fixed for 01.09.1012. Therefore, on the basis of the said explanation and justification, the amendment in the written statement was sought by the respondents/defendants.

13. This application filed under Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure was opposed by the present petitioner. In reply which was filed to the said application before the learned appellate Court, the stand taken by the present petitioner was that the defendants had not made out any case to allow them to amend the written statement and rather they intend to re-open the entire case by seeking the alleged amendment which was not permissible. It was further mentioned in the reply by way of preliminary objections that after filing of the suit, issues were framed by the learned trial Court on 09.11.2004 and the suit remained pending adjudication from 14.06.2004 till 20.12.2011 when it was finally decided. During the pendency of suit, defendants could not produce any so called document and even otherwise, the defendants had taken a specific plea in the written statement that the last Will executed by deceased Sukh Ram was dated 21.08.2003 and when the said Will was declared null and void by the learned trial Court, now they have come up with the new plea that Will dated 29.12.1993 had been revoked. It was further mentioned in the preliminary objections that in fact the defendants after declaration by the learned trial Court to the effect that Will dated 21.08.2003 was null and void, had cleverly got instituted another suit through sisters, who had sided in favour of the defendants in order to avoid the judgment and decree passed by the learned Lower Court dated 20.12.2011. It was further mentioned in the reply to para-3 of the application that the defendants had come up with the false story because it stood mentioned by the defendants/applicants about the alleged documents in the grounds of appeal, therefore, it stood proved that the contentions being raised by them that they came to know about the existence of the said documents only after they received summons from learned lower Court in a suit filed by their sisters was a concocted version.

14. In the rejoinder which was filed to the said reply, the defendants evaded any straight reply to the factum of their already having mentioned the existence of the alleged documents in the grounds of appeal.

15. Learned Appellate Court vide its order dated 05.09.2013 allowed the application filed under Order 6 Rule 17 read with Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure and permitted the defendants to amend their written statement. Learned Appellate Court held that the object of Order 6 Rule 17 is to allow either party to alter or amend his pleadings in such manner and on such terms as may be necessary and just. It further held that amendment of written statement cannot be considered on the same principles as an amendment to the plaint. As per the learned Appellate Court, it was easy to amend the written statement rather than the plaint. Further, learned Appellate Court disagreed with the contention of the learned counsel for the plaintiff that proposed amendment would change the nature of the suit. As per the learned Appellate Court, the alleged revocation deed was in continuation of the impugned Will and it showed the intention of the testator. Learned Appellate Court thereafter adjudicated upon as to whether the defendants were diligent in prosecuting the case and when they for the first time came to know about this document. The findings returned by learned trial Court in this regard in paragraphs No. 14 and 18 of the order impugned are reproduced hereinbelow:

> "14. The learned counsel for the plaintiff/respondent has made reference to para No. 5 of the grounds of appeal, claiming that the appellants/defendants were aware about this document before the ld. Trial Court. In para No. 5, the appellants/defendants have mentioned that the plaintiff/respondent Sh. Sukh Ram had revoked the Will dated 29.12.1993 by executing the revocation deed dated 17.07.1998. In contrast, it is mentioned in para Nos. 4 and 5 of the application under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC that the appellants/defendants came to know about this document after receiving notice of the suit filed by the daughters of Sh. Sukh Ram for 11.07.2012. From the perusal of the evidence on record, knowledge cannot be foisted on appellants/defendants that they were aware about this document prior to decision of the suit. Hence, I am of the opinion that it cannot be said that the appellants/defendants have not acted in a diligent manner and have not produced the revocation deed before the learned trial Court.

18. In view of the law and facts as discussed above, it is quite clear that the revocation deed is an important document to determine the controversy in question. There is nothing on record on the basis of which it can be said that the appellants/defendants have not acted in a diligent manner and that they have not intentionally produced the document before the learned trial Court. This can also not be presumed because by withholding the document they were not going to reap any benefit. In these circumstances, I think that the amendment of the written statement is necessary and essential to settle the controversy and therefore, this application is allowed subject to costs of Rs.500/-. The application after due registration be tagged with the main appeal file.

16. Feeling aggrieved by the said order passed by learned Appellate Court, the plaintiff has filed the present petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

17. Before proceeding further, it is relevant and pertinent to take into consideration the scope of Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Radhey Shyam and another Vs. Chhabi Nath and other (2015) 5 Supreme Court Cases 423 has held that judicial orders of Civil Courts are not amenable to writ of certiorari under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It has further held that jurisdiction under Article 227 is distinct from jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It further held that all the Courts in the jurisdiction of a High Court are subordinate to it and subject to its control and supervision under Article 227. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held as under:

"26. The Bench in Surya Dev Rai also observed in para 25 of its judgment that distinction between Articles 226 and 227stood almost obliterated. In para 24 of the said judgment distinction in the two articles has been noted. In view thereof, observation that scope of Article 226 and 227 was obliterated was not correct as rightly observed by the referring Bench in Para 32 quoted above. We make it clear that though despite the curtailment of revisional jurisdiction under Section 115 CPC by Act 46 of 1999, jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 227 remains unaffected, it has been wrongly assumed in certain quarters that the said jurisdiction has been expanded. Scope of Article 227 has been explained in several decisions including Waryam Singh and another vs. Amarnathand anotherst, Ouseph Mathai vs. M. Abdul Khadir[12], Shalini Shyam Shetty vs. Rajendra Shankar Patil[13] and Sameer Suresh Gupta vs. Rahul Kumar Agarwal[14]. In Shalini Shyam Shetty, this Court observed :

> "64. However, this Court unfortunately discerns that of late there is a growing trend amongst several High Courts to entertain writ petition in cases of pure property disputes. Disputes relating to partition suits, matters relating to execution of a decree, in cases of dispute between landlord and tenant and also in a case of money decree and in various other cases where disputed questions of property are involved, writ courts are entertaining such disputes. In some cases the High Courts, in a routine manner, entertain petitions under Article 227 over such disputes and such petitions are treated as writ petitions.
> 65. We would like to make it clear that in view of the law referred to above in cases of property rights and in disputes between private individuals writ court should not interfere unless there is any infraction of statute or it can be shown that a private individual is acting in collusion with a statutory authority.

66. We may also observe that in some High Courts there is a tendency of entertaining petitions under Article 227 of the Constitution by terming them as writ petitions. This is sought to be justified on an erroneous appreciation of the ratio in Surya Dev and in view of the recent amendment to Section 115 of the Civil Procedure Code by the Civil Procedure Code (Amendment) Act, 1999. It is urged that as a result of the amendment, scope of Section 115 CPC has been curtailed. In our view, even if the scope of Section 115 CPC is curtailed that has not resulted in expanding the High Court's power of superintendence. It is too well known to be reiterated that in exercising its jurisdiction, High Court must follow the regime of law.

67. As a result of frequent interference by the Hon'ble High Court either under Article 226 or 227 of the Constitution with pending civil and at times criminal cases, the disposal of cases by the civil and criminal courts gets further impeded and thus causing serious problems in the administration of justice. This Court hopes and trusts that in exercising its power either underArticle 226 or 227, the Hon'ble High Court will follow the time honoured principles discussed above. Those principles have been formulated by this Court for ends of justice and the High Courts as the highest courts of justice within their jurisdiction will adhere to them strictly."

(emphasis supplied)

19. It is in this background that this Court will examine the order under challenge in exercise of its supervisory jurisdiction.

20. Order 6 Rule 17 of the CPC permits a party to alter or amend pleadings in such manner and on such terms as may be just at any stage of the proceedings. The said provision is quoted hereinbelow:

"Order VI Rule 17. Amendment of pleadings.-

The Court may at any stage of the proceedings allow either party to alter or amend his pleadings in such manner and on such terms as may be just, and all such amendments shall be made as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the real question in controversy between the parties:

Provided that no application for amendment shall be allowed after the trial has commenced, unless the Court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial."

21. It is apparent from the perusal of this statutory provision that no application for amendment shall be allowed after the trial has commenced unless the Court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of the trial.

22. As far as the facts of the present case are concerned, admittedly the application for amendment of the written statement was filed during the pendency of the appeal before the learned Appellate Court. Accordingly, the question which has to be adjudicated by this Court is whether learned first Appellate Court has rightly concluded that the amendment which has been permitted by it could not have been raised earlier by the applicants in spite of due diligence.

23. "Due diligence" has been defined in Advanced Law Lexicon as under:

"Due diligence. Such watchful caution and foresight as the circumstances of the particular case demands."

24. "Due diligence" has been defined in Black's Law Dictionary as under:

"Such a measure of prudence, activity, or assiduity, as is properly to be expected from, and ordinarily exercised by , a reasonable and prujdent man under the particular circumstances; not measured by any absolute standard, but depending on the relative facts of the special case."

25. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pirgonda Hongonda Patil Vs. Kalgonda Shidgonda Patil and others AIR 1957 SC 363 has held that the principles to be followed while allowing amendment in the pleadings are that the amendment sought should satisfy two conditions;

(a) not working injustice to the other side; and

(b) of being necessary for the purpose of determining the real questions in controversy between the parties.

26. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Revajeetu Builders and Developers Vs. Narayanaswamy and sons and others (2009) 10 Supreme Court Cases 84 has held:

"31. In our considered view, Order VI Rule 17 is one of the important provisions of the CPC, but we have no hesitation in also observing that this is one of the most misused provision of the Code for dragging the proceedings indefinitely, particularly in the Indian courts which are otherwise heavily overburdened with the pending cases. All Civil Courts ordinarily have a long list of cases, therefore, the Courts are compelled to grant long dates which causes delay in disposal of the cases. The applications for amendment lead to further delay in disposal of the cases.

63. On critically analyzing both the English and Indian cases, some basic principles emerge which ought to be taken into consideration while allowing or rejecting the application for amendment.

(1) Whether the amendment sought is imperative for proper and effective adjudication of the case?

(2) Whether the application for amendment is bona fide or mala fide?

(3) The amendment should not cause such prejudice to the other side which cannot be compensated adequately in terms of money;

(4) Refusing amendment would in fact lead to injustice or lead to multiple litigation;

(5) Whether the proposed amendment constitutionally or fundamentally changes the nature and character of the case? and

(6) As a general rule, the court should decline amendments if a fresh suit on the amended claims would be barred by limitation on the date of application.

These are some of the important factors which may be kept in mind while dealing with application filed under Order VI Rule 17. These are only illustrative and not exhaustive.

64. The decision on an application made under Order VI Rule 17 is a very serious judicial exercise and the said exercise should never be undertaken in a casual manner. We can conclude our discussion by observing that while deciding applications for amendments the courts must not refuse bona fide, legitimate, honest and necessary amendments and should never permit mala fide, worthless and/or dishonest amendments."

27. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Union of India and another (2011) 12 Supreme Court Cases 268 has held:

"6. In order to consider the claim of the plaintiff and the opposition of the defendants, it is desirable to refer the relevant provisions. Order VI Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (in short `the Code') enables the parties to make amendment of the plaint which reads as under:

> "17. Amendment of pleadings - The Court may at any stage of the proceedings allow either party to alter or amend his pleadings in such manner and on such terms as may be just, and all such amendments shall be made as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the real questions in controversy between the parties:
> Provided that no application for amendment shall be allowed after the trial has commenced, unless the Court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial."

7. The above provision deals with amendment of pleadings. By Amendment Act 46 of 1999, this provision was deleted. It has again been restored by Amendment Act 22 of 2002 but with an added proviso to prevent application for amendment being allowed after the trial has commenced, unless the Court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial. The proviso, to some extent, curtails absolute discretion to allow amendment at any stage. Now, if application is filed after commencement of trial, it must be shown that in spite of due diligence, such amendment could not have been sought earlier.

8. The purpose and object of Order VI Rule 17 of the Code is to allow either party to alter or amend his pleadings in such manner and on such terms as may be just. Amendment cannot be claimed as a matter of right and under all circumstances, but the Courts while deciding such prayers should not adopt a hyper-technical approach. Liberal approach should be the general rule particularly, in cases where the other side can be compensated with costs. Normally, amendments are allowed in the pleadings to avoid multiplicity of litigations.

9) Inasmuch as the plaintiff-State of Madhya Pradesh has approached this Court invoking the original jurisdiction under Article 131 of the Constitution of India, the Rules framed by this Court, i.e., The Supreme Court Rules, 1966 (in short `the Rules) have to be applied to the case on hand. Order XXVI speaks about "Pleadings Generally". Among various rules, we are concerned about Rule 8 which reads as under:

"8. The Court may, at any stage of the proceedings, allow either party to amend his pleading in such manner and on such terms as may be just, but only such amendments shall be made as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the real question in controversy between the parties."

The above provision, which is similar to Order VI Rule 17 of the Code prescribes that at any stage of the proceedings, the Court may allow either party to amend his pleadings. However, it must be established that the proposed amendment is necessary for the purpose of determining the real question in controversy between the parties.

10. This Court, while considering Order VI Rule 17 of the Code, in several judgments has laid down the principles to be applicable in the case of amendment of plaint which are as follows:

(i) Surender Kumar Sharma v. Makhan Singh, (2009) 10 SCC 626, at para 5:

"5. As noted hereinearlier, the prayer for amendment was refused by the High Court on two grounds. So far as the first ground is concerned i.e. the prayer for amendment was a belated one, we are of the view that even if it was belated, then also, the question that needs to be decided is to see whether by allowing the amendment, the real controversy between the parties may be resolved. It is well settled that under Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure, wide powers and unfettered discretion have been conferred on the court to allow amendment of the pleadings to a party in such a manner and on such terms as it appears to the court just and proper. Even if, such an application for amendment of the plaint was filed belatedly, such belated amendment cannot be refused if it is found that for deciding the real controversy between the parties, it can be allowed on payment of costs. Therefore, in our view, mere delay and laches in making the application for amendment cannot be a ground to refuse the amendment."

(ii) North Eastern Railway Administration, Gorakhpur v. Bhagwan Das (dead) by LRS, (2008) 8 SCC 511, at para16:

"16. Insofar as the principles which govern the question of granting or disallowing amendments under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC (as it stood at the relevant time) are concerned, these are also well settled. Order 6 Rule 17 CPC postulates amendment of pleadings at any stage of the proceedings.In Pirgonda Hongonda Patil v. Kalgonda Shidgonda Patil which still holds the field, it was held that all amendments ought to be allowed which satisfy the two conditions: (a) of not working injustice to the other side, and (b) of being necessary for the purpose of determining the real questions in controversy between the parties. Amendments should be refused only where the other party cannot be placed in the same position as if the pleading had been originally correct, but the amendment would cause him an injury which could not be compensated in costs."

(iii) Usha Devi v. Rijwan Ahamd and Others, (2008) 3 SCC 717, at para 13:

"13. Mr Bharuka, on the other hand, invited our attention to another decision of this Court inBaldev Singh v. Manohar Singh. In para 17 of the decision, it was held and observed as follows: (SCC pp. 504-05)

"17. Before we part with this order, we may also notice that proviso to Order 6 Rule 17 CPC provides that amendment of pleadings shall not be allowed when the trial of the suit has already commenced. For this reason, we have examined the records and find that, in fact, the trial has not yet commenced. It appears from the records that the parties have yet to file their documentary evidence in the suit. From the record, it also appears that the suit was not on the verge of conclusion as found by the High Court and the trial court.That apart, commencement of trial as used in proviso to Order 6 Rule 17 in the Code of Civil Procedure must be understood in the limited sense as meaning the final hearing of the suit, examination of witnesses, filing of documents and addressing of arguments. As noted hereinbefore, parties are yet to file their documents, we do not find any reason to reject the application for amendment of the written statement in view of proviso to Order 6 Rule 17 CPC which confers wide power and unfettered discretion on the court to allow an amendment of the written statement at any stage of the proceedings."

(iv) Rajesh Kumar Aggarwal and Others v. K.K. Modi and Others, (2006) 4 SCC 385, at paras 15 & 16:

"15. The object of the rule is that the courts should try the merits of the case that come before them and should, consequently, allow all amendments that may be necessary for determining the real question in controversy between the parties provided it does not cause injustice or prejudice to the other side.

16. Order 6 Rule 17 consists of two parts. Whereas the first part is discretionary (may) and leaves it to the court to order amendment of pleading. The second part is imperative (shall) and enjoins the court to allow all amendments which are necessary for the purpose of determining the real question in controversy between the parties."

(v) Revajeetu Builders and Developers v. Narayanaswamy and Sons and Others, (2009) 10 SCC 84, at para 63:

"63. On critically analysing both the English and Indian cases, some basic principles emerge which ought to be taken into consideration while allowing or rejecting the application for amendment:

(1) whether the amendment sought is imperative for proper and effective adjudication of the case;

(2) whether the application for amendment is bona fide or mala fide;

(3) the amendment should not cause such prejudice to the other side which cannot be compensated adequately in terms of money;

(4) refusing amendment would in fact lead to injustice or lead to multiple litigation;

(5) whether the proposed amendment constitutionally or fundamentally changes the nature and character of the case; and

(6) as a general rule, the court should decline amendments if a fresh suit on the amended claims would be barred by limitation on the date of application.

These are some of the important factors which may be kept in mind while dealing with application filed under Order 6 Rule 17. These are only illustrative and not exhaustive."

The above principles make it clear that Courts have ample power to allow the application for amendment of the plaint. However, it must be satisfied that the same is required in the interest of justice and for the purpose of determination of real question in controversy between the parties."

28. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Chander Kanta Bansal Vs. Rajinder Singh Anand (2008) 5 Supreme Court Cases 117 has held that whether a party has acted with due diligence or not, would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. It has further held that this would, to some extent, limit the scope of amendment to pleadings, but would still vest enough powers in courts to deal with the unforeseen situations whenever they arise. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further held that the entire object of the said amendment is to stall filing of applications for amending a pleading subsequent to the commencement of trial, to avoid surprises and the parties had sufficient knowledge of the other's case. It also helps in checking the delays in filing the applications. It has further held that once the trial commences on the known pleas, it will be very difficult for any side to reconcile. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further held that in spite of the same, an exception is made in the newly inserted proviso. Where it is shown that in spite of due diligence, a party could not raise a plea, it is for the Court to consider the same. Accordingly, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that it is not a complete bar nor shuts out entertaining of any later application. It also held that the reason for adding proviso is to curtail delay and expedite hearing of cases. Paragraphs No. 15 and 16 of the said judgment are quoted hereinbelow:

"15. As discussed above, though first part of Rule 17 makes it clear that amendment of pleadings is permitted at any stage of the proceeding, the proviso imposes certain restrictions. It makes it clear that after the commencement of trial, no application for amendment shall be allowed. However, if it is established that in spite of "due diligence" the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial depending on the circumstances, the court is free to order such application.

16. The words "due diligence" has not been defined in the Code. According to Oxford Dictionary (Edition 2006), the word "diligence" means careful and persistent application or effort. "Diligent" means careful and steady in application to one's work and duties, showing care and effort. As per Black's Law Dictionary (Eighth > Edition), "diligence" means a continual effort to accomplish something, care; caution; the attention and care required from a person in a given situation. "Due diligence" means the diligence reasonably expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a person who seeks to satisfy a legal requirement or to discharge an obligation. According to Words and Phrases by Drain-Dyspnea (Permanent Edition 13A) "due diligence", in law, means doing everything reasonable, not everything possible. "Due diligence" means reasonable diligence; it means such diligence as a prudent man would exercise in the conduct of his own affairs."

29. Therefore, it is evident from the law which has been discussed above that as per the Hon'ble Supreme Court that "*due diligence" means diligence reasonably expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a person who seeks to satisfy a legal requirement or to discharge an obligation.

30. Further, in view of the law declared by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, another very important aspect of the matter which has to be taken into consideration while deciding an application praying for an amendment in the pleadings is that whether an application for amendment is malafide or bonafide.

31. Coming to the facts of the present case, the present petitioner filed the suit for declaration and injunction against the respondents on 14.06.2004. The said suit was decreed on 20.12.2011, which is evident from copy of judgment dated 20.12.2011 (Annexure P-1). Appeal against the judgment and decree dated 20.12.2011 was filed by the present respondents on 19.01.2012 as is evident from grounds of appeal (Annexure P-2).

32. This Court has already taken note of the fact that in paragraph No. 7 of the grounds of appeal, it was specifically pleaded by the present respondents that the plaintiff therein, i.e. present petitioner had no cause of action to challenge Will dated 21.08.2003 as the Will dated 29.12.1993 had been revoked independently by Shri Sukh Ram and the revocation deed was in possession of daughters of Sh. Sukh Ram. It is also a matter of record that this fact was never pleaded by the respondents in the written statement filed to the suit nor during the pendency of the suit any application was filed for amendment of the written statement to bring this fact on record. Incidentally, this fact was subsequently sought to be brought on record by way of an amendment in the written statement at the appellate stage by moving an application under Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure. The explanation given in the said application to justify 'due diligence' as to why the amendment was being sought at such belated stage was that it was during the pendency of the appeal that the respondents received notice from the Court of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division) Bilaspur to appear before the said Court on 11.07.2012 in a Civil Suit filed by the daughters of Shri Sukh Ram alongwith which copy of plaint was also appended, from where they derived this knowledge that late Shri Sukh Ram had revoked Will dated 29.12.1993 on 17.07.1998 through a registered revocation deed.

33. In my considered view, the explanation which was put forth by the respondents in the said application of theirs to explain "due diligence" was incorrect, wrong and concocted. This is evident from the fact that though the explanation which has been given in the application for filing application for amending the written statement at such a belated stage was that they came to know about the factum of late Sukh Ram having revoked Will dated 29.12.1993 from the plaint which they had received along with notice in a case which had been filed by the daughters of Sukh Ram, but the fact of the matter remains that the averments to this effect had already been incorporated in the grounds of appeal by the appellant which appeal was filed in January, 2012. The application for amendment of the written statement is dated 27.08.2012. There is no explanation as to how the averments qua the factum of revocation of the Will by deceased Sukh Ram were incorporated in the grounds of appeal if the version of the defendants is to be believed that they came to know of this fact only after they received a copy of the plaint along with summons in a subsequent suit filed by the daughters of late Shri Sukh Ram. Thus, it is clear that the applicant has not approached the Court praying for amendment of the written statement with clean hands. This gives credence to the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner that in fact the Civil Suit which had been filed by the daughters of Sukh Ram is at the behest of respondents. A copy of the said Civil Suit is also on record as Annexure P-4 with the present petition. The filing of the application at such a belated stage otherwise also apparently does not seem to be a bonafide act on behalf of the respondents/applicant.

34. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India Vs. Pramod Gupta and others (2005) 12 SCC 1 has held that delay and laches on the part of the parties to the proceedings would also be a relevant factor for allowing or disallowing an application for amendment of the pleadings.

35. In my considered view, in the facts and circumstances of the present case, it cannot be said that the respondents/applicants had duly explained the delays and laches in moving application for amendment of the written statement at the appellate stage, especially in view of the fact that the explanation which has been given by the respondents/applicants in this regard is incorrect and not trustworthy. Further, the defendants have also not been able to explain that "due diligence" was exercised by them, but despite this, they could not be file the application praying for amendment of the written statement earlier. I have already held above that filing of the application at such a belated stage coupled with the averments on the basis of which the said application was filed was a clear indicator that there were smacks of malafide in filing of the application and the prayer for amending the written statement was not a bonafide innocuous act on the part of the respondents/applicants. Not only this, the amendment which has been allowed by learned Appellate Court, even otherwise could not have been allowed as apparently it has changed the entire nature of the case. All these relevant aspects of the matter have not been gone into by the learned Court below while allowing the application filed by respondents/applicants to amend the written statement.

36. Therefore, in my considered view, the order dated 05.09.2013 passed by the learned Appellate Court vide which it has allowed the application filed by the respondents/applicants to amend the written statement is not sustainable in law and the same is accordingly set aside and the petition is allowed in the above terms. No order as to costs.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Kans Raj. ......Petitioner.

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh. ......Respondent.

Cr.MP(M) No. 860 of 2016.
Date of decision: July 21, 2016.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 436- Accused was found in possession of 1.5 grams Heroin- held, that quantity of drug recovered from the accused is small quantity and the offence is bailable – the fact that three cases had been registered against the accused for the commission of offence punishable under NDPS Act and he had been convicted in the one of the cases or that one case had been registered against him under Excise Act is of no significance as he is entitled to bail under Section 436 of Cr.P.C- bail granted. (Para-2 to 5)

For the petitioner : Mr. Gaurav Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondent-State: Mr.D.S. Nainta and Mr. Virender Verma, Addl. AGs.
ASI Rajinder Kumar, P.S. Indora, District Kangra, in person.

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (Oral)

Petitioner is an accused in FIR No. 86/16 registered under Section 21 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the ' NDPS Act' in short) in Police Station, Indora, District Kangra, H.P.

2. The police party headed by ASI Rajinder Kumar has nabbed the accused on 2.3.2016 at such a time when he was coming from Meerthal bridge and going towards village Milwan. On seeing the police, he tried to turn back. This has resulted in suspicion that the accused-petitioner may be in possession of "Heroin" a narcotic drug. He was apprehended and his search was conducted after giving him option qua exercise of his legal right of being searched before a nearby Magistrate or a gazetted officer in the presence of the independent witnesses. He allegedly opted for being searched by the police present at the spot. When his search conducted in the presence of independent witnesses Heroin kept in a white coloured polythene pack was recovered from right side pocket of his trouser. On weighing the recovered drug, it was found 1.5 grams including the weight of polythene packet. After resorting to sealing process and seizure of the drug allegedly recovered from the accused-petitioner and also complying with other provisions of the Act, the accused-petitioner was arrested. Since learned Special Judge has dismissed the application he filed for the grant of bail vide Annexure A-1 to this petition, therefore, the accused-petitioner is still in judicial custody.

3. Learned Additional Advocate General has strenuously contended that in view of three more cases having been registered against the accused–petitioner under the provisions of NDPS Act, whereas in one of the case under the Excise Act he has already been convicted, learned Special Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala has rightly dismissed the application he filed for grant of the bail. On the other hand, learned defence Counsel has come forward with the version that in view of the present is a case of recovery of small quantity of drug allegedly recovered from the accused-petitioner and that as per Section 21 of the Act in the event of he is ultimately held guilty can only be sentenced to imprisonment for a period not exceeding one year, he could have not been detained in custody and rather released on bail.

4. As a matter of fact, the rigor of Section 37 of the Act is not attracted in this case for the reason that stringent condition for grant of bail prescribed under Section 37(1)(b) are applicably only to those offences punishable under Section 19, 24 and 27A as well as the offences involving 'commercial quantity'. The conditions in Section 37 do not apply to any other offence. The accused-petitioner has been booked for the commission of an offence under Section 21 of the NDPS Act. The quantity of the drug allegedly Heroin recovered from him is small quantity. Therefore, the present being a case under Section 21 of the NDPS Act and pertains to the alleged recovery of IHeroin in small quantity, he is entitled to be admitted on bail in terms of Section 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. I am drawing support in this regard from the judgment of High Court of Delhi dated 8.5.2012 in WP(CRL) 338/2012 & CRL.M.A. 2824/2012 titled Minnie Kadim Ali Kuhn Versus State NCT of Dellhi & Ors.

5. No doubt, there are three more cases registered under the NDPS Act against the accused-petitioner, whereas he has been convicted in one of the case which was registered against him, under the Excise Act. However, in view of the legal position discussed hereinabove, the registration/pendency of such cases against him is hardly of no consequence so far as his legal right to be admitted on bail in this case is concerned. The application as such is allowed. Consequently, the accused-petitioner, who has been arrested in connection with FIR No. 86/16, under Section 21 of the NDPS Act, Police Station, Indora District Kangra is ordered to be released on bail subject to his furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rs.25,000/- with one surety in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned Special Judge (Sessions Judge) Kangra at Dharamshala. The accused-petitioner, however, shall abide by the following conditions:

That he shall:-

a. not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

b. not make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police officer; and

c. not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

6. It is clarified that if the accused-petitioner misuses his liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him; the Investigating Agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

7. The observations hereinabove shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition and have no bearing on the merits of the case. The application stands disposed of.

Cr.W.P. No. 29 of 2015.
Reserved on: 14.07.2016.
Date of Decision: 21st July, 2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Son of the petitioner was engaged as the conductor in a JCB machine- one J was employed as driver in the machine- machine developed some defect – defective parts were taken to Chandigarh in a pickup- driver boarded the jeep but the deceased did not accompany the driver and slipped into a gorge causing his death- matter was reported to police on which FIR was registered - it was contended by the father of the deceased that investigation was not conducted properly and a prayer was made for investigation by CBI- material shows that investigation was conducted properly- there is no merit in the petition, hence, dismissed. (Para-2 and 3)

For the Petitioner: Ms. Archana Dutt, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. M.A. Khan, Additional Advocate General.

Per Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The petitioner's deceased son named Karan stood engaged as a conductor in a JCB machine. One Jaswinder Singh stood deployed as a driver on the aforesaid JCB Machine. The aforesaid JCB machine was deployed for carrying construction of road, Drabil to Khadrari in District Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh. On 1.1.2015, the JCB machine developed operational defects, for removal whereof, the relevant defective part thereof stood opened by both Jaswinder Singh and Karan, whereupon it was loaded in a Pick UP jeep. Jaswinder Singh, the driver of the JCB machine went aboard the jeep aforesaid to Chandigarh for begetting thereat the relevant repairs thereto. However, deceased Karan did not accompany Jaswinder Singh to Chandigarh in the jeep aforesaid. Deceased Karan Singh is alleged to slip into a gorge from a narrow passage whereupon his demise occurred. The postmortem report stands appended to the writ petition as Annexure P-2, wherein, revelations occur of subdual hemorrhage besides haemothorax begetting the demise of the deceased. Photographs reflecting the injuries entailed upon the body of the deceased also stand annexed to the petition as Annexure P-6. On an apposite FIR qua the occurrence standing registered in the police station concerned, investigations stood commenced by the Investigating Officer. Investigations culminated in the Investigating Officer concluding qua the demise of deceased Karan occurring on account of his slipping into a deep gorge from a narrow passage.

2. The petitioner standing aggrieved with the investigations held by the Investigating Officer lodged a complaint with the Superintendent of Police, Sirmour at Nahan, who ordered for the holding of fresh investigations. On the matter coming to re-investigated by respondent No.4, the latter arrived at a conclusion analogous to the one which he had arrived at earlier. The petitioner repels the conclusions arrived at by the Investigating Officer concerned by emphasizing upon video clips of 1.1.2015 purportedly existing in the mobile of the deceased displaying therein qua the JCB machine on the aforesaid date holding construction activity at the relevant site, hence, he contends through his counsel qua the narration of its driver Jaswinder Singh of a part of JCB machine developing a defect on 1.1.2015, for rectification whereof it was loaded in a jeep whereon Jaswinder Singh remained aboard upto Chandigarh whereupto it stood carried for the purpose aforesaid, standing belied. Consequently, the petitioner nurses a grievance of the Investigating Officer not holding a thorough impartisan investigation. Thereupon a prayer is made of the Investigation being ordered to be held afresh by the Central Bureau of Investigation (hereinafter referred as the CBI).

3. In nut shell, the aforesaid falsity ascribed to the relevant investigations by the father of the deceased is enjoined to be adjudicated upon by this Court. In case, this Court disinters from the relevant material qua the espousal of the father of the deceased holding veracity it would proceed to order for the investigations hereinafter standing handled by the CBI. Respondent No.3 has in her sworn affidavit of 01.07.2016 unraveled therein of the Investigating Officer after eliciting the presence of the petitioner on 11.6.2016 he in his presence examining the CD/video clippings sent by the petitioner to police station, Rejuka Ji. Also she swears therein of on the aforesaid date on the CD/video clippings purveyed by the petitioner to the Investigating Officer concerned standing sighted thereat by the petitioner along with Gain Chand and Gurdial Singh, no emanation upsurging therefrom nor any clue emerging in display of the demise of his son Karan standing begotten by a cause other than the one ascribed by the Investigating Officer in his earlier apposite reports. Moreover, articulations occur therein of the statements of the petitioner and of Gain Chand and Gurdial Singh in consonance with the depictions in the CD/video clips standing recorded wherein they displayed qua CD/video clips not unveiling any incriminatory role vis-a-vis Jasiwnder Singh. Consequently, with the statements of the petitioner also of Gain Chand and Gudial Singh unfolding their concurrence with the display in the CD/video clip which stood sighted by them at Police Station, Renuka Ji, estops them to constrain a conclusion from this Court of the aforesaid CD/video clips holding any visible display in purported inculpation of Jaswinder Singh. Furthermore, with the petitioner dehors the aforesaid CD/video clip not holding any material to dispel the efficacy of of the recitals made in his report by the Investigating Officer wherein he ascribes the cause of the demise of the deceased to his accidentally slipping into a deep gorge from a narrow passage, concomitantly, hinders this Court to show its dissatisfaction with the investigations held by the Investigating Officer nor hence this Court is constrained to order for the CBI holding investigations.

4. Be that as it may, also in the affidavit sworn on 01.07.2016 by respondent No.3, an echoing occurs therein of the JCB machine concerned disclosed by Jaswinder Singh, its driver, to hold a defect on 1.1.2015, for removal whereof he carried its relevant defective part in a jeep to Chandigarh, not standing ingrained with any tinge of falsity. The aforesaid manifestations occurring in the affidavit of respondent No.3 sworn on 1.07.2016 when stand anchored upon the aforestated disclosures occurring therein as a corollary they dispel the espousal of the counsel for the petitioner of the aforesaid narrations of Jaswinder Singh qua the unworkability of JCB machine on 1.1.2015 standing imbued with a vice of inveracity. As a corollary, reiteratedly the reason for the demise of the deceased as stand ascribed by the Investigating Officer concerned in his apposite reports appears to be holding the virtue of truth.

5. The summom bonum of the discussion is of the Investigations held by the Investigating Officer concerned not suffering from any taint of partisanship nor the relevant investigations suffering from any frailty qua theirs being not either threadbare or incisive. In aftermath, there is no merit in the instant petition and accordingly, it is dismissed. Pending applications, if any, also stand disposed of.

Cr. Appeal No. 67 of 2016.
Reserved on: 14th July, 2016.
Date of Decision:21st July, 2016.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 376 and 506- Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012- Section 4- Mother of the prosecutrix left matrimonial home due to beatings given by the father of the prosecutrix/accused- accused used to ravish the prosecutrix - she left home and was noticed by the police at ISBT, Shimla - she was taken to Kasturba Balika Asharam, Durgapur - she left the asharm with her friend and was apprehended by the police- she narrated the incident to police, on which FIR was registered- accused was tried and convicted by the trial Court- held, that prosecutrix was born on 4.3.2000 according to school leaving certificate- she has given her date of birth as 3.3.2000 in her testimony but that is not sufficient to doubt her version- she was minor on the date of incident - she has supported the prosecution version- there is no reason to disbelieve her testimony- trial Court had rightly appreciated her testimony- appeal dismissed. (Para-10 to 24)

For the Appellant: Mr. M.S. Verma and Mr. Yashveer Singh, Advocates.
For the Respondent: Mr. M.A. Khan, Additional Advocate General.

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant appeal is directed against the judgment rendered on 19.06.2015 by the learned Special Judge, Shimla, District Shimla, H.P. in Sessions trial No.18-S/7 of 2014, whereby, the learned trial Court convicted and sentenced the appellant/accused as under:

Sr. No.	Sections	Sentence imposed
1.	376, IPC	Sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of seven years and to pay a fine of Rs.30,000/-. In default of payment of fine, the convict shall further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of two months.
2.	506, IPC	Sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of six months and to pay a fine of Rs.1000/-. In default of payment of fine amount, the convict shall further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of 15 days.

3.	Section 4 of the POCSO Act.	Sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of 10 years and to pay a fine of Rs.30,000/-. In default of payment of fine amount, the convict shall further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of four months.

2. Brief facts of the case which are necessary to determine the appeal are that the prosecutrix made a statement under Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred as Cr.P.C.) disclosing therein that she is residing at Kasturba Balika Asharam, Durgapur from 29.3.2014. Her father is agriculturist, whereas, her mother had left her matrimonial home about four years ago. According to the prosecutrix, her mother had solemnized marriage. They are five brothers and sisters and she is the eldest one. Her father used to beat her mother as well as his children. Due to this act of the father of the prosecutrix, her mother left the matrimonial home. Father of the prosecutrix is also stated to be in the habits of drinking. When the mother of the prosecutrix left her matrimonial home, her father used to ravish her continuously. Due to the fear and beatings given by the accused, the prosecutrix has not disclosed this fact to anyone or her relatives. On 28.3.2014, she left the house of her father and came to Shimla. On 29.3.2014, she was noticed by the police at ISBT, Shimla, thereafter, the workers from child help line were called to take the prosecutrix to Kasturba Balika Ashram, Durgapur. Prosecutrix further got recorded that she has not disclosed this fact to anyone and after residing in the said Ashram for a week, on 4.4.2014, she left the Ashram along with her friend. Both of them had gone to Solan where both of them were nabbed by the police and were brought to Police Station, Dhalli. On inquiry by the police, she disclosed all these facts to the police. On the basis of said statement, the police of Police Station, Dhalli recorded zero FIR under Sections 376, 506, IPC read with Section 4 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act (hereinafter referred to as the "POCSO Act"). The zero FIR was sent to Police Station, Chirgaon, where FIR No.21/2014 under Sections 376(2), 506 IPC and Section 4 of POCSO Act was registered. After the registration of the FIR, the police started the investigation in the case and concluded all the formalities thereto.

3. On conclusion of the investigation, into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and filed in the Court.

4. The accused was charged by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 376, 506 IPC read with Section 4 of the Protection of Children from Sexual offences Act to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

5. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 13 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of accused, under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was recorded in which he pleaded innocence. However, he has not led any defence evidence.

6. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of conviction against the accused/appellant.

7. The accused/appellant is aggrieved by the judgment of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court. The learned defence counsel has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court being not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs being sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of the material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

8. On the other hand, the learned Addl. Advocate General has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the Court below being based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

9. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

10. At the outset it is imperative to determine the paramount factum qua the prosecutrix at the stage of hers standing subjected to forcible sexual intercourses by the accused/appellant hers holding an age to mete consent to his subjecting her to sexual intercourses. Evidence which discloses the factum of the prosecutrix being a minor at the stage contemporaneous to hers standing allegedly subjected to forcible sexual intercourses, stands constituted in Ex.PW10/A, exhibit whereof is her school leaving certificate issued by the school concerned. Ex.PW10/A holds a reflection of hers standing born on 4.3.2000. It acquires evidentiary vigour given the pronouncement in the deposition of PW-10 of the prosecutrix standing admitted in school by the accused/appellant also with PW-10 testifying qua the time whereat the accused/appellant getting the prosecutrix admitted in school his signing the relevant application. Consequently, the factum of Ex.PW10/A standing unaccompanied by the birth certificate of the prosecutrix would not denude the efficacy of the apposite reflections occurring therein , rather the reflections occurring therein qua the date of birth of the prosecutrix acquire corroborative vigour from the factum of the learned defence counsel while holding the prosecutrix to cross-examination qua the factum deposed by her in her examination-in-chief of hers holding an age of 14 years, not putting apposite suggestions to her for shattering the factum aforesaid deposed by her in her examination-in-chief. In sequel, the omission aforesaid of the learned defence counsel does foment an apt conclusion of the defence conceding to the factum as deposed by the prosecutrix in her examination-in-chief of hers standing aged 14 years. Even the factum of the prosecutrix in her deposition disclosing her date of birth to be 3.3.2000, deposition whereof of the prosecutrix is minimally in variation vis-a-vis the reflections qua her date of birth existing in Ex.PW10/A. Consequently, the minimal variations inter se the date of birth of the prosecutrix as testified by her vis-a-vis the apposite reflections in Ex.PW10/A hold no ground for the learned counsel appearing for the accused/appellant to contend of the apposite reflections in Ex.PW10/A being meritless. With this Court concluding of the prosecutrix holding an age depriving her to mete consent to the accused for his subjecting her to sexual intercourses, as a corollary the effect of consent, if any, meted by the prosecutrix to the accused in the latter perpetrating penal sexual misdemeanors upon her fades into insignificance.

11. The prosecutrix in proof of the genesis of the prosecution case had stepped into the witness box. She being a child witness, therefore, the learned trial Court was enjoined to pronounce upon her competence to depose as a witness, pronouncement whereof by it was enjoined to stand preceded by its quizzing the prosecutrix for its hence adjudging her intelligibility. The learned trial court had declared her a competent witness to testify before it only when prior thereto it by quizzing her had assessed her intelligibility, in sequel, the pronouncement by the learned trial Court qua her competence to depose as a witness empowers this Court to read her testimony. The prosecutrix in her testification before the learned trial Court has made communications therein in wholesome harmony vis-a-vis the recorded recitals qua the penal sexual misdemeanors delineated in FIR Ex.PW7/A. She stood subjected to the ordeal of a rigorous cross-examination, yet she has come out unscathed in the aforesaid ordeal. In sequel, her testimony qua the genesis of the prosecution case as aptly concluded by the learned trial Court is both trustworthy besides inspire the confidence of this Court.

12. The prosecutrix in her testification has therein throughout named the accused/appellant to be her “Pita ji”. The prosecutrix hails from a remote far flung area of District

Shimla. She, on her mother abandoning the company of the accused/appellant, continued to stay with him. She being a minor, the accused/appellant while holding her custody was enjoined to ensure of her virginity remaining undefiled. However, the accused/appellant despite his holding her custody at his home wantonly subjected her to forcible sexual intercourses. The espousal of the defence of the accused/appellant insisting upon the prosecutrix to mete appropriate attention towards her studies, insistence whereof by him upon the prosecutrix reared a motive in the prosecutrix to falsely implicate the accused/appellant, holds no formidability given the triviality of the purported motive nursed by the prosecutrix arising from the facet aforesaid vis-a-vis hers ascribing to the accused/appellant allegations unraveling his perpetrating heinous offence(s) upon her person also with hers referring to the accused/appellant throughout her testification in Court as her "Pita ji", factum whereof remains unrepulsed by the defence counsel while holding her to cross-examination, contrarily, boosts a deduction of the accused/appellant misusing the capacity in which he held the custody of the minor prosecutrix also an inference upsurges of the prosecutrix not leaning to impute allegations of a serious nature against her "Pita ji" unless the allegations held a ring of truth. Further more, she would refrain from imputing serious allegations against her "Pita ji" given hers thereupon standing rendered homeless rather when she stood driven to flee from her home enables this Court to conclude of hers standing prodded to leave her home as she was uncomfortable thereat, given hers standing subjected to penal sexual misdemeanors by the accused. On fleeing from her house she proceeded to Shimla. She was noticed by the police at ISBT, Shimla. The police had sent her to Kasturba Balika Ashram, Durgapur. After 7 days she along with her companion fled to Solan. She, on 8.4.2014 was nabbed at Solan and was brought to Police Station, Dhalli where her statement under Section 154 of the Cr.P.C. was recorded by the police, wherein she leveled allegations of hers standing subjected to forcible penal sexual misdemeanors by the accused/appellant. The mere factum of hers not disclosing to the police on 29.3.2014 the penal sexual misdemeanors which she subsequently ascribed to the accused/appellant in FIR Ex.PW6/C, would not render her creditworthy testimony to lose its creditworthiness nor would the minimal delay of 11 days as stands aroused since 29.3.2014 upto the date of her lodging an FIR against the accused/appellant at Police Station, Dhalli would belittle her credence, prominently when this Court concludes of hers taking to impute allegations against the accused/appellant, who is her "Pita ji" qua whom she would refrain to constitute serious allegations only when he had wantonly sexually abused her at her home where he held her custody.

13. The deposition of the prosecutrix acquires credence from MLC Ex.PW12/C. Also with PW-12 testifying in Court of the prosecutrix standing subjected to sexual intercourses invincibly connects the accused with the allegations constituted against him by the prosecutrix in her creditworthy testimony. Even though in the report of the FSL concerned comprised in Ex.PW 12/B, the expert concerned opines of the accused/appellant not being the biological father of the prosecutrix yet the aforesaid unfoldment occurring in Ex.PW12/B would not oust the creditworthy testimony of the prosecutrix nor also would oust the factum of hers staying in the home of the accused/appellant even when her mother had fled therefrom nor would render the accused dehors his not being the biological father of the prosecutrix, of his yet holding a symbolic relationship with her as her "Pita ji", relationship whereof of the accused with her, stands ascribed by the prosecutrix throughout in her testification, factum whereof remaining undenied by the accused, enjoined him to take care of her while he held her custody at his home as his daughter than to wantonly ravish her.

14. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court below has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of the evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

15. In view of the above, we find no merit in this appeal which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment impugned before this Court is affirmed and maintained. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

2. We have examined the pleadings and have gone through the record and are of the considered view that it would be just to exclude the period spent by the petitioner in prosecuting the instant writ petition.

3. Accordingly, the writ petition is disposed of as withdrawn, with liberty to the petitioner to seek appropriate remedy, if any available, as per law applicable. It is made clear that in case the petitioner seeks appropriate remedy, if any available, the period spent from the date of filing of the writ petition till today shall be excluded while computing the period of limitation. It is further alleged that present petition is filed by Smt. Ruchi Attri in order to fulfill her illegal motive. It is further alleged that Smt. Ruchi Attri after the marriage insisted Sh. It is further alleged that Sh. Sanjeev Attri and his family members did not torture Smt. Ruchi Attri in her matrimonial house at any point of time. It is further alleged that Sh. Sanjeev Attri and his family members did not demand any dowry from Smt. Ruchi Attri at any point of time. It is further alleged that salary of Sh. 4. Learned Trial Court framed following points for determination: (1) Whether complainant is entitled for protection orders under Section 18 of the act as alleged? (2) Whether complainant is entitled for residence orders under Section 19 of the act as alleged? (3) Whether complainant is entitled for monetary reliefs under Section 20 of the act as alleged? (4) Whether complainant is entitled for compensation orders under Section 22 of the act as alleged? (5) Final Order. Learned Trial Court decided points No.1 to 4 in affirmative. Learned Trial Court allowed the complaint filed by complainant under Section 12 of Protection of women from domestic violence act 2005. Learned Trial Court passed protection orders under Section 18 of the act and restrained co-respondents No.1 to 4 from advancing any type of threats in any manner and also directed that respondents would not enter the place of complainant employment and would not commit any act of domestic violence against the complainant. Learned Trial Court further passed protection orders under Section 19 of the act and directed Sh. Sanjeev Attri to either provide accommodation in the aforesaid shared house hold at his place or to pay Rs.3,000/- (Three thousand) per month as rent charges in lieu of residence to the complainant from the date of passing order i.e. w.e.f. 30.08.2014. Learned Trial Court also passed protection orders under Section 20 of the act and directed Sh. Sanjeev Attri to pay Rs.5,000/- (Five thousand) per month as maintenance allowance to complainant and Rs.5,000/- (Five thousand) per month as maintenance allowance to her minor daughter who is living with complainant and granted total sum of Rs.10,000/- (Ten thousand) per month from the date of passing order i.e. w.e.f. 30.08.2014. Learned Trial Court dismissed the complaint against co-respondent No.5. Learned Trial Court further directed that copy of order be supplied to parties free of cost and learned Trial Court further directed to send copy of order to SHO Police Station West Shimla and Protection Officer for necessary action. Feeling aggrieved against the order passed by learned Trial Court Sh.Sanjeev Attri and others filed appeal under Section 29 of Protection of women from domestic violence act 2005 which was dismissed by learned Additional Sessions Judge-II Shimla (H.P.) on 01.05.2015. Feeling aggrieved against the order Sh. Sanjeev Attri and others filed present petition under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 read with Article 227 of Constitution of India.

5. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioners/non-complainants and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-petitioner/complainant and Court also perused the entire records carefully.

6. Following points arise for determination:

1) Whether petition filed under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 read with Article 227 of Constitution of India is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of petition?

8. PW-2 Sh. Sudesh Kumar has stated that Smt.Ruchi Attri is his daughter and she was married in the month of November 2010 with Sh. Sanjeev Attri at Palampur. He has stated that his daughter told him that non-complainants demanded dowry. He has stated that matter was also reported before Gram Panchayat. He has denied suggestion that Smt. Ruchi Attri was not mentally and physically tortured in her matrimonial house. He has denied suggestion that Smt. Ruchi Attri forced Sh. Sanjeev Attri to reside separately from his parents. He has denied suggestion that non-complainants did not demand any money. He has denied suggestion that he did not give any dowry in the marriage ceremony of Smt. Ruchi Attri. He has denied suggestion that Smt. Ruchi Attri is residing in her parental house without any reasonable cause.

9. RW-1 Sh. Sanjeev Attri has stated that he was married with Smt. Ruchi Attri on 30.11.2010. He has stated that behaviour of Smt. Ruchi Attri was not cordial in her matrimonial house. He has stated that he also opened RD in the name of Smt. Ruchi Attri to the tune of Rs.1,000/- (One thousand) per month. He has stated that Smt. Ruchi Attri was not beaten in her matrimonial house. He has stated that no physical or mental torture was given to Smt.Ruchi Attri in her matrimonial house. He has denied suggestion that dowry was demanded from Smt. 11. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-complainants that there are omissions, contradictions and discrepancies in the statements of complainant and her witness and on this ground petition filed under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 read with Article 227 of Constitution of India be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused the testimonies of PW-1 Ruchi Attri & PW-2 Sudesh Kumar father of complainant. There is no material contradiction between the testimonies of PW-1 & PW-2 which goes to root of case. Testimonies of complainant PW-1 Ruchi Attri and PW-2 Sudesh Kumar father of complainant are trustworthy, reliable and inspire confidence of Court. There is no reason to disbelieve the testimonies of PW-1 & PW-2.

12. It is well settled law that as per Section 134 of Indian Evidence Act 1872 no particular number of witnesses is required for proof of any fact. It is well settled law that reliance can be based on the solitary statement of a witness if Court comes to the conclusion that statement is true and correct. It is well settled law that Courts are concerned with the merit of the statement of a particular witness and Courts are not concerned with the number of witnesses examined. See 1997(2) Crimes 175 title Raja vs. State. It is well settled law that it is the quality of evidence and not quantity of evidence which is required to be judged by the Court to place credence upon the statement. See JT 2008(8) SC 650 title State of U.P. Vs. Kishanpal & Others. It is well settled law that law of evidence does not require any particular number of witnesses to be examined in proof of a given fact. It is well settled law that Court may classify oral testimony into three categories. (i) Wholly reliable. (ii) Wholly unreliable. (iii) Neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable. See AIR 2003 SC 854 title Lallu Manjhi Vs. State of Jharkhand. In the present case PW-1 Smt. Ruchi Attri has specifically stated in positive manner that she was mentally and physically tortured in her matrimonial house. Even the matter was reported to Gram Panchayat but no settlement could be executed inter se parties in the Gram Panchayat. It is proved fact that Smt. Ruchi Attri is residing in her parental house for more than one year alongwith her minor daughter.

13. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-complainants that no reliance can be placed upon the testimony of PW-2 Sh. Sudesh Kumar because Sh. Sudesh Kumar is interested witness and is father of complainant Smt.Ruchi Attri is also rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that relatives are the best witnesses in family dispute. It is well settled law that when cruelty is committed upon woman in her matrimonial house within four walls of the house then it is not possible for aggrieved woman to obtain independent witness from the locality.

14. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-complainants that learned Trial Court and learned First Appellate Court have not appreciated the testimonies of RW-1 and RW-2 correctly is also rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved fact that Smt. Ruchi Attri is residing separately from RW-1 Sh. Sanjeev Attri in her parental house since long period alongwith her minor daughter. It is proved fact that RW-2 Smt.Gunjan sister-in-law of Smt. Ruchi Attri is residing separately from Sh.Sanjeev Attri and his family members since July 2009. It is proved on record that domestic violence was committed upon Smt. Ruchi Attri within four walls of matrimonial house. Hence it is not expedient in the ends of justice to disbelieve the testimonies of PW-1 & PW-2 simply on the testimony of RW-2 because RW-2 is residing separately from other non-complainants since July 2009.

15. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-complainants that Smt. Ruchi Attri has voluntarily left her matrimonial house without any reasonable cause is also rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. As per testimonies of PW-1 & PW-2 there are reasonable grounds for Smt. Ruchi Attri to live in her parental house.

16. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-complainants that Smt. Ruchi Attri forced her husband to reside separately from his parents and when Sh. Sanjeev Attri refused to reside separately from his parents thereafter Smt. Ruchi Attri left her matrimonial house without any reasonable cause is also rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Plea of the non-complainants that Smt. Ruchi Attri forced her husband to reside separately from his parents is defeated on the concept of ipse dixit (An assertion made without proof).

17. In the present case even Protection Officer Smt. Geeta Verma has also submitted domestic violence report under Protection of women from domestic violence act 2005 before learned Chief Judicial Magistrate relating to physical and mental torture. There is no positive reason to disbelieve report of Protection Officer.

18. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-complainants that protection order passed under Section 18 of the act is contrary to law and contrary to proved facts is also rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that a married woman has legal right to reside in her matrimonial house with dignity and honour. No one can be allowed to use any threat to a married woman in her matrimonial house. It is held that protection order passed by learned Trial Court and affirmed by learned First Appellate Court is in consonance with law and proved facts.

19. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-complainants that protection order passed by learned Trial Court and affirmed by learned First Appellate Court under section 19 of the act either to provide accommodation in the aforesaid shared house hold at his place or in the alternative to pay Rs.3,000/- (Three thousand) per month as rent charges in lieu of residence to the complainant is contrary to law and contrary to proved facts is also rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that a married woman has legal right to reside in shared house hold or in the alternative to receive rent in lieu of residence. Protection order relating to shared house hold and in the alternative to pay

Rs.3,000/- (Three thousand) per month as rent charges is also in accordance with law and proved facts and there is no infirmity in the order.

20. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-complainants that protection order under section 20 of the act relating to payment of Rs.5,000/- (Five thousand) per month as maintenance allowance to the complainant and her minor daughter each total Rs.10,000/- (Ten thousand) is excessive in nature is also rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. In response Sh. Sanjeev Attri has admitted his monthly income as Rs.25,374/- (Twenty five thousand three hundred seventy four). Keeping in view the price index and keeping in view the fact that Smt. Ruchi Attri has also to maintain a minor daughter and keeping in view the income of Sh. Sanjeev Attri it is held that maintenance allowance is not excessive in nature. It is well settled law that facts admitted need not to be proved under section 58 of Indian evidence act 1872.

21. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-complainants that protection order passed by learned Trial Court and affirmed by learned First Appellate Court to pay compensation jointly and severally to the tune of Rs.50,000/- (Fifty thousand) on account of mental torture and emotional distress is also excessive in nature is also rejected being devoid of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that no married woman can be allowed to be tortured mentally and emotionally in her matrimonial house. As per testimonies of PW-1 and PW-2 it is proved on record that Smt. Ruchi Attri was mentally and physically tortured within four walls of her matrimonial house. Hence it is held that compensation granted by learned Trial Court relating to mental torture and emotional distress is not excessive in nature. Domestic violence is undoubtedly human right issue. Domestic violence in India is increasing day by day. Domestic violence cannot be allowed to be continued in the society. In view of above stated facts it is not expedient in the ends of justice to interfere in the protection order passed by learned Trial Court and affirmed by learned First Appellate Court. Point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2 (Final Order).

22. In view of findings upon point No.1 above present petition filed under Section 482 Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 read with Article 227 of Constitution of India is dismissed. Files of learned Trial Court and learned First Appellate Court be sent back forthwith alongwith certified copy of this order. Certified copy of order be supplied to parties free of cost forthwith and copy of order be also sent to concerned SHO and concerned Protection Officer for necessary action. Cr.MMO No. 206/2015 is disposed of. Pending application(s) if any also disposed of.

2. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that on 15.5.2014, as per bus ticket Ext. PW-1/D, accused was travelling in HRTC bus enroute to Manikaran from Haridwar. He was sitting on seat No. 10. PW-3 Deepak Kumar was conductor of the bus. The place was isolated. PW-2 HHC Sham Dass was sent to call for independent witnesses, but no one was available. PW-10 SI Raj Kumar associated HHG Hukam Chand and HHC Shyam Dass as witnesses and pithu bag was searched. On checking the bag, charas was recovered. It weighed 10.496 kg. The I.O. packed the entire stuff in the same fashion in a cloth parcel and sealed with eight seals of letter "R". Samples of seal were also taken on a piece of cloth. IO also filled in NCB-I form in triplicate. Rukka Ext. PW-7/A was prepared and sent to the Police Station for registration of FIR. FIR Ext. PW-7/B was registered by SHO Sher Singh (PW-7). The investigation was completed and the challan was put up before the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as ten witnesses. The accused was also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. According to him, he was falsely implicated. The learned trial Court convicted the accused, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. Naveen K. Bhardwaj, Advocate, has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused. On the other hand, Mr. V.S.Chauhan, Addl. AG, for the State, has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 23.11.2015.

5. We have heard the learned counsel for both the sides and have also gone through the judgment and records of the case carefully.

6. PW-1 HHG Hukam Ram deposed that he along with the police officials had departed from PP Manikaran at 6:30 AM in official vehicle No. HP 34A-0049. At about 9:30 AM, they were sitting near Tegri Nallah by the side of road when one person was found coming with a pithu bag from Manikaran side. On seeing the police party, he threw the bag which he was having on a hedge. He turned towards Manikaran. He was overpowered. He disclosed his identity and told that he was working with Patel Construction Company at Barshaini. He was asked to lift the bag he had thrown and then he was told to open it. It contained charas. It weighed 10.496 kg. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot, including filling up of NCB-I form. Rukka was prepared and sent to the Police Station for registration of FIR. Thereafter, FIR was registered. In his cross-examination, he deposed that they had gone to Barshaini on that day. The distance between Manikaran and Tegri Nallah is two kms. Villages Tosh, Pulga and Tulga were towards Barshaini. He denied the suggestion that Village Shangna was at a distance of 500 meters from that place towards Manikaran. Volunteered that it was at a distance of 1 ½ kms. It took five minutes from that place in a vehicle to go to Rashkat or Shangna. They remained at the spot for 1 ½ hours. During that period 1-2 vehicles crossed that area. Vehicles were not stopped by them. HHG Sham Dass was sent in search of independent witnesses before opening the zip of pithu bag Ext. P-2. He had gone towards both sides from that place. He returned after about twenty minutes. Then he along with HHG Hem Raj was associated in the investigation and accused was asked to open the bag. It was opened. He also admitted that personal search of the accused was conducted after the recovery of the contraband.

7. PW-2 HHC Sham Dass also deposed the manner in which the accused was intercepted and charas weighing 10.496 kgs. was recovered. He was sent by SI Raj Kumar to bring independent witnesses. He had gone towards both sides of the spot and as such he along with HHG Hukam Raj was joined in the investigation. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he came back to the spot after making search of independent persons after about 10-15 minutes. The search of the bag of the accused was conducted after his arrival. The accused had thrown the bag towards his right side.

8. PW-3 Deepak Kumar, was working as Conductor with HRTC since 2006. On 15.5.2014, he was deputed in Haridwar Manikaran bus service as Conductor and he joined his duty at Nahan. In his cross-examination, he deposed that the police had got de-boarded the accused from their bus at Jainala. Their bus had reached at Jainala at 7:00 AM. The police checked the bus and got de-boarded 2-3 persons and took them away. The police checked the bus and with 2-3 persons went away along with the bag. One person was sitting with the accused. He was a Nepali. The police took away that person also. A Court question was put to him as to whether he had told these facts to the police. He replied that the police did not ask him anything.

9. PW-5 HC Gajender Pal deposed that he was posted as Addl. MHC in PS Sadar, Distt. Kullu since October, 2013. On 17.5.2014, Insp. SHO Neel Chand deposited with him one sealed parcel sealed with 8 impressions of seal “R”, resealed with three seals of “K” along with NCB form in triplicate, seizure memo, sample seals “R” & “K”. He made entry at Sr. No. 124 of the malkhana register and sent these articles through Const. Karam Dass to FSL, Junga vide RC No. 218/14 on 19.5.2014.

10. PW6 Const. Karam Dass has taken the case property vide RC No. 218/14 to FSL, Junga.

11. PW-9 Insp. Neel Chand deposed that in the year 2014, he was posted as SHO in PS Sadar, Kullu. On 17.5.2014, SI Raj Kumar produced the case property before him. He resealed the same with three seals of “K” and filled in necessary columns of NCB form. He handed over the case property to MHC of the Police Station.

12. PW-10 Insp. Raj Kumar also testified the manner in which the accused was overpowered at 9:30 AM on 16.5.2014. The contraband was recovered. He filled in NCB form Ext. PW-5/C. Rukka Ext. PW-7/A was prepared and sent to the Police Station for registration of the FIR. He prepared the site plan vide Ext. PW-10/A. He also took photographs. He conducted the personal search of the accused after arrest. He produced the case property before SHO, who resealed the same with three seals of "K". In his cross-examination, he deposed that the distance between Tegri Nallah and PP Manikaran was about 3 kms. 2-3 buses were checked before Shangna, however, at the spot, no vehicle came. They were going towards Barshaini and had stopped at Tegri Nallah when the accused came. They did not go towards Barshaini beyond Tegri Nallah. As soon as they reached the spot at 9:30 AM, the accused also came there. He denied the suggestion that Manikaran Barshaini road was busy road.

13. What emerges from the analysis of the evidence discussed hereinabove is that the accused was apprehended on 16.5.2014 at 9:30 AM carrying a rucksack. The rucksack was searched and contraband was recovered. It weighed 10.496 kg. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot, including filling up of NCB-I form. The case property was resealed by PW-9 SHO Neel Chand. He deposited the same with PW-5 HC Gajender Pal. PW-5 HC Gajender Pal sent the same to FSL Junga through PW6 Const. Karam Dass. The contraband was found to be charas as per the report of the FSL.

14. The place where the accused was apprehended was isolated and desolate. PW-1 HHG Hukam Ram, in his examination-in-chief, has deposed that HHG Sham Dass was sent in search of independent witnesses before opening the zip of pithu bag Ext. P-2. He had gone towards both sides from that place. He returned after about twenty minutes. No independent witness was available. PW-2 HHC Sham Dass has deposed that he was sent by SI Raj Kumar to bring independent witnesses. He had gone towards both sides of the spot but no independent witness was available. PW-10 Insp. Raj Kumar has also deposed, in his examination-in-chief, that no independent witnesses were available since the place was isolated and desolate. HHC Shyam Dass was sent in search of witnesses. After about 15 minutes, he returned and told that no independent person was available. The statements of the official witnesses are trustworthy. The statement of PW-1 HHG Hukam Ram has been corroborated by PW-2 HHC Sham Dass as well as by PW-10 Insp. Raj Kumar, the manner in which the accused was apprehended and contraband was recovered.

15. PW-3 Deepak Kumar, conductor of the bus has identified ticket Ext. PW-1/D. According to him, he joined his duty at Nahan when the accused was already sitting in the bus. In his cross-examination, he deposed that the police had got de-boarded the accused from their bus at Jainala. A specific Court question was put to him as to whether he had told these facts to the police. He replied that the police did not ask him anything. The accused has also not disputed the fact that on 15.5.2014, as per the ticket Ext. PW-1/D, he was travelling in the HRTC bus on seat No. 10 from Haridwar to Manikaran. The statements of PW-1 HHG Hukam Ram, PW-2 HHC Sham Dass and PW-10 Insp. Raj Kumar duly prove that the accused was apprehended when he was coming from Manikaran side and tried to flee from the spot. No independent witness was available at the spot. The case of the prosecution moreover was that the accused alighted at Manikaran and thereafter came towards Barshaini.

16. Mr. Naveen K. Bhardwaj, Advocate, has also argued that Section 50 of the Act was not complied with. Section 50 of the Act was not at all attracted in the instant case for the simple reason that the recovery was made from the rucksack of the accused and not from his person. Thus, the prosecution has proved the case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt and there is no occasion for us to interfere with the well reasoned judgment of the learned trial Court dated 23.11.2015.

17. Accordingly, there is no merit in this appeal, the same is dismissed.

Case referred:
IBA Health (India) Private Limited vs. INFO-Drive Systems SDN. BHD. (2010) 10 SCC 553

For the appellant: Mr.K.D. Sood, Senior Advocate, with Mr.Sanjeev Sood, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr.Atul Jhingan, Advocate.

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, C.J.

This appeal is directed against the judgment, dated 7th May, 2015, passed by the learned Single Judge of this Court, whereby Company Petition filed by the appellant/petitioner under Section 433(e) of the Companies Act, 1956, (for short, the Act), seeking winding up of the respondent-Company, came to be dismissed, (for short, the impugned judgment).

2. Facts of the case, in brief, are that the petitioner firm rendered services to the respondent-Company for preparation of detailed project report, conducting audit, making liaison with the banks for procuring term loan and getting the working capital limits sanctioned, including various other jobs, which were assigned by the respondent-Company to the petitioner-firm from time to time. On account of such services, the respondent-Company owed a sum of Rs.12,06,580/- to the petitioner-firm against Bill No.TS 5/09/06, dated 26th September, 2006. In addition to the above amount, the respondent-Company was also liable to pay Rs.30,000/- as service tax and Rs.1,50,000/- for not honouring the contract. It was further averred that when the respondent-Company did not pay the said amount despite several requests by the petitioner-firm and assurances given by the respondent-Company, the petitioner-Firm was constrained to issue a legal notice, dated 9th January, 2007, whereby the respondent-Company was asked to pay the due amount within 30 days and in default, the respondent-Company was put on caveat that a petition for winding up of the respondent-Company would be filed.

3. It is also pleaded that in February, 2008, the Managing Director of the respondent-Company made a telephone to the partner of the petitioner firm for preparing the project report, which request was turned down, for the respondent-Company had not paid the outstanding amount.

4. Thus, it was claimed that the respondent-Company was in debt and therefore, the petitioner firm sought for the winding up of the respondent-Company by filing the company petition.

5. The company petition was resisted by the respondent-Company by filing detailed reply. Preliminary objections in regard to maintainability of the petition, disputed questions of facts, suppression of material facts etc. were raised by the respondent-Company.

6. The learned Single Judge, after referring to the pleadings of the parties and the various pronouncements of the Apex Court, has held that the debt, as claimed by the petitioner, was disputed and the respondent-Company has bona fide and substantial grounds to resist the same. It has also been held that the petitioner was not in a position to show that the respondent-Company has become insolvent and therefore, was unable to pay its debt. Accordingly, the learned Single Judge dismissed the company petition.

7. Feeling aggrieved, the petitioner has approached this Court by way of instant appeal.

8. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record.

9. A perusal of the reply filed by the respondent-Company shows that it has disputed the amount claimed by the petitioner and has also stated that the respondent-Company is flourishing by leaps and bounds. The learned Single Judge has discussed the reply and reproduced the relevant portion thereof in paragraphs 13 and 14 of the impugned judgment, which is not being referred to for the sake of brevity. The respondent-Company has disputed the claim made by the petitioner on bona fide grounds and not that the respondent-Company was unable to pay the claimed amount.

10. In order to determine whether the respondent-Company has a case to dispute the claim made by the petitioner and whether it had a bona fide ground to avoid the payment or the respondent-Company was unable to pay the debt as claimed by the petitioner/appellant and whether in a Company Petition, intricate disputed questions of fact can be gone into like a Civil Court, the learned Single Judge has referred to various judgments of the Apex Court and deduced certain legal principles in paragraph 30 of the impugned judgment. The said principles were rightly discerned by the learned Single Judge, are based upon the mandate of Section 433(e) of the Act, read with the mandate of the Apex Court in IBA Health (India) Private Limited vs. INFO-Drive Systems SDN. BHD. (2010) 10 SCC 553, which has been referred to by the learned Single in paragraph 29 of the impugned judgment. It is profitable to reproduce paragraphs 29 and 30 of the impugned judgment hereunder:

> "29. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of IBA Health (India) Private Limited vs. INFO-Drive Systems SDN. BHD. (2010) 10 SCC 553, has also explained that a dispute would be substantial if it is bonafide and not spurious, speculative, illusory or misconceived, the relevant extract from the decision is quoted below:
> > "20. The question that arises for consideration is that when there is a substantial dispute as to liability, can a creditor prefer an application for winding up for discharge of that liability? In such a situation, is there not a duty on the Company Court to examine whether the company has a genuine dispute to the claimed debt? A dispute would be substantial and genuine if it is bonafide and not spurious, speculative, illusory or misconceived. The Company Court, at that stage, is not expected to hold a full trial of the matter. It must decide whether the grounds appear to be substantial. The grounds of dispute, of course, must not consist of some ingenious mask invented to deprive a creditor of a just and honest entitlement and must not be a mere wrangle. It is settled law that if the creditor's debt is bonafide disputed on substantial grounds, the court should dismiss the petition and leave the creditor first to establish his claim in an action, lest there is danger of abuse of winding up procedure. The Company Court always retains the discretion, but a party to a dispute should not be allowed to use the threat of winding up petition as a means of forcing the company to pay a bonafide disputed debt."

30. From the aforesaid judgments, the following broad legal principles can be deduced:

1. If the debt is bonafide disputed and the defense is a substantial one, the Court will not wind up the company. Conversely, if the plea of denial of debit is moonshine or a cloak, spurious, speculative, illusory or misconceived, the Court can exercise the discretion to order the company to be wound up. 2. A petition presented ostensibly for winding up order, but in reality to exert pressure to pay the bonafide disputed debt is liable to be dismissed.

3. Solvency is not a stand alone ground. It is relevant to test whether denial of debt is bonafide.

4. Where the debt is undisputed and the company does not choose to pay the particular debt, its defence that it has the ability to pay the debt will not be acted upon by the Court.

5. Where there is no dispute regarding the liability, but the dispute is confined only to the exact amount of the debt, the Court will make the winding up order.

6. An order to wind up a company is discretionary. Even in a case where the companys liability to pay the debt was proved, order to wind up the company is not automatic. The Court will consider the wishes of shareholders and creditors and it may attach greater weight to the views of the creditors.

7. A winding up order will not be made on a creditors petition if it would not benefit him or the companys creditors generally and the grounds furnished by the creditors opposing winding up will have an impact on the reasonableness of the case.

In the light of the settled legal principles, the endeavour of this Court must be to find out whether the debt claimed by the petitioner is a bonafide disputed debt or not and in this process this Court will not dwell into the intricate disputed questions of fact like a Civil Court exercising its jurisdiction in a suit filed for recovery of money. It is for this precise reason that the pleadings of the parties has been quoted in extenso."

11. Financially, the respondent-Company was in a sound position and has not become insolvent. Moreover, the petitioner has not placed anything on record which would indicate that the respondent-Company was commercially insolvent. After going through the pleadings of the parties and the documents on the file, one comes to an inescapable conclusion that intricate questions of fact are involved in the instant case, which cannot be gone into in a Company Petition filed under Section 433(e) of the Act.

12. The learned Single Judge has minutely examined the pleadings of the parties and has rightly applied the law governing the field. Having said so, no interference is called for in the impugned judgment and the same is upheld. Consequently, the appeal is dismissed.

(Para-9 to 12)

For the Appellant: Mr. M.A. Khan, Addl. A.G.
For the Respondent: Mr. Anuj Gupta, Advocate.

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of H.P. against the judgment of the learned Sessions Judge, Chamba Division Chamba, Himachal Pradesh, rendered on 2.3.2010 in Sessions Trial No. 22 of 2009, whereby, the latter Court acquitted the accused/respondent for the offence punishable under Section 306 of the IPC.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that marriage inter se the accused and the deceased stood solemnized eight years prior to the ill-fated occurrence. After the marriage, the accused started maltreating and beating the deceased under the influence of liquor. The deceased used to disclose about the ill-treatment and beatings given to her by the accused to Jai Singh, brother-in-law of the deceased and the matter was also reported to the Gram Panchayat wherein a compromise Ex.PW6/A was effected inter se the accused and the deceased. On 28.7.2008 at about 1.00 p.m., the deceased committed suicide by jumping into Ravi river. The matter was reported to the police by Lojan, PW-1. The police started the investigation. Thereafter, other codal formalities were completed and the accused was arrested. Postmortem report of the deceased was procured. Statements of the witnesses were recorded.

3. On conclusion of investigations, into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and filed in the Court.

4. The accused was charged by the learned trial Court for his committing offence punishable under Section 306 of the IPC. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 7 witnesses. On conclusion of recording of the prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded by the trial Court, in which the accused claimed innocence and pleaded false implication. However , he did not lead any defence evidence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused/respondent herein.

6. The State of H.P. stands aggrieved by the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court. The learned Additional Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. On the other hand, the learned defence counsel has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The marriage inter se the accused and the deceased stood solemnized about eight years prior to the ill-fated occurrence. The accused is alleged to immediately on his contracting marriage with the deceased subjecting her to belabourings under the influence of liquor. The incidents of ill-treatment or belabourings meted qua the deceased by the accused stood reported to the Gram Panchayat concerned whereat a compromise embodied in Ex.PW6/A stood effected inter se both. However, Ex.PW6/A embodies an incident of 21.6.2005 whereat belabourings stood meted to the deceased by the accused, whereas the ill-fated occurrence took place on 28.7.2008. The visible improximity inter se the incident aforesaid vis-a-vis the ill-fated occurrence cannot make it fall within the principle of law of immediate proximity standing enjoined to occur inter se the incidents of ill-treatment or maltreatment perpetrated upon the deceased by the accused vis-a-vis the ill-fated occurrence for theirs hence constituting the actuatory besides instigatory factor for the deceased to commit suicide whereupon an inculpatory role of the accused would stand aroused. Contrarily hence with the aforesaid incident of 26.6.2005 embodied in Ex.PW6/A holding no proximity vis-a-vis the ill-fated incident, it cannot be construed to be an instigatory factor for the deceased to commit suicide. However, for firmly nailing a conclusion of the accused abetting the suicide of his deceased wife, it is imperative to cull out from the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses, the prime factum of theirs purveying forthright evidence with specificity in timing qua the incidents of maltreatment or ill-treatment perpetrated by the accused upon the deceased holding an apparent proximity vis-a-vis the ill-fated occurrence. PW-1 Lojan in his testification on oath though embodies therein a version in tandem with the one enunciated in FIR, nonetheless, he has neither with specificity nor with precision in timing echoed therein qua the belabourings perpetrated upon the deceased by the accused, belabourings whereof actuated the deceased by jumping into Ravi river to commit suicide on 28.7.2008. Given the approximation in timing occurring in the deposition aforesaid of PW-1 qua the afore referred penal misdemeanors ascribed to the accused, renders his testimony to be both nebulous and vague for timing therefrom the proximity inter se the belabourings perpetrated by the accused upon the deceased vis-a-vis the ill-fated occurrence. Since this Court stands deterred to fix proximity inter se the belabourings perpetrated by the accused upon the deceased vis-a-vis the ill-fated occurrence, as a corollary the purported belabourings perpetrated by the accused upon the deceased cannot be construed to occur in immediate proximity to the ill-fated occurrence, nor can this Court firmly render a conclusion of the accused thereby abetting the suicide of his deceased wife. Further more, the alleged incidents of belabourings perpetrated by the accused upon the deceased though stand testified by PW-1 yet the testimony of PW-1 stands ingrained with an omnibus falsity engendered by PW-2 unraveling in his deposition qua his reporting the incident of perpetration of belabourings by the accused upon the deceased to the Police Station concerned, whereas, PW-7 ASI Diwan Chand contradicts the aforesaid fact. For reiteration, the deposition of PW-1 wherein he ascribes to the accused a role of his belabouring his wife is bereft of any truth. Furthermore, a cloud of falsity also engulfs his testimony, given his conceding in his cross-examination of his deposition in his examination-in-chief wherein he imputes an inculpatory role to the accused standing reared by hearsay hence ascription by him of an inculpatory role tot he accused is construable to be invented besides contrived. Likewise, the deposition of PW-3 Jai Singh, who is the brother-in-law of the deceased suffers emasculation. Even though he has timed the belabouring of the deceased by the accused to occur 2-3 months prior to the ill-fated incident, communication whereof in his testification on oath stands erected on the deceased purveying during her life time the aforesaid information to him, nonetheless, the factum aforesaid acquires falsity on account of omission on his part to either report the matter to the police station concerned or to apprise PW-1, the brother of the deceased also it holds no veracity for building a conclusion of it constituting a firm inculpatory piece of evidence against the accused given the visible improximity inter se the aforesaid purported incidents of ill-treatment perpetrated upon the deceased by the accused vis-a-vis the ill-fated occurrence.

10. The summom bonum of the above discussion is of the prosecution abysmally failing to adduce cogent precise evidence in consonance with the principle of law mandating of proximity occurring inter se the purported maltreatment and ill-treatment perpetrated by the accused upon the person of the deceased vis-a-vis the ill-fated occurrence, thereupon this Court is led to conclude of the findings of the acquittal recorded by the learned trial court meriting no interference.

11. Even otherwise, it is apparent on a reading of the postmortem report comprised in Ex.PW5/B of no antemortem injury standing detected on the person of the deceased at the time she stood subjected to postmortem examination by PW-5. The effect of non existence of, immediately prior to the ill-fated incident, antemortem injuries on the person of the deceased , pronounces with amplifying vigour of the accused not immediately prior to the incident subjecting the deceased to any beatings also thereupon this Court holds of the accused not abetting the suicide of his deceased wife.

12. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court below has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of the evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

13. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is accordingly dismissed. Records be sent back forthwith.

Date of Decision: 21st July, 2016.

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Information was received that one person wearing blue coloured sweater and having thin beard was coming on foot towards Ramshila- information was reduced into writing and was given to superior officer- accused was apprehended and his search was conducted during which 1.10 kg charas was recovered- accused was tried and acquitted by the trial Court – held, in appeal that independent witness has not supported the prosecution version, however, he had admitted his signatures on the seizure memo – hence, he is estopped by the provisions of Sections 91 and 92 of Indian Evidence Act from deposing in variance to the contents of the seizure memo- further, an option was given to the accused to be searched before the police, Gazetted Officer or Executive Magistrate, which is not in accordance with Section 50 of N.D.P.S. Act- there are contradictions relating to date, time and place of seizure in the column No. 3 of NCB Form, which makes the prosecution version doubtful - the accused was rightly acquitted by the trial Court- appeal dismissed. (Para- 9 to 15)

For the Appellant: Mr. M.A. Khan, Additional A.G.
For the Respondents: Mr. Atul Jhingan, Advocate.

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of H.P. against the judgment of the learned Special Judge, Fast Track Court, Kullu, Himachal Pradesh, rendered on 22.01.2009 in Sessions Trial No.49 of 2007, whereby, the latter Court acquitted the accused/respondent of an offence punishable under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act (hereinafter referred to as the "NDPS Act").

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that on 2.4.2007, HC Roshan Lal along with C. Chand Mishra, C. Tarsem Lal and C. Pritam Singh had proceeded towards Ramshila from Police Station on patrol duty. At about 4.15 p.m., patrol party was present near Gammon bridge. A secret information was revived by HC Roshan Lal to the effect that one person wearing blue coloured sweater and having thin beard has been coming on foot towards Ramshila and that said person had been carrying charas. This information was reduced into writing and necessary intimation was given to the Superior Officer under Section 42(2) of the NDPS Act. One Guru Dutt was associated as witness in the patrol party. Thereafter, they went towards Bhekhali road. One person was found coming from opposite direction. He was stopped and inquired. He disclosed his name as Dharam Chand. After complying with the provisions of Section 50 of the NDPS Act, the police conducted his personal search. On his personal search being conducted by the Investigating Officer, he was found in possession of charas weighing 1Kg and 10 grams. Thereafter, other codal formalities were completed and the accused was arrested. Report of the FSL was procured. Statements of the witnesses were recorded.

3. On conclusion of investigations, into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and filed in the Court.

4. The accused was charged by the learned trial Court for his committing offence punishable under Section 20 of the NDPS Act. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 8 witnesses. On conclusion of recording of the prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded by the trial Court, in which the accused claimed innocence and pleaded false implication. However, he did not lead any defence evidence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused/respondent herein.

6. The State of H.P. stands aggrieved by the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court. The learned Additional Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. On the other hand, the learned defence counsel has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The depositions of the official witnesses comprised in their respective examinations-in-chief qua effectuation of recovery of charas, under memo Ex.PD by the Investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the purported exclusive and conscious possession of the accused, are manifestly shorn off any vice of inter se contradictions vis-a-vis their respective cross-examinations. Also their respective depositions qua effectuation of recovery of charas, under memo Ex.PD by the Investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the exclusive and conscious possession of the accused are bereft of any vice of any intra se contradictions. Consequently, when the respective depositions of the prosecution witnesses when remained unstained with any vice of any inter se contradictions or any blemish of any intra se contradictions hence coax an inference from this Court of their respective versions qua effectuation of recovery of charas under memo Ex.PD by the Investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the purported exclusive and conscious possession of the accused being truthful as well as credible. Even when the testimonies of the official witnesses qua effectuation of recovery of charas under memo Ex.PD by the Investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the purported exclusive and conscious possession of the accused, depositions whereof when for reasons aforestated, remained unblemished with any stain of any intra se or inter se contradictions whereupon hence sanctity is imputable to their respective depositions, the learned trial Court yet rendered findings of acquittal in favour of the accused/respondent on the score of PW-5 Shri Guru Dutt, an independent witness, associated by the Investigating Officer in the apposite proceedings not lending any succor to the factum of its standing recovered in his presence by the Investigating Officer from the purported conscious and exclusive possession of the accused. Consequently, with factum of PW-5, an independent witness associated by the Investigating Officer in the apposite proceedings which occurred at the site of occurrence hence belittling the credible unstained testimonies of the official witnesses, constrained the learned trial Court to on the score aforesaid, disimpute credence to the testimonies of official witnesses. The learned trial Court in disimputing credence to the unblemished testimonies of official witnesses appears to have overlooked the factum of with PW-5 admitting his signatures on the apposite memos Ex.PA to Ex.PD whereupon he as mandated by the provisions of Section 91 and 92 of the Indian Evidence Act which stand extracted hereinafter stood interdicted besides forbidden to depose in variance therefrom rather his with the statutory mandate engrafted in the afore-referred apposite provisions of the Indian Evidence Act imputing credence also his imputing conclusive proof qua the recitals occurring therein on unflinching evidence emanating qua despite his orally digressing from its recorded recitals of yet his signatures existing thereon irrefragable evidence whereof stands evinced by his admitting the prime factum of the apposite memos holding his signatures, hence when his apposite admission sequelly statutorily belittles the effect of his deposing orally in variance or in detraction thereto naturally when he rather emphatically proves the recitals comprised in the apposite memos, it was neither appropriate nor tenable for the learned trial Court to conclude of the recorded recitals borne on Ex. PA to Ex.PD hold no evidentiary clout nor it was legally apt for it to outweigh the creditworthiness of the testimonies of the official witnesses qua the effectuation of recovery of charas under recovery memo Ex.PD by the Investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the purported exclusive and conscious possession of the accused. The provisions of Sections 91 and 92 of Indian Evidence Act read as under:-

"91. Evidence of terms of contracts, grants and other dispositions of property reduced to form of documents.- When the terms of a contract, or of a grant, or of any other disposition of property, have been reduced to the form of a document, and in all cases in which any matter is required by law to be reduced to the form of a document, no evidence shall be given in proof of the terms of such contract, grant or other disposition of property, or of such matter, except the document itself, or secondary evidence of its contents in cases in which secondary evidence is admissible under the provisions hereinbefore contained.

92. Exclusion of evidence of oral agreement.:- When the terms of any such contract, grant or other disposition of property, or any matter required by law to be reduced to the form of a document, have been proved according to the last section, no evidence of any oral agreement or statement shall be admitted, as between the parties to any such instrument or their representatives in interest, for the purpose of contradicting, varying, adding to, or subtracting from, its terms:-

Proviso (1).- Any fact may be proved which would invalidate any document, or which would entitle any person to any decree or order relating thereto; such as fraud, intimidation, illegality, want of due execution, want of capacity in any contracting party, [want of failure] of consideration, or mistake in fact or law;

Proviso (2).- The existence of any separate oral agreement as to any matter on which a document is silent, and which is not inconsistent with its terms, may be proved. In considering whether or not this proviso applies, the Court shall have regard to the degree of formality of the document:

Proviso (3).- The existence of any separate oral agreement, constituting a condition precedent to the attaching of any obligation under any such contract, grant or disposition of property, may be proved:

Proviso(4).- The existence of any distinct subsequent oral agreement to rescind or modify any such contract, grant or disposition of property,may be proved, except in cases in which such contract, grant or disposition of property is by law required to be in writing, or has been registered according to the law in force for the time being as to the registration of documents:

Proviso (5). Any usage or custom by which incidents not expressly mentioned in any contract are usually annexed to contracts of that description, may be proved:

provided that the annexing of such incident would not be repugnant to, or inconsistent with, the express terms of contract:

Proviso(6).- Any fact may be proved which shows in what manner the language of a document is related to existing facts."

