Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996- Section 8- Respondent entered into an agreement with the petitioner, whereby loan of Rs. 13,30,000/- was sanctioned along with the finance charges of Rs. 3,69,740/- - loan was repayable in 46 EMIs- respondent defaulted in the payment of the installments- respondent instituted a suit for restraining the petitioner from taking the forcible possession- petitioner filed an application for referring the dispute to Arbitrator - application was dismissed by the trial Court- held, that agreement specifically provided that all disputes, differences and/or claims arising out of or touching upon the Agreement are to be settled by arbitration – non-payment of the loan would be a dispute arising out of the agreement- once it was brought to the notice of the Court that its jurisdiction had been taken away by a special statue, the civil court should first see whether there is ouster of jurisdiction or not- petition allowed and the order of trial Court set aside. Title: IndusInd Bank Ltd. & another Vs. Ramesh Kumar Page-861

Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996- Section 13 and 33- Petitioner was awarded contract of construction of Lift Irrigation Scheme- a dispute arose between the parties, which was referred to Arbitrator- Arbitrator allowed the claim of the petitioner and held the petitioner entitled to Rs. 78,947/- over and above the amount paid to him – amount of Rs. 12,582/- was awarded as interest- State preferred objections, which were allowed and award was set aside- an appeal was preferred by the petitioner before District Judge who allowed the same and awarded Rs. 64,074/- over and above the final payment - however, no interest was awarded- aggrieved from the order of District Judge, a revision petition was filed- held that State has not preferred any appeal against the order of the District Judge which means that State has accepted the order of the District Judge as correct- Petitioner had no remedy of appeal- therefore, he had rightly filed the revision petition- District Judge had not assigned any reason for not awarding the interest- once petitioner is held entitled to the amount, he is also entitled to interest- petition allowed and the interest @ 12% per annum awarded from the date when award was made the decree of the Court till payment. Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 47- Order 21 Rule 97 to 101- An eviction petition was filed on the ground of arrears of rent and subletting the premises, which was allowed ex-parte- civil suit was filed for restraining the landlord from interfering in the possession of the defendant- suit was dismissed- appeal was partly allowed – a further appeal was filed, which was allowed and the suit was ordered to be dismissed- objections were filed, which were also dismissed- held, that petitioners had filed a civil suit and had delayed the execution- petitioners have abused the process of the court by filing objections after the dismissal of the suit - they have stopped the delivery of the possession and have not even paid the arrears of rent for which they were held liable- false pleas and defences abusing the process of the Court should be dealt with heavy hands - Court's proceedings are sacrosanct and should not be polluted by unscrupulous litigants- Court should be careful that process of the Civil Court and law of procedure are not abused by the judgment-debtors in such a way as to make Courts of law instrumental in defrauding creditors- it is the duty of the Court to put a ceiling on unnecessary delay in the matter of enjoying the fruits by a decree holder – landlord directed to be put in physical possession of the premises within a period of four weeks and petitioners directed to pay use and occupation charges at a rate to be determined by the executing court- direction issued to award meaningful cost in favour of landlord and in case of failure to pay the amount, Executing Court directed to attach the property of the petitioners and to sell the same. Title: Prakash Chand & anr Vs. Durga Singh & anr Page-776

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 96- Appellant No. 1 is a registered society under Societies Registration Act and owns brick kilns in village Basdehra- its stock and raw material were insured against the damage by flood, fire etc. - there were heavy rains resulting in floods- appellants suffered extensive damage - their stocks of coal, unfired bricks, labour huts etc. were washed away- intimation was given to the insurer but the claim was refuted- insurer pleaded that no loss was sustained by the appellants- suit was dismissed by the Court- held, that Patwari and Kanungo were not produced in evidence and the report prepared by them was not proved by the appellants- certificate does not prove the case of the appellants- statements of witnesses only establish that there was rainfall of 119.14 mm at Una but this fact does not establish the case of the appellants- surveyor had found that no loss was caused to the appellants- suit was rightly dismissed- appeal dismissed. Title: M/s Durga Gram Udyog & Another Vs. United India Insurance Company & Another. (D.B.) Page-611

Code of Civil Procedure, 1980- Section 100- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for recovery of Rs. 42,545/- pleading that he and defendant were real brothers and joint owners of Maruti Gypsy- vehicle was used by the defendant with the consent of the plaintiff- vehicle was stolen in the year 1998 and was found in an accidental condition- it was insured with National Insurance Company- matter was reported to the National Insurance Company- a Surveyor was appointed to assess the damage- but no amount was paid- plaintiff wrote a letter to the Insurance Company and was informed that amount of Rs. 63,500/- had been paid to the defendant- plaintiff filed a civil suit for claiming half of the amount- suit was decreed by the trial court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed- held, in second appeal that plaintiff had examined himself and two witnesses to prove his case- defendant had not examined any person to corroborate his version- bills produced on record to substantiate the version of the defendant that he had spent money on the repair of the vehicle were not proved- vehicle was jointly registered in the name of plaintiff and defendant- in these circumstances, plaintiff was entitled to ½ of the amount- Appellate Court had wrongly set aside the judgment of the trial Court- appeal allowed. Title: Gajinder Singh Vs. Heminder Singh alias Mohinder Singh Negi Page-1079

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 100- A civil suit was filed by the plaintiffs pleading that they have Bartandari rights in the suit land according to Naksha Bartan and Wazib UI Arj- suit land is part of UPF and DPF- defendants allotted the suit land to defendant No. 3 in violation of Conservation of Forests Act- suit was dismissed by the trial Curt- an appeal was preferred, which was also dismissed- held, that Forest Guard had admitted that suit land was part of Jungle - customary rights were duly recorded in Wazib Ul Arj- merely because list of Bartandaran was not filed is not sufficient to doubt the plaintiff's version- provision of Section 91 of CPC were not applicable in the present case- appeal allowed- judgment and decree passed by the trial Court set aside. Title: Jaidrath and others Vs. Deputy Commissioner, Mandi and others Page-902

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 100- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for recovery of Rs. 81,100/- on the ground that he was owner in possession of two storeyed house- A middle school was opened in the Village- son of the plaintiff was persuaded by the Headmaster of the Primary School and the villagers to provide accommodation of three rooms- three rooms were allotted to the School- one room in the upper story was occupied by the Headmaster- plaintiff demanded the rent for the premises, which was not paid, on which suit was filed- suit was dismissed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed- held, in second appeal that possession of the suit premises had been handed over to plaintiff by the State – plaintiff was estopped from filing the suit because of his own act and conduct- Middle School started running in the premises on the basis of affidavit given by the son of plaintiff - legal notice was served in September, 2002- no material was placed on record to show as to what action was taken by the plaintiff for occupying the premises from the date of occupation till September, 2002 unauthorizedely – plaintiff was residing in the same premises, where the school was being run- therefore, an inference can be drawn that premises were handed over to the defendant by son of the plaintiff with his consent and permission and that's why he remained silent for two years- further, no material was brought on record to show that plaintiff is entitled to the amount - appeal allowed and judgment of the Appellate Court set aside. Title: State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Dagu Ram Page-726

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 100- Plaintiff filed a suit for recovery of Rs. 50,000/- paid by him to the defendant- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held that High Court should not disturb the concurrent findings of fact in second appeal unless it is shown that the findings recorded by the Court are perverse being based on no evidence or that no reasonable person could have come to the conclusion drawn by the court on the basis of evidence on record - defendant had taken a plea which was not taken before the trial Court or before the Appellate Court which is not permissible - appeal dismissed. Title: Asgar Ali Saiyad Vs. Krishan Chand Page-660

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 1 Rule 10- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for recovery of Rs. 48 lacs on the ground that suit land is shown to be sold for Rs. 12 lacs but in fact was sold for Rs. 16 lacs- presence of purchaser is necessary to decide the controversy and to settle all questions- purchaser had alienated the property in favour of 'P' who is also necessary party- hence, both P and M ordered to be impleaded as parties. Title: Satya daughter of late Sh Molku and others Vs. Jagdish son of late Sh Puran Chand and another Page-1063

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 6 Rule 17- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for declaration, which was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred asserting that deceased had revoked the earlier Will by executing a revocation deed- however, it was not suggested during the course of trial that Will was revoked by deceased - application for amendment was filed after eight months of filing of appeal for incorporating the fact that Will was revoked– it was pleaded that this fact could not be mentioned earlier as it came to the notice of the applicant when the summons were received from the Court of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Bilaspur during the pendency of the appeal- application was allowed by the Appellate Court- held, that application for amendment cannot be allowed after the commencement of trial, unless the Court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of the trial- due diligence means diligence reasonably expected from, and ordinarily exercised by, a person who seeks to satisfy a legal requirement or to discharge an obligation- it was specifically asserted in the memo of appeal that Will was revoked- it was falsely explained that applicant came to know about the revocation after receiving the summons – there was no due diligence and the application could not have been allowed- petition allowed and order of the Appellate Court set aside- application dismissed. Title: Bachan Singh Vs. Rattan Singh and another Page-954

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 6 Rule 17- Plaintiffs filed a civil suit for seeking injunction- an application for amendment was filed pleading that after filing of the suit defendants had got the window panes of the glaze of second floor towards the house of the plaintiffs and this fact was required to be pleaded- application was opposed by the defendants- held, that application was filed to incorporate the subsequent fact- hence, same is allowed subject to the payment of cost of Rs.6,000/-. Title: Neeraj and others Vs. Rajinder Kumar and others Page-360

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 20 Rule 5- Trial Court had framed eight issues- issues No. 1 to 4 and 4-C were discussed together while issue No. 4-A and 4-B were discussed separately- it was contended that judgment of trial court is vitiated as the issues were discussed together - held, that there is no bar in clubbing issues together, if evidence is common- case cannot be remanded on the ground that issues had been clubbed together- trial Court had answered all the issues by returning findings duly supported by reasons- it cannot be said that there was non-compliance of order 20 Rule 5- appeal dismissed. Title: Narain Singh and others Vs. Jagadi Devi and others Page-471

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908– Order 39- Plaintiff filed an application for interim injunction which was allowed- an appeal was preferred which was dismissed- held, that a joint owner is not entitled to raise construction over the joint land- defendants pleaded that they may be permitted to raise the construction of cattle shed but there is no evidence that old cattle shed is in the danger of falling, therefore, they cannot be permitted to raise construction over the joint land - the courts had rightly granted the injunction - appeal dismissed. Title: Balwant Singh & another Vs. Ashok Kumar & others. Page-664

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 39 Rule 2-A- Petitioner instituted a suit against the defendant seeking permanent prohibitory injunction and in the alternative mandatory injunction- the Court directed the respondent to remove iron stair with immediate effect- respondent filed an undertaking in the Court that he had removed the iron stair case and would not cause any hindrance on the disputed path till the disposal of the suit- however, defendant continued with the construction- Local Commissioner was appointed who submitted the report- Court directed the parties to maintain status quo but the defendant erected iron stair case and blocked the path of the petitioner in violation of the order of the Court- respondent denied the allegations- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed and the order was set aside- held, that appeal was allowed only on the ground that suit was dismissed but thereafter the suit had been decreed in the first appeal- therefore, case remanded to the Appellate Court to decide the same afresh in accordance with the law. Title: Jagdish Ram Vs. Ved Prakash Page-1123

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 39 Rules 1 and 2- Plaintiffs filed a civil suit pleading that M was owner of the suit land to the extent of 1/8th share- Will was executed by M in favour of 'D' – suit land is ancestral and cannot be bequeathed - ad-interim injunction was prayed which was declined by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed- defendant was restrained from alienating, transferring or creating any charge over the suit land- held, that Aks Shazra Nasab Malkaan prima facie shows that land was inherited by the parties from their grand-father- hence, nature of the property is proved to be ancestral - allowing defendant to alienate, encumber, dispose or even change the nature of the suit land will lead to multiplicity of litigation, which may not be in the interest of the parties- Appellate Court had rightly granted the injunction- petition dismissed. Title: Roshan Lal Vs. Beli Ram and others Page- 724

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 47 Rule 1- A- Civil Suit for recovery was filed by the petitioner which was dismissed as withdrawn with liberty to file a claim before the arbitrator- A CMPMO was filed against the order which was disposed of - an application for review has been filed - held, that an objection was taken that Civil Suit is not maintainable in view of the arbitration clause - therefore, it is not permissible to say that the liberty was wrongly granted to the plaintiff- there is no error apparent on the face of the record- petition dismissed. Title: H.P. General Industries Corporation Ltd. through its Managing Director Vs. Kavita Bhaskar w/o Sh. Rakesh Bhaskar. Page-745

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 47 Rule 1- Appeal preferred by the State was allowed- judgments passed by the Courts below were quashed- respondents No. 8, 9 and 17 had died during the pendency of appeal – deceased were duly represented by the Counsel who had failed to inform the Court about the death- judgment is sought to be recalled on this ground- held, that judgment had been passed without taking note of the death of respondents No. 8, 9 and 17- therefore, there is an error apparent on the face of the record, which is required to be corrected- appeal restored to its original number on the file. Title: Tarsem Kumar & Others Vs. State of H.P. & Others Page- 333

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 100- Plaintiff is a private limited concern, which carries on business of leasing, hire purchase, housing, general finance and investment- plaintiff advanced a sum of Rs. 18,000/- to the defendant No. 1 with interest @ 22% per annum with quarterly rests- defendants No. 2 and 3 stood guarantors - defendant No. 1 paid only two installments of Rs. 1100/- and failed to make payment of the rest of the amount- defendant No. 1 admitted taking of loan and asserted that vehicle was forcibly possessed by the plaintiff and was sold for Rs. 1,60,000/-- defendant No. 1 is entitled for money from the plaintiff- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held, in second appeal taking loan was not disputed by defendant No.1- rate of interest was specifically mentioned in the loan agreement- loan was taken for plying bus on commercial basis- therefore, rate of interest cannot be said to be excessive - it was not proved that vehicle was forcibly taken away- suit was rightly decreed by the trial court - appeal dismissed. Title: Dev Raj Sharma Vs. Lakhan Pal Finance & Investments Ltd. and others Page-544

Title: Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Chetna Devi and others Page-1091

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149 - Deceased was traveling in a Jeep which met with an accident due to rash and negligent driving - deceased died on the spot- an FIR was registered against the driver under Sections 279 and 304A of the Indian Penal Code- Claimants, being the dependants of the deceased claimed compensation of Rs. 10.00 lacs - Tribunal allowed the claim petition and saddled the owner with liability - feeling aggrieved from the award, owner filed the appeal - held, that onus was upon owner and driver to prove that claim petition was not maintainable but they had failed to do so- police report has to be treated as Claim Petition by the Tribunal in terms of Section 166(4) of the Act- even filing of claim petition is not mandatory for grant of compensation - claimants had not pleaded in the amended claim petition that the deceased was traveling in the vehicle as labourer for loading/unloading of goods or had hired the vehicle for transportation of goods- offending vehicle was a goods carriage vehicle and not a passenger vehicle- deceased was traveling in the offending vehicle as gratuitous passenger- owner/insured has violated the terms and conditions of the insurance policy and therefore, the owner/insured was rightly held liable to pay the compensation - appeal dismissed. Title: Prasoon Sharma Vs. Bhimi Devi and others Page-792

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Claimants pleaded that deceased was doing job of labourer in the offending vehicle- accident had taken place due to negligence of B- Tribunal held that B was driving the vehicle at the time of accident- insurer examined U who stated that driving licence was fake- however, he has not given reason for arriving at this conclusion- mere fact that licence is fake is no ground for absolving the insurer from liability, unless it is proved that insured had committed willful breach and had not taken precaution while engaging driver- insurer was rightly held liable to pay compensation- appeal dismissed. Title: National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Jagat Singh and others Page-764

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Claimants pleaded that deceased was standing by the side of the road- he was hit by a tractor- this fact was not specifically denied by owner and driver- owner and driver had not questioned the award- a plea was taken by the insurer that deceased was travelling as gratuitous passenger- however, no evidence was led to prove this fact- report of the investigator also proved that driver had a valid driving licence at the time of accident- in these circumstances, insurer was rightly held liable- appeal dismissed. Title: United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Gianti Gupta and others Page-1236

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Claimants, being dependents of deceased filed the claim petition for grant of compensation – Tribunal awarded sum of Rs. 5,65,000/- along with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum as compensation in favour of the claimants and insurer was saddled with the liability - feeling aggrieved, insurer preferred the present appeal- held, that owner and the driver had admitted in their reply that the deceased was traveling in the offending vehicle as owner of goods- hence, the deceased cannot be called to be a gratuitous passenger - amount awarded by the Tribunal is meager, since the claimants have not questioned the impugned award the same is reluctantly upheld- appeal dismissed. Title: Oriental Insurance Company Limited Vs. Sheela & others Page-770

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Deceased was travelling in the vehicle along with vegetables- this fact was admitted by owner and driver- hence, she cannot be said to be an unauthorized passenger- insurer had not led any evidence to prove the breach of terms and conditions of the policy- thus, insurer is liable to pay the amount. Title: Kamlesh Kaur and others Vs. Rajinder Kumar and others Page-750

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Income of the deceased was Rs. 3,600/- per month- deceased was a bachelor- half of the amount is to be deducted towards personal expenses- thus, claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs. 1,800/- per month- deceased was '18' years of age at the time of death- multiplier of '18' is applicable- thus, claimants are entitled to Rs. 1,800x12x18= Rs. 3,88,800/- towards loss of dependency. Title: The New India Assurance Company Vs. Rafikan & others Page-816

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- It was contended that challan was presented against respondents No. 2 and 3 and not against respondent No. 6 and the Tribunal had erred in holding that accident was outcome of contributory negligence of respondents No. 2 and 6- held, that proof by preponderance of probabilities is required in a criminal case but prima facie proof is required in a claim petition- simply because accused/driver has been acquitted, claim petition cannot be dismissed - drivers had parked their trucks illegally on wrong sides without switching on parking light – this led to the accident- accident was outcome of contributory negligence of both the drivers. Title: National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Prem Singh and others Page-1214

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- It was pleaded by claimants that deceased was unloading the marble slabs- marble slab slipped and hit the deceased - vehicle was stationary for unloading - held that the accident had taken place due to use of the motor vehicle and the claim petition is maintainable- deceased was driver by profession and his income cannot be less than Rs. 6,000/-- 1/3rd amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses- multiplier of '15' is applicable- claimants are entitled to Rs. 4,000/- x 12 x 15 = Rs. 7,20,000/- under the head 'loss of dependency'- claimants are also entitled to Rs. 10,000/- each under the heads 'loss of consortium', 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses'- thus, claimants are entitled to total compensation of Rs. 7,20,000/- + Rs. 10,000/- + Rs. 10,000/- + Rs. 10,000/- + Rs. 10,000/- = Rs. 7,60,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the claim petition till its realization. Title: Sudesh Kumari & another Vs. Kapil Gautam & others Page-1233

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Monthly income of the deceased was taken as Rs. 3,000/-, which is on lower side- even a labourer would not be earning less than Rs. 6,000/- hence income of the deceased is to be taken as Rs. 6,000/-- there are four claimants and 1/4th amount is to be deducted towards personal expenses - claimants have lost source of dependency to the extent of Rs. 4,500/-- age of the deceased was 31 years- multiplier of '15' is applicable- thus, claimants are entitled to Rs. 4500/- x 12 x 15= Rs. 8,10,000/- under the head 'loss of dependency'- they are also entitled to Rs. 10,000/- each under the heads 'loss of love and affection' , 'loss of consortium', 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses'- thus, claimants are entitled to Rs. 8,10,000/- + Rs. 40,000/- = Rs. 8,50,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till realization- award modified. Title: Poonam Sharma & others Vs. Vijay Singh & another Page-217

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Tribunal had awarded Rs. 30,000/- under the head 'pain and suffering'- claimant had suffered pain and will have to undergo the same throughout his life- thus, he is entitled to Rs. 50,000/- in addition to the amount awarded by the Tribunal. Title: Chaman Lal Vs. Santosh Kumar Rattan & another Page-166

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Tribunal had discussed all the aspects as to how compensation is to be awarded in an injury case- amount awarded by Tribunal cannot be said to be excessive but is meager- claimant has also not questioned the award, hence the same is reluctantly upheld. Title: Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Master Pritiyush Kant and another Page-1224

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Tribunal held that claimant had failed to prove that driver of offending truck had driven the same rashly and negligently and dismissed the petition- held, that Tribunal must not succumb to the niceties and hyper technicalities of law- negligence is to be determined on the preponderance of probabilities and not on the basis of proof beyond reasonable doubt- claimants had specifically stated that accident had taken place due to negligence of the driver- mere denial of the accident is not sufficient- witnesses of the claimant prima facie established that accident was outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver- deceased was 24 years of age- his income cannot be less than Rs. 5,000/- per month- 50% of the amount is to be deducted towards personal expenses and the loss of dependency will be Rs. 2500- multiplier of 15 is applicable- claimant is entitled to Rs. 2500x12x15 = Rs. 4,50,000/- as compensation along with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till deposit. Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 5 and 34- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for declaration pleading that suit land was jointly owned and possessed by the plaintiff and D with their father as coparceners – father of the plaintiff died and plaintiff has got half share in the suit land- part of the suit land was purchased by the plaintiff from his earnings in the name of his father and it was thrown in the common pool- plaintiff has raised construction without any objection- sale deed was got executed without any consideration- suit was opposed by the defendants- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held, in second appeal that land was shown to be in the name of 'A', who was shown as the common ancestor- sufficient evidence was led to prove that property was coparcenery – property was thrown by 'S' in common stock- doctrine of blending is applicable- S had permitted plaintiff to raise construction over the property- property will devolve according to Section 6 of Hindu Succession Act by survivorship- defendant had failed to prove that S intended to keep the property purchased by him and acquired by him by way of pre-emption decrees as separate- suit was rightly decreed- appeal dismissed. Title: Sarabjeet Singh & ors. Vs. Rajesh Prashad & anr. Page-315

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 6- Plaintiff filed a civil suit pleading that defendant had created a lease for 99 years in favour of the plaintiff and possession was delivered to him - defendant forcibly took possession in absence of the plaintiff- suit was opposed by the defendant – counter-claim was also filed by the defendant- trial Court dismissed the suit and partly allowed the counter-claim- held, in revision that remedy of revision is available in suit under Section 6 of Specific Relief Act by way of an exception- Court will not interfere with the order except where a case for interference has been made for the exercise of revisional jurisdiction- witnesses of the plaintiff were not able to prove the possession of the plaintiff- name of the person who had delivered the possession to the plaintiff was not mentioned- neighbours were not examined- an adverse inference is to be drawn- suit was rightly dismissed by the trial Court- revision dismissed. Title: Shamsher Singh Thakur Vs. Baba Jagtar Dass (deceased) through LRS Bibi Karam Dass Chelli Page-512

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 20- Plaintiff entered into an agreement with the defendants for purchase of the land- defendants failed to execute the sale deed despite repeated requests- hence, suit was filed for seeking specific performance- suit was dismissed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was partly allowed - plaintiff was held entitled to refund of Rs. 20,000/- along with interest @ 6% per annum- aggrieved from the judgment, present appeal has been preferred- held, that execution of the agreement was proved- however, witnesses produced by the plaintiff did not establish that plaintiff was ready and willing to perform his part of the agreement- on the other hand, defendants were ready and willing to get sale deed executed in terms of the agreement- plaintiff had not offered to pay remaining amount due to which sale deed could not be executed – agreement was vague as detail of the property to be sold was not mentioned- continuous readiness and willingness is essential for specific performance- specific performance was rightly declined - appeal dismissed. Title: Ram Lal and Anr. Vs. Sudesh Kumar and Ors. Page- 16

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 24- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for declaration pleading that he is exclusive owner in possession of the suit land- defendants had moved an application for correction of dimension, which was allowed without affording any opportunity of being heard to the plaintiff - defendants pleaded that dimensions were changed at the instance of the plaintiff – order was passed after affording an opportunity to the plaintiff- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed- it was held that Civil Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit- held, in appeal that once court had come to the conclusion that it lacked inherent jurisdiction, it should have passed an order of return of the plaint for presentation before appropriate forum- appeal allowed and plaint ordered to be returned for presentation before appropriate Court. Title: Sheela Devi & ors. Vs. Harbhajan Lal Page- 517

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 24- Plaintiffs filed a civil suit for declaration pleading that suit land is recorded in joint ownership in possession of the plaintiffs and 'D'- suit land was earlier owned and possessed by one 'P', grand-father of plaintiffs no. 1 and 2 and great grand-father- after the death of 'P', suit land was inherited by his two sons T and M- nature of the suit land was ancestral- defendants had got mutation attested in their favour on the basis of Will stated to have been executed by 'D'- 'D' was not competent to execute the Will- defendant pleaded that land was rightly mutated on the basis of Will- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- aggrieved from the judgment, present appeal has been preferred- held, in appeal that the fact that Will was not valid was not challenged in the second appeal, only nature of the property was questioned- D had inherited the property after the death of her husband- she had no child, therefore, property was to devolve in accordance with Section 15 of Hindu Succession Act on the heirs of her husband- plaintiffs are heirs of the deceased and property vested in the plaintiffs- Courts had rightly passed the judgment- appeal dismissed. Title: Tilak Ram Vs. Dhani Ram and others Page- 459

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 28- A decree for specific performance of agreement was passed by the Court on the payment of Rs. 8 lakh in the Court- an appeal was preferred against the decree which was dismissed- the balance consideration was not deposited within one month but was deposited after the further lapse of 84 days - an application for rescission of contract was filed which was allowed- held in revision, Section 28 empowers the Court to extend the time for deposit of sale consideration- the Court should condone the delay liberally especially when there was sufficient cause for non deposit of the amount earlier- the decree was stayed by High Court and period of limitation will start running from the date of the judgment of the High Court- further the High Court had requisitioned the amount deposited before the Trial Court which would legalize the deposit- the application was wrongly allowed by the Trial Court- petition accepted. Title: Renu Sharma Vs. Brig. C.K. Maitra. Page-303

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for declaration pleading that suit property is Hindu ancestral property- plaintiff, being grandson of defendant No. 2, had right in it by birth- defendant No. 2 had wrongly entered into an agreement to sell the same- defendant No. 1 had wrongly obtained ex-parte decree for specific performance - suit was dismissed by trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was also dismissed- held, in second appeal that defendant No. 2 had got some land as Nautor- there was no proof that he had sold the ancestral land- sale deed cannot be said to be invalid- onus was upon plaintiff to prove nature of the property, which was not discharged- appeal dismissed. Title: Rajan Sharma Vs. Chaudhary & Others Page- 371

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff filed a civil suit pleading that one M started living with plaintiff's sister N - M purchased land and constructed a house- son of M left village and never returned- plaintiff started residing with M- defendant No. 1 had never married the son of M and was not in possession of the house- she filed a civil suit, which was decreed ex-parte in her favour – plaintiff had become owner by way of adverse possession- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was filed, which was partly allowed- held, in second appeal that plaintiff was not served with any notice when the Civil suit was instituted by defendant No. 1- he was also not summoned when the mutation was attested- it cannot be believed that defendant No. 1 started residing in the house of B as servant- there is plethora of evidence that she was married with B and she was recorded as wife of B in the Pariwar Register and voter list – it was duly proved that defendant No. 1 was never married to son of M and she had concocted a false story regarding the marriage- appeal dismissed. Title: Baldev Singh and others Vs. Kalan Devi and others Page-593

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for declaration that he was coming in possession of suit land as non-occupancy tenant and had become owner- registered gift deed made by defendant No. 1 in favour of defendants No. 2 to 4 was wrong- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held, that plaintiff was recorded as tenant at Will on the payment of rent- defendant had more than 8 acres of land and was not entitled to resume the land- rights of defendants stood extinguished on the date of commencement of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act- defendants filed an application for resumption, which was dismissed- defendant No. 1 was not competent to execute the gift deed in favour of the defendants No. 2 to 4- suit was rightly decreed by the trial Court- appeal dismissed. Title: Seeta Devi and others Vs. Dev Raj and another Page-939

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for declaration pleading that suit land was recorded in the ownership of defendant No. 4- predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff and proforma defendant No. 5 remained owner in possession of their share- mutation was wrongly sanctioned without following proper procedure- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed- held, that mutation was attested by AC 2nd Grade, whereas, conferment of the proprietary rights could have been made by LRO/AC 1st Grade- mutation is bad in law void-ab-initio- AC 2nd Grade is not competent to attest the mutation or to settle the dispute between the landlord and tenant- Appellate Court had not noticed this fact- appeal allowed- judgment passed by the Trial Court set aside. Title: Nand Lal Vs. Uttam Chand & others Page-925

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff filed a Civil Suit for declaration, injunction and confirmation of possession pleading that they are owners in possession of the suit land and defendant had wrongly recorded himself in the column of possession – the suit was opposed by the defendant by taking a plea of adverse possession - the suit was dismissed by the trial court - an appeal was preferred which was also dismissed- held, in second appeal predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs was recorded as owner- an entry was made in the copy of Jamabandi in the year 1993-94 that defendant was in possession with the consent of the plaintiffs- mere possession of the defendant in such circumstances is not sufficient to establish adverse possession of the defendant - appeal partly allowed. Title: Chajju Ram Vs. Shamma (deceased) through LRs. Page-541

Specific Relief Act, 1988- Section 34- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for declaration pleading that late S was owner of the suit land, who was real brother of the plaintiff- he had not taken any loan from agricultural society and bank – his land was wrongly auctioned and mutation was wrongly attested in favour of the defendant- suit was dismissed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was also dismissed- held, in second appeal that revenue record shows that suit land was owned by S but his share was attached for Rs. 1451.82/- in favour of the society- share of S was auctioned on 17.1.1976 for 1451.82/-- it has been proved that plaintiff had obtained loan from agricultural society, which was not repaid and land was auctioned- land was ordered to be sold as per order of the Collector, who has not been arrayed as party- defendant is shown to be in possession since 1975-76- Court had correctly appreciated the evidence- appeal dismissed. Title: Mohan Lal Vs. Sarv Dayal Page-609

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiffs are owners in possession of the suit land and khokha constructed thereon- they claimed that suit land was acquired by their father by way of oral sale- mother of plaintiffs No. 1 and 2 had sold the land in favour of the plaintiff No. 3- they had raised construction of Khokha on the suit land, which was replaced by three pucca shops of brick, masonry - they were in continuous, peaceful and exclusive possession of the suit property without any interference- defendant No. 1 had acquired suit property vide award No. 60/72 and the land was transferred to defendant No. 2- eviction proceedings were initiated against the plaintiffs- plaintiffs cannot be evicted from the suit land as they are owners in possession of the same- mutation on the basis of award is illegal and wrong- declaration and injunction were sought – suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held, that suit land was acquired by the defendant No. 1 for being used by defendant No. 2- it is situated within the acquired width of the road- compensation was paid and received by A and F- land was entered in the name of A and F- one biswa of the land belong to predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs- compensation of Rs. 46/- was deposited in the bank- no declaration should have been sought against acquisition of the suit land - remedy was available under the Act itself- declaration should not have been granted- plaintiffs were being evicted by the Competent Authority under due process of Law- no injunction can be granted- appeal allowed- judgment and decree passed by the trial Court set aside. Title: Himachal Pradesh State Electricity Board Vs. Yash Pal & ors. Page-718

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiffs filed a civil suit seeking declaration that they have become owners by way of adverse possession- suit was dismissed by the trial Court- counter-claim filed by the defendant was allowed and the plaintiffs were directed to hand over the possession of the suit land to the defendants- appeal filed by the plaintiffs was dismissed- it was found during the pendency of the second appeal that respondent No. 5 had died during the pendency of the suit – respondent No. 4 had also died during the pendency of the appeal in the Appellate Court- question of abatement and substitution of the legal representatives can be decided by the Court where death had taken place- judgment and decree passed by the Courts set aside- suit remanded to the trial Court to determine the question of substitution and thereafter to send the file to the Appellate Court. Title: Sarjan & ors. Vs. Bimla & ors. Page-423

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34 and 38- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for declaration and permanent prohibitory injunction pleading that plaintiff is Director of Private Limited Company- she is owner in possession of the suit land- land was transferred by T in favour of the company- defendant was appointed as Manager by D to look after the affairs of the company- plaintiff inducted one of her sons as Director- she came to know that defendant was posing himself as Director of Company and was going to alienate the suit land to some other persons- suit was decreed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held, in second appeal that according to the meeting 50% share worth Rs. 10/- of the husband of the plaintiff were transferred in favour of the defendant, his father and his brother- no notice of intention to transfer share was given to Registrar of the Company –no intimation of his appointment was given- defendant had not led any evidence to prove that suit was time barred- appeal dismissed. (Para- 10 to 15) Title: Des Deepak Khanna Vs. Sharda Devi Kanwar Page-93

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Plaintiff filed a civil suit seeking permanent prohibitory injunction for restraining the defendant from changing the nature of the suit land, from raising construction on the same and encroaching upon the path, from removing chajja and the iron stairs raised over the suit path- it was pleaded that suit land is jointly owned and possessed by the parties- abadies have been constructed there on- path is being used for ingress and egress- defendant threatened to build his stair case on the path, which would constrict the path- defendant stated that plaintiff had re-constructed the house by exceeding his share- suit was dismissed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed and suit was decreed – held, that land is jointly owned by the parties- Local Commissioner found that path was not blocked by any person and no deodi was found at the spot- defendant extended the chajja of his house towards the path during the pendency of the suit- stair case is causing obstruction to the use of path by co-owners- Appellate Court had considered all material aspects of the case documentary as well as oral evidence – construction was raised during the pendency of the suit and therefore, mandatory injunction was rightly granted- appeal dismissed. Title: Ved Prakash Vs. Jagdish Ram Page-1153

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Plaintiff filed a civil suit for permanent prohibitory and mandatory injunction for restraining the defendant No. 1 from handing over the possession of stall cum shop and restraining defendnat No. 2 from taking the possession of stall-cum-shop- it was pleaded that plaintiff was a tenant over the suit land on monthly rent of Rs. 220/-- defendant No. 2 was allowed to carry on business by the plaintiff- defendant No. 1 had decided to demolish the wooden stalls and convert them into pucca building- plaintiff had a right to occupy the stall and defendant No. 2 had no right- defendant No. 1 stated that possession was delivered by the plaintiff in favour of defendant No. 2- matter is pending before Municipal Council- defendant No.

2 pleaded that plaintiff and defendant No. 2 constituted a joint family- stall was allotted to defendant No. 2- suit was dismissed by the trial court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held, in appeal that even if the building is destroyed or demolished, the lease is not determined as long as the land beneath it continues to exist- therefore, tenancy will not come to an end on the demolition of the stall- plaintiff had not appeared in the witness box- his son admitted that plaintiff and defendant no. 2 formed one family and they used to do business jointly- he admitted that a family settlement had taken place between the plaintiff and defendant no. 2 after which defendant no. 2 started business in the suit land - plaintiff shifted to Lower Bazaar, Solan and started his work in the shop of Sanatan Dharam Sabha- settlement was never challenged by the plaintiff- an adverse inference has to be drawn against the plaintiff for non-appearance in the witness box - suit was rightly dismissed by the trial Court- further, findings recorded by the appellate court regarding tenancy reversed. Title: Sardar Thakur Singh Vs. Municipal Council, Solan & Another Page-1102

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Suit for fixation of boundaries by way of demarcation of the land and permanent prohibitory injunction for restraining the defendant from interfering in possession of the land was filed pleading that plaintiff is owner in possession of the suit land and defendant is interfering with the suit land without any right to do so- defendant opposed the suit by pleading that suit land had already been demarcated by Local Commissioner- no interference was being caused by the defendant- suit was decreed by the trial court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed and the suit was dismissed- held, in appeal that plaintiff had not stated in his statement that defendant was interfering with the suit land and he intended to raise construction upon the same- Tehsildar who conducted the demarcation was not examined by any of the parties and his report was also not accepted- Local Commissioner admitted in his statement that plaintiff wanted the demarcation to be conducted on the basis of old record and not on the basis of new record- report shows that there is discrepancy in Aks Shajra for the year, 1891-92 and Aks Shajra for the year 1961-62 regarding khasra No.194 - Local Commissioner was appointed to demarcate the land- plaintiff claimed himself to be owner of the aforesaid bamboo grove on the basis of the report- plaintiff had filed a suit for demarcation and permanent prohibitory injunction but he had failed to prove that there was boundary dispute- therefore, trial Court had wrongly decreed the suit- decree was rightly reversed by the Appellate Court- appeal dismissed. Title: Rajinder Kumar & another Vs. Hira Lal Page-219

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 39- Plaintiff filed a civil suit pleading that he is owner in possession of the suit land- defendant had constructed a house over the portion of abadi deh- defendant proposed to raise additional structure over abadi deh, which was likely to erode the suit land– suit was opposed by the defendant- trial Court granted the decree of mandatory injunction- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed - held, in second appeal that plaintiff had not sought the decree of mandatory injunction, which was granted by the trial Court- demarcation report does not show any encroachment on the land of the plaintiff- it was not permissible to grant the relief without any prayer, without amending the pleadings- appellate Court had rightly reversed the decree- appeal dismissed. For the appellant: Mr. D.S. Nainta and Mr. Virender Verma, Additional Advocates General.
For the respondent: Mr. Ramesh Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge (Oral).

The prosecution, aggrieved by the judgment dated 12.05.2009, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Chamba, District Chamba in Sessions Trial No. 1 of 2009, whereby the respondent (hereinafter referred to as the accused) has been acquitted of the charge under Sections 363, 366 and 376 of the Indian Penal Code, has filed this appeal, with a prayer to quash the impugned judgment and after holding him guilty for the commission of the offence, he allegedly committed.

2. The case, as disclosed from the statement of the prosecutrix recorded under Section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure shortly stated is that the accused is resident of village Cheeh Tehsil Churah, District Chamba. The prosecutrix (name withheld) is also resident of the same village. The accused was running a shop in the village. The prosecutrix as and when happens to cross through the path adjoining to his shop he always conduct himself with her in a romantic mood. She fell prey to such romantic attitude of the accused. On 3.08.2008, he allured her and taken to a lonely place in the field. There he subjected her to sexual intercourse without her consent and against her will. Thereafter, she was not allowed to come to her home. Accused told that he will solemnize marriage with her. She was taken to a cave (Kud) and made to sit there. In the evening, he brought apples from the nearby orchard to eat. They stayed in the Kud from 3.8.2008 to 5.8.2008. On 6.8.2008, she was brought out from the Kud to have meal in the canteen of Baira Siul Project. She was asked not to disclose anything about the incident to anyone and threatened to do away with her life in case she divulged anything qua the incident to anyone. Around 12.00 noon, while on the way to canteen, police party comprising her father PW-1 and uncle PW-4 nabbed them.

3. On finding the prosecutrix missing from the house, her mother PW-2 searched her here and there, but of no avail. Her father PW-1 is a carpenter by profession and was away to District Kinnaur in connection with his work. He reached in the house on 4.08.2008 at 10.00 a.m. On coming to know about his daughter, the prosecutrix missing from his wife PW-2, he searched her here and there, in his relations and neighborhood, but of no avail. Since the accused was also found missing from the village, therefore, it is he, who was suspected to have enticed away the prosecutrix, allegedly minor from her guardianship. The report of missing of the prosecutrix was, therefore, lodged in Police Station, Tissa, District Chamba on the next day, i.e. 5.8.2008, at about 4.00 p.m. by PW-1. The FIR Ext. PW-1/A was registered under Section 363 and 366 of the Indian Penal Code.

4. The Police accompanied by the complainant and others searched the prosecutrix, who on the next day was found sitting in the company of accused on the bank of the dam of Baira Siul Project. The accused was arrested there and then. The statement of prosecutrix under Section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure mark 'A' was recorded. She disclosed to the police that during the period she remained in the company of the accused, he subjected her to sexual intercourse. On the basis of the statement so made by her, a case under Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code was also registered against the accused. The custody of the prosecutrix was entrusted to her father PW-1 vide Ext. PW-1/B. On the next day, application, Ext. PW-5/A was made to the Chief Medical Officer, Regional Hospital, Chamba for conducting medical examination of the prosecutrix. PW-5 has conducted her medical examination and issued Medico Legal Certificate Ext. PW-5/B. In the opinion recorded on the reverse side of the Medico Legal Certificate and on perusal of the report of chemical analyst, PW-5 did not rule-out the possibility of the commission of rape with the prosecutrix. The date of birth certificate Ext. PW-6/A and the extract of parivar register Ext. PW-7/A were collected from Government Primary School and Gram Panchayat, Cheeh, District Chamba. During the investigation, the accused was also got medically examined vide Ext. P-A. The clothes/under garments of the accused were recovered and taken into possession vide seizure memo Ext. PW1/B. The clothes and under garments of the prosecutrix were sealed in the hospital and handed over to the police. The same were got chemically analyzed and the chemical report is Ext. P-X.

5. On the completion of the investigation, report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was filed against the accused in the trial Court.

6. Learned trial Judge on going through the report and the documents annexed therewith and finding a case under Sections 363, 366 and 376 of the Indian Penal Code prima-facie made out against the accused framed charge accordingly. He, however, pleaded not guilty to the charge. Therefore, the prosecution in order to sustain the charge against the accused has produced the evidence.

7. PW-1 is the father of the prosecutrix. It is at his instance FIR Ext. PW-1/A was registered by the police. According to him, the custody of the prosecutrix was entrusted to him vide memo Ext. PW-1/B. PW-2 Shanto Devi is the mother of the prosecutrix, whereas Tej Singh, PW-4 is her uncle. The prosecutrix has stepped into the witness box as PW-3. PW-5 Dr. Arti is the Medical Officer, who has medically examined the prosecutrix in Regional Hospital, Chamba, whereas, PW-6 Saleem, Assistant Teacher in Government Primary School, Cheeh has proved the certificate Ext. PW-6/A and PW-7 Tek Chand, Secretary, Gram Panchayat, Cheeh copy of parivar register Ext. PW-7/A. The remaining witnesses are police officials who any how or other remained associated with the investigation of the case. The Investigating Officer is PW-12 ASI Maan Singh.

8. The accused, on the other hand, in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., has denied each and every incriminating circumstance appeared in prosecution evidence against him either being wrong or for want of knowledge. In his defence, while answering second last question in his statement it has been submitted that due to business rivalry, family of prosecutrix was inimical with him and her family members allegedly quarreled with his family members over a land dispute. Therefore, her parents and uncle Tej Singh have fabricated the case against him falsely.

9. Learned trial Judge on appreciation of the evidence comprising oral as well as documentary has arrived at a conclusion that the present is not a case of commission of sexual intercourse with the prosecutrix forcibly or against her will and without her consent and that she rather was a consenting party to the commission of such act with her by the accused. She was also not found to be minor below 16 years of age and as such, the accused was acquitted of the charge framed against him under Sections 363, 366 and 376 of the Indian Penal Code.

10. The judgment under challenge has been assailed on the grounds inter-alia that the Court below has erroneously discarded the cogent and reliable evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of prosecution witnesses. There being no evidence of enmity of the parents of the prosecutrix with the accused, the prosecution evidence should have not been ignored. The prosecution evidence as has come on record by way of her own testimony and also that of her father PW-1 and mother PW-2 duly corroborated by the medical evidence should have not been ignored.

11. On behalf of the appellant-State, it is strenuously contended that irrespective of overwhelming cogent and reliable evidence available on record suggesting that the prosecutrix, a minor has been subjected to sexual intercourse by the accused, he has erroneously been acquitted of the charge.

12. On the other hand, Mr. Ramesh Sharma, learned defence counsel has vehemently argued that there being no iota of evidence that the prosecutrix was below 16 years of age on the day of occurrence, her conduct that she voluntarily accompanied the accused and did not make any effort to return to her house, amply demonstrate that she was a consenting party to her elopement with the accused.

13. The nature of the offence, the accused allegedly committed is not only heinous but grievous also because as per the allegations, he has not only removed the prosecutrix, a minor from her lawful guardianship, but also subjected her to sexual intercourse.

14. The apex Court while taking into consideration the gravity and seriousness of the offence, in a catena of judgments including State of Punjab Vs. Gurmeet Singh and others, AIR 1996 SC 1393 has held that the own statement of the prosecutrix if inspires confidence is sufficient to bring the guilt home to the accused. The apex Court in order to ensure that an innocent person is not implicated in the commission of an offence of this nature, while taking note of the judgment in Gurmeet Singh's case supra has however diluted the ratio thereof in Ranjit Hazarika Vs. State of Assam, (1998) 8 SCC 635 and held that the prosecutrix cannot be universally and mechanically applied to the facts of every case of sexual assault, as in its opinion, the possibility of false implication can't also be ruled-out. Similar was the view of the matter taken again by the apex Court in Vimal Suresh Kamble Vs. Chaluverapinake Apal S.P. and another, (2003) 3 SCC 175.

15. Therefore, the legal position as discussed supra makes it crystal clear that irrespective of an offence of this nature not only grievous but heinous also, the Court should not got swayed merely by passion and influence only on account of the offence has been committed against a woman and rather keep in mind the cardinal principle of criminal administration of justice, that an offender has to be believed to be innocent unless and until held guilty by the Court after satisfying its judicial conscience on the basis of given facts and circumstances of each case as well as proper appreciation of the evidence available on record.

16. The prosecutrix has been claimed to be a minor below 16 years of age on the date of occurrence i.e. 3.8.2008. In case as per evidence available on record, she proves to be below

16 years of age on the date of occurrence, the findings of conviction can be recoded against the accused in that eventuality alone, because otherwise the present seems to be not a case of commission of sexual intercourse against her will or without her consent and she rather was a consenting party to such act committed with her by the accused. Therefore, it is that aspect of this case, which deals with her age assume significance. Her date of birth has been claimed to be 1.5.1994. Since the occurrence pertains to 3.8.2008, therefore, if 1.5.1994 establishes to be her date of birth as per evidence available on record, she was minor on the day of occurrence. The evidence in support of her date of birth relied upon by the prosecution is her Primary School certificate Ext. PW-6/A and extract of parivar register Ext. PW-7/A. PW-6 is the Primary Assistant Teacher in Government Primary School, Cheeh. He has issued the certificate Ext. PW-6/A, which according to him is true and correct as per original record produced by him in the Court on the date of his examination. In his cross-examination at one stage, he expressed his ignorance as to who had got the prosecutrix admitted in the school, however, voluntarily stated that she was admitted in the school by her uncle Bansi Lal. He was neither employed as a Teacher in the school at the time of admission of the prosecutrix nor entries in the record are in his hand. The other piece of evidence relied upon by the prosecution to substantiate this part of its case is the extract of parivar register Ext. PW-7/A. This document has been proved by PW-7 Tek Chand, Secretary, Gram Panchayat, Cheeh. He has also said that Ext. PW-7/A is true and correct as per original record he produced. He, however, had not produced the birth and death register in the Court.

17. If coming to the testimony of her father PW-1, he in his cross-examination, tells us that he was married about 16 years back with Shanto and that it is not known as to when the prosecutrix was born to them. He, however, stated voluntarily that she was born to them after 1½ years of their marriage. The prosecutrix was admitted by him in the school. Shanto Devi while in the witness box as PW-2 tells us that at the time of her marriage, she was 18 years of age and the prosecutrix was born to her when she was 19 years old. This alone is the evidence produced by the prosecution in order to substantiate its case that the prosecutrix was minor below 16 years of age at the time of occurrence.

18. It is well settled at this stage that primary evidence to prove the date of birth of a person is the entries in the register at the time of his/her admission in the primary school. The record qua declaration of date of birth of the child made by his/her parents or guardian at the time of admission in primary school should also be there to substantiate the entries in the register. The name of parent/guardian at whose instance the child was admitted in the school should also be disclosed. It is only on the basis of such material on record, the date of birth as find mentioned in the record produced in evidence can be believed as true and correct. In the case in hand, it is the certificate Ext. PW-6/A issued by the Headmaster, Primary School, Cheeh has been relied upon. As a matter of fact, the extract from the admission register should have been obtained and produced in evidence. The admission register along with form/declaration made by a person at whose instance the prosecutrix was admitted in the school should have been produced during the course of recording prosecution evidence, in order to prove the extract of parivar register. The certificate Ext. PW-6/A no doubt is stated to be issued on the basis of entries in the admission register, however, for want of declaration and also as to who has disclosed the date of birth of the prosecutrix as 1.5.1994 at the time of her admission in the school, the certificate Ext. PW-6/A cannot be termed to be primary evidence and rather secondary. The apex Court in Sunil Kumar Vs. State of Haryana, AIR 2010 SC 392 has held as under:

> "30. The prosecution also failed to produce any Admission Form of the school which would have been primary evidence regarding the age of the prosecutrix."

19. Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Chhatisgarh Vs. Lekhram, AIR 2006 SC 1746, has held that the register maintained in a school is admissible in evidence to prove the date of birth of the person concerned, if it is proved that the same has been maintained by the authorities in the discharge of their public duty and there is evidence to show as to who had disclosed the date of birth of such person at the time of his/her admission in the school.

20. Mr. Bansi Lal, the uncle of prosecutrix, who allegedly admitted her in the school, has not been examined. In the absence of the admission form/ declaration qua her date of birth, Ext. PW-6/A cannot be believed to be true and correct to arrive at a conclusion that the prosecutrix was born on 1.5.1994. If coming to the extract of parivar register Ext. PW-7/A, the same has no evidentiary value nor on the basis thereof, it can be said that the date of birth of the prosecutrix is 1.5.1994. As a matter of fact, it is the entries made in the birth and death register maintained by the Municipalities /Gram Panchayats can be treated to be primary evidence qua the date of birth of a person, however, in a case of this nature, the extract of such register with supporting evidence as to who has disclosed the date of birth at the time of making birth entries in the register is required to be produced in evidence. Mere production of the register and abstract is not sufficient and rather the examination of such person at whose instance the entries were made in the register is relevant. It is held so by the Apex Court in Ravinder Singh Gorkhi Vs. State of U.P. AIR 2006 SC 2157. This judgment reads as follows:

> "17. ………… The said school leaving certificate was not issued in ordinary course of business of the school There is nothing on record to show that the said date of birth was recorded in a register maintained by the school in terms of the requirements of law as contained in Section 35 of the Indian Evidence Act. No statement has further been made by the said Head Master that either of the parents of the appellant who accompanied him to the school at the time of his admission therein made any statement or submitted any proof in regard thereto. ………….
> 21. Determination of the date of birth of a person before a court of law, whether in a civil proceeding or a criminal proceeding, would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case. Such a date of birth has to be determined on the basis of the materials on records. It will be a matter of appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties. Different standards having regard to the provision of Section 35 of the Evidence Act cannot be applied in a civil case or a criminal case.
> 25. ………… ……… ……..
> 26. In Birad Mal Singhvi v. Anand Purohit [(1988 Supp. SCC 604], this Court held:
> "To render a document admissible under Section 35, three conditions must be satisfied, firstly, entry that is relied on must be one in a public or other official book, register or record; secondly, it must be an entry stating a fact in issue or relevant fact; and thirdly, it must be made by a public servant in discharge of his official duty, or any other person in performance of a duty specially enjoined by law. An entry relating to date of birth made in the school register is relevant and admissible under Section 35 of the 21 Act but the entry regarding the age of a person in a school register is of not much evidentiary value to prove the age of the person in the absence of the material on which the age was recorded."

21. Similar is the ratio of the judgment again that of Hon'ble Apex Court Madan Mohan Singh and others Vs. Rajni Kant and another, AIR 2010 SC 2933, which reads as follows:

> "18. Therefore, a document may be admissible, but as to whether the entry contained therein has any probative value may still be required to be examined in the facts and circumstances of a particular case. The aforesaid legal proposition stands fortified by the judgments of this Court in Ram Prasad Sharma Vs. State of Bihar AIR 1970 SC 326; Ram Murti Vs. State of Haryana AIR 1970 SC 1029; Dayaram & Ors. Vs. Dawalatshah & Anr. AIR 1971 SC 681; Harpal Singh & Anr.

Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh AIR 1981 SC 361; Ravinder Singh Gorkhi Vs. State of U.P. (2006) 5 SCC 584; Babloo Pasi Vs. State of Jharkhand & Anr. (2008) 13 SCC 133; Desh Raj Vs. Bodh Raj AIR 2008 SC 632; and Ram Suresh Singh Vs. Prabhat Singh @Chhotu Singh & Anr. (2009) 6 SCC 681. In these cases, it has been held that even if the entry was made in an official record by the concerned official in the discharge of his official duty, it may have weight but still may require corroboration by the person on whose information the entry has been made and as to whether the entry so made has been exhibited and proved. The standard of proof required herein is the same as in other civil and criminal cases.

19. ....

20. So far as the entries made in the official record by an official or person authorized in performance of official duties are concerned, they may be admissible under Section 35 of the Evidence Act but the court has a right to examine their probative value. The authenticity of the entries would depend on whose information such entries stood recorded and what was his source of information. The entries in School Register/ School Leaving Certificate require to be proved in accordance with law and the standard of proof required in such cases remained the same as in any other civil or criminal cases."

22. Therefore, when in the case in hand, neither Bansi Lal, the so called uncle of the prosecutrix at whose instance she was admitted in the school has been examined nor the birth and death register produced and also the person who has disclosed the date of birth of the prosecutrix at the time of recording entries qua date of birth in the said register has also not been examined, it cannot be believed by any stretch of imagination that she was born on 1.5.1994. The prosecution has also not made an effort to find out the radiological age of the prosecutrix. Therefore, it cannot be believed by any stretch of imagination that she was minor below 16 years of age on the day of occurrence.

23. Significantly, no question was put to the accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure that he has subjected the prosecutrix, a minor below 16 years of age to sexual intercourse. Therefore, the age aspect a vital incriminating circumstance against the accused having not been put to him in his statement recorded under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the same cannot be used against him. It is held so by the Apex Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1984 SC 1622. The text of this judgment reads as follows:

"142. Apart from the aforesaid comments there is one vital defect in some of the circumstances mentioned above and relied upon by the High Court, viz., circumstances Nos. 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 11, 12, 13, 16 and 17. As these circumstances were not put to the appellant in his statement under Section 313 of the Criminal Procedure Code they must be completely excluded from consideration because the appellant did not have any chance to explain them. This has been consistently held by this Court as far back as 1953 where in the case of Hate Singh Bhagat Singh v. State of Madhya Bharat AIR 1953 SC 468 this Court held that any circumstance in respect of which an accused was not examined under Section 342 of the Criminal Procedure Code cannot be used against him. Ever since this decision, there is a catena of authorities of this Court uniformly taking the view that unless the circumstance appearing against an accused is put to him in his examination under Section 342 or Section 313 of the Criminal Procedure Code, the same cannot be used against him. In Shamu Balu Chaugule v. State of Maharashtra, (1976) 1 SCC 438 this Court held thus:

> "The fact that the appellant was said to be absconding, not having been put to him under Section 342, Criminal Procedure Code, could not be used against him.

> 144. It is not necessary for us to multiply authorities on this point as this question now stands concluded by several decisions of this Court. In this view of the matter, the circumstances which were not put to the appellant in his examination under Section 313 of the Criminal Procedure Code have to be completely excluded from consideration."

24. If coming to the ocular version, the complainant who is the father of the prosecutrix has failed to disclose her date of birth while in the witness box as PW-1. His testimony that the prosecutrix was born to him after 1½ years of his marriage is vague and absurd, hence cannot be taken to conclude that she was born on 1.5.1994. Similarly, the mother of the prosecutrix tells us that she was married at the age of 18 years and the prosecutrix was born when she was 19 years of age. Her testimony is also not specific nor on the basis of same, it can be said that the prosecutrix is born on 1.5.1994.

25. On critical analysis of the age aspect of the prosecutrix, it is not at all proved that she is born on 1.5.1994 and as such was below 16 years of age on the day of occurrence i.e. 3.8.2008. It is not the prosecution case that she was allured or enticed away by the accused and rather as per her version on asking by the accused, she went with him to nearby field where she was subjected to sexual intercourse. However, while in the witness box she has not stated that she was taken to nearby field and subjected there to sexual intercourse and rather to the Kud, where she lived with him during the period 3.8.2008 to 6.8.2008 and she was subjected to sexual intercourse there on four occasions. She, therefore, was not enticed away by the accused or removed from her lawful custody and rather she had voluntarily accompanied the accused and was a consenting party to the sexual act he committed with her. Therefore, no case under Sections 363 and 366 and for that matter under Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code is made out against the accused. He, therefore, has rightly been acquitted from the charge so framed against him.

26. In view of the reappraisal of the evidence and also the law applicable, we find no illegality or irregularity with the judgment under challenge in this appeal. The same, as such, is affirmed and the appeal dismissed. Personal bonds furnished by the accused shall stand cancelled and surety bonds discharged.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Rajesh Kumar @ Raju ….Petitioner.
Versus
State of H.P. …Respondent.

Criminal Revision No.110 of 2008
Date of Decision: 31.5.2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner was convicted for the commission of offence punishable under Section 354 of I.P.C- application was filed for quashing the proceedings on the ground that matter had been compromised between the parties- held, that power to quash the proceedings can be exercised in cases having pre-dominantly civil character, particularly arising out of commercial transactions, matrimonial relationship or family disputes - in the present case, accused had been convicted and it will not be proper to quash the proceedings- petition dismissed. (Para-1 to 12)

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 354- Informant was returning to her house - petitioner came on a scooter and gave lift to the informant- when she alighted from the scooter, accused caught hold of her arm and asked her as to when he should visit her house- he caught hold of the string of her salwar- this was heard by V- matter was reported to the police – accused was tried and convicted by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed but the sentence was modified- held, in revision that informant had specifically stated that accused had caught hold of her arm and had asked her to oblige him with sexual favours - it was not asserted that there was any enmity between the parties- version of prosecutrix was corroborated by her husband- delay was properly explained- defence version is not probable- prosecution version was proved beyond reasonable doubt- accused was rightly convicted by the trial Court – however, benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offender Act granted. (Para-21 to 36)

Cases referred:

Narinder Singh and others versus State of Punjab and another (2014)6 Supreme Court Cases 466
Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case241

For the Petitioner : Mr. Bhuvnesh Sharma & Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Advocates.
For the Respondent : Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate General for respondent/-State.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge (Oral)

Present Criminal Revision Petition filed under Section 397 read with Section 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is directed against the judgment dated 2.6.2008, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, HP, in Criminal Appeal No. 15 of 2007, affirming the judgment dated 6.3.2007, passed by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Barsar in criminal Complaint No. 59-I-2006/ RBT No.46-II-2006, whereby the present petitioner is convicted under Section 354 of Indian Penal Code and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of one year and to pay fine of Rs. 1000/-, which was lateron modified to three months by the Court of learned Sessions Judge, in appeal.

2. On 4.7.2008, this Court while admitting the instant Criminal Revision petition for hearing, suspended the sentence imposed by the Courts below against the petitioner subject to his furnishing bail bonds in the sum of Rs. 10,000/- with one surety in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned trial Court. However on 6.5.2016, when the matter came up for final hearing before this Court, petitioner-accused moved an application under Section 321 read with Section 482 Cr.P.C placing therewith a compromise entered between the petitioner-accused as well as complainant.

3. After careful reading of the averments contained in the application, time was granted to the respondent-State to file reply, if any, to the application and parties were directed to remain present in the Court on 31.5.2016. Respondent-State filed reply to the application, wherein most of the averments have been denied for want of knowledge. In para-6 of the reply, it is submitted that the allegations leveled against the petitioner-accused stands proved before the court of learned Judicial Magistrate Ist Class, Barsar and his conviction has been further upheld by the learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur and, as such, no public interest would be served, if the parties are allowed to compromise the matter at hand. Both the parties are present in person in the Court.

4. Careful reading of the application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C, suggest that on the complaint of the complainant, an FIR No. 6 of 2006, dated 24.3.2006 was registered against the petitioner-accused at the Police Station, Barsar, District Hamirpur, HP and thereafter subsequent of filing of the aforesaid FIR, challan was presented before the Judicial Magistrate Ist Class Barsar, wherein learned trial Court after satisfying itself that a prima-facie case exist against the accused, framed charge under Section 354 IPC, to which accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. Learned trial Court below after appreciating evidence on record convicted the accused for having committed the offence punishable under Section 354 IPC and sentenced him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year and to pay fine of Rs.1000/-. Aforesaid conviction and sentence imposed by the learned trial Court was further upheld by the learned Lower Appellate Court vide impugned judgment dated 2.6.2008. Hence, the present revision petition.

5. Para-4 of the application, which is duly supported by an affidavit of the complainant as well as by the petitioner-accused suggest that during the pendency of the present revision petition on the intervention of the respectable persons of the society, complainant and the petitioner-accused have compromised the matter in order to maintain cordial relations in future, copy of compromise dated 25.4.2016 is also placed on record. It has been stated in para-5 of the application that compromise has been entered at their own sweet will and without any pressure from anybody in order to maintain good relations.

6. Since joint application on behalf of the petitioner-accused as well as complainant has been filed in the present case enclosing therein that compromise entered between the parties, this Court with a view to ascertain correctness and genuineness of the averments contained in the application as well as compromise, asked the complainant in the open Court whether she has entered into the compromise with her own free will or there was any external pressure upon her to compromise the matter. Smt. Roshani Devi (complainant), who was present in the Court, stated on oath that she has entered into the compromise of her own free will and there is no external pressure on her to enter into the compromise. She stated that she has no objection, whatsoever; in case the accused is acquitted of the charge framed against him. Aforesaid statement of the complainant is placed on record.

7. Since the application has been filed under Section 321 read with section 482 Cr.P.C, this Court deems it fit case to consider the present application in the light of the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Narinder Singh and others versus State of Punjab and another (2014)6 Supreme Court Cases 466, whereby Hon'ble Apex Court has formulated guidelines for accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings. Perusal of judgment referred above clearly depicts that in para 29.1, Hon'ble Apex Court has returned the findings that power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash the criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable, where the parties have settled the matter between themselves. However, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with great caution. Para Nos. 29 to 29.7 of the judgment are reproduced as under:-

> "29. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we sum up and lay down the following principles by which the High Court would be guided in giving adequate treatment to the settlement between the parties and exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code while accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings:
> 29.1Power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash the criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable, where the parties have settled the matter between themselves. However, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with caution.

29.2. When the parties have reached the settlement and on that basis petition for quashing the criminal proceedings is filed, the guiding factor in such cases would be to secure:

(i) ends of justice, or

(ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court.

While exercising the power the High Court is to form an opinion on either of the aforesaid two objectives.

29.3. Such a power is not be exercised in those prosecutions which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, for offences alleged to have been committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by Public Servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender.

29.4. On the other, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and pre-dominantly civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes should be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

29.5. While exercising its powers, the High Court is to examine as to whether the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal cases would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal cases.

29.6. Offences under Section 307 IPC would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore is to be generally treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to proving the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delegate parts of the body, nature of weapons used etc. Medical report in respect of injuries suffered by the victim can generally be the guiding factor. On the basis of this prima facie analysis, the High Court can examine as to whether there is a strong possibility of conviction or the chances of conviction are remote and bleak. In the former case it can refuse to accept the settlement and quash the criminal proceedings whereas in the later case it would be permissible for the High Court to accept the plea compounding the offence based on complete settlement between the parties. At this stage, the Court can also be swayed by the fact that the settlement between the parties is going to result in harmony between them which may improve their future relationship.

29.7. While deciding whether to exercise its power under Section 482 of the Code or not, timings of settlement play a crucial role. Those cases where the settlement is arrived at immediately after the alleged commission of offence and the matter is still under investigation, the High Court may be liberal in accepting the settlement to quash the criminal proceedings/investigation. It is because of the reason that at this stage the investigation is still on and even the charge sheet has not been filed. Likewise, those cases where the charge is framed but the evidence is yet to start or the evidence is still at infancy stage, the High Court can show benevolence in exercising its powers favourably, but > after prima facie assessment of the circumstances/material mentioned above. On the other hand, where the prosecution evidence is almost complete or after the conclusion of the evidence the matter is at the stage of argument, normally the High Court should refrain from exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code, as in such cases the trial court would be in a position to decide the case finally on merits and to come a conclusion as to whether the offence under Section 307 IPC is committed or not. Similarly, in those cases where the conviction is already recorded by the trial court and the matter is at the appellate stage before the High Court, mere compromise between the parties would not be a ground to accept the same resulting in acquittal of the offender who has already been convicted by the trial court. Here charge is proved under Section 307 IPC and conviction is already recorded of a heinous crime and, therefore, there is no question of sparing a convict found guilty of such a crime".

8. Para 29.2 of the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court suggest that guiding factor for quashing the criminal proceedings in terms of settlement arrived between the parties would be to secure:

(i) ends of justice, or

(ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court.

While exercising the power the High Court is to form an opinion on either of the aforesaid two objectives.

9. Careful perusal of para 29.3 of the judgment suggest that such a power is not be exercised in the cases which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Apart from this, offences committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by Public Servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender. On the other hand, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominantly civil character, particularly arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes may be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

10. Admittedly, in the present case accused has been convicted under Section 354 of Indian Penal Code, which is non-compoundable offence and could not be ordered to be compounded in terms of Section 320 IPC. Since, in the instant case application has been moved under Section 321 read with Section 482 Cr.P.C, this Court is empowered to quash the criminal proceedings in the case which are not compoundable. But perusal of para 29.7 of judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court provides that while deciding whether to exercise jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C or not, timings of settlement play crucial role. The Hon'ble Apex Court has specifically observed that when conviction is already recorded by the learned trial Court and matter is at the appellate stage before the High Court, mere compromise between the parties would not be a ground to accept the same.

11. Admittedly in the present case, application for compounding the offence in question on the basis of compromise has been filed at the appellate stage, when accused has been already convicted by the learned trial Court. Hence, this Court is of the view that it is not a fit case, and a stage, where inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C can be invoked to order for compounding the offence. Accordingly, application moved by the petitioner for compounding the offence on the basis of compromise having been entered into the parties is rejected at this stage.

12. Since for the reasons stated hereinabove, application bearing No. Cr.M.P. No. 373 of 2016 filed on behalf of the accused for compounding the offence stands rejected, this Court proceeds to decide case at hand on merits.

13. Mr. Bhuvnesh Sharma, learned counsel representing the petitioner vehemently argued that the judgments passed by both the Courts below are not sustainable as the same are not based upon correct appreciation of the evidence available on record. He contended that both the Courts below while recording the conviction against the petitioner-accused have failed to notice major and substantive contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses and, as such, great injustice has been caused to the petitioner-accused. Mr. Bhuvenesh Sharma, learned counsel forcibly contended that both the Courts below have fallen in great error inasmuch as not acknowledging the arguments having been made by the petitioner with regard to delay in lodging the FIR. During his arguments, he invited the attention of the Court to the statements made by the various prosecution witnesses to demonstrate the major contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses and wherein no explanation worth the name was rendered for delay in lodging the FIR. He contended that the petitioner-accused has been falsely implicated in the present case due to personal enmity and litigation between the family of the petitioner- accused and the complainant and, as such, Courts have committed material irregularity and illegality while convicting the petitioner-accused for having committed an offence punishable and under Section 354 of the Indian Penal Code. He prayed that the judgments passed by both the Courts below deserve to be quashed and set-aside. He also contended that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case within the parameters of basic ingredients of Section 354 of the Indian Penal Code and sentence of three months, as has been recorded by the first Appellate Court is harsh and cannot be allowed to be sustained. It is also contended on behalf of the petitioner that in case the Court comes to conclusion that the judgments passed by both the courts below are based on correct appreciation of the evidence available on record, then petitioner-accused being first offender, deserves to be given benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act. Mr. Sharma, learned counsel submitted that more than 10 years have passed after recording the conviction against the petitioner-accused by the learned trial Court and petitioner suffered great mental agony during the pendency of the case. Mr. Bhuvnesh Sharma, learned counsel also stated that the petitioner-accused is respectable person of the society and there is no other case pending against him in any court of law in the country.

14. Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General, representing the respondent-State, supported the judgments passed by both the Courts below and stated that no interference, whatsoever, of this Court is warranted in the present facts and circumstances of the case as judgments passed by both the Courts below are based on correct appreciation of the evidence available on record.

15. I have heard the learned counsel representing the parties and have carefully gone through the record made available.

16. True, it is that this Court has very limited powers under Section 397 of Criminal Procedure Code while exercising its revisionary jurisdiction but in the instant case, where accused has been convicted and sentenced, it would be apt and in the interest of justice to critically examine the evidence available on record that too solely with a view to ascertain that judgments passed by learned Courts below are not perverse and same are based on correct appreciation of evidence on record.

17. As far as scope of power of this Court while exercising revisionary jurisdiction under Section 397 is concerned, the Hon' ble Apex Court in Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case241; has held that in case Court notices that there is a failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality or sentence or order. The relevant para of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> "8. The object of Section 483 and the purpose behind conferring the revisional power under Section 397 read with Section 401, upon the High Court is to invest > continuous supervisory jurisdiction so as to prevent miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularity of the procedure or to mete out justice. In addition, the inherent power of the High Court is preserved by Section 482. The power of the High Court, therefore, is very wide. However, the High Court must exercise such power sparingly and cautiously when the Sessions Judge has simultaneously exercised revisional power under Section 397(1). However, when the High Court notices that there has been failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is but the salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/ incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order."

18. Perusal of the material available on record suggest that on 23rd March, 2006, at about 1:00 PM, complainant was returning to her house after delivering meals at the shop of her husband, the petitioner-accused came on a scooter and gave lift to the complainant. Since complainant had prior acquaintance with the accused, she took a lift on the scooter of the petitioner- accused but when she alighted from the scooter near her house, petitioner-accused caught hold of her arm and asked her as to when he should visit her house. On being asked by the complainant, accused told her that his wife generally remains ill and, as such, she should oblige him. Complainant further alleged in the complaint that the petitioner-accused in order to outrage her modesty caught hold of the string of her salwar. However, she escaped with great difficulty and thereafter she started walking towards her house. It is averred in the complainant that at some distance, petitioner-accused started calling out to her that she should give him time as when he should come to her house. It is also averred that above talk was heard by Veena Devi, who was collecting grass from nearby field. As per story of the prosecution, complainant narrated the story to her husband, who on the next day accompanied the complainant to the police station, Barsar for lodging the FIR Ex.PW1/A. On the basis of complaint lodged by the complainant, matter was investigated by PW-5, ASI Parkash Chand, who during the investigation prepared the site plan Ex.PW5/A and took into possession Scooter bearing registration No. HP-21-0352 of the accused along with its documents vide memo Ex.PW3/A. Statement of the witnesses were recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C and after collecting the material evidence on record, police prepared the challan and presented the same in the Competent Court of law against the petitioner-accused for having committed the offence punishable under Section 354 of the Indian Penal Code.

19. Since accused was convicted by the learned trial Court for having committing the offence punishable under Section 354 IPC, he filed an appeal under Section 374 of the Code of Criminal Procedure in the Court of learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, who while dismissing the appeal modified the sentence to three months from one year, as was awarded by the learned trial court below.

20. In the present case, prosecution with a view to prove its case examined as many as five witnesses. PW-1, Smt. Roshani Devi(complainant), PW-2, Dharam Chand, PW-3, Sandeep Kumar, PW-4, SI Sohan Lal and PW-5, ASI Parkash Chand. Statement of accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C was also recorded, wherein he denied the incident and stated that parents of the complainant Roshani Devi(PW-1) and his in-laws are of same village and since cases between them are pending in the Court, he has been falsely implicated in the present case. Accused also examined DW-1, Jitender Kumar in his defence.

21. PW-1, Smt. Roshani Devi stated that accused offered lift to her on his scooter and since she had prior acquaintance, she took the lift. However, at some distance, when she asked the accused to drop her, the accused stopped the scooter and caught hold of her arm. The complainant objected to the same but accused told her that his wife generally has stomach-ache and she should oblige him with sexual favour. Complainant also stated that accused asked her as to when he should visit her house and later he put his hands on the string of her salwar but she escaped from the clutches of the accused with great difficulty. She also stated that when she was going back to her house, accused asked her from behind as to when he should visit her house. She went to her house and in the evening informed her husband about the incident. It has also come in her statement that Veena Devi was collecting grass nearby and she also asked her as to why the later was running. On the next day, she lodged the FIR Ex.PW1/A at the police station. It has come in her cross-examination that Veena Devi was cutting grass at a distance of 20-25 metres. She categorically denied that she never took a lift on the scooter of the accused-petitioner. She also denied that she had not gone with meals to the shop of her husband. She also stated in her cross-examination that police Station is about 2 KMs from her house and she did not narrate the incident to anyone except her husband, Dharam Chand.

22. Careful perusal of the statement given by PW-1 in his examination-in-chief and cross-examination suggest that complainant has been very specific and consistent while stating that accused caught hold of her arm and asked to oblige him with sexual favour. She has been very very candid in stating that accused put his hands on the string of her salwar. Even in the cross-examination conducted on behalf of the petitioner-accused, complainant stuck to stands which she took in the examination-in-chief and defence was unable to extract anything contrary from her in the cross-examination.

23. Interestingly, no suggestion worth the name with regard to enmity and animosity was put to the complainant by the accused and, as such, stand taken by the accused that he has been falsely implicated due to pending litigation between his in-laws and parents of the complainant cannot be accepted on its face value. If the statement given by PW-1 is read in its entirety, it leaves no doubt in the mind of the Court that testimony of PW-1 is confidence inspiring and defence has miserably failed to prove that she had motive to falsely implicate the accused.

24. PW-2, Dharam Chand, husband of the complainant (PW-1) also stated that when he reached home on that day at about 9:00 PM from his shop, complainant narrated the entire incident to him. So, accordingly on the next day, he took his wife to the Police Station, Where FIR Ex.PW1/A was lodged. In cross-examination, he admitted that he did not tell the incident to any villager. He also denied the suggestion that his wife had not gone to the shop on the relevant day with meals to him.

25. PW-3, Sandeep Kumar and PW-4, SI Sohan Lal are formal witnesses, who have only proved the documents on record.

26. PW-5, ASI Parkash Chand, Investigating officer stated that he visited the spot and prepared the site plan Ex.PW5/A and took into possession Scooter bearing registration No. HP-21-0352 of the accused. Thereafter, he recorded the statements of the witnesses. In cross-examination, he also stated that as per the police record, the incident had not been witnessed by Amar Nath and Lekh Ram. He also denied the suggestion that earlier a report was made about this very incident by the complainant to the police.

27. Careful analysis of the statement made by PW-2, husband of the complainant also suggest that the same is trustworthy as he in his statement has fully supported the version put forth by the complainant (PW-1). He also explained that why FIR could not be lodged at the same time, because he admitted that since he came at 9:00 PM in the evening on the date of occurrence, he along with his wife could only report the matter to the police on the next morning. Since it has specifically stated by PW-1 in her statement that Police Station is 2 KM away from her house, explanation rendered by PW-1 and PW-2 for alleged delay in lodging FIR Ex.PW1/A seems to be plausible and deserves to be accepted in the facts and circumstances of the case. As far as not narrating the incident to other villager are concerned, such omission, if any, cannot be termed as detrimental to the case of the prosecution because admittedly in cases where personal pride of lady is involved, she cannot be expected to narrate the incident to each and everyone but fact remains that at first instance/ opportunity she narrated the incident to her husband and thereafter matter was reported to the police. Moreover, as has been discussed above, that no suggestion worth the name was put to PW-1 as well as PW-2 by the defence that they had some motive to falsely implicate the accused. Even no suggestion with regard to prior enmity and animosity between in-laws of the petitioner- accused and parents of the complainant was put to PW-1 as well as PW-2 and, as such, version put forth by the accused that he has been falsely implicated due to ongoing litigation between his in-laws and parents of the complainant cannot be accepted at all. Moreover, no evidence be it ocular or documentary was ever led by the accused to prove the aforesaid assertion made by the accused in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Hence, defence taken by the accused does not appear to be trustworthy.

28. DW-1, Jitender Kumar stated that on 23rd March, 2006, he met the complainant on the way while he was returning from the shop of chemist to his house and both of them came to their village together. He also stated that he noticed Veena Devi cutting grass in fields. In his cross-examination, it has come that he did not note the date of occurrence. The houses of Lekh Ram and Dev Raj are adjacent to the shop of the chemist. He also admitted that he knows the petitioner-accused since he purchases tailoring material from the shop of his brother.

29. Close reading of the statement given by DW-1 in his examination-in-chief as well as cross-examination, nowhere supports the version put forth by the petitioner-accused in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. This defence witness DW-1 except deposing that he met the complainant on the way while he was returning from the shop of chemist and thereafter they both returned together to the village did not state anything which could be of any help to the defence taken by the accused. Rather, careful reading of the statement given by DW-1 suggest that on the date of occurrence complainant had gone to the shop of her husband and thereafter she returned to his house along with DW-1. But interestingly, no suggestion worth the name was put to the complainant in the cross-examination to the effect that on the date of occurrence when she was coming from the shop of her husband she was accompanied by DW-1, who also in his statement stated that he met the complainant on the way but he has not stated the place, where the complainant allegedly met him and, as such, in the absence of specific statement with regard to the place where DW-1 had allegedly met the complainant, statement given by DW-1 cannot be relied upon, especially in the teeth of the fact that accused was known to DW-1.

30. In totality of facts and circumstances of the case, as discussed hereinabove, defence put forth by the petitioner-accused deserves out right rejection that he has been falsely implicated by the complainant because as per evidence available on record, there is nothing on record from where it can be inferred that the complainant was inimical to the accused and she had some motive to falsely depose against the accused, rather accused miserably failed to prove by leading cogent evidence on record that there is/was pending litigation between his in-laws as well as parents of the complainant. Had there been any litigation pending between in-laws of accused and parents of petitioner, accused would have definitely made available on record proceedings, if any, allegedly pending in the Court of law.

31. Another arguments having been advanced by the learned counsel representing the petitioner-accused that the complainant herself took the lift from the accused suggest that she is consenting party, deserves to be rejected out rightly, rather needs to be condemned in the given facts and circumstances of the case. It stands specifically proved on record that the complainant and accused had prior acquaintance, which fact gets substantiated from the statement given by the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C, where he himself stated that his in-laws and parents of the complainant had some litigation, meaning thereby statement given by PW-1 is correct that she knew the petitioner-accused since in-laws of accused and her parents are of same village. Rather careful perusal of the evidence available on record compels this Court to presume that the complainant took lift on the scooter of the accused under bona-fide belief that no harm would be caused to her by the accused, since her parents and in laws of the accused are of same village.

32. Another arguments put forth by the learned counsel for the petitioner-accused that both the Courts below have miserably failed to appreciate that there was no intention whatsoever on the part of the accused to outrage the modesty of the complainant appears to be far away from the factual aspect available on the record. PW-1 has candidly stated that petitioner-accused caught hold of her arm and asked to visit her house and oblige him with sexual favour. Moreover, complainant specifically stated that the petitioner-accused in order to outrage her modesty put his hands on the string of her salwar, however she managed to escape. Aforesaid specific and candid statement, which the defence has not been able to shatter during cross-examination, is sufficient enough to conclude that the accused only with a view to outrage the modesty of the complainant gave her lift and later asked for sexual favour.

33. In totality of facts and circumstances as emerges from the record, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused, who has been rightly held guilty for having committed the offence punishable under Section 354 of Indian Penal Code by the learned court below and, as such, this Court sees no reason to interfere with the judgments passed by both the courts below as the same are based on correct appreciation of the evidence available on record.

34. Accordingly, the present criminal revision petition is dismissed being devoid of any merit.

35. Now, adverting to the prayer made by learned counsel for the petitioner-accused that the petitioner-accused being first offender is entitled to the benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act. This Court considering all the aspects of the matter, especially pendency of the present petition, where admittedly petitioner suffered mental agony for almost 10 years, deems it to be fit case where prayer for granting benefit under Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, can be considered. Moreover, while considering the application for compounding of offence moved jointly by both the parties, this Court had an occasion to peruse the averments contained in the application as well as compromise deed, wherein parties resorted to compromise the matter solely with a view to have cordial relation in future. Even complainant, who was present in the Court, stated on oath that she intends to compromise the matter and she does not have any objection in case the accused is acquitted of the charge having been framed against him under Section 354 IPC. However, aforesaid application could not be accepted at this stage, since conviction already was recorded by the trial Court but certainly this Court while examining the case of accused for extending the benefit of Section 4 of the Act can take note of the averments contained in the application as well as compromise entered between the parties, wherein it has specifically come on record that the parties have amicably resolved the matter in order to maintain good relations in the locality.

36. Accordingly, in view of the aforesaid submission made by learned counsel for the petitioner-accused and taking into consideration the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case, wherein parties have compromised the matter at hand, I am of the considered opinion that the present petitioner-accused can be granted benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offender Act. Accordingly, Registry is directed to call for the report of the Probation Officer, Hamirpur, District Hamirpur, HP on or before 5.7.2016.

Registry to list this matter on 30th June, 2016.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J

Ram Lal and Anr. ....Appellants.

Versus

Sudesh Kumar and Ors. ....Respondents.

RSA No. 8 of 2005
Judgment reserved on 31.5.2016
Date of Decision: 14.6.2016.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 20- Plaintiff entered into an agreement with the defendants for purchase of the land- defendants failed to execute the sale deed despite repeated requests- hence, suit was filed for seeking specific performance- suit was dismissed by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was partly allowed - plaintiff was held entitled to refund of Rs. 20,000/- along with interest @ 6% per annum- aggrieved from the judgment, present appeal has been preferred- held, that execution of the agreement was proved- however, witnesses produced by the plaintiff did not establish that plaintiff was ready and willing to perform his part of the agreement- on the other hand, defendants were ready and willing to get sale deed executed in terms of the agreement- plaintiff had not offered to pay remaining amount due to which sale deed could not be executed – agreement was vague as detail of the property to be sold was not mentioned- continuous readiness and willingness is essential for specific performance- specific performance was rightly declined - appeal dismissed. (Para-12 to 28)

P.D.'Souza v. Shondrilo Naidu 2004 (6) Supreme Court Cases 649

For the appellants: Mr. N.K. Thakur, Senior Advocate with Ms. Jamuna, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Satya Vrat Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J.

Present second appeal filed under Section 100 CPC is directed against the judgment dated 3.11.2004, passed by the learned District Judge, Una, HP, in Civil Appeal No. 30 of 2003, titled "Shankar Das deceased now represented by L.Rs. (a) Ram Lal (b) Sham Lal v. Sudesh Kumar and Ors.,", whereby the appeal filed by the present appellants was partly allowed and they were held entitled to refund of Rs.20,000/- with interest @6% p.a. from the date of filing of the suit till its payment.

2. The briefly stated facts necessary for the adjudication of the case are that appellants-plaintiffs filed a suit for specific performance of contract/agreement dated 7.12.1992, executed by the defendants through their father Shri Kishori Lal, General Attorney, for the sale of suit land measuring 39 Kanals 1 Marlas being 1/4th share out of the total land measuring 147 Kanals 6 Marlas, bearing Khewat Nos. 34,36,42,44,45, 46 Khatauni Nos. 41, 44, 66, 69,71, 72, 73 Khasra Kitas 52 as entered in Misal Hakiat Bandobast Jadid Sani for the Year, 1988-89, situated in Up Mahal Chabba Nagar, Mahal Santoshgarh District. Una, H.P. Apart from above, an alternative prayer was made for recovery of Rs.20,000/-.

3. Perusal of the agreement to sell Ext.PW1/A suggests that sale deed was to be executed by or on 15.6.1993. As per averments contained in the plaint, defendants despite several requests, failed to execute the sale deed and as such, plaintiff was compelled to file the suit for specific performance. Defendants by way of written statement refuted the claim of the plaintiff and specifically stated that since plaintiff failed to make payment of balance amount in terms of agreement dated 15.6.1993, they were not under any obligation to get the sale deed executed. However, the fact remains that vide written statement, defendants admitted the execution of the agreement as well as receipt of Rs.10,000/- as earnest money from the plaintiff at the time of entering into aforesaid agreement to sell.

4. Careful perusal of averments contained in the plaint suggests that plaintiff was always ready and willing to get the sale deed executed on or before 15.6.1993 after payment of balance sale consideration but defendants on one pretext or other kept on deferring the execution of the sale deed. As per plaintiff, since defendants were under obligation to get the sale deed executed on or before 15.6.1993, balance payment, if any, in terms of agreement dated 15.6.19993, was to be made at the time of execution of sale deed. Plaintiff also averred that he was handed over the possession of the suit land immediately on 7.12.1992. In the aforesaid pleadings, plaintiff prayed for decree of specific performance of contract/agreement to sell for the execution of sale deed for the land, detail whereof has been given above, and in the alternative decree for recovery of Rs.20,000/- with further interest @12% p.a. The plaintiff also prayed that he may be granted every relief for which he may be found entitled in the instant case. Since defendants failed to get the sale deed executed within stipulated time, plaintiff got the legal notice dated 28.8.1993, served upon him on the address mentioned in the agreement to sell dated 7.12.1992. Though, defendants in their written statement admitted the factum with regard to entering into agreement to sell on 7.12.1992 and receipt of Rs.10,000/-, but specifically denied that plaintiff was ready and willing to perform his part in terms of agreement. It is contended in written statement that failure on the part of the plaintiff to make the payment of balance consideration on or before 15.6.1993 rendered the agreement to sell dated 7.12.1992 null and void and as per the terms of the said agreement, amount of Rs.10,000/- paid as advance also stands forfeited since plaintiff never performed his part of the contract by 15.6.1993. Refusal on the part of the defendants was duly conveyed to the plaintiff in his house complex in presence of the respectable persons of the locality. In his written statement, defendants stated that alleged willingness of the plaintiff after due date after 15.5.1990, carries no meaning and it is denied that plaintiff made repeated requests to defendants to execute the sale deed. Rather on many occasions, defendants requested the plaintiff to make the balance of the consideration so that sale deed is executed on or before 15.6.1993. It is also stated in the written statement that notice dated 28.8.1993, if any, allegedly got served by the plaintiff on the defendants after due date has no bearing or binding on the rights and interests as well as title of the defendants in and over the suit land.

5. Learned trial Court on the basis of pleadings available on record framed following issues:-

> "1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for relief of specific performance of contract on the basis of agreement dated 7.12.1992 and in the alternative for recovery of Rs. 20,000/- as alleged? OPP.
> 2. Whether plaintiff has no locus standi to file the suit as alleged ? OPD.
>
> 3. Whether plaintiff has no cause of action as alleged? OPD.
> 4. Relief."

6. Learned trial Court after appreciating material available on record, dismissed the suit of the plaintiff with costs vide judgment dated 27.2.2003.

7. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the judgment dated 27.2.2003 passed by learned Senior Sub-Judge, District Una, present appellants filed an appeal in the court of learned District Judge, Una, i.e. Civil Appeal No. 30 of 2003. Learned first appellate Court vide judgment dated 3.11.2004 partly allowed the appeal preferred by present appellants, whereby plaintiff(s) was held entitled to refund of Rs.20,000/- with interest @6%p.a. from the date of filing of suit till its payment by Shri Kishori Lal, General attorney to the defendants with costs. Being dissatisfied with the judgment dated 3.11.2004 passed by learned District Judge, Una, as referred above, appellants-plaintiffs filed instant regular second appeal under Section 100 CPC before this Court.

