufacture etc. of drugs in public interest. It is provided that without prejudice to any other provision contained in this Chapter i.e. Chapter IV, if the Central Government is satisfied that a drug is essential to meet the requirements of an emergency arising due to epidemic or natural calamities and that in the public interest, it is necessary or expedient so to do, then, that Government may, by notification in the official gazette, regulate or restrict the manufacture, sale or distribution of such drug.

[30] The licences that are issued to the manufacturers and to other various persons to sell, stock, exhibit, offer for sale or distribute the drugs other than the drugs mentioned in Scheduled 'C', 'C (1)' and 'X', which are issued in Forms 20, 20A and 20B of the 1945 Rules. Rule 97 falls under Part IX of the 1945 Rules which deals with labelling and packing of drugs other than homeopathic medicines. In terms of said Rule 97, the container of a medicine for internal use shall contain the particulars as mentioned therein. Rule 97 (1) of the 1945 Rules reads as under:-

> "97. Labelling of medicines. (1) The container of a medicine for internal use shall -
> (a) if it contains a substance specified in Schedule G, be labelled with the words 'Caution: it is dangerous to take this preparation except under medical supervision' conspicuously printed and surrounded by a line within which there shall be no other words;
>
> (b) if it contains a substance specified in Schedule H be labelled with the symbol Rx and conspicuously displayed on the left top corner of the label and be also labelled with the following words:-
>
> 'Schedule H drug Warning : To be sold by retail on the prescription of a Registered Medical Practitioner only';
> (c) if it contains a substance specified in Schedule H and comes within the purview of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic substance Act, 1985 (61 of 1985) be labelled with the symbols NRx which shall be in red and conspicuously displayed on the left top corner of the label, and be also labelled with the following words:-
>
> 'Schedule H drug Warning : To be sold by retail on the prescription of a Registered Medical Practitioner only';
>
> (d) if it contains a substance specified in Schedule X, be labelled with the symbol XRx which shall be in red conspicuously displayed on the left top corner of the label, and be also labelled with the following words:-
> 'Schedule X drug Warning : To be sold by retail on the prescription of a Registered Medical Practitioner only';"

[31] The 1945 Rules, therefore, provide for various drugs which are included in Schedules 'C', 'C (1)', 'H' and 'X'. Schedule 'C' relates to biological and special products. Schedule 'C (1)' relates to other special products which includes vitamins and preparations containing vitamins not in a form to be administered parenterally.

Liver extract and preparations containing liver extract not in a form to be administered parenterally. Vaccine not in a form to be administered parenterally. Antibiotics and preparations thereof not in a form to be administered parenterally etc. Schedule 'H' relates to the prescription of drugs and is referable to Rule 65 and 97 of the 1945 Rules which have been reproduced above i.e. 'condition of licence' and 'labelling of medicines.'

[32] As already noticed some psychotropic substances and Schedule 'H' drugs are overlapping. The following psychotropic substances at serial numbers in the Schedule of NDPS Act have also been mentioned in Schedule 'H' of the 1945 Rules:-

Sr.No. of Phychotropic Substance	Sr.No. of Drug in Schedule H
30. Alprazolam	15 Alprazolam
36. Chlordiazepoxide	105 Chlordiazepoxide
43 Diazepam	147 Diazepam
50 Flurazepam	207 Flurazepam
56 Lorazepam	294 Lorazepam
64 Nitrazepam	360 Nitrazepam
66 Oxazepam	371 Oxazepam
69 Phenobarbital	396 Phenobarbital

[33] In Schedule 'H' of the 1945 Rules, the drugs in respect of which there has been misuse by bulk sale for purposes other than medicinal or therapeutic use are mostly, codeine at serial No.132, Dextropropoxyphene at serial No.146 and Diphenoxylate its salt at serial No. 156 are included.

[34] The drug Dextropropoxyphene Hcl was found in the case of Ravinder Singh alias Rinku v. State of Punjab (CRM No.M-1379 of 2013). At serial No. 87 of the notification dated 14.11.1985,the drug(+)-4-dimethylamino-1,2-diphenyl-3-methyl-2-butanon propionate (the international non-proprietary name of which is Dextropropoxyphene), and its salts, preparations, admixtures, extracts and other substances containing any of these drugs, except preparations for oral use containing not more than 135 milligrammes of Dextropropoxyphene base per dosage unit or with a concentration of not more than 2.5 per cent in undivided preparations, provided that such preparations do not contain any substances controlled under the Convention of Psychotropic Substances, 1971. Therefore, in terms of notification dated 14.11.1985, Dextropropoxyphene is a drug, which has been notified as a manufactured drug though with a certain exception in terms of Section 2 (xi) (b) of the NDPS Act and is also a drug in Schedule 'H' of the 1945 Rules.

[35] Similarly, in the case of Rani v. State of Punjab (CRM No. M-14461 of 2012) 2170 Parvon Spas capsules and 900 other capsules having mark of Subhimol were recovered. As per the Chemical Examiner's Report, the Parvon Spas capsules contained salt Dextropropoxyphene Hcl 74.90 mg and capsules Subhimol contained salt of Dextropropoxyphene Hcl 74.96 mg. In Mohd. Shamshad v. State of Punjab (CRM No. M-20282 of 2012), 500 capsules of Parvon Spas were recovered which as per the Chemical Examiner's report contained Dextropropoxyphene Hcl. Mostly the manufactured drugs in respect of which there is a contravention contain Dextropropoxyphene, Codeine and these according to the learned counsel for the petitioners are not 'manufactured drugs' so as to come within the purview of the NDPS Act. However, in terms of notification dated 14.11.1985 these are specifically mentioned as 'manufactured drugs' and contravention of these would be an offence under Section 21 of the NDPS Act, which relates to punishment for contravention in relation to manufactured drugs and preparations; though these may also be an offence under the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules. The question that these provide for exception would not be of much consequence as these are carried in a bulk form and in such a manner that they are not intended to be used for medicinal purposes but are intended to be used for intoxication and getting a stimulating effect.

[36] These are mostly used as sedatives to go into a trance. Besides, when these are carried in a bulk form without proper authorization or licence, then these would fall within the violations provided for under the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules. The questions of these being within the exception provided for per dose usage would be inapplicable especially when there is no proper authorization or licence. It may be noticed that Section 21 NDPS Act which relates to punishment for contravention in relation to manufactured drugs and preparations provides for different punishments in respect of contravention of any provisions of the NDPS Act or any Rule or order made or conditions of licence granted thereunder, manufactures, possesses, sells, purchases, transports, imports inter-State, exports inter-State or uses any manufactured drug or any preparation containing any manufactured drug depending upon the quantity of which there has been a contravention, that is, small quantity, involving quantity lesser than commercial quantity but greater than small quantity and involving commercial quantity. Section 21 of the NDPS Act reads as under:-

> "21. Punishment for contravention in relation to manufactured drugs and preparation Whoever, in contravention of any provision of this Act or any rule or order made or condition of licence granted thereunder, manufactures, possesses, sells, purchases, transports, imports inter-State, exports inter-State or uses any manufactured drug or any preparation containing any manufactured drug shall be punishable,-
> (a) where the contravention involves small quantity, with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to ten thousand rupees, or with both;
>
> (b) Where the contravention involves quantity, lesser than commercial quantity but greater than small quantity, with rigorous imprisonment for a term which may extend to ten years and with fine which may extend to one lakh rupees;
>
> (c) where the contravention involves commercial quantity, with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than ten years but which may extend to twenty years and shall also be liable to fine which shall not be less than one lakh rupees but which may extend to two lakh rupees.
> Provided that the Court may, for reasons to be recorded in the judgment, impose a fine exceeding two lakh rupees."

[37] The Central Government has specified 'small quantity' and 'commercial quantity' of drugs which is with reference to clause (viia) and (xxiiia) of Section 2 of the NDPS Act in a tabulated form vide notification dated 19.10.2001. Clause (viia) and (xxiiia) of the NDPS Act define; 'commercial quantity' and 'small quantity' as follows:-

> "(vii a) "commercial quantity", in relation to narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, means any quantity greater than the quantity specified by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette;

(xxiii a) "small quantity", in relation to narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances, means any quantity lesser than the quantity specified by the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette."

[38] The table specifying 'small quantity' and 'commercial quantity' of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances vide notification dated 19.10.2001 contains horizontal columns from (1) to (6) mentioning the serial number, name of narcotic drug and psychotropic substance, other non-proprietary name, chemical name, small quantity (in grams) and commercial quantity (in grams/kilograms) respectively. The Central Government has thereafter issued notification dated 18.11.2009 so as to add Note 4 after Note 3 to the table specifying 'small quantity' and 'commercial quantity' of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances in terms of notification dated 19.10.2001. The said notification dated 18.11.2009 reads as under :-

Notifications, New Delhi, the 18th November, 2009 S.O. 2941 (E).- In exercise of the powers conferred by clause (vii a) and (xxiii a) of Section 2 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substance Act, 1985 (61 of 1985) the Central Government, hereby makes the following amendment in the Notification S.O. 1055 (E), dated 19th October, 2001 namely:-

In the Table at the end after Note 3, the following Note shall be inserted, namely:-

"(4) The quantities shown in column 5 and column 6 of the Table relating to the respective drugs shown in column 2 shall apply to the entire mixture or any solution or any one or more narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances of that particular drug in dosage form or isomers, esters, ethers and salts of these drugs, including salts of esters, ethers and isomers, wherever existence of such substance is possible and not just its pure drug content."

[39] The Central Government, therefore, by notification dated 19.10.2001 has specified 'small quantity' and 'commercial quantity' of various narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances by a table. Notification dated 18.11.2009 has been issued by the Central Government, which mentions that quantities shown in column 5 that relates to 'small quantity' and column 6 that relates to 'commercial quantity' of the table relating to respective drugs shown in column 2 that relates to the name of narcotic drug and psychotropic substance, is to apply to the entire mixture or any solution or any one or more of narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances of that particular drug in dosage form etc. wherever existence of such substance is possible and not just its pure drug content. The intention of the said notification is to prevent and prohibit the use of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances wherever there is a misuse of the said drugs for other than medicinal or therapeutic use. As has already been noticed various 'manufactured drugs' have been notified vide notifications dated 14.11.1985 and 29.1.1993. Section 21 of the NDPS Act provides for punishment for contravention in relation to manufactured drugs and preparations. The punishment prescribed is with reference to the quantity possessed. Therefore, the punishment which an offender is liable to be inflicted with in case he contravenes the provisions of Section 21 of the NDPS Act is dependent on the contravention of the quantity of drug that is involved. For purpose of determining the quantity as to whether it is small quantity, lesser than commercial quantity but greater than small quantity or commercial quantity is to be determined with reference to the notification providing a table as afore-mentioned specifying small quantity and commercial quantity to which Note 4 has been added vide notification dated 18.11.2009 mentioning therein that the quantity whether it is small quantity or commercial quantity relating to the drugs shown in column 2 is to apply to the entire mixture or any solution or any one or more narcotic drug or psychotropic substance of that particular drug in dosage form etc. wherever existence of such substance is possible and not just its pure content.

[40] The manufactured drugs of which there has been a contravention in the present cases have been sold, purchased, distributed, stored, transported, carried etc. in a bulk form and mostly these are without proper licences or authorizations. In respect of such drugs which are carried in bulk form, the notification dated 18.11.2009 would apply and the question that these drugs contain an exception would not be applicable as the exceptions would apply when the drugs are for medicinal or therapeutic use. Besides, the quantity of manufactured drugs is not to be determined on per capsule basis when these are carried without proper licence or authorization. In other words, the mere dosage of the manufactured drug in one capsule is not to be considered but the dosage in the number of capsules together is to be considered for the purpose of determining as to whether the exceptions provided in the notification dated 14.11.1985 declaring the narcotic substances and preparations as mentioned therein to be manufactured drugs. Moreover, in case of contravention of Section 21 NDPS Act relating to manufactured drugs, Note 4 of the notification 18.11.2009 would apply that is to say that the quantity in respect of which there is a contravention is 'small quantity', 'lesser than commercial quantity but greater than small quantity' or 'commercial quantity' is to apply to the entire mixture or any solution or any one or more narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances of that particular drug in dosage form etc. wherever existence of such substance is possible and not just its pure drug content. Therefore, the question of exceptions being provided in respect of drugs at serial No.16, 35, 36, 37, 48, 58, 70, 76, 83 and 87 of the notification dated 14.11.1985 is inconsequential when these drugs are carried in a bulk form and the entire quantity of the bulk is to be taken into consideration and not per dosage specially when these are carried in violation of the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules that is to say are sold, purchased, distributed, stored, transported, carried etc. without a valid licence or kept without a valid authorization.

[41] Similarly there are certain 'psychotropic substances' which have been mentioned in the Schedule of the NDPS Act and which are used for medicinal purposes also. The said 'psychotropic substances' can be manufactured in accordance with the conditions of a licence granted under the 1945 Rules. Except those substances which are not mentioned in the Schedule 'I' of the 1945 Rules for which purpose a licence can be granted under the said 1945 Rules, the others that is without licence or authorization would entail the violation of the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules which would make out an offence under the said latter provisions. Therefore, the possession of a 'manufactured drug' which has been notified in terms of notifications dated 14.11.1985 and 29.1.1993 or 'psychotropic substances' and which are mentioned in Schedule 1 of the NDPS Act would entail prosecution either under the NDPS Act or the D&C Act. The fact that the prosecution has enforced a harsher provision of the NDPS Act than the normal provision of the D&C Act would not be of any consequence or significance.

[42] In Maganlal Chhagganlal (P) Ltd. v. Municipal Corporation of Greater Bombay and Others, 1974 AIR(SC) 2009(Seven Judges Bench), the Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the case relating to the legality of the certain provisions of Chapter V-A of the Bombay Municipal Corporation Act and the Bombay Government Premises (Eviction) Act 1955. Chapter V-A was introduced in the Bombay Municipal Act 1888 by Maharashtra Act 14 of 1961. The said Chapter V-A contained Sections 105-A and 105-B. According to the provisions of those Sections, the Commissioner in relation to premises belonging to or vesting in, or taken on lease by the Corporation and the General Manager of the Bombay Electric Supply and Transport Undertaking in relation to premises of the Corporation which vest in it for the purposes of that undertaking were granted certain powers of eviction in respect of unauthorized occupation of any Corporation premises. According to Section 105-B, the Commissioner by notice served on the person in unauthorized occupation, could ask him to vacate if he had not paid for a period of more than two months the rent or taxes lawfully due from him in respect of such premises, or sub-let, contrary to the terms or conditions of his occupation, the whole or any part of such premises; or committed, or is committing, such acts of waste as are likely to diminish materially the value, or impair substantially the utility, of the premises; or otherwise acted in contravention of any of the terms, express or implied, under which he is authorized to occupy such premises; or if any person is in unauthorized occupation of any corporation premises; or any corporation premises in the occupation of any person are required by the corporation in the public interest. Before making such an order, the Commissioner is required to issue a notice calling upon the person concerned to show cause why an order of eviction should not be made and specify the grounds on which the order of eviction is proposed to be made. The person concerned could file a written statement and produce documents and was entitled to appear before the Commissioner by advocate, attorney or pleader. The Commissioner, therefore, had the power to evict those in unauthorized occupation in relation to premises belonging to or vesting in, or taken on lease by the corporation. The Commissioner for the purpose of holding an enquiry had the same powers as are vested in a civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, when trying a suit, in respect of summoning and enforcing the presence of any person and examining him on oath; besides, requiring the discovery and production of documents as also any other matter which may be prescribed by regulations. The provisions of the Bombay Government Premises (Eviction Act) were also more or less similar except that they related to Government premises and the power to order of eviction is given to competent authority not lower in rank than that of a Deputy Collector or an Executive Engineer appointed by the State Government. The only other matter in respect of which the provisions of the Government Premises (Eviction) Act differed from the provisions of the Bombay Municipal Corporation Act was that Section 8-A of the former Act provided that no Civil Court shall have jurisdiction to entertain any suit or proceedings in respect of the eviction of any person from any government premises on any of the grounds specified in Section 4 for the recovery of the arrears of rent or damages payable for use and occupation of such premises. It was submitted that there were two procedures available to the Corporation and the State Government, one by way of a suit under the ordinary law and the other under either of the two Acts, which is harsher and more onerous than the procedure under the ordinary law, therefore, the latter was hit by Article 14 of the Constitution in the absence of any guidelines as to which procedure may be adopted. After detailed discussion, it was held that where a statue providing for a more drastic procedure different from the ordinary procedure covers the whole fields covered by the ordinary procedure without any guidelines as to the class of cases in which either procedure is to be resorted to, the statute will be hit by Article 14. Even there, a provision for appeal may cure the defect. Further, if from the preamble and surrounding circumstances, as well as the provisions of the statute themselves explained and amplified by affidavits, necessary guidelines could be inferred, the statute will not be hit by Article 14. Besides, where the statute itself covers only a class of cases, the statute will not be bad.

[43] The fact that in such cases the Executive will choose which cases are to be tried under the special procedure will not affect the validity of the statute. Therefore, the contention that mere availability of two procedures will vitiate one of them, that is, the special procedure, it was held, was not supported by reason of authority. It was further held that the statute itself in the two classes of cases clearly laid down the purpose behind them, that is, that the premises belonging to the Corporation and the Government should be subject to speedy procedure in the matter of evicting unauthorized persons occupying them. It was, therefore, held that merely because one procedure provides the forum of a civil court while the other provides the forum of an administrative tribunal, it cannot be said that the latter is necessarily more drastic and onerous. To attract the inhibition of Article 14, it was held there must be substantial and qualitative differences between the two procedures so that one is really and substantially more drastic and prejudicial. Superfine differences are bound to exist when two procedures are prescribed.

[44] Therefore, it follows that merely because the prosecution for a violation of the provisions of D&C Act and the 1945 Rules framed thereunder entails some kind of penalty would not be a bar to trial of cases in respect of which there has been a contravention of Section 21 of the NDPS Act a reference to which has been made above. A detailed procedure has been provided for trial of cases under the NDPS Act. Section 36A of the NDPS Act relates to offences triable by the Special Court. Section 36B relates to appeal and revision. Section 36C relates to application of the Code of Criminal Procedure to proceedings before a Special Court and Section 36D relates to transitional provision. In terms of Section 36C, the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure (including the provisions as to bail and bail bonds), are to apply to proceedings before a Special Court and for the purposes of the said provision, the Special Court is deemed to be a Court of Session and the person conducting a prosecution before a Special Court is deemed to be a Public Prosecutor. Section 4 of the Criminal Procedure Code relates to trial of offences under the Indian Penal Code and other laws. Sub Section (2) thereof envisages that all offences under any other law that is law other than the Indian Penal Code which would include cases under the NDPS Act, shall be investigated, inquired into, tried, and otherwise dealt with according to the same provisions, that is, the provisions contained after Section 4 but subject to any enactment for the time being in force regulating the manner or place of investigating, inquiring into, trying or otherwise dealing with such offences. For the trial of offences under the NDPS Act proper procedure and guidelines have been provided.

[45] Therefore, the procedure provided for trial and prosecution of offences under the NDPS Act would not in any manner be hit by Article 14 of the Constitution; besides, even if it covers only a class of cases which are mentioned in the NDPS it would not be bad and the fact that in such cases the prosecution chooses as to which cases are to be tried under the special procedure would not affect the validity of the NDPS Act and the mere availability of two procedure does not vitiate one of them that is the special procedure under the NDPS Act. Besides, it is for the State to decide as to in which of the two enactments that is, the NDPS Act or the D&C Act is the prosecution to be launched. It may also appropriately be noticed that the provisions of Section 80 of the NDPS Act envisage that application of the D&C Act is not barred. Section 80 NDPS Act reads as under:-

> "Application of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 not barred.---- The provisions of this Act or the rules made thereunder shall be in additional to, and not in derogation of, the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 (23 of 1940) or the rules made thereunder."

[46] This Court in the case of Vinod Kumar v. State of Punjab, 2013 1 RCR(Cri) 428 considered the question as to whether a wholesale drug dealer, a retailer and their employees possessing proper and valid licence for dealing in drugs specified in Schedule C and Schedule C1 as well as drugs not specified in those Schedules of the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules can be held liable for an offence punishable under the NDPS Act. After making a reference to Section 80 NDPS Act, it was held that a person can very well be prosecuted both under the NDPS Act as well as under the D&C Act simultaneously for violation of the provisions of the said Acts. It was held that merely because a person is prosecuted for violation of D&C Act that would not operate as a bar to prosecute him under the provisions of the NDPS Act.

Rather if the offences made out under the D&C Act also comes within the scope of the provisions of the NDPS Act such person shall be prosecuted for possession of the contrabands violating the provisions of the NDPS Act. Both the Acts, it was held are independent and violation of one Act does not mean no violation of the other. Therefore, merely, because prosecution is launched and trial is conducted under the NDPS Act, which is considered a harsher and an onerous provision, the initiation of the proceedings cannot be said to be improper or bad. In case it is done for any extraneous reasons or circumstances or with a mala fide intention, the same would of course be subject to judicial scrutiny and review. In the circumstances, when there has been a contravention of a certain manufactured drug or a psychotropic substance and which falls within the purview of NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules, the possession, sale and transportation of which is prohibited, or is being done without proper licence or with no proper authorization, the prosecution under the provisions of the NDPS Act would not be prohibited and it cannot be said to be in any manner illegal.

[47] The contention of the learned counsel for the petitioners is that the police authorities being unmindful of the actual provisions of the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules have harassed even the bona fide chemists in the State holding a valid and legal licence in accordance with the provisions of the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules. In this regard it needs to be mentioned that the instance of unnecessary harassment are indeed unfortunate and these need to be seriously viewed by the Courts. The provisions of the NDPS Act including providing for prosecution in respect of manufactured drugs are stringent and harsh.

[48] These have been enacted to curb menace of drug trafficking. In Nirnajan Singh Karam Singh Punjabi v. Jitendra Bhimraj Bijja, 1990 AIR(SC) 1962, the Hon'ble Supreme Court considered a case with regard to stringent provisions of the Terrorists and Disruptive Activities (Prevention) Act, 1987. It was observed that the said Act is a penal statute. Its provisions are drafted in that they provide minimum punishments and in certain cases enhanced punishments also. The provisions of the said Act were a departure from the ordinary law since the ordinary law was found to be inadequate and not sufficiently effective to deal with the special class of offences relating to terrorists and disruptive activities. The legislature, therefore, made special provisions which can in certain respects be said to be harsh, created a special forum for the speedy disposal of such cases, provided for raising a presumption of guilt, placed extra restrictions in regard to release of the offender on bail, and made suitable changes in the procedure with a view to achieving its objects.

[49] It was held that it is well settled that statutes which impose a term of imprisonment for what is a criminal offence under the law must be strictly construed. It was further held that while invoking a criminal statute such as the aforesaid Terrorists and Disruptive Activities (Prevention) Act, the prosecution is duty bound to show from the record of the case and the documents collected in the course of investigation that facts emerging therefrom prima facie constitute an offence within the letter of the law. When a statute provides special or enhanced punishment as compared to the punishment prescribed for similar offences under the ordinary penal laws of the country, a higher responsibility and duties are cast on the Judge to make sure there exists prima facie evidence for supporting the charge levelled by the prosecution. Therefore, when a law visits a person with serious penal consequences extra care is to be taken that those whom the legislature did not intend to be covered by the express language of the statute are not roped in by stretching the language of the law. The said observations in the case of Niranjan Singh Karam Singh Punjabi v. Jitendra Bhimraj Bijiaya were affirmed by a Five Judges Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sanjay Dutt v.

The State through CBI Bombay, 1994 5 JT 540. Therefore, when a law visits a person with serious penal consequences extra care is indeed to be taken that those whom the legislature did not intend to be covered by the express language of the statute are not roped in by stretching the language of the law. However, on that account to say that the offenders who have contravened and indulged in clandestine sale of narcotic drugs and manufactured drugs that have been notified by the Central Government in the official gazette, besides, psychotropic substances are to be penalized only under the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules would not be the correct position in law. It is for the State to prosecute the offenders wherever the provisions of the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules have been violated in accordance with the said provisions rather than to say that such offenders can only be penalized under the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules. In other words, wherever there is a violation of the provisions of the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules, then the offence comes within the ambit of the said Act and the Rules. The prosecution against the offenders can, therefore, be validly launched under the NDPS Act.

[50] The Delhi High Court in Rajinder Gupta v. State, 2006 CrLJ 674referred to Rule 97 (1) of the D&C Rules and observed as follows:-

> "Rule 65 (1), inter alia, provides that the manufacture of any psychotropic substance other than those specified in schedule I shall be in accordance with the conditions of license granted under the D and C Rules and D and C Act. In other words, in so far as the psychotropic substances not mentioned in Schedule I to the NDPS Rules but mentioned in the Schedule to the NDPS Act are concerned, their manufacture shall be governed by the D and C Act and Rules and not by the NDPS Act or NDPS Rules. Rule 66 relates to possession etc. of psychotropic substances. Sub-Rule (1) thereof provides that no person shall possess "any psychotropic substance" for any of the purposes covered by the D and C Rules, unless he is lawfully authorized to possess such substance for any of the said purposes under the NDPS Rules. The expression"any psychotropic substance" obviously has reference to those listed in Schedule I to the NDPS Rules. Rule 64 is the governing rule in Chapter VII of the NDPS Rules. When a psychotropic substance does not find mention in Schedule I to the NDPS Rules, the prohibition qua possession contained in Rule 64 does not apply; That being the case, in respect of such a psychotropic substance, Rule 66 would also not apply as it has reference to only those psychotropic substance which are included in Schedule I to the NDPS Rules. Rule 67 of the NDPS Rules relates to transport of psychotropic substances. It is expressly subject to the provisions of Rule 64 and clearly has reference to the transport, import inter-state or export inter-state of those psychotropic substances which are included in Schedule I to the NDPS Rules. The rule would have no applicability in respect of those psychotropic substances which are not to be found in Schedule I to the NDPS Rules. Clearly, then, inasmuch as Buprenorphine Hydrochloride is not included in Schedule I to the NDPS Rules, its manufacture, possession, sale, transport would neither be prohibited nor regulated by the NDPS Rules and consequently by the NDPS Act. It being Schedule H drug would fall within the rigorous of the D&C Act and Rules."

[51] The above observations show that the psychotropic substances which are mentioned in Schedule I of the NDPS Rules do entail prosecution under the NDPS Act. To this it may be added that those drugs which are notified as 'manufactured drug' by the Central Government particularly in terms of notification dated 14.11.1985 and subsequent notification dated 29.1.1993 would entail prosecution under Section 21 of the NDPS Act. Therefore, in each case it would be required to be seen whether the drug in respect of which there is alleged to be a contravention by an offender is indeed in violation of the NDPS Act and this is to be determined and examined with reference to the notified manufactured drugs as mentioned in the notification dated 14.11.1985 and 29.1.1993. The contravention of psychotropic substances mentioned in the Schedule to the NDPS Act and the Schedule 'I' to the NDPS Rules in violation of the same may also entail prosecution under the NDPS Act. Besides, it would be also required to be examined whether the percentage of the drug is within the permissible limit as has been provided for. However, the bulk quantity, in respect of which there is a contravention or is recovered from an unauthorized person would be indicative of the fact that it was not being used for medicinal or therapeutic purposes but as a drug to sedate or for intoxication or to give a sharp stimulating effect to get an unhealthy thrill so as to get a 'kick'. It is to be kept in mind that drugs which are classified as narcotic drugs or psychotropic substances not used for medicinal or therapeutic purposes but are rather misused by drug addicts or drug traffickers would warrant prosecution under the NDPS Act.

[52] The common drugs that are mostly misused for purposes other than medicinal and therapeutic use are drugs like Codeine, Dextropropoxyphene and Diphenoxylate. These are mentioned at serial Nos.132, 146 and 156 respectively in Schedule 'H' of the 1945 Rules, and are also mentioned at serial Nos.28, 33 and 44 respectively in the notification specifying small quantity and commercial quantity of drugs by making a reference to clause (vii a) and (xxiii a) of Section 2 of the NDPS Act. Besides, these are also mentioned at serial Nos.35, 87 and 58 respectively of the notification dated 14.11.1985. Other drugs which are commonly misused are 'Alprazolam, Chlordiazepoxide, Delorazepam, Diazepam and Buprenorphine' which are 'psychotropic substance' and are mentioned at serial Nos.30, 36, 42, 43 and 92 of the Schedule to the NDPS Act with reference to clause (xxiii) of Section 2 of the NDPS Act. These are commonly and widely misused by drug traffickers for clandestinely indulging in drug trafficking to give an intoxicating or stimulating effect and not for medicinal or therapeutic use. Drug addicts are known to take huge discharge of these drugs at a time and even drug manufacturers are packing 100 tablets of pouch/ bottles packing of some such drugs though some of them even fall under Schedule 'H' drug of the 1945 Rules and are to be sold in retail on a prescription by a registered medical practitioner only or are to be supplied to registered medical practitioners, hospitals, dispensaries and nursing homes against signed order in writing which are to be preserved by the licencee for a period of two years in terms of Rule 65 (9) (a) and (b) of the 1945 Rules which reads as under:-

> "(9) (a) Substances specified in Schedule H or Schedule X shall not be sold by retail except on and in accordance with the prescription of a Registered Medical Practitioner and in the case of substances specified in Schedule X, the prescriptions shall be in duplicate, one copy of which shall be retained by the licensee for a period of two years.
> (b) the supply of drugs specified in Schedule H or Schedule X to Registered Medical Practitioners, Hospitals, Dispensaries and Nursing Homes shall be made only against the signed order in writing which shall be preserved by the licensee for a period of two years."

[53] A perusal of the above Rule 65 (9) (a) and (b) mandates that the substances specified in Schedule 'H' or Schedule 'X' are to be sold in accordance with the prescription of a registered medical practitioner and in case of substances in Schedule 'X' the prescription is to be in duplicate and one copy of the same is to be retained by the licensee for two years. Insofar as the supply of drugs specified in the said Schedule 'H' or Schedule 'X' to registered medical practitioners, hospitals, dispensaries and nursing homes are concerned, the same are to be made only against the signed order in writing which are to be preserved by the licensee for two years. Therefore, it is not as if the drugs mentioned in Schedule 'X' can be carried by any licensee in any manner that he likes or can be received by him without adherence to the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules. The drugs which are mostly misused in Schedule 'H' as already noticed are Codenie, Dextropropoxyphene, Diphenoxylate, its salts at serial Nos.132, 146 and 156 of Schedule 'H'. These drugs fall within the ambit of 'manufactured drugs' as have been notified by the Central Government in terms of notification dated 14.11.1985 at serial Nos.35, 87 and 58 respectively and contravention of the same is punishable under Section 21 NDPS Act which envisages that whoever, in contravention of any provisions of this Act i.e. the NDPS Act or any Rule or order made or condition of licence granted thereunder, manufactures, possesses, sells, purchases, transports, imports interState, exports inter-State or uses any manufactured drug or any preparation containing any manufactured drug shall be punishable according to the quantity of the manufactured drug of which there has been a contravention and is specified therein.

[66] As a consequence of the above, it may be noticed that:-

(i) Manufactured drugs are those drugs which are defined in Section 2 (xi) of the NDPS Act and have been notified by the Central Government vide notification dated 14.11.1985 and subsequent notification dated 29.1.1993. The possession of such drugs in contravention of the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules would entail criminal prosecution of the offender under Section 21 of the NDPS Act.

(ii) The mere fact that the drugs which are covered under 'manufactured drugs' under the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules and psychotropic substances as mentioned in Schedule of the NDPS Act and Schedule I of the NDPS Rules and are also covered by the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules thereunder would not mean that the offender can be penalised only under the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules and not proceeded against the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules. In case there is a contravention of the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules, the stringent provisions of the latter can be resorted to.

(iii) A person possessing manufactured drugs in terms of the NDPS Act and the NDPS Rules is to strictly adhere to the provisions relating to sale, purchase, transport, carrying, storage, distribution etc. in accordance with the provisions of the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules as also the provisions of the Punjab NDPS Rules 2012.

(iv) For transportation of the 'manufactured drugs' a pass or permit in terms of Rule 18 of the Punjab NDPS Rules 2012 is to be possessed.

(v) It is to be ascertained in each case whether the manufactured drug, the contravention of which is alleged by a person falls within the permissible limits of the percentage of dosage provided for the drug by the notification dated 14.11.1985 and subsequent notification dated 29.01.1993 issued in exercise of power conferred by Section 2 (xi) (b) NDPS Act. However, the contravention of manufactured drug or possession of quantity in bulk is to be taken into consideration and not per dosage specially when there is a violation of the D&C Act and the 1945 Rules that is to say they are sold, purchased, distributed, stored, transported, carried etc. without a valid licence or kept without a valid authorization. The possession of quantity in bulk would be an indication that it is not for medicinal or therapeutic use but is sought to be misused by drug addicts and drug traffickers and would be treated as applicable to the entire quantity recovered of anyone or more narcotic drug or psychotropic substance of that particular drug in dosage forms and not just its pure drug content.

(vi) When a manufactured drugs are sold, purchased, distributed, stored, transported, carried etc. in bulk form, the notification dated 18.11.2009 issued by the Central Government in exercise of powers under Section 2 (viia) and (xxiiia) NDPS Act would apply and the question that these drugs contain an exception in terms of notification dated 14.11.1985 would not apply as the exceptions would apply when the manufactured drugs are for medicinal or therapeutic use.

(vii) The quantity of manufactured drugs is not to be determined on per capsule basis when these are carried without proper licence or authorization. In other words the mere dosage of the manufactured drug in one capsule is not to be considered but the dosage in the number of capsule together is to be considered for determining as to whether the exceptions provided in the notification dated 14.11.1985 declaring the narcotic substance and preparations as mentioned therein to be manufactured drugs.

(viii) It is suggested that the State authorities should get the drugs in respect of which there is a contravention and that are recovered examined by the Chemical Analysts at the earliest and a report provided to the offender at the earliest so that the position can be ascertained as to whether the alleged offender was in possession of permissible quantity of the drug or otherwise. In case there is delay this would entitle the offender to at least interim bail till the report is finally received.

(ix) In relation to the search and seizure, the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure are to be followed. The instruction issued by the NCB should be circulated so these are followed as guidelines. The violation of the guidelines would not per se entail illegality or an irregularity unless it is shown the same has occasioned a failure of justice or resulted in prejudice.

(x) The guidelines laid down and directions issued by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Thana Singh v. Central Bureau of Narcotics should be meticulously and strictly followed and steps should be taken to ensure their due compliance.

(xi) For the sale, purchase, storage, carriage, transportation and use etc. of manufactured drugs, the provisions of the NDPS Act, the D&C Act, the 1945 Rules and the Punjab NDPS Rules, 2012 should be strictly adhered to and followed and violation of the same would necessarily entail its consequences including penal consequences."

32. To be fair to the learned counsel for the petitioner, he would vehemently contend that the ratio of the judgment in the aforesaid case is not at all applicable to the facts of the instant case as the Court therein was primarily dealing with the Punjab Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Rules, 2012 (for short 'Rules 2012') which had been issued vide notification dated 13.12.2012 in exercise of the powers conferred by Section 78 read with Sections 10 and 71 of the NDPS Act and other powers enabling it in this behalf.

33. Even this contention of the petitioner cannot be accepted for the simple reason that the same is based upon or complete misreading of the judgment (relevant portion whereof has been quoted above), which clearly demonstrates that the main thrust of the judgment was on the interpretation of the NDPS Act and Rules and Drugs and Cosmetics Act and the Rules and only ancillary findings, that too, wherever necessary were given with respect to the Rules 2012.

34. That apart, it is more than settled that the Rules cannot override the Act and once the relevant provisions of the Act are interpreted, then the State Rules would hardly be of any avail. The Rules otherwise would only follow the statute.

35. In addition to above, the Rules of 2012 mainly contemplate what is otherwise already provided in the Central Rules, apart from making certain changes making the provisions more stringent after taking into consideration the rampant and wide spread drug abuse and trade in the State of Punjab.

36. Learned counsel for the petitioner would then place reliance upon Rule 52-A which has recently been inserted vide G.S.R. No. 359 (E) dated 5th May, 2015 to contend that the intention of the legislation was to bring codeine phosphate within the purview of NDPS Act only where the concentration of codeine was more than 2.5% in 100 ml of bottle and in case it is found below the said concentration, same would not fall under the said Act.

37. Rule 52A of the Act, reads as under:

> 52A. Possession of essential narcotic drug*.(1) No person shall possess any essential narcotic drug otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of these rules.*
> (2) Any person may possess an essential narcotic drug in such quantity as has been at one time sold or dispensed for his use in accordance with the provisions of these rules.

Provided further that such authorisation may be granted or renewed, for a period not xceeding three years at a time.

Explanation.-The expression "for use in his practice" covers only the actual direct administration of the drugs to a patient under the care of the registered medical practitioner in accordance with established medical standards and practices.*

(4) For renewal of the authorisation referred to in the second proviso to sub -rule (3), application shall be made to the Controller of Drugs atleast thirty days before the expiry of the previous authorisation.

(b) When any order is passed under clause (a) of this sub-rule, the registered medical practitioner concerned shall forthwith deliver to the Controller of Drugs the essential narcotic drug then in his possession and the Controller of Drugs shall issue orders for the disposal of such drugs.

(6) The Controller of Drugs may, by a general or special order, authorize any person to possess essential narcotic drug as may be specified in that order.

(7) A recognised medical institution may possess essential narcotic drug in such quantity and in such manner as specified in these rules.

[(8) A manufacturer may possess essential narcotic drug in such quantity as may be specified in the licence issued under rule 36, rule 36-A, or rule 37 of these rules or the licence issued for manufacturing the preparations of essential narcotic drugs under the rules made by the State Government under section 10 of the Act.

Provided that there shall be no limit to the possession of essential narcotic drug by the Government Opium Factories.].'

(9) A licenced dealer or a licenced chemist may possess essential narcotic drug in such quantity and in such manner as may be specified in the licence issued under these rules."

38. Even this contention is without any substance because it is clear that Rule 52A would apply only to the medical practitioner and therefore, the drug in his possession is essentially for the use in his practice and as per explanation, it covers only the actual direct administration of the drugs to a patient under the care of the registered medical practitioner in accordance with established medical standards and practices and cannot be used to determine the pure drug content and in no manner exempts codeine even on percentage basis from the ambit of manufactured drug as is contended by the petitioner.

39. Having said so and having had a complete re-look on the various provisions of the NDPS Act and Rules as also Drugs and Cosmetic Act and Rules, I find no reason to take a different view to the one taken by me in Om Pal's case and since I have rejected all the contentions as put forth by the petitioner, there is no occasion or reason for referring the matter to a larger Bench.

40. In view of the ratio already laid down by me in Om Pal's case and in view of what has been said above, no case for bail is made out and the petition is accordingly dismissed.

For the Petitioner/ Plaintiff : Mr.R.K.Bawa, Senior Advocatewith Mr.Jeevesh Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondent/ Defendant : Mr.K.B.Khajuria, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

This revision is directed against the judgment and decree passed by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Shimla, on 13.08.2004 whereby the summary suit filed by the plaintiff/petitioner (hereinafter referred to as the plaintiff) under Section 6 of the Specific Relief Act (for short the 'Act') came to be dismissed and has now approached this Court by invoking its jurisdiction under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short 'Code') readwith Section 227 of the Constitution of India.

2. The brief facts leading to the filing of the present petition are that the plaintiff filed a suit as aforesaid wherein it was averred that respondent/defendant (hereinafter referred to as the defendant) was the owner of the building known as 'Baba Shri Chand Mandir', standing on Khasra No.541/2, Station Ward, Bara Shimla. The defendant had appointed Shri Niranjan Dass as his attorney vide General Power of Attorney dated 05.07.1993 duly registered in the Office of Sub-Registrar (Urban), Shimla at serial No.187 dated 06.07.1993. The defendant through his duly constituted General Power of Attorney created a lease for 99 years in favour of the plaintiff vide lease deed dated 23.04.1996 and even the possession was handed over to the plaintiff in respect of one room/shop measuring 1.96 metres x 1.69 metres (Shop No.4). This lease deed has been executed after the duly constituted General Power of Attorney had already received a sum of Rs.2,60,640/- being advance rent for 38 years i.e. upto the year 2033 from the plaintiff. However, on 02.06.1996 when the plaintiff had gone to Basantpur in connection with marriage of Shri Mohan Singh son of Shri Ajit Singh, the defendant got removed the brick wall that separated the suit property from the store of the building and illegally and forcibly took possession of the premises and dispossessed the plaintiff from the same.

3. The defendant contested the suit by filing written statement as also a counter-claim wherein the defendant inter alia raised preliminary objections regarding cause of action, valuation, misjoinder of parties on the ground that the alleged General Power of Attorney had not been arrayed as a party and estoppel etc. It was also averred that the plaintiff had got executed the sale deed by misrepresentation, fraud and coercion, besides the agreement being against the public policy and immoral. On merits, the averments contained in the plaint were denied and it was submitted that the suit property was a temple and had been constructed by the general public by way of donations and contributions and thus was a public property for the purpose of performing 'pooja' of 'Chand God' and the founder of the temple was one Baba Kumbh Dass, who had executed a will in favour of 'Baba Shri Chand Mandir' whereby the defendant was authorized to manage the property and had no right to transfer the same. After the death of Baba Kumbh Dass, the Court granted succession certificate in favour of the defendant and thereafter the defendant was stated to be managing the suit property. It was denied that Niranjan Dass was 'Chela' of the defendant and it was submitted that defendant infact had signed certain papers in respect of the power of attorney for the conduct of the proceedings in the Civil Court and had not authorized anyone to do away with the property of the temple as the defendant was himself not authorized to do so. The alleged General Power of Attorney was stated to be a result of misrepresentation of facts, fraud and it was alleged that Niranjan Dass and some other interested persons had taken undue benefit of the illiteracy of the defendant and got executed alleged Power of Attorney in active connivance with the concerned agency so as to get benefit out of it illegally to the detriment of the temple property. It was further denied that the defendant had executed any lease deed of the suit property in favour of the plaintiff. It was further denied that the defendant received a sum Rs.2,60,640/- as advance of 38 years from the plaintiff.

4. In the counter-claim the defendant assailed the lease deed executed in favour of the plaintiff by Shri Niranjan Dass and receipt of sale consideration.

5. The plaintiff filed written statement to the counter claim denying the averments contained therein and reiterated the averments already made in the plaint.

6. On 15.06.1998, the learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the possession of the suit property? OPP.

2. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action? OPD.

3. Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder of parties? OPD.

4. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act, conduct, etc. as alleged? OPD.

5. Whether the agreement of lease in favour of plaintiff is void as alleged, if so its effect? OPD.

6. Relief."

7. The learned trial Court after recording evidence and evaluating the same dismissed the suit filed by the plaintiff and partly allowed the counter-claim preferred by the defendant to the extent that the lease deed Ex.PW-1/B and Power of Attorney Ex.PW-1/A were both declared to be void documents. It is against the aforesaid judgment and decree that the present revision has been filed on the ground that the findings recorded by the learned Court below are absolutely perverse and contrary to the records and, therefore, deserve to be set aside.

8. Before adverting to the relative merits of the case, it would be noticed that the suit in the instant case was instituted more than two decades back on 11.06.1996. It is indeed sad if not unfortunate that what was intended by the Legislature to be a summary proceeding to enable a person to illegally dispossessed to effect quick recovery of possession of the immovable property has in the present case erupted into an over two decades old litigation.

9. The first and foremost question which requires determination is the nature and scope of remedy of a person unsuccessful in a suit under Section 6 of the Act.

10. In Sanjay Kumar Pandey and others versus Gulbahar Sheikh and others (2004) 4 SCC 664, the Hon'ble Supreme court held that the remedy of a person unsuccessful under Section 6 of the Act is to file a regular suit establishing his title to the suit property and in the event of his succeeding, he will be entitled to recover the possession of the property notwithstanding the adverse decision under Section 6 of the Act. It was further clarified that the remedy of filing a revision is available but that is only by way of an exception; for the High Court would not interfere with a decree or order under Section 6 of the Act except in a case for interference being made out within the well settled parameters of the exercise of revisional jurisdiction under Section 115 of the Code. It is apt to reproduce para-4 of the judgment which reads thus:-

> "4. A suit under Section 6 of the Act is often called a summary suit inasmuch as the enquiry in the suit under Section 6 is confined to finding out the possession and dispossession within a period of six months from the date of the institution of the suit ignoring the question of title. Sub-section (3) of Section 6 provides that no appeal shall lie from any order or decree passed in any suit instituted under this Section. No review of any such order or decree is permitted. The remedy of a person unsuccessful in a suit under Section 6 of the Act is to file a regular suit establishing his title to the suit property and in the event of his succeeding he will be entitled to recover possession of the property notwithstanding the adverse decision under Section 6 of the Act. Thus, as against a decision under Section 6 of the Act, the remedy of unsuccessful party is to file a suit based on title. The remedy of filing a revision is available but that is only by way of an exception; for the High Court would not interfere with a decree or order under Section 6 of the Act except on a case for interference being made out within the well settled parameters of the exercise of revisional jurisdiction under Section 115 of the Code."

11. In ITC Limited versus Adarsh Cooperative Housing Society Limited (2013) 10 SCC 169, the Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated that the suit under Section 6 of the Act was summary in nature for recovery of possession of property from which one claims to have been illegally dispossessed. It was held that in a suit under Section 6 of the Act the entitlement of the plaintiff to recover possession of property from which he claims to have been illegally dispossessed has to be adjudicated independently of the question of title that may be set up by the defendant in such a suit. Infact in a suit under Section 6 of the Act, the only question that has to be determined by the Court is: whether the plaintiff was in possession of the disputed property and he had been illegally dispossessed therefrom on any date within six months prior to the filing of the suit? It was further held that the decision of the Court under Section 6 is not open for appeal or review but a small window by way of revision has been kept open by the Legislature possibly to enable the High Court to have a second look in the matter in an exceptional situation, though the High Court would not interfere with a decree or order under Section 6 of the Act except on a case for interference having been made out within the well settled parameters of the exercise of revisional jurisdiction under Section 115 of the Code. It is apt to reproduce the following observations:-

> "9. Section 6 of the Specific Relief Act 1963 under which provision of law the suit in question was filed by the respondent-plaintiff is in pari materia with Section 9 of the 1877 Act. A bare reading of the provisions contained in Section 6 of the 1963 Act would go to show that a person who has been illegally dispossessed of his immovable property may himself or through any person claiming through him recover such possession by filing a suit. In such a suit, the entitlement of the plaintiff to recover possession of property from which he claims to have been illegally dispossessed has to be adjudicated independently of the question of title that may be set up by the defendant in such a suit. In fact, in a suit under Section 6, the only question that has to be determined by the Court is: whether the plaintiff was in possession of the disputed property and he had been illegally dispossessed therefrom on any date within six months prior to the filing of the suit? This is because Section 6 (2) prescribes a period of six months from the date of dispossession as the outer limit for filing of a suit. As the question of possession and illegal dispossession therefrom is the only issue germane to a suit under Section 6, a proceeding thereunder, naturally, would partake the character of a summary proceeding against which the remedy by way of appeal or review has been specifically excluded by sub-section (3) of Section 6. Sub-Section (4) also makes it clear that an unsuccessful litigant in a suit under Section 6 would have the option of filing a fresh suit for recovery of possession on the basis of title, if any.
> 10. In fact, the above view has found expression in several pronouncements of this Court of which reference may be made to the decisions in Lallu Yashwant Singh v. Rao Jagdish Singh AIR 1968 SC 620, Krishna Ram Mahale v. Shobha Venkat Rao (1989) 4 SCC 131 and Sanjay Kumar Pandey v. Gulabahar Sheikh (2004) 4 SCC 464. In fact, para 4 of this Court's judgment passed in Sanjay Kumar Pandey (supra) may be a useful reiteration of the law in this regard. The same is, therefore, extracted hereinbelow: (SCC p. 665)
>> *"4. A suit under Section 6 of the Act is often called a summary suit inasmuch as the enquiry in the suit under Section 6 is confined to finding out the possession and dispossession within a period of six months from the date of the institution of the suit ignoring the question of title. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case.

12. The only question that has to be determined by this Court is whether the plaintiff was in possession of the disputed property and has been illegally dispossessed therefrom on any date within six months prior to filing of the suit.

13. It is vehemently argued by Shri R.K.Bawa, Senior Advocate, assisted by Shri Jeevesh Sharma, Advocate, that the findings recorded by the learned Court below are perverse inasmuch as it has failed to take into consideration the pleadings as also oral and documentary evidence led before it. It is argued that once the plaintiff has placed and proved on record Power of Attorney Ex.PW-1/A, lease deed dated 23.04.1996 Ex.PW-1/B, then there was no option available with the learned Court below but to have decreed the suit, as prayed for. On the other hand, Shri Kulbhushan Khajuria, Advocate, has argued that the findings recorded by the learned Court below are in tune with the facts and law and, therefore, should be upheld as it is.

14. The plaintiff in support of his claim had examined five witnesses, but none of these witnesses, has really been able to prove the possession of the plaintiff. Though, the plaintiff would heavily rely upon the Power of Attorney and the lease deed executed in his favour but those at best can only establish some sort of title which he may have or may have been conferred with. Even, the plaintiff while examining himself as PW-2 has not specifically named the person who had given possession of the suit property and has further led no evidence as to when and in whose presence the possession had infact been delivered. Even, the lease deed Ex.PW-2/A which has been heavily relied upon by the plaintiff does not reflect the exact date of delivery of possession.

15. Moreover, it is the specific case of the plaintiff that he had paid a sum of Rs.2,60,640/- to the Attorney of the defendant, who in turn, had issued the receipt qua the same, but wherefrom such huge amount of money has come is a mystery as the plaintiff has led no evidence whatsoever to prove this fact.

16. Though, the plaintiff would rely upon the testimony of PW-3 Ram Krishan but even his statement does not in any manner improve the case of the plaintiff for the simple reason that this witness had only carried out some repair and renovation of the premises at the time when the possession of the same was admittedly that of the defendant. This witness nowhere states about the plaintiff ever being in possession or having been put in possession of the suit property.

17. Another factor which makes me wonder is that in case the plaintiff was actually in possession of the suit property and had infact been dispossessed therefrom, then what prevented him from lodging a complaint to this effect with the local police.

18. Even otherwise, the neighbours, more particularly, the shopkeepers of the adjoining premises who could have been the best witnesses qua the possession of the plaintiff have also not been examined constraining this Court to draw an adverse inference as the best evidence has been deliberately withheld from the Court.

19. Moreover, even the documents upon which heavy reliance is being placed by the plaintiff like Power of Attorney, lease deed etc. do not in any way prove or establish the possession of the plaintiff.

20. This Court has already observed that it is only concerned with the question of possession in which the title, at this stage, is not of much relevance. The learned Court below while dismissing the suit has not only discussed the pleadings, but has also correctly evaluated the evidence led by the respective parties which findings cannot in any manner be termed to be perverse, based on misreading and misappreciation of evidence on record.

21. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find no merit in this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed. However, this will not prevent the aggrieved party i.e. plaintiff from filing a regular suit establishing his title to the suit property, notwithstanding the decision in the instant petition.

22. Needless to say that the suit if and when filed by the plaintiff shall be considered strictly in accordance with the pleadings and evidence therein and the trial Court shall not be influenced by the findings rendered either by the trial Court or this Court in these proceedings.

23. The petition is accordingly disposed of alongwith all pending application(s), if any, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

Decided on: 8.7.2016

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 24- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for declaration pleading that he is exclusive owner in possession of the suit land- defendants had moved an application for correction of dimension, which was allowed without affording any opportunity of being heard to the plaintiff - defendants pleaded that dimensions were changed at the instance of the plaintiff – order was passed after affording an opportunity to the plaintiff- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed- it was held that Civil Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit- held, in appeal that once court had come to the conclusion that it lacked inherent jurisdiction, it should have passed an order of return of the plaint for presentation before appropriate forum- appeal allowed and plaint ordered to be returned for presentation before appropriate Court. (Para- 7 to 13)

Case referred:

Kanwar Singh Saini Vs. High Court of Delhi (2012) 4 SCC 307

For the Appellants	:	Mr.Sanjeev Kuthiala, Advocate.
For the Respondent	:	Mr.N.K.Thakur,Senior Advocate With Mr. Surinder Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan J.(Oral)

Plaintiff is the appellant who is aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by learned District Judge, Una, whereby he reversed the findings rendered by the learned trial court and dismissed the suit filed by the plaintiff.

2. Brief facts leading to filing of the appeal are that the plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as 'Appellant') filed suit for declaration on the ground that the suit land was jointly owned by him along with respondents-defendants No.2 and 3. He claimed to be in exclusive possession of the same and had averred that defendant No.1 had no right, title and interest over the suit land, who otherwise was owner of the adjoining land. He had moved an application before the Settlement Collector seeking corrections of 'Karukans' of Aks Shajra which was carried out by the Settlement Officer, but without affording any opportunity of being heard to the plaintiff. This order was questioned as being not tenable in the eyes of law and declaration to this effect was sought along with prayer for permanent injunction.

3. The defendant/respondent contested the suit by filing written statement in which preliminary objections regarding maintainability, cause of action, estoppel, jurisdiction etc. were raised. On merits, it was denied that the suit land was owned by the plaintiff and defendants 2 and 3 and even the exclusive possession of the plaintiff was disputed. It was contended that it was the plaintiff who changed the 'Karukans' in connivance with the settlement staff, resultantly area of the land of defendant in khasra No. 626 was decreased. When this fact came to his notice, he moved an application for correction of 'Karukans' and after affording an opportunity of being heard to the affected parties, Settlement Officer passed the aforesaid order.

4. The following issues came to be framed by the learned trial court:

"1. Whether the plaintiff and proforma defendants No.2 and 3 are joint owners and plaintiff is in exclusive possession of suit land as alleged ? OPP.

2. Whether mutation No.198 dated 26.8.97 on the basis of order passed by S.O. Settlement Circle Kangra at Dharamshala dated 27.6.1997 is illegal, null and void as alleged? OPP.

3. If issue No.1 & 2 are proved in affirmative whether plaintiff is entitled for relief of permanent injunction as alleged? OPP.

4. Whether plaintiff is estopped by his act and conduct to file present suit? OPD.

5. Whether suit of plaintiff is not maintainable in present form as alleged? OPD.

6. Whether plaintiff has no enforceable cause of action against defendant as alleged? OPD.

7. Whether this court has no jurisdiction to try the present suit as alleged? OPD.

8. Relief."

5. After recording the evidence and evaluating the same, suit of the plaintiff was decreed, constraining the defendant to file appeal before the learned first appellate court, who vide his judgment and decree dated 6.5.2014 reversed the findings of the learned trial court by concluding that the civil court had no jurisdiction to try the suit of the present nature.

6. It is against this judgment and decree that the appellant has filed the present appeal by invoking Section 100 of the CPC.

7. On 20.4.2005, the appeal came to be admitted, but without framing any substantial questions of law. However, today, with the consent of the parties, appeal is admitted on the following substantial question of law.

"4. Whether upon returning the findings that the court has no jurisdiction, it is right and proper that such court should order the return of plaint to be presented before proper Forum in accordance with provisions of order 7 Rule 10 CPC instead of rejecting the plaint and dismissing the suit and where such procedure has not been followed, whether such orders can stand judicial scrutiny?"

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through material available on record.

8. I really wonder why learned first appellate court ventured to record findings on merits of the case, after it had come to the conclusion that the civil court lacked inherent jurisdiction to entertain much less decide the case.

9. The position of law regarding conferment of jurisdiction has been dealt with by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kanwar Singh Saini Vs. High Court of Delhi (2012) 4 SCC 307 and the same was summed up in the following manner:

> "22. There can be no dispute regarding the settled legal proposition that conferment of jurisdiction is a legislative function and it can neither be conferred with the consent of the parties nor by a superior court, and if the court passes order/decree having no jurisdiction over the matter, it would amount to a nullity as the matter goes to the roots of the cause. Such an issue can be raised at any belated stage of the proceedings including in appeal or execution. The finding of a court or tribunal becomes irrelevant and unenforceable/inexecutable once the forum is found to have no jurisdiction. Acquiescence of a party equally should not be permitted to defeat the legislative animation. The court cannot derive jurisdiction apart from the statute. (Vide: The United Commercial Bank Ltd. v. Their Workmen AIR 1951 SC 230; Smt. Nai Bahu v. Lal Ramnarayan & Ors., AIR 1978 SC 22; Natraj Studios Pvt. Ltd. v. Navrang Studio & Anr., AIR 1981 SC 537; Sardar Hasan Siddiqui & Ors. v. State Transport Appellate Tribunal, U.P., Lucknow & Ors. AIR 1986 All. 132; A.R. Antulay v. R.S. Nayak & Anr., AIR 1988 SC 1531; Union of India & Anr. v. Deoki Nandan Aggarwal, AIR 1992 SC 96; Karnal Improvement Trust, Karnal v. Prakash Wanti (Smt.) (Dead) & Anr., (1995) 5 SCC 159; U.P. Rajkiya Nirman Nigam Ltd. v. Indure Pvt. Ltd. & Ors., AIR 1996 SC 1373; State of Gujarat v. Rajesh Kumar Chimanlal Barot & Anr., AIR 1996 SC 2664; Kesar Singh & Ors. v. Sadhu, (1996) 7 SCC 711; Kondiba Dagadu Kadam v. Savitribai Sopan Gujar & Ors., AIR 1999 SC 2213; and Collector of Central Excise, Kanpur v. Flock (India) (P) Ltd., Kanpur, AIR 2000 SC 2484).
> 23 When a statute gives a right and provides a forum for adjudication of rights, remedy has to be sought only under the provisions of that Act. When an Act creates a right or obligation and enforces the performance thereof in a specified manner, "that performance cannot be enforced in any other manner". Thus for enforcement of a right/obligation under a statute, the only remedy available to the person aggrieved is to get adjudication of rights under the said Act. (See: Doe d. Rochester (BP) v. Bridges, 109 ER 1001; Barraclough v. Brown, 1897 AC 615; The Premier Automobiles Ltd. v. K.S.Wadke & Ors., AIR 1975 SC 2238; and Sushil Kumar Mehta v. Gobind Ram Bohra (Dead) thr. L.Rs., (1990) 1 SCC 193).

10. In pure legal theory, ' jurisdiction, as meaning 'power to decide' or 'competence to decide' a cause or subjects can be conferred on a court, tribunal or an authority as is the case only by the Constitution of the country or by a law made by a competent legislature and not by the act or consent of parties. When a court, tribunal or an authority has not been invested with jurisdiction, meaning 'the power to decide' or 'competence to decide' but still decides a matter, it is outside its jurisdiction or in excess of its jurisdiction and that cannot be cured by the Act or consent of parties.

11. Rubinstein clearly explains this principle neatly in his Treatise 'jurisdiction and illegality' in these word:

> 'Want of jurisdiction denotes action taken beyond the sphere allotted to the Tribunal by law and, therefore, outside the area within which the law recognizes a privilege to err. Furthermore, want of jurisdiction is regarded as usurpation of power unwarranted by law. Consequently, it is considered so radical a defect that it cannot be cured by the acquiescence or consent of the parties concerned. Jurisdiction does not originate in the consent of the parties and cannot be re-established, where it is absent, by such consent or acquiescence. Being independent of the parties' behaviour, want of jurisdiction can be raised by any person wherever the resulting act is relied upon.
> These symptoms are generally accepted as characterizing want of jurisdiction. Accordingly, as will be seen later, bias cannot be considered as going to jurisdiction since it is a defect which can be waived and which cannot be raised by the person who 'benefited' by the alleged bias.

Nevertheless, as one would suspect, this rule is not without its exceptions. In certain circumstances, a party may be precluded by his behaviour, from raising an objection to jurisdiction, though, admittedly, such an objection would have nullified the disputed proceedings. The courts have not evolved, with regard to this matter, a general guiding principle. A distinction is sometimes made between total or general want of jurisdiction, which cannot be cured by consent and acquiescence and other jurisdiction defects which can be thus cured. General want of jurisdiction is taken to relate to the subject-matter over which the tribunal has jurisdiction, but, this distinction has never been clearly formulated."

12. A case of inherent want of jurisdiction can be set up at any stage of the proceedings. But, an irregularity in the exercise of jurisdiction cannot be set up at any and every stage of the proceedings.

13. Therefore, once the learned lower appellate court had come to the conclusion that it lacked inherent jurisdiction, then the only course open to it was to have returned the plaint to be presented before the proper Forum in accordance with the provisions of order 7 Rule 10 CPC and in no event could the suit have been dismissed for want of jurisdiction that too after venturing to go into the merits of the same.

14. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find merit in this appeal and the same is accordingly allowed. Learned Trial court is directed to return the plaint to be presented before proper Forum. It is made clear that in case the plaint is presented before the proper Forum-Authority within a period of 30 days, then the entire period spent in this litigation will not come in the way of the appellant and the same would be set off and condoned by the authority by exercising its powers under Section 14 of the Limitation Act.

With these observations, appeal is allowed, as aforesaid, leaving the parties to bear their costs.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as nine witnesses. The accused were also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. According to them, they were falsely implicated. They also examined six witnesses in defence. The learned trial Court acquitted the accused, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Dy. AG has vehemently argued that the prosecution has proved its case against the accused. On the other hand, M/S Lakshay Thakur and Ashish Verma, Advocates for the respective accused have supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 30.4.2011.

5. We have heard the learned counsel for both the sides and have also gone through the judgment and records of the case carefully.

6. PW-1 HHC Kashmi Ram deposed that on 22.6.2009 he along with other police officials was on patrolling under the supervision of Dy. S.P. Pankaj Sharma (Probationer) in vehicle No. HP-01K-0810 from Anni towarks Kothi. At about 3:00 PM, when they reached at Riun Gaad, Indica Car No. HR-55-CT-0914 was found standing there. The accused were the occupants of the car. HC Pushap Dev suspected that the same might be containing any contraband article and he asked the accused as to why they had stopped their vehicle. Accused replied that their vehicle had developed some snag. Thereafter, HC Pushap Dev apprised the accused of their legal right to be searched either in the presence of a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer. The accused persons opted to be searched by the police officer. Consent memos Ext. PW-1/A, PW-1/B and PW-1/C, respectively were prepared which were witnessed by him and HHC Roshan Lal. HC Pushap Dev sent HHC Roshan Lal to bring independent witnesses but he came back after 10-15 minutes and told that he met two persons who were passing but they refused to be associated as witnesses. HC Pushap Dev joined him and HHC Roshan Lal as witnesses. Personal search of the accused persons was carried out. Nothing incriminating was found. Search memos Ext. PW-1/E, PW-1/F and PW-1/G were signed by the accused and witnesses. The vehicle in which the accused were travelling was also searched. One polythene envelope containing seven packets comprising of transparent polythene was found. Out of these seven packets, 5 packets contained charas in the shape of balls and sticks. The remaining two packets contained opium. Charas was found to be 2 kg. 100 grams and opium weighed 1 kg. 500 grams. Thereafter, charas and opium, so recovered was packed in two packets which were sealed with seal bearing “X”. NCB form in triplicate was filled up by HC Pushap Dev. Specimen of seal Ext. PW-1/H was also obtained. The case property was taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW-1/J. HC Pushap Dev scribed rukka Ext. PW-1/K. The same was handed over to him. Before scribing rukka, HC Pushap Dev took Indica Car No. HR-55-CT-0914 along with its documents and key into possession. He handed over rukka to MHC Anoop Kumar on the basis of which FIR Ext. PW-1/P was registered. In his cross-examination, he deposed that they were on patrolling to Kothi. He specifically deposed that HC Roshan Lal had gone to look for independent witnesses towards Kandaghar side. They had no prior information about the accused persons. He denied the suggestion that Kandaghar was situated at a distance of 100 meters away from the spot. He denied the suggestion that tea shop of Maghu Ram and Krishna was situated at Riun Gaad. He admitted that village Didi was situated at a distance of 2 km. from the spot. He was not sure whether Nallah was at a distance of about 100 feet ahead of village Didi. He also denied the suggestion that the vehicle of the accused persons had broken down at Didi nallah. He denied the suggestion that accused Kuldeep and Sat Pal were brought by the police party from the shop of Veer Singh at village Didi where they were sitting outside the shop. He denied that no charas was recovered from the vehicle. He had come from the spot to the Police Station along with rukka in a taxi. He has admitted that the distance from Riun Gaad to village Didi was about 6 kms.

7. PW-2 HHC Roshan Lal has also corroborated the statement of PW-1 HHC Kashmi Ram, the manner in which the vehicle was intercepted, the accused were apprised of their legal right to be searched either in the presence of a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer and the contraband was recovered. The charas weighed 2 kg. 100 grams and opium weighed 1 kg. 500 grams. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot. He identified his signatures on Ext. P-1 and P-8. The vehicle was also taken into possession. In his cross-examination, he admitted that two persons met him at a distance of about 50 meters from the spot. He did not ask their names nor brought them to the I.O. Village Kandaghar was situated at a distance of about ½ to ¾ kms from the spot. He denied the suggestion that tea stall of Maghu Ram and his wife Krishna was situated at Riun Gaad and the same was in existence for the last about 5 years. He admitted that there was Nulla at a distance of 100 feet from village Didi. He denied the suggestion specifically that on 22.6.2009 the vehicle of the accused persons had broken down at Didi Nalla and its front suspension had come out. The seal which was handed over to him was lost but he did not lodge any report.

8. PW-3 Const. Mukesh deposed that on 23.6.2009 MHC Anoop Kumar handed over to him two sealed parcels sealed with seal bearing impressions "X" and "H" vide RC No. 29/09 along with NCB from and specimen of seal. He delivered the same at FSL Junga on 24.6.2009.

9. PW-4 Const. Beli Ram deposed that on 25.6.2009, he was joined in the investigation. The accused persons demarcated the place from where they had purchased opium and charas. The place was situated below Kothi Batot road. Identification memo Ext. PW-4/A was prepared. In his cross-examination, he denied that Rajesh Mistri was not present with them. He also denied that the vehicle of the accused has broken down in Didi Nullah and the same was standing there on 25.6.2009.

10. PW-5 HC Anoop Kumar testified that on 22.6.2009, HHC Kashmi Ram handed over rukka Ext. PW-1/K to him which was sent from the spot by HC Pushap Dev. FIR Ext. PW-1/P was recorded. HC Pushap Dev presented the case property sealed with impression "X" before him. He being the officiating SHO, resealed the same with impression "H", facsimile of which was fixed by him on NCB form at column No. 9. He also filled in column No. 10 of the NCB form. He deposited the same in the malkhana at Sr. No. 209 vide Ext. PW-5/C. He sent the case property along with the specimen of seal and NCB form to FSL Junga through Const. Mukesh Kumar vide RC No. 29/09.

11. PW-9 HC Pushap Dev testified the manner in which the accused were apprehended while traveling in taxi No. HP-01K-0810. The accused were apprised of their legal right to be searched either in the presence of a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer. Consent memos were prepared, however, the accused opted to be searched before the police. Thereafter, HHC Roshan Lal was sent in search of independent witnesses who came back after 15 minutes and told that he had met two persons but they refused to join as witnesses. He joined HHC Roshan and HHC Kashmi Ram as witnesses. Nothing incriminating was recovered from the personal search of the accused. Thereafter search of the vehicle was conducted. Charas was recovered which weighed 2 kg. 100 grams. The weight of the opium was 1 kg. 500 grams. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot. Rukka was scribed and sent to PS Anni through HHC Kashmi Ram. Indica Car No. HR-55-CT-0914 was taken into possession vide seizure memo Ext. PW-1/L. In his cross-examination, he deposed that they have not taken the driver of the taxi along with them and left him at Anni and the vehicle was driven by their own driver. They did not take the driver of the taxi because the driver of their official vehicle was free. He was told by his superior officer that driver of the taxi may not be taken along with them for the purpose of patrolling. He denied the suggestion that at 3:00 PM on 22.6.2009 he was present in the Court of SDJM, Rampur. The distance from Rampur to Village Didi is about 66 kms. He denied the suggestion that the distance between Rampur and village Didi was 85 kms. He also denied the suggestion that the vehicle of the accused was standing at Didi Nulla near village Didi. The vehicle of the accused was got repaired by their driver by taking mechanic from Anni on the next day. He denied the suggestion that the vehicle was repaired by Ramesh mechanic and brought to the Police Station on 25.6.2009.

12. DW-1 Vir Singh deposed that he was running a shop of Karyana at Village Didi since 1998. On 22.6.2009 at about 6:30 AM, when the was going to his shop, he found one vehicle parked at a distance of 35-40 meters away from his shop. On inquiry made from the occupants of the vehicle, he came to know that the vehicle had broken down. The vehicle was bearing No. HR-55-CT-0914. All the accused persons were present in the vehicle. The accused asked him about the availability of the spare parts of the vehicle to which he told them that the same would be available at Sainj or Nogli. Thereafter, he arranged a vehicle bearing No. HP-2A-0305 belonging to Bhupinder Negi.

13. DW-2 Krishna Devi deposed that she was staying at Riun Nulla where she has also constructed a residential house. During the month of June, 2009, no vehicle went out of order at Riun Nulla nor the police had visited there during that period. The police did not seize any charas at Riun Nulla. In her cross-examination, she admitted that she was running a tea stall on government land. There was no residential house or shops near her tea stall.

14. DW-3 Rajesh Kumar deposed that on 25 or 26th June, 2009, SHO PS Anni and his driver Hem Raj came to him and took him to Didi nulla for repair of vehicle. When he reached at the spot along with the police, Indica Car No. HR-55-CT-0914 was found there. He got that vehicle repaired and thereafter Hem Raj brought that vehicle to PS Ani.

15. DW-6 Ramesh Chand testified that he along with accused Kuldeep and Sat Pal was going to Kullu-Manali in Tata Indica Car No. HR-55-CT-0914 via Banjar. They went on wrong track from Nagan as the topography of the area was not known to them and they went up to village Didi where they came to know that they had taken the wrong track. They turned back their vehicle at village Didi but the same was broken down on 22.6.2009 at 6:30 AM. The front right side suspension arm was broken and axel boot had also come out as a result of which the vehicle did not move. In the meantime Vir Singh Shopkeeper came there and on inquiry made by them from him they came to know that the spare parts of the vehicle were available either at Sainj or at Rampur. Thereafter, Vir Singh shopkeeper arranged a Taxi for him to visit Rampur for purchasing spare parts. He purchased front suspension arm for a sum of Rs. 1950/- vide bill Ext. DW-4/A at Khaneri from one shop and axel boot vide challan Ext. DW-5/A from another shop against payment of Rs. 477/-.

16. The learned trial Court has acquitted the accused on the ground that driver Hem Raj, the material witness, who has driven the taxi No. HP-01K-0810 from Anni towards Kothi, was not examined and independent witnesses, though available were also not associated. The contraband and the Indica car were to be seized by common seizure memo. The vehicle in question was got repaired at Didi as per the version of DW-2 Krishna Devi. There is variance in the timings given by the witness who has taken the rukka to the Police Station and came back and also there is variance in the statement of PW-9 HC Pushap Dev.

17. PW-1 HHC Kashmi Ram deposed that HC Pushap Dev sent HHC Roshan Lal to bring independent witnesses but he came back after 10-15 minutes and told that he met two persons who were passing but they refused to be associated as witnesses. The place was isolated. HC Pushap Dev joined him and HHC Roshan Lal as witnesses. PW-2 HHC Roshan Lal has admitted in his cross-examination that two persons met him at a distance of about 50 meters from the spot. He did not ask their names nor brought them to the I.O. Village Kandaghar was situated at a distance of about ½ to ¾ kms from the spot. PW-9 HC Pushap Dev deposed that HHC Roshan Lal was sent in search of independent witnesses who came back after 15 minutes and told that he had met two persons but they refused to join as witnesses. Thus, it cannot be said that the police has not tried to join independent witnesses. PW-2 HHC Roshan Lal was specifically sent to bring independent witnesses. Though he met two passersby but they refused to be associated as witnesses.

18. The police has gone on patrolling duty in taxi No. HP-01K-0810 from Anni towards Kothi. The police has not taken the taxi driver on patrolling duty to maintain the secrecy. The police has taken their own driver, namely, Hem Raj. The learned trial Court has come to the wrong conclusion that Hem Raj driver was required to be examined as a witness. The fact of the matter is that all the official witnesses have deposed in unison without there being any contradiction that they had gone in taxi No. HP-01K-0810 at Riun Gaad where Indica Car No. HR-55-CT-0914 was intercepted. The accused were also apprised of their legal right to be searched either in the presence of a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer. The contraband was recovered. Hem Raj driver was not a material witness. It is the quality of the witnesses and not a number which should be taken into consideration by the Courts.

19. The learned trial Court has given undue weightage to the statement of DW-3 Rajesh Kumar that he has repaired the vehicle of the accused. The fact of the matter is that the vehicle was found stranded at Riun Gaad near Didi nulla on 22.6.2009. The vehicle of the accused persons, as per the statement of PW-9 HC Pushap Dev, was got repaired by their driver by taking mechanic from Anni on the next day.

20. The vehicle was taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW-1/L. It is not the requirement of law that the entire case property was to be taken into possession vide one seizure memo. The charas and opium were put in separate parcels and sealed in accordance with law vide separate seizure memos. There was no illegality in preparing separate seizure memos while taking charas, opium and car into possession. NCB form was filled in triplicate on the spot. The case property was produced before the competent officer. He resealed the same. It was deposited with MHC Anoop Kumar who sent the same to FSL Junga. The rukka was taken to the Police Station by PW-1 HHC Kashmi Ram. MHC Anoop Kumar has admitted that rukka was brought to him by PW-1 HHC Kashmi Ram on 22.6.2009.

21. The learned Advocates appearing on behalf of respondents have argued that the presence of PW-9 HC Pushap Dev on the spot is doubtful, however, there is no conclusive evidence to this effect. The rukka was taken by PW-1 HHC Kashmi Ram and he has handed over the same to MHC Anoop Kumar. The distance between the Police Station and the spot where accused were apprehended could be covered by PW-1 HHC Kashmi Ram within the time as stated by him. The prosecution witnesses are not supposed to make statements in parrot like manner. There is bound to be some contradiction with the passage of time.

22. The learned trial Court has relied upon the statement of DW-6 Ramesh Chand that he was driving the car and not accused Kuldeep. The statement of DW-6 Ramesh Chand does not inspire confidence. The version given by him that they had lost the way cannot be believed. The statements made by the official witnesses are trustworthy and inspire confidence. The Indica car was owned by accused Ramesh Chand as per Exts. PW-9/A and PW-9/C.

23. Mr. Lakshay Thakur, Advocate has also argued that there is non-compliance of Section 50 of the ND & PS Act. The Court has gone through Exts. PW-1/A, PW-1/B and PW-1/C. The accused were apprised of their legal right to be searched either in the presence of a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer. They have consented to be searched by the police. Thus, there is no violation of Section 50 of the ND & PS Act as well.

24. Accordingly, the prosecution has conclusively proved beyond reasonable doubt the case against the accused persons under Section 18(c) of the ND & PS Act for possession of 1 kg. 500 grams of opium and under Section 20 (b) (ii)(C) of the ND & PS Act for possessing 2 kg 100 grams of charas read with Section 29 of the ND & PS Act for transporting the same.

25. The accused persons were travelling in the same Indica Car No. HR-55-CT-0914 from which the contraband was recovered. The vehicle was used for transporting opium weighing 1 kg. 500 grams and 2 kg. 100 grams of charas. They had purchased the contraband from the area they were travelling and were found in conscious possession of the same on the date when they were apprehended with Indica Car No. HR-55-CT-0914.

26. Consequently, the appeal is allowed. The judgment of the learned trial Court dated 30.4.2011 is set aside. The accused are convicted under Sections 18(c), 20(b)(ii)(C) read with Section 29 of the ND & PS Act and the Indica Car bearing registration No. HR-55-CT-0914 is liable to be confiscated under Section 60 of the Act being used for transporting opium and charas on 22.6.2009. The accused be heard on quantum of sentence on 18.7.2016. The Registry is directed to prepare and sent the production warrants to the quarter concerned. Bail bonds are cancelled.

For the appellants: Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Additional Advocate General, with Ms. Parul Negi, Deputy Advocate General.

For the respondent: Mr. Bhupender Gupta, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Janesh Gupta, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. :

By way of the present appeal, the State has challenged the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Additional District Judge, Shimla in Civil Appeal No. 3-R/13 of 2004/01 dated 25.02.2006 vide which, learned Appellate Court has allowed the appeal and set aside the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court and decreed the suit of the plaintiff for recovery of Rs.52,250/- alongwith interest pendente lite and future @ 6% till realization.

2. This appeal was admitted on the following substantial question of law on 21.08.2008:

> "Whether the provision of Section 70 of the Indian Contract Act as discussed by the Ld. Lower Appellate Court is attracted in the facts and circumstances of this case?"

3. Brief facts necessary for the purpose of adjudication of the present case are that the plaintiff filed a suit for recovery of Rs.67,141.25/- on the grounds that the plaintiff was a registered potato grower with the Agriculture Department of Himachal Pradesh and used to sell his produce in the market and he also used to supply the same to the Department on demand. According to him, on the instructions/orders placed by the representatives of District Agricultural Officer, Kinnaur confirmed on telephone by Shri R.S. Verma, District Agriculture Officer, Kinnaur, plaintiff supplied 55 bags of certified seed potato in the month of December, 1998 @ of Rs.950/- per bag to defendant No. 3 at Reckong Peo, District Kinnaur through challan dated 17.12.1998 from Tikkar to Reckong Peo by Truck bearing registration No. HP-51-1535, which was duly received by defendant No. 3. His further case was that the said consignment of 55 bags after being duly received was supplied by the Department to the Growers of Kinnaur District under some Government subsidy Scheme and the value of the said consignment @Rs.950 per bag for 55 bags came to Rs.52,250/-. Despite requests and reminders, the defendant No. 3 did not care to pay the said amount to the plaintiff. It was averred in the plaint that several other crowers had also sent potatoes on demand to defendant No. 3 and out of these growers, about 8 growers had been left high and dry to whom payment had not been made. In these circumstances, the suit was filed by the plaintiff for recovery of the said amount alongwith interest.

4. In the written statement, the defendants denied the case of the plaintiff. As per the defendants, defendant No. 3 never gave any supply order to the plaintiff for the supply of seed potatoes. The plaintiff prepared the challan alongwith bill in the name of defendant No. 3 from Tikkar and unloaded 55 bags of seed potatoes at Bhawanagar of Nichar Block at his own on 17.12.1998, though no supply order had been placed by defendant No. 3. Plaintiff also managed receipt for 55 bags from some grass root level officers of the same station and some other farmers of Shimla District followed the same course which was adopted by the plaintiff and unloaded potatoes at Nichar Block. Defendant No. 3 issued telegrams to those growers, who unloaded the seed potato without any supply order, to lift back their seed potato, but of no avail. This resulted in pilling up of huge quantity of 1006 bags of seed potato in Nichar Block. Out of this, 532 bags of seed potato could be sold by making all out efforts by the defendants and remaining 470 bags got rotten. It was further the case of the defendants that it had become very difficult to identify as to whose consignment was sold and whose had become rotten. In these circumstances, in order to know the factual position, an inquiry was ordered by defendant No. 3 and as per the averments made in the written statement, the decision regarding release of payment of the seed potato could be made after finalization of the said enquiry which was in progress.

5. On the basis of the pleadings of the parties, learned trial Court framed the following issues:

Issue No. 1: Whether the plaintiff is entitled to a decree for the suit amount? OPP

Issue No. 2: Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD

Issue No. 3: Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties? OPD

Issue No. 4: Whether the suit is not within limitation? OPD

Issue No. 5: Whether there was no supply order/contract? If so, its effect? OPD

Issue No. 6: Whether the suit is bad for want of better particulars? OPD

Issue No. 7: Relief.

6. The following findings were returned on the issues so framed by the learned trial Court on the basis of the pleadings of the parties:

Issue No. 1: No.

Issue No. 3: Yes.

Issue No. 4:	No.
Issue No. 5:	Yes.
Issue No. 6:	No.
Issue No. 7:	Suit dismissed.

7. Learned trial Court thus dismissed the suit of the plaintiff after holding that in view of the fact that neither written orders were placed nor potatoes were received by any authorized officer at Bhawanagar, the plaintiff was not entitled to get the payment of potatoes, since for any contract to be entered with the State Government, the same has to be entered with the Governor or with the Officer authorized by the Governor in this behalf and that agreement must be in writing and unless an agreement is in writing, no enforceable agreement can be said to be in existence in between the parties. Learned trial Court also held that any contract between the State and an individual has to be in writing, which is a pre-requisite of Article 299 (1) of the Constitution of India.

8. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by the learned trial Court, the plaintiff filed an appeal. The appeal of the plaintiff was allowed by the Court of learned Additional District Judge, Shimla vide its judgment dated 25.02.2006. Learned Appellate Court held that the absence of contract or order for supply of seed potato is not sufficient to exonerate the defendants from the liability for the payment of the amount, as the defendants after sending telegrams to the plaintiff had retained the proceeds and exercised control over disposal thereof. Learned Appellate Court held that out of 1006 bags received by the plaintiff, the defendants sold 532 bags of seed potato and remaining 474 bags got rotten. The defendants did not bring any material on record to substantiate that the consignment sent by the plaintiff was not sold. It was the own case of the defendants that it was difficult to identify the ownership of the consignment. Learned Appellate Court further held that the seed potato retained by the defendants had been sold by it and, therefore, it did not lie in the mouth of defendants to assert that the plaintiff was not entitled to the payment of the price of the same. It further held that selling of part of the consignment without establishing the identity makes it evident that presumption has to be drawn that the consignment of the plaintiff was also sold by the defendants. Learned Appellate Court also held that in view of the provisions of Section 70 of the Indian Contract Act, the State was bound to make compensation to the plaintiff. Learned Appellate Court further held that the defendants had sent telegrams to many growers, namely Pradeep Ranta, Harender Chauhan, Durga Singh, Krishan Lal, Jitender, Surinder Ranta, Rajinder Paul, Keshav Ram, Purshotam Ranta, Narian Singh, Joginder Singh and Het Ram and afterwards, the defendants had made payments of the amount to S/Sh. Pradeep Ranta, Durga Singh, Krishan Lal, Jatinder, Surinder Ranta, Rajinder Paul, Kashev Ram, Purushotam Ranta, Narian Singh, Partap Singh, Joginder Singh and Het Ram as was evident from the testimony of DW-1 Sh. Sadhu Ram, District Agriculture Officer, Kinnaur. Therefore, as per the learned Appellate Court, it was evident that the defendants had accepted the receipt of consignment of the growers and as such, they were liable to make payment of the bags of seed potato supplied by the plaintiff. Accordingly, learned Appellate Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff for recovery of Rs.52,250/- alongwith interest pendente lite and future @ 6% till realization. These findings returned by the learned Appellate Court are under challenge by way of the present Regular Second Appeal.

9. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by both the learned Courts below.

10. Section 70 of the Indian Contract Act provides as under:

> "70. Obligation of person enjoying benefit of non-gratuitous act.—Where a person lawfully does anything for another person, or delivers anything to him, not intending to do so gratuitously, and such other person enjoys the benefit thereof, the latter is bound to make compensation to the former in respect of, or to restore, the thing so done or delivered.1 —Where a person lawfully does anything for another person, or delivers anything to him, not intending to do so gratuitously, and such other person enjoys the benefit thereof, the latter is bound to make compensation to the former in respect of, or to restore, the thing so done or delivered.

(b) A saves B's property from fire. A is not entitled to compensation from B, if the circumstances show that he intended to act gratuitously. (b) A saves B's property from fire. A is not entitled to compensation from B, if the circumstances show that he intended to act gratuitously."

11. The factum of receipt of 55 bags of seed potato from the plaintiff is not disputed by the defendants. Case of the defendants is that the supply of the said seed bags by the plaintiff was a unilateral act and there was no order placed by the defendants to the plaintiff in this regard. It is further the case of the defendants, as is evident from the contents of the written statement that plaintiff managed receipt of said 55 bags from some grass root level officers who were at the station where said seed bags were supplied. In other words, receipt of the said seed potato bags by the defendants supplied by the plaintiff against receipt is not disputed, but as per the defendants, the receipt was issued by some grass root level officer. It is not the case of the defendants that the receipt was not issued by a Government Officer. It is further evident from the material on record especially the deposition of DW-1 that bags of potato seeds were received by defendant No. 3 not only from the plaintiff but from various other growers in the same mode and manner in which it was received from the plaintiff. In fact, it is the defendants own case that after the consignment of seed potatoes was received, it issued telegrams to the land owners to lift the same and when the same was not lifted, part of it was sold and part of it rotted. It is also apparent and clear from the records of the case that other growers similarly situated as the plaintiff have been duly compensated by the Government and they have been made payments for the supply of said seed potato by the defendants. It is also relevant to refer to the testimony of DW-1 Salu Ram who has stated that payments have been made to land owners named by him in his statement in April, 2001.

12. Therefore, here is a case where produce of the plaintiff and similarly situated land owners after receipt by the defendants was sold by it and money was received by the defendants in lieu of the sale of the same. It is defendants' own case that it was not possible to establish that produce of which land owner had been sold and produce of which land owner was destroyed on account of its getting rotten.

13. In my considered view, learned Appellate Court has rightly decreed the suit of the plaintiff in view of the provisions of Indian Contract Act. The provisions of Section 70 of the Indian Contract Act are in fact attracted in the facts and circumstances of the case, as has been rightly discussed and held by the learned lower Appellate Court.

14. Section 70 of the Contract Act envisages that where a person lawfully does anything for another person, or delivers anything to him, not intending to do so gratuitously, and such other person enjoys the benefit thereof, the latter is bound to make compensation to the former in respect of, or to restore, the thing so done or delivered.

15. In the present case, it stands proved on record that the produce of the plaintiff was received against receipt by the defendants. No material has been produced on record by the defendants to demonstrate that 'grass root officers' who received the consignment of the plaintiff were not authorized to receive the same. Be that as it may, it is the own case of the defendants that part of the produce which was received was sold by it and the remaining part rotted down. It is also the admitted case of the defendants that many owners similarly situated as the plaintiff have been compensated by them by making payments for the seed potatoes supplied by them. In these circumstances, in my considered view, the defendants cannot apply a different yardstick for the plaintiff. The defendants having sold the produce so received from the plaintiff and similarly situated owners are bound to compensate the plaintiff in respect thereof, especially keeping in view the fact that the defendants have already compensated other owners similarly situated as the plaintiff.

16. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mulamchand Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1968 Supreme Court 1218 that a person whose contract is void for noncompliance with Article 299(1) of the Constitution would be entitled to compensation under Section 70 of the Contract Act if he had adduced evidence in support of his claim. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment are quoted hereinbelow:

> "6. In our. opinion,, the reasoning adopted by the trial court and by the High Court for rejecting the claim of the appellant is not correct. It is now well-established that here a contract between the Dominion of India and a private individual is not in the form required by s. 175 (3) of the Government of India Act, 1935, it was void and could not be enforced and therefore the Union of India cannot be sued by a private individual breach of such contract (See the decision in Seth Bikhrai Jaipuria v. Union of India(1). It was stated in that case that under.s. 175(3) of the Government. of India Act, 1935, the contracts had (a) to be expressed to be made by the Governor-General, (b) to be executed on behalf of the Governor-General and (c) to be executed by offcers duly appointed in that behalf and in such manner as the Governor- General directed or authorised. The evidence in the case showed that the contracts were not expressed to be made by the Governor-General add were not executed on his behalf. It was held by this Court that the provisions of s. 175 (3) were mandatory and the contracts were therefore void and not binding on the Union of India which was not liable for damages for breach of the contracts. The same principle was reiterated by this Court in a later case-State of West Bengal v. Mls. B. K. Mondal and ,Sons(2). The principle is that the provisions of s. 175(3) of the Government of India Act, 1935 or the corresponding provisions if Art. 299 (1) of the Constitution of India are mandatory in character and the contravention of these provisions nullifies the contracts and makes them void. There is no question of estoppel Or ratification in such a case. The reason is that the provisions of section 175(3) of the Government of India Act and the corresponding 'provisions of Art. 299 (1) of the Constitution have not been enacted for the sake of mere form but, they have been enacted or safeguarding the Government against unauthorised contracts. 'he provisions are embodied in s.'175(3) of the Government of India Act and Art. 299(1) of the Constitution on the ground of public policy-on the ground of protection of general public and these formalities cannot be waived- or dispensed with. If the plea of the respondent regarding estoppel or ratification is admitted that would mean in effect the repeal of an important constitutional provision intended for the protection of the general public. that is why the plea of estoppel or ratification cannot be permitted in such a case. But if money is deposited and goods are supplied r if services are rendered in terms of the void contract, the provisions of s. 70 of the Indian Contract Act may be applicable. In other words, if the conditions imposed by s. 70 of the Indian- Con-act Act are satisfied then the provisions of that section can be invoked by the aggrieved party ,to the void contract. The first condition is that a person should lawfully do something for another person or deliver something to him; the second condition is that i doing the said thing or delivering the said thing Ike must, not intend to act gratuitously; and the third condition is that the other person for whom something is done or to whom something is delivered must enjoy the benefit thereof. If these conditions are satisfied, s. 70 imposes upon the latter person the liability to make con sensation to the former in respect of, or to restore, the thing done or delivered. The important point to notice is that in a case falling under s. 70

the person doing something for another delivering something to another cannot sue for the specific performance of the contract, nor ask for damages for the breach the contract, for the simple reason that there is no contract between him and the other person for whom he does something to whom he delivers something. So where a claim for compensation is made by one person against another under s. 70, it is not on the basis of any subsisting contract between the parties but a different kind of obligation. The juristic basis of the obligation in such a case is not founded upon any contract or tort but upon a third category of law, namely, quasi contract or restitution. 1' Fibrosa v. Fairbairn(1) Lord Wright has stated the legal position as follows "............ any civilised system of law is bound to provide remedies for cases of that has been called unjust enrichment or unjust benefit, that is, to prevent a man from retaining the money of, or some benefit derived from, another which it is against conscience that he should keep. Such remedies in English Law are generally different from remedies in contract or in tort, and are now recognised to fall within a third category of the common law which has been called quasi-contract or restitution."

7. In Nelson v. Larholt (2) Lord Denning has observed as follows:

"It is no longer appropriate to draw a distinction between law and equity. Principles have. now to be stated in the light of their combined effect. Nor is it necessary to canvass the niceties of the old forms of action. Remedies now depend on the substance of the right, not on whether they can be fitted into a particular framework. The right here is not peculiar to equity or contract or tort, but falls naturally within the important category of cases where the court orders restitution if the justice of the case so requires."

17. The five Judges Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of West Bengal Vs. B.K. Mondal and sons, AIR 1962 Supreme Court 779 has held as under:

"14. It is plain that three conditions must be satisfied before this section can be invoked. The first condition is that a person should lawfully do something for another person or deliver something to him. The second condition is that in doing the said thing or delivering the said thing he must not intend to act gratuitously; and the third is that the other person for whom something is done or to whom something is delivered must enjoy the benefit thereof. When these conditions are satisfied s. 70 imposes upon the latter person, the liability to make compensation to the former in respect of or to restore, the thing so done or delivered. In appreciating the scope and effect of the provisions of this section it would be useful to illustrate how this section it would operate. If a person delivers something to another it would be open to the latter person to refuse to accept the thing or to return it; in that case s.70 would not come in to operation. Similarly, if a person does something for another it would be open to the latter person not to accept what has been done by the former; in that case again s. 70 would not apply. In other words, the person said to be made liable under s. 70 always has the option not to accept the thing or to return it. It is only where he voluntarily accepts the thing or enjoys the work done that the liability under s.70 arises.

16. It is true that s. 70 requires that a person should lawfully do something or lawfully deliver something to another. The word "lawfully" is not a surplus age and must be treated as an essential part of the requirement of s. 70. What then does the word "lawfully" in s. 70 denote? Mr. Sen contends that the word "lawfully" in s. 70 must be read in the light of s. 23 of the said Act; and he argues that a thing cannot be said to have been done lawfully if the doing of it is forbidden by law. However, even if this test is applied it is not possible to hold that the delivery of a thing or a doing of a thing the acceptance and enjoyment of which gives rise to a claim for compensation under s. 70 is forbidden by s.

175(3) of the Act; and so the interpretation of the word "lawfully" suggested by Mr. Sen does not show that s.70 cannot be applied to the facts in the present case.

17. Another argument has been placed before us on the strength of the word "lawfully" and that is based upon the observations of Mr. Justice Straight in Chedi Lal v. Bhagwan Dass (1). Dealing with the construction of s. 70 Straight, J., observed: "I presume that the legislature intended something when it used the word "lawfully" and that it had in contemplation cases in which a person held such a relation to another as either directly to create or by implication reasonably to justify an inference that by some act done for another person the party doing the act was entitled to look for compensation for it to the person for whom it was done." It is urged that in the light of this test it cannot be said that the respondent held such a relation to the appellant as to be able to claim compensation from the appellant. With respect, we are not satisfied that the test laid down by Straight, J., can be said to be justified by the terms of s. 70. It is of course true that between the person claiming compensation and person against whom it is claimed some lawful relationship must subsist, for that is the implication of the use of the word "lawfully" in s. 70; but the said lawful relationship arises not because the party claiming compensation has done something for the party against whom the compensation is claimed but because what has been done by the former has been accepted and enjoyed by the latter. It is only when the latter accepts and enjoys what is done by the former that a lawful relationship arises between the two and it is the existence of the said lawful relationship which gives rise to the claim for compensation. This aspect of the matter has not been properly brought into the picture when Straight, J., laid down the test on which Mr. Sen's argument is based. If the said test is literally applied then it is open to the comment that if one person is entitled by reason of the relationship as therein contemplated to receive compensation from the other s. 70 would be hardly necessary. Therefore, in our opinion, all that the word "lawfully" in the context indicates is that after something is delivered or something is done by one person for another and that thing is accepted and enjoyed by the latter, a lawful relationship is born between the two which under the provisions of s. 70 gives rise to a claim for compensation."

18. It has been reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India Vs. Sita Ram Jaiswal, AIR 1977 Supreme Court 329 that in order to attract the provisions of Section 70 of the Act, it has to be proved that the goods are delivered lawfully or anything has to be done for another person lawfully, the thing done or the goods delivered is so done or delivered "not intending to do so gratuitously" and the person to whom the goods are delivered "enjoys the benefit thereof."

19. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held in K.S. Satyanarayana Vs. V.R. Narayana Rao (1999) 6 Supreme Court Cases 104 that where a person got money not intended to receive it gratuitously, then that person is liable to return the same.

20. In Sahakari Khand Udyog Mandal Ltd. Vs. Commissioner of Central Excise & Customs (2005) 3 Supreme Court Cases 738, it has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that no person can be allowed to enrich himself inequitably at the expense of another and that a right of recovery under the doctrine of "unjust enrichment" arises where retention of a benefit is considered contrary to justice or against equity.

21. In my considered view, in view of discussion held above, the provisions of Section 70 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 are attracted in the facts and circumstances of the case and the findings returned in this regard by the learned Appellate Court are in consonance with the law as declared by the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India as applied on the facts of the present case and I agree with the same. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

22. Thus, there is neither any perversity nor any infirmity with the judgment and decree passed by the learned first Appellate Court and the same is accordingly confirmed and the present appeal being devoid of any merit is dismissed.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Rajiv Sharma, Judge:

The State has come in appeal against Judgment dated 28.11.2011 rendered by the learned Special Judge, Fast Track Court, Kullu, HP in Sessions Trial No. 21 of 2011, whereby respondents-accused (hereinafter referred to as 'accused' for convenience sake), who were charged with and tried for offence under Sections 20 and 29 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act' for convenience sake), have been acquitted by the learned trial Court.

2. Prosecution case, in a nutshell, is that on 2.3.2011 at 6.30 AM, Incharge PP Jari Dheeraj Singh was present at Suma Chalon in connection with patrolling and Nakabandi duty. In the meantime, a Scorpio Jeep having registration No. HR-18E-0014 green in colour came from Manikaran side. ASI Dheeraj Singh signalled the jeep to stop. Police asked for the documents of jeep. Occupants of the vehicle became perplexed and were reluctant to show the documents. Police suspected that the accused might be carrying some stolen article in the jeep. Driver of the jeep disclosed his name as Nazar Khan, person sitting beside driver disclosed his name as Sahil and third accused who was sitting in the rear seat disclosed his name as Raj Kapoor. Police found one blanket bag and a carry bag in the boot compartment of the jeep. Police noticed that accused sitting in the rear seat was carrying a carry bag on his lap. Occupants of jeep could not give a satisfactory answer to the query raised by the police. Police waited for 15 minutes for some passersby or for another vehicle so that independent witnesses could be associated. The place was isolated. No vehicle or inhabitant crossed at that point of time. Two officials of Naka party were associated as witnesses. Police personnel gave their search to the accused. Thereafter they conducted search of the vehicle. Carry bag in the lap of Raj Kapoor was checked. It contained clothes i.e. jean pants, T-shirt and a shirt. Under these clothes, packets, yellow, khaki and soil coloured were found. These packets were opened. Black coloured material wrapped in transparent polythene papers, rectangular in shape was recovered. It was found to be Charas. It weighed 4.5 kg. Charas and clothes were put back in carry bag and carry bag was wrapped in a piece of cloth. Pullinda was sealed with eight impressions of seal 'H'. Accused Raj Kapoor disclosed to the police that 2 kg Charas belonged to Nazar Khan, 1.5 kg Charas belonged to Sahil and rest 1 kg Charas was his own. IO sent Rukka to the Police Station through Constable Kuldeep Kumar on the basis of which FIR was registered. Case property was produced before SHO Sher Singh by the IO, who resealed the parcel with three seals of seal impression 'T'. Case property was deposited in the Malkhana. Case property was sent to FSL Junga for chemical analysis. Investigation was completed. Challan was put in the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. Prosecution has examined as many as eight witnesses to prove its case against the accused. Accused were also examined under Section 313 CrPC. They denied the prosecution case in its entirety. Their specific defence was that they had an altercation with the police at Jari Bazaar during traffic checking. Police took them to Police Station on 1.3.2011 and obtained their signatures on blank papers. Learned trial Court acquitted all the accused. Hence, this appeal by the State.

He admitted that he did not send any official to search for independent witnesses. However, fact of the matter is that he waited for 15 minutes. Sanjha Chula was about 700 metres from Suma Chalon. The walking distance from Sanjha Chula to Suma Chalon was about 10-15 minutes. He admitted that village Dhunkra was situate in between Sanjha chula and PP Jari having residential abadi on both side of the road. Village Sumo Ropa was about 1 km from Suma Chalon. He admitted that Suma Ropa was thickly populated having NHPC stores where security personnel always remained deputed.

Sanjha Chula was 700-800 metres from Suma Chalon. Walking distance from Sanjha Chula to Suma Chalon was about 10-15 minutes. He also admitted that village Dhunkra was situate in between Sanjha chula and PP Jari having residential abadi on both side of the road.

14. Accused were apprehended at 6.30 AM in the morning hours on 2.3.2011. It was dark at that time. Place where accused were apprehended, was isolated. Police has waited for 15 minutes for the independent witnesses. Since independent witnesses were not available, official witnesses were joined as witnesses. Distance of Sanjha Chula and PP Jari was 1 km. Village Dhunkra and restaurant Sanjha Chula were also not in the close proximity from the place where accused were apprehended while travelling in jeep.

15. Statements of official witnesses are trustworthy and inspire confidence. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Karamjit Singh vs. State (Delhi Administration), reported in AIR 2003 SC 1311, have held that there is no principle of law that without corroboration by independent witnesses their testimony cannot be relied upon. Presumption that person acts honestly applies as much in favour of police personnel as of other persons. It has been held as follows:

> " 8. Shri Sinha, learned senior counsel for the appellant, has vehemently urged that all the witnesses of recovery examined by the prosecution are police personnel and in absence of any public witness, their testimony alone should not be held sufficient for sustaining the conviction of the appellant. In our opinion the contention raised is too broadly stated and cannot be accepted. The > testimony of police personnel should be treated in the same manner as testimony of any other witness and there is no principle of law that without corroboration by independent witnesses their testimony cannot be relied upon. The presumption that a person acts honestly applies as much in favour of police personnel as of other persons and it is not a proper judicial approach to distrust and suspect them without good grounds. It will all depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and no principle of general application can be laid down. PW11 Pratap Singh has clearly stated in the opening part of his examination-in-chief that ACP Shakti Singh asked some public witnesses to accompany them but they showed their unwillingness. PW10 Rajinder Prasad, SI has given similar statement and has deposed that despite their best efforts no one from public was willing to join the raiding party due to the fear of the terrorists. Exactly similar statement has been given by PW9 R.D. Pandey. We should not forget that the incident took place in November 1990, when terrorism was at its peak in Punjab and neighbouring areas. The ground realities cannot be lost sight of that even in normal circumstances members of public are very reluctant to accompany a police party which is going to arrest a criminal or is embarking upon search of some premises. At the time when the terrorism was at its peak, it is quite natural for members of public to have avoided getting involved in a police operation for search or arrest of a person having links with terrorists. It is noteworthy that during the course of the cross- examination of the witness the defence did not even give any suggestion as to why they were falsely deposing against the appellant. There is absolutely no material or evidence on record to show that the prosecution witnesses had any reason to falsely implicate the appellant who was none else but a colleague of theirs being a member of the same police force. Therefore, the contention raised by Shri Sinha that on account of non-examination of a public witness, the testimony of the prosecution witnesses who are police personnel, should not be relied upon has hardly any substance and cannot be accepted."

16. Accused were travelling in the same jeep, from which contraband was recovered. They have hatched criminal conspiracy to buy Charas from one area and to transport the same to outside State. It is not the case of the accused that they were not known to each other. Rather, Raj Kapoor (accused) has, during the course of investigation stated that 2 kg Charas belonged to Nazar Khan, 1.5 kg Charas belonged to Sahil and rest 1 kg was his own.

17. Mr. Ajay Sharma and Mr. Vishwa Bhushan, Advocates, have argued that a number of vehicles passed through. Court can take judicial note of the fact that persons are generally not agreeable to become witnesses since everybody is in a hurry. Defence version that they were falsely implicated due to altercation at Jari Bazaar, can not be believed. Police has completed all the codal formalities at the spot. Contraband was produced before competent officer. He resealed the same. It was sent to FSL. Report of FSL is Ext. PW-5/D. Contraband was found to be Charas.

18. Learned trial Court has erred in law by relying upon judgment in case of Sunil Kumar v. State of H.P. (Latest HLJ 2010 (HP) 207) as the same has been overruled by this Court in the case of State of H.P. vrs. Mehboon Khan and analogous matters, reported in Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) (FB) 900. The Full Bench of this Court has categorically held that there is no legal requirement of the presence of particular percentage of resin to be there in the sample and the presence of the resin in purified or crude form is sufficient to hold that the sample was that of Charas. It has been held as follows:

> "………….The separated resin is cannabis resin not only when it is in 'purified' form, but also when in 'crude' form or still mixed with other parts of the plant. Therefore, the resin mixed with other parts of the plant i.e. in 'crude' form is also charas within the meaning of the Convention and the Legislature in its wisdom has never intended to exclude the weight of the mixture i.e. other parts of the plant in the resin unless or until such mixture proves to be some other neutral substance and not that of other parts of the cannabis plant. Once the expert expressed the opinion that after conducting the required tests, he found the resin present in the stuff and as charas is a resinous mass and after conducting tests if in the opinion of the expert, the entire mass is a sample of charas, no fault can be found with the opinion so expressed by the expert nor would it be appropriate to embark upon the admissibility of the report on any ground, including non-mentioning of the percentage of tetrahydrocannabinol or resin contents in the sample…………

f. We are also not in agreement with the findings recorded by the Division Bench in Sunil's case that " mere presence of tetrahydrocannabinol and cystolithic hair without there being any mention of the percentage of tetrahydrocannabinol in a sample of charas is not an indicator of the entire stuff analyzed to be charas" for the reason that the statute does not insist for the presence of percentage in the stuff of charas and mere presence of tetrahydrocannabinol along with cystolithic hair in a sample stuff is an indicator of the same being the resin of cannabis plant because the cystolithic hair are present only in the cannabis plant. When after observing the presence of tetrahydrocannabinol and cystolithic hair, the expert arrives at a conclusion that the sample contains the resin contents, it is more than sufficient to hold that the sample is of charas and the view so expressed by the expert normally should be honoured and not called into question. Of course, neutral material which is not obtained from cannabis plant cannot be treated as resin of the cannabis plants. The resin rather must have been obtained from the cannabis plants may be in 'crude' form or 'purified' form. In common parlance charas is a hand made drug made from extract of cannabis plant. Therefore, any mixture with or without any neutral material of any of the forms of cannabis is to be considered as a contraband article. No concentration and percentage of resin is prescribed for 'charas' under the Act.."

19. Prosecution has proved beyond reasonable doubt that the contraband was recovered from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused.

20. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. Judgment dated 28.11.2011 rendered by the learned Special Judge, Fast Track Court, Kullu, HP in Sessions Trial No. 21 of 2011 is set aside. The accused are convicted for offences punishable under Sections 20 and 29 of the Act. Accused be produced to be heard on quantum of sentence on 18.7.2016. Bail bonds of accused are cancelled.

21. Registry is directed to prepare and send the production warrant to the quarter concerned.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE VIVEK SINGH THAKUR, J.

Bidhi Chand …….Petitioner

Versus

Vinod Kumar and another ……Respondents

Cr. Revision No. 109 of 2008

Decided on : 11.07.2016.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 391- An application was filed to bring on record the fact that petitioner had issued number of cheques including cheque in question in furtherance of agreement which was relied upon in the subsequent complaint- petitioner wanted to place on record complaint and agreement filed by the respondent in subsequent case, which was rejected – held, that no suggestion was given to the witnesses regarding issuance of cheque for reasons other than those stated in the complaint- additional evidence is not necessary to decide the present case- cheques are not the subject matter of complaint proposed to be placed on record as an additional evidence- additional evidence can not be led to substitute the evidence which has already been led - in absence of any defence or plea additional evidence could not have been led - application was rightly dismissed by the trial Court. (Para- 7 to 9)

Cases referred:
John K. Abraham versus Simon C. Abraham and another, (2014), 2 SCC 236
Anil Hada Versus Indian Acrylic Limited, AIR 2000 SC 145

For the petitioner : Mr.N.K.Thakur Senior, Advocate, with Ms.Jamuna, Advocate.
For the respondent No.1: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondent No.2: Mr. Pankaj Negi, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur, Judge

Petitioner has been convicted by trial court under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act for dishonouring two cheques amounting to Rs.10,000/- each and has been sentenced to pay fine of Rs.25,000/- and in case of default in payment of fine, to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of four months with further directions that on realizing of fine amount an amount of Rs.20,000/- will be paid as compensation to the complainant.

2. Judgment passed by trial Court has been affirmed by learned Sessions Judge by dismissing appeal alongwith application filed by petitioner under Section 391 Cr.P.C. for leading additional evidence. Aggrieved by impugned judgment, present revision petition has been preferred.

3. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused documents on record.

4. Learned counsel for petitioner has submitted that respondent-complainant has failed to prove on record requirement under law in order to draw presumption under Section 118 read with Section 139 of Negotiable Instruments Act. He has relied upon judgment passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Case John K. Abraham versus Simon C. Abraham and another, reported in (2014), 2 Supreme Court Cases 236. Para of the judgment relied upon is being reproduced here-in-below:-

> "9. It has to be stated that in order to draw the presumption under Section 118 read along with 139 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, the burden was heavily upon the complainant to have shown that he had required funds for having advanced the money to the accused; that the issuance of the cheque in support of the said payment advanced was true and that the accused was bound to make the payment as had been agreed while issuing the cheque in favour of the complainant".

5. Another issue raised by petitioner is that respondent-complainant has filed another complaint subsequent to present complaint stating therein that petitioner had issued number of cheques including cheques in question in present case in furtherance to an agreement arrived at between the parties and said the agreement is being relied upon by respondent-complainant in subsequent complaint whereas in present complaint, respondent-complainant has stated that cheques in question were issued against payment of amount credited to petitioner. Petitioner had filed an application under Section 391 Cr.P.C. for leading additional evidence before learned Sessions Judge to place complaint and agreement filed by respondent in subsequent case on record in the interest of justice. However, learned Sessions Judge committing a mistake, has rejected said application without considering the fact that additional evidence proposed to be led was not in knowledge of petitioner as same was received by petitioner with summon of another case served upon him subsequent to 05.08.2006 i.e. date of decision rendered by trial Court in present case. Date of filing of another complaint proposed to be placed on record as additional evidence is 04.09.2006.

6. Learned counsel for respondent-complainant has contended that there is presumption under Section 139 of Negotiable Instruments Act in favour of respondent-complainant. Petitioner-accused has not rebutted the same by leading any evidence. He has relied upon judgment passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in case Anil Hada Versus Indian Acrylic Limited, reported in AIR 2000 SC 145 stating that it was open to petitioner to adduce evidence to rebut said presumption but failure on the part of petitioner to lead any evidence to rebut presumption does not give any right to him to lead additional evidence. He has stated that all essential ingredients as required under law have been proved by and on behalf of the respondent-complainant including sending a registered letter/notice on same address of accused which has been mentioned by him in present petition. He has argued that respondent-complainant has led cogent and reliable evidence on record in his favour, whereas, petitioner has not rebutted the same by choosing not to lead any evidence.

7. From perusal of evidence on record, there is no likelihood of failure of justice in deciding present case without considering the additional evidence proposed to be placed on record. In absence of any evidence led during trial and also without any plea and suggestion to witnesses on behalf of petitioner during trial regarding issuance of cheques for reasons other than stated in complaint, petitioner is not entitled to lead proposed additional evidence. Additional evidence proposed to be led is not necessary to decide present case. Cheques in present case are not subject matter of complaint proposed to be placed on record as additional evidence. Moreover, additional evidence is to be led to substantiate evidence already placed on record or stand taken in defence but in present case, there is no defence taken or evidence led by petitioner during trial as is proposed to be led in additional evidence. The petitioner is proposing to lead evidence on issue which was never his defence or even part of defence.

8. Contention of petitioner that documents supposed to be placed on record were not in his knowledge prior to receiving summon in subsequent complaint is not true as agreement proposed to be placed on record as additional evidence is dated 29.05.2004 which is duly signed by petitioner and cheques mentioned in said agreement are also issued by petitioner. Present complaint was filed on 10.05.2005 and was decided on 05.08.2006. Despite knowledge of agreement dated 29.05.2004 petitioner had neither referred said agreement in defence nor has placed the same on record. Petitioner has not taken any defence nor has any question/suggestion been put to respondent-complainant that cheques in question were issued in pursuance to some agreement. Even in statement of petitioner recorded under Section 313 Cr. P.C., petitioner has simply stated that he was innocent and did not want to lead evidence in defence. Petitioner is not entitled to invoke provisions of Section 391 Cr.P.C. to lead additional evidence in his favour. Findings of learned Sessions Judge, on this issue does not warrant interference.

9. In instant case amount involved is not so big so as to necessitate inviting evidence for proving availability of funds with respondent-complainant for crediting the said amount to petitioner. When amount of cheque is possible to be advanced in normal circumstances and no defence regarding capability of respondent-complainant to pay amount has been set up and proved, ratio of judgment in John K. Abraham case referred supra is not applicable.

10. Respondent-complainant has examined himself as PW-1 and Ramesh Sharma, Senior Assistant, Punjab National Bank, Bharari as PW-2 to prove his case. All necessary ingredients required under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act have been duly proved on record by leading unimpeachable evidence. In cross-examination, complainant had admitted that there are other 5-6 cheques issued by petitioner which were due. Defence taken in cross-examination is that respondent-complainant had received cheque from petitioner by deceiving him which suggestion has been denied by respondent-complainant. Respondent-complainant has also admitted that he was in possession of other cheques issued by petitioner which were of same series. Respondent-complainant has duly proved cheques Ex. C-1 and C-3, Memo of Bank Ex. C-2 and C-4, Notice Ex. C-5, Postal Receipts Ex. C-6 and statement of Accounts CW-2/A in accordance with law. There is no material on record rebutting evidence produced by respondent-complainant.

11. In view of above discussions, revision petition being devoid of merit warrants no interference under revisional jurisdiction of this Court and therefore revision petition is dismissed and judgments passed lower Courts are upheld. Rs.20,000/- out of fine amount of Rs.25,000/- deposited by petitioner in the Court of learned JMIC, Barsar be remitted to Bank Account of respondent-complainant alongwith proportionate interest, if any, accrued thereupon after expiry of 90 days from today on furnishing of Bank Account Number by respondent-complainant. Remaining amount be dealt with as fine recovered in accordance with relevant provisions. Copy of Judgment alongwith entire record of trial Court as well as First Appellate Court be sent forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Chajju Ram ...Appellant/plaintiff.
Versus
Shamma (deceased) through LRs ...Respondent/Defendant.

RSA No. 271 of 2006.
Reserved on : 23.06.2016.
Date of decision: 11/07/2016

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff filed a Civil Suit for declaration, injunction and confirmation of possession pleading that they are owners in possession of the suit land and defendant had wrongly recorded himself in the column of possession – the suit was opposed by the defendant by taking a plea of adverse possession - the suit was dismissed by the trial court - an appeal was preferred which was also dismissed- held, in second appeal predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs was recorded as owner- an entry was made in the copy of Jamabandi in the year 1993-94 that defendant was in possession with the consent of the plaintiffs- mere possession of the defendant in such circumstances is not sufficient to establish adverse possession of the defendant - appeal partly allowed. (Para 7-9).

For the appellants: Mr. Ajay Kumar, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Dheeraj K. Vashishta, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. B.C.Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J:

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgement and decree of the learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Shimla, Himachal Pradesh, whereby he affirmed the rendition of the learned Sub Judge 1st Class, Chopal. The plaintiff chajju Ram standing aggrieved by the concurrently recorded renditions against him by both the learned Courts below concerts through the instant appeal constituted before this Court, to reverse the judgements and decrees of both the Courts below.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision on the instant appeal are that a suit for declaration, perpetual injunction and confirmation of possession was filed by the plaintiffs on the allegations that they are owners in possession of land comprised in Khewat No. 153 min, Khasra No. 5018/41, 5018/50 and 5018/126 measuring 33 bighas 1 biswas situated in Mauja Khadar, Pargana Hamal, Tehsil Chopal, being the successor in interest of original owner late Shri Ramsa. In the month of July, 1996 the defendant began to interfere in the land described in Khasra No. 5018/50/2 measuring 4 bighas 10 biswas. It was alleged that the defendant with the active connivance of the Patwari had managed to get himself entered in the column of possession as Khud Kashat. It is alleged that the said entry is illegal, void and not binding on them. It is further alleged that the entries in column No.4 i.e. column of possession and in column No. 7 i.e. column of Lagaan (Bila Lagaan Bawaza Razamandi) in the jamabandi for the year 1993-94 pertaining to the suit land have not only cast cloud on the rights of the plaintiffs but the same are serious invasion in their right, title and interest qua suit land.

3. The suit of the plaintiffs was resisted by defendant by raising preliminary objections qua locus standi, estoppal, bad for non-joinder and mis-joinder of necessary parties, limitation, valuation, non-joinder and mis joinder of cause of action. On merits it was pleaded that the defendant has been in peaceful uninterrupted possession of the suit land since 1975-76 to the knowledge of one and all including plaintiffs and as such to have become its owner by afflux of time. The entry in column of possession is correct and there is no invasion in the rights of the plaintiffs.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for the relief of declaration, as prayed for? OPP.

2. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for relief of injunction permanent prohibitory, as prayed for OPD.

3. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for the relief of confirmation of possession, as prayed for? OPP.

4. Whether the plaintiffs have no locus standi to file the suit? OPD

5. Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties? OPD.

6. Whether the suit is barred by limitation? OPD.

7. Whether the suit is bad for non joinder and mis joinder of causes of action? OPD.

8. Whether the suit is not properly valued for the purpose of Court fee and jurisdiction? OPD.

9. Whether the suit lacks better and material particulars? OPD

9(a) Whether the defendant has become owner of the suit land by way of adverse possession? OPD.

10. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs besides the learned First Appellate Court dismissed the appeal preferred therefrom before it by the plaintiffs.

6. Now the plaintiff Chhaju Ram has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, assailing the findings recorded by the learned first Appellate Court in its impugned judgment and decree. When the appeal came up for admission on 27.6.2006, this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

> 1. Whether the two Courts below have not correctly evaluated the evidence as regards the plea of adverse possession especially the entries in the Jamabandies which show that the possession of the respondent-defendant is permissive (Babaja Rajamandi).

Substantial question of law.

7. The suit of the plaintiffs for declaration qua theirs being owners in possession qua the suit property besides for a relief of permanent prohibitory injunction for restraining the defendant from interfering in their peaceful possession qua the suit land, palpably stands anchored upon the revenue records apposite to it, comprised in the relevant Jamabandis qua it comprised in Ext.PW-1/B, wherein the predecessor in interest of the plaintiffs stands recorded as its owner. However, the aforesaid depiction in the apposite revenue records qua the suit property would not suffice to hold of theirs standing entitled to the relief as espoused by them in the suit unless this Court benumbs the propagation of the defendant of his continuously with an animus possidendi since 1993-94 whereat given the pronunciations in the remarks column No.7 of the apposite Jamabdi comprised in Ext.D-1 of his holding the suit land in the capacity of Bila Lagaan Bawaza Razamandi upto the date of institution of the suit, holding possession thereof holding a concomitant sequel of his acquiring a prescriptive title thereto. Both the learned Courts below relied upon oral evidence adduced by the defendant in proof of the contentions reared by him in his written statement wherein he concerted to dislodge the claim qua the suit property of the plaintiffs, contentions whereof bespeak of his acquiring qua the suit property prescriptive title ensuing from the statutorily prescribed period of limitation standing elapsed since 1992 uptill the date of institution of the suit. The quintessential imperative ingredient qua his perfecting title qua the suit property by adverse possession embodied in the factum of his continuously with an animus possidendi holding possession thereof since 1993 upto the date of institution of the suit stood reared by him in his written statement besides in corroboration thereof the defendant adduced evidence comprised in the testimonies of DW-1 and DW-2. Even though both DW-1 and DW-2 depose of the defendant holding possession of the suit property for the last 32-35 years and of the defendant rearing an apple orchard thereon, orchard whereon stands deposed by both to be holding apple trees aged 12 to 13 years, the apposite overt act whereof of the defendant stands construed by both the Courts below to be connotative of the defendant openly denying the title of the plaintiffs qua the suit property hence with his evidently within animus possidendi holding it besides his continuously holding possession thereof since 32 to 35 years, coaxed both the Courts below to construe of the contention reared by the defendant in his written statement to repudiate the claim of the plaintiffs qua the suit property standing clinchingly proven. However, both the learned Courts below while imputing vigour to the testimony of DW-1 and DW-2 appear to undermine the bespeakings in column No.7 of the apposite Jamabandi qua the suit land comprised in Ext.D-1. Since reliance thereupon stood placed by the defendant for succouring his claim qua the suit property, claim whereof stood anvilled on his acquiring title thereto by adverse possession also when Ext.D-1 stood exhibited by him whereas its holding in its Column No.7 an entry of the defendant holding possession thereof in the capacity of Bila Lagaan Bawaza Razamandi, in sequel with the signification borne thereof being of the defendant holding possession of the suit property with the permission of the plaintiffs concomitantly eroded his claim of his holding its possession with an animus possidendi since the apposite reflections occurring in Ext.D-1 till it stood adduced in defence by the defendant. In aftermath the depiction in Ext.D-1 unveiling the capacity in which he held possession of the suit property inasmuch as Bila Lagaan Bawaza Razamandi, signification borne whereof is of his holding it in a permissive capacity rather than his holding its possession with an animus possidendi. With the aforesaid signification borne by the reflection Bila Lagaan Bawaza Razamandi, occurring in Column No. 7 of Ext.D-1 when is palpably imperatively cullable therefrom, as a corollary the apposite reflections qua the capacity in which he held it, occurring in Ext.D-1, are to be construed to stand acquiesced by him. Given his acquiescence to the apposite manifestations in Ext.D-1 qua

the capacity in which he held possession of the suit property, the apposite reflections therein obviously acquire conclusivity. Consequently with conclusivity standing imputed to the apposite reflections in Ext.D-1 unfolding the capacity in which he held possession of the suit property he hence stood estopped to contend of his acquiring title to the suit property by adverse possession also the oral evidence if any as relied upon by both the Courts below for theirs holding of the defendant succeeding in proving his acquiring title to the suit property by adverse possession when rather stood subsumed by the effect of the apposite reflection constituted in Ext.D-1, reflections whereof for reasons aforestated acquire conclusivity prominently also when the reflections therein hence connote of possession if any of the defendant qua the suit property being permissive, concomitantly stain the concurrently recorded verdicts of the learned Courts below with a vice of theirs misappreciating the merit of the entry Bila Lagaan Bawaza Razamandi occurring in Column No. 7 of Ext.D-1, Also reiteratedly the reliance by both the Courts below upon oral evidence adduced by the defendant to support his claim qua his acquiring title to the suit property by adverse possession stands stained with an error of theirs misappreciating the oral testimonies of the defendants' witnesses. Consequently, the findings recorded by the learned trial Court on issue No. 9(a) stands reversed and set-aside and stands answered in favour of the plaintiffs.

8. Be that as it may, with the aforesaid inference standing drawn by this Court qua misappreciation by both the Courts below qua the import besides the signification borne by the entry Bila Lagaan Bawaza Razamandi occurring in Ext.D-1 with a sequelling effect of its not facilitating the defendant to stake a claim qua his perfecting his title qua the suit property by prescription ensuing from elapse of the statutorily prescribed period of limitation nonetheless with the plaintiffs also acquiescing to the occurrence of the aforesaid reflections in Column No. 7 of the Jamabandi comprised in Ext.PW-1/B, has a bearing upon theirs conceding to the factum of the defendant holding possession of the suit land even if in a permissive capacity. With hence the plaintiffs admitting the possession of the defendant qua the suit land though in a permissive capacity, also the oral evidence adduced by the defendant qua the defendant holding possession thereof being in incongruity thereof. In aftermath with the sine qua none for the plaintiffs holding leverage for obtaining the relief of injunction stands embodied in the factum of theirs provenly holding possession of the suit property, sine qua none whereof for reasons aforestated stands unsubstantiated. In sequel the relief of injunction qua the suit property as claimed by the plaintiffs against the defendant stood tenably refused by both the Courts below dehors the factum of this Court discountenancing the concurrently recorded findings by both the courts below of the defendant acquiring title thereto by adverse possession.

9. The substantial question of law stands answered in favour of the plaintiffs. Consequently, the appeal is partly allowed and the findings rendered by the learned trial Court on issue No. 9(a) stand reversed and set-aside. However, the judgements and decrees rendered by both the Courts below refusing the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction qua the suit property to the plaintiff is affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly.

Reserved on : 28.06.2016.
Date of decision: 11/07/2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 100- Plaintiff is a private limited concern, which carries on business of leasing, hire purchase, housing, general finance and investment- plaintiff advanced a sum of Rs. 18,000/- to the defendant No. 1 with interest @ 22% per annum with quarterly rests- defendants No. 2 and 3 stood guarantors - defendant No. 1 paid only two installments of Rs. 1100/- and failed to make payment of the rest of the amount- defendant No. 1 admitted taking of loan and asserted that vehicle was forcibly possessed by the plaintiff and was sold for Rs. 1,60,000/-- defendant No. 1 is entitled for money from the plaintiff- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held, in second appeal taking loan was not disputed by defendant No.1- rate of interest was specifically mentioned in the loan agreement- loan was taken for plying bus on commercial basis- therefore, rate of interest cannot be said to be excessive - it was not proved that vehicle was forcibly taken away- suit was rightly decreed by the trial court - appeal dismissed. (Para-8 and 9)

For the appellant: Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Soma Thakur, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. Rohit Chauhan, vice Mr. Suneet Goel, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J:

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgement and decree of the learned Presiding Officer/Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Hamirpur, H.P., whereby he affirmed the rendition of the learned Senior Sub Judge, Hamirpur, H.P. Defendant Dev Raj Sharma standing aggrieved by the concurrently recorded renditions against him of both the learned Courts below concerts through the instant appeal constituted before this Court to reverse the judgements and decrees of both the Courts below.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision on the instant appeal are that plaintiff company is a private limited concern incorporated under the Companies Act, 1956 with Registrar of Companies and carries on business of leasing, hire purchase, housing, general finance and investment and Shri Gian Nath Lakhanpal is the Managing Director of the plaintiff company duly authorized person to file and pursue the present suit. It is alleged that defendant No.1 applied for incorporating the entry qua agreement for hire purchase/hypothecation of vehicle HPM-289 to the Registering Authority Barsar in favour of the plaintiff company and the plaintiff company advanced a sum of Rs.18,000/- to the defendant No.1 and the defendant undertook to pay interest @ 22% per annum with quarterly rests and to liquidate the total liability of Rs.25,920/- within two years. It is further pleaded that the defendants No. 2 and 3 stood guarantors to the liability of defendant No.1 and thereafter defendant No.1 paid only two instalments of Rs.1100/- and thereafter failed to liquidate the liability despite requests.

3. The suit of the plaintiffs was resisted by defendant- 1 and defendant No.3. Defendant No.1 has admitted the agreement of hire purchase and hypothecation of vehicle HPM-289 and competency of the Managing Director to file and pursue the suit on behalf of the plaintiff company. The defendant No.1 has further admitted the advance of Rs.18,000/- taken from the plaintiff company but the defendant No.1 has denied the rate of interest as pleaded and claimed by the plaintiff including the liquidation of liability. The defendant No.1 has further pleaded and claimed that the plaintiff company had taken forcible possession of vehicle HPM-289 from Nand Kishore and thereafter auctioned the same as this vehicle was valued about Rs.1,07,000/- and thereby the defendant has pleaded and claimed that the plaintiff company is liable to pay or adjust the value of the vehicle against the loan amount. The defendant No.3 has taken the preliminary objections qua cause of action, estoppel and on merits the defendant No.3 has denied the competency of the Managing Director to file and pursue with the suit and has further denied any dealings between the plaintiff and defendant No.1. The defendant No.3 has also pleaded that the rate of interest claimed to be very high and arbitrary and thereby has prayed for dismissal of the suit.

4. In the replication filed on behalf of the plaintiff the averments as contained in the plaint were reiterated and those of the written statement contrary to the plaint were refuted.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

> 1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for recovery of Rs.34,356/- as prayed for? OPP.
>
> 2. Whether the plaintiff has got no cause of action and locus standi to file the suit? OPD.
>
> 3. Whether the plaintiff is estopped to file the suit by his act and conduct? OPD.
>
> 3(A). Whether the plaintiff had snatched the financed bus HPM-289 and sold the same. If so, its effect? OPD.
> 4. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of the evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff besides the learned First Appellate Court dismissed the appeal preferred therefrom before it by defendant Dev Raj.

7. Now the defendant Dev Raj has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, assailing the findings recorded by the learned first Appellate Court in its impugned judgment and decree. When the appeal came up for admission on 27.03.2006, this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

> 1. Whether the impugned judgement and decree is result of misreading, mis-appreciation of Ext. D-1 and DW-4/A?
> 2. Whether the learned First Appellate Court went wrong in not discussing the entire oral and documentary evidence?
>
> 3. Whether the interest allowed by the trial Court and the first appellate Court is against the provisions of Interest Act and the Contract Act as well as Code of Civil Procedure?

Substantial questions of law No. 1 to 3.

8. The factum of the defendant/appellant herein borrowing a loan of Rs.18,000/- from the plaintiff company stands admitted by defendant/appellant herein in his pleadings constituted in his written statement instituted to the plaint. Since admissions in pleadings estop the defendant/appellant herein to contest the suit of the plaintiff/respondent herein, as a corollary thereof, the concurrently recorded renditions of both the Courts below qua hence the defendant/appellant herein accepting qua a sum of Rs.18,000/- with costs and future interest @ 22% per annum, standing borrowed by him from the plaintiff not meriting any interference. However, since only a part of the loan borrowed by the defendant/appellant herein from the plaintiff stood uncontrovertedly liquidated by him, he is rendered liable to pay the residue to the plaintiff/respondent herein. However, the defendant No.1 contests the right of the plaintiff to claim its repayment from him with interest leviable thereon @ 22% per annum with quarterly rests. The levy of interest @ 22% per annum with quarterly rests on the loan amount borrowed by the defendant appellant herein from the plaintiff respondent herein stands manifested in Ext.P-3 which constitutes the apposite loan agreement executed inter se the defendant/appellant herein and the respondent herein/plaintiff. However, the learned counsel for the defendant/ appellant herein contends of yet the aforesaid rate of interest as levied upon the loan amount taken by the defendant from the plaintiff under Ext.P-3, execution whereof by the defendant stands uncontested by him being exorbitant/excessive besides beyond the ambit of Section 34 of the Code of Civil Procedure, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:

> "34. Interest (1) where and in so far as a decree is for the payment of money the Court may in the decree order interest at such rate as the > Court deems reasonable to be paid on the principal sum adjudged, from the date of the suit to the date of decree, in addition to any interest adjudged on such principal sum for any period prior to the institution of the suit (with further interest at such rate not exceeding six percent per annum as the Court deems reasonable on such principal sum), from the date of the decree to the date of payment, or to such earlier date as the Court thinks fit.

> Provided that where the liability in relation to the sum so adjudged had arisen out of a commercial transaction, the rate of such further interest may exceed six percent per annum, but shall not exceed the contractual rate of interest or where there is no contractual rate, the rate at which moneys are lent or advanced by nationalized banks in relation to commercial transactions."

Sub Section (1) mandates of, in a suit for recovery of money, the Court concerned standing barred to on the decretal sum of money impose interest which is excessive/unreasonable or arbitrary rather its holding empowerment to impose interest on the decretal sum of money which is reasonable, whereas the concurrently recorded decrees of both the Courts below while accepting the rate of interest manifested in Ext.P-3 being the one leviable on the sum borrowed by the defendant from the plaintiff have thereupon purportedly imposed upon the decretal sum of money a manifestly unreasonable besides an exorbitant rate of interest which hence infracts the mandate of sub section 1 of Section 34. However, the aforesaid contention of the learned counsel for the defendant would hold vigour only when the sum claimed to be recovered by the plaintiff from the defendant arises not from a commercial transaction also when the rate of interest leviable on the sum of money lent by the plaintiff to the defendant stands not embodied in the relevant contract or agreement recorded inter se both. However, when evidently their occurs a display in the relevant document executed inter se the plaintiff and the defendant qua the rate of interest leviable on the sum loaned by the plaintiff to the defendant, it was incumbent upon the Court to in concurrence with the rate of interest embodied in the relevant contract impose interest on the decretal amount. Since apparently the plaintiff advanced a loan to the defendant for a commercial purpose constituted in the factum of the defendant borrowing the relevant sum of money for purchasing a bus No. HPM-289 for plying it for commercial purpose rendered the loan borrowed by the defendant from the plaintiff to be for a or arise out of a commercial transaction also when the rate of interest leviable on the amount borrowed by the defendant from the plaintiff stood embodied in the relevant contract recorded inter se the plaintiff and the defendant, in sequel with the proviso to Section 34 of the CPC hence standing attracted proviso whereof enjoins Courts of law qua loans advanced for or arising out of commercial transaction, as is the relevant transaction inter se the plaintiff and the defendant besides when the rate of interest chargeable/leviable thereon stands recited in the apposite agreement, to hence revere the rate of interest embodied in the relevant contract executed inter se the plaintiff and the defendant. Consequently with Ext.-3, the relevant loan agreement recorded inter se the plaintiff and the defendant reciting the rate of interest leviable on the sum of money loaned by the plaintiff to the defendant warranted reverence standing meted thereto by both the Courts below. Consequently, both the Courts below in levying on the loan amount borrowed by the defendant from the plaintiff an interest @ 22% per annum cannot be said to have levied it beyond the ambit of the relevant agreement recorded inter se the parties. In sequel, the submission of the learned counsel for the defendant while standing anvilled merely on sub section (1) of Section 34 whereas his remaining oblivious to its proviso, proviso thereof when is in conformity with besides for reasons aforesaid stands attracted to the factual matrix hereat, it has to suffer the illfate of its standing discountenanced by this Court. It is hence held that the levying of or imposing of interest by both the Courts below @ 22% per annum on the decreetal sum cannot be amenable to its suffering from any infirmity.

9. Both the Courts below dispelled the espousal of the defendant vehicle standing forciblly taken away by the official of the company and on user whereof profits standing purportedly derived from its apposite user by the plaintiff company standing not appropriated by it to settle the loan, barred the plaintiff to claim the suit money from the defendant. However, the dispelling by both the Courts below of the aforesaid espousal of the defendant stands anvilled upon DW-1 communicating in his examination in chief of his selling bus No.HPM-289 to one Nand Kishore for a consideration of Rs.1,07,000/- under an agreement recorded by him with the former. Reliance by both the Courts below upon the aforesaid communication made by DW-1 in his examination in chief per se is neither inapt nor is interferable, as prominently with the defendant uncontrovertedly alienating the relevant bus to one Nand Kishore for a sale consideration of Rs.1,07,000/- obviously then with the plaintiff company never holding its possession nor hence it ever plying for commercial purpose wherefrom it hence never derived profits therefrom it cannot be concluded of its omission to appropriate a part of the profits reared by its plying the relevant bus for commercial purpose estoping it to claim from the defendant, the sum of loan advanced by it to the former. Also, as a corollary, the impact of any recital in Ext.DW-4/A holds no efficacy, contrarily with the defendant No.1 receiving the sale consideration from Nand Kishore on his alienating the relevant bus to him rather enjoined the defendant No.1 to repay the plaintiff the sum of loan as borrowed by him from it, his omitting to do so renders his accounts with the plaintiff remaining unsettled. Consequently, the suit of the plaintiff merited its standing decreed as aptly done by both the Courts below.

11. The result of the above discussion is that the appeal preferred by the defendant/appellant herein is dismissed and the substantial questions of law are answered against him. The judgements and decrees rendered by the both the Courts below are maintained and affirmed. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. The parties are left to bear their own costs. All pending applications also stand disposed of accordingly. Records be sent back forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Gurdass Singh ....Petitioner.

Versus

State of H.P. ....Respondent.

Cr. MP (M) No. 813 of 2016.
Decided on: 11th July, 2016

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 37- Petitioner was apprehended with one kg. charas- it was contended that one kg. is below commercial quantity and rigours of Section 37 of the Act, are not applicable- held, that offence was committed by the accused not only against the individuals but against the society-prima facie case has been made out against the petitioner and he is not entitled to bail- petition dismissed. (Para-3 to 5)

For the petitioner : Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. D.S. Nainta & Mr. Virender Verma, Addl. A.Gs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (oral).

Petitioner is an accused in FIR No.70/16, registered against him under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, hereinafter referred to as the Act in short, in Police Station, Palampur, District Kangra with the allegations that the police of Police Station, Palampur, while on patrol duty and conducting traffic checking at SSB Chowk, received a secret information that charas is being transported in an Alto Car bearing registration No.HP01-M-2294 being driven from Baijnath to Palampur side. The information was reduced into writing and forwarded to SDPO, Palampur through the Police Personnel. The Police Party left towards Baijnath road. One constable was deputed to bring someone for being associated as independent witness(s). The said constable brought two persons with him, who were associated to witness the search and seizure. Around 5.50 p.m. the car was seen coming from Baijnath side. The Police signaled the person driving the car to stop it. The car was stopped and antecedents of the person on its wheel and other persons were inquired into. It is thereafter the search of the car was conducted. One bag was recovered from its Dickey. It is inside this bag, another polythene bag was found to be kept. Some black substance in the shape of sticks was recovered from that bag. The I.O., on the basis of his experience, found the recovered substance as charas. It was weighed and found one kilogram. The recovered charas was sealed in a parcel. The sample of seal was obtained separately. NCB-I Form was also filled-in in triplicate. On completion of the investigation on the spot, the accused was brought to Police Station. The case property was deposited in the Malkhana. The investigation, except for the receipt of report from the Laboratory, is complete, however, challan has not been filed so far.

2. The accused petitioner has been arrested on the same day and is presently in judicial custody.

3. Learned counsel has argued with all vehemence that in view of the contraband allegedly charas weighing one kilogram being below commercial quantity, the rigours of Section 37 of the Act, are not applicable and the accused-petitioner, who according to learned counsel, is a local resident, has been sought to be released on bail.

4. On the other hand, learned Additional Advocate General while making reference to the notification issued under the Act, has contended that the quantity of charas recovered from the accused is commercial. According to him, otherwise also the recovery of one kilogram charas from the accused petitioner, he is not entitled to be admitted on bail.

5. It is seen that learned Special Judge-III, Kangra at Dharamshala, has dismissed the similar application filed by the accused-petitioner vide order Annexure A-2, to this petition. I am not entering upon the controversy that the quantity of the recovered charas is commercial or not and leave it open to be discussed in some other appropriate case, however, so far as this application is concerned, even if it is believed that the quantity of the recovered substance allegedly charas is below commercial quantity, the accused petitioner is not entitled to be admitted on bail for the reasons that the offence committed by him is not only against an individual but society as a whole. It is noticed that the illicit trafficking of drugs and narcotic substance is playing havoc in the society, particularly with our young generation. Therefore, the accused-petitioner, who prima facie has been found to be carrying charas weighing one kilogram, is not entitled to be admitted on bail. Since nothing has come in the investigation about the source, learned Special Judge has rightly observed that in the event of the accused-petitioner is admitted on bail, he may again indulge in illicit trafficking of the Narcotic Drugs and other contraband, therefore, irrespective of he belongs to District Mandi, Himachal Pradesh, at this stage, he is not entitled to be admitted on bail.

6. In view of what has been said hereinabove, the petition fails and the same is accordingly dismissed.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Hari Nand and others ..Appellants.

Versus

Rama Nand and others ..Respondents.

RSA No. 409 of 2006.
Reserved on : 24.06.2016.
Date of decision: 11/07/2016

Indian Succession Act, 1925- Section 63- plaintiff filed a suit pleading that J was owner in possession of the land- he executed a Will in favour of N, T and H- N executed a Will in favour of the plaintiff No. 6- Assistant Collector had wrongly attested mutation in favour of defendants No. 2 to 4 on the basis of illegal and invalid will- defendants pleaded that J had not executed any Will in favour of N, T and H- he had executed a Will in favour of defendants No. 2 to 4 on 15.10.1993- mutation was rightly attested on the basis of Will- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held in second appeal, Will set up by the plaintiff was duly proved by examining the attesting witnesses- marginal witnesses of the Will set up by the defendants did not prove that the deceased had put his signatures in their presence- thus, they had failed to prove the valid execution of the Will- mere registration will not make the Will valid- appeal dismissed. (Para-8 to 11)

For the appellants: Mr. B.C.Verma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. B.S.Attri, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J:

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgement and decree of the learned District Judge (Forests), Shimla, whereby he affirmed the rendition of the learned Civil Judge (Jr.Division), Theog. The defendants standing aggrieved by the concurrently recorded renditions against them of both the learned Courts below concert through the instant appeal constituted hereat to reverse the judgements and decrees of both the Courts below.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision on the instant appeal are that one Jawal was the owner in possession of the land comprised in Khasra No. 16, 18, 19,20, 21, 22, 162, 282/201 and 283/201 measuring 26 bigha and 13 biswas situated in Chak Majholi, Pargana Newal, Tehsil Theog, District Shimla. The deceased Jawal had executed a will of the suit land in favour of S/Sh. Nanku and Totu and Hari Nand on 29.09.1995 Ext.PW-2/A. This will was got registered on 9.5.1997. Nanku, now deceased also executed a valid Will on 5.6.1995 in favour of plaintiff No.6 with his free consent and without any pressure from anybody. The plaintiff No. 6 as such become owner in possession qua the share of Nanku in the suit land. Further averred that the ld. Assistant Collector 2nd Grade has wrongly and illegally attested the mutation with respect to the suit land on 26.3.1998 in favour of defendants No. 2 to 4 on the basis of illegal and invalid will dated 15.10.93 Ext.DA. The defendants No. 2 to 4 on the basis of illegal and invalid will are now threatening to interfere with their possession in the suit land.

3. The suit of the plaintiffs was resisted by defendants 1 to 4 on the ground that Jawal never executed will dated 29.9.1995 qua the suit land during his life time as he was not in a position to execute any document due to his serious illness. He on 15.10.1993 executed a legal and valid will in favour of the defendants No. 2 to 4 while in good state of mind and body. It was executed freely and after due consultation. It is alleged that the last will as alleged by the plaintiffs is false and forged document. The A.C. 2nd Grade as such rightly attested mutation No. 247 dated 26.3.1998 in favour of the defendants No. 2 to 4. With these submissions defendants have prayed for dismissal of the suit with costs.

4. In the replication filed on behalf of the plaintiff the averments as contained in the plaint were reiterated and those of the written statement contrary to the plaint were refuted.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

1. Whether Jawal had executed a Will dated 29.9.1995, registered on 9.5.1997 in favour of the plaintiffs and defendant No.1, if so, its effect, OPP.

2. If issue No.1 is proved in the affirmative, whether the mutation No. 247 dated 26.3.1998 is liable to be set-aside, alleged? OPP.

3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, as prayed for? OPP.

4. Whether the Jawal executed a Will dated 15.10.1993 to defendants NO. 2 to 4, as alleged? OPD.

5. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of the evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiffs besides the learned First Appellate Court dismissed the appeal preferred therefrom before it by the defendants.

7. Now the defendants have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, assailing the findings recorded by the learned first Appellate Court in its impugned judgment and decree. When the appeal came up for admission on 6.11.2007, this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether both the Courts below have acted illegally and the inference and conclusions as drawn are contrary to the material on record?

2. Whether the learned District Judge has drawn a wrong inference that earlier Will Exhibit DA which was executed on 15.10.1993 and got registered before the Sub Registrar, Theog, on 16.10.1993 has not been proved by the present appellants though as per the claim of the respondents subsequent Will Ext. PW-2/A contain mention of the earlier Will?

3. Whether Ext.DA earlier will of late Sh. Jawal stands proved and the same being valid, therefore, parties are bound by the same?

4. Whether Ext. PW-2/A has not been prepared in conformity with the provisions of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act?

5. Whether the appellant No. 1 have been held to be joint owner in possession of the suit land on the basis of Ext.PW-2/A, therefore, decree for injunction could not be passed against him?

6. Whether mutation No. 247 having been attested by the competent authority in accordance with law and the fact that the same was not challenged by filing appeal, therefore, the parties are bound by the same?

7. Whether the validity of Will Ext.DA as executed in favour of the appellants having not been challenged, therefore, the same could not be held in valid.

8. Whether subsequent Will Exhibit PW-2/A has not been prepared at the instance of late Shri Jawal and the same is surrounded by suspicious circumstances, therefore, the same is not legal and valid?

9. Whether Ext. PW-2/A having been prepared with the active participation of the beneficiaries and the fact that the deceased was not having sound and disposing mind, therefore, Ext.PW-2/A is not a legal and valid document?

Substantial questions of law No. 1 to 9.