10. Be that as it may, with the aforesaid inference drawn by this Court whereupon, rather findings of conviction against the accused/appellant are warranted, nonetheless, the nerve center of the case is qua the consent memo comprised in Ex.PA standing drawn in conformity with the provisions of Section 50 of the NDPS Act. Since the recovery of contraband under memo Ex.PD stood effectuated from one polythene envelope red and white in colour which was held by the accused inside the sweater and shirt worn by him, rendered its effectuation therefrom to occur on his personal search standing held by the Investigating Officer concerned whereupon hence the play of Section 50 of the NDPS Act stood galvanized besides strict compliance by the Investigating Officer concerned qua its mandatory statutory provisions stood enjoined to be accomplished by him. The contents of consent memo Ex.PA would render the recovery of charas under memo Ex.PD from the exclusive and conscious possession of the accused being construable to be efficaciously recovered thereunder only when Ex. PA held reflections of the Investigating Officer intimating the accused of his holding a vested legal right of his personal search standing carried before a Gazetted Officer or before an executive Magistrate, on waiver whereof by him, he also stood apprised therein of his holding an alternative right to opt for his personal search standing carried by the Investigating Officer. However, on an incisive scanning of the recitals embodied in Ex.PA disclose of the Investigating Officer not incongruity with the statutory requirements contemplated in Section 50 of the NDPS Act intimating the accused/respondent of his holding a vested primary statutory right qua his personal search initially being opted by him to be carried or conducted by an Executive Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer. Since, the Investigating Officer while scribing Ex.PA departed from the apposite statutory mandate, of the accused holding a vested primary legal right for his personal search initially standing opted by him to be held by an Executive Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer nor also it holds recitals of in the event of his waiving the aforesaid right his holding a right to opt for the alternative mode for his personal search being conducted by the Investigating Officer, renders the consent, if any, of the accused qua his personal search standing held by the Investigating Officer to infract the statutory mandate of Section 50 of the NDPS Act. The departure from the aforesaid statutory requirements by the Investigating Officer though enjoined to be strictly complied by him, appear to stand germinated from hence his adopting a contrivance for beguiling the accused to opt for his personal search being held by him also it appears of the Investigating Officer withholding the occurrence of apposite statutory recitals in Ex.PA for forestalling the accused in his not purveying his consent to his holding his personal search. Consequently, the contrived consent obtained from the accused by the Investigating Officer qua his holding his personal search cannot stand clothed with any tinge of its holding any statutory validation. The solemn principle engrafted in the mandatory statutory provisions engrafted in Section 50 of the NDPS Act, whereupon the Investigating Officer stands fastened with a statutory duty to purvey in the apposite consent memo to the accused qua his holding a vested statutory right for his personal search standing held by an Executive Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer is of its sequeling awakenings in the accused qua an indefeasible statutory right inhering him, right whereof unless stands foregone by the accused would dis-empower the Investigating Officer to hold his personal search. The unequivocal communications in the apposite consent memo qua the apposite statutory right vesting in the accused is also a safe deterrent for him to refrain from opting for his personal search standing held by the Investigating Officer. It is also to inspire confidence in the accused to withhold his consent to his personal search standing carried by the Investigating Officer which may otherwise stand stained with an aura of false implication besides concoction. Since the recitals embodied in Ex.PA flagrantly depart from the solemn salutary principle engrafted in Section 50 of the NDPS Act, the invincible conclusion therefrom is of an uncreditworhty legally frail personal search of the accused standing held by the Investigating Officer. Furthermore, amplifying vigour to the aforesaid inference is lent by the fact of the salutary principle underlying Section 50 of the NDPS Act standing blunted by the Investigating Officer by his mis-phrasing the recitals of consent memo Ex.PA. Also, with the Investigating Officer intentionally blunting the play of Section 50 of the NDPS Act, reiteratedly his conducting the personal search of the accused in the guise of a vitiated consent memo cannot hold any formidability.

11. Moreover, there occurs a dichotomy inter se FIR Ex.PX vis-a-vis the deposition of H.C. Roshan Lal qua the factum of time of seizure of contraband from the purported exclusive and conscious possession of the accused. Rife contradiction qua the facet aforesaid is palpable on column No.3 of NCB form, Ex.PQ relating to date, time and place of its seizure as enjoined to be filled by the Investigating Officer at the site of occurrence holding no recitals, though PW Roshan Lal deposes of his making reflections therein of his seizing the contraband at 9.00 p.m. Since, the best evidence in communication of the aforesaid factum is comprised in Ex.PX hence, the oral deposition of H.C. Roshan Lal in variation thereto is insignificant. Contrarily, with the legally tenacious documentary evidence qua the facet aforesaid stands constituted in FIR Ex. PX and rukka Ex. PR, both whereon hold revelations of 4.15 p.m., constituting the time of seizure of charas, renders uncreditworhty the testimony of PW Roshan Lal qua the effectuation of its seizure from the purported exclusive and conscious possession of the accused occurring at 9.00 p.m. The contradiction aforesaid inter se the deposition of H.C. Roshan Lal vis-a-vis FIR, Ex. PX as well as rukka, Ex.PR contrarily also lends an impetus to a firm conclusion of the Investigating Officer ante timing in Ex.PX & Ex.PR, the factum probandum of his subjecting the accused to personal search also spurs a deduction of his holding the personal search of the accused on a date, time and place other than the one as enunciated in his deposition also an inference stands erected of hence the effectuation of recovery of charas under memo Ex.PD in sequel to his holding the personal search of the accused being at a place distinct from the one reflected in Ex.PD whereupon this Court holds of the Investigating Officer holding a partisan taint ridden investigation qua the offence ascribed to the accused.

12. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court below has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of the evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

13. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is accordingly dismissed. Records be sent back forthwith.

Thereafter, they shifted to Narwana in rented accommodation. One son was born out of the wedlock. The son was 4½ years old. The cause of fight between accused and Reema was drinking habit of accused. About 2-3 months prior to her death, he had taken his sister to Chandigarh to avoid bickering in the family. His sister stayed at Chandigarh for two days. He made her understand. Thereafter, he brought her back and left in the house of accused. Accused was also asked to maintain peace. On 18.11.2008 at about 5.30 A.M., brother of accused telephoned him and told that accused was crying and he has asked him to go and find out what has happened. He went to the house of accused. He saw his sister was lying on the bed. Accused was giving her water. The body of his sister had become cool. He inquired from the accused. He told that on the previous night there was fight between him and Reema and during night hours when he woke up to have a cigarette, he found Reema has committed suicide by hanging herself. Accused had cut the Dupatta with knife and brought down the body. He noticed blue marks over the face and leg of Reema. He also noticed Dupatta hanging from the hook of fan. His sister committed suicide due to beatings administered to her by the accused. His statement was recorded by the police vide Ex.PW-1/A. Police took into possession the case property. Before the incident, his mother had demanded Rs. 50,000/- from him. His mother had told that she wanted to construct one room at Haridwar in the memory of his father. He had paid the money to his mother. Later on, his mother told him that she has paid the money to his sister Reema. This was disclosed to him by his mother after the death of Reema. In his cross-examination, he has deposed that his sister did not like consumption of liquor by the accused. His sister had been visiting Chandigarh from her in-laws house as well as from Narwana.

She had taken the money from her son. Accused did not mend his ways even after receiving Rs. 50,000/-. He went to Narwana Khas alongwith police party. He recorded statement of complainant Sanjay Guleria Ex.PW-1/A under section 154 Cr.P.C. The case property was taken into possession.

14. The marriage between the accused and deceased was solemnized in the year 2003. It has come in the statement of PW-1 Sanjay Guleria that accused used to consume liquor. He had also taken his sister to Chandigarh to avoid bickering in her house. His sister stayed at Chandigarh for two days. He made her understand. Thereafter, he brought her back and left in the house of accused. He also inquired from the accused. Accused told him that a quarrel had taken place between him and Reema during night. He has categorically deposed that his mother had given a sum of Rs. 50,000/- to the accused. He had also noticed blue marks over the face and leg of Reema. Statement of PW-1 Sanjay Guleria has been corroborated by PW-3 Nirmala Devi. She has also deposed that the accused had demanded a sum of Rs. 50,000/-. The amount was paid by her to the accused by borrowing the same from her son. She had also noticed injuries on her body. It has come on record that the accused used to pick up quarrel with Reema after consuming liquor. PW-4 Dr. Naresh Gupta has noticed as many as 14 injuries on the body of deceased. The post-mortem report is Ex.PW-4/B. The probable time between injury and death was within 5 minutes and between death and post-mortem 12 to 24 hours. She died due to asphyxia. Accused was also medically examined at Zonal Hospital, Dharamshala as per MLC Ex.PW-6/B. The prosecution has proved beyond reasonable doubt that accused has abetted/incited deceased Reema to commit suicide. The severe beatings given to Reema Devi are evident from MLC Ex.PW-4/B. She had received as many as 14 injuries on her person. These injuries cannot be self inflicted. She hanged herself and died due to asphyxia. Accused had demanded a sum of Rs. 50,000/- from Reema. Rs. 50,000/- were given to the accused by the mother of deceased. PW-3 Nirmala Devi had borrowed the money from her son. Accused has treated the deceased with cruelty within the ambit of section 498-A of the Indian Penal Code. Accused himself has told PW-1 Sanjay Guleria that there was a fight and thereafter he went out to sleep and later on found that his wife has committed suicide.

15. Learned trial court has given perverse findings that the prosecution was required to produce evidence to establish that prior to coming of accused to his house in the night of 17.11.2008; deceased Reema was having no injuries on her person. The factum of injury on the person of accused proves that a scuffle had taken place between husband and wife. Learned trial court has further erred by observing that deceased herself might be aggressor and in that event the accused would not be held liable. Accused has abetted Reema to commit suicide. He has subjected deceased to criminal cruelty. Multiple injuries have been inflicted on the person of Reema by the accused. The deceased was severely beaten up and thereafter she committed suicide. The accused has subjected the deceased to cruelty with a view to coerce her to meet unlawful demand of Rs. 50,000/-.

16. Consequently, in view of analysis and discussion made hereinabove, the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused for offences punishable under sections 306 and 498-A of the Indian Penal Code.

16. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. Judgment dated 24.4.2010 rendered by the Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Kangra at Dharamshala in Sessions Trial No. 16/2010 is set aside. The accused is convicted for offences punishable under sections 306 and 498-A of the Indian Penal Code. Accused be produced in the Court to be heard on the quantum of sentence on 28.7.2016. The bail bonds are cancelled.

17. The Registry is directed to prepare the production warrants.

Road from Garagushaini to Khauli was straight and adjacent to the Khud. There were buildings of PHC and Khadi Gramodyog Bhawan at a distance of 500 metres from Garagushaini. It was at a distance of 20 feet from Nallah. He admitted that road was in hilly terrain but there was plain area after the Nallah.

There were 8 persons in the vehicles. They demanded room. He allotted room No. 2. Some were police officials. Some left and some remained in the rest house. They returned at 9 PM. Accused was in the vehicle. He got the entry recorded regarding their arrival and when they were leaving. He admitted there were double beds in every room and there was facility of staying for two persons in one room. He admitted that entry was not made by him. He also admitted that entry regarding arrival and departure is made in the register at the time of arrival. One person was also appointed as Chowkidar in the rest house besides him. He admitted that entries are verified by the Assistant Engineer. He has not pointed out absence of entry regarding departure. He has also admitted that the person staying in the rest house makes entry regarding his stay.

15. Megh Singh (DW-5) deposed that rest house was situate about 600 metres from Garagushaini rest house. He was at his home at about 8.30-8.45 PM on 7.12.2010. His son was with him. One person came and told his son that he had some work with him and called him outside. When his son went outside, he did not return. There was some noise. There was one person in Khaki uniform and three were in civil uniform. Person in uniform had a pistol. They forcibly put his son in the vehicle. They took his son towards Banjar. He ran after them. He went to Durga Singh, Pradhan Garagushaini. He narrated the incident to him.

16. Case of the prosecution, precisely, is that accused was apprehended on 8.12.2010 at 8 AM. He was carrying a backpack. Backpack was searched. It contained Charas. It weighed 15 kg. Charas was produced before MHC Khem Chand. He deposited the same in Malkhana. It was sent to FSL Junga on 9.12.2010 through HHC Uday Chand. Learned trial Court has discarded the site plan on a very flimsy ground. Site plan has not been prepared by an expert. PW-11 Ram Lal has only shown general directions of the road. Accused was apprehended while carrying a huge quantity of contraband. It has come on the record that the independent witnesses were not available. Statements of official witnesses inspire confidence and are trustworthy. There was no reason for the learned trial Court to discard the statements of the official witnesses about the manner in which accused was found carrying contraband. Witnesses are not supposed to narrate the facts in a parrot-like manner. Minor contradictions about the place from where accused was apprehended and whether buildings were existing and shops were at a short distance, were not sufficient to acquit the accused.

17. Statement of DW-4 Roop Chand does not inspire confidence. According to him, two vehicles had come. Eight persons had come in the vehicle. They should have booked at least four room and not one room. He has not made entry in his handwriting. There is no entry regarding the departure. Similarly, DW-2 Durga Singh in his cross-examination admitted that accused belonged to his Panchayat. He did not remember the registration number of the vehicle. Other ground taken by the learned trial Court for acquitting the accused is that official log book of the vehicle was not produced. It was not necessary for the police to prove the log book. Accused could also get the same produced by moving appropriate application before the learned trial Court. Statement of DW-4 Roop Chand that the accused was in the vehicle on 7.12.2010 does not inspire confidence, if his statement is analyzed critically.

18. Prosecution has proved its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt.

19. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. Judgment dated 21.1.2012 rendered by the learned Sessions Judge (II) Mandi, HP in Sessions Trial No. 21 of 2011 is set aside. The accused is convicted for the commission of offence punishable under Section 20b) (ii)((C) of the Act. Accused be produced to be heard on quantum of sentence on 28.7.2016. Bail bonds of the accused are cancelled.

20. Registry is directed to prepare and send the production warrant to the quarter concerned.

2. Heard on the quantum of sentence.

In default of payment of fine, he shall further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of two years. The period of detention, if any, undergone by the convict during the investigation,

LPA No. 4014 of 2013
Date of decision: 21st July, 2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Writ Court concluded that Labour Court had not appreciated the evidence in right perspective- learned Counsel for the appellant conceded that Writ Court had rightly made appreciation of evidence- appeal dismissed. (Para-3 and 4)

For the appellants: Mr. Satyen Vaidya Sr. Advocate with Mr. Vivek Sharma Advocate.
For the respondent: Nemo.

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

This Letters Patent Appeal is directed against the judgment and order dated 27.2.2013, made by the learned Single Judge of this Court in CWP No. 1965 of 2009 titled Surinder Singh versus The Executive Engineer HPSEB and another, whereby the writ petition filed by the writ petitioner came to be allowed and the award made by the learned Presiding Judge, Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla came to be set aside, for short "the impugned judgment", on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. We have examined the writ record and have gone through the impugned judgment.

3. It appears that the Writ Court has scanned the record and came to the conclusion that the learned Labour Court has not appreciated the evidence in its right perspective. Thus, has fallen in an error in scanning the evidence. The learned Writ court has made the discussion in paras 6 to 8, as per the record.

4. The learned counsel for the appellant was asked to assist whether the Writ Court has rightly made the appreciation or the learned Labour Court? He frankly conceded that the learned Writ Court has rightly made the appreciation.

5. Having said so, the impugned judgment is upheld and the appeal is dismissed along with pending applications, if any.

(Para-2 to 7)

Ashok Kumar Tyagi vs. State of H.P. and others, I.L.R. 2015 (II) H.P. page 937

For the Petitioners : Mr. Anand Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Ms. Meenakshi Sharma, Additional Advocate General, with Mr. J.S. Guleria, Assistant Advocate General, for respondent No.1.
Mr. R.K.Gautam, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Gaurav Gautam, Advocate, for respondent No.2.
Mr. Jagan Nath, Advocate, for respondent No.3.
Mr. Inderdeep Singh and Mr. Sanjeev Sood, Advocates, for respondents No. 4, 5 and 7.

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (Oral).

This petition under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure read with Article 227 of the Constitution of India seeks quashing of the prosecution launched against the petitioners under Section 32(2) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 and Rules 1945 under Section 18 (a) (i) read with Section 17 & 18 (c) punishable under Section 27 (d) and 27(b) (ii) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 (for short 'Act').

2. Brief facts of the case are that the prosecution has been launched against the petitioners on the basis of the complaint filed by respondent No.1, on the allegation that he inspected the premises of the firm M/s Elnova Pharma on 03.01.2012 and during the inspection found eight boxes containing 3307 tubes of drug 'Freeze Gel' B. No. 275', manufactured for respondent No.2, M/s Elnova Pharma. It was found that no manufacturer address was mentioned on the said drug and the licence No. S-MNB/09/61 and S-MB/09/62 was printed on the said drug, but the same did not relate to respondent No.2. That apart, after checking the licence of respondent No.2 it was noticed that the firm had not been granted permission to manufacture the said category of drug and when the proforma respondent No.3, who was present at the spot was asked to disclose about the licence, even the accused-respondent No.3 had failed to produce the copy thereof.

3. The quashing of the complaint has been sought on the following three grounds:

"(A) As to whether the drug namely 'Freeze Gel' B. No. 275, Mft. Date-07/2011, Exp. Date -06/2013, quality the criteria to come in the purview of not of Standard Quality, Misbranded Drugs, Adulterated Drug, Spurious Drug as defined U/S 16, 17, 17-A and 17-B respectively of the Drugs and Cosmetics Act.

(B) As to whether the prosecution has been able to make out a prima-facie case against the Accused No.1 to 4, in accordance with the provisions contained in Sec. 34(1) of Drugs and Cosmetic Act and whether the complainant has not conducted investigation properly to established that the Accused No. 2 and 3 as person in-charge of and were responsible persons to the company for the conduct of the business of the Company.

(C) As to whether the Accused No. 1 to 4 are not being the manufacture or the agent for the distribution of the drug in question of the manufacturer, as thus are entitled for the benefits of Section 19 (3) of Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940."

4. The allegations in so far as grounds (A) and (C) are concerned, undoubtedly, the question raised therein is essentially a matter of trial and, therefore, the complaint cannot be quashed on those grounds.

5. As regards, the ground No. (B), it is the specific case of the petitioners that the drug in question was purchased by them from proforma respondent No.7, whereas the proforma respondent No.7 has clearly stated that it had a valid drug and approval licence for the manufacture of the 'Freeze Gel' in question and had supplied the same to respondent No.2 in terms of the order placed to this effect vide purchase order dated 2.7.2011. After noticing the printing error, the respondent No.2 and its partners were requested to re-call the stock of 'Freeze Gel' drug in question and the said letter was duly acknowledged by the petitioners. The respondent No.2 in its letter dated 4.8.2011 had stated "we acknowledge the receipt of the same and as per your guidelines we are recalling whatever the stocks sold in the market and will return the stocks for replacement on full receipt of the stocks". However, the respondent No.2 i.e. M/s Elnova Pharma never returned back the goods and after one year when the Drug Inspector inquired about the product 'Freeze Gel' of batch No.275, manufactured by respondents No. 4, 5, and 7, which was replied by these respondents vide letter dated 24.7.2012 clearly specifying that they had already made a request to Elnova Pharma for recalling of the product 'Freeze Gel', but till date they had not sent back any stock of 'Freeze Gel' for collective action. However, it was clearly mentioned that "due to the printing mistake the carton and tube has been printed without manufacturer's name but drug manufacturing licence number is clearly mentioned on both tube and carton. This mistake is done unknowingly". The respondent No.2 i.e. M/s Elnova Pharma never returned the recall 'Freeze Gel' and kept the entire supply with them for the reasons best known to them.

6. In such scenario, the question arises as to whether the respondent No.2 of which the petitioners are the Directors could have retained the drug i.e. 'Freeze Gel'. Once the specific case of the petitioners is that they have not manufactured the drug in question, then the further question as to whether they are the person in-charge or were responsible persons to the Company for conducting the business of the Company, is hardly of any consequence. Being the Directors of the Company, they were obviously responsible for the conduct of its business.

7. The learned counsel for the petitioners would then argue that in view of the affidavits of petitioners No. 1 and 2, they cannot be prosecuted in the instant case. Much reliance is placed upon the contents contained in paras 3 to 5 of the affidavits given by petitioner No.1 which reads as under:

"3. That the said firm is technically managed by the qualified employees who are responsible for the day to day conduct and control of the business activities and I am not responsible for the routine working and other government concerning activities of the department.

4. That Sh. Rohit Kumar son of Sh. Ram Ootar aged 27 years permanent resident of Janderpur, P.O. Gairowala (Shiv) Teh- Bijnour, Distt. Bijnour (U.P.) is full time appointed competent person of the above said firm responsible for manufacturing of drugs for the sale and/or distribution who possesses qualification as prescribed under Rule 71 (1) (a) or 71 (1) (b) and 76(1) (a) or 76(1) (b) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules 1945 and he is not engaged anywhere else in any kind of service or business to the best of my knowledge.

5. That Sh. A.K. Saxena son of Sh. O.P. Saxena, aged 47 years permanent resident of Kaushal Puri, P.O. R.K. Nagar, Teh-Kanpur, Distt. Kanpur (U.P.) is full time appointed competent person of the above said firm responsible for testing of all substances to be used for or incorporated in the drugs for sale and/or > distribution who possesses qualification as prescribed under Rule 71(4-A) and/or 76(4-A) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 and he is not engaged anywhere else in any kind of service or business to the best of my knowledge".

The aforesaid portion is extracted from the affidavit filed by petitioner No.1 and verbatim similar contents appear in the affidavit of petitioner No.2.

8. On the strength of these affidavits, the petitioners would claim that if at all anybody was the person in-charge and responsible to the Company for conducting of its business, it was either Sh. Rohit Kumar or Sh. A.K. Saxena of both of them, but in no manner could the petitioners be prosecuted as they were neither the person in-charge nor were responsible persons to the Company for the conduct of the business of the Company.

9. Strength is further sought to be drawn from the affidavits alleged to have been executed by Rajiv Tiwari and Arun Kumar Saxena, which have been placed on record as Annexures P-2/C and P-2/D, respectively, more particularly, the following contents of para-2 of Rajiv Tiwari which reads as under:

> "2. That I shall also be working as over all Incharge-cum-sole person responsible for day to day conduct and control of business activities and the partner of the firm will not be responsible for day to day activity and control of the business and all Govt. concerning activities of the department."

And para-3 of the affidavit of Arun Kumar Saxena, which reads as under:

> "3. That I am the competent person responsible for testing of the drugs for sale and/or distribution of the above said firm and possesses qualification as prescribed under 71 (1) (a) or 71(1) (b) and 76(1) (a) or 76(1)(b)/Rule 71 (4-A) and/or 76(4-A) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 i.e. B. Pharmacy/M.Sc. Chemistry/B.Sc./Other. The said qualification is done from D.A.V. College Kanpur (name of College) under Kanpur (name of University) in the year 1991".

10. In addition thereto, strength is also sought to be drawn from the affidavit executed by one Diwakar Shukla wherein in para-3, it has been mentioned as under:

> "3. That I am the competent person responsible for testing of the drugs for sale and/or distribution of the above said firm and possesses qualification as prescribed under 71 (1) (a) or 71(1) (b) and 76(1) (a) or 76(1)(b)/Rule 71 (4-A) and/or 76(4-A) of the Drugs and Cosmetics Rules, 1945 i.e. B. Pharmacy/M.Sc.Chemistry /B.Sc. ./Other. The said qualification is done from R.G.C. Bhopal (name of College) Under Barkatullah (name of University) in the year 2004".

11. Learned counsel for the petitioners would vehemently argue that under Section 34 of the Act, it is only the person in-charge and who were responsible persons to the Company for conducting of its business that can be prosecuted and at the relevant time it was either Rohit Kumar and Arun Kumar Saxena and Diwakar Shukla, who were responsible for the conduct of business and, therefore, all of them ought to have been prosecuted and under no circumstance, could the prosecution have been launched against the petitioners.

12. I have considered the submissions of the petitioners and find that there can be no quarrel with the proposition that it is only the person, who at the time of complaint were the person in-charge and were the responsible persons to the Company for conducting of the business of the Company, who alone can be prosecuted and this was so held by this Court vide detailed judgment rendered in the case of Ashok Kumar Tyagi vs. State of H.P. and others, I.L.R. 2015 (II) H.P. page 937 and SLP (Criminal) No.85 of 2015 filed by the State of H.P. against this decision also stands dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on 24.9.2015.

13. But the moot question is as to whether any benefit can be derived by the petitioners on the basis of the affidavits or judgment rendered by this Court. To say the least, the conduct of the petitioners is not at all fair. It would be noticed that the premises of the petitioners were admittedly raided on 3.1.2012, while not only the affidavits of the petitioners but even those of Rajiv Tiwari, Arun Kumar Saxena and Diwakar Shukla have been executed much later on 14.4.2013.

14. That apart, the affidavits have been executed on stamp papers which have been purchased nearly two years back on 11.5.2011.Thus, the conduct of the petitioners in executing their affidavits and obtaining affidavits of three other persons namely Rajiv Tiwari, Arun Kumar Saxena and Diwakar Shukla is not definitely above board, because admittedly none of the aforesaid three persons are accused in this case and are probably sought to be made scape-goats in this case.

15. As a last ditch effort, learned counsel for the petitioners would argue that the petitioners were not at all aware of the drug lying in the godown and therefore, on this ground alone, no prosecution could have been launched against them.

16. Even this submission is equally without any substance and against the provisions as contained in Section 19(1) of the Act which reads as under:

> "19.Pleas. – (1) Save as hereinafter provided in this section, it shall be no defence in a prosecution under this Chapter to prove merely that the accused was ignorant of the nature, substance or quality of the drug [or cosmetic] in respect of which the offence has been committed or of the circumstances of its manufacture or import, or that a purchaser, having bought only for the purpose of test or analysis, has not been prejudiced by the sale."

17. The cumulative effect of the observation and discussion made hereinabove is that there is no merit in this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed alongwith pending application(s) if any. Interim order granted on 7.8.2015 is vacated.

State of H.P. …..Appellant.

Versus

Aman Dhama …..Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 631 of 2015.
Decided on : 22/07/2016

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Accused was carrying a rucksack on his left shoulder – he became perplexed on seeing the police party- he was apprehended and his search was conducted during which 222 grams charas was recovered- accused was tried and acquitted by the trial Court- held, in appeal that an option to be searched before Magistrate, Gazetted Officer or police was given to the accused- only option to be searched before Magistrate or Gazetted Officer is to be given - consent memo was not in accordance with law- there are contradictions in the testimonies of officials witnesses- prosecution case was not proved beyond reasonable doubt- accused was rightly acquitted by the trial Court. (Para-8 to 11)

For the Appellant: Mr. R.S.Thakur and Mr. Pramod Thakur, Additional Advocate Generals.
For the Respondent: Nemo.

Per Sureshwar Thakur, Judge:

The instant appeal is directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgment rendered on 08.05.2015 by the learned Special Judge-II (Additional Sessions Judge), Kullu Himachal Pradesh, in Sessions trial No. 38 of 2014 (2012), whereby the learned trial Court acquitted the respondent (for short 'accused') for the offences charged.

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 13.4.2012 around 12.25 p.m when a police party headed by the then Sub Inspector Megh Singh, In-charge Police Post Manikaran and consisting of HHC Ved Ram, Constable Nitin Thakur was on patrolling duty at Kasol bridge and were present near Challal village path, accused coming from Chhalal village was noticed by the police party, when the accused was crossing the bridge at that time accused was carrying one rucksack on his left shoulder and behind the accused another person with empty hands was also coming. The accused on seeing the police party got perplexed and was nabbed by the police party and on asking the accused disclosed his name Aman Dhama whereas the person behind the accused had disclosed his name Nishant, who was friend of the accused. On having suspicion that accused might had been carrying some contraband with him PW-8 the then Sub Inspector Megh Singh had given option to accused if he wanted to give search of his rucksack to the police party or before the Gazetted Officer but the accused had consented to be searched by the police party regarding which memo was prepared and thereafter he and other police officials had given their personal search to the accused but nothing incriminating was found in possession of the police officials. Thereafter the rucksack which the accused was found carrying at that time was opened and inside the big packet of the rucksack, one plastic transparent packet was found in torn condition and when the said transparent packet was opened black colour substance five numbers in Chapati and rectangular shape were found and the said black colour substance was smelled and checked, it was found charas/cannabis and when the said charas was weighed with electronic scale, its weight was found 222 grams. Thereafter the codal formalities for sealing and seizure of the case property were done on the spot and was taken into possession vide memo Ext.PW-6/A and the seal after its use was handed over to PW-6 Constable Nitin Kumar. On completion of the investigation and on receipt of SFSL report the Investigating Officer handed over the case file to the then Station House Officer who after completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused prepared challan and filed in the Court.

3. Charges stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for his committing offence punishable under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 9 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was recorded in which he pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. He did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused.

6. The learned Additional Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. We have heard the learned Additional Advocate General and have also gone through the entire record.

8. Charas Ext.P-3 stood recovered under memo Ext.PW-6/C by the Investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the purported conscious and exclusive possession of the accused. When the testimonies of the official witnesses qua the ill-fated occurrence comprised in their respective examination in chief remain unblemished with any occurrence of any vice of contradictions vis-à-vis their respective cross-examinations besides when their respective depositions are free from any stain of any intra se contradictions hence would prod this Court to impute an aura of sanctity to their respective testifications qua the occurrence. However when their respective depositions suffer from any taint of any intra se contradictions, contrarily this Court would rear an inference qua the testimonies of the official witnesses acquiring a taint or a blemish whereupon any imputation of sanctity to them would be unwarranted. For unearthing the factum qua their respective depositions holding no taint of any intra se contradictions, an allusion to the testimony of PW-8 is imperative. However, before making an allusion thereto an advertence to the factum of charas standing recovered from a rucksack purportedly carried by the accused in his bag hung on his back is imperative. Even though, its recovery therefrom stood purportedly not effectuated on his personal search, given the rucksack not standing inextricably tethered to his body whereupon hence there was no enjoined legal obligation cast upon the Investigating Officer to preceding his holding its search either prepare consent memo comprised in Ext.PW-6/A nor it was incumbent upon him, to, elicit on his waiving his option qua his inherent primary legal right qua search of rucksack hung on his shoulder standing held before an Executive Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer his leaning for its search standing held by the Investigating Officer. However, with consent memo Ext.PW-6/A yet standing prepared by the Investigating Officer besides in pursuance to the accused meteing his consent to the Investigating Officer holding search of his rucksack his holding its search per se renders it vulnerable to suspicion also it breeds a deduction of its preparation besides its search in sequel to the accused meteing his apposite consent to the Investigating Officer standing prodded by the Investigating Officer concerting to smother the truth qua the manner of effectuation of recovery of charas. An inference of a vice of pervasive suspicion imbuing the manner of effectuation of charas under memo Ext.PW-6/C from rucksack hung by the accused on his shoulder gets momentum from the dire unnecessity of the Investigating Officer preparing consent memo Ext.PW-6/A besides with the Investigating Officer in his cross-examination deposing of his not preparing an apposite memo qua his holding personal search of the accused, factum whereof when stands contradicted by Ext.PW-8/D also garners an amplifying inference of the aforesaid variant stand of PW-8, the Investigating Officer, qua its preparation vis-à-vis reflections in Ext.PW-8/D constituting the consent memo of the accused to the Investigating Officer for empowering the latter holding his personal search not being a fortuitous variation rather appears to stand fostered by the Investigating Officer proactively hiding the factum of his holding a personal search of the accused also his proactively smothering recoveries if any effectuated in pursuance thereof begetting therefrom an ensuing sequel of his effectuating recovery of charas in a manner digressive from the one propagated by the prosecution. In aftermath, with the manner of effectuation of charas embodied in memo Ext.PW-6/C suffering an inherent discrepancy renders its recovery thereunder to be holding no legal solemnity.

9. Furthermore, prior to the purported effectuation of recovery of charas from the alleged conscious and exclusive possession of the accused from the rucksack hung by him on his shoulder, effectuation whereof stands embodied under memo Ext.PW-6/C, yet as unraveled by PW-6 in his deposition of the accused holding the personal search of the Investigating Officer in contradiction whereof the Investigating Officer deposes of the accused subjecting all the police officials to personal search prior to effectuation of recovery of charas from his conscious and exclusive possession under memo Ext.PW-6/C. The rife/pervasive contradictions qua the facet aforesaid as emanate on a scanning of the testimonies of PW-6 and PW-8 spurs an inference qua the testimonies of both holding no veracity qua the facet aforesaid wherefrom the ensuing sequel in entwinement with the aforestated inherent falsity engulfing the manner of effectuation of charas under memo Ext.PW-6/C by the Investigating Officer from the purported conscious and exclusive possession of the accused, is, of the Investigating Officer, given the minimal quantity of charas weighing 222 grams allegedly recovered by him from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused under memo Ext.PW-6/C, planting it on the person of the accused.

10. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court below has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

11. In view of the above, we find no merit in this appeal which is accordingly dismissed. In sequel, the impugned judgement is affirmed and maintained. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

State of H.P. .....Appellant.

Cr. Appeal No.4233 of 2013.
Decided on : 22.07.2016

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Accused was found in possession of 450 grams charas, resin content wherein was 136 grams- sentence of two years was imposed by the trial Court- State filed an appeal for enhancing the sentence- held, that accused was found in possession of less than commercial quantity – maximum sentence has been prescribed but it is open for the Court to award lesser sentence- accused was merely a carrier, Investigating Officer had not unearthed the source of the charas seized from the accused- there are no reasons to enhance the sentence- directions issued to Investigating Officers to trace the source of contraband. (Para-3 to 5)

For the Appellant: Mr. R.S.Thakur and Mr. Pramod Thakur, Additional Advocate Generals.
For the Respondents: Nemo

Per Sureshwar Thakur, Judge :

Through the instant appeal the State of Himachal Pradesh concerts before this Court qua the sentence imposed upon the convict/accused holding no commensuration vis-à-vis the gravity of the offence for which he stood convicted. Consequently, in the instant appeal a prayer stands canvassed qua the minimal sentence imposed upon the convict/accused for his committing an offence punishable under Section 20(b)(ii)(B) of the Act warranting its standing enhanced.

2. Given the limited prayer aforesaid urged in the instant appeal preferred herebefore by the State of Himachal Pradesh enjoins this Court to, from the relevant incriminatory circumstances relied upon by the learned trial Court for recording an order of conviction against the accused, cull out therefrom besides from the attending material qua the consequent sentence imposed upon the accused/convict warranting interference.

3. Dehors the sustainable incriminatory evidence vis-à-vis the accused/convict, the predominant fact of his holding conscious and exclusive possession of a minimal quantity of 450 grams of charas, resin content wherein was 136 grams, per se renders the sentence of imprisonment of two years imposed upon him by the learned trial Court to not suffer from any vice of legal invalidation. Even if a sentence higher than the sentence of imprisonment aforesaid imposed upon the convict/accused by the learned trial Court is legally imposable upon the accused/convict also any laxity in imposition upon him of the highest quantum of a term of imprisonment for the charge qua which he stood convicted would depart from the solemn duty of this Court to keep society free from the menace of proliferation of contraband. However, when the prescription by the legislature qua the imposition of a maximum sentence of 10 years imprisonment upon a convict/accused on his found to be holding possession of charas in a quantum less than commercial quantity is not a peremptory prescription rather is discretionary especially when the prescription therein of a sentence of imprisonment of 10 years on facet aforesaid being imposable upon the convict/accused stands preceded by the word 'may', coinage whereof holds a parlance of a maximum sentence of imprisonment of 10 years warranting relaxation, if the attendant circumstances permit relaxation of its rigor to a term lesser than 10 years. In sequel with the legislature not holding a peremptory mandate upon courts of law qua imposition of sentence of imprisonment of 10 years upon convict/accused found guilty of committing an offence arising from his holding a quantum less than a commercial quantity of contraband, as, is the quantum borne by the contraband seized from the accused/convict, leans this Court to hold a view of the sentence of imprisonment of two years imposed upon the accused/convict by the learned trial Court not warranting any interference. Also when the preponderant attending circumstance qua the source of the minimal quantity of 450 grams charas held by the accused/convict stands uninvestigated by the Investigating Officer coaxes an inference of the accused/convict holding it merely as a carrier deployed by drug warlords operating in the area concerned who rather stood enjoined to be nabbed by the Investigating Officer for hence efficaciously curbing the menace of proliferation of contraband in society. Omission of the Investigating Officer to unearth the source of the minimal quantity of charas seized from the accused does fillip an inference of the convict/accused not warranting imposition upon him the sentence of imprisonment higher than the one imposed upon him. Prominently it constitutes a vigorous relevant attending circumstance for relaxing the rigour of the mandate of the apposite provisions of law prescribing the maximum sentence of imprisonment imposable upon the accused/convict. Consequently, the relevant omission aforesaid of the Investigating Officer forestalls the State to earn a conclusion from this Court of the sentence of imprisonment imposed upon him warranting enhancement.

4. This Court deprecates omissions on the part of the Investigating Officer to investigate the source of the item of contraband recovered from the possession of its carrier i.e. the accused/convict. The Director General of Police is directed to ensure of all Investigating Officers concerned whensoever seize any item of contraband from the conscious and exclusive possession of its holder theirs proceeding to uncover evidence qua the source wherefrom it emanated.

5. In view of the above, we find no merit in this appeal which is accordingly dismissed. In sequel, the sentence of imprisonment imposed upon the accused/convict by the learned trial Court is affirmed and maintained. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

Tilak Raj Dogra …..Petitioner.

Vs.

Shri Bachitter Kumar …..Respondents.

Cr. R. No.: 201 of 2016

Date of Decision: 22.07.2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 384 and 386- appeal was listed for hearing and was dismissed in default- held, that Appellate Court is bound to adjudicate the appeal on merit and cannot dismiss the same in default- a jurisdictional error was committed by the Appellate Court- appeal allowed and the case remanded to Appellate Court to decide the appeal on merit. (Para-2 to 8)

Cases referred:

L. Laxmikanta Vs. State (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 222
Surya Baksh Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh (2014) 14 Supreme Court Cases 222

For the petitioner: Mr. N.S. Chandel, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Rajneesh K. Lal, Advocate.

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. *(Oral):

On a complaint filed by the present respondent under the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, learned trial Court vide its judgment dated 16.01.2014 allowed the same and convicted the petitioner/accused to undergo simple imprisonment for six months and also awarded compensation of Rs.2,00,000/-.

2. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by the learned trial Court, the accused preferred an appeal, which was dismissed by the learned Appellate Court vide order dated 06.03.2014 by passing the following order:

"06.03.2014 Present: None.

Case called, but none appeared on behalf of appellant. It is 11:30 a.m. Put up after lunch.

Sd/-
Additional Sessions Judge-II,
Kangra at Dharamshala

06.03.2014 Present: None.

Taken up after lunch, called thrice, but none appeared on behalf of appellant. It is already 2:30 p.m. Hence, present appeal u/s 374(3) Cr. P.C. is dismissed in default. File after its due completion be consigned to record room.

Sd/-
Additional Sessions Judge-II,
Kangra at Dharamshala"

3. Feeling aggrieved by the said order vide which the appeal filed by the accused has been dismissed in default, the accused/petitioner has filed the present revision petition.

4. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties.

5. In my considered view, the order passed by the learned appellate Court vide which it has dismissed the appeal of the present petitioner in default is perverse. A jurisdictional error has been committed by the learned appellate Court by not adjudicating the said appeal on merit and dismissing the same in default. Learned Appellate Court has not taken into consideration the statutory provisions of Sections 384 and 386 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, as per which, learned appellate Court was duty bound to have had adjudicated the appeal on merit.

6. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in L. Laxmikanta Vs. State (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 222 has held that in a criminal case, if no one has put in appearance on behalf of the appellant, then the Court should appoint any lawyer as amicus curiae on behalf of the appellant to argue the appellant's case instead of proceeding to decide the appeal ex parte on merits. It has further held that the appropriate course for the Court should be to decide the appeal finally on merits to meet such eventuality.

7. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Surya Baksh Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh (2014) 14 Supreme Court Cases 222 has held

> "6. Section 386 of the CrPC is of importance for the purposes before us. It requires the Appellate Court to peruse the records, and hear the Appellant or his pleader if he appears; thereafter it may dismiss the appeal if it considers that there is insufficient ground for interference. In the case of an appeal from an order of acquittal (State Appeals in curial parlance) it may reverse the order and direct that further inquiry be carried out or that the accused be retried or committed for trial. Even in the case of an appeal from an order of acquittal the Appellate Court is competent to find him guilty and pass sentence on him according to law. The proviso to this Section prescribes that the sentence shall not be enhanced unless the accused has had an opportunity of showing cause against such a proposal, thereby mandating that an accused must be present and must be heard if an order of acquittal is to be upturned and reversed. It is thus significant, and so we reiterate, that the Legislature has cast an obligation on the Appellate Court to decide an appeal on its merits only in the case of Death References, regardless of whether or not an appeal has been preferred by the convict.
> 7. Last, but not least in our appreciation of the law, Section 482 of the CrPC stands in solitary splendour. It preserves the inherent power of the High Court. It enunciates that nothing in theCrPC shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary, firstly, to 'give effect to any order under the CrPC', words which are not to be found in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (hereafter referred to as 'CPC'). Ergo, the High Court can, while exercising inherent powers in its criminal jurisdiction, take all necessary steps for enforcing compliance of its orders. For salutary reason Section 482 makes the criminal Court much more effective and all pervasive than the civil Court insofar as ensuring obedience of its orders is concerned. Secondly, Section 482 clarifies that the CrPC does not circumscribe the actions available to the High Court to prevent abuse of its process, from the inception of proceedings till their culmination. Judicial process includes compelling a respondent to appear before it. When the Court encounters a recalcitrant Appellant/convict who shows negligible interest in prosecuting his appeal, none of the Sections in Chapter XXIX of the CrPC dealing with appeals, precludes or dissuades it from dismissing the appeals. It seems to us that passing such orders would eventually make it clear to all that intentional and repeated failure to prosecute the appeal would inexorably lead not merely to incarceration but more importantly to the confirmation of the conviction and sentence consequent on the dismissal of the appeal. Thirdly, none of the provisions of the CrPC can possibly limit the power of the High Court to otherwise secure the ends of justice. While it is not possible to define the concept of 'justice', suffice it to say that it encompasses not just the rights of the convict, but also of victims of crime as well as of the law abiding section of society who look towards the Courts as vital instruments for preservation of peace and the curtailment or containment of crime by punishing those who transgress the law. If convicts can circumvent the consequence of their conviction, peace, tranquility and harmony in society will be reduced to a chimera. Section 482 emblazons the difference between preventing the abuse of the jural process on the one hand and securing of the ends of justice on the other. It appears to us that Section 482 of the CrPC has not been given due importance in combating the rampant malpractice of filing appeals only for scotching sentences imposed by criminal Courts.

8. This Court was called upon to construe Section 423 of the old CrPC (which corresponds toSection 386 of the current CrPC) in the wake of the dismissal by the High Court of an Appeal on the very next date of hearing after the issuance of notice. In Shyam Deo Pandey v. State of Bihar, (1971) 1 SCC 855 : AIR 1971 SC 1606, the High Court had recorded

"8….. 'No one appears to press the appeal. On perusal of the judgment under appeal, I find no merit in the case. It is accordingly dismissed.'"

An application for restoration of the appeal filed on the same day was also rejected for not disclosing sufficient grounds for recalling the dismissal orders. The ratio decidendi of this decision is that the records of the lower Court must be available with the Appellate Court if the condition of 'perusal' is to stand complied with, and therefore the High Court was found to have erred."

8. Accordingly, the present revision petition is allowed and order dated 06.03.2014 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge-II, Kangra at Dharamshala is set aside and the case is remanded back to learned appellate Court with a direction that the appeal filed by the accused be decided on merit on or before 30th September, 2016. Parties are directed through their learned counsel to put in appearance before the learned appellate Court on 1st August, 2016.

Petition stands disposed of. Copy dasti.

For the respondent : Mr. V. S. Chauhan, Addl. Advocate General with Mr. Vikram Thakur and Mr. Puneet Rajta, Dy.A.Gs. for the respondent-State.

Sanjay Karol, J.

Assailing the judgment dated 21.2.2014, passed by learned Special Judge, Chamba Division, Chamba, H.P., in Sessions Trial No. 15 of 2013 (56/2013), titled as State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Darshan Singh, whereby accused stands convicted of the offence punishable under the provisions of Section 20 of the of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the Act) and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of 10 years and pay fine of `1,00,000/- and in default of payment of fine to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of one year, he has filed the present appeal under the provisions of Section 374 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

2. It is the case of prosecution that on 9.3.2013 ASI Madan Lal had laid naaka near Toll Tax Barrier, Banikhet. Other police officials including Const. Amit Sharma (PW-1) and LC Tulsi Devi were present with him. While vehicles were being checked, police party saw the accused carrying a pithoo bag on his shoulder. On suspicion, in the presence of independent witnesses Raj Gill (PW-3) and Suresh Kumar (not examined), accused was apprehended and informed of his right of being searched in accordance with law. The accused consented to be searched before a Gazetted Officer vide consent memo (Ext. PW-1/A) and, as such, on the request so made, Dy.S.P. Raman Sharma (PW-8) arrived on the spot and conducted search of the accused. From the pithoo bag so carried by the accused, contraband substance i.e. charas, which upon weighment was found to be 2k.g. and 600 grams was recovered. The recovered contraband substance was put in the same carry bag and sealed in a parcel with seal impression-A. NCB form (Ext. PW-13/D) was filled on the spot and the contraband substance taken into possession vide recovery memo (Ext. PW-1/D). Ruka (Ext. PW-10/A) was sent for registration of case through LC Tulsi Devi (PW-2). Resultantly F.I.R. No. 19/2013, dated 9.3.2013 (Ext. PW-10/B) was registered against the accused under the provisions of Section 20 of the Act by HC Arun Kumar (PW-10), at Police Station Dalhousie, Distt. Chamba. Accused was arrested. Necessary investigation was conducted on the spot and the case property reproduced before SHO Sher Singh (PW-12) who resealed the same with his seal impression-S where after the case property along with NCB form was handed over to MHC Arun Kumar (PW-10) who through Constable Sandeep Kumar (PW-11) sent the same to the State Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga and report (Ext. PX) taken on record. Special report (Ext. PW-9/B was sent through HHC Pritam Singh (PW-6) to the superior officer. Investigation revealed complicity of the accused in the alleged crime. Hence, challan was presented in the Court for trial.

3. Accused was charged for having committed an offence punishable under the provisions of Section 20 of the Act, to which he did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, in all, prosecution examined thirteen witnesses and statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr. P.C. was also recorded, in which he took plea of innocence and false implication. No evidence in defence was led by the accused.

5. Appreciating the material on record, including the testimonies of the witnesses, trial Court convicted the accused of the charged offence and sentenced as aforesaid. Hence, the present appeal.

6. We have heard Ms. Salochna Kaundal, learned legal aid counsel, on behalf of the appellant as also Mr. V. S. Chauhan, learned Addl. Advocate General assisted by Mr. Vikram Thakur and Mr. Puneet Rajta, learned Dy. A.Gs. Asstt. A.G., on behalf of the respondent-State. We have also minutely examined the testimonies of the witnesses and other documentary evidence so placed on record by the prosecution. Having done so, we are of the considered view that no case for interference is made out at all. We find the findings returned by the trial Court to be based on complete, correct and proper appreciation of evidence (documentary and ocular) so placed on record. There is neither any illegality/infirmity nor any perversity with the same, resulting into miscarriage of justice. Prosecution has been able to prove its case, beyond reasonable doubt.

7. Prosecution case of recovery of alleged contraband substance stands established beyond reasonable doubt by Const. Amit Sharma (PW-1), Raj Gill (PW-3), Dy.SP Raman Sharma (PW-8) and ASI Madan Lal (PW-13). The onus, statutory in nature, in our considered view cannot be said to have been discharged by the accused.

8. That ASI Madan Lal left the police station Dalhousie with the police party on traffic checking duty is evidently clear from the testimony of HHC Chaman Singh (PW-4) and HC Suraksha (PW-5) who effected entries in the police station with regard thereto.

9. ASI Madan Lal and Const. Amit Sharma are also categorical that they had set up a naaka at Banikhet near the toll tax barrier and checking vehicles. Independent witness Raj Gill (PW-3) is the scooterist whose vehicle was also checked by the police. Testimony of these witnesses on this issue remains unshattered.

10. Now ASI Madan Lal categorically states that he saw the accused carrying a pithoo on his shoulder. Seeing the police party, accused became perplexed and as such on suspicion apprehended, more so, when he tried to flee away. Accused, who was informed of his statutory right vide memo (Ext. PW-1/A), desired to be searched by a Gazetted Officer belonging to the police force. Consequently Dy.SP Raman Sharma (PW-8) was requested, on telephone, to visit the spot. In the presence of Raj Gill, on arrival, Dy.SP Raman Sharma searched the accused and from the bag (pithoo) so carried by him, charas recovered. Raj Gill was asked to bring the scales and the contraband substance on weighment was found to be 2.6 k.g. The recovered contraband substance was packed in the bag and sealed with seal impression-A, seals whereof were handed over to witness Suresh Kumar. NCB form (Ext. PW-13/D) was filled on the spot where after ruka (Ext. PW-10/A) sent through LC Tulsi Devi which led to the registration of F.I.R. (Ext. PW-10/B). The accused was arrested and with the completion of the proceedings on the spot, contraband substance reproduced before SHO Sher Singh (PW-12) who re-sealed the same.

11. Now on the question of recovery of the contraband substance from the possession of the accused, we find the version of this witness to be fully corroborated by Dy.S.P. Raman Sharma (PW-8), independent witness Raj Gill (PW-3) and the other member of the police party Const. Amit Sharma (PW-1). Undisputedly, conjoint reading of the testimonies of these witnesses establishes their version to be consistent, credible and convincing. Not only they have been able to corroborate but establish the version so stated by ASI Madan Lal.

12. With the contraband substance having been recovered from the conscious possession of the accused, the burden shifted upon the accused, which in the instant case, remains undischarged. Defence of innocence and false implication cannot be said to have been probablized even through the cross examination part of the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses. Of course, one cannot ignore the fact that no independent evidence was led by him.

13. Be that as it may, prosecution has also strengthened its case by leading corroborative evidence and that being the testimony of Inspector Sher Singh (PW-12) who categorically states that the contraband substance when produced before him was resealed, where after he deposited it with MHC Arun Kumar (PW-10) who further states that the contraband substance was sent for chemical analysis through Const. Sandeep Kumar (PW-11) which fact is also testified by this witness. Conjoint reading of the testimony of MHC Arun Kumar and Const. Sandeep Kumar establishes that so long as the case property remained with them, it was kept safe and not tampered with. Report of the State Forensic Science Laboratory (Ext. PX) also establishes the parcel bearing four seals of seal impression 'A' and two seals of seal impression 'S' containing the contraband substance to have been received in the laboratory through Const. Sandeep Kumar (PW-11). Original seal stands proved on record.

14. Hence in our considered view, prosecution has been able to discharge burden of proving the recovery of the contraband substance from the conscious possession of the accused, beyond reasonable doubt. It cannot be said that the trial Court erred in correctly and completely appreciating the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses.

15. From the material placed on record, it stands established by the prosecution, beyond reasonable doubt, by leading clear, cogent, convincing and reliable piece of evidence, that accused was carrying contraband substance i.e. charas weighing 2.6 kilograms.

16. For all the aforesaid reasons, we find no reason to interfere with a well reasoned judgment passed by the trial Court. The Court has fully appreciated the evidence placed on record by the parties. There is no illegality, irregularity, perversity in correct and/or in complete appreciation of the material so placed on record by the parties. Findings of conviction cannot be said to be erroneous or perverse. Hence, the appeal is dismissed.

Appeal stands disposed of, so also pending application(s), if any.

Records of the Court below be immediately sent back.

4. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as 13 witnesses. The accused were also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. They have denied the prosecution case and pleaded innocence. The learned trial Court convicted both the accused, as noticed hereinabove.

Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Vivek Sharma Advocate and Mr. Anoop Chitkara Advocate with Mr. Sat Prakash, Advocate for the respective accused have vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused. On the other hand, Mr. Parmod Thakur, learned Addl. Advocate General, for the State has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 3.1.2015.

6. I have heard learned counsel for both the sides and gone through the judgment and records of the case minutely.

7. PW-1, prosecutrix (name withheld) deposed that she was studying in 10+1 class in Govt. Sr. Secondary School, Kakira. On 1.10.2013 at about 11:30 AM their English period was

On 1.10.2013, her daughter had gone to the school and she returned home at 3:30 PM. On reaching home, she started weeping and told that when her teacher started coughing, she went to bring water from the room of accused Vijay Kumar. When she again went to put empty glass in his room, he caught hold of her from arms and put her lips in his mouth and started sucking. He also started moving his hands on her cheeks and pressed her breasts. On that day, in the evening, accused Vijay Kumar and accused O.P. Chopra came to their house and requested to patch up the matter. Accused O.P. Chopra had not threatened not to disclose this incident to anyone. She was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In her cross-examination by the learned Public Prosecutor, she denied that accused O.P. Chopra had threatened them with dire consequences. In her cross-examination by the learned defence counsel, she deposed that when the incident was narrated to her by her daughter, aunt of her daughter also came to their house. She also narrated the incident to her husband. Police Post was at a distance of 2 kms. from their house. They went to PP Bakloh at 1:30 PM on 3.10.2013. Her statement was recorded on the same day.

On asking, she disclosed to her that she had gone to the office of Superintendent Grade-II to put the empty glass back. When she was putting the glass in the room, accused Vijay Kumar tried to kiss her. She was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In her cross-examination by the learned Public Prosecutor, she denied that the prosecutrix disclosed to the police that when she went to put the glass in the room, accused Vijay Kumar closed the door and caught hold of her from her arms and touched her cheeks and thereafter kissed on her lips. She also denied that the prosecutrix also disclosed that the accused had pressed her breasts. In her cross-examination by the learned defence counsel, she deposed that she did not personally complain to the Principal or some higher officer about the incident.

11. PW-5 Davinder Singh deposed that on 1.10.2013 at around 7-8 PM, he was present in the house of Suman, wife of Ganesh. At that time, both the accused came there and accused Vijay Kumar threatened the prosecutrix and her mother that prosecutrix should not come to the school. The prosecutrix also disclosed to him that accused Vijay Kumar had bolted the room from inside when she went to his room and kissed her. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination by the learned Public Prosecutor, he deposed that accused O.P. Chopra had not threatened the prosecutrix and her family members in his presence. In his cross-examination by the learned defence counsel, he deposed that both the accused remained in the house of the prosecutrix for about 45 minutes. One Kuldeep was also present.

12. PW-10 HC Raj Pal deposed that on 3.10.2013 at about 1:20 PM, prosecutrix along with her mother and Sandeepa Gurang came to the Police Post and complained against the accused. On the basis of the statement given by the prosecutrix, report Ext. PW-1/A was registered. He sent this report to PS Chowari through LC Sapna for registration of the case. He recorded the statements of prosecutrix, her mother and Sandeepa Gurang, Pradhan as per their version. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he has not recorded the statement of Sumitra, who met him in the school on that date. Sumitra remained with him for about half an hour. Sumitra had shown the rooms of Superintendent and Principal. The table of Superintendent was at a distance of 5-6 feet from the main entrance.

13. PW-11 Aman Dogra, had issued birth certificate Ext. PW-11/B. He also issued copy of pariwar register Ext. PW-11/C.

14. PW-12 Sandeepa Gurang deposed that she was Pradhan of Gram Panchayat Chalama. On 2.10.2013, meeting of Gram Sabha was going on in the Panchayat at about 2:00 PM, mother of prosecutrix came to her and told that on 1.10.2013, accused Vijay Kumar, who was Superintendent in Govt. Sr. Secondary School, Kakira has tried to outrage the modesty of her daughter. She was giving information about it and in case the accused apologized, the matter would be settled and if not the matter would be reported o the police. The mother of the prosecutrix again came to her on 3.10.2013 and told that she wanted to lodge report in the Police Station and she accompanied her along with her daughter to PP Bakloh.

15. PW-13 SI Hoshiar Singh deposed that he has taken over the investigation from HC Raj Pal. He collected the date of birth certificate and copy of pariwar register of the prosecutrix. He also collected posting orders of accused Vijay Kumar Ext. PW-3/C. Attendance certificate of school teachers Ext. PW-3/D was collected. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he has moved an application before the learned JMIC Dalhousie for recording the statement of prosecutrix under Section 164 Cr.P.C. He also admitted that no statement of any other teacher apart from Shruti was recorded. He visited the house of the prosecutrix.

16. The statement of PW-1 prosecutrix is most material. She has categorically deposed that on 1.10.2013, at about 11:30 AM their English period was running and Shruti madam was delivering lecture. In the meantime, Shruti madam started coughing and she went to bring water for her from the room of accused Vijay Kumar, who was Superintendent of the school. She gave water to her teacher and went inside the room of accused Vijay Kumar to keep empty glass. Accused Vijay Kumar, all of a sudden, got up and closed the door of the room and caught her and started sucking her lips. He also started moving hands on her cheek. He also pressed her breasts. She got herself released from the clutches of the accused with great difficulty. She went to Shruti madam and disclosed the incident to her. She went to her house and disclosed the incident to her mother. At about 8:00 PM, in the evening, accused Vijay Kumar and accused O.P. Chopra, Principal came to her house. PW-2 Suman Rani is the mother of the prosecutrix. She has corroborated the statement of PW-1. She specifically deposed that on 1.10.2013, her daughter had gone to the school and she returned home at 3:30 PM and narrated the incident to her. PW-4 Shruti has also deposed that she started coughing on 1.10.2013 at about 10:00 AM while delivering lecture. The prosecutrix brought a glass of water for her. After drinking water, she put the same on the table. While she was preparing the lecture of next class, the prosecutrix came to her and at that time she was perplexed. On asking, she disclosed to her that she had gone to the office of Superintendent Grade-II to put the glass back. When she was putting the glass in the room, accused Vijay Kumar tried to kiss her.

17. PW-11 Aman Dogra, has proved birth certificate of the prosecutrix vide Ext. PW-11/B and copy of pariwar register PW-11/C. PW-3 Saroj Bala has issued certificate Ext. PW-3/B to the effect that the prosecutrix was student of 10+1 class of Govt. Sr. Secondary School, Kakira. She also issued attested copy of attendance certificate of the staff vide Ext. PW-3/D.

18. The incident was disclosed by the mother of the prosecutrix to Pradhan PW-12 Sandeepa Gurang. She also advised the prosecutrix and her mother to lodge the FIR. Though, incident has taken place on 1.10.2013 but the FIR was lodged on 3.10.2013. The prosecutrix has categorically deposed that accused Vijay Kumar had visited her house and threatened not to disclose or report the matter. PW-2 Suman Rani, mother of the prosecutrix had also visited PW-12 Sandeepa Gurang, Pradhan and apprised her about the incident. Thus, the delay in lodging the FIR has been duly explained.

19. Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Sr. Advocate and Mr. Anoop Chitkara, Advocate have drawn the attention of the Court to the statement of DW-1 Sumitra Devi. According to her, she remained sitting outside the room of the Superintendent from 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM on 1.10.2013. Two lady peons and two gents peons were present on duty to attend other staff. On 1.10.2013, from 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM, no student of their school came in the room of the Superintendent nor she allowed any student to go inside the room of the Superintendent. In her cross-examination, she admitted that in the room of Superintendent, water filter was kept on the table adjoining to almirah. She also admitted that on 1.10.2013, only Superintendent was sitting in his room. She also admitted that if the door of the room of the Superintendent is closed from inner side, one cannot tell what was happening inside the room.

20. DW-1 Sumitra has deposed under the sway of Superintendent. She has admitted in her cross-examination that she came under the administrative control of the Superintendent. Accused Vijay Kumar after bolting the door from inside has outraged the modesty of the prosecutrix by kissing and pressing her breasts. He has done these acts with sexual intent resulting in outraging the modesty of the prosecutrix. The contradictions pointed out by the learned Advocates in the statements are minor in nature. The delay in lodging the FIR has been duly explained. The presence of accused Vijay Kumar in the school has been duly proved. Moreover, the accused has not denied his presence in the school. His own witness DW-1 Sumitra Devi has proved his presence in the school.

21. The prosecutrix was born on 17.1.1998. The birth certificate of the prosecutrix has been issued from birth and death register. The date of birth was also incorporated in copy of pariwar register Ext. PW-11/C. These entries were made by the public servants in accordance with provisions of H.P. Panchayati Raj Act, 1994 and rules framed thereunder. The prosecution has proved all the charges against accused Vijay Kumar, however, the prosecution has failed to prove charges against accused O.P. Chopra under Section 21 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012. Since the prosecutrix has not brought the matter to the notice of O.P. Chopra, Principal, the Court has already noticed that she has reported the matter to her class mates, PW-4 Shruti and her mother.

22. The prosecution has duly proved that the prosecutrix has visited the room of accused Vijay Kumar and he has outraged her modesty by confining her to the room.

23. Now, as far as the role of accused O.P. Chopra, Principal of the School is concerned, PW-1 prosecutrix has categorically deposed that accused O.P. Chopra had not stated anything to her nor threatened her to patch up the matter. PW-2 Suman Rani, has deposed that accused O.P. Chopra has not threatened them not to disclose the incident to anyone. PW-5 Davinder Singh has also deposed that the Principal has not threatened the prosecutrix and her family members in his presence. The prosecutrix has not brought the incident to the notice of Principal O.P. Chopra. She has only narrated the incident to PW-4 Shruti madam, class mates and her mother finally at 3:30 PM. PW-4 Shruti has categorically deposed that she has not personally filed complaint to the Principal or some higher authority about the incident.

24. Accordingly, Cr. Appeal No. 25 of 2015 is allowed. Accused O.P.Chopra is acquitted of the charge framed against him. Bail bonds in respect of O.P. Chopra are discharged. Cr. Appeal No. 59 of 2015 preferred by accused Vijay Kumar is dismissed. His conviction and sentence are upheld.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present Criminal Revision Petition under Section 397 read with section 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, against the judgment dated 17.9.2010, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Shimla, in Criminal Appeal No.112-S/10 of 2009, titled Sardar Singh Kapoor vs. Smt. Chander Kanta & anr. dismissing the appeal of the petitioner and confirming the judgment of conviction and sentence passed by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.III, Shimla, District Shimla, in Case No.353-3 of 2006, whereby the petitioner was convicted and sentenced to suffer simple imprisonment for a period of six months for the offence punishable under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act and to pay compensation to the tune of Rs.60,000/-, to the complainant.

2. The brief facts giving rise to the present petition are that the complainant/respondent (hereinafter referred to as the 'complainant') maintained the complaint under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act') against the accused/petitioner (hereinafter referred to as the 'accused') and learned trial Court sentenced the accused, as stated hereinabove, which judgment was affirmed by the learned lower Appellate Court. As per the complainant, on 29.7.2005 accused issued a cheque bearing No.354726, drawn at Syndicate Bank, The Mall, Shimla, to the sum of Rs.50,000/-, on account of discharge of payment of existing debt/liability payable to the complainant with the assurance at the time of issuance of the said cheque that the same on presentation would be honoured. However, when the complainant presented the said cheque on 18.8.2005, within a period of six months from the date of cheque, the same was bounced and dishonoured for the reasons 'Insufficient funds'. The intimation regarding the dishonour of said cheque was received by the complainant on 18.8.2005, as a result of which the complainant was compelled to issue a notice through his learned counsel on 24.8.2005 notifying the fact of dishonour of the cheque to the accused, which was duly received by the accused on 25.8.2005, but the accused deliberately and intentionally failed to make payment of the said cheque amount to the complainant.

3. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the record of the case carefully.

4. The complainant has examined herself as CW-1. CW-1 has deposed that the accused borrowed Rs.50,000/- from her and issued cheque, Ex.CW1/A, on 29.7.2005. The said cheque was presented by her with her Banker which in turn sent the same for clearance to the Banker of the accused, but the same was dishonoured for the reason 'Insufficient funds'. She received the intimation regarding dishonour of cheque, vide memo Ex.CW1/B, on 18.8.2008 upon which she got issued notice on 24.8.2005, Ex.CW1/C, through registered post to the accused. She has proved on record postal receipt, Ex.CW1/D. She has testified the said notice was served upon the accused on 25.8.2005. She has also proved on record acknowledgment, Ex.CW1/E. She has further testified that the loan was given to the accused through cheque on 21.7.2004, regarding which entry was made in the statement of account shown in red ink in the copy Ex.CW1/F, which has been proved by her on the basis of original. She has further testified that even after the service of the legal notice, the accused failed to make the payment of the cheque amount. In cross-examination, she denied that the cheque Ex.CW1/A, was never presented by her for encashment and dishonoured vide memo, Ex.CW1/B. She has refuted the notice Ex.CW1/C, was not served upon the accused. She has further refuted that the accused had no necessity to take loan from her. Further, in her cross examination, the accused has not disputed the fact deposed by her that he had taken a loan of Rs.50,000/- from her. In his statement under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, he has simply shown ignorance about the incriminating circumstances and has stated that he has been falsely implicated. No probable explanation has been rendered on the basis of which he has been falsely implicated by the complainant. He has not disputed that the cheque, Ex.CW1/A, bears his signature or the fact that the cheque bears his handwriting and the same was issued on 29.7.2005. The fact that the legal notice was duly served upon him could not be successfully assailed on behalf of the accused.

5. From the record, it is clear that the accused borrowed Rs.50,000/ from the complainant and in lieu of that the accused issued a cheque to her. It also stands proved that the cheque, Ex.CW1/A, was issued by the accused for repayment of the said loan amount and as such, the accused was under legal liability to discharge the debt and when the said cheque was presented for encashment, the same was dishonoured, vide memo Ex.CW1/B and the accused failed to make the payment of cheque amount even after the receipt of the legal notice issued by the complainant.

6. Keeping in view the above facts and circumstances of the case, learned Courts below properly appreciated the evidence on record and rightly came to the conclusion that the accused had committed the breach of Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, making himself liable for conviction and sentence. Since there is no illegality, impropriety or incorrectness in the impugned judgments, therefore, the revision petition is dismissed being devoid of any merit. Pending application (s), if any, shall also stand (s) disposed of.

CWP No. 500 of 2016

(Para-3 to 8)

Cases referred:
K.K.Modi vs. K.N. Modi and others (1998) 3 SCC 573

For the Petitioner :Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents :Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General, Mr. Anup Rattan and Mr. Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals, Mr. J.K. Verma and Mr. Kush Sharma, Deputy Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The instant case is a glaring and shocking example of abuse of process of Court whereby the petitioner has virtually called in question the judgment rendered earlier by this Court in CWP No. 2978 of 2015, titled Gram Panchayat, Nangal Kalan vs. State of H.P. and others decided on 24.8.2015 and the SLP (C) No. 28601 of 2015 against which decision was dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on 12.10.2015.

2. The undisputed facts are that the Gram Panchayat, Nangal Kalan, the petitioner in CWP No. 2978 of 2015 had challenged the notification dated 27.04.2015 whereby the areas of Tahliwal, specified in the Schedule, had been declared as Nagar Panchayat, Tahliwal and the said writ petition vide a detailed judgment running into 38 pages and containing 41 paragraphs, was dismissed on 24.8.2015.

3. Aggrieved by the judgment passed by this Court, the Gram Panchayat, Nangal Kalan approached the Hon'ble Supreme Court by filing SLP(C) No. 28601 of 2015, however, the same was dismissed vide order dated 12.10.2015, which reads thus:

> "Learned counsel for the petitioner would like to withdraw the petition and move the High Court by way of a writ petition. The special leave petition is dismissed as withdrawn with liberty to approach this Court again, if necessary. "

4. The petitioner herein would claim a right to file the instant writ petition assailing that very notification which has already been upheld by this Court in CWP No. 2978 of 2015 on the ground that liberty had been reserved to him to approach this Court by filing writ petition.

5. To say the least, the contention raised by the petitioner is fallacious to his very knowledge. Admittedly, the petitioner herein was not the petitioner before the Hon'ble Supreme Court to whom the liberty had been reserved to approach this Court again. Even if it is assumed that such liberty was granted to the present petitioner, even then the present writ petition is totally misconceived and amounts to re-litigation which not only is impermissible but is also abuse of process of the Court and against the principle of finality of litigation. It is more than settled that re-agitation may or may not be barred by res judicata, but if the same issue is sought to be re-agitated, it would amount to abuse of process of the Court. Where there is clear abuse of process of the Court, the Court has to view such conduct seriously and the same is to be halted to save precious time of the Court being wasted.

6. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in K.K.Modi vs. K.N. Modi and others (1998) 3 SCC 573, while elaborately considering the abuse of process of the Court, held that re-litigation is one of the examples of abuse of process of Court and such litigation should be summarily dismissed in order to prevent the time of the public and the Court from being wasted, it was observed:

> "42. Under Order 6 Rule 16, the Court may, at any stage of the proceeding, order to be struck out, inter alia, any matter in any pleading which is otherwise an abuse of the process of the court. Mulla in his treatise on the Code of Civil Procedure. (15th Edition, Volume II, page 1179 note 7) has stated that power under clause (c) of Order 6 Rule 16 of the Code is confined to cases where the abuse of he process of the Court is manifest from the pleadings; and that this power is unlike the power under Section 151 whereunder Courts have inherent power to strike out pleadings or to stay or dismiss proceedings which are an abuse of their process. In the present case the High Court has held the suit to be an abuse of he process of Court on the basis of what is stated in the plaint.
> 43. The Supreme Court Practice 1995 published by Sweet & Maxwell in paragraph 18/19/33 (page 344) explains the phrase "abuse of the process of the court" thus:
>> "This term connotes that the process of the court must be used bona fide and properly and must not be abused. The court will prevent improper use of its machinery and will in a proper case, summarily prevent its machinery from being used as a means of vexation and oppression in the process of litigation........ The categories of conduct rendering a claim frivolous, vexatious or an abuse of process are not closed but depend on all the relevant circumstances. And for this purpose considerations of public policy and the interests of justice may be very material."
> 44. "One of the examples cited as an abuse of the process of court is re-litigation. It is an abuse of the process of the court and contrary to justice and public policy for a party to re-litigate the same issue which h as already been tried and decided earlier against him. The re-agitation may or may not be barred as res judicata. But if the same issue is sought to be re-agitated, it also amounts to an abuse of the process of court." A proceeding being filed for a collateral purpose, or a spurious claim being made in litigation may also in a given set of facts amount to an abuse of the process of the court. Frivolous or vexatious proceedings may also amount to an abuse of the process of court especially where the proceedings are absolutely groundless. The court then has the power to stop such proceedings summarily and prevent the time of the public and the court from being wasted. Undoubtedly, it is a matter of courts' discretion whether such proceedings should be stopped or not; and this discretion has to be exercised with circumspection. It is a jurisdiction which should be sparingly exercised, and exercised only in special cases. The court should also be satisfied that there is no chance of the suit succeeding.
> 45. In the case of Greenhalgh v. Mallard [19147 (2) All ER 255] the court had to consider different proceedings on the same cause of action for conspiracy, but supported by different averments. The Court, held that if the plaintiff has chosen to put his case in one way, he cannot thereafter bring the same transaction before the court, put his case in another way and say that he is relying on a new cause of action. In such circumstances he can be met with the plea of res judicata or the statement or plaint may be struck out on the ground that the action is frivolous and vexation and an abuse of the process of court.

46. In Mcllkenny v. Chief Constable of West Midlands Police Force and another [1980 (2) All ER 227], the Court of Appeal in England struck out the pleading on the ground that the action was an abuse of the process of the court since it raised an issue identical to that which had been finally determined at the plaintiffs' earlier criminal trial. The court said even when it is not possible to strike out the plaint on the ground of issue estoppel, the action can be struck out as an abuse of the process of the court because it is an abuse for a party to re-litigate a question or issue which has already been decided against him even though the other party cannot satisfy the strict rule of res judicata or the requirement of issue estoppel."

7. The dictum laid down in the aforesaid judgment is squarely applicable to the case in hand and it is, therefore, absolutely clear that the petitioner has tried to overreach the orders already passed by this Court and this attempt to re-argue the case, which has finally decided, is clear abuse of process of the Court.

8. In view of the aforesaid discussion, not only is the writ petition not maintainable, but the same is gross abuse of process of the Court and consequently, the same is dismissed with costs of Rs.20,000/- to be paid by the petitioner to the H.P. High Court Advocates' Welfare Association.

The petition is disposed of in the aforesaid terms alongwith all pending application(s), if any.

For the Respondent	:	Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate General, for respondent No.1. Mr. Satyen Vaidya,Sr. Advocate, with Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

Sandeep Sharma, Judge (Oral)

Present Criminal Revision Petition filed under Sections 397, 401 read with Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is directed against the order dated 22nd December,2008, passed by learned Special Judge, Bilaspur, District Bilaspur in Corruption Case No.2 of 2005, whereby he allowed the application filed by the Public Prosecutor under Section 321 Cr.P.C. for permission to withdraw case from the prosecution in case arising out of FIR No. 59/2002, dated 3.4.2002 under Sections 420, 120-B IPC & 13(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act, police Station, Barmana, District Bilaspur, HP.

2. Briefly stated facts as emerge from the record are that the petitioner filed a complaint under Section 13(2)of the Prevention of Corruption Act and under Sections 418, 420,465, 468, 471, 472 read with Section 120-B of Indian Penal Code (in short “IPC”) in the Court of learned Special Judge, Bilaspur praying therein for referring the investigation to the police under Section 156(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure(in short “Cr.P.C.”).

3. Careful perusal of the complaint suggest that respondent No.2 was functioning as Chairman-Cum- Managing Director (in short “CMD”) of H.P. Ex-servicemen Corporation, Hamirpur since 1998 (in short “Corporation”). Respondent No.3, Pawan Kumar is the son of respondent No.2, who as per complainant was unemployed and was not having independent source of income. The corporation owned a Diesel Pump set up by Hindustan Petroleum at Barmana, H.P. Since diesel pump as referred above, was causing obstruction in the free flow of traffic, it was decided to shift the same to some other location and in that regard Deputy Commissioner, Bilaspur was requested by the corporation to arrange some alternate site. However, Deputy Commissioner informed the corporation that no land for the purpose of setting up diesel pump is available with the government and, as such, corporation may itself locate some piece of land for setting up of diesel pump. Accordingly, respondent No.2 alongwith his son respondent No.3 purchased a piece of land measuring 2 bighas from one Sh. Krishnu, R/o village Bhater for consideration of Rs.4 lacs. Aforesaid amount of consideration was paid by respondent No.2 to the owner of the land i.e. Sh.Krishnu, R/o village Bhater. It is also alleged in the complaint that respondent No.2 falsely represented to the Government that the land in question, which was purposed to be purchased for setting up a diesel pump was located alongwith the National Highway, whereas same was far away from the National Highway. Complainant also alleged that respondent No.2 never disclosed his relationship with respondent No.3 to any of the members of the Board of Directors and got the said land measuring 2 bighas comprising khasra No.244/70 and 71, purchased by the corporation for total consideration of Rs. 8,22,800/- plus Rs. 98760/- i.e. expenditure on the stamp duty, registration charges, from respondent No.3, who happened to be his son. It is also alleged that aforesaid amount was not paid through cheque, rather same was paid in cash at the residence of respondents No.2 and 3. Complainant specifically averred in the complaint that at the time of purchase of aforesaid piece of land, respondent No.2 was fully aware that this piece of land belongs to respondent No.3, who happened to be his son but despite this he never disclosed this fact to any of the members of the Board and by concealing this material fact from the government as well as members of Board, obtained permission to purchase the land for shifting of diesel pump.

4. Apart from above, complainant also alleged that from day one respondent No.2 had been representing to the government that the land purposed to be purchased for setting up diesel pump is located alongwith National Highway but as a matter of fact, land purchased is/was not abutting to the National Highway, rather other pieces of land owned by other person exists between the National Highway and the land purchased by corporation from respondent No.3. Complainant in support of averments contained in the application also made available copy of two sale deeds, whereby the land was purchased by respondent No.3 Sh. Pawan Kumar and further sold to Corporation. Complainant in his complaint specifically averred that at first instance land in question was purchased by Sh. Pawan Kumar, respondent No.3 at Barmana, which was further sold to the corporation headed by his father. Complainant further alleged that within a period about 14 months from the purchase of the land from respondent No.3, Sh. Pawan Kumar, further sold the same to corporation misusing influence/position of respondent No.2 at exorbitant rates. By placing on record two sale deeds as referred above, complainant also attempted to demonstrate that the land was purchased by respondent No.3 against the total consideration of Rs. 4 lacs, whereas same was further sold to corporation for total consideration of Rs.8,22,800/-, causing huge financial loss to the complainant. Complainant prayed in the complaint that since aforesaid act of cheating was done by respondent No.2 misusing his official position in connivance with accused No.1 and 3, they are liable to be punished under section 13(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act and Sections 418, 420, 465, 468, 471, 472 read with Section 120-B of IPC.

5. Subsequent to the aforesaid complaint filed by the complainant, learned Special Judge vide communication dated 30.3.2002 forwarded the complaint to the SHO Police Station Barmana, for investigation under Section 156(3)Cr.P.C in accordance with law. Documents available on record further reveals that police after necessary investigation, presented the challan before the competent Court of law in the year, 2005.

6. Careful perusal of the record of the Court below suggest that during the investigation police collected material evidence on record suggestive of the fact that a prima facie case exists against the accused. Police during investigation besides collecting relevant records also recorded the statements of the member of the Board of Directors of corporation, which are available on record. However, on 22.12.2008 learned public prosecutor moved an application under Section 321 Cr. P.C for withdrawal from the prosecution in the Court of learned Special Judge, Bilaspur, H.P.

7. Learned Special Judge, Bilaspur taking cognizance of the averments contained in the application filed under section 321 Cr.P.C for granting permission to withdraw the case from prosecution in case FIR No. 59/2002, dated 3.4.2002, allowed the application and granted the permission to learned public prosecutor to withdraw the case from the prosecution.

8. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the impugned order dated 22.12.2008 passed by learned Special Judge, Bilaspur, present petitioner preferred the instant revision petition before this Court praying therein for quashing of impugned order and remand the case back to the learned Special Judge, Bilaspur for further proceedings in accordance with law.

9. Petitioner by way of instant criminal revision petition further contended that since the case was registered at his instance, he being an interested party was required to be joined as party in the application for withdrawal moved by the learned public prosecutor so that he could have effectively assisted the learned special Judge in the proceedings of the withdrawal of prosecution under Section 321 Cr.P.C. Petitioner has also contended that it was incumbent upon the learned Special Judge while deciding the application for withdrawal filed by the learned public prosecutor to issue notices to the petitioner in the interest of justice because he being the complainant would have been the best person to assist the Court. Since no notice, whatsoever, was issued to the complaint, on whose behest matter was investigated and FIR was lodged, great prejudice has been caused to him. Petitioner has also stated that bare perusal of the application filed by the learned public prosecutor discloses no grounds whatsoever, which could compel the learned Special Judge to permit the public prosecutor to withdraw the case from the prosecution.

10. Petitioner in the revision petition specifically stated that since there is/was ample evidence collected on record by the investigating Agency, which was enough to connect the accused with the offences allegedly having been committed by them, there was no occasion, whatsoever, for the learned Special Judge to allow the application filed under Section 321 Cr.P.C.

11. Mr. N.S.Chandel, learned counsel duly assisted by Mr. Dinesh Thakur, advocate representing the petitioner vehemently argued that the impugned order dated 22.12.2008, passed by learned Special Judge, Bilaspur on the application filed under section 321 Cr.P.C by learned public prosecutor is unsustainable in the eye of law as the same is not based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence available on record. He vehemently argued that the learned Court below should not have proceeded ahead with the matter without issuing notice to the complainant because he was an interested party in the matter. He contended that the complainant-petitioner was required to be heard by learned Special Judge before rendering decision on the application moved by learned public prosecutor under Section 321 Cr.P.C.

12. During arguments made by him, he invited the attention of the Court to the application filed under Section 321 Cr.P.C for granting permission to withdraw the case from the prosecution to demonstrate that no material worth the name was placed on record by the learned public prosecutor in support of the contention made in the application. Mr. Chandel, learned counsel forcibly contended that the learned Special Judge while allowing the application filed by the public prosecutor failed to acknowledge the fact that relevant material which was sufficient to prove the guilt of the accused was withheld from Court by the prosecution and learned Special Judge solely on the basis of the averments contained in the application, passed order dated 22.12.2008 without realizing that great prejudice would be caused to the complainant as well as public at large. Mr. Chandel, learned counsel during proceeding of the case made this Court to travel through the averments contained in the application to demonstrate that averments contained in the application were not sufficient to conclude that withdrawal of the case, if any, would be in the interest of public and exchequer of the government. Mr. Chandel while making his arguments also made this Court to travel through various documents available on the file of Court below suggestive of the fact that respondent No. 2 never informed/disclosed to the Government as well as and Managing Committee of the Corporation that the seller of the land is his son and land is being sold to the corporation for double the price. He also invited the attention of the Court to the sale deeds pertaining to the piece of land, which was ultimately purchased by the corporation for setting up the diesel pump to show that how great financial loss was caused to the public exchequer by the action of respondents No. 2 and 3.

13. Mr. Chandel, learned counsel also invited the attention of the Court to the revenue documents available on record to establish that the land actually purchased by the respondent No.2 for setting up the diesel pump from his son namely Pawan Kumar respondent No.3 is /was far away from the National Highway. He further contended that there is private land owned by some other person exists in between the National Highway and the land got purchased by respondent No.2 from respondent No.3 for shifting of petrol pump. However, aforesaid information was deliberately concealed from Govt. and by misrepresenting the facts, respondent No.2 procured approval from the State Government to purchase that particular piece of land, which was owned by his son respondent No.3. Mr. Chandel, while referring to the documents available on record strenuously argued that the averments contained in para-5 of the application moved by learned public prosecutor that 'all documents annexed with the case file are in favour of accused persons is totally contrary to the records and clearly indicates that the learned Special Judge while passing impugned order solely relied upon the averments contained in the application and did not bother at all to refer to the documents collected on record by the Investigating Agency. It is also contended on behalf of the petitioner that all the documents attached with the police challan clearly supports/corroborates the oral evidence collected by the investigating agency while investigating the matter in terms of Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. Documents available on record suggest that respondent No.2 concealed the material facts from the government and procured approval on the basis of the wrong information deceitfully. Had he disclosed factual position to the government that the land proposed to be purchased belongs to respondent No.3 and same is not abutting to the National Highway, government would have never accorded any sanction for purchase of that piece of land. Moreover, perusal of the statements recorded by the police of members of the Board clearly suggest that they all were kept in dark and at no point of time they were informed that the land proposed to be purchased for setting up diesel pump belongs to son respondent No.2. Mr. Chandel, learned counsel, strenuously argued that in view of the aforesaid facts, it is ample clear that the public prosecutor did not present the true picture before the Court while moving application under Section 321 Cr.P.C, rather he made wrong statement/submission in the application intentionally and deliberately to mislead the learned Special Judge solely with a motive to procure relief, which would have been not granted otherwise. It is further contended that respondent No.2 by purchasing particular piece of land, which was admittedly not abutting the National Highway that too from his son respondent No.3, caused huge pecuniary loss to the corporation because admittedly till date petrol pump could not be installed on that piece of land.

14. Learned counsel representing the petitioner also contended that non participation of respondent No.2 in the alleged meetings held on 4th August, 1999 for the sale of land is immaterial as the proposal to sell the land of his son to corporation was moved by him at first instance that too without informing other Board members, which itself is sufficient to conclude that his intention was to defraud the corporation. Had respondent No.2 disclosed the Board members that land proposed to be purchased for setting up diesel pump belongs to his son, there was every possibility of objection being raised by the members of the Board. But respondent No.2 purposely concealed the material facts from the government as well as Board of members and as such, caused wrongful loss to the corporation and public at large. It is also contended that respondent No.2 also concealed from the members of Board with regard to distance of suitable land, which was very much in his knowledge, which fact clearly points towards his dishonest intention to defraud the corporation. At last, learned counsel representing the petitioner stated that the impugned order passed by learned Special Judge Bilaspur is not based on correct appreciation of material evidence available on record, rather same has been passed merely taking into consideration the averments contained in the application and as such, same deserves to be quashed and set-aside.

15. Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General duly assisted by Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, representing the respondent-State duly supported the impugned order passed by learned Special Judge, Bilaspur, and submitted that there is no illegality and infirmity in the impugned order and same deserves to be upheld. Mr. Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General vehemently argued that as per Section 321 Cr.P.C, public prosecutor was well within its right to move an application for withdrawing the prosecution since there was no evidence whatsoever, available on record which could be sufficient to hold the accused guilty of having committed the offence under Sections 13(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act and under sections 418 ,420, 465, 468, 471, 472 read with Section 120-B of IPC. Mr. Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General also contended that bare perusal of impugned order passed by learned Special Judge suggest that learned special Judge before passing the order satisfied himself that there is no evidence on record suggestive of participation of the accused, in any, of the proceedings related to selection of the alternative site and hence it cannot be said that the learned special Judge passed the impugned order in hot haste manner without due application of mind. He specifically invited the attention of this Court to impugned order, whereby learned Special Judge concluded that "I have also scanned the evidence on record and I, too, am of the considered and circumspect view that, the, offences as alleged against the accused, in the police challan presented before this Court may not stand vindication, as the documentary evidence is overwhelmingly in favour of the accused and it throws over Board the value if any of oral evidence.". Lastly while concluding its arguments, Mr.Rupinder Singh Thakur, forcibly contended that Section 321 Cr.P.C fully empowers the learned PP to move application for withdrawal of prosecution and accordingly in the present case, when it appeared to learned PP that there is no evidence of involvement of respondent No.2, he moved application and as such present petition deserve to be dismissed being devoid of any merits.