8. This Court vide order dated 7.1.2005 admitted the appeal at hand on following substantial questions of law:-

> "1. Whether the Courts below are legally justified to make out a case for the defendants beyond their pleadings to non-suit the plaintiffs/appellants?
> 2. Where the agreement to sell and receipt of earnest money is admitted, the refusal to grant the decree for specific performance is illegal?

3. Whether the impugned judgments are the result of misconstruction and misinterpretation of law and facts and deserve to be quashed and set-aside?

4. The specific performance of the contract is a rule and refusal is an exception and on this principle of law the contrary judgments of the Courts below are erroneous judgments of the Courts below are erroneous and deserve to be quashed and set aside?

9. Mr. N.K. Thakur, Senior Advocate, duly assisted by Ms. Jamuna, Advocate, representing the appellants, vehemently argued that the judgment passed by the court below, whereby relief of specific performance by way of direction to execute the sale deed has been declined, deserves to be quashed and set aside as the same are against the law and facts available on record. He contended that courts below has not appreciated the evidence available on record in its right perspective, rather, judgment is passed on conjectures and surmises and, as such, deserves to be quashed and set aside. It is contended on behalf of the appellants that both the courts below failed to appreciate the candid admissions made by respondents-defendants in the written statement, whereby factum with regard to execution of the agreement dated 7.12.1992 as well as receipt of Rs.10,000/-, as advance, has been admitted. As per Mr. Thakur, since execution of agreement and receipt of earnest money was admitted by the defendants, courts below had no option but to decree the suit of specific performance of the contract by issuing directions to defendants to execute the sale deed after receipt of balance consideration. He forcefully contended that as per agreement dated 7.12.1992, defendants were bound to get the sale deed executed on or before15.6.1993, after receipt of balance amount of consideration, which was payable at the time of registration of the sale deed. Mr. Thakur, contended that case set up by the defendants in the written statement could not be accepted at all by the courts below because averments contained in the same has not been appreciated by the courts below in light of terms and conditions of the agreement dated 7.12.1992, whereby it was specifically stipulated that balance amount of consideration would be payable by the plaintiff at the time of execution of the sale deed. Since defendant failed to get the sale deed executed well within stipulated time, plaintiff had no occasion, whatsoever to make balance payment of Rs.47,000/-, which was admittedly to be made at the time of execution of sale deed. Mr. Thakur, contended that judgment of lower appellate Court ordering the refund of the earnest money is totally illegal, especially, when it stood proved on record that plaintiffs were ready and willing to perform their part of the agreement on or before stipulated date and in the facts and circumstances as well as evidence led on record, courts below should have directed the respondents to execute the sale deed in terms of agreement. He stated that specific performance is a rule and refusal is an exception. It is contended that when courts below had come to conclusion after appreciating the evidence on record that defendant-respondent cannot be allowed to retain the benefit of the agreement as it would amount to unjust enrichment to the defendants, natural consequence thereof was to pass decree of specific performance against the defendants. During arguments having been made by him, he invited attention of this Court to the judgments passed by the courts below as well as statements made by the witnesses adduced by the parties to demonstrate that courts below misconstrued, mis-read and misinterpreted the facts and law applicable to the facts of the case. He submitted that careful perusal of the judgments passed by the courts blow suggests that court below have gone above the board to set up new case for the defendants. He stated that perusal of the written statement filed by the defendants nowhere suggests that any plea with regard to vagueness, ambiguity and uncertainties in the terms and conditions of agreement were taken by the defendants but both the courts below despite there being no such pleas as referred above, declined the relief of specific performance terming the agreement in question to be vague and evasive. He prayed that in the facts and circumstances as well as discrepancies having been pointed out during the arguments, judgments passed by courts below deserve to be set aside in as much as prayer for grant of relief of specific performance has been declined/ denied by the courts below.

10. Per contra, Shri S.V. Sharma, Advocate, appearing on behalf of the defendants supported the judgments passed by both the courts below. He strenuously argued that material available on record clearly suggests that plaintiff failed to perform its part of the agreement, whereby plaintiff was under obligation to make balance amount of consideration on or before 15.6.1993. Since balance amount of consideration was not paid to the defendants within a stipulated time, defendants were not under obligation to get the sale deed executed in terms of agreement dated 2.12.1992. He forcefully contended that plaintiff has miserably failed to prove that he was ready and willing to perform his part in terms of agreement because none of the witnesses led by the plaintiff has supported the averments contained in the plaint. He contended that though plaintiff has stated that repeated requests were made to the plaintiff to get the sale deed executed but there is nothing on record to conclude that such requests were ever made by the plaintiff. To the contrary, defendants have been able to prove that after a stipulated date 15.6.1993, he in the presence of respectable persons of locality went to the house of Shri Kishori lLal, General Attorney of plaintiff to inform that now after expiry of stipulated date, defendants are not ready and willing to get the sale deed executed as was agreed vide agreement to sale. He further stated that no interference, whatsoever, of this Court is called for in the facts and circumstances of the case, where both the courts below after examining the evidence available on record have rejected the prayer of the plaintiff to issue decree for specific performance against the defendants. He contended that now in view of the judgment passed by the first appellate Court, where the defendants were directed to refund amount of Rs.20,000/- along with 6% interest, prayer made by plaintiff in alternate has been accepted and as such, present appeal is not maintainable.

11. I have heard learned counsel for the parties as well carefully gone through the record.

12. Though, while admitting the instant appeal for hearing, this Court formulated four substantial questions of law, as have been reproduced above, this Court intends to take substantial question No. 2 at the first instance, for its consideration because while critically examining the evidence available on record to answer the question No. 2, question No. 3 would be answered automatically.

13. Careful perusal of the pleadings on record, as have been discussed above, clearly suggests that parties to lis had entered into an agreement to sell for the sale of suit land for total consideration of Rs.57,000/- and a sum of Rs.10,000/- was received by Shri Kishori Lal , General Attorney of defendants as earnest money. It is also not disputed that sale deed was to be executed by or on 15.6.1993 in terms of agreement dated 7.12.1992. As per the case set up by the plaintiff, since defendants failed to get the sale deed executed by 15.6.1993, despite several requests, he was compelled to file suit for specific performance in the court of learned Senior Sub-Judge, Una, whereas defendants while admitting the execution of the agreement as well as receipt of earnest money, denied that despite several requests, defendants failed to get the sale deed executed. To the contrary, defendants set up a case that since plaintiff failed to make balance payment of Rs.47,000/- on or before 15.6.1993, defendants could not get the sale deed executed within stipulated period in terms of contract or agreement to sale dated 7.12.1992. Since factum with regard to execution of the agreement to sell as well as receipt of earnest money is not denied by the defendants, moot question which requires consideration of this Court is that "whether the plaintiff was ready and willing to perform his part on or before 15.6.1993 or not in terms of agreement to sell Ext.PW1/A? Another question, which requires consideration of this Court is that "whether defendants took any steps whatsoever, in terms of agreement dated 7.12.1992 Ext.PW1/A to get the sale deed executed on or before 15.6.1993 as was stipulated in the agreement Ext.PW1/A."

14. Plaintiff with a view to substantiate the averments contained in the plaint examined himself as PW1 and by way of oral deposition reiterated the contents of the plaint. Perusal of the statement made by the plaintiff suggests that agreement Ext.PW1/A was written at the house of Kishori Lal, General Attorney of defendants, who himself scribed the document. It has come in his statement that in year, 1992, defendant agreed to sell the suit land (as discussed above), in favour of plaintiff of the total consideration of Rs.57,000 and Rs.10,000/- was received by defendant in advance as an earnest money. It has also come in his statement that neither he saw the power of attorney executed in favour of attorney namely Kishori Lal nor he perused the revenue papers pertaining to the land at the time of scribing of agreement Ext.PW1/A. He also admitted in the cross-examination that there is no mention in the agreement with regard to extent of land, which was to be sold in terms of agreement Ext.PW1/A. He also stated in his cross-examination that since he has not read the contents of power of attorney, he cannot say whether Kishori lal had any right to execute the agreement to sell. However, in his cross-examination, he stated that he along with Shankar visited the house of Kishori Lal but he was not at home. It has also come in his statement that as per agreement Ext.PW1/A defendants had agreed to sell the whole land situated in Santoshghar, Chabba Nagar, Takhatpur and Jatpur for the total consideration of Rs.57,000/- and earnest money amounting to Rs.10,000/- was paid to the defendant on the spot and remaining balance consideration was to be paid at the time of execution of sale deed, which was to be executed on or before 15.6.1993. It has come in his statement that Kishori Lal was repeatedly asked to get the sale deed executed but Kishori Lal went to Chandigarh and did not execute the sale deed. Then he got the legal notice Ext.PW1/B issued to the defendants, postal receipt whereof is Ext.PW1/C. It has also come in his statement that notice was received back vide Ext.PW1/D along with Ext.PW1/E. He also stated that he is ready and willing to purchase the land after making payment of balance amount. He admitted that he had not seen the record at the time of scribing of agreement to sell i.e. Ext.PW1/A and he had not seen revenue record. He further stated that he did not know as to what extent Santosh Kumari, Naresh Kumar and Parveen Kumari are the owners of the suit land. However, he stated in cross-examination that agreement to sell was for 40-41 kanals. He denied in the cross-examination that agreement to sell was executed by Kishori Lal against the wishes of original owners of the land. It has come in his cross-examination that Kishori Lal had not come to village from 1992 -93 nor he met him in village and Santoshgarh. He also admitted that notices were sent on the address of village, though, he stated in his cross-examination that in the month of June, 1993, he along with Om Parkash had gone to Village Bharolian Kalan.

15. PW2 Shri N.K. Chabha, Advocate District Court proved the signatures of late Shri Om Parkash Kapila, who had signed as witness on the agreement to sell. He in his statement stated that he knew Om Parkash Kapila and he could decipher/was familiar/acquainted with the signatures of Om Parkash Kapila. He stated that signatures encircled with red circle Ext.PW1 is the signature of Sh. Om Parkash Kapila.

16. PW3 Kishori Lal s/o Shri Dheru Ram, supported the version put forth by PW1. He stated that signatures mark-X on the agreement are his signatures and he also supported the version of PW1 with regard to execution of the agreement, whereby suit land was agreed to be sold for the total consideration of Rs.57,000/- and Rs.10,000/- was received as advance by the defendants. He also stated in examination-in-chief that when he signed on that agreement, neither he saw the power of attorney executed in favour of the Kishori Lal nor he saw the revenue papers. He also stated in cross-examination that it is correct that there is no description with regard to land in agreement. He also admitted that there is no mention in the agreement qua the extent of land in a particular village. He also stated in cross-examination that as per agreement, if registry is not executed on or before 15.6.1993, agreement would be rendered meaningless. He also admitted that Kishori Lal had visited the house of Shankar but he did not know for what purpose he had gone to the house of Kishori Lal. He also admitted in his cross-examination that he and Shankar had gone to house of Kishori Lal but he was not at home. He categorically stated that aforesaid narration of facts given by him is of period prior to 15.6.1993. He also admitted that Kishori Lal kept on meeting him after 15.6.1993. He also admitted that "it is correct that Kishori Lal had stated that now Naresh Kumari and Santosh Kumari etc. do not want to sell the land."

17. Conjoint reading of the statements of plaintiff witnesses, as discussed above, suggests that parties entered into an agreement , wherein there is stipulation to get the sale deed executed for the sale of suit land on or before 15th June, 1993. It also emerges from the aforesaid statements that admittedly sale deed was not got executed in terms of agreement Ext.PW1/A within stipulated period. But careful reading of aforesaid witnesses produced by plaintiff nowhere suggests that plaintiff was ready and willing to get the sale deed executed within the stipulated period because save and except bald statement that despite several requests made by plaintiff, defendants failed to execute the sale deed executed in terms of Ext.PW1/A, no material worth the name has been placed on record from where it could be inferred that after execution of agreement Ext.PW1/A, plaintiff made an effort to get the sale deed executed. True, it is that as per agreement, sale deed was to be executed by the defendant after payment of balance consideration amount i.e. Rs.47,000/- but there is nothing more in the statement of PW1 save and except that when defendant was asked to get the sale deed executed, he went to Chandigarh. Moreover, PW3 has nowhere stated that the plaintiff insisted upon the defendant to get the sale deed executed on or before 15.6.1993. Rather careful perusal of the cross-examination of PW3 suggests that defendant visited the house of plaintiff Shankar. It has also emerged from the statement of PW3 that defendant Kishori Lal Kept on meeting even after 15.6.1993, which suggests that defendant namely Kishori Lal was ready and willing to get the sale deed executed in terms of agreement. Conjoint reading of statements given by PWs 1 and PW3 nowhere suggests that any effort, whatsoever, was made by the plaintiff to persuade the defendant to get the sale deed executed in terms of agreement. Though balance amount of consideration was to be paid at the time of execution of sale deed but definitely, plaintiff was to express his willingness to purchase the land to the defendant by telling him that he is ready with the balance amount of consideration as agreed in terms of agreement so that defendant could get the sale deed executed. Since the very element of readiness and willingness is completely missing in the statements rendered by PW1 and PW3 as well as averments made in plaint, it cannot be accepted that plaintiff was actually ready and willing to perform his part. Admittedly, there is nothing on record suggestive of the fact that plaintiff ever expressed his readiness and willingness to the defendant with regard to the execution of the sale deed after payment of balance amount of consideration. Though, perusal of the agreement in question suggests that balance amount of consideration was to be paid at the time of registration of sale deed but for that plaintiff was expected to inform defendant either by words or by some written communication disclosing therein that he is ready with the balance amount of consideration and as such sale deed may be got executed in terms of agreement.

18. To the contrary, if the statement of DW1 Kishori Lal, General Attorney, of defendants is seen, who categorically denied that notice was ever received by him and plaintiff repeatedly asked him to execute the sale deed after getting balance amount of consideration. Careful perusal of cross-examination of DW2 clearly suggests defendant No. 1 stuck to his statement, which he made in examination-in-chief, wherein he categorically denied the suggestion that plaintiff had offered balance amount of consideration and he dilly-dallied. He also stated in his cross-examination that after his retirement, he sometimes resides in village and sometimes in Chandigarh.

19. DW2 Baldev Chand also stated that defendant Kishori Lal repeatedly asked the plaintiff to make payment of balance amount of consideration but plaintiff did not take any interest. He categorically stated that in 1993, he along with Kishori Lal went to the house of plaintiff and informed him that since date of agreement has expired, he may treat the agreement to sell cancelled. In his cross-examination, he stated that in the end of June, 1993, he along with defendant had gone to the house of plaintiff to refuse plaintiff. He denied that plaintiff ever stated that he is ready and willing to execute the sale deed after taking balance amount of consideration. He also denied that Kishori Lal defendant dilly-dallied.

20. From conjoint reading of statements given by defendants No. 1 and 2, it clearly emerges that defendant was ready and willing to perform his part but since no offer, whatsoever, with regard to payment of balance of consideration had come from plaintiff, sale deed could not be executed, rather factum with regard to informing the plaintiff by defendant that he was no more interested in execution of the sale deed after expiry of stipulated period duly stands proved on record in view of the statement given by these two defendant witnesses. It has specifically come in the statement of these two defendant witnesses that defendants were ready and willing to perform their part for execution of the agreement in question in terms of agreement to sell Ext.PW1/A. As has been observed above that, in the given facts and circumstances, plaintiff was expected to express willingness by way of offering balance amount of consideration to the defendant that too before 15.6.1993 to enable defendant to execute the sale deed in terms of agreement but in the present case, there is no evidence worth the name available on record to suggest that plaintiff actually expressed any willingness by offering money to defendant before 15.6.1993 and, as such, it cannot be said that defendants failed to perform their part as far as execution of the agreement in question is concerned. Moreover, careful reading of the statement given by PWs1, PW3 and the agreement Ext.PW1/A suggests that admittedly there were no specific details with regard to land proposed to be sold in agreement in question. Rather, careful reading of the statements made by these plaintiff witnesses suggests that factum with regard to authority, if any, in favour of defendant to sell the land, which admittedly belonged to his children, was never ascertained by the plaintiff at the time of scribing of the agreement to sell. Undisputedly, there is no specific detail with regard to land proposed to be sold by defendant and, as such, finding returned by both the courts below that agreement in question is vague, uncertain, ambiguous and evasive cannot be faulted with because admittedly, no decree for specific performance could be granted by courts on the basis of vague agreement, wherein no detail whatsoever with regard to the suit land has been mentioned. No decree, as prayed for, by the plaintiff could be granted by the court below on the basis of agreement in question in the absence of specific details of the property. Plaintiff by way of suit prayed for decree of specific performance against the defendant to get the sale deed executed in terms of agreement or in alternative suit for recovery of Rs.20,000/-. In the present case on the basis of documents available on record as well as statements made by the plaintiff witnesses, certainly no decree for specific performance could be issued however alternative prayer as was made by the plaintiff has been granted by the learned first appellate Court, whereby direction has been issued to defendant to pay amount of Rs.20,000/- along with 6 % interest. In other words, in view of the decision rendered by the first appellate Court, alternative prayer made by plaintiff has been accepted by the first appellate Court.

21. In view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that plaintiff has not been able to prove on record that he was ready and willing to perform his part in terms of agreement to sell Ext.PW 1/A. To the contrary, defendant by leading cogent, convincing and reliable evidence has established on record that they were ready and willing to perform their part in terms of agreement for execution of sale deed but since no amount in the shape of balance amount of consideration was offered, there was no occasion for defendant to get sale deed executed on or before stipulated date. Moreover, as has been discussed in detail above, plaintiff has not led any evidence on record to suggest that he had taken any steps to perform his part in terms of agreement to sell. Save and except bald statement that plaintiff repeatedly asked defendant to get the sale deed executed, there is no material on record, which could persuade this Court to accept the contention of the appellants that defendants dilly-dallied and purposely did not get the sale deed executed in terms of agreement Ext.PW1.

22. By now, it is well settled principle that in a suit for specific performance of contract, it the duty of the plaintiff to aver and prove that he was ready and willing to perform the essential terms of contract because specific performance of a contract cannot be enforced in the absence of specific averment with regard to readiness and willingness to perform his part in terms of contract but at the same time, onus is always upon the plaintiff to prove that he was or has always been ready and willing to perform his part in terms of the contract. Mere statement that he was always ready and willing to perform his part may not be sufficient to prove that he was ready and willing to perform his part in terms of agreement, rather, plaintiff to prove that he was /is ready and willing to perform his part is required to show from his conduct that he actually made an effort to perform his part in terms of the agreement/contract. Factum whether plaintiff was ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract is required to be determined by taking into consideration the entirety of the circumstance, the conduct of parties as well as terms of the contract. In the present case, save and except, statement given by the plaintiff that he was ready and willing to perform his part of contract cannot be termed sufficient for granting decree of specific performance. In the present case, plaintiff has neither placed on record any document suggesting that he took some initiative to make balance amount of consideration to the defendant, which would have further compelled defendant to get the sale deed executed in terms of the agreement in question nor plaintiff led any oral evidence on record to suggest that he, before the expiry of stipulated date, went to defendant offering him balance amount of consideration to express readiness and willingness to perform his part of agreement rather, he stated in examination-in-chief that he repeatedly asked defendant to get the sale deed executed but he dilly-dallied. He nowhere stated that he informed the defendant that he is ready and willing with the balance amount of consideration and he nowhere stated that he asked the defendant to come before the Sub-Registrar for registration of sale deed in terms of agreement in question. Hence, this Court merely on the basis of statement of plaintiff that he was ready and willing to perform his part, cannot accept the plea of readiness and willingness put forth by the plaintiff. In this regard, reliance is placed upon the judgment rendered in Kirpal Singh v. Mst. Kartaro and others. AIR 1980 Rajasthan 212. The relevant paras of which read as under:-

> 9. It is well established that in a suit for specific performance of the contract it is the duty of the plaintiff to aver and prove that he was and is ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract. In this connection reference may be made to Section 16(c) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 (which will hereinafter be referred to as 'the Act'), which provides that specific performance of a contract cannot be enforced in favour of a person who fails to aver and prove that he was or has always been ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract which are to be performed by him, other than terms the performance of which has been prevented or waived by the defendant. An explanation has further been appended to Sub-section (c) which reads as under:--
> "Explanation. For the purposes of Clause (c):
>
> (i) Where a contract involves the payment of money, it is not essential for the plaintiff to actually tender to the defendant or to deposit in court any money except when so directed by the court;
>
> (ii) The plaintiff must aver performance of, or readiness and willingness to perform, the contract according to its true construction."
> 10. Clause (c) is a new one. It lays down a condition precedent to the enforcement of specific performance of a contract. It is based on the maxim 'he who seeks equity, must do equity' and more so in the cases of specific performance. We have, therefore, to see whether the plaintiff has complied with this essential requirement of law for seeking specific performance. In para No. 1 3 of the plaint it has been alleged that the plaintiff paid to the defendant Rupees 2000/- as earnest money or a part of the purchase price on 2-9-1967 and demanded the possession of a part of the land as stipulated on 13-1-1968, but the defendant did not hand over the possession of the same. It is also alleged that in accordance with the terms of the agreement the plaintiff was always ready and willing to get the sale deed registered on payment of Rs. 10,960/-, balance of the sale price and called upon the defendant several times to accept the money and execute the sale deed and get it registered but the defendant went on evading. It is further stated, that on 13-1-1968 he asked the defendant to execute the sale deed, but the defendant did not comply, nor got the sale deed registered on 15-1-1968 as agreed between the parties, and that on 15-1-1968 he went to the office of the Registrar or Sub-Registrar, Ganganagar, by whatever designation he may be called, with the sale money, but the defendant did not turn up, and thus the defendant neither executed the sale deed nor got it registered. He has also alleged that he has been always ready and will-ins to perform his part of the contract, and is even now ready and willing to do so, but the defendant has committed breach of agreement. In the written statement the defendant, in the first instance, took the plea that he had not received Rs. 2000/- at the time of execution of the document, a plea which was negatived by the trial court and not argued either before the learned Single Judge or before us and then while replying to para No. 3 it was pleaded as below:--

"Para No. 3 of the plaint is denied. The plaintiff did not pay any amount and hence no question arises of delivering possession of the land to him. The defendant is in possession of his land in dispute as usual. All the allegations contained in para No. 3 of the plaint are denied."

11. It may be noticed that the defendant has not specifically denied the various allegations made by the plaintiff in para No. 3 of the plaint. On the other hand a general denial has been made. Order 8, Rule 3, Code of Civil Procedure lays down that it shall not be sufficient for a defendant in his written statement to deny generally the grounds alleged by the plaintiff but the defendant must deal specifically with each allegation of fact of which he does not admit the truth except damages. Rule 5 further provides that every allegation of fact in the plaint if not denied specifically or by necessary implication or stated to be not admitted in the pleading of the defendant shall be taken to be admitted except as against a person under disability. Now, in the present case, no doubt, there is a general denial of the allegations contained in para 3 of the plaint. But there is a specific denial only with respect to receiving Rs. 2000/- at the time of execution of the document. A number of other material allegations contained in that para have not been specifically denied. It is also significant that no issue has been struck on the question whether the plaintiff was ready and willing to perform his part of the contract. However, since in the eye of law the plaintiff is bound to aver and prove the same we must look into the evidence to find out whether the allegation made by the plaintiff as to his readiness and willingness to perform hia part of the contract has been proved. But while doing so. we cannot lose sight of the fact that the defendant's denial in this respect is evasive. P. W. 2 plaintiff Kirpal Singh has stated that he was ready and willing to get the sale deed registered in accordance with the terms of the agreement but the defendant did not comply. He further states that he went to the Registrar's office on the appointed date for getting the sale deed registered, but the defendant did nol turn up. He also states that he took the money with him, but the defendant was trying to back out of the agreement as the prices of the land had gone up. However, he wants the land. In the course of cross-examination he has stated that he had not given any written notice to the defendant for getting the sale deed registered but he did go to the defendant's house many a times. On the other hand, D. W. 1 Gujar Singh defendant has not said a word in this respect.

12. Mr. Hastimal has strenuously urged that the plaintiff has not supported in his statement the various allegations contained in para 3 of the plaint, and that there is nothing to show that he had purchased the stamps for execution of the sale deed and had also got prepared a draft of the sale deed. His contention is that these are the essential terms of the contract which the plaintiff was required to perform, and since he did not do so, he is not entitled to enforce specific performance. We are, however, unable to accept this contention. In order to find out whether the plaintiff was ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract which he was required to perform, we have to take into consideration the entirety of circumstances, the conduct of the parties, and the essential terms of the contract.

14. Coming to the essential terms of the contract, Mr. Hastimal placed great reliance on two decisions of this Court: Mst. Suraj Bai v. Nawab Mohammad Mukarram Ali Khan, ILR (.1969) 19 Raj 508 and Dhanbai v. Pherozshah, 1970 Raj LW 594 in support of his contention that the defendant should have purchased the stamps for execution of the sale deed and should have also got prepared a draft of sale deed. It is important to note that in the agreement Ex. 1 it is nowhere provided that the plaintiff would purchase the stamps and would also get prepared a draft of the sale deed. Thus these are not the essential terms of the contract. It is true that under the T. P. Act unless there is a contract to the contrary it is the duty of the buyer to pay for the stamps as well as to get a draft of the sale deed prepared. But in the facts and circumstances of the case, we are of the opinion that this was not the essential term of the contract. But apart from that the stage for purchasing the stamps and getting a draft prepared was not at all arrived at in this case, inasmuch as it is not the defendant's case that he wanted to execute the sale deed but was prevented from doing so on account of the omission on the part of the plaintiff to provide money for purchasing stamps and getting! a draft of the sale deed prepared. In this' view of the matter the rationale of the decision in Mst. Suraj Bai v. Nawab Mohammad Mukarram Ali Khan has no application to the facts of this case. So also in Dhanbai v. Pherozshah, there was no allegation contained in the plaint that the plaintiff was always ready and willing to perform his part of the contract. Learned counsel also relied upon Ardeshir v. Flora Sassoon, AIR 1928 PC 208; Gomathinayagam Pillai v. Palaniswami Nadar AIR 1967 SC 868, as also a few cases of other High Courts: Bishwanath v. Janki Devi, AIR 1978 Pat 190, G. Shivayya v. Shivappa Basappa, AIR 1978 Kant 98, Mahmood Khan v. Ayub Khan, AIR 1978 All 463 and Andhra Paper Mills v. State of Andhra, AIR 1961 Andh Pra 57. But we do not consider it necessary to discuss these cases, as, in our opinion, the law is well settled that the plaintiff must aver and prove that he was ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract which he was required to perform. However, it depends upon the facts and circumstances of each case whether the plaintiff has averred and proved this essential requirement of law. In this connection we may refer to Ramesh Chandra v. Chuni Lal, AIR 1971 SC 1238 wherein their Lordships were pleased to observe as follows :--

"Our attention has been invited to a statement in Halsbury's Laws of England, Vol. 34, Third Edn. at page 338 that in the absence of agreement to the contrary it is the purchaser who has to prepare the draft conveyance and submit it to the vendor for approval. No such point was raised at any prior stage and in any case we do not consider that after the cancellation of the agreement by the respondents it was necessary or incumbent on the appellants to send any draft conveyance. The very fact that they promptly filed the suit shows their keenness and readiness in the matter of acquiring the plot by purchase..... Readiness and willingness cannot be treated as a strait-jacket formula. These have to be determined from the entirety of facts and circumstances relevant to the intention and conduct of the party concerned. In our judgment there was nothing to indicate that the appellants at any stage were not ready and willing to perform their part of the contract."

23. Reliance is also placed upon the judgment rendered in J.P. Builders and another v. A. Ramadas Rao and Anr., 2011 (1) SCC 429, the paras are reproduced as below:-

"Readiness and Willingness

20. Section 16(c) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 provides for personal bars to relief. This provision states that:

"16. Personal bars to relief.-Specific performance of a contract cannot be enforced in favour of a person--,

a) who would not be entitled to recover compensation for its breach; or

b) who has become incapable of performing, or violates any essential term of, the contract that on his part remains to be performed, or acts in fraud of the contract, or wilfully acts at variance with, or in subversion of, the relation intended to be established by the contract; or

c) who fails to aver and prove that he has performed or has always been ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract which are to be performed by him, other than terms the performance of which has been prevented or waived by the defendant.

Explanation.- For the purposes of clause (c),-*

(i) where a contract involves the payment of money, it is not essential for the plaintiff to actually tender to the defendant or to deposit in court any money except when so directed by the court;

(ii) the plaintiff must aver performance of, or readiness and willingness to perform, the contract according to its true construction."

22. The words "ready" and "willing" imply that the person was prepared to carry out the terms of the contact. The distinction between "readiness" and "willingness" is that the former refers to financial capacity and the latter to the conduct of the plaintiff wanting performance. Generally, readiness is backed by willingness.

23. In N.P. Thirugnanam vs. Dr. R. Jagan Mohan Rao & Ors., (1995) 5 SCC 115 at para 5, this Court held: (SCCpp. 117-18)

"5.....Section 16(c) of the Act envisages that plaintiff must plead and prove that he had performed or has always been ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract which are to be performed by him, other than those terms the performance of which has been prevented or waived by the defendant. The continuous readiness and willingness on the part of the plaintiff is a condition precedent to grant the relief of specific performance. This circumstance is material and relevant and is required to be considered by the court while granting or refusing to grant the relief. If the plaintiff fails to either aver or prove the same, he must fail. To adjudge whether the plaintiff is ready and willing to perform his part of the contract, the court must take into consideration the conduct of the plaintiff prior and subsequent to the filing of the suit alongwith other attending circumstances. The amount of consideration which he has to pay to the defendant must of necessity be proved to be available. Right from the date of the execution till date of the decree he must prove that he is ready and has always been willing to perform his part of the contract. As stated, the factum of his readiness and willingness to perform his part of the contract is to be adjudged with reference to the conduct of the party and the attending circumstances. The court may infer from the facts and circumstances whether the plaintiff was always ready and willing to perform his part of the contract."

24. It is ample clear from the judgment (supra) that words “ready” and “willing” implies that person was prepared to carry out the terms of the contract and readiness refers to financial capacity whereas willingness refers to conduct of the plaintiff wanting performance. In the present case, as has been discussed above, plaintiff has failed to prove on record that he, at any point of time before expiry of stipulated period, informed the defendant that he was ready with the balance amount of consideration and, as such, sale deed may be got executed in terms of agreement.

25. As has been held in judgment referred herein above, the continuous readiness and willingness on the part of the plaintiff is a condition precedent to grant the relief of specific performance and to adjudge the readiness and willingness on the part of the plaintiff, conduct of the plaintiff prior and subsequent to filing of the suit is very important. The amount of consideration, which the plaintiff was supposed to pay as balance amount of consideration was necessarily proved to be available, which could only be ascertained from the conduct of the plaintiff. In the present case, plaintiff, save and except making statement that he was ready and willing to perform his part, has not led any cogent and convincing material on record, which can compel this Court to infer that plaintiff was ready and willing to perform his part of the contract.

Rather, PW3 in his statement nowhere supported the version of PW1 with regard to repeated requests allegedly made by the plaintiff to the defendant for execution of the sale deed in terms of the agreement to sell, rather, he stated that plaintiff had visited the house of defendants but he did not know the purpose of the visit. Moreover, PW1 himself stated that when he tried to contact the defendant, he went to Chandigarh, meaning thereby, willingness and readiness was never conveyed to the defendant. It also remains fact that legal notice sent to the defendant by the plaintiff was received unserved by the plaintiff.

26. In the present case, learned first appellate Court while partly allowing the appeal preferred by present appellant ordered refund of Rs.20,000/- in terms of the agreement in question. Perusal of the agreement Ext.PW1/A suggests that amount of Rs. 10,000/- was required to be forfeited in the event of nonpayment of balance amount of consideration by the plaintiff on or before stipulated date. In the present case, as emerges from the evidence available on record that plaintiff has miserably failed to prove that he had performed his part of agreement by expressing his readiness and willingness but despite that alternative prayer of the plaintiff for decree for recovery of Rs. 20,000/- has been accepted by the Court and as such, this Court sees no reason to interfere with the judgments passed by the courts below. Hon'ble Apex Court while dealing with different types of agreements specifically held that "Where the sum named is an amount the payment of which may be substituted for the performance of the act at the election of the person by whom the money is to be paid or the act done", there is no ground for the Court to compel the performance of the other alternative of the contract. In the present case, where there is a specific stipulation in the agreement in question that in the event of not making balance amount of consideration within stipulated period, earnest money paid at the time of execution of agreement to sell would be forfeited and in the event of non registration of sale deed by defendant within stipulated period, plaintiff would be entitled to double the amount of earnest money. Learned first appellate Court has already ordered for payment of Rs.20,000/- in favour of the plaintiff and as such in view of the specific condition laid down in the agreement to sell, plaintiff is not entitled to specifically ask for decree specific performance calling upon the defendant to execute sale deed in favour of the plaintiff. In this regard, reliance is also placed upon the judgment rendered in P.D.'Souza v. Shondrilo Naidu 2004 (6) Supreme Court Cases 649. The paras are reproduced as below:-

> 29. Clause (7) of the Agreement of Sale would be attracted only in a case where the vendor is in breach of the term. It was for the plaintiff to file a suit for specific performance of contract despite having any option to invoke the said provision. It would not be correct to contend that only because such a clause exists, a suit for specific performance of contract would not be maintainable.
> 30. Section 23 of the Specific Relief Act, 1968 read as under :
>
> > "23. (1) A contract, otherwise, proper to be specifically enforced, may be so enforced, though a sum be named in it as the amount to be paid in case of its breach and the party in default is willing to pay the same, if the court, having regard to the terms of the contract and other attending circumstances, is satisfied that the sum was named only for the purpose of securing performance of the contract and not for the purpose of giving to the party in default an option of paying money in lieu of specific performance.
> > (2) When enforcing specific performance under this section, the court shall not also decree payment of the sum so named in the contract."
> 31. In M.L. Devender Singh & Ors. v. Syed Khaja, [1974] l SCR 312, the following statement of law appears: (SCC p. 522, para 16)
> > "The question always is: What is the contract? is it that one certain act shall be done, with a sum annexed, whether by way of penalty or damages, to secure the performance of this very act? Or, is it that one of the two things shall be done at the election of the party who has to perform the contract, namely, the performance of the act or the payment of the sum of money? If the former, the fact of the penal or other like sum being annexed will not prevent the Court's enforcing performance of the very act, and thus carrying into execution the intention of the parties; if the latter, the contract is satisfied by the payment of a sum of money, and there is no ground for proceeding against the party having the election to compel the performance of the other alternative.

From what has been said it will be gathered that contracts of the kind now under discussion are divisible into three classes:

> (i) Where the sum mentioned is strictly a penalty-a sum named by way of securing the performance of the contract, as the penalty is a bond;
> (ii) Where the sum named is to be paid liquidated damages for a breach of the contract;
> (iii) Where the sum named is an amount the payment of which may be substituted for the performance of the act at the election of the person by whom the money is to be paid or the act done.

Where the stipulated payment comes under either of the two first - mentioned heads, the Court will enforce the contract, if in other respects it can and ought to be enforced just in the same way as a contract not to do a particular act, with a penalty added to secure its performance or a sum named as liquidated damages, may be specifically enforced by means of an injunction against breaking it. On the other hand, where the contract comes under the third head, it is satisfied by the payment of the money, and there is no ground for the Court to compel the specific performance of the other alternative of the contract."

> "20. The fact that the parties themselves have provided a sum to be paid by the party breaking the contract does not, by itself, remove the strong presumption contemplated by the use of the words "unless and until the contrary is proved". The sufficiency or insufficiency of any evidence to remove such a presumption is a matter of evidence. The fact that the parties themselves specified a sum of money to be paid in the event of its breach is, no doubt, a piece of evidence to be considered in deciding whether the presumption has been repelled or not. But, in our opinion, it is nothing more than a piece of evidence. It is not conclusive or decisive.
> 21. The second assumption underlying the contentions on behalf the Defendants-Appellants is that, once the presumption, contained in explanation to Section 12 of the old Act, is removed, the bar contained in Section 21 of the old Act, against the specific enforcement of a contract for which compensation in money is an adequate relief, automatically operates, overlooks that the condition for the imposition of the bar is actual proof that compensation in money is adequate on the facts and circumstances of a particular case before the Court. The effect of the presumption is that the party coming to Court for the specific performance of a contract for sale of immovable property need not prove anything until the other side has removed the presumption. After evidence is led to remove the presumption, the plaintiff may still be in a position to prove by other evidence in the case, that payment of money does not compensate him adequately."

41. Raju, J. in the fact and circumstance of the matter obtaining therein held that it would not only be unreasonable but too inequitable for courts to make the appellant the sole beneficiary of the escalation of real estate prices and the enhanced value of the flat in question preserved all along by the respondents No. l and 2 by keeping alive the issues pending with the authorities of the Government and the municipal body. It was in the facts and circumstances of the case held :

> "23...Specific performance being an equitable relief, balance of equities have also to be struck taking into account all these relevant aspects of the matter, including the lapses which occurred and parties respectively responsible therefor. Before decreeing specific performance, it is obligatory for courts to consider whether by doing so any unfair advantage would result for the plaintiff over the defendant, the extent of hardship that may be caused to the defendant and if it would render such enforcement inequitable, besides taking into (sic consideration) the totality of circumstances of each case...."

42. The Court for arriving at the said finding gave opportunities to the parties to settle the matter and the respondents No. l and 2 were prepared to pay upto Rs. 60 lakhs as against the demand of the appellant to the fine of rupees one and a half crores which was subsequently reduced upto Rs. 120 lakhs. In view of the respective stand taken by the parties, the Court inter alia directed the respondents No. l and 2 to pay a sum of Rs. 40 lakhs in addition to the sum already paid by them.

43. Bhan, J. however, while expressing his dissention in part observed: (SCCpp.506&507, paras 38 & 40)

> "38. It is well-settled that in case of contract for sale of immovable property the grant of relief of specific performance is a rule and its refusal an exception based on valid and cogent grounds. Further, the defendant cannot take advantage of his own wrong and then plead that decree for specific performance would be an unfair advantage to the plaintiff.
> 40. Escalation of price during the period may be a relevant consideration under certain circumstances for either refusing to grant the decree of specific performance or for decreeing the specific performance with a direction to the plaintiff to pay an additional amount to the defendant and compensate him. It would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case."

27. Consequently in view of the detail discussion made herein above, this Court is of the view no decree of specific performance, whatsoever can be granted merely on the basis of admission by defendant with regard to existence of agreement to sell as well as receipt of earnest money in the absence of cogent and specific evidence led on record by the plaintiff that he was ready and willing to perform his part in terms of agreement to sell, which is admitted by the defendant. In the present case, there is no material worth the name to suggest that the plaintiff performed his part by actually offering balance amount of consideration, which was condition precedent for execution of the sale deed in terms of agreement to sell. Mere plea that defendant was repeatedly asked by plaintiff to execute the sale deed may not be sufficient for plaintiff to discharge his onus, which was admittedly on plaintiff to prove that he had performed his part in terms of agreement. Accordingly, substantial question of law No. 2 is answered accordingly. Since this Court while answering substantial question of law No. 2 examined evidence on record in detail, it can be safely concluded that judgments passed by the courts below are based on correct appreciation of material evidence available on record and there is no mis-construction and mis-interpretation of law as has been alleged by the plaintiff in the present appeal. Hence, question No. 3 is also answered accordingly. While examining the evidence on record, this court had also occasion to peruse the impugned judgments passed by the courts below and it cannot be said in any manner that courts below have gone above the board to make the case for the defendants, rather, careful perusal of the judgments passed by the both the courts below suggests that same are based upon the evidence available on record, which certainly suggests that agreement to sell which has been sought to be enforced is vague, uncertain, ambiguous and evasive because no description of land proposed to be sold, has been given and as such courts below have rightly refused to grant decree of specific performance as prayed by the plaintiff in the absence of specific details of the suit land.

28. There can be no quarrel with regard to the principle “specific performance is a rule and refusal is an exception” but as has emerged from the evidence available on record, plaintiff has failed to establish that he was ever ready and willing to perform his part in terms of agreement to sell dated 7.12.1992 and, as such, no decree for specific performance, as prayed for, by the plaintiff could be granted by the courts below. Rather, careful perusal of the evidence led by the defendants leaves no doubt in the mind of this court that defendants were ready and willing to execute the sale deed in terms of agreement to sell but since no readiness and willingness was expressed by PW1 and no steps whatsoever, in the shape of offering balance amount of consideration were taken by the plaintiff and as such, no fault can be found with the judgments passed by the both the Courts below. Rather, learned appellate court held plaintiff entitled to refund of Rs.20,000/- along with interest from the date of filing of the suit in terms of agreement to sell despite there being overwhelming evidence on record that defendant were ready and willing to perform their part in terms of agreement. Accordingly, this Court sees no illegality and infirmity in the judgments passed by both the courts below and same accordingly deserve to be upheld. Present appeal is dismissed being devoid of any merit.

(Para-12 to 32)

Case referred:

Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case241

For the Petitioner : Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate General.
For the Respondents : Ms. Leena Guleria, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge (Oral)

Present Criminal Revision Petition under Section 397, 401 read with Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is directed against the judgment dated 1.7.2008, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, HP in Criminal Appeal No.31 of 2007, whereby appeal preferred by the present petitioner has been dismissed being not maintainable.

2. Briefly stated facts necessary for the adjudication of the present case are that the complainant Smt. Bimla Devi, filed a complaint Ex.PW1/A before the Deputy Commissioner, Hamirpur on 15th November, 1999 specifically alleging therein that despite there being specific complaint to the police, police did not take any action on the telephonic report of the complainant. The Deputy Commissioner, Hamirpur forwarded the complaint Ex.PW1/A to Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Nadaun, who further forwarded the same to SHO Police Station, Nadaun for taking action in accordance with law. Pursuant to direction issued by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, SHO Police Station, Nadaun registered FIR Ex.PW6/A. As per story of the prosecution, on 14th November, 1999, at about 7.30 PM, when the complainant had gone to toilet on the back side of the kitchen of her house, accused namely Kamal Singh put torch light on the complainant and attacked her and torn her clothes. It is also alleged that when complainant raised hue and cry, Anjana, Sanjay Kumar as well as Bittu and the wife of accused Smt. Kaushalya Devi reached the spot. Smt. Kaushalya Devi, wife of the accused, who was holding danda in her hand started giving beatings to the complainant and hurled abuses to her.

3. As per the case set up by the prosecution when the daughter of the complainant raised hue and cry, the accused fled away from the spot, however, while leaving the spot they threatened the complainant to do away with her life. Complainant also reported to the police that after incident her daughter telephonically informed the police but police did not take any action and, as such, complainant was forced to file complaint Ex.PW1/A in the office of the Deputy Commissioner, Hamirpur. It also finds mention in the report that accused had a quarrel with them on 12.10.1999 about which separate complaint was registered with the police. Subsequently, on the direction having been issued by the Sub Divisional Magistrate, police registered FIR Ex.PW6/A, dated 16.11.1999. After registration of the FIR, police visited the spot and prepared spot map Ex.PW3/A. Police also took into possession shirt Ex.P1 and broken pieces of bangles Ex.P2, which were produced before the police by the complainant Smt. Bimla Devi. Aforesaid articles were taken into possession vide memo Ex.PW1/B in the presence of witnesses namely Smt. Sunita Kumari(PW-5) and Saroj Kumari(PW-2). Police recorded the statements of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C as per their version. Police after completion of the investigation, prepared the challan and submitted the same before the competent Court of law.

4. Learned trial Court after satisfying itself that a prima facie case exist against the accused persons, framed charges under Sections 447, 354, 504, 506 read with Section 34 of Indian Penal Code against them, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

5. In the present case, prosecution with a view to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt examined as many as six witnesses. Statement of accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C was also recorded, wherein they denied whole story of the prosecution and stated that they have been falsely implicated in the case. However, they led no evidence in their defence.

6. Learned trial Court after appreciating the material evidence available on record held that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused persons under Sections 354, 447, 504, 506 read with Section 34 of Indian Penal Code and accordingly both the accused were acquitted of the charges.

7. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the impugned judgment of acquittal of learned trial Court, present petitioner filed an appeal under Section 374 Cr.P.C in the Court of learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, H.P, however, same was dismissed by learned Sessions Judge, as being not maintainable. Learned Sessions Judge, while dismissing the appeal preferred by the present petitioner has held as under:-

> "It will noted from the impugned judgment that the accused persons-appellants were facing trial in the court below for having committed offences punishable under Sections 447, 504 & 506 read with Section 34 IPC and Section 354 I.P.C. All such offences are either "non-cognizable" or " bailable". It is provided in Section 378, Cr.P.C that an appeal against the order of acquittal may be presented to the court of Sessions against the order passed by a Magistrate in respect of a "Cognizable" and "Non-bailable" offence, and in other cases, the appeal lies in Hon'ble High Court. But, in the case in hand, none of the offences, for which the accused persons-appellants were facing trial was " Non-bailable" and "Cognizable" All such offences are either " bailable" or Non-Cognizable" or " Non-bailable and " non-cognizable". Therefore, the present appeal is not maintainable in the court of Sessions".

8. Hence, the present criminal revision petition.

9. Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the petitioner-State vehemently argued that the judgment passed by learned first Appellate Court is against facts as well as law and hence same deserves to be quashed and set-aside. He contended that learned First Appellate Court while dismissing the appeal on the ground of maintainability has fallen in grave error because learned first appellate Court has failed to take into consideration that in exercise of powers vested under Sub-Section 2 of Section 10 of Criminal Amendment Act, 1932, the Governor of H.P. vide notification No. Home-11(E)S-510/80, dated 6.9.1980, declared the Section 506 IPC committed within the territory of State of HP shall be " non-bailable" and " cognizable". In view of the amendment, Section 506 IPC is "non-bailable" and 'cognizable' offence. He further submitted that learned first appellate Court failed to take note of Section 155(4) Cr.P.C, which provides that if one of the offence is cognizable; the case shall be deemed to be a cognizance case, notwithstanding that the other offences are non-cognizable. He forcibly contended that once offence under Section 506 IPC has been held to be non-bailable and cognizable offence, dismissal of the appeal preferred by the present petitioner-State on the ground of maintainability is not tenable and, as such, same deserves to be quashed and set-aside . He further contended that learned Courts below have miserably failed to appreciate ample evidence on record which was sufficient to connect the accused with the commission of the offences and the accused have been discharged on flimsy ground and, as such, grave injustice has been caused to the petitioner and he prayed that the judgments passed by both the Courts below deserve to be quashed and set-aside.

10. Per contra, Ms. Leena Guleria, learned counsel representing the accused-respondents, supported the judgments passed by both the Courts below. She vehemently argued that no Interference, whatsoever, of this Court is required in the present facts and circumstances of the case because judgments passed by both the Courts below are based on the correct appreciation of the evidence available on record. During arguments having been made by her, she invited the attention of the Court to the statements of various material prosecution witnesses to demonstrate the material contradictions and inconsistencies in the depositions made before the Court. She forcibly contended that learned first appellate Court has rightly dismissed the appeal of the petitioner-State being not maintainable because bare perusal of Sections 447, 354, 504 and 506 read with section 34 IPC suggest that some of them are cognizable and whereas some are non-cognizable offences. She further submitted that though petitioner- State had not taken specific plea of notification issued by the Government of H.P, declaring the Section 506 IPC non-cognizable and cognizable offences but even then section 155(4) Cr.P.C is not attracted in the present case solely for the reason that the appeal under Section 378 Cr.P.C can only be filed in the Court of sessions from an order of acquittal passed by a Magistrate in respect of cognizable and non-bailable offence.

11. I have heard the learned counsel representing the parties and have carefully gone through the record made available.

12. Since Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General has specifically invited the attention of this Court to the notification No. Home-11(E)5-510/80,dated 6.9.1980, whereby Governor of Himachal Pradesh in exercise of powers vested under him under Sub-section 2 of Section 10 of Criminal Amendment Act, 1932 has declared that Section 506 IPC committed within territory of State of Himachal Pradesh shall be non-bailable and cognizable offence, it would be appropriate for this Court to deal with the issue of maintainability at first instance before adverting to the merits of the case.

13. It is apt to reproduce section 378 of Cr.P.C :-

"378. Appeal in case of acquittal (1) Save as otherwise provided in sub-section (2), and subject to the provisions of sub-section (3) and (5),-

(a) The District Magistrate may, in any case, direct the Public Prosecutor to present an appeal to the Court of Session from an order of acquittal passed by a Magistrate in respect of a cognizable and on-bailable offence;

(b) The State Government may, in any case, direct the Public Prosecutor to present an appeal to the High Court from an original or appellate order of an acquittal passed by any Court other than a High Court { not being an order under clause (a)} or an order of acquittal passed by the Court of Session in revision.}

(2). If such an order of acquittal is passed in any case in which the offence has been investigated by the Delhi Special Police Establishment constituted under Delhi Special Police Establishment Act, 1946(25 of 1946) or by any other agency empowered to make investigation into an offence under any Central Act other than this Code, { the Central Government may, subject to the provisions of sub-section (3), also direct the Public Prosecutor to present in appeal-

(a) to the Court of session, from an order of acquittal passed by a Magistrate in respect of a cognizable and non-bailable offence;

(b)to the High Court from an original or appellate order of an acquittal passed by any Court other than a High Court{not being an order under clause (a)}or an order of acquittal passed by the Court of Session in revision}.

(3). No appeal to the High Court under sub- section (1) or sub- section (2) shall be entertained except with the leave of the High Court.

(4). If such an order of acquittal is passed in any case instituted upon complaint and the High Court, on an application made to it by the complainant in this behalf, grants special leave to appeal from the order of acquittal, the complainant may present such an appeal to the High Court.

(5). No application under sub- section (4) for the grant of special leave to appeal from an order of acquittal shall be entertained by the High Court after the expiry of six months, where the complainant is a public servant, and sixty days in every other case, computed from the date of that order of acquittal.

(6). If in any case, the application under sub- section (4) for the grant of special leave to appeal from an order of acquittal is refused, no appeal from that order of acquittal shall lie under sub- section (1) or under sub- section (2).

14. Bare perusal of Section 378(a) suggest that an appeal to the Court of Session would lie from an order of acquittal passed by a Magistrate in respect of cognizable and non-bailable offence.

15. In the present case, accused persons were/are charged under Sections 447, 504, 506 read with Section 34 of IPC and Section 354 IPC. It is apt to reproduce aforesaid sections:-

> 447. Punishment for criminal trespass.—whoever commits criminal trespass shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three months, with fine or which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.(Cognizable & bailable).
> 506. Punishment for criminal intimidation.—Whoever commits, the offence of criminal intimidation shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both; (Non-cognizable and Bailable).
>
> If threat be to cause death or grievous hurt, etc.—And if the threat be to cause death or grievous hurt, or to cause the destruction of any property by fire, or to cause an offence punishable with death or [imprisonment for life], or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years, or to impute, unchastity to a woman, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, or with fine, or with both.
> 504. Intentional insult with intent to provoke breach of the peace.—Whoever intentionally insults, and thereby gives provocation to any person, intending or knowing it to be likely that such provocation will cause him to break the public peace, or to commit any other offence, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both. (Non-cognizable and Bailable).
> 354. Assault or criminal force to woman with intent to outrage her modesty.—Whoever assaults or uses criminal force to any woman, intending to outrage or knowing it to be likely that he will thereby outrage her modesty, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both. (Cognizable & Non-bailable).

16. Admittedly, some of the Sections as referred hereinabove are either non-cognizable or non-bailable offences and, as such, no appeal would lie under Section 378 Cr.P.C before the Court of Session. However, at this stage, it would be apt to refer section 155(4) Cr.P.C:-

> "Where a case relates to two or more offences of which at least one is cognizable, the case shall be deemed to be a cognizable case, notwithstanding that the other offences are non-cognizable."

17. Plain reading of Section 155(4) Cr.P.C, clearly suggests that if a case relates to two or more offences, out of which if one is cognizable, the case would be deemed to be cognizable case, notwithstanding the other offences are non-cognizable, meaning thereby that" if accused is charged with two or more offences and out of which one is cognizable, the entire case could be deemed to be cognizable case despite their being other offences non-cognizable.

18. Now, if the present case is analyzed in the light of Section 378 and 155 Cr.P.C, it clearly emerges that once section 506 IPC, which is admittedly has been declared to be cognizable and non-bailable offence, learned first appellate Court or any other Court was bound to consider the case at hand to be cognizable case, notwithstanding that other offences are non-cognizable.

However, at this stage, if provision of Section 378 Cr.P.C is perused, which provides for two stipulation/condition for presenting the appeal before the Court of Session from an order passed by a Magistrate i.e. (i) offence should be cognizable and (ii) another is non-bailable offence, meaning thereby appeal would only lie to the Court of Session from an order of acquittal passed by a Magistrate, if the offence is cognizable and non-bailable. In the present case, accused persons are charged under Sections 447, 504, 506 read with section 34 IPC and Section 354 IPC but admittedly few of offences as mentioned above are either non-cognizable or bailable. Now at this stage, if provision of section 155(4) Cr.P.C are attracted/made applicable in the present case, admittedly, all the offences are required to be considered as cognizable offence because admittedly as has been discussed above, Section 506 IPC has been declared cognizable and non-bailable offence. But even then second stipulation, as laid down for filing appeal under Section 378 Cr.P.C remains unfulfilled. Condition precedent for filing appeal under Section 378 Cr.P.C is that offence should be cognizable and non-bailable. By invoking Section 155(4) Cr.P.C, certainly first condition of 378 Cr.P.C. gets satisfied but second condition remain unfulfilled hence appeal, if any, cannot be held maintainable in the given facts and circumstances of the case. If giving benefit of notification referred hereinabove, wherein Section 506 IPC has been declared to be cognizable and non-bailable offence, other offences with which the accused persons have been charged can only be treated as cognizable offence in terms of Section 155(4) Cr.P.C but in that event also two conditions as laid down under section 378 Cr.P.C, would remain unsatisfied because admittedly few of the offences, as have been referred hereinabove, are bailable and appeal under section 378 Cr.P.C can only lie in the court of Session from an order of acquittal passed by a Magistrate in respect of a cognizable and non-bailable offence. In the present case, taking benefit of Section 155(4), all offences can be deemed to be cognizable offences in view of the notification referred hereinabove, wherein Section 506 IPC has been declared to be cognizable and non-bailable offence. But fact remains that second requirement of filing an appeal under section 378 i.e. non-bailable offence is not fulfilled in the present case, where admittedly few of the offences are bailable offences.

19. Accordingly, in view of the discussion made hereinabove, this Court does not see much force in the arguments having been made by learned Additional Advocate General with regard to the maintainability of the appeal accordingly same is rejected.

20. True, it is that this Court has very limited powers under Section 397 of Criminal Procedure Code while exercising its revisionary jurisdiction. It would be apt and in the interest of justice to critically examine the evidence available on record that too solely with a view to ascertain that judgments passed by learned Courts below are not perverse and same are based on correct appreciation of evidence on record.

21. As far as scope of power of this Court while exercising revisionary jurisdiction under Section 397 is concerned, the Hon' ble Apex Court in Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case241; has held that in case Court notices that there is a failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality or sentence or order. The relevant para of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> "8. The object of Section 483 and the purpose behind conferring the revisional power under Section 397 read with Section 401, upon the High Court is to invest continuous supervisory jurisdiction so as to prevent miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularity of the procedure or to mete out justice. In addition, the inherent power of the High Court is preserved by Section 482. The power of the High Court, therefore, is very wide. However, the High Court must exercise such power sparingly and cautiously when the Sessions Judge has simultaneously exercised revisional power under Section 397(1). However, when the High Court notices that there has been failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or > procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is but the salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/ incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order."

22. In the present case, complainant(PW-1) stated that on 14.11.1999, at about 7:30 PM when she was answering the call of nature, accused Kamal Singh appeared and put a torch on her and started scuffling with her, as a result whereof, he broke her bangles and tore her clothes. It has come in her statement that when she raised hue and cry, daughters of accused Anjana Kumari and Sanjana, his son Bittu and his wife Smt. Kaushalya Devi came on the spot. She also stated that accused Kaushalya Devi was holding danda in her hand with which she started giving beatings to her. She also stated in her statement that accused threatened her to do away with her life while leaving the spot of occurrence. She also stated that after the occurrence she telephonically informed the police but police did not take any action and, as such, she was compelled to file an application before the Deputy Commissioner. She also stated in her statement before the police that police visited the spot and took into possession the torn clothes as well as bangle pieces vide memo Ex.PW1/B, on which she appended her signatures. However, in her cross-examination, she admitted that there have been litigation with regard to the path with the accused persons for the last 12/13 years. She also admitted that the path is situated on the back side of the kitchen. She also admitted in her cross-examination that application Ex.PW1/A was written by the SHO and she had disclosed to the police that the accused had dragged her and that fact was mentioned in the application. But during her cross-examination when she was confronted with Ex.PW1/A statement recorded by the police under Section 161Cr.P.C, this fact was not recorded so in her statement recorded by the police. In her examination-in-chief, she stated that during scuffle her bangles were broken, however this fact also does not find mention in Ex.PW1/A. She stated in her cross-examination that danda blow was given by accused Kamal Singh but she does not remember that how many blows of danda were given to her. She also admitted in her cross-examination that she disclosed to the police that she had received injuries but fact remains that this fact does not find mention in her statement Ex.PW1/A recorded by the police. she also stated that there are 5-6 houses adjacent to her house and at the time of incident it was dark and accused ran towards the house of Kamal Singh. She stated that since accused ran towards the house of Kamal Singh, she could identify the accused to be Kamal Singh. However, in cross-examination, she denied the suggestion that on the basis of doubt she disclosed the name of accused to be Kamal Singh. She also admitted in the cross-examination that she telephonically informed the police herself. In her cross-examination, she also admitted that they want to close the path but lateron denied that she fenced the path on the day of occurrence and when accused removed the same, she hurled abuses to them.

23. PW-2, Saroj Kumari stated that on 14.11.1999 she had come to her parental house. She further stated that when she, her maternal aunt as well as Sunita were sitting in the room, her maternal aunt i.e. complainant had gone to answer the call of nature at 7:30 PM and thereafter they heard cries of the complainant and when they reached on the spot, accused Kamal Singh was giving beatings to the complainant and she was lying on the ground. She also stated that all the bangles of the complainant were broken and her clothes were torn. She categorically stated that on seeing them, the accused disappeared from the spot. She also stated in her examination-in-chief that thereafter the wife of the accused as well as daughters of the accused came on the spot and threatened that they will do away with their lives. She also stated that Smt. Kaushalya Devi was holding danda in her hand. However, during her cross-examination, she stated that the accused was giving beatings to the complainant with hand and fist blows and this fact was disclosed by her to the police, however, such fact does not find mention in the statement recorded by the police. Similar, deposition made by her that she had disclosed to the police that bangles of the complainant were broken, does not find mention in the initial statement given by her to the police. She in her cross-examination specifically admitted that accused Kaushalya Devi and Kamal Singh had not given any beatings to the complainant with danda blows. Now, if at this stage, statements given by PW-1 and PW-2 are examined critically, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that there are major contradictions in their statements.

24. Smt. Bimla Devi, PW-1 categorically stated in her examination-in-chief that when accused Kamal Singh appeared and started scuffling with her, she raised hue and cry and then daughters of the accused namely Anjana Kumari and Sanjana, his son Bittu and his wife Kaushalya Devi came on the spot. But, she nowhere stated that after hearing her hue and cry, PW-2, Saroj Kumari and PW-5, Sunita Devi came to the spot. Whereas, PW-2, Saroj Kumari in her statement stated that after hearing cries of the complainant they reached on the spot and found that accused Kamal Singh was giving beatings to the complainant and she was lying on the ground. Similarly, PW-1 stated that accused Kamal Singh had given danda blows but PW-2 admitted in her cross-examination that accused Kaushalya Devi and Kamal Singh had not given any danda blows to the complainant.

25. Conjoint reading of the statements given by PW-1 and PW-3, clearly suggest that there are material contradictions in the statements given by both the prosecution witnesses and, as such, same cannot be termed to be trustworthy.

26. Sunita Devi, PW-5 also stated that on 14.11.1999 at about 7/8 PM when she was talking to her parental aunt, whereas her mother had gone to answer the call of nature in their courtyard, thereafter they heard cries of her mother and when they came out, saw that a scuffle was going on between the complainant and the accused. Thereafter, accused pushed her mother and jumped over the wall and ran away. She further stated that thereafter accused started hurling abuses and after hearing the noise, wife of the accused and his daughters came on the spot. She also stated that wife of the accused was holding danda in her hand. She categorically stated that when they came inside, they saw that the clothes of her mother were torn. She stated that police came on the spot and took into possession Ex.P1 and Ex.P2 vide memo Ex.PW1/B. During her cross-examination, she admitted that she is serving at Chamba and wife as well as daughters of the accused Kamal Singh were standing on the other side of the wall and were hurling abuses from there. She categorically admitted in her cross-examination that they had not entered into their houses.

27. PW-3, SI Rattan Chand also stated that in the year, 1999 he was posted as ASI. He stated that on 18.11.1999, he visited the spot and prepared spot map Ex.PW3/A and had taken into possession Ex.P1 and Ex.P2. He also stated that bangles pieces were put in a parcel and sealed with seal impression 'R' and were thereafter taken into possession vide memo Ex.PW1/B. During his cross-examination, he admitted that he had not recorded the statement of Anjana Kumari and Sanjana. He also admitted that there is no path, which leads to the house of the accused from the back side of the kitchen of the complainant. Now, if the statements of PW-3 and PW-5 are read in conjunction with the statements of PW-1 and PW-2, it can be safely concluded that none of the prosecution witnesses have been specific with regard to the spot of the occurrence as well as presence of family member of the accused. All the prosecution witnesses have contradicted the statements of each other. PW-1 stated that when she raised hue and cry, family members of the accused reached the spot, whereas PW-2 and PW-5 stated that after hearing the cries of the complainant they reached the spot. Whereas PW-1 has nowhere stated that after hearing hue and cry, her family members reached the spot. PW-2, Saroj Kumari also contradicted with the statement of PW-1 with regard to the alleged beatings given to her by the accused Kamal Singh because PW-2 categorically stated that accused Kaushalya Devi and Kamal Singh had not given any beatings to the complainant with danda blows. PW-5, Sunita Devi also stated that none of the family members entered into their house; rather she stated that wife as well as daughter of the accused were standing other side of the wall and were hurling abuses from there.

28. PW-3, S.I. Rattan Chand categorically stated in his cross-examination that there is no path, which leads to the house of the accused from the back side of the kitchen of the complainant. PW-1, Bimla Devi also admitted in her cross-examination that there are 5-6 houses near her house. Admittedly, in the present case, none of the independent witness from the locality was associated by the prosecution. Admittedly, in the present case, PW-2 and PW-5 are closely related to the complainant (PW-1). True it is that testimony of these witnesses cannot be brushed aside solely on the ground that they are related to the complainant. But in the present facts and circumstances of the case where admittedly number of houses were there adjacent to the house of the complainant, where this alleged occurrence took place, prosecution could always associate independent witness to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. In the present case, it stands duly proved on record that the complainant was not having good relation with the accused as they were having litigation with regard to the path pending in the court. The version put forth by PW-2 and PW-5 being close relative of the complainant cannot be accepted on its face value, in the absence of some independent witness of the locality, which could be easily available given the timing of the occurrence i.e. 7/8 PM.

29. In the present case, PW-1 stated that accused Kamal Singh gave danda blow to her and other accused Kaushalya Devi also gave beatings to her with hands and first blows. But PW-2 stated that accused persons were giving beatings to complainant with hand and fist blows, whereas PW-5 stated that accused Kamal Singh pushed her mother and thereafter ran away from the spot after jumping over by the wall. The story put forth by PW-5 that accused Kamal Singh after pushing her mother jumped over the wall has been not supported by any of the prosecution witnesses. Moreover, PW-5 stated that other accused persons were standing on their own landed property, which was on the other side of the wall. Admittedly, all the prosecution witnesses have contradicted with regard to the allegations of beatings given to the complainant by the accused. Moreover, no medical evidence worth the name has been led on record to corroborate the statement of complainant and other witnesses with regard to the beatings, if any, given to the complainant. Hence, in the absence of medical evidence, the version put forth by the prosecution with regard to the injuries received by the complainant cannot be accepted at all. As far as recovery of Ex.P1 and PW-2, which were taken into possession in the presence of PW-1 and PW-5 also appears to be doubtful because none of these witnesses stated that Ex.P1 and Ex.P2 were put in a parcel and sealed with seal impression 'R' and thereafter were taken into possession. In the present case admittedly on the face of the evidence available on record, PW-1 and PW-5 have contradicted to the statement of PW-3 and, as such, statements made by these, two witnesses are required to be dealt with great caution and care. Hence, in view of the observations made hereinabove, recovery of Ex.P1 and Ex.P2 from the spot is doubtful and cannot be relied upon.

30. PW-1,Bimla Devi in her statement nowhere stated in clear terms that accused Kamal Singh used some criminal force with intent to outrage the modesty of the complainant. She only stated that accused Kamal Singh gave beatings to her but she nowhere stated in her statement before the Court that her clothes were torn by the accused, rather complete reading of her statement leaves no doubt in the mind of the Court that her testimony does not inspire confidence and same does not appear to be trustworthy.

31. Plain reading of Section 354 of IPC reproduced hereinabove suggests that it is essential for bringing accused within the ambit of section 354 IPC, to prove that criminal force is used on any woman that too with an intent to outrage her modesty or in other way whoever assaults or uses criminal force on woman, knowing fully well thereby that he will be outraging her modesty, shall be liable for punishment prescribed under this section.

32. In totality of facts and circumstances of the case, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that the prosecution has not been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and, as such, same has been rightly rejected by the learned trial Court below. Consequently, in view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court sees no merit in the present appeal preferred by the petitioner-State and the same is accordingly dismissed along with pending applications, if any.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as Scientific Assistant Grade I in Salal Hydro Electric Project – he was reappointed as Research Assistant and was posted in Quality Control Division- services of the petitioner were transferred to NHPC- petitioner was promoted to the post of Manager Research in NHPC- respondent invited application for the post of Research Officer- a person with M.Sc in Chemistry or Physics was eligible for the said post- petitioner pleaded that a person with M.Sc in Chemistry or Physics with experience in the field of Concrete Technology and Soil Mechanics is not fit to work in the field- promotion policy was formulated to benefit the favourites of the respondent- petitioner filed a representation, which was rejected- held, that petitioner has retired from the services - he will not benefit from the judgment of the Court - respondent had rejected the representation of the petitioner without assigning any reasons - however, directing the respondent to reconsider the representation will not serve any fruitful purpose - it is the prerogative of rule making authority to prescribe mode of selection and minimum qualification for any recruitment and the action of the respondent cannot be faulted. (Para-10 to 15)

Cases referred:

Chandigarh Administration through the Director Public Instructions (Colleges), Chandigarh versus Usha Kheterpal Waie and others 2011(9) Supreme Court cases 645

P.U.Joshi and others versus Accountant General, Ahmedabad and others 2003(2) Supreme Court Cases 632

For the Petitioner : Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate.

For the Respondents : Ms. Shreya Chauhan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge(oral)

By way of present writ petition, petitioner has prayed for following reliefs:-

a) That a writ of certiorari may be issued thereby setting aside the minimum qualification prescribed for considering promotion beyond the post of Deputy Manager in the Research Wing in the Rules/ procedure of promotion policy of the respondents as given vide clause 6 and letters whereby representations of the petitioner for the purpose are rejected may very kindly be set aside.

b) That a Writ Mandamus may very kindly be issued thereby directing the respondents to prescribe requisite qualification meant for the purpose i.e. B.E.(Civil) with benefit of improvement of qualification viz AMIE(Civil) and M.Sc/B.Sc in Chemistry or Physics with relatively more experience as is provided by the Ministry of Energy, Department of Power, New Delhi and further as is available with respect to the post being advertised and filled up by the Union Public Service Commission for the post of Research Officers/ in the Research Wing of the field of Concrete Technology and Soil Engineering as otherwise, Corporation is acting contrary to the national interest by providing qualification of M.Sc from recognized University in any faculty, which qualification as provided for the purpose in law by any stretch of imagination cannot be held good, with directions to the respondents to reconsider and re-frame the Rules with respect to the qualification in Rules/ promotion policy vide clause No.6, and accordingly, to reconsider and grant benefit to the petitioner throughout from the date same fell due to the petitioner with respect to the promotion, in the interest of law and justice.

c) Directions may be given to the respondents to produce the records of the case.

d) Any other and further reliefs to which the petitioner is found fit and proper may also very kindly be granted in favour of the petitioner and against the respondents.

2. Briefly stated facts necessary for the adjudication of the case are that the petitioner was appointed as Scientific Assistant Grade-I vide order dated 2.2.1978 and he joined as such on 20.7.1978 in Salal Hydro Electric Project and was posted in Quality Control Unit. Vide order dated 20.7.1978, petitioner was reappointed as Research Assistant (Regular) and was posted in Quality Control Division. However, on account of transfer of Salal Project to NHPC Limited, services of the petitioner were transferred in the same capacity, designation and nature of job with effect from 1.4.1983 to NHPC Limited. Petitioner also averred that owing to re-designation of the post of Research Assistant, designation of the petitioner was changed vide letter dated 14.1.1985 and he was promoted w.e.f. 1.7.1984 as Senior Supervisor (Research) Grade-II. However, vide order dated 1.7.1988, petitioner was promoted as Senior Supervisor Grade-1 and thereafter promoted as Research Officer in the year, 1992 and Assistant Manager(Research) in the year, 1996. In the year 2001, petitioner was promoted as Deputy Manager and as Manager (Research) w.e.f. 1.4.2006.

3. Petitioner being aggrieved with the advertisement No. PER/4/1990 (Annexure P-3) issued by the respondents, inviting applications for the few posts in its Corporate Office and existing/future Projects/Units. Vide aforesaid advertisement; respondents also invited application for the post of Research Officer. Perusal of the advertisement suggests that a person with M.Sc in Chemistry or Physics was eligible to apply for the aforesaid posts. Petitioner alleged that a person with M.Sc in Chemistry or physics with experience in the field of Concrete Technology and Soil Mechanics cannot be termed to be a fit person to work in the said field. Petitioner also alleged that the respondents solely with a view to help their favourites, issued Rules/Procedure of promotion policy (Annexure P-4),wherein for the post in Research Wing, qualification of M.Sc from a recognized university has been prescribed. Petitioner averred that for the job assigned to the research cadre, employees of the Corporation, who are performing their duties in Concrete Technology and Soil Mechanics apart from maintenance and up-keep of machines, are fit to be appointed as Research Officer.

4. Petitioner with a view to substantiate his claim also placed on record communication issued by the Ministry of Energy, Department of Power, New Delhi(Annexure P-1), wherein nature of job assigned to the Research cadre employees of the corporation is prescribed. Petitioner specifically averred that perusal of Annexure P-1 clearly suggests that a person with M.Sc in Chemistry from any recognized university cannot be held eligible for the post of Research Officer, as advertised vide Annexure P-3. He specifically invited the attention of the Court to Annexure P-1 and submitted that if clause No.2 of Annexure P-3, whereby qualification of M.Sc in Chemistry or Physics have been provided for the post of Research Officer is perused, it is crystal clear that qualification prescribed by the respondents is absurd and a person having M.Sc in Botany or Zoology are not fit person to be appointed as Research Officer. He invited the attention of this Court to the letter issued by Ministry of Energy (Annexure P-2), which provides that posts of Research Officer in Hydro-electric project are required to be filled up on the basis of qualification prescribed i.e. B.E.(Civil) or M.Sc/B.Sc in Chemistry and Physics with relative experience. Petitioner further averred that without proper application of mind and by putting national interest in jeopardy respondents issued advertisement No.4/90, inviting application for Research Officer, wherein person having M.Sc in Chemistry or Physics with the experience in the field of Concrete Technology have been held eligible. Petitioner also averred that the respondents solely with a view to help their favourites issued/changed rules/ procedures of promotion policy further by making provisions that post in researching can be filled on the basis of qualification i.e M.Sc from a recognized university. Petitioner specifically averred that in view of the specific nature of job in Hydro-electric projects, specifically in the Research wing, where the person concerned is to deal with the Concrete Technology and Soil Mechanics, requisite qualification in law can only be B.E.(Civil) and any attempt on the part of the petitioner to fill up the post of Research Officer on the basis of qualification prescribed vide Annexure P-3 cannot be held to be justifiable.

5. Perusal of Annexure P-5, suggests that petitioner being aggrieved with the action of the respondents made detailed representation to the respondents to review the qualification criteria laid in N.H.P.C revised policy effective w.e.f. 1.1.1997. Careful perusal of Annexure P-5, clearly suggests that petitioner in support of his contention also supplied number of documents, perusal whereof certainly suggests that in the field of Concrete Technology and Soil Mechanics, B.E.(Civil) or M.Sc/B.Sc with relative experience is professional qualification for the post of Research Officer.

6. Respondents by way of detailed reply submitted that NHPC has framed "a Promotion Policy for its Executives" after considering all the factors including the responsibilities to a particular post. Respondents further submitted that minimum qualification for each post has been prescribed after detailed deliberation keeping in view of the particular post and, as such, petitioner has no right, whatsoever, to agitate against the policy as well as inclusion of particular educational qualification simply because he himself does not possess such qualification. Respondents further submitted that the petitioner have already got different promotions under the said Promotion Policy i.e upto the level of Manager and as such he cannot be allowed to allege that said policy is illegal and unjustified. Respondents also submitted that it is for the respondents to decide as to what should be the pre-requisites for a particular promotion and petitioner has no right whatsoever to suggest that what qualification should be included in the relevant Recruitment and Promotion Rules for Hydroelectric Power Corporation (NHPC). Respondents also averred that since petitioner has not challenged particular clause of the promotion policy, wherein qualifications and pre-requisites for promotions to the higher post have been prescribed, he cannot be allowed to challenge particular clause of the promotion policy to his advantage.

7. Respondents also refuted the claim of the petitioner that the work of Research discipline is only confined to Civil works, whereas research in respondents corporation includes quality control activities like sampling and testing of construction materials, study of mix design, preparation and up-keeping of quality control records at different stages of development of records etc. Respondents further submitted that samples are generally tested by the third parties in NHPC. Besides this, person with qualification of M.Sc with Botany and Zoology can be engaged in the study of Environmental impact of Hydro electric project, environmental conservation, Conservation of Biodiversity, Social Development study, Catchment Area Treatment, Restoration and rehabilitation of Project Affected Families, Compensatory Afforestation, Green Belt Development, Fist and other living creatures like, Flora-Fauna, Management of Landscaping and Restoration of Construction sites, Herbal Park Development, Dumping/Quarry site management etc.. Respondents also submitted that since respondents (NHPC) is aiming to secure benefits of clean Development Mechanism (CDM), therefore, the services of Research Officer with Botany and Zoology are also required. It is also stated in the reply that NHPC has separate cadre of Civil Engineers and Research Officer and their services are utilized as per their requirements. Hence, prayer for seeking direction against the respondents to include the qualification of AMIE for Offices in the Research wing cannot be held to be justified and deserves to be rejected out rightly.

8. Respondents also stated that the representation filed by the petitioner was duly considered by NHPC vide Annexure R-2 and R-3 and decision of NHPC was communicated to the petitioner. Respondents also submitted that qualifications prescribed by it for the post of Research Officer are directly connected/concerned with the post in question and same cannot be changed to facilitate the promotion of the petitioner, who admittedly does not possess requisite qualification for further promotion in Research Cadre. Respondents also denied prescribed qualification of M.Sc from recognized university is contrary to the public interest.

9. I have heard the learned counsel representing the parties and have carefully gone through the record made available.

10. During proceedings of the case, this Court was informed that the petitioner has already retired from the services and perusal of records suggest that no stay was granted by this court qua Annexure P-3. Since no stay, whatsoever, was granted by this Court at the time of admission of this petition, respondents-corporation has already acted on the basis of the advertisement issued by the department for appointments of various posts including Research Officer. Since petitioner has already retired from service, no effective relief as have been prayed in the writ petition can be granted to him by this Court. Moreover, if at this stage, this Court comes to the conclusion that the minimum qualification prescribed by the respondents-Corporation for appointment to the post of Research Officer/ Deputy Manager in the Research Wing is not in conformity with the nature of job/responsibility to the post in question, petitioner would not be benefited in any manner at this stage, especially when he stands retired.

11. However after perusing the detailed representation filed by the petitioner as well as reply thereto given by the respondents-Corporation, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that the respondents-corporation has rejected the representation of the petitioner in very slip shod manner without any application of mind. Bare perusal of Annexure R-2, suggests that respondents have not assigned any reason, whatsoever, while rejecting the contentions of the petitioner, which was fully substantiated by placing/ citing instructions/ examples of other government departments as well as undertakings. Respondents while rejecting the claim of the petitioner has only informed that they are not in a position to consider the request for relaxation in specification for the post of Research Officer in the scale of Rs. 700-1300. Perusal of Annexures R-1 & R-2, nowhere demonstrate that respondents-NHPC actually dealt with each and every aspect of the matter raised by the petitioner in his representation. Moreover, no opportunity of being heard was ever afforded to the petitioner before passing of the order.

12. But as has been noticed above that the petitioner stands retired from services, no fruitful purpose would be served in case respondents are directed to re-consider the representation at this stage.

13. Undoubtedly, it is prerogative of rule making authority or appointing authority to prescribe mode of selection and minimum qualification for any recruitment and, as such, action of respondents-corporation for the prescribed qualification for particular post cannot be faulted.

14. In this regard reliance is placed upon Chandigarh Administration through the Director Public Instructions (Colleges), Chandigarh versus Usha Kheterpal Waie and others 2011(9) Supreme Court cases 645, wherein it was held as under:-

> "22. It is now well settled that it is for the rule-making authority or the appointing authority to prescribe the mode of selection and minimum qualification for any recruitment. The courts and tribunals can neither prescribe the qualifications nor entrench upon the power of the authority concerned to long as the qualifications prescribed by the employer is reasonably relevant and has a rational nexus with the functions and duties attached to the post and are not violate of any provision of the Constitution, statute and rules.(See. J.Ranga Swamy V. Govt. of AP (1990)1SCC 288:1990 SCC (L&S) 76 and P.U. Joshi V. Accountant General (2003) 2 SCC 632:2003 SCC(L&S) 191. In the absence of any rules, under Article 309 or statute, the appellant had the power to appoint under its general power of administration and prescribed such eligibility criteria as it is considered to be necessary and reasonable. Therefore, it cannot be said that the prescription of phD is unreasonable.

15. Further Hon'ble Apex Court in P.U.Joshi and others versus Accountant General, Ahmedabad and others 2003(2) Supreme Court Cases 632, has held as under:-

> "We have carefully considered the submissions made on behalf of both parties. Questions relating to the constitution, pattern, nomenclature of posts, cadres, categories, their creation/abolition, prescription of qualifications and other conditions of service including avenues of promotions and criteria to be fulfilled for such promotions pertain to the field of Policy and within the exclusive discretion and jurisdiction of the State, subject, of course, to the limitations or restrictions envisaged in the Constitution of India and it is not for the Statutory Tribunals, at any rate, to direct the Government to have a particular method of recruitment or eligibility criteria or avenues of promotion or impose itself by substituting its views for that of the State. Similarly, it is well open and within the competency of the State to change the rules relating to a service and alter or amend and vary by addition/substruction the qualifications, eligibility criteria and other conditions of service including avenues of promotion, from time to time, as the administrative exigencies may need or necessitate. Likewise, the State by appropriate rules is entitled to amalgamate departments or bifurcate departments into more and constitute different categories of posts or cadres by undertaking further classification, bifurcation or amalgamation as well as reconstitute and restructure the pattern and cadres/categories of service, as may be required from time to time by abolishing existing cadres/posts and creating new cadres/posts. There is no right in any employee of the State to claim that rules governing conditions of his service should be forever the same as the one when he entered service for all purposes and except for ensuring or safeguarding rights or benefits already earned, acquired or accrued at a particular point of time, a Government servant has no right to challenge the authority of the State to amend, alter and bring into force new rules relating to even an existing service".

In view of what has been stated hereinabove, the present petition is dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

Case referred:
Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case 241

For the petitioner: Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate General.
For the respondent: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

Present criminal revision petition filed under Section 397 read with Section 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is directed against the judgment of acquittal rendered by learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, H.P., in Criminal Appeal No. 5U of 2007 dated 14.7.2008, affirming the judgment of acquittal dated 20.7.2007, passed by Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, Barsar, District Hamirpur, HP, in Case No. 23-1-2003/27-II-2003.

2. Briefly stated facts necessary for adjudication of the case are that complainant namely Gupteshwar Singh filed complaint Ext.PW16/A, with the Deputy Commissioner, Hamirpur, which was further referred to police. Perusal of Ext.PW16/A suggests that in July, 2001, Manager Kids Buds Senior Secondary School (in Short School) Bijhar, District Hamirpur, H.P., got advertisement published in the newspaper namely Divya Himachal, wherein candidates were invited/advised to contact for admission in M.Sc. course. Complainant with a view to get admission of his daughter contacted Manager of aforesaid School, whereby he was advised to bring original certificates along with Rs.30,000/-. As per version of complainant, he paid Rs.30,000/- to one Shri Anil Kumar, who told him that as and when admission is done, he would be informed. Complainant also handed over the testimonials to Shri Anil Kumar, who had informed him that Ravi Dutt petitioner-accused is out of station. Since petitioner-accused failed to get the admission of the daughter of the complainant done in terms of advertisement, complainant lodged FIR Ext.16/B specifically alleging therein that accused neither got the admission done nor he returned the amount of Rs.30,000/- paid by the complainant for admission of his daughter. Police on the basis of FIR investigated the matter and took into custody newspaper cuttings of the advertisement as Ext.PW-1/B, two receipts Ext.PW-4/A and Ext.PW-2/A vide memo Ext.PW-7/C, one letter from the office of Divya Himachal Ext.PW-17/A. Record also suggests that police also filed application in the Court of learned ACJM Barsar for getting signatures of accused Ext.PW18/B. Besides above, police also moved an application to State Forensic Science Laboratory Ext.PW-15/G along with hand writing specimen and signatures Ext.PW-15/A to Ext.PW-15/C for examination of documents and procured report Ext.PW-15/D to Ext.PW-15/F. After completion of investigation, police found petitioner-accused guilty of offence having committed under Sections 406 and 420 of Indian Penal Code and accordingly, presented the same in the competent court of law. Police also submitted Supplementary Challan in the case on 19.3.2003.

3. Learned trial Court after satisfying itself that prima facie case exists against the petitioner-accused, charged him for committing offences under Sections 406 and 420 of Indian Penal Code, which accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. Learned trial Court also recorded the statement of accused under Section 313 Cr.PC., wherein, he denied all allegations and claimed that he is being falsely implicated. Learned trial Court, on the basis of evidence available on record, came to conclusion that prosecution has not been able to bring home the guilt of the petitioner-accused and, as such, acquitted him of the offences framed against him.

5. Petitioner-accused being aggrieved with the judgment of learned trial Court dated 20.7.2007, filed appeal under Section 378 of Cr.PC before the Court of learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, who also vide judgment dated 14.7.2008 dismissed the appeal and upheld the judgment of acquittal learned trial Court. Hence this appeal.

6. At this stage, it may be pointed out that initially petitioner-accused had filed criminal appeal under Section 378 of Cr.PC against the impugned judgment before this Court, however, this Court, keeping in view the fact that State had already exhausted right of appeal before the learned first appellate Court, vide order dated 10.11.2008, converted the same into criminal revision petition, which later on came to be registered as criminal revision petition No. 198 of 2008.

7. Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General, appearing for the petitioner-accused vehemently argued that impugned judgment is not based upon the correct appreciation of the material evidence available on record and as such, same deserves to be quashed and set-aside. He contended that both the courts below have not appreciated the evidence in its right perspective and judgments are based on hypothetical reasons, conjectures and surmises and as such same cannot be allowed to be sustained. He also forcefully contended that court below while discarding the evidence of prosecution has set unrealistic standards to evaluate the direct and cogent prosecution evidence because bare perusal of the reasoning given by the courts below suggests that same is unreasonable, unsustainable and is not based on correction appreciation of the record available on record. He also while advancing his arguments before this Court invited attention to the statements given by various prosecution witnesses to demonstrate that learned court below has discarded the cogent and trustworthy testimonies of prosecution witnesses for untenable reasons. He also invited attention of this Court to the statements given by PWs 1 to 9, who as per him, clearly stated that accused had taken the money from them in order to secure admission in various course, which was later on not got done even by taking money from them. It is also contended on behalf of the petitioner that statement of all prosecution witnesses suggests that all of them made payment to the accused for securing admission in terms of the advertisement and, as such, finding returned by the court below that there is no evidence on record to connect the accused in the case that money was actually received by him, is totally contrary to the facts as well as material available on record. Eventually, he prayed that impugned judgment deserves to be quashed and set-aside and accused is liable to be held guilty and convicted for having committed offences.

8. Per contra, Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate, appearing for the respondent supported the judgments of courts below and argued that no interference, whatsoever, of this Court is warranted in the present facts and circumstances of the case, especially, when there are concurrent findings of the courts below. He contended that this Court has very limited powers as far as re-appreciation of the evidence, especially, when both the courts below have meticulously dealt with each and every aspect of the matter. During arguments, he made this Court to travel through the statements made by the prosecution witnesses to demonstrate the discrepancies, contradictions and inconsistencies in the statements given by the prosecution witnesses. He also contended that prosecution has miserably failed to prove the case beyond reasonable doubt, rather, evidence be it ocular or documentary adduced on record by the prosecution itself suggests that there were no sufficient grounds/material on record to prove the guilt of the accused. He prayed that judgments of courts below deserve to be upheld.

9. I have heard learned counsel for the parties as well carefully gone through the record.

10. True, it is that this Court has very limited powers under Section 397 Cr.PC while exercising its revisionary jurisdiction but in the instant case, where accused has been acquitted of the offences, it would be apt and in the interest of justice to critically examine the statements of the prosecution witnesses solely with a view to ascertain that the judgments passed by learned courts below are not perverse and same are based on correct appreciation of the evidence on record.

11. As far as scope of power of this Court while exercising revisionary jurisdiction under Section 397 is concerned, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case 241; has held that in case Court notices that there is a failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality or sentence or order. The relevant para of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> 8. The object of Section 483 and the purpose behind conferring the revisional power under Section 397 read with Section 401, upon the High Court is to invest continuous supervisory jurisdiction so as to prevent miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularity of the procedure or to mete out justice. In addition, the inherent power of the High Court is preserved by Section 482. The power of the High Court, therefore, is very wide. However, the High Court must exercise such power sparingly and cautiously when the Sessions Judge has simultaneously exercised revisional power under Section 397(1). However, when the High Court notices that there has been failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is but the salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/ incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order."

12. In the present case, where the complainant has specifically alleged that in term of advertisement, he paid an amount of Rs.30,000/- along with original certificates of his daughter for getting admission in M.Sc. course, prosecution with a view to prove its case examined as many as 18 witnesses.