8. The plaintiffs foisted a right qua the suit land, on the anvil of a testamentary disposition of deceased testator Jawal comprised in Ext.PW-2/A. With plaintiffs standing nominated by the deceased testator in Ext.PW-2/A to be his beneficiaries/legatees thereunder, they sequelly stood statutorily enjoined to prove the prime factum qua the valid and due execution of Ext.PW-2/A, by adducing evidence in display of the apposite provisions encapsulated in Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act (hereinafter referred to as “the Act”) standing satiated, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:

63. Execution of unprivileged wills

.-Every testator, not being soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, 1*[or an airman so employed or engaged,] or a mariner at sea, shall execute his will according to the following rules:--

(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.

(b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the erson signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a will.

(c) The will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or as received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary.

A reading of the afore extracted relevant provisions manifest of the propounder of the Will standing foisted with a solemn statutory duty to prove the factum of its valid due execution by the deceased testator, proof whereof qua its standing validly and duly executed by the deceased testator would spur, on any of the attesting witnesses thereto with conclusivity deposing qua the deceased testator making his thumb impression thereon in his presence or his appending his signatures thereon in his presence whereafter the attesting witness in the presence of the deceased testator embossing his thumb impression or appending his signatures thereon. In satiation of the aforesaid statutory parameters, for thereupon Will Ext.PW-2/A being construable to be proven to be validly and duly executed by the deceased testator, it is not incumbent upon its propounder to adduce both the marginal witnesses thereto into the witness box, contrarily the deposition of any marginal witness thereto in proof of its valid and due execution is sufficient. Consequently, the propounder of the Will made an attesting witness thereto namely Kansiya to step into the witness box for proving the valid and due execution of the apposite Will by deceased testator Jawal whereat he unequivocally deposed of the deceased testator in his presence thumb marking it, thumb impression whereof of the deceased testator on Ext.PW-2/A stands deposed by him to exist in Red circle, whereafter he deposes of his thereafter in the presence of the deceased testator his appending his signatures thereon besides in his presence another marginal witness appending his signatures thereon. He has deposed of his signatures existing on Ext.PW-2/A in red circle. Also he has deposed of the signatures of the other marginal witness thereto as stood appended thereon by him existing on Ext.PW-2/A in red circle. The aforesaid testimony of Kansiya, an attesting witness to Ext.PW-2/A is palpably reflective of hence the plaintiffs while anvilling their claim to the suit property by placing reliance upon Ext.PW-2/A succeeding in proving its valid and due execution by the deceased testator Jawal thereupon hence theirs staking a claim to the suit property on anchorage thereof cannot stand to be discountenanced.

9. Be that as it may, since the defendants staked assertion of title to the suit property on the anvil of Ext.DA, a testamentary disposition of the deceased testator executed by him prior to his executing registered Will Ext.PW-2/A, it was incumbent upon the defendants, its propounders, to likewise adduce cogent evidence in display of Ext.DA standing proven to be validly and duly executed by the deceased testator Jawal, proof whereof stood constituted in any of the attesting witness thereto testifying the factum of the deceased testator embossing in their respective presence his thumb impressions on Ext.DA whereafter both the attesting witnesses in the presence of the deceased testator endorsing their respective signatures thereon. However, the defendants while propounding Ext.DA had led both the attesting witnesses thereto into the witness box. Both DW-1 and DW-2 though deposed qua the Ext.DA holding their signatures yet they omitted to make any communications in their respective testimonies qua preceding theirs appending their respective signatures thereon, the deceased testator in their respective presence embossing his thumb impression thereon. Consequently, the depositions of both DW-1 and DW-2, the marginal witnesses to Ext.DA, propounded by the defendants to assert a claim to the suit property manifestly do not satiate the statutory parameter of each prior to theirs appending their respective signatures on Ext.DA seeing the deceased testator embossing his thumb impression thereon, whereas the statutory mandate constituted in Section 63 of the Act enjoined upon both DW-1 and DW-2 to testify in proof qua valid and due execution of Ext.DA by making an unequivocal deposition of both prior to theirs appending their respective signatures thereon theirs seeing the deceased testator embossing his thumb impressions thereon. Inaftermath, with their respective depositions being off the legal tangent qua satiation of the indispensable statutory obligation prescribed by the relevant provisions of the Act standing begotten on satiation whereof alone Ext.DA would be amenable to its standing construed to be cogently proven to be validly and duly executed by the deceased testator Jawal, contrarily when the apposite conclusive proof is amiss hereat qua the indispensable statutory ingredients aforesaid for Ext.DA standing construed to be validly and duly executed by the deceased testator, in sequel the findings recorded by the learned Courts below in dispelling the legal efficacy of Ext.DA do not merit any interference.

10. The learned counsel for the defendants/appellants herein places reliance upon an affidavit sworn by the Sub Registrar concerned who had accepted Ext.DA for registration as an endeavour for proving the factum of its valid and due execution by deceased Jawal. The reliance as placed upon the affidavit sworn by the Sub Registrar concerned who accepted Ext.DA for registration, in affidavit whereof their exists a recital qua on the contents of Ext.DA standing read over and explained by him to Shri Jawal whereafter the deceased testator Jawal purveyed to him his apposite echoings qua the recitals embodied therein holding truth whereupon he proceeded to accept it for registration, cannot perse render Ext.DA to acquire any aura of solemnity dehors non-satiation for lack of adduction of cogent proof of the statutory mandate encapsulated in the relevant Section of the Act. The reason for this Court holding qua legal worth if any, the affidavit sworn by the Sub Registrar concerned holds yet gaining no creditworthiness stands founded upon though his belying the suggestion put to him by the learned counsel for the plaintiffs on the latter holding him to cross-examination of none of the marginal witnesses recording their presence before him at the time he accepted Ext.DA for registration yet with Ext.DA not holding the signatures of any of the attesting witnesses thereto renders the affidavit sworn by the Sub Registrar concerned to hold no vigour in displacing the testimonies of the marginal witnesses thereto, who in their respective depositions, for reasons recorded hereinabove omitted to make any articulation therein qua Ext.DA standing within the ambit of Section 63 of the Act proven to be validly and duly executed by the deceased testator. Even otherwise placing reliance upon the affidavit sworn by the Sub Registrar concerned would sequel a legal casualty of the statutory vigour of the mandate of Section 63 of the Act standing diminished. For obviating the aforesaid legal casualty, any reliance upon the affidavit sworn by the Sub Registrar concerned would be legally insagacious. Even though the deceased testator stood at the stage of the Sub Registrar concerned accepting Ext.DA for registration stood identified thereat by Gulab Singh also thereupon the factum of Ext.DA hence purportedly holding the signatures of the deceased testator would not suffice to castaway the applicability of Section 63 of the Act nor would the deposition of Gulab Singh render dispensable the adduction by the propounders of the Will of the legally enjoined evidence within the apposite mandate of Section 63 of the Act for hence Ext.DA standing construed to be proven by them to be validly and duly executed by the deceased testator especially when it embodies therein the statutory mechanism encompassed in satiation of the parameters enshrined therein satiation whereof would spur on adduction of conclusive evidence by its propounders embedded in the testimony of an attesting witness thereto echoing therein qua the deceased testator making his thumb impression or appending his signatures thereon in his presence whereafter in the presence of the deceased testator his doing likewise whereupon hence the statutory parameters enshrined therein standing satiated an aura of validity would stand imputed to Ext.DA whereas for the reasons aforesaid with the both marginal witnesses not deposing qua the prime factum probandum aforesaid, the mere factum of Ext.DA holding the purported thumb impression of the deceased testator besides his thumb impressions existing on the relevant endorsements occurring thereon would yet not prove the factum of its valid and due execution by the defendants its propounders. In accepting the factum of Ext. DA holding thereon the thumb impressions of the deceased testator without proof as enjoined by the apposite statutory provisions standing adduced by its propounders qua the deceased testator embossing in the presence of the marginal witnesses his thumb impression thereon who thereafter respectively in his presence signatured it, would sequel the casualty of it being militative of the apposite mandate of Section 63 of the Act, provision whereof holding prescriptions therein qua the mechanism contemplated therein, when alone hold a sacrosanct statutory pedestal for proving the valid and due execution of a testamentary disposition also the mechanism occurring therein standing statutorily conceived to be solitarily resorted to by its propounders as a corollary when the apposite testimonies of the marginal witnesses to Ext.DA hold statutory sinew qua satiation of the statutory parameters encapsulated in Section 63 of the Act standing begotten for hence imputing validity to Ext.DA dehors proof if any of Ext.DA standing registered by the Sub Registrar concerned prominently when the testimonies of the marginal witnesses to Ext.DA for reasons aforestated do not prove the factum of its valid and due execution within the statutory domain of Section 63 of the Act besides when at the time contemporaneous to Ext.DA standing presented and accepted for registration by the Sub Registrar concerned both the marginal witnesses thereto for reasons aforesaid were not present thereat. In aftermath with the solemnity of the sacrosanct principle enshrined in Section 63 of the Act being un-amenable to suffer any dilution, any imputation of credence qua Ext.DA or any recording of an inference by this Court qua it standing proven to be validly and duly executed merely on the anvil of its standing accepted for registration by the Sub Registrar concerned on its standing purportedly presented therebefore by the deceased testator would defile its sanctity. Also the identifier of the deceased testator at the time Ext.DA stood accepted for registration by the Sub Registrar concerned though stepped into the witness box as DW-3 whereat he has proven the factum of Ext.DA holding the signatures of the deceased testator arousable from the factum of the deceased Jawal presenting it for registration before the Sub Registrar concerned, is a feeble untenable attempt on the part of the counsel for the defendants/appellants herein to dilute the mandate of Section 63 of the Act. Since Section 63 of the Act alone enjoys statutory approbation besides enjoins its propounders to prove the statutory parameters encapsulated therein by adducing relevant conclusive evidence whereas the relevant enshrined parameters therein for reasons stated hereinabove standing unsatiated renders the deposition of DW-3 to hold no sanctity in displacement of the apposite mandate engrafted therein, mandate whereof with specificity delineates the statutory mechanism for proving the valid and due execution of the relevant testamentary disposition. Also with DW-1 in his cross-examination denying the suggestion put to him by the learned counsel for the defendants while holding him to cross-examination impinging upon the factum of the deceased testator embossing his thumb impression thereon in the presence of Gulab Singh, the identifier of the deceased testator before the Sub Registrar concerned at the time it stood presented thereat for registration sprouts an inference of Gulab Singh being unavailable at the relevant time when the deceased testator Jawal embossed his thumb impression on Ext.DA besides gives leeway to an inference of even if Ext.DA holds the purported thumb impressions of the deceased testator of theirs standing embossed thereon subsequently in the presence of only the Sub Registrar concerned whereas contrarily when they were enjoined to be embossed thereon in the presence of the attesting witnesses thereto who contrarily respectively display in their respective testimonies of the deceased testator not embossing them in their respective presence, rendering hence the presence of the thumb impressions of the deceased testator on Ext.DA to hold no efficacy in proving the factum of its standing statutorily proven to be validly and duly executed by him. Since Ext.PW-2/A succeeded the execution of Ext.DA nonetheless with a recital occurring in Ext.PW-2/A of the deceased testator cancelling his previous testamentary disposition comprised in Ext.DA also with Ext.PW-2/A for reasons stated hereinabove standing efficaciously proven in consonance with the mandate of Section 63 of the Succession Act to be validly and duly executed, this Court holds qua the findings recorded by both the Courts below not meriting any interference.

11. The result of the above discussion is that the appeal preferred by the defendants/appellants herein is dismissed and the substantial questions of law are answered against them. The judgements and decrees rendered by the both the Courts below are maintained and affirmed. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. The parties are left to bear their own costs. All pending applications also stand disposed of accordingly. Records be sent back forthwith.

Case referred:

National Insurance Company versus Smt. Gurmeeto and Others, Latest HLJ, 2006 (HP), 33

For the appellants : Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Senior Advocate with Ms. Soma Thakur Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr. Narender Sharma, Advocate for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (oral).

Claimants in case No.1 of 2005, instituted under Section 22 of Workmen's Compensation Act are in appeal before this Court as they are aggrieved from the Order dated 31.1.2006 passed by learned Commissioner under the Workmen's Compensation Act (Sub Divisional Magistrate), Nalagarh, District Solan, whereby the petition they preferred has been dismissed on the ground that they failed to produce the evidence to the effect that their predecessor-in-interest Nirmal Singh died on account of exposer ultimately turned into high fever on account of driving the truck without its windscreen. Also that postmortem report has not been produced in evidence.

2. As per the case admitted by respondent No.1, the owner of truck No.HP13-9377, deceased Nirmal Singh was employed as driver by her on the monthly wages of Rs.4,000/-. Besides this, additionally a sum of Rs.100/- was being paid to him towards the daily allowance. He, therefore, was earning Rs.7,000/- per month. He drove the truck with consignment loaded therein from Nalagarh to Calcutta on 24.11.2003. He delivered the consignment at Calcutta on 27.11.2003. On way back, he loaded the truck from Cuysum-Giri Factory in Orissa to Paonta Sahib. When he was driving the truck within the territory of State of Bihar, some miscreants pelted stones thereon and as a result thereof windscreen of the truck got damaged being fully broken. The deceased driver has reported the incident to Amrik Singh, the husband of respondent No.1 and owner of the truck. Said Shri Amrik Singh, told the deceased to drive the truck in that condition itself and also that the windscreen will be replaced and other damage caused to the truck will be repaired at Nalagarh. He followed the instructions of said Shri Amrik Singh and brought the truck while driving the same without windscreen to Paonta Sahib on 3.12.2003. He unloaded the consignment at Paonta Sahib and brought the truck to Nalagarh where he reached at 9.00 p.m. He reached his native place at 11.00 p.m. At that time he was suffering from high fever. He was not even in a condition to speak. In the morning of 4.12.2003, his condition deteriorated considerably and before any medical aid could be provided to him, he died.

3. The compensation has been sought to be awarded on the ground that on account of driving the truck without windscreen, he was exposed to stress and strain and fell ill. The exposer resulted in high fever and before anything could be done to provide medical aid to him; he left for his heavenly abode. The cremation was also attended by the husband of respondent-owner. At the time of his death he allegedly was 31 years of age.

4. Respondent No.1-owner has not denied the allegations in the petition and rather admitted the same to be true and correct. The insurance-respondent No.2 has not disputed the insurance of the truck, however, it was claimed that the insurer-respondent No.1 has never lodged any claim with respondent No.2 under the Workmen's Compensation Act. It has also been submitted that the obligations of insurer is only to indemnify the insurance and that too when any liability is fastened upon it legally. It was also claimed that the deceased driver was not holding valid and effective driving licence nor died while discharging his duties as driver. The story that he had driven the truck with broken windscreen is stated to be manipulated. The petition has, therefore, been sought to be dismissed.

5. On such pleadings of the parties, the following issues were framed:-

1. Whether the deceased Nirmal Singh was employed as Workmen by respondent No.1 in her truck No.HP12-9377? OPP

2. Whether deceased Nirmal Singh died due to injuries/disease during the course of employment on date 4.12.2003 as alleged? OPP

3. Whether the petitioner is entitled for compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act? OPP

4. Whether the deceased Shri Nirmal Singh was not holding valid and effective licence, if so its effect? OPR No.2.

5. Whether the petitioner is incollusion between petitioner and respondent No.2, if so its effects? OPR No.2.

6. Relief.

6. The parties on both sides have produced the evidence and learned Commissioner below on appreciation of the same has dismissed the petition on the sole ground that without postmortem report or any medical certificate, it cannot be said that deceased Nirmal Singh died during the course of his employment. It is this order, which is under challenge in this appeal on the ground that the same is neither legally nor factually sustainable.

7. On hearing learned counsel on both sides and going through the evidence available on record, ultimately the windscreen of truck being driven by the deceased got broken on account of pelting of stones by some miscreants in the State of Bihar. The owner of the truck has also not disputed the instructions given to the deceased to drive the truck to the destination in the same condition. He, therefore, had no option except to obey the instructions of his employer. The truck reached at the destination on 3.12.2003 after unloading, it was driven by the deceased to the place of owner-respondent No.1 at Nalagarh. It is thereafter he went to his native place and as per the version of petitioner No.1, his widow, he was suffering from high fever at that time. Similar is the version of PW-2, Pawan Kumar and PW-3 Shri Durga Chand. The owner-respondent No.1 has not told anything contrary to the version of the petitioners' witnesses and rather supported their version of on all material aspects.

8. Now if coming to the statement of RW-1 Ashish Arora, Assistant Administrative Officer, National Insurance Company, he has admitted that the truck was duly insured with respondent No.2. As per his version, the owner never informed respondent No.2 about the death of driver of the truck. The owner has also not claimed own damages. Nothing, however, has been said by RW-1 about the effectiveness and validity of the driving licence. Rather issue No.4, in this regard, was not pressed during the course of arguments.

9. On analyzing the evidence as has come on record, it would not be improper to conclude that Nirmal Singh was the driver of truck No.HP12-9377. He went with a consignment loaded in the truck from Nalagarh to Calcutta. After delivering the consignment on its destination, on way back, he loaded another consignment from Cuysum-Giri Factory in Orissa to Paonta Sahib. It is also established that the windscreen was broken by some miscreants, when he was driving the truck in the territory of State of Bihar and the owner instructed him to drive it in the same condition to the destination. The deceased had followed the instructions so given and drove the truck from Bihar to Paonta Sahib without their being any windscreen. Being month of December, the winter season has already commenced, which caused exposer and as a result thereof the deceased suffered high fever. He reached at his native place late in the midnight on 3.12.2003. Before, he could be taken to hospital for medical checkup on the following morning, he died.

10 . The dismissal of the petition on the ground that there is no direct evidence qua death of deceased during the course of discharge of his duties are neither legally nor factually sustainable. As a matter of fact, there was direct nexus between the high fever from which the deceased driver was suffering and also discharge of his duties. In a similar set of facts and circumstances, our own High Court in National Insurance Company versus Smt. Gurmeeto and Others, Latest HLJ, 2006 (HP), 33, has held that the death of deceased driver occurred on account of stress and strain on account of driving the truck without windscreen during the course of his employment. The point in issue, therefore, is squarely covered in favour of the appellants-petitioners herein.

11. Now if coming to the question of award of compensation to the claimants-appellants, as per evidence, the date of birth certificate of the deceased Ex.PW-1/A being 14.11.1972, he was 31 years of age at the time of his death. There is admission on the part of respondent No.1-insured that he was being paid his wages @ Rs.4,000/- per month and in addition to that Rs.100/- was being paid to him towards daily allowance. This Court, however, is taking his income as Rs.4,000/- per month. In view of the age of the deceased as 31 years, the relevant factor in calculation of the compensation would be Rs.205.95.

12. Now calculating the compensation payable to the petitioners-claimants with the formula provided under Section 4 of the Act, it is only 50% of the wages to be taken into consideration. The compensation payable, therefore, would be 205.95x4000x50/100, which comes to Rs.4,11,900/- together with interest @12% per annum, under Section 4-A of the Act, which shall be charged after one month from the date of death of deceased Nirmal Singh. Respondent No.2-insurer is liable to pay the amount of compensation awarded to the petitioner, however, the penalty @10% on the awarded amount is imposed upon the owner of the truck, respondent No.1-insured. There shall be a direction to respondent No.2-insurer to deposit the amount together with interest upto date within two months.

13. In view of the observations made hereinabove, the appeal succeeds and the same is accordingly allowed. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

Rajesh Kumar …….Appellant.
Himachal Pradesh Vidhan Sabha and another …..Respondents.

LPA No.78 of 2011.
Decided on: July 11, 2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Vidhan Sabha invited applications for filling up one post of Driver- appellant and respondent No. 2 appeared in the selection process- 16 marks were awarded to the petitioner and 17 marks were awarded to selected candidate- petitioner filed a writ petition, which was dismissed- held, that selected candidate was senior in age and was rightly appointed- appeal dismissed. (Para-1 to 4)

For the Appellant: Mr.Praneet Gupta, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr.D.Dadwal, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Nemo for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, C.J. (Oral)

This Letters Patent Appeal is directed against the judgment, dated 2nd December, 2010, passed by the learned Single Judge of this Court in CWP No.2866 of 2010, titled Rajesh Kumar vs. Himachal Pradesh Vidhan Sabha & Anr., whereby the writ petition filed by the petitioner (appellant herein) came to be dismissed, (for short, the impugned judgment).

2. Respondent No.1 Vidhan Sabha invited applications for filling up one post of the driver in the Scheduled Caste category. Appellant/petitioner and respondent No.2, alongwtih other candidates, appeared in the selection process. After combining the marks obtained in the driving test and the interview, the writ petitioner got 16 marks, whereas the private respondent/selectee scored 17 marks and came to be appointed.

3. Feeling aggrieved, the appellant/writ petitioner challenged the appointment of respondent No.2, namely, Chaman Raj, by the medium of writ petition. The writ Court, while dismissing the writ petition, has made discussion in paragraphs 1 and 3 of the impugned judgment. It is apt to reproduce paragraph 3 of the impugned judgment herein:

> "3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that when petitioner's 'A' grade in driving test, was treated equivalent to 8.5 marks, how could respondent's 'A' grade in interview have been changed into 8.6 marks. Similarly, according to him, when respondent's 'B' grade, in driving test was changed into 8.4 marks, how could the petitioner's 'B' grade in interview have been changed into 7.5 marks. He says that while changing grading into marks, same marks were required to be awarded for 'A' and 'B' grades, in respect of both the tests. Even if the submission made by the petitioner be accepted, the net result would be almost the same. Respondent No.2 is senior in age to the petitioner. Normal rule is that when the score of two persons is equal, senior in age is placed above the one who is junior in age."

4. We have examined the writ record and have gone through the impugned judgment, and are of the considered view that private respondent namely Chaman Raj was senior in age and rightly came to be appointed. Accordingly, we hold that the impugned judgment is well reasoned, needs no interference.

5. Having said so, there is no merit in the instant appeal and the same is dismissed.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 279, 337 and 304-A- Accused was driving the bus with high speed and hit a car – a person sustained injuries and three persons died in the accident- the accused were tried and acquitted by the Trial Court- held, in appeal one feet snow was found on the spot- PW-2 denied this fact and his testimony cannot be relied upon- the car was being driven towards the wrong side of the road – in these circumstances the negligence of the accused was not proved- appeal dismissed. (Para 8-10)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy.A.G.
For the Respondent: Mr. Munish Kumar, Advocate vice Mr.G.S Rathour, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (oral)

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgment rendered on 31.12.2007 by the learned Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class (4) Shimla, District Shimla H.P In Criminal Case No. RBT 90-2 of 05/04, whereby the learned trial Court acquitted the respondent (for short 'accused') for the offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 and 304-A of the Indian Penal Code.

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 3.1.2003 at about 11.30 a.m. a telephonic information was received at Police Station, Dhalli from Police Assistance Room Mall Road Shimla that one car went out of the road near Kufri on IHM NH-22. On this information, inspector/SHO alongwith police party went to the spot. Rapt No. 18 of 3.1.2003 (Ex. PW-8/A) was registered in this regard. On inspecting the spot it was found that a Maruti car bearing registration No. HP-62-0505 was going to Theog in which four persons namely Gopal Krishan Sharma, Thakur Singh Balyani, Prem Chand Prashar and Bali Ram were traveling. When the said car reached near IHM

NH-22 at about 10.30 /11 a.m., a private bus bearing registration No. HP-15-3745 came from Kufri which was on its route from Bhawanagar to Nalagarh in high speed and struck it against the Maruti Car. As a result of which the car fell in the Dhank about 300 meter below. It has also come to the knowledge of the police party that the bus was being driven by the accused in a rash and negligent manner. In the accident aforesaid Gopal Krishan sustained injuries on his person and other passengers namely Bali Ram, Prem Chand Prashahr and Thakur Singh Balyani died on the spot. Rukka Ex.PW-10/A was prepared, on the basis of which formal FIR Ex. PW-8/B was registered. Spot Map Ex.PW-10/E was prepared. The scattered remains of the Maruti car were taken into possession vide seizure memo Ex.PW-5/A. One cheque book, FDR, receipt book and cash book were taken into possession from the spot and handed over on supardari to Sudhir Kumar Chawla vide memo Ex.PW-3/A. On 17.1.2003, Hoshiar Singh presented to the police R/C, insurance of car, D/L of deceased T.S Balyani vide memo Ex.PW-3/B. Accidental bus No. HP-15-3745 alongwith permit and insurance was taken into possession vide memo Ex.PW-5/C. The bus and Maruti car was mechanically examined. MLC of Gopal Sharma Ex. PZAB was obtained. Postmortem examinations of deceased Bali Ram, Prem Chand and T.S Balyani were got conducted. Postmortem reports Ex. PW-7A/A, Ex.,PW-7A/B and PW-7A/C were obtained. Inquest reports are Ex.PW-6/A, PW-6/B and PW-7/B. Statements of the witnesses were recorded. Photographs of the spot and of the dead bodies were got clicked which are Ex. PW-10/B1 to Ex.PW-10/B3 and Ex.PW-10/C1 to Ex.PW-10/C8. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. Notice of accusation stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 and 304-A of I.P.C, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 12 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded in which he pleaded innocence. However, he did not choose to lead evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned vice Counsel appearing for the respondent/accused has with considerable force and vigor contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. PW-2, the only eye witness to the occurrence has deposed in proof of the accused while at the site of occurrence driving bus bearing registration No. HP-15-3745 in a rash and negligent manner its colliding it with a car bearing registration No. HP-62-0505 in sequel whereto the latter vehicle rolled into a dhank. However, the testimony of the aforesaid witness gathers no credibility given his deposing of no snow occurring at the relevant site of occurrence, testification whereof rendered by him stands belied by photographic evidence comprised in Ex.PW-10/B1 to Ex.PW-10/B 3. Also his deposition qua non-occurrence of snow at the site of accident stands belied by the Investigating Officer who deposes of on the relevant date, at the site of occurrence, snow of a depth of one feet occurring thereat. Apart from, the fact of the testimony of PW-2 for the reasons aforesaid standing belied by communications existing in the deposition of PW-10, the prime factum echoed by him of the vehicle driven by the accused at the relevant time occupying the appropriate side of the road also his echoing therein of space yet existing at the relevant site for enabling the movement of the vehicle driven by the complainant, galvanizes no inference than that of the driver of the car aforesaid driving his vehicle on the inappropriate side of the road whereat hence it struck with the bus driven by the accused. Consequently, no negligence can stand imputed to the accused in driving his vehicle.

10. A wholesome analysis of the evidence on record portrays that the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity and absurdity nor it can be said that the learned trial Court in recording findings of acquittal has committed any legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate the relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court does not deem it fit and appropriate that the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court merit any interference.

11. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the impugned judgment of the learned trial Court is maintained and affirmed. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned vice Counsel appearing for the respondent/accused has with considerable force and vigor contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The accused while driving the bus aforesaid in a rash and negligent manner sequelled its turning turtle whereupon injuries stood entailed on the persons of Duni Chand, Hukam Chand and Harnam Singh. The rash and negligent manner of the driving of the vehicle aforesaid by the accused stands espoused by the prosecution to spur from the factum of his being inebriated at the relevant time besides his conversing on his mobile phone. The aforesaid factum also stands deposed by the eye witnesses to the occurrence who stepped into the witness box as PWs 2 and 3. However the aforesaid factum as stands ascribed by the prosecution to the accused, factum whereof is personificatory of his negligently swerving his vehicle to that portion of the road whereat it turned turtle, stands not proclaimed by the complainant in the apposite FIR lodged by him qua the occurrence also the eye witnesses aforesaid did not disclose the aforesaid factum in their respective previous statements recorded in writing by the Investigating Officer. Consequently, the omission on the part of the complainant to disclose the aforesaid factum in the FIR lodged by him qua the occurrence renders his testification in Court qua the factum of the driver being negligent in driving his vehicle, negligence whereof arose on his being inebriated at the relevant time besides from his conversing over his mobile also hence testifications in Court by the eye witnesses qua the factum aforesaid when starkly contradicting their respective previous statements recorded in writing are all rendered discardable theirs standing tainted with an obvious vice of embellishments besides improvements vis-à-vis their previous statements recorded in writing also the factum aforesaid acquires a similar taint awakened by the factum of theirs not in their respective previous statements recorded in writing making any communications in tandem therewith. Consequently, when their depositions are ridden with a vice of embellishments or improvements no reliance thereupon can stand imputed by this Court as tenably done by the learned trial Court.

10. Apparently the vehicle driven by the accused had swerved to the kucha portion of the road, portion whereof stands suddenly collapsed sequelling the bus driven by the accused to turn turtle. Since the swerving of the vehicle driven by the accused stands concluded to stand not begotten by the accused negligently and rashly driving the bus aforesaid also when depictions in the spot map comprised in Ex.PW-10/B also reflections in the photographs qua the relevant spot are not communicatory of given the expanse of the width of the road, the vehicle driven by the accused at the relevant time would not moving thereto unless its being negligently driven by the accused, whereupon hence an inference of negligence may stand marshaled against the accused. However, absence of the aforesaid apposite portrayals in the site plan besides in the photographs, sequels an ensuing conclusion of the width of the road at the relevant site of occurrence being narrow also its being constricted in its expanse permitting the plying thereon of only a single vehicle necessarily when hence the kutcha portion of the road was close to the tarred portion thereof, the sudden collapsing of the kutcha portion is to be construed to be the cause for the vehicle driven by the accused turning turtle.

11. A wholesome analysis of the evidence on record portrays that the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity and absurdity nor it can be said that the learned trial Court in recording findings of acquittal has committed any legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court does not deem it fit and appropriate that the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court merit any interference.

12. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the impugned judgment of the learned trial Court is maintained and affirmed. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

State of H.P. .....Appellant.

Date of decision: 11.7.2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 324 and 506- The informant and one 'R' had gone to the shop of 'B' – the accused was sitting inside the shop- the accused started abusing the informant and threatened to do away with his life – the accused picked a glass and threw it towards the informant- accused caught hold of the informant and gave beatings to him- the accused was tried and convicted by the Trial Court - an appeal was preferred which was allowed- held, in appeal PWs 2 and 5 have admitted that a duel had taken place between the accused and the informant- the possibility of sustaining injuries by way of fall cannot be ruled out- the Appellate Court had rightly acquitted the accused- appeal dismissed. (Para - 9 to11)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy.A.G.
For the Respondent: Mr. B.S Chauhan, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Munish Kumar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (oral)

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgment rendered on 28.2.2008 by the learned Sessions Judge, Shimla, H.P. in Criminal Appeal No. 54-S/10 of 2007, whereby the learned appellate Court while reversing the findings of conviction recorded on 31.10.2007 by the learned Judicial Magistrate, 1st Class, Theog, District Shimla, H.P., in case No. 322-1 of 2006 acquitted the respondent (for short 'accused') for the offences charged.

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 1.9.2006 the complainant alongwith Virender Singh came to the police Post, Deha at about 11.30 a.m. and had reported that he alongwith Ram Lal had come to the shop of one Bihari at about 11.00 a.m. It is further averred that the accused was also sitting inside the shop. On seeing the complainant the accused started abusing him. The accused has threatened him that earlier also he had taught him a lesson and now he will not leave him. It is also averred that the accused had also threatened him to do away with his life. On being objected to such acts, the accused picked up a glass kept on the table and had thrown the same on him. The glass had struck against his arm owing to which he had received injuries on his arm. It is averred that thereafter the accused caught hold of the complainant from his neck and gave beatings to him. The accused had also pushed him on account of which he had struck against the glass of the counter. The complainant was saved from the clutches of the accused by S/Sh. Ram Lal, Keshav Ram and Mohan Lal etc. The shirt of the complainant was also torn by the accused. On such statement rapat No. 4 was recorded, on the basis of which FIR Ex.PW-4/A came to be registered. During investigation, the complainant was got medically examined at PHC Ghorana. His MLC Ex. PW-6/A was obtained. Spot map Ex.PW-4/B was prepared. The broken pieces of glass of counter was taken into possession alongwith T shirt vide seizure memo. The statements of the witnesses were recorded. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. The accused stood charged by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 324 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 6 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded in which he pleaded innocence. He did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of conviction against the accused for offences punishable under Sections 324 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code. However, in an appeal preferred therefrom by the accused before the learned appellate Court, the latter Court while reversing the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court acquitted the accused.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Appellate Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned Counsel appearing for the respondent/accused has with considerable force and vigor contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Appellate Court standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The learned Deputy Advocate General contends of with the deposition of PW-6 (Dr. Abhishek Sharma) unveiling the factum of the injuries depicted in MLC Ex. PW-6/A being sequellable by the complainant standing struck with a piece of glass also with its recovery standing effectuated under memo Ex.PW-1/A, besides with PW-5 deposing of the scuffle which erupted inter-se the victim and the accused standing terminated on the intersession of PW-2 and PW-5 in quick succession whereof the victim/complainant stood subjected to medical examination, cumulatively depict of the accused inflicting with a piece of glass recovered under memo PW-1/A injuries on the person of the complainant. Consequently, he submits of the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Sessions Judge qua the accused warranting interference, their arising from gross mis-appreciation of the testimonies of PWs 2 and 5 besides suffering from gross undermining by him of the import of the recovery memo comprised in Ex. PW-1/A.

10. The aforesaid submission addressed before this Court by the learned Deputy Advocate General holds no vigor as he has solitarily read besides focused upon the testimonies of both PW-2 and PW-5 in portrayal of the purported efficacious recovery of pieces of glass under memo Ex.PW-1/A whereas he has overlooked the earlier portion of their respective testimonies wherein each respectively echoes of a duel erupting inter-se accused and the complainant, duel whereof ended on the intersession of both the PWs aforesaid, wherein both omit to echo therein the prime factum of the victim standing inflicted with an injury by the accused with his using a broken piece of glass. Since the aforesaid prime factum was enjoined to be enunciated by both PW-2 and PW-5, the eye witnesses to the occurrence whereas it stands unpronounced by each renders the afore-stated pronouncements in the MLC aforesaid also renders the efficacious recovery, if any, of broken pieces of glass under memo Ex. PW-1/A to hold no vigor. Preeminently with PW-6 underscoring in his cross-examination of the injuries occurring on the person of the victim being sequellable by fall, it appears hence of the duel, if any, which erupted inter-se the accused and the victim/complainant begetting the accidental breaking of glass, accidental breaking whereof appears to cause the accidental falling thereon of the complainant whereupon injuries stood entailed on his person.

11. A wholesome analysis of the evidence on record portrays that the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned Appellate Court does not suffer from any perversity and absurdity nor it can be said that the learned Appellate Court in recording findings of acquittal has committed any legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate the relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court does not deem it fit and appropriate that the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Appellate Court merit any interference.

12. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment of the learned Appellate Court is maintained and affirmed. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

For the appellant:	Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Addl. A.G., with Mr. Vikram Thakur and Mr. Puneet Rajta, Dy. A.Gs.
For the respondents:	Respondents No. 1 and 2 are proclaimed offenders. Mr. Naresh Kaul, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. :

By way of the present appeal, State has challenged the judgment passed by the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge (1), Kangra at Dharamshala in Sessions Case No. 58-N/2005 dated 24.05.2007 vide which, learned trial Court acquitted the accused for offence punishable under Section 376 (g) of the Indian Penal Code. Before proceeding further, it is pertinent to take note of the fact that there are three respondents in the present appeal and respondents No. 1 and 2 have been declared as proclaimed offenders by this Court vide order dated 26.02.2013. Accordingly, the present appeal is being heard qua respondents No. 3 Chhinder alias Chhindu.

2. Briefly, the case of the prosecution is that prosecutrix is suffering from mental disorder and on 31.05.2005, complainant Nek Mohammad and one Kalu Ram were on duty as Chowkidars from 8 p.m. till 5 a.m. At about 12:30 a.m. during the intervening night of 31.05.2005/01.06.2005, the said persons were performing their patrolling duty at Gandhi Bazaar. One Shri Bishamber, R/o Raja Ka Talab called the complainant and informed that there was a lady crying from the side of tank. The complainant and Kalu Ram went towards the tank and they found the prosecutrix there with accused Gurmail alias Fauji and Giri Raj alias Denny and one other boy who was wearing ear rings. The said three persons were without their pants and under wears and the moment the complainant and Kalu Ram threw torch light, the boy who was wearing the ear ring ran away from the spot. However, accused Gurmail alias Fauji was lying there as his arm was fractured. The complainant and Kalu thereafter threw light inside the tank where the prosecutrix was found. There was no water inside the tank. One Dinesh alias Jatt went inside the tank and brought the prosecutrix out from the tank. Prosecutrix informed them that she had been raped and that her leg had been fractured. Complainant Nek Mohammad tied the string knot of trouser of the prosecutrix and Dinesh alias Jatt had picked up Gurmail alias Fauji, bundled him in his vehicle and took him away. Kalu Ram picked up the prosecutrix on his back and took her to Bus Stand and then made her lie there on the bench. Thereafter, Kalu and the complainant left to their houses. The family members of the prosecutrix came to know about the said occurrence and on 02.06.2005 Hazari Ram, father-in-law of the prosecutrix came to the house of the complainant and made inquiries from him in this regard. Thereafter, he requested the complainant to accompany him to the Police Station. FIR Ex. PW 12/A was registered against the accused. The accused were arrested and the accused as well as the prosecutrix were got medically examined. During the course of investigation, one Chandni Guru Jassi Mahant, resident of Raja Ka Talab produced one ring Ex.-PA before the police which was taken into possession vide memo Ex. PW3/A. The said Chandni Guru Jassi Mahant stated that this ring was that of accused Chhinder. After completion of the investigation, police challaned the accused persons for having committed offence punishable under Section 376(g) of the Indian Penal Code. The challan was presented before the Court.

3. As a prima facie case was found against the accused, accordingly they were charged for the commission of offence punishable under Section 376(g) of the Indian Penal Code, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

4. In order to substantiate its case, the prosecution in all examined 12 witnesses.

5. Dr. D.R. Riyal appeared as PW-1 and stated that in the year, 2005, he was posted as Medical Officer in C.H. Nurpur and on 06.06.2005, accused Chhinder was produced before him for conducting his medical examination. On examination of Chhinder, vide M.L.C. Ex. PW1/A, he opined that the said accused was found fit to perform sexual intercourse.

6. Dr. Ashutosh appeared as PW-2 and stated that he had conducted the medical examination of accused Giri Raj and Gurmail vide MLCs. Ex. PW2/B and Ex. PW2/CV and as per his opinion, both of them were capable of performing sexual intercourse.

7. Complainant Nek Mohammad stepped into the witness box as PW-3 and stated that besides being an agriculturist, he was also Panchayat Chowkidar for the last 35-40 years. He was the Watchman of bazaar. He performed his duties as a Bazaar Watchman from 8 p.m. till 5 p.m. The other Chowlidar with him was Kalu Ram, who is resident of Sukhar. He further deposed that on 31.05.2005, Kalu Ram was on duty with him. At about 12:30 a.m. during night when they were on patrolling duty at Gandhi Chowk/bazaar, one boy, s/o Master Bishamber, R/o Raja Ka Talab called them and informed that some lady was crying from the tank side. That boy also stated that he was checking electric tube light at that time. He has further deposed that tank was about 6 meters from the road in an orchard of mangoes. He and Kalu Ram went towards the tank and with torch light they found one lady there alongwith accused Fauji alias Gurmail, whose one hand was broken at the relevant time. Accused Giri Raj alias Denny was also there and the third person present there run away from the spot. PW-3 further deposed that he threw the torch light towards him, but he could not identify him. All that he could see was that the third person was wearing an ear ring in his ear. All the three persons were naked at that time. He has further deposed that he saw accused Gurmail alias Fauji lying outside the tank and the lady was inside the tank. With torch light he saw that the said lady inside the tank was Savitri, who was mentally disturbed and quite often she was seen roaming around in the bazaar for the last many years. There was no water in the tank. He has further stated that no person by the name of Jatt came there and he and Kalu took out that lady from the tank. The trouser of the lady was tied by Kalu. The said witness was declared hostile as he has resiled from his previous statement and the prosecution was permitted to cross-examine him. In his cross-examination, he admitted that on 02.06.2005, he, Hazari Ram, Savitri Devi and Pushpa Devi went to the Police Station and lodged the FIR. He also admitted it to be correct that after recording the FIR, police read over the same to him and the contents thereof were admitted to be correct by him. He has denied the suggestion that Dinesh Jatt, driver had come at the water tank and that he had entered the water tank and tied the trouser of the prosecutrix and took the lady out of the tank. He denied the suggestion that on 07.06.2005, Chandni Guru Jassi had produced an ear ring of accused Chhinder before the Police in his presence and that from ear ring he had identified accused Chhinder on the night of occurrence was the same person who run away from the spot. Thus, the said witness has partially supported the case of the prosecution about the factum of accused Gurmail and Denny being there in the tank with the prosecutrix. However, the remaining case of the prosecution has not been supported by the said witness.

8. Hazari Ram, father-in-law of the prosecutrix has entered into the witness box as PW-4. He has stated that Savitri Devi was mother of four children. After she gave birth to her fourth child, she was taken to hospital at Jawali for family planning operation and thereafter she lost her mental balance. He also stated that she was not mentally fit for last 20 years and on account of this, she was found roaming around in the bazaar and roads and some time, she also visited her house. She talks irrelevant and she had fits. He has further deposed that on 02.06.2005, he went to Raja Ka Talab for purchasing some household articles. There one Subash, Pradhan told him that Nek Mohammad, Chowkidar had told him that Savitri Devi had been raped during the intervening night of 31.05.2005 and 01.06.2005. On receipt of the said information, he immediately went to the house of Nek Mohammad where Nek Mohammad revealed everything to him about the occurrence of the event. Nek Mohammad told him that two persons had committed rape with Savitri Devi in a tank which was 6 feet deep. One of the rapists was disclosed by him as Fauji and other was disclosed as Denny and third person had been apprehended by the police itself. He also deposed that after arrest of these three persons, in the Police Station they had disclosed in his presence that they had raped Savitri Devi. He has further deposed that all the accused persons were working in the house of Jassi.

9. PW-5 Piara Ram has deposed that he had gone to Police Station alongwith Puran Singh and remained associated with the police. SHO had shown him ear ring, which was given to him by Chandni Guru Jassi Mahant and the same was sealed by SHO in a match box, which was taken into possession vide memo Ex. PW3/A. He has further deposed that the ear ring was identified by Nek Mohammad and thereafter he and Puran Chand had signed the said memo.

10. Rakesh Kumar (PW-6) has stated that on 31.05.2005, a Maha Yagya was conducted at the back of his house, which was to last up to 08.06.2005. He was deputed by the villagers to keep an eye on this function. He was checking the light in front of his gate. At that time, two Watchmen were crossing from site. He told them that he had heard some noise coming from a distance of about 100 meters. He has further deposed that there were orchard, service station and shop towards the side from where noise was coming. He further deposed that later on after the arrival of the police, he came to know that some lady had been raped.

11. PW-7 Puspa Devi has stated that Savitri Devi was her mother-in-law and she was mentally unstable for last many years. Savitri used to come to the house and some time, she kept on wandering on the roads. She has further deposed that she was told by her father-in-law that her mother-in-law had been raped and he asked her to accompany him to the Police Station. She further deposed that she, Hazari Ram and her mother-in-law had gone to the Police Station.

12. PW-8 HC Ramesh Chand is a formal witness, who has deposed with regard to depositing of parcels containing the case property with him in the Malkhana register as well as the sending of the said parcels by him to FSL, Junga through Constable Sudershan Singh for chemical analysis.

13. PW-9 Sudershan Singh has deposed that MHC Ramesh Chand handed over five parcels and two envelopes which were deposited by him at FSL, Junga vide R.C. No. 113/21 on 16.05.2005. On his return, he handed over the RC to MHC.

14. PW-10 Chandani Guru Jassi Mahant has deposed that she was residing in Raja Ka Talab for the last 15 years with her Guru Jassi Mahant. Accused Chhinder is from her illaqua and he is just like her brother. He was residing with her for the last 15/16 years. Chhinder goes out with her to the houses of other person whereever function is organized. They receive offerings in lieu of this. She has further deposed that they wear ear rings on such occasions. She further deposed that once her ear ring had fallen in the house of a person where they had gone for getting something and the other ring was with her. She has denied the suggestion that she had given one ear ring to accused Chhinder and that he used to wear it.

15. PW-11 Dr. Nishu Priya has deposed that she was posted as Medical Officer in Civil Hospital, Nurpur from March 2005. On 02.06.2005, she medically examined Savitri Devi and she issued MLC Ex. PW11/A. She further deposed that as per her medical opinion, the prosecutrix was having third degree UV and was used to sexual intercourse and after receipt of medical examination, the final opinion had been given by her which is Ex. PW11/C and according to which, there was no evidence of recent sexual intercourse.

16. Inspector Nathu Ram has deposed as PW-12 and he has stated that FIR Ex. PW12/A was written by MHC as per the version of the complainant and thereafter it was signed by him. He also deposed that he moved an application Ex. PW11/A for the medical examination of the prosecutrix. He has also stated that he recorded the statements of the witnesses as per their versions. He has further stated that report of Chemical Examiner Ex. PX was received by him and thereafter he prepared the challan and presented the same in the Court for trial. In his cross-examination, he has stated that he had not moved any application to the Medical Officer to know the mental state of the prosecutrix. He has denied the suggestion Nek Mohammad was admitted in the hospital on 01.06.2005 and 32 bottles of glucose had been administered to him. He has self stated that Nek Mohammad was admitted in the hospital on 02.06.2005 and discharged on 04.06.2005. He has admitted the suggestion that he had gone to the house of Chandani Guru Jassi, but he has denied that he had brought the ear ring from her house. He has admitted it to be correct that identification parade of accused was not conducted by him.

17. This is the entire evidence which was produced on record by the prosecution in order to substantiate its case. Learned trial Court on the basis of the said material produced on record by the prosecution, concluded that the prosecution had not been able to prove its case against the accused especially in view of the fact that PW-11 Dr. Nishu Priya has stated that as per her final opinion, there was no evidence of recent sexual intercourse with the prosecutrix. Accordingly, learned trial Court concluded that from the evidence on record, it becomes clear that there is no evidence of rape of the prosecutrix by the accused. Accordingly, it held that the prosecution had not been able to bring home the guilt of the accused for offence punishable under Section 376(g) of the Indian Penal Code. Learned trial Court thus acquitted the accused.

18. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by the learned trial Court, the State has preferred the present appeal. It was strenuously argued by the learned Additional Advocate General that the judgment of the learned trial Court was perverse and not sustainable in law. Mr. Chauhan argued that the conclusions arrived at by the learned trial Court were not borne out from the records of the case and the learned trial Court had erred in coming to the conclusion that the prosecution had not been able to prove its case against the accused. As per Mr. Chauhan, the prosecution had successfully proved on the basis of material placed on record that the prosecutrix was mentally unstable lady and she had been raped by the accused. On these grounds, he stated that the judgment passed by the learned trial Court was liable to be set aside and the accused deserved to be convicted for offence with which they were charged.

19. Mr. Naresh Kaul, learned counsel appearing for respondent No. 3, on the other hand, has argued that there is neither any infirmity nor any perversity with the judgment which has been passed by the learned trial Court. Mr. Kaul argued that in the present case, the identity of respondent No. 3 was not proved at all. He further submitted that there was no independent witness who corroborated the story of the prosecution and further it was evident from the deposition of PW-11 Dr. Nishu Priya that the prosecutrix has not been subjected to any sexual intercourse as alleged by the prosecution. Accordingly, he argued that there was no merit in the appeal filed by the State and the same was liable to be set aside.

20. Before proceeding further, we may take note of the fact that in the present case, there is no eye witness, therefore, it is a case of circumstantial evidence.

21. At this stage, it is relevant to take note of the judgment of the Honble Supreme Court on circumstantial evidence in Vijay Thakur Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2014) 14 Supreme Court Cases 609, relevant paras of which are quoted below:

> "18. It is to be emphasized at this stage that except the so-called recoveries, there is no other circumstances worth the name which has been proved against these two appellants. It is a case of blind murder. There are no eyewitnesses. Conviction is based on the circumstantial evidence. In such a case, complete chain of events has to be established pointing out the culpability of the accused person. The chain should be such that no other conclusion, except the guilt of the accused person, is discernible without any doubt. Insofar as these two appellants are concerned, there is no circumstance attributed except that they were with Rajinder Thakur till Sainj and the alleged disclosure leading to recoveries, which appears to be doubtful. When we look into all these facts in entirety in the aforesaid context, we find that not only the chain of events is incomplete, it becomes somewhat difficult to convict the appellant only on the basis of the aforesaid recoveries.
> 19. In Mani v. State of Tamil Nadu, (2008) 1 SCR 228, this Court made following pertinent observation on this very aspect:
>
> > "26. The discovery is a weak kind of evidence and cannot be wholly relied upon on and conviction in such a serious matter cannot be based upon the discovery. Once the discovery fails, there would be literally nothing which would support the prosecution case...."
>
> 20. There is a reiteration of the same sentiment in Manthuri Laxmi Narsaiah v. State of Andhra Pradesh, (2011) 14 SCC 117 in the following manner:
>
> > "6. It is by now well settled that in a case relating to circumstantial evidence the chain of circumstances has to be spelt out by the prosecution and if even one link in the chain is broken the accused must get the benefit thereof. We are of the opinion that the present is in fact a case of no evidence."
>
>
> > "24. In a most celebrated case of this Court, Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116, in para 153, some cardinal principles regarding the appreciation of circumstantial evidence have been postulated. Whenever the case is based on circumstantial evidence the following features are required to be complied with. It would be beneficial to repeat the same salient features once again which are as under: (SCC p.185) "(i) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must or should be and not merely 'may be' fully established;
>
> (ii) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;
>
> (iii) The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency;
>
> (iv) They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and
> (v) There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

22. Thus, the salient points which have been carved out by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of circumstantial evidence, on the basis of which the guilt of the accused can be brought home are as under:

> "(i) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must or should be and not merely 'may be' fully established;
>
> (ii) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;
>
> (iii) The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency;
>
> (iv) They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and
> (vi) Thee must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

23. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sangili alias Sanganathan Vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (2014) 10 Supreme Court Cases 264 has held as under:

> "15. To sum up what is discussed above, it is a case of blind murder. There are no eyewitnesses. Conviction is based on the circumstantial evidence. In such a case, complete chain of events has to be established pointing out the culpability of the accused person. The chain should be such that no other conclusion, except the guilt of the accused person, is discernible without any doubt. In the present case, we find, in the first instance, that the appellant was roped in with suspicion that it was a case of triangular love and since he also loved PW-3, he eliminated the deceased when he found that the deceased and PW-3 are in love with each other. However, we are of the view that this motive has not been proved. The evidence of last seen is also not established. Father of the deceased only said that the deceased had received a call and after receiving that call he left the house. In his deposition, he admitted that he had not seen the appellant before and he did not recognize his voice either. Therefore, he was unable to say as to whether the phone call received was that of the appellant. Proceeding further, we find that the deceased was not seen by anybody after he left the house. When we look into all these facts in entirety in the aforesaid context, we find that not only the chain of events is incomplete, it becomes somewhat difficult to convict the appellant only on the basis of the aforesaid recoveries.
> 16. In Mani v. State of Tamil Nadu, (2009) 17 SCC 273, this Court made following pertinent observation on this very aspect:
>
> > "26. The discovery is a weak kind of evidence and cannot be wholly relied upon and conviction in such a serious matter cannot be based upon the discovery. Once the discovery fails, there would be literally nothing which would support the prosecution case...."
>
> There is a reiteration of the same sentiment in Manthuri Laxmi Narsaiah v. State of Andhra Pradesh, (2011) 14 SCC 117 in the following manner:
>
> > "6. It is by now well settled that in a case relating to circumstantial evidence the chain of circumstances has to be spelt out by the prosecution and if even one link in the chain is broken the accused must get the benefit thereof. We are of the opinion that the present is in fact a case of no evidence."
> 17. Likewise, in Mustkeem alias Sirajudeen v. State of Rajasthan, (2011) 11 SCC 724, this Court observed as under:

"24. In a most celebrated case of this Court, Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116, in para 153, some cardinal principles regarding the appreciation of circumstantial evidence have been postulated. Whenever the case is based on circumstantial evidence the following features are required to be complied with. It would be beneficial to repeat the same salient features once again which are as under: (SCC p.185) "(i) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must or should be and not merely 'may be' fully established;

(ii) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;

(iii) The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency;

(iv) They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and

(v) There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

24. In these circumstances because it is a case of circumstantial evidence, this Court has to satisfy its judicial conscience as to whether by way of circumstantial evidence produced on record by the prosecution, it has been able to link the commission of the offence with the accused or not.

25. As per the case of the prosecution, the alleged occurrence of the incident was intimated to complainant Nek Mohammad and Kalu Ram by son of Bishamber, R/o Raja Ka Talab. The son of Bishamber, i.e. Rakesh Kumar has entered into the witness box as PW-6. The complainant has entered into the witness box as PW-3. Rakesh Kumar has deposed that on the fateful night, he heard some noise coming from a distance of about 100 meters from the side where there was an orchard, service station and shops etc. and he disclosed this fact to two Watchmen who were crossing from that site. PW-3 Nek Mohammad has deposed that on the fateful night PW-6 told him that some lady was crying from the tank side. The second Watchmen, namely Kalu has not been examined by the prosecution. PW-6 Rakesh Kumar has not mentioned in his statement that he informed the Watchman that he heard the noise of a lady crying from the tank side. Thus, there is contradiction between the statement of PW-6 and PW-3 as to what was actually reported to the complainant by PW-6.

26. Further, as per the case of the prosecution, when the two Watchmen reached the spot, they found three persons with the prosecutrix, out of which one ran away. One Dinesh alias Jatt came there who went inside the tank and took the prosecutrix out from the tank on his lap. The prosecutrix thereafter told them that she had been raped and her leg had been fractured. Complainant tied the string knot of the trouser of the prosecutrix and Dinesh alias Jatt picked Gurmail bundled him in his vehicle and took him away. Prosecutrix was taken back to the Bus Stand by Kalu Ram.

27. This version of the prosecutrix is not supported by the complainant, i.e. PW-3. Not only this, surprisingly the prosecution has not produced Dinesh alias Jatt in the witness box. In this view of the fact that there is variation in the statements of PW-3 and PW-6 and further neither Kalu nor Dinesh alias Jatt have been produced in the witness box by the prosecution, the version put forth by the prosecution with regard to the alleged occurrence of the event gets shrouded with doubts.

28. Now coming to the deposition of father-in-law of the prosecutrix PW-4 Hazari Ram, he has stated that on 02.06.2005, he went to Raja Ka Talab for purchasing some household articles and there one Subash Pradhan met him and told him that Nek Mohammad had told him that Savitri Devi had been raped during the intervening night of 31.05.2005 and 01.06.2005. The said witness has been confronted with the statement which he had made to the police, in which statement, it is not so recorded that Subhash, Pradhan told PW-4 that he had been told by Chowkidar Nek Mohammad that daughter-in-law of PW-4 was raped on the fateful night. In fact, what has been recorded in the statement of PW-4 made under Section 161 of Cr. P.C. is that Subhash Pradhan told him that his daughter-in-law had been raped by some people and thereafter he went to the house of Chowkidar Nek Mohammad. The prosecution incidentally has not examined the said Subhash Pradhan also. Nek Mohamad has not supported the version of the prosecution and he has been declared as hostile witness. According to PW-4, he, Nek Mohammad, prosecutrix and his daughter-in-law went to the Police Station and thereafter the FIR was got registered.

PW-7 Pushpa Devi in her statement has deposed as under:

> "I, Hazari Ram and my mother-in-law had gone to the Police Station. I don't know any other person."

29. Thus, as per PW-7, Nek Mohammad did not accompany them to the Police Station. In our considered view, both PW-4 and PW-7 are interested witnesses as they are closely related to the prosecutrix. Therefore, their statements have to be read very carefully in order to conclude whether they inspire any confidence and whether they are trustworthy so as to be made basis for the conviction of the accused.

30. In our considered view, the statements of these witnesses as well as other prosecution witnesses, especially the complainant do not inspire confidence. There are too many improvements and contradictions in the statements of these persons. Normally Court does expect variations keeping in view the fact that much time elapses between the occurrence of the event, recording of statements under Sections 154 and 161 Cr. P.C. and the witnesses thereafter deposing in the Court of law. However, in this case, the contradictions are glaring.

31. Another important and factual aspect of the matter is that according to the prosecution, the prosecutrix was mentally unstable, however, strangely the prosecution has not got the prosecutrix medically examined to establish this fact on record. PW-12 Inspector Nathu Ram has stated that no application was moved for forming Medical Board so as to ascertain the mental state of the prosecutrix. Now, in this background, when we peruse the statement of PW-11 Dr. Nishu Priya and the MLC issued by her, both shatters the case of the prosecution.

PW-11 has categorically stated as under in her stated in the Court:

> "After receipt of report of Chemical Examiner, the final opinion has been given by me which is Ex. PW11/C, according to which there was no evidence of recent sexual intercourse."

32. Further, a perusal of Ex. PW-11/C demonstrates that the final medical opinion given by PW-11 is as under:

> "….Hence, there is no evidence of recent sexual intercourse/…………….as per the chemical analysis report. Report has been signed by Chemical Examiner to the Govt. of Himachal Pradesh."

33. Another important aspect of the matter is that the identity of respondent No. 3 has also not been established beyond reasonable doubt by the prosecution. PW-12 has admitted in his cross-examination that no identification parade of the accused was conducted by him. There is no material on record to suggest that the complainant or the other Chowkidar present with him had identified respondent No. 3 at the spot. The said respondent has been arrayed as accused on the basis of the alleged recovery of ear ring. The alleged recovery of ear ring has also not been established beyond reasonable doubt by the prosecution. Chandani Guru Jassi Mahant has not supported the story of the prosecution. Though the said witness was declared as hostile, but in her cross-examination, the prosecution has not been able to elucidate anything relevant to further the cause of the prosecution.

34. Therefore, it is evident from the discussion held above that the prosecution has not been able to link the accused/respondent No. 3 with the commission of the offence. The chain of circumstances is totally incomplete and it cannot be said on the basis of material produced on record by the prosecution that the case against respondent No. 3 stood proved by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt.

35. Further, a perusal of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court reveals that all these aspects of the matter have been minutely gone into by the learned trial Court and thereafter on the basis of the appreciation of material on record, learned trial Court has come to the conclusion that the prosecution has not been able to establish its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt. We do not find any perversity or infirmity with the findings so recorded by the learned trial Court. In our considered view also, on the basis of the material produced on record by the prosecution, it has not been able to prove beyond reasonable doubt that respondent No. 3 was guilty of the offence alleged against him. Accordingly, the judgment passed by learned trial Court in this regard qua respondent No. 3 is upheld and the present appeal qua respondent No. 3 is accordingly dismissed.

Cases referred:
K. Prakashan vs. P.K. Surenderan (2008) 1 SCC 258
T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2006) 1 SCC 401

For the appellant : Mr. Virender K. Verma, Additional Advocate with Mr. Pushpinder Singh Jaswal, Dy. Advocate General.
For the respondent : Ms. Neha Scott, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge (oral).

The present appeal is maintained by the appellant-State of Himachal Pradesh against the judgment of acquittal of the accused in a case under Section 325 of the Indian Penal Code passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.III, Hamirpur, District Hamirpur, H.P, dated 1.3.2008, in Criminal Case No.19-II of 2006.

2. Briefly stating the facts giving rise to the present appeal are that on 22.12.2005, complainant Khem Chand made a statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C to HC Pardeep Kumar, vide report No.14 of Roznamcha, wherein he stated that he is a transporter and has also contested election for Pardhan, but he was defeated. On 20.12.2005 at about 5:00 pm, when the complainant was in his house, children told him that Sunil Kumar, Hem Raj and Sarup are quarrelling. Complainant went to the spot to separate them. Accused was also there and when he tried to save Sunil Kumar, accused pushed Sunil Kumar and the complainant due to which he fell down on the ground whereas Sunil Kumar fell on the stairs of the house of Sarup. The occurrence has been witnessed by Parven Kumar. When he was taken to hospital at Tauni Devi, the complainant told that he fell down from the 'danga'. He came to know through newspaper that Suresha Kumari, reported the matter to the police against him, on which he had also lodged the report. After completion of the investigation the challan was presented in the Court.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, examined as many as 07 witnesses. Statement of the accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C, wherein the accused denied the prosecution case and claimed innocence. No defence evidence was led by the accused.

4. I have heard learned Additional Advocate General for the appellant/State and learned defence counsel for the respondent/accused.

5. To appreciate the arguments of learned Additional Advocate General and learned defence counsel, this Court has gone through the record in detail and minutely scrutinized the statements of the witnesses.

6. PW-1 complainant Khem Chand, has deposed that while Hem Raj, Sarup and Sunil Kumar were quarreling, he went to the spot and he was pushed by the accused. He fell down and got injured in the waist. While he was under treatment he read in newspaper that a case has been registered against him. Complainant lodged report and as per medical examination, one bone of his was found to be fractured. In his cross-examination, he admitted that he had given a statement to the Medical Officer at Tauni Devi that he has fallen down from the 'danga'. He denied that he alongwith others had administered beatings to Suresha Devi and Ram Swaroop. He cannot say as to how Suresha Devi was injured.

7. PW-2 Sunil Kumar has deposed that accused had pushed the complainant and him as accused was drunk. Hem Raj called them to the house of Suresha Devi and when they reached there they were pushed. In his cross-examination, he denied that he alongwith Khem Chand had revealed to the Medical Officer at Tauni Devi that they have fallen down on their own. He denied that they were badly drunk and fell down on their own. He has denied that a false case has been prepared by Khem Chand, as he has lost the election.

8. PW-3 Dr. D.R. Sharma, has examined the complainant and issued MLC Ex.PW3/A. He opined that injury to be grievous as "compression of L2 vertibra" was found. He has admitted that injury is possible by accidental fall.

9. PW-4 Dr. D.B. Kulkarni, gave report Ex.PW4/A, x-ray films Ex.PW4-B and Ex.PW4/C of the complainant observing compression. PW-7 Mohinder Pal, lodged FIR Ex.PW7/A, after medical report was received. PW-5 Parveen Kumar, has pleaded ignorance about the occurrence. In his cross-examination, he has denied that accused had pushed Sunil Kumar and Khem Chand, as a result of which they got injured. He has also admitted that complainant Khem Chand is his uncle. He had not given any statement to the police and the police had recorded the statement as given by the complainant.

10. PW-6 HC Pardeep Kumar, Investigating Officer of the case and deposed that the complainant had got his statement Ex.PW1/A recorded with him. MLC Ex.PW3/A was issued after he had moved an application Ex.PW6/A. The investigation was conducted on 14.1.2006 and spot map Ex.PW6/B was prepared. In his cross-examination, he admitted that complainant has revealed that he fell down from the 'danga' and got injured.

11. Dr. D.R. Sharma, has not ruled out the possibility of sustaining injuries by accidental fall whereas PW-5 Parveen Kumar has admitted his relationship with complainant, has not supported the prosecution story.

12. After going through the aforesaid discussion, it comes out that the version of the complainant is full of contradictions and the other eye witness i.e. PW-2 has differentiated himself on vital aspects coupled with the fact that PW-5 is related to the complainant has not supported the complainant's version. Thus, the delay in lodging FIR as also the contradictions makes out a case where it can be said that the prosecution has not proved its case beyond reasonable doubt.

13. It has been held in K. Prakashan vs. P.K. Surenderan (2008) 1 SCC 258, that when two views are possible, appellate Court should not reverse the judgment of acquittal merely because the other view was possible. When judgment of trial Court was neither perverse, nor suffered from any legal infirmity or non consideration/misappreciation of evidence on record, reversal thereof by High Court was not justified.

14. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2006) 1 SCC 401, has held that where two views are reasonably possible from the very same evidence, prosecution cannot be said to have proved its case beyond reasonable doubt.

15. So, in my considered view the prosecution story is uncorroborated by witnesses and taking into consideration the evidence which has come on record this Court finds that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused conclusively and beyond reasonable doubt.

16. In view of the aforesaid decisions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and discussion made above, I find no merit in this appeal and the same is accordingly dismissed. Bail bonds of accused are discharged.

2. Briefly stated facts as emerge from the record are that the respondents-State realizing that there are large number of vacancies, especially in difficult and remote area schools lying vacant and there is no likelihood of making regular recruitment in near future, decided that PTAs may be allowed to make recruitment qua C & V category teachers i.e OT (Shashtries), LT, DM, and PETs (Annexure P-1). However, while making aforesaid decision respondent specifically stipulated in the communication dated 13.7.2007 that no Music Teacher, Home Science Teacher or Craft Teacher, shall be provided by the PTAs for the time being. The respondents-State while issuing the aforesaid communication dated 13th July, 2007 authorizing PTAs to make appointment as referred above, prescribed the following procedures:-

(i) The PTA shall have to display the vacancy position in respect of posts intended to be filled up through PTAs giving venue/date of interviews on the notice board of the concerned school, the PTAs Office (if any), notice board of the Gram Panchayat concerned as well as the adjoining of the Gram Panchayat concerned as well as the adjoining Gram Panchayat. The Headmaster/ Principal when accepting the candidature of a particular teacher under PTA shall satisfy himself that the above criteria has been met with. I may be made clear that no grant-in-aid shall be available to the PTAs in case any of the above codal formalities has not been completed. While conveying the names of the selected candidates to the Principal, the PTA shall give an undertaking that the directions contained in para 3(i) to (vi) above have been complied with. Any appointment made by PTAs between 6.11.2006 and issue of this letter shall not be eligible for grant-in-aid while subsequent appointments shall be subject to the adoption of above procedure only.

You may kindly circulate these instructions to all the Principals/Headmasters of your District for strict compliance. Please note that any deviation from the above shall make the PTA ineligible for reimbursement of grant-in-aid under GIA to PTA Rules, 2006. Other instructions relating to these appointments shall also be kept in view as circulated from time to time. The availability of TGTs by PTA shall not be made till further orders.

3. In pursuance to aforesaid communication/ circular issued by respondent No.6 i.e. Pradhan, Parents Teachers Associations(in short "PTA"), Government Middle School, Bench, Tehsil and District Kullu, H.P conducted interviews for the post of Physical Education Teacher(in short" PET") on PTA basis for Government Middle School, Benchi. The interviews for the post were held on 5.10.2007, where 16 candidates along with petitioner as well as respondents No.7 and 8 appeared. Record further reveals that present petitioner was selected and appointed as PET in the Government Middle School, Benchi on 10th/11th October, 2007. Thereafter vide Annexure P-2 i.e. letter No. DEM-A-Kha(7)3/2006, dated 27th May, 2008, Higher Education Department H.P. Government, issued notification in continuation of its earlier notification dated 19th April, 2008, whereby respondents-State had constituted committees to inquire into the cases of irregularly appointed teachers by the PTA but subsequently vide notification dated 27th May, 2008, Higher Education Department H.P. Govt., provided that the committees will hear the affected parties/complainants after going through the records and guidelines framed vide notification referred above.

4. Record reveals that respondent No.7 namely Om Prakash being aggrieved with the appointment of the present petitioner as PET filed complaint (Annexure P-3) before learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Kullu H.P complaining therein that the petitioner was appointed illegally and arbitrarily in violation of the Rules prescribed for the appointment of Teacher by PTA. The Sub Divisional Magistrate (Civil) vide order dated 21st August, 2008 (Annexure P-4) ordered to remove the petitioner from the post of PET. Perusal of order dated 21st August, 2008 suggest that on the basis of complaint filed by respondent No.7, Sub Divisional Magistrate(Civil) Kullu constituted committee in terms of the notification dated 19th April/27th May, 2008. It also appears that committee while considering the complaint preferred by respondent No.7 redrawn the merit list and concluded that the petitioner was wrongly appointed as PET since there were number of other persons including respondents No.7 and 8, who were higher in merit.

5. Present petitioner being aggrieved with the order dated 21.8.2008, passed by Sub Divisional Magistrate Kullu, H.P filed an appeal before the learned Deputy Commissioner, Kullu, District Kullu,H.P but same was dismissed vide order dated 9.1.2009 (Annexure P-6) .

6. Perusal of Annexure P-6, passed by learned Deputy Commissioner, Kullu suggest that vide notification EDN-A-Kha(7)3/2006 dated 19.4.2008 and 27.05.2008, new rules were framed and respondent No.4 was appointed as Chairman of inquiry Committee, who vide order dated 21.8.2008 concluded that the petitioner was not appointed in accordance with Rules as PET in the school concerned and as such, ordered removal of the petitioner. However, careful perusal of the order dated 21.8.2008 nowhere suggest that Inquiry Committee while deciding the complaint of respondent No.7 actually referred to the records of the interviews conducted/held by the PTA on 5.10.2007, where 16 candidates including petitioner, respondents No.7 and 8 had appeared. It appears that committee decided the complaint of respondent No.7 on the basis of the guidelines framed vide notification dated 27.5.2008 without referring to the PTA Rules 2006, which were prevalent at the time of appointment of the petitioner in the year, 2007. But at this stage, after perusing the impugned order, passed by SDM as well as Deputy Commissioner kullu, it is not clear at all whether any proceeding were ever initiated by the SDM (Civil) Kullu strictly in terms of notification dated 19-04-2008/27-05-2008 because bare perusal of order passed by SDM suggest that after receipt of complaint made on behalf of respondent No. 7, merit list was redrawn and marks were given on the basis of mechanism evolved vide notification dated 27-05-2008, whereas in opinion of this Court, committee at first instance was supposed to ascertain whether appointment of petitioner, which was made in the year 2007 was in accordance with rules prevalent at that time or not. It is undisputed that at the time of appointment in the year 2007, petitioner was appointed in terms of PTA Rules 2006. Hence, any decision of the inquiry committee constituted in terms of the notification dated 27-05-2008 redrawing the merit list on the basis of notification, which was admittedly issued in the year 2008 could not be made basis to conclude that the appointment made in the year 2007 was in violation of the Rules made in the year 2008. During the proceedings of the case, this Court was unable to lay its hand on any document suggestive of the fact that the respondents had actually conducted some inquiry on the complaint submitted by respondent No. 7 because only document which is available on record is impugned order dated 21.8.2008 passed by SDM(Civil) Kullu, which nowhere suggest that while holding that appointment of petitioner is bad, committee had taken into consideration the record pertaining to the selection process held in the year, 2007 i.e. 5.10.2007. Rather, perusal of this order dated 21.8.2008 clearly demonstrate that all the candidates whose candidature were considered in the year, 2007 by the then PTA were again scrutinized by this Committee afresh on the basis of guidelines contained in notification dated 27.5.2008. But at this stage, this Court is at loss to fathom that how the Rules made in the year, 2008 could be made applicable in the case of the petitioner, who was admittedly appointed in the year, 2007 on the basis of PTA Rules 2006, prevalent at that time.

7. However, during the proceedings/ hearing of the case, learned counsel representing the respondent No.8 made available copy of judgment dated 23rd November, 2010 passed by Division Bench of this Court in CWP No.2286 of 2009. Further perusal of order dated 16.11.2009 passed in the instant case by this Court also suggest that CWP No.2286 of 2009 was ordered to be tagged with the present matter but some how same stands decided on 23rd November, 2010. Perusal of the judgment dated 23.11.2010 suggest that writ petitioner in that case (respondent No.8) had prayed for following relief:-

(i) That he may be appointed in terms of orders passed by respondent No.4 dated 21.8.2008 Annexure P-10 which is selection list being a selected candidate as the petitioner is having higher rank in comparison of 16 candidates and further including the respondent No.7 and 8 who are on the lesser side.

(ii) That the respondents may kindly be directed to give all the benefits to the petitioner as admissible in near future under the law and policy for such post in question."

8. Further careful perusal of judgment dated 23.11.2010 passed by Division Bench of this Court in CWP No.2286 of 2009 suggest that taking note of the averments contained in that writ petition, Division Bench of this Court concluded as under:-

" In view of the above clarification issued by the Director of Higher Education, Himachal Pradesh, the impugned orders are liable to be set aside. Ordered accordingly. However, we make it clear that it will be open to the Enquiry Committee to consider the matter afresh in the light of the instruction referred to above. The needful, if required, shall be done expeditiously from the date of the production of a copy of this Judgment by either side. It is also made clear that in the cases of those teachers who are working in the schools, in case they have not been paid their due wages, the same shall be paid and the State shall ensure that the required grant-in-aid is given to the Schools, as per the Rules forthwith. In case the vacancy still exists, we make it clear that it will be open to the respondents to reengage the petitioner, subject to the outcome of the inquiry and in case, the petitioner is thus reengaged, he shall be paid the eligible benefits during the period of service."

9. Close reading of the judgment dated 23.11.2010 passed by Division Bench of this Court clearly suggest that order dated 21.8.2008, which is subject matter of the present writ petition, has been already quashed and set aside by the Division Bench of this Court with the direction to the Inquiry committee to consider the matter afresh in the light of the instructions issued on 24th September, 2009. Since by way of present writ petition, petitioner has also prayed for quashing of order dated 21.8.2008 passed by SDM (Civil) Kullu, which has been already quashed and set aside by Division Bench of this Court in CWP No. 2286/2009, this Court sees no reason, whatsoever, to interfere in the present matter. However, it may be clarified that once Division Bench in CWP No.2286 of 2009 quashed the order dated 21.8.2008 passed by SDM (Civil) Kullu, any further order passed by the Deputy Commissioner in appeal filed by petitioner against order dated 21.8.2008 also deserves to be quashed and set aside because appeal is/was continuation of the proceedings initiated at the level of SDM, who had passed order dated 21.8.2008 on the basis of complaint made by respondent No.7.

10. But keeping in view the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, it would be in the interest of justice and strictly in compliance of the judgment dated 23.11.2010 passed by Division Bench of this Court in CWP NO.2286 of 2009, to direct the respondents to consider the matter afresh in the light of instructions issued vide notification dated 24.9.2009 as well as directions contained in para 3 of the judgment passed by the Division Bench of this Court, if not already complied with. At his stage, it may be observed that inquiry committee while deciding the matter afresh in the light of the instructions dated 24.9.2009 shall keep it in mind that appointment of petitioner was made in the year, 2007 that too on the basis of PTA Rules 2006 prevalent at that time and as such, Inquiry Committee is expected/ required to ascertain whether appointment of petitioner as PET in the year, 2007 was strictly in terms of PTA Rules 2006 prevalent at that time or not.

11. Since the petitioner as well as respondents No.7 and 8 have been litigating for the last 6-7 years, it would be in the interest of justice, if respondents are directed to conclude the inquiry in terms of judgment dated 23.11.210 within stipulated time. Accordingly, respondents are directed to do the needful as observed above within a period of three months.

In view of the discussion made hereinabove, the present petition is accordingly disposed of. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stands(s) disposed of.

Smt. Sunita Bhandari & Another .....Respondents.

Criminal Revision No. 10 of 2009.
Decided on: 11th July, 2016.

H.P. Tourism and Trade Act, 1988- Sections 42 and 49- Accused opened a hotel without mandatory registration - a composition fee of Rs. 1,28, 700/- was imposed – the amount was not deposited on which a complaint was filed – the accused confessed their guilt and fine of Rs. 5,000/- was imposed- an appeal was preferred on which a fine of Rs. 100/- per day was imposed from 25-2-2000 till 18-11-2002 - aggrieved from the judgment, appeal was preferred – held, that it was open for the complainant to prefer an appeal even in a case where the accused had confessed to the commission of crime - confession meant that accused admitted their liability to pay the statutory sum of money - imposition of fine of Rs. 5,000/- was not proper- Ld. Sessions Judge should have imposed fine from the date of the opening of the hotel till the production of the certificate- appeal allowed - fine imposed from the date of opening of the hotel till the production of documents. (Para 2-4)

For the Petitioner: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.
For the Respondent : Mr. Anand Sharma, Advocate with Mr. Rajesh Kumar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral)

The complainant/petitioner herein instituted a complaint against the respondents/accused herein for theirs infracting the provisions of Section 49 read with Section 42 of the H.P. Tourism and Trade Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act"). The breach aforesaid at the instance of the accused/respondents occurred on theirs operating a hotel without theirs obtaining from the competent authority concerned its apposite mandatory registration. The breach aforesaid on the part of the respondents/accused, as apparent on a reading of paragraph 7 of the complaint, constrained the competent authority to levy a composition fee of Rs.1,28,700/- upon the accused/respondents, composition fee whereof stood calculated by the competent authority from 22.12.1998 to 24.2.2000 where within the apposite breach occurred. The aforesaid amount as apparent on a perusal of the relevant records remained undeposited by the respondents/accused. The effect of non deposit by the respondent/accused of the aforesaid amount constrained the complainant/petitioner herein to institute a complaint before the Judicial Magistrate concerned wherebeforewhom the respondents/accused confessed their guilt whereupon a fine of Rs.5000/- stood imposed upon each of the accused/respondents.

2. The complainant/petitioner herein standing aggrieved by the order of the Judicial Magistrate concerned preferred an appeal therefrom before the learned Sessions Judge, Chamba. The learned Sessions Judge, Chamba in his rendition had assessed fine at the rate of 100/- per day calculated from 25.2.2000 upto 18.11.2002. However, the learned Sessions Judge, Chamba did not proceed to assess fine upon the respondents/accused from 22.12.1998 upto 24.2.2000, though even within the aforesaid period, the respondents/accused had infracted the provisions of Section 42 of the Act whereupon composition fee stood assessed by the competent authority, composition fee whereof on remaining undeposited by the respondents/accused, an apposite averment in consonance therewith stood manifested in the complaint.

3. The learned counsel appearing for the accused/respondent has submitted with force of the impugned order of the Sessions Judge, Chamba lacking in jurisdictionally vigour qua the appeal constituted before him by the complainant/petitioner herein standing barred by the provisions of Section 375 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred as the "Cr.P.C.), provisions whereof mandate on an accused pleading guilty whereupon he stands convicted bars the aggrieved to institute an appeal therefrom before the competent Appellate Court. However, the aforesaid submission is unacceptable, as Clause (b) of Section 375 of the Cr.P.C., excludes the embargo against preferment of an appeal by the aggrieved where the accused pleads guilty besides, stands sentenced predominantly when the legality of the sentence imposed upon him is contested by the aggrieved. Consequently, with the aggrieved/complainant standing aggrieved by the quantum of sentence of fine imposed upon the accused/respondents for theirs infracting the mandatory provisions of Section 42 of the Act, grievance whereof stood engendered by the sentence of fine as stood imposed upon them by the Magistrate concerned for theirs breaching the statutory provisions of the Act transgressing the ordained method qua its computation, whereupon its imposition upon the accused stood fastened with an illegality hence rendered the appeal preferred by it before the learned Sessions Judge to be within the domain of Clause (b) of Section 375 of the Cr.P.C., concomitantly, also the pronouncement of a verdict thereupon by the learned Sessions Judge, Chamaba holds jurisdictional vigour. Provisions of Section 375 of the Cr.P.C., read as under:-

> "375. No Appeal in certain cases when accused pleads guilty.- Notwithstanding anything contained in section 374, where an accused person has pleaded guilty and has been convicted on such plea, there shall be no appeal.-
> (a) if the conviction is by a High Court; or
> (b) if the conviction is by a Court of Sessions, Metropolitan Magistrate or Magistrate of the first or second class, except as to the extent or legality of the sentence."

4. Since, the accused/respondents had before the learned Judicial Magistrate concerned confessed their guilt, the effect thereof is of theirs admitting their liability to pay to the complainant/petitioner herein the statutory sums of money fastenable upon them as fine for theirs infracting the provisions of Section 42 of the Act. In sequel, the order of the Judicial Magistrate concerned whereby it had imposed a fine of Rs.5000/- upon each of the accused/respondents appears to be per se infracting the provisions of Section 42 of the Act, provisions whereof proclaim of in the event of breach of its provisions occurring, breach whereof being a continuing one besides with no evidence existing on record qua the classification of the hotel, his not imposing upon the accused the minimum statutory fine of Rs.100/- per day, renders his verdict to be jurisdictionally void. In aftermath, also the orders of the learned Sessions Judge while levying fine upon the accused/respondents from 25.2.2000 to 18.11.2002 is per se in transgression of the mandate of the provisions of Section 42 of the Act which contrarily enjoined upon the learned Sessions Judge to from 22.12.1998 upto 24.2.2000 where within for reasons aforesaid the breach occurred besides uptill the respondents/accused breaching the provisions of Section 42 of the Act levy fine upon the respondents/accused quantified in a sum of Rs.100/- per day. The learned Sessions Judge Chamba while not levying upon the accused/respondents fine at the rate of Rs.100/- per day from 20.2.1998 uptill the continuance of breach by the respondents/accused qua the apposite statutory provisions, has committed a gross impropriety. In sequel, the instant petition is allowed and the impugned order stands quashed and set aside. The respondents/accused are directed to from 22.12.1998 upto theirs producing before the competent authority the apposite certificate qua theirs obtaining the registration of their hotel from it, pay to the competent authority fine at the rate Rs.100/- per day within one month from today. However, in case, the aforesaid quantum of fine computed at a rate of Rs.100/- per day stands deposited by the respondent/accused before the competent authority, no insistence be made upon them for theirs depositing the aforesaid quantum of fine before it.

Case referred:

State of Uttaranchal Vs. Balwant Singh Chaufal (2010) 3 SCC 402

For the Petitioner :	Ms.Vandana Misra Panta, Advocate.
For the Respondents:	Mr.Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan, Mr.Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No. 1 to 3 and 6.
	Mr.Hamender Chandel, Advocate, for respondent No.4.
	Mr.Ramakant Sharma, Senior Advocate with Ms.Devyani Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.5.
	Mr.B.C.Verma, Advocate, for respondents No.7 to 9.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

The petitioner claims to have filed this petition as probono publico wherein it is averred that a large portion of the area in and around the "Kamna Devi" temple at Shimla is a forest area which is under the ownership and possession of respondents No.2 and 3, but of late certain influential persons including respondents No.5, who is the Executive Engineer in the Municipal Corporation, Shimla had purchased land around and adjacent the said forest cover and he i.e. respondent No.5 was very keen to get a road constructed upto his plot. It is averred that respondent No.5 in order to obtain permission for construction of building had submitted false, fabricated and forged documents and managed to get the same approved in collusion with the officials of respondent No.4. It is also averred that the revenue officials in order to please and provide illegal help to respondent No.5 had inserted a note at the left and right of the tatima (spot map) regarding existence of certain stairs adjoining the plot of land belonging to respondent No.5. It is further averred that respondent No.4 without prior sanction or approval from the Forest Department had constructed stairs from "Chakkar till Kamna Devi" temple and recently the construction of a new motorable road had started in the forest adjoining "Kamna Devi" and this road was being built right upto the plot of respondent No.5 and for this purpose men, material and vehicles belonging to respondent No.4 were blatantly being used by him without any restraint. The petitioner also placed reliance upon certain news items which appeared in the Hindi Daily "Dainik Bhaskar" on 8th and 9th March, 2010 wherein it was reported that a stretch of 80 metres of road was being constructed over forest area to the plot of respondent No.5 and there were a large number of trees that have been marked and would eventually be cut down. On such pleas, the petitioner has sought the following substantive reliefs:-

"1. That appropriate writ/direction/order may kindly be issued to Respondents neither to construct, nor permit any construction of road/path over FOREST/CPWD land around Kamna Devi Temple area.

2. That Respondent No.6 may kindly be directed to carry out proper demarcation of Forest Land around Kamna Devi temple by competent Revenue Official not below the rank of Tehsildar (AC Ist Grade) strictly in accordance with the H.P. Settlement Manual, in the presence of all other respondents as well as land owners if any and thereafter give proper fencing for protection of Forest Land by removing and demolishing encroachment if any.

3. That appropriate directions may kindly be issued to change the description of the nature of the forest land under the occupation of CPWD (Respondent No.3) from "Gair Mumkin Ahata" to that of protected Forest Land with further direction to CPWD not to cut a single tree in their occupation without prior permission of this Hon'ble Court.

4. That appropriate action may kindly initiated against the erring officials of respondent No.4 and 6 including against respondent No.5 for issuance, use and approval of fabricated Tatima (Annex P.2) on the basis of which building construction plan of Respondent No.5 was approved and sanctioned.

5. That appropriate directions may kindly be issued to Respondent No.4 to initiate Departmental action against Respondent No.5 for gross misuse of official position by which he got his own building plan sanctioned on the basis of fabricated Tatima (Annex P-2) while himself working as the Architect Planner of Respondent No.4 with further direction to cancel and withdraw the said building plan permission of Respondent No.5.

6. That appropriate action may kindly be initiated against Respondent No.5 for gross and blatant misuse of official powers as the Executive Engineer of Municipal Corporation, Shimla for deliberately carrying out road construction over Forest Land and construction of his own building near Kamna Devi Temple by unauthorisedly and illegally employing the men and material of Respondent No.4."

2. Respondents No.1 and 2 i.e. Principal Secretary (Forests) and Principal Chief Conservator of Forests have filed a common reply wherein it is averred that most of the area near "Kamna Devi" temple either belongs to CPWD or to private owners but they have not received any complaint regarding any tree being uprooted or cut in the forest land and have also not received any complaint regarding debris being thrown thereupon. It is further averred that though one proposal for diversion of forest land for construction of ambulance road through DPF-Sandal was received by the Commissioner, Municipal Corporation, Shimla and sent to Divisional Forest Officer (DFO), Shimla, and subsequently received in the Office of respondent No.2 but the same was returned for attending to some observations which were duly conveyed by DFO, Shimla to respondent No.4.

3. Insofar as the construction being raised by respondent No.5 is concerned, it is specifically averred that the prescribed distance for construction from the forest land is five metres, whereas, the construction being undertaken by respondent No.5 could only be measured after completion of demarcation.

4. The Superintending Engineer of CPWD, has been arrayed as respondent No.3 and in its separate reply has raised preliminary objections regarding locus-standi and maintainability of the petition. On merits, it has been averred that the area under the possession of CPWD is not forest land but is classified as "Gair Mumkin Ahata", in the revenue records and similarly the area where the staff quarters have been constructed is again not the forest land but is "Ghasni Sarkar" (pasture land belonging to the Government). It is then averred that the CPWD as and when required is taking adequate steps to protect its land and no road has been constructed over the land under its possession.

5. Respondent No.4 i.e. the Municipal Corporation, Shimla, in its reply has raised preliminary objections questioning the locus of the petitioner and maintainability of the petition on the ground that respondent No.5 while carrying out of his building work has not violated any provision of the building regulations. On merits, it has specifically been averred that the petitioner has given a concocted story to make out a case of building violation. The building plan submitted by respondent No.5 after proper verification and ensuring the compliance of the mandatory provisions governing the construction was sanctioned on 06.03.2003. Insofar as the existence of stairs is concerned, the same had been pointed out in many building maps submitted by the private individuals and such path is otherwise being repaired from time to time by the Corporation and there was no objection raised by anyone at any given time. It also stands clarified that the construction raised by respondent No.5 is being undertaken strictly as per the sanctioned map and he has left set back of 5.55 metres beyond the stairs and boundary of his house and has also surrendered three metres wide strip of his land for path. Insofar as the path from "Chakkar to Kamna Devi" is concerned, it has been averred that the same is in existence since long and is being maintained by the replying respondent. The allegation regarding construction of motorable road has been specifically denied and it has been averred that the matter regarding construction of ambulance road in the area was under the active consideration of the Corporation since long as there were lot many demands received not only from the residents of the locality but also from Municipal Councillor of the area.

6. As regards the news items published in "Dainik Bhaskar", it is specifically averred that after enquiring into the facts, a detailed contradiction was issued to the Bureau Chief of the said newspaper on 12.03.2010 which clearly shows that the contents of the news item were not only false and baseless but had been published with the sole aim of tarnishing the image of "hard working and sincere Officers in the eyes of public and also to damage the reputation of the authorities of the respondent-Corporation".

7. Respondent No.5 has filed a separate reply wherein preliminary objections regarding locus-standi, competence, maintainability and suppression of true and material facts etc. etc. have been raised. It is specifically averred that though the petition claims to have been filed in public interest, whereas, it is not so as it has been filed at the instance of one Vinod Kumar son of late Shri S.P. Sharma and Smt. Vijay Sharma, wife of Shri Ashok Sharma, both residents of Prospect Hill, Boileauganj, who are none other than the neighbours of respondent No.5 and are residing in the building above the plot of land owned by respondent No.5. These persons had earlier filed a complaint against respondent No.5 with regard to construction being raised by him, which was enquired into and ultimately the proceedings were dropped by respondent No.4 vide its order dated 14.06.2006. This order was assailed by the aforesaid persons in appeal before the learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Courts, Shimla, who too was dismissed on 05.06.2007. Thereafter, both these orders were assailed before this Court in CMPMO No.155 of 2007. On 21.11.2007 the petition came up for consideration and this Court directed respondent No.4 to personally carry out inspection of the spot or depute a technical expert to find out as to whether the retaining wall constructed by the respondent had caused any damage to the structure of the petitioners therein or had got any potential to cause any damage in future. The Executive Engineer after visiting the spot in presence of the parties had reported that there was no defect in the retaining wall constructed by the replying respondent and it was also reported that no damage on account of construction of the retaining wall had been caused to the structures of the petitioners therein. But, despite this report, both Shri Vinod Kumar and Smt.Vijay Sharma were bent upon to harass the replying respondent and had got instituted this petition through a person, who was not even a resident of the area by claiming that it had been filed in public interest. It is specifically pleaded that filing of the petition was nothing but an abuse of the process of law and had only been filed in order to settle scores. It is also averred that Smt. Vijay Sharma had herself encroached upon forest land comprised in Khasra No.547 by raising construction of a part of her building and had thereafter got the land measuring 37.68 square metres of this Khasra Number transferred in her name from the Settlement Officer in violation of the provisions of the Forest Conservation Act, 1980 and this fact was duly brought to the notice of all concerned, but to no avail.

8. On merits, it is averred that this petition has been filed out of vindictiveness as the replying respondent had cancelled the work and thereafter forfeited the earnest money of one of the brothers of petitioner, Shri Dinesh Sood, who was working as a Government Contractor with the Municipal Corporation, Shimla. Respondent No.5 has specifically denied that he had obtained permission by submitting a false and fabricated tatima and further denied to have obtained permission by exercising influence.

9. Insofar as the path on the left side of the tatima is concerned, it is specifically averred that path starts from "Chakkar Chowk to Kamna Devi" temple and is infact the only approach to the temple. The path is stated to be around 450 metres in length and is in the shape of ascending staircase and has been in existence for the last many years. Respondent No.4 itself has paved the land of this path by laying red stones on its entire length and breadth for which permission was granted on 29.06.2006. That apart, along the path the forest land has been duly fenced for past many years and in any case before the maps submitted by the replying respondent had been approved by respondent No.4.

10. The Principal Secretary (Revenue) has been arrayed as respondent No.6 and in its reply has averred that respondent No.5 is the owner of land situate in Mauza Kereru comprising Khata Khatauni No.278/401, Khasra No.1626/548, measuring 442-00 square metres and the plot is under construction. It has further been averred that path/stairs adjoining to Khasra No.1626/548 is being used by general public.

11. During the pendency of the petition, three persons namely Pawan Kumar, Bhim Singh and Padam Chand got themselves impleaded as respondents No.7 to 9 and filed their separate replies opposing the claim of the petitioner. It has been averred that all these persons are having their residential buildings at the place where the construction work of the building of respondent No.5 is being undertaken since 2006. It is also averred that the construction being carried out by respondent No.5 is strictly in accordance with the sanctioned plan. It is then averred that inhabitants of the locality have for the long time been demanding an ambulance road by submitting various representations and on receipt of the same the department had moved the case for seeking approval from the competent authority under the provisions of the Forest Conservation Act. It is also pointed out that the petitioner infact has tried his level best to get the construction work of the ambulance road stayed, though he has not come forward against installation of three big telecommunication towers which have been installed in the same locality and were a source of health hazard which proves that the petitioner by instituting the instant petition really has no genuine public interest.

12. In rejoinder to the reply filed by respondents No.1 and 2, the petitioner has averred that respondent No.5 under the garb of the ambulance road had already dug the forest land and constructed a road upto his plot and by exercising his official power has prevailed upon respondent No.4 to somehow lobby "with the Forest Department of Himachal Pradesh for permission to build a road for upcoming residential building through the forest land on the pretext of ambulance road". It is further contended that the forest land has been encroached by respondent No.5 by submitting false and fabricated tatimas and the extent of such encroachment can only be known after the land is actually demarcated by the revenue officials.

13. In rejoinder to the reply filed by respondent No.3, the petitioner has admitted that he is not a resident of the area, but claims to have no personal interest in the litigation, save and except, that he is sincerely interested in protecting the beautiful forest cover around "Kamna Devi" temple. It is also averred that the area in possession of CPWD is full of thick forests with huge 'Deodar', 'Pine' and 'Oak' trees and as such is a part of the forest land. The revenue records to the contrary, therefore, deserve to be corrected. It has further been averred that the ambulance road has been constructed by respondent No.5 over the land belonging to CPWD.

14. In rejoinder to the reply filed by respondent No.4, the petitioner has sought to justify his locus-standi and has also averred that a demarcation ought to have been conducted so as to ascertain the extent of encroachments made by the private builders over the forest land. It is also averred that some private builders have even thrown their debris in the forest land and official respondents have simply acted as mute spectators as one of its very sincere Officer is carrying out construction of his house adjoining forest land. The petitioner has once again impeached the veracity of the tatimas by claiming that the same are false and fabricated inasmuch as the tatima issued in 2002 Annexure P-2 appears an entry by a different hand and by a different person wherein mention regarding three metres wide stairs on the left side of the plot has been made, whereas, nothing of this sort has been mentioned in the latest tatima of the same plot issued on 17.03.2010 (Annexure P-3). In support of such contention the petitioner has now annexed a copy of revenue map as Annexure P-8. It is thereafter averred that in absence of proper demarcation, the actual extent of encroachment cannot be ascertained. But, despite this the official respondents are more than willing to give a clean chit to respondent No.5 notwithstanding the allegations made by the petitioner and also appearing in the print media.

15. In rejoinder to the reply filed by respondent No.5, it has been averred that the said respondent is deliberately raising issue regarding some previous litigation with one of his neighbours which infact has nothing to do with the subject matter of the present petition. It is averred that this petition is essentially against the illegal and unauthorized construction of road/path over the forest land around "Kamna Devi" temple. It is further claimed that the instant petition has infact been filed against the encroachments made by the private land owners/builders over the forest land adjoining "Kamna Devi" temple. The allegation that the petitioner is being used by one Shri Vinod Kumar and Smt. Vijay Sharma to vent their grudge against respondent No.5 has been denied. The petitioner has stated that he has nothing to do with his brother Shri Dinesh Sood with whom he otherwise does not even enjoy a very cordial relationship. It is also averred that the petitioner has separate and independent business and is no way concerned with the business activities of his brother. The petitioner has thereafter reiterated the averments regarding the veracity of the tatima, the reports appearing in the media and the so-called influence being exercised by respondent No.5.

16. In rejoinder to the reply filed by respondent No.6, it has been averred that unless and until there is a proper demarcation, the extent of encroachment cannot be ascertained.

We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records of the case.

17. We have deliberately referred to the pleadings of the parties in extenso so as to enable us to come to a conclusion as to whether the petitioner is indeed a probono publico and has infact filed the instant petition in larger public interest.

18. At the outset, we may observe that save and except for a bald statement that the petition has been filed in public interest, there is no material whatsoever placed on record by the petitioner whereby it can be inferred that he is a probono publico or that the petition has infact been filed in public interest. Rather, if one would go through the entire petition, it would be evident that the element of public interest is conspicuously absent. The credibility of the petitioner becomes further doubtful when he chooses to target only respondent No.5 and does not question the construction admittedly being made by the other so-called influential persons including Shri Vinod Kumar and Smt. Vijay Sharma (supra). The petitioner's credentials become all the more doubtful when he even does not deny that the aforesaid persons are known to him. He further does not deny that one of his brothers Shri Dinesh Sood is working as a Government Contractor with the Municipal Corporation, Shimla and in the year 2010 the work allotted to him by the Corporation had been cancelled at the instance of respondent No.5 and even his earnest money had been forfeited.

19. What we can, therefore, prima facie, infer is that the petitioner has been set up as a dummy and has, therefore, indulged in public mischief for oblique motive and in such circumstances the Court has to act ruthlessly while dealing with such imposters, busybody and meddlesome interlopers impersonating as public spirited holy men. The petitioner cannot masquerade as crusader of justice and is only pretending to act in the name of probono publico, though he has no interest in the public to protect. The instant petition has been filed under ploy for achieving oblique motives.

20. It is more than settled that merely because a petition is styled as a Public Interest Litigation but infact is nothing more than a camouflage to foster personal disputes or vendetta and the petitioner infact is a proxy litigant the same cannot be regarded as a Public Interest Litigation. There has to be a real and genuine public interest involved in a litigation and there must be concrete and credible basis for maintaining a cause before the Court and not merely an adventure of knight errant borne out of wishful thinking. Only a person acting bonafide and having sufficient interest in the proceedings of PIL will alone have a locus-standi and can approach the Court to wipe out the tears of the poor and needy, suffering from violation of their fundamental rights, but not a person(s) for personal gain or private profit or any other oblique consideration.

21. Public Interest Litigation is a weapon which has to be used with great care and circumspection and the Judiciary has to be extremely careful to see that behind the beautiful veil of public interest an ugly private malice, vested interest and/or public interest seeking is not lurking. It is to be used as an effective weapon in the armoury of law for delivering social justice to the citizens.

22. The attractive brand name of Public Interest Litigation cannot be allowed to be used for suspicious products of mischief. This has so been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in its various pronouncements and the same have been repeatedly reiterated and followed by this Court in a batch of writ petitions, CWP No.7249/2010 titled 'Devinder Chauhan Jaita versus State of Himachal Pradesh and others', being lead case, decided on 03.12.2014, another batch of writ petitions, CWP No.9480/2014 titled 'Vijay Kumar Gupta versus State of Himachal Pradesh and others', being the lead case, decided on 09.01.2015, CWP No.2775/2015 titled 'Anurag Sharma and another versus State of Himachal Pradesh and others', decided on 07.07.2015, CWP No.328 of 2016 titled 'Lala Ram and others versus State of H.P.and others, decided on 01.03.2016, CWP No.4838 of 2015 titled 'Ali Mohammed versus State of H.P. and others, decided on 16.03.2016, CWP No.4240 of 2015 titled 'Om Prakash Sharma versus State of H.P. and others, decided on 19.04.2016 and CWP No.3131 of 2014, titled 'Dr.J.S.Chauhan versus State of H.P. and others, decided on 06.05.2016.

23. The issue regarding public interest litigation has elaborately been dealt with by this Bench in CWP No.9480 of 2014, titled 'Vijay Kumar Gupta versus State of H.P. and others, decided on 09.01.2015 (supra) and after taking into consideration the entire law on this subject this Court laid down the following parameters for permitting litigation in public interest:-

> "29. From the aforesaid exposition of law, it can safely be concluded that the Court would allow litigation in public interest only if it is found:-
> (i) That the impugned action is violative of any of the rights enshrined in Part III of the Constitution of India or any other legal right and relief is sought for its enforcement;
>
> (ii) That the action complained of is palpably illegal or malafide and affects the group of persons who are not in a position to protect their own interest or on account of poverty, incapacity or ignorance;
>
> (iii) That the person or a group of persons were approaching the Court in public interest for redressal of public injury arising from the breach of public duty or from violation of some provision of the Constitutional law;
>
> (iv) That such person or group of persons is not a busy body or a meddlesome inter-loper and have not approached with mala fide intention of vindicating their personal vengeance or grievance;
>
> (v) That the process of public interest litigation was not being abused by politicians or other busy bodies for political or unrelated objective. Every default on the part of the State or Public Authority being not justiciable in such litigation;
>
> (vi) That the litigation initiated in public interest was such that if not remedied or prevented would weaken the faith of the common man in the institution of the judicial and the democratic set up of the country;
>
> (vii) That the State action was being tried to be covered under the carpet and intended to be thrown out on technicalities;
>
> (viii) Public interest litigation may be initiated either upon a petition filed or on the basis of a letter or other information received but upon satisfaction that the information laid before the Court was of such a nature which required examination;
>
> (ix) That the person approaching the Court has come with clean hands, clean heart and clean objectives;
> (x) That before taking any action in public interest the Court must be satisfied that its forum was not being misused by any unscrupulous litigant, politicians, busy body or persons of groups with mala fide objective or either for vindication of their personal grievance or by resorting to black-mailing or considerations extraneous to public interest."

24. It would thus be clear that public interest litigation can only be entertained at the instance of a bonafide litigant and cannot be used by unscrupulous litigants to disguise personal or individual grievance as a public interest litigation. The instant petition fails to qualify the above parameters.

25. Here we may also note that in compliance to the directions issued by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Uttaranchal Vs. Balwant Singh Chaufal (2010) 3 SCC 402, this Court vide notification dated 08.04.2010, with a view to preserve the purity and sanctity of Public Interest Litigation and also to keep a check on frivolous letters/petitions has framed Rules known as The Himachal Pradesh High Court Public Interest Litigation Rules, 2010. Rules 3 and 4 thereof read as under:-

"3. The petitions/complaints/letters and new paper clippings falling under the following categories can be treated under Public Interest Litigation.

(i) Bonded labour matters.

(ii) Neglected children.

(iii) Non-payment of minimum wages to workers and exploitation of casual workers and complaints of violation of Labour Laws (except in individual cases).

Provided that in respect of clauses (i), (ii) and (iii) above, if any of these matters forming the subject matter of the communication relates to one person (as opposed to a group of persons) this cannot be termed as a PIL and can be at best be treated as an individual writ petition.

(iv) Petitions against atrocities on women; in particular harassment of bride, bride burning, rape, murder, kidnapping etc;

(v) Petitions complaining of harassment or torture of villagers by co-villagers or by police in respect of persons belonging to Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes and economically backward classes;

Provided that in respect of clauses (iv) and (v) above if any of these matters of the communication relates to one person (as opposed to a group of persons) this cannot be called as a PIL.

(vi) Petitions pertaining to environmental pollution, disturbance of ecological balance, drugs, food adulteration, maintenance of heritage and culture antiques, forest and wild life, encroachment of public property and other matters of public importance;

(vii) Petitions from riot-victims; and (viii) Family pension.

EXPLANATION: The test to treat a communication as PIL is whether any particular communication relates to an individual, if it does, it will be an individual, if it does, it will be an individual's C.W.P. and not a PIL irrespective of the fact whether the individual is complaining of any harassment or any violation of rights, which may also be akin to a group. If, however, the communication relates to a group and it is felt that group cannot defend itself or is not in a position to come to the Court, that would be a PIL warranting interference of the High Court in that PIL.

4. However, no petition involving individual/personal matter shall be entertained as Public Interest Litigation including the matters pertaining to landlord tenant disputes, service matters except concerning pension and gratuity; the petitions for early hearing of cases as well as the petitions concerning maintenance of wives, children and parents."

26. As per Rule 9, the Court before entertaining a Public Interest Litigation shall keep in view the following factors:-

"(i) to verify the credentials of the petitioner;

(ii) satisfaction regarding the correctness of the contents of the petition;

(iii) substantial public interest is involved;

(iv) the petition which involved larger public interest, gravity and urgency must be given priority over other petitions;

(v) to ensure that the PIL is aimed at redressal of genuine public harm or public injury. It shall also be ensured that there is no personal gain, private or oblique motive behind filing the public interest litigation.

> (vi) to ensure that the petition filed by busybodies for extraneous and ulterior motives must be discouraged by imposing exemplary costs or by adopting similar novel methods to curb frivolous petitions and the petitions filed for extraneous consideration."

The petition does not even fulfill the criteria as prescribed in the aforesaid Rules and even though the petition is claimed to have been filed in Public Interest Litigation, it does not even qualify to be registered as such and is therefore, not maintainable for the reasons all stated above and for reasons recorded hereinafter also.

27. Adverting to the facts once again it would be noticed that the petitioner as per his own showing is a resident of Jatog which is atleast five kilometres from "Kamna Devi" temple and, therefore, we wonder what special interest the petitioner has in this litigation, especially, when it has come in the reply of the official respondents that a beautiful path of red sand stone has been constructed by respondent No.4 from "Chakkar Chowk to Kamna Devi" temple which infact is the only approach to the temple and this is so reflected in the spot map.

28. The material placed on record further reveals that no trees have been illegally felled or uprooted. No debris has been dumped over any portion of the so-called forest land and even the construction being raised by respondent No.5 is strictly in accordance with the law as he while raising construction of his house has left mandatory set backs. Even the so-called forest land in possession of the CPWD i.e. respondent No.3 is not so classified or recorded in the revenue records and further there is no road that has been constructed through the alleged forest land. Likewise, the petitioner has also failed to substantiate his allegations regarding encroachment(s) over the so-called forest land and except for naming respondent No.5 that too for obvious reasons, the petitioner has further failed to name the so-called private builders, who have either thrown debris or have encroached over the alleged forest land. That apart, the petitioner before approaching this Court has never called upon the authorities concerned by making a representation inviting their attention to what has now been stated in this petition. Ordinarily, any petitioner, who applies for a writ or order in the nature of mandamus should in compliance with a well known rule of practice, ordinarily, first call upon the authority concerned to discharge its legal obligation and show that it has refused or neglected to carry out the same within a reasonable time before applying to a Court for such an order.

29. This case is a classical example where the petitioner has indulged in a proxy war and the instant petition has been filed with oblique motive by making frivolous and vexatious allegations that too at the instance of Shri Vinod Kumar and Smt. Vijay Sharma, who are none other than the neighbours of respondent No.5. The petitioner has used the attractive brand name of public interest litigation for suspicious products of mischief. This petition in no manner seeks redressal of genuine public wrong or public injury but is founded on personal vendetta and to say the least is a proxy litigation.

30. It would also be noticed that what the petitioner infact seeks is fishing and roving inquiry without having placed on record any contemporaneous official records to substantiate the allegations levelled by him, more particularly, against respondents No.3 to 5. It has to be remembered that the Court proceedings are sacrosanct and cannot, therefore, be permitted to be polluted. Judicial system cannot be allowed to be abused and brought to its knees by unscrupulous litigants. If the petitioner was really keen in preserving and protection of the natural endowed and dense forests in and around Shimla and had special interest in the heritage monuments/temples situate in Shimla, then he would have atleast placed on record some material in support of such contentions. Not only this, if the petitioner was genuinely interested in preserving all that he claims, then why the details of atleast one of such similar work undertaken by him is not forthcoming?

31. It would thus be evident from the aforesaid discussion that the petitioner has not approached this Court with clean hands. This Court in exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction is a Court of equity and any person approaching is expected not only to act with clean hands but also with clean mind, clean heart and with clean objective. He who seeks equity must do equity. The judicial process cannot become an instrument of oppression or abuse or a means in the process of Court to subvert justice for the reasons that the Courts exercise jurisdiction only in furtherance of justice. The interest of justice and public interest coalesce and therefore, they are very often one and the same.

32. In view of the aforesaid discussion not only is there no merit in this petition, but the same is also mischievous and has only resulted in wastage of precious Court's time. Even the respondents have unnecessarily been dragged into an otherwise avoidable litigation.

33. Accordingly, this petition is dismissed with costs of Rs.50,000/- to be paid by the petitioner to respondent No.5 within a period of three months, failing which respondent No.5 shall be at liberty to recover the costs by seeking execution of this order. The petition is disposed of in the aforesaid terms, so also the pending application, if any.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

Baldev Singh and others. ...Appellants.
Versus
Kalan Devi and others. ...Respondents

RSA No. 549 of 2002
Reserved on: 4.7.2016
Decided on: 12.7.2016

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff filed a civil suit pleading that one M started living with plaintiff's sister N - M purchased land and constructed a house- son of M left village and never returned- plaintiff started residing with M- defendant No. 1 had never married the son of M and was not in possession of the house- she filed a civil suit, which was decreed ex-parte in her favour – plaintiff had become owner by way of adverse possession- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was partly allowed- held, in second appeal that plaintiff was not served with any notice when the Civil suit was instituted by defendant No. 1- he was also not summoned when the mutation was attested- it cannot be believed that defendant No. 1 started residing in the house of B as servant- there is plethora of evidence that she was married with B and she was recorded as wife of B in the Pariwar Register and voter list – it was duly proved that defendant No. 1 was never married to son of M and she had concocted a false story regarding the marriage- appeal dismissed. (Para-17 and 18)

For the Appellants : Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Ms. Vandana Kuthiala, Advocate for respondent Nos. 1 (b) to 1 (e).

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge.

This Regular Second Appeal is directed against the judgment and decree dated 6.8.2002 rendered by the Additional District Judge-II, Kangra at Dharamshala in Civil Appeal No. 89-K/97 whereby an appeal preferred by the appellants-defendants (hereinafter referred to as the "defendants" for convenience sake) was partly allowed to the extent that the decree of the trial court holding that the plaintiff-respondent (hereinafter referred to as the "plaintiff" for convenience sake) had become owner by way of adverse possession of the suit land was set aside, however, the judgment and decree to the effect that it has declared the judgment and decree rendered in Civil Suit No. 99/89 as null and void was upheld.

2. “Key facts” necessary for the adjudication of this appeal are that according to the averments made in the plaint, about 35-36 years back, one Mangatu son of Tegu came to village Chari and started leaving with plaintiff's sister Nihatu widow of Sh. Podu. Nihatu had constructed a house in Khasra No. 1710 and was living therein. Plaintiff, his brother and sister were also living with Nihatu. He was looking after Nihatu. Mangatu and his son Chamaru were also living there. Mangatu purchased land comprised in Khata No. 422, Khatanu No. 874, Khasra Nos. 1709 and area measuring 0-01-08 hectares Gair Mumkin Abadi situated in Mohal and Mauza Chari, Tehsil Dharamshala, District Kangra. He had constructed a house thereon. He alongwith his son started living in the house. Thereafter, about 30 years back, Chamaru left village and never came back again. Since Mangatu was quite old, plaintiff started living with him. In the earthquake of 1986, the house of Mangatu collapsed and destroyed. Plaintiff was in occupation of that house. He was given compensation of Rs. 1200/- by the State Government. Defendant No.1 Smt. Amriti never married with Chamaru nor ever lived with him. She never came into possession of the suit land or the house. She was wife of Basakhu Ram son of Panna, resident of Saddoon, Tehsil and District Kangra. Smt. Amriti Devi in collusion with defendant Nos. 2 to 6, as arrayed in the original suit, filed a Civil Suit No.99/89 in the court of Senior Sub Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala, titled as Smt. Amriti Devi vs. General Public. Amriti Devi in collusion with defendant Nos. 2 to 6 defrauded and misrepresented the Court by claiming falsely to be wife of Chamaru son of Mangatu which she never was. Plaintiff was never impleaded as defendant in the suit knowing fully well that plaintiff was in possession of the suit land since the death of Mangatu. Learned Sub Judge 3rd Class, Dharamshala passed an ex parte decree on 30.12.1989 in Civil Suit No. 99/89 in favour of Amriti Devi. Mutation No. 502 was also attested in her favour on 23.11.1991. In the alternative, it was prayed that the plaintiff has become owner of the suit land by way of adverse possession. Plaintiff came to know that Amriti has sold the suit land to defendant Nos. 2 to 6.

3. The suit was contested by the defendants. On merit, it was stated that the plaintiff was not owner of the suit land, rather Amriti was owner of the suit land and she has sold the suit land in favour of defendant No.4, namely, Multan Singh. Nihatu had never constructed a house adjoining to land bearing Khasra No. 1709. This Khasra number belonged to defendant Nos. 2 to 5. There was no relationship of the plaintiff with Nihatu or Mangatu and Chamaru Ram was married to Amriti. They lived together. Chamaru had gone to Punjab in search of some job. He never came back. Mangatu father of Chamaru also died about 20 years back. Plaintiff was not collateral of Mangatu or Chamaru. Defendant Amriti started living in village Saddoon and left dilapidated house under the care of Mehar Singh predecessor-in-interest of defendant Nos.2 to 6. The house collapsed. Civil Suit No. 99/89 was rightly decreed.

4. Issues were framed by the Civil Judge 1st Class, Dharamshala on 11.9.1992. She decreed the suit declaring that the plaintiff has become owner of the suit land by way of adverse possession and Amriti Devi was not the legally wedded wife of Chamaru Ram. The judgment and decree passed by Sub Judge Class-III, Dharamshala in Civil Suit No. 99/89 titled as Amriti Devi versus General Public decided on 30.12.1989 was the result of fraud and mis-representation and was null and void and not binding upon the plaintiff. Defendants filed an appeal against the judgment and decree dated 31.7.1997 before the Additional District Judge-II, Kangra at Dharamshala. He partly allowed the appeal as discussed hereinabove. Hence, the present appeal. It was admitted on 23.12.2002 on the following substantial questions of law:

1. Whether in view of the judgment and decree passed in earlier suit brought by way of additional evidence before the learned Addl. District Judge, Dharamshala demolishes the case of the plaintiff in its entirety as he already stand adjudicated not to be in possession?
2. Whether without specifically alleging and pleadings qua the alleged fraud and misrepresentation and without an iota of evidence with respect to the fraud/misrepresentation, both the courts below erred in declaring the judgment and decree in civil suit No.99/89 as null and void stand vitiated and liable to be quashed and set aside?

5. Mr. Ajay Sharma, learned counsel for the appellants, on the basis of substantial questions of law framed, has vehemently argued that the judgment and decree dated 30.12.1989 rendered in Civil Suit No. 99/89 was binding on the plaintiff. Plaintiff has not led any evidence that it was outcome of fraud or misrepresentation. He also contended that learned first appellate court has not decided the application filed under order 41 rule 27 of the Code of Civil Procedure at the time of final hearing.

6. Ms. Vandana Kuthiala, learned counsel for the respondents has supported the judgments and decrees passed by both the courts below.

7. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records carefully.

8. Since both the substantial questions of law are interconnected and interlinked the same are taken up together for determination to avoid repetition of discussion of evidence.

9. Learned Sub Judge 1st Class has framed issue No.2 as under:

Whether the judgment and decree dated 30.12.89 passed by Sub Judge III Class (1) Dharamshala in civil suit No. 99/89 is null and void and not binding on the plaintiff being a result of fraud, and mis-representation as alleged?"

10. PW-1 Puran Chand, in his examination-in-chief, has deposed that Mangatu son of Tegu had come with his son Chamaru to village Chari about 37-38 years back. Nihatu was living in her house constructed in Khasra No. 1710. Mangatu has died 32 years back and Chamaru left the village before 5-6 months of the death of Mangatu. He has never come back. He started living in the house of Mangatu. Mangatu was his grand-father in relation. Amriti was not related to Chamaru. She has neither stayed with Chamaru nor with Mangatu. She never remained in possession of the house. Amriti was married to one Basakhu of village Saddoon. Amriti filed civil suit in collusion with Multan Singh. He has never received any summons. Amriti claimed herself to be wife of Chamaru and obtained decree in her favour. Mutation was also attested. He was not summoned at the time of attestation of mutation. Till Chamaru lived in Chari, he never married. Respondents have no concern with the suit land. They wanted to forcibly oust him.

11. PW-2 Rattan Chand has testified that Amriti Devi never resided with Chamaru. In his cross-examination, he has denied that after departure of Chamaru from village Chari, Amriti resided with Mangatu and after the death of Mangatu, she handed over the keys of house to Mehar Chand. In fact, PW-2 Rattan Chand is resident of village Chari.

12. PW-3 Amar Chand was the Pradhan of Gram Panchayat Saddoon. He has deposed that in Panchayat family register, Smt. Amriti Devi has been recorded as wife of Basakhu Ram. They were living together for the last 35-36 years. He has proved copy of family register Ex.PW-3/A. In Ex.PW-3/A, Amriti Devi has been entered as wife of Basakhu Ram. PW-3 Basakhu Ram is an independent witness.

13. PW-4 R.S. Rana has proved the copy of plaint in Civil Suit No. 99/89 Ex.PW-4/A and stated that it was drafted by him on the instructions of Amriti Devi.

14. PW-5 Jagdish Thakur was the Election Kanungo. He has proved the extracts from the Election Roll for the year 1983 of Shahpur Assembly as Ex.PW-5/A. In Ex.PW-5/A, at Sr. Nos. 289 and 290, name of Basakhu Ram son of Punnu and Amriti Devi wife of Basakhu Ram, resident of Saddoon are recorded as voters.

15. DW-1 Multan Singh has deposed that Chamaru was the owner of the suit land and after the death of Chamaru, his wife Amriti Devi became the owner. He has shown his ignorance about the marriage of Amriti with Chamaru and has deposed that his father had told him about the marriage of Amriti with Chamaru. He has also admitted that Amriti Devi was residing with Basakhu Ram and shown his ignorance to the fact that in what capacity Amriti Devi was living with Basakhu Ram.

16. Amriti Devi has appeared as DW-2. She has testified that her marriage was solemnized with Chamaru Ram at the age of 12 years. She used to live in the house of her Mamas and sometime in the house of Chamaru for 5-7 years. Chamaru went somewhere for job. He never came back. Her father Managatu remained alive for 10-12 years after the departure of Chamaru. She had gone there on his death and after his death started living in Saddoon in the house of Basakhu as a servant as he was having no children. In her cross-examination, she has stated that after the demise of Mangatu, she has not abandoned the suit land, but used to come occasionally and after the departure of Chamaru, she was living with Basakhu and she was voter of Saddoon village and used to cast her vote. She has not produced any witness to prove her marriage with Chamaru. She has not produced even her maternal uncle as she has stated that she was residing with her maternal uncle. In Civil Suit No. 99/89, Amriti Devi has examined Bhagwan Dass and Onkar Chand to prove the fact that she was legally wedded wife of Chamaru, but these witnesses have not been produced in the present case. These were the most material witnesses.

17. Plaintiff has never been served with any notice when Civil Suit No. 99/89 was instituted. He was also not summoned when the mutation was attested in favour of Amriti Devi. It cannot be believed that Amriti Devi had started residing in the house of Basakhu Ram as servant. In fact, there is plethora of evidence that she was married with Basakhu Ram and in the Pariwar Register, name of Amriti Devi has been recorded as wife of Basakhu Ram and in the voter list also, she has been shown as wife of Basakhu Ram. Evidence of DW-1 Multan Singh is hearsay as he has deposed that he was told by his father that Amriti Devi was wife of Chamaru. Plaintiff has duly proved that Amriti Devi has never married with Chamaru. He has also duly proved that Amriti Devi in collusion with defendant Nos.2 to 6 has concocted false story of her marriage with Chamaru and filed a false case and obtained a decree of declaration that she was legally wedded wife of Chamaru.

18. Mr. Ajay Sharma has vehemently argued that the plaintiff has not pleaded that the decree dated 30.12.1989 in Civil Suit No. 99/89 was outcome of fraud and misrepresentation.

19. Ms. Vandana Kuthiala has drawn the attention of the Court to para No.13 of the plaint whereby it is specifically pleaded that Amriti Devi in collusion with defendant Nos. 2 to 6 has played a fraud on the court as well as the plaintiff by claiming falsely to be the wife of Chamaru son of Mangatu which she never was and the plaintiff was not impleaded as party. It is reiterated that the plaintiff has duly proved that Amriti Devi was never married to Chamaru. Plaintiff had started living in the house of Mangatu after the departure of Chamaru. He was also paid compensation by the State Government. Amriti Devi could not dispose of the land to defendants on the basis of decree rendered in Civil Suit No. 99/89, which was null and void.

20. Defendants had also filed an application under order 41 rule 27 of the Code of Civil Procedure to adduce copy of judgment and decree dated 14.11.1996 in Civil Suit No. 132/93/91 passed by the learned Senior Sub Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala and copy of judgment rendered in Civil Appeal No. 7-D/XIII/97. The application was contested by the plaintiff that Civil Suit No. 132/93/91 was filed for recovery . The application was allowed by the Additional District Judge-II, Kangra at Dharamshala on 26.3.2002. The judgments and decrees were permitted to be taken on record and the same were exhibited.

21. Ms. Vandana Kuthiala has drawn the attention of the Court to judgment and decree dated 14.11.1996 rendered in Civil Suit No. 132/93/91. It is evident from the judgment and decree dated 14.11.1996 that the plaintiff had filed suit for recovery against one Sh. Multan

Singh, Kalyan Singh, Chatur Singh and Baldev Singh. The suit was dismissed and the appeal preferred against the judgment and decree dated 14.11.1996 in Civil Appeal No. 7-B/XIII/97 was also dismissed being incompetent. These two documents have no bearing on the present case. Merely that the application filed under section 41 rule 27 of the Code of Civil Procedure was decided on 26.3.2002, being not heard with the main case, has not prejudiced the case of defendants in view of the facts and circumstances discussed hereinabove.

22. The substantial questions of law are answered accordingly.

23. In view of the analysis and discussion made hereinabove, there is no merit in the present appeal and the same is dismissed.

16. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionists that PW5 Ludar Chand and PW6 Ailoo Ram eye witness of incident contradicts each other and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused testimonies of oral eye witnesses examined by prosecution. There is no material contradiction in the testimony of prosecution witness which goes to the root of case. It is well settled law that minor contradictions are bound to come in a criminal case when the testimony of prosecution witnesses recorded after a gap of sufficient time. In the present case it is proved on record that incident took place on 25th /26th June 2005 at about 12.15 AM night and testimonies of prosecution witnesses were recorded on dated 22.11.2005 and 9.1.2006 after a gap of sufficient time. It was held in case reported in C. Muniappan and others Vs. State of Tamil Nadu 2010 (9) SCC 567 that undue importance should not be attached to omission, contradiction and discrepancy which do not goes to the root of case. It was held that minor discrepancies are bound to occur in statement of witnesses in criminal cases when statement of prosecution witness is recorded after gap of sufficient time. Also see

17. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionists that prosecution witnesses are interested witnesses and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. PW6 Ailoo Ram is not interested witness and PW6 Ailoo Ram is not close relative of PW5 Ludar Chand injured. There is no evidence on record that PW6 Ailoo Ram has hostile animus against revisionists at any point of time. Testimony of PW6 is trustworthy, reliable and inspirers confidence of Court. There is no reason to disbelieve the testimony of PW6.It is well settled law that testimony of related witness can also be relied if the evidence of related witness is trustworthy, reliable and inspire confidence of Court. See AIR 2016 SC 1015 title State of Punjab Vs. Suraj Prakash. It is well settled law that conviction can be based on the testimony of solitary witness. See AIR 1973 SC 944 title Jose Vs. 18. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionists that injured himself driven maruti van in high speed due to which van of injured struck with electric pole and injured sustained injury on his body and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. The plea of accused persons that injured sustained injury when vehicle of injured struck with electric pole is defeated on the concept of ipse dixit (Assertion made without proof).

19. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionists that incriminatory evidence not put to revisionists when statement of revisionists recorded under Section 113 Cr.PC and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused statement of accused persons recorded under Section 113 Cr.PC. It is held that all incriminatory evidence put to accused persons by learned Trial Court. 20. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionists that no motive has been attributed to accused persons in present case and on this ground revision petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that when criminal act is proved by way of direct eye witness then motive looses its substance. It is held that motive is required to be proved in circumstantial criminal case only and motive is not required to be proved in direct eye witness case. It is well settled law that when there is direct evidence relating to criminal offence then question of motive becomes immaterial. See AIR 2010 SCW 5685 title Dharnidhar Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh. See AIR 2010 SCW 4470 title Bipin Kumar Mondal Vs. State of West Bengal. See AIR 1986 SC 1899 title State of Andhra Pradesh Vs. State of Punjab.

21. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of revisionists that revisionists be released by way of giving them benefit of Probation of offenders Act 1958 is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is not expedient in the ends of justice to give benefit of Probation of Offenders Act to revisionists because injured has lost his tooth due to injury inflicted by revisionists upon injured. Learned Sessions Judge Kullu has already reduced sentence part in present case. It is not expedient in the ends of justice to release revisionists on Probation of Offenders Act 1958 in present case. In view of above stated facts it is held that it is not expedient in the ends of justice to interfere in the present case. In view of above stated facts point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2(final order).

22. In view of findings on point No1 revision petition is dismissed. File of learned Trial Court and file of learned Sessions Judge Kullu along with certified copy of judgment be sent back forthwith. Revision petition is disposed of. Pending application if any also stands disposed of.

(Para-2 to 8)

For the Petitioner : Ms. Jyotsna Rewal Dua, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Shalini Thakur, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. Neeraj Sharma, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge (oral).

The present petition has been instituted under section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure for quashing of FIR No.65 dated 29.4.2013 registered at Police Station, Baddi, District Solan for offence under section 21 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the "Act" for brevity sake) and also order dated 10.11.2014 framing the charge under section 21 of the Act, consequent charge sheet dated 10.11.2014 and all subsequent proceedings.

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of this petition are that FIR No. 65 dated 29.4.2013 was registered at Police Station, Baddi against the petitioner with the allegations that petitioner alongwith Baldev Singh son of Prem Singh, resident of Ambala City was found in possession of 60 boxes of Spasmo Proxyvon capsules having Batch No. JN10154 with manufacturing date of February, 2013. Total capsules were found to be 8640 containing Dicyclomine Hydrochloride 10 mg, Dextropropoxyphene Napsilate 100 mg and Acetaminophen 400 mg. Petitioner alongwith co-accused was also found to be in possession of two boxes of Microlit tablets having 100 packets each containing 100 tablets in a box. Total number of tablets came to be 10000 having Batch No. BT1202005 with manufacturing date of February, 2012. Each tablet contained Diphenoxylate Hydrochloride 2.5 mg and Antropine Sulphate 0.025 mg. They were also found in possession of another 49 bottles each contained 100 tablets of Lomotil. Total number of tablets came to be 4900 having Batch No. 03L2064 with manufacturing date July, 2012. Each tablet contained Diphenoxylate Hydrochloride 2.5 mg and Atropine Sulphate 0.025 mg. They were also found in possession of 15 strips of tablets equilibrium. Total number of tablets came to be 150 having Batch No.J.M.T.13001 with manufacturing date January, 2013. Each tablet contained Chlordiazepoxide 10 mg. The recovered medicines were forwarded to State Forensic Science Laboratory, Himachal Pradesh for analysis. The report of State Forensic Science Laboratory is dated 13.5.2013. The quantitative analysis reveals as under:

> "Spasmo Proxyvon-the test indicated the presence of Dextropropoxyphene Napsylate to the extent of 99.763 mg per capsule.
> Microlit-the test indicated the presence of Diphenoxylate Hydrochloride to the extent of 2.533 mg per tablet.
>
> Lomtil- the test indicated the presence of Diphenoxylate Hydrochloride to the extent of 2.487 mg per tablet.
> Equilibrium- the test indicated the presence of Chlordiazepoxide to the extent of 9.91 mg per tablet."

3. Ms. Jyotsna Rewal Dua, learned Senior Advocate has vehemently argued that the petitioner is real brother of Ms. Chandni Jain daughter of Sh. Gulshan Jain, proprietor of M/s Jain Medical Agency, Shop No.7, Patel Nagar, Ambala City having wholesale drugs licences in Form 20-B and Form 21-B of Schedule 'A' of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945. The licences issued in the name of M/s Jain Medical Agency were valid w.e.f. 18.8.2008 to 17.8.2013. Petitioner was entitled to sell, stock, exhibit or offer for sale or distribute these medicines by virtue of licences issued by the Food and Drugs Administration, Haryana under the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945. Investigation was completed and challan was put up in the court after completing all the codal formalities.

4. The charges were framed on 10.11.2014. According to order dated 10.11.2014, prima facie there were sufficient grounds to proceed against the accused persons for the commission of offence punishable under section 21 of the Act. Accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. The case was fixed for prosecution evidence on 15.1.2015. The charge framed against the accused dated 10.11.2014 is also placed on record. The licence was issued by the State Drug Controller, Haryana to Ms. Chandni Jain. According to the condition of licence issued in Form 20 (b) and 21 (b) of the Drugs and Cosmetic Rules, 1945, the sale shall be made under the supervision of competent person, Sh. Ajish Jain. M/s Jain Medical Agency was licensed to stock or exhibit or offer for sale or distribute by wholesale drugs in the premises situated at Shop No.7, Patel Nagar Amabala City. The firm, i.e. M/s Jain Medical Agency was never authorized to distribute the medicines/drugs throughout the State of Himachal Pradesh by way of authorization. The Special Power of Attorney dated 17.1.2013 is against the conditions of licence.

5. Ms. Jyotsna Rewal Dua has drawn the attention of the Court to various documents to substantiate that her clients were authorized to distribute the medicines/drugs. However, fact of the matter is that when the petitioner applied for bail, these documents were not annexed with the bail application. Thus, it is evident that these documents were procured after the bail application was rejected. In case the petitioner and co-accused were in possession of these documents, there was no reason that they have not placed the same on record at the time of seeking bail.

6. Prima facie case is made out against the petitioner and co-accused and framing of charge against them by the trial court is after due application of mind. There is neither any illegality nor any perversity in the order dated 10.11.2014.

7. Whether the drugs/medicines recovered from the petitioner falls within the ambit of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 shall not be the subject matter of the trial.

8. Accordingly, in view of the analysis and discussion made hereinabove, there is no merit in the petition and the same is dismissed, so also the pending application(s), if any. It is made clear that the observations made hereinabove shall have no bearing on the merits of the main case.

5. Submission of petitioner that as per criminal complaint incident took place on 18.12.2010 and police station is at a distance of 200-300 meters from the place of incident and criminal complaint was filed on 20.10.2010 after inordinate delay and on this ground order of learned Trial Court dated 30.06.2012 for summoning the accused under Sections 504 and 506 IPC be set aside is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is held that delay in filing complaint would be explained by the prosecution during trial of the case. It is held that at the time of passing summoning order Court has to simply see sufficient grounds for proceeding against accused as per statements of prosecution witnesses and documents annexed with the investigation report filed under Section 173 Code of Criminal Procedure 1973.

6. Submission of petitioner that CD is neither placed on record nor supplied to accused when demanded under Right to Information Act and on this ground petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that accused has legal right for demand of all the documents annexed with the challan. Court has perused the original file of learned Trial Court. Two CDs are annexed with the challan file and learned Trial Court is under legal obligation to supply copy of CD to accused in accordance with law. It is held that copy of CD would be supplied to accused by learned Trial Court in accordance with law because two CDs are part and parcel of the challan filed by the investigating agency.

7. Submission of petitioner that words 'misbehave and abuse' do not fall within definition of Section 506 IPC and on this ground order of learned Trial Court summoning accused be quashed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that learned Trial Court summoned accused under two criminal offences (1) 504 IPC, (2) 506 IPC. Section 504 IPC comprises of following ingredients: (1) Intentional insult (2) That insult must be such as to give provocation to the person insulted. (3) That accused must intend or know that such provocation would cause another to break the public peace or to commit any other offence. See AIR 2014 SC 957 title Fiona Shrikhande vs. State of Maharashtra. Even as per section 506 IPC prosecution is under legal obligation to prove that criminal intimidation was given by accused and threat was given by accused to cause death or grievous hurt. At the stage of summoning the accused learned Trial Court is under legal obligation to give findings whether there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against accused as per statements recorded by prosecution during investigation and as per documents annexed with challan.

8. Submission of petitioner that co-respondents No.3 & 4 prepared challan at the instance and influence of complainant Sh. Jiwan Lal with ulterior motive and malafide intention cannot be decided at this stage of the case because same is complicated issue of fact. It is well settled law that complicated issue of fact is always decided by learned Trial Court after giving due opportunity to both parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

9. Submission of petitioner that present complaint is registered against accused to pressurize the petitioner so that petitioner should abandon his share in the building and that accused should not reside in the residential building also cannot be decided at this stage of the case because same is complicated issue of fact and complicated issue of fact is always decided by the learned Trial Court after giving due opportunity to both parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

10. Submission of petitioner that call details collected from the BSNL should be summoned in the present case at this stage of case is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is held that accused is at liberty to file application before learned Trial Court for summoning of call details from the BSNL when case will be fixed for defence evidence by learned Trial Court.

11. Submission of petitioner that investigation in the present case was initially conducted by ASI Baldev Singh who has submitted cancellation report to SHO Police Station Boileauganj and thereafter HC Sushil Kumar on dated 26.02.2012 has again recommended closure of the case and on this ground petition filed under Section 482 Cr.PC be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is held that subsequent material facts can reopen criminal case in accordance with law. Accused is at liberty to summon ASI Baldev Singh and HC Sushil Kumar when case will be listed by learned Trial Court for defence evidence in order to prove his innocence. It is well settled law that further investigation can be conducted under Section 173(8) Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 relating to further oral or documentary evidence. It was held in case reported in 2006(7) SCC 296 title Popular Muthiah vs. State that Court should not interfere with the statutory powers of investigation agency. See 1999 Criminal Law Journal SC 3661 title B.S.S.V.V.Vishwandadha Maharaj vs. State of A.P. & Others.

12. Submission of petitioner that co-respondent No.2 with ulterior motive to defame the petitioner had also published the matter in daily newspaper and cooked a false and frivolous story against the petitioner also cannot be decided at the stage of case because same is complicated issue of fact and complicated issue of fact inter se parties would be decided by learned Trial Court after giving due opportunity to both parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

13. Submission of petitioner that allegations made in the complaint and evidence collected by the investigating agency during investigation oral as well as documentary did not prima facie constitute offence under Sections 504 & 506 IPC and on this ground petition be allowed is also rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused the statement of Jiwan Lal placed on record. Sh. Jiwan Lal has specifically stated in his statement that accused has threatened to kill him and also used abusive language against him. Court has also carefully perused the statement of Chander Mohan Sharma placed on record. Sh. Chander Mohan Sharma has specifically stated that accused had abused the complainant and also threatened the complainant to kill him. There is recital in the statement of Chander Mohan Sharma that accused threatened the complainant that he would break the legs and arms of complainant namely Jiwan Lal. Court has also carefully perused the statement of Mehboob Ali Khan placed on record. There is positive recital in the statement of Mehboob Ali Khan that Kashmir Singh Thakur had used abusive language and also threatened the complainant to kill him and threatened that he would break the legs and arms of complainant namely Jiwan Lal. Court has also carefully perused the statement of Kuldip Singh placed on record. There is recital in the statement of Kuldip Singh that accused had used abusive language to complainant and also threatened the complainant to kill him. Court has also carefully perused the statement of Kundan Lal placed on record. There is recital in the statement of Kundan Lal that accused had used abusive language to complainant and also threatened the complainant to kill him and threatened that he would break the legs and arms of complainant namely Jiwan Lal. Above stated statements alongwith two C.Ds and site plan are sufficient grounds for proceeding against accused under Sections 504 & 506 IPC.

14. It was held in case reported in AIR 1976 SC 1947 title Nagawwa vs. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi that at the stage of issuing process the Magistrate is mainly concerned with the allegations made in complaint and documents annexed in support of the complaint. It was held that Magistrate should satisfy whether there are sufficient grounds for proceedings against the accused or not under Section 204 Code of Criminal Procedure 1973. It was held that Magistrate should not enter into detailed discussion on merits or demerits of the case. It was held that accused has no locus standi and is not entitled to be heard whether process should be issued against him or not under Section 204 Code of Criminal Procedure 1973. Also see AIR 1963 SC 1430 title Chandra Deo Singh vs. Prokash Chandra Bose & Another. Also see AIR 2016 SC Weekly 122 title Madan Razak vs. State of Bihar.

15. Submission of petitioner that offence under Sections 504 & 506 IPC are non-cognizable offence and bailable offence and investigation by investigating agency is not permissible under law unless directed by Judicial Magistrate is also rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Section 506 IPC is amended by H.P. Government. The Governor Himachal Pradesh in exercise of powers vested in him under Section 10 of Criminal Law Amendment Act 1932 has declared offence under Section 506 IPC within Himachal Pradesh as cognizable criminal offence vide notification No.Home(C) F(8) 1/77 dated 09.03.1978. Police officer has authority to arrest the accused without any warrant under cognizable criminal case. In view of above stated facts and case law cited supra point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2 (Final Order).

16. In view of findings upon point No.1 above present petition filed under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 is dismissed. Order of learned Trial Court dated 30.06.2012 is affirmed and it is held that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against accused under Section 204 Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 qua criminal offence punishable under Sections 504 & 506 IPC. Observations made hereinabove will not effect merits of the case in any manner and will be strictly confined for disposal of petition filed under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure 1973. Parties are directed to appear before learned Trial Court on 29.07.2016. Cr.MMO No. 4058/2013-G is disposed of. Pending application(s) if any also disposed of.

(Para-17)

For the Appellant : Mr. Dalip K. Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. R.K. Sharma, Senior Advocate with Ms. Anita Parmar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Rajiv Sharma, Judge

This Regular Second Appeal has been instituted against judgment and decree dated 1.2.2005 rendered by the learned District Judge, Hamirpur, District Hamirpur, HP, in Civil Appeal No. 99 of 2003.

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of the present appeal are that the appellant-plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as 'plaintiff' for convenience sake) filed a suit for declaration stating therein that Late Sunder was the owner of the land comprised in Khata No. 17 min. Khatauni No. 22, Khasra No. 4, measuring 4 Kanal 18 Marla to the extent of 50/219 shares and Khasra No. 294/20 measuring 2 Kanal to the extent of 50/419 shares, situate in Tika Thamani, Manjhali, Mauza Lahdar, Tehsil Barsar, District Hamirpur, HP. Sunder was real brother of the plaintiff. Sunder had not taken any loan from agricultural society, Bhota and from any other bank. His land was wrongly auctioned vide auction dated 17.1.1976 in favour of the defendant and thereafter mutation No. 98 was also wrongly attested in favour of the defendant. The mutation was not binding upon plaintiff. Suit land was in his possession. Defendant never occupied suit land.

3. Suit was contested by the defendant. According to the defendant, in fact, Sunder had taken loan from agricultural society Bhota in lieu of which the land of Sh. Sunder was auctioned for a sum of Rs.1451.82 and the report regarding this sale was also made in the record of Patwari. Auction money was paid by the defendant and thereafter land was transferred to him to the extent of share of Sunder. Revenue record was correct. Issues were framed by the learned trial Court. He dismissed the suit on 11.9.2003. Plaintiff filed an appeal before District Judge, Hamirpur. He dismissed the same on 1.2.2005. Hence, this Regular Second Appeal.

4. The Regular Second Appeal was admitted on 12.5.2005 on the following substantial question of law:

"Whether the findings recorded by the learned trial court as affirmed by the learned first Appellate Court are dehors the evidence on record and against the documentary evidence produced by the plaintiff-appellant?

5. Mr. Dalip K. Sharma, Advocate, on the basis of substantial question of law, has vehemently argued that the learned Courts below have not correctly appreciated the oral as well as documentary evidence.

6. Mr. R.K. Sharma, learned Senior Advocate, has supported the judgments and decrees passed by the learned Courts below.

7. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the record carefully.

8. Mohan Lal (PW-1) has testified that he was owner-in-possession of the suit land. Earlier his brother Sunder was owner and after his death, plaintiff is in possession of suit land. Sunder has not taken any loan from agricultural society Bhota but the land of Sunder was wrongly put to auction and sale. Mutation No. 98 was wrongly sanctioned in favour of the defendant. Defendant started interfering in his possession and threatened to raise construction and cut trees. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that his brothers were having separate shares. He has admitted that defendant had deposited the auction money amounting to Rs.1451.82.

9. Gian Chand (PW-2) is the record keeper in the office of Deputy Commissioner, Hamirpur. He has proved the copy of sale deed Ext. PW-2/A.

10. Shiv Raj Singh (PW-3) proved signatures Ext. PW-3/A on sale deed.

11. Bhagat Ram (PW-4) has corroborated the version of PW-1.

12. Ajit Singh (PW-5) proved Ext. PW-5/A to the effect that as per report of agricultural society Bhota, Sunder was not a member of the society. He has not raised loan from society. In his cross-examination, he stated that the record was in Urdu and he could not tell whether Sunder had taken any loan or not.

13. Pritam Chand (PW-6) is the Secretary of CAS Adhar. He has proved certificate Ext. PW-6/A. According to him, Sunder has not taken any loan from the agricultural society Adhar.

14. Subhash Chand (PW-8) has proved the copy of mutation Ext. PW-8/A. He has also produced on record copy of revenue record i.e. Ext. P1, copy of Jamabandi for the year 1981-82, pertaining to land bearing Khasra no. 4 measuring 4 Kanal 18 Marla. There is a note in the remarks column of it that total share of Sunder has been purchased by Sarav Dayal. Ext. P-2 and Ext. P-3 are the Jamabandis for the years 1996-97 in which defendant has been shown as owner-in-possession in place of Sunder. Ext. P-4 to Ext. P-6 are the Jamabandis for the years 1991-92 and 1986-87 showing the defendant as owner-in-possession. Ext. P-7 is the Jamabandi for the years 1976-77. In the remarks column there is a note that the share of Sunder has been mutated in the name of Sarav Dayal. There is also another note in this Jamabandi that vide Rapat No. 299 dated 18.3.1986, share of Sunder was attached in favour of cooperative society for Rs.1451.82.

15. Defendant has appeared as DW-1. According to him, brother of the plaintiff had taken a loan and his land was auctioned on 17.1.1986. He had deposited Rs.1451.82 as per ordes of Deputy Commissioner in respect of land measuring 1 Kanal 11 Marla. At the time of auction Rup Singh Chowkidar and Sunder were present. Since then he is coming in possession of the suit land. Plaintiff had knowledge of the same. He never interfered in the possession of the plaintiff since he himself is in possession of the suit land. Plaintiff had filed the suit just to harass him.

16. Roop Singh (DW-4) has corroborated the version of the DW-1.

17. Defendant has placed on record, copy of mutation Ext. D-1 whereby suit land was mutated in favour of the defendant on the basis of auction in question. It is evident from the revenue record from the years 1976-77 that the suit land was owned by Sunder but his share was attached for Rs.1451.82 in favour of the society. There is Rapat No. 299 vide Ext. DW-2/A. Share of Sunder was auctioned on 17.1.1976 as per this report for Rs.1451.82. Share was purchased by defendant. Now as far as Ext. PW-5/A is concerned, it is not discernible in which capacity Ajeet Singh issued the certificate. He was neither President, nor Secretary of the society. He has not deposed that he is member of the Society. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that record was in Urdu and he could not state whether Sunder had obtained any loan or not. Ext. PW-6/A has been issued by Pritam Chand, Secretary Agricultural Society however, he has not brought any record to the Court. His statement is general. Defendant has conclusively proved that Sunder had obtained loan from agricultural society. He did not pay the same and his land was auctioned. Defendant has purchased the same. More particularly, land has been ordered to be sold as per order of the Collector. Plaintiff has not arrayed Collector as a party. There is no illegality in the proceedings of auction dated 17.1.1976. Revenue entries were made when Sunder was alive. Suit property was put to sale on 17.1.1976. Suit was filed in the year 2002. It was barred by limitation. Land of Sunder was attached in favour of the agricultural society for a sum of Rs.1451.82 as per Ext. DW-2/A. Document Ext. DW-3/C pertains to different loan. Defendant has been shown in possession of suit land as noticed since 1976-77 onwards. Learned Courts below have correctly appreciated the evidence, oral as well as documentary.

18. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

19. Accordingly, in view of the discussions and analysis made hereinabove, the present appeal has no merits and the same is dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, also stand disposed of. No costs.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

M/s Durga Gram Udyog & Another. …Appellants

Versus

United India Insurance Company & Another. …Respondents

O.S.A. No. 1 of 2009
Judgment reserved on: 4.7.2016
Date of Decision: 12.7.2016.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 96- Appellant No. 1 is a registered society under Societies Registration Act and owns brick kilns in village Basdehra- its stock and raw material were insured against the damage by flood, fire etc. - there were heavy rains resulting in floods- appellants suffered extensive damage - their stocks of coal, unfired bricks, labour huts etc. were washed away- intimation was given to the insurer but the claim was refuted- insurer pleaded that no loss was sustained by the appellants- suit was dismissed by the Court- held, that Patwari and Kanungo were not produced in evidence and the report prepared by them was not proved by the appellants- certificate does not prove the case of the appellants- statements of witnesses only establish that there was rainfall of 119.14 mm at Una but this fact does not establish the case of the appellants- surveyor had found that no loss was caused to the appellants- suit was rightly dismissed- appeal dismissed. (Para- 7 to 19)

For the Appellants: Mr.Rajneesh K. Lal, Advocate, vice Mr.Sanjeev Sood, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Senior Advocate with Mr.Nishant Kumar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

Plaintiffs are the appellants whose suit for recovery of Rs.14,43,400/- by way of damages was dismissed by the learned Single Judge (for short trial Court) and aggrieved by the judgment and decree so passed have filed the instant appeal.

2. The main plank of the appellants' suit on which the entire edifice has been built is that they suffered extensive damage on account of floods due to heavy rains during the intervening night of 13/14th August, 1995, whereby its stocks of coal, unfired bricks, labour huts etc. to the tune of the aforesaid amount were washed away.

3. It was the pleaded case of the appellants that appellant No. 1 was a society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 and owns brick kilns in village Basdehra, Tehsil Mehatpur, District Una. Its stock and raw material had been insured to the extent of Rs.26,00,000/- against the damage by flood, fire etc. with respondent No. 1. It was averred that during the intervening night of 13/14th August, 1995 there were heavy rains in Tehsil Una including the place where the brick kiln was situated, resulting in floods. The appellants suffered extensive damage on account of these floods, whereby its stocks of coal, unfired bricks, labour huts etc. were washed away. The appellants had promptly informed the respondents and on their asking had supplied all the documents so demanded, but despite this, its claim was refuted, that too on extraneous grounds, constraining it to file the instant suit.

4. The respondents contested the claim and pleaded that the appellants had concocted the story of damages, as the surveyor deputed by them did not find any loss being caused to the appellants as was otherwise being claimed by them.

5. Out of the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court settled the following issues:-

"1. Whether M/S Durga Gram Udyog Bricks Workers Welfare Association is not a juristic person and the suit filed in the name of plaintiff No. 1 is not maintainable? OPD.

2. Whether the terms and conditions of 'Fire Policy' have been breached on account of setting up of fraudulent claim based on misrepresentation and misdescription and thereby the contract of insurance has become voidable? OPD.

3. Whether the cover note dated 3.7.1995 was issued and premium accepted by a person authorized to do so on behalf of the Insurance Company? OPP.

4. Whether the Insurance Policy was not issued/ delivered to the plaintiff by the Insurance Company? If so, its effect? OPP.

5. What is the effect of the arbitration clause of policy of insurance and on this count, whether the present suit isnot maintainable? OPD.

6. Whether the plaintiffs are guilty of suppression of material facts and whether they have concocted and fabricated the documents, as alleged? If so its effect? OPD.

7. Whether the suit is within limitation? OPP.

8. Whether the plaintiff No. 2 is authorized and competent to file the present suit? OPP.

9. Whether there were heavy rains and floods on 13.8.1995/ 14.8.1995 in the area of the brick kiln of the plaintiff? OPP.
10. Whether the plaintiffs had suffered any loss to the stocks of coal, infrastructure of the brick kiln, as alleged, on account of the floods? OPP.
11. What was the quantity of stocks of coal at the site, at the relevant time? OPP.
12. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled to any amount as compensation on account of loss sustained due to floods in the area of brick kiln, if so to what extent? OPP.
13. In the event of issue No. 10 being proved, whether the plaintiffs are entitled to claim any interest, if so at what rate, from which date and on what amount? OPP.
14. Relief."

6. The learned trial court after recording the evidence and evaluating the same, dismissed the suit of the appellants vide judgment and decree dated 8.9.2008. Aggrieved by the aforesaid judgment and decree, the plaintiffs/appellants have filed the instant appeal, mainly on the ground that there is perversity in the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

We have heard Mr.Rajneesh K. Lal, learned counsel for the appellants and Mr.Ashwani K. Sharma, Senior Advocate, assisted by Mr.Nishant Kumar, Advocate, for the respondents.

7. At the outset, we may observe that the case of the appellants hinges entirely upon issues No. 9 and 10 and can only succeed in case they are able to prove that there were heavy rains on the fateful day, on account of which they suffered huge losses, as the onus to prove these issues is heavily upon the appellants.

8. Learned counsel for the appellants has vehemently contended that the finding recorded by the learned trial Court, particularly on Issues No. 9 and 10 is perverse, in as much as, it not appreciated the statements of PW-6 Sh. Lachman Dass, PW-7 Dinesh Kumar and PW-8 Sh. Vinod Sharma in its right perspective, whereby these witnesses clearly proved that not only the area where the brick kiln of the appellants was situated was flooded, but even the stocks, coal and unfired bricks etc. lying there at the spot had been washed away, thereby causing heavy loss to the appellants.

9. Adverting to the evidence in support of these issues, we may firstly advert to the statement of PW-6, Sh.Lachman Dass Kaundal, who at the relevant time was Naib Tehsildar and deposed that Deputy Commissioner, Una had forwarded an application submitted by appellant No. 1 regarding issuance of certificate regarding damage caused to the appellants, pursuant to which he had issued certificate Ex. PW-6/A, which states that according to the report made by Patwari Halka and Girdawar Kanungo, the plaintiffs (appellants herein) suffered considerable loss on 14th August, 1995 on account of floods caused by heavy rains.

10. In cross-examination, this witness categorically stated that he himself had not visited the spot and had no personal knowledge about the damage and his certificate regarding the heavy rains was based upon the report submitted by Patwari Halka and Girdawar Kanungo. Relevant portion of his statement in cross-examination is revealing and is extracted below:-

> "At present I am not in possession of the original application which was received by me through Deputy Commissioner as I am posted now out of Una. Record was summoned from me, but I have not brought the said record today. My certificate, Ex.PW-6/A is based on the reports obtained from Patwari Halqua and Girdawar Kanungo. I did not visit the spot myself. I have no personal knowledge about the damage and my certificate is based on the report received from the aforesaid officials. The report received from the aforesaid two officials was specific about the damage caused to the brick kiln of plaintiff No. 1 because of heavy rains. I am not in possession of the reports received from the aforesaid two officials, today. I have issued the certificate as per the orders of the Deputy Commissioner. I am not in possession of the office copy of this certificate. File and dispatch number is not mentioned in the said certificate. It is correct that at the relevant time I was holding the office of Naib Tehsildar, but certificate, Ex.PW-6/A, has been issued by me as Tehsildar….."

11. Indisputably, the two officials, i.e. Patwari and Kanungo have not been produced in evidence and even the report made by them, which forms the basis of Ex. PW-6/A, has also not been proved by the appellants. Evidently, even the report Ex. PW-6/A, besides generalizing the fact that damage has been caused does not show anything beyond that.

12. Sh. Dinesh Kumar, Secretary Nagar Panchayat Mehatpur appeared as PW-7 and proved on record certificate Ex. PW-7/A, which reads thus:-

"Pramanit kiya jata hai ki dinank 13/14.8.1995 ko bhari barsha ke karan va barh ke karan, logon ka va Nagar Panchayat, Mehatpur /Basdehra ka bahut nuksan huya hai. Logon ke bahut makan Dhwast hue hain." (Certified that on 13/14.8.1995 because of heavy rains, people and Nagar Panchayat, Mehatpur / Basdehra have suffered heavy losses. Lot of houses have been damaged)."

13. It is evident from the certificate that it does not in any manner establishes, much less prove the case of the appellants, as it states nothing about the damage allegedly suffered by them.

14. At this stage, Mr.Rajnish K. Lal, learned counsel for the appellants would place heavy reliance on the testimony of PW-8, Sh. Vinod Sharma, who was working as Junior Assistant/Observer in the Meteorological Department, D.C. Office, Una and had brought the record of the department pertaining to 13/14th August, 1995, which showed that the rainfall at Una on both these days was 119.4 mm. Though he stated that Mehatpur and Basdehra also falls within the same region, but in cross-examination he categorically admitted that the rainfall at both these places on the aforesaid dates had not been measured. He further admitted that in rainy season there may be rainfall at one place, but may not be so in the adjoining area.

15. The statement of this witness even if taken on its face value, only establishes that there was rainfall of 119.14 mm at Una, but then it does not carry the case of the appellants any further.

16. PW-15, Rameshwar Dutt is a resident of Village Basdehra and has stated that on the intervening night of 13/14th August, 1995, there were heavy rains and caused accumulation of large quantities of water in the Chos (seasonal streams) and the brick kiln of the appellants was washed away. He also makes a general statement of damage being caused to the brick kiln and the material lying on the spot on the fateful day. But then in cross-examination, this witness categorically states that he resides at Mehatpur, which at a distance of five kilometers from the place of occurrence and further states that he visited Basdehra only on 14th August, 1995, which establishes that he was not at spot on the fateful day.

17. In addition to the aforesaid, the other witness who has been examined by the appellants is one Sh. Subash Chand, who has been authorized to make a statement on behalf of the plaintiffs vide resolution Ex. PW-18/A. Though, this witness would claim that there were heavy rains on the night intervening 13/14th August, 1995, which resulted in heavy losses to the appellants, but then he in his cross-examination has clearly stated that no bricks are prepared during rainy season. He further admits that 12 to 14 labour sheds at the spot were lying unoccupied, as the labourers were not there.

18. As against the aforesaid evidence, respondents have examined DW-2 Sh. Sanjeev Duggal, Chartered Accountant, who in his assessment Ex. DW-2/B after visiting the spot had found that no loss had in fact been caused to the appellants. To the similar effect is the report

Ex. DW-3/A prepared by the Investigator, wherein it has been clearly mentioned that the claims lodged by the appellants was false.

19. This is the entire evidence led by the parties on the aforesaid issues and as already observed earlier the entire foundation of the appellants' case is dependent upon Issues No. 9 and 10 and therefore, once the edifice forming the foundation of the structure of the main case falls through, the other questions like the value and quantity of stocks actually lying on the spot etc. is only rendered academic and therefore, need not be gone into because even if findings on other issues is rendered in favour of the appellants, it will not lead their case any further.

20. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we find no merit in this appeal and the same is accordingly dismissed, leaving the parties to bear their costs.

(Para 12-19)

For the petitioner: Mr. K.D. Shreedhar, Senior Advocate with Ms. Shreya Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. I.D. Bali, Senior Advocate, with Ms. Prarthana Khachi, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate General for respondents No.2 to 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J.

By way of present writ petition filed under Section 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner-corporation has invoked extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court and has prayed for following reliefs:-

> "i) That order of the dated 26.11.2011 (Annexure P-3) passed by the Deputy Commissioner in case titled 'Karam Chand Versus State of H.P.' may be quashed and set-aside.
>
> ii) Any other order, writ or direction may also be passed in view of facts and circumstances of the case.
> iii) The respondents may be burdened with the costs of the case."

2. Perusal of order dated 26.11.2011, passed by the learned Deputy Commissioner suggests that while allowing the representation/petition filed by respondent No.1 in terms of judgment dated 2.5.2011, passed by the Division Bench of this Court in CWP No. 2714 of 2011, present petitioner-Corporation has been directed to consider the case of respondent No.1- and provide suitable job in the project to one of the family members of the respondent No.1.

3. Briefly stated facts as emerge from the record and necessary for the adjudication of the case are that respondent No.1 filed CWP No. 2714 of 2011, titled as Karam Chand v. State of HP and Ors., before this Court averring therein that he and his wife were owners in possession of the land and a house thereupon and measuring 12 biswances along with the house constructed thereupon, was acquired for the purpose of construction of Chamera Hydro Electric Power Project Stage-II, District Chamba. As per respondent No.1-(petitioner in CWP No. 2714 of 2011), Government of Himachal Pradesh had formulated a Resettlement and Rehabilitation Scheme (In short 'the Scheme') to protect the interest of the oustees affected owing to acquisition of land for construction of the aforesaid Project. As per respondent No.1, since he had become houseless after acquisition of his land and house, the petitioner-Corporation is/was under obligation to provide employment to him or one member of his family. Accordingly, Respondent No.1 filed representation to the authorities concerned for employment but despite repeated representations, no relief, whatsoever, was granted to him and, as such, he was compelled to file the aforementioned Petition (CWP No. 2714 of 2011). Perusal of judgment dated 2.5.2011 passed by the Division Bench of this Court in CWP No. 2714 of 2011 (AnnexureP2) suggests that the Deputy Commissioner, Chamba- Respondent No.4 was directed to decide the pending representation of respondent No.1 and take decision in accordance with law within one month from the date of production of copy of the judgment. Pursuant to the aforesaid judgment passed by the Division Bench of this Court, learned Deputy Commissioner Chamba, vide order dated 26.11.2011, passed a detailed order recommending the name of respondent No.1 for employment in the present Petitioner-Corporation. Vide order dated 26.11.2011, the learned Deputy Commissioner directed the present petitioner to consider the case of respondent No.1 and to provide suitable job/employment in the project either to respondent No.1 or to one of his family members.

4. Being aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the aforesaid order, the present petitioner approached this Court by way of present writ petition.

5. Documents available on record suggest that for the purposes of execution of Chamera-II Project, huge chunk of land was acquired by the present petitioner with the help and aid of the State of Himachal Pradesh by resorting to the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894. State of Himachal Pradesh with a view to mitigate the hardship caused to the affected oustees owing to acquisition of land formulated the scheme to settle the oustees affected on account of acquisition of their land for construction of the project. Clause 2 (i) of the Scheme defines the term 'oustees' or 'affected family' which is being reproduced herein below:-

> "(2) In this scheme unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context:
> > (i) Oustees or affected family means a land owner who has been deprived of his/her land, house or both on account of acquisition of his/her land for Chamera Hydro Electric Project Stage-II, Karian and is entitled to compensation in lieu thereof and includes his/her successors in interest."

Part III of the aforesaid scheme specifically deals with issue of employment, which reads as under:-

> "Employment:- one member of each affected family shall be eligible for employment in the Chamera HE Project Stage-II Karian, in the following manner:-*
>
> i) One member of each affected family, who is absolute owner of land or house or both, whether male or female, as per entries of Revenue record and entered as separate family in the Panchayat Parivar Register as on the date of notification of Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.
>
> ii) In case of co-owners in the Revenue record one member of each affected family consisting of male owner or widow, who are entered as separate family in the Panchayat Parivar Register as on the date of notification of Section -4 of Land Acquisition Act, 1894. Un-married daughters and sons, minor daughters and sons, who are co-owners of land as per entries in Revenue record, shall be treated as family members of the widowed mother or any of the married elder brother as recorded in Panchayat Parivar Register.
>
> iii) Only one member of such affected family consisting of widow as co-owner with her only daughter or daughters as co-owner or sons and daughters, if they all recommend, only one member against all for employment in the Project and if they are entered as separate family in the Panchayat Parivar Register.
>
> iv) Only one member of such affected family consisting of only one or more than one daughter or son or sons and daughters as co-owners, if they all recommend one member against all, for employment in the Project and if they are entered as separate family in Panchayat Parivar Register.
>
> v) In case of such affected families who are co-owners as brothers and sisters and share of acquired land of each of such co-owners is one biswa or less and if they club their shares together with which quantum of acquired land becomes more than one biswa, only one member will be given employment against all such co-owners after their mutual consent.
>
> vi) Provided further that
>
> No member of a family whose total land acquired is one biswa or less, married daughter or heirs of predeceased married daughter, who are recorded as co-owners in the revenue record with their brothers, sister or parents shall be eligible for employment in the Project provided they become landless or houseless. It is assumed that married daughter is already settled in the family of her husband and she is not to be rehabilitated by way of employment.
>
> vii) No member of affected family shall be eligible for employment if quantum of his acquired land is one biswa or less.
>
> viii) No person shall be eligible for employment in the Project, who is not covered as member of the concerned affected family in the Panchayat Parivar Register.
>
> ix) No family can give its right to employment to a member of some other family.
> x) No person or his family member shall be eligible for employment if he becomes owner of land by way of sale, gift, exchange etc. of land after the date of notification of Section-4 of Land Acquisition Act, 1894."

Careful perusal of the aforesaid provision of the policy formulated by the State of HP suggests that apart from compensation as provided under Land Acquisition Act, effected persons were also entitled to certain grants as well as employment. Part-XII of the Scheme, as referred above, provides that employment to one member of the each affected family in the Chamera Hydro Electric Power Project Stage-II, Karian (H.P.), shall be subject to the certain conditions. In the part-XII of the scheme, persons have been defined in various categories, who are entitled for employment being member of affected family, but clause-VI of Part-XII provides certain exceptions i.e no member of a family whose total land acquired is one biswa or less, married daughter or heirs of pre-deceased married daughter, who are recorded as co-owners in the revenue record with their brothers, sisters or parents shall be eligible for employment in the project provided they become landless or houseless" Clause–VIII of the scheme further provides that no member of affected family shall be eligible for employment if quantum of land acquired land is one biswa or less.

6. Respondent No.1 in the present case in terms of aforesaid scheme formulated by State of Himachal Pradesh filed representation claiming therein employment in the petitioner-Corporation being an oustee owing to acquisition of land for the purpose of Construction of the Project but requests for employment being an oustee was not considered by the petitioner-department compelling him to file writ petition as referred above.

7. The learned Deputy Commissioner in terms of judgment of Division Bench of this Court, held him entitled for employment, as has been discussed in detail above.

8. The present petitioner being aggrieved with the order passed by the earned Deputy Commissioner filed present petition. It has been specifically averred in the petition that impugned order being contrary to the facts and circumstances deserves to be quashed and set-aside. The petitioner has specifically submitted that Deputy Commissioner while passing impugned order has not considered the material, which was available with him, especially, the decisions taken vide Annexures P5 and P6, which were taken in presence of state authorities. The petitioner further averred that the provision of the scheme as relied upon by the Deputy Commissioner while passing impugned order were suitably amended vide decision taken on 18.11.2002 for grant of financial package and employment and, as such, impugned order deserves to be quashed and set-aside being contrary to the tripartite settlement arrived at between the petitioner-corporation, State Authority and oustees' Union. Moreover, it is also stated that list of the eligible oustees entitled to financial package was prepared by the State Government and correctness of the same was affirmed by the oustees' Union and petitioner-Corporation in terms of decision taken on 18.11.2012 deposited an amount of Rs. 3 crores with the State Government for disbursing the same to the eligible persons. The petitioner has also stated that deputy Commissioner while passing impugned order did not offer any opportunity of being heard to the petitioner-Corporation and as such, great injustice has been caused to the petitioner-corporation. It also emerges from the record that petitioner in terms of order dated 28.6.2012 passed by this Court filed a supplementary affidavit specifically answering the query of the Court "whether any person has been given employment under the Scheme after 2003 or not?" Perusal of the supplementary affidavit suggests that in terms of agreement of Rehabilitation and Settlement Scheme, District Revenue Authority and District Commissioner recommended the names of eligible persons for employment from time to time between 2001-2004 and the petitioner-Corporation on the basis of list, gave employment to certain persons, however, averments contained in supplementary affidavit also reveals that the petitioner has been insisting upon the Deputy Commissioner to send the consolidated and final list of eligible persons particularly in view of the fact that the project has already been commissioned in Year 2003 and the required strength of the staff has been reduced considerably. Further perusal of the supplementary affidavit available on record suggests that since none of the list approved and forwarded by the Deputy Commissioner recommended the name of respondent No.1 or any member of his family for employment, no occasion, whatsoever, arose for the petitioner to consider the name of respondent No.1 or his family member for suitable requirement in the project. The petitioner by way of supplementary affidavit also brought to the notice of this Court that employment given to the land oustees has been at the level of trainee helper/ trainee beldar and, as such, claim of respondent No.1 claiming employment for his son, who is stated to be a software engineer, does not appear to be tenable and plausible. It is also stated that individuals with such qualification are eligible for employment in the supervisory/executive cadre, which is a central cadre and all posts of central cadre are filled up on the basis competitive examination. The petitioner categorically stated in the supplementary affidavit that it is not possible to give employment to respondent No. 1 in the supervisory/executive cadre and that too at Chamera-II Project. Pursuant to the notices issued by this Court in the instant case, respondent No.1 filed detailed reply to the averments contained in the writ petition refuting therein the contents of the writ petition. Respondents in their reply while refuting the claim of the petitioner cited examples of similarly situate persons, who have been provided employment in the project in terms of the Rehabilitation and Resettlement scheme on the recommendation of the ld. Deputy Commissioner Chamba. Respondent No.1 specifically refuted the claim of the petitioner-department that no employment, whatsoever, can be provided in the project in the wake of commissioning of the project. Respondent No.1 by way of reply denied the factum of depositing of Rs. 3 crores with the ld. Deputy Commissioner by the petitioner-Corporation in terms of tripartite settlement arrived on 18.11.2002, for want of knowledge. Respondents by way of reply also placed on record certain letters suggestive of the fact that similarly situated persons have been provided employment in the Project of the petitioner being oustees.

9. Mr. K.D. Shreedhar, Senior Advocate duly assisted by Ms. Shreya Chauhan, Advocate, vehemently argued that impugned order is not sustainable in the eye of law as same is not based upon the correct appreciation of the documentary evidence available on record. Mr. Shreedhar vehemently argued that ld. Deputy Commissioner had no authority, whatsoever, to pass impugned order, especially in the wake of decision arrived at meeting held on 18.11.2002 under the chairmanship of the Hon'ble Industry Minister of Himachal Pradesh, wherein it was decided to give alternative package in lieu of employment to the affected families @ Rs. 3 lakhs in case of Chamera-I and Rs. 2,50,000/- in case of Chamera-II. He forcefully contended that the then ld. Deputy Commissioner was also signatory to the aforesaid decision arrived on 18.11.2002 and as such, Deputy Commissioner had no authority, whatsoever, to pass impugned order. He also submitted that in terms of decision dated 18.11.2002, the petitioner- Corporation has already deposited an amount of Rs. 3 crores and relief, if any, in terms of aforesaid decision, can be granted to respondent No.1 by the State Government, not by the petitioner-Corporation. It is also contended on behalf of the petitioner –Corporation that at present, there is no possibility at all to provide employment to any family of the affected oustees because Project has been already commissioned and no manpower is required at this stage for handling of power Project. As per him, petitioner-Corporation had been repeatedly writing to the respondent-State to desist from recommending the names of family members of the oustees for employment and, as such, meeting was convened on 18.11.2002 to deliberate upon the issue of employment, if any, in the project. Since, there is no scope, whatsoever, for providing employment in the project, a conscious decision was taken on 18.11.2002, in the presence of Hon'ble Industry Minister, HP, the Deputy Commissioner Chamba as well as officials of the project corporation, wherein it was decided to give alternative package in lieu of the employment to the affected families, as has been discussed above. During arguments having been made by him, Mr. Shreedhar made this court to travel through Annexure P2 i.e. the proceedings at meeting held on 18.11.2002, to substantiate his aforesaid submissions and to further demonstrate that it was agreed that with the declaration of this package, no claim from any person regarding any employment in Chamera-I and Chamera-II would be taken under this package, rather, it would be obligatory on the part of the beneficiary families of Chamera-1 and Chamera-II getting this alternative package to file an affidavit to withdraw the court cases, if any, pertaining to land compensation etc. before actual release of payment. Mr. Shreedhar, strenuously submitted that now the petitioner-corporation cannot be compelled to give employment to the members of affected persons/oustees, especially, when there is no work available with the corporation. He forcefully contended that any direction to make available employment in the project at this stage will cause huge financial burden on the public exchequer.

10. On the other hand, Mr. I.D. Bali, Senior Advocate duly assisted by Ms. Prarthana Khachi, Advocate, appearing on behalf of respondent No.1 supported the order passed by learned deputy Commissioner and submitted that the petitioner-corporation is bound to provide employment to one of the family member of respondent No.1, who is an oustee, in terms of order passed by learned Deputy Commissioner, Chamba. Mr. Bali, vehemently argued that respondent has been made to run from pillar to post by the petitioner-corporation for employment despite there being specific Resettlement and Rehabilitation scheme for the oustees of Chamera-I and Chamera-II Project owned/controlled by the Petitioner-corporation. During arguments having been made by him, he invited attention of this Court to Annexure P1 i.e. the scheme formulated by the State of Himachal Pradesh for protecting the interest of the oustees. He made this Court to travel through Chapter-XII of the scheme which deals with the employment to the oustee and member of his/her family. Mr. Bali also invited attention of this Court to the various annexures annexed by respondent No.1 to demonstrate that similar situate persons have been given employment by the petitioner-Corporation and great discrimination has been caused to respondent No.1. Mr. Bali forcefully contended that decision, if any, taken on 18.11.2002, is not binding on the respondent since same appears to be taken contrary to the provisions of the scheme formulated by State of Himachal Pradesh, which specifically provides for the employment to one of the family member of the oustees.

11. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and carefully gone through the record.

12. It is undisputed that as per scheme (Annexure P1), the persons who are oustees on account of acquisition of their land/house etc. for the construction of Project, are entitled to compensation in lieu of the acquisition of their land/house. Part -XII of the aforesaid scheme specifically provides for the employment to the oustees. As per this chapter, one member of the each affected, would be offered employment in the Chamera Project, Karian, District Chamba subject to the conditions, which have been reproduced above. Clause-VII of Chapter-XII also provides certain exceptions to the provisions. Clauses-1 to IV contained in Chapter-XII deals with the employment. Clause VII of chapter -XII provides that no member of affected family would be eligible for employment if land acquired is one biswa or less.

13. It is also not disputed that 00-00-12 bigha in total, land of the respondents was acquired by the petitioner-corporation at the time of construction of the project. Careful perusal of the Annexure P4 also suggests that one khasra No. 810/1 measuring four biswas was also acquired by the petitioner corporation. Perusal of Annexure P-4 also suggests that respondent namely Karam Chand received an amount of Rs. 12,71,396/- on account of compensation in lieu of land as well as house acquired for the purpose of construction of project. It also emerges from Annexure P4 that respondent also received amount of Rs. 1,15,000/- (Rs. 80,000+35,000/-) under the scheme under the head of additional grants. Facts and details narrated hereinabove, clearly establish that land/house of the respondent was acquired by the petitioner-corporation for construction of project and due and admissible compensation was paid to respondent No.1. Now question which remains to be decided by this Court is whether respondent was also entitled to employment in terms of the scheme or not?

14. The Govt. of Himachal Pradesh issued a scheme for resettlement and rehabilitation for the persons, who became oustees on account of acquisition of their house/land etc for construction of Chamera Project. Bare perusal of the instructions contained in the scheme suggests that only one member of such family, whose land is more than one biswa, acquired for project would be entitled for service to one member of his family. It is also provided in the scheme that in case, a person who becomes houseless as per Para-VI of the scheme, would also be entitled for service of one member of his family whose land is measuring more than one biswa. Apart from above, persons who lost their land which was less than one biswa for construction of project has been also held entitled for employment of one of the member of the family in the project. Perusal of Annexure P4, as discussed above, clearly suggests that 00-00-12 bigha land along with constructed house situated on Khasra No. 810/1 was acquired by the petitioner for construction of project but Petitioner Corporation has not placed on record any revenue record to demonstrate that respondent had not become houseless and landless after the acquisition of his aforementioned land of the respondent. Petitioner only stated in the petition that 7 biswas of land of respondent No.1 was acquired along with his shop, house constructed thereupon and five biswas of land acquired along with the house and due and admissible compensation was granted to them under Land Acquisition Act but no documents whatsoever, have been placed on record suggestive of the fact that after acquisition of the land described hereinabove, respondent No.1 had not become houseless and landless. To the contrary respondent No.1 have specifically stated in the reply that after acquisition of the land as mentioned above, he became houseless and landless and, as such, he became entitled to the employment in terms of the scheme. Though, no revenue record whatsoever, has been made available by the petitioner corporation to persuade this Court that after acquisition of land i.e. less than one bigha, respondent No.1 had not become houseless and landless but it emerges from the impugned order passed by the ld. Deputy Commissioner Chamba that respondent No.1 had become houseless and landless after the acquisition of the aforesaid land and, as such, he was entitled to the benefit of employment in terms of the scheme referred above. In this regard, it would be apt to reproduce Para 11 and Para 12 of the order passed by the Deputy Commissioner, which reads as follows:-

> "11. That the perusal of the revenue record as well as the other certificates issued by the competent authorities and the record from the relief and rehabilitation office shows that petitioner had made several representations to the concern authorities for settlement of the claim of the petitioner for providing employment to one member of his family in the project but the authorities did not consider and turned down the case of the petitioner for providing employment to one member of the family under the pretext that land acquired is less than one Biswa. Hence, the case of the present petitioner was not recommended and considered for the employment of one member of the family of the petitioner to respondent No.3.
> 12. After going through the record of relief and rehabilitation office, R&R Scheme issued by the Financial Commissioner (Revenue) HP and after hearing both parties and their counsels, I am of the considered view that when the land was acquired, that the petitioner was owner in possession of the land alongwith other co-sharers who constitute a separate family of land comprised in Khata No. 193 khatauni No. 206 khasra No. 13 land measuring 11-19 bighas to the extent of 16/956 measuring 12 biswansi alongwith the house constructed over the land. Therefore, he has become houseless and landless after the acquisition of the aforesaid land. Therefore, part-III of the rehabilitation scheme clause-VI specifically provides that employment to the one member of the family of the petitioner has to be provided, if he becomes houseless and landless."

It is ample clear from the paras reproduced hereinabove that Deputy Commissioner perused the revenue record and thereafter came to the conclusion that respondent No.1 after acquisition of his land has became houseless and landless. Hence, in view of the specific finding returned by the ld. Deputy Commissioner that too on the basis of revenue record, contention put forth on behalf of the petitioner-corporation that respondent No.1 is not entitled to employment in terms of scheme, does not appear to be tenable and deserves to be rejected.

15. Apart from above, bare perusal of the supplementary affidavit filed by the petitioner-corporation in terms of order dated 28.6.2012 passed by this Court itself suggests that petitioner corporation has been providing employment to the oustees on recommendations of ld. Deputy Commissioner. In this regard, it would be profitable to reproduce Paras 3 and 4 of the supplementary affidavit, which read as follows:-

> "3. That according to the terms of agreement and Rehabilitation & Resettlement Scheme 1998, the District Revenue Authority/Deputy Commissioner is to recommend the name of eligible persons for employment. The notification under section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act, 189 for acquisition of and for Chamera H.E. Project Stage-II was issued on 11.7.2000 and rehabilitation & Resettlement Scheme 1998, was made applicable for the resettlement and rehabilitation to the land oustees. As per the Scheme the Deputy Commissioner has been recommending the names of eligible persons for employment between 2001-2004. In the intervening period the petitioner corporation has been insisting upon the Deputy Commissioner to send a consolidated and final list of eligible persons particularly in view of the fact that the project had already been commissioned in November, 2003 and the required strength of staff at the project had reduced considerably. A copy of letter dated 28.10.2005 is annexed herewith as Annexure P-9. The last such list was sent by the Deputy Commissioner on 11.8.2004, recommending 14 land oustees for employment. These land oustees were given employment in the year 2006 after necessary approval was conveyed by the corporate office on 5.4.2006. The details of recommendation made and employment provided to land oustees are given below:-

Copies of all above mentioned letters containing the detail of persons whose names have been recommended by the Deputy Commissioner are annexed herewith as AnnexureP-10 to P-19.

4.That none of the list approved and forwarded by the Deputy Commissioner recommended the name of respondent No.1 or any member of his family for employment and as such there was no occasion for the petitioner to consider respondent No.1 or his family member for suitable employment."

Careful perusal of the aforesaid submissions having been made on behalf of the petitioner by way of supplementary affidavit are clearly suggestive of the fact that till year, 2005, petitioner corporation has been accommodating family members of oustees by way of offering employment in terms of scheme. In para 4 as reproduced above, petitioner-corporation stated that since in none of the list approved by the Deputy Commissioner, name of respondent No.1 was recommended, there was no occasion for them to consider the name of respondent No.1 or his family member for suitable employment, meaning thereby, name of respondent No.1 could not be considered by the petitioner-corporation since it was not recommended by the Deputy Commissioner. But now fact remains that Deputy commissioner vide impugned order has recommended the name of respondent No.2 for employment and as such, petitioner corporation is now bound in terms of order passed by the Deputy Commissioner as well as provisions contained in the scheme, referred above, to provide employment to respondent No. 1 or any member of his family.

16. Besides above, respondent No.1 in his reply has annexed documents suggestive of the fact that similarly situate persons have been offered employment by the petitioner in terms of the scheme and there is no rebuttal, whatsoever, to the contentions raised by the respondent in his reply as well as in the rejoinder to the supplementary affidavit filed by the corporation. Hence, in the absence of specific rebuttal to the material contained in the reply as well as rejoinder to the supplementary affidavit, this Court is bound to accept the same to be correct,

17. Now, adverting to the another contention put forth by the petitioner-corporation that no appointment, if any, can be granted to respondent No.1 after decision taken by the authorities concerned on 18.11.2002, wherein a conscious decision has been taken to grant financial package in lieu of the employment. Perusal of Annexure P-5, proceedings of the minutes of the meeting held on 18.11.2002, suggests that some decision was taken by the authorities concerned in the presence of Hon'ble Industry Minister, State of Himachal Pradesh, the then Deputy Commissioner Chamba to give alternative package of Rs. 3 lacks in case of Chamera-I and Rs. 2.5 lacks in case of Chamera-II to the affected persons in lieu of the employment. It also emerge from the perusal of the minutes of meeting that it was agreed that with the declaration of this package, no claim in Chamera-II would be entertained under this package. But petitioner-Corporation apart from placing the minutes of meeting held on 18.11.2002 has not made available on record any document issued by authorities pursuant to the decision taken in meeting on 18.11.2002 informing affected parties qua aforesaid decision. Admittedly, in meeting held on 18.11.2002, decision to provide alternative package in lieu of employment to the affected families was taken by the concerned authorizes but there is no document on record suggestive of the fact that aforesaid decision was made public at any point of time. Rather, documents available on record suggest that even after passing of this order, petitioner corporation pursuant to the recommendations made by the Deputy Commissioner Chamba, offered employment to the various persons as emerge from the supplementary affidavit filed by the petitioner-corporation itself. Documents made available on record by the petitioner-corporation as well as respondents itself suggest that petitioner-corporation has been offering employment to the family members of the oustees till October, 2006, meaning thereby, decision taken in meeting on 18.11.2002 was never given effect to by the petitioner-corporation. Perusal of proceedings of meeting held on 18.11.2012 (Annexure P-5) itself suggests that with declaration of the package as discussed in meeting, no claim from any person regarding employment in Chamera-I or Chamera-II would be entertained but as has been observed above, there is no document made available on record by the petitioner-corporation suggestive of the fact that any package pursuant to decision taken in the meeting held on 18.11.2002 was ever declared and as such, this Court is unable to accept the contention put forth in this regard on behalf of the petitioner. Careful perusal of the documents available on record suggests that respondent No.1 is entitled to employment in terms of the scheme framed by the respondent–State for oustees of Chamera Project. Even the petitioner-Corporation has nowhere refuted the claim of the petitioner for employment on the basis of provisions contained in the scheme, rather, stand of the petitioner has been that at no point of time Deputy Commissioner recommended the name of respondent No.1 for employment and as such they had no occasion whatsoever, to consider his name for employment in terms of the scheme. But fact remains that when Deputy Commissioner, failed to recommend the name of respondent No.1 for employment, respondent No. 1 approached this Court and Division Bench of this court directed the Deputy Commissioner to consider the representation of respondent No.1 and decide the case accordingly. Now once, Deputy Commissioner on the basis of revenue record has concluded that respondent No.1 after acquisition of land has become houseless/landless, petitioner cannot be allowed to defeat the claim of respondent No.1 in the garb of decision taken by authorities in the meeting held on 18.11.2002, which admittedly was never made public and petitioner-corporation had been offering appointments in terms of scheme till year, 2006.

18. As far as another contention put forth by the petitioner-corporation that no opportunity was granted to them by the learned Deputy Commissioner while passing impugned order also deserves to be rejected outrightly because careful perusal of the impugned order clearly suggests that at the time of passing order dated 26.11.2011 by Deputy Commissioner, counsel on behalf of NHPC was present who invited the attention of the Deputy Commissioner to clause 7 of the part-III of the Scheme. At this stage, it may also be noticed that impugned order passed by Deputy Commissioner suggests that counsel representing the NHPC before him never raised plea with regard to decision, if any, taken in the meeting held on 18.11.2002, where decision was taken to provide alternative package to the affected persons in lieu of the employment. Hence, it is ample clear that at the time of passing impugned order, Deputy Commissioner had afforded an opportunity of being heard to the counsel representing the NHPC, who drew attention of the Court to the certain provisions of the scheme but nowhere mentioned qua the decision taken by the authorities in the meeting held on 18.11.2002.

19. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the impugned order dated 16.11.2011 passed by the learned Deputy Commissioner in terms of judgment rendered by this Court in CWP No. 2714 of 2011 titled “Karam Chand V. State of HP and Ors.” and accordingly present petition is dismissed being devoid of any merit and petitioner corporation is directed to provide suitable employment to respondent No.1 or his family member in terms of the recommendation made by the Deputy Commissioner. However, at this stage, it may be clarified that respondent No.1 or his family member would be entitled to appointment/employment as per the requirement of the petitioner-corporation and respondent No. 1 shall have no right to claim employment, if any, on the basis of his qualification.

For the Petitioners : Mr. Bimal Gupta, Senior Advocate with Ms. Kusum Chaudhary.
For the Respondent : Mr. Onkar Jairath, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Rajiv Sharma, Judge

The present petition has been instituted against Order dated 1.4.2015 rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Solan, District Solan, HP in Case No. 20-S/10 of 2013.

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of the present petition are that the petitioners filed an application under Section 125 CrPC for grant of maintenance allowance before Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kasauli, District Solan, HP. According to the averments made in the application, petitioner No.1 is the legally wedded wife of respondent. Marriage was solemnised on 21.4.2003 as per Hindu rites and customs. Petitioner No.1 resided with the respondent in his house at Village Hara Mehta Post Office Goayala, Tehsil Kasauli, District Solan, HP. One daughter Kirti was born on 1.3.2004 and son Nitish was born on 25.7.2007. After marriage, behaviour of respondent towards petitioner No.1 turned hostile and he started causing physical and mental cruelty upon the petitioner No.1 and demanded dowry from her. She was also accused of giving birth to a female child. She was constrained to bring the matter to the notice of Pradhan, Gram Panchayat, Dhakrayana on 28.5.2005. Matter was compromised on 15.6.2005. Thereafter, respondent alongwith his parents tried to burn petitioner No.1 with kerosene oil on 24.12.2005. Petitioner No.3, Nitish fell seriously ill in February, 2008. Respondent did not take him to the doctor. Petitioner No.1 even reported the matter to the Protection Officer and also filed a complaint under Prevention of Women from Domestic Violence Act against the respondent in the Court of ACJM Kasauli. Same was compromised on 20.4.2009. Behaviour of respondent remained hostile. Petitioner No.2 was mercilessly beaten up by the respondent and her tooth was broken on 4.3.2012. Respondent has thrown out the petitioner No.1 from matrimonial house. She had no source of income. Petitioner No.2 was studying in 4th standard and petitioner No.3 was studying in Nursery class in St. Thomas School. Respondent was working in a factory and his monthly income was Rs.15,000/- . He has also got plenty of property. His total income from all sources was Rs.45,000/- per month. She prayed for a sum of Rs.10,000/- per month as maintenance. It is in these circumstances that the application was filed.

3. Application was contested by the respondent. Factum of marriage has been admitted. It was denied that he treated petitioner No.1 with cruelty. According to him, petitioner No.1 was working in a factory and drawing a salary of Rs.8,500/- per month. He was not earning Rs.45,000/- per month as alleged.

4. Issues were framed by the learned ACJM. He allowed maintenance of Rs.2,000/- per month to petitioner No.1 and maintenance of Rs.1500/- each per month, to petitioners No.2 and 3. Petitioners were also held entitled to litigation expenses amounting to Rs.2,200/-. Respondent filed a revision petition before Sessions Judge against Order dated 6.9.2013. Learned Sessions Judge, allowed the revision partly and maintenance allowance allowed by the ACJM Kasauli to the petitioner No.1, was set aside. Maintenance awarded to petitioners No.2 and 3 was upheld. Hence, this petition.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the record carefully.

6. Petitioner No.1 has led her evidence by way of filing affidavit Ext. PW-1/A. She has also produced on record receipt of fees of Master Nitish Ext. PW-1/D and Ext. PW-/E, stationery receipts for Rs.180/-, Ext. PW-1/F, Rs.777/- Ext. PW-1/G, House Rent receipt for March 20012 to January 2013 vide Ext. PW-1/H-1 to Ext. PW-1/H-11, school fees receipt of Nitish Ext. PW-1/J-1 to Ext. PW-1/J-10, fee of Kirti Ext. PW-1/K-1 to Ext. PW-1/K-10, copy of Rapat mark A, medical mark B, list of jewellery Mark C, notice mark D and Mark C. According to the averments as made in the affidavit, marriage of petitioner was solemnised in 2003. She was harassed for bringing more dowry. Daughter was born in 2004. Respondent used to abuse her and administer beatings to her after the birth of the daughter. She filed a complaint before Panchayat on 28.5.2005. Matter was compromised on 15.6.2005. Respondent and his family members tried to put her on fire on 15.6.2005. Son was born in 2007. Petitioner No.3 fell ill. He was not taken to the doctor by the respondent. She was also abused by respondent and his father before the Doctor. She has also filed a petition before Protection Officer in the year 2009. She also filed a complaint against respondent under Prevention of Women from Domestic Violence Act, before ACJM Kasauli. She was forced to compromise the same. In 2011, respondent was paid Rs.40,000/- by her parents. Rs.70,000/- was paid in the month of January, 2012. Daughter was beaten up by respondent. Her tooth was broken. He was not looking after the children. One complaint was also pending before ACJM Kasauli under the Prevention of Women from Domestic Violence Act. Respondent was earning Rs.15,000/- per month. Total income of respondents was Rs.45,000/- per month. In her cross-examination, she admitted that they were living together at Barotiwala. She was ready and willing to live in the village. A Government school was situate in the village of respondent. She was not ready and willing to teach her children in the government school. She denied the suggestion that respondent has not administered beatings to her daughter. She denied the suggestion that she alongwith her brother had beaten up the respondent. She denied the suggestion that respondent had no source to pay maintenance. She denied the suggestion that she was working in private company.

7. Joginder Singh Thakur, Manager, M/s TDS Placement Baddi has appeared as RW-1. According to him, petitioner No.1 was drawing salary of Rs.5,000/- as per Ext. RW-1/B and Ext. RW-1/B. He admitted in his cross-examination that salary of petitioner No.1 for the month of June 2013 was Rs.4106/-.

8. Respondent also led his evidence by way of filing affidavit Ext. RW-2/A. According to him, petitioner has left his company without sufficient reason. She was working in a factory and was earning Rs.8,500/- per month. He was beaten up by the family members of the petitioner No.1. They were influential persons. He was forced to leave the job in the factory. He was unemployed at the time of filing affidavit. Compromise was arrived at between the parties on 20.4.2009. He was providing maintenance to the petitioners. Government school was situate near his house and he persuaded the petitioner No. 1 to get admission of children in that school where qualified teachers were employed. Petitioner No.1 was living with her parents without consent or permission of the respondent. In his cross-examination, he admitted that he was a B.Com. His marriage was solemnised with petitioner No.1 in 2003. They lived together in the village for one year. He admitted that petitioner No. 1 has lodged complaint against him in the Panchayat on 28.5.2005. He also admitted that he asked the petitioner to withdraw the same. He was not aware that on 24.12.2005 an attempt was made to put petitioner No.1 on fire. He was not aware that petitioner had filed a complaint against him but admitted that matter was compromised. He denied that he has beaten up petitioner No.1. They lived separately during 2007-09. Children were with petitioner No.1. He has not paid any maintenance to the petitioners. Entire expenditure was borne by the parents of petitioner No.1. He also admitted that complaint was filed by the petitioner No.1 before Protection Officer. He was summoned by the Protection Officer. He agreed to take petitioner No.1 to his house on 3.3.2009. However, he has not taken her to his house. A case was filed against him under the Prevention of Women from Domestic Violence Act. Thereafter matter was compromised. He has agreed to take children to Nalagarh. They remained at Nalagarh for one year and thereafter at Barotiwala. He denied that Rs.60,000/- was paid to him by his in-laws. He has never beaten up his daughter. He denied Mark A, report and Mark B medical. He again admitted that since March, 2012, he has not paid maintenance to the petitioners. He was not aware that in which class, his daughter was studying. He admitted that expenditure of his daughter towards education was Rs.3,000-4,000/- per month and of the son was Rs.2,000-3,000/- per month. He admitted that the expenditure towards books was Rs.2577/-. He also admitted that Ext. PW-1/B and Ext. PW-1/C were admission charges and Ext. PW-1/D and Ext. PW-1/E was school fees. He also admitted the receipts Ext. PW-1/J-1 to Ext. PW-1/J-10 and Ext. PW-1/K-1 to Ext. PW-1/K-10. He also admitted that petitioner No.1 had got children admitted in the school and was also incurring other expenses for maintaining petitioners No.2 and 3. He has also admitted that his children had no source of income. He was not aware that his wife was running household by borrowing money from her parents. He also admitted that despite order of the Court he has not paid any maintenance to the petitioners. He denied that he was earning Rs.30,000/- per month from agricultural land.

9. Marriage between the petitioner No.1 and respondent was solemnised in the year 2003. They stayed together for some time but respondent started harassing the petitioner No.1 and forced her to bring more dowry. He used to give beatings to petitioner No.1. Matter was brought to the notice of Panchayat. However, petitioner was forced to compromise the matter. Petitioner No.1 was constrained to file a complaint before Protection Officer. Respondent was summoned. Petitioner No.1 was compelled to file complaint against respondent under Prevention of Women from Domestic Violence Act. He had agreed to look after the family. However, fact of the matter is that respondent, in his cross-examination has admitted that he has not paid any maintenance despite the orders of the Court. He was not looking after the petitioners. It is petitioner No.1 who is looking after the children. She is bearing all the expenditure of petitioners No.2 and 3. They have been admitted in a public school. It is the duty of the parents to ensure that their children get education in the best school. Respondent could not force petitioner No.1 to get the children admitted in a government school. Respondent and his family members have also tried to put petitioner No.1 on fire. Respondent had been maltreating the petitioners. He has even the audacity to beat his daughter mercilessly. Report was filed. Child was medically examined. Petitioner No. 1 was also forced to bring Rs.60,000/- to be paid to the respondent. Respondent has admitted that his wife was bearing all the expenses of her two school going children including admission fee, clothes etc. Respondent is B.Com. He is employed in a factory. It can safely be presumed that his income is not less than Rs.15,000/-. He has regular income from the agricultural land. Respondent has not denied the statement made by the petitioner No.1 that respondent is earning Rs.45,000/- per month. Petitioner No.1 has been forced to borrow money from her parents. Petitioners were forced to live separately. Petitioner No.1 is the legally wedded wife of the respondent. Petitioners No.2 and 3 are the children of the respondent. Respondent is an able bodied person. He was capable of earning. It can not be believed that he is unemployed. Learned ACJM has only awarded Rs.5,000/- per month to the petitioners. Learned Sessions Judge has erred in law by setting aside the maintenance of Rs.2,000/- per month awarded to petitioner No.1. Though the petitioner No. 1 has denied that she was employed in a factory. However, fact of the matter is that even if she was employed and getting Rs.5,000/- per month, this amount is not sufficient to maintain her and her two children. Respondent has himself admitted that the total expenditure of his daughter was Rs.3,000-4,000/- per month and that of son was Rs.2,000-3,000/- per month. The Court has to take into consideration status of the parties while determining the maintenance. Maintenance amount should be fixed taking into consideration that it is sufficient for the wife and children to live in a reasonable comfort. Only Rs.2,000/- was awarded by the learned ACJM to petitioner No.1 and that too has been set aside by the learned Sessions Judge without due application of mind. Moreover, while determining amount of maintenance, same is not required to be proved like mathematical puzzle. Some guess work is also permissible. Maintenance is to be allowed after taking into consideration all the facts and circumstances of the case and behaviour of the parties. Section 125 CrPC is a measure of social justice. It is enacted to protect the destitute women and children. Respondent can not be permitted to take the plea that he is unemployed. He is an able bodied person. He is a B.Com. There is evidence that he is working in a factory. He is getting income from agricultural land. He is in possession of sufficient means. It is not his case that he is suffering from any disease etc.

10. There is sufficient material on record to prove that the respondent has harassed petitioner No.1 for bringing insufficient dowry. She was forced to live separately. Respondent has failed to maintain the petitioners and has not even paid arrears as ordered by the Court.

11. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Badshah v. Urmila Badshah Godse reported in 2014(1)SCC 188 have held that Section 125 CrPC is a social justice legislation. Distinct approach is required to be adopted while dealing the cases under this provision. Their lordships have held as under:

> "14. Of late, in this very direction, it is emphasized that the Courts have to adopt different approaches in "social justice adjudication", which is also known as "social context adjudication" as mere "adversarial approach" may not be very appropriate. There are number of social justice legislations giving special protection and benefits to vulnerable groups in the society. Prof. Madhava Menon describes it eloquently:
> "It is, therefore, respectfully submitted that "social context judging" is essentially the application of equality jurisprudence as evolved by Parliament and the Supreme Court in myriad situations presented before courts where unequal parties are pitted in adversarial proceedings and where courts are called upon to dispense equal justice. Apart from the social- economic inequalities accentuating the disabilities of the poor in an unequal fight, the adversarial process itself operates to the disadvantage of the weaker party. In such a situation, the judge has to be not only sensitive to the inequalities of parties involved but also positively inclined to the weaker party if the imbalance were not to result in miscarriage of justice. This result is achieved by what we call social context judging or social justice adjudication."

15. Provision of maintenance would definitely fall in this category which aims at empowering the destitute and achieving social justice or equality and dignity of the individual. While dealing with cases under this provision, drift in the approach from "adversarial" litigation to social context adjudication is the need of the hour."

12. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shamima Farooqui v. Shahid Khan reported in 2015(5) SCC 705 have held that retirement of husband from service cannot be sole consideration for High Court for further reduction of a nominal amount of maintenance awarded by family court. It is further held that the sustenance does not mean bare survival and it gains more weightage when children are also with wife. Quantum should be adequate so as to enable wife to live with dignity, similar to standard with which she would have lived in her matrimonial home. In this context, status and strata become relevant. Their lordships have held as under:

"14. Coming to the reduction of quantum by the High Court, it is noticed that the High Court has shown immense sympathy to the husband by reducing the amount after his retirement. It has come on record that the husband was getting a monthly salary of Rs.17,654/-.

The High Court, without indicating any reason, has reduced the monthly maintenance allowance to Rs.2,000/-.

In today's world, it is extremely difficult to conceive that a woman of her status would be in a position to manage within Rs.2,000/- per month. It can never be forgotten that the inherent and fundamental principle behind Section 125 CrPC is for amelioration of the financial state of affairs as well as mental agony and anguish that woman suffers when she is compelled to leave her matrimonial home. The statute commands there has to be some acceptable arrangements so that she can sustain herself. The principle of sustenance gets more heightened when the children are with her. Be it clarified that sustenance does not mean and can never allow to mean a mere survival. A woman, who is constrained to leave the marital home, should not be allowed to feel that she has fallen from grace and move hither and thither arranging for sustenance. As per law, she is entitled to lead a life in the similar manner as she would have lived in the house of her husband. And that is where the status and strata of the husband comes into play and that is where the legal obligation of the husband becomes a prominent one. As long as the wife is held entitled to grant of maintenance within the parameters of Section 125 CrPC, it has to be adequate so that she can live with dignity as she would have lived in her matrimonial home. She cannot be compelled to become a destitute or a beggar. There can be no shadow of doubt that an order under Section 125 CrPC can be passed if a person despite having sufficient means neglects or refuses to maintain the wife. Sometimes, a plea is advanced by the husband that he does not have the means to pay, for he does not have a job or his business is not doing well. These are only bald excuses and, in fact, they have no acceptability in law. If the husband is healthy, able bodied and is in a position to support himself, he is under the legal obligation to support his wife, for wife's right to receive maintenance under Section 125 CrPC, unless disqualified, is an absolute right..

16. Grant of maintenance to wife has been perceived as a measure of social justice by this Court. In Chaturbhuj v. Sita Bai, 2008 2 SCC 316, it has been ruled that:-

"Section 125 CrPC is a measure of social justice and is specially enacted to protect women and children and as noted by this Court in Captain Ramesh Chander Kaushal v. Veena Kaushal, 1978 4 SCC 70 falls within constitutional sweep of Article 15(3) reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution of India.

It is meant to achieve a social purpose. The object is to prevent vagrancy and destitution. It provides a speedy remedy for the supply of food, clothing and shelter to the deserted wife. It gives effect to fundamental rights and natural duties of a man to maintain his wife, children and parents when they are unable to maintain themselves. The aforesaid position was highlighted in Savitaben Somabhai Bhatiya v. State of Gujarat, 2005 3 SCC 636."

This being the position in law, it is the obligation of the husband to maintain his wife. He cannot be permitted to plead that he is unable to maintain the wife due to financial constraints as long as he is capable of earning.

17. This being the position in law, it is the obligation of the husband to maintain his wife. He cannot be permitted to plead that he is unable to maintain the wife due to financial constraints as long as he is capable of earning.

19. From the aforesaid enunciation of law it is limpid that the obligation of the husband is on a higher pedestal when the question of maintenance of wife and children arises.

When the woman leaves the matrimonial home, the situation is quite different. She is deprived of many a comfort. Sometimes the faith in life reduces. Sometimes, she feels she has lost the tenderest friend. There may be a feeling that her fearless courage has brought her the misfortune. At this stage, the only comfort that the law can impose is that the husband is bound to give monetary comfort. That is the only soothing legal balm, for she cannot be allowed to resign to destiny. Therefore, the lawful imposition for grant of maintenance allowance."

13. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bhuwan Mohan Singh v. Meena reported in 2015(6) SC 353 have held that sustenance does not mean animal existence but signifies leading life in similar manner as she would have lived in house of her husband. Husband has a bounden duty to enable wife to live life with dignity according to their social status and strata. Their lordships have held as under:

"2. Be it ingeminated that Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short "the Code") was conceived to ameliorate the agony, anguish, financial suffering of a woman who left her matrimonial home for the reasons provided in the provision so that some suitable arrangements can be made by the Court and she can sustain herself and also her children if they are with her. The concept of sustenance does not necessarily mean to lead the life of an animal, feel like an unperson to be thrown away from grace and roam for her basic maintenance somewhere else. She is entitled in law to lead a life in the similar manner as she would have lived in the house of her husband. That is where the status and strata come into play, and that is where the obligations of the husband, in case of a wife, become a prominent one. In a proceeding of this nature, the husband cannot take subterfuges to deprive her of the benefit of living with dignity. Regard being had to the solemn pledge at the time of marriage and also in consonance with the statutory law that governs the field, it is the obligation of the husband to see that the wife does not become a destitute, a beggar. A situation is not to be maladroitly created whereunder she is compelled to resign to her fate and think of life "dust unto dust". It is totally impermissible. In fact, it is the sacrosanct > duty to render the financial support even if the husband is required to earn money with physical labour, if he is able bodied. There is no escape route unless there is an order from the Court that the wife is not entitled to get maintenance from the husband on any legally permissible grounds.."

14. Accordingly, the present petition is allowed. Order dated 1.4.2015 rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Solan, District Solan, HP in Case No. 20-S/10 of 2013 setting aside the maintenance allowed by ACJM Kasauli to petitioner No.1, is set aside. Maintenance awarded by the learned Sessions Judge, to petitioners No.2 and 3 is upheld. Petitioner No.1 is held entitled to a maintenance of Rs.2,000/- per month. Respondent is directed to deposit the entire arrears of maintenance due from him with the Registry of this Court within four weeks from today.

Pending applications, if any, are also disposed of.

As the petitioner fulfilled all the conditions of eligibility criteria, he accordingly applied and was interviewed by the respondent on 15.12.2006, wherein he secured the highest position. The respondent by their letters dated 5.3.2007, 25.4.2008 and 26.10.2006 (Annexures P-6 to P-8) informed the complainant that the selection of the petitioner had been made in a fair and transparent manner strictly in accordance with the guidelines and prescribed norms. During the integrum, even Letter of Intent was issued in favour of the petitioner vide letter dated 20.2.2008. However, the respondent vide letter dated 26.7.2010 (annexure P-4) abruptly cancelled the aforesaid LOI, constraining the petitioner to file the instant petition for the reliefs as already set out herein above, on various grounds taken in the memo of writ petition.

3. The respondent contested the petition by filing reply, wherein the factual matrix has not been denied. But it has been averred that though the petitioner was empanelled as No. 1 candidate in the interviews held on 15.12.2006, pursuant to which Letter of Intent dated 20.2.2008 had also been issued in his favour, but thereafter it transpired that there was a mail dated 25.11.2005 from the Head Office, wherein it was mentioned that the advertisement of the location under "Corpus Fund Scheme", where interviews were yet to be conducted should be cancelled. It was further averred that as per the policy of the respondent, interviews of any location rooted under Corpus Fund were to be conducted only after procurement of land had been made for setting up of the retail outlet. Whereas in the location in question, which was advertised under the Corpus Fund Scheme category, land had not been procured till the time of interview and therefore, it was decided to cancel the Letter of Intent, so issued in favour of the petitioner. It was further claimed that the Letter of Intent merely expressed an intention to enter into a contract with the petitioner, but the same did not in any manner create a binding legal relationship between the petitioner and the respondent at this stage and therefore, the respondent was fully justified in cancelling the Letter of Intent.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records of the case.

4. It is evident from the letters Annexures P-6 to P-8 (supra) that till as long as 26.10.2009, the respondent itself had been supporting and justifying the selection of the petitioner. It is only on 26.7.2010 that abruptly the LOI in favour of the petitioner was cancelled, that too, without any apparent reason as would be evident from the contents of letter, relevant extract whereof reads thus:-

> "Please refer to the Letter of Intent issued in your favour vide out letter No. SML/LOI/Ajouli More dated 20.02.2008 for proposed Retail Outlet Dealership at location Ajhouli More, Distt. Una (HP).
>
> The matter was perused and found that the selection was not in line with the laid down selection guidelines. Accordingly we are hereby cancelling the subject Letter of Intent.
> The above is being issued without any prejudice and is in the interest of the Corporation."

5. Though, learned counsel for the respondent would try to justify and offer explanation for passing of the order. But, then there can be no gainsaying that every decision of an administrative or executive nature must be a composite and self-sustaining one, in that it should contain all the reasons which prevailed on the official taking the decision to arrive at his conclusion. It is beyond cavil that an Authority cannot be permitted to travel beyond the stand adopted and expressed by it in the impugned action. If precedent is required for this proposition it can be found in the celebrated decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court titled Mohinder Singh Gill Vs. The Chief Election Commissioner, New Delhi (1978) 1 SCC 405, of which the following paragraph deserves extraction:-

> "8. The second equally relevant matter is that when a statutory functionary makes an order based on certain grounds, its validity must be judged by the reasons so mentioned and cannot be supplemented by fresh reasons in the shape of affidavit or otherwise. Otherwise, an order bad in the beginning may, by the time it comes to court on account of a challenge, get validated by additional grounds later brought out. We may here draw attention to the observations of Bose J. in Gordhandas Bhanji (1952) 1 SCR 135: Public orders publicly made, in exercise of statutory authority cannot be construed in the light of Explanations subsequently given by the officer making the order of what he meant, or of what was in his mind, or what he intended to do.
> Public orders made by public authorities are meant to have public effect and are intended to affect the acting and conduct of those to whom they are addressed and must be construed objectively with reference to the language used in the order itself.
> Orders are not like old wine becoming better as they grow older."

6. In addition to the aforesaid, it is not even in dispute that the advertisement in question was issued on 28.1.2005 i.e. earlier to the mail dated 25.11.2005 and it is settled law that all administrative orders ordinarily are to be considered prospective in nature and when a policy decision is required to be given retrospective operation, it must be stated so expressly or by necessary implication. Reference in this regard can conveniently be made to the decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kusumam Hotels Private Limited Vs. Kerala State Electricity Board and others, (2008) 13 SCC 213, wherein it was held that the statute or a direction issued there under is presumed to be prospective only unless retrospectivity is indicated expressly or by necessary implication. Relevant observation reads thus:-

> "36. The law which emerges from the above discussion is that the doctrine of promissory estoppel would not be applicable as no foundational fact therefor has been laid down in a case of this nature. The State, however, would be entitled to alter, amend or rescind its policy decision. Such a policy decision, if taken in public interest, should be given effect to. In certain situations, it may have an impact from a retrospective effect but the same by itself would not be sufficient to be struck down on the ground of unreasonableness if the source of power is referable to a statute or statutory provisions. In our constitutional scheme, however, the statute and/or any direction issued thereunder must be presumed to be prospective unless the retrospectivity is indicated either expressly or by necessary implication. It is a principle of the rule of law. A presumption can be raised that a statute or statutory rule has prospective operation only."

7. That apart, a valuable right in favour of the petitioner was already accrued when not only his case was considered as per the terms and conditions as prevailing on the date of the advertisement, but thereafter even LOI has also been issued in his favour, that too as far back as on 20.2.2008 and therefore, the benefit accrued in favour of the petitioner cannot be unilaterally withdrawn by the respondent, that too, only on the ground of change of criteria, which otherwise is not applicable to the instant case. The respondent is in fact estopped from questioning, much less cancelling the LOI already issued in favour of the petitioner.

8. Now adverting to the contents of letter dated 24.11.2005 received through mail dated 25.11.2005, it would be noticed that in terms of Annexure-II dealing with resitement of dealerships/ distributorships, clause 3 thereof reads thus:-

"3. In fresh cases, with effect from 27.10.2005, OMCs should acquire land before advertising for the selection of dealers eligible under the Corpus Fund Scheme. In such cases, a change of location at LOI stage shall not be permitted."

9. Evidently, the instant case could not have otherwise been considered as a fresh case as admittedly the advertisement already stood issued and published much earlier to this on 28.1.2005. In such circumstances, therefore, even if at all the terms and conditions of the letter dated 24.11.2005 have any application, the same would only be applicable prospectively w.e.f. 27.10.2005.

10. In view of the aforesaid discussion and for all the reasons stated herein above, I find merit in this petition and consequently the same is allowed and accordingly the order/communication dated 26.7.2010, whereby the Letter of Intent issued in favour of the petitioner was ordered to be cancelled, is quashed and set aside and the respondent Corporation is directed to award the retail outlet dealership in question to the petitioner.

The petition stands disposed of, so also the pending application(s), if any.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Rulda Ram …..Petitioner.

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh and another …..Respondents.

CWP No.4158 of 2009.
Judgment reserved on : 21.06.2016.
Date of decision: July 12, 2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Grievance of the petitioner is that respondents have failed to abide by their undertaking that no building/mini secretariat will be built on the land and that it shall be used as a playground by the Government Senior Secondary School, Manali – petitioner and three other persons had earlier filed a writ petition, which was disposed of in view of undertaking- another writ petition was filed, in which application for impleadment was filed by the petitioner, which was allowed- subsequently writ petition was dismissed as withdrawn- held, that Court had directed the respondents to use the land in the best public interest and the State Government had proposed to construct a Cultural Centre in addition to multi level parking over the land- petitioner had also filed a contempt petition in which Deputy Commissioner had stated that he had complied with the orders passed by the High Court and Contempt petition was dismissed- interim orders were not vacated but were discharged- respondents had complied with the orders passed by the Court and whatever had been done, cannot be undone- petition dismissed. (Para-9 to 20)

For the Petitioner : Mr.Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr.Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan, Mr.Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr.J.K.Verma, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

By medium of this petition, the following reliefs have been prayed for:-

"i) That a writ of Certiorari may very kindly be issued and impugned in action on the part of the respondents as is conveyed to the petitioner vide letter dt.25.3.2009 under Right to Information Act, 2005, may very kindly be quashed and set aside.

ii) That a writ of Mandamus may very kindly be issued thereby directing the respondents to adhere to the mandate of this Hon'ble Court as given in Civil Writ Petition No.563/2002 and correct the revenue records accordingly and further to handover the possession of the school ground to the school authorities, in the interest of law and justice."

2. The subject-matter of the petition is property commonly known as 'potato ground' situate at Manali and the grievance of the petitioner is that despite having given an undertaking before this Court that no building/mini secretariat shall be built on this piece of land and the same shall be allowed to be used as a playground by the Government Senior Secondary School, Manali, (for short 'School'), the respondents have not adhered to the said undertaking constraining him to file the instant petition.

3. The petitioner alongwith three other persons had earlier approached this Court by medium of writ petition No.563 of 2002 wherein they had prayed for confining the use of the property as a playground or other educational related activities of the school and restraining the respondents from changing the use and nature of the land in any manner whatsoever which were not related to the school curriculum.

4. On 14.10.2003, the then learned Advocate General placed on record a communication received by him from the Principal Secretary (Education) and on the basis of the said communication, the petition being CWP No.563 of 2002 was disposed of in the following terms:-

"When this case was taken up today, Shri M.S. Chandel, learned Advocate General placed on record original communication received by him from the Principal Secretary (Education), to the Government of Himachal Pradesh, Shimla. Its contents are extracted hereinbelow:-

"Subject: CWP No.563/2002-Rulda Ram Vs. State of H.P. and Ors.

Sir,

I am directed to refer to the above mentioned Civil Writ Petition which is pending disposal in the Hon'ble High Court of Himachal Pradesh.

In this regard, it has been decided that no Government Building/Mini Secretariat shall be built on the piece of land which is in the possession of Education Department and the same has been allowed to be used as a playground by the Government Senior Secondary School at Manali, District Kullu, Himachal Pradesh.

You are, therefore, requested kindly to apprise the Hon'ble High Court of the same accordingly.

Yours faithfully,

Sd/-

Deputy Secretary (Edu.)

to the Govt. of Himachal

Pradesh.

In view of what has been extracted hereinabove, nothing survives in this writ petition, which is accordingly disposed of.

Interim order, if any, shall stand vacated and pending application, if any, shall also stand disposed of."

5. However, on the same subject-matter another petition being CWP No.528 of 2003 was preferred by one Raj Chauhan and during the course of proceedings various orders came to be passed from time to time by this Court and the same were also complied with and given effect to by the respondents. The petitioner on coming to know about the aforesaid petition himself filed an application for being impleaded as a party and the same was allowed and the petitioner was permitted to intervene in the matter. This petition, however, came to be withdrawn by the petitioner therein on 08.05.2008.

6. Now the grievance of the petitioner is that once the writ petition being CWP No.528 of 2003 had been withdrawn, then all that was done in compliance to the directions (termed to be interim directions by the petitioner) was required to be undone as the interim orders were no longer in operation and had been ordered to be discharged.

7. The respondents have filed their joint reply wherein it has been averred that no doubt an order on the basis of the instructions imparted by the respondents on 14.10.2003 came to be passed by this Court in CWP No.563 of 2002, but it was in compliance to the subsequent orders passed by this Court in CWP No.528 of 2003 that the property has been put to an entirely different use than the one recorded in the aforesaid order i.e 14.10.2003.

8. It is further averred that on 06.05.2005 this Court had specifically directed the respondents "to use the land in the best public interest", pursuant to which the space near the Civil Hospital and Judicial Complex was immediately made under the control of Deputy Commissioner, Kullu, and thereafter the State Government had proposed to construct a Cultural Centre in addition to multi level parking over this land. It is lastly averred that though the writ petition being CWP No.528 of 2003 was dismissed as not pressed, however, as the earlier orders passed by this Court had already been complied with, the same cannot now be undone.

We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case.

9. At the outset, we may note that the petitioner alongwith the instant writ petition had also filed a COPC No.415 of 2014 complaining violation of the judgment dated 14.10.2003 in CWP No.563 of 2002 on the ground that entry rapat No.179/5-12-06 had been made whereby the land in question had been mutated in the name of the HRTC.

10. The Deputy Commissioner, Kullu, was arrayed as respondent, who in his defence has stated that the entire exercise undertaken by him was in compliance to the directions passed from time to time in CWP No.528 of 2003 and this action had otherwise been questioned by the petitioner by filing CWP No.4158 of 2009 and, therefore, the contempt petition was misconceived and consequently not maintainable.

11. The question which arose for consideration in those contempt proceedings was that as to whether the Deputy Commissioner could be held guilty of the contempt of Court when admittedly he had acted in compliance and in furtherance of the orders passed by this Court. This question was answered by observing thus:-

> "11. Tested on the touchstone of the guidelines and parameters as laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram Kishan's case (supra), we are unable to agree with the submissions of the petitioner that the respondent has deliberately and willfully disobeyed the orders passed by this Court. The proposal to raise a multi level parking or transferring the land in the name of the Transport Department has been done only because there was a direction passed to this effect by this Court in CWP No.528 of 2003. The respondent of his own has not done any act which can be said to be amounting to willful or deliberate violation of the orders passed by this Court. Once the action of the respondent cannot be construed to be intentional, conscious, calculated or deliberate and done intentionally so as to disobey the orders passed by this Court, he cannot be prosecuted or punished under the Contempt of Courts Act. Surprisingly, even till the year 2009 when the petitioner filed CWP No.4158 of 2009, he did not find the action of the then Collector-cum-Deputy Commissioner to be contemptuous, then why the petitioner has now chosen to target the present incumbent is not forthcoming."

12. Further, it is not even disputed by the petitioner that whatever has been done at the site and whatever decisions have been taken from time to time were infact in compliance to the directions passed by this Court in CWP No.528 of 2003. His only grievance, as observed earlier, is that once the petition was withdrawn, then all the interim orders had lost their efficacy and now whatever had been done in pursuance to those interim orders was required to be undone by the respondents.

13. To say the least, we find this submission to be rather strange and unfounded. Once, the petitioner was permitted to intervene in CWP No.528 of 2003 and even otherwise when the State was respondent in both the cases, then obviously this Court was already aware and alive to the earlier orders passed in CWP No.563 of 2002 and being fully conscious still chose to pass various orders from time to time which were otherwise required to be complied with by the respondents.

14. In addition to the aforesaid, it would also be noticed that CWP No.528 of 2003 had not been dismissed on merits, but had simply been dismissed as withdrawn. Moreover, even the interim orders were not ordered to be vacated, but were only ordered to be discharged as is evident from the orders passed on 08.05.2008 which read thus:-

> "Counsel for the petitioner does not press this petition. Accordingly, the Writ Petition is dismissed as not pressed, so also the pending applications. Interim order is discharged. Consequence to follow."

15. In Black's Law Dictionary, Tenth Edition, "discharge" mean "A*ny method by which legal duty is extinguished*". The necessary consequences of the interim orders being only discharged and not vacated, in such peculiar circumstances, would only mean extinguishing the respondents' further legal duty to further comply with the orders passed in CWP No.528 of 2003, but that in no manner can be construed as having the effect of nullifying the judicial orders already made.

16. Needless to add that the approach of the Court in such like matters has to be both practical as also pragmatic. It is more than settled that no one can be penalized for no fault of his and, therefore, no fault can be found with the action of the respondents in their having complied with the orders subsequently passed by this Court in CWP No. 528 of 2003.

17. In such like situation, the Court has further to bear in mind that it is the respondents whose position is extremely vulnerable and precarious and in case the arguments raised by the petitioner are taken to its logical end then the respondents without any fault on their part will be obliged to choose between the devil and deep sea i.e. either to comply with the earlier orders passed in CWP No. 563 of 2002 and thereby disobey the orders subsequently passed in CWP No.528 of 2003 and vice-versa. This cannot be and was never the intent of the orders that were subsequently passed in CWP No.528 of 2003.

18. It is entirely a different matter that the petitioner in CWP No.528 of 2003, all of a sudden, chose to withdraw the petition but that cannot be a ground for hauling up the respondents or finding fault in their actions that too only because they complied with the orders passed by this Court which they otherwise were obliged and mandated to do so. Even otherwise, the petitioner after having actively participated in the proceedings in CWP No.528 of 2003 cannot indirectly question the orders that were not only passed but had also been implemented in his presence.

19. It is too late in the day and the clock cannot be reversed. That apart, it is not a case where the respondents themselves have retracted or violated their undertaking and commitment as reflected in the order dated 14.10.2003 passed in CWP No.563 of 2002 (supra). But, it is only on account of the subsequent orders passed by this Court from time to time that has compelled the respondents to change their position to the one which was earlier committed by them. It is, therefore, preposterous to contend that the respondents should now undo all that has been done in compliance to the lawful orders of the Court.

20. In view of what has been discussed above, we find that the petitioner's stand is only litigious and cantankerous and the petition has been filed only to harass the respondents whose only fault is to have complied with the lawful orders passed by this Court from time to time that too in a petition wherein the petitioner himself was permitted to intervene.

21. Having said so, the petition is sans merit and the same is accordingly dismissed. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of.

Cases referred:
State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Naresh and others, (2011) 4 SCC 324
Gangabhavani vs. Rayapati Venkat Reddy and others, (2013) 15 SCC 298
Madhu alias Madhuranatha and another vs. State of Karnataka, (2014) 12 SCC 419

For the appellant: Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. AG
For the respondent: Mr. Hardeep Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

The State has come in appeal against the judgment dated 9.8.2010, rendered by the learned Special Judge, Mandi, H.P., in Sessions Trial No. 40/2007, whereby the respondent-accused (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who was charged with and tried for offence punishable under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the Act), has been acquitted.

2. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that on 24.5.2007, Insp. Shamsher Singh, Insp. Balbir Singh, HC Desh Raj and others were present at Thalaut. At about 7:00 PM, Insp. Shamsher Singh received telephonic information that accused, owner of tea shop at Aut was indulging in trade of charas at his shop and that if raid was conducted immediately, charas in large quantity could be recovered. Insp. Shamsher Singh recorded the information and sent the same through Const. Sanjay Kumar to DSP Vigilance, Mandi. Rest of the police party came in their vehicle to Aut. They reached Aut at 7:17 PM. Devender Kumar and Bhushan Kumar were associated as independent witnesses. At about 7:30 PM, the party reached the shop of the accused. He was found all alone in his shop. His shop was searched. Behind the fridge, a plastic bag was found in which another plastic bag and inside that bag, charas in the form of sticks and discs was found. It weighed 1 kg. 500 grams. Two samples of 25 grams each were separated. The sample parcels and bulk parcel were sealed with seal "T" and taken into possession. One of the samples was sent for chemical analysis. It was found to be charas. The investigation was completed and the challan was put up before the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as ten witnesses. The accused was also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. According to him, he was falsely implicated. The learned trial Court acquitted the accused, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. Advocate General has vehemently argued that the prosecution has proved its case against the accused. On the other hand, Mr. Hardeep Verma, Advocate, has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 9.8.2010.

5. We have heard the learned counsel for both the sides and have also gone through the judgment and records of the case carefully.

6. PW-1 Const. Lal Singh testified that on 24.5.2007 he was driving government vehicle No. HP-33A-0405 from Mandi to Thalaut and was accompanied by Insp. Shamsher Singh, Insp. Balbir Singh and other police party of vigilance. Insp. Shamsher Singh received information at about 7:00 PM on his mobile about the possessing and sale of narcotic by accused at his tea shop at Aut bazaar. As the place was far away from the Court, Insp. Shamsher Singh sent letter Ext. PW-1/A to DSP Vigilance, Mandi through Const. Sanjay Kumar. Thereafter, all the vigilance officials went towards Aut at the shop of accused. After reaching Aut, Insp. Shamsher Singh constituted the raiding party and local witnesses Devinder Kumar and Bhushan Kumar along with him were associated in the raiding party. The shop of the accused was gheraoed. The accused was present at the spot. He was informed by Insp. Shamsher Singh about the search of his shop and one written notice Ext. PW-1/B was prepared and read over to the accused. Accused gave his written consent Ext. PW-1/C on Ext. PW-1/B that he wanted to get the search of his shop conducted by the police party present on the spot. The search of the shop of the accused was conducted and during search one fridge was found lying in the shop. One polythene bag was found hidden behind this fridge and the same was found tied at its top. Its colour was white and "Bhola Crockery House" was written on that bag. The knot of the poly bag was opened and another polythene bag was found in it over which "Exclusive Dhoti" was written. This bag was also tied with knot at its top. The knot was opened and charas in the shape of sticks and coins was recovered. It weighed 1 kg. 500 grams. Two samples of 25 grams each were separated and each sample was put in poly packets and both these packets were sealed with seal impression of "T" at 6 places each. NCB form in triplicate was filled in at the spot by Insp. Shamsher Singh. The remaining charas weighed 1400 grams which was put in same poly bag and covered by cloth piece and also sealed with seal impression "T" at 9 places. In his cross-examination, he admitted that there were about 150-200 shops at Aut bazaar and many shops remained opened up till 9-9:30 PM. Insp. Shamsher Singh received secret information at 7:00 PM. A raiding party immediately proceeded towards Aut bazaar. The offices of Naib Tehsildar and Range Forest Officer are situated at Aut.

7. PW-2 Devender Kumar deposed that he was private transporter at Aut. He did not go to the shop of the accused along with the police officials. Nothing was recovered from the shop of the accused in his presence. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination, he admitted his signatures on Ext. PW-1/C, PW-1/D, PW-1/E, PW-1/H and PW-1/L. All these documents were written in Hindi. The outer cover of parcels Ext. P-2 and P-9 were also signed by him. He admitted categorically that he has signed all the seizure memos and parcels. He denied the suggestion that the contraband Ext. P-10 was kept behind the fridge by the accused in his shop. He denied that charas Ext. P-9 was found in bag Ext. P-10 in the shop of the accused in his presence. Volunteered that charas was produced before him in the Rest House.

8. PW-3 Bhushan Kumar deposed that he was also transporter at Aut. All the proceedings were conducted at Rest House, Aut. Nothing was recovered in his presence from the shop of the accused. He was declared also hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination, he admitted his signatures on memos Ext. 10. PW-5 LHC Gian Chand deposed the manner in which the shop of the accused was searched after receiving secret information. Insp. Shamsher Singh reduced it into writing under Section 42 (2) of the Act and sent the same through Const. Sanjay Kumar to DSP Vigilance, Mandi. In his cross-examination, he deposed that the police party had reached the Aut bazaar at 7:15 PM sharp. There were many people, the number of which he could not tell who were taking tea and snacks in the shop of accused.

11. PW-7 Const. Sanjay Kumar deposed that on 24.5.2007, he along with Insp. Shamsher Singh, Insp. Balbir and others had gone for traffic duty. When they reached at Thalaut, secret information was received on the mobile of Insp. Shamsher Singh that accused running a tea stall at Aut bazaar was indulging in procuring and selling of charas. Raiding party was constituted and information was handed over to him for giving it to DSP Vigilance, Mandi. He handed over the same to DSP Vigilance, Mandi. On 31.5.2007, one sealed parcel sealed with seal "T" at six places marked as A-1 along with sample seals "S" & "T", NCB form in triplicate and other related documents were handed over to him for depositing in FSL Junga vide RC No. 9/2007. He deposited the same with FSL, Junga on 1.6.2007.

12. PW-8 HC Kuldeep Singh, deposed that on 25.5.2007, Insp. Shamsher Singh deposited with him the case property. It was sent to FSL Junga through Const. Sanjay Kumar.

13. PW-9 DSP Gurdev Sharma, deposed that on 24.5.2007 he received report under Section 42(2) of the Act written by Insp. Shamsher Singh through LHC Gian Chand, over which he made endorsement Ext. PW-9/A. On the basis of this information, FIR Ext. PW-9/B was registered. Insp. Shamsher Singh handed over to him three parcels containing sample charas and one bulk parcel, sample parcels marked as A-1 and A-2 sealed with seal "T" at 6 places and bulk parcel sealed with seal "T" at 9 places along with NCB form in triplicate, attachment form, search and seizure memos. He resealed the sample parcels with seal "S" at two places and the bulk parcel with seal "S" at 9 places. He handed over the case property to Insp. Shamsher Singh who deposited it with MHC of the Police Station in his presence.

14. PW-10 Insp. Shamsher Singh deposed that he received secret information on his mobile that accused was indulged in trading of charas at his tea stall. This information was reduced into writing and sent to DSP Vigilance, Mandi through Const. Sanjay Kumar. He along with other officials reached at Aut at about 7:15 PM when they met Devender Kumar and Bhushan Kumar. They reached at the shop of the accused. Accused was present in his shop. The shop was searched. The contraband was recovered. It weighed 1 kg. 500 grams. Two samples of 25 grams each were separated. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot. In his cross-examination, he deposed that they reached Thalot at about 4:14 PM. They laid nakka at Thalout from 4:14 PM to 7:15 PM. He denied the suggestion that no information was received by him. He reached Aut at about 7:15 PM. Independent witnesses met him there. In his further cross-examination, he admitted that when the raiding party reached, there was huge rush in the shop of the accused and 10-15 persons were taking snacks in his shop.

15. What emerges from the appraisal of the statements of the witnesses discussed hereinabove is that PW-10 Insp. Shamsher Singh received secret information. It was reduced into writing and sent to DSP Vigilance, Mandi through Const. Sanjay Kumar. Thereafter, raiding party was constituted. The shop of the accused was searched. Charas was recovered from the shop of the accused. All the codal formalities were completed at the spot. The case property was produced before PW-9 DSP Gurdev Sharma. He resealed the same. The same was deposited with the MHC of the Police Station. The MHC of the Police Station sent the same to FSL Junga through Const. Sanjay Kumar.

16. Independent witnesses, PW-2 Devender Kumar and PW-3 Bhushan Kumar, though were declared hostile, but they have admitted their signatures on various seizure memos and parcels. The statements of PW-2 Devender Kumar and PW-3 Bhushan Kumar cannot be discarded in their entirety. The statements of the official witnesses inspire confidence. Section 50 of the Act was also not required to be complied with for the simple reason that the contraband was recovered from the shop of the accused and not from his person.

17. The learned trial Court has given undue importance as to whether Baldev was also member of the raiding party at the time when the shop of the accused was searched or not. The minor contradictions, whether the police party has reached Aut at 7:15 PM or 7:30 PM has not in any manner prejudiced the case of the accused. All the witnesses cannot be expected to narrate the facts in a parrot like manner. There is bound to be some discrepancy in the timings due to passage of time.

18. The learned trial Court has also given undue weightage that PW-5 LHC Gian Chand and PW-10 Insp. Shamsher Singh in their examination-in-chief have deposed that accused was all alone in his shop but in their cross-examination they have deposed that 10-15 persons were present in his shop. It is also a minor contradiction.

19. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Naresh and others, reported in (2011) 4 SCC 324, have held that normal discrepancies are bound to occur due to normal errors of observation, errors of memory due to lapse of time and due to mental disposition. Trivial matters which do not affect core of prosecution case should not be made a ground on which evidence is rejected in its entirety. Their lordships have held as follows:

> "18. The High Court has given undue importance to the minor contradictions in the statement of Subedar (PW.1) and Balak Ram (PW.5) as one of them had stated that the I.O. reached the place of occurrence at 10.15 p.m. and another has stated that he reached about mid night. The incident occurred in mid October 1979. This is the time when the winter starts and in such a fact-situation no person is supposed to keep record of exact time particularly in a rural area. Everybody deposes according to his estimate. More so, the statement had been recorded after a long lapse of time. Therefore, a margin of 1-1/2 hours remained merely a trivial issue.
> 30. In all criminal cases, normal discrepancies are bound to occur in the depositions of witnesses due to normal errors of observation, namely, errors of memory due to lapse of time or due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of occurrence. Where the omissions amount to a contradiction, creating a serious doubt about the truthfulness of the witness and other witnesses also make material improvement while deposing in the court, such evidence cannot be safe to rely upon. However, minor contradictions, inconsistencies, embellishments or improvements on trivial matters which do not affect the core of the prosecution case, should not be made a ground on which the evidence can be rejected in its entirety.The court has to form its opinion about the credibility of the witness and record a finding as to whether his deposition inspires confidence.
> > "Exaggerations per se do not render the evidence brittle. But it can be one of the factors to test credibility of the prosecution version, when the entire evidence is put in a crucible for being tested on the touchstone of credibility."
>
> Therefore, mere marginal variations in the statements of a witness cannot be dubbed as improvements as the same may be elaborations of the statement made by the witness earlier. The omissions which amount to contradictions in material particulars i.e. go to the root of the case/materially affect the trial or core of the prosecution's case, render the testimony of the witness liable to be discredited. [Vide: State Represented by Inspector of Police v. Saravanan & Anr., AIR 2009 SC 152; Arumugam v.State, AIR 2009 SC 331; Mahendra Pratap Singh v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2009) 11 SCC 334; and Dr. Sunil Kumar Sambhudayal Gupta & Ors. v. State of Maharashtra, JT 2010 (12) SC 287].
> 31. The High Court has also fallen into error in giving significance to a trivial issue, namely, that in respect of the morning incident all the accused had not been named in the complaint/NCR."

20. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Gangabhavani vs. Rayapati Venkat Reddy and others, reported in (2013) 15 SCC 298, have held that in case there are minor contradictions in the depositions of the witnesses the same are bound to be ignored as the same cannot be dubbed as improvements and it is likely to be so as the statement in the court is recorded after an inordinate delay. In case the contradictions are so material that the same go to the root of the case, materially affect the trial or core of the prosecution case, the court has to form its opinion about the credibility of the witnesses and find out as to whether their depositions inspire confidence. Their lordships have held as follows:

"12. Thus, the position of law in cases where there is a contradiction between medical evidence and ocular evidence stands crystallised to the effect that though the ocular testimony of a witness has greater evidentiary value vis-à-vis medical evidence, when medical evidence makes the ocular testimony improbable, that becomes a relevant factor in the process of the evaluation of evidence. However, where the medical evidence goes so far that it completely rules out all possibility of the ocular evidence being true, the ocular evidence may be disbelieved.

CONTRADICTIONS IN EVIDENCE:

13. In State of U.P. v. Naresh, (2011) 4 SCC 324, this Court after considering a large number of its earlier judgments held:

> "In all criminal cases, normal discrepancies are bound to occur in the depositions of witnesses due to normal errors of observation, namely, errors of memory due to lapse of time or due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of occurrence. Where the omissions amount to a contradiction, creating a serious doubt about the truthfulness of the witness and other witnesses also make material improvement while deposing in the court, such evidence cannot be safe to rely upon. However, minor contradictions, inconsistencies, embellishments or improvements on trivial matters which do not affect the core of the prosecution case, should not be made a ground on which the evidence can be rejected in its entirety. The court has to form its opinion about the credibility of the witness and record a finding as to whether his deposition inspires confidence.
> Exaggerations per se do not render the evidence brittle. But it can be one of the factors to test credibility of the prosecution version, when the entire evidence is put in a crucible for being tested on the touchstone of credibility."

Therefore, mere marginal variations in the statements of a witness cannot be dubbed as improvements as the same may be elaborations of the statement made by the witness earlier. The omissions which amount to contradictions in material particulars i.e. go to the root of the case/materially affect the trial or core of the prosecution's case, render the testimony of the witness liable to be discredited."

A similar view has been re-iterated by this Court in Tehsildar Singh & Anr. v. State of U.P., AIR 1959 SC 1012; Pudhu Raja & Anr. v. State, Rep. by Inspector of Police, JT 2012 (9) SC 252; and Lal Bahadur v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2013) 4 SCC 557).

14. Thus, it is evident that in case there are minor contradictions in the depositions of the witnesses the same are bound to be ignored as the same cannot be dubbed as improvements and it is likely to be so as the statement in the court is recorded after an inordinate delay. In case the contradictions are so material that the same go to the root of the case, materially affect the trial or core of the prosecution case, the court has to form its opinion about the credibility of the witnesses and find out as to whether their depositions inspire confidence."

21. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Madhu alias Madhuranatha and another vs. State of Karnataka, reported in (2014) 12 SCC 419, have held that minor discrepancies on trivial matters which do not affect the core of the case of the prosecution must not prompt the Court to reject the evidence in its entirety. Irrelevant details which do not, in any way, corrode the credibility of a witness should be ignored. The court has to examine whether evidence read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. The Court is not supposed to give undue importance to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the heart of the matter. Their lordships have further held that the evidence of police officials cannot be discarded merely on the ground that they belong to the police force and are either interested in the investigation or in the prosecution. There can be no prohibition to the effect that a policeman cannot be a witness or that his deposition cannot be relied upon if it inspires confidence. Their lordships have held as follows:

> "15. It has been canvassed on behalf of the appellants that there are discrepancies and contradictions in the depositions of witnesses like the timings when deceased was seen last with the appellants and the distances of places etc. do not tally. Thus, their evidence cannot be relied upon.
> 16. In Rohtash Kumar v. State of Haryana, JT 2013 (8) SC 181, this Court considered the issue of discrepancies in the depositions. It is a settled legal proposition that while appreciating the evidence of a witness, minor discrepancies on trivial matters which do not affect the core of the case of the prosecution must not prompt the court to reject the evidence in its entirety. Therefore, irrelevant details which do not in any way corrode the credibility of a witness should be ignored. The court has to examine whether evidence read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. Once that impression is formed, it is undoubtedly necessary for the court to scrutinize the evidence, more particularly keeping in view the deficiencies, drawbacks and infirmities pointed out in the evidence as a whole and evaluate them to find out whether it is against the general tenor of the evidence given by the witnesses and whether the earlier evaluation of the evidence is shaken, so as to render it unworthy of belief. Thus, the court is not supposed to give undue importance to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the heart of the matter, and shake the basic version of the prosecution witness. A similar view has been re-iterated in State of U.P. v. M.K. Anthony, AIR 1985 SC 48; State rep. byInspector of Police v. Saravanan & Anr., AIR 2009 SC 152; and Vijay @ Chinee v. State of M.P., (2010) 8 SCC 191.
>
> 17. Learned counsel for the appellants has vehemently argued that in some of the recoveries, though a large number of people were available, but only police personnel were made recovery witnesses. Thus, the whole prosecution case becomes doubtful.
>
> 18. The term 'witness' means a person who is capable of providing information by way of deposing as regards relevant facts, via an oral statement, or a statement in writing, made or given in Court, or otherwise. In Pradeep Narayan Madgaonkar & Ors. v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1995 SC 1930, this Court dealt with the issue of the requirement of the examination of an independent witness, and whether the evidence of a police witness requires corroboration. The Court held that though the same must be subject to strict scrutiny, however, the evidence of police officials cannot be discarded merely on the ground that they belong to the police force and are either interested in the investigation or in the prosecution. However, as far as possible the corroboration of their evidence on material particulars should be sought.(See also: Paras Ram v. State of Haryana, AIR 1993 SC 1212; Balbir Singh v. State, (1996) 11 SCC 139; Kalpnath Rai v. State (Through CBI), AIR 1998 SC 201; M. Prabhulal v. Assistant Director, Directorate of Revenue Intelligence, AIR 2003 SC 4311; and Ravinderan v. Superintendent of Customs, AIR 2007 SC 2040).
> 19. Thus, a witness is normally considered to be independent unless he springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and this usually means that the said witness has cause to bear such enmity against the accused so as to implicate him falsely. In view of the above, there can be no prohibition to the effect that a policeman cannot be a witness or that his deposition cannot be relied upon if it inspires confidence.

20. This Court in Laxmibai (dead) Thr. L.Rs. & Anr. v. Bhagwantbuva (dead) Thr. L.Rs. & Ors., AIR 2013 SC 1204 examined a similar issue and held:

> "Furthermore, there cannot be any dispute with respect to the settled legal proposition, that if a party wishes to raise any doubt as regards the correctness of the statement of a witness, the said witness must be given an opportunity to explain his statement by drawing his attention to that part of it, which has been objected to by the other party, as being untrue. Without this, it is not possible to impeach his credibility. Such a law has been advanced in view of the statutory provisions enshrined in Section 138 of the Evidence Act, 1872, which enable the opposite party to cross-examine a witness as regards information tendered in evidence by him during his initial examination in chief, and the scope of this provision stands enlarged by Section 146 of the Evidence Act, which permits a witness to be questioned, inter-alia, in order to test his veracity. Thereafter, the unchallenged part of his evidence is to be relied upon, for the reason that it is impossible for the witness to explain or elaborate upon any doubts as regards the same, in the absence of questions put to him with respect to the circumstances which indicate that the version of events provided by him, is not fit to be believed, and the witness himself, is unworthy of credit. Thus, if a party intends to impeach a witness, he must provide adequate opportunity to the witness in the witness box, to give a full and proper explanation. The same is essential to ensure fair play and fairness in dealing with witnesses. (See: Khem Chand v. State of Himachal Pradesh, AIR 1994 SC 226;State of U.P. v. Nahar Singh (dead) & Ors., AIR 1998 SC 1328; Rajinder Pershad (Dead) by L.Rs. v. Darshana Devi (Smt.), AIR 2001 SC 3207; and Sunil Kumar & Anr. v. State of Rajasthan, AIR 2005 SC 1096)".

22. PW-9 DSP Gurdev Sharma has categorically deposed that he resealed the sample parcels with seal "S" at two places and the bulk parcel with seal "S" at 9 places. It is evident from Ext. PW-10/G, report of the Forensic Science Laboratory that one parcel bearing six seals of "T" and resealed with two seals of "S" has reached FSL, Junga on 31.5.2007. It was carried to Junga by Const. Sanjay Kumar. The inner and outer seals were found intact and tallied with the seal impression sent by the SHO on form NCB-I. The contraband was found to be charas. The prosecution has proved that the charas was recovered from the shop of the accused and the accused is liable to be convicted under Section 20 of the ND & PS Act.

23. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. The judgment of acquittal rendered by the learned trial Court in Sessions trial No. 40 of 2007, dated 9.8.2010 is set aside. The accused is convicted under Section 20 of the ND & PS Act. The accused be heard on quantum of sentence on 18.7.2016. The Registry is directed to prepare and sent the production warrant to the quarter concerned. Bail bonds are cancelled.

For the Petitioner: Mr.Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate General with Mr.Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma,J.

The petitioner-State being aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the award dated 31.3.2009 passed by Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, H.P. (for short `Labour Court') preferred the present writ petition under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India and has prayed for following relief(s):-

> "(a) That 50% wages awarded vide judgment passed by the Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal in Reference No.580/2008 decided on 31.3.2009, may kindly be quashed and set aside.
> (b) The relevant record be called from Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal for perusal
>
> (c) The cost of petition may kindly be awarded to the petitioners.
> (d) Any other writ, order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem, just and proper in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case may kindly be passed."

2. Key facts, as emerged from the record, necessary for the adjudication of the present case are that the respondent-workman was engaged as daily waged Beldar in 1998 in Dharampur Division and as such she continued to work till 7th July, 2005.

3. Thereafter, authority specified by the Government (Chief Engineer, HPPWD (B&R) Central Zone, Mandi) vide letter dated 17.6.2005, exercising the powers of Specified Authority conferred on him vide Government Notification No.Sharm(A) 4-1/2005 dated 14.2.2005, accorded the permission for retrenchment of workmen specified in the application for permission dated 18.4.2005 for 997 Beldars, 35 Nos.Masons, 55 Nos. Blacksmiths on the principle of `First come Last Go'.

4. Accordingly, in view of the aforesaid order passed by the Authority concerned, all the workmen including the present respondent were issued retrenchment notice alongwith three months wages. Respondents were also paid one month wages under clause-A of sub-section (1) of Section 25N of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (for short `Act').. Accordingly, on July 8, 2005 services of the respondent-workman alongwith other workmen were terminated by giving her a retrenchment notice under Section 25N of the Act.

5. Respondent-workman feeling aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the retrenchment order, issued by the present petitioner-State, raised Industrial Dispute, whereupon Labour Commissioner vide order dated 12.3.2009 made a reference to the Learned Presiding Judge, Labour Court to adjudicate the said dispute. Learned Labour Court, Dharamshala, upon this Reference No.588/2008, vide award dated 31.3.2009 held the respondent-workman entitled to reinstatement in the same capacity in which she was working at the time of retrenchment of her services. Learned Tribunal below, apart from reinstatement, also held workman entitled to benefit of continuity of service from the date of her retrenchment i.e. July 8, 2005. Learned Labour Court, on the basis of material made available on record, also concluded that the respondent-workman is entitled to reinstatement with 50% back wages and continuity of service from the date of her unlawful retrenchment with further direction to the present petitioner to compute 50% back wages on the basis of the last drawn wage or the minimum wages permissible under the Minimum Wages Act, whichever is higher, till the date of reinstatement of the respondent-workman.

6. The present petitioner-State, being aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the impugned award dated 31.3.2009, whereby present respondent-workman was held entitled to 50% back wages from the date of her un-lawful retrenchment i.e. 8th July, 2005, approached this Court by way of instant writ petition.

7. Careful perusal of the averments contained n the writ petition, especially relief claimed by the petitioner, suggests that the petitioner-State is only aggrieved to the extent whereby the respondent-workman has been held entitled to 50% back wages from the date of her retrenchment till its payment. Since no specific challenge, whatsoever, has been laid to that part of award wherein respondent-workman has been held entitled to the reinstatement with continuity of service from the date of her retrenchment, this Court need not look into that aspect of the matter. Moreover, petitioner-State has specifically stated in the writ petition that respondent-workman stand re-engaged w.e.f. 15.9.2009 by them and the impugned award is being assailed to the extent of granting of 50% back wages in favour of the respondent-workman. Hence, in view of the position stated hereinabove, this Court while dealing with the present petition only needs to ascertain/adjudicate that whether the award dated 31.3.2009 passed by the learned Labour Court holding respondent-workman entitled to 50% back wages from the date of retrenchment is sustainable or not in view of the grounds taken by the petitioner-State in the writ petition.

8. Close scrutiny of the grounds taken by the petitioner-Department, while challenging the impugned award, suggests that the petitioner-State is aggrieved with the order of the Tribunal below holding the respondent-workman entitled to 50% back wages from the date of her retrenchment. As per petitioner-State, implementation, if any, of the impugned award of the Tribunal would be caused administrative as well as financial hardship to the State of Himachal Pradesh because, if the benefit, granted by the learned Labour Court to the respondent-workman, is extended to her, all other similarly situate persons i.e. 1087 workmen would claim the same benefit and in that process huge financial hardship would cause to the State of Himachal Pradesh. Petitioner-State also stated that there will be approximately liability of Rs.seven crores, if the benefit, as extended in the case of the petitioner, is also claimed by the similarly situate person. The petitioner-State also submitted that learned Tribunal below, while awarding 50% back wages to the respondent-workman, has not applied uniform yardsticks and has acted on its own whims and fences. It is specifically averred in the writ petition that in Reference No.145/2002, titled: Raj Kumar & Others vs. E.E. Bilaspur, decided on 28.4.2009, learned Labour Tribunal though held the workman entitled to reinstatement with continuity of service but no benefit of back wages was granted to the workman. Petitioner-Department also contended that learned Tribunal below failed to appreciate that respondent-workman did not lead any evidence on record to demonstrate that she remained un-employed during the period of her retrenchment from the services and as such any order holding the respondent-workman entitled to 50% back wages from the date of retrenchment i.e. 8th July, 2005 till date of award of compensation deserves to be rectified in accordance with law being unreasonable, unjustified, inappropriate and dis-proportionate. Petitioner-State also averred that fact remains that respondent-workman never worked during the retrenched period with the petitioner-Department and as such any order passed by the learned Tribunal below holding her entitled for 50% back wages qua that period is against the well settled principle of law i.e. `No Work No Pay'.

9. In the aforesaid background, petitioner-State approached this Court by way of present writ petition for redressal of their grievance.

10. Shri Rupinder Singh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General, appearing on behalf of the petitioner-State, vehemently argued that the impugned award dated 31.3.2009 passed by learned Labour Court, Dharamshala is not sustainable in the eye of law as the same is against basic principle of law. He also contended that bare perusal of the impugned award itself suggests that it is not based upon the proper appreciation of the evidence made available on record. Rather, same appears to be passed on the basis of sympathies with the respondent-workman. He forcefully contended that there is nothing on record to suggest that during retrenched period respondent was not gainfully employed somewhere else and as such learned Tribunal has fallen into grave error in holding the respondent-workman entitled for 50% back wages for the retrenched period. During argument having been made by him, he also invited the attention of this Court to Annexure P-4, i.e. Reference No.145/2002, titled: Raj Kumar and Others vs. E.E., Bilaspur to demonstrate that in identical cases learned Tribunal issued order of reinstatement with the benefit of continuity of service but no back wages, whatsoever, were paid to the workman in those cases and as such learned Tribunal has not applied uniform yardsticks while deciding the case of the similarly situate persons. He also contended that if order passed by learned Tribunal is allowed to sustain, it would cause great financial hardship to the petitioner-State because other similarly situate persons would also claim amount as has been granted to the present respondent-workman by the Tribunal below.

11. At this stage it may be noticed that none has put in appearance on behalf of the respondent. Perusal of the order sheet dated 16.5.2016, attached with the Court case file, suggests that nobody has ever put in appearance on behalf of the respondent-workman after issuance of notices on 3.12.2009. Vide order dated 16.5.2016 this Court had issued actual date hearing notice returnable for 17.6.2016. Perusal of order dated 17.6.2016 suggests that sole respondent stands served for 17.6.2016 but on that date also nobody put in appearance on behalf of the respondent. Today, when the matter was taken up for hearing, despite repeated pass overs, none has come present on behalf of the respondent and as such Court was compelled to hear the matter, in the absence of the learned counsel for the respondent-workman, finally on merits on the basis of the record made available.

12. As has been observed above, petitioner-State is only aggrieved with that part of the award dated 31.3.2009, passed by the learned Labour Court below, whereby respondent-workman has been held entitled to 50% back wages from the date of retrenchment i.e. 8th July, 2005, meaning thereby petitioner-State is not aggrieved with the order of reinstatement that too with the benefits of continuity of service from the date of her retrenchment i.e. 8th July, 2 005.

13. Further perusal of the writ petition itself suggests that respondent-workman stands re-engaged w.e.f. 15.9.2009 with benefit of continuity of service and as such this Court need not to go into the validity of award dated 31.3.2009 passed by the learned Labour Court as far as issue of reinstatement with benefit of continuity service is concerned. At this stage, after perusing the grounds taken by the petitioner-State while assailing the impugned award dated 31.3.2009, this Court has no hesitation to conclude/observe that respondent has not raised any legal grounds, whatsoever, to assail the impugned award dated 31.3.2009, whereby respondent-workman has been entitled to 50% back wages from the date of retrenchment. Petitioner-State, instead of setting up some legal grounds to assail the impugned award, has made an attempt to gain sympathy of the Court by stating that implementation, if any, of the impugned award would cause great financial hardship to the State of Himachal Pradesh. But this Court is of the view that financial hardship, if any, cannot be a ground to disentitle the respondent-workman from the relief, which she is/was otherwise entitled under the provisions of law. Moreover, it is not understood that when the petitioner-State have accepted the reinstatement order that too with the benefit of continuity of service, on what grounds they have approached this Court praying for modification of the award dated 31.3.2009. Once findings of the Labour Court to the effect that the respondent-workman is entitled to reinstatement with continuity of service is accepted by the petitioner-State and same is implemented by re-engaging the respondent-workman, no ground, whatsoever, is available to the petitioner-State for not paying 50% back wages to the respondent-workman. At this stage, this Court is of the view that once learned Labour Court came to the conclusion that the respondent-workman is entitled to reinstatement that too with the benefit of continuity of service, respondent-workman has been rightly held entitled to the payment of 50% back wages because benefit of continuity of service, if any, could only be granted by the Court when it stands proved on record that during the period of retrenchment, work was available with the petitioner-department and the respondent-workman was prevented by the petitioner-department from doing work.

14. Another ground raised by the petitioner-State in the writ petition is that since workman had not worked during the said retrenched period in the petitioner-department and had also accepted the retrenchment compensation for four months wages, deserves to be rejected out rightly by this Court solely for the reason that learned Labour Court, while holding respondent-workman entitled for reinstatement, concluded that "petitioner retrenchment can, therefore, be safely held to be illegal in view of the abovementioned provisions of Section 25N of the Act". Rather, the learned Tribunal, while passing award dated 25.3.2009, has categorically concluded that there is violation of Sections 25(F, M, N, G and H), hence the petitioner-State cannot be allowed, at this stage, to rake-up the issue of payment of retrenchment compensation, if any, in the absence of specific challenge to that part of the award/findings returned by learned Tribunal below in its award dated 31.3.2009. However, to deal with the aforesaid averments raised in the grounds as well as arguments having been made on behalf of the petitioner-State, it would be apt to reproduce following portion of the award passed by the learned Tribunal below:-

> "17. The petitioner in paragraph 4 of her statement of claim alleged that the workmen namely Subhash Chand, Shashi Kant, Bidhi Chand, Ranjeet Singh, Balak Ram, Dalip Singh, Dharampal and others, who were junior to her, were unlawfully retained in service by the respondent at the time her services were dispensed with and the respondent thus violated the principle of "Last Come First Go" as contemplated under Section 25G of the Act. In reply, the respondent in paragraph 4 averred:
>
> > "That the contents of this para partly admitted, and it is submitted that some junior daily wages workers are working in Dharampur Division due to non availability of seniority of workers were transferred from other Division/Sub-Division. The case/ seniority has scrutinized again when above facts came to the notice. However, the retrenchment notice to above juniors have also been served who are surplus to the requirement."
>
> 18. This reply of the respondent lends assurance only to the petitioner's allegation that certain workmen, who were junior to her, were retained in service at the time her services were dispensed with by the respondent.
> 19. Further, the petitioner in her affidavit specifically alleged that the workman namely Shashi Kant S/o Bihari Lal, who was engaged on January 1, 2000, was junior to her and retained in service at the time her (petitoner) services were terminated. The respondent's witness Naresh Kumar Sharma, Executive Engineer, HPPWD Division, Dharampur, in his cross-examination as RW1, however, denied the petitioner's suggestion that certain workmen junior to her (Petitioner) were retained in service at the time of termination of her services, but admitted to having prepared the seniority list/year-wise mandays chart in respect of the workman namely Shashi Kant S/o Bihari Lal, Ex.PW-1/B, according this said witness, is a true copy of the seniority list/year-wise, mandays chart issued by him. This document is demonstrative of Shashi Kant having been engaged as daily waged Beldar in Dharampur Division of HPPWD in the month of January, 2000 and his being in the employ of the respondent till November, 2008. In another seniority list Ex.RW1/C adduced in evidence by the respondent, Shashi Lal S/o Bihari Lal, who figures at serial No.646, is shown to have been engaged on 6.4.1999. So he is indubitably junior to the petitioner. The said seniority list is also indicative of the said workman having been retained in service at the time the petitioner was retrenched. The respondent thus on his own showing lent credence to the petitioner's allegation that the workman Shashi Kant (Shashi Lal) who was junior to her, was retained in service at the time her services were dispensed with. In retrenching the petitioner, the respondent is thus proved to have violated the provisions of Section 25G of the Act.

20. The petitioner's Authorised Representative contends that the respondent had violated the provisions of Section 25H of the Act as well, because Mamta Devi w/o Hans Raj, who was engaged by the respondent as daily, waged Beldar in 2000 and retrenched along with the petitioner, was later re-engaged in 2007 without giving the petitioner an opportunity to offer herself for re-employment.

21. Per contra, the Ld.Dy.D.A. argues that Mamta Devi having been engaged on compassionate grounds after the demise of her husband, who was also working in HPPWD, the respondent cannot be said to have violated the provisions of Section 25H of the Act. This contention, to my thinking, appears to be holding water in view of the seniority list Ex.RW1/C which is indicative of Mamta Devi having been re-engaged on compassionate grounds. In view of her having been re-engaged on compassionate grounds, the petitioner's pleadings being non-existent in her allegation of Mamta Devi having been re-engaged after her retrenchment and this allegation of her not being the subject matter of the reference on hand, it is difficult to hold that the respondent had violated the provisions of Section 25H of the Act.

22. Since in retrenching the petitioner, the respondent is proved to have violated the provisions of Sections 25F and 25G of the Act, the petitioner is entitled to reinstatement in the same capacity as in which she was working at the time her services were dispensed with. Besides, she is entitled to continuity of service from the date of her retrenchment (July 8, 2005). Her claim of being entitled to regularization with the policy of the State Government is, however, not being adjudicated upon, for the same is not the subject matter of the reference.

23. The petitioner in paragraph 15 of her statement of claim averred that she was not gainfully employed anywhere after the termination of her services, and that she was still unemployed. In substantiation of this claim she in her affidavit inter alia deposed that after her illegal retrenchment she was not gainfully employed anywhere and was still unemployed. There being no rebuttal to this deposition of her, her claim deserves acceptance and is accepted. In view of the facts and circumstances of the case, the petitioner, to my mind, is entitled to 50% back-wages from the date of her unlawful retrenchment. The issue under discussion is accordingly held in her favour and against the respondent."

15. Careful perusal of the aforesaid portion of the award passed by learned Tribunal clearly suggests that at the time of retrenchment of the respondent-workman, work was available with the petitioner-Department and workmen junior to the present respondent-workman were unlawfully retained in the service by the petitioner-Department at the time of illegal retrenchment of the respondent-workman in violation of the provisions of Section 25-G of the Act. Rather careful perusal of para-19 of the award, as reproduced hereinabove, suggests that learned Tribunal below had an occasion to peruse the Ex.PW-1/B i.e. the mandays chart, produced by the department at the time of hearing of the case by the Tribunal, wherein it transpired that the persons junior to the respondent-workman were retained in service by the petitioner-State at the time of retrenchment of the respondent-workman. Further perusal of the documents made available to the learned Tribunal below reveals that the persons engaged as daily waged Beldar in 2007, who were retrenched alngwith the respondent-workman, were retained again by the petitioner-Department in 2007 without giving respondent-workman an opportunity of re-employment.

16. It is crystal clear from the facts duly substantiated on the record by the documents that at the time of retrenchment of respondent-workman, work was available with the petitioner-department, and junior persons to him were retained while retrenching her from the service, hence it can be safely concluded that at the time of retrenchment of respondent-workman, sufficient work was available with the department and respondent-workman was prevented by the department itself from rendering service, if any, with the department.

17. Reliance is placed on the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Raghubir Singh vs. General Manager, Haryana Roadways, Hissar, 2014(6) SLR 6 (S.C.), wherein the Court held:

> "39. Now, it is necessary for this Court to examine another aspect of the case on hand, whether the appellant is entitled for reinstatement, back wages and the other consequential benefits. In the case of Deepali Gundu Surwase V. Kranti Junior Adhyapak Mahavidyalaya (D. Ed) and Ors., (2013)10 SCC 324: [2013(6) SLR 642 (SC), this Court opined as under:-
> > "22. The very idea of restoring an employee to the position which he held before dismissal or removal or termination of service implies that the employee will be put in the same position in which he would have been but for the illegal action taken by the employer. The injury suffered by a person, who is dismissed or removed or is otherwise terminated from service cannot easily be measured in terms of money. With the passing of an order which has the effect of severing the employer employee relationship, the latter's source of income gets dried up. Not only the concerned employee, but his entire family suffers grave adversities. They are deprived of the source of sustenance. The children are deprived of nutritious food and all opportunities of education and advancement in life. At times, the family has to borrow from the relatives and other acquaintance to avoid starvation. These sufferings continue till the competent adjudicatory forum decides on the legality of the action taken by the employer. The reinstatement of such an employee, which is preceded by a finding of the competent judicial/quasi judicial body or Court that the action taken by the employer is ultra vires the relevant statutory provisions or the principles of natural justice, entitles the employee to claim full back wages. If the employer wants to deny back wages to the employee or contest his entitlement to get consequential benefits, then it is for him/her to specifically plead and prove that during the intervening period the employee was gainfully employed and was getting the same emoluments. Denial of back wages to an employee, who has suffered due to an illegal act of the employer would amount to indirectly punishing the concerned employee and rewarding the employer by relieving him of the obligation to pay back wages including the emoluments.
> > 23. A somewhat similar issue was considered by a three Judge Bench in Hindustan Tin Works Pvt. Ltd. v. Employees of Hindustan Tin Works Pvt. Ltd. (supra)......The relief of reinstatement with continuity of service can be granted where termination of service is found to be invalid. It would mean that the employer has taken away illegally the right to work of the workman contrary to the relevant law or in breach of contract and simultaneously deprived the workman of his earnings. If thus the employer is found to be in the wrong as a result of which the workman is directed to be reinstated, the employer could not shirk his responsibility of paying the wages which the workman has been deprived of by the illegal or invalid action of the employer. Speaking realistically, where termination of service is questioned as invalid or illegal and the workman has to go through the gamut of litigation, his capacity to sustain himself throughout the protracted litigation is itself such an awesome factor that he may not survive to see the day when relief is granted. More so in our system where the law's proverbial delay has become stupefying. If after such a protracted time and energy consuming litigation during which period the workman just sustains himself, ultimately he is to be told that though he will be reinstated, he will be denied the back wages which would be due to him, the workman would be subjected to a sort of penalty for no fault of his and it is wholly undeserved. Ordinarily, therefore, a workman whose service has been illegally terminated would be entitled to full back wages except to the extent he was gainfully employed during the enforced idleness. That is the normal rule. Any other view would be a premium on the unwarranted litigative activity of the employer. If the employer terminates the service illegally and the termination is motivated as in this case viz. to resist the workmen's demand for revision of wages, the termination may well amount to unfair labour practice. In such circumstances reinstatement being the normal rule, it should be followed with full back wages..... In the very nature of things there cannot be a strait-jacket formula for awarding relief of back wages. All relevant considerations will enter the verdict. More or less, it would be a motion addressed to the discretion of the Tribunal. Full back wages would be the normal rule and the party objecting to it must establish the circumstances necessitating departure. At that stage the Tribunal will exercise its discretion keeping in view all the relevant circumstances. But the discretion must be exercised in a judicial and judicious manner. The reason for exercising discretion must be cogent and convincing and must appear on the face of the record. When it is said that something is to be done within the discretion of the authority, that something is to be done according to the Rules of reason and justice, according to law and not humour. It is not to be arbitrary, vague and fanciful but legal and regular.....

24. Another three Judge Bench considered the same issue in Surendra Kumar Verma v. Central Government Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, New Delhi (supra) and observed: Plain common sense dictates that the removal of an order terminating the services of workmen must ordinarily lead to the reinstatement of the services of the workmen. It is as if the order has never been, and so it must ordinarily lead to back wages too......In such and other exceptional cases the court may mould the relief, but, ordinarily the relief to be awarded must be reinstatement with full back wages. That relief must be awarded where no special impediment in the way of awarding the relief is clearly shown. True, occasional hardship may be caused to an employer but we must remember that, more often than not, comparatively far greater hardship is certain to be caused to the workmen if the relief is denied than to the employer if the relief is granted."
(Emphasis supplied by this Court)" (pp.23-25)

18. In the aforesaid background, this Court sees no illegality, whatsoever, in the order passed by the learned Labour Court, whereby respondent-workman has been held entitled to 50% back wages from the date of retrenchment i.e. 8th January, 2005. Another contention put forth on behalf of the petitioner-department that respondent-workman had not placed on record any document suggestive of the fact that during retrenchment period she was not gainful employee also deserves outright rejection because record suggests that respondent-workman issued notice stating therein that after planning illegal retrenchment, she was not gainful employee anywhere and she was still unemployed. Since, no reply rebutting the aforesaid deposition made by the workman was filed by the petitioner-department, learned Tribunal below rightly accepted the aforesaid submissions having been made on behalf of the respondent-workman.

19. Reliance is also placed on the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vismay Digambar Thakare vs. Ramchandra Samaj Sewa Samiti and Others, (2012)3 SCC 574, wherein the Court held:

20. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the impugned award dated 31.3.2009 passed by learned Presiding Judge, Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala and as such the same is up-held and present petition is dismissed being devoid of any merit.

21. All the interim orders are vacated. All miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

Madivallappa V. Marabad and others Vs. State of Karnataka, (2014) 12 Supreme Court Cases 448

Sangara Bonia Sreen Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, 1997 (4) Supremet

For the appellant. : Mr. Mr. Vikram Thakur, Dy. Advocate General with Mr. J.S. Guleria, Assistant Advocate General.

For the respondents: Mr. Anoop Chitkara, Advocate with Mr. Hoshiar Kaushal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.

By way of present appeal, the State has challenged the judgment passed by the Court of learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur in Sessions Trial No. 16 of 2008 dated 21.11.2008 vide which the learned Trial Court has acquitted the accused for commission of offences punishable under Sections 498-A and 306 of Indian Penal Code (in short 'IPC').

2. In brief, the case of the prosecution was that a telephonic information was received from Medical Officer, Regional Hospital, Hamirpur on 24.4.2008 at 17.10 hours, which was duly registered vide Daily Diary Ext. PW6/A to the effect that Sushma Devi (hereinafter to be referred as 'deceased') wife of Pawan Kumar (in short 'accused') had been brought to hospital with burn injuries. The police was requested to come to the hospital and take further action in accordance with law. Sub Inspector Guler Chand and HC Charanjit Singh went to the hospital where HC Charanjit Singh moved an application Ext. PW12/B for getting the deceased medically examined and he sought opinion from the doctor as to whether she (deceased) was fit to make statement or not. Dr. Sunita Dalodha, PW12, examined deceased, vide MLC Ext. PW11/B and referred her to IGMC, Shimla vide discharge slip Ext.PW12/A. She also expressed her opinion that deceased was not fit to make any statement. Thereafter, Braham Dass, father of deceased came to hospital and made statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C., Ext. PW1/A, to the effect that his daughter Sushma Devi was married with accused Pawan Kumar in the year 2001 and after about one year when she visited her parental house she told them that her husband-Pawan Kumar, mother-in-law, Matti Devi, father-in-law, Nikka Ram, brother-in-law, Ajit Kumar and sister-in-law Kanta Devi used to ill-treat her for not bringing sufficient dowry and also subjected her to cruelty. Braham Dass sent his daughter back to the matrimonial house after advising the in-laws that they should mend their behaviour. However, deceased continued complaining that there was no change in their behaviour, therefore, he took Pradhan, Balwant Singh, to the matrimonial house of deceased where Pradhan, Pritam Chand was also present. The in-laws of deceased assured that they would not repeat such behaviour in future. However, their such behaviour continued and on 24.2.2008 at around 6:00 p.m., he came to know from Hans Raj on telephone that Sushma Devi had been brought to hospital at Hamirpur in burnt condition. He further stated that by the time he reached the hospital, deceased had been referred to Shimla. It was reported that accused persons had burnt his daughter.

3. On the basis of this statement, case was registered under Sections 498-A, 323 and 324 read with Section 34 IPC against the accused. During the course of investigation, ASI Subhash Chand took into possession copy of compromise deed Ext. PW1/B dated 5.1.2006, vide memo Ext. PW1/C. The burnt clothes of deceased were also taken into possession from her bed room.

4. In the meanwhile, Sushma Devi died on the way to Shimla. On the application of the investigating officer, post-mortem of the dead body was conducted. The matter was thereafter investigated and the accused persons were arrested and challan was prepared against them for having committed offences punishable under Sections 498-A and 306 IPC. As a prima-facie case was found against the accused, accordingly they were charged for commission of offences punishable under Section 498-A and 306 IPC. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

5. In order to substantiate its case, prosecution, in all, examined 12 witnesses.

6. Father of deceased Braham Dass appeared as PW1 and stated that deceased (his daughter) was married to accused-Pawan Kumar in December, 2001. Relation between his daughter and her husband remained cordial for about one year and thereafter accused persons started torturing the deceased on demand of dowry and they demanded Rs. 2.00 lacs which allegedly was the expenditure incurred by them at the time of the marriage of accused. He also deposed that his daughter used to inform him telephonically about mental and physical harassment which was meted out to her by the accused. He also deposed that in December, 2005, deceased was beaten up and at that time he along with his brother, Hans Raj and sister-in-law Simro had gone to the matrimonial house of deceased and brought her to his own house and also moved an application to the police. Police had called the accused persons. PW-1, his brother Hans Raj and Pradhan, Balwant along with his daughter went to the police station Hamirpur and Pradhan Pritam Chand was also present there from the side of accused. Deceased had sustained injuries on her face and accused persons admitted their fault in presence of all and the matter was compromised. Deceased was sent to her matrimonial house. Accused had undertaken not to indulge in such behaviour again. However, as per PW1, they did not mend their way and thereafter as and when he went to their house he found that accused persons were abusing his daughter and him also. On 24.4.2008 at about 5:30 p.m., he received unfortunate news of his daughter having sustained burn injuries. He also stated that on 17.4.2008 there was a marriage in his relation at village, Anu and deceased had gone to attend the marriage, where he (PW1) was also present. Deceased complained to him there that she was apprehending danger to her life from accused persons. However, he pacified her where husband of deceased was also present. He also invited them to come to his house but they did not come. In his cross-examination, he has stated that he did not disclose the factum of Rs. 2.00 lac demanded by accused persons to the police. He also admitted that he had not disclosed this fact to the police that whenever he visited the house of accused persons they used to abuse him. He has also admitted that he had not disclosed to the police that on 17.4.2008 when his daughter met him in the marriage, she told him that she was apprehending danger to her life from the accused persons. He has clarified that he was puzzled at the time of death of his daughter. Thereafter he stated that he did not tell anyone about the alleged torture of his daughter except Pradhan Pritam Chand but Pradhan Pritam Chand did not visit the house of accused persons to advise them because he used to tell him (PW1) that accused persons also abused him.

7. PW2, Simro Devi is the aunt of deceased. She has corroborated the case of prosecution and has stated that whenever deceased used to visit her father's house, she used to say that accused used to taunt her for not bringing dowry. She also deposed that once deceased had come with severe injuries on her face and she told that her mother-in-law had caused injuries to her. She also told her that other accused persons had also given beatings to her. She has further deposed that subsequently the matter was compromised vide Ext. PW1/B. She also deposed that once when deceased had come to her house on account of death of family member, at that time deceased disclosed to her that all accused persons used to beat her. In her cross-examination, she has stated that she did not inform the police about the visit of deceased at the time of death of family member. She also stated that she had not advised the accused persons against the said alleged treatment meted out by them to the deceased. She thereafter stated that she did not remember as to whether she told the police or not that accused used to demand Rs. 2.00 lacs from the deceased. She was also confronted with her statement (Ext.DA) made to the police where it was not so recorded.

8. PW3, Leela Devi, aunt of deceased has also supported the case of prosecution and stated that accused persons used to physically torture the deceased on account of dowry.

9. PW4, Balwant Singh, stated that in the year 2001 he was Up-Pradhan of Gram Panchayat, Bhumpal. On 16.12.2005 PW1, Braham Dass, had come to his house and told him that his daughter was beaten up by her husband, father-in-law and mother-in-law. He advised PW1, Braham Dass, to report the matter with the police. On 4.1.2006, police called accused persons to the police station and he also went there. He further deposed that he had seen severe injuries on the face and eyes of the deceased. The in-laws and husband of deceased admitted their guilt in presence of all and assured that they would not indulge in such behaviour again. On this, a compromise was reduced into writing and the same was signed by him, Pritam Chand Pradhan of accused side, deceased as well as by accused also. Thereafter, deceased accompanied the accused persons to her house. In his cross-examination, he has stated that he had told to the police in Ext.DB that deceased had sustained injuries on her face and over her eyes. However, when the said witness was confronted with the document, it revealed that he had not made such statement before the police.

10. HC, Charanjit Singh, has deposed as PW5 to the effect that he had partly investigated the case and collected the MLC of deceased from hospital. He has also deposed that burnt clothes of deceased were taken into possession from her house by the investigating officer in his presence, vide memo Ext. PW5/A.

11. PW6, HC Vijay Parkash, has deposed with regard to Medical Officer Regional Hospital, Hamirpur having informed him on telephone that deceased was brought to hospital in burnt condition. He has also deposed with regard to deposit of the case property.

12. PW7, Vijay Singh, has deposed that he deposited the case material handed over to him with FSL, Junga and after depositing the same, he handed over the original RC to MHC.

13. PW8, Rajinder Kumar, deposed that he conducted the search of the house of accused and took into possession one stove, one plastic canny containing one liter kerosene oil, one match box cover and other articles.

14. PW9, Inspector Anjni Jaswal, prepared final report and presented the same in the Court.

15. PW10, Dr. Ashok Kaushal, had conducted the post-mortem of deceased.

16. PW11, ASI, Subhash Chand, has stated that he remained as ASI in Police Station Sadar, Hamirpur and had conducted the investigation of this case. He has also deposed that he got conducted the post-mortem of the dead body of deceased and prepared the site plan and also recorded the statements of the witnesses. He deposed that the statements of the witnesses were recorded as per their versions.

17. PW12, Dr. Sunita Galodha, deposed that she was posted as Medical Officer in Regional Hospital, Hamirpur and on 24.4.2008 at about 5:30 p.m. deceased was brought by her husband and mother-in-law after changing her clothes with the history of accidental stove burns. She further deposed that the police was accordingly informed. The patient was restless with pain. Pulse was feeble and was not countable. She also deposed that the patient was referred to IGMC, Shimla.

18. These are the relevant witnesses whose testimonies are relevant for the purpose of adjudication of the present appeal.

19. On the basis of material produced on record by the prosecution, the learned Trial Court came to the conclusion that the prosecution had not been able to prove the charges against the accused. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by the learned Trial Court, the present appeal has been filed by the State.

20. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court.

21. Before proceeding any further, it is relevant to take note of the fact that here is a case which admittedly is of unnatural death and the death has taken place within 7 years of the marriage of the deceased. The accused have been charged under Sections 498-A and 306 read with Section 34 I.P.C. As per Section 498-A, whoever, being the husband or the relative of the husband of a woman, subjects such woman to cruelty shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine. As per this section, "cruelty" means any willful conduct which is of such a nature as is likely to drive the woman to commit suicide or to cause grave injury or danger to life, limb or health (whether mental or physical) of the woman. Further "cruelty" also means harassment of the woman where such harassment is with a view to coercing her or any person related to her to meet any unlawful demand for any property or valuable security or is on account of failure by her or any person related to her to meet such demand.

22. It has come in the statement of PW1 father of the deceased that earlier also deceased was beaten up by accused persons and the matter was reported to the police where a compromise had taken place. The compromise has been placed on record Ext. PW1/B. A perusal of the said compromise demonstrates that the said compromise was entered into between the parties on the following terms:-

(a) Father-in-law, Nika Ram and mother-in-law of the deceased accept that they had ill-treated their daughter-in-law and had also physically abused her and they admit their fault. They undertake that hereinafter they will not indulge in verbal abuse or physical assault of their daughter-in-law today itself i.e. 6.1.2006. They are taking their daughter-in-law to their house along with them and they will keep their daughter-in-law properly and in case some untoward incident takes place with her then they will responsible for the same.

(b) Husband, Pawan Kumar, accepted that when the incident took place he was not in his house and that he also accepted that deceased was physically abused but he stated that hereinafter in future such mistake shall not be repeated.

(c) In-laws of the deceased stated that from the date of compromise they take the responsibility of the deceased and if anything untoward happened with her then they will responsible for the same.

(d) Deceased agreed that she will remain at her matrimonial house and she will treat all with love and affection.

23. This agreement was arrived at between the parties on 6.1.2006. It has been signed by accused Nika Ram, Panwar Kumar, Braham Dass and Sushma Devi (deceased). A perusal of the contents of said compromise will demonstrate that there is no allegation of physical abuse against the husband. Further apparently there is no reference of any demand of dowry etc. in the terms of the settlement of the said agreement which was entered into between the parties. The terms on which the agreement was entered into, inter alia, were that the accused (in-laws of the deceased) shall treat her properly and will not verbally abuse her or physically ill-treat her. It was further undertaken by the accused that the deceased shall be taken to her matrimonial house and she will be treated properly and in case any untoward incident happens then they will be responsible for the same.

24. This compromise is dated 6.1.2006. The deceased committed suicide on 24.4.2008. The prosecution has not placed any material on record to substantiate that the deceased was subjected to any kind of physical torture etc. or any demands of dowry were ever made from her after the execution of the compromise. The prosecution has not associated any independent witness to substantiate the allegations that the deceased was physically abused and harassed by the accused.

25. Now in this background, when we peruse the deposition of the prosecution witnesses, the same will reveal that PW1, Braham Dass, father of the deceased has stated that after the marriage of his daughter, the relations between the husband and wife were cordial for one year and thereafter accused started torturing her and started demanding dowry from her. Demands were also made of Rs. 2.00 lacs, that is, the amount which had been incurred on the marriage of accused-Pawan Kumar with the deceased. He has also stated that on 17.4.2008 there was a marriage in their relations at Anu and deceased had also attended the marriage and told him that she apprehended danger to her life from the accused persons. According to PW1, Braham Dass, deceased's husband was also present with her and he asked both of them to visit him on the next day but they did not come. In his cross-examination he has categorically stated that he did not disclose the factum of Rs. 2.00 lacs being demanded by the accused persons to the police or to anyone else. He has also stated that he did not disclose to the police that on 17.4.2008 his daughter met him in a marriage ceremony at Anu and stated that she had danger to her life from the accused persons. He has also stated that he had not disclosed the factum of his daughter being tortured by the accused to anyone except Pradhan, Pritam Chand. Incidentally, Pritam Chand has not been examined as a witness by the prosecution. Pritam Chand, Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat was also one of the witnesses to the compromise entered into in the month of January, 2006 between deceased and the accused persons. Further, a perusal of the contents of FIR, Ext.PW1/A, will demonstrate that there is no mention in the same about the alleged demand for an amount of Rs. 2.00 lacs or that on 17.4.2008 the deceased had met PW1 and expressed apprehension about danger to her life from the accused persons. Besides father of deceased, the prosecution has also examined Smt. Simro Devi (PW2) and Smt. Leela Devi (PW3) who are aunts of the deceased. Both these witnesses have deposed in the Court that after her marriage, Sushma Devi (deceased) used to visit her parental house and she used to tell them that accused used to taunt her for not bringing dowry. In fact, PW2 has stated that once the deceased had come with severe injuries on her face to her house she told that her mother-in-law has caused injuries to her. Thereafter, the matter was compromised vide Ext. PW1/B and deceased was sent to her matrimonial house. PW3, Leela Devi, has stated that she had arranged the marriage between accused and the deceased and after marriage deceased told her that accused persons taunted her for not bringing dowry. As per her, she used to tell the sister of Pawan that father of the deceased was a poor person and her parents should not torture the deceased for dowry. She has also stated that once all accused persons gave beatings to deceased and she was having injury all over her face and the matter was reported with the police and the same was compromised into between the parties. A perusal of the statement made by these two witnesses in the Court and their statements recorded under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. make one thing very apparent that they have not referred to any particular incident of cruelty meted out to the deceased by the accused after the date of compromise i.e. after 1.6.2006 uptill the date of her death. The contention of PW1 that on 17.4.2008 deceased had expressed apprehension about danger to her life from the accused has also not been corroborated by any other witness. All these three witnesses are closely related to the deceased and they are interested witnesses. Therefore, their statements have to be scrutinized very-very minutely in order to establish as to whether the same are trustworthy and whether the Court should rely upon the said testimonies to convict the accused persons keeping in view the fact that there is no mention in the FIR about the alleged demand of Rs. 2.00 lacs by the accused form the deceased and about deceased expressing her apprehension of danger to her life from the accused on 17.4.2008 to PW1, Braham Das. It is apparent that said witness has made improvements in his testimony when he has entered the witness box and these contradictions in the contents of FIR and the statement made by PW1 in the Court have not been satisfactorily explained by the prosecution.

26. The prosecution has also examined Balwant Singh Up Pradhan, Gram Panchayat, Bhumpal at the relevant time as PW4. In his deposition, he has stated in the Court that on 16.12.2005 PW1 had come to his house and informed him that his daughter was beaten up by the accused. He has further stated that he advised PW1 to report the matter with the police. On 4.1.2006 police called the parties to the police station and he also went there. He saw severe injuries on the face and on the eyes of the deceased. He further deposed that the accused admitted their guilt in the presence of all that they would not indulge in such behaviour again. Thereafter, the matter was compromised between the parties and the compromise was signed by him and Pritam Chand. A perusal of his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. demonstrates that it is not recorded in the said statement that he saw injuries on the face and eyes of the deceased. This witness has been confronted with his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Besides this, this witness has also not deposed that after the date of compromise, the family of the deceased ever made complaint to the effect that the deceased was still being harassed by the accused. The prosecution has also not got recorded the testimony of any independent witness from the neighborhood of the deceased from where it could be proved that the deceased was subjected to any physical abuse by the accused before her unfortunate death.

27. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has held in Madivallappa V. Marabad and others Vs. State of Karnataka, (2014) 12 Supreme Court Cases 448, that in a case where no evidence is adduced to prove any particular act of cruelty or harassment to which the deceased was subjected to and where no complaint was made to the police about any such assault or harassment before the death of the deceased, the conclusion arrived at by the Trial Court that the prosecution story was not established beyond reasonable doubt was the correct view.

28. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sangara Bonia Sreen Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, 1997 (4) Supremet, that the basic ingredients of offence under Section 306 are (a) suicidal death and (b) abetment thereof. In our considered view, in order to attract the ingredients of abetment the intention of the accused to aid or instigate or abet the deceased to commit suicide is necessary.

29. It is a unique legal phenomenon in the Indian Penal Code that the only act, the attempt of which alone will become an offence, is suicide. The person who attempts to commit suicide is guilty of the offence under Section 309 IPC, whereas the person who committed suicide cannot be reached at all. Section 306 renders the person who abets the commission of suicide punishable for which the condition precedent is that, suicide should necessarily have been committed. Thus, the crux of the offence under Section 306 itself is abetment. In other words, if there is no abetment there is no question, the offence under Section 306 comes into play.

30. Hereinafter, we shall apply these principles to the facts of the present case. A close scrutiny of the statements of the prosecution witnesses will demonstrate that none of them have mentioned any explicit act on account of the accused which can be termed to be an act of abetment on their behalf which led deceased Sushma Devi to commit suicide. On the basis of the statements of the prosecution witnesses who were also interested witnesses, it cannot be said that the prosecution was successful in demonstrating and proving that the accused had committed any act which could be termed to be an act of abetment towards the commission of suicide by deceased Sushma Devi.

31. In order to substantiate the charge under Section 306 I.P.C., it has to be established that the death by commission of suicide was desired object of the abettors and with that in view they must have instigated, goaded, urged or encouraged the victim in commission of suicide. The instigation may be by provoking or inciting the person to commit suicide and this instigation may be gathered by positives acts done by the abettors or by omission in the doing of a thing. Thus, the acts or omission committed by the abettors immediately before the commission of suicide are vital. In the present case, we are afraid that the prosecution was not able to substantiate any of the above ingredients. The prosecution could not prove any act of provocation or incitement or omission or commission on the part of the accused, vide which they had instigated the deceased to commit suicide.

32. The prosecution has not been able to establish any intention of the accused to aid or instigate or abet the deceased to commit suicide. Therefore, it cannot be said that the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court whereby the accused have been acquitted is either perverse or the acquittal of the accused by the learned Trial Court has amounted to travesty of justice.

33. Thus, we conclude by holding that the prosecution has failed to establish beyond reasonable doubt that the accused were guilty of the offences alleged against them. We have gone through the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court at length. The learned Trial Court after due deliberation and due application of mind has come to the conclusion that the prosecution could not bring home the guilt against the accused persons beyond reasonable doubt. We find no reason to disagree with the said conclusion arrived at by the learned Trial Court. According to us also, the accused persons are entitled to the benefit of doubt as the prosecution has failed to prove beyond reasonable doubt the guilt of the accused. Therefore, we uphold the findings recorded by the learned Trial Court and the appeal is dismissed being without any merit. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by the accused are discharged.

For the appellant: Mr. S.D. Gill, Advocate.
For the respondent: Nemo.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. **:

By way of the present appeal, the appellant is assailing the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned District Judge, Sirmaur District at Nahan in Civil Appeal No. 42-CA/13 of 2006 dated 09.11.2006 vide which, learned first appellate Court has dismissed the appeal filed by the present appellant and upheld the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No. 2, Paonta Sahib, District Sirmaur in Civil Suit No. 37/1 of 2003 dated 30.08.2005.

2. This appeal was admitted on 30.11.2007 on the following substantial question of law:

> "Whether both the Courts below are justified in holding that appellant/defendant has not paid the decreetal amount before the filing of the suit."

3. Facts, in brief, necessary for adjudication of the present case are that respondent/plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as 'plaintiff') filed a suit for recovery of Rs.50,000/- alongwith interest against the appellant/defendant (hereinafter referred to as 'defendant') on the ground that on 12.02.1998, defendant approached him and requested that he was in need of Rs.50,000/- for his business of transportation and on his request, the plaintiff agreed to advance him a loan of Rs.50,000/- and for the said purpose, the plaintiff issued a cheque for an amount of Rs.50,000/- dated 12.02.1998, which money the defendant agreed to pay back alongwith interest @ 20% per annum till the entire amount was repaid. As per the plaintiff, the defendant had agreed to pay interest on the loan amount latest by 7th day of each month and also promised that he will pay the entire amount in lump sum after expiry of six months, failing which, the loan amount alongwith interest shall be recoverable from his moveable and immoveable property. A pronote to this effect was executed at Nahan on 12.02.1998 on a stamp paper of Rs.10/- in the presence of one Shri Sarwan Kumar and Bhagel Singh. This pronote was duly attested by Notary Public, Nahan, namely Smt. Usha Aggarwal and the defendant was identified before the said Notary Public by Shri R.L. Garg, Advocate. Defendant issued a cheque dated 12.02.1998 for an amount of Rs.55,000/- in favour of the plaintiff as security, but the same was subsequently cancelled by the defendant. The cheque issued by the plaintiff in favour of the defendant was duly encashed by him. On 02.04.1998, defendant paid an amount of Rs.5000/- to the plaintiff vide cheque drawn upon State Bank of India, Nahan. On 03.02.2000, defendant executed one more pronote of Rs.50,000/- in lieu of previous pronote, in which he admitted having received an amount of Rs.50,000/- and having issued a cheque in favour of the plaintiff as security of the loan amount. This pronote was written at Paonta Sahib on 03.02.2000 in the presence of one Shri Sarwan Kumar and Ran Bhaj Sharma and was duly attested by Notary Public Shri Satish Gupta, Advocate. The plaintiff presented the said cheque in the State Bank of India, ADB Branch Paonta Sahib on 10.11.2000, but the same was dishonoured on the ground of insufficient funds. He on various occasions requested the defendant to pay back the amount with interest which he had lent to the defendant, but the defendant avoided the payment of the said amount. The plaintiff in these circumstances issued a legal notice to the defendant which was not received by the defendant willfully. Therefore, in these circumstances, the plaintiff filed a suit for recovery alongwith interest.

4. In his written statement, the defendant denied the case of the plaintiff and stated that the plaintiff had taken various blank cheques from the defendant alongwith signatures on simple, judicial and stamp papers and some written papers and the same were misused by the plaintiff. According to the defendant, the amount in fact pertained to an investment having been made in verbal partnership business of a vehicle in January 1998 and when the business could not incur profits, the plaintiff manipulated false evidence by taking benefit of his position of being in police department to fleece money from the defendant. Thus, he denied the claim of the plaintiff.

5. In the replication, the plaintiff reiterated the case as put forth in the plaint and denied the factum of any partnership business having been entered into by him with the defendant or that the plaintiff was in possession of blank cheques etc. of the defendant which were misused by him.

6. On the basis of pleadings of the parties, learned trial Court framed the following issues:

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to recover the suit amount as alleged? OPP.
2. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.
3. Whether the suit is time barred? OPD
4. Whether the plaintiff has taken various blank cheques from defendant and is misusing the same?
5. Relief.

7. On the basis of evidence produced on record by the respective parties, the following findings were returned on the said issues by the learned trial Court:

Issue No. 1:	Yes.
Issue No. 2:	No.
Issue No. 3:	No.
Issue No. 4:	No.
Relief:	Suit of plaintiff is decreed as per operative part of judgment.

8. Thus, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff in the following terms:

> "It is ordered that suit of the plaintiff succeeds and is hereby decreed for recovery of Rs.50,000/- alongwith costs and future interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of filing this suit till the realization of entire decreetal amout."

9. It was held by the learned trial Court that the plaintiff was able to prove that he had lent an amount of Rs.50,000/- to the defendant by cheque which was duly withdrawn by him and the plaintiff also proved the issuance of two promotes as well as cheques by the defendant in his favour in the presence of witnesses which were duly attested by the Notaries. Learned trial Court further held that the defendant in fact in his deposition had admitted his signatures on the pronote and other documents, but his plea was that these signatures were obtained from him on blank papers. Learned trial Court further held that this contention of the defendant that he had not taken any money from the plaintiff and the said monetary transaction was with regard to a partnership business and further there were blank cheques and blank documents of his with the plaintiff which were being misused by the plaintiff, was not substantiated by the defendant by placing any cogent and trustworthy material on record. On the other hand, learned trial Court held that plaintiff by leading his own evidence has duly proved the execution of two promotes Ex.

PW2/A and Ex. PW2/D as well as cheques Ex. PW2/B and Ex. PW2/E. PW-5 Usha Aggarwal and PW-6 Sarvan Kumar have also proved the execution of pronote Ex. PW2/A. Learned trial Court further held that the pronote dated 03.02.2000 Ex. PW2/D also stood proved by witness Sarvan Kumar as well as Notary Public, who attested the same, i.e. PW-3 S.K. Gupta, Advocate. Learned trial Court further held that it cannot be assumed that all the persons were deposing against the defendant as he was trying to portray and on the basis of material on record it held that the plaintiff was entitled for recovery of Rs.50,000/- alongnwith costs and future interest @ 6% per annum.

10. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court, the defendant filed an appeal, which was dismissed by the learned District Judge, Sirmaur vide judgment dated 09.11.2006. Learned Appellate Court held that though the defendant denied the plaintiff's case in totality as was evident from the written statement, but at the same time, it was also his case that various blank cheques had been signed by him which were in possession of the plaintiff, which were misused by him. Learned appellate Court held that defendant in fact had acknowledged receiving an amount of Rs.50,000/- from the plaintiff, though according to him, it was not a loan received by him from the plaintiff, but it was in lieu of a partnership deed. Learned Appellate Court further held that there was no infirmity with the findings which were returned by the learned trial Court with regard to the execution of two promotes by the defendant in favour of the plaintiff which stood duly proved on record. Accordingly, it held that the plaintiff's cause for recovery of the suit amount was duly substantiated on record by proving the execution of two promotes Ex. PW2/A and Ex. PW2/D as well as by proving the issuance of cheques Ex. PW2/B and Ex. PW2/E and thus, it held that no fault could be traced with the judgment passed by the learned trial Court whereby it held the plaintiff to be entitled to recover the decreetal amount. This judgment passed by the learned first Appellate Court has been challenged by way of present appeal.

11. Mr. S.D. Gill, learned counsel for the appellant has argued that both the learned Courts below have erred in not appreciating that no amount as was being claimed by the plaintiff by way of filing of the suit was due to him from the defendant as this liability stood discharged by the defendant even before the suit was filed by the plaintiff. Further, according to Mr. Gill, it was for this reason that the defendant had taken a specific stand in his written statement that no amount in fact was due towards the plaintiff as was being claimed by him and the suit had been filed by misusing the blank cheques and other blank documents which were available with the plaintiff which contained the signatures of the defendant.