16. Mr. Satyen Vaidya, learned Senior Advocate duly assisted by Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate representing the respondents No. 2 and 3 also supported the impugned order dated 22.12.2008 passed by learned Special Judge, Bilaspur. Mr. Vaidya, learned Senior Counsel forcibly contended that the impugned order dated 22.12.2008 has been passed by the learned Special Judge after due application of mind and as such, same deserves to be upheld. Mr. Vaidya, forcibly contended that Section 321 of Cr.P.C empowers public prosecutor to withdraw the case from prosecution before the judgment is pronounced and as per Section 321 Cr.P.C, it is his sole prerogative to do so. In case learned public prosecutor is satisfied that there is no evidence on record of the participation of the accused, in any of the proceedings, he can move an application under section 321 Cr.P.C for withdrawal from prosecution. During arguments having been made by him, he while referring to the documents available on record forcibly contended that there is no document available on record to connect respondents No. 2 and 3 with the alleged offence. As per Mr. Vaidya, there is no evidence on record of participation of the accused in any proceedings relating to selection of the alternative site as has been alleged by the complainant. He prayed that since the order dated 22.12.2008 has been passed by learned Special Judge after due application of mind, there is no scope, whatsoever, for the interference of this Court and prayed for dismissal of the petition. Mr. Vaidya, learned senior counsel also submitted that scope of interference of this Court is very limited while examining the correctness and validity of order, if any, passed under Section 321Cr.P.C. In this regard, he placed reliance on the judgment passed by Constitution Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court in Sheonandan Paswan versus State of Bihar and others (1987)* 1 Supreme Court Cases 288.

17. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record of the case.

18. Before proceeding to decide the controversy, it would be profitable to reproduce the provision of Section 321 Cr.P.C:-

> 321. Withdrawal from prosecution. The Public Prosecutor or Assistant Public Prosecutor in charge of a case may, with the consent of the Court, at any time before the judgment is pronounced, withdraw from the prosecution of any person either generally or in respect of any one or more of the offences for which he is tried; and, upon such withdrawal,-

19. Bare reading of Section 321 Cr.P.C reproduced hereinabove, nowhere spells out any guiding factors grounds, which may be available to public prosecutor for making an application for withdrawal and as such, this Court with a sole view to ascertain the guiding factors available to public prosecutor while moving an application under Section 321 Cr.P.C as well as to learned Court while deciding the same, deemed it fit to refer to the latest judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Bairam Muralidhar versus State of Andhra Pradesh (2014) 10 Supreme Court Cases 380 .

20. In the case referred above, the Hon'ble Apex Court while dealing with the scope of Section 321 Cr.P.C has taken into consideration the law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in Sheonandan Paswan versus State of Bihar and others *(*1987)1 Supreme Court Cases 288; wherein their lordship's while deliberating upon the power of the public prosecutor seeking withdrawal from prosecution under section 321 Cr.P.C as well as power of trial Court to grant permission to withdraw has dealt with each and every aspect of the matter. Constitutional Bench while laying down the guidelines/guiding factors for moving an application under Section 321 Cr.P.C as well as for deciding the same by the Court specifically referred to the basic decision of Apex Court i.e. State of Bihar versus Ram Naresh Pandey AIR 1957 SC 389 M & 1957 Cri.L.J.567. In State of Bihar versus Ram Naresh Pandey, which was the first case dealing with the interpretation and application of Section 321 Cr.P.C this Court while deliberating on the role of a Public Prosecutor said:-

> ".....it is right to remember that the Public Prosecutor(though an executive officer as stated by the Privy Council in Bawa Faqir Singh v. King Emperor 1938 LR 65 IA 388,395 is, in a larger sense, also an officer of the court and that he is bound to assist the court with his fairly considered view and the court is entitled to have the benefit of the fair exercise of his function. It has also to be appreciated that in this country the scheme of the administration of criminal justice is that the primary responsibility of prosecuting serious offences(which are classified as cognizable offences) is on the executive authorities. Once information of the commission of any such offence reaches the constitute d authorities, the investigation, including collection of the requisite evidence, and the prosecution for the offence with reference to such evidence, are the functions of the executive. But the Magistrate also has his allotted function in the course of these stages. In all these matters he exercises discretionary functions in respect of which the initiative is that of the executive but the responsibility is his."

21. The Hon'ble Apex Court in case titled as Bairam Muralidhar v. State of Andhra Pradesh( supra) while examining the scope of applicability under section 321 Cr.P.C held that it is the obligation of the Public Prosecutor to state what material he has considered which compelled him to move an application under Section 321 Cr.P.C seeking withdrawal of the prosecution. The Hon'ble Apex Court has categorically observed that Public Prosecutor cannot act like the post office on behalf of the State Government, rather he is required to act in good faith, peruse materials on record and form an independent opinion that withdrawal of the case would really sub-serve public interest.

22. Similarly, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that while giving consent under Section 321 of the Code, Court is required to exercise its judicial discretion, which is not to be exercised in mechanical manner, rather it is incumbent upon the Court to consider the material on record to see that the application had been filed in good faith and it is in the interest of public and justice.

23. Before analyzing the material available on record in terms of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case referred above, it would be profitable to reproduce relevant para No.12 to 22 as under:-

> 12. In the said case, the larger Bench referred the decisions in Bansi Lal v. Chandan Lal(1976) 1 SCC 421), Balwant Singh v. State of Bihar(1977)4 SCC 448), Subhash Chander v. State(Chandigarh Admn) (1980) 2SCC 155, Rajender Kumar Jain v. State(1980) 3 SCC 435, and the principles stated in State of Bihar v. Ram Naresh Pandey (1957 Cri.LJ 567) and eventually came to hold as follows:-
>> "99.All the above decisions have followed the reasoning of Ram Naresh Pandey's case and the principles settled in that decision were not doubted.
>> 100.It is in the light of these decisions that the case on hand has to be considered. I find the application for withdrawal by the Public Prosecutor has been made in good faith after careful consideration of the materials placed before him and the order of consent given by the Magistrate was also after due consideration of various details, as indicated above. It would be improper for this Court, keeping in view the scheme of S. 321, to embark upon a detailed enquiry into the facts and evidence of the case or to direct retrial for that would be destructive of the object and intent of the Section. "
> 13. In R.M. Tewari, Advocate v. State (NCT of Delhi) (1996)2 SCC 610, this Court while dealing with justifiability of withdrawal from the prosecution the Court referred to Section 321 of the Code and the principle that has been stated in Sheonandan Paswan (Supra) and opined that:-
>> "7. It is, therefore, clear that the Designated Court was right in taking the view that withdrawal from prosecution is not to be permitted mechanically by the court on an application for that purpose made by the public prosecutor. It is equally clear that the public prosecutor also has not to act mechanically in the discharge of his statutory function under Section 321 CrPC on such a recommendation being made by the Review Committee; and that it is the duty of the public prosecutor to satisfy himself that it is a fit case for withdrawal from prosecution before he seeks the consent of the court for that purpose.
>> 8. It appears that in these matters, the public prosecutor did not fully appreciate the requirements of Section 321 CrPC and made the applications for withdrawal from prosecution only on the basis of the recommendations of the Review Committee. It was necessary for the public prosecutor to satisfy himself in each case that the case is fit for withdrawal from prosecution in accordance with the settled principles indicated in the decisions of this Court and then to satisfy the Designated Court of the existence of a ground which permits withdrawal from prosecution under Section 321 CrPC."
> 14. A three-Judge Bench in Abdul Karim v. State of Karnataka(2000)8 SCC 710 referred to the Constitution Bench judgment in Sheonandan Paswan case (1987) 1 SCC 288) and Bharucha, J (as His Lordship then was) speaking for himself and D.P. Mohapatra, J. observed thus: (Abdul Karim case (2000) 8 SCC 710, SCC p.729, paras 19-20)
>> "19. The law, therefore, is that though the Government may have ordered, directed or asked a Public Prosecutor to withdraw from a prosecution, it is for the Public Prosecutor to apply his mind to all the relevant material and, in good faith, to be satisfied thereon that the public interest will be served by his withdrawal from the prosecution. In turn, the court has to be satisfied, after considering all that material, that the Public Prosecutor has applied his mind independently thereto, that the Public Prosecutor, acting in good faith, is of the opinion that his withdrawal from the prosecution is in the public interest, and that such withdrawal will not stifle or thwart the process of law or cause manifest injustice.

20. It must follow that the application under Section 321 must aver that the Public Prosecutor is, in good faith, satisfied, on consideration of all relevant material, that his withdrawal from the prosecution is in the public interest and it will not stifle or thwart the process of law or cause injustice. The material that the Public Prosecutor has considered must be set out, briefly but concisely, in the application or in an affidavit annexed to the application or, in a given case, placed before the court, with its permission, in a sealed envelope. The court has to give an informed consent. It must be satisfied that this material can reasonably lead to the conclusion that the withdrawal of the Public Prosecutor from the prosecution will serve the public interest; but it is not for the court to weigh the material. The court must be satisfied that the Public Prosecutor has considered the material and, in good faith, reached the conclusion that his withdrawal from the prosecution will serve the public interest. The court must also consider whether the grant of consent may thwart or stifle the course of law or result in manifest injustice. If, upon such consideration, the court accords consent, it must make such order on the application as will indicate to a higher court that it has done all that the law requires it to do before granting consent."

15. Y.K. Sabharwal, J (as His Lordship then was) in his concurring opinion elaborating further on fundamental parameters which are to be the laser beam for exercise of power under Section 321 of the Code opined that: (Abdul Karim case (2000) 8SCC 710, SCC p.739, paras 42-43)

"42. The satisfaction for moving an application under Section 321 CrPC has to be of the Public Prosecutor which in the nature of the case in hand has to be based on the material provided by the State. The nature of the power to be exercised by the Court while deciding application under Section 321 is delineated by the decision of this Court in Sheonandan Paswan v. State of Bihar. This decision holds that grant of consent by the court is not a matter of course and when such an application is filed by the Public Prosecutor after taking into consideration the material before him, the court exercises its judicial discretion by considering such material and on such consideration either gives consent or declines consent. It also lays down that the court has to see that the application is made in good faith, in the interest of public policy and justice and not to thwart or stifle the process of law or suffers from such improprieties or illegalities as to cause manifest injustice if consent is given.

43. True, the power of the court under Section 321 is supervisory but that does not mean that while exercising that power, the consent has to be granted on mere asking. The court has to examine that all relevant aspects have been taken into consideration by the Public Prosecutor and/or by the Government in exercise of its executive function."

16. In Rahul Agarwal v. Rakesh Jain (2005) 2 SCC 379) the Court was dealing with what should be the lawful consideration while dealing with an application for withdrawal under Section 321 of the Code. The Court referred to the decisions in Ram Naresh Pandey (supra), State of Orissa v. Chandrika Mohapatra, Balwant Singh v. State of Bihar (supra) and the authority in Abdul Karim (supra) wherein the earlier decision of the Constitution Bench in Sheonandan Paswan was appreciated and after reproducing few passages from Abdul Karim (supra) ruled that:-

> "10. From these decisions as well as other decisions on the same question, the law is very clear that the withdrawal of prosecution can be allowed only in the interest of justice. Even if the Government directs the Public Prosecutor to withdraw the prosecution and an application is filed to that effect, the court must consider all relevant circumstances and find out whether the withdrawal of prosecution would advance the cause of justice. If the case is likely to end in an acquittal and the continuance of the case is only causing severe harassment to the accused, the court may permit withdrawal of the prosecution. If the withdrawal of prosecution is likely to bury the dispute and bring about harmony between the parties and it would be in the best interest of justice, the court may allow the withdrawal of prosecution. The discretion under Section 321, Code of Criminal Procedure is to be [pic]carefully exercised by the court having due regard to all the relevant facts and shall not be exercised to stifle the prosecution which is being done at the instance of the aggrieved parties or the State for redressing their grievance. Every crime is an offence against the society and if the accused committed an offence, society demands that he should be punished. Punishing the person who perpetrated the crime is an essential requirement for the maintenance of law and order and peace in the society. Therefore, the withdrawal of the prosecution shall be permitted only when valid reasons are made out for the same." (Emphasis added]

17. The obtaining fact situation has to be tested on the anvil of aforesaid enunciation of law. As is demonstrable, the State Government vide GOMs. No. 268 dated 23rd May, 2009 enumerated certain aspects which are reproduced hereinbefore. The reproduction part requires slight clarification. In the order passed by the State Government, the third reference refers to the representation of Shri B. Muralidhar, Sub-Inspector of Police, Kamareddy Town P.S. dated 5.8.2007 and the fourth reference refers to the communication from the Director General, Anti Corruption Bureau, Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad dated 12.10.2007. Thereafter, the State Government has given its opinion why the case required to be withdrawn. The learned public prosecutor in his application for withdrawal of the prosecution has referred to the Government order and sought permission of the Court. What the public prosecutor has stated is that he has perused the Government order, the material evidences available on record and has applied his mind independently and satisfied that it was a fit case for withdrawal.

18. The central question is whether the Public Prosecutor has really applied his mind to all the relevant materials on record and satisfied himself that the withdrawal from the prosecution would subserve the cause of public interest or not. Be it stated, it is the obligation of the public prosecutor to state what material he has considered. It has to be set out in brief. The Court as has been held in Abdul Karim's case, is required to give an informed consent. It is obligatory on the part of the Court to satisfy itself that from the material it can reasonably be held that the withdrawal of the prosecution would serve the public interest. It is not within the domain of the Court to weigh the material. However, it is necessary on the part of the Court to see whether the grant of consent would thwart or stifle the course of law or cause manifest injustice. A Court while giving consent under Section 321 of the Code is required to exercise its judicial discretion, and judicial discretion, as settled in law, is not to be exercised in a mechanical manner. The Court cannot give such consent on a mere asking. It is expected of the Court to consider the material on record to see that the application had been filed in good faith and it is in the interest of public interest and justice. Another aspect the Court is obliged to see whether such withdrawal would advance the cause of justice. It requires exercise of careful and concerned discretion because certain crimes are against the State and the society as a collective demands justice to be done. That maintains the law and order situation in the society. The public prosecutor cannot act like the post office on behalf of the State Government. He is required to act in good faith, peruse the materials on record and form an independent opinion that the withdrawal of the case would really subserve the public interest at large. An order of the Government on the public prosecutor in this regard is not binding. He cannot remain oblivious to his lawful obligations under the Code. He is required to constantly remember his duty to the Court as well as his duty to the collective.

19.In the case at hand, as the application filed by the public prosecutor would show that he had mechanically stated about the conditions-precedent. It cannot be construed that he has really perused the materials and applied his independent mind solely because he has so stated. The application must indicate perusal of the materials by stating what are the materials he has perused, may be in brief, and whether such withdrawal of the prosecution would serve public interest and how he has formed his independent opinion. As we perceive, the learned public prosecutor has been totally guided by the order of the Government and really not applied his mind to the facts of the case. The learned trial Judge as well as the High Court has observed that it is a case under the Prevention of Corruption Act. They have taken note of the fact that the State Government had already granted sanction. It is also noticeable that the Anti Corruption Bureau has found there was no justification of withdrawal of the prosecution.

20. A case under the Prevention of Corruption Act has its own gravity. In Niranjan Hemchandra Sashittal and another v. State of Maharashtra(2013) 4scc 642)] while declining to quash the proceeding under the Act on the ground of delayed trial, the Court observed thus:

> "25. In the case at hand, the appellant has been charge-sheeted under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 for disproportionate assets. The said Act has a purpose to serve. Parliament intended to eradicate corruption and provide deterrent punishment when criminal culpability is proven. The intendment of the legislature has an immense social relevance. In the present day scenario, corruption has been treated to have the potentiality of corroding the marrows of the economy. There are cases where the amount is small and in certain cases, it is extremely high. The gravity of the offence in such a case, in our considered opinion, is not to be adjudged on the bedrock of the quantum of bribe. An attitude to abuse the official position to extend favour in lieu of benefit is a crime against the collective and an anathema to the basic tenets of democracy, for it erodes the faith of the people in the system. It creates an incurable concavity in the Rule of Law. Be it noted, system of good governance is founded on collective faith in the institutions. If corrosions are allowed to continue by giving allowance to quash the proceedings in corruption cases solely because of delay without scrutinizing other relevant factors, a time may come when the unscrupulous people would foster and garner the tendency to pave the path of anarchism."

21. Recently, in Dr. Subramanian Swamy v. Director, CBI(2014) 8 SCC 682, the Constitution Bench while declaring Section 6A of the Delhi Special Police Establishment Act, 1946, which was inserted by Act 45 of 2003 as unconstitutional has opined that:-

> "59. It seems to us that classification which is made in Section 6-A on the basis of status in the Government service is not permissible under Article 14 as it defeats the purpose of finding prima facie truth into the allegations of graft, which amount to an offence under the PC Act, 1988. Can there be sound differentiation between corrupt public servants based on their status? Surely not, because irrespective of their status or position, corrupt public servants are corrupters of public power. The corrupt public servants, whether high or low, are birds of the same feather and must be confronted with the process of investigation and inquiry equally. Based on the position or status in service, no distinction can be made between public servants against whom there are allegations amounting to an offence under the PC Act, 1988."
> And thereafter, the larger Bench further ruled: (SCC p.726, para 60)
> > "60. Corruption is an enemy of the nation and tracking down corrupt public servants and punishing such persons is a necessary mandate of the PC Act, 1988. It is difficult to justify the classification which has been made in Section 6-A because the goal of law in the PC Act, 1988 is to meet corruption cases with a very strong hand and all public servants are warned through such a legislative measure that corrupt public servants have to face very serious consequences." And again, the larger Bench observed:
> "70. Office of public power cannot be the workshop of personal gain. The probity in public life is of great importance. How can two public servants against whom there are allegations of corruption of graft or bribe taking or criminal misconduct under the PC Act, 1988 can be made to be treated differently because one happens to be a junior officer and the other, a senior decision maker.
> 72. Corruption is an enemy of nation and tracking down corrupt public servant, howsoever high he may be, and punishing such person is a necessary mandate under the PC Act, 1988. The status or position of public servant does not qualify such public servant from exemption from equal treatment. The decision making power does not segregate corrupt officers into two classes as they are common crime doers and have to be tracked down by the same process of inquiry and investigation."

22. We have referred to these authorities only to show that in the case at hand, regard being had to the gravity of the offence and the impact on public life apart from the nature of application filed by the public prosecutor, we are of the considered opinion that view expressed by the learned trial Judge as well as the > High Court cannot be found fault with. We say so as we are inclined to think that there is no ground to show that such withdrawal would advance the cause of justice and serve the public interest. That apart, there was no independent application of mind on the part of the learned public prosecutor, possibly thinking that the Court would pass an order on a mere asking.

24. Careful perusal of the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court referred hereinabove, clearly suggest that foremost guiding factors for moving an application for withdrawal from the prosecution would be " interest of justice" and in that regard the public prosecutor to seek withdrawal from the prosecution in furtherance of the cause of public justice. It is incumbent upon the learned P.P to show that he may not be able to produce sufficient evidence to sustain the charge. Though, as per Section 321 Cr.P.C prosecution can be withdrawn at any stage, even after the framing of the charge. But at this stage, learned Court as well as learned Public Prosecutor both are expected to keep in mind that on same set of evidence, cognizance, if any, was taken by Court at the time of presentation of challan under Section 173 Cr.P.C and thereafter at the time of framing of charge under Section 288 Cr.P.C.

25. Further perusal of the judgment rendered by the Constitutional Bench as reproduced above suggest that the public prosecutor is expected to justify his application moved under section 321 Cr.P.C for withdrawal from the prosecution by clearly stating that same is being done in the interest of justice and in administration of justice. Admittedly, public prosecutor is empowered to seek withdrawal in terms of Section 321 Cr.P.C but the basic principle as emerge from the judgment referred above for withdrawal would be "advancement of administration of justice" in furtherance of administration of public justice." It clearly emerge from the judgment referred above that public prosecutor cannot be allowed to maintain the application for withdrawal from prosecution solely on the ground that no sufficient evidence is available against the accused.

26. In the present case, as emerge from the record, learned public prosecutor moved an application bearing Cr. M.A No. 131 of 2008, titled as State versus Chet Ram & others under Section 321 Cr.P.C before learned Special Judge, Bilaspur praying therein for permission to withdraw case from the prosecution. It would be apt to reproduce the contents of the application as under:-

> " That the statement of the witnesses and also relevant record of the case annexed with the case file clearly shows that the people of Barmana had made a representation to the Hon'ble Chief Minister in the year, 1997 for shifting their diesel pump of the Ex. Serviceman corporation from main road to some other suitable place, since it was making a hindrance and there had been blocked of road/ traffic and in general the flow of traffic was obstructed due to the present diesel pump of the Ex.-servicemen corporation. The letter of the S.P. Bilaspur also conveyed to the chairman-cum-Managing Director of H.P Ex. Serviceman corporation Hamirpur for shifting of the diesel pump to some other suitable place and there had been a correspondence with the CM/D. of the Hindustan Petroleum and with the D.C. Bilaspur and also with the Commissioner-cum-Secretary (GAD) to the Govt. of H.P. Shimla for shifting of the diesel pump to a suitable place and purchase of land for the installation of the diesel pump. The Managing Committee comprising of members of the Ex. Serviceman Corporation decided that the suit land will be purchased in Barmana and the present diesel pump be shifted to that place.
> 3. That the documents annexed with the challan also show that there had been a proper permission from the Govt. for installation/shifting of the diesel pump to a suitable place and the Managing committee of the

Ex. Servicemen corporation had also consented for the purchase of land and installation of the diesel pump.

4. That the Managing Committee of Ex. Serviceman corporation Hamirpur was neither against the purchase of the land in Barmana nor for shifting the diesel pump to a place that had been purchased.

5. So for the statement of the witnesses are concerned they are to be seen in consonance with the record of the case which could clearly reflect and the case is totally weak and there are no chances of success of the case. The documents annexed with the case file are in favour of the accused persons and the oral evidence cannot over take the legal sanctity of the documents, which are annexed with the case file.

6. That the withdrawal of the case will be in the interest of public and exchequer of the Govt. There is also no conclusive proof of the statements on record to prove the guilt of the accused persons with the intention to have committed the offences they have been faced trial under the provisions of the IPC and PC Act.

7. That prior to the letter dated 21.3.1999, the accused had not participated in any meetings for selection of site and shifting of patrol pump from the existing petrol pump site. The sale transactions were not in exercise then market value."

27. Close scrutiny of the averments contained in the application suggest that people of Barmana made a representation to the Hon'ble Chief Minister for shifting their diesel pump owned by Ex. Servicemen Corporation to other suitable place as it was causing hindrance and blockade of the road/traffic. Accordingly, Superintendent of Police, Bilaspur conveyed aforesaid decision to the Chairman-Cum- Managing Director of the corporation i.e. respondent No.2. It also emerge from the averments contained in the application that there had been a correspondence with the C.M./D. of the Hindustan Petroleum as well as Deputy Commissioner, Bilaspur and also with the Commissioner-cum-Secretary(GAD) to the Govt. of H.P for shifting the diesel pump to the suitable place and purchase of land for installation of diesel pump. As per averments contained in the application, the Managing Committee comprising of members of corporation, decided that suitable land will be purchased at Barmana and present diesel pump would be shifted to that place. There is no specific mention of document, if any, in the application but it is averred in the application that proper permission from the government for installation of the diesel pump to a suitable place was obtained and land in question was purchased for setting up diesel pump with the consent of State as well as corporation. Applicant specifically stated that withdrawal of the case will be in the interest of public and exchequer of the government since there is no conclusive proof on record to prove the guilt of the accused persons. In para-7 of the application it has been stated that prior to issuance of notice dated 21.3.1999, accused (respondent No.2) had not participated in any meetings for shifting of diesel pump from the existing site and sale transactions were not excessive of the market value. Though, there is mention with regard to the documents but as have been observed above, no documents have been attached with the application filed under Section 321 Cr.P.C to substantiate the averments contained in the application.

28. Learned counsel representing the petitioner while advancing his arguments had made this Court to travel through various documents available on the file of learned trial Court below suggestive of the fact that respondents No.2 misusing his official position (Chairman of Committee), benefited respondent No. 3, who happened to be his son, by making corporation to purchase piece of land owned by his son for shifting of the diesel pump in view of advise rendered by District Administration in that regard. Admittedly, respondent No. 2 i.e Sh. Chet Ram Ex. Lt. Col. was the Chairman of the corporation at the relevant time, whereas respondent No.3 Sh. Pawan Kumar is his son. On the basis of complaint made under Section 13(2) of P.C. Act and Sections 420,418, 465,471, 472 read with Section 120-B of IPC, Court of learned Special

Judge, Bilaspur, referred the investigation to police under Section 156(3) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Pursuant to the directions issued by learned Special Judge, police carried out the investigation and registered FIR 59/2002, dated 3.4.2002 and thereafter presented the challan before the Court of learned Special Judge, Bilaspur enclosing therewith documents to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused/ respondents No. 2 and 3.

29. Documents available on the record of learned trial Court below suggest that one Sh. A.P.Gautam, Colonel (Retd) Vice Chairman of the corporation sent a communication to the Chairman-cum-Managing Director of the Corporation intimating therein that Hon'ble Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh has desired that diesel pump owned by the corporation be shifted immediately from the existing site to another suitable site at Barmana as it is causing obstruction in the free flow of traffic. He also invited the attention of the Chairman to the letter No. 14904-5, dated 1st August, 1997 regarding shifting of pump. Thereafter, vide communication dated 12th March, 1998, respondent No.2, the then, Chairman of the corporation sent communication to the Deputy Commissioner, Bilaspur requesting him to provide government land at Barmana for setting up diesel pump so that traffic problem is resolved. There is a document available on record suggestive of the fact that the matter was taken up by the Corporation for providing government land but ultimately vide communication dated 19th June, 1998, Deputy Commissioner, Bilaspur advised the Chairman of the Corporation to purchase some private land for setting up diesel pump so that old diesel pump is shifted to the new place. Aforesaid communication was sent by the Deputy Commissioner on 19th June, 1998 but it appears that no action, whatsoever, was taken at that time by the Chairman-cum-Managing Director of the corporation so far as purchase of private land for setting up diesel pump is concerned. Vide communication dated 21st March, 1999, respondent No.2,the then, Chairman-cum-Managing Director of the Corporation sent a communication to Commissioner-Cum-Secretary (GAD) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh, wherein it was stated as under:-

> "Keeping in view the problems of truck parking and frequent observations of Police Department, a case for allotment of Govt. suitable land on lease basis was sent to the Deputy Commissioner, Bilaspur. The District Administration directed the revenue department to search suitable land for allotment to this Corporation for the above mentioned purchase. After searching, the revenue department has intimated that no suitable Govt. land is available at Barmana for this purpose.
> To get rid of the problems of truck parking being faced by the Ex-Serviceman Truck operations and the Police Department's interference, this Corporation now decided to purchase 2 bighas of land for shifting the consumer diesel pump from its existing place to another suitable place. A copy of one year estimated cost is enclosed herewith. Owner of the land has given his consent to give land to Corporation provided the cost of registration or any other overhead charges are borne by the Corporation.
> It is also brought to your notice that it is very difficult to find a suitable piece of land for installation of curve side pump at Barmana. Local market rates prevailing in the market are much higher than the average market rates given by the Patwari.
> In view of the facts mentioned above, it is requested that the sanction may please be accorded at the earliest to finalize the deal.

30. Perusal of the letter referred hereinabove suggest that the corporation had decided to purchase two bighas of land for shifting the diesel pump to another suitable place. There is specific mentioning with regard to owner of the land, who consented to give land to the corporation for setting up of the petrol pump but no specific name of the seller was disclosed in the letter dated 21st March, 1999. There are other documents collected on record by the Investigating Agency suggestive of the fact that the piece of land, which was proposed to be purchased by the corporation for setting up diesel pump was inspected by the Managing Director of Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited, who after inspecting the spot had given his NOC also. During arguments as well as while perusing the record of court below this Court could also lay its hand to one document dated 1.3.2000 allegedly written by respondent No.3 namely Pawan Kumar, who happened to be son of respondent No.2 addressed to Dy. Controller(F& A) of corporation, which is reproduced as under:-

> " I want to bring it to your notice that because of the strategic location and my piece of land, the price of land has been fluctuating quite a bit in the past few years. I want to sell this land at a price based upon the 5 years average rate of land plus 30% solatium. I would request you to take into consideration and please speed up the proceedings so as to finalize the transaction. The Copy of five years average rate has been enclosed herewith"

31. Perusal of the contents of this letter referred above clearly suggest that Sh. Pawan Kumar, respondent No.3 was in contact with the corporation and had been negotiating the price of the land, which he had purposed to sell to the corporation for setting up diesel pump. While examining the evidence available on record, this Court could also lay its hand to the minutes of the various meetings of the Board of Directors held during the relevant period. Perusal of the minutes of the Board meeting as available on record, nowhere suggest that respondent No.2 ever brought to the notice of the members of the Board that land purposed to be purchased for setting up diesel pump belongs to his son respondent No.3.

32. Apart from above, two sale deeds have been adduced on record by the Investigating Agency to demonstrate that how respondent No.3 caused huge financial loss to the corporation. Investigating Agency has also placed on record sale deeds dated 12.6.2000 and dated 26th May, 2000 suggestive of the fact that respondent No.3 Pawan Kumar Son of Sh. Chet Ram, respondent No.2 purchased two bighas of land for total consideration of Rs.4,00,000/-. It clearly emerge from the record that accused No.3 purchased land, which he ultimately sold to corporation, from one Sh. Krishnu son of Sh. Jangi on 6.4.1999 for total consideration of Rs. 4 lacs but later he sold the same piece of land to corporation for total consideration of Rs.8,22,800/-. Investigating Agency has also adduced on record documents to demonstrate that the person from whom the land was purchased by respondent No. 3, was later on given appointment at petrol pump owned by corporation. This Court solely with a view to ascertain the correctness and genuineness of the averments contained in the instant revision petition as well as submissions having been made on behalf of the counsel representing the petitioner at the time of arguments, critically analyzed the documents made available on record of the trial Court. This Court had an occasion to peruse the statement of the Board members recorded by the police under section 161 Cr.PC during investigation. None of the Board members, whose statements have been recorded under section 161 Cr.P.C stated that they were aware of the fact that the land purposed to be purchased for setting up diesel pump actually belonged to respondent No.3, who happened to be son of respondent No.2. There is revenue record available on record on the Court file of the learned trial Court suggestive of the fact that the piece of land, sold to the corporation by respondent No.3 for setting up diesel pump is/was not abutting the National Highway, rather two plots exists between National Highway and land purchased by the corporation from respondent No.3. Investigating Agency further collected ample evidence on record, which as per its wisdom could be sufficient to hold that respondents No.2 and 3 guilty of having committed the offences as mentioned above and presented the challan before the competent Court of law. Record suggest that the learned Special Judge, Bilaspur taking cognizance of the material made available on record issued notices to the respondents No.2 and 3. Perusal of the order dated 7.6.2005 available on Court file also suggest that copies of challan filed by the police was made available to the accused by the Court of Learned Special Judge, Bilaspur. Thereafter, surprisingly no charges whatsoever, were ever framed in the proceedings initiated by the Court of learned Special Judge, Bilaspur on the basis of the challan filed by police. This Court is shocked to see that after presentation of challan, matter was listed for more than 25 times for framing of charge, but on every date time was procured on one pretext or other. Suddenly, after three years of presentation of the challan, learned Public Prosecutor moved an application dated 22.4.2008 under Section 321 Cr.P.C seeking permission to withdraw the case from the prosecution, contents whereof have been already reproduced hereinabove. Learned Pubic Prosecutor stated in the application that withdrawal of the case will be in the interest of justice and there is no sufficient evidence to prove the guilt of the accused person. Learned Special Judge, Bilaspur vide order dated 22.12.2008 allowed the application filed by learned public prosecutor and granted him permission as sought vide application under reference.

33. Perusal of the impugned order dated 22.12.2008 suggest that learned Special Judge while passing the impugned order also scanned the evidence on record and on the basis of the averments contained in the application as well as record made available to him concluded that there is overwhelming documentary evidence in favour of the accused and as such, accused ought not to be subjected to agony and unnecessary trial. But this Court while examining the correctness/genuineness of the averments contained in application as well as submissions made during the proceedings of the case travelled through the entire evidence, be it ocular or documentary adduced on record by Investigating Agency and really finds it difficult to agree with the aforesaid findings of the Special Judge. After perusing the evidence on record as has been discussed above, this Court is really finding it difficult to digest the observation/ finding of Special Judge, wherein while allowing the application under Section 321 Cr.P.C it has given clean chit to accused/respondents No.2 and 3.

34. Now, at this stage, this Court needs to determine whether order dated 22.12.2008 passed by learned Special Judge is strictly in terms of Section 321 Cr.P.C, where it has been specifically provided that the public prosecutor may with the consent of the Court withdraw the prosecution of any person of any offence before the pronouncement of the judgment. Similarly, this Court needs to examine that under what circumstances public prosecutor moved instant application under section 321 Cr.P.C, seeking withdrawal from the prosecution that too after three years of the presentation of the challan. Undoubtedly, section 321 Cr.P.C, clearly empowers the public prosecutor in charge of the case to withdraw from the prosecution of any person either generally or in respect of any one or more of the offences for which he is tried, before the judgment is pronounced in the case but with the consent of the Court.

35. Section 321 Cr.P.C needs three requisites to make an order under it valid:(1) The application should be filed by a Public Prosecutor who is competent to make an application for withdrawal,(2) he must be in charge of the case, (3) the application should get the consent of the Court before which the case is pending.

36. At the cost of repetition, it is again reiterated that bare reading of Section 321 Cr.P.C, leaves no scope for other interpretation to conclude that the public prosecutor can seek withdrawal from the prosecution at any stage before the pronouncement of judgment but taking note of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court from time to time as has been discussed and deliberated upon in detailed judgment referred in above, withdrawal of prosecution can be allowed only in the interest of justice and there should be ample evidence on record to suggest that public prosecutor seeking withdrawal from prosecution in furtherance of cause of public justice. Before, making an application under section 321 Cr.P.C public prosecutor is required/expected to apply his mind to all the relevant material made available on record by the Investigating Agency and satisfy himself that withdrawal from the prosecution would subserve the public interest or not. Whenever, public prosecutor moves an application under section 321, it is his bounden duty to state in detail that what material actually he considered, which compelled him to move an application for withdrawal. Collective reading of the judgment referred hereinabove as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court from time to time clearly suggest the public prosecutor while moving an application under Section 321 Cr.P.C is required/expected to form an independent opinion on the basis of the material on record that with the withdrawal of the case, public interest at large would be served. If public prosecutor moves an application under section 321 Cr.P.C for withdrawal after filing of challan or framing of charge it becomes more important for him to state in the application that what are those compelling circumstances which led him to file an application under Section 321 Cr.P.C. because it is only public prosecutor who presents challan under section 173 Cr.P.C and thereafter at the time of framing of charge persuades the Court to frame charges against the accused solely relying upon the documents adduced on record by the Investigating Agency suggestive of the fact that prima-facie case exist against the accused. Once investigating agency after completion of the investigation comes to a conclusion that a prima facie case exists against the accused, it submits police report along with required documents to be relied upon to the public prosecutor for filing challan under Section 173 Cr.P.C in the competent Court of law. If at that stage, learned public prosecutor comes to the conclusion that it is a fit case, where on the basis of evidence adduced on record, conviction can be recorded against the accused, he files challan under section 173 Cr.P.C. Similarly, when the challan under section 173 Cr.P.C is filed in the competent Court of law and Court on the basis of material made available to him comes to the conclusions that prima-facie case exists against the accused and issue notices to the accused. But fact remains, that in both the eventuality as referred above, public prosecutor as well as learned judge while presenting the challan as well as taking cognizance of challan under Section 173 applies their mind and then only notices are issued to the accused. Once Court as well as public prosecutor comes to the conclusion at the time of filing of challan under section 173 Cr.P.C that there is sufficient material on record to proceed against the accused, it may not be later possible for the Court on the similar material to permit the public prosecutor to withdraw from the prosecution on mere application moved under Section 321 Cr.P.C.

37. No doubt during the pendency of the trial some material may emerge, which creates doubt on the veracity of the prosecution case and in that regard public prosecutor is empowered to apply for withdrawal from prosecution but in that eventuality prosecutor is not to move an application under Section 321 in cursory manner, rather he is expected to indicate/state in the application that for these reasons, it may not be possible for the prosecution to prove case against the accused. Apart from above, public prosecutor needs to make out a case that withdrawal of prosecution is in public interest and if same is not allowed, it will be against the interest of justice.

38. Similarly, section 321 Cr.P.C while empowering the public prosecutor to move an application for withdrawal from prosecution also provides that withdrawal, if any, would be with the consent of the Court, meaning thereby, that application moved by public prosecutor under Section 321 Cr.P.C. can not only be allowed in mechanical manner without the consent of the Court. Plain reading of Section 321 Cr.P.C. somehow suggest that public prosecutor has independent power under Section 321 to withdraw prosecution, at any stage, because admittedly Section 321 Cr.P.C does not provide guidelines factor/circumstances under which public prosecutor can move an application. But careful reading of Section 321 Cr.P.C, wherein it has been specifically mentioned that "with the consent of the Court" certainly indicates towards the duly imposed/cast upon the Court by the legislation to ascertain whether the application moved by the public prosecutor is in good faith or in the public interest or not. Court while examining the application under Section 321 Cr.P.C must consider whether public prosecutor has considered the material and reached to the conclusion that withdrawal from the prosecution would serve the public interest. Similarly, duty is cast upon the Court while considering the application under Section 321 Cr.P.C to ensure that grant of consent, if any, may not result in thwarting/ stifling of the course of law or cause manifest injustice.

39. The public prosecutor while moving an application under Section 321 Cr.P.C must state that he is satisfied on the basis of material available on record that no public interest at all would be served in case prosecution is allowed to continue. Similarly, he must state in application that he has considered all the relevant materials adduced on record by the investigating agency but he is of the opinion that it may not be sufficient to hold accused guilty of having committed the offence. Similarly, Court while granting permission is not expected to decide the same as a matter of routine merely on the basis of the averments contained in the application, rather Court is expected to consider all the relevant aspect which has been set in for consideration by the public prosecutor and no permission, if any, can be granted on mere asking of the learned public prosecutor. The Court should be satisfied that the matter adduced on record by the investigating agency may not be sufficient to hold the accused guilty of having committed offence. But above all, Court must be satisfied that withdrawal of public prosecutor from the prosecution is in public interest. The Court before deciding application under section 321 is expected to satisfy itself that before moving an application, learned public prosecutor has considered the material in good faith and has come to the conclusion that withdrawal from the prosecution will serve public interest. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgment referred above, has specifically observed that while deciding the application, Court must be consider whether grant of consent would thwart or stifle the course of law.

40. Now after taking into consideration the observation as well as guidelines/ factors as emerge from the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court hereinabove, this Court would be critically analyzing the material available on record to explore whether application filed by the public prosecutor under Section 321 Cr.P.C in the case was strictly in terms of guidelines/ factors which have been framed/formulated by the Hon'ble Apex Court from time to time while deliberating upon the scope of Section 321 Cr.P.C Similarly, on the basis of law as referred above, this Court would be attempting to ascertain whether impugned order passed by the Special Judge granting permission to withdraw from the prosecution was based upon the correct principles as have been culled out in the judgments referred hereinabove.

41. In the present case, interestingly, while perusing the record of the case, this court found that after 7.6.2005, no proceedings, whatsoever, have been conducted in the present case by the Court below after issuance of notices to the respondents. Records suggest that after presentation of challan, matter was listed on 25 dates for framing of charge but nothing was done. Thereafter, one fine morning learned years public prosecutor moved an application under section 321 Cr.P.C, which appears to be totally cryptic. It has averred in the application that case is totally weak and there are no chances of success of the case. But interestingly in para-5 of the application, public prosecutor has stated that documents, annexed with the case are in favour of the accused persons and the oral evidence, cannot over take the legal sanctity of the documents which are annexed with the case file, meaning thereby, that even at the stage, public prosecutor was having one set up of evidence be it ocular, suggestive of the fact that prima-facie case exist against the accused. Public prosecutor has simply sought withdrawal from the case from the prosecution in the interest of public and exchequer of the Government but there are no details that in what manner withdrawal of prosecution would serve the public interest. Rather para-7 of the application, itself suggest that somewhere in his mind even public prosecutor also knows that accused had actively participated in the selection of site for shifting the petrol pump because in this para it has been stated that prior to issuance of letter dated 21.3.1999 accused had not participated in any proceedings. But fact remains that transaction, if any, took place after 21st March, 1999, wherein admittedly respondent No.2 being Chairman of the corporation got the land of respondent No.3, who happened to be his son, purchased by corporation that too at exorbitant prices. Though, similarly learned Judge while allowing the application has stated in his order that he has scanned the record but in view of the minute scrutiny of record made by this Court in the present case, aforesaid statement of learned Special Judge does not appear to be correct, rather this Court is compelled to draw conclusion that the learned trial Court granted the permission to withdraw from the prosecution in cursory manner, merely on the basis of the averments contained in the application moved by the public prosecutor without bothering to look into the material adduced on record by the investigating agency at the time of presentation of challan under Section 173 Cr.P.C. As has been observed above, it was only this material made available to learned Judge by the public prosecutor at the time of presenting the challan under section 173 Cr.P.C, which persuaded/compelled him to conclude at that time that prima-facie case exist against the accused and accordingly notices were issued.

42. Moreover, court below while deciding the application under section 321 Cr.P.C lost sight of the fact that accused No.1, who happened to be Chairman of the corporation has misused his official position by making corporation to purchase land of his son respondent No.3 that too on exorbitant prices. This Court is of the view that when element of corruption as clearly emerge from the record, was involved in the case, court below should have exercised due care and caution while deciding the application for withdrawal of prosecution moved by the public prosecutor.

43. It has clearly emerged from the record that accused being chairman of the corporation, while making corporation to purchase the land from his son hoodwinked all the members of the Board because at no point of time respondent No.2 disclosed to the members of the Board that the land proposed to be purchased is owned by his son. Similarly, accused No.2 misusing his official position procured approval from the government for the purchase of land of his son concealing material fact that the land is not abutting to the National Highway, rather 2-3 plots exists in between National Highway and land proposed to be purchased. Court below also failed to consider/appreciate that despite purchasing land spending Rs. 8,22,800/-, no petrol pump could be set up on the new site till date.

44. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court as referred hereinabove, this Court is of the view that no grounds, whatsoever were available to the public prosecutor to seek withdrawal from the prosecution, especially any ground suggestive of the fact that withdrawal would be in furtherance of the cause of justice and serve the public interest. Similarly, Court is of the view that the learned court below while granting permission has also not acted strictly in terms of the principles/guidelines carved out in the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court referred supra and as such, order passed by learned special judge deserves to be quashed and set-aside. Accordingly, criminal revision petition is allowed and impugned order dated 22.12.2008, passed by learned Special Judge, Bilaspur allowing the application filed by the public prosecutor under Section 321 Cr.P.C for permission to withdraw the case from the prosecution in case FIR No.59/2002, dated 3.4.2002, under Section 418,420,120-B IPC & 13(2) Prevention of Corruption Act, is quashed and set-aside. The Court below is directed to proceed with the matter on the basis of the challan filed by the investigating Agency and conclude the trial expeditiously.

45. Needless to say, Court below while deciding the case at hand would not be influenced by any of the observations made by this Court while deciding the present revision petition and shall decide the case at hand purely on the merits/ evidence available on record without being imbued by any observations/findings made by this Court while deciding the present petition.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- It was pleaded that the properties of the petitioner have been directly and indirectly damaged on account of tunneling work being carried out by respondent for the development of four lane road from Kiratpur to Ner Chowk Section of NH-21 from Km 73.2 to Km 186.5– respondent stated that joint inspection was carried out, in which minor cracks were seen in the houses and cowsheds of the residents, which were old and not due to blasting and vibrations - a committee was constituted by Sub Divisional Collector, Sundernagar for evaluating loss/damage to the houses of the petitioners – respondent further claimed that they had taken the precautionary measures - held, that dispute involves adjudication of the facts - the Court would be required to determine whether the properties of the petitioners were damaged and only after determining the same, the individual claims of compensation can be determined by leading evidence and cross-examination of the witnesses- compensation can be awarded in exercise of writ jurisdiction, where facts are not disputed - an alternative and efficacious remedies of approaching the civil Court is available- petition disposed of with liberty to the petitioners to approach the Civil Court. Cases referred:
State of Kerala and others Vs. M.K. Jose (2015) 9 SCC 433

For the Petitioner(s): Mr.Yudhvir Singh Thakur, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Ashok Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India with Mr.Ajay Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No. 1.

Ms.Jyotsna Rewal Dua, Senior Advocate, with Ms.Charu Bhatnagar, Advocate, for respondents No. 2 and 3.

Mr.Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General with Mr.Anup Rattan & Mr.Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals and Mr.J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No. 4 to 6.

Mr.Suneet Goel, Advocate, for respondent No. 7.

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

Since common question of law and fact arises for consideration in these petitions, they were all taken up together for hearing and are being disposed of by a common judgment.

2. With the consent of parties, CWP No. 2983 of 2015 is taken as the lead case.

3. The precise grievance of the petitioner is that on account of tunneling work being carried out by the respondents for development of four lane road from Kiratpur to Ner Chowk Section of NH-21 from Km 73.200 to Km 186.500 in the State of Punjab/Himachal Pradesh, their properties (houses, orchard, agricultural land) have directly and indirectly been damaged and therefore, should be compensated for the same and have prayed for the following reliefs:-

"(i) That the respondents may be directed to take immediate steps either to acquire or to protect the property (houses, orchard and agricultural land etc.) of the petitioner.

(ii) That necessary direction may be issued to appoint some expert committee to assess the damage caused to the property of the petitioner because of the act of the respondents.

(iii) That the respondents may be directed to compensate the petitioner for the loss he has suffered because of damage of his property due to the construction of tunnel-5.

(iv) That the respondents may be directed to produce entire record pertaining to the case and they may burden with cost."

4. The State authorities, who have been arrayed as respondents No. 4 to 6 in the petitions have placed on record various joint inspection reports and it is averred that during the spot inspection by respondent No. 6 on 16.5.2015 in the presence of petitioners, local residents and representatives of respondent No. 7 (Executing Agency), some minor cracks were seen in the houses and cowsheds of the residents, which were observed to be old and not due to blasting vibration and had been caused naturally with passage of time, as most of the houses were old. It is further submitted that respondent No. 6 i.e. Sub Divisional Collector, Sunder Nagar had constituted a committee vide letter dated 31.7.2015 for evaluating the loss/damage incurred to the houses of the petitioners, which reads thus:-

"The Executive Engineer, HPPWD, Sundernagar, Mandi, H.P. has verified and approved the loss in the shape of restoration of the damages to these built up structures as under:-

Sr. No.	Name of owner with address	Amount for restoration for the damage assessed
1.	House of Sh. Phiun Ram s/o late Sh. Jindu Ram resident of village Gamohu, P.O. Kangoo, Tehsil Sundernagar, Distt. Mandi, H.P.	Rs.25,612.00

2.	House of Sh. Basant Ram s/o Krishan resident of village Gamohu, P.O. Kangoo, Tehsil Sundernagar, Distt. Mandi, H.P.	Rs.891.00
3.	Residential house of Smt. Nikki Devi D/o Durga Ram resident of village Gamohu, P.O. Kangoo, Tehsil Sundernagar, Distt. Mandi, H.P.	Rs.8216.00
4.	House of Sh. Hari Singh s/o late Sh. Shawanu Ram resident of village Gamohu, P.O. Kangoo, Tehsil Sundernagar, Distt. Mandi, H.P.	Rs. NIL
5.	House of Sh. Krishan Chand s/o late Sh. Sadh Ram resident of village Gamohu, P.O. Kangoo, Tehsil Sundernagar, Distt. Mandi, H.P.	Rs.872.00
6.	House of Sh. Paras Ram s/o late Sh. Dhungal resident of village Gamohu, P.O. Kangoo, Tehsil Sundernagarh, Distt. Mandi, H.P.	Rs.1370.00
7.	House of Smt.Soma Devi w/o late Sh. Dagu Ram resident of village Gamohu, P.O. Kangoo, Tehsil Sundernagar, Distt. Mandi, H.P.	Rs.2049.00

5. On the other hand the Executing Agency i.e. respondent No. 7 in its reply has clearly averred that the grievance of the petitioners have already been redressed, as the work of the tunnel was stopped on 13.9.2015 and earlier to that all precautionary measures had been taken, so as to ensure that no direct or indirect damage is caused to the property of the petitioners as well as the residents of the area. It is averred that the small portion of land has sunk in tunnel alignment due to collapse of muck at tunnel face, but no other damage was noticed in the area.

6. In addition to the aforesaid, we may also make mention of CMP No. 2641 of 2016 preferred by the petitioner for placing additional particulars on record whereby report submitted by Mining Officer is sought to be placed on record, wherein he has made the following pertinent observations:-

> "2. The houses of Smt. Reshmo Devi, Sh. Krishan, Sh. Basant Ram, Sh. Seema Devi, Sh. Fiun Ram, Smt. Nikki Devi and other peoples, were visited during the course of inspection. It was observed that the said houses are at the horizontal surface distance of 50 to 150 metrs. from the Tunnel alignment. Most of the Houses are single or double story structures, out of which few are new buildings but majority of them are older. Houses are constructed with stone/brick masonry with clay and cement having slates on roof. House of Sh. Fiun Ram is newly constructed pakka house with brick masonry and concrete roof structure. Cowsheds are constructed with rough stone/brick masonry with clay as jointing material."

After making the aforesaid observation, the relevant conclusion on this aspect of the matter is summed up as under:-

> "However, in view of fact prevailing on the spots, it was observed that cracks developed in the houses of Smt.Reshmo Devi, Sh. Krishan and Sh. Basant Ram were old and concentric, and it appears that these cracks are not developed due to the impact of blasting but may be due to the re-settlement of foundation or some design problems.

And the cracks developed in the cowsheds of said villagers and house of Sh.Fiun Ram were found new. These cracks were extending vertical and wide. Therefore these cracks might have been developed due to blast induced ground vibrations."

We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records of the case.

7. The moot question that arises for consideration in wake of replies filed by the respondents is as to whether the reliefs as claimed by the petitioners can in fact be granted in these writ petitions, in view of the seriously disputed question fact which otherwise can only be proved by leading evidence.

8. The Court herein is not dealing with simple case where the dispute between the parties can be decided on the basis of affidavits and counter affidavits, as the Court would be required to determine as to whether the properties of the petitioners have in fact been damaged and only after determining the same, the individual claims with respect to the compensation, if any, can be determined. However, these questions can only be determined after the parties are given an opportunity to lead evidence, which includes cross-examining the witnesses.

9. Though, the learned counsel for the petitioners had cited number of judgments to canvass that not only can the writ Court go into the disputed facts, but it can also award compensation. However, we find that majority of judgments as relied upon by the petitioners have already been considered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in its decision in State of Kerala and others Vs. M.K. Jose (2015) 9 SCC 433, relevant paragraphs whereof read as under:-

"14. In State of Bihar v. Jain Plastics and Chemicals Ltd., (2002) 1 SCC 216 a two-Judge Bench reiterating the exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution in respect of enforcement of contractual obligations has stated: (SCC p. 217, para 3)

> "3.....It is to be reiterated that writ petition under Article 226 is not the proper proceedings for adjudicating such disputes. Under the law, it was open to the respondent to approach the court of competent jurisdiction for appropriate relief for breach of contract. It is settled law that when an alternative and equally efficacious remedy is open to the litigant, he should be required to pursue that remedy and not invoke the writ jurisdiction of the High Court. Equally, the existence of alternative remedy does not affect the jurisdiction of the court to issue writ, but ordinarily that would be a good ground in refusing to exercise the discretion under Article 226."

In the said case, it has been further observed: (SCC p. 218, para 7)

> "7....It is true that many matters could be decided after referring to the contentions raised in the affidavits and counter-affidavits, but that would hardly be a ground for exercise of extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution in case of alleged breach of contract. Whether the alleged non-supply of road permits by the appellants would justify breach of contract by the respondent would depend upon facts and evidence and is not required to be decided or dealt with in a writ petition. Such seriously disputed questions or rival claims of the parties with regard to breach of contract are to be investigated and determined on the basis of evidence which may be led by the parties in a properly instituted civil suit rather than by a court exercising prerogative of issuing writs."

15. In National Highways Authority of India v. Ganga Enterprises, (2003) 7 SCC 410 the respondent therein had filed a writ petition before the High Court for refund of the amount. The High Court posed two questions, namely, (a) whether the* forfeiture of security deposit is without authority of law and without any binding contract between the parties and also contrary to Section 5 of the Contract Act; and (b) whether the writ petition is maintainable in a claim arising out of breach of contract. While dealing with the said issue, this Court opined that: (SCC p. 415, para 6)

> "6…It is settled law that disputes relating to contracts cannot be agitated under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It has been so held in the cases of Kerala SEB v. Kurien E. Kalathil, (2000) 6 SCC 293, State of U.P. v. Bridge & Roof Co. (India) Ltd. (1996)6 SCC 22 and Bareilly Development Authority v. Ajai Pal Singh(1989) 2 SCC 116. This is settled law. The dispute in this case was regarding the terms of offer. They were thus contractual disputes in respect of which a writ court was not the proper forum. Mr Dave, however, relied upon the cases of Verigamto Naveen v. Govt. of A.P. (2001) 8 SCC 344 and Harminder Singh Arora v. Union of India (1986) 3 SCC 247. These, however, are cases where the writ court was enforcing a statutory right or duty. These cases do not lay down that a writ court can interfere in a matter of contract only. Thus on the ground of maintainability the petition should have been dismissed."

16. Having referred to the aforesaid decisions, it is obligatory on our part to refer to two other authorities of this Court where it has been opined that under what circumstances a disputed question of fact can be gone into. In Gunwant Kaur v. Municipal Committee, Bhatinda (1969) 3 SCC 769, it has been held thus: (SCC p. 774, paras 14-16)*

> "14. The High Court observed that they will not determine disputed question of fact in a writ petition. But what facts were in dispute and what were admitted could only be determined after an affidavit-in-reply was filed by the State. The High Court, however, proceeded to dismiss the petition in limine. The High Court is not deprived of its jurisdiction to entertain a petition under Article 226 merely because in considering the petitioner's right to relief questions of fact may fall to be determined. In a petition under Article 226 the High Court has jurisdiction to try issues both of fact and law. Exercise of the jurisdiction is, it is true, discretionary, but the discretion must be exercised on sound judicial principles. When the petition raises questions of fact of a complex nature, which may for their determination require oral evidence to be taken, and on that account the High Court is of the view that the dispute may not appropriately be tried in a writ petition, the High Court may decline to try a petition. Rejection of a petition in limine will normally be justified, where the High Court is of the view that the petition is frivolous or because of the nature of the claim made dispute sought to be agitated, or that the petition against the party against whom relief is claimed is not maintainable or that the dispute raised thereby is such that it would be inappropriate to try it in the writ jurisdiction, or for analogous reasons.
> 15. From the averments made in the petition filed by the appellants it is clear that in proof of a large number of allegations the appellants relied upon documentary evidence and the only matter in respect of which conflict of facts may possibly arise related to the due publication of the notification under Section 4 by the Collector.
> 16. In the present case, in our judgment, the High Court was not justified in dismissing the petition on the ground that it will not determine disputed question of fact. The High Court has jurisdiction to determine questions of fact, even if they are in dispute and the present, in our judgment, is a case in which in the interests of both the parties the High Court should have entertained the petition and called for an affidavit-in- reply from the respondents, and should have proceeded to try the petition instead of relegating the appellants to a separate suit.

17. In ABL International Ltd. v. Export Credit Guarantee Corpn. of India Ltd. (2004) 3 SCC 553, a two-Judge Bench after referring to various judgments as well as the pronouncement in Gunwant Kaur (supra) and Century Spg. And Mfg. Co. Ltd. v. Ulhasnagar Municipal Council (1970) 1 SCC 582, has held thus: (ABL International case, SCC pp. 568-69 & 572, paras 19 & 29)*

> "19. Therefore, it is clear from the above enunciation of law that merely because one of the parties to the litigation raises a dispute in regard to the facts of the case, the court entertaining such petition under Article 226 of the Constitution is not always bound to relegate the parties to a suit. In the above case of Gunwant Kaur this Court even went to the extent of holding that in a writ petition, if the facts require, even oral evidence can be taken. This clearly shows that in an appropriate case, the writ court has the jurisdiction to entertain a writ petition involving disputed questions of fact and there is no absolute bar for entertaining a writ petition even if the same arises out of a contractual obligation and/or involves some disputed questions of fact.
> 27. From the above discussion of ours, the following legal principles emerge as to the maintainability of a writ petition:
> (a) In an appropriate case, a writ petition as against a State or an instrumentality of a State arising out of a contractual obligation is maintainable.
> (b) Merely because some disputed questions of fact arise for consideration, same cannot be a ground to refuse to entertain a writ petition in all cases as a matter of rule.
> (c) A writ petition involving a consequential relief of monetary claim is also maintainable.

While laying down the principle, the Court sounded a word of caution as under: (ABL International case, SCC p. 572, para 28)

> "28. However, while entertaining an objection as to the maintainability of a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the court should bear in mind the fact that the power to issue prerogative writs under Article 226 of the Constitution is plenary in nature and is not limited by any other provisions of the Constitution. The High Court having regard to the facts of the case, has a discretion to entertain or not to entertain a writ petition. The Court has imposed upon itself certain restrictions in the exercise of this power. (See Whirlpool Corpn. v. Registrar of Trade Marks (1998) 8 SCC 1.) And this plenary right of the High Court to issue a prerogative writ will not normally be exercised by the Court to the exclusion of other available remedies unless such action of the State or its instrumentality is arbitrary and unreasonable so as to violate the constitutional mandate of Article 14 or for other valid and legitimate reasons, for which the Court thinks it necessary to exercise the said jurisdiction."

18. It is appropriate to state here that in the said case, the Court granted the relief as the facts were absolutely clear from the documentary evidence brought which* pertain to interpretation of certain clauses of contract of insurance. In that context, the Court opined: (ABL International Ltd. case SCC p. 578, para 51)

> "51 .... The terms of the insurance contract which were agreed between the parties were after the terms of the contract between the exporter and the importer were executed which included the addendum, therefore, without hesitation we must proceed on the basis that the first respondent issued the insurance policy knowing very well that there was more than one mode of payment of consideration and it had insured failure of all the modes of payment of consideration. From the correspondence as well as from the terms of the policy, it is noticed that existence of only two conditions has been made as a condition precedent for making the first respondent Corporation liable to pay for the insured risk, that is: (i) there should be a default on the part of the Kazak Corporation to pay for the goods received; and (ii) there should be a failure on the part of the Kazakhstan Government to fulfil their guarantee."

And it eventually held: (SCC pp. 578-79, para 51)

> "51..... We have come to the conclusion that the amended clause 6 of the agreement between the exporter and the importer on the face of it does not give room for a second or another construction than the one already accepted by us. We have also noted that reliance placed on sub-clause (d) of the proviso to the insurance contract by the Appellate Bench is also misplaced which is clear from the language of the said clause itself. Therefore, in our opinion, it does not require any external aid, much less any oral evidence to interpret the above clause. Merely because the first respondent wants to dispute this fact, in our opinion, it does not become a disputed fact. If such objection as to disputed questions or interpretations is raised in a writ petition, in our opinion, the courts can very well go into the same and decide that objection if facts permit the same as in this case.

19. In this regard, a reference to Noble Resources Ltd. v. State of Orissa and Another (2006) 10 SCC 236 would be seemly. The two-Judge Bench referred to the ABL International, Dwarkadas Marfatia & Sons v. Board of Trustees, Port of Bombay, (1989) 3 SCC 293, Mahabir Auto Stores v. Indian Oil Corp. (1990) 3 SCC 752 and Jamshed Hormusji Wadia v. Board of Trustees, Port of Mumbai, (2004) 3 SCC 214 and opined thus: (Nobal Resources case SCC p. 246, para 29)*

> "29. Although the scope of judicial review or the development of law in this field has been noticed hereinbefore particularly in the light of the decision of this Court in ABL International Ltd. each case, however, must be decided on its own facts. Public interest as noticed hereinbefore, may be one of the factors to exercise the power of judicial review. In a case where a public law element is involved, judicial review may be permissible. (See Binny Ltd. v. V. Sadasivan (2005) 6 SCC 657 and G.B. Mahajan v. Jalgaon Municipal Council, (1991) 3 SCC 91)

Thereafter, the court in Noble Resources case, proceeded to analyse the facts and came to hold that certain serious disputed questions of facts have arisen for determination and such disputes ordinarily could not have been entertained by the High Court in exercise of its power of judicial review and ultimately the appeal was dismissed."

10. It would be noticed that the Hon'ble Supreme Court after taking into consideration the whole gamut of law, has thereafter made the following pertinent observations:-

> "20. We have referred to the aforesaid authorities to highlight under what circumstances in respect of contractual claim or challenge to violation of contract can be entertained by a writ court. It depends upon facts of each case. The issue that had arisen in ABL International was that an instrumentality of a State was placing a different construction on the clauses of the contract of insurance and the insured was interpreting the contract differently. The Court thought it apt merely because something is disputed by the insurer, it should not enter into the realm of disputed questions of fact. In fact, there was no disputed question of fact, but it required interpretation of the terms of the contract of insurance. Similarly, if the materials that come on record from which it is clearly evincible, the writ court may exercise the power of judicial review but, a pregnant one, in the case at hand, the High Court has appointed a Commission to collect the evidence, accepted the same without calling for objections from the respondent and quashed the order of termination of contract.

21. The procedure adopted by the High Court, if we permit ourselves to say so, is quite unknown to exercise of powers under Article 226 in a contractual matter. We can well appreciate a Committee being appointed in a Public Interest Litigation to assist the Court or to find out certain facts. Such an exercise is meant for public good and in public interest. For example, when an issue arises whether in a particular State there are toilets for school children and there is an assertion by the State that there are good toilets, definitely the Court can appoint a Committee to verify the same. It is because the lis is not adversarial in nature. The same principle cannot be taken recourse to in respect of a contractual controversy. It is also surprising that the High Court has been entertaining series of writ petitions at the instance of the respondent, which is nothing but abuse of the process of extraordinary jurisdiction of the High Court. The Appellate Bench should have applied more restraint and proceeded in accordance with law instead of making a roving enquiry. Such a step is impermissible and by no stretch of imagination subserves any public interest."

11. It would be evidently clear from the aforesaid exposition of law that the writ Court may in appropriate case award compensation where the facts are not in dispute; there is established negligence in the acts and omissions of the respondent authority/authorities on the face of record and there is a consistent deprivation of a fundamental right of the petitioner or his legal representative. That apart, the Court cannot appoint an expert committee to assess the damage if any caused to the properties of the petitioners as such course would be totally impermissible as the Court cannot be used to collect evidence in favour of the petitioners.

12. It would be noticed that the respondents have disputed all the allegations as set out by the petitioners and therefore, in such circumstances, it is not safe or even prudent for this Court to rely upon any of the material placed on record, that too without affording either of the parties a chance of cross-examination.

13. Even otherwise, it is more than settled that the High Court in exercise of its writ jurisdiction under Article 226 should not interfere with the matters, which are in the realm of private laws and it can otherwise be taken to be well settled that where there is disputed question of fact, which require evidence before the same can be established, then as a matter of practice, the Court would not entertain such writ petition.

14. It is equally settled law that when an alternative and equally efficacious remedy is open to the litigant, he should be required to pursue that remedy and not invoke the writ jurisdiction of the High Court. Equally, the existence of alternative remedy does not affect the jurisdiction of the Court to issue writ, but ordinarily that would be a good ground for refusing to exercise the discretion under Article 226.

15. These petitions involve seriously disputed questions of fact and even otherwise the rival claims of the parties are such, which can only be investigated and determined on the basis of evidence, which may be led by the parties in a properly instituted civil suit rather than by a court exercising prerogative of issuing writs.

16. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we are of the considered view that all these writ petitions are not maintainable, as the proper remedy for the petitioners is to approach the civil court for redressal of their grievances. However, we make it clear that in the event of the petitioner(s) approaching the civil Court within a period of thirty days from the receipt of this judgment, not only shall the petitioner(s) be entitled to benefit of Section 80(2) of the Code of Civil Procedure, but even the period of limitation spent in pursuing these litigations shall be excluded. We further make it clear that in the event the aforesaid suit being filed within the time frame as granted by this Court, the Court where such suit(s) are instituted shall decide the same as expeditiously as possible and in no event later than 31st March, 2017.

17. Before parting, we may observe that nothing observed herein above shall be construed to be an opinion on merits of the case and in the event of the petitioners filing civil suit(s), the Court shall proceed to determine the case on merits without being persuaded or influenced by any of the observations made herein above, which essentially have been made only for the determination and disposal of these writ petitions.

The petitions are disposed of in the aforesaid terms. All interim orders vacated and in case any amount is paid to any of the petitioners herein pursuant to the interim orders passed by this Court the same shall be refunded by them forthwith to the authorities.

Madan Lal

2. Brief facts of the case are that on dated 19.11.2014 at about 9 PM at phase-3 New Shimla accused Madan Lal was driving his car bearing registration No. HP 07A 0252 in rash and negligent manner upon public way and hit Alto K10 HP-62 1316 and thereafter car over turned causing simple as well as grievous injuries. FIR No. 53 of 2014 dated 19.11.2014 was registered in police station new Shimla under Sections 279, 337 and 338 IPC. After completion of investigation, investigation report filed before learned Judicial Magistrate Shimla. Learned Judicial Magistrate issued notice of accusation under Section 279, 337 and 338 IPC. Learned Trial Court examined testimony of PW1 Promil Bhardwaj and criminal case is subjudice before learned Judicial Magistrate Shimla.

3. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner and learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of non-petitioner No.1. Court also perused entire record carefully.

4. Following points arise for determination in present petition.

(1) Whether petition filed under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of petition relating to criminal offence punishable under section 279 IPC which is criminal offence against general public?.

(2) Final Order.

Findings upon point No.1 with reasons.

5. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that the case has been compromised interse parties and on the basis of out of court settlement annexure P3 dated 17.12.2015 executed between complainant Sh Shiv Thakur and accused Madan Lal petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that accused is facing accusation qua criminal offence punishable under section 279 IPC. It is held that criminal offence under section 279 IPC is always committed upon public way. It is held that offence under section 279 IPC is not personal criminal offence but is a criminal offence against public at large. It is held that section 279 IPC is incorporated in Indian Penal Code in order to protect public at large upon public way. Even section 279 IPC is non-compoundable offence as per section 320 code of criminal procedure 1973. Criminal offences under section 279 are increasing day by day upon public way causing endanger to human life. Hon'ble Apex Court of India has held that High Court should not grant permission to compound criminal cases which are against public at large. In view of the fact that criminal offence punishable under section 279 IPC is a criminal offence against society at large court is of the opinion that it is not expedient in the ends of justice to allow petition. See JT 2014 (4) SC 573 title Narinder Singh and others Vs State of Punjab and another. Hon'ble Apex Court of India held that following criminal cases should not be allowed to be compromised on the basis of out of court settlement while exercising inherent powers under Section 482 code of criminal procedure. (1) Murder criminal case (2) Rape criminal case (3) Dacoity criminal case (4) Prevention of Corruption Act case (5) 307 IPC case. (6) Criminal offence against society. It is well settled law that law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court of India is binding upon all courts as per Article 141 of Constitution of India. It is well settled law that after filing charge sheet FIR could not be quashed. See 2015 (2) Him.L.R.1095 title Nancy Bhatt and another Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh. See 1994 SCC (Crime) 500 State of Punjab Vs. Dharam Vir Singh Jethi. See 1996 (2) SCC 199 title

Vineet Narain Vs. Union of India. See 1999 (6) SCC 354 title Anukul Chandra Pradhan Vs. Union of India. See 2011 (12) SCC 302 title Jakia Nasim Ahesan and another Vs. State of Gujarat and others. In view of above stated facts and in view of the fact that criminal offence under section 279 IPC is criminal offence against society at large and not personal criminal offence it is not expedient in the ends of justice to allow petition. Point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2(Final Order).

6. In view of findings on point No.1 petition filed under section 482 Cr.PC is dismissed. Parties are directed to appear before learned Trial Court on 12.8.2016. File of learned Trial Court along with certified copy of order be sent back forthwith. Cr.MMO No. 15 of 2016 is disposed of. All pending application(s) if any are also disposed of.

LPA No.:19 of 2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as Assistant Cashier-cum-Godown Keeper in the bank- he was promoted to the Officer Cadre and was asked to join at Hyderabad- petitioner did not join and submitted a representation to the Bank Authorities expressing his inability to join at Hyderabad – request was declined – a new promotion policy was circulated- petitioner applied for promotion according to new promotion policy, however, maximum age of promotion was fixed as 56 years in the new policy –case of petitioner was turned down - held, that petitioner has not questioned the new promotion policy- eligibility of the petitioner was to be determined as per the Rules occupying the field at the time of notification of vacancy- writ petition was rightly dismissed- appeal dismissed. (Para-2 to 9)

For the Appellant: Mr.Praneet Gupa, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr.Sanjay Dalmia, Advocate.

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, C.J.

This appeal is directed against the judgment, dated 31st December, 2015, passed by a learned Single Judge of this Court in CWP No.7632 of 2012, titled Roshan Lal vs. CMD UCO Bank and others, whereby the writ petition, filed by the petitioner (appellant herein), came to be dismissed, (for short, the impugned judgment).

2. Facts of the case, in brief, are that the writ petitioner was initially appointed as Assistant Cashier-cum-Godown Keeper in the respondent-Bank on 17th November, 1977, was promoted to the officer's cadre on 22nd October, 2006 and was asked to join at Hyderabad. The petitioner did not join and submitted the representation (Annexure P-1) to the Bank Authorities expressing his inability to join at Hyderabad and requested to retain him at Dharamshala Region or he would be compelled to seek reversion. It is apt to reproduce the relevant portion of Annexure P-1 hereunder:

"………..Therefore, keeping in view the above facts, it is neither possible to leave my son and father alone nor bring them with me at new place of posting. You are requested to consider my case sympathetically to retain me in Dharamsala region or otherwise I will be compelled to seek reversion."

3. The said request of the petitioner did not find favour with the Bank Authorities and the competent Authority, vide order dated 10th November, 2006 (Annexure P-3), reverted the petitioner to the post he was holding. It is apt to reproduce the relevant portion of Annexure P-3 hereunder:

"In this context, please be informed that in terms of para 3.8.3(a) and its note of Promotion Policy Settlement for Workmen Staff 1988 as amended, you request for such refusal/reversion has been acceded to under the following terms & conditions:

i) You will be debarred for promotion for five (5) years from the date of your reversion/refusal;

ii) You will be reverted to your substantive cadre which you occupied prior to your promoting subject to availability of similar vacancy in the same seniority region. However, if no similar vacancy is available, you will be revered only as a clerk and be posted in the same seniority region. ……………."

4. It has further been pleaded that the respondent-Bank amended the promotion policy (Annexure P-4) w.e.f. 16th July, 2012 and circulated the same vide letter dated 30th July, 2012 and as per the new promotion Policy, maximum age prescribed for promotion from clerical cadre to officers' cadre was 56 years as on 31st March, 2012.

5. The respondent-Bank issued circular, dated 25th July, 2012, (Annexure P-5), whereby the vacancy position was notified and applications were invited from the employees working in the clerical cadre. Acting upon the said notification, the petitioner applied vide application (Annexure P-6) disclosing his service particulars etc., meaning thereby he had not questioned the new Promotion Policy (Annexure P-4) or the circular (Annexure P-5). The application of the petitioner for promotion to the next promotional post was rejected for the reason that he had already crossed the upper age limit i.e. 56 years as per the extant promotion policy i.e. "Promotion Policy Settlement for Workmen Staff, 2012" (Annexure P-4). Clause 3.4 of the said Promotion Policy deals with the "Eligibility" and Clause 3.4.2 provides the maximum age limit for promotion from clerical cadre to officers' cadre in Bank's Junior Management Grade Scale-I, which reads as under:

*"Age:

The maximum age limit shall be 56 completed years as on 31st March of preceding date of notification."

6. Consequent thereto, the petitioner approached the respondents, but was informed that since he was not eligible, his application for promotion had been rejected, constraining the petitioner to file the writ petition, with the following reliefs:

"i) That the petitioner may be considered for the post of Officers cadre in JMG Scale-I w.e.f. 2-11-2011, ii) A writ in the nature of mandamus to strike down retrospective provisions of the policy as ultra virus and unsustainable in the eyes of law;

iii) To direct the Respondents to treat the petitioner as eligible for the promotion for the post of JMG-Sclae-I and considering him for promotion due to him on the basis of his seniority with effect from the date he is found due for promotion;"

7. From the perusal of the above reliefs, the petitioner has neither questioned the new promotion policy i.e. Annexure P-4 nor has sought the quashment of the order, whereby his application was rejected on the ground that he was not eligible. Without seeking the basic reliefs, the writ petition was not maintainable.

8. The eligibility of the petitioner was to be determined as per the Rules occupying the field at the time when the vacancy position was notified and the vacant posts were decided to be filled up, by way of promotion, in terms of Annexure P-4. The vacancy position was notified on 25th July, 2012, after coming into effect the amended promotion policy. The petitioner also tendered his application in terms of the advertisement notice (Annexure P-4) without any demur. Therefore, the petitioner cannot be permitted to contend that he was eligible, entitled to be promoted as per the policy in vogue before coming into force the amended promotion policy (Annexure P-4) and he was to be considered for promotion immediately after the ban period of five years was over.

9. It is also apt to mention here, at the cost of repetition, that the petitioner was promoted in the year 2006, but he opted not to join and avail the promotional avenue, due to which the respondent-Bank reverted him to the post he was occupying at that time. The said reversion was accepted by the petitioner without any protest and was never questioned. Thereafter, the occasion for consideration of the petitioner to the next promotional post arose at the time when the vacancy position was notified after the amendment of the promotion policy (Annexure P-4) and as per the said policy, the petitioner was ineligible having crossed the upper age limit.

10. Having said so, the Writ Court has rightly dismissed the writ petition. As a consequence, the impugned judgment is upheld and the instant appeal is dismissed, alongwith pending CMPs, if any.

Saluja Motors Pvt. Ltd. …Petitioner.

Versus

District Magistrate and others …Respondents.

CWP No. 1892 of 2016
Date of order: 26.07.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner stated that it is running its business in the premises as tenant- respondents No. 1 and 2 have passed orders for sealing the premises, whereby petitioner has been thrown out of its business - held, that writ petition is maintainable at the instance of a tenant- petitioner is running business in the premises as tenant which stands locked- possession of the petitioner is lawful, and petitioner cannot be deprived of the possession without following the mandate of law- petitioner will be unable to run the business and to pay salary to the employees- therefore, direction issued to respondents No. 1 and 2 to unlock the premises and hand over the possession to the petitioner within a week on furnishing an undertaking that petitioner will hand over the possession after four months. (Para-3 to 13)

Case referred:

Harshad Govardhan Sondagar versus International Assets Reconstruction Company Limited and others, (2014) 6 Supreme Court Cases 1, Present: Mr. Naresh K. Sood, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Sumeet Raj Sharma, Advocate, for the petitioner.

Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General, with Mr. Anup Rattan & Mr. Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals, and Mr. J.K. Verma & Mr. Kush Sharma, Deputy Advocate Generals, for respondents No. 1 and 2.

Mr. Sunil Mohan Goel, Advocate, for respondents No. 3 and 4.
Ms. Anu Tuli Azta, Advocate, for respondent No. 5.

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

CMP No. 6038 of 2016

Respondent No. 5 has filed reply to the main petition and it is stated that the same be treated as objections to the application also. Other respondents sought time to file reply and objections within one week.

2. Learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner stated at the Bar that the dispute is between respondents No. 3, 4 and 5, but the scapegoat is the petitioner-company. It is averred and argued that the petitioner is a tenant and running its business. Respondents No. 1 and 2 have made the orders whereby the petitioner-company has been thrown out of its business because the entire premises has been sealed.

3. The question is – whether the petitioner has a remedy by the medium of the writ petition?

4. This Court in CWP No. 627 of 2016, titled as M/s Tube Expansion and Equipments Pvt. Ltd. Versus District Magistrate, District Solan and others, decided on 11th April, 2016, has decided the issue. It is apt to reproduce para 12 of the judgment herein:

> "12. Coming to the other contention regarding exception being taken to the notice issued by the District Magistrate, even here it is either HIMUDA or respondent No. 3, who alone can be considered to be the parties aggrieved and the petitioner cannot be permitted to espouse the cause of either the HIMUDA or respondent No. 3. Even the ratio of the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Harshad Goverdhan Sondagar's case, upon which much reliance has been placed by the petitioner, would again not be attracted to the facts of the present case, as the case relates to third party objections, wherein the lessee had approached the Hon'ble Supreme Court for the redressal of his grievances. The Hon'ble Supreme Court categorically held that since the Debt Recovery Tribunal has power to restore possession of secured assets only to the borrower vide Section 17 (3), any such lessee of borrower whose property is intended to be sold would have no remedy under Section 17 to protect his possession under a valid or subsisting lease, therefore, the remedy of such lessee would only be under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution. Whereas, the instant case, as already observed above, neither respondent No. 3, who is the alleged lessee nor HIMUDA who is the lessor have approached the Court. The petitioner is not a person aggrieved and therefore, has no locus standi to question the order of the District Magistrate."
> (Emphasis added)

5. It would also be profitable to reproduce relevant portion of paras 22 and paras 23, 26 and 29 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in the case titled as Harshad Govardhan Sondagar versus International Assets Reconstruction Company Limited and others, reported in (2014) 6 Supreme Court Cases 1, herein:

> "22. We may now consider the nature of the right of the lessee and as to when the lease under the Transfer of Property Act gets determined. Sections 105 and 111 of the Transfer of Property Act, which are relevant in this regard, are quoted hereinbelow:

xxx xxx xxx

Section 105 thus provides that a lessee of an immovable property has a right to enjoy such property, for a certain time or in perpetuity when a lessor leases an immovable property transferring his right to enjoy such property for a certain time or in perpetuity. Section 111 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 provides the different modes by which a lease gets determined. Thus, so long as a lease of an immovable property does not get determined, the lessee has a right to enjoy the property and this right is a right to property and this right cannot be taken away without the authority of law as provided in Article 300-A of the Constitution. As we have noticed, there is no provision in Section 13 of the SARFAESI Act that a lease in respect of a secured asset shall stand determined when the secured creditor decides to take the measures mentioned in Section 13 of the said Act. Without the determination of a valid lease, the possession of the lessee is lawful and such lawful possession of a lessee has to be protected by all courts and tribunals.

23. We may now look at the provisions of Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act to find out whether it confers any power on the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or the District Magistrate to assist the secured creditor in taking possession of the secured asset which is in lawful possession of the lessee under a valid lease.

26. The opening words of sub-section (1) of Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act make it clear that where the possession of any secured assets is required to be taken by the secured creditor or if any of the secured asset is required to be sold or transferred by the secured creditor "under the provisions of the Act", the secured creditor may, for the purpose of taking possession or control of any such secured asset, request, in writing, the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or the District Magistrate within whose jurisdiction any such secured asset or other documents relating thereto may be situated or found, to take possession thereof. Thus, only if possession of the secured asset is required to be taken under the provisions of the SARFAESI Act, the secured creditor can move the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or the District Magistrate for assistance to take possession of the secured asset. We have already held that Section 13 of the SARFAESI Act does not provide that the lease in respect of a secured asset will get determined when the secured creditor decides to take the measures in the said section. Hence, possession of the secured asset from a lessee in lawful possession under a valid lease is not required to be taken under the provisions of the SARFAESI Act and the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or the District Magistrate, therefore, does not have any power under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act to take possession of the secured asset from such a lessee and hand over the same to the secured creditor. When, therefore, a secured creditor moves the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or the District Magistrate for assistance to take possession of the secured asset, he must state in the affidavit accompanying the application that the secured asset is not in possession of a lessee under the valid lease made prior to creation of the mortgage by the borrower or made in accordance with Section 65A of the Transfer of Property Act prior to receipt of a notice under sub-section (2) of Section 13 of the SARFAESI Act by the borrower. We would like to clarify that even in such cases where the secured creditor is unable to take possession of the secured asset after expiry of the period 60 days of the notice to the borrower of the intention of the secured creditor to enforce the secured asset to realize the secured debt, the secured creditor will have the right to receive any money due or which may become due, including rent, from the lessee to the borrower. This will be clear from clause (d) of sub-section (4) of Section 13, which provides that in case the borrower fails to discharge his liability in full within the notice period, the secured creditor may require, at any time by notice in writing, any person who has acquired any of the assets from the borrower and from whom any money is due or may become due to the borrower, to pay the secured creditor, so much of the money as is sufficient to pay the secured debt.

27. ……………

28. ……………

29. Sub-section (3) of Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act provides that no act of the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or the District Magistrate or any officer authorised by the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or District Magistrate done in pursuance of Section 14 shall be called in question in any court or before any authority. The SARFAESI Act, therefore, attaches finality to the decision of the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or the District Magistrate and this decision cannot be challenged before any court or any authority. But this Court has repeatedly held that statutory provisions attaching finality to the decision of an authority excluding the power of any other authority or Court to examine such a decision will not be a bar for the High Court or this Court to exercise jurisdiction vested by the Constitution because a statutory provision cannot take away a power vested by the Constitution. To quote, the observations of this Court in Columbia Sportswear Co. v. Director of Income Tax : (SCC p. 234, para 17)

> "17. Considering the settled position of law that the powers of this Court under Article 136 of the Constitution and the powers of the High Court under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution could not be affected by the provisions made in a statute by the Legislature making the decision of the tribunal final or conclusive, we hold that sub-section (1) of Section 245S of the Act, insofar as, it makes the advance ruling of the Authority binding on the applicant, in respect of the transaction and on the Commissioner and income-tax authorities subordinate to him, does not bar the jurisdiction of this Court under Article 136 of the Constitution or the jurisdiction of the High Court under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution to entertain a challenge to the advance ruling of the Authority."

In our view, therefore, the decision of the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or the District Magistrate can be challenged before the High Court under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution by any aggrieved party and if such a challenge is made, the High Court can examine the decision of the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate or the District Magistrate, as the case may be, in accordance with the settled principles of law."

6. Keeping in view the ratio laid down by the Apex Court and this Court in the judgments (supra), it is held that tenant can maintain the writ petition. Accordingly, it is held that the writ petition is maintainable.

7. Learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the writ petitioner submitted that he is under instructions to make a statement that the petitioner may be allowed to retain the possession of the premises for four months enabling it and its employees to earn the livelihood. Further stated that in the meantime, respondents No. 1 to 4 be directed to go ahead with the auction proceedings and other related proceedings, as are required to be drawn and to take the said proceedings to its logical end within the time frame, preferably within four months or earlier to that.

8. Keeping in view the averments contained in the writ petition and the application read with the statement made by the learned Senior Counsel and the discussions made hereinabove, the question is – whether the petitioner has carved out a case for grant of interim relief, at this stage?

9. We are of the considered view that the petitioner has carved out a case for grant of interim relief for the reason that all the three ingredients, which are sine qua non for grant of interim relief, are in favour of the petitioner for the following reasons:

10. Admittedly, the petitioner is running its business in the premises as tenant, which stands locked, has affected its business and has put its reputation on stake. The possession of the petitioner is lawful, of which it cannot be deprived of without following the mandate of law and as held by the Apex Court in the judgment (supra), thus, has carved out a prima facie case.

11. Balance of convenience also leans in favour of the petitioner for the reason that it is running the business making both ends meet, is paying salary to its employees and in case interim relief is not granted, all the persons, who are earning livelihood because of this business, have to suffer.

12. Further, in case interim relief is not granted, the petitioner will suffer irreparable loss for the reason that the premises stands locked because of which the machinery, stocks, spare fixtures and furniture lying inside the premises/workshop for the sale and repairs of the vehicles will be damaged and also the affected persons will not be able to earn their livelihood.

13. Accordingly, order of possession, dated 5th July, 2016, (Annexure P-13) and possession notice, dated 15th July, 2016, (Annexure P-11) are stayed and respondents No. 1 & 2 are directed to unlock and hand over the possession to the petitioner within a week provided the petitioner executes an undertaking to the satisfaction of the Registrar (Judicial) to the effect that it has to hand over the possession after four months.