13. PW1, Gupteshwar Singh, stated that in terms of advertisement in the newspaper Divya Himachal, he contacted Manager of the school at Bijhar on telephone No. 83375 and 83383 for admission of his daughter. He further stated that since he wanted to get the admission of his daughter namely Sunita in M.Sc. Course, on enquiring, person namely Anil Kumar advised him to bring certificates of his daughter along with Rs.30,000/-. It has also come in his statement that amount in question along with documents were deposited by him with one Mr. Anil Kumar. He also stated in examination-in-chief that at the time of handing over certificate as well as amount, Anil Kumar informed him that accused-Ravi Dutt has gone out of station with some party, as and when he comes back, admission would be done. He also stated in his examination-in-chief that no receipt, whatsoever, was issued to him in lieu of money paid by him. In his statement, he stated that when he went back to get the money and testimonials of his daughter, Anil Kumar and Ravi Dutt were not there and another person returned the certificates and informed that money would be returned by Anil Kumar or Ravi Dutt. He also proved the application Ext.PW1, which he had allegedly written to Deputy Commissioner, Hamirpur, against the accused Ravi Dutt. In his cross-examination, he admitted that he was told that Anil Kumar is the Manager, who was admittedly not made party by the police in the present case.

14. PW2, Shri Kashmir Singh, also stated that after reading advertisement in the news paper, he contacted the school for admission of his daughter Manjna Kumari. He also stated that he made payment to the Assistant of Ravi Dutt on 28.10.2001. He also stated that wife of Ravi Dutt was also there and Assistant handed over a sum of Rs.90,000/- to the wife of Ravi Dutt, however, in his cross-examination, he submitted that on 12th January, 8 girls and 6 parents along with Ravi Dutt and Kartar Singh went to Dehradun where Ravi Dutt made them to stay in Dharamshala. He further admitted in his cross-examination that on the basis of address mentioned in identity card, they went to the Principal of the college and enquired about the admission of their children. They were informed that examinations are going on. He further stated that when he came back to Barsar, they along with Ravi Dutt and Kartar Singh went to Police Station Barsar, who asked Ravi Dutt regarding the admission and names of the persons and amount paid by them. He also admitted that SHO asked Ravi Dutt to return the money, who assured that half of the money would be returned in the morning. He also admitted that Ravi Dutt returned half of the amount in the morning and ensured that remaining would be paid within eight days. Similarly, PW3 Jitender Kumar deposed that he also contacted the school on the basis of advertisement for getting admission in B.Ed. course. It has also come in his statement that he was asked to bring Rs.80,000/- but ultimately, accused Ravi Dutt agreed to get his admission for Rs.60,000/- He further stated that on 14th October, he paid Rs.25,000 to Ravi Dutt and Rs.10,000 on October, 27. As per his statement, accused assured him for admission at Meerut. He also stated in his cross-examination that Ravi Dutt gave him his mobile number, but thereafter, he went to school in January, where he was told that they don't know about Ravi Dutt, however, his documents were returned.

15. PW4, Kanshi Ram, also stated that Ravi Dutt got one advertisement published in news paper. Since he wanted to get his daughter admitted in M.Sc. Course, he contacted Ravi Dutt at Bijhar, who advised him to bring Rs.30,000/-. He further stated that on 27th July, he went to Bijhar when accused Ravi Dutt was present in office along with two persons, one Kashmir Singh from Hamirpur and one Kashmir Singh from Nadaun. He also stated that he deposited a sum of Rs.30,000 with Ravi Dutt, who told him that he will be telephonically informed qua the admission. He further stated that on 11th October, 2007, accused told him on telephone that they have to go to Dehradun for admission. It has also come in the statement that six girls and six persons accompanied Ravi Dutt in a vehicle to Dehradun, where Ravi Dutt made them stay in a Dharamshala.

16. PW5 Kashmir Singh, has stated that on the basis of the advertisement in the month of July, 2001, he contacted Principal of the school Bijhar, for getting admission of his daughter in M.Sc. course. Ravi Dutt demanded ` 30,000 and certificates of the candidate. He stated that he along with Kanshi Ram and Kashmir Singh went to the Bijhar and deposited Rs.30,000/- with Ravi Dutt along with documents. He further stated that after one month, accused Ravi Dutt informed that admission has been got done but thereafter, they kept on contacting Ravi Dutt, but every time, they were informed that they will be informed when the admissions are done.

17. PW6 Hemawati, PW7 Arun Mahajan, PW8 Mohan Lal, PW9 Sanjeev Kaundal, also stated in their statements that on the basis of advertisement in question, they paid sums of Rs.40,000/-, 20,000/-, 15,000/- and 30,000/- respectively to the accused for getting admissions of their children done in the various courses but they all stated that despite paying money, no admission has been got done by the accused.

18. PW10 Satish Kumar stated that he remained posted as TGT teacher of Science and maths in Kids Buds School, Bijhar. He stated that he knew accused Ravi Dutt, who used to meet him in Barsar, however, record suggests that this witness was declared hostile. In his cross-examination conducted by learned PP, he categorically denied the suggestion that he knew that accused-Ravi Dutt was Manager of the School.

19. PW11 Ravinder Chandel, the correspondent of Divya Himachal stated that accused Ravi Dutt had contacted them for publishing of the advertisement.

20. PW12 Anil Kumar stated that he remained posted as TGT teacher in the School, from 2000 to 2002 and accused Ravi Dutt has not done any transaction in his presence with anyone. This witness was also declared hostile. Even in his cross-examination, no material could be extracted by the defence, which could be of any help to the case of the prosecution.

21. PWs13 and 14 Parvesh Kumar and Raman Kaishtha, also stated in their examination-in-chief that they contacted the school on the basis of advertisement and thereafter, they went to school where accused Ravi Dutt and Anil Kumar met them. Accused assured them of admission in M.Sc. (Chemistry) for an amount of ` 30,000/- each. They stated that Rs.30,000/- each were deposited with the accused and, thereafter, they were informed by the accused that admission has been done and given identity card Ext.PW13/A, which was later on found fake/duplicate.

22. PW.15 Visheshwar Sharma, Scientific Officer in State Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga, also admitted that one sealed parcel was received in the Laboratory on 28.11.2002, wherein original documents i.e. admitted hand writing and signatures of the accused Ex.t.PW7/A, Ext.PW7/B and Ext.PW15/A to Ext.PW15/C specimen handwriting and signatures of the accused were also received. He also stated that on examination using scientific technique, report Ext.PW15/D, bearing his signatures and official stamp was handed over to the police. He also stated that case was also examined by Assistant Director Ms. Meenakshi Mahajan, who countersigned the report along with her official stamp. This prosecution witness also proved Ext.PW15/E i.e. reasons for opinion. In his cross-examination, he admitted that writing Ext.PW7/A and Ext.PW7/8, Ext.PW15/A and Ext.P15/B appears to be relative in age. He admitted in cross-examination that with the passage of time, some variations in habit of writing may occur, however, in cross-examination, he admitted the suggestion that relative age of the writing is similar and there can be variation of opinion from expert to expert.

23. PW16. Inspector Madan Lal deposed before the learned trial Court that FIR Ext.PW16/B was registered on the basis of complaint No. 226. He also stated that accused Ravi Dutt had taken Rs.30,000/- from a girl from his relations for admission in M.Sc. course but no admission was got done in the said course. He also stated in examination-in-chief that he repeatedly had a telephonic talk with the accused regarding the aforesaid fact. However, in cross-examination, he admitted that he has not brought all these facts on record during the course of the investigation.

24. PW17 Shri Ashok Katoch, Editor of Divya Himachal newspaper stated that record qua the advertisement is weeded out after every one year. He also proved letter Ext.PW17/A issued from their office.

25. PW18. ASI Rajinder Pal, who was the Investigating Officer and during investigation, he had taken into custody two receipts, Ext.PW7/A and Ext.PW7/B vide memo Ext.PW7/C. He also stated that specimen signatures and writing of the accused, Ext.PW15/A to PW15/C were taken by him before the Court. In his cross-examination, he admitted that no proof was found that accused was employee of the said school. In his cross-examination, he also admitted that he had taken into possession the record from the school but not attached with the challan. He also admitted the suggestion put to him in the cross-examination that he did not cite the magistrate from whom, he had procured the specimen signatures of the accused, as a witness in the case.

26. Careful perusal of the depositions made by complainant PW1 depicts that on the basis of advertisement, he contacted the school at Bijhar telephonically for admission of his daughter Sunita in M.Sc. Course. As per his statement one Anil Kumar asked him to bring certificates of his daughter along with amount of Rs.30,000/-, which he deposited along with documents with one Anil Kumar. PW1 nowhere in his statement stated that he had actually handed over the documents as well as amount to accused Ravi Dutt, rather, he categorically stated that he handed over amount along with documents to one Anil Kumar, who has been admittedly not made accused/party in the present case. It has also come in the statement of PW1 that when he again went back to the aforesaid school, to get back the money as well as certificates, Anil Kumar and Ravi Dutt did not meet him and another person returned certificates, who told him that money would be returned by Anil Kumar and Ravi Dutt. Thereafter He lodged complaint, which was ultimately registered as FIR Ext.16/B. Careful reading of the deposition made by the complainant nowhere suggests that actually, he was ever able to see accused Ravi Dutt in person. In his statement, it has come that on both the occasions, when he visited the School, accused Ravi Dutt was not present. As per his statement, he had handed over the amount of Rs.30,000/- along with certificates to one Shri Anil Kumar, who has been not admittedly made accused in the present case for the reasons best known to the prosecution. Hence, in the absence of specific proof that money ultimately travelled to Ravi Dutt from Anil Kumar, version put forth by the prosecution that the complainant paid a sum of Rs.30,000/- to the accused Ravi Dutt for admission cannot be accepted on its face value.

27. In the present case, admittedly, complaint was lodged against the accused that an amount of Rs.30,000/- was taken by accused Ravi Dutt for admission of his daughter but ultimately, admission was not got done. Prosecution with a view to prove its case, examined PW2 Kashmir Singh, PW3 Jitender Kumar, PW4 Kanshi Ram, PW5 Kashmir Singh, PW6 Hemawati, PW7 Arun Mahajan, PW8 Mohan Lal, PW9 Sanjeev Kaundal, PW13 Parvesh Kumar and PW14 Raman Kaistha, to substantiate that so many people in terms of the advertisement, paid money as well as deposited certificates to accused Ravi Dutt. But, this Court while hearing the parties as well as examining the record had an occasion to peruse the statements of each and every PW, as referred above. Careful perusal of the depositions made by aforesaid witnesses nowhere supported the version of the PW1 where he stated that he had paid amount of ` 30,000 to the accused Ravi Dutt, rather, these witnesses, as referred above, have narrated their own instances, where they in terms of advertisement, contacted the petitioner-accused and paid some amount for admission of their children for courses, but admittedly these witnesses, nowhere substantiated the claim put forth by the PW1-complainat, in the present case that he had actually paid amount of Rs.30,000/- to the accused Ravi Dutt for admission of his daughter. Since in the present case, where the police on the basis of specific complaint filed by the PW1 registered the case against the accused, witnesses cited by prosecution were expected to support the case of the complainant-PW1 by stating that amount of Rs.30,000 along with original certificates was deposited by PW1 in their presence with accused Ravi Dutt but in the present case, all these prosecution witnesses have not supported the statement given by PW1, rather, they have stated their own tales indicating therein that money was taken by accused Ravi Dutt for admission in course by taking money. Interestingly, in the present case, all PWs, as referred above, have nowhere reported the matter to the police and, as such, no case whatsoever was registered against the accused Ravi Dutt on their specific complaint. However, perusal of statement given by PW2 suggests that 8 girls and 6 parents along with Ravi Dutt and Kartar Singh had gone to Dehradun for admission and, subsequently, they along with accused Ravi Dutt met SHO Barsar, who asked Ravi Dutt to return the amount taken by him. PW2 also stated that Ravi Dutt returned half of the payment and assured them to return the remaining within eight days. But fact remains that PW2, who as per his statement, had an occasion to meet Ravi Dutt and visit Dehradun along with him never lodged any complaint against the accused. Hence, in the absence of specific statement that PW1 had actually made payment to the accused in their presence, version put forth by these PWs, as referred above, cannot be of any help to the prosecution. Interestingly, in the present case, where PW1 specifically stated that money was paid to Anil Kumar, police for the reasons best known to it, has not arrayed Anil Kumar as Accused in the present case, who as per the version of PW1 received money on behalf of accused Ravi Dutt. Had police arrayed aforesaid Anil Kumar as accused and investigated the matter, perhaps, it would have been discovered whether money actually travelled to the accused, Ravi Dutt or not? Hence, in the absence of some specific proof, it cannot be assumed/believed that money actually paid by complaint travelled to the accused Ravi Dutt.

28. Moreover, in the present case, PW10 and 12, employees of school categorically denied that accused Ravi Dutt in some manner was associated with school. Though, these aforesaid witnesses were declared hostile but in their cross-examination they have specifically denied that Ravi Dutt was the Manager of the school. In the present case, as per statement of PW18 ASI Rajinder Pal, no proof, whatsoever, could be found to connect the accused with the school. PW18 in his statement admitted that no connection was found of the accused that he was employee of the school. He also admitted in cross-examination that though, he had taken record from the school but same was not attached with the challan. Hence, it can be safely inferred that police had no record, whatsoever, to connect accused Ravi Dutt with the school, who allegedly got the advertisement published in the news paper. Similarly, PW17 also stated in cross-examination that record pertaining to advertisement is weeded out after one year and as such, advertisement, if any, got issued by the accused on behalf of the school, has not been proved by the prosecution. Moreover, PW15 who proved the opinion Ext.PW15/C stated that Ext.PW7/A and Ext.PW7/B appears to be relative in age. He admitted the suggestion put to him in cross-examination that relative age of the writing is similar and there is a possibility of variation of opinion from expert to expert. Moreover, proseuciton has not examined learned Magistrate in whose presence, signatures were obtained for sending it to the Forensic Scientific Laboratory for examination. Interestingly, in the present case, PW16 Madan Lal admitted that complaint was received by him, which was converted into FIR vide Ext. PW16/B. He in his statement stated that accused had taken Rs.30,000/- from girl from his relations for admission in course but later on, admission was not got done in terms of the promise made to her. He admitted that thereafter, he had a telephonic talk with the accused on several occasion, but in cross-examination, he admitted that he had not brought all facts on record during the courts of investigation. Hence, in the absence of specific complaint in this regard made by PWs, their version cannot be of any help to prosecution to prove the instant case.

29. Careful perusal of the record suggests that in the instant case, case was registered by the police on the basis of compliant lodged by PW1, which was ultimately converted into FIR. Close scrutiny of the FIR nowhere suggests that any other instances, as have been put forth by the prosecution witnesses, were made basis of the FIR. Rather, FIR in question was specifically lodged on the specific allegation of the complainant, where he reported that he had paid a sum of Rs.30,000/- to the accused Ravi Dutt. Since case at hand was registered on the basis of specific complaint, accused cannot be held guilty of having committed offence under Sections 406 and 420 of the Indian Penal Code on the statement of witnesses that they had also made payment to the accused for admission of their children in the various courses. In the extant case, prosecution was expected to lead specific evidence on record to demonstrate that complainant had made the payment of Rs.30,000/- for admission of his daughter but as appears from record, none of the witnesses have supported the specific case, which ultimately culminated into criminal proceedings that money was paid by the complaint to accused-Ravi Dutt.

30. In view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove as well as critical analysis of the material evidence brought on record by the prosecution, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. Save and except statement of PW1, no prosecution witness has stated that complainant PW1 had made payment of Rs.30,000/- to the Ravi Dutt. Rather, instead of proving the case, all the prosecution witnesses narrated their own instances of making payment to the accused on the basis of advertisement got published in the news paper but fact remains that all these witnesses never lodged the complaint to the police and as such their statements cannot be of any help to the prosecution to prove that PW1 paid amount of Rs.30,000/- to the accused on the basis of the advertisement. Moreover, prosecution has also failed to prove on record that advertisement was actually got published by accused Ravi Dutt in the news paper and he actually received the money from PW1 for admission of his daughter. In the present case where there is a specific statement of PW1 that he had paid amount of Rs.30,000/- to one Shri Anil Kumar, prosecution has not led any evidence on record to prove that Anil Kumar received money on behalf of the accused Ravi Dutt, which later on travelled to him.

31. Consequently, this Court sees no reason whatsoever, to interference with the judgments of acquittal passed by the courts below, which appear to be based on correct appreciation of the material evidence available on record. Hence the petition stands dismissed.

For the respondent: Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate General, with Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral).

The present civil revision petition filed under Section 115 CPC is directed against the Judgment dated 19.3.2005 passed by the learned District Judge, Una, HP, in Civil Misc. Appeal No. 61 of 1999, whereby learned court below partly accepted the appeal preferred by the present petitioner and held him entitled to amount of Rs.64,074/- over and above the finally payment. Petitioner being aggrieved with the non-granting of interest, if any, on the aforesaid amount, approached this Hon'ble Court by way of present proceedings.

2. Briefly stated facts necessary for adjudication of the present case are that petitioner was awarded contract of construction of Lift Irrigation Scheme, Santoo Tilla on the basis of agreement No.1 of 1990-91 amounting to Rs.6,18,227/-. Since the dispute with regard to payment arose between the parties, matter was referred to arbitration in terms of the agreement. Learned Arbitrator, vide award dated 10.10.1994 (Annexure P-1) allowed the claims filed by the present petitioner and held him entitled to an amount of Rs.78,947/-. Perusal of the award also suggests that learned Arbitrator while passing award also granted an amount of Rs.12,582/- on account of interest for nonpayment of substitute/ extra items. Respondent-State being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the award passed by the learned Arbitrator, filed objections under Sections 30 & 33 of the Indian Arbitration Act, in the Court of learned Senior Sub-Judge Una, whereby the objections filed by the respondent-state were allowed and award was set-aside. Being aggrieved with the order of learned Sub-Judge, petitioner preferred an appeal before the court of learned District Judge, Una, whereby he partly allowed the appeal holding him entitled to an amount of Rs.64,074/- over and above the final payment. Since, learned Court below while partly allowing the appeal, held petitioner entitled for an amount of Rs. 64,074/- over and above the final payment but failed to award any interest, the petitioner approached this Hon'ble Court by way of Civil Revision Petition.

3. Smt. Ruma Kaushik. Advocate for the petitioner vehemently argued that learned court below while partly allowing appeal, vide judgment dated 19.3.2005, has erred in not awarding the interest to the petitioner. She forcefully contended that learned court below, while passing the impugned judgment, miserably failed to take cognizance of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, wherein it has been repeatedly held that the court has power to award interest on the awarded amount to the petitioner. It is contended on behalf of the petitioner that since the petitioner was held entitled to amount over and above the final payment, learned court below ought to have awarded interest on the awarded amount. Ms. Kaushik forcefully contended that learned Court below failed to appreciate that learned Arbitrator while passing award dated 10.10.1994 had awarded the interest of Rs. 12,582/- for nonpayment of substitute/extra items and, as such, learned court below has failed to exercise jurisdiction duly vested in him, whereby he could always grant interest on the amount awarded by him. In the aforesaid background, it is prayed that judgment passed by the court below in Civil Misc Appeal No. 61 of 1999 dated 19.3.2005 be modified and petitioner be held entitled to the interest on the amount so paid to the petitioner in terms of judgment dated 19.3.2005 as per law.

4. Per contra, Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, representing the respondent-state vehemently opposed the present petition preferred by the petitioner on the ground of jurisdiction. Mr. Chauhan, strenuously argued that this Court has no jurisdiction, whatsoever, to entertain the present petition in view of the specific remedy provided under Section 37 of the Arbitration Conciliation Act, 1996 (in short "the Act, 1996"). It is also contended that petition filed by the petitioner is not maintainable at all, especially, when remedy of appeal in the Act, 1996 has been already exhausted by the petitioner by filing the appeal in the court of learned District Judge, Una. He also forcefully contended that learned court below has rightly not awarded interest on the amount so awarded by it as it is exclusive domain of the Arbitrator in terms of the Section 31 of the Act, 1996 to award interest, if any. In view of the aforesaid submissions, he prayed for dismissal of the present petition.

5. I have heard learned counsel for the parties as well carefully gone through the record.

6. Before adverting to the merits/demerits of the case, it may be noticed that judgment dated 19.3.2005 has attained finality, as no challenge, whatsoever, has been laid to the same by the respondent-State in any competent court of law, meaning thereby, respondent-State has accepted the verdict of the learned District Judge, Una, whereby present petitioner has been held entitled to amount of Rs. 64,074/- over and above the final payment.

7. Since specific objection with regard to the maintainability of present petition has been raised on behalf of the State, it would be proper for this court to examine the issue of maintainability and jurisdiction of this Court at the first instance. To find answer to aforesaid issue, it would be apt to reproduce Section 37 of the Act, 1996, which is as follows:-

> "37. Appealable orders.—
> (1) An appeal shall lie from the following orders (and from no others) to the Court authorised by law to hear appeals from original decrees of the Court passing the order, namely:—

(a) granting or refusing to grant any measure under section 9;

(b) setting aside or refusing to set aside an arbitral award under section 34.

(2) An appeal shall also lie to a Court from an order granting of the arbitral tribunal.—

(a) accepting the plea referred in sub-section (2) or sub-section (3) of section 16; or

(b) granting or refusing to grant an interim measure under section 17.

(3) No second appeal shall lie from an order passed in appeal under this section, but nothing in this section shall affect or take away any right to appeal to the Supreme Court."

8. Bare perusal of aforesaid section suggests that appeal would lie to the court authorized by law to hear appeals against the order granting or refusing to grant any measure under Section 9 and order setting aside or refusing to set-aside an arbitral award under Section 34. Hence, after careful perusal of the aforesaid provision of law, it can be safely inferred that order passed by Court below considering the objection filed under Section 34 of the Act, 1996, is an appealable order and appeal, if any, can be filed against that order in terms of Section 37 of the Act, 1996. Since in the present case, remedy of appeal, as prescribed under Section 37 of the Act, 1996, has been availed by the petitioner by filing CMP No. 61 of 1999, in the court of learned District Judge, Una, no further appeal is maintainable. But in the present case aggrieved with the judgment passed by the learned District Judge, Una, the petitioner has filed civil revision petition under Section 115 CPC, hence, question, which needs to be determined at this stage is, whether revision petition preferred by the petitioner is maintainable or not? It is undisputed that perusal of the section 37 of Arbitration Act clearly bars filing second appeal. Now question which requires to be determined is that in absence of any specific remedy appeal/proceedings, what is the remedy available to the petitioner for assailing the judgment passed by learned appellate Court in appellate proceedings under Section 37 of the Act, 1996. Learned counsel appearing for respondent –State argued that petitioner has/had any remedy if, any, to file special leave petition under Article 136 of the Constitution of India, before the Hon'ble Apex Court. Since present petition has been filed under Section 115 CPC, it would be profitable to reproduce the provisions of Section 115 CPC herein below:-

"115. Revision.- (1) The High Court may call for the record of any case which has been decide by any court subordinate to such High Court and in which no appeal lies thereto, and if such subordinate court appears—

(a) to have exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law, or

(b) to have failed to exercise a jurisdiction so vested, or

(c) to have acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally or with material irregularity, the High Court may make such order in the case as it thinks fit:—

Provided that the High Court shall not, under this section, vary or reverse any order made, or any order deciding an issue, in the course of a suit or other proceeding, except where the order, if it had been made in favour of the party applying for revision, would have finally disposed of the suit or other proceedings.

(2) The High Court shall not, under this section vary or reverse any decree or order against which an appeal lies either to the High Court or to any court subordinate thereto.

(3) A revision shall not operate as a stay of suitor other proceeding before the Court except where such suit or other proceeding is stayed by the High Court.

> Explanation .- In this section, the expression "any case which has been decided" includes any order made, or any order deciding an issue, in the course of a Suit or other proceeding."

Close scrutiny of provisions of Section 115 CPC clearly suggests that High Court is empowered to call for the records of any case decided by the court subordinate to it, where there is no further provision of appeal. When it is satisfied that subordinate court has not exercised jurisdiction vested in it by law or have failed to exercise jurisdiction so vested or to have committed any exercise of its jurisdiction illegally with material irregularity. In the present case also, learned District Judge has passed impugned order /judgment while exercising power under Section 37 of the Act, 1996, meaning thereby, party aggrieved with the order of learned District Judge in exercise of Section 37 has no remedy of appeal, if any, to challenge the order passed by learned District Judge in exercise of power under Section 37 of the Act. As has been noticed above, since there is no further remedy available to the petitioner to assail the order/judgment passed by learned appellate Court in exercise of its power under Section 37 of the Arbitration Act, he has rightly approached this Court invoking provisions of Section 115 CPC which certainly empowers the High Court to entertain the petition in the facts and circumstances as discussed hereinabove. Moreover, perusal of the impugned order passed by the learned Appellate Court clearly suggests that he has failed to exercise jurisdiction vested in him by not awarding interest on the amount to which petitioner has been held entitled over and above the final

9. In this regard, reliance is also placed in judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in "ITI Ltd. v Siemens Public communication Network Ltd.", 2002 (5) SCC 510, the relevant paras of which are reproduced herein below:-

> "21. Provisions of Section 37 of the Act of 1996 bars Second Appeal and not revision under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure. The Power of appeal under Section 37(2) of the Act against order of arbitral Tribunal granting or refusing to grant an interim measure is conferred on court. Court is defined in Section 2(e) meaning the 'principal Civil Court of Original Jurisdiction' which has 'jurisdiction to decide the question forming the subject-matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject matter of the suit'. The power of appeal having conferred on a Civil court all procedural provisions contained in the Code would apply to the proceedings in appeal. Such proceedings in appeal are not open to Second Appeal as the same is clearly barred under Sub-section (3) of Section 37. But I agree with the conclusion reached by Brother Hegde J. that the supervisory and revisional jurisdiction of High Court under Section 115 of the Code of Civil procedure is neither expressly nor impliedly barred either by the provisions of Section 37 or Section 19(1) of the Act. Section 19(1) under Chapter V of the Part I of the Act merely states that the Arbitral Tribunal shall not be bound by the Code of Civil Procedure. The said action has no application to the proceedings before civil court in exercise of powers in appeal under Section 39(2) of the Act.
> 22. The supervisory jurisdiction to be exercise by the High Court under Section 115 of the Code is for the purpose of correcting jurisdiction error if any committed by Sub-ordinate Court in exercise of power in appeal under Section 37(2) of the Act. The approach made to the Revisional Court under Section 115 of the Code is not a resort to remedy of appeal. In appeal, interference can be made both on facts and law whereas in revision only errors relating to jurisdiction can be corrected. Such revisional remedy is not expressly barred by the provisions of the Act. We have also not found any implied exclusion of the same on examination of the scheme and relevant provisions of the Act."

10. Reliance is also placed on judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Shyam Sunder Agarwal & Co. v. Union of India, 1996(2) SCC 132,which also reads as follows:-

> "26. In our view, a revisional application before the High Court against an appellate order passed under Section 39 of the Arbitration Act is maintainable. There is no express provision in the Arbitration Act putting an embargo against filing a revisional application against appellate order under Section 39 of the Act. The Arbitration Act has put an embargo on filing any second appeal from appellate order under Section 39 of the Act. The Arbitration Act is a special statute having limited application relating to matters governed by the said Act. Such special statute, therefore, must have its application as provided for in the said statute. The revisional jurisdiction of the High Court under the Code or under any other statute therefore shall not stand superseded under the Arbitration Act if the Act does not contain any express bar against exercise of revisional power by the High Court provided exercise of such revisional power does not mitigate against giving effect to the provisions of the Arbitration Act.

28. It may be stated that even if a special statute expressly attaches finality to an appellate order passed under that statute. It has been held by this Court in the case of Hari Shanker (supra) that such provision of finality will not take away revisional powers of the High Court under Section 115 of the Code of Civil Procedure. There is also no such express provision in the Arbitration Act attaching finality to the appellate order under Section 39 of the said Act. As already indicated, only bar under sub section (2) of Section 39 is of a second appeal from an appellate order under Section 39. The impugned order of the High Court upholding maintainability of revisional application under Rule 36A of the Rules, therefore, is justified and no interference against such decision is warranted. This appeal, therefore, fails and is dismissed without any order as to costs. As the revision application is sending for a long time, the High Court is directed to dispose of revisional application on merits as early as possible but not exceeding four months from the date of communication of this order."

11. This court also examined submission made on behalf of respondent, wherein specific submission was made that remedy, if any, against the judgment passed by learned District Judge under Section 37 of the Act lies before the Hon'ble Apex Court under Article 136 of the Constitution of India in the absence of any specific remedy available under the Act. Though, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgments referred herein above, has categorically held that provisions contained in Section 37 of the Act, 1996, bars second appeal but not revision under Section 115 of CPC, meaning thereby, revision petition filed under Section 115 CPC is maintainable challenging therein the order passed by the first Appellate court under Section 37 of the Act, 1996. Similarly, the Hon'ble Apex Court while examining the scope of granting leave to appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution of India against any order/judgment, wherein there is no provision of second appeal provided under the Act, held in "Shin-etsu Chemical Company limited and others v. Vindhya Telelinks Limited and others," 2009(14) SCC 16, as under:-

"16. Relying upon the exception contained in sub-section (2) of Section 50, the appellant contended that even though an appeal may not lie from the order in the appeal, the right of appeal to Supreme Court having been specifically saved, these appeals to the Supreme Court are maintainable. The appellant does not dispute that the Act does not provide a `right to appeal' to Supreme Court against an appellate order under Section 50(1)(a) of the Act.

17. The appellant would contend that as Article 136 contemplates Supreme Court granting leave to appeal from any judgment, decree or order and as sub-section (2) of Section 50 of the Act specifically saves the right to appeal to Supreme Court, an appeal to Supreme Court by obtaining leave under article 136 should be held to be a remedy in regard to an appellant order under Section 50(1) of the Act, even if the court of appeal was a court inferior to the High Court.

18. What is exempted from the bar against second appeals is `any right to appeal to the Supreme Court'. Article 136 of the Constitution provides that notwithstanding anything in Chapter IV of Part V of the Constitution, the Supreme Court may in its discretion grant special leave to appeal from any judgment, decree, determination, sentence or order in any cause or matter passed or made by any court or tribunal in the territory of India.

19. Article 136 does not confer a right to a party to appeal to the Supreme Court. The said article confers discretion upon the Supreme Court to grant leave to appeal in suitable cases. The power vested in Supreme Court to grant leave, which is to be used sparingly in appropriate cases, cannot be construed as vesting of a right of appeal in a party under Article 136.

28. Though, Article 136 provides that this Court has the discretion to grant leave to appeal against any order (judgment, or determination) in any cause by any court, this Court has been consistently following the practice of not entertaining appeals directly from the orders of district courts or court subordinate thereto, if an alternative remedy by way of appeal or revision was available before the High Court. In fact, after the scope of revision under section 115 was curtailed by Amendment Act 46 of 1999 with effect from 1.7.2002, the availability of even the remedy by invoking the supervisory jurisdiction under Art. 227 of the Constitution (as enunciated by this Court in Surya Dev Rai vs. Ram Chander Rai - 2003 (6) SCC 675), has been considered as an adequate alternative remedy, for the purposes of Article 136."

12. In view of the discussion made herein above as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, this Court has no reason whatsoever to accept the contention with regard to maintainability put forth on behalf of the respondent-State. After perusing the relevant provision of law as well as judgments cited above, it can be safely concluded that present petition filed under Section 115 CPC is maintainable.

13. Now adverting to the merits of the present petition, wherein petitioner has sought modification of the impugned judgment and claimed interest on the amount to which he has been held entitled by the learned District Judge in its judgment, perusal of the grounds of appeal (Annexure-P2) filed by the petitioner in the court of learned District Judge, Una, challenging therein order dated 23.6.1999 passed by learned Senior Sub Judge in Arbitration Case No. 1 of 1994 suggests that present petitioner had specifically prayed for acceptance of the award passed by the learned Arbitrator as a whole, by rejecting the objections filed by the respondent and with further prayer to award the interest @18% p.a.

14. Careful perusal of impugned judgment nowhere suggests that learned Appellate Court while holding the present petitioner entitled to the amount in question over and above the final payment dealt with issue of entitlement of interest, if any, to the petitioner. Learned Appellate Court after perusing the record made available to him observed that Executive Engineer made an offer of Rs. 747.05 as the costs of per kilo gram of 4mm thick pipe as per agreement and as such contractor-petitioner was entitled to the rate i.e. Rs. 747.05 per meter.

15. Learned Court below also observed that since aforesaid offer was made by the Government to the Contractor, Government cannot wriggle out of the same. Fact remains that by way of impugned order appellant was held entitled for payment of rates as suggested by the Executive Engineer to the Arbitrator vide letter and on the basis of calculations, as reproduced in the impugned judgment, present petitioner was held entitled for the payment of Rs. 74,047/- over and above the final payment of Rs. 2,66,122.92 paisa, which stood received by the Contractor at the time of adjudication by the Court of learned District Judge, Una. As has been noticed above, the aforesaid judgment has attained finality as no appeal/proceedings, if any, were filed by the respondent in any court of law, meaning thereby, amount determined by the learned District Judge in the appeal was accepted by the respondent. This Court is of the view that once respondents accepted the verdict of learned District Judge, wherein petitioner was held entitled to amount of Rs. 60,474/- over and above the final payment of Rs. 2,66,122.92 paisa, petitioner has rightly staked his claim for interest on the amount so awarded by learned District Judge. As per Section 31 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, Arbitrator is competent to award the interest on the awarded amount, as has been noticed above.

16. Since specific challenge was laid to the award passed by the learned Arbitrator and ultimately, petitioner was held entitled to the sum over and above the final payment received by him, learned Appellate Court ought to have awarded interest on the amount awarded by it to the petitioner. Since learned appellate Court had passed judgment dated 19.3.2005 in the arbitration appeal constituted/maintained by the present petitioner in terms of Section 37 of the Act, 1996, proceedings, if any, would be considered in continuation of the Arbitration proceedings initiated with the reference of dispute to the Arbitrator and, as such, same would be governed by the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act. Since Section 31 of the Arbitration Act specifically provides for interest on the awarded sum and as such this, Court has no hesitation to conclude that the petitioner is entitled to be awarded interest on the amount determined by the learned Appellate Court.

> "Jagdish Rai and Brothers v. Union of India (1999) 3 SCC 257:-
> 8. The learned counsel for the appellant relied upon several decisions of this Court to state the proposition that such interest could be granted. It is unnecessary to make any detailed reference to them. We think it appropriate to modify the decree of the court of Sub-Judge by including a direction for payment of interest @ 12% per annum from the date when the award was made the decree of the court of Sub-Judge till realisation. The appeal is allowed to the extent indicated above. However, in the circumstances of the case, there shall be no orders as to costs."
> "Ghulam Mohammad Dar versus State of J&K and others, (2008) 1 SCC 422:-
> 8. Learned senior counsel appearing for the appellant, by drawing our attention to the direction of the Arbitrator as well as the ultimate order passed by the High Court, submitted that in view of default in payment of the amount within the stipulated time, the appellant is entitled interest @ 18% p.a. from the date of the Award and not from the date of the decree. In the light of the controversy, we verified the direction of the Arbitrator and the order passed by the High Court both in the Arbitration and Revision Petition. On perusal of the same and of the fact that the respondents are none other than the State Government, we agree with the order of the High Court dated 30.04.1998 passed in Arbitration Petition No. 171 of 1991 and hold that the claimant is entitled to interest @ 18% p.a. for the award amount from the date of the decree till realization. To this extent, we clarify the position. The Civil Appeal is disposed of on the above terms. No costs."

18. In view of the discussion made hereinabove as well as law cited by this Court, present civil petition is allowed and the petitioner is held entitled to the interest @ 12% p.a. from the date when award was made decree by the court of learned District Judge, Una, on 19.3.2005 till its payment. The petition stands disposed of accordingly.

FAO(HMA) No. 454/2015
Reserved on: June 21, 2016
Decided on: June 22, 2016

Hindu Marriage Act, 1955- Section 13- Marriage between the parties was solemnized in the month of March, 1993- a daughter and a son were born from wedlock – behaviour of the wife was harsh, cruel and insulting towards the appellant- she started pressurizing the appellant to reside separately from the parents- she stopped doing household works and used to misbehave with the husband, his mother and his sister- she left home without any reason- divorce was sought on all these grounds- petition was dismissed by the trial Court- held, in appeal that allegations made in the petition are vague and sketchy- husband had failed to prove that wife had treated him with cruelty- mere failure to do household work will not amount to cruelty- on the other hand, it was proved that husband had treated wife with cruelty- he cannot take advantage of his own wrongs- petition was rightly dismissed by the trial Court- appeal dismissed. Ravi Kumar vs. Julumidevi (2010) 4 SCC 476

For the Appellant : Mr. Shanti Swaroop, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. Vikas Rathore, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Rajiv Sharma, Judge:

This appeal has been instituted against Judgment dated 1.8.2015 passed by the learned Additional District Judge (II), Shimla in HMA Petition No. 29-S/3 of 2014/11.

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of the present appeal are that the appellant instituted a petition under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, before the Additional District Judge(II) Shimla, for the dissolution of marriage between the parties by way of a decree of divorce. According to the averments made in the petition, marriage between the appellant and respondent was solemnised in the month of March, 1993 at Hamirpur, in accordance with Hindu rites and rituals. Both the parties cohabited as husband-wife. Out of said wedlock a daughter and a son were born. Attitude and behaviour of the respondent was cordial towards the appellant but after 4-5 months of their marriage, all of a sudden, her behaviour became very harsh, cruel and insulting towards the appellant. Respondent started pressurizing and compelling the appellant to reside separately from the parents. There was no one to look after and maintain the old aged mother and sister after the death of father of the appellant. Respondent stopped doing minor household works and pressurized the appellant to live separately. Respondent used to misbehave and used abusive language against the mother and sister of the appellant. Matter was amicably settled between the parties by way of compromise. However there was no change in the attitude of the respondent. Separate accommodation was also provided to them in the month of October 1998. Respondent left the matrimonial home in October, 2008. She also developed unwanted relations with one Shri Gurjeet Singh. According to the appellant, he was treated with cruelty by the respondent. She deserted the appellant without assigning any sufficient reasons.

3. The petition was contested by the respondent. She has denied that she treated the appellant with cruelty. She had never pressurized the appellant to live separately from his family. Appellant was responsible for forcing the respondent to live with her parents. Rejoinder was filed by the appellant. Issues were framed by the learned Additional District Judge on 18.8.2012.

4. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the record carefully.

5. Appellant has appeared as PW-1. He has led his evidence by way of filing an affidavit, Ext. PW-1/A. According to the averments made in the affidavit, relations between the parties were cordial for 4-5 months. Thereafter, relations deteriorated. Respondent used to pick up quarrels with him. She used to pressurize him to live separately. His mother provided them with separate accommodation. She left the daughter unattended. He has placed on record Exts. PA to PY. Respondent used to file false complaints against him with the police. She has not maintained any physical relations with him since 2001. Ext. PW-1/B-1 is the envelope. In Ext. PW-1/B, respondent has merely stated that she was not well and the appellant should take care of his daughter. Ext. PW-1/B-3 is a copy of summons issued by the Court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hamirpur under Section 125 CrPC. Ext. PW-1/B-2 a copy of application filed by the respondent under Section 125 CrPC seeking maintenance allowance at the rate of `500/- per month. Ext. PW-1/B-7 is legal notice served upon the respondent at the instance of the landlord Shri Jagat Ram, whereby respondent was asked to vacate the accommodation within 15 days of the receipt of the notice. Legal notice was replied vide Ext. PW-1/B-8 by the respondent. She has denied that the house was owned by Jagat Ram. Ext.PW-1/B-9 is a copy of the petition filed by Jagat Ram under Section 14(2)(i) of the HP Rent Control Act against the respondent. Appellant has also filed a complaint against Shri Gurjeet Singh, who was working in Central Potato Research Institute (CPRI), Shimla. Ext. PW-1/B-14 is a copy of letter addressed by the father of the respondent to the Hon'ble Chief Minister bringing to his notice that his daughter was being harassed for bringing insufficient dowry. Appellant has again filed a complaint against Shri Gurjeet Singh vide Ext. PW-1/B-21. Ext. PW-1/B-24 has no relevance in the present case since it is a complaint filed by the wife of Shri Gurjeet Singh, namely Kamaljeet Kaur against her husband. Matter was also looked into by a duly constituted committee as per Ext. PW-1/B-43. The Committee has not found any substance about illegal relations between Gurjeet Singh and the respondent.

6. Respondent has appeared as RW-1. In her statement, she has refuted the averments made in affidavit Ext. PW-1/A. According to her statement, relations between the parties remained normal for 4/5 years. Thereafter, appellant started harassing her. She was forcibly sent to Hamirpur for delivery. She was residing with her husband. She has denied that she has left the matrimonial house in the year 2008. She has denied the allegations about relations with Gurjeet Singh. She also specifically testified that the matter was compromised several times but the appellant was still harassing her. She has denied the suggestion that she was forcing the appellant to live separately. She has admitted that she has filed petition under section 125 CrPC. She used to look after the guests. She has never picked up any quarrel with her husband. She denied the suggestion that she was provided separate accommodation. She was residing with her children in the same house where the appellant was residing. She has admitted that her father has sent a letter to the Hon'ble Chief Minister vide Ext. PW-1/B-14. She has denied the suggestion that she has not served food to her mother-in-law. She has admitted that she has filed complaint before the Police since appellant was not paying her maintenance. Her daughter was pursuing B.Tech. and her son was in 10+2 at the time of recording of her statement.

7. The allegations contained in the petition against the respondent are vague and sketchy. He has miserably failed to prove that the respondent has treated the appellant with cruelty. Merely that the respondent has refused to look after the household work occasionally would not amount to cruelty. No specific year, month or date has been given when the respondent has used abusive language against the appellant.

8. Thus, it is duly proved that it is the appellant who has treated the respondent with cruelty by not providing her the maintenance. She is looking after her two children. It was in these circumstances that the respondent was forced to file a petition under Section 125 CrPC against the appellant. The appellant has not even looked after his children. She has no independent source of income. Appellant could not be permitted to take advantage of his own wrongs. It is intriguing to note that both the parties are living in the same house and despite that ground has been taken that the respondent has deserted him. Besides this, the averments made by appellant are nothing but normal wear and tear of life and trivial in nature. Respondent has never deserted the appellant. It is the appellant who, has forced the respondent to live separately, particularly by creating a hostile environment. Appellant has failed to prove that he was treated with cruelty by the respondent. The plaintiff has also failed to prove that the respondent has deserted him without any cause.

9. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bipinchandra Jaisinghbai Shah versus Prabhavati, AIR 1957 SC 176 have held that two essential conditions must be there to prove the desertion: (1) the factum of separation, and (2) the intention to bring cohabitation permanently to an end (animus deserendi). Their Lordships have held that desertion is a matter of interference to be drawn from the facts and circumstances of each case. Their Lordships have held as under:

> "What is desertion? "Rayden on Divorce" which is a standard work on the subject at p.128 (6th Edn.) has summarized the case-law on the subject in these terms:-
> "Desertion is the separation of one spouse from the other, with an intention on the part of the deserting spouse of bringing cohabitation permanently to an end without reasonable cause and without the consent of the other spouse; but the physical act of departure by one spouse does not necessarily make that spouse the deserting party".
> The legal position has been admirably summarized in paras 453 and 454 at pp. 241. to 243 of Halsbury's Laws of England (3rd Edn.), VoL 12, in the following words:-
> "In its essence desertion means the intentional permanent forsaking and abandonment of one spouse by the other without that other's consent and without reasonable cause. It is a total repudiation of the obligations of marriage. In view of the large variety of circumstances and of modes of life involved, the Court has discouraged attempts at defining desertion, there being no general principle applicable to all cases. Desertion is not the withdrawal from a place but from the state of things, for what the law seeks to enforce is the recognition and discharge of the common obligations of the married state; the state of things may usually be termed, for short, 'the home'. There can be desertion without previous cohabitation by the parties, or without the marriage having been consummated. The person who actually withdraws from cohabitation is not necessarily the deserting party. The fact that a husband makes an allowance to a wife whom he has abandoned is no answer to a charge of desertion.
> The offence of desertion is a course of conduct which exists independently of its duration, but as a ground for divorce it must exist for a period of at least three years immediately preceding the presentation of the petition where the offence appears as a cross-charge, of the answer. Desertion as a ground of divorce differs from the statutory grounds of adultery and cruelty in that the offence founding the cause of action of desertion is not complete, but is inchoate, until the suit is constituted. Desertion is a continuing offence".
> Thus the quality of permanence is one of the essential elements which differentiates desertion from wilful separation. If a spouse abandons the other spouse in a state of temporary passion, for example anger or disgust, without intending permanently to cease cohabitation, it will not amount to desertion. For the offence of desertion, so far as the deserting spouse is concerned, two essential conditions must be there namely, (1) the factum of separation, and (2) the intention to bring cohabitation permanently to an end (animus deserendi). Similarly two elements are essential so far as the deserted spouse is concerned: (1) the absence of consent, and (2) absence of conduct giving reasonable cause to the spouse leaving the matrimonial home to form the necessary intention aforesaid. The petitioner for divorce bears the burden of proving those elements in the two spouses respectively. Here a difference between the English law and the law as enacted by the Bombay Legislature may be pointed out. Whereas under the English law those essential conditions must continue throughout the course of the three years immediately preceding the institution of the suit for divorce, under the Act, the period is four years without specifying that it should immediately precede the commencement of proceedings for divorce. Whether the omission of the last clause has any practical result need not detain us, as it does not call for decision in the present case. Desertion is a matter of inference to be drawn from the facts and circumstances to each case. The inference may be drawn from certain facts which may not in another case be capable of leading to the same inference; that is to say, the facts have to be viewed as to the purpose which is revealed by those acts or by conduct and expression of intention, both anterior and subsequent to the actual acts of separation. If in fact, there has been a separation, the essential question always is whether that act could be attributable to an animus deserendi. The offence of desertion commences when the fact of separation and the animus deserendi co- exist. But it is not necessary that they should commence at the same time. The de facto separation may have commenced without the necessary animus or it may be that the separation and the (animus deserendi) coincide in point of time; for example, when the separating spouse abandons the marital home with the intention, express or implied of bringing cohabitation permanently to a close. The law in England has prescribed a three years period and the Bombay Act prescribed a period of four years as a continuous period during which the two elements must subsist. Hence, if a deserting spouse takes advantage of the locus poenitentiae thus provided by law and decides to come back to the deserted spouse by a bona fide offer of resuming the matrimonial home with all the implications of marital life, before the statutory period is out or even after the lapse of that period, unless proceedings for divorce have been commenced, desertion comes to an end, and if the deserted spouse unreasonably refuses to offer, the latter may be in desertion and not the former. Hence it is necessary that during all the period that there has been a desertion, the deserted spouse must affirm the marriage and be ready and willing to resume married life on such conditions as may be reasonable. It is also well settled that in proceedings for divorce the plaintiff must prove the offence of desertion, like and other matrimonial offence, beyond all reasonable doubt. Hence, though corroboration is not required as an absolute rule of law the courts insist upon corroborative evidence, unless its absence is accounted for to the satisfaction of the court. In this connection the following observations of Lord Goddard CJ. in the case of Lawson v. Lawson, 1955-1 All E R 341 at p. 342(A), may be referred to :-

"These cases are not cases in which corroboration is required as a matter of law. It is required as a matter of precaution....... "

With these preliminary observations we now proceed to examine the evidence led on behalf of the parties to find out whether desertion has been proved in this case and, if so, whether there was a bona fide offer by the wife to return to her matrimonial home with a view to discharging marital duties and, if so, whether there was an unreasonable refusal on the part of the husband to take her back.

10. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Manisha Tyagi vs. Deepak Kumar reported in 2010(1) Divorce & Matrimonial Cases 451, have explained the term 'cruelty' as under:

"24. This is no longer the required standard. Now it would be sufficient to show that the conduct of one of the spouses is so abnormal and below the accepted norm that the other spouse could not reasonable be expected to put up with it. The conduct is no longer required to be so atrociously abominable which would cause a reasonable apprehension that would be harmful or injurious to continue the cohabitation with the other spouse. Therefore, to establish cruelty it is not necessary that physical violence should be used. However, continued ill-treatment cessation of marital intercourse, studied neglect, indifference of one spouse to the other may lead to an inference of cruelty. However, in this case even with aforesaid standard both the Trial Court and the Appellate Court had accepted that the conduct of the wife did not amount to cruelty of such a nature to enable the husband to obtain a decree of divorce."

11. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ravi Kumar vs. Julumidevi reported in (2010) 4 SCC 476, have explained the term 'cruelty' as under:

"19. It may be true that there is no definition of cruelty under the said Act. Actually such a definition is not possible. In matrimonial relationship, cruelty would obviously mean absence of mutual respect and understanding between the spouses which embitters the relationship and often leads to various outbursts of behaviour which can be termed as cruelty. Sometime cruelty in a matrimonial relationship may take the form of violence, sometime it may take a different form. At times, it ma be just an attitude or an approach. Silence in some situations may amount to cruelty.

20. Therefore, cruelty in matrimonial behaviour defies any definition and its categories can never be closed. Whether the husband is cruel to his wife or the wife is cruel to her husband has to be ascertained and judged by taking into account the entire facts and circumstances of the given case and not by any predetermined rigid formula. Cruelty in matrimonial case can be of infinite variety – it may be subtle or even brutal and may be by gestures and word. That possible explains why Lord Denning in Sheldon v. Sheldon held that categories of cruelty in matrimonial case are never closed.

21. This Court is reminded of what was said by Lord Reid in Gollins v. Gollins about judging cruelty in matrimonial cases. The pertinent observations are (AC p.660)

".. In matrimonial cases we are not concerned with the reasonable man as we are in cases of negligence. We are dealing with this man and this woman and the fewer a priori assumptions we make about them the better. In cruelty cases one can hardly ever even start with a presumption that the parties are reasonable people, because it is hard to imagine any cruelty case ever arising if both the spouses think and behave as reasonable people."

22. " About the changing perception of cruelty in matrimonial cases, this Court observed in Shobha Rani v. Madhukar Reddi at AIR p. 123, para 5 of the report: (SCC p.108, para 5)

"5. It will be necessary to bear in mind that there has been (a) marked change in the life around us. In matrimonial duties and responsibilities in particular, we find a sea change. They are of varying degrees from house to house or person to person. Therefore, when a spouse makes complaint about the treatment of cruelty by the partner in life or relations, the court should not search for standard in life. A set of facts stigmatized as cruelty in one case may not be so in another case. The cruelty alleged may largely depend upon the type of life the parties are accustomed to or their economic and social conditions. It may also depend upon their culture and human values to which they attach importance. We, the Judges and lawyers, therefore, should not import our own notions of life. We may not go in parallel with them. There may be a generation gap between us and the parties."

12. In view of the discussion and analysis made herein above, there is no merit in the appeal and the same is dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, also stand disposed of. No costs.

State of H.P. ....Appellant.

Versus

Tilak Raj & Another ....Respondents.

Cr. Appeal No. 569 of 2010.
Decided on: 24th June, 2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 498-A, 306 and 201 read with Section 34- Deceased was married to the accused- accused started maltreating her after one year of the marriage- father of the deceased paid Rs. 20,000/- on four different occasions- she was turned out of her home- she made a telephonic call that she was being beaten and tortured by her in-laws and someone should come and take her therefrom- uncle of the deceased received a call that deceased had expired - when her parents arrived at the spot, her dead body was being cremated- Two vials of pesticides were taken into possession by the police- accused were tried and acquitted by the trial Court- held, in appeal that deceased had committed suicide in her matrimonial home, however, the allegation that deceased was being subjected to cruelty for bringing insufficient dowry was not established as no complaint was made to the police or panchayat- father of the deceased admitted that accused had not demanded any dowry at the time of marriage- allegation that Rs. 20,000/- was paid by him to the accused on four different occasions was not established- the person in whose presence money was paid was not examined- mere fact that dead body was cremated without informing the relatives of the deceased is not sufficient to infer the guilt of the accused- prosecution had failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the accused were rightly acquitted by the trial Court- appeal dismissed. Manju Ram Kalita versus State of Assam, (2009) 13 Supreme Court Cases 330

For the appellant : Mr. D.S. Nainta, Addl. A.G.
For the Respondents : Mr. Ramesh Sharma, Advocate

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (oral).

State of Himachal Pradesh has come up in appeal being aggrieved by the judgment dated 7.7.2010, passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Kangra at Dharamshala, in Sessions Trial No.22/10, whereby both accused (respondent herein) have been acquitted of the charge under Sections 498-A, 306 and 201 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code framed against each of them.

2. In a nut shell the case of the prosecution as disclosed from the record is that Surekha Rani (since deceased) was married to accused Tilak Raj on 2nd November, 2002. Her parents had given dowry to her as per their capacity. Accused Sagro Devi is her mother-in-law. Deceased Surekha Rani, allegedly was treated nicely in the matrimonial home for a period of one year and thereafter both accused started maltreating her at the pretext of dowry. In order to fulfill their demands, PW-1 Raj Kumar, father of the deceased, paid Rs.20,000/- on four different occasions, however, the accused were not satisfied and continued the torturing and maltreatment of the deceased. She was thrown away from the matrimonial home on 3rd September, 2007. She made a call on 2.30 p.m. from nearby PCO on the telephone number of her parents, which was attended to by her mother PW-2 Santosh Kumari. The deceased allegedly told her mother that she was being beaten and tortured by her in-laws and someone should come and take her therefrom.

3. Rampal, the uncle of deceased received a call on telephone from the house of the accused that Surekha had expired. He asked Mukeshwar her brother to call PW-1, her father. PW-1 and PW-2 when reached in the evening at 6.00 p.m. in the house of the accused, the dead body of Surekha was cremated. The police was informed by PW-14 Ashok Kumar, the cousin (maternal uncle's son) of deceased.

4. The Police swung into action and as per PW-20, the I.O., the police party reached on the spot at 5.30 p.m. At that time the pyre was burning. PW-18 Chain Singh went to cremation ground and taken photographs. The I.O. PW-20 reached thereafter on the spot. He recorded the statement Ex.PW-1/A of Raj Kumar, father of the deceased and prepared the spot map Ex.PW-20/B. He had also taken into possession ash, charcoal and burnt bones from the cremation ground, which was sealed in a container. Two vials of pesticides named 'Cyper Hit' and 'Ground up' were also taken into possession and sealed in parcel. On the receipt of the chemical examiner's report and also completion of the investigation challan was filed against both the accused.

5. Learned Trial Judge after taking into consideration the challan and the documents annexed therewith has prima facie found the involvement of the accused persons in the commission of the offence punishable under Sections 498-A, 306 and 201 read with Section 34 of the IPC. Charge against them was, therefore, framed accordingly.

6. The prosecution has examined as many as 20 witnesses. The material prosecution witnesses are Shri Raj Kumar PW-1, the father of the deceased, his wife Santosh Kumari PW-2, PW-3 Smt. Bimla Sharma, aunt of PW-1, the father of deceased, PW-4 Nashbir Singh, working as driver in a factory 'Healthy Choice' at Mand Majman, nearby the house of the accused, PW-5 Sunil Kumar, a local shopkeeper running STD booth also, PW-6 Rakesh Kumar, proprietor of a chemical lab being run by him in village Tiyora and the neighbours of accused, PW-7, Smt. Kamlesh Sharma, PW-9 Kaushalya Devi, PW-10 Surjeet Singh, PW-12 Harjeet Singh and PW-13 Roshal Lal. Pw-14 Shri Ashok Kumar is the cousin of the deceased being her maternal uncle's son. The remaining witness are formal as PW-11 Murli Dhar is a photographer, PW-16 to PW-18 and PW-20 are the police officials, who remained associated during the investigation of the case in one way or the other. PW-19 is Surinder Singh, who is running a private clinic at Mukerian where the deceased was taken for treatment.

7. Learned Trial Judge on appreciation of the evidence has arrived at a conclusion that the prosecution could not prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. The accused as such have been given the benefit of doubt and resultantly acquitted of the charge framed against each of them.

8. The judgment under challenge has been assailed on the grounds inter alia that cogent and reliable evidence as has come on record by way of testimony of the prosecution witnesses has erroneously been brushed aside and to the contrary the findings recorded are erroneous and based upon surmises and conjectures.

9. Shri D.S. Nainta, learned Additional Advocate General has vehemently argued that the overwhelming evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of the prosecution witnesses leads to the only conclusion that the deceased was being tortured and maltreated by her in-laws, the accused at the pretext of dowry and as she has died within five years of her marriage with accused Tilak Raj in the matrimonial home, therefore, it is the accused persons, who had been torturing and maltreating the deceased, hence abetted the commission of suicide by her.

10. On the other hand Shri Ramesh Sharma, Advocate, learned counsel has urged that no instance of cruelty has come on record by way of evidence produced by the prosecution. The evidence rather reveals that the deceased was being looked-after and treated nicely by the accused in the matrimonial home, therefore, according to learned counsel, learned trial Court has not committed any illegality or irregularity while acquitting the accused of the charge framed against each of them.

11. On reappraisal of the evidence and taking into consideration the rival submissions, true it is that Surekha has committed suicide on 3.12.2007 in the matrimonial home within seven years of her marriage with accused Tilak Raj. However, it is the accused alone, who have abetted the commission of suicide by her, is a question, which needs adjudication on reappraisal of the evidence available on record.

12. Before that we deem it appropriate to discuss as to what constitutes the commission of an offence punishable under Sections 498-A and 306 of the Indian Penal Code. A bare reading of Section 498-A reveals that sine qua non to establish the said offence is subjecting the wife with cruelty by her husband or his relative with a view to coerce her or any person related to her to meet any unlawful demand for any property or valuable security or willful conduct of the husband of such woman or a relative, of such a nature as is likely to drive her to commit suicide or to cause grave injury or danger to life, limb or health.

13. The Apex Court in Manju Ram Kalita versus State of Assam, (2009) 13 Supreme Court Cases 330 has held as under:

> "21. "Cruelty" for the purpose of Section 498-A IPC is to be established in the context of Section 498-A IPC as it may be different from other statutory provisions. It is to be determined/ inferred by considering the conduct of the man, weighing the gravity or seriousness of his acts and to find out as to whether it is likely to drive the woman to commit suicide, etc. It is to be established that the woman has been subjected to cruelty continuously/persistently or at least in close proximity of time of lodging the complaint. Petty quarrels cannot be termed as "cruelty" to attract the provisions of Section 498-A IPC. Causing mental torture to the extent that it becomes unbearable may be termed as cruelty."

14. So far as the commission of offence punishable under Section 306 of the Indian Penal Code is concerned, the prosecution is required to prove beyond all reasonable doubt that some person has committed suicide as a result of abetment by the accused.

15. In the case in hand, the deceased had committed suicide on 3.12.2007 in her matrimonial home. One of the ingredients of the commission of offence under Section 498-A IPC, therefore, stands proved. The prosecution, however, is further required to prove that it is the accused alone who had abetted the commission of suicide by the deceased.

16. Abetment has been defined under Section 107 of the Indian Penal Code. Its simple meaning is that a person abets the doing of a thing who firstly instigates any person to do a thing, or secondly, engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to doing of that thing, or intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing can be said to have abetted the doing of that thing.

17. Now if coming to the allegations that the deceased was being tortured and maltreated in the matrimonial home at the pretext of demands of dowry and thereby the accused had abetted the commission of suicide by the deceased, no evidence such as the report made to police or Local Gram Panchayat is forthcoming. It is also not the case of the prosecution that the instances when she was tortured, maltreated or beaten at the pretext of demands of dowry, were complained to local authority, Gram Panchayat or the parents of deceased themselves intervened. No evidence has also come on record suggesting that the deceased was ever thrown out from the matrimonial home by the accused. The father of the deceased PW-1 has rather himself admitted while in the witness box that at the time of marriage the accused persons had not demanded any dowry. No doubt, he tells us that Rs.20,000/- was paid by him to the accused on four different occasions, however, in whose presence, and that the said amount was paid by him to fulfill the demands of the accused for dowry, no corroborative evidence has come on record. His version that the money was withdrawn by him from the bank is also not substantiated on record because the prosecution has failed to produce the evidence qua withdrawal of money by this witness from his account.

18. PW-1 and PW-2 have not said anything while in the witness-box as to when the deceased was treated with cruelty by the accused at the pretext of dowry. The version of PW-2 that the deceased informed her over telephone on the fateful day about she was thrown out by the accused from matrimonial home is not proved because the prosecution has failed to establish that the deceased has made call to her parents on their telephone from the STD booth installed in the shop of PW-5 Sunil Kumar. Sunil Kumar has turned hostile to the prosecution as according to him neither the deceased came to his STD booth nor made any call therefrom. The best evidence in this behalf would have been the calls detail. Had any call been made by the deceased from this booth to her parents on their telephone, would have easily proved from the detail of calls obtained from the office of BSNL.

19. True it is that the accused took a hasty decision to cremate the dead body even without waiting for PW-1 and PW-2, her parents and other near relations, however, this alone also cannot be made basis to record the findings of conviction against the accused particularly when as per the version of her cousin Ashok Kumar PW-14, one Dharam Pal and Charan Dass were present at the time of cremation of the dead body. Not only this, but the sister of deceased Urmila, working in 'Healthy Choice Factory' situated nearby to the house of the accused was called to the house of the accused by PW-12, Harjeet Singh, at about 2.30 p.m. Therefore, the sister of the deceased was also present there well before the dead body was taken for cremation.

20. Dharam Pal and Charan Dass are uncles of the deceased being brother and brother-in-law of her father as has come in the statement of the said witness. Before taking the dead body for cremation, as per version of PW-9, it was got washed by Santosh Kumari and Satish Kumari. According to PW-9, there was no injury on the dead body as she was also present at the relevant time in the house of the accused. The neighbours of the accused, PW-9 Kaushalya Devi, PW-10 Surjeet Singh and PW-7 Kamlesh Sharma, have stated that the deceased was being maintained, looked-after and treated nicely by the accused. No doubt, it is canvassed that neither sister of the deceased nor Dharam Pal and Charan Dass were present at the time of cremation of the deceased, however, without any substance as it was for the sister of the deceased and aforesaid Dharam Pal and Charan Dass to have thrown some light qua this aspect of the matter, but the prosecution did not associate them in the investigation of the case nor cited them as witnesses. Therefore an adverse inference has to be drawn against the prosecution and it would not be improper to conclude that they were present in the house of the accused at the time when dead body was taken for cremation.

21. Now coming to the presumption under Section 113-A of the Evidence Act, since prosecution has failed to discharge initial burden on it, therefore, the presumption that it is the accused, who alone abetted the commission of suicide by the deceased, cannot be drawn.

22. Therefore, examining this case from any angle, the only irresistible conclusion would be that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. They have therefore, been rightly acquitted by learned trial Judge. Consequently, the impugned judgment warrants no interference by this Court and the same is accordingly affirmed.

23. For all the reasons hereinabove, the present appeal fails and the same is accordingly dismissed. The personal bonds furnished by both the accused shall stand cancelled and the sureties discharged.

For the Petitioner : Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate General with Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge (Oral)

Present Criminal Revision Petition filed under Section 397 read with Section 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is directed against the judgment dated 22.10.2007 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge-I, Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P in Criminal Appeal No. 32-D/03, affirming the judgment dated 15.10.2003, passed by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Baijnath in criminal Case No. 49-II-2002, whereby the present petitioner is convicted under Sections 326 and 323 of Indian Penal Code and sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for two years under section 326 IPC and to pay fine of Rs. 500/- and to undergo simple imprisonment for three months under section 323 IPC and to pay fine of Rs.100/-. In default of payment of fine, to further undergo simple imprisonment for two months.

2. On 20.12.2007, this Court while admitting the instant Criminal Revision petition for hearing, suspended the sentence imposed by the Court below against the petitioner subject to his furnishing bail bonds in the sum of Rs. 10,000/- with one surety in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned trial Court. However on 23.4.2016, when the matter came up for final hearing before this Court, petitioner-accused moved an application under Section 320 Cr.P.C read with Section 482 Cr.P.C placing therewith a compromise entered between the petitioner-accused as well as complainant.

3. Careful reading of the averments contained in the application suggest that during the pendency of the present criminal revision petition, parties have entered into compromise, which has been placed on record alongwith the application, as referred hereinabove. Learned counsel representing the petitioner, prayed that since the matter has been compromised between the parties, this Court an exercise of its inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C can order for compounding the offence. However, Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General, representing the respondent-State opposed the aforesaid prayer having been made on behalf of the petitioner-accused. He stated that petitioner-accused stands convicted by the learned trial Court and his conviction has been further upheld by the learned first appellate Court and as such, no public interest would be served, if the parties are allowed to compromise the matter at hand at this stage. Both the parties are present in person in the Court.

4. Careful reading of the contents of application filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C, suggest that on the complaint of the complainant, an FIR No. 107 of 2001, dated 8.10.2001 was registered against the petitioner-accused at Police Station, Baijnath, District Kangra, HP and thereafter challan was presented before the Judicial Magistrate Ist Class Baijnath, wherein learned trial Court after satisfying itself that a prima-facie case exist against the accused, framed charges under Sections 323, 326 and 506 IPC, to which accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. Learned trial Court below after appreciating evidence on record convicted the accused for having committed the offence punishable under Sections 323 and 326 IPC and sentenced him to undergo simple imprisonment for two years under Section 326 IPC and fine of Rs.500/- and simple imprisonment for three months under section 323 IPC and fine of Rs.100/-. Aforesaid conviction and sentence imposed by the learned trial Court was further upheld by the learned Lower Appellate Court vide impugned judgment dated 22.10. 007. Hence, the present revision petition before this Court.

5. The application, which is duly supported by an affidavit of the petitioner-accused suggest that during the pendency of the present revision petition on the intervention of the respectable persons of the society, complainant and the petitioner-accused have compromised the matter in order to maintain cordial relations in future, compromise dated 29.4.2016 is also placed on record. It has been stated in application that compromise has been entered at their own sweet will and without any pressure from anybody in order to maintain good relations.

6. Since the application has been filed under Section 320 read with section 482 Cr.P.C, this Court deems it fit case to consider the present application in the light of the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Narinder Singh and others versus State of Punjab and another (2014)6 Supreme Court Cases 466, whereby Hon'ble Apex Court has formulated guidelines for accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings. Perusal of judgment referred above clearly depicts that in para 29.1, Hon'ble Apex Court has returned the findings that power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash the criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable, where the parties have settled the matter between themselves. However, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with great caution. Para Nos. 29 to 29.7 of the judgment are reproduced as under:-

> "29. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we sum up and lay down the following principles by which the High Court would be guided in giving adequate treatment to the settlement between the parties and exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code while accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings:
> 29.1Power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash the criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable, where the parties have settled the matter between themselves. However, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with caution.
>
> 29.2. When the parties have reached the settlement and on that basis petition for quashing the criminal proceedings is filed, the guiding factor in such cases would be to secure:
>
> (i) ends of justice, or
>
> (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court.
>
> While exercising the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C the High Court is to form an opinion on either of the aforesaid two objectives.
> 29.3. Such a power is not be exercised in those prosecutions which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, for offences alleged to have been committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by Public Servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender.
> 29.4. On the other, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and pre-dominantly civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes should be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.
>
> 29.5. While exercising its powers, the High Court is to examine as to whether the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal cases would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal cases.
> 29.6. Offences under Section 307 IPC would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore is to be generally treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to proving the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delegate parts of the body, nature of weapons used etc. Medical report in respect of injuries suffered by the victim can generally be the guiding factor. On the basis of this prima facie analysis, the High Court can examine as to whether there is a strong possibility of conviction or the chances of conviction are remote and bleak. In the former case it can refuse to accept the settlement and quash the criminal proceedings whereas in the later case it would be permissible for the High Court to accept the plea compounding the offence based on complete settlement between the parties. At this stage, the Court can also be swayed by the fact that the settlement between the parties is going to result in harmony between them which may improve their future relationship.

29.7. While deciding whether to exercise its power under Section 482 of the Code or not, timings of settlement play a crucial role. Those cases where the settlement is arrived at immediately after the alleged commission of offence and the matter is still under investigation, the High Court may be liberal in accepting the settlement to quash the criminal proceedings/investigation. It is because of the reason that at this stage the investigation is still on and even the charge sheet has not been filed. Likewise, those cases where the charge is framed but the evidence is yet to start or the evidence is still at infancy stage, the High Court can show benevolence in exercising its powers favourably, but after prima facie assessment of the circumstances/material mentioned above. On the other hand, where the prosecution evidence is almost complete or after the conclusion of the evidence the matter is at the stage of argument, normally the High Court should refrain from exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code, as in such cases the trial court would be in a position to decide the case finally on merits and to come a conclusion as to whether the offence under Section 307 IPC is committed or not. Similarly, in those cases where the conviction is already recorded by the trial court and the matter is at the appellate stage before the High Court, mere compromise between the parties would not be a ground to accept the same resulting in acquittal of the offender who has already been convicted by the trial court. Here charge is proved under Section 307 IPC and conviction is already recorded of a heinous crime and, therefore, there is no question of sparing a convict found guilty of such a crime".

7. Para 29.2 of the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court suggest that guiding factor for quashing the criminal proceedings in terms of settlement arrived between the parties would be to secure:

(i) ends of justice, or

(ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court.

While exercising the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. the High Court is to form an opinion on either of the aforesaid two objectives.

8. Careful perusal of para 29.3 of the judgment suggest that such a power is not be exercised in the cases which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Apart from this, offences committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by Public Servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender. On the other hand, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominantly civil character, particularly arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes may be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

9. Admittedly, in the present case accused has been convicted under Sections 323 and 326 of Indian Penal Code, which are non-compoundable offences and could not be ordered to be compounded in terms of Section 320 IPC. Since, in the instant case application has been moved under Section 320 read with Section 482 Cr.P.C, this Court is empowered to quash the criminal proceedings in the case, which are not compoundable. But para 29.7 of judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court provides that while deciding whether to exercise jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C or not, timings of settlement play crucial role. The Hon'ble Apex Court has specifically observed that when conviction is already recorded by the learned trial Court and matter is at the appellate stage before the High Court, mere compromise between the parties would not be a ground to accept the same.

10. Admittedly in the present case, application for compounding the offence in question on the basis of compromise has been filed at the appellate stage, when accused has been already convicted by the learned trial Court. Hence, this Court is of the view that it is not a fit case, and a stage, where inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C can be invoked to order for compounding the offence. Accordingly, application moved by the petitioner-accused for compounding the offence on the basis of compromise having been entered into the parties is rejected at this stage.

11. Since for the reasons stated hereinabove, application bearing No. Cr.M.P. No. 449 of 2016 filed on behalf of the present- accused for compounding the offence stands rejected, this Court proceeded to decide case at hand on merits.

12. Mr. Ajay Sharma, learned counsel representing the petitioner, vehemently argued that the judgments passed by both the Courts below are not sustainable as the same are not based upon correct appreciation of the evidence available on record. He contended that both the Courts below while recording the conviction against the petitioner-accused have failed to notice major and substantive contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses and, as such, great injustice has been caused to the petitioner-accused. Mr. Ajay Sharma, learned counsel forcibly contended that both the courts below have miserably failed to acknowledge that independent evidence was available but for reasons best known to the prosecution they were not associated by the prosecution. He further contended that one independent witness Smt. Manorma Devi, who in fact is the eye witness, was cited as witness but later on was given up and as such, Court below should have drawn adverse inference against the prosecution. He strenuously argued that both the Courts below have miserably failed to appreciate the material fact that it has come in the statement of the complainant that there was a long drawn civil litigation between the parties and they were not on good terms. Mr. Shama, further pleaded that since PW-1, Bimla Devi and PW-2, Fanti Devi in her statements categorically admitted that they are not having good relation with the petitioner- accused and litigation is pending in the Court, absence of independent witnesses in the present case was fatal to the case of the prosecution and as such, judgments passed by both the courts below are liable to be quashed and set-aside being unsustainable in the eyes of law.

13. During arguments having been made by him, he invited the attention of the Court to the statements made by the prosecution witnesses to demonstrate that there are major contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses. He contended that the petitioner-accused has been falsely implicated in the present case due to personal enmity and litigation between the family of the petitioner-accused and complainant and as such, Court have committed material irregularity and illegality while convicting the accused under Sections 323 and 326 of IPC. He also contended that the prosecution miserably failed to prove its case within the parameters or basic ingredients of Sections 323 and 326 of the Indian Penal Code and sentenced the present petitioner-accused on flimsy grounds. Mr. Sharma contended that sentence awarded by leaned court below is harsh/excessive and cannot be allowed to be sustained.

14. Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General, representing the respondent-State, supported the judgments passed by both the Courts below and stated that no interference, whatsoever, of this Court is warranted in the present facts and circumstances of the case as judgments passed by both the Courts below are based on correct appreciation of the evidence available on record.

15. I have heard the learned counsel representing the parties and have carefully gone through the record made available.

16. True, it is that this Court has very limited powers under Section 397 of Criminal Procedure Code while exercising its revisionary jurisdiction but in the instant case, where accused has been convicted and sentenced, it would be apt and in the interest of justice to critically examine the evidence available on record that too solely with a view to ascertain that judgments passed by learned Courts below are not perverse and same are based on correct appreciation of evidence on record.

17. As far as scope of power of this Court while exercising revisionary jurisdiction under Section 397 is concerned, the Hon' ble Apex Court in Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another*, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case241; has held that in case Court notices that there is a failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality or sentence or order. The relevant para of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> "8. The object of Section 483 and the purpose behind conferring the revisional power under Section 397 read with Section 401, upon the High Court is to invest continuous supervisory jurisdiction so as to prevent miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularity of the procedure or to mete out justice. In addition, the inherent power of the High Court is preserved by Section 482. The power of the High Court, therefore, is very wide. However, the High Court must exercise such power sparingly and cautiously when the Sessions Judge has simultaneously exercised revisional power under Section 397(1). However, when the High Court notices that there has been failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is but the salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/ incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order."

18. Perusal of the material available on record suggest that on 8.10.2001, at about 9:00 AM, complainant Bimla Devi and Fanti Devi were cutting grass in their fields at Buhli Kothi and while they were talking to each other that someone had cut grass from their fields, accused persons, who were passing by that field heard the complainant Bimla Devi and Fanti Devi regarding removal of grass from their field by someone, came on the spot and started abusing the complainant. As per the story of the prosecution, accused Nikki Devi was holding danda in her hand and gave blow of the same on the left wrist of the complainant and accused Baldev gave a blow of darati on the small finger of the left hand of the complainant. Fanti Devi intervened and attempted to save the complainant from the clutches of the accused but accused Nikki Devi attacked her from behind by giving danda blow on her back. As per story of prosecution, third accused Krishan Lal kept instigating the other two accused to give more beatings to the complainant and Fanti Devi. As emerges from the record, occurrence was witnessed by Smt. Manorma Devi wife of Jindo Ram, R/o village Buhali Kothi, who as per prosecution challenged the accused and thereafter accused persons left the spot administering threats to the complainant and Fanti Devi to do away with their lives in future. The complainant immediately reported the matter to the police vide FIR Ex.PW1/A. She was medically examined and X-ray examinations were also conducted. Police thereafter procured their MLCs Ex.PW5/A and Ex.PW5/B and X-ray record Ex.PW8/A and Ex.PW8/B. Police during the course of investigation took into possession blood stained clothes of Bimla Devi Ex.P1 and Ex.P-2 vide memo Ex.PW1/B. Complaint also produced danda Ex.P-3 before the police, which was taken into possession vide memo Ex.PW1/C. As per story of the prosecution, accused Baldev Raj i.e. present petitioner produced sickle Ex.P-4, which was taken into possession vide memo Ex.PW1/D and the same was sealed in a cloth parcel with seal impression 'P' after preparing its sketch Ex.PW6/C on a piece of paper. Separate seal impression 'P' was also taken on a piece of cloth. The clothes of the complainant Bimla Devi were also sealed in a separate cloth parcel with seal 'T' and its seal impression Ex.PW6/B was separately taken on a piece of cloth. Police after completion of the investigation found accused guilty of having committed the offence punishable under Sections 323, 326 and 506 read with Section 34 of IPC and accordingly filed challan in the competent Court of law.

19. The learned trial Court after satisfying itself that a prima facie case exist against the accused, charged the accused persons for having committed offences punishable under Sections 323, 326, 506 read with section 34 of IPC, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

20. Learned trial Court on the basis of the evidence adduced on record by the prosecution as well as statement of the accused recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C concluded the trial and held that there is no evidence against accused Nikki Devi and Krishan Lal and accordingly acquitted them of the charges. However, learned trial Court below held the present petitioner-accused Baldev Raj guilty of having committed the offences punishable under Sections 323 and 326 IPC and vide judgment dated 15.10.2003 convicted and sentenced him as per description given hereinabove.

21. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the judgment dated 15.10.2003, the present petitioner-accused filed an appeal under Section 374 Cr.P.C in the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge-I, Kangra at Dharamshala, however same was dismissed by the court of learned First Appellate Court vide judgment dated 22.10.2007 and judgment passed by learned trial court convicting the accused was upheld.

22. In the present case, prosecution with a view to prove its case examined as many as nine witnesses. PW-1, Bimla Devi, PW-2, Smt. Fanti Devi, PW-3, Guddi Devi, PW-4,Kapoor Chand, PW-5, Dr.S.K. Sood, PW-6 Inder Singh, PW-7, Krishan Kumar, PW-8 Dr. O.P. Ram Devi and PW-9, Om Prakash.

23. As has been noticed above, learned trial Court after conclusion of the proceedings acquitted the accused Chanchala alias Nikki Devi and Krishan Lal and convicted the present petitioner-accused Baldev Raj for the commission of the offence punishable under Sections 323 and 326 IPC. After careful perusal of the grounds taken in the criminal revision petition as well as arguments having been made on behalf of the petitioner, it clearly emerges that the judgment passed by the learned courts below have been assailed by the present petitioner-accused on the ground that since two witnesses of the occurrence examined by the prosecution were closely related to each other, Court below should not have accepted the version put forth by them in the absence of some independent witnesses of the locality. It has come in the statements of PW-1 and PW-2 that the relations of the complainant as well as accused were not very good as they have been litigating in the court of law. The absence of sole eye witness Manorama Devi, who was been given up without plausible reason by the prosecution has been also raised as a ground for setting aside the judgment passed by the learned trial court.

24. PW-1, Smt. Bimla Devi deposed before the learned trial Court that on 8.10.2001 at around 9:00 AM she along with Fanti Devi had gone to cut the grass and were talking with each other about removal of grass by some unknown person. The accused were going from there and they came at the spot and gave beatings to them. She specifically stated that the accused Baldev Raj was holding darati and gave a blow of the same on her small finger of the left hand, as a result of which, blood oozed out form the injury. She also stated that accused Nikki Devi gave a stick blow on her left hand and accused also gave beatings to Fanti Devi. Thereafter, she reported the matter to the police and her medical examination was conducted. She also stated that police came on the spot and recorded their statements and her Shirt Ex.P1 and Duptta Ex.P2 were taken into possession vide memo Ex.PW1/B. She also proved Ex.PW1/C, where danda produced by her was taken into possession by the police. She also proved that sickle Ex.PW1/D, was produced by accused Baldev Raj to the police. Careful perusal of the cross-examination conducted of this witness suggest that defence has not been able to extract anything contrary to what she stated in her chief examination, however in her cross-examination she very categorically denied that she received injuries while cutting grass.

25. PW-2, Fanti Devi also stated that in June they were cutting grass and when she and Bimla Devi (PW-1) talking with each other about the theft of grass by some one from their field, accused Baldev Raj along with Nikki devi and Kirshan Lal came at the spot and started giving beatings to her. She specifically stated that accused Baldev Raj gave a blow of darti on the hand of Bimla Devi, as a result of which, blood started oozing out. She also stated that accused Nikki Devi gave a blow of danda to Bimla Devi. In her cross-examination, she denied the suggestion that accused never gave beatings to them. In cross-examination, she denied that a false case has been planted against the accused, however in her cross-examination she admitted that many cases are pending between the accused and them in the Court of law.

26. Careful perusal of the depositions made by these aforesaid material witnesses PW-1 and PW-2, suggest that they very specifically stated that accused Baldev Raj caused injuries to the left finger of PW-1 by sickle. Apart from this, defence has not been able to extract anything contrary to the stand taken by them in the examination-in-chief. Interestingly, no suggestion whatsoever, was put to these witnesses with regard to prior enmity and animosity with the accused. Record reveals that only suggestion put forth to these witnesses was with regard to the pending litigation of the land but no suggestion worth the name that accused has been falsely implicated in the present case was ever put forth to these witnesses. PW-1 in her cross-examination also denied that she received injury on her person while cutting grass. If statement of these witnesses PW-1 and PW-2 are read in conjunction, one thing clearly emerge that on the day of occurrence accused were present at the site of occurrence and they had some altercation with the complainant but the learned trial court below after appreciating the evidence available on record concluded that there is no evidence on record whether injury, if any, was ever caused to Fanti Devi. However, aforesaid witnesses have been very consistent and specific while stating that accused Baldev Raj has caused injuries on the left hand with sickle, which lateron was termed as grievous injury by the medical expert.

27. Statement given by PW-3, Guddi Devi may not be necessary to be dealt with at this stage as she only proved recovery memo Ex.PW1/C and Ex.PW1/B. However, in her cross-examination she also admitted that many cases are pending between the parties in the Court and she also denied the suggestion put forth to her that no recovery was effected in her presence. PW-4, Kapoor Chand is also witness to the recovery memos and as such, his statement is also not required to be dealt with, at this stage.

28. PW-5, Dr. S.K.Sood, stated that he examined the complainant Bimla Devi and opined injury No.1 on her person as grievous in nature caused with sharp edged weapon. He also stated that he examined Fanti Devi and opined the simple injury caused with blunt weapon. It has come in his statement that injury No.1 in MLC Ex.PW5/A can be caused by sickle, which was shown to him in the Court and injury No. 2 can be caused by danda Ex.P3. However, in Cross-examination, he admitted that injury No.1 to Bimla Devi can be caused while cutting grass with sickle and injury No.2 can be self inflicted also. Similarly, PW-8, O.P. Ram Dev, who conducted x-ray of Bimla Devi and issued his opinion Ex.PW8/A stated in his cross-examination that on 8.10.2001 X-ray of Bimla Devi was conducted under his supervision and after perusing the same, he issued his opinion Ex.PW8/A.

29. PW-6, Inder Singh, who was the investigating Officer of the case stated before the Court that he during the investigation visited the spot and prepared spot map Ex.PW6/A. He also stated that during the investigation he recovered danda Ex.P3 vide memo Ex.PW1/C and dupatta and shirt vide memo Ex.PW1/B. He also deposed that on 18.10.2001 accused Baldev Raj produced darati Ex.P4 to the police, which was taken into possession vide memo Ex.PW1/D. In his cross-examination he denied that the danda and clothes were produced at police station by the complainant.

30. In the present case while hearing the arguments having been made on behalf of both the parties, Court had an occasion to peruse the record of the trial court made available to it. PW-1 and PW-2 namely Bimla Devi and Fanti Devi, who admittedly are closely related to each other being mother and daughter, are the only eye witness to the alleged incident. Though, as has been observed above, they both have been very candid and specific while specifically alleging that accused Baldev Raj caused injury on the small finger of the left hand of the complainant but fact remains that no independent witness whatsoever, was ever associated by the prosecution. Had the prosecution associated independent witness to support the version put forth by PW-1 and PW-2, this court would not have any difficulty to accept the version put forth by the aforesaid witnesses. As per the story of prosecution, Smt. Manoram Devi wife of Jindo Ram was an eye witness to the aforesaid alleged occurrence but for the reasons best known to the prosecution, she was given up and no explanation worth the name has been rendered on record for giving up the material witness. As per the own case of the prosecution, PW-3 had an occasion to see the entire occurrence which as per PW-1 and PW-2 occurred in the fields when they were cutting the grass. There cannot be any quarrel with regard to the law taken into consideration by the court below while holding that it is not the number nor the quantity of evidence produced by the prosecution that matter but it is the quality that counts. Similarly, there cannot be any difference of opinion as far as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court that failure on the part of prosecution to produce any independent witness to the incident may not be fatal to the case of the prosecution. But in the present case both the courts while holding that the present petitioner accused guilty of offence having committed under sections 323,326 IPC have miserably failed to take note of specific admission made by these prosecution witnesses i.e. PW-1 to PW-3 where they categorically admitted that many cases are pending between the parties in the court with regard to the land dispute. Once aforesaid admission with regard to the pendency of litigation between accused and complainant had come before the court, the court below while dealing with the statement given by these witnesses was required to deal with the same with great care and caution. Similarly, it stands duly proved on record that PW-1 to PW-3, who are only material evidence in the present case are closely related to each other and story put forth by them, especially in the light of the fact that they were not having good relation with the accused was required to be dealt with great care and caution and same could not be relied upon at first instance without there being corroboration, if any, from independent witness. As per the statement of PW-1, nobody was present at the spot of occurrence but as per own case of the prosecution, at the time of occurrence Smt. Manorma Devi was present, who had actually seen the entire occurrence but for the reasons best known to the prosecution she was given up. At this stage, the court has every reason to drawn adverse inference as far as decision of prosecution to give up aforesaid Manorma Devi who could be material evidence in deciding the present case. Both the courts below while holding the accused guilty of having committed the offence have repeatedly observed that no cross-examination was directed against the material fact deposed by PW-1 and PW-2 but careful perusal of the cross-examination of these prosecution witnesses suggest that specific suggestion with regard to pendency of litigation between the parties has been put to these witnesses. Apart from this, specific suggestion has been put to PW-1 that she had received injuries on her finger while cutting grass and as such, observation of the court below that no cross-examination was conducted on the material facts deposed by these prosecution witnesses appears to be far away from the record available on the file.

31. Now, if this case is viewed from another angle, both the courts below very conveniently used the statement of these prosecution witnesses while holding the accused guilty for having committed the offence. But interestingly, courts below on the basis of the same set of evidence came to the conclusion that prosecution has not been able to prove its case against the other accused Nikki Devi and Krishan Lal. Careful perusal of statement of PW-1 suggests that she stated that accused Baldev Raj and Nikki Devi and Krishan Lal had come on the spot and started giving beatings to her. She specifically stated that Nikki Devi gave danda blow to her and as such, findings of the learned trial court below that these prosecution witnesses have not uttered any word against Nikki Devi and Krishan Lal, appears to be contrary to the record, meaning thereby court below have appreciated the evidence in piece-meals and very conveniently ignoring the material admissions made by these prosecution witnesses, convicted the accused Baldev Raj.

32. PW-5, Dr. S.K. Sood in his cross-examination admitted that injury mentioned in MLC Ex.PW5/A can be caused while cutting grass with sickle and injury No.2 can be self inflicted. If the aforesaid statement of PW-5 is read in the context of the suggestion put forth by the defence to the PW-1 that she suffered this injury while cutting grass, it can also presumed that PW-2 suffered injury on her finger while cutting grass. At this stage, it is not understood why the learned trial court disbelieved the version put forth by the prosecution witnesses that the accused Nikki Devi and Krishan Lal gave danda blow to Bimla Devi.