12. I have heard the learned counsel for the appellant as well as perused the records of the case and the judgment passed by both the learned Courts below.

13. Before proceeding further, it is relevant to refer to certain judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court with regard to the scope of interference by this Court while exercising its power under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

14. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vishwanath Agrawal Vs. Sarla Vishwanath Agarawal (2012) 7 Supreme Court Cases 288 while relying upon its previous judgments has held that High Court in second appeal should not disturb the concurrent findings of fact unless it is shown that the findings recorded by the Court below are perverse being based on no evidence or that on the evidence on record, no reasonable person could have come to that conclusion. It further held that solely because another view is possible on the basis of the evidence, the High Court would not be entitled to exercise the jurisdiction under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

15. Similarly, it has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Satya Gupta Vs. Brijesh Kumar (1998) 6 Supreme Court Cases 423:

> "16. At the outset, we would like to point out that the findings on facts by the Lower Appellate Court as a final Court on facts, are based on appreciation of evidence and the same cannot be treated as perverse or based on no evidence. That being the position, were] are of the view that the High Court, after reappreciating the evidence and without finding that the conclusions reached by the Lower Appellate Court were not based on the evidence, reversed the conclusions on facts on the ground that the view taken by it was also a possible view n the facts. The High Court, it is well settled, while exercising jurisdiction under Section 100, C.P.C., cannot reverse the findings of the Lower Appellate Court on facts merely on the ground that on the facts found by the Lower Appellate Court another view was possible."

16. Coming to the facts of the present case, in my considered view, there is no merit in the arguments of the learned counsel for the appellant. In fact what is being argued in the present appeal is totally contrary to the stand which has been taken by the defendant in his written statement as well as in the grounds of appeal, on the basis of which, the judgment passed by the learned trial Court was challenged before the learned first Appellate Court. Before the learned trial Court the stand of the defendant was that he had not received any money from the plaintiff as loan and nothing was due from him to the plaintiff and alleged promotes and cheques issued by him were in fact never issued and these were the result of misuse of blank cheques and blank papers and documents of his which were with the plaintiff. It was not his case in the written statement that though he had received an amount of Rs.50,000/-from the plaintiff, but he had discharged his liability before the suit was filed. Further, there is no issue framed by the learned trial Court in this regard and rightly so because this in fact was never the case of the defendant before the learned trial Court. Similarly, even before the learned Appellate Court, the judgment passed by the learned trial Court was challenged on the ground that the case of the plaintiff was based on concoction and fabrication and the suit was hopelessly time barred. Not only this, a perusal of the evidence placed on record by the defendant demonstrates that it is nowhere suggested in the said evidence that though the defendant had received an amount of Rs.50,000/- from the plaintiff, however, the said amount was duly paid back by him to the plaintiff.

17. Therefore, keeping in view the said facts, in my considered view, the defendant had neither set up any case to the effect that decreetal amount already stood satisfied by him even before the suit was filed nor there is any material placed on record by him from which this could be inferred. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly and the appeal being devoid of any merit is dismissed with costs.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Balwant Singh & another .....Petitioners
Versus
Ashok Kumar & others. .....Respondents.

CMPMO No. 378 of 2015
Date of Decision: 13.7.2016

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908– Order 39- Plaintiff filed an application for interim injunction which was allowed- an appeal was preferred which was dismissed- held, that a joint owner is not entitled to raise construction over the joint land- defendants pleaded that they may be permitted to raise the construction of cattle shed but there is no evidence that old cattle shed is in the danger of falling, therefore, they cannot be permitted to raise construction over the joint land - the courts had rightly granted the injunction - appeal dismissed. (Para-2)

For the petitioners: Mr. Amandeep Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. N.K Thakur, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Jamuna, Advocate for respondent No.1.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J (oral)

The parties to the lis uncontrovertedly stand recorded in the apposite revenue record to be joint owners in possession of the suit land. Uncontrovertedly also the suit land remains un-partitioned. Consequently extantly all the co-sharers in the undivided holdings who are parties to the lis enjoy the entire joint holdings vicariously with each other, also exclusive possession, if any, of any of the co-sharers of any portion of the joint holdings would not vest in him/them any right to, till partition of the joint estate occurs, stake any exclusive title to hold without the consent of the other co-sharers any construction activity thereon. The plaintiffs/respondents herein (for short the "plaintiffs") instituted a suit against the defendants/petitioners herein (for short the "defendants") for permanent prohibitory injunction for prohibiting the defendants from changing the nature of the suit land till the joint holdings stand partitioned by metes and bounds. The defendants had by their overt act of threatening to subject a portion of the joint land to construction spurred a cause of action vis-à-vis the plaintiffs also during the pendency of the suit, the plaintiffs had motioned the learned trial Court for the defendants being ad-interim restrained from subjecting any portion of the joint holdings to any construction. The learned trial Court had allowed the application of the plaintiffs. In an appeal carried from the rendition of learned trial Court before the learned Additional District Judge, Hamirpur by the aggrieved defendants, the appellate Court had affirmed the rendition of the learned trial Court.

2. Before the learned appellate Court the defendants had contended of a cattle shed already existing on the joint holding wherein their cattle stand housed being in an dilapidated condition and of there being every likelihood of its at any moment collapsing. They had also contended of theirs being permitted to raise a new cattle shed on the joint holdings, raising whereof being impossible unless the retaining wall beneath it is also permitted to be constructed. The learned appellate Court had concluded on a perusal of the photographs of the already existing cattle shed of the defendants on the joint holdings wherein they housed their cattle not facing any imminent danger of its collapsing. The aforesaid material as relied upon by the learned appellate Court in drawing the aforesaid conclusion does prima-facie unravel of its not suffering from any infirmity. Even if the defendants had in their possession material other than photographic evidence, which they took to place before the learned appellate Court, to sustain their claim qua its facing an imminent danger of collapsing whereupon they stood driven to espouse for theirs being permitted to raise it elsewhere, construction whereof being impossible unless the retaining wall occurring beneath it is permitted to be constructed, they stood enjoined to place the said germane material before the learned appellate Court or were enjoined to motion the appellate Court for appointment of a local Commissioner for the latter visiting the relevant site, on his visit whereof, the best credible material to sustain the claim of the defendants would have emerged. However the defendants omitted to do so. Consequently, in the aforesaid omission of the defendants to before the learned first appellate Court produce the best material in pronouncement of their claim therebefore rendered its standing withheld from its sight whereas when only the photographs of the relevant site stood adduced therebefore by the defendants for it to fathom the genuineness of the claim raised therebefore by the defendants, perusal whereof does not nurse any conclusion other than the one formed by the learned appellate Court now estops the defendants to contend of the view formed by the learned Appellate Court on its perusing the photographs as stood adduced thereat by them suffering from any legal frailty. In sequel, this court does not deem it fit and appropriate given the aforesaid omissions on the part of the defendants, omissions whereof estops them to espouse hereat of the reflections occurring in the photographs being discardable also strips of its vigor their claim hereat for the appointment of a Local Commissioner.

3. Further more the defendants had before the learned appellate Court reared a claim of theirs being permitted to construct a new cattle shed other than the one which already exists on the joint holdings. Since the cattle shed of the defendants as already exists on the joint holding stands concluded by this Court to not suffer any imminent danger of its collapsing besides when the defendants propose to raise a new cattle shed at a site other than the one where their old cattle shed exists, raising whereof would occur on the joint holdings which remain yet un-partitioned, its raising by the defendants if permitted by this Court would sequel the ill fate of the suit of the plaintiffs against them for theirs being injuncted from subjecting the joint holdings to any construction activity till partition thereof occurs, standing rendered nugatory.

I find no merit in the petition, the same is accordingly dismissed. However, the learned trial Court is directed to decide the Civil Suit within three months hereafater.

2. As per the prosecution case, on 11.12.2015, at about 8:30 a.m., one Suresh Verma resident of Tang gave information to the Police at Police Post, Yol, that a dead body is lying alongside the road in front of K.C.C. A mobile phone was recovered from the deceased and through which one Radha Devi was contacted by the Police and she identified the deceased as her husband. The complainant (mother of the deceased) got recorded her statement and as per her statement the deceased was running chowmin and momo shop. On 09.12.2015 the petitioner/accused in drunken state came to the shop of the deceased around 5 p.m. and thereafter at about 9:30 p.m. the deceased was taken by the petitioner/accused in his vehicle. On subsequent morning, i.e. 10.12.2015, the petitioner/accused left the deceased in his shop and they remained there till

1:30 p.m. Again the deceased was taken by the petitioner/accused and his associate Rinku to Court in the same vehicle and they again came back at 4 p.m. and at that time the deceased, Rinku and the petitioner/accused were drunk. The prosecution has further averred that at 9 p.m. the petitioner/accused took the deceased in his vehicle towards Yol and the deceased did not come back. On 11.12.2015 the complainant through telephone enquired the petitioner/accused about the deceased and he informed that he had left the deceased at Yol. The petitioner/accused also argued with the complainant and complainant came to know about the death of deceased from her daughter-in-law, Smt. Radha Devi. The deceased did not have any vendetta against anyone and he was last seen with the petitioner/accused. On the basis of the statement of the complainant an FIR was registered against some unknown person. Post mortem examination revealed that there were six injuries on the body of the deceased and there was ligature mark in the throat of the deceased. The prosecution has further averred that during the period from the night of 09.12.2015 till the night of 10.12.2015 the deceased was in the company of the petitioner/accused and on 11.12.2015 his dead body was found at Tang on the road side. On interrogation the petitioner/accused it came that the deceased was was left by him at Piru Mal Chowk, Yol, on the night of 10.12.2015 and the petitioner/accused was arrested on the basis of last seen together with the deceased. As per prosecution story, the petitioner/accused on refusal of the deceased to give evidence in his favour in the court of SDM killed the deceased. The petitioner/accused is employed as Constable in H.P. Police and being well aware of the things destroyed the evidence against him and he also did not get recovered of weapon of offence. It is also submitted that the petitioner/accused committed heinous crime and he can even now tamper the prosecution evidence. The prosecution has prayed for dismissal of the present bail petition.

3. As per the learned counsel for the petitioner, the rule is bail and not jail. The petitioner has submitted that he is behind the bars since December, 2015 and he will not be in a position to defend him in case during the trial he is kept behind the bars. It is further argued that the petitioner is roped in on the basis of suspicion only and the he is local resident and is not in a position to flee from justice.

4. Conversely, learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the petitioner/accused has committed heinous crime and the manner in which the crime has been committed, the bail to the petitioner/accused deserves dismissal at this stage.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the petitioner/accused, learned Additional Advocate General for the respondent/State and have gone through the record in detail.

6. After taking into consideration the rival contentions of the parties, gravity of the offence, manner in which the alleged offence has been committed, and considering all the material which has come on record, this Court finds that the present is not a fit case where the judicial discretion needs to be invoked at this stage. Accordingly, the petition, being devoid of merits, is dismissed.

Hari Nandan Prasad and another vs. Employer I/R to Management of Food Corporation of India and another, (2014) 7 SCC 190

For the petitioner: Mr. V.D. Khidta, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. Virender K. Verma, Addl. AG, with Mr. Pushpinder Jaswal, Dy. AG, for the respondents.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present writ petition is maintained by the petitioner against the award of Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla, dated 18.08.2012, whereby compensation to tune of Rs.2,00,000/- (rupees two lac) was awarded to the petitioner and declining reinstatement, back wages seniority and other service benefits with a prayer to order the reinstatement of petitioner with all consequential benefits.

2. As per the petitioner, he was initially engaged as Driver on daily wage basis on 17.06.1983 and he worked with the respondents till 31.03.1985 and has completed more than 240 days in a calendar year. Thereafter his services were terminated by the respondents on 31.03.1985 without following the due procedure of law. The petitioner made a request to the respondents that he may be continued in service, but when respondents did nothing, the petitioner filed a Civil Suit for permanent prohibitory injunction alongwith application under Order 39, Rules 1 & 2 C.P.C. The learned Civil Court vide order dated 06.06.1985 restrained the respondents from terminating the services of the petitioner. The suit, however, was dismissed by the learned Civil Court and the appeal was allowed by the learned District Judge, consequently, termination of the petitioner was held to be illegal and the petitioner was held entitled for employment. The respondents preferred regular second appeal against the order of the learned District Judge and the same was dismissed by the Hon'ble High Court on 16.12.1989. As per the petitioner, the respondents again terminated the services of the petitioner w.e.f. 20.10.1993 and again a Civil Suit was filed by the petitioner alongwith application under Order 39, Rules 1 & 2 C.P.C. The learned Civil Court on 22.10.1993 ordered to maintain status qua, which order was later on vacated for want of jurisdiction.

3. Thereafter the petitioner, by filing original application, approached the Administrative Tribunal against the termination order wherein interim order was passed by the learned Tribunal on 27.05.1994 and the same was vacated on 12.08.1994 and the original application was dismissed as withdrawn by the Hon'ble Tribunal on the ground of jurisdiction. The respondents again terminated the services of the petitioner on 12.08.1994 w.e.f. 13.08.1994 without complying with the mandatory provisions of Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

4. Thereafter the petitioner raised demand notice before the Labour Inspector-cum-Conciliation Officer. Conciliation proceedings were conducted by the Conciliation Officer and failure report was submitted by him to the Labour Commissioner, Himachal Pradesh. Thereafter the Labour Commissioner made a reference to the Labour Court to adjudicate the dispute and now the order of the Labour Court is under challenge in this petition.

5. The learned Labour Court awarded the payment of compensation of Rs.2,00,000/- (rupees two lac) to the petitioner after holding that the termination of the petitioner was illegal, conversely the petitioner submits that the compensation is too meager and the Labour Court has not taken into consideration the G.P.F., gratuity, back wages etc. which the petitioner would have got if he would not have been terminated and he had retired after attaining the age of superannuation.

6. Reply to the writ petition was filed by the respondents and it is averred that the petitioner was engaged on daily wage basis as Driver on 17.06.1983 and he joined his duties on 17.06.1983 in the office of respondent No. 3. As per the respondents, the petitioner worked with them w.e.f. 18.06.1983 to 13.12.1983, but he could not be paid the wages for 57 days, viz., w.e.f. 18.10.1983 to 13.12.1983 for want of sanction from the higher authorities. As per the respondents, on 07.12.1983 the petitioner was again appointed after proper interview through Employment Exchange, Nahan, with condition that he will not claim any right for further appointment and his service is liable to be terminated at any time without assigning any reason and without giving any notice. The petitioner joined on 14.12.1983 and he worked till 08.04.1985 with brakes in service.

7. As per the respondents, the petitioner filed a Civil Suit No. 21/1 of 1985 alongwith application under Order 39, Rules 1 & 2 CPC read with Section 151 CPC laying challenge to the order of termination, dated 18.03.1985, before the Sub Judge, Nahan, and the learned Judge restrained the respondents from terminating and removing the petitioner from service till disposal of the main suit. However, the main suit was dismissed on 03.06.1988. It is the case of the respondents that the petitioner remained sitting in the office without any work on the basis of the interim order of the Civil Court. Thereafter the suit, in appeal, was decreed by the learned District Judge, Solan and Sirmour District at Nahan and the respondents filed the regular second appeal, which was dismissed. As per the respondents on 18.10.1992 the respondents retrenched the services of the petitioner w.e.f. 20.10.1993 after giving proper notice under Section 25-F of the Industrial Dispute Act, 1947, and compensation of `11,000/- was paid to the petitioner. As per the respondents, as the petitioner in the month of 1984 was not having requisite qualification, as per the Recruitment and Promotion Rules, he was not interviewed and being ineligible he could not be appointed and so the initial termination took place. Again the petitioner was retrenched after following due procedure of law w.e.f. 20.01.1993.

8. The petitioner filed rejoinder refuting the stand taken by the respondents and reiterated the contents of the petition.

9. I have heard the learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Additional Advocate General for the respondents and have also gone through the record in detail.

10. The learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that when the Labour Court has held that the termination of the petitioner was illegal, the Labour Court should have ordered the reinstatement with all back wages and all consequential benefits considering that the order of retrenchment/termination was not there. To support his contentions, the learned counsel for the petitioner has relied on the case law, i.e., Deepali Gundu Surwase vs. Kranti Junior Adhyapak Mahavidyalaya (D. Ed.) and others, (2013) 10 SCC 324, Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited vs. Bhurumal, (2014) 7 SCC 177 and Hari Nandan Prasad and another vs. Employer I/R to Management of Food Corporation of India and another, (2014) 7 SCC 190. On the other hand, the learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the award passed by the Labour Court is just and reasoned as the Labour Court has come to the conclusion that there is no violation of the provisions of Section 25-F of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, and there is no evidence that the petitioner remained unemployed and was not gainfully employed. He has argued that the petitioner has otherwise also attained the age of superannuation and it was not in the interest of justice to order his reinstatement.

11. From the perusal of the record it is clear that indisputably the respondents engaged the petitioner as a Driver on daily wage basis w.e.f. 17.06.1983 till 31.03.1985 when he was terminated from services. It has also come on record that the petitioner approached the Court of learned Civil Judge, Nahan, in 1985, and the learned Court through interim measure restrained the respondents from terminating the services of the petitioner. However, the main suit was dismissed by the learned Civil Judge and the learned District Judge allowed the appeal preferred by the present petitioner. Subsequently, the respondents filed a regular second appeal in the Hon'ble High Court and the same was dismissed. It has come on record that even after 31.03.1985 the petitioner remained in service and the termination order dated 31.03.1985 was set aside by the Court, thus rendering termination order dated 31.03.1985 unjust and illegal. However, the petitioner was again terminated w.e.f. 13.08.1994 after following the mandatory provision contained in Section 25-F of Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, and resultantly the petitioner again filed a civil suit in the Court of learned Sub Judge, Nahan on 13.08.1994, wherein the respondents took the plea that the petitioner was terminated on 20.10.1993 and not on 13.08.1994. The termination order dated 18.10.1993 reveals that the petitioner was retrenched w.e.f. 20.10.1993.

12. As far as the break in service is concerned, that is notional break, however, the respondents after following due procedure terminated the services of the petitioner w.e.f. 20.10.1993 after complying with the provisions of Section 25F and after giving him compensation as per law. However, the respondents after terminating the services of the petitioner has employed other persons without affording an opportunity to be employed to the petitioner and the same is violation of Section 25H of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. Though the case of the respondents is that the petitioner was not devotional to his duties, but no inquiry was ever conducted by the respondents to this effect.

13. From the award of the Court below it is clear that after termination of the petitioner, the respondents have engaged the services of Shri Ami Chand in 1985, Shri Jahid Khan and Shri Nitin Kumar without giving opportunity to the petitioner and the same is violation of Section 25-H of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. As per the order of the Tribunal, the petitioner has already attained the age of 58 years and as per the affidavit of the petitioner, he is 59 years of age as on 19th day of August, 2012 and the retirement age if 58 years. So this Court has to consider the validity of the award passed by the Labour Court with respect to award of compensation only viz-a-viz reinstatement.

14. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Deepali Gundu Surwase vs. Kranti Junior Adhyapak Mahavidyalaya (D. Ed.) and others, (2013) 10 SCC 324, has held as under:

> "(i) In cases of wrongful termination of service, reinstatement with continuity of service and back wages is the normal rule.
>
> (ii) The aforesaid rule is subject to the rider that while deciding the issue of back wages, the adjudicating authority or the court may take into consideration the length of service of the employee/workman, the nature of misconduct, if any, found proved against the employee/workman, the financial condition of the employer and similar other factors.

(iii) Ordinarily, an employee or workman whose services are terminated and who is desirous of getting back wages is required to either plead or at least make a statement before the adjudicating authority or the court of first instance that he/she was not gainfully employed or was employed on lesser wages. If the employer wants to avoid payment of full back wages, then it has to plead and also lead cogent evidence to prove that the employee/workman was gainfully employed and was getting wages equal to the wages he/she was drawing prior to the termination of service. This is so because it is settled law that the burden of proof of the existence of a particular fact lies on the person who makes a positive averment about its existence. It is always easier to prove a positive fact than to prove a negative fact. Therefore, once the employee shows that he was not employed, the onus lies on the employer to specifically plead and prove that the employee was gainfully employed and was getting the same or substantially similar emoluments.

(iv) The cases in which the Labour Court/Industrial Tribunal exercises power u/s. 11-A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and finds that even though the enquiry held against the employee/workman is consistent with the rules of natural justice and / or certified standing orders, if any, but holds that the punishment was disproportionate to the misconduct found proved, then it will have the discretion not to award full back wages. However, if the Labour Court/ Industrial Tribunal finds that the employee or workman is not at all guilty of any misconduct or that the employer had foisted a false charge, then there will be ample justification for award of full back wages.

(v) The cases in which the competent court or tribunal finds that the employer has acted in gross violation of the statutory provisions and/or the principles of natural justice or is guilty of victimizing the employee or workman, then the court or tribunal concerned will be fully justified in directing payment of full back wages. In such cases, the superior courts should not exercise power under Art. 226 or Art. 136 of the Constitution and interfere with the award passed by the Labour Court, etc., merely because there is a possibility of forming a different opinion on the entitlement of the employee/workman to get full back wages or the employer's obligation to pay the same. Courts must always keep in view that in the cases of wrongful / illegal termination of service, the wrongdoer is the employer and sufferer is the employee/workman and there is no justification to give a premium to the employer of his wrongdoings by relieving him of the burden to pay to the employee/ workman his dues in the form of full back wages.

(vi) In a number of cases, the superior courts have interfered with the award of the primary adjudicatory authority on the premise that finalization of litigation has taken long time ignoring that in majority of cases the parties are not responsible for such delays. Lack of infrastructure and manpower is the principal cause for delay in the disposal of cases. For this the litigants cannot be blamed or penalised. It would amount to grave injustice to an employee or workman if he is denied back wages simply because there is long lapse of time between the termination of his service and finality given to the order of reinstatement. The Courts should bear in mind that in most of these cases, the employer is in an advantageous position vis-à-vis the employee or workman. He can avail the services ofr best legal brain for prolonging the agony of the sufferer i.e. the employee or workman, who can ill-afford the luzury of spending money on a lawyer with certain amount of fame. Therefore, in such cases it would be prudent to adopt the course suggested in Hindustan Tin works (P) Ltd., (1979) 2 SCC 80."

15. In Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited vs. Bhurumal, (2014) 7 SCC 177, the Hon'ble Supreme Court, vide paras 36 and 37 of the judgment, has held asunder:

"36. Applying the aforesaid principles, let us discuss the present case. We find that the respondent was working as a daily-wager. Moreover, the termination took place more than 11 years ago. No doubt, as per the respondent he had worked for 15 years. However, the fact remains that no direct evidence for working 15 years has been furnished by the respondent and most of his documents are relatable to two years i.e. 2001 and 2002. Therefore, this fact becomes relevant when it comes to giving the relief. Judicial notice can also be taken of the fact that the need of linemen in the Telephone Department has been drastically reduced after the advancement of technology. For all these reasons, we are of the view that ends of justice would be met by granting compensation in lieu of reinstatement.

37. In Man Singh (BSNL vs. Man Singh, (2012) 1 SCC 558) which was also a case of BSNL, this Court had granted compensation of Rs. 2 lakhs to each of the workmen when they had worked for merely 240 days. Since the respondent herein worked for longer period, we are of the view that he should be paid a compensation of Rs. 3 lakhs. This compensation should be paid within 2 months failing which the respondent shall also be entitled to interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the date of this judgment. The award of CGIT is modified to this extent. The appeal is disposed of in the above terms. The respondent shall also be entitled to the costs of Rs. 15,000 (Rupees fifteen thousand only) in this appeal."

16. The Hon'ble Apex Court in another case Hari Nandan Prasad and another vs. Employer I/R to Management of Food Corporation of India and another, (2014) 7 SCC 190, has held as under:

"39. On a harmonious reading of the two judgments discussed in detail above, we are of the opinion that when there are posts available, in the absence of any unfair labour practice the Labour Court would not give direction for regularization only because a worker has continued as daily-wage worker/ad hoc/temporary worker for number of years. Further, if there are no posts available, such direction for regularization would be impermissible. In the aforesaid circumstances giving of direction to regularize such a person, only on the basis of number of years put in by such a worker as daily-wager, etc. may amount to back door entry into the service which is an anathema to Article 14 of the Constitution. Further, such a direction would not be given when the worker concerned does not meet the eligibility requirement of the post in question as per the recruitment rules.

> However, wherever it is found that similarly situated workmen are regularised by the employer itself under some scheme or otherwise and the workmen in question who have approached the Industrial/Labour Court are workmen in question who have approached the Industrial/Labour Court are on a par with them, direction of regularization in such cases may be legally justified, otherwise, non-regularisation of the left-over workers itself would amount to invidious discrimination qua them in such cases and would be violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. Thus, the industrial adjudicator would be achieving the equality by upholding Article 14, rather than violating this constitutional provision."

17. In the present case, as per the respondent, the petitioner was initially appointed on 17.06.1983 and he served the respondent-department till 31.03.1985 and thereafter he remained in office till 1994 without any work and on 13.08.1994 the services of the petitioner were terminated. As has been held hereinabove, though the respondents have complied with the provisions of Section 25-F of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, and there is no illegality, but the respondents have failed to comply with the requirement of Section 25-H of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, which mandates as under:

> "24H. Re-employment of retrenched workmen. –Where any workmen are retrenched, and the employer proposes to take into his employ any persons, he shall, in such manner as may be prescribed, give an opportunity [to the retrenched workmen who are citizens of India to offer themselves for re-employment, and such retrenched workmen] who offer themselves for re-employment shall have preference over other persons."

18. In the present case after taking into consideration the fact that the petitioner remained in service for several years, he has attained the age of superannuation, the termination has taken place more than 20 years back and also taking a harmonious reading of the judgments of the Hon'ble Apex Court, this Court finds that at this stage the only appropriate directions which can be issued to the respondents is compensation only. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited vs. Bhurumal, (2014) 7 SCC 177, has allowed compensation of Rs.3,00,000/- (rupees three lac) to the petitioner, which was ordered to be paid within two months failing which the respondent shall also be entitled to interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the date of judgment. In the present case also taking the law on this aspect and the past of the petitioner the award of the Tribunal below is modified only to the extent that the petitioner is entitled to compensation of Rs.5,00,000/- (rupees five lac) in place of Rs.2,00,000/- (rupees two lac). The respondents are directed to pay compensation within a period of two months from today, failing which the petitioner shall be held entitled to interest at the rate of 12% per annum from today. However, in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, there is no order as to costs.

19. In view of the above, the petition, as also pending application(s), if any, shall stand(s) disposed of.

For the respondents: Mr. Virender K. Verma, Addl. AG, with Mr. Pushpinder Jaswal, Dy. AG, for respondent No. 1/State.
Respondent No. 2 in person.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition is maintained by the petitioner under Section 482 Criminal Procedure Code (hereinafter referred to as 'Cr.P.C') for quashing FIR No. 316 of 2014, dated 29.10.2014, registered at Police Station, Una, District Una, HP, under Sections 279, 337 Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC') and Sections 181 and 192 of the Motor Vehicles Act. The petitioner is also seeking quashing of subsequent Criminal Case No. 124-1-15, titled State of H.P. vs. Jagjit Singh @ Happy, which is pending adjudication before the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No. IV, Una, District Una, H.P.

2. Briefly stating the facts of the case, as per the petitioner, are that the FIR No. 316 of 2014, dated 29.10.2014, was registered against the present petitioner on the statement of Shri Som Nath, made under Section 154 Cr.P.C. contending therein that he was told by Shri Manoj Kumar that his uncle Shri Parkash Chand (respondent No. 2 herein) was hit by a motorcyclist while crossing Basdehra Chowk.

3. Police machinery was set into motion. Police investigated the matter and presented the challan in the Court under Sections 279, 337 IPC and Sections 181 and 192 of the Motor Vehicles Act. The case is pending adjudication in the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No. IV, Una, H.P. wherein charges have not been framed. It is further averred by the petitioner that he has entered into compromise with respondent No. 2 (Shri Parkash Chand/injured) qua the above FIR as both, petitioner and the respondent No. 2, are residents of same area, they entered into a compromise (Annexure P-2). The petitioner has prayed for quashing of FIR No. 316 of 2014, dated 29.10.2014, registered at Police Station Una, District Una, H.P. under Sections 279, 337 IPC and Sections 181 and 192 of Motor Vehicles Act and pending Criminal Case No. 124-1-15, titled State of H.P. vs. Jagjit Singh @ Happy, before the leaned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No. IV, Una, District Una, H.P.

4. Reply to the petition has been filed by respondent No. 1, wherein it is contended that Criminal Case is fixed for consideration for 16.06.2016 in the Court of leaned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No. IV, Una, District Una, H.P. It is submitted by replying respondent that there is no proof of amicable settlement of dispute inter se the petitioner and respondent No. 2 and the petitioner has committed a very serious offence against the public at large. It is also submitted that petitioner has alternative and equally efficacious remedy and he can submit his version before the competent authority for availing the procedure provided under Section 321 of Cr.P.C.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the petitioner as well as for respondent No. 2, learned Additional Advocate General for respondent No. 1/State and have also gone through the record carefully.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that as the parties have compromised the matter, vide Compromise Deed (Annexure P-2), no purpose will be served by keeping the proceedings against the petitioner and the FIR/Challan pending before the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.IV, Una, District Una, titled State of H.P vs. Jagjit Singh alias Happy and the same be quashed and set aside.

7. On the other hand, learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the offence is not compoundable, so the petition be dismissed.

8. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court B.S. Joshi and others vs. State of Haryana and another, (2003) 4 SCC 675, have held that if for the purpose of securing the ends of justice, quashing of FIR becomes necessary, section 320 would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing. It is well settled that the powers under section 482 have no limits. Of course, where there is more power, it becomes necessary to exercise utmost care and caution while invoking such powers. Their Lordships have held as under:

> [6] In Pepsi Food Ltd. and another v. Special Judicial Magistrate and others ((1998) 5 SCC 749), this Court with reference to Bhajan Lal's case observed that the guidelines laid therein as to where the Court will exercise jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code could not be inflexible or laying rigid formulae to be followed by the Courts. Exercise of such power would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case but with the sole purpose to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. It is well settled that these powers have no limits. Of course, where there is more power, it becomes necessary to exercise utmost care and caution while invoking such powers.
> [8] It is, thus, clear that Madhu Limaye's case does not lay down any general proposition limiting power of quashing the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint as vested in Section 482 of the Code or extraordinary power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. We are, therefore, of the view that if for the purpose of securing the ends of justice, quashing of FIR becomes necessary, Section 320 would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing. It is, however, a different matter depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case whether to exercise or not such a power.
> [15] In view of the above discussion, we hold that the High Court in exercise of its inherent powers can quash criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint and Section 320 of the Code does not limit or affect the powers under Section 482 of the Code.

9. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Preeti Gupta and another vs. State of Jharkhand and another, (2010) 7 SCC 667, have held that the ultimate object of justice is to find out the truth and punish the guilty and protect the innocent. The tendency of implicating the husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon. At times, even after the conclusion of the criminal trial, it is difficult to ascertain the real truth. Experience reveals that long and protracted criminal trials lead to rancour, acrimony and bitterness in the relationship amongst the parties. The criminal trials lead to immense sufferings for all concerned. Their Lordships have further held that permitting complainant to pursue complaint would be abuse of process of law and the complaint against the appellants was quashed. Their Lordships have held as under:

>
> "Inherent powers under section 482 Cr.P.C. though wide have to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with great caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in this section itself. Authority of the court exists for the advancement of justice. If any abuse of the process leading to injustice is brought to the notice of the court, then the Court would be justified in preventing injustice by invoking inherent powers in absence of specific provisions in the Statute."
>
> [28] We have very carefully considered the averments of the complaint and the statements of all the witnesses recorded at the time of the filing of the complaint. There are no specific allegations against the appellants in the complaint and none of the witnesses have alleged any role of both the appellants.
>
> [35] The ultimate object of justice is to find out the truth and punish the guilty and protect the innocent. To find out the truth is a herculean task in majority of these complaints. The tendency of implicating husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon. At times, even after the conclusion of criminal trial, it is difficult to ascertain the real truth. The courts have to be extremely careful and cautious in dealing with these complaints and must take pragmatic realities into consideration while dealing with matrimonial cases. The allegations of harassment of husband's close relations who had been living in different cities and never visited or rarely visited the place where the complainant resided would have an entirely different complexion. The allegations of the complaint are required to be scrutinized with great care and circumspection.
> 36. Experience reveals that long and protracted criminal trials lead to rancour, acrimony and bitterness in the relationship amongst the parties. It is also a matter of common knowledge that in cases filed by the complainant if the husband or the husband's relations had to remain in jail even for a few days, it would ruin the chances of amicable settlement altogether. The process of suffering is extremely long and painful.
> [38] The criminal trials lead to immense sufferings for all concerned. Even ultimate acquittal in the trial may also not be able to wipe out the deep scars of suffering of ignominy. Unfortunately a large number of these complaints have not only flooded the courts but also have led to enormous social unrest affecting peace, harmony and happiness of the society. It is high time that the legislature must take into consideration the pragmatic realities and make suitable changes in the existing law. It is imperative for the legislature to take into consideration the informed public opinion and the pragmatic realities in consideration and make necessary changes in the relevant provisions of law. 10. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jitendra Raghuvanshi and others vs. Babita Raghuvanshi and another, (2013) 4 SCC 58, have held that criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint can be quashed under section 482 Cr.P.C. in appropriate cases in order to meet ends of justice. Even in non-compoundable offences pertaining to matrimonial disputes, if Court is satisfied that parties have settled the disputes amicably and without any pressure, then for purpose of securing ends of justice, FIR or complaint or subsequent criminal proceedings in respect of offences can be quashed. Their Lordships have held as under:

> [13] As stated earlier, it is not in dispute that after filing of a complaint in respect of the offences punishable under Sections 498A and 406 of IPC, the parties, in the instant case, arrived at a mutual settlement and the complainant also has sworn an affidavit supporting the stand of the appellants. That was the position before the trial Court as well as before the High Court in a petition filed under Section 482 of the Code. A perusal of the impugned order of the High Court shows that because the mutual settlement arrived at between the parties relate to non-compoundable offence, the court proceeded on a wrong premise that it cannot be compounded and dismissed the petition filed under Section 482. A perusal of the petition before the High Court shows that the application filed by the appellants was not for compounding of non-compoundable offences but for the purpose of quashing the criminal proceedings.
> [14] The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 of the Code are wide and unfettered. In B.S. Joshi , this Court has upheld the powers of the High Court under Section 482 to quash criminal proceedings where dispute is of a private nature and a compromise is entered into between the parties who are willing to settle their differences amicably. We are satisfied that the said decision is directly applicable to the case on hand and the High Court ought to have quashed the criminal proceedings by accepting the settlement arrived at.
>
> [15] In our view, it is the duty of the courts to encourage genuine settlements of matrimonial disputes, particularly, when the same are on considerable increase. Even if the offences are non-compoundable, if they relate to matrimonial disputes and the court is satisfied that the parties have settled the same amicably and without any pressure, we hold that for the purpose of securing ends of justice, Section 320 of the Code would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing of FIR, complaint or the subsequent criminal proceedings.
> [16] There has been an outburst of matrimonial disputes in recent times. The institution of marriage occupies an important place and it has an important role to play in the society. Therefore, every effort should be made in the interest of the individuals in order to enable them to settle down in life and live peacefully. If the parties ponder over their defaults and terminate their disputes amicably by mutual agreement instead of fighting it out in a court of law, in order to do complete justice in the matrimonial matters, the courts should be less hesitant in exercising its extraordinary jurisdiction. It is trite to state that the power under Section 482 should be exercised sparingly and with circumspection only when the court is convinced, on the basis of material on record, that allowing the proceedings to continue would be an abuse of the process of the court or that the ends of justice require that the proceedings ought to be quashed. We also make it clear that exercise of such power would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and it has to be exercised in appropriate cases in order to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone the courts exist. It is the duty of the courts to encourage genuine settlements of matrimonial disputes and Section 482 of the Code enables the High Court and Article 142 of the Constitution enables this Court to pass such orders.

[17] In the light of the above discussion, we hold that the High Court in exercise of its inherent powers can quash the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint in appropriate cases in order to meet the ends of justice and Section 320 of the Code does not limit or affect the powers of the High Court under Section 482 of the Code. Under these circumstances, we set aside the impugned judgment of the High Court dated 04.07.2012 passed in M.C.R.C. No. 2877 of 2012 and quash the proceedings in Criminal Case No. 4166 of 2011 pending on the file of Judicial Magistrate Class-I, Indore."

11. Thus, taking into consideration the law as discussed hereinabove, I find that the interest of justice will be met, in case, the proceedings are quashed, as the parties have already compromised the matter which is placed on record.

12. Accordingly, taking holistic view of the matter and looking into all attending facts and circumstances, I find this case to be a fit case to exercise powers under Section 482 of the Code and accordingly FIR No. 316/2014, dated 29.10.2014, under Sections 279 and 337 of the Indian Penal Code and Section 181 and 192 of the Motor Vehicles Act, registered at Police Station, Una, District Una, is ordered to be quashed. Since FIR No.316/2014, dated 29.10.2014, under Sections 279 and 337 of the Indian Penal Code, registered at Police Station, Una, District Una, has been quashed, consequent proceedings/Challan pending before the learned Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.IV, Una, District Una, H.P. against the petitioner, are thereby rendered infructuous. However, the same are expressly quashed so as to obviate any confusion.

13. The petition stands allowed in the aforesaid terms.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioners has argued that petitioners are joining the investigation and they may be released on bail in the event of their arrest.

3. On the other hand, learned Additional Advocate General argued that the petitioners have committed heinous offence and the manner in which the crime has been committed makes it a fit case where the judicial discretion is not required to be exercised in favour of the petitioners.

Case referred:

State of Punjab Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation and others (2011) 9 Supreme Court Cases 182

For the petitioner:	Mr. Bimal Gupta, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Vineet Vashishta, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr. V. S. Chauhan, Addl. AG, with Mr. Vikram Thakur and Mr. Puneet Rajta, Dy. AGs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. :

By way of present petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India read with Section 482 of Cr. P.C., the petitioner has inter alia prayed for issuing directions to respondent No. 1 to have the case registered under Sections 376 & 506 of the Indian Penal Code vide FIR No. 53 of 2015 dated 29.06.2015 at Police Station, Kala Amb further investigated/re-investigated from some independent agency or from an Officer not below the rank of Deputy Superintendent of Police and also to decide the complaint of the petitioner (P-7) and convey the decision to the petitioner vis-à-vis action taken against respondent No. 5 on the said complaint. The petitioner has also prayed for quashing of order passed by the learned Special Judge, Sirmaur District at Nahan, H.P. in application No. 48-Cr.MP/4 of 2016 dated 09.03.2016 vide which, learned Special Judge, Sirmaur District at Nahan has dismissed the application filed by the present petitioner under Sections 173, 204 and 319 Cr. P.C.

2. An FIR has been registered at Police Station, Kala Amb, i. e. FIR No. 53 of 2015 dated 20.06.2015 under Sections 376 read with Section 506 of the Indian Penal Code as well as under Section 4 of POSCO Act. This FIR has been registered on the basis of complaint of the present petitioner who is a labourer. As per the contents of FIR, it has been alleged that the minor girl of the petitioner was raped by accused Mukesh, who allegedly drugged her and thereafter raped her. It is further mentioned in the FIR that when the minor girl of the complainant gained consciousness, she intimated the factum of her having been sexually abused by Mukesh to Vimal Tiwari, Bhardwaj Sir, Mamta Madam, Parkash Mehra and Vishnu. However, said persons instructed his daughter not to disclose this incident to any person otherwise she will not be given her wages and she will be killed. It is further stated in the FIR that accused Mukesh in conspiracy with Vimal Tiwari, Bhardwaj Sir, Mamta Madam, Parkash Mehra and Vishnu had raped his minor daughter and legal action be taken against all the above mentioned persons. A perusal of the report submitted by the Police on completion of investigation (P-3) dated 15.09.2015 demonstrates that on the basis of complaint of the present petitioner, an FIR was registered under Sections 376 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code and Under Section 4 of the POSCO Act. The medical of the prosecutrix was conducted on 29.06.2015 and the opinion of the Medical Officer is to the effect that “there is nothing to suggest that sexual intercourse has not been done.” It is further mentioned in the said report that demarcation of the spot was done in the presence of prosecutrix, her parents and Mausi and spot map was also prepared. Inquiry was done. The workers of the factory were questioned in this regard, but there was no eye witness to the alleged incident. Statements of the prosecutrix and her relatives were recorded under Section 161 Cr. P.C. and thereafter on 30.06.2015, the statement of the prosecutrix under Section 164 of Cr. P.C. was recorded in the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class. Accused Mukesh Kumar was arrested on 30.06.2015 at 5:15 p.m. It is further mentioned in the report that persons mentioned in the statement made under Section 164 Cr. P.C. by the prosecutrix, namely Mamta Kashyap, Vimal Tiwari, Vishnu Dev and Parkash Vohera were made to join the investigation and they were thoroughly investigated, however, all of them have stated that after alleged incident, the prosecutrix had not come to them and they have not coerced or intimidated the prosecutrix as alleged. It is also stated in the said report that during the course of investigation neither any witness nor any evidence has come into light which could fortify the allegations levelled by the prosecutrix in her statement under Section 164 Cr. P.C. against Mukesh or other workers named therein and due to lack of evidence against these persons, they could not be arrested and on account of lack of evidence, the names of these persons have been kept in Column No. 12 of the challan so that if during the course of trial, any material evidence comes against these persons, then they can be called upon and prosecuted. It has also come on record that no evidence has come of the prosecutrix being given any further intimidation etc., therefore, Section 506 of the Indian Penal Code has been removed from the case. It has also come in the said report that Salwar which the prosecutrix was wearing on the alleged date when the incident took place was not handed over to the police by her parents on the ground that they did not remember as to what were the clothes worn by the prosecutrix on that date. Accordingly, the challan has been submitted for prosecution of the accused under Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code read with Section 4 of POSCO Act.

3. An application was filed by the present petitioner under Sections 173, 204 and 319 Cr. P.C. in the Court of learned Special Judge, Sirmaur District at Nahan in which it was prayed that the learned Court may direct re-investigation of the case by an Officer not below the rank of Deputy Superintendent of Police and said officer may also be directed to take the clothes which the daughter of the complainant was wearing at the time of incident and the said clothes be sent for appropriate examination. This application has been dismissed by the learned Court below vide its order dated 09.03.2016 (P-6). Learned Court below has held that the application under Section 319 Cr. P.C. was not maintainable at this stage as the said provisions can be invoked only when some evidence comes on record against some other persons other than the charged person. Accordingly, learned Court below held that the question of arraying some other person who were allegedly working in the factory as accused has to be considered only when the evidence has started and not at the stage of hearing on the charge. With regard to handing over of the clothes of the prosecutrix, it has been held by the Court below that the doctor had specifically mentioned in the MLC that the clothes have been changed and these were not brought before the doctor. It further held that nothing prevented the complainant from producing the clothes before the doctor, if they were preserved in the same state. Learned Court also held that there is nothing on record to show that the complainant had tried to produce the same before the Investigating Officer or even before the Superintendent of Police and after about 8-9 months of the incident, learned Court below did not think it fit to pass any directions to the Investigating Officer as prayed for. The learned Court below has further held that the complainant will be free to approach the police authorities for further investigation in terms of Section 173(8) Cr. P.C. and make appropriate prayer, but in the facts and circumstances of the case, the lower Court does not thinks it fit to pass any directions. On these basis, the said application filed by the complainant has been rejected.

4. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case.

5. Section 173(8) of the Code of Criminal Procedure provides as under:

"173(8) Nothing in this Section shall be deemed to preclude further investigation in respect of an offence after a report under sub-section (2) has been forwarded to the Magistrate and whereupon such investigation, the officer in charge of the police station obtains further evidence, oral or documentary, he shall forward to the Magistrate a further report or reports regarding such evidence in the form prescribed; and the provisions of sub-sections (2) and (6) shall, as far as may be, apply in relation to such report or reports as they apply in relation to a report forwarded under sub-section (2).

6. The provisions of Section 173(8) of the Code of Criminal Procedure are invoked when after submission of a report under Section 173(2) Cr. P.C., further evidence comes into the notice of the investigating officer which may call for further investigation in the matter. In these circumstances, an application is filed before learned Magistrate seeking permission for further investigation of the matter on the basis of such further evidence obtained by the investigating officer whether oral or documentary.

7. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Punjab Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation and others (2011) 9 Supreme Court Cases 182 while interpreting the provisions of Section 482 Cr. P.C. that the provisions of Cr. P.C. does not limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order of the Court or to prevent the abuse of any process of the Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. It has been further held that the language of sub-section (8) of Section 173 Cr. P.C., therefore, cannot limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to pass an order under Section 482 Cr. P.C. for fresh investigation or reinvestigation if the Court is satisfied that such fresh investigation or reinvestigation is necessary to secure the ends of justice.

8. Reverting to the facts of the present case, the case of the complainant is that after the prosecutrix, i.e. his minor daughter was allegedly raped by the accused, she intimated this fact to other persons, namely Vimal Tiwari, Bhardwaj Sir, Mamta Madam, Parkash Mehra and Vishnu, who asked her not to disclose the occurrence of the incident to any other person otherwise she will not be paid her wages and she will also be killed. This fact is also recorded by the prosecutrix in her statement which has been recorded under Section 164 Cr. P.C. by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class on 30.06.2015, in which she has stated that on the fateful day after she re-gained her consciousness, her Salwar was stained with blood. After washing her Salwar, she went to Vimal Tiwari and other officers, namely Mamta, Vishnu, Parkash Mehra and Bhardwaj, who scared her and stated that do not disclose this fact to her mother otherwise neither she will be married and her mother will also be killed and the name of the Company will also be spoiled. These facts also find mention in her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr. P.C.

9. It has been averred in the present petition that after the alleged incident, an effort was made to hush up the matter. The complainant has alleged that the SHO concerned, i.e. respondent No. 5 refused to take the Salwar of the prosecutrix in possession. The petitioner has also alleged that he was approached by the workers of the Company against whom he wants action to be taken with the help of SHO, Kala Amb and with the help of one mediator Mr. Sada, R/o Chhachhrauli by involving one retired police official and some politicians of Yamunagar and the petitioner was called at PWD Rest House, Chhachhrauli in July, 2015, in which meeting one Mr. Saukin, ITI Yamunagar was also present, where he was pressurized to close the matter and he was also offered money in lieu of the same.

10. The concerned Station House Officer has been arrayed in his own capacity as respondent in the present Criminal Writ Petition, however, he has not filed any independent reply to the petition. There is only one joint reply which has been filed by the respondents to the Criminal Writ Petition and incidentally, this reply is not sworn on the affidavit of respondent No. 5, i.e. SHO, Kala Amb, but the reply is sworn on the affidavit of Superintendent of Police, Sirmaur District at Nahan, H.P. Further, a perusal of para-3 of the reply filed to the Criminal Writ Petition reveals that the same is vague and evasive as far as the allegations of influence etc. levelled in the said paragraph of the Criminal Writ Petition are concerned. Be that at it may, the fact of the matter is that the Criminal Case is sub judice and the trial is going on. In these circumstances, we do not deem it proper to make any comment/observation on the merit of the case as the same can prejudice the case of the accused or the prosecution.

11. However, we are of the considered view that in view of the allegations which have been levelled by the complainant and the prosecutrix against Vimal Tiwari, Bhardwaj Sir, Mamta Madam, Parkash Mehra and Vishnu, the interest of justice will be served in case the Deputy Superintendent of Police, Kala Amb is directed to further investigate the matter with regard to the allegations made against these persons in a free and fair manner. Accordingly, he is directed to carry out further investigation in the matter and the investigation be carried out and completed within a period of two months from today and the respondents shall thereafter proceed in the matter on the basis of the out come of the said investigation in accordance with law. We may again observe that this order has been passed keeping in view the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case as the allegation is with regard to sexual molestation of a minor girl and to hush up the entire matter by the main accused in connivance with other persons who have not been made accused but whose names have been kept in Column No. 12 of the FIR. We further direct that while carrying out investigation, the concerned Officer shall not be influenced by the findings returned by learned Special Judge, Sirmaur District at Nahan, H.P. in its order dated 09.03.2016 vide which, he dismissed the application filed under Sections 173, 204 and 319 Cr. P.C. We also make it clear that during the course of investigation, the Officer concerned shall not be influenced by any observations made by us in the present case and the investigation shall be carried out in a free and fair manner to find out the truth.

12. It has been argued on behalf of the State that direction is being sought against persons who are not even party before this Court and before passing any orders said persons should be impleaded as party respondents. We are of the considered view that though it would have been prudent that all these persons had been impleaded as party respondents in this case, but in view of the order which we have passed, it is not necessary to implead them as party respondents in the case.

13. With the aforesaid directions, the petition is disposed of.

(Para-6 to 10)

For the petitioner : Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. I.N. Mehta, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Mr. Virender Verma, Addl. Advocate General, for respondent No.2/State.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present Criminal Revision Petition under Section 397 read with section 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, against the judgment dated 10.7.2009, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Shimla, in Criminal Appeal No.1-S/10 of 2008 titled Paras Ram vs. Rakesh Kumar & anr., dismissing the appeal of the petitioner and confirming the judgment of conviction and sentence passed by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Theog, District Shimla, in Case No.124-2 of 2002, whereby the petitioner was convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for six months for the offence punishable under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act and to pay compensation to the tune of Rs.1,50,000/-, to the complainant.

2. The brief facts giving rise to the present petition are that the complainant and respondent (hereinafter referred to as 'complainant') maintained the complaint under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 (hereinafter referred to as Act) against the accused/petitioner (hereinafter referred to as 'accused) and learned trial Court sentenced the accused, as stated hereinabove, which judgment was affirmed by the learned lower Appellate Court. As per the complainant, on 5.9.2002 accused issued a cheque bearing No.985107 in the sum of Rs.1,50,000/- in favour of the complainant in the discharge of legal liability for consideration, drawn at State Bank of India, Branch, Deha. The complainant presented the said cheque in the State Bank of India, Branch Deha, for encashment on 14.9.2002, but the said cheque was dishonoured by the concerned Bank, for want of sufficient funds in the account of the accused. The State Bank of India, Branch Deha, issued dishonour slip to the complainant on the same date. On 24.9.2002 the complainant got issued a registered notice to the accused through his counsel disclosing the said fact that the cheque has been dishonoured for want of sufficient funds in his account and demanded the payment of the amount within fifteen days from the date of receipt of the notice. The notice was received by the accused on 1.10.2002, but he failed to pay the said amount.

3. In order to prove his case and bring home the guilt of the accused, the complainant examined as many as two witnesses including himself.

4. After the closure of the evidence of the complainant, the incriminating circumstances and evidence were put to the accused, which have been admitted by him to be correct and pleaded that he had struck bargain of apple with the complainant Rs.10,000/- were paid to the complainant through Bindu and Rs.10,000/- were handed over by cash. The complainant did not handover to him the apple vehicle and sold the apples at his own instance. He has examined DW-1 Sandeep Kumar in defence.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the record of the case carefully.

6. As far as the issuance of cheque is concerned, the same is not undisputed, the accused has specifically admitted that he issued a cheque bearing No.985107. The said fact is duly proved on the strength of testimonies of CW-1 (complainant), Shri Rakesh Kumar and CW-2, Shri S.K. Panth. CW-1, Shri Rakesh Kumar who deposed that accused issued cheque Ex.C-1, which was presented by him in State Bank of India, Branch Deha, for encashment on 14.9.2002, but the cheque was dishonoured by the Bank, because of insufficiency of funds in the account of the accused in the said Bank regarding which the said Bank issued memos, Ex.C-2 and Ex.C-3. The complainant presented the said cheque in Bank and the same was dishonoured for want of sufficient funds in the account of the accused has been duly supported, corroborated and substantiated by the deposition of CW-2, Shri S.K. Panth. The testimony of CW-2, Shri S.K. Panth, could not be shattered in spite of lengthy cross-examination made on behalf of the accused. CW-2 has specifically stated in cross-examination that on 6.9.2002, there was Rs.28,000/- in the account of the accused and Rs.20,000/- were in the account of the accused on 14.9.2002. The authenticity and genuineness of the memos, Ex.C-2 and Ex.C-3 has not been disputed, it stands fully and firmly established that the accused had issued cheque, Ex.C-1 amounting to Rs.1,50,000/-, drawn at State Bank of India, Branch Deha, which was presented by the complainant for encashment in the said Bank, but the same was dishonoured for want of sufficient funds.

7. CW-1, Rakesh Kumar deposed that on 24.9.2002, he got issued a notice by registered post to the accused through his counsel and intimated the accused that the cheque, Ex.C-1, has been dishonoured for want of sufficient funds and demanded the payment of amount within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice and notice was handed over and served upon the accused. He has proved in evidence copy of notice Ex.C-1 and postal receipt and acknowledgement, Ex.C-5 and Ex.C-6, respectively. The said fact has also been admitted by the accused in his statement under Section 313, Cr. P.C. Even the accused has stated that the notice was duly replied by him vide reply, Ex.D-2. It is also not disputed on behalf of the accused that the accused failed to make the payment of the cheque amounting to Rs.1,50,000/- within fifteen days after the receipt of the notice.

8. In reply, Ex.D-2, of the notice, Ex.C-4, the accused has specifically stated that the cheque amounting to Rs.1,50,000/- was issued by him for consideration of apple crop agreed to be sold by the complainant to him at the road side after plucking and packing, but he stopped the payment of the cheque for want of fulfillment of the agreement, as the complainant failed to supply the apples. The accused has not adduced any evidence in support of the fact that the payment was ever stopped by him, as a result of which the contents of the notice are false to the said effect. The accused has examined in defence one Shri Sandeep as DW-1, who is Forwarding Agent. He has specifically stated in cross-examination that the complainant agreed to sell apples to the accused in the sum of Rs.2,10,000/-, out of which Rs.50,000/- were paid by the accused through him to the complainant. The accused had issued cheque of Rs.1,50,000/- to the complainant and an amount of Rs.10,000/- was paid in cash. The apples were taken to Delhi by the accused and when he came back after three days, he disclosed that the bilty was in the name of R.R, hence the price of the apples was not paid to him. He asked him to get the cheque handed over to him. In his cross-examination, DW-1 has specifically stated that he alongwith accused visited K.G.S Commission Agent. K.G.S. Commission Agent disclosed that the sale price of the apple had been taken by the accused and Bilty was retained by them. He has specifically admitted that the accused did not pay the amount of cheque to the complainant. He has also admitted that the apple had been sold by the accused.

9. In view of the aforesaid versions, it stands fully established that the accused was under an obligation or liability to make the payment of Rs.1,50,000/- to the complainant as price of the apples sold by the complainant to the accused, but he failed to make the payment of said amount and the cheque so issued by the accused stood dishonoured for want of sufficient funds, when presented for encashment. Even as per the provisions contained under Section 139 of the Act, it has to be presumed, until and unless contrary is proved that the complainant received the cheque of the nature referred to in Section 138 for the discharge in whole or in part or any debt or other liability. The accused tried to prove non-existence of any debt or liability, but the said defence is not probablised, as a result of which it has to be concluded that the cheque, Ex.C-1, was issued by the accused in favour of the complainant in the discharge of legal liability.

10. Keeping in view the above facts and circumstances of the case, learned Courts below properly appreciated the evidence on record and rightly came to the conclusion that the accused had committed the breach of Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, making himself liable for conviction and sentence. Since there is no illegality, impropriety or incorrectness in the impugned judgments, therefore, the revision petition is dismissed being devoid of any merit. Pending application (s), if any, shall also stand (s) disposed of.

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh and another ....Respondents

CrMMO No. 359/2015
Reserved on: June 29, 2016
Decided on: July 13, 2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- An FIR was registered against the petitioners for the commission of offences punishable under Section 447 of IPC and Section 3(I)(V) of Scheduled Castes & The Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act – it was pleaded that petitioners were interfering with the land of the informant- a civil suit was also instituted in which interim relief was granted- it was asserted in the FIR that petitioners were aggressive and were likely to cause interference at every stage of enjoyment of land by the informant - this leads to an inference that FIR was filed regarding the civil dispute- a civil dispute cannot be permitted to be converted into criminal offence - where the allegations were made to foist criminal liability, FIR should be quashed- petition allowed and the FIR quashed. (Para-2 to 5)

Cases referred:

Rajiv Thapar v. Madan Lal Kapoor (2013) 3 SCC 330
Rashmi Jain v. State of U.P. (2014) 13 SCC 553

For the petitioners	:	Mr. Ajay Vaidya, Advocate.
For the respondents	:	Mr. Parmod Thakur, Additional Advocate General, for respondent No. 1. Mr. Rakesh Manta, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Rajiv Sharma, Judge (oral)

The petitioner has sought quashing of FIR No. 0045 of 2015 dated 16.8.2015 registered against the petitioners by Police Station Shimla East under Section 447 IPC and Section 3(1)(V) of The Scheduled Castes & The Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act registered at the instance of one T.D. Negi at about 9.15 PM against the petitioners. it was alleged that he had purchased the land comprising of Khasra Nos. 689, 690, 691, 692, 694 and 695 measuring 18539 square metres. Petitioners are immediate Neighbourers of the complainant and owners of the land adjacent to the land of the complainant. It was alleged that dispute was qua Khasra No. 695 which he claimed to be his land and petitioners were interfering with the enjoyment of the land. It was also alleged that the petitioners were aggressive and were likely to cause interference at every stage of its enjoyment.

2. Petitioners have also submitted an application to the Settlement Officer for the correction of the revenue entries and Settlement Officer has directed the Naib Tehsildar (Settlement) vide letter dated 29.7.2015 to do the needful as per annexure P-2, qua Khasra No. 695. Petitioners have also instituted a suit before the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division). Petitioners have also filed an application under Order 39 Rules 1 and 2 read with Section 151 CPC for grant of interim injunction. Learned trial Court vide order dated 8.7.2015 has granted in interim relief with the following observations:

> "….. Hence, as on date prima facie case appears in favour of applicant and balance of convenience also lies in his favour and in case respondent is not restrained at this juncture, legal injuries shall be suffered to the applicant. Hence, in view the interest of justice and in order to prevent the multiplicity of litigation between the parties, both the partitas are directed to maintain status quo at Khasra No. 695 qua interference or dispossessing over use of Khasra NO. 695 as possessed by the applicant"

3. The Court has gone through the contents of the FIR. The phrase used in the FIR is that "the petitioners were aggressive and were likely to cause interference at every stage of enjoyment of the land by the complainant." It can be safely gathered from the contents of FIR that it is a civil dispute qua which suit is already pending before the Civil Judge (Junior Division), Shimla. Injunction has been granted in favour of the petitioners as reproduced herein above. Filing of FIR by the complainant against the petitioners is gross misuse of the process of law. Civil dispute can not be permitted to be converted into criminal case. Criminal cases are not shortcuts and civil disputes can not be permitted to be converted into criminal cases. Contents of FIR do not constitute any atrocity upon the complainant by the petitioners within the ambit of Section 3 (1)(V) of the Scheduled Castes & the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act.

4. Their Lordships of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rajiv Thapar v. Madan Lal Kapoor reported in (2013) 3 SCC 330 have held that following steps should be followed by the High Court to determine veracity of a prayer for quashing of proceedings raised by an accused by invoking the power vested in the High Court under Section 482 CrPC:

(i) Step one, whether the material relied upon by the accused is sound, reasonable, and indubitable, i.e., the material is of sterling and impeccable quality?

(ii) Step two, whether the material relied upon by the accused, would rule out the assertions contained in the charges levelled against the accused, i.e., the material is sufficient to reject and overrule the factual assertions contained in the complaint, i.e., the material is such, as would persuade a reasonable person to dismiss and condemn the factual basis of the accusations as false.

(iii) Step three, whether the material relied upon by the accused, has not been refuted by the prosecution/complainant; and/or the material is such, that it cannot be justifiably refuted by the prosecution/complainant?

(iv) Step four, whether proceeding with the trial would result in an abuse of process of the court, and would not serve the ends of justice?

If the answer to all the steps is in the affirmative, judicial conscience of the High Court should persuade it to quash such criminal proceedings, in exercise of power vested in it under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. Such exercise of power, besides doing justice to the accused, would save precious court time, which would otherwise be wasted in holding such a trial (as well as, proceedings arising therefrom) specially when, it is clear that the same would not conclude in the conviction of the accused.

5. Their Lordships of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rashmi Jain v. State of U.P. reported in (2014) 13 SCC 553 have held that purely civil disputes can not be permitted to be converted into criminal offence. Their lordships have further observed that the averments made in that case were made only to foist criminal liability on the appellant by converting a purely civil dispute into criminal act, alleged to have been committed by the appellant. The allegations were held to be absurd and outlandish on the face of it. Their lordships have held as under:

> [6] To take the complaint out of the realm of a purely civil dispute, it is maliciously alleged in the complaint that when respondent 2 approached the appellant for payment, the appellant stated as follows:
>
> > "On 22-3-2009, the applicant met the accused in the market of bazarganj saraitareen and asked for his balance amount, but the accused in the presence of two other persons flatly refused to pay the same and threatened the applicant that if he ever asked for the payment again he will be killed and stated that you don't know me. i have not paid to the high and mighty people, who are you. i had to usurp your money and i had done so. thereafter she went in a car."
> >
> > in our opinion, the aforesaid averment has been made only to foist criminal liability on the appellant by converting a purely civil dispute into criminal act, alleged to have been committed by the appellant. the allegations are absurd and outlandish on the face of it; firstly, the appellant is a lady, a widow, who was not accompanied by anybody else at the time of the alleged occurrence; secondly, she, though being a resident of delhi, misbehaved with number of high and mighty parties with whom she had earlier transacted business at moradabad. in our opinion, these are allegations which on the face of it, cannot be taken seriously by any reasonable person. the high court, in our opinion, has committed jurisdictional error in dismissing the criminal petition filed by the appellant on the ground that it involves disputed questions of fact, which can only be gone into by the trial court.
>
> [10] Again in g. Sagar Suri v. State of U.P, 2000 2 SCC 636, this court observed as follows: (scc p. 643, para 8)
> > "8. jurisdiction under section 482 of the code has to be exercised with great care. in exercise of its jurisdiction the high court is not to examine the matter superficially. it is to be seen if a matter, which is essentially of a civil nature, has been given a cloak of criminal offence. criminal proceedings are not a short cut of other remedies available in law. before issuing process a criminal court has to exercise a great deal of caution. for the accused it is a serious matter. this court has laid certain principles on the basis of which the high court is to exercise its jurisdiction under section 482 of the code. jurisdiction under this section has to be exercised to prevent abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice."
>
> [11] in Bhajan Lal Case3, this court enumerated the categories of cases, by way of illustration, wherein the high court would be justified in exercising its inherent power under section 487 CrPC or article 226 of the constitution of India to prevent abuse of the process of court or to otherwise secure the ends of justice. in para 102, these categories of cases are listed as under: (SCC pp. 378-79)
> > "(1) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.
> >
> > (2) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under section 156(1) of the code except under an order of a magistrate within the purview of section 155(2) of the code.
> > (3) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(4) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a magistrate as contemplated under section 155(2) of the code.

(5) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(6) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the code or the concerned act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the code or the concerned act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(7) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

in our opinion, the case pleaded by the petitioner, and as argued by ms Indu Malhotra, squarely falls within the ambit of propositions 5 and 7.

6. Accordingly, the present petition is allowed. FIR No. 0045 of 2015 dated 16.8.2015 registered against the petitioners by Police Station Shimla East under Section 447 IPC and Section 3(1)(V) of The Scheduled Castes & The Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, is quashed.

Pending applications, are also disposed of.

Ravi Kumar vs. Julumidevi (2010) 4 SCC 476
Bipinchandra Jaisinghbai Shah versus Prabhavati, AIR 1957 SC 176

For the Appellant : Mr. Vikram Thakur, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. Devender K. Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Rajiv Sharma, Judge:

This appeal has been instituted against Judgment dated 15.9.2015 rendered by the learned Additional District Judge (II), Mandi, District Mandi, Himachal Pradesh in HMA No. 45/15/2010.

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of the present appeal are that the marriage between the parties was solemnised on 24.11.1988. Respondent has filed petition under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act for dissolution of marriage before Additional District Judge (II) Mandi. According to the averments made in the petition, appellant left the matrimonial home in April, 1990 without any reasonable cause. Appellant has caused mental as well as physical cruelty to him. Petition was contested by the appellant. Factum of marriage was admitted. It was denied that the appellant has willfully deserted the respondent. Respondent started ill-treating the appellant immediately after marriage. Local Panchayat was informed. However, respondent did not mend his ways. Respondent without any reasonable cause ousted the appellant from the matrimonial home in April, 1990. She was forced to live with her parents. Learned trial Court framed issues on 23.3.2013. Petition was allowed by the learned Additional District Judge on 15.9.2015 and marriage was dissolved on the ground of desertion.

3. Mr. Vikram Thakur, Advocate, has vehemently argued that his client has never deserted the respondent. It is the respondent who has ousted her from his house in the month of April, 1990.

4. Mr. Devender K. Sharma, Advocate, has supported the judgment dated 15.9.2015.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the appellant and also gone through the record carefully.

6. Respondent has led his evidence by way of affidavit Ext. PW-1/A. He has reiterated the averments made in the petition. According to him, appellant has left his company without his permission and without reasonable cause. She has filed false litigation for maintenance under Section 125 CrPC. He paid maintenance allowance. Appellant has deserted his company since April, 1990. In his cross-examination, he admitted that the marriage was solemnised on 24.11.1988. Appellant remained with him till April, 1990. He was paying `300/- to the appellant. He has also categorically admitted that since April, 1990, he has not filed any petition for restitution of marriage.

7. Sant Ram (PW-2) has also led evidence by filing affidavit Ext. PW-2/A. According to the averments made in the affidavit, marriage was solemnised 26 years back. Parties have no children. Respondent as well as father tried their best to bring appellant back to the house at village Kapahi but she did not come back. She was treated nicely by the respondent. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that he was closely related to the respondent. He also admitted in his cross-examination that Sarita Devi was residing with respondent. He did not know the relationship. He also admitted that the respondent has two children, one daughter and one son. According to him, appellant had deserted the respondent.

8. Inder Singh (PW-3) has led evidence by filing affidavit Ext. PW-3/A. According to him, appellant has deserted the respondent.

9. Appellant has appeared as RW-1. She has led evidence by filing affidavit Ext. RW-1/A (sic. RW-2/A). According to the averments made in the affidavit, after marriage, respondent started maltreating the appellant. Matter was even reported to the Panchayat. Respondent ousted her from the matrimonial home without any reasonable cause and contracted second marriage with one Sarita Devi. He was residing with Sarita Devi as her husband and one son and one daughter were born out of their union. She was constrained to file petition under Section 125 CrPC. Respondent in connivance with the Secretary, Gram Panchayat got name of the appellant struck off from the Panchayat. She came to know about it. She filed an application before the Sub Divisional Magistrate. Her name was re-entered in the Parivar register. She denied the suggestion that her father-in-law has convened the Panchayat thrice to take her back to the matrimonial home.

10. Statement of RW-1 has been corroborated by Ram Dass (RW-2) who has led evidence by filing affidavit Ext. RW-2/A. According to the averments made in the affidavit, appellant was ousted by the respondent from matrimonial home in 1990. He contracted second marriage with one Sarita Devi and was living with her.

11. Ashwani Kumar (RW-3) deposed that he was Secretary, Gram Panchayat Sari. He had brought the record pertaining to Parivar register. Coy of Parivar register is Ext PW-3/A. Earlier name of respondent was stuck off from the Parivar register of respondent. Later on, on the order of SDM, her name was re-entered.

12. What emerges from the discussion of the evidence herein above is that the marriage between the parties was solemnised on 24.11.1988. They lived together for one year. According to the respondent, appellant has deserted him in the month of April, 1990. However, fact of the matter is that as per evidence led by the appellant, she was ousted from the matrimonial home in April, 1990. She was maltreated by the respondent. She had no choice than to live with her parents. It has also come on record that the respondent had contracted second marriage with one Sarita Devi and had two children from her. Appellant was constrained to file a petition under Section 125 CrPC seeking maintenance. Maintenance was allowed and thereafter it was also enhanced. Respondent, in his cross-examination admitted that he never filed any petition for conjugation of marriage nor taken any steps to bring back the appellant to matrimonial home. Appellant denied the suggestion that her father-in-law had convened Panchayat thrice to take her back to the matrimonial home. It has also come on record that the appellant was always ready and willing to live with the respondent. He has refused to take her back. Respondent can not be allowed to take advantage of his own wrongs, firstly by neglecting the appellant and then also contracting second marriage. He has got name of the appellant deleted from the Parivar register. However, same was re-entered on the basis of orders of the SDM. This fact is duly proved from Ext. RW-3/A. Learned trial Court has not discussed the evidence adduced by the parties and has abruptly come to the conclusion that the appellant has deserted the respondent. In order to prove desertion, it was necessary for the respondent to prove animus deserendi. Order whereby maintenance was allowed to the appellant under Section 125 CrPC is Ext. RW-2/B, whereby she was granted maintenance @ `375/- and thereafter same was enhanced as per Ext. RW-2/C dated 8.6.2010. Respondent has also not led any evidence that the appellant has caused any mental or physical cruelty to him, rather it is the respondent who has caused mental and physical cruelty to the appellant by neglecting her and ousting her from the matrimonial home in the month of April, 1990 and by also not taking any steps for bringing her back.

13. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Manisha Tyagi vs. Deepak Kumar reported in 2010(1) Divorce & Matrimonial Cases 451, have explained the term 'cruelty' as under:

> "24. This is no longer the required standard. Now it would be sufficient to show that the conduct of one of the spouses is so abnormal and below the accepted norm that the other spouse could not reasonable be expected to put up with it. The conduct is no longer required to be so atrociously abominable which would cause a reasonable apprehension that would be harmful or injurious to continue the cohabitation with the other spouse. Therefore, to establish cruelty it is not necessary that physical violence should be used. However, continued ill-treatment cessation of marital intercourse, studied neglect, indifference of one spouse to the other may lead to an inference of cruelty. However, in this case even with aforesaid standard both the Trial Court and the Appellate Court had accepted that the conduct of the wife did not amount to cruelty of such a nature to enable the husband to obtain a decree of divorce."

14. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ravi Kumar vs. Julumidevi reported in (2010) 4 SCC 476, have explained the term 'cruelty' as under:

> "19. It may be true that there is no definition of cruelty under the said Act. Actually such a definition is not possible. In matrimonial relationship, cruelty would obviously mean absence of mutual respect and understanding between the spouses which embitters the relationship and often leads to various outbursts of behaviour which can be termed as cruelty. Sometime cruelty in a matrimonial relationship may take the form of violence, sometime it may take a different form. At times, it ma be just an attitude or an approach. Silence in some situations may amount to cruelty.
>
> 20. Therefore, cruelty in matrimonial behaviour defies any definition and its categories can never be closed. Whether the husband is cruel to his wife or the wife is cruel to her husband has to be ascertained and judged by taking into account the entire facts and circumstances of the given case and not by any predetermined rigid formula. Cruelty in matrimonial case can be of infinite variety – it may be subtle or even brutal and may be by gestures and word. That possible explains why Lord Denning in Sheldon v. Sheldon held that categories of cruelty in matrimonial case are never closed.
>
> 21. This Court is reminded of what was said by Lord Reid in Gollins v. Gollins about judging cruelty in matrimonial cases. The pertinent observations are (AC p.660)
>
>> ".. In matrimonial cases we are not concerned with the reasonable man as we are in cases of negligence. We are dealing with this man and this woman and the fewer a priori assumptions we make about them the better. In cruelty cases one can hardly ever even start with a presumption that the parties are reasonable people, because it is hard to imagine any cruelty case ever arising if both the spouses think and behave as reasonable people."
>
> 22. " About the changing perception of cruelty in matrimonial cases, this Court observed in Shobha Rani v. Madhukar Reddi at AIR p. 123, para 5 of the report: (SCC p.108, para 5)
>> "5. It will be necessary to bear in mind that there has been (a) marked change in the life around us. In matrimonial duties and responsibilities in particular, we find a sea change. They are of varying degrees from house to house or person to person. Therefore, when a spouse makes complaint about the treatment of cruelty by the partner in life or relations, the court should not search for standard in life. A set of facts stigmatized as cruelty in one case may not be so in another case. The cruelty alleged may largely depend upon the type of life the parties are accustomed to or their economic and social conditions. It may also depend upon their culture and human values to which they attach importance. We, the Judges and lawyers, therefore, should not import our own notions of life. We may not go in parallel with them. There may be a generation gap between us and the parties."

15. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bipinchandra Jaisinghbai Shah versus Prabhavati, AIR 1957 SC 176 have held that two essential conditions must be there to prove the desertion: (1) the factum of separation, and (2) the intention to bring cohabitation permanently to an end (animus deserendi). Their Lordships have held that desertion is a matter of inference to be drawn from the facts and circumstances of each case. Their Lordships have held as under:

> “What is desertion? "Rayden on Divorce" which is a standard work on the subject at p.128 (6th Edn.) has summarized the case-law on the subject in these terms:-
>
> "Desertion is the separation of one spouse from the other, with an intention on the part of the deserting spouse of bringing cohabitation permanently to an end without reasonable cause and without the consent of the other spouse; but the physical act of departure by one spouse does not necessarily make that spouse the deserting party".
>
> The legal position has been admirably summarized in paras 453 and 454 at pp. 241. to 243 of Halsbury's Laws of England (3rd Edn.), VoL 12, in the following words:-
>
> "In its essence desertion means the intentional permanent forsaking and abandonment of one spouse by the other without that other's consent and without reasonable cause. It is a total repudiation of the obligations of marriage. In view of the large variety of circumstances and of modes of life involved, the Court has discouraged attempts at defining desertion, there being no general principle applicable to all cases. Desertion is not the withdrawal from a place but from the state of things, for what the law seeks to enforce is the recognition and discharge of the common obligations of the married state; the state of things may usually be termed, for short, 'the home'. There can be desertion without previous cohabitation by the parties, or without the marriage having been consummated. The person who actually withdraws from cohabitation is not necessarily the deserting party. The fact that a husband makes an allowance to a wife whom he has abandoned is no answer to a charge of desertion.
>
> The offence of desertion is a course of conduct which exists independently of its duration, but as a ground for divorce it must exist for a period of at least three years immediately preceding the presentation of the petition where the offence appears as a cross-charge, of the answer. Desertion as a ground of divorce differs from the statutory grounds of adultery and cruelty in that the offence founding the cause of action of desertion is not complete, but is inchoate, until the suit is constituted. Desertion is a continuing offence".
> Thus the quality of permanence is one of the essential elements which differentiates desertion from wilful separation. If a spouse abandons the other spouse in a state of temporary passion, for example anger or disgust, without intending permanently to cease cohabitation, it will not amount to desertion. For the offence of desertion, so far as the deserting spouse is concerned, two essential conditions must be there namely, (1) the factum of separation, and (2) the intention to bring cohabitation permanently to an end (animus deserendi). Similarly two elements are essential so far as the deserted spouse is concerned: (1) the absence of consent, and (2) absence of conduct giving reasonable cause to the spouse leaving the matrimonial home to form the necessary intention aforesaid. The petitioner for divorce bears the burden of proving those elements in the two spouses respectively. Here a difference between the English law and the law as enacted by the Bombay Legislature may be pointed out. Whereas under the English law those essential conditions must continue throughout the course of the three years immediately preceding the institution of the suit for divorce, under the Act, the period is four years without specifying that it should immediately precede the commencement of proceedings for divorce. Whether the omission of the last clause has any practical result need not detain us, as it does not call for decision in the present case. Desertion is a matter of inference to be drawn from the facts and circumstances to each case. The inference may be drawn from certain facts which may not in another case be capable of leading to the same inference; that is to say, the facts have to be viewed as to the purpose which is revealed by those acts or by conduct and expression of intention, both anterior and subsequent to the actual acts of separation. If in fact, there has been a separation, the essential question always is whether that act could be attributable to an animus deserendi. The offence of desertion commences when the fact of separation and the animus deserendi co- exist. But it is not necessary that they should commence at the same time. The de facto separation may have commenced without the necessary animus or it may be that the separation and the (animus deserendi) coincide in point of time; for example, when the separating spouse abandons the marital home with the intention, express or implied of bringing cohabitation permanently to a close. The law in England has prescribed a three years period and the Bombay Act prescribed a period of four years as a continuous period during which the two elements must subsist. Hence, if a deserting spouse takes advantage of the locus poenitentiae thus provided by law and decides to come back to the deserted spouse by a bona fide offer of resuming the matrimonial home with all the implications of marital life, before the statutory period is out or even after the lapse of that period, unless proceedings for divorce have been commenced, desertion comes to an end, and if the deserted spouse unreasonably refuses to offer, the latter may be in desertion and not the former. Hence it is necessary that during all the period that there has been a desertion, the deserted spouse must affirm the marriage and be ready and willing to resume married life on such conditions as may be reasonable. It is also well settled that in proceedings for divorce the plaintiff must prove the offence of desertion, like and other matrimonial offence, beyond all reasonable doubt. Hence, though corroboration is not required as an absolute rule of law the courts insist upon corroborative evidence, unless its absence is accounted for to the satisfaction of the court. In this connection the following observations of Lord Goddard CJ. in the case of Lawson v. Lawson, 1955-1 All E R 341 at p. 342(A), may be referred to :-

"These cases are not cases in which corroboration is required as a matter of law. It is required as a matter of precaution....... "

With these preliminary observations we now proceed to examine the evidence led on behalf of the parties to find out whether desertion has been proved in this case and, if so, whether there was a bona fide offer by the wife to return to her matrimonial home with a view to discharging marital duties and, if so, whether there was an unreasonable refusal on the part of the husband to take her back.

16. In view of the discussion and analysis made herein above, appeal is allowed. Judgment dated 15.9.2015 rendered by the learned Additional District Judge (II), Mandi, District Mandi, Himachal Pradesh in HMA No. 45/15/2010 is set aside. Pending applications, if any, are disposed of.

Preeti Gupta and another vs. State of Jharkhand and another, (2010) 7 SCC 667

For the petitioner: Mr. Anuj Gupta, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Virender K. Verma, Addl. AG, with Mr. Pushpinder Jaswal, Dy. AG, for respondent No. 1/State.
Mr. Manoj Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present writ petition is maintained by the petitioner under Section 482 Criminal Procedure Code (hereinafter referred to as 'Cr.P.C') for quashing FIR No. 67 of 2012, dated 25.7.2012, registered at Police Station, Chotta Shimla, District Shimla, HP, under Sections 498-A, 323, 325 and 506 of Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as 'IPC'). The petitioner is also seeking quashing of subsequent Criminal Case No. 53/2 of 2012, titled State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Sanjay Kumar, which is pending adjudication before the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Shimla, District Shimla, H.P.

2. Briefly stating the facts of the case, as per the petitioner, are that marriage between the petitioner and respondent No.2 (Indu Bala) had been solemnized on 6th February, 2007 in accordance with Hindu Rites and customs. Petitioner and respondent No.2 after their marriage, cohabited together at the house of the petitioner situated at Shimla. One son has been born out of the said marriage. It is averred that with the passage of time, relations between the petitioner and respondent No.2 got strained on account of their mutual differences and on account of their incompatible temperaments, which resulted in frequent quarrels. So much so, they stopped living together after July, 2012. Respondent No.2 filed FIR No.67/12 dated 25.7.2012, against the petitioner for commission of offence under Section 498-A read with section 325 of Indian Penal Code at Police Station, East, Shimla. It is further averred by the petitioner that during the course of proceedings, a compromise was arrived at between the parties, whereby the parties had agreed to amicably sort out the differences interse them especially in view of that they are the parents of a seven year old male child (namely Akash) whose welfare is paramount to both of them, they entered into a compromise (Annexure P-2). The petitioner has prayed for quashing of FIR No. 67 of 2012, dated 25.7.2012, registered at Police Station Chotta Shimla, District Shimla, H.P. under Section 498-A read with section 325 of Indian Penal Code and pending Criminal Case No.53/2 of 2012, titled State of H.P. vs. Sanjay Kumar, before the leaned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Shimla.

3. Reply to the petition has been filed by respondent No. 1, wherein it is contended that Section 498-A IPC, is non compoundable and the petitioner has other alternative remedies and instead of approaching this Court, the petitioner should have approached the learned trial Court under Section 321, Cr. P.C.

4. I have heard the learned counsel for the petitioner as well as learned Additional Advocate General for respondent No. 1/State and have also gone through the record carefully.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that as the parties have compromised the matter, vide Compromise Deed (Annexure P-3), no purpose will be served by keeping the proceedings against the petitioner and the FIR/Challan pending before the Court of learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Shimla, titled State of H.P vs. Sanjay Kumar and the same be quashed and set aside.

6. On the other hand, learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the offence is non compoundable, so the petition be dismissed.

7. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court B.S. Joshi and others vs. State of Haryana and another, (2003) 4 SCC 675, have held that if for the purpose of securing the ends of justice, quashing of FIR becomes necessary, section 320 would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing. It is well settled that the powers under section 482 have no limits. Of course, where there is more power, it becomes necessary to exercise utmost care and caution while invoking such powers. Their Lordships have held as under:

> [6] In Pepsi Food Ltd. and another v. Special Judicial Magistrate and others ((1998) 5 SCC 749), this Court with reference to Bhajan Lal's case observed that the guidelines laid therein as to where the Court will exercise jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code could not be inflexible or laying rigid formulae to be followed by the Courts. Exercise of such power would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case but with the sole purpose to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. It is well settled that these powers have no limits. Of course, where there is more power, it becomes necessary to exercise utmost care and caution while invoking such powers.
> [8] It is, thus, clear that Madhu Limaye's case does not lay down any general proposition limiting power of quashing the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint as vested in Section 482 of the Code or extraordinary power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. We are, therefore, of the view that if for the purpose of securing the ends of justice, quashing of FIR becomes necessary, Section 320 would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing. It is, however, a different matter depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case whether to exercise or not such a power.
> [15] In view of the above discussion, we hold that the High Court in exercise of its inherent powers can quash criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint and Section 320 of the Code does not limit or affect the powers under Section 482 of the Code.

8. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Preeti Gupta and another vs. State of Jharkhand and another, (2010) 7 SCC 667, have held that the ultimate object of justice is to find out the truth and punish the guilty and protect the innocent. The tendency of implicating the husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon. At times, even after the conclusion of the criminal trial, it is difficult to ascertain the real truth. Experience reveals that long and protracted criminal trials lead to rancour, acrimony and bitterness in the relationship amongst the parties. The criminal trials lead to immense sufferings for all concerned. Their Lordships have further held that permitting complainant to pursue complaint would be abuse of process of law and the complaint against the appellants was quashed. Their Lordships have held as under:

> "[27] A three-Judge Bench (of which one of us, Bhandari, J. was the author of the judgment) of this Court in Inder Mohan Goswami and Another v. State of Uttaranchal & Others, 2007 12 SCC 1 comprehensively examined the legal position. The court came to a definite conclusion and the relevant observations of the court are reproduced in para 24 of the said judgment as under:-

"Inherent powers under section 482 Cr.P.C. though wide have to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with great caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in this section itself. Authority of the court exists for the advancement of justice. If any abuse of the process leading to injustice is brought to the notice of the court, then the Court would be justified in preventing injustice by invoking inherent powers in absence of specific provisions in the Statute."

[28] We have very carefully considered the averments of the complaint and the statements of all the witnesses recorded at the time of the filing of the complaint. There are no specific allegations against the appellants in the complaint and none of the witnesses have alleged any role of both the appellants.

[35] The ultimate object of justice is to find out the truth and punish the guilty and protect the innocent. To find out the truth is a herculean task in majority of these complaints. The tendency of implicating husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon. At times, even after the conclusion of criminal trial, it is difficult to ascertain the real truth. The courts have to be extremely careful and cautious in dealing with these complaints and must take pragmatic realities into consideration while dealing with matrimonial cases. The allegations of harassment of husband's close relations who had been living in different cities and never visited or rarely visited the place where the complainant resided would have an entirely different complexion. The allegations of the complaint are required to be scrutinized with great care and circumspection.

36. Experience reveals that long and protracted criminal trials lead to rancour, acrimony and bitterness in the relationship amongst the parties. It is also a matter of common knowledge that in cases filed by the complainant if the husband or the husband's relations had to remain in jail even for a few days, it would ruin the chances of amicable settlement altogether. The process of suffering is extremely long and painful.

[38] The criminal trials lead to immense sufferings for all concerned. Even ultimate acquittal in the trial may also not be able to wipe out the deep scars of suffering of ignominy. Unfortunately a large number of these complaints have not only flooded the courts but also have led to enormous social unrest affecting peace, harmony and happiness of the society. It is high time that the legislature must take into consideration the pragmatic realities and make suitable changes in the existing law. It is imperative for the legislature to take into consideration the informed public opinion and the pragmatic realities in consideration and make necessary changes in the relevant provisions of law. We direct the Registry to send a copy of this judgment to the Law Commission and to the Union Law Secretary, Government of India who may place it before the Hon'ble Minister for Law & Justice to take appropriate steps in the larger interest of the society."

9. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jitendra Raghuvanshi and others vs. Babita Raghuvanshi and another, (2013) 4 SCC 58, have held that criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint can be quashed under section 482 Cr.P.C. in appropriate cases in order to meet ends of justice. Even in non-compoundable offences pertaining to matrimonial disputes, if court is satisfied that parties have settled the disputes amicably and without any pressure, then for purpose of securing ends of justice, FIR or complaint or subsequent criminal proceedings in respect of offences can be quashed. Their Lordships have held as under:

"[13] As stated earlier, it is not in dispute that after filing of a complaint in respect of the offences punishable under Sections 498A and 406 of IPC, the parties, in the instant case, arrived at a mutual settlement and the complainant also has sworn an affidavit supporting the stand of the appellants. That was the position before the trial Court as well as before the High Court in a petition filed under Section 482 of the Code. A perusal of the impugned order of the High Court shows that because the mutual settlement arrived at between the parties relate to non-compoundable offence, the court proceeded on a wrong premise that it cannot be compounded and dismissed the petition filed under Section 482. A perusal of the petition before the High Court shows that the application filed by the appellants was not for compounding of non-compoundable offences but for the purpose of quashing the criminal proceedings.

[14] The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 of the Code are wide and unfettered. In B.S. Joshi , this Court has upheld the powers of the High Court under Section 482 to quash criminal proceedings where dispute is of a private nature and a compromise is entered into between the parties who are willing to settle their differences amicably. We are satisfied that the said decision is directly applicable to the case on hand and the High Court ought to have quashed the criminal proceedings by accepting the settlement arrived at.

[15] In our view, it is the duty of the courts to encourage genuine settlements of matrimonial disputes, particularly, when the same are on considerable increase. Even if the offences are non-compoundable, if they relate to matrimonial disputes and the court is satisfied that the parties have settled the same amicably and without any pressure, we hold that for the purpose of securing ends of justice, Section 320 of the Code would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing of FIR, complaint or the subsequent criminal proceedings.

[16] There has been an outburst of matrimonial disputes in recent times. The institution of marriage occupies an important place and it has an important role to play in the society. Therefore, every effort should be made in the interest of the individuals in order to enable them to settle down in life and live peacefully. If the parties ponder over their defaults and terminate their disputes amicably by mutual agreement instead of fighting it out in a court of law, in order to do complete justice in the matrimonial matters, the courts should be less hesitant in exercising its extraordinary jurisdiction. It is trite to state that the power under Section 482 should be exercised sparingly and with circumspection only when the court is convinced, on the basis of material on record, that allowing the proceedings to continue would be an abuse of the process of the court or that the ends of justice require that the proceedings ought to be quashed. We also make it clear that exercise of such power would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and it has to be exercised in appropriate cases in order to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone the courts exist. It is the duty of the courts to encourage genuine settlements of matrimonial disputes and Section 482 of the Code enables the High Court and Article 142 of the Constitution enables this Court to pass such orders.

[17] In the light of the above discussion, we hold that the High Court in exercise of its inherent powers can quash the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint in appropriate cases in order to meet the ends of justice and Section 320 of the Code does not limit or affect the powers of the High Court under Section 482 of the Code. Under these circumstances, we set aside the impugned judgment of the High Court dated 04.07.2012 passed in M.C.R.C. No. 2877 of 2012 and quash the proceedings in Criminal Case No. 4166 of 2011 pending on the file of Judicial Magistrate Class-I, Indore.”

10. Thus, taking into consideration the law as discussed hereinabove, I find that the interest of justice will be met, in case, the proceedings are quashed, as the parties have already compromised the matter which is placed on record.

11. Accordingly, taking holistic view of the matter and looking into all attending facts and circumstances, I find this case to be a fit case to exercise powers under Section 482 of the Code and accordingly FIR No. 67/2012, dated 25.7.2012, under Section 498-A, 323, 325 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code, registered at Police Station, Chotta Shimla, District Shimla, is ordered to be quashed. Since FIR No.67/2012, dated 25.7.2012, under Section 498-A, 323, 325 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code, registered at Police Station, Chotta Shimla, District Shimla, has been quashed, consequent proceedings/Challan pending before the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Shimla, H.P. against the petitioner, are thereby rendered infructuous. However, the same are expressly quashed so as to obviate any confusion.

12. The petition stands allowed in the aforesaid terms.

By way of present petition the petitioners have prayed for the following reliefs:-

"(i) That the respondents may very kindly be directed to implement the scheme of Rehabilitation and Resettlement of the Oustees of the JAYPEE Himachal Cement Project (Annexure P-1) in favour of the petitioners immediately.

(v) That the entire record of the case may kindly be summoned.

Or

Such other orders which this Hon'ble Court deems fit and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case may kindly be passed in favour of the petitioner and against the respondents."

2. Briefly stated facts as emerged from the record are that respondent No.4, Jaypee Himachal Cement Project*(for short 'JHCP')* solely with a view to establish its cement plant at village Baga, Tehsil Arki, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh, acquired huge chunk of land belonging to private land owners as well as the Government in the year, 2005. The land acquisition proceedings were started in the year, 2005 and thereafter Land Acquisition Collector, Arki passed award with respect to acquired land on 10.1.2008 vide Award No.1/2008 and in compliance thereof, amount of compensation was deposited by the aforesaid 'JHCP' with the Land Acquisition Collector, Arki for disbursement to the interest holders.

3. Record further reveals that apart from the other villages, land of three villages i.e Baga, Samtyari, and Sehnali were also acquired for the purpose of mining etc. by the aforesaid 'JHCP' for the establishment/ construction of cement plant. Petitioners in their petition have averred that since their considerable land and houses were acquired for the mining purposes by the aforesaid 'JHCP' in village Samtyari, they were entitled to compensation as well as resettlement in terms of Scheme for the Rehabilitation and Resettlement of the Oustees (for short "Scheme") of the 'JHCP', formulated by the Respondent-State at the time of acquisition of the land of the villagers. Petitioners further averred that despite there being elapse of more than seven years after the acquisition of land and establishment of cement plant, respondents have not granted any benefit to them in terms of the aforesaid Scheme. It is also averred that respondent-State had framed the aforesaid Scheme and as such, scheme being mandatory in nature was required to be given effect by the respondents but despite several requests, no steps whatsoever, have been taken by the respondents to re-settle and rehabilitate the oustees and aggrieved families, whose land and houses were acquired for the construction of the "JHCP". Petitioners have also placed on record the copy of scheme (Annexure P-1).

4. The petitioners in paragraph 5 of the petition have stated that under the scheme a grant of Rs.11,00,000/- was to be granted to the oustees or to the aggrieved families but till date no amount, as referred above, has been granted to the petitioners despite several requests. It is also averred that they have been continuously visiting the office of respondents No.3 and 4 for the grant of benefit to them in terms of the Relief & Rehabilitation Policy but no action is being taken by them. Petitioners with a view to substantiate their claim that their houses and properties stand acquired by the respondents for the construction of "JHCP" have also placed on record copies of jamabandi (Annexure P-2), Pariwar Register (Annexure P-3) and certificate issued by the Cooperative Society of village Kandhar (Annexure P-4). Petitioners have also stated in their petition that bare perusal of Annexures P-3 and P-4 demonstrate that families of the petitioners are living separately and they are entitled for rehabilitation grant under the scheme as framed by the State Government in its independent capacity. At this stage, it may be pointed out that both the petitioners are brothers and members of one family. Petitioners further stated that the scheme formulated by the respondents was to Rehabilitate and resettle the ousted people and affected families but respondents have miserably failed to discharge their lawful duties to implement this scheme, which is mandatory in nature.

5. Petitioners have also averred in the petition that they are also entitled to resettlement in terms of Act, namely, Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013. As per petitioners, it is/was mandatory upon the authorities to frame Rehabilitation Scheme for affected persons before acquisition of any land. The petitioners have set up case that since their land as well as houses have been acquired for the construction of "JHCP, they are entitled for resettlement in terms of the Policy. Petitioners also stated that they are living separately with their families and as such, respondents cannot adopt pick and choose method while granting rehabilitation grant under the Scheme. The Petitioners have also stated that since their houses alongwith land have been acquired by the 'JHCP for the purpose of construction, it is the duty of the State to provide houses to the affected families under the scheme. The petitioners have also submitted that since they are presently residing alongwith their families in the houses, respondents cannot throw them out of their houses until they are resettled in term of the scheme of Rehabilitation/ policy framed at the time of acquisition.

6. Since the petitioners in the present case were apprehending the eviction orders from the respondents, they approached this Court by way of instant writ petition seeking relief as have been reproduced hereinabove. This Court vide order dated 31.1.2014, while issuing notices to the respondents, passed following order:-

> "In the meanwhile, there shall be a direction to the respondents to issue a week's prior notice to the petitioners, in the event of their eviction from the acquired property is required."

7. Respondents pursuant to notices issued by this Court, filed detailed reply to the averments contained in the writ petition. Respondents No. 1 to 4 have specifically taken objection of delay and latches. Respondents have stated that the land of the petitioners and their brother Sh. Babu Ram stands acquired, as per the provision prevalent at that time, and award thereof was passed on 10.1.2008 i.e. Annexure R-4/A, whereby land and houses of the petitioners stand acquired. As per respondents, since the houses and land of the petitioners and their brother Sh. Babu Ram were joint and moreover the acquired land was in joint khata of Sh. Dharam Pal, Sh. Sant Ram and their brother Sh.Babu Ram alongwith their mother Smt. Premi Devi, Smt.Sevti Devi and Smt. Lachhmi both daughters of Sh. Gandhi and as such, there was no question, whatsoever, to grant separate compensation, if any, to each of the petitioners. Respondents with a view to substantiate their contention that the compensation stands paid to the petitioners according to their respective shares in terms of the award passed by Land Acquisition Collector Arki on 2.2.2008 have also placed on record, the copy of voucher, whereby amount of compensation was received by the petitioners i.e. Annexure R-4/3. It has been specifically stated by respondents No. 1 to 3 that family of the petitioners was under the headship of their brother Sh.Babu Ram and as such, benefit under the Scheme could only be given to the head of the family and as such, Sh. Babu Ram brother of the petitioners was paid an amount of Rs.11,00,000/- as grant under the Scheme.

8. Respondents also stated in their reply that Scheme has been strictly enforced by them and due and admissible compensation as well as other relief, as envisaged under the Scheme, has been given to all the affected parties. As per respondents, the definition of family given under the Scheme includes brothers and sisters living jointly as per entries of Panchayat Pariwar Register as on the date of issuance of Notification issued under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act (for short "Act"). In the present case Notification under Section 4 of the Act was issued on 12.8.2015 i.e. Annexure-4/4, the copy of Pariwar Register of the family of the petitioners as it existed in the Pariwar Register of Gram Panchayat, Mangal on 16.5.2006 was taken into consideration while extending the benefit under the Scheme referred hereinabove.

9. It also emerge from the reply filed by the respondents that despite their being best efforts, land of the choice of the interest holders could not be given to the affected families and as such, it was decided that a sum of Rs.11,00,000/- would be paid to the oustees as full and final settlement. Accordingly, in terms of conscious decision taken by the concerned authorities, and an amount of Rs.7,72,000/-, out of Rs.11,00,000/-, was forwarded to the Tehsildar, Arki, to disburse the same, as Rehabilitation and Resettlement grant to Sh. Babu Ram, the brother of the petitioners, a copy of receipt showing that the amount was received by Sh.Babu Ram has been made available on record as Annexure R-6. It also emerges from the record that the rest of the amount i.e. Rs.3,28,000/-, under the Scheme, was paid in advance by respondent No.4 to Sh. Babu Ram, brother of the petitioners vide letter dated 3rd June, 2010 (Annexure R-7). Respondents with a view to refute the claim put forth by the petitioners (Annexure P-3) that he being a separate family is entitled for compensation in its individual capacity, have stated in their reply that at the time of issuance of Notification under Section 4 of the Act on 12.8.2005, the family of the petitioners was joint along with their elder brother Sh. Babu Ram and as such, they were rightly granted compensation to the tune of Rs.11,00,000/- as one unit of the family. Respondents also refuted the contention of the petitioners with regard to existence of separate Ration card got prepared by them on the basis of the entries in the Panchayat Pariwar Register. Respondents reiterated that since notification was issued on 12.8.2005 and compensation, in terms of the Scheme, was granted to the petitioners in term of that notification, no benefit, if any, could be granted to the petitioners on the strength of entries made in the Panchayat Pariwar Register as well as Ration card for the year, 2005-06. As per respondents, under the scheme, no authenticity is attached to the entries in the register of ration card or the records of the Co-operative Society, rather respondents have refuted the claim of the petitioners that they were falling under BPL Category, because as per own version of the petitioners, Dharam Pal received compensation of Rs.10,00,000/-. Similarly, Sh. Sant Ram also received compensation more than Rs.10,00,000/- on account of acquisition of their land.

10. Respondents in para-9 of their reply specifically stated that they had called a meeting to settle the dispute between respondent No.4 and the petitioners vide communication dated 27th December, 2013 and on spot possession of land of the petitioners as acquired under Award No. 1/2008, was handed over to "JHCP" on 4.4.2008. It also emerge from the reply filed by the respondents that the petitioners were paid compensation to the tune of Rs.11,00,000/- on account of house benefits under the Scheme. Similarly respondent No.4 refuted the claim of the petitioners by stating that the land of the petitioners along with their brother Sh.Babu Ram was acquired on the basis of acquisition proceedings initiated on 12.8.2005 and on the basis of which award was made on 10.1.2008 by the Land Acquisition Collector and the amount of compensation was paid to them. Respondent No.4, solely with a view to substantiate their claim that along with the land of the petitioners their houses were also acquired, a copy of award Annexure R-4/1 placed on record, which suggests that houses of the petitioners and their brother Sh.Babu Ram were joint, whereas acquired land was in joint khata of Sh. Dharam Pal, Sant Ram and their brother Sh.Babu Ram alongwith their mother Smt. Premi Devi alongwith Smt. Sevti Devi, Lachhmi Devi daughter of Sh.Gandhi and the amount of compensation was paid to them according to their respective shares by the Land Acquisition Collector, Arki on 2.2.2008. It also emerges from the reply filed by respondent No.4 that the petitioners, apart from receiving a total sum of Rs.11,00,000/- on account of benefit under the scheme, have also received an amount of Rs.83,16,551/- on account of compensation in lieu of acquisition of their land.

11. Learned counsel representing the petitioners, vehemently argued that the respondent-State has miserably failed to give effect to the scheme and no steps, whatsoever, have been taken by the respondents to rehabilitate and resettle the oustees of 'JHCP' even after seven years of the acquisition of the land. He forcibly contended that since land of the petitioners as well as houses were acquired by the respondents for construction of cement plant, the respondents were bound to provide alternate accommodation before getting them evicted from the houses acquired by the 'JHCP' for the construction of cement plant. During arguments, he invited the attention of this Court to the scheme i.e Annexure P-1 to demonstrate that the petitioners, apart from compensation in lieu of acquisition of land, were also entitled to alternative accommodation in lieu of the house acquired along with land. He also made this Court to travel through Annexures P-2 and P-3 to demonstrate that the petitioners were the owners in possession of the land acquired by respondent No. 4. It is contended that Annexure P-3 clearly suggests that petitioner, namely, Sant Ram lives separately from Sh. Babu Ram and as such, Sant Ram, in his independent capacity is/ was entitled to the benefit, as envisaged under the scheme.

12. On the other hand, Shri Shrawan Dogra, learned Advocate General and learned Senior Advocates, representing the respondents, vehemently opposed the aforesaid submissions having been made on behalf of the petitioners and stated that due and admissible compensation, in terms of the scheme being relied upon by the petitioners, stands duly paid to the petitioners and as such, nothing more can be claimed by the petitioners. It is contended on behalf of the respondent-State that the Scheme for the oustees of the 'JHCP' has been given full effect and in terms of the same, due and admissible benefit have been extended to each affected persons and as such, contention put forth by the petitioners that till date no steps, whatsoever, have been taken by the respondent to give effect to the scheme deserves outright rejection. Respondents, with a view to substantiate their statements, invited the attention of this Court to the reply filed by the respondents, duly supported with an affidavit and annexures, wherein it has been specifically mentioned that at the time of starting of acquisition proceedings and passing of award family of the petitioners was under the headship of their brother Sh. Babu Ram and as such, benefits under the scheme were given to the head of the family. Sh. Babu Ram brother of the petitioner being head of the family received total sum of Rs.11,00,000/-under the rehabilitation scheme. Respondents also invited the attention of this Court to the award passed by the Land Acquisition Collector, whereby present petitioners alongwith other family members namely Sh. Sant Ram, Dharam Pal, Sh. Babu Ram and Smt. Premi Devi received an amount of Rs.83,16,551/- as compensation in lieu of their land acquired for the purpose of construction of "JHCP". It is also contended on behalf of the respondents that no claim, if any, could be granted to the petitioners on the strength of Annexures P-3 and P-4 because as per Annexure P-3, petitioners are members of the family alongwith other family members namely Sh. Babu Ram, Dharam Pal, Sh. Sant Ram and Smt. Premi Devi. As far as Annexure P-3 is concerned, respondents submitted that entry in the Pariwar Register showing separation of the family has been made on 5.11.2006 and as such, no benefit, if any, can be granted in terms of rehabilitation policy, which was admittedly framed at the time of acquisition of land in the year, 2005. In the aforesaid background, respondents prayed for dismissal of the petition.

13. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record of the case.

14. Careful perusal of the records made available to this Court as well as submissions having been made on behalf of the parties clearly suggests that by way of present petition, petitioners have made an attempt to demonstrate that they being an independent family on the strength of Annexure P-3 are/were entitled to compensation in terms of the scheme of the 'JHCP'. It also appears that apprehending eviction from the houses, which admittedly stand acquired alongwith the land, the petitioners approached this Court by way of writ petition, wherein prayer is made to implement the scheme of "JHCP. But this Court after perusing the pleadings available on record and hearing the submissions having been made on behalf of the respondents is unable to accept the contention put forth by the petitioners. The record or pleadings do disclose that the petitioners being part of the joint family headed by Sh.Babu Ram have already received an amount of Rs.11,00,000/- under the scheme apart from an amount of Rs.83,16,551/- received on account of compensation in lieu of the land acquired by the respondents for the purpose of construction of the "JHCP".

15. Perusal of Annexure P-1, scheme for the Rehabilitation and Resettlement of the oustees of the Jaypee Himachal Cement Project (A unit of Jai prakash Associated Limited) clearly provides the definition of family which is reproduced as under:-

> " b. Family" means husband/wife, who is entered as owner/co-owner of land in the Revenue Record, their children including step or adopted children and includes his/her parents and those brothers and sisters who are living jointly with him/her as per entries of Panchayat Pariwar Register as on the date of Notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894."

16. Perusal of clause (b) of the scheme clearly suggests that family means husband/wife, who is entered as owner/co-owner of land in the Revenue Record, their children including step or adopted children and includes his/ her parents and those brothers and sisters, who are living jointly with him as per entries of Panchayat Pariwar Register as on the date of issuance of Notification under Section 4 of Act, 1894. Aforesaid provision leaves no doubt in the mind of this Court that relevant date for determining the family for the grant of benefit under the Scheme for Rehabilitation and Resettlement of the Oustees is the date of notification issued under Section 4 of the Act.

17. Though, perusal of clause (b), wherein family has been defined suggest that members of the family, who have been entered separately as a different family in the Pariwar Register could be termed as a separate family but for grant of benefit under the above referred scheme, one need to establish that they were entered as a separate family in the Panchayat Pariwar Register on the date of notification issued under Section 4 of the Act, 1894.

18. In the present case, admittedly land was acquired in the year, 2005 and compensation as awarded by Land Acquisition Collector was paid to the affected parties including the petitioners. Annexure P-3, which has been heavily relied upon by the petitioners clearly suggest that the family of the petitioners namely Sant Ram has been recorded separately in the Pariwar Register w.e.f. 5.11.2006, meaning thereby, at the time of issuance of notification under Section 4 of Act, family of the petitioner Sant Ram was not recorded as separate family in the Pariwar register as required under clause (b) of the scheme referred hereinabove.

19. Perusal of Annexure P-3 clearly suggests that till 5.11.2006, Sant Ram was residing along with other brother, namely, Sh. Babu Ram and as such, claim put forth by the petitioners that they being independent family are also entitled to the benefit under the scheme formulated for the benefit of Rehabilitation and Resettlement of the Oustees of the 'JHCP' deserves to be rejected out rightly being baseless. Rather, perusal of Annexure P-2, jamabandi for the year, 2000-01 clearly suggests that petitioners Sant Ram and Dharam Pal have been recorded as joint owners with Sh. Babu Ram, who has admittedly being head of the family received an amount of Rs.11,00,000/- under the Scheme apart from an amount of Rs.83,61,551/- on account of compensation in lieu of the land acquired for the purpose of construction of "JHCP". Hence, in view of the above, this Court sees no force and merit in the contention of the petitioners that they being an independent family are entitled to the benefit of the scheme. Moreover, it clearly emerge from the reply filed by the respondents that an amount of Rs.11,00,000/- was paid to the petitioners under the scheme in lieu of the houses acquired by the respondents for the construction of "JHCP". It has specifically come in the reply of respondent No.4 that since despite best efforts they were unable to provide suitable land to the petitioners as well as other similarly situate person, a conscious decision was taken to make onetime payment to the affected persons in lieu of their houses acquired along with the land, accordingly, an amount of Rs.11,00,000/- was awarded and paid to the family of the petitioners as well as other similarly situate person.

20. Consequently, in view of above discussion, this Court sees no merit in the contentions put forth by the petitioners in their petition, rather after perusing the averments contained in the petition, this Court is constrained to observe that this is sheer abuses of process of the law where petitioners by filing instant petition have made an attempt to procure relief to which they were/are not entitled at all. The another contention put forth by the petitioners that no prior notice was issued to them by the respondents before getting them evicted from their houses cannot be considered at this stage by this Court after seeing the specific reply filed by the respondents, wherein it has been specifically mentioned that the possession of the land acquired stands delivered to the respondent company for the construction of cement plant.

Hence, this Court does not see any merit in the petition and the same is accordingly dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stands(s) disposed of.

Decided on : 13.7.2016

Indian Forest Act, 1927- Sections 32 and 33- Forest Guard found that one second class kail tree was cut and the accused persons were converting the tree into logs- the accused were tried and acquitted by the Trial Court- held in appeal, PW-1 had admitted that a criminal case was pending between him and the accused which shows animosity on his part- iron saw and two axes were not seized by the Forest Guard- testimony of PW-4 was contradictory - prosecution version was not proved and trial court had rightly acquitted the accused - appeal dismissed.
(Para 9-11)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Deputy Advocate General.
For the Respondents: Mr. H.R Sidhu, Advocate vice counsel

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (oral)

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgment of 29.12.2006 rendered by the learned Sub Divisional Judicial Magistrate, Chachiot at Gohar, District Mandi, H.P., in Indian Forest Act No. 280-I/2004, whereby the respondents (for short 'accused') stood acquitted by the learned trial Court for the offences charged.

2. Facts in brief are that on 26.11.2003 Sh. Chet Singh, Forest Guard was on patrolling duty in Kliperi beat. He found that one second class kail tree was cut and the accused persons were converting the said tree into logs. The felling and converting of this tree into logs was witnessed by Tej Ram who was collecting dry fallen wood in the forest. Sh. Chet Singh, the forest guard prepared the damage report Ex.PW-1/A. The accused persons refused to sign the damage report. Tej Ram put his signatures to the damage report and iqbalnama. The timber were handed over on supardari to one Mr. Maghu Ram, Forest worker vide memo Ex. PW-1/C. The logs were then converted into sleepers and were carried out and stored in the depot concerned. Damage report was entered by the Range Officer Thachi. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. Notice of accusation stood put by the learned trial Court to the accused for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 32 and 33 of the Indian Forest Act read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 7 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure were recorded in which they pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. However, they chose to lead evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned vice counsel appearing for the respondents/accused has with considerable force and vigor contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. PW-1 Chet Singh, the forest guard of the beat concerned while holding patrolling on 26.11.2003 at about 11.00 a.m. at Binglao DPF he noticed thereat of the accused after felling a kail tree theirs converting the same into logs. In respect thereof he prepared a damage report comprised in Ex. PW-1/A which stood signed by an independent witness namely Tej Ram. The seized timber was handed over on supardari under Memo comprised in Ex.PW-1/C to one Maghu Ram. The veracity of the depositions of PWs 1 and 4 witnesses to PW-1/A stood undermined by the learned trial Court on account of both holding animosity towards the accused. The inference of animosity reared by PW-1 against the accused stood aroused from an admission made by him of his instituting a case against the accused qua theirs subjecting him to beatings, case whereof he admits to be pending before the Court concerned. Even if an inference of the aforesaid animosity nursed by PW-1 towards the accused may not be sufficient to discard his testimony yet with an omission on his part to seize the iron saw and two axes, possession whereof he concedes to be held by the accused at the relevant time does give immense vigor to an inference of his making a false case against the accused. Also with both PW-2 and PW-5 wheretowhom PW-1 in his deposition ascribes a role of theirs visiting the relevant site of occurrence belying the pronouncement aforesaid testified by PW-1 amplifyingly accentuates an inference of PW-1 concocting the genesis of the prosecution case.

10. Be that as it may the testimony of PW-4 which stood discountenanced by the learned trial Court on account of his nursing an animosity towards the accused does display of his deposing a version in improvement of the version of PW-1 qua the latter seizing form the possession of the accused, a rope, used by them for fructifying their penal misdemeanors also when the relevant rope was not produced in Court does give leverage to an inference of in PW-4 testifying qua its standing seized by PW-1 from the possession of the accused, his thereupon underlining the factum of PW-1 engineering his presence at the relevant site of occurrence. Consequently no credence is imputable to his testimony, he being an invented witness to seizure memo Ex.PW-1/A, who merely to settle his animosity with the accused, inference whereof qua his nursing an animosity towards the accused stands engendered by his conceding in his deposition of his previously deposing against the accused also of his holding no talking terms with them.

Given the imminent display of animosity standing reared by PW-1 besides by PW-4 towards the accused, animosity whereof construed in coagulation with the aforesaid contradictions occurring intra-se the testimony of PW-1 and the testimonies of PW-2 and PW-5 also given the aforesaid contradictions occurring intra-se the testimonies of PW-1 and PW-4 does give a boost to an firm conclusion of the prosecution abysmally failing to sustain its case against the accused.

11. A wholesome analysis of the evidence on record portrays that the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity and absurdity nor it can be said that the learned trial Court in recording findings of acquittal has committed any legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court does not deem it fit and appropriate that the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court merit interference.

12. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment of the learned trial Court is maintained and affirmed. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

For the petitioner: M/s Tek Chand & K. C. Sankhyan, Advocates.
For the respondents: Mr. N.K. Sood, Senior Advocate with Mr. Hemant Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.

By way of present petition, the petitioner has prayed for following reliefs:-

"i) That the respondents may kindly be directed to relax its policy dated 21.10.2005 and offer compassionate appointment as a Class-III/IV to the petitioner as a special case being dependent of deceased employee who was electrocuted while on duty and died on the spot.

ii) That the respondents may very kindly be directed to produce the entire record pertaining to the case of the petitioner for the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court.

iii) Any other order/direction which this Hon'ble Court deems just and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case may also kindly be passed/issued in favour of the petitioner.

2. The case of the petitioner is that his father, Sh. Sohan Singh, was serving under the respondent-Board as regular Chowkidar. He died in harness on 14.11.2007. The deceased was the sole bread earner of the family. The petitioner being the son of the deceased applied for compassionate appointment on the prescribed proforma to the respondent-Board. However, the application was returned back with the observations that the compassionate appointment had been dis-continued in view of new policy dated 3.11.2005 having been brought in force in this regard. In these circumstances, mother of the petitioner got a legal notice issued to the respondent Board on 4.5.2009. In response to said legal notice, the respondent-Board sent its reply stating therein that the petitioner's mother was not entitled for appointment on compassionate ground on account of death of her husband as per policy decision of the board dated 3.11.2005. Thereafter, the petitioner again submitted representation on 22.8.2009 seeking compassionate appointment as a special case.

3. As per the petitioner, being the dependent of the sole bread earner, he was wrongly denied the compassionate appointment on the pretext of policy dated 21.10.2005, whereas dependents of the employees of BBMB taken from other states/Electricity Board have been exempted from the existence of the policy and they are getting compassionate appointment under the respondent-Board. It is further the case of the petitioner that he being eligible and entitled for compassionate appointment as a "special case" on account of accidental death of his father has been discriminated since the other dependents of deceased employees of the respondent-Board similarly situated as him are being treated differently and have been given appointment. It is in these circumstances, the petitioner has filed the present petition praying for the reliefs already enumerated above.

4. The respondent-Board in its reply has denied the claim of the petitioner and has stated that the respondent-Board has dis-continued its policy for grant of compassionate appointment and at the time of death of father of the petitioner, policy for compassionate appointment was not in existence in the Board, as such the petitioner was not entitled for appointment in the respondent-Board. It is further case of the respondent-Board that in place of earlier policy of compassionate appointment, an alternative policy had been adopted by the respondent-Board to compensate the family of the deceased employees. As per the alternative policy, the mother of the petitioner was paid a sum of Rs.3 lac vide cheque No.002169 dated 7.9.2009 as Solatium. In addition, as per terms of the alternative policy, mother of the petitioner was also being paid special pension regularly. It is further case of the respondent-Board that ex-gratia amount of Rs.50,000/- also stood paid to the mother of the petitioner on 13.7.2009 and an amount of Rs.89808/- was paid on account of death-cum-retirement gratuity. Thus, as per the respondent-Board, once earlier policy of compassionate appointment had been dis-continued and substituted by a new alternative policy, there cannot be any deviation from the same and the case of the petitioner cannot be considered for compassionate appointment under a policy, which is no more in vogue and has been dis-continued. On these grounds, the respondent-Board denied the case of the petitioner. It was also specifically denied that any person similarly situated as the petitioner was given appointment by the respondent-Board on compassionate basis.

5. In rejoinder, the petitioner has stated that he and his mother are ready and willing to refund Rs. 3 lac, received as Solatium, if he is offered compassionate appointment as a "special case" and the factum of having received the solatium cannot be made the ground to deny him compassionate appointment, because his mother in fact was coerced/directed to receive the solatium vide communication dated 4.3.2009 failing which, no other payment was to be released to her. Accordingly, the petitioner reiterated his prayer that the respondent-board be directed to offer appointment to him on compassionate basis as a special case.

6. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the record carefully.

7. It is not disputed by the petitioner that on the date when his father died in harness, there was no policy in vogue in the respondent-Board to offer compassionate appointment to the family members of its deceased employees. It is also not disputed by the petitioner that the policy, which was in vogue on the relevant date, is one which is appended with the writ petition as Annexure P-4 and all the benefits which are contemplated in the said alternative policy have been conferred upon the family of the petitioner by the respondent-Board. Incidentally, in the present case, what the petitioner has prayed for is that the respondent-Board be directed to treat his case as a "Special Case" for the purpose of grant of appointment on compassionate basis. However, besides, using the words "Special Case" learned counsel for the petitioner could not elaborate as to how the case of the petitioner was a special case. Not only this, learned counsel for the petitioner also failed to point out as to how this Court can direct the respondent-Board to offer appointment to the petitioner on compassionate basis on account of the death of his father in harness in the absence of any such policy in vogue at the relevant time in the respondent-Board.

8. It is a settled law that compassionate appointment is not a source of recruitment. Further it is not the case of the petitioner that there was a policy in vogue in the respondent-Board either at the time when his father died or at the time when his application was considered by the respondent-Board, which offered compassionate appointment to the kith and kin of the deceased employee of the respondent-Board. Further perusal of Annexure P-4 demonstrates that the respondent-Board in its meeting held on 21.10.2005 decided to dis-continue the BBMB policy of providing compassionate employment to the wards/dependents of the deceased BBMB employees. It further decided to adopt its new alternative policy in lieu of compassionate employment to help the family of the deceased BBMB employee to tide over the financial crises which the family had to face due to sudden demise of the bread earner. This policy also envisaged grant of lump sum compensation i.e. solatium to the dependents of the deceased employee and a special pension equal to the last pay (basic) drawn along with dearness relief sanctioned from time to time till the date of superannuation of the deceased employees and thereafter pension as admissible in accordance with the normal family pension Rules. Clause 8 of the policy provided as under:-

> "Members of families of deceased State Governments/State Electricity Boards/Power Utilities allocated employees shall be governed by the policy, rules/instructions of their respective parent departments of State Governments/SEBs/Power Utilities."

9. These compensations have been duly paid to the family of the petitioner. The vires of the alternative policy of compensation brought into force by the respondent-Board has not been challenged by the petitioner. Further the petitioner has not demonstrated that any other similarly situated person has been offered compassionate appointment by the respondent-Board. Mr. Naresh Sood, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the respondent-Board has submitted that the contention of the petitioner that dependents of other persons who had died in harness were given compassionate appointment is totally baseless and incorrect as no such appointment in fact had been made by the respondent-Board.

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in MGB Gramin Bank vs. Chakrawarti Singh (2014) Supreme Court Cases 583 has held that every appointment to public office must be made by strictly adhering to the mandatory requirements of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India and an exception by providing employment on compassionate grounds has been carved out in order to remove the financial constraints on the bereaved family, which has lost its bread earner. It has been further held that mere death of government employee in harness does not entitle the family to claim compassionate appointment and the Court should not stretch the provision by liberal interpretation beyond permissible limits on humanitarian ground.

11. Incidentally, this law has been declared by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in those cases, where the policy for appointment on compassionate basis in lieu of the death of an employee in harness was existing. It is settled law that the appointment on compassionate ground cannot be clamed as a matter of right nor an applicant/claimant becomes entitled automatically for appointment, rather it depends on various other circumstances and the application has to be considered in accordance with the scheme.

12. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bhawani Prasad Sonkar vs. Union of India and others, (2011) 4 Supreme Court Cases 209 has held that while considering the case for employment on compassionate ground, it has to be borne in mind that compassionate employment cannot be made in the absence of rules or regulations issued by the government or a public authority. This judgment has been followed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Canara Bank and another vs. M. Mahesh Kumar along with connected matters, 2015(7) Supreme Court Cases 412, and the relevant para of the same is quoted here-in-below:-

> > 15. Now, it is well settled that compassionate employment is given solely on humanitarian grounds with the sole object to provide immediate relief to the employees family to tide over the sudden financial crisis and cannot be claimed as a matter of right. Appointment based solely on descent is inimical to our constitutional scheme, and ordinarily public employment must be strictly on the basis of open invitation of applications and comparative merit, in consonance with Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. No other mode of appointment is permissible. Nevertheless, the concept of compassionate appointment has been recognised as an exception to the general rule, carved out in the interest of justice, in certain exigencies, by way of a policy of an employer, which partakes the character of the service rules. That being so, it needs little emphasis that the scheme or the policy, as the case may be, is binding both on the employer and the employee. Being an exception, the scheme has to be strictly construed and confined only to the purpose it seeks to achieve.

13. Therefore, it is apparent from the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bhawani Prasad Sonkar's case (supra) that the compassionate appointment cannot be made in the absence of rules or regulations issued by the government or public authority. In the present case, admittedly, there were no rules or regulations issued by the respondent-Board pertaining to the compassionate appointment as on the date when the father of the petitioner died in harness. That being the case, no right, leave aside legal right, accrued upon the petitioner to claim compassionate appointment on account of death of his father from the respondent-Board.

In this view of the matter, in my considered view, the case of the petitioner is totally misconceived and there is no merit in the same. Accordingly, the same is dismissed so also the pending application(s), if any. No order as to costs.

(Para-10 and 11)

For the petitioners: Mr. Ashok Sharma, ASGI.
For the respondent: Mr. Sanjeev Bhushan, Sr. Advocate, with Ms. Abhilasha Kaundal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. :

By way of present writ petition, the petitioner-Union of India has challenged the order passed by learned Central Administrative Tribunal, Chandigarh Bench in OA No. 778/HP/2005 dated 30.05.2008 vide which, learned Tribunal has allowed Original Application of the present respondent and declared that applicant therein is entitled to the same benefits of time bound promotion at par with any other CHS Medical Officers on the basis of the provisions of Para 2(1) of order dated 5.4.2002 appended as Annexure A-14 with the Original Application. Learned Tribunal has further held that the benefit would be available to applicant w.e.f. 05.04.2002.

2. The case of the respondent/applicant before the learned Tribunal was that the applicant was appointed as Resident Medical Officer in the pay scale of Rs.2200-4000/-, which was a solitary post in the Indian Institute of Advanced Study vide appointment letter dated 26.05.1993. She was confirmed as such on the recommendations of the Departmental Promotion Committee w.e.f. 28.05.1995 in the pay scale of Rs.2200-4000/- (subsequently revised to Rs.8000-13500/-). The Government of India vide Office Memorandum dated 9th August, 1999 introduced an Assured Career Progression Scheme for the Central Government Civilian Employees on the basis of the recommendations of the Fifth Central Pay Commission. The said scheme was to become operational from the date of issuance of Office Memorandum, which was 09.08.1999. As per the Office Memorandum, a Departmental Screening Committee was to be constituted for the purpose of processing the cases for grant of benefits under the ACP Scheme. The same was adopted to mitigate hardship in cases of acute stagnation either in a cadre or in an isolated post. It was mentioned in Clause 3.1 of the Office Memorandum that isolated posts in group 'A', 'B', 'C' and 'D' categories which have no promotional avenues shall also qualify for similar benefits on the pattern indicated in the Office Memorandum. In light of what was contained in the said Office Memorandum, the applicant made a representation dated 18.06.1998, wherein she prayed that she be granted the next grade of Rs.3000-4500/- pre-revised (revised to Rs.10000-15200/-). It was mentioned by her in the said representation that the employees of the Indian Institute of Advanced Study, which was an autonomous organization under the Ministry of Human Resource Development were governed by the Rules, Regulations and Pay Scales notified by the Government of India from time to time. It was further mentioned in the representation that there were only two persons in the Medical Section of the Institute and there interests were being overlooked as orders regarding medical personnel passed by the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare had gone unnoticed in the Ministry of Human Resource Development keeping in view the fact that there were very few medical professionals serving in the said Ministry which was causing unnecessary inconvenience, harassment and financial loss to the personnel of Medical Section. It was further stated in the representation that the Government of India had issued various notifications conferring benefits on its employees serving in the medical sections and one of such notification was dated 08.10.1996, which provides time bound promotions in the following manner:

		"Pre-revised	Revised
(i)	Medical Officer	Rs.2200-4000	Rs.8000-13000
(ii)	After four years Of service (Sr. N.9)	Rs.3000-4500	Rs.10000-15200
(iii)	After 10 years Of service (CMO)	Rs.3700-5000/-	Rs.12000-15500"

3. Accordingly, the applicant stated by way of the said representation that keeping in view the fact that she had completed four years of service in the Grade of her appointment, she was entitled to be conferred the higher Grade as contemplated in notification dated 08.10.1996 w.e.f. 01.01.1997. However, the representation of the applicant was not acceded to and the same was rejected vide notification dated 01.11.2000. Ministry of Health & Family Welfare, Government of India thereafter vide notification dated 5th April, 2002 accepted the recommendations of Fifth Central Pay Commission with regard to Dynamic Assured Career Progression Scheme for officers of the Central Health Services. This communication which was appended with the Original Application as Annexure A-14 contemplated as under:

> "In the General Duty Medical Officer (GDMO) sub cadre, Medical Officer (Rs.8000-13500) will be promoted to Senior Medical Officer (Rs. 10000-15200) on completion of 4 years of regular service. Senior Medical Officer with 5 years of regular service as Senior Medical Officer will be promoted to the post of Chief Medical Officer (Rs. 12000-16500) and after completion of 4 years in Chief Medical Officer grade, officer will be promoted to the post of Chief Medical Officer (Non Functional Selection Grade) (Rs.14300-18300). Thus on completion of 13 years of regular service in the GDMO sub cadre of CHS, Officer of GDMO sub cadre will be promoted to Chief Medical Officer (Non Functional Selection Grade) (Rs.14300-18300)."

4. Applicant made a representation for the conferment of the benefits to her under the said scheme. As no benefits were conferred upon the applicant by the respondent, in this background, she filed an Original Application praying for the following reliefs:

> "(i) That the respondents may be directed to grant the benefit of higher pay-scale of Rs.10,000-15,200 to the applicant on completion of four years of service and thereafter to place her on further higher pay-scale of Rs.12,000-16,500 when it is due to the applicant.

(ii) That further directions be issued to the respondents to release all arrears in view of such fixation, alongwith interest at some nationalized bank rate.

(iii) That the respondents may be directed to produce the entire record pertaining to the case for the perusal of this Hon'ble Tribunal.

(iv) That the cost of this application may also be awarded in favour of the applicant and against the respondents throughout.

(v) That any other order or relief deemed just and proper by this Hon'ble Tribunal in the light of the facts and circumstances of the case may also be passed in favour of the applicant and against the respondents."

5. The claim of the applicant was resisted by the Union of India on the ground that no autonomous body was participating unit of Central Health Services and it was for the Ministry of Human Resources Development to decide the promotional avenues of the officer of the Indian Institute of Advanced Study, Shimla. It was further the stand of the department that Ministry of Human Resource Development vide letter dated 17th March, 2003 had made the applicant entitled to normal Assured Career Progression Scheme formulated by DOPT, which was applied to the isolated Group 'A' post and the case had been referred to Sixth Pay Commission for consideration. The contents of said notification dated 17th March, 2003 are quoted hereinbelow:

"I am directed to refer to Institute's letter No. 4(a)(44)93/Admn.F.2/14654 dated 14.1.2003 on the subject mentioned above and to say that the matter has been reconsidered in consultation with IFD and Department of Personnel & Training.

2. DOPT has advised that Ministry of Health and Family Welfare has approved the Dynamic ACP Scheme only in respect of Central Health Service for the present. Till the picture becomes clearer about application of Dynamic ACPs to holder of isolated Group 'A' Medical Doctors, there may not be any objection in extending normal ACPs to such Doctor holding isolated Group 'A' post.

3. In view of above, the Institute is advised that the incumbent may be given financial up gradation as per provision of the normal Assured Career Progression Scheme formulated by DOPT which also applies for isolated Group 'A' post."

6. Further as per the applicant, the benefit of Assured Career Progression Scheme was initially conferred by the Department of Personnel and Training vide Office Memorandum dated 9th August, 1999, which was arbitrarily denied to the applicant on the ground that Indian Institute of Advance Study where she was employed was not a unit of Central Health Services. Thereafter, when in April, 2002 Dynamic Assured Career Progression Scheme was introduced by the Department of Health, Government of India, the same was again denied to the applicant on the same ground. However, subsequently, the respondents extended the Assured Career Progression Scheme benefit to the applicant as was evident from notification dated 17th March, 2003, which confirmed that despite the fact that applicant was serving in an autonomous body, she had been treated as Central Government employee. Thus, there was no occasion to deprive the benefit to the applicant as was given to her counter parts serving in the Central Government Services keeping in view the fact that as the applicant was a Medical Officer, she was entitled to all the benefits which otherwise were accruable to her counter parts serving in the Central Health Services. It was further the case of the applicant that the only difference between the Assured Career Progression Scheme and the subsequent Dynamic Assured Career Progression Scheme was that while earlier was a financial up-gradation scheme, the subsequent was a time bound promotion scheme meant for Medical Officers. According to the applicant, her functional responsibility has been equated with Central Health Services, accordingly there was no justification to deny the benefit of Dynamic Assured Career Progression Scheme to her.

7. Learned Tribunal on the basis of material produced on record came to the conclusion that the question which was to be decided was whether the applicant was entitled to the benefits under the Dynamic Assured Career Progression Scheme of 2002 or Assured Career Progression Scheme which had been made applicable to her. It held that the Assured Career Progression Scheme was based on the recommendations of 5th Central Pay Commission and Assured Career Progression Scheme in paragraph No. 13 provides for an option to the Ministries or Departments as per choice to continue with any time bound promotion scheme in which event such scheme shall not run concurrently with ACP Scheme. It further held that in case of CHS, presumably, ACP is not applicable and thus, the applicant's case should have been considered for DACP and not for ACP. It further held that the promotions under DACP has to be made without any linkage to the vacancies and as such, the benefit of DACP could not have been denied to the applicant on the ground that the post of Resident Medical Officer at the Institute of Advanced Study, Shimla is an isolated post. It further held that NPA is an allowance admissible only to the Medical Officers and applicant's entitlement to NPA which was evident from her appointment order confirms that she should be treated as one of the Central Government Medical Officers. Learned Tribunal further held that when the respondents have chosen to extend the ACP concession to the applicant notwithstanding the fact that she was functioning in an autonomous body, then the extension of the said benefit would mean that she would be deemed to be a Central Government Employee. As per the learned Tribunal, when such a legal fiction has been pressed into service, then the consequences thereof equally have to follow. It further held the applicant shall be deemed to be a Central Govt. Employee as she has been holding the post of Resident Medical Officer and keeping in view the fact that NPA was admissible to her at par with Central Government Officer, she should be treated as Central Health Services Officer as already recommended on the basis of functional responsibilities by the Ministry of Human Resources Development and in that event as ACP was not available to CHS Officials, the applicant should not have been given the benefit of ACP, but she should have been extended the benefit of Dynamic Assured Career Progression Scheme, i.e. DACP. Accordingly, on these basis, the Original Application filed by the applicant was allowed and learned Tribunal held the applicant entitled to the same benefits of time bound promotion as were available to other Medical Officers of Central Health Services as were provided under the provisions of Para 2(1) of order dated 05.04.2002 appended with the Original Application as Annexure A-14. The applicant was held entitled to the said benefits w.e.f. 05.04.2002. However, no interest was granted in favour of the applicant by the learned Tribunal.

8. This order passed by the learned Tribunal has been assailed by the present petitioners inter alia on the ground that the Tribunal has failed to appreciate that the respondent-applicant was an employee of an autonomous body which was not a participating unit of Central Health Services and accordingly, there was no occasion to confer upon the respondent-applicant any benefit under the Dynamic Assured Career Progression Scheme, which was introduced only in respect of the officers of Central Health Services. It was further alleged that learned Tribunal had erred in not appreciating that the applicant could not have been conferred the benefits of Dynamic Assured Career Progression Scheme unless the Ministry of Human Resource Development took a decision in this regard of extending the said benefits even to those employees who are serving in autonomous bodies as was the case with the respondent-applicant. Thus, on these basis, the order passed by the learned Tribunal has been challenged before this Court.

9. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case.

10. During the course of arguments, it was brought into the notice of this Court by the learned Senior Counsel appearing for the private respondent that besides the factum of the benefit of the order passed by the learned Tribunal having been implemented and conferred to the respondent-applicant, the benefits of the Dynamic Assured Career Progression Scheme under the Sixth Pay Commission also stands extended and accorded to the private respondent. Learned Senior Counsel has also placed on record the copy of Office Memorandum, dated 29th October,

2008 from which it is apparent that CHS Division of the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, Government of India has ordered to extend the scheme of DACP up to SAG level to all Medical/Dental Doctors in the Central Government whether belonging to Organized Service or holding isolated posts. Be that as it may, in our considered view, there is no infirmity with order which has been passed by the learned Tribunal directing the present petitioners to confer the benefit of DACP Scheme to the applicant on the basis of the recommendations of the Fifth Central Pay Commission. It is evident from the material on record that the respondent-applicant first made a representation for conferring upon her the benefits of Assured Career Progression Scheme on the basis of Office Memorandum issued in this regard by the Department of Personnel and Training, Government of India, which was rejected by the present petitioners on the ground that the Office Memorandum was not applicable to the respondent-applicant as she was an employee of an autonomous organization. Thereafter, in the year 2002, CHS Division of the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, Government of India came out with Dynamic Assured Career Progression Scheme which was made applicable to all Medical Officers and the respondent-applicant again made a representation to the effect that the benefits of the said Scheme be conferred upon her keeping in view the fact that she was similarly situate as any other Medical Officer serving in Central Health Services. Though the said request of the respondent-applicant was not heeded to, but simultaneously in the year, 2003, she was conferred the benefits under the Assured Career Progression Scheme. Learned Tribunal has held that the applicant-respondent was entitled to the benefits of DACP and not ACP keeping in view the fact that her service conditions were pari materia with those of any other Medical Officer serving in CHS. Therefore, on these basis, learned Tribunal concluded that the respondent-applicant cannot be denied the benefits of Dynamic Assured Career Progression Scheme which had been conferred by the present petitioners to the Medical Officers serving under the Central Government. Learned Tribunal in fact concluded that respondent-applicant is also deemed to be an employee of Central Government keeping in view the fact that she was serving in autonomous body of the Union of India. It is not disputed that now the benefits of DACP as recommended by the Sixth Central Pay Commission have been conferred upon the respondent-applicant. Keeping all these facts into consideration, in our considered view, learned Tribunal has rightly held that the respondent-applicant was entitled to the benefits under the DACP at par with any other Medical Officer serving in the CHS Department. It is not the case of the petitioners before this Court that the parent organization of the petitioners though autonomous, was not owned and controlled by the Union of India. Further, the only ground on which the said benefit has been denied to the respondent-applicant by the present petitioners is that according to them, the parent organization of the applicant was not part of CHS and whether or not the benefit has to be conferred upon the applicant is a decision which is taken by the Ministry of Human Resource Development. In our considered view, the applicant could not have been denied the benefit of DACP simply on this ground that the parent organization of the petitioners was not a part of CHS unit and till a decision in this regard was taken by the Ministry of Human Resource Development, the benefit of DACP could not have been conferred upon the applicant. DACP is a Scheme which has been formulated by the Union of India for the purpose of removing stagnation amongst Medical Officers serving in Central Health Services. The applicant is similarly situated as all other Medical Officers serving in Central Health Services, though she is employed with Indian Institute of Advance Study, which is an autonomous body of Union of India. The fact remains that Ministry of Health and Family Welfare and Ministry of Human Resource Development both are under the Union of India. Not only this, though the respondent-applicant is serving in an autonomous body under the Ministry of Human Resource Development, but it is an undisputed fact that she is serving there as a Medical Officer. Keeping in view the fact that there are isolated posts of Medical Officers in the Ministry of Human Resource Development and there is no separate DACP Scheme which has been formulated by the Ministry of Human Resource Development, it is but obvious and prudent that the benefits which have been envisaged by the Central Government for Medical Officers serving under the Central Health Services should be ipso facto made extendable to Medical Officers who are serving in autonomous organizations may be not under the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, but under other Ministries. This is for the reason that similarly situated persons cannot be treated with a different yardstick by the Government of India. It is no one's case that the autonomous organization in which the respondent-applicant serves does not belong to the Government of India. Article 14 of the Constitution of India strikes at discrimination. This Article inter alia provides that equals are to be treated alike. In our considered view, giving a differential treatment to a Medical Officer, i.e. the respondent-applicant in the present case vis-à-vis other Medical Officers serving under the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare simply on the ground that the respondent-applicant is not serving under the said Ministry, but is serving under another Ministry, is nothing but an action of discrimination, especially keeping in view the fact that it is no one's case that the duties and responsibilities of the respondent-applicant in any manner were different from the Medical Officers serving under the Central Health Services.

11. Therefore, in view of what has been discussed above, we do not find any infirmity with order passed by the learned Administrative Tribunal OA No. 778/HP/2005 dated 30.05.2008 and the same is upheld and the writ petition being devoid of any merit is accordingly dismissed.

Anil Kumar …….Petitioner.

Versus

State of H.P. …….Respondent.

Cr. MP (M) No. 827 of 2016.
Decided on: 14th July, 2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the accused for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 323, 324, 326, 307 and 354 of the Indian Penal Code- investigation is complete- challan has been filed in the Court- case has been committed to Court of Sessions and is fixed for consideration of charge- accused is not required to be detained in custody as he is not so influential as to win over the prosecution witnesses or tamper with the prosecution case – he will not abscond or flee away from justice- hence, bail application allowed and the accused ordered to be released on bail. (Para-3 to 8)

For the petitioner : Mr. Ajeet Singh Saklani, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. D.S. Nainta & Mr. Virender Verma, Addl. A.Gs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Cand Chaudhary, J. (oral).

Petitioner is an accused in a case registered against him under Sections 323, 324, 326, 307 and 354 of the Indian Penal Code, in Police Station, Pachhad, District Sirmaur, H.P. vide FIR No.76/15 on the basis of a complaint made by Shri Sanjay Bahadur, son of the prosecutrix.

2. The accused-petitioner has been arrested in this case on 21.9.2015 and is presently in judicial custody. The investigation in this case is complete. Challan has also been filed. Learned Judicial Magistrate, Rajgarh has committed the case to the Court of Sessions and the same is now listed for consideration of charge on 16.7.2016. The victim is a Nepali National and residing, for the last 6-7 years with her son Sanjay Bahadur, the complainant at Village Dasana, Tehsil Pachhad, District Sirmaur, H.P. She along with her son, the complainant, is managing all agricultural and household affairs of one Raman Singh, resident of the same village.

3. The record reveals that on 6.9.2015, she went to Forest along with her son, the complainant, for bringing fodder for the cattle of Raman Singh, their master. When they were at different locations and the prosecutrix collecting fodder by lopping the branches of 'chhinar' tree, the accused-petitioner, whose age has been disclosed by her in between 18-22 years, appeared there and asked for Bidi from her. She entertained his request and having climbed on the tree, threw her bundle of bidi and lighter down. The accused lit bidi and started smoking. In the meanwhile, she also came down from the tree and while coming down the accused-petitioner allegedly raised his hand and wanted her to place foot thereon and to come down. However, she did not agree and told him that she does not want any support from him.

4. When came down, the prosecutrix inquired from the accused as to why he had come there. His reply was that he is going to village Runjha and requested her to show him path leading to the said village. On this, she told him that why he had come there and that the place from where the path leads to village Runjha is far away from here. On this the accused told her that he came there on hearing voice of girl (lady). He asked for her drat (sickle) and virtually snatched the same from her and thrown away at a distance. It is thereafter he started misbehaving with her and also asked for sexual favour. When she objected to it, he gagged her mouth and made her to lie down forcibly. He picked-up the drat lying nearby and inflicted many blows on her forehead and other parts of body. On account of that she fell unconscious and when returned in her senses found that the accused-petitioner had fled away from that place and the thumb and finger of her right hand cut.

5. The matter was reported to the police by her son Sanjay Bahadur, the complainant. The applications for grant of bail having been filed twice were dismissed by learned Sessions judge and learned Additional Sessions Judge, Sirmaur District at Nahan vide orders annexed to this petition

6. The orders passed by learned Sessions Judge on 14.12.2015 reveals that the application was dismissed with the observations that the investigation is still in progress and the prayer of the accused for the grant of bail can be considered after the investigation is complete. Now vide order dated 31.3.2016, passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, the application has been dismissed on the grounds that the accused-petitioner may influence the prosecution witnesses or may commit similar type of offence.

7. The accused-petitioner is 22 years of age. He belongs to village Puning, under Police Station, Baijnath, District Kangra. According to learned counsel, he is a labourer and doing the work of cutting, conversion and sawing of trees. He was working as such in the areas around District Sirmaur at the relevant time. There is no past criminal history in his credit to make this Court to believe that he may commit similar offence if admitted on bail.

8. Though it may not be proper to make any observations touching the merits of the case, however, suffice would it to say that in view of the investigation conducted in the case, further detention of the accused-petitioner is not warranted. No doubt, thumb and finger of the right hand of the prosecutrix were allegedly found to have been cut and the cut pieces were recovered by the police, however, she did not return to senses even when the accused had chopped her thumb and finger; it is difficult to believe so at this stage when she fell unconscious, the accused may have subjected her to sexual intercourse. The prosecution may produce evidence to prove its case in this regard; however, the accused petitioner is not required to be detained any further in custody. The prosecution witnesses are none-else but the prosecutrix, her son the complainant, and Ram Lal, who informed the complainant that his mother was lying unconscious. The accused petitioner, who belongs to District Kangra, cannot be believed to be so influential so as to win over the prosecution witnesses or tamper with the prosecution case, if admitted on bail. Challan against him has already been filed. The trial is at the stage of consideration of charge. He may not abscond or flee away from justice, suitable conditions can be imposed upon him so that his presence can be ensured during the course of trial also.

9. In view of the above, this petition succeeds and the same is accordingly allowed. Consequently, it is ordered that the accused-petitioner, who has been arrested in connection with FIR No.76/15, Police Station, Pachhad and presently confined in judicial custody, shall be released on bail, subject to his furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rs.10,000/- with one surety in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned trial Court and shall further abide by the following conditions:-

That he shall;

a. regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

b. keep on visiting Police Station, Pachhad, District Sirmaur periodically, i.e. once in two months and shall keep on informing the Station House Officer, about his whereabouts till the statements of material prosecution witnesses are recorded.

c. not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

d. not make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Investigating Officer;

e. not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

10. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses his liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him; the Investigating Agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

11. The observations hereinabove shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition and have no bearing on the merits of the case. The application stands disposed of.

For the appellant : Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Senior Advocate with Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents :Mr. Karan Singh Kanwar, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 to 3.
Mr. D.S. Nainta, Addl. Advocate General, for respondent No. 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (Oral)

The erstwhile Himachal Pradesh State Electricity Board (defendant No. 2 in the trial Court) is in second appeal. Defendant No. 2 is aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by learned Additional District Judge, Sirmour district at Nahan in Civil Appeal No. 45-N/13 of 2000 whereby the appeal has been dismissed and the judgment and decree dated 30.3.1999 passed by learned Civil Judge Ist Class, Court No. 1, Paonta Sahib, District Sirmour in Civil Suit No. 6/1 of 1993 has been affirmed.