14. List the writ petition on 4th August, 2016. Copy dasti.

Statement of Hira Singh was recorded under Section 154 Cr.P.C., who told the police that he was an agriculturist by profession and was having two sons and one daughter. His elder son Suresh Kumar had gone to Theog on 15.06.2010 to attend a case. His son did not return back on that night and on 16.06.2010, he received telephonic call from his sister-in-law Begi Devi to the effect that Suresh Kumar was lying dead in village Majholi. On receipt of the said information, he alongwith his wife went to village Majholi and found one dead body in the verandah of the inn. Removal of the gunny bag revealed that the dead body was of their son. There were sharpedge weapon wounds on his head and left leg. Besides, the said two major injuries, there were many injuries on the back and stomach of the dead body, which was smeared in pool of blood. He also found blood near the shop of Devi Ram. The complainant informed the police that he was sure that his son was killed by Devi Ram and his associates. On the basis of the said information, FIR was registered. The dead body was sent for postmortem. On 17.06.2010 accused were arrested. While in police custody, accused Dhyan Singh, Sanjay and Roop Singh made disclosure statements to the effect that they can identify the place where they had hidden the sticks and on the basis of the said disclosure statements, weapon of offence were recovered. Case property was sent to FSL, Junga and call details of the accused persons were also obtained. Investigation revealed that the accused gave beatings to the deceased near the shop of Devi Ram with sticks and thereafter, they dragged him from the shop of Devi Ram and took him upto Bhuteshwar Temple inn and after beating him, they left the dead body in the courtyard. On 16.06.2016 accused Sanjay covered the dead body with gunny bag with the help of accused Roop Singh. After completion of investigating, challan was presented and as a prima facie case was found against the accused, they were charged and put to trial for offence punishable under Section 302 read with Setcion34 I.P.C. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

3. In order to substantiate its case, the prosecution in all examined 35 witnesses. Defence also examined 5 witnesses.

4. On the basis of material produced on record by the prosecution, the learned trial Court held that there was no direct evidence of the offence and the prosecution depended upon circumstantial evidence, namely, (a) disclosure statement of the accused, (b) accused and the deceased having been last seen together and (c) existence of a motive and the learned trial Court held that the prosecution was not able to complete the chain of circumstances so as to link the accused with the commission of offence and accordingly, learned trial Court acquitted the accused by giving them benefit of doubt.

5. Mr. V.S. Chauhan, learned Additional Advocate General, strenuously argued that the judgment passed by the learned trial Court was not sustainable as the findings returned by the learned trial Court were perverse and not borne out from the material on record. Mr. Chauhan argued that the prosecution had proved its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused, however, the learned trial Court totally misread and misappreciated the evidence on record and grave miscarriage of justice had been committed by acquitting the accused. He also argued that the learned trial Court had erred in concluding that there was no evidence that the accused had killed the deceased. According to him, the presence of main accused Rajinder Thakur stood established as per record and PW-10 Guman Singh had specifically stated that when they were going towards Bhuteshwar Temple, Suresh Heta came from other side and he was drunk. He also shook hands with Suresh Heta and also asked him as what was the matter to which he responded that it had no concern with him. He also admitted that in his presence Suresh Heta gave fist blows to Rajidner Thaikur and Karan Singh. Mr. Chauhan also submitted that PW-8 Rukmani had also categorically stated that on 15th of the month her husband was at Gharat and her son had gone to Dhalli and it was little dark when she heard noise coming from the side of Devi Ram's shop. As she was alone at home, she got frightened and that is why she did not come out from the house. According to Mr. Chauhan, all these important aspects of the matter which directly linked the accused with the commission of the offence were erroneously ignored by the learned trial Court. Mr. Chauhan, further argued that the disclosure statements of the accused had led to the recovery of the weapons of offence and further the finding returned by the learned trial Court to the effect that the prosecution could not prove the motive behind the murder was totally perverse because it stood proved on record by way of the statement of PW-1 that there was old enmity between the parties. Accordingly, on these basis, it was submitted on behalf of the appellant that the judgment of acquittal passed by the learned trial Court was not sustainable and was liable to be set aside and the accused were liable to be convicted for commission of offence under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC.

6. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents and learned Amicus Curiae, have submitted that there was no merit in the present appeal and the judgment passed by the learned trial Court was neither perverse nor was there any infirmity in the same. It was contended by the learned counsel for the respondents as well as learned Amicus Curiae that the judgment passed by the learned trial Court was a well reasoned judgment and the conclusions arrived therein were based on material which had been placed on record by the prosecution which did not link the accused with the commission of the offence. It was further submitted by the learned counsel that accused were facing criminal charge and it was a well settled law that the onus was upon the prosecution to prove their case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt, which the prosecution had failed to do in the present case. Accordingly, they submitted that the appeal deserved dismissal and the judgment passed by the learned trial Court be confirmed in the interest of justice.

7. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and Mr. Pradeep Kumar Sharma, Advocate, learned Amicus Curiae and have also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgment passed by the learned trial Court.

8. Before proceeding further, it is relevant to take note of the statements made by the relevant prosecution witnesses.

He has also admitted that the witnesses associated on 16.06.2010 had not seen any altercation between the deceased and the accused. He has also admitted that he had not associated any witness from Theog while recording the statements of the accused under Section 27 of the Evidence Act or recovery of clothes.

27. Dr. Sangeet Dhilon, has entered into the witness box as PW-35 and stated that on 17.06.2010 an application was filed alongwith inquest papers for the autopsy of Suresh Kumar son of Hira Singh. She has given details of multiple antemortem injuries which were found on the body of the deceased. According to her, the deceased died as a result of antemortem head injury and his blood alcohol concentration was 204.58 ml percent.

28. Defence also examined 5 witnesses. DW-1 HC Surinder Kumar produced on record details of the cases pending against deceased Suresh Heta. As per the said record, three criminal cases were pending against Suresh Heta.

29. DW-2 Sandeep Kumar stated that Rajinder Negi was his cousin and clothes Ext. P-25 to P-27, did not belong to Rajinder Negi nor were they taken by the police from their house between 17.06.2010 to 20.06.2010. There is Court observation that clothes Ext. P-25 to Ext. P-27 were over sized whereas Rajinder Negi was having a small built.

30. DW-3 Bhagat Singh has stated that Dhyan Singh was his younger brother and the clothes and chappal, Ext. P-21 to Ext. P-23 did not belong to Dhyan Singh nor they were taken from their house between 17.06.2010 to 20.06.2010.

31. DW-4. Tara Devi has stated that Sanjay was her son and the clothes and shoes Ext. P-17 to Ext. P-19, did not belong to Sanjay Kumar nor they were taken by the police from their house in between 17.06.2010 to 20.06.2010.

32. DW-5 Reena Thakur deposed that Rajinder Thakur was her husband and clothes and shoes Ext. P-12 to Ext. P-15 did not belong to Rajinder Thakur nor they were taken from their house between 17.06.2010 to 20.06.2010.

33. Admittedly, in the present case, there is no eye witness. No person has seen the occurrence of the incident and there is no witness who has actually seen the accused committing the offence of murder or placing the dead body of the deceased in the courtyard of Temple Sarai. Therefore, everything depends upon the circumstantial evidence.

34. During the course of arguments, learned Additional advocate General has culled out the following circumstances connecting the accused with the commission of the offence:-

> "1. Last seen together.
> 2. Recovery of the dead body.
> 3. Disclosure statements.
> 4. Motive.

35. The Honble Supreme Court in Vijay Thakur Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2014) 14 Supreme Court Cases 609, has carved out the following salient points on the basis of which guilt of the accused can be brought home in the case of circumstantial evidence:

> "(i) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must or should be and not merely 'may be' fully established;
> (ii) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;
> (iii) The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency;
> (iv) They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and
> (v) There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

36. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Manthuri Laxmi Narsaiah Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, (2011) 14 SCC 117 has held as under:

> "6. It is by now well settled that in a case relating to circumstantial evidence the chain of circumstances has to be spelt out by the prosecution and if even one link in the chain is broken the accused must get the benefit thereof. We are of the opinion that the present is in fact a case of no evidence."

37. It is settled law that where a case rests upon circumstantial evidence, such evidence in order to base conviction, must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of guilt of the accused and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence.

38. In these circumstances because it is a case of circumstantial evidence, this Court has to satisfy its judicial conscience as to whether by way of circumstantial evidence produced on record by the prosecution, it has been able to link the commission of the offence with the accused or not.

39. Now, we will apply the above salient features to the facts of the present case in order to ascertain as to whether there is any infirmity or perversity with the judgment passed by the learned trial Court in the present case.

1.Last seen together:

40. To prove the said circumstance, out attention has been drawn to the statements of PW-8, PW-10, PW-23 and PW-24.

41. A perusal of the statement of PW-8 Rukmani demonstrates that all she has stated is this that on the fateful night she heard noise coming from the side of Devi Ram's house but she did not come out of her house as she was frightened and on the next day, she came to know that a dead body was lying covered in a house type temple. Even perusal of her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. reveals that it is not mentioned there in that she actually saw the accused fighting or having an altercation with the deceased.

42. PW-10 Guman Singh has not supported the case of the prosecution. In his cross-examination, he has stated that on the fateful day Karm Singh was sitting on the front seat of the vehicle and Rajinder Thakur on the rear seat. He has admitted it to be correct that they had come to Bhuteshwar Temple from Hoti and when they were going towards Bhuteshwar Temple, Suresh Heta came from other side and he was drunk. He has also admitted that he shook hands with Suresh Heta and also asked him as to what was the matter to which he responded that he had no concern with it. He also admitted that in his presence Suresh Heta gave fist blows to Rajinder Thakur and Karam Singh. He has further admitted that Karam Singh had come back from Majholi in his vehicle and got down at Hoti, whereas Rajinder Thakur and Suresh remained at Majholi. In his cross-examination, he has stated that he was not knowing Rajinder Thakur and Karam Singh previously. He has further stated that he cannot say that the person who was drunk and had met them on that day was Suresh Heta or some one else.

43. PW-23 Devi Ram, who according to the prosecution, was an eye witness, has not supported the case of the prosecution. He has denied that on 15.06.2010 at around 6.00 P.M. - 6.30 P.M. any altercation took place between the deceased and the accused. He has not admitted the contents of his statement to this effect recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. In fact, he has denied the factum of having made any such statement before the Investigating Officer on 17.06.2010.

44. PW-24 Vinod Kumar has also not supported the case of the prosecution and denied that on 15.06.2010, at around 7.00 P.M., when he was returning from the field of Devi Ram, he found accused and the deceased sitting in Bhuteshwar Temple and enjoying drinks. He has also denied the factum of having made any statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

45. Similarly, PW-25 Prem Lal has also not supported the case of the prosecution and he has denied that on 15.06.2010, at around 7.30 P.M., he had gone to the shop of Devi Ram and he had seen the accused and deceased sitting near Bhuteshwar Temple. He has also denied the factum of having given any statement as was recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

46. From a perusal of the testimony of the said witnesses, it cannot be said that the prosecution has placed on record any cogent material from which it can be concluded and deciphered beyond reasonable doubt that on the fateful evening the deceased and the accused were last seen together. The evidence placed on record by the prosecution is shaky and does not appear to be trustworthy. None of the witnesses relied upon by the prosecution has supported its case to prove the factum of the deceased having been last seen with the accused. Therefore, in our considered view, the prosecution has not been able to prove this circumstance against the accused.

2.Recovery of the dead body:

47. The factum of recovery of the dead body of the deceased from Sarai of Bhuteshwar Temple though is a matter of record, however, in this regard also, there are some glaring discrepancies in the statements of the prosecution witnesses.

48. PW-32 ASI Mohan Singh has categorically stated that on 16.06.2010 at 2.25 P.M., Laxmi Singh, Pradhan, Gram Panchayat Dhamandri telephonically informed Police Post Fagu that a dead body was lying in the verandah of Bhuteshwar Temple Sarai and on receipt of the said information, he inter alia, passed the said information to SHO Ram Phal at Police Station Theog and went to the spot alongwith constable Kanwar Singh. He has further stated that when he reached the spot they found one dead body in the verandah of Bhuteshwar Temple Sarai which was covered with a big gunny bag. It is only after they removed the gunny bag that they came to know that the dead body was that of Suresh Kumar. The relevant extract of his examination-in-chief is quoted herein-below:-

> "We found one dead body in the veranda of Bhuteshwar Temple Sarai, which was covered with a big gunny bag. Blood spread in the veranda of Sarai near the dead body. When we removed the gunny bag, we came to know that the dead body is of one Suresh Kumar, resident of village Odar."

49. Thus, it is apparent from his deposition that according to him till the time the gunny bag was not removed, it was not in the knowledge of anyone as to whose dead body it was.

50. However, PW-34 SI Ram Phal has stated in his cross-examination that before he reached the spot, Hira Singh had seen the dead body and had come to know that the same was of Suresh Kumar. Incidentally, as per PW-32, SI Ram Phal reached the spot after him. Now when we peruse the statement of complainant Hira Singh PW-1, he has deposed that on 16.06.2010, his sister-in-law Begi Devi informed him that the deceased had a quarrel at Majholi on 15.06.2010 and on receipt of the said information, he alongwith his wife Suni Devi went to Majholi and found the dead body of their son lying covered with gunny bag in verandah of the Sarai. PW-3 Virender Heta has deposed that on 16.06.2010, he received call from Vijay Heta that Suresh was lying dead in Mjaholi and on receipt of the said information, they went to Majholi and when they reached there, they found that a dead body was lying in the verandah of Sarai of Bhuteshwar Temple covered with gunny bag. He further deposed that besides them, the parents of Suresh and 15-20 other persons of their family, were also there. When the gunny bag was removed, they found that deceased had received injuries on head, chest, back and on both legs. He has also stated that the police reached at about 3.00 P.M. PW-6 Deep Ram has stated that on 16.06.2010 he received a call that body of Suresh was lying in Majholi and he went to Majholi at around 11.30 A.M.-12.00 Noon and found that the dead body was lying covered with gunny bag in the Sarai. He has further stated that when they uncovered it, the dead body was found to be that of Suresh. He and Vijay had gone to the spot together.

51. On the basis of what has been mentioned above, it is apparent that there are discrepancies in the statements of the prosecution witness with regard to the mode and manner leading to the discovery of the fact that the dead body was that of Suresh. According to PW-6 Deep Ram, he reached the spot between 11.30 A.M.-12.00 Noon and uncovered the dead body, which was in gunny bag and discovered the same as that of Suresh. PW-34 in his statement has stated that before he alongwith the police party reached there, the father of the deceased had already seen the dead body and identified it to be that of Suresh. However, PW-32 in his statement has stated that the factum of the dead body was that of Suresh was discovered only when the police party had reached the spot and thereafter, the gunny bag was removed from the body. There is not even an iota of evidence produced on record by the prosecution to connect the accused with the death of the deceased. There is no eye witness who has supported the case of the prosecution that an altercation took place between the deceased and the accused and that deceased was killed by accused. No person has deposed that the accused were seen placing the body of the deceased in the verandah of the Sarai of Bhuteshwar Temple. Therefore, in our considered view, this circumstance has also not been able to be proved by the prosecution, so as to link the accused with the commission of the offence.

3.Disclosure statements:

52. The case of the prosecution is that while the accused were in custody, they have given statements under Section 27 of the Evidence Act, which has led to the recovery of alleged weapon of offence. The disclosure statements are Ext. PW7/B, Ext. PW7/C and Ext. PW7/D. We will deal with the said disclosure statements one by one.

53. Ext. PW7/B is the disclosure statement made by Dhyan Singh to the effect that he can get the place demarcated where he had hidden "Dandas" with which the deceased was beaten. This statement is dated 20.06.2010 and Vijay Kumar and Bal Krishan are witnesses to the said statement. Vijay Kumar has not been examined by the prosecution. Bal Krishan has entered the witness box as PW-7. Ext. PW7/C is the disclosure statement of accused Roop Singh of the same date, to the same effect and this statement is also made in the presence of Vijay Kumar and Bal Krishan. Ext. PW7/D is the disclosure statement of accused Sanjay Kumar of the same date, to the same effect and this statement is also made in the presence of Vijay Kumar and Bal Krishan.

54. Recoveries Memos are Ext. PW7/F, Ext. PF7/H and Ext. PW7/K. Recovery has been effected in the presence of Vijay Kumar and Bal Krishan. The alleged Dandas recovered on the basis of the disclosure statements of the accused are Ext. P-35, Ext. P-37 and Ext. P-40.

55. It is a matter of record that despite the fact that there were 39 injuries on the body of deceased Suresh, the alleged weapon of offences Ext. P-35, Ext. P-37 and Ext.P-40 were not found having even single drop of blood on them. These weapon of offence were never shown to the Doctor, who conducted the autopsy, so as to have the opinion of the said Doctor as to whether the injuries which were found on the body of the deceased could have been inflicted with said Dandas or not. Bal Krishan has not been able to satisfactorily explain as to what he was doing at the Police Station on 20.06.2010 when the alleged disclosure statements were made by the accused in his presence and in the presence of Vijay, who was closely related to the deceased. He has admitted that he was related to the deceased and he had good relations with the family of the deceased. He has also admitted that he went to the spot, where the dead body of the deceased was found at village Majholi on 16.06.2010.

56. Even otherwise, it is settled law with regard to Section 27 of the Evidence Act, that what is important is discovery of the material object at the disclosure of the accused but such disclosure alone would not automatically lead to the conclusion that the offence was also committed by the accused. In fact, thereafter, burden lies on the prosecution to establish a close link between discovery of the material object and its use in the commission of the offence. What is admissible under Section 27 of the Act is the information leading to discovery and not any opinion formed on it by the prosecution.

57. Thus, it is apparent from the statement of PW-7 that he is an interested witness as he was related to the deceased and was having good relations with the family of the deceased. His testimony does not inspires confidence. The appellant has not been able to satisfy this Court that why no independent witness was associated either with the recording of the disclosure statements of the accused or with the recovery effected on the basis of the said disclosure statements of the accused. Further, the prosecution has also not been able to place any material on record from which the Dandas recovered on the basis of the disclosure statements can be connected with the commission of the offence. In this view of the matter, in our considered view, even this circumstance has not been proved by the prosecution against the accused.

4. Motive:

58. The prosecution has attributed that the accused had a motive to do away with Suresh Heta, as there was some dispute between the father of the deceased and Rajinder Thakur since the year 1997 over some land but there is nothing on record to substantiate this. Not only this, PW-34 has clearly stated that it has not come in his investigation that any altercation took place in between Rajinder and complainant i.e. father of the deceased between 1997 to 2010. On the other hand, it stands established on record that the deceased was having criminal record and there were criminal cases pending against him. It has also come on record that at the time of his death, he was intoxicated. Be that as it may, the fact of the matter remains that the prosecution has not been able to bring any cogent material on record from where it can be inferred by this Court that the accused had a motive to do away with the deceased. Therefore, this circumstance has also not been proved by the prosecution against the accused.

59. It is settled position of law that suspicion however strong cannot be a substitute for proof. In a case resting completely on the circumstantial evidence the chain of circumstances must be so complete that they lead only to one conclusion, that is, the guilt of the accused.

60. Therefore, when we take into consideration all these circumstances together alongwith the material produced on record by the prosecution to prove the said circumstances and to link the accused with the commission of the offence, the only conclusion which can be arrived at is that the prosecuting has miserably failed to prove either of the circumstances and it has has failed to link the accused with the commission of the offence.

61. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court, also demonstrates that all these aspects of the matter have been gone into by the learned trial Court and thereafter, it has come to the conclusion that the prosecution was not able to prove its case against the accused. In our considered view, the judgment so passed by the learned trial Court is neither perverse nor the conclusions arrived at by the learned trial Court are not borne out from the record.

62. Therefore, we uphold the judgment of acquittal passed by the learned trial Court and dismiss the present appeal being devoid of any merit. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by the accused are discharged.

63. We place on record our appreciation for the assistance rendered to the Court by learned Amicus Curiae in the adjudication of the case.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Union of India and others .....Petitioners.

Versus

P.K. Sarin .....Respondent.

CWP No.1666 of 2013.
Judgment reserved on: 19.07.2016.
Date of decision: July 26, 2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Respondent joined services of the petitioners as Junior Engineers on 02.08.1976 - he was promoted as Assistant Engineer in 1984- he was placed under suspension but was allowed to cross efficiency bar- prosecution lodged against him resulted into acquittal- period of suspension was ordered to be treated as on duty- review DPC was held to consider the grant of second ACP and the case of the respondent was rejected- respondent filed an original application, which was allowed- aggrieved from the order, present writ petition has been filed- held, that respondent was due for crossing of the efficiency bar and was allowed to cross the same- therefore, it was unfair on the part of the petitioners to seek review of the same after more than 11 years- competent authority could not have denied the favourable consideration after permitting the respondent to cross efficiency bar- petition dismissed.

(Para-6 to 10)

For the Petitioners : Mr.Ashok Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India with Mr.Ajay Chauhan, Advocate.

For the Respondent : Respondent in person.

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

This petition is directed against the order passed by the learned Central Administrative Tribunal (for short 'Tribunal') whereby the Original Application as filed by the respondent herein came to be allowed and the petitioners were directed to grant to the respondent the benefit of ACP with effect from the due date.

2. The case has a chequered history. The respondent joined services of the petitioners as Junior Engineer on 02.08.1976 and in 1984 was promoted as Assistant Engineer. On 13.03.1991, he was implicated in a trap case alongwith Junior Engineer S.K.Awasthi and was placed under suspension on 29.04.1991. Vide order dated 16.11.2000, the respondent was allowed cross efficiency bar with effect from 01.10.1990. The prosecution launched against the respondent resulted in his acquittal vide order dated 20.08.2002 and thereafter the suspension of the respondent also came to be revoked on 27.01.2003 and this period of suspension vide order dated 12.03.2004 was ordered to be treated on duty for all purposes.

3. On 01.03.2007, the respondent approached the learned Tribunal for grant of ACP and vide order dated 20.08.2009, the petitioners were directed to conduct review DPC to consider the claim of the respondent with effect from 01.08.2000 by ignoring the adverse ACRs. The petitioners assailed this order by approaching the Hon'ble Delhi High Court and vide order dated 02.11.2010, the petition was disposed of by directing the petitioners to constitute a review DPC to consider the grant of second ACP and it was observed as under:-

> "15. But, with reference to ACP benefit it has to be noted that the respondent has been granted the benefit of crossing the efficiency bar and thus the law laid down in Brij Nath Pandey's case (supra) would have to be considered and in all probability the petitioner must get the ACP benefit, but we leave it without expressing any conclusive opinion for the reason this would be the job of the Review Committee.
> 16. We are informed that in compliance of the decision dated 25.2.2009 disposing of WP(C) 802/2006 representation against the below benchmark ACR grading has been considered and rejected.
> 17. Thus, there is no requirement for us to direct that for purposes of ACP benefit the ritual of again receiving a representation against the below benchmark ACR grading and considering the same be completed.
> 18. However, the effect of the respondent having been granted benefit of crossing the efficiency bar with reference to the decision of the Supreme Court in Brij Nath Pandey's (supra) has to be considered and thus we direct that a Review Committee be constituted to decide the grant of ACP benefit to the respondent having regard to the fact that the respondent has been cleared for crossing the efficiency bar. Needful would be done within a period of 3 months from today and if ACP benefit is accorded arrears would be paid to the respondent within further

2 months thereof failing which the amount payable would carry interest @8% per annum reckoned after 5 months from today."

4. The petitioners vide order dated 08.02.2011 rejected the claim of the respondent constraining him to approach the Hon'ble Delhi High Court by way of contempt petition which was, however, dismissed granting liberty to the respondent to take recourse to such action as may be available to him. This led to the filing of the Original Application No.71/HP/2012 before the learned Tribunal, who vide their order dated 04.10.2012 allowed the application by observing as under:-

> "2. It is beyond the pale of controversy that the period for which the applicant herein was under suspension had been ordered to "be treated as a period spent on duty for all purposes under sub-rule (4)". It is also no longer a matter of controversy that the applicant was allowed to cross the efficiency bar as well, vide order dated 16.11.2000 (Annexure A-3).
> 3. The view obtained by the competent authority in allowing the applicant to cross the efficiency bar notwithstanding, the grant of ACP benefit was denied to him on the premise that he does not make the bench-mark.
> 4. In fact, the applicant raised the relevant plea before the Delhi High Court as well which (plea) was dealt with by the High Court with the observations which are extracted hereunder:-
> > "But with reference to ACP benefit it has to be noted that the respondent has been granted the benefit of crossing the efficiency bar and thus the law laid down in Brij Nath Pandey's case (supra) would have to be considered and in all probability the petitioner must get the ACP benefit, but we leave it without expressing any conclusive opinion for the reason this would be the job of the Review Committee."
> 5. In view of the apparent and also conceded commonality of the period which had to be taken into consideration for the allowance of EB-crossing and also the grant of ACP benefit, the competent authority cannot deny a favourable consideration to the applicant for the latter facet of the relief; while reiterating the validity of its view in having allowed the applicant to cross the efficiency bar under the former facet, particularly when the period under suspension had been ordered to be treated as the period spent on duty. Obviously, no ACR for that period could have been recorded. The available record was taken into consideration by the competent authority in allowing the applicant to cross the efficiency bar."

5. It is against this order of the learned Tribunal that the present petition has been filed on the ground that the learned Tribunal had granted relief only on the ground that the respondent had crossed the efficiency bar, whereas, it was not so because the petitioners had thereafter served a show-cause notice why the notification allowing him to cross the efficiency bar despite he having average confidential report be not withdrawn. The recommendations of the Reviewing Efficiency Bar Committee had been accepted by the competent authority and it was decided to cancel the order dated 16.11.2000 through which permission crossing efficiency bar had been granted in respect of the respondent.

We have heard the learned Assistant Solicitor General of India for the petitioners and respondent, who has appeared in person and also gone through the records of the case.

6. It is not in dispute that the respondent was due for crossing of the efficiency bar with effect from 01.10.1990 and infact had been allowed to cross the same vide order dated 16.11.2000 and, therefore, it was unfair on the part of the petitioners to have sought review of the same after more than 11 years vide meeting dated 01.02.2011.

7. In addition to this, we may note that even in the earlier litigation which had reached the Hon'ble Delhi High Court, the respondent was tentatively held entitled to get ACP.

8. Apart from above, it is not in dispute that the period which had been taken into consideration for the allowance of EB crossing and that of grant of ACP is virtually the same and, therefore, as rightly held by the learned Tribunal, the competent authority could not have denied the favourable consideration to the latter facet of the relief when admittedly they had permitted the respondent to cross the efficiency bar under the former facet. This assumes importance because admittedly the period of suspension of the respondent has already been ordered to be treated the period spent on duty and, therefore, obviously no ACR for the said period could have been recorded.

9. It is not only to late in the day, but would be too harsh upon the respondent, who is a retiree, to hold at this stage that he was erroneously permitted to cross the efficiency bar or that he is not entitled to the ACP in question.

10. Having said so, we find no merit in this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed, leaving the parties to bear their own costs. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of.

Decided on: July 26, 2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Writ petition was dismissed by the Court on the ground that civil suit is pending between the parties- it was not disputed that civil suit is pending adjudication before the civil court- held, that writ petition is not maintainable and was rightly dismissed by the Single Judge- appeal dismissed. (Para-2 to 4)

For the Appellants:	Mr.Ashok Sharma, Senior Advocate, with Mr.Ajay Chauhan, Advocate.
For the Respondents:	Mr.Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General, with Mr.Anup Rattan, Addl.A.G., Mr.J.K. Verma and Mr.Kush Sharma, Dy.A.Gs., for respondents No.1 to 4 and 6. Mr.Hamender Chandel, Advocate, for respondent No.5. Nemo for respondent No.7.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, C.J. (Oral)

This appeal is directed against the judgment and order, dated 17th December, 2010, passed by a learned Single Judge of this Court in CWP No.2280 of 2007, titled Kaushlya Devi vs. State of H.P. and others, whereby the writ petition was dismissed on the premise that the lis relating to the subject matter of the writ petition was pending between the parties before the civil court also, (for short, the impugned judgment).

2. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 8 and 9 of the impugned judgment hereunder:

> "8. Unless it is clearly established that the construction has, in fact, been raised on joint property of the parties, i.e. the petitioner and respondent No.7, no direction can be issued for revocation of revised-cum-completion plan, which purports to be in respect of construction, raised on respondent No.7's exclusive property bearing Khasra No.1524/1361/718/2/1. Respondents are disputing petitioner's claim that construction has been raised on joint property, bearing Khasra No.1353/706. They have refuted the allegation not only in the present writ petition, but also in the suit, pending before the Civil Court. Matter is still pending with the Civil Court. The said Court has yet to decide whether the construction is on the joint property of the parties or exclusive property of respondent No.7.

9. In the facts and the circumstances of the case, as summed up hereinabove, right course for the petitioner is to approach the Civil Court where the suit is pending for revocation of revised-cum-completion plan, as a consequential relief to the relief of mandatory injunction, already sought by her."

3. During the course of hearing, the learned counsel for the parties informed that the said Civil Suit bearing No.226/1 of 08/09, titled Sita Paul vs. Municipal Corporation, Shimla, is still pending adjudication before the Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No.8, Shimla.

4. In view of the above, the writ petition was not maintainable and rightly came to be dismissed by the learned Single Judge. Accordingly, the impugned judgment merits to be upheld and the same is upheld. Consequently, the appeal is dismissed. However, the Civil Judge concerned is directed to decide the civil suit, referred to above, as early as possible, preferably within six months from today. Pending CMPs, if any, also stand disposed of .

For the appellant: Mr. K.D. Sood, Senior Advocate with Mr. Rajnish K. Lal and Mr. Ankit Aggarwal, Advocates.

For the respondent: Ms. Ritta Goswami and Ms. Komal Chaudhary, Advocates.

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.:

By way of the present appeal, the appellant has challenged the judgment passed by the Court of learned District Judge, Kinnaur Division at Rampur Bushahr, in civil Appeal No. 24 of 2005, dated 13.03.2007, vide which, learned Appellate Court has set aside the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), District Kinnaur at Reckong Peo, in Civil Suit No. 52-1 of 2002, dated 10.06.2005.

2. This appeal was admitted on 28.08.2008 on the following substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether the findings of the court below are based on misreading, misconstruction of oral and documentary evidence more particularly the statements of PW1 to PW3 an documents Exhibit PW1/A, PW1/B.

2. Whether the judgment of the District Judge is contrary to the provisions of order 20 rule 1 and judgment of this Court reported in AIR 2000(1) SC 15 Om Parkash –v- State of H.P.

3. Whether the judgment of the court below vitiated in view of the admission made by the defendant in the application under order 41 rule 27 CPC when the defendant had failed to substantiate the case in the absence of the documents being not proved and in not deciding the application under order 41 rule 27 CPC which has vitiated the findings.

3. At the time of arguments, Mr. K.D. Sood, learned Senior Counsel for the appellant, has submitted that he will be pressing substantial question of law No. 2 only because substantial questions of law No. 4 and 6 were wrongly framed.

4. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of the present case are that the appellant/plaintiff filed a suit for recovery of Rs.42,545/- against the defendant on the ground that he and defendant were real brothers and they were joint owners of Maruti gypsy (HP-25-0004), which vehicle was registered with the Registering and Licencing Authority Kalpa, District Kinnaur. As per the plaintiff, the vehicle was mostly used by the defendant with the consent of the plaintiff and the plaintiff used to call for the vehicle as and when required by him. In the year 1998, the said vehicle was stolen and was thereafter found in an accidental condition. A criminal case was duly registered with the police in this regard. The vehicle was insured with the National Insurance Company Ltd. Branch Office at Tapri and the factum of vehicle having been stolen and the same subsequently been found in an accidental condition was duly communicated to the Insurance Company. The said Company visited the spot and got the damage assessed. It was further the case of the plaintiff that at the time of the purchase of the vehicle he had paid the entire sale consideration but keeping in view the fact that the defendant also required the same and he was his real brother, vehicle was purchased in the joint name of the plaintiff and defendant. Further, as per the plaintiff, after the assessment of the damage by the Insurance Company, the plaintiff did not hear anything with regard to the payment of the claim. In these circumstances, he wrote a letter to the Insurance Company on 16.05.2002 and in response thereof, he was intimated by the Insurance Company that the said Company had already made compensation to the tune of Rs.63,500/- vide cheque No. 814191 dated 21.12.1999, which was duly received by the defendant on 21.12.1999. According to the plaintiff, the defendant was legally bound to pay half of the said amount, which he had received from the Insurance Company to the plaintiff. However, this was not done by the defendant and accordingly, on these basis, the suit was filed by the plaintiff.

5. In the written statement, though the defendant admitted the factum of the registration of vehicle in the joint names of the plaintiff and defendant, however, according to him, the plaintiff had consented to get the ill-fated vehicle overhauled and it was also agreed that whatever expenses were incurred in the repair of the vehicle, same were to be borne equally by the plaintiff and the defendant. According to the defendant, he incurred an amount of Rs.70,187.76 in the repair of the said vehicle on 01.06.1999, which was substantiated by two different bills amounting to Rs.56,137.76 and Rs.18,050.00 respectively. Further, as per him, after receiving the claim amount from insurer on 21.11.1999 the plaintiff was duly informed and apprised of the adjustment of claim amount towards the expenses incurred by the defendant but the plaintiff did not respond. Therefore, on this plea, the defendant denied the claim of the plaintiff.

6. On the basis of the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the recovery of Rs.42,545/- alongwith interest, as alleged? ... OPP
2. Whether the suit is barred by limitation? ... OPD
3. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing this suit by his act and conduct? ... OPD
4. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action to file the present suit OPD
5. Relief.

7. The following findings were returned on the said issues by the learned trial Court on the basis of the material produced before it by the respective parties:

Issue No. 1	:	The plaintiff is entitled to the recovery of Rs.31,750/- plus interest at the rate of 6% per annum.
Issue No. 2	:	No.
Issue No. 3	:	No.
Issue No. 4	:	No.
Relief	:	Suit decreed as per operative portion of the Judgment.

8. The learned trial Court held that it was an admitted fact that the vehicle in question was registered in the joint names of plaintiff and defendant. It further held that it was also an admitted fact that both the plaintiff and defendant were real brothers and whereas, the plaintiff was permanently residing at Rampur Bushahr for last many years and the defendant was residing at Powari in District Kinnaur. It further held that the factum of vehicle being stolen and thereafter, the same being found in an accidental condition and being in the possession of the defendant was also an admitted fact. The learned trial Court further held that the insurance of the said vehicle was carried out with National Insurance Company Ltd. having its Branch Office at Tapri and receiving of an amount of Rs.63,500/- by the defendant from the said Insurance Company by way of cheque No. 814191 dated 21.12.1999 in lieu of the claim of vehicle in issue was also an admitted fact. On these basis, the learned trial Court held that it was difficult to say that amount as was being claimed by the defendant was actually incurred by him on the repair of the vehicle as the defendant had failed to prove on record the alleged bills on which he was pressing his claim. It further held that even otherwise there was nothing on record to prove that an amount of Rs.70,187.76 was actually incurred by the defendant on the repair of the vehicle in question. Accordingly, the learned trial Court concluded that the record reflected that claim amount of Rs.63,500/- was received by the defendant from Insurance Company on 21.12.1999 and he had not paid half amount to the plaintiff. Learned trial Court held that the plaintiff was entitled to the said amount i.e. half of the claim amount which had been received from the Insurance Company alongwith interest. Accordingly, the suit was decreed by the learned trial Court in favour of the plaintiff for recovery of Rs.31,750/- alongwith interest.

9. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by the learned trial Court, the defendant filed an appeal.

10. Learned Appellate Court vide its judgment dated 13.03.2007 allowed the appeal filed by the defendant and set aside the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court. Learned Appellate Court held that the main question which arose for consideration in the appeal was whether the plaintiff was entitled to the half of the amount of claim received from the Insurance company? Learned Appellate Court held that learned counsel for the plaintiff had made suggestions to the defendant that before receipt of the insurance compensation, the defendant had submitted the final bill of repair to the Insurance Company and only thereafter the Insurance Company had paid the compensation. It further held that there was no evidence that the Insurance Company had paid the compensation in excess of the repair amount. It further held that it was not the case of the plaintiff that he had paid any amount for the repair of the vehicle. Learned Appellate Court held that whatever amount defendant had received had been spent by him on the repair of the vehicle and only then the Insurance Company had allowed the compensation. On these basis, the learned Appellate Court held that the learned trial Court had erred in decreeing the suit on the ground that the defendant had not proved the bills as the same in fact stood proved from the admission of the plaintiff as well as the Insurance Company that they had paid the compensation in lieu of the bills of repairs submitted by the defendant. Learned Appellate Court further held that in the absence of any contribution by the plaintiff towards the repair expenses, the plaintiff was not entitled to receive half of the amount of compensation which was paid for making the vehicle roadworthy by the Insurance Company. On these basis, learned Appellate Court held that the fact that the defendant had not proved the bills had no effect as the same stood proved from the suggestions made by the learned counsel for the plaintiff that the defendant had submitted the bills of repair to the Insurance Company and only then the Insurance company had paid the compensation in favour of both the brothers. On these basis, learned Appellate Court allowed the appeal and set aside the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court.

11. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court, vide which, it has upset the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court, the plaintiff has filed the present appeal.

12. Mr. K.D. Sood, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellant has argued that learned Appellate Court has erred in setting aside the well reasoned judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court. According to Mr. Sood, learned Appellate Court failed to appreciate that the defendant had not produced on record even an iota of evidence to substantiate his contention that he had spent any money on the repairs of the vehicle in issue with the consent which the plaintiff allegedly had agreed to share alongwith the defendant. As per Mr. Sood, this concocted story of the defendant was believed by the learned Appellate Court, which has resulted in great injustice to the present appellant. According to Mr. Sood, it stood proved on record that the entire compensation amount paid by the Insurance Company to the defendant, has been appropriated by him and the plaintiff has not been paid his share out of the said compensation amount though the plaintiff was entitled to half of the said amount. This important aspect of the matter had been totally over looked by the learned Appellate Court and that too by placing unnecessary importance to the suggestions given to the defendant without appreciating that the case of the plaintiff could not have been negated on the basis of the said suggestion. As per Mr. Sood, the plaintiff had never admitted that an amount of Rs.70,187.00 had been incurred as expenses by the defendant on the repair of the vehicle in issue nor the defendant had placed any material on record to substantiate this contention. Therefore, in absence of any contemporary material to justify this contention of the defendant on record, the learned appellate Court has erred in allowing the appeal of the defendant and set aside the judgment passed by the learned trial Court.

13. On the other hand, Ms. Ritta Goswami, Advocate, had submitted that in view of the admission made by the plaintiff by way of suggestions put to the defendant in his cross-examination there was no need for the defendant to prove that he had actually spent an amount of Rs.70,187/- on the repair of the vehicle in question by placing any material on record. Ms. Goswami argued that it was well settled principle of law that a fact which stood admitted by the other party need not be proved. According to her, as the factum of defendant having spent money on the repair of the vehicle stood admitted by the plaintiff, therefore, this fact was not to be proved by the defendant. In order to substantiate her contention, she placed reliance on the following judgments:-

(i) Avtar Singh and Others Vs. Gurdial Singh and Others*, *(2006) 12 Supreme Court Cases 552,

(ii) Shreedhar Govind Kamerkar Vs. Yesahwant Govind Kamerkar and another*, *(2006) 13 Supreme Court Cases 481, and

(iii) Ponnusami Chettiar Vs. Kailasam Chettiar*, *A.I.R.(34) 1947 Madras 422.

14. Accordingly, she argued that there was no merit in the present appeal and the same deserves dismissal.

15. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by both the learned Courts below.

16. A perusal of the records of the present case demonstrate that to substantiate its case, plaintiff has examined two witnesses in addition to the plaintiff himself having stepped into the witness box, whereas, the defendant ha not examined any person as his witness except entering into the witness box himself. Besides this, the plaintiff has exhibited two documents to substantiate his case i.e. Registration Certificate of the vehicle Ext. PW1/A and reply to the letter of the plaintiff given by the Insurance Company Ext. PW1/B. On the other hand, the defendant has not produced any document on record to substantiate his case.

17. The two alleged bills which were produced by the defendant to substantiate his contention that he had spent money on the repair of the vehicle were not proved on record.

18. The factum of the plaintiff and defendant being joint owners of the vehicle in question is not in dispute and the same is also evident from Ext. PW1/A. Similarly, the factum of the entire claim amount having been paid by the Insurance Company to the defendant is also evident from communication dated 23.05.2002 Ext. PW1/B. The factum of this claim amount having been appropriated by the defendant is also not in dispute. Accordingly, in this background, it has to be adjudicated whether the learned Appellate Court has erred in setting aside the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court or not. Plaintiff has entered the witness box as PW-1 to prove his case. PW-2 Anil Kumar, Registration Clerk, RLA Kalpa, has proved on record that the vehicle in question was jointly registered in the names of the plaintiff and defendant. Similarly, PW-3 Pratap Singh has proved on record the entire claim amount of vehicle No. HP 25-0004 was paid to the defendant and that he has appropriated the entire amount. Exhibits PW1/A and PW1/B are to this effect. Thus, the plaintiff has placed material on record from where it can be deduced that the vehicle in question was jointly owned by him and his brother i.e. the defendant and the entire claim amount which was paid by the Insurance Company in lieu of the said vehicle was not only to be paid to the defendant but he has also appropriated the same to the exclusion of the plaintiff.

19. On the other hand, the defendant has not placed any material whatsoever on record to substantiate his case that he has spent an amount of over Rs.70,000/- on the repair of the vehicle. Besides his bald statement to this effect, there is no other evidence produced by him either ocular or documentary. In these circumstances, in my considered view, whereas the learned trial Court had rightly decreed the suit of the plaintiff, learned Appellate Court has erred in setting aside the said well reasoned judgment passed by the learned trial Court. The reasonings which has been given by the learned Appellate Court while setting aside the judgment passed by the learned trial Court are not sustainable. Learned Appellate Court has heavily relied upon the suggestions which have been made to the defendant during the course of his cross-examination to non-suit the plaintiff. However, the learned Appellate Court has failed to appreciate that on the strength of the suggestions so made to defendant by no stretch of imagination, it could be held that the plaintiff had admitted the factum of the defendant having been spent more than Rs.70,000/- on the repair of the vehicle. The onus to prove the factum of having incurred expenses on the repair of the vehicle was on the defendant which he failed to discharge. The judgments cited by the learned counsel for the respondent in this background are of no assistance to the respondent. The factum of admission being the best form of evidence and Section 58 of the Evidence Act postulating that things admitted need not be proved as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Avtar Singh and Others Vs. Gurdial Singh and Others, (2006) 12 Supreme Court Cases 552 and Shreedhar Govind Kamerkar Vs. Yesahwant Govind Kamerkar and another, (2006) 13 Supreme Court Cases 481, is a well settled proposition of law. However, on the basis of material from the material on record in the present case, it cannot be concluded that at any stage the plaintiff has admitted defendant having been spent an amount of Rs.70,000/- on the repairs of the vehicle. The arguments of Ms. Goswami that the bills submitted by the defendant which are not exhibited ipsofacto were admissible in law in view of the law laid down by the High Court of Madras in Ponnusami Chettiar Vs. Kailasam Chettiar, A.I.R.(34) 1947 Madras 422, is also without any merit. The High Court of Madras in the above mentioned judgment has held that if the execution of the document is admitted then it need not be proved. There is no quarrel with the said proposition of law. Had it been a case that the plaintiff herein had admitted the fact of defendant having carried out the repairs of the vehicle and having spent money on the said repairs and had he admitted the bills produced in this regard by the defendant, then there was no need for the defendant to have proved the said bills. But the fact of the matter remains that the plaintiff has never admitted any of the above mentioned facts. Therefore, the judgment cited by the learned counsel for the respondent is of no assistance to her.

20. Accordingly, in my considered view, the judgment and decree passed by the learned Appellate Court are not sustainable in law and learned Appellate Court has erred in setting aside the well reasoned judgment passed by the learned trial Court. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

21. In view of what has been discussed above, the present appeal is allowed with costs and the judgment and decree passed by the learned Appellate Court dated 13.03.2007 in Civil Appeal No. 24 of 2005 is set aside and the judgment and decree dated 10.06.2005 passed by the learned trial Court in Civil Suit No. 52-1 of 2002 is upheld. Miscellaneous application(s) pending, if any, also stand disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE AJAY MOHAN GOEL, J.

Lachhmi Chand …Petitioner.

Vs.

The Presiding Judge, Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla and another …Respondents.

Date of Decision: 27.07.2016

Industrial Disputes Act, 1947- Section 25- Claimant was appointed as a Forest Guard by the respondent and he worked as such for years together and had put in 240 days in each calendar year- respondents terminated the services of the petitioner without any notice or without payment of any compensation- claim petition was dismissed by the Labour Court- held, that claim put by the claimant that he was engaged by the respondents as Forest Guard in the year 1974 and he continued to serve as such till his termination was not substantiated by him by producing any cogent material on record- petitioner has not proved his Mandays chart from which it can be inferred that he had completed 240 days in preceding 12 months from the date of termination of his services- record produced by the respondents shows that claimant was engaged as a Guard for 30 days on a consolidated wage of Rs 1046.50/- Labour Court had gone into all the materials while dismissing the petition- the finding of fact recorded by the Labour Court should not be interfered unless the findings so returned by the learned Labour Court are perverse or not borne out from the material on record- petition dismissed. (Para-11 to 16)

Case referred:

State of H.P. and another Vs. Shankar Lal and other connected matters, ILR 2016 (I) HP 225 (D.B.)

For the petitioner: Mr. J.R. Poswal, Advocate.
For the respondents: Nemo for respondent No. 1.
Mr. K.D. Sood, Sr.Advocate, with Mr. Rajnish K. Lal, for respondent No.2.

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. **:

By way of present writ petition, the petitioner has challenged the award passed by learned Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla in Reference No. 267 of 1998 dated 01.08.2009 vide which, learned Labour Court has rejected the claim of the petitioner.

2. In brief, facts necessary for adjudication of the present case are that on an industrial dispute raised by the petitioner/claimant (hereinafter referred to as 'claimant'), the following reference was received by learned Labour Court from appropriate Government for adjudication:

> "Whether the termination of services of Shri Lakshmi Chand by the M/s Ballarpur Industries, Unit Shree Gopal papers, Yamuna Nagar (Haryana) w.e.f. 14.3.1995 without any notice, chargesheet, enquiry and without compliance of Section 25-F of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 is legal and justified? If not, to what relief of service benefits, back wages, seniority and amount of compensation, Shri Lakshmi Chand is entitled to?"

3. As per the statement of claim filed by the claimant, he was appointed as a Forest Guard by the respondents and he worked as such with the respondents for years together and had put in 240 days in each calendar year. But despite this, the respondents terminated his services without any requisite notice nor was he given any pay in lieu of the notice. As per the claimant, no retrenchment compensation was paid on account of services rendered by him and in such circumstances, he filed the claim petition praying for reinstatement in service alongwith consequential relief of back wages, continuity of service and allied service benefits.

4. In reply filed to the said claim petition, the respondents denied the claim of the workman. As per the respondents, Ballarpur Industries Limited was a multi unit and multi activity company engaged in the manufacturing of paper amongst other products and the company was having five paper mills in the country for which raw material was required for manufacturing of paper in its mills. As per the respondents, it was carrying on the activity of collecting raw materials for its mills located in different parts of country from various sources throughout the country. One of such raw material was Bhabhar grass and the company had taken on lease some area of the forest land in Himachal Pradesh from the State Government and said lease expired in March, 1994. Thereafter, the same was renewed in November,1994 up to March, 1995. The respondent-company established Nalagarh Block in the State of Himachal Pradesh for collection of Bhabhar grass. This collection Centre was an independent and separate activity of the company. As the period of lease of forest used to be usually for a period of six months, therefore, in Nalagarh Block no permanent work force was ever employed. It was further the case of the respondents that for the activity of the said Block, company was engaging temporary labour force for a fixed duration depending upon the availability of Bhabhar grass which was further depending on several climatic conditions. Further, as per the company, the last lease of the forest in Nalagarh Block where the claimant was engaged was from 28th November, 1994 to 31st March, 1995 and after that the lease was not renewed by the Government of Himachal Pradesh and thus, the activity of collection of Bhabhar grass at Nalagarh Block came to a permanent end on 31st March, 1995. According to the company, the said activity was permanently closed down w.e.f. 31st March, 1995. On merits, the stand of the workman that he had continuously worked for more than 240 days in each calendar year was also not admitted. The company contended that engagement of claimant had come to an automatic end by efflux of time with the closing of activity at Nalagarh Block w.e.f. 31.03.1995 and on these basis, according to the company, the claimant was neither entitled to any reinstatement nor any back wages as he had claimed.

5. On the basis of pleadings of the parties, learned Labour Court framed the following issues:

> "1. Whether the termination of services of the petitioner by respondent w.e.f. 14.3.1995 in violation of Section 25-F of the I.D. Act? OPP
> 2. Whether the reference is not maintainable? OPR
> 3. Relief."

6. On the basis of material produced on record by the respective parties, following findings were returned to the said issues by the learned Labour Court:

> Issue No. 2: No.
> Relief: Reference answered in negative per operative part of award."

7. Another important fact which needs mention at this stage is that during pendency of the claim petition, the claimant filed an application to place on record certain documents, which application of his was dismissed by learned Labour Court vide order dated 04.08.2008. The order so passed by learned Labour Court vide which it dismissed the application of the claimant was never challenged by way of any legal proceedings by the claimant and the same attained finality.

8. The claimant entered the witness box as PW-1 and stated that he was engaged with the respondents as Forest Guard w.e.f. 01.07.1974 and he continuously worked as such till his services were terminated w.e.f. 14.03.1995. He also stated that he was not served with any notice at the time of termination of his services nor any retrenchment compensation was paid to him. In his cross-examination, he stated that when was employed, no appointment letter was issued to him. He admitted in his cross-examination that the respondent-company was not having any lease from the State of Himachal Pradesh and that the work of collecting grass continued up till 1995-96.

9. Ramesh Chand, Manager (HR) of the respondent-company entered the witness box as RW-1 and stated that the company was having a collection centre of Dry Grass at Nalagarh, H.P., which was a seasonal activity and they used to purchase from the State Government on lease basis. He further deposed that the said lease continued up to March, 1995 and thereafter, it was discontinued. He also stated that the company used to engage seasonal employees during those days and no seasonal work existed after March, 1995. He stated that the company had not engaged any employee at any point of time at Nalagarh and the claimant was engaged in 1993 for seasonal work for specified time, payment for which was made by cheque, which he refused to accept. He also placed on record termination receipts of the petitioner as well as engagement letter and documents pertaining to termination of lease by the State Government. He categorically denied that the company had engaged the claimant on regular basis. In his cross-examination, he denied that the claimant was engaged in the year 1974.

10. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case.

11. The claim put forth by the petitioner to the effect that he was engaged as Forest Guard by the respondent-company in the year 1974 and he continued to serve as such till has arbitrary termination on 14.03.1995 is not substantiated by him by producing any cogent material on record. No evidence has been led by the claimant either ocular or documentary from which it could be inferred that the petitioner was engaged on regular basis as a Forest Guard by the respondent-company. Petitioner has not proved his Mandays chart from which it could be deciphered that he had completed 240 days in preceding 12 months from the date when his services were illegally terminated.

12. It is settled law that where a workman alleges that his services have been terminated in violation of the provisions of Section 25-F, then the burden of proof to prove this fact lies on the workman, who has to show that he worked continuously for 240 days in the preceding one year from the date of his alleged termination and the workman has to adduce cogent and reliable evidence in this regard, on the basis of which, it can be deduced by the appropriate Court of law that the claimant had actually worked for more than 240 days in the preceding 12 months from the date when his services were illegally terminated. The petitioner in the present case has miserably failed to substantiate his contention that the provisions of Section 25-F of the Industrial Disputes Act have been violated. Not only this, a perusal of the statement of claim filed by the claimant clearly demonstrates that the same is cryptic and totally vague. The statement of claim is quoted hereinbelow from which it is amply clear that the same was totally vague.

> "1. That the petitioner was appointed by the respondent as Forest Guard and worked with the respondent for years together. The petitioner has put in 240 days in each calander year.
> 2. That the petitioner was terminated from service by the respondent without serving requisite notice. The petitioner was not given pay in lieu of notice. No retrenchment compensation was paid on account of service rendered by him.
> 3. No enquiry whatsoever was held in to the charges if any. The petitioner made efforts to get employment but failed.
> It is, therefore, prayed that this Hon'ble Court be pleased to answer the reference by awarding the relief of reinstatement in service alongwith consequential relief of back wages.
> Any other relief as is deemed just and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case may also be granted besides the costs of petition."

13. Not only this, the claimant did not produce any material on record to substantiate his claim that he was in fact engaged as a regular Forest Guard in the year 1974 and he continued to serve as such till 14.03.1995. Application filed by him to produce on record certain documents was rejected by learned Labour Court vide order dated 04.08.2008 and that order was never challenged by the claimant. On the other hand, respondent company placed on record material to substantiate its contention that the engagement of the claimant was for temporary work pertaining to collection of grass and the company was not having any lease to carry out the said work from March 1995 onwards. Whereas the petitioner has not placed his letter of engagement etc. on record, the respondent-company has placed on record as Ex.-RR, communication dated 18.02.1995 from which it is evident that the claimant was lastly engaged as a Guard for 30 days on a consolidated wage of `1046.50/- w.e.f. 14.02.1995. It has also placed on record Ex. RI, memorandum dated 13.03.1995 vide which, the services of the claimant were terminated.

14. A perusal of the award passed by learned Labour Court demonstrates that all these aspects of the matter have been gone into in detail by learned Labour Court and after appreciation of material on record, learned Labour Court has concluded that the claimant was not able to establish its case for grant of any relief in his favour.

15. It has been held by this Court in LPA No. 4 of 2016 titled State of H.P. and another Vs. Shankar Lal and other connected matters, decided on 02.01.2016, as under:-

> "The awards passed by the Labour Court are based on the facts and the evidence led by the parties. It is well settled principle of law that the Writ Court cannot sit as an Appellate Court and set aside the award made by the Labour Court, which is based on evidence and facts.

16. Thus, it is evident that as far as the awards passed by the learned Labour Courts are concerned, the finding of fact so recorded by the learned Labour Court should not be interfered until and unless the findings so returned by the learned Labour Court are perverse or not borne out from the material on record.

17. In the present case, it cannot be said that the findings returned by the learned Labour Court are either perverse or not borne out from the material on record, therefore, the same do not warrant any interference.

18. Accordingly, I concur with the award passed by the learned Labour Court and hold that there is no merit in the present writ petition and the same is accordingly dismissed, so also the pending miscellaneous application (s), if any.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Munshi Ram (deceased) through his LRs: Dev Kumari and others …Appellants/Defendants

Versus

Sher Singh and others …Respondents/Plaintiffs

R.S.A. No. 271 of 2005
Date of decision: 27th July, 2016

Indian Succession Act, 1925- Section 63- Plaintiffs pleaded that B had died issueless – defendants claimed that B had executed a Will- Appellate Court had failed to take notice that plaintiffs had alleged fraud, undue influence, coercion etc. regarding the execution of the Will- the correct legal position was not noticed by the Appellate Court – Appeal allowed and case remanded to Appellate Court for decision afresh. (Para-7 to 12)

Cases referred:

H. Venkatachala Iyengar vs. B.N. Thimmajamma and others AIR 1959 SC 443
Shashi Kumar Banerjee and others vs. Subodh Kumar Banerjee and others AIR 1964 SC 529
Jaswant Kaur vs. Smt. Amrit Kaur and others (1977) 1 SCC 369,

For the Appellants: Mr. Bharat Thakur, Advocate, for appellants No. 1(a) and 4.
For the Respondents : Mr. Tara Singh Chauhan, Advocate.

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (oral)

The dispute in this Regular Second Appeal is about the succession to 8 bigha 13 biswas land belonging to Budhu Ram, who was a bachelor and obviously died issueless. According to the plaintiffs/respondents, he died intestate and claimed to have proportionately inherited the suit land alongwith defendants/ appellants in accordance with the provisions of Hindu Succession Act, 1956 (for short 'Act').

2. On the other hand, the appellants/defendants claimed to have succeeded to the suit land exclusively on the basis of a Will executed by Budhu Ram.

3. Looking at the order I propose to pass, it is not relevant to refer to the pleadings in detail. Suffice it to say that out of the pleadings to the parties, the learned trial Court framed the following issues on 19.6.1992:

1. Whether the plaintiffs and defendants are joint owner in possession of the suit land as alleged? OPP
2. Whether Sh. Budhu Ram executed a valid Will in favour of defendant No.1? OPP
3. Whether the suit is time barred? OPD
4. Whether the suit is not properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction? OPD
5. Whether the suit is not properly verified? OPD
6. Relief.

4. After recording the evidence and evaluating the same, the suit of the plaintiffs was decreed by the learned trial Court.

5. The appeal preferred against the judgment and decree, also came to be dismissed by the learned first Appellate Court giving rise to the instant appeal.

6. On 26.9.2006, this Court admitted the appeal on the following substantial question of law:

Whether the two courts below have failed to appreciate the evidence pertaining to the execution of Will in the right perspective and as a result of that failure, there has been miscarriage of justice.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records of the case carefully.

7. The reason why I have intentionally not referred to the facts of the case in detail or to the statements recorded of the witnesses is that the learned first Appellate Court has completely failed to take into consideration that it was the plaintiffs who had alleged fraud, undue influence, coercion etc. in regard to the execution of the Will and, therefore, such pleas had to be proved by them. As such, the onus even as per issue No.2 had been rightly placed upon them. But the learned lower Appellate Court proceeded to decide the case as if it was dealing with a case where the issue framed was with regard to the suspicious circumstance surrounding in the Will and thereby placed the onus upon the defendants to prove the Will.

8. The learned lower Appellate Court has failed to take into consideration the correct legal position in matters of Will as laid down by the three Hon'ble Judges of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in H. Venkatachala Iyengar vs. B.N. Thimmajamma and others AIR 1959 SC 443 and thereafter approved by the Hon'ble Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shashi Kumar Banerjee and others vs. Subodh Kumar Banerjee and others AIR 1964 SC 529 and thereafter reiterated in a number of cases including three Judges of the Hon'ble

Supreme Court in Smt. Jaswant Kaur vs. Smt. Amrit Kaur and others (1977) 1 SCC 369, wherein the legal position was succinctly summed up in the following manner:

> "10. "There is a long line of decisions bearing on the nature and standard of evidence required to prove a will. Those decisions have been reviewed in an elaborate judgment of this Court in R. Venkatachala Iyengar v.B.N. Thirnmajamma & Others.(AIR 1959 SC 443). The Court, speaking through Gajendragadkar J., laid down in that case the following propositions :
> > 1. Stated generally, a will has to be proved like any other document, the test to be applied being the usual test of the satisfaction of the prudent mind in such matters. As in the ease of proof of other documents, so in the case of proof of wills, one cannot insist on proof with mathematical certainty.
> > 2. Since section 63 of the Succession Act requires a will to be attested, it cannot be used as evidence until, as required by section 63 of the Evidence Act, one attesting witness at least has .been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive and subject to the process of the court and capable of giving evidence.
> > 3. Unlike other documents, the will speaks from the death o[the testator and therefore the maker of the will is never available for deposing as to the circumstances in which the will came to be executed. This aspect introduces an element of solemnity in the decision of the question whether the document propounded is proved to be the last will and testament of the testator. Normally, the onus which lies on the propounder can be taken to be discharged on proof of the essential facts which go into the making of the will.
> > 4. Cases in which the execution of the will is surround- ed by suspicious circumstances stand on a different footing. A shaky signature, a feeble mind, an unfair and unjust disposition of property, the propounder himself taking a leading part in the making of the will under which he re- ceives a substantial benefit and such other circumstances raise suspicion about the execution of the will. That suspicion cannot be removed by the mere assertion of the propounder that the will bears the signature of the testator or that the testator was in a sound and disposing state of mind and memory at the time when the will was made, or that those like the wife and children of the testator who would normally receive their due share in his estate were disinherited because the testator might have had his own reasons for excluding them. The presence of suspicious circumstances makes the initial onus heavier and therefore, in cases where the circumstances attendant upon the execution of the will excite the suspicion of the court, the propounder must remove all legitimate suspicions before the document can be accepted as the last will of the testator.
> > 5. It is in connection with wills, the execution of which is surrounded by suspicious circumstance that the test of satisfaction of the judicial conscience has been evolved. That test emphasises that in determining the question as to whether an instrument produced before the court is the last will of the testator, the court is called upon to decide a solemn question and by reason of suspicious circumstances the court has to be satisfied fully that the will has been validly executed by the testator.
> > 6. If a caveator alleges fraud, undue influence, coercion etc. in regard to the execution of the will, such pleas have to be proved by him, but even in the absence of such pleas, the very circumstances surrounding the execution' of the will may raise a doubt as to whether the testator was > acting of his own free will. And then it is a part of the initial onus of the propounder to remove all reasonable doubts in the matter."

9. Thus, it is absolutely clear from the aforesaid exposition of law that if a caveator alleges fraud, undue influence, coercion etc. in regard to the execution of the Will, such pleas have to be proved by him and only where the circumstances surrounding the execution of the Will may raise a doubt as to whether the testator was acting of his own free Will, then it is a part of the initial onus of the propounder to remove all reasonable doubts in the matter.

10. The learned first Appellate Court has not at all dealt with this aspect of the matter and, therefore, the judgment and decree passed by it cannot be sustained.

11. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the substantial question of law is answered accordingly. The appeal is allowed and the same is remanded to the learned first Appellate Court for decision afresh. The parties are directed to appear before the learned first Appellate Court below on 22nd August, 2016.

12. Taking into consideration the fact that the suit was filed more than two and half decades back, the learned first Appellate Court shall make all endeavour to decide the same expeditiously as possible and in no event later than 31st December, 2016.

The appeal is disposed of in the aforesaid terms, so also the pending application(s) if any, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

For the Appellant: Mr. Lalit Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr.H.S. Rangra, Advocate.

Tarlok Singh Chauhan J (oral).

In the claim petition filed by the claimants under Section 163 of the Motor Vehicle Act (for short 'Act'), the learned Tribunal dismissed the same by holding that the deceased himself was at fault and therefore, the benefit of the Act could not be extended to a tortfeaser. It was further held that the party to suffer loss in motor vehicle claim must be the third party, whereas in the instant case it was the legal representatives of the registered owner, insurer cum driver of the vehicle that had preferred the claim petition. However, the claimants were held entitled to the amount of Rs.50,000/- deposited by the appellant under no fault liability, which findings have been assailed in this appeal.

2. The learned counsel for the appellant would argue that once the claimants are not entitled to any amount under Section 163 or 166 of the Act, on account of the deceased being a tortfeaser himself, then the claimants are also not entitled any amount that may have been deposited by it under no fault liability as envisaged under Section 140.

3. The learned counsel for the appellant while putting forth such contention has probably ignored Sub Section 4 of Section 140 of the Act, which reads thus:-

> "140 (4) A claim for compensation under sub-section (1) shall not be defeated by reason of any wrongful act, neglect or default of the person in respect of whose death or permanent disablement the claim has been made nor shall the quantum of compensation recoverable in respect of such death or permanent disablement be reduced on the basis of the share of such person in the responsibility for such death or permanent disablement."

4. Further Sub Section (1) of Section 141 of the Act makes the compensation under Section 140 of the Act in respect of any claim of compensation based on the principle of no fault under any of the provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act.

5. Even otherwise such issue is now no longer res integra in view of the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Eshwarappa and another Vs. C.S. Gurushanthappa and another 2010 ACJ 2444, wherein it has been observed as under:-

> "13. Then there is section 141 which reads as under:
> > "141. Provisions as to other right to claim compensation for death or permanent disablement.----(1) The right to claim compensation under section 140 in respect of death or permanent disablement of any person shall be in addition to any other right, except the right to claim under the scheme referred to in section 163A (such other right hereafter in this section referred to as the right on the principle of fault) to claim compensation in respect thereof under any other provision of this Act or of any other law for the time being in force.
> > (2) A claim for compensation under section 140 in respect of death or permanent disablement of any person shall be disposed of as expeditiously as possible and where compensation is claimed in respect of such death or permanent disablement under section 140 and also in pursuance of any right on the principle of fault, the claim for compensation under section 140 shall be disposed of as aforesaid in the first place.
> > (3) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where in respect of the death or permanent disablement of any person, the person liable to pay compensation under section 140 is also liable to pay compensation in accordance with the right on the principle of fault, the person so liable shall pay the first-mentioned compensation and-
> > (a) if the amount of the first-mentioned compensation is less than the amount of the second-mentioned compensation, he shall be liable to pay (in addition to the first-mentioned compensation) only so much of the second-mentioned compensation as is equal to the amount by which it exceeds the first mentioned compensation;

> (b) if the amount of the first-mentioned compensation is equal to or more than the amount of the second- mentioned compensation, he shall not be liable to pay the second-mentioned compensation."

Sub-section (1) of section 141 makes the compensation under section 140 independent of any claim of compensation based on the principle of fault under any other provision of the Motor Vehicles Act or under any other law but subject to any claim of compensation under section 163A of the Act. Sub-sections (2) and (3) further provide that even while claiming compensation under the principle of fault (under section 166) one may claim no fault compensation under section 140 and in that case the claim of no fault compensation shall be disposed of in the first place and the amount of compensation paid under section 140 would be later adjusted if the amount payable as compensation on the principle of fault is higher than it.

14. Finally, section 144 gives overriding effect to the provisions of Chapter X. Section 144 reads as follows:

> "144. Overriding effect.-The provisions of this Chapter shall have effect notwithstanding anything contained in any other provision of this Act or of any other law for the time being in force."

15. Seen in isolation the above provisions might appear harsh, unreasonable and arbitrary in as much as these create the liability of the vehicle(s) owner(s) even where the accident did not take place due to any wrongful act, neglect or default of the owner or owners of the vehicle or vehicles concerned but entirely due to the wrongful act, neglect or default of the person in respect of whose death or permanent disablement the claim has been made but the above provisions must be seen along with certain provisions of Chapter XI. Section 146 forbids the use of the vehicle in a public place unless there is in force, in relation to the use of the vehicle, a policy of insurance complying with the provisions of that chapter. Section 147 contains the provisions that are commonly referred to as `Act only insurance'. The provisions of sections 146 and 147 are meant to create the large pool of money for making payments of no fault compensation. Thus the liability arising from section 140 would almost invariably be passed on to the insurer to be paid off from the vast fund created by virtue of sections 146 and 147 of the Act unless the owner of the vehicle causing accident is guilty of some flagrant violation of the law.

16. Seen thus, the provisions of chapter X together with sections 146 and 147 would appear to be in furtherance of the public policy that in case of death or permanent disablement of any person resulting from a motor accident a minimum amount must be paid to the injured or the heirs of the deceased, as the case may be, without any questions being asked and independently of the compensation on the principle of fault.

17. The provisions of section 140 are indeed intended to provide immediate succour to the injured or the heirs and legal representatives of the deceased. Hence, normally a claim under section 140 is made at the threshold of the proceeding and the payment of compensation under section 140 is directed to be made by an interim award of the Tribunal which may be adjusted if in the final award the claimants are held entitled to any larger amounts. But that does not mean, that in case a claim under section 140 was not made at the beginning of the proceedings due to the ignorance of the claimant or no direction to make payment of the compensation under section 140 was issued due to the over-sight of the Tribunal, the door would be permanently closed. Such a view would be contrary to the legal provisions and would be opposed to the public policy.

18. In light of the discussions made above, we are unhesitatingly of the view, that the Tribunal was completely wrong in denying to the appellant, 14 the compensation in terms of section 140 of the Act. We find and hold that the appellant (as well as the other 3 claimants) were fully entitled to no fault compensation under section 140 of the Act. We, accordingly, direct the insurance company to pay to the appellant Rs.25,000/- along with simple interest @ 6% p.a. from the date of the order of the Tribunal till the date of payment. The other 3 claimants are not before this Court, but that is presumably because they are too poor to come to this Court. Since, we have allowed the claim of the appellants, there is no reason why this order should not be extended to the other 3 claimants as well. We, accordingly, do so. The insurance company is directed to make the payment as directed in this judgment within 3 months."

6. It is then contended by the learned counsel for the appellant that the issue involved in the instant appeal is now pending before the larger Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in its reference made in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Sunil Kumar and another 2013 ACJ 2856.

7. Even this contention is equally without any force, because there in the Hon'ble supreme Court has categorically held that the provisions of Section 163-A of the Act do not include a negative clause like the one contained in Section 140 (4) of the Act and therefore, the liability to make compensation under Section 163-A is on the principle of no fault and therefore, the question as to who is at fault is immaterial and foreign to an inquiry under Section 163-A, as it makes no provision for any apportionment of the liability. It is thus clear that the interpretation of Section 140 or any of its sub sections is neither directly nor indirectly involved for interpretation in the aforesaid case and it is for this precise reason that even in the reference made to the larger Bench, the judgment passed earlier in Eshwarappa case has not even been mentioned.

8. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this appeal and the same is accordingly dismissed, leaving the parties to bear their costs.

Cr. Revision No.: 96 of 2012
Date of Decision: 27.07.2016

Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881- Section 138- Accused issued a post dated cheque for a sum of Rs.1,18,000/- in favour of the complainat, which was dishonoured with the endorsment 'insufficient funds'- accused did not pay the amount to the complainant despite receipt of valid notice of demand – accused was tried and convicted by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- it was contended in the revision that trial Court did not have territorial jurisdiction as incident had taken place within the jurisdiction of Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Theog- mere issuance of demand notice from Shimla will not confer the jurisdiction upon the Court at Shimla- held, that cheque was payable at Kotkhai and was dishonoured at Kotkhai- mere issuance of demand notice at Shimla will not confer the jurisdiction upon the Court at Shimla- no objection regarding lack of jurisdiction was raised by the accused before the trial Court and the judgment cannot be set aside on the ground of lack of territorial jurisdiction since no failure of justice had taken place - even otherwise Judicial Magistrate 1st Class exercises jurisdiction within a particular district where he is appointed, therefore, Magistrate at Shimla had jurisdiction to entertain the complaint- revision dismissed. (Para-13 to 26)

For the petitioner: Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. B.S. Chauhan, Sr. Advocate, with Mr. Vaibhav Tanwar, Advocate.

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. **:

By way of present petition, petitioner has challenged the judgment passed by the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge, Shimla in Criminal Appeal No. 31-S/10 of 2009 dated 23.01.2012 vide which, learned Appellate Court has upheld the judgment of conviction passed by the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No. VI, Shimla in Cr. Complainant No. 402/3 of 2007/06.

2. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of present case are that in a complainant filed by the present respondent (hereinafter referred to as "complainant') under Section 138 read with Section 142 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 against the petitioner/accused, learned trial Court returned the findings of conviction against the accused for having committed offence under Section 138 read with Section 142 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 and accordingly it sentenced the accused to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of six months and also to pay compensation to the tune of Rs.19000/- to the complainant. As per the complainant, the accused was well acquainted with him and both of them knew each other since long. Accused approached the complainant and requested him to lend an amount of Rs.1,18,000/- for meeting out domestic expenses and also for doing business. The said amount was lent by the complainant to the accused and in lieu of the same, accused issued posted dated cheque No. 966545 dated 14.10.2006 for an amount of Rs.1,00,000/- and cheque No. 966546 dated 14.10.2006 for an amount of Rs.18,000/- in favour of the complainant, both payable at UCO Bank, Kotkhai. Further, as per the complainant, when he presented the said two cheques to his banker, the same were dishonoured by the banker of the accused on the ground "funds insufficient". Thereafter, a legal notice was sent by the complainant to the accused and he was called upon to make good the payment. When despite this, the accused did not pay the said amount to the complainant, he filed a complaint under the provisions of Negotiable Instruments Act.

3. As a prima facie case was found against the accused, Notice of Accusation was put to him, to which he pleaded not guilty.

4. In order to substantiate his case, the complainant examined three witnesses. Though initially the accused intended to lead evidence in his defence, but subsequently vide separate statement, he closed his evidence without examining any defence witness.

5. On the basis of material on record, learned trial Court held that the accused had not disputed the loan transaction as entered between him and the complainant and issuance of cheques in lieu of the same as well as the factum of dishonouring of the said cheques, but he had come up with the defence that he had taken loan from the elder brother of the complainant and the said loan already stood returned to him. Further, as per learned trial Court, the defence so put up by the accused could not be corroborated and on the other hand, the complainant on the basis of material on record was able to prove that in lieu of loan advanced by him to the accused, the accused had issued two cheques in his favour which were dishonoured. Accordingly, learned trial Court allowed the complaint and convicted the accused.

6. It is relevant to refer at this stage that during the course of trial of the said case before the learned trial Court, no objection at any stage was taken by the accused to the effect that learned trial Court was not having territorial jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the matter.

7. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment of conviction, the accused preferred an appeal. Learned appellate Court vide judgment dated 23.01.2012 upheld the judgment of conviction passed by the learned trial Court and dismissed the appeal. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned appellate Court demonstrates that two points were argued in appeal on behalf of the accused and these points were:

(a) that the case of the complainant as narrated in the complaint and as deposed by him on oath was totally improbable and suspicious; and

(b) that the cheques in issue were drawn at UCO Bank, Kotkhai and were presented for encashment by the complainant with his banker at Kotkhai and intimation regarding dishonouring of the same was also at Kotkhai, hence cause of action arose to the complainant within the jurisdiction of the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class at Theog and not at Shimla and mere sending of demand notice from Shimla did not confer jurisdiction on the Court of Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla.

Therefore, on these basis, the judgment passed by the learned trial Court was attacked in appeal.

8. On the point of jurisdiction, learned appellate Court held that though it was not in dispute that the cheques in question were drawn at UCO Bank, Kotkhai by the accused and they were also presented by the complainant for encashment with his banker at Kotkhai and the commission of the offence punishable under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act took place at Kotkhai, within the jurisdiction of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Theog and mere sending of demand notice from Shimla did not confer any territorial jurisdiction on the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla, however, the accused cannot be permitted to take this plea at a belated stage in appellate proceedings and the judgment of conviction passed by the learned trial Court was protected by the provisions of Section 462 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, because it could not be said that there was lack of inherent jurisdiction with the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla to adjudicate upon the matter pertaining to Negotiable Instruments Act and the appellant had also not substantiated as to what prejudice was caused to him as a result of the case having been tried at Shimla. It further held that no such plea was in fact taken by the appellant before learned trial Court at any time and accordingly, learned appellate Court rejected this ground. Thereafter, learned appellate Court on the basis of appreciation of the material placed on record by the complainant as well as on the basis of appreciation of the reasonings given by the learned trial Court in allowing the complaint and convicting the accused, upheld the judgment of conviction passed by learned trial Court.

9. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by learned appellate Court, the accused has filed the present revision petition.

10. During the course of arguments, learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the judgments passed by learned Courts below whereby the accused has been convicted, are liable to be set aside on this score alone that the learned trial Court which at the first instance had adjudicated upon the matter had no territorial jurisdiction to hear and decide the case. Accordingly, on this ground, it has been argued that the judgments under challenge were perverse and were liable to be set aside. No other point was urged.

11. On the other hand, Mr. B.S. Chauhan, learned Senior Counsel for the respondent/complainant submitted that the petitioner cannot be permitted to challenge the judgments passed by both the learned Courts below on this count for the reason that the accused at no stage during pendency of the case before learned trial Court ever objected to this fact that learned trial Court was not having territorial jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the matter. According to learned Senior Counsel, once the accused had submitted himself to the territorial jurisdiction of the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla and had acquiesced to the trial of the said case by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla, he was estopped both at the appellate stage and now before this Court from challenging the judgment passed by both the learned Courts below on this ground. Mr. Chauhan further argued that even otherwise, the judgment of conviction passed by learned trial Court and upheld by learned appellate Court was protected by the provisions of Section 462 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 because it is not the case of the petitioner that there was inherent lack of jurisdiction with the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla to adjudicate upon the matter arising out of Negotiable Instruments Act nor the petitioner has been able to demonstrate as to what prejudice has been caused to him on account of the accused having been tried by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla. Accordingly, Mr. Chauhan submitted that there was no merit in the present petition and the same was liable to be dismissed.

12. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case.

13. The factum of cheques in question issued by the accused in favour of the complainant being payable in UCO Bank at Kotkhai is not in dispute. Further, the factum of said cheques having been presented by the complainant for encashment with his banker, i.e. State Bank of India at Kotkhai is also not in dispute. Further, the factum of the said cheques having been dishonoured at Kotkhai is also not in dispute. It is also not in dispute that mere sending of a demand notice from Shimla cannot confer any territorial jurisdiction on the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla to take cognizance and try a complaint under the Negotiable Instruments Act, in which cause of action has arisen in Kotkhai. However, the fact of the matter still remains that when the complaint was filed before the Court of learned Judicial Magistrate, 1st Class, Shimla and the case was tried by learned Judicial Magistrate, no objection with regard to territorial jurisdiction of the said Court was taken by the accused. On the contrary, the accused contested the case on merits and suffered the judgment passed by learned trial Court.

14. Incidentally, a perusal of the grounds of appeal filed before learned Appellate Court also demonstrates that it was not the case of accused in appeal that though the issue of jurisdiction was raised before learned trial Court, but the same was not answered by it. Therefore, it is apparent and evident that the accused submitted himself to the territorial jurisdiction of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla and also acquiesced to the jurisdiction of the said Court and contested the case before the said Court on merit. It is only after he was convicted by learned trial Court that he raised the issue of jurisdiction for the first time in appeal.

15. At this stage, it is necessary to refer to Section 462 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, which provides as under:

> "462. Proceedings in wrong place.- No finding, sentence or order of any Criminal Court shall be set aside merely on the ground that the inquiry, trial or other proceedings in the course of which it was arrived at or passed, took place in a wrong sessions division, district, sub-division or other local area, unless it appears that such error has in fact occasioned a failure of justice."

16. Therefore, it is evident that under the provisions of Section 462 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, no finding, sentence or order of any Criminal Court can be set aside merely on the ground that the inquiry, trial or other proceedings in the course of which it was arrived at or passed, took place in a wrong Sessions Division, District, Sub-Division or other local area, unless it appears that such error has occasioned a failure of justice.

17. Coming to the facts of the present case, learned counsel for the petitioner could not satisfy as to what prejudice was caused to the accused by the trial of the said case before learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla. He has not been able to point out any fact from which it can be deciphered that because the trial took place before learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla, this has occasioned failure of justice. It is also not the case of the petitioner that the Court of learned Judicial Magistrates 1st Class, Shimla was not otherwise having jurisdiction to entertain and adjudicate a case under the provisions of Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

18. Another important aspect of the matter is that the case has been adjudicated by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla which Court is under Sessions Division, Shimla. As per the petitioner, the case should have been tried by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Theog, which Court is also incidentally within the Sessions Division, Shimla.

19. Jurisdiction of a Judicial Magistrate is governed by Section 14 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, which reads as under:

> "14. Local jurisdiction of Judicial Magistrates.
> (1) Subject to the control of the High Court, the Chief Judicial Magistrate may, from time to time, define the local limits of the areas within which the Magistrates appointed under section 11 or under section 13 may exercise all or any of the powers with which they may respectively be invested under this Code:
> Provided that the Court of a Special Judicial Magistrate may hold its sitting at any place within the local area for which it is established.]
> (2) Except as otherwise provided by such definition, the jurisdiction and powers of every such Magistrate shall extend throughout the district.
> (3) Where the local jurisdiction of a Magistrate, appointed under section 11 or section 13 or section 18, extends to an area beyond' the district, or the metropolitan area, as the case may be, in which he ordinarily holds Court, any reference in this Code to the Court of Session, Chief Judicial Magistrate or the Chief Metropolitan Magistrate shall, in relation to such Magistrate, throughout the area within his local jurisdiction, be construed, unless the context otherwise requires, as a reference to the Court of Session, Chief Judicial Magistrate, or Chief Metropolitan Magistrate, as the case may be, exercising jurisdiction in relation to the said district or metropolitan area."

20. Further, Section 15 of the Code of Criminal Procedure provides as under:

> (1) Every Chief Judicial Magistrate shall be subordinate to the Sessions Judge; and every other Judicial Magistrate shall, subject to the general control of the Sessions Judge, be subordinate to the Chief Judicial Magistrate.
> (2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may, from time to time, make rules or give special orders, consistent with this Code, as to the distribution of business among the Judicial Magistrates subordinate to him."

21. This Court in Sanjay Kumar & Ors. Vs. State of H.P. 2008(1) Current Law Journal 184 has held that this Court in exercise of its powers under sub-sections (2) and (3) of Section 11 of the Code of Criminal Procedure has issued a Notification authorizing all the Judicial Magistrates posted within a particular District to exercise the powers of inquiry and trial in respect of the cases pertaining to any part of the District. That is to say, the Magistrates have been conferred the powers to be exercised by them throughout the area of the District they are posted in.

22. Learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla is posted in District Shimla. According to the petitioner, the jurisdiction to try the present petition was with learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Theog, which is also posted in District Shimla. Therefore, even according to the petitioner, the case was triable before a Judicial Magistrate in District Shimla, though at Theog, but not at proper Shimla. Keeping in view what has been held by this Court in the abovementioned case, it is apparently clear that learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class Shimla is duly authorized to exercise the powers of inquiry and trial in respect of a case pertaining to any part or area of the District, i.e. District Shimla as the said Magistrate has been conferred the powers to be exercised by it throughout the area of the District he is posted. This Court does not intend to say that all cases of Negotiable Instruments Act pertaining to District Shimla can be tried by a Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Shimla, especially in view of the amendment carried out in the Negotiable Instruments Act, but, the fact of the matter still remains that keeping in view the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case wherein issue of territorial jurisdiction was not raised during the entire period when the case was being tried by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class and it has been raised only at the appellate stage, the judgment passed by the learned trial Court is saved by the provisions under Section 462 of the Code of Criminal Procedure as well as the findings returned by this Court in the abovementioned case.

23. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Smt. Raj Kumari Vijh Vs. Dev Raj Vijh AIR 1977 Supreme Court 1101 has held:

> "531. No finding, sentence or order of any Criminal Court shah be set aside merely on the ground that the inquiry, trial or other proceeding in the course of which it was arrived at or passed, took place in a wrong sessions division, district, sub-division or other local area, unless it appears that such error has in fact occasioned a failure of justice."
> The section therefore relates to a defect of jurisdiction. As has been stated by this Court inPurushottamdas Dalmia v. The State of West Bengal(1) those are two types of jurisdic- tion of a criminal court, namely, (1) the jurisdiction with respect to the power of the court to try particular kinds of offences, and (2) its territorial jurisdiction. While the former goes to the root of the matter and any transgression of it makes the entire trial voild, the latter is not of a peremptory character and is curable under section 531 of the Code. Territorial jurisdiction is provided "just as a matter of convenience, keeping in mind the administrative point of view with respect to the work of a particular court, the convenience of the accused who will have to meet the charge levelled against him and the convenience of the witnesses who have to appear before the Court'. Sub-section (8) of section 488 in fact provides that proceedings under the section "may be taken against any person in any district where he resides or is, or where he last resided with his wife or, as the case may be, the mother of the illegitimate child." This therefore is ordinarily the requirement as to the fling of an application under section 488 within the limits of the jurisdiction of the magistrate concerned."

24. It has also been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Karnataka Vs. Kuppuswamy AIR 1987 Supreme Court 1354:

> "14. The High Court, however, observed that provisions of Sec. 465 Cr.P.C. can not be made use of to regularise this trial. No reasons have been stated for this conclusion. Sec. 465 Cr.P.C. reads as under:
> "Finding or sentence when reversible by reason of error, omission or irregularity:-
> (1) Subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, no finding, sentence or order passed by a Court of competent jurisdiction shall be reversed or altered by a Court of appeal, confirmation or revision on account of any error, omission or irregularity in the complaint, summons, warrant, proclamation, order, judgment or other proceedings before or during trial or in any inquiry or other pro- ceedings under this Code, or any error, or irregularity in any sanction for the prosecu- tion, unless in the opinion of that Court, a failure of justice has in fact been occasioned thereby.

(2) In determining whether any error, omission or irregularity in any proceeding under this Code, or any error, or irregularity in any sanction for the prosecution has occasioned a failure of justice, the Court shall have regard to the fact whether the objection could and should have been raised at an earlier stage in the proceedings."

It is provided that a finding or sentence passed by a Court of competent jurisdiction could not be set aside merely on the ground of irregularity if no projudice is caused to the accused. It is not disputed that this question was neither raised by the accused at the trial nor any prejudice was pleaded either at the trial or at the appellate stage and therefore in absence of any prejudice such a technical objection will not affect the order or sentence passed by competent court. Apart from Sec. 465, Sec. 462 provides for remedy in cases of trial in wrong places. Sec. 462 reads as under:

"Proceedings in wrong place:

No finding, sentence or order of any Criminal Court shall be set aside merely on the ground that the inquiry trial or other proceedings in the course of which it was arrived at or passed, took place in a wrong sessions divi- sion, district, sub-division or other local are unless it appears that such error has in fact occasioned a failure of justice."

This provision even saves a decision if the trial has taken place in a wrong Session Division or Sub-Division or a district or other local area and such an error could only be of some consequence if it results in failure of justice otherwise no finding or sentence could be set aside only on the basis of such an error.