33. Rather, careful perusal of the statements of these prosecution witnesses suggest that these two prosecution witnesses have been very candid and specific in stating that accused Nikki Devi gave danda blow to Bimla Devi but interestingly, court below while dealing with this part of statement given by this witness came to the conclusion that there version appears to be shaky as far as Nikki Devi and Krishan Lal are concerned. In view of the aforesaid observation, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that the court below used the evidence given by PW-1 to PW-3 in piece-meals to convict the accused Baldev Raj and acquit other co-accused Nikki Devi and Krishan Lal.

34. In the present case interestingly all the three eye witnesses are closely related to each other and admittedly they were not having good relation with the accused. As per their own statements cases are pending in the court with regard to the land and as such, absence of independent witness is fatal to the case of the prosecution. Presence of independent witness could be crucial to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of the version put forth by these prosecution witnesses. As has been observed above, that version put forth by closely related person cannot be brushed aside solely on the ground of absence of independent witness, but in that eventuality, courts are required to deal with the statement of these interested/closely related witnesses with due care and caution. In the present case, as emerges from the record both the parties were inimical to each other and had been litigating for long time and as such, this court is of the view that in the absence of independent witness in the present facts and circumstances of the case, version put forth by the aforesaid prosecution witnesses could not be relied upon.

35. This court while taking judicial note of the facts and circumstances as emerges from the record, is of the view that nature of the injury, which has been caused to PW-1 in the present case could be caused to her only while cutting grass because it has come in the statements of PW-1 and PW-2 that accused gave injury to the left hand of PW-1 with the sickle. It is not understood that how the accused could give injury to only left finger of PW-1 because none of the prosecution witnesses have stated that accused gave blow of sickle on the hand of PW-1 and as a result of which, injury was caused to the left hand, rather both the prosecution witnesses, who were eye witnesses to this incident stated that accused Baldev Raj caused injuries to left finger of PW-1 with sickle. Aforesaid statement with regard to injury to PW-1 and PW-2 rather compel this court to draw inference that actually PW-1 got injury while cutting grass but just with a view to falsely implicate the accused stated that he caused this injury with the sickle. Since there is no independent witness to the alleged incident coupled with the fact that, it stands proved on record that both the parties were inimical to each other, version put forth by the PW-1 and PW-2 could not be relied upon on its face value.

36. Admittedly, after perusing the statement of the prosecution witnesses as well exhibits placed on record, two views are possible in the present case and as such, the petitioner-accused is entitled to the benefit of doubt. The learned counsel for the petitioner-accused has placed reliance on the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court reported in State of UP versus Ghambhir Singh & others, AIR 2005 (92) Supreme Court 2439, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that if on the same evidence, two views are reasonably possible, the one in favour of the accused must be preferred. The relevant paragraph is reproduced as under:-

> "6. So far as Hori Lal, PW-1 is concerned, he had been sent to fetch a basket from the village and it was only a matter of coincidence that while he was returning he witnessed the entire incident. The High Court did not consider it safe to rely on his testimony because he evidence clearly shows that he had an animus against the appellants. Moreover, his evidence was not corroborated by objective circumstances. Though it was his categorical case that all of them fired, no injury caused by rifle was found, and, only two wounds were found on the person of the deceased. Apart from this PW-3 did not mention the presence of either PW-1 or PW-2 at the time of occurrence. All these circumstances do create doubt about the truthfulness of the prosecution case. The presence of these three witnesses becomes doubtful if their evidence is critically scrutinized. May be it is also possible to take a view in favour of the prosecution, but since the High Court, on an appreciation of the evidence on record, has recorded a finding in favour of the accused, we do not feel persuaded to interfere with the order of the High Court in an appeal against acquittal. It is well settled that if on the same evidence two views are reasonably possible, the one in favour of the accused must be preferred."

37. The Hon'ble Division Bench of this Court vide judgment reported in Pawan Kumar and Kamal Bhardwaj versus State of H.P., latest HLJ 2008 (HP) 1150 has also concluded here-in-below:-

> "25. Moreover, when the occurrence is admitted but there are two different versions of the incident, one put forth by the prosecution and the other by the defence and one of the two version is proved to be false, the second can safely be believed, unless the same is unnatural or inherently untrue.
> 26. In the present case, as noticed hereinabove, the manner of occurrence, as pleaded by the defence, is not true. The manner of the occurrence testified by PW-11 Sandeep Rana is not unnatural nor is it intrinsically untrue, therefore, it has to be believed.
> 27.Sandeep Rana could not be said to have been established, even if the prosecution version were taken on its face value. It was pleaded that no serious injury had been caused to PW-11 Sandeep Rana and that all the injuries, according to the testimony of PW-21 Dr. Raj Kumar, which he noticed on the person of Sandeep Rana, at the time of his medical examination, were simple in nature.

38. Consequently, in view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that the judgment passed by both the Courts below are not based on correct appreciation of evidence available on record and as such, same are quashed and set-aside. Accused is acquitted of the charge. His bail bonds are discharged. The fine amount, if any deposited by the petitioner accused be refunded to him.

The present criminal revision petition stands disposed of, so also pending application(s), if any.

(Para-9 to 15)

For the Appellants: Mr. Anoop Chitkara, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. R.S Thakur, Additional Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (oral)

The instant appeal stands directed against the judgment of 20.11.2007 rendered by the learned Special Judge, Fast Track Court, Shimla, H.P., in Sessions trial No. 11-S/7 of 2007, whereby the learned the trial Court convicted and sentenced the accused/appellants (for short "the accused') to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of 8 years each and to pay a fine in a sum of Rs.80,000/-each and in default of payment of fine they stood sentenced to further undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of two years for commission of an offence punishable under Section 20 of Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (for short "the ACT").

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 3rd July, 2006 at 10.45 p.m., lady SI Shakuntala Sharma, the then Incharge, Police Post, Sanjauli alongwith HC Kuldeep Singh, HHC Jeet Ram and C Gian Chand was on routine patrol and traffic checking duty at place Sanjauli Chowk. In the meanwhile, a white coloured Maruti car bearing registration No.HP-09A-1666 came from Lakkar Bazar (Shimla) side. The said car was signaled to stop. Its driver brought the vehicle to a halt. The car driver was asked to show his driving licence and RC of the vehicle, which he failed to do. In the meantime S/Sh. Chander Parkash and Sanjeev Kanwar too reached near the car. With a view to search for the certificate of registration of the car, its door was opened. It surfaced that in front of the gear lever of the car in between the driver's seat and front seat of the car, a black and red coloured bag is lying. A cap had been kept on the bag. The bag was opened and checked. A polythene lifafa containing the charas in the shape of sticks was found in it. On being asked the driver of the car disclosed his name to be Munish Verma whereas the person who was sitting with him disclosed his name to be Sudhir Pal. The registration certificate of the car had been concealed behind the sunshade. Its perusal disclosed that the registered owner of the car is Sh. Sita Ram Verma. Thereafter SI Shakuntla Sharma took out the weights and scale from her investigation kit. On weighment, it transpired that the occupants of the car are carrying 830 grams of charas in all. Out of the recovered contraband, two samples of 25 grams each were separated. The sample parts of the charas were wrapped in the pieces of cloth and sealed by affixing seal impression 'M'. The remaining bulk charas weighting 780 grams was put in the same lifafa which was recovered from the accused. Its parcel was also prepared and sealed by affixing seal impression 'M'. N.C.B forms were filled in on the spot in triplicate. Specimen impression of the seal used was retained on a piece of cloth Ex.PW-12/A and the seal after its user was handed over to Sh. Chander Parkash. The parcels of charas, bag and cap etc., which were recovered from the accused were taken into possession by the police vide memo Ex.PW-12/C. Rukka Ex.PA was prepared. FIR Ex.PW-9/A was registered. Site plan was prepared. Statements of the witnesses were recorded. Accused were arrested. Special report was sent to the office of Superintendent of police, Shimla. On conclusion of the investigation, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, final report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and presented in the Court.

3. The accused stood charged by the learned trial Court for theirs committing an offence punishable under Section 20 of the NDPS Act to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined as many as 12 witnesses. On closure of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused, under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure were recorded in which they pleaded innocence and claimed false implication, also they chose to lead evidence in defence and examined five witnesses in their defence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of conviction against the accused.

6. The accused are aggrieved by the judgment of conviction, recorded by the learned trial Court. The learned counsel appearing for the accused has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction, being reversed by this Court in exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. On the other hand, the learned Additional Advocate General has with considerable force and vigor contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference rather meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. Recovery of charas weighing 830 grams stood effectuated by the Investigating Officer at the site of occurrence whereat it stood carried in a white coloured Maruti car, car whereof stood occupied at the relevant time by both the accused. All the official witnesses depose a version qua the occurrence as reflected in the FIR, bereft of any emanation therein of any stain of any inter-se contradictions occurring in their respective examinations-in-chief vis-à-vis their respective previous statements recorded in writing besides their respective cross examinations, also their respective depositions on oath are shorn off any vice of intra-se contradictions. Consequently, this Court is constrained to accept the version qua the occurrence rendered by the official witnesses. Even if two independent witnesses who stood associated by the investigating Officer in the apposite proceedings which stood commenced and concluded at the site of occurrence omitted to lend support to the prosecution version, contrarily when they reneged from their previous statements recorded in writing, the learned counsel for the accused contends with vigor qua the version propagated by the prosecution through the depositions of the official witnesses suffering impairment, impairment whereof germinates from the independent witnesses associated by the Investigating Officer in the apposite proceedings which stood conducted by her at the relevant site of occurrence not lending corroboration thereto. However the aforesaid submission is extremely frail as solitarily thereupon the unbesmirched testimonies of the official witnesses cannot be disimputed credence bereft of the prime factum of both the independent witnesses admitting their respective signatures borne on the apposite memo comprised in Ex.PW-12/C whereupon they as mandated by the provisions of Section 91 and 92 of the Indian Evidence Act which stand extracted hereinafter stood interdicted besides forbidden to depose in variance therefrom rather in consonance with the statutory mandate engrafted in the afore-referred apposite provisions of the Indian Evidence Act imputing credence also theirs imputing conclusive proof qua the recitals occurring therein on unflinching evidence emanating qua despite theirs orally digressing from their recorded recitals of yet their signatures existing thereon, irrefragable evidence whereof stands evinced by theirs admitting the prime factum of the apposite memos holding their signatures, hence when their apposite admission sequelly statutorily belittles the effects of their deposing orally in variance or in detraction thereto, naturally when they rather emphatically prove the recitals comprised in the apposite memos, it was appropriate besides tenable for the learned trial court to conclude of the recorded recitals borne on the recovery memo comprised in Ex.PW-12/C holding evidentiary clout also hence theirs lending succor to the creditworthy testimonies of the official witnesses qua the effectuation of recovery of the relevant item of contraband under recovery memo PW-12/C by the investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the purported exclusive and conscious possession of the accused.

> "Proviso (1) Any fact may be proved which would invalidate any document, or which would entitle any person to any decree or order relating thereto; such as fraud, intimidation, illegality, want of due execution, want of capacity in any contracting party, [want of failure] of consideration, or mistake in fact or law;
> Proviso (2).- The existence of any separate oral agreement as to any matter on which a document is silent, and which is not inconsistent with its terms, may be proved. In considering whether or not this proviso applies, the Court shall have regard to the degree of formality of the document:
>
> Proviso (3).- The existence of any separate oral agreement, constituting a condition precedent to the attaching of any obligation under any such contract, grant or disposition of property, may be proved:
> Proviso(4).- The existence of any distinct subsequent oral agreement to rescind or modify any such contract, grant or disposition of property, may be proved, except in cases in which such contract, grant or disposition of property is by law required to be in writing, or has been registered according to the law in force for the time being as to the registration of documents:
> Proviso (5). Any usage or custom by which incidents not expressly mentioned in any contract are usually annexed to contracts of that description, may be proved: > provided that the annexing of such incident would not be repugnant to, or inconsistent with, the express terms of contract:
> Proviso(6).- Any fact may be proved which shows in what manner the language of a document is related to existing facts."

10. Even if hence the prosecution has succeeded in proving the factum of the investigating Officer making an efficacious recovery of the relevant item of contraband from the alleged, conscious and exclusive possession of both the accused with both jointly occupying a car, nonetheless it was also enjoined upon the prosecution to by adducing cogent evidence connect the purported case property Ex.P-2 with the relevant item of contraband, recovery whereof stood effectuated in the manner espoused in the FIR, besides the apposite proof qua recovery whereof for reasons afore-stated stands adduced by the prosecution whereupon this Court would hence stand constrained to conclude with aplomb qua the purported case property Ex.P-2, as stood produced in Court by the P.P concerned for its being shown to PW-1 at the time his deposition stood recorded thereat holding connectivity besides congruity with its recovery standing effectuated in the manner espoused by the prosecution. For determining the aforesaid prime factum of connectivity or lack of connectivity inter-se the purported case property Ex.P-2 vis-à-vis effectuation of its recovery at the site of occurrence, an advertence to the factum of PW-12 the Investigating Officer disclosing in her examination-in-chief of hers at the site of occurrence embossing seal impression 'M' on both parcels respectively containing the sample charas and its bulk, is imperative. She also deposes of thereafter hers transmitting the aforesaid bulk parcel of Charas besides the sample parcel of charas through Constable Gian Chand to the police Station concerned for its standing deposited in the Malkhana concerned. PW-9 who received the aforesaid sample parcel besides bulk parcel of charas from PW-1 Gian Chand, the latter of whom had received it from PW-12 for its onward transmission by him to PW-9, has deposed of, on his receiving the aforesaid sample parcels besides bulk parcel of the purported case property from PW-1, his wrapping both in different pieces of cloth whereon he embossed seal impression "I". The case property stood produced in Court by the learned PP concerned for its being shown to PW-1 yet as displayed by disclosures emanating in the deposition of PW-1 of thereat the parcels containing the parcel of bulk Charas also the parcel containing sample of charas though holding conformity with the deposition of PW-9 qua seal impression "I" as embossed thereon by PW-9 existing thereon yet on theirs standing respectively opened with the permission of the learned trial Court, both the sample parcels of charas also the bulk parcel of Charas contained besides held therein, also bearing seal impressions "I" and "M". Hereat exists a dichotomy inter-se the deposition of PW-9 vis-à-vis the production of both the sealed parcels respectively containing the sample parcel of charas besides the bulk parcel of charas, by the learned PP concerned before the learned trial Court for theirs being shown to PW-1, comprised in the fact of PW-9 deposing of his inserting in two separate parcels the sample parcels of charas and the bulk parcel of charas whereupon on each he embossed seal impression "I" whereas he did not make any communication therein of his embossing seal impression "I" on either of the parcels holding respectively therein the sample of charas and the bulk of charas at the stage they stood handed over to him by PW-1 renders the existence of seal impression "I" on both the aforesaid parcels enclosed or kept by him in two parcels whereon on each alone he embossed seal impression "I" at the stage whereat they stood produced by the learned P.P. before the learned trial Court for theirs standing shown to PW-1 to hence hold no congruity with the disclosures made by PW-9. As a corollary this Court is constrained to foist a conclusion of the prosecution evidence qua any connectivity existing inter-se the purported efficacious effectuation of recovery of charas from the purported conscious and exclusive possession of the accused as espoused in the FIR vis-à-vis the production by the learned P.P. concerned before the learned trial Court of the relevant item of contraband being grossly infirm for hence sustaining a firm conclusion qua relevant connectivity or congruity existing vis-à-vis the relevant item of contraband recovered under Memo Ext.PW-12/C with the purported case property as stood produced in Court. In sequel, the findings recorded by the learned trial Court suffer from an infirmity awakened by its overlooking the aforesaid evidence, personificatory of lack of connectivity inter-se the effectuation of recovery of the relevant item of contraband in the manner propagated by the prosecution vis-à vis its production in Court by the learned PP concerned for its being shown to PW-1.

11. Further more a perusal of Ex.PB, the relevant abstract of Malkhana register makes a disclosure therein of the relevant items of contraband standing dispatched to the FSL concerned in a wooden box, for the laboratory concerned recording an opinion thereon yet as apparent on a reading of the testimony of PW-1 there occurs no communication therein of at the time the learned PP concerned producing the case property before the learned trial Court for its being shown to PW-1, of its standing carried thereat in a wooden box. In sequel, there also appears an apparent dichotomy inter-se the reflections in Ex.PB vis-à-vis the production of the relevant item of contraband in Court by the PP concerned, dichotomy whereof stands constituted in the fact of Ex.PB carrying reflections qua the case property standing sealed in a wooden box for its onward transmission to the FSL concerned for the latter recording an opinion thereon vis-à-vis its production in Court by the learned PP concerned for its being shown to PW-1 whereat it did not come to be retrieved from a wooden box wherein earlier thereto it stood enclosed. The effect of the aforesaid incongruity is of the production of the relevant item of contraband by the learned PP concerned before the learned trial Court holding no connectivity with the relevant reflections qua it carried in Ex.PB also it enhances an inference underscored hereinabove of the prosecution not adducing firm evidence for connecting besides linking the relevant item of contraband, recovery whereof stood effectuated by the Investigating Officer from the purported, conscious and exclusive possession of the accused at the site of occurrence vis-à-vis its production before the learned trial Court by the learned PP concerned. Consequently, the effectuation of recovery, if any, of the relevant item of contraband by the Investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused though may for reasons aforesaid stand proved yet with the prosecution not linking the prime factum of the relevant item of contraband recovered by the Investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused vis-à-vis the production in Court of the item of contraband no capitalization can stand secured by the prosecution from the mere factum of its proving the factum of its holding an efficacious recovery of the relevant item of contraband from the purported, conscious and exclusive possession of the accused in the manner espoused in the FIR comprised in Ex. PW-9/A.

12. Be that as it may PW-4 has in his deposition disclosed, of his on 4.7.2006 transmitting the case property through C Hem Singh to CTL Kandaghat, for the latter recording its opinion thereon whereat the sample could not be deposited as the CTL concerned refused to accept it hence concomitantly no opinion thereon stood recorded by the CTL concerned. He also proceeds to divulge in his deposition of his on 9.7.2006 sending the case property to CFSL, Hyderabad vide RC No. 78 of 2006 through C Hem Singh and Shiv Ram whereat also the sample could not be deposited as the CFSL concerned refused to accept it. Hence concomitantly no opinion thereon stood recorded by the CFSL concerned. However the apposite abstract of Malkhana register comprised in Ex.PB does not contain any recital (a) of PW-4 (Malkhana Incharge) depositing it in the Malkhana concerned(b) of PW-4 on 4.7.2006 and 27.9.2006 respectively sending the case property respectively to CTL Kandaghat and CFSL Hyderabad, both Laboratories whereof purportedly refused to accept it.

13. Omission of the aforesaid recitals in Ex.PB though mandatorily enjoined to occur therein for dispelling any inference qua the case property whereon an opinion stood recorded by the FSL concerned holding no connectivity with effectuation of recovery of case property by the investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused in the manner espoused by the prosecution, contrarily with no apposite recital in conformity with the deposition of PW-4 or in conformity with the deposition of PW-9 wherein he echoes of his, on his receiving the relevant item of contraband from PW-1 his delivering it to PW-4 for depositing it in the malkhana concerned, occurring therein, constrains an inference from this Court of the relevant item of contraband as stood produced in Court by the learned PP for its being shown to PW-1 not holding any connectivity with the effectuation of recovery of the item of contraband by the Investigating Officer in the manner espoused by the prosecution rather the aforesaid omission accentuates an inference recorded hereinabove of for the aforesaid infirmities displaying incongruity qua the seal impression borne respectively on the sample parcels and the bulk parcel of charas vis-à-vis the deposition of PW-9, of hence the relevant item of contraband produced in Court not holding any connectivity qua its recovery standing effectuated in the manner espoused by the prosecution in the FIR.

14. Lastly the prosecution was enjoined to adduce emphatic evidence in portrayal of the report of the FSL concerned comprised in Ex.PW-9/E also being linkable with Ex.P-2 especially when for reasons aforesaid it holds no connectivity with the relevant item of contraband purportedly recovered by the Investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused. The factum of its standing examined thereat by a Jr. scientist officer (Explosive) obviously when he is to be hence concluded to be holding no expertise to hold examination of charas, with greater vigor constrains this Court to conclude of the prosecution abysmally failing to prove even the factum of the opinion recorded by the expert concerned even if assumingly recorded qua the relevant item of contraband recovered at the site of occurrence by the investigating Office from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused holding any force for this Court to hold with formidability of it being qua the relevant item of contraband, recovery whereof stood effectuated in the manner espoused by the prosecution.

15. A wholesome analysis of the evidence on record portrays that the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned trial Court suffers from a gross perversity and absurdity or it can be said that the learned trial Court in recording findings of conviction has committed a legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court deems it fit and appropriate that the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court merit interference.

16. In view of the above discussion, I find merit in this appeal, which is accordingly allowed and the judgment of conviction and sentence recorded by the learned trial Court is set aside. Accused stand acquitted of the charge. Bail bonds stand discharged. Fine amount be refunded. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

United India Insurance Company Ltd. ....Appellant.
Versus
Prakasho Devi & Others ....Respondents.

FAO (WCA) No. 86 of 2009.
Decided on: 27th June, 2016

Workmen Compensation Act, 1923- Section 4- Son of the petitioner was employed as driver of the truck - tractor met with an accident- driver died at the spot- petitioner claimed compensation for the death- petition was allowed and compensation of Rs. 2,85,973/- was awarded- however, Commissioner declined the interest- it was contended by insurer that driver did not have a valid driving licence and the tractor was not being used for agricultural purposes- hence, it is not liable- held, that son of the petitioner was being carried in the tractor at the time of accident- driving licence was not produced as tractor fell into a muddy and slushy rivulet due to which R.C. and D.L. could not be recovered- it was specifically stated that licence was issued from Delhi- no inquiry was made from Delhi about the issuance of the license to the driver - it was not proved that tractor was being used for non-agricultural purpose- therefore, breach of terms and conditions of the policy was not proved- appeal dismissed. (Para-9 to 13)

Case referred:

Fahim Ahmad vs. United India Insurance Company Ltd., 2014 ACJ 1254

For the appellant : Dr. Lalit K. Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate for respondent No.1.
Mr. Amit Jamwal, Advocate for respondents No.2 and 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (oral).

The Insurer, United India Insurance Company, is in second appeal before this Court. The Company is aggrieved with the order passed by learned Commissioner under Workmen's Compensation Act, Hamirpur on 15.12.2008 in case No.01/2003 allowing thereby the petition filed for award of compensation by respondent No.1 (hereinafter referred to as the 'petitioner') and awarded her the compensation to the tune of Rs.2,85,973/- against the appellant-insurer (hereinafter referred to as 'respondent No.2').

2. Rakesh Kumar son of the petitioner was employed as driver with tractor No.HP 22-6983 belonging to respondents No.1 and 3. The tractor met with an accident on 23.3.2002 near Pratap Nagar, Hamirpur. Its driver Rakesh Kumar was driving the tractor at the relevant time. He died on the spot.

3. The petitioner has claimed the compensation amounting to Rs.5,00,000/- on account of the loss she sustained due to the death of her son in the accident. She has claimed his age at the relevant time 30 years and the wages Rs.2000-Rs.2500 per month.

4. In reply, the insured, respondents No.1 and 3 have not denied the factum of deceased Rakesh Kumar was employed as driver by them with ill-fated tractor. They admit the wages of the deceased as Rs.2000/- per month. It is also their stand that the deceased was having a valid and effective driving licence when employed as driver and at the time of accident. The ill-fated tractor, according to them, was insured with respondent No.2. At the time of its accident sand was being transported therein.

5. The insurer-respondent No.2 has not disputed the insurance of the tractor with it, however, in preliminary, the following submissions were made:-

> "A That the Driver/deceased was not having valid Driving License to drive the impugned tractor at the time of accident
> That the tractor being plied against the insurance contract, hence the insurance company is not liable.
> That in case the Court comes to the conclusion that Prakasho Devi is entitled for the compensation the replying respondent can not be ordered to deposit either interest or penalty."

6. It is also denied that the wages of the deceased was Rs.2500/- per month.

7. On the pleadings of the parties, the following issues were framed:-

> "1. Whether the applicant is a workman within the meaning of the Act? OPP
> 2. Whether the accident arose out of or in the course of the deceased Employment? OPP
> 3. Whether the opposite party is liable to pay such compensation as is due? PR
>
> 4. Whether the driver is not having any valid or effective driving licence, as alleged?OPR

8. The petitioner has herself stepped into the witness box as PW-1 and also examined Shri Jiwan Lal in support of her case. Respondent No.1 has also stepped into the witness box as RW-1 and Shri Rattan Singh, respondent No.3 as RW-2.

9. Learned Commissioner on appreciation of the evidence available on record has assessed the compensation payable to the petitioner as Rs.2,85,973/- however, declined the interest. Taking into consideration, the submissions made on behalf of the insurer–respondent No.2, that the claims could not be settled within time on account of the petitioner and respondents No.1 and 3 failed to produce the driving licence and source of issuance of driving licence to them.

10. Since it is the insurer, who has been held liable to pay the compensation to the petitioner, hence this appeal on the ground inter alia that neither the deceased was having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of the accident nor the tractor was being used for agriculture purposes at the relevant time and as such there being breach of conditions of the insurance policy Ex.RX, no compensation could have been awarded to the petitioner against the respondent-insurer.

11. On hearing Dr. Lalit Sharma, Advocate learned counsel for the respondent-appellant and Shri Ajay Sharma, Advocate for claimant respondent No.1 whereas Shri Amit Jamwal, Advocate for respondents No.2 and 3 and appreciating the evidence available on record, admittedly the tractor has met with an accident near Pratap Nagar at Hamirpur on 25.3.2002. The tractor fell into a muddy and slushy rivulet (Nallah), as a result thereof, the person on its wheel namely Rakesh Kumar, the son of the petitioner, has died on the spot itself. The perusal of the FIR Ex.PW-2/A reveals that sand was being carried into the tractor at the time of accident. The driving licence of course has not been produced in evidence by the petitioner, however, not only she, but the owner RW-1 and RW-2 have stated, while in the witness box, that the deceased was holding a valid and effective driving licence, however, since the tractor fell into a muddy and slushy rivulet, therefore, its documents i.e. Registration Certificate and driving licence of the deceased could not be traced out. They all have stated in one voice that the licence was issued by a Licencing Authority at Delhi to the accused. RW-1 has further stated that when the deceased was employed as driver with the tractor he had an opportunity to see his driving licence, which, according to him, was issued by some Licencing Authority at Delhi and was valid and effective. The petitioner and the ensured respondents No.1 and 3 have, therefore, satisfactorily proved that the deceased though was having a valid and effective driving licence, however, the same could not be traced out, in view of the documents of the tractor and the same submerged in the slushy and muddy rivulet. They by producing such evidence had shifted the onus to prove otherwise on the respondent-insurer. It was for the respondent-insurer to have inquired into through its evaluator from the office(s) of Licencing Authority situate at Delhi as to whether the driving Licence was issued to deceased Rakesh Kumar or not. However, no such effort has been made and as such it would not be improper to conclude that the deceased driver of the tractor was having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident.

12. Now if coming to the question that the tractor was being used for the purpose other than agricultural, no doubt, the FIR reveals that sand was being carried in the trolley of the tractor at the time of accident. There is, however, no evidence that the sand was being transported for commercial purposes. A specific suggestion made to RW-2 Rattan Chand in this regard on behalf of the insurer-respondent No.2, has been denied by the said witness being wrong. Merely that the sand was being transported in the trolley of the ill-fated tractor is not enough to arrive at a conclusion that the same was being plied for commercial purposes for the reasons that the sand sometime is required to carry out agricultural operation also such as construction of tube well, tunnel, underground tank etc. etc.

13. The apex Court in Fahim Ahmad vs. United India Insurance Company Ltd., 2014 ACJ 1254, a case having more or less similar facts has held that without there being any proof that the sand was being transported in the ill-fated tractor for commercial purpose, there is no question of breach of the insurance policy.

14. Therefore, in view of what has been said hereinabove, I find no merits in this appeal and the same is accordingly dismissed. Pending application(s) if any shall also stand disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J

Upender Kumar ....Petitioner.

Versus

State of H.P. and Ors. ....Respondents.

CWP No. 2474 of 2009.
Date of Decision: 27.6.2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Respondent constructed a road using the land of the petitioner without paying any compensation- petitioner made request to pay the amount but no action was taken- respondents admitted that land of the petitioner was utilized for construction of the road- however, it was asserted that petition is barred by delay and latches – held, that notification was issued on 28.5.2007 - similarly situated persons were paid compensation- it was not explained as to why petitioner was singled out - it was not pleaded that petitioner had donated the land , therefore, he is entitled to receive compensation- petition allowed and respondents directed to start acquisition proceedings and to pay compensation to the petitioner.

(Para-8 to 10)

For the petitioner: Ms. Shashi Kiran, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present writ petition, petitioner has prayed for following reliefs:

"(i) That the respondents may kindly be directed to produce the entire record pertaining to the case for the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court.

(ii) That appropriate orders and directions may kindly be issued, requiring the respondents to pay suitable compensation/damages on account of occupation and use of the land pertaining to the petitioner from the date of actual taking over the possession, after initiating the proceedings under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act. Time Bound directions may kindly be issued to the respondents to initiate the acquisition proceedings to finalize the same and pay the amount of compensation with respect to the land and properties/land/valuable trees as per the rate prevalent in the market alongwith interest @18% per annum from the acquisition of the land of the petitioners for the purpose of construction of road.*

(iii) That the petition may kindly be allowed with costs throughout.*

(iv) Any such other or further orders which this Hon'ble Court may deem just and proper in the light of facts and circumstances of the case may also kindly be passed."*

2. Facts as emerge from the record are that the petitioner is the owner of land comprising Khata Khatauni No. 23 min Khasra No. 26 area measuring 1-4 bighas (over Kahdi). The petitioner has also placed on record, copies of Jamabandi for the years, 2006-07 along with spot tatima and certificate to demonstrate the existence of road and aforesaid land of the petitioner. Petitioner has averred that respondents constructed a motorable "Maryog Narang Dharyar Marg" road in the year, 1975-76 at Mauza Badut, Tehsil Pachhad, District Sirmaur, H.P. and for the purpose of construction of the aforesaid road, the land comprising Khata Khatauni No. 23 min Khasra No. 26 area measuring 1-4 bighas (over Kahdi) has been taken/used for construction of the road to the extent of his share in the aforesaid khasra number of the petitioner.

3. It is specifically alleged that the respondents utilized the aforesaid valuable land of the petitioner for the purpose of construction without paying him any compensation qua the land used by them. The petitioner by way of Annexure-P4 also placed on record copy of the notification issued by respondents intimating therein acquisition of land of certain people/villagers for construction of the Maryog Narang Dharyar Marg. The petitioner has specifically averred that despite there being several requests made to the respondents to initiate steps for acquisition of his land, used by the respondents for the construction of aforesaid road by issuing notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act, no steps, whatsoever, have been taken till date to issue notification to acquire the land and thereafter, pay compensation as is required under the Act. Petitioner has also averred that he has been discriminated because admittedly as emerges from the perusal of the Annexure P-4, land of the people belonging to adjoining villages Narang, Maryog, Chewla, Bakanag have been acquired in accordance with law and due and admissible compensation has been paid to them. It is also contended that land of the petitioner falls in middle of villages Narang and Maryog and road in question passes through same and, as such, he is also entitled to compensation on account of use and occupation of the land used by the respondents for construction of the Narang, Maryog, Chewla, Bakanag Marg.

4. Respondents by way of detailed reply to the petition have prayed for dismissal on the ground of delay and latches but fact remains that respondents have admitted that some part of the suit land situate on Khasra No. 26 in Mauza Badut, Pargana Girinwar Tehsil Pachhad, Distict Sirmour, HP, has been utilized by the respondent department for construction of road namely Maryog Narang Dharyar Road, which was given administrative approval and expenditure sanction during the year 1970 for the construction of the said road with the average width of 5 -7 meters. It is also stated in the reply that land owners including the petitioners as well as their predecessor-in-interest represented to the State for construction of link road so as to provide them benefits of connectivity by volunteering to construct road through their land without raising any objection. It is also depicted in the reply that suit land is situated in KM 17/0 to 18/0 KM where construction of said link road was completed by the respondents during the year 1975-76 itself. Respondents have refuted the claim of the compensation, if any, put forth by the petitioner solely on the ground of delay and latches.

5. Ms. Shashi Kiran, Advocate, appearing for the petitioner vehemently argued that the petitioner is entitled to be compensated in accordance with law for use and occupation charges of the land, which has been admittedly used by respondents for the construction of the road in question. During arguments having been made by her, she specifically invited attention of this Court to the reply filed by the respondents to demonstrate that factum with regard to use of land pertaining to the petitioner has been duly admitted by the respondents. She forcefully contended that once other similarly situate persons, whose land was also used by respondents for construction, have been paid due compensation, no authority, whatsoever, lies with the respondents to deny/defeat the claim of the petitioner on the ground of delay and latches.

6. On the other hand, Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, appearing for the State refuted the claim put forth by the petitioner and prayed that no relief, whatsoever, as prayed for, in the present petition can be granted at this belated stage that too after 35 years. He contended that road was constructed 35 years back and at that time, no objection, whatsoever, was over raised by the occupants/owners of the land. He forcefully contended that road in question was constructed for general public in public interest and no objection was raised till filing of the present petition, meaning thereby, there was an implied consent of the petitioner to construct road without determining any compensation. However, Mr. Chauhan, while arguing on behalf of respondents failed to refute the claim of the petitioner with regard to payment of compensation to other similarly situate persons for the construction of the same and similar road.

7. I have heard learned counsel for the parties as well carefully gone through the record

8. Perusal of the pleadings available on file clearly suggests that in the year, 1974-75, respondents constructed the road known as “Maryog Narang Dharyar Marg” and for that purpose, some part of the land of the villagers, was used by the respondent-State. Perusal of Annexure-P4 leaves no doubt in the mind of this Court that respondent- state had issued notification (Annexure P-4) dated 28.5.2007 under Section 4 of the land Acquisition Act, 1894 proposing acquisition of land for construction of “Maryog Narang Dharyar Marg”. Admittedly aforesaid notification suggests that respondent-State proposed to acquire the land of persons in village Narang but it may be pointed out at this stage that road in question starts from village Narang to Maryag and in between from Narang to Dharyar, there are number of villages including the village of the petitioner. Further perusal of AnnexureP-6 placed on record by way of rejoinder suggests that persons from village Narang were paid compensation by the Court of Additional

District Judge, Sirmour for the land used for construction of road in question. Perusal of award passed by the learned Additional District Judge suggests that similarly situate persons, whose land was acquired for the construction of aforesaid road, were paid compensation. After perusing reply filed by the respondents-State, it is clearly established that land of the petitioner has been used by the respondent for construction of the aforesaid road and as such state cannot be allowed to take hyper technical objections with regard to delay, if any, to deny the legitimate compensation of the petitioner, whose land has been also utilized in the construction of road in question. It also stands proved on record that respondents have already granted compensation to the similarly situate persons whose land had been utilized for the purpose of construction of road in question. Though, Mr. Chauhan had argued that since no objection for construction of road was ever raised by the petitioner at the time of construction and as such, it can be concluded that there was implied consent on the part of the petitioner to construct the road without getting any compensation, but aforesaid contention of Mr. Chauhan, cannot be accepted for the reason that it is not the case of the respondent State that land in question was voluntarily donated by the petitioner. Had it been the case of the respondents that petitioner had voluntarily donated the land for construction of road, certainly, plea of delay or implied consent as raised by the respondent would have come in the way of the petitioner, But once it stands proved, rather, admitted by the respondents that the other similarly situate persons whose lands were duly acquired by the respondent for construction of same and similar road were paid due and admissible compensation, action of respondent in denying the compensation, if any, to the petitioner cannot be held to be justifiable and the same deserves to be rectified in accordance with law since it is the violation of Article 300(A) of the Constitution of India.

9. The Hon'ble Coordinate Bench of this Court while dealing with the similar issue in CWP No. 128 of 2003 decided on 25.7.2007, titled "Mathu Ram v. State of HP and Ors.", wherein land was used for construction of road and compensation was paid to the similar situate persons, directed the respondents to initiate acquisition proceedings for acquisition of land of the persons and to pay compensation in accordance with law. As far as contention put forth by the respondents with regard to the inordinate delay in maintaining the petition as well as compensation is concerned, the Hon'ble Apex Court in case title Raj Kumar v. State of HP and Ors. in SLA(C) No. 2373 of 2014 decided on 29.10.2015, held as under:-

> "There is in our opinion considerable merit in the submission made by Mr. Nag. It is true that the appellant had approached the High Court rather belatedly inasmuch the land had been utilized sometime in the year 1985-86 while the writ petition was filed by the appellant in the year 2009. At the same time it is clear from the pleadings in the case at hand that the user of the land owned by the appellant is not denied by the State in the counter affidavit filed before the High Court of that filed before us. It is also evident from the averments made in the counter affidavit that the state has not sought any donation in its favour either by the appellant or his predecessor in interest during whose life time the road in question was constructed. All that is stated in the counter affidavit is that the erstwhile owner of the land "might have donated" the land to the State Government. In the absence of any specific assertion regarding any such donation or documentary evidence to support the same, we are not inclined to accept the ipsit dixit suggesting any such donation. If that be so as it indeed it, we fail to appreciate why the State should have given up the land acquisition proceedings initiated by it in relation to the land of the appellant herein. The fact that the State Government had initiated such proceedings is not in dispute nor is it disputed that the same were allowed to lapse just because the road had in the meantime been taken under the Pradhan Mantri Gram Sadak Yojna. It is also not in dispute that for the very same road the land owned by Kanwar Singh another owner had not only been notified for acquisition but duly paid for in terms of Award No. 10 of 2008.

In the totality of the above circumstances, the offer made by Mr. Nag to the effect that the appellant would be satisfied if he is paid compensation at the rate determined and paid to Kanwar Singh under Award No. 10 of 2008 appears to be reasonable. That is so especially when the compensation in terms of Award No. 10 of 2008 was determined by reference to a Notification issued nearly 10 years ago The fact that the appellant is giving up his claim for any compensation for wrongful utilization of land and to the payment of interest which is otherwise statutorily prescribed makes the offer still more attractive for the State."

10. Consequently, in view of the aforesaid discussion as well as decision rendered by this Court as well as the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case referred above, it would be in the interest of justice to issue directions to the respondents to start acquisition proceedings qua the land in question immediately and pay compensation to the petitioner in terms of the land acquisition act. Needless, to say that petitioner would be paid compensation in similar lines as have been paid to the other similar persons vide AnnexureP-6. Accordingly, the present petition is disposed of with the direction to the respondents to complete acquisition proceedings in the aforesaid terms, as discussed above, within a period of six months.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Balwant Singh and Ors. ....Petitioners.
Versus
Director Consolidation and Ors. ....Respondents.

CWP No. 1447 of 2009.
Date of Decision: 28.6.2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Respondents No. 3 and 4 filed an application pleading that they were not given any passage during the consolidation – Director Consolidation directed the Consolidation Officer, Hamirpur to visit the spot and submit report- Case was remanded to provide passage to the respondents- aggrieved from the order, present writ petition has been filed- held, that Consolidation Officer after visiting the spot had held that respondents required passage to approach their land- subsequently a notification was issued- Consolidation Officer had no jurisdiction to pass the order after issuance of the notification- order passed by the Consolidation Officer set aside. (Para-8 to 11)

For the petitioners: Mr. Y.P. Sood, Advocate..
For the respondents: Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate General, with Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, for respondents No.1 and 2.
Mr. Vivek Singh Thakur, Advocate, for respondents No. 3 and 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present writ petition, petitioner has invoked extraordinary jurisdiction of this court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India praying therein that writ of certiorari may be issued and orders (Annexures P-2 and P-3) may be quashed and set aside.

2. Briefly stated facts necessary for the adjudication of the case are that respondents No. 3 and 4 filed an application under section 54 of the Himachal Pradesh (Consolidation and Prevention of fragmentation) Act, 1971 (in short the Act of 1971) averring therein that when consolidation operations were completed in Village Chownki Mauza Milkh, Tehsil Nurpur, District Kangra, in the Year, 2000-01, they were not given any passage to approach their land comprised in Khasra No.472. The Director Consolidation, taking cognizance of the averments contained in the application filed under Section 54 of the Act of 1971, issued notices to the petitioners and during the pendency of the application, respondent No.1 directed the Consolidation Officer, Hamirpur, HP, to reach/visit the spot and submit his report. Record further reveals that Director Consolidation after receipt of the record from the field Agency allowed the revision petition of the respondents vide order dated 27.12.2008 and remanded the case back to Consolidation Officer, Hamirpur, with the directions to visit the spot and provide passage to the respondents by showing the same in red line. Consolidation Officer, pursuant to the order supra visited the spot and passed order dated 13.3.2009.

3. Feeling aggrieved and dis-satisfied with the order dated 13.3.2009, the petitioners approached this Court by way of present writ petition seeking quashment of the aforesaid orders passed by Director Consolidation as well as Consolidation Officer, Hamirpur.

4. Mr. Y.P. Sood, Advocate, appearing for the petitioners vehemently argued that orders dated 28.1.2009 and 13.3.2009 passed by the Director, Consolidation of Holdings as well as Consolidation Officer, Consolidation of Holdings, HP are illegal and without any jurisdiction and as such, same are required to be quashed and set-aside. He vehemently contended that application preferred under Section 54 by the present respondents No.3 and 4, could not be entertained as same was not maintainable after a delay of 7-8 years. He also contended that keeping in view the nature of dispute raised by respondents No. 3 and 4 in their application filed under Section 54 of the Act, 1971, matter could not be decided by respondent No.1 while exercising the powers under Section 54, since he had no jurisdiction to go into the question of providing any passage by passing any order of providing passage to the respondents in exercise of power under Section 54 of the Act. He forcefully contended that respondent No.2 has in fact exercised the jurisdiction, which was not vested in him and as such order passed by him deserves to be quashed and set-aside.

5. During arguments having been made by him, he invited attention of this Court to Annexure P-4 to demonstrate that w.e.f. 2.3.2009, Consolidation Officer had no power to deal with the cases of Consolidations. He contended that w.e.f. 2.3.2009, all the powers of Consolidation Officer had been delegated upon the Tehsildar concerned of the respective jurisdiction for disposal of the cases pending for disposal with the Consolidation Officer under the provisions of the Act with immediate effect. In view of the aforesaid background, he prayed that petition may be allowed and AnnexureP-2 may be quashed and set-aside.

6. Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, representing the State supported the orders passed by the Courts below. He forcefully contended that the Director, Consolidation of Holdings has got full powers under Section 54 of the Act to decide the case and since the revenue village was not denotified at the time of filing any revision petition, it was rightly entertained by the Director, Consolidation of Holdings in terms of the provisions of the Act and rules. He strenuously argued that since matter qua the hindrance of path to the land of respondents was brought to the notice of concerned authorities, authorities while exercising powers under the Rules, rightly directed the Consolidation Officer to visit the spot to mark the path with red line.

7. I have heard learned counsel for the parties as well carefully gone through the record.

8. It is undisputed that respondents No.3 and 4 by way of application filed under Section 54 of the Act, approached the Director, Consolidation of Holdings stating therein that in the Year, 2001 consolidation took place at Village Chowni Mauza Milkh, Tehsil Nurpur District Kangra, which was subsequently confirmed. Respondent No.1 specifically pleaded before the Director Consolidation that prior to the consolidation, respondent as well as present petitioners were joint owner in possession of the land comprised in Khasra No. 399 old.

9. The petitioners prayed that they have been deprived of their valuable right of passage by Respondent No.1. Director Consolidation vide order dated 27.12.2008 allowed the revision petition preferred by respondents No. 3 and 4. Operative part of order passed by Director Consolidation is reproduced herein-below:

> "The request of the petitioner to grant him 4 to 5 meters passage cannot be considered nor any amendment is required to provide approach road from the land of the respondents. The case is remanded back to the C.O. Hamirpur with the directions that in case there is no other approach to the land of the petitioner the same may be provided to him by showing the same in "red line" as per the provisions of the scheme in the presence of both the parties. The C.O. should also take into consideration that it does not have any affect on the permanent structure constructed by the petitioner and others."

Further perusal of the record suggests that pursuant to the order dated 28.2.2009, Consolidation Officer, Hamirpur, after visiting the spot held that respondent applicant require passage to approach their land and accordingly, passage measuring 34+21+10 meters showed in red Ink on the north side of Khasra No. 473 and 472. Now the question, which needs to be determined by this Court is whether Consolidation Officer, Hamirpur was competent to pass orders dated 13.3.2009 or not, especially in the light of notification dated 2.3.2009 issued by Govt. of Himachal Pradesh, Department of Reveune. It would be apt to reproduce notification herein-below

> "…………..In supersession of all previous notification issued in this behalf and in exercise of the powers conferred upon him under Section 52 of the Himachal Pradesh (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act, 1971, the Governor, Himachal Pradesh is pleased to delegate the powers of Consolidation Officer upon Tehsildars concerned in their respective jurisdiction for disposal of cases pending for disposal with the Consolidation Officer under the provisions Act, ibid, with immediate effect………"

Perusal of the notification (supra) clearly suggests that w.e.f. 2.3.2009, all the powers of Consolidation Officers were ordered to be conferred upon the Tehsildars concerned of their respective jurisdiction for disposal of cases pending for disposal with the Consolidation Officer under the provisions of the Act.

10. Admittedly, in the present case, Consolidation Officer to whom, Director Consolidation, respondent No.1 vide order dated 27.12.2008 remanded the case back with the direction to visit the spot and grant 4-5 meters passage to the respondents did not decide the case on or before 2.3.2009 i.e. date of notification. Since matter was pending for disposal with the concerned Consolidation Officer under the Act on 2.3.2009, this Court is of the view that Consolidation Officer had no authority/jurisdiction to adjudicate the matter on 13.3.2009 after issuance of aforesaid notification. Since after 2.3.2009, all powers of Consolidation Officers were conferred upon the Tehsildar in their respective jurisdiction for disposal of case pending for disposal before the Consolidation Officer under the Act, the Consolidation Officer, Hamirpur, had no jurisdiction, whatsoever, to decide the matter at hand and, as such, any order passed by Consolidation Officer in pending matters after 2.3.2009, deserves to be quashed and set-aside.

11. Consequently, in view of the discussion made hereinabove, this Court is of the view that order dated 13.3.2009 passed by Consolidation Officer in the present case, was without any jurisdiction and, as such, same is quashed and set aside. Needless to say that Tehsildar concerned is competent to pass orders, if any, in the present case, in terms of notification dated 2.3.2009. Accordingly, the writ petition is disposed of with pending applications, if any.

(Para- 10 to 15)

For the Appellant : Mr. G.D. Verma, Senior Advocate with Mr. Anil K. Aggarwal and Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocates.

For the Respondent : Mr. G.C. Gupta, Senior Advocate with Ms. Meera Devi, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Rajiv Sharma, Judge

This Regular Second Appeal has been instituted against Judgment and Decree dated 24.11.2015 rendered by the learned Additional District Judge-I, Solan, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh in Civil Appeal no. 123-S/13 of 2012.

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of the present appeal are that the respondent-plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as 'plaintiff' for convenience sake) filed a suit for declaration and permanent prohibitory injunction under Sections 34 and 38 of the Specific Reliefs Act, against the appellant-defendant (hereinafter referred to as 'defendant' for convenience sake). According to the averments as made in the plaint, M/s Chander Tal Hotel is a private limited concern. Plaintiff is the Director of the same. Plaintiff is owner-in-possession of the suit land as detailed in plaint, in the capacity of Director of the company. Shri Devinder Singh Kanwar, husband of the plaintiff transferred the above said land in the name of M/s Chander Tal Hotel Company after seeking due permission from the State Government. Defendant was a good friend of the husband of the plaintiff. He approached for employment, therefore, Devinder Singh Kanwar appointed him as a Manager of the Company to look after affairs of M/s Chander Tal Hotel. Shri Devinder Singh was suffering from cancer. He could not recover from the ailment. He died in the year 2004. After the death of Devinder Singh Kanwar, plaintiff inducted her son as one of the Directors of the Company. Plaintiff became suspicious and asked about the progress of work from the defendant. Plaintiff was surprised that no development work was done on the site and defendant pretended himself to be the Director of the company. He was going to alienate the suit land to some other person. Defendant did not have any lawful authority to deal with the affairs of the company. It was in these circumstances that the civil suit was filed.

3. Suit was contested by the defendant. Defendant admitted that Shri Devinder Singh Kanwar was one of the Directors of the Company. Suit land was in his name before transferring in the name of the Company. Company was formed on 29.4.1992. Devinder Singh transferred the suit land in the name of M/s Chander Tal Hotel after obtaining permission of the State Government. It was decided in the meeting of the Company held on 2.5.1992 that land was to be purchased by the Company from Devinder Singh Kanwar. The value of land was assessed at Rs.7.00 Lakh and consideration was paid. On 4.5.1992, meeting of the Company was held and resolution was passed that Additional Directors were to be appointed alongwith defendant as one of the Additional Directors. Husband of the plaintiff transferred the entire share of Rs.70,000/- to the defendant. He denied that the defendant came for employment. It is also denied that on 11.5.1992, defendant was appointed as Manager of the Company and authorised to sign documents on behalf of the Company. It is averred that Shri Devinder Singh has sold his entire shares to defendant and other Directors of the Company, and has retired from the company. He was not pretending to be the Director of the Company.

4. Replication was filed by the plaintiff. Issues were framed by the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division) on 28.10.2010. Learned trial Court decreed the suit as per judgment and decree dated 19.11.2012. Defendant filed an appeal before the Additional District Judge-I, Solan. He also dismissed the appeal on 24.11.2015. Hence, this Regular Second Appeal.

5. The Regular Second Appeal was taken for final hearing at the admission stage.

6. Mr. G.D. Verma, learned Senior Advocate on the basis of substantial questions of law framed has vehemently argued that the suit was barred by limitation. Learned Courts below have misconstrued oral as well as documentary evidence and have failed to consider the minutes of the meetings dated 2.5.1992, 4.5.1992 and 11.5.1992. He has also argued that his client was a bonafide purchaser of the shares from plaintiff and her husband. First appellate Court has misread the Memorandum and Articles of Association and sale deed executed and registered on 25.8.2000.

7. Mr. G.C. Gupta, learned Senior Advocate has supported the judgments and decrees passed by both the learned Courts below.

8. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the record carefully.

9. Since all the substantial question of law are interconnected, hence, are taken up together for discussion in order to avoid repetition of evidence.

10. M/s Chander Tal Hotel was registered with the Registrar of Companies. Ext. PX is the certificate of incorporation issued by the Registrar of Companies. Memorandum and Articles of Association of the Company is Ext. PW-1/C. The share capital of company was fixed at Rs.10.00 Lakh divided into Rs.1.00 Lakh equity shares of face value of Rs.10/- each. Articles No. 7 and 8 of the Articles of Association read as under:

> "7. Any member desiring to sell any of his shares must notify to the Board of Directors the number of shares, the fair value and the name of the proposed transferee and the Board must offer to the other share holders the shares offered at the fair value and if the offer is accepted the shares shall be transferred to the acceptors and if the shares or any of them are not so accepted within one month, from the date of notice to the Board, the members proposing transfer shall at any time within two months afterward, be at liberty, subject to Articles 8 and 9 hereof, to sell and transfer the shares to any person at the same or at the higher price.
> 8. No transfer of shares shall be made or registered without the previous sanction of the Directors, except when the transfer is made by any member of the Company to another member or to the member's wife or child or children or his heirs and the Directors may decline to give such sanction without assigning any reason subject to Section 111 of the Act."

11. It is apparent from a plain reading of Article 7 of the Articles of Association that any member desiring to sell any of his shares must notify it to the Board of Directors, the number of shares, fair value and name of the proposed transferee and the Board must offer to the other shareholders the shares offered, at the fair value and if the offer is accepted the shares shall be transferred to the acceptors and if the shares or any of them are not so accepted within one month, from the date of notice to the Board, the members proposing transfer shall at any time within two months afterward, be at liberty, subject to Articles 8 and 9, to sell and transfer the shares to any person at the same or at the higher price.

12. Meeting was held under the Chairmanship of the husband of the plaintiff on 2.5.1992 at 3.30 PM. Value of the suit land belonging to the husband of the plaintiff was assessed at Rs.7.00 Lakh. He agreed to transfer it to the company in lieu of Rs.70,000/- shares of company each of the value of Rs.10/-. Subsequent meeting was held on 4.5.1992 at 11 AM under the Chairmanship of the husband of the plaintiff. This meeting was attended by the plaintiff as a Director. Meeting was also convened on 11.5.1992 at 10 AM under the chairmanship of the husband of the plaintiff. According to this meeting, 50,000 shares each of value of Rs.10/- of the husband of the plaintiff were shown to have been transferred in favour of the defendant, his father OP Khanna and his brother K.D. Khanna. There is no tangible evidence on record to establish that the Board of Directors had been informed by the husband of the plaintiff with respect to intention of transferring shares and a period of one month had been given to remaining shareholders to purchase these shares and that after expiry thereof, shares have been sold/transferred in favour of the defendant and his relatives as per Article 7 of the Articles of Association. Moreover, there is no tangible evidence on record to prove that intimation of transfer of the shares was sent to the Registrar of Companies. Even, the annual return / balance sheet has not been placed on record.

13. Now, the Court will advert to the fact whether defendant was appointed as one of the Directors of the Company. According to the proceedings of the minutes book dated 4.5.1992, proposal was placed before the Board of Directors to appoint Additional Directors. Defendant was one of them. On 4.5.1992, only the proposal was placed before the Board of Directors to appoint Additional Directors, However, fact of the matter is that the defendant was not appointed as Additional Director of the Company. Intimation of the appointment of Additional Directors was required to be given to the office of Registrar of Companies to confirm the appointment of the Additional Director(s) in the annual meeting. Defendant while appearing as DW-1 has admitted categorically that no such intimation has been placed on record nor the intimation was sent to the Registrar of Companies regarding appointment of Additional Directors. Even in the meeting held on 11.5.1992, there is no mention of confirmation of the defendant as Additional Director. Form-32 was required to be sent to the Registrar of Companies.

14. Mr. G.D. Verma, learned Senior Advocate has argued that the plaintiff and her husband have resigned from the Company and resignation was accepted in the meeting by the Board of Directors after transferring their shares. Neither the defendant nor any other person was appointed as Additional Director. There is no question of submitting resignation before them. Defendant has not placed on record resignation letters of the plaintiff and her husband. Land has been transferred by Shri Devinder Singh in the name of the plaintiff in the capacity of Director. Proceedings dated 25.8.2000 have not been signed by the plaintiff. Defendant in his cross-examination admitted that intimation of the transfer of shares is required to be sent to Registrar of Companies office. It is also required to be mentioned in annual return. The annual return/balance sheet of the company has not been placed on record and no document or mode of transfer of shares has been placed on record.

15. Learned trial Court has specifically framed issue that whether the suit was time barred. However, the defendant has not led any evidence that how the suit was time barred. Learned Courts below have correctly appreciated Articles 7 and 8 of the Articles of Association. Learned Courts below have also correctly appreciated the minutes of the meetings held on 2.5.1992, 4.5.1992 and 11.5.1992 as well as sale deed dated 25.8.2000 (Ext. PW-1/D) and the minutes of the meeting held on 25.8.2000. Defendant has failed to prove that he was inducted as Additional Director of the Company. Transfer of shares in his name is also not in accordance with the Articles of Association. Resignation letters of the plaintiff and her husband have not been placed on record. No intimation has been given to the Registrar of Companies. Annual return has also not been placed on record to prove transfer of the shares. Appointment of the defendant as an Additional Director of the Company was never confirmed in the subsequent meetings.

16. The substantial questions of law are answered accordingly.

Accordingly, in view of the discussions and analysis made hereinabove, the present appeal has no merits and the same is dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, also stand disposed of. No costs.

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20 and 29- A car was signaled to stop by the police, which was checked and was found to be containing 540 grams charas- accused were tried and convicted by the trial Court- held, in appeal that all the codal formalities were completed at the spot- case property was produced before PW-6 for resealing who re-sealed the same and handed it over to MHC- minor contradictions in the statements of witnesses are not sufficient to doubt the prosecution version- all the witnesses stated unanimously that charas was recovered from the backseat of the car- recovery was effected from the car- there was no requirement of complying with Section 50 of N.D.P.S. Act- car was stopped at an isolated place- therefore, independent witnesses could not have been associated- prosecution version was proved beyond reasonable doubt- accused were rightly convicted- appeal dismissed. (Para-15 to 17)

For the appellants : Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate, in both the appeals.
For the respondent : Mr. Parmod Thakur, Additional Advocate General, in both the appeals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Rajiv Sharma, Judge:

Both the appeals arise out of one and the same judgment and common questions of law and facts are involved in the same, hence, both the appeals were taken up for hearing together and are being disposed of by this common judgment.

2. The present appeals have been filed against Judgment dated 1.5.2015 rendered by the learned Special Judge (Additional Sessions Judge-II), Shimla, Himachal Pradesh, whereby appellants-accused (hereinafter referred to as 'accused' for convenience sake), who were charged with and tried for offence under Sections 20 and 29 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act' for convenience sake) have been convicted to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of five years and to pay a fine of Rs.20,000/- each, and, in default of payment of fine, to further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of six months.

3. Case of the prosecution, in a nutshell, is that on 16.2.2011, a police party headed by SI Phool Singh (PW-10) alongwith Dulu Ram, HC Shiv Kumar, HHC Tek Singh and Constable Naresh Kumar in a private vehicle No. HP-09-1499 was present at place Kadog in connection with their routine patrolling and Nakabandi duty. At about 4.30 AM, one Maruti car bearing registration No. HP-01K-1365 appeared from Kingal side. Vehicle was stopped and checked. Accused Hemant was sitting on the driver seat and Govind Kumar was sitting in the front seat. Accused Jia Lal and Naresh Kumar were found sitting in the back seat. On checking of the vehicle, a packet was recovered from the back seat where accused Jia Lal and Naresh Kumar were found sitting. Packet was Khaki in colour and was duly sealed with Khaki tape. On opening the packet, black substance in round shapes was recovered. It was found to be Charas. It weighed 540 grams. It was put back inside packet and then sealed in a packet with six seal impressions of 'D'. NCB form in triplicate was filled in. Seal impression was handed over to Shiv Kumar. Charas was taken into possession. Site plan was prepared. Case property was produced before SHO Police Station Dhalli, who resealed the same with three seal impressions of 'S' and issued resealing certificate Ext. PW-6/D. Case property was deposited with MHC Police Station, Dhalli. He entered the same at Sr. No. 649 of the Malkhana Register. Case property was sent to FSL Junga through MHC Rattan Pal. Chemical Examination report is Ext. PW-10/D. Investigation was completed. Challan was put up in the Court after completing all the codal formalities. Accused Naresh Kumar sitting in the back seat of the vehicle in question was a minor. His date of birth is 8.5.1993.

4. Prosecution has examined as many as eleven witnesses. Accused were also examined under Section 313 CrPC. They pleaded innocence. Learned trial Court convicted the accused as noticed above. Hence, these appeals.

5. Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused.

6. Mr. Parmod Thakur, Additional Advocate General, has supported Judgment dated 1.5.2015.

7. HC Shiv Kumar (PW-1) testified that on 16.2.2011, he alongwith HC Dilu Ram No. 132 and Constable Tek Singh, Constable Naresh in a private vehicle No. HP-09A-1499, was present in connection with routine patrolling duty at village Kadog. A Maruti Car bearing registration No. HP-01K-1365 appeared from Kingal side at about 4.30 AM. The vehicle was stopped. Four persons were sitting inside the vehicle. Hemant Kumar was on driver seat. Govind Ram was in the front seat and Jia Lal and Naresh Kumar were sitting in the rear seats. On checking, a Khaki parcel was found from beneath the rear seat, occupied by Naresh and Jia Lal. On opening the parcel, black round shaped substance was found. It was found to be Charas. It was weighed with electronic scale. It weighed 540 grams. It was put back into the packet and sealed with six seal impressions of 'D'. Seal impression was taken on a separate piece of cloth. NCB form in triplicate was filled in. Charas was taken into custody. He identified his signatures on Ext. PW-1/B. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that only one team left for patrolling from police post Sunni. He could not narrate whether there was a gap between the floor and the front seat of the vehicle and whether there is no gap between rear seats and the floor. Recovery was effected from the back seat where Naresh Kumar and Jia Lal were sitting. Recovery was effected after removing entire rear seat. He admitted that army personnel remained on duty around the clock at Kadog. He denied the suggestion that they had prior information about the offending vehicle.

8. HHC Tek Singh (PW-2) also corroborated the statement of PW-1 Shiv Kumar, about the manner in which Charas was recovered from the car. Rukka was handed over to him at 6.30 AM for registration of case in Police Station, Dhalli. Thereafter, FIR No. 28/11 was registered. He carried the FIR to the spot and handed over the same to IO. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that there was a gap between the rear seat and the floor of the vehicle from where they effected recovery. He did not remember whether Investigating Officer removed the seat or seat cover. They checked 2-3 vehicles at Basantpur and thereafter left for Kadog. Entire proceedings were conducted in search light in his presence.

9. HC Shiv Kumar No. 172 (PW-3) testified that at about 6.30 PM, Inspector/ SHO Balbir Singh handed over to him a sealed parcel with six seal impressions of 'D' and five seal impressions of 'S' contained 540 grams Charas in round shape. He was handed over seal sample 'D' and 'S' alongwith NCB form in triplicate. He made entry in the Malkhana Register at Sr. No. 649 on 16.2.2011. On 19.2.2011, he handed over the case property to HHC Rattan Pal vide RC No. 27/11. On return, HHC Rattan Pal handed over the receipt to him.

10. Constable Naresh (PW-5) also deposed the manner in which Charas was recovered from the car. Search, seizure and sampling proceedings were completed at the spot. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that there was gap of 6 inches between the front seat and the floor of the Maruti car but there was no gap between the rear seat and the floor of the car. Accused were taken out of the vehicle at the time of removing rear seat. Accused were given option either to be searched before a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer. He did not remember who conducted the search of the SI Phool Singh.

11. Inspector Balbir Singh (PW-6) deposed that on 16.2.2011, SI Phool Singh produced one sealed parcel sealed with six seal impressions of 'D' containing 540 grams Charas, which was resealed by him after using seal impression 'S', five times. He also appended seal impression 'S' on the NCB form. He deposited the sealed parcel alongwith NCB form with MHC Shiv Kumar.

12. HHC Rattan Pal (PW-8) carried case property to FSL Junga, on the basis of RC No. 27/11.

13. Lal Singh (PW-9) issued birth certificate of Naresh Kumar vide Ext. PW-9/B. Date of birth of Naresh Kumar was 8.5.1993.

14. SI Phool Singh (PW-10) deposed the manner in which accused were found travelling in the car and 540 gram Charas was recovered from the car. He filled in NCB form. He also prepared Rukka Ext. PW-10/A, on the basis of which FIR Ext. PW-6/A was registered against accused. Accused were produced before the Court. Accused Naresh Kumar was produced before the Juvenile Justice Board. Case property was sent for chemical analysis. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that in Maruti car, there is gap between the floor and the front seat whereas it is not so in rear seat. They recovered the Charas by removing the seat. He himself removed the seat and effected recovery. Personal search of accused was also effected after their arrest. No option was given to the accused that they were free to exercise option to be searched before a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer.

15. Accused were travelling in Maruti car bearing No. HP-01K-1365. Car was signalled to stop. Charas was recovered from the rear seat of car. It weighed 540 grams. All the codal formalities were completed at the spot including filling up NCB form. Rukka was prepared vide Ext. PW-6/A, on the basis of which FIR Ext. PW-10/A was registered. Case property was produced before PW-6 Inspector Balbir Singh for resealing. He resealed the same and handed over to MHC Shiv Kumar. He entered the same in Malkhana Register at Sr. No. 649. Case property was sent by Shiv Kumar to FSL Junga vide RC No. 27/11 through PW-8 Rattan Pal. He deposited the same with FSL Junga. According to Ext. PW-10/D, contraband was found to be Charas.

16. Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate has vehemently argued that there are minor contradictions as to whether there was a gap between the floor of the vehicle and rear seats. According to him, PW-10 Balbir Singh deposed that recovery was effected after removing entire seat. PW-2 HHC Tek Singh deposed that there was gap between floor and rear seat of the vehicle from where recovery was effected. PW-5 Constable Naresh deposed that there is a gap of 6 inches between front seat and floor of Maruti 800. PW-10 Balbir Singh deposed that there was a gap between floor and front seat. It was not so in the case of rear seat. Recovery was effected after removing the seat of the car itself. However, fact of the matter is that Charas has been recovered from the rear seat of car occupied by the accused. Recovery was effected as per PW-10 Balbir Singh, after removing rear seat partially. Charas was hidden below seat. Minor contradiction that whether there was gap between rear seat and floor is not material. All the official witnesses have stated in unison that Charas was recovered from the back seat of car.

17. Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate, has also vehemently argued that the Section 50 of the Act has not been complied. PW-10 Balbir Singh has categorically deposed that personal search of accused was carried only after their arrest. Moreover, since Charas was recovered from the vehicle, Section 50 of the Act was not required to be complied with. Recovery was made at 4.30 AM from the place which was isolated. Thus, there was no possibility of finding any independent witnesses at 4.30 AM on 16.2.2011.

18. Prosecution has proved its case against the accused beyond doubt.

19. Accordingly, there is no merit in both the appeals and the same are dismissed, so also the pending applications, if any.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioners are engaged in the business of liquor and are holders of L-1 Licence- Government approved Liquor Sourcing Policy and Liquor Sales Policy for 2016-17- aggrieved from the policy, present writ petition has been filed contending that the petitioners had deposited money for renewal of the licence granted to them and had invested huge amount for running their business- Government has created a Company namely H.P. Beverage Corporation Limited and it wants to monopolize the entire business – respondents contended that petitioners did not have any right to carry on the liquor business and the decision was taken in the public interest- held, that State Government had made its intention clear to create company/corporation to replace the old system of L-1 wholesale dealers – State Government is competent to make rules for regulating manufacture, supply, storage or sale of liquor- State has power to control the trade of liquor- therefore, decision of the State Government to create Corporation/company for carrying liquor business cannot be held to be illegal or unjustifiable- there is no fundamental right to trade in intoxicants like liquor- State Government is within its right to establish a company/corporation replacing the old system of issuance of licenses to the wholesalers - decision to create a corporation was a policy decision and Courts should not interfere with the same- mere fact that licence fee has been deposited is not sufficient to prove that licence stood renewed in absence of an order to this effect - there cannot be any legitimate expectation when it was made known that a corporation will be created for carrying out wholesale liquor business- petition dismissed. The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J.

With the consent of learned counsel representing the petitioners in the aforesaid writ petitions, all the cases are being taken together for final adjudication since issues involved in abovementioned petitions are identical. Moreover, in all the petitions similar relief has been claimed by the petitioners.

2. At the time of final hearing of the aforesaid matters, case bearing CWP No.1525 of 2016, titled: M/s.Himalayan Wines vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and Others, has been taken as lead case, since pleadings in that case are complete.

3. Briefly stated facts necessary for the just and proper adjudication of the controversy at hands, as narrated in CWP No.1525 of 2016, are that the petitioners are engaged in the business of Liquor for the last so many years in the State of Himachal Pradesh. It is further averred in the writ petition that all the writ petitioners are holders of L-1 Licence granted to them under the H.P. Liquor Licensing Rules, 1986 (for short Rules, 1986) for the sale of liquor including Indian made Foreign liquor in the whole sale trade only. Perusal of the averments contained in the writ petition suggests that the petitioners are aggrieved with the issuance of letter dated 3rd June, 2016 by respondent No.2 to all the Assistant Excise & Taxation Commissioners in the State of Himachal Pradesh, conveying therein the approval of the Government for the "Liquor Sourcing Policy for 2016-17 and Liquor Sales Policy for 2016-17". Accordingly, in the backdrop of issuance of aforesaid communication, petitioners by way of present petition laid challenge to Annexures P-3, P-4 and P-5 annexed with all the writ petitions. By way of Annexures P-3 and P-4, all the concerned person including petitioners as well as authorities envisaged under H.P. Excise Act,2011 (for short `Excise Act') have been informed with regard to approval of the Government for Liquor Sourcing Policy, 2016-17 and Liquor Sales Policy, 2016-17 with further information that w.e.f. 8th June, 2016 Corporation constituted in terms of Clause 2.38 of Announcements of Excise Allotments/Tender for the year 2016-17 (for short `Excise Announcements') shall commence the business of wholesale and licenses of existing wholesale dealers would be discontinued w.e.f. 15th June, 2016.

4. By way of Annexure P-5, communication dated 4.6.2016 all the persons, engaged in the liquor business/ trade on the strength of L-1 License, have been directed to exhaust the stock, if any, on or before 14.6.2016. Petitioners contended that they, being the license holders of wholesale vend of Indian made foreign liquor trade only (for short `L-1'), were issued license from time to time, copies whereof are also placed on record as Annexure P-1. Petitioners by way of Annexure P-1 have placed on record documents/receipts suggesting that license for carrying wholesale vends of L-1 have been renewed by the respondents on year to year basis and lastly petitioners have been granted license in March, 2015 up to 31st March, 2016 after taking prescribed license fee. Petitioners also averred that since license was to expire on 31st March, 2016, they made an application before the competent authority for renewal in accordance with the Himachal Pradesh Liquor Licensing Rules, 1986 (for short `Rules, 1986') and their applications were accepted by the respondents for renewal by receiving the license fee amounting to Rs.6 lacs as renewal fee for the year 2016-17.

5. Petitioners have also placed on record receipt/copy of challan on record to substantiate their claim with regard to deposit of license fee for renewal of license. It is also contended on behalf of the petitioners that after renewal of license they are continuing as L-1 licensee and have been selling Indian made foreign liquor to various retail sale licenses as per the provision of Act, Rules and Announcements of Excise Allotment/Tenders. Petitioners have also contended that after renewal of license for the year 2016-17, they mobilized all the financial resources for entire year and invested huge amount with a view to run the business as wholesalers in the capacity of L-1 till 31st March, 2017.

6. All the petitioners have averred that to their utter chagrin and surprise, respondents issued letter dated 3.6.2016 (Annexure P-3), conveying therein approval of the Government for Liquor Sourcing Policy, 2016-17 and Liquor Sales Policy, 2016-17. It is stated by the petitioners that the respondents have formulated a Company/Corporation; namely; H.P. Beverage Corporation Limited (for short `HPBL') appointing respondent No.2 as its Managing Director, but factum with regard to start of operation/business by the aforesaid newly constituted Company came to their notice when a meeting was convened by Assistant Excise & Taxation Commissioner, Solan on 4.6.2016 (Annexure P-4). According to the petitioners, unilateral action has been taken by respondents that too in complete violation of Act and Rules occupying the field and moreover, decision, as referred above, is contrary to the Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17. All the petitioners have stated in their petitions that the respondents are estopped by their own act and conduct to initiate any action in terms of letter dated 3.6.2016 (Annexure P-3) especially when renewal of licence has been made in their favour after accepting renewal fee for the entire year, more particularly, when renewal is in terms of Rule 12 of the Rules, 1986. Petitioners also submitted that as per Section 81 of the Excise Act, it is/was incumbent upon the respondent No.2, the Excise & Taxation Commissioner (who also has been designated as Financial Commissioner (Excise) under the H.P. Power and Appeal Orders, issued by the Government to make Rules by notification for regulating the manufacture, supply, storage or sale of any liquor and imposing any restrictions and the conditions for the conduct of business of liquor by newly constituted HPBL, hence any action taken contrary to the Rules and Regulations deserves to be held invalid being contrary to the provisions of the Act. It is also averred in the petitions that great prejudice would be caused to the petitioners in case respondents are allowed to act/proceed in terms of Annexure P-3. It is also submitted that once respondents have renewed the licenses by taking license fee in terms of Rules, petitioners being licensees cannot be stopped from carrying out their business till 31st March, 2017 since they have paid license fee for the whole year.

7. It is further submitted that new mechanism has been devolved by the respondents to monopolize the required trade by eliminating the petitioners who at present are the major stake-holders in the liquor license in the State of Himachal Pradesh. Petitioners averred that there is no power with Excise Department to add or cancel any classification in the licensee in the Excise Policy without amending the Rules. It is averred by the petitioners that once they were acting as L-1 licencee, any action of respondents to provide for another license to warehouse certainly demonstrates bad and malafide intention of the respondents. According to the petitioners, no object is sought to be achieved by formulation of any Corporation/Company rather respondents solely with a view to harass them have issued Annexure P-3 asking them to exhaust their stock on or before 14.6.2016 and in case stock remains, unsold/unexhausted, Licensee will have to return the same back to the manufacturer, which is totally impracticable.

8. In the aforesaid background, the petitioners averred that respondents should have allowed them to continue for the entire financial year especially when renewal fee of whole of the year has been accepted by the respondents.

9. A detailed reply has been filed by respondents No. 1 to 12 on the affidavit of Additional Chief Secretary to the Government of Himachal Pradesh, wherein it has been interalia stated that petitioners did not have any fundamental right to carry on any trade in liquor and the State Government enjoys exclusive privilege in respect of dealings in liquor trade. Respondents have stated that under Section 5 of the Excise Act, State Government is empowered to appoint an Excise & Taxation Commissioner, who shall exercise all the powers of Financial Commissioner and subject to the control of State Government, the general superintendence and administration of all matters of excise shall vest in him. Accordingly, the State Government vide letter No.EXN.F(1)/2016 approved that, "existing system of whole sale licensing system of liquor as it exists during the year 2015-16 be continued for one month for the Financial Year 2016-17 commencing on 01.04.2016 till the proposed company/Corporation become operational for the purpose. The license fee be in proportionate with the fee of Financial Year 2016-17 for the period of 1 month."

10. It is also averred in the reply filed by the respondents that on 2.5.2016, the State Government approved continuation of the existing system till 31.5.2016, which was subsequently extended till 14.6.2016. As such, the petitioners have no right to continue the business beyond that date since they do not have any vested right in any aspect of trade in liquor and to continue to do so, contrary to the directions of the State Government, which is exclusive domain of the respondent State, especially in trade of liquor. Respondents solely with a view to demonstrate that no sudden decision has been taken by them with regard to formation of proposed Company/Corporation, furnished chronological detail indicating therein the steps taken by it to implement the decision regarding switch-over from the existing system of wholesale trade in liquor by L-1 and L-13 licensees to the approved system of wholesale trade in liquor by a new Company which is reproduced hereinbelow:-

Perusal of the above events would show that government has acted consciously and vigorously to implement its announcement of excise policy made under condition 2.38. Relevant original record will be produced for kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court."

11. Respondents also stated in their reply that licenses for the wholesale vend of foreign liquor (L-1) and also wholesale vend for Country Liquor (L-13) are issued under the Excise

Act and in terms of Section 81(a) of the said Act the Financial Commissioner, by issuing notification, is competent to make rules regulating the manufacture, supply, storage or sale of any liquor including the character, erection, alternation, repair, inspection, supervision, management and control of any place for the manufacture, supply, storage or sale of such article and the fittings, implements, apparatus and registers to be maintained therein. In the year 2016-17 also relevant conditions relating to licenses for supply, storage or sale of the Country Liquor, Indian Made Foreign Spirit, Beer, Wine and Ready to Drink Liquor etc. have been framed by the Financial Commissioner which stands published vide notice No.7-635/2015-EXN-6194-6219, dated 19.3.2016. It is further averred by the respondents that detailed terms and condition relating to Allotment of Excise Licence for the year 2016-17 were issued in terms of Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17, wherein as per clause 2.38 it was clearly mentioned/declared that:

> "A Company will be set up under the Himachal Pradesh Excise and Taxation Department which shall be exclusively responsible for the procurement of all kinds of liquor i.e. Country Liquor, IMFS, Beer, Wine and RTD etc. In the State and shall further supply liquor so procured as wholesale-licensee to all the retail vends i.e. L-2, L-14 & L-14A etc. during the year 2016-17. After the Company starts its operation, the retail licensees shall lift liquor i.e. Country Liquor, IMFS, Beer, Wine and RTD etc. only from the Company's licensed and prescribed premises."

12. Respondents-State in their reply have admitted that the petitioners voluntarily deposited an amount of Rs.6 lacs for renewal of their licenses but in view of Condition No.2.38 of the Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17 authority concerned, did not renew the licenses of the petitioners but only permitted them to continue till necessary arrangements as per Condition No.2.38 of Chapter-II of the Excise Announcements are made. Respondents have also mentioned that as per Rules, 1986, the licencee in addition to the provisions of the Excise Act and Rules framed their under from time to time are also under obligation to comply with the instructions/directions/orders/notifications issued by the Excise & Taxation Commissioner from time to time. As per respondents all the licensees are bound to comply with all directions and orders of the Excise and Taxation Commissioner & Taxation Commissioner-cum-Financial Commissioner(Excise), Himachal Pradesh and all other Excise Officers, which may be issued from time to time by them strictly in terms of specific Condition No.1.4 contained in Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17. Respondents have also stated that licensees were well aware of the Excise Announcements made for year 2016-17 and as such they have no ground to raise any grievance as being put forth in the present writ petition. It is also stated in the reply filed by the respondents that the petitioners without availing alternative remedy available to them under Section 68 of the Excise Act, wherein a provision of appeal has been provided, have approached this Court and as such petitions deserve to be quashed and set aside.

13. After perusing averments contained in the writ petition as well as reply filed by the respondents, it emerges that the petitioners are aggrieved with the action of the respondents, whereby a conscious decision has been taken by the respondent-State to replace the existing system of granting wholesale licenses for trading (L-1) Liquor by creating Company/Corporation in terms of Excise Announcements made for year 2016-17. Since respondents vide Annexure P-3 conveyed the decision of the Government for granting approval to Liquor Sourcing Policy and Liquor Sales Policy for 2016-17 and start the business by newly constituted `HPBL' w.e.f. 18.6.2016, petitioners being aggrieved have approached this Court. Since the decision to replace old license system by constituting Company/Corporation has been taken after 31.3.2016, especially when the petitioners have deposited the amount of Rs.6 lacs for renewal of their licenses for the period of 2016-17, petitioners being materially affected with the decision of the respondents to discontinue their licenses after 14.6.2016, have filed petitions before this Court.

14. Shri B.C. Negi and Shri Sanjeev Bhushan, learned Senior Counsel, appearing for the petitioners, vehemently argued that action of respondents in issuing Annexures P-3, P-4 and

P-5 is totally unsustainable in the facts and circumstances of the case and as such same deserves to be quashed and set aside. The aforesaid learned Senior Counsel while advancing their arguments, reiterated the averments contained in the writ petitions, which have been taken note of above and as such same are not reproduced here for the sake of brevity. However, few of the relevant submissions made on behalf of the petitioners by aforesaid Senior Counsel are noticed here.

15. Learned Senior Counsel representing the petitioners stated that action of the respondents in creating Company/Corporation in terms of clause 2.38 of the Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17 cannot be held justifiable because same has been taken after commencement of the new financial year i.e. 2016-17. They also contended that all the petitioners have deposited an amount of Rs.6 lacs on account of renewal fee, which has been duly accepted by the respondents, meaning thereby that their licenses stand renewed till 2016-17 and as such any decision of respondents to start the operation of Company/Corporation body created in terms of clause 2.38 of the Excise Announcements for 2016-17 itself speaks of malafide intention of the respondents. It is forcefully contended by the learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioners that Corporation in terms of clause 2.38 has only been created on papers and there is no infrastructure available to provide necessary support for effective working of the newly created Corporation. It is also contended by the learned Senior Counsel that without making any amendments in the Rules, 1986 (L-1) any action taken by the respondents to start functioning of the Corporation in terms of clause 2.38 cannot be held justifiable, rather same would create confusion in the mind of the people, who are involved in the business of liquor. During arguments having been made by the aforesaid learned Senior Counsel, attention of this Court was invited to the various provisions of the Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17, Liquor Sourcing Policy for the year 2016-17 and Liquor Sales Policy for the year 2016-17, to demonstrate that attempt is being made by the respondents to create further category of licenses for private operators solely with a view to eliminate the existing L-1 licenses (petitioners) without there being any clear objective. Learned Counsel vehemently argued that decision, if any, to accept or suspend the license issued in terms of Section 27 and 28 of the Excise Act can only be taken in terms of Section 29 of the Excise Act, wherein cancellation or suspension can only be done in exigencies as referred in clause 8 (a) to (f) of Section 29 of the Excise Act. Though under Section 32(1)(a) Government has power to withdraw license permit or passes after expiry of 15 days notice in writing, but in the present case no notice, whatsoever, has been issued to the present petitioners and as such any action to discontinue the license of the petitioners after 14.6.2016 is in complete violation of the Rules as well as principle of natural justice and as such the same cannot be allowed to sustain. Both the learned Senior Counsel forcefully contended that once license fee was accepted by the respondent beyond 31.3.2016 in terms of Rule 12 of the Rules, 1986, respondent-State has no authority/power to issue order of discontinuation of the license issued in favour of the petitioners w.e.f. 14.6.2016. It is contended on behalf of the petitioners that being a welfare State it is/was expected of the respondents State to protect the interest of petitioners, who have been contributing in the liquor trade for years together as L-1 licencee. It is also contended that once respondents accepted the license fee for whole year till March, 2017, petitioners are/were entitled to continue their business as L-1 license till March, 2017.

16. Shri Shrawan Dogra, learned Advocate General, representing the respondents, supported the decision of the respondents-State to start the wholesale liquor business by the Company/Corporation in terms of clause 2.38 of Chapter-II of Excise Announcements made for the year 2016-17. Mr.Dogra strenuously argued that Section 5 of the Excise Act empowers the respondents to appoint an Excise and Taxation Commissioner, who shall exercise the powers of Financial Commissioner and subject to control of State Government, general superintendence and administration of all matters shall vest in him. Accordingly, State Government gave its approval for setting up a Company/Corporation as indicated in the Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17.

17. Mr.Dogra, at the time of advancing his arguments, referred to documents annexed with the petition as well as reply to demonstrate that the petitioners were fully aware of the conscious decision taken by the Government to set up a Corporation/Company for carrying out wholesale liquor business by the Corporation/Company to be constituted under clause 2.38 of Excise Announcements made for the year 2016-17 and as such they cannot be allowed to rake up this issue at this stage by filing present petitions. It is contended on behalf of the respondents-State that decision taken by Government to set up a Corporation/Private Company for carrying out wholesale business is strictly in terms of implementation of Excise Announcements made in the Excise Policy for the year 2016-17, wherein it is specifically provided in clause 2.38 Chapter-II, that the Company would be set up under the Himachal Pradesh Excise and Taxation Department for procurement of all kinds of liquor i.e. Country Liquor, IMFS, Beer, Wine and RTD etc in the State. He also contended that it has been made clear in the aforesaid provisions that once Company starts operation, the retail licensees shall lift liquor only from the Company's licensed and prescribed premises. He also refuted the submission on behalf of the petitioners that no amendments, whatsoever, have been carried out in Rules, 1986 in this regard. Therefore, he made available copy of the Notification regarding amendment made in H.P. Liquor Licence Rules, 1986, perusal whereof suggests that necessary amendments have been carried out by the respondent-State for giving effect to the clause 2.38, as referred hereinabove. At this stage, he forcefully refuted the arguments advanced on behalf of the petitioners that since license fee in the shape of amount of Rs. 6 lacs has been received by the respondents-State, petitioners are entitled to continue their business on the strength of license (L-1) till March, 2017. In this regard, Mr.Dogra, strenuously argued that since respondents had already taken conscious decision to set up a Corporation/Company in terms of clause 2.38, no license, whatsoever, for whole of the year was issued in favour of any person for carrying liquor business, rather license/permit, if any, was issued for short term, but definitely not for a period beyond 31.5.2016.

18. Mr.Dogra forcefully contended that bare perusal of the Policies framed by the respondents-State for implementation of Excise Announcements made for the year 2016-17 suggests that decision has been taken by the Government in public interest and as such allegation, if any, of malafide as alleged by the petitioners is totally baseless and deserves outright rejection. Mr.Dogra also contended that petitioners have no vested right, whatsoever, to claim license to carry out the liquor trade, merely on the basis of deposit of renewal fee.

19. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record, this Court, after careful perusal of the pleadings available on the record as well as arguments having been made by the learned counsel representing the parties to lis, is of the view that following two questions are required to be answered for just and fair decision in the matter:-

(a) "Whether decision/approval of the respondents for creating Company/Corporation in terms of clause 2.38 of the Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17 is in accordance with law", and "whether respondents are empowered to eliminate individual license holder for carrying liquor business as in the present case or not?

(b) "Whether any vested right has accrued in favour of the present petitioners after depositing of Rs.6 lacs for renewal of their licenses or whether after receipt of amount licensees/petitioners are entitled to continue their business for whole year i.e. 2016-17 or not?

20. Careful perusal of clause 2.38 to Chapter-II of Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17, as reproduced in para supra, clearly demonstrates that at the time of Announcement of Excise Policy for the year 2016-17, respondents-State made its intention clear that it intends to create Company/Corporation, which will replace the old system of L-1 wholesale dealer. Rather, later part of clause 2.38 makes it ample clear that once the Company starts its operation, retail licenses shall lift liquor i.e. Country liquor, IMFS, Beer, Wine and RTD etc. only from the Company's licensed and prescribed premises.

21. It is undisputed that vide Section 5 of the Excise Act, State Government is competent/empowered to appoint Excise & Taxation Commissioner who shall exercise powers of Financial Commissioner, subject to control of the State Government. Section 81 of Excise Act provides ample powers to respondents to make Rules for regulating the manufacture, supply, storage or sale any liquor including the character, erection, alternation, repair, inspection, supervision, management and control of any place for the manufacture, supply, storage or sale of such article and the fittings, implements, apparatus and registers to be maintain therein.

22. Section 81(a) of the Act clearly provides that the Excise & Taxation Commissioner (who also has been designated as Financial Commissioner (Excise) under the H.P. Power and Appeal Orders, issued by the Government is empowered to make Rules by notification for regulating the manufacture, supply, storage or sale of any liquor and imposing any restrictions.

23. In this regard reference is made to Section 81(a) of the Act, which is reproduced hereinbelow:

> "81(a) Regulating the manufacture, supply, storage or sale of any liquor including the character, erection, alternation, repair, inspection, supervision, management and control of any place for the manufacture, supply, storage or sale of such article and the fittings, implements, apparatus and registers to be maintained therein."

It is crystal clear from the reading of aforesaid provisions that State Government alone is competent to regulate the manufacturer, supply, storage or sale of any liquor by making requisite terms and conditions for the same.

24. Facts narrated above as well as provisions of law mentioned hereinabove, leaves no doubt that respondents-State has exclusive power to control the trade of liquor, as such, decision of respondents-State to create Corporation/ Company for carrying out liquor business cannot be held illegal and unjustifiable. Admittedly, as has been held in catena of cases, it is the exclusive domain of the Government to control the trade of liquor and no individual can claim any right to trade in liquor.

25. Moreover, issue with regard to competence of Government in creating another category of licensee by creating Company/Corporation requires no elaborate discussion by this Court, as issue is no longer res integra.