2. Respondents No. 1 to 3 (hereinafter referred to as the plaintiffs) claim themselves to be owner in possession of the suit land measuring 0-1 biswa bearing Khasra No. 418/358, Khata No. 140min/238 and "Khokhas" constructed thereon situated at village Kolar, revenue estate Dhaula Kuan Tehsil Paonta Sahib, District Sirmour. Admittedly, S/Shri Ami Chand and Fateh Singh were the owners of the suit land. Plaintiffs No. 1 and 2 claim that it was acquired by their father late Shri Prem Chand by way of oral sale from the owners. On the death of Prem Chand, it is they who inherited the suit property along with their mother Smt. Parkasho. Said Smt. Parkasho has allegedly sold her share to plaintiff No. 3 Dharam Singh. They initially had raised construction of "Khokhas" on the suit land. Now they have raised construction of three pucca shops of brick, masonry. They were in continuous, peaceful and exclusive possession of the suit property without any interference from anyone including the defendants. They, however, came to know that defendant No. 1 (respondent No. 4 herein) had acquired the suit property vide award No. 60/72 dated 22.4.1972. The suit land after acquisition was transferred in favour of appellant-defendant No.2. The Assistant Collector Ist Grade, Paonta Sahib has initiated eviction proceedings against the plaintiffs vide order dated 23.10.1992. The warrant of possession was issued and the Field Kanungo had to take possession of the suit land after demolition of the structures in-existence thereon. However, before the warrant of possession is executed, the plaintiffs had obtained the copy of mutation No. 142 dated 20.8.1987 whereby the land was transferred in favour of the defendant-State. The plaintiffs had claimed that they cannot be evicted from the suit land in view of the same being not acquired in accordance with law. Therefore, they filed the suit and sought declaration that they are owners in possession of the suit property and that the attestation of mutation No. 142 dated 20.8.1987 on the basis of award No. 60/72 is wrong, illegal and not binding on them and also that mutation No. 580 which has been attested in favour of defendant No. 2 subsequently on 30.6.1992 is also illegal, null and void. The proceedings initiated against them under Section 163 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act and order of eviction dated 23.10.1992 being illegal were also sought to be declared as null and void. As a consequential relief, the said defendant was sought to be restrained from causing any interference in the peaceful possession of the plaintiffs over the suit land.

3. The defendant No.1 had contested and resisted the suit. In preliminary, objections qua jurisdiction of the trial Court to try and entertain the suit, the same bad for want of service of legal and valid notice under Section 80 CPC and also that there exists no enforceable cause of action in favour of the plaintiffs and against the defendants were raised. The suit was also sought to be dismissed being time barred. On merits, it was claimed that S/Shri Ami Chand and Fateh Chand were the recorded owners of the suit land at the time of acquisition. The suit land was acquired after complying with all codel formalities prescribed under the Land Acquisition Act. Compensation as determined was received by S/Shri Ami Chand and Fateh Singh. It is, therefore, claimed that Assistant Collector Ist Grade, Paonta Sahib has rightly initiated the proceedings under Section 163 of the Land Revenue Act against the plaintiffs and the order of eviction passed on 23.10.1992 is legal and valid.

4. The defendant No.2 though had filed separate written statement, however, on the similar lines on which the defendant No. 1 has contested the suit.

5. The replication was also filed. On the pleadings of the parties, following issues were framed:

1. Whether plaintiff are owners in possession of the suit property, as alleged?....OPP
2. Whether plaintiffs are bonafide purchasers with consideration and without notice of the suit property, as alleged? ....OPP
3. Whether mutation No. 142 dated 20.8.87 and mutation dated 20.6.1992 are wrong, void and illegal as alleged?....OPP
4. Whether ejectment order dated 23.10.1992 passed by Assistant Collector Ist Grade, Paonta Sahib, is wrong, void and illegal, as alleged?...OPP
5. Whether suit is not maintainable, as alleged? ...OPD
6. Whether plaintiffs have no cause of action to file the present suit as alleged?......OPD
7. Whether suit is not properly valued for the purpose of court fees and jurisdiction, as alleged? ....OPD
8. Whether the suit is barred by limitation? ...OPD
9. Whether suit is bad for non-joinder of section 80 CPC? ......OPD
10. Whether defendant No. 2 became the owner of the suit land as a result of acquisition of the landed property, as alleged? OPD-2
11. Whether in the alternative, defendants are entitled to receive cost of the land underneath the shops of the plaintiffs, without ejecting the plaintiffs from the said shops, as alleged ? ....OPD

11-A. Whether the original owner Sh. Ami Chand had sold 0-1 biswa land to Sh. Prem Chand in the year 1969, as alleged. If so, to what effect? .....OPP

12. Relief.

6. The parties on both sides have produced oral as well as documentary evidence in support of their claims and counter claims. Learned trial Court on appreciation of the evidence available on record has arrived at a conclusion that Shri Prem Chand, the predecessor-in-interest of plaintiffs No. 1 and 2 had acquired the suit land by way of oral sale well before the same was acquired, therefore, the acquisition proceedings were held illegal, null and void. The plaintiffs have been held to be joint owners in possession of the suit land. The suit as such was decreed as a whole.

7. The defendant No.2, no doubt, had assailed the judgment and decree passed by the trial Court in the Lower Appellate Court, however, unsuccessfully because learned Lower Appellate Court has dismissed the appeal and affirmed the judgment and decree passed by the trial Court. The legality and validity of the impugned judgment and decree have been questioned on the grounds, inter alia, that at the time of issuance of notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act the recorded owners of the suit land were S/Shri Ami Chand and Fateh Singh. The notification under Section 4 of the Act was issued purposely to invite interested persons and raise objection(s), if any, to the acquisition proceedings. The plaintiffs never staked their claim during the course of the proceedings conducted under the Land Acquisition Act. Consequently, Land Acquisition Collector has assessed the market value of the acquired land and made award No. 60/1972 on 22.4.1972. The compensation was paid and received with respect to the acquired land by S/Shri Ami Chand and Fateh Singh. The suit land as such has rightly been transferred initially in the name of the respondent-State and subsequently in favour of the appellant-defendant No. 2. Both Courts below have allegedly failed to appreciate the given facts and circumstances and also the evidence available on record. The appeal though has been admitted on substantial questions of law at Serial Nos. 1 to 4 on page-7 of the paper book. There are, however, only three substantial questions of law at page-7, which read as follows:

1. Whether a person can claim any interest in any land/property which has been acquired by the Government under the provisions of Land Acquisition Act and compensation as awarded by Land Acquisition Collector has been deposited with him?
2. Whether the Civil Court has any jurisdiction to declare the Land Acquisition proceedings to be null and void if the notifications under Sections 4 to 6 are not personally served on any interested persons but are otherwise duly notified?
3. Whether the application for additional evidence under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC was dismissed without any cogent reasons?

8. Before coming to the substantial questions of law as formulated, it is worth mentioning that the plaintiffs during the course of arguments has come forward with the version that the suit land is now no more required by the defendants. On the request made by learned Counsel, they were allowed to make representation to the Appellant-Board and also Public Works Department to explore the possibility that the suit land if not required can be de-notified from Acquisition or not. The order in this behalf passed on 18.3.2015 reads as follow:

> "Learned Counsel representing respondents No. 1 to 3 submits that the land in dispute most probably is now not required by the defendant-Board for the purpose, the same is acquired, as according to him, the road stood constructed on the spot over some other land. The suit land is still in possession of respondents No. 1 to 3 and that the shops they constructed are in existence thereon. They, therefore, intend to approach the appellant-Board and also Public Works Department to whom the road now stood transferred to explore the possibility as to whether the suit land can be de-notified from acquisition. Learned Counsel seeks time for the purpose. Allowed.
> List on 27th May, 2015. This Court be informed about the progress, if any, made in this regard n the date fixed."

9. The representation made by the plaintiffs came to be decided by the Additional Chief Secretary, Public Works Department to the Government of Himachal Pradesh vide order dated 24.5.2015, which has been placed on record and reads as follow:

> "The Hon'ble High Court vide order dated 06-10-2015, directed the Secretary (PWD) to pass an order on the representation of the respondents who prayed that land comprised in khasra No. 418/358, be de-notified and land returned to the owners.
> 2. The HPSEB had acquired land for the construction of Giri Power House and constructed the road from Dhaulakuan to Giri Nagar. HPSEB in the year 2011, transferred the road to PWD for maintenance etc., and the acquired width of said road is 20 meters (70 ft.). Accordingly, a demarcation was also obtained, wherein the field Kanungo pointed out that land of the representationist does not come in the acquired width of the road, although a part of the road so acquired has not been mutated in favour of the Government and matter has been taken up by the PWD authorities with the Revenue Department.

3. A personal hearing was given on 17.05.2016, wherein Superintending Engineer (HPSEB), Superintending Engineer, HPPWD, Nahan and Executive Engineer, HPPWD, Paonta Sahib attended, it was stated that Government acquired the land vide award No. 60/72 dated 22.04.1972, from Shri Amin Chand and Fateh Singh. Mutation vide No. 142 dated 20.08.1978, was entered, some portion of the land was further mutated in favour of HPSEB vide mutation No. 580 dated 30.04.1992. After mutation ejectment proceedings were initiated under section-163, of H.P. Land Revenue Act, 1954 and eviction order was also passed on 23.10.1992, against certain encroachers. During the hearing the Superintending Engineer, HPSEB stated that the road was constructed in the year 1969 and actual construction cost of the road was Rs. 0.59 lac. The taking over and handing over certificates from HPSEB to PWD, is also part of record, wherein it is stated that the total acquired width of road is 70 ft., 35 ft. on either site from the centre line of the road i.e. side burms as per the PCC burjis fixed the metalled road width is 4.50 mtrs. (average) and the maintained width of cause way in Sunkar Khala Nallah is 6.00 mtr., in Konthri Khala Nallah is 5.75 mtr & in Mandi Khallah Nallah is 5.25 mtr.

4. The Superintending Engineer, HPPWD Nahan has also stated that the junction of the said road is located at RD 83/500 on the Kala Amb Paonta Sahib NH-72 (New No. NH-7), and the acquired width of the NH from the centre line is 15.29 meters. That the road to Giri Nagar bifurcates at this junction and de-notifying the acquired land will add to traffic hazard and be a danger to motorists. Further the acquired width of the road to Giri Nagar may be required for future upgradation of road infrastructure. Therefore, the department is not keen to de-notify any of the land which stands acquired w.e.f. 1970's. On the contrary encroachments on acquired/controlled width should be removed under the H.P. Land Revenue Act, 1954 or H.P. Road side Control Act. The respondents have stated that the structures put up by them are not a hindrance to the traffic and they have not occupied the acquired or controlled width. This aspect need to be taken cognizance of by the SDM (Collector), Paonta Sahib. In so far as plea regarding de-notifying the land is concerned, the same cannot be accepted. Accordingly the representation is rejected and accordingly disposed off."

10. Not only this, but in support of the order passed by defendant No. 1 a site plan also came to be placed on record. On going through the same, this Court has observed in the order dated 30.5.2016 that the suit land is within the acquired width of Giri Nagar-Perduni road. This order also reads as follow:

"In support of the order placed on record on the previous date, learned Additional Advocate General has also placed on record the site plan to show that the land in dispute is within the acquired width of Giri Nagar Perduni road. The order and the site plan reveal that the disputed land and dhara in existence thereon is the property acquired for the construction of Giri Nagar Perduni Road. The record produced by the appellant-defendant Board also reveals that the suit land was acquired and the compensation received by one Ami Chand, admittedly the predecessor-in-interest of the respondents. In this view of the matter, the judgment and decree under challenge, prima-facie, is unsustainable. However, Mr. Karan Singh Kanwar, Advocate, learned Counsel representing the respondents-plaintiffs seeks time to have instructions in the light of the order and site plan now placed on record. Allowed. List on 20.6.2016."

11. In view of the order ibid passed by this Court and also the order passed by the Additional Chief Secretary, Public Works Department to the Government of Himachal Pradesh, it would not be improper to conclude that the suit land has been acquired by defendant No. 1 for being used by defendant No. 2. The same situate within the acquired width of Giri Nagar-Perduni road and in the map placed on record during the course of proceedings in this appeal denoted by shops No. 1, 2 and 3 in yellow colour. The boundary of the road has also been shown with red pencil in the map. The suit land is inside the boundary of the road. The order passed by the Additional Chief Secretary also reveals that the compensation was paid and received by Ami Chand and Fateh Singh. No doubt, in the application under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC filed for adducing additional evidence in the Lower Appellate Court it has come that Rs.46/- was deposited in State Bank of India at Nahan on 24.4.2012 through Nahan treasury. However, learned Lower Appellate Court being influenced with the factum of Prem Chand, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs No. 1 and 2 was not associated during the acquisition proceedings has dismissed the appeal.

12. Now if coming to substantial questions of law, the suit land has been acquired by defendant No. 1 for being used by the beneficiary i.e. defendant No. 2. It has come in the evidence that the Land Acquisition Collector has passed award No. 60/72 dated 22.4.1972 and also paid the compensation. The evidence further reveals that the suit land in the revenue record was entered in the name of S/Shri Ami Chand and Fateh Chand at the time of its acquisition. Shri Prem Chand, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs never appeared before the Land Acquisition Collector during the course of the proceedings conducted and the notification(s) issued under the Provisions of the Act. True it is, that while disbursing the compensation, it transpired that one biswa of land out of the acquired land belongs to Prem Chand, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs. The compensation i.e. Rs.46/- due and payable in lieu thereof has been deposited in State Bank of India, Nahan branch. When the suit land has been acquired under the provisions of Land Acquisition Act, both Courts have failed to appreciate the legal position in its right perspective. As a matter of fact, no declaration against the acquisition of the suit land should have been sought by filing the suit. The remedy was available to the plaintiffs under the Act itself. This aspect of the matter has not been appreciated by both Courts below in its right perspective.

13. As a matter of fact, the application filed under Order 41 Rule 27 of the Code of Civil Procedure should have been allowed and the additional evidence taken on record to decide the lis judiciously and effectively. It has, however, not done and the application under Order 41 rule 27 CPC has also been dismissed mechanically and without application of mind. On acquisition of the suit land in accordance with law and the award of just and reasonable compensation, the attestation of mutation No. 142 dated 20.8.1987 in favour of defendant No. 1 and subsequently mutation No. 580 dated 30.6.1992 in favour of defendant No. 2, it is now the appellant-defendant No. 2 owner of the suit land. The plaintiffs are in possession thereof, however, without any right title or interest, hence trespassers. True it is, that even a trespasser cannot also be evicted from the land in his possession save and except under due process of law. As a matter of fact, the Assistant Collector Ist Grade has already initiated the eviction proceedings against the plaintiffs and such proceedings initiated against them on 23.10.1992 have been sought to be declared illegal, null and void. In view of the discussion hereinabove, the said order is absolutely legal and valid and the declaration as sought should have not been granted. Similarly, the plaintiffs are not entitled to perpetual injunction as they are in unlawful possession of the suit land. When they have already been ordered to be evicted by the Compeptent Authority from the suit land the suit for decree of perpetual injunction has also been erroneously decreed. Having said so, the judgment and decree under challenge is not legally and factually sustainable and as such, deserves to be quashed and set aside.

14. For all the reasons hereinabove, this appeal succeeds and the same is accordingly allowed. Consequently, the impugned judgment and decree is quashed and set aside. No order so as to costs.

15. Before parting, this Court would like to observe that the plaintiffs, if so, advised may seek remedy available to them in accordance with law including seeking release of the compensation lying deposited in State Bank of India, Nahan branch through treasury at Nahan.

16. The appeal stands disposed of accordingly. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Sh. Roshan Lal ....Petitioner.
Versus
Sh. Beli Ram and others ......Respondents.

CMPMO No. 4157 of 2013
Date of decision: 14th July, 2016

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 39 Rules 1 and 2- Plaintiffs filed a civil suit pleading that M was owner of the suit land to the extent of 1/8th share- Will was executed by M in favour of 'D' – suit land is ancestral and cannot be bequeathed - ad-interim injunction was prayed which was declined by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed- defendant was restrained from alienating, transferring or creating any charge over the suit land- held, that Aks Shazra Nasab Malkaan prima facie shows that land was inherited by the parties from their grand-father- hence, nature of the property is proved to be ancestral - allowing defendant to alienate, encumber, dispose or even change the nature of the suit land will lead to multiplicity of litigation, which may not be in the interest of the parties- Appellate Court had rightly granted the injunction- petition dismissed. (Para-8 and 9)

For the petitioner: Kanwar Bhupinder Singh, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. K.R. Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge (Oral).

Petitioner herein is the defendant in Civil Suit No. 96-I/11. The respondents are the plaintiffs. Their predecessor-in-interest Shri Med Ram was owner of the suit land detailed in para 1 of the plaint situated in Mauza Dhanda, Tehsil Shimla (Rural), District Shimla to the extent of 1/8th share. The total land is 85-11 bighas. The 1/8th share of Shri Med Ram therein comes to 10-14 bighas. Deceased Med Ram has allegedly executed a will dated 22.06.1995, a copy whereof has been placed on record by the parties on both sides. The suit land, as per this will, has been bequeathed by deceased Med Ram in favour of the petitioner-defendant in exclusion of his remaining sons and daughters, the plaintiffs.

2. The plaintiffs have sought declaration to the effect that the suit land being ancestral in nature has been inherited by them along with defendant, their brother in equal shares. In view of the ancestral nature of the suit land, the same could have not been bequeathed in favour of defendant and in exclusion of the plaintiffs. Therefore, the will has been sought to be declared as illegal, null and void and as a consequential relief, decree for permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendant from interfering with the lawful ownership and possession of the plaintiff over the suit land and also restraining him from transferring, selling, mortgaging or creating any third party interest over the suit land as well as encumbering the same in any manner whatsoever has also been sought.

3. Along with the suit, an application, registered as CMA No. 102-6 of 2011 under Order 39 Rules 1 and 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure was also filed for grant of ad-interim injunction restraining the defendant during the pendency of the suit from alienating, encumbering or disposing of the suit land in any manner whatsoever. Learned trial Court on hearing the parties and also going through the record has arrived at a conclusion that neither there exists a prima-facie case in favour of the plaintiffs nor balance of convenience lie in their favour. Also that, they will not suffer irreparable loss and injury in case the injunction is not granted. The application as such, was dismissed vide order dated 07.04.2012, Annexure 'A' with the observations that the alienation of the suit property by the defendant will otherwise be subject to the order passed by this Court as per the provisions of Transfer of Property Act.

4. The plaintiffs have assailed the order Annexure 'A' in appeal, registered as Civil Miscellaneous Appeal No. 10-S/14 of 2012. Learned Additional District Judge (I), Shimla has allowed the appeal vide order dated 02.08.2013 and quashed the impugned order dated 07.04.2012. Consequently, the defendant has been restrained from alienating, transferring, or creating any charge over the suit land till the main suit is pending disposal.

5. It is this order, which has been assailed, in this petition on the grounds inter-alia that no documentary proof is produced by the plaintiffs to establish ancestral nature of the suit land. The plaintiffs have been given the land at Village Galot in lieu of the suit situated at village Dhanda. The will was executed in the year 1995 and the testator died in the year 2006. The plaintiffs have never challenged the will during the life time of the testator till the filing of the present suit in the year 2011. All these material facts have been ignored by learned lower appellate Court and to the contrary passed the impugned order on surmises and conjectures without appreciating the pleadings and documents produced by the parties on both sides in its right perspective.

6. Mr. Bhupinder Singh Kanwar, learned counsel representing the petitioner-defendant has strenuously contended that by virtue of the will, which is duly registered, it is the defendant, who is owner in possession of the suit land. According to him, ancestral nature of the suit land is not at all established. Also that, in lieu of the suit land, the plaintiffs have been given land in village Galot, by their father deceased Med Ram, the testator. Mr. Kanwar, while drawing the attention of this Court to the prayer made in the plaint has pointed out that the plaintiffs have claimed their share in the suit land to the extent of 16.25 square meters each, which according to him, corresponds to ½ biswa of land in bigha. Therefore, in view of the meager share they claimed in the suit land, the defendant cannot be restrained from using the same in a better manner as per his convenience.

7. On the other hand, Mr. K.R. Thakur, learned counsel representing the respondents-plaintiffs has drawn the attention of this Court to the detail of the suit property given in paras 1 and 2 of the plaint and contended that the same is 10-14 bighas. The plaintiffs and defendant are owner thereof in equal share i.e., around 2 bighas, which according to Mr. Thakur is 00-16-25 hectares. He has also clarified that in the prayer clause, each share should have been mentioned as 00-16-25 hectares, instead of 16.25 square meters. In order to establish the ancestral nature of the suit land, he has relied upon the copy of 'Aks Shazra Nasab' (pedigree table).

8. On analyzing the rival submissions and also the record of this case, owner of the suit land admittedly was Med Ram, predecessor-in-interest of the parties on both sides. The defendant claims himself to be the exclusive owner thereof on the basis of will dated 22.06.1995. True it is that as per recitals in this document the suit property, which is situated at village Dhanda in Tehsil Shimla (Rural), District Shimla has been bequeathed by the testator aforesaid Shri Med Ram in favour of defendant. The plaintiffs, however, claim their ownership and possession to the extent of equal shares therein. According to them they are in physical possession of the suit land on the spot. Their further claim is that the suit land being ancestral could have not been bequeathed by way of a will and rather each co-sharer has right to inherit the same on the death of owner thereof, Shri Med Ram. Mr. Kanwar, learned counsel has, however, vehemently disputed the ancestral nature of the suit land, as according to him, no documentary evidence is available at this stage to establish all characteristics of ancestral property. He has relied upon Para 292 of Hindu Law and Usage by Mayne's 50th Edition, which provides that the property inherited by a person from a direct male ancestor not exceeding three degrees higher than himself is ancestral property. The plaintiffs have placed reliance on the 'Aks Shazra Nasab Malkaan' (pedigree table), which prima-facie reveals that the parties on both sides have inherited the suit land from their grand-father, Kanshi Ram. The inheritance, therefore, prima-facie is from a direct male ancestor exceeding three degrees higher than themselves. Therefore, at this stage, it is difficult to believe that the suit land is not ancestral. Otherwise also, the plaintiffs only intend that the defendant should not alienate, encumber, transfer or change the nature of the suit land in any manner whatsoever during the pendency of the suit. They have not sought the interim relief to the effect that he should be restrained from causing interference therein. The defendant, as such, has every right to use the suit land to the extent of the same is in his possession. However, to allow him to alienate, encumber or dispose of and even change the nature of the suit land in any manner whatsoever during the pendency of the suit would amount to multiplicity of litigation and also result in other legal complications of like nature, which may not be in the interest of the parties and also in fair play, equity and justice. Therefore, while concurring with the findings recorded by learned lower appellate Court that prima-facie a case is made out in favour of the plaintiffs-respondents and the balance of convenience also lie in their favour, it would not be improper to affirm the order under challenge and dismiss this petition.

9. For all the reasons hereinabove, this petition fails and the same is accordingly dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE AJAY MOHAN GOEL, J.

State of Himachal Pradesh …. Appellant

Versus

Dagu Ram …. Respondent

RSA No. 217 of 2007
Reserved on: 07.07.2016
Date of decision:14.07.2016

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 100- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for recovery of Rs. 81,100/- on the ground that he was owner in possession of two storeyed house- A middle school was opened in the Village- son of the plaintiff was persuaded by the Headmaster of the Primary School and the villagers to provide accommodation of three rooms- three rooms were allotted to the School- one room in the upper story was occupied by the Headmaster- plaintiff demanded the rent for the premises, which was not paid, on which suit was filed- suit was dismissed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed- held, in second appeal that possession of the suit premises had been handed over to plaintiff by the State – plaintiff was estopped from filing the suit because of his own act and conduct- Middle School started running in the premises on the basis of affidavit given by the son of plaintiff - legal notice was served in September, 2002- no material was placed on record to show as to what action was taken by the plaintiff for occupying the premises from the date of occupation till September, 2002 unauthorizedely – plaintiff was residing in the same premises, where the school was being run- therefore, an inference can be drawn that premises were handed over to the defendant by son of the plaintiff with his consent and permission and that's why he remained silent for two years- further, no material was brought on record to show that plaintiff is entitled to the amount - appeal allowed and judgment of the Appellate Court set aside. (Para-11 to 16)

Case referred:
Sunderabai w/o Devrao Deshpande and another Vs. Devaji Shankar Deshpande, A.I.R. 1954 S.C. 82 (Vol. 41, C. N. 23)

For the appellant: Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Additional Advocate General with Ms. Parul Negi, Deputy Advocate General.
For the respondent: Mr. Lalit Sehgal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.:

By way of the present appeal, the State has challenged the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned District Judge, Kinnaur at Rampur Bushahr, in Civil Appeal No. 75 of 2004, decided on 02.07.2005, vide which, learned Appellate Court has allowed the appeal of the present respondent and set aside the judgment passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Rampur Bushahr, in Civil Suit No. 34-1 of 2003 dated 24.08.2004.

2. This appeal was admitted on 14.03.2008 on the following substantial questions of law:-

> "1. Whether the Ld. Appellate Court below has misread and misconstrued the evidence on record.
>
> 2. Whether the finding of the lower Appellate Court are vitiated on account of misinterpretation of the Law of estoppel and promissory estopped.
> 3. Whether the Ld. District Judge has wrongly and erroneously overlooked the implied consent and the acquiescence of the Plaintiff."

3. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of the present case are that the respondent/plaintiff hereinafter referred to as the plaintiff, filed a suit for recovery of Rs.81,100/- on the ground that he was owner in possession of two storeyed house comprising three rooms in each storey situate in Muhal Munish Bahli, Tehsil Rampur, District Shimla, H.P. i.e. the suit property. His further case was that in September, 2000, village Munish Bahli was allotted Middle School by upgrading the Primary School, which existed in the village. The building housing the Primary School was not having sufficient accommodation for the classes of Middle School. The son of the plaintiff Saran Dass was persuaded by the Headmaster of the Primary School and the villagers to provide accommodation of three rooms in the lower storey of the demised premises and a writing in the form of affidavit was got executed from him i.e. the son of the plaintiff and possession of the lower storey was thus allotted to the school. According to the plaintiff, the son of the plaintiff had no legal authority to allot the accommodation without seeking permission from the plaintiff and that too without claiming any rent for an indefinite period. According to the plaintiff, one room in the upper storey was also being occupied by the Headmaster, Government Middle School Munish Bahli and no rent was being paid for the same. The plaintiff issued a legal notice to the Headmaster, Government High School Munish, who had the supervisory authority over the Middle School Munish Bahli, for vacating the accommodation unauthorizedly given by the son of the plaintiff without his consent. According to the plaintiff, the accommodation i.e. four rooms were being unauthorizedly occupied and no rent was being paid and loss was being caused to the agricultural crop and to the apple crop for the last two years, which had caused loss to the tune of Rs.50,000/- to the plaintiff. According to the plaintiff, he was also entitled to the amount of Rs.30,000/- as use and occupation charges of the four rooms w.e.f. 06.09.2000 to 30.09.2002 and thereafter also. On these basis, the plaintiff filed a suit for recovery of Rs.81,100/- with future interest at the rate of 9% per annum from the date of filing of the suit till realization of the amount claimed.

4. In the written statement filed by the State, it denied the case of the plaintiff. According to the defendant, Saran Dass son of the plaintiff who was owner in possession of the said building had given three rooms to the defendant department for running the Middle School in that building and when these rooms were given for running the school at that time the building was in the possession of Saran Dass and he had given an affidavit to that effect. The defendant denied that Saran Dass was not competent to provide the said accommodation to the department. It was further mentioned in the written statement that the building was handed over by Saran Dasss in September, 2000 and thereafter the plaintiff had never shown his unwillingness for the act of his son and as such, the plaintiff was estopped from filing the present suit by his own act, as the plaintiff had given his passive consent to run the Middle School and to provide the accommodation through his son. It was further submitted that neither the plaintiff nor his son Saran Dass were entitled to claim any rent because they had given their consent to make the Middle School functional before providing accommodation to the defendant department. It was also denied that the Headmaster or any other teacher of the school had occupied extra rooms in the disputed building as alleged. The factum of loss being caused to apple orchard and its fruits etc. either by the school was also denied. It was denied that the rooms were occupied by the defendant unauthorizedly as alleged by the plaintiff. It was further mentioned that there a policy decision of the Government of Himachal Pradesh to the effect that the beneficiaries of the schools upgraded shall provide accommodation for the school premises free of cost and it was a pre-requisite condition that the school shall become functional only if suitable accommodation as per norms of the Education Department is handed over to the Government by the people of the area. The defendant relied upon the affidavit sworn in by Saran Dass son of the plaintiff vide which he gave possession of three rooms voluntarily to make the Middle School functional in his village.

5. On the basis of the pleadings, the following issues were framed by the learned trial Court:-

1. Whether the son of the plaintiff was not legally competent to hand over the possession of the disputed building and land to the defendant, as alleged? … OPP
2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the plaintiff is entitled to use and occupation charges thereof as claimed? … OPP
3. Whether any damage has been caused to the apple orchard of the plaintiff. If so, whether the defendant is liable to pay a sum of Rs.50,000/- as damages to the plaintiff as alleged? … OPP
4. Whether Saran Dass, son of the plaintiff, was owner in possession of the suit premises and was thus competent to execute and handover the possession of the premises to the defendant as alleged? … OPD
5. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act and conduct from filing the present suit as alleged? … OPD
6. Whether the suit is not maintainable? … OPD

6-A. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of eviction as alleged? … OPP

7. Relief.

6. On the basis of material placed on record, the learned trial Court returned the following findings on the issues so framed:-

Issue No. 1	Rendered redundant.
Issue No. 2	No.
Issue No. 3	No.

Issue No. 4	Partly No.
Issue No. 5	Yes.
Issue No. 6	Yes.
Issue No. 6-A	No.
7.	Suit dismissed, as per operative part of the judgment.

7. Accordingly, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit filed by the respondent/plaintiff by holding that it clearly emerged out of the pleadings of the parties that Saran Dass son of the plaintiff had handed over the possession of three rooms in the lower storey of the building to the defendant in the month of September, 2000 and thereafter Government Middle School started running there. Learned trial Court held that son of the plaintiff was 40 years old and was having a family which showed that he was a mature person. It further held that it was the pleaded case of the plaintiff that the villagers of village Bahli as well as the Headmaster of Government Primary School had persuaded Saran Dass to hand over the possession of three rooms of double storey building to the school and in pursuance thereof, he handed over the possession thereof to the school authorities. The learned trial Court observed that the plaintiff had not specifically pleaded in his plaint as to where he was when the aforesaid negotiation took place but in his cross-examination he had admitted that he had come back to the house in the evening. Accordingly, the learned trial Court held that this proved that the plaintiff had come back to his home on the same evening i.e. on the day when the school was opened. The learned trial Court further held that even if it is assumed that the plaintiff was not present in the village and that the negotiation took place behind his back, even then he was required to show as to what steps he had taken when he came back to village and came to know about the handing over of the building by his son to the Education Department without his consent. The learned trial Court further held that the plaintiff did not take any steps till 04.03.2002 i.e. when he sent a letter addressed to the Headmaster. Accordingly, the learned trial Court held that the plaintiff remained dormant for two years after the opening of the school, which reflects that he had approbated the conduct of his son in handing over the building in question to the Education Department. The learned trial Court further held that the running of a school could not be said to be such an event which could have had gone un-noticed by the plaintiff for such a long period. On these basis, the learned trial Court held that the plaintiff was estopped by acquiescence from filing the suit. Accordingly, the suit of the plaintiff was dismissed by the learned trial Court. However, it observed that since the defendant had been apprised of the real picture about the ownership of the building, it would take necessary steps in near future for creating its own infrastructure.

8. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by the learned trial Court, the plaintiff filed an appeal which was allowed by the learned First Appellate Court vide its judgment dated 02.07.2005. The learned Appellate Court while allowing the appeal decreed the suit of the plaintiff for eviction of the defendant from the suit premises and also for use and occupation charges quantified at Rs.20,000/- with interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of suit to the date of decree. The suit of the plaintiff for damages quantified at Rs.50,000/- for loss to apple crop, was dismissed. While arriving at the said conclusion, the learned Appellate Court held that the reasons given by the learned trial Court in concluding that the plaintiff was present at the time of handing over of possession of the suit property to the representative of the defendant were entirely fallacious, as DW-2 who was present at the time of handing over the premises by the son of the plaintiff to the defendant, categorically deposed in his cross-examination that at the time of handing over the possession of the suit premises, the plaintiff was not present. The learned Appellate Court further held that the delay on the part of the plaintiff to take measures to seek restitution of the suit property cannot bar his remedy as delay was not such a blatant delay that it would have invited the learned trial Court to draw inference that the plaintiff had acquiescenced in the act of his son. The learned Appellate Court further held that evidence had come to the effect that the plaintiff and his son resided separately and in this view of the matter, the learned trial Court could not have fastened the principle of estoppel on plaintiff to an act of the son of the plaintiff who was residing separately from the plaintiff and who was not present at the time of handing over of the possession of the suit premises to the representative of the defendant. Accordingly, the learned Appellate Court held that the suit of the plaintiff seeking eviction of the defendant from the suit premises was decreed. The learned Appellate Court further held that a sum of Rs.30,000/- had been claimed by the plaintiff from the defendant on the score that the sum constitutes a reasonable sum on account of use and occupation charges payable by the defendant. However, the basis of the estimation of the said amount was unsubstantiated. Accordingly, the learned Appellate Court held that a sum of Rs.20,000/- was an adequate and reasonable amount payable to the plaintiff by the defendant and accordingly, it passed a decree for Rs.20,000/- being the sum for use and occupation charges payable by the defendant to the plaintiff with interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of suit till the date of decree was awarded in favour of the plaintiff.

9. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court, the State has filed the present appeal.

10. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by the Courts below.

11. In my considered view, the learned Appellate Court has totally misread and mis-appreciated the evidence on record while coming to the conclusion that the plaintiff was entitled for a decree of eviction as well as an amount of Rs.20,000/- as use and occupation charges from the present appellant. The findings returned by the learned Appellate Court that the learned trial Court proceeded to non-suit the plaintiff on the premise that the son of the plaintiff had executed the affidavit aforesaid at a time when the plaintiff, too, was present at the site, are perverse and not borne out from the record. The findings which have been returned by the learned trial Court are to the effect that the plaintiff had not specifically pleaded in his plaint as to where he was when the negotiations took place about the handing over the possession of rooms of his building by his son to the department and he had tried to show at the time of evidence that at the relevant time he was not present in the village when the school was opened. Thereafter, the learned trial Court after relying upon the cross-examination of the plaintiff had concluded that the plaintiff had come back to his village in the evening, which shows that the plaintiff was in his house on the same evening when the school was opened.

12. I refer to the statement of plaintiff, who has entered the witness box as PW-1. In his cross-examination, first he sated that it was correct that when the school came to his house he was there. Thereafter, he stated that he was not there, he had gone with his cattle and he returned back in the evening. He has also stated that he had not made any report to the police or other officers of the Education Department about the unauthorized occupation of his premises. Incidentally, the plaintiff has not impleaded his son as a defendant in the case. He admitted in his cross-examination that Middle School was opened only after his son has given in writing that they will allow the school in his premises without charging any rent.

13. From this, it is evident that the findings returned by the learned Appellate Court while decreeing the suit of the plaintiff partly are a result of misreading and misconstruing the pleadings as well as the documentary evidence placed on record by the parties.

14. It is pertinent to mention that the possession of the suit premises in issue has already been handed over by the State to the plaintiff. It was further the common case of the parties before this Court that now the only thing which has to be adjudicated upon is whether the defendant is liable to pay the decretal amount, as has been decreed by the learned Appellate Court as use and occupation charges or not.

15. In my considered view, the judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court to this effect in favour of the plaintiff is also not sustainable in law. The learned Appellate Court has erred in not appreciating that the learned trial Court had rightly concluded that the plaintiff was estopped from filing the suit because of his own act and conduct. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sunderabai w/o Devrao Deshpande and another Vs. Devaji Shankar Deshpande, A.I.R. 1954 S.C. 82 (Vol. 41, C. N. 23), that estoppel is a rule of evidence and when one person has by his declaration, act or omission caused or permitted another person to believe a thing to be true and to act upon such belief neither he nor his representative shall be allowed in any suit or proceeding between himself or such person and his representative to deny the truth of that thing.

16. In the present case, the Middle School started running in the premises of the plaintiff on the basis of the affidavit given by his son in September, 2000. The suit was filed by the plaintiff on 25.03.2003. Before this, he had served a legal notice on the defendant dated 30.09.2002. No material has been placed on record by the plaintiff as to what action he took against the defendant for unauthorizedly occupying his premises from September, 2000 till September, 2002. As already noted above, the plaintiff has not impleaded his son as a defendant in the suit. It is not the case of the plaintiff that he was not residing in the same village in which premises where the school was running were situated. Rather, the plaintiff was residing in the part of the same premises where the school was being operated since September, 2000. From this the only inference which can be drawn is that the premises were handed over to the defendant by the son of the plaintiff with his consent and permission and that is the only reason why the plaintiff remained quite from September, 2000 till September, 2002, when in all probabilities he initiated the process of eviction in order to get his premises back from the department and to achieve his design he came up with his concocted story of the premises being handed over to the department by his son without his permission. Not only this, the learned Appellate Court has arrived at the amount of Rs.20,000/-, which has been decreed in favour of the plaintiff alongwith interest on conjectures because there is no material on record referred to by the learned Appellate Court to substantiate and justify as to how the learned Appellate Court had arrived at this amount. Therefore, the judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court is not sustainable in law and the same is a result of misreading and misconstruing the evidence on records as well as misinterpreting the law of estoppel. The substantial questions of law are answered accordingly.

17. Accordingly, keeping in view the findings which have been returned above, the present appeal is allowed with cost and the judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court is set aside. Miscellaneous application(s) pending, if any, stand disposed of and interim order(s), if any, also stand vacated.

Industrial Disputes Act, 1947- Section 25- L was appointed as Daily Rated Beldar in January, 1994- his services were terminated in December, 1994 without assigning any reasons- many new persons were engaged and juniors were retained- his termination was in violation of principle of last come first go- L died during the pendency of the proceedings- Labour Court passed the award in favour of the legal representatives directing that son of L be given service in place of L- aggrieved from the award, present writ petition has been filed- held, that L had died on 12.4.2008- he was born in 1944, he would have superannuated from services on attaining the age of 60 years - Tribunal was bound to answer and to grant appropriate relief claimed in the claim petition- there was no reference, "whether son of workman was to be given employment or not" - award modified and direction issued to pay back wages from the date of raising industrial dispute dill date of superannuation. (Para-11 to 18)

Cases referred:

Raghubir Singh Vs. General Manager, Haryana Roadways, Hissar (2014) 10 Supreme Court Cases 301

Jasmer Singh Vs. State of Haryana and another (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 458

For the petitioner: Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Addl. A.G.

For the respondents: Mr. Neel Kamal Sood and Mr. Vasu Sood, Advocates.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. :

By way of present writ petition, the petitioner has challenged the award passed by the learned Presiding Judge, Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla in Reference No. 92 of 2005 dated 16.06.2009. The learned Tribunal vide award dated 16.06.2009 has granted the following relief:

> "As a sequel to my above discussion and findings on issue No. 1 to 3, the claim of the deceased petitioner Shri Lachi Ram succeeds and is hereby allowed and as such Shri Ram Lal, son of original petitioner Shri Lachi Ram is ordered to be given service forthwith against the job of his father from the date of passing of this award i.e. 16.06.2009 without seniority, continuity and back wages being fresh appointee. Let a copy of this award be sent to the appropriate Government for publication in the official gazette. File, after completion, be consigned to records."

2. Brief facts necessary for adjudication of the present case are that one Shri Lachhi Ram raised an industrial dispute on the basis of which, the following reference was made by the appropriate Government:

> "Whether the termination of services of Shri Lachhi Ram, S/o Shri Attru Ram workman by the Executive Engineer, HPPWD Division Arki, District Solan, H.P. w.e.f. December, 2004 without complying with the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 is proper and justified? If not, what relief of service benefits and amount of compensation the above aggrieved workman is entitled to?"

3. Pursuant to said reference, a claim petition was filed by Shri Lachhi Ram before learned Court below, in which it was stated that he was initially appointed as Daily Rated Beldar by the respondents (present petitioner) in January, 1994 and after his appointment, he worked as such till December, 1994 when his services were terminated without assigning any reason. His case further was that during his service period, he had continuously worked and completed more than 240 days in a calendar year and after December, 1994, he was not allowed to work despite requests. Therefore, as per the claimant, the termination of his service was unlawful and illegal and was in violation of the provisions of Sections 25-F, 25-G and 25-H of the Industrial Disputes Act, as within the same Sub-division/Division, many new persons were engaged and junior persons were retained and it was only the claimant who was thrown out of job. Thus, according to the claimant, his termination was in violation of the principle of 'last come first go.' On these grounds, he prayed that the respondents be directed to reinstate him with retrospective effect with all consequential benefits, back wages, continuity of service, seniority, regularization, promotion etc.

4. In its reply to the said claim petition, the employer-department stated that the claimant was engaged in November, 1993 and in the calendar year 1993, in the months of November and December, he worked only for 55 days. It was emphatically denied that he worked in the year 1994 till December as alleged. As per the department, in the year 1994, he worked only for 198 days and that too up to August. Thereafter, the petitioner left the work at his own. Thus, according to the department, as the claimant had left the work of his own will, there was no question of violation of the provisions of Sections 25-F, 25-G and 25-H of the Industrial Disputes Act by the department. Though the factum of persons junior to the applicant being retained by the department and fresh persons being engaged by the department was not specifically denied in the reply, however, the stand of the department was that the claimant never approached the respondents after August, 1994 and his whereabouts were not known to the respondents. On these basis, the department denied the claim of the workman.

5. On the basis of the pleadings of the parties, the learned Court below framed the following issues:

> 1. Whether the service of the petitioner has been illegally terminated without complying the provisions of the I.D. Act? If so, its effect? OPP
>
> 2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmation, to what relief the petitioner is entitled to? OPP
>
> 3. Whether the petitioner has abandoned the job at his own as alleged? OPR
> 4. Relief.

6. On the basis of the material produced on record by the parties, learned Court below returned the following findings to the said issues:

> Issue No. 1: Yes.
>
> Issue No. 2: LR of the original petitioner Shri Lachhi Ram, his son Ram Lal is ordered to be given service forthwith against the reinstatement of his father without back wages and seniority.
>
> Issue No. 3: No.
>
> Relief: Reference answered in affirmative per operative part of award.

7. On the basis of findings so returned, learned Labour Court passed the award in favour of the legal representatives of the claimant who died during the pendency of the Reference Petition in the terms as has already been mentioned above.

8. Mr. V.S. Chauhan, learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the award passed by the learned Court below is liable to be quashed and set aside on the ground that the same is perverse for the reason that the relief which had been granted by the learned Labour Court was beyond its jurisdiction. According to Mr. Chauhan, even if it was assumed that the services of the claimant were terminated by the department in violation of the statutory provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, even then at the most learned Labour Court could have had granted the relief in favour of the workman from the date when he raised the industrial dispute till the date of his superannuation and there was no authority vested with the learned Labour Court to have had directed that Shri Ram Lal, son of claimant Shri Lachhi Ram be given the service forthwith against the job of his father from the date of passing of the award.

9. Mr. Neel Kamal Sood, learned counsel for the respondent, on the other hand argued that there was no infirmity with the award passed by the learned Labour Court and it cannot be said that the relief which had been granted by the learned Labour Court was beyond its authority or jurisdiction.

10. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case.

11. In my considered view, there is considerable force in the arguments of learned Additional Advocate General that learned Labour Court could not have granted relief in the mode and manner in which it had been granted by the impugned award. The death certificate of late Shri Lachhi Ram reveals that he died on 12.04.2008. The petitioner-State has placed on record alongwith the death certificate of deceased Lachhi Ram the relevant extract of the Pariwar register of deceased Lachhi Ram issued under signatures of Secretary, Gram Panchayat Mangoo, Tehsil Arki, District Solan, as per which, the year of birth of Shri Lachhi Ram is mentioned as 1944. This fact has not been disputed or denied by the learned counsel for the respondent. Petitioner-State has also produced on record as Annexure P-4, a copy of the demand notice issued by late Shri Lachhi Ram, which is dated 01.08.2002. Taking the date of birth of deceased Lachhi Ram as the year 1944, he would have had superannuated from service on attaining the age of 60 years (which is the superannuation age for Class-IV employees) in the year, 2004.

12. It is also an undisputed fact that though according to late Shri Lachhi Ram, his services were arbitrarily terminated in the year, 1994, but the industrial dispute was raised by him as late as in the year, 2002 by way of issuance of demand notice dated 01.08.2002.

13. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Raghubir Singh Vs. General Manager, Haryana Roadways, Hissar (2014) 10 Supreme Court Cases 301 that even if there are delay and latches on the part of workman in raising the industrial dispute and getting the same referenced for adjudication, the Labour Court is statutorily duty bound to answer the points of dispute referred to it by adjudicating the same on merits of the case and it ought to have moulded the relief appropriately in favour of the workman. Relevant paragraph of the said judgment is quoted hereinbeow:

> "45. It is an undisputed fact that the dispute was raised by the workman after he was acquitted in the criminal case which was initiated at the instance of the respondent. Raising the industrial dispute belatedly and getting the same referred from the State Government to the Labour Court is for justifiable reason and the same is supported by law laid down by this Court in Calcutta Dock Labour Board (supra). Even assuming for the sake of the argument that there was a certain delay and latches on the part of the workman in raising the industrial dispute and getting the same referenced for adjudication, the Labour Court is statutorily duty bound to answer the points of dispute referred to it by adjudicating the same on merits of the case and it ought to have moulded the relief appropriately in favour of the workman. That has not been done at all by the Labour Court. Both the learned single Judge as well as the Division Bench of the High Court in its Civil Writ Petition and the Letters Patent Appeal have failed to consider this important aspect of the matter. Therefore, we are of the view that the order of termination passed by the respondent, the award passed by the Labour Court and the judgment & order of the High Court are liable to be set aside. When we arrive at the aforesaid conclusion, the next aspect is whether the workman is entitled for reinstatement, back wages and consequential benefits. We are of the view that the workman must be reinstated. However, due to delay in raising the industrial dispute, and getting it referred to the Labour Court from the State Government, the workman will be entitled in law for back wages and other consequential benefits from the date of raising the industrial dispute i.e. from 02.03.2005 till reinstatement with all consequential benefits."

14. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jasmer Singh Vs. State of Haryana and another (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 458 has held as under:-

> "21. The said relief in favour of the appellant-workman, particularly the full back wages is supported by the legal principles laid down by this Court in the case of Deepali Gundu Surwase v. Kranti Junior Adhyapak Mahavidyalaya wherein the Division Bench of this Court to which one of us was a member, after considering three-Judge Bench decision, has held that if the order of termination is void ab initio, the workman is entitled to full back wages.

22. The relevant para of the decision is extracted hereunder:- (Deepali Gundu case, SCC p.344, para22)

"22. The very idea of restoring an employee to the position which he held before dismissal or removal or termination of service implies that the employee will be put in the same position in which he would have been but for the illegal action taken by the employer. The injury suffered by a person, who is dismissed or removed or is otherwise terminated from service cannot easily be measured in terms of money. With the passing of an order which has the effect of severing the employer employee relationship, the latter's source of income gets dried up. Not only the concerned employee, but his entire family suffers grave adversities. They are deprived of the source of sustenance. The children are deprived of nutritious food and all opportunities of education and advancement in life. At times, the family has to borrow from the relatives and other acquaintance to avoid starvation. These sufferings continue till the competent adjudicatory forum decides on the legality of the action taken by the employer. The reinstatement of such an employee, which is preceded by a finding of the competent judicial/quasi judicial body or Court that the action taken by the employer is ultra vires the relevant statutory provisions or the principles of natural justice, entitles the employee to claim full back wages. If the employer wants to deny back wages to the employee or contest his entitlement to get consequential benefits, then it is for him/her to specifically plead and prove that during the intervening period the employee was gainfully employed and was getting the same emoluments. Denial of back wages to an employee, who has suffered due to an illegal act of the employer would amount to indirectly punishing the concerned employee and rewarding the employer by relieving him of the obligation to pay back wages including the emoluments."

15. In my considered view, learned Tribunal was bound to answer the points of disputes referred to it by adjudicating the same on merit and appropriate relief could have been granted keeping in view the reference made and reliefs claimed by the workman in the claim petition. Reference before the learned Labour Court was not to this effect as to whether son of deceased workman Lachhi Ram was entitled for appointment after the death of Shri Lachhi Ram on the basis of alleged illegal termination of Shri Lachhi Ram by the respondent-department. This very important aspect of the matter has been ignored by the learned Tribunal below.

16. Therefore, the learned Labour Court has erred in directing the department to offer employment to son of the deceased/claimant from the date of passing of the award. At the best the relief which could have been granted by the learned Labour Court in favour of the deceased claimant was re-engagement and back wages from the date when he raised the industrial dispute till the date of his superannuation. No more relief could have been granted by the learned Labour Court in view of the fact that the claimant had raised the industrial dispute at a very belated stage. Not only this, the learned Court below could not have directed the present petitioner to offer appointment to Shri Ram Lal, son of original petitioner Shri Lachhi Ram, as has been directed by it. This direction has been passed in excess of the jurisdiction conferred upon the learned Labour Court under the Industrial Disputes Act while deciding a matter pertaining to violation of Sections 25-F, 25-G and 25-H of the Industrial Disputes Act.

17. However, keeping in view the fact that the matter pertains to a workman who died during the pendency of the adjudication of the reference petition and there is a definite finding arrived at by the learned Labour Court to the effect that the termination of the deceased claimant was in violation of the statutory provisions of Industrial Disputes Act, in my considered view, the interest of justice will be served by directing the petitioner-department to pay to the respondents (legal representatives of deceased claimant) the back wages of deceased claimant w.e.f. the date he raised the industrial dispute, i.e. 01.08.2002 till the date of his superannuation in the year, 2004.

18. The writ petition is accordingly allowed in the above terms and the award passed by the learned Labour Court to the effect that son of deceased workman be given appointment from the date of death of deceased workman is quashed and set aside. The findings arrived at by the learned Labour Court to the effect that the termination of deceased workman was in violation of the statutory provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act are not disturbed and the petitioner-department is directed to pay to the respondents the back wages of deceased workman as were accruable to him w.e.f. 01.08.2002 till the date of his superannuation in the year 2004. The amount due to the respondent be released within a period of three months from today, failing which, the petitioner-department shall be liable to pay interest on the same at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of this judgment till the date of actual payment. No order as to costs.

CWP No. 421 of 2010.
Decided on: 14.7.2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- One G filed an application for partition of the land, which was allowed by Assistant Collector 1st Grade- present petitioner R challenged the order by filing an appeal – order of partition was upheld – order was challenged by R in revision petition, which was allowed and the case was remanded to Assistant Collector 1st Grade for a fresh decision- Assistant Collector 1st Grade passed an order of partition, which was again challenged by filing an appeal- appeal was dismissed- a revision was preferred and the case was recommended to Financial Commissioner (Appeals) with observations that opportunity of being heard was not given to the petitioner – Financial Commissioner set aside the recommendation made by the Collector and upheld the order of partition- held, that Financial Commissioner had rightly held that Collector Sirmaur had no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal or a revision- however, Financial Commissioner had erred in upholding the order of partition- parties should have been given an opportunity to assail the order before the appropriate authority- writ petition allowed and the order modified to the extent that parties will have liberty to assail the order before appropriate authority under Land Acquisition Act. (Para-5 to 7)

For the petitioners.	Mr. Karan Singh Kanwar, Advocate.
For respondents 14(a) to (f).	Mr. R.K. Gautam, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Megha Kapoor Gautam, Advocate.
For respondent No.16.	Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Addl. Advocate General.
For remaining respondents	Ex parte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J (Oral)

The present petition has been filed praying for the following reliefs:-

"i) Issue a writ of certiorari or direction in the nature of writ of certiorari quashing/ setting aside order dated 22.1.2007 (Annexure p-10), passed by respondent No.16 and report dated 7.11.2009 (Annexure P-II);

ii) Issue a writ of Mandamus or direction in the nature of writ of Mandamus restraining respondents from proceeding further against the petitioners on the basis of order dated 22.1.2007 (Annexure P-10) and report dated 7.11.2009 (Annexure P-II)."

2. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case.

3. Brief facts necessary for adjudication of the present case are that Gulzar Singh filed an application for partition of land subject matter of the petition which was allowed by Assistant Collector 1st Grade on 26.12.1992. Present petitioner Ratna challenged the said order by way of an appeal which was filed before Collector Sub Division, Paonta Sahib. Collector Sub Division, Paonta Sahib upheld the order of Assistant Collector 1st Grade and dismissed the appeal on 8.6.1993. This order was challenged by Ratna by way of revision petition before District Collector Sirmaur who vide order dated 24.2.1995 allowed the revision petition and remanded the case back to Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Paonta Sahib for fresh decision.

4. Assistant Collector again adjudicated upon the matter and passed an order of partition on 7.2.1997. This order was again challenged in appeal by Ratna Ram in the Court of Collector Paonta Sahib, Sub Division vide Rev. Appeal No. 7 of 2010 which was decided on 31.3.1998, vide which order the said appeal was dismissed by Collector Paonta Sahib, Sub Division. Order dated 3.3.1998 was thereafter challenged by way of revision petition before District Collector who vide order dated 17.7.1999 recommended the same to Financial Commissioner (Appeals) with observations that opportunity of being heard was not granted to the petitioner and that Naksha 'A' was incomplete and further that Farad Kabza had not been prepared and there were cuttings and overwriting in the field book prepared during the partition proceedings.

5. Learned Financial Commissioner vide order dated 22.1.2007 has set aside the orders/recommendations made by Collector Sirmaur on the ground that the order passed by the said authority was without any jurisdiction because an order which had been passed by Collector Sub Division, Paonta Sahib while exercising the powers conferred upon him under the Land Revenue Act could have been challenged by way of an appeal or revision under Sections 14 and 17 of the Land Revenue Act only before Divisional Commissioner. On these bases the Learned Financial Commissioner held that serious illegality has been committed by the District Collector, Sirmaur in entertaining the revision petition and as the recommendation made by District Collector on 17.7.1999 was beyond jurisdiction (as he had no authority to entertain and adjudicate the appeal/revision against the order of Sub Divisional Collector who enjoyed parallel powers of Collector under HP Land Revenue Act), therefore, there was no occasion for the Learned Financial Commissioner to adjudicate upon the issues which were raised in the revision petition before the Collector or the recommendations made by District Collector on 17.7.1999. The learned Financial Commissioner thereafter went on to uphold the order of partition dated 26.12.1992 passed by Assistant Collector 1st Grade as well as the order passed in appeal by Collector Sub Division, Paonta Sahib dated 8.6.1993.

6. In my considered view, the findings which have been returned by the Learned Financial Commissioner with regard to the factum of Collector Sirmaur having acceded his jurisdiction in entertaining and adjudicating upon the appeal/revision which were filed before the said authorities against the order passed by Sub Divisional Collector, Paonta Sahib while exercising the powers of Collector under the Land Revenue Act cannot be said to be incorrect or perverse. The Learned Financial Commissioner has rightly held that Collector Sirmaur had no jurisdiction to entertain either an appeal or revision under the provisions of Section 14 or 17 of the HP Land Revenue Act against an order which was passed by an authority also exercising the powers of Collector under the Act. Therefore, there is no infirmity or perversity with the findings which have been so returned by the Collector.

7. Though the Learned Financial Commissioner has rightly held that Collector Sirmaur had no jurisdiction to entertain and adjudicate either appeal or a revision against an order which was passed by an authority exercising the powers of Collector under the Land Revenue Act, however, the Learned Financial Commissioner has erred in thereafter upholding the order of partition dated 26.12.1992 passed by AC 1st Grade and the order passed in appeal against the said order by Sub Divisional Collector, Paonta Sahib on 8.6.1993. Once the Learned Financial Commissioner had come to the conclusion that the orders passed by Collector Sirmaur were beyond jurisdiction then the Learned Financial Commissioner should have had set aside the order so passed or recommendation so made by Collector Sirmaur without further venturing to either make any observation or pass any order on merit. In fact the appropriate course would have had been to grant liberty to the petitioner to assail the order passed by Collector, Sub Division Paonta Sahib before the appropriate authority in accordance with the provisions of Sections 14 and 17 of the HP Land Revenue Act rather than returning a finding to the effect that order of partition dated 26.12.1992 and subsequent order passed by Sub Divisional Collector dated 8.6.1993 were upheld.

Therefore, in view of my findings returned above, the writ petition is disposed of by upholding the order passed by Learned Financial Commissioner to the extent it has set aside the order passed by Collector Sirmaur on the ground of want of jurisdiction but the subsequent part of the order, vide which the Learned Financial Commissioner has upheld order of partition dated 26.12.1992 as well as order passed by Sub Divisional Collector dated 8.6.1993 are set aside with liberty granted to the petitioner to assail the said orders before the appropriate authority under the provisions of Land Revenue Act. No order as to cost.

Mr.Suneet Goel, Advocate, for respondent No.3.
Nemo for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 15th April, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Kinnaur Civil Division at Rampur Bushahr, H.P. (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.76 of 2008, titled Birbal and others vs. Prabhu Chand and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.2,04,500/-, alongwith interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till realization, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with the liability, (for short the "impugned award").

2. Feeling aggrieved, the claimants by the medium of instant appeal have challenged the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation and the insurer has filed the Cross Objections laying challenge to the impugned award on the ground that the Tribunal has wrongly saddled it with the liability.

3. Thus, following two questions are to be determined in the instant appeal:

i) Whether the amount of compensation awarded by the Tribunal is inadequate?

ii) Whether the insurer came to be rightly saddled with the liability?

4. At the time of accident, the deceased was 10 years of age. The Tribunal in paragraph 17 of the impugned award, after discussing the facts and exercising the guess work, held that the claimants were entitled to Rs.2,04,500/- as compensation. The Tribunal has rightly made the assessment and has rightly awarded the compensation, cannot be said to be on the lower side. Accordingly, the amount of compensation awarded by the Tribunal is upheld.

5. Coming to the next question, it was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, has not led any evidence to prove the said fact. Learned counsel for the insurer argued that the insurer has filed an application, being CMP No.91 of 2013, under Section 41 Rule 27 read with Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure for placing on record a surveyor report, in order to prove that the driver of the offending vehicle, at the time of accident, was not having a valid and effective driving licence.

6. The said application (CMP No.91 of 2013) deserves to be dismissed for the simple reason that the insurer cannot be permitted to defeat the right of the claimants at this belated stage. Moreover, it was for the insurer to plead and prove, by leading evidence, before the Tribunal that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, which it has not done despite affording sufficient opportunities. Therefore, once the insurer has failed to prove before the Tribunal that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, it does not lie in the mouth of the insurer to argue at this stage that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence. Accordingly, the application (CMP No.91 of 2013) is dismissed and the finding returned by the Tribunal on issue No.3 are upheld.

7. Learned counsel for the insurer also argued that the claim petition was not maintainable and the owner has committed willful breach, has not led any evidence, as discussed hereinabove. Accordingly, the findings on issues No.4 and 5 are also upheld.

8. Onus to prove, that the claim petition was collusive, was on the insurer, has not led any evidence to prove the said factum. Moreover, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.6 are not questioned by the learned counsel for the insurer during the course of hearing. Accordingly, the same are upheld.

9. Having said so, the appeal as well as the cross objections are dismissed and the impugned award is upheld.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice, (Oral)

These appeals are outcome of the judgment and award dated 13.1.2011, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, (III) Shimla, H.P., in MAC petition No. 67-S/2 of 2006, titled Sh. Lal Singh alias Lali versus Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd and others, for short "the Tribunal", whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.7,93,000/- alongwith interest @ 6% per annum, came to be awarded in favour of the claimant, and owner came to be saddled with the liability, hereinafter referred to as "the impugned award", for short.

2. Owner has questioned the impugned award by the medium of FAO No. 129 of 2011, on the ground of saddling him with the liability and the claimant, by the medium of FAO No. 239 of 2012 has questioned the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation.

3. Thus, the questions to be determined in these appeals are:

(i) Whether the Tribunal has rightly saddled the owner with the liability and discharged the insurer?;

(ii) Whether the amount awarded is adequate?

4. It was the positive case of the claimant before the Tribunal that deceased Meera Devi was the wife of claimant Lal Singh, who was dealing with vegetables. As per averments contained in para 10 of the claim petition, she was travelling in the offending vehicle alongwith her goods. It is apt to reproduce para 10 of the claim petition herein.

> "10. The deceased was travelling in the vehicle No. HP-62-0289 from Dhali alongwith her goods when the vehicle reached near village Shankli it met with an accident."

5. Owner-Respondent No.2 has admitted paras 8 and 10 of the claim petition. It is apt to reproduce paras 8 and 10 of the reply herein.

> "8.Contents of para-8 of the petition are admitted.
> 9.....
> 10. Contents of para-10 are also admitted. The deceased was travelling in vehicle No. HP-62-0289. She boarded the vehicle alongwith her goods and she paid freight to the driver of the replying respondent and she was going to Shankli alongwith her goods."

6. The driver has also admitted para 10 of the petition. It is apt to reproduce para 10 of the reply filed by the driver-respondent No.3 herein.

> "Contents of paras 8, 9 and 10 of the petition are not denied."

7. It is an admitted fact that the deceased was travelling in the vehicle as owner of the goods and has paid freight. There was no need to frame such an issue. It appears that the Tribunal has framed the said issue, in view of the reply of the insurer.

8. I have gone through the pleadings and the evidence on record. One comes to an inescapable conclusion that it is admitted fact that the deceased was travelling in the offending vehicle as owner of the goods and has paid freight. Thus, she cannot be said to be travelling in the offending vehicle as unauthorized passenger. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 6 are set aside and it is held that the deceased was travelling in the offending vehicle as owner of the goods.

9. Issue No.7. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the owner has committed willful breach. The insurer has failed to prove that the owner has committed willful breach. Having said so, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 7 are upheld.

10. The Tribunal has decided issues No. 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 in favour of the insurer. There is no challenge to these issues. Thus, the findings returned on these issues are upheld.

11. As discussed hereinabove, findings on issue No. 6 are set aside. The question is who is to be saddled with the liability?

12. The factum of insurance is admitted. Thus, the insurer has to satisfy the award.

13. Adverting to FAO No. 239 of 2012. The question is whether the amount awarded is adequate or otherwise.

14. The amount awarded is adequate and cannot be said to be meager, for the following reasons.

15. The Tribunal has rightly made the discussions in paras 15 and 16 of the impugned award, are upheld. However, interest was to be awarded at rate of 7.5% per annum, for the following reasons.

16. It is a beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281*;* Satosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others*, reported in* 2012 AIR SCW 2892*;* Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others reported in (2012) 11 SCC 738*;* Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others*, reported in* 2014, AIR SCW 2053*;* Kalpanaraj & others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn*., reported in* 2014 AIR SCW 2982*;* Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others*, reported* in (2015) 4 SCC 433*, and* Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another*, reported* in (2015) 4 SCC 434*,* and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

17. Accordingly, interest @7.5% per annum is awarded from the date of claim petition till realization of the amount.

18. The insurer is directed to satisfy the award and is directed to deposit the amount within eight weeks from today. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimant, through payees' cheque account or by depositing the same in his bank account, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award. Statutory amount of Rs.25,000/- is awarded as costs in favour of the claimant.

19. Viewed thus, the appeal being FAO No. 129 of 2011 is allowed, the impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove and FAO No. 239 of 2012 is dismissed.

20. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

Act, 1985- Section 20 and 29- A Maruti Alto Car occupied by accused was checked - a white coloured bag was found lying near the gear- 2.5 kg charas was recovered from the bag- the accused was tried and convicted by the Trial Court – held in appeal, car was intercepted at 1:10 p.m. at an isolated place – PW-5 was sent to procure witnesses but none could be found- statements of official witnesses inspire confidence- recovery was effected from the bag kept in the car- provision of Section 50 was not required to be complied with - the prosecution case was proved beyond reasonable doubt and the accused was rightly convicted by the Trial Court- appeal dismissed. (Para 15-19)

For the appellants: Mr. B.L.Soni, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

The accused have come in appeal against the judgment dated 5.3.2016, rendered by the learned Special Judge (II), Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P., in Sessions Case No. 2-N/VII/2014, whereby the appellants-accused (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who were charged with and tried for offences punishable under Sections 20 & 29 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the Act), have been convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years and to pay a fine of Rs. 1,00,000/-each for offence under Section 20 read with Section 29 of the Act. In default of payment of fine, each of them was ordered to suffer rigorous imprisonment for a period of six months.

2. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that on 30.8.2013, police party headed by ASI Ajeet Kumar, In-charge, PP Kandwal was on patrolling in the area for crime detection along with HC Bir Singh, HHC Naresh Kumar, LHC parvinder Kumar and Const. Shashi Pal at Bhadroya Chowk, Old Link Road, Damtal at 1:10 AM. One Alto Car No. HP-44-4100 occupied by the accused came from Kandwal side. It was stopped for checking. A white bag was found lying near the gear lever. On checking the bag, charas was recovered. The driver disclosed his identity as Deen Mohammad. The place was isolated and as such independent witnesses could not be associated. Charas weighed 2.5. kg. It was sealed in a cloth parcel with five seals of seal impression “A”. The IO filled in the NCB form in triplicate and drew facsimile of seal “A” on a separate piece of cloth. The seal after use was handed over to HC Bir Singh. The case property was taken into possession vide separate seizure memo in the presence of witnesses. Rukka was prepared and handed over to HHC Naresh Kumar with direction to deposit the same at PS Nurpur. On receipt of rukka, FIR was registered. The case property was produced before SHO Tilak Singh, PS Nurpur, who resealed the same with five seals of seal impression “T”. The facsimile of seal “T” was also taken on a separate piece of cloth. SHO Tilak Singh filled in the relevant columns of NCB form. The investigation was completed and the challan was put up before the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as sixteen witnesses. The accused were also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. According to them, they were falsely implicated. The learned trial Court convicted the accused, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. B.L.Soni, Advocate, has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused. According to him, neither independent witnesses were associated nor Section 50 of the Act was complied with. On the other hand, Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. AG has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 5.3.2016.

5. We have heard the learned counsel for both the sides and have also gone through the judgment and records of the case carefully.

6. PW-1 HHC Parvinder Kumar testified that he was posted as general duty Constable at PP Kandwal in the year 2013. On 30.8.2013, the police had laid naka at Bhadroya Chowk at 1:10 AM. One Alto car bearing registration No. HP-44-4100 came from Kandwal side towards them. It was signaled to stop. It was driven by accused Deen Mohammad. Chain Lal was also sitting in the Car. One bag was found near the gear liver. On checking it was found to be containing charas in the shape of sticks and balls. Charas weighed 2.5. kg. I.O. prepared the samples and sealed the same at five places with impression “A”. Rukka was also sent to the Police Station through HHC Naresh Kumar. In his cross-examination, he deposed that they had laid naka to apprehend some contraband. Some vehicles were coming and going through their naka and they were checking the vehicles. There was a toll tax barrier at a distance of one km. approximately. He admitted that 2-3 persons were present at toll tax barrier throughout. The personal search of the accused was carried out by the I.O. and thereafter recovery memo was prepared.

7. PW-4 HC Bir Singh also deposed the manner in which the Car was intercepted and contraband was recovered. The spot where the accused were apprehended was a lonely place and due to night independent witnesses could not be associated in the proceedings. The contraband was recovered. It weighed 2.5 kgs. All the codal formalities were completed at the spot. He signed memos Ext. PW-4/A and PW-4/B. In his cross-examination, he admitted that they had started from the Police Post with the motive to recover contraband and liquor etc. They had laid naka at Bhadroya Chowk. He admitted that near the spot toll tax barrier was at a distance of half a kilometer. He also admitted that employees of the barrier remained there throughout day and night. No person from the barrier was associated by them as independent witness. Kandwal was at a distance of 11 km. from the spot.

8. PW-5 HHC Naresh Kumar also deposed the manner in which the Car was intercepted, accused were apprehended and charas was recovered from the car. All the codal formalities were completed at the spot. Rukka was prepared by IO and it was sent through him to the Police Station. At Police Station, FIR was registered. Personal search of the accused was taken and thereafter recovery memo was scribed. He was sent to bring scale and weights.

9. PW-6 Raghubir Singh deposed that police persons came to him and demanded scale and weights at 8:00 AM. He was not having scale and weights. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he has signed some documents at the instance of the police.

10. PW-8 ASI Joginder Singh deposed that on 30.8.2013 ASI Ajeet Kumar presented one parcel sealed with seal impression "A" at five places containing 2.5 kg charas along with the NCB form to Addl. SHO Tilak Singh. It was resealed by SHO Tilak Singh with seal impression "T" at five places. The seal of impression was also taken on separate piece of cloth by SHO. Thereafter seal was handed over to him. Re-seal memo was prepared. The case property was handed over to MHC Pardeep Kumar to be deposited in the malkhana.

11. PW-10 HHC Subhash Chand deposed that on 1.9.2013, MHC PS Nurpur Pardeep Kumar vide RC No. 256/2013 dated 1.9.2013 handed over to him one parcel containing charas sealed with seal impressions "A" and "T" at five places along with NCB form for chemical examination at FSL, Junga. He deposited the parcel at FSL, Junga on 2.9.2013 under receipt.

12. PW-11 HC Pardeep Kumar deposed that on 30.8.2013 SHO Tilak Singh deposited one sealed parcel sealed with impression "A" and resealed with seal impression "T" at five places along with NCB form with sample seals "A" and "T" which he entered in the malkhana register. The extract of the register is Ext. PW-11/A. The case property was sent to FSL, Junga through Const. HHC Subhash Chand vide RC PW-11/B.

13. PW-13 SI Tilak Singh deposed that he registered FIR PW-13/A. The I.O. in the case also produced case property before him. He resealed the same and handed it over to MHC to be deposited in the malkhana.

14. PW-16 ASI Ajeet Kumar was the I.O. He also deposed the manner in which the Car was intercepted, accused were apprehended and charas was recovered from the car. All the codal formalities were completed at the spot. Rukka was prepared by him and it was sent through HHC Naresh Kumar to the Police Station. At Police Station, FIR Ext. PW-13/A was registered. He went to the Police Station Nurpur and handed over the case property to SHO for resealing. SHO resealed the same and also filled in the relevant columns of NCB-I form. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he sent HHC Naresh Kumar to bring independent witnesses.

There was a toll tax barrier at a distance of 100 meters from Bhadroya Chowk. Village Hagwal was in close proximity to the place of naka i.e. Bhadroya Chowk.

15. What emerges from the analysis of the evidence discussed hereinabove is that the accused were apprehended at 1:10 AM on 30.8.2013 at Bhadroya Chowk. The car occupied by the accused was intercepted. Charas was found in the bag. All the codal formalities were completed at the spot. Charas weighed 2.5. kg. It was produced before the SHO, who resealed the same and deposited it with the MHC of the Police Station. The case property was sent to FSL, Junga through Const. HHC Subhash Chand vide RC PW-11/B. The samples were found intact and seal impression also tallied with the original seal at FSL, Junga.

16. Mr. B.L. Soni, Advocate for the accused has vehemently argued that the independent witnesses have not been associated at the time of search, seizure and sealing proceedings. He also argued that toll tax barrier was at a distance of 100 meters from the spot. However, the fact of the matter is that the car was intercepted at 1:10 AM at Bhadroya Chowk. It was an isolated and secluded place. PW-16 ASI Ajeet Kumar has sent PW-5 Const. Naresh Kumar to procure independent witnesses. PW-5 HHC Naresh Kumar has also deposed that the place where the accused were apprehended was isolated and no independent witnesses could be associated. PW-4 HC Bir Singh has also deposed that the place where the accused were apprehended was lonely place and due to night independent witnesses could not be associated. Thus, every effort has been made to join independent witnesses.

17. The statements of the official witnesses inspire confidence. It is not one of those cases where the independent witnesses were available but not associated. In the instant case, the place was secluded and thus, there was no possibility of independent witnesses being available at 1:10 AM.

18. Mr. B.L.Soni, Advocate, has vehemently argued that the police has not complied with Section 50 of the Act at the time of personal search of the accused. Mr. M.A. Khan, Addl. Advocate General for the State has drawn the attention of the Court to recovery memos Ext. PW-4/A and PW-4/B. It is evident from recovery memos Ext. PW-4/A and PW-4/B that the accused were searched after their arrest. Since the charas has been recovered from the Car, Section 50 of the Act was not at all required to be complied with.

19. Thus, the prosecution has proved the case against the accused to the hilt and this Court has no occasion to interfere with the well reasoned judgment of the learned trial Court dated 5.3.2016.

20. Accordingly, there is no merit in this appeal and the same is dismissed.

For non-petitioner : Ms. Vandana Misra, Advocate

The following order of the Court was delivered:

P. S. Rana, J.

Present review petition is filed under Order XLVII Rule 1 Code of Civil Procedure 1908 for review of order dated 01.10.2015 passed in CMPMO No.405 of 2014 title Kavita Bhaskar vs. H.P. General Industries Corporation Limited.

Brief facts of the case:

2. Non-petitioner Smt. Kavita Bhaskar filed civil suit for recovery of Rs.21,318/- (Rupee Twenty one thousand Three hundred eighteen) alongwith interest and future interest @18% per annum w.e.f. 13.10.2009 against petitioner H.P. General Industries Corporation Limited. It is pleaded that non-petitioner Smt. Kavita Bhaskar carries business of sale and supply of hospital equipments and surgical items. It is pleaded that written agreement was executed inter se parties for supply of material to H.P. General Industries Corporation Limited vide invoice Nos. 2176, 2177 & 2178 dated 16.03.2009 amounting to Rs.2,95,800/- (Rupee Two lac ninety five thousand eight hundred). It is pleaded that H.P. General Industries Corporation Limited withheld an amount to the tune of Rs.21,318/- (Rupee twenty one thousand three hundred eighteen). Thereafter Smt. Kavita Bhaskar filed civil suit for recovery of amount. During pendency of civil suit Smt. Kavita Bhaskar filed application under Order XXIII Rule 1(3) Code of Civil Procedure 1908 pleaded therein that H.P. General Industries Corporation Limited took preliminary objection No.2 in written statement that as per terms and conditions of written agreement there is provision for appointment of Arbitrator as per Arbitration and Conciliation Act 1996 and Smt. Kavita Bhaskar be permitted to withdraw civil suit with permission to file claim before learned Arbitrator under Arbitration and Conciliation Act 1996.

3. Learned Trial Court dismissed the application filed by Smt. Kavita Bhaskar. Smt. Kavita Bhaskar filed CMPMO No.405 of 2014 under Article 227 of Constitution of India and same was disposed of on 01.10.2015 by the High Court and Smt. Kavita Bhaskar was permitted to withdraw civil suit with liberty to file statement of claim before Arbitrator under Arbitration and Conciliation Act 1996. Present review petition is filed for review of order dated 01.10.2015 passed in CMPMO No. 405 of 2014 by the High Court.

4. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-petitioner and Court also perused the entire records carefully.

5. Following points arise for determination:

1) Whether review petition filed by petitioner is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of review petition?

2) Final order.

Findings upon point No.1 with reasons:

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that learned Trial Court has rightly dismissed application under Order XXIII Rule 1 (3) Code of Civil Procedure 1908 and order warrants review is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that petitioner namely H.P. General Industries Corporation Limited himself took preliminary objections in written statement that civil suit is not maintainable in view of Arbitration clause in agreement. It is well settled law that parties cannot be allowed to approbate and reprobate at the same time. Person cannot be allowed to take benefit and then turn round and say that same is void. See AIR 1993 Apex Court 352 title R.N.Gosain A Vs. Yashpal Dhir.

7. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that Smt. Kavita Bhaskar did not file application to refer the matter to Arbitrator as per Section 8 of Arbitration and Conciliation Act 1996 for appointment of Arbitrator and on this ground review petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Petitioner namely H.P. General Industries Corporation Limited himself took preliminary objections in written statement that civil suit filed by Smt. Kavita Bhaskar is not maintainable in view of Arbitration clause in written agreement executed inter se parties. It is held that H.P. General Industries Corporation Limited is estopped from raising objection due to own act and conduct.

8. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that no opportunity was granted to H.P. General Inds. Corpn. Ltd. to take pleas of limitation and on this ground review petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. As per Section 23 of Arbitration and Conciliation Act 1996 Smt. Kavita Bhaskar would state the facts supporting claim, points at issue and the relief or remedy sought and thereafter H.P. General Industries Corporation Limited shall state defence. It is held that as per Section 23 of Arbitration and Conciliation Act 1996 petitioner H.P. General Industries Corporation Limited is at liberty to take all defence before Arbitrator in accordance with law. It is held that it is not expedient in the ends of justice to review earlier order passed by the High Court.

9. It is well settled law that for review purpose an error must be apparent on the face of record. It is well settled law that error must be evident. BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

ICICI Lombard Motor Insurance …..Appellant

Versus

Balak Ram Chauhan and others …. Respondents

FAO No.: 517 of 2015.

Decided on : 15.07.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was a bachelor and was a student of Engineering- Tribunal has fallen into an error in assessing his income as Rs. 4,500/- per month-by guess work, it can be safely held that he would have been earning not less than Rs. 6,000/- per month -claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs. 3,000/- per month- deceased was 22 years of age at the time of death- multiplier of '16' is applicable- claimants are entitled to Rs. 3,000 x 12 x 16 = Rs. 5,76,000/- under the head loss of source of dependency- claimants are also entitled to Rs. 10,000/- each under the heads 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses'- thus, total compensation of Rs. 5,76,000/- + Rs. 30,000/- = Rs. 6,06,000/- awarded in favour of the claimants- Tribunal had rightly saddled the insurer with the liability– appeal allowed. (Para-4 to 8)

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 171- Tribunal had awarded interest @ 9% per annum but the interest was to be awarded as per the prevailing rates- hence, rate of interest reduced from 9% to 7.5% per annum. (Para-9 and 10)

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is the award, dated 30th September, 2013, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shimla, District Shimla, H.P. (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.44-S/2 of 2009, titled Balak Ram and another vs. Gullu Transport Company and another, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.6,32,000/-, alongwith interest at the rate of 9% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till deposit, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with the liability, with the right of recovery, (for short the "impugned award").

2. The claimants and the owner have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus, the same has attained finality so far as it relates to them.

3. Feeling aggrieved, the insurer has filed the instant appeal on the following counts:

i) The Tribunal has wrongly saddled the insurer with the liability, with right of recovery;

ii) The multiplier is on the higher side;

iii) The deceased was a bachelor, therefore, 50% was to be deducted towards his personal expenses and the Tribunal has fallen into an error in deducting 1/3rd amount.

4. I have examined the pleadings and have gone through the impugned award. Admittedly, the deceased was bachelor and was a student of Engineering. It can be presumed that the deceased may have a bright future ahead. The Tribunal has fallen into an error in assessing the income of the deceased at Rs.4,500/- per month. Hypothetically and after exercising guess work, the income of the deceased can be said to be Rs.6,000/- per month.

5. Admittedly, the deceased, at the time of death, was a bachelor, therefore, in view of Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104 and upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120, 1/2 is to be deducted from the said income towards his personal expenses. Accordingly, it is held that the claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.3,000/- per month.

6. The deceased was 22 years of age at the time of death. Therefore, in view of Schedule II appended to the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 read with the judgment made by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's case supra, multiplier of '16' is appropriate and is applied accordingly.

7. In view of the above, the claimants are awarded Rs.3,000 x 12 x 16 = Rs.5,76,000/- under the head loss of source of dependency. In addition, the claimants are also awarded Rs.10,000/- each under the heads 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses'.

8. Having regard to the above discussion, the claimants are held entitled to Rs.5,76,000/- + Rs.30,000/- = Rs.6,06,000/- as compensation.

9. As far as interest is concerned, the Tribunal has awarded interest at the rate of 9% per annum. It is beaten law of land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 Supreme Court Cases 281; Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2012) 11 Supreme Court Cases 738; Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2053; Kalpanaraj & Ors. versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982; Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 433, and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

10. Having said so, it is held that the amount of compensation shall carry interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till the deposit thereof.

11. The argument of the learned counsel for the appellant/insurer that the Tribunal has fallen into an error in saddling the insurer with the liability, with right or recovery, is devoid of any force for the simple reason that the vehicle was insured and the claimants were third party. The Tribunal has rightly saddled the insurer with the liability, with right of recovery.

12. In view of the above, the appeal is allowed and the impugned award is modified as indicated above. The Registry is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants forthwith, and the excess amount, if any, be refunded to the insurer through payee's account cheque.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was working as Patwari in the revenue department and was drawing salary of Rs. 13,747/- - claimants also pleaded that deceased was an agriculturists having dairy farm and he was earning Rs.6,000/- per month from agricultural vocations and dairy farm – thus, it can be safely said that deceased was earning not less than Rs.16,000/- per month- 1/4th amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses- multiplier of '15' is applicable and the claimants are entitled to Rs. 12,000/- x 12 x 15 = Rs. 21,60,000/- under the head 'loss of income/dependency' and Rs. 10,000/- each under the heads 'loss of consortium', 'loss of estate', 'loss of love and affection' and 'funeral expenses'- thus, claimants are entitled to total compensation of Rs. 22,00,000/- along with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing the claim petition till its realization. For the appellants: Mr. J.L. Bhardwaj, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. J.R. Poswal, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 and 2.
Mr. Praneet Gupta, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to judgment and award, dated 18th March, 2011, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Solan, Camp at Nalagarh (for short "the Tribunal") in MAC Petition No. 18-NL/2 of 2009, titled as Smt. Kamlesh Kaur and others versus Shri Rajinder Kumar and others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 17,05,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with liability (for short "the impugned award").

2. The insurer, driver and owner-insured of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. The claimants have questioned the impugned award only on the ground of adequacy of compensation.

4. Thus, the core question to be determined in this appeal is – whether the amount awarded is inadequate? The answer is in the affirmative for the following reasons:

5. Admittedly, the deceased was a government servant – was working as Patwari in Revenue Department and at the relevant point of time, his monthly salary was ₹ 13,747/-, as per salary certificate, Ext. PW-5/A.

6. Though, the claimants have pleaded and proved that in addition to his service, the deceased was also an agriculturist, having a dairy farm and was earning ₹ 6,000/- per month from agricultural vocations and dairy farm, but, the Tribunal has not taken the said income into account.

7. Keeping all factors in view read with the salary certificate, Ext. PW-5/A, roughly it can be said that the deceased was earning not less than ₹ 16,000/- per month.

8. One-fourth was to be deducted towards the personal expenses of the deceased while keeping in view the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma (Smt) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in (2009) 6 Supreme Court Cases 121, which was upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari & Ors. versus Madan Mohan & Anr., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120. Accordingly, it is held that the claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of ₹ 12,000/- per month.

9. In view of the averments contained in the claim petition read with the age of the deceased, ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's and Reshma Kumari's cases (supra) and the Second Schedule appended with the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "MV Act"), multiplier of '15' is to be applied.

10. Thus, the claimants are held entitled to ₹ 12,000/- x 12 x 15 = ₹ 21,60,000/- under the head 'loss of income/dependency'.

11. The claimants are also held entitled to ₹ 10,000/- each under the heads 'loss of consortium', 'loss of estate', 'loss of love and affection' and 'funeral expenses'.

12. Viewed thus, it is held that the claimants are entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 21,60,000/- + ₹ 10,000/- + ₹ 10,000/- + ₹ 10,000/- + ₹ 10,000/- = ₹ 22,00,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the claim petition till its realization.

13. The insurer is directed to deposit the enhanced awarded amount before the Registry of this Court within eight weeks. On deposition of the amount, the entire awarded amount be released in favour of the claimants strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award after proper identification through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective bank accounts.

14. Having glance of the above discussions, the impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove, and the appeal is disposed of accordingly.

15. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

16. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

This appeal is directed against the order, dated 28th June, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Kinnaur Civil Division at Rampur Bushahr, H.P. (for short, "the Tribunal") in CMP No.274-R/6 of 2009, in Claim Petition No.111-R/2 of 2009, titled Pammi Devi & another vs. Ajay Kumar and others, whereby application under Section 140 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short, the Act), was allowed and interim compensation under no fault liability to the tune of Rs.50,000/- was granted in favour of the claimants and the owner was directed to deposit the said amount, (for short the "impugned order").

2. Feeling aggrieved, the owner has filed the instant appeal challenging the impugned order on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen into an error in saddling him with the liability.

3. It appears that the impugned order passed by the Tribunal is patently illegal and wrong for the simple reason that In terms of section 140, 141, 158(6) and 166(4) of the Act, the Claims Tribunal is required to satisfy itself while determining the petition under section 140 of the Act in respect of the following points.

i. The accident has arisen out of the use of motor vehicle;

ii. The said accident resulted in death or permanent disablement;

iii. The claim is made against the owner and insurer of the motor vehicle involved in the accident.

4. No other ground can be pressed into service at the time of determining a petition under Section 140 of the Act.

5. This Court, in FAO No.80 of 2007, titled National Insurance Co. vs. Jyoti Ram and another, decided on 19 September, 2014, and connected matters, after relying upon the pronouncements of the Apex Court, has held that Section 140 of the Act mandates that the interim award can be granted on the basis of prima facie proof to the effect that the accident is outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver of a motor vehicle, the vehicle is insured and the victim has sustained disability or has succumbed to the injury.

6. Having said so, the impugned order is set aside and the insurer is directed to pay the amount, as granted by the Tribunal, by providing that in case, at the conclusion of the case, it is proved that the vehicle was not insured or the owner had committed willful breach, the owner shall reimburse the said amount to the insurer. The amount deposited be refunded to the appellant through payee's account cheque. The impugned order is modified as indicated above and the appeal is disposed of. The Registry is directed to send down the record forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.:

By way of the present appeal, the appellant/ defendant has challenged the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi, in Civil Appeal No. 140/2003, 21/2005, dated 09.05.2006, vide which, learned Appellate Court has upheld the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Sub Judge Ist Class, Court No. 3, Mandi, in Civil Suit No. 144/99, dated 31.07.2003.

2. This appeal was admitted on 17.05.2007 on the following substantial questions of law:-

> "1. Whether an identifier can be attesting witness of the will Ex. DW2/A?
> 2. Whether there is totally misreading of the evidence of the appellant by both the ld. Courts below especially DW2, DW3, DW4 and DW6, which has caused great miscarriage of justice to the appellant?"

3. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of the case are that respondents/plaintiffs, hereinafter referred to as the plaintiffs, filed a suit for declaration with consequential relief of injunction on the ground that late Chhitru was owner in possession of the suit land to the extent of 1/4th share and he died on 18.01.1999 when he was more than 95 years of age. The plaintiffs, defendants No.2 and proforma defendant No. 4, were the daughters of late Chhitru, whereas defendant No. 3 was his widow, who had no male issue. The entire land of late Chhitru was being used, looked after and cultivated by all his daughters and widow collectively before the death of late Chhitru. They were still possessing it jointly at the time of filing of the suit. Accordingly, they were entitled to inherit the same in equal shares being first class legal heirs of late Chhitru. However, defendant No.1, husband of defendant No. 2, started proclaiming after the death of Chhitru that deceased Chhitru had executed a Will in his favour dated 01.01.1999, vide which, the entire property of late Chhitru had been bequeathed in his favour. As per the plaintiffs, late Chhitru never expected any Will in favour of defendant No. 1 and alleged document was a forged document and even if it stood proved that the thumb mark appended on the Will was of late Chhitru, even then the same was a result of fraud, misrepresentation and undue influence exercised by defendant No. 1 on late Chhitru. Accordingly, on these basis, the plaintiffs filed a suit for declaration that the alleged Will dated 01.01.1999 was null and void having been procured by fraud, misrepresentation by practicing undue influence and further, the plaintiffs be declared owners of the suit property alongwith other heirs of deceased Chhitru.

4. There are two written statements on record one filed on behalf of defendants No. 1 to 3, which is verified by defendant No. 1 and another written statement independently filed by defendant No. 3, which is duly verified by defendant No. 3.

5. In the written statement, which has been filed on behalf of defendants No. 1 to 3, it has been stated therein that after the death of Chhitru, defendant No. 1 was exclusive owner in possession of the suit land on the basis of registered Will dated 01.01.1999, which was executed by deceased Chhitru in favour of defendant No. 1 with his own free will and volition in a sound disposing state of mind. It was further mentioned in the written statement that the registered Will was validly executed by Chhitru in favour of defendant No. 1 in presence of his wife Smt. Kala Devi, defendant No. 3 and that the Will was valid and genuine one which was executed by the testator with his own free will and volition in lieu of services rendered to him by defendant No. 1 and also by defendant No. 2. It was further mentioned in the written statement that deceased Chhitru had himself come to the office of Sub Registrar, Mandi and executed and got the Will registered i.e. Will No. 1 dated 01.01.1999 in favour of defendant No. 1. It was further mentioned that testator had come to the petition writer in Mandi and got the Will scribed and thereafter, he put his thumb impression and the witnesses signed the same in presence of each other and Chhitru and witnesses thereafter went to the office of Sub Registrar, Mandi. The scribe had read over the contents of the Will to the testator, who after hearing and admitting the same as correct, had put his thumb impression thereon. Thus, it was stated that the Will in question was a genuine and valid Will.

6. Defendant No. 3 in her written statement admitted the case of the plaintiffs and stated therein that Chhitru was an extremely old man and he was illiterate and at the time of his death, he was not at all mentally sound. It was further stated in the written statement that the replying defendant (defendant No. 3), who was old illiterate lady. On 01.01.1999, defendants No. 1 and 2 told her and Chhitrru that they would get Chhitru checked up in Zonal Hospital, Mandi, as he was quite ill and on this pretext, they brought him to Mandi and thereafter, defendants No. 1 and 2 asked the replying defendant to transfer the property of late Chhitru in four equal shares in favour of his daughters, which was consented to by the replying defendant. She has further stated that Chhitru was not at all in understanding position and thereafter, papers in this regard were prepared over which her signatures as well as the signatures of Chhitru were obtained on the pretext that the property shall be divided amongst all the four daughters. However, later on defendant No. 3 came to know that defendant No.1 had got transferred the property of Chhitru in his name which document according to defendant No. 3 had been procured by defendant No. 1 fraudulently and accordingly, the said document was liable to be declared wrong, null and void.

7. On the pleadings of the parties, learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

1. Whether Shri Chhitru has executed a valid Will dated 1-1-1999 in favour of the defendant No. 1? ... OPD
2. Whether the plaintiffs have no locus standi to file the present suit? ... OPD
3. Whether the plaintiffs are estopped by their acts and deeds? ... OPD
4. Whether the alleged Will is a forged document? ... OPP
5. If issue No. 4 is not proved, whether the alleged Will is result of undue influence, misrepresentation and fraud? ... OPP
6. Relief.

8. On the basis of material placed on record by the respective parties, the said issues were answered as under:-

Issue No. 1	No.
Issue No. 2	No.
Issue No. 3	No.
Issue No. 4	Yes.
Issue No. 5	Yes.
Relief:	Suit of the plaintiffs is decreed as per operative portion of the judgment with no order as to cost.

9. The learned trial Court concluded that the Will dated 01.01.1999 was null and void being forged and procured by fraud, misrepresentation of facts and by practicing undue influence and accordingly, it decreed the suit filed by the plaintiffs. While arriving at the said decision, on the basis of the material on record, the learned trial Court concluded that it stood apparent from the statement of Lata Devi DW-6 that her father had got Will scribed and thereafter, they went to the office of Tehsildar where their statements were recorded and the Will was registered. The learned trial Court further held that DW-6 was not able to prove due execution of Will by stating that the Will was got written by the testator before document script writer and the testator thereafter signed the said Will in front of two witnesses including DW-6. The learned trial Court also held that it was not stated by DW-6 who was also the attesting witness that the witnesses signed the said Will after the same was signed by the testator. On these basis, learned trial Court concluded that due execution of the Will by the testator remained doubtful especially keeping in view the fact that DW-6 was the wife of the beneficiary of the Will i.e. defendant No. 1 and herself was defendant No.2 in the suit. The learned trial Court also held that it was clear from the statements of the witnesses on record that the deceased Chhitru was an old and illiterate man. There were cuttings on Ext.DW2/A and no separate note qua cutting and addition was given therein and same had not credibly explained by the defendants. It further held that in the said Will on the thumb impression of second witness namely Kala Devi it was not recorded that whose thumb impression it was. Accordingly, it was held by the learned trial Court that it was evident that the Will is forged and result of undue influence and misrepresentation and forgery.

10. Feeling aggrieved by judgment passed the learned trial Court, the defendant therein filed an appeal, which was dismissed by the learned Appellate Court vide its judgment dated 09.05.2006. The learned Appellate Court held that the Will propounded by defendant No. 1 Ext. DW2/A had been scribed by Bhagi Rath and M.P. Kaushal was an identifier, whereas Lata Devi and Kala Devi were shown to be the two attesting witnesses. It further held that the Will dated 01.01.1999 was stated to have been presented for registration on the same day by the testator and was registered in the office of Sub registrar, Sadar Mandi on the identification of M.P.

Kaushal. Learned Appellate Court also held that the perusal of the statement of defendant No. 1 Narottam Singh (DW-5) demonstrated that he was not the attesting witness to the execution of the Will. This witness simply stated that the deceased Chhitru executed the Will in his favour as he used to look after the deceased. Learned Appellate Court further held that the said witness had not mentioned in his statement that the Will Ext. DW2/A was executed by the deceased in the mode and manner as is provided under Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act. Said witness had not uttered a single word that the Will bears the signature/thumb impression of deceased Chhitru which was affixed by the deceased in the presence of two attesting witnesses and that two attesting witnesses had signed/thumb marked the Will in the presence of the testator. The learned Appellate Court further held that the Will was attested by two attesting witnesses Lata Devi and Kala Devi. Kala Devi was not examined by the defendants to prove the execution of the Will. On the other hand, in her written statement, Kala Devi had admitted the claim of the plaintiffs and had also pleaded that the Will was a result of fraud practised upon her and deceased Chhitru by defendant No. 1. The learned Appellate Court further held that even DW-6 Lata Devi had not stated that the Will was duly executed as per the provisions of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act. The learned Appellate Court also held that the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant/ defendant that the execution of the Will in accordance with law stood proved from the statement of DW-2 Pratap Singh, Sub Registrar, DW-4 M.P. Kaushal, identifier, and DW-3 Bhagi Rath Sharma, was also without merit. The learned Appellate Court held that the statement of DW-4 cannot be relied upon as the said witness had not appended his signatures upon the Will in order to attest the same but he simply signed the same as an identifier. It further held that a perusal of the statements of the scribe of the Will DW-3 and DW-6 also made it abundantly clear that none of these witnesses stated that DW-4 was present at the time of writing of the Will and further that the deceased had affixed his thumb impression upon the Will in the presence of DW-4 and the attesting witnesses had signed/thumb marked the Will in the presence of DW-4. Accordingly, the learned Appellate Court held that the statement of DW-4 to the effect that the entire proceeding regarding the execution of the Will was conducted in his presence was not corroborated by the scribe DW-3 as well as by DW-6. The learned Appellate Court also held that the said witnesses cannot be treated as the attesting witnesses keeping in view the fact that he has signed the Will as an identifier and not as an attesting witness. The learned Appellate Court thus also held that the defendants had failed to prove the valid execution of the Will Ext. DW2/A by Chhitru by leading convincing and satisfactory evidence and that the learned trial Court had rightly concluded that the Will in issue had not been validly executed and the same was null and void. However, the findings returned by the learned trial Court to the effect that the impugned Will was a forged document, were set aside on the ground that there was no evidence placed on record by the plaintiffs to prove that the Will in issue was a forged document or the same was a result of misrepresentation and fraud. Accordingly, the learned Appellate Court reversed the findings on Issues No. 4 and 5 but it still held that the suit of the plaintiffs was liable to be decreed as the defendants had failed to prove that deceased Chhitru had executed valid Will in favour of defendant No. 1 on 01.01.1999.

11. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court, the present appeal has been preferred by the appellant.

12. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by the learned Courts below.

13. The first substantial question of law on which the present appeal was admitted is whether an identifier can be attesting witness of the will Ex. DW2/A.

14. When I come to the facts of the present case, it is apparent from the perusal of Ext. DW2/A that two attesting witnesses to the execution of the said alleged Will are (a) Lata Devi i.e. defendant No. 2 and (b) Kala Devi i.e. defendant No. 3. M.P. Kaushal has signed the said Will as an identifier. He has not signed the said Will as an attesting witness.

15. Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act clearly laws down that every testator shall execute his Will according to the following rules:-

(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.

(b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a will.

(c) The will shall he attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary."

16. In the present case, the two attesting witnesses admittedly are Lata Devi and Kala Devi. Whereas, Lata Devi DW-6 has supported the case of the defendants with regard to the execution of the Will by the testator. The second attesting witness, namely, Kala Devi, who has been impleaded as defendant No. 3 in the suit, has not entered the witness box to support the execution of the Will and on the contrary, in her written statement, she has stated that her as well as testator signatures were procured on the alleged Will by defendant No. 1 by way of misrepresentation. It is not even the case of defendants No. 1 and 2 that M.P. Kaushal had both attested the Will and signed the same as an identifier also or that the Will was executed in his presence.

17. In my considered view had it being clarified in the Will itself that M.P. Kaushal had appended his signatures as an attesting witness as well as identifier then it would have been a different matter. However, in the absence of the same, it cannot be inferred that M.P. Kaushal was also an identifier as well as an attesting witness. Accordingly, in the facts of the present case, it cannot be held that the identifier was also the attesting witness. This Court has held in Smt. Punni Vs. Sumer Chand and others, 1994 (2) C.L.J. (H.P.)-290, which judgment has also been relied upon by the learned Appellate Court that unless sufficient and cogent evidence is led to show that the person putting his signature on document signed it for the purpose of attesting it or certifying that he has received from the executant a personal acknowledgment of his signature, he cannot be regarded as an attesting witness.

18. In the present case, there is no evidence led by the defendants to substantiate that M.P. Kaushal had put his signatures on the document for the purpose of attesting it. Therefore, by no stretch of imagination, he could be treated or termed to be an attesting witness. This substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

19. The second substantial question of law on which the present appeal was admitted is whether there is total misreading of the evidence of the appellant by both the learned Courts below especially DW2, DW3, DW4 and DW6, which has caused great miscarriage of justice to the appellant.

20. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in H. Venkatachala Iyengar Vs. B.N. Thimmajamma, AIR 1959 SC 443, that in the cases in which execution of the Will is surrounded by suspicious circumstances, it may raise a doubt as to whether the testator was acting of his own free will. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held that in such circumstances, the initial onus is on the propounder to remove all reasonable doubts in the matter. The presence of suspicious circumstances makes initial onus heavier. Such suspicion cannot be removed by the mere assertion of the propounder that the will bears signature of the testator or that the testator was in a sound and disposing state of mind at the time when the will was made.

21. In the present case, in my considered view, the propounders of the Will have failed to discharge this initial onus as they have not been able to remove all reasonable doubts in the matter.

22. Though the purpose of the Will is to deprive the natural heirs from the devolution of the property as per natural succession, however, if the Will is suspicious, then the onus is upon the propounder of the Will to remove that suspicion and if the propounder succeeds in removing the suspicious circumstances, then the Court has to give effect to the Will, even if it has cut off whole or in part near relations.

23. The statement of DW-2 Pratap Singh, Tehsildar, is of no assistance to the appellant because this witness has only deposed with regard to the registration of the Will. He is not a witness to the execution of the Will nor it is borne out from his deposition that the Will was executed by the testator as per the provisions of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act in his presence.

24. Similarly, DW-2 Bhagi Rath Sharma has deposed that he wrote the Will as per the wish of the testator. In his cross-examination, this witness has deposed that whatever document the said scribe writes, he enters the same in his register. It is also borne out from the record and his testimony that he had not produced any register before the learned trial Court to substantiate that any entry was made by him in his register with regard to his scribing the Will on the instructions of deceased Chhitru Ram.

25. Similarly, the testimony of DW-4 M.P. Kaushal, also is of no help to the appellant and his testimony does not inspire any confidence and apparently seems to be incorrect. He has deposed that he knew the testator personally and it is he who took the testator to the scribe DW-3 and the testator got the Will scribed in his presence. Thereafter, he has stated that he appended his signatures on the same "Batour Shanakhat Karta", "Batour Pehchan Karta". Thereafter, he has stated that Lata Devi and wife of Chhitru appended their signatures and thumb impressions respectively in his presence. He has further deposed that he also identified Chhitru before the Tehsidlar. However, DW-6 Lata Devi has not uttered even a single word that Chhitru had gone to DW-4 and thereafter, DW-4 took them to the scribe. On the contrary, what the said witness has stated is that they came by bus and went to the scribe where her father got the Will prepared and thereafter, they went to Tehsil where their statements were recorded and where the Will was registered. In her cross-examination, she has stated that at the time of execution of the Will, her father was 90 years old. She has also stated that her father died 18 days after the execution of the Will. Thus, it is apparent from the statement of this witness that the factum of presence of DW-4 at the time of execution of Will is no where stated by her. Not only this, none of the witnesses have deposed that the alleged Will was executed by the testator as per the provisions of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act.

26. Further, if we peruse the statement of DW-5 Narottam Singh in his cross-examination, he has stated that his father-in-law was 95 years old and his mother-in-law was 85 year old and both of them were illiterate. It is further apparent and evident from his statement that he has played major role in the execution of the said Will. Even this witness has not stated that the testator of the Will was taken to the scribe by DW-4 and that the Will was executed in front of DW-4. Therefore, by no stretch of imagination, it can be said that there is any misreading of the evidence of the appellant by the learned Courts below, which has caused any miscarriage of justice to the appellant. This substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

27. Mr. G.R. Palsra, learned counsel for the appellant while relying upon the judgment of this Court in Suraj Vs. Dalip Singh alias Kuldeep Singh, Latest HLJ 2006 (HP)

1229, has argued that keeping in view the fact that DW-6 was one of the attesting witnesses and she had supported the Will, the Will stood proved in accordance with law. He has also relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in Kashibai and another Vs. Parwatibai and others, 1996 (1) S.L..J. 315, in which it has been held that an attesting witness is a person who in the presence of an executant of a document puts his signature or mark after he has either seen the executant himself or someone on direction of the executant has put his signature or affixed his mark on the document so required to be attested or after he has received from the executant a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark or the signature or mark of such other person. Mr. Palsra has also relied upon the judgment of this Court in Prabhi Devi & Ors. Vs. Rajesh Kumar & others, Latest HLJ 2006 (HP) 377, in which the Will was held to be validly proved by one attesting witness as well as by the scribe.

28. I am afraid, the judgments relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant are of no assistance in the facts and circumstances of the present case because the execution of the Will by the testator as per the provisions of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act has not been proved by the beneficiaries of the Will. Not only this, the so called attesting witness is the wife of the propounder of the Will and is an interested witness, who has taken active role in the execution of the alleged Will.

29. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has held in Adivekka and others Vs. Hanamavva Kom Venkatesh (Dead) by LRS. and another, (2007) 7 Supreme Court Cases 91, that where there are suspicious circumstances, the onus would be on the propunder to remove suspicion by leading appropriate evidence. Section 63 of the Succession Act lays down the mode and manner in which an unprivileged Will is to be executed. Section 68 of the Evidence Act postulates the mode and manner in which proof of execution of document is required by law to be attested. It in unequivocal terms states that execution of Will must be proved at least by one attesting witness, if an attesting witness is alive subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence. The proof of Will is not required as a ground of reading the document but to afford the judge reasonable assurance of it as being what it purports to be.

30. This Court held in Fithu Ram alias Pritam Chand Vs. Jit Singh and another, Latest HLJ 2015 (HP) 986, that when a Will is surrounded by suspicious circumstances and the defendant has failed to remove the suspicious circumstances and both the Courts below have correctly appreciated the oral as well as documentary evidence, then there is no need to interfere with the judgments and decrees passed by both the learned Courts below.

31. This Court has similarly held in Smt. Punni Vs. Sumer Chand and others, AIR 1995 Himachal Pradesh 74, as under:-

> "10. Section 59 of the Indian Succession Act deals with the testator's testamentary capacity. Section 63 lays down certain formalities, which are required to be observed in the execution and attestation of the Will. For the purpose of decision in this appeal, Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act is relevant, which is reproduced hereunder:-
> "63. Execution of unprivileged wills. --Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition nor engaged in actual warfare, or an airman so employed or engaged, or a mariner at sea, shall execute his will according to the following rules:-
>
> (a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his marks to the will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.
> (b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give a effect to the writing as a will.

(c) The will shall he attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary,"

11. As regards attestation, Clause (c) aforementioned requires that the Will shall be attested by two or more witnesses. It is not necessary that both of them be present simultaneously at the time of putting their signatures but the requirement is that each of the attesting witness must have seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the Will or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark on the Will. There is also an additional requirement that each of the attesting witness shall also sign the Will in the presence of the testator. In Girja Datt Singh v. Gangotri Datt Singh, AIR 1955 SC 346, it was held that in order to prove the due attestation of the will the propouder of the will has to prove that the two attesting witnesses saw the testatory sign the will and that they themselves signed the same in the presence of the testator. As regards the proof and attestation, reference was made to Section 68 of the Evidence Act and it was held this it is necessary to comply with the provisions of the Evidence Act to prove the due execution and attestation of the Will by calling at least one attesting witness in case he is alive and one cannot presume from the mere signatures appearing at the foot of the endorsement of registration or at the foot of the document that the witnesses had appended their signatures to the documents as attesting witnesses. On the proof of a Will, onus of proof as also the nature of evidence required to be led, in H. Venkatachala Iyengar v. B.N. Thimmajamma, AIR 1959 SC 443, it was held that (at pp. 451 and 452 of AIR):

"... It would prima facie be true to say that the will has to be proved like any other document except as to the special requirements of attestation prescribed by Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act. As in the case of proof of other documents so in the case of proof of wills it would be idle to expect proof with mathematical certainty. The test to be applied would be the usual test of the satisfaction of the prudent mind in such matters.

However, there is one important feature which distinguishes wills from other documents. Unlike other documents the will speaks from the death of the testator, and so, when it is propounded or produced before a Court, the testator who has already departed the world cannot say whether it is his will or not; and this aspect naturally introduces an element of solemnity in the decision of the question as to whether the document propounded is proved to be the last will and testament of the departed testator. Even so, in dealing with the proof of wills the court will start on the same enquiry as in the case of the proof of documents. The propounder would be called upon to show by satisfactory evidence that the will was signed by the testator, that the testator at the relevant time was in a sound and disposing state of mind, that he understood the nature and effect of the dispositions and put his signature to the document of his own free will. Ordinarily, when the evidence adduced in support of the will is disinterested, satisfactory and sufficient to prove the sound and disposing state of the testator's mind and his signature as required by law, courts would be justified in making a finding in favour of the propounder. In other words, the onus on the propounder can be taken to be discharged on proof of the essential facts just indicated."

12. The court also dealt with the requirement, which a propounder has to comply, namely, leading, sufficient and cogent evidence in dispelling any suspicious circumstances attending the due execution of the Will, which need not be reiterated here. Out of the tests, on which emphasis was laid on the determination of the question as to whether a testament produced before the court is or is not the last Will of the testator, is the full and solemn satisfaction that it has been validly executed by the testator, who is no longer alive. Reiterating that no hard and fast or inflexible rules can be laid down for the appreciation of evidence, it was observed that (AIR 1959 SC 443 at p. 452):

"…. a propounder of the will has. to prove the due and valid execution of the will and that if there are any suspicious circumstances surrounding the execution of the will the propounder must remove the said suspicions from the mind of the court by cogent and satisfactory evidence. It is hardly necessary to add that the result of the application of these two general and broad principles would always depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and on the nature and quality of the evidence adduced by the parties. It is quite true that, as observed by Lord Du Pared in Harmes v. Hinkson, (1946) 50 Cal WN 895 : AIR 1946 PC 156 'where a will is charged with suspicion, the rules enjoin a reasonable scepticism, not an abdurate persistence in disbelief. They do not demand from the Judge, even in circumstances of grave suspicion, a resolute and impenetrable incredulity. He is never required to close his mind to the truth'. It would sound platitudinous to say so, but it is nevertheless true that in discovering truth even in the such cases the judicial mind must always be open though vigilent, cautious and circumspect."

32. When we apply the ratio of the above mentioned judgments keeping in view the facts of the present case, the only conclusion which can be drawn is that both the learned Courts below have rightly come to the conclusion that there was no valid Will executed by deceased Chhitru.

33. In view of the findings returned above and law discussed above, I do not find any merit in the present appeal and the same is dismissed. No order as to costs. Miscellaneous application(s) pending, if any, stand disposed of.

Nemo for the other respondents.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to the award dated 3rd May, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (I) Sirmaur District at Nahan, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as 'the Tribunal'), in M.A.C. Petition No. 25-MAC/2 of 2008, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.2,30,400/-with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants-respondents No. 1 & 2 and the insurer-appellant was saddled with liability, (hereinafter referred to as 'the impugned award').

2. The claimants, owner and driver have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far it relates to them.

3. The insurer has questioned the impugned award on the ground that the owner has committed willful breach and the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, thus the Tribunal has fallen in an error.

4. The claimants had filed the claim petition before the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.7,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

5. The respondents resisted the claim petition on the grounds taken in their memo of objections.

6. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal:

"1. Whether Balwant Singh was rash and negligent in driving motor-cycle HP-17A-1273 and while driving as such, he caused the death of Om Prakash, as alleged? ….OPP

2. In case issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation the petitioners are entitled and from whom?...OPP

3. Whether the driver of the motor-cycle HP-17A-273 did not possess a valid and effective driving licence, as alleged? …OPR-3

4. Whether the vehicle in question was being plied in violation of terms and conditions of the insurance policy, as alleged? …OPR-3

5. Relief."

7. The parties led evidence. The Tribunal after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that the claimants have proved that driver, namely, Balwant Singh, had driven the offending vehicle, i.e. motor-cycle bearing registration No. HP-17A-1273, rashly and negligently and caused the accident. There is no dispute regarding Issue No. 1. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 1 are upheld.

8. Before I deal with Issue No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with issues No. 3 & 4, which are subject matter of this appeal.

9. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, has not led any evidence. The copy of driving licence is exhibited as Ext. R-1/C on record, which does disclose that the driving licence was valid from 27.2.2007 to 26.2.2012.

10. Learned Counsel for the insurer argued that in terms of Ext. R-X, the driving licence was fake.

11. The argument of the learned Counsel is devoid of any force for the reason that insurer has not proved the report (Ext.R-X). The mere report cannot absolve the insurer from the liability. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the owner had not taken steps which he was required to take and the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence, has failed to do so.

12. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the owner has committed willful breach in terms of the mandate of Sections 147 & 149 of the Moror Vehicles Act, for short 'the Act' read with the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy, as held by the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh & others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment herein below:

"105. ....

(ii) ....

(iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in subsection (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.

(iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.

(vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of available the Act."

13. The Apex Court in the case titled as Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217 has laid down the same principle.

14. This Court in FAO No. 322 of 2011, titled as IFFCO-TOKIO Gen. Insurance Company Limited versus Smt. Joginder Kaur and others, decided on 29.08.2014 and FAO No. 523 of 2007, titled as Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. versus Smt. Rikta alias Kritka & others, decided on 19.12.2014, has laid down the same principle.

15. Having said so, it is held that the Tribunal has rightly decided issues No. 3 & 4 against the insurer. Thus, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issues No. 3 & 4 are upheld.

16. Accordingly, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

17. The Registry is directed to release the compensation amount in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees account cheque or by depositing the same in their accounts.

18. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is judgment and award, dated 6th June, 2011, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-I, Sirmaur District at Nahan, H.P. (for short "the Tribunal") in MAC Petition No. 36-MAC/2 of 2008, titled as Shri Jagat Singh and others versus Shri Chet Ram through his LRs and another, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 2,62,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with liability (for short "the impugned award").

2. The legal representatives of the owner-insured of the offending vehicle and the claimants have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. The insurer has called in question the impugned award on the following two grounds:

(i) That the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of the accident; and

(ii) That the deceased was an unauthorized occupant.

4. In order to determine this appeal, it is necessary to give a brief resume of the case, the womb of which has given birth to the appeal in hand.

5. The claimants have specifically pleaded in the claim petition that deceased, namely Shri Vinod Kumar, was a bachelor, conductor by profession and was also doing the job of labourer in the offending vehicle, i.e. Pick-up Van, bearing registration No. HP-71-0777.

6. The positive case set up by the claimants before the Tribunal was that the driver, namely Shri Balwant Singh, while driving the offending vehicle rashly and negligently on 8th April, 2007, at about 2.00 A.M. near Village Sainj, Tehsil Renuka Ji, District Sirmaur, caused the accident, in which deceased-Vinod Kumar, who was travelling in the offending vehicle as a conductor/labourer, sustained injuries and succumbed to the injuries. The driver of the offending vehicle also died in the said accident.

7. The claimants claimed compensation, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the grounds taken in the memo of the claim petition.

8. The respondents in the claim petition resisted the same on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections.

9. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal on 30th April, 2009:

"1. Whether Vinod Kumar had died on account of rash and negligent driving of pick-up No. HP-71-0777 driven by its driver Balwant Singh deceased on 8-4-2007 near village Sainj at about 2.00 A.M., as alleged? OPP

2. In case issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioners are entitled to receive compensation, if so, to what amount and from whom? OPP

3. Whether the deceased was an unauthorized person in the goods vehicle and as such his risk was not covered under the insurance policy, as alleged? OPR-2

4. Whether the driver of the vehicle in question did not possess a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, as alleged? OPR-2

5. Whether the vehicle in question was being plied in violation of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy, as alleged? OPR-2

6. Whether the petition has been filed in collusion with respondent No. 1, as alleged? OPR-2

7. Relief."

10. The claimants have examined HC Dharam Mohan as PW-1, Smt. Champa Devi as PW-2, Dr. Suman Lata as PW-3, Shri Gopal Singh as PW-5, Shri Jagat Singh, s/o late Shri Kanshi Ram as PW-6 and one of the claimants, namely Shri Jagat Singh, appeared in the witness box as PW-4. The insurer has examined Shri Updeshmanj Khola as RW-1 and SI Chet Ram as RW-3. One of the legal representatives of owner-insured, namely Shri Rajesh Kumar, himself appeared in the witness box as RW-2.

Issue No. 1:

11. The Tribunal, while determining issue No. 1, has held that the claimants have proved by leading evidence that the driver, namely Shri Balwant Singh, had driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently on 8th April, 2007, at about 2.00 A.M. near Village Sainj and caused the accident, in which deceased-Vinod Kumar sustained injuries and succumbed to the injuries. There is no dispute viz-a-viz the said findings. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are upheld.

12. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to determine issues No. 3 to 6.

13. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that deceased-Vinod Kumar was an unauthorized occupant in the offending vehicle at the time of the accident, has not led any evidence to this effect. However, it has examined the Investigating Officer, namely SI Chet Ram, as RW-3, who has specifically stated that he had investigated the case relating to the commission of crime, presented the final report in terms of Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short "CrPC") under Sections 279 and 304-A of the Indian Penal Code (for short "IPC") before the Court of competent jurisdiction and had not investigated the case with respect to the fact as to in which capacity the deceased was travelling in the offending vehicle. Thus, he has not stated anything about the issue in dispute.

14. The claimants have specifically pleaded that the deceased was travelling in the offending vehicle as conductor and was also doing the job of loading and unloading the material in the said vehicle. Father of deceased-Vinod Kumar, namely Shri Jagat Singh, stepped into the witness box as PW-4 and has proved the contents of FIR about the said factum. The said factum has also been proved by one Shri Jagat Singh, s/o late Shri Kanshi Ram, who stepped into the witness box as PW-6 and stated that deceased-Vinod Kumar had worked as a conductor/labourer with his vehicle with effect from 10th June, 2006 to 31st December, 2006, thereafter, the owner-insured of the offending vehicle, late Shri Chet Ram, had asked him to send deceased-Vinod Kumar to work as conductor/labourer with the offending vehicle. There is no rebuttal by the insurer to this effect, thus, the said factum has remained unrebutted. Viewed thus, the Tribunal has rightly decided issue No. 3 against the insurer, is, accordingly, upheld.

Issue No. 4:

15. It was for the insurer to discharge the onus to prove that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of the accident, has not led any evidence, except examining one Shri Updeshmanj Khola as RW-1, but he has not given any details as to on what basis he has come to the conclusion that the driving licence was fake.

16. Though, there is not even a single iota of evidence on the file to hold or presume that the driving licence of the driver of the offending vehicle was fake, even that cannot be made a ground for exonerating the insurer from its liability unless the insurer pleads and proves that the owner-insured has committed willful breach and has not taken all precautions while engaging the driver.

17. My this view is fortified by the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in the case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh & others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment herein:

> (i) ....
>
>
> (iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in sub-section (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.
>
> (iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.
>
> (vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

18. The Apex Court in another case titled as Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 6505, has laid down the same principle. It is profitable to reproduce para 10 of the judgment herein:

> "10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran Singh's case (supra). If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the insurance company is not liable for the compensation."

19. Viewed thus, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 4 are upheld.

Issue No. 5:

20. In view of the findings returned on issues No. 3 and 4 hereinabove, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 5 are also upheld.

Issue No. 6:

21. It was for the insurer to prove that the claimants have filed the claim petition in collusion with the owner-insured, has not led any evidence to this effect, thus, has failed to do so. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 6 are upheld.

Issue No. 2:

22. The quantum of compensation is not in dispute. However, I have gone through the record and the impugned award, the awarded amount cannot be said to be excessive in any way. Thus, it is held that the Tribunal has rightly awarded ₹ 2,62,000/- to the claimants and saddled the insurer with liability. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 2 are also upheld.

23. Having glance of the above discussions, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

24. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award through payee's account cheques or by depositing the same in their respective bank accounts.

25. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice, (Oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to the judgment and award dated 31.1.2011, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Una, H.P., in MAC Case No. 10 of 2010, titled Smt. Neelam Jha and another versus Mr. Abha Food Industries Prop and others, for short "the Tribunal", whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.5,14,000/- alongwith interest @ 8% per annum, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and against respondents No. 1 and 2, hereinafter referred to as "the impugned award", for short.

2. Mr. Subhash Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No. 3 stated at the Bar that respondent No. 3 Sher Singh has died during the pendency of the appeal. His statement is taken on record. He has produced the copy of death certificate of Sher Singh, across the Board, made part of the file.

3. Owner of the motor cycle No. UP-23-6402 is neither proper party nor necessary party because award has been passed against the owner of the Scooter No. PB-10BT-7631. Thus, there is no need to bring the legal representatives of respondent No. 3 on record.

4. Claimants, by the medium of this appeal, have questioned the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation.

5. Thus, the only issue to be determined in this appeal is whether the amount awarded is adequate or otherwise. The answer is in negative for the following reasons.

6. Admittedly, deceased was an employee and drawing salary to the tune of Rs.11,500/- as held by the Tribunal in para 14 of the impugned award. One half was to be deducted towards his personal expenses, keeping in view the 2nd Schedule attached to the Motor Vehicles Act, for short "the Act, read with Sarla Verma and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104 and upheld in Reshma Kumari and others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120.

7. Keeping in view the age of the deceased read with Munna Lal Jain and another versus Vipin Kumar Sharma and others reported in 2015 AIR SCW 3105, the multiplier is to be applied according to the age of the deceased.

8 The Tribunal has fallen in an error in applying the multiplier of "14. The multiplier of "15" is applicable in view of the judgments referred to supra.

9. It appears that the Tribunal has awarded interest @8% per annum. However, interest @ 7.5% was to be awarded for the following reasons.

10. It is a beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281*;* Satosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others*, reported in* 2012 AIR SCW 2892*;* Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others reported in (2012) 11 SCC 738*;* Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others*, reported in* 2014, AIR SCW 2053*;* Kalpanaraj & others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn*., reported in* 2014 AIR SCW 2982*;* Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others*, reported* in (2015) 4 SCC 433*, and* Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another*, reported* in (2015) 4 SCC 434*,* and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

11. Accordingly, the interest @7.5% is awarded.

12. Thus, it is held that the claimants have lost the source of dependency to the tune of Rs.5500x12x15= Rs.9,90,000/-. The claimants are also entitled to compensation under the two heads as under:

(i)	Loss of estate	:	Rs.10,000/-
(ii)	Funeral expenses	:	Rs.10,000/-
		Total	Rs.10,10,000/-

Thus , in all the claimants are entitled to Rs. 10,10,000 alongwith interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum, from the date of claim petition till its realilsation.

13. The insurer is directed to satisfy the award and is directed to deposit the amount within eight weeks from today. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants, through payees' cheque account or by depositing the same in their bank accounts, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award.

14. Viewed thus, the appeal is allowed, the impugned award is modified and the compensation is enhanced, as indicated hereinabove.

15. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

Date of decision: 15.07.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Claimants, being dependents of deceased filed the claim petition for grant of compensation – Tribunal awarded sum of Rs. 5,65,000/- along with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum as compensation in favour of the claimants and insurer was saddled with the liability - feeling aggrieved, insurer preferred the present appeal- held, that owner and the driver had admitted in their reply that the deceased was traveling in the offending vehicle as owner of goods- hence, the deceased cannot be called to be a gratuitous passenger - amount awarded by the Tribunal is meager, since the claimants have not questioned the impugned award the same is reluctantly upheld- appeal dismissed. (Para-5 to 10)

For the appellant: Mr.Lalit K. Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr.Neeraj Gupta, Advocate, for respondents No.1, 2 & 4.
Mr.Vivek Darhel, Advocate, for respondents No.5 and 6.
Mr.Satyen Vaidya, Senior Advocate, with Mr.Vivek Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.7.
Respondent No.8 already ex-parte.
Mr.Praneet Gupta, Advocate, for respondent No.9

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 26th May, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Solan, District Solan, H.P., (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.26-S/2 of 2008, titled Smt. Sheela & others vs. Sh.Bhupinder Kumar & others, whereby a sum of Rs.5,65,000/- alongwith interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum came to be awarded as compensation in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with the liability, (for short the "impugned award").

2. The claimants and the owner-cum-driver have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, the same has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. Feeling aggrieved, the appellant-insurer has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. During the course of hearing, the learned counsel for the appellant/insurer argued that the owner had committed willful breach of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy inasmuch as the deceased was traveling in the offending vehicle as gratuitous passenger. The argument advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant is misconceived for the reasons enumerated hereinbelow.

5. The claimants, being dependants of deceased Anwar Hussain filed the claim petition for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.30.00 lacs as per break-ups given in the claim petition.

6. Respondents resisted the claim petition by filing replies. Respondents No.1 and 2, i.e. the owner and the driver, have admitted in their reply that the deceased was traveling in the offending vehicle as owner of goods. It is apt to reproduce paras 5 and 6 of the reply herein:

> "5. That the contents of para no.8 to 13 of the petition need no reply being matter of record. However, it is, submitted that the deceased was traveling in the vehicle in the capacity of owner of goods.
> 6. That the contents of para no.14 to 18 of the petition need no reply being matter of record. The vehicle of the replying respondent was duly insured with the Oriental Insurance Company Limited, The Mall Solan. The photocopy of the cover note is annexed herewith for the kind perusal of the Hon'ble Court."

7. Thus, there was admission on the part of the owner and the driver of the offending vehicle that the deceased was traveling in the offending vehicle as owner of goods. Therefore, it does not lie in the mouth of the insurer to claim that the deceased was not traveling in the offending vehicle as owner of goods and was a gratuitous passenger.

8. Having said so, the Tribunal has rightly returned findings on all the issues, particularly issues No.4 to 6 and the same are upheld.

9. The amount awarded by the Tribunal is meager amount, but, unfortunately, since the claimants have not questioned the impugned award to that effect, the same is reluctantly upheld.

10. Having glance of the above discussion, there is no merit in the appeal and the same is dismissed. Consequently, the impugned award is upheld.

11. The Registry is directed to release the award amount in favour of the claimants through their bank accounts, strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award.

12. Send down the record after placing a copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

Date of decision: 15.07.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- It was contended that driver did not have a valid driving licence- however, no evidence was led to prove this fact- insurer has to plead and prove that the owner of the offending vehicle has committed willful breach of the terms contained in the policy and mere plea here and there cannot be a ground for seeking exoneration- insurer cannot be permitted to lead evidence at the belated stage to defeat the claim of the claimant- appeal dismissed. (Para-10 to 14)

Cases referred:

National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh & others, AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531
Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217

For the appellant: Mr.Ashwani K. Sharma, Senior Advocate, with Mr.Nishant Kumar, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr.Dinesh Thakur, Advocate vice Mr.N.S. Chandel, Advocate, for respondent No.1.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 19th March, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, Himachal Pradesh (Camp at Bilaspur), (for short, "the Tribunal") in M.A.C. No.84 of 2005, titled Maya Devi vs. Smt. Shakuntla Devi & others, whereby a sum of Rs.2,50,000/- alongwith interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum came to be awarded as compensation in favour of the claimant and the insurer was saddled with the liability (for short the "impugned award").

2. The claimant, the owner-insured and the driver have not questioned the impugned award on any count. Thus, the same has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. Feeling aggrieved, the appellant-insurer has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that the Tribunal has fallen into an error in saddling the insurer with the liability since the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident. The second ground of attack was that the amount awarded by the Tribunal was excessive. The argument of learned counsel for the appellant, though attractive, is devoid of any force, for the following reasons.

5. The claimant filed the claim petition for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.5,10,000/- as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, was resisted by the respondents and following issues came to be framed:-

> "1. Whether Jatin Kumar died due to rash and negligent driving of resident No.2, driver of bus No.HP-23A-1021, as alleged? OPP
>
> 2. If issue No.1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petition is entitled for compensation and if so, to what amount and from whom? OPP.
>
> 3. Whether the petition is not maintainable? OPR-3
>
> 4. Whether bus NO.HP-23A-1021 was being plied without valid registration, fitness certificate and route permit as alleged, if so to what effect? OPR-3
>
> 5. Whether the driver of bus No.HP-23A-1021 was not having a valid and effective driving licence? OPR-3.
>
> 6. Whether the petition is barred by limitation? OPR-1
>
> 7. Whether the petitioner has no locus standi to file the petition? OPR-1.
> 8. Relief."

6. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that the claimant has proved that the driver, namely, Prakash Chand was driving the offending vehicle rashly and negligently and caused the accident. There is also no dispute about the findings recorded by the Tribunal on issue No.1, which are accordingly upheld.

7. Before I deal with issue No.2, I deem it proper to deal with issues No.3 to 7.

Issue No.3

8. Onus to prove this issue was on the insurer, has not led any evidence. I wonder why this issue was framed by the Tribunal. The Tribunal has lost sight of the fact that the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short, the Act) has gone through a sea change and sub section (6) to Section 158 and sub section (4) to Section 166 have been added. Section 158(6) provides that the Incharge of the Police Station concerned has to submit a report about the traffic accident to the Tribunal having the jurisdiction and that report has to be treated as Claim Petition by the Tribunal in terms of Section 166(4) of the Act. Thus, even filing of claim petition is not mandatory for grant of compensation in terms of the said amendment. Therefore, it does not lie in the mouth of the insurer to urge on flimsy grounds that the claim petition was not maintainable. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.3 are upheld.

Issue No.4

9. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the offending vehicle was being plied without valid documents, has not led any evidence. Notwithstanding that, this issue was not pressed by the learned counsel for the appellant during the course of hearing. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal this issue are upheld.

Issue No.5

10. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, has not led any evidence. It is beaten law of the land that the insurer has to plead and prove that the owner of the offending vehicle has committed willful breach of the terms contained in the policy and mere plea here and there cannot be a ground for seeking exoneration.

11. My this view is fortified by the Apex Court judgment in the case of National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh & others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment hereinbelow:

> (i) ....
>
>
> (iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in subsection (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.
>
> (iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings; but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.
>
> (vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

12. It is also profitable to reproduce para 10 of the latest judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217 hereinbelow:

> "10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran ingh case. If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is 8 :fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the Insurance Company is not liable for the compensation."

13. Learned counsel for the insurer argued that the insurer has filed an application, being CMP No.657 of 2011, under Section 41 Rule 27 read with Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure for examining the witness from the office of District Transport Officer, Ranchi, in order to prove that the driver of the offending vehicle, at the time of accident, was not having a valid and effective driving licence.

14. The said application (CMP No.657 of 2011) deserves to be dismissed for the simple reason that the insurer cannot be permitted to defeat the right of the claimants at this belated stage. Moreover, it was for the insurer to plead and prove, by leading evidence, before the Tribunal that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, which it has not done despite affording sufficient opportunities. Therefore, once the insurer has failed to prove before the Tribunal that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, it does not lie in the mouth of the insurer to argue at this stage that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence. In case the application is allowed, the parties and the proceedings would be relegated back to the sage as was in the year 2004, when the accident had taken place, which would be against the aim and object of granting compensation. It is beaten law of the land that while deciding claim petitions, summary procedure is to be adopted and the claim petitions are to be concluded as early as possible, and if such procedure, as is sought by the learned counsel for the appellant, is adopted, that would be against the mandate of legislation. Accordingly, the application (CMP No.657 of 2011) is dismissed and the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.5 are upheld.

Issue No.6

15. As has been observe above, the Act has gone a sea change and the rigours of Limitation Act for filing Claim Petitions under the Act have been taken away. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on this issue are upheld.

Issue No.7

16. The petitioner is a victim of a vehicular accident, therefore, by no stretch of imagination it can be said that the claim had no locus standi to file the claim petition. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on this issue are also upheld.

17. As far as issue No.2 is concerned, the learned counsel for the appellant argued that the deceased was only 3-1/2 years of age at the time of accident and therefore, only Rs.1.00 lac was to be awarded. It was further submitted that the Tribunal has assessed the compensation which is highly excessive and deserves to be reduced accordingly.

18. The argument is beyond comprehension for the reason that the claimant is a mother, who lost her son in the vehicular accident, who was only 3-1/2 years of age at the time of accident. The Apex Court in its pronouncements has held that in such cases compensation can be awarded upto Rs.5.00 lacs. Therefore, there is no merit in the argument advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant and the same is repelled being without any force.

19. Having said so, there is no merit in the appeal filed by the appellant and the same is dismissed. Consequently, the impugned award is upheld. The Registry is directed to release the amount, alongwith up-to-date interest, in favour of the claimant forthwith through her bank account.

For the Petitioners: Mr.Sanjeev Kuthiala, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr.G.D.Verma Senior Advocate with Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan J (Oral)

By the medium of this petition under article 227 of the Constitution of India, the following reliefs have been prayed:

> "(i) To call for the record of the case pertaining to execution petition No.55-1 of 2015/11 pending before the Ld. Rent Controller Court No.IV Shimla, HP titled as Durga Singh Vs. Sukhdev and after examining the legality and propriety of the impugned order annexure P-5 to quash and set aside the same.
> (b) To directing the executing court to decide the objections annexure P-4 in accordance with law after framing the issues and giving opportunity of evidence."

2. The necessary facts leading to the filing of the instant petition are that respondent/decree holder had filed an application for eviction against the proforma respondent Sukhdev Sharma with respect to the premises known as Set No.1, Upper Floor House, Cart Road, Ram Singh House, Shimla. The grounds on which the eviction was sought;

(i) arrears of rent and

(ii) sub letting the premises in favour of petitioners.

3. The proforma respondent did not choose to contest the proceedings and was thus proceeded ex parte and finally orders of eviction came to be passed on 8.12.1986.

4. On coming to know about the orders of eviction, petitioners filed a suit for declaration and injunction by arraying the proforma respondent as also the respondent/ decree holder as party on the ground that they were in fact tenants in the suit premises and eviction order passed to their detriment and in their absence was void and, therefore, landlord be permanently restrained from interfering in their possession.

5. The learned trial court dismissed the suit vide judgment and decree dated 9.7.1990, however, the appeal preferred before learned first appellate court was partly accepted and it was held that the order of learned Rent Controller was void and at the same time decree holder/respondent was restrained from evicting the petitioners. The judgment passed by the First appellate court was assailed by way of RSA No.127 of 1998 and this court vide its judgment and decree dated 27.9.2010 accepted the appeal and set aside the findings of the learned First Appellate court and even the cross objections filed by the petitioners were ordered to be dismissed. Consequently the suit filed by the petitioners was ordered to be dismissed.

6. In the execution petition filed by the decree holder for executing the eviction order, the petitioners filed objections under Section 47 read with order 21 Rule 97 and 101 of CPC which came to be dismissed on 28.5.2016, yet undeterred the petitioners have approached this court assailing the aforesaid order, primarily on the ground that the objection preferred by them could not have been ordered to be dismissed without framing issues.

7. At this stage, I may observe that when the case came up for consideration on 16.6.2016, it was represented by the learned counsel for the decree holder that the instant petition was more in the nature of a mercy petition and the petitioners be granted some time to remain in occupation of the premises as they were in the midst of construction of their own house and would shortly shift to the premises under construction. This fact is also pleaded in clause (d) of the ground raised in the petition which reads thus:

> "(d) That another factor which the petitioners wanted to place before Ld. Executing court was that the petitioner was in the midst of getting his own construction made and had got his plans sanctioned through the competent local body/authorities, copy of the sanction of residential plan of the petitioners are annexed herewith as Annexure P-6, to the petition. After grant of sanction the petitioner have made sufficient construction and have raised the columns as also the lintel and the finishing work has to be completed which would be completed within a span of atleast one year. The composite photographs are annexed herewith as Annexure P-7, to the petition. The Ld. Executing court could have granted reasonable period for the petitioners to vacate the premises in the alternative instead of ordering the eviction thereto (which submissions is made without conceding by the petitioner)."

8. After considering the representation, this court vide order dated 16.6.2016 stayed the operation and execution of the order and the case was fixed for 23.6.2016.

9. On 23.6.2016 it was pointed out by the learned Senior Counsel for the decree holder/respondent No.1 that the petitioners have not even paid the arrears of use and occupation charges. On such representation, this court passed the following orders:

"23.6.2016 Present: Mr.Sanjeev Kuthiala, Advocate for the petitioners.

Mr. G.D. Verma, Senior Advocate, with Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate for respondent No.1.

It is represented by respondent No.1 that the petitioner has not paid the arrears of use and occupation charges. Before the petitioner can be heard in the matter, let the entire arrears of use and occupation charges @ Rs.2000/- per month be deposited by him within one week from today, failing which petition shall be dismissed without reference to the court. Needless to say that this amount has only been worked out on tentative basis and the final amount shall be worked out at the time of final hearing of the petition. List on 15.7.2016. In the meanwhile, call for the records of execution petition."

10. When the matter was taken today, it was conceded by the petitioners that the order dated 23.6.2016 has not been complied with. The matter could have been closed here, but what is more shocking is that the family members of the petitioners have even obstructed the bailiff in the discharge of his official duties when pursuant to the orders of the learned executing court he had gone to deliver possession.

11. However, at this stage without being prejudiced by the conduct of the petitioner and without even being swayed by the preemptory order passed by this court on 23.6.2016, I have considered the petition in its entirety and I do not find any merit in the same. Though the learned counsel for the petitioners would vehemently argue that the learned executing court was under obligation to frame issues, but what appears to have been conveniently ignored while raising such argument is the fact that the petitioners themselves had filed a civil suit questioning the order of eviction which ultimately was decided against them in the Regular Second Appeal No. 127 of 1998 decided by this court on 27.9.2010.

12. Even at that stage, petitioners very well knew that their remedy, if any available, was only under order 21 Rule 97 and 101 of read with Section 47 CPC. But in order to delay the eviction orders which would be finally passed against them, they intentionally filed the civil suit and have now filed the objection petition under the aforesaid provisions which obviously was required to be dismissed as the matter has already attained finality in RSA NO.127 of 1998 and cannot, therefore, be reopened.

13. The instant is an unfortunate case where the petitioners have succeeded for three decades in their diabolic plan to deny the decree holder the fruits of decree obtained by him.

The petitioners by their conduct have converted the litigation into a fruitful industry and have successfully managed to protect their possession.

14. It is the bounden duty of the court to ensure that dishonesty and any attempt to surpass the legal process must be effectively curbed and the courts must further ensure that there is no wrongful, unauthorized or unjust gain to anyone as a result of abuse of process of court.

15. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has repeatedly pointed out that rent acts have not been enacted only to protect the tenants from unjust eviction but have been enacted to equally enforce the lawful right of the landlords to obtain a possession of their own property in the event of satisfying the grounds prescribed for eviction. In this case the appellant is not even tenant and yet he has succeeded in depriving the landlord of his property for more than three decades.

16. It is proved on record that the defence set up by the appellant was absolutely false. In Maria Margarida Sequeria Fernandes v. Erasmo Jack de Sequeria, (2012) 5 SCC 370, the Supreme Court held that false claims and defences are serious problems with the litigation. The Supreme Court held as under:-

> "False claims and false defences
> 84. False claims and defences are really serious problems with real estate litigation, predominantly because of ever escalating prices of the real estate. Litigation pertaining to valuable real estate properties is dragged on by unscrupulous litigants in the hope that the other party will tire out and ultimately would settle with them by paying a huge amount. This happens because of the enormous delay in adjudication of cases in our Courts. If pragmatic approach is adopted, then this problem can be minimized to a large extent."

17. In Dalip Singh v. State of U.P., (2010) 2 SCC 114, the Supreme Court observed that a new creed of litigants have cropped up in the last 40 years who do not have any respect for truth and shamelessly resort to falsehood and unethical means for achieving their goals. The observations of the Supreme Court are as under:-

> "1. For many centuries, Indian society cherished two basic values of life i.e., 'Satya' (truth) and 'Ahimsa' (non-violence). Mahavir, Gautam Buddha and Mahatma Gandhi guided the people to ingrain these values in their daily life. Truth constituted an integral part of the justice-delivery system which was in vogue in the pre-Independence era and the people used to feel proud to tell truth in the courts irrespective of the consequences. However, post-Independence period has seen drastic changes in our value system. The materialism has over shadowed the old ethos and the quest for personal gain has become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood, misrepresentation and suppression of facts in the court proceedings.
> 2. In last 40 years, a new creed of litigants has cropped up. Those who belong to this creed do not have any respect for truth. They shamelessly resort to falsehood and unethical means for achieving their goals. In order to meet the challenge posed by this new creed of litigants, the courts have, from time to time, evolved new rules and it is now well established that a litigant, who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands, is not entitled to any relief, interim or final."

18. In Satyender Singh Vs. Gulab Singh, 2012 (129) DRJ, 128, the Division Bench of Delhi High Court following Dalip Singh v. State of U.P. (supra) observed that the Courts are flooded with litigation with false and incoherent pleas and tainted evidence led by the parties due to which the judicial system in the country is choked and such litigants are consuming Courts" time for a wrong cause."

The observations of Court are as under:-

"2. As rightly observed by the Supreme Court, Satya is a basic value of life which was required to be followed by everybody and is recognized since many centuries. In spite of caution, courts are continued to be flooded with litigation with false and incoherent pleas and tainted evidence led by the parties. The judicial system in the country is choked and such litigants are consuming courts„ time for a wrong cause. Efforts are made by the parties to steal a march over their rivals by resorting to false and incoherent statements made before the Court. Indeed, it is a nightmare faced by a Trier of Facts; required to stitch a garment, when confronted with a fabric where the weft, shuttling back and forth across the warp in weaving, is nothing but lies. As the threads of the weft fall, the yarn of the warp also collapses; and there is no fabric left."

19. In Sky Land International Pvt Ltd *Vs.*Kavita P. Lalwani, (2012) 191 DLT 594, Delhi High Court held as under:-

"26.20 Dishonest and unnecessary litigations are a huge strain on the judicial system. The Courts are continued to be flooded with litigation with false and incoherent pleas and tainted evidence led by the parties. The judicial system in the country is choked and such litigants are consuming courts„ time for a wrong cause. Efforts are made by the parties to steal a march over their rivals by resorting to false and incoherent statements made before the Court.

26.22 Unless the Courts ensure that wrongdoers are denied profit or undue benefit from the frivolous litigation, it would be difficult to control frivolous and uncalled for litigations. In order to curb uncalled for and frivolous litigation, the Courts have to ensure that there is no incentive or motive for uncalled for litigation. It is a matter of common experience that the Courts" scarce and valuable time is consumed or more appropriately wasted in a large number of uncalled for cases. It becomes the duty of the Courts to see that such wrong doers are discouraged at every step and even if they succeed in prolonging the litigation, ultimately they must suffer the costs. Despite settled legal positions, the obvious wrong doers, use one after another tier of judicial review mechanism as a gamble, knowing fully well that the dice is always loaded in their favour, since even if they lose, the time gained is the real gain. This situation must be redeemed by the Courts."

20. The judicial system has been abused and virtually brought to its knees by unscrupulous litigants like the petitioners in this case. It has to be remembered that Court's proceedings are sacrosanct and should not be polluted by unscrupulous litigants. The petitioners have abused the process of the Court. What is 'abuse of the process of the Court' has been dealt with in detail by this Court in Amar Singh vs. Shiv Dutt and others, RFA No. 646 of 2012 decided on 30.7.2014 wherein it was held:

"9. …………Therefore, the question at this stage, would than arise as to whether a party can be permitted to indulge in filing frivolous and vexatious proceedings and whether the same amount to abuse of process of Court.

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in K.K.Modi vrs. K.N.Modi and others, reported in (1998) 3 SCC 573 has dealt in detail with the proposition as to what would constitute an abuse of the process of the Court, one of which pertains to re-litigation. It has been held at paragraphs 43 to 46 as follows:

43. The Supreme Court Practice 1995 published by Sweet & Maxwell in paragraph 18/19/33 (page 344) explains the phrase "abuse of the process of the Court" thus: "This terms connotes that the process of the Court must be used bona fide and properly and must not be abused. The Court will prevent improper use of its machinery and will in a proper case, summarily prevent its machinery from being used as a means of vexation and oppression in the process of litigation. . . . .

The categories of conduct rendering a claim frivolous, vexatious or an abuse of process are not closed but depend on all the relevant circumstances. And for this purpose considerations of public policy and the interests of justice may be very material."

44. One of the examples cited as an abuse of the process of Court is re-litigation. It is an abuse of the process of the Court and contrary to justice and public policy for a party to re-litigate the same issue which has already been tried and decided earlier against him. The re-agitation may or may not be barred as res judicata. But if the same issue is sought to be re-agitated, it also amounts to an abuse of the process of the Court. A proceeding being filed for a collateral purpose, or a spurious claim being made in litigation may also in a given set of facts amount to an abuse of the process of the Court. Frivolous or vexatious proceedings may also amount to an abuse of the process of Court especially where the proceedings are absolutely groundless. The Court then has the power to stop such proceedings summarily and prevent the time of the public and the Court from being wasted. Undoubtedly, it is a matter of Courts' discretion whether such proceedings should be stopped or not; and this discretion has to be exercised with circumspection. It is a jurisdiction which should be sparingly exercised, and exercised only in special cases. The Court should also be satisfied that there is no chance of the suit succeeding.

45. In the case of Greenhalgh v. Mallard (1947) 2 All ER 255, the Court had to consider different proceedings on the same cause of action for conspiracy, but supported by different averments. The Court held that if the plaintiff has chosen to put his case in one way, he cannot thereafter bring the same transaction before the Court, put his case in another way and say that he is relying on a new cause of action. In such circumstances he can be met with the plea of res judicata or the statement or plaint may be struck out on the ground that the action is frivolous and vexatious and an abuse of the process of the Court.

46. In Mcllkenny v. Chief Constable of West Midlands Police Force (1980) 2 All ER 227, the Court of Appeal in England struck out the pleading on the ground that the action was an abuse of the process of the Court since it raised an issue identical to that which had been finally determined at the plaintiffs ' earlier criminal trial. The Court said even when it is not possible to strike out the plaint on the ground of issue estoppel, the action can be struck out as an abuse of the process of the Court because it is an abuse for a party to re-litigate a question or issue which has already been decided against him even though the other party cannot satisfy the strict rule of res judicata or the requirement of issue estoppels.