15. It is therefore clear that even if the trial before the III Additional City Civil and Sessions Judge would have been in a Division other than the Bangalore Metropolitan Area for which III Additional City Civil and Sessions Judge is also notified to be a Sessions Judge still the trial could not have been quashed in view of Sec. 462. This goes a long way to show that even if a trial takes place in a wrong place where the Court has no territorial jurisdiction to try the case still unless failure of justice is pleaded and proved, the trial can not be quashed. In this view of the matter therefore reading Sec. 462 alongwith Sec. 465 clearly goes to show that the scheme of the Code of Criminal Procedure is that where there is no inherent lack of jurisdiction merely either on the ground of lack of territorial jurisdiction or on the ground of any irregularity of procedure an order or sentence awarded by a competent court could not be set aside unless a prejudice is pleaded and proved which will mean failure of justice. But in absence of such a plea merely on such technical ground the order or sentence passed by a competent court could not be quashed.

16. It is not disputed that the plea of prejudice or failure of justice is neither pleaded nor proved. Not only that even the judgment of the High Court does not indicate any possi- bility of prejudice or failure of justice. Learned counsel appearing for the respondent also did not suggest. any possibility of projudice or failure of justice. Under these circumstances therefore the view taken by the High Court does not appear to be correct in view of the language of Sec. 462 read with Sec. 465. The judgment of the High Court is therefore set aside. The direction of remand made by the High Court is also quashed. It is unfortunate that these matters pertaining to incidents of 1980 should not have been disposed of till today and that the matter should have remained pending on such technical grounds for all these years. We therefore direct that the appeals be remitted back to the High Court so that they are heard and disposed of on merits as expeditiously as possible."

25. Recently, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India and other Vs. Ex-Gnr Ajeet Singh (2013) 4 Supreme Court Cases 186 has held:

"22. So far as the failure of justice is concerned, this Court in Darbara Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 2013 SC 840, held that: "Failure of justice" is an extremely pliable or facile expression, which can be made to fit into any situation in any case. The court must endeavour to find the truth. There would be "failure of justice"; not only by unjust conviction, but also by acquittal of the guilty, as a result of unjust failure to produce requisite evidence. Of course, the rights of the accused have to be kept in mind and also safeguarded, but they should not be overemphasised to the extent of forgetting that the victims also have rights. It has to be shown that the accused has suffered some disability or detriment in respect of the protections available to him under the Indian criminal jurisprudence. "Prejudice" is incapable of being interpreted in its generic sense and applied to criminal jurisprudence. The plea of prejudice has to be in relation to investigation or trial, and not with respect to matters falling outside their scope. Once the accused is able to show that there has been serious prejudice caused to him, with respect to either of these aspects, and that the same has defeated the rights available to him under criminal jurisprudence, then the accused can seek benefit under the orders of the court." (Emphasis added) (See also: Shivaji Sahebrao Bobade & Anr. v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1973 SC 2622; Rafiq Ahmed @ Rafi v. State of U.P., AIR 2011 SC 3114; Rattiram & Ors. v. State of M.P., AIR 2012 SC 1485; and Bhimanna v. State of Karnataka, AIR 2012 SC 3026)

23. In Ramesh Harijan v. State of U.P., AIR 2012 SC 1979, this court dealt with the issue of the liberal approach adopted by the court to grant an unwarranted acquittal, and held that while dealing with a criminal case, it is a matter of paramount importance for any court to ensure that the mis-carriage of justice be avoided in all circumstances. (See also: Sucha Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 2003 SC 3617; and S. Ganesan v. Rama Raghuraman & Ors., (2011) 2 SCC 83)

24. The expression "failure of justice" would appear, sometimes, as an etymological chameleon. The Court has to examine whether there is really a failure of justice or whether it is only a camouflage. Justice is a virtue which transcends all barriers. Neither the rules of procedure, not technicalities of law can stand in its way. Even the law bends before justice. The order of the court should not be prejudicial to anyone. Justice means justice between both the parties. The interests of justice equally demand that the "guilty should be punished" and that technicalities and irregularities, which do not occasion the "failure of justice"; are not allowed to defeat the ends of justice. They cannot be perverted to achieve the very opposite end as this would be counter-productive. "Courts exist to dispense justice, not to dispense with justice. And, the justice to be dispensed, is not palm-tree justice or idiosyncratic justice". Law is not an escape route for law breakers. If this is allowed, this may lead to greater injustice than upholding the rule of law. The guilty man, therefore, should be punished, and in case substantial justice has been done, it should not be defeated when pitted against technicalities. (Vide : Ramesh Kumar v. Ram Kumar & Ors., AIR 1984 SC 1929; S. Nagaraj v. State of Karnataka,1993 Supp (4) SCC 595; State Bank of Patiala & Ors. v. S.K Sharma, AIR 1996 SC 1660; and Shaman Saheb M. Multani v. State of Karnataka, AIR 2001 SC 921)."

26. Therefore, keeping in view the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court as well as the discussion held above, in my considered view, there is no merit in the present petition and the learned appellate Court has rightly upheld the judgment of conviction passed by learned trial Court in view of the statutory provisions of Section 462 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Accordingly, the present petition is dismissed being devoid of any merit.

For the Appellant: Mr. Anand Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Anshul Bansal, Advocate, for respondent No. 1.
Mr.Dinesh Bhanot, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.

Tarlok Singh Chauhan J.

The appellant/plaintiff has filed this Regular Second Appeal against the judgment and decree dated 26.3.2007, passed by learned District Judge, Solan, H.P., whereby he affirmed the findings of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Kandaghat, District Solan, H.P.

The facts of the case may be noticed as follows:-

2. The appellant filed a suit for permanent prohibitory and mandatory injunction restraining respondent No. 1 and through its agents from handing over the stall cum shop to be built up over the land comprised in Khasra No. 269 measuring 6 Sq. meters (herein after referred to as the suit property) to respondent No. 2 and from restraining respondent No. 2 from occupying and possessing the stall cum shop to the built up by respondent No. 1 and hindering the process of delivering the possession of the shop or causing any type of interference over the suit land. It was pleaded that the appellant had been a tenant over the suit property situated at Mauza Lower Bazar, Solan under respondent No. 1, since 1961. The monthly rent of the suit property at present was Rs.220/-. This stall had been constructed by the appellant at his own cost after obtaining necessary sanction of site plan etc. from respondent No. 1. It was alleged that the tenancy has always been with the appellant, but on account of some arrangement, respondent No. 2 was allowed to carry on the business in the said stall by the appellant. Respondent No. 1 had decided to demolish the wooden stalls and converted them into pucca building on the terms and conditions settled by respondent No. 1. The appellant who is the tenant had constructed the stall and had been paying rent till date and had every legal right to possess and occupy the newly constructed pucca stall in view of the old stall cum shop. It was specifically averred that the old stall was never ever transferred by the appellant to respondent No. 2 and that the appellant was ready and willing to pay all the consideration which respondent No. 1 has decided to charge from the old tenants and is legally entitled to get the possession and occupation of the stall. It was further alleged that respondent No. 2 was threatening to occupy and possess the stall by misrepresenting the facts because respondent No. 2 had no right, title or interest to do so. It was lastly alleged that respondent No. 2 during the last week of March, 2000 had forcibly occupied the said stall and respondent No. 1 had reported the matter to police on 25.3.2000. Respondent No. 2 had occupied the stall by violating the injunction order dated 21.12.1999. The appellant had also sought decree of mandatory to hand over the possession of the said stall/suit property to him.

3. Respondent No. 1 contested the suit by filing written statement, where preliminary objections regarding estoppel, cause of action and maintainability of the suit were taken. On merits, respondent No. 1 admitted that the stall was allotted on lease to the appellant and he has carried out repairs therein in the year 1989. It was further averred that the appellant had parted with the possession of the suit property without obtaining prior permission from respondent No. 1 and, therefore, it was entitled to evict the appellant on the ground of sub-tenancy. It was also averred that respondent No. 2 had become unauthorized occupant of the stall. Lastly, it was alleged that the appellant as well as respondent No. 2 had been staking their claims for possession of the stall and the matter was pending decision before the Municipal Council, but in the mean time respondent No. 2 had forcibly occupied the tea stall constraining the municipal council to report the matter to the police on 27.3.2000. Respondent No. 1 was yet to decide on its level as to who is entitled to occupy the said stall.

4. Respondent No. 2 contested the suit by filing separate written statement, wherein preliminary objections regarding locus standi, maintainability, concealment of material facts and estoppel were taken. On merits, respondent No. 1 denied the averments made by the appellant in the plaint and pleaded that the appellant had concealed material facts from the Court. It was alleged that the replying respondent had constituted a joint family and co-ownership after they migrated from West Pakistan in 1947-48. The appellant being Karta was managing the joint business. The partition had been effected between the members of the joint Hindu family by meets and bounds in the year 1982 and the disputed shop was allotted to respondent No. 2 along with goods lying therein. It was averred that respondent No. 2 was running a business of electrical in the name of Sunny Electrical Works in the said stall and had also been paying rent, sanitation tax etc. It was further averred that respondent No.2 was a direct tenant of respondent No.1 as the shop license, CST/GST number, certificate of State Bank of Patiala through which rent and other taxes were being received by respondent No.1, were also attached with the written statement. It was further pleaded that devastating fire had taken place in which the stall of the replying respondent along with other occupants suffered huge losses. However, the stall occupants continued to do their business from the burnt stalls and never parted with its possession at any point of time. It was further averred that the appellant had nothing to do with the stall nor was in possession of the same. It was further averred that when the partition of the family was effected, the appellant shifted his business to Lower Bazar Solan and his rights qua staff ceased. It was lastly averred that the officials of respondent No.1 had connived with the appellant in order to harass respondent No. 2 and give undue advantage to the appellant, the officials of respondent No.1might have made some false complaint for the police for creating false evidence. On these averments, dismissal of the suit has been prayed for.

5. The learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

"1. Whether the plaintiff had been a tenant in shop cum stall measuring 4'9" on the back side 7' in from and 9 feet on both sides measuring in all 6 Sq. meters of defendant No. 1 since 1961? OPP

2. Whether the said stall was constructed by the plaintiff at his own costs and the necessary site plan was sanctioned by defendant No. 1, as alleged? OPP

3. Whether tenancy has always been with the plaintiff but on account of some arrangement defendant No. 2 was allowed to carry on the business in the said stall by the plaintiff, as alleged? OPP

4. Whether the defendant No. 1 had decided to demolish the wooden stall on account of devastating fire in the area and convert it into pucca building, as alleged? OPP

5. Whether the defendant No. 1 in the last week of March, 2000, had forcibly occupied the said stall, as alleged? OPP

6. Whether the plaintiff has got no locus-standi to file and maintain the suit? OPD-2

7. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is not maintainable as no notice as required under H.P. Municipal Act has been served? OPD-2

8. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing the present suit on account of his act, conduct and acquiescences? OPDs

9. Whether the suit is not maintainable as the plaintiff is out of possession? OPDs

10. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action against the defendant No. 1? OPD

11. Whether the defendant No. 2 is settled possession of the stall since 1982 as a direct tenant of defendant No. 1? OPD-2

12. Relief."

6. After recording evidence and evaluating the same, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the appellant, however findings on issue No. 1 were recorded in appellant's favour. Aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court who not only dismissed the appeal, but even reversed the findings on issue No. 1, constraining the appellant to file the instant appeal.

7. The appeal came to be admitted on the following substantial questions of law:-

"1. Whether the learned appellate Court was right in law in reversing the findings on issue No. 1 of tenancy decided in favour of the appellant which have not even been assailed by the defendant/respondent No. 2 and also not disputed by defendant No. 1?

2. Whether the learned Courts below were right in concluding that respondent No. 2 was in legal possession more particularly when neither appellant nor respondent No. 1 who were the owners ever acknowledged or attorned to the possession of respondent No. 2?
3. Whether the learned appellate Court was right in holding that the premises having been destroyed in the fire, the tenancy had come to an end?
4. Whether the suit of the plaintiff should have been dismissed as he has not appeared in the witness box and no cause excusing his appearance had been brought on record?

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records of the case.

Question Nos. 1 and 3

8. As both these questions are intrinsically interlinked and interconnected, therefore, they are being taken up together for consideration. A perusal of the record reveals that the learned trial Court had rendered a finding of tenancy while deciding issue No. 1 in favour of the appellant. However, the said finding despite there being no challenge to the same was reversed by the learned lower appellate Court basing its decision on the judgment rendered by this Court in Krishan Chand Vs. Bihari Lal and others AIR 1999, H.P. 68. The decision in Krishan Chand case (supra) was rendered on 26.3.2007 after relying upon the judgment of Hon'ble Kerala High Court in V. Sidharthan Vs. Pattiori Ramadasan, AIR 1984 Ker 181. However, the law has now undergone a sea change in as much as not only the aforesaid judgment of the Kerala High Court has been overruled, but even conflict noticed in the Hon'ble two Judges Bench decision in Vannattankandy Ibrayi Vs. Kunhabdulla Hajee (2001) 1 SCC 564 and T. Lakshmipathi Vs. R. Nithyananda Reddy (2003) 5 SCC 150 has been resolved by the Hon'ble three Judges Bench decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shaha Ratansi Khimji and Sons Vs. Kumbhar Sons Hotel Private Limited and others, (2014) 14 SCC 1.

9. In Vannattankandy Ibrayi case (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court had formulated two questions for consideration:

> "(i) whether the tenancy in respect of the premises governed by the Kerala Buildings (Lease and Rent Control) Act (hereinafter referred to as 'the State Rent Act') is extinguished by destruction of the subject-matter of tenancy i.e. the premises by natural calamities, and
> (ii) on the destruction of property whether the civil court has jurisdiction to entertain and try the suit for recovery of possession of land brought by the landlord."

Both the questions were answered in affirmative.

10. Whereas in T. Lakshmipathi case (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the lease of a building includes the land on which the building stands. So even if the building is destroyed or demolished, the lease is not determined as long as the land beneath it continues to exist. It was further held that the doctrine of frustration cannot be invoked on destruction or demolition of a building under lease where not only privity of contract but privity of estate is also created.

11. The conflict in both these judgments was apparent and therefore, reference was made to the Bench of Hon'ble three Judges, which resolved the controversy and the view taken in T. Lakshmipathi case was affirmed and it was held:-

> "28. In the present case, it is not in dispute that the respondent purchased the lessor's interest. The lease continued even thereafter and did not extinguish. The lease was subsisting when the shares of the land were purchased by the respondent. But the interest of the lessee was not purchased by the > respondent. What has been purchased by the respondent is the right and interest of ownership of the property. The interest of the appellant as lessee has not been vested with the respondent. Therefore, we are of the view that the tenancy of the appellant cannot be said to have been determined consequent upon demolition and destruction of the tenanted premises."

Therefore, the findings rendered by the learned first appellate Court, whereby the tenancy of the appellant came to an end on the basis of destruction of the premises in question, is clearly erroneous and illegal and therefore, cannot be sustained, particularly in light of the law laid down by the Hon'ble three Judges Bench in Shaha Patansi Khimji and sons case (supra).

12. In ordinary circumstances, the judgment rendered by this Court in Krishan Chand case (supra) would be binding upon this Court as having been rendered by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court, but the same being in direct conflict with the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble three Judges Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shaha Patansi Khimji and sons case is not binding on this Court and therefore, need not be referred to a larger Bench.

13. For drawing such conclusion reliance can conveniently be placed upon a Division Bench judgment of this Court, authored by me, in Samriti Gupta and another Vs. State of H.P. and others, Latest H.L.J. 2016 (HP) 191, wherein it was held as follows:-

> "13. Before parting, we may clarify that the judgment in Arti Gupta case (supra) was rendered by the Hon'ble Full Bench of this Court and would normally in absence of any judgment to the contrary by the Hon'ble Supreme Court be binding on this Bench and in case of any difference of opinion would be required to be referred to a larger Bench. However, no such reference is necessary if the Hon'ble Supreme Court has given a decision in the matter because as soon as the Hon'ble Supreme Court gives its decision all decisions of the High Court on the point are overruled. (Reference in this regard is given to D.D.Basu Commentary on the Constitution of India, 8th Edition and to the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in D.C.M. vs. Shambhu, AIR 1978 SC 8.)
> 14. Even otherwise, Article 141 of the Constitution provides that the law declared by the Hon'ble Supreme Court shall be binding on all courts within the territory of India. Therefore, once the Hon'ble Supreme Court has decided the issue by passing a reasoned order, a fortiori, the ratio decidendi declared in the said decision would be binding on all the Courts in the Country for giving effect to it while deciding the lis of the same nature. All the Courts are under legal obligation to take note of the said decision and decide the lis in conformity with the law laid down therein."*

14. In light of the aforesaid observations, question Nos. 1 and 3 are answered in favour of the appellant and the appellant is held to be the tenant of the disputed premises.

Question No. 2.

15. It is vehemently argued by Mr. Anand Sharma, learned counsel for the appellant that once the appellant is held to be the lawful tenant, then it is more than settled that possession follows title and therefore, the lawful tenant could not have denied the prayer for injunction. In addition to the above, he further argued that neither the appellant nor respondent No. 1 had ever acknowledged or attorned to the possession of respondent No. 2, therefore, the same could not be ordered to be protected.

16. At the outset, it may be observed that the appellant did not enter in the witness box and it was only his son Gurmeet Singh who appeared and tendered in evidence his affidavit Ex. P-1 in support of his pleadings, wherein he reiterated the contents of the plaint. He also tendered in evidence letters, registered notice and receipt Ex. P-B to Ex. P-M. During his cross-examination by learned counsel for respondent No. 1, he admitted that the alleged disputed stall belongs to respondent No. 1 and the same was given on lease to the appellant in the year

1961. He also stated that till the stall was gutted in fire, his father remained in possession of the same. He denied that according the family arrangement his father i.e. the appellant had given the shop to respondent No. 2 for running his business. He feigned ignorance regarding his father having taken any permission from respondent No. 1, before handing over the possession to respondent No. 2. He further denied that the possession of the premises in dispute was given to respondent No. 2, but voluntarily stated that some time he used to open the shop and further stated that some time respondent No. 2 used to run business from the shop. Both the appellant and respondent No. 2 had one key each. He further stated that he had reported the matter to respondent No. 1 regarding the illegal possession taken by respondent No. 1, but respondent No. 2 had taken no steps to evict him.

17. In the course of cross-examination by respondent No. 2, the witness stated that Darshan Kaur was his mother. He admitted that appellant and respondent No. 2 had settled at Solan after migration from Pakistan. He feigned ignorance to the fact that respondent No. 2 was brought up by the appellant as respondent No. 2 was barely two years old at that time. He admitted that respondent No. 2 and appellant remained in one family and used to do business jointly. He admitted that the appellant had earlier been running the business from the disputed stall in the name and style of Sardar Electrical Works and at that time the General Sale Tax Licence and Central Sale Tax Licence (GST & CST) were in the name of Sardar Electrical Works. He admitted that there was a family settlement Ex. D-1 effected between the appellant and respondent No. 2. He further admitted the signatures of his father and respondent No. 2 over this document and further admitted that after family settlement Ex. D-1, the appellant had shifted his business to Lower Bazar, Solan and stated his business in the shop of Sanathan Dharam Sabha. He further admitted that the business in the disputed shop in terms of the family settlement was left to respondent No. 2. He further admitted that GST and CST numbers were changed in the name of appellant on the address of the shop at Sanathan Dharam Sabha, Lower Bazar Solan. He also admitted that the appellant never challenged the validity of family settlement in any Court, though denied that right from the year 1982, it was respondent No. 2, who was in possession of the disputed premises. He admitted that in the month of November, 1999, the shops were destroyed in fire, wherein the persons lost their stalls and shops and had lodged separate reports with the police, but admitted that the appellant had not lodged any such report.

18. PW-2, Akhil Kumar Photographer is running a shop at Lower Bazar and had proved the photographs Ex. PW-2/A and Ex. PW-2/B along with its negatives Ex. PW-2/C and Ex. PW-2/D and receipt Ex. Pw-2/E. During his cross-examination this witness admitted that his shop is in front of the shop of the appellant and stated that the appellant was dealing from this shop in electrical goods for the last 25 years.

19. PW-3, Balak Ram has proved that the electric meter was installed in the name of appellant and has further stated that he has working as a meter reader for Upper Bazar for the last 5-6 years, but he had not seen respondent No. 2 in the disputed premises.

20. PW-4, Rakesh Sharma, Clerk of Municipal Committee had proved receipt Ex. PW-4/A and site plan sanctioned by the Municipal Committee in the year 1961 Ex. PA. During his cross-examination, this witness admitted that the Committee does not inquire into the name and address of the person depositing the tax.

21. Respondent No. 2 in order to rebut the oral evidence tendered in evidence the affidavit of Asa Singh, Ex. D-1, who is the real brother of the appellant and affidavit of Satish Bhutani Ex. D-2 and his own affidavit Ex. D-3 in support of his pleadings.

22. Sardar Asa Singh, DW-1 has stated that he had seen respondent No. 2 in possession of the property since the year 1982. During his cross-examination, he stated that the family arrangement Ex. D-1 was prepared in the house of the appellant.

23. Satish Bhutani, DW-2 is running the business of Gift Emporium at Upper Bazar, Solan and has tendered his affidavit Ex. D-2 and also stated about the physical possession of respondent No. 2 over the disputed premises. During his cross-examination, this witness stated that respondent No. 2 had started his business at Solan in the year 1976 and prior to that the possession of the shop was with the appellant. He admitted that the dispute between the appellant and respondent No. 2 started when the original shop was destroyed in fire. He also admitted that both the parties had started to take the possession of the shop, but voluntarily stated that respondent No. 2 used to do business by placing table in front of the shop when the same was under construction.

24. Respondent No. 2 appeared as DW-3 and in his affidavit has re-iterated the contents of the written statement and also placed on record the payments made towards tax levied by respondent No. 1 i.e. sale tax etc. During his cross-examination he admitted that the disputed stall was not leased to him by respondent No. 1. He admitted that respondent No. 1 had constructed the stall after the same had been destroyed in fire. He feigned ignorance regarding the complaint having lodged by respondent No. 1 against him on 27.3.2000, regarding his forcible occupation of the disputed shop. During his cross-examination by learned counsel for the appellant, he admitted that he remained as member of joint family with the appellant till 1982 and admitted that the physical legal possession of the shop was not handed over to him by respondent No. 1. He further admitted that the police had not taken any action against him in view of the pendency of civil litigation.

25. DW-4, Vijay Verma had proved cheque number Ex. D-7 to Ex. D-18 issued by Sunny Electrical Works being run by respondent No. 2 in favour of respondent No. 1.

26. DW-5 Goverdhan Singh Senior Assistant, Excise and Taxation Department, Solan has proved the sale tax number Ex. D-21 of Sunny Electrical Works.

27. DW-7 Sunil Kumar, Clerk from the Taxation Department of Municipal Committee, Solan had tendered in evidence his affidavit Ex. DW-7/A, wherein he reiterated the contents of written statement filed by respondent No. 1. During his cross-examination by learned counsel for respondent No. 2, he has shown his ignorance to the fact whether the appellant was carrying on business from the disputed stall or not. During cross-examination by learned counsel for the appellant, he admitted Ex. P-1 to Ex. P-5.

28. This in entirety is the oral as well as documentary evidence led on the issue of possession by the parties to the lis.

29. Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently argued that once this Court held the appellant to be the tenant, then the possession of respondent No. 2 cannot be protected, as the same is unlawful, apart from the same having been obtained forcibly. Though the submission appears to be attractive, but the same in teeth of agreement Ex. D-1 merits rejection.

30. As already observed earlier, the general power of attorney of the appellant, Gurmeet Singh while appearing as PW-1 has not only categorically admitted the family agreement Ex. D-1, but he further stated that in terms of the agreement, the appellant had shifted to Lower Bazar, Solan and started his work in the shop of Snatan Dharam Sabha. He had also shifted the CST and GST numbers to the said premises. Not only this, he further admitted that it was respondent No. 2, who was carrying on business in the premises in dispute by the name of Sunny Electricals.

31. At this stage, it shall be apt to reproduce the verbatim contents of the agreement, which reads thus:-

> "THIS AGREEMENT made on this 10th day of September, 1982 BETWEEN Shri Thakur Singh son of Sardar Labh Singh, resident of Jawhar Park Solan Tehsil and District Solan (hereinafter called the first party) and Shri

As per agreement Ex. D-1, respondent No. 2 was barely 2 years of age when they settled at Solan.

33. Notably, it has come in the statement of PW-1 that agreement Ex. D-1 was never challenged or denied by the appellant. The payment of tax etc. as per the recital of Ex. D-1 coupled with the bank account, clearly establishes beyond doubt that from the year 1982, it was respondent No. 2, who was in possession of the disputed shop, pursuant to family settlement/agreement Ex. D-1. Once this document has not been denied, then the Court cannot ignore the recital as contained therein regarding the appellant having relinquished his authority and power over the stall for all intends and purposes from the date of agreement after handing over the possession of the premises along with accounts, equipment and articles lying inside the shop to respondent No. 2. Thus the appellant cannot be heard to say that respondent No. 2 was simply allowed to carry out the business in the said premises.

34. It is further not in dispute that it is respondent No. 2, who even after the fire had broken out was in occupation of the premises. The appellant cannot wriggle out of the agreement Ex. D-1 and the same principle upon which he seeks to establish the continuance of tenancy by placing reliance upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shaha Ratansi Khimji and Sons case (supra) is equally applicable to his case and the agreement Ex. D-1 would continue to bind the appellant. The question is accordingly answered against the appellant.

Question No. 4

35. It is vehemently argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that the learned trial Court could not have been drawn adverse inference and make it as one of the basis to dismiss the suit, as it is well settled legal proposition that the power of attorney can depose in place of the principal. In support of such submission reliance is placed upon the following observations from the judgment rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in S. Kesari Hanuman Goud Vs. Anjum Jehan and others (2013) 12 SCC 64:

> "23. It is settled legal proposition that the power-of-attorney holder cannot depose in place of the principal. The provisions of Order 3 Rule 1 and 2 CPC empower the holder of the power of attorney to "act" on behalf of the principal. The word "acts" employed therein is confined only to "acts" done by the power-of-attorney holder, in exercise of the power granted to him by virtue of the instrument. The term "acts", would not include deposing in place and instead of the principal. In other words, if the power-of-attorney holder has preferred any "acts" in pursuance of the power of attorney, he may depose for the principal in respect of such acts, but he cannot depose for the principal for acts done by the principal, and not by him. Similarly, he cannot depose for the principal in respect of a matter, as regards which, only the principal can have personal knowledge and in respect of which, the principal is entitled (sic liable) to be cross-examined. (See Vidhyadhar Vs. Manikrao (1999) 3 SCC 573, Janki Vashdeo Bhojwani Vs. Indusind Bank Ltd (2005) 2 SCC 217, Shankar Finance and Investments Vs. State of A.P. (2008) 8 SCC 536 and Man Kaur Vs. Hartar Singh Sangha (2010) 10 SCC 512.)"

36. There cannot be any quarrel with the aforesaid proposition of law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid case. But the moot question is as to whether PW-1 attorney of the appellant could have contradicted the terms of the agreement Ex.D-1 when the same was admittedly executed on 10th September, 1982, when the attorney Gurmeet Singh was hardly 14 years of age. This answer is itself contained in the aforesaid judgment, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has categorically held that the provisions of Order 3 Rule 1 and 2 C.P.C. empower the holder of the power of attorney to "act" on behalf of the principal, which is confined only to the acts done by the power of attorney holder, in exercise of the power granted to him by virtue of the instrument. The term acts, would not include deposing in place and instead of the principal. Meaning thereby, that the power of attorney holder can only depose on behalf of the principal in respect of such acts which have been done by him in pursuance of the power of attorney, but he cannot depose for the principal for acts done by the principal and not by him. Similarly, he cannot also depose for the principal in respect of the matter, as regards which, only the principal can have personal knowledge and in respect of which, the principal is entitled and liable to be cross-examined.

37. In such circumstances, no exception can be taken against the findings regarding adverse inference drawn by learned trial Court on account of non-examination of the appellant as his own witness.

38. Learned counsel for the appellant would further argue that it was on account of old age, infirmity and poor eye sight that necessitated the examination of the son of the appellant in place of the appellant.

39. Even this submission of the appeal cannot be accepted, as save and except for a bald statement of the power of attorney of PW-1, there is no material whatsoever placed on record to support such plea. That apart, the appellant could have conveniently moved an application for appointment of local commissioner for recording his statement. Having failed on all counts, I see no illegality committed by the learned trial Court, while drawing adverse inference against the appellant. The question of law is answered accordingly.

40. In view of the findings recorded herein above, the appeal is partly allowed and the appellant is held to be the tenant of the disputed premises. Whereas, on the remaining questions, the judgment and decree passed by the learned Courts below is affirmed.

Date of decision: 27.7.2016.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Liability has been fastened upon the appellant on the ground that he was not holding valid and effective driving licence- insured contended that he had engaged a counsel to defend his case before the Tribunal- Counsel absented himself and he was proceeded exparte- held, that once a person engages a counsel, his botheration goes and it is the duty of the counsel to take care of the case - no client can be made to suffer for the fault of the counsel- applicant has filed an application for leading additional evidence, which prima facie shows that appellant had valid and effective driving licence and the vehicle was being driven with proper documents – appeal allowed and case remanded to the Tribunal with the direction to decide the liability to pay the award. (Para-3 to 9)

Cases referred:

Rafiq& anr Vs. Munshi Lal & anr, (1981) 2 SCC 778

Secretary, Department of Horticulture, Chandigarh & anr Vs. Raghu Raj, (2008) 13 SCC 395

For the Appellant:	Mr.Vijay Chaudhary, Advocate.
For the Respondents:	Mr. Tara Singh Chauhan, Advocate for respondents 1 to 3.
	Mr.Jagdish Thakur, Advocate for respondent No.4.

Tarlok Singh Chauhan J (Oral):

The instant appeal under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act is directed against the award passed by learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, whereby the claim petition filed by the petitioners (hereinafter referred to as 'respondents 1 to 3') has been allowed and awarded a sum of Rs.8,83,000/- along with interest at the rate of 9% per annum.

2. The precise grievance of the appellant is that in terms of the aforesaid award, liability has been fastened upon him on the ground that he was not holding a valid and effective licence and that the vehicle, on the date of accident, i.e. 24.10.2011, was being driven without any valid documents. It has further been argued that the appellant had engaged a counsel to defend his case before the Tribunal and reply on his behalf was also filed. However, after the evidence of the claimants had been recorded, the case was listed on various dates for the evidence of the appellant, but counsel absented himself and even on 19.6.2014, counsel did not appear and consequently the appellant was proceeded ex parte and a colossal award of Rs.8,83,000/- alongwith 9% interest came to be fastened upon him.

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the material placed on record.

3. Taking into consideration the nature of the order I propose to pass, it is not at all necessary to delve into the facts of the case. Suffice it to say that it is more than settled that once a person engages a counsel, his botheration goes and it is the duty of the counsel to take care of the case.

4. Reference in this regard can conveniently be made to the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rafiq& anr Vs. Munshi Lal & anr, (1981) 2 SCC 778, wherein it was held as follows:

> "3. The disturbing feature of the case is that under our present adversary legal system where the parties generally appear through their advocates, the obligation of the parties is to select his advocate, brief him, pay the fees demanded by him and then trust the learned advocate to do the rest of the things. The party may be a villager or may belong to a rural area and may have no knowledge of the court's procedure. After engaging a lawyer, the party may remain supremely confident that the lawyer will look after his interest. At the time of the hearing of the appeal, the personal appearance of the party is not only not required but hardly useful. Therefore, the party having done everything in his power to effectively participate in the proceedings can rest assured that he has neither to go to the High Court to inquire as to what is happening in the High Court with regard to his appeal nor is he to act as a watchdog of the advocate that the latter appears in the matter when it is listed. It is no part of his job….."

5. At this stage, I may refer to another decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Secretary, Department of Horticulture, Chandigarh & anr Vs. Raghu Raj, (2008) 13 SCC 395, wherein it was observed as under:

> "24. At the same time, however, when a party engages an advocate who is expected to appear at he time of hearing but fails to so appear, normally, a party should not suffer on account of default or non-appearance of the advocate".

6. Applying the ratio of the aforesaid cases, it is absolutely clear that no client can be made to suffer for no fault of his, especially when he has engaged a counsel.

7. Apart from the above, it may be noticed that the appellant has moved an application under the provisions of order 41 Rule 27 CPC and along with the application, a number of documents have been filed to prima facie show that the appellant had a valid and effective driving licence and further the vehicle was being plied with proper documents.

8. However, without commenting upon the authenticity or veracity etc of the documents so annexed, I feel the interest of justice would be subserved in case the matter is sent back to the learned Tribunal with a direction to allow the appellant to place on record and prove the documents in accordance with law. Ordered accordingly.

9. However it is made clear that while taking into consideration these documents, only finding regarding liability to pay the award would be re-determined and all other issues including the quantum of compensation, already determined in favour of the claimants, would not be disturbed.

10. The parties, through their counsel are directed to appear before the Tribunal below on 16.8.2016.

11. Since the claim petition has been filed in the year 2012, the Tribunal below shall make all endeavours to decide the petition as expeditiously as possible and in no event later than 31st December, 2016.

The appeal is disposed of in the aforesaid terms leaving the parties to bear their cost.

(Para-20 to 30)

For the appellant : Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Add. A.G. with Mr. Vikram Thakur and Mr. Puneet Rajta, Dy. A.Gs.

For the respondents: Mr. N.S. Chandel, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 and 3.

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. :

By way of present appeal, the State has challenged the judgment passed by the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge (II), Kangra at Dharamshala in Sessions Case No. 20-N/VII/2006 dated 25.09.2008 vide which, learned trial Court has acquitted the accused for commission of offence under Sections 307, 333 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code.

2. During the pendency of the present appeal, accused No. 2 has died on 07.11.2012. As such, the appeal qua him stands abated.

3. The case of the prosecution was that on 10.10.2004, complainant Ravinder Singh reported that he was a driver in HRTC, Pathankot Depot and on the said day, he was driving bus bearing registration No. HP-38A-3721 on route from Shimla to Suliali alongwith conductor Bidhi Singh. When the said bus reached village Khajjan at around 9:20 p.m., there was a tractor parked on the road side and 2-3 persons were standing on the road. At that time, there were about five passengers in the bus. The complainant blew horn, however, the persons did not move from the road. Thereafter, he requested these persons to move away from the road, but in the meantime, Sanjeevan and Narinder, R/o Khajjan caught him from the collar of his uniform and dragged him to the road from the driver seat and started giving beatings to him. The buttons of his shirt were broken and the pockets were torn. Conductor Bidhi Singh came out from the bus to intervene and on hearing the noise, Shri Dev Raj, Roop Lal and Yogesh Kumar also came out but Narinder Pathania and Sanjeevan Pathania gave beatings to all of them and tractor driver Chaman Lal gave a blow on the head of Yogesh Kumar with an iron rod (Wheel Panna) and inflicted injuries on his head. As per the complainant, all the said three persons obstructed him in discharging his official duty by giving him beatings and tearing off his uniform. On the basis of the said complaint, FIR was lodged and medical examination of complainant as well as injured Yogesh Kumar was carried out. Yogesh Kumar was referred for skull X-ray and C.T. Scan to Dharamshala and thereafter to Shimla/Chandigarh and ultimately, he was referred to All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi and the doctor opined that the nature of injuries of the complainant were simple and of injured Yogesh Kumar were grievous and dangerous to life.

4. During the course of investigation, clothes of the complainant and injured Yogesh Kumar were taken into possession. On the basis of the disclosure statement of accused Chaman Lal, the weapon of offence, i.e. iron rod was also recovered. After completion of the investigation, challan was presented against the accused and as a prima facie case was found against the accused, they were charged for the commission of offence under Section 307 and 333 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial

5. In order to substantiate its case, the prosecution examined 15 witnesses.

6. On the basis of material produced on record by the prosecution, learned trial Court came to the conclusion that the prosecution had failed to prove that on 10.10.2004 all the accused in furtherance of their common intention had inflicted injuries to the injured with intention and knowledge that such injuries would have caused death of the injured and further that the accused voluntarily caused hurt to complainant Ravinder Singh and prevented and deterred him from discharging his official duty. Accordingly, learned trial Court acquitted the accused from the charges which were framed against them on the ground that the prosecution had failed to prove the same.

7. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment of acquittal, the State has filed the present appeal.

8. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgment passed by the learned trial Court.

9. In order to prove its case, the prosecution in all examined 15 witnesses, whereas one witness was examined by the defendant.

10. Injured Yogesh Kumar has entered the witness box as PW-1. He has stated that he was running a shop at Indora dealing with electric appliances and was a resident of Village Khajjan. On 10.10.2004, he was coming to his house in HRTC bus which was on route from Shimla to Suliali. When he was about to reach his destination, where there was a bus stop near his house, a tractor belonging to Narinder Pathania was parked on the road and Narinder Pathania was accompanied by Sanjeevan Pathania alongwith Chaman Lal and all of them were standing on the road with their tractor. The driver of the bus blew horn, but neither the persons moved from the road nor they removed the tractor. When the driver asked the said person from his seat to move around, they started having altercation with the driver of the bus and pulled him down from his seat. In the meanwhile, Conductor of the bus and he also got down and saw that accused were giving beatings to the driver of the bus. He further deposed that when he tried to save the driver, accused Narinder asked Chaman Lal to beat him and Chaman Lal hit him on his head with iron rod. He also stated that he identified all the accused as they were from his village. He further deposed that he became unconscious as a result of the injury and regained his consciousness after his surgery at Delhi.

11. Ravinder Singh, complainant has entered the witness box as PW-2 and has reiterated his version as was contained in FIR which was lodged by him. He deposed that when the accused who was standing in the middle of the road did not budge despite his repeated blowing of horn, he asked them from his seat to remove the tractor from the road, on which, the accused pounced on him and dragged him outside the Bus. He has also deposed that in the meanwhile Conductor, Yogesh and other persons came out and intervened to save him. But, accused brought an iron rod and hit Yogesh on his head with the said rod, who sustained injury and fell down. He also deposed that buttons of his shirt were broken and his pockets were torn. He has also stated that he was conversant with the accused since he used to drive the bus on the same route.

12. PW-3 Bidhi Singh has stated that on 10.10.2004, he was Conductor on the bus in issue and he has also supported the case of the prosecution and narrated the happening of the events.

13. PW-4 Rajesh Kumar, R/o Village Khajjan has deposed that on 10.10.2004, he heard some noise out side the road as some one called to save him, so he went to the spot at around 9:30 p.m. and saw that the accused were having altercation with the driver of HRTC bus and Yogesh Kumar who tried to intervene in the matter to save the driver was hit with iron rod (wheel panna) on his head. Yogesh Kumar fell down and the accused ran away from the spot. Yogesh Kumar became unconscious and he was brought to Nurpur hospital from where he was referred to Dharamshala and from Dharamshala he was shifted to All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi. In his cross-examination, he has stated that Yogesh was his real brother and his house was at a distance of 10/12 meters from where the bus stopped.

14. Rajni Kiran has entered the witness box as PW-5 and stated that she was associated by the police during the course of investigation and that on 26.10.2004, she was associated during investigation when accused Chaman made a disclosure statement to the effect that he had concealed the weapon of offence, i.e. iron rod under the bushes in Khajjan village. She is also witness to the recovery memo vide which wheel panna was recovered, i.e. Ex. PW6/B.

15. PW-6 Vijay Kumar, PW-7 Surjit Kumar, PW-8 Shyam Sunder, PW-9 Manoj Kumar, PW-10 Ranjit Singh, PW-12 Kamaljit and PW-15 Inspector Nathu Ram are formal witnesses.

16. PW-11 Dr. Suman Suxena has deposed that on 10.10.2004, she was posted as Medical Officer at CHC Nurpur and she had examined Ravinder Singh whom she found to be having restricted movement of left index finger joint. She advised X-ray of left hand finger and after X-ray, no evidence of fracture was found and nature of injury found to be simple with hard and blunt weapon. She further deposed that on the same day Yogesh was also brought, who was disoriented and not responding to the questions asked. There were two lacerated wounds in the scalp. There was suspected depressed fracture of left parital bone. X-ray report revealed that there was depressed fracture of left parital bone and the injury was found to be grievous with blunt and hard weapon and the injury in issue could be caused by wheel panna. In her cross-examination, she admitted it to be correct that injuries on the person of Ravinder Singh could be caused in a fall and injuries on the person of Yogesh could be caused if a person while running, strikes against a stationary vehicle having iron rods/pipes with the stairs on the rear side of the vehicle.

17. PW-13 Head Constable has deposed that file was handed over to him for investigation. Shirt of the complainant was taken into possession vide Ex. PW2/B. He also deposed that he recorded the supplementary statement of complainant Ravinder and he also recorded statement of PW-1 Sunil Kumar. He has also stated that he obtained copy of appointment letter and extract of duty register etc.

18. PW-14 Kishan Gopal has deposed that on 11.10.2004 file was handed over to him for investigation. On 20.10.2004, he moved an application to the doctor seeking opinion as to whether injury to the injured was dangerous to life. He has also stated that he arrested accused Chaman Lal and Sarjeevan. According to him, accused Chaman made a disclosure statement disclosing therein as to where he had thrown the wheel panna which was recorded in the presence of witnesses and which led to the recovery of weapon of offence. He also deposed that he recorded the statements of witnesses under Section 161 Cr. P.C.

19. The defence examined Vijay Kumar, Junior Engineer, IPH Sub Division, Nurpur as DW-1, who has deposed that on 10.10.2004, Narinder Singh, Pump Operator remained on duty at Pump House from 9 p.m. to 6.15 a.m. as per extract of log book Ex.-DW1/A.

20. We will first of all deal with the disclosure statement of Chaman Lal, which is on record as Ex. PW5/A. This disclosure statement is dated 26.10.2004. The statement is alleged to have been made before two witnesses, namely Rajni Kiran (PW-5) and Bashirdeen. It is mentioned in the disclosure statement which was given by the accused in the custody that he has hidden one iron panna below the road in village Khajjan, which he can get recovered after getting the place demarcated. PW-5 Rajni Kiran in her statement has deposed with regard to the said statement having been made in her presence by accused Chaman Lal. In her cross-examination, she has stated that on 26.10.2004, she went to the Police Station between 4-5 p.m. She has further deposed that when she had gone to the police, she was accompanied by one Narinder. She has also stated that on 26.10.2004, she signed both the memos at the same time. She further deposed that "I signed both the memos on 26.10.2004 after the recovery of iron rod/panna, Ex. P-2. On 26.10.2004, I went to the spot all alone with the police and Nandu @ Narinder did not accompany me and there were no other person except police." Incidentally, said Shri Narinder who allegedly accompanied Rajni Kiran to the Police Station is not a witness to the disclosure statement made by Chaman Lal. Recovery which has been effected on the basis of this disclosure statement has been made vide memo Ex. PW5/B. This recovery memo is signed by Rajni Kiran and Bashirdeen. However, as per the statement of Rajni Kiran, on 26.10.2004, she went to the spot alongwith with the police and she has categorically stated that neither Narinder accompanied her nor there was any other person except police. If that is correct, then recovery memo Ex. PW5/B becomes suspicious because as per said recovery memo, the recovery has been effected in the present of Rajni Kirin and Bashirdeen. Incidentally, Bashirdeen who was attesting witness both to the disclosure statement as well as recovery memo Ex. PW5/A and Ex. PW5/B has not been examined by the prosecution.

21. In our considered view, the discrepancies and contradictions in the statement of PW-5 vis-à-vis the recording of disclosure statement and recovery of weapon of offence on the basis of said disclosure statement cast grave and serious doubts about the disclosure statement having been made by accused Chaman in the mode and manner in which the prosecution wants us to believe and further with regard to the alleged recovery of the weapon of offence on the basis of the said disclosure statement.

22. Therefore, the deposition of PW-5 Rajni Kiran neither inspires confidence nor the same appears to be trustworthy so as to be made the basis of convicting the accused. Even otherwise, with regard to Section 27 of the Act, what is important is discovery of the material object at the disclosure of the accused but such disclosure alone would not automatically lead to the conclusion that the offence was also committed by the accused. The burden lies on the prosecution to establish a close link between discovery of the material object and its use in the commission of the offence. What is admissible under Section 27 of the Act is the information leading to discovery and not any opinion formed on it by the prosecution.

23. At this stage, it is relevant to refer to the statements made by the accused under Section 313 Cr. P.C., wherein they have denied the allegations levelled upon them and in their defence have stated that they were going on the extreme left side of the road when the driver of the bus suddenly brought the bus on the extreme left side of the road and they had to jump to save their lives and when they asked the driver why he had suddenly brought the bus on extreme left side of the road without giving any signal, the driver started altercation without any cause and in the meantime Yogesh Kumar also came out hurriedly and in the process, he was struck with rods of the bus, as a result of which he sustained injuries.

24. In the backdrop of what has been observed above, now we will make a close scrutiny of the statements of prosecution witnesses. In the present case, driver of HRTC bus Ravinder Singh is the complainant and injured person is Yogesh Kumar. It is an admitted fact that the alleged incident has taken place just 7-8 meters away from the house of Yogesh Kumar. In his cross-examination, Yogesh Kumar (PW-1) has initially stated that PW-2 Ravinder Singh, driver of the bus was not related to him and thereafter he has admitted the suggestion that PW-2 Ravinder Singh was married to his cousin sister Reeta. Incidentally, it is apparent from the case of the prosecution that at the time when the alleged incident took place, there were about 5 passengers in the bus. However, no independent witness has been examined by the prosecution in the present case who was also travelling in the bus at the relevant time. In his cross-examination, Yogesh has admitted that Roop Lal and Dev Raj are his cousins and that the houses of these persons are also adjacent to his house in the village. He also admitted that the sound of stoppage of the bus was heard in the houses of these persons adjacent to the bus stoppage. He has also admitted that the house of Pancham Dutt Sharma is also adjacent to the road. Thus, it is apparent from his deposition that the place where the alleged incident took place is not a secluded place. Despite this, the prosecution has not associated any independent person from the nearby area. Besides the statements of driver, conductor and Yoresh Kumar, the prosecution has examined one Rajesh Kumar, who happens to be the real brother of injured Yogesh Kumar. In fact, a perusal of the records demonstrates that PWs. Dev Raj, Roop Lal, Kiran Kumari and Suman Kumari were given up as unnecessary. This witness has also admitted it to be correct in his cross-examination that there are shops on both sides of the road where bus was stopped.

25. Now, we will refer to the statement of the complainant (PW-2). This witness has deposed that when the bus driven by him reached near village Khajjan at about 8:20 p.m., there was a tractor parked in the middle of the road and three boys were standing by the side of the said tractor. He has further deposed that the bus reached near village Khajjan at around 8:20 p.m., however, a perusal of the contents of the FIR demonstrates that in the said FIR he has stated that the bus reached village Khajjan at 9:20 p.m. Another important contradiction in what is recorded in the FIR and what he has deposed in the Court is that in FIR it is mentioned that two three persons had parked the tractor on the side of the road and were standing in the middle of the road. When despite his blowing horn, the said persons did not vacate the road, he asked them to do so and on this, they got agitated and caught hold of him from his collar and dragged him down from the bus and started beating him. However, the version which he has given in the Court is totally different. In the Court, he has stated that the said persons had parked the tractor in the middle of the road and when he asked them to remove the same from the middle of the road, this agitated the accused and they pounced upon him and dragged him outside the bus. In his cross-examination, PW-2 has disclosed that Roop Lal, Dev Raj and Yogesh Kumar reached the spot from the house of his in-laws when the occurrence took place, alongwith Rajesh Kumar, who was his real brother-in-law. Incidentally, a perusal of the FIR demonstrates that it is not mentioned therein by the complainant that Yoresh Kumar was traveling in the bus as a passenger. On the contrary, what is recorded therein is that when the accused allegedly started beating him, conductor of the bus got down in order to save him and in the meanwhile, on account of noise, Dev Raj, Roop Lal and Yogesh also came there.

26. In our considered view, this major contradiction and discrepancy in the case of the prosecution as to how Yogesh Kumar had actually reached the spot also shrouds the case of the prosecution with great suspicion. This is more so because of the reason that complainant Ravinder Singh and Yogesh Kumar are admittedly related to each other. Not only this, the alleged incident has taken place just 7-8 meters away from the house of Yogesh Kumar as well as in a very close vicinity of the house of the in-laws of the complainant. This is evident from the fact that PW-2 himself has disclosed that he was saved by one Rajesh Kumar who came to the spot after having heard the noise and who happened to be his real brother-in-law. From the above said facts, the factum of Rajesh Kumar travelling in the said bus in his capacity as a passenger and the bus having been stopped on the whistle of the conductor by the driver at the spot where the incident took place does not seem to be cogent and plausible.

27. At this stage, it is also relevant to refer to the deposition of Dr. Suman Suxena (PA-11), who has admitted in her cross-examination that injuries observed on the person of complainant Ravinder Singh could be caused as a result of fall and the injuries which were suffered by Yogesh could have been caused if a person while running strikes against a stationary vehicle having iron rods/pipes with the staircase on the rear side of the said vehicle.

28. It is settled position of law that howsoever strong suspicion is, it cannot become a substitute for proof. In the present case, it is evident that prosecution witnesses, i.e. PW-1 Yogesh Kumar, PW-2 Ravinder Singh and PW-4 Rajesh Kumar are close relatives. Whereas Yogesh Kumar and Rajesh Kumar are real brothers PW-2 Ravinder Singh is their brother in law. Even otherwise, the testimonies of PW-1 Yogesh Kumar and PW-2 Ravinder Singh are not trustworthy because there are too many contradictions, discrepancies and inconsistencies in them which have remained unexplained. Not only this, the defence has been able to impinge their credibility during the course of cross-examination. Similarly, PW-3 Bidhi Singh is also an interested witness because he happens to be a conductor of the bus, of which PW-2 is the driver. The story as put forth by the prosecution that Yogesh Kumar (PW-1) was a co-passenger in the bus does not seems to be probable. In the FIR it has not been so recorded that Yogesh Kumar was a co-passenger in the bus. On the other hand, what is recorded therein is that when the alleged scuffle took place between accused and PW-2, then on hearing noise three persons came out from the house of in-laws of PW-2 and one of them happened to be Yogesh Kumar. Not only this, the testimony of PW-5 Rajni Kiran also does not inspires any confidence as has already been discussed above. No other independent witness has been examined by the prosecution. According to the prosecution, there were five passengers in the bus when the incident took place, however, none of them who could be termed to be independent witness has been examined. Further, it has not come on record as to who were the other passengers who were travelling in the bus at the relevant time. No other independent witness belonging to the adjoining area where the incident took place has been examined by the prosecution, though it has come on record that there were houses and shops at the place where incident has taken place. Therefore, in these circumstances, it cannot be said that on the basis of material on record, the prosecution has been able to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the accused are guilty of offence which have been levelled against them.

29. Further, a perusal of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court reveals that all these aspects of the matter have been minutely gone into by the learned trial Court and thereafter on the basis of the appreciation of material on record, learned trial Court has come to the conclusion that the prosecution has not been able to establish its case against the accused. We do not find any perversity or infirmity with the findings so recorded by the learned trial Court. In our considered view also, on the basis of the material produced on record by the prosecution, it has not been able to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the accused were guilty of the offence alleged against them.

30. Therefore, in our considered view, the learned trial Court has rightly concluded that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its against the accused and has rightly acquitted the accused of the offence alleged against them. We uphold the judgment passed by the learned trial Court and dismiss the present appeal being without any merit.

(Para-4 to 22)

Cases referred:

Dharampal Satyapal Limited vs. Deputy Commissioner of Central Excise, Gauhati & others, (2015) 8 SCC 519

For the petitioner	:	Mr. Mohan Sharma, Advocate, for the petitioner.
For the respondent	:	Mr. R. S. Verma and Mr. Ram Murti Bisht, Addl. Advocate Generals for the State. Mr. Bipin C. Negi, Sr. Advocate, with Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate, for respondents No. 6 and 7.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J. (Oral)

Sh. Vivek Chauhan, Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Karsog and Sh. Santu Lal, Tehsildar (Retd.) are present in Court.

2. In this petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, petitioner invokes the equitable writ jurisdiction of this court in seeking quashing of order dated 20.9.2014 (Annexure P-17) passed by Sub-Divisional Magistrate-cum-Deputy Registrar of Societies, Karsog, Distt. Mandi, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as the S.D.M.) as affirmed by the Addl. Registrar Cooperative Societies-cum-Deputy Commissioner, Mandi vide order dated 10.2.2015 (Annexure

P-19) and Registrar of Societies, Himachal Pradesh in terms of order dated 26.5.2015 (Annexure P-20).

3. Challenge being primarily on the ground that the orders came to be passed contrary to the material on record and in violation of principles of natural justice.

4. It is a matter of record that a Society under the name of Bhardwaj Shikshan Sansthan (hereinafter referred to as the Society) came to be registered under the provisions of the Societies Registration Act, 1860, which Act came to be repealed by virtue of Section 58 of the Himachal Pradesh Societies Registration Act, 2006 (hereinafter referred to as the Act). Leela Dhar (Chairman of the petitioner Society) and Dharam Pal & Mitter Dev (private respondents No. 6 and 7 respectively) were primarily responsible for establishing the Society for the purpose of setting up of an educational institution in Tehsil Karsog, Distt. Mandi, H.P. Inter se dispute between them resulted into the matter being brought to the notice of the statutory authorities.

5. Based thereupon, the S.D.M. instituted an inquiry and the Tehsildar in terms of his report dated 9.06.2014 (Annexure P-14), inter alia, found Leela Dhar to have forged and fabricated the record of the Society, i.e. resolutions No. 2 and 6 dated 24.11.2013 and 8.12.2013 purportedly passed in the general house of the Society. Leela Dhar as Chairman of the Society was associated all throughout and afforded opportunity to put forward his case.

6. Based on the said inquiry report, the S.D.M. issued a show cause notice dated 27.6.2014 (Annexure P-15). Undisputedly notice pertained to the fabrication of record of resolutions No. 2 and 6. In response thereto, Leela Dhar in his capacity as Chairman of the Society explained the position, clarifying that the members of the Society had participated in the proceedings of the general house where after only, the resolutions in question came to be passed. The correctness and authenticity of such resolutions came to be pleaded by him.

7. Independently students of the educational institute, opened by the Society also lodged a complaint against Leela Dhar for having collected fee and issued fake receipts. The money was never accounted for in the records of the Society. The said complaint came to be independently inquired and both the Tehsildar and the Inspector Co-operative Society, Karsog, found it to be factually correct.

8. As such, during the pendency of the proceedings arising out of show cause notice dated 27.6.2014, the S.D.M. brought such fact to the notice of Leela Dhar. His statement dated 7.7.2014 so made before the Tehsildar, admitting receipt of the amount from the students which was to be accounted for, was brought to his notice. Significantly he also wrote to the Tehsildar that a sum of Rs.6,09,870/- stood received by him from the students as fee.

9. Based on the response filed by Leela Dhar and his admissions, the S.D.M. in terms of composite order dated 20.9.2014 (Annexure P-17), in exercise of his power under Section 41 of the Act ordered: (a) Removal of Leela Dhar from the governing body of the Society; (b) directed him to deposit an amount of Rs.4,95,701/- into the account of the Society; (c) appointed an Administrator to manage the affairs of the Society; and (d) directed convening of a meeting of the general house of the Society for conducting elections of the new governing body, in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

10. The said order, as already observed, came to be affirmed by the appellate/revisional authority(s).

11. Insofar as the question of violation of principles of natural justice is concerned, Sh. Bipin C. Negi, learned Senior Counsel, rightly invites attention of this Court to the principles of law laid down by the apex Court in Dharampal Satyapal Limited vs. Deputy Commissioner of Central Excise, Gauhati & others, (2015) 8 SCC 519, wherein the Court after considering its earlier decisions observed as under:

> "38 But that is not the end of the matter. While the law on the principle of audi alteram partem has progressed in the manner mentioned above, at the same time, the Courts have also repeatedly remarked that the principles of natural justice are very flexible principles. They cannot be applied in any straightjacket formula. It all depends upon the kind of functions performed and to the extent to which a person is likely to be affected. For this reason, certain exceptions to the aforesaid principles have been invoked under certain circumstances. For example, the Courts have held that it would be sufficient to allow a person to make a representation and oral hearing may not be necessary in all cases, though in some matters, depending upon the nature of the case, not only full-fledged oral hearing but even cross-examination of witnesses is treated as necessary concomitant of the principles of natural justice. Likewise, in service matters relating to major punishment by way of disciplinary action, the requirement is very strict and full-fledged opportunity is envisaged under the statutory rules as well. On the other hand, in those cases where there is an admission of charge, even when no such formal inquiry is held, the punishment based on such admission is upheld. It is for this reason, in certain circumstances, even post-decisional hearing is held to be permissible. Further, the Courts have held that under certain circumstances principles of natural justice may even be excluded by reason of diverse factors like time, place, the apprehended danger and so on.

39. We are not concerned with these aspects in the present case as the issue relates to giving of notice before taking action. While emphasizing that the principles of natural justice cannot be applied in straight-jacket formula, the aforesaid instances are given. We have highlighted the jurisprudential basis of adhering to the principles of natural justice which are grounded on the doctrine of procedural fairness, accuracy of outcome leading to general social goals, etc. Nevertheless, there may be situations wherein for some reason – perhaps because the evidence against the individual is thought to be utterly compelling – it is felt that a fair hearing 'would make no difference' meaning that a hearing would not change the ultimate conclusion reached by the decision-maker – then no legal duty to supply a hearing arises. Such an approach was endorsed by Lord Wilberforce in Malloch v. Aberdeen Corporation, (1971) 1 WLR 1578, who said that:

> "… a 'breach of procedure ... cannot give (rise to) a remedy in the courts, unless behind it there is something of substance which has been lost by the failure. The court does not act in vain".

Relying on these comments, Brandon L.J. opined in Cinnamond v. British Airports Authority, (1980) 1 WLR 582 that:

> "…no one can complain of not being given an opportunity to make representations if such an opportunity would have availed him nothing."

In such situations, fair procedures appear to serve no purpose since 'right' result can be secured without according such treatment to the individual."

"46 To recapitulate the events, the appellant was accorded certain benefits under the Notification dated July 08, 1999. This Notification stands nullified by Section 154 of the Act of 2003, which has been given retrospective effect. The legal consequence of the aforesaid statutory provision is that the amount with which the appellant was benefitted under the aforesaid Notification becomes refundable. Even after the notice is issued, the appellant cannot take any plea to retain the said amount on any ground whatsoever as it is bound by the dicta in R.C. Tobacco (P) Ltd. v. Union of India, (2005) 7 SCC 725.

> Likewise, even the officer who passed the order has no choice but to follow the dicta in R.C. Tobacco . It is important to note that as far as quantification of the amount is concerned, it is not disputed at all. In such a situation, issuance of notice would be an empty formality and we are of the firm opinion that the case stands covered by 'useless formality theory'." [Emphasis supplied]

12. Now in the instant case, it cannot be disputed that show cause notice was confined to the fabrication of records of the meetings of the general house of the Society. But it is also a matter of record, as is evident from the proceedings conducted by the S.D.M., so made available in Court, as also petitioner's communication dated 20.2.2013 (Annexure P-18), that he was totally aware of the allegations against him as also the nature and the extent of the proceedings which were under inquiry by the concerned officer. Both were going on simultaneously in which petitioner was heard and afforded opportunity to put forward his case. Serious allegations of embezzlement of amount, that being, fee received from the students came to be made against Leela Dhar in his capacity as officiating Chairman of the Society. He himself was associated by the Tehsildar during the course of inquiry. Yes, it is true that no independent show cause notice came to be issued with respect thereto, but then he was fully aware of all that was happening in the proceedings pending before the S.D.M. He knew the issues and the very nature and the extent of the inquiry, which at one stage was clubbed and dealt with as such. He himself had subjected to the same.

13. It is not in dispute that the S.D.M. was otherwise authorized in law, more so, under Section 39 of the Act, to inquire into the allegations made against Leela Dhar who was officiating as the Chairman of the Society. It is in exercise of such power, as envisaged in law, that the S.D.M. passed the order of supersession of the governing body.

14. Record reveals that there were serious allegations and counter allegations made both against and by Leela Dhar and the private respondents. It is in this backdrop that the S.D.M. passed the order, superseding the governing body for ensuring that the democratic process and will of the members, as is the spirit of the Act, prevails in the management of the affairs of the Society.

15. Leela Dhar was fully aware of all that was happening in the proceedings pending against him. As such, in view of the ratio of law laid down by the apex Court in Dharampal Satyapal (supra), it would not be open for Leela Dhar to make out a grievance of violation of the principles of natural justice. Absence of another show cause notice in the aforesaid factual backdrop would also not vitiate the impugned order dated 20.9.2014 (Annexure P-17). No prejudice can be said to have been caused to the petitioner. The doctrine enunciated in Malloch and Cinnamond (supra) is clearly invokable and applicable in the instant case.

16. Can it be said that the impugned order is perverse and grossly disproportionate to the alleged act and conduct of Leela Dhar or the private respondents? Most certainly not. Serious allegation of embezzlement and misappropriation of fee and public money came to be made against Leela Dhar and as such in its wisdom, the concerned officer rightly passed an order superseding the governing body, more so, in the light of admitted facts.

17. It is contended by Leela Dhar that the amount in question can be reimbursed only when he receives the rent from the Society as his personal premises are being used to run the educational institute. This cannot be a ground for withholding the amount admittedly received by the petitioner. It is fee from the students. However it is always open for Leela Dhar to take appropriate action in accordance with law for such an issue cannot be adjudicated in the present proceedings.

18. As to whether the members participated in the meeting of the general house or not cannot be a subject matter of review in the present petition, for findings of fact cannot be said to be perverse or erroneous. Allegedly members of the Society have made mutually contradictory statements of having participated in the proceedings of the general house. All this stands minutely examined by the authorities below, warranting no interference on the factual matrix.

19. This Court would not reappreciate the evidence to disturb the finding of fact returned by the authorities below. What is the scope of judicial review of an order passed by a quasi judicial authority is now well settled and how the order is illegal or perverse in the instant case, could not be pointed out.

20. Learned counsel representing the S.D.M. states that free and fair elections would positively be held within a period of one month.

21. In view of the aforesaid discussions, present petition, devoid of any merit, is dismissed. Interim orders stand vacated.

22. No other point urged.

Pending applications, if any, also stand disposed of accordingly.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 39 Rule 2-A- Petitioner instituted a suit against the defendant seeking permanent prohibitory injunction and in the alternative mandatory injunction- the Court directed the respondent to remove iron stair with immediate effect- respondent filed an undertaking in the Court that he had removed the iron stair case and would not cause any hindrance on the disputed path till the disposal of the suit- however, defendant continued with the construction- Local Commissioner was appointed who submitted the report- Court directed the parties to maintain status quo but the defendant erected iron stair case and blocked the path of the petitioner in violation of the order of the Court- respondent denied the allegations- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed and the order was set aside- held, that appeal was allowed only on the ground that suit was dismissed but thereafter the suit had been decreed in the first appeal- therefore, case remanded to the Appellate Court to decide the same afresh in accordance with the law. (Para-5 to 6)

For the petitioner: Mr. K.D. Sood, Sr. Advocate, with Ms. Ranjana Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Bhupinder Gupta, Sr. Advocate, with Mr. Neeraj Gupta and Mr. Janesh Gupta, Advocates.

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition is maintained by the petitioner-plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as 'the petitioner') against the order of learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P. passed in CMA No. 15-G/2005/2004, dated 30.11.2006, whereby the order of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No. 2, Dehra, District Kangra, H.P., passed in application under Order 39, Rule 2-A CPC, with respect to removal of iron stairs by the respondent, was set aside.

2. Briefly stating the facts giving rise to the present petition are that the petitioner instituted a suit against the defendant (hereinafter referred to as 'the respondent') seeking permanent prohibitory injunction, wherein it was averred that defendant has raised construction by encroaching upon a common passage used for ingress and egress. The petitioner had also sought alternative relief of mandatory injunction, in case the defendant succeeds in raising the construction. The suit was filed alongwith application under Section 39, Rule 2-A CPC for interim stay order, wherein the learned Trial Court, vide order dated 30.09.2004, directed the respondents to remove the iron stairs with immediate effect and file an undertaking in the Court within 24 hours to the effect that he has removed the said iron stairs and further that he would not cause any hindrance on the disputed path till the disposal of the main suit. Despite the orders of the learned Trial Court, the defendant continued with the construction. The Local Commissioner also visited the spot and submitted the report. On the assurance of the parties, the learned Trial Court, vide order dated 30.12.1999, directed the parties to maintain status quo qua nature of the suit land and path. However, the defendant in the month of November, 2002, erected the iron stairs, blocking the path of the petitioner and also in utter disregard to the order of the learned Trial Court.

3. The respondent, by filing reply to the application, admitted that status quo order had been passed by the learned Trial Court. It is also averred that report of Shri V.S. Gill, Advocate, was improper. The defendant was not present in the village during third week of November, 2002, and his family members by supplanting old bamboo stairs, which got damaged, tethered iron stairs. The defendant has further averred that the stairs were not supplanted over the path (deodi) and the existence of deodi was to be decided in the civil suit. The defendant prayed for dismissal of the application.

4. Anchoring upon the pleadings of the parties, the learned Trial Court, vide order dated 01.07.2004, framed the following points for determination:

> "1. Whether the respondent has disobeyed the order dated 30.12.1999, passed by this Court in CMA No. 32/99/98, titled as Jagdish Ram vs. Ved Parkash?
> 2. Final order."

5. The learned Trial Court directed the respondent to remove the iron stair case immediately and to file an undertaking in the Court within 24 hours to the effect that he has removed the said iron stairs. Thereafter, the learned First Appellate Court allowed the appeal and set-aside the order of the learned Trial Court. The learned senior counsel for the petitioner has argued that the learned First Appellate Court has committed illegality in allowing the appeal, as the proceedings under Order 39, Rule 2-A CPC are separate proceedings and has nothing to do with the Civil Suit. He has further argued that now the suit has been decreed and in view of this, the findings arrived at by the learned First Appellate Court, presuming that the suit is dismissed, are required to be reconsidered. On the other hand, the learned senior counsel for the respondent has argued that the present petition is not maintainable under Article 227 of the Constitution of India as the remedy is to file a revision petition and he has further argued that the findings given by the learned First Appellate Court are as per law. In rebuttal, the learned senior counsel for the petitioner has argued that the present petition is maintainable under Article 227 of the Constitution of India and to fortify his arguments he has relied upon order dated 12.05.2016, passed by Hon'ble Single Judge of this Court in CMP(M) No. 1656 of 2015 in RSA No. 110 of 2007, titled as Kaushalya Devi vs. Kaushalya Devi and others, and argued that the proceedings under Order 39, Rule 2-A CPC are independent proceedings. This Hon'ble court in the case cited above has held as under:

> "13. It is more than settled that proceedings under Order 39 rule 2A are separate and distinct and in case the same have commenced > during the pendency of the suit or appeal, then the subsequent dismissal of the suit/appeal does not render the interim orders passed earlier as nonest or without jurisdiction. For that purpose, it has to be seen whether the order of injunction at the time when it was in force has been violated and disobeyed, because the person sought to be punished for disobedience or violation of interim orders is sought to be punished for such the time it was in operation or else in case such person goes unpunished only because either the order is subsequently vacated or main suit or appeal itself is dismissed, this would be subversive of rule of law and would seriously erode the dignity and the authority of the Courts."

6. I have gone through the record in detail. It is clear that now in an appeal against the dismissal of the suit of the plaintiff, the First Appellate Court has decreed the suit. As now the situation has changed and also in view of the judgment of the Hon'ble Court, as discussed hereinabove, the petitioner under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has approached this Court in exercise of the supervisory powers, which is an extraordinary remedy and this court has the powers to exercise the jurisdiction to meet the ends of justice. Further it has been argued that as the learned First Appellate Court has set-aside the order of the learned Trial Court on the ground that the suit was dismissed and thereafter the suit was decreed, the only course now open to this Court is to remand the case back to the learned First Appellate Court to decide the same in accordance with law, in view of the changed circumstances. Accordingly, the present petition is allowed and the proceedings are ordered to be remanded back to the learned First Appellate Court to decide the same afresh in accordance with law. The parties to appear in the learned First Appellate Court on 22nd August, 2016.

7. In view of the above, the petition stands disposed of, as also the pending application(s), if any.

8. The Registry is directed to send the records of the learned Courts below forthwith so as to reach the learned Court well before the date fixed.

For the appellant:	Mr. Ashwani Pathak, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Sandeep K. Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondent:	Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General, with Mr. Anup Rattan, Additional Advocate General, and Mr. J.K. Verma & Mr. Kush Sharma, Deputy Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

This appeal is directed against the judgment, dated 15th May, 2015, made by the Writ Court in CWP No. 3396 of 2014, titled as Mohan Lal versus Divisional Forest Officer, Chamba, whereby the writ petition filed by the appellant-writ petitioner came to be dismissed (for short "the impugned judgment").

2. The subject matter of the writ petition was award, dated 13th November, 2013, made by the Labour Court, Dharamshala, while answering Reference No. 207/2012.

3. The Labour Court has examined the facts as well as law applicable and dismissed the reference. The Writ Court has also held that the Labour Court has marshalled out and thrashed the facts in its right perspective and no interference is required.

4. We have gone through the impugned judgment, is legal one, needs no interference for the following reasons:

5. It is well settled principle of law that the Writ Court cannot sit as an Appellate Court and set aside the award made by the Labour Court, which is based on evidence and facts.

6. The Apex Court in case titled as Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi versus M/s. Hindalco Industries Ltd., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 3157, held that the findings of fact recorded by Tribunal as a result of the appreciation of evidence cannot be questioned in writ proceedings and the Writ Court cannot act as an Appellate Court. It is profitable to reproduce para 18 of the judgment herein:

> "18. A careful reading of the judgments reveals that the High Court can interfere with an Order of the Tribunal only on the procedural level and in cases, where the decision of the lower courts has been arrived at in gross violation of the legal principles. The High Court shall interfere with factual aspect placed before the Labour Courts only when it is convinced that the Labour Court has made patent mistakes in admitting evidence illegally or have made grave errors in law in coming to the conclusion on facts. The High Court granting contrary relief under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution amounts to exceeding its jurisdiction conferred upon it. Therefore, we accordingly answer the point No. 1 in favour of the appellant."

7. The same principle has been laid down by this Court in a batch of writ petitions, CWP No. 4622 of 2013, titled as M/s Himachal Futuristic Communications Ltd. versus State of HP and another, being the lead case, decided on 04.08.2014. It is worthwhile to reproduce para 13 of the judgment herein:

> "13. Applying the test to the instant case, the question of fact determined by the Tribunal cannot be made subject matter of the writ petition and more so, when the writ petitioner(s) have failed to prove the defence raised, in answer to the references before the Tribunal. "

8. This Court in a series of cases, being CWP No. 4622 of 2013 (supra); LPA No. 485 of 2012, titled as Arpana Kumari versus State of H.P. and others, decided on 11th August, 2014; LPA No. 23 of 2006, titled as Ajmer Singh versus State of H.P. and others, decided on 21st August, 2014; LPA No. 125 of 2014, titled as M/s. Delux Enterprises versus H.P. State Electricity Board Ltd. & others, decided on 21st October, 2014; and LPA No.143 of 2015, titled Gurcharan Singh (deceased) through his LRs vs. State of H.P. and others, decided on 15th December, 2015, while relying upon the latest decision of the Apex Court in Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi's case (supra), has held that question of fact cannot be interfered with by the Writ Court. However, such findings can be questioned if it is shown that the Tribunal/Court has erroneously refused to admit admissible and material evidence or has erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which has influenced the impugned findings.

9. Having said so, no case for interference is made out. However, we deem it proper to make an observation in the interest of the appellant-writ petitioner that in case the Government has to make new appointments at any time relating to the post concerned, the appellant-writ petitioner be given preference.

10. With these observations, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is disposed of alongwith all pending applications.

For the petitioner(s): Mr. Ajay Vaidya Advocate..
For the respondents: Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Additional Advocate General, for respondent-State.

Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate, vice Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Advocate, for respondent-HPSEB Ltd.

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. :

All these writ petitions involve common questions of law, accordingly they are being disposed of by a common judgment.

2. Issue involved in these petitions is whether the petitioner-industries are entitled to power concessions as are envisaged in Clause 9.1 of Industrial Policy, 2004 notified by the Department of Industries vide notification dated 30th December, 2004.

3. M/s. SPS Steel Rolling Mills Ltd., petitioner-company in CWP No. 7396 of 2014 has set up its Unit at Goalthai in District Bilaspur for manufacturing and trading of MS Billets & TMT bars and other steel products. The connected load of the said Unit is 21996.660 KW. Said industry commenced commercial production w.e.f. 30.11.2007.

4. M/s. Suraj Fabrics Industries Ltd., petitioner-company in CWP No. 7407 of 2014 has set up its Unit at Goalthai in District Bilaspur for manufacturing and trading of MS Billets & TMT bars and other steel products. The connected load of the said Unit is 14931.118 KW. Said industry has commenced commercial production w.e.f. 12.04.2006.

5. M/s. Aditya Industries, petitioner-company in CWP No. 1242 of 2016 has set up its Unit at Village Rampur Jattan, Kala Amb for manufacturing steel and other steel products (wrongly mentioned in the writ petition as a company having its Unit at Golthai). The connected load of the said Unit is 3500 KW (Annexure P-3). The said industry has commenced commercial production w.e.f. 07.09.2005.

6. In this regard, the petitioner-companies in CWP No. 7396 of 2014 and CWP No. 7407 of 2014 had earlier also filed writ petitions which were disposed of by this Court by holding the said petitions to be premature (as the petitioner's request for rebate of electricity duty for the period commencing from 2006-2007 to 2010-2011 made vide communication dated 24.11.2011 was still pending with the respondent-authorities) with a direction to the authorities to take decision considering the Industrial Policy, 2004. The competent authority vide order dated 19.07.2014 has rejected the claim of the said petitioner-companies inter alia on the ground that the petitioners were not entitled to exemption/rebate of electricity duty as they were in the Negative List. Another ground on which the competent authority rejected the claim of the petitioner-companies was that in the absence of a notification issued by the Department of MPP & Power under the relevant statute/law, the provisions of the Rules cannot be made effective ipso facto. Said order passed by the competent authority is under challenge in CWP No. 7396 of 2014 and CWP No. 7407 of 2014.

7. As far as CWP No. 1242 of 2014 is concerned, the petitioner has approached this Court praying for similar relief as has been prayed in the abovementioned two writ petitions without there being an adjudication on his rights by the competent authority. However, keeping in view the fact that the legal issue involved in this petition is also same and similar as involved in the other two petitions, therefore, this case has also been heard alongwith the abovementioned two petitions. All the parties to the said three petitions have stated that replies and rejoinders filed in CWP No. 7396 of 2014 be also treated as replies and rejoinders of the respective parties in other petitions wherein replies and rejoinders have not been filed.

8. Department of Industries, Government of Himachal Pradesh notified a policy vide Notification dated 30th December, 2004, i.e. "Industrial Policy Rules Regarding Grant of Incentives, Concessions and Facilities to Industrial Units in H.P. 2004 and H.P. –Industrial Renewal and Revival Scheme, 2004." This policy was introduced by the Government of Himachal

Pradesh in recognition of the importance of an emphatic Industrial Policy statement as an extremely effective instrument to boost the confidence of investors and catalyze industrial expansion in the State of Himachal Pradesh. The policy was intended to lucidly express the State Government's vision and approach towards industrial sector. The policy statement intended to focus on specific micro factors affecting the overall investment climate in the State, such as technology upgradation, quality improvement and productivity, so that Industrial Units set up in the State can effectively compete and keep pace with global standards. According to the Government, the policy statement was a reflection of its commitment to overall economic development of the State by continuously responding to the dynamic economic forces and carving out a niche in the national economy by responding to changing times and needs. The objective and aims of the policy as contemplated in Clase-2 were as under:

"2. OBJECTIVE AND AIMS OF THE POLICY:

2.1 This policy intends to:

- Serve as a guideline for achieving the objective of uniform growth of industry and service sector throughout the State.
- Disperse Industries and service sector activities.
- Cull together ingredients of a Industrial Policy so as to facilitate generation of employment opportunities for local resource owners and stakeholders.
- Clearly State Government's commitment and approach to the development of key infrastructural sector like Power, Housing, Social Infrastructure Development, Human Resource Development and Vocational Education so as to create a congenial investment climate for existing industry to grow as well as attract further investments in the State.
- Clearly spell out industrial incentives of fiscal nature.
- Specifically address the issues impeding industrial growth such as procedures for setting up industry, obtaining permissions required under various Labour Laws, addressing issues related Transportation of industrial produce so as to lay the foundation of strong and consistent growth of industrial sector."

9. The Rules Regarding Grant of Incentives, Concessions and Facilities to Industrial Units in Himachal Pradesh, 2004 (hereafter referred to as '2004 Rules') were to come into force w.e.f. 31.12.2004, which was the 'appointed day'.

10. Rule 9 of the same deals with Power Concessions. This rule provided as under:

"9. POWER CONCESSIONS:

Power:

Power will be made available to industrial units only as long as they satisfy the eligibility criterion as laid down under Rule 4 of these Rules, specifically Rule 4.1(c) and are also approved and registered with the Department of Industries as also fulfill the other eligibility conditions laid down for availing incentives under these Rules.

9.1 All New industrial units including EOUS/Specified Category of Activities/Thrust Industries/ setting up of state of the art computerized auction houses and quality certifying agencies etc., but excluding those units listed in Annexure-III with a connected load not exceeding 100KW, shall be charged a concessional rate of Electricity Duty at the rate of 10 paisa per unit for a period of 5 years from the date of commencement of commercial production in category B and C areas only. This concession would be effective from the date of notification by the Department of MPP & Power.

9.2 The existing unit(s) already availing this incentive under the previously applicable incentive Rules (1999 incentive rules) shall continue to avail those incentives, only for the unexpired period of its/their eligibility.

9.3 No electricity duty will be charged from any New Industrial unit or Existing Industrial Unit, on the power generated from their captive power generation sets from the appointed day.

9.4 Out of turn preference and top priority would be given to sanction power connections to 100%Export Oriented Units, Export oriented units, Information Technology projects, Bio Technology projects, and projects involving Foreign Direct Investments.

9.5 Industrial Units (except those listed in the negative list-Annexure-III), which involve continuous process, and are registered as export oriented units and food processing industry will be exempted from power load cuts depending upon the system constraints."

11. As per petitioner-Industrial Units, they are eligible for power concessions as are contemplated in Clause 9.1. Their grievance is that their rights which are crystallized under Clause 9.1 of the Industrial Policy and Rules framed thereunder are not being honoured by the Government. In other words, the incentives to which the said industrial units are entitled to under Clause 9.1 of the Rules (supra) are being denied to them arbitrarily by the respondent-State.

12. According to Mr. Ajay Vaidya, learned counsel for the petitioners, Rule 9.1 envisages that all new industrial units excluding those units listed in Annexure-III with a connected load not exceeding 100 KW shall be charged a concessional rate of electricity duty at the rate of 10 paisa per unit for a period of five years from the date of commencement of commercial production in category B and C area only. His argument is that the Units which have been excluded under Clause 9.1 are those Units which are listed in Annexure-III and have a connected load not exceeding 100 KW. According to Mr. Vaidya though the petitioner-Units (including the petitioner-unit in CWP No. 1242 of 2016, i.e. M/s. Aditya Industries) are units listed in Annexure-III appended with the Rules, which specifies the units mentioned in negative list, but because their connected load capacity is more than 100 KW, therefore, these units are entitled to Concessional Rate of Electricity Duty as contemplated in Clause 9.1.

13. On the other hand, Mr. V.S. Chauhan, learned Additional Advocate General has argued that interpretation being given to the said Rule by Mr. Vaidya is totally misplaced. As per Mr. Chauhan, what Rule 9.1 contemplates is that all new industrial units with a connected load not exceeding 100 KW, but excluding those units listed in Annexure-III shall be charged concessional rate on electricity duty at the rate of 10 paisa per unit for a period of five years from the date of commencement of commercial production in category B and C areas only. Therefore, according to him, the contention of the petitioners is totally misplaced and there is no merit in the writ petitions.

14. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the pleadings on record.

15. Rule 9.1 of 2004 Rules reads as under:

9.1 All New industrial units including EOUS/Specified Category of Activities/Thrust Industries/ setting up of state of the art computerized auction houses and quality certifying agencies etc., but excluding those units listed in Annexure-III with a connected load not exceeding 100KW, shall be charged a concessional rate of Electricity Duty at the rate of 10 paisa per unit for a period of 5 years from the date of commencement of commercial production in category B and C areas only. This concession would be effective from the date of notification by the Department of MPP & Power."

16. Annexure-III appended with the said Rules contains the names of those industrial units which are reflected as Units in the Negative List as per Government of India, Ministry of Industry and Commerce O.M. dated 07.01.2004 and as defined by the Government of India from time to time. It is not disputed that the petitioner-Industrial Units are in the Negative List.

17. In my considered view, a harmonious reading of the Industrial Policy, 2004 of the Government of Himachal Pradesh and the Rules framed thereunder envisage that power concessions are to be granted to all new industrial units including EOUS/Specified Category of Activities/Thrust Industries/setting up of State of the art computerized auction houses and quality certifying agencies etc. with a connected load not exceeding 100 KW and shall be charged a concessional rate of electricity duty as provided in Rule 9.1 for a period of 5 years from the date of commencement of commercial production in categories B and C. However, units listed in Annexure-III are excluded from the conferment of the said power concessions.

18. In other words, what Rule 9.1 envisages is that those units which are listed in Annexure-III and are having connected load capacity not exceeding 100 KW are not entitled for concessional rate of electricity duty as is provided in Rule 9.1.

19. This Rule does not contemplate that a new industrial unit which finds mention in Annexure-III (negative list) but has a connected load capacity of more than 100 KW is also entitled for Concessional Rate of electricity duty as contemplated in the said Rules. Such an interpretation, if given to Rule 9.1 will frustrate the very purpose for which the said Rule has been framed. Obviously, the purpose of leaving out the negative list of units from being conferred a concessional rate of electricity duty is to dissuade entrepreneurs from setting up units mentioned in the negative list.

20. Even otherwise, the interpretation being given to Rule 9.1 by Mr. Vaidya does not seem to be prudent. According to him, Rule 9.1 bars only those Industrial Units which though find mention in Annexure-III, but are having a load capacity of less than 100 KW. Therefore, Mr. Vaidya contends that as the petitioner-Units have the load capacity exceeding 100 KW, the rider contained in Rule 9.1 does not apply to them.

21. In my considered view, this interpretation being given by Mr. Vaidya to Rule 9.1 is totally incorrect. A perusal of Rule 9.1 clearly demonstrates that the said power concession even otherwise is confined to new industrial units with a connected load not exceeding 100 KW, meaning thereby, that even those industrial units which are not listed in Annexure –III, but are having connected load exceeding 100 KW are not entitled to power concessions contemplated in Rule 9.1. Admittedly, all the industrial units subject matter of the present writ petitions are with connected load in excess of 100 KW. In this view of the matter also, de hors the fact as to whether petitioner-Industrial Units are listed in Annexure-III or not, they are not entitled to power concession as contemplated in Rule 9.1 of 2004 Policy. Even otherwise, keeping in view the importance and object of the Policy in issue, it seems to be totally irrational that the Policy will contemplate that an Industrial Unit which finds mention in the Negative List but has a connected load exceeding 100 KW will be eligible for the benefit of Power Concession, whereas a similar Unit having connected load not exceeding 100 KW will not be eligible.

22. The Competent Authority vide its order dated 19.07.2014 in CWP No. 7396 of 2014 and CWP No. 7407 of 2014 has also held that it is admitted case of the petitioner therein that its Industrial Unit is included in the negative list of industries, which effectually means that the unit is not entitled to the power incentives, otherwise specified in Para 9.1 of the incentive Rules, 2004. The said authority has held that when Incentive Rules, 2004 clearly deny the specified incentive of concessional rate electricity duty to industries listed in negative list (Annexure-III) appended to these Rules, the documents being relied upon by the petitioners to advance their case are liable to be rejected.

23. In my considered view, there is merit in the findings returned by the competent authority. During the course of arguments, Mr. Vaidya has relied upon certificate issued by Member Secretary, SWCA, Goalthai dated 14.09.2010 (Annexure P-2) (in CWP No. 7396 of 2014 and CWP No. 7407 of 2014) to advance his case. I am afraid that the reliance placed upon the said certificate is totally misplaced. This certificate refers to concessional rate of CST @ 1% on the goods manufactured as contemplated in Rule 10.3 of Industrial Policy, 2004, which deals with sales tax concessions. Present case pertains to power concessions. This Court is not adjudicating on this aspect of the matter as to whether the petitioners have been rightly conferred the benefits as is contemplated in Rule 10.3 of 2004 Rules nor it is upholding the benefits, if any, given to the petitioners under Rule 10.3 of 2004 Rules because that is not the subject matter of the dispute here. In the present case, this Court is concerned with the interpretation of Rule 9.1 and in my considered view, the said Rule in unambiguous terms restricts the power concessions only to all new industrial units with a connected load not exceeding 100 KW excluding those units which are listed in Annexure A-III appended with the said Rules.