26. In Har Shankar and others etc. v. The Deputy Excise and Taxation Commissioner and others etc, AIR 1975 SC 1121, it was observed by the Hon'ble Apex Court:-

> "53.In our opinion, the true position governing dealings in intoxicants is as stated and reflected in the Constitution bench decisions of this Court in Balsara's case 1951 SCR 682 = (AIR 1951 SC 318); Cooverjee's case 1954 SCR 873 = (AIR 1954 SC 220); Kidwai's case 1957 SCR 295 = (AIR 1957 SC 414); Nagendra Nath's case 1958 SCR 1240 = (AIR 1958 SC 398); Amar Chakraborty's case (1973) 1SCR 533 = (AIR 1972 SC 1863) and the RM DC case 1957 SCR 874 = (AIR 1957 SC 699) as interpreted in Harinarayan Jaiswal's case (1972) 3 SCR 784 = (AIR 1972 SC 1816) and Nashirwar's case (AIR 1975 SC 360). There is no fundamental right to do trade or business in intoxicants. The State, under its regulatory powers, has the right to prohibit absolutely every form of activity in relation to intoxicants its manufacture, storage, export, import, sale and possession. In all their manifestations, these rights are vested in the state and indeed without such vesting these can be no effective regulation of various forms of activities in relation to intoxicants...."

27. The question before the three Judges Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court in M/s Ugar Sugar Works limited vs. Delhi Administration and others, (2001) 3 SCC 635 arose regarding the validity of notification issued laying down terms and conditions for registration of different brands of Indian Made Foreign Liquor (IMFL) for supply within the territory of Delhi during 2000-01 and laying down Minimum Sales Figures (MSF) as a criteria of eligibility for grant of license in Form L-1, whether it was violative of Articles 14, 16 and 19(1)(g) of the Constitution of India. Considering the law on the issue, it was again expressed that there is no fundamental right to trade in intoxicants like liquor and the plea of the petitioner therein to the contrary was emphatically repelled with the following observations:-

> "The contention that a citizen of this country has a fundamental right to trade in intoxicating liquors refuses to die in spite of the recent Constitution Bench decision in Khoday Distilleries, [1995] 1 SCC 574. It is raised before us again. In Khoday Distilleries, this Court reviewed the entire case-law on the subject and concluded that a citizen has no fundamental right to trade or business in intoxicating liquors and that trade or business in such liquor can be completely prohibited. It held that because of its vicious and pernicious nature, dealing in intoxicating liquors is considered to be res extra commercium (outside commerce).Article 47 of the Constitution, it pointed out, requires the State to endeavour to bring about prohibition of the consumption except for medicinal purposes of intoxicating drinks and all drugs which are injurious to health. For the same reason, the Bench held, the State can treat a monopoly either in itself or in an agency created by it for the manufacture, possession, sale and distribution of liquor as a beverage. The holding is emphatic and unambiguous. Yet an argument is sought to be built upon certain words occurring in clauses (e) and (f) of the summary contained in para 60 of the decision. In these clauses, it was observed that creation of a monopoly in the State to deal in intoxicating liquors and the power to impose restrictions, limitations and even prohibition thereon can be imposed both under clause (6) of Article 19 or even otherwise. Seizing upon these observations, Shri Ganguly argued that this decision implicitly recognises that business in liquor is a fundamental right under Article 19(l)(g). If it were not so, asked the learned counsel, reference to Article 19(6) has no meaning. We do not think that any such argument can be built upon the said observations. In clause (e), the Bench held, a monopoly in the State or its agency can be created "under Article 19(6) or even otherwise". Similarly, in clause (f), while speaking of imposition of restrictions and limitations on this business, it held that they can be imposed "both under Article 19(6) or otherwise". The said words cannot be read as militating against the express propositions enunciated in clauses (b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) of the said summary. The said decision, as a matter of fact, emphatically reiterates the holding in Har Shanker, [1975] 1 SCC 737, that a citizen has no fundamental right to trade in intoxicating liquors. In this view of the matter, any argument based upon Article 19(l)(g) is out of place".

It was concluded thus:-

> "15. In view of this settled position of law, any argument impugning the policy decision of the State Government, as reflected in the impugned notification, based upon Article 19(l)(g) is totally out of place and merits outright rejection and we have no hesitation in doing so most emphatically."

28. Subsequently, another Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Khoday Distilleries Limited and others vs. State of Karnataka and others, (1995) 1 SCC 574 delving into the issue, whether the citizen has a fundamental right to carry on trade in liquor, upon referring to a large number of decisions, answered the issue in the negative and very succinctly summarized the legal position as under:-

"60.We may now summarize the law on the subject as culled from the aforesaid decisions.

(a) The rights protected by Article 19(1) are not absolute but qualified. The qualifications are stated in clauses (2) to (6) of Article 19. The fundamental rights guaranteed in Article 19(1)(a) to (g) are, therefore, to be read along with the said qualifications. Even the rights guaranteed under the Constitutions of the other civilized countries are not absolute but are read subject to the implied limitations on them. Those implied limitations are made explicit by clauses (2) to (6) of Article 19 of our Constitution.

(b) The right to practise any profession or to carry on any occupation, trade or business does not extend to practising a profession or carrying on an occupation, trade or business which is inherently vicious and pernicious, and is condemned by all civilised societies. It does not entitle citizens to carry on trade or business in activities which are immoral and criminal and in articles or goods which are obnoxious and injurious to health, safety and welfare of the general public, i.e., res extra commercium, (outside commerce). There cannot be business in crime.

(c) Potable liquor as a beverage is an intoxicating and depressant drink which is dangerous and injurious to health and is, therefore, an article which is res extra commerce being inherently harmful. A citizen has, therefore, no fundamental right to do trade or business in liquor. Hence the trade or business in liquor can be completely prohibited.

(d) Article 47 of the Constitution considers intoxicating drinks and drugs as injurious to health and impeding the raising of level of nutrition and the standard of living of the people and improvement of the public health. It, therefore, ordains the State to bring about prohibition of the consumption of intoxicating drinks which obviously include liquor, except for medicinal purposes. Article 47 is one of the directive principles which is fundamental in the governance of the country. The State has, therefore, the power to completely prohibit the manufacture, sale, possession, distribution and consumption of potable liquor as a beverage, both because it is inherently a dangerous article of consumption and also because of the directive principle contained in Article 47, except when it is used and consumed for medicinal purposes.

(e) For the same reason, the State can create a monopoly either in itself or in the agency created by it for the manufacture, possession, sale and distribution of the liquor as a beverage and also sell the licences to the citizens for the said purpose by charging fees. This can be done under Article 19(6) or even otherwise.

(f) For the same reason, again, the State can impose limitations and restrictions on the trade or business in potable liquor as a beverage which restrictions are in nature different from those imposed on the trade or business in legitimate activities and goods and articles which are res commercium. The restrictions and limitations on the trade or business in potable liquor can again be both. under Article 19(6) or otherwise. The restrictions and limitations can extend to the State carrying on the trade or business itself to the exclusion of and elimination of others and/or to preserving to itself the right to sell licences to do trade or business in the same, to others.

(g) When the State permits trade or business in the potable liquor with or without limitation, the citizen has the right to carry on trade or business subject to the limitations, if any, and the State cannot make discrimination between the citizens who are qualified to carry on the trade or business.

(h) The State can adopt any mode of selling the licences for trade or business with a view to maximise its revenue so long as the method adopted is not discriminatory.

(i) The State can carry on trade or business in potable liquor notwithstanding that it is an intoxicating drink and Article 47 enjoins it to prohibit its consumption. When the State carries on such business, it does so to restrict and regulate production, supply and consumption of liquor which is also an aspect of reasonable restriction in the interest of general public. The State cannot on that account be said to be carrying on an illegitimate business.

(j) The mere fact that the State levies taxes or fees on the production, sale and income derived from potable liquor whether the production, sale or income is legitimate or illegitimate, does not make the State a party to the said activities. The power of the State to raise revenue by levying taxes and fees should not be confused with the power of the State to prohibit or regulate the trade or business in question. The State exercises its two different powers on such occasions. Hence the mere fact that the State levies taxes and fees on trade or business in liquor or income derived from it, does not make the right to carry on trade or business in liquor a fundamental right, or even a legal right when such trade or business is completely prohibited.

(k) The State cannot prohibit trade or business in medicinal and toilet preparations containing liquor or alcohol. The State can, however, under Article 19(6) place reasonable restrictions on the right to trade or business in the same in the interests of general public.

(l) Likewise, the State cannot prohibit trade or business in industrial alcohol which is not used as a beverage but used legitimately for industrial purposes. The State, however, can place reasonable restrictions on the said trade or business in the interests of the general public under Article 19(6) of the Constitution.

(m) The restrictions placed on the trade or business in industrial alcohol or in medicinal and toilet preparations containing liquor or alcohol may also be for the purposes of preventing their abuse or diversion for use as or in beverage."

29. In view of the discussion made hereinabove as well as law laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgments referred above, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that State Government is well within its rights to create Company/Corporation replacing the old system of issuance of licenses to the wholesalers as L-1 and as such no fault can be found with the same. Law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court makes it clear that no individual can claim to carry out liquor business as a fundamental right and it is the exclusive domain of the State Government to regulate the business of liquor trade by formulating/announcing policies from time to time.

30. Apart from the legal position, as has been discussed above, if we view this case from another angle, it can be safely concluded that respondents-State, by taking policy decision, has decided to set up Corporation/Company in terms of clause 2.38 of Chapter-II of Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17. Needless to say that while making aforesaid Announcements Government/ Authority declares its Policy with regard to dealing with the particular subject and it has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that Courts should desist from making interference in Policy decisions taken by the Government.

31. In this regard reliance is placed upon Maharashtra State Board of Secondary and Higher Secondary Education and Another vs. Paritosh Bhupeshkumar Sheth and Others and Alpana V.Mehta vs. Maharashtra State Board of Secondary Education and Another, (1984)4 SCC 27, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held:

> "16. In our opinion, the aforesaid approach made by the High Court is wholly incorrect and fallacious. The Court cannot sit in judgment over the wisdom of the policy evolved by the Legislature and the subordinate regulation-making body. It may be a wise policy which will fully effectuate the purpose of the enactment or it may be lacking in effectiveness and hence calling for revision and improvement. But any drawbacks in the policy incorporated in a rule or regulation will not render it ultra vires and the Court cannot strike it down on the ground that, in its opinion, it is not a wise or prudent policy, but is even a foolish one, and that it will not really serve to effectuate the purposes of the Act. The Legislature and its delegate are the sole repositories of the power to decide what policy should be pursued in relation to matters covered by the Act and there is no scope for interference by the Court unless the particular provision impugned before it can be said to suffer from any legal infirmity, in the sense of its being wholly beyond the scope of the regulation-making power or its being inconsistent with any of the provisions of the parent enactment or in violation of any of the limitations imposed by the Constitution. None of these vitiating factors are shown to exist in the present case and hence there was no scope at all for the High Court to invalidate the provision contained in clause (3) of Regulation 104 as ultra vires on the grounds of its being in excess of the regulation-making power conferred on the Board. Equally untenable, in our opinion, is the next and last ground by the High Court for striking down clause (3) of Regulation 104 as unreasonable, namely, that it is in the nature of a bye-law and is ultra vires on the ground of its being an unreasonable provision. It is clear from the scheme of the Act and more particularly, Sections 18, 19 and 34 that the Legislature has laid down in broad terms its policy to provide for the establishment of a State Board and Divisional Boards to regulate matters pertaining to secondary and higher secondary education in the State and it has authorised the State Government in the first instance and subsequently the Board to enunciate the details for carrying into effect the purposes of the Act by framing regulations. It is a common legislative practice that the Legislature may choose to lay down only the general policy and leave to its delegate to make detailed provisions for carrying into effect the said policy and effectuate the purposes of the Statute by framing rules/regulations which are in the nature of subordinate legislation. Section 3(39) of the Bombay General Clauses Act, 1904, which defines the expression 'rule' states: Rule shall mean a rule made in exercise of the power under any enactment and shall include any regulation made under a rule or under any enactment." It is important to notice that a distinct power of making bye-laws has been conferred by the Act on the State Board under Section 38. The Legislature has thus maintained in the Statute in question a clear distinction between 'bye-laws' and 'regulations'. The bye-laws to be framed under Section 38 are to relate only to procedural matters concerning the holding of meetings of State Board, Divisional Boards and the Committee, the quorum required, etc. More important matters affecting the rights of parties and laying down the manner in which the provisions of the Act are to be carried into effect have been reserved to be provided for by regulations made under Section 36. The Legislature, while enacting Sections 36 and 38, must be assumed to have been fully aware of the niceties of the legal position governing the distinction between rules/regulations properly so called and bye-laws. When the statute contains a clear indication that the distinct regulation-making power conferred under Section 36 was not intended as a power merely to frame bye-laws, it is not open to the Court to ignore the same and treat the regulations made under Section 36 as mere bye-laws in order to bring them within the scope of justiciability by applying the test of reasonableness.

21. The legal position is now well-established that even a bye-law cannot be struck down by the Court on the ground of unreasonableness merely because the Court thinks that it goes further than "is necessary" or that it does not incorporate certain provisions which, in the opinion of the court, would have been fair and wholesome. The Court cannot say that a bye-law is unreasonable merely because the judges do not approve of it. Unless it can be said that a bye law is manifestly unjust, capricious, inequitable, or partial in its operation, it cannot be invalidated by the Court on the ground of unreasonableness. The responsible representative body entrusted with the power to make by laws must ordinarily be presumed to know what is necessary, reasonable, just and fair. In this connection we may usefully extract the following off-quoted observations of Lord Russell of Killowen in Kruse v. Johnson, (1898) 2 QB 91, 98, 99 (quoted in Trustees of the Port of Madras v. Adminchand Pyarelal, (1976)! SCR 721, 733) (SCC p.178, para 23):

> (1) "When the Court is called upon to consider the byelaws of public representative bodies clothed with the ample authority which I have described, accompanied by the checks and safeguards which I have mentioned, I think the consideration of such bye-laws ought to be approached from a different standpoint. They ought to be supported if possible. They ought to be, as has been said, 'benevolently interpreted' and credit ought to be given to those who have to administer them that they will be reasonably administered."
> "The learned Chief Justice said further that there may be cases in which it would be the duty of the court to condemn by-laws made under such authority as these were made (by a county council) as invalid because unreasonable. But unreasonable in what sense? If for instance, they were found to be partial and unequal in their operation as between different classes; if they were manifestly unjust; if they disclosed bad faith; if they involved such oppressive or gratuitous interference with the rights of those subject to them as could find no justification in the minds of reasonable men, the court might well say, 'Parliament never intended to give authority to make such rules; they are unreasonable and ultra vires.' But it is in this and this sense only, as I conceive, that the question of reasonableness or unreasonableness can properly be regarded. A bye-law is not unreasonable merely because particular judges may think that it goes further than is prudent or necessary or convenient or because it is not accompanied by an exception which some judges may think ought to be there'.
> " We may also refer with advantage to the well-known decision of the Privy Council in Slattery v. Naylor, (1988) 13 AC 446, where it has been laid down that when considering whether a bye-law is reasonable or not, the Court would need a strong case to be made against it and would decline to determine whether it would have been wiser or more prudent to make the bye-law less absolute or will it hold the bye-law to be unreasonable because considerations which the court would itself have regarded in framing such a bye-law have been over looked or reflected by its framers. The principles laid down as aforesaid in Kruse v. Johnson, (1898) 2 QB 91, 98, 99 and Stattery v. Naylor, (1988) 13 AC 446 have been cited with approval and applied by this Court in Trustees of the Port of Madras v. Aminchand Pyarelal & Ors.,(1976) 1 SCR 721, 733."

32. In Parisons Agrotech Private Limited and Another vs. Union of India and Others, (2015)9 SCC 657, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held:

"14. No doubt, the writ court has adequate power of judicial review in respect of such decisions. However, once it is found that there is sufficient material for taking a particular policy decision, bringing it within the four corners of Article 14 of the Constitution, power of judicial review would not extend to determine the correctness of such a policy decision or to indulge into the exercise of finding out whether there could be more appropriate or better alternatives. Once we find that parameters of Article 14 are satisfied; there was due application of mind in arriving at the decision which is backed by cogent material; the decision is not arbitrary or irrational and; it is taken in public interest, the Court has to respect such a decision of the Executive as the policy making is the domain of the Executive and the decision in question has passed the test of the judicial review.

15. In Union of India v. Dinesh Engg. Corpn., (2001)8 SCC 491, this Court delineated the aforesaid principle of judicial review in the following manner: (SCC pp.498-99, para 12)

"12. There is no doubt that this Court has held in more than one case that where the decision of the authority is in regard to the policy matter, this Court will not ordinarily interfere since these policy matters are taken based on expert knowledge of the persons concerned and courts are normally not equipped to question the correctness of a policy decision. But then this does not mean that the courts have to abdicate their right to scrutinise whether the policy in question is formulated keeping in mind all the relevant facts and the said policy can be held to be beyond the pale of discrimination or unreasonableness, bearing in mind the material on record. ..... Any decision be it a simple administrative decision or policy decision, if taken without considering the relevant facts, can only be termed as an arbitrary decision. If it is so, then be it a policy decision or otherwise, it will be violative of the mandate of Article 14 of the Constitution."

16. The power of the Court under writ jurisdiction has been discussed in Asif Hameed. v. State of J&K, 1989 Supp.(2) SCC 364: 1 SCEC 358 in paras 17 and 19, which read as under: (SCC pp. 373-74)

"17. Before adverting to the controversy directly involved in these appeals we may have a fresh look on the inter se functioning of the three organs of democracy under our Constitution. Although the doctrine of separation of powers has not been recognised under the Constitution in its absolute rigidity but the Constitution makers have meticulously defined the functions of various organs of the State. Legislature, executive and judiciary have to function within their own spheres demarcated under the Constitution. No organ can usurp the functions assigned to another. The Constitution trusts to the judgment of these organs to function and exercise their discretion by strictly following the procedure prescribed therein. The functioning of democracy depends upon the strength and independence of each of its organs. Legislature and executive, the two facets of people's will, they have all the powers including that of finance. Judiciary has no power over sword or the purse nonetheless it has power to ensure that the aforesaid two main organs of State function within the constitutional limits. It is the sentinel of democracy. Judicial review is a powerful weapon to restrain unconstitutional exercise of power by the legislature and executive. The expanding horizon of judicial review has taken in its fold the concept of social and economic justice. While exercise of powers by the legislature and executive is subject to judicial restraint, the only check on our own exercise of power is the self-imposed discipline of judicial restraint.

19. When a State action is challenged, the function of the court is to examine the action in accordance with law and to determine whether the legislature or the executive has acted within the powers and functions assigned under the Constitution and if not, the court must strike down the action. While doing so the court must remain within its self-imposed limits. The court sits in judgment on the action of a coordinate branch of the government. While exercising power of judicial review of administrative action, the court is not an appellate authority. The Constitution does not permit the court to direct or advise the executive in matters of policy or to sermonize qua any matter which under the Constitution lies within the sphere of legislature or executive, provided these authorities do not transgress their constitutional limits or statutory powers."

17. The aforesaid doctrine of separation of power and limited scope of judicial review in policy matters is reiterated in State of Orissa v. Gopinath Dash, (2005) 13 SCC 495 : (SCC p.497, paras 5-7)

"5. While exercising the power of judicial review of administrative action, the Court is not the Appellate Authority and the Constitution does not permit the Court to direct or advise the executive in the matter of policy or to sermonise qua any matter which under the Constitution lies within the sphere of the legislature or the executive, provided these authorities do not transgress their constitutional limits or statutory power. (See Asif Hameed v. State of J&K; 1989 Supp (2) SCC 364 and Shri Sitaram Sugar Co. Ltd. v. Union of India; (1990) 3 SCC 223). The scope of judicial enquiry is confined to the question whether the decision taken by the Government is against any statutory provisions or it violates the fundamental rights of the citizens or is opposed to the provisions of the Constitution. Thus, the position is that even if the decision taken by the Government does not appear to be agreeable to the Court, it cannot interfere.

6. The correctness of the reasons which prompted the Government in decision-making taking one course of action instead of another is not a matter of concern in judicial review and the Court is not the appropriate forum for such investigation.

7. The policy decision must be left to the Government as it alone can adopt which policy should be adopted after considering all the points from different angles. In the matter of policy decisions or > exercise of discretion by the Government so long as the infringement of fundamental right is not shown the courts will have no occasion to interfere and the Court will not and should not substitute its own judgment for the judgment of the executive in such matters. In assessing the propriety of a decision of the Government the Court cannot interfere even if a second view is possible from that of the Government."

33. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Census Commissioner and Others vs. R.Krishnamurthy, (2015)2 SCC 796 held:

> "23. The centripodal question that emanates for consideration is whether the High Court could have issued such a mandamus commanding the appellant to carry out a census in a particular manner.
>
> 24. The High Court has tried to inject the concept of social justice to fructify its direction. It is evincible that the said direction has been issued without any deliberation and being oblivious of the principle that the courts on very rare occasion, in exercise of powers of judicial review, would interfere with a policy decision.
>
> 25. Interference with the policy decision and issue of a mandamus to frame a policy in a particular manner are absolutely different. The Act has conferred power on the Central Government to issue Notification regarding the manner in which the census has to be carried out and the Central Government has issued Notifications, and the competent authority has issued directions. It is not within the domain of the Court to legislate. The courts do interpret the law and in such interpretation certain creative process is involved. The courts have the jurisdiction to declare the law as unconstitutional. That too, where it is called for. The court may also fill up the gaps in certain spheres applying the doctrine of constitutional silence or abeyance. But, the courts are not to plunge into policy making by adding something to the policy by way of issuing a writ of mandamus. There the judicial restraint is called for remembering what we have stated in the beginning. The courts are required to understand the policy decisions framed by the Executive. If a policy decision or a Notification is arbitrary, it may invite the frown of Article 14 of the Constitution. But when the Notification was not under assail and the same is in consonance with the Act, it is really unfathomable how the High Court could issue directions as to the manner in which a census would be carried out by adding certain aspects. It is, in fact, issuance of a direction for framing a policy in a specific manner.
>
> 26. In this context, we may refer to a three-Judge Bench decision in Suresh Seth V. Commr., Indore Municipal Corporation, (2005)13 SCC 287, wherein a prayer was made before this Court to issue directions for appropriate amendment in the M.P. Municipal Corporation Act, 1956 so that a person may be debarred from simultaneously holding two elected offices, namely, that of a Member of the Legislative Assembly and also of a Mayor of a Municipal Corporation. Repelling the said submission, the Court held: (SCC pp.288-89, para 5)
> > "In our opinion, this is a matter of policy for the elected representatives of people to decide and no direction in this regard can be issued by the Court. That apart this Court cannot issue any direction to the legislature to make any particular kind of enactment. Under our constitutional scheme Parliament and Legislative Assemblies exercise sovereign power to enact laws and no outside > power or authority can issue a direction to enact a particular piece of legislation. In Supreme Court Employees' Welfare Assn. v. Union of India, (1989)4 SCC 187 (SCC para 51) it has been held that no court can direct a legislature to enact a particular law. Similarly, when an executive authority exercises a legislative power by way of a subordinate legislation pursuant to the delegated authority of a legislature, such executive authority cannot be asked to enact a law which it has been empowered to do under the delegated legislative authority. This view has been reiterated in state of J & K v A.R. Zakki,1992 Supp(1) SCC 548. In A.K. Roy v. Union of India, (1982)1 SCC 271it was held that no mandamus can be issued to enforce an Act which has been passed by the legislature."

34. Reliance is placed upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Kerala and Another vs. B.Six Holiday Resorts Private Limited and Others, (2010)5 SCC 186, wherein it has been held:

> "22. Where the rules require grant of a licence subject to fulfillment of certain eligibility criteria either to safeguard public interest or to maintain efficiency in administration, it follows that the application for licence would require consideration and examination as to whether the eligibility conditions have been fulfilled or whether grant of further licences is in public interest. Where the applicant for licence does not have a vested interest for grant of licence and where grant of licence depends on various factors or eligibility criteria and public interest, the consideration should be with reference to the law applicable on the date when the authority considers applications for grant of licences and not with reference to the date of application.
>
> 27. It is true that in Kuldeep Singh case, (2006)5 SCC 702, there were no statutory rules and what was considered was with reference to a policy. But the ratio of the decision is that where licence sought related to the business of liquor, as the State has exclusive privilege and its citizens had no fundamental right to carry on business in liquor, there was no vested right in any applicant to claim a FL-3 licence and all applications should be considered with reference to the law prevailing as on the date of consideration and not with reference to the date of application. Whether the issue relates to amendment to Rules or change in policy, there will be no difference in principle. Further the legal position is no different even where the matter is governed by statutory rules, is evident from the decisions in Hind Stone, (1981)2 SCC 205 and Howrah Municipal Corporation, (2004)1 SCC 663.
>
> 28. Having regard to the fact that the State has exclusive privilege of manufacture and sale of liquor, and no citizen has a fundamental right to carry on trade or business in liquor, the applicant did not have a vested right to get a licence. Where there is no vested right, the application for licence requires verification, inspection and processing. In such circumstances it has to be held that the consideration of application of FL-3 licence should be only with reference to the rules/law prevailing or in force on the date of consideration of the application by the excise authorities, with reference to the law and not as on the date of application. Consequently the direction by the High Court that the application for licence should be considered with reference to the Rules as they existed on the date of application cannot be sustained.
> Re: Question (ii)

29. The applicants for licence submitted that Rule 13(3) contemplates FL-3 licences being granted on fulfillment of the conditions stipulated therein; and the newly added proviso, by barring grant of new licence had the effect of nullifying the main provision itself. It was contended that the proviso to Rule 13(3) added by way of amendment on 20.2.2002 was null and void as it went beyond the main provision in Rule 13(3) and nullified the main provision contained in Rule 13(3).

30. Rule 13(3) provides for grant of licences to sell foreign liquor in Hotels (Restaurants). It contemplates the Excise Commissioner issuing licences under the orders of the State Government in the interest of promotion of tourism in the State, to hotels and restaurants conforming to standards specified therein. It also provides for the renewal of such licences. The substitution of the last proviso to Rule 13(3) by the notification dated 20.2.2002 provided that no new licences under the said Rule shall be issued. The proviso does not nullify the licences already granted. Nor does it interfere with renewal of the existing licences. It only prohibits grant of further licences. The issue of such licences was to promote tourism in the State. The promotion of tourism should be balanced with the general public interest. If on account of the fact that sufficient licences had already been granted or in public interest, the State takes a policy decision not to grant further licences, it cannot be said to defeat the Rules. It merely gives effect to the policy of the State not to grant fresh licences until further orders. This is evident from the explanatory note to the amendment dated 20.2.2002. The introduction of the proviso enabled the State to assess the situation and reframe the excise policy.

31. It was submitted on behalf of the State Government that Rule 13(3) was again amended with effect from 1.4.2002 to implement a new policy. By the said amendment, the minimum eligibility for licence was increased from Two-star categorization to Three-Star categorization and the ban on issue of fresh licences was removed by deleting the proviso which was inserted by the amendment dated 20.2.2002. It was contended that the amendments merely implemented the policies of the government from time to time. There is considerable force in the contention of the State. If the State on a periodical re-assessment of policy changed the policy, it may amend the Rules by adding, modifying or omitting any rule, to give effect to the policy. If the policy is not open to challenge, the amendments to implement the policy are also not open to challenge. When the amendment was made on 20.2.2002, the object of the newly added proviso was to stop the grant of fresh licences until a policy was finalized.

32. A proviso may either qualify or except certain provisions from the main provision; or it can change the very concept of the intendment of the main provision by incorporating certain mandatory conditions to be fulfilled; or it can temporarily suspend the operation of the main provision. Ultimately the proviso has to be construed upon its terms. Merely because it suspends or stops further operation of the main provision, the proviso does not become invalid. The challenge to the validity of the proviso is therefore rejected.

33. In view of the above, the appeals filed by the State are allowed in part and the appeals filed by the applicants for licences are dismissed, subject to the following clarifications:

(i) If any licences have been granted or regularized in the case of any of the applicants during the pendency of this litigation, on the basis of any further amendments to the Rules, the same will not be affected by this decision;

(ii) If any licence has been granted in pursuance of any interim order, the licence shall continue till the expiry of the current excise year for which the licence has been granted.

(iii) This decision will not come in the way of any fresh application being made in accordance with law or consideration thereof by the State Government."

35. Reliance is also placed upon Arun Kumar Agrawal vs. Union of India and Others, (2013)7 SCC 1, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court held:

36. Now, adverting to another question that,

> "Whether any vested right has accrued in favour of the present petitioners after depositing of Rs.6 lacs for renewal of their licenses or whether after receipt of amount licensees/petitioners are entitled to continue their business for whole year i.e. 2016-17 or not?

37. Before proceeding to decide the issue, referred above, it would be apt to refer to relevant provisions of the Announcements of Excise and Allotments/Tender for the year 2016-17:

"Announcements of Excise and Allotments/Tender for the year 2016-17.

Excise and Taxation Department Himachal Pradesh

To be made at the time of allotment/tender process of the Excise Licenses for the retain vends of country liquor, foreign liquor and country fermented liquor in Himachal Pradesh for the Financial Year 2016-17

CHAPTER-1 : GENERAL

"1.1 The liquor licenses, shall be granted subject to the provisions of the Himachal Pradesh Excise Act, 2011 and the Rules framed thereunder from time to time. A licensee shall also be himself responsible for fulfilling any other obligation under any other law or Rule not specifically mentioned hereunder in these terms and conditions."

CHAPTER-1I : MAIN PROVISIONS OF THE PROCEDURE FOR BIDDING THROUGH INVITING COMPETITIVE TENDERS:

"2.1 The following licenses will be granted/allotted by way of competitive tenders for the year 2016-17 on the terms and conditions as prescribed in the succeeding paras:-

(i) A license in form L-2 for retail vend of foreign liquor for sale to the public. The licensee will also be eligible to sell foreign liquor in wholesale to the licensees in form L-3, L-4, L-5, L-3A, L-4A, L-5A, L-12A, L-12B, and L-12C for consumption off the premises.

(ii) A license in form L-14 for retail vend of country liquor for consumption on and off the premises. Such licensees are also allowed to sell foreign liquor in the rural areas.

(iii) A license in form L-14-A for retail vend of country liquor for consumption off the premises. They are also allowed to sell foreign liquor in rural areas.

(iv) a license in form L-20B for manufacture and retail sale of Country Fermented Liquor (Jhol)."

"2.38 A Company will be set up under the Himachal Pradesh Excise and Taxation Department which shall be exclusively responsible for the procurement of all kinds of liquor i.e. Country Liquor, IMFS, Beer, Wine and RTD etc. In the State and shall further supply liquor so procured as wholesale-licensee to all the retail vends i.e. L-2, L-14 & L-14A etc. during the year 2016-17. After the Company starts its operation, the retail licensees shall lift liquor i.e. Country Liquor, IMFS, Beer, Wine and RTD etc. only from the Company's licensed and prescribed premises."

38. Bare perusal of clause 2.38, as reproduced above, clearly suggests that while making Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17, decision was taken by the respondents to set up Company under H.P. Excise and Taxation Department for the procurement of all kinds of liquor. Moreover, careful perusal of aforesaid provisions suggests that it was made clear to all concerned that after the Company starts its operation, the retail licensees shall lift liquor from the Company's licensed and prescribed premises, meaning thereby, all concerned were put to notice by the respondents that Company would be set up by the respondent-Department itself for liquor procurement of all kinds of liquor including IMFS and retail licensees would be under obligation to lift liquor from the Company's licensed and prescribed premises.

39. It also emerges from the record that Company; namely; `HPBL' has been created by respondents in terms of clause 2.38, as reproduced hereinabove, and thereafter vide Circular No.HPBL/LSP/2016-17/12682, dated 2nd June, 2016, Liquor Sourcing Policy 2016-17 have been circulated, wherein Manufactures/Suppliers/Importers are requested to take note of the procedure prescribed in the Circular (Annexure P-6).

40. Perusal of both these Polices of 2016-17 suggests that a procedure in detail has been prescribed for procuring liquor Indian Made Foreign Liquor etc. to the HPBL for subsequent delivery to the buyers.

41. Since much emphasis has been laid on the issue of renewal fee, allegedly accepted by the respondents after 31.3.2016, it would be profitable to peruse relevant provisions of Excise Act, 2011 dealing with Licenses, Permits and Passes.

"CHAPTER – IV

LICENSES, PERMITS AND PASSES

27. Grant of leases of manufacture, sale etc.—

(1) The State Government may lease to any person, competent to contract, on payment of such sum in addition to excise duty or countervailing duty, on such conditions and for such period, as it may deem fit, the right–

(a) of manufacturing or of supplying by wholesale, or of both, or

(b) of selling by wholesale or by retail, or

(c) of storing for manufacture or sale, any country liquor, foreign liquor, beer, wine spirit within any specified area.

(a) country liquor by distillation from specified fruits or grains in tribal areas, or

(b) country fermented liquor from grains in any specified area.

Explanation.— For the purpose of this sub-section 'tribal area' or 'specified area' shall mean such area which stand notified as 'tribal area' or 'notified area' under the repealed Punjab Excise Act, 1914, on the date of commencement of the Himachal Pradesh Excise Act, 2011.

(3) The Financial Commissioner may grant to a lessee, a license for manufacturing or supplying the liquor in accordance with the terms of such lease as may be approved by the State Government under sub-section (1); provided that Collector may grant to a lessee, such licenses for sale of liquor by wholesale or by retail as the Financial Commissioner may prescribe.

(4) The Collector may grant to a lessee under sub-section (2) a permit in such form as the Financial Commissioner may prescribe.

28. Fees and other conditions for grant of licenses, permits and passes.— (1) Every license, permit or pass, under this Act, shall be granted—

(a) on payment of such fees, if any,

(b) in such form and containing such particulars,

(c) subject to such restrictions and on such conditions, and

(d) for such period, as the Financial Commissioner may direct.

(2) For the purposes of sub-section (1), the power of the Financial Commissioner to issue directions shall include the power to direct the licensee of a distillery, brewery, winery or warehouse to-

(a) provide free accommodation to the Excise Officer concerned at or near the licensed premises, failing which to pay to the State Government the rent and other charges for such accommodation as may be fixed by the Financial Commissioner; and

(b) pay to the State Government the costs, charges and expenses, including salaries and allowances of such Excise Officers, which the State Government may incur in connection with the supervision of such distillery, brewery, winery or warehouse.

(3) The authority granting a license under this Act, may require the licensee to give such security for the observance of the terms of his license, or to make such deposit in lieu of security, as such authority may direct.

(4) Subject to the rules made by the Financial Commissioner, the Collector may grant licenses for the sale of any liquor within a district:

Provided that a license for sale in more than one district shall be granted by the Financial Commissioner only.

(5) Before any license is granted in any year for the retail sale of liquor for consumption on any premises which have not been so licensed in the preceding year, the Collector shall take such measures as the State Government may prescribe, as may best enable him to ascertain local public opinion in regard to the licensing of such premises.

29. Power to cancel or suspend licenses etc.—Subject to such restrictions as the State Government may prescribe, the authority granting any lease, license, permit or pass under this Act, may cancel or suspend it—

(a) if it is transferred or sublet by the holder thereof without the permission of the said authority; or

(b) if any excise duty or countervailing duty or, other fee payable by the holder thereof is not duly paid; or

(c) in the event of any breach by the holder of such lease, license, permit or pass or by his servants, or by any one acting on his behalf with his express or implied permission, of any of the terms or conditions of such license, permit or pass; or

(d) if the holder thereof is convicted of any offence punishable under this Act or the Himachal Pradesh Value Added Tax Act, 2005, the Central Sales Tax Act, 1956 or the Himachal Pradesh Prevention of Specific Corrupt Practices Act, 1983 or of any cognizable and non-bailable offence, or any offence punishable under the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985, or under the Trade and Merchandise Marks Act, 1958 or under the Medicinal and Toilet Preparations (Excise Duties) Act, 1955 or of any offence punishable under sections 482 to 489 (both inclusive) of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 or any offence referred to in section 135 of the Customs Act, 1962 ; or

(e) where a license, permit or pass has been granted on the application of the grantee of a lease under this Act, on the request in writing of such grantee; or

(f) at will, if the conditions of the license, permit or pass provides for such cancellation or suspension.”

42. Section 27 of the Excise Act, 2011, deals with grant of leases of manufacturer and sale etc. Section 27(1), authorized State Government to give lease/contract for manufacture/supply by wholesale on payment of sum fixed, which would be in addition to excise duty.

43. Respondents with a view to regulate the liquor business has also formulated H.P. Liquor Licensing Rules, 1986, wherein, mode of grant and authority empowered to grant and renew as well as fee has been prescribed, which reads as follows:

"THE HIMACHAL PRADESH LIQUOR LICENCE RULES, 1986

PRELIMINARY

(A) These rules may be called the Himachal Pradesh Liquor Licence Rules, 1986 and shall extend to whole of Himachal Pradesh.

(B) These rules shall come into force at once.

A .Class of licences and authorities empowered to grant and renew.

1. There shall be the following classes of licences. Their mode of grant and authorities to grant and renew them shall be noted against each:-

Form	Nature	Mode of grant	Authority empowered to Grant	Renew
1	2	3	4	5
		1-Foreign Liquor
L1	Wholesale vend of foreign liquor to the trade only	Fixed fee	Collector	Collector

B. Regulations governing the grant and renewal of licences.

2. The authority given by these rules to grant and renew licences is, in each case subject to the restrictions contained in the Intoxicants Licence and Sale Orders as to the localities in which licences may be granted and the number of licences which may be granted in any local area, and to such reservations from the general superintendence of the Financial Commissioner as the State Government may notify under section 8 of the Punjab Excise Act as applied to Himachal Pradesh.

3. Every license shall be granted to a certain licensee in respect of certain premises.

4. A license may only be granted to :-

(a) an individual;

(b) a body incorporated under the Indian Companies Act;

(c) a society registered under the Himachal Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act;

(d) a partnership or firm;

(e) Hindu undivided family;

(f) Government Department ; and

(g) a Government Undertaking.

5. When a licence is granted to a Company or Society or Hindu undivided family or Government Department or Government Undertaking referred to in clauses (b), (c), (e), (f) and (g) above it must show the name of an individual as agent acting on behalf of the licensee, who is amenable in full to the Criminal Courts in India. On the application of the Company or Society or Hindu undivided family or Government Departments or Government Undertaking, the representative licensee may be changed by the authority competent to grant or renew the licence as the case may be.

6. When a licence is granted to a partnership or firm not incorporated under any Act, all the individuals comprising the partnership of firm should be specified on the licence.

7. On the application in writing of all the original partners, a partner may at any time be added in case of renewable licences, by the authority competent to renew the licence and in case of licences granted by auction or negotiation by the Collector, provided the proposed partner is eligible under the intoxicants Licence and Sale Orders or these rules, in which case he shall be responsible for all obligations incurred or to be incurred under the licence during the period of its currency as if it had originally been granted or renewed in his name.

8. On the application in writing of all the original partners, a partner may at any time be removed, in case of renewable licences , by the authority competent to renew the licence and in case of licences granted by auction or negotiation by the Collector.

9. A licence granted to a partnership or firm is determined by the dissolution of the partnership or firm subject to the liability of the partners jointly and severally, for any loss caused to Government thereby and for the performance of all obligations to Government incurred by the partnership or firm.

10. A licence is said to be renewed when the competent authority allows it to continue after the period of its expiry to the same licensees in respect of the same premises; and whenever a licence has determined by reason of surrender, cancellation or order of non-renewal or other causes, or where it is proposed to issue a licence in respect of premises or persons not previously licenced, a new licence is required:

Provided—

(a) a new licence is not required on account of the addition of or removal of a partner on the application of all the partners or the change of representative of a company or society;

(b) a licence continued to the legal representative of a deceased licensee for the remaining period of the licence shall not be deemed to be a new licence;

(c) if the premises of a licence are changed during the period of its currency, the authority competent to grant the licence may direct that the licence may be continued for the remaining period of the term on the existing fee;

(d) a licence may be transferred by the authority competent to grant it for the remainder of its currency to a new licensee.

11. All applications for the grant, extension or renewal of licences, which required the orders of the Excise Commissioner under the Intoxicants Licence and Sale Orders or these rules should be received through proper channels in the Excise Commissioner's office before the end of December, each year;

Provided that applications for the grant of licences in forms L-3 , L-3 -A, L-4, L-4-A, L-5, L-5-A or L-12-B may, in pungent case where they do not adversely affect any existing licence be submitted at any time in the year.

12(1) Every application for renewal of a licence, other than a licence governed by rule11, shall be submitted to the Excise Officer incharge of the district by the 31st January, each year. The Excise Officer-in-charge of the district shall lay before the Collector by the 10th day of February each year a list of all licences requiring renewal. The list shall be accompanied in the case of licences on the assessed fee, by a certificate of sales during the current upto 31st December; in the case of bottling licence by a similar certificate showing proof litres bottled upto 31st day of December. Except with the special sanction of the Excise Commissioner, no order for renewal or non-renewal shall be made after 28th day of February in respect of licences for the following financial year :

Provided that no order for renewal of license in form L-1 shall be made if the licensee is in arrears of Excise and Sales Tax dues and undues the applicant furnishes alongwith the application for renewal a certificate to the following effect duly issued in his favour by the Assessing Authority of the District."

44. As per Section 27 of the Excise Act power lies with the State Government to grant lease to any person, competent to contract, on payment of amount which would be in addition to excise duty or countervailing duty. Section 27(b) provides for grant of lease/license for liquor in selling wholesale or by retail.

45. Section 28, deals with conditions for grant of licenses, permit and passes. As per Section 28(1), license, permit, pass can be granted on payment of fee.

46. Section 29 of the Excise Act, 2011 gives the powers to the Government to accept or suspend the licenses in terms of Sections 27 and 28, but such cancellation or suspension can be done in certain exigencies as referred to in Section 29 of the Excise Act from clauses (a) to (f).

47. Section 32 of the Excise Act deals with the power to withdraw licenses, permits or passes on expiration of 15 days' notice in writing to do so, which reads as follows:

"32. Power to withdraw license etc.—(1) Whenever the authority which granted a license, permit or pass under this Act considers that such license, permit or pass should be withdrawn for any cause other than those specified in section 29, it may,-

(a) withdraw the license, permit or pass on the expiration of fifteen days' notice in writing of its intention to do so; or

(b) withdraw any such license, permit or pass forthwith without notice.

(2) If any license, is withdrawn forthwith without notice under clause (b) of sub-section (1), there shall be paid to the licensee such sum, by way of compensation, as the Financial Commissioner may direct.

(3) When a license, permit or pass is withdrawn under this section, any fee paid in advance or deposit made by the licensee in respect thereof shall be refunded to him, after deducting the amount, if any, due to the State Government."

48. In Chapter-V of Announcements of Excise Allotments/Tender for the year 2016-17 provision has been made for fixation of licence fee i.e. Rs.6 lacs. The relevant extract reads as follows:-

"CHAPTER V: DUTIES AND FEES ETC.

5.1 FIXED FEE.

The fixed license fee and renewal fee for various vends of Foreign Liquor, country Liquor and Beer per license for the year 2016-17 shall be as under:

S.No.	Nature of License	Fixed License fee and Renewal fee (in Rupees) per annum.
1	L-1 (Wholesale vend of Foreign Liquor, Indian Made Foreign	Rs.6.00 lacs excluding such other fee as may be prescribed.

49. Learned counsel representing the petitioners, while advancing their arguments, heavily relied upon Sections 28, 29 and 32 of the Act and vehemently argued that decision, if any, to accept or suspend the license issued in terms of Sections 27 and 28 of the Excise Act could only be taken in terms of Section 29 of the Excise Act, wherein specific provision for cancellation or suspension is provided that too in exigencies as referred in clause 8 (a) to (f) of Section 29 of the Excise Act, 2011. Learned counsel also argued that under Section 32(1)(a) of the Excise Act, Government has power to withdraw license, permit or passes after expiry of 15 days notice in writing, but since no notice, whatsoever, has been issued to the present petitioners and as such any action to discontinue the license of the petitioners after 14.6.2016 is in complete violation of the Rules as well as principle of natural justice and as such the same cannot be allowed to sustain.

50. After careful perusal of the provisions of the Act, referred hereinabove, as well as submissions made on behalf of the petitioners, this Court, after examining the issue in whole is of the view that the provisions contained in Sections 27, 28, 29 and 32 of the Excise Act are not applicable in the present case. Permits, licenses and passes, if any, are granted under Sections 27 and 28 of the Excise Act on the payment of fee, whereas Section 29 of the Excise Act gives power to the State Government to accept or cancel/suspend the licenses etc. in certain exigencies as prescribed in clauses (a) to (f) supra.

51. In the present case, admittedly, as it stands proved on record, petitioners have been granted licences/permits to run the wholesale business up to 31st March, 2016, which was further extended on period to period basis, but definitely not beyond 31st May, 2016. Though, as emerges from the record, petitioners deposited an amount of Rs.6 lacs on account of renewal fee but there is no record, whatsoever, to suggest that competent authority envisaged under the Excise Act, renewed their licenses after 31st March, 2016. Mere depositing of amount will not be sufficient to prove that their licenses stand renewed till 31st March, 2017. Respondents in their reply have categorically stated that no permit beyond 31st March, 2016 have been issued and thereafter only passes on period to period basis have been granted to the L-1 licencees. Since respondents have not renewed their licenses beyond 31st March, 2016, there is no question of invoking Sections 27, 28, 29 and 32 of the Excise Act in the present case.

52 Section 29 deals with cancellation or suspension of licenses but in the instant case there is/was no requirement for the State Government to either cancel or suspend the licenses because admittedly after 31st March, 2016 no license, whatsoever, has been renewed. Similarly Section 32 is not applicable in the present case simply for the reasons that there is nothing on record to suggest that the Government withdrew the licenses granted to the petitioners. Rather, as emerges from the record, beyond 31st March, 2016 licenses of the petitioners were never renewed and as such, once it has been proved on record that no license has been granted to the petitioners for the year 2016-17, there is/was no occasion for the respondents-State to withdraw or cancel or suspend the same. Therefore, the plea raised by the petitioners that there is violation of Sections 27, 28, 29 and 32 of the Excise Act deserves to be rejected being baseless.

53. In the present cases, petitioners have heavily relied upon the fact that an amount of Rs.6 lacs on account licence fee has been deposited by them which as per petitioners have been duly received/accepted by the respondents-State. As per petitioners accepting of aforesaid amount as a license fee for renewal of their licenses has created vested right in their favour to continue as L-1 licensee till whole year i.e. March, 2017.

54. To test the aforesaid submission/contention raised on behalf of the petitioners, this Court while examining the record had an occasion to peruse receipt/challan whereby amount as referred above has been allegedly deposited by the petitioner. Careful perusal of the receipts made available on record itself suggests that it is nothing but challans filled by the petitioners themselves for depositing amount in the Treasury i.e. State Bank of India. It also emerges from the aforesaid challans/receipts that amount stands deposited in the Bank as it bears the stamp of the Bank. Perusal of aforesaid challans/receipts nowhere indicates that licence has been renewed for a year i.e. up to 31st March, 2017. Since petitioners in support of their aforesaid contentions have also placed on record receipts of the previous years, this Court had an opportunity to have a glance over the same. Bare perusal of the receipts pertaining to previous years made available on record by the petitioners suggests that in each and every receipt while accepting renewal fee, Excise authorities have specifically prescribed the period for which licence is granted.

55. In the present case, there is no mention with regard to any period, rather, as has been observed above, it is only a challan submitted by licensees for depositing license fee. Admittedly, petitioners have not placed any documents, whatsoever on the record, which could be suggestive of the fact that their licenses were renewed till 31st March, 2017. Rather, it has been their own case that they have been given permits on period basis. Respondents-State in its reply as well as in arguments having been made by learned Advocate General has brought to the notice of the Court that no license, whatsoever, has been granted to the petitioners for whole year after taking license fee, to the contrary all the L-1 licensees have been given/granted permits on month to month basis. Perusal of the challan/hand receipt placed on record suggests that petitioners voluntarily deposited the money in the bank for renewal of their licenses but infact competent authority nowhere granted licenses to them in terms of Sections 27 & 28 of the Excise Act.

56. Perusal of the record made available to the Court clearly suggests that the respondents have not issued permit/license for whole year after 31st March, 2016 in anticipation of creation of Company/Corporation in terms of clause 2.38 of Chapter-II of the Excise Announcements and petitioners were issued permit to carry out their business on monthly basis. Hence, it cannot be said that petitioners were actually granted L-1 licence to carry on their business till March, 2017. As has been observed above, there is no mention of period, whatsoever on the receipt annexed with the petitioners from where it can be informed that they have been granted license, if any, till March, 2017.

57. More over, bare reading of clause 2.38 as reproduced hereinabove clearly suggests that it was made known to everybody that as and when Corporation/Company starts its business, retailer licensees would be lifting liquor from the Corporation directly and as such there was no occasion, whatsoever for the petitioners to deposit fee of Rs. Six lac for renewal of their licenses and as such no right much less vested right can be claimed to have accrued in favour of the petitioners at this stage. Rather, at this stage, this Court is constraint to draw adverse inference that the petitioners voluntarily deposited an amount of Rs.6 lacs to create right/equity in their favour purposely to defeat the decision of the Government, which was in offing pursuant to Announcements made by the Government. Moreover, mere depositing/accepting of amount by authority for renewal of license will not create any right unless it is shown/proved that after depositing/accepting amount, authority renewed the license, petitioner cannot claim any right.

58. Mere depositing/accepting of amount towards renewal of fee of license would not amount to renewal of license in any manner and it will not create any right as is being claimed by the petitioners.

59. In this regard reliance is placed upon Delhi Development Authority v. M/s.Anant Raj Agencies Pvt.Ltd., AIR 2016 SCC 1806, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court held:

"23. After careful examination of the material facts and evidence on record it is clear that on the basis of the admitted facts, the lease of the property in question is not renewed by the DDA in favour of the original lessee, in accordance with clause III(b) of the lease deed dated 06.01.1951. From a reading of the said lease deed it becomes very clear that the original lease period was initially for a period 20 years, which period expired on 10.08.1968 as the lease period commenced w.e.f. 11.08.1948. No doubt, the original lessee availed his option of the renewal of lease as provided in the lease deed by making a request to the DDA vide his letter dated 23.2.1967, but the same was not acceded to by the DDA. Before expiry of the original lease period, notices were issued by the office of DDA on 09.02.1968 and 16.02.1968 to the original lessee alleging certain breaches of the terms and conditions (extracted above) of the lease deed. The original lessee was given 15 days time to remedy the said breaches. Though the original lessee made several replies to the aforesaid notices but he had failed to rectify the said breaches notified to him. Therefore, the DDA vide notice dated 01.09.1972 decided not to renew the lease of the property in question and terminated the lease in respect of the same, though in law the same was not even required on the part of the DDA in view of the conditions of the lease deed as after the expiry of the original period of lease it stands terminated by efflux of time.

24. The concurrent findings recorded by the courts below declaring the termination notice dated 01.09.1972, terminating the lease of the property in question granted in favour of the original lessee, served by the DDA to the original lessee, as illegal, arbitrary and without jurisdiction on the erroneous assumption of the non-existent fact that there has been a renewal of the lease for the reason that the original lessee applied for the renewal of the lease within time as stipulated in the clause III(b) (supra) of the lease deed and has been paying rent for the property in question to the office of the DDA. In our view, the said conclusion of the courts below is erroneous in law as it is contrary to the Clause III (b) of the lease deed and also Sections 21(1) and 22 of the Delhi Development Act, 1957 (for short the "DD Act") read with Rule 43 of the Delhi Development Authority (Disposal of Developed Nazul Land) Rules, 1981 (for short the "Nazul Land Rules"). In this regard, it would be necessary for this Court to refer to the decision relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant, in the case of Shanti Prasad Devi & Anr. v. Shankar Mahto & Ors., (2005)5 SCC 543, wherein this Court, while interpreting Section 116 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 with regard to its applicability and the effect of "holding over", held that it is necessary to obtain assent of the landlord for continuation of lease after the expiry of lease period and mere acceptance of rent by the lessor, in absence of agreement to the contrary, for subsequent months where lessee continues to occupy lease premises cannot be said to be conduct signifying assent on its part. The relevant paras 18 and 19 (para 17 and 18 of AIR) of the case are extracted below :-

> "18. We fully agree with the High Court and the first appellate court below that on expiry of period of lease, mere acceptance of rent for the subsequent months in which the lessee continued to occupy the lease premises cannot be said to be a conduct signifying "assent" to the continuance of the lease even after expiry of lease period. To the legal notice seeking renewal of lease, the lessor gave no reply. The agreement of renewal contained in clause (7) read with clause (9) required fulfilment of two conditions: first, the exercise of option of renewal by the lessee before the expiry of original period of lease and second, fixation of terms and conditions for the renewed period of lease by mutual consent and in absence thereof through the mediation of local mukhia or panchas of the village. The aforesaid renewal clauses (7) and (9) in the agreement of lease clearly fell within the expression "agreement to the contrary" used in Section 116 of the Transfer of Property Act. Under the aforesaid clauses option to seek renewal was to be exercised before expiry of the lease and on specified conditions.

19. The lessor in the present case had neither expressly nor impliedly agreed for renewal. The renewal as provided in the original contract was required to be obtained by following a specified procedure i.e. on mutually agreed terms or in the alternative through the mediation of Mukhias and Panchas. In the instant case, there is a renewal clause in the contract prescribing a particular period and mode of renewal which was "an agreement to the contrary" within the meaning of Section 116 of the Transfer of Property Act. In the face of specific clauses (7) and (9) for seeking renewal there could be no implied renewal by "holding over" on mere acceptance of the rent offered by the lessee. In the instant case, option of renewal was exercised not in accordance with the terms of renewal clause that is before the expiry of lease. It was exercised after expiry of lease and the lessee continued to remain in use and occupation of the leased premises. The rent offered was accepted by the lessor for the period the lessee overstayed on the leased premises. The lessee, in the above circumstances, could not claim that he was "holding over" as a lessee within the meaning of Section 116 of the Transfer of Property Act."

(emphasis supplied by this Court)

To the same effect, the learned counsel has further, rightly placed reliance on another decision of this Court in the case of Sarup Singh Gupta v. S. Jagdish Singh & Ors., (2006)4 SCC 205, wherein this Court has held as under:-

"8…In our view, mere acceptance of rent did not by itself constitute an act of the nature envisaged by Section 113, Transfer of Property Act showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting. The fact remains that even after accepting the rent tendered, the landlord did file a suit for eviction, and even while prosecuting the suit accepted the rent which was being paid to him by the tenant. It cannot, therefore, be said that by accepting rent, he intended to waive the notice to quit and to treat the lease as subsisting. We cannot ignore the fact that in any event, even if rent was neither tendered nor accepted, the landlord in the event of success would be entitled to the payment of the arrears of rent. To avoid any controversy, in the event of termination of lease the practice followed by the courts is to permit the landlord to receive each month by way of compensation for the use and occupation of the premises, an amount equal to the monthly rent payable by the tenant. It cannot, therefore, be said that mere acceptance of rent amounts to waiver of notice to quit unless there be any other evidence to prove or establish that the landlord so intended…" (emphasis supplied by this Court)

60. Learned Senior Counsel representing the petitioners argued that after acceptance of renewal fee by the respondents, vested right accrued in favour of the petitioners and petitioners' legitimately expecting that they have to carry out L-1 whole sale license till March, 2017 mobilized resources and as such any action of respondents to change the existing system in mid way cannot be held justifiable. In this regard it is again reiterated at the cost of repetition that petitioners being old players of the game were fully aware that the respondents are contemplating to create/form company/Corporation to replace the old system of L-1 licencee and hence this Court is unable to accept the aforesaid contention put forth on behalf of the petitioners that mere acceptance of renewal money has created vested right in their favour and they are entitled to invoke the principle/doctrine of legitimate expectation. In the present case, as clearly emerges from the record petitioners were aware from day one after Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17 that respondents-State is in the process of replacing the old system and especially when they were not granted license for whole year and only short term passes/permit were issued to petitioners as L-1 licennee to carry out their business and as such they cannot be allowed to draw/extract any benefit by depositing of fee, if any. As has been observed above, the petitioners purposely deposited the amount on account of renewal fee to create equity and right in their favour but mere depositing of fee will not create any right in their favour, as has been laid down in the judgment referred above.

61. As far as accrual of vested rights and contention with regard to legitimate expectation, put forth by the petitioners, is concerned, the reliance is placed on Kuldeep Singh vs. Govt.of NCT of Delhi, (2006)5 SCC 702, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court held:

> "14. Mr. Gopal Subramanaium, learned Additional Solicitor General appearing on behalf of the Respondent, on the other hand, submitted:
> (i) The Appellants do not have any fundamental right to trade in liquor.
>
> (ii) The State having adopted a policy decision, this Court should not exercise its power of judicial review interfering therewith. In any event, no case that the policy decision suffers from any illegality, irrationality or procedural impropriety having been made out nor any malice having been attributed in regard to the policy decision, this Court should not interfere with the judgment of the High Court.
>
> (iii) The parties in whose favour licenses have been granted were necessary parties to the writ petitions and in their absence the writ petitions could not have been entertained.
>
> 25. It is, however, difficult for us to accept the contention of the learned Senior Counsel, Mr. Soli J. Sorabjee that the doctrine of 'legitimate expectation' is attracted in the instant case. Indisputably, the said doctrine is a source of procedural or substantive right. (See R. v. North and East Devon Health Authority, ex parte Coughlan 2001 Q.B. 213) But, however, the relevance of application of the said doctrine is as to whether the expectation was legitimate. Such legitimate expectation was also required to be determined keeping in view the larger public interest. Claimants' perceptions would not be relevant therefor. The State actions indisputably must be fair and reasonable. Non - arbitrariness on its part is a significant facet in the field of good governance. The discretion conferred upon the State yet again cannot be exercised whimsically or capriciously. But where a change in the policy decision is valid in law, any action taken pursuant thereto or in furtherance thereof, cannot be invalidated.
>
> 33. The question again came up for consideration in Howrah Municipal Corpn. and Others v. Ganges Rope Co. Ltd. and Others [(2004) 1 SCC 663] wherein this Court categorically held: (SCC p.680 para 37)
> "The context in which the respondent Company claims a vested right for sanction and which has been accepted by the Division Bench of the High Court, is not a right in relation to "ownership or possession of any property" for which the expression "vest" is generally used. What we can understand from the claim of a "vested right" set up by the respondent Company is that on the basis of the Building Rules, as applicable to their case on the date of making an application for sanction and the fixed period allotted by the Court for its consideration, it had a "legitimate" or "settled expectation" to obtain the sanction. In our considered opinion, such "settled expectation", if any, did not > create any vested right to obtain sanction. True it is, that the respondent Company which can have no control over the manner of processing of application for sanction by the Corporation cannot be blamed for delay but during pendency of its application for sanction, if the State Government, in exercise of its rule-making power, amended the Building Rules and imposed restrictions on the heights of buildings on G.T. Road and other wards, such "settled expectation" has been rendered impossible of fulfillment due to change in law. The claim based on the alleged "vested right" or "settled expectation" cannot be set up against statutory provisions which were brought into force by the State Government by amending the Building Rules and not by the Corporation against whom such "vested right" or "settled expectation" is being sought to be enforced. The "vested right" or "settled expectation" has been nullified not only by the Corporation but also by the State by amending the Building Rules. Besides this, such a "settled expectation" or the so-called "vested right" cannot be countenanced against public interest and convenience which are sought to be served by amendment of the Building Rules and the resolution of the Corporation issued thereupon."

62. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, we are unable to accept the contentions advanced on behalf of the petitioners that the decision of the respondents-State in setting up Corporation/Company for carrying out whole sale liquor business of L-1 and L-13 is bad in law. Exposition of law as discussed above has left no room/scope for this Court to deliberate upon the issue at hand. As of today, it is a law of land that State has an exclusive domain/rigtht to control the Trade of Liquor and in this regard it is free to make Rules and Regulations to regulate the business. It is also crystal clear from the principles laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgments referred above that no individual, whatsoever, can claim the right to the business in Liquor Trade as a fundamental right. As far as accrual/creation of vested right in favour of the petitioners by depositing/accepting of renewal fee by then, as they have been unsuccessful to demonstrate that an amount of Rs.6 lacs deposited by them for renewal of their licenses because there is no document on record to show that authority concerned renewed their licenses till 31st March, 2017. Petitioners have also failed to show any provisions of law or law laid down by the Highest Court of law that merely by depositing renewal fee, their licensees for carrying out L-1 business gets automatically renewed.

63. In the present cases where admittedly after 31st March, 2016 passes/permits, if any, were being issued on period basis, petitioners have not placed on record any documents which could convince this Court that their licenses were renewed after depositing of fee in the Treasury. At the cost of repetition it is once again highlighted that in all receipts previously issued by respondents at the time of taking money for renewal, period of renewal has specifically been mentioned. But in the present case there is none. Moreover, as has been held by the Apex Court that nobody/individual can claim to do business of liquor as a fundamental right. Hence, no scope whatsoever is left with the Court to deliberate upon the issue of right, if any. Hence, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove this Court sees no infirmity, illegality in the decision taken by the respondents-State to replace the old system of issuance of L-1 licences by creating Corporation/Company in terms of clause 2.38 of Chapter-II of the Excise Announcements for the year 2016-17, This Court further also sees no illegality whatsoever in the decision of the respondents-State, whereby all the licensees of L-1 license have been ordered to be discontinued w.e.f. 15th June, 2016 and as such both the aforesaid decisions of State cannot be interfered with by this Court in exercise of its powers under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution of India.

64. It may be noticed that during final arguments held on 17.6.2016, learned Advocate General, appearing for the respondents-State, while rebutting the submissions made on behalf of the petitioners, had made available copy of Notification regarding amendment made in

H.P. Liquor License Rules, 1986 (detail whereof is available in para-17 supra). Though, no specific challenge has been laid to the aforesaid Rules, 1986 by the petitioners but counsel representing the petitioners specifically submitted/argued that in the absence of amendment in the aforesaid Rules, 1986, no Corporation/Company could be set up by the respondents. Accordingly, in view of the submissions made by the counsel representing the petitioners vis-à-vis amendment carried out in the aforesaid Rules, 1986, this Court, before proceeding on the merits, inquired from the petitioners, whether they intend to amend their petitions in light of amendments carried out in the Rules, 1986 or not. But counsel representing the petitioners insisted that petitions may be heard without there being any specific challenge to the amended Rules. Accordingly, since no specific challenge, whatsoever, has been laid to the amended Rules, 1986, this Court has restrained itself from giving findings/observations qua the same.

65. However, while dealing with the another contention/submission put forth on behalf of the petitioners that conditions stipulated in Annexures P-3, P-4 and P-5 whereby all the L-1 licencees have been directed to exhaust their stock by 15th June, 2016, this Court is of the view that the aforesaid stipulations made in annexure P-3 is definitely harsh and if it is allowed to sustain, great prejudice would be caused to the existing L-1 licence holders. Though, as has been held above, it is the domain of the respondents-State to regulate the business of liquor but respondents-State being welfare State is also expected to appreciate/acknowledge the difficulties which would be faced by the petitioners as other similarly situate persons in the process of Implementation of Annexures P-3, P-4 and P-5. Petitioners as well as other similar situate persons admittedly have been engaged in liquor business as L-1 licensees and certainly in that capacity they after mobilizing their resources must have invested huge amount. It is bounden duty of the State to protect their interest also before giving effect to Annexures P-3, P-4 and P-5. Moreover, conditions put forth by the respondents-State that all L-1 licensees should exhaust their stock before 14th June, 2016 appears to be impracticable because admittedly after 14th June, 2016 petitioners as well as other L-1 licencees would not be entitled to carry out their business as L-1 licensee, meaning thereby they will not able to sell their stock to retail licensees. Since they have already procured their stock from manufacturer directly by paying required taxes, it would be impracticable for them to sell their stock to the manufacturer.

66. Hence, in view of the observations made hereinabove, this Court is of the view that the aforesaid condition made in Annexure P-3 by respondents is definitely harsh and would cause great prejudice and financial hardship to the petitioners, as such same needs be rectified/modified. This Court, while appreciating the aforesaid genuine concerns/problems put forth by the petitioners and with a view to mitigate hardship of petitioners, and to balance the equities, deems it proper in the facts and circumstances of the cases to pass following directions:-

> Respondents-State in the process of giving effect to Annexures P-3, P-4 and P-5 may offer grace period to the existing L-1 licensees/ petitioners to enable them to exhaust their stocks, if any.
> Or
> Respondent-State may itself consider purchasing stock lying with the L-1 licencees instead of procuring the same from manufacturer directly;
>
>
> Allow petitioners as well as L-1 licensees to sell their existing stock to retail licensees.
>
> Apart from above, respondents may refund an amount of Rs.6 lacs, if any, deposited on account of renewal fee for whole year, after making necessary adjustments, if any.

67. In view of the observations and discussions made hereinabove, all these petitions are disposed of, accordingly.

68. Interim direction, if any, is vacated. All miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

A copy of this judgment be placed on each of the connected files.

Dolma Kumari .....Petitioner.
Versus
State of H.P & others .....Respondents.

CWP No. 10962 of 2011
Decided on : 29.6.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Respondent no. 6 was engaged as a cook by School Management Committee - subsequently she was disengaged on the ground that she resided in a Panchayat other than the one where the school was located-she filed a writ petition which was disposed of with liberty to approach the second respondent – she was re-engaged - aggrieved from the engagement a writ petition was filed – held, that respondent no. 6 has a residence within the domain of Gram Panchayat where the school was located- respondent no. 6 was engaged prior to the petitioner and applying the principle of last come first go, she is entitled to reinstatement – petition dismissed. (Para 1-6)

For the Petitioner: Mr. Naveen K Bhardwaj, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Deputy Advocate General for respondents No. 1 to 3.
Mr. Mehar Chand, Advocate for respondent No.5.
Mr. Ashish Verma, Advocate for respondent No.6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J (oral)

Respondent No. 6 stood disengaged as a cook by the SMC concerned. Her disengagement as unfolded by Annexure P-1 stood spurred by the factum of hers purportedly holding residence in a Panchayat other than the Panchayat whereat the school whereat she stood engaged as a cook by the respondent concerned was located. Her disengagement by the respondent concerned on the anvil of clause 6(c) of the apposite guidelines which stands extracted hereinafter standing attracted qua her, stood constituted by the factum of hers purportedly holding her residence in a Panchayat other than the Panchayat whereat the school whereat she stood engaged by the respondent concerned was located, would hold validation only when material hereat stands evinced of though in the Panchayat whereat she holds residence, Panchayat whereof purportedly adjoins the relevant Panchayat whereat she stood engaged yet not holding thereat any GSSS/GHS/GMS/GPS at the time contemporaneous to her engagement.

> "c) The candidates belonging to such adjacent Gram Panchayats where there is no GSSS/GHS/GMS/GPS shall have the opportunity with him/her to apply for the post of Cook cum helper falling vacant in the equivalent school situated in the adjacent Panchayats."

2. The learned Deputy Advocate General has submitted before this Court of at the time contemporaneous to hers standing engaged as a cook, she held residence within the domain of the Gram Panchayat concerned whereat the School concerned wherein she stood appointed stood located. He with specificity urges of respondent No. 6 holding residence within the territorial domain of Gram Panchayat Udeen within whose territorial domain also the school whereat she stood appointed stands located. Consequently, given hers holding residence in village Udeen which forms part of the territorial limits of Gram Panchayat Udeen besides with the apposite school whereat she stood appointed also standing located within the territorial limits of Gram Panchayat Udeen, unveils of hers satiating the criteria embodied in clause (b) of the apposite guidelines, which stands extracted hereinafter predominantly with hers apparently establishing of hers holding residence within the domain of the Gram Panchayat, concerned whereat the relevant school stands located whereupon concomitantly she stood eligiblised to obtain appointment thereat in the relevant capacity. Consequently, hence the vigor of relevant clause (c) invoked by the respondent concerned for disengaging respondent No. 6, barring any aspirant who holds residence in a Panchayat adjoining the relevant Panchayat to aspire for the coveted post unless in the Panchayat adjoining the apposite Panchayat no GSSS/GHS/GMS/GPS stand located stands diminished rather stands omnibusly eclipsed rendering its attraction qua respondent No. 6 by the SMC concerned to be grossly fallacious.

> "(b) Permanent resident of the village/Gram Panchayat/ Urban local body of the area, in which the school is located."

3. The respondent No.6 herein had constituted her challenge to Annexure P-1 by instituting a Civil Writ Petition before this Court which stood disposed of by this Court with the following directions:-

> "The petitioner may bring her grievance to the notice of the second respondent in which case the second respondent will look into the matter and take appropriate action, in accordance with law, after hearing the affected parties also. In case the due and admissible wages/remunerations have not been paid to the petitioner, the same shall also be paid. This shall be done with a period of four months from the date of the production of a copy of this judgment along with a copy of the writ petition by the petitioner before the second respondent."

4. In consequence to the decision recorded by this Court in CWP No. 5095 of 2011 the respondent concerned under Annexure R-3 proceeded to reengage respondent No. 6 as a cook in the School concerned. For validating the decision (Ex. R-3) rendered by the respondent concerned, it was incumbent upon it to prior to its re-engaging respondent No.6 afford an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner herein. A perusal of the relevant records reveals of the respondent concerned prior to its recording its decision comprised in Ex. R-3 its affording an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner. Consequently the decision rendered by the respondent concerned comprised in Annexure R-3 whereby respondent No.6 stood reengaged in service does not infract any principle of natural justice nor it can be held of the respondent concerned while recording its decision comprised in Annexure R-3 its condemning unheard the petitioner herein.

5. Even otherwise given the inference drawn hereinabove of the disengagement in service of respondent No. 6 under Annexure P-1 on the purported ground of her initial appointment suffering invalidation arouse-able from hers holding residence in a Panchayat adjoining the relevant Panchayat whereat the apposite school stands located, also preeminently in the Panchayat wherein she purportedly holds residence there being purportedly no GSSS/GHS/GMS/GPS at the time contemporaneous to her engagement in service by the respondent concerned rather not rendering hence her engagement by the respondent concerned in the School concerned to suffer invalidation spurring from any purported infraction of relevant clause (C) of the apposite guidelines standing begotten. Consequently, when this Court has discountenanced the aforesaid submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner for rendering the initial engagement in service of respondent No. 6 by the respondent concerned suffering invalidation, submission whereof stood anchored upon the purported apposite attraction qua respondent No. 6 of the apposite clause © of the apposite guidelines, it appears hence of the decision recorded by the respondent concerned under Annexure R-3 being in consonance with the inference recorded hereinabove besides being in consonance with the decision recorded by this Court comprised in Annexure R-1. Now the apposite principle constituted in clause (e) of the guidelines concerned which stands extracted hereinafter embodying the principle of Last Come First Go, warrants its application hereat, for rendering valid or invalid the dispensing of the service of the petitioner by the respondent concerned. For applying the principle of "Last Come First Go" constituted in the apposite guidelines, it is imperative to unearth from the apposite records, the prime factum of the petitioner herein or respondent No. 6 herein standing engaged earlier in service by the respondent concerned. An answer thereto stands purveyed by Annexure P-1. An incisive perusal of Annexure P-1 unfolds the factum of respondent No.6 standing disengaged by the SMC concerned from the school concerned whereafter the petitioner herein came to be appointed in her place. Since this Court has recorded an inference hereinabove qua the disengagement of respondent No.6 holding no validity arouse-able from the respondent concerned inappropriately applying the relevant clause of the apposite guidelines which stands extracted hereinabove.

> "e. In case, the cook-cum-helper become surplus due to revision of norms for hiring of cook-cum-helper or decline in the enrollment or merged from school/institution, principle of LAST COME, FIRST GO will apply and the contract of person selection on latter date will be terminated without given any prior notice."

6. In conjunction therewith the further factum of the petitioner herein standing appointed, on respondent No. 6 standing disengaged in service, rests the factum of the petitioner herein coming to be appointed as a cook only after hers replacing respondent No.6 in the School concerned. Since Annexure P-1 suffers the fate of invalidation necessarily hence her appointment as a cook in the school concerned is to relate back to the date of her initial appointment thereupon it is to be conclusively held of with the petitioner herein subsequently replacing her, whereas the respondent No.6 obviously held the relevant post earlier to the post aforesaid standing held by the petitioner herein. Consequently, with the respondent no. 6 standing appointed earlier vis-à-vis the petitioner herein the principle of "Last Come First Go" warrants its application qua the petitioner herein. In view of the above, there is no merit in the petition, the same is accordingly dismissed. All pending applications stand disposed of accordingly.

Decided on : 29.06.2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 451, 325, 323 read with Section 34- Informant was cutting fuel wood in his court yard- accused tried to take the cattle through the court yard- informant objected to the same, on which accused P inflicted a blow with spade on his face- when wife of the informant tried to rescue him, accused R and S gave blows on the head and other parts of the body with Battans- accused were tried and acquitted by the trial Court- held, in appeal that PW-1 had improved upon his version- presence of PW-4 and PW-5 was doubtful- spade and battans were not connected to the commission of crime- no disclosure statement was made by the accused leading to the recovery of these articles- prosecution version was not proved beyond reasonable doubt- trial Court had appreciated evidence in wholesome and harmonious manner- appeal dismissed. (Para-9 to 11)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.
For the Respondents: Mr. Pushpender Kumar vice Mr. Kulbhushan Khajuria, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral)

The instant appeal is directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgment rendered on 23.05.2006 by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Palampur, District Kangra, H.P. in Criminal Case No. 170-II/2001, whereby the learned trial Court acquitted the respondents (for short 'accused') for the offences charged.

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 26.11.2000 Ramesh Kumar alongwith his wife Malkan Devi lodged the report at Police Post Panchrukhi, alleging therein that on 25.11.2000 when he returned back home from his fields in the evening at about 5.30 p.m and was cutting fuel wood in his court yard accused Prem Chand, Roshani Devi and Sarla Devi tried to take the cattle through his court yard. On his objecting, accused Prem Chand gave a blow with a spade on his face below the right eye and on his left hand. When the wife of Ramesh Kumar tried to release him, accused Roshani Devi and Sarla Devi who were holding Battans in their hands gave her blows on the head and other parts of the body and as a result of which she sustained injuries. Ramesh Kumar and his wife were rescued from the clutches of the accused by Sita Ram and Bidhi Chand. On the basis of the information given by Ramesh Kumar the investigation was carried out by M.C. Jai Chand, who proceeded to the spot and one spade and two Battans were taken into possession vide separate seizure memo from the possession of accused Prem Chand and accused Sarla Devi. The injured were got medically examined. On such examination the doctor concerned issued MLCs thereby he opined the injuries on the person of Ramesh Kumar to be simple, whereas one of the injury sustained by Malkan Devi was grievous and the others were simple. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. Charges stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 451, 325, 323 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 12 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, were recorded in which they pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. They did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned vice counsel appearing for the respondents has with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. Qua the ill-fated occurrence, the ocular witnesses thereto corroborated the version rendered qua it by the victim/complainant Ramesh Chand, of his standing struck by accused Prem Chand with a Spade Ext.P-1 recovery whereof stood effectuated under memo Ext.PW-1/B by the Investigating Officer at the purported instance of accused Prem Chand, in sequel whereto the complainant underscores in his deposition of his tooth standing broken besides his cheek bone also suffering a fracture, injuries whereof stand reflected in Ext.PW-8/A. Reiteratedly, the account aforesaid qua the occurrence deposed by the victim stands corroborated by ocular witnesses thereto. Victim Malkan Devi the wife of the complainant stands deposed by the informant to stand struck with Battans Ext.P-2 and Ext.P-3 by co-accused Roshani Devi and Sarla Devi recoveries whereof stood effectuated under memo Ext.PW-1/C by the Investigating Officer at the purported instance of accused Roshani Devi and Sarla Devi, in sequel whereof she sustained injuries as stand delineated in the apposite MLC prepared qua her person by the doctor concerned, MLC whereof stands comprised in Ext.PK. For testing the veracity of the version rendered qua the occurrence by the purported ocular witnesses thereto predominantly qua the suffering of injuries by victim/complainant Ramesh Chand in sequel to his standing struck with Spade Ext.P-1 by co-accused Prem Chand, an allusion is also imperatively enjoined to be made to the apposite MLC prepared qua him by PW-7, MLCs whereof stand comprised in Ext.PW-8/A and Ext.PW-8/B. The aforesaid allusion is imperative as only in the event of concurrence occurring inter se the ocular account qua the occurrence rendered by the PWs vis.a.vis. reflections embodied in the MLCs aforesaid prepared by the doctor concerned qua victim Ramesh Chand, would beget a firm conclusion from this Court of the ocular account qua the occurrence rendered by the prosecution witnesses standing on a sacrosanct pedestal. However, with reflections in the apposite MLCs prepared qua victim Ramesh Chand comprised in Ext.PW-8/A and Ext.PW-8/B not holding any underlinings therein in conformity with the ocular account qua the occurrence rendered by the prosecution witnesses would dispel the veracity of the version spelt qua the occurrence by the ocular witnesses thereto. In sequel, the ocular account qua the occurrence rendered by the ocular witnesses would thereupon stand tainted whereupon no credence would be imputable.

10. Be that as it may, for the depositions of the complainant besides of PW-4 and PW-5 standing fastened with a virtue of credibility, it was enjoined upon them to depose a version qua the occurrence in harmony viz.a.viz the initial revelations made qua it by the complainant, which stands comprised in report Ext.PW-1/A, especially when each underscore in their respective testimonies of the ill-fated occurrence standing witnessed by Sanjay Kumar and Kumari Anju. Since proclamations occur in the testimonies of all the aforesaid prosecution witnesses of PW-4 and PW-5 witnessing the occurrence, the prosecution was enjoined to empathetically display of both at the relevant time being present thereat whereupon alone credence would stand imputed qua their respective renditions qua the ill fated occurrence. Contrarily, if the evidence adduced by the prosecution dispels their presence thereat, the obvious sequel thereto would of their purported ocular account qua the occurrence being discountable. Apparently, given the non revelation by the complainant in his Report Ext.PW-1/A qua both PW-5 and PW-4 being at the relevant time present thereat, fillips a conclusion from this Court of theirs at the relevant time being not present thereat. Consequently, the deposition of PW-1 wherein he has enunciated of PW-4 and PW-5 witnessing the occurrence constitutes an improved and embellished version qua the occurrence vis.a.vis his previous statement recorded in writing. As a corollary, not only the deposition of PW-1 stands stained with a taint of incredibility besides this Court is coaxed to also discount the testimonies of PW-4 and PW-5. In aftermath, it appears of hence the prosecution as a contrivance for falsely implicating the accused making concerted efforts to communicate before the learned trial Court a version qua the occurrence through PW-4 and PW-5 even when they had not witnessed it. The effect of the aforesaid dispelling by this Court qua veracity of their respective testimonies qua the occurrence is of even if the PWs aforesaid deposed in conformity vis.a.vis. the apposite MLC prepared qua Malkan Devi comprised in Ext.PK, nonetheless with the version qua the occurrence rendered by the complainant, corroboration whereof stood meted thereto by PW-4 and PW-5, version whereof for reasons aforestated stands stained with a vice of improvements and embellishments rendering it hence to be unamenable for credence standing placed thereupon also concomitantly renders the aforesaid concurrence or conformity inter se the MLC qua Malkan Devi comprised in Ext.PK vis.a.vis. the purported ocular account qua the occurrence rendered by the complainant besides by PW-4 and PW-5, to hold no efficacy/truth even qua the incriminatory role ascribed to co-accused Roshani Devi and Sarla Devi, of theirs by belabouring Malkan Devi with Battans Ext.P-2 and Ext.P-3 inflicting injuries on her person with user thereof.

11. Even otherwise, the prosecution was enjoined to link Spade Ext.P-1 and Battans Ext.P-2 and P-3 recovered respectively under memos Ext.PW-1/B and Ext.PW-1/C with theirs standing used by the accused aforesaid. The efficacious manner of linking their user by the accused on the persons of the victims stood constituted in the prosecution adducing cogent evidence qua the prominent facet of the Investigating Officer concerned securing their efficacious recovery at the instance of each of the accused. The apposite cogent evidence stood comprised in the Investigating Officer prior to his effectuating the apposite recovery of Spade and Battans under apposite recovery memos, his recording the disclosure statements of each of the accused, with revelations therein qua the respective place of their hiding or keeping by each of them. However, no disclosure statements of each of the accused prior to effectuation of their recoveries by the Investigating Officer at the purported instance of each of the accused stood scribed by the Investigating Officer. Lack of recording by the Investigating Officer of the disclosure statements of each of the accused prior to his effectuating recovery of the aforesaid weapons of offence at the purported instance of the accused, stains with a vice of invention, the recovery of the aforesaid weapons of offence by the Investigating Officer at the purported instance of each of the accused. Contrarily, it secures an inference qua effectuation of their respective recovery by the Investigating Officer at the purported instance of the respective accused after 5 days of theirs suffering incarceration, standing made by the Investigating Officer not in the manner as disclosed therein rather reiteratedly his inventing their respective recovery at the purported instance of the respective accused. For reiteration, since the preparation of the disclosure statements of each of the accused by the Investigating Officer prior to his effectuating recovery of weapons of offence at their purported instance under the aforesaid recovery memos, was imperative, whereas the apposite disclosure statements of each of the accused by the Investigating Officer prior to his effectuating recovery of weapons of offence at their purported instance under the aforesaid recovery memos stood not recorded by him also fastens a further inference from this Court of their recovery if any at the instance of the accused by the Investigating Officer under the aforesaid recovery memos being unamenable for any reliance being imputable thereto by this Court. Also the prime factum of the prosecution failing to adduce cogent evidence in display, of the weapons of offence Ext.P-1 to Ext.P-3 user whereof stands purportedly ascribed by it to the accused, of theirs standing hence respectively used by them stands garnered by the factum of PW-3 a recovery witness to both Ext.PW-1/B and Ext.PW-1/C whereunder recovery of Spade and Battans stood effectuated, acquiescing to the suggestion put to him by the learned defence counsel while the latter held him to cross-examination of none of the accused in his presence producing before the Police any of the aforesaid purported weapons of offence also when he deposes in his cross examination qua weapons of offence Ext.P-1 to Ext.P-3 lying in the police station, gives immense momentum to a firm conclusion of the Investigating Officer not recording prior to his effectuating recovery under recovery memos aforesaid of the aforesaid weapons of offence at the purported respective instance of each of the accused, their respective disclosure statements as none of the accused held any knowledge qua the place of their respective hiding or concealment by them besides also of theirs hence not using any of the aforesaid weapons of offence contrarily rather the Investigating Officer for falsely implicating them inventing their recovery in the Police Station concerned at the purported instance of the accused. In sequel, the recovery of weapons of offence is colourable whereupon no reliance is imputable by this Court.

12. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court below has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record, rather it has aptly appreciated the material available on record.

13. In view of the above, I find no merit in this appeal which is accordingly dismissed. In sequel, the impugned judgement is affirmed and maintained. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

Decided on :29.6.2016

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 22- A vehicle being driven by the accused was stopped and checked – a bag containing vials of Rexcof cough syrup was found in the car- the accused was tried and convicted by the Trial Court- held, in appeal the testimonies of Police Officials prove the recovery – there are no contradictions or improvements in their testimonies- independent witness has also supported the prosecution version- merely because other witnesses were not associated is not sufficient to doubt the prosecution version- Trial Court had rightly convicted the accused- appeal dismissed. (Para 9-12)

For the Appellant: Mr. Servedaman Rathour and Mr. Vishwajeet Panwar, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgment of 3.12.2013 rendered by the learned Special Judge-I, Sirmaur, District at Nahan, H.P., in Sessions trial No. 17-ST/7 of 2013, whereby the learned trial Court convicted and sentenced the appellant (hereinafter referred to as "accused") for his committing offence punishable under Section 22 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (for shot "the Act"), as follows:-

> "To undergo rigorous imprisonment for two years and to pay a fine of Rs.20,000/- and in default of payment of fine, he shall further undergo simple imprisonment for six months."

2. Brief facts of the case are that on 25.1.2013, police party headed by PW-7 ASI Rajesh Pal was present at Do Sarka Mour in connection with traffic checking. At about 4.30 p.m. the vehicle bearing registration No. CH-04E-9616 being driven by accused Vinod Kumar was stopped. On demand of documents by the police officials, accused only produced the insurance certificate. The car occupied by the accused was checked and during checking one blue black colour bag was found in the dickey of the car containing vials of Rexcof cough syrup. In the meantime tractor bearing registration No. HP-71-1372 reached on the spot in which PW-1 Ram Chander and one Shri Varinder were sitting. They were joined by PW-7 and in their presence the bag was taken out from the dickey of the car. On counting the rexcof cough syrup vials were found to be 270. The accused could not produce any licence/permit for carrying these cough syrup vials in his car. photographs were clicked and thereafter the aforesaid vials were put back into the same bag which was sealed with seal impression V. NCB form was drawn. The case property was taken into possession vide memo Ex.PW-1/A. Rukaa Ex.PW-3/A was prepared, on the basis of which FIR Ex. PW-3/B came to be registered. Report of chemical examiner Ex. PW-

7/C was obtained. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. The accused stood charged by the learned trial Court for his committing offence punishable under Section 22 of the Act to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 8 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded in which he pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. He chose to lead evidence in defence and examine one witness.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of conviction against the accused for his committing offence punishable under Section 22 of the Act.

6. The learned counsel appearing for the accused has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record rather theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence he contends qua the findings of conviction being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. The learned Deputy Advocate General has with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference rather meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The prosecution case qua effectuation of recovery of 270 vials of Rexcof cough syrup from the dickey of the car bearing registration No. CH-04E-9616 driven at the relevant time by the accused, recovery whereof stood effectuated under memo PW-1/A by the Investigating Officer at the site of occurrence, stands proven by the depositions of official witnesses. The depositions of the official witnesses acquire a hue of veracity, given the non-occurrence of any improvements as well as embellishments in their respective depositions qua the apposite factum probandum disclosed in their respective examinations-in-chief vis-à-vis their previous statements recorded in writing also there occurs no contradiction in their respective depositions comprised in their examinations-in-chief vis-à-vis their respective cross-examinations whereby hence it is tobe firmly held of their respective testimonies qua the factum of effectuation of recovery of the item of psychotropic substance under memo PW-1/A by the investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the dickey of the car driven by the accused, holding vigor as well as probative tenacity. Apart therefrom when the testimonies of the official witnesses do not suffer from taint of any intra-se contradictions, consequently, their respective testimonies qua effectuation of recovery of item of psychotropic substance under memo PW-1/A by the investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the dickey of the car driven by the accused are to be amplifyingly concluded to be both credible as well as trustworthy.

10. Be that as it may the independent witness (PW-1) associated by the Investigating Officer in the apposite proceedings commenced and concluded by him at the site of occurrence also lends support besides corroboration to the testimonies of the official witnesses. The independent witness who appeared as PW-1 has disposed in harmony vis-à-vis the testimonies of the official witnesses qua effectuation of recovery of the item of psychotropic substance under memo PW-1/A by the investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the dickey of the car driven by the accused. Consequently with the independent witness lending corroboration qua the version espoused by the official witnesses qua the effectuation of recovery of the item of psychotropic substance under memo PW-1/A by the investigating Officer at the site of occurrence from the dickey of the car driven by the accused, a formidable conclusion stands garnered of the prosecution succeeding in proving the genesis of the prosecution case.