21. Similarly, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kishore Samrite vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, reported in (2013(2) SCC 398, has dealt in detail with "abuse of process of Court" in the following terms:

Abuse of the process of Court :

"31. Now, we shall deal with the question whether both or any of the petitioners in Civil Writ Petition Nos. 111/2011 and 125/2011 are guilty of suppression of material facts, not approaching the Court with clean hands, and thereby abusing the process of the Court. Before we dwell upon the facts and circumstances of the case in hand, let us refer to some case laws which would help us in dealing with the present situation with greater precision.

32. The cases of abuse of the process of court and such allied matters have been arising before the Courts consistently. This Court has had many occasions where it dealt with the cases of this kind and it has clearly stated the principles that would govern the obligations of a litigant while approaching the court for redressal of any grievance and the consequences of abuse of the process of court. We may recapitulate and state some of the principles. It is difficult to state such principles exhaustively and with such accuracy that would uniformly apply to a variety of cases. These are:

32.1. Courts have, over the centuries, frowned upon litigants who, with intent to deceive and mislead the Courts, initiated proceedings without full disclosure of facts and came to the courts with 'unclean hands'. Courts have held that such litigants are neither entitled to be heard on the merits of the case nor entitled to any relief.

32.2. The people, who approach the Court for relief on an ex parte statement, are under a contract with the court that they would state the whole case fully and fairly to the court and where the litigant has broken such faith, the discretion of the court cannot be exercised in favour of such a litigant.

32.3. The obligation to approach the Court with clean hands is an absolute obligation and has repeatedly been reiterated by this Court.

32.4. Quests for personal gains have become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood and misrepresent and suppress facts in the court proceedings. Materialism, opportunism and malicious intent have over-shadowed the old ethos of litigative values for small gains.

32.5. A litigant who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands is not entitled to any relief, interim or final.

32.6. The Court must ensure that its process is not abused and in order to prevent abuse of the process the court, it would be justified even in insisting on furnishing of security and in cases of serious abuse, the Court would be duty bound to impose heavy costs.

32.7. Wherever a public interest is invoked, the Court must examine the petition carefully to ensure that there is genuine public interest involved. The stream of justice should not be allowed to be polluted by unscrupulous litigants.

32.8. The Court, especially the Supreme Court, has to maintain strictest vigilance over the abuse of the process of court and ordinarily meddlesome bystanders should not be granted "visa". Many societal pollutants create new problems of unredressed grievances and the Court should endure to take cases where the justice of the lis well-justifies it. [Refer : Dalip Singh v. State of U.P. & Ors. (2010) 2 SCC 114; Amar Singh v. Union of India & Ors. (2011) 7 SCC 69 and State of Uttaranchal v Balwant Singh Chaufal & Ors. (2010) 3 SCC 402].

33. Access jurisprudence requires Courts to deal with the legitimate litigation whatever be its form but decline to exercise jurisdiction, if such litigation is an abuse of the process of the Court. In P.S.R.Sadhanantham v. Arunachalam & Anr. (1980) 3 SCC 141, the Court held:

"15. The crucial significance of access jurisprudence has been best expressed by Cappelletti:

> "The right of effective access to justice has emerged with the new social rights. Indeed, it is of paramount importance among these new rights since, clearly, the enjoyment of traditional as well as new social rights presupposes mechanisms for their effective protection. Such protection, moreover, is best assured be a workable remedy within the framework of the judicial system. Effective access to justice can thus be seen as the most basic requirement the most basic 'human-right' of a system which purports to guarantee legal rights."
> 16. We are thus satisfied that the bogey of busybodies blackmailing adversaries through frivolous invocation of Article 136 is chimerical. Access to justice to every bona fide seeker is a democratic dimension of remedial jurisprudence even as public interest litigation, class action, pro bono proceedings, are. We cannot dwell in the home of processual obsolescence when our Constitution highlights social justice as a goal. We hold that there is no merit in the contentions of the writ petitioner and dismiss the petition."

34. It has been consistently stated by this Court that the entire journey of a Judge is to discern the truth from the pleadings, documents and arguments of the parties, as truth is the basis of the Justice Delivery System.

35. With the passage of time, it has been realised that people used to feel proud to tell the truth in the Courts, irrespective of the consequences but that practice no longer proves true, in all cases. The Court does not sit simply as an umpire in a contest between two parties and declare at the end of the combat as to who has won and who has lost but it has a legal duty of its own, independent of parties, to take active role in the proceedings and reach at the truth, which is the foundation of administration of justice. Therefore, the truth should become the ideal to inspire the courts to pursue. This can be achieved by statutorily mandating the Courts to become active seekers of truth. To enable the courts to ward off unjustified interference in their working, those who indulge in immoral acts like perjury, prevarication and motivated falsehood must be appropriately dealt with. The parties must state forthwith sufficient factual details to the extent that it reduces the ability to put forward false and exaggerated claims and a litigant must approach the Court with clean hands. It is the bounden duty of the Court to ensure that dishonesty and any attempt to surpass the legal process must be effectively curbed and the Court must ensure that there is no wrongful, unauthorised or unjust gain to anyone as a result of abuse of the process of the Court. One way to curb this tendency is to impose realistic or punitive costs.

36. The party not approaching the Court with clean hands would be liable to be non-suited and such party, who has also succeeded in polluting the stream of justice by making patently false statements, cannot claim relief, especially under Article 136 of the Constitution. While approaching the court, a litigant must state correct facts and come with clean hands. Where such statement of facts is based on some information, the source of such information must also be disclosed. Totally misconceived petition amounts to abuse of the process of the court and such a litigant is not required to be dealt with lightly, as a petition containing misleading and inaccurate statement, if filed, to achieve an ulterior purpose amounts to abuse of the process of the court. A litigant is bound to make "full and true disclosure of facts". (Refer : Tilokchand H.B. Motichand & Ors. v. Munshi & Anr. [1969 (1) SCC 110]; A. Shanmugam v. Ariya Kshatriya Rajakula Vamsathu Madalaya Nandhavana Pari palanai Sangam & Anr. [(2012) 6 SCC 430]; Chandra Shashi v. Anil Kumar Verma [(1995) SCC 1, 421]; Abhyudya Sanstha v. Union of India & Ors. [(2011) 6 SCC 145]; State of Madhya Pradesh v. Narmada Bachao Andolan & Anr. [(2011) 7 SCC 639]; Kalyaneshwari v. Union of India & Anr. [(2011) 3 SCC 287)].

37. The person seeking equity must do equity. It is not just the clean hands, but also clean mind, clean heart and clean objective that are the equi-fundamentals of judicious litigation. The legal maxim jure naturae aequum est neminem cum alterius detrimento et injuria fieri locupletiorem, which means that it is a law of nature that one should not be enriched by the loss or injury to another, is the percept for Courts. Wide jurisdiction of the court should not become a source of abuse of the process of law by the disgruntled litigant. Careful exercise is also necessary to ensure that the litigation is genuine, not motivated by extraneous considerations and imposes an obligation upon the litigant to disclose the true facts and approach the court with clean hands.

38. No litigant can play 'hide and seek with the courts or adopt 'pick and choose'. True facts ought to be disclosed as the Court knows law, but not facts. One, who does not come with candid facts and clean breast cannot hold a writ of the court with soiled hands. Suppression or concealment of material facts is impermissible to a litigant or even as a technique of advocacy. In such cases, the Court is duty bound to discharge rule nisi and such applicant is required to be dealt with for contempt of court for abusing the process of the court. [K.D. Sharma v. Steel Authority of India Ltd. & Ors. [(2008) 12 SCC 481].

39. Another settled canon of administration of justice is that no litigant should be permitted to misuse the judicial process by filing frivolous petitions. No litigant has a right to unlimited drought upon the court time and public money in order to get his affairs settled in the manner as he wishes. Easy access to justice should not be used as a licence to file misconceived and frivolous petitions. (Buddhi Kota Subbarao (Dr.) v. K. Parasaran, (1996) 5 SCC 530)."

12. Now, it is to be seen as to whether the conduct of the respondents was in fact in abuse of the process of the Court. What is "abuse of process of Court" of course has not been defined or given any meaning in the Code of Civil Procedure. However, a party to a litigation can be said to be guilty of abuse of process of the Court in any of the following cases as held by the Hon'ble Madras High Court in Ranipet Municipality Rep. by its.... Vs. M. Shamsheerkhan, reported in 1998 (1) CTC 66 at paragraph 9. To quote:

" 9. It is this conduct of the respondent that is attacked by the petitioner as abuse of process of Court. What is 'abuse of the process of the Court'? Of course, for the term 'abuse of the process of the Court' the Code of Civil Procedure has not given any definition. A party to a litigation is said to be guilty of abuse of process of the Court, in any of the following cases:-

(1) Gaining an unfair advantage by the use of a rule of procedure.

(2) Contempt of the authority of the Court by a party or stranger.

(3) Fraud or collusion in Court proceedings as between parties.

(4) Retention of a benefit wrongly received.

(5) Resorting to and encouraging multiplicity of proceedings.

(6) Circumventing of the law by indirect means.

(7) Presence of witness during examination of previous witness.

(8) Institution vexatious, obstructive or dilatory actions.

(9) Introduction of Scandalous or objectionable matter in proceedings.

(10) Executing a decree manifestly at variance with its purpose and intent.

(11) Institution of a suit by a puppet plaintiff.

(12) Institution of a suit in the name of the firm by one partner against the majority opinion of other partners etc."

The above are only some of the instances where a party may be said to be guilty of committing of "abuse of process of the Court".

22. The petitioners by keeping these proceedings alive has gained an undeserved and unfair advantage. The petitioners have been successful in dragging the proceedings for a very long time on one count or the other and because of their wrongful possession they have drawn delight in delay in disposal of the cases by taking undue advantage of procedural complications. The case at hand shows that frivolous defences and frivolous litigation is a calculated venture involving no risks situation. One has only to engage professionals to prolong the litigation so as to deprive the rights of a person and enjoy the fruits of illegalities. The Court has been used as a tool by the petitioners to perpetuate illegalities and have perpetuated an illegal possession. It is on account of such frivolous litigation that the court dockets are overflowing. Here it is apt to reproduce the observations made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in paras 174, 175 and 197 of the judgment in Indian Council for Enviro-Legal Action vs. Union of India and others (2011) 8 SCC 161 which are as under:

174. In Padmawati vs Harijan Sewak Sangh, (2008) 154 DLT 411 (Del) decided by the Delhi high Court on 6.11.2008, the court held as under: (DLT p.413, para 6)

"6.The case at hand shows that frivolous defences and frivolous litigation is a calculated venture involving no risks situation. You have only to engage professionals to prolong the litigation so as to deprive the rights of a person and enjoy the fruits of illegalities. I consider that in such cases where Court finds that using the Courts as a tool, a litigant has perpetuated illegalities or has perpetuated an illegal possession, the Court must impose costs on such litigants which should be equal to the benefits derived by the litigant and harm and deprivation suffered by the rightful person so as to check the frivolous litigation and prevent the people from reaping a rich harvest of illegal acts through the Court. One of the aims of every judicial system has to be to discourage unjust enrichment using Courts as a tool. The costs imposed by the Courts must in all cases should be the real costs equal to deprivation suffered by the rightful person."

We approve the findings of the High Court of Delhi in the aforementioned case.

175. The Court also stated: (Padmawati case, DLT pp. 414-15, para 9)

"Before parting with this case, we consider it necessary to observe that one of the main reasons for over-flowing of court dockets is the frivolous litigation in which the Courts are engaged by the litigants and which is dragged as long as possible. Even if these litigants ultimately loose the lis, they become the real victors and have the last laugh. This class of people who perpetuate illegal acts by obtaining stays and injunctions from the Courts must be made to pay the sufferer not only the entire illegal gains made by them as costs to the person deprived of his right and also must be burdened with exemplary costs. Faith of people in judiciary can only be sustained if the persons on the right side of the law do not feel that even if they keep fighting for justice in the Court and ultimately win, they would turn out to be a fool since winning a case after 20 or 30 years would make wrongdoer as real gainer, who had reaped the benefits for all those years. Thus, it becomes the duty of the Courts to see that such wrongdoers are discouraged at every step and even if they succeed in prolonging the litigation due to their money power, ultimately they must suffer the costs of all these years long litigation. Despite settled legal positions, the obvious wrong doers, use one after another tier of judicial review mechanism as a gamble, knowing fully well that dice is always loaded in their favour, since even if they lose, the time gained is the real gain. This situation must be redeemed by the Courts."

197. The other aspect which has been dealt with in great details is to neutralize any unjust enrichment and undeserved gain made by the litigants. While adjudicating, the courts must keep the following principles in view.

1. It is the bounden duty and obligation of the court to neutralize any unjust enrichment and undeserved gain made by any party by invoking the jurisdiction of the court.

2. When a party applies and gets a stay or injunction from the court, it is always at the risk and responsibility of the party applying. An order of stay cannot be presumed to be conferment of additional right upon the litigating party.

3. Unscrupulous litigants be prevented from taking undue advantage by invoking jurisdiction of the Court.

4. A person in wrongful possession should not only be removed from that place as early as possible but be compelled to pay for wrongful use of that premises fine, penalty and costs. Any leniency would seriously affect the credibility of the judicial system.

5. No litigant can derive benefit from the mere pendency of a case in a court of law.

6. A party cannot be allowed to take any benefit of his own wrongs.

7. Litigation should not be permitted to turn into a fruitful industry so that the unscrupulous litigants are encouraged to invoke the jurisdiction of the court.

8. The institution of litigation cannot be permitted to confer any advantage on a party by delayed action of courts."

23. The further question which now arises is as to how to curb this tendency of abuse of process of court. As suggested in Kishore Samrita (supra), one of the ways to curb this tendency is to impose realistic or punitive costs. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ramrameshwari Devi and others Vs. Nirmala Devi and others, (2011) 8 Supreme Court Cases 249 took judicial notice of the fact that the courts are flooded with these kinds of cases because there is an inherent profit for the wrongdoers and stressed for imposition of actual, realistic or proper costs and it was held:-

"52. The main question which arises for our consideration is whether the prevailing delay in civil litigation can be curbed? In our considered opinion the existing system can be drastically changed or improved if the following steps are taken by the trial courts while dealing with the civil trials:

A. Pleadings are the foundation of the claims of parties. Civil litigation is largely based on documents. It is the bounden duty and obligation of the trial Judge to carefully scrutinize, check and verify the pleadings and the documents filed by the parties. This must be done immediately after civil suits are filed.

B. The court should resort to discovery and production of documents and interrogatories at the earliest according to the object of the Act. If this exercise is carefully carried out, it would focus the controversies involved in the case and help the court in arriving at the truth of the matter and doing substantial justice.

C. Imposition of actual, realistic or proper costs and/or ordering prosecution would go a long way in controlling the tendency of introducing false pleadings and forged and fabricated documents by the litigants. Imposition of heavy costs would also control unnecessary adjournments by the parties. In appropriate cases the courts may consider ordering prosecution otherwise it may not be possible to maintain purity and sanctity of judicial proceedings.

D. The court must adopt realistic and pragmatic approach in granting mesne profits. The court must carefully keep in view the ground realities while granting mesne profits.

E. The courts should be extremely careful and cautious in granting ex parte ad interim injunctions or stay orders. Ordinarily short notice should be issued to the defendants or respondents and only after hearing the parties concerned appropriate orders should be passed.

F. Litigants who obtained ex parte ad interim injunction on the strength of false pleadings and forged documents should be adequately punished. No one should be allowed to abuse the process of the court.

G. The principle of restitution be fully applied in a pragmatic manner in order to do real and substantial justice.

H. Every case emanates from a human or a commercial problem and the court must make serious endeavour to resolve the problem within the framework of law and in accordance with the well-settled principles of law and justice.

I. If in a given case, ex parte injunction is granted, then the said application for grant of injunction should be disposed of on merits, after hearing both sides as expeditiously as may be possible on a priority basis and undue adjournments should be avoided.

J. At the time of filing of the plaint, the trial court should prepare a complete schedule and fix dates for all the stages of the suit, right form filing of the written statement till pronouncement of the judgment and the courts should strictly adhere to the said dates and the said timetable as far as possible. If any interlocutory application is filed then the same be disposed of in between the said dates of hearing fixed in the said suit itself so that the date fixed for the main suit may not be disturbed."

24. Prior to this the Hon'ble Supreme Court in South Eastern Coalfields Ltd. Vs. State of M.P (2003) 8 SCC 648 had held that the litigation should not turn into a fruitful industry and observed as under :-

"28. …… Litigation may turn into a fruitful industry. Though litigation is not gambling yet there is an element of chance in every litigation. Unscrupulous litigants may feel encouraged to approach the courts, persuading the court to pass interlocutory orders favourable to them by making out a prima facie case when the issues are yet to be heard and determined on merits and if the concept of restitution is excluded from application to interim orders, then the litigant would stand to gain by swallowing the benefits yielding out of the interim order even though the battle has been lost at the end. This cannot be countenanced. We are, therefore, of the opinion that the successful party finally held entitled to a relief assessable in terms of money at the end of the litigation, is entitled to be compensated by award of interest at a suitable reasonable rate for the period for which the interim order of the court withholding the release of money had remained in operation."

25. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Indian Council for Enviro-legal Action Vs. Union of India and others, (2011) 8 Supreme Court Cases 161 observed:-

"191. In consonance with the principles of equity, justice and good conscience Judges should ensure that the legal process is not abused by the litigants in any manner. The court should never permit a litigant to perpetuate illegality by abusing the legal process. It is the bounden duty of the court to ensure that dishonesty and any attempt to abuse the legl process must be effectively curbed and the court must ensure that there is no wrongful, unauthorized or unjust gain for anyone by the abuse of the process of the court. One way to curb this tendency is to impose realistic costs, which the respondent or the defendant has in fact incurred in order to defend himself in the legal proceedings. The courts would be fully justified even imposing punitive costs where legal process has been abused. No one should be permitted to use the judicial process for earning undeserved gains or unjust profits. The court must effectively discourage fraudulent, unscrupulous and dishonest litigation.

192. The court's constant endeavour must be ensure that everyone gets just and fair treatment. The court while rendering justice must adopt a pragmatic approach and in appropriate cases realistic costs and compensation be ordered in order to discourage dishonest litigation. The object and true meaning of the concept of restitution cannot be achieved or accomplished unless the courts adopt a pragmatic approach in dealing with the cases.

193. This Court in a very recent case Ramrameshwari Devi v. Nirmala Devi had an occasion to deal with similar questions of law regarding imposition of realistic costs and restitution. One of us (Bhandari, J.) was the author of the judgment. It was observed in that case as under: (SCC pp. 268-69, paras 54-55)

> "54. While imposing costs we have to take into consideration pragmatic realities and be realistic as to what the defendants or the respondents had to actually incur in contesting the litigation before different courts. We have to also broadly take into consideration the prevalent fee structure of the lawyers and other miscellaneous expenses which have to be incurred towards drafting and filing of the counter-affidavit, miscellaneous charges towards typing, photocopying, court fee, etc.
> 55. The other factor which should not be forgotten while imposing costs is for how long the defendants or respondents were compelled to contest and defend the litigation in various courts. The appellants in the instant case have harassed the respondents to the hilt for four decades in a totally frivolous and dishonest litigation in various courts. The appellants have also wasted judicial time of the various courts for the last 40 years."

26. The facts of the case are extremely disturbing where unscrupulous persons, having no connection with the premises in question, have clinged on to the premises and have successfully resisted the decree of eviction passed more than three decades ago in the year 1986.

27. The Hon'ble Privy Council, as far back as in the year 1925 had observed in the case of Kuer Jang Bahadur Vs. Bank of Upper India Ltd, Lucknow, AIR 1925 Oudh 448 that the Courts in India have to be careful to see that process of the Civil Court and law of procedure are not abused by the judgment-debtors in such a way as to make Courts of law instrumental in defrauding creditors, who have obtained decrees in accordance with their rights.

28. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in T. Arivandandam Vs. T.V. Satyapal & anr (1977) 4 SCC 467 has held;

> "2……The sharp practice or legal legerdemain of the petitioner, who is the son of the 2nd respondent, stultifies the court process and makes decrees with judicial seals brutum fulmen. The long arm of the law must throttle such litigative caricatures if the confidence and credibility of the community in the judicature is to survive….."

29. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Babu Lal Vs. M/s Hazari Lal Kishori Lal & ors (1982) 1 SCC 525, observed that

> "...... procedure is meant to advance the cause of justice and not to retard it. The difficulty of the decree holder starts in getting possession in pursuance of the decree obtained by him. The judgment debtor tries to thwart the execution by all possible objections………"

30. In Suresh Chander Jain Vs. Jai Krishna Swami & ors 1993 (2) ARC 484, the Hon'ble Supreme Court had occasion to examine a case where the tenant made repeated attempts to hold on to the tenanted premises inspite of the directions given by the court to vacate the premises and in this connection observed as under:

> "This case is of sheer abuse of the process of the Court. The respondents suffered an ex-parte decree which this Court ultimately confirmed and dismissed the S.L.P. No. 8382 of 1992 on July 9, 1992. The respondents also had given an undertaking that they will vacate the premises within three months from the date of the High Court order. The High Court order was on July 1, 1992, reported in 1992 (2) ARC 246. They did not vacate. Again they launched upon the second front of litigation and filed a Writ Petition No. 3466606/92 which was dismissed by the High Court on August 18, 1992, reported in 1992 (2) ARC 645. Thereafter, a Regular Suit No. 400 of 1992 was got filed in the Court of the Civil Judge, Mahura through proxy for declaration and injunction. Civil Suit was dismissed on September 1, 1992 which was confirmed by the Division Bench of the High Court on September 30, 1992. Again in the third round of litigation in execution objecting as to jurisdiction was raised but disallowed by the Executing Court. Two proceedings were initiated against that order one before the Second Additional Civil Judge, Mathura and another by the writ petition in which the impugned orders came to be made. It is stated that the High Court has heard the matter and the orders were reserved. That order does not detain us from disposing of the matter on merits. As stated earlier, this process adopted by the respondents is in sheer abuse of the process of the Court and cannot be permitted to agitate the matter even on points of jurisdiction. The appeals are allowed with exemplary costs fixed at Rs. 15,000/-. The orders of the High Court as well as of the District Court are set aside. The Execution Court is directed to give police assistance and to deliver the possession of the property within a period of two weeks from the date of the receipt of this order."

31. In Marshall Sons & Co. (I) Ltd. Vs. Sahi Oretrans (P) Ltd & anr*, (1999) 2 SCC 325, it was observed by the Hon'ble Supreme as under:

> "4……….it appears to us, prima facie, that a decree in favour of the appellant is not being executed for some reason or the other, we do not think it proper at this stage to direct the respondent to deliver the possession to the appellant since the suit filed by the respondent is still pending. It is true that proceedings are dragged for a long time on one count or the other and on occasion become highly technical accompanied by unending prolixity, at every stage providing a legal trap to the unwary. Because of the delay unscrupulous parties to the proceedings take undue advantage and person who is in wrongful possession draws delight in delay in disposal of the cases by taking undue advantage of procedural complications. It is also known fact that after obtaining a decree for possession of immovable property, its execution takes long time.......”

32. In Rajappa Hanamantha Ranoji Vs. Mahadev Channabasappa & ors (2000) 6 SCC 120, the Hon'ble Supreme Court made strong observation against such a tenant when it found that the tenant had adopted dubious method to deviate from the orders of the court and held as under:

“13.It is distressing to note that many unscrupulous litigants in order to circumvent orders of Courts adopt dubious ways and take recourse to ingenious methods including filing of fraudulent litigation to defeat the orders of Courts. Such tendency deserves to be taken serious note of and curbed by passing appropriate orders and issuing necessary directions including imposing of exemplary costs. As noticed, despite eviction order having become final nearly a quarter century ago, respondent no.1 still could not enjoy the benefit of the said order and get possession because of the filing of the present suit by the brother of the person who had suffered the eviction order. Under these circumstances, we quantify the costs payable by the appellant to respondent no.1 at Rs.25,000/-.”

33. In Ravinder Kaur Vs. Ashok Kumar & anr (2003) 8 SCC 289, the Hon'ble observed as under:

“22........Courts of law should be careful enough to see through such diabolical plans of the judgment debtors to deny the decree holders the fruits of the decree obtained by them. This type of errors on the part of the judicial forums only encourage frivolous and cantankerous litigations causing laws delay and bringing bad name to the judicial system.”

34. In Gayatri Devi & ors Vs. Shashi Pal Singh, (2005) 5 SCC 527, the Hon'ble Supreme made the following observations:

“2.This appeal demonstrates how a determined and dishonest litigant can interminably drag on litigation to frustrate the results of a judicial determination in favour of the other side.”

35. In Pushpa Devi Bhagat Vs. Rajinder Singh & ors (2006) 5 SCC 566, the Hon'ble Supreme made the similar observations, which read thus:

“29. At the cost of repetition, we may recapitulate the facts of this case. The suit was a simple suit for possession by a landlord against a tenant filed in the year 1993. Plaintiff's evidence was closed in 1998. The contesting defendant (defendant No.2) did not lead any evidence, and her evidence was treated as closed. The matter was dragged on for 3 years for defendant's evidence after the conclusion of plaintiff's evidence. It was noted on 19.5.2001 that no further adjournment will be granted for the evidence of defendants 4 and 5 (who are not contesting the matter), on the next date of hearing (23.5.2001). When the matter finally came up on 23.5.2001, no evidence was tendered. On the other hand, a statement was made agreeing to vacate the premises by 22.1.2002. The trial court took care to ensure that the statements of both counsel were recorded on oath and signed. Thereafter, it passed a consent decree. The attempts of tenants in such matters to protract the litigation indefinitely by raising frivolous and vexatious contentions regarding the compromise and going back on the solemn undertaking given to court, should be deprecated. In this context, we may refer to the observation made by this Court a similar situation in Smt. Jamilabai Abdul Kadar v. Shankarlal Gulabchand [AIR 1975 SC 2202] .”

36. In Shub Karan Bubna alias Shub Karan Prasad Bubna Vs. Sita Saran Bubna & ors (2009) 9 SCC 689, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

> "27 In the present system, when preliminary decree for partition is passed, there is no guarantee that the plaintiff will see the fruits of the decree. The proverbial observation by the Privy Council is that the difficulties of a litigant begin when he obtains a decree. It is necessary to remember that success in a suit means nothing to a party unless he gets the relief. Therefore to be really meaningful and efficient, the scheme of the Code should enable a party not only to get a decree quickly, but also to get the relief quickly. This requires a conceptual change regarding civil litigation, so that the emphasis is not only on disposal of suits, but also on securing relief to the litigant."

37. In Satyawati Vs Rajinder Singh & anr, (2013) 9 SCC 491, three Judges' Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court have held as under:

> "16. As stated by us hereinabove, the position has not been improved till today. We strongly feel that there should not be unreasonable delay in execution of a decree because if the decree-holder is unable to enjoy the fruits of his success by getting the decree executed, the entire effort of successful litigant would be in vain."
> "17 We are sure that the executing court will do the needful at an early date so as to see that the long drawn litigation which was decided in favour of the appellant is finally concluded and the appellant-plaintiff gets effective justice."

38. From the aforesaid conspectus of law, it would be evidently clear that it is the duty of the court to put a ceiling on unnecessary delay in the matter of enjoying the fruits by a decree holder as is often said that a litigation in this country, particularly on the Civil side commences only after obtaining a decree while executing it. A person who approaches the court must be able to enjoy the fruits of a decree and he cannot be made to suffer indefinitely even after a contest of a claim in a Court of law.

39. Applying the above view and anxiety of the Hon'ble Privy Council, other Hon'ble Courts and also the principles laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court to the facts of the present case, this court is of the considered view that long litigation which has been decided in favour of respondent-landlord has only resulted in a decree in favour of landlord which can only become meaningful and efficient when the landlord not only gets the possession, but is also compensated for the entire period he has been deprived of the user of the property by granting of mesne profits.

40. The unscrupulous litigations like petitioners cannot simply walk away by not paying the use and occupation charges or the mesne profitis for the period they have enjoyed the property. Therefore, in such circumstances, I feel that the ends of justice would be met in case the learned executing court is directed to ensure that:

(i) the landlord is put in physical possession of the premises within a period of four weeks from today.;

(ii) the petitioners are made to pay use and occupation charges at the rate to be determined by the learned executing court for the entire period when the respondent/ landlord has been deprived of his property;

(iii) In addition to the mesne profits, the executing court shall award meaningful cost in favour of landlord in terms of the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ramrameshwari Devi, South Eastern Coalfields Ltd and Enviro-Legal cases (supra).

(iv) Till and so long, the possession of the premises is not handed over and further till and so long mesne profits, as determined by the executing court along with cost, are not paid to the landlord, petitioners shall not sell, mortgage, alienate, encumber or create a charge over the said property, known as Ram Singh House, Cart Road, Shimla-4, more specifically defined in Annexure P-6, or dispose of in any manner, save and except with the express leave and permission of the executing court and the undertaking, by affidavit, to this effect, will be filed by all the landlords/owners of the property before the executing court within a period of four weeks. The order shall be operative forthwith.

(v) In the event of petitioners failing to pay mesne profit so determined, the executing court shall be at liberty to attach the properties of the petitioners and in case still failure on their part to pay the mesne profit, the same be put to sale strictly in accordance with law.

With these observations, petition is dismissed, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

(Para-10 to 17)

For the appellant: Mr.D.N. Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr.Adarsh Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No.1, 4 and 5.
Nemo for respondents No.2, 3 and 7.
Mr.Bunesh Pal, Advocate, for respondent No.6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is the award, dated 20th September, 2010, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Kullu, District Kullu, H.P. (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.49 of 2008, titled Bhimi Devi and others vs. Prasoon Sharma and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.4,33,000/-, alongwith interest at the rate of 7% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till realization, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the owner and the driver were saddled with the liability jointly and severally, (for short the "impugned award").

2. The claimants, the driver and the insurer have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus, the same has attained finality so far as it relates to them.

3. Feeling aggrieved, the owner has filed the instant appeal on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen into an error in discharging the insurer from its liability.

4. Therefore, the only question to be determined in this appeal is – Whether the findings returned by the Tribunal viz. a viz. part of issue No.2 and issue No.5 are legally correct?

5. To answer the said question, it is useful to have a brief background of the facts of the case, which are enumerated hereinbelow.

6. On 14th May, 2008, Damodar Dass alias Dinesh Kumar, traveling in Jeep bearing No.HP-66-0495, which was being driven by its driver namely Bhupinder Singh rashly and negligently, and when the said Jeep reached near Najaan, it met with an accident, resulting into the death of said Damodar Dass on the spot. FIR bearing No.293, dated 15th May, 2008, was registered against the driver of the offending Jeep under Sections 279 and 304A of the IPC.

7. The claimants, being the dependants of the deceased, filed the claim petition claiming compensation to the tune of Rs.10.00 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

8. Original respondents resisted the claim petition by filing replies. On the pleadings of the parties, the Tribunal framed the following issues:

> "1. Whether Damodhar alias Dinesh kumar died in a motor accident on 14.5.2008 at about 10.30 p.m. at Kala Joul (Najaan) involving vehicle No.HP-66-0495 driven by respondent No.2, in a rash and negligent manner? OPP
>
> 2. If issue No.1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation the petitioners are entitled and from whom? OPP
>
> 3. Whether the present claim petition is not maintainable as alleged, if so its effect? OPR 1 and 2
>
> 4. Whether the driver of the vehicle No.HP-66-495 was not holding a valid and effective driving licence to drive the vehicle in question, if so, its effect? OPR-3
>
> 5. Whether the deceased was unauthorized/gratuitous passenger, as alleged, if so its effect? OPR-3

9. Parties led their evidence and the Tribunal allowed the claim petition and saddled the owner with the liability as discussed hereinabove.

10. The Tribunal, after referring to the pleadings of the parties and the evidence, held that the accident had occurred due to the rash and negligent driving of the driver of the offending Jeep, namely, Bhupinder Singh, which findings are borne out from the records. Otherwise also, the said findings are not disputed. Therefore, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.1 are upheld.

11. Before issues No.2 and 5 are taken up for discussion, I deem it proper determine issues No.3 and 4 at the first instance. Onus to prove issue No.3 was upon the owner and the driver and it was for them to prove that the claim petition was not maintainable, have failed to do so. Even otherwise, the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short, the Act) has gone through a sea change and sub section (6) to Section 158 and sub section (4) to Section 166 have been added. Section 158(6) provides that the Incharge of the Police Station concerned has to submit a report about the traffic accident to the Tribunal having the jurisdiction and that report has to be treated as Claim Petition by the Tribunal in terms of Section 166(4) of the Act. Thus, even filing of claim petition is not mandatory for grant of compensation in terms of the said amendment. Therefore, it does not lie in the mouth of the owner and the driver to urge on flimsy grounds that the claim petition was not maintainable. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.3 are upheld.

12. As far as issue No.4 is concerned, it was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver of the offending Jeep was not having a valid and effective driving licence, has not led any evidence. Driving licence of the driver was proved on record as PW-3/A which was valid and effective at the time of accident. Therefore, the Tribunal has rightly decided issue No.4 and the said findings are liable to be upheld.

13. Coming to issues No.2 and 5, the claimants filed the claim petition in September, 2008 and in paragraph 24 thereof, they pleaded that the deceased boarded the offending Jeep at Jorang, and when the said Jeep reached at Kala Joul near Najan, it met with the accident. The claimants nowhere pleaded that the deceased had hired the Jeep for transportation of goods and was sitting in the Jeep as owner of the goods or was traveling in the said Jeep as labourer for loading/unloading of goods

14. It is pertinent to mention here that the claimants, after noticing the reply, amended the claim petition. Even in the amended claim petition, the claimants have not pleaded that the deceased was traveling in the offending jeep as labourer for loading/unloading of goods or had hired the said Jeep for transportation of goods.

15. The driver and the owner filed the joint reply and in the reply there is no murmur that the deceased had hired the said Jeep for the purpose of carrying goods or was engaged as labourer for loading/unloading of goods.

16. Admittedly, the offending Jeep was a goods carriage vehicle and not a passenger vehicle. As discussed above, the learned counsel for the appellant/insured was not in a position to show from the records as to in which capacity the deceased was traveling in the offending Jeep. The Tribunal has rightly made discussion in paragraph 22 of the impugned award and has rightly held that the deceased was traveling in the offending Jeep as gratuitous passenger. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.5 are upheld.

17. What follows from the above discussion is that the owner/insured has violated the terms and conditions of the insurance policy and therefore, the owner/insured has rightly been held liable to pay the amount of compensation. The quantum of compensation is not in dispute. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.2 are also upheld.

18. Having said so, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed. As stated by the learned counsel for the appellant, the appellant has deposited the entire amount in the Registry of this Court. The Registry is directed to release the amount, alongwith interest, in favour of the claimants forthwith, through their bank accounts, strictly in terms of the impugned award.

19. The appeal is disposed of accordingly.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Claimant has tendered in evidence copies of cash memos, which disclose that the claimant has incurred the expenditure of Rs. 1,00,233/- on treatment- thus, claimant is entitled to Rs. 1,00,233/- under the head 'medical expenses'- claimant has suffered 20% permanent disability – he has undergone pain and suffering and is entitled to Rs. 50,000/- under the head 'pain and sufferings' and Rs. 50,000/- under the head 'loss of amenities of life'- claimant remained admitted in the hospital and services of attendant were required- hence, expenses of Rs. 25,000/- under the head 'attendant charges and other charges' awarded- thus, claimant is entitled to Rs. 1,00,233 + 50,000/- + 50,000/- + 25,000/- = Rs. 2,25,233/- along with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till realization. For the Appellant : Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Senior Advocate with Mr. Nishant Kumar, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. Suneet Goel, Advocate, for respondent No. 1. Nemo for respondents No. 2 & 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Challenge in these appeals is to the award dated 15th January, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Hamirpur, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as 'the Tribunal'), in M.A.C. Petition No. 43 of 2008, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.80,000/-with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and the insurer was saddled with liability, (hereinafter referred to as 'the impugned award').

2. The owner and driver have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far it relates to them.

3. By the medium of FAO No. 194 of 2011, the insurer has questioned the impugned award on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling it with liability.

4. In FAO No. 340 of 2011, the claimant has questioned the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation.

5. Alongwith FAO No. 94 of 2011, driver and owner have also filed Cross Objection No. 323 of 2011, on the grounds taken in the memo of cross-objections.

6. In view of the above, I deem it proper to determine both these appeals by this common judgment.

7. The claimant had filed claim petition before the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.80,000/- as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

8. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents on the grounds taken in their memo of objections.

9. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal:

> "1. Whether the petitioner has suffered injuries due to rash and negligent driving of Car No. HP-20C-0911 by its driver-respondent No. 2, as alleged? …OPP
>
> 2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioner/claimant is entitled to compensation, if so, to what amount and which of the respondent? …OPP
>
> 3. Whether the petition is not maintainable in the present form?….OPRs
>
> 4. Whether respondent No. 2 was not holding a valid and effective driving licence to drive the vehicle in question at the time of accident?…..OPR-3
>
> 5. Whether the petition is bad for non-joinder and mis-joinder of necessary parties?…OPR-3

10. The claimant examined LHC Parma Nand (PW-1), Sanjeev Kumar (PW-2), Rajesh Kumar (PW-3), Smt. Anjana Kumari (PW-4), Dr. Ramesh Chauhan (PW-5) and Dr. Neelam Joshi (PW-6). On the other hand, the owner and driver stepped into the witness box as RW-1 and RW-2, respectively. The owner also examined her husbnad Dev Dutt Sharma as RW-3. The insurer has not led any evidence. Thus, the evidence led by the driver and owner has remained unrebutted.

11. Admittedly, the FIR No. 80 of 2008, dated 19.04.2008, under Sections 279 & 337 of the Indian Penal Code and Section 187 of the Motor Vehicles Act, was registered against driver Joginder Singh, who was facing trial before the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Nadaun, District Hamirpur.

12. The claimant has examined LHC Parma Nand (PW-1), who has proved FIR as Ext. PW-1/A. He has also examined Sanjeev Kumar, Criminal Ahlmad of the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Nadaun, District Hamirpur, as PW-2, who has stated that FIR No. 80 of 2008, was lodged against Joginder Singh and final report in terms of Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was presented before the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Nadaun, District Hamirpur, where said Joginder Singh is facing trail.

13. Thus, there is sufficient evidence on the file to the effect that driver Joginder Singh was driving the offending vehicle rashly and negligently and caused the accident. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 1 are upheld.

14. Before I deal with Issue No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with Issues No. 3 to 5.

Issues No. 3 to 5.

15. The respondents have not led any evidence to prove Issues No. 3 to 5. Viewed thus, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issues No. 3 to 5 are upheld.

16. The factum of insurance is admitted. The insurer has not led any evidence to prove that the owner has committed any willful breach. Accordingly, the insurer has to satisfy the liability.

Issue No. 2.

17. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in assessing the compensation for the following reasons.

18. In para-46 of the impugned award, the Tribunal has recorded that the claimant has tendered in evidence copies of cash memos/receipts Ext. PW-6/A-5 to Ext. PW6/A-18, which disclose that the claimant has incurred the expenditure to the tune of Rs.1,00,233/- on treatment. Thus, the claimant has proved that he was entitled to Rs.1,00,233/- under the head 'medical expenses'. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in awarding compensation to the tune of Rs.50,000/- under the head 'medical expenses'. Accordingly, the claimant is held entitled to the tune of Rs.1,00,233/- under the head 'medical expenses'.

19. It has come on the record that the claimant has suffered 20% permanent disability. Though, Dr. Ramesh Chauhan (PW-5) has stated that it has not affected his earning capacity, but the claimant has undergone pain and suffering and has to undergo the same throughout his life. Thus, I deem it proper to award compensation to the tune of Rs.50,000/- under the head 'pain and sufferings'.

20. The Tribunal has also fallen in an error in not awarding compensation under the head 'loss of amenities of life'. Thus, I deem it proper to award compensation to the tune of Rs.50,000/- under the head 'loss of amenities of life'.

21. It is also the admitted fact that the claimant remained admitted in the hospital and the services of an attendant were required which he had while he was admitted in the hospital and also for future. He also incurred expenses for visiting hospital. The Tribunal has awarded compensation to the tune of Rs.5,000/- under the 'attendant charges', which is too meager. Thus, I deem it proper to award compensation to the tune of Rs.25,000/- under the head 'attendant charges and other charges'.

22. Having said so, it is held that the claimant is entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.1,00,233 + Rs.50,000/- + 50,000/- + 25,000/- total amounting to Rs.2,25,233/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till realization.

23. The amount of compensation is enhanced and the impugned award is modified, as indicated above.

24. The insurer is directed to deposit the enhanced amount alongwith interest, within a period of six weeks from today before the Registry. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the entire amount in favour of the claimant, strictly in terms of conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees account cheque or by depositing in his account.

25. Accordingly, the appeals are disposed of and the cross objections are dismissed.

26. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

(Para-30 to 33)

For the appellant: Mr. Varun Rana, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This appeal is instituted against the judgment dated 21.5.2011, rendered by the learned Special Judge (Addl. Sessions Judge), Mandi, H.P., in Corruption Case No. 3/2005(1999), whereby the appellant-accused (hereinafter referred to as the accused), was charged with and tried for offences punishable under Sections 468, 471, 409, 120B IPC and Section 5(2) (old)/Section 13(2) (new) of the Prevention of Corruption Act. The accused was acquitted under Sections 467 and 120B IPC. He was convicted and sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for two years and to pay fine of Rs. 10,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo simple imprisonment for two months for the commission of offence punishable under Section 409 IPC. He was also convicted and sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for two years and to pay fine of Rs. 10,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo simple imprisonment for two months for the commission of offence punishable under Section 468 IPC. He was further convicted and sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for two years and to pay fine of Rs. 2,00,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo simple imprisonment for one year for the commission of offence punishable under Section 13(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act. All the sentences were ordered to run concurrently.

2. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that accused Rajinder Singh was posted as Clerk-cum-cashier in the office of Project Director, Desert Development Project Kaza. Accused Dharam Chand was posted as SDC in the office of Assistant Engineer, Tindi. Deepak Shanan (PW-22) was posted as ADC Kaza. All the projects were under ADC under single line administration. Building of the Veterinary Dispensary was being constructed under Desert Development Project. Executive Engineer Kaza was executing the work. An amount of Rs. 1,00,000/- was provided to the Executive Engineer vide cheque No. A/147-0258098 dated 2.6.1987 and an amount of Rs. 1,00,000/- was provided vide cheque No. A/147-0258311 dated 1.4.1987. Receipt Ext. PW-4/F was issued by the Executive Engineer and this amount was duly reflected in the cashbook. Cheque No. A/147-0258093 was issued by the Project Director. It was endorsed in favour of Rajinder Singh Rawat. It was encashed on the same day. A sum of Rs. 1,00,000/- was stated to have been paid to the Executive Engineer Kaza. Temporary receipt Ext. PW-4/D was issued by the Executive Engineer. The receipt was written by Dharam Chand, SDC. It transpired that only Rs. 2,00,000/- was deposited with the PWD instead of Rs. 3,00,000/-. This fact came to the notice of Charan Dass (PW-1) when PW-1 Charan Dass went to Deepak Shanan to submit progress and expenditure report. A sum of Rs. 3,00,000/- was shown to have been disbursed to Public Works Department (PWD). Deepak Shanan told that a sum of Rs. Rs. 2,00,000/- was paid to PWD Authorities and not Rs. 3,00,000/-. Charan Dass verified the record and found that a sum of Rs. 3,00,000/- was deposited with PWD. Telegram was sent to Deepak Shanan. Record was also produced before him. Letter Ext. PW-3/D was issued by the Executive Engineer, HP PWD that only a sum of Rs. 2,00,000/- was received and cheque No. 0258093 was mentioned in place of cheque No. 0258098. The audit was conducted by A.R.Sharma (PW-8) who found that Rs. 2,00,000/- was paid to HP PWD vide cheques Ext. P-3 and P-4. Rs. 1,00,000/- was shown to have been paid to HP PWD in the cashbook but no such amount was in fact paid to HP PWD. He submitted report Ext. PW-7/A. It was further found during the investigation that a sum of Rs. 34203/- was also misappropriated by the accused during the year 1986-87. Accused had taken detail from Rattan Singh, Store Keeper (PW-6) but Rs. 22,000/- and Rs. 250/- were not entered in the receipt columns. Whereas these were shown to have been paid vide voucher No. 56-57 dated 14.10.1987. Rs. 2200/- and Rs. 600/- were not entered in the receipt and payment column. Rs. 2408.25 received from ITDP department Project Officer and Rs. 3744.75 received from Rattan Singh, Storekeeper were not entered in the cashbook. Rs. 3000/- was shown to have been paid to Smt. Yankit Dolma (PW-19) twice. In this way, accused Rajinder Singh misappropriated Rs. 1,34,203/- during the year 1986-87, 1987-88. Accused Dharam Chand had entered into conspiracy to misappropriate a sum of Rs. 1,00,000/-. The investigation was completed and the challan was put up after completing all the codal formalities.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as twenty five witnesses. Accused Dharam Chand died during the pendency of trial. Accused Rajinder Singh was also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The learned trial Court convicted and sentenced the accused, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. Varun Rana Advocate, has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused and the accused could not be charged under Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988. However, the fact of the matter is that the accused was charged under Section 5(2) of the previous Act and now Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, as per the charge framed by the learned Special Judge. Mr. Varun Rana, Advocate, has also argued that the statements recorded earlier in time could not be read in evidence. The fact of the matter is that the statements were duly exhibited when these witnesses were again re-examined. On the other hand, Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Dy. Advocate General has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 21.5.2011.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for both the sides and have also gone through the judgment and records of the case carefully.

6. This case has a chequered history. The prosecution has examined initially PW-1 Charan Dass as PW-4, PW-2 Surinder Singh as PW-3, PW-3 Shakti Singh as PW-20, PW-5 Navrata Ram as PW-10, PW-6 Rajinder Singh as PW-11, PW-9 J.S.Guleria as PW-5 and PW-11 R.P. Sharma as PW-19.

7. PW-1 Charan Dass testified that he was posted as Superintendent (Grade-II), Desert Development Project, Kaza. His statement was recorded vide Ext. PW-1/A before the learned Special Judge, Kullu on 2.1.2001 and he sought the permission to read the same in evidence in this case. PW-1 in his statement has deposed that he was posted as Superintendent (Grade-II), Desert Development Project, Kaza in the year 1987. He took charge from Rajinder Singh Rawat. Mr. Deepak Shanan at that time was ADC Kaza. He was ex-officio Director of DDP, Kaza. Under single line administration, all departments, at Kaza were under administrative control of ADC Kaza. All projects and plannings were done under direct control of veterinary dispensary, Kaza through PWD by depositing the amount. DDP Kaza used to get funds from the Central Government and State Government. After his joining as Superintendent Project Director, Kaza, Mr. Deepak Shanan asked for progress report of expenditure for sending to State Headquarter. He prepared the report. When he prepared the report, he found Rs. 3,00,000/- having been given to the PWD for deposit work. When the statement was shown by him to Mr. Shanan at Shimla he told that they had given only Rs. 2,00,000/- to the PWD authorities and not Rs. 3,00,000/-by showing Rs. 2,00,000/- having been given to the PWD by way of deposit. He after coming to Kaza again verified the record which showed deposit of Rs. 3,00,000/- with

PWD and qua which he sent telegram to headquarter at Shimla and also sent reports. At that time Deepak Shanan was posted as Dy. Secretary (Finance), H.P. Government, Shimla having dual charge of Project Director, DDP, Kaza. Thereafter, he took the record from Kaza to Shimla and showed the same to Deepak Shanan that as per record a sum of Rs. 3,00,000/- were deposited with PWD and not Rs. 2,00,000/-. He has seen the writing of the accused and he was conversant with his writing and signatures. He has seen the original cashbook Ext. P-1 and at page 93 there is entry of cheque No. 0258098 dated 2.6.1987 amounting to Rs. 1,00,000/-. It was entered on 30.6.1987 in the cashbook. The cheque was in the name of Executive Engineer, PWD, Kaza but as per entry the cheque was taken in cash book and this entry Ext. PW-4/A was in the hands of accused. Cheque of this entry is Ext. P-2. Cheque bearing No. 0258311 dated 1.9.1987 for Rs. 1,00,000/- Ext. P-3 was issued to Executive Engineer, PWD, Kaza and qua this cheque at page No. 113 of Ext. P-1 there is entry which is in the hands of accused vide Ext. PW-4/B. Cheque bearing No. 258093 dated 14.4.1987 of Rs. 2,00,000/- Ext. P-4 was issued in favour of self and entry of this cheque is at page 93 of Ext. P-1. This entry Ext. PW-4/C is in the hands of accused Rajinder Singh Rawat. Amount of cheque Ext. P-4 was withdrawn by Rajinder Singh Rawat and he identified his signatures on back of the cheque Ext. P-4. Amount of cheque Ext. P-4 as per receipt Ext. PW-4/D was received by Dharam Chand Thakur accused on behalf of Asstt. Engineer, HP PWD, Kaza. As per entry in Ext. P-1 at page 99, which is in the hands of accused Rajinder Singh Rawat, an amount of Rs. 1,00,000/- was handed over to Executive Engineer B & R Kaza in cash. This entry is Ext. PW-4/E. The cheque though Ext. P-4 was drawn for Rs. 2,00,000/-, payment in cash was made for Rs. 1,00,000/- to Asstt. Engineer, B & R, Kaza. Amount of cheque Ext. P-2 and P-3 was handed over to Asstt. Engineer, B & R, Kaza qua which receipt Ext. PW-4/F was obtained. In his cross-examination on 20.10.2003 by Y.R. Deshta, Advocate, he admitted that all the government transactions were made by way of cheques and drafts. He denied that whenever any cheque was received in the office the temporary receipt was issued by the department. Volunteered that whenever original cheque was received in the department, the original receipt was issued. He denied that when the cheque was encashed only thereafter permanent receipt was issued. Temporary receipt was replaced by permanent receipt on encashment. On issuance of permanent receipt, temporary receipt was returned. Entry in the cashbook was made only once against both the receipts.

8. PW-2 Surender Singh deposed that his statement was recorded vide Ext. PW-2/A before the learned Special Judge, Kullu on 1.1.2001 and he prayed that the same may be read in evidence in this case. He was not cross-examined at all.

9. PW-3 Shakti Singh deposed that he was posted as Branch Manager, SBI Kaza. His statement was recorded vide Ext. PW-3/A before the learned Special Judge, Kullu on 18.6.2001 and he prayed that the same may be read in evidence in this case. He was also not cross-examined. In Ext. PW-3/A, he deposed that on 26.10.1989, Vigilance Police, Kullu took from bank custody cheques Ext. P-2 to P-4 qua which memo was prepared.

10. PW-5 Narottam deposed that his statement was recorded vide Ext. PW-5/A before the learned Special Judge, Kullu on 3.1.2001 and prayed that the same may be read in evidence in this case. In Ext. PW-5/A, he deposed that letters Ext PW-8/A and PW-8/B were handed over by him to the Vigilance Department through memo Ext. PW-10/A.

11. PW-6 Rattan Singh deposed that his statement was recorded vide Ext. PW-6/A before the learned Special Judge, Kullu and he prayed that the same may be read in evidence in this case. In Ext. PW-6/A he deposed that he remained posted as storekeeper Desert Development Project Kaza from 1978 to 1985. He came on deputation as storekeeper in Desert Development Project Kaza in the year 1986. The charge of petrol and diesel of the project was with him. For purchase of petrol-diesel, he used to get money from head clerk Rajinder Singh Rawat. He used to give account to Rajinder Singh Rawat. Entire account and vouchers used to be given by him to Rajinder Singh Rawat. He did not recall to what extent and what amount was taken and settled with Rajinder Singh Rawat qua petrol and diesel. He proved details of expenditure Ext. PW-11/A. At the time of preparing it, he handed over cash of Rs. 3744/- to Rajinder Singh Rawat who signed Ext. PW-11/A in his presence.

12. PW-7 Shamsher Singh deposed that on 23.10.1990, ACJM, Kullu had moved an application Ext. PW-7/A before him and requested him to take specimen signatures and handwriting of Rajinder Singh Rawat. He took specimen signature and handwriting of the accused vide Ext. PW-7/B in ten sheets which are Ext. PW-7/J to PW-7/L.

13. PW-8 Atma Ram deposed that his statement was recorded vide Ext. PW-8/A before the learned Special Judge, Kullu and he prayed that the same may be read in evidence in this case. In his cross-examination of Ext. PW-8/A, he testified that he went to Kaza to conduct audit of Desert Development Project Kaza. He conducted audit for the year 1987-88. After conducting audit, he submitted report to the Director, Rural Development Shimla. The report is Ext. PW-7/A. During audit he found that an amount of Rs. 2,00,000/- was to be paid to PWD out of which Rs. 1,00,000/- was paid under cheque No. A/147-0258098 dated 2.6.1987 and another cheque No. A/147-0258311 dated 1.9.1987 was issued. It was found that in accounts of Desert Development Project Kaza, an amount of Rs. 1,00,000/- was shown transmitted to PWD by way of draft for which temporary receipt was obtained from SDO Tindi and accounted for in the accounts. But it was found that the amount of Rs. 1,00,000/- shown paid to PWD through draft in fact was never paid and deposited in account of the PWD. As such in account books Rs. 3,00,000/- were shown to be paid to PWD but actually Rs. 2,00,000/- were paid and not Rs. 3,00,000/-. His audit report was based on cashbook, vouchers and other official documents.

14. PW-9 J.S.Guleria testified that his statement was recorded vide Ext. PW-9/A before the learned Special Judge, Kullu and he prayed that the same may be read in evidence in this case. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he called Ext. PW-4/D to be temporary as there is no meaning of it for the purpose of accounts. He deposed that permanent receipt is issued after receipt of the cheque and sending of the same under challan to the treasury. The receipt is sent to the concerned department after crediting of the amount in their account. Ext. PW-4/D is a temporary receipt given on demand. Temporary receipt is not meant for accounts purposes.

15. PW-11 R.P. Sharma, testified that his statement was recorded vide Ext. PW-11/A and he prayed that the same may be read in evidence in this case. In his examination-in-chief, as per Ext. PW-11/A, he stated that Deepak Shanan during that period was posted as ADC Kaza and vested with power of Director, Desert Project Development. For construction of Animal Husbandry building Kaza, a sum of Rs. 2,00,000/- in the shape of two cheques was received from Director, Desert Development, Kaza. Original receipt was issued on the clearance of cheque by the competent authority.

21. PW-19 Yankit Dolma deposed that her husband Dorje Chhering was working as Beldar in DDP at Kaza. About 12 years ago her husband fell ill and he was taken to Shimla for treatment. In his cross-examination, he deposed that cheques were received by the office of Executive Engineer, HP PWD Kaza. Volunteered that cheques issued in the name of Executive Engineer were received in the office of Asstt. Engineer. The cheque amount was deposited in the account of PWD Department. Entry of cashbook was verified by Project Director. The Project Director was equally liable in the present case because he had verified the entries.

23. PW-21 Kiran Kumar deposed that he remained posted as Range Officer in DDP Kaza from July, 1986 to October, 1988. Sh. Deepak Shanan was Project Director of DDP at that time. He used to take money from co-accused Rajinder Singh Rawat for payment of forest sectors. He received Rs. 81,000/- and Rs. 22,000/- from DDP Kaza. Rs. 81,000/- was received through cheque and Rs. 22,000/- was received in cash from Storekeeper Rattan Singh. Rs. 6,000/- was given to him by co-accused Rajinder Singh Rawat in cash.

24. PW-22 Deepak Shanan deposed that he remained posted as Project Director, Desert Development Project Kaza from August 1985 to March, 1988. Co-accused was working with him as Head Clerk. As Head Clerk, co-accused Rajinder Singh Rawat used to maintain cashbook and used to look after the accounts work of the Project. He used to conduct all the work which was related to bank. He did not remember the exact budget which was sanctioned for the construction of Animal Husbandry Building in the year 1987. The work of the building construction was entrusted to PWD. Cheque Ext. PW-20/B was filled by the co-accused Rajinder Singh Rawat and signed by him. An amount of Rs. 2,00,000/- was withdrawn by co-accused Rajinder Singh Rawat vide cheque Ext. PW-20/C. Co-accused Rajinder Singh Rawat had signed in the cheque Ext. PW-20/C in red circle at point Ext. PW-22/A. He identified signatures of co-accused Rajinder Singh Rawat. Cheque Ext. PW-20/B was sent to Executive Engineer, PWD, Kaza and cheque Ext. PW-18/B was also sent to him. Cashbook Ext. PW-20/E was prepared by the office which is in the hands of co-accused Rajinder Singh Rawat. The entry of Rs. 2,00,000/- was recorded by co-accused Rajinder Singh Rawat vide Ext. PW-22/B in register Ext. PW-20/E. Entry Ext. PW-22/C was also recorded by co-accused Rajinder Singh Rawat. He found that in the expenditure statement an amount of Rs. 3,00,000/- has been shown as deposit with Executive Engineer (B & R), Kaza for the construction of Animal Husbandry building. He distinctly found that only Rs. 2,00,000/- had been given to the Executive Engineer (B & R), Kaza. He asked the Head Clerk Charan Dass to re-examine the record and also cross-check with the PWD about the amount of deposit made with them. His statement was recorded before the learned Special Judge, Kullu vide Ext. PW-22/D. In his cross-examination, he admitted that cheques Ext. PW-18/B and PW-20/B were issued in the name of Executive Engineer, HP PWD, Kaza and payment was also withdrawn by them. These cheques have been signed by him. He has also verified the cashbook. He deposed that temporary receipt is issued when cheque or draft is received.

25. PW-23 S.K. Saxena deposed that he received the disputed documents for examination. He proved report Ext. PW-23/J. He came to the conclusion that the person who wrote the red enclosed writing stamped and marked S-1 to S-10 and A-1 to A-9 also wrote the red enclosed writings similarly stamped and marked as Q-1 to Q-7.

26. The statement of PW-1 Charan Dass was earlier recorded as PW-4 marked as PW-1/A. In his examination-in-chief vide Ext. PW-1/A, he testified that he has brought to the notice of Deepak Shanan that a sum of Rs. 3,00,000/- was paid and not Rs. 2,00,000/- for the construction of the Animal Husbandry building. He took record from Kaza to Shimla and showed the same to Deepak Shanan that as per record a sum of Rs. 3,00,000/- were deposited with PWD and not Rs. 2,00,000/-. He was well conversant with the hand writing and signatures of accused. He has seen the original cashbook Ext. P-1. At page 93 of the same, there was entry of cheque No. 0258098 dated 2.6.1987 amounting to Rs. 1,00,000/-. It was entered on 30.6.1987 in the cashbook. The cheque was in the name of Executive Engineer, PWD, Kaza but as per entry the cheque was taken in cash book and this entry Ext. PW-4/A was in the hands of accused. The cheque of this entry was Ext. P-2. Cheque bearing No. 0258311 dated 1.9.1987 for Rs. 1,00,000/- Ext. P-3 was issued to Executive Engineer, PWD, Kaza and qua this cheque at page No. 113 of Ext. P-1 there was entry which was in the hands of accused vide Ext. PW-4/B. Cheque bearing No. 258093 dated 14.4.1987 of Rs. 2,00,000/- Ext. P-4 was issued in favour of self and entry of this cheque was at page 93 of Ext. P-1, cashbook. This entry Ext. PW-4/C was also in the hands of accused R.S. Rawat. Amount of cheque Ext. P-4 was withdrawn by R.S. Rawat and he identified his signatures on back of the cheque Ext. P-4. The amount of cheque Ext. P-4 as per receipt Ext. PW-4/D was received by accused Dharam Chand Thakur on behalf of Asstt. Engineer, HP PWD, Kaza. According to entry in Ext. P-1 at page 99, which was in the hands of accused R.S. Rawat, an amount of Rs. 1,00,000/- was handed over to Executive Engineer B & R Kaza in cash. This entry is Ext. PW-4/E. The cheque though Ext. P-4 was drawn for Rs. 2,00,000/-, payment in cash was made for Rs. 1,00,000/- to Asstt. Engineer, B & R, Kaza. The amount of cheques Ext. P-2 and P-3 was handed over to Asstt. Engineer, B & R, Kaza qua which receipt Ext. PW-4/F was obtained.

27. PW-3 Shakti Singh vide Ext. PW-3/A deposed that he was posted as Branch Manager, SBI Kaza. He deposed that on 26.10.1989, Vigilance Police, Kullu took from bank custody cheques Ext. P-2 to P-4 qua which memo was prepared. PW-5 Narottam deposed that letters Ext PW-8/A and PW-8/B were handed over by him to the Vigilance Department through memo Ext. PW-10/A. The specimen signatures and hand writing of the accused were taken before PW-7 Shamsher Singh. The statement of PW-9 J.S.Guleria was recorded vide Ext. PW-9/A before the learned Special Judge, Kullu. In his examination-in-chief, he deposed that he succeeded Sh. S.P. Thakur in PWD Sub Division, Kaza. The amount of cheques Ext. P-2 and P-3 was received in the office and receipt was issued vide Ext. PW-4/F. This receipt bears his signatures. Ext. PW-4/D was temporary receipt. He did not know who issued the said receipt.

28. PW-11 R.P. Sharma, is the material witness. In his statement Ext. PW-11/A he deposed that Deepak Shanan during that relevant period was posted as ADC Kaza and vested with power of Director, Desert Project Development. For the construction of Animal Husbandry building Kaza, a sum of Rs. 2,00,000/- in the shape of two cheques was received from Director, Desert Development, Kaza. Both cheques were in the name of his designation. Cheques Ext. P-2 and P-3 were endorsed by him in favour of Asstt. Engineer, Kaza. The amount of both cheques was drawn and credited to their accounts. Except this amount or these two cheques, no other amount for construction of building was received from the Director. Thus, the prosecution has duly proved that though a sum of Rs. 3,00,000/- was released but only Rs. 2,00,000/- was received as per the statement of PW-19 R.P. Sharma, retired S.E., HP PWD.

29. PW-13 Dorje Funchuk deposed that as per the cashbook Ext. PW-13/B, an amount of Rs. 3,000/- was paid to Dorje Chhering as advance and entry was recorded at page 93 of document Ext. PW-13/B cashbook. He also testified that at page 107 of the cashbook, there is specific entry that an amount of Rs. 3,000/- was paid to the wife of Dorje Chhering, namely, Yankit Dolma. PW-14 N.C. Sood, was posted as Dy. Government Examiner of Questioned Documents at Shimla since 1969. He proved his opinion Ext. PW-14/B. According to his statement Ext. PW-14/A, the person who wrote the red enclosed writings and signatures stamped and marked as S-1/1 to S-10/1 and A-1/1 and A-2/1 also wrote the red enclosed writings and signatures similarly stamped and marked Q-1/1.

30. The statement of PW-8 Atma Ram was recorded vide Ext. PW-8/A before the learned Special Judge, Kullu. He has conducted the audit of Desert Development Project Kaza for the year 1987-88. After conducting audit, he submitted report to the Director, Rural Development Shimla. The report is Ext. PW-7/A. During the audit he found that in the accounts of Desert Development Project Kaza, an amount of Rs. 1,00,000/- was shown transmitted to PWD by way of draft for which temporary receipt was obtained from SDO Tindi and accounted for in the accounts. But it was found that the amount of Rs. 1,00,000/- shown to be paid to PWD through draft in fact was never paid and deposited in accounts of the PWD. As such in account books Rs. 3,00,000/- were shown to be paid to PWD but actually Rs. 2,00,000/- were paid and not Rs. 3,00,000/-. It is, thus duly proved as per the report Ext. PW-7/A that an amount of Rs. 1,00,000/- was never paid to PWD. In fact, it was misappropriated by the accused.

31. PW-22 Deepak Shanan has also deposed that in the expenditure statement, an amount of Rs. 3,00,000/- has been shown as deposit with Executive Engineer (B & R), Kaza for the construction of Animal Husbandry building. He distinctly found that only Rs. 2,00,000/- had been paid to the Executive Engineer (B & R), Kaza. The statement of PW-22 Deepak Shanan is duly corroborated by PW-1 Charan Dass who has reconciled the records. PW-23 S.K. Saxena has proved report Ext. PW-23/J. He has admitted the signatures and writing of co-accused Rajinder Singh Rawat. According to his opinion, the person who wrote the red enclosed writing stamped and marked as S-1 to S-10 and A-1 to A-9 also wrote the red enclosed writing similarly stamped and marked as Q-1 to Q-7.

32. It is evident from the contents of explanation Ext. PW-4/H and PW-23/C that accused himself had personally paid Rs. 1,00,000/- cash out of the cheque on 15.6.1987 to the official against receipt issued by the Office of Assistant Engineer, Tindi. The entry was made by him on 30.6.1987. Thus, his plea that he has handed over the cheque to the Executive Engineer and receipt was issued to him by Dharam Chand Thakur, STC is not acceptable. As a matter of fact, entry was made by him on 30.6.1987 showing said receipt at Voucher No. 167 dated 30.6.1987. It is evident from entry Ext. PW-4/E that an amount of Rs. 1,00,000/- was paid to Executive Engineer (B & R) for construction of veterinary building. It is duly proved that this letter was in the hand writing of the accused. Thereafter, money was paid by accused in cash and not by way of cheque. Receipt Ext. PW-18/A is regarding draft/Cheque No. A/147-0258093, dated 2.6.1987 for sum of Rs. 1,00,000/-. It was deposited in SBI Kaza on 15.6.1987. This transaction talks of payment by draft and not by cash. It is reiterated that PW-11 R.P.Sharma has admitted that he was paid only Rs. 2,00,000/- by means of cheques Ext. P-2 and P-3. This amount infact was drawn and credited to the accounts of the Department. No other amount was received from the Directorate. Receipt Ext. PW-4/F was issued regarding the cheques. There is no record of temporary receipts.

33. PW-8 Atma Ram has also got verified from the HP PWD that it has received only Rs. 2,00,000/- and not Rs. 3,00,000/-. In fact, an amount of Rs. 2,00,000/- was withdrawn by the accused by means of self drawn cheques. There was no provision for making payment by cash. Ext. PW-18/A cannot be accepted as receipt for the receipt of amount by the PWD. Ext. PW-22/E is the receipt issued by Yankit Dolma. It is duly proved that an amount of Rs. 3,000/- was paid to Dorje Chhering and the amount was entered at Sr. No. 93 of the cashbook. There was entry again at page No. 107 that an amount of Rs. 3000 was paid to Yankit Dolma. A sum of Rs. 3744.75 was handed over to the accused by PW-6 Rattan Singh. This amount has not been shown in the cashbook. It was also misappropriated by the accused. Thus, in all, the accused has misappropriated an amount of Rs. 106744.75. The accused was public servant and he was custodian of the government money. He has misappropriated the government money and thus committed criminal misconduct as defined under Section 5(2) of the old Act and now Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988. The accused has misappropriated a sum of Rs. 106744.75. The prosecution has proved the case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

34. Accordingly, there is no merit in this appeal and the same is dismissed. Bail bonds are cancelled.

For the appellants: Mr. J.L. Bhardwaj, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr.Jai Dev Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Mr. G.D. Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice, (Oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to the judgment and award dated 7.6.2010, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Kullu, H.P., in claim petition No. 15 of 2008, titled Kamla versus smt. Ratinder Garag and others, for short "the Tribunal", whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.1,65,000/- alongwith interest @ 7% per annum, came to be awarded in favour of the claimant, namely Kamla, hereinafter referred to as "the impugned award", for short.

2. Insurer, claimant and driver have not questioned the impugned award on any ground. Thus, it has attained the finality so far as it relates to them.

3. Thus, the only question to be determined in this appeal is whether the offending vehicle was being driven by Dinesh or by Smt. Ratinder Garag, at the relevant point of time.

4. The claimant had filed claim petition before the Tribunal for the grant of compensation, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the grounds taken in the memo of the claim petition.

5. During the pendency of the claim petition, an application under Order 1 Rule 10 of the Code of Civil Procedure, for short "CPC" was moved for arraying the Principal DAV School Ranghari Tehsil Manali District Kullu, H.P. owner of vehicle No. HP-58-3122 as party respondent, which was granted and the Principal DAV School Ranghari Tehsil Manali District Kullu was arrayed as respondent No. 1 A in the claim petition.

6. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents and following issues came to be framed.

(i) Whether the accident has taken place due to rash and negligent driving of respondent No.1, driver of the vehicle No. HP-58-3122, if so, its effect? OPP

(ii) If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation the petitioner is entitled and from whom? OPP.

(iii) Whether the vehicle in question was being driven by respondent No. 3 and not by driven by respondent No.1, if so, its effect? OPR1.

(iv) Whether the driver of the offending vehicle was not having valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, if so, its effect? OPR-2.

(v) Whether the vehicle was being plied in contravention of the provisions of the policy, if so, its effect? OPR-2.

(vi) Relief.

7. Parties have led the evidence.

8. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, held that the vehicle was being driven Smt. Ratinder Garag appellant No.1 herein. Thus, the insured/owner has violated the terms and conditions of the insurance policy and saddled the owner with the liability and exonerated the insurer.

9. It appears that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in marshalling out the facts of the case for the following reasons.

10. The grant of compensation is a social legislation for the benefit of the victims of the vehicular accident.

11. The mandate of Chapter XI of the Motor Vehicles Act provides for the grant of compensation to the victim without succumbing to the niceties and technicalities of procedure. It is beaten law of the land that technicalities or procedural wrangles and tangles have no role to play.

12. My this view is fortified by the judgment delivered by the apex court in Dulcina Fernandes and others vs. Joaquim Xavier Cruz and another,* reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 646, N.K.V. Bros. (P.) Ltd. versus M. Karumai Ammal and others etc., reported in AIR 1980 Supreme Court 1354 and Oriental Insurance Co. versus Mst. Zarifa and others, reported in AIR 1995 Jammu and Kashmir 81.

13. This Court has also laid down the similar principles of law in FAO No. 692 of 2008 decided on 4.9.2015 titled Cholamandlan MS General Insurance Co. Ltd. Versus Smt. Jamna Devi and others, FAO No. 287 of 2014 along with connected matter, decided on 18.9.2015 titled Tulsi Ram versus Smt. Mena Devi and others, FAO No. 72 of 2008 along with connected matter decided on 10.7.2015 titled Anil Kumar versus Nitim Kumar and others and FAO No. 174 of 2013 decided on 5.9.2014 titled Kusum Kumari versus M.D. U.P Roadways and others.

14. The claimant has also arrayed Dinesh driver as party respondent in the claim petition but has stated that the vehicle was being driven by Smt. Ratinder Garag at the relevant point of time.

15. Dinesh driver has filed the reply and he has admitted that he was driving the vehicle at the relevant point of time. It is apt to reproduce reply to preliminary objections No. 1 and reply to para 24(i) of the claim petition herein.

> "Preliminary objections:
>
> 1.That there was no negligence of whatsoever nature on the part of the replying respondent No. 1 as alleged rather the vehicle was being driven by respondent No. 3, as respondent No. 3 is the driver of DAV Public School Rangri, Tehsil Manali, District Kullu (Himachal Pradesh). As such the respondent No. 1 is not liable to pay any compensation to the petitioner and claim petition against respondent No, 1 is liable to be dismissed."
> 24(i)That para No. 24 (i) of the petition is denied for want of knowledge. Petitioners be put to strict proof of the same. It is also denied that the vehicle in question was being driven by the respondent No. 1 rather the same was being driven by respondent No. 3 and there is no negligence on the part of replying respondents. The accident took place due the negligence of the petitioner herself. Further, the vehicle in question is not registered in the name of the respondent No.1 whereas the same is registered in the name of Principal, DAV, Public School, Rangri, Tehsil Manali Distt. Kullu (Himachal Pradesh)."

16. In view of the above, it is admission on the part of the driver that he was driving the vehicle at the time of accident. They have also admitted that the accident has taken place and claimant has sustained the injuries. FIR was lodged against Dinesh driver which culminated in to the final report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, for short "Cr.P.C." Challan was presented before the Court of Judicial Magistrate Manali in which he was acquitted by granting benefit of doubt.

17. The prosecution has also set up a case before the trial Court that driver Dinesh was driving the vehicle at the relevant point of time. The said judgment is on record, is a public document, thus admissible in evidence.

18. Having said so, there is prima facie proof on the file that Dinesh was driving the offending vehicle at the time of accident. Accordingly, findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are set aside and it is held that Dinesh-respondent No.3 was driving the offending vehicle at the time of accident.

19. It is also admitted that the driver was having a valid and effective driving licence. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in discharging the insurer and saddling the owner with the liability. Viewed thus, the findings returned on issues No. 3, 4 and 5 are set aside.

20. The factum of insurance is also admitted. Thus, the insurer has to satisfy the award. The insurer is directed to satisfy the award and is directed to deposit the amount within eight weeks from today. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimant, through payees' cheque account or by depositing the same in her bank account, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award. Statutory amount of Rs.25,000/- is awarded as costs in favour of the claimant.

21. Having said so, the appeal is allowed, the impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove.

22. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.

By way of present appeal, the State has challenged the judgment passed by the Court of learned Special Judge-I, Sirmaur District at Nahan in Sessions Trial No. 23-ST/7 of 2010, vide which the learned Trial Court has acquitted the accused for the commission of offence under Section 20/61/85 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substance Act, 1985 (in short the 'Act').

2. The case of the prosecution was that on 18.12.2009 Inspector Om Parkash along with ASI Ranjeet Singh, HC Subhash Chand, Constables Mukesh Kumar, Mohd. Khalid and Kailash Panwar proceeded to Illaqua after making an entry in the Rapat Rojnamcha and at around 4:30 p.m., when they were present at Bus stand Sainwala, Inspector Om Parkash received secret information that accused Mukesh and Jagat Singh were standing in front of Punjabi Dhaba and if they were searched, some contraband can be recovered from their possession. Accused Mukesh was stated to be carrying a red and black coloured bag on his shoulder. On receipt of the said information, Inspector Om Parkash reduced into writing reasons of belief (Ext. PW8/A) and sent the same to Addl. Superintendent of Police, Nahan through constable Kailash Panwar. Thereafter Inspector Om Parkash associated independent witnesses Dilshad and Kamal Kumar as well as other police officials and proceeded towards the said Dhaba. At around 5:00 p.m., Inspector Om Parkash along with raiding party reached said Dhaba where two persons were standing outside the Dhaba and on asking their names, one of them disclosed his name Mukesh Mohan son of Yash Pal Singh, whereas second disclosed his name as Jagat Singh son of Dhongu Ram. A red and black coloured bag was hanging on the shoulder of accused Mukesh Mohan. Memo Ext. PW14/A seeking consent of accused Mukesh Mohan was issued by Inspector Om Parkash in presence of witnesses Dilshad Khan and Kamal Kumar and before searching the bag of accused Mukesh Mohan, the raiding party gave its personal search to accused vide memo Ext. PW4/A, which was signed by witnesses Raj Kumar and Jagdish. The search of the bag revealed one polythene envelope and on opening the same, black coloured substance in the shape of sticks was found which turned out to be charas. The same was weighed and it turned out to be 1.100 grams. Two samples of 25 grams were separated from the recovered charas which were put into the empty match boxes and the same were packed in a cloth packet and both samples were sealed with seal impression 'H'. The remaining bulk charas was put in a cloth packet and the same was sealed with seal impression 'H' and the same seal was taken on a piece of cloth. The bulk charas, bag and two samples were taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW2/A which was signed by both independent witnesses as well as the accused. The seal after use was handed over to witness Dilshad Khan. NCB forms in triplicate were filled on the spot and seal impression 'H' was affixed on the said forms. Jama Talashi of accused was also conducted and articles mentioned in Ext.PW14/B were recovered. Accused was arrested and informed of grounds of his arrest. The case property was produced before ASI Agya Ram Officiating SHO, Police Station Nahan along with sample seal, who after checking the same resealed the sample parcels and remaining charas with seal impression 'K'. Case property was deposited with MHC, Police Station Nahan along with sample seals, who forwarded the sample parcels along with sample seals and connected documents to SFSL, Junga through HHC Surender Singh who deposited the same at SFSL, Junga and as per report of Chemical Examiner, Ext. PZ, the same was found to be containing contents of charas. FIR Ext. PW11/A was registered at Police Station, Nahan on the basis of Rukka, Ext. PW13/A sent through Constable Mohd. Khalid. On completion of the investigation, challan was presented and as a prima facie case was found against the accused, he was charged for commission of offences under the NDPS Act. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

3. In order to substantiate its case, prosecution, in all, examined 14 witnesses, whereas, accused also examined one witness in defence.

4. HC Kamlesh Kumar entered the witness box as PW1 and stated that on 20.12.2009 a special report of the case was received from SIU, Nahan through Dak which was received by him which is Ext. PW1/A.

5. PW2 Dilshad Khan stated that he runs a Dhaba at Sainwala on Nahan-Kala Amb road. On 18.12.2009 he was associated by police in the case and at around 4-4:30 p.m, two persons were standing in front of his Dhaba. He further stated that police did not ask the name of those persons in his presence but he could identify those persons. This witness did not support the case of the prosecution and stated that none of accused was searched in his presence and he was busy in cooking and serving his customers. This independent witness was declared as hostile, as he resiled from his earlier statement and he was cross-examined by the Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination by the Public Prosecutor, he admitted it to be correct that one bag was searched in his presence and a polythene envelope was found inside the same and from it sticks of black substance were taken out and on smelling and tasting, were found to be charas. He has also admitted the case of the prosecution to the effect that the recovered charas weighed 1.100 grams and from it two samples were taken. In his cross-examination by the defence he has stated that the accused were taking tea outside the road and he did not know whether the bag was slung on the shoulder or lying on the table. As per this witness, he saw the bag first time with the police while it was checked. He admitted it to be correct that police asked from the accused whether the bag belonged to them and in answer to said query, the response of the accused was in negative. He has admitted it to be correct that there were reports in daily news that he was allegedly dealing with in trade of contraband.

6. HC Kunwar Singh entered into the witness box as PW3 and stated that on 18.12.2009 at around 11:30 p.m., a contraband parcel pertaining to this case was deposited by ASI Agya Ram and he made entries qua the above parcels in the Malkhana Register. He further deposed that on 21.12.2009 said parcels along with sample seals and NCB Forms were sent to FSL, Junga through LHC Surender Pal and the RC was brought back by LHC Surender Pal and handed over to him.

According to him, there were 8-10 persons inside the Dhaba and two persons were standing outside the Dhaba near the road. They revealed their names to the police as Mukesh and Jagat Singh. He further stated that there was a bag with accused Mukesh which was searched by the police from which charas was recovered. In his cross-examination he has stated that he cannot say the bag was lying on a table outside the Dhaba. He further deposed that he had not seen the bag on the person of accused or lying on the table outside the Dhaba. He further stated that police enquired from all persons present in the Dhaba as to whether bag belonged to them and all persons denied that the bag belonged to them. He has further stated that he was called by the police when they started searching the bag outside the Dhaba.

9. Constable Sushil Kumar entered into the witness box as PW6 and stated that he remained posted as MC, CIA, Nahan and Rapat No. 7 was entered by Inspector Om Parkash on 18.12.2009.

10. PW7 Inspector Gurbax Singh deposed that after completion of investigation of this case, the case file was handed over to him by ASI Narayan Singh and he prepared the challan of the case.

11. PW8 Gurmeet Singh has deposed that on 18.12.2009 Constable Kailash brought reasons of belief of this case having been sent by Inspector SIU to his office which were received by him.

12. PW9 HC Surinder Pal deposed that on 21.12.2009 he took the case property along with sample seals and NCB forms and deposited the same at FSL, Junga and on his return he handed over the RC to the MHC.

13. PW10 Constable Kailash Panwar deposed to the effect that on 18.12.2009 he was part of the police party and was accompanying Inspector Om Parkash at Bus stand Sainwala at around 4:30 p.m. where Inspector Om Parkash received secret information about carrying of charas in a bag by accused Mukesh and Jagat Singh. He has further deposed that the reasons of belief were recorded by Inspector Om Parkash and handed over to him to take the same to the office of Addl. SP Nahan which he did.

14. PW11 ASI Agya Ram deposed that on 18.12.2009 on the basis of rukka mark A, FIR Ext. PW11/A was registered at Police Station, Nahan which bears his signatures. He has further deposed that at around 11:00 p.m., Inspector Om Parkash brought the parcel to Police Station, Nahan which was resealed by him and he thereafter deposited the case property, sample seals with MHC Kanwar Singh.

15. PW12 SI Narayan Singh has deposed that accused Mukesh had absconded during the investigation and was re-arrested and produced by Constables Sushil Kumar and Rajinder Singh before him.

16. PW13 Constable Mohd. Khalid has also supported the case of the prosecution. He has also deposed that the investigating officer reduced into writing Rukka Mark A, now Ext. PW13/A which was taken by him to Police Station, Nahan and got the FIR registered. He has further deposed that the case file was taken by him to the spot and handed over to the investigating officer on the spot.

17. PW14 Inspector Om Parkash has also supported the case of prosecution and has narrated the mode and manner in which he received the information and thereafter the factum of his carrying out search and seizure by associating independent witnesses and thereafter arresting the accused.

18. On the basis of material produced on record by the prosecution, the learned Trial Court concluded that the prosecution had failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt and on these bases, the learned Trial Court acquitted the accused of the charge framed against him.

19. Learned Addl. Advocate General argued that the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court was perverse and the findings returned by the learned Trial Court were not borne out from the records. He submitted that the learned Trial Court erred in not appreciating that it stood established from the testimony of PW5 read with testimony of PW13 and PW14 that the contraband in fact was recovered from the bag which was being carried by accused Mukesh. He further argued that the learned Trial Court had erred in not appreciating the testimony of PW13 and PW14 in the right perspective. He also argued that the learned Trial Court had given undue importance to minor discrepancies in the statements of PW5 as well as PW13 and PW14 without appreciating that on the basis of material on record, the prosecution had been able to establish beyond all reasonable doubt that the contraband in fact was recovered from the bag which was found on the shoulder of accused Mukesh. Accordingly, on these points, it was urged by the learned Addl. Advocate General that the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court was not sustainable in the eyes of law and was liable to be quashed and set aside.

20. On the other hand, learned Amicus Curiae submitted that a perusal of the records of the case demonstrate that the prosecution had not been able to link the accused with the recovery of the alleged charas from the bag. She submitted that the prosecution had miserably failed to prove on record that accused-Mukesh was carrying any bag from which charas was recovered by the police. According to her, there was neither any perversity nor any infirmity with the findings returned by the learned Trial Court and the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court needed no interference.

21. We have heard learned counsel for the parties as well as Ms. Kanta Thakur, learned Amicus Curiae. We have also perused the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court.

22. The case as has been put forth by the prosecution is that Inspector Om Parkash who was heading the police party on 18.12.2009 had received a secret information to the effect that the accused were standing near Punjabi Dhaba and if they were searched, some contraband can be recovered from their possession. On the basis of said information, he associated independent witnesses Dilshad Khan and Kamal Kumar and thereafter proceeded towards Punjabi Dhaba situated at Sainwala alongwith other police officials. The first fallacy which appears with the veracity in the story of the prosecution is this that as per prosecution, Insp. Om Parkash received the secret information at about 4:30 p.m., while the police party was at Bus stand Sainwala and on receipt of the same, it associated two independent witnesses, namely, Dilshad Khan and Kamal Kumar and thereafter proceeded towards Punjabi Dhaba situated at Sainwala and incidentally one of them who was present at bus stand Sainwala happened to be the owner of the said Punjabi Dhaba. We fail to understand whether this is coincidence or otherwise that out of the two independent witnesses who were associated by the police and that too not at Punjabi Dhaba but at bus stand Sainwala one happened to be the owner of the Punjabi Dhaba where the accused were to be found with contraband as per the secret information received by Insp. Om Parkash. Incidentally, Dilshand Khan has not supported the case of prosecution. According to him, the alleged bag from which charas was recovered was not found in the possession of accused Mukesh by the police. As per this witness, when he first time saw the bag the same was with the police and the same was being searched by the police. Similarly, the second independent witness PW5 (Kamal Kumar) in his cross-examination stated that he had not seen the bag on the person of the accused or lying outside the table outside the Dhaba. According to him, the police enquired from all persons present in the Dhaba whether the bag belonged to them or not. All persons present there denied the factum of owning the bag including the accused. No other independent person has been associated by the police at the time of search and seizure except these two independent witnesses who have not supported the case of the prosecution, therefore, it is apparent and evident from the perusal of the testimony of said two witnesses that the prosecution has not been able to prove that the bag from which the charas was recovered belonged to accused Mukesh and that Mukesh was in possession of the said bag before the same was allegedly seized from him by the police.

23. Another important aspect of the matter is that it has come in the statement of PW5 that there were 8-10 persons outside the Dhaba. Therefore, it is not as if no other person was available who could have been associated at the time of search and seizure. Further it is not the case of the prosecution that these two independent witnesses were associated at the spot only. As per the prosecution Insp. Om Parkash had associated these persons at around 4:30 p.m., after he received the secret information at 4:30 p.m., at the bus stand and he reached Punjabi Dhaba along with these two independent witnesses and other police officials at around 5:00 p.m. This stand of the prosecution is also falsified by the statement of these two independent witnesses (PW2 and PW5) because it has categorically come in the statement of these two independent witnesses that they were not associated by the police near the bus stand but they were present at the Dhaba in issue i.e. at Punjabi Dhaba.

24. Further the case of the prosecution that the accused were in conscious possession of contraband which was allegedly recovered from a bag which was slung on his shoulder by accused Mukesh, the same is not supported by the statements of PW2 and PW5, as has been discussed by us hereinabove. Thus, it is evident from what we have discussed above that the prosecution has not been able to prove from the material placed on record that accused Mukesh was present outside the Dhaba with a bag slung on his shoulder which was seized by the prosecution in the presence of independent witnesses and search of which revealed that the accused were carrying 1.100 grams charas in the same.

25. Incidentally, a perusal of the statements of PW13 and PW14 will demonstrate that according to them the independent witnesses were made to join the investigation about 200 meters from the Dhaba near the rain shelter. PW13 in fact has stated that both Dilshad and Kamal Kumar were joined at rain shelter where the secret information was received and from there they came to the Dhaba of Dilshad. He has further deposed that he does not remember that how many persons were sitting in the Dhaba. He further deposed that he does not remember whether there are sitting arrangement in the shape of tables and chairs nor he remembers whether there were any customers present inside the Dhaba. On the other hand, PW14 has stated that both Dilshad and Kamal were present at Sainwala where he was standing. He has further stated that there was no arrangement for sitting of customers outside the Dhaba, however, there was arrangement inside the Dhaba, but there was no customer either inside or outside the Dhaha.

26. If we carefully peruse the testimonies of these four witnesses i.e. PW2, PW5 on one hand and PW13 and P14 on the other hand there are major contradictions in their depositions with regard to the mode and manner in which PW2 and PW5 were associated by PW14 to be a part of the investigation. Not only this, there are major contradictions made by PW13 and PW14 when compared with the statements of PW2 and PW5 with regard to the sitting arrangement of Punjabi Dhaba as well as with regard to the number of customers who were present at the said Dhaba at the relevant time. All these facts raise serious doubt and suspicion on the mode and manner in which the alleged recovery of contraband has actually taken place and version of prosecution does not inspire confidence.

27. The testimony of PW13 and PW14 does not seem to be trustworthy and it does not inspire confidence so as to be made basis of conviction of the accused. Therefore, in the absence of the independent witnesses corroborating the case of the prosecution and further in view of their being major contradictions in the testimony of PW13 and PW14 with regard to the mode and manner in which the alleged recovery of the contraband was made from the accused, we are afraid that it cannot be held that the prosecution was able to prove its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

28. Further a perusal of the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court demonstrates that all these aspects of the matter have been considered by the learned Trial Court minutely and it is only thereafter that the learned Trial Court has come to the conclusion that on the basis of the material on record, the prosecution has not been able to bring home guilt of the accused. It is apparent and evident from the testimony of PW2 and PW5 that they were summoned from inside the Dhaba and were joined as witnesses while they were present at the Dhaba of PW2 which belies the version put forth by the prosecution about the said independent witnesses having been associated by Inspector Om Parkash at 4:30 p.m. after he received the secret information at the bus stand.

29. All the above factors when taken together create grave suspicion over the case of the prosecution, as has been put forth by it. In our considered view, it cannot be said that on the basis of material which have been produced on record by the prosecution that it has proved beyond all reasonable doubt that accused were guilt of the offence with which they were charged. Therefore, in our view there is no perversity or infirmity with the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court vide which it has acquitted the accused by holding that the prosecution has not been able to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. In our considered view also, the prosecution has not been able to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. Accordingly, we uphold the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court and dismiss the present appeal being devoid of merit. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by the accused are discharged.

This Court places on record it's appreciation for the assistance rendered by the learned Amicus Curiae in the adjudication of the present case.

For the Appellant : Mr. V.D. Khidtta, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan, Mr. Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This Letters Patent Appeal is directed against the judgment and order dated 26.02.2016, passed by the learned Single Judge in CWP No. 10059 of 2012, titled as Surender Kumar versus State of Himachal Pradesh & others, whereby the writ petition came to be dismissed, for short 'the impugned judgment'.

2. We have gone through the impugned judgment. The Writ Court, after scanning the pleadings and the award made by the Labour Court, held that the writ petitioner-appellant had no case. The impugned judgment is legally correct for the following reasons.

3. Services of the writ petitioner-appellant were terminated, dispute was raised under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, (for short 'the Act), the matter was referred by the competent Authority to the Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, for short 'the Labour Court'.

4. The Labour Court entered into the reference and issues were framed. Parties led their evidence and the Labour Court after examining the pleadings and the evidence led by the parties, dismissed the claim of the petitioner.

5. The award passed by the Labour Court is based on the facts and the evidence led by the parties.

6. It is a beaten law of the land that the Writ Court and the Appellate Court cannot sit over the factual findings returned by Labour Court, unless the same are trash and illegal.

7. The Apex Court in case titled as Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi versus M/s. Hindalco Industries Ltd., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 3157, held that the findings of fact recorded by Tribunal as a result of the appreciation of evidence cannot be questioned in writ proceedings and the Writ Court cannot act as an Appellate Court. It is profitable to reproduce para 18 of the judgment herein:

> "18. A careful reading of the judgments reveals that the High Court can interfere with an Order of the Tribunal only on the procedural level and in cases, where the decision of the lower courts has been arrived at in gross violation of the legal principles. The High Court shall interfere with factual aspect placed before the Labour Courts only when it is convinced that the Labour Court has made patent mistakes in admitting evidence illegally or have made grave errors in law in coming to the conclusion on facts. The High Court granting contrary relief under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution amounts to exceeding its jurisdiction conferred upon it. Therefore, we accordingly answer the point No. 1 in favour of the appellant."

8. This Court has also laid down the same principle in a batch of writ petitions, CWP No. 4622 of 2013, titled as M/s Himachal Futuristic Communications Ltd. versus State of HP and another, being the lead case, decided on 04.08.2014. It is worthwhile to reproduce para 13 of the judgment herein:

> "13. Applying the test to the instant case, the question of fact determined by the Tribunal cannot be made subject matter of the writ petition and more so, when the writ petitioner(s) have failed to prove the defence raised, in answer to the references before the Tribunal. "

9. This Court in a series of cases, being CWP No. 4622 of 2013 (supra); LPA No. 485 of 2012, titled as Arpana Kumari versus State of H.P. and others, decided on 11th August, 2014; LPA No. 23 of 2006, titled as Ajmer Singh versus State of H.P. and others, decided on 21st August, 2014; LPA No. 125 of 2014, titled as M/s. Delux Enterprises versus

H.P. State Electricity Board Ltd. & others, decided on 21st October, 2014; and LPA No.143 of 2015, titled Gurcharan Singh (deceaed) through his LRs vs. State of H.P. and others, decided on 15th December, 2015, while relying upon the latest decision of the Apex Court in Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi's case (supra), has held that question of fact cannot be interfered with by the Writ Court.

10. Labour Court after examining the facts and appreciating the evidence made the award, came to be rightly upheld by the Writ Court.

11. The writ petitioner-appellant has not been able to carve out a case for interference.

12 Having said so, no interference is required. Accordingly, the impugned judgment is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

FAO No.70 of 2011
Date of decision: 15.07.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Income of the deceased was Rs. 3,600/- per month- deceased was a bachelor- half of the amount is to be deducted towards personal expenses- thus, claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs. 1,800/- per month- deceased was '18' years of age at the time of death- multiplier of '18' is applicable- thus, claimants are entitled to Rs. 1,800x12x18= Rs. 3,88,800/- towards loss of dependency. (Para-4 and 5)

Cases referred:

Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120

For the appellant: Mr. B.M. Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr.Ajay Chandel, Advocate, for respondents No.1 and 2.
Ms.Sharmila Patial, Advocate, for respondent No.3.
Nemo for respondent No.4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 22nd November, 2010, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Fast Track Court, Chamba (HP), (for short, "the Tribunal") in M.A.C. No.32/09, titled Smt. Rafikan & another vs. Surjeet Singh & others, whereby a sum of Rs.5,78,400/- alongwith interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum came to be awarded as compensation in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with the liability (for short the "impugned award").

2. The claimant, the owner-insured and the driver have not questioned the impugned award on any count. Thus, the same has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. During the course of hearing, the learned counsel for the appellant/insurer has laid challenge to the impugned award only on two grounds – i) the amount awarded by the Tribunal is excessive; and ii) the deceased was a bachelor, therefore, 1/2 was to be deducted towards the personal expenses of the deceased and the Tribunal has fallen into an error in deducting 1/3rd amount.

4. In view of Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104 and upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120, the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant is legally correct. The Tribunal has rightly assessed the income of the deceased to the tune of Rs.3,600/- per month and since the deceased was a bachelor at the time of death, after deducting 1/2 from the said income towards his personal expenses, it is held that the claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.1,800/- per month.

5. The deceased was 18 years of age at the time of death. Therefore, the Tribunal has rightly applied the multiplier of '18' in view of Schedule II appended to the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 read with the judgment made by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's case supra. Accordingly, it is held that the claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.1,800x12x18= Rs.3,88,800/-.

6. The amount awarded under other heads is not in dispute.

7. In view of the above discussion, the claimants are held entitled to Rs.3,88,800/- + Rs.50,000/- + Rs.10,000/- = Rs.4,48,800/-, alongwith interest as awarded by the Tribunal

8. The Registry is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants through their bank accounts, strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award. The excess amount, if any, be released in favour of the appellant-insurer through payee's account cheque.

9. The impugned award is modified, as indicated above, and the appeal is disposed of alongwith all the pending applications.

For the Appellants: Mr. Virender Singh Rathour, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. P.M. Negi, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Rajiv Sharma, Judge

At about 1.30 AM, one Maruti Car silver in colour, bearing registration No. HP-06-4403, came from Bilaspur side. It was signalled to stop. Accused sitting on the seat beside the driver threw on the rear seat, an orange coloured bag from inside his jacket. Accused tried to run away. They were nabbed. Accused disclosed their identities. Vehicle was searched. Orange coloured bag (Ext.P2) lying on rear seat of the Car was searched. A yellow coloured bag (Ext. P3) was found from inside the orange coloured bag. It contained Charas Ext P4. HHC Raj Kumar was sent to bring the weights and scale. Charas weighed 1.4 kg. Charas was put back in the same yellow coloured carry bag. This bag was put back in the orange coloured bag. It was sealed in a plain cloth parcel (Ext.P1) with six seal impressions of seal 'M'. Sample seal was taken on a piece of plain cloth (Ext. PW-1/A). NCB-1 form in triplicate was filled in. seal after use was handed over to Constable Vijay Kumar. Parcel containing Charas alongwith car was taken into possession. Rukka Ext. PW-9/A was prepared and sent through Constable Vijay Kumar to Police Station. Inspector/SHO Sita Ram Sandhu registered FIR Ext. PW-9/B. Case property consisting of parcel, NCB-I form in triplicate and sample of seal 'M' were handed over to Inspector SHO Sita Ram Sandhu for resealing. Inspector/SHO Sita Ram Sandhu resealed the same with six seal impressions of 'A'. Impression of seal was also put on NCB-1 form. Sample of seal 'A' was taken on a piece of cloth (Ext. PW-9/D). Case property was handed over to HC Mahinder Singh. MHC made entry in the register of Malkhana at Sr. No. 32. He sent the parcel, NCB-1 form in triplicate, copy of FIR, sample seals 'M' and 'A', docket and recovery memo to State Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga for analysis through Constable Sanjeev Kumar on 1.3.2014 vide RC No. 39/14, copy of which is Ext. PW-5/A. Constable Sanjeev Kumar carried the case property to SFSL Junga and deposited them in safe condition there. He handed over receipt to MHC on his return. Report of FSL Junga is Ext. PW-5/B. Investigation was completed and Challan was put up in the Court after completing all codal formalities.

3. Prosecution has examined as many as thirteen witnesses to prove its case against the accused. Accused were also examined under Section 313 CrPC. Their case was that of denial simpliciter. Accused were convicted and sentenced as noticed herein above. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. Virender Singh Rathour, Advocate, argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against accused.

5. Mr. P.M. Negi, Deputy Advocate General, has supported the judgment of conviction dated 31.10.2015.

6. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the record carefully.

7. Constable Vijay Kumar (PW-1) testified that on the intervening night of 25/26.2.2014, he alongwith Constable Amit Kumar, Constable Sandeep Kumar, HHG Hans Raj and ASI Tavender Kumar was on patrolling duty in the official vehicle. They had set up a Naka at Ghumani Chowk. At about 1.30 AM, a Maruti car bearing No. HP-06-4403 came from Bilaspur side. ASI Tavender signalled the vehicle to stop. The driver stopped the car. Another person sitting on seat by the side of driver threw a bag from his jacket, on the rear seat of the car. Accused tried to run away. They were nabbed. Accused disclosed their identities. Vehicle was searched. The bag thrown on back seat was checked. It contained another yellow bag. Yellow bag contained Charas. HHC Raj Kumar was sent to bring weights and scale to the spot. Charas was weighed. It weighed 1.4 kg. It was put back in the yellow coloured bag. This bag was then put back in the orange coloured bag and thereafter, sealed in a cloth parcel with six seal impressions of seal 'M'. Specimen of seal 'M' was taken on a piece of plain cloth. NCB-I form in triplicate was filled in at the spot. Seal after use was handed over to him. PW-1 was further examined on 7.7.2015. In his examination-in-chief he deposed that on 26.2.2014 at about 3 AM, PSI Tavender Singh had handed over to him Rukka Ext. PW-9/A with a direction to take it to the Police Station, Ghumarwin, for registration of FIR. He handed over the same to the MHC. FIR Ext. PW-9/B was registered. In his cross-examination, he deposed that the vehicle had come at about 1.30AM. In between, they had checked 20-25 vehicles. No bus was checked. Only small vehicles and trucks were checked because of large number of thefts in the area. He admitted that Shimla-Dharamshala National Highway was a busy road. He denied the suggestion that even during night vehicles frequently ply on it.

8. Constable Sanjeev Kumar (PW-2) deposed that on 1.3.2014 MHC Mohinder Sigh handed over one parcel sealed with six seal impressions of ' M' and six seal impressions of 'A' stated to be containing 1.4 kg Charas, specimen of seals, 'A' and 'M', copy of FIR memo of recovery, NCB-I form in triplicate, vide RC No. 39/2014 for depositing the same with FSL Junga. He deposited the same with FSL Junga on the same day.

9. Constable Amit Kumar (PW-4) deposed the manner in which vehicle was intercepted at 1.30 AM, Charas was recovered. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that Ext. PW-4/A was signed by both the accused. He also admitted that after sealing, Charas in a cloth parcel, it alongwith vehicle bearing registration No. HP-06-4403 was seized vide seizure memo Ext. PW-1/B. He admitted that the NCB-I form was filled in at the spot by the IO. He also admitted that on the completion of proceedings, Rukka was sent to Police Station, by the IO. He admitted his signatures on sample seal Ext. PW-1/A. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that 20-25 vehicles were checked by them. He deposed that Shimla-Dharamshala road was a busy road. Volunteered that since it was night time a few vehicles were plying on the road.

10. HC Mohinder Singh (PW-5) deposed that on 26.2.2014, Inspector SR Sandhu had deposited with him a sealed parcel with six seal impressions of 'M' and six seal impressions of 'A', NCB-I form in triplicate and vehicle bearing registration No. HP-06-4403. He made entry at Sr. No. 32.

11. Shri Prithvi Singh (PW-7) deposed that on 27.2.2014, he had come to know from his brother that his vehicle had been impounded by the police at Ghumarwin.

12. District Inspector Sita Ram Sandhu (PW-9) deposed that on 26.2.2014, at about 3.45 AM, he had received Rukka Ext. PW-9/A through Constable Vijay Kumar, sent by PSI Tavender Singh. He registered FIR Ext. PW-9/B on the basis of Rukka. On the same day, at about 4.40 AM, PSI Tavender Singh had handed over to him one parcel duly sealed with six seal impressions of 'M', stated to be contained 1.4 kg Charas, sample seal, NCB-I form in triplicate. Seals were tallied. They were found intact. In the presence of MHC, he had resealed the parcel with six seal impressions of 'A'. Seal impression was also put on NCB-I form, Ext. PW-9/C and filled up columns No. 9 to 11 in the form. Specimen of seal 'A' was taken on cloth piece Ext. PW-9/D. He deposited the parcel alongwith samples of seals, NCB-I form in triplicate with MHC.

13. Constable Raj Kumar (PW-11) deposed that on 26.2.2014 at about 1.35 AM, SHO /Inspector Sita Ram Sandhu had directed him to take the scale and weights to Ghumani Chowk. He took them on official motor cycle. He handed over the weights and scale at the spot to PSI Tavender Singh. In his cross-examination, he deposed that in his presence, no efforts were made to call for independent witnesses.

14. PSI Tavender Singh (PW-13) testified the matter in which vehicle was intercepted. Contraband was recovered. All the codal formalities were completed. He filled in Rukka. It was sent through Constable Vijay Kumar to Police Station. FIR was registered. Site map was prepared. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that road where the accused were apprehended was a busy road. Volunteered that during night time, movement of vehicles is very less. He has also deposed that no public witness was associated as it was not possible.

15. What can be deduced from the discussion of evidence made herein above, is that the accused were apprehended while travelling in a Maruti car bearing registration No. HP-06-4403. Bag was recovered. It contained Charas. All the codal formalities were completed at the spot. Rukka was sent to the Police Station, on the basis of which FIR was registered. Case property was produced before SHO. He resealed the same and deposited it with the MHC. MHC sent the same to FSL Junga. According to the report of FSL, Junga, contraband was found to be Charas.

16. Mr. Virender Singh Rathour, Advocate has vehemently argued that the police have not associated independent witnesses at the time when accused were apprehended and search, seizure and sampling proceedings were completed on the spot. He has drawn the attention of the Court to the statement of PW-11 HHR Raj Kumar that he has deposed in his cross-examination that no efforts were made to call independent witnesses. However, fact of the matter is that PW-13 Tavender Singh, in his cross-examination has deposed that no public witness was associated as it was not possible. Fact of the matter is that the vehicle in question was intercepted at 1.30 AM in the morning. There was no possibility of associating independent witnesses at this time. Statements of official witnesses inspire confidence. PW-1 Constable Vijay Kumar has deposed that they had tried to call for independent witnesses, but none was available.

17. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Karamjit Singh vs. State (Delhi Administration), reported in AIR 2003 SC 1311, have held that there is no principle of law that without corroboration by independent witnesses their testimony cannot be relied upon. Presumption that person acts honestly applies as much in favour of police personnel as of other persons. It has been held as follows:

> " 8. Shri Sinha, learned senior counsel for the appellant, has vehemently urged that all the witnesses of recovery examined by the prosecution are police personnel and in absence of any public witness, their testimony alone should not be held sufficient for sustaining the conviction of the appellant. In our opinion the contention raised is too broadly stated and cannot be accepted. The testimony of police personnel should be treated in the same manner as testimony of any other witness and there is no principle of law that without corroboration by independent witnesses their testimony cannot be relied upon. The presumption that a person acts honestly applies as much in favour of police personnel as of other persons and it is not a proper judicial approach to distrust and suspect them without good grounds. It will all depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and no principle of general application can be laid down. PW11 Pratap Singh has clearly stated in the opening part of his examination-in-chief that ACP Shakti Singh asked some public witnesses to accompany them but they showed their unwillingness. PW10 Rajinder Prasad, SI has given similar statement and has deposed that despite their best efforts no one from public was willing to join the raiding party due to the fear of the terrorists. Exactly similar statement has been given by PW9 R.D. Pandey. We should not forget that the incident took place in November 1990, when terrorism was at its peak in Punjab and neighbouring areas. The ground realities cannot be lost sight of that even in normal circumstances members of public are very reluctant to accompany a police party which is going to arrest a criminal or is embarking upon search of some premises. At the time when the terrorism was at its peak, it is quite natural for members of public to have avoided getting involved in a police operation for search or arrest of a person having links with terrorists. It is noteworthy that during the course of the cross- examination of the witness the defence did not even give any suggestion as to why they were falsely deposing against the appellant. There is absolutely no material or evidence on record to show that the prosecution witnesses had any reason to falsely implicate the appellant who was none else but a colleague of theirs being a member of the same police force. Therefore, the contention raised by Shri Sinha that on account of non-examination of a public witness, the testimony of the prosecution witnesses who are police personnel, should not be relied upon has hardly any substance and cannot be accepted."

18. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai vs State of Gujarat reported in 1983 (3) SCC 217, have held that by and large a witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident. It is not as if a video tape is replayed on the mental screen. Ordinarily it so happens that a witness is overtaken by events. The witness could not have anticipated the occurrence which so often has an element of surprise. The mental faculties therefore cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb the details. The powers of observation differ from person to person. What one may notice, another may not. An object or movement might emboss its image on one person's mind whereas it might go unnoticed on the part of another.

19. Minor discrepancies have not shaken the whole of the prosecution case. Thus, the statements of official witnesses in this case are believable and trustworthy.

20. Mr. Virender Singh Rathour, Advocate has faintly argued that Section 50 of the Act has not been complied with. Contraband was recovered from the Car, thus the provisions of Section 50 of the Act were not attracted. Parcel remained intact from the date of seizure till analysis in the Laboratory. Mr. Rathour further submits that the police have seized 1 kg 400 grams Charas but net weight of Charas was 1.416 kg. There is bound to be variation since PW-11 HHC Raj Kumar has brought traditional weights and scale. All the exhibits are weighed on modern scale at FSL Junga.

21. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dehal Singh & Ors V/S State of Himachal Pradesh reported in AIR 2010 SC 3594 have held that small difference in weight loses its significance, when one finds no infirmity in other part of the prosecution story.

22. Prosecution has proved its case against the accused to the hilt. There is no occasion for this Court to interfere with the well reasoned judgment of the learned trial Court.

23. Accordingly, there is no merit in the present appeal and the same is dismissed, so also the pending applications, if any.

Cases referred:

T.S.R. Subramanian and others versus Union of India and others (2013) 15 SCC 732
S.C.Saxena versus Union of India and others (2006) 9 SCC 583

For the Petitioner : Mr. Bimal Gupta, Senior Advocate with Ms.Kusum Chaudhary, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr.Anup Rattan, Mr.Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals with Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent No.1.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

This writ petition has been preferred against the order passed by the learned Central Administrative Tribunal (for short 'Tribunal') on 29.03.2016 whereby the Original Application filed by the petitioner against his transfer orders came to be dismissed in limine.

2. Briefly stated the facts as are necessary for the determination of the instant petition are that the petitioner in the year 1992 joined the service of the respondent-State as Assistant Conservator of Forests and thereafter during the year 2005 was inducted in the cadre of Indian Forest Service (for short 'IFS'). Vide order dated 11.06.2014, the petitioner was transferred from the post of DFO, Mandi to the post of DFO (T), Bilaspur, however, thereafter vide impugned notification dated 16.03.2016 was ordered to be transferred from DFO (T), Bilaspur as DFO (Flying Squad),North Bilaspur.

3. The aforesaid notification was assailed by the petitioner by filing an Original Application before learned Tribunal wherein it was contended that this notification was issued in violation of the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in T.S.R. Subramanian and others versus Union of India and others (2013) 15 SCC 732 fixing therein a minimum tenure of two years to all the incumbents of the All India Service. It was also alleged that in compliance of the aforesaid judgment, the Civil Service Board has though been constituted vide notification dated 10.04.2015, but its recommendations have not been obtained before issuing the impugned notification. It was also averred that the post of DFO (Flying Squad) is not a cadre post and is meant for Junior Officers or the State Forest Service Officers and that the impugned notification had been issued at the instance of the forest mafia because the petitioner was tightening the noose on illegal felling of 'Khair' trees. Lastly, it was contended that no reasonable opportunity of being heard has been afforded to the petitioner before issuance of the impugned notification.

4. The Original Application came up for consideration before learned Tribunal on 29.03.2016 and without even calling for the reply and after recording detailed reasons was ordered to be dismissed in limine.

5. Aggrieved by the orders passed by learned Tribunal, the petitioner has approached this Court by raising the same contentions as were raised before learned Tribunal and has prayed for the following substantive reliefs:-

> "(i) That the impugned order dated 29.3.2016, Annexure P-12, passed by the Ld. Central Administrative Tribunal, Chandigarh Bench, in OA No.063/00023/2016 may kindly be set-aside and quashed and the OA, filed by the petitioner, may kindly be allowed, as prayed for.
> (ii) Order of transfer dated 16.3.2016 Annexure P-9, may kindly be held wrong, illegal, arbitrary, malafide as well as in violation of transfer policy of the respondent-State and also as a result of colourable exercise of powers and the same may kindly be set aside and quashed."

6. Respondent No.1 in its reply has justified its stand of transferring the petitioner on account of public interest and administrative exigencies. As regards the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in T.S.R. Subramanian's case (supra), it is stated that the Ministry of Personnel Public Grievances and Pension has already issued a notification dated 28.01.2014 and constituted a Civil Service Board for recommendations of transfer and postings of IAS/IPS/IFS Officers of the Himachal Pradesh cadre vide notification dated 10.04.2015. It is further averred that insofar as the case of the petitioner is concerned, ex-post-facto approval/recommendations of the said Board had specifically been obtained and minutes of such approval have also been annexed with the reply as Annexure R-1. With respect to the allegation of minimum tenure of service, respondents have justified their stand by relying upon the reasons as accorded by learned Tribunal and in addition thereto it has been averred that the question of completion of two years in the instant case does not arise as the petitioner has infact not been transferred and is rather posted at the same station though on a different post. As regards, the cadre of the posts, it has been clarified that the posts i.e. DFO (Flying Squad) and DFO (T) are both equivalent posts and, therefore, it is not correct on the part of the petitioner to suggest that IFS Probationers have been posted in the cadre posts by shifting two HPFS Officers. It has also been mentioned that it is only sometimes that due to non-availability of IFS cadre Officers that the posts are manned by the State Forest Officers. It also stands clarified that the petitioner alone is not the only IFS Officer to hold this post.

We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the material placed on record.

7. At the outset, it may be observed that it is trite that transfer is an incidence of service and as long as the authority acts keeping in view the administrative exigency and taking into consideration the public interest as the paramount consideration, it has unfettered powers to effect transfer subject of course to certain disciplines. Once it is admitted that the petitioner is

State government employee and holds a transferable post then he is liable to be transferred from one place to the other within the District in case it is a District cadre post and throughout the State in case he holds a State cadre post. A government servant holding a transferable post has no vested right to remain posted at one place or the other and courts should not ordinarily interfere with the orders of transfer instead affected party should approach the higher authorities in the department. Who should be transferred where and in what manner is for the appropriate authority to decide. The courts and tribunals are not expected to interdict the working of the administrative system by transferring the officers to "proper place". It is for the administration to take appropriate decision.

8. Even the administrative guidelines for regulating transfers or containing transfer policies at best may afford an opportunity to the officer or servant concerned to approach their higher authorities for redress but cannot have the consequence of depriving or denying the competent authority to transfer a particular officer/ servant to any place in public interest and as is found necessitated by exigencies of service as long as the official status is not affected adversely and there is no infraction of any career prospects such as seniority, scale of pay and secured emoluments. Even if the order of transfer is made in transgression of administrative guidelines, the same cannot be interfered with as it does not confer any legally enforceable rights unless the same is shown to have been vitiated by malafides or made in violation of any statutory provision. The government is the best judge to decide how to distribute and utilize the services of its employees.

9. However, this power must be exercised honestly, bona fide and reasonably. It should be exercised in public interest. If the exercise of power is based on extraneous considerations without any factual background foundation or for achieving an alien purpose or an oblique motive it would amount to mala fide and colourable exercise of power. A transfer is mala fide when it is made not for professed purpose, such as in normal course or in public or administrative interest or in the exigencies of service but for other purpose, such as on the basis of complaints. It is the basic principle of rule of law and good administration that even administrative action should be just and fair. An order of transfer is to satisfy the test of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution otherwise the same will be treated as arbitrary.

10. Judicial review of the order of transfer is permissible when the order is made on irrelevant consideration. Even when the order of transfer which otherwise appears to be innocuous on its face is passed on extraneous consideration then the court is competent to go into the matter to find out the real foundation of transfer. The court is competent to ascertain whether the order of transfer is passed bonafide or as a measure of punishment.

11. Reverting back to the case, it would be noticed that learned Tribunal has dealt with each of the grounds raised by the petitioner as would be evident from the relevant portion of the order which reads thus:-

> "5. We have carefully considered the matter. We find ourselves unable to accept the contentions raised on behalf of the applicant. The applicant has already served as DFO, Bilaspur for more than one year nine months. In other words, he is only a little short of completing his tenure of two years as DFO, Bilaspur. Consequently, the impugned transfer order is not vitiated merely because the applicant has had a little short of two years tenure.
>
> 6. The plea that the post of DFO (Flying Squad) is non-cadre post is also untenable. Counsel for the applicant referred to notification (Annexure A-3) in support of this contention. However, in this notification, even the post of DFO, Bilaspur is not mentioned as cadre post. Faced with this situation, it was pointed out that the post of DFO (Territorial) Bilaspur is equivalent to Deputy Conservator of Forests (DCF), (Territorial) Bilaspur which is a cadre post as per notification (Annexure A-3). However, if post of DFO, (Territorial) Bilaspur is equivalent to DCF, (Territorial) Bilaspur, then the post of DFO (Flying Squad) cannot be said to be a non-cadre post because the said post would also be equivalent to the post of Deputy Conservator of Forests. There is no material on record to depict that the post of DFO (Flying Squad) is non-cadre post or is meant for Junior Officers or for State Forest Service Officers.

7. Since the applicant had almost completed his tenure as DFO Bilaspur, the impugned transfer order is, therefore, not vitiated for not obtaining the recommendation of the Civil Services Board before issuing the impugned transfer order.

8. As regards action against Forest Mafia allegedly being taken by the applicant, reliance has been placed on letter dated 16.03.2016 (Annexure A-5) written by the applicant. However, the impugned transfer order is also of the same date. Consequently, it cannot be said that the applicant has been transferred in view of action initiated by the applicant vide letter dated 16.03.2016. On the other hand, as DFO (Flying Squad), the applicant would be in a much better position to check the illegal activities of the Forest Mafia.

9. No opportunity of hearing was required to be given to the applicant before issuing the routine transfer order.

10. We may add that Courts/Tribunals are reluctant to interfere with transfer order passed by the Administrative Authorities unless there are very special reasons for interfering with transfer order. In the instant case, however, there is no reason much less special reason for interfering with the impugned transfer order."

12. The learned counsel for the petitioner would, however, vehemently harp upon the plea that the orders of transfer of the petitioner are in violation to the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in T.S.R. Subramanian's case (supra) as the same have been passed before permitting him to complete mandatory service of two years at one station i.e. DFO (T), Bilapsur.

13. In order to appreciate the contention of the petitioner, we may now refer to the case of T.S.R. Subramanian's case (supra) upon which heavy reliance has been placed by the learned counsel for the petitioner. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid case was dealing with batch of cases of civil servants, who were working in the Centre and the State Governments and were not having any stability of tenure, particularly, in the State Governments where transfers and postings were being made frequently at the whims and fancies of the executive head for political and other considerations and not in public interest. It was in this background that the Hon'ble Supreme Court considered the necessity of fixing a minimum tenure for civil services not only to enable them to achieve their professional targets but also help them to function as effective instruments of public policy, as would be evident from the following observations which read thus:-

"35. We notice, at present the civil servants are not having stability of tenure, particularly in the State Governments where transfers and postings are made frequently, at the whims and fancies of the executive head for political and other considerations and not in public interest. The necessity of minimum tenure has been endorsed and implemented by the Union Government. In fact, we notice, almost 13 States have accepted the necessity of a minimum tenure for civil servants. Fixed minimum tenure would not only enable the civil servants to achieve their professional targets, but also help them to function as effective instruments of public policy. Repeated shuffling/transfer of the officers is deleterious to good governance. Minimum assured service tenure ensures efficient service delivery and also increased efficiency. They can also prioritize various social and economic measures intended to implement for the poor and marginalized sections of the society.

36. We, therefore, direct the Union State Governments and Union Territories to issue appropriate directions to secure providing of minimum tenure of service to various civil servants, within a period of three months."

14. While placing strong reliance on the aforesaid judgment, the petitioner appears to have completely lost sight of the fact that in his case approval of the Civil Service Board has already been obtained by the respondent by way of ex-post-facto approval/recommendations and this action on their part has neither been questioned nor assailed by the petitioner. Therefore, in such circumstance, the petitioner is estopped by his own act and conduct from challenging the orders of transfer on the ground of violation of the directions contained in T.S.R. Subramanian's case (supra).

15. As regards the contention that the petitioner has been transferred to a non-cadre post, even this contention is equally without merit as the respondent in their reply have categorically stated that the posts of DFO (Flying Squad) is equivalent to that of DFO (T), Bilaspur and have further clarified that the petitioner alone is not the single IFS Officer, who has held this post.

16. It would also be noticed that the petitioner has though averred that the order of transfer is the result of colourable exercise of powers, but we find that the element of malice or malafide is conspicuously absent in the petition filed before this Court as also in the Original Application filed before the learned Tribunal.

17. It is more than settled that unless the order of transfer is shown to be an outcome of malafide exercise of powers and stated to be in violation of the statutory provisions prohibiting any such transfer, the Courts or the Tribunal cannot interfere with such orders as a matter of routine, as though they are appellate authorities substituting their own decisions for that of the employer as against such orders passed in the interest of administrative exigencies of the service concerned.

18. On the basis of what has been observed above, we have no difficulty in concluding that the instant petition appears to have been filed by the petitioner to satiate his ego more than anything else as it is really appalling to note that despite the petitioner having been transferred as far as back on 16.03.2016, he has not cared to even join his place of posting despite it being not only at the same station but in the same Office Complex.

19. It only needs to be reiterated that whenever a public servant is transferred, in the first place, he cannot disobey the order by not reporting at the place of posting and then go to the Court to ventilate his grievances. It was the duty of the petitioner to first report to work where he has been transferred and then make a representation regarding his personal problems.

20. Such tendency of not reporting at the place of posting and indulging in litigation needs to be curbed as has been observed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in S.C.Saxena versus Union of India and others (2006) 9 SCC 583 wherein it was held as under:-

"6. We have perused the record with the help of the learned counsel and heard the learned counsel very patiently. We find that no case for our interference whatsoever has been made out. In the first place, a government servant cannot disobey a transfer order by not reporting at the place of posting and then go to a court to ventilate his grievances. It is his duty to first report for work where he is transferred and make a representation as to what may be his personal problems. This tendency of not reporting at the place of posting and indulging in litigation needs to be curbed.........." (Underlining supplied by us)

21. To say the least, such litigious and cantankerous litigation ill behoves the petitioner, who otherwise belongs to the higher echelons of service.

22. In view of the aforesaid discussion and for the reasons so stated, we find no merit in this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed, leaving the parties to bear their costs.

(Para-14)

For the appellant: Mr. M.A. Khan, Addl. A.G.
For the Respondent: Mr. Vijay Chaudhary, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge.

This appeal is instituted against the judgment dated 17.2.2010 rendered by the Special Judge, Chamba in sessions trial No. 9 of 2009 whereby the respondent-accused (hereinafter referred to as the "accused"), who was charged with and tried for offence punishable under section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act' for brevity sake), has been acquitted.

2. Case of the prosecution, in a nutshell, is that on 13.12.2008, PW-11 ASI Yudhbir Singh alongwith PW-1 HC Roop Singh and others left Police Post, Banikhet on patrolling duty after getting entered Rapat in the Daily Diary. The police officials were present at Zero Point, Goli alongwith PW-10 Parkash Chand and one Prem Chand. Accused came from Chauhra side. He tried to run away. He was nabbed. He was wearing a black jacket and sweater and something was bulging out from inside the sweater. ASI Yudhbir Singh became suspicious and asked the accused to take out article. Accused took out the article, which was found to be a small bag of yellow colour. On checking of the same, it was found to be containing polythene envelope. Polythene envelope was found to be containing charas. It was weighed. It was found to be 750 grams. Two samples of 25 grams each were separated from the charas. These were put into separate parcels. The same were sealed with seal impression 'K' at three places. The bulk charas was sealed in the same polythene packet and small bag with seal impression 'K' at three places. Rukka Ex.PW-11/B was prepared. It was sent to Police Station, Dalhousie through Constable

Sanjay Kumar. FIR Ex.PW-8/A was registered. Case property was produced by ASI Yudhbir Singh before SI Bhuvneshwar Singh. He resealed the sample parcels and the parcel containing bulk charas with seal impression 'B'. SI Bhuvneshwar also filled in the relevant columns of NCB form. The case property alongwith NCB form etc. was deposited with HC Gurdhian Singh, the-then MHC, Police Station, Dalhousie. The sample parcel was sent to FSL, Junga through HHC Kamal Kumar vide RC No. 127/08. The report of Chemical Examiner is Ex.PW-7/A. The police investigated the case and the challan was put up in the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. Prosecution examined as many as eleven witnesses in all to prove its case against the accused. Statement of accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded. The defence of the accused is of simplicitor denial. Trial court acquitted the accused. Hence, the present appeal.

4. Mr. M.A. Khan, learned Additional Advocate General, has vehemently argued that the prosecution has proved its case against the accused.

5. Mr. Vijay Chaudhary, learned counsel for the accused, has supported the judgment dated 17.2.2010.

6. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the judgment and record meticulously.

7. PW-1 HC Roop Singh has testified that on 13.12.2008, he alongwith ASI Yudhbir Singh and other police officials was on patrolling duty. Witnesses Prem Singh and Parkash Chand were also waiting for the bus at Rain Shelter, Goli. In the meantime, one person came on foot from Chauhra side. He tried to run away. He was apprehended. He was bearing a black jacket and a sweater. It was bulging out. Police asked the accused to take out the article. Accused took out a yellow colour bag. It was found to be containing one polythene envelope. Polythene envelope was carrying charas in the shape of sticks. It weighed 750 grams. The proceedings were completed on the spot. In his cross-examination, he has deposed that they arrived at the spot at about 6.46 – 7.00 P.M. ASI had arrived before them. He did not remember that ASI gave his personal search to the accused. He did not remember if statement of consent of accused was recorded or not. Dhaba and shops were at a distance of 100 meters from the Rain Shelter, Goli.

8. PW-2 Constable Rajesh Kumar has deposed that ASI Yudhbir Singh produced the case property before SI Bhuvneshwar Singh. SI Bhuvnehswar Singh resealed all the parcels with seal impression 'B' by putting three seals on each of the parcels.

9. PW-6 HC Gurdhian Singh has deposed that on 13.12.2008, SI/SHO Bhuvneshwar Pathania handed over to him three parcels, NCB form, specimen seal impressions K and B, which were entered by him in the Malkhana register. On 14.12.2008, one sample parcel was handed over to HHC Kamal Kumar for being taken to FSL, Junga alongwith NCB form and specimen seal impressions B and K for chemical examination. HHC Kamal Kumar after depositing the same with FSL, Junga, returned the receipt to him.

10. PW-8 SI Bhuvneshwar Singh Pathania has also deposed that the Rukka was brought to him. He recorded FIR Ex.PW-8/A. He resealed the parcels with seal impression 'B' and filled in the relevant columns of NCB form. Case property was deposited with MHC Gurdhyan Singh.

11. PW-9 HHC Kamal Kumar has deposed that on 14.12.2008, HC Gurdhyan Singh handed over to him, one sample parcel duly sealed with seals K and B having sealed at three places each and NCB form vide RC No. 127/2008. He deposited the same at FSL, Junga, on 15.12.2008.

12. PW-10 Parkash Chand has not supported the prosecution case. He was declared hostile and was cross examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination by the learned Public Prosecutor, he has deposed that he could not say that accused was the same person, who was arrested on that day. He has admitted his signatures on parcel Ex.P-1, sample parcels Ex.P-2 and P-3 and specimen seal impression Ex.PW-10/B.

13. PW-11 ASI Yudhbir Singh has testified the manner in which accused was apprehended and charas was recovered and all the codal formalities were completed. He prepared Rukka Ex.PW-11/A, on the basis of which FIR was registered. In his cross-examination, he has categorically admitted that he has not asked the accused if he wanted to give his search before a Magistrate. When he noticed the belly of the accused bulging out, he got suspicious that he might be carrying something and he asked him to take out the same which was concealed by him.

14. Learned trial court has acquitted the accused. Mr. M.A. Khan, learned Additional Advocate General has argued that section 50 of the Act was not applicable in the present case. Thus, the trial court has wrongly acquitted the accused. However, fact of the matter is that it has come in the statement of PW-1 Roop Singh that accused was wearing a black jacket and a sweater beneath it. It was bulging out. Police asked the accused to take out the same. Accused took out a yellow colour bag. It was found to be containing one polythene envelope. Polythene envelope was carrying charas. Similarly, PW-11 ASI Yudhbir Singh has also admitted that accused was wearing a jacket and a sweater. His belly was protuberating and he got suspected that accused might be carrying some contraband. Thereafter, accused was asked to take out the same from his person and it was found to be containing charas. The contraband has been recovered from the person of accused, but provisions of section 50 of the Act have not been complied with. PW-11 ASI Yudhbir Singh has admitted in his cross-examination that he has not sought option of the accused to be searched before a Magistrate. The accused was required to be asked whether he wanted to give search either before a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer. Since the contraband has been recovered from the person of accused, compliance of provisions of section 50 of the Act was mandatory. Thus, there is no occasion for us to interfere with the well reasoned judgment of the trial court.

15. Consequently, in view of analysis and discussion made hereinabove, there is no merit in the appeal and the same is dismissed. Bail bonds are cancelled.

For the Appellant: Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Addl. AG., and Mr. Vikram Thakur, Dy. AG.
For the Respondent: Mr. Pawan Gautam, Advocate.
Mr. Yudhbir Singh Thakur, Amicus Curiae.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, Judge

State has appealed against the judgment dated 18.1.2012, passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge (I), Kangra at Dharamshala, Himachal Pradesh, in Sessions Case No.25-B/2009, titled as State of Himachal Pradesh v. Ramesh Chand, challenging the acquittal of respondent Ramesh Chand (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who stands charged for having committed offences punishable under the provisions of Sections 498-A and 302 of the Indian Penal Code.

2. On the basis of complaint (Ex.PW-1/A) so made by Smt. Sarla Devi (PW-1), FIR No.92, dated 22.7.2009 (Ex.PW-12/A), for commission of offence under the provisions of Section 498A/306 of the Indian Penal Code, was registered at Police Station, Baijnath. Investigation so conducted by SI Ghanshyam Chand (PW-16), revealed that accused subjected his wife, i.e deceased Veena Devi to cruelty, which prompted her to take away her life by setting herself on fire on 21.7.2009. Resultantly challan was presented in the Court and the accused was charged for having committed offences, punishable under the provisions of Sections 498A and 306 of the Indian Penal Code.

3. During trial, it was so observed that in fact it was the accused, who had set his wife, i.e. deceased Veena Devi, on fire, as a result of which the charge was altered in relation to offence, punishable under the provisions of Sections 498A and 302 of the Indian Penal Code.

4. Statement of the accused, under the provisions of Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was also recorded, in which he took the following defence:

> "It was my second marriage with Veena Devi, therefore my in-laws insisted that land adjoining near to Ayurvedic Medical College, Paprola be mutated in the name of Veena Devi. But the land was not so mutated. Therefore, Sarla Devi etc. used to quarrel with me at my home. Therefore, Veena Devi was under depression and she committed suicide."
>
> "I had tried to save Veena Devi and my hands also got burnt and I am innocent."

5. Record reveals that with the alteration of charge, based on the statements made by the learned Public Prosecutor and the accused, the trial Court considered the evidence originally led by the parties.

6. In relation to the altered charges, based on the evidence already led by the parties, trial Court acquitted the accused on all counts, finding the testimonies of Smt. Sarla Devi (PW-1) and Simran alias Seema (PW-15) not to be inspiring in confidence. Hence, the present appeal by the State.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties as also perused the record, we are of the considered view that the trial Court seriously erred in correctly and completely appreciating the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses.

8. A Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in M.G. Agarwal v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1963 SC 200, has held that in dealing with an appeal against the judgment of acquittal, the appellate Court should normally be slow in disturbing the findings of fact recorded by the trial Court. However, there is a caveat. Such findings have to be based on proper and complete appreciation of evidence. Jurisdiction and the power of the appellate Court is also to reappreciate the evidence but with caution. The Court is not to substitute its own opinion with that of the trial Court.

9. In Madan Gopal Makkad v. Naval Dubey and another, (1992) 3 SCC 204, the Apex Court held the scope of the Court in an appeal against acquittal in the following manner:

> "26. In Wilayat Khan v. State of U.P., AIR 1953 SC 122; this court while examining the scope of S. 417 and 423 of the old Code pointed out that even in appeals against acquittal, the powers of the High court are as wide as in appeals from convictions. See also (1) Surajpal Singh v. State, AIR 1952 SC 52, (2) Tulsiram Kanu v. State, AIR 1954 SC 1, (3) Aher Raja Khima v. State of Saurashtra, AIR 1956 SC 217, (4) Radha Kishan v. State of U.P., AIR 1963 SC 822, holding that an appeal from acquittal need not be treated different from an appeal from conviction; (5) Jadunath Singh v. State of U.P., (1971) 3 SCC 577, (6) Dharam Das v. State of U.P., (1973) 2 SCC 216, (7) Barati v. State of U.P., (1974) 4 SCC 258, and (8) Sethu Madhavan Nair v. State of Kerala, (1975) 3 SCC 150."

10. The fact that accused was married to deceased Veena Devi is not in dispute. Such marriage came to be solemnized sometime in the year 2006, is evident from the testimony of Smt. Sarla Devi (PW-1) and Dalip Kumar (PW-2). From the conjoint reading of the testimonies of these witnesses, it is evident that under the influence of alcohol, accused used to physically assault the deceased. Such version goes unrebutted. In relation to such acts, matter came to be reported to the Panchayat and Ramesh Chand (PW-8), under whose mediation the marriage came to be solemnized. Smt. Sarla Devi has categorically deposed that the matter pertaining to the beatings and maltreatment came to be reported to the police and the Panchayat. Some action was taken and the matter came to be compromised, with the accused agreeing not to repeat the crime, which version also stands corroborated not only by Dalip Kumar but also by Smt. Kavita Devi (PW-6). Even though, the Investigating Officer admits the factum of maltreatment, under the influence of liquor not having come to his notice during the course of investigation, but then it is not the case of the close relatives of the deceased that any formal complaint came to be lodged. And, above all, this fact is also evidently clear from the statement of Simran (PW-15), whose statement is reproduced in toto in the later part of the judgment. Thus, the factum of the deceased being subjected to cruelty stands conclusively established, beyond reasonable doubt.

11. It is an admitted case of the parties that on 22.7.2009, the deceased was taken to a private hospital at Paprola, for treatment of burn injuries.

12. From the testimony of SI Ghanshyam Chand, it is evidently clear that a telephonic message was received from the Medical Officer, SDH, Baijanth that one lady in a burnt condition came to be admitted and accordingly Rapt (Ex.PW-13/A) registered. This witness alongwith L/C Suman Devi (PW-4) rushed to the Hospital, where Smt. Sarla Devi got recorded her statement (Ex.PW-1/A). The said statement does not record that the accused had set the deceased on fire, but then, the Investigating Officer himself has explained that in the supplementary statement, such fact came to be recorded. We may only observe that the complainant is a rustic villager. She hails from a rural background. She is illiterate and the Investigating Officer has explained the discrepancy, which had crept in the two statements, only on account of his fault. Crucially, even the Investigating Officer states that in the hospital, Smt. Sunita Thakur (PW-5), a Nurse, who had attended to the deceased had informed that the deceased was burnt as kerosene oil caught fire and that such information also came to be furnished to the parents of the deceased.

13. It is not the law, as is so urged by the learned counsel for the accused, that dying declaration has to be before the Doctor, Magistrate or a Government Officer.

14. Dying declaration can be made any time, in the presence of anyone. It need not to be a Doctor, a Government Officer or an Executive Magistrate. So long as the victim is aware and fully conscious of what is being done and said, any statement made by her can be treated as a piece of evidence, it being a different matter, as to whether it requires corroboration or not. (See: Munnu Raja and another v. The State of Madhya Pradesh, (1976) 3 SCC 104; Ramawati Devi v. State of Bihar, (1983) 1 SCC 211).

15. In Jaishree Anant Khandekar vs. State of Maharashtra, (2009) 11 SCC 647, a comparative study of laws of various countries on the point of dying declaration was done by the Apex Court. It was held that:

> "17. The law relating to dying declaration is an exception to the hearsay rule. The rationale behind admissibility of a dying declaration was best expressed, not in any judgment, but in one of the soliloquies in Shakespeare's King John, when fatally wounded Melun wails:
>
> 'Have I met hideous
> death within my view,
> Retaining but a quantity of life,
> Which bleeds away
> even as a form of wax, > Resolveth from his figure
> 'gainst the fire?
> What in the world should > make me now deceive,
> Since I must lose the use of all deceit?
> Why should I then be false > since it is true
> That I must die here > and live hence by truth?'
> (See King John, Act V, Scene IV.)
>
> 18. Both Taylor and Wigmore in their treatise on Evidence took refuge to the magic of Shakespeare to illustrate the principles behind admissibility of dying declaration by quoting the above passage.
>
> 19. Among the judicial fraternity this has been best expressed, possibly by Lord Chief Justice Baron Eyre (See. R. Vs. Woodcock, (1789) 1 Lea.502, and which I quote (ER p.353): -
>
> "...That such declarations are made in extremity, when the party is at the point of death, and when every hope of this world is gone; when every motive to falsehood is silenced, and the mind is induced by the most powerful considerations to speak the truth; a situation so solemn and so awful is considered by the law as creating an obligation, equal to that which is imposed by a positive oath in a court of justice."
>
> 20. The test of admissibility of dying declaration is stricter in English Law than in Indian Law. Sir James Fitzjames Stephen in 1876 brought out a 'Digest of the Law of Evidence' and its introduction is of considerable interest even today. The author wrote that English Code of Evidence is modelled on the Indian Evidence Act of 1872. In the words of the author:
>
> "In the autumn of 1872 Lord Coleridge (then Attorney General) employed me to draw a similar code for England. I did so in the course of the winter, and we settled it in frequent consultations. It was ready to be introduced early in the Session of 1873. Lord Coleridge made various attempts to bring it forward, but he could not succeed till the very last day of the Session. He said a few words on the subject on the 5th

August, 1873, just before Parliament was prorogued. The Bill was thus never made public, though I believe it was ordered to be printed.

It was drawn on the model of the Indian Evidence Act and contained a complete system of law upon the subject of evidence."

21. In that book, Article 26 sums up the English law relating to dying declaration as under:-

"Article 26. Dying Declaration as to Cause of Death . - A declaration made by the declarant as to the cause of his death, or as to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death, is deemed to be relevant only in trials for the murder or manslaughter of the declarant; and only when the declarant is shown, to the satisfaction of the judge, to have been in actual danger of death, and to have given up all hope of recovery at the time when his declaration was made.

Such a declaration is not irrelevant merely because it was intended to be made as a deposition before a magistrate, but is irregular." (emphasis supplied)

22. In Section 32(1) of the Indian Evidence Act the underlined portion is not there. Instead Section 32 (1) is worded differently and which is set out:

"32. Cases in which statement of relevant fact by person who is dead or cannot be found, etc., is relevant - Statements, written or verbal, of relevant facts made by a person who is dead, or who cannot be found, or who has become incapable of giving evidence, or whose attendance cannot be procured, without an amount of delay or expense which under the circumstances of the case appears to the Court unreasonable, are themselves relevant facts in the following cases:-

(1) When it relates to cause of death - When the statement is made by a person as to the cause of his death, or to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death, in cases in which the cause of that person's death comes into question.

Such statements are relevant whether the person who made them was or was not, at the time when they were made, under expectation of death, and whatever may be he nature of the proceeding in which the cause of his death comes into question." (emphasis supplied)

23. The Privy Council in the case of Nembhard Vs. The Queen, 1982 (1) The All England Law Reports 183 (Privy Council), while hearing an appeal from the Court of Appeal of Jamaica, made a comparison of the English Law and Indian Law by referring to the underlined portions of Section 32(1) of the Indian Evidence Act at page 187 of the report. Sir Owen Woodhouse, speaking for the Privy Council, pointed out the different statutory dispensation in Indian Law prescribing a test of admissibility of dying declaration which is distinct from a common law test in English Law.

24. Apart from an implicit faith in the intrinsic truthfulness of human character at the dying moments of one's life, admissibility of dying declaration is also based on the doctrine of necessity. In many cases victim is the only eye witness to a crime on him/her and in such situations exclusion of the dying declaration, on hearsay principle, would tend to defeat the ends of justice. American Law on dying declaration also proceeds on the twin postulates of certainty of death leading to an intrinsic faith in truthfulness of human character and the necessity principle.

25. On certainty of death, the same strict test of English Law has been applied in American Jurisprudence. The test has been variously expressed as 'no hope of recovery', 'a settled expectation of death'. The core concept is that the expectation of death must be absolute and not susceptible to doubts and there should be no chance of operation of worldly motives. (See Wigmore on Evidence page 233-234).

26. This Court in Kishan Lal Vs. State of Rajasthan, AIR 1999 SC 3062, held that under English Law the credence and the relevance of the dying declaration is admissible only when the person making such statement is in hopeless condition and expecting imminent death. Justice Willes coined it as a "settled hopeless expectation of death" (R Vs. Peel, (1860) 2 F. & F. 21, which was approved by the Court of Criminal Appeal in R Vs. Perry, (1909) 2 KB 697). Under our Law, the declaration is relevant even if it is made by a person, who may or may not be under expectation of death, at the time of declaration. (See para 18,page 3066). However, the declaration must relate to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death."

16. The apex Court in Tapinder Singh vs. State of Punjab & another, AIR 1970 S.C. 1566 has held that if the dying declaration is acceptable as truthful then even in the absence of other corroborative evidence, the Court can act upon it and convict the accused.

17. In Khushal Rao vs. State of Bombay, AIR 1958 SC 22, the Apex Court has further held that:-

"Sometimes, attempts have been made to equate a dying declaration with the evidence of an accomplice or the evidence furnished by a confession as against the maker, if it is retracted, and as against others, even though not retracted. But in our opinion, it is not right in principle to do so. Though under S. 133 of the Evidence Act, it is not illegal to convict a person on the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice, illustration (b) to S. 114 of the Act, lays down as a rule of produce based on experience, that an accomplice is unworthy of credit unless his evidence is corroborated in material particulars and this has now been accepted as a rule of law. The same cannot be said of a dying declaration because a dying declaration may not, unlike a confession, or the testimony of an approver, come from a tainted source. If a dying declaration has been made by a person whose antecedents are as doubtful as in the other cases that may be a ground for looking upon it with suspicion, but generally speaking, the maker of a dying declaration cannot be tarnished with the same brush as the maker of a confession or an approver."

"It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that a dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborated; each case must be determined on its own facts keeping in view the circumstances in which the dying declaration was made; it cannot be laid down as a general proposition that a dying declaration is a weaker kind of evidence that other pieces of evidence; a dying declaration stands on the same footing as another piece of evidence and has to be judged in the light of surrounding circumstances and with reference to the principles governing the weighing of evidence; a dying declaration which has been recorded by a competent magistrate in the proper manner, that is to say, in the form of questions and answers, and, as for as practicable, in the words of the maker of the declaration, stands on a much higher footing than a dying declaration which depends upon oral testimony which may suffer from all the infirmities of human memory and human character, and in order to test the reliability of a dying declaration, the Court has to keep in view, the circumstances like the opportunity of the lying man for observation, for example, whether there was sufficient light if the crime was committed at night; whether the capacity of the man to remember the facts stated, had not been impaired at the time he was making the statement, by circumstances beyond his control; that the statement has been consistent throughout if he had several opportunities of making a dying declaration apart from the official record of it; and that the statement had been made at the earliest opportunity and was not the result of tutoring by interested parties."

"In order to pass the test of reliability, a dying declaration has to be subjected to a very close scrutiny, keeping in view the fact that the statement has been made in the absence of the accused who had no opportunity of testing the veracity of the statement by cross-examination. But once, the Court has come to the conclusion that the dying declaration was the truthful version as to the circumstances of the death and the assailants of the victim, there is no question of further corroboration. If, on the other hand, the Court, after examining the dying declaration in all its aspects, and testing its veracity, has come to the conclusion that it is not reliable by itself, and that it suffers from an infirmity, then without corroboration it cannot form the basis of a conviction. Thus, the necessity for corroboration arises not from any inherent weakness of a dying declaration as a piece of evidence, as held in some of the reported cases, but from the fact that the Court, in a given case, has come to the conclusion that particular dying declaration was not free from the infirmities."(Emphasis supplied)

18. The aforesaid decision came up for consideration before the Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in Harbans Singh and another vs. The State of Punjab, AIR 1962 SC 439 and after taking into account its earlier decision in Ram Nath vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1953 SC 420, affirmed the aforesaid view.

19. In Paniben (Smt.) vs. State of Gujarat, (1992) 2 SCC 474, the Court has further reiterated and laid down the following principles:-

"A dying declaration is entitled to great weight. Once the Court is satisfied that the declaration was true and voluntary, undoubtedly, it can base its conviction without any further corroboration. It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that the dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborated. The rule requiring-corroboration is merely a rule of prudence."

"However, since the accused has no power of cross-examination, which is essential for eliciting the truth, the dying declaration should be of such a nature as to inspire full confidence of the Court in its correctness. The Court has to be on guard that the statement of deceased was not as a result of either tutoring, prompting or a product of imagination. The Court must be further satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind after a clear opportunity to observe and identify the assailants. Normally the court in order to satisfy whether deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration look up to the medical opinion. But where the eye witness has said that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make this dying declaration, the medical opinion cannot prevail".

"Merely because a dying declaration does not contain the details as to occurrence, it is not to be rejected. Equally, merely because it is a brief statement, it is not be discarded. On the contrary, the shortness of the statement itself guarantees truth. But a dying declaration which suffers from infirmity cannot form the basis of conviction. Where the prosecution version differs from the version as given in the dying declaration, the said declaration cannot be acted upon."