24. Therefore, the only inference which can be drawn is that as per Rule 9.1 of the 2004 Policy:

(a) All New Industrial Units with a connected load not exceeding 100 KW which fulfill the criteria provided in the said Rule are entitled for power concession.

(b) Only exception to this is those Industrial Units which find mention in Annexure-III appended with the said Rules, though their connected load also does not exceed 100 KW.

(c) It is evident that Rule 9.1 does not confer the benefit of power concession to new Industrial Units whether or not the same are listed in Annexure-III appended with the said Rules, if their connected load capacity exceeds 100 KW.

25. In view of what has been held above, it cannot be said that the petitioner-Industrial Units are entitled to power concessions as envisaged in Rule 9.1 of the 2004 Policy. The contention of learned counsel for the petitioners to this effect is rejected.

26. Keeping in view the fact that this Court has not found merit in the contentions raised by learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner-Units were entitled for power concessions as are contemplated in Rule 9.1 of the 2004 Rules, therefore, the second point adjudicated by the competent authority with regard to interpretation of Rule 4.1(e) of 2004 Rules is left open.

27. Accordingly, in view of what has been discussed above, there is no merit in the writ petitions and the same are dismissed. No order as to costs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present writ petition is maintained by the petitioner under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India laying challenge to the order dated 09.03.2011, passed by learned Divisional Commissioner Mandi, while exercising the powers under Section 54 of Himachal Pradesh Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act, 1971 (for short "the Act") in Case No. 715 of 2009, with prayer to quash the order and restore the order passed by the Additional Director Consolidation under Section 30(4) of the Act.

2. Precisely, the facts of the case, as projected by the petitioner, are that consolidation of land started in Hamirpur District of H.P. and during the proceedings scheme was prepared for re-partition. During the preparation of the scheme, every right holder was given right to reserve particular portion of the land upon which the Act would not be applicable and possession thereof would remain with the right holder. In the consolidation, as aforesaid, whole land of the village was consolidated and distributed according to value of the land. However, some land of each right holder was deducted for common purposes in the village. When the above incorporation was taking place in the Scheme, the petitioner and predecessor-in-interest (Shri Kanshi Ram) of the respondents mutually agreed that Khasra No. 307/276/197 and Khasra No. 264/169 would remain with the right holders possessing the same before consolidation. The mutual agreement inter se the parties, i.e., petitioner and the predecessor-in-interest of the respondents, was effected vide Resolution No. 24, dated 24.03.1989 and the same was incorporated by the consolidation authorities and the possession of the respective parties was kept intact. Later on, the predecessor-in-interest of the respondents was stirred up by his family members and other persons and resultantly he filed objections before the Consolidation Authorities alleging therein that Resolution/compromise is not acceptable to him and the same be cancelled. Consequently, Resolutation No. 24 was repudiated and the land was re-distributed and Objections were registered as Case No. 1143/93 and the same were accepted on 07.10.1993.

3. Feeling disgruntled, the petitioner herein preferred an appeal under Section 30(3) before the Settlement Officer. However, the same was dismissed without giving reasons, vide order dated 21.12.1999 in Case No. 117/94. As per the petitioner, objections were not maintainable before the Consolidation Officer and decision by Consolidation Officer on the Objections is also without jurisdiction. The petitioner preferred appeal assailing the order of Settlement Officer before the Joint Director (Consolidation) under Section 30(4) of the Act. The appeal was accepted on 28.04.2007 and the decision of the Consolidation Officer, Hamirpur, in Case No. 1143 of 1993, dated 07.10.1993 was set aside and amendment was made in both the decisions. Subsequently, Smt. Sanehroo Devi and others preferred a Revision Petition under Section 54 before the learned Divisional Commissioner, exercising the power under Section 54 of the Act, the same was accepted without reasons and speaking order. As per the petitioner, he is laying challenge to the order of learned Divisional Commissioner, dated 09.03.2011, succinctly on the grounds that the same is illegal, without any reasons and the same is non-speaking, Objections were not maintainable before the Consolidation Officer and the order of Divisional Commissioner, Mandi Division, Mandi, H.P., exercising the power under Section 54 of H.P. Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act, 1971, deserves to be set aside.

4. Reply to the writ petition was filed by respondents No. 1 and 2, wherein it is averred that the petition not maintainable as the order passed by the learned Divisional Commissioner was speaking order and as per law.

5. Heard. The learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the order passed by the Divisional Commissioner, Mandi Division, Mandi, H.P., exercising the power under Section 54 of H.P. Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act, 1971, was not sustainable as the Resolution No. 24, dated 24.03.1989, was passed with the consent of the parties and it cannot be challenged. Further, it has been argued that the order passed by the Divisional Commissioner is not a speaking order and the same is liable to be set aside. To support his arguments, the learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon judgments rendered in Bhagat Raja vs. Union of India and others, AIR 1967 Supreme Court 1606 and Commissioner of Central Excise, Customs, Rajkot vs. Amul Industries Private Limited, (2010) 15 SCC 101.

6. Conversely, the learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the order passed by the Divisional Commissioner, Mandi Division, Mandi, H.P., exercising the power under Section 54 of H.P. Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act, 1971, is reasoned and after appreciating the facts in their true perspective and the present petition is devoid of merit and needs dismissal.

7. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondents No. 3 to 10 has argued that the Resolution No. 24 was passed without free consent, making the predecessor of respondents No. 3 to 16 to believe something which was not, in fact, there. Therefore, Resolution cannot be said to be passed with consent of the parties. He has further argued that the order passed by the learned Divisional Commission is reasoned order.

8. To appreciate the arguments of the learned counsel for the parties, I have gone through the record in detail. From the record, at the first instance, it seems that Resolution No. 24 was passed with the consent of the parties, but on minute checking of the record, it seems that Shri Kanshi Ram, predecessor-in-interest of the respondents No. 3 to 16 had agreed to give his 7-3 kanals of land to the petitioners in lieu of 2-18 kanals of land. The value of two lands was nearly the same. On appreciation of arguments of learned counsel for respondents No. 3 to 10, I have reasons to conclude that as the predecessor-in-interest of the respondents was at that time 87 years of age and immediately after Resolution No. 24, he objected to the same, it cannot be said that the Resolution No. 24 was passed with the consent of the parties, when it was objected to immediately.

9. Now coming to the arguments of the learned counsel for the petitioner that the order passed by the Divisional Commissioner is without reasons. I have considered the law as cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner. In Bhagat Raja vs. Union of India and others, AIR 1967 Supreme Court 1606, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "9. Let us now examine the question as to whether it was incumbent on the Central Government to give any reasons for its decision on review. It was argued that the very exercise of judicial or quasi judicial powers in the case of a tribunal entailed upon it an obligation to give reasons for arriving at a decision for or against a party. The decisions of tribunals in India are subject to the supervisory powers of the High Courts under Article 227 of the Constitution and of appellate powers of this Court under Article 136. It goes without saying that both the High Court and this Court are placed under a great disadvantage if no reasons are given and the revision is dismissed curtly by the use of the single word "rejected". Or "dismissed". In such a case, this Court can probably only exercise its appellate jurisdiction satisfactorily by examining the entire records of the case and after giving a hearing come to its conclusion on the merits of the appeal. This will certainly be a very unsatisfactory method of dealing with the appeal. Ordinarily, in a case like this, if the State Government gives sufficient reasons for accepting the application of one party and rejecting that of the others, as it must, and the Central Government adopts the reasoning of the State Government, this Court may proceed to examine whether the reasons given are sufficient for the purpose of upholding the decision. But, when the reasons given in the order of the State Government are scrappy or nebulous and the Central Government makes no attempt to clarify the same, this Court, in appeal may have to examine the case de novo without anybody being the wiser for the review by the Central Government. If the State Government gives a number of reasons some of which are good and some are not, and the Central Government merely endorses the order or the State Government without specifying those reasons which according to it are sufficient to uphold the order of the State Government, this Court, in appeal, may find it difficult to ascertain which are the grounds which weighed with the Central Government in upholding the order of the State Government. In such circumstances, what is known as a "speaking order" is called for.

In the present case, the order passed is not a single word order, but the order contains the reasons in para 22, though not written in detail, but in summarized manner. The learned Divisional Commissioner has concluded that pursuant to Resolution No. 24, dated 24.03.1989, exchange was neither made corresponding with standard area nor simple area. So, this exchange was found to be unreasonable by the Court below by giving reasons and in this way the judgment cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner is not applicable to the facts of the case in hand.

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Courtin Rajkot vs. Amul Industries Private Limited, (2010) 15 SCC 101, has held as under:

> "3. We have gone through the judgment of the High Court very carefully and on consideration thereof, we are fully satisfied that the same is devoid of any reason. There is no discussion on the issues involved. A bare perusal of the said order would indicate that there is no discussion at all on the issues involved and the entire appeal was disposed of only by recording the following:
> "The counsel for the appellant has failed to show us that for eligibility to avail credit of duty, it is necessary that the assessee > should have its own plant and machinery. In absence of that, we see no merit in this appeal.

> The appeal stands dismissed at admission stage.""

But in the present case, the learned Divisional Commissioner has given the findings that pursuant to Resolution No. 24, dated 24.03.1989, exchange was neither made corresponding with standard area nor simple area. So, this exchange was found to be unreasonable by the Court below by giving reasons. Therefore, the judgment, as above, cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner is not applicable to the facts of the present case.

11. In a nut shell, as a result of the above discussion, the order passed by the learned Divisional Commissioner, Mandi Division, Mandi, H.P., exercising the power under Section 54 of H.P. Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act, 1971, is as per law and no interference is required, as the Resolution No. 24 was objected to by Shri Kanshi Ram, predecessor-in-interest of respondent, and as it seems to be unreasonable as the 7-3 kanals of land of nearly same value was consented to be exchanged for 2-18 kanals land of the petitioner of same value, so as the exchange was neither made which corresponds to standard area or simple area, no interference with the order passed under Section 54 of the Act is allowed. The petition, being devoid of merits, deserves dismissal and is accordingly dismissed. However, the parties are left to bear their own costs.

12. In view of the above, the petition, as also pending application(s), if any, shall stand(s) disposed of.

For the respondent: Mr. R.S.Thakur, Additional Advocate General.

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant revision petition stands directed against the concurrently recorded findings of conviction and consequent sentence imposed upon the accused/convict/revisionist by both the Courts below.

2. The prosecution story, in brief, is that complainant Lal Dass lodged statement with the Investigating Officer on 31.3.2007 that on that date he and Sanjay Kumar were sitting on a stone at Jugnu Mor Brow then a truck No. HR-37-A-6567 came from Brow side proceeding towards Bazir Bawri being driven in a fast speed by the driver who could not control such truck and drove it on them. It was alleged that due to his rash and negligent driving they sustained injuries on their person. The Investigating Officer conducted the investigation by preparing site plan and also seized documents of the vehicle. On completion of investigation into the offences allegedly committed by the accused a report under Section 173 Cr.P.C. stood prepared and filed in the competent Court.

3. Notice of accusation stood put to the accused/revisionist by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 and 338 IPC to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 7 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure stood recorded wherein he pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. In defence he did not chose to lead evidence.

5. The accused stands aggrieved by the concurrently recorded judgments of conviction and sentence recorded by both the Courts below. Ms. Rita Goswami, learned counsel for the revisionist has concerted to vigorously contend before this Court qua the findings of conviction, recorded by the learned trial Court, standing not anvilled on a proper appreciation by it of evidence on record, rather theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, she contends qua the findings of conviction being reversed by this Court, in the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

6. On the other hand, the learned Additional Advocate General appearing for the State has with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the both the Courts below being based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating any interference rather meriting vindication.

7. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

8. The accused/convict while at the relevant site of occurrence driving his vehicle bearing No. HR-37-A-6567, his purported negligent manner of driving it sequelled its striking besides plying upon the legs of the victims. PW-4, who held the medical examination of the victims Sanjay Kumar and Lal Dass, prepared qua them MLCs, which respectively stand borne on Ext.PW-4/A and Ext.PW-4/B. He voices therein of the injuries depicted therein standing begotten on the relevant portions of the bodies of the victims/injured within less than six hours elapsing since his holding their medical examination. Consequently, the injuries manifested in the aforesaid MLCs stand connected with the timings of the relevant enunciations occurring in F.I.R Ext.7/C besides with MLCs aforesaid holding congruity vis-à-vis unfoldments occurring in Ext.PW-7/C hence with omnibus concurrence therein erupting qua the facets aforesaid beget an inference of the manifestations in Ext.PW-7/C holding tenacity qua the ascription therein of an incriminatory role to the accused.

9. Be that as it may, with Ext.PW-4/A and Ext.PW-4/B holding congruity with the manifestations occurring in the apposite F.I.R. lodged qua the occurrence also with the eye witnesses thereto unequivocally testifying qua the vehicle driven by the accused/convict standing negligently driven by him negligence whereof stands imputed by them to the accused given his driving the apposite vehicle at a brazen pace, may hence constrain this Court to sustain the concurrently recorded findings of conviction against the accused/convict by both the Courts below. However, for the depositions of the eye witnesses to the occurrence being construable to be creditworthy they stand enjoined to be read in a wholesome manner rather than in a piecemeal besides fragmentary manner. Only on the testimonies of the respective eye witnesses to the occurrences embodied both in their respective examinations in chief and in their cross-examinations standing piercingly read would constitute their reading besides their appraisal being done in the apt wholesome manner whereupon hence the truth qua the occurrence would stand unraveled. Contrarily any piecemeal reading of their depositions would not unfold the truth qua the occurrence. Even though each of the eye witnesses to the occurrence in their respective depositions embodied in their respective examinations in chief besides in their cross-examinations attribute negligence to the accused/convict sprouting from his driving his vehicle at the relevant site of occurrence at a brazen pace yet the pronouncement made respectively by them in their respective testifications of theirs occupying a stone located on the side of the road pronouncement whereof by them stands succored by photographs Ext.P-2 and Ext. P-3 also with PW-1 in his cross-examination unveiling therein of on either side of the road there existing a drain in vicinity of the Kacha Gola at the relevant site does sustain the defence of the accused of the victims falling thereinto whereupon injuries stood entailed upon their respective person(s) also with PW-4 in his cross-examination acquiescing to the suggestion put to him by the learned defence counsel of the victims falling thereinto whereafter theirs standing struck with the vehicle driven by the accused/convict moreso, when PW-4 in his cross-examination acquiesces to the suggestion in tandem therewith put to him by the learned defence counsel besides with PW-5 in his cross-examination conceding to the suggestion put to him by the learned defence counsel qua the stone whereon they stood perched holding facilitation to them to sight the vehicle driven by the accused/convict, all are material pieces of evidence warranting their probative value standing neither undermined nor standing discounted by this Court. Given the aforesaid acquiesces made in the testifications of the aforesaid eye witnesses to the ill-fated occurrence renders the trite attribution by each of negligence to the accused comprised in his driving his vehicle at the relevant time of occurrence at a brazen pace, negligent manner of driving whereof led its standing navigated thereat besides its standing maneuvered to the relevant site of occurrence, to be legally insufficient, to, constrain any inference of his thereupon abandoning adherence to the standards of due care and caution. Only on evident evidence in display of his abandoning adherence to the tenets of due care and caution while plying his vehicle at the relevant time would penal culpable negligence stand fastened qua him. Consequently, even if assumingly this Court holds of a accused/convict taking to drive his vehicle at the relevant site of occurrence at an excessive pace yet the aforesaid conclusion would not lead to a concomitant deduction of his driving it rashly and negligently. For determining whether the accused/convict drove his vehicle at the relevant site of occurrence in negation of the enjoined obligation upon him to drive it thereat in compliance with the standards of due care and caution, the vivid pronouncement occurring in the cross-examination of PW-1 of a drain existing in vicinity to the Kacha Gola located at the relevant site of occurrence, also the admission in the cross-examination of PW-5 wherein he acquiesces qua the visibility of the vehicle driven by the accused/convict from the stone whereon they stood perched cannot be undermined. With the injured/victims uncontrovertedly being perched on a stone also with the factum of its existence within the expanse of the road as stands depicted by photographs Ext.P-2 and P-3 also with a drain existing in vicinity to the relevant site of occurrence, read in coalescence with the pronouncements made by PW-5 in his cross-examination, of, the victims despite standing perched on the stone existing within the expanse of the road whereupon they held the capacity to sight the vehicle driven by the accused stems a deduction of theirs standing warranted, for, obviating the vehicle driven by the accused striking them especially when the stone whereon they stood perched stood located within the expanse of the road whereat alone vehicles were enjoined to ply, to alight therefrom on theirs sighting the vehicle driven by the accused. Apparently, it appears of the victims despite sighting the vehicle driven by the accused/convict theirs continuing to occupy the stone rather than alighting therefrom, though for obviating the truck driven by the accused colliding with their person(s) they were enjoined to alight therefrom. Consequently theirs misfeasance fosters an inference from this Court of theirs not adhering to the standards of due care and caution. Moreover when given theirs not alighting therefrom despite sighting the vehicle driven by the accused/convict they appear to palpably from their overt misfeasance suo moto rendered themselves susceptible to theirs standing struck by the vehicle driven by the convict, whereas in the event of theirs not committing any palpable misfeasance, would have preempted the relevant vehicle striking their person(s). Contrarily negligence as stands ascribed by the eye witness to the accused/convict qua the ill fated occurrence stands mis-imputed to him. Prominently also with the acquiescence of PW-1 in his cross-examination of a drain occurring in close vicinity to relevant site of occurrence whereon the defence espouses of theirs falling thereinto whereafter their person stood accidently struck by the truck driven by the accused/convict whereupon they sustained injuries also attains succor from the deposition of the Medical Officer who deposed as PW-4. As a corollary, imminently when convincing evidence stands not adduced by the prosecution of the convict/accused while navigating his vehicle at the relevant site of occurrence his sighting the victims to fall into the drain fosters an inference of the accused accidently striking the victims/injured at the drain whereinto they accidently slipped into. In aftermath, the convict/accused cannot be construed to willfully depart from adhereing to the standards of due care and caution in his accidently striking the apposite vehicle with the person of the victims/injured.

10. Accentuated vigour to the aforesaid inference stands mobilized by the factum of the site plan comprised in Ext.PW-7/A not depicting therein the existence of a stone within the expanse of the road whereas photographs comprised in Ext.P-2 & Ext.P-3 connote its existence thereon. Non depiction by the Investigating Officer in site plan Ext.PW-7/A of existence of a stone within the expanse of the road appears to stand germinated by his holding a slanted besides a partisan investigation qua the offences constituted in F.I.R. Ext.PW-7/C also it palpably stands sprouted by his concerting to blunt the truth qua the cause of sustaining of injuries by the victims/injured. The concurrently recorded findings of conviction and sentence against the accused by both the Courts below stand founded upon theirs committing a gross illegality besides impropriety arising from theirs mis-appreciating the relevant evidence also on theirs omitting to appreciate the relevant and germane material.

11. The summum bonum of the above discussion is that the prosecution has not been able to adduce cogent and emphatic evidence in proving the guilt of the accused. The appreciation of the evidence as done by the learned Courts below suffers from an infirmity as well as perversity. Consequently, reinforcingly, it can be formidably concluded, that, the findings of the learned trial Court merit interference.

12. In view of above discussion, the appeal is allowed and the impugned judgments of conviction and sentence rendered by both the Courts below are set aside. The revisionist/accused is acquitted of the offences charged. The fine amount, if any, deposited by the accused is ordered to be refunded to him. Bail bonds furnished by the accused are discharged. Records be sent forthwith.

(Para-5 to 10)

For the appellant : Mr. P.M. Negi Deputy Advocate General.
For the respondent : Mr. O.P. Negi, Advocate vice Mr. Vivek Darhel, Advocate.

Vivek Singh Thakur, J.

Present appeal has been preferred by the State against acquittal of respondent vide judgment dated 19.09.2009 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Kinnaur, Sessions Division at Rampur Bushahr at Rampur in Sessions Trial No. 27 of 2008 in case FIR No. 56 of 2007, registered at Police Station, Bhabanagar, District Kinnaur, H.P. under Sections 363 and 376 of Indian penal Code.

2. Respondent was charge sheeted under Sections 363 and 376 of Indian Penal Code for enticing and taking away PW-8 prosecutrix on 24.08.2007 from lawful guardianship of her father from Tapri and committing rape with prosecutrix at different places during 24.08.2007 to 27.08.2007.

3. As per prosecution story, PW-8 prosecutrix was found missing since morning of 24.08.2007 and could not be traced anywhere by her parents. It is claimed that co-worker of accused-respondent had informed parents of prosecutrix that accused-respondent had taken her away. It is also claimed by PW-1 Rami Devi mother of prosecutrix that she was telephonically informed by prosecutrix that accused-respondent had enticed her away with promise to marry but it was revealed that respondent was already married and having two children and she was in the house of accused-respondent. Parents of prosecutrix had visited native village of respondent in District Kullu but accused-respondent and prosecutrix were not found there. Thereupon, father of prosecutrix (now deceased) had lodged report Ex.PW-1/B bearing No. 27 dated 28.08.2007 at Police Station Banjar District Kullu Ex.PW-1/B suspecting that respondent has kidnapped his minor daughter PW-8 prosecutrix with false assurance to solemnize marriage with her. Prosecutrix was recovered from house of accused-respondent and was brought to Bhabanagar and FIR Ex.PW-1/A was registered at Police Station, Bhabanagar at 5.40 PM on 29.08.2007.

4. After completion of investigation challan was put up in the Court. Accused-respondent was charge sheeted under Sections 363 and 376 of Indian Penal Code.

5. PW-8 prosecutrix is victim of offence committed by accused-respondent against her. Therefore statement of PW-8 prosecutrix is primary evidence against accused-respondent. However perusal of statement of PW-8 prosecutrix shatters whole prosecution story. As per her statement, she was called by accused-respondent at Tapri on 22.08.2007 and she went to Tapri on 23.08.2007 and stayed with her parents on that day. On next day, accused-respondent had met her at Tapri who had taken her to Rampur by telling that he will marry her. After staying for one night at Rampur they stayed at Ani on second day in house of maternal uncle of accused-respondent. On third day i.e. 26.08.2007 they went to Village Bathar i.e. native place of accused-respondent/prosecutrix came to know that accused-respondent is already married. On reaching house of accused-respondent prosecutrix came to know that accused –respondent is already married whereas accused-respondent was claiming himself to be unmarried. However, prosecutrix has specifically stated that accused-respondent had not committed any bad act with her when she remained with him. She was declared hostile and subjected to cross-examination by Public Prosecutor but during cross- examination she has again denied that accused-respondent had committed bad act with her during period since 24.08.2007 to 27.08.2007. She has admitted that she had identified different places of her stay with respondent. During cross-examination on behalf of accused-respondent she had admitted that her sister Hira Devi is three years elder to her. She had further admitted that distance between Shango to Tapri is about 50 Kms., from Tapri to Rampur is about 70 Km and from Rampur to Bathar is more than 100 Km.

6. PW-8 prosecutrix was medically examined by PW-10 Dr. Sangeeta Uppal who had opined on the basis of physical examination and chemical examiners' report that possibility of rape could not be ruled out during period 24.08.2007 to 27.08.2007. However, said opinion is of no relevance as PW-8 prosecutrix has denied committing any bad act with her by accused-respondent during this period. Therefore, there is no evidence on record to infer that accused-respondent had committed an offence under Section 376 of Indian Penal Code as alleged.

7. So far as charge under Section 363 of Indian Penal Code is concerned, conduct and age of PW-8 prosecutrix is relevant to decide culpability of accused-respondent. So far as conduct of PW-8 prosecutrix is concerned, from evidence it is evident that she had left village Shango and reached Tapri to meet accused-respondent after traveling 50 Kms. and thereafter she was accompanying him for a distance of 170 (70 + 100) Kms., staying with him at different places, travelling in public transport with her free will and consent. It appears from the statement of PW-1 Rami Devi mother of prosecutrix PW-2 Bhajan Dev brother-in-law (Jija) of prosecutrix, PW-3 Hira Devi sister of prosecutrix and PW-4 Bharat Bhushan cousin of prosecutrix that leaving of house by PW-8 prosecutrix with her consent was in their knowledge. Therefore in the aforesaid facts and circumstance, conduct of leaving her village Shango by prosecutrix and traveling 50 kms. to Tapri to meet respondent and next day leaving parents house, staying with respondent at Rampur after traveling 70kms.and thereafter traveling 170 kms. to the native village of respondent after halting for night at Ani on the way reflects that she was accompanying respondent with her free will and consent. However, consent will be immaterial in case of prosecutrix is proved to be under 18 years of age.

8. PW-1 has admitted that no witness had informed her that accused-respondent had enticed away her daughter. She has deposed about telephonic call of prosecutrix and has stated that her daughter was not prepared to reside with accused-respondent as respondent-accused was already married and having two children from first wife. PW-2 Bhajan Dev has stated that he cannot say that prosecutrix had gone voluntarily or as a result of enticing by respondent. PW-3 Hira Devi sister of prosecutrix was also declared hostile when she deposed that she did not ask her sister(prosecutrix) as to where she had been and who had taken her away. However, in cross- examination she has admitted that she had informed police that respondent had enticed away her sister for purpose of marriage and had committed sexual intercourse with her But in cross examination she has stated that her mother had informed her that respondent had enticed away prosecutrix. PW-4 Bharat Bhushan has also deposed similarly. PW-4 has not lent any support to prosecution story and was declared hostile.

9. For proving age of prosecutrix, prosecution has relied upon date of birth certificate Ex. PW-5/A and copy of Parivar Register PW-5/B indicating date of birth of prosecutrix as 19.06.1992 by producing these document through PW-5 Prem Lal Kashyap, Secretary Gram Panchayat Kotgaon. But date of birth certificate has become doubtful as PW-5 Prem Lal Kashyap has admitted that entries in birth register were made on the basis of family registered and whose instance entry of birth was incorporated has not been mentioned in Parivar register.

10. PW-11 Dr. Ashwani Kumar Tomar had examined PW-8 prosecutrix for determining her estimated age after conducting her X-Ray. As per him age of prosecutrix was between 14½ to 15½ years. However, he has admitted that his observations are based on study conducted on Punjabi girl and there may be variation in Punjabi girl and Pahari girl. PW-3 Hira Devi is elder sister of prosecutrix. She has stated her age to be 23 years at the time of deposition in court on 21.04.2009. PW-1 mother of PW-8 prosecutrix has stated that PW-8 prosecutrix is younger to Hira Devi by 3-4 years. PW-2 Bhajan Dev has also admitted that age of his wife i.e. PW-3 Hira Devi is 24-25 years in March, 2009 and PW-8 prosecutrix is younger by Hira Devi by four years. Family members are best persons to say about age of prosecutrix particularly when PW-3 Hira Devi was unable to deny that date of birth was not correctly reported to Gram Panchayat and same was reported by guess work.

11. Entries in birth register and Parivar Register are doubtful and therefore certificate Ex. PW-5/A and copy of Parivar register Ex. PW-5/B cannot be treated as a reliable evidence for determining age of prosecutrix. Opinion of PW-11 Dr. Ashwani Kumar Tomar is based upon study of Punjabi girl. In view of his admission his estimate of age of prosecutrix is neither conclusive nor reliable. Moreover, age estimation on the basis of Radiologist is also not conclusive proof of age of a person and it is also accepted principle that age estimated by Radiologist may have variation of 2 to 3 years. Therefore, age of prosecutrix determined by Radiologist may vary upto 18 ½ years. On the basis of statements of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 age of prosecutrix comes to be about 20 years in the year, 2009 and therefore, it can be inferred that at the time of incident in the year, 2007 prosecutrix was about 18 years of age. In view of this, it cannot be said that prosecution has proved beyond reasonable doubt that respondent had committed an offence under Section 363 of Indian Penal Code.

12. On the basis of evidence, it can safely be held that learned trial Court has rightly concluded that offence under Sections 363 and 376 of Indian Penal Code is not made out against accused. There is no perversity and infirmity in finding returned by the trial Court.

13. The present appeal, devoid of any merit, is dismissed, as also pending applications, if any. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by the accused are discharged. Records of the Court below be sent back immediately.

For the appellant : Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Deputy Advocate General.
For the respondents : Mr. Lakshay Thakur, Advocate Legal Aid Counsel.

Vivek Singh Thakur, Judge.

Aggrieved by acquittal of respondents in Sessions trial No. 5/2008 vide judgment dated 30.04.2008, passed by special Judge, Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi, District Mandi, HP under Sections 20, 25 and 29 of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 registered in case FIR No.166/2007 at Police Station, Joginder Nagar, State of Himachal Pradesh has preferred present appeal.

2. As per prosecution story, on 21.08.2007 at about 5.00 PM PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh and PW-9 LHC Pawan Kumar were standing at Dhruni Bridge during their patrolling duty. At that time, respondent No.1 was coming from Banander side to Lad Bharol side alongwith pillion rider respondent No. 2 on Motor Cycle No. HP-29A-0840 owned and possessed by respondent No. 1. On noticing police personnel near bridge, respondent No.2 pillion rider had thrown a bag in khad which was seen by PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh, PW-9 Constable Pawan Kumar, PW-7 Sakin Singh, PW-8 Sanjeev Kumar and one Rajinder Kumar. On reaching near Police personnel, respondent No.1 stopped Motor Cycle on signal of police personnel. On inquiry, respondents disclosed their names as Rakesh Kumar driver owner of Motor Cycle and Sunil Kumar, pillion rider. On asking reason for throwing bag in Dhruni khad, respondent No. 2 had disclosed that there was liquor in bag and the same had been thrown on noticing police personnel. In the meanwhile, PW-1 Desh Raj and PW-2, Dan Singh had reached there who were on the way to Baijnath and Lad Bharol on their respective Motor Cycle and Scooter. On questioning by PW-1 Desh Raj, respondent No. 2 had disclosed that there were 7 bottles of liquor in bag. The bag was floating in water and therefore for verifying version of respondent No.2, PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh, PW-9 LHC Pawan Kumar alongwith PW-1 Desh Raj and PW-2, Dan Singh went to Khad. Respondents-accused were also with them. In the meanwhile, PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh had called PW-16 constable Sunil Kumar and water carrier Prakash Chand by telephonic call made to Police Post Lad-Bharol with direction to bring photographer from Lad-Bharol with them. Before reaching spot, PW-16 constable Sunil Kumar and water carrier Prakash Chand had also joined ASI Parmod Singh alongwith photographer PW-4 Bhagirath. On reaching in Khad, bag was found floating on water. Photographs of bag lying in the water were taken by PW-4 Bhagirath and bag was taken out by PW-1 and PW-2. After taking out bag, PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh had requested PW-1 Desh Raj and PW-2 Dan Singh to open bag. On opening bag, one more bag tied with sting was found inside it. On opening second bag, two plastic polythene envelopes having black sticks and round in it were found. On smelling and checking, it was found to be charas. PW-16 Sunil Kumar was sent for calling some shop keepers alongwith weight and measures for Lad-Bharol Bazar by issuing Hukamnama Ex.PW-3/A who had come back alongwith PW-5 Ashok Kumar, Gold Smith. The recovered contraband was taken into possession vide memo. Ex. PW-1/A and on weighing it with the help of weighing machine, brought by PW-5 Ashok Kumar, total weight of seized contravened was found 1530 gms. After taking four samples of 25 gram each, contraband and sample parcels were sealed by affixing seal 'T' on parcels. Specimen seal impression Ex.P-9 was taken on cloth. Memo of identification of contraband as charas Ex. PW-1/B was prepared in presence of witnesses. NCB form in triplicate Ex. PW-3/B was filled in on spot and seal impression 'T' was also appended on same. Motor Cycle was taken into possession vide Memo Ex. PW-1/C. Thereafter Rukka Ex. PW-3/C was sent to Police Station, Joginder Nagar through PW-16 Constable Sunil Kumar. Site plan Ex. PW-3/D was prepared and statements of witnesses were recorded. Accused persons were arrested after giving notice of arrest in writing vide memo Ex. PW-1/D. Respondents-accused had supplied phone numbers for giving information of their arrest vide Memo. Ex. PW-1/E. In presence of witnesses, personal search (Jama-Talashi) of respondents was carried out vide memo Ex. PW-1/F and Ex. PW-1/G. Respondents were arrested at about 8.00 PM. On reaching Police Station, five parcels, sample seal, NCB form were handed over to SI PW-18 Kapoor Chand who had resealed contraband with seal 'K' and after taking specimen seal impression on cloth Ex.18/C and affixing impression of the said seal 'K' on NCB form filled columns 9 to 11 of NCB form, and handed over case property to MHC PW-13 Mangat Ram to deposit same in Malkhana who had entered the same in Malkhana Register. Extract of said Malakhana Register entry No. 800 is Ex.PW-13/A. Samples of contraband were sent to State FSL Junga through PW-15 Constable Roshan Lal vide RC-92/07, dated 24.08.2007 alongwith copies of FIR, Memo. NCB Form and sample seals which were deposited at State FLS Junga on 25.08.2007 against proper receipt on road Certificate Ex. PW-13/C. Report from State FSL, Junga Ex. PW-18/E confirms that seized contraband was charas. After completion of investigation, challan was put up in the Court.

3. Mr. Neeraj Kumar Sharma, Deputy Advocate General has vigorously argued that there is sufficient evidence on record proving that respondents were found in conscious and exclusive possession of contraband without any explanation and, therefore respondents be convicted under Sections 20, 25 and 29 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985.

4. Mr. Lakshay Thakur, counsel for respondents has supported judgment passed by learned trial Court stating that there is not even an iota of evidence to prove recovery of contraband from conscious and exclusive possession of respondents and he has prayed for dismissal of appeal.

5. We have heard learned counsel for parties and perused evidence on record.

6. Respondents were charged for having found in conscious and exclusive possession of 1530 gms. charas being transported in Motor cycle No.HP-29-A-0840 in furtherance of criminal conspiracy to commit an offence under Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985.

7. To bring home guilt of respondents accused, first ingredient to be proved by prosecution for rendering respondents liable for conviction under Sections 20, 25 and 29 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 is to prove recovery and seizure of contraband from conscious and exclusive possession of respondents. For that purpose prosecution has relied upon the statements of PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh, PW-9 LHC Pawan Kumar.

8. Independent witnesses PW-7 Sakin Singh and PW-8 Sanjeev Kumar have not supported prosecution case and have denied to have made statement to the effect that they had seen respondent No. 2 throwing a bag in khad on noticing police personnel on bridge. After declaring them hostile they were subjected to cross examine by learned Public Prosecutor but nothing material in favour of prosecution and against respondents was elucidated. No doubt, statements of hostile witnesses can be relied upon in favour of either party, if corroborated by other evidence on record. In present case, PW-7 and PW-8 have stated nothing incriminating against respondents so as to prove belonging of contraband recovered and seized from khad to respondents.

9. Another independent witness Rajinder Kumar has been given up declaring that he was won over by accused. It is strange that without examining PW Rajinder Kumar he has been declared to be won over by accused. There is no material on record on the basis of which learned Public Prosecutor had arrived at conclusion that PW Rajinder Kumar was won over by accused. Other two independent witnesses PW-7 Sakin Singh and PW-8 Sanjeev Kumar have not supported prosecution case. In such eventuality, best course available with prosecution was to examine third material independent witness instead of withholding said witness from examining in the Court. In case of not lending support prosecution case, said witness may have been subjected to cross examine to elucidate truth. When two independent eye witnesses had turned hostile, withholding third eye witness was not warranted.

10. Before discussing evidence of official witnesses statements of other two independent witness PW-1 Desh Raj and PW-2 Dan Singh, who were also declared hostile are necessary to be evaluated as statement of hostile witnesses is not to be discarded in entirely but the same is to be considered and evaluated on the basis of other evidence on record. Despite having declared hostile, these witnesses, in their examination-in-chief have stated that on 21.08.2007 about 5.00 PM, they had reached at Dhrun Bridge on their respective vehicles i.e. motorcycle and scooter where police personnel and respondents were present besides other people standing at a distance and police personnel were inquiring from respondents with regard to one bag thrown in the Khad by respondent No.2 Both of them have admitted that they were requested to accompany the police during inquiry. Both of them have stated that photographs were taken at the instance of police. After seeing photographs in court file, they have verified that these photographs were taken on that day at the instance of police by photographer. They have stated that on request of police, bag was taken out from water by both of them in presence of respondents and on asking of police, they had opened bag in which one more bag of brown colour was found having Polythine envelopes and inside the Polythine envelopes dhoop like bundle and sticks were found. Both of them have further stated that police personnel have called PW-5 Ashok Soni alongwith weighing and measure who had brought electronic weighing machine on the spot. Both of them had stated that weighing capacity of electronic machine was 200 gms. and after weighing recovered charas, it was found to be 1530 gms. out of which four sample of 25 gms. each were drawn and packed in cloth parcel and were sealed with impression 'T'. They have further stated that residue charas was put into brown bag and thereafter in blue bag and then was packed in a cloth parcel which was sealed with seal impression 'T' and both of them have identified parcel Ex. P-1 containing blue bag Ex. P-2 brown bag Ex. P-3 polythine envelopes Ex. P-4 and Ex.P-5 charas Ex. P-6 and parcels of sample Ex. P-7 and Ex. P-8. PW-1 and PW-2 have identified Ex. P-2 to P-8 are same which were taken into possession by police on the spot. They had also identified their signatures on two parcels containing seal of FSL Junga as well as on the parcel Ex. P-1, Ex. P-7 and Ex. P-8. All these Exs. were found to be intact when produced in the court for identification and verification by these witnesses. During cross-examination both of them have admitted their signatures on seizure memo, Ex. PW-1/A, identification of contraband memo Ex. PW-1/B, memo taking into possession motorcycle alongwith documents Ex.PW-1/C, arrest memo Ex.PW-1/D and supply of mobile numbers by respondents vide memo Ex. PW-1/E. Both of them have admitted sealing of parcel on support with seal 'T'.

11. At first instance PW-1 had admitted signatures on parcel search memo (Jama-Talashi) Ex. PW-1/F to PW-1/G, but immediately he denied his signature on these memos alleging that his signatures on these memos are forged signatures. However, PW-2 Dan Singh had admitted that he had signed memo Ex. PW-1/F & PW-1/G.

12. PW-1 has admitted that he had appended his signatures after going through the contents of memo and he had signed the documents of his own and police had not applied any pressure. He has further admitted that respondents used to meet him and they belong to his Tehsil, running shops in their respective places. He had also stated in his cross-examination by learned defence counsel that parcels were stitched by police on the spot. PW-1 has not denied signing of memos by respondents but has stated that he does not remember as to whether respondents have appended their signatures or not. During the course of examination by learned defence counsel, he has stated that it is correct that accused persons have not signed documents in his presence.

13. PW-2 has stated in his examination-in-Chief that he, PW-1 Desh Raj and both accused have appended signatures on parcels Ex. P-1 containing residue and sample parcels Ex. P-7 and P-8. He has further stated that sample seal was taken on separate piece of cloth on which both, he and PW-1 Desh Raj appended their respective signatures. PW-2 has also admitted that respondents are running Tea stall and Karyana shop and he used to meet them for purchase of articles from their shops on his visits to his house. In cross-examination by learned defence counsel, he has stated that respondents were interrogated in his presence regarding ownership and material contained in bag Ex.P-2.

14. From perusal of statements of PW-1 and PW-2, it is evident that these witnesses have duly corroborated prosecution's story with respect to presence of accused on spot being inquired by police about bag thrown in Khad, recovery of bag from Khad, recovery of charas from said bag, preparation of memos Ex. PW-1/A to Ex. PW-1/G, presence of PW-4 Bhagirath photographer on spot and photography by him, calling of PW-5 Ashok Kumar on the spot, weighing of recovered contraband on the spot, seizure and sealing residue contraband and sample parcels on the spot. Photographs of spot have also been verified by both of them.

15. Now, there are two official witnesses PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh, PW-9 Constable Pawan Kumar who have deposed that they had seen respondent No. 2 throwing bag in khad on noticing their presence on bridge. It is settled law that evidence of official witnesses is not to be disbelieved or discarded merely for reason that they are official witnesses. Statements of official witnesses can be basis for conviction of accused. However, before basing conviction on evidence of official witness, strict scrutiny with care and caution is required particularly when independent witnesses have turned hostile. In case evidence of official witnesses is found cogent, reliable and credible, the conviction can be based on evidence of official witnesses only.

16. There is no reason to disbelieve the version of PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh and PW-9 LHC Pawan Kumar regarding throwing of bag by respondent No. 2 in Khad on noticing police personnel. Defence taken by respondents is denial simplicitor and there is nothing placed on record or suggestion put to the witnesses assigning any reason for false implication of respondents in case. There is no enmity of official witnesses with the respondents for which the evidence of official witnesses is discarded and disbelieved.

17. PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh and PW-9 LHC Pawan Kumar have proved on record that during patrolling in Pandol area on 21.07.2007 at about 5.00 PM they had noticed respondent No.2 throwing a bag in water on noticing police and on inquiry, respondent No. 2 had disclosed that bag was thrown as there were liquor bottles in the same. These witnesses have further stated that in presence of PW-1, PW-2 and respondents bag was taken out from water and on opening the same one more bag was found in it containing polythene envelopes having charas in polythene envelope. They further stated that PW-16 Sunil Kumar and Parkash Chand were called from Police Post Lad Bharol, who had brought PW-4 Bhagirath photographer, PW-5 Ashok Gold Smith on the spot and spot photographs Exs. PW-4/A to Ex.4/A-12 were taken on the spot. They have further stated that on weighing machine brought by PW-5 Ashok Kumar contraband was found 1530 gms and the said contraband was seized by memo Ex. PW-1/A and was sealed in parcel Ex. P-1 after extracting four samples of 25 gms. each and these samples were also sealed in separate parcels affixing Seal 'T'. It has further come in their evidence that impression of seal 'T' was also taken on NCB form and on cloth Ex. P-9. Both of these witnesses have deposed regarding preparation of seizure memo Ex. PW-1/A, identification of contraband memo Ex. PW-1/B, memo taking motor cycle in custody by police Ex. PW-1/C, arrest memo Ex. PW-1/D, supply of mobile numbers Ex. PW-1/E, notice regarding arrest Ex. PW-1/D and preparation of Rukka Ex. PW-3/C filling up of NCB form in triplicate Ex. PW-3/B. PW-16 has also corroborated the statements of PW-3 and PW-9. He has further proved taking of Rukka to the Police Station, Joginder Nagar and registration of FIR on the basis of the same. In cross-examination nothing material affecting veracity of these witnesses could be extracted by defence counsel.

18. PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh PW-9 LHC Pawan Kumar and PW-16 constable Sunil Kumar have duly corroborated prosecution case which has also been substantiated from statements of PW-1 and PW-2.

19. PW-4 Bhagirath has proved that he was summoned by the police on the spot through Parkash Chand and respondents, police personnel and other persons were present on the spot. He has stated names of accused persons on spot as Rakesh Kumar and Suman Kumar. He has stated that on reaching spot on 21.08.2007 one bag was floating on the water and he has taken photographs on the spot. He has also stated that bag was checked and blue sticks were found in polythene envelopes which were found to be 1530 gms. on weighing. He had proved photographs Ex.PW-4/A to Ex. PW-4/A-12 alongwith negatives PW-4/A-13 to PW-4/A-24. PW-4 in cross- examination has stated that in his presence accused had not told to the police that bag belonged to them as no talks between accused person and police had taken place in his presence.

20. PW-5 Ashok Kumar Gold Smith has also proved that on 21.08.2007, he had gone to spot on summoning by police alongwith weighing machine. He has stated that after weighing charas was found 1530 gms. Thereafter, he had also weighed four sample of 25 gms. each and samples of bulk charas was packed in sealed parcels on the spot. In his cross-examination, he has stated that he did not know that material weighed by him was charas or anything else.

21. PW-13 HC Mangat Ram was MHC in Police Station, Joginder Nagar on 21.08.2007. He has stated that PW-16 Sunil Kumar has reached the Police Station at about 10.00 PM with Rukka written by PW-3 Parmod Singh and FIR was registered on the basis of said Rukka at the instance of SHO/SI Kapoor Chand and after registration of FIR, case file was handed over to Sunil Kumar to hand over it to PW-3 ASO Parmod Singh. He has further stated that on 22.08. 2007 at 12.20 AM SHO/SI Kapoor Chand after re-sealing case property with seal 'K' had handed over him four sample parcels of 25 gms each one big parcel weighing 1430 gms. alongwith NCB form in triplicate having sample seals 'T' and 'K' and other related documents which were deposited in Malkhana and entered in Register at serial No. 800 and had produced copy of Entry as Ex. PW-3/A.

22. On 24.08.2007 PW-13 MHC Mangat Ram had sent two sample parcels alongwith documents to FSL, Junga through PW-15 Roshan Lal vide RC No. 92/2007 Ex. PW-13/C after depositing the same in FSL, Junga. He has further stated that on 23.08.2007 PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh had handed over one Special Report to him for sending it to SDPO Sarkaghat which was sent by him through PW-14 HC Balwant Singh on 24.08.2007 in the morning.

23. PW-15 Constable Roshan Lal has corroborated the fact of depositing sample parcels in FLS Junga and has stated that as long as case property remained with him, he had not admitted the same.

24. PW-14 H.C. Balwant Singh had stated that after receiving Special Report from PW-13 HC. Mangat Ram, he had delivered the same in office of SDPO Sarkaghat to PW-10 Constable Suresh Kumar as DSP was not present in the office.

25. PW-10 HC Constable Suresh Kumar has stated that on 27.04.2007 PW-14 Constable Balwant Singh had handed over Special Report to him on which he had made endorsement Ex. PW-10/A under his signature and thereafter he had sent Special Report to DSP Sarkaghat to Pandol as he was at Pandol at that time in connection with recruitment of constables. Report was sent to Pandol through PW-11 Constable Ramesh Kumar. He has proved entry of Special Report at Sl. No. 4 at Page-19 in Special Report Register producing extract of Register Ex. PW-10/A.

26. PW-11 Constable Ramesh Kumar has proved the fact of delivery of Special Report to PW-12 DSP Surinder Sharma on 25.08.2007 PW-12 DSP Surinder Sharma has proved receipt of special report and his endorsement on the same.

27. PW-18 Kapoor Chand has proved his endorsement Ex. PW-18/A on Rukka after registration of FIR Ex. PW-18/B and resealing of case property with seal 'K'. He has also proved facsimile of seal 'K', taken on cloth as Ex. PW-18/C and also filling up of Columns No. 9 to 11 of NCB form and affixation sample seal 'K' on NCB form and handing over case property to PW-13 HC Mangat Ram vide memo Ex. PW-18/D. He has further stated that after receiving report of FSL Junga Ex. PW-18/E, he had prepared challan and presented same in the Court. As per FSL report Ex. PW-18/E, samples of contraband were found to be of charas.

28. Learned counsel for respondents have pointed out that as per PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh, he remained on spot at 9.00 PM whereas PW-6 Bhim Singh has stated that on 21.08.2007 at about 8.30 PM he had dropped PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh on his request in his vehicle near huts of labourers working under PW-7 Sakin Singh and Rajender Kumar. It is corroboration of prosecution story rather than contradiction as it proves presence of police personnel on the spot making investigation from the concerned persons who were working on road on that day. Difference in time is minor and also PW-6 has not stated specific time but has stated about 8.30 PM.

29. It is also pointed out that as per PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh and SHO PW-18 Kapoor Chand, PW-3 Parmod Singh and other had reached in police station Joginder Nagar on 22.08.2007 at 12.10 AM in midnight and case property was deposited by SHO with MHC at 12.20 AM whereas PW-16 Sunil Kumar stated that PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh has also reached in Police Station Joginder Nagar at about 10.30 PM and after registration of FIR, he had not gone back to spot as by that time PW-3 ASI Parmod Kumar had also reached in police station and no spot proceedings were conducted after registration of FIR.

30. Learned counsel for respondents has stated that contradictions and discrepancies pointed out show that things had not happen as has been portrayed by prosuection and the prosecution story liable to be rejected. PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh has stated that at the time of going to khad he had asked telephonically MC Mohan Lal, Police Post, Lad Bharol to send Sunil Kumar and water carrier Prakash Chand on the spot alongwith private photographer from Lad Bharol Bazar before reaching in khad. PW-16 Constable Sunil Kumar, water carrier Prakash Chand and photographer PW-4, Bhagi Rath had joined them in mid-way and thereafter they reached on point where bag was lying in khad. In cross-examination also PW-3 has categorically stated that he had telephonically directed PW-17 MC Mohan Lal for sending photographer as he was suspecting that there might be bottles of liquor in bag. PW-17 MC Mohan Lal has also proved entry regarding this direction in Report No. 8 of Daily Diary dated 21.08.2007 Ex. PW-17/A where PW-1 Desh Raj has stated that one police personnel was sent by ASI to call photographer and PW-9 Constable Pawan Kumar has also stated that after reaching of PW-16 Constable Sunil Kumar and Prakash Chand on spot on call of ASI Parmod Singh, Prakash Chand was sent to Lad Bharol for bringing photographer and Constable Sunil Kumar for bringing weights and scale. PW-16 Constable Sunil Kumar has stated that on receiving telephonic message of PW-3, he and Prakash Chand had reached Dhruni Khad from where PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh issued a Hukamnama Ex.PW-3/A under Section 160 Cr.P.C. to bring weights and scale from Lad Bhoral Bazaar and he had brought PW-5 Ashok Kumar on the spot whereas Prakash Chand had brought PW-4 Bhagirath on the spot.

31. These are not contradictions but may be termed as discrepancies which do not go to the root of the case belying charge against accused regarding throwing of bag in Khad and recovery of contraband from said bag in presence of independent witnesses.

32. Purpose of sealing and resealing of seized substance, handing over of seal to witness after taking seal impressions on piece of cloth and on NCB form and production of original seal in the court, is to ensure that substance seized on the spot, deposited in Malkhana, sent to forensic lab and produced in the court is one and the same. Therefore, non-production of original seal is not fatal to prosecution cases in every case. It may be fatal in that cases where it leads to creating doubt linking accused with substance seized sent to forensic lab and produced in the Court. In case where prosecution has able to prove that substance recovered from accused, sent to forensic lab and produced in Court is one and the same, non-production of original seal is irrelevant. Every procedural error or defect is not fatal to prosecution story unless it causes serious prejudice to accused. It is the case of prosecution that seal was handed over to PW-1 Desh Raj, whereas Desh Raj has stated that seal was not handed over to him. Same was kept by PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh. Keeping seal by PW-3 ASI Parmod Singh or handing over of the same to PW-1 Desh Raj has lost its relevance for reason that PW-1 Desh Raj as well as PW-2 Dan Singh have identified articles PW-2 blue bag, PW-3 brown bag, P-4 and P-5 Polythine and envelopes, P-6 charas and samples parcels P-7 and P-8. Facsimile of seal 'T' Ex. P-9 and seal 'K' Ex. 8/C have also been duly proved which were sufficient to compare with seal affixed on parcels of residue substance and samples. At the time of production of parcel P-1, P-7 and P-8 seals were found intact and there is no question raised on behalf of respondents-accused in this regard. Seal impression of 'T' and 'K' were also taken on NCB form for comparison in forensic lab. In chemical analysis report Ex. 18/E it has been mention as under :-

> 7. Description of parcel:- Two sealed parcels mark A/1 & A/2 bearing six seals of "T" and resealed with three seals of "K". The seals were found intact and tallied with the seal impression sent by the SHO on form NCB-I.
> (i) The same was kept in safe custody of the chemical examiner till the report of the same was signed & dispatched.

Therefore, in present case there is sufficient evidence on record to prove that substance sent to Forensic Lab and produced in the Court is one and same which was recovered and seized on the spot from khad. Therefore, non-production of original seals has not caused any prejudice to respondents and thus non production of these seals in Court is not fatal to prosecution in present case. These articles were the same which were recovered and taken into possession on the spot therefore, no prejudice has been caused to respondents on this count.

33. It is settled proposition that at the time of appreciation of the evidence of witnesses, minor discrepancies not affecting the case of prosecution may not be the basis of rejecting evidence in its entirety. Such discrepancies are bound to occur for the reason because of witnesses owing to common error in observations, due to lapse of time or errors owing to different mental capacity of reception, retention and narrations.

34. In the present case, there are no major contradictions in the statements of the official witnesses. There is nothing on record to suggest that there was enmity of the official witnesses with the respondent-accused or all official witnesses were interested to implicate respondents-accused for their benefit or otherwise for reasons other than their official duty. The official witnesses were not having any personal interest in implication and/or conviction of the respondent-accused. They have supported prosecution case. It is evident from RC Ex. P-10 of Motor Cycle No. HP-29A-0840 that it was owned and possessed by respondent No.1 and he was driving the same himself. There is no explanation or defence on behalf of respondent No. 1 that he was not having knowledge of contraband and being transported on his motorcycle by respondent No.2. On the basis of evidence on record, it has been proved that motorcycle in question owned and possessed by respondent No.2 was being used in carrying charas and, therefore, the same motorcycle is liable to be confiscated under Section 60 of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 and accordingly Motor Cycle is ordered to be confiscated by State.

35. Therefore it is clear that prosuection has able to prove that respondents were found in conscious and exclusive possession of 1530 gms. charas being transported on motorcycle No. HP-29-A-0840 with criminal conspiracy to commit an offence punishable under Sections 20, 25 and 29 of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985. Prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt that respondents were in conscious and exclusive possession of charas.

36. In view of the above discussion, presumption of Sections 35 and 54 of the NDPS Act is also attracted, there is no attempt on behalf of respondents to discharge their onus for rebutting presumptions under these sections.

37. Hence, the judgment passed by Lower Court is set aside. Respondents-accused are convicted for the offences under Sections 20, 25 and 29 of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 for having found in conscious possession of 1530 gms. of charas.

The accused be produced for hearing on quantum of sentence on 05.08.2016. List on 05.08.2016. The registry is directed to prepare the production warrants.

Ram Briksh Singh and others Vs. Ambika Yadav and another, (2004) 7 Supreme Court Cases 665
K. Chinnaswamy Reddy Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh and another, AIR 1962 Supreme Court 1788

For the petitioner: M/s Dushyant Dadwal & Jai Prakash, Advocates.
For the respondents: Mr. G.S. Rathour, Advocate.

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.:

By way of the present revision petition, the petitioner has challenged the judgment passed by the Court of learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, in Criminal Appeal No. 88 of 2008 dated 14.05.2009, vide which, learned Appellate Court has upheld the judgment of acquittal passed by the Court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hamirpur, in Private Complaint No. 69-I of 2004/185-II of 2006 dated 01.09.2006.

2. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of the present case are that complainant Smt. Sunita Devi filed a complaint under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 324, 325, 452, 506 and 341 I.P.C. on the ground that on 19.02.2004 at about 7.00 P.M. accused formed a group in order to harass the complainant and her family members and her brother Kishan

Chand, who was returning home at the relevant time after discharging his duties, was attacked near his home by accused Deep Chand and Suresh Kumar. As per the complainant, Maya Devi, Meera Devi and she went to the spot on hearing the noise and rescued their brother. Deep Chand had bitten the finger of Kishan Chand and Maya Devi, as a result of which they suffered injuries. Deep Chand also inflicted a blow on the face of the complainant as a result of which she lost her tooth. According to the complainant, when she went to her house, all the accused persons entered the house and started abusing the complainant and her family members and threatened to kill them. They pelted stones on their house causing damages to the doors, windows and walls. Deep Chand also caught her from her hair and dragged her causing injuries to her. This incident was witnessed by Balbir Singh and Mand Chand, who rescued the complainant from the accused persons. The factum of the incident was telephonically intimated by the complainant to the police. The matter was also reported to the police by the brother of the complainant but no action was taken by the police. She was also medically examined. As the Doctor did not issue correct certificate, a complaint in this regard was filed before the C.M.O., after which, fresh medical certificate was issued. As the police was not taking any action on the complaint filed by the brother of the complainant, hence she filed the private complaint. After the completion of preliminary evidence, as per learned trial Court sufficient reasons existed to summon the accused for the commission of offences punishable under Section 147, 323, 324, 341, 427, 506 read with Section 149 I.P.C.

3. Pre-charge evidence was led by the complainant and subsequently, charges were framed against the accused for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 341, 324, 323, 427, 506, 147 read with Section 149 I.P.C.

4. On the basis of the material produced on record by the complainant, learned trial Court came to the conclusion that the evidence led by the complainant was not such which could be said to be wholly reliable and it further held that it was extremely doubtful that the incident took place in the manner as was suggested by the complainant. Learned trial Court further held that the complainant had failed to prove her case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused. Hence, all of them were acquitted from the charges framed against them.

5. Feeling aggrieved by the said judgment passed by learned trial Court, the complainant filed an appeal, which was also dismissed by learned Appellate Court vide judgment dated 14.05.2009.

6. The findings so returned by both the learned Courts below have been assailed by way of the present revision petition.

7. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by both the learned Courts below.

8. A perusal of the judgment passed by learned trial Court demonstrates that on the basis of the appreciation of evidence on record by the complainant, it held that the whole of the complainant's case regarding causing injury by tooth bite, forming an unlawful assembly and committing mischief by damaging the property of the complainant could not be relied upon because the version of the incident which has been presented by the complainant in the Court is an exaggerated one and is not in consonance with the first version given by the complainant party. Learned trial Court held that initially as per the case set up by the complainant, allegations were against two persons only and there were no allegations against rest of the accused. It was not stated that any tooth bite was given or that the accused formed an unlawful assembly and had attacked the complainant party inside the house. Learned trial Court further held that the medical evidence also did not support the case of the prosecution as Dr. Chaman Kant who had conducted the dental examination had not supported the case of the complainant and had categorically stated that there was no fracture of the crown or root nor there was any injury on the upper as well as lower/inner side of the mouth. On these basis, learned trial Court held that this falsified the version of the complainant that her tooth was broken due to the fist blow. It further held that Dr. Anil Kaushal who had conducted medical examination of Kishan Chand had found a lacerated wound on the right index finger, which was superficial in nature and no wound was found on the middle finger as was the case putforth by the complainant. After discussing the rest of the testimony of the said Doctor, learned trial Court concluded that the statement of the said Doctor also did not support the case of the complainant. Accordingly, learned trial Court held that the incident had been exaggerated by the complainant party and the complaint was highly rhetorical and did not contain the first version and further, testimony of CW-2 Salochna Devi in this regard also did not substantiate the case of the complainant. It further held that Pradhan, Gram Panchayat had no legal sanctity as Gram Panchayat was not authorized to visit the spot and to issue certificate regarding the spot position under H.P. Panchayati Raj Act, unless a case is pending before it. It was not so in the present matter. Learned trial Court also held that no independent witness was examined by the complainant to substantiate her case, though it is an admitted fact that village was having many houses. Accordingly, on these basis, learned trial Court held that the complainant had not been able to prove her case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused and in these circumstances, it acquitted the accused for the charges framed against them.

9. Learned Appellate Court vide its judgment dated 14.05.2009 upheld the said judgment of acquittal.

10. A perusal of the judgment passed by learned Appellate Court demonstrates that after appreciating the evidence on record and the judgment passed by learned trial Court, it concluded that there was no material on record to interfere with the impugned judgment of acquittal and this conclusion has been duly supported by reasonings which found mention in Paras 41 to 46 of the judgment passed by learned Appellate Court.

11. In my considered view, it cannot be said that the judgments of both the learned Courts below are either perverse or the findings which have been returned by both the learned Courts below are not borne out from the records. Learned counsel for the petitioner could not substantiate nor could he pin point as towhat was the perversity with the judgemntys passed by both the learned Courts below and what was that material evidence or fact which had been misread or mis-appreciated by both the learned Courts below. The arguments of the learned counsel for the petitioner that a perusal of the statement of the complainant witnesses leaves no room of doubt that the case of the complainant stood proved and it nailed the guilt of the accused is without any material. In my considered view, both the learned Courts below have rightly come to the conclusion that the case has been exaggerated by the complainant and the case as had been putforth by the complainant do not inspire confidence especially in view of the fact that the evidence produced on record by the complainant to substantiate her case does not prove beyond reasonable doubt that the accused only were guilty of the offences alleged against them.

12. The learned counsel for the petitioner has also not been able to point out any material particularly which has been over-looked by the learned Courts below.

13. It is well settled law that the jurisdiction of High Court in revision is severely restricted and it cannot embark upon re-appreciation of evidence. The High Court in revision cannot in absence of error on a point of law, re-appreciate evidence and reverse a finding of law. The object of the revisional jurisdiction was to confer power upon superior criminal Courts a kind of paternal or supervisory jurisdiction in order to correct miscarriage of justice arising from misconception of law, irregularity of procedure, neglect of proper precaution or apparent harshness of treatment which has resulted on the one hand, or on the other hand in some undeserved hardship to individuals.

14. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram Briksh Singh and others Vs. Ambika Yadav and another, (2004) 7 Supreme Court Cases 665, has held that Revisional Court can interfere with the findings of lower court where the Courts below have overlooked material evidence.

15. Even otherwise, it has been held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in K. Chinnaswamy Reddy Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh and another, AIR 1962 Supreme Court 1788, that this Court in exercise of its revisional power cannot set aside the acquittal even at the instance of private complaint except in exceptional cases.

16. Thus it can be safely inferred that this Court has to exercise its revisional powers sparingly. Though, this Court is not required to act as a Court of appeal, however, at the same time it is the duty of the Court to correct manifest illegality resulting in gross miscarriage of justice. However, I do not find any manifest illegality with the judgments passed by the learned Courts below in the present case.

17. In view of the above discussion, I am of the considered view that there is neither any infirmity nor any perversity with the judgments passed by the learned Courts below and there is no merit in the present petition and the same is accordingly dismissed.

For the respondent:	Mr. K.D. Sood, Sr. Advocate, with Ms. Ranjana Chauhan, Advocate.

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present regular second appeal is maintained by the appellant/defendant (hereinafter called as "the defendant") against the respondent/plaintiff (hereinafter called as "the plaintiff") assailing the judgment and decree dated 27.10.2005, passed by learned District Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P. in Civil Appeal No. 50-G/XIII/2005, whereby the judgment and decree passed by learned Civil Judge (Junior Division) Court No. 2, Dehra, District Kangra, H.P. in Civil Suit No. 83/99/98, dated 30.03.2005, was set-aside by the learned District Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P., and the suit was decreed.

2. Briefly stating the facts giving rise to the present appeal are that the plaintiff filed a Civil Suit in the Court of first instance seeking permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendant from changing the nature of the suit land, raising new construction thereon and encroaching upon the path ('Deodi'), depicted by letters ABCD in the site plan. As per jamabandi for the year 1995-96, the suit land is situated in Khata No. 17, min, Khatauni No. 62 min, Khasra No. 90, measuring 0-11-16 hectares, in Mohal Kaseli, Mauza Ghallour, Tehsil Dehra, District Kangra, H.P. The plaintiff has simultaneously claimed mandatory injunction directing the defendant to remove eave ('chajja'), which is depicted in the site plan by letters AHIC and the iron stairs reared over the suit path. The plaintiff anchored his reliefs on the basis that the land is joint inter se the parties and over the suit land there exists their abadies (inhabitations). Since time immemorial the path (Deodi) is common and is in use by the parties for ingress and egress to their residences. However, the defendant, by encroaching upon the suit path, started construction and threatened to build his stair case thereon. The action of the defendant was likely to constrict the path (deodi) and during the pendency of the suit in the month of June, 1998, the defendant constructed eave (chajja) measuring 6 inches in width and 22 feet in length towards the suit path, which is demonstrated in the spot map by letters AHIC. Thereafter in third week of November, 2002, the defendant reared iron stairs over the suit path. Despite repeated requests, the defendants did not refrain from his unlawful acts and the plaintiff has no other alternative path to his residence.

3. Conversely, the defendants, by way of filing written statement to the amended plaint, controverted the pleadings made therein. The defendants raised preliminary objections qua cause of action, locus standi, estoppel, maintainability, valuation and description etc. On merits, the defendants averred that the parties to the suit have separate and independent houses and the share of the plaintiff comes to about three and one-fourth marlas in the suit land and the old house of the plaintiff is also on the suit land, which is on about two and half marlas of land. It is also averred that plaintiff, about 4 to 5 years back, reconstructed his new house where his old house existed by exceeding his share, the plaintiff covered 10 marlas of land. In the event of partition, the plaintiff has to cede his possession to the defendant and other co-sharers which is in excess. It is further averred that defendant did not raise any construction by encroaching upon the disputed common path and the construction was raised by his brother, Shri Vipin Kumar. The double storeyed old house with veranda was constructed by the father of the defendant, which collapsed 2 to 3 years back. The brother of the defendant raised construction over a part of the collapsed house and the foundations of the old house are still visible on the spot The new construction was not reared on the disputed path and the same is still in existence and the path has not been constricted at all. It is also denied that iron stairs were constructed over that path. It is also denied that plaintiff has no other alternative path and, in fact, plaintiff has access from all sides, which are in use by the parties and their family members. The defendants prayed for dismissal of the suit.

4. From the pleadings of the parties, the learned Trial Court framed the following issues:

"1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, as prayed for? OPP

2. Whether there is common passage to the residential house of the parties over the suit land? OPP

3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of mandatory injunction? OPP

3-A. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of mandatory injunction, directing the defendant to remove iron stair erected on the path, shown in the site plan, dated 27.11.2002, as alleged? OPP.

4. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action? OPD

5. Whether the plaintiff has no locus standi to sue? OPD

6. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD

7. Relief."

5. The learned Trial Court below decided Issues No. 1 to 3-A, 5 and 6 against the plaintiff and issues No. 4 and 7 were decided in favour of the defendant and suit of the plaintiff was dismissed. Thereafter, appeal was maintained by the plaintiff against the judgment and decree passed by the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No. 2, Dehra, Kangra, H.P. before the learned District Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala and the same was accepted. The learned District Judge, vide impugned judgment dated 27.10.2005, set aside the decision of the learned Trial Court and decreed the suit of the plaintiff.

6. The present appeal was admitted for hearing on 05.05.2008, for determining the following substantial questions of law:

"1. Whether the Lower Appellate Court has committed grave error of law and jurisdiction in decreeing the suit of the plaintiff-respondent by relying upon inadmissible evidence especially Ex. P5, Ex. P6 and Ex. DX?

2. Whether Lower Appellate court has recorded erroneous and perverse findings by presuming the existence of common passage, when there was neither any pleadings or documentary evidence showing the ingress and egress of such common passage as well as the right on the basis of such claim was made in the plaint? Has not the Lower Appellate Court acted in excess for jurisdiction to grant the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction in favour of the plaintiff-respondent, when the Trial Court came to the conclusion that there does not exist any common path?

3. Whether the Lower Appellate Court has committed grave illegality in granting mandatory injunction to the plaintiff-respondent without precisely depicting the nature of encroachment and obstruction over the alleged common path, when the plaintiff did not place on record sufficient evidence showing the nature and extent of such action attributable to the defendant? Are not the findings recorded by the Lower Appellate Court opposed to the various provisions of Specific Relief Act?

4. Whether the Lower Appellate Court has committed grave illegality in not assigning any reason for not agreeing with the findings of the Trial Court and recording such findings which are based on no evidence? Was not it imperative for the Lower Appellate Court to have referred to the findings of the Trial Court and the reasons for not agreeing with the same while reversing the judgment and decree by the Trial Court?

7. The learned senior counsel for the defendant has argued that the Court below has wrongly relied upon the documents on record, including the report of the Local Commissioner and the spot maps, when they were not proved in accordance with law. He has further argued that the facts on record go to show that the defendant has raised the construction initially on the old lines where the house of his father was constructed. He has further argued that the construction was not raised by the defendant, but it was raised by his brother. These aspects were not considered by the Court below. He has further argued that the plaintiff has raised the construction on the land exceeding his share and with ulterior motive he has maintained the suit, so that the defendant may not be able to use his land. He has further argued that the iron stair case was put at the place where earlier there was a bamboo stair case. He has argued that the appeal be allowed and the suit may be dismissed.

8. On the other hand, the learned senior counsel for the plaintiff has argued that the stair case and chajja were raised by the defendant by encroaching upon the path and deodi. This is apparent from the report of the Local Commissioner as well as the site maps. The learned senior counsel for the plaintiff has further argued that there is no substantial question of law involved in the appeal and the appeal deserves dismissal. He has relied upon 2014(2) HLR 1209, Ranjeet Khanna vs. Chiragu Deen & another and has argued that the Local Commissioner's report is a part of evidence and can be relied upon while discussing other evidence. The learned senior counsel for the plaintiff has further argued that in the first appeal, unless restricted by law, the Court below was bound to rehear the case and the learned First Appellate Court has committed no illegality in hearing the appeal in totality, on all aspects.

9. In rebuttal, the learned Senior Counsel has argued that though there involves substantial questions of law for determination in the present appeal and as the judgment of the Court below is vitiated for non-consideration of relevant evidence and is an erroneous approach to the matter, the findings are perverse, so the appeal is required to be allowed. To substantiate his arguments, he has relied upon 2010(13) SCC 216, Municipal Committee, Hoshiarpur vs. Punjab State Electricity Board.

10. To appreciate the arguments of the learned senior counsel for the parties, I have gone through the records in detail.

11. There is no dispute that the land comprised in Khasra No. 90 was abadi (inhabitation), which is owned by the parties to the suit and other co-sharers. PW-1 Shri Gopal Dass, at the instance of the plaintiff, has prepared the spot map, Ex. PW-1/A. PW-2 Shri Krishan prepared the spot map, Ex. PW-2/A, depicting the path in dispute by letters ABCD. PW-3 Shri V.S. Gill, Advocate, was appointed as Local Commission under the orders of the Court and he has inspected the spot and submitted his report Ex. PW-3/A. As per his report, Ex. PW-3/A, there exists no deodi and there is a path, measuring 6 feet in width, leading to the abadies (inhabitations). However, the same was not blocked by the defendant in any manner. This witness has also testified this fact as PW-3. In his cross-examination this witness has stated that path, measuring 6 feet in width, is there, which leads to the abadies (inhabitations) and the same is not blocked by the defendant. Therefore, it stands testified that there exists a path which is 6 feet in width and goes to the abadies (inhabitations) of the parties. Plaintiff, Shri Jagdish Ram, has himself stepped into the witness box as PW-4 and has testified the existence of common path on the spot and the same is being used since the time of their forefathers through deodi, but deodi is now not in existence. This witness has deposed that defendant after demolition of his old house started raising construction of his new house in the month of March, 1998, and in doing so he encroached upon the common path by erecting wall. He moved an application, Ex. P1 to the Panchayat, however, the same was returned to him for moving the same before the Court. PW-4 Jagdish Ram has further stated that Advocate V.S. Gill was appointed as Local Commissioner, who submitted his report after conducting the spot inspection. However, the defendant continued with the construction work. He has further stated that defendant constructed chajja over the common path. In his cross-examination he explicated that in between the cow-barn of Brahm Dutt and Ved Prakash there is common path (deodi) and then there is a room of the defendant. He has further explicated that there were slates (roof tiles) on the deodi and he has denied that the houses alongwith deodi were slate-posh. This witness has also denied that Shri Vipin raised the construction. The construction was being raised by the defendant after demolishing/razing the old house.

12. PW-5 Shri Roshan Lal has completely corroborated the statement of PW-4 Jagdish Ram (plaintiff). This witness has also stated that there exists a common path leading to the abadies (inhabitations) of the parties to the suit and other co-sharers. He has specifically deposed that house of Brahman Dutt comes first and then the house of Ved Prakash and thereafter there is common path (deodi) and lastly comes the cow-barn of the defendant. The path (deodi) leads to the houses of plaintiff, Basant and Ved Prakash and same is the only path which is being used by them. PW-5 in his cross-examination has deposed that path in dispute is 6 to 7 feet in width and 9 feet in length and it has walls of the house of the defendant from both sides and it is common. He has denied the suggestion that there are other paths for the house of the plaintiff. He has deposed that the path (deodi) is in use since the time of their forefathers. PW-6, Shri Ram Lal, testified that the path leads to the houses of the parties through deodi and in marriages Toran (temporary gate) is embedded on the deodi. This witness has further deposed that he worked as carpenter in the house of the defendant. The path in dispute is being used by the plaintiff through deodi and no other path was in use. This witness, in his cross-examination, has stated that currently there is no deodi (gate/arch) as the same has been removed. He has denied that there was a single roof of the house and deodi and the roof of the deodi is at lower level. He has also denied that there is no other ingress to the house of the plaintiff, through the disputed common path.

13. After amending the plaint, plaintiff, Shri Jagdish Ram, re-examined himself as PW-7 and he has produced in evidence his affidavit, wherein he has testified that during the pendency of the suit, defendant tethered the iron stairs in the disputed path thereby creating obstruction in the use of common path and as the same was constricted. The defendant continued with his acts despite the ad interim injunction order of the Court. He has refuted that there is no path where iron stairs were placed. He has further deposed that compromise, Ex. PW-7/A, was entered at the instance of father of the defendant and as per the same, the parties have agreed to maintain the common path (deodi) in the same position, but with certain stipulations. He has denied that due to placing of iron stairs no obstruction is caused and one can pass freely without any difficulty. However, reply to the suggestion itself reveals that iron stairs were placed in the deodi.

14. PW-8, Shri Braham, who is one of the co-sharer in the abadi (inhabitation) alongwith other parties, through his evidence, testified his affidavit, Ex. PW-8/A. In his affidavit he has sworn that disputed path is common and in the month of November, 2002, the defendant placed iron stairs on it thereby obstructing the same. Local Commissioner also found this obstruction when he visited the spot. The plaintiff had also tendered in evidence copy of statement of defendant, Ex. DX, which reveals that initially he has denied the existence of placing of stair case on the disputed path, however, afterwards he deposed that stair case was not put by his brother, but by him. This statement fortifies that iron stair case has been placed on the deodi. Shri Vikram Sarmai, Advocate, through his statement, Ex. P5, deposed that he was appointed as Local Commissioner by the Court on 03.12.2002 and he visited the spot on the same day. In his cross-examination he has stated that on the day when he visited the spot, iron stair case was not affixed on the ground, however, the same was tethered over the path with the lintel of the house of the defendant. He has further stated that land under the stair case was vacant, but it was difficult to pass through that land. Ex P6, report of the Local Commissioner clearly depicts that during inspection, except iron stairs, no other obstruction was found on the disputed path, which leads to the joint abadies (inhabitations) and courtyard of the parties. Report also reveals that there exists a common path on the spot and stair case has been kept there on the path.

15. The defendant, in rebuttal, examined DW-1, Shri Hoshiar Singh, who testified his affidavit, Ex. DW-1/A, wherein he has stated that there is no deodi, however, the plaintiff has extended the construction of his house towards the courtyard and path and has also reared stairs. Path has been constricted due to the act of the plaintiff. In his cross-examination, this witness deposed that defendant did not construct the house and the same was constructed by Vipin. He has denied that the defendant has threatened to obstruct the path. Shri Bidhi Chand (DW-2) has also testified his affidavit, Ex. DW-2/A, wherein he has stated that he constructed the house of Vipin on the same land where the old house of the defendant was in existence. He has also testified that plaintiff has obstructed the path by raising construction. However, this witness could not clearly deny that the path, which leads to the house of the plaintiff, is in existence since the time of forefathers of the parties. DW-1, Shri Hoshiar Singh and DW-2, Shri Bidhi Chand, are residents of nearby village Balian and both these witnesses in their cross-examinations have stated that they are deposing at the instance of Shri Vipin. These witnesses could not depose that whether there is path through the deodi of the old house. They have denied that door is 6 feet and stated that it is 3 feet and there is no deodi, but a door. These witnesses have admitted that the plaintiff used to enter his house from the vacant land adjoining to the house of Braham Dutt.

16. Shri Thakur Dass (DW-3) has also testified his affidavit, Ex. DW-3/A and stated that he lives at a distance of 1½ or 2 kilometers. As per his version, there is no obstruction caused by the defendant in the path. In his cross-examination he has deposed that there is a door in the old house of the plaintiff, but he could not tell whether this door is being used by him or not.

17. Shri Ved Prakash (DW-4) has also testified his affidavit, Ex. DW-4/A and deposed that there was no deodi or path. He has also testified that the common path leads to the house of the plaintiff through Khasra No. 173 and claimed that Vipin has joint house. This witness, in his cross-examination, has stated that Sh. V.S. Gill, Local Commissioner, visited the spot and found that construction material of Vipin was lying there on the deodi, however, there was no projection of chajja during that time. Shri Sukhwant Singh (DW-6) has also testified his affidavit, Ex. DW-6/A, wherein he has deposed that at the instance of the defendant he has prepared the spot map depicting the iron stair case. In the spot map, Ex. DW-6/A, Shri Sukhwant Singh (DW-6) did not show disputed path, which is there in spot map, Ex. PW-1/A, and only a village path has been depicted in blue ink. The path has been shown from the other side. DW-6 has denied that a 6 feet path was in existence on the spot. He admits that in spot map, Ex. DW-6/A, at point marked as 'D', there is projection of chajja, however he could not tell that whether the said projection is of the house of the defendant. He has denied that path which leads to the house of the plaintiff goes through the place where the iron stair case has been tethered. Shri Satish Kumar, Pardhan (DW-7) has also testified his affidavit, wherein he has revealed that path, which leads to the house of the parties to the suit and other co-sharers, has been paved with Panchayat funds. In his cross-examination he has deposed that he resides at village which is at a distance of one kilometer and the path, which is paved, goes outside the abadies (inhabitations) of the parties to the suit.

18. As per the claim of the plaintiff, land depicted by letters ABCD is common path, which is also depicted in the spot maps Ex. P9, Ex. PW-1/A and Ex. PW-2/A, and he sought removal of projected chajja, which is depicted by letters AHIC as well as the stair case. Taking into consideration the evidence of the parties, it is apparent that parties to the suit are co-sharers and joint owners of the land and they have separate possession on their houses. As per the defendant, he has not constructed any house, but on the old foundations of the house his younger brother, Vipin, has constructed a house. It also appears that, as per the defendant, passage is still in existence on the spot and the same is in use and has not been constricted. Precisely, the defendant is trying to make out a case that neither he has constructed any house nor extended chajja of his house or tethered stair case on the path in question, thereby obstructing the same. Conversely, the defendant testified that owing to the construction of the house by the plaintiff, the path in question has been constricted, however, said fact did not find mention in the written statement. The defendant also claimed that the path for general public passes through the land comprised in Khasra No. 173 and due to which the plaintiff is not entitled to claim the path through deodi, which is shown by letters ABCD. As per the learned senior counsel for the defendant, the plaintiff has failed to establish his right to use the path in question on the basis of easement of necessity or by way of prescription. On the other hand the plaintiff has to prove that he has acquired right of passage by way of necessity or by way of prescription, but in the present case the land comprised in Khasra No. 90, is joint land of the parties. It stands also established that path in dispute is in existence since time immemorial and since then the parties were using the same as common path, through deodi. Deodi is a common gate or entrance used by the residents of same abadi (inhabitation).

19. Ex. P6, i.e. report of the Local Commission, Shri V.S. Gill (PW-3) and statement, Ex. P5, of Shri Vikram Sermai, Advocate, go to establish that there was no obstruction in the path in question when the suit was instituted and during the pendency of the same the defendant, and not his younger brother Vipin, extended the chajja of his house towards the path, which is depicted by letters AHC and also tethered iron stair case over the path thereby causing obstruction to the path. As it also stands established that the path in question is common path denoted by letters ABCD and it is being used by the parties since time immemorial, the parties have right to use the same in future as well, as such, the defendant by no stretch of imagination has right to create any obstruction in the path in question and constricting the same.

20. In 2014(2) HLR 1209, Ranjeet Khanna vs. Chiragu Deen & another, this Hon'ble Court has held as under:

> "30. While going through Order 26 Rule 10 CPC, one comes to inescapable conclusion that the Commissioner's report is a part of evidence, is admissible and can be relied upon while discussing the other evidence, in the given circumstances of the case."

So, the report of the Local Commissioner is admissible and after taking into consideration the report of the Local Commissioner, this Court finds that as far as the house of the defendant is concerned, same has been raised on the old lines on which house of his father was existing, but as far as chajja is concerned, the same has been extended towards the main path. The stair case, which was put up by the defendant, on the common path, is definitely causing obstruction in using the common path by the co-sharers/co-owners. The rights of the co-sharers and co-owners have already been defined by this Court in Kewal Krishan and another vs. Amrit Lal, RSA No. 575 of 2010, which are enumerated as under:

> "(a). A co-owner/co-sharer has an interest/right in the whole property, i.e., in every inch of it.
> (b). Possession of joint property by one co-owner/co-sharer, is in the eye of law, possession of all even if all, except one are actually out of possession.
> (c). A mere occupation of a larger portion or even of an entire joint property by one co-sharer/co-owner does not amount to ouster of the other, as the possession of one is deemed to be on behalf of all. This is subject to an exception when there is complete and conclusive ouster of a co-owner/co-sharer by another, but in order to negative the presumption of joint possession on behalf of all, on the ground of such ouster, the possession of a co-owner/co-sharer must not only be exclusive but also hostile to the knowledge of the other, i.e., when a co-owner openly asserts his own title and denies that of the other.
> (d). Lapse of time does not extinguish the right of the co-owner/co-sharer, who has been out of possession of the joint property, except in the event of abandonment.

(e). Every co-owner/co-sharer has a right to use the joint property in a husband like manner not inconsistent with similar rights of other co-owners/co-sharers.

(f). Where a co-owner/co-sharer is in possession of separate parcels under an arrangement/consent by the other co-owners/co-sharer, it is not open to any co-sharer/co-owner to disturb the arrangement without the consent of others, except by way of partition.

(g). Whenever there is severance of title and the parties have a long possession on the parcels of joint land, as far as possible, the partition is required to be made in a manner that party in occupation, as far as possible, be adjusted in that portion or part of that.

(h). Co-sharers/co-owners are expected to respect the right of others even when they are in settled possession on specific portion of the land in a manner that the easementary rights of the others are not obstructed.

(i). The co-sharers/co-owners are required to respect the sentiments of each other to maintain peace among themselves. This is not only a legal, but a moral duty as well, which is required to be followed by the co-sharers/co-owners and should be recognized as a right while adjudicating the rights of the parties, as the ultimate goal of the administration of justice is to maintain peace in the society, especially among the co-sharers/co-owners.

(j) The eldest co-sharer/co-owner is duty bound to come forward and settle the dispute inter se any two or more co-sharers/co-owners after mediating. This is not only his duty as a co-sharer/co-owner being elder, but also his moral duty to spare some time, experience, mental faculties and the respect he command to mediate dispute(s) among the co-sharers/co-owners in order to achieve peace. The Courts can also make use of such process by taking help from the elder co-sharer/co-owner by asking him to mediate the matter, so that the peace is achieved among the co-shares/co-owners and ultimately in the society."

21. The case of the defendant is that the stair case was tethered on the place where old bamboo stair case was in existence, however, the same is without any basis as he has failed to substantiate it by leading any evidence on record. At the same point of time, it is clear that the deodi and common path was being used since time immemorial, though the deodi was not in existence as the same stood demolished, but it is clear that the same was being used by all the land owners and the defendant has no right to obstruct the use of the deodi and the path being used by the plaintiff and other co-owners.

22. In Basohli (deceased) vs. Bhagtu Ram & others, Latest HLJ 2015 (HP) 1037, this Hon'ble Court has held that the First Appellate Court can decide the appeal on all the points. I have considered the arguments of the parties on all the aspects and also gone through the record of the case on each aspect, but no error is found in the findings arrived at by the Court below so the judgment cited by the learned senior counsel for the appellant is considered, but as there is no irregularity, illegality in the judgment of the learned Court below, the findings of the Court below are held to be as per law after appreciating the facts to its true perspective. As such substantial question of law No. 1 is answered accordingly.

23. I have considered the law cited by the learned senior counsel for the appellant in 2010(13) SCC 216, Municipal Committee, Hoshiarpur vs. Punjab State Electricity Board, it is clear that the Hon'ble High Court in exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC can definitely go into the question whether the findings arrived at by the First Appellate Court and Trial Court are the result of erroneous approach and in case the findings are perverse, the appeal is maintainable, but in the present case the Court below has considered all the material aspects of the case, documentary as well as oral evidence led by the parties and the pleadings of the parties are appreciated in their right perspective and the law has been applied correctly. So, the law cited by the learned senior counsel for the appellant (defendant) is not helpful to the appellant in this case and the substantial question No. 2 is answered holding that the findings recorded by the Court below are just, reasoned and after appreciating the evidence and pleadings in their true perspective.

24. As far as the grant of mandatory injunction is concerned, since the appellant has raised the obstruction on the joint land and has obstructed the right of the plaintiff, so the relief, as granted by the Court below to the plaintiff, is as per law and so substantial question No. 3 is answered accordingly.

25. The Lower Appellate Court has given findings considering whole of the evidence and by a detailed and reasoned order had decreed the suit of the plaintiff, as the findings of the Court below are reasoned one and the findings, as arrived at by the Trial Court, are set aside giving full reasons and after appreciating the facts and evidence in their true perspective, it is held that the Court below has rightly come to the conclusion with respect to the facts and law and the findings of the learned Lower Appellate Court requires no interference. Substantial question No. 4 is answered accordingly.