11. The only contention addressed before this Court by the learned counsel for the accused for constraining this Court to reverse the findings of conviction and consequent sentence imposed by the learned trial Court upon the accused stands grooved in the factum of the Investigating Officer, though displayed by PW-3 in his testimony comprised in his cross-examination of many vehicles, at the relevant time, crossing the relevant site of occurrence, yet his omitting to associate them as witnesses in the apposite proceedings, omission whereof he contends to be deliberate as well as wilful, for smothering the truth of the prosecution case. He also contends of hence the testimony of PW-3 holding no sway. The aforesaid submission holds no force as the numerical strength of the independent witnesses who stands associated by the Investigating Officer in the apposite proceedings, is insignificant for holding an inference qua an unclouded hue of impartisanship besides transparency not percolating the apposite proceedings held by the investigating Officer at the site of occurrence rather the qualitative creditworthiness of even a solitary independent witness associated by the Investigating Officer in the apposite proceedings held by him at the site of occurrence is sufficient, to lend vigor and strength to the prosecution case unless the testimony of the independent witness stands ridden with any blemish of any improvement or embellishment vis-à-vis his previous statement recorded in writing or stands ingrained with a vice of his contradicting the testimonies of other prosecution witnesses. Also the testimony of the independent witness would be sufficient to constrain this Court to hold of hence with his lending corroboration to the prosecution case, its acquiring an undenuded force unless of course the independent witness associated by the Investigating Officer in the relevant proceedings held by him at the site of occurrence unravels in his testimony of his lending a tutored version qua the occurrence or his being a stock witness also there occurring unfoldments therein of his under duress or compulsion exercised upon him by the Investigating Officer, his coming to corroborate the testimonies of the official witnesses. Contrarily, omission of the aforesaid unfoldments in his deposition personificatory of his testimony standing stained with a blemish of interestedness or bias would give a firm impetus to a conclusion, of his testimony being trustworthy besides inspiring consequently with his corroborating the testimonies of the official witnesses can not render his deposition to be discardable dehors the factum of the Investigating Officer not associating despite availability other independent witnesses especially when for reasons aforestated it is not the numerical strength of the independent witnesses associated by the Investigating Officer in the relevant proceedings rather the credibility of an independent witness, even if singular, holding sinew for concluding therefrom of his testimony being inspiring besides trustworthy. In sequel when this Court holds qua the testimony of PW-1 being creditworthy, as a corollary the lack of association of independent witnesses by the Investigating Officer other than the one associated by him, though available, does not stain the investigations conducted by him. In aftermath, the aforesaid submission stands rejected.

12. A wholesome analysis of the evidence on record portrays that the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity and absurdity nor it can be said that the learned trial Court in recording findings of conviction has committed any legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court does not deem it fit and appropriate that the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court merit interference.

13. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment of the learned trial Court is maintained and affirmed. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 190- Appellate Tribunal had disposed of the appeal finally and it has no jurisdiction to revise its own order- proceedings before Appellate Authority quashed and a direction issued to convene the meeting at an early date not beyond 31st August, 2016.
(Para-3 to 10)

For the petitioner : Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate in both the petitions
For the Respondents : Mr. D.S. Nainta & Mr. Virender Verma, Addl. A.Gs. for respondents No.1 & 3 in both the petitions.
Ms. Suman Thakur, Advocate for respondents No.2 in both the petitions.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (oral).

Heard.

2. This order shall dispose of both the petitions filed against the notice Annexure P-2, issued in revision petitions No.1 & 2 of 2016, filed against order dated 2.7.2015 by one Ritesh Kumar and Joginder Singh in Himachal Pradesh State Transport Appellate Tribunal, Shimla-2.

3. Complaint is that learned Appellate Tribunal has no jurisdiction to revise its own order. The proceedings before the Appellate Tribunal in revision petition have, therefore, been sought to be quashed and set aside.

4. The record reveals that in appeal under Section 90 of the Motor Vehicles Act filed by the petitioner herein before learned appellate Tribunal, the following orders came to be passed on 2.7.2015:

> "The dispute between the parties is about maintaining the frequency of the buses plied by the appellant and respondent No.4 to 6. Let direction be issued to respondent No.2 to hold a meeting of the parties within one month and to resolve the matter. Ordered accordingly. File after needful be consigned to the record room."

5. It is thus seen that the appeals stand disposed of finally. Ritesh Kumar and Joginder Singh, respondent No.2 in these petitions, are also stage carriage transporters. They felt aggrieved by the order Annexure P-1 as their grievances are that if only the petitioner and respondents No.4 to 6 in the appeal before the Appellate Tribunal below are associated by respondent No.2 in the meeting so ordered to be convened and the time schedule of the buses being plied by them is readjusted, the time schedule of the buses being plied by them is likely to be disturbed and in that event they may suffer loss. Therefore, according to them, the meeting comprising the petitioner and respondents No.4 to 6 alone should have not been ordered to be convened, but all the stake holders including them need to be associated in the meeting to be so convened. It is in this backdrop, aforesaid Ritesh Kumar and Joginder Singh have preferred two separate revision petitions Annexure P-1 to these petitions. Notice Annexure P-2 in both the revision petitions have been issued to the opposite parties on behalf of the petitioner (respondent No.7 in the revision petition), learned counsel has put in appearance and an application, Annexure P-3, with a prayer to prepone the date as was fixed in the revisions and to hear the same at an early date, filed before learned Tribunal below. The records reveal that the applications were disposed of having been turned infructuous vide order passed on 5.5.2016 and rightly so because the next date in the matter before learned Tribunal below was on 24.5.2016.

6. The question of maintainability of the revision petitions is, no doubt, still pending adjudication before learned appellate Tribunal below; however, a bare perusal of the provision contained under Section 90 of the Motor Vehicles Act amply demonstrates that the appellate Tribunal has no jurisdiction to revise its own order. Therefore, allowing the proceedings in the revision petitions to continue further before learned Tribunal may not be in the interest of justice but amount to abuse of process of law. This Court, however, is in agreement with the submissions made on behalf of the petitioners, Ritesh Kumar and Joginder Singh, respondent No.2 in these petitions, that the petitioner herein and respondents No.4 to 6 in appeal alone should not be called upon to attend the meeting, directed to be convened by respondent No.2, Regional Transport Authority, Dharamshala, but all affected persons including respondent No.2 Ritesh Kumar and Joginder Singh in these petitions are also required to be called upon to attend the meeting.

7. Mr. Sharma, Learned counsel submits that the dispute between the petitioner and respondent HRTC in the appeal is qua maintaining the frequency of the buses being plied by the petitioner herein and the HRTC and that there is no dispute of the time schedule. This Court, however, feels that in case any decision to maintain frequency of buses being plied by the petitioner herein and HRTC is taken by respondent No.2 in the joint meeting ordered to be convened vide order Annexure P-1 passed by learned appellate Tribunal, the frequency of the other stage carriage transporters like respondent No.2, in both the petitions, is also likely to be adversely affected. Therefore, Ms. Suman Thakur, Advocate representing them is absolutely justified in submitting that no legal and valid decision qua maintaining frequency of plying the buses by the petitioner and HRTC can be taken in the meeting if scheduled to be held pursuant to the orders Annexure P-1 without associating Ritesh Kumar and Joginder Singh aforesaid, respondents No.2, in these petitions.

8. In the considered opinion of this Court, the dispute can be set at rest by clarifying order Annexure P-1 that besides the petitioner, New Prem Bus Service and HRTC, respondent No.2 Ritesh Kumar and Joginder Singh and other similarly situated persons shall also be associated by respondent No.2 in the meeting to be convened in terms of the order Annexure P-1.

9. There shall be a direction to Regional Transport Authority, Dharamshala to convene the meeting at an early date, however, not beyond 31st August, 2016. The Authority shall convey date to be so fixed well in advance to all concerned including the parties on both sides and take a conscious decision in the matter after affording them due opportunity of being heard.

10. With these observations, the proceedings in revision petitions No.1 and 2 of 2016, before learned Appellate Tribunal below stand quashed and these petitions also stand disposed of.

11. An authenticated copy of this judgment be supplied to learned Additional Advocate General for onward transmission to Regional Transport Authority, Dharamshala for compliance.

Decided on : 30.06.2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 279- Accused was driving a bus in a rash and negligent manner, which hit a Mahindra pick up- he was tried and acquitted by the trial Court- aggrieved from the order, an appeal was preferred- held, in appeal that PW-1 and PW-3 had attributed negligence to the accused- accused had swerved his vehicle towards wrong side of the road- he had applied brakes on seeing the Mahindra pick-up while informant had slowed the vehicle- photographs also corroborated the version that accused had taken the vehicle towards wrong side of the road- negligence of the accused was established- trial Court had wrongly acquitted the accused- appeal allowed- accused convicted of the commission of offence punishable under Section 279 of I.P.C. and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for a period of two months and to pay fine of Rs.1,000/- (Para-9 to 13)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.
For the Respondent: Mr. Lakshay Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral):

The instant appeal is directed by the State of Himachal Pradesh against the impugned judgment rendered on 28.12.2007 by the learned Judicial Magistrate, 1st Class, Court No. VI, Shimla in Criminal Case No. 45-2 of 2007/06, whereby the learned trial Court acquitted the respondent (for short 'accused') for the offences charged.

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 9.9.2006 at about 2.20 p.m. near Goyal Motors, Tara Devi, Shimla, accused Raj Kumar was driving a bus No. HP-63-1446 on public high way in a rash and negligent manner and collided his bus with Mahindra Pick Up No. HP-63-0569. In this regard complainant Ramesh Kumar made a complaint to the police under Section 154 Cr.P.C. Police went to the spot and prepared the spot map. Statements of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. were recorded and police taken into possession the aforesaid vehicles vide separate memos. The accused was arrested by the police and after that accused was released by the police on bail. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. Notice of accusation stood put to the accused by the learned trial Court for his committing offence punishable under Section 279 IPC to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 11 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was recorded in which he pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. He did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused.

6. The learned Deputy Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the respondent has with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The complainant/informant Ramesh Kumar while at the relevant time at the site of occurrence driving Mahindra Pick Up No. HP-63-0569 it collided thereat with the vehicle driven by the accused. The learned trial Court in recording findings of acquittal had dispelled the creditworthiness of the testimonies of PW-1 and PW-3 both eye witnesses thereto rather had imputed credence to the testimony of PW-10, an occupant alongwith the accused/respondent in the offending vehicle. Hence it has to be gauged whether the aforesaid dispelling by the learned trial Court of the creditworthiness of the testimonies of PW-1 and PW-3 contrarily its imputing credence to the testimony of PW-10 does or does not suffer from any infirmity of its mis-appreciating or omitting to appreciate, their relevant impact upon the concert of the prosecution in proving the genesis of its case against the respondent/accused. Any dis-imputation by the learned trial Court qua the veracity of the testimonies of PW-1 and PW-3 would hold tenacity only in the event of each of them deposing a version contradictory to the one disclosed by them respectively in their previous statements recorded in writing besides when their occur manifest intra se contradictions in their respective depositions qua the occurrence. Both PW-1 and PW-3 in their respective depositions ascribed negligence to the respondent/ accused in the latter's driving the offending vehicle. Since on the relevant day a land slide had occurred at the site of occurrence hence its occurrence thereat restricted the free movement of the traffic thereat. Uncontrovertedly, given the national highway at the relevant site of occurrence standing hence constricted in width whereupon the traffic thereat could ply only one way, as a corollary, when at the relevant site of occurrence for the reasons ascribed hereinafter there was no opportunity to either the vehicle driven by the complainant or to the vehicle driven by the accused/respondent to proceed ahead of the other unless one adhered to, for obviating the road mishap, the standards of due care and caution by applying the brakes of the relevant vehicle driven by him, hence it was incumbent upon the accused/respondent, given the admitted prime factum of his swerving his vehicle to the inappropriate side of the road thereupon his hence holding an onerous duty, to, given his sighting the vehicle driven by the complainant/victim which arrived thereat from the opposite direction for obviating its colliding with the vehicle driven by the victim/complainant, apply its brakes. Also since the vehicle driven by the victim complainant was occupying the appropriate side of the road yet the aforesaid factum alone did not given the factum of the accused respondent standing constrained to with a land slide occurring at the site of occurrence swerve it to the inappropriate side of the road, relieve him also of his duty to slow the pace of his vehicle for obviating its colliding with the vehicle driven by the respondent/accused. PW-1 has in his deposition comprised in his examination in chief deposed of his, at the relevant time on his sighting the vehicle driven by the accused respondent, vehicle whereof had swerved to the inappropriate side of the road, his applying the brakes of the vehicle driven by him. However, the aforesaid deposition is a pure embellishment or an improvement besides contradicts his previous recorded statement qua the occurrence wherein the factum aforesaid stands unenunciated by him. Even when hence the aforesaid factum singularly ingrains his deposition qua it with a vice of embellishment constraining hence this Court to conclude therefrom of the victim/informant also not adhering to the standards of due care and caution constituted in his applying the brakes of his vehicle on sighting the vehicle driven by the accused whereupon hence the road mishap would stand obviated, does not yet shake the edifice of the prosecution story in its entirety, as PW-3 another eye witness to the occurrence has echoed in his deposition comprised in his examination in chief of the victim/informant driving his vehicle at a slow pace at the relevant time. The aforesaid communication made by him in his examination in chief stands uncontradicted by his previous statement recorded in writing hence credence is imputable to it also when the factum aforesaid deposed by him in his examination in chief though stood concerted to be shred of its efficacy by the learned defence counsel by his putting an apposite suggestion to him yet with the apposite suggestion put to him by the learned defence counsel while holding him to cross-examination standing repulsed by him renders open a firm conclusion, of the victim on sighting the vehicle driven by the accused/respondent, his slowing the pace of the vehicle driven by him. Consequently, it has to be held of even when the accused given the constraint aforesaid besetting him, drove his vehicle on the inappropriate side of the road, of the victim/complainant too standing not yet relieved of his duty to apply the brakes of his vehicle or slow down its pace whereupon hence the collision interse the vehicle driven by the accused with the vehicle driven by the complainant would have not occurred, duty whereof as displayed by the un-shattered testimony of PW-3 an eye witness to the occurrence stood performed by the victim comprised in his at the relevant time slowing the pace of the vehicle driven by him, hence his evidently conforming to his enjoined duty of his adhering to the standards of due care and caution. Consequently, the effect of contradictions if any in the deposition of PW-1 vis.a.vis his previous statement recorded in writing qua his on sighting the vehicle driven by the respondent his applying its brakes would not per se constrain any conclusion, of the accident which occurred at the relevant time standing sequelled by the victim/informant being rash and negligent in driving his vehicle, purported rashness whereof at his instance in driving his vehicle stands purportedly constituted in his purportedly not adhering to standards of due care and caution.

10. Hereat, it is imperative to allude to the bespeakings occurring in the testimony of PW-10, as stood, relied upon by the learned trial Court for recording findings. A thorough reading of his testimony discloses of his in his cross-examination conceding to the factum qua occurrence of land slide at the site of occurrence rendering hence only a part of the road being pliable. In his cross-examination when he further communicates of the victim while driving his vehicle not applying its brakes rather his striking the relevant stationary bus at the site of occurrence does prima facie give impetus to an inference of the entire edifice of the prosecution case collapsing. However, for the aforesaid inference being carried forward, it has to be read in coagulation with further communications occurring in his cross-examination qua the road at the relevant site holding a width sufficient for enabling even the vehicle driven by the respondent moving ahead without its colliding with the vehicle driven by the accused respondent. A reading, of the latter part of his deposition in his cross-examination occurring immediately subsequent to the part therein, wherein he ascribes negligence to the informant while driving his vehicle, in conjunction with the opening part of his cross-examination wherein he discloses qua the side of road which constitutes the inappropriate side of the road vis.a.vis. the vehicle driven by the respondent standing constricted in width hence de-facilitating the movement of each of the vehicles on both sides of the national highway, obviously, manifests his therein concocting the factum qua adequacy of space at the site of occurrence still existing for facilitating the complainant to shift his vehicle thereat predominantly when earlier thereto he bespeaks of the National Highway only holding the capacity qua singular or solitary movement of vehicles thereat. The effect of the aforesaid contradictions is of theirs concomitantly rendering also the factum deposed by him wherein he ascribes negligence to the informant in the latters driving his vehicle, to stand conjured or engineered by him rather also it appears of his deposition standing reared by his holding leanings towards the respondent also hence his interestedness in deposing in his favour given his admittedly holding employment under the respondent. In sequel the discarding of the testimony of PW-1 and PW-3 by the learned trial Court rather its imputing credence to the biased testimony of PW-10 appears to stand sequelled by its misappreciating their respective probative worth. Also the photographic evidence on record, value whereof stood scored off by the learned trial Court merely on a cursory suggestion standing put to him by the learned defence counsel thereat while holding him to cross-examination of theirs standing clicked even when the position of the vehicles stood disturbed, suggestion whereof did not evoke a response in the affirmative, was not sufficient to dispel the relevant display in the photographs, of the vehicle driven by the accused/respondent occupying the inappropriate side of road also the display occurring therein in contradiction to the deposition of PW-10 constituted in his cross-examination of space yet standing left thereat despite the vehicle driven by the respondent swerving to the inappropriate side of the road, for its standing occupied by the vehicle driven by the informant whereupon hence negligence stands ascribed by him to the informant while driving his vehicle also acquiring an accentuated taint of invention.

11. A wholesome analysis of the evidence on record portrays that the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned trial Court suffers from a gross perversity and absurdity hence it can be held of the learned trial Court in recording findings of acquittal its committing a legal misdemeanor, inasmuch as its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court deems it fit and appropriate that the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court merit interference.

12. In view of the above discussion, I find merit in this appeal, which is accordingly allowed and the judgement of acquittal rendered by the learned trial Court is quashed and set-aside. Accordingly, the accused is held guilty for his committing an offence punishable under Section 279 IPC. Taking into consideration the facts and circumstances of the case, he is sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of two months and also to pay a fine of Rs.1000/-. In default of payment of fine amount he shall further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of 15 days. The Registry is directed to take up follow up action forthwith.

(Para-18 to 20)

For the appellant	:	Mr. Parmod Thakur, Additional Advocate General.
For the respondents	:	Mr. Anup Chitkara, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Rajiv Sharma, Judge:

The State has come in appeal against Judgment dated 31.12.2009 rendered by the learned Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi, District Mandi, HP, whereby respondents-accused (hereinafter referred to as 'accused' for convenience sake), who were charged with and tried for offences under Sections 147, 148, 452, 302, 323 and 506 read with Section 149 IPC, have been acquitted.

2. Case of the prosecution, in a nutshell, is that on 5.11.2008, complainant Hem Raj informed the police on telephone that his mother was killed by 3-4 persons and this information was entered vide Rapat No. 8 in Police Station, Padhar. On this information, SI/SHO Sarif Mohammad alongwith other police personnel visited the residential house of the complainant at village Katipari. On visiting the spot, he found that the dead body of Smt. Bimla Devi, mother of the complainant Hem Raj was lying in the gallery of the room and the complainant gave his statement under Section 154 CrPC before SI/SHO Sarif Mohammad to the effect that PW-1 Hem Raj purchased land in the year 1991 from Duryodhan son of Shri Sita Ram resident of village Katipari and to the one side of his land, there was land of Krishan Chand son of Sita Ram and to the other side of the land of Dinesh Kumar alias Babla son of Jiwan Lal. He had filed partition case and the partition had been effected in the year 2006. He had started the work of construction of shop and house adjoining to his already existing house. He had employed Jagat Ram Mason and Jangli Devi as labourer. Construction work was going on. He alongwith mason was working. His mother Bimla Devi was in the house. At 11.30 Am, all the accused came in a Maruti car. They parked the car on the roadside. They started giving beatings with stones, Danda and fist blows. Accused Dinesh Kumar alias Babla was having Danda in his hand. Accused Virender and Chander Shekhar were having stones in their hands and Krishan Chand and Amro Devi were giving him beatings with kick and fist blows. On hearing noise, his mother Smt. Bimla Devi after stepping down from the stairs came on the spot to rescue him. On this all the accused also gave kick, fist and stone blows to her on the road. His mother rescued herself from the clutches of the accused and went inside the room. She was followed by the accused. Accused again gave her beatings. His mother fell down and died. Thereafter, all the accused ran away. The incident was seen by Ghan Shyam Dass while accused were fleeing from the spot. He received injuries on his ear, left shoulder and back due to the beatings given by the accused. Case property was taken into possession. Inquest papers were prepared. Post-mortem examination of the deceased was got conducted. According to the opinion given by the Doctor, deceased had died due to head injury leading to subdural haematoma. Investigation was completed. Challan was put in the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. Prosecution has examined as many as eighteen witnesses to prove its case against the accused. Accused were also examined under Section 313 CrPC. They pleaded innocence. Trial Court acquitted the accused as noticed above. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. Parmod Thakur, Additional Advocate General has vehemently argued that the prosecution has proved its case against the accused persons.

5. Mr. Anup Chitkara, Advocate has supported the judgment of acquittal dated 31.12.2009.

6. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the record carefully.

7. Hem Raj (PW-1) is the complainant. According to him, on 5.11.2008, at about 11.30 AM, he was constructing new house. He had employed Jagat Ram as Mason and Jangli Devi as a labourer. Accused Krishan Chand, Amro Devi, Virender, Chander Shekhar and Dinesh, came in a Maruti 800 car. They warned him to stop the construction work or they would kill them. Accused Krishan Chand asked other accused to kill him and bury him in a pit. On this, all the accused pounced upon him and accused Chander Shekhar, Dinesh had beaten him with Danda on the back side of neck. He received injury on the back side of his neck. They picked him and threw in the pit. Jagat Ram Mason came and rescued him from the clutches of the accused and also pulled him out of the pit. Accused also pounced upon Jagat Ram. On hearing his cries, his mother Bimla Devi came to the spot. He rescued himself from the clutches of Chander Shekhar, Virender and Babla @ Dinesh. His mother was caught hold by Amro Devi and Krishan Chand. He tried to rescue his mother. Other three accused ran after him. He and Jagat Ram rescued his mother, who was laid down on the ground. All the accused pounced upon him and his mother. Accused Dinesh was holding a Danda in his hand and another accused was carrying stones in their hands. None was carrying brick. Cemented stone was in the hands of Virender. He was given beatings on his chest, neck and head with Danda. His mother Bimla Devi went to the room through stairs. Accused followed his mother and ran towards the room after climbing stairs. All the accused entered the room after his mother. Accused gave beatings to his mother in the room. When they entered the room, his mother was lying dead in the room. Accused were pelting stones on him from the lintel of their house. Accused had killed his mother. He called Jagat Ram. Jagat Ram reached the spot. Accused fled from the spot. No other person except him and Jagat Ram had seen the occurrence. Accused fled from the spot in their car. He informed the police. Police reached the spot. His statement Ext. PW-1/A was recorded. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that adjacent to his land, land belongs to accused party. He also admitted that in front of his house, there were two shops, one was of motor mechanic and other was a printing press of Pawan Kumar. He admitted that both the shops were open at the relevant time and their tenants Pawan Kumar and Ghan Shyam were present at the spot. He told the police that all the accused decided to kill him and then bury him in a pit. (confronted with his statement, Ext. PW-1/A, wherein it is not so recorded). He also told the police that the accused gave beatings with Danda on his neck. (confronted with his statement Ext. PW-1/A, wherein it is not so recorded). He has told the police that there was a lacerated wound on his forehead. Same was bleeding. (confronted with his statement Ext. PW-1/A, wherein it is not so recorded). The pit where he was thrown was 5 feet deep and 3 ½ feet wide. He remained in the pit for about 4-5 minutes. He cried. On his cries, Jagat Ram came and pulled him out of the pit. All accused were throwing stones on him during this time. No stone hit his forehead or other parts of the body but the stones were thrown near his feet. He has told the police that all the accused pounced upon Jagat Ram. (confronted with his statement Ext. PW-1/A, wherein it is not so recorded). Scuffle continued for half an hour. He told the police that accused entered the room and after crossing the back door, had gone up to the lintel and from there all started pelting stones. (Confronted with his statement Ext. PW-1/A, wherein it is not so recorded). Many people had assembled on the spot when occurrence took place. Pawan and Ghan Shyam had closed shops after the incident. He told the police that the shops were open and tenants were present. He admitted that all the accused were unarmed. He has told the police that accused Amro Devi and Krishan Chand were carrying stones in their hands. (confronted with his statement Ext. PW-1/A, wherein it is not so recorded). All the accused gave only kick and fist blows. He also admitted that he had inimical relations with the accused.

8. Jagat Ram (PW-2) testified that he was working as a mason for the construction of the house of PW-1 Hem Raj. On 5.11.2008, at about 11.30 AM, all the accused came in a Maruti car to the spot. Accused threw PW-1 Hem Raj in the pit and he cried for help. He went there and pulled him out of the pit. He was given kick and fist blows. He fell on the heap of rock salt. He was crying and his mother came to his rescue. She was given kick and fist blows by the accused. She fell on the stone stairs and sustained injuries on head. Accused Virender, Chander Shekhar and Babla alias Dinesh had given kick and fist blows to Bimla and she sustained injuries on her head while falling on the store stairs. Accused had gone to the side of the house. Bimla Devi died in the gallery of the house. Accused Chander Shekhar had pelted stones in the lintel of the house of PW-1. He had not seen the accused killing Bimla Devi. Hem Raj had given a Danda blow on the neck of accused Dinesh alias Babla. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination, he deposed that the portions 'A' to 'A', 'B' to 'B' 'C' to 'C', 'D' to 'D' , 'E' to 'E', 'F' to 'F' and 'G' to 'G' were incorrect. He denied the suggestion that due to the beatings of the accused, Bimla Devi sustained injury on head and died. In his cross-examination by the defence counsel, he categorically deposed that the deceased had sustained injuries on the stone stairs after fall. He also admitted that no weapons like stick, Danda and stones were used by the accused persons on the body of the deceased. He admitted that two shops were in front of the alleged place of occurrence. One was occupied by Pawan Kumar and other was occupied by Ghan Shyam Dass and both these persons were sitting in the shops. There were more than 30 persons on the spot, who had seen the occurrence. After he separated the deceased and her son, they left for the room and he closed the gate from outside after locking it. He admitted that accused had used no weapon throughout the verbal altercation. He admitted that the deceased after fall had struck with stone danga on head side and sustained injury on her head. He admitted that none of the injuries caused by the accused were fatal in nature. He has specifically admitted that the deceased fell from stairs and struck her head against stone Danga, resulting in head injury. He admitted that none of the accused entered the house of the complainant.

9. Pankaj Kumar (PW-3) deposed that on 9.11.2008, accused Dinesh Kumar made a disclosure statement to the police that the Danda with which he had beaten Hem Raj and Bimla Devi had been concealed by him in the bushes in the field of Krishan Chand. Danda was got recovered vide memo Ext. PW-3/A. Danda is Ext. P5. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that complainant was son of sister of his father. Ext. PW-3/A was prepared in the house of Hem Raj. He admitted in his cross-examination that on 6.11.2008 to 9.11.2008, no discussion took place regarding Ext. P5. It was only on 9.11.2008, that Danda came into picture at the time of arrival of police. He admitted that he had seen such type of Danda for the first time in his life. Statement of the accused was not recorded under Section 27 of the Evidence Act by the police.

10. Jangli Devi (PW-5) deposed that she was working as a labourer for the construction work of house of Hem Raj. All the accused came on the spot in a car. Hem Raj was pushed by one of the accused and he fell into a pit. Other accused started filling up the pit. She did not know where the complainant Hem Raj suffered injuries. She was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In her cross-examination by the learned Public Prosecutor, she admitted that the accused Dinesh alias Babla had altercation with Hem Raj and accused Virender Kumar and Chander Shekhar pelted stones upon the complainant Hem Raj. Volunteered that the stones were pelted from both the sides but no injury was suffered by the complainant. She denied the suggestion that Hem Raj suffered injuries on his chest, legs and head. She admitted the suggestion that on hearing cries of Hem Raj, Bimla Devi came to the spot to rescue the complainant from the accused. Accused Dinesh was holding Danda in his hand and he gave Danda blows on the head of Hem Raj and Bimla Devi. Rest of the accused gave kick and fist blows to Hem Raj and Bimla Devi. Accused Dinesh, Chander Shekhar and Virender followed Bimla Devi upto the room and had not entered inside the room. Only three accused had followed deceased Bimla Devi. He denied portions 'B' to 'B', 'C' to 'C', 'D' to 'D', 'E' to 'E', 'F' to 'F' and 'G' to 'G' of his statement recorded under Section 161 CrPC as incorrect. She could not say that due to whose blow/beatings Bimla Devi had died. In her cross-examination by the learned defence Counsel, she admitted that there were about 50-60 persons present on the spot. Bimla Devi came running and had a fall while going back, head downwards. Accused Amro Devi was sitting only at the shop of Ghan Shyam and her husband was standing at a far place. She admitted that altercation had taken place on account of digging of pits. She also admitted that the stones were being pelted by the complainant also. His mother had come by stairs. She also admitted that story of stick and Danda blows was told to her in the Court for the first time at the instance of complainant Hem Raj.

11. Duryodhan (PW-7) deposed that he had sold the land to the complainant Hem Raj for a sum of Rs.90,000/-. Land was surrounded by lands of Jiwan and Krishan. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that when he sold the land, land was joint, un-partitioned. He had sold the share and no specific number was shown and no Tatima was annexed with the sale deed.

12. Dr. Yamini Vaidya (PW-8) examined the complainant Hem Raj. She issued MLC Ext. PW-8/B. She noticed the following injuries:

"1. Abrasion with contusion size approximately 4x 5 over frontal portion of chest just below the superasternal notch.
2. contution of size 2 x 3 cm over the left side of cheek.
3. Small abrasion with fresh blood over the left side of scalp.
4. A patterned contusion 4 x 1 cm over the back side on both left and right side of infrascapular region.
5. Another contusion obliquely pattern contusion over the lower back both on left and right side.
6. Tenderness over the chest and right side."

13. Dr. Nag Raj Pawar (PW-9) has conducted the post-mortem examination on the body of the deceased Bimla Devi. According to him, he noticed following injuries on the body of the deceased:

"1. Grazed abrasion present over the left knee reddish brown in colour with dried blood over it.
2. Contusion of size 2 x 2 cm present over manubrium sterni, colour is reddish brown, on dissections the area blood and clots present underneath area of contusion over lying the cartilages and adjoining muscles.
3. Supercial laceration of size 1 x 1 cm present over palmer aspect of left hand over lying hypothenar area with reddish brown dried blood present over it.
4. Lacerated wound of the size 2 x 1.5 cm present over right parietal area with contusion of 3 x 3 cm present over the area of lacerated wound. On dissection and opening of cranial cavity there is subdural haematoma of the size 5 x 5 cm present below the injury and about 50 cc of fluid blood present over occipital lobe of right side.
5. Lacerated wound of the size 1 x 0.5 cm present over left frontal area of scalp over lying the area middle of left frontal bone with contusion of reddish brown colour over and around this injury. The size of contusion is 2 x 1.5 cm.
6. Contusion of 2 x 1 cm present over right occipital region of the scalp, linear anterioposterior. On dissection blood present underneath the injury.

Skull and Vertebrae

No fracture of cranial valt seen. Vertifrae are normal.

Membranes-Brain

Subdural Haematoma present over right parietal area and fluid blood over right occipeatl lobe already mentioned in injury No. 4 page 2 of post-mortem reports.

Membranes are intact.

Spinal cord

Normal"

14. In his opinion, the deceased died due to head injury leading to subdural haematoma. The injury due to which deceased died, could be caused with blow of weapon like Ext. P4. In his cross-examination by the learned defence Counsel, he admitted that as per spot position as reflected in photograph Exts. P6 and P7, the injury suffered by the deceased on her parietal region could be sustained by her after fall from stairs. He admitted that as per photographs Exts. P6 and P7, stones had been stored beneath the staircase. He admitted the suggestion that injury No.1 seemed to be result of fall. In case, deceased had been hit with some substance, then there should have also been associate contusion which was not present in injury No. 1. Injuries No. 2, 3, 5 and 6 were simple in nature and not fatal. The Danda/stick Ext. P5 was not shown to him at the time of conducting post-mortem on the body of deceased. No opinion was sought by the police from him to the effect whether injury No.4 could be caused with Ext. P5. He also admitted that as per report of FSL, no blood was detected on Ext. P4.

15. HC Krishan Kumar (PW-14) deposed that on 8.11.2008, accused Dinesh alias Babla disclosed that he had thrown Danda in the field of Krishan Chand and could get it recovered as he had the exclusive knowledge of the same. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that accused Dinesh had not told the police that he had concealed the Danda at a place which was only known to him. He did not remember the date on which accused Dinesh was associated.

16. Lekh Raj Patwari (PW-15) deposed that he prepared spot map/ Aks Tatima Ext. PW-15/A. He had also issued Nakal Jamabandis Ext. PW-15/B and Ext. PW-15/C. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that when Ext. PW-15/A was prepared, none of accused or their family members were summoned/associated. He also admitted that Tatima as per the nature of Ext. PW-15/A was prepared as per rules in the presence of the owner of the land but this practice was not followed in this case. On the spot, there was a boundary dispute inter se accused and complainant. No notice was served to the accused regarding demarcation. He also admitted that in case of boundary dispute, both the parties are heard on the spot and only then the land is demarcated.

17. Sarif Mohammad (PW-18) has carried out the investigation. He prepared inquest report Ext. PW-18/A. He got post-mortem examination conducted. Case property was taken into possession. Spot map was prepared. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that on arrival on the spot, both the shops in front of place of occurrence being run by the Pawan and Ghan Shyam were closed. He admitted that both Pawan and Ghan Shyam told him during the course of investigation that shops were closed on 5.11.2008. They had not seen the occurrence. It had also come in the investigation that when some trouble started at the spot, both Pawan and Ghan Shyam ran away from the spot. It has come in the investigation that Hem Raj was thrown into the pit and thereafter stones were pelted on him. He has not shown Ext. P5 to the autopsy surgeon since it was recovered on 9.11.2008. He also admitted that the complaint had not told him that the accused alarmed and declared that they would kill them both. Complainant Hem Raj has not told him that accused gave beatings on neck with Danda Ext. P5. Complainant had not told that there was a lacerated wound on his forehead and blood was oozing out from that. He had not seen any lacerated wound on the forehead of the complainant on his arrival. It was also not disclosed to him that Hem Raj was pulled out of the pit by Jagat Ram. It was also not disclosed to him by the complainant that all the accused entered the room and after crossing the back door had gone upto the lintel and from there all of them started pelting stones. Complainant had also not told him during the course of investigation that two shops in front of the place of occurrence were open and Ghan Shyam and Pawan Kumar had seen the occurrence. As per spot position, there was steep stair case. Stones, which were pelted on Hem Raj were not taken into possession by him. He admitted that there was no pit at the place of occurrence. Had there been one, he would have shown it in the spot map.

18. According to PW-1 Hem Raj, accused have visited the spot. They have administered beatings to him. His mother came to the spot. She was also beaten up. She went to the room. Accused followed her in the room where she was again given beatings leading to her death. In his cross-examination, PW-2 Jagat Ram has admitted that adjacent to the land of complainant, land of accused party was also there. He admitted that two shops being run by Pawan and Ghan Shyam were open at that time. However, neither Ghan Shyam nor Pawan was cited as witness. In his examination-in-chief, PW-1 complainant deposed that he received injuries on neck and forehead but in Ext. PW-1/A, it is no so stated. According to him, he was pushed into the pit by the accused. It is not so stated by the Investigating Officer. He has deposed that there was no pit on the spot. Had it been so, he would have shown it in the spot map. PW-1 Hem Raj has not stated in Ext. PW-1/A that he was thrown into the pit. It has come on record that more than thirty persons had assembled on the spot but they were not associated as witnesses. He has also admitted that all the accused were unarmed. All the accused had given only kick and fist blows. He has admitted his inimical relations with the accused. PW-2 Jagat Ram is a material witness. Though initially he supported the case of the prosecution in the opening paras of examination-in-chief but subsequently, he was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. According to him, portions 'A' to 'A', 'B' to 'B', 'C' to 'C', 'D' to 'D', 'E' to 'E', 'F' to 'F' and 'G' to 'G' of his statement were incorrect. He has categorically deposed that deceased had sustained injury after fall from stairs. No weapons like Danda and sticks were used by accused. There were two shops in front of the alleged place of occurrence. One was occupied by Pawan Kumar and other was occupied by Ghan Shyam. Both were sitting in their shops. According to him, he separated the deceased and her son. Both of them left to the room and he had closed the gate from outside after locking it. He also reiterated that deceased died after fall when her head struck with stone Danga on head side and sustained injury on the head. No fatal injury was caused by accused. He also deposed that none of the accused entered the house or verandah of the complainant. PW-5 Jangli Devi is also a material witness. According to her, accused came in a car. Hot words were exchanged. She was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In her cross-examination by the Public Prosecutor, she deposed that the accused pelted stones upon the complainant. Stones were pelted from both the sides. No injury was suffered by the complainant. She further deposed in the cross-examination by the Public Prosecutor that accused Dinesh alias Babla, Chander Shekhar and Virender had followed Bimla Devi however, they did not enter the room and only three accused had followed Bimla Devi upto the room. In her cross-examination by the learned defence Counsel, she admitted that the story of Danda/sticks was told to her for the first time at the instance of complainant Hem Raj. There was an old dispute between the parties. The land which was sold to the complainant was not partitioned as per statement of PW-7 Duryodhan. No specific number was shown, and no Tatima was prepared. According to PW-9, Dr. Nag Raj Pawar, as per spot position, reflected in Exts. P6 and P7, injuries sustained by the deceased on parietal region can be sustained due to fall from stairs. Stones were stored beneath the stair case. Injury No. 4 sustained by the deceased was not fatal injury. He also admitted that injury No. 1 seemed to be result of fall and in case deceased had been hit with some substance then there should have been associate contusions which were not present on injury No. 1 observed by him. Nature of injuries No. 2, 3,5 and 6 was simple. Danda, Ext. P5 was not shown to him at the time of post-mortem examination of the body of deceased. No blood was detected on Ext. P4 as per the report of FSL. No opinion was sought by the police from him whether injury No.4 could be caused with Ext. P5. Prosecution case has not been supported by PW-2 Jagat Ram and PW-5 Jangli Devi, who were present at the spot. According to the statement of PW-5 Jangli Devi, deceased had sustained injuries by fall from stair case. Statement of PW-5 Jangli Devi gets credence from the statement of PW-9 Dr. Nag Raj Pawar, who has also opined that injury No. 1 could not suffered by deceased on her parietal region by fall from stairs. PW-1 Hem Raj (complainant) has made various improvements in his statement as discussed herein above, about the manner in which incident has taken place. Ghan Shyam and Pawan Kumar were present on the spot at the time of occurrence and more than thirty people had assembled on the spot. According to PW-1 Hem Raj, Ghan Shyam had seen the accused running away. However, fact of the matter is that neither Pawan Kumar nor Ghan Shyam who were sitting in their shops were examined by the prosecution. According to PW-5, Jangli Devi, only hot words were exchanged. PW-1 Hem Raj admitted that the accused were unarmed.

19. Procedure for conducting demarcation has not been followed. Families of accused were not involved at the time of demarcation. PW-2 Jagat Ram has not seen the accused hitting Bimla Devi rather his statement is to the effect that deceased has sustained injuries from the stone stair case after fall. PW-2 Jagat Ram has also deposed that he separated the complainant from the accused and thereafter he closed the gate. Thus, there was no possibility for the accused to enter the room or verandah of the house of complainant. It has come on record that the relations between complainant and accused were inimical. Complainant party tried to raise construction on the disputed piece of land. Complainant party was asked by the accused not to raise construction. Complainant refused to stop the construction, which led to the incident on 5.11.2008. Accused had a right to protect their property and injuries inflicted upon complainant were simple in nature. There is sufficient material on record to come to the conclusion that the probable cause of the death of the mother of complainant was falling from the stairs and striking her head against stone wall, resulting in head injury.

20. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt.

21. Accordingly, we find no occasion to interfere with the well reasoned judgment passed by the learned trial Court. The appeal is thus dismissed. All pending applications, are also disposed of. Bail bonds of the accused are discharged.

Case referred:

Gulzari Lal v. State of Haryana (2016) 2 SCC (Crl) 325

For the appellant	:	Mr. M.A. Khan, Additional Advocate General.
For the respondent	:	Mr. Rajesh Mandhotra and Ms. Kanta Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Rajiv Sharma, Judge:

The State has come in appeal against Judgment dated 16.7.2010 rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Kangra at Dharamshala in S.T. No. 24/10, whereby the respondent-accused, (hereinafter referred to as 'accused' for convenience sake) who was charged with and tried for offence under Section 306 IPC, has been acquitted by the learned trial Court.

2. Case of the prosecution, in a nutshell, is that the deceased Shalu was daughter of Sukh Dev and earlier upon the complaint of Sukh Dev, a case under Sections 363, 366 and 376 IPC was registered against the accused. After the aforesaid case, the accused used to threaten Shalu that he would again kidnap her. Accused had been teasing Shalu. On 18.7.2008, at 9.00 PM, accused came to the house of complainant and abused the complainant and threatened that he would take away Shalu forcibly. On 19.7.2008, at about 10 AM, when complainant alongwith his wife was working in his fields, Shalu poured kerosene oil on her and set herself ablaze. Fire was extinguished by the complainant and he informed the Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat. Thereafter, Shalu was taken to Daulatpur since she had sustained burn injuries. Shalu was referred to Chandigarh for further medical treatment but complainant brought her back since he had no money to go to Chandigarh. Thereafter, police was informed and statement of complainant was recorded. Medical examination of Shalu was conducted. On 24.7.2008, statement of Shalu was recorded by the police in the presence of medical officer. Shalu expired. Post-mortem examination was conducted. FIR was registered. Investigation was completed. Challan was put in the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. Prosecution has examined as many as fourteen witnesses to prove its case against the accused. Accused was also examined under Section 313 CrPC. He pleaded innocence. Trial Court acquitted the accused as noticed above. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. M. A. Khan, Additional Advocate General has vehemently argued that the prosecution has proved its case against the accused persons.

5. Mr. Rajesh Mandhotra and Ms. Kanta Thakur, Advocates have supported the judgment of acquittal dated 16.7.2010.

6. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the record carefully.

7. Sukh Dev (PW-1) testified that he had filed a complaint against the accused under Sections 363, 366 and 376 IPC. Accused remained in jail for eleven months and thereafter, he was released. Accused used to threaten his daughter that he would again kidnap her. Accused also used to tease her by gestures. His daughter used to narrate these facts to him and his wife. In this regard, he had orally made a complaint to President, Gram Panchayat, Bathra. President had asked the accused to mend his ways, 2-3 times. On 18.7.2008, at 9 PM, accused came to their house and gave a letter to his daughter, which was taken into possession by him. Thereafter, accused fled away. later on, he had handed over the letter to the President of the Panchayat. On 19.7.2008, at 10 AM, his daughter poured kerosene oil on her body and set herself on fire. At that time, he was in the fields. When his daughter came outside in burning condition, he went to her to extinguish the fire. He extinguished the fire. His wife had also come. He informed the Pradhan telephonically. He took his daughter to private hospital at Daulatpur Chowk. Shalu was referred to Chandigarh. He did not have sufficient money. He brought her back to house. In the evening, Pradhan came. He inquired from his daughter and she had given in writing to the Pradhan that the accused should be responsible for her death. Then he took his daughter to Dehra Hospital. Police recorded his statement Ext. PW-1/A. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that they have taken the deceased to Daulatpur Chowk in the vehicle of one Vikram Singh on 24.7.2008.

8. Jai Singh (PW-2) testified that he knew Sukh Dev. He made a complaint to him that accused had been torturing his daughter. He made the accused to understand one/two times. On 19.7.2008, he had gone out and when he came back in the evening, he came to know that daughter of Sukh Dev had set herself on fire after pouring kerosene oil. He went to see her in her house. He inquired from the girl but she was unable to speak. She had given him one written document Ext. PW-2/A. It was written by Shalu in his presence. He telephoned the police. They took Shalu to Dehra. In the night at about 2.30 AM, police had reached the hospital. On 20.7.2008, in his presence, the police had taken into possession the clothes of the deceased. Police also took into possession one plastic canny Ext. P5 vide memo Ext. PW-2/C. Clothes were sealed. He handed over to the police Ext. PW-2/A on 20.7.2008. He has denied the suggestion in cross-examination that Sukh Dev had never lodged any complaint with him. He had not reduced the complaint into writing but had told accused to mend his ways. He denied the suggestion that Ext. PW-2/A was not written by the deceased in his presence.

9. Dr. Kulbhushan Sood (PW-3) deposed that on 19.7.2008, Shalu was brought to the hospital by her father with alleged history of setting on fire after sprinkling kerosene oil at 12 Noon on 19.7.2008. Patient was smelling of kerosene oil. She was disoriented. Her clothes were removed and new clothes were put on. He informed the Police Station. Police moved an application Ext. PW-3/A for issuance of MLC and recorded the statement of witnesses. He certified that the patient was not fit to make statement. He issued MLC Ext. PW-3/B. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that 80% burns are sufficient to affect mental capability of patient. Both the hands of patient were burnt.

10. Sher Singh (PW-4) deposed that in his presence, President of Gram Panchayat produced before the police one letter mark X and documents Ext. PW-2/A which were taken into possession by the police vide recovery memo Ext. PW-2/D.

11. Dr. Ashish Lakhi (PW-5) deposed that in July, 2008, one girl named Shalu from Bathra was brought to him in burnt condition by her father. He had referred her to Chandigarh. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that at that time Shalu was not in a position to speak. He had informed the local police.

12. Roshan Lal (PW-6) deposed that he was owner of a medical store. On 19.7.2008, he received a telephonic information. Sukh Dev asked him to come to his house as a child had burnt. He went to his house and saw his daughter was burnt. He applied Burnol and asked him to take her to Doctor.

13. Smt. Sawarna Devi (PW-9) testified that Shalu was her daughter. They had registered a criminal case against accused. Accused remained in jail for eleven months. After coming out of jail, accused used to threaten her daughter and also used to tell her that he would abduct her. Her daughter used to tell these facts to her. They had reported this matter to the President of Gram Panchayat who had also made the accused understand but accused did not mend his ways. On 18.7.2008, her daughter was given a letter by the accused. Her daughter had given that letter to her father, who had further given it to the President of the Panchayat. On 19.7.2008, they were working in the fields. She heard alarms of her daughter and found that she had burnt herself. Her husband extinguished fire. President of Panchayat was telephonically informed. They took their daughter to Daulatpur Chowk in a private hospital. Doctor there advised them to take Shalu to Chandigarh. They did not have the money so they brought her back. in the evening, President of Panchayat came to their house. He inquired from Shalu. She was unable to speak so she gave in writing Ext. PW-2/A. They took Shalu to Dehra Hospital. From Dehra, she was referred to Chandigarh. Shalu expired on 24.7.2008.

14. Dr. Sanjay (PW-10) was posted as senior resident in the Department of Surgery in RPGMC Tanda. Police had orally requested him to accompany them as the statement of Shalu was to be recorded, who was admitted in the hospital. On 24.7.2008, he went to ward of Shalu and she was found fit to give statement. Police had recoded the statement of Shalu Ext. PW-10/A in his presence which was attested by him vide endorsement Ext. PW-10/A. Police had written the same version Ext. PW-10/A, which was stated by Shalu. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that he had not issued any certificate that Shalu was mentally fit to make statement. He denied the suggestion that Shalu was not fit to make statement and Ext. PW-10/A was not her statement. He also denied the suggestion that he had later on attested Ext. PW-10/A at the instance of police.

15. SI Surjeet Singh (PW-13) deposed that on 20.7.2008 at 2.30 AM, a telephonic information was given by the doctor from Dehra Hospital that one girl with burn injuries had been brought for treatment. Upon this, he alongwith other police officials reached the hospital. He moved an application Ext. PW-3/A before Medical Officer for recording statement of girl. Girl was unable to speak and write. He obtained MLC of the girl as well as her father. Girl was referred to Tanda hospital. He recorded the statement of father of the girl, vide Ext. PW-1/A. President of Gram Panchayat Jai Singh produced before him one letter mark X written by accused and one document Ext. PW-2/A bearing hand writing of deceased. These were taken into possession vide Ext. PW-2/D. On 24.7.2008, in the hospital he recorded statement of Shalu Ext. PW-10/A as per version of the deceased. He also obtained post-mortem report from the doctor. Report of the FSL is Ext. PX. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that on 24.7.2008, he did not obtain any certificate from the doctor that Shalu was fit to make statement.

16. Dr. Atul Gupta (PW-14) alongwith Dr. D.P. Swamy conducted post-mortem examination of Shalu daughter of Sukh Dev resident of Bathra, Tehsil Dehra, District Kangra. She died on 26.7.2008. Post-mortem report is Ext. PW-14/A. In their opinion, deceased died due to septic shock as a result of 80-85% superficial ante-mortem burns. Probable time that elapsed between injury and death was between 6 to 10 days and probable time between death and post mortem was 12 to 24 hours.

17. FIR was registered against the accused under Sections 363, 366 and 376 IPC at the instance of Sukh Dev Singh. Accused was acquitted. Accused remained in jail for eleven months. Thereafter, accused instead of mending his ways, kept on teasing the deceased. He used to threaten that he would again kidnap her. On 18.7.2008, at 9 PM, he visited the house of the complainant PW-1 Sukh Dev Singh. He handed over a letter to Shalu. He abused PW-1 Sukh Dev Singh and threatened that he would take away Shalu forcibly. On 19.7.2008, deceased put herself on fire. Fire was extinguished by the complainant. Deceased was taken to the hospital. Doctor advised complainant to take her to Chandigarh. However, he did not have enough money to go to Chandigarh. Jai Singh, Pradhan, (PW-2) has visited the house of complainant on 19.7.2008. He was handed over Ext. PW-2/A by the deceased. Statement of the deceased was also recorded vide Ext. PW-10/A on 24.7.2008, in the presence of Dr. Sanjay (PW-10). Cause of death of Shalu was septic shock as a result of 80-85% superficial ante-mortem burns. Accused has been acquitted by the trial Court on the ground that the deceased was not fit to write Ext. PW-2/A and also on the ground that Dr. Sanjay (PW-10) has not issued certificate that the deceased was in a fit mental condition to give statement on 24.7.2008. Incident has taken place at 10 AM on 19.7.2008. PW-2 Jai Singh visited the house of the complainant in the evening. He was handed over Ext. PW-2/A. We have gone through Ext. PW-2/A. It is categorically stated in Ext. PW-2/A that the accused would be responsible for her death. It is evident from the handwriting that Shalu was in tremendous pain and agony when she was writing that accused would be responsible for her death. This was written on 19.7.2008. It is also written in Ext. PW-2/A by the Pradhan that Shalu had received burn injuries and she told him that accused used to tease her. Thus she has taken this extreme step. It has come in the statement of PW-1 Sukh Dev and his wife (PW-9) Sawarna Devi that the accused used to tease their daughter even after his acquittal in criminal case. They had informed this fact to the Pradhan of Gram Panchayat, PW-2 Jai Singh. Jai Singh (PW-2) has also admitted that complaint was lodged with him and he has told the accused to mend his way. In fact, accused had the audacity to visit the house of complainant Sukh Dev on 18.7.2008 that too at 9 PM, abusing him and threatening to forcibly kidnap Shalu. PW-13 SI Surjeet Singh has recorded the statement of deceased vide Ext. PW-10/A on 24.7.2008. PW-10 Dr. Sanjay has deposed that the police had recorded the statement of Shalu in his presence. He attested the same vide endorsement Ext. PW-10/B. Police has written the same version in Ext. PW-10/A, which was told by Shalu. Statement Ext. PW-10/A would constitute a dying declaration under Section 32 of the Evidence Act. Merely that the Doctor has not issued certificate that Shalu was fit to make statement would not in any way effect the dying declaration made by deceased on 24.7.2008, that too in the presence of PW-10 Dr. Sanjay. It is duly proved by the prosecution that the accused alone was responsible for abetting suicide committed by the deceased. She received 80-85% superficial ante-mortem burns. She might have received 80-85% burns but still she had sufficient strength to write Ext. PW-2/A.

18. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Gulzari Lal v. State of Haryana reported in (2016) 2 SCC (Crl) 325, have held that a valid dying declaration may be made without obtaining a certificate of fitness of declarant by a medical officer. Their lordships have held as under:

> "21. We find no infirmities with the statements made by the deceased and recorded by the Head Constable Manphool Singh (PW-7). A valid dying declaration may be made without obtaining a certificate of fitness of the declarant by a medical officer. The law regarding the same is well-settled by this Court in the decision of Laxman v. State of Maharashtra[6], wherein this Court observed thus:
> > "3. There is no requirement of law that a dying declaration must necessarily be made to a magistrate and when such statement is recorded by a magistrate there is no specified statutory form for such recording. Consequently, what evidential value or weight has to be attached to such statement necessarily depends on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. What is essentially required is that the person who records a dying declaration must be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind. Where it is proved by the testimony of the magistrate that the declarant was fit to make the statement even without examination by the doctor the declaration can be acted upon provided the court ultimately holds the same to be voluntary and truthful. A certification by the doctor is essentially a rule of caution and therefore the voluntary and truthful nature of the declaration can be established otherwise."
> 22. Further, clarity on the issue may be established by the judgment of this Court in the case of Paras Yadav & Ors. v. State of Bihar[7], wherein this Court addressed the question regarding the dying declaration that was not recorded by the doctor and where the doctor had not been examined to say that the injured was fit to give the statement. It has been held by this Court as under :
>
> > "8....In such a situation, the lapse on the part of the Investigating Officer should not be taken in favour of the accused, may be that such lapse is committed designedly or because of negligence. Hence, the prosecution evidence is required to be examined de hors such omissions to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not."
> 23. In reference to the position of law laid down by this Court, we find no reason to question the reliability of the dying declaration of the deceased for the reason that at the time of recording his statement by Head Constable, Manphool Singh (PW-7),he was found to be mentally fit > to give his statement regarding the occurrence. Further, evidence of Head Constable Manphhol Singh (PW-7) was shown to be trustworthy and has been accepted by the courts below. The view taken by the High Court does not suffer from any infirmity and the same is in order."

19. In this case also, dying declaration was recorded by the Head Constable and endorsement was made on it by PW-10 Dr. Sanjay. Statements of PW-1 Sukh Dev Singh, PW-9 Smt. Sawarna Devi and PW-10 Dr. Sanjay are trustworthy. The deceased has committed suicide by pouring kerosene oil on her and accused has abetted commission of suicide by consistently teasing the deceased. Learned trial Court has manifestly erred by discarding Ext. PW-2/A and Ext. PW-10/A on very flimsy grounds, not borne out of the record.

20. The appeal is allowed. Judgment dated 16.7.2010 rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Kangra at Dharamshala in S.T. No. 24/10 is set aside. Accused is convicted for offence under Section 306 IPC. He be produced to be heard on quantum of sentence on 7.7.2016.

21. Registry is directed to prepare and send the production warrant to the quarter concerned.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Ashwani Sood ....Petitioner.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh ....Respondent.

Cr. Revision No. 92 of 2010.
Reserved on 24.6.2016
Date of Decision: 01.07. 2016

Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954- Section 16 (1) (a) (ii)- Accused failed to produce licence for selling food articles on demand by Food Inspector- he was tried and convicted by the trial Court- an appeal was preferred, which was dismissed- held, in revision that accused was found selling food articles- he had failed to produce any licence for the same- he claimed that licence was given for renewal but he produced a licence which was valid from 1.4.2005 till 31.3.2005- inspection was made on 4.6.2004 and thus, there was no valid licence on the date of inspection- accused was selling food articles without valid licence- he was rightly convicted by the Court- appeal dismissed. (Para-10 to 23)

Case referred:
Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case 241

For the petitioner: Mr. Anoop Chitkara, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Pankaj Negi, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J.

The instant criminal revision petition filed under Section 397 and 401 Cr.PC is directed against the judgment dated 12.3.2010 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Shimla, in Criminal Appeal No. 41-S/10 of 2006 affirming the judgment of conviction dated 17.6.2006 passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate, Court No.2, Shimla in Criminal Case No. 572/3 of 2004 titled "State verses Ashwani Sood."

2. Briefly stated facts as emerge from the record are that on 4th June, 2004 at about 2:00PM, the Food Inspector (the Inspector for the sake of brevity) namely Shri LD Thakur, visited M/s Hotel Varuna, Bawa Market, Shimla and found owner of the aforesaid Hotel, namely Ashwani Sood (in short the accused) to be conducting the business. Since he had kept cold drinks, tea, coffee and mineral water etc., in the shop for sale to the general public, the Inspector asked him to produce the licence for selling food articles but the accused failed to produce the same. Since the accused on demand made by the Inspector failed to provide the valid licence as required under Rule 50 of the Food and Prevention of Adulteration Rules,1956 (in short the Rules), the Inspector prepared the spot map and carried out necessary codal formalities to challan the accused. Record further reveals that the Inspector on the basis of material collected by him sought written consent/sanction from the CMO, Shimla to prosecute the accused, which was accordingly sanctioned. After procuring sanction from the competent authority, complaint was presented in the court of learned Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, Court No.2, Shimla, HP and after close scrutiny of the documents annexed with the compliant, the accused was summoned.

3. Learned trial Court after satisfying itself that prima-facie case exists against the accused, put a notice of accusation to him under Section 16 (1) (a) (ii) of the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954, (in short the Act) to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. Learned trial Court, on the basis of material made available on record by the prosecution, concluded the trial and vide judgment dated 17th June, 2006, held the accused guilty for having committed offence under the Act.

5. Subsequently, vide order dated 20.6.2006, learned trial Court sentenced the accused to suffer simple imprisonment till the rising of the Court and to pay fine of Rs. 500/- and in default, further to undergo simple imprisonment of ten days. However, as per aforesaid order, both the sentences were to run concurrently.

6. Being dissatisfied with the judgment passed by the learned trial Court, accused filed an appeal under Section 374 Cr.PC in the court of learned Additional Sessions Judge, which was dismissed vide judgment dated 12.3.2010. Hence, the instant criminal revision petition before this Court.

7. Mr. Anoop Chitkara, Advocate, appearing on behalf of the accused vehemently argued that the judgment passed by both the courts below are not sustainable as the same are not based upon the correct appreciation of evidence available on record. He contended on behalf of the petitioner that both the courts below while holding the accused guilty, failed to acknowledge that licence for the year, 2004-05 was renewed by the Municipal Corporation from retrospective date by levying the compounding fee and as such finding of the court below that accused had no valid licence for the year, 2004-05, deserves to be quashed and set-aside being foreign to the records. He forcefully contended that both the courts below failed to appreciate that CW-2 the Inspector, in his cross-examination categorically submitted that vide document Mark-X, licence fee for the year, 2004-05, was paid for the business of catering in the premises. He also invited attention of this Court to the documents Mark-X and Y to demonstrate that condition No.9 specifically provides that "licencee shall apply for renewal of licence before the end of period of validity of licence and his previous licence shall remain valid until a fresh licence is issued and specific orders are issued to him on his application." He forcefully contended that the accused had already renewed the licence of the said period after paying the compounding fee and there was no mens-rea on his part to indulge in such business without there being any valid licence and, as such, the judgments passed by both the Courts below are not correct and same deserve to be quashed and set-aside. He also submitted that there was no valid and proper sanction to prosecute the accused because Dr. Suman Gupta, CMO was never examined and accused had no opportunity to dis-prove her credibility and to verify whether she had actually issued sanction as claimed by the prosecution or not? He also challenged the authority of the Inspector (CW2) to check the premises of the accused because as per him, Municipal Corporation Shimla was not declared a local area under clause (vii) of Section 2 of the Act. During arguments, he also invited attention of this Court to the statements given by the witnesses as well as statement of the accused recorded under Section 313 Cr.PC to suggest that some of the most material prosecution evidence appearing against the accused were put to the accused under Section 313 Cr.PC and as per Mr. Chitkara, such material could not be used against the accused. At last, he submitted that the conviction and sentence passed against the accused is harsh and, as such, same deserves to be quashed and set-aside.

8. Per contra, Mr. Pankaj Negi, learned Deputy Advocate General, assisted by Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, appearing for the respondent-State supported the judgments passed by both the Courts below. Mr. Negi vehemently argued that no interference, whatsoever, of this Court is warranted in the present facts and circumstances, especially, where it stands duly proved that the accused was not having a valid licence as required under Rule 50 of the Rules, to sell the food articles. He also invited attention of this Court to the statement given by the DW under Section 33 Cr.PC, himself to demonstrate that he himself admitted that at the time of inspection, he had no valid licence to sell the food articles. He forcefully contended that bare perusal of the judgments passed by the courts below suggests that same are based upon the correct appreciation of evidence available on record and as such, the present petition deserves to be dismissed. Eventually, he contended that this Court while exercising powers under Section 397, Cr.PC has very limited power to re-apprecaite the evidence, especially, when it stands established on record that both the courts below have very meticulously dealt with each and every aspect of the matter. Mr. Negi prayed for dismissal of the revision petition.

9. I have heard the counsel for the parties and carefully gone through the record.

10. True, it is that this Court has very limited powers under Section 397 Cr.PC while exercising its revisionary jurisdiction but in the instant case, where accused has been convicted and sentenced, it would be apt and in the interest of justice to critically examine the statements of the witnesses that too solely with a view to ascertain that the judgments passed by learned courts below are not perverse and same are based on correct appreciation of the evidence on record.

11. As far as scope of power of this Court while exercising revisionary jurisdiction under Section 397 is concerned, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case 241; has held that in case Court notices that there is a failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality or sentence or order. The relevant para of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> 8. The object of Section 483 and the purpose behind conferring the revisional power under Section 397 read with Section 401, upon the High Court is to invest continuous supervisory jurisdiction so as to prevent miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularity of the procedure or to mete out justice. In addition, the inherent power of the High Court is preserved by Section 482. The power of the High Court, therefore, is very wide. However, the High Court must exercise such power sparingly and cautiously when the Sessions Judge has simultaneously exercised revisional power under Section 397(1). However, when the High Court notices that there has been failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is but the salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/ incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order."

12. It is undisputed that CW2, the complainant, L.D. Thakur, was duly authorized by State Govt. to inspect the premises to take the samples and to initiate the prosecution under the Act, he visited M/s Hotel Varuna, Bawa Market Shimla on 4.6.2004, wherein he found the accused conducting business of hotel. It is also not in dispute that at the time of inspection, accused was found selling the food articles and as such CW2 asked the accused to produce the licence as required under Rule 50 of the Rules for selling the food articles. It is also not in dispute that at the time of the inspection, the accused failed to produce any licence for the year, 2004-05 rather, the complainant informed that same has been given for renewal.

13. Prosecution with a view to prove its case, examined two witnesses and learned court below also recorded the statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.PC, wherein he claimed that he has been falsely implicated, however, in defence, he led one witness.

14. CW1 Naresh Kumar Stated that he is posted as Dealing Assistant in office of CMO, Shimla since December, 2001. He also stated that CMO concerned had seen the documents of this case and gave him the dictation. He also stated that he typed Ext.CW1/A, i.e. sanction obtained by the Inspector to prosecute the accused. He also proved that signature on the Ext.CW1/A is of Dr. Suman Gupta, being CMO. He categorically stated that he recognizes the signatures of the aforementioned CMO. However, in his cross-examination, he admitted that he is not authorized to give sanction nor he had given any sanction.

15. CW2 L.D. Thakur, the complainant (the Inspector) stated that he was posted as Food Inspector in Municipal Corporation since 1999 and he on 4.6.2004, inspected the shop of the accused. It has come in his statement that at the time of inspection the accused was conducting business as an owner. He also stated that the accused had kept food articles for selling to general public. He stated that when he asked the accused to produce the licence as required under the Rules, for the year, 2004-05, the accused failed to produce the licence. He also stated that he prepared the spot map Ext.CW2/A, whereon he, Gian Chand and accused put their signatures. He also proved on record the spot memo, menu card, copy of notification issued by CMO vide letter Ext.CW2/B wherein CMO stated that it is a fit case for prosecution. He also proved the complaint Ext.CW2/C was filed by him and copy of notification is Ext.CW2/D. In his cross-examination, he reiterated that he inspected the hotel of the accused and at that time, two or three persons were sitting inside the hotel but he did not associate them in the proceedings nor he associated any person from the market. However, he admitted that witness Gian Chand belongs to his department since he is posted as Sanitary Inspector but in his cross-examination, he also admitted that previous licence is valid, if it is renewed well in time.

16. Careful perusal of the depositions made by the aforesaid witnesses produced by the complainant suggests that on 4.6.2004, CW2 had inspected the shop of the accused, wherein he was found selling food articles without there being any valid licence as required under Rule 50 of the Rules for the year, 2004-05. There is nothing in the cross-examination of this complainant witness from where it can be inferred that any suggestion worth the name was put to this witness to suggest that at that relevant time, the accused was not found selling food articles without any valid licence. Moreover, there is nothing in the cross examination to suggest that these complainant witnesses had any motive to falsely implicate the accused or they had any prior animosity or enmity, which compelled them to depose against the accused. In view of the above, one thing stands clearly established that accused at that point of time was selling food articles without there being any valid licence and on demand, he failed to produce the same to the Inspector, who had visited the site. From the perusal of the aforesaid statement given by the witnesses, it can be safely concluded that stand taken by the complainant at the time of recording his statement under Section 313 Cr.PC, is not correct as observed above, no suggestion worth the name qua any prior animosity /enmity was put to the accused with a view to extract something that complainant witnesses had some motive to falsely depose against the accused and implicate him in a false case.

17. DW1 Ramkali was produced by the accused in his defence. She is clerk in this licensing Branch of MC Shimla and stated that Ext.DW1/A is a compounding fee receipt of the accused for the period i.e. 2001 to 2006, however, she also stated that it is valid from 26.9.2005 to 31.3.2006. She also brought the copy of licence Ext.DW1/B, which is correct as per the original and licence is valid from 1.4.2005 to 31.3.2006. In her cross-examination, she specifically admitted that compounding fee is for the period of 2001 to 2006 and same is for the purpose of catering in M.C. area. She also admitted that fee prescribed under the Act is Rs. 10 p.a. It also emerges from the record that she had not brought the record for the year, 2004-05.

18. Bare perusal of the deposition made by defence (DW1) suggests that vide Ext.DW1/A, Municipal Corporation Shimla received compounding licensing fee Mark-X from the accused. This Court had an occasion to see this Ext.DW1/B, which is available at Page-26 of the record, perusal whereof suggests that licensing authority issued licence to the accused under the provisions of the Act and Rules made thereunder for selling/storage/distribution/manufacturing of the certain eatables and beverages. Ext.DW/B also reveals that licencing authority issued the same to the hotel of the accused for lodging and catering. Though it finds mention in this document that license was valid up to 31.3.2006 but this Court was unable to find anything in this document to suggest, from which date it was issued. This document has been issued on 28.9.2005 by the licensing authority of the MC Shimla, but it doesn't disclose the date from which date, it became effective. Similarly, this Court perused the Mark-Y i.e. document available at page 27 of the record, which suggests that accused paid amount of Rs. 12,510/- against the receipt No. 428776 dated 26.9.2005 to the MC for permission to use the premises for lodging and catering. This document clearly suggests that accused was issued licence from 1.4.2005 to 31.3.2006, meaning thereby, the accused had licence under the Rules to sell the food articles as provided under Ext.DW1/B in his hotel, w.e.f. 1.4.2005 to 31.3.2006. There is also a mention of licencing authority @ Rs. 10 against the aforementioned receipt. Same receipt number stands mentioned in document Mark-Y, wherein while renewing the permit/licence w.e.f. 1.4.2005 to 31.3.2006, MC has received an amount of Rs. 12,510/- against that receipt, which finds mention in Ext.DW1/B. It appears that the accused had not paid licence fee for a period prior to 1.4.2005 also and his licence was not renewed till further, which he again by depositing an amount of Rs. 12,510/- on 26.9.2005 got renewed but fact remains that MC while charging fee for previous years renewed his permit from 1.4.2005 to 31.3.2006 only, meaning thereby, the accused was not having any valid licence to sell the food articles on 4.6.2004. Though, accused has placed receipt Ext.DW1/B Mark X and Y to suggest that he was having valid licence w.e.f. 2001 to 2006 but after perusing the aforesaid documents, this Court is convinced that licence of the accused was only renewed from 1.4.2005 to 31 3 2006 by the MC Shimla.

19. In this regard, it would be apt to reproduce Rule 50 of the Rules, which reads as under:-

> "50. Conditions for licence:-
>
> (1) No person shall manufacture, sell, stock, distribute or exhibit for sale any article of food, including prepared food or ready to serve food 2[or irradiated food] except under a licence:
>
> Provided that the fruit products covered under the Fruit Products Order, 1955, solvent extracted oil, deoiled meal and edible flour covered under the Solvent Extracted Oil, De-oiled Meal and Edible Flour (Control) Order, 1967, 3[vanaspati covered under the Vegetable Oil Products (Regulation) Order, 1998], and meat and poultry products covered under the Meat Food Products Order, 1973, shall be exempted from the above rule] ;
>
> [Provided further that a producer of milk, who sells milk only to a milk co-operative society which is a member of milk co-operative Union engaged in reconstitution of milk or manufacture of milk products, shall be exempted from this rule.]
>
> [Provided also that no person shall manufacture, sell, stock, distribute or exhibit for sale any article of food which has been subjected to the treatment of irradiation, except under a licence from Deptt., of Atomic Energy (Control of Irradiation of Food), under the Atomic Energy Act, 1962 (Act 33 of 1962)]

[(1-A) One licence may be issued by the licensing authority for one or more articles of food and also for different establishments or premises in the same local area.]

[(1-B) The name and address of the Director or Manager, as the case may be, nominated by the company, under rule 12B shall be mentioned in the licence.]

(2) The State Government or the local authority shall appoint licensing authorities.

(3) A licensing authority may with the approval of the State Government or the local authority by an order in writing delegate the power to sign licenses and such other powers as may be specified in the order to any other person under his control.

[(4) If the articles of food are manufactured, stored or exhibited for sale at different premises situated in more than one local area, separate applications shall be made and a separate licence shall be issued in respect of such premises not falling within the same local area: Provided that the itinerant vendors who have no specified place of business, shall be licensed to conduct business in a particular area within the jurisdiction of the licensing authority.]

(5) Before granting a licence for manufacture, stock or exhibition of any of the articles of food in respect of which a licence is required, the licensing authority shall inspect the premises and satisfy itself that it is free from sanitary defects. The applicant for the licence shall have to make such alteration in the premises as may be required by the licensing authority for the grant of a licence:

[Provided that the licensing authority may for reasons to be recorded in writing, refuse to grant a licence, if it is satisfied that it is necessary to do so in the interest of public health.]

(7) Proprietors of hotels, restaurants and other food stalls (including mobile and itinerant food stalls) who sell or expose for sale savouries, sweets or other articles of food shall put up a notice board containing separate lists of the articles which have been cooked in ghee, edible oil vanaspati and other fats for the information of the intending purchasers.

(9) No licensee shall employ in his work any person who is suffering from infectious, contagious or loathsome disease.

(10) No person shall manufacture, store or expose for sale or permit the sale of any article of food in any premises not effectively separated to the satisfaction of the licensing authority from any privy, urinal, sullage, drain or place of storage of foul and waste matter.

(11) All vessels used for the storage or manufacture of the articles intended for sale shall have proper cover to avoid contamination.

(12) Every manufacturer [including ghani operator] or wholesale dealer in butter, ghee, vanaspati, edible oils, and other fats shall maintain a register showing the quantity manufactured, received or sold and the destination of each consignment of the substances sent out from his manufactory or place of business, and shall present such register for inspection whenever required to do so by the licensing authority.

(13) An itinerant vendor granted a licence under these rules shall carry a metallic badge on his arm showing clearly the licence number, the nature of articles for the sale of which the licence has been granted, his name and address and the name, address of the owner, if any, for whom he is working. His containers of food and the vehicle shall also be similarly marked. In addition to the metallic badge the vendor shall, if so required by the State Government or the local authority, carry an identity card with his photograph and the number of the licence. The identity card shall be renewed every year:]

[Provided that the whole-time employees of the companies shall not be treated as itinerant vendors for the purpose of carrying a metallic badge on their arms or obtaining separate licences if an identity card containing particulars of the valid municipal licence is carried by them.]

(14) The nature of articles of food for the sale of which a licence is required under these rules shall be mentioned in the application for licence. Any objectionable, ambiguous or misleading trade name shall not be approved by the licensing authority.

(15) Every licensee who sells any food, shall display a notice board containing the nature of the articles which he is exposing or offering for sale."

Bare perusal of the rules suggests that no person is authorized to manufacture, sell, stock, distribute or exhibit for sale any article of food, including prepared food or ready to serve food or irradiated food except under a licence.

20. In the present case, as has been discussed above, it stands proved on record that on 4.6.2004, the accused was found selling in his hotel food articles to general public without having valid licence. Accused has nowhere disputed the aforesaid facts as set up by the complainant in their case. Only defence taken by the accused was that he was unable to produce the licence since it was under renewal but fact remains that even during trial, he failed to place on record any valid licence, if he had, qua the period when this inspection was carried out by the complainant. As has been noticed above Ext.DW1/A and documents Mark X and Y nowhere suggests that on 4.6.2004 accused was having valid licence to sell the food articles. Ext.DW1/B clearly suggests that an amount of Rs. 12,510/- was received by MC for the use of the premises for lodging and catering for the period 1.4.2005 to 31 3.2006. Close scrutiny of this document nowhere suggests that any kind of compounding fee for non-renewal of the licence was charged by the MC. Though, there is mention that it was valid up to 2006 but there is no mention with regard to date from which licence became effective. Hence, this court is unable to accept the contention put forth on behalf of the petitioner that he was having valid licence from 2001 to 2006. Rather, after perusing document Mark-Y at Page-27 of the record, this Court is convinced that accused was having a valid licence to use the premise for lodging and catering w.e.f. 4.6.2005 to 31.3.2006. Since accused on 4.6.2004 failed to produce any valid licence authorizing him to sell the food articles, he was rightly challaned by the authority empowered under the Act in this regard. Rule 50 as reproduced above, clearly provides that the sale of articles mentioned therein without having valid licence and, as such for violation of Rule-50, petitioner rendered himself liable for the proseuciton.

21. Section 16 of the Act provides for penalties for non compliance of the provisions contained in the act as follows:-

"16. Penalties-

(1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (1-A) if any person—

(a) whether by himself or by any other person on his behalf, imports into India or manufactures for sales or stores, sells or distributes any article of food—

(i) which is adulterated within the meaning of sub-clause (m) of clause (i-a) of section 2 or misbranded within the meaning of clause (ix) of that section or the sale of which is prohibited under any provision of this Act or any rule made thereunder or by an order of the Food (Health) Authority;

(ii) other than an article of food referred to in sub-clause (i), in contravention of any of the provisions of this Act or of any rule made thereunder; or…………….

………. he shall, in addition to the penalty to which he may be liable under the provisions of section 6, be punishable with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than six months but which may extend to three years, and with fine which shall not be less than one thousand rupees: Provided that—

(i) if the offence is under sub-clause (i) of clause (a) and is with respect to an article of food, being primary food, which is adulterated due to human agency or is with respect to an article of food which is misbranded within the meaning of sub-clause (k) of clause (ix) of section 2; or

(ii) if the offence is under sub-clause (ii) of clause (a), but not being an offence with respect to the contravention of any rule made under clause (a) or clause (g) of sub-section (1A) of section 23 or under clause (b) of sub-section (2) of section 24,……..”

Section 16 (1) (a) of the Act clearly provides that if any person sells, stores article of food refers to in sub section (i) in contravention of any provisions of this Act or any rule made thereunder, shall be liable to be punished for imprisonment for a term which shall be less than six months and may further extend to three years.

22. In the present case, where it clearly stands proved on record that accused was selling food articles without having any valid licence as required under Rule 50 of the Act, courts below have taken very lenient view and despite holding accused guilty of having committed offence under Section 16 (1) (a) (ii) of the Act has convicted and sentenced him to suffer simple imprisonment till rising of the court and to pay fine of Rs. 500.

23. This Court, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, does not see any reason to interfere, whatsoever, in the judgment passed by the courts below as same are correctly based upon the proper appreciation of evidence available on record. Accordingly, revision petition is dismissed.

BEFORE HON’BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C. J.

Shri Chaman Lal …..Appellant

Versus

Shri Santosh Kumar Rattan & another …Respondents

FAO No. 446 of 2010

Decided on : 1.7.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Tribunal had awarded Rs. 30,000/- under the head ‘pain and suffering’- claimant had suffered pain and will have to undergo the same throughout his life- thus, he is entitled to Rs. 50,000/- in addition to the amount awarded by the Tribunal. (Para-5)

For the Appellant : Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.

For the respondents: Nemo for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Ratish Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

This appeal is directed against the award dated 7th August, 2010, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Fast Track Court, Solan, District Solan, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as ‘the Tribunal’), in Case No. 10FTC/2 of 2004, titled as Chaman Lal versus Shri Santosh Kumar Rattan & another, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 2,14,240/- with interest @ 7 ½ % per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization, came to be awarded in favour of the claimant-appellant and the insurer-respondent No. 2 herein, was saddled with liability, (hereinafter referred to as 'the impugned award').

2. The owner-cum-driver and the insurer have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far it relates to them.

3. The foundation of the appeal is on the following two grounds:

"(i) The appellant-claimant cannot marry;

(ii) The Tribunal has not awarded adequate compensation under the head 'pain and suffering'.

4. On 17.06.2016, learned Counsel for the respondent No. 2 had produced photostat copies of some documents, which do disclose that the claimant is already married and having three children. In terms of the said order, learned Counsel for the appellant-claimant was asked to seek instructions to this effect. Today, he frankly conceded that the claimant is already married and having three children.

5. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in awarding compensation to the tune of Rs. 30,000/- under the head 'pain and suffering'. The claimant had suffered pain and suffering and has to undergo the same throughout his life. Accordingly, the claimant is held entitled to Rs. 50,000/-, in addition to the amount already awarded by the Tribunal, under the said head.

6. Having said so, it is held that the claimant is entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs. 2,14,240/- + Rs. 50,000/- total amounting to Rs. 2,64,240/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till realization.

7. The amount of compensation is enhanced and the impugned award is modified, as indicated above.

8. The insurer is directed to deposit the enhanced amount alongwith interest, within a period of six weeks from today before the Registry. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the entire amount in favour of the claimant, strictly in terms of conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' account cheque or by depositing the same in his account.

9. The appeal is accordingly disposed of.

10. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 498-A, 323 and 307 read with Section 34- Prosecutrix was married to accused P- she was harassed by her husband, father-in-law and mother-in-law for bringing less dowry- accused P stated that prosecutrix was not good looking and he wanted to marry some other person- she was tortured physically and mentally- accused had given beating and a rope was tied around her neck with intention to kill her- matter was reported to police- accused were tried and convicted by the trial Court- aggrieved from the order, present appeal was preferred- held, in appeal that Medical Officer had specifically stated that abrasion on the back side of the neck is not possible if a person tries to strangulate herself with a rope, which corroborates the version of the prosecutrix that accused had tied a rope around her neck to kill her- prosecutrix admitted in cross-examination that she and her husband were present in the room at the time of incident, therefore, only husband is to be held liable for the same- further, prosecutrix had not mentioned date and time when she was subjected to harassment- matter was also not reported to police, panchayat or any other authorities - appeal partly allowed- mother-in-law and father-in-law acquitted while husband of the prosecutrix was convicted. (Para-9 to 13)

For the Appellants: Mr. R.K.Sharma, Senior Advocate with Ms. Anita Parmar, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral).

The instant appeal stands directed by the accused/convicts against the judgment of the learned Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Hamirpur rendered on 16.06.2007 in Sessions Trial 1 of 2007, whereby, he returned findings of conviction against the accused/convicts for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 498-A and 323 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code (for short "IPC"). The learned trial Court proceeded to hence sentence each of them to undergo rigorous imprisonment for three years for commission of offence punishable under Section 498-A/34 of the IPC besides sentenced each of them to pay a fine of Rs.5,000/-, in default of payment of fine they were sentenced to undergo further rigorous imprisonment for six months. The learned trial Court further proceeded to sentence each of them to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year and to pay fine of Rs.1000/- each for the commission of offence punishable under Section 323/34 of the IPC, in default of payment of fine they stood sentenced to undergo further rigorous imprisonment for three months. All the sentences were ordered to run concurrently.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that on 27.4.2006, Medical Officer, CHC, Bhoranj informed the Police Station Bhoranj on telephone that Smt. Shakuntla Devi, the prosecutrix had been admitted in the hospital in an injured condition. Upon this information, a report No.12 was entered in the Police Station and H.C. Pardeep Kumar, No.26 and LHC Karam Chand, No. 190 rushed to CHC, Bhoranj. The aforesaid HC Pardeep Kumar moved an application to Medical Officer for recording the statement of the prosecutrix. However, the prosecutrix was not in a position to make a statement on that day. On 28.4.2006, when the prosecutrix was able to make a statement, she recorded her statement under Section 154, Cr.P.C. before H.C. Pardeep Kumar, NO.26 stating therein that she was married to accused Pawan Kumar about four months back at Village Chandruhi, Tehsil Bhoranj, District Hamirpur, H.P., according to Hindu rites. For about three months after the marriage, accused Pawan Kumar, husband, Desh Raj, father-in-law and Sandhya Devi, mother-in-law of the prosecutrix treated her nicely, but thereafter all these accused started taunting her for bringing less dowry. Accused Pawan Kumar levelled the allegations against her that she was not a good looking lady and that he wanted to marry some other woman. Accused Pawan Kumar also used to send her out of his bedroom in the night on several occasions. It was further reported that accused Desh Raj and Sandhya Devi used to beat her for bringing less dowry and also tortured her physically and mentally. On 24.4.2016 at about 6.00 a.m., all the accused gave beating to the prosecutrix and a rope was also tied around her neck with intention to kill her, as a result of which, she received injury marks on her neck and other parts of the body. Upon this information, FIR was registered in the police station concerned against the accused. Thereafter, the case was investigated.

3. On conclusion of investigations, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and filed in the Court concerned.

4. The accused were charged by the learned trial Court for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 498-A, 307, 323 read with Section 34 of the IPC. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 11 witnesses. On conclusion of recording of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure were recorded by the trial Court, in which the accused claimed innocence and pleaded false implication in the case. In their defence, the accused examined two witnesses.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, recorded findings of conviction against the accused/appellants herein.

6. The accused/appellants are aggrieved by the judgment of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court. The learned Senior Counsel appearing for the accused/appellants has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of the material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. On the other hand, the learned Deputy Advocate General has with considerable force and vigour, contended of the findings of conviction recorded by the Courts below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. Smt.Shakuntla Devi, the prosecutrix is the wife of co-accused/convict Pawan Kumar. Co-accused/convicts Desh Raj and Sandhya Devi are respectively her father-in-law and mother-in-law. In the ill-fated incident which occurred on 24.4.2006 at the matrimonial home of the prosecutrix, the latter ascribes to co-accused Pawan Kumar besides to Desh Raj and Sandhya Devi an incriminatory role of theirs tying rope Ext.P-1 recovered under memo Ex.PW-1/B around her neck with a mens rea to eliminate her, yet the incriminatory role aforesaid as stands ascribed to accused/convicts Desh Raj and Sandhya Devi, however, for reasons imputed/ascribed herein-after, is infirm. In sequel, co-accused/convict Pawan Kumar alone is to be construed to be the person who tied a rope Ex.P-1 recovered under memo Ex.PW-1/B, around the neck of the prosecutrix in consequence whereto, she, as proved by Ex.PW-5/A, suffered ligature marks on the back and the sides of her neck with a groove of about 1-1/2 c.m., which tailed of upward and laterally on the relevant portion of her neck. PW-5 has on the reverse of Ex.PW5/C underscored therein the factum of the aforesaid injuries being simple yet he has also recorded therein of the injuries sequeled by cord/rope Ex.P-1 standing tied around the neck of the prosecutrix purportedly by accused Pawan Kumar, would assume gravity, if she was hanged for a time longer than the one as stood consumed by accused/convict Pawan Kumar. Furthermore, PW-5 in his examination-in-chief has deposed of the abrasion occurring on the back and the side of the neck of the prosecutrix being not sequelable if a person tries to strangulate herself/himself with a rope. Likewise, PW-11 Dr. S.K. Soni, who prepared opinion comprised in Ex.PW11/A, has during the course of his examination-in-chief deposed therein of bilateral subconjunctval haemorrhage present in the eyes of the prosecutrix which stand depicted by him in Ex.PW11/A being sequelable by strangulation by user on the neck of the prosecutrix of a strangulatory material/item, inclusive of a rope/cord. He stood subjected to cross-examination by the learned defence counsel. However, the learned defence counsel while holding him to cross-examination has merely suggested to him of the injuries depicted in the MLCs aforesaid being not sequelable, if a person attempts to commit suicide, suggestion whereof stood disaffirmatively responded by PW-11. However, the learned defence counsel did not while continuing to hold him to cross-examination concert to put any further suggestion to PW-11 for belying his disaffirmative answer to his apposite suggestion put to him of injuries occurring around the neck of the prosecutrix being sequelable by hers attempting to commit suicide. Consequently, the defence is to be construed to be acquiescing to the factum of the injuries found occurring around the neck of the prosecutrix being a sequel to rope, Ex.P-1 standing tied around besides tightened around the neck of the prosecutrix/victim. With this Court concluding of the injuries begotten on the neck of the prosecutrix/victim being a sequel to a rope/cord standing tied around besides tightened around the neck of the prosecutrix, the concomitant ensuing inference therefrom is of with the prosecutrix in her recorded deposition on oath firmly ascribing to accused/convict Pawan Kumar an inculpatory role of his tying rope/cord, Ex.P-1 recovered under memo Ex.PW1/B around her neck, deposition whereof has remained un-belied, as apparently with the learned defence counsel while holding her to cross-examination omitting to put apposite suggestions to PW-1 qua the significant fact of accused/convict Pawan Kumar, who stood deposed by the prosecutrix in her examination-in-chief to be the person, who tied rope/cord around her neck, being neither available at the time contemporaneous to his purportedly tying rope, Ex.P-1 around her neck nor his being the person, who tied or tightened rope around her neck. In aftermath, a conjoint reading of the deposition of PW-11 wherein he repulsed the suggestion put to him by the learned defence counsel while his standing subjected to cross-examination by the defence counsel of the injuries detected around the neck of the prosecutrix being not sequelable by hers attempting to commit suicide vis-a-vis the unshattered testimony of PW-1 constituted in her examination-in-chief wherein she with firmness ascribes an inculpatory role to accused/convict Pawan Kumar of his tying rope, Ex.P-1 around her neck, gives a firm impetus to an inevitable conclusion of the prosecution succeeding to prove the charge against the accused/convict Pawan Kumar.