> "(i) There is neither rule of law nor of prudence that dying declaration cannot be acted upon without corroboration. (Mannu Raja v. State of U.P. (1976) 2 SCR 764) (AIR 1976 SC 2199).
>
> (ii) If the Court is satisfied that the dying declaration is true and voluntary it can base conviction on it, without corroboration (State of U.P. v. Ram Sagar Yadav, AIR 1985 SC 416; Ramavati Devi v. State of Bihar, AIR 1983 SC 164).
>
> (iii) This Court has to scrutinise the dying declaration carefully and must ensure that the declaration is not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination. The deceased had opportunity to observe and identify the assailants and was in a fit state to make the declaration. (Rama Chandra Reddy v. Public Prosecutor, AIR 1976 SC 1994).
>
> (iv) Where dying declaration is suspicious it should not be acted upon without corroborative evidence. (Rasheed Beg v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (1974) 4 SCC 264 : (AIR 1974 SC 332).
>
> (v) Where the deceased was unconscious and could never make any dying declaration the evidence with regard to it is to be rejected. (Kake Singh v. State of M.P., AIR 1982 SC 1021).
>
> (vi) A dying declaration which suffers from infirmity cannot form the basis of conviction. (Ram Manorath v. State of U.P., 1981 SCC (Crl) 581).
>
> (vii) Merely because a dying declaration does not contain the details as to the occurrence, it is not to be rejected. (State of Maharashtra v. Krishnamurthi Laxmipati Naidu, AIR 1981 SC 617).
>
> (viii) Equally, merely because it is a brief statement it is not be discarded. On the contrary, the shortness of the statement itself guarantees truth. (Surajdeo Oza v. State of Bihar, AIR 1979 SC 1505).
>
> (ix) Normally the Court in order to satisfy whether deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration look up to the medical opinion. But where the eyewitness has said that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make this dying declaration, the medical opinion cannot prevail. (Nanahau Ram v. State, AIR 1988 SC 912).
>
> (x) Where the prosecution version differs from the version as given in the dying declaration, the said declaration cannot be acted upon. (State of U.P. v. Madan Mohan, AIR 1989 SC 1519).
>
> 19. In the light of the above principles, we will consider the three dying declarations in the instant case and we will ascertain the truth with reference to all dying declarations made by the deceased Bai Kanta. This Court in Mohan Lal v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1982 SC 839 held:
>
> "where there are more than one statement in the nature of dying declaration, one first in point of time must be preferred."
> Of course, if the plurality of dying declarations could be held to be trust-worthy and reliable, they have to be accepted."

20. In Jayabalan vs. Union Territory of Pondicherry, (2010) 1 SCC 199, the Apex Court was dealing with the case of an accused who after pouring kerosene oil had set his wife on fire. The husband was held guilty of having committed an offence punishable under Section 302, IPC. The accused assailed the findings of conviction on the ground that prosecution had examined only interested witnesses and also dying declaration was tutored, promoted and product of the imagination of deceased. In the proven facts of that case repelling the contention, it was held as under:-

> "We are of the considered view that in case where the court is called upon to deal with the evidence of the interested witnesses, the approach of the court, while appreciating the evidence of such witnesses must not be pedantic. The court must be cautious in appreciating and accepting the evidence given by the interested witnesses but the court must not be suspicious of such evidence. The primary endeavour of the court must be to look for consistency. The evidence of a witness cannot be ignored or thrown out solely because it comes from the mouth of a person who is closely related to the victim."(Emphasis supplied)

21. In Krishan vs. State of Haryana, (2013) 3 SCC 280, even where the witnesses had turned hostile, solely on the basis of dying declaration, the Court convicted the accused.

22. There can be more than one dying declarations and if there is no inconsistency between them, all can be used against the accused for proving the guilt. [State of Karnataka vs. Shariff, (2003) 2 SCC 473 and (1982) 1 SCC 700, Mohanlal Gangaram Gehani vs. State of Maharashtra, (1982) 1 SCC 700].

23. This view further stands reiterated in Jaishree Anant Khandekar vs. State of Maharashtra, (2009) 11 SCC 647, where the Apex Court was dealing with five dying declarations, which were found not to be in variance with each other.

24. Further in Puran Chand vs. State of Haryana, (2010) 6 SCC 566, Apex Court has again summarized its view in the following terms:-

> "The Courts below have to be extremely careful when they deal with a dying declaration as the maker thereof is not available for the cross-examination which poses a great difficulty to the accused person. A mechanical approach in replying upon a dying declaration just because it is there is extremely dangerous. The court has to examine a dying declaration scrupulously with a microscopic eye to find out whether the dying declaration is voluntary, truthful, made in a conscious state of mind and without being influenced by the relatives present or by the investigating agency who may be interested in the success of investigation or which may be negligent while recording the dying declaration. When there are more than one dying declarations, the intrinsic contradictions in those dying declarations are extremely important. It cannot be that a dying declaration which supports the prosecution alone can be accepted while the other innocuous dying declarations have to be rejected. Such a trend will be extremely dangerous. However, the courts below are fully entitled to act on the dying declarations and make them the basis of conviction, where the dying declarations pass all the above tests. The court has to weigh all the attendant circumstances and come to the independent finding whether the dying declaration was properly recorded and whether it was voluntary and truthful. The courts must bear in mind that each criminal trial is an individual aspect. If after careful scrutiny the court is satisfied that it is true and free from any effort to induce the deceased to make a false statement and if it is coherent and consistent, there shall be no legal impediment to make it a basis of conviction, even if there is no corroboration. (Emphasis supplied)"

25. However, where there is variation in the dying declaration (two in question), the Apex Court has held any conviction to be bad in law. [Dandu Lakshmi Reddy vs. State of A.P. (1999) 7 SCC 69 and Sanjay vs. State of Maharashtra, (2007) 9 SCC 148].

26. Further, where the prosecution version differs from the statement of deceased, dying declaration cannot be used for convicting the accused [Paniben (supra) and State of Rajasthan v. Shravan Ram and another, (2013) 12 SCC 255].

27. The aforesaid view has been reiterated in Jai Karan vs. State of Delhi (MCT), (1999) 8 SCC 161, Sham Shankar Kankaria vs. State of Maharashtra, (2006) 13 SCC 165 and Mohammed Asif vs. State of Uttaranchal, (2009) 11 SCC 497.

28. The Constitutional Bench of the Apex Court in Laxman vs. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 6 SCC 710, while considering the conflict in Paparambaka Rosamma vs. State of A.P. (1999) 7 SCC 695 and Koli Chunilal Savji vs. State of Gujarat, (1999) 9 SCC 562, came to the conclusion that law laid down in the latter was the correct law and simply because the Doctor has not recorded/made endorsement that the deceased was in a fit state of mind to make the statement in question, other material on record to indicate that the deceased was fully conscious and capable of making statement cannot be ignored. This view has been reiterated in Ravi and another vs. State of T.N. (2004) 10 SCC 776; and Kamalavva and another vs. State of Karnataka, (2009) 13 SCC 614.

29. In Shaik Nagoor vs. State of Andhra Pradesh represented by its Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad, (2008) 15 SCC 471, the Apex Court held that where the Judicial Magistrate and the Police officer had given detailed description and the witnesses were not cross-examined on the point of fitness of the deceased, plea taken by the accused that the deceased was not fit to make the statement in the given circumstances was untenable.

30. In Sukanti Moharana vs. State of Orissa, (2009) 9 SCC 163, the Court was dealing with a case where the dying declaration was challenged on the ground that it did not contain thumb impression or signatures of the deceased. The challenge was repelled on the ground that medical evidence proved that the deceased was having 90% burn injuries on the thumb and therefore was in no position to sign the dying declaration. The Apex Court further reiterated its decision in Nallapati Sivaiah vs. SDO, (2007) 15 SCC 465, in the following terms:-

> "18. ...This Court in more than one decision cautioned that the courts have always to be on guard to see that the dying declaration was not the result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination. It is the duty of the courts to find that the deceased was in a fit state of mind to make the dying declaration. In order to satisfy itself that the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration, the courts have to look for the medical opinion."

31. This view stands reiterated in Ongole Ravikanth vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, (2009) 13 SCC 647.

32. Further in Sohan Lal alias Sohan Singh and others vs. State of Punjab, (2003) 11 SCC 534, State of Karnataka vs. Shariff, (2003) 2 SCC 473, Dayal Singh vs. State of Maharashtra, (2007) 12 SCC 452 and Kanti Lal vs. State of Rajasthan, (2009) 12 SCC 498, it has been held that it is not necessary that dying declaration is to be recorded before the Magistrate. The same can be recorded even before or by the police official. This view stands reiterated in Gulam Hussain and another vs. State of Delhi, (2000) 7 SCC 254.

33. The apex Court in Lakhan vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2010) 8 SCC 514 had an occasion to deal with two contradictory dying declarations made by the deceased. Finding the first one to have been recorded in presence of the close relatives of the accused, even though by an Executive Magistrate, the Court by ignoring the same, relied jupon the second dying declaration recorded by the police officer in holding the accused guilty of the crime charged for.

34. Dying declaration can be made any time, in the presence of anyone. It need not to be a Doctor, a Government Officer or an Executive Magistrate. So long as the victim is aware and fully conscious of what is being done and said, any statement made by her can be treated as an evidence, it being a different matter, as to whether it requires corroboration or not. (See: Munnu Raja and another v. The State of Madhya Pradesh, (1976) 3 SCC 104; Ramawati Devi v. State of Bihar, (1983) 1 SCC 211).

35. Dying declaration need not be in the form of question and answer. Principles required to be adopted for recording the statement of deceased stand reiterated in Ram Bihari Yadav Vs. State of Bihar and others, (1998) 4 SCC 517, State of Karnataka vs. Shariff (2003) 2 SCC 473 and K.Ramachandra Reddy and another vs. The Public prosecutor, (1976) 3 SCC 618.

36. The apex Court in Dandu Lakshmi Reddy vs. State of A.P., (1999) 7 SCC 69 has held that when the sphere of scrutiny of the dying declaration is a restricted area, the Court cannot afford to sideline such a material divergence relating to this very occasion of the crime.

37. In Mohan Lal and others vs. State of Haryana (2007) 9 SCC 151, the Court disbelieved the statement made by the wife of the accused on the ground that not only it was vague but also there was no contemporaneous documentary or other material to prove dowry demands prior to the incident.

38. In Maiben D/o Danabhai Tulshibai Maheria vs. State of Gujarat, (2007) 10 SCC 362, the Court was dealing with a case where death took place 25 days subsequent to the recording of the statement of the deceased, yet the same was taken to be a dying declaration.

39. In Ramakant Mishra @ Lalu & others vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2015) 8 SCC 299 the Court cautioned the prosecution to establish that every step for recording the dying declaration must be diligently complied with including alerting the Jurisdictional Magistrate of the occurrence of the incident.

40. Applying the aforesaid principles of law, we find the factum of dying declaration to have been proven on record.

41. Testimony of Smt. Sarla Devi records that upon receiving information of the incident, she immediately rushed to the hospital, but found none to be present there. Hence, she went to the house of the accused where she found the deceased lying on the bed. Accused was also present. At that time, deceased, who was alive, stated that her husband, i.e. the accused, had burnt her by pouring kerosene oil on her. Thereafter, the deceased was taken to the hospital, from where, the accused ran away. As advised, she took the deceased to the Civil Hospital, Baijnath, where she was declared dead.

42. Now significantly, this witness learnt about the incident at about 10 p.m. She immediately rushed to the spot, took charge and ensured that her daughter got adequate medical treatment. For some strange reason, the accused, as is evident from the testimony of this witness, never reported the matter to the police; family members of the deceased; neighbours; but instead, while his wife was alive, brought her back home. Not only that, when his mother-in-law took the victim, he ran away from the Ayurvedic Hospital, Paprola. No doubt, just two days prior to the incident, this witness had visited the house of her daughter, but then, such fact would make no difference, for she has explained that the accused used to maltreat the deceased. Such fact stands conclusively established by her.

43. Version of Smt. Sarla Devi is corroborated, on all counts, by Dalip Kumar (PW-2), brother of the deceased and Smt. Kavita Devi (PW-6), who further states that the Nurse, who attended to the deceased at the Private Hospital, Paprola, had asked the person attending the victim to take her to the Ayurvedic Hospital.

44. In fact such, version stands materially disclosed by Smt. Sunita Thakur herself, who initially attended to the victim at the Private Hospital. She does state that on 21.7.2009, at about 10-10.30 p.m., a person, carrying a lady, suffering from excessive burns, had come to the hospital and was advised to take the victim to the Ayurvedic Hospital, Paprola. She is categorical that the victim had narrated to her that she had been burnt with kerosene oil, which fact was also confirmed by the person (accused), who brought her to the hospital. On her asking, she telephonically informed the parents. It is true that the victim did not disclose to her that it was her husband who had set her on fire, but then, she does establish three facts: (i) the victim sustained burn injuries with kerosene oil, (ii) the victim had asked her parents to be informed, and (iii) this witness had asked the accused to take the victim to the Ayurvedic Hospital, Paprola. All this is only reflective of the conduct of the accused. Why is it that he did not take the victim to the Ayurvedic Hospital, Paprola and bring her back home? Why is it that he did not inform the parents of the victim? Why is it that he ran away from the hospital, when the victim was carried by her mother? All this remains unexplained.

45. Dying declaration, oral in nature, stands clearly established on record through the testimony of this witness as also the mother of the victim. The accused has taken a defence of suicide but from the suggestion put to the witness, it appears that the defence of bursting of stove, resulting into the injuries to the victim stands taken. Now it is an admitted fact that the incident came to be occurred in the matrimonial house and the incident took place within 7 years of marriage. Presumption with regard to the commission of offence under the provisions of Indian Evidence Act would not lie against the accused but then the burden which the accused was required to discharge in view of Section 114 of the said Act never came to be established on record. Police did not find any such telltale signs on the spot.

46. We find the testimonies of the witnesses to be fully inspiring in confidence. Their version is clear, consistent and cogent. There are neither any exaggerations nor any embellishments, much less improvements. In natural course, they are disclosing the events which took place on the spot resulting into the occurrence of the incident and the death of the deceased.

47. In the instant case, the dying declaration cannot be said to be out of malice. It was immediately brought to the notice of police.

48. But then, these facts alone have not weighed with the Court in arriving at its conclusions, for there is an eye-witness to the incident and that is daughter of the deceased, namely Simran (PW-15) aged 8 years, a student of 4th class, who has deposed as under:

> "My mother name was Kamla, who was married to Ramesh. It was about two years ago my father had come in drunken condition and beaten up my mother. It was during night time when Ramesh poured kerosin oil on my mother and my mother gone inside the room and thereafter Ramesh put on fire my mother with match box. Thereafter Ramesh put a blanket on my mother to save her. Thereafter my mother was removed to hospital. Thereafter my mother died. Today I have seen Ramesh who is standing the court.
>
> Xx xx by Shri M.C. Thakur, Adv. Xx xx xx
> Ramesh had constructed one new shop. It is correct that on the day when lentil was put my grand mother (Naani) had come. When my father was watering the lintel I was with him. It is correct that when I alongwith my father went towards the house then my mother was coming out while burning It is correct that while putting off the fire the hands of my father were also burnt. The shop is near to my house and adjoins to the road. When my father was watering to lintel he was not drunk. It is incorrect that mother and father was not having any dispute regarding the shop. It is incorrect that before this incident my father had also tried to snatch cani of kerosin oil 3-4 times and my father snatched the cani. It is incorrect that my statement was shown by the ld. P.P. and to make me understand the same. It is correct that prior this date, 2-3 times earlier had come with my Maussi and Naani."

49. The witness was found competent to depose in Court. Now, if we carefully peruse her testimony, she is categorical that it was the accused who after pouring the kerosene oil, had set his wife on fire. No doubt, in the cross-examination part, she does state that when she went with her father towards the house, she saw her mother come out burning. Thus, in our considered view, there is no contradiction. She is categorical that her father had set her mother on fire. It is only when the deceased came out, the accused was with this witness. Her statement is natural. It cannot be said that she was tutored to make such a statement. She has no reason to depose falsely. Yes, the accused did wrap a blanket to save the victim, but then this would not mean that he had not set her on fire.

50. It has come in the testimony of Ramesh Chand (PW-8) that kerosene oil came to be purchased by the victim from him.

51. Postmortem report (Ex.PW-7/A), so proved by Dr. Manoj (PW-7), records that the deceased, aged 33 years, had suffered severe burn injuries to the extent of 85% and died due to circulatory failure secondary to ante-mortem burns.

52. The witnesses have established (i) the factum of the accused having burnt the deceased, (ii) the deceased having disclosed such fact to her mother and brother, with slightly different version to the Nurse, (iii) and the conduct of the accused in not ensuring proper medical treatment to the deceased. Now, all this conclusively establishes the guilt of the accused.

53. Now, in the instant case, the Nurse is categorical that the victim was in a position to communicate and had in fact asked her to inform her relatives. The victim had disclosed to her that she had been burnt with kerosene oil. Such statement was made at a time when her husband was there. Significantly, she did not categorically state that it was an accident. Record does reveal that despite medical advice, the accused brought the victim home, rather than taking her to the hospital. Now, even at home, the victim, in the presence of the accused, had disclosed to her mother and brother that it was the accused who had set her on fire by pouring kerosene oil. Police came to reach the spot only when the victim had died, for such information was given from the Ayurvedic Hospital and not the Private Hospital, where the victim was taken by the accused.

54. The accused wants the Court to believe that it was a case of an accident, as the stove got burst, but then such defence cannot be said to have been probablized on record. No telltale signs of bursting of a stove were found on the spot. Had the accused not been guilty, he would not have run away from the spot, leaving his wife alone.

55. Defence of false implication, so taken by the accused, for not transferring the land in the name of the deceased, on the insistence of her mother, cannot be said to have been proven on record. There is nothing on record to establish that the accused owned any land adjoining to the hospital or that the deceased or her mother had desired the same to be transferred as such.

56. From the material placed on record, it stands established by the prosecution witnesses that the accused is guilty of having committed the offence charged for. There is sufficient, convincing, cogent and reliable evidence on record to this effect. The circumstances stand conclusively proved by unbroken chain of unimpeachable testimony of the prosecution witnesses. The guilt of the accused stands proved beyond reasonable doubt to the hilt. The chain of events stand conclusively established and lead only to one conclusion, i.e. guilt of the accused. It cannot be said that accused is innocent or not guilty or that he has been falsely implicated or that his defence is probable or that the evidence led by the prosecution is inconsistent, unreliable, untrustworthy and unbelievable. It cannot be said that the version narrated by the witnesses in Court is in a parrot-like manner and hence is to be disbelieved.

57. Hence, in our considered view, prosecution has been able to establish the guilt of the accused, beyond reasonable doubt, by leading clear, cogent, convincing and reliable piece of evidence.

58. Thus, the findings returned by the trial Court cannot be said to be based on correct and complete appreciation of material on record, which are reversed. The appeal is allowed and we hold the accused guilty and convict him for having committed offences, punishable under the provisions Sections 498-A & 302 of the Indian Penal Code, for causing cruelty to the deceased and committing her murder.

59. Bail bonds furnished by the accused-convict stand cancelled. For the purpose of hearing him on the quantum of sentence, the appeal be listed on 2.8.2016. He be produced in the Court on the said date. Copy of the judgment be supplied to the accused, free of cost.

60. Assistance rendered by Mr. Yudhbir Singh, learned Amicus Curiae, is highly appreciable.

Appeal stands disposed of, so also pending application(s), if any.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.:

By way of present appeal, State has challenged the judgment passed by the Court of Special Judge, Una, in Sessions Case No. 7-VII/2011/Sessions Trial No. 10/2011, dated 26.12.2011, vide which, learned trial Court has acquitted the accused for commission of offence under Section 15 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985, hereinafter referred to as the NDPS Act.

2. The case of the prosecution was that in the afternoon of 29.09.2010, a police party headed by S.I./S.H.O. Shakti Singh Pathania of Police Station, Haroli, was on routine patrol duty in the official vehicle bearing registration No. HP-20C-0507, which was being driven by driver/constable Vikas Kumar. The other members of the police party were ASI Prem Lal, HC Harish Chander, HC Subhash Chand, HC Kewal Krishan, HHC Ashwnai Kumar, C. Gurmail Singh, L.C. Chanchla Devi, HHC Sat Pal, HHG Rachpal, HHG Dilbag Singh, HHC Ranbir Singh and HHG Jeewan. At around 12.55 noon, when the said police party was present at Chandpur Chowk, HC Sanjay Kumar of Special Investigating Unit, Una, met SHO and HC Sanjay Kumar made a statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C. (Ext. PW4/A) before the SI/SHO Shakti Singh to the effect that he was posted as an Investigating Officer in Special Investigating Unit, Una and on 29.09.2010, he was on routine patrol and detection duty on his official motorcycle in the area. At around 12.45 noon, when he was present in Kungrat Bazar, he received secret information to the effect that accused Satnam Singh deals in the sale of poppy straw/husk in an illegal manner in his house in village Heeran Thara. If the said dwelling house of the accused is raided and searched, then poppy straw/husk can be recovered in huge quantity. The said information was reliable and authentic and needful be done.

3. Endorsement was made on the said statement of Sanjay Kumar by the SHO and the same was forwarded through C. Gurmail Singh to the Police Station for registration of the FIR. On the said basis, FIR No. 298/2010 (Ext. PW6/A) was lodged in Police Station, Haroli and endorsement to this effect was made on the Ruqua vide Ext. PW6/B. Reasons of belief were also prepared by the SHO as per the provisions of Section 42 of the NDPS Act vide Ext. PW5/A and was sent through HC Subhash Chand to the Superintendent of Police, Una, for his information.

4. Thereafter, SHO proceeded to the spot alongwith the staff and HC Sanjay Kumar. SHO sent HC Harish Chander in the official vehicle with driver/constable Vikas Kumar and HC Kewal Krishan to call the local persons after the police party reached the village of the accused. HC Kewal Krishan brought with him Smt. Amarjit Kaur, Ward Panch, Gram Panchayat Heeran Thara. HC Harish Chander came with Rakesh Pal Sharma, Up Pradhan, Gram Panchayat Heeran Thara and Mohinder Singh, Patwari, Circle Kungrat, to the spot. The house of the accused was encircled by the SHO with the help of his subordinates and on the arrival of the independent witnesses, they were informed about the details of the secret information received by the police. Thereafter, the gate of the house of the accused was got opened. The accused was present in his house and he was informed as to why the police was there. The police officials and the witnesses accompanying them gave their search to the accused. Ext. PW1/A to this effect was prepared. Thereafter, the house of the accused was raided and searched in the presence of the independent witnesses. During the search, seven plastic bags were recovered from the 'Parchhati' of the bath room of the house of the accused. These bags were brought down from the 'Parchhati', opened and checked and they contained poppy straw/husk. Thereafter, a weighing scale and weights were arranged by the police at the spot and all these bags were weighed one after the other. In all, they contained poppy straw/husk. Out of these, two samples of one Kg. each were drawn and these samples were numbered as 1/S-1, 1/S-2 to 7/S-1 and 7/S-2. 14 samples were separately wrapped and sealed by affixing seal impression 'T' and the bags were sealed with seal impression 'T'. NCB forms were filled in at the spot and the impression of the seal used was retained on the pieces of cloth including Ext. PW1/B and the NCB forms. The seal after its use was handed over to Mohinder Singh, Patwari. The proceedings were photographed. The bags and sample parcels etc. were taken into possession vide Memo Ext. PW22/C, which were signed by the accused and the witnesses. A copy of the seizure memo was supplied to the accused free of cost. Site plan showing the place of the alleged recovery was drawn and the statements of the witnesses under Selection 161 Cr.P.C. were recorded.

5. The accused was arrested and he was also informed about the grounds of his arrest. The information of his arrest was given to his wife. Thereafter, the police party returned to Police Station, Haroli, alongwith the case property and the accused. The case property was produced by SI/SHI Shakti Singh Pathania before ASI Krishan Kumar, who re-sealed the same by affixing seal impression 'M'. The impression of the seal used was also retained on the NCB forms. The relevant columns of the NCB forms were filled in by ASI Krishan Kumar. He then deposited the case property with the MHC of the Police station.

6. A special report as per Section 57 of the NDPS Act was sent to the Superintendent of Police, Una, by the SHO. The sample parcels were sent for chemical test to FSL Junga. The report of the laboratory was obtained and all the seven bags were also produced before the Illaqua Magistrate by the police for the preparation of the inventory as per Section 52-A of the NDPS Act. The learned Magistrate too drew the samples of 500 grams each from all the seven bags and the bags and the samples were sealed with the seal of the Court. The samples drawn by the learned Magistrate were also forwarded to Junga for analysis and the report was collected. It was revealed during the course of the investigation that the accused was earlier also booked for the commission of such like offence both by the Himachal and Punjab Police.

7. After the completion of the investigation, challan was presented in the Court and as a prima facie case was found against the accused, he was charged for commission of offence punishable under Section 15 of the NDPS Act, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed the trial.

8. On the basis of the material produced on record by the prosecution, the learned trial Court came to the conclusion that the prosecution had failed to prove the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused with regard to poppy straw/husk in question and it accordingly acquitted the accused of the offence alleged against him.

9. We have heard learned counsel for the appellant as well as learned Amicus Curiae. We have also gone through the records of the case and the judgment passed by the learned trial Court.

10. Before proceeding further, it is relevant to take note of the stand which has been taken by the accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. As per the accused, when the police came to his house, he was not there. He was telephonically called to his house. His brother was there at the relevant time who fled away. He has further stated that his elder brother Darbara Singh was forced to sit in the Police Station by the police and lady police came to arrest his wife. He was called and taken in the police vehicle to Police Station, Haroli, thereafter, his brother Darbara Singh was let off by the police. SI Shakti Singh had earlier also framed him in a case under the NDPS Act in the year 2003. The said ASI had asked him to call his brother who had fled away. The accused expressed his inability to do so. He further deposed that, the police official asked him to sign on various papers and procured his signatures and that he had been involved in a false case.

11. Out of the persons who were associated with the search and recovery, the prosecution examined HC Harish Chander, Rakesh Pal Sharma, HHC Ashwani Kumar, HC Sanjay Kumar and SI/SHO Shakti Singh Pathania. The two independent witnesses who were associated with the recovery, namely, Smt. Amarjit Kaur and Mohinder Singh, were given up by the learned Public Prosecutor on the ground that the said witnesses had been won over by the accused, as has been argued by the learned Deputy Advocate General.

12. Therefore, now we will closely scrutinize the statements made by the above mentioned witnesses in order to ascertain as to whether the prosecution was able to prove its case against the accused and whether the learned trial Court has erred in acquitting the accused.

13. HC Harish Chander has entered the witness box as PW-1 and he has deposed that on 29.09.2010, he alongwith ASI Prem Lal and the other police officials including the SHO were on routine patrol duty in the official vehicle No. HP-20C-0507. At noon, they were present in Chandpur Chowk, where HC Sanjay Kumar met them, who made a statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C. before the S.H.O., on the basis of which, Ruqua was sent through constable Gurmail Singh and reasons of belief were prepared by the SHO under Section42 of the NDPS Act and handed over to HC Subhash Chand to deliver the same in the office of Superintendent of Police, Una. He has further stated that they proceeded to village Heeran Thara i.e. village of the accused. The SHO directed him and HC Kewal Krishan to call the independent witnesses and he called Mohidner Singh Patwari and Rakesh Pal and brought them to the spot. HC Kewal Krishan brought Smt. Amarjit Kaur. The area was cordoned by them and the witnesses were told regarding the details of the case. Accused Satnam Singh was called out of his house and conveyed the details of the case. Thereafter, as per the said witness they gave their search to the accused in the presence of witness Smt. Amarjit Kaur vide Memo Ext.PW1/A. The house of the accused was searched. During search, from the 'Parchhati' of the bath room of the accused, which has the entry from the 'Pooja Room', seven bags were recovered. Those bags were brought down from the 'Parchhati' and checked by the S.H.O. Six bags contained poppy husk and one bag was containing the poppy straw. The SHO directed him to bring the weights and scale to the spot. He went to Laluwal and brought the same to the spot from the shop of Lakhvinder Singh. All the bags were weighed. They contained 208 Kgs of poppy straw/husk. Out of all these bags, two samples of one Kg. each were drawn of the poppy straw/husk i.e. total 14 samples. All the samples and the bags were then wrapped and sealed by affixing seal impression 'T'. The bags were numbered from 1 to 7. The NCB forms were filled in at the spot. The seal after its use was handed over to Mohinder Singh, Patwari. The seizure memo was prepared at the spot, which was signed by the accused and the witnesses. In his cross-examination, he has stated that he had mentioned in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that on the fateful day Amarjit Kaur was called by HC Kewal Krishan. He was confronted with his statement Ext. DA wherein it was not so recorded. He also stated that he had got recorded in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that the sample and the bags were marked separately and he was confronted with his statement Ext. DA, wherein this was not so recorded.

14. Rakesh Pal Sharma has entered the witness box as PW-2 and stated that he was working in his fields and was called by the police. He firstly went to his house from the fields. At around 12.30 noon, he reached the house of the accused and remained standing outside the gate of the house of the accused and noticed that some bags were lying inside the house of the accused. Smt. Amarjit Kaur, member of the Panchayat, was also there. He was declared as a hostile witness. In his cross-examination, he has stated that when he reached the spot, Mohidner Singh, Patwrai, was there. He has denied the suggestion that the he and police officials gave their search to the accused and Memo Ext. PW1/A was prepared in this regard. He denied the suggestion that the house of the accused was searched in his presence which led to the recovery of seven bags of poppy straw/husk. He has also denied the suggestion that two samples each from all the bags were drawn by the police in his presence. He has further stated that when the police prepared all the papers, he was called inside the house to sign the same.

15. HHC Ashwnai Kumar has entered the witness box as PW-3 and stated that he joined the investigation on 29.09.2010 and took photographs in village Heeran Thara relating to the recovery.

16. HC Sanjay Kumar has entered the witness box as PW-17 and stated that on 29.09.2010 while he was posted as SIU, Una, he received secret information to the effect that accused deals in the illegal sale and purchase of poppy straw/husk. He also received the information that the accused carried out said business from his house in village Heeran Thara. He further deposed that if the house of the accused is raided and searched, the recovery can be effected. As the information was reliable, he left Kungrath on the motorcycle for Police Station, Haroli. At around 12.55 noon, when he reached village Chandpur, SI/SHO Shakti Singh Pathania met him alongwith the other police officials. They were in the official vehicle. He narrated the secret information to the SHO, who recorded his statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C. and thereafter, set the process into motion for search and seizure of the house of the accused. He further deposed that the SHO directed HC Kewal Krishan and HC Harish to call independent witnesses. HC Kewal Krishan came with Smt. Amarjit Kaur and HC Harish brought Patwari Mohinder Singh and Up Pradhan Rakesh Pal. Then they proceeded to the house of the accused. The accused who was present in the house, opened the gate. The details of the information were disclosed to the accused and thereafter, they gave their search to the accused in the presence of Smt. Amarjit Kaur and then they entered the house of the accused alongwith the witnesses. Seven plastic bags were recovered from the 'Parchhati' of the bath room of the accused and the six bags were containing poppy straw/husk. The accused was not having any permit to keep or sell the poppy straw/husk.

17. Similarly, PW-18 SHO Shakti Singh Pathania has also narrated the occurrence of events. He has deposed that he endorsed the statement made by HC Sanjay Kumar and sent it through C. Gurmail Singh to the Police Station for registration of the FIR. He also deposed that the reasons of belief Ext. PW5/A were prepared by him and sent through HC Subhash Chand to the office of S.P. Una. Then he proceeded to the village of the accused i.e. village Heeran Thara with the staff and HC Sanjay Kumar. He also stated that he directed HC Harish Chander and H.C. Kewal Krishan to bring the independent witnesses. HC Harish Chander returned with Patwari Mohinder Singh and Up Pradhan Rakesh Kumar. H.C. Kewal Krishan returned with Smt. Amarjit Kaur (Ward Panch). He further stated that they went to the house of the accused and gave their search to the accused in the presence of Smt. Amarjjit Kaur. Memo ext. PW11/A was prepared in this regard. After that, they went inside the house of the accused and checked the same, from the 'Parchhati' of the bath room, seven plastic bags were recovered. These bags were brought down from the 'Parchhati'. He further deposed that the same were opened and checked and six bags contained poppy husk and the seventh bag was found containing the poppy straw. He directed HC Harish Chand to bring the weights and scale to the spot. HC Harish Chander returned after sometime with weights, scale and Lakhvinder Singh. The bags were weighed one after the other. They contained 204 KGs of poppy husk and 04 Kgs of poppy husk. Out of each bag, two samples of 1 Kg. each were drawn. The bags and samples were then sealed by affixing seal impression 'T'. The seal impression was retained on NCB form and the seal after the use was handed over to Mohinder Singh. The case property was taken into possession vide Memo Ext. PW2/C. Copies of the Memos were supplied to the accused free of costs. The photographs of the spot were taken. He recorded the statements of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. The accused was arrested and informed about the grounds of arrest. The case property was produced before him by ASI/SHO Krishan Lal. ASI Krishan Lal resealed the bags etc. with seal 'M' and deposited the same with MHC. On 30.09.2010, special report was delivered by him in the office of S.P. Una. The demarcation of the house of the accused was done from the Field Kanungo.

18. These are the material witnesses, which as per learned Deputy Advocate General fully corroborated the case of the prosecution and which aspect of the matter has been ignored as per him by the learned trial Court rendering the judgment passed by the learned trial Court to be bad.

19. Perusal of the record of the case reveals that the accused was previously also booked under Section 15 of the NDPS Act vide FIR No. 687/2003 registered at Police Station in Una on 22.10.2003. In the said case which was registered against the accused SHO Shakti Singh Pathania appeared as PW-16. At that time, he was posted as Incharge Police Post Santoshgarh. In that case, Memo of consent and recovery were prepared by the police which were signed by ASI Shakti Singh as a witness. These Memos have been exhibited as Ext. DG and Ext. DH. A perusal of the same demonstrate that in the earlier case the stand of the prosecution was that house in issue in village Heeran Thara belonged to Satnam Singh accused and his brother Gurbax Singh. A perusal of Ext. D1/D, which is a death certificate, demonstrates that Gurbax Singh died on 23.01.2011 i.e. during the course of investigation of the present case. The prosecution has not produced any material on record that partition had taken place between the accused and his deceased brother Gurbax Singh before his death. The prosecution has also not produced any evidence on record to suggest or substantiate that the accused was residing alone in the house. On the contrary, a perusal of the statement made by PW-2 i.e. Rakesh Pal who happens to be an eye witness to the alleged recovery as well as PW-18 SHO Shakti Singh Pathania reveals that they have deposed that the accused, his wife and children were residing in the house. Ext. D1/C is the copy of judgment dated 30.11.2006 passed by the Court of learned Sessions Judge in Sessions Trial No. 2 of 2006 i.e. the case in which the accused was tried for commission of offence under Section 15 of the NDPS Act in FIR No. 687/2003. A perusal of the said judgment demonstrates that the accused was acquitted by the learned Court below inter alia on the ground that the prosecution could not prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused and it could not establish that the accused was residing alone in the house.

20. Incidentally, in the present case, three persons were associated as independent witnesses. They are namely Mohinder Singh, Up Pradhan, Rakesh Pal Sharma and Ward Panch Amarjit Kaur. Out of these three witnesses only Rakesh Pal Sharma has been examined as PW-2, whereas the other two spot witnesses have not been examined by the prosecution. As per the records, learned Public Prosecutor gave up PWs Amarjit Kaur and Mohinder Singh on the ground that they were won over by the accused. H.C. Kewal Krishan who was part of the police party, who as per the case of the prosecution, was sent to call the independent witness and who had brought Amarjit Kaur. He was also given up by the prosecution. It is not the case of the prosecution that the house of the accused from where the alleged recovery was effected was situated at some secluded place and there was no habitation near that house. The copy of demarcation report is on record as Ext. PW8/A. This demarcation was conducted by Field Kanungo Subhash Chand (PW-8), who has deposed that he went to the spot with Halqua Patwari Mohinder Singh and the police and the demarcation was conducted by him at the spot and at the time of demarcation Smt. Bhupinder Kaur, wife of the accused, was present. In his cross-examination, he has stated that "there are other houses near to the house of the accused." Despite this, no neighbour of the accused has been either associated with the recovery or has been examined by the prosecution to substantiate its case with regard to the alleged recovery made from the house of the accused or with regard to the factum as to who were the persons living in the house.

21. Therefore, we are of the considered opinion that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove that the house was in the exclusive possession of the accused or that the poppy straw/husk which was allegedly recovered from the house was in the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused only.

22. Now, if we refer to the statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C., he has stated therein that when the police came to his house, he was not there and he was telephonically called to the house. He further stated that his brother was there who fled away. He has also stated that his elder brother Darbara Singh was forced to sit by the police in the Police Station and lady police came to arrest his wife. He has also stated that he was called and taken in the police vehicle to Police Station, Haroli and thereafter, his brother Darbara Singh was let off. The accused has also mentioned in his statement that SI Shakti Singh had earlier also framed him in a case under the NDPS Act in the year 2003. This fact stands proved from the record. Therefore, the element of previous animosity between SI Shakti Singh and the accused is apparent and evident from the record.

23. Incidentally, one of the three independent witnesses who actually entered the witness box i.e. PW-2 Rakesh Pal Sharma has not corroborated the story of the prosecution. He was cross-examined at length by learned Public Prosecutor but nothing material could be elucidated from him to substantiate the case of the prosecution. In his cross-examination, he has denied the suggestion that the house of the accused was searched in his presence which led to the recovery of seven bags of poppy straw/husk. On the other hand, he has stated that when he reached the spot, the police officials were weighing the bags. No cogent explanation has been given by the prosecution as to why the other two spot witnesses in whose presence the alleged recovery was effected, namely, Amarjit Kaur and Mohinder Singh were given up on the ground having been won over by the accused. In our considered view, even if that was so, the prosecution had the opportunity of cross-examining the said witnesses to bring home the guilt of the accused and to prove the case of the prosecution. Therefore, except the police officials, there is no independent witness who has corroborated the case of the prosecution. We have already observed that from the material on record the prosecution has not been able to prove the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused with regard to the poppy straw/husk. The statement of police officials does not inspire confidence in the peculiar facts of the case.

24. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mohd. Alam Khan Vs. Narcotics Control Bureau and another, AIR 1996 Supreme Court, that when the prosecution fails to establish the ownership and possession of the premises from where contraband articles were seized to be that of the accused, then the accused cannot be convicted.

25. The Hon'ble Supreme court has further held in Madan Lal and another Vs. State of H.P., (2003) 7 Supreme Court Cases 465, that expression "possession" is a polymorphous term which assumes different colours in different contexts and it may carry different meanings in contextually different backgrounds. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further held that the word "conscious" means awareness about a particular fact and it is state of mind which is deliberate or intended. The relevant Paras of the said judgment are quoted herein below:-

> "20. Section 20(b) makes possession of contraband articles an offence. Section 20 appears in chapter IV of the Act which relates to offence for possession of such articles. It is submitted that in order to make the possession illicit, there must be a conscious possession.
>
> 21. It is highlighted that unless the possession was coupled with requisite mental element, i.e. conscious possession and not mere custody without awareness of the nature of such possession, Section 20 is not attracted.
>
> 22. The expression 'possession' is a polymorphous term which assumes different colours in different contexts. It may carry different meanings in contextually different backgrounds. It is impossible, as was observed in Supdt & Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, W. B. v. Anil Kumar Bhunja to work out a completely logical and precise definition of "possession" uniformally applicable to all situations in the context of all statutes.
>
> 23. The word 'conscious' means awareness about a particular fact. It is a state of mind which is deliberate or intended.
>
> 24. As noted in Gunwantlal v. The State of M.P. possession in a given case need not be physical possession but can be constructive, having power and control over the article in case in question, while the person whom physical possession is given holds it subject to that power or control.
> 25. The word 'possession' means the legal right to possession (See Health v. Drown). In an interesting case it was observed that where a person keeps his fire arm in his mother's flat which is safer than his own home, he must be considered to be in possession of the same. (See Sullivan v. Earl of Caithness.)"

26. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has held in Om Prakash alias Baba Vs. State of Rajasthan, (2009) 10 Supreme Court Cases 632, that it is not sufficient to prove that the house from where the contraband was recovered belongs to the accused and was in his possession. The prosecution was further required to show that the accused had exclusive possession of the contraband as a very large number of persons including the accused and five of his brothers, their children and their parents were living therein.

27. When we apply the ratio of the aforesaid judgments to the facts of the present case, the only conclusion which can be arrived at on the basis of the material produced on record by the prosecution is this that the prosecution has neither been able to prove that the house was in exclusive ownership and possession of the accused nor it has been established by the prosecution that the contraband which was allegedly recovered from the said house was in the exclusive and conscious possession of the accused.

28. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court also demonstrates that all these aspects of the matter have been minutely gone into by the learned trial Court and after appreciating the evidence on record, it has returned the findings that the prosecution was not able to prove the case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt. In our considered view, there is neither any perversity nor any infirmity in the said findings returned by the learned trial Court. Accordingly, we uphold the judgment of acquittal passed by the learned trial Court and dismiss the present appeal being devoid of any merit. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by the accused are discharged.

(Para-8 to 15)

For the Appellants: Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Sanjeev Kuthiala, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant Regular Second Appeal stands directed by the defendants/appellants against the impugned rendition of the learned Additional District Judge, Una whereby he dismissed the appeal of the defendants/appellants herein and affirmed the findings rendered by the learned Sub Judge 1st Class (1), Amb, District Una, H.P., whereby the latter Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff. The defendants/appellants herein stand aggrieved by the judgment and decree of the learned Additional District Judge, Una. Theirs standing aggrieved, they have therefrom preferred the instant appeal before this Court for seeking from this Court a verdict for reversing the findings recorded therein.

2. It has been averred in the plaint by the plaintiff that the defendants have not right, title or interest qua the estate left by late Sh. Chhajju Ram husband of the original plaintiff Smt. Bhambo Devi and in particular with respect to the land as detailed in the plaint, hereinafter referred to as the suit land. It is also averred that the defendants got attested mutation No.66 of 14.8.1992 in their favour on the anvil of the alleged Will of Chhajju Ram of 6.11.1974 which is alleged to be illegal on the ground of its being result of fraud and undue influence hence prayed that it is liable to be set aside being inopertive qua the rights of the plaintiff. The plaintiff claims that she is owner in possession of the suit land and the estate left by her husband. Consequently, the plaintiff has prayed for declaring the alleged Will null and void and further to restrain the defendants from causing interference in the suit land in the manner or in case the defendants succeeds in taking forcible possession of the suit land or part thereof, a decree for possession be also passed.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein they have taken preliminary objections qua maintainability, cause of action, limitation and estoppel. On merits, it has been pleaded that Sh. Chhajju Ram during his life time had executed a valid Will in their favour and he died on 5.2.1992. The Will was stated to have been executed out of his free volition as the defendants have been taking care of Chhaju Ram during his life time. The Will which was stated to have been executed in the year 1975 thus is claimed by the defendants to have been executed by the testator in a sound disposing mind and thus after his death on the strength of the Will defendants have succeeded to the estate of said late Sh. Chhajju Ram. In respect of the attestation of the mutation, it is submitted that the said document was also attested in the presence of the general public and therefore, the plaintiff has no right whatsoever in the estate left behind by Chhajju Ram and prayed that the suit be dismissed.

4. The original plaintiff filed replication to the written statement of the defendants/appellants, wherein, they denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is owner in possession of the suit property including abadi denoted by the letters ABCDEF in site plan, as alleged? OPP
2. Whether the Will in favour of defendants qua the estate of Chhajju is a result of fraud and undue influence and whether the mutation sanctioned on its basis in favour of defendants qua estate of Chajju is wrong, illegal and void, as alleged? OPP
3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of injunction, as prayed for? OPP
4. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of possession in alternative, as alleged? OPP
5. Whether suit is within time? OPP
6. Whether suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD
7. Whether the act and conduct of plaintiff is bar to the suit? OPD
8. Whether deceased Chhajju Ram executed valid will in favour of defendants qua his estate on 16.11.1974 in sound state of mind and whether defendants are owners in possession of suit property on the basis of Will? OPD
9. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff. In an appeal, preferred therefrom before the learned first Appellate Court by the appellants/defendants, the first Appellate Court dismissed their appeal and affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the defendants/appellants herein have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court assailing the findings recorded by the learned first Appellate Court in its impugned judgment and decree. When the appeal came up for admission on 13.11.2003, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the defendants/appellants against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

a) Whether the suspicious circumstances relied upon by the two Courts below in declaring the impugned will Ex.DW2/A as invalid are suspicious circumstances surrounding the execution of the said Will and, if so, whether the suspicious circumstances have been satisfactorily explained?

Substantial question of Law No.1:

8. On demise of Chhajju Ram his estate opened for succession. On the anvil of a testamentary disposition of deceased testator Chhajju Ram mutation of inheritance qua his estate stood attested on 14.8.1992 in favour of the defendants by the Revenue Officer concerned. The learned counsel appearing for the appellant has contended with vehemence before this Court of with the plaintiff not stepping into the witness box for proving the averments constituted therein embodying the factum of the testamentary disposition of deceased Chhajju Ram comprised in Ex.DW2/A standing shrouded with suspicious circumstances, it was unwarranted for both the learned Courts below to proceed to underscore in their respective decisions, the prevalence of suspicious circumstances surrounding the execution of Ex.DW2/A. He contends of hence the suspicious circumstances, if any, surrounding the execution of Ex.DW2/A as stood marshaled ipso facto at the mere ipse dixit of both the learned Courts below for theirs thereupon concomitantly concluding of with its propounders failing to dispel the aura of suspicion gathering around the execution of Ex.DW2/A, not holding any vigour. However, the aforesaid submission addressed before this Court by the learned counsel appearing for the appellants ought at the out set suffer the fate of its standing axed as even in the absence of the plaintiff not stepping into the witness box to prove the apposite averments encompassing the purported suspicious circumstances surrounding the execution of Ex.DW2/A, the judicial conscience of Courts of law when stood beset with, on available material adduced therebefore in purported display of falsity ingraining Ex.DW2/A, an obstacle, to pronounce upon its valid and due execution by the deceased testator, it was incumbent upon its propounders to dispel the aura of suspicion surrounding Ex.DW2/A.

9. Be that as it may, even if the plaintiff had not stepped into the witness box to prove the averments embodying the purported suspicious circumstances surrounding the execution of Ex.DW2/A, for hence belittling the factum of its valid and due execution by the deceased testator yet the apposite suspicious circumstances as stood constituted in the purported falsities ingraining the recitals occurring in Ex.DW2/A, falsities whereof upsurged on both the learned Courts below alluding to the evidence adduced therebefore, any allusion thereto by them, is a legally justifiable concert on their part to satisfy their judicial conscience qua the factum of its valid and due execution by the deceased testator yet apart therefrom this Court is compatibly enjoined with a solemn obligation to ascertain by gauging from the apt material, whether suspicious circumstances, if any, which stood culled out by both the learned Courts below from the evidence available therebefore, ingraining the execution of Ex.DW2/A for hence theirs nullifying the execution of Ex.DW2/A holding sway with this Court.

10. At the outset, it is imperative to allude to the factum of Ex.DW2/A standing executed on 6.11.1974 and on its on the very same day standing presented for besides its standing accepted for registration by the Registering Officer concerned. The apposite statutory para meter enjoining substantiation by adduction of cogent evidence for a “Will” being construable to be validly and duly executed is of the deceased testator standing proven by any of the attesting witnesses thereto to either thumb mark it or append his signatures thereon in the presence of marginal witnesses thereto, besides of emphatic evidence standing adduced in pronouncement of the marginal witnesses thereto after theirs seeing the deceased testator append his thumb impressions or his signatures thereon, theirs proceeding to in his presence append thereon their respective signatures or their respective thumb impressions. It is not necessary for each of the attesting witnesses to a testamentary disposition, to step into the witness box, in proof of the deceased testator embossing his thumb impressions thereon in their respective presence or his appending his signatures on the relevant testamentary disposition in their respective presence nor also both the marginal witnesses to a testamentary disposition are enjoined to step into the witness box to lend further proof qua the factum of theirs respectively in the presence of the deceased testator embossing their respective thumb impression or theirs appending their respective signatures thereon. Contrarily, under law, the deposition of any of the marginal witnesses to a testamentary disposition commands legal sway in proof of the valid and due execution of a testamentary disposition preeminently when he in his deposition makes striking underscorings therein in satiation of the statutory ingredients referred to hereinabove. Even though, one of the marginal witnesses to Ex.DW2/A, namely, Hari Ram stepped into the witness box whereat he with unequivocal vigour bespoke of the deceased testator Chhajju Ram embossing in his presence his thumb impression thereon besides, in the presence of another marginal witness thereto, namely, Jagdish Ram whereafter both, he and Jagdish Ram in the presence of deceased Chhajju Ram appended their respective signatures thereon, whereafter he testifies of the deceased testator accompanied by both the marginal witnesses aforesaid to Ex.DW2/A, proceeded to the office of the Sub Registrar concerned whereat it stood presented for registration by the deceased testator before him, who on making the requisite inquiry from the deceased testator Chhajju Ram qua his voluntariness in executing Ex.DW2/A besides on his explaining to him the contents of Ex.DW2/A, contents whereof stood acquiesced by deceased testator Chhajju Ram, whereafter the latter in the presence of the Sub Registrar embossed his thumb impression on Ex.DW2/A, embossing thereon by deceased testator Chhajju Ram of the thumb impression stood succeeded by both Hari Ram and Jagdish Ram, marginal witnesses thereto appending their respective signatures thereon in the presence of the Sub Registrar concerned besides in the presence of deceased testator, testification whereof of DW-2 does constitute a formidable evidence for wresting an invincible conclusion of the apposite statutory para meter enshrined in Section 63 of the Succession Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter, standing proven for hence sequeling an inference of Ex.DW2/A standing proven to be duly and validly executed. Provisions of Section 63 of the Succession Act read as under:-

> "63. Execution of unprivileged Wills :- Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, 1 [or an airman so employed or engaged,] or a mariner at sea, shall execute his Will according to the following rules.(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the Will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction;
> (b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a Will;.
> (c) The Will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the Will or has seen some other person sign the Will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the Will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary."

Nonetheless, the learned first Appellate Court dispelled the efficacy of Ex.DW2/A on the score of (a) DW Hari Ram not belonging to the same Panchayat whereat the deceased testator held his residence; (b) Jagdish Ram despite surviving at the time contemporaneous to the recording of the deposition of DW Hari Ram, his not stepping into the witness box. Both the aforesaid reasons ascribed by the learned first Appellate Court to dis-impute sanctity to Ex.DW2/A hold no clout unless evidence stood adduced by the plaintiff connotative of DW Hari Ram not holding any intimacy or acquaintance with the deceased testator. However, the aforesaid evidence is amiss.

Contrarily, with DW Hari Ram in his deposition making ad nauseam echoings of his holding a close acquaintance with the deceased testator, echoings whereof acquire tenacity arousable from no evidence in rebuttal thereto standing adduced, whereupon hence an inference stand ignited of the deceased testator construing DW2 Hari Ram to be his confidante hence when the association of a marginal witnesses by the deceased testator qua his testamentary disposition hinges upon trust reposed by the deceased testator in them dehors the factum of theirs residing elsewhere than within the domain of the Panchayat wherein the deceased testator held his estate, as a corollary, when DW2 Hari Ram enjoyed the confidence and trust of the deceased testator, the mere factum of DW-2 Hari Ram not belonging to the same Panchayat whereat the deceased testator held his residence was a meritless ground for the Courts below for dispelling the efficacy of his testimony preeminently when he has with vividty underlined therein qua satiation of the statutory para meters enshrined in Section 63 of the Succession Act standing begotten whereupon hence a conclusion of Ex.DW2/A standing clinchingly proven to be validly and duly executed is drawable. Since, law does not enjoin upon a propounder of a testamentary disposition to lead in evidence both the marginal witnesses thereto, it was insagacious for the learned first Appellate Court to discount the legal efficacy of Ex.DW2/A upon a legally emaciated count of the other marginal witness thereto not stepping into the witness box to prove the factum of its valid and due execution.

11. Be that as it may, both the marginal witnesses to Ex.DW2/A provenly accompanied the deceased testator to the office of Sub Registrar concerned whereat deceased testator Chhajju Ram presented for registration before the Sub Registrar concerned his testamentary disposition comprised in Ex.DW2/A, prior whereto of the Registering Officer concerned accepting it for registration provenly made an inquiry from the deceased testator qua his comprehensibility of the recitals occurring in Ex.DW2/A besides qua its standing voluntarily executed by him, on successful completion whereof provenly deceased Chhajju Ram in the presence of the Registering Officer concerned embossed his thumb impression thereon whereafter both, Hari Ram and Jagdish Ram, the marginal witnesses to Ex.DW2/A in presence of both, the deceased testator and in the presence of the Registering Officer concerned appended their respective signatures thereon, proven facts aforesaid when magnifyingly articulate the factum of the deceased testator voluntarily making Ex.DW2/A besides, with each of the marginal witnesses thereto inconsonance with the apt statutory mode both succeeding its execution by the deceased testator also in the presence of the Registering Officer concerned appending their respective signatures thereon whereupon a firm capitalization to an inference of Ex.DW2/A standing proven to be validly and duly executed by deceased testator Chhajju Ram, is drawable, in sequel, when clinching proof qua its standing duly and validly executed by the deceased testator stands evinced, it was inapt for both the learned Courts below to overwhelm its efficacy on the score of cuttings existing on the reverse of Ex.DW2/A, cuttings whereof remaining uninitialed by the Registering Officer concerned, stood construed by them to render Ex. DW2/A to be not an instrument executed by deceased testator Chhhajju Ram rather by one Lachhmi Nand whereupon hence an aura of illegality stood fastened by them qua the valid and due execution of Ex.DW2/A, whereas, given the factum of the front of Ex.DW2/A provenly containing the thumb impression of the deceased testator besides of each of the marginal witnesses thereto, also when its reverse held likewise, any inference drawn by the learned Court below on the mere occurrence therein by inadvertence of the name of one Lachhmi Nand, of the latter hence being its executor, if also stands countenanced by this Court would render nugatory the proven recitals existing on the front of Ex.DW2/A besides,the proven signatures thereon of the deceased testator and of the marginal witnesses also would lead to a unwarranted sequel of this Court discounting the proven signatures of the aforesaid existing on its reverse. Apart therefrom, this Court derives an alike conclusion vis-a-vis the conclusion drawn by the learned courts below qua the facet aforesaid it would for reiteration blunt the effect of clinching evidence analysed hereinabove as exists hereat in proof of its valid and due execution.

12. Recitals occurs in Ex.DW 2/A of deceased testator Chhajju Ram standing goaded by services rendered to him by the legatees of Ex.DW2/A to hence bequeath his estate in their favour. However, both the learned Courts below on the anvill of DW-1 Ram Singh being aged eight years at the time contemporaneous to the execution of Ex.DW2/A besides his brother Bishan Dass serving in the army also of DW-1 omitting to unravel with specificity in his testimony qua the nature of services rendered by him to deceased testator Chhajju Ram, concluded therefrom of the motivating factor aforesaid for the legator of Ex.DW2/A to execute it when remained unsubstantiated, it hence ingraining Ex.DW2/A with an element of falsity whereupon both the learned Courts below disimputed sanctity qua its standing proven to be validly and duly executed. However, the aforesaid ground as meted by both the learned Courts below to disimpute sanctity qua the aforesaid recitals occurring in Ex.DW2/A appears to stand engendered by theirs making short shrift of the latter part of his testimony wherein he unravels of the plaintiff and the deceased testator uptill the demise of the latter residing in his dwelling whereat also his father resides with him. Embodiments aforesaid in his testimony when remained unrepulsed during the course of his standing held to cross-examination by the learned counsel for the plaintiff, fillips an inference of from the date of execution of Ex.DW2/A till the demise of deceased testator Chhajju Ram, both the latter and his wife residing in the homestead of DW-1 whereat he along with his father reside also therupon a concomitant inference stands derived of the Courts below holding a stricto senso view of the incapacity of DW1 besides his brother arising from the respective minority of DW-1 besides of his brother serving in the army, to hence serve the deceased testator, rendering the aforesaid motivating factor to hence stand ingrained with a falsity whereas they undermined the effect of the evident fact of deceased testator Chhajju Ram living in the house of DW-1 whereat his father resided with him, factum whereof would awaken an inference of vicarious services standing rendered to the deceased testator by the respective legatees of Ex. DW2/A through their father. Even otherwise, the learned Courts below appear to overlook the proven factum of the deceased testator along with his wife residing in the house of DW1 upto his demise, prolonged stay whereof of the deceased testator thereat ipso facto is connotative of his standing pleased with the services rendered by the legatees even through their father, dehors the incapacity, if any, of the legatees of Ex. DW2/A at the time contemporaneous to its execution by deceased testator Chhajju Ram, to purvey him their personal services nor it was apt for both the learned Courts below to insist upon strict proof of rendition of personal services by the legatees of Ex.DW2/A upon the deceased testator at the time contemporaneous to its execution when otherwise Ex.DW2/A stands proven to be validly and duly executed by him, predominantly when any insistence thereof would erode the effect of the desire of the deceased testator to bequeath his estate in their respective favour also would curtail the aspiration of the deceased testator manifested in his proven testamentary disposition besides would overwhelm the fact of Ex.DW2/A standing unrevoked by the deceased testator since its execution in the year 1974 upto his demise, factum whereof disrobes the falsity, if any, of the recital embodied therein of rendition of services by the beneficiaries of Ex.DW2/A towards deceased testator Chhajju Ram motivating him to execute it in their favour. The conclusion drawn by both the learned Courts below qua with no clinching evidence/proof standing adduced qua the rendition of personal services by the legatees of Ex.DW2/A towards deceased testator Chhajju Ram hence rendering Ex.DW2/A to stand shrouded with suspicious circumstances rendering hence its not standing proven to be validly and duly executed, appears to germinate from theirs omitting to hold a wholesome analysis of the testimony of DW-1 besides theirs overlooking evidence aforesaid alluded to hereinabove wherefrom an inference contrary to the one as stand drawn by the learned courts below, stands drawn by this Court. Further both the learned Courts below palpably appear to draw an obviable pedantic interpretation qua the recitals in Ex.DW2/A qua rendition of personal services by the legatees towards the deceased testator ingratiating the latter, any interpretation whereof, would frustrate the workability of evidence as stand adduced in satiation of the apposite para meter enshrined in Section 63 of the Succession Act whereupon this Court has construed it to be proven to be duly and validly executed by the deceased testator. Consequently, the aforesaid ground does not constitute any suspicious circumstances nor also it stood enjoined upon its propounders to dispel it.

13. The learned counsel appearing for the respondent has contended with vigour of with DW-1 in his cross-examination making a communication therein of apart from the income rearable from the estate of the deceased testator, Bhambo Devi not holding any other source of income for maintaining herself, renders the recitals in Ex.DW2/A of the deceased testator disinheriting her on hers holding ornaments besides sufficient cash to maintain herself, to stand ingrained with falsity, whereupon no sanctity is imputable to Ex.DW2/A. However, the solitary acquiescence by DW-1 qua the facet aforesaid would not erode Ex.DW2/A of its solemnity,especially when there exists a manifestation in Ex. P-1 of the mortgaged estate of the deceased testator standing redeemed by the plaintiff on hers paying in the year 1992, mortgage money to the State of Himachal Pradesh. The factum of hers redeeming the mortgaged estate of deceased Chhajju Ram by hers defraying the mortgage money to the State of Himachal Pradesh is a sufficient personification of hers holding financial resources other than the income reared or rearable from the landed estate of the deceased testator. As a corollary recitals in Ex.DW2/A of hers holding ornaments besides sufficient cash for her survival, movable assets whereof constrained deceased testator Chhajju Ram to disinherit her, hold veracity. Consequently with veracity percolating the facet aforesaid constituted in Ex.DW2/A for the deceased testator hence standing goaded to disinherit the plaintiff obviously renders the bequest constituted in Ex.DW2/A to not acquiring any aura of suspicion.

14. Lastly, the learned counsel appearing for the respondent has contended of with the propounders/beneficiaries of Ex.DW2/A holding no direct lineage vis-a-vis the deceased testator as apparent from revelations occurring in the memo of parties of the apposite suit of the deceased testator standing fathered by Baisakhi whereas the defendants standing fathered by Natha Ram, ancestors whereof of both hence not holding any affinity in lineage, rendering hence the relevant bequest comprised in Ex.DW2/A to be unnatural. However, with DW-1 deposing of the deceased testator holding a relationship with him and his brother as their uncle (Taya), factum whereof remains uneroded, does fillip a conclusion of even if, there was no direct affinity in lineage of the propounders vis-a-vis the executor of Ex.DW2/A yet it appears of there being an indirect lineage vis-a-vis both the executor and the legatees of Ex.DW2/A. Also the proven factum of the deceased testator living in the house of DW-1 since the execution of Ex.DW2/A uptill his demise holds sway with this Court to conclude of the legatees of Ex.DW-2/A holding a family relationship with the deceased testator, dehors the factum of their respective ancestors not holding any direct affinity in lineage.

15. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court are not based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. Accordingly, the substantial question of law stands answered in favour of the defendants/appellants and against the plaintiff/respondent. Consequently, the instant appeal is allowed and the judgments and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are set aside. In sequel, the suit of the plaintiff is dismissed. No order as to the costs. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

(Para-8 to 12)

For the Appellant: Mr. Bhupender Pathania, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant Regular Second Appeal stands directed by the plaintiff/appellant against the impugned rendition of the learned Additional District Judge, Mandi whereby he dismissed the appeal of the plaintiff/appellant herein and affirmed the judgment and decree rendered by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Mandi, District Mandi, H.P., whereby the latter Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiff for recovery of Rs.2,44,453, whereas, decreed the counterclaim of the defendant for recovery of a sum of Rs.99,704/- along with interest @ 6% per annum from the date of filing of the counter claim till the realization of the decretal amount. The plaintiff/appellant herein stands aggrieved by the judgment and decree of the learned Additional District Judge, Mandi. Its standing aggrieved, it has therefrom preferred the instant appeal before this Court for seeking from this Court an order reversing the findings recorded therein.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff is independent wing of Forest Department of Himachal Pradesh, which deals in timber, charcoal, resin and fuel wood. The plaintiff invited tenders from labour supply mates for setting up crop extraction of resin and carriage of the same upto road side Depot, for forest lot No.33/97, Jogindernagar for the year 1997. The tender filled in by the defendant was accepted and the resin extraction work was allotted to the defendant vide agreement of 20.09.1997 which was signed by both the parties. As per agreement a target of 354 Qtls, pure resin, was fixed to be extracted from 10,106 blazes at the rate of Rs.580 per Qtls. The defendant deposited earnest money of Rs.15,000/- by way of FDR of Himachal Gramin Bank and pledged the same in favour of the plaintiff. As per agreement all the necessary articles were provided to the defendant and trees were also handed over to him. Though the defendant started work on 29.3.1997, but his work was not satisfactory. He was also asked to speed up the work. The defendant during entire period extracted only 249.710 Qtls. pure resin as against the target of 354 Qtls. as agreed between the parties. Thus the defendant extracted 104.290 Qtls. less resin than the target and the defendant caused loss of Rs.3,44,157/- to the plaintiff. On the objection of the defendant the Higher Authority of the plaintiff gave relaxation of 67.830 Qtls. of resin on account of heavy rain and unfavourable circumstances. Thus, the plaintiff is entitled to recover the amount of Rs.2,44,447/- after deducting the amount of Rs.99,704/-, which is with the plaintiff. Hence the suit.

3. The defendant contested the suit and he also filed counter claim against the plaintiff for the recovery of Rs.99,704/-. In the written statement, the defendant has taken preliminary objections qua maintainability, limitation and estoppel. On merits, he averred that the agreement was in the form of Cyclostyled already prepared by the plaintiff and only signatures of the defendant were obtained on the same which was not readover and explained to him. Thus, the terms and conditions of the agreement are not binding upon him. He further averred that the target of extraction of resin could not be achieved due to heavy rain fall and the plaintiff has already recommended the case of the defendant for waving off the extraction. Even cost of the resin has been wrongly worked out at exorbitant rate of Rs.3300 per Qtls. The defendant refuted the case of the plaintiff and prayed for the dismissal of the suit.

4. In the counter claim the defendant alleged that balance of Rs.79,535/- is still out standing which is liable to be paid to the defendant by the plaintiff besides this he is also entitled to the refund of earnest money of Rs.20,169/-. Thus, the defendant is entitled to recovery of a sum of Rs. 99,704 with interest at the rate of 18% per annum thereon. The defendant prayed that the suit of the plaintiff be dismissed and his counter claim be decreed.

5. The plaintiff/appellant herein filed replication to the written statement of the defendant/respondent as well as written statement to the counter claim instituted by the defendant, wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement as well as of counter claim besides re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

6. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to recover the suit amount with interest, if so to what extent? OPP
2. Whether the plaintiff has no locus standi to file the present suit? OPD
3. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action? OPD
4. Whether the suit is barred by limitation? OPD
5. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his own act and conduct from filing the suit? OPD
6. Whether the defendant is entitled to recover a sum of Rs.99,704/- with interest from the plaintiff, as claimed in the counter claim, as alleged? OPD
7. Relief.

7. On an appraisal of the evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiff whereas it decreed the counter claim instituted by the defendant against the plaintiff/appellant herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the plaintiff/appellant herein, the learned first Appellate Court dismissed its appeal.

8. Now the plaintiff/appellant has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court assailing the findings recorded by the learned First Appellate Court in its impugned judgment and decree. When the appeal came up for admission on 28.03.2008, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiff/appellant against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned First Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

a) Whether the Courts below have erred in law in concluding that the agreement Ex. PW4/A had become impossible and become void when it became impossible. Have not the Courts below wrongly construed the provisions of Section 56 of the Indian Contract Act and have thereby wrongly applied the same in favour of the respondent/defendant. Had the agreement Ex.PW4/A becoming impossible and whether there was sufficient evidence to prove that the agreement had become impossible?

Substantial question of Law No.1:

9. Uncontrovertedly, the defendant/respondent herein omitted to abide by the terms of allotment of the apposite work made in his favour by the plaintiff/appellant. The apposite breach occurred in the defendant/respondent herein not meteing the requisite target enjoined to be accomplished by the relevant contract by him, breach whereof is contended to stand occasioned by heavy rain fall occurring in the area whereat the relevant work stood allotted to him. The factum of occurrence of heavy rain fall in the area whereat the relevant work stood allotted to the defendant/respondent herein by the plaintiff/appellant herein stands displayed in Ex.DW4/A. Recitals qua the facet aforesaid occurring in Ex.DW4/A stand corroborated by PW-2 and PW-6. Given the occurrence of heavy rainfall in the area whereat the relevant work stood allotted for execution to the defendant by the plaintiff obviously deterred him to mete the relevant target imposed upon him in agreement Ex.PW4/A. Also with PW-6 admitting of on his visiting the relevant site his noticing of the defendant employing sufficient manpower in consonance with the terms and conditions of agreement Ex.PW4/A, does give leverage to an inference of the defendant not dereliciing in achieving the target imposed upon him under agreement Ex.PW4/A rather the evident fact of occurrence of heavy rainfall in the relevant area deterring him to achieve the target imposed upon him under Ex.PW4/A.

10. Be that as it may, even if, in Ex.PW4/A there occurs no recital of on occurrence of heavy rainfall whereupon the accomplishment by the defendant of the relevant contractual target is rendered impossible, mandatory pecuniary liability towards the plaintiff standing exculpated, nonetheless, the evident fact of occurrence of heavy rainfall in the relevant area, factum whereof is a vis major, occurrence whereof supervenes the execution of Ex.PW4/A imminently frustrated the accomplishment by the defendant of the relevant contractual target. Even if, the factum aforesaid remained unembodied in Ex.PW4/A nonetheless with Section 56 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 (hereinafter referred to the "Act"), which stands extracted hereinafter, enshrining the doctrine of frustration of contracts, frustration whereof arises from occurrence of events supervening the recording of the relevant contract, enjoins or warrant its workability hereat:-

> "56. Agreement to do impossible act.- An agreement to do an act impossible in itself is void.
>
> Contract to do act afterwards becoming impossible or unlawful- A contract to do an act which, after the contract is made, becomes impossible, or, by reason of some event which the promisor could not prevent, unlawful, becomes void when the act becomes impossible or unlawful.
>
> Compensation for loss through non-performance of act known to be impossible or unlawful- Where one person has promised to do something which he knew, or, with reasonable diligence, might have known, and which the promisee did not know, to be impossible or unlawful, such promisor must make compensation to such promisee for any loss which such promisee sustains through the non-performance of the promise."

Imperatively, when hereat the frustrating supervening event since the execution of Ex.PW 4/A is the aforereferred vis major, occurrence whereof frustrated the defendant to achieve the relevant contractual target enjoined to be accomplished by him, renders its standing attractable hereat dehors the recitals inconsonance therewith standing un-enunciated in Ex.PW4/A, preeminently when statutory postulations even when remain unrecited in the relevant agreement, their workability when on evident material as exists hereat in display qua their awakening stands enlivened , renders their apposite invocation hereat to be not amenable to face the ill fortune of it being blunted and benumbed. Consequently, while galvanizing the provisions of Section 56 of the Act, the inevitable sequel is of with evident material in satiation thereof existing hereat obviously constrain this Court to conclude of the apposite supervening vis major frustrating the execution to the fullest by the defendant the obligations cast upon him under Ex.PW4/A.

11. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as well as by the learned trial Court stand based upon a proper and mature appreciation of the evidence on record. While rendering the findings, both the learned Courts below have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial question of law stands answered in favour of the defendant/respondent and against the plaintiff/appellant.

12. (Para-4 to 9)

Case referred:
M/S Sundram Finance Limited and another vs. T. Thankam, AIR 2015 SC 1303

For the petitioners: Mr. Ashwani Kaundal, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Jagat Paul, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This petition is instituted against the impugned order dated 16.12.2015, rendered by the learned Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.) Court No. 4, Shimla, H.P., in CMA in Civil Suit No. 53-1 of 2015.

2. Key facts necessary for the adjudication of this petition are that the respondent has entered into loan agreement with the petitioners whereby a sum of Rs. 13,30,000/- was sanctioned as loan along with the finance charges of Rs. 3,69,740/- vide loan agreement dated 21.8.2013. The amount was repayable by the respondent in 46 EMIs. The respondent has made number of defaults in the payment of monthly installments and further failed to perform its part of the obligation towards loan agreement. The respondent instituted a suit against the petitioners for permanent prohibitory injunction for restraining the petitioners from taking the forcible possession of the vehicle in question. The petitioners have moved an application before the learned trial Court under Section 8 read with Section 5 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 to refer the dispute to Arbitral Tribunal in view of clause23 of the loan agreement. The learned Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.) Court No. 4, Shimla dismissed the application on 16.12.2015. Hence, this petition.

3. I have heard counsel for the parties and gone through the impugned order dated 16.12.2015, carefully.

4. The loan agreement was entered into between the parties, as noticed hereinabove, on 21.8.2013. The relevant portion of clause 23.1 reads as follows:

> "All disputes, differences and/or claim arising out of or touching upon this Agreement whether during its subsistence or thereafter shall be settled by arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996, or any statutory amendments thereof and shall be refereed to the sole Arbitration of an Arbitrator nominated by the lender. The award given by such an Arbitrator shall be final and binding on all the parties to this agreement."

5. The application filed by the petitioners was not contested by the respondent and despite that the application preferred under Section 8 read with Section 5 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 has been dismissed by the learned trial Court.

6. It is evident from the language of the agreement, as quoted hereinabove, that all disputes, differences and/or claims arising out of or touching upon the Agreement whether during its subsistence or thereafter are to be settled by arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. The learned trial Court has erred in law by not considering the plain language of the arbitration clause. The non-payment of the loan amount, as agreed between the parties, would amount to disputes, differences and/or claim arising out of or touching upon this Agreement within the ambit of clause 23 of the agreement. The words "disputes, differences or claims" have wider meaning. The parties voluntarily have agreed upon to refer the dispute to the arbitration. The re-payment of the loan is the essence and soul of the loan agreement.

7. It has come on record that the respondent was not paying the installments regularly. The learned trial Court has further erred in law by making observation that the petitioners could take legal recourse to recover the same in the event of default of such liability. The rights of the parties are to be determined as per the loan agreement, more particularly, clause 23(1) of the loan agreement.

8. The learned trial Court has also not taken into consideration the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of P. Anand Gajapathi Raju and others vs. P.V.G. Raju (Dead) and others (2000) 4 SCC 539, Hindustan Petroleum Corp. Ltd. vs. Pinckcity Midway Petroleum (2003) 6 SCC 503, Manager Magma Leasing & Finance Ltd. & anr. vs. Potluri Madhavilata 2009 (10) SCC 103, Sukanya Holdings (P) Ltd. vs. Jayesh Pandya and another (2003) 5 SCC 531 and Orix Auto Finance (India) Ltd. vs. Jagmander Singh and another (2006) 2 SCC 598. These judgments have been considered by their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of M/S Sundram Finance Limited and another vs. T. Thankam, reported in AIR 2015 SC 1303. Their lordships have held that once an application in due compliance of Section 8 of the Arbitration Act is filed, the approach of the civil court should be not to see whether the court has jurisdiction. Once it is brought to the notice of the court that its jurisdiction has been taken away in terms of the procedure prescribed under a special statue, the civil court should first see whether there is ouster of jurisdiction in terms or compliance of the procedure under the special statute. The general law should yield to the special law. In such a situation, the approach shall not be to see whether there is still jurisdiction in the civil court under the general law. In this case also, the suit for injunction was filed by the respondent with prayer to restrain the first and second defendant institutions and their men from illegally taking away from the possession of plaintiff or her employee, or interfering with the use or causing damage to the car in the ownership and possession of the plaintiff by way of decree of injunction. Their lordships have held as follows:

> "15. Once an application in due compliance of Section 8 of the Arbitration Act is filed, the approach of the civil court should be not to see whether the court has jurisdiction. It should be to see whether its jurisdiction has been ousted. There is a lot of difference between the two approaches. Once it is brought to the notice of the court that its jurisdiction has been taken away in terms of the procedure prescribed under a special statue, the civil court should first see whether there is ouster of jurisdiction in terms or compliance of the procedure under the special statute. The general law should yield to the special law – generalia specialibus non derogant. In such a situation, the approach shall not be to see whether there is still jurisdiction in the civil court under the general law. Such approaches would only delay the resolution of disputes and complicate the redressal of grievance and of course unnecessarily increase the pendency in the court."

9. Accordingly, the petition is allowed. Order dated 16.12.2015 rendered by the learned trial Court is set aside. The learned trial Court is directed to pass fresh orders on the application filed by the petitioners under Section 8 read with Section 5 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996, within a period of one month after the receipt of the certified copy of this judgment. Pending application(s), if any, shall stand disposed of.

For the respondent : Mr. Ashok Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India, in all the appeals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Rajiv Sharma, Judge:

Since all the appeals arise from the same judgment and common questions of law and facts are involved, all the appeals were taken up together for hearing and are being disposed of by this common judgment.

2. The present appeals have been instituted against Judgment dated 30.6.2011 rendered by the learned Sessions Judge (Special Judge), Shimla in Sessions Trial CC No. 3-S/7 of 2006, whereby appellants-accused (hereinafter referred to as 'accused' for convenience sake), who were charged with and tried for offences punishable under Sections 420, 409 and 120-B IPC and Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, have been convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of one year each and to pay a fine of Rs.5,000/- each under Sections 420, 120-B IPC and Section 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, and, in default of payment of fine, to further undergo simple imprisonment for two months each. Substantive sentence of imprisonment were ordered to run concurrently.

3. Case of the prosecution, in a nutshell, is that Rajesh Gupta and V.S. Mehta were working as Divisional Manager and Administrative Officer in the United India Insurance Company Limited. Government of Himachal Pradesh had taken a group personnel insurance policy (Ext. PW-31/U) from United India Insurance Company Limited for its 1,50,000 employees at the rate of Rs.2,00,000 per employee from 1.1.2005 to 31.12.2005. Total premium paid to the insurance company was Rs.1,36,50,000/-. Government of Himachal Pradesh had not taken services of a broker/agent for arranging insurance cover. Notice inviting quotations was issued to the public/private sector insurance companies. Twelve insurance companies including four public sector insurance companies had submitted quotations. Though the quotation of private sector company was found to be lowest but at the instance of NGO Federation, government had decided to allot the work to the public sector insurance companies. United India Insurance Company had negotiated with other three public sector insurance companies (National Insurance Company, New India Assurance Company and Oriental Insurance Company) and was nominated leader. Premium was to be shared in the ratio of 40:20:20:20 between the United India Insurance Company and three other insurance Companies. Accused Diwan Chand was working as an agent of United India Insurance Company. He had not dealt with the Government at any stage. Accused No.2 and 3 namely Rajesh Gupta and V.S. Mehta had paid 10% commission amounting to Rs.12,38,657/- on the premium of Rs.1,23,86,570/- to Diwan chand. Cheque in the sum of Rs.10,50,935/- Ext. PW-4/F was prepared by PW-7 Sushil Bhardwaj. The cheque was submitted to Sh. T.B. Negi, Assistant Manager. Shri T.B. Negi had signed the cheque. Since the amount of the cheque exceeded the authority of Sh. T.B. Negi, he made reference Ext. PW-7/A-1 dated 6.1.2005 to the Regional Office for second signatory of competent jurisdiction. V.S. Mehta had taken the cheque as also the reference from Shri T.B. Negi. Later, V.S. Mehta had signed the cheque as second signatory and had handed over the same to Diwan Chand. Diwan Chand presented the cheque with Canara Bank Branch Shimla on 6.1.2005. Amount of Rs.10,50,935/- was credited to account No. 4688 of the accused Diwan Chand on 7.1.2005 after deducting Rs.1,87,722/- as tax deducted at source. Accused No.1, 2 and 3 had entered into a criminal conspiracy to cheat the Government of Himachal Pradesh and the United India Insurance Company of Rs.12,38,657/-. V.S. Mehta had obtained blank cheques of his account No. 4688 from Diwan Chand. Blank cheques were encashed. FIR was registered. Matter was investigated by PW-40. Accused Rajesh Gupta had defrauded three other Insurance Companies of an amount of Rs.2,47,731/-. Admitted specimen signatures and handwritings of the accused were obtained by PW-40. These were sent to PW-23, T. Joshi. Sanction was obtained. Investigation was completed. Challan was put up in the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

4. Prosecution has examined as many as forty one witnesses to prove its case against accused. Accused were also examined under Section 313 CrPC. Their case was denial simpliciter. Accused were convicted by the learned trial Court as noticed herein above. Hence, these appeals.

Mehta never came to him for rendering services of filling up income tax return in respect of Diwan Chand. V.S. Mehta never gave him cheque of Rs.15,000/- for rendering the services in favour of Diwan Chand. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor.

26. Sangeeta Bali (PW-18) testified that she was associated by the CBI in the investigation of the case. There was a Code of Conduct for agents. The IRDA Regulations 2000 lay down the Code of Conduct for agents. Agents are required under the Code of Conduct to regulate their working and for doing so they bring business from the market and give the proposal to the Insurance Company. She also admitted that Diwan Chand was paid a commission to the tune of Rs.10,50,935. On 31.12.2004, V.S. Mehta came alongwith cheque amounting to Rs.1,36,50,000/-. Upon the leter which was given to her by V.S. Mehta she was told that the agency code must be entered against Code No. 507 of Diwan Chand. In her cross-examination she deposed that every rate quoted was inclusive of the commission unless specifically described.

27. S.K. Munjal (PW-24) deposed that he collected information from Divisional Manager, New India Assurance Company Limited, Shimla. After receipt of the documents, he examined them and communicated his opinion vide letter Ext. PW-24/A. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he had not asked for any documents even from United India

Insurance Company to confirm the fact as to whether any effort has been made by the agent for procurement of the policy. Towards the end of his cross-examination, he admitted that in his opinion, if government gives premium cheque, commission is not payable.

28. Virender Kumar (PW-26) in his examination-in-chief deposed that in order to get the commission, an agent has to approach a prospect, understand the requirement of prospect, explain the policy conditions and exclusions and in case he agrees to take a policy get the proposal form filled and collect the payment of premium. He did not know whether said duties were performed by Diwan Chand. He further deposed that in case the mandate of the client was available then it was the brokerage which was to be paid and in the absence of the mandate, agency commission is payable if the business is procured through agent. He also admitted that the Exts. PW-13/A, PW-26/B, PW-15/DA and PW-13/B were the letters of correspondence in the case when the matter had not been finally decided as to what rate is to be quoted and the matter was in the pipeline during this period.

29. Jai Parkash (PW-27) deposed that he joined the Municipal Corporation, Shimla in the year 1982 as a Clerk. He became a cashier in the year 2004. His wife Kalpna was working as a Female Health Worker in the Department of Health. He knew V.S. Mehta. He was his friend. In the year 2003, he constructed duplex house in village Agwahi, Post Office Shoghi, District Shimla, HP. He had constructed said house over 4 biswas of land. he had started the construction in 2003. He had withdrawn Rs.4,50,000/- and his wife had also withdrawn GPF advance. He also obtained loan from State Bank of Patiala. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that he had filled all the particulars of cheque Ext. PW-27/B and withdrawn the amount of Rs.5,50,000/- from saving bank account of Diwan Chand at Canara Bank, The Mall, Shimla. He also admitted that on the reverse of Ext. PW-27/B, his signatures were there as Q-28.

30. Laxmi Singh Machhan (PW-29) deposed that after receipt of letter the insurance agents were visiting him. At that time, he did not know anything about the scheme. Agents from private as well as public sector insurance companies visited him and made aware of the benefits of the scheme. Diwan Chand agent of United India Insurance Company came to him. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. He admitted that Ext. PW-1/E was issued by him. He admitted that there was no reference of the fact that the Federation or he being President of the Federation was visited by agents or private/public sector insurance companies. He admitted that he had not received any letter from the Divisional Manager or any other officer of the United India Insurance Company that agent Diwan Chand would apprise the Federation of the benefit of the policy. Volunteered that there was no such practice. He proved the copy of letter mark DZ, which was written by him to Diwan Chand.

31. C.P.R. Verma(PW-32) deposed that he was working as Deputy General Manager. He accorded prosecution sanction vide Ext. PW-32/A.

32. T. Joshi (PW-33) gave opinion vide No. CX-148/2005 dated 5.7.2005 vide Ext. PW-33/Z-107

33. Mathew Verghese (PW-34) deposed that the CBI sent a reference Ext. PW-34/A. He sent reply Ext. PW-34/B to the same.

34. Rahul Dev Goyal (PW-35) deposed that the CBI had taken into possession numerous documents from the house of accused person. The documents were taken into possession vide seizure memo Ext. PW-30/A.

35. Rajesh Kumar Khajuria (PW-36) deposed that various documents were recovered from the house of accused Diwan Chand.

36. Bhawani Chand Kapoor (PW-37) deposed that house of accused V.S. Mehta was searched. Search memo Ext. PW-37/A was prepared. He duly signed the same.

37. Abhi Ram (PW-38) deposed that the CBI has raided the office of the accused and recovered documents vide Ext. PW-38/A.

38. Ashok Kalra (PW-39) deposed that he had carried out search of the residential house of accused V.S. Mehta on 6.4.2005 in the presence of ID Sharma and Bhawani Chand Kapoor. He prepared search memo Ext. PW-37/A.

39. Anil Chandola (PW-40) is the Investigating Officer. He had seized the original cheques of account No. 4688 of Diwan Chand maintained at Canara Bank on 7.4.2005 It transpired during the investigation that account No. 4688 in the name of Diwan Chand was opened on 5.1.2005. Cheque of Rs.10,50,935/- towards payment of commission to Diwan Chand in the GPA policy was issued on 6.1.2005 and this amount was credited in the account of Diwan Chand on 7.1.2005. Specimen signatures of the accused were obtained.

40. It is clear from Ext. PW-1/A dated 8.9.2004 that the Research Officer has sent a communication to 12 insurance companies requesting them to quote premium per annum for two accidental insurance schemes latest by 16.9.2004 by 11.00 AM positively under sealed covers. Same were to be opened in the presence of the representatives of participant insurance companies at 3.00 PM on the same day in the Chamber of the Secretary (Finance) i.e. Room No. 101. Mr. Rajesh Gupta was present on behalf of the United India Insurance Company in the meeting held on 16.9.2004 at 3.00 PM as per Ext. PW-1/C. Research Officer PW-1, has sent a communication to Shri Lakshmi Singh Machhan vide Ext. PW-1/D seeking clarification whether the NGO wanted policy from a PSU or a Company, which has quoted the lowest rates. Shri Lakshmi Singh Machhan sent a communication to the Additional Chief Secretary (Finance) vide Ext. PW-1/E that they would like to have policies from the United India Insurance Company, Oriental Insurance Company, New India Assurance Company and National Insurance Company. The Divisional Manager of United India Insurance Company informed the Principal Secretary (Finance) on 10.12.2004 that its revised rates would be Rs.91/ including service tax per employee. There is no reference of any brokerage/ commission. There is also no reference of brokerage/ commission in the Ext. PW-1/G, i.e., Memorandum for consideration of the Council of Ministers. The Indexed Group Personal Accident Insurance was revived as per Notification dated 30.12.2004 (Ext. PW-1/H). Principal Secretary (Finance) has sent a cheque of Rs.1,36,00,000/- in favour of the United India Insurance Company payable at State Bank of Patiala being premium for the scheme which was made operative from 1.1.2005 to 31.12.2005 vide Ext. PW-1/K. United India Insurance Company was requested to furnish cover note and official stamped receipt for the same at the earliest. Cheque was received vide Ext. PW-1/L. Superintendent of Police, CBI SCB has sought clarification of the Principal Secretary (Finance) vide letter dated 10.5.2005 vide letter Ext. PW-1/N, whether the Government had appointed Diwan Chand, a private person, to broker the deal with the Government and United India Insurance Company, in the matter of issuing Group Personal Accident Policy No. 111300/42/04. In sequel to Ext. PW-1/N, Additional Secretary (Finance) sent a communication to the Superintendent of Police on 19.5.2005 (Ext. PW-1/P) informing him that the Government is unaware of any such commission since the company used to quote a premium which is further subjected to negotiations with employees' leaders/ Unions and there might be an arrangement of the company concerned and State Government is not involved in it, in any manner, Government has directly dealt with the Divisional Managers of Insurance Companies i.e. Government of India Public Sector Undertakings in Insurance sector. Thus, the Government was unaware of any such commission. Government had made negotiations with the employees' leaders/ Unions. According to Ext. PW-4/E, a sum of Rs.10,50,935/- was debited. The Divisional Manager has sent a communication as per Ext. DA/2 for the ratification of the commission. Communication was sent to R.K. Sharma, Regional Manager, Regional Office, Chandigarh from the office at Shimla to seek approval of rates for policy. Rates were approved as per Ext. DA/5 dated 22.12.2004 at the rate of Rs.91/- per head including Rs.10.2% service tax for Table II cover. There is no reference of any commission /brokerage in Ext. DA/5. Shri R.K. Sharma, vide Ext. DA/18 dated 3.5.2005 has sent a communication to Rajesh Gupta stating that since he had requested for getting the approval of HO for rate editing facility to disburse the commission @ 10% and accordingly, they had written to HO. The approval for the same has not been received as yet, but he (Rajesh Gupta) had released the commission without waiting for the necessary approval from head office. Explanation was sought from Rajesh Gupta vide Ext. DA/18. Rajesh Gupta, justified payment of 10% commission by sending reply dated 14.7.2005 to the notice dated 3.5.2005 that Rs.91/- was inclusive of 10% commission. Shri R.K. Sharma, Regional Manager has sent a communication to the accused Rajesh Gupta stating that right from the day one, he had been telling them that the subject business was likely to be routed through a broker and the rates suggested by him were also inclusive of brokerage. It was under that bonafide belief that they recommended to HO for rate editing at 10% commission/brokerage but now, it had surfaced that neither the business was booked through a broker nor the agent Diwan Chand was in any way instrumental in the procurement of the premium and as such the payment of commission to Shri Diwan Chand was totally illegal and unjustified. The officers also expressed their surprise as to how the agency code had been changed in the subsequent policies issued to boards/ corporations at his own. Rajesh Gupta was advised to take immediate steps for recovery of the commission illegally paid to Shri Diwan Chand and other agents. A carbon copy was sent to V.S. Chopra, General Manager, Head Office, Chennai informing him that at the time of recommending for rate editing with 10% commission they were under the bonafide belief that the business had been routed through a broker/agent but now the new facts had emerged out and as per which payment of commission was illegal and therefore it was requested that their earlier recommendation of rate editing with 10% commission may be treated as cancelled. Mr. Rajesh Gupta has again tried to mislead the investigating agency on 30.5.2005 vide Ext. DA/28 by stating that the rate of Rs.91 per employee was inclusive of 10% commission. It is also evident from the letter dated 20.3.1997 Ext. PW-5/A that limit of Assistant Manager to sign the cheque was less than Rs.4.00 Lakh. Ext. DA12/2 is contrary to the records. Thus, no agent was involved in the negotiations with the State Government. Rajesh Gupta could not come to the conclusion that rates quoted by the United India Insurance Company would include 10% commission. Ext. PW-14/D is against the record. Copy of cheque amounting to Rs.1,36,50,000/- is Ext. PW-13/B. Copy of cheque Ext. PW-15/A whereby a sum of Rs.1,00,000/- was paid from Canara Bank. Copy of the cheque whereby a sum of Rs.1,05,000/- was released is Ext. PW-33 and a sum of Rs.50,000/- was released vide Ext. PW-33/C. Another cheque is Ext. PW-27/B of Rs. 5,50,000/-. Ext. PW-33/R is the copy of saving bank account of Canara Bank whereby a sum of Rs.10,50,935/- was deposited. On the basis of cheque Ext. PW-33/S was drawn at Canara Bank. These cheques were sent for examination. These were found to be signed by the accused. Copy of the cheque book which was recovered from the possession of the accused, of Canara Bank is Ext. PW-33/Z-2 and Ext. PW17/D/A. Divisional Manager has sent a cheque No. 388313 dated 6.1.2005 for Rs.10,50,935/- for the signatures of the Regional Office official as the amount exceeded the cheque signing power of Divisional Manager. As per Ext. PW-7/A/1. The signature and handwritings of the accused have been examined/verified by T.Joshi (PW-27).

41. State Government has mooted a proposal for floating Group Personal Accident Insurance Policy for its employees. Quotations were called from all the nationalized and private sector insurance companies by the Additional Chief Secretary (Finance) vide letter dated 8.9.2004. Six insurance companies offered to float the policy/scheme. Lowest rates were quoted by the ICICI Lombard General Insurance Company, Chandigarh, but preference was given to United India Insurance Company. The United India Insurance Company was made leader. Government purchased the Group Personal Accident Insurance Scheme No. 040046 (Ext. PW-33/U) from the United India Insurance Company. Total premium paid to the Insurance Companyw as Rs.1,36,50,000/-. Service tax was payable. After payment of service tax, Rs.1,23,86,570/- was left with the Insurance Company. Premium was to be shared in the ratio of 40:20:20:20 between United India Insurance Company and three other Insurance Companies. However, fact of the matter is that the accused Nos. 2 and 3 namely Rajesh Gupta and V.S. Mehta have paid 10% commission amounting to Rs.12,38,657/- on the total premium of Rs.1,23,86,570/- to the accused Diwan Chand vide Cheque Ext. PW-4/F. Accused presented the cheque to Canara Bank and a sum of Rs.10,50,935/- was credited to his account. PW-1 Shri Nalin Mahajan deposed that six insurance companies offered to float the scheme i.e. United India Insurance Company, Oriental Insurance Company, ICICI Lombard General Insurance Company and Kangra Central Co-operative Bank. Quotations of these companies were opened in the presence of the officers of these companies i.e. Shri D.S. Thakur of New India Insurance Company, Shri Rajesh Gupta, Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Company, Shri Prem Nath Bodh, Oriental Insurance Company, Shri D.S. Kaith, Divisional Manager, New India Insurance Company, Shri Gupta, Area Manager, ICICI Insurance Company, Shri V.S. Mehta of United India Insurance Company. Document showing the presence of these officers of the companies is Ext. PW-1/C. Thereafter, Divisional Managers of United India Insurance Company, New India Assurance Company Limited, National Insurance Company and Oriental Insurance Company Limited, were called for negotiations. The United India Insurance Company agreed to revise their premium from Rs.94 to Rs.91 and a communication to this effect was sent by Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Company vide Ext. PW-1/F. Thereafter, the matter was placed before the Cabinet. The Cabinet approved the same. Thereafter, scheme was duly notified on 30.12.2004. PW-1 Nalin Mahajan has specifically deposed in his examination-in-chief that during the entire process of the consideration for floating the Scheme, the government employees of Himachal Pradesh, Divisional Manager, United India Insurance Company, with Finance Department, other than the Divisional Manager, at no point of time, any other officer or any other official was consulted by the Government for taking the Scheme. At no point of time, the Finance Department sought any advice from any other person or institute in considering and accepting the Scheme. It was intimated by the Additional Chief Secretary that no services of the agent named in Ext. PW-1/N were ever taken by the Government and the Government has directly dealt with the Divisional Managers of the Insurance Companies of four Public Sector Undertakings. In his cross-examination, he has categorically denied that the NGO Federation was involved at the time of negotiations. Letter Ext. PW-1/P was written to the Superintendent of Police, CBI in response to letter Ext. PW-1/N, whereby clarification was given that the Government had directly dealt with the Divisional Managers of the Insurance Companies. PW-2 Shri Kant Baldi also deposed that all the documents were sent or received in the ordinary course of official work and the originals of these had been retained in the office. As per record, he found that the Government had directly dealt with PSU insurance companies without dealing with any agent or middleman. PW-3 Anil Sharma deposed in his cross-examination that during the entire process of finalisation of the policy, the Finance Department of HP at no point of time called for the services of middleman, broker or any agent as per the record shown to him. Though, PW-4 Ashok Negi has resiled from his previous statement that the fax message dated 5.1.2005 was not sent by Rajesh Gupta since he was on tour, however, in his cross-examination by the learned Public Prosecutor, he could not explain that how Shri Rajesh Gupta could sign the same on 5.1.2005, when he was on tour at that time. He has admitted that a sum of Rs. 10,50,935/- was paid to Diwan Chand vide Cheque Ext. PW-4/F. He identified the signatures of V.S. Mehta, the then Administrative Officer and at point Q-31, the signatures of TV Negi the then Assistant Manger. PW-6 N.K. Sidhu deposed that as per Notification Ext. PW-6/C-1, the Assistant Manager, United India Insurance Company was competent and authorised to sign cheques of Rs.2.00 lakh with Administrative Officer jointly. Without the consent approval and signatures of Administrative Officer, the Assistant Manager was not authorised to issue cheque even for an amount less than Rs.2.00 Lakh. To his knowledge, no instructions had been issued by the Company enhancing the powers of Assistant Manager and Administrative Officer to sign and issue cheque or amount more than Rs.4.00 Lakh. PW-7 Sushil Bhardwaj deposed that the cheque was signed by Shri Mehta. It was sent to regional office at Chandigarh for signatures of the competent officer having power to sign the cheque Ext. PW-4/F. Cheque was filled in by him in favour of Diwan Chand, agent of United India Insurance Company. Cheque was signed by Administrative Officer, Shri Mehta. It was prepared in routine after having been approved by T.B. Negi. PW-8 Surinder Kumar deposed that Ext. PW-4/F issued in favour of Diwan Chand for a sum of Rs.10,50,935/- was presented to him. It was sent to the clerical staff for debiting the same to the account No. 252. BS Negi (PW-10) Senior Manager, Divisional officer, Oriental Insurance Company, Mandi has admitted in his cross-examination that the Additional Chief Secretary (Finance) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh had called for quotations of all the insurance companies in the State. Thereafter, all the companies submitted that quotations. United India Insurance Company was made leader. They did not approach any NGO Federation. Government had called for quotations when NGO Federation asked the Government to implement the policy. He admitted that had the payment of commission been not payable they would not have allowed the payment of the commission to the agent. PW-11 SC Sharma has admitted that in case of brokerage, there has to be a written mandate from the insured to represent him with the insurer. PW-13 Sudhir Bhattacharya also deposed that if some business of the Government is routed through an agent, agent is entitled to commission. PW-14 VS Chopra in his cross-examination has deposed that he has stated that the brokerage / commission is normally paid as per IRDA, Commission differs from case to case. Letter Mark PW-14/P was shown to him by the Investigating Officer. He had stated that the said circular and its enclosures do not mention any thing about routing the business through any broker. He stated that the Government had directly approached the insurance company. RK Sharma, PW-14-A though declared hostile but in his cross-examination he admitted that he stated to the CBI that if the government directly approached them for any group insurance, no commission was payable to any agent. However, brokerage was payable if the government had appointed any broker for the same. He also deposed that the Division Office at Shimla was directly negotiating with the Government. In his examination-in-chief he has admitted that from the documents sent by DO, he came to the conclusion that agent's services were obtained merely that the agent code is reflected in the record. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that in the present case, except to furnish the details of the policy and to persuade the NGO Federation to purchase the policy there was no other work in writing done by the agent. He also admitted that in a government business the policy is taken by the Government, premium is paid by the government and it is not recovered from the employees like Matri Shakti Insurance Policy. SK Munjal PW-24 communicated that a loss amounting to Rs.2,47,731/- had been construed as loss to the company. Said loss was confirmed by the Divisional Manager, New India Assurance Company Limited vide page one of Ext. PW-24/C. Towards the end of his cross-examination, he admitted that if government gives premium cheque the commission is not payable. Virender Kumar PW-26 has deposed in his cross-examination that in order to get commission, agent has to approach a prospect, understand the requirement of prospect, explain the policy conditions and exclusions and in case he agrees to take a policy get the proposal form filled and collect the payment of premium. He did not know whether these duties were performed by Diwan Chand. In his cross-examination PW-26 Virender Kumar has reiterated that in case mandate of the client is available then it is brokerage which is payable and in the absence of the mandate, agency commission is payable if the business is procured through the agent. In case the business has been procured through an agent, he is entitled to commission. PW-27 Jai Parkash has admitted in his cross-examination by the learned Public Prosecutor that he filled in all the particulars of the cheque Ext. PW-27/B and withdrew the amount of Rs.5,50,000/- from saving bank account of Diwan Chand at Canara Bank. He also admitted that he has sold 1/3rd portion of plot owned by him at Shoghi and received a consideration amount of Rs.5,50,000/- from V.S. Mehta.

42. Thus, the prosecution has conclusively proved that no commission was payable at the time of floating of Scheme. There is sufficient evidence on record that no agent was involved in the transaction. Negotiations had taken place between the functionaries and employees of various corporations. Reference of these proceedings is also mentioned alongwith the names of the official who attended the negotiations. There is no iota of evidence even remotely to suggest that Diwan Chand has, in any manner, acted as an agent of United India Insurance Company to get the policy floated. He could get commission if he was authorised and had procured business for United India Insurance Company. Rajesh Gupta and V.S. Mehta (accused) were aware throughout that Diwan Chand was not entitled to commission and despite that they have issued cheques in favour of the accused Diwan Chand. In fact, Diwan Chand has also paid a sum of Rs.5,50,000/- to V.S. Mehta for purchasing land. No suggestion has been put to Jai

Parkash PW-27 where was the occasion for him to issue cheque in favour of V.S. Mehta to purchase land. Rajesh Gupta and V.S. Mehta were not authorised to sign the cheque. All the accused have conspired together to cause loss to the Corporations/insurance companies. Their signatures on the documents have been duly proved by the report of Shri T. Joshi, PW-33. It has also come on the record that the agent was only entitled to any commission if he had been asked to get business. No letter has been placed on record whereby the Corporation at any given time has asked Diwan Chand to procure business on behalf of the Company from the State Government. Even T.B. Negi has admitted that since cheque exceeded the jurisdiction therefore same was sent to Regional Officer for doing the needful. Accused was having bank accounts with ICICI and HDFC Banks. However, new account was opened on 5.1.2005 where the cheque amounting to Rs.10,50,935/- was deposited. In fact, accused V.S. Mehta has also obtained cheque book from Diwan Chand. He had signed blank cheques. Premises of accused were searched. Cheque book issued in favour of Diwan Chand was recovered. It was recovered on 6.4.2005. Blank Cheque was recovered alongwith cheque book. Money drawn by Diwan Chand was meager. Amount withdrawn by V.S. Mehta from the account of Diwan Chand was substantial. Cheque book from which Ext. PW-15/A was taken out was recovered from the house of V.S. Mehta. Jai Parkash, PW-27 has not deposed about any liability to be discharged by way of Rs.5,50,000/-. Property has been purchased by V.S. Mehta with the money paid to him by Diwan chand. Accused Rajesh Gupta has not sent fax message dated 5.1.2005. Rajesh Gupta and V.S. Mehta have, thus, paid Rs.10,50,935/- to Diwan Chand fraudulently. No question of payment of commission was involved in this case. Rajesh Gupta and V.S. Mehta have cheated the Insurance Company and the State Government of Rs.12,38,657/-.

43. Learned advocates appearing on behalf of the accused have argued that the insurance companies have agreed to pay the commission on the basis of correspondences exchanged between the offices at Shimla and Chandigarh. However, fact of the matter is that since Diwan Chand neither had any mandate of the Government nor had performed any duties of an agent in the purchase of policy. Rather, the State Government had directly held negotiations with the Insurance Companies. Thus, these submissions made by the learned Advocates appearing on behalf of the accused merit rejection.

44. Learned advocates appearing on behalf of the accused have vehemently argued that in the present case, sanction to launch prosecution is not in accordance with law. They have relied upon Karnataka High Court Judgment in case K T Uthappa vs State Of Karnataka decided on 1.3.2012. They also submit that this judgment has been upheld by the Hon'ble Apex Court. However, fact of the matter is that in the instance case, sanction to launch prosecution given by C.P.R. Verma (PW-32). He was competent authority to remove the accused as per General Insurance (Conduct, Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1975. This plea has been taken for the first time at the appellate stage. According to Section 19 (1)(c), sanction is to be obtained from an authority competent to remove the person from his office.

45. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Central Bureau of Investigation vs. V.K. Sehgal and another reported in (1999) 8 SCC 501 have held that where prosecution under Section 161 IPC and S. 5(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act ends in conviction, in such circumstances, reversal of conviction and sentence by appellate or revisional court merely on the ground of want of a valid sanction for prosecution was held impermissible. More so when the pleas of want of valid sanction was raised for the first time before the appellate court. Their lordships have further held that effort to save the public servant from frivolous or vindictive or mala fide prosecution becomes meaningless if on trial he is in fact found guilty. Their lordships have held as under:

> 10. A court of appeal or revision is debarred from reversing a finding (or even an order of conviction and sentence) on account of any error or irregularity in the sanction for the prosecution, unless failure of justice had been occasioned on account of such error or irregularity. For determining whether want of valid sanction had in fact occasioned failure of justice the aforesaid sub-section (2) enjoins on the court a duty to consider whether the accused had raised any objection on that score at the trial stage. Even if he had raised any such objection at the early stage it is hardly sufficient to conclude that there was failure of justice. It has to be determined on the facts of each case. But an accused who did not raise it at the trial stage cannot possibly sustain such a plea made for the first time in the appellate court. In Kalpnath Rai v. State through CBI, [1997] 8 SCC 732 this Court has observed in paragraph 29 thus :

> "Sub-section (2) of Section 465 of the Code is not a carte blanche for rendering all trials vitiated on the ground of the irregularity of sanction if objection thereto was raised at the first instance itself. The sub- section only says that `the court shall have regard to the fact' that objection has been raised at the earlier stage in the proceedings. It is only one of the considerations to be weighed but it does not mean that if objection was raised at the earlier stage, for that very reason the irregularity in the sanction would spoil the prosecution and transmute the proceedings into a void trial."

11. In a case where the accused failed to raise the question of valid sanction the trial would normally proceed to its logical end by making judicial scrutiny of the entire materials. If that case ends in conviction there is no question of failure of justice on the mere premise that no valid sanction was accorded for prosecuting the public servant, because the very purpose of providing such a filtering check is to safeguard public servants from frivolous or mala fide or vindictive prosecution on the allegation that they have committed offence in the discharge of their official duties. But once the judicial filtering process is over on completion of the trial the purpose of providing for the initial sanction would bog down to a surplusage. This could be the reason for providing a bridle upon the appellate and revisional forums as envisaged in Section 465 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

46. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Apex Court in State by Police Inspector v. T. Venkatesh Murthy reported in (2004)7 SCC 763 have reiterated that merely because there is any omission, error or irregularity in the matter of according sanction that does not affect the validity of the proceeding unless the court records the satisfaction that such error, omission or irregularity has resulted in failure of justice. The same logic also applies to the appellate or revisional court. The requirement of sub- section (4) about raising the issue, at the earliest stage has not been also considered.. Their lordships have held as under:

> 9. Sub-section (4) postulates that in determining under sub-section (3) whether the absence of, or any error, omission or irregularity in the sanction has occasioned or resulted in a failure of justice the Court shall have regard to the fact whether the objection could and should have been raised at any earlier stage in the proceedings.
>
> 14. In the instant case neither the Trial Court nor the High Court appear to have kept in view the requirements of sub-section (3) relating to question regarding "failure of justice". Merely because there is any omission, error or irregularity in the matter of according sanction that does not affect the validity of the proceeding unless the court records the satisfaction that such error, omission or irregularity has resulted in failure of justice. The same logic also applies to the appellate or revisional court. The requirement of sub- section (4) about raising the issue, at the earliest stage has not been also considered. Unfortunately the High Court by a practically non- reasoned order, confirmed the order passed by the learned trial judge. The orders are, therefore, indefensible. We set aside the > said orders. It would be appropriate to require the trial Court to record findings in terms of clause (b) of sub-section (3) and sub-section (4) of Section 19.

47. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Ashok Tshering Bhutia v. State of Sikkim reported in (2011) 4 SCC 402 have held that . Section 19 (1) of the PC Act 1988 is a matter of procedure and does not go to the root of the jurisdiction and once the cognizance has been taken by the Court under Cr.P.C., it cannot be said that an invalid police report is the foundation of jurisdiction of the court to take cognizance.. Their lordships have held as under:

> 19. It has further been submitted that an invalid sanction cannot be the foundation for the prosecution and thus, the entire investigation and trial stood vitiated as the investigation without proper authorisation and invalid sanction goes to the root of the jurisdiction of the court and so the conviction cannot stand.
>
> 20. The issues raised hereinabove are no more res integra. The matter of investigation by an officer not authorised by law has been considered by this Court time and again and it has consistently been held that a defect or irregularity in investigation however serious, has no direct bearing on the competence or procedure relating to cognizance or trial and, therefore, where the cognizance of the case has in fact been taken and the case has proceeded to termination, the invalidity of the precedent investigation does not vitiate the result, unless a miscarriage of justice has been caused thereby. The defect or irregularity in investigation has no bearing on the competence of the Court or procedure relating to cognizance or trial. (Vide H.N.Rishbud & Anr. v. State of Delhi, AIR 1955 SC 196; Munnalal v.State of U.P., AIR 1964 SC 28, Khandu Sonu Dhobi & Anr. v. The State of Maharashtra, AIR 1972 SC 958; State of M.P. v. Bhooraji & Ors., AIR 2001 SC 3372; State of M.P. v. Ramesh Chand Sharma, (2005) 12 SCC 628; and State of M.P. v. Virender Kumar Tripathi, (2009) 15 SCC 533).
>
> 21. In Kalpnath Rai v. State (Through CBI), AIR 1998 SC 201, a case under the provisions of Section 20 of Terrorist and Disruptive Activities (Prevention) Act, 1987, this Court considered the issue as to whether an oral direction to an officer to conduct investigation could meet the requirement of law. After considering the statutory provisions, the Court came to the conclusion that as oral approval was obtained from the competent officer concerned, it was sufficient to legalise the further action.
>
> 22. In State Inspector of Police, Vishakhapatnam v. Surya Sankaram Karri, (2006) 7 SCC 172, a two-Judge Bench of this Court had taken a contrary view without taking note of the earlier two-Judge Bench judgment in Kalpnath Rai (supra) and held as under:
>
>> "When a statutory functionary passes an order, that too authorizing a person to carry out a public function like investigation into an offence, an order in writing was required to be passed. A statutory functionary must act in a manner laid down in the statute. Issuance of an oral direction is not contemplated under the Act. Such a concept is unknown in administrative law. The statutory functionaries are enjoyed with a duty to pass written orders.
>
> However, the Court taking note of subsequent proceedings recorded its conclusions as under:
>> `It is true that only on the basis of illegal investigation a proceeding may not be quashed unless miscarriage of justice is shown, but in this case as we have noticed hereinbefore, the respondent had suffered miscarriage of justice as the investigation made by PW 41 was not fair'."

23. In the instant case, the officer has mentioned in the FIR itself that he had orally been directed by the Superintendent of Police to investigate the case. It is evident from the above that the judgments in Kalpnath Rai (supra) and Surya Sankaram Karri (supra) have been decided by two Judge Benches of this Court and in the latter judgment, the earlier judgment of this Court in Kalpnath Rai (supra) has not been taken note of. Technically speaking it can be held to be per incuriam. There is nothing on record to show that the officer's statement is not factually correct.

24. We have no occasion to decide as which of the earlier judgments is binding. It is evident that there was a direction by the Superintendent of Police to the officer concerned to investigate the case. Thus, in the facts and circumstances of the case, the issue as to whether the oral order could meet the requirement of law remains merely a technical issue. Further, as there is nothing on record to show that the investigation had been conducted unfairly, we are not inclined to examine the issue further.

25. Same remained the position regarding sanction. In the absence of anything to show that any defect or irregularity therein caused a failure of justice, the plea is without substance. A failure of justice is relatable to error, omission or irregularity in the sanction. Therefore, a mere error, omission or irregularity in sanction is not considered to be fatal unless it has resulted in a failure of justice or has been occasioned thereby. Section 19 (1) of the PC Act 1988 is a matter of procedure and does not go to the root of the jurisdiction and once the cognizance has been taken by the Court under Cr.P.C., it cannot be said that an invalid police report is the foundation of jurisdiction of the court to take cognizance. (Vide Kalpnath Rai (supra); State of Orissa v. Mrutunjaya Panda, AIR 1998 SC 715; State by Police Inspector v. Sri T. Venkatesh Murthy, (2004) 7 SCC 763;Shankerbhai Laljibhai Rot v. State of Gujarat, (2004) 13 SCC 487; Parkash Singh Badal & Anr. v. State of Punjab & Ors., AIR 2007 SC 1274; and M.C. Mehta v. Union of India & Ors. (Taj Corridor Scam), AIR 2007 SC 1087).

26. In State of Haryana & Ors. v. Ch. Bhajan Lal & Ors., AIR 1992 SC 604, this Court dealing with the same provisions held that a conjoint reading of the main provision, Section 5-A(1) (new Section 17) and the two provisos thereto, shows that the investigation by the designated police officer was the rule and the investigation by an officer of a lower rank was an exception. It has been ruled by the Court in several decisions that Section 6-A (new Section 23) of the Act was mandatory and not directory and the investigation conducted in violation thereof bears the stamp of illegality, but that illegality committed in the course of an investigation, does not affect the competence and the jurisdiction of the Court for trial and where the cognizance of the case has in fact been taken and the case has proceeded to termination, the validity of the proceedings is not vitiated unless a miscarriage of justice has been caused as a result of the illegality in the investigation.

48. A plain reading of clause (c) of Sub-section (1) of Section 19 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, shows that the authority competent to accord sanction to launch prosecution is the authority which is competent to remove him from his office. In the case in hand, sanction to launch prosecution has been accorded by C.P.R. Verma, (PW-32), who was the competent authority to grant sanction to launch prosecution against the accused in this case.

49. In view of the discussion made herein above, the prosecution has duly proved its case against the accused. Accused have been rightly convicted under Sections 420 and 120B IPC and Section 13 (2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act.

50. Accordingly, there is no merit in all the appeals and the same are dismissed. Pending applications, if any, are also disposed of. Bail bonds of all the accused are cancelled.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Karam Chand …..Revisionist.

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh …..Respondent.

Cr. Revision No. 169 of 2009

Decided on : 18/07/2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 279- Accused was driving a truck with high speed under the state of intoxication- he was tried and convicted by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held, in revision that 162.2 milligram and 270.3 milligram alcohol was found in the blood and urine samples of the accused, which shows that he was unable to drive the vehicle according to norms with due care and caution – quantity of liquor was more than permissible limit- testimony of eye-witness established that accused had swerved the vehicle to wrong side of the road, which shows his negligence- prosecution case was proved beyond reasonable – accused was rightly convicted by the trial Court- appeal dismissed. (Para-10)

For the petitioner: Mr. S.K.Banyal, Advocate.

For the Respondent: Mr.Vivek Singh Attri, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral)

The instant revision petition stands preferred hereat by the accused his standing aggrieved by the concurrently recorded renditions of both the Courts below whereby he stands convicted and consequently sentenced in the manner as encapsulated therein for his committing an offence punishable under Sections 279 of the Indian Penal Code.

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 3.8.2001 a telephonic message was received at Police Station Kumarsain from a bus conductor at Khekhar at about 5.45 p.m about the collision between a bus and truck. Thereafter the I.O. Madan Singh accompanied by another police official proceeded to the spot where the complainant Devki Nandan lodged statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C alleging therein that he was driver of bus bearing No. HP-51-4774 and on that day he started from Shimla to Rampur at 1 p.m and when reached near Khekhar at 5.15 p.m a truck bearing No. HP-22-4444 coming from Rampur side with a fast speed hit the bus driven by him. The truck driver appeared under intoxication and committed accident due to rash and negligent driving. On the basis of this statement F.I.R was recorded. The Investigating Officer prepared site plan and during investigation blood and urine samples of the petitioner were also collected and after completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. Notice of accusation stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 279 IPC, and Sections 181 and 185 of the Motor Vehicles Act to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 9 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was recorded in which he pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. However, he chose to lead Ext.DX, copy of driving license, in defence.

5. On an appraisal of evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of conviction against the accused for his committing offences punishable under Section 279 IPC besides convicted him for his committing offences punishable under Sections 181 and 185 of the Motor Vehicles Act. However, the learned appellate Court acquitted the accused for his committing offences under Section 181 and 185 of the Motor Vehicles Act whereas it sustained his conviction under Section 279 IPC.

6. The accused stands aggrieved by the findings of conviction recorded by both the Courts below for his committing an offence punishable under Section 279 of the Indian Penal Code.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the accused has concerted to vigorously contend qua the findings of conviction recorded by both the Courts below standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction being reversed by this Court, in the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

8. On the other hand, the learned Deputy Advocate General appearing for the State has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the Courts below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating any interference rather meriting vindication.

9. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision evaluated the entire evidence on record.

10. Truck bearing No. HP-22-4444 driven at the relevant time by the accused collided at the site of occurrence with the bus driven by the complainant/ victim. The accident which occurred inter se the vehicles aforesaid stands canvassed by the prosecution to be a sequel to the accused negligently driving the truck aforesaid. It is apparent from a perusal of the report of the FSL concerned qua 162.2 milligram and 270.3 milligram per-centum of alcohol standing detected in the respective blood and urine samples of the accused/revisionist. The presence of heavy quantum of alcohol in the blood and urine samples of the accused per se rendered him to stand deprived of his cognitive faculties also hence he stood disabled to manoeuvre his vehicle bereft of his plying it in adherence to the norms of due care and caution. The inference aforesaid stands garnered by the provisions of Section 185 of the Motor Vehicles Act, which stands extracted hereinafter:-

> 185. Driving by a drunken person or by a person under the influence of drugs.– Whoever, while driving, or attempting to drive, a motor vehicle - [(a) has, in his blood, alcohol exceeding 30 mg. Per 100 ml. of blood detected in a test by a breath analyser, or] (b) is under the influence of a drug to such an extent as to be incapable of exercising proper control over the vehicle.
> shall be punishable for the first offence with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to two thousand rupees, or with both; and for a second or subsequent offence, if committed within three years of the commission of the previous similar offence, with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two year, or with fine which may extend to three thousand rupees, or with both.

wherein there is a marked display qua percentum of alcohol beyond 30 mg. per 100 ml. in the relevant blood sample of the accused being a grossly impermissible limit, rendering the presence of 162.2 ml.gram percentum of alcohol, as displayed by FSL report, in the blood samples of the accused to be excessively beyond the statutory permissible limit. Apparently, the legislature while prescribing therein the permissible limit of presence of alcohol in the blood samples of the accused had in mind the salutary purpose of only minimality of presence of alcohol in the blood sample of the accused not depriving him of his cognitive faculties nor rendering him handicapped to safely ply his vehicle on the road. Contrarily, when the presence of percentum of alcohol in the blood sample of the accused is beyond the statutory limit prescribed in the apt provisions concomitantly statutorily rendered him to be incapable of exercising proper control of his vehicle. As a corollary with a grossly statutorily impermissible percentum of alcohol standing detected in the relevant blood sample of the accused coaxes this Court to conclude of the accused per se standing statutorily mandated to stand deprived of his cognitive faculties also weans a conclusion of his not safely plying his vehicle at the relevant site of occurrence rather his departing from adhering to the standards of due care and caution. In aftermath with the statute underpinning un-rebuttable presumption of the accused on his blood sample holding alcohol beyond the statutorily prescribed limit, statutory limit whereof as held in the relevant blood sample of the accused stands palpably breached, in sequel with the unrebuttable statutory presumption of his hence being incapable of exercising proper control over his vehicle warranting its standing drawn negates the submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioner of yet his not being negligent in driving his vehicle. With the conclusion formed hereinabove of the accused standing deprived of his cognitive faculties given the factum of excessive presence of alcohol in his blood sample, he is to be also concluded to wander astray from the appropriate portion of the road to its inappropriate portion whereat the vehicle driven by the accused was alone enjoined to occupy. In sequel, the collision which occurred inter se the vehicle driven by the accused with the vehicle driven by the complainant is to be concluded to stand aroused by the negligent manner of driving of the apposite vehicle by the accused. Furthermore, the eye witnesses to the occurrence in their respective depositions on oath ascribe therein with harmony an inculpatory role to the accused constituted by his swerving his vehicle to the inappropriate side of the road whereat the vehicle driven by the complainant was located hence begetting a collision inter se both the vehicles. The depositions of the eye witnesses to the occurrence qua the ill fated occurrence standing begotten by the negligent manner of driving of the accused, deposition whereof as stand comprised in their respective examinations in chief remain unstained by theirs making any communications in contradiction thereto in their respective cross-examination. Consequently, the depositions rendered qua the ill fated occurrence by the eye witnesses thereto acquire credibility. Lastly, the counsel for the accused/revisionist has submitted of with PW-8 deposing qua his at the time his examining the accused his observing him to be inebriated yet his voicing therein of the accused not displaying any visible signs of his being under its influence renders the apposite findings recorded by the FSL concerned to stand rebutted. However, when the opinion aforesaid voiced by PW-8 in his deposition emanated on his visually discerning the demeanor of the accused whereas it did not obviously spur from his subjecting the blood and urine samples of the accused to analyses, samples whereof on theirs standing analyzed by the FSL, Junga unraveled qua presence respectively in the blood and urine samples of the accused of 162.2 mg.gram and 270.3 mg.gram percentum of alcohol renders it to acquire prominence its constituting the best evidence in portrayal of the accused/revisionist labouring under the influence of alcohol. Imperatively when the report of the FSL holds evidentiary leverage contrarily the testimony of PW-8 in rebuttal thereof will not, it, remaining unanvilled on the relevant tests, be construed to be holding any sinew to repel the personifications existing in the report of the FSL. Also with the fastening of statutory presumption of negligence upon the accused arising from the statutorily impermissible limit of alcohol held in his relevant blood sample, gross impermissibility whereof stands displayed in the report of the FSL, renders the statutory presumption of negligence imputed hence to the accused to stand galvanized with full might vis.a.vis the accused. In sequel the concurrently recorded findings of conviction and sentence against him by both the Courts below under Section 279 IPC stand affirmed.

11. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this petition, which is accordingly dismissed. The judgement of conviction and sentence recorded against the accused by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Kinnaur at Rampur District Shimla is maintained and affirmed. As the accused/revisionist is on bail, his bail bonds are cancelled. He be taken into custody forthwith to suffer the sentence. Necessary follow up action be taken by the Registry forthwith.

Cr. MP (M) No.851 of 2016.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- The accused was found in possession of 30 bottles of Rexcof and 60 strips of Tramadol Hydrochloride Paracetamol tablets- 2 bottles were recovered during the course of investigation – he filed bail application pleading that he is innocent and has been falsely implicated – held, that the accused is involved in a crime which is affecting the society-many cases have been registered against one of the co-accused- there is every possibility that offence will be repeated- bail application dismissed, (Para 4-8)

Case referred:
Bhadresh Bipinbhai Sheth vs. State of Gujarat and another, (2016) 1 Supreme Court Cases 152

For the petitioner : Mr. Onkar Jairath, Advocate.
For the respondent : Mr. Virender Kumar Verma, Addl. Advocate General with Mr. Pushpinder Singh Jaswal, Dy. Advocate General.
ASI Kewal Singh, P.S. Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, present in person.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge (oral).

The present bail application is maintained by the petitioner under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure for releasing him on bail in case FIR No.43 of 2016, dated 9.3.2016, registered under Sections 21 and 29 of the ND & PS Act, Police Station, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, H.P. As per the petitioner, he is innocent and is falsely implicated in this case and nothing has been recovered from him.

2. As per the prosecution story, 30 bottles of Relaxcof were recovered from the conscious and exclusive possession of accused Ayush Ratwan son of Shri Jitender Ratwan 100 ml. each having codeine phosphate. Accused Ayush Ratwan was also found in possession of 60 strips of Tramadol Hydrochloride Paracetamol tablets containing 10 tables in each strip i.e. 600 tables. The said bottles and tablets were purchased by accused Ayush Tatwan from accused Subhash Chand and Ajay Dhiman. During the course of investigation, two bottles of Relaxcof were also recovered at the instance of accused Subhash Chand son of Ram Parkash without any valid licence or permit. Total 32 bottles of Relaxcof containing 100 ml. each recovered alongwith 600 tablets.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the petitioner is innocent, falsely implicated in this case and may be released on bail.

4. To support his arguments learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment in (2016) 1 Supreme Court Cases 152 titled Bhadresh Bipinbhai Sheth vs. State of Gujarat and another.

5. Learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the petitioner has committed serious crime and in fact is spoiling the atmosphere of new generation by supplying narcotics to the small children and otherwise also the quantity is commercial in nature.

6. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in (2016) 1 Supreme Court Cases 152 titled Bhadresh Bipinbhai Sheth vs. State of Gujarat and another, has held as under :

> "(x) The following factors and parameters need to be taken into consideration while dealing with anticipatory bail :
>
> (a) The nature and gravity of the accusation and the exact role of the accused must be properly comprehended before arrest is made;
>
> (b) The antecedents of the applicant including the fact as to whether the accused has previously undergone imprisonment on conviction by a court in respect of any cognizable offence;
>
> (c) The possibility of the applicant to flee from justice;
>
> (d) The possibility of the accused's likelihood to repeat similar or other offences;
>
> (e) Where the accusations have been made only with the object of injuring or humiliating the applicant by arresting him or her;
>
> (f) Impact or grant of anticipatory bail particularly in cases of large magnitude affecting a very large number of people;
>
> (g) The courts must evaluate the entire available material against the accused very carefully. The court must also clearly comprehend the exact role of the accused in the case. The cases in which the accused is implicated with the help of Sections 34 and 149 of the Penal Code, 1860 the court should consider with even greater care and caution, because over implication in the cases is a matter of common knowledge and concern;
>
> (h) While considering the prayer for grant of anticipatory bail, a balance has to be struck between two factors, namely, no prejudice should be caused to free, fair and full investigation, and there should be prevention of harassment, humiliation and unjustified detention of the accused;
>
> (i) The court should consider reasonable apprehension of tampering of the witness or apprehension of threat to the complainant;
>
> (j) Frivolity in prosecution should always be considered and it is only the element of genuineness that shall have to be considered in the matter of grant of bail and in the event of there being some doubt as to the genuineness of the prosecution, in the normal course of events, the accused is entitled to an order of bail."

7. After going through the record of this case, this Court finds that the petitioner is involved in the crime which is affecting the society. It has also come on record that so many cases were registered against one of the co-accused by the police for the similar offences.

8. Taking into consideration the above facts, it is clear that the offence is affecting a very large number of people and there is every possibility that accused shall repeat such offence. This Court finds that the present is a fit case where the judicial discretion to admit the petitioner on bail is not required to be exercised in favour of the petitioner. Accordingly, the petition, being devoid of merits, is dismissed.

Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State that as per testimony of PW13 Jagpal Singh mechanical expert steering system of vehicle would not stop operating after pulling out of tie rod of steering system and on this ground appeal be accepted is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. PW13 Jagpal Singh is not eye witness of accident. PW13 Jagpal Singh was not present at spot at the time of accident. PW13 Jagpal Singh visited the spot after occurrence of accident. Eye witness namely PW4 Ranbir Singh and PW5 Hitender Singh have specifically stated when they appeared in witness box that accident did not take place due to negligence of accused. PW4 Ranbir Singh and PW5 Hitender Singh eye witnesses of the accident have specifically stated in positive manner that accused was driving truck in slow speed at the time of accident. Testimonies of PW4 Ranbir Singh and PW5 Hitender Singh are trustworthy, reliable and inspire confidence of Court. It is well settled law that when there are conflicts between ocular evidence and expert evidence then ocular direct eye evidence should be prevailed. See. JT 2015 (7) SCC 192 title Parhlad and another Vs. State of Haryana. It is well settled law that purpose of expert opinion is primarily to assist the Court for arriving at final conclusion. It is well settled law that expert report is not binding upon Court. It is well settled law that if testimony of eye witness is trustworthy then Court would be within its jurisdiction to discard expert evidence. See AIR 2012 SC 3046 title Dayal Singh Vs. Uttranchal.

12. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State that learned Trial Court has disbelieved the testimony of official witnesses without any reasonable cause and on this ground appeal filed by State be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Official witnesses are not eye witnesses of the accident. Official witnesses visited the spot after occurrence of accident. Testimonies of eye witnesses namely PW4 Ranbir Singh and PW5 Hitender Singh are trustworthy, reliable and inspire confidence of Court because they are eye witness of accident and they were travelling in the vehicle at the time of accident.

13. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State that judgment passed by learned Trial Court is contrary to law and contrary to facts and learned Trial Court did not properly appreciate oral as well as documentary evidence placed on record is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused testimony of prosecution witnesses. PW1 Prem Dutt is not eye witness of the accident and he was not present at the spot when accident took place. PW1 Prem Dutt visited the spot at later stage. Hence testimony of PW1 is not sufficient to convict accused. PW2 Asha Parkash is not eye witness of accident. PW2 Asha Parkash visited the spot after the occurrence of accident. Testimony of PW2 Asha Parkash is not sufficient to convict accused in present case. PW3 Smt. Pratiksha Chauhan is also not eye witness of the accident and she visited the spot after occurrence of accident and her testimony is not sufficient to convict accused. PW4 Ranbir Singh and PW5 Hitender Singh eye witness of the accident did not support prosecution case as alleged by prosecution. PW4 Ranbir Singh and PW5 Hitender Singh have specifically stated in positive manner that accused was driving vehicle in slow speed. PW4 and PW5 have specifically stated in positive manner that accident did not take place due to fault of accused. PW6 Bhagat Ram is not eye witness of the accident and he visited the spot after occurrence of accident. PW7 D.D.Sharma Radiologist is not eye witness of the accident and his testimony is only corroborative in nature. PW8 Kuldip Kumar is also not eye witness of accident and his testimony is corroborative in nature. PW9 Madan Dutt, PW10 Dr.Y.P. Sharma, PW11 Dr.Vikas Fotedar, PW12 Chain Ram, PW13 Jagpal Singh, PW14 Chain Ram and PW15 Chaman Lal are also not eye witnesses of the accident and their testimonies are merely corroborative in nature.

14. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State that PW4 Ranbir Singh and PW5 Hitender Singh have been declared hostile in present case and their testimonies cannot be relied in any manner and on this ground appeal be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that evidence of hostile witness should not be totally discarded altogether but should be closely scrutinized. See 2016 (2) Him.L.R (SC) 1148 title Krishan Chander Vs. State of Delhi. See 2002 (7) SCC 543 title Balu Sonba Shinde Vs. State of Maharashtra. See Koli Lakshmanbhai Vs. State of Gujarat 1999 (8) SCC 624. See Prithi Vs. State of Haryana 2010 (8) SCC 536. See Ram Krishna Vs. State of Maharashtra 2007 (13) SCC 525. See Khujji alias Surendra Tiwari Vs. State of M.P. AIR 1991 SC 1853. See Bhajju alias Karam Singh Vs. State of M.P. 2012 (4) SCC 327. See Bhagwan Singh Vs. State of Haryana AIR 1976 SC 2002. See Ravindra Kumar Dey Vs. State of Orrissa AIR 1979 SC 170. See Syad Akbar Vs. State of Karnatka AIR 1979 SC 1848.

15. In the present case two views have emerged in prosecution story. PW13 Jagpal Singh mechanic has stated that steering system of vehicle would operate properly even after pull out of tie rod of steering system. On the contrary PW4 Ranbir Singh and PW5 Hitender Singh eye witnesses of the accident have specifically stated in positive manner that driver was driving vehicle in slow speed. It is well settled law that when two views have emerged in prosecution story then benefit of doubt should be given to accused. See 2006 (12) SCC 306 title Vikram Jit Vs. State of Punjab. See SLJ 1996 (2) 890 Apex Court title Mulak Raj Vs State of Haryana. See 2005 (5) JT 553 title State of UP Vs. Gambhir Singh and others. In view of above stated facts and case law cited supra point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2 (Final order).

16. In view of findings upon point No.1 judgment of learned trial Court is affirmed by way of giving benefit of doubt to accused. Appeal filed by State of H.P. is dismissed. File of learned trial Court along with certified copy of judgment be sent back forthwith. Criminal appeal No. 72 of 2007 is disposed of. All pending application(s) if any also stands disposed of.

CWPs No. 1671, 1779, 1822, to 1824 and 1832 of 2016
Decided on: 19.07.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- The matter is covered by the judgment of Punjab and Haryana High Court in LPA No. 406 of 2009, titled as Senior Superintendent of Post Offices, Jalandhar Division, Jalandhar versus Darshan Ram decided on 28-2-2014- the courts should give respect to the law laid down by other High Courts- writ petition disposed of in terms of judgment of Punjab and Haryana High Court. (Para 3-6)

Case referred:
Neon Laboratories Limited versus Medical Technologies Limited and others, (2016) 2 Supreme Court Cases 672

For the petitioners: Mr. Ashok Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India, with Mr. Ajay Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondent(s): Mr. Varun Rana, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

It is stated that the issue involved in all these writ petitions is similar, based on similar facts. Accordingly, we deem it proper to club all these writ petitions and determine the same by this common judgment.

2. Issue notice. Mr. Varun Rana, Advocate, waives notice on behalf of the respective respondents.

3. Mr. Varun Rana, learned counsel for the respondent(s), stated at the Bar that the similar issue was raised before the High Court of Punjab and Haryana in a batch of writ petitions, which became subject matter of batch of LPAs, LPA No. 406 of 2009, titled as Senior Superintendent of Post Offices, Jalandhar Division, Jalandhar versus Darshan Ram, being the lead case, decided on 28th February, 2014, and LPA No. 1363 of 2014, titled as Sr. Superintenent of Post Offices Hoshiarpur Division versus Kishan Chand and others, alongwith other connected matters, decided on 25th August, 2014, which was also followed in LPA No. 1875 of 2014, titled as The Senior Superintendent of Post Offices, Hoshiarpur Division, Hoshiarpur versus Hari Dev and others, decided on 14th November, 2014, and prayed that these writ petitions be decided in terms of the judgments (supra).

4. We have examined the pleadings and gone through the judgments (supra), are of the considered view that the law thrashed out by the Punjab and Haryana High Court in the judgments (supra) is legally correct and we are also of the same view.

5. It is apt to record herein that the Apex Court in a latest judgment in the case titled as Neon Laboratories Limited versus Medical Technologies Limited and others, reported in (2016) 2 Supreme Court Cases 672, has directed that every High Court must give due deference to the law laid down by other High Courts. It is profitable to reproduce para 7 of the judgment herein:

> "7. The primary argument of the Defendant-Appellant is that it had received registration for its trademark ROFOL in Class V on 14.9.2001 relating back to the date of its application viz. 19.10.1992. It contends that the circumstances as on the date of its application are relevant, and on that date, the Plaintiff-Respondents were not entities on the market. However, the Defendant-Appellant has conceded that it commenced user of the trademark ROFOL only from 16.10.2004 onwards. Furthermore, it is important to note that litigation was initiated by Plaintiff-Respondents, not Defendant-Appellant, even though the latter could have raised issue to Plaintiff-Respondents using a similar mark to the one for which it had filed an application for registration as early as in 1992. The Defendant- Appellant finally filed a Notice of Motion in the Bombay High Court as late as 14.12.2005, in which it was successful in being granted an injunction as recently as on 31.3.2012. We may reiterate that every High Court must give due deference to the enunciation of law made by another High Court even though it is free to charter a divergent direction. However, this elasticity in consideration is not available where the litigants are the same, since Sections 10 and 11 of the CPC would come into play. Unless restraint is displayed, judicial bedlam and curial consternation would inexorably erupt since an unsuccessful litigant in one State would rush to another State in the endeavour to obtain an inconsistent or contradictory order. Anarchy would be loosed on the Indian Court system. Since the Division Bench of the Bombay High Court is in seisin of the dispute, we refrain from saying anything more. The Plaintiff-Respondents filed an appeal against the Order dated 31.3.2012 and the Division Bench has, by its Order dated 30.4.2012, stayed its operation." (Emphasis added)

6. At this stage, it is stated that the judgment in LPA No. 1875 of 2014 (supra) was questioned before the Apex Court by the medium of SLP (C) No. 1819 of 2016, titled as The Senior Superintendent of Post officers Hoshiarpur versus Hari Dev, which came to be dismissed on 1st February, 2016.

7. In view of the above, we deem it proper to dispose of all these writ petitions in view of the judgments (supra) made by the Punjab and Haryana High Court, shall form part of this judgment also.

8. The writ petitions are disposed of accordingly alongwith all pending applications.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, C.J. (Oral)

This appeal is directed against the judgment and order, dated 8th December, 2014, passed by a learned Single Judge of this Court in CWP No.2633 of 1995, titled Chander Pal Singh and another vs. Union of India & others, whereby the writ petition came to be disposed of with a direction to the writ respondents/appellants to process and settle the claim within a period of two months, (for short, the impugned judgment).

2. It is apt to reproduce the relevant portion of the impugned judgment hereunder:

> "...........Therefore it is deemed it fit, just and expedient that the claim admittedly instituted by the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners herein, be processed and settled by the respondents within a period of two months hereafter. In view of the above, the present petition stands disposed of, as also the pending applications, if any."

3. It is apparent from the perusal of the operative portion of the impugned judgment, referred to above, that the writ respondents/ appellants have been directed to process and settle the claim of the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners as per law applicable. Therefore, it is astonishing why the appellants/writ respondents chose to file the instant appeal.

4. Having glance of the above, there is no merit in the instant appeal and the same is dismissed, alongwith pending CMPs, if any. Consequently, the impugned judgment is upheld.

Workmen Compensation Act, 1923- Section 4- Commissioner omitted to levy penalty upon the employer on the compensation awarded by him - matter remanded to Commissioner to determine the loss of earning capacity and disability and thereafter to assess the compensation and the penalty. (Para-1 and 2)

For the Appellant: Mr.K.D.Sood, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Ankit Aggarwal, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant appeal stands directed by the workman against the impugned rendition of the learned Workmen Compensation Commissioner (hereinafter referred to as the Commissioner) whereby the hereinafter extracted reference stood answered by the Workmen Compensation Commissioner:-

"1.Whether the petitioner is workmen under Section 2(1) of the Workman Compensation Act? OPP.

2. Whether the petitioner sustained injuries arising out and in the course of employment, as alleged? OPP.

3. Whether the petitioner is entitled for compensation, if so, to what extent and form whom?OPP

4. Whether the petitioner is entitled for the amount of interest and penalty under Section 4-A(3) of the Workmen Compensation Act? OPP.

5. Whether the petitioner is guilty for performing service in a hazardous manner deliberately and avoiding safety measures himself, as alleged. OPR.

6. Relief.

whereupon he assessed compensation in the sum as disclosed therein. However, in the impugned award, the learned Commissioner omitted to within the contemplation of Section 4-A(1) of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act') levy penalty upon the employer vis.a.vis. the sum of compensation assessed by him vis.a.vis. the workman-appellant. The latter hence stands constrained to prefer an appeal therefrom before this Court for facilitating it to impose penalty upon the employer vis.a.vis the sum of compensation as stands assessed by the learned Commissioner qua the workman for the injuries sustained by him during the course of his rendering employment under his employer. Even though the factum of the manner of computation of compensation by the learned Commissioner stands not contested hereat by either of the contesting parties nonetheless dehors no contest qua the facet aforesaid standing articulated hereat, this Court is yet enjoined to advert to the apposite method besides mechanism contemplated under the Act, for enabling the learned Workmen Commissioner to in consonance therewith arrive at the sum of compensation assessable qua the workman for his standing entailed with a disability in sequel to his attaining injuries during the course of his rendering employment under his employer. The relevant provisions of the Act whereupon reliance is enjoined to be placed by the Commissioner for computing compensation assessable qua the workman qua the disability if any in whatever nature entailed upon his person in sequel to his sustaining injuries during the course of his rendering employment under his employer stand embodied in Section 4 of the Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:

> 1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the amount of compensation shall be as follows. namely :- (a) where death results an amount equal to 2[fifty] per cent of from the injury the monthly wages of the deceased work- man multiplied by the relevant factor; or an amount of 3[Eighty] thousand rupees, whichever is more;(b) where permanent total an amount equal to 4[sixty] per cent of disablement results from the monthly wages of the injured the injury workman multiplied by the relevant factor; or an amount of 5[Ninety] thousand rupees, whichever is more. Explanation 1: For the purposes of clause (a) and clause (b), "relevant factor", in relation to a workman means the factor specified in the second column of Schedule IV against the entry in the first column of that Schedule specifying the number of years which are the same as the completed years of the age of the workman on his last birthday immediately preceding the date on which the compensation fell due; Explanation II: Where the monthly wages of a workman exceed 6[four] thousand rupees, his monthly wages for the purposes of clause (a) and clause (b) shall be deemed to be 6[four] thousand rupees only;
> (c) where permanent partial disablement results from the injury(i) in the case of an injury specified in Part II of Schedule I, such percentage of the compensation which would have been payable in the case of permanent total disablement as is specified therein as being the percentage of the loss of earning capacity caused by that injury, and

(ii) in the case of an injury not specified in Schedule I, such percentage of the compensation payable in the case of permanent total disablement as is proportionate to the loss of earning capacity (as assessed by the qualified medical practitioner) permanently caused by the injury;

Explanation I.--Where more injuries than one are caused by the same accident, the amount of compensation payable under this head shall be aggregated but not so in any case as to exceed the amount which would have been payable if permanent total disablement had resulted from the injuries; Explanation II.--In assessing the loss of earning capacity for the purposes of sub-clause (ii), the qualified medical practitioner shall have due regard to the percentages of loss of earning capacity in relation to different injuries specified in Schedule I;

2. For attracting the aforesaid relevant provision which stand embodied in Clause (c) (ii) of Section 4 of the Act, an advertence to Ext.P-2 also an allusion to Ext.AW-3/1 which with the leave of the Court stood adduced hereat as additional evidence, is imperative. Both exhibits aforesaid respectively depict therein of Fracture L-1 with low I.Q constituting the injuries which befell upon the workman during the course of his performing employment under his employer. The injuries aforesaid as manifested in both the exhibits aforesaid remain unspecified in Part-II of Schedule-I. Consequently, with the injuries depicted respectively in Ext.P-2 and Ext.AW-3/1 not occurring in schedule-I rendered its attraction by the learned Commissioner to be inapt rather when the apt provision which holds workability occurs in Clause (c) (ii) of Section 4 of the Act enjoined the disability board concerned which assessed the percentum of disability entailed upon the workman to also on assessment thereof for theirs hence begetting compliance with the mandate of Clause (c) (ii) of Section 4 of the Act provisions whereof constitute the apt statutory method of computation of compensation hereat when Clause (c) (i) of Section 4 of the Act garners no attraction, as evident from the disability entailed upon the person of the workman remaining unspecified in Part II of Schedule 1, to with specificity enunciate therein the percentum of loss of earning capacity standing sequelled viz.a.viz the workman. However, both the aforesaid exhibits are reticent qua the percentum of loss of earning capacity standing encumbered upon the workman in sequel to his standing entailed with a disability as stands respectively portrayed therein. As a corollary, the mandate of Clause (c) (i) of Section 4 of the Act embodying the relevant statutory method to be employed by him for assessing compensation qua the workman gets infracted rendering hence the exhibits aforesaid to be unreadable also concomitantly rendering the rendition of the learned Commissioner to be vitiated, it employing an inapposite mode for computing compensation qua the workman.

3. Though an order of remand is hence warranted for facilitating elicitation of evidence in portrayal of satiation of ingredients of Clause (c) (i) of Section 4 of the Act standing begotten, evidence whereof is amiss in the aforesaid exhibits, for enabling the Commissioner to thereupon employ the relevant statutory mode constituted in clause (c) (i) of Section 4 of the Act, for computing compensation qua the workman, yet for reiteration with his adopting the inapposite statutory mode for computing compensation qua the workman whereupon an order of remand being made upon him is warranted also for an order of remand standing permeated with legal efficacy warrants as its necessary precursor the quashing of the impugned rendition besides the discounting by this Court qua the inappropriate statutory mode employed by him for assessing compensation qua the disability entailed upon the workman in sequel to the injuries standing attained by him during the course of his rendering employment under the employer. Preponderantly, when the apparent beside imminent illegality which upsurges is of the learned Commissioner despite palpably holding/imputing validity qua Ext.P-2 besides palpably with injuries depicted therein not finding reference in Schedule-I nor in Schedule-II whereupon the method of computation of compensation to be employed by him was the one displayed in Clause (c)(ii) of Section 4 of the Act yet his proceeding to adopt the hereinafter inapposite mode for assessing compensation qua the workman, reinforcingly warrants its standing quashed and set-aside.

1. The age of the workmen at the time of accident=40 years.
2. Monthly salary of the workman Rs.4000/-
3. Relevant factor as per Schedule IV of Workmen Compensation Act, 1923=184.17
4. Compensation admissible as per Section 4(b) of the Act.

$$\frac{4000}{100} \times \frac{60}{100} \times \frac{42}{100} \times \frac{184.17}{100}$$

4. Apparently also the method employed by the legislature in Schedule-IV was employable by him for assessing compensation qua the workman only when the statutory ingredient for its workability as embodied in its heading qua its attractability standing reared on the workman suffering evident death or his standing entailed with an evident permanent disablement whereas with both Ext.P-2 and Ext.AW-3/1 not making an apposite reflections therein of the disability incurred by the workman falling within the domain of permanent disablement rather both holding depictions therein of their being likelihood of improvement of the apposite disability also both recommending reassessment after three years of the condition of the workman are reflections which do not garner any conclusion of any permanent disablement standing incurred by the workman in sequel to his suffering injuries during the course of his performing employment under his employer. Since the invocation of Schedule-IV of the Act was arousable only on the workman standing encumbered with permanent disablement or his succumbing to the injuries entailed upon his person whereas when none of the aforesaid statutory ingredients for reasons aforesaid stand satiated, in sequel rendered its attraction to be grossly unwarranted. In aftermath the assessment of compensation by the learned Workmen Commissioner on anvil thereof suffers from his committing a gross illegality also with the workman as displayed by the reply to the petition filed by the employer yet rendering service under his employer wherefrom he is earning wages, constituted the disability entailed upon his person being construable to be not a permanent disability rendering also inefficacious the invocation of Schedule-IV by the learned Commissioner.