26. In a nutshell, as a result of the above discussion, the appeal is devoid of merits, hence dismissed.

27. In view of dismissal of the appeal, pending application(s), if any, shall also stand(s) disposed of. However, the parties are left to bear their own costs throughout.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Both these appeals are outcome of award dated 23.03.2010, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (2) Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as 'the Tribunal'), in M.A.C. Petition No.57/2002, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.14,43,470/- with interest @ 7% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the owners-insured of both the vehicles were saddled with liability in equal shares, (hereinafter referred to as 'the impugned award').

2. This judgment shall govern both the appeals.

Brief Facts:

3. The claimants had filed the claim petition before the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.25,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

4. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents on the grounds taken in their memo of objections. During the pendency of the claim petition respondents No. 1 & 4 in the claim petition, i.e. Meena Kumari and Balwinder Singh were set ex-parte.

5. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal:

"1. Whether the deceased Ajay Kumar Awasthi was travelling in truck No.HP24-5675 owned by respondent no.1 on 16.7.2002 from Parara to Theog as alleged? OPP.

2. Whether the driver of truck No.HP 24- 5675 now deceased was driving this truck in a rash and negligent manner and had struck it against another offending vehicle HR 58-1212 owed by respondent no.3 and driven by respondent no.4 also in a rash and negligent manner and due to this collision of these offending vehicles the deceased Ajay Kumar Awasthi had died? OPP

3. If issue no.2 is proved in affirmative to what amount of compensation the petitioners being legal heirs of the deceased are entitled to and from whom? OPP.
4. Whether the petition is not maintainable in the present form and the petitioners have no locus standi and cause of action to file this petition as alleged? OPR 1 & 3
5. Whether the petition is bad for non joinder and mis joinder of necessary parties as alleged? OPR1
6. Whether the accident had taken place due to the mechanical defect developed in the truck No. HP 24-5675 as alleged, if so, its effect? OPR1-2
7. Whether the driver of offending vehicle HP 24-5675 was not holding a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident as alleged, if so its effect? OPR2
8. Whether the offending truck HP 24-5675 was being plied without valid documents, if so its effect? OPR2
9. Whether the deceased was a gratuitous passenger in the transport vehicle, if so its effect? OPR
10. Whether respondent no.4 was not holding valid and effective driving licence to drive the offending vehicle HR 58-1212 on the date of accident? OPR5
11. Whether the respondent 3 and 4 were plying the offending truck HR 58-1212 in violation of terms and conditions of insurance policy as alleged? OPR5
12. Whether the petitioners are not entitled to interest in view of the act and conduct of the petitioners as alleged? OPR5
13. Relief."

6. Parties have led evidence. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that the claimants have proved that the drivers of the offending vehicles, i.e. trucks bearing registration Nos. HP-24-5675 and HR-58-1212, had driven the said trucks, rashly and negligently and the accident was outcome of their contributory negligence, it has also held that Ajay Kumar deceased was travelling in the offending truck No. HP-24-5675.

7. The claimants, drivers and insurers of both the offending vehicles have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far it relates to them.

Issues 1 & 2.

8. The insured-owners have questioned the findings returned by the Tribunal to the extent that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling them with liability and in discharging the insurer. The findings recorded viz-a-viz Issues 1 & 2 are not, in fact, under challenge. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issues 1 & 2 are upheld.

9. Before dealing with Issue No. 3, I deem it proper to deal with issues No. 4 to 12.

Issue No. 4.

10. It was for respondents No. 1 & 3 in the claim petition to prove issue No. 4, have not led any evidence, thus have failed to discharge the onus. The claimants are the victims of the accident, which fact stands proved. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 4 are upheld.

Issue No. 5.

11. It was for respondent No. 1 in the claim petition to prove issue No. 5, has not led any evidence, thus has failed to discharge the onus. The claim petition was not bad for nonjoinder and mis-joinder of necessary parties. Accrordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 5 are upheld.

Issue No. 6.

12. The onus to prove this issue was on respondents No. 1 & 2 in the claim petition, have failed to do so. However, this issue is governed by the findings returned on issue No. 1. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 6 are upheld.

Issue No. 7.

13. It was for respondent No. 2 in the claim petition, i.e. New India Insurance Company-insurer of truck No. HP-24-5675 to prove that the driver of the said truck was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, has failed to lead any evidence. Accordingly, it is held that the Tribunal has rightly recorded the findings on Issue No. 7. Thus, the findings returned by the Tribunal on the said issue are upheld.

Issue No. 8.

14. The onus to prove this issue was on respondent No. 2-New India Insurance Company-insurer of truck No. HP-24-5675 that the said truck was being driven without valid documents, has failed to discharge the same. The findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 8 are upheld.

Issue No. 9.

15. It was for the insurer, namely, New India Insurance Company Ltd. to plead and prove that deceased Ajay Kumar Awasthi was traveling as a gratuitous passenger in truck No. HP-24-5675. Admittedly, deceased was a government official as Assistant Development Officer (Agriculture) and had boarded the offending truck. He was accompanied by one Rajinder Singh, who appeared before the Tribunal as RW-1 and deposed that both of them had boarded the said truck without any luggage. The said evidence has remained unrebutted. However, it is corroborated by one Naresh Chauhan, who appeared before the Tribunal as PW-2 and deposed that he visited the spot and there was no luggage/material on the spot. Accordingly, I am of the considered view that the Tribunal has rightly recorded the finding that the deceased was travelling in truck No. HP-24-5675 as a gratuitous passenger. Thus, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 9 are upheld.

Issue No. 10

16. The Tribunal has wrongly recorded that driver of truck No. HR-58-1212 was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the relevant time for the following reasons.

17. Learned Counsel for owner of truck No. HP-24-5675 has placed on record copy of the award dated 30.03.2006, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (III), Shimla, in MACT No. 70-S/2 of 2005/02, titled as Smt. Neena Rani & another versus Sh. Ashwani Kumar & others, wherein it was held that driver of the offending vehicle was having a valid and effective driving licence. The insurer-Oriental Insurance Company has not questioned the said award. Thus, it has attained finality. The said claim petition was also outcome of the same accident which has given birth to the appeals in hand. Thus, the Oriental Insurance Company is estopped from pleading and proving that driver Balwinder Singh was not having a valid and effective driving licence, rather, is caught by the principle of res judicata. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 10 are set aside and it is held that driver was having valid and effective driving licence.

Issue No. 11.

18. The onus to prove this issue was upon the insurer of truck No. HR-58-1212, i.e. Oriental Insurance Company, has not led any evidence, thus has failed to discharge the same. The findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 11 are upheld.

Issue No. 12.

19. The Tribunal has rightly decided this issue. Thus, the findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 12 are upheld.

Issue No. 3.

20. The adequacy of compensation is not in dispute. However, I have perused the record and the impugned award and am of the considered view that the Tribunal has rightly made the assessment and it cannot be said that the compensation is excessive or meager, in any way. Accordingly, it is held that the just and appropriate compensation has been granted by the Tribunal.

21. The deceased was travelling in offending truck No. HP-24-5675 as a gratuitous passenger. The owner of said offending truck i.e. Smt. Meena Kumari-respondent No. 1 in the claim petition and the appellant in FAO No. 246 of 2010, had willful committed breach. Thus, it is held that she has to satisfy 50% of the award and rightly came to be saddled with liability.

22. The offending truck No. HR-58-1212 had hit the truck No. HP-24-5675 and the accident was outcome of contributory negligence of the drivers of both the vehicles. The owner of truck No. HR-58-1212 has not committed any willful breach. The willful breach committed by the owner of truck No. HP-24-5675, cannot be a ground for the insurer-Oriental Insurance Company to seek exoneration. The findings returned by the Tribunal in exonerating the insurer-Oriental Insurance Company, are set aside and it is held that the Oriental Insurance Company has to satisfy the impugned award to the extent of 50%.

23. It is the mandate of law that the insured-owner has to obtain insurance policy relating to the third party risk in order to protect and safeguard the rights and interests of third party. Keeping in view the mandate of Sections 146 to 149 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, the insurer has to satisfy the impugned award to the extent of 50%, at the first instance, with right of recovery from owner-insured of truck No. HP-24-5675.

24. The Tribunal has also fallen in an error in awarding interest @ 7% per annum, which was to be awarded as per the prevailing rates.

25. It is a beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281; Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2012) 11 SCC 738; Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2053; Kalpanaraj & others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982; Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 433; and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

26. Having said so, I deem it proper to enhance the rate of interest from 7% per annum to 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization. Issue No. 3 is answered accordingly.

27. The statutory amount deposited by owners is awarded as costs in favour of the claimants.

28. The Registry is directed to release the compensation amount and the costs in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees account cheque or by depositing the same in their accounts.

29. Viewed thus, the impugned award is modified, as indicated above, FAO No. 223 of 2010 is allowed and FAO No. 246 of 2010 is disposed of.

30. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

Per Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

In this petition, a question of vital public importance has been raised for the protection of cows. The petitioner is a registered organization. The aim and object of the petitioner-organization is to protect Cows and to preserve its varieties. The petitioner has also sought complete ban on cow slaughter. There is no proper arrangement for food, medicine and infrastructure for the cows. The cows are found abandoned throughout the State of Himachal Pradesh. The cows are also transported outside the State brutally for slaughtering. The devotion of Indians towards worship of cows is an integral part of Hinduism. There is dire need to construct modern gaushallas/gausadans in the State of Himachal Pradesh to protect abandoned cows. There should be compulsory registration of the cattle as well as gausadans/gaushallas. The petitioner in fact has sought complete ban on cow slaughter in India.

2. The former President of India Dr. Radhakrishnan in his Speech on "The Role of Cow in Indian Economy" has addressed as follows:

> "There is a great deal of sentiment for the cow; but in our daily life the welfare of the cow has been sadly neglected. There is a tendency among our people to maintain large numbers of cattle and to take pride in them, but adequate attention is not paid to their being properly fed and cared for. The result has been that the average productivity of the cow has remained low. In the changing economy of the country, there is increasing need for more productive cattle for both milk and draught.
> There is a large scope for non-official organizations supplementing the efforts made by the governmental agencies for cattle and dairy development in the country. Special mention may be made of the traditional institutions of gaushalas and pinjrapoles spread all over the country which, I think, have to play an increasingly important role in the field of protection and development of cattle. The gaushalas and pinjrapoles, as voluntary public bodies, have the advantage of being in direct contact with the people. With the advancement of science and the spread of education in the country, our people are becoming increasingly conscious of the need to apply improved methods in all fields of development. The gaushalas, which are reorienting their outlook on scientific lines, can carry the message of scientific development of cattle to the general public. Schemes for the development and reorganization of gaushalas and pinjrapoles as cattle-breeding-cum-milk production centres have been included in the Third Five Year Plan, and it is noteworthy that these institutions are availing themselves increasingly of the assistance provided under various schemes."

3. In "The Indian Constitution Cornerstone of a Nation", the learned author Granville Austin, has observed that the provision pertaining to the improvement of agriculture and animal husbandry techniques and the prohibition of cow slaughter was added to the Directive Principles for a mixture of reasons. He made the following observations qua Article 48:

> "The need to improve agriculture was obvious, and cattle generally, the cow particularly, held a place of special reverence in Hindu thought. The religious aspect of cow protection had also long standing political ramifications. Indian Muslims killed cows both for food and as part of religious ceremonies. Hindus, of course, resented this; cow protection societies had existed for at least sixty years prior to the Assembly, and a religious difference had become a major political cause espoused by genuine believers and unscrupulous opportunists alike, for reasons both honourable and otherwise. In the days of the British Raj, many Hindu revivalists had promised themselves that with independence cow killing would stop. Those of this persuasion in the Assembly believed that the time for action was ripe and, as a result of agreement in the Congress Assembly Party meeting, the measure passed without opposition. No one would have quarreled with the need to modernize agriculture, but many may have found the reference to cow-killing distasteful. There is good evidence that Nehru did. Generally speaking, however, Hindu feeling ran high on the subject, and one may surmise that those who opposed the anti-cow-killing cause bent with the wind, believing the issue not sufficiently important to warrant a firm stand against it. As various provisions of the Irish Constitution show that Ireland is a Roman Catholic nation, so Article 48 shows that Hindu sentiment predominated in the Constituent Assembly."

4. Pandit Thakur Dass Bhargava, the Hon'ble Member of the Constituent Assembly has eloquently debated the sensitive issue of "protection of cows" on 24th November, 1948 in the Constituent Assembly while seeking amendment in proposed Article 38-A at page 568 of the Constituent Assembly Debates (Vol. VII) as under:

"I wanted to speak in Hindi which is my own language about the cow and I would request you not to order me to speak in English. As the subject is a very important one, I would like to express myself in the way in which I can express myself with greater ease and facility. I would therefore request you kindly to allow me to speak in Hindi.

*[Mr. Vice-President, with regard to this amendment I would like to submit before the House that in fact this amendment like the other amendment, about which Dr. Ambedkar has stated, is his manufacture. Substantially there is no difference between the two amendments. In a way this is an agreed amendment. While moving this amendment, I have no hesitation in stating that for people like me and those that do not agree with the point of view of Dr. Ambedkar and others, this entails, in a way, a sort of sacrifice. Seth Govind Das had sent one such amendment to be included in the Fundamental Rights and other members also had sent similar amendments. To my mind it would have been much better if this could have been incorporated in the Fundamental Rights, but some of my Assembly friends differed and it is the desire of Dr. Ambedkar that this matter, instead of being included in Fundamental Rights should be incorporated in the Directive Principles. As a matter of fact, it is the agreed opinion of the Assembly that this problem should be solved in such a manner that the objective is gained without using any sort of coercion. I have purposely adopted this course, as to my mind, the amendment fulfils our object and is midway between the Directive Principles and the Fundamental Rights.

I do not want that due to its inclusion in the Fundamental Rights, non-Hindus should complain that they have been forced to accept a certain thing against their will. So far as the practical question is concerned, in my opinion, there will be absolutely no difference if the spirit of the amendment is worked out faithfully, wheresoever this amendment is placed. With regard to Article38 which the House has just passed, I would like to state that Article 38 is like a body without a soul. If you fail to pass Article 38-A which is the proposed amendment, then Article 38 will be meaningless. How can you improve your health and food position, if you do not produce full quota of cereals and milk?

This amendment is divided into three parts. Firstly, the agriculture should be improved on scientific and modern lines. Secondly, the cattle breed should be improved; and thirdly, the cow and other cattle should be protected from slaughter. To grow more food and to improve agriculture and the cattle breed are all inter-dependent and are two sides of the same coin. Today, we have to hang our head in shame, when we find that we have to import cereals from outside. I think our country is importing 46 million tons of cereals from outside. If we calculate the average of the last twelve years, namely, from 1935 to 1947, then it would be found that this country has produced 45 million tons of cereals every year. Therefore, it is certain that we are not only self-sufficient but can also export cereals from our country. If we utilize water properly, construct dams, and have proper change in the courses of rivers, use machines and tractors, make use of cropping and manuring, then surely the production will increase considerably. besides all these, the best way of increasing the production is to improve the health of human beings and breed of cattle, whose milk and manure and labour are most essential for growing food. Thus the whole agricultural and food problem of this country is nothing but the problem of the improvement of cow and her breed. And therefore I would like to explain to you by quoting some figures, how far cattle-wealth has progressed and what is the position today.

In 1940, there were 11,56,00,960 oxen in India and in1945 only 11,19,00,000 were left. That is to say, during these five years, there was a decrease of 37 lacs in the number of oxen. Similarly the number of buffaloes in 1940,was 3,28,91,300 and in 1945, this figure was reduced to3,25,44,400. According to these figures, during these five years, their number was reduced by four lacs. Thus during these five years there was decrease of 41 lacs in the sum total of both the above figures taken together.

Besides this, if we see the figures of the slaughtered cattle in India we find that in 1944, 60,91,828 oxen were slaughtered, while in 1945 sixty five lacs were slaughtered i.e., four lakhs more. In the same year 7,27: 189 buffaloes were slaughtered. I do not want to take much of your time. If you wish to see latest figures then I have got them upto1945. You can see them. I have got figures for Bombay and Madras. A look at these figures will show that there has been no decrease in their slaughter, rather it is on the increase. Therefore, I want to submit before you that the slaughter of cattle should be banned here Ours is an agricultural country and the cow is `Kam-Dhenu' to us - fulfiller of all our wants. From both points of view, of agriculture and food, protection of the cow becomes necessary. Our ancient sages and Rishis, realising her importance, regarded her as very sacred. here, Lord Krishna, who served cows so devotedly that to this day, in affection he is known as "Makhan Chor". I would not relate to you the story of Dalip, how that Raja staked his own life for his cow. But I would like to tell you that even during the Muslim rule, Babar, Humayun, Akbar, Jahangir and even in the reign of Aurangzeb, cow slaughter was not practised in India; not because Muslims regarded it to be bad but because, from the economic point of view, it was unprofitable.

Similarly in every country, in China, cow-slaughter is a crime. It is banned in Afghanistan as well. A year ago, a similar law was passed in Burma, before that, under a certain law cattle only above fourteen years of age could be slaughtered. But eventually, the Burma Government realized that this partial ban on slaughter was not effective. On the pretext of useless cattle many useful cattle are slaughtered. I have read in newspapers that the Pakistan Government has decided to stop the export of cattle from Western Pakistan, and they too have enforced a partial ban on slaughter of animals. In the present conditions in our country, cow-breeding is necessary, not for milk supply alone, but also for the purposes of draught and transport. It is no wonder that people worship cow in this land. but I do not appeal to you in the name of religion; I ask you to consider it in the light of economic requirements of the country. In this connection I would like to tell you the opinion of the greatest leader of our country - the Father of the Nation – on the subject. You know the ideas of revered Mahatmaji on this topic. He never wanted to put any compulsion on Muslims or non-Hindus. He said, "I hold that the question of cow-slaughter is of great moment - in certain respects of even greater moment - than that of Swaraj. Cow-slaughter and manslaughter are, in my opinion, two sides of the same coin."

Leaving it aside, I want to draw your attention to the speech of our President, Dr. Rajendra Prasad. After this the Government of India, appointed a committee - an expert representative committee-to find out whether for the benefit of the country the number of cattle can be increased, and whether their slaughter can be stopped. The Committee has unanimously decided in its favour. Seth Govind Das was also a member of the committee. The committee unanimously decided that cattle slaughter should be banned. Great minds were associated with the said committee. They examined the question from the economic view-point; they gave thought to the unproductive and unserviceable cattle also. After viewing the problem from all angles they came to the unanimous decision that slaughter of cattle should be stopped. That resolution relates not to cows alone. Slaughtering of buffaloes, which yield 50 per cent of our milk supply, and of the goats which yield 3 per cent of our milk supply, and also bring a profit of several crores, is as sinful as that of cows. In my district of Hariana, a goat yields 3 to 4 seers of milk. Perhaps a cow does not yield that much in other areas. Therefore I submit that we should consider it from an economic point of view. I also want to state that many of the cattle, which are generally regarded as useless, are not really so. Experts have made an estimate of that, and they came to the conclusion that the cattle which are regarded as useless are not really so, because we are in great need of manure. A cow, whether it be a milch-cow or not, is a moving manure factory and so, as far as cow is concerned, there can be no question of its being useless or useful. It can never be useless. In the case of cow there can be no dispute on the point.] (Hearing the bell being rung.) Am I to stop?

As the Vice-President has ordered me to finish off, I shall not go into the details; otherwise I can prove by figures that the value of the refuse and urine of a cow is greater than the cost of her maintenance. In the end, I would wind up by saying that there might be people, who regard the question of banning cow-slaughter as unimportant, but I would like to remind them that the average age in our country is 23 years, and that many children die under one year of age! The real cause of all this is shortage of milk and deficiency in diet. Its remedy lies in improving the breed of the cow, and by stopping its slaughter. I attach very great importance to this amendment, so much so that if on one side of the scale you were to put this amendment and on the other all these315 clauses of the draft, I would prefer the former. If this is accepted, the whole country would be, in a way, electrified. Therefore, I request you to accept this amendment unanimously with acclamation.

5. Seth Govind Das has debated at page 571 of Constituent Assembly Debates Vol. VII as under:

Mr. President, the amendment moved by Pandit Thakur Das Bhargava appears to be rather inadequate as a directive in its present form. I therefore move my amendment to his amendment. My amendment runs thus:

> "That in amendment No. 1002 of the list of Amendments in article 38-A the words and other useful cattle, specially milch cattle and of child bearing age, young stocks and draught cattle' be deleted and the following be added at the end:
> 'The word "cow' includes bulls, bullocks, young stock of genus cow'."

The object of the amendment is, I hope, quite clear from its words. The amendment moved by Pandit Bhargava prohibits the slaughter of cow and other useful cattle but according to it unfit or useless cows may be slaughtered .But the object of my amendment is, as far as cows are concerned, to prohibit the slaughter of any cow, be it useful or useless and in my amendment word 'cow' includes bulls, bullocks and calves all that are born of cows. As Pandit Thakur Das told you, I had submitted this earlier to be included in Fundamental Rights but I regret that it could not be so included. The reason given is that Fundamental Rights deal only with human beings and not animals. I had then stated that just as the practice of un touchability was going to be declared an offence so also we should declare the slaughter of cows to be an offence. But it was said that while untouchability directly affected human beings the slaughter of cows affected the life of animals only – and that as the Fundamental Rights were for human beings this provision could not be included therein. Well, I did not protest against that view and thought it proper to include this provision in the Directive Principles. It will not be improper, Sir, if I mention here, that it is not for the first time that I am raising the question of cow protection. I have been a member of the Central Legislature for the last twenty-five years and I have always raised this question in the Assembly and in the Council of State. The protection of cow is a question of long standing in this country. Great importance has been attached to this question from the time of Lord Krishna. I belong to a family which worships Lord Krishna as "Ishtadev". I consider myself a religious minded person, and have no respect for those people of the present day society whose attitude towards religion and religious minded people is one of contempt. It is my firm belief that Dharma had never been uprooted from the world and nor can it be uprooted. There had been unbelievers like Charvaka in our country also but the creed of Charvaka could never flourish in this country. Now-a-days the Communist leaders of the West also and I may name among them Karl Marx, Lenin, Stalin, declare religion "the opium of the People". Russia recognised neither religion nor God but we have seen that in the last war the Russian people offered prayers to God in Churches to grant them victory. Thus it is plain from the history of ancient times as also from that of God-denying Russia that religion could not be uprooted.

Moreover, cow protection is not only a matter of religion with us; it is also a cultural and economic question. Culture is a gift of History. India is an ancient country; consequently no new culture can be imposed on it. Whosoever attempts to do so is bound to fail; he can never succeed. Ours is a culture that has gradually developed with our long history. Swaraj will have no meaning for our people in the absence of a culture. Great important cultural issues - for instance the question of the name of the country, question of National Language, question of National Script, question of the National Anthem and question of the prohibition of cow slaughter - are before this Assembly and unless the Constituent Assembly decides these questions according to the wishes of the people of the country, Swarajya will have no meaning to the common people of our country. I would like to submit, Sir, that a referendum be taken on these issues and the opinion of the people be ascertained. Again, cow protection is also a matter of great economic importance for us. Pandit Thakur Das Bhargava has shown to you by quoting statistic how the cattle wealth of the country is diminishing. This country is predominantly agricultural in character. I would give some figures here regarding the position of our cattle wealth. In 1935 there were one hundred nineteen million and four hundred ninety one thousand (11,94,91,000) heads of cattle. In 1940 their number came down to one hundred fifteen million and six hundred ten thousand, and in 1945 it further came down to one hundred eleven million and 9hundred thousand. While on one side our population is increasing our cattle wealth is decreasing. Our Government is carrying on a Grow More Food Campaign. Millions of rupees are being spent on this campaign. This campaign cannot succeed so long as we do not preserve the cows. Pandit Thakur Das has given us some figures to show the number of cows slaughtered in our country. I would like to quote here some figures from the Hide and Skin Report of the Government of India. Fifty two lakhs of cows and thirteen lakhs of buffaloes are slaughtered every year in this country. It shows in what amazing numbers cattle are slaughtered here. Thirty six crores acres of land are under cultivation here. These figures also includes the land under cultivation in Pakistan. I have to give these figures because we have no figure of the land under cultivation in India since the secession of Pakistan from our country. We have six crores bullocks for the cultivation of the land. A scientific estimate would show that we need another one and a half crore of bullocks to keep this land under proper cultivation.

So far as the question of milk supply is concerned I would like to place before you figures of milk supply of other countries as compared to that of our country.

In New Zealand milk supply per capita is 56 ounces, in Denmark 40, in Finland 63, in Sweden 61, in Australia 45, in Canada 35, in Switzerland 49, in Netherland 35, in Norway 43, in U.S.A. 35, in Czechoslovakia 36, in Belgium 35, in Australia 30, in Germany 35, in France 30, in Poland 22, in Great Britain 39 and in India it is only 7 ounces. Just think what will be the state of health of the people of a country where they get only seven ounces of milk per head. There is a huge infantile mortality in this country. Children are dying like dogs and cats. How can they be saved without milk?

Thus even if we look at this problem from the economic point of view, we come to the conclusion that for the supply of milk and agriculture also, the protection of the cow is necessary.

I would like to place before the House one thing more. It has been proved by experience that whatever laws we may frame for the prevention of the slaughter of useful cattle, their object is not achieved. In every province there are such laws. There people slaughter cattle and pay some amount towards fines and sometimes escape even that. Thus our cattle wealth is declining day by day.

Sometime back there was a law like that in Burma but when they saw that cattle could not be saved under it, they banned cow slaughter altogether.

I would like to emphasise one point to my Muslim friends also. I would like to see my country culturally unified even though we may follow different religions. Justas a Hindu and a Sikh or a Hindu and a Jain can live in the same family, in the same way a Hindu and a Muslim can also live in the same family. The Muslims should come forward to make it clear that their religion does not compulsorily enjoin on them the slaughter of the cow. I have studied a little all the religions. I have read the life of Prophet Mohammad Sahib. The Prophet never took beef in his life. This is an historic fact.

Pandit Thakur Das Bhargava pointed out just now that from the time of Akbar to that of Aurangzeb, there was a banon cow slaughter. I want to tell you what Babar, the first Moghul Emperor told Humayun. He said: "Refrain from cow-slaughter to win the hearts of the people of Hindustan."

Pandit Thakur Dass Bhargava just now referred to the Committee constituted by the Government of India for this purpose. It recommended that cow slaughter should be totally banned. I admit that the Government will require money for the purpose. I want to assure you that there will be no lack of money for this purpose. If the allowance given to cattle-pounds and Goshalas is realised from the people by law, all the money needed would be realised. Even if the Government want to impose a new tax for this purpose every citizen of this country will be too glad to pay it. Therefore our Government should not raise before us the financial bogey sooften raised by the British Government. I have travelled a little in this country and I am acquainted with the [views of the people.]”

6. Prof. Shibban Lal Saksena has debated at page 574 of Constituent Assembly Debates Vol. VII as under:

"Sir, there are two aspects to this question. One is the religious aspect and the other is the economic aspect. I shall first deal with the religious aspect. I am not one of those men who think that merely because a thing has a religious aspect, it should not be enacted as law. I personally feel that cow protection, if it has become a part of the religion of the Hindus, it is because of its economic and other aspects, I believe that the Hindu religion is based mostly on the principles which have been found useful to the people of this country in the course of centuries. Therefore, if thirty crores of our population feel that this thing should be incorporated in the laws of the country, I do not think that we as an Assembly representing 35 crores should leave it out merely because it has a religious aspect. I agree with Seth Govind Das that we should not think that because a thing has a religious significance, so it is bad. I say, religion itself sanctifies what is economically good. I wish to show how important cattle preservation is for us mahatma Gandhi infact, has written in so many of his articles about his belief that cow protection was most essential for our country. From the scientific point of view, I wish to point out that Dr. Wright who is an expert on the subject in his report on our National Income says that out of 22 crores of national income per annum, about eleven crores are derived from the cattle wealth of India, representing the wealth of most of our people who live in the villages.

Sometimes it is supposed that we have too many cattle and that most of them are useless, and therefore, they must be slaughtered. This is a wrong impression. If you compare the figures, you will find that in India there are only 50cattle per 100 of the population, whereas in Denmark it is74, in U.S.A. 71, in Canada 80, in Cape Colony 120 and in New Zealand 150. So in New Zealand, there are about three times the number of cattle per head of population than we have here. So, to say that we have too many cattle is not right. As for useless cattle, scientists say that their excreta has value as manure and its cost is more than the expenditure on the upkeep of such cattle.

Then again, our agriculture depends mostly on cattle, as it is mostly of small holdings where the cultivators cannot make use of tractors and other implements. They depend on bullocks, and if you compare the figures of bullocks, you will find that although we have got an area of33 1/2 million acres of land to cultivate, we have only six crores of bullocks which works at about 16 bullocks per 100acres of land which is quite insufficient. Therefore, even from the point of view of our agricultural economy, we need a very large number of bullocks. It has been estimated that to meet our requirements, we would require about eleven crores more bullocks.

Then, coming to our requirements of milk and other products, if we compare our milk consumption with that of other countries, we find that it is only 5 oz. per head, andt hat is very little, compared to the figures of other countries. Therefore I think that we must have this amendment incorporated in our Constitution."

7. Dr. Raghu Vira has debated at page 575 of Constituent Assembly Debates Vol. VII as under:

" Sir, I think it my most bounden duty in this House to express the feelings, feelings which no words can really convey, that not a single cow shall be slaughtered in this land.

These sentiments which were expressed thousands of years ago still ring in the hearts of tens of millions of this land. My friends tell me that it is an economic question, that Muslim kings have supported the preservation of cows and banned the killing of the cows. That is all right. But when we attain freedom, freedom to express ourselves in every form and manner - our Preamble says 'There shall be liberty of expression' - is that merely expression of thought or is that the expression of our whole being? This country evolved a civilization and in that civilization we gave prominent place to what we call Ahimsa or non-killing and non-injury, not merely of human beings but also of the animal kingdom. The entire universe was treated as one and the cow is the symbol of that oneness of life and are we not going to maintain it? Brahma hatya and go-hatya - the killing of the learned man, the scientist, the philosopher or the sage and the killing of a cow are on a par. If we do not allow the killing of a scientist or a sage in this land it shall certainly be ordained by this House that no cow shall be killed. I know in my childhood we were not allowed to drink until the cow has had its drink and we were not allowed to eat till the cow has had its meal. The cow takes precedence over the children of the family, because she is the mother of the individual, she is the mother of the nation. Ladies and gentlemen in this House, I appeal to you to look back with serenity and to search your souls. We are representatives of millions of our people...........”

8. Sh. R.V. Dhulekar has debated at page 576 of Constituent Assembly Debates Vol. VII as under:

“ Sir, I always believed from my childhood that India had a mission and because India had a mission therefore I wanted the independence of this country. many millions of the people, who died for this country, also like me had believed that India had a mission, and what was that mission? The mission was that we should go about the world and carry the message of peace, love, freedom and Abhaya (freedom from fear) to every body in the world. When independence was achieved I was happy to believe that I shall carry out my mission, that I shall carry to the world this message, viz., that India has got no grudge against any country in the world, it has no expansionist ideas but that it is going to save the whole world from the danger of internecine war, bloodshed and many other ills that humanity is suffering from. In the same way and for the same purpose I appeal to the House to discuss this subject from a dispassionate point of view. It is not the crumbs, the loaves and fishes that we are fighting for. Loaves and fishes were left behind by some people thirty years back and by some others fifty years back. We did not want to achieve this independence for loaves and fishes. Those who want the mare welcome but men like us who have a mission or a message for the world cannot love loaves and fishes. We do not want ambassadorship, premierships, ministerships or wealth. We want that India should declare today that the whole human world as well as the whole animal world is free today and will be protected. The cow is a representative of the animal kingdom, the peepal tree is the representative of the vegetable kingdom, the touchstone or the shaligram is the representative of the mineral world. We want to save and give peace and protection to all those four worlds and therefore it is that the Hindus of India have put these four things as representatives of this world - the human being, the cow, the peepal and the shaligram. All these were worshipped because we wanted to protect the whole humantly. Our Upanishad says:

We do not want this property, we do not want this food; we do not want this raiment - not because we cannot take it; not because we are cowards; not because we cannot carry Imperialism to the four corners of the world; but we may not have it because we see the whole world identical with our own soul. So our humanity which resides in this Bharatvarsha for several thousand years has marched forward and has taken the cow within the fold of human society. Some people here talked to me and said "You say that you want to protect the cow and want it to be included in the Fundamental Rights. Is the protection of the cow a fundamental right of a human being? Or is it the fundamental right of the cow?" I replied to them and tell them suppose it is a question of saving your mother or protecting your mother. Whose fundamental right is it? Is it the fundamental right of the mother? No. It is my fundamental right to protect my mother, to protect my wife, my children and my country. In the Fundamental Rights you have said that you will give justice, equity and all these things. Why? Because you say "it is your fundamental right to have justice". What does that justice mean? It means that we shall be protected, our families shall be protected. And our Hindu society, or our Indian society, has included the cow in our fold. It is just like our mother. In fact it is more than our mother. I can declare from this platform that there are thousands of persons who will not run at a man to kill that man for their mother or wife or children, but they will run at a man if that man does not want to protect the cow or wants to kill her.

With these few words, I wish to say that these two amendments which have been put forward by Mr. Bhargava and Seth Govind Das should be dealt with dispassionately. I shall appeal to you that only that amendment should be passed which is very clear. If Mr. Bhargava's amendment is doubtful, then certainly Seth Govind Das's amendment should be passed.

9. Sh. Z.H. Lari has debated at page 577 of Constituent Assembly Debates Vol. VII as under:

"Mr. Vice-President, I appreciate the sentiments of those who want protection of the cow - may be on religious grounds or maybe in the interests of agriculture in this country. I have come here not to oppose or support any of the amendments but to request the House to make the position quite clear and not to leave the matter in any ambiguity or doubt. The House, at the same time, must appreciate that Mussalmans of India have been, and are, under the impression that they can, without violence to the principles which govern the State, sacrifice cows and other animals on the occasion of Bakrid. It is for the majority to decide one way or the other. We are not here to obstruct the attitude that the majority community is going to adopt. But let there not linger an idea in the mind of the Muslim public that they can do one thing, though in fact they are not expected to do that. The result has been, as I know in my own Province on the occasion of the last Bakrid, so many orders under Section 144 in various places, districts and cities. The consequence has been the arrests of many, molestation of even more, and imprisonment of some. Therefore, if the House is of the opinion that slaughter of cows should be prohibited, let it be prohibited in clear, definite and unambiguous words. I do not want that there should be a show that you could have this thing although the intention may be otherwise. My own submission to this House is that it is better to come forward and incorporate a clause in Fundamental Rights that cow slaughter is henceforth prohibited, rather than it being left vague in the Directive Principles, leaving it open to Provincial Governments to adopt it one way or the other, and even without adopting definite legislation to resort to emergency powers under the Criminal Procedure. In the interests of good-will in the country and of cordial relations between the different communities I submit that this is the proper occasion when the majority should express itself clearly and definitely.

I for one can say that this is a matter on which we will not stand in the way of the majority if the majority wants to proceed in a certain way, whatever may be our inclinations. We feel - we know that our religion does not necessarily say that you must sacrifice cow: it permits it. The question is whether, considering the sentiments that you have, considering the regard which the majority have for certain classes of animals, do they or do they not permit the minority - not a right - but a privilege or a permission which it at present has? I cannot put it higher. I won't class it as interference with my religion. But I do not want that my liberty should be taken away, and especially the peaceful celebration of any festival should be marred by the promulgation of orders under Section 144. I have come only to plead that. Therefore, let the leaders of the majority community here and now make it clear and not leave it to the back-benchers to come forward and deliver sermons one way or the other. Let those who guide the destinies of the country, make or mar them, say definitely "this is our view", and we will submit to it. We are not going to violate it. This is the only thing I have come to say. I hope you will not misunderstand me when I say this. It is not due to anger, malice or resentment but it is out of regard for cordial relations between the communities, and what is more, due to the necessity of having a clear mind that I say this. Henceforward the Muslim minority must know where they stand so that they may act accordingly, and there be no occasion for any misunderstanding between the majority and the Muslims on this point.

In view of what I have said, I would not oppose nor support any of the amendments, but I would invite a very clear and definite rule instead of the vague phraseology of the clauses which have been put forward. It proceeds to say that we should have modern and scientific agriculture. Modern and scientific agriculture will mean mechanization and so many other things. The preceding portion of the clause speaking about modern and scientific agriculture and the subsequent portion banning slaughter of cattle do not fit in with each other. I appreciate the sentiments of another member who said "this is our sentiment, and it is out of that sentiment that we want this article". Let that article be there, but for God's sake, postpone the discussion of the article and bring it in clear, definite and unambiguous terms so that we may know where we stand and thereafter there should be no occasion for any misunderstanding between the two communities on this issue which does not affect religion but affects practices which obtain in the country."

10. Pandit Thakur Dass Bhargava again debated at page 579 of Constituent Assembly Debates Vol. VII as under:

"Does not the honourable Member know that many useless cattle have been turned into good cattle by goshalas and other organisations and at least 90 per cent can be salvaged by proper feeding and treatment."

11. Article 48 of the Constitution of India reads as follows:

"48. Organisation of agriculture and animal husbandry. The State shall endeavour to organise agriculture and animal husbandry on modern and scientific lines and shall, in particular, take steps for preserving and improving the breeds, and prohibiting the slaughter, of cows and calves and other milch and draught cattle."

12. Article 51-A (g) of the Constitution of India reads as follows:

"51-A (g) to protect and improve the natural environment including forests, lakes, rivers and wild life, and to have compassion for living creatures;"

13. The relevant entry No. 15 of the State List in the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India reads as under:

"15. Preservation, protection and improvement of stock and prevention of animal diseases; veterinary training and practice."

14. Entry Nos. 17 & 17-B of the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule of the Constitution of India reads as under:

"17. Prevention of cruelty to animals.

17-B. Protection of wild animals and birds."

15. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Haji Usmanbhai Qureshi and others vs. The State of Gujarat, reported in AIR 1986 SC 1213, have upheld that ban put on slaughter of bulls and bullocks below 16 years, under clauses (c) and (d) of the Bombay Animal Preservation Act is not violative of Article 19(1) (g) of the Constitution. It has been held as follows:

> " 15. It is thus clear that because of various scientific factors, namely, better cattle feeding, better medical health and better animal husbandry services, the longevity of cattle in the State of Gujarat has increased and in this context it is correct to say that if the scientific tests were to be applied, bulls and bullocks upto sixteen years of age can be said to be useful for the purpose of breeding, draught and other agricultural purposes. In these circumstances the prescription of The age of sixteen years in clauses (c) and (d) of sub-s. (lA) of s.5 can be said to be reasonable, looking to the balance which has to be struck between public interest, which requires useful animals to be preserved and permitting the different appellants before us to carry on their trade and profession.
> 17. The material before the court thus clearly goes to show that with the help of the scientific advances which have taken place since 1962, the longevity of the cattle and their useful span of life has increased and, therefore, the prescribed age of sixteen years can be said to be a reasonable restriction on the right of the appellants to carry on their trade and profession as mentioned inArticle 19(1)(g) of the Constitution.
> 19. This contention in our opinion has no force. The dealers in different tpes of meat are not in the same class. It is only if the classification is unreasonable that it can be struck down. But here a clear distinction is maintained on scientific grounds between animals which are useful and which have not yet reached the age of 16 years so far as bulls and bullocks are concerned. As regards buffaloes there is no restriction as to the age and the only restriction is sub-s. (2) of s. 5 and that section has remained unamended, namely the test is whether the animal, male or female, is useful or likely to become useful for the purposes of milch or draught or any kind of agricultural operations; whether the animal, if male is useful or likely t become useful for the purpose of breeding, and whether the animal, if female, is useful or likely to become useful for the purpose of giving milk or bearing offspring. So looking to the different purposes for which buffaloes and their progeny on the one hand and cows and their progeny on the other hand are used in each State it cannot be said that there is any hostile discrimination against those who deal in meat of bulls and bullocks. Bulls and bullocks, particularly bullocks, are useful for agricultural purposes and male buffaloes are seldom used for any purpose other than breeding or rearing progeny and under these circumstances the impugned amendment is not hit by Art. 14 of the Constitution."

16. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Gujarat vs. Mirzapur Moti Kureshi Kassab Jamat and others, reported in (2005) 8 SCC 534, have expanded the scope of Article 48 vis-à-vis Article 51-A. The Hon'ble Supreme Court also discussed the unique and essential role of bovine and bovine dung in our economy. Their lordships have held as follows:

> "51. By enacting clause (g) in Article 51-A and giving it the status of a fundamental duty, one of the objects sought to be achieved by the Parliament is to ensure that the spirit and message of Articles 48 and 48A is honoured as a fundamental duty of every citizen. The Parliament availed the opportunity provided by the Constitution (Forty-second Amendment) Act, 1976 to improve the manifestation of objects contained in Article 48 and 48-A. While Article 48-A speaks of "environment", Article 51-A(g) employs the expression "the natural environment" and includes therein "forests, lakes, rivers and wild life".

While Article 48 provides for "cows and calves and other milch and draught cattle", Article 51-A(g) enjoins it as a fundamental duty of every citizen "to have compassion for living creatures", which in its wider fold embraces the category of cattle spoken of specifically in Article 48.

61. According to their inherent genetic qualities, cattle breeds are broadly divided into 3 categories (i) Milch breed (ii) Draught breed, and (iii) Dual purpose breed. Milch breeds include all cattle breeds which have an inherent potential for milk production whereas draught breeds have an inherent potential for draught purposes like pulling, traction of loads etc. The dual purpose breeds have the potential to perform both the above functions.

68. In our opinion, the expression 'milch or draught cattle' as employed in Article 48 of the Constitution is a description of a classification or species of cattle as distinct from cattle which by their nature are not milch or draught and the said words do not include milch or draught cattle, which on account of age or disability, cease to be functional for those purposes either temporarily or permanently. The said words take colour from the preceding words "cows or calves". A specie of cattle which is milch or draught for a number of years during its span of life is to be included within the said expression. On ceasing to be milch or draught it cannot be pulled out from the category of "other milch and draught cattle."

80. As we have already indicated, the opinion formed by the Constitution Bench of this Court in Quareshi-I is that the restriction amounting to total prohibition on slaughter of bulls and bullocks was unreasonable and was not in public interest. We, therefore, proceed to examine the evidence available on record which would enable us to answer questions with regard to the 'reasonability' of the imposed restriction qua 'public interest'.

81. The facts contained in the Preamble and the Statement of Objects and Reasons in the impugned enactment highlight the following facts:-

(i) it is established that cow and her progeny sustain the health of the nation;

(ii) the working bullocks are indispensable for our agriculture for they supply power more than any other animal (the activities for which the bullocks are usefully employed are also set out);

(iii) the dung of the animal is cheaper than the artificial manures and extremely useful of production of biogas;

(iv) it is established that the backbone of Indian agriculture is the cow and her progeny and they have on their back the whole structure of the Indian agriculture and its economic system;

(v) the economy of the State of Gujarat is still predominantly agricultural. In the agricultural sector use of animals for milch, draught, breeding or agricultural purposes has great importance. Preservation and protection of agricultural animals like bulls and bullocks needs emphasis. With the growing adoption of non-conventional energy sources like biogas plants, even waste material have come to assume considerable value. After the cattle cease to breed or are too old to work, they still continue to give dung for fuel, manure and biogas and, therefore, they cannot be said to be useless.

Apart from the fact that we have to assume the above- stated facts as to be correct, there is also voluminous evidence available on record to support the above said facts. We proceed to notice few such documents.

82. Shri J.S. Parikh, Deputy Secretary, Agriculture Cooperative and Rural Development, Department, State of Gujarat, filed three affidavits in the High Court of Gujarat in Special Civil Application No. 9991 of 1993. The first affidavit was filed on 20th October, 1993, wherein the following facts are discernible and mentioned as under:

(i) With the improved scientific animal husbandry services in the State, the average longivity of animals has considerably increased. In the year 1960, there were only 456 veterinary dispensaries and first aid veterinary centers etc, whereas in the year 1993, there are 946 veterinary dispensaries and first aid veterinary centers etc. There were no mobile veterinary dispensaries in 1960 while there are 31 mobile veterinary dispensaries in the State in 1993. In addition, there are around 467 centres for intensive cattle development where besides first aid veterinary treatment, other animal husbandry inputs of breeding, food or development etc. are also provided. In the year 1960, five lakh cattles were vaccinated whereas in the year 1992-93 around 200 lakh animals are vaccinated to provide life saving protection against various fatal diseases. There were no cattle food compounding units preparing cattle food in the year 1960, while in the year 1993 there are ten cattle food factory producing 1545 MT of cattle food per day. As a result of improved animal husbandry services, highly contagious and fatal disease of Rinder Pest is controlled in the state and that the deadly disease has not appeared in the last three years.

(ii) Because of various scientific technologies namely, proper cattle feeding, better medical and animal husbandry services, the longevity of the cattle in the State has considerably increased.

(iii) The population of bullock is 27.59 lakhs. Over and above agricultural work, bullocks are useful for other purposes also. They produce dung which is the best organic measure and is cheaper than chemical manure. It is also useful for production of bio-gas.

(iv) It is estimated that daily production of manure by bullocks is about 27,300 tonnes and bio-gas production daily is about 13.60 cubic metres. It is also estimated that the production of bio-gas from bullock dung fulfil the daily requirement of 54.78 lakh persons of the State if whole dung production is utilized. At present, 1,91,467 bio-gas plants are in function in the State and about 3-4 lakhs persons are using bio-gas in the State produced by these plants.

(v) The population of farmers in the State is 31.45 lakhs. Out of which 7.37 lakhs are small farmers, 8 lakhs are marginal farmers, 3.05 lakhs are agricultural labourers and 13.03 lakhs are other farmers. The total land of Gujarat State is 196 lakh hectares and land under cultivation is 104.5 lakh hectares. There are 47,800 tractors by which 19.12 lakh hectares land is cultivated and the remaining 85.38 lakh hectares land is cultivated by using bullocks. It may be mentioned here that all the agricultural operations are not done using tractors. The bullocks are required for some of agricultural operations along with tractors. There are about 7,28,300 bullock carts and there are about 18,35,000 ploughs run by bullocks in the State.

(vi) The figure of slaughter of animals done in 38 recognised slaughter houses are as under:

Year	Bullock/Bull	Buffalo	Sheep	Goat
1990-91	9,558	41,088	1,82,269	2,22,507
1991-92	9,751	41,882	2,11,245	2,20,518
1992-93	8,324	40,034	1,13,868	1,72,791

The above figures show that the slaughter of bullocks above the age of 16 years is done in the State in very small number. The animals other than bullocks are slaughtered in large number. Hence, the ban on the slaughter of cow and cow progeny will not affect the business of meat production significantly. Therefore, the persons engaged in this profession will not be affected adversely.

Thereafter two further affidavits were filed by Shri J.S. Parikh, abovesaid, on 17th March, 1998, wherein the following facts are mentioned :

(i) there are about 31.45 lakhs land holders in Gujarat. The detailed classifications of the land holders are as under:-

Sl.No.	Details of land holders	No. of land holders
1.	01 hectare	8.00 lakhs
2.	1-2 hectares	7.37 lakhs
3.	2 and above	16.08 lakhs

(ii) almost 50 per cent of the land holdings are less than 2 hectares; tractor keeping is not affordable to small farmers. For economic maintenance of tractors, one should have large holding of land. Such land holders are only around 10 per cent of the total land holders. Hence the farmers with small land holdings require bullocks as motive power for their agricultural operations and transport;

(iii) the total cultivable land area of Gujarat State is about 124 lakh hectares. Considering that a pair of bullocks is required for ploughing 10 acres of land the bullock requirement for ploughing purpose alone is 5.481 million and approximately equal number is required for carting. According to the livestock census 1988 of Gujarat State, the availability of indigenous bullocks is around 2.84 millions. Thus the availability of bullocks as a whole on percentage of requirement works out to be about 25 per cent. In this situation, the State has to preserve each single bull and bullock that is available to it;

(iv) it is estimated that bull or bullock at every stage of life supplies 3,500 kgs of dung and 2,000 litres of urine and whereas this quantity of dung can supply 5,000 cubic feet of biogas, 80 M.T. of organic fertilizer, the urine can supply 2,000 litres of pesticides and the use of these products in farming increases the yield very substantially. The value of above contribution can be placed at Rs.20,000/- per year to the owner;

(v) since production of various agricultural crops removes plant nutrients from the soil, they must be replenished with manures to maintain and improve fertility of soil. There are two types of manures which are (i) Organic manures, i.e. natural manures and (ii) Artificial or chemical fertilizer. Amongst the organic manures, farm yard manures is the most valuable organic manure applied to soil. It is the most commonly used organic manure in India. It consists of a mixture of cattle dung, the bedding used in the stable. Its crop increasing value has been recognized from time immemorial (Ref. Hand Book of Agriculture, 1987 by ICAR page 214);

(vi) the importance of organic manure as a source of humus and plant nutrients to increase the fertility level of soils has been well recognised. The organic matter content of cultivated soils of the tropics and sub-tropics is comparatively low due to high temperature and intense microbial activity. The crops remove annually large quantity of plant nutrients from soil. Moreover, Indian soils are poor in organic matter and in major plant nutrients. Therefore, soil humus has to be replenished through periodic addition of organic manure for maintaining soil productivity;

(vii) animals are the source of free availability of farmyard manure, which has all the three elements, i.e. Nitrogen, Phosphoric acid and Potash, needed in fertilizer and at the same time which preserve and enrich the fertility of the soil. In paucity of dung availability, the farmers have to depend upon chemical fertilizers. Investment in chemical fertilizers imposes heavy burden upon the economy. If there is availability of alternate source of organic manure from animals, it is required to be promoted;

(viii) the recent scenario of ultramodern technology of super ovulation, embryo transfer and cloning technique will be of very much use to propagate further even from the incapable or even old animals which are not capable of working or reproducing. These animals on a large scale can be used for research programmes as well as for production of non-conventional energy sources such as biogas and natural fertilizers. At present, there are 19,362 biogas plants installed in the State during 1995-97. On an average, each adult cattle produces 4.00 kg. of dung per day. Out of the total cattle strength of (1992 Census) 67,85,865, the estimated dung produced is 99,07,363 tonnes;

(ix) India has 74% of rural population, and in Gujarat out of 4.13 crores of human population, there are 1.40 crores of workers which comprises of 47,04,000 farmers and 32,31,000 workers are workers related to livestock and forestry. In Gujarat, there are 9.24 lakhs marginal farmers and 9.15 lakhs of small farmers, according to the 1991-92 census. Animals are reared in few numbers per family and the feed is obtained from the supplementary crop on fodder/agricultural by-products or from grazing in the gaucher land. In Gujarat 8.48 lakh hectares of land is available as permanent pasture and grazing land. An individual cattle-owner does not consider one or two bullocks as an extra burden for his family, even when it is incapable of work or production. Sometimes the unproductive animals are sent to Panjarapoles and Gosadans. In Gujarat, there are 335 Gaushalas and 174 Panjarapoles which are run by non-governmental oranizations and trusts. Formerly farmers mostly kept few animals and, in fact, they are treated as part of their family and maintained till death. It cannot be treated to be a liability upon them or burden on the economy;

(x) butchers are doing their business since generations, but they are not doing only the slaughter of cow class of animals. They slaughter and trade the meat of other animals like buffaloes, sheep, goats, pig and even poultry. In Gujarat there are only 38 registered slaughter houses functioning under various Municipalities/Nagar Panchayats. Beef (meat of cattle) contributes only 1.3% of the total meat groups. Proportion of demand for beef is less in the context of demand for pig, mutton and poultry meat. Slaughtering of bulls and bullocks for the period between 1990-91 and 1993-94 was on an average 9,000;

(xi) number of bullocks have decreased in a decade from 30,70,339 to 28,93,227 as in 1992. A statement showing the amount of dung production for the year 1983-84 to 1996-97 and a statement showing the nature of economy of the State of Gujarat is annexed. The number of bullocks slaughtered per day is negligible compared to other animals, and the business and/or trade of slaughtering bullocks would not affect the business of butchers. By prohibiting slaughter of bullocks the economy is likely to be benefited.

The three affidavits are supported by documents, statements or tables setting out statistics which we have no reason to disbelieve. Neither the High Court has expressed any doubt on the contents of the affidavit nor has the veracity of the affidavits and correctness of the facts stated therein been challenged by the learned counsel for the respondents before us.

83. In this Court Shri D.P. Amin, Joint Director of Animal Husbandry, Gujarat State, has filed an affidavit. The salient facts stated therein are set out hereunder:

(i) The details of various categories of animals slaughtered since 1997-1998 shows that slaughter of various categories of animals in regulated slaughter houses of Gujarat State has shown a tremendous decline. During the year way back in 1982-83 to 1996-97 the average number of animals slaughtered in regulated slaughter houses was 4,39,141. As against that (previous figure) average number of slaughter of animals in recent 8 years i.e. from 1997-98 to 2004-05 has come down to only 2,88,084. This clearly indicates that there has been a vast change in the meat eating style of people of Gujarat State. It is because of the awareness created among the public due to the threats of dangerous diseases like Bovine Spongiform Encephalopathy commonly known as "Mad Cow disease" B.S.E. which is a fatal disease of cattle meat origin not reported in India. Even at global level people have stopped eating the beef which is known as meat of cattle class animals. This has even affected the trade of meat particularly beef in the America & European countries since last 15 years. Therefore, there is international ban on export-import of beef from England, America & European countries;

(ii) there is reduction in slaughter of bulls & bullocks above the age of 16 years reported in the regulated slaughter houses of Gujarat State. As reported in the years from 1982-83 to 1996-97, the slaughter of bulls & bullocks above the age of 16 years was only 2.48% of the total animals of different categories slaughtered in the State. This percentage has gone down to the level of only 1.10% during last 8 years i.e. 1997-98 to 2004-05 which is very less significant to cause or affect the business of butcher communities;

(iii) India is predominantly agrarian society with nearly >th of her population living in seven lakh rural hamlets and villages, possesses small fragmentary holding (54.6% below 1 hectare 18% with 1-2 hectares). Draft/pack animal contributes more than 5 crores horse power (H.P.) or 33,000 megawatt electric power and shares for/in 68% of agricultural operations, transport & other draft operations. In addition to draft power, 100 million tonnes dung per year improves the soil health and also used as raw material for biogas plant;

(iv) the cattle population in Gujarat in relation to human population has declined from 315 per 1000 humans in 1961 to 146 per 1,000 humans in 2001 indicating decline in real terms;

(v) in Gujarat 3.28 million draft animal (bullocks 85%) have multifaceted utilities viz. agricultural operations like ploughing, sowing, hoeing, planking, carting, hauling, water lifting, grinding, etc.; Gujarat State has a very rich cattle population of Kankrej & Gir breed, of which Kankrej bullocks are very well known for its draft power called "Savai Chal";

(vi) considering the utility of aged bullocks above 16 years as draft power a detailed combined study was carried out by Department of Animal Husbandry and Gujarat Agricultural University (Veterinary Colleges S.K. Nagar & Anand). The experiments were carried out within the age group of 16 to 25 years. The study covered different age groups of 156 (78 pairs) bullocks above the age of 16 years. The aged bullocks i.e. above 16 years age generated 0.68 horse power draft output per bullock while the prime bullock generated 0.83 horse power per bullock during carting/hauling draft work in a summer with about more than 42?C temp. The study proves that 93% of aged bullock above 16 years of age are still useful to farmers to perform light & medium draft works. The detailed report is on record;

(vii) by the end of year 2004-05 under the Dept. of Animal Husbandry, there are 14 Veterinary Polyclinics, 515 Vety. Dispensaries, 552 First Aid Vety. Centres and 795 Intensive Cattle Development Project Sub Centers. In all, 1876 institutions were made functional to cater various health care activities to livestock population of State of Gujarat. About two crores of livestock and poultry were vaccinated against various diseases. As a result, the total reported out break of infectious diseases was brought down to around 106 as against 222 in 1992-1993. This shows that State has created a healthy livestock and specifically the longevity of animals has been increased. This has also resulted into the increased milk production of the state, draft power and source of non-conventional energy in terms of increased quantity of dung and urine;

(viii) the value of dung is much more than even the famous "Kohinoor" diamond. An old bullock gives 5 tonnes of dung and 343 pounds of urine in a year which can help in the manufacture of 20 carts load of composed manure. This would be sufficient for manure need of 4 acres of land for crop production. The right to life is a fundamental right and it can be basically protected only with proper food and feeding and cheap and nutritious food grains required for feeding can be grown with the help of dung. Thus the most fundamental thing to the fundamental right of living for the human being is bovine dung. (Ref. Report of National Commission on Cattle, Vol.III, Page 1063-1064);

(ix) the dung cake as well as meat of bullock are both commercial commodities. If one bullock is slaughtered for its meat (Slaughtering activity) can sustain the butchers trade for only a day. For the next day's trade another bullock is to be slaughtered. But if the bullock is not slaughtered, about 5000-6000 dung cakes can be made out of its dung per year, and by the sale of such dung cake one person can be sustained for the whole year. If a bullock survives even for five years after becoming otherwise useless it can provide employment to a person for five years whereas to a butcher, bullock can provide employment only for a day or two.

(x) Even utility of urine has a great role in the field of pharmaceuticals as well as in the manufacturing of pesticides. The Goseva Ayog, Govt. of Gujarat had commissioned study for "Testing insecticides properties of cow urine against various insect pests". The study was carried out by Dr. G.M. Patel, Principal Investigator, Department of Entomology, C.P. College of Agriculture, S.D. Agricultural University, Sardar Krishi Nagar, Gujarat. The study has established that insecticides formulations prepared using cow urine emerged as the most reliable treatment for their effectiveness against sucking pest of cotton. The conclusion of study is dung & urine of even aged bullocks are also useful and have proved major effect of role in the Indian economy;

(xi) it is stated that availability of fodder is not a problem in the State or anywhere. During drought period deficit is compensated by grass-bank, silo and purchase of fodder from other States as last resources. The sugarcane tops, leaves of banana, baggase, wheat bhoosa and industrial byproducts etc. are available in plenty. A copy of the letter dated 8.3.2004 indicting sufficient fodder for the year 2004, addressed to Deputy Commissioner, Animal Husbandry Government of India is annexed.

Report on draughtability of bullocks above 16 years of age

84. On 20th June, 2001 the State of Gujarat filed I.A. No. 2/2001 in Civil Appeal Nos. 4937-4940 of 1998, duly supported by an affidavit sworn by Shri D.U. Parmar, Deputy Secretary (Animal Husbandry) Agriculture and Cooperation Department, Government of Gujarat, annexing therewith a report on draughtability of aged bullocks above 16 years of age under field conditions. The study was conducted by the Gujarat Agricultural University Veterinary College, Anand and the Department of Animal Husbandry, Gujarat State, Ahmedabad. The study was planned with two objectives:

(i) To study the draughtability and utility of aged bullocks above 16 years of age; and

(ii) To compare the draughtability of aged bullocks with bullocks of prime age.

85. Empirical research was carried out under field conditions in North Gujarat Region (described as Zone-I) and Saurashtra region (described as Zone-II). The average age of aged bullocks under the study was 18.75 years. The number of bullocks/pair used under the study were sufficient to draw sound conclusions from the study. The gist of the findings arrived at, is summed up as under:

1. Farmer's persuasion

The aged bullocks were utilized for different purposes like agricultural operations (ploughing, planking, harrowing, hoeing, threshing) and transport-hauling of agricultural produce, feeds and fodders of animals, drinking water, construction materials (bricks, stones, sand grits etc.) and for sugarcane crushing/ khandsari making. On an average the bullocks were yoked for 3 to 6 hours per working day and 100 to 150 working days per year. Under Indian conditions the reported values for working days per year ranges from 50 to 100 bullock paired days by small, medium and large farmers. Thus, the agricultural operations-draft output are still being taken up from the aged bullocks by the farmers. The farmers feed concentrates, green fodders and dry fodders to these aged bullocks and maintain the health of these animals considering them an important segment of their families. Farmers love their bullocks.

2. Age, body measurement and body weight

The biometric and body weight of aged bullocks were within the normal range.

3. Horsepower generation/Work output

The aged bullocks on an average generated 0.68 hp/bullock, i.e.18.1% less than the prime/young bullocks (0.83 hp/bullock). The aged bullocks walked comfortably with an average stride length of 1.43 meter and at the average speed of 4.49 km/hr. showing little less than young bullocks. However, these values were normal for the aged bullocks performing light/medium work of carting. These values were slightly lower than those observed in case of prime or young bullocks. This clearly indicates that the aged bullocks above 16 years of age proved their work efficiency for both light as well as medium work in spite of the age bar. In addition to this, the experiment was conducted during the months of May-June, 2000 a stressful summer season. Therefore, these bullocks could definitely generate more work output during winter, being a comfortable season. The aged bullock above 16 years of age performed satisfactorily and disproved that they are unfit for any type of draft output i.e. either agricultural operations, carting or other works.

4. Physiological responses and haemoglobin concentration

These aged bullocks are fit to work for 6 hours (morning 3 hours + afternoon 3 hrs.) per day. Average Hb content (g%) at the start of work was observed to be 10.72 g% and after 3 hours of work 11.14g%, indicating the healthy state of bullocks. The increment in the haemoglobin content after 3 to 4 hours of work was also within the normal range and in accordance with prime bullocks under study as well as the reported values for working bullocks.

5. Distress symptoms In the initial one hour of work, 6 bullocks (3.8%) showed panting, while 32.7% after one hour of work. After 2 hour of work, 28.2% of bullocks exhibited salivation. Only 6.4% of the bullocks sat down/lied down and were reluctant to work after completing 2 hours of the work. The results are indicative of the fact that majority of the aged bullocks (93%) worked normally. Summer being a stressful season, the aged bullocks exhibited distress symptoms earlier than the prime/young bullocks. However, they maintained their physiological responses within normal range and generated satisfactory draught power.

86. The study report submitted its conclusions as under:

"1. The aged bullocks above 16 years of age generated 0.68 horse power draft output per bullock while the prime bullocks generated 0.83 horsepower per bullock during carting-hauling draft work.

2. The aged bullocks worked satisfactorily for the light work for continuous 4 hours during morning session and total 6 hours per day (morning 3 hours and afternoon 3 hours) for medium work.

3. The physiological responses (Rectal temperature, Respiration rate and Pulse rate) and haemoglobin of aged bullocks were within the normal range and also maintained the incremental range during work. However, they exhibited the distress symptoms earlier as compared to prime bullocks.

4. Seven percent aged bullocks under study were reluctant to work and/or lied down after 2 hours of work.

5. The aged bullocks were utilized by the farmers to perform agricultural operations (ploughing, sowing, harrowing, planking, threshing), transport-hauling of agricultural product, feeds and fodders, construction materials and drinking water.

Finally, it proves that majority (93%) of the aged bullocks above 16 years of age are still useful to farmers to perform light and medium draft works."

87. With the report, the study group annexed album/photographs and cassettes prepared while carrying out the study. Several tables and statements setting out relevant statistics formed part of the report. A list of 16 authentic references originating from eminent authors on the subject under study which were referred to by the study group was appended to the report.

88. This application (I.A. No. 2/2001) was allowed and the affidavit taken on record vide order dated 20.8.2001 passed by this Court. No response has been filed by any of the respondents controverting the facts stated in the affidavit and the accompanying report. We have no reason to doubt the correctness of the facts stated therein; more so, when it is supported by the affidavit of a responsible officer of the State Government.

Tenth Five Year Plan (2002-2007) Documents

89. In the report of the Working Group on Animal Husbandry and Dairy Farming, the Tenth Five Year Plan (2002-2007) dealing with 'the draught breed relevance and improvement', published by the Government of India, Planning Commission in January, 2001, facts are stated in great detail pointing out the relevance of draught breeds and setting out options for improvement from the point of view of the Indian Economy. We extract and reproduce a few of the facts therefrom:

"3.6.12 Relevance of draught breeds and options for improvement

3.6.12.1 In India 83.4 million holdings (78%) are less than 2 ha. where tractors and tillers are uneconomical and the use of animal power becomes inevitable since tractors and tillers are viable only for holdings above 5 ha.. In slushy and water logged fields tractor tiller is not suitable. In narrow terraced fields and hilly regions tractors cannot function. Animal drawn vehicle are suitable for rural areas under certain circumstances/conditions viz., uneven terrain, small loads (less than 3 tons), short distances and where time of loading and unloading is more than travel time or time is not a critical factor and number of collection points/distribution points are large as in case of milk, vegetable, water, oil, etc.

In India the energy for ploughing two-thirds of the cultivated area comes from animal power and animal drawn vehicles haul two-thirds of rural transport.

3.6.12.2 The role of cattle as the main source of motive power for agriculture and certain allied operations would continue to remain as important as meeting the requirement of milk in the country. It has been estimated that about 80 million bullocks will be needed. There is, therefore, a need for improving the working efficiency of the bullocks through improved breeding and feeding practices.

3.6.13 Development of Draught Breeds

Focused attention to draft breed will not be possible unless a new scheme is formulated for this purpose.

3.6.13.2 In tracts where there are specialized draught breeds of cattle like Nagori in Rajasthan, Amritmahal and Hallikar in Karnataka, Khillar in Maharashtra etc., selection for improvement in draughtability should be undertaken on a large scale as the cattle breeders in these areas derive a large income by sale of good quality bullocks. Planned efforts should be made for improving the draught capacity and promoting greater uniformity in the type of the cattle population in the breeding tracts. There is need to intensify investigations to develop yardsticks for objective assessment of draught capacity of bullocks.

3.6.14 Supplementation of fund-flow for cattle and Buffalo development.

3.6.14.2 A number of organizations like NABARD, NDDB, NCDC etc. are also likely to be interested in funding activities relating to cattle and buffalo development in the form of term as loan provided timely return is ensured. Time has now come for exploring such avenues seriously at least on pilot basis in selected areas, where better prospects of recovery of cost of breeding inputs and services exists."

90. Recognising the fact that the cow and its progeny has a significant role to play in the agricultural and rural economy of the country, the Government felt that it was necessary to formulate measures for their development in all possible ways. In view of the persistent demands for action to be taken to prevent their slaughter, the Government also felt and expressed the need to review the relevant laws of the land relating to protection, preservation, development and well-being of cattle and to take measures to secure the cattle wealth of India.

91. Yet another document to which we are inclined to make a reference is Mid-Term Appraisal of 10th Five Year Plan (2002- 2007) released in June, 2005 by the Government of India (Planning Commission). Vide para 5.80 the report recommends that efforts should be made to increase the growth of bio- pesticides production from 2.5 to 5 per cent over the next five years.

92. According to the report, Organic farming is a way of farming which excludes the use of chemical fertilizers, insecticides, etc. and is primarily based on the principles of use of natural organic inputs and biological plant protection measures.

93. Properly managed organic farming reduces or eliminates water pollution and helps conserve water and soil on the farm and thereby enhances sustainability and agro-biodiversity.

94. Organic farming has become popular in many western countries. There are two major driving forces behind this phenomenon; growing global market for organic agricultural produce due to increased health consciousness; and the premium price of organic produce fetched by the producers.

95. India has a comparative advantage over many other countries.

96. The Appraisal Report acknowledged the commencement of the biogas programme in India since 1981-82. Some 35,24,000 household plants have been installed against an assessed potential of 120,00,000 units.

97. Biogas has traditionally been produced in India from cow dung (gobar gas). However, dung is not adequately and equitably available in villages. Technologies have now been developed for using tree-based organic substrates such as leaf litter, seed starch, seed cakes, vegetable wastes, kitchen wastes etc. for production of biogas. Besides cooking, biogas can also be used to produce electricity in dual fired diesel engines or in hundred per cent gas engines. Ministry of Non-conventional Energy Sources (MNES) is taking initiatives to integrate biogas programme in its Village Energy Security Program (VESP).

98. Production of pesticides and biogas depend on the availability of cow-dung.

National Commission on Cattle

99. Vide its Resolution dated 2nd August, 2001, the Government of India established a National Commission on Cattle, comprising of 17 members.

100. The Commission was given the follow terms of reference:-

a. To review the relevant laws of the land(Centre as well as States) which relate to protection, preservation, development and well being of cow and its progeny and suggest measures for their effective implementation,

b. To study the existing provisions for the maintenance of Goshalas, Gosadans, Pinjarapoles and other organisations working for protection and development of cattle and suggest measures for making them economically viable,

c. To study the contribution of cattle towards the Indian economy and to suggest ways and means of organising scientific research for maximum utilisation of cattle products and draught animal power in the field of nutrition and health, agriculture and energy, and to submit a comprehensive scheme in this regard to the Central Government, d. To review and suggest measures to improve the availability of feed and fodder to support the cattle population.

101. The Committee after extensive research has given a list of recommendations. A few of them relevant in the present case are:-

" 1.The Prohibition for slaughter of cow and its progeny, which would include bull, bullocks, etc., should be included in Fundamental Rights or as a Constitutional Mandate anywhere else, as an Article of Constitution. It should not be kept only in the Directive Principles or/Fundamental duties as neither of these are enforceable by the courts.

2. The amendment of the Constitution should also be made for empowering the Parliament to make a Central Law for the prohibition of slaughter of cow and its progeny and further for prohibition of their transport from one State to another.

3. The Parliament should then make a Central law, applicable to all States, prohibiting slaughter of cow and its progeny. Violation of the Law should be made a non-bailable and cognizable offence.

xxx xxx xxx

14. The use and production of chemical fertilizers and chemical pesticides should be discouraged, subsidies on these items should be reduced or abolished altogether. The use of organic manure should be subsidized and promoted."

102. Thus the Commission is of the view that there should be a complete prohibition on slaughter of cow progeny.

Importance of Bovine Dung

103. The Report of the National Commission on Cattle, ibid, refers to an authority namely, Shri Vasu in several sub- paragraphs of para 12. Shri Vasu has highlighted the unique and essential role of bovine and bovine dung in our economy and has pleaded that slaughter of our precious animals should be stopped. He has in extenso dealt with several uses of dung and its significance from the point of view of Indian society. Dung is a cheap and harmless fertilizer in absence whereof the farmers are forced to use costly and harmful chemical fertilizers. Dung also has medicinal value in Ayurved, the Indian system of medicines.

Continuing Utility of Cattle :

104. Even if the utility argument of the Quareshi's judgment is accepted, it cannot be accepted that bulls and bullocks become useless after the age of 16. It has to be said that bulls and bullocks are not useless to the society because till the end of their lives they yield excreta in the form of urine and dung which are both extremely useful for production of bio-gas and manure. Even after their death, they supply hide and other accessories. Therefore, to call them 'useless' is totally devoid of reality. If the expenditure on their maintenance is compared to the return which they give, at the most, it can be said that they become 'less useful'.(Report of the National Commission on Cattle, July 2002, Volume I, p. 279.)

105. The Report of the National Commission on Cattle has analyzed the economic viability of cows after they stopped yielding milk and it also came to the conclusion that it shall not be correct to call such cows 'useless cattle' as they still continue to have a great deal of utility. Similar is the case with other cattle as well.

"37. Economic aspects:

37.1 The cows are slaughtered in India because the owner of the cow finds it difficult to maintain her after she stops yielding milk. This is because it is generally believed that milk is the only commodity obtained from cows, which is useful and can be sold in exchange of cash. This notion is totally wrong. Cow yields products other than milk, which are valuable and saleable. Thus the dung as well as the urine of cow can be put to use by owner himself or sold to persons or organizations to process them. The Commission noticed that there are a good number of organizations (goshalas) which keep the cows rescued while being carried to slaughter houses. Very few of such cows are milk yielding. Such organizations use the urine and dung produced by these cows to prepare Vermi-compost or any other form of bio manure and urine for preparing pest repellents. The money collected by the sale of such products is normally sufficient to allow maintenance of the cows. In some cases, the urine and dung is used to prepare the medical formulations also. The organizations, which are engaged in such activities, are making profits also.

37.2 Commission examined the balance sheet of some such organizations. The expenditure and income of one such organization is displayed here. In order to make accounts simple the amounts are calculated as average per cow per day.

It is obvious that expenditure per cow is Rs. 15-25 cow/day.

While the income from sale is Rs. 25-35 cow-day.

37.3 These averages make it clear that the belief that cows which do not yield milk are unprofitable and burden for the owner is totally false. In fact it can be said that products of cow are sufficient to maintain them even without milk. The milk in such cases is only a by-product.

37.4 It is obvious that all cow owners do not engage in productions of fertilizers or insect repellents. It can also be understood that such activity may not be feasible for owners of a single or a few cows. In such cases, the cow's urine and dung may be supplied to such organizations, which utilize these materials for producing finished products required for agricultural or medicinal purpose. Commission has noticed that some organizations which are engaged in production of agricultural and medical products from cow dung and urine do purchase raw materials from nearby cow owner at a price which is sufficient to maintain the cow." (Report of National Commission on Cattle, July 2002, Vol. II, pp.68-69)

106. A host of other documents have been filed originating from different sources such as Governmental or Semi-governmental, NGOs, individuals or group of individuals, who have carried out researches and concluded that world-over there is an awareness in favour of organic farming for which cattle are indispensable. However, we do not propose to refer to these documents as it would only add to the length of the judgment. We have, apart from the affidavits, mainly referred to the reports published by the Government of India, whose veracity cannot be doubted.

107. We do not find any material brought on record on behalf of the respondents which could rebut, much less successfully, the correctness of the deductions flowing from the documented facts and statistics stated hereinabove.

108. The utility of cow cannot be doubted at all. A total ban on cow slaughter has been upheld even in Quareshi-I. The controversy in the present case is confined to cow progeny. The important role that cow and her progeny play in the Indian Economy was acknowledged in Quareshi-I in the following words:

"The discussion in the foregoing paragraphs clearly establishes the usefulness of the cow and her progeny. They sustain the health of the nation by giving them the life giving milk which is so essential an item in a scientifically balanced diet. The working bullocks are indispensable for our agriculture, for they supply power more than any other animal. Good breeding bulls are necessary to improve the breed so that the quality and stamina of the future cows and working bullocks may increase and the production of food and milk may improve and be in abundance. The dung of the animal is cheaper than the artificial manures and is extremely useful. In short, the back bone of Indian agriculture is in a manner of speaking the cow and her progeny. Indeed Lord Linlithgow has truly said "The cow and the working bullock have on their patient back the whole structure of Indian agriculture." (Report on the Marketing of Cattle in India, p. 20). If, therefore, we are to attain sufficiency in the production of food, if we are to maintain the nation's health, the efficiency and breed of our cattle population must be considerably improved. To attain the above objectives, we must devote greater attention to the preservation, protection and improvement of the stock and organise our agriculture and animal husbandry on modern and scientific lines."

109. On the basis of the available material, we are fully satisfied to hold that the ban on slaughter of cow progeny as imposed by the impugned enactment is in the interests of the general public within the meaning of clause (6) of Article 19 of the Constitution.

128. In the first and second Five Year Plans (Quareshi-I era), there was scarcity of food which reflected India's panic. The concept of food security has since then undergone considerable change.

129. 47 years since, it is futile to think that meat originating from cow progeny can be the only staple food or protein diet for the poor population of the country. 'India Vision 2020' (ibid, Chapter 3) deals with 'Food Security and Nutrition : Vision 2020'. We cull out a few relevant findings and observations therefrom and set out in brief in the succeeding paragraphs. Food availability and stability were considered good measures of food security till the Seventies and the achievement of self-sufficiency was accorded high priority in the food policies. Though India was successful in achieving self-sufficiency by increasing its food production, it could not solve the problem of chronic household food insecurity. This necessitated a change in approach and as a result food energy intake at household level is now given prominence in assessing food security. India is one of the few countries which have experimented with a broad spectrum of programmes for improving food security. It has already made substantial progress in terms of overcoming transient food insecurity by giving priority to self-sufficiency in foodgrains, employment programmes, etc. The real problem, facing India, is not the availability of food, staple food and protein rich diet; the real problem is its unequal distribution. The real challenge comes from the slow growth of purchasing power of the people and lack of adequate employment opportunities. Another reason for lack of food and nutrient intake through cereal consumption is attributable to changes in consumer tastes and preferences towards superior food items as the incomes of the household increases. Empirical evidence tends to suggest a positive association between the calorie intake and nutritional status. The responsiveness is likely to be affected by the factors relating to health and environment. It is unclear as to how much of the malnutrition is due to an inadequate diet and how much due to the environment.

137. For multiple reasons which we have stated in very many details while dealing with Question-6 in Part II of the judgment, we have found that bulls and bullocks do not become useless merely by crossing a particular age. The Statement of Objects and Reasons, apart from other evidence available, clearly conveys that cow and her progeny constitute the backbone of Indian agriculture and economy. The increasing adoption of non-conventional energy sources like Bio-gas plants justify the need for bulls and bullocks to live their full life in spite of their having ceased to be useful for the purpose of breeding and draught. This Statement of Objects and Reasons tilts the balance in favour of the constitutional validity of the impugned enactment. In Quareshi-I the Constitution Bench chose to bear it in mind, while upholding the constitutionality of the legislations impugned therein, insofar as the challenge by reference to Article 14 was concerned, that "the legislature correctly appreciates the needs of its own people". Times have changed; so have changed the social and economic needs. The Legislature has correctly appreciated the needs of its own people and recorded the same in the Preamble of the impugned enactment and the Statement of Objects and Reasons appended to it. In the light of the material available in abundance before us, there is no escape from the conclusion that the protection conferred by impugned enactment on cow progeny is needed in the interest of Nation's economy. Merely because it may cause 'inconvenience' or some 'dislocation' to the butchers, restriction imposed by the impugned enactment does not cease to be in the interest of the general public. The former must yield to the latter.

138. According to Shri M.S. Swaminathan, the eminent Farm Scientist, neglect of the farm sector would hit our economy hard. According to him "Today, global agriculture is witnessing two opposite trends. In many South Asian countries, farm size is becoming smaller and smaller and farmers suffer serious handicaps with reference to the cost-risk-return structure of agriculture. In contrast, the average farm size in most industrialized countries is over several hundred hectares and farmers are supported by heavy inputs of technology, capital and subsidy. The on-going Doha round of negotiations of the World Trade Organisation in the field of agriculture reflects the polarization that has taken place in the basic agrarian structure of industrialized and developing countries. Farming as a way of life is disappearing and is giving way to agribusiness." (K.R. Narayanan Oration delivered by Dr. Swaminathan at the Australian National University, Canberra, published in 'The Hindu', October 17, 2005, p.10) "In India, nearly 600 million individuals are engaged in farming and over 80 per cent of them belong to the small and marginal farmer categories. Due to imperfect adaptation to local environments, insufficient provision of nutrients and water, and incomplete control of pests, diseases and weeds, the present average yields of major farming systems in India is just 40 per cent of what can be achieved even with the technologies currently on the shelf. There is considerable scope for further investment in land improvement through drainage, terracing, and control of acidification, in areas where these have not already been introduced." (ibid)

139. Thus, the eminent scientist is very clear that excepting the advanced countries which have resorted to large scale mechanized farming, most of the countries (India included) have average farms of small size. Majority of the population is engaged in farming within which a substantial proportion belong to small and marginal farmers category. Protection of cow progeny will help them in carrying out their several agricultural operations and related activities smoothly and conveniently. Organic manure would help in controlling pests and acidification of land apart from resuscitating and stimulating the environment as a whole."

17. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ramlila Maidan Incident, in re, reported in (2012) 5 SCC 1, have held that the Constitution does not merely speak of human rights protection. It also speaks of preservation and protection of man as well as animals, all creatures, plants, rivers, hills and environment. It has been held as follows:

"310. The Constitution does not merely speaks for human right protection. It is evident from the catena of judgments of this Court that it also speaks of preservation and protection of man as well as animals, all creatures, plants, rivers, hills and environment. Our Constitution professes for collective life and collective responsibility on one hand and individual rights and responsibilities on the other hand. In Kharak Singh v. State of U.P. & Ors., AIR 1963 SC 1295; and Govind v. State of Madhya Pradesh & Anr., AIR 1975 SC 1378, this Court held that right to privacy is a part of life under Article 21 of the Constitution which has specifically been re-iterated in People's Union for Civil Liberties v. Union of India &. Anr., AIR 1997 SC 568, wherein this Court held:

"We do not entertain any doubt that the word 'life' in Article 21 bears the same signification. Is then the word 'personal liberty' to be construed as excluding from its purview an invasion on the part of the police of the sanctity of a man's home and an intrusion into his personal security and his right to sleep which is the normal comfort and a dire necessity for human existence even as an animal? It might not be inappropriate to refer here to the words of the preamble to the Constitution that it is designed to 'assure the dignity of the individual' and therefore of those cherished human values as the means of ensuring his full development and evolution. We are referring to these objectives of the framers merely to draw attention to the concepts underlying the Constitution which would point to such vital words as 'personal liberty' having to be construed in a reasonable manner and to be attributed that sense which would promote and achieve those objectives and by no means to stretch the meaning of the phrase to square with any preconceived notions or doctrinaire constitutional theories".

18. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Animal Welfare Board of India vs. A. Nagaraja and ors., reported in (2014) 7 SCC 547, have held that there are five internationally recognized freedoms of animals; i) freedom from hunger, thirst and malnutrition; ii) freedom from fear and distress; iii) freedom from physical and thermal discomfort; iv) freedom from pain, injury and disease; and v) freedom to express normal patterns of behaviour. Their lordships have further held that every species has an inherent right to live and shall be protected by law, subject to the exception provided out of necessity. Article 21 of the Constitution, while safeguarding the rights of humans, protects life and the word "life" has been given an expanded definition and any disturbance from the basic environment which includes all forms of life, including animal life, which are necessary for human life, fall within the meaning of Article 21 of the Constitution. So far as animals are concerned, "life" means something more than mere survival or existence or instrumental value for human-beings, but to lead a life with some intrinsic worth, honour and dignity. Dignity of animals under the Indian Constitution is also duly recognized. It has been held as follows:

> "15. We have to examine the various issues raised in these cases, primarily keeping in mind the welfare and the well-being of the animals and not from the stand point of the Organizers, Bull tamers, Bull Racers, spectators, participants or the respective States or the Central Government, since we are dealing with a welfare legislation of a sentient- being, over which human-beings have domination and the standard we have to apply in deciding the issue on hand is the "Species Best Interest", subject to just exceptions, out of human necessity.
> 55. As early as 1500-600 BC in Isha-Upanishads, it is professed as follows:
> > "The universe along with its creatures belongs to the land. No creature is superior to any other. Human beings should not be above nature. Let no one species encroach over the rights and privileges of other species."
> 56. PCA Act has been enacted with an object to safeguard the welfare of the animals and evidently to cure some mischief and age old practices, so as to bring into effect some type of reform, based on eco-centric principles, recognizing the intrinsic value and worth of animals. All the same, the Act has taken care of the religious practices of the community, while killing an animal vide Section 28 of the Act.
> INTERNATIONAL APPROACH TO ANIMALS WELFARE
> 57. We may, at the outset, indicate unfortunately, there is no international agreement that ensures the welfare and protection of animals. United Nations, all these years, safeguarded only the rights of human beings, not the rights of other species like animals, ignoring the fact that many of them, including Bulls, are sacrificing their lives to alleviate human suffering, combating diseases and as food for human consumption. International community should hang their head in shame, for not recognizing their rights all these ages, a species which served the humanity from the time of Adam and Eve. Of course, there has been a slow but observable shift from the anthropocentric approach to a more nature's right centric approach in International Environmental Law, Animal Welfare Laws etc. Environmentalist noticed three stages in the development of international environmental law instrument, which are as under:
> 57.1 The instruments in this stage were fuelled by the recognition that the conservation of nature was in the common interest of all mankind.
> 57.2 Some the instruments executed during this time included the Declaration of the Protection of Birds Useful to Agriculture (1875), Convention Designed to Ensure the Protection of Various Species of Wild Animals which are Useful to Man or Inoffensive (1900), Convention for the Regulation of Whaling (1931) which had the objective of ensuring the health of the whaling industry rather than conserving or protecting the whale species.

57.3 The attitude behind these treaties was the assertion of an unlimited right to exploit natural resources – which derived from their right as sovereign nations.

(b) The Second Stage: International Equity

57.4 This stage saw the extension of treaties beyond the requirements of the present generation to also meet the needs to future generations of human beings. This shift signalled a departure from the pure tenets of anthropocentrism.

57.5 For example, the 1946 Whaling Convention which built upon the 1931 treaty mentioned in the preamble that "it is in the interest of the nations of the world to safeguard for future generations the great natural resource represented by the whale stocks". Similarly, the Stockholm Declaration of the UN embodied this shift in thinking, stating that "man …… bears a solemn responsibility to protect and improve the environment for present and future generations" and subsequently asserts that "the natural resources of the earth …. must be safeguarded for the benefit of present and future generations through careful planning and management". Other documents expressed this shift in terms of sustainability and sustainable development.

(c) The Third Stage: Nature's own rights

57.6 Recent Multinational instruments have asserted the intrinsic value of nature.

57.7 UNEP Biodiversity Convention (1992) "Conscious of the intrinsic value of biological diversity and of the ecological, genetic, social, economic, educational, cultural, recreational and aesthetic values of biological diversity and its components …. [we have] agreed as follows:……". The World Charter for Nature proclaims that "every form of life is unique, warranting respect regardless of its worth to man." The Charter uses the term "nature" in preference to "environment" with a view to shifting to non-anthropocentric human-independent terminology."