10. Be that as it may, the learned Senior Counsel appearing for the accused/appellants contends qua the ascription of an inclupatory role by PW-1 to accused/convict Pawan Kumar being a sequel of invention and premeditation, hence, not amenable for credence, given the factum of the occurrence standing taken place on 24.4.2006, whereas, it stood belatedly reported on 28.4.2006 by the informant/victim. He also contends of the aforesaid omission on the part of the informant to promptly report the matter to the police station concerned visits it with a vice of falsity, especially when as unraveled by the deposition of the prosecutrix of hers on 25.4.2006 when her parents visited her at her matrimonial home, hers disclosing the entire episode to them, imperatively enjoined them to promptly report the matter to the police station concerned. However, the aforesaid submission holds no vigour as the effect of delay, if any, stands shred of efficacy, if any, it holds, prominently when for reasons aforestated this Court has firmly concluded of rope, Ex.P-1 recovered under memo Ex.PW1/B being the item or strangulatory material, with user whereof evidently by the accused injuries detected respectively by both PW-5 and PW-11, on or around the neck of the prosecutrix, stood entailed thereon, also the aforesaid apposite formidable conclusion dispels the concert of the defence of the injuries found thereat being a sequel to the prosecutrix attempting to commit suicide. Contrarily, firm credence qua the testimony of PW-1 (the prosecutrix) wherein she ascribes an inculpatory role to accused Pawan Kumar is enjoined to be placed thereon.

11. Also even if in the F.I.R. lodged qua the occurrence besides in her testimony recorded on oath she ascribes to convicts/accused Desh Raj and Sandhya Devi aforesaid the role of theirs along with convict/accused Pawan Kumar tying a rope around her neck, nonetheless the aforesaid ascription of an inculpatory role to both by the prosecutrix is rendered frail in face of there occurring in her cross examination an admission of on the relevant day and time only her husband and she being present in the room. Consequently, when only both aforesaid were present at the relevant time in the room, the accused/convict Pawan Kumar alone is to be construed to be the person who tied a rope around her neck whereas with accused/convicts Desh Raj and Sandhya Devi being unavailable thereat, rendered them incapacitated to tie rope around her neck also disabled them to tie its knot around the neck of the prosecutrix, in sequel the ascription qua them by the prosecutrix an inculpatory role of theirs also tying a rope around her neck is rendered emasculated, it standing engendered by sheer concoction.

12. However, with this Court dispelling the efficacy of ascription by the prosecutrix of the aforesaid incriminatory role to co-accused/convicts Desh Raj and Sandhya Devi, the tenacity of the ascription by the prosecutrix of an incriminatory role to them, of theirs respectively ill-treating her, for hers bringing insufficient dowry to her matrimonial home, is to be tested. The imputation of the aforesaid inculpatory role by the prosecutrix to co-accused/convicts aforesaid is nebulous besides vague suffering from an inherent infirmity arising from lack of a precise narration by the prosecutrix qua the time whereat both co-accused/convicts aforesaid subjected her to ill-treatment for hers bringing insufficient dowry to her matrimonial home. Given the imprecision in timing by the prosecutrix qua the imputations made by her qua co-accused/convicts aforesaid besides omission on her part besides her parents to despite holding knowledge of the accused aforesaid subjecting her to ill-treatment for bringing insufficient dowry to her matrimonial home, report the matter either to the Panchayat or any other authority, cannot but constrain this Court to conclude of the arraying of the aforesaid by the prosecutrix being wholly imaginative, it not standing founded upon any credible evidence. Consequently, when the only surviving purported incriminatory role qua accused/convicts Desh Raj and Sandhya Devi is of theirs ill-treating her on account of hers bringing insufficient dowry to her matrimonial home, incriminatory role whereof stands discounted, the findings of conviction recorded qua them are liable to be reversed.

13. For the foregoing reasons, the instant appeal is partly allowed. Consequently, the judgment of the learned trial Court is modified. In sequel, accused Desh Raj and Sandhya are acquitted of the offences charged. However, the conviction and sentence imposed upon convict/appellant Pawan Kumar by the learned trial Court is affirmed and maintained. Records be sent back forthwith.

Case referred:

Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case241

For the Petitioner	:	Mr. G.R.Palsra, Advocate.
For the Respondent	:	Ms. Pankaj Negi, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge (Oral)

Present Criminal Revision Petition filed under Section 397/ 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, is directed against the judgment dated 13.4.2007, passed by learned Additional Judge, Mandi, H.P(Camp at Karsog) in Criminal Appeal No.27 of 2003, affirming the judgment dated 5.7.2003, passed by learned Sub Divisional Judicial Magistrate, Karsog in Police Challan No.8-II of 2003, whereby present petitioner-accused has been held guilty for having committed an offence punishable under Section 497 of IPC.

2. Briefly stated facts of the case as emerge from the record are that on 31.8.2002, complainant Bal krishan as well as Smt. Prem Dassi filed a complaint in the Court of learned Sub Divisional Judicial Magistrate, Karsog, District Mandi, HP (hereinafter referred to as "Trial Court') alleging therein that accused taking benefit of loneliness of complainant Prem Dassi had enticed and allured her by stating that her husband remains on border and can die at any time. As per complainant Bal Krishan, accused promised to marry with complainant No.2, Prem Dassi despite knowing that she is legally wife of complainant Bal Krishan. As per complaint, accused developed illicit relation with complainant Prem Dassi and this process accused committed sexual intercourse with the wife of complainant Bal Krishan. Averments contained in complaint reveals that complainant Prem Dassi is mother of three children and accused compelled her for sexual intercourse. It has been also alleged in the complaint that accused threatened complainant Prem Dassi wife of complainant Bal Krishan that in case she discloses to anybody about their relations, she would face dire consequences. As per complaint, on 29th August, 2000 when complainant Bal Krishan came on leave to his house, he was told by local people and his wife complainant Prem Dassi admitted the illicit relation with the accused. Complainant specifically prayed that accused may be punished for having committed the offence punishable under Sections 366,376,497 of Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as "IPC").

3. Learned trial Court taking cognizance of the complaint vide order dated 31st August, 2002 held that the complaint discloses commission of cognizable offence and, as such, he sent the same to the SHO Police Station, Karsog under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C for investigation. Record further reveals that the police after investigating the matter came to the conclusion that no offence under Sections 366 and 376 of IPC exist against the accused and accordingly, a case under Section 497 of IPC was registered against the accused on the allegations contained in the complaint, which was admittedly signed by complainant Bal Krishan and his wife Prem Dassi.

4. As per the prosecution, when matter was investigated on the complaint of complainant, it was found in the statement of the complainant Prem Dassi that accused used to visit her house and they had developed illicit relation. It also emerges from the record of the investigation that their relations were limited to the room of complainant Prem Dassi. Police before conducting the case under section 497 of IPC, concluded that accused with the consent of complainant Prem Dassi developed illicit relation and to substantiate aforesaid conclusion, police also recorded the statements of the witnesses Ramu Ram(PW-3), Sudesh Kumar(PW-4) and Kumari Poonam, wherein they stated that accused used to visit the house of complainant Prem Dassi oftenly. Police on the basis of the investigation carried out by it, presented the challan in the competent Court of law for convicting the accused for having committed the offence punishable under Section 497 of IPC.

5. Learned trial Court after satisfying itself that a prima facie case exist against the accused, framed charge under Section 497 of IPC against him, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. It also reveals from the record that prosecution with a view to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt examined as many as six witnesses and learned trial Court also recorded the statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C

6. Learned trial Court after appreciating the material evidence available on record held the present petitioner-accused guilty of having committed the offence punishable under section 497 of IPC and vide judgment/order dated 5.7.2003 sentenced him with fine of Rs. 3000/- for the offence punishable under section 497 of IPC, in default of payment of fine, further to undergo simple imprisonment for one month.

7. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the impugned judgment of conviction passed by learned trial Court below, present petitioner-accused filed an appeal under Section 374 of the Code of Criminal Procedure in the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge, Mandi H.P, vide Cr. Appeal No.27 of 2003, which was dismissed by learned Additional Sessions Judge on 13.4.2007, Hence, the present criminal revision petition before this Court.

8. Mr. G.R. Palsra, learned counsel representing the petitioner vehemently argued that the judgments passed by both the Courts below convicting the accused for having committed the offence punishable under section 497 IPC are not sustainable in the eyes of law as same are not based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence available on record. He also contended that the judgments passed by the learned Courts below are against law and facts on record, which have been passed ignoring the basic principle and ingredients of section 198(2) Cr.P.C as well as Section 497 IPC and as such, great prejudice has been caused to the petitioner-accused. He forcibly contended that both the Courts below have fallen in grave error by not appreciating that the trial Court had no power whatsoever, to take cognizance of the case since challan was put in the Court by the police after investigation relating to the offence under section 497 IPC. As per Mr. Palsra, the Magistrate has only power if the complaint is presented to him and after recording the statement of the complainant, the complaint is further forwarded for investigation. He also contended that the judgment passed by both the Courts below deserves to be quashed and set-aside on the ground that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove on record the factum of marriage between complainants Bal Krishan and Prem Dassi, which is primary requirement of Section 497 IPC. He submitted that for want of sufficient evidence in support of legal marriage, no conviction could be made under section 497 IPC. During arguments, he also invited the attention of the Court towards the statements given by the prosecution witnesses as well as record made available during the trial of the case to demonstrate that there are major contradiction in the statements of prosecution witnesses and same could not be relied upon by the Courts below while convicting the accused-petitioner. He forcibly contended that both the Courts below have ignored the most important fact that the children of the complainant Prem Dassi were neither cited as prosecution witness nor examined, especially when as per prosecution story, during the time of sexual intercourse, these children woke up and saw the scene. He also contended that no independent witness, whatsoever, was associated by the prosecution and as such, deposition, if any, made by interested parties could not be looked into by the Courts below while convicting the present petitioner-accused under section 497 of IPC. Lastly, Mr. Palsra, learned counsel raised question of maintainability of complaint Ex.PW1/A filed by the complainants namely Bal Krishan and Prem Dassi. As per Mr. Palsra, learned counsel representing the petitioner that bare perusal of complaint Ex.PW1/A suggest that same has been filed by the husband and wife i.e. Bal Krishan and Prem Dassi complainant. He strenuously argued that once an attempt was made to implicate the present petitioner-accused by complainant Bal Krishan on the ground of adultery there was no occasion, whatsoever, for complainant Prem Dassi to sign the complaint, who admittedly as per the version of PW-1 i.e. husband was a consenting party to the adultery, if any. In the aforesaid background, Mr. Palsra, learned counsel prayed for quashing and setting aside of the judgment of conviction passed by the both Courts below.

9. Mr. Pankaj Negi, learned Deputy Advocate General appearing on behalf of the respondent-State supported the judgments passed by both the Courts below and submitted that no interference, whatsoever, of this Court is warranted in the present facts and circumstances of the case. He contended that the judgments passed by both the Courts below are based on proper appreciation of evidence available on record and as such, same deserves to be up held. While refuting all the submissions as well as grounds set up in the criminal revision petition, learned Deputy Advocate General, strenuously argued that there is ample evidence on record to suggest that accused repeatedly committed sexual intercourse with the complainant Prem Dassi against her wishes and, as such, he has been rightly convicted by the learned Court below. In his attempt to persuade this Court to maintain the conviction passed by the learned trial Court below, Mr. Negi, learned Deputy Advocate General made this Court to travel through the statements of the witnesses as well as record of learned trial Court to demonstrate that how accused took undue advantage of the absence of husband of complainant Prem Dassi and allured her to have sexual intercourse with him. Lastly, Mr. Negi, learned Deputy Advocate General, reminded the Court of its limited jurisdiction under Section 397 Cr.P.C and prayed that while exercising its power under section 397 Cr.P.C, this Court has no power to re-appreciate the evidence available on record, especially when it clearly stands proved on record that both the Courts below have meticulously dealt with the each and every aspect of the matter.

10. I have heard the learned counsel representing the parties and have carefully gone through the record made available.

11. Mr. Pankaj Negi, learned Deputy Advocate General while advancing his arguments on behalf of the respondent-State specifically raised the issue of limited jurisdiction of this Court under Section 397 Cr.P.C, but in the present case where during arguments having been made by the learned counsel for the parties, petitioner-accused has been able to point out the material discrepancies/ contradictions and discrepancies in the statements made by the prosecution witnesses, this Court solely view a view to ascertain that the judgment passed by both the Courts below are based upon correct appreciation of evidence available on record and same are not perverse, undertook an exercise to critically examine the witnesses to reach just and fair decision. Apart from above, specific question with regard to the maintainability of complaint purportedly filed under Section 497 of IPC has also been taken by the petitioner-accused and this Court after perusing the complaint deem it fit in the given facts and circumstances of the case to critically analysis the evidence.

12. True, it is that this Court has very limited powers under Section 397 of Criminal Procedure Code while exercising its revisionary jurisdiction. But in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case, it would be apt and in the interest of justice to critically examine the evidence available on record that too solely with a view to ascertain that judgments passed by learned Courts below are not perverse and same are based on correct appreciation of evidence on record.

13. As far as scope of power of this Court while exercising revisionary jurisdiction under Section 397 is concerned, the Hon' ble Apex Court in Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another*, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case241; has held that in case Court notices that there is a failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/incorrectness committed by inferior criminal Court in its judicial process or illegality or sentence or order. The relevant para of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> "8. The object of Section 483 and the purpose behind conferring the revisional power under Section 397 read with Section 401, upon the High Court is to invest continuous supervisory jurisdiction so as to prevent miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularity of the procedure or to mete out justice. In addition, the inherent power of the High Court is preserved by Section 482. The power of the High Court, therefore, is very wide. However, the High Court must exercise such power sparingly and cautiously when the Sessions Judge has simultaneously exercised revisional power under Section 397(1). However, when the High Court notices that there has been failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is but the salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/ incorrectness committed by inferior criminal Court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order."

14. Since Mr. G.R.Palsra, learned counsel during his arguments specifically invited the attention of this Court to complaint Ex.PW1/A filed by the complainant Bal Krishan and Prem Dassi to demonstrate that the complaint is not maintainable under Section 497 of IPC against the accused as the same has been signed by Prem Dassi wife of complainant Bal Krishan alongwith complainant i.e. husband. It would be appropriate for this Court to examine the issue of maintainability at first instance before adverting to the merits of the case.

15. After perusing the complaint Ex.PW1/A filed by complainant Bal Krishan as well as his wife Smt. Prem Dassi it clearly emerge that complainant filed the complaint against the accused in the Court of learned Sub Divisional Judicial Magistrate, Karsog on the pretext that the complainant Bal Krishan was serving in Indian Army in the border and his wife Smt.Prem Dassi is his legally wedded wife and out of their wedlock three children were born.Careful perusal of the complaint suggest that it has been alleged that complainant Bal Kirshan being soldier in Indian Army remains away from his house for the security of the borders of the nation and the accused taking advantage of loneliness of his wife Prem Dassi enticed and allured her by stating that her husband remains on border and can die at any time. It is also alleged in the complaint that accused despite knowing that Prem Dassi is legally wedded wife of complainant Bal Krishan developed illicit relation and committed sexual intercourse with her. If the complaint Ex.PW1/A is read in its entirety, it can be inferred that basic allegation of the complainant is that accused despite knowing that Prem Dassi is the legally wedded wife of the complainant Bal Krishan developed illicit relation and committed sexual intercourse with her. Further perusal of the complaint suggests that a prayer has been made to punish the accused for having committed the offence punishable under Sections 366,376, 497 of IPC.

16. Careful perusal of the allegations made in the complaint, nowhere suggests the commission of offence punishable under section 366 and 376 of IPC. Interestingly, aforesaid complaint Ex.PW1/A is made on behalf of husband and wife as the same has been signed by both of them. At this stage, it may be noticed that police after investigation concluded that no case, if any, exist against the accused under Sections 366,376 of IPC and as such, on the basis of the complaint Ex.PW1/A, FIR was registered against the accused under Section 497 of IPC. In the aforesaid background, only question, which requires determination of this Court is whether complaint Ex.PW1/A can be held to be maintainable against the accused under Section 497 of IPC when admittedly complaint is filed by husband and wife jointly by appending their signatures on the complaint.

17. As has been observed above, plain reading of complaint does not disclose the offence, if any, under Sections 366 and 376 of IPC against the accused but he could be charged under section 497 of IPC on the basis of the averments contained in complaint Ex.PW1/A. But once police after investigating the matter on the basis of the complaint lodged by the complainant came to the conclusion that there are no grounds to proceed against the accused under sections 366 and 376 of IPC, it can be concluded that complaint Ex.PW1/A filed by the complainant against the accused was only for committing offence under section 497 of IPC.

18. Now at this stage, very interesting question, which arise for determination of Court is that whether the complaint for having committed offence under Section 497 of IPC can be entertained by any Court of law when it is signed by the both wife and husband. At this stage, it would be apt to reproduce the provision of section 497 of IPC:-

"497. Adultery:- Whoever has sexual intercourse with a person who is and whom he knows or has reason to believe to be wife of another man, without the consent or connivance of that man, such sexual intercourse not amounting to the offence of rape, is guilty of the offence of adultery, and shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to five years, or with fine, or with both. I such case the wife shall not be punishable as an abettor".

19. Bare reading of Section 497 IPC suggest that complaint, if any, for punishing the person for having sexual intercourse with the wife of another man knowingly well that she is the wife of another man, can only be filed by the husband and definitely not by woman with whom accused person had sexual intercourse without the consent or connivance of husband of that lady.

20. In the present case, admittedly wife of complainant Bal Krishan is complainant alongwith his husband as she has also signed that complaint filed before the learned Sub-Divisional Judicial Magistrate, Karsog. It is undisputed that complainants in their complaint had initially prayed for punishing the accused under Section 497 , 366, 376 of IPC but as has been observed above, perusal of the complaint, nowhere suggest that offence under sections 366,376 of IPC is made out against the accused, rather averments contained in the complaint suggest that accused despite knowing that Prem Dassi is legally wedded wife of the complainant Bal Krishan had developed illicit relation with her and committed sexual intercourse on several occasions. It is the own case of the complainant as well as prosecution that taking advantage of loneliness, accused had enticed and allured her by giving false promise to marry her and committed sexual intercourse. It is specifically averred in the plaint that accused promised wife of the complainant to marry and then indulged in sexual intercourse meaning thereby wife of the complainant was consenting party to the sexual intercourse, if any, committed by the accused. But at this juncture, Court perused the averments contained in the complaint solely with a view to ascertain whether the complaint filed and signed by both husband and wife alleging therein adultery, which punishable under section 497 IPC, is maintainable or not. After perusing provision as contained under Section 497 IPC as well as averments contained in the complaint, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that once police had concluded that no prima-facie case exist against the accused under Sections 366 and 376 IPC, complaint, if any, filed by the complainant and his wife could only be construed to be filed under section 497 of IPC against the accused. But in the present case, where admittedly wife of the complainant signed the complaint along with husband praying therein for punishing the accused under section 497 IPC, consequently very character of the complaint has changed and same is not maintainable under Section 497 IPC.

21. After perusing the provision contained in section 497 IPC, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that by signing complaint alongwith husband, wherein specific prayer was made to punish the accused under section 497 IPC, entire proceedings conducted on the basis of the aforesaid complaint stands vitiated. Once wife of the complainant joined her husband in filing the complaint under section 497 IPC, very character of the complaint gets changed and same cannot be considered to be filed under section 497 IPC, in any manner. Section 497 of IPC only authorize husband to file complaint against the person, who commits sexual intercourse with his wife against his wishes. But in the present case wife of the complainant husband joined him in filing complaint and alleges that accused had developed illicit relation and thereafter committed sexual intercourse against her wishes by threatening that in the event of any disclosure made by her, he would kill her children. Accordingly, this Court after perusing the complaint Ex.PW1/A as well as statements recorded during the trial, is of the definite view that complaint, if any, made against the accused for having committed offence under section 497 of IPC, signed by husband and wife both is not maintainable and petitioner-accused could not be proceeded in any court of law on the basis of complaint Ex.PW1/A. Moreover, at the cost of repetition, it is again highlighted that bare perusal of complaint as well as her statement recorded during the trial clearly suggest that she was a consenting party to the alleged sexual intercourse committed by the accused. Since this Court after perusing the complaint Ex.PW1/A and bare perusal of law contained under section 497 IPC has come to the conclusion that complaint Ex.PW1/A filed against the accused under section 497 IPC is/was not maintainable, there is no occasion to examine the case on merits and the judgment passed by learned Court below could be dismissed solely for the reasons stated hereinabove. But this Court keeping in view the allegations made in the complaint as well as offence with which the accused has been charged, deem it proper to examine the case on merits. This Court while exploring necessary answer to basic question of maintainability, as has been answered above, had an occasion to peruse the statements made by the prosecution witnesses.

22. In the present case, prosecution with a view to prove its case examined as many as six witnesses. Complainant Bal Krishan examined himself as PW-1 and deposed that he is serving in the Army. In his statement it has come that accused promised her wife to marry her and maintain her children and when his wife did not accede to his allurement and promise, he threatened to kill her as well as her children. As per the statement of PW-1, accused committed sexual intercourse with his wife on the point of knife. He also stated in his examination-in-chief that due to fear her wife did not disclose aforesaid fact to anybody and when on 15.8.2002 he inquired from his landlord Ramu Ram (PW-3) and Sudesh Kumar (PW-4), they also told him that they saw the accused in the room of his wife. In his cross-examination, PW-1 categorically admitted that he saw the accused first time in the Court. Careful perusal of the statement given by this witness suggest/indicate that wife of the complainant was a consenting party to the sexual intercourse, if any, by the accused. Though, it has been stated by PW-1 that when his wife did not accede to the allurement and promise given by the accused, accused threatened to kill her and her children and committed sexual intercourse on the point of knife. But at this stage, it remains unexplained that if wife of the complainant Bal Krishan was forced to commit sexual intercourse at the point of knife what prevented her to raise hue and cry, rather none of the prosecution witnesses i.e landlord Ramu Ram and Sudesh Kumar nowhere stated that they ever heard any hue and cry raised by the complainant. They simply stated that they saw the accused in the room of his wife.

23. PW-2, Prem Dassi, who is also complainant in the present case alongwith husband, stated that her husband is serving in Army and she is residing alongwith her children at Karsog for the last five years. It has come in her statement that one day, she was sleeping in her room at about 10:30 PM she saw accused standing outside then she called her landlord Ramu Ram. It has also come in her statement that landlord asked her to vacate his house on the pretext of maintenance and thereafter she took the house on rent from Sudesh Kumar. She stated in her statement that after six months, accused visited his house and entered in the room without any alarm or without her permission. When complainant inquired from the accused why he had entered in the house without permission, then accused replied he had come to tell her about her husband. As per statement of PW-2, thereafter accused told that her husband is serving in Indian Army. It has also come in the statement that accused asked to marry him as her husband is serving in the Army and by showing knife to her forcibly committed sexual intercourse with her. It has also come in her statement that accused forcibly committed sexual intercourse with her and threatened her to do away her life if she disclosed to the police or any other person. It has specifically come in the statement of PW-2 that accused keep on committing sexual intercourse with her against her wishes. It has also come in the statement that when her husband came on leave, then they filed complaint Ex.PW1/A against the accused.

24. In cross-examination, PW-2 admitted that she was residing alongwith her three children in one room. Now, if the deposition made by PW-2 in her examination-in-chief is examined in view of the deposition made by her in her cross-examination where she stated that she used to reside with her three children in one room story put forth by her appears to be unbelievable because as per her version, accused came to her house at 10:30 PM and by showing knife committed sexual intercourse with her. PW-2, admitted that she resided with her children in one room, story of forcible sexual intercourse put forth by her does not appears to be trustworthy. It can be presumed that at 10:30 PM in night children must be in the room when accused allegedly came and on the point of knife and committed sexual intercourse. At this juncture, it remains unexplained that where were children when accused forcibly committed sexual intercourse with her and if they were there why did not they raise any alarm. But in the present case, there is nothing in the statement of PW-2 and PW-1 to suggest that children, who were presumably present in the room when accused entered in the room at 10:30 PM as well as PW-2, raised any alarm.

25. Another story put forth by PW-2 that the accused kept on committing sexual intercourse with her against her wishes by giving/ extending threats to kill her as well as her children does not appear to be plausible/ trustworthy. Had PW-2 narrated the incident to anybody with regard to forcible committing of sexual intercourse with her, this Court would have lent some credence to the same but in the present case story put forth by PW-2 does not appear to be worth lending any credence and same deserves o be rejected out rightly. It has been also not explained why three school going children were not cited as prosecution witness to substantiate the allegations made by PW-1 as well as PW-2 in their complaint against the accused.

26. As far as another prosecution witnesses namely Ramu Ram(PW-3) and Sudesh Kumar(PW-4) are concerned they have only stated that they had objected the visit of accused to the house of the complainant Prem Dassi and warned her to file complaint against the accused before the police. In his cross-examination, PW-3 stated that he got the room vacated from Prem Devi on the pretext that he is also having younger daughter in his house. PW-4, Sudesh Kumar also not supported the case of the prosecution and stated that he saw the accused visiting the house of complainant Prem Dassi. But in cross-examination, he admitted that Prem Dassi is residing in one room alongwith her three children. Careful perusal of the statements of PW-3 and PW-4, nowhere suggest that they had any hint whatsoever with regard to the aforesaid illicit relation, if any, developed between the accused and complainant Prem Dassi. They nowhere stated on oath that they heard any hue and cry made by the complainant, rather it has come in cross-examination of PW-3 that he asked Prem Dassi to vacate his room on the pretext that he is also having younger daughter in his house, meaning thereby he was not approved of the conduct of the complainant Prem Dassi. Factum with regard to PW-2 living in one room along with her children also stands proved with the admission made by PW-4 in his cross-examination.

27. PW-6, Nain Singh, investigating officer also stated that on completion of the investigation, no offence under Sections 366 and 376 of IPC was made out against the accused and only offence punishable under section 497 of IPC was made out against the accused. In his cross-examination, he admitted that complainant Prem Dassi had not given the statement that accused had committed sexual intercourse on the point of knife. PW-6, also admitted in his cross-examination that Prem Dassi had given the statement that accused has committed sexual intercourse with her consent and has also admitted in his cross-examination that Prem Dassi has not given any statement regarding committing of sexual intercourse with her by the accused.

28. Conjoint reading of statements given by the prosecution witnesses, nowhere suggest that the accused had ever developed relation with PW-2 against her wishes, rather there is overwhelming evidence on the record to suggest that PW-2 was a consenting party to the sexual intercourse allegedly committed by the accused. None of the prosecution witnesses other than PW-1 and PW-2 have stated anything with regard to illicit relation as well as sexual intercourse allegedly having committed by the accused. Since police after conducting the investigation concluded that no case/offence under sections 366 and 376 of IPC exist against the accused, this Court find does find it proper in the given facts and circumstances of the case to explore whether the accused could be held guilty for having committing the offence punishable under Sections 366 and 376 of IPC on the basis of the material available on record. But this Court after perusing the evidence available on record is of the view that there are lot of contradictions and inconsistencies in the statements given by PW-1 and PW-2 and deposition made by them are not worth lending any credence. PW-2 with whom accused allegedly committed sexual intercourse against the wishes of her husband has been not specific and candid in alleging something against the accused, rather she changed her statements very quickly during examination-in-chief as well as cross-examination. Careful perusal of statement made by her, nowhere suggest that the same is truthful and worth giving any weight age. Accordingly, this Court after examining the record made available to it, is of the view that accused petitioner could not be held guilty of having committed the offence punishable under section 497 IPC on the basis of the evidence adduced on record by the prosecution, rather it appears that Courts below merely by seeing the statement of PW-2 complainant swayed in emotions and without analyzing the statements to ascertain the genuineness of the story put forth by the prosecution, came to the conclusion that accused is guilty of having committed the offence punishable under section 497 IPC. Hence, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that both the Courts below have erred in holding that the accused committed the offence under section 497 IPC. Consequently, in view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court is of the view that the judgment passed by both the Courts below deserves to be quashed and set-aside as the same are not based on correct appreciation of evidence available on record. Moreover, as has been discussed in detail, both the Courts below have erred in entertaining the complaint admittedly filed by both husband and wife against the accused for punishing him under section 497 of IPC. No complaint could be filed jointly by husband and wife for punishing accused under Section 497 of IPC

29. In totality of the facts and circumstances of the present case, I have no hesitation to conclude that the judgment passed by both Courts below are not based on the correct appreciation of the evidence available on record and hence the same is quashed and set-aside. Accused is acquitted of the charge. His bails bonds are discharged. The fine amount, if any deposited by the petitioner-accused be refunded to him.

The present criminal revision stands disposed of, so also pending application(s), if any.

Cases referred:
Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai vs. State of Gujarat, AIR 1983 SC 753, Karamjit Singh vs. State (Delhi Administration), AIR 2003 SC 1311

For the appellant: Mr. Ramesh Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This appeal is instituted against the judgment dated 24.11.2015, rendered by the learned Special Judge, Kullu, H.P., in Sessions trial No. 57/2014, whereby the appellant-accused (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who was charged with and tried for offence punishable under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the ND & PS Act), has been convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a term of ten years along with fine of Rs. 1,00,000/- and in default of payment of fine, he was further ordered to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of one year.

2. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that on 22.4.2014 as per rapat No. 15(A), the police team headed by ASI Rajesh Kumar (PW-9) proceeded for nakabandi towards Bajaura at about 9:45 AM. When the team was present at Bajaura, a Punjab Roadways bus, bearing No. PB-12Q-9963 reached at Check Post. It was enroute from Manali to Chandigarh. It was being driven by Jasbir Singh and its conductor was Harjit Singh (PW-3). The bus was stopped for checking. ASI Rajesh Kumar (IO) along with HC Hitesh (PW-8) and Conductor Harjit Singh (PW-3) entered the bus from rear door. The driver was also called. They started checking the luggage of the passengers. On checking, accused was found sitting on seat No. 22 in the bus. He was carrying black colour bag on his lap. Accused got frightened on seeing the police party. On asking about the contents of the bag, accused could not give satisfactory reply. He was called out of the bus along with the bag. The IO in the presence of witnesses gave his personal search to accused and during his personal search nothing incriminating was found. Thereafter, the bag carried by the accused was searched by the IO and on search, three packets wrapped with cello tape were found in the bag. On opening the packets, black colour substance in the shape of balls was recovered which was found to be charas. It weighed 2.500 kgs. Out of the recovered charas, sample of 25 grams was separated which was packed in a cloth parcel and sealed with three seals of letter "T". The remaining bulk charas was separately packed and sealed in another cloth parcel by putting eight seals of letter "T". Bag was separately packed and sealed in third parcel. Samples of seal "T" were drawn. NCB form in triplicate was filled vide Ext. PW-5/D. Thereafter, IO prepared rukka Ext. PW-8/A and sent to the Police Station Bhuntar, on the basis of which FIR Ext. PW-6/A was registered. The case property was produced before PW-7 SI Lal Singh, who resealed the same with seal "D". He filled in the relevant columns of NCB form. The case property along with the documents was deposited with PW-5 MHC Gian Chand. He made entry in the malkhana register. On 23.4.2014, PW-5 MHC Gian Chand sent the same to FSL Junga. The report of the FSL is Ext. PW-7/B. The investigation was completed and the challan was put up before the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as nine witnesses. The accused was also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. According to him, he was falsely implicated. The learned trial Court convicted the accused, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. Ramesh Sharma, Advocate, has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused. On the other hand, Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. Advocate General for the State has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 24.11.2015.

5. We have heard the learned counsel for both the sides and have also gone through the judgment and records of the case carefully.

6. PW-2 HHC Thakur Singh testified that he remained posted in Police Station Bhuntar from November, 2013 to May, 2014. On 23.4.2014, MHC Gian Chand gave him one sealed parcel sealed with eight seals of "T" and four seals of "D", NCB form in triplicate, recovery memo, copy of FIR, sample seals "T" and "D" vide RC No. 93/2014 for depositing in FSL, Junga. On 24.4.2014, he deposited the same at FSL Junga under receipt.

7. PW-3 Harjit Singh, Conductor testified that on 22.4.2014, he was deputed in bus bearing No. PB-12Q-9963 with Jasbir Singh driver to cater Manali Chandigarh bus service. At about 9:45 AM, their bus was stopped by the police at Bajaura check post for checking. There were about 15-20 passengers in the bus. The passengers were directed to get their luggage checked. One person was sitting at seat No. 22. He was asked about his luggage and he told that the bag belonged to him. The person had kept the luggage on his legs. The bag was checked. The police took that person and bag to a tent at check post. He along with the driver also accompanied the police. The person disclosed his identity. The bag was found to be containing three packets which were taped from outside. On opening the tapes, black coloured substance in the shape of small balls was recovered. It was found to be charas. It weighed 2.500 kgs. The police separated 25 grams of substance from the bulk and sealed it in a cloth parcel. The remaining substance was packed in a cloth parcel and sealed. The bag was packed and sealed in third parcel. The police prepared some documents. The bus ticket of the person was obtained from him. The police took those parcels to the Police Station. Thereafter, they left for Chandigarh on the same route. He admitted his signatures on Ext. PW-3/A as well as signatures of driver Jasbir Singh. He also admitted his signatures on Ext. PW-3/B. The ticket issued to the accused is Ext. PW-3/G and the photocopy of the same is Ext. PW-3/H. In his cross-examination, he admitted that ticket Ext. PW-3/G did not bear the name of the accused. The bus started from Manali at 7:25 AM. There were shops and residential houses near the check post. The police did not send any person in his presence to search for independent witnesses. The bag was not opened inside the bus. It was lifted and touched by the police and then the accused was asked to come down along with the bag. It took around 1 ½ hours for the police to complete the proceedings.

8. PW-5 MHC Gian Chand testified that he was working as MHC in the Police Station Bhuntar. He brought the malkhana and RC register of the Police Station. On 22.4.2014, SHO Lal Chand deposited three sealed parcels with him. The first parcel was sealed with eight seals of seal “T”, four seals of “D” and stated to be containing 2.475 kgs. of charas. The second parcel was sealed with three seals of “T” and three seals of “D” stated to be containing 25 grams of charas. The third parcel was sealed with eight seals of “T” and stated to be containing a pithu bag. He also deposited copies of FIR, recovery memo, samples of seal “T” and “D”, NCB form in triplicate. He made entries at Sr. No. 129 of the malkhana register vide Ext. PW-5/Aon 23.4.2014, he sent one parcel containing 2.475 kgs of charas to FSL Junga along with sample seals “T” and “D”, copies of recovery memo, FIR, NCB form in triplicate and docket through HHC Thakur Singh for examination. As long as the case property remained in his possession, no tampering was done with the same.

9. PW-7 SI Lal Chand deposed that on 22.4.2014 ASI Rajesh Kumar produced the case property before him duly sealed containing 2.475 kgs of charas and another sealed parcel stated to be containing 25 grams of charas. He resealed the same with his own seal “D”. He deposited the case property with the MHC.

10. PW-8 HC Hitesh Kumar deposed the manner in which the accused was apprehended from the bus sitting on seat No. 22. The search, seizure and sealing proceedings were completed on the spot. In his cross-examination, he admitted that surrounding TCP Bajaura, there were residential houses and shops. The IO did not make any efforts to call for local witnesses from such houses and shops. The personal search of the accused was undertaken.

11. PW-9 ASI Rajesh Kumar also deposed the manner in which the accused was apprehended. NCB form in triplicate was filled in by him. He prepared rukka Ext. PW-8/A. It was sent to the Police Station through HC Hitesh Kumar. He prepared the spot map Ext. PW-9/A. He handed over the case property to SHO in the Police Station. In his cross-examination, he deposed that no one else was sitting by the side of the accused. The passengers were sitting in the front and back seat on which the accused was sitting. He admitted that there were houses and shops surrounding TCP Bajaura. Thousands of vehicles used to ply day and night on the National Highway No. 21. He did not try to associate any person from the locality at the time of search nor did he try to stop any vehicle in order to associate occupants of the vehicles. He tried to associate passengers of the bus but no one was willing, as they said that they were going in connection with their important work. According to him, the bus remained at the spot till 2:00 PM. The passengers of the bus had gone by that time.

12. The prosecution has examined PW-3 Harjit Singh, PW-8 HC Hitesh Kumar and PW-9 ASI Rajesh Kumar in order to prove its case. PW-3 Harjit Singh is the conductor of the bus bearing No. PB-12Q-9963. He has categorically testified in his statement that the accused was sitting on seat No. 22 of the bus. He was asked about the luggage, which he admitted that it belonged to him. The person had kept the luggage on his legs. He has identified his signatures on memos and that of driver Jasbir Singh. PW-8 HC Hitesh Kumar and PW-9 ASI Rajesh Kumar are official witnesses. They have supported the case of the prosecution to the hilt. The prosecution has proved that the accused was issued ticket by PW-3 Conductor Harjit Singh vide Ext. PW-3/G. The I.O. has associated PW-3 Conductor Harjit Singh as independent witness. PW-3 Conductor Harjit Singh had no inimical disposition towards the accused.

13. PW-9 ASI Rajesh Kumar has deposed that he has tried to associate the passengers of the bus as witnesses but they were not willing to be associated as witnesses. Merely that in memo Ext. PW-3/B, FIR number has not been written would not in any manner prejudice the case of the accused. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot. The samples were properly sealed. The case property was produced before PW-7 SI Lal Singh. He resealed the same and deposited it with the MHC. PW-5 MHC Gian Chand has made necessary entry in the malkhana register and the case property was thereafter sent to FSL, Junga. The report of the FSL, Junga is Ext. PW-7/B. The case property remained in safe custody from its seizure till its production in the Court and it was the same case property which was recovered from the accused.

14. According to PW-3 Conductor Harjit Singh, they left Bajaura with bus at 11:15 AM and PW-9 ASI Rajesh Kumar has deposed that the bus remained at the spot till 2:00 PM. It is a minor contradiction since the accused was apprehended on 22.4.2014 and the statements of PW-3 Conductor Harjit Singh and PW-9 ASI Rajesh Kumar were recorded on 20.11.2014 and 9.10.2015, respectively. The witnesses are not supposed to remember the time with mathematical precision.

15. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai vs. State of Gujarat, reported in AIR 1983 SC 753, have held that over much importance cannot be given to minor discrepancies. Discrepancies which do not go to the root of the matter and shake the basic version of the witnesses, therefore, cannot be annexed with undue importance. More so, when the all important "probabilities-factor" echoes in favour of the version narrated by the witnesses. It has been held as follows:

> " 5. It appears that the parents of P.W. 1 as well as parents of P.W. 2 wanted to hush up the matter. Some unexpected developments however forced the issue. The residents of the locality somehow came to know about the incident. And an alert Woman Social Worker, P.W. 5 Kundanben, President of the Mahila Mandal in Sector 17, Gandhinagar, took up the cause. She felt indignant at the way in which the appellant had misbehaved with two girls of the age of his own daughter, who also happened to be friends of his daughter, taking advantage of their helplessness, when no one else was present. Having ascertained from P.W. 1 and P.W. 2 as to what had transpired, she felt that the appellant should atone for his infamous conduct. She therefore called on the appellant at his house. It appears that about 500 women of the locality had also gathered near the house of the appellant. Kundanben requested the appellant to apologize publicly in the presence of the woman who had assembled there. If the appellant had acceded to . this request possibly the matter might have rested there and might not have come to the court. The appellant, however, made it a prestige issue and refused to apologize. Thereupon the police was contacted and a complaint was lodged by P.W. 1 on 19 Sept. 1975. P.W. 1 was then sent to the Medical officer for medical examination. The medical examination disclosed that there was evidence to show that an attempt to commit rape on her had been made a few days back. The Sessions Court as well as the High Court have accepted the evidence and concluded that the appellant was guilty of sexual misbehavior with P.W. 1 and P.W. 2 in the manner alleged by the prosecution and established by the evidence of P.W. 1 and P.W. 2. Their evidence has been considered to be worthy of acceptance lt is a pure. finding of fact recorded by the Sessions Court and affirmed by the High Court. Such a concurrent finding of fact cannot be reopened in an appeal by special leave unless it is established: (1) that the finding is based on no evidence or (2) that the finding is perverse, it being such as no reasonable person could have arrived at even if the evidence was taken at its face value or (3) the finding is based and built on inadmissible evidence, which evidence, if excluded from vision, would negate the prosecution case or substantially discredit or impair it or (43 some vital piece of evidence which would tilt the balance in favour of the convict has been overlooked, disregarded, or wrongly discarded. The present is not a case of such a nature. The finding of guilt recorded by the Sessions Court as affirmed by the High Court has been challenged mainly on the basis of minor discrepancies in the evidence. We do not consider it appropriate or permissible to enter upon a reappraisal or reappreciation of the evidence in the context of the minor discrepancies painstakingly highlighted by learned counsel for the appellant. Over much importance cannot be attached to minor discrepancies. The reasons are obvious:

> (1) By and large a witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident. It is not as if a video tape is replayed on the mental screen. (2) ordinarily it so happens that a witness is overtaken by events. The witness could not have anticipated the occurrence which so often has an element of surprise. The mental faculties therefore cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb the details.
> (3) The powers of observation differ from person to person. What one may notice, another may not. An object or movement might emboss its image on one person's mind whereas it might go unnoticed on the part of another. (4) By and large people cannot accurately recall a conversation and reproduce the very words used by them or heard by them. They can only recall the main purport of the conversation. It is unrealistic to expect a witness to be a human tape recorder.
>
> (5) In regard to exact time of an incident, or the time duration of an occurrence, usually, people make their estimates by guess work on the spur of the moment 1.1 at the time of interrogation. And one cannot expect people to make very precise or reliable estimates in such matters. Again, it depends on the time- sense of individuals which varies from person to person.
> (6) Ordinarily a witness cannot be expected to recall accurately the sequence of events which take place in rapid succession or in a short time span. A witness is liable to get confused, or mixed up when interrogated later on.

(7) A witness, though wholly truthful, is liable to be overawed by the court atmosphere and the piercing cross examination made by counsel and out of nervousness mix up facts, get confused regarding sequence of events, or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment. The sub-conscious mind of the witness sometimes so operates on account of the fear of looking foolish or being disbelieved though the witness is giving a truthful and honest account of the occurrence witnessed by him-Perhaps it is a sort of a psychological defence mechanism activated on the spur of the moment.

6. Discrepancies which do not go to the root of the matter and shake the basic version of the witnesses therefore cannot be annexed with undue importance. More so when the all important "probabilities-factor" echoes in favour of the version narrated by the witnesses."

16. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Karamjit Singh vs. State (Delhi Administration), reported in AIR 2003 SC 1311, have held that there is no principle of law that without corroboration by independent witnesses their testimony cannot be relied upon. Presumption that person acts honestly applies as much in favour of police personnel as of other persons. It has been held as follows:

" 8. Shri Sinha, learned senior counsel for the appellant, has vehemently urged that all the witnesses of recovery examined by the prosecution are police personnel and in absence of any public witness, their testimony alone should not be held sufficient for sustaining the conviction of the appellant. In our opinion the contention raised is too broadly stated and cannot be accepted. The testimony of police personnel should be treated in the same manner as testimony of any other witness and there is no principle of law that without corroboration by independent witnesses their testimony cannot be relied upon. The presumption that a person acts honestly applies as much in favour of police personnel as of other persons and it is not a proper judicial approach to distrust and suspect them without good grounds. It will all depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and no principle of general application can be laid down. PW11 Pratap Singh has clearly stated in the opening part of his examination-in-chief that ACP Shakti Singh asked some public witnesses to accompany them but they showed their unwillingness. PW10 Rajinder Prasad, SI has given similar statement and has deposed that despite their best efforts no one from public was willing to join the raiding party due to the fear of the terrorists. Exactly similar statement has been given by PW9 R.D. Pandey. We should not forget that the incident took place in November 1990, when terrorism was at its peak in Punjab and neighbouring areas. The ground realities cannot be lost sight of that even in normal circumstances members of public are very reluctant to accompany a police party which is going to arrest a criminal or is embarking upon search of some premises. At the time when the terrorism was at its peak, it is quite natural for members of public to have avoided getting involved in a police operation for search or arrest of a person having links with terrorists. It is noteworthy that during the course of the cross- examination of the witness the defence did not even give any suggestion as to why they were falsely deposing against the appellant. There is absolutely no material or evidence on record to show that the prosecution witnesses had any reason to falsely implicate the appellant who was none else but a colleague of theirs being a member of the same police force. Therefore, the contention raised by Shri Sinha that on account of non-examination of a public witness, the testimony of the prosecution witnesses who are police personnel, should not be relied upon has hardly any substance and cannot be accepted."

17. Thus, the prosecution has proved its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt and there is no occasion for us to interfere with the well reasoned judgment of the learned trial Court dated 24.11.2015.

18. Accordingly, there is no merit in this appeal and the same is dismissed.

Date of decision: 01.07.2016

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- A reference was made to Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala as to whether services of the claimant had been legally terminated as Beldar by the Executive Engineer, HPSEB- the reference petition was partly allowed by the Labour Court- aggrieved from the award, present writ petition has been filed- held, that persons engaged after the engagement of the claimant were continued after the disengagement of the claimant, meaning that the Board had not followed the principle of 'first come last go'- it was also not established that claimant had abandoned the job- claimant was disengaged without complying with the provision of Section 25-G of Industrial Disputes Act- Writ Court cannot sit in appeal and set aside the award made by the Labour Court, which is based on evidence and facts- findings recorded by the Labour Court should not be interfered with, unless and until the findings are perverse or not borne out from the material on record- appeal dismissed.
(Para-11 to 18)

Case referred:

State of H.P. and another Vs. Shankar Lal and other connected matters, I L R 2016 (I) HP 225 (D.B.)

For the petitioners: Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Rahul Mahajan, Advocate, for respondent No. 1.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.(Oral):

By way of the present writ petition, the petitioners have prayed for quashing of award dated 26.11.2008 passed by the Presiding Judge, Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, H.P. in Reference No. 385/2002.

2. Brief facts of the case necessary for adjudication of the present case are that a Reference was received by the Labour Court-cum-Industrial Tribunal, Dharamshala, from the appropriate Government, as to whether the claimant had been illegally terminated w.e.f. 21.10.1999 as a Beldar by the Executive Engineer, HPSEB, Jogidner Nagar Division in violation of the provisions of Section 25-G and Section 25-H of the Industrial Disputes Act and whether the claimant was entitled for any relief and compensation?

3. On notice, the claimant filed his statement of claim, in which it was stated that he was engaged as a daily waged Beldar by the Board on muster rolls basis on 25.02.1999. He served as such till 20.10.1999. His services were terminated on 21.10.1999. According to the claimant, during the period of his employment, he was given artificial breaks of 305 days by the Board from 25.02.1999 to 20.10.1999. These artificial breaks were given to him without any reason and according to the workman, he was entitled to the benefit of continuity of service as per the provisions of Section 25-B of the Industrial Disputes Act. According to him, the respondent/Board had violated the provisions of Clause 14(2) of the HPSEB Establishment Standing Orders while dispensing with the services of the workman, which Standing Orders were framed under the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, 1946. No inquiry was conducted before retrenching him and the Board had also not followed the principle of 'last come first go' as envisaged under Section 25-G of the Industrial Disputes Act. As per the claimant, other workers, namely, Man Singh son of Kalyan Singh, Prithi Chand son of Bhoop Singh, Safi Mohammad son of Hamid Ahmed, Durga Dass son of Kalu Ram etc. who were junior to him and were retained in service at the time of his retrenchment. He also alleged violation of the provisions of Section 25-H and Section 25-N of the Industrial Disputes Act.

4. In reply filed to the statement of claim, the Board admitted that the claimant was engaged as daily wage Beldar on 25.02.1999 but vehemently refuted the allegation of workman that he was given frictional breaks as alleged. According to the Board, the claimant worked only for a period of 60 days from 25.02.1999 to 20.10.1999 and used to remain absent from duty and ultimately he abandoned the job after 20.10.1999. As per the Board, in this view of the matter, the workman was neither charge-sheeted nor he was paid any compensation. It was further stated that in view of the willful absence of claimant from the work from time to time, his case was not covered by the provisions of Section 25-B of the Industrial Disputes Act and keeping in view the fact that the claimant had not worked for 90 days during the period he remained in the employment of the Board, his name was not included in the list of temporary workmen. It was further the case of the Board that as the claimant had abandoned the job on his own, there was no question of complying with the principle of 'last come first go' nor it could be said that the Board had breached the provisions of Clause 14(2) of the Standing Orders.

5. On the basis of the pleadings of the parties, learned Labour Court framed the following issues:-

1. Whether the termination of services of the petitioner by the respondent w.e.f. 21.10.1999 is violative of the provisions of the I.D. Act, 1947 and certified Standing Orders framed by State Electricity Board? .... OPP

2. Whether the petition is not maintainable? ... OPR

3. Whether the petition is barred by time? ... OPR

4. Whether the petitioner is estopped from filing the petition due to his act and conduct? ... OPR

5. Relief.

6. On the basis of material placed on record by the parties, the issues so framed by the learned Labour Court were answered as under:-

Issue No. 1 : Yes.

Issue No. 2 : No.

Issue No. 3 : No.

Issue No. 4 : No.

Relief : As per operative part of the Award, the petition is partly allowed.

7. Learned Labour Court held that in his statement as PW-1 the claimant maintained that he was engaged as Beldar and he worked as such from 25.02.1999 to 20.10.1999. His services were dispensed with on 21.10.1999 without any notice or charge-sheet, whereas persons junior to him were retained. Learned Labour Court held that seniority issued by the Additional Superintending Engineer, Electrical Division HPSEB, Jogidner Nagar, vide letter dated 05.09.2002 Ext. PA demonstrated that Man Singh, Prithi Chand, Safi Mohammad, Durga Dass and Gian Chand, whose names figure at serial numbers 112B, 113, 114, 115 and 116 had been engaged between 01.05.1999 to 11.10.1999 i.e. after the date of engagement of the claimant. On the said basis, learned Labour Court held that the stand taken by the Board witness Mr. V.S. Thakur to the effect that the said persons were senior to the claimant was incorrect and false. On these basis, learned Labour Court held that the Board had in fact violated the provisions of Section 25-G of the Industrial Disputes Act. It further held that the Board had also violated the provisions of Section 25-H of the Industrial Disputes Act because no material had been produced on record by the Board to substantiate its contention that the claimant had abandoned the job on his own.

8. The learned Labour Court thus held that in the present case the Board has violated the provisions of Section 25-G and Section 25-H of the Industrial Disputes Act and it partially allowed the claim petition by holding the claimant to be entitled to be reinstated in the same capacity as in which he was working at the time of retrenchment. The learned Labour Court further held that the claimant was not entitled to continuity of service nor he was held entitled to back wages.

9. Feeling aggrieved by the judgment passed by the learned Labour Court, the petitioner/Board has filed the present writ petition.

10. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the record of the case.

11. The case of the claimant to the effect that the Board had violated the provisions of Section 25-G of the Industrial Disputes Act is based on Ext. PA, which is the seniority list issued by the Additional Superintending Engineer, Electrical Division HPSEB Joginder Nagar vide letter dated 05.09.2002. As per the said seniority list, as is evident from the award passed by the learned Labour Court, Man Singh, Prithi Chand, Safi Mohammad, Durga Dass and Gian Chand, figure at serial numbers 112B, 113, 114, 115 and 116. The respective dates of their engagements are 01.05.1999, 21.06.1999, 21.07.1999, 21.09.1999 and 11.10.1999. On the other hand, the date of engagement of the claimant is 25.02.1999. Ext. PA thus categorically demonstrates that the persons who were engaged by the Board after the engagement of the claimant were continued after the disengagement of the claimant, meaning thereby that the Board has not followed the principle of 'first come last go'. The Board has not been able to place on record any material to substantiate its case that the claimant has abandoned the job on his own.

12. Keeping this fact in view that on one hand the Board has not able been to substantiate that the claimant has abandoned the job and on other hand it stands proved on record that persons engaged by the Board after the claimant have been retained, though the services of the claimant have been terminated, in my considered view, the findings returned by the learned Labour Court to the effect that the termination of the services of the claimant was in violation of the provisions of Section 25-G of the Industrial Disputes Act, are correct. Learned counsel for the petitioner could not point out as to how the said findings returned by the learned Labour Court were either perverse or were not borne out from the material produced on record.

13. Similarly, in my considered view there is no infirmity with the findings which have been returned by the learned Labour Court with regard to the violation of the provisions of Section 25-H by the Board in the present case. It stands proved on record that whereas on one hand the claim was disengaged/terminated without complying with the provisions of Section 25-G. On the other hand, the Board engaged fresh hand without first giving an opportunity to the claimant to be re-engaged.

14. Now coming to the relief which has been granted by the learned Labour Court to the claimant, it has only directed the Board to re-engage the claimant and no other relief has been granted in favour of the claimant. Keeping in view this aspect of the matter that it stands proved on record that the Board had terminated the services of the claimant while retaining the services of the persons engaged after him, clearly the provisions of Section 25-G of the Industrial Disputes were violated. Accordingly, in my considered view, there is neither any infirmity nor any infirmity with the findings returned in this regard by the learned Labour Court. The conclusions arrived at by the learned Labour Court are on the basis of material which was placed before it by both the parties. The findings returned by the learned Labour Court to the effect that services of the claimant were terminated without complying with the provisions of Sections 25-H of the Industrial Disputes Act cannot be said to be not borne out from the material on record by the parties. Further, in my considered view, the relief which has been granted in favour of the claimant by the learned Labour Court is also a very reasonable relief as he has only been held entitled to be reinstated and no relief of continuity of service or back wages has been given to the claimant by the learned Labour Court.

15. It has been held by this Court in LPA No. 4 of 2016 titled State of H.P. and another Vs. Shankar Lal and other connected matters, decided on 02.01.2016, as under:-

> "The awards passed by the Labour Court are based on the facts and the evidence led by the parties. It is well settled principle of law that the Writ Court cannot sit as an Appellate Court and set aside the award made by the Labour Court, which is based on evidence and facts.

16. Thus, it is evident that as far as the awards passed by the learned Labour Courts are concerned, the finding of fact so recorded by the learned Labour Court should not be interfered until and unless the findings so returned by the learned Labour Court are perverse or not borne out from the material on record.

17. In the present case, it cannot be said that the findings returned by the learned Labour Court are either perverse or not borne out from the material on record, therefore, the same do not warrant any interference.

18. Accordingly, I concur with the award passed by the learned Labour Court and hold that there is no merit in the present writ petition and the same is accordingly dismissed, so also the pending miscellaneous application (s), if any.

For the appellants: Mr. Jagdish Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr.Rakesh Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No.1.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice, (Oral)

This appeal is directed against the judgment and award dated 30.3.2011, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II Solan, H.P., in MAC Petition No. 12-NL/2 of 2008, titled Smt. Sarvitari Devi versus H.R.T.C. and others, for short "the Tribunal", whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.4,10,000/- alongwith interest @ 9% per annum, came to be awarded in favour of the claimant, hereinafter referred to as "the impugned award", for short.

2. Claimant has filed claim petition before the Tribunal for the grant of compensation, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition which was resisted and contested by the respondents and following issues came to be framed.

(i) Whether the death of Sanjeev Sharma was caused on account of rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle by the respondent No.3, as alleged? OPP.

(ii) If issue no. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioners are entitled for compensation if so, the amount thereof? OPP

(iii) Whether the respondents 1 to 3 are responsible to make payment of the amount as alleged? OPP.

(iv) Relief.

4. Claimant has examined three witnesses and driver Pyar Singh stepped into the witness-box as RW1. Appellants/HRTC have examined Rajinder Kumar as RW2.

5. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence held that the driver has driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently. The FIR was lodged against the driver and after making deductions in paras 9 to 12 held that the accident was outcome of the rash and negligent driving of the driver of the HRTC.

6. I have gone through the pleadings and the findings recorded. The Tribunal has rightly came to the conclusion that the driver has driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently. It is apt to record herein that the findings recorded by the Tribunal against driver have not been questioned by the driver. Thus, it cannot lie in the mouth of the owner that the driver was not rash and negligent. Thus, the findings recorded by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are upheld.

7. Issues No. 2 and 3 are interconnected hence, I deem it proper to determine both these issues together.

8. The deceased was 22 years old, was working as a teacher in Sunrise Public School, Baruna and was earning Rs.5000/- per month. The claimant has proved the said fact and also placed on record the certificate of Bachelor of Physical Education Ext. PW3/C. Thus, the Tribunal has rightly held that the income of the deceased was Rs.5000/- per month and applied the multiplier accordingly. Thus, the Tribunal has rightly awarded an amount of Rs.4,10,00/- as compensation, but has fallen in an error in granting 9% interest. Only 7.5% interest was to be granted.

9. It is a beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281*;* Satosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others*, reported in* 2012 AIR SCW 2892*;* Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

10. Appellant-HRTC is directed to deposit the amount within eight weeks from today. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimant, through payees' cheque account or by depositing the same in her bank account, strictly in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award. Excess amount, if any, be released to the appellants, through payees' cheque account.

11. Viewed thus, the appeal is allowed and the impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove.

12. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (Oral).

The petitioner has preferred this Criminal Revision against the judgment/order dated 27.2.2015 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge (2), Shimla in Cr. Appeal No. RBT-187-S/10 of 2014/13 whereby he confirmed the order/judgment passed by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.3, Shimla in Case No. 58-3 of 2012/11 dated 24.6.2013/16.7.2013 convicting and sentencing the petitioner under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

2. The complainant /respondent No.1 filed a complaint under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, (for short 'Act'), on the ground that the petitioner was known to him and had borrowed from him a sum of Rs.1,90,000/-. In lieu of discharging his liability, the petitioner issued the aforesaid cheque for a sum of Rs.1,90,000/- (Ex.CW-1/A). The cheque was dishonoured by the bank with remarks "insufficient funds". The respondent thereafter issued notice to the petitioner calling upon him to make the payment within 15 days from the receipt of the notice. The legal notice was duly received by the petitioner as the same was returned back with the endorsement "unclaimed and refused". The respondent was left with no other option, but to file the aforesaid complaint.

3. The petitioner/accused was summoned and thereafter notice of accusation was put to him to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. The complainant /respondent was directed to produce his evidence. After completion of evidence, entire incriminating circumstances and evidence were put to the petitioner. The defence raised by the petitioner was that the cheque was issued as security and date and amount had been filled up by the complainant himself. Though the petitioner was granted to lead evidence in defence, but he failed to do so.

4. The learned trial Court after evaluating the evidence and hearing the parties, convicted and sentenced the accused/petitioner to undergo simple imprisonment for six months and to pay compensation of Rs.2,25,000/- to the complainant, which findings was assailed but maintained by the court of learned Additional Sessions Judge (2), Shimla. It is against both these findings that the petitioner has filed this revision petition on the ground that both the learned Courts below have failed to take into account the defence raised by the petitioner which has consistently been to the effect that the complainant had borrowed money from Ramesh Thakur, who had retained blank signed cheque of the petitioner which was subsequently filled up by Ramesh Thakur in connivance with the complainant to his advantage. It was further submitted that the petitioner had never borrowed money from the complainant/respondent and the same stands duly proved on record.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have carefully and meticulously gone through the records of the case.

5. Before proceeding to embark upon the relative merits of the case, it would be necessary to note the scope and power of this Court while dealing with such type of criminal revision petitions.

6. In Amur Chand Agrawal vs. Shanti Bose and another, AIR 1973 SC 799, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the revisional jurisdiction should normally be exercised in exceptional cases when there is a glaring defect in the proceedings or there is a manifest error of point of law and consequently there has been a flagrant miscarriage of justice.

7. In State of Orissa vs. Nakula Sahu, AIR 1979, SC 663, the Hon'ble Supreme Court after placing reliance upon a large number of its earlier judgments including Akalu Aheer vs. Ramdeo Ram, AIR 1973, SC 2145, held that the power, being discretionary, has to be exercised judiciously and not arbitrarily or lightly. The Court held that "judicial discretion, as has often been said, means a discretion which is informed by tradition methodolised by analogy and discipline by system".

8. In Pathumma and another vs. Muhammad, AIR 1986, SC 1436, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that High Court "committed an error in making a re-assessment of the evidence" as in its revisional jurisdiction it was "not justified in substituting its own view for that of the learned Magistrate on a question of fact".

9. In Bansi Lal and others vs. Laxman Singh, AIR 1986 SC 1721, the legal position regarding scope of revisional jurisdiction was summed up by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the following terms:

> "It is only in glaring cases of injustice resulting from some violation of fundamental principles of law by the trial court, that the High Court is empowered to set aside the order of the acquittal and direct a re-trial of the acquitted accused. From the very nature of this power it should be exercised sparingly and with great care and caution. The mere circumstance that a finding of fact recorded by the trial court may in the opinion of the High Court be wrong, will not justify the setting aside of the order of acquittal and directing a re-trial of the accused. Even in an appeal, the Appellate Court would not be justified in interfering with an acquittal merely because it was inclined to differ from the findings of fact reached by the trial Court on the appreciation of the evidence. The revisional power of the High Court is much more restricted in its scope".

10. In Ramu @ Ram Kumar vs. Jagannath, AIR 1991, SC 26, Hon'ble Supreme court cautioned the revisional Courts not to lightly exercise the revisional jurisdiction at the behest of a private complainant.

11. In State of Karnataka vs. Appu Balu, AIR 1993, SC 1126 = II (1992) CCR 458 (SC), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that in exercise of the revisional powers, it is not permissible for the Court to reappreciate the evidence.

12. In Ramu alias Ram Kumar and others vs. Jagannath AIR 1994 SC 26 the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

> "It is well settled that the revisional jurisdiction conferred on the High Court should not be lightly exercised particularly when it was invoked by a private complaint".

13. In Kaptan Singh and others vs. State of M.P. and another, AIR 1997 SC 2485 = II (1997) CCR 109 (SC), the Hon'ble Supreme Court considered a large number of its earlier judgments, particularly Chinnaswami vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, AIR 1962 SC 1788 ; Mahendra Pratap vs. Sarju Singh, AIR 1968, SC 707; P.N. G. Raju vs. B.P. Appadu, AIR 1975, SC 1854 and Ayodhya vs. Ram Sumer Singh, AIR 1981 SC 1415 and held that revisional power can be exercised only when "there exists a manifest illegality in the order or there is a grave miscarriage of justice".

14. In State of Kerala vs. Puttumana Illath Jathavedan Namboodiri (1999) 2 SCC 452, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

> "In Its revisional jurisdiction, the High Court can call for and examine the record of any proceedings for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order. In other words, the jurisdiction is one of Supervisory Jurisdiction exercised by the High Court for correcting miscarriage of justice. But the said revisional power cannot be equated with the power of an Appellate Court nor can it be treated even as a second Appellate Jurisdiction. Ordinarily, therefore, it would not be appropriate for the High Court to re-appreciate the evidence and come to its own conclusion on the same when the evidence has already been appreciated by the Magistrate as well as the Sessions Judge in appeal, unless any glaring feature is brought to the notice of the High Court which would otherwise tentamount to gross miscarriage of justice"

15. In State of A.P. vs. Rajagopala Rao (2000) 10 SCC 338, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

> "The High Court in exercise of its revisional power has upset the concurrent findings of the Courts below without in any way considering the evidence on the record and without indicating as to in what manner the courts below had erred in coming to the conclusion which they had arrived at. The judgment of the High Court contains no reasons whatsoever which would indicate as to why the revision filed by the respondent was allowed. In a sense, it is a non-speaking judgment".

16. In light of the aforesaid exposition of law, this Court will interfere with the findings recorded by the learned Courts below only if the same are either perverse, based on no evidence or have been arrived contrary to the evidence on record.

17. The complainant Ram Rattan appeared as CW-1 and testified on record that he had advanced a loan of Rs.1,90,000/- to the petitioner and he in turn in order to discharge the said unpaid outstanding liability, had issued one cheque No.105665 dated 8.11.2011 of Rs.1,90,000/- Ex.CW1-A. At that time, the petitioner had assured the complainant/respondent that the cheque would be honoured, however, when the cheque was presented, the same was received back dishonoured for the reason "insufficient funds". The cheque was received alongwith returning memo Ex.CW-1/B dated 15.11.2011, constraining the complainant/respondent to issue a statutory legal notice Ex.CW-1/C dated 21.11.2011, postal receipt whereof is Ex.CW-1/D. Despite having the notice, the petitioner failed to make the payment within the stipulated period.

18. In cross-examination, the respondent/complainant admitted that he was having good relation with the petitioner. He further stated that the amount was demanded from him in September, 2011 and a sum of Rs.1,50,000/- was paid through bank while as sum of Rs.40,000/- was paid in cash from his own. He denied that the petitioner had not received the notice and further denied that the blank cheque issued by the petitioner had been misused by him.

19. The petitioner in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. denied the entire case as set up by the respondent and stated that the cheque in question had been given to the respondent as security purpose, but he had misused it by encashing the same.

20. Both the learned Courts below have disbelieved the version put forth by the petitioner. Even otherwise, the petitioner has failed to rebut the statutory presumptions attached to the cheque under Section 139 of the Negotiable Instruments Act. This is not one of those exceptional cases where there is glaring defect in or there is manifest error on the point of law and therefore, there is no further question of there being a flagrant miscarriage of justice, rather the instant case is a classical example where the petitioner a retired government servant getting more than Rs.25,000/- as pension and having considerable income from agricultural pursuits because of bad intention does not want to pay the amount. These observations are being made on the basis of the records of the proceedings as would be evident from the following sequence of events:

(i) On 18.6.2015 this revision petition came up for consideration for the first time and this Court suspended the sentence imposed upon the petitioner subject to his depositing the entire compensation amount within a period of eight weeks, if not already deposited.

(ii) On 21.8.2015 on failure to comply with the order by depositing the amount, the petitioner moved an application being Cr.MP No. 832 of 2015 praying therein for extension of time to deposit the compensation amount and also furnishing the bail bonds. The reason given for extension was that due to ill-health and despite best efforts the petitioner could not arrange the amount and had already applied for a loan from the H.P. State Co-operative Agriculture and Rural Development Bank Ltd., Shimla which was under process. This court taking into consideration the contents of the application duly supported by the affidavit of the petitioner granted extension of four weeks and the matter was ordered to be listed on 24.9.2015.

(iii) On 24.9.2015 the order was not complied with, therefore, this Court directed the petitioner to appear in person on 01.10.2015.

(iv) On 01.10.2015 the petitioner appeared before this Court and stated that he proposed to liquidate the entire amount by obtaining loan, but such submission was not accepted and the petitioner was directed to file application to this effect.

(v) On 15.10.2015 the application filed by the petitioner for extension of time was allowed and this Court graciously granted the petitioner time to deposit the entire compensation amount and furnish the bail bonds upto 31.12.2015. However, it was made clear that no further time in any circumstances would be granted to the petitioner.

(vi) On 31.12.2015 the learned counsel for the petitioner made a statement that the petitioner had already moved the application for obtaining the loan and liquidating the amount in question. The petitioner was directed to file an affidavit to this effect.

(vii) However, when the case came up for consideration on 7.1.2016, affidavit filed by the petitioner was not available on the record, but copy thereof was handed over in the open Court and taking into consideration the averments contained therein which indicated that the petitioner had moved an application for obtaining the loan, this Court magnanimously granted time to the petitioner to deposit the amount upto 31.3.2016.

(viii) On 7.4.2016 the petitioner was again directed to appear before the Court as the respondent/complainant represented that the petitioner had not deposited/paid the compensation amount.

(ix) On 28.4.2016 the petitioner appeared and handed over a sum of Rs.20,000/- to the respondent and undertook to pay the remaining amount within a period of six weeks and the matter was adjourned to 23.6.2016.

(x) On 23.6.2016, the compensation amount save and except Rs.20,000/-had not been paid and it was made clear that in case the orders passed by this Court on previous dates are not complied with, then the consequences would follow. The petitioner thereafter had made an oral request for extension of time to deposit the amount on the ground that he expected a bumper apple crop. It was during the course of these proceedings that the petitioner himself informed the court that he was a pensioner getting more than Rs.25,000/- per month as pension. The petitioner as per his affidavit is 60 years, which obviously means that he has only recently retired and must have got a considerable pensionary benefits, that apart, he is getting a pension of Rs.25,000/- per month and claimed to be having a considerable agriculture income, but then he does not have the intention to pay the compensation awarded by the learned Courts below.

21. Even today i.e. on 1.7.2016 the petitioner has failed to comply with the orders of the Court.

22. The above narration of facts clearly indicate that the petitioner was granted more than ample time stretching over one year to comply with the orders and deposit the compensation amount, but the petitioner has not chosen to deposit the amount.

23. In view of the aforesaid discussion, not only is there no merit in this petition, even the petitioner appears to have taken this Court for a ride whereby despite his bad intention, the Court magnanimously granted as many as 12 opportunities over one year in order to accommodate the petitioner, who unfortunately was not only out to deceive the respondent but was also out to betray the indulgence shown by this Court from time to time. Consequently, there is no merit in this revision petition and the same is accordingly dismissed, so also the pending application(s) if any.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE AJAY MOHAN GOEL, J.

Kulvinder Singh ….Petitioner.
Versus
Executive Engineer, HPPWD. … Respondent.

CWP No. 2860 of 2009.
Decided on: 1.7.2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was denied back wages by the Labour Court – aggrieved from the order, present petition has been filed- held, that Labour Court ought to have awarded back wages at least from the date of raising the industrial dispute- Award passed by Labour Court modified to the extent that petitioner shall be entitled for back wages from the date of raising industrial dispute till the date of re-employment. (Para-7 to 9)

Cases referred:
Raghubir Singh Vs. General Manager, Haryana Roadways, Hissar, (2014) 10 Supreme Court Cases 301
Jasmer Singh Vs. State of Haryana and another (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 458

For the petitioner. : Mr. S.D. Vasudeva, Advocate.
For respondent. : Mr. Vikram Thakur & Mr. Puneet Rajta, Deputy Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition, the petitioner has prayed for the following reliefs:-

"(i) a writ in the nature of certiorari may kindly be issued thereby modifying the impugned dated 23.6.2009 Annexure P-3 to the extent that the respondent may very kindly be directed to regularize the petitioner on the post of Motor-Mate;

(ii) a writ in the nature of mandamus may kindly be issued thereby directing the respondent to grant seniority to the petitioner along with the back-wages at lest for three years and other consequential benefits with interest at the rate of 9% per annum in the interest of justice and fair play."

2. When the mater was taken up for arguments Mr. Vasudeva, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that he will be restricting his claim in the present petition only to the factum of the denial of back-wages to the petitioner by the learned Labour Court at least from the date when the workman had put the machinery in motion for the redressal of his grievance by way of raising the industrial dispute.

3. At the time of arguments my attention was drawn by Mr. Vasudeva, learned counsel for the petitioner to the findings returned by the learned Labour Court in para 19 of the award which is under challenge by way of present petition. According to him, the learned Labour Court has erred in not granting back-wages to the petitioner on the ground of delay without appreciating that the petitioner at least was entitled for back-wages from the date when he had approached the appropriate authority for the redressal of his grievance.

4. Mr. Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General has submitted that there is neither any perversity nor any infirmity with the award passed by the learned Labour Court and it has rightly refused to grant back-wages in favour of the petitioner in view of the fact that there was an inordinate delay on the part of the petitioner in approaching the appropriate authority for the redressal of his grievance and the said delay has not been explained by the petitioner.

5. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case.

6. In my considered view there is merit in the contention of Mr. Vasudeva, learned counsel for the petitioner to the effect that learned Labour Court ought to have had awarded back-wages in favour of the petitioner at least from the date when the petitioner had raised the industrial dispute.

7. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Raghubir Singh Vs. General Manager, Haryana Roadways, Hissar, (2014) 10 Supreme Court Cases 301 has held in para 45 as under:-

> "45. It is an undisputed fact that the dispute was raised by the workman after he was acquitted in the criminal case which was initiated at the instance of the respondent. Raising the industrial dispute belatedly and getting the same referred from the State Government to the Labour Court is for justifiable reason and the same is supported by law laid down by this Court in Calcutta Dock Labour Board (supra). Even assuming for the sake of the argument that there was a certain delay and latches on the part of the workman in raising the industrial dispute and getting the same referenced for adjudication, the Labour Court is statutorily duty bound to answer the points of dispute referred to it by adjudicating the same on merits of the case and it ought to have moulded the relief appropriately in favour of the workman. That has not been done at all by the Labour Court. Both the learned single Judge as well as the Division Bench of the High Court in its Civil Writ Petition and the Letters Patent Appeal have failed to consider this important aspect of the matter. Therefore, we are of the view that the order of termination passed by the respondent, the award passed by the Labour Court and the judgment & order of the High Court are liable to be set aside. When we arrive at the aforesaid conclusion, the next aspect is whether the workman is entitled for reinstatement, back wages and consequential benefits. We are of the view that the workman must be reinstated. However, due to delay in raising the industrial dispute, and getting it referred to the Labour Court from the State Government, the workman will be entitled in law for back wages and other consequential benefits from the date of raising the industrial dispute i.e. from 02.03.2005 till reinstatement with all consequential benefits."

8. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jasmer Singh Vs. State of Haryana and another (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 458 has held in para 21 and 22 as under:-

> "21. The said relief in favour of the appellant-workman, particularly the full back wages is supported by the legal principles laid down by this Court in the case of Deepali Gundu Surwase v. Kranti Junior Adhyapak Mahavidyalaya wherein the Division Bench of this Court to which one of us was a member, after considering three-Judge Bench decision, has held that if the order of termination is void ab initio, the workman is entitled to full back wages.

22. The relevant para of the decision is extracted hereunder:- (Deepali Gundu case, SCC p.344, para22)

> "22. The very idea of restoring an employee to the position which he held before dismissal or removal or termination of service implies that the employee will be put in the same position in which he would have been but for the illegal action taken by the employer. The injury suffered by a person, who is dismissed or removed or is otherwise terminated from service cannot easily be measured in terms of money. With the passing of an order which has the effect of severing the employer employee relationship, the latter's source of income gets dried up. Not only the concerned employee, but his entire family suffers grave adversities. They are deprived of the source of sustenance. The children are deprived of nutritious food and all opportunities of education and advancement in life. At times, the family has to borrow from the relatives and other acquaintance to avoid starvation. These sufferings continue till the competent adjudicatory forum decides on the legality of the action taken by the employer. The reinstatement of such an employee, which is preceded by a finding of the competent judicial/quasi judicial body or Court that the action taken by the employer is ultra vires the relevant statutory provisions or the principles of natural justice, entitles the employee to claim full back wages. If the employer wants to deny back wages to the employee or contest his entitlement to get consequential benefits, then it is for him/her to specifically plead and prove that during the intervening period the employee was gainfully employed and was getting the same emoluments. Denial of back wages to an employee, who has suffered due to an illegal act of the employer would amount to indirectly punishing the concerned employee and rewarding the employer by relieving him of the obligation to pay back wages including the emoluments."

9. Thus, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has categorically stated in the above judgments that a workman will be entitled in law for back-wages and other consequential benefits at least from the date of raising the industrial dispute.

Therefore, keeping in view the said legal position, the award passed by the learned Labour Court is modified to the extent that in addition to the relief which have been granted in favour of the petitioner by the learned Labour Court, the petitioner shall also be entitled for back-wages from the date he raised the industrial dispute till the date he was offered reinstatement by the respondent. The respondent is directed to pay to the petitioner the said back-wages within a period of three months. With the said modification in the award passed by the learned Labour Court, the present petition is disposed of. No order as to cost.

Manoj Kumar .....Appellant.

Versus

State of H.P .....Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 4096 of 2013
Decided on :1.7.2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 376 & 506- Prosecutrix was studying in Class-8th - accused is a teacher in the school who raped her – the matter was reported to police- accused was tried and convicted by the Trial Court- held in appeal the prosecutrix has supported the prosecution version- Medical officer found that prosecutrix was subjected to sexual intercourse- the accused had also confessed by executing a document Ext. PW-4/A- the Prosecution version was proved beyond reasonable doubt - the accused was rightly convicted by the Trial Court - appeal dismissed. (Para 9-18)

For the Appellant: Mr. N.S Chandel, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant appeal stands directed against the impugned judgment of 2.5.2013 rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, in Sessions trial No. 25 of 2012, whereby the learned trial Court convicted the appellant (hereinafter referred to as "accused") for his committing offences punishable under Sections 376 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code also sentenced him as under:-

> "………….the accused is sentenced to a rigorous imprisonment of eight years with a fine of Rs.20,000/- for the offence punishable under Section 376 of IPC. In default of fine he shall undergo further a simple imprisonment of six months. He is also sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for a period of one year and a fine of Rs.2000/- for the offence punishable under Section 506 of IPC. In default of fine, S.I for 15 days. Fine if recovered, shall go to the victim/prosecutrix as compensation. Both these sentences shall run concurrently………"

2. Brief facts of the case are that on 2.6.2012 prosecutrix alongwith her mother moved an application Ex.PW-1/B before the Police Station, Barasar alleging therein that she is resident of village Kohdra Pattian and studying in eight class in Government Middle School, kyara Bag. Teacher Manoj Kumar (accused) is a resident of village Kotlu and he teaches the students of Primary wing in her school. On 24.3.2012 at about 1.00 p.m. when she was going alone to her village accused followed her and seeing her alone he caught hold her from the arm and took her towards the cluster of bamboos and committed rape on her. It is further alleged that thereafter on 4.4.2012 at about 3.00 p.m. when she was coming to her house from the school, accused again committed rape on her. Accused Manoj Kumar used to talk to her on mobile No. 96252 89319 which belongs to her mother. He had taken this mobile number from her on 23.3.2012 by saying that her Hindi teacher had been asking for the same. Accused used to talk on this mobile number with her because there in only one mobile phone in her house and the same is with her mother. On 24.5.2012 while accused was talking with her on phone, her mother heard their conversations and enquired about it, on which the prosecutrix narrated the whole incident to her mother. She also disclosed to her mother that accused used to tease her in the school and threatened that in case she disclosed the incident to any one, she would be killed. Due to all this she stopped going to school. She requested for action against the accused. FIR Ex. PW-18/A came to be registered on the application aforesaid. Thereafter investigation of the case was handed over to ASI Madan Lal (PW-21). On the same day Pradhan Kashmir Singh (PW-4) handed over one complaint Ex.PW-3/A which was written by Ranjit Singh (PW-3) father of the prosecutrix to ASI Madan Lal alongwith the statements of the prosecutrix and accused comprised in Ex. PW-1/A and PW-4/A respectively, which were taken into possession by him vide recovery memo Ex.PW-4/B in presence of witnesses Roop Singh (PW-5) and Joginder Singh. Site plan Ex. PW-21/A was prepared by the Investigating Officer. The accused was arrested and information about his arrest given to his relatives. Vide application Ex. PW-PW-18/C, medical examination of the prosecutrix was conducted and her MLC Ex. PW-16/C was obtained. Underwear Ex.P-1 and vaginal smear of the prosecutrix were preserved and samples were sent for chemical examination. As per PW-16 there were signs of sexual intercourse, but no sign of forceful sexual intercourse.

The investigating Officer sent the accused to CHC Barsar and vide application Ex.PW-21/B his medical examination was conducted. His MLC is comprised in Ex. PW-8/A. As per the MLC the accused was found capable of performing sexual intercourse. PW-8 took the underwear Ex.P-3 of the accused and sealed the same in a cloth parcel Ex.P4 and handed over the same to the police. Thereafter on application Ex.PW-21/C the investigating Officer obtained birth certificate of the prosecutrix which is comprised in Ex.PW-14/A. Statements of the witnesses as per their version stand recorded. On 8.6.2016 the Investigating Officer recorded the supplementary statements of the prosecutrix, her mother and Roop Singh (PW-5). While recording statements of the witnesses, the Investigating Officer got conducted the videography through C Raj Kumar and CDs Ex.PW-10/A were prepared. On 13.8.2012 the investigating Officer made a request letter Ex.PW-21/E to the Secretary, Gram Panchayat, Kyara Bag and received the receipt Ex.PW-14/B vide letter Ex.PW-14/C from Kanta Kumari. Thereafter PW-21 also wrote a letter to the Superintendent to police, Hamirpur for obtaining billing address and call detail alongwith tower location of mobile No. 96252-89319 and 94189-75637 and received the same through Nodal Officer Madan Lal and JTO Sachin Bansal, which are Ex.PW-12/A (6 leaves) and Ex.PW-13/A (10 leaves) and it was found that accused had been talking to prosecutrix between the period from 23.3.2012 to 11.6.2012. The investigating Officer on an application comprised in Ex.PW-21/F obtained record (Ex. PW-15/A and 15/B-1 & 2) regarding admission of the prosecutrix and her attendance w.e.f. 24.3.2012. The case property was deposited with the MHC Ravi Kumar(PW-9) who entered the same in the Malkhana concerned, abstracts of entries in the Malkhana register comprised in Ex.PW-9/A and E.PW-9/B and sent the parcels to RFSL Gutkar for chemical examination through C Sunil Kumar vide RC No. 81/12 copy of which is Ex.PW-9.C. On receipt of RFSL report and completion of all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. The accused stood charged by the learned trial Court for his committing offences punishable under Sections 376 and 506 of IPC to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 21 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded in which he pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. In his defence, he tendered in evidence copies of attendance register Ex. DA and DB.

5. On an appraisal of evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of conviction against the accused for his committing offences punishable under Sections 376 and 506 of the IPC.

6. The learned counsel appearing for the accused has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation of evidence on record rather theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of material on record. Hence he contends qua the findings of conviction being reversed by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. The learned Deputy Advocate General has with considerable force and vigour contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and theirs not necessitating interference rather meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The investigation into the offences qua which the accused stood charged by the learned trial Court stood germinated by Ex.PW-1/B. Ex. PW-1/B is the complaint made on 2.6.2012 by the prosecutrix to the S.H.O of the Police Station concerned. It embodies a narration therein of the accused on two occasions subjecting the prosecutrix to forcible sexual intercourse. The initial forcible sexual encounter which occurred inter-se the prosecutrix and the accused was on 24.3.2012, it stood succeeded by another forcible sexual encounter inter-se both, sexual encounter whereof occurred on 4.4.2012.

10. The prosecutrix in her deposition on oath has deposed a version in corroboration to the enunciations embodied in Ex.PW-1/B. The solitary deposition of the prosecutrix bereft of any corroboration by other prosecution witnesses alone is sufficient to constrain this Court to record findings of conviction against the accused. However, before testing the veracity of the deposition of the prosecutrix, the prime factum of hers at the relevant time holding empowerment to mete consent to the accused for his subjecting her to sexual intercourse is required to be determined. The evidence qua the portrayal of the prosecutrix at the time contemporaneous to the occurrence not thereat being a major stands unfolded by Ex.PW-14/A. In sequel, the effect of consent, if any, purveyed by the prosecutrix to the accused for the latter subjecting her to sexual intercourse is wholly inconsequential.

11. Even before proceeding to determine the veracity of the deposition of the prosecutrix, it is imperative to allude to the deposition of PW-16, who subjected the prosecutrix to medical examination. In her deposition she has underscored therein of on hers subjecting the prosecutrix to medical examination hers detecting thereon the hereinafter extracted observations:-

> "ON EXAMINATION:
> There was no external injuries visible on body.
>
> ON Local examination
>
> She was wearing brown colour underwear that was preserved for sample.
>
> No external injury was present. Pubic hair were shaved so that cannot be preserved for sample. Discharge outside the external orifice present and hymen was broken.
>
> Virginal smear were made and preserved.
>
> Pervaginal examination
>
> Uterus size were parous mobile and it was antiverted.
>
> Her menstrual history
>
> Her menarchae at 11 years, her last menstrual period was on 26th April, 2012. So she was advised urine pregnancy test that was negative at that time.
> Samples were preserved and sent for chemical examination."

12. She has also deposed therein of hers recording a final opinion on 7.8.2012 of there existing, on the relevant portions of the person of the prosecutrix, on its standing subjected to medical examination by her, visible symptoms of hers standing subjected to sexual intercourse, yet she has underlined therein of hers not detecting on the relevant portions of the person of the prosecutrix any indication or evidence of hers standing subjected to forcible sexual intercourse. Consequently, the deposition of PW-16 does with specificity spell the factum of the minor prosecutrix standing subjected to sexual intercourse. The effect, if any, of hers on hers subjecting the prosecutrix to medical examination not detecting on the relevant portions of her person any evidence of hers standing subjected to forcible sexual intercourse when impinges upon hers meteing consent to the accused, consent whereof to the accused for his allegedly perpetrating the alleged penal misdemeanors upon her person for reasons ascribed hereinabove not obviously holding any leverage to the learned counsel for the accused, of the prosecutrix consensually succumbing to the sexual misdemeanors perpetrated on her person by the accused, is hence concomitantly legally insignificant.

13. The learned counsel appearing for the accused has made an ad nauseam allusion to the deposition of the prosecutrix besides has inextenso adverted to the depositions rendered by her parents who stepped into the witness box as PW-2 and PW-3 whereupon hence he espouses of with their respective testimonies imbuing the genesis of the prosecution case with deep pervasive discrepancies, renders the prosecution case to be a pure invention or a concoction whereupon no credence is imputable by this Court.

14. The learned counsel for the accused has contended of with Ex. PW-3/A uncontrovertedly standing forwarded by the father of the prosecutrix to the Pradhan of the Panchayat concerned who prior thereto stood communicated by PW-2, the mother of the prosecutrix the incidents of sexual misdemeanors perpetrated by the accused on the person of the prosecutrix, awakenings whereof of the mother of the prosecutrix qua the sexual misdemeanors perpetrated on 24.3.2012 and 4.4.2012 on the person of the prosecutrix by the accused stood engendered on the prosecutrix making the apposite communications to her, yet with PW-3/A being reticent qua the incidents of sexual misdemeanors ascribed by the prosecutrix to the accused renders the subsequently instituted complaint before the police concerned to stand clothed with unauthenticity rather its standing engendered by premeditation or concoction. The aforesaid submission addressed before this Court by the learned counsel for the accused suffers from an inherent infirmity as it is founded upon a pure misreading of the recitals embodied in Ex.PW-3/A. Even if in Ex.PW-3/A there is an omission of enunciation with specificity qua the sites whereat the sexual misdemeanors ascribed by the prosecutrix to the accused stood perpetrated on her person besides the dates when the accused perpetrated sexual misdemeanors upon the prosecutrix , nonetheless an incisive reading thereof unveils a sure manifestation of the prosecutrix weepingly on hers standing belabored by her mother on the latter overhearing her speaking on the phone making disclosures to her mother of all the sexual misdemeanors which stood perpetrated by the accused on her person. Even if there are non-enunciations therein with specificity qua the sites besides qua the dates whereon the prosecutrix stood subjected to forcible sexual misdemeanors by the accused yet the words “SUB KUCH BATLAYA’ occurring therein encompass within their ambit of hers standing subjected to forcible sexual intercourse by the accused. Even otherwise the recitals prior thereto occurring in Ex.PW-3/A with vividity manifest of the prosecutrix standing encumbered with fright on account of the accused intimidating her over telephone. Further more with revelations occurring therein of the accused brandishing a knife at her for instilling fear in her against hers revealing the incident to any body especially with all the aforesaid unfoldments occurring therein standing not concerted to be belied by the learned defence counsel while holding PW-3 to cross-examination, constrain a conclusion, of the defence conceding to the unfoldments occurring in Ex.PW-3/A. Consequently, with the defence standing inferred to concede to the aforesaid unfoldments comprised in Ex.PW-3/A an inevitable ensuing sequel therefrom is of the accused taking to mete threatenings to the prosecutrix also his taking to brandish a knife at her for instilling fear in her mind for silencing her against hers revealing the incident to anybody, as he held a guilt in his mind of his subjecting the prosecutrix to forcible sexual intercourse. Cumulatively hence the effect of non-enunciations, if any, in Ex.PW-3/A qua the perpetration of sexual misdemeanors by the accused on the person of the prosecutrix on two occasions is wholly insignificant. Even otherwise the learned defence counsel while holding PWs 1 to 3 to cross-examinations has omitted to put apposite suggestion to each qua the 2nd portion of Ex. 3/A wherein the phrase occurs “SAB KUCH BATLAYA” of its not holding any interpretation qua its echoing an unfoldment by the prosecutrix to her mother of the sexual misdemeanors perpetrated on her person by the accused or of its not holding the signification of the prosecutrix communicating to her mother qua hers standing subjected to forcible sexual intercourse by the accused. Omissions aforesaid by the learned defence counsel while holding the aforesaid PWs to cross-examinations, for hence the aforesaid interpretation standing not lent to the phrase “SAB KUCH BATLAYA” occurring in Ex. PW-1/A renders it to with aplomb being amenable to an inference of the prosecutrix at the stage of preparation of Ex. PW-3/A disclosing to her parents even the factum of the accused subjecting her to sexual intercourses. The spurrings of the aforesaid interpretation vis-à-vis the relevant manifestations occurring in Ex.PW-3/A disables the learned counsel for the accused to contend of the subsequently introduced factum in PW-1/B of the prosecutrix standing subjected to sexual intercourse by the accused being both an improvement also an embellishment besides apparently in gross contradiction vis-à-vis PW-3/A hence rendering both to be bereft of any sanctity.