5. Consequently, this Court is constrained to remand the matter to the learned Workmen's Commissioner to after eliciting the requisite evidence from any member of the Medical Board who prepared Ext.P-2 and Ext.AW-3/1, the apposite communications by them qua the percentum of loss of earning capacity enjoined upon the workman in sequel to his standing encumbered with a percentum of disability as stands therebefore testified by them whereupon he shall proceed to assess compensation qua the workman by his employing the method constituted in Clause (c)(ii) of Section 4 of the Act. Also the learned Workmen's Compensation Commissioner is directed to in accordance with law on the anvil of Section 4-A(1) of the Act levy penalty, if any, imposable upon the employer for his purportedly not defraying compensation to the workman in quick succession to his suffering injuries during the course of his rendering employment under his employer. Records be sent back alongwith Ext.AW-3/1.

CWP No. 4352 of 2009

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as Medical Officer (Part-time) on a monthly salary of Rs. 5000/- under the scheme for Prevention of Alcoholism and Substances (Drugs) Abuse- rehabilitation centre was closed without the prior approval of respondents No. 1 and 2- hence, direction was sought to quash the order of closing the de-addiction and rehabilitation centre, Una- Respondent No. 1 stated that Indian Red Cross Society, Una, was running the De-addiction and Rehabilitation Centre - it has capacity of 15 beds only one beneficiary was found in the centre- many other deficiencies were also found- held, that de-addiction centre was not adhering to the conditions contemplated under the scheme- therefore, release of grant-in-aid was rightly stopped- appointment was on contract basis and the services could be terminated at any time without assigning any reason- closure of the de-addiction centre was not arbitrary- petition has been filed without any basis and is dismissed with cost of Rs.10,000/- (Para-8 to 13)

For the petitioner: Mr. Pushpender Kumar, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Ashok Sharma, ASGI, with Mr. Nipun Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Vikram Thakur and Mr. Puneet Razta, Deputy Advocate Generals,for respondents No. 2 and 3.
None for respondent No. 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.:

This petition has been filed praying for the following reliefs:-

“(a) Entire records of the case may kindly be summoned and perused.

(b) Issue a writ of certiorari to quash the order closing the De-Addiction Rehabilitation Centre, Una passed by the respondent No. 3 and to oust the patients forcibly and to give possession of the premises of the Centre illegally without any due process of law and continue the said centre in the light of the scheme framed by the respondent No. 1 for the welfare of the people in the interest of the general public.

(c) Direction may kindly be issued by way of writ of mandamus to the respondents to release the salary for the period from 01.04.2008 till 25.07.2009, which has been illegally withheld by the respondents, alongwith interest @12% p.a. and to allow him to continue in service, as usual and they may be allowed to perform their duties in the centre.

(d) Any other writ, order or direction as this Hon’ble Court may deem just and proper in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, be issued.

(e) Cost of the petition be granted in favour of the petitioner, And justice may be done.”

2. The facts necessary for the adjudication of the present petition are that the petitioner was appointed as Medical Officer (Part-time) on a monthly salary of Rs.5000/- w.e.f. 25.10.2002 and he continued to serve as such till 25.07.2009. His appointment was under the scheme for Prevention of Alcoholism and Substances (Drugs) Abuse, under which scheme treatment-cum-rehabilitation centre was made functional on Takka Road, Una in July, 2001. The grievance of the petitioner is that the said rehabilitation centre has been forcibly closed without the prior approval of respondents No.1 and 2 and the closure of they same is in violation of the scheme. Accordingly, he has prayed for quashing the order passed by respondent No. 3 to close the de-addiction rehabilitation centre, Una and further he has also prayed that respondents be directed to release his salary for the period from 01.04.2008 till 25.07.2009 and to allow him to continue in service. As per the petitioner, the centre was closed with an ulterior motive to give undue benefit to one Shri Harpal Singh, landlord of the building, where the said centre was running since 2001 in order to hand over the vacant possession of the premises to the land owner. It is further the allegation of the petitioner that said Harpal Singh happens to be father-in-law of reputed Advocate practicing at Una and, therefore, he had managed the affairs in connivance with the staff of respondent No. 3 with an ulterior motive. He has also stated in the petition that on 25.07.2009 staff of the centre closed the office at 5.00 P.M., when besides the patients who were staying there, Harpal Singh and his wife Smt. Ram Piari alias Manso Devi were there, who forcibly ousted the patients and locked the premises. It was on these grounds that the present petition was filed. Incidentally, the order passed by respondent No. 3 directing closure of de-addiction rehabilitation centre, Una, quashing of which has been sought by the petitioner is not on record. Though, personal allegations have been levelled against one Harpal Singh, however, said Harpal Singh has not been impleaded as a party respondent in the writ petition. Similarly, there are allegations of malafide alleged against the staff of respondent No. 3, however, it is not mentioned in the petition as to who was the member of the staff who has allegedly connived with Harpal Singh.

3. In its reply filed to the petition, the stand of respondent No. 1 was that the Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment, Government of India formulated a scheme for Prevention of Alcoholism and Substances (Drugs) Abuse for identification counseling, treatment and rehabilitation of addicts through voluntary and other eligible organizations and under the said scheme, grant-in-aid is provided to eligible organization including a Society registered under the Societies Registration Act or any other relevant statutory provisions. In the present case, Indian Red Cross Society, Una, was running a de-addiction Rehabilitation Centre at Una. Deputy Commissioner-cum-Chairman of the District Red Cross Society, Una, sent a proposal of the organization for release of grant-in-aid for running of de-addiction centre at Una for the year 2006-2007 under the said scheme vide letter dated 11.09.2006. Scrutiny of the proposal revealed that during inspection of the project on 26.07.2006 only one beneficiary was found in the centre, whose bed capacity was 15. Besides this, deficiencies were also pointed out in the inspection report itself and the Deputy Commissioner-cum-Chairman, District Red Cross Society, Una, was asked as to why grant-in-aid should not be stopped forthwith. The response filed by the Deputy Commissioner-cum-Chairman was not found satisfactory. The proposal for the year 2007-2008 was received in the Ministry vide letter dated 07.08.2007 and when inspection was carried out, the same revealed that on the date of inspection, only four beneficiaries were found present against the bed strength of 15. In this background, communication dated 26.12.2007 was sent to the organization seeking explanation for non-utilization of full sanctioned capacity of the centre and as to why further grants should not be stopped. The response filed by the organization was not found satisfactory. The audit report also revealed that there was unspent balance of Rs.2,06,915.00 for the year 2005-2006. As per respondent No. 1, in view of the above situation, the grants could not be released to the centre. It was further mentioned in the reply that no proposal was received from the State Government for the year 2009-2010 and as per the "extant procedure" in the Ministry, the case had become time barred.

4. In its reply filed by respondent No. 3, it was been mentioned that the petitioner was given a contractual, conditional appointment subject to the success of the scheme for Prevention of Alcoholism and Intoxicating Substances Abuse framed under the aegis of Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment of the Government of India. The de-addiction centre which was allotted was to be managed by the District Red Cross Society, Una. The same was to be run on the basis of receipt of the matching grant-in-aid upto 95% from the Government of India. It was the non-receipt of the grant-in-aid, which according to the said respondent, led to the closure of the de-addiction centre. The said respondent has further mentioned in its reply that with the closure of the said de-addiction centre, neither red Cross Society nor respondent No. 3 were going to be benefited in any manner. It was also denied that there was any personal or institutional interest common to the interest of the landlord in whose premises the said de-addiction centre was being run. Respondent No. 3 has further stated that it made all efforts which were within its ambit to ensure that the de-addiction centre was kept functional, however, because central aid was stopped, therefore, in this view of the matter, all efforts made in this regard ended in vain leading to the closure of the de-addiction centre. It has further been mentioned by respondent No. 3 that the petitioner was paid the part time honorarium as long as he worked till his contract was terminated.

5. In its reply filed by respondent No. 2, the said respondent has stated that the appointment of the employees of the de-addiction centre, Una, was made by chairman, District Red Cross Society, Una and the staff of the said centre was under the direct control of the Chairman and respondent No. 2 had no role except to send proposal for grant-in-aid received from the District Red Cross Society, Una, to Government of India.

6. Rejoinder has been filed by the petitioner only to the reply filed by respondent No. 3. In the said rejoinder, the petitioner has reiterated the averments made in the petition and he has again alleged that everything was done at the behest and at the instance of respondent No. 4 who was not interested to run the centre with an ulterior motive.

7. I have hard learned counsel for the parties.

8. In my considered view, there is no merit in the present petition. The allegations which have been leveled in the writ petition are not only bald but not even an iota of evidence has been placed on record by the petitioner to substantiate the same. It is evident from the reply filed by respondent No. 1 that keeping in view the fact that de-addiction centre opened at Una was not adhering to the conditions contemplated under the scheme under which the same was opened, the said respondent rightly stopped the release of grant-in-aid in favour of respondent No. 3. The allegation of the plaintiff that everything was done at the behest of the landlord in order to ensure that he gets the vacant possession of his property do not have any merit. Neither these allegations have been substantiated by any material on record nor the landlord against whom these allegations have been made in petition, has been made a party respondent in the case. The petitioner has also not been able to prove any malafides against respondent No. 4 or for that matter against any other respondents. A conjoint reading of the reply filed by respondents No. 1 and 3 makes it clear that de-addiction centre was closed because respondent No. 1 stopped the release of grant-in-aid in its favour, as according to the said respondent, the de-addiction centre was not being run as per the norms of the scheme under which the same was opened.

9. Further, it is apparent from the appointment letter, which has been issued to the petitioner dated 22.10.2002 that his appointment as Medical Officer (Part-time) was purely on contract basis and his services could be terminated at any time without assigning any reason and he was not entitled to claim seniority and other benefits of Government services.

10. The appointment of the petitioner was against the post of Medical Officer (Part-time) for de-addiction centre, Una, which de-addiction centre was opened under aegis of Red Cross Society, Una, which is evident from the fact that the appointment letter has been issued to the petitioner by respondent No. 3 in his capacity as Chairman, District reed Cross society, Una.

11. Therefore, in my considered view, it cannot be said that the closure of the de-addiction centre, Una, was either arbitrary or the said de-addiction centre was closed with an ulterior motive to confer any benefit upon the landlord in whose premises the said de-addiction centre was being run. The petitioner has not been able to substantiate that any amount was due from respondent No. 3 to him as has been claimed in the petition. Bald and baseless allegations have been made in the petition without any material to substantiate the same and malafides have been alleged even against those persons, who have not been impleaded as party respondents in the petition.

12. This Court recognizes the legal right of a citizen to approach an appropriate Court of law for redressal of his/her grievance. But if a litigant does not approach the Court of law with clean hands and files frivolous petition(s), then the said trend has to be deterred by imposing cost on such like litigants.

13. Therefore, in view of what has been discussed above, there is no merit in the present writ petition and the same is accordingly dismissed with costs, assessed at Rs.10,000. Miscellaneous Application(s), pending, if any, also stands disposed of.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 100- A civil suit was filed by the plaintiffs pleading that they have Bartandari rights in the suit land according to Naksha Bartan and Wazib UI Arj- suit land is part of UPF and DPF- defendants allotted the suit land to defendant No. 3 in violation of Conservation of Forests Act- suit was dismissed by the trial Curt- an appeal was preferred, which was also dismissed- held, that Forest Guard had admitted that suit land was part of Jungle - customary rights were duly recorded in Wazib Ul Arj- merely because list of Bartandaran was not filed is not sufficient to doubt the plaintiff's version- provision of Section 91 of CPC were not applicable in the present case- appeal allowed- judgment and decree passed by the trial Court set aside. (Para-8 to 10)

For the appellants: Mr. G.R.Palsra, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G. No. 1 and 2.
Mr. J.R.Poswal, Advocate, for respondent No.3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J:

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgement and decree of the learned District Judge, Mandi, Himachal Pradesh, whereby he affirmed the rendition of the learned Senior Sub Judge, Mandi, District Mandi, whereby the suit of the plaintiffs stood dismissed. The plaintiffs standing aggrieved by the concurrently recorded renditions against them by both the learned Courts below, concert through the instant appeal constituted before this Court, to seek reversal of the concurrently recorded judgements and decrees of both the Courts below.

2. The facts necessary for rendering a decision on the instant appeal are that the plaintiffs stated to be permanent residents of village Panjethi, Illaqua Pachhiat, Tehsil Sadar, District Mandi and are having their immovable and moveable property in village Panjethi. It is alleged that the plaintiffs are having Bartandari rights according to Naksha Bartan and Uajiw UI Arj in the land comprised in Khewat Khatauni No. 59 min/115, Khasra No. 162 measuring 8-0-9 bighas, situated in village Pajethi/365, Tehsil Sadar, District Mandi, H.P. which is a part of UPF and DPF and Jungle Gandharav and is situated close to the house of the plaintiffs who have right to protect the forest and to maintain ecological balance having nourished few spices of trees under the Social forestry scheme and are having right of lopping leaves from the fodder plants and collecting fuel wood etc. from the suit land. It is the further case of the plaintiffs that defendants No.1 and 2 without having any jurisdiction or power to allot the land to defendant No.3 allotted Khasra No. 162/1 measuring 2-6-7 bighas out of the suit land to defendant No.3. It is further alleged that no allotment could have been made within the municipal area or in view of the provisions of the Conservation of Forests Act and as such the allotment made to defendant No.3 is null and void and not binding on the rights of the plaintiff.

3. The suit of the plaintiffs was resisted by defendants on the ground of jurisdiction and locus standi. The pendency of litigation between defendant No. 3 and Ram Singh has not been disputed but it is alleged that as per direction of the Hon'ble High Court Nautor land had rightly been granted to defendant No.3 under the Special Scheme. It is further alleged that if anybody is aggrieved by the grant of nautor he could do so by challenging the said order before the Deputy Commissioner and if the Deputy Commissioner does not take any action, the plaintiffs could file an appeal before the Commissioner or challenge the order before the Hon'ble High Court. It is also alleged that the land comprised in Khasra No. 162 is not situated in the DPF Ghandharv. The rights of the plaintiffs of lopping the leaves, collecting fodder from DPF Gandharav is denied by the defendants and according to them the suit land was earlier neither UPF nor DPF and has wrongly been converted into UPF and DPF.

4. In the replication filed on behalf of the plaintiffs the averments as contained in the plaint were reiterated and those of the written statement contrary to the plaint were refuted.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

(1) Whether the plaintiffs have Bartandari rights over the suit land, as alleged? OPP.

(2) Whether the allotment of the part of the suit land to the defendant No.3 by the defendants No. 1 and 2 is null and void? OPP.

(2)A. Whether the allotment is in contravention of mandatory provision of Conservation of Forest Act, 1980, and therefore, is null and void? OPP.

3. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled to the relief of Permanent Prohibitory Injunction? OPP.

4. Whether this Court has no jurisdiction to try and decide this suit? OPD.

5. Whether the plaintiffs have no locus standi to file this suit? OPD.

5-A Whether the plaintiffs have prescriptive easement rights of getting fresh air, Bartandari rights, collecting fuel woods and leaves fodder from the trees from the forefathers as claimed, as alleged? OPP.

6. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs besides the learned First Appellate Court dismissed the appeal preferred therefrom before it by the plaintiffs.

7. Now the plaintiffs/appellants instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, assailing the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 1.12.2004, this Court admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether the First Appellate Court as well as the trial Court has misread, misinterpreted and misconstrued the oral as well as documentary evidence of the parties especially Ext.PZ/A, Ext.P4 to P-6 and statement of PW-2, which has materially caused miscarriage and failure of justice to the appellants?

2. Whether the order dated 18.08.1994 is against the UPF and DPF Rules and the allotment order is prima facie null and void having no binding force upon the Bartandari rights of the appellants?

Substantial questions of law No. 1 and 2.

8. For the plaintiffs to attain success in their suit wherein they sought relief of cancellation of allotment by way of Nautor of the suit land to defendant No.3 by defendants No. 1 and 2 they stood enjoined to adduce clinching prove qua the suit land comprised in Khasra No. 162 constituting a part of UDF and DPF 'Jungle Gandharav' upsurgings whereof would sequel the ill-fate of its apposite allotment standing rescinded. Also the plaintiffs stood enjoined to adduce evidence in portrayal of theirs as espoused by them in the plaint holding therein Bartandari rights, rights whereof stood reflected in the relevant "Naksha Bartan Vajiw Ul Arj". Both the Courts below had validated the allotment of the suit land to defendant No.3 on the anvil of there existing no apposite notification in depiction of the suit land falling within the domain of UPF and DPF 'Jungle Gandharav'. The reason as assigned by the learned Courts below for theirs hence withholding relief to the plaintiffs qua allotment of the suit land to defendant No. 3 by defendants No. 1 and 2 warranting rescission wanders astray from the deposition of PW-2 the Forest Guard of the beat concerned, who in his testification unequivocally voices therein qua Jungle Gandharav standing in the apposite records reflected to be DPF. Even though he in his cross-examination feigns ignorance qua Khasra No.162 standing allotted as Nautor to defendant No.3 also he therein feigns ignorance qua the khasra number allotted as Nautor to defendant No.3 by defendants No. 1 and 2 falling within the domain of DPF or UDF, whereupon hence an inference may stand aroused of the plaintiffs not succeeding in proving qua the suit land falling within the domain of UDF and DPF Jungle Gandharav yet the aforesaid inference as may erupt therefrom ipso facto stands negated by a display occurring in Ext.D-2, the jamabandi apposite to the suit land wherein it stands reflected to be UPF and DPF. It appears that the testimony of PW-2 was enjoined to be read in entwinement with Ext.D-2 rather than in isolation therefrom. However, his deposition standing read in isolation vis.a.vis reflections aforesaid qua the suit land occurring in Ext.D-2 has led them to merely on his feigning ignorance qua the location of the Khasra number wherein allotment of land by way of Nautor was made to defendant No. 3 by defendants. 1 and 2, score off, his testimony of hence his not proving the factum of the suit land falling within the domain of UPF and DPF Jungle Gandharav whereas at the outset he in his testification echoes of Jungle Gandharav being a UDF and DPF wherein uncontrovertedly as denoted by Ext.D-2 the suit land stands located. Given the learned courts below subsuming the effect of Ext.D-2 also of theirs concluding qua the suit land not falling within the domain of UPF and DPF 'Jungle Gandharav' palpably stands sequelled by the rendition of this Court pronounced in Civil Writ Petition No. 16 of 1991 wherein this Court had rendered a verdict qua allotment of land by way of Nautor to the petitioner, hence, constraining them to erect an inference qua its unamenability for rescission. However, the aforesaid inference erected by the Courts below qua hence inviolability of apposite allotment of land by way of Nautor to defendant No.3 by defendants No. 1 and 2 besides its unamenability for rescission when stands breached by evidence palpably displaying its location occurring in UPF and DPF 'Jungle Gandharav' enjoins this Court to cull out from the pronouncement of this Court comprised in Ext.PZ/F qua this Court therein rendering a direction upon the allottees to dehors its location occurring in UPF and DPF Jungle Gandharav theirs yet proceeding to allot it to defendant No.3. In the aforesaid endeavour this Court proceeds to allude to the relevant portion of the pronouncement of this Court embodied in Ext.PZ/F, an allusion thereto unravels the factum of therein this Court meteing a direction to the Deputy Commissioner Mandi to allot, mutate and give land to defendant No.3 allotment whereof stood enjoined therein to occur in the very same Khasra Number wherein the land of the complainant/appellant therein occurs. However, there is no mandate rendered therein upon the allottors to proceed to allot it even when it is un-allotable under law. Though, in pursuance to Ext.PZ/F the Deputy Commissioner, Mandi, allotted land to defendant No.3 yet his hence implementing the directions of this Court embodied in Ext.PZ/F would not ipso facto validate the allotment of the suit land by way of Nautour to defendant No.3 unless the Deputy Commissioner, Mandi had satisfied himself of the suit land being legally allotable to defendant No.3 it not falling within the domain of UDF and DPF Jungle Gandharav. Also in the event of the Deputy Commissioner, Mandi detecting the suit land to be the land allotable by way of Nautor to defendant No.3, its, adjoining the land of Ram Singh appellant/complainant in Cr.MP(M) No. 993/93 whereupon Ext.PZ/F stood pronounced by this Court, pronouncement embodied therein did not brook its standing breached, he stood also enjoined to prior thereto make a thorough inquiry qua its being legally allotable to defendant No.3 besides when in the course of a thorough inquiry held/embarked upon by him qua the legality of allotment of land adjoining the land of Ram Singh, his fathoming therefrom it being unallotable to defendant No.3, unallotability whereof stood spurred from its falling within the precincts of UDF and DPF 'Jungle Gandharav' as palpably depicted in Ext.D-2, exhibit whereof though existing in his records whereas the apposite manifestation occurring therein stood purportedly overlooked by him rather enjoined him to unveil the fate of his inquiry to this Court, for constraining it to make a review of its order pronounced in Cr.MP(M) No. 993/93. Prominently when this Court had not rendered a verdict upon the allottors to allot it even when it was legally unallotable. However, the Deputy Commissioner, Mandi omitted to do so. His omissions palpably has sequelled the legal mishap of his proceeding to make allotment of that part of the suit land to defendant No.3 despite it being unallotable to him, its standing located within UPF and DPF 'Jungle Gandharav', its location wherewithin as manifested by a pronouncement of this Court in Civil Writ Petition 16 of 1991 interdicted its allotment by way of Nautor to defendant No.3. Consequently, even if the Deputy Commissioner, Mandi implemented the orders of this Court pronounced in Cr.MP(M) No. 993/93 yet his omissions in the aforesaid regard impinging upon its allotment to defendant No.3 standing concomitantly interdicted, would not clothe the allotment of the suit land by the Deputy Commissioner, Mandi to defendant No.3 with any aura of solemnity or validity. Reiteratedly, even though defendant No.3 revered the pronouncement of this Court yet he breached the legal cannon of its being unallotable, fate whereof was obviable in case he had concerted this Court to make a review of its order by motioning it. In sequel any findings recorded by both the Courts below for validating the allotment of the suit land to defendant No.3 by defendants No. 1 and 2 on the anchorage of the rendition of this Court pronounced in Ext.PZ/F stands not founded upon theirs marshalling therefrom its proper spirit besides nuance rather stands embedded upon gross misappreciation by them of the impact of Ext.D-2 wherein palpable revelations are held of it falling within the precincts of UPF and DPF 'Jungle Gandharav' rendering hence its allotment as manifested by a pronouncement of this Court occurring in Civil Writ Petition No. 16 of 1991, relevant portion whereof stands extracted hereinafter, to be legally barred.

> "Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record, we are clearly of the opinion that the land in question is not Nautor land and could not for that reason be allotted/granted as Nautor land to either the petitioner or anyone else. The revenue record, Annexure R/2 clearly indicates that the land is recorded in possession of the Forest Department and is undemarcated protected Forest and for that reason could not have been treated to be a Nautor land and allotted either to the petitioner or anyone else. It is not even the petitioner's claim that he was entitled to allotment of forest land. In this view of the matter the rejection of the petitioner's claim is strictly in accordance with the scheme."

9. Both the Courts below had also dispelled the espousal of the plaintiffs of theirs holding any Bartandari rights qua user of the suit land on the score of the plaintiffs not adducing "Naksha Bartan" or other relevant record from the department concerned. However, the aforesaid dispelling of the espousal of the plaintiffs stands aroused by theirs grossly overlooking the impact of Ext.PZ/A comprising the "Wajiw Ul Arj" qua the relevant area, with a disclosure therein of customary rights inhering in the estate right holders for using forest land. Since a clinching conclusion stands drawn by this Court qua the suit land falling within the precincts of UPF and DPF Jungle Gandharav besides with PW-2 deposing of the estates of the plaintiffs standing located in close vicinity to Jungle Gandharav sprouts an inference of with manifestations standing unraveled in Ext.PZ/A, exhibit whereof constituting the apposite "Wajiw Ul Arj" qua customary rights inhering in the estate holders qua user of forest land located in vicinity to their estates, apposite revelations wherein embody all the purposes as stand embodied in the plaint. Consequently, with apposite delineations occurring in Ext.PZ/A of the plaintiffs holding leverage to exercise rights therein in incongruity with their staked user of adjoining Jungle Gandharav wherein the suit land is located it was inapt for both the learned Courts below to conclude of with the plaintiffs omitting to adduce evidence in display of theirs holding "Bartandari rights" therein of theirs hence standing barred to stake a claim for user of the suit land in the manner as espoused by them prominently when the conclusion arrived at by them suffers from gross mis-appreciation by them of the import of Ext.PZ/A. Even otherwise with a display occurring in Ext.D-2, the jamabandi apposite to the suit land with markings therein of the estate holders holding "Bartandaran rights", rights whereof viz.a.viz. the forest land adjoining their lands were exercisable by them in consonance with the apposite depictions in the relevant record, records whereof for reasons aforesaid stand comprised in Ext.PZ/A, the mere non adduction of list of "Bartan Darans" by the plaintiffs nor also the non occurrence therein of the names of the plaintiffs was not a tenable ground for the learned Courts below to repel their espousal of theirs holding rights as 'Bartan Darans' qua the suit land besides the forest land adjoining it. Since the suit land stood owned prior to its allotment to defendant No.3 by defendants No. 1 and 2 by the latter besides its falling within the domain of UDF and DPF 'Jungle Gandharav' also its allotment standing barred by a judicial pronouncement of this Court, relevant portion whereof stands extracted hereinabove, made it amenable for user by the estate right holders for the purposes embodied in Ext.PZ/A, purposes manifested wherein are pari materia vis-à-vis the purpose qua its user embodied in the plaint. In aftermath any insistence upon the plaintiffs by the learned Courts below to adduce the relevant list of "Bartan Darans" with a display of theirs names occurring therein would hold tenacity only in the event of evidence standing evinced of the plaintiffs not being the estate holders within the precincts of Jungle Gandharav hence theirs standing ousted from availing the customary rights qua its user by them. When the aforesaid evidence is amiss, reiteratedly the non adduction by the plaintiffs of the relevant list of "Bartan Darans" was not a tenable ground for the Courts below to hold of theirs not holding any "Bartan Daran" rights in the forest adjoining their habitat/homesteads especially when reflections in Ext.PZ/A also reflections in Ext.D-2 unravel of one of the estate holders, holding rights as a "Bartan Daran" in the forest land concerned, customary rights whereof being exercisable by "Bartan Darans" in consonance with the relevant record embodying the rights exercisable by them upon forest land. Imperatively when Ext.PZ/A is the relevant record embodying the rights exercisable by "Bartan Darans" upon forest land, even the plaintiffs who for want of evidence in display of theirs being not estate right holders in the relevant area are to be hence construable to be estate right holders therein concomitantly they are to be construed to be holding all customary rights qua user of forest land adjoining their estate besides qua user of the suit land on the anvil of manifestations occurring in Ext.PZ/A especially when all rights claimed therein by them find reflection therein dehors theirs not adducing the list of "Bartan Darans".

10. The learned First Appellate Court also non suited the plaintiffs by invoking the provisions of 91 of the Code of Civil Procedure, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter.

> "Public nuisances and other wrongful acts affecting the public.—
>
> [(1) in the case of a public nuisance or other wrongful act affecting, or likely to affect, the public, a suit for a declaration and injunction or for such other relief as may be appropriate in the circumstances of the case, may be instituted,—
>
> (a) by the Advocate General, or
>
> (b) with the leave of the Court, by two or more persons,even though no special damage has been caused to such persons by reason of such public nuisance or other wrongful act.]
> (2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to limit or otherwise affect any right of suit which may exist independently of its provisions.

However, the aforesaid invocation besides attraction by the learned first Appellate Court is wholly inapt prominently when its invocation would arise only when the aggrieved proclaim of omissions or commissions upon the suit land by the delinquent/delinquent(s) besides theirs tantamounting to public nuisance or his/their wrongful act affecting or likely to affect public. However, with the plaintiffs not proclaiming in their suit of the defendant No.3 by his omissions or commissions committing a public nuisance upon the suit land or his committing thereupon any wrongful act affecting or likely to affect the public contrarily with his holding the suit land as Nautor on its allotment standing made in his favour by defendants No. 1 and 2 he cannot be construed to be thereupon committing any wrongful act which affects or is likely to affect the public. Also during the subsistence of the apposite allotment to defendant No.3 by defendants No. 1 and 2 which for reasons aforesaid stands concluded by this Court to be rescindable, his holding or using the suit land is not amenable to a construction of its user by him affecting or likely to affect the public.

11. For the foregoing reasons, the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the plaintiffs-appellants. The judgements and decrees rendered by both the Courts below are quashed and set-aside. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. The parties are left to bear their own costs. All the pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

Reference was also made to Clause 3.3 of the agreement and it was specifically mentioned that the said Clause, inter alia,* provides that in so far as the deputation of the HPSEB personnel to NJPC is concerned, it shall be ensured that the terms of secondment will not be to the disadvantage of the HPSEB personnel. 3. Aggrieved by the decision of the respondent Corporation in implementing OMs issued by the Department of Public Enterprises on 26.11.2008, 8.6.2009 and further issuance of letter dated 14.9.2009 and circular dated 29.4.2010 and inter office memorandum dated 21.7.2010, the petitioners had filed the instant writ petition on various grounds taken in the petition and have prayed for the following reliefs:-

"i) That this Hon'ble Court may be pleased to issue a writ of certiorari letter dated 14.9.2009 (Annexure P 14), office Circular dated 29.4.2010 (Annexure P 17) and Inter Office Memo dated 21.7.2010 (Annexure P 21) issued by Respondent No. 3.

ii) That this Hon'ble Court may be pleased to issue a writ of mandamus directing the Respondents to continue to govern the terms of deputation of the employees of the HPSEB and the Government of H.P. on deputation with the SJVNL in consonance with and as agreed between the Respondents vide agreement dated 24.1.2000 and notification dated 4.2.2000 and office orders dated 11.4.2001 and 13.3.2002 respectively, entered into between Respondents No. 1 and 2 and issued by Respondents No. 3 and 4 and not to re-determine the terms of deputation of the employees of the HPSEB or the Government of H.P. including the petitioners on the basis of the DPE guidelines issued vide OMs, dated 26.11.2008 and 8.6.2009.

iii) That this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to issue an appropriate writ to the effect that the DPE guidelines issued by the Respondent No. 5 vide office Memorandums dated 26.11.2008 and 8.6.20089 cannot be made applicable to determine the terms of deputation of the employees of the HPSEB and the Government of H.P. like the petitioners on deputation with the SJVNL and alternatively, the petitioners pray that if this Hon'ble Court is pleaded to come to the conclusion that the said guidelines have been made applicable, even in order to determine the terms of deputation of the employees of the HPSEB and Government of H.P., who are on deputation with Respondent No. 3, then this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleaded to issue a writ of Certiorari quashing the applicability of the said guidelines viz a viz the employees of the HPSEB and the Government of H.P. on deputation with the SJVNL.

iv) That the Respondents may kindly be directed to produce all the relevant records of the case before this Hon'ble Court and to pay the costs of the petition."

4. Respondent No. 4 (HPSEB Ltd.) has supported the claim of the petitioners and it is averred that the personnel of HPSEB who are on deputation to the SJVNL are getting the pay scales as also the other perks and allowances in pursuance of the settled and agreed terms and conditions of various instruments/agreements, which cannot be altered to their determent unilaterally on the basis of Office Memorandum dated 26.11.2008 and 8.6.2009. It is apt to reproduce paras 18 and 20 of the reply, which read thus:-

"18. In reply to this para, the replying respondent submits with utmost respect that the personnel of HPSEB who are on deputation to the SJVNL are getting the pay scales as also the other perks and allowances in pursuance of the settled and agreed terms and conditions of various instruments/agreements, which cannot be altered to their determent unilaterally on the basis of Office Memorandum dated 26.11.2008 and 8.6.2009.

20. The contents of this para are admitted that the AGM (P&A) of Respondent No. 3 wrote letter dated 14/9/2009 (Annexure P-14) to the replying respondent in which it was inter-alia mentioned that henceforth deputation terms with respect to employees of the replying respondent stand revised as per the DPE guideline. The replying respondent vide letter dated 25/2/2010 (Annexure P-15) wrote to the Respondent No. 3 stating inter-alia therein that the terms and conditions of deputation for the HPSEB deputation employees who are already on deputation as on 26/11/2008 or who go on deputation after 26/11/2008, ought not to be changed/altered in the light of DPE guidelines. In the letter ibid it was stated that an agreement was signed on 23/7/1991 between the then two Governments i.e. the Government of India and the H.P. Government for the smooth and expeditious execution of the Nathpa Jhakri Hydro electric Project by the then NJPC now SJVNL. Clause No. 3.3 of the said agreement specifically provides that in so far as deputation of HPSEB Personnel to NJPC is concerned, it shall be ensured that the terms of secondment will not be the disadvantage of HPSEB personnel. From the above, it is evident that the guidelines issued by the DPE cannot supersede the sacrosanct agreement in between the two Governments. In view of the above, the replying respondent had requested the Respondents No. 3 to withdraw the letter dated 14/9/209 immediately."

5. Respondent No. 3, SJVNL has opposed the petition by filing a separate reply, wherein the maintainability of the petition itself has been questioned on the ground that the respondent was bound to follow the guidelines issued by respondent No. 1 vide office memorandum dated 26.11.2008 and guidelines dated 8.6.2009. It is further averred that the petition is liable to be dismissed on the ground that the replying respondent in its 118th meeting of Board of Directors held on 20th April, 2009 had agreed with the proposal to take up the issue with the Ministry of Power and Department of Public Enterprises and till finalization of the same, the existing practice was permitted to be continued. Even the Executive Director of the replying respondent had written a communication dated 24.4.2009, but respondent No. 1 had not acceded to this request and vide communication dated 8.6.2009 (annexure P-10) had proceeded to issue the memorandum, which is binding upon the replying respondent.

6. Respondent No. 1 has also contested the petition by filing its separate reply, and has justified the issuance of impugned memorandum.

7. It has been averred that the Department of Public Enterprises (DPE) is the nodal Department in Government of India, to issue policy guidelines in respect of the Central Public Sector Enterprises (for short CPSEs) and has further clarified that the CPSEs are those Government Companies where the equity of Central Government is more than 50%, which have been established by an enactment of the Parliament and where the managements of such companies are controlled by Central Government, etc. It is further averred that as on 31.3.2009, there were 246 CPSEs in India having 15-35 lakh employees, who are working on the Industrial Dearness Allowance pay pattern, while the remaining are one Central Dearness Allowance pay pattern. The Ida pay pattern comprises two categories of employees viz (i) Executive (Board & below Board level) and non-unionized Supervisors and (ii) workmen Pay and Allowances etc.

8. In respect of the first category i.e. Executive (Board and below Board level) and non-unionized Supervisors is decided by the Government of India based on the recommendations of a Pay Revision Committee, headed by a retired Judge of Supreme Court of India. While the wage revision in respect of second category i.e. workmen, is based on the negotiations between the Trade-Unions and the Management of respective CPSEs, for which board guidelines are issued by the DPE, before such negotiations. With regard to CDA pattern employees, their pay structure (with some conditions is generally based on the pay structural of Central Government employees. Government of India vide Resolution dated 30.11.2006 had set up a Pay Revision Committee (hereinafter called as 2nd PRC) headed by Justice (Retd) M.J. Rao, Supreme Court of India, with other eminent persons as its Members, to give its recommendations for the pay structure in respect of Executives) Board below Board level) and non-unionized Supervisors of CPSEs, following Ida pattern, w.e.f. 1.1.2007. The 2nd PRC in their report at page III, para 6.2.3 (A) VI, recommended as under:-

> "Government Officers on deputation to the CPSEs, will continue to draw the salary as per their entitlement in the parent department. Only those who come on permanent absorption basis will get the benefit of CPSE scales, perks, benefits."

9. These recommendations of 2nd PRC were circulated by the DPE to all administrative Ministers/Departments and other agencies concerned, which included Ministry of Power that is the administrative ministry in respect of SJVN. Central Cabinet considered the recommendations of the 2nd PRC and also the comments of respective administrative Ministries/Department's/ Agencies including Ministry of Power. Government's decision has been conveyed in DPE O.M/Dated 26.11.2008 and 9.2.2009. The recommendation of 2nd PRC regarding pay etc. of Government officers on deputation to CPSEs (as referred above) was accepted in toto by the Government. The date of effect of the recommendation of the 2nd PRC including the aforesaid recommendation on deputationists was w.e.f. 1.1.2007. Further as per para '18' of the DPE OM dated 26.11.2008, there is a provision of Anomalies Committee, comprising Secretaries of Department of Expenditure, Department of Personnel & Training and DPE, to look into further specific issue/problem that may arise in implementation of Govt's decision on the recommendations of 2nd PRC.

10. Some Ministries/Departments had raised the issue of pay of deputationists w.e.f. 1.1.2007, as they were finding difficulties in its implementation. Based on the recommendations of the Anomalies Committee (as aforesaid), Government's decision was conveyed in O.M. dated 8.6.2009. This order in nut shell conveyed that the Government officers already on deputation with the CPSEs as on 26.11.2008 (instead of earlier effective date of 1.1.2007) will continue to avail of the option already available and exercised by them till the end of their tenure. Meaning thereby that any Government officer (including State Government Officer) who has joined the CPSE after 26.11.2008, on deputation, his/her pay etc. would be regulated as per Annexure IV, point No. (iv) of O.M. dated 26.11.2008.

11. Therefore, all these petitioners who are Government Officers and have joined the SJVN after 26.11.2008 on deputation will draw the salary as per their entitlement in their parent department i.e. HPSEB and only those officers, who come on permanent basis, will get the CPSE pay scales, perks and allowances, performance Related Pay (PRP) etc.

12. It is averred that above provisions apply to all the CPSEs, be it Maharatna, Navratna, Miniratna CPSEs like NHPC, NHDC, THDC, which are similarly placed like SJVN. It is reiterated that above mentioned decision of the Cabinet is based on the duly constituted Pay Revision Committee headed by a former Judge of Supreme Court and also deliberations undergone. The impugned provisions are mandatory in nature and CPSEs are required to follow them in letter and spirit. It is also submitted that there is no disadvantage to the petitioners, as while on deputation to SJVN, they continue to get their pay etc. as per their entitlement in HPSEB and equal to their counterparts in HPSEB. It is further averred that there are many CPSEs, which have both IDA and CDA pattern of pay scales, which are altogether different pay structures, while they work in same CPSE or for that matter doing the same job. The applicability of revision of scales of pay in respect of employees on deputation with the CPSUs was clarified by the DPE vide their subsequent O.M. dated 8.6.2009 which rationalized the terms and conditions of deputation in respect of deputationist with the CPUs.

13. Now in so far as the State of H.P. is concerned, it has chosen to support the claim of the petitioner and it has been averred that the employees of HPSEB on deputation with SJVN were representing the State and consequently there cannot be any discrimination in the matter of salary, pay and perks etc. in violation of the specific agreements entered into on 24.5.1988, 23.7.1991, 6.1.1992, 24.1.2000 and notification dated 4.2.2000. It is further averred that the petitioners cannot be discriminated viz-a-viz the regular employees of SJVN, as the State Government is having 25% share capital in SJVN. It is further contended that the office memorandum dated 26.11.2008 (Annexure P-11) and the DPE guidelines may in normal course be applicable in the matter of deputationists from one department to another department, but the same are not at all applicable to the instant case, as it is different, distinct and distinguishable from the routine/normal deputation of employees to any State or Central Government Departments.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the case.

14. Before adverting to the relative merits of the case, it would be necessary to observe that the parties are ad idem that all the petitioners herein have joined on deputation with SJVNL only after Office Memorandum dated 26.11.2008 had already been issued. Another important aspect which shall have to be borne in mind while determining the instant lis is that the petitioners admittedly were not privy or party to the agreements upon which they seek to place reliance. Bearing in mind these important aspects, I now proceed to deal with the merits of the case.

15. Indubitably, respondent No. 3 is a Government Company as defined in Section 2(45) of the Companies Act, which reads thus:-

> "2(45) "Government company" means any company in which not less than fiftyone per cent of the paid-up share capital is held by the Central Government, or by any State Government or Governments, or partly by the Central Government and partly by one or more State Governments, and includes a company which is a subsidiary company of such a Government company."

16. Clause 35A of the Memorandum of Association and Articles of Association deals with powers subject to Guidelines/regulations for Mini Ratna/Nav Ratna Companies and the same reads thus:-

> "35A The Board/Chairman shall exercise all such Powers as are applicable to Mini Ratna companies and all such powers as applicable to Nav Ratna, upon such status as and when, bestowed subject to adherence of to the stipulations, guidelines, notifications, circulars as may be issued from time to time by the Department of Public enterprises or any other Department of the Government of India governing the status of Mini Ratna/Nave Ratna companies."

17. It is not in dispute that respondent No. 3 is a Mini Ratna Company and therefore, in terms of the aforesaid clause, the stipulations, guidelines, notifications, circulars as may be issued from time to time by the Department of Public Enterprises or any other Department of Government of India governing the status of Mini Ratna Companies are to be strictly adhered to by respondent No. 3. Once it is so, can the petitioners claim a right dehors the instructions, notifications, circulars etc. issued by respondent No. 1, i.e. Department of Public Enterprises?

18. The petitioners virtually have no answer to this question, save and except to harp upon the agreements (supra) to contend that though they were not party or privy to the same, but being the beneficiaries of such agreements, the same could not have been nullified on the basis of the executive instructions issued by respondent No. 1.

19. This contention is sans merit, as it would be preposterous to hold that the employees would have a larger right than the one vested or conferred upon the employer i.e. respondent No. 3. The employer can only pay what is prescribed. After all it is out of the coffers of employer that pay and allowances of the petitioners are to be paid.

20. That apart, the petitioners are only entitled to be paid what has been prescribed in the guidelines, notifications, circulars etc. issued from time to time by respondent No. 1 and at the same time respondent No. 3 cannot deviate from what is envisaged in these circulars, notifications etc. Even otherwise, the petitioners have failed to point out that in case their plea is accepted, then where from and by whom the additional amount towards their pay and allowances would be made good.

21. The matter can be looked from a different angle. Admittedly, the petitioners have not assailed or prayed for quashing of any of the office memorandums issued by respondent No. 1, more particularly the ones issued on 26.11.2008 and 8.6.2009 and therefore, cannot be held entitled to any relief in view of the binding nature of these memorandums upon respondent No. 3 in term of clause 35A of the Memorandum of Association and Articles of Association.

22. In addition to this it was only after issuance of the memorandum dated 26.11.2008 that the petitioners with their eyes wide open have joined respondent No. 3 and therefore, cannot now turn around and question the memorandum at this stage.

23. The learned counsel for the petitioner would still argue that in light of various agreements executed from time to time, the petitioners have legitimate expectation to get the pay and perks as admissible to the employees of SJVNL.

24. The doctrine of legitimate expectation has been described in Halsbury's Laws of England, 4th Edition, in the following words:

> "81. Legitimate expectations*. – A person may have a legitimate expectation of being treated in a certain way by an administrative authority even though he has no legal right in private law to receive such treatment. The expectation may arise either from a representation or promise made by the authority, including an implied representation, or from consistent past practice."*

25. The same principle has been followed even by the Courts in India. Reference in this connection may be usefully made to the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Navjyoti Housing Cooperative Group Housing Society and others vs. Union of India, 1992 (4) SCC 477, Supreme Court Advocate-on-Record Association and others vs. Union of India 1993 (4) SCC 441, Food Corporation of India vs. Kamdhenu Cattle Feed Industries 1993 (1) SCC 71 and Union Territory of Chandigarh vs. Dilbagh Singh and others 1993 (1) SCC 154.

26. In Madras City Wine Merchants' Association and another vs. State of Tamil Nadu and another (1994) 5 SCC 509 the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the legitimate expectation may arise:-

> "(a) if there is an express promise given by a public authority; or
>
> (b) because of the existence of a regular practice which the claimant can reasonably expect to continue;
>
> (c) such an expectation must be reasonable.
> However, if there is a change in policy or in public interest the position is altered by a rule or legislation, no question of legitimate expectation would arise."

27. In Ram Pravesh Singh and others vs. *State of Bihar and others (2006) 8 SCC 381, the question as to what is the legitimate expectation was directly in issue before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and it was held as under:

> "15. What is legitimate expectation? Obviously, it is not a legal right. It is an expectation of a benefit, relief or remedy, that may ordinarily flow from a promise or established practice. The term 'established practice' refers to a regular, consistent predictable and certain conduct, process or activity of the decision-making authority. The expectation should be legitimate, that is, reasonable, logical and valid. Any expectation which is based on sporadic or casual or random acts, or which is unreasonable, illogical or invalid cannot be a legitimate expectation. Not being a right, it is not enforceable as such. It is a concept fashioned by courts, for judicial review of administrative action. It is procedural in character based on the requirement of a higher degree of fairness in administrative action, as a consequence of the promise made, or practice established. In short, a person can be said to have a 'legitimate expectation' of a particular treatment, if any representation or promise is made by an authority, either expressly or impliedly, or if the regular and consistent past practice of the authority gives room for such expectation in the normal course. As a ground for relief, the efficacy of the doctrine is rather weak as its slot is just above 'fairness in action' but far below 'promissory estoppel'. It may only entitle an expectant : (a) to an opportunity to show cause before the expectation is dashed; or (b) to an explanation as to the cause for denial. In appropriate cases, courts may grant a direction requiring the Authority to follow the promised procedure or established practice. A legitimate expectation, even when made out, does not always entitle the expectant to a relief. Public interest, change in policy, conduct of the expectant or any other valid or bonafide reason given by the decision-maker, may be sufficient to negative the 'legitimate expectation'. The doctrine of legitimate expectation based on established practice (as contrasted from legitimate expectation based on a promise), can be invoked only by someone who has dealings or transactions or negotiations with an authority, on which such established practice has a bearing, or by someone who has a recognized legal relationship with the authority. A total stranger unconnected with the authority or a person who had no previous dealings with the authority and who has not entered into any transaction or negotiations with the authority, cannot invoke the doctrine of legitimate expectation, merely on the ground that the authority has a general obligation to act fairly."

28. In Secretary, State of Karnataka and other vs. Umadevi (3) and others (2006) 4 SCC 1, a Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to the circumstances in which the doctrine of legitimate expectation can be invoked:

> "The doctrine can be invoked if the decisions of the administrative authority affect the person by depriving him of some benefit or advantage which either (i) he had in the past been permitted by the decision maker to enjoy and which he can legitimately expect to be permitted to continue to do until there have been communicated to him some rational grounds for withdrawing it on which he has been given an opportunity to comment; or (ii) he has received assurance from the decision maker that they will not be withdrawn without giving him first an opportunity of advancing reasons for contending that they should not be withdrawn."

29. In Confederation of Ex-Servicemen Associations and others vs. Union of India and others (2006) 8 SCC 399, another Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court referring to the doctrine of legitimate expectation held as under:

> "No doubt, the doctrine has an important place in the development of Administrative Law and particularly law relating to 'judicial review'. Under the said doctrine, a person may have reasonable or legitimate expectation of being treated in a certain way by an administrative authority even though he has no right in law to receive the benefit. In such situation, if a decision is taken by an administrative authority adversely affecting his interests, he may have justifiable grievance in the light of the fact of continuous receipt of the benefit, legitimate expectation to receive the benefit or privilege which he has enjoyed all throughout. Such expectation may arise either from the express promise or from consistent practice which the applicant may reasonably expect to continue."

30. The same reiteration of law is found in a recent judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme in Union of India and another vs. Lt. Col. P. K. Choudhary and others AIR 2016 SC 966 wherein it was held as under:

> "42. In Food Corporation of India v. Kamdhenu Cattle Feed Industries (1993) 1 SCC 71: (AIR 1993 SC 1601) one of the earlier cases on the subject this Court considered the question whether Legitimate Expectation of a citizen can by itself create a distinct enforceable right. Rejecting the argument that a mere reasonable and legitimate expectation can give rise to a distinct and enforceable right, this Court observed:
>
> > "8.The mere reasonable or legitimate expectation of a citizen, in such a situation, may not by itself be a distinct enforceable right, but failure to consider and give due weight to it may render the decision arbitrary, and this is how the requirement of due consideration of a legitimate expectation forms part of the principle of non-arbitrariness, a necessary concomitant of the rule of law. Every legitimate expectation is a relevant factor requiring due consideration in a fair decision-making process. Whether the expectation of the claimant is reasonable or legitimate in the context is a question of fact in each case. Whenever the question arises, it is to be determined not according to the claimant's perception but in larger public interest wherein other more important considerations may outweigh what would otherwise have been the legitimate expectation of the claimant. A bona fide decision of the public authority reached in this manner would satisfy the requirement of non-arbitrariness and withstand judicial scrutiny. The doctrine of legitimate expectation gets assimilated in the rule of law and operates in our legal system in this manner and to this extent."
>

43. To the same effect is the decision of this Court in Union of India v. Hindustan Development Corporation and Ors. (1993) 3 SCC 499, where this Court summed up the legal position as under:

> " 28..... For legal purposes, the expectation cannot be the same as anticipation. It is different from a wish, a desire or a hope nor can it amount to a claim or demand on the ground of a right. However earnest and sincere a wish, a desire or a hope may be and however confidently one may look to them to be fulfilled, they by themselves cannot amount to an assertable expectation and a mere disappointment does not attract legal consequences. A pious hope even leading to a moral obligation cannot amount to a legitimate expectation. The legitimacy of an expectation can be inferred only if it is founded on the sanction of law or custom or an established procedure followed in regular and natural sequence. Again it is distinguishable from a genuine expectation. Such expectation should be justifiably legitimate and protectable. Every such legitimate expectation does not by itself fructify into a right and therefore it does not amount to a right in the conventional sense."
>
> 33. On examination of some of these important decisions it is generally agreed that legitimate expectation gives the applicant sufficient locus standi for judicial review and that the doctrine of legitimate expectation is to be confined mostly to right of a fair hearing before a decision which results in negativing a promise or withdrawing an undertaking is taken. The doctrine does not give scope to claim relief straightaway from the administrative authorities as no crystallised right as such is involved. The protection of such legitimate expectation does not require the fulfilment of the expectation where an overriding public interest requires otherwise. In other words where a person's legitimate expectation is not fulfilled by taking a particular decision then decision-maker should justify the denial of such expectation by showing some overriding public interest. Therefore even if substantive protection of such expectation is contemplated that does not grant an absolute right to a particular person. It simply ensures the circumstances in which that expectation may be denied or restricted. A case of legitimate expectation would arise when a body by representation or by past practice aroused expectation which it would be within its powers to fulfil. The protection is limited to that extent and a judicial review can be within those limits. But as discussed above a person who bases his claim on the doctrine of legitimate expectation, in the first instance, must satisfy that there is a foundation and thus has locus standi to make such a claim. In considering the same several factors which give rise to such legitimate expectation must be present. The decision taken by the authority must be found to be arbitrary, unreasonable and not taken in public interest. If it is a question of policy, even by way of change of old policy, the courts cannot interfere with a decision. In a given case whether there are such facts and circumstances giving rise to a legitimate expectation, it would primarily be a question of fact. If these tests are satisfied and if the court is satisfied that a case of legitimate expectation is made out then the next question would be whether failure to give an opportunity of hearing before the decision affecting such legitimate expectation is taken, has resulted in failure of justice and whether on that ground the decision should be quashed. If that be so then what should be the relief is again a matter which depends on several factors."

44. Reference may also be made to the decision of this Court in Punjab Communications Ltd. v. Union of India and Ors. (1999) 4 SCC 727, where this Court held that a change in policy can defeat a substantive legitimate expectation if it can be justified on "Wednesbury reasonableness." The choice of policy is for the decision-maker and not the Court. The legitimate substantive expectation merely permits the Court to find out if the change of policy which is the cause for defeating the legitimate expectation is irrational or perverse or one which no reasonable person could have made. A claim based merely on legitimate expectation without anything more cannot ipso facto give a right. Similarly in Dr.Chanchal Goyal (Mrs.) v. State of Rajasthan (2003) 3 SCC 485, this Court declined relief on the plea of legitimate expectation on the ground that the appellants had not shown as to how any act was done by the authorities which created an impression that the conditions attached to the original appointment order were waived. No legitimate expectation could be, declared this Court, claimed on such unfounded impression especially when it was not clear as to who and what authority had created any such impression. The decisions of this Court in Ram Pravesh Singh v. State of Bihar (2006) 8 SCC 381, Sethi Auto Service Station and Anr. v. Delhi Development Authority and Ors. (2009) 1 SCC 180, Confederation of Ex-servicemen Association v. Union of India (2006) 8 SCC 399, and State of Bihar and Ors. v. Kalyanpur Cements Ltd. (2010) 3 SCC 274, reiterate the legal position stated in the decisions earlier mentioned. In Monnet Ispat and Energy Ltd. v. Union of India and Ors. (2012) 11 SCC 1, this Court reviewed the case law on the subject and quoted with approval the following passage in Attorney General for New South Wales (1990) 64 Aus LJR 327:

> " To strike down the exercise of administrative power solely on the ground of avoiding the disappointment of the legitimate expectations of an individual would be set the courts adrift on a featureless sea of pragmatism. Moreover, the notion of a legitimate expectation (falling short of a legal right) is too nebulous to form a basis for invalidating the exercise of a power when its exercise otherwise accords law."

31. It would be evident from the aforesaid exposition of law that the doctrine of legitimate expectation cannot be applied in cases of invalid expectation. The expectation should be legitimate, that is, reasonable, logical and valid. Any expectation which is based on sporadic or casual or random acts, or which is unreasonable, illogical or invalid cannot be a legitimate expectation. For the application of doctrine of legitimate expectation, representation or promise should be made by an authority, a person unconnected with the authority, who had no previous dealing and who has not entered into any transactions or negotiations with the authority cannot invoke doctrine of legitimate expectation. Therefore, a person who bases his claim on the doctrine of legitimate expectation has to satisfy that he has relied on the said representation and the denial of that expectation has worked to his detriment. (See: State of Uttar Pradesh and others vs. United Bank of India and others (2016) 2 SCC 757).

32. It can further be discernible from the aforesaid exposition of law that a case of legitimate expectation would arise when a body representation or by past practice aroused expectation which it would be within the power to fulfill. The protection is limited to that extent and judicial review can be within those limits. However, a person who bases his claim on the doctrine of legitimate expectation, in the first instance, must satisfy that there is a foundation and thus has locus standi to make such a claim. In considering the same several factors which give rise to such legitimate expectation must be present. The decision taken by the authority must be found to be arbitrary, unreasonable and not taken in public interest. If it is a question of policy, even by change of old policy, the Courts cannot interfere with a decision. In a given case whether there are such facts and circumstances giving rise to a legitimate expectation, it would primarily be a question of fact. It is more than settled that where there is no promise, the doctrine of legitimate expectation does not apply.

33. Bearing in mind the aforesaid principles, it would noticed that there is practically no material placed by the petitioners on record, which may even remotely indicate that any promise was made or any assurance at any point of time was ever held out to them by respondent No. 1 that they would be continued to be given pay, perks, allowances, as envisaged in the earlier agreements (supra). Rather, the memorandum and guidelines issued by respondent No. 1 is by way of conscious decision as is clearly evident from its reply and it is more than settled that the scope of judicial review in such like cases is extremely limited more particularly when the petitioners themselves have not sought quashing of the memorandum and DPE guidelines issued on 26.11.2008 and 8.6.2009, respectively.

34. Moreover, it is not in dispute that even though the State Government has 25% share capital, still the SJVNL is a CPSE and therefore, in terms of clause 35A of the Memorandum of Association and Articles of Association, is bound by not only the guidelines issued by respondent No. 1, but even bound by the stipulations, notifications, circulars, instructions issued by any other department of the Government of India.

35. The petitioners were required to show and establish on record that they have a legal right to claim the pay, allowances and other benefits as envisaged in the so called agreements and further establish that despite the provisions contained in clause 35A of the Memorandum of Association and Articles of Association, memorandums issued on 26.11.2008 and thereafter on 8.6.2009 are not applicable to their cases.

36. The object of issuance of writ of mandamus is to compel performance of a legal duty. In Zonal Manager, Central Bank of India Vs. Devi Ispat Limited and others (2010) 11 SCC 186, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that mandamus can be issued by the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution, if a legal right exist and corresponding legal duty is liable to be performed by the State or its instrumentalities. It is apt to reproduce para 28 of the judgment, which reads thus:-

> "28. It is clear that (a) in the contract if there is a clause for arbitration, normally, a writ court should not invoke its jurisdiction; (b) the existence of effective alternative remedy provided in the contract itself is a good ground to decline to exercise its extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226; and (c) if the instrumentality of the State acts contrary to the public good, public interest, unfairly, unjustly, unreasonably discriminatory and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India in its contractual or statutory obligation, writ petition would be maintainable. However, a legal right must exist and corresponding legal duty on the part of the State and if any action on the part of the State is wholly unfair or arbitrary, writ courts can exercise their power. In the light of the legal position, writ petition is maintainable even in contractual matters, in the circumstances mentioned in the earlier paragraphs."

37. A mandamus will be issued to a person aggrieved who approaches the Court, if he makes out (i) existence of a legal right in him and a corresponding obligation on the respondent to perform a legal duty and (ii) refusal, either express or implied, by the respondent to perform such duty, in spite of a demand. It is therefore, for the petitioners to prove the existence of legal right in their favour, after all it is they who have prayed for the issuance of writ in the nature of mandamus and are bound to establish the existence of a legal right in their favour and a corresponding legal duty upon the respondents to desist from implementing the OMs dated 26.11.2008 and 8.6.2009.

38. The petitioners were further required to establish that despite clause 35A of the Memorandum of Association and Articles of Association of respondent No. 3, it was still obligated upon respondent No. 3 to have continued paying the pay and other allowances and their condition of service would continue to be governed in terms of the agreements, as already referred to herein above. Having failed to prove aforesaid, no relief can be granted to them.

39. Evidently, respondent No. 1 has not chosen to deviate from the mandate of the OMs issued by it on 26.11.2008 and 8.6.2009 and on the other hand the same have essentially to be followed by respondent No. 3 in terms of clause 35A of the Memorandum of Association and Articles of Association. Therefore, once respondent No. 1 has refused to relax the stipulation in the OMs in issue, the Court cannot compel the respondents to relax the condition of OMs as that would amount to compelling the authorities to commit an illegality. Giving effect to such plea would be prejudicial to the interest of law and will do incalculable mischief to public interest. It will be a negation of law and rule of law.

40. The principle, on which the whole argument of the petitioners is based, eludes to a situation where extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court is sought to be invoked for compelling the authority to commit illegality by issuing a prerogative writ on the specious plea of Article 14 of the Constitution of India claiming infringement right of equality by practicing irrational discrimination. Obviously, this Court cannot be made privy to pass an illegal or unwarranted order. The extraordinary and discretionary power of this Court cannot be exercised for such a purpose.

41. Now adverting to the plea of the petitioners that they have been discriminated against. No doubt, it is true that Article 14 of the Constitution embodies a guarantee against arbitrariness, but it does not assume uniformity in mis-conceptualized plea based on erroneous assumption of mandate of law. It is trite that guarantee of equality being a positive concept, cannot be enforced in a negative manner. Any direction for enforcement of such claim was only tantamount to perpetuating an illegality, which cannot be permitted. A claim based on equality clause has to be just and legal.

42. As a last ditch effort, learned counsel for the petitioners would vehemently argue that once the petitioners get less pay, perks and allowances than their counter parts, who are regular employees of respondent No. 3, then there is discrimination writ large. Even this contention cannot be accepted, as it is only after obtaining the consent of the petitioners that they were deputed to work with respondent No. 3 at the time when OM dated 26.11.2008 had already been issued by respondent No. 1. It is more than settle that there can be no deputation without the consent of the person, so deputed and he would, therefore, know his rights and privileges in the deputation post.

43. What is the deputation has been succinctly dealt with by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Punjab vs. Inder Singh and others (1997) 8, SCC 372, in the following terms:

> "18. Concept of "deputation" is well understood in service law and has a recognised meaning. 'Deputation' has a different connotation in service law and the dictionary meaning of the word 'deputation' is of no help. In simple words 'deputation' means service outside the cadre or outside the parent department. Deputation is deputing or transferring an employee to a post outside his cadre, that is to say, to another department on a temporary basis. After the expiry period of deputation the employee has to come back to his parent department to occupy the same position unless in the meanwhile he has earned promotion in his parent department as per Recruitment Rules. Whether the transfer is outside the normal field of deployment or not is decided by the authority who controls the service or post from which the employee is transferred. There can be no deputation without the consent of the person so deputed and he would, therefore, know his rights and privileges in the deputation post. The law on deputation and repatriation is quite settled as we have also seen in various judgments which we have referred to above. There is no escape for the respondents now to go back to their parent departments and working there as Constables or Head Constables as the case may be."

44. In service jurisprudence, deputation is resorted to in public interest to meet exigencies of public service. Deputation is a tripartite agreement as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Inder Singh's case (supra) based on voluntary consent of the principal employer to lend the services of his employee, which decision has to be accepted by the borrowing Department/employer and also involves consent of the employee.

45. In Gurinder Pal Singh and others vs. State of Punjab and others, 2005 (1) SLR, 629, a learned Division Bench of the Punjab and Haryana High Court observed that a deputation subsists so long as the parties to this tripartite arrangement do not abrogate it. However, if any one of the parties repudiate the agreement, the other two have no legally enforceable right to insist upon continuance of the deputation. It is apt to reproduce para 12 of the judgment which reads thus:

> "12. In service jurisprudence, "deputation" is described as an assignment of an employee of one department or cadre to another department or cadre. The necessity for sending on deputation arises in "public interest" to meet the exigencies of "public service". The concept of deputation is based upon consent and voluntary decision of the employer to lend the services of his employee, corresponding acceptance of such service by the borrowing employer and the consent of the employee to go on deputation. A deputation subsists so long as the parties to this tripartite arrangement do not abrogate it. However, if any one of the parties repudiate the agreement, the other two have no legally enforceable right to insist upon continuance of the deputation. Even in the cases where deputationists continue for a pretty long period and options for their "absorption" in the borrowing department were taken, yet their repatriation to the parent department was upheld by the Apex Court in Rattilal B. Soni vs. State of Gujarat, AIR 1990 SC 1132: [1991 (3) SLR 77 (SC)] after holding that "the appellants being on deputation, they could be repatriated to their parent cadre at any time and they do not get any right to be absorbed on the deputation post."
> "Deputation" per se being a contractually made ad hoc arrangement, seldom confers any right upon a deputationist, either for completion of the term of deputation or regularisation of such stop-gap arrangement. The judgments relied upon by the learned counsel for the College in this regard squarely answer the controversy."

46. Thus, there can be no gain saying that 'deputation' is the assignment of an employee of one Department/cadre to another Department /cadre and the deputation subsists so long as parties to tripartite agreement adhere to the same.

47. Once the petitioners were already aware of the OMs dated 26.11.2008 and 8.6.2009 and were fully aware of their rights and privileges in the deputation post and despite that still chose to proceed on deputation with respondent No. 3, then they have no one to blame for their folly apart from themselves. The petitioners cannot claim a higher right than they are entitled to in law.

48. In view of the aforesaid discussion, there is no merit in this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed. Consequently, the petitioners are directed to refund the excess amount together with the prevailing bank interest in terms of orders passed by learned Division Bench of this Court on 29.12.2010.

With these observations the petition stands disposed of, so also the pending application(s), if any.

She was able to understand the questions and thereafter she gave answers to the questions. She denied the suggestion that nothing illegal was committed with her by the accused. She denied that she was sexually assaulted by Dutt. She denied that she had been tutored by her grandmother and Uncle to make false statement. She has narrated the incident to her Uncle about the illegal act committed by the accused.

7. PW-2 Roshani Devi testified that PW-1 prosecutrix was her granddaughter. On 12.6.2014, victim had gone to school at 8:30 AM. Her son Ramesh Kumar had gone for labour work at about 9:40 AM. According to her, human semen was detected on Ext. 4-A shirt of the victim and blood was also detected in the traces of vaginal swab of the victim. Her final opinion was that sexual intercourse was committed in the last 24 hours from the date of her first clinical examination.

13. PW-13 Satish Kumar deposed that he was Up Pradhan of Sarskan. He remained associated in the investigation of this case on 13.6.2014. In his presence, victim identified the place vide memo Ext. PW-13/A. Two contraceptives and one wrapper were found on the spot. Those were taken into possession and kept in Cigarette boxes and were sealed with seal "Q". He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. However, he admitted his signatures on Ext. PW-13/B.

The disability was found to be 75% qua intellectual impairment. The victim was suffering from mental retardation. He admitted that such type of patients could be tutored easily. In his cross-examination, he admitted that victim was not totally mentally retarded but was of low mental I.Q. She could understand if something has happened with her. She could also easily identify the persons who were familiar with her and also about their act and conduct.

18. PW-1 prosecutrix, in her statement, has categorically deposed that the accused had committed forcible sexual intercourse with her. The statement of PW-1 prosecutrix was also recorded vide Ext. PW-1/B. It is true that as per the statement of DW-2 Dr. P.L. Verma, the prosecutrix was found to be 75% intellectually impaired. However, in his cross-examination, he admitted that victim was not totally mentally retarded but was of low mental I.Q. She could understand if something happened with her. Initially, the prosecutrix has deposed that she was tutored but later on, upon a Court question put to her, she has categorically deposed that she was making the statement of her own and no one had tutored her to make the statement.

19. An application was filed before the learned ACJM, Sarkaghat vide Ext. PW-20/H for recording the statement of the prosecutrix under Section 164(5) on 16.6.2014. It was assigned to learned Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 2 Sarkaghat on 4.7.2014. Thereafter, the statement of the prosecutrix was recorded by the learned Judicial Magistrate after satisfying himself that the prosecutrix wanted to depose without any pressure and coercion from any person and understood the sanctity on oath. The learned Judicial Magistrate has also certified that the child produced before him with her grandmother was making statement voluntarily without any pressure. The statement was recorded by the learned Judicial Magistrate in his own hand writing. The contents of the statement were read over to the prosecutrix. The prosecutrix in her statement recorded vide Ext. PW-1/B by the learned Judicial Magistrate has categorically stated that she was going to the school and the accused committed an illegal act with her. She narrated the incident to her Uncle and her grandmother.

20. According to Section 164 (5A) (b), the statement recorded under clause (a) of a person, who is temporarily or permanently mentally or physically disabled, is to be considered a statement in lieu of examination-in-chief, as specified in Section 137 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1987 such that the maker of the statement can be cross-examined on such statement, without the need for recording the same at the time of trial. Since the prosecutrix was found to be intelligent enough to get her statement recorded before the Court under Section 164 Cr.P.C., the assistance of interpreter was not required.

21. The date of birth of the prosecutrix was 13.5.2001, as per certificates Ext. PW-6/B and PW-6/C. The statement of the prosecutrix is duly corroborated by her Uncle PW-4 Rakesh Kumar who has seen the prosecutrix coming out of the bushes. The prosecutrix has told him that the accused had taken her behind the bushes and committed sexual intercourse with her. Thereafter, PW-4 Rakesh Kumar called his mother and disclosed everything to her and FIR was lodged.

22. The prosecutrix has been medically examined by PW-12 Dr. Lata Chandel. She issued MLC Ext. PW-12/B. According to her final opinion also, the victim was sexually assaulted. She noticed human semen on Ext. 4-A, shirt of the victim and blood was detected in the traces of vaginal swab of the victim. The blood samples of the prosecutrix and accused were taken. These were sent to FSL. According to report Ext. PX, the accused was having blood group “O” and victim was having blood group “A”.

23. According to the report Ext. PW-18/A, DNA profile pertaining to male was obtained from Ext.-1a (shirt of prosecutrix) and profile matched completely with the DNA profile obtained from Ext.-4a (blood sample on FTA Card of accused). The DNA profile obtained from Ext.-3 (pants of accused) matched completely with the DNA profile obtained from Ext.-4a (blood sample on FTA card of accused). The report Ext. PW-18/A further corroborates the statement of the prosecutrix. The statement of prosecutrix has been corroborated by PW-4 Rakesh Kumar and PW-12 Dr. Lata Chandel.

24. The case property remained in safe custody from its seizure till its production at the FSL. The prosecutrix has no enmity with the accused. The prosecution has duly proved that the accused committed aggravated penetrative sexual assault upon the prosecutrix at 8:30 AM at village Saraskan near temple. The prosecution has thus proved the case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt and there is no occasion for us to interfere with the well reasoned judgment/order of the learned trial Court dated 17/18.2.2016.

25. Accordingly, there is no merit in this appeal and the same is dismissed.

For the appellant. : Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.
For respondents No.1,2&4. : Mr. Neel Kamal Sharma, Advocate.
Remaining respondents. : Ex parte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.

By way of this appeal, the appellant has challenged the judgment and decree dated 3.11.2004 passed by the Court of learned Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi in Civil Appeal No. 93/1999, 62/2004 whereby the learned appellate court has set aside the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Sub Judge 1st Class, Court No.1, Mandi in Civil Suit No. 109/98(93) dated 17.5.1999.

2. This appeal was admitted on 22.8.2005, on the following substantial questions of law:-

> "1. Whether there is total misreading of documents Ext.PA, Ext.PB, Ext. PC, Ext.P1, Ext.P2, Ext.P3 and Ext.P4 on the part of the ld. first appellate court who has misinterpreted and misconstrued the documents, which has caused miscarriage and failure of justice to the appellant?
>
> 2. Whether the document Ext. PA mutation No. 76 dated 30.7.1975 has been attested in violation of the mandatory provisions and rules of H.P. Land Reforms and Tenancy Act, which has caused great miscarriage of justice to the appellant?
>
> 3. Whether the ld. first appellate court is not right in holding that the appellant/plaintiff has to initiate proceedings of partition of the land of his share instead of placing this onus upon the defendants 1 and 2 Uttam Chand and Naginder Pal who are stranger and has purchased land from defendant No.3 Kanshi Ram?
>
> 4. Whether the judgment and decree of the ld. first appellate court is perverse because the ld. appellate court has traveled beyond the scope of record especially documentary evidence which has materially prejudiced the case of the appellant/plaintiff as there is non-application of mind by the ld. first appellate court in appreciating the revenue record?

3. However, at the stage of arguments Mr. G.R. Palsra, learned counsel for the appellant has confined his arguments to substantial question of law framed at Sr. No.2.

4. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of this case are that plaintiff filed a suit for declaration and injunction as consequential relief on the ground that the suit land measuring 20-1-5 bighas, situated in Muhal Gadhiman/123, Pargana Sidhpur, Tehsil Chachiot, District

Mandi was recorded in the ownership of defendant No.4 to the extent of 4 shares and proforma defendant No.5 and one Sawanu son of Sh. Hukamia predecessor-in-interest of plaintiff are in exclusive possession of their 1/5th share in the land and rest of the shares i.e. 3/5th shares was under the occupancy tenancy of proforma defendant No.6 to 9. It was further his case that defendant No.3 and plaintiff are occupancy tenant of 1/5th shares along with his brother Lalman proforma defendant No.7 who had succeeded the occupancy tenancy from his father Kishan son of Harji. As per the plaintiff, the predecessor-in-interest of plaintiff and proforma defendant No.5 never inducted any occupancy tenancy over the share rather both of them remained as owner in possession of their respective shares. His further case was that mutation No. 76 sanctioned on 30.7.1975 under Section 94 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act vide which the proprietary rights were conferred was illegal, wrong and unwarranted in the eyes of law. It was further stated that the said mutation was against procedural law and it was illegal and AC 2nd Grande had not adopted any lawful procedure while sanctioning the said mutation. Further as per the plaintiff the effect of the said illegal mutation was that the share of the plaintiff and proforma defendants were diminished which was not sustainable in the eyes of law. The case of the plaintiff was contested by defendants who, inter alia, stated that the suit in fact was not maintainable and mutation which was under challenge in the suit was attested in the year 1975 which was never challenged by the plaintiff and same cannot be challenged in a civil suit. It was also the case of the defendant that consolidation operation had taken place in the village and orders had been passed by the competent court and partition also stood affirmed and therefore also the suit was barred by limitation.

5. On the basis of pleadings of the parties the learned trial court framed the following issues:-

> "1. Whether mutation No. 76 dated 30.7.1975 has been wrongly sanctioned in favour of the defendants conferring the proprietary rights and has acquitted to sanction 3/5 share of the suit land, as alleged ? OPP.
>
> 2. Whether the total share of the plaintiff and proforma defendant No.7 comes to 1/5 share measuring 4-0-5 bighas as alleged ? OPP
>
> 3. Whether this Court has no jurisdiction to entertain and try the present suit? OPD.
>
> 4. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD
>
> 5. Whether the suit is not properly valued for court fee and jurisdiction? OPD.
>
> 6. Whether the suit is barred by the principle of resjudicate? OPD.
>
> 7. Whether the suit is barred under Order 2 Rule 2 CPC? OPD.
>
> 8. Whether the sale of suit land by Sh. Kanshi Ram to defendant No.1 and 2 is wrong and illegal and not binding upon the plaintiff? OPP.
>
> 9. Whether the suit land has been partitioned during the consolidation proceedings , as alleged? OPD.
>
> 10. Relief."

6. On the basis of material produced on record by the respective parties, the learned trial court returned the following findings on the said issues:-

> "Issue No.1 : Yes.
> Issue No.2 : Yes.
> Issue No.3 : No.
> Issue No.4 : No.
> Issue No.5 : No.
> Issue No.6 : No.
> Issue No.7. : No.
> Issue No.8 : Yes.

Issue No.9 : No.
Relief : The suit of the plaintiff is decreed as per operative of the judgment."

7. Accordingly, the learned trial court decreed the suit of the plaintiff by holding that the mutation under challenge made a mention that defendants had been conferred proprietary rights and had acquired 3/5th share of the suit land which entries were clearly against the earlier revenue entries and moreover the entries made subsequently were not in accordance with the earlier revenue record and no explanation and reasoning was given as to how revenue entries stood changed automatically in Ext. PA copy of Mutation No.76 dated 30.7.1975. On these bases, the learned trial court held that the mutation conferring 3/5th share in favour of defendant was wrong, illegal and null and void. It further held that title and share of plaintiff and proforma defendants comes to 1/5th which had not been challenged at any time before any forum. The suit of the plaintiff was accordingly decreed in the following terms:-

> "It is ordered that the suit of the plaintiff is decreed. It is declared that Sawanu S/o Sh. Hukmia and proforma defendant No.5 has not inducted any occupancy tenant over the suit land and the shares of the plaintiff and proforma defendant No.7 has wrongly diminished in the suit land which is quite illegal, wrong and defendant No.1 and 2 are restrained from causing unlawful interference over the same and it is further ordered that there is no order as to costs."

8. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment by the learned trial court, the defendants therein filed an appeal which was accepted by the learned appellate court vide its judgment dated 3.11.2004. The learned appellate court held that mutation No. 76 dated 30.7.1975 cannot be set aside after the period of 18 years from the date of the attestation of the mutation and because the plea of the plaintiff was found to be barred by limitation, the entries in the revenue record defining the shares of the parties to the suit land on the basis of mutation No. 76 dated 30.7.1975 cannot be held to be illegal. It further held that the findings returned by the learned trial court to the effect that shares of the plaintiff and proforma defendant No. 7 in the suit land have been wrongly diminished were erroneous and the same cannot be sustained in the eyes of law. It further held that in view of the admission of plaintiff that in consolidation operation suit land has been divided amongst various co-sharers, it could be safely held to have been established on record and therefore, no relief of injunction could have been granted in favour of the plaintiff and against defendants No.1 and 2. On these bases, the learned appellate court set aside the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial court.

9. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as judgment passed by both the learned Courts below.

10. Mr. Palsra has argued that the Mutation No. 76 dated 30.7.1975 was per se bad in law and void-ab-initio because the same in fact was attested by AC 2nd Grade as was evident from a perusal of Ext. PA whereas the said officer had no authority in law to attest such mutation. Mr. Palsra has further argued that the said mutation was otherwise also not sustainable in the eyes of law as the same had been passed in the absence of either of the parties. The factum of the said mutation having been entered in the absence of either of the parties and its having been attested by AC 2nd Grade could not be denied by the learned counsel for the respondent. However, Mr. Neel Kamal Sharma, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that the suit land was not part of the land which was subject matter of mutation No. 76.

11. It has been held by this Court in Tara Chand Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others, 2007 (1) Latest HLJ (HP) 122 that Section 93 of the HP Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, provides therein that for the purposes of Chapter X of the said Act, the State Government shall appoint the Revenue Officer of the rank of Assistant Collector 2nd Grade. It has been further held that Section 104 of the Act read with Rule 27 to 29 deal with the conferment of the proprietary rights on the non-occupancy tenants, attestation of mutations and settlement of disputes etc. Vide notification dated 20.5.1975 all the Tehsildar have been appointed as the Land Reforms Officers and all the Land Reforms Officers are A.C. 1st Grade., Chapter–X of the Act falls within the scope and jurisdiction of the Land Reforms Officer who is also Assistant Collector 1st Grade, whether it relates to the attestation of mutation of proprietary rights or settling the disputes inter se the landlord and the tenant. Therefore, AC 2nd Grade is neither competent to attest the mutation nor settle their dispute. Accordingly, this Court has held that AC 2nd Grade does not has any jurisdiction to deal with the cases of mutation.

12. It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ajudh Raj and others Vs. Moti, 1991(1) S.L.J. 659 that for deciding the question of limitation, if order impugned in the suit is such that it has to be set aside before any relief can be granted to the plaintiff, the provisions of Article 100 will be attracted and if no particular Article of the Limitation Act is applicable the suit must be governed by the residuary Article 113, prescribing a period of three years. It has further held that in the suit for title to an immovable property which has been the subject matter of a proceeding under a Special Act if an adverse order comes in the way of the success of the plaintiff, he must get it cleared before proceeding further. It has been further held that on the other hand if the order has been passed without jurisdiction, the same can be ignored as nullity, that is, non-existent in the eye of law and it is not necessary to set it aside; and such a suit will be covered by Article 65.

13. In my considered view there is merit in the contention raised by Mr. Palsra to the effect that Mutation No. 76 dated 30.7.1975 was per se bad in law and void-ab-initio as the same was attested by an authority who in law could not have attested the said mutation. It is apparent from the ratio of the judgments cited above that AC 2nd Grade is neither competent to attest the mutation nor settle the dispute inter se landlord and the tenant. This very important aspect of the matter has not been appreciated by the learned appellate court while reversing the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial court. As far as the factum of AC 2nd Grade not being competent to attest the mutation in issue is concerned, the same could not be disputed by the learned counsel for the respondent. However, he argued that the suit land was not part of that land which was subject matter of Mutation No. 76. On these bases, he submitted that even if this Court comes to the conclusion that Mutation No. 76 dated 30.7.1975 was bad in law and void-ab-initio even then there was no merit in the present appeal because the suit land in fact was not part of the land which was subject matter of Mutation No. 76. This contention of learned counsel for the respondent has been refuted by Mr. Palsra who has drawn the attention of this Court towards the relevant record from which it is clear that the suit land was in fact part of the land which was subject matter of Mutation No. 76.

In view of my findings returned above substantial question of law as to whether document Ext. PA, Mutation No. 76, dated 30.7.1975 was attested in violation of the mandatory provisions and Rules of H.P. Land Reforms and Tenancy Act is answered accordingly in the affirmative. The learned appellate court while adjudicating upon the issue of limitation has not taken into consideration the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ajudh Raj and others Vs. Moti (Supra) and therefore, the judgment and decree passed by the learned appellate court is not sustainable in law. Though other substantial questions of law on which the present appeal was admitted were not argued on behalf of the appellant, however, keeping in view the findings which have been returned by this Court on substantial question of Law No.2 and the fact that this Court has set aside the judgment and decree passed by the learned appellate court, there is no occasion now for this Court to enter upon the other substantial questions of law. Accordingly the present appeal is allowed with costs and judgment and decree passed by the learned appellate court is set aside.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.

By way of present appeal, the appellant has assailed the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Addl. District Judge-I, Kangra at Dharamshala in Civil Appeal No. 114-D/2002, vide which judgment the learned appellate court has upheld the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Senior Sub Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala in Civil Suit No. 320 of 1993 dated 26.7.2002 vide which the suit of the plaintiff therein was dismissed.

2. This appeal was admitted on 3.6.2005, on the following substantial question of law:-

> "Whether a 'Will' can be termed as genuine and free from suspicion if it contains a factually incorrect and false recitation as its contents?

3. Facts in brief necessary for adjudication of the present case are that the predecessor-in-interest of present appellant i.e. plaintiff Onkar Singh filed a suit for declaration to the effect that 'Will' dated 20.4.1992 said to be executed by late Salo Ram was fraud, fictitious, fabricated and was an act of undue influence, coercion and misrepresentation and was liable to be cancelled and 'Will' dated 29.6.1987 executed by late Salo Ram was genuine, natural and binding on parties in suit to inherit the suit property and further that the parties were governed by agricultural customs in the matters of alienation of the property which prohibits alienation of ancestral property without consent of the near reversioner and as such all legal heirs of deceased Salo Ram are entitled to inherit his property as per customs with consequential relief of permanent injunction restraining defendants No.1 to 3 from interfering in the peaceful ownership and possession of plaintiff to the extent of his share in the property of deceased Salo Ram. It was stated in the suit that deceased Salo Ram was the father of plaintiff, defendants No. 2 3, 5 to 9 and husband of defendants No.1 and 4. He owned land situated in Mauza Nerti, Tehsil and District Kangra and this entire land was ancestral property. Salo Ram was an old man and unable to work in the fields and was also suffering from Asthma. The entire agricultural land of deceased Salo Ram was in possession of plaintiff being the eldest son, though deceased Salo Ram during his lifetime had distributed his entire land to his three sons and two wives in the year 1986. It was further stated in the suit that deceased Salo Ram executed a 'Will' dated 29.6.1987 which was duly registered 'Will' executed in presence of persons of the locality and by way of said 'Will', deceased Salo Ram executed property in favour of his three sons and two wives. After the death of his father, plaintiff enquired from local Patwari how to bring the legal heirs of deceased on record, on which he was told by Patwari that his step-mother (defendant No.1) had produced a 'Will' dated 20.4.1992 for mutation in her name. As per the plaintiff it was on this occasion when he first time came to know about the 'Will' dated 20.4.1992. Thereafter he applied for copy of said 'Will' before Registrar, Dharamshala and after he obtained the same, he came to know about the contents of the 'Will'. As per him the 'Will' was a false 'Will' and was a result of fraud, undue influence, coercion, misrepresentation because Salo Ram was an old person suffering Asthma and was unable to move and to understand the things properly. It was further averred that there was no witness from the locality or from the surrounding area who could identify the executant and as such the same was result of fraud, misrepresentation and undue influence. It was further averred that on the basis of the said 'Will' the defendants were trying to grab the entire property of deceased including the agricultural land which was in possession of the plaintiff. According to the plaintiff, he was entitled to inherit the property of deceased to the extent of his share on the basis of 'Will' dated 29.6.1987 which was a genuine and natural 'Will' executed by Salo Ram. Thus it was on these bases the suit was filed by the plaintiff.

4. There are three written statements on record. One written statement has been filed by defendants No.1 to 3. There is another written statement which was filed on behalf of defendant No.4 and there is third written statement along with counter claim which has been filed by defendants No. 5 to 9. Defendants No.1 to 3 denied the claim of plaintiff and stated that deceased had gifted away major portion of his landed property in the name of all his three sons who were in possession of their respective shares since the lifetime of deceased. According to them, deceased owned land in addition to the land situated in Mauza Nerti, Tehsil and District Kangra and deceased was fully competent to deal with his property as absolute owner and the property in question was not ancestral. It was further averred that replying defendants No. 1 to 3 along with plaintiff and defendant No.4 were helping Salo Ram in the cultivation of landed property during his lifetime. It was further averred that 'Will' dated 20.4.1992 was a genuine 'Will' and was binding on the legal heirs of deceased including the plaintiff. According to replying defendants, the deceased Salo Ram was full owner of the property and no agricultural custom could have estopped him in the matter of alienation. It was further stated that the 'Will' was duly witnessed by the witnesses and the executant was also duly identified, therefore, on these bases the claim of the plaintiff was disputed and denied.

5. Defendant No.4 (real mother of plaintiff) in her written statement stated that defendant No.1 was not legally wedded wife of deceased Salo Ram. It was further averred by said defendant that the suit land was ancestral and has to be inherited by plaintiff and defendants along with defendants No. 5 to 9 and the customs prevailing between the parties. Defendants No. 5 to 9 also partially supported the case of plaintiff and stated that property being ancestral and replying defendants being Class-I legal heirs were also entitled to inherit it as per the provision of Hindu Succession Act and deceased had never sought their consent before execution of the 'Will' in favour of plaintiff and any other person. They denied the factum of any 'Will' having been executed by Salo Ram either in favour of plaintiff or in favour of defendants.

6. On the basis of pleadings of the parties and material placed on record, the learned Trial Court framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether the 'Will' dated 29.6.1987 executed by late Shri Salo Ram is genuine and is binding upon the parties to the suit ? OPP.

2. Whether the suit land is ancestral and the parties are governed by the agricultural custom of Kangra District in the matters of alienation, if so its effect ? OPP.

3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to joint possession, as alleged ? OPP.

4. Whether the 'Will' dated 20.4.1992 executed by late Shri Salo Ram is genuine, if so its effect ? OPD-1 to 3.

5. Whether deceased Salo Ram has gifted away a major portion of his landed property in the names of his three sons and they are in cultivating possession of their respective shares, as alleged, if so its effect ? OPD-1 to 3.

6. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act and conduct and acquiescence from filing the present suit ? OPD-1 to 3.

7. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action against defendants? OPD-1 to 3.

8. Whether defendant No.1 is not legally wedded wife of late Sh. Salo Ram Ram, if so its effect ? OPD-4.

9. Whether the defendants 1 to 3 are not the legal representatives of deceased Salo Ram, if so, its effect ? OPD-4.

10. Whether the defendants 5 to 9 are entitled to get their shares in the suit land as per custom being Class-I legal heirs as alleged? OPD-5 to 9.

11. Relief."

7. The learned Trial Court returned the following findings on the said issues:-

"Issue No.1 :No.

Issue No.2 :No.

Issue No.3 :No.

Issue No.4 :Yes.

Issue No.5 :Yes.

Issue No.6 :No.

Issue No.7 :Yes.

Issue No.8 :No.

Issue No.9 :No.

Issue No.10 :No.

Relief :The suit dismissed as per operative part of the judgment."

8. The learned trial court dismissed the suit by holding that 'Will' dated 20.4.1992 executed by late Salo Ram was a genuine 'Will'. The learned trial court held that in view of the facts pleaded and the evidence led, though it stood proved that deceased Salo Ram had executed 'Will' dated 29.6.1987, however, the same was superseded by executing another 'Will' dated 20.4.1992. 'Will' dated 20.4.1992 was duly registered in the office of Sub Registrar as was evident from the deposition of Registration Clerk DW1 Sukhdev. DW2, B.K. Sood, Advocate had stated that 'Will' Ext. DW2/A was written in the handwritings of his father-in-law, Sh. Angat Ram Sood, Document Writer, Dharamshala and he had also produced copy of Register Ext. DW2/C which was maintained by his father-in-law. The learned trial court further held that S.S. Karki and S.K. Shashtri had entered into the witness box as DW3 and DW4 who were the attesting witnesses of 'Will' Ext. DW2/A. Both these witnesses in unison stated that the 'Will' was scribed by Sh. Angat Ram Sood, Document Writer on 20.4.1992 on the instructions of Salo Ram and thereafter the same was read over and explained to Salo Ram and after admitting the same to be correct, he appended his thumb impression on 'Will' Ext. DW2/A in their presence. The learned trial court also held that defendant No.1, Malkan Devi who entered into the witness box as DW5 had deposed that her husband was physically and mentally sound in the year 1992. She had further stated that plaintiff had also given 1/3rd share in the residential house and one room of cattle shed by Salo Ram as per 'Will' Ext. DW2/A. This witness also stated that second wife, Smt. Phulan Devi was getting family pension of Salo Ram and her husband Salo Ram had also gifted major portion of property in favour of his three sons during his lifetime and the sons were in possession of the landed property. DW6 Ram Singh also categorically stated that Salo Ram had two wives and his wife Smt. Phulan Devi was getting family pension, whereas there was no provision for maintenance of defendant No.1, therefore, deceased Salo Ram executed 'Will' dated 20.4.1992 in favour of defendant No.1. He also deposed that 'Will' dated 20.4.1992 was also in favour of plaintiff as he was also given 1/3rd share in the residential house and one room in the cattle shed.

9. On these bases, the learned trial court concluded that not only 'Will' Ext. DW2/A was a legal and genuine 'Will', it also stood proved from the statements of witnesses on record that at the time of execution of said 'Will' its testator was mentally sound. Therefore, on the said basis, the learned trial court concluded that 'Will' dated 20.4.1992 Ext. DW2/A was a genuine 'Will' and it accordingly dismissed the suit of the plaintiff.

10. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by the learned trial court the plaintiff filed an appeal which was dismissed by the learned appellate court, vide judgment and decree dated 5.11.2003. The learned appellate court upheld the findings returned by the learned trial court. It was held by the learned appellate court that as far as execution of earlier 'Will' Ext. PW1/A dated 29.6.1987 the same was not seriously disputed by the defendants. However, as per the learned appellate court it also stood proved on record that Ext. DW2/A was the last 'Will' executed by testator Salo Ram which was dated 20.4.1992. It further held that a perusal of 'Will' Ext. DW2/A demonstrates that Salo Ram had not exclusively executed the 'Will' in favour of defendant No.1 but had also given 1/3rd share in the house and one room in the cattle shed to the appellant. It further held that there was no material on record from where it could be deduced that there was some suspicious circumstance attending the execution of second 'Will' Ext. DW2/A and on these bases it held that 'Will' dated 20.4.1992 was validly executed 'Will'. Learned appellate court also held that the appellant had failed to prove that 'Will' dated 29.6.1987 was the only genuine 'Will' executed by Salo Ram and it further held that in fact the appellant had suppressed the fact that in the subsequent 'Will' which was executed by his father, he had been given share in the residential house and cattle shed. On these bases, the learned appellate court dismissed the appeal and upheld the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial court.

11. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgments and decrees passed by both the learned courts below the appellant filed the present appeal.

12. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as judgments passed by both the courts below.

13. Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act clearly laws down that every testator shall execute his Will according to the following rules:-

(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.

(b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a will.

(c) The will shall he attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary.

14. In the present case the scribe of the 'Will' was Sh. Angat Ram Sood who was since died. His son-in-law B.K. Sood, entered into the witness box as DW2 who was an Advocate by profession. He stated that document writer Sh. Angat Ram Sood was his father-in-law who had since died and the record of Angat Ram Sood was in his possession. He also deposed that he was very well acquainted with the signatures of Angat Ram Sood. He identified the signatures of Angat Ram Sood on 'Will' Ext. DW2/A as the scribe of the 'Will'. He also produced on record the register maintained by his father-in-law, in which factum of his having scribed the 'Will' was recorded. A perusal of his cross-examination reveals that the trustworthiness of the statement of this witness could not be impinged by the plaintiff. Similarly, S.S. Karki entered into the witness box as DW3 and deposed that 'Will' Ext. DW2/A dated 20.4.1992 was scribed by Angat Ram Sood which was signed by him as an attesting witness. He has clearly stated that the 'Will' was scribed on the asking of Salo Ram by Sh. Angat Ram Sood. He also deposed that the 'Will' was written in his presence and in the presence of Sh. S.K. Shastri both Advocates and the testator was in his senses and was mentally stable when he got the 'Will' scribed. He has further stated that testator had appended his thumb impression on the 'Will' in his presence and that the 'Will' was read over and after accepting the contents therein to be correct he (testator) appended his thumb impression. Similarly, DW4 S.K. Shastri has also deposed that the 'Will' was scribed by Sh. Angat Ram Sood on the asking of the testator who appended his signature upon the 'Will' in his presence after the 'Will' was read over to him. He has also deposed that he has signed the 'Will' as an attesting witness and the same was registered with the Registrar in his presence. A perusal of cross-examination of both the witnesses reveals that the plaintiff could not impinge the credibility or trustworthiness of both these witnesses. DW1, Malkan Devi has entered into the witness box as DW5 and has deposed that vide 'Will' dated 20.4.1992 plaintiff had been given 1/3rd share in the residential house and one room of cattle shed. She has also categorically stated that at the time when the 'Will' was executed the testator was in a good mental condition and he was in a position to understand what was good for him and what was bad for him. To same effect is the deposition of Ram Singh who has also categorically stated that at the time when the 'Will' in issue was executed by testator he was in a good mental condition.

15. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pentakota Satyanarayana and others Vs. Pentakota Seetharatnam and others, (2005) 8 Supreme Court Cases 67 has held that though the initial onus to prove the 'Will' is on the propounder of the 'Will' but thereafter it shifts to the party alleging undue influence or coercion in execution of the 'Will'.

16. In my considered view in the present case the appellant has not brought any material on record from where it could establish that 'Will' Ext. DW2/A was not a valid 'Will' but was a result of either a fraud or misrepresentation of undue influence exercised by the propounder of the 'Will' on its testator.

17. It has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in H. Venkatachala Iyengar Vs. B.N. Thimmajamma and others, AIR 1959 Supreme Court 443 as under:-

> "21. Apart from the suspicious circumstances to which we have just referred in some cases the wills propounded disclose another infirmity. Propounders themselves take a prominent part in the execution of the wills which confer on them substantial benefits. If it is shown that the propounder has taken a prominent part in the execution of the will and has received substantial benefit under it, that itself is generally treated as a suspicious circumstance attending the execution of the will and the propounder is required to remove the said suspicion by clear and satisfactory evidence. It is in connection with wills that present such suspicious circumstances that decisions of English Courts often mention the test of the satisfaction of judicial conscience. It may be that the reference to judicial conscience in this connection is a heritage from similar observations made by ecclesiastical Courts in England when they exercised jurisdiction with reference to wills; but any objection to the use of the word 'conscience' in this context would, in our opinion, be purely technical and academic, if not pedantic. The test merely emphasizes that, in determining the question as to whether an instrument produced before the Court is the last will of the testator, the Court is deciding a solemn question and it must be fully satisfied that it had been validly executed by the testator who is no longer alive."

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mahesh Kumar (dead) by LRs Vs. Vinod Kumar and others (2012) 4 Supreme Court Cases 387, has recapitulated the said legal position and relevant paras of the said judgment are quoted herein below:-

28. In one of the earliest judgments in H. Venkatachala Iyengar v. B. N. Thimmajamma , the three Judge Bench noticed the provisions of Sections 45, 47, 67 and 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 and Sections 59 and 63 of the 1925 Act and observed: (AIR pp. 451-52, paras 18-21)

"18. ……….. Section 63 requires that the testator shall sign or affix his mark to the will or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction and that the signature or mark shall be so made that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a will. This section also requires that the will shall be attested by two or more witnesses as prescribed. Thus the question as to whether the will set up by the propounder is proved to be the last will of the testator has to be decided in the light of these provisions. Has the testator signed the will? Did he understand the nature and effect of the dispositions in the will? Did he put his signature to the will knowing what it contained? Stated broadly it is the decision of these questions which determines the nature of the finding on the question of the proof of wills. It would prima facie be true to say that the will has to be proved like any other document except as to the special requirements of attestation prescribed by Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act. As in the case of proof of other documents so in the case of proof of wills it would be idle to expect proof with mathematical certainty. The test to be applied would be the usual test of the satisfaction of the prudent mind in such matters.

19. However, there is one important feature which distinguishes wills from other documents. Unlike other documents the will speaks from the death of the testator, and so, when it is propounded or produced before a court, the testator who has already departed the world cannot say whether it is his will or not; and this aspect naturally introduces an element of solemnity in the decision of the question as to whether the document propounded is proved to be the last will and testament of the departed testator. Even so, in dealing with the proof of wills the court will start on the same enquiry as in the case of the proof of documents. The propounder would be called upon to show by satisfactory evidence that the will was signed by the testator, that the testator at the relevant time was in a sound and disposing state of mind, that he understood the nature and effect of the dispositions and put his signature to the document of his own free will. Ordinarily when the evidence adduced in support of the will is disinterested, satisfactory and sufficient to prove the sound and disposing state of the testator's mind and his signature as required by law, courts would be justified in making a finding in favour of the propounder. In other words, the onus on the propounder can be taken to be discharged on proof of the essential facts just indicated.

20. There may, however, be cases in which the execution of the will may be surrounded by suspicious circumstances. The alleged signature of the testator may be very shaky and doubtful and evidence in support of the propounder's case that the signature, in question is the signature of the testator may not remove the doubt created by the appearance of the signature; the condition of the testator's mind may appear to be very feeble and debilitated; and evidence adduced may not succeed in removing the legitimate doubt as to the mental capacity of the testator; the dispositions made in the will may appear to be unnatural, improbable or unfair in the light of relevant circumstances; or, the will may otherwise indicate that the said dispositions may not be the result of the testator's free will and mind. In such cases the court would naturally expect that all legitimate suspicions should be completely removed before the document is accepted as the last will of the testator. The presence of such suspicious circumstances naturally tends to make the initial onus very heavy; and, unless it is satisfactorily discharged, courts would be reluctant to treat the document as the last will of the testator. It is true that, if a caveat is filed alleging the exercise of undue influence, fraud or coercion in respect of the execution of the will propounded, such pleas may have to be proved by the caveators; but, even without such pleas circumstances may raise a doubt as to whether the testator was acting of his own free will in executing the will, and in such circumstances, it would be a part of the initial onus to remove any such legitimate doubts in the matter.

21. Apart from the suspicious circumstances to which we have just referred, in some cases the wills propounded disclose another infirmity. Propounders themselves take a prominent part in the execution of the wills which confer on them substantial benefits. If it is shown that the propounder has taken a prominent part in the execution of the will and has received substantial benefit under it, that itself is generally treated as a suspicious circumstance attending the execution of the will and the propounder is required to remove the said suspicion by clear and satisfactory evidence. It is in connection with wills that present such suspicious circumstances that decisions of English courts often mention the test of the satisfaction of judicial conscience. It may be that the reference to judicial conscience in this connection is a heritage from similar observations made by ecclesiastical courts in England when they exercised jurisdiction with reference to wills; but any objection to the use of the word "conscience" in this context would, in our opinion, be purely technical and academic, if not pedantic. The test merely emphasizes that, in determining the question as to whether an instrument produced before the court is the last will of the testator, the court is deciding a solemn question and it must be fully satisfied that it had been validly executed by the testator who is no longer alive." (emphasis supplied)

29. The ratio of H. Venkatachala Iyengar's case was relied upon or referred to in Rani Purnima Devi v. Kumar Khagendra Narayan Deb , Shashi Kumar Banerjee v. Subodh Kumar Banerjee, Surendra Pal v. Saraswati Arora, Seth Beni Chand v. Kamla Kunwar, Uma Devi Nambiar v. T.C. Sidhan, Sridevi v. Jayaraja Shetty, Niranjan Umeshchandra Joshi v. Mrudula Jyoti Rao and S. R. Srinivasa v. S. Padmavathamma .

30. In Jaswant Kaur v. Amrit Kaur the Court analysed the ratio in H. Venkatachala Iyengar case and culled out the following propositions: (Jaswant Kaur case, SCC pp. 373-74, para 10)

"1. Stated generally, a will has to be proved like any other document, the test to be applied being the usual test of the satisfaction of the prudent mind in such matters. As in the case of proof of other documents, so in the case of proof of wills, one cannot insist on proof with mathematical certainty.

2. Since Section 63 of the Succession Act requires a will to be attested, it cannot be used as evidence until, as required by Section 68 of the Evidence Act, one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the court and capable of giving evidence.

3. Unlike other documents, the will speaks from the death of the testator and therefore the maker of the will is never available for deposing as to the circumstances in which the will came to be executed. This aspect introduces an element of solemnity in the decision of the question whether the document propounded is proved to be the last will and testament of the testator. Normally, the onus which lies on the propounder can be taken to be discharged on proof of the essential facts which go into the making of the will.

4. Cases in which the execution of the will is surrounded by suspicious circumstances stand on a different footing. A shaky signature, a feeble mind, an unfair and unjust disposition of property, the propounder himself taking a leading part in the making of the will under which he receives a substantial benefit and such other circumstances raise suspicion about the execution of the will. That suspicion cannot be removed by the mere assertion of the propounder that the will bears the signature of the testator or that the testator was in a sound and disposing state of mind and memory at the time when the will was made, or that those like the wife and children of the testator who would normally receive their due share in his estate were disinherited because the testator might have had his own reasons for excluding them. The presence of suspicious circumstances makes the initial onus heavier and therefore, in cases where the circumstances attendant upon the execution of the will excite the suspicion of the court, the propounder must remove all legitimate suspicions before the document can be accepted as the last will of the testator.

5. It is in connection with wills, the execution of which is surrounded by suspicious circumstances that the test of satisfaction of the judicial conscience has been evolved. That test emphasises that in determining the question as to whether an instrument produced before the court is the last will of the testator, the court is called upon to decide a solemn question and by reason of suspicious circumstances the court has to be satisfied fully that the will has been validly executed by the testator.

6. If a caveator alleges fraud, undue influence, coercion etc. in regard to the execution of the will, such pleas have to be proved by him, but even in the absence of such pleas, the very circumstances surrounding the execution of the will may raise a doubt as to whether the testator was acting of his own free will. And then it is a part of the initial onus of the propounder to remove all reasonable doubts in the matter."

31. In Uma Devi Nambiar v. T.C. Sidhan, the Court held that active participation of the propounder/beneficiary in the execution of the Will or exclusion of the natural heirs cannot lead to an inference that the Will was not genuine. Some of the observations made in that case are extracted below: (SCC pp. 333-34, para 16)

"16. A Will is executed to alter the ordinary mode of succession and by the very nature of things, it is bound to result in either reducing or depriving the share of natural heirs. If a person intends his property to pass to his natural heirs, there is no necessity at all of executing a Will. It is true that a propounder of the Will has to remove all suspicious circumstances. Suspicion means doubt, conjecture or mistrust. But the fact that natural heirs have either been excluded or a lesser share has been given to them, by itself without anything more, cannot be held to be a suspicious circumstance especially in a case where the bequest has been made in favour of an offspring. As held in P.P.K. Gopalan Nambiar v. P.P.K. Balakrishnan Nambiar it is the duty of the propounder of the Will to remove all the suspected features, but there must be real, germane and valid suspicious features and not fantasy of the doubting mind. It has been held that if the propounder succeeds in removing the suspicious circumstance, the court has to give effect to the Will, even if the Will might be unnatural in the sense that it has cut off wholly or in part near relations. (See Pushpavathi v. Chandraraja Kadamba.) In Rabindra Nath Mukherjee v. Panchanan Banerjee it was observed that the circumstance of deprivation of natural heirs should not raise any suspicion because the whole idea behind execution of the Will is to interfere with the normal line of succession and so, natural heirs would be debarred in every case of Will. Of course, it may be that in some cases they are fully debarred and in some cases partly."(emphasis supplied)

The same view was reiterated in Pentakota Satyanarayana v. Pentakota Seetharatnam (supra).

19. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pentakota Satyanarayana and others Vs. Pentakota Seetharatnam and others, (2005) 8 Supreme Court Cases 67 held as under:-

"25. It is settled by a catena of decisions that any and every circumstance is not a suspicious circumstance. Even in a case where active participation and execution of the Will by the propounders/beneficiaries was there, it has been held that that by itself is not sufficient to create any doubt either about the testamentary capacity or the genuineness of the Will. It has been held that the mere presence of the beneficiary at the time of execution would not prove that the beneficiary had taken prominent part in the execution of the Will. This is the view taken by this Court in Sridevi & Ors vs. Jayaraja Shetty & Ors. In the said case, it has been held that the onus to prove the will is on the propounder and in the absence of suspicious circumstances surrounding the execution of the will proof of testamentary capacity and the proof of signature of the testator as required by law not be sufficient to discharge the onus. In case, the person attesting the Will alleges undue influence, fraud or coercion, the onus will be on him to prove the same and that as to what suspicious circumstances which have to be judged in the facts and circumstances of each particular case."

Therefore, it is apparent and evident from the discussion made hereinabove as well as from the ratio of the judgments cited hereinabove that 'Will' Ext. DW2/A was a valid 'Will' executed by its testator in favour of defendant No.1 and therefore, in my considered view there is neither any infirmity nor any perversity with the findings which have been recorded in this regard by both the learned courts below. Substantial question of law is answered accordingly and the present appeal being devoid of any merit is dismissed with costs.

Shankar Vs. Smt. Rukmani and others, 2003(1) Shim. L.C. 300
Ramesh Kumar and others Vs. Mandir Thor (Math Thor), 2007(2) Shim. LC 422

For the appellants. : Mr. Shyam Chauhan, Advocate vice counsel.
For respondents No.1 : Mr. N.K. Thakur, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Surinder Kumar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.

By way of present appeal, the appellants have challenged the judgment and decree dated 17.12.2005 passed by the Court of learned Additional District Judge, Una in Civil Appeal No. 29/94(90) vide which, the learned appellate court has upheld the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Sub Judge 1st Class, Una in Civil Suit No. 87/1986, RBT-265/88.

2. This appeal was admitted on 17.12.2009, on the following substantial questions of law:-

> "1. Whether the Civil Court can pass the decree in which the remedy of appeal/revision is there before the revenue authorities?
>
> 2. Whether the Gift deed can be made after H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act came into action?
> 3. Whether the learned courts below have misread and mis-appreciated the oral and documentary evidence on record and the findings recorded are perverse and liable to be set aside?

3. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of this case are that respondent/plaintiff filed a suit for declaration to the effect that suit land measuring 5 kanals bearing khewat No. 186min, khatauni No. 263/1, khasra Nos. 21R/11/1, 1549/600 entered in jamabandi for the year 1982-83 situated in village Panoh, Tehsil and District Una was coming in possession of the plaintiff as non-occupancy tenant and he (plaintiff) had become owner thereof from the date of enforcement of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act (hereinafter to be referred as

'the Act'). Accordingly, registered Gift Deed No. 1022 dated 24.8.1974 made by defendant No.1 in favour of defendants No. 2 to 4 regarding suit land and mutation No. 1457 dated 16.2.1975 and mutation No. 1708 dated 26.4.1982 were wrong, baseless, unauthorized and ineffective against the plaintiff. Permanent injunction as a consequential relief was also sought against defendants restraining them from interfering with the possession of the suit land of the plaintiff and from getting the suit land assumed through Land Revenue Officer.

4. The case of the plaintiff was that the suit land was coming in his possession as non-occupancy tenant under defendant No.1 and he had become owner of the same from the date of enforcement of the Act i.e. 21.2.1974. Defendant No.1 being clever person, with dishonest intention of depriving the plaintiff of his ownership over the suit land executed a 'Sham' and fictitious gift deed dated 24.8.1974 in favour of defendants No. 2 to 4 (his wife and sons) and mutation No. 1457 dated 16.2.1975 was entered on the basis of said 'Sham' Gift, which was void and ineffective. As per the plaintiff, as he had become owner of the suit land w.e.f. 21.2.1974, the defendant could not have gifted something which was not owned by him vide gift deed dated 24.8.1974. It was further his case that revenue authorities sanctioned mutation No. 1539 dated 12.2.1977 in his favour regarding conferment of the said ownership but later on revenue officials wrongly reviewed the said mutation vide subsequent mutation No. 1708 dated 26.2.1982. Plaintiff moved an application for reviewing of mutation No. 1457 but the same was rejected on 4.1.1984. It was on these bases that the plaintiff had filed the suit praying for reliefs mentioned thereunder.

5. In the written statement, the defendants denied the case of plaintiff and stated that defendant No.1 had rightly and voluntarily executed gift deed in favour of defendants No.2 to 4, as he was competent to do so and mutation in favour of the plaintiff was wrongly sanctioned which was rightly reviewed subsequently. It was also stated that plaintiff did not contest the order of revenue authority in appeal or revision which has thus attained finality. On these bases, the claim of the plaintiff was denied.

6. On the basis of pleadings of the parties, the learned trial court framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether the plaintiff has been in possession of the suit land as a tenant and has become owner by operation of law? OPP.

2. Whether defendant No.1 had no right to execute the gift deed in question as alleged ? If so, its effect? OPP.

3. Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties? OPD.

4. Whether the court has no jurisdiction ? OPD.

4A. Whether the suit is barred by limitation ? OPD

5. Relief."

7. On the basis of material on record produced by the respective parties, the learned trial court decided the issues so framed as under:-

"Issue No.1 : Yes.

Issue No.2 : Yes.

Issue No.3. : No.

Issue No.4 : No.

Issue No.4A : No.

Relief : Suit decreed as per operative part of this judgment."

8. The learned trial court on the basis of material on record held that as per copy of jamabandi for the year 1982-83 defendants No.2 to 4 were recorded to be owners of the suit land, whereas the plaintiff was recorded to be in possession as 'tenant at will' on payment of 'Battai Rent'. Ext. P2 copy of jamabandi for the year 1972-73 also reflected defendant to be owner of the suit land and plaintiff to be 'tenant at will' on payment of 'Battai Niswi' and vide Red Note it was mentioned that mutation No. 1457 had been sanctioned in favour of defendants No. 2 to 4 on the basis of gift deed executed by defendant No.1. Ext. P10 was the copy of mutation No. 1539 sanctioned on 12.2.1977 as per which plaintiff was conferred the ownership rights of suit land under Section 104 of the Act. This was done on the ground that previously plaintiff was coming as non occupancy tenant under defendant No.1. Vide Ext. P11 copy of mutation No. 1708 sanctioned on 26.4.1982 ownership rights of plaintiff over the suit land were again vested in defendants No. 2 to 4. As per the learned trial court it stood proved that the suit land was owned and possessed by defendant No.1 but later on plaintiff came to be recorded in possession as 'tenant at will'. It further held that legislature has distinguished the case of a land owner who had more than 3 acres of land and a land owner who was entitled to resume the land under Section 104 of the Act. As per the learned trial court, latter landlord was covered under Section 104 (1)(iii) whereas a land owner who was not entitled to resume the land under the provisions of the Act was covered under Section 104(3) of the Act. The learned trial court further held that the Act was published in H.P. Rajpatra on 21.2.1974 and from the said date, the right, title and interest of land owners not entitled to resume land under the provisions of the Act stood immediately extinguished and vested in the State Government and thereafter in the tenants. Ext. P8 copy of jamabandi for the year 1972-73 clearly demonstrates that defendant No.1 had more than 3 acres of land on 21.2.1974, as a result of which, he was not entitled to resume the land under the provisions of the Act and as such his right, title and interest in the suit land immediately stood extinguished on 21.2.1974 and accordingly defendant No.1 had nothing thereafter he could gift later on. On these bases, the learned trial court further held that as on the date of execution of a gift deed i.e. 24.8.1974 defendant No.1 was having no ownership rights over the suit land and as such gift deed executed by him was a void transaction and consequent mutation No. 1457 sanctioned on 16.2.1975 was also null and void having no effect in law. It also held that plaintiff being a tenant of defendant No.1 was rightly conferred ownership rights, vide mutation No. 1539 dated 12.2.1977 and subsequent mutation No. 1708 decided on 26.4.1982 was also void because defendants No.2 to 4 had got nothing from defendant No.1 by way of 'Will'. The learned trial court also hold that keeping in view the fact that plaintiff had raised the dispute of title which could be adjudicated upon only by a Civil Court competent in this regard, therefore, the Court had jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the issue notwithstanding the provisions of Section 112 of the Act. Thus the learned trial court decreed the suit of the plaintiff.

9. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by the learned trial court, appeal was filed by the defendants, which was dismissed by the Court of Additional District Judge, Una vide judgment and decree dated 17.12.2005.

10. The learned appellate court held that the plaintiff had been found recorded as 'tenant at will' qua the suit land and defendant No.1 had executed gift deed in favour of his wife and sons and the question that arose for consideration was whether defendant No.1 was competent to execute the gift or not after coming into operation of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act. The learned appellate court held that there was evidence on record to the effect that defendant No.1 had earlier filled LRV form to resume the land but when his application was dismissed then defendant adopted another method to defeat the rights of the plaintiff and he executed the Gift deed. On these bases, the learned appellate court held that the learned trial court had rightly appreciated the evidence and concluded in favour of the plaintiff. The learned appellate court also held that there was no illegality and infirmity with the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial court and it dismissed the appeal.

11. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as judgment passed by both the learned Courts below.

12. Section 112 of the HP Tenancy and Land Reforms Act provides that save as otherwise expressly provided validity of any proceeding or order taken or made under Chapter 10 of the HP Tenancy and Land Reforms Act shall not be called in question in any civil court or before any other authority. In the present case, it is an admitted fact that the plaintiff was recorded as 'tenant at will' on payment of rent under the defendant. Further the said defendant had more than 8 acres of land as on 21.7.1974 and thus he was not entitled to resume the land under the provisions of Section 104 (1) (i) & (ii) of the Act. It is also not a fact in issue that Section 104 (1) (iii) of the Land provides for immediate extinguishment of the rights, title and interest of the land owners who are not entitled to resume the land under the above mentioned provisions of the Act from the date so notified in this regard by the government in official gazette and the land in the tenancy vests free from all encumbrances. The date so notified by the government was 21.2.1974 meaning thereby that w.e.f. 21.2.1974 all rights, title and interests over the suit land of defendant No.1 stood extinguished and the same vested from free from all encumbrances upon the plaintiff. It is also a matter of record that defendant No.1 had filled LRV forms (Ext. P16 to P18) to resume the suit land but when his application was dismissed thereafter he gifted the suit land in favour of his wife and children.

13. In my considered view after coming into force of the provisions of Section 104(3) of the Act by the notification of the effective date in the official gazette i.e. 21.2.1974, defendant lost all rights, title and interests over the suit land. Not only this the plaintiff became owner of the suit land free from all encumbrances, therefore, the subsequent act of the defendant of transferring the suit land in favour of his wife and sons by way of a gift was void-ab-initio, as has been rightly held by both the learned courts below. Not only this, the factum of the defendant having filled LRV form to resume the land is an admission on his part that plaintiff was a tenant under him. Now in these circumstances when very genesis of the mutations which were entered in favour of defendants No.2 to 4 was void-ab-initio, the subsequent mutations so entered on the basis of the said gift also were non est. Even otherwise mutations do not confer title. The suit was filed by the plaintiff on the basis of his title and in this view of the matter it cannot be said that the suit filed by him was not maintainable in view of the provisions of Section 112 of the Act.

14. In Shankar Vs. Smt. Rukmani and others, 2003(1) Shim. L.C. 300 this Court has held:-

> "4. So far the ratio in judgment in Chuhniya v. Jindu Ram's case (supra) is concerned, the reference before the Full Bench was whether the Civil Court has the jurisdiction in respect of order of conferment of proprietary rights under Section 104 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972 (hereinafter called 'the Act') which has been answered in the negative except in a case where it is found that the statutory authorities envisaged by the Act have not acted in conformity with the fundamental principles of judicial procedure or where the provisions of the Act have not been complied with.
>
> 5. The acquisition of proprietary rights by tenants other than non-occupancy tenants is dealt with in Chapter X of the Act. This Chapter consists of Sections 104 to 117. Section 112 of the Act provides for bar of jurisdiction of Civil Court for calling in question the validity of any proceedings or orders taken or made under this Chapter. By providing appeal and revision against the order passed by the Land Reforms Officer under this Chapter, further bar of jurisdiction has been provided under Section 115 to call in question any order made by the Collector, Commissioner or Financial Commissioner by declaring them final. It is also observed by the Full Bench in Chuhniya Devi v. Jindu Ram's case (supra) that from the Scheme of Chapter X it is clear that there are bound to be occasions when the dispute about the relationship of landlord and tenant would arise in the proceedings which need to be adjudicated upon by the authorities as provided therein, before conferment of proprietary rights upon a tenant or before resumption of land by the land owner.
>
> 6. Referring to sub-section (4) of Section 104 and Rule 29, the Full Bench has concluded in para 39 that:
>
>> "………It is implicit in sub-section (4) of Section 104 that the Legislature envisaged that a dispute may arise whether a person cultivating the land of a landowner is a tenant or not, when proceedings were in progress under Chapter X, and provided that it shall be decided by the authorities contemplated under this Chapter who shall require the landowner to establish that a person cultivating his land is not a tenant."

7. It was in this context that the Full Bench further held in paragraph 40:

"Any inquiry by a Civil Court on the question was barred by the legislature by specifically providing in Sections 112 and 115, both occurring in Chapter X, that the validity of any order made under the Chapter shall not be called in question in any court and that the order shall be final except as expressly provided in the Chapter. The legislature knew its mind fully well. Where it wanted a dispute to be determined by the Civil Court, it provided so in Chapter X itself. One has only to look at Sections 107 and 109 (2). Not only that the Legislature ruled out any determination by a Civil Court, by necessary implication, of other matters, it expressly said so in Sections 112 and 115."

8. While discussing the rationale for exclusion of Civil Court, the learned judges have held in paragraph 44 that:

"The exclusion of the jurisdiction of the Civil Court, in the matter of determination of the question whether a person cultivating the land of a landowner is his tenant or not for purposes of Chapter X, is both reasonable and understandable. Permitting such a question to be determined by the civil court also would have introduced an element of unpredictability, spread over a long period while the matter was under adjudication before the Civil Court at the trial or an appellate stage, which could have made the effective implementation of measures of land reform aimed at by the Act, uncertain. The legislature could legitimately think of ruling out such a situation. It has done so by excluding the jurisdiction of the civil court expressly in that matter."

9. After analyzing the judgment in Chuhniya Devi v. Jindu Ram's case (supra), we have no doubt that the jurisdiction of the Civil Court is barred under the Act if the dispute pertaining to the relationship of landlord and tenant arises during the proceedings of conferment of proprietary rights upon the tenant and resumption of land by the land owner and the order in respect thereof has been passed by the authorities under the Act except in a case where it is found that the statutory authorities envisaged by that Act had not acted in conformity with the fundamental principles of judicial procedure or where the provisions of the Act had not been complied with. But if the dispute of landlord and tenant arises independent of the proceedings under the Act, the Civil Court has the jurisdiction.

10. Coming to the case in hand, it is not averred by the either party that either the proceedings were initiated or the order was passed under Chapter X of the Act. Therefore, we have no hesitation to hold that the ratio of judgment in Chuhniya Devi v. Jindu Ram's case is not applicable to the facts and circumstances of the present case and the Civil Court has the jurisdiction to decide the suit of the plaintiff."

15. This judgment has been followed by this Court in Ramesh Kumar and others Vs. Mandir Thor (Math Thor), 2007(2) Shim. LC 422.

16. Besides this, when all rights title and interests in the suit land of defendant No.1 stood extinguished on 21.2.1974 he had no legal right to transfer the suit land in favour of defendants No.2 to 4. Gift can be made of a property which is owned by a person and when a person is not owner of a property in law, he has no right to transfer the same in favour of another person by executing a gift.

Therefore, in view of what has been discussed above, in my considered opinion, it cannot be said that the learned courts below have either misread or mis-appreciated the oral and documentary evidence produced on record. Perusal of judgments and decrees passed by learned courts below demonstrate that they have minutely gone into all aspects of the matter and after appreciating both the ocular and documentary evidence produced on record, the learned trial court has decreed the suit of the plaintiff. Similarly even the learned appellate court has appreciated the evidence on record in its correct perspective and only thereafter it has upheld the findings returned by the learned trial court. Even otherwise, learned counsel for the appellant could not substantively point out as to what was that material evidence on record which was either misread or mis-appreciated by either of the learned courts below. The substantial questions of law are answered accordingly as aforesaid and keeping in view the fact that there is no merit in the present appeal, the same is dismissed with costs.

11. Statement of accused recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Accused has stated that on 5.3.2006 his vehicle did not meet with any accident. He has stated that he went to Goyal Motors Tara Devi for repair of his vehicle and when he was coming back he given lift to injured. He has stated that he has been falsely implicated in present case.

12. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State that criminal offence under Sections 279 and 337 IPC is offence against public at large and same is proved beyond reasonable doubt against the accused is accepted for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused testimony of PW2 Gurpal Singh injured and PW3 Inder Singh who are eye witnesses of accident. PW2 injured has specifically stated in positive manner that Alto car No. HP-03C-1281 was approaching from Shimla to Solan in fast speed upon public road and same struck with injured PW2 Gurpal Singh and caused injuries upon body of injured namely Gurpal Singh. Testimony of PW2 is trustworthy reliable and inspire confidence of Court. There is no reason to disbelieve the testimony of PW2. Testimony of PW2 is corroborated with independent eye witness namely PW3 Inder Singh. PW3 Inder Singh has stated in positive manner that Alto car No. HP-03C-1281 came in fast speed and struck with injured PW2 and caused injuries upon body of PW2 Gurpal Singh. Testimony of PW3 is also trustworthy reliable and inspire confidence of Court.

13. Testimonies of PWs 2 and 3 are also corroborated with testimony of medical officer PW5 namely Dr.R.S.Dadhwal who has medically examined the injured immediately on 5.3.2006 at 2.30 PM. It is proved on record that injured namely Gurpal Singh had sustained six injuries due to accident i.e. (1) Contusion injury on back region, red in colour and tenderness was present. (2) Contusion injury on right hip, red in colour and tenderness was present. (3) Contusion injury on left hip, red in colour and tenderness was present. (4) Contusion injury was on chest. 14. Testimonies of PWs 1 and 2 are also corroborated with documentaries evidence i.e. FIR Ext.PW8/A, statement of injured recorded under Section 154 Cr.P.C. Ext.PW2/A, nakal rapat No. 19 Ext.PW7/A, site plan Ext.PW8/B, seizure memo Ext.PW4/A, seizure memo Ext.PW1/A, MLC Ext.PW5/B and X-ray films placed on record.

15. It is well settled law that rash and negligent driving upon public path is a criminal offence against the public at large. It is well settled law that all drivers driving vehicles upon public path are under legal obligation to drive the vehicle in cautious manner with object to save the life of general public at large.

16. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of respondent that there is material contradiction between testimonies of PWs 2 and 3 who are eye witnesses of accident and on this ground appeal filed by State be dismissed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused testimonies of PWs 2 and 3. There is no material contradiction between testimonies of PWs 2 and 3 which goes to the root of case. It is well settled law that minor contradictions are bound to come in criminal case when statements of prosecution witnesses are recorded after a gape of sufficient time. In present case accident took place on 5.3.2006 at about 1.15 Noon and testimonies of prosecution witnesses were recorded in Court on 7.11.2006 and 12.12.2006. See (2010)9 SCC 567 title C. 20. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of accused that accident took place due to own fault of injured when injured was walking upon middle of public path is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Accused did not lead any positive evidence that accident took place due to fault of injured. Plea of accused is defeated on the concept of ipse dixit (An assertion made without proof).

21. It is held that judgment of learned Trial Court is perverse and it is further held that learned Trial Court did not properly appreciate oral as well as documentary evidence placed on record relating to criminal offence punishable under Sections 279 and 337 IPC. It is held that it is proved beyond reasonable doubt that accused had driven vehicle upon public way in rash or negligent manner and endangered human life of injured person and caused hurt to injured endangering his life. Point No.1 is answered in affirmative.

Point No. 2(Final Order)

22. In view of findings upon point No.1 above appeal is accepted. Judgment passed by learned Trial Court is set aside and accused Vijendra Kumar son of late Shri Ram Nath is convicted under Sections 279 and 337 IPC. Now convict be heard on quantum of sentence. BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Vinod Chadha ....Petitioner.
Versus
State of H.P and another. ....Respondents.

Cr.MMO No. 122 of 2016
Date of decision: 20th July, 2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- Accused was declared a proclaimed offender by the Court of Judicial Magistrate 1St Class, Manali- he applied for bail- held, that ordinarily a person who has been declared a proclaimed offender should not be granted anticipatory bail- however, matter was compromised in the present case- therefore, direction issued not to arrest the applicant on the way to appear and surrender in the Court- it is left open to the trial Judge to consider and pass appropriate order on the bail application. (Para-2 to 5)

Case referred:

State of Madhya Pradesh versus Pradeep Sharma, (2014) 2 Supreme Court Cases 171

For the petitioner: Mr. Sajal Koser, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. D.S. Nainta and Mr. Virender Verma, Addl. A.Gs for respondent No.1.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge (Oral).

The petitioner has been declared proclaimed offender vide order dated 30.11.2010 passed by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Manali, District Kullu in a complaint under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act registered as Criminal Case No. 274-I-08. The copy of the order has been placed on record by filing an application, Cr.M.P No. 552 of 2016. Learned counsel has produced certified copy of order passed in another complaint registered as Case No. 273-I-08 and in that case also, the petitioner has been declared as proclaimed offender.

2. During the course of arguments, learned counsel representing the petitioner has apprised this Court that in an outside Court settlement, the accused-petitioner has settled the matter with the complainant amicably in both the cases. The relief in this petition, has also been restricted only to the extent of protecting the accused-petitioner from his arrest in order to enable him to put in appearance in the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class at Manali, District Kullu, so that he can settle both the cases with the complainant (respondent No.2 herein) amicably.

3. The provisions contained under Section 41(1) (c) Cr.P.C. reveal that a person having been declared as proclaimed offender can be arrested by the police even without issuance of any warrant of arrest also. Not only this but, as per Section 43 of the Act, such person can even be arrested by a private person. The apprehension of the accused-petitioner, therefore, is that while on the way to appear in the Court, there is likelihood of his being arrested.

4. True it is that the Apex Court in State of Madhya Pradesh versus Pradeep Sharma, (2014) 2 Supreme Court Cases 171 has held that a person, who has been declared as proclaimed offender, cannot be granted anticipatory bail. The order proposed to be passed in this application, however, is not to grant anticipatory bail to the accused-petitioner and rather to protect him from his arrest so that while in transit to surrender in the trial Court he is not arrested. The compromise having been arrived at between the accused-petitioner and the complainant also weigh with this Court while granting him protection to this limited extent.

5. The petition, as such, is allowed. Consequently, there shall be a direction that the accused-petitioner, Vinod Chadha, who has been declared as proclaimed offender by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Manali in criminal Cases No. 273-I-08 and 274-I-08, shall not be arrested on his way to appear and surrender in the trial Court on or before 4th August, 2016. It is made clear that this order will remain in force only up to 4th August, 2016. It is left open to learned trial Judge to consider and pass appropriate order as to whether the accused-petitioner is to be released on regular bail or detained in custody.

6. This petition stands disposed of accordingly. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

Ms. Tamanna Rana, Advocate, vice Mr. P.P. Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No. 14.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

Challenge in this appeal is to judgment and order, dated 24th April, 2012, made by the Writ Court/learned Single Judge in CWP No. 6713 of 2010, titled as Shri Amar Nath Rana versus State of Himachal Pradesh and others, whereby the writ petition filed by the appellant-writ petitioner came to be dismissed (for short "the impugned judgment").

2. Heard.

3. The core question involved in this appeal is – whether a candidate, who has participated in a selection process, failed to make a grade, can question the selection process and the procedure adopted? The answer is in the negative for the following reasons:

4. Respondent No. 2-Himachal Pradesh Public Service Commission (for short "HPPSC") issued advertisement No. VI/2009, on 7th October, 2009 (Annexure P-1 to the writ petition) for filling up fifteen posts of Assistant District Attorney in the Department of Home (Prosecution), H.P. The appellant-writ petitioner, private respondents and others responded and participated in the selection process. The appellant-writ petitioner had also participated in the selection process so far it relates to the posts reserved for OBC category. Interview was conducted and the appellant-writ petitioner failed to make a grade and the private respondents came to be selected.

5. The appellant-writ petitioner invoked the jurisdiction of the Writ Court by the medium of CWP No. 6713 of 2010, praying therein for quashment of selection and for writ of mandamus commanding the respondents-authorities to hold written test and thereafter to conduct the interview.

6. It is not the case of the appellant-writ petitioner that after quashment of the selection and appointment of the private respondents, he be appointed. Virtually, he has prayed that a fresh selection process be drawn.

7. The Writ Court has discussed all the facts including issuance of advertisement notice, application of Rules and also quoted Rule 7 of the Himachal Pradesh, Prosecution Department, Assistant District Attorney, Class-I (Gazetted) Recruitment and Promotion Rules, 2009 (for short "Rules of 2009") in para 3 of the impugned judgment. The Writ Court has also given details as to how many candidates participated in the selection process belonging to all categories. The discussion has rightly been made by the Writ Court from paras 2 to 7 of the impugned judgment.

8. This Court has laid down the tests in a case titled as Amrit Lal Sharma and others versus State of H.P. and others, reported in 2014 (Suppl) Him L.R. 2115 (DB), and, while discussing the law, which was in place at that point of time, right from paras 6 to 16, held that once a candidate has participated in the selection process, he cannot make a u-turn and question the very selection process and the appointments made. It is apt to reproduce para 16 of the judgment herein:

> "16. Coming back to the challenge to the selection, it is well settled law that a candidate after remaining unsuccessful cannot challenge the selection process and the constitution of the Selection Committee. If the petitioners entertained any doubts as to the fairness of the members of the Selection Committee, they ought to have objected then. The petitioners however having proceeded with the interviews before Selection Committee to which the objections have now been taken, cannot be permitted to object after remaining unsuccessful (Refer: Madan Lal and others vs. State of Jammu & Kashmir and others AIR 1995 SC 1088, Amlan Jyoti Borooah vs. State of Assam and others (2009) 3 SCC 227 and Manish Kumar Shahi vs. State of Bihar and others (2010) 12 SCC 576)."

9. The Apex Court in a latest judgment in the case titled as Madras Institute of Development Studies and another versus K. Sivasubramaniyan and others, reported in (2016) 1 Supreme Court Cases 454, has discussed how a candidate can be said to be caught by estoppel, acquiescence and waiver. It is apt to reproduce paras 14 to 18 herein:

> "14. The question as to whether a person who consciously takes part in the process of selection can turn around and question the method of selection is no longer res integra.
>
> 15. In G. Sarana v. University of Lucknow, (1976) 3 SCC 585, a similar question came for consideration before a three Judges Bench of this Court where the fact was that the petitioner had applied to the post of Professor of Athropology in the University of Lucknow. After having appeared before the Selection Committee but on his failure to get appointed, the petitioner rushed to the High Court pleading bias against him of the three experts in the Selection Committee consisting of five members. He also alleged doubt in the constitution of the Committee. Rejecting the contention, the Court held: (SCC p. 591, para 15)
> > "15. We do not, however, consider it necessary in the present case to go into the question of the reasonableness of bias or real likelihood of bias as despite the fact that the appellant knew all the relevant facts, he did not before appearing for the interview or at the time of the interview raise even his little finger against the constitution of the Selection Committee. He seems to have voluntarily appeared before the committee and taken a chance of having a favourable recommendation from it. Having done so, it is not now open to him to turn round and question the constitution of the committee. This view gains strength from a decision of this Court in Manak Lal's case where in more or less similar circumstances, it was held that the failure of the appellant to take the identical plea at the earlier stage of the proceedings created an effective bar of waiver against him. The following observations made therein are worth quoting: (AIR p. 432, para 9)

'9. ....It seems clear that the appellant wanted to take a chance to secure a favourable report from the tribunal which was constituted and when he found that he was confronted with an unfavourable report, he adopted the device of raising the present technical point.'"

16. In Madan Lal v. State of J&K., (1995) 3 SCC 486, similar view has been reiterated by the Bench which held that: (SCC p. 493, para 9)

"9. Before dealing with this contention, we must keep in view the salient fact that the petitioners as well as the contesting successful candidates being respondents concerned herein, were all found eligible in the light of marks obtained in the written test, to be eligible to be called for oral interview. Up to this stage there is no dispute between the parties. The petitioners also appeared at the oral interview conducted by the Members concerned of the Commission who interviewed the petitioners as well as the contesting respondents concerned. Thus the petitioners took a chance to get themselves selected at the said oral interview. Only because they did not find themselves to have emerged successful as a result of their combined performance both at written test and oral interview, they have filed this petition. It is now well settled that if a candidate takes a calculated chance and appears at the interview, then, only because the result of the interview is not palatable to him, he cannot turn round and subsequently contend that the process of interview was unfair or the Selection Committee was not properly constituted. In the case of Om Prakash Shukla v. Akhilesh Kumar Shukla it has been clearly laid down by a Bench of three learned Judges of this Court that when the petitioner appeared at the examination without protest and when he found that he would not succeed in examination he filed a petition challenging the said examination, the High Court should not have granted any relief to such a petitioner."

17. In Manish Kumar Shahi v. State of Bihar, (2010) 12 SCC 576, this Court reiterated the principle laid down in the earlier judgments and observed: (SCC p. 584, para 16)

"16. We also agree with the High Court that after having taken part in the process of selection knowing fully well that more than 19% marks have been earmarked for viva voce test, the petitioner is not entitled to challenge the criteria or process of selection. Surely, if the petitioner's name had appeared in the merit list, he would not have even dreamed of challenging the selection. The petitioner invoked jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India only after he found that his name does not figure in the merit list prepared by the Commission. This conduct of the petitioner clearly disentitles him from questioning the selection and the High Court did not commit any error by refusing to entertain the writ petition."

18. In Ramesh Chandra Shah v. Anil Joshi, (2013) 11 SCC 309, recently a Bench of this Court following the earlier decisions held as under: (SCC p. 320, para 24)

"24. In view of the propositions laid down in the above noted judgments, it must be held that by having taken part in the process of selection with full knowledge that the recruitment was being made under the General Rules, the respondents had waived their right to question the advertisement or the methodology adopted by the Board for making selection and the learned Single Judge and the Division Bench of the High Court committed grave error by entertaining the grievance made by the respondents."

10. It is also apt to record herein that in the instant case, the appellant-writ petitioner has not sought his appointment, as discussed hereinabove, but has sought quashment of the selection process, which was also the prayer made by the writ petitioner in the writ petition filed before the High Court of Judicature at Madras, which has given birth to the judgment in K. Sivasubramaniyan's case (supra). It would be profitable to reproduce para 13 of the judgment herein:

"13. Be that as it may, the respondent, without raising any objection to the alleged variations in the contents of the advertisement and the Rules, submitted his application and participated in the selection process by appearing before the Committee of experts. It was only after he was not selected for appointment, turned around and challenged the very selection process. Curiously enough, in the writ petition the only relief sought for is to quash the order of appointment without seeking any relief as regards his candidature and entitlement to the said post."

11. Applying the tests in the instant case, the writ petition was not maintainable and the Writ Court has rightly made the impugned judgment, needs no interference.

12. Having glance of the above discussions, the impugned judgment is upheld and the appeal is dismissed alongwith all pending applications.

Date of Decision: 21.07.2016

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 6 Rule 17- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for declaration, which was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred asserting that deceased had revoked the earlier Will by executing a revocation deed- however, it was not suggested during the course of trial that Will was revoked by deceased - application for amendment was filed after eight months of filing of appeal for incorporating the fact that Will was revoked– it was pleaded that this fact could not be mentioned earlier as it came to the notice of the applicant when the summons were received from the Court of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Bilaspur during the pendency of the appeal- application was allowed by the Appellate Court- held, that application for amendment cannot be allowed after the commencement of trial, unless the Court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of the trial- due diligence means diligence reasonably expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a person who seeks to satisfy a legal requirement or to discharge an obligation- it was specifically asserted in the memo of appeal that Will was revoked- it was falsely explained that applicant came to know about the revocation after receiving the summons – there was no due diligence and the application could not have been allowed- petition allowed and order of the Appellate Court set aside- application dismissed. For the petitioner: Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. Rajiv Jiwan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. :

By way of present petition filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner/plaintiff has challenged the order passed by the Court of learned District Judge, Bilaspur in CMP No. 298/06 of 2013 dated 05.09.2013 in Civil Appeal No. 3-13 of 2012 vide which, learned Appellate Court has allowed the application filed by respondents/defendants under Order 6 Rule 17 read with Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure to amend the written statement at the appellate stage.

2. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of the present case are that the petitioner/plaintiff filed a suit for declaration and injunction to the effect that he be declared joint owner in possession to the extent of ½ share with defendant No. 1 qua the suit property situated in villages Behal and Lakhala, Pargana Fatehpur, Tehsil Shri Naina Devi Ji, District Bilaspur on the basis of a Will executed by his late father Shri Sukh Ram dated 29.12.1993. Plaintiff also sought a decree of permanent prohibitory injunction against the defendants restraining them from causing any interference in his share of the suit land.

3. The said suit was resisted by the defendants on the grounds that they were exclusive owners in possession of the suit land as per registered Will of late Shri Sukh Ram dated 21.08.2003 and defendants and plaintiff were joint owners in possession of the suit land to the extent of 1/3rd share and not half share.

4. At this stage, it is pertinent to mention that both plaintiff and defendant No. 1 are sons of late Shri Sukh Ram, whereas defendant No. 2 is the wife of defendant No. 1, i.e. daughter-in-law of deceased Sukh Ram.

5. The case of the plaintiff was that he and defendant No. 1 were owners of ½ share of the suit land as per the Will set up by the plaintiff, whereas case of the defendants was that they alongwith the plaintiff were owners of 1/3rd share of the suit property on the basis of Will set up by them dated 21.08.2003.

6. Learned trial Court on the basis of the pleadings of the parties framed the following issues on 09.11.2004:

"1. Whether the plaintiff is joint owner in possession of the suit land alongwith defendants as alleged? OPP

2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of injunction as prayed for? OPP

3. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD

4. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action to file the present suit? OPD

5. Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties? OPD

6. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing the present suit? OPD

7. Whether the deceased Sukh Ram executed a valid 'Will' dated 21.08.2003 in favour of defendants? OPD

8. Whether the defendants are exclusive owners in possession of suit land? OPD

9. Relief.

7. Learned trial Court on the basis of the evidence led by the respective parties, returned the following findings to the issues so framed:

Issue No. 1:	Yes.
Issue No. 2:	Yes.
Issue No. 3:	No.
Issue No. 4:	No.
Issue No. 5:	No.
Issue No. 6:	No.
Issue No. 7:	No.
Issue No. 8:	No.
Relief:	The suit of the plaintiff is hereby decreed with costs as per operative part of the judgment.

8. Accordingly, learned trial Court decreed the suit and declared Will Ex. DW1/A dated 21.08.2003 as null and void. It also declared mutations attested on the basis of said Will in favour of defendants as wrong, illegal, null and void. It also held plaintiff joint owner in possession of the suit land to the extent of ½ share on the basis of Will Ex.-PX dated 29.12.1993 with the defendants.

9. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by learned trial Court, the defendants therein filed an appeal in the Court of learned District Judge, Bilaspur, which was prepared and filed on 19.01.2012. It is relevant to quote paragraphs No. 5 and 7 of the grounds of appeal:

> "5. Sh. Sukh Ram deceased during his old age Sh. Bachan Singh plaintiff has also been given 1/3rd share in the suit land therefore the plaintiff has no right to challenge the last volition of his father so as to take benefit of his own ingenuity. The plaintiff was aware of the fact that his father Sh. Sukh Ram has revoked his earlier will dated 29.12.1993 by executing a revocation deed on 17.7.1998 and the said revocation deed was registered before Sub Registrar Shri Naina Devi Ji, but this fact was never disclosed by the plaintiff and has taken the benefit by suppressing material facts on the basis of a document which stood revoked by Sukh Ram on 17.7.1998, therefore the findings are illegal, wrong and deserves to be set aside. Issue No. 8 seems to be casted wrongly as defendants are not exclusive owner in possession of the total suit land. It is alleged by the defendants that they are exclusive owners in possession to the extent of their share but the issue has been framed so as to show the defendants to be exclusive owner in possession which has resulted into a great matter of suspicion to the court and the court might have thought that no share sis given to plaintiff and the said mistake has resulted in setting aside the last Will of Sh. Sukh Ram, therefore, the findings under this issue deserved to be set aside. The grounds which have been taken by the trial Court to be set aside the will are some suspicious circumstances, but these suspicious circumstances are nto well founded and of are very common in village life and small. Every person has a right to dispose of his property on the basis of his free volition and the volition of the person has to be respected and given effect unless and unless the suspicion are well founded. None of the points taken for discussion as suspicious grounds are well founded but are of very poor and frail character. Therefore should have been ignored. The Court has no power to disturb the last volition of a person lightly. At present the women are not domestic servants but they have a right to acquire property on their names independently under law.

7. That the findings under issue No. 3 and 4 are wrong therefore deserves to be set aside. The plaintiff has no cause of action to challenge the will dated 21.8.2003 as the will dated 29.12.1993 has been revoked independently by Sh. Sukh Ram and the recovation deed is in possession of daughters of Sh. Sukh Ram."

10. Before proceeding further, it is relevant to take note as is borne out from the records that during the course of trial, it was not the case put forth by the defendants that Will dated 29.12.1993 Ex. PX had been revoked by Sh. Sukh Ram and the revocation deed was in possession of daughters of Shri Sukh Ram.

11. Appeal No. 3/13 of 2012 was filed in January, 2012. On 27.08.2012, i.e. after 8 months, respondents/defendants filed an application before the learned Appellate Court under Order 6 Rule 17 read with Section 151 C.P.C. for amendment of the written statement. The proposed amendment sought in the written statement was by way of adding paragraph No. 7 in the preliminary objection to the following effect:

"Para-7 "That the will dated 29.12.1993 has been revoked by Sh. Sukh Ram deceased father of the plaintiff through a registered revocation deed dated 17.07.1998, therefore, the plaintiff has no right to file the present suit on the basis of revoked will and to challenge registered will dated 21.8.2003 which is last volition of deceased Sh. Sukh Ram without getting declaration for setting aside the revocation deed dated 17.7.1998 as well."

12. The reasons mentioned in the said application as to why what was being proposed to be added by way of amendment of the written statement could not be earlier incorporated in the written statement, were that after the respondents/defendants suffered the decree in the suit filed by the present petitioner and they challenged the same by filing an appeal before the learned appellate Court, they received summons from the Court of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Bilaspur, H.P. during the pendency of the appeal alongwith a copy of plaint to appear on 11.07.2012 and from the same it has come to the notice of respondents that daughters of deceased Sukh Ram have filed a suit for declaration that they have also inherited the suit land after the death of their father as Will dated 29.12.1993 had been revoked by their deceased father Sh. Sukh Ram on 17.07.1998 through a registered revocation deed. It was further the case set up in the said application that the fact of revocation of the Will was not disclosed by the plaintiff in the plaint or during the trial of the suit and the plaintiff obtained decree from the learned trial Court on the basis of a Will which stood revoked by Shri Sukh Ram, which act of the plaintiff was a clear case of fraud committed by him upon the Court as well as upon the defendants and said revocation deed was now in the power and possession of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Bilaspur in a suit filed by the daughters against Bachan Singh and Rattan Singh etc. which was