58. We have accepted and applied the eco-centric principles in T. N. Godavarman Thirumulpad v. Union of India and Others (2012) 3 SCC 277, T. N. Godavarman Thirumulpad v. Union of India and Others (2012) 4 SCC 362 and in Centre for Environmental Law World Wide Fund - India v. Union of India and Others (2013) 8 SCC 234.

59. Based on eco-centric principles, rights of animals have been recognized in various countries. Protection of animals has been guaranteed by the Constitution of Germany by way of an amendment in 2002 when the words "and the animals" were added to the constitutional clauses that obliges 'state' to respect 'animal dignity'. Therefore, the dignity of the animals is constitutionally recognised in that country. German Animal Welfare Law, especially Article 3provides far-reaching protections to animals including inter alia from animals fight and other activities which may result in the pain, suffering and harm for the animals. Countries like Switzerland, Austria, Slovenia have enacted legislations to include animal welfare in their national Constitutions so as to balance the animal owners' fundamental rights to property and the animals' interest in freedom from unnecessary suffering or pain, damage and fear.

60. Animals Welfare Act of 2006 (U.K.) also confers considerable protection to the animals from pain and suffering. The Austrian Federal Animal Protection Act also recognises man's responsibilities towards his fellow creatures and the subject

"Federal Act" aims at the protection of life and well being of the animals. The Animal Welfare Act, 2010 (Norway) states "animals have an intrinsic value which is irrespective of the usable value they may have for man. Animals shall be treated well and be protected from the danger of unnecessary stress and strain. Section 26 of the Legislation prohibits training an animal to fight with people, the operative portion of the same reads as follows :

"Any person who trains animals and who uses animals which are used for showing, entertainment and competitions, including those who organise such activities, shall ensure that the animals:

a) xxx xxx xxx

b) xxx xxx xxx

c) xxx xxx xxx

(d) are not trained for or used in fights with other animals or people."

61. When we look at the rights of animals from the national and international perspective, what emerges is that every species has an inherent right to live and shall be protected by law, subject to the exception provided out of necessity. Animal has also honour and dignity which cannot be arbitrarily deprived of and its rights and privacy have to be respected and protected from unlawful attacks.

62. Universal Declaration of Animal Welfare (UDAW) is a campaign led by World Society for the Protection of Animals (WSPA) in an attempt to secure international recognition for the principles of animal welfare. UDAW has had considerable support from various countries, including India. WSPA believes that the world should look to the success of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) to set out what UDAW can achieve for animals. Five freedoms referred to in UDAW, which we will deal with in latter part of the judgment, find support in PCA Act and the rules framed thereunder to a great extent.

63. World Health Organization of Animal Health (OIE), of which India is a member, acts as the international reference organisation for animal health and animal welfare. OIE has been recognised as a reference organisation by the World Trade Organisation (WTO) and, in the year 2013, it has a total of 178 member countries. On animal welfare, OIE says that an animal is in good state of welfare if (as indicated by Scientific evidence) it is healthy, comfortable, well nourished, safe, able to express innate behaviour and if it is not suffering from unpleasant states such as pain, fear and distress.

FREEDOM:

64. Chapter 7.1.2 of the guidelines of OIE, recognizes five internationally recognized freedoms for animals, such as:

i) freedom from hunger, thirst and malnutrition;

ii) freedom from fear and distress;

iii) freedom from physical and thermal discomfort;

iv) freedom from pain, injury and disease; and

v) freedom to express normal patterns of behaviour.

Food and Agricultural Organisation (FAO) in its "Legislative and Regulatory Options for Animal Welfare" indicated that these five freedoms found their place in Farm Welfare Council 2009 U.K. and is also called Brambell's Five Freedoms. These five freedoms, as already indicated, are considered to be the fundamental principles of animal welfare and we can say that these freedoms find a place in Sections 3 and 11 of PCA Act and they are for animals like the rights guaranteed to the citizens of this country under Part III of the Constitution of India.

65. Animals are world-wide legally recognised as 'property' that can be possessed by humans. On deletion of Article 19(1)(f) from the Indian Constitution, right to property is more a fundamental right in India, this gives the Parliament more a leeway to pass laws protecting the rights of animals. Right to hold on to a property which includes animals also, is now only a legal right not a fundamental right. We have also to see the rights of animals in that perspective as well.

66. Rights guaranteed to the animals under Sections 3, 11, etc. are only statutory rights. The same have to be elevated to the status of fundamental rights, as has been done by few countries around the world, so as to secure their honour and dignity. Rights and freedoms guaranteed to the animals under Sections 3 and 11 have to be read along with Article 51A(g)(h) of the Constitution, which is the magna carta of animal rights.

69. Speciesism as a concept coined by Richard Ryder in his various works on the attitude to animals, like Animal Revolution, Changing Attitudes towards Speciesism (Oxford: Basil Blackwell, 1989), Animal Welfare and the Environment (London: Gerald Duckworth, 1992) etc. Oxford English Dictionary defines the term as "the assumption of human superiority over other creatures, leading to the exploitation of animals". Speciesism is also described as the widespread discrimination that is practised by man against the other species, that is a prejudice or attitude of bias towards the interest of members of one's own species and against those of members of other species. Speciesism as a concept used to be compared with Racism and Sexism on the ground that all those refer to discrimination that tend to promote or encourage domination and exploitation of members of one group by another. One school of thought is that Castism, Racism and Sexism are biological classification, since they are concerned with physical characteristics, such as, discrimination on the ground of caste, creed, religion, colour of the skin, reproductive role etc. rather than with physical properties, such as the capacity for being harmed or benefited.

70. We have got over those inequalities like Castism, Racism, Sexism etc. through Constitutional and Statutory amendments, like Articles 14 to 17, 19, 29 and so on. So far as animals are concerned,Section 3 of the Act confers right on animals so also rights under Section 11 not to be subjected to cruelty. When such statutory rights have been conferred on animals, we can always judge as to whether they are being exploited by human-beings. As already indicated, an enlightened society, of late, condemned slavery, racism, castism, sexism etc. through constitutional amendments, laws etc. but, though late, through PCA Act, Parliament has recognized the rights of animals, of course, without not sacrificing the interest of human beings under the Doctrine of necessity, like experiments on animals for the purpose of advancement by new discovery of physiological knowledge or of knowledge which will be useful for saving or for prolonging life or alleviating suffering or for combating any disease, whether of human beings, animals or plants and also destruction of animals for food under Section 11(3) of the PCA Act. Legislature through Section 28also saved the manner of killing of animals in the manner prescribed by religions, those are, in our view, reasonable restrictions on the rights enjoyed by the animals under Section 3 read with Section 11(1). Evidently, those restrictions are the direct inevitable consequences or the effects which could be said to have been in the contemplation of the legislature for human benefit, since they are unavoidable. Further, animals like Cows, Bulls etc. are all freely used for farming, transporting loads etc., that too, for the benefit of human beings, thereby subjecting them to some pain and suffering which is also unavoidable, but permitted by the Rules framed under the PCA Act.

NON-ESSENTIAL ACTIVITIES:

71. We have, however, lot of avoidable non-essential human activities like Bullock-cart race, Jallikattu etc. Bulls, thinking that they have only instrumental value are intentionally used though avoidable, ignoring welfare of the Bulls solely for human pleasure. Such avoidable human activities violate rights guaranteed to them under Sections 3 and 11 of PCA Act. AWBI, the expert statutory body has taken up the stand that events like Jallikattu, Bullock-cart race etc. inherently involve pain and suffering, which involves both physical and mental components, including fear and distress. Temple Grandin and Catherine Johnson, in their work on "Animals in Translation" say:

"The single worst thing you can do to an animal emotionally is to make it feel afraid. Fear is so bad for animals I think it is worse than pain. I always get surprised looks when I say this. If you gave most people a choice between intense pain and intense fear, they'd probably pick fear." Both anxiety and fear, therefore, play an important role in animal suffering, which is part and parcel of the events like Jallikattu, Bullock-cart Race etc..

RIGHT TO LIFE:

72. Every species has a right to life and security, subject to the law of the land, which includes depriving its life, out of human necessity. Article 21 of the Constitution, while safeguarding the rights of humans, protects life and the word "life" has been given an expanded definition and any disturbance from the basic environment which includes all forms of life, including animal life, which are necessary for human life, fall within the meaning of Article 21 of the Constitution. So far as animals are concerned, in our view, "life" means something more than mere survival or existence or instrumental value for human-beings, but to lead a life with some intrinsic worth, honour and dignity. Animals' well-being and welfare have been statutorily recognised under Sections 3 and 11of the Act and the rights framed under the Act. Right to live in a healthy and clean atmosphere and right to get protection from human beings against inflicting unnecessary pain or suffering is a right guaranteed to the animals under Sections 3 and 11 of the PCA Act read with Article 51A(g) of the Constitution. Right to get food, shelter is also a guaranteed right under Sections 3 and 11 of the PCA Act and the Rules framed thereunder, especially when they are domesticated. Right to dignity and fair treatment is, therefore, not confined to human beings alone, but to animals as well. Right, not to be beaten, kicked, over-ridder, over-loading is also a right recognized by Section 11 read withSection 3 of the PCA Act. Animals have also a right against the human beings not to be tortured and against infliction of unnecessary pain or suffering. Penalty for violation of those rights are insignificant, since laws are made by humans. Punishment prescribed in Section 11(1) is not commensurate with the gravity of the offence, hence being violated with impunity defeating the very object and purpose of the Act, hence the necessity of taking disciplinary action against those officers who fail to discharge their duties to safeguard the statutory rights of animals under the PCA Act."

19. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Shakti Prasad Nayak vs. Union of India & ors., reported in (2014) 15 SCC 514, have restrained State of West Bengal from taking any step to administer any kind of contraceptives or introducing any method of sterilization which hinders natural procreative process of elephants or any wildlife. It has been held as follows:

"17. At this juncture, we are obliged to take note of the submission made by Mr. Tapesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel appearing for State of Jharkhand that State of West Bengal has decided to take a regressive step by introducing contraceptives so that the elephants do not procreate and consequently the accidents of the present nature are avoided. If it is so, it is absolutely impermissible and also condemnable. Mr. Avijit Bhattacharjee, learned counsel appearing for the State of West Bengal shall take instructions in this regard and file an affidavit of the competent authority. However, as advised at present, we restrain the authorities of the State of West Bengal from taking any steps to administer any kind of contraceptives or introducing any method of sterilization which hinders natural procreative process of the elephants or any wildlife."

20. It is evident from the combined reading of Articles 48 and 51-A(g) of the Constitution of India that the citizen must show compassion to the animal kingdom. The animals have their own fundamental rights. Article 48 specifically lays down that the State shall endeavour to prohibit the slaughter of cows and calves, other milch and draught cattle. This Court has issued numerous directions to the respondents on 7.10.2014, 8.1.2015, 2.5.2015, 14.10.2015 and 2.3.2016 in this regard.

The Executive Officer, MC Santokhgarh is directed to identify the land for establishment of new Gausadan in the adjoining Panchayat Chhatterpur, PO Santokhgarh. Zila Parishad, Una has sanctioned Rs. 2,00,000/- and Rs. 3,00,000/- for each gosadan respectively. The Deputy Commissioner, Lahaul & Spiti is directed to ensure to construct at least one shelter in each Block to house stray cattle.

61. The Addl. Chief Secretary (UD) has filed the affidavit. According to the averments contained in the affidavit, all the Urban Local Bodies have already been directed on 13.8.2015 and 4.12.2015 to spend funds for the construction and maintenance of gausadans out of the funds under the 13th Finance Commission. The Animal Husbandry Department has placed the issue of stray cattle before the Cabinet in the meeting held on 11.5.2016. The matter was considered by the Cabinet. The Cabinet approved that a cluster approach may be followed for construction of gausadans considering that the capacity of State, Local bodies, NGOs etc. to construct and manage gausadans, is limited. However, this Court is of the considered opinion that taking into consideration the menace of stray cattle numbering 32,100 across the State of Himachal Pradesh, the orders passed by this Court from time to time for the construction of gausadans/gaushallas/shelters is imperative. The respective Panchayats have already taken steps for construction of gausadans/gaushallas/shelters at the grass root level. The stray cattle destroy the crops and are obstructing the smooth flow of traffic. The State Government has also not taken necessary steps for the removal of stray cattle from the National Highway which is resulting in injuries to the hapless animals and to the commuters. The paucity of funds should not come in the way of construction of gausadans/gaushallas/shelters throughout the State of Himachal Pradesh. It is the constitutional duty of the State to protect the cattle wealth by augmenting its financial capacity.

62. The MC Shimla has constructed gausadan at Boileauganj. Action taken progress made by the concerned Urban Local Bodies is highlighted in para 5 of the affidavit. The Addl.

Chief Secretary (UD) is directed to ensure that the construction of gausadns at 38 urban areas, if not already completed be completed within a period of six months from today.

63. The Deputy Secretary (PR) has filed the affidavit/status report. According to the averments made in the affidavit, a sum of Rs. 5,34,84,939/- has been released for the construction of gausadans in eleven districts.

64. The Addl. Chief Secretary (Animal Husbandry), has filed the affidavit. According to the averments made in the affidavit, treatment is being provided to sick and injured stray animals. Separate registers have been maintained in all the Veterinary Institutions for maintaining record of treatment provided to stray cattle. In the affidavit, it is reiterated that there is dearth of funds. It is the responsibility of the Department of Animal Husbandry, Dairying and Fisheries, Government of India to provide sufficient funds. The matter has already been taken up by the State Government.

65. The Department of Animal Husbandry, Dairying and Fisheries, Government of India through Secretary is directed to provide sufficient funds for the construction of gausadans in the State of Himachal Pradesh. 122 gausadans have already been constructed. The Himachal Pradesh Govansh Samverdhan Board has been constituted vide notification dated 8.2.2016. The Board is directed to formulate norms for registration of gausadans within three months from today.

66. The Chief Secretary to the State of Himachal Pradesh has also filed the affidavit. He was directed to file the status/compliance report within three months before 1.6.2016. The Chief Secretary was directed to implement broader recommendations made by the National Commission of Farmers (NCF) constituted on 18.11.2004. The matter was taken up with the Government of India. MSP is recommended by Commission (NCF) for agricultural costs and prices. The Court is not satisfied with the affidavit as to why the MSP could not be introduced for 107 commodities, as mentioned in the order dated 2.3.2016. It is always open to the State to adopt MSPs recommended by the NCF for agricultural costs and prices or at its own level. The MSP is must to protect the interest of the farmers. It is also highlighted in the affidavit that there is Market Intervention Scheme (MIS) in place which is implemented on the request of State Governments for procurement of perishable and horticultural commodities in the event of fall in market prices. There are items i.e. apple, citrus fruits like Kinnow/Malta/Santra, Galgal and Mango included therein. If there can be Market intervention Scheme for three commodities, there is no reason why there cannot be Market Intervention Scheme for 107 commodities as mentioned in the order dated 2.3.2016.

67. Accordingly, the Chief Secretary to the State of Himachal Pradesh is directed to take up the matter again with the Ministry concerned of the Government of India for declaring MSP for 107 commodities and till then, the State Government is directed to at least formulate Market Intervention Scheme for 107 commodities as per order dated 2.3.2016. There can also be price regulation fund which is in vogue for onion and potatoes. The matter shall be taken up by the Chief Secretary to the State of Himachal Pradesh directly with the Commission for Agricultural Costs and Prices (CACP), Government of India within six weeks from today.

68. The compounded annual growth rates (CAGR) in nominal as well as real incomes (deflated by state specific CPI-AL) of farmer households during 2002-03 to 2012-13 is as under:

> " In 2012-13, an average Indian farmer's monthly income was Rs 6,426. Punjab's farmers had the highest income at Rs 18,059, followed by those in Haryana (Rs 14,434), Jammu & Kashmir (Rs 12,683) and Kerala (Rs 11,888). Bihar's farmers earned the least, with their monthly incomes averaging Rs 3,558.
> * The CAGR of farmers' nominal incomes between 2002-03 and 2012-13 was 11.8 per cent at an all-India level. Within this, Haryana registered the highest growth (17.5 per cent) and West Bengal the lowest (6.7 per cent).

> * In real income terms, Odisha emerged as the top performer with a CAGR of 8.3 per cent, closely followed by Haryana (8 per cent), Rajasthan 7.9 (per cent) and Madhya Pradesh (7.3 per cent), as against a national average of 3.5 per cent. The worst performers were Bihar and West Bengal, with negative real growth rates in their farmers' incomes.
> * Coming to sources of farmers' income, the share from cultivation rose from 45.8 per cent in 2002-03 to 47.9 per cent in 2012-13. But the share of income from farming of animals was the one that grew the most, from 4.3 per cent to 11.9 per cent, while the contribution from both non-farm business and wages & salaries declined over this period. Thus, the highest growth was registered in receipts from livestock farming. And this was true, especially in states that showed overall higher real income growth rates."

69. The State Government should also implement the Pradhan Mantri Krishi Sinchayee Yojana (PMKSY) in letter and spirit in order to ensure water to every farm ("har khet ko paani").

70. The Court has also directed to constitute the State Agriculture Commission. It has been specifically undertaken in the affidavit that the same is under active consideration of the State Government. The Chief Secretary to the State of Himachal Pradesh is directed to ensure that the State Agriculture Commission is constituted, notified and made functional within a period of three months positively.

71. The State Government is also directed to implement Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana (PMFBY) in letter and spirit to provide better insurance cover. The State Government has only covered Maize and Paddy in Kharif and Wheat and Barley in Rabi under the cover. The other crops be also included in Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana (PMFBY). The State Government is also directed to scrupulously implement Weather Based Crop Insurance Scheme (WBCIS) for all the crops in the State of Himachal Pradesh. The Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana (PMFBY) is laudable step and must be implemented in letter and spirit to mitigate the hardship faced by the farmers.

72. Now, as far as waiver of loans to the small and marginal farmers is concerned at least up to Rs. 50,000/- (rupees Fifty thousand) according to the affidavit filed, the directions were issued to General Manager and Convener State Level Bankers Committee (SLBC) on 21.4.2016. The Convener Bank informed that the meeting was likely to be held in the month of June, 2016. The General Manager and Convener State Level Bankers Committee (SLBC) is directed to decide the issue within a period of three months from today, if not already decided.

73. This Court has also suggested the Union of India to enact the law prohibiting slaughtering of cow/calf, import or export of cow/calf, selling of beef or beef products, in its wisdom, at national level within three months. The Union of India has filed an affidavit. According to the averments made in the reply/affidavit, the subject falls within entry No. 15 of the State List. It is also stated in the reply/affidavit that the only five States and one Union Territory have no legislation on the subject, however, Union of India has not taken into consideration entry No. 17 and 17B of the Concurrent List. It is open for the Union of India to enact law at the national level prohibiting slaughtering of cow/calf, import or export of cow/calf, selling of beef or beef products under entry No. 17 of the Concurrent List. Accordingly, the directions issued by this Court on 14.10.2015 to Union of India to enact law prohibiting slaughtering of cow/calf, import or export of cow/calf, selling of beef or beef products, at the national level, are reiterated. The necessary steps be taken within six months from today. A copy of this order be also sent to the National Law Commission for its kind perusal.

74. The Chief Secretary to the Government of Himachal Pradesh is directed to ensure release of sufficient funds for the construction of gausadans.

75. The Writ Petition is disposed of with the mandatory directions issued hereinabove. The directions issued by this Court from time to time on 7.10.2014, 8.1.2015, 2.5.2015, 14.10.2015 and 2.3.2016, shall also form integral part of this judgment. Pending application(s), if any, shall stand disposed of.

76. The description of farmer has aptly been described by the American Poet Edwin Markham's poem "The Man with the Hoe". This poem was called "the battle-cry of the next thousand years" and translated into 37 languages. We quote:

> "……Bowed by the weight of centuries he leans
> Upon his hoe and gazes on the ground,
> The emptiness of ages in his face,
> And on his back the burden of the world………"
> "The cow and the working bullock have on their patient back the whole structure of Indian agriculture." (Report on the Marketing of Cattle in India, p. 20).

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was a student and was also working as a Supervisor with the Govt. Contractor who appeared in the witness box and stated that he was paying Rs. 8,000/- per month to the deceased as salary- deceased was a bachelor and 50 % amount was to be deducted towards his personal expenses—claimants had suffered loss of dependency of Rs. 4,000/- per month- deceased was 21 years of age- multiplier of '15' is applicable- claimants are entitled to Rs. 4,000/- x 12 x 15 = Rs. 7,20,000/- under the head 'loss of dependency'- Tribunal had awarded Rs. 25,000/- on account of 'love and affection' including funeral expenses, which are maintained- claimants are entitled for compensation of Rs. 7,20,000/- + Rs. 25,000/- = Rs. 7,45,000/- along with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the claim petition till its realization. For the respondents: Mr. Dheeraj Kumar, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 and 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to judgment and award, dated 26th May, 2011, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (1st), Solan, District Solan, H.P. (for short "the Tribunal") in Petition No. 62-S/2 of 2009, titled as Smt. Bimla Devi and another versus Sh. Phulena Yadav and others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 11,05,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the petition till its realization and the insurer was saddled with liability (for short "the impugned award").

2. The claimants, the owner-insured and the driver of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. The appellant-insurer has called in question the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of the appeal.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant-insured argued that another claim petition arising out of the same accident, being Claim Petition No. 44-S/2 of 2009, titled as Balak Ram and another versus Gullu Transport Company and another, was filed before the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shimla, District Shimla, H.P., whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 6,32,000/- with interest @ 9% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till deposit was awarded and the insurer was directed to satisfy the award with right of recovery. The said award was subject matter of FAO No. 517 of 2015, titled as ICICI Lombard Motor Insurance versus Sh. Balak Ram Chauhan and others, came to be determined by this Court vide judgment and order, dated 15th July, 2016, in terms of which the claimants were held entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 6,06,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum and it was held that the Tribunal has rightly saddled the insurer with liability with right of recovery. Further argued that in this case also, right of recovery was to be granted, which has not been granted and the owner-insured is caught by principle of res-judicata, and that the amount awarded is excessive. He has made available certified copy of judgment in FAO No. 517 of 2015 (supra) across the Board, made part of the file.

5. Both the arguments of the learned counsel for the appellant-insurer are tenable and forceful for the following reasons:

6. The driver, namely Shri Phulena Yadav, had driven the truck, bearing registration No. RJ-14 GA-4122, rashly and negligently on 6th March, 2009, near Shoghi, District Shimla, caused the accident, which has given birth to two claim petitions, i.e. Claim Petition No. 44-S/2 of 2009, titled as Balak Ram and another versus Gullu Transport Company and another (subject matter of FAO No. 517 of 2015) and Claim Petition No. 62-S/2 of 2009, titled as Smt. Bimla Devi and another versus Sh. Phulena Yadav and others (subject matter of the appeal in hand).

7. This Court has already upheld the award made in the claim petition, subject matter of FAO No. 517 of 2015, so far it relates to granting of right of recovery in favour of the appellant-insurer, but, in the case in hand, right of recovery has not been granted on the ground that the insurer has not led any evidence to prove that the offending vehicle was being plied in violation of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy.

8. It is apt to record herein that this Court has upheld the right of recovery granted in favour of the insurer in a case arising out of the same accident. The parties are governed by the doctrine of res judicata. Accordingly, it is held that the insurer has to satisfy the impugned award with right of recovery.

9. The deceased was a student and was also working as a Supervisor with Shri Mohan Singh Chauhan, Government Contractor, who appeared in the witness box and stated that he was paying ₹ 8,000/- per month to him as salary. Thus, there is proof on the file that the deceased was earning ₹ 8,000/- per month and while granting compensation by using multiplier method, the income, as it is proved, has to be taken into account. The deceased was a bachelor, thus 50% is to be deducted towards his personal expenses in view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma (Smt) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in (2009) 6 Supreme Court Cases 121, which was upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari & Ors. versus Madan Mohan & Anr., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120. Thus, it is held that the claimants have suffered loss of dependency to the tune of ₹ 4,000/- per month.

10. The deceased was 21 years of age at the time of the accident. The Tribunal has rightly applied the multiplier of '15' in view of Sarla Verma's and Reshma Kumari's cases (supra) read with the Second Schedule appended with the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short “MV Act”).

11. Viewed thus, the claimants are held entitled to ₹ 4,000/- x 12 x 15 = ₹7,20,000/- under the head 'loss of income/dependency'.

12. The Tribunal has awarded ₹ 25,000/- on account of loss of love and affection including funeral expenses, which is maintained.

13. Having said so, it is held that the claimants are entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 7,20,000/- + ₹ 25,000/- = ₹ 7,45,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the claim petition till its realization and insurer is saddled with liability with right of recovery from the owner-insured.

14. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award read with this judgment through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective bank accounts.

15. Excess amount, if any, be released in favour of the insurer through payee's account cheque.

16. Having glance of the above discussions, the impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove, and the appeal is disposed of accordingly.

17. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 22nd December, 2010, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal(II), Mandi, District Mandi, H.P., (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.5 of 2001, titled Lal Singh vs. Kamal Dev and others, whereby the claim petition came to be dismissed, (for short the "impugned award").

2. Facts of the case, in brief, are that on 1.3.2000, deceased Ramesh Kumar, while driving truck bearing No.HP-24-3425, was going from Barmana to Lakhyani Baroti. When the said truck reached near Dehar, another truck bearing registration No.HP-23-3752, being driven by its driver, namely, Kamal Dev, rashly and negligent, hit the truck of deceased Ramesh Kumar, as a result of which the truck (HP-24-3425) fell down the hill, causing death of driver Ramesh Kumar, constraining his mother and father to file the Claim Petition before the Tribunal claiming compensation to the tune of 10.00 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition. During the pendency of the Claim Petition, the mother of the deceased Ramesh Kumar expired and was deleted from the array of claimants.

3. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents and following issues were framed:

"1. Whether respondent No.1 was driving truck No.HP-23-3752 on 1.3.2000 near village Dehar in a rash and negligent manner resulting in causing death of Ramesh Kumar son of the petitioner? OPP

2. If issue No.1 is proved, whether the petitioner is entitled for compensation, if so from whom? OPP

3. Whether there has been any breach of the terms and conditions of the insurance Policy? OPR

4. Whether respondent No.1 was not holding valid and effective driving license at the time of accident? OPR-3

5. Relief."

4. The claimants examined as many as five witnesses, namely, PW-1 Dr. Deepak Malhotra, PW-2 Ashwani Kumar, PW-3 Lal Singh (claimant), PW-4 Ajit Ram and PW-5 Ram Singh. Respondents also examined RW-1 Sukh Ram and RW-2 Kamlesh Kumar.

5. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, held that the claimant has failed to prove that the driver of the offending truck, namely, Kamal Dev, had driven the offending truck bearing No.HP-23-3752 rashly and negligently and accordingly, dismissed the claim petition.

6. The findings recorded by the Tribunal are erroneous and against the concept of granting compensation. The Tribunal, while dismissing the claim petition, seems to have applied the standard of proof required in criminal proceedings, which is against the spirit of awarding compensation in accident cases. The Tribunal has to keep in mind that the victims of a vehicular accident have to establish prima facie that the injury or the death was due to the rash and negligent driving of a motor vehicle.

7. It is beaten law of the land that the Courts, while determining the cases of compensation in vehicular accidents, must not succumb to the niceties and hyper technicalities of law. It is also well established principle of law that negligence in vehicular accident cases has to be decided on the hallmark of preponderance of probabilities and not on the basis of proof beyond reasonable doubt. Furthermore, the claimants claiming compensation in terms of Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, (for short, the Act), is not to be seen as an adversial litigation, but is to be determined while keeping in view the aim and object of granting compensation.

8. My this view is fortified by the judgment of the Apex Court in Dulcina Fernandes and others vs. Joaquim Xavier Cruz and another, (2013) 10 SCC 646.

9. The Apex Court in Savita vs. Bindar Singh & others, 2014 AIR SCW 2053, has held that at the time of fixing compensation, courts should not succumb to niceties or technicalities of law. It is apt to reproduce paragraph 6 of the said decision hereunder:

> "6. After considering the decisions of this Court in Santosh Devi (Supra) as well as Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh (supra), we are of the opinion that it is the duty of the Court to fix a just compensation. At the time of fixing such compensation, the court should not succumb to the niceties or technicalities to grant just compensation in favour of the claimant. It is the duty of the court to equate, as far as possible, the misery on account of the accident with the compensation so that the injured or the dependants should not face the vagaries of life on account of discontinuance of the income earned by the victim. Therefore, it will be the bounden duty of the Tribunal to award just, equitable, fair and reasonable compensation judging the situation prevailing at that point of time with reference to the settled principles on assessment of damages. In doing so, the Tribunal can also ignore the claim made by the claimant in the application for compensation with the prime object to assess the award based on the principle that the award should be just, equitable, fair and reasonable compensation."

10. A reference may also be made to the decision of the Apex Court in Sohan Lal Passi v. P.Sesh Reddy and others, AIR 1996 Supreme Court 2627, in which, in paragraph 12, it was observed that the courts, while deciding claim petitions, must keep in mind that the right of the claimants is not defeated on technical grounds. Relevant portion of paragraph 12 of the said decision is reproduced hereunder:

"12. .... While interpreting the contract of insurance, the Tribunal and Courts have to be conscious of the fact that right to claim compensation by heirs and legal representatives of the victims of the accident is not defeated on technical grounds. Unless it is established on the materials on record that it was the insured who had wilfully violated the condition of the policy by allowing a person not duly licensed to drive the vehicle when the accident took place, the insurer shall be deemed to be a judgment debtor in respect of the liability in view of sub-section (1) of Section 96 of the Act. It need not be pointed out that the whole concept of getting the vehicle insured by an insurance company is to provide an easy mode of getting compensation by the claimants, otherwise in normal course they had to pursue their claim against the owner from one forum to the other and ultimately to execute the order of the Accident Claims Tribunal for realisation of such amount by sale of properties of the owner of the vehicle. The procedure and result of the execution of the decree is well known."

11. This Court also, in the recent past, in series of judgments, has followed the similar principle and held that granting of compensation is just to ameliorate the sufferings of the victims and compensation is to be granted without succumbing to the niceties of law, hyper-technicalities and procedural wrangles and tangles.

12. In the instant case, the claimant has specifically pleaded in the claim petition that the accident had taken place due to the rash and negligent driving of driver namely Kamal Dev. Respondents have denied the said factum, but mere denial is not sufficient to conclude that the offending truck was not being driven rashly and negligently at the time of accident. The claimant has examined PW-4 Ajit Ram, who has clearly stated that the driver of the offending truck No.HP-23-3752 had hit the truck being driven by deceased Ramesh Kumar, as a result of which the truck rolled down the hill resulting into the death of Ramesh Kumar. RW-2 Kamlesh Kumar, who was conductor with truck No.HP-24-3425, has stated that the driver of the offending truck, while driving the offending truck bearing No.HP-23-3752 rashly and negligently, hit the truck bearing No.HP-24-3425, as a result of which the said truck rolled down the road.

13. In addition to above, statements of PW-1 Dr.Deepak Malhotra, PW-3 Lal Singh (claimant), PW-4 Ajit Ram and PW-5 Ram Singh do establish that the deceased Ramesh Kumar had died in a vehicular accident and there is sufficient evidence on the file to prima facie conclude that the accident was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver, namely, Kamal Dev (driver of truck No.HP-23-3752).

14. The Tribunal has not properly appreciated the statements of PW-4 Ajit Ram and RW-2 Kamlesh Kumar, while dismissing the claim petition. On the contrary, the statements of these witnesses do established, prima facie, that the driver, namely, Kamal Dev hit the truck being driven by deceased Ramesh Kumar, as a result of which it rolled down and driver Ramesh Kumar died on the spot.

15. Viewed thus, the findings recorded by the Tribunal on issue No.1 are set aside and it is held that the accident was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of driver, namely, Kamal Dev, who, at the relevant time, was driving truck bearing No.HP-23-3752, in which Ramesh Kumar sustained injuries and succumbed to the same.

16. Before issue No.2 is taken up, I deem it proper to deal with other issues.

17. Respondents have not led any evidence to prove that the truck bearing No.HP-23-3752 was being driven in violation of the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on this issue are upheld.

18. It was for the respondents to plead and prove that the driver of the offending truck, namely, Kamal Dev was not having a valid and effective driving licence, has not led any evidence. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on this issue are also upheld.

19. It is also not out of place to record herein that the findings recorded by the Tribunal on issues No.3 and 4 have not been challenged by the original respondents, either by way of appeal or cross objections. Thus also, the findings on issues No.3 and 4 merit to be upheld and are upheld accordingly.

20. Coming to issue No.2, the factum of insurance is admitted. The deceased was 24 years of age, was driver by profession and was bachelor at the time of death. By guess work, the monthly income of the deceased cannot be said to be less than Rs.5,000/-. Since the deceased was a bachelor, as per the mandate of the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104, upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in a case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120, 50% amount has to be deducted from the income of the deceased towards his personal expenses. Thus, the monthly loss of source of dependency to the claimant can be said to be Rs.2,500/-.

21. The deceased was 24 years of age at the time of death, therefore, as per the dictum of the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's case supra and 2nd Schedule attached to the Act, multiplier of 15 is just and appropriate and is applied in the instant case.

22. In view of the above, the claimant is held entitled to Rs.2500x12x15 = Rs.4,50,000/- as compensation, with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till deposit.

23. Having said so, the appeal is allowed and the impugned award is set aside. Consequently, the claim petition is allowed and the insurer is saddled with the liability. The insurer is directed to deposit the compensation amount, alongwith up-to-date interest, in the Registry of this Court, within a period of eight weeks from today and on deposit, the Registry is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimant forthwith.

24. The appeal is disposed of accordingly.

For the appellant: Ms.Leena Guleria, Proxy Counsel.

For the respondents: Mr.Vikas Rathour, Advocate, for respondents No.1 to 4.
Mr.G.D. Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 30th September, 2010, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal(II), Mandi, District Mandi, H.P., (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.120 of 2002, titled Nagender Kumar vs. Nitu and others, whereby the claim petition came to be dismissed, (for short the "impugned award").

2. Claimant Nagender Kumar filed the claim petition under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, (for short, the Act), for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.5.00 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

3. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents by filing replies and issues were framed.

4. The claimant, in order to prove his case, examined PW-1 Dr.Harish Behl and PW-3 Nand Kumar. The claimant also stepped into the witness box as PW-2. Respondents examined RW-1 Harish Kumar and RW-2 Ritu Naamdhari, as witnesses.

5. The Tribunal, after scanning the pleadings of the parties and the evidence led, held that the claimant had failed to prove that the accident was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver of the car and, thus, dismissed the claim petition.

6. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record.

7. There is not an iota of evidence on the record to prima facie prove that the accident was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver, who was driving the car. Even no FIR was registered in regard to the accident. On the last date of hearing, the learned counsel for the appellant/claimant was asked to produce any prescription slip or medical record, which may suggest that the claimant sustained injuries in the accident and remained under treatment for the same. Today, the learned counsel for the appellant stated that the appellant is not in a position to produce any such document.

8. The pleadings and proof of rash and negligent driving is the sine qua non for maintaining the Claim Petition under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

9. In view of the above, no fault can be found with the impugned award and the same deserves to be upheld. Accordingly, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

Appellant and writ petitioner have questioned the judgment and award dated 23.3.2011, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shimla, H.P. in MAC Petition No. 17-S/2 of 2006, titled Sh. Prem Singh versus M/s Supper Pipe and others, for short "the Tribunal", by the medium of FAO No. 339 of 2011 and Civil Writ Petition No.6687 of 2011, respectively, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.8,08,000/- came to be awarded in favour of the claimants alongwith interest @ 9% per annum, with Rs.5000/- as costs, and insurers, namely, National Insurance Company and Oriental Insurance Company, came to be saddled with the liability, hereinafter referred to as "the impugned award", for short.

2. This judgment will govern both the appeal and the writ petition.

3. The claimant being the victim of the vehicular accident filed claim petition for the grant of compensation, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, which was resisted by the respondents and following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal.

(xviii) Relief.

4. The learned counsel for the appellant and the writ petitioner have argued that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in directing the insurers to satisfy the award. The drivers, namely, Major Singh, respondent No. 3 in the claim petition and Sant Ram respondent No. 6 in the claim petition had not driven the vehicles rashly and negligently and tried to carve out a case for their exoneration. The arguments advanced by both the learned counsel for the appellant and the writ petitioner are not tenable and devoid of any force for the following reasons.

5. The Tribunal, after scanning the pleadings and the evidence, held that the driver, namely, Jaspal Singh respondent No.2 had wrongly parked the offending vehicle No. PB-13F-9976 and driver Sant Ram respondent No.6, driver of the offending vehicle No. HP-63-0698 had driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 23 of the impugned award herein.

"23………….On the basis of evidence on record, I have no hesitation in treating the respondents No. 2 and 6 equally responsible for the accident. Issues No. 1, 3 and 13 are accordingly answered against the respondents No. 2 and 6."

6. Neither respondents No. 2 and 6 nor the owner/insured have questioned the said findings. How the insurer who has to indemnify, can question the said findings.

7. The learned counsel for the insurers have argued that the challan was presented against respondents No. 2 and 3 in the claim petition and not against respondent No. 6. Thus, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in holding that the accident was outcome of contributory negligence of respondents No. 2 and 6. This argument is not tenable for the following reasons.

8. In civil cases, proof of preponderance of probabilities is required, in criminal cases, proof beyond reasonable doubt is required and in summary proceeding petition under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 for short "the Act", prima facie proof is required.

9. My this view is fortified by the judgment delivered by the apex court in Dulcina Fernandes and others vs. Joaquim Xavier Cruz and another, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 646, and Oriental Insurance Co. versus Mst. Zarifa and others, reported in AIR 1995 Jammu and Kashmir 81.

10. This Court has also laid down the similar principles of law in FAO No. 692 of 2008 decided on 4.9.2015 titled Cholamandlan MS General Insurance Co. Ltd. Versus Smt. Jamna Devi and others, FAO No. 287 of 2014 along with connected matter, decided on 18.9.2015 titled Tulsi Ram versus Smt. Mena Devi and others, FAO No. 72 of 2008 along with connected matter decided on 10.7.2015 titled Anil Kumar versus Nitim Kumar and others and FAO No. 174 of 2013 decided on 5.9.2014 titled Kusum Kumari versus M.D. U.P Roadways and others.

11. The learned counsels also argued that criminal case stands decided and accused/drivers have been acquitted, thus, prayed that claim petition be dismissed, is devoid of any force.

12. The apex Court in case titled NKV Bros. (P) Ltd vs. M. karumai Ammal and others reported in AIR 1980 SC 1354 held that in criminal case acquittal of the driver cannot be a ground to dismiss the claim petition. It is apt to reproduce para 3 of the said judgment herein:

"3. Road accidents are one of the top killers in our country, specially when truck and bus drivers operate nocturnally. This proverbial recklessness often persuades the Courts, as has been observed by us earlier in other case, to draw an initial presumption in several cases based on the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur. Accidents Tribunals must take special care to see that innocent victims do not suffer and drivers and owners do not escape liability merely because of some doubt here or some obscurity there. Save in plain cases, culpability must be inferred from the circumstances where it is fairly reasonable. The Court should not succumb to niceties, technicalities and mystic maybes. We are emphasissing this aspect because we are often distressed by transport operators getting away with it thanks to judicial laxity, despite the fact that they do not exercise sufficient disciplinary control over the drivers in the matter of careful driving. The heavy economic impact of culpable driving of public transport must bring owner and driver to their responsibility to their "neighbour". Indeed, the State must seriously consider no-fault liability by legislation. A second aspect which pains us is the inadequacy of the compensation or undue parcimony practised by tribunals. We must remember that judicial tribunals are State organs and Art. 41 of the Constitution lays the jurisprudential foundation for state relief against accidental disablement of citizens. There is no justification for niggardliness in compensation. A third factor which is harrowing is the enormous delay in disposal of accident cases resulting in compensation, even if awarded, being postponed by several years. The States must appoint sufficient number of tribunals and the High Court should insist upon quick disposals so that the trauma and tragedy already sustained may not be magnified by the injustice of delayed justice. Many States are unjustly indifferent in this regard."

13. I have scanned the evidence. The drivers of offending vehicle No. PB13-G-9976 and PB-13-F-9976 had parked their trucks illegally, that too, on wrong sides, had not taken due care and caution while parking the said trucks. Even parking lights of the trucks were not switched on and driver of one of the offending vehicle No. HP-63-0698 had also not taken due care and caution, and was also rash and negligent and hit the offending vehicle No. PB-13-F-9976, from its rear portion. It is apt to reproduce the discussions made by the Tribunal in para 22 of the impugned award herein.

"22. I find no merit in the submission of learned counsel for the respondents No. 1 to 3. At the time of arguments, learned counsel for the respondents No. 1 to 3 had drawn site plan of the trucks No. PB-13-F-9976 and PB-13G-9977. First truck stood stopped on the extreme left side on kacha portion. Second truck stood stopped being the first truck. If the site plan as submitted by the learned counsel for the respondents No. 1 to 3 had been correct, truck No. HP-63-0698 would have struck against rear portion of truck No. PB-13G-9976. This had not happened. The record revealed that truck NO. HP-63-0698 had struck against rear portion of Truck No. PB-13-F-9976. The evidence of petitioner and respondent No. 6 coupled with FIR, clearly pointed out that first truck No. PB-13G-9976 had been stopped somewhat on left side of NH-I. Since truck No. PB13-F-9976 was owned by the same owner, the respondent NO. 2 had stopped this truck parallel to truck No. PB-13G-9976. The respondents No. 2 and 3 had been workmen of the same owner (respondent No.1) There was evidence on record that after having wrongly parked trucks No. PB-13-G-9976 and PB-13-G-9976, the drivers had started conversing with indifference to safety and well being of others. Parking lights of the trucks had not been switched on. It was in these circumstances that the truck N O. HP-63-0698 had struck against rear portion of truck No. PB-13-F-9976."

14. Having said so, I am of the considered view that the Tribunal has rightly held that the driver respondents No. 2 and 6 in the claim petitions have driven the vehicles rashly and negligently and the accident was outcome of contributory negligence of both the drivers. Accordingly, the findings returned on issue No. 1 are upheld.

15. The Tribunal has decided issues No. 1 and 2 in favour of the claimants and Issues No.3 to 17 against the respondents.

16. The learned counsel for the insurers Ms. Devyani Sharma, and Dr. Lalit K. Sharma, Advocates, submitted that the insurers have not questioned the findings returned by the Tribunal on issues No. 3 to 17, are accordingly, upheld.

17. It is beaten law of land that the compensation is to be awarded in an injury case under pecuniary and non-pecuniary heads by making guess work.

18. My this view is fortified by the judgments made by the Apex Court in the cases titled as R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others, reported in AIR 1995 SC 755, Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another, reported in 2010 AIR SCW 6085, Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited, reported in 2011 AIR SCW 4787, and Kavita versus Deepak and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 4771.

19. This Court has also laid down the same principle in a series of cases.

20. Applying the test, prima facie, it appears that the Tribunal has rightly made the discussions in paras 26 to 32 of the impugned award. It is apt to record herein that the claimant and respondents in claim petition have not questioned the adequacy of the compensation, is accordingly upheld.

21. In the given circumstances, the impugned award merits to be upheld, appeal and writ petition merit to be dismissed.

22. The insurers are directed to deposit the amount within 6 weeks from today in the Registry, if not already deposited. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimant, through payees' cheque account or by depositing the same in his bank account, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award.

23. Viewed thus, the impugned award is upheld, appeal and the writ petition are dismissed.

24. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

National Insurance Company Limited …Appellant.
Versus
Shri Ravinder Kumar and others …Respondents.

FAO No. 12 of 2011
Decided on: 29.07.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Claimant was student of 9th standard- he met with an accident caused by the driver while driving the bus- he will have to suffer throughout his life- he remained admitted and under treatment for the period of one year- he has suffered trauma, pain and sufferings, and must have spent huge amount on his treatment and other medical expenses- amount of Rs. 1,43,948/- was awarded, which cannot be said to be excessive in any manner- appeal dismissed. (Para-16)

For the appellant: Mr. Jagdish Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondents: Nemo for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Vinod Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.
Name of respondent No. 3 stands already deleted.

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to judgment and award, dated 29th September, 2010, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Hamirpur, H.P. (for short "the Tribunal") in MAC Petition No. 37 of 2006, titled as Ravinder Kumar versus Subhash Chand and others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 1,43,948/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimant-injured and the insurer was saddled with liability (for short "the impugned award").

2. The claimant-injured, owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned award of any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. The appellant-insurer has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of the appeal.

4. In order to determine this appeal, it is necessary to give a brief resume of the case, the womb of which has given birth to the appeal in hand.

5. The claimant-injured invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal by the medium of claim petition for grant of compensation, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the ground that he became the victim of a motor vehicular accident, which was caused by the driver, namely Soni Kumar, while driving bus, bearing registration No. HP-22 A-7377, rashly and negligently on 30th June, 2005, at about 2.30 P.M., at place Kot, Tehsil and District Hamirpur, in which he sustained injuries.

6. The claim petition was resisted by the owner-insured and the insurer of the offending vehicle on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections. The driver of the offending vehicle chose not to appear before the Tribunal and ex-parte proceedings were drawn against him.

7. On the pleadings of the parties, following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal on 7th November, 2008:

> "1. Whether the petitioner has suffered injuries due to rash and negligent driving of Bus No. HP-22A-7377 by Soni Kumar, respondent No. 2, as alleged? OPP
> 2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioner/claimant is entitled to compensation, if so, to what amount and from which of the respondents? OPP
> 3. Whether the petition is not maintainable in the present form? OPRs
> 4. Whether the respondent No. 2 was not holding a valid and effective driving licence to drive the vehicle in question at the time of accident? OPR-3
> 5. Whether the vehicle was being driven without any valid route permit and registration certificate? OPR-3
> 6. Relief."

8. Parties have led evidence.

Issue No. 1:

9. The claimant-injured has led evidence and proved that the driver, namely Shri Soni Kumar, had driven the offending vehicle, i.e. bus, bearing registration No. HP-22 A-7377, rashly and negligently on 30th June, 2005, at about 2.30 P.M., at place Kot and caused the accident, in which he sustained injuries. No evidence to this effect has been led in rebuttal. Having said so, the Tribunal has rightly made discussions in paras 14 to 30 of the impugned award. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are upheld.

10. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to determine issues No. 3 to 5.

Issue No. 3:

11. It was for the respondents in the claim petition to lead evidence and prove that the claim petition was not maintainable, have not led any evidence to this effect, thus, have failed to discharge the onus.

12. However, I have gone through the record. I wonder how this issue came to be framed by the Tribunal for the reason that the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "MV Act") has gone through a sea change in the year 1994 and in terms of Sections 158 (6) and 166 (4) of the MV Act, even a police report can be treated as a claim petition by the Tribunal. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 3 are upheld.

Issue No. 4:

13. It was for the appellant-insurer to plead and prove that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence to drive the offending vehicle at the relevant point of time. The Tribunal has rightly made the discussions in paras 32 and 33 of the impugned award, need no interference.

14. However, I have gone through the record and am of the considered view that the appellant-insurer has failed to prove that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the relevant point of time. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 4 are upheld.

Issue No. 5:

15. It was for the appellant-insurer to plead and prove that the offending vehicle was being driven without any valid route permit and registration certificate, has not led any evidence to this effect, thus, has failed to discharge the onus. Even otherwise, the route permit and registration certificate of the offending vehicle are on the record as Ext. RW-1/D and Ext. RW-1/C, respectively. Thus, the Tribunal has rightly decided issue No. 5, is, accordingly, upheld.

Issue No. 2:

16. The claimant-injured, at the relevant point of time, was a student of 9th standard, became victim of the vehicular accident, has suffered and has to suffer throughout his life. He has remained admitted and was under treatment for a period of more than one year, has suffered trauma, pain and sufferings, and must have spent huge amount on his treatment and other medical expenses. A meagre amount of ₹ 1,43,948/- has been awarded, cannot be said to be excessive in any way. The Tribunal has rightly made the discussions in paras 39 to 41. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 2 are upheld.

17. Having glance of the above discussions, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

18. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimant-injured strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in his bank account.

19. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

For the respondents: Mr. Nimish Gupta, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 to 3.
Mr. Devender Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.4.
Mr. Ramesh Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.5.

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice, (Oral)

This appeal is directed against the judgment and award dated 20.12.2010, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, (II), Una, H.P. in MACP RBT No. 93/2000-61/98, titled Smt. Gurmeet Rani and others versus Sh. Deepak Kumar and others, for short "the Tribunal", whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.4,68,000/- came to be awarded in favour of the claimants alongwith interest @ 9% per annum, with Rs.1000/- as costs, hereinafter referred to as "the impugned award", for short.

2. Claimant, driver and owner have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, has attained the finality, so far as it relates to them.

3. Appellant/insurer has questioned the impugned award on the grounds;

(i) That the insured has committed willful breach;

(ii) That the vehicle was carrying the passenger more than the permissible capacity, thus, the insurer was not liable; and,

(iii) that the amount awarded is excessive.

4. All the above grounds are not tenable and devoid of any force for the following reasons.

5. The claimants have proved by leading evidence that the driver, namely, Deepak Kumar has driven the vehicle rashly and negligently and caused the accident. The Tribunal has specifically recorded in para 20 of the impugned award that the FIR was lodged against the driver, investigation was conducted and final repot was presented against the driver. The driver and owner have not questioned the said findings. Thus, the insurer has no right to question the said findings. Even otherwise, I have gone through the record. Prima facie there is proof on the file which is made basis for holding that the driver has driven the vehicle rashly and negligently in which the deceased sustained the injuries and succumbed to the same. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.1 are upheld.

6. Before I deal with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with issues No. 3, 4 and 5 at the first instance. The insurer had to prove these issues. Insurer has only examined Smt. Amarjit Kaur, Clerk from the office of District Transport Officer, Hoshiarpur. She has stated that the driver was having a valid and effective driving licence, the discussion of which has been made in paras 30 to 33 of the impugned award. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the owner/insured has committed willful breach, has not led any evidence. Issue No. 5 was not pressed by the insurer. Thus, the insurer has failed to discharge the onus on these issues. The Tribunal has rightly decided these issues against the insurer.

7. The learned counsel for the appellant has argued that the vehicle was carrying the passenger more than the permissible capacity. It is for the insurer to press this issue at the relevant point of time because as on today there is only one claim petition before this Court. The insurer is at liberty to take this ground at an appropriate stage, in the appropriate proceedings.

8. The Apex Court in the case titled as United India Insurance Company Limited versus K.M. Poonam & others, reported in 2011 ACJ 917, has laid down the law. It is apt to reproduce para 24 of the judgment herein:

"24. The liability of the insurer, therefore, is confined to the number of persons covered by the insurance policy and not beyond the same. In other words, as in the present case, since the insurance policy of the owner of the vehicle covered six occupants of the vehicle in question, including the driver, the liability of the insurer would be confined to six persons only, notwithstanding the larger number of persons carried in the vehicle. Such excess number of persons would have to be treated as third parties, but since no premium had been paid in the policy for them, the insurer would not be liable to make payment of the compensation amount as far as they are concerned. However, the liability of the Insurance Company to make payment even in respect of persons not covered by the insurance policy continues under the provisions of sub-section (1) of Section 149 of the Act, as it would be entitled to recover the same if it could prove that one of the conditions of the policy had been breached by the owner of the vehicle. In the instant case, any of the persons travelling in the vehicle in excess of the permitted number of six passengers, though entitled to be compensated by the owner of the vehicle, would still be entitled to receive the compensation amount from the insurer, who could then recover it from the insured owner of the vehicle."

9. It is also apt to reproduce para 15 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case titled as National Insurance Company Limited versus Anjana Shyam & others, reported in 2007 AIR SCW 5237, herein:

"15. In spite of the relevant provisions of the statute, insurance still remains a contract between the owner and the insurer and the parties are governed by the terms of their contract. The statute has made insurance obligatory in public interest and by way of social security and it has also provided that the insurer would be obliged to fulfil his obligations as imposed by the contract and as overseen by the statute notwithstanding any claim he may have against the other contracting party, the owner, and meet the claims of third parties subject to the exceptions provided in Section 149(2) of the Act. But that does not mean that an insurer is bound to pay amounts outside the contract of insurance itself or in respect of persons not covered by the contract at all. In other words, the insured is covered only to the extent of the passengers permitted to be insured or directed to be insured by the statute and actually covered by the contract. The High Court has considered only the aspect whether by overloading the vehicle, the owner had put the vehicle to a use not allowed by the permit under which the vehicle is used. This aspect is different from the aspect of determining the extent of the liability of the insurance company in respect of the passengers of a stage carriage insured in terms of Section 147(1)(b)(ii) of the Act. We are of the view that the insurance company can be made liable only in respect of the number of passengers for whom insurance can be taken under the Act and for whom insurance has been taken as a fact and not in respect of the other passengers involved in the accident in a case of overloading."

10. This Court in batches of appeals, FAO No. 257 of 2006, titled as National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Smt. Sumna @ Sharda & others, being the lead case, decided on 10.04.2015, FAO No. 224 of 2008, titled as Hem Ram & another versus Krishan Chand & another, being the lead case, decided on 29.05.2015, and FAO No. 256 of 2010 titled Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.6.2015, has laid down the same principle, which is not disputed by the learned counsel for the insurer.

11. The apex Court in case titled Lakhmi Chand versus Reliance General Insurance Co. Ltd. reported in (2016) 3 SCC 100, held that the mere factum of carrying more passengers than the permitted seating capacity in the goods carrying vehicle by the insured does not amount to a fundamental breach of the terms and conditions of the policy so as to allow the insurer to eschew its liability towards the damage caused to the vehicle. It is apt to reproduce para 14 of the said judgment herein.

> "14. The National Commission upheld the order of dismissal of the complaint of the appellant passed by the State Commission. The National Commission however, did not consider the judgment of this Court in the case of B.V. Nagaraju v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd Divisional Officer, Hassan, 1996 4 SCC 647. In that case, the insurance company had taken the defence that the vehicle in question was carrying more passengers than the permitted capacity in terms of the policy at the time of the accident. The said plea of the insurance company was rejected. This Court held that the mere factum of carrying more passengers than the permitted seating capacity in the goods carrying vehicle by the insured does not amount to a fundamental breach of the terms and conditions of the policy so as to allow the insurer to eschew its liability towards the damage caused to the vehicle. This Court in the said case has held as under:-
> "It is plain from the terms of the Insurance Policy that the insured vehicle was entitled to carry six workmen, excluding the driver. If those six workmen when travelling in the vehicle, are assumed not to have increased risk from the point of view of the Insurance Company on occurring of an accident, how could those added persons be said to have contributed to the causing of it is the pose, keeping apart the load it was carrying.
> In the present case the driver of the vehicle was not responsible for the accident. Merely by lifting a person or two, or even three, by the driver or the cleaner of the vehicle, without the knowledge of the owner, cannot be said to be such a fundamental breach that the owner should, in all events, be denied indemnification. The misuse of the vehicle was somewhat irregular though, but not so fundamental in nature so as to put an end to the contract, unless some factors existed which by themselves, had gone to contribute to the causing of the accident."

12. This Court in a batch of appeals, FAO No. 257 of 2006, titled as National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Smt. Sumna @ Sharda & others, being the lead case, decided on 10.04.2015, has held that the insurer has to satisfy the awards which are on higher side.

13. Issue No.2. The deceased was 30 years of age at the time of accident. The claimants have pleaded his monthly income Rs.8,000/- per month. The Tribunal, after making discussion held that the deceased was earning Rs.3000/- per month and held that the claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.2000/- per month and applied the multiplier of "17". Thus, the amount awarded cannot be excessive in any way rather it is meager.

14. The insurer is directed to deposit the amount within 6 weeks from today in the Registry, if not already deposited. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants, through payees' cheque account or by depositing the same in their bank account, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award.

15. Accordingly, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

16. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

For the respondents: Mr.Kishore Pundir, Proxy Counsel.

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 27th September, 2010, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Fast Track Court, Chamba, District Chamba, H.P., (for short, "the Tribunal") in M.A.C. No.28 of 2009, titled Master Pritiyush Kant vs. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., whereby a sum of Rs.8,11,041/- alongwith interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till deposit came to be awarded as compensation in favour of the claimant and the insurer was saddled with the liability (for short the "impugned award").

2. The claimant and the owner-insured have not questioned the impugned award on any count. Thus, the same has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. Feeling aggrieved, the appellant-insurer has questioned the impugned award on the ground that the offending vehicle, at the time of accident, was being driven in contravention to the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy and the owner had committed willful breach. Second ground urged by the appellant was that the amount awarded by the Tribunal is excessive. These grounds are not tenable for the following reasons.

4. It was averred that the claimant, on 11th August, 2008, was traveling in car bearing No.PB-02K-0078, and at about 5.30 a.m. when the said car reached at Nehar Nullah near Kutt Tehsil Bhattiyat, District Chamba, H.P., it met with an accident. The claimant sustained injuries and suffered 75% disability, constraining him to file the claim petition through his grandmother for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.17,44,066/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

5. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents and the following issues were framed:

"1. Whether the petitioner sustained injuries in a motor vehicle accident which took place on 11.8.2008 at about 5.30 AM at Nehar Nullah near Kutt Tehsil Bhattiyat, Distt. Chamba due to rash and negligent driving of driver of vehicle No.PB-02K-0078? OPP

2. If issue No.1 is proved in affirmative, whether petitioner is entitled for the grant of compensation, if so, to what amount and from which of the respondents? OPP

3. Whether the driver o the offending vehicle was not holding a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident? OPR-1

4. Whether the driver of the offending vehicle was driving the vehicle in contravention of terms and condition of insurance policy? OPR-1

5. Whether the injured was unauthorized occupant in the vehicle as alleged? OPR-1

6. Whether the petition has been filed in collusion with respondent No.2 as alleged, if so, its effect? OPR-1

7. Relief."

6. In order to prove his case, the claimant examined Dr.Rakesh Verma (PW-1), HC Neeraj Kumar (PW-2), Kaku Ram (PW-3), and Smt. Shanta, (PW-4 i.e. grand mother through whom the claim petition was filed). On the other hand, the respondents have not led any evidence.

7. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record.

8. The claimant has proved on record that the accident, in which the claimant sustained injuries, had occurred due to the rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle which was being driven by its driver, namely, Karam Chand. As recorded supra, the respondents have not led any evidence to prove to the contrary. Moreover, there is sufficient material on the record of the file to hold that the accident was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver Karam Chand. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.1 are upheld.

9. Before dealing with issue No.2, I deem it proper to take up other issues at the first instance.

10. As far as issues No.3 to 6 are concerned, the onus to prove these issues was upon the insurer, has not led any evidence, therefore, has failed to discharge the onus cast on it. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on these issues are upheld.

11. Coming to issue No.2, the Tribunal, while assessing the amount of compensation, has discussed all aspects in paragraphs 12 to 19 as to how compensation is to be granted in an injury case. Therefore, the amount awarded by the Tribunal cannot be said to be excessive in view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others, reported in AIR 1995 SC 755, Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another, 2010 AIR SCW 6085, Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Alliance Insurance Company Limited, 2011 AIR SCW 4787 and Kavita versus Deepak and others, 2012 AIR SCW 4771. On the contrary, it appears that the amount awarded is meager. However, the claimant has not questioned the impugned award. Accordingly, the compensation awarded is reluctantly upheld.

12. Having said so, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

CWP No. 11890 of 2011

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as Anganwari Worker – her appointment was challenged by respondent No. 6- her appointment was set aside on the ground that income of her family was more than Rs. 12,000/- per month- an appeal was preferred before Divisional Commissioner, Mandi, who dismissed the same- writ petition was filed, which was disposed of with a direction to take appropriate steps to get the income verified from the Competent Authority and thereafter to afford an opportunity to the affected party to participate in the proceedings – petition was heard by the Appellate Authority and it was found that appointment was bad as certificate of the income produced by the petitioner showing her family to be separate was contrary to parivar register- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held, that Appellate Authority had not referred the matter to the Competent Authority to examine the veracity of the income certificate of the petitioner in accordance with the direction of the High Court- writ petition allowed- order set aside and direction issued to decide the same after affording opportunity to the parties to put forth their case in accordance with the direction of the High Court. (Para-11 to 18)

For the petitioner:	Mr. H.S. Rana, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Ms. Parul Negi, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No. 1 to 5. Mr. Rajiv Rai, Advocate, for respondent No. 6.

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.:

This writ petition has been filed praying for the following reliefs:-

"1. That the orders of Additional District Magistrate dated 06/07/2011 (Annexure P-7) and order dated 14/12/2011 of Divisional Commissioner, Mandi (Annexure P-8) may kindly be set aside being totally against the directions of this Hon'ble High Court in CWP No. 2044/2008 dated 17/05/2010 (Annexure P-6) and being totally wrong, illegal, arbitrary, discriminatory and against the principles of natural justice.

2. That the appointment of Respondent no. 6 may kindly be set aside being wrong and illegal as the Respondent no. 6 was not in the selection list.

3. That the appointment of the petitioner may be held valid and may be allowed to work as Anganwari worker at Dolra in continuation of her initial appointment.

4. That the order of CDPO in setting aside the appointment of petitioner dated 03/10/2008 (Annexure P-3) may also be set aside being wrong and illegal.

5. That record of the case may be summoned for the kind perusal of this Hon'ble High Court."

2. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of the present case are that the present petitioner was appointed as Anganwari Worker at Anganwari Centra, Dolra, District Bilaspur, in the year 2007, which appointment of her was challenged by one Smt. Meena Devi (respondent No. 6 in the present petition) before the Appellate Authority prescribed under the scheme/guidelines for the engagement of Anganwari Workers/Helpers i.e. Deputy Commissioner, Bilaspur. The Appellate Authority vide order dated 29.02.2008 set aside the appointment of the present petitioner as Anganwari Worker at Anganwari Centre, Dolra, on the ground that income of the family of the present petitioner was more than Rs.12,000/- per annum, which rendered her ineligible for the post of Anganwari worker. This order was challenged by the petitioner before the next Appellate Authority provided under the scheme i.e. Divisional Commissioner, Mandi Division. Said authority also dismissed the appeal filed by the petitioner and upheld the order passed by the first Appellate Authority vide order dated 26.09.2008.

3. These two orders were challenged by the petitioner before this Court by way of CWP No. 2044 of 2008, which petition was disposed of by this Court vide judgment dated 17.05.2010 alongwith other connected matters, in which, it was inter alia held:-

> "4. Learned Senior Additional Advocate General submits that the Anganwadi Workers/Helpers, in these cases, had made an attempt to steal an appointment, based on false certificates of income. Even assuming so, the competent authority should have first taken steps to cancel such certificates, based on which the appointments were made. So long as the same having not been done, we find force in the submission made by the learned counsel for the petitioners that there is an irregularity, if not illegality, in the process of cancellation of appointment.
> 5. In case the authority is of the view that the income certificate issued to any Anganwadi Workers/ Helpers in these cases, is not based on proper computation of income, it will be open to the competent authority to take steps to cancel the same. But it is made clear that such cancellation shall only be, after affording an opportunity for hearing to the incumbent concerned. So long as the cancellation is not made by the competent authority in accordance with law, and procedure for cancellation and in case notice is not given to the affected party in the enquiry, the incumbent concerned shall not be deprived of their posts, to which they were appointed, based on the income certificates, they produced at the relevant time.
> 6. There will be a direction to the appellate authority in these cases, to take appropriate steps in the cases where a dispute on income is involved, to get the same duly processed by the competent authority, in the matter of cancellation. Necessary steps in that regard will be taken and action finalized within a period of four months from the date of production of this judgment to the competent authority. That competent authority will also afford an opportunity to the affected party to participate in that proceedings. Subject to the outcome of the action thus taken by the competent authority, on the income certificate already issued to the incumbent, the appellate authority will take appropriate action within two months. We also make it clear that in the event of any appointment being cancelled, the appellate authority will also issue necessary directions for the next person from the list, to be appointed, in case a list is available. Needless to say that until the process, as above said, is completed, the incumbents now working, will be continued. We may make it clear that the inquiry will be on the basis of the Policy/Guidelines as existed at the time of appointment."

4. Pursuant to the said judgment, the case with regard to the appointment of the petitioner was again heard by the Appellate Authority, which Authority again held the appointment of the petitioner to be bad vide order dated 06.07.2011. It was held by the Appellate Authority that it was evident from the Parivar Register of the husband of the petitioner that the family was separated on 23.09.2005 and before the said date petitioner Raksha Devi was part of joint family and on these basis, the said authority held that the certificate of income procured by Raksha Devi showing her family as separate unit cannot be treated as a valid one for the purpose of her selection to the post of Anganwari Worker.

5. In appeal, the next Appellate Authority i.e. Divisional Commissioner, vide order dated 14.12.2011, upheld the order dated 06.07.2011 passed by the first Appellate Authority.

6. Feeling aggrieved by these two orders, the petitioner has filed the present writ petition.

7. No reply has been filed to the writ petition, nor the same was intended to be filed by either of the respondents and accordingly, the case was heard on merit.

8. Mr. H.S. Rana, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has strenuously argued that the impugned orders i.e. order dated 06.07.2011 (Annexure P-7) and order dated 14.12.2011 (Annexure P-8) passed by the authorities below were not sustainable in law because the appeal filed by the private respondent against the selection of the petitioner as Anganwari Worker was not adjudicated by the first Appellate Authority in consonance with the directions issued by this Court in CWP No. 2044 of 2008. According to Mr. Rana, this Court vide its judgment dated 17.05.2010 in CWP No. 2044 of 2008 and other connected matters, had directed that in those cases where income certificate of an incumbent was in dispute then the same shall be duly processed by the competent authority and the competent authority will afford an opportunity to the affected party to participate in the proceedings commenced in this regard and the Appellate Authority will take appropriate action in the matter depending upon the outcome of the action thus taken by the competent authority on the income certificate already issued to the incumbent. Mr. Rana submitted that this direction of the Court was not followed while deciding the appeal because the matter with regard to the veracity of the income certificate of the petitioner was not referred to the competent authority and the Appellate Authority ventured to adjudicate upon the validity of the same itself without following the directions issued by the Court in CWP No. 2044 of 2008. Mr. Rana argued that this important aspect of the matter was also ignored by the next Appellate Authority in the appeal which was filed by the present petitioner before it. On this ground, Mr. Rana submitted that the orders passed by both the authorities below were not sustainable in law.

9. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents have submitted that there was no infirmity with the orders which had been passed by the authorities below because the appointment of the petitioner was rightly set aside as she was not eligible to be appointed as Anganwari Worker as per norms of the scheme. According to them, the orders passed by the authorities below were self speaking and the same required no interference.

10. I have heard learned counsel for the parties.

11. In my considered view, there is considerable force in the arguments of Mr. Rana. It is evident from perusal of orders dated 06.07.2011 and 14.12.2011 that while passing the said orders the authorities concerned have not taken into consideration the directions which were issued by this Court in CWP No. 2044 of 2008 pertains to the veracity of the income certificate of an incumbent. It is not in dispute that the appointment of the petitioner has been set aside on the ground that the income certificate on the basis of which she was appointed was not a valid one. However, the Appellate Authority before deciding the appeal did not refer the matter to the competent authority and resultantly, no findings were returned in the matter with regard to the veracity of the income certificate of the petitioner, on the basis of which, the Appellate Authority was to take appropriate action. Not only this, this Court in unambiguous terms had held that till the time income certificate is held to be bad by the competent authority an adverse inference cannot be drawn with regard to the validity of the same. This important aspect of the matter has also been ignored by the Appellate Authority while passing order dated 06.07.2011. Besides, even the second Appellate Authority has ignored this very important aspect of the matter while upholding the order passed by the first Appellate Authority dated 06.07.2011.

12. Therefore, in my considered view, orders dated 06.07.2011 and 14.12.2011 passed by the Appellate Authorities are not sustainable in law.

13. Mr. H.S. Rana, learned counsel for the petitioner has also submitted that he has placed on record certain documents from which it is evident that the income certificate which has been procured by the private respondent is also not a valid certificate and there is tampering in the records of the Panchayat pertaining to the entries in the Panchayat Register qua the private respondent.

14. In my considered view, it will not be appropriate for this Court to go into these issues which have been raised by Mr. H.S. Rana and all the parties shall be at liberty to produce all relevant documents before the Appellate Authority to substantiate their case.

15. Accordingly, this writ petition is allowed and order passed by the Additional District Magistrate dated 06.07.2011 (Annexure P-7) and order passed by the Divisional Commissioner, Mandi Division, dated 14.12.2011 (Annexure P-8) are quashed and set aside and the case is remanded back to the first Appellate Authority with directions to decide the same afresh after affording opportunity to all the parties to putforth their cases in accordance with the directions passed by this Court in CWP No. 2044 of 2008 within a period of two months from today. Till the decision of the appeal, respondent No. 6 shall be permitted to continue as Anganwari Worker in Anganwari Centre, Dolra. No order as to cost. Miscellaneous application(s) pending, if any, also stand disposed of.

(Para-9 to 13)

For the Appellant: Mr. Parmod Thakur, Additional Advocate General.
For the Respondents: Mr. J.R.Poswal, Advocate.

Per Sureshwar Thakur, Judge :

The instant appeal is directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgment rendered on 29/09/2010 by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, H.P. (Camp at Bilaspur) in Sessions trial No. 2/7 of 2006, whereby the learned trial Court acquitted the respondents (for short 'accused') for the offences charged.

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 16.10.2005 at 6.30 a.m one Shri Hamender Singh visited Police Station Bharari and reported that Kalpana who was daughter of his paternal aunt Neelam Devi and who was married to accused Akhilesh in village Doharu about 6 months back had died due to consuming poison on that day at 4.30 a.m. This information was recorded in daily diary of the police station by SHO Duglu Ram and thereafter he alongwith his subordinate officials visited the spot where he recorded the statement of Smt. Neelam Kumari, mother of the deceased under Section 154 Cr.P.C. in which she alleged that deceased Kalpana was married to Akhilesh Kumar on 23rd May, 2005. Her daughter was kept well for one month but thereafter her mother-in-law Roshani Devi and sister-in-law Tripta started maltreating her. They also did not send her to their house during Kala Mahina. When she asked her son-in-law Akhilesh as to why they were maltreating her daughter he told her that none was doing so. On the other hand accused Akhilesh, his mother and his sister-in-law were blaming her daughter for being less educated and she was not giving clothes to her Jethani. It is alleged therein that on 15.10.2005 her son rang up Kalpana and she told him that the accused persons were maltreating her and they would not send her to her parents house during Diwali and that he should visit her and take her alongwith him on the 30.10.2015. On 16.10.2005 at about 3.00 a.m Smt. Leela Devi and Satya Devi came in a vehicle and informed her that Kalpana had died by consuming poison. On the basis of this statement F.I.R came to be registered in P.S.Bharari. The case was investigating by S.I.Duglu Ram. The investigation revealed that the deceased committed suicide by consuming poison due to maltreatment and harassment of her husband, mother-in-law and sister-in-law. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. Accused Akhilesh Kumar, Roshani Devi and Tripta Devi were charged by the learned trial Court for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 498-A, 306 and 201 read with Section 34 IPC whereas accused Ishwar Singh was charged by the learned trial Court of his committing offences punishable under Section 201 read with Section 34 IPC.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 18 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, were recorded in which they pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. However, they chose to lead evidence in defence two witnesses.

5. On an appraisal of evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused.

6. The learned Additional Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the respondents has with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. Deceased Kalpana was married on 23rd May, 2005 to accused Akhilesh. She by consuming poison committed suicide in the intervening night of 15.10.2016 and 16.10.2016. Consequently, her demise occurred within a short span of hers solemnizing marriage with accused Akhilesh. The learned trial Court in dispelling the creditworthiness of the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses was goaded by theirs holding a close relation with the deceased whereupon it concluded of their testimonies in the absence of rendition of the relevant account by independent witnesses hence standing imbued with a vice of interestedness. In sequel the learned trial Court discounted the creditworthiness of the prosecution witnesses. However, the aforesaid ground as meted by the learned trial Court to dispel the efficacy of the testimonies of the close relatives of the deceased is mis-founded, imminently when law does not enjoin the testimonies of close relatives of the deceased who committed suicide at her matrimonial home on hers standing purportedly instigated by the accused persons by their purported acts of illtreatement and maltreatment perpetrated upon her person being discountable unless their testimonies are wanting in legal vigour, arising from theirs deposing a contrived version qua the perpetration of cruelty upon the deceased by the accused, cruelty whereof stood engendered by theirs demanding dowry from the deceased, also hence their testimonies would be construable to stand stained with a vice of concoction also the testimonies of the close relatives of the deceased would suffer the ill-fate of their veracity standing discounted on the preeminent principle of law of no evident immediate proximity occurring vis-à-vis the purported cruelty meted by the accused upon the deceased vis-à-vis the ill-fated occurrence, whereupon a construction is enjoined to be erected of the accused not abetting the commission of suicide by the deceased. Obviously given the deceased committing suicide within a short hiatus occurring since her solemnizing marriage with accused Akhilesh necessarily hence the principle of proximity vis.a.vis the commission of suicide by the deceased with the purported cruelty meted by the accused upon her stands saturated.

10. Be that as may, even though the close relatives of the deceased deposed in their respective testifications of the accused demanding dowry from the deceased, on anvil whereof, the prosecution assays of hence cruelty standing proven to be perpetrated by them upon the deceased yet the learned trial Court dispelled the vigour of their testimonies on the ground of PW-1 not in her testimony voicing therein with specificity the articles demanded as dowry from the deceased by the accused. Also the factum of PW-1 testifying of the accused Akhilesh demanding dowry from the deceased at a 'Tika ceremony' whereupon the learned trial Court concluded of with the holding of 'Tika ceremony' not being a secretive function wherein the participants are only the deceased and the accused rather when participants therein are other than them rather forestalled accused Akhilesh to make a demand upon the deceased. Consequently it held qua the aforesaid demand made thereat by the accused Akhilesh upon the deceased being unamenable for acceptance. Both the aforesaid grounds as stand meted by the learned trial Court to dispel the deposition of PW-1 hold no force as when in her testification PW-1 echoes of accused Akhilesh demanding cash as dowry from the deceased rendered unnecessary the drawing of any inference, of, for want of any articulation with specificity by PW-1 qua the articles demanded as dowry by accused Akhilesh from the deceased, her testification qua the facet aforesaid holding no sinew. Also the further ground meted by the learned trial Court to conclude of demand of dowry by accused Akhilesh from the deceased at the 'Tika ceremony' being contrived given the said ceremony per se holding a huge gathering whereat the making of the demand stood per se baulked is also a specious besides a nebulous reason ensueable from the factum of accused Akhilesh would yet take to only in the presence of the deceased besides in the presence of his close relatives make its demand. Since demand for dowry is made clandestinely also when its demand is not openly proclaimed it is inapt for the learned trial Court to conclude of the occasion whereat it stood purportedly made holding a public gathering hence precluding its proclamation by the accused. Since the demand for dowry made by the accused Akhilesh upon the deceased stands concluded to hold veracity, in sequel when it stood not saturated, it appears of the accused during the stay of the deceased at her matrimonial home concerting with importunacy to beget its satiation from the deceased. As a corollary, the deceased stood tormented also she stood subjected to mental cruelty whereupon hence she stood instigated to commit suicide. The continuance of during her stay at her matrimonial home with stealth the makings of demands of dowry by the accused upon the deceased is a cleverly camouflaged concert assayed by the accused within the precincts of the matrimonial home hence deterring the deceased who was a new entrant thereat to make communications thereof to her neighbours may be also to her parents also given her reticence standing reared by her natural aspirations to salvage her matrimony with accused Akhilesh. Preponderantly with the deceased committing suicide within a short span of hers solemnizing marriage with the accused renders workable the presumption articulated in Section 113A of the Indian Evidence Act (hereinafter referred to as the Act), which stands extracted hereinafter:-

> "113A. Presumption as to abetment of suicide by a married woman – when the question is whether the commission of suicide by a woman had been abetted by her husband or any relative of her husband and it is shown that she had committed suicide within a period of seven years from the date of her marriage and that her husband or such relative of her husband had subjected her to cruelty, the Court may presume, having regard to all the other circumstances of the case, that such suicide had been abetted by her husband or by such relative of her husband."

wherein a mandate stands embedded of with a married woman committing suicide within seven years of her marriage, courts of law holding leverage to draw a presumption of hence the husband besides the in-laws of the deceased abetting the commission of suicide by a married lady. Consequently, with the presumption embedded in Section 113A of the Act per se standing attracted hereat renders the inculpation of the accused to be sustainable prominently given the factum of the deceased within a span of six months of hers solemnizing marriage with accused Akhilesh committing suicide at her matrimonial home. Even otherwise, the paramountcy of truth or falsity of the suicide note comprised in Ext.PW-1/B standing preempted by the Investigating Officer by his omitting to secure the apposite opinion of the handwriting expert is a palpably omission, which is a sure pointer of the investigations held by him being skewed besides slanted. Consequently, omissions by the Investigating Officer qua the paramount facet aforesaid constrains an adverse inference vis.a.vis the accused also fillips a deduction of especially when the accused omitted to concert upon the Investigating Officer qua his eliciting the apposite opinion qua the authorship of Ext.PW-1/B of their omission standing prodded by theirs fabricating suicide note Ext.PW-1/B. The aforesaid suspicion when stands reared, enables this Court to fortifyingly draw against them the presumption embodied in Section 113A of the Act. It also constitutes relevant circumstance of inculpation of the accused it holding conjunction with the relevant incriminatory circumstances against the accused. It also nails a conclusion qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court meriting interference.

11. A wholesome analysis of the evidence on record portrays that the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned trial Court suffers from a gross perversity and absurdity hence it can be held of the learned trial Court in recording findings of acquittal its committing a legal misdemeanor, inasmuch as its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court deems it fit and appropriate that the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court merit interference.

12. In view of the above discussion, we find merit in this appeal, which is accordingly allowed and the judgement of acquittal rendered by the learned trial Court is quashed and set-aside. Accordingly, accused Akhilesh Kumar, Roshani Devi and Tripta Devi are held guilty for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 498-A, 306 and 201 read with Section 34 IPC whereas accused Ishwar Singh is held guilty for his committing offences punishable under Section 201 read with Section 34 IPC

13. Let the accused/convict be produced before this Court on 03/8/2016 for theirs being heard on quantum of sentence.

For the Appellants : Mr. Pawan Gautam, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Ramesh Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 & 2.
Ms. Seema Sood, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against award dated 14th December, 2009, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Una, Himachal Pradesh (hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal") in MAC Petition No. 6 of 2008, titled Smt. Sudesh Kumari versus Sh. Kapil Gautam & others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.2,25,000/- with interest @ 9% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization, was awarded in favour of the claimants and against the respondents (for short, "the impugned award").

2. The insurer, insured-owner and driver have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far it relates to them.

3. The claimants have questioned the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation.

4. The only dispute in this appeal is -whether the amount awarded is inadequate. The answer is in the affirmative for the following reasons.

5. Admittedly, the deceased was 26 years of age at the time of accident, was a driver by profession.

6. The claimants in the claim petition have pleaded that the monthly income of the deceased was Rs.8,000/- per month at the relevant time.

7. The claimants have examined PW-5, employer of the deceased, who has stated that the deceased was earning Rs.8,000/- per month, but unfortunately, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in granting compensation to the tune of Rs.2,25,000/- in lump sum to the claimants, without making any assessment and calculation.

8. Keeping in view the facts of the case, I deem it proper to hold that the deceased was not earning less than Rs.6,000/- per month.

9. The deceased was a bachelor and 50% is to be deducted towards his personal expenses while keeping in view the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104, upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in a case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120. Accordingly, it is held that the claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs.3,000/- per month.

10. The multiplier of '17' is applicable in this case, as per the 2nd Schedule appended to the Motor Vehicles Act read with the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's, Reshma Kumari's and Munna Lal Jain's, cases, supra read with the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in case titled as Munna Lal Jain & another versus Vipin Kumar Sharma & others, reported in 2015 AIR SCW 3105.

11. Viewed thus, the claimants are held entitled to the amount of Rs.3,000/- x 12 x 17 = Rs.6,12,000/-, under the head 'loss of dependency'.

12. Keeping in view the recent judgments of the Apex Court, a sum of Rs.10,000/- each, is also awarded under the heads 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses', in favour of the claimants.

13. The Tribunal has also fallen in an error in awarding interest @ 9% per annum, which was to be awarded as per the prevailing rates.

14. It is a beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281; Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2012) 11 SCC 738; Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2053; Kalpanaraj & others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982; Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 433; and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

15. Having said so, I deem it proper to reduce the rate of interest from 9% per annum to 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization.

16. Accordingly, the claimants are held entitled to total compensation to the tune of Rs.6,12,000/- + Rs.30,000/- = Rs.6,42,000/- with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization.

17. The amount of compensation is enhanced and the impugned award is modified, as indicated above. The appeal is accordingly disposed of.

18. The insurer is directed to deposit the enhanced amount alongwith interest, within a period of eight weeks from today before the Registry. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the entire amount in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees account cheque or by depositing the same in their accounts.

19. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice .

This appeal is directed against the judgment and award dated 1.9.2010, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Solan in M.A.C. Petition No. 20-S/2 of 2007, titled Gianti Gupta and others versus Shri Ram Lal and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.5,81,600/- with interest @ 9% per annum came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and against the respondents and insurer came to be saddled with the liability, hereinafter referred to as "the impugned award", for short, on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. The claimants, driver and owner have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus it has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. The insurer has questioned the impugned award on the ground that the deceased was a gratuitous passenger and the insured has committed willful breach. Thus, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling it with the liability.

4. The only question to be determined in this appeal is whether the Tribunal has rightly directed the insurer to satisfy the award? The answer is in affirmative for the following reasons.

5. The claimants being the victims of a vehicular accident, filed claim petition before the Tribunal, for the grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.30 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the ground that the driver, namely, Rajinder Gupta, on 7.3.2007, at National Highway No. 22 at Parwanoo, had driven the tractor bearing registration No. HP-12-

4715, rashly and negligently, and hit the deceased, who was standing by the side of the road to answer the call of nature, sustained the injuries and succumbed to the same.

6. Respondents contested and resisted the averments contained in the claim petition by filing separate replies.

7. Following issues were framed by the Tribunal on 5.11.2007:

(i) Whether the deceased had died on account of injuries caused due to rash/negligent driving of the tractor by respondent No.3? OPP

(ii) If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation the petitioners are entitled and from whom? OPP

(iii) Whether the deceased was a gratuitous passenger and his risk was not covered by the insurance policy purchased by respondent No.1 and 2? OPR-4.

(iv) Whether the respondent No.3 was not holding valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident? OPR-4.

(v) Whether the petition is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties? OPR-4.

(vi) Relief.

8. Claimants No. 1 and 2 appeared in the witness-box as PW1 and PW2 respectively. On the other hand respondents examined as many as 11 witnesses and have also placed the documents on record.

9. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence held that the claimants have proved that the driver, namely, Rajinder Gupta has driven the offending vehicle, i.e., tractor rashly and negligently and caused the accident in which the deceased, who was standing by the side of the road, to answer the call of nature, sustained the injuries and succumbed to the injuries.

10. I have gone through the impugned award, evidence and the record. The Tribunal has rightly recorded the findings to the effect that the driver, namely, Rajinder Gupta, had driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently and hit the deceased, who was standing by the side of the road to answer the call of nature, sustained the injuries and succumbed to the same. Thus, the findings returned on issue No. 1 are upheld.

11. Before I deal with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with issues No. 3 to 5 at the first instance. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the deceased was travelling in the tractor as a gratuitous passenger and risk was not covered.

12. The positive case of the claimants, as discussed hereinabove, is that the deceased, who was standing by the side of the road to answer the call of nature, was hit by the tractor and it is not specifically denied by the owner and driver. Even the owner and driver have not questioned the impugned award. The claimants have proved that the deceased was not travelling in the tractor but was standing by the side of the road to answer the call of nature, was hit by the tractor, sustained injuries and succumbed to the injuries. Thus, it cannot be said and held that the deceased was a gratuitous passenger. The Tribunal has recorded the findings and discussed statements of all the witnesses, including the officers from the Insurance Company and police, are well reasoned, require no interference. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 3 are upheld.

13. Issue No.4. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, has not led any evidence to that effect. However, the claimants have proved the investigation report Ext. PW6/A which does disclose that the driver was having a valid and effective driving licence w.e.f 22.3.1999 to 24.7.2013. The Tribunal has rightly returned the findings on issue No. 3, are accordingly, upheld.

14. Issue No.5. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the claim petition suffers from non- joinder of necessary parties, has not led any evidence. Even otherwise, this issue has not been called for. Accordingly, the findings returned on this issue are upheld.

15. Issue No.2. The adequacy of compensation is not in dispute. The factum of insurance is admitted. Having said so, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 2, are upheld.

16. The insurer is directed to deposit the amount, within six weeks from today in this Registry, if not already deposited. On deposit, the entire amount be released to the claimants, strictly, in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' cheque account or by depositing the same in their bank accounts.

17. Viewed thus, the impugned award is maintained and the appeal is dismissed.

18. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.