Concomitantly also disables the learned counsel for the accused to contend of the deposition of the prosecutrix anvilled thereupon being un-amenable to credence standing imputed thereto by this Court.

15. Be that as it may the learned counsel for the accused has with much vigor contended of reliance as placed upon Ex. PW-4/A embodying therein the confessional statement of the accused being grossly inapt given the emanations occurring on a reading of the testimony of PW-19 qua its preparation occurring when 300-400 persons congregated outside the Panchayat Ghar whereat the accused at the relevant time stood interrogated by the Pradhan, Gram Panchayat concerned preeminently when is perse magnificatory of its standing prepared under duress and compulsion exercised upon him, hence leaves it to hold no evidentiary worth. Also he concerts to rid it of its tenacity on the score of PW-19 deposing in his cross-examination of the accused not in his presence appending his signatures thereon besides he also assays to belie its probative worth on the anchorage of his scribing it on the direction of Pradhan whereupon he contends of its standing recorded at the behest of the Pradhan hence not being a volitional statement of the accused. However the aforesaid contention also holds no vigor in the face of the accused not denying the existence of his signatures as occur thereon. Predominantly with the inference formed hereinabove qua the embodiments in Ex.PW-3/A echoing of the prosecutrix prior thereto narrating to her parents of the accused subjecting her to sexual intercourse renders the aforesaid espousal made by the learned counsel for the accused qua Ex.PW-4/A which embodies the confessional statement of the accused whereon his signature exists to hold no efficacy contrarily it is to be concluded of the embodiments occurring in Ex.PW-4/A holding concurrence with the manifestations occurring in Ex.PW-3/A prepared prior thereto, manifestations whereof for reasons aforestated unravel of the prosecutrix divulging to her parents the factum of hers standing subjected to sexual intercourse by the accused. If the aforesaid submission addressed before this Court by the learned counsel for the accused for belying the sanctity of PW-4/A is accepted, it would sequel the inapt consequence of this Court reading Ex.PW-3/A and Ex.PW-4/A dichotomously, endeavor whereof is to be obviated.

16. Be that as it may the volitional making of Ex.PW-4/A stands concerted by the learned counsel for the accused to stand jettisoned by the factum of its standing preceded by his in the Panchayat Ghar standing interrogated by the Pradhan of the Panchayat concerned whereat 300-400 persons as deposed by PW-19 had congregated. However the factum of a mammoth gathering of 300-400 thronging the Panchayat Ghar at the relevant time when he thereat stood interrogated by the Pradhan would not ipso facto render its making by the accused to be under any exertion of duress or compulsion upon him rather given the emanation in the deposition of PW-19 of the accused appending his signatures thereon subsequently elsewhere wherebefore no evidence stands adduced of his thereat standing subjected to duress or compulsion rather contrarily when recitals in Ex.PW-4/A would hold vigor only on theirs standing signatured by the accused, signatures whereof he subsequently appended thereon elsewhere than at the Panchayat Ghar without any proven exercise of duress or compulsion upon him renders the making of Ex.PW-4/A dehors its recitals standing dictated to PW-19 by the Pradhan to be volitional hence credence is enjoined to be imputed thereto.

17. Further more the contention of the learned counsel for the accused anvilled upon the attendance register portraying qua the presence of the prosecutrix standing recorded in the apposite school from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on both the dates whereat she stood subjected to forcible sexual intercourse by the accused belying the factum of hers on 24.3.2012 standing subjected in the school premises to forcible sexual intercourse by the accused also suffers diminution in legal worth engenderable from the afore-referred inference standing invincibly recorded by this Court qua PW-4/A holding sanctity. Further the submission of the learned counsel for the accused of non-ascription in Ex.PW-1/B with specificity qua the venue and time of hers standing subjected to forcible sexual intercourse which purportedly occurred on 4.4.2012 hence rendering the propagation therein to be hence ridden with falsity also for all the reasons afore-stated suffers the fate of its standing axed by this Court.

18. A wholesome analysis of the evidence on record portrays that the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned trial Court does not suffer from any perversity and absurdity nor it can be said that the learned trial Court in recording findings of conviction has committed any legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court does not deem it fit and appropriate that the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court merit interference.

19. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment of the learned trial Court is maintained and affirmed. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Manorma Verma ....Petitioner.

Versus

State of HP & Ors. ....Respondents

CWP No. 2640 of 2009
Date of Decision: 01.7.2016.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- The petitioner was selected and appointed as T.G.T. by Parents Teacher Association- guidelines were framed by the government for dealing with the complaints regarding the appointments of the teachers- a complaint was filed against the petitioner that his appointment was not in accordance with Rules- his appointment was cancelled by S.D.M., Theog- the petitioner preferred an appeal which was dismissed- held, that the committee looking into complaint had not prepared the comparative statement to show that merit was ignored – petitioner was appointed as T.G.T. by P.T.A. in terms of PTA Rules, 2006- orders set-aside and directions issued to the respondent to permit the petitioner to work as PTA.

(Para 9-11)

For the petitioner: Mr. Dilip K. Sharma, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, Additional Advocate General for respondents No.1 to 3.
Mr. Munish Dhatwalia, Advocate, for respondent No.4

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present writ petition filed under Section 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner has invoked extraordinary jurisdiction of this Court and has prayed for following reliefs:-

> "a) That a writ of Certiorari may be issued for quashing and setting-aside the impugned orders 30.6.2009 Annexure P-8 and Annexure P-6 notification dated 6.11.2008, whereby the learned Deputy Commissioner has dismissed the appeal filed by the present petition and upheld the finding of the learned SDM Theog, HP.
>
> b) That writ of mandamus may be issued directing the respondent to allow the petitioner to perform her duties as TGT (arts) in Government High School Chanair, Tehsil Theog, District Shimla, H.P.
> c) That the notification dated 27.5.2008 be quashed and set-aside.

d) *That the entire record pertaining to the case may be called for the kind perusal of this Hon'ble Court."

2. Briefly stated facts as emerge from the record are that the petitioner was selected and appointed as Trained Graduate Teacher (In short 'TGT') Arts in the Government High School Chanair, Tehsil Theog, District Shimla, Himachal Pradesh by Parents Teachers Association (in short 'PTA'). PTA appointed the petitioner as TGT in terms of PTA Rules, 2006. Perusal of communication dated 20.9.2006 written by Headmaster Government High School Chanair, Theog addressed to learned Deputy Director of Education, Shimla, HP, suggests that the petitioner was appointed against the post of TGT (Arts) on merit basis by the PTA. Careful perusal of the letter also suggest that the petitioner was selected by the PTA in terms of PTA new Rules, formulated by State of Himachal Pradesh and appointment of the petitioner was made purely on temporary basis. Pursuant to aforesaid communication dated 20.9.2006, the petitioner applied within 15 days of the issuance of the aforesaid letter and joined at the aforementioned school as TGT.

3. Subsequently, Government of Himachal Pradesh, Higher Education Department issued a notification on 27.5.2008, providing that committees constituted in terms of notification dated 19.4.2008 would hear the affected parties/complainants after going through the records and guidelines to take appropriate decision. Vide communication dated 27.5.2008 (Annexure P-6), State of Himachal Pradesh framed following guidelines:-

"1. The complaints by the affected parties have to be made to the Chairman of the Committee concerned on an Affidavit by 20th June, 2008.

2. The Committees will inquire into the submissions made in the complaints such as adequate publicity not made, interview not held, all the eligible applicants not invited for interview or/and merit ignored or any other issue brought to the notice of the Committees.

3. The complaints against ignoring of merit shall be evaluated based on the evaluation criteria given in the enclosed Annexure-A.

4. Deputy Commissioner of the District will decide whether he will chair the Committee himself or nominate ADC or ADM for a College or for a group of Colleges. For the Senior Secondary/High Schools, he will nominate ADC, ADM or SDM for a school or for a group of schools.

5. The committee will forward its recommendations to the PTA and head of concerned educational institutions by 22nd September, 2008.

6. Further Grant-in-aid to the PTA and acceptance of the teachers will be as per recommendations of the Committee.

7. An appeal against the recommendations of the Committees can be made to Divisional Commissioner for Colleges and for other Educational Institutions to the Deputy Commissioner within 30 days from the date of recommendations.

8. The Chairman of the Committee concerned will set up a mechanism to receive complaints in this regard.

9. Principal of the College, the Principal of the Senior Secondary School and Headmaster of the High School will recheck the educational qualifications of all the teachers offered by the PTA and verify whether their educational qualifications are as per the requirement of R&P Rules of the post against which they are appointed. In case the qualifications do not meet the requirement no Grant-in-Aid is admissible to the PTA as already provided in Rule-7 of the Grant-in-Aid to PTA Rules-2006.

10. Cases where specific order has been made by the Hon'ble Court will be dealt keeping in view those Orders.

11. If allegation of adequate publicity not made, interview not held, all the eligible applicants not invited for interview or/and merit ignored is proved then the existing teacher provided by the PTA will not be accepted. The PTA provided teacher will also not be accepted if the Committee for other reasons comes to the conclusion that selection procedure was wrong and recommends non acceptance of the teacher."

4. Pleadings on record suggest that respondent No.5 filed complaint before the Committee constituted in terms of notification dated 27.5.2008 against the present petitioner alleging therein that PTA had not made appointment of the petitioner strictly in accordance with rules in vogue, however, it would be noticed at this stage that no complaint, whatsoever, is available on the record. Neither the same has been placed on record by the respondents with their reply nor it is available in the record called by this Court for examination. Pursuant to aforesaid complaint received from respondent No.5, SDM Theog, passed order dated 6.11.2008, wherein he passed following order:-

"Application of Sh. Shashi Bhushan, S/o Sh. Deep Ram, S/o Kajau Tehshil Theog, against the appointment of TGT Arts in GHS Channiar.

Order

In compliance of the Govt. Notification No. EDN-A-Kha[7]3/2006 dated Shimla-2 dated 27th May, 2008 has constituted a Committee to inquire into the cases of irregularities/anomalies regarding appointment of teachers by the Parents Teacher Association in the Pradesh. As per the direction, the Committee has to go through the original record and guidelines conveyed by the govt.

The Committee has to inquire into the various points as follows:-

1. Adequate publicity

2. Interview not held

3. All eligible applicants not invited or interview

4. Merit ignored

5. Any other issues brought to the notice of the Committee.

6. In case of merit ignored, the Annexure[a] has to be followed

7. PTA President

The complaint has given an affidavit regarding his grievance and requested to inquire into the matter as under:- Merit ignored

The desired record summoned and simultaneously, the complainant concerned in person. The Principal and Subject Specialist called upon the said date 16-8-2008 & 29-8-2008.

As per the above facts, the committee comes to the conclusion that as per the record made available from the concerned school, it reveals that the appointment made by the PTA Committee does not fall in the norms fixed by the Govt. of H.P. and the appointment made by the PTA committee is cancelled and committee recommended the name of Geeta Sharma, D/o Sh. Ram Dutt Sharma."

5. Before proceeding further, it would be apt to notice at this stage that though perusal of the aforesaid order passed by the learned SDM suggests that matter was placed before some committee constituted in terms of notification dated 27.5.2008 but surprisingly, there is no document either on the record of the Court case file or in the records produced by the respondents in terms of orders passed by this Court. This Court only could lay its hand to the order dated 6.11.2008, whereby learned SDM, cancelled the appointment of the petitioner made by the PTA committee and recommended the name of Ms. Geeta Sharma for the post. Aforesaid order though suggests that merit was ignored at the time of appointment of the petitioner made by PTA of the concerned school but as has been observed above, there is nothing on record from where, it can be inferred that how and in what manner, merit was actually ignored by the PTA at the time of making appointment of the petitioner against the post of TGT in the concerned school, rather, bare reading of the communication dated 6.11.2008 suggests that the complainant had given some affidavit, wherein he had made certain allegations but definitely, there is nothing on record to suggest that committee constituted in terms of notification dated 27.5.2008 actually deliberated upon the issue at hand and passed some speaking orders associating the present petitioner.

6. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the order passed by the learned SDM, Theog, the petitioner filed appeal before the learned Deputy Commissioner Shimla, he while dismissing the appeal of the petitioner vide order dated 30.6.2009 passed following orders (Annexure P8 last para):-

> "I have gone through the record as well as the recommendation of the SDM Theog. I have also seen the result sheet as well as the comparative merit drawn by the enquiry committee on the basis of the criteria fixed by the Govt. The result sheet prepared by the PTA clearly shows that the marks have not been given by them as per criteria fixed by the Govt. The perusal of merit drawn by the enquiry committee on the basis of new criteria shows hat Km. Manorma scored 55.27 marks against 58.48 scored by the Geeta Sharma. In view of above the recommendation passed by the SDM Theog is upheld and the appeal is dismissed. File be consigned to G.R.R. after due completion."

7. The petitioner being aggrieved with the order passed by the learned SDM and Deputy Commissioner Shimla, apprehending that his service would be terminated in terms of the recommendations made by the aforesaid authorities, approached this Court by way of present writ petition. The Hon'ble Division Bench of this Court vide order dated 10.8.2009, while admitting the petition and issuing notice to the respondents ordered that "the petitioner will be allowed to work as PTA Teacher (TGT Arts), in case, no other person has been appointed against her place."

8. Mr. Dilip K. Sharma, Advocate, representing the petitioner vehemently argued that the impugned orders are not sustainable as the same are not based upon the correct appreciation of the documentary evidence available on record. He contended that the petitioner was rightly appointed by PTA, on 20.9.2006 purely on merit basis and strictly in terms of the grant-in-aid rules, 2006, which were in vogue at that time as far as appointment of teachers by the PTA is concerned. He forcefully contended that the respondents had no occasion, whatsoever, to entertain the complaint of respondent No. 6, especially, when she had participated in the selection process and appeared in the interview. Once she appeared in the interview, she had no right, whatsoever, to challenge the appointment of the petitioner, which was purely made on the merit basis. He also urged that learned SDM while passing order dated never associated the petitioner in any manner. No notice, whatsoever, was ever issued to the petitioner intimating therein with regard to filing of complaint, if any, by respondent No.5. He prayed that since order dated 6.11.2008 passed by the learned SDM, was passed at his back without affording him any opportunity of being heard, same deserves to be quashed and set-aside.

9. On the other hand, Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General, duly assisted by Mr. Rajat Chauhan, Law Officer, for the respondent-State supported the impugned orders recommending therein cancellation of the appointment of petitioner. He forcefully contended that since PTA had appointed the present petitioner in violation of the rules framed by the respondent, his appointment has been rightly cancelled by the authorities and as such, no interference, whatsoever, of this Court is warranted in the present facts and circumstances of the case. However, during the arguments having been made by him, he was unable to demonstrate from the record that how committee constituted in terms of notification dated 27.5.2008 actually dealt with the complaint, if any, lodged by respondent No.5. Though learned AG produced record pertaining to the inquiry conducted by the respondent on the basis of the complaint but he was unable to point out any document suggestive of the fact that at that time of so called inquiry, other members were also associated and on the basis of some rules as has been observed in the order dated 6.11.2008, committee had drawn some comparative merit.

Rather, learned Additional Advocate General to substantiate his arguments only relied upon the merit list drawn by the PTA on 18.9.2006, where petitioner was appointed as TGT (Arts) in the school concerned. Though, in order dated 6.11.2008, there is mention with regard to complainant having been filed an affidavit specifically alleging therein that "merit Ignored" but in the absence of any complaint, this Court is unable to accept the aforesaid contention of respondent No. 6 as well as other respondents. Otherwise also perusal of the communication dated 6.11.2008 nowhere suggests that aforesaid allegation of merit having been ignored at the time of recruitment of the petitioner, has been dealt with by the committee headed by learned SDM because there is nothing on record to suggest that some comparative statement was drawn by the so called committee after receipt of complaint from respondent No.5. There is no document available on record to suggest that meeting, if any, of committee ever held after the receipt of complaint from respondent No.5. This court could only lay its hand to letter dated 6.11.2009, wherein it finds mention that "as per the record made available from the concerned school, it reveals that the appointment made by the PTA Committee does not fall in the norms fixed by the Govt. of H.P. and the appointment made by the PTA committee is cancelled and committee recommended the name of Geeta Sharma, D/o Sh. Ram Dutt Sharma." Hence, this Court, in the absence of record, if any, with regard to inquiry allegedly conducted by the committee constituted in terms of notification dated 27.5.2008, whereby, the appointment made by PTA committee has been ordered to be cancelled, really finds it difficult to accept the contention put forth on behalf of respondents. Further perusal of order dated 30.6.2009 passed by learned Deputy Commissioner in the appeal preferred by the petitioner suggests that inquiry committee had drawn some merit list on the basis of new criteria, wherein present petitioner Kumari Manorma secured 55.2 marks against 58.48 secured by Geeta Sharma. But this is not understood that how learned Deputy Commissioner came to the aforesaid conclusion in the absence of any record. At least, this Court was unable to lay its hand to merit list, if any, drawn by the Inquiry committee on the basis of new criteria. It appears that learned Deputy Commissioner without looking into the records only accepted the order of the ld. SDM and dismissed the appeal preferred by the petitioner. Moreover, careful perusal of the reply filed by respondents No. 4 i.e. PTA suggests that appointment of present petitioner was made strictly in terms of PTA Rules, 2006, which was in vogue at the time of making appointment on contract basis by PTA. It would be apt to reproduce Para No. 3 of the reply filed by respondent No.4 i.e. PTA:-

> "3. That the contents of para-3 of the writ petition are also admitted in toto. It is worthwhile to mention here that the PTA under the Chairmanship of replying respondent found the petitioner most suitable and meritorious as compared to other candidates appeared in the interview for the selection of TGT (Arts) teacher in Govt. High School, Chanair, Tehsil Theog, District, Shimla. The petitioner as per Annexure P-4 is suffering 55% disability (Locomotor) and her place of residence is only about one Km away from the school and that too in the same Panchayat (GP Pargaya). As far as the non selected candidate Shri Shashi Bhushan, respondent No.5 is concerned is a permanent resident of village Kajau which is at a distance of more than 15 km away from the Govt. High School Chanair. It is pertinent to mention here that Shri Shashi Bhushan, respondent No.5 got his degree from an institution not recognized by Govt. of Himachal Pradesh and as such his candidature was rejected by the PTA Committee. The candidature of respondent No. 6, Ms. Geeta was also not found to be suitable as per PTA Rules, 2006, as she belongs to Village Bagharan, V&PO Chhota Shimla, Tehsil and District Shimla and the said place of residence of Respondent No. 6 is about 17 Km. from the school. The PTA was justified in rejecting the candidature of said Geeta Sharma. The learned SDM Theog while passing the impugned order (Annexure P-7) has not taken into consideration the said disqualification of Respondents No. 5 and 6, therefore, the order Annexfure-P7 is not sustainable in law and the same is liable to be quashed."

Careful perusal of the aforesaid reply filed by respondent No. 4 leaves no doubt in the mind of this Court that the petitioner was appointed as a TGT Arts by PTA strictly in terms of PTA Rules, 2006, which was the guiding factor for the PTA for making appointment of teachers on contract basis at that relevant time. Rather, close scrutiny of reply filed by respondent No. 4 suggests that petitioner being most eligible candidate available at that time, was rightly appointed by PTA. Court sees no reason to dis-believe the version put forth by respondent No.4 in their reply, which is duly supported by an affidavit, in the absence of some documentary evidence suggestive of something contrary. Moreover, there is no allegation of malafide or bias against the PTA in the writ petition. Respondent No.5 while making complaint, if any, only alleged that merit has been ignored but no mala-fide, whatsoever, has been alleged against the PTA, rather, reply filed by respondents No. 2 and 3 is silent qua the appointment made by PTA. Respondents have only stated that during scrutiny of documents and after hearing the complainant as well as Principal of institution, it was found that appointment made by the PTA is not in accordance with the norms of Govt. as per Annexures P6 dated 27.5.2008. But at this stage, fact remains that once the appointment of the petitioner was made in the year, 2006 that too strictly, in terms of PTA Rules, 2006, there is no question of compliance if any of the rules framed by the respondent with regard to the selection/appointment by PTA in terms of rules framed in year 2008.

10. Admittedly, in the present case, the petitioner was appointed by PTA in the year 2006 in accordance with PTA Rules 2006, which was in vogue and as such assertion of the respondent-State that appointment of PTA was not made in accordance with the Rule framed in year, 2008 has no force and same deserve to be rejected outrightly.

11. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, the petition is allowed and impugned orders are quashed and set-aside and respondents are directed to allow the petitioner to continue against the post of TGT in the Govt. High School Chanair, Tehsil Thoeg, District Shimla, HP. The petition stands disposed of, so also pending applications, if any.

For the appellant: Mr.Deepak Bhasin, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr.Shanti Swaroop, Advocate, for respondent No.1.

Mr.Hemant Sharma, Proxy Counsel, for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 28th February, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Una, District Una, H.P. (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.26 of 2008, titled Vinod Kumar vs. Subhash Chand and another, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.4,71,400/-, alongwith interest at the rate of 8% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited, came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and the insurer was saddled with the liability, (for short the "impugned award").

2. The claimant and the insured have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus, the same has attained finality so far as it relates to them.

3. Feeling aggrieved, the insurer has challenged the impugned award by the medium of instant appeal on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. Learned counsel for the appellant/insurer argued that the offending vehicle was a goods carriage vehicle and was not meant for carrying the passenger. Since the appellant was traveling in the said vehicle, he was a gratuitous passenger and, therefore, his risk was not covered.

5. The argument, thought attractive, is devoid of any force for reasons to be enumerated hereinbelow.

6. Claimant Vinod Kumar filed the claim petition under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1966 (for shot, the Act) before the Tribunal for grant of compensation on account of the injuries sustained by him in the accident, which occurred on 8th July, 2008, at about 7.30 AM near Six Meel NH 21, Mandi, H.P. On the fateful day, the claimant-injured was traveling in Mahindra Jeep bearing No.HP-36-8964, which was being driven by Sanjeev Kumar. When the said Jeep reached near Six Meel, the driver lost control over the vehicle, as a result of which the vehicle rolled down around 200 feet from the road, resulting into the death of the driver Sanjiv Kumar, while the claimant sustained spinal injury and the lower part of the body of the claimant-injured virtually became dead.

7. Respondents resisted the claim petition by filing replies.

8. In order to prove his case, the claimant-injured examined as many as five witnesses, while the owner of the offending Jeep stepped into the witness box as RW-1.

9. The Tribunal, after referring to the evidence led by the parties, has held that the accident was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of the driver of the offending Jeep, which findings are borne out from the records and need no interference. Accordingly, the same are upheld.

10. Before issue No.2 is taken up, I deem it proper to deal with issues No.3 and 4.

11. As far as issue No.3 is concerned, it was for the insurer to lead evidence and prove that the driver of the offending Jeep was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, has not led any evidence. On the other hand, the driving licence of the driver has been proved on record as Ext.P2, which does disclose that the driver of the offending vehicle was having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident. Therefore, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.3 merits to be upheld and are accordingly upheld.

12. Issue No.4 is "Whether the petitioner was a gratuitous passenger.........". The claimant has specifically pleaded in the claim petition that, on the fateful day, he had hired the offending Jeep and was going from Jalandhar to Bandrol, District Kullu for loading the seasonal vegetables and has also proved the said factum by leading evidence. There is no evidence to the contrary led by the insurer to prove that the claimant-injured had not hired the offending Jeep for the said purpose.

13. This Court in a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Kamla and others, reported in 2011 ACJ 1550, has also discussed the same issue while referring to the judgment of the Apex Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Cholleti Bharatamma, reported in 2008 ACJ 268 (SC) and held that the person, who had hired the vehicle for transporting goods, met with the accident, cannot be said to be an unauthorized/gratuitous passenger.

14. It is apt to reproduce paras 8 to 11 of the judgment rendered in Kamla's case (supra) herein:

> "8. Coming to the second plea taken by the learned counsel for the appellant that the deceased was a gratuitous passenger, a perusal of the reply filed by respondent No. 2, insurance company shows that they had only pleaded that the deceased was admittedly not employee of the insured and was traveling in the truck as a gratuitous passenger. Thus, it was submitted that the Insurance Company was not liable. Reliance was also placed upon the decision in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Cholleti Bharatamma, 2008 ACJ 268 (SC)wherein the plea was taken that the owner himself travel in the cabin of the vehicle and not with the goods so as to be covered under Section 147. However, in case the driver permits a passenger to travel in the tool box, he cannot escape from the liability that he was negligent in driving the vehicle and moreover, in a petition under Section 163-A of the Motor Vehicles Act, rash or negligent driving is not to be proved and, therefore, this decision does not help the appellant.
>
> 9. Learned counsel for the appellant had also relied upon the decision in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Maghi Ram*, 2010 ACJ 2096 (HP), wherein a learned Judge of this Court has considered the question and had observed that the Insurance Company is liable in respect of death or bodily injury to any person including the owner of goods or his authorized representative carried in the vehicle. It was observed that it is apparent that the goods must normally be carried in the vehicle at the time of accident.*
>
> 10. The allegations made by the petitioners in the petition as well as in the evidence were that the deceased had gone after hiring the truck with his vegetable and was coming in the same vehicle when the accident took place. The learned counsel for the claimants/respondents No. 1 to 4 had relied upon the decision of Hon'ble Punjab & Haryana High Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Urmila*,* 2008 ACJ 1381 (P&H), wherein it was observed that a passenger was returning after selling his goods when the vehicle turned turtle due to rash and negligent driving. Insurance Company seeks to avoid its liability on the ground that the deceased was no longer owner of the goods as he had sold them off. It was observed that the deceased had hired the vehicle for transporting his animals for selling and was returning in the same vehicle. It was held that the deceased was not an unauthorized/gratuitous passenger in the vehicle till he reached the place from where he had hired the vehicle.
> 11. The above decision clearly applies to the present facts, which are similar to the facts of the case and accordingly, I am inclined to hold that the deceased was not an unauthorized/ gratuitous passenger. No conditions of the insurance policy have been proved that the risk of the owner of goods was not covered in the insurance policy and as such, there is no substance in the plea raised by the learned counsel for the appellant, which is rejected accordingly."

15. Following the same principle, this Court in a bunch of two appeals, FAO No. 9 of 2007, titled as National Insurance Company Limited versus Smt. Teji Devi & others, being the lead case, decided on 22nd August, 2014; FAO No. 22 of 2007, titled as Naresh Verma versus The New India Assurance Company Ltd. & others, decided on 26th September, 2014, FAO No. 77 of 2010, titled as NHPC versus Smt. Sharda Devi & others, decided on 17th October, 2014, FAO No.638 of 2008, titled National Insurance Company vs. Smt.Sundri Devi and another, decided on 3rd July, 2015, and FAO No.448 of 2011, Sarita Devi and others vs. Ashok Kumar Nagar and others, decided on 17th June, 2016, held that in case the vehicle hired for loading of goods meets with an accident, prior to reaching the destination, the hirer of the goods traveling in the said vehicle cannot be termed as gratuitous passenger. .

16. Having said so, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.4 are upheld.

17. Coming to issue No.2, the claimant-injured has not questioned the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on this issue are also upheld.

18. As a consequence of the above discussion, it is held that there is no merit in the appeal filed by the appellant and the same is dismissed. The Registry is directed to release the amount of compensation in favour of the claimant-injured forthwith, strictly in terms of the impugned award.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C. J.

Smt. Nirmala Devi .....Appellant
Versus
Daya Ram & others .....Respondents

FAO No. 48 of 2007
Decided on : 1.7.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Claim petition was dismissed on the ground that deceased was negligent while driving scooter- Investigating Officer also stated that accident is outcome of rash and negligent driving of the deceased- in these circumstances, petition was rightly dismissed- appeal dismissed. (Para-3 to 8)

For the Appellant : Mr. Tara Singh Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents: Nemo for respondents No. 1 & 3.
Mr. Rajiv Jiwan, Advocate, for respondent No. 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Learned Counsel for respondent No. 4-insurer stated at the Bar that his client has shown inability to pay 50,000/- under the head 'no fault liability' as per the mandate of Section 140 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 and prayed that the appeal be heard and decided on merits.

2. Heard.

3. This appeal is directed against the award dated 27th December, 2006, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Una, District Una, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as 'the Tribunal'), in M.A.C. Petition No. 12 of 2004, titled as Smt. Nirmala Devi versus Daya Ram & others, whereby the claim petition came to be dismissed (hereinafter referred to as 'the impugned award').

4. The Tribunal had dismissed the claim petition on the ground that deceased Jagtar Singh was negligent while driving scooter bearing registration No. HP-20-B-1585.

5. The Tribunal has made discussions relating to Issue No. 1 in paras 9 to 15 of the impugned award, which are legally correct.

6. A.S.I., Sukh Lal (RW-2) has conducted the investigation. He has stated that the accident is outcome of rash and negligent driving of deceased Jagtar Singh.

7. Having said so, it can safely be held that the Tribunal has rightly made discussion in para-14 of the impugned award. It is apt to reproduce the said para of the impugned award herein:

> "ASI Sukhlal (RW 2), then investigator, Police Station, Una, claims to have investigated the case related to the FIR aforementioned. On investigation, what he observed was that the scooterist Jagtar Singh had after overtaking a stationary bus, which was on its way towards Amb struck the scooter against the truck after swerving to the wrong side of the road. Claiming to have recorded Som Nath's statement under section 154 Cr. P.C. Ext.RW2/A, Sukhlal further maintained that according to his investigations and the statements of the witnesses, there was no fault on the part of the truck driver. According to him, he had prepared a site plan Ext.RW2/C in accordance with the spot position. During cross-examination, he maintained that there was blood at point 'A'. In the site plan Ext.RW2/C, this point is shown to be the place of accident, which is 3 ft. from the eastern extremity of the metalled portion of the road and 21 ft. from the western edge thereof. Thus, it is manifest from the location of the point of accident that the truck, which was on its way towards Una, was moving on the left side of the road, and the scooter emerged in front of it after swerving to its right side. This position lends assurance only to the respondent 1 and 2's claim that it was in fact the scooterist who while trying to overtake a private bus suddenly appeared in front of the truck and struck the scooter against it. The accident is therefore attributable to rashness and negligence of the scooterist and the petitioner's allegation that the respondent 2 was driving the truck in a rash and negligent manner is nothing but a myth."

8. Viewed thus, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

9. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C

Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. ... Appellant

Versus

Rita Devi and others ... Respondents

FAO No.: 207 of 2011.
Decided on : 01.07.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- It was contended that driver did not have a valid licence- held, that burden lies upon the insurer to prove that vehicle was being driven without licence and no evidence was led- appeal dismissed. (Para-10)

For the appellant: Mr.Deepak Bhasin, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr.Rajiv Rai, Advocate, for respondents No.1 to 4.
Mr.Tara Singh Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No.5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 19th February, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Bilaspur, District Bilaspur, H.P. (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.57 of 2008, titled Rita Devi and others vs. Kishori Lal and another, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.4,30,000/-, alongwith interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and the insurer was saddled with the liability, (for short the "impugned award").

2. The claimants and the insured/driver have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus, the same has attained finality so far as it relates to them.

3. Feeling aggrieved, the insurer has challenged the impugned award by the medium of instant appeal on the ground that the Tribunal has wrongly fastened it with the liability.

Brief facts:

4. The claimants filed the Claim Petition before the Tribunal averring that on 24th August, 2008, at about 5.00 p.m., Sanjeev Kumar was coming on his Motor Cycle No.HP-24A-6111 from Bhager side towards Beri and truck bearing No.HP-51-1612 being driven by driver-cum-owner namely Kishori Lal rashly and negligently came from opposite side and hit the motor cycle of the deceased, resulting into multiple injuries to the deceased and ultimately, he succumbed to the same. Thus, the claimants, being the dependants, filed the claim petition claiming compensation to the tune of Rs.20.00 lacs, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

5. Respondents resisted the claim petition and filed replies.

6. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal:

"1.Whether the accident and consequent death of deceased Shri Sanjiv Kumar caused on 24.8.2008 at about 5.00 P.M. at village Kandraur, District Bilaspur, H.P. was due to rash and negligent driving of Truck No.HP-51-1612 being driven by respondent No.1, as alleged, if so, its effect? ….OPP

2. If issue No.1 supra is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioners are entitled to compensation, if so, to what extent and from whom? OPP

3. Whether the petition is not maintainable, as alleged? OPRs.

4. Whether the present claim petition is bad for non-joinder and mis-joinder of necessary parties as alleged? OPRs.

5. Whether the offending vehicle was being driven by its driver without valid and effective driving licence, as alleged? OPR-3

6. Whether the offending vehicle was being driven without valid documents i.e. registration certificate, fitness certificate and valid route permit, as alleged? OPR-3

7. Whether the accident took place due to contributory negligence on the part of driver of the truck and the deceased while driving his motor cycle No.HP-24A-6111, as alleged, if so, its effect? OPR-3.

8. Relief"

7. In order to prove their respective claims, the parties led their evidence. Heard the learned counsel of the parties and have gone through the record.

8. The claimants have proved that on the fateful day the offending truck was being driven by its driver rashly and negligently, who had hit the motor cycle on which the deceased Sanjiv Kumar was traveling and had caused the accident, in which the deceased Sanjiv Kumar sustained injuries and succumbed to the same. The Tribunal has rightly made discussion in paragraph 10 to 13 of the impugned award and has rightly held that the accident had occurred only due to the rash and negligence driving of the driver of the offending truck. Accordingly, issues No.1 and 7 came to be rightly decided by the Tribunal in favour of the claimants, which findings are liable to be upheld and the same are upheld.

9. As far as issues No.3 and 4 are concerned, the Tribunal has recorded categorically that the insurer has not led any evidence to prove these issues. Accordingly, these issues rightly came to be decided against the insurer.

10. To prove issues No.5 and 6, the onus was on the insurer, has not led any evidence. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident, in which it has failed. The insurer has also failed to prove that the offending vehicle was being driven without valid documents. Factum of insurance is not in dispute. Accordingly, it is held that the Tribunal has rightly decided issues No.5 and 6 against the insurer.

11. The claimant has not questioned the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation. Therefore, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.2 are upheld.

12. Having said so, there is no merit in the appeal filed by the appellant and the same is dismissed. The Registry is directed to release the amount of compensation in favour of the claimant-injured forthwith, strictly in terms of the impugned award.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is judgment and award, dated 25th February, 2011, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (I), Mandi (for short "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No. 50/2000, titled as Smt. Shishna Devi and others versus The Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. And others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 7,60,000/- with interest @ 9% per annum from the date of petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and against the insurer (for short "the impugned award").

2. The claimants, owner-insured and driver of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. The appellant-insurer has questioned the impugned award on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

4. The claimants invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal for grant of compensation, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the ground that they became the victims of the vehicular accident, which was caused by the driver, namely Shri Prem Singh, while driving Tempo Trax (Jeep/Gypsy), bearing registration No. HP-32A-0797, rashly and negligently on 21st February, 2009, at about 8.15 P.M., at place Jahal, in which deceased-Lekh Raj sustained injuries and succumbed to the injuries.

5. The respondents in the claim petition resisted the same on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections.

6. On the pleadings of the parties, following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal on 10th August, 2009:

> "1. Whether on 21.2.2009 at about 8.15 p.m. at village Jahal, respondent No. 3 was driving Tampo Trax jeep No. HP-32 A-0797 rashly and negligently and as such, caused death of Sh. Lekh Raj? OPP
>
> 2. If issue No. 1 is proved, to what amount of compensation the petitioners are entitled and from whom? OPP
>
> 3. Whether the driver of the Tampo Trax jeep No. HP-32A-0797 was not holding a valid and effective driving licence to drive the Tampo Trax jeep at the time of accident? OPR
>
> 4. Whether the deceased was travelling in the Tampo Trax jeep as a gratuitous passenger? OPR
> 5. Relief."

7. The claimants have led evidence. The owner-insured and the driver of the offending vehicle themselves stepped into the witness box. The insurer has not led any evidence. Thus, the evidence led by the claimants has remained unrebutted so far it relates to the insurer.

Issue No. 1:

8. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that the claimants have proved that driver-Prem Singh, while driving Tempo Trax (Jeep/Gypsy), bearing registration No. HP-32A-0797, rashly and negligently on 21st February, 2009, at place Jahal, caused the accident, in which deceased-Lekh Raj sustained injuries and succumbed to the injuries. There is no dispute about the said findings. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are upheld.

9. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to determine issues No. 3 and 4.

Issue No. 3:

10. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence to drive the same, has not led any evidence, thus, has failed to discharge the onus. However, I have gone through the record. The driving licence is on the record as Ext. RW-2/A, the perusal of which does disclose that the driver of the offending vehicle was having a valid and effective driving licence to drive the same, which is a 'LMV'. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 3 are upheld.

Issue No. 4:

11. Learned counsel for the appellant-insurer vehemently argued that the deceased was a gratuitous passenger, is devoid of any force for the reason that the insurer has not led any evidence before the Tribunal to prove the said issue, thus, it cannot lie in the mouth of the appellant-insurer that the deceased was a gratuitous passenger.

12. Even otherwise, the passenger carrying capacity of the offending vehicle as '9+1', as is evident from the insurance policy, Ext. RW-1/B. The Form of Certificate of Registration is also on the record as Ext. RW-1/A, the perusal of which does disclose that the seating capacity of the offending vehicle was '10'. Viewed thus, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 4 are also upheld.

13. The amount awarded appears to be adequate, cannot be said to be excessive or inadequate. But, the Tribunal has fallen in an error in awarding interest at the rate of 9% per annum, which was to be awarded as per the prevailing rates.

14. It is beaten law of the land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 SCC 281; Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2012) 11 SCC 738; Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2053; Kalpanaraj & others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982; Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 433; and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

15. Having said so, I deem it proper to reduce the rate of interest from 9% per annum to 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization.

16. Having glance of the above discussions, the impugned award is modified and the appeal is disposed of, as indicated hereinabove.

17. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimants strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective bank accounts.

18. Excess amount, if any, be released in favour of the appellant-insurer through payee's account cheque.

19. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

Decided on : 1.7.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Monthly income of the deceased was taken as Rs. 3,000/-, which is on lower side- even a labourer would not be earning less than Rs. 6,000/- hence income of the deceased is to be taken as Rs. 6,000/-- there are four claimants and 1/4th amount is to be deducted towards personal expenses - claimants have lost source of dependency to the extent of Rs. 4,500/-- age of the deceased was 31 years- multiplier of '15' is applicable- thus, claimants are entitled to Rs. 4500/- x 12 x 15= Rs. 8,10,000/- under the head 'loss of dependency'- they are also entitled to Rs. 10,000/- each under the heads 'loss of love and affection' , 'loss of consortium', 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses'- thus, claimants are entitled to Rs. 8,10,000/- + Rs. 40,000/- = Rs. 8,50,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till realization- award modified. The following judgment of the Court was delivered

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to the award dated 24th December, 2010, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Bilaspur, District Bilaspur, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as 'the Tribunal'), in M.A.C. Petition No. 14 of 2008, titled as Poonam Sharma & others versus Shri Vijay Singh & another, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 4,57,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants-appellants and the insurer-respondent No. 2 herein, was saddled with liability, (hereinafter referred to as 'the impugned award').

2. The owner-cum-driver and the insurer have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far it relates to them.

3. The claimants have questioned the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation.

4. The only question to be determined in this appeal is-whether the compensation amount is inadequate? The answer is in the affirmative for the following reasons.

5. The said question revolves around Issue No. 2. It is apt to reproduce Issue No. 2 herein:

> "If issue No. 1 supra is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation, the petitioners are entitled to and from whom? …OPP"

6. The claimants have specifically pleaded in the claim petition that the deceased was earning Rs. 10,000/- per month. They have also placed on record photostat copy of the salary certificate of the deceased (Mark-B), which appeared to be issued by one Devender Singh, owner of Excise License Rangas Unit, District Hamirpur, H.P. As per the aforesaid salary certificate, the monthly salary of the deceased was Rs. 7,500/-.

7. Admittedly, the age of the deceased was 31 years at the time of accident.

8. The Tribunal has made discussion in para-13 of the impugned award, which is not legally and factually correct for the following reasons.

9. The Tribunal has taken the monthly income of the deceased as Rs. 3,000/-, appears to be on the lesser side. Even, a labourer would not have been earning less than Rs. 6,000/- per month at the time of the accident. Therefore, it can safely be held that that the monthly income of the deceased was not less than Rs. 6,000/-.

10. The claimants are four in number. The Tribunal has rightly deducted $1/4^{th}$ towards the personal expenses of the deceased. After deducted one-fourth towards the personal expenses of the deceased, it can be held that the claimants have lost source of dependency to the tune of Rs. 4,500/-.

11. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in applying the multiplier of '16'. The multiplier of '15' was applicable in this case, in view of the 2nd Schedule appended to the Motor Vehicles Act read with the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104, upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in a case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120 read with the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in case titled as Munna Lal Jain & another versus Vipin Kumar Sharma & others, reported in 2015 AIR SCW 3105.

12. Accordingly, the claimants are held entitled to the tune of Rs. 4500/- x 12 x 15= 8,10,000/- under the head 'loss of dependency'.

13. Keeping in view the recent judgments of the Apex Court, a sum of Rs.10,000/- each, is also awarded under the heads 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of consortium', 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses' in favour of the claimants.

14. The Tribunal has rightly awarded interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition, is accordingly maintained.

15. Having said so, it is held that the claimants are entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs. 8,10,000/- + Rs. 40,000/- total amounting to Rs. 8,50,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till realization.

16. The amount of compensation is enhanced and the impugned award is modified, as indicated above.

17. The insurer is directed to deposit the enhanced amount alongwith interest, within a period of six weeks from today before the Registry. On deposit, the Registry is directed to release the entire amount in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of conditions contained in the impugned award, through payees' account cheque or by depositing the same in their accounts.

18. The appeal is, accordingly, disposed of.

19. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

RSA No. 2 of 2007.
Judgment Reserved on :21.6.2016
Date of Decision: 1st July, 2016

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Suit for fixation of boundaries by way of demarcation of the land and permanent prohibitory injunction for restraining the defendant from interfering in possession of the land was filed pleading that plaintiff is owner in possession of the suit land and defendant is interfering with the suit land without any right to do so- defendant opposed the suit by pleading that suit land had already been demarcated by Local Commissioner- no interference was being caused by the defendant- suit was decreed by the trial court- an appeal was preferred, which was allowed and the suit was dismissed- held, in appeal that plaintiff had not stated in his statement that defendant was interfering with the suit land and he intended to raise construction upon the same- Tehsildar who conducted the demarcation was not examined by any of the parties and his report was also not accepted- Local Commissioner admitted in his statement that plaintiff wanted the demarcation to be conducted on the basis of old record and not on the basis of new record- report shows that there is discrepancy in Aks Shajra for the year, 1891-92 and Aks Shajra for the year 1961-62 regarding khasra No.194 - Local Commissioner was appointed to demarcate the land- plaintiff claimed himself to be owner of the aforesaid bamboo grove on the basis of the report- plaintiff had filed a suit for demarcation and permanent prohibitory injunction but he had failed to prove that there was boundary dispute- therefore, trial Court had wrongly decreed the suit- decree was rightly reversed by the Appellate Court- appeal dismissed.

For the Appellants: Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Sr. Advocate with Mr.Nishant Kumar, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Bhuvnesh Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge (oral)

The instant Regular Second Appeal is directed against the judgment and decree dated 16.9.2006, passed by learned District Judge, Hamirpur, H.P in Civil Appeal No.111 of 2005, titled Sh.Rattan Chand versus Sh. Hira Lal, whereby the judgment passed by learned Civil Judge(Jr. Division), Nadaun, District Hamirpur, HP in Civil Suit No.99 of 1999 has been set-aside.

2. Briefly stated facts necessary for adjudication of the case are that the appellants (hereinafter referred to as "plaintiff") filed a suit for fixation of boundaries by way of demarcation of the land comprised in khata No. 14min, khatauni No.94min, khasra No. 1096, measuring 0-03-82 hectares situated in Tika Dangri, Tapaa Bhumpal, Tehsil Nadaun, District Hamirpur, HP (hereinafter referred to as " Suit land") and for permanent prohibitory injunction as well as for possession of the suit land by way of demolition of the superstructure, if any, raised by the respondent (hereinafter referred to as "Defendant") during the pendency of the suit. Plaintiff in the plaint averred that he is the absolute owner in possession of the suit land as per Misal Haquiat for the year, 1996-97. It is averred that defendant is utter stranger to the suit land and he has no concern, whatsoever, with the suit land and land of the defendant is contiguous to his land. The plaintiffs averred that since the land of the parties is contiguous to each other and there always remains boundary dispute and same cannot be resolved until or unless revenue expert as Local Commissioner is appointed to demarcate the land of the parties and to fix boundaries thereon. The plaintiff submitted that the defendant is head-strong person and is hell-bent in digging the suit land by uprooting the boundaries forcibly with a view to raise construction over the suit land. The plaintiff specifically averred in the plaint that the cause of action accrued to him in the last week of September, 1999 when defendant threatened him that he will dispossess him from the suit land and raise construction over the suit land. In the aforesaid background, plaintiff by way of suit prayed that the defendant be restrained from causing any interference in the suit land. Plaintiff, in alternative also prayed that decree for possession may also be granted in his favour in case defendant is found to be in possession of the suit land or any part thereof.

3. Defendant by way of written statement refuted the claim of the plaintiff in toto. Defendant in his written statement took specific objection that the suit is not maintainable since the suit land and adjoining land i.e. khasra No.278/1 has already been demarcated by the Local Commissioner appointed by the learned trial Court in Civil Suit No.32 of 1995, titled as Hira Lal versus Rattan Chand, which is pending in the Court and boundaries have already been fixed. On merits, defendant submitted that adjoining khasra No.278/1 is owned and possessed by him and he is not doing anything over the suit land. Defendant specifically denied that there is any boundary dispute between the parties because as per him dispute of boundaries, if any, has already been settled by the learned trial in another case of Hira Lal versus Rattan Chand. It is specifically averred in the written statement that Local Commissioner has already fixed the boundary between khasra No.278/1 and the suit land. Defendant specifically denied the allegation of uprooting the boundary, as alleged by plaintiff and denied any kind of encroachment made by him in the suit land. Defendant averred that the plaintiff has no cause of action, whatsoever, to maintain the suit in question as nothing has been done by him over the suit land.

4. In replication, the plaintiff has denied the contents of the preliminary objections taken in reply being wrong and on merits reiterated his case as set out in the plaint.

5. Learned trial Court after appreciating the pleadings available on record framed the following issues on 14.1.2000:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of fixation of boundaries by way of demarcation as alleged? OPP.
2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, as prayed for? OPP.
3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of possession by way of demolition, as prayed for? OPP.
4. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD.

5. Whether the plaintiff is stopped from filing the suit by his own act and conduct as alleged? OPD.
6. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action as alleged? OPD.
7. Relief:-

6. Learned trial Court on the basis of the evidence available on record decided issues No.1 and 2 in affirmative and rest of all were decided in negative. Learned trial Court vide impugned judgment and decree dated 30.11.2004 decreed the suit of the plaintiff for fixation of boundaries and for permanent prohibitory injunction with cost. However, issue with regard to possession of the suit land was decided against the plaintiff and hence no relief qua the same was granted to the plaintiff.

7. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the impugned judgment passed by learned trial Court, defendant filed an appeal bearing No.111 of 2005 in the court of learned District Judge, Hamirpur under Section 96 CPC read with Section 21 of the H.P. Courts Act, 1976. Learned District Judge, Hamirpur vide judgment dated 16.9.2006 accepted the appeal and quashed and set-aside the impugned judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court, as a result of which, suit of the plaintiff was ordered to be dismissed. Hence, the present appeal before this Court.

8. This Court vide order dated 19.5.2008 was pleased to admit the instant appeal on the following substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether the impugned judgment passed by the learned first appellate Judge is the result of total misreading and also misappropriation of pleadings, material and evidence adduced on record by the parties and thus, the resultant findings and conclusions drawn by the learned 1st appellate Judge are wrong and perverse?
2. Whether the plaintiff was entitled for decree of permanent prohibitory injunction etc. against the defendant (respondent) when after demarcation it was established and proved on record that the defendant was asserting his right of possession over the bamboo grove in the suit land which was owned and possessed by the plaintiff?
3. Whether the report dated 11.3.2001 of the Local Commissioner (Tehsildar) appointed by the learned trial Judge during the pendency of the suit for demarcation of the suit land was wrongly discarded by the learned First appellate Court?

9. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record.

10. Mr. Ashwani Kumar Sharma, learned Senior Advocate for the plaintiff vehemently argued that the impugned judgment and decree passed by learned District Judge, Hamirpur reversing the judgment and decree of learned trial Court, decreeing the suit, is against law and facts of the case and contrary to evidence on record and, as such, same deserves to be quashed and set-aside. He contended that bare perusal of the evidence available on record is enough to demonstrate that the learned first appellate Court while passing the impugned judgment has failed to appreciate the pleas set up by the parties in its right perspective. He further contended that the evidence adduced in support of the pleas taken in the plaint have not been considered in proper and legal perspective. Mr. Sharma, forcibly contended that learned first appellate Court has miserably failed to appreciate the actual controversy involved in the matter and passed the judgment and decree in appeal is very slip shod manner without adverting to the documentary evidence available on record. It is contended that the plaintiff had filed Civil Suit for decree of Permanent Prohibitory Injunction with respect to the suit land restraining the defendant on the ground that lands of the parties are contiguous to each other. In 1922-23, when the land was partitioned in the absence of plaintiff, Karukans(measurement of the land) was incorrectly changed in the revenue record while recording mutation No.36,dated 24.2.1992, which fact never came to the knowledge of the plaintiff and, as such, wrong entries with respect to measurement continued to be carried forward and it was only recent settlement of land, aforesaid factum of wrong entries came to the knowledge of the plaintiff, who thereafter applied before the Settlement Officer, Kangra Division at Dharamshala for correction of such wrong revenue entries. Mr. Sharma, learned counsel forcibly submitted that proceedings as regards the correction were still pending before the said Authority during the pendency of the appeal. But now necessary corrections have been carried out by the revenue authorities on the application of the plaintiff.

11. Learned counsel for the plaintiff forcibly contended that it was duly proved by the plaintiff that he was owner in possession of the suit land and even the Local Commissioner (Tehsildar) appointed by the learned trial Court during the pendency of the suit, who had demarcated the suit land on the basis of old Aks Musabi reported in its report that there exist a bamboo grove on the suit land. He contended that findings and conclusions recorded by learned District Judge being totally contrary to the record available on record have been made basis to pass impugned judgment and decree in appeal and, as such, same deserves to be quashed and set-aside. Mr. Sharma, strenuously argued that since entries pertaining to the measurements of the suit land in the existing revenue record were incorrect and same were under challenge before the competent Revenue Officer, whereby the proceedings for their correction are pending consideration, there was no justification for the first appellate court to discard the report of the Local Commissioner, who admittedly demarcated the land on the basis entries contained in the Latest Aks Musabi prepared during the last settlement. Lastly, Mr. Sharma, learned counsel contended that the plaintiff was not under any legal obligation to seek correction of the entries in the revenue record in the suit filed by him, since the matter with regard to the correction of wrong entries was already under challenge, in the separate proceedings filed by him before the revenue Court. In the aforesaid background, it was prayed on behalf of the plaintiff that the impugned judgment and decree in appeal passed by learned District Judge deserves to be quashed and set-aside.

12. Mr. Bhuvnesh Sharma, learned counsel representing the respondent supported the judgment passed by learned first appellate Court. He contended on behalf of the defendant that no interference, whatsoever, of this Court is warranted in the present facts and circumstances of the case, because bare perusal of the impugned judgment and decree passed by learned first appellate Court suggest that the same is based upon correct appreciation of the evidence available on record. Mr. Sharma, learned counsel further contended that its stands proved beyond doubt that the demarcation report given by Tehsildar on the application filed by the plaintiff was on the basis of Musabi for the year, 1910-11, which stands admittedly revised. It is also contended that learned trial court has rightly concluded that the demarcation of boundary is to be carried out from the field map (Shajra) prepared in the last settlement. In the present case, demarcation was not carried out in accordance with the instructions issued in this regard.

13. During arguments, he invited the attention of this Court to the averments contained in the plaint to demonstrate that there is no mention, whatsoever with regard to the dispute of existence of bamboo grove on the suit land, rather careful perusal of the plaint suggests that by way of suit, decree for fixation of boundaries by way of demarcation of the suit land has been prayed for. He also invited the attention of the Court to the statement Ex.PW1/A recorded by Local Commissioner of the plaintiff at the time of demarcation conducted on 11.3.2001 to demonstrate that plaintiff Rattan Chand refused to get the land demarcated on the basis of new record, rather he insisted that demarcation be conducted on the basis of 'Shajra Musabi' for the year, 1891-92 and 1910-11. Mr. Sharma, learned counsel submitted that there is no illegality and infirmity in the impugned judgment passed by learned first appellate Court and, as such, same deserves to be upheld.

14. Though, present appeal has been admitted on three substantial questions of law reproduced hereinabove but this Court deems it proper to take up substantial question No.2, for consideration at first instance as it directly relates to the relief claimed by the plaintiff against the defendant. This Court is of the view that while ascertaining/determining the substantial question

No.2, this Court is required to examine the evidence be it ocular or documentary available on record and as such while critically analyzing the evidence available on record, substantial question of law No.1 would be automatically answered alongwith substantial question No.2.

15. Careful perusal of the plaint filed by the plaintiff suggests that he claimed decree for permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendant from raising any construction, changing nature or from interfering in any manner, whatsoever either by taking forcible possession of the suit land. Plaintiff in alternative also prayed for decree of possession being absolute owner in possession of the suit land. Interestingly, this Court while perusing the plaint available on record failed to get any averments made by plaintiff with regard to the existence of bamboo grove, if any, on the suit land, rather specific case set up by the plaintiff was that the defendant being stranger is hell-bent in digging the suit land and uprooting the boundaries forcibly with a view to raise construction. Though, it finds mention in the plaint that defendant is the owner in possession of adjoining land comprising khasra No.278/1 but there is no mention/averment, if any, in the plaint with regard to bamboo grove on the suit land. This court solely with a view to answer substantial questions framed by this Court also had an occasion to peruse the statement made by plaintiff Rattan Chand. Plaintiff (PW-1) in his examination in-chief stated that he is owner of the disputed land comprising khasra No.1096, measuring 0-03-82 hectares. He stated that disputed land is contiguous of the land of the defendant Hira Lal. It has come in his statement that land is barren and there exists one bamboo grove and he is the owner of the same. He stated in his examination-in –chief that there exists one bamboo grove and he is the owner of the same. He stated in his examination-in-chief that defendant quarrels with him with regard to bamboo grove and claimed him to be the owner of the same. He has stated that in this regard he had filed a suit in the Court, wherein Local Commissioner was appointed by the Court and as per the report of the Local Commissioner Bamboo grove falls in his land.

16. Careful perusal of the deposition made by plaintiff before the learned trial Court, nowhere suggest that the plaintiff stated something in support of his averments contained in the plaint. To the contrary, plaintiff while examining himself as PW-1 has set up new case, which admittedly was not set up in the plaint as has been observed above, after perusing the plaint. There is no mention, whatsoever, with regard to bamboo grove on the suit land in the plaint filed by the plaintiff.

17. Though, plaintiff by way of filing suit in question set up a case that defendant is head strong person who is hell-bent in digging out and uprooting the boundaries with a view to raise construction on the suit land, but interestingly, there is nothing in his statement made in examination-in-chief before the Court with regard to any kind of interference in the suit land by defendant. In his entire statement, plaintiff has nowhere stated that defendant is interfering in the suit land and intending to raise construction over the same. Similarly, there is no whisper with regard to uprooting of the boundaries by the defendant, as alleged in the plaint. Rather, careful perusal of the deposition made by him suggests that he changed very nature of dispute of the suit land, wherein he claimed the ownership and possession of the bamboo grove. Plaintiff claimed himself to be owner of the aforesaid bamboo grove on the basis of the report dated 11.3.2001 submitted by the Local Commissioner, who was admittedly appointed by the learned lower court.

18. Interestingly, the Tehsildar, who conducted the demarcation in terms of the order passed by learned trial Court was neither examined nor cross-examined by any of the parties to the suit. Moreover, his report was not exhibited in evidence. However, further careful perusal of the cross-examination of the plaintiff suggest that he admitted his statement Ex.PW1/A i.e. statement made by the plaintiff at the time of demarcation conducted on 11.3.21004 by the Tehsildar pursuant to the order passed by the learned trial Court. This Court had an occasion to peruse the Ex.PW1/A, perusal whereof suggest that the plaintiff was not keen to take demarcation as per new record and he insisted that demarcation be conducted on the basis of the old record i.e. 'Aks Shajra' for the year, 1891-92 and 1910-11. Perusal of Ex.PW1/A further reveals that plaintiff stated at the time of demarcation that he has preferred an application before the Settlement Officer, Kangra Division at Dharamshala on the basis of old record for correction of 'Aks Musabi' and revenue record.

19. Statement of defendant Hira Lal was recorded at the time of demarcation conducted on 11.3.2001 also reveals that he was present alongwith Local Commissioner. He also stated that plaintiff Rattan Chand does not want demarcation to be conducted on the basis of recent record. He also stated that he had obtained demarcation report from the Tehsildar on 25.10.1998, in terms of the order passed by learned court below, copy whereof was made available to the authorities concern at the relevant time.

20. Though, demarcation report as has been observed above has not been exhibited but the same is available on record at page 64 of the records of the trial court. This Court with a view to ascertain correctness of the statement Ex.PW1/A made by plaintiff, perused demarcation report dated 11.3.2001 which suggests that plaintiff insisted for demarcation on the basis of 'Aks Shajra' pertaining to the year, 1891-92 and 1910-11 and he opposed the demarcation of the land at the relevant time on the basis of the recent record. Further perusal of the demarcation report suggest that there is contradiction between Aks Shajra for the year 1891-92 qua khasra No.194 and 'Aks Shajra' for the year, 1961-62. The Local Commissioner in his report stated that if the land is demarcated in accordance with the shajra for the year, 1910-11, bamboo grove falls in khasra No.1096 owned by the plaintiff. Local Commissioner in his report categorically stated that plaintiff Rattan Chand does not want to get the land demarcated on the basis of recent record since he has already filed an application for correction of revenue entries before the Settlement Collector, Kangra.

21. It is ample clear from the perusal of Ex.PW1/A as well as demarcation report dated 11.3.2001 that the plaintiff insisted for settlement on the basis of old record i.e. Aks Musabi for the year 1891-92 and 1910-11. It has also come in the demarcation report that the plaintiff at the time of demarcation produced copy of Aks musabi for the year 1891-92 and 1910-11 alongwith field book and copy of mutation No. 36, dated 24.2.pertaining to 'Aks Shajra' for the year, 1961-62. Plaintiff insisted for demarcation on the basis of Musabi prepared for the year, 1891-92 and 1910-11 because as per him wrong map was prepared and on the strength of mutation No.36, dated 24.2.1922 consolidation was carried out in the year, 1961-62. Since consolidation carried out 1961-1962 was based on wrong map prepared during the last settlement 1961-62 for which he already moved an application for correction of revenue entries before the Settlement officer Kangra, no demarcation could be given on the basis of recent settlement.

22. At this stage, it is pertinent to notice that learned trial Court vide order dated 7.8.2000 appointed Local Commissioner with a direction to demarcate the suit land comprised in khasra No.1096,measuring 0-03-82 hectares as per 'Missal Hakiat' for the year, 1996-97 and fix its boundaries. Record further reveals that specific reference was issued to the Local Commissioner to report the nature of the encroachment and the construction laid by the defendant, if any. But interestingly, as has been noticed above by this Court while perusing Ex.PW1/A and the demarcation report given by the Local Commissioner, the Local Commissioner instead of carrying out the demarcation of the suit land comprised in khasra No.1096, as per missal Hakiat for the year, 1996-97 referred to the old record for the year1891-92 and 1910-11 as insisted by the plaintiff. Careful perusal of demarcation report dated 11.3.2001 clearly demonstrates that Local Commissioner did not conduct demarcation strictly in terms of the reference and order dated 7.8.2000 passed by the learned trial court, rather Local Commissioner acting on the basis of the statement of plaintiff Ex.PW1/A recorded at the time of demarcation gave demarcation report, if any, on the basis of Aks Shajra pertaining to the year, 1891-92 and 1910-11 Local Commissioner instead of giving specific report as was called by the court referred to Aks Shajra Musabi pertaining to the year1891-92 and 1910-11 and concluded that as per Aks Shajra 1910-11 bamboo grove exist on khasra No.1096 owned by the plaintiff. Further perusal aforesaid report dated 11.3.2001 also suggest that the demarcation, if any, was not conducted in terms of the instructions contained in paragraph 10(2)(I) of Chapter 10 of the H.P. Land Records

Manual, where it has been specifically provided that the boundaries in dispute should be relayed from the village map prepared at the last settlement, meaning thereby that the demarcation, if any, was required to be carried out by the Local Commissioner on the basis of Aks Musabi prepared during the last settlement, whereas report of Local Commissioner dated 11.3.2011, nowhere suggest that he carried demarcation on the basis of copy of Musabi prepared during last settlement. If statement Ex.PW1/A is carefully read, it clearly emerges that the plaintiff attempted to set up a new case with regard to the correction of revenue entries, which was admittedly never the case of the plaintiff in his plaint. It appears that plaintiff with a view to avoid demarcation in terms of recent settlement purportedly raked up the issue with regard to preparation of wrong map on the strength of mutation No.36, dated 24.2.1992. Plaintiff by producing copy of Aks Musabi 1891-92 and 1910-11 and copy of mutation No.36, dated 24.2.1922 of aka shajra No.1961-62 before Local Commissioner has made an attempt to set up a case for correction of revenue entries, which has been never pleaded by him in the plaint.

23. This Court after carefully examining the averments contained in the plaint as well as statement of the plaintiff recorded before the trial court below, is of the view that he has miserably failed to prove his case set up in the plaint. Though, in the plaint, he averred that there is boundary dispute between the parties, but perusal of statement made by him while appearing as PW-1 to prove his case nowhere reveals that there is boundary dispute between the parties, rather statement given by plaintiff is fully devoted to prove that some bamboo grove exist on the suit land, which belongs to him. Since no specific evidence, whatsoever has been led on record to prove the averments contained in the plaint, where specific allegation of interference, raising construction, changing nature of land and taking forcible possession of the suit land has been alleged against the defendant, no relief as claimed by the plaintiff can be granted to him.

24. Since there was no specific mentioning with regard to the dispute, if any, qua the bamboo grove on the suit land raised by the plaintiff in the plaint, there was no occasion for the Court below to look into that aspect. To the contrary, learned court below was only under obligation to examine the issue whether there is any boundary dispute, if any, between the parties or not or whether defendant have interfered in the suit land by raising construction or not. Admittedly, in the present case, trial court with a view to ascertain the boundary dispute had appointed the Local Commissioner to give its report after measuring boundaries on the basis of recent settlement record. But as has been discussed, Local Commissioner appointed by the court below gave its report on the basis of record pertaining to year, 1891-92 and 1910-11 and instead of giving specific answer to the claim referred to him gave his report on the basis of documents made available by plaintiff at the time demarcation. If at this juncture, report of Local Commissioner is considered to the extent where he has reported that if land is measured in terms of Aks Shajra for the year 1891-92 and 1910-11, bamboo grove falls in khasra No.1096 owned by the plaintiff, then also report of Local Commissioner cannot be taken into consideration solely for the reason that the demarcation was not carried out in terms of instructions contained in paragraph 10(2) of Chapter 10 of H.P.Land Records Manual and, as such, same could not be looked into.

25. In State of H.P. vs. Laxmi Nand and others [1992 (2) SLC 307], Hari Dass and others vs. State of H.P. [1996 (2) SLC370], this Court has considered in detail how the demarcation is to be conducted. In State of H.P. vs. Laxmi Nand and others (supra), in para 17 of the judgment, it has been held as follows:-

> "It is the admitted case of the parties that in so far as the three revenue estates are concerned, the maps prepared during the last settlement were not on square system. Accordingly, the demarcating officer was required to relay the boundaries of the fields sought to be demarcated from the Shajra (village map), prepared at the last settlement. He was required to locate three Permanent points on three different sides of the area sought to be demarcated. The three points so selected and to be taken as basis must be those, which are admitted to have remained undisputed from the last settlement. The officer is thereafter required to chain threes three points on the spot and then compare the result with the distance given as per scale on the Shajra. It is only when distance, so compared, agree that the Revenue Officer can proceed with the further work of measurement. A pencil line is supposed to be drawn joining these three permanent points and thereafter perpendiculars are supposed to be drawn from these lines to each of the point, which are required to be located on the spot, in order to enable him to find out the exact distance from these points to the point sought to be demarcated, and then tally the result with the help of the scale of the Shajra, which can be drawn only with the help of a crossed staff. The result to be fially(sic-finally) checked by measuring on the spot, the distance and then tallying the result with the help of scale on the Shajra. Since this report of demarcation is liable to scrutiny, by way of evidence, it is required that the report of the concerned officer on the face of it must explain the details and the manner as to how he made his measurements, which report must accompany a copy of the relevant portion of the Field Book of current settlement of the village showing Karukans (dimensions) of the fields of which he took measurements as also a map showing therein the three permanent points, the fields measured and the boundary in dispute. As per the instructions, this is one of the necessary requirements to enable the court to follow the method adopted and also in order to find out the veracity of the proceedings. The other requirement, while submitting the report is to record the statements of interested parties before taking the three permanent points to the effect that all of them agreed and accepted the three points as permanent points on three different sides of the property. In case any objection is raised as to the manner in carrying out the demarcation, the said objection is required to be reduced into writing, so as to avoid the possibility of raising any question specifically and also to enable the court to decide such objections. In case, objection is raised on the spot, the demarcating officer is also required to submit his opinion on such objections. In case, while carrying out the demarcation, any discrepancy is noticed in the area of the fields abutting on the boundary in dispute, as recorded in the last settlement and the one arrived at as a result of the actual measurement on the spot, the report is required to incorporate the same with explanation as to the cause of increase or decrease, if any, discovered on the spot. All these requirements, in our opinion, have been incorporated in the instructions with the ultimate object of ascertaining that while carrying out the demarcation correct method was adopted and no mistake committed."

26. In State of H.P. vs. Piara Singh and others 1996(2) Sim. L.C. 370. The relevant para No.18 of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

"18. The demarcation is to be carried out by the revenue authorities in accordance with the provisions of the Act as well as in accordance with the instructions aforesaid and the revenue authorities are duty bound under the provisions of section 107 of the Act to carry out the same. It has been so held by this court in case Radha Soami Satsang Beas through Sh. Madan Gopal Singh V. State of H.P and another, ILR 1984 HP 317. In the face of this position, it is manifestly clear that the function to demarcate the limits of any holding/field is a statutory function being quashi-judicial in nature. It is absolutely necessary for the concerned revenue officer to perform such functions strictly in accordance with the instructions and guidelines issued by the Financial Commissioner under the provisions of section 106 of the Act and he has no business much less authority to deviate therefrom as it is likely to result in affecting the valuable rights of the parties concerned. The demarcation report must spell out so as to enable the authority/court concerned when it is brought before it, the method adopted by the revenue officer while carrying out the demarcation.

With the aforesaid background, it is necessary to examine the submission of the learned counsel for the appellants (Shri Jagdish Vats and Shri Ajay Mohan Goel) to examine the evidence of PW-22, PW-23, PW-29 and PW-56. It is worthwhile to clarify here that there are three reports according to the prosecution. First is the one that is stated to have been given by the accused, Hari Dass on the application of Mohan Lal and Misru Mal when applications of different landowners were forwarded by Divisional Forest Officer, Chopal to Range Officer, Tharoch, who in turn, had forwarded those to Block Officer for the purpose of getting the land demarcated so as to enable the marking and felling of trees. On the basis of this report the trees had been marked by accused Bir Singh and Satya Dev Sharma as per marking lists. The second demarcation report is that of PW-22, Labu Ram, Kanungo who had given the details of the area from which illicit felling had been done. He states that he had prepared the demarcation reports after carrying out demarcation which had been sent by him to the SDO(Civil) Chopal along with connected revenue papers. This witness has further stated that he had not been drawn any spot map. He had simply signed the same and the spot maps were drawn by the Patwari and not by this witness. It is interesting to note that the demarcation report prepared and submitted by this witness had not been brought on record by the prosecution for the reasons best known to it. The papers with the help of which he had carried out the demarcation are Exts. PC/72 to PC/109 and Ext. PC/110 is the copy of field book which he saw in the court and boundaries were re-laid by making reference to the village map. In his cross-examination, he admitted that in the documents exhibited in the statement, he had not drawn perpendiculars on the spot maps. In this contest, it may be appropriate to mention here that since the report of this witness of demarcation is liable to scrutiny by way of evidence, it was expected of him to explain the details and the matter as to how the measurements were carried out by him alongwith a copy of the field book of current settlement of village showing the dimensions of the fields of which he took measurements as also a plan showing three permanent points, details of the fields measured and boundaries in dispute. At the same time, this witness as well as other witnesses, namely PWs 23, 29 and 56 were also required to record the statements of the persons interested that they had agreed for the fixation of three permanent points on different three sides of the property. In the event of any objection being raised, the same should have been noted. In case of any discrepancy on account of increase or decrees of the area, the same was also required to be mentioned in the demarcation report. This should have been done to ensure proper and correct demarcation and to warrant that no mistake creeps in the demarcation."

27. Moreover, plaintiff nowhere instituted a suit for declaration to the effect that he is owner in possession of the land under bamboo grove, rather his specific case was/is for correction of boundaries by way of demarcation of the suit land and for permanent prohibitory injunction and for possession after demolition of superstructure, if any, raised by the defendant during the pendency of the suit. Interestingly, there is nothing in the statement of PW-1 to prove the averments contained in the plaint, to the contrary some new story with regard to existence of bamboo grove on the suit land has been set up in the statement recorded before the Court. Since suit filed by the plaintiff was specifically for fixation of boundaries by way of demarcation of the suit land, courts below were required to ascertain whether defendant encroached upon the land of the plaintiff in any manner or there is any forcible construction, if any, on the part of the land owned and possessed by the plaintiff. But in the present case interestingly courts below leaving aside the actual controversy at hand, proceeded to decide new case set up by the plaintiff in his statement with regard to existence of bamboo grove on the suit land.

28. Though, learned trial Court at first instance with a view to ascertain the correctness of the allegation with regard to the dispute of boundaries, appointed Local Commissioner, who instead of submitting his report in terms of specific reference made to him acted on the basis of statement given by the plaintiff at the time of demarcation and instead of giving demarcation on the basis of latest settlement record, proceeded to give his findings on the correctness of the revenue entries recorded by the authorities in past, but learned court below after finding mention of bamboo grove in the report submitted by the Local Commissioner as well as statement of plaintiff recorded during the trial proceeded to decide the issue of existence of bamboo grove on the suit land, which is/was admittedly never subject matter of the suit, if any. Since, no specific evidence whatsoever, was led on record by the plaintiff to prove its specific case of dispute of boundaries, there was no occasion whatsoever, for the learned trial court below to decree the suit of the plaintiff for fixation of boundaries and for permanent prohibitory injunction with cost. This Court is unable to understand on what basis the learned trial court passed decree for fixation of boundaries and for permanent prohibitory injunction, once the plaintiff failed to prove that there was some boundary dispute and defendant tried to interfere in the suit land. Hence, judgment and decree for permanent prohibitory injunction passed by learned trial Court is not justified at all in the given facts and circumstances of the case.

29. In view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that the plaintiff in no manner was entitled for decree of permanent prohibitory injunction against the defendant in the absence of specific evidence on record that interference, if any, was being made by defendant over the suit land. As has been discussed in detailed above, that the issue with regard to right and possession over the bamboo grove was not subject matter of dispute and, as such, any finding on the same by the learned Court below being uncalled for, is not required to be looked into by this Court. Since there was a specific reference to the Local Commissioner to conduct demarcation in terms of the recent records to determine the boundary dispute, if any, any findings qua the existence of bamboo grove over the suit land by the Local Commissioner had no relevance as far as controversy involved in the present suit is concerned. As has been observed above, that since demarcation was not conducted in accordance with law, any finding returned on demarcation report could not be looked into. Hence, this Court on the basis of critical analysis of the evidence made available on record has no hesitation to conclude that the plaintiff was not entitled for decree of permanent prohibitory injunction against the defendant and demarcation conducted by the Local Commissioner in contradiction of the Rules contained in paragraph 10(2) Chapter 10 of the H.P. Land Records Manual could not be looked into and, as such, substantial question of law No.2 is answered accordingly.

30. Since this Court examined entire evidence available on record while exploring/finding to answer of substantial question No.2,it sees no reason to conclude that the impugned judgment passed by learned first appellate court is result of total misreading and mis-appreciation of pleadings, rather this Court after examining the evidence available on record is of the view that the judgment passed by learned first appellate Court is based upon the correct appreciation of evidence adduced by the parties. Substantial question No.1 is answered accordingly.

31. As far as substantial question No.3 is concerned, once this Court has come to the conclusion that the demarcation report dated 11.3.2001 conducted by the Tehsildar in terms of the order passed by the learned trial Court was not in accordance with the rules, same has been rightly discarded by the learned first appellate Court. Hence, substantial question No.3 is answered accordingly.

32. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, this Court sees no reason whatsoever to interfere with the well reasoned judgment passed by the learned first appellate Court and same is accordingly upheld.

The appeal is dismissed along with pending application(s), if any.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C. J.

Ram Krishan …Appellant.

Versus

M/s Associates Bulk Transport Company and others …Respondents.

FAO No. 201 of 2011
Decided on: 01.07.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Claimant/driver had sustained 55% disability qua his left upper limb – earning capacity of the claimant was Rs. 6,000/- per month- Tribunal had erred in holding that disability had affected the income to the extent of 55%- Medical Officer stated that claimant had sustained 100% disability regarding the profession of driver- thus, loss of income is to be taken as Rs. 6,000/- per month- multiplier of 10 is applicable- claimant is entitled to Rs. 6,000/- x 12 x 10 = Rs. 7,20,000/- under the head 'loss of earning capacity'. (Para-5 to 7)

For the appellant: Mr. T.S. Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Dinesh Thakur, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 and 2.
Mr. B.M. Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to judgment and award, dated 11th January, 2010, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Bilaspur, District Bilaspur, H.P. (for short "the Tribunal") in M.A.C. No. 19 of 2008, titled as Ram Krishan versus M/s Associates Bulk Transport Company and others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 5,25,558/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimant-injured and against the insurer (for short "the impugned award").

2. The owner-insured, driver and the insurer of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. The appellant-claimant-injured has questioned the impugned award on the ground of adequacy of compensation.

4. Thus, the only question to be determined in this appeal is – whether the amount awarded in inadequate? The answer is in the affirmative for the following reasons:

5. The Tribunal in para 13 of the impugned award has recorded the statement of the doctor, namely Dr. J.L. Sharma, who was an Orthopaedic, whereby he has stated that the appellant-claimant-injured, who was a driver by profession, has suffered permanent loss of function, is not in a position to drive and even cannot plough his fields. The said witness has also proved the disability certificate, which is exhibited as Ext. PW-2/A, which does disclose that the appellant-claimant-injured has sustained 55% disability qua his left upper limb. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 13 of the impugned award herein:

"13. …….Besides, the petitioner also examined Doctor J.L. Sharma, Orthopaedic as PW-2 to prove his disability certificate. This witness PW-2 Doctor J.L. Sharma stated that he is working as Registrar in the Orthopaedic department in the I.G.M.C. Shimla. That he was the member of the medical board and the petitioner was examined by the Medical Board and the disability certificate Ext. PW2/A was issued to the petitioner by Medical Board which is signed by him as member being orthopaedic. He added that the petitioner has sustained permanent disability to the extent of 55% qua his left upper limb and is not in a position to drive the vehicle adding that petitioner is also not able to plough fields due to the aforesaid permanent disability. Neither, the petitioner PW-3 Ram Krishan nor this witness Doctor J.L. Sharma are cross-examined on these material facts regarding the permanent disability sustained by the petitioner after this accident and qua the medical expenses incurred by him on his treatment….."

6. The Tribunal has rightly held that the earning capacity of the appellant-claimant-injured was 6,000/- per month at the time of the accident, but has fallen in an error in holding that the disability has suffered his income capacity only to the extent of 55%, which is not legally and factually correct. As per the statement of Dr. J.L. Sharma, as recorded by the Tribunal itself in para 13 of the impugned award, the appellant-claimant-injured has suffered 100% disability as a driver by profession. Meaning thereby, he has lost total earning capacity.

7. Thus, it is held that the appellant-claimant-injured has suffered loss of income to the tune of ₹ 6,000/- per month. The multiplier of '10', applied by the Tribunal, is maintained. Accordingly, the appellant-claimant-injured is held entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 6,000/- x 12 x 10 = ₹ 7,20,000/- under the head 'loss of earning capacity'.

8. The amount awarded under the other heads, i.e. 'medical expenses', 'transportation charges', 'attendant expenses', 'pain and suffering & amenities of life' to the tune of ₹ 24,058/-, ₹ 3,500/-, ₹ 2,000/-, ₹ 1,00,000/-, respectively, is upheld.

9. Viewed thus, it is held that the appellant-claimant-injured is entitled to total compensation to the tune of ₹ 7,20,000/- + ₹ 24,058/- + ₹ 3,500/- + ₹ 2,000/- + ₹ 1,00,000/- = ₹ 8,49,558/- with interest as awarded by the Tribunal. The enhanced amount of compensation shall carry interest from the date of the impugned award till its realization.

10. Having said so, the impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove and the appeal is allowed.

11. The insurer is directed to deposit the enhanced awarded amount before the Registry within six weeks. On deposition, the entire awarded amount be released in favour of the appellant-claimant-injured strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in his bank account.

12. Excess amount, if any, be released in favour of the appellant-insurer through payee's account cheque.

13. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

Date of Decision: 1.7.2016.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 279, 337 and 304-A- Accused hit the vehicle against the pedestrians walking on the road- the vehicle fell 40 feet down the road and occupants sustained injuries- the accused was tried and convicted by the Trial Court – an appeal was preferred which was dismissed- held in revision, the statement of eyewitnesses duly proved that accused was driving the vehicle rashly and negligently – the mechanical expert found the vehicle in a neutral gear- the vehicle was being driven down the hill and it could be presumed that the driver had put the vehicle in neutral gear to save the fuel which shows the rashness and negligence of the accused – the road was 25 feet wide and there was 30 feet long retaining wall- there was 6 inch wall on the side of the road - the vehicle after hitting the wall had fallen in the gorge- this clearly corroborates the version of the eyewitnesses that vehicle was being driven with high speed- the accused was rightly convicted by the Trial Court- Revision dismissed, however, sentenced modified. The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

Present criminal revision petition filed under Section 397 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is directed against the judgment rendered by learned Sessions Judge, Kullu, H.P., in Criminal Appeal No. 5 of 2008 dated 25.4.2009 in "Sanjay Singh v. State of Himachal Pradesh", affirming the judgment of conviction and sentence dated 12.3.2008, passed by Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, Manali, District Kullu, HP, in Criminal Case No. 66-1/2001/21-ii of 2002/395-I of 2007, whereby the petitioner-accused is sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of three months and to pay fine of Rs. 1000/- and in default of payment of fine to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of one month under Section 279 of the Indian Penal Code, to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of three months and to pay fine of Rs. 500/- and in default of payment of fine to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one month under Section 337 of the Indian Penal Code and also to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year and to pay fine of Rs. 5,000/- and in default of payment of fine to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of three months under Section 304-A of the Indian Penal Code. All the sentences shall run concurrently.

2. Briefly stated facts necessary for adjudication of the case are that on 2.4.2001, complainant namely Ahaliya Devi along with her daughter Seema and her children was travelling in auto rikshaw bearing No. HP-01-0629 from Bashisht to Manali temple. When they reached at Chadyari turn at about 4.40 pm, the accused-driver lost his control over the vehicle due to fast speed and struck the vehicle against Lata Devi, who was walking on the road along with two other ladies and thereafter, the vehicle along with driver and all the occupants fell about 40 fts down from the road, as a result whereof, occupants sustained injuries. The injured persons were transported to the Lady Willington Hospital, Manali for treatment. Police received a telephonic message from the aforesaid Hospital at about 5.10 pm and on the basis of same, rapat No.20 Ex.PW10/A was entered in the Police Station. Subsequently, ASI Parma Nand and Constable

Pawan Kumar went to the Hospital for verification. ASI parma Nand recorded the statement of the complaiant Ahaliya Devi Ex.PW5/A and sent it to the Police Station for registration of the case. On the basis of FIR Ext.PW5/A was registered against the driver i.e. Ext.PA. Police visited the spot of occurrence and prepared the site plan Ext.PW10/C and photographs of the spot (Ext.P1 to Ex.P4) and of the vehicle were taken and negatives of which are Ex.P5 to Ex.P8. Police impounded the vehicle involved in the accident along with its documents vide memo Ext.PW4/A. Ex.PW8/A is the mechanical report of mechanical examination of the vehicle involved in the accident. Application Ex.PW10/B was moved before the Medical Officer, Mission Hospital, Manali for the medical examination of the injured, who prepared the MLCs of accused and other injured persons vide Ext.PW7/A to Ext.PW7/F. It is also revealed from the record that petitioner-accused was driving at that relevant time without driving licence.

3. After completion of the investigation, police filed challan in the competent court of law and charged the accused for committing offences punishable under Section 279,337, 338, 304-A IPC and Section 181 of the Motor Vehicles Act. The learned trial Court after satisfying that prima facie case exists against the petitioner- accused, charged him for commission of offences, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. During the course of trial, proseuciton with a view to prove its case examined as many as ten witnesses. The learned trial court also recorded the statement of accused under Section 313 Cr.PC, wherein accused denied the case of the prosecution. Learned trial Court after appreciating the evidence on record vide judgment dated 12.3.2008 convicted and sentenced the accused for committing the offences as per detail given above.

5. Feeling aggrieved with the judgment of conviction passed by learned trial Court, accused filed appeal under Section 374 (3) (a) Cr.PC before the learned Sessions Judge, Kullu, HP, which was dismissed and judgment of learned trial court was upheld. Hence, the present criminal revision petition by the petitioner-accused.

6. Mr. Sunil Mohan Goel, Advocate, representing the petitioner-accused, vehemently argued that the impugned judgment of the courts below are contrary to law and fact and as such, same deserve to be quashed and set-aside as they are not based upon the correct appreciation of evidence available on record, rather, evidence on record has not been appreciated in its right perspective and judgments are based upon the conjectures and surmises. He prayed that in view of the grounds taken by him in the petition, impugned judgment deserves to be quashed and set-aside and accused deserves to be acquitted of the charges framed against him.

7. On the other hand, Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General, representing respondent-State supported the judgments passed by the courts below and strenuously argued that no interference, whatsoever, of this Court is warranted in the present facts and circumstances of the case. Judgments of the courts below are based upon the correct appreciation of evidence available on record; he contended that there is overwhelming evidence to suggest that at the time of accident, offending vehicle was being driven rashly and negligently and, as such, no lenient view can be taken by this court, especially, when one of the occupant Yogesh lost his life. During his arguments, he made this Court to peruse the statements given by the prosecution witnesses i.e. occupants of offending vehicle, wherein all of them unequivocally stated that accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of the driver-accused. Mr. Thakur also submitted before this Court that this Court has very limited powers under Section 397 Cr.PC to re-appreciate the evidence on record, especially, when both the courts below have returned concurrent finding that too after appreciating the evidence available on record very meticulously and prayed that this petition may be dismissed.

8. I have heard learned counsel for the parties as well carefully gone through the record.

9. True, it is that this Court has very limited powers under Section 397 Cr.PC while exercising its revisionary jurisdiction but in the instant case, where petitioner-accused has been convicted and sentenced, it would be apt and in the interest of justice to critically examine the statements of the prosecution witnesses solely with a view to ascertain that the judgments passed by learned courts below are not perverse and same are based on correct appreciation of the evidence on record.

10. As far as scope of power of this Court while exercising revisionary jurisdiction under Section 397 is concerned, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Krishnan and another Versus Krishnaveni and another, (1997) 4 Supreme Court Case 241; has held that in case Court notices that there is a failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality or sentence or order. The relevant para of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> 8. The object of Section 483 and the purpose behind conferring the revisional power under Section 397 read with Section 401, upon the High Court is to invest continuous supervisory jurisdiction so as to prevent miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularity of the procedure or to mete out justice. In addition, the inherent power of the High Court is preserved by Section 482. The power of the High Court, therefore, is very wide. However, the High Court must exercise such power sparingly and cautiously when the Sessions Judge has simultaneously exercised revisional power under Section 397(1). However, when the High Court notices that there has been failure of justice or misuse of judicial mechanism or procedure, sentence or order is not correct, it is but the salutary duty of the High Court to prevent the abuse of the process or miscarriage of justice or to correct irregularities/ incorrectness committed by inferior criminal court in its judicial process or illegality of sentence or order."

11. Perusal of the material available on record leaves no doubt that vehicle in question met with an accident on 2.4.2001, while it was being plied between Bashisht to Manali Temple. It also remains undisputed that at that relevant time, vehicle was being driven by the petitioner-accused. Now question, which remains to be ascertained by this Court is that whether at that relevant time vehicle was being driven rashly and negligently by the driver/accused or not? Apart from this, this Court on the basis of material evidence available on record, needs to find out that whether accident actually caused/occurred due to rash and negligent driving of the driver or not.

12. In the present case, prosecution with a view to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt examined as many as fifteen prosecution witnesses namely PW1 Smt. Lata, PW2 Smt. Tulsi, PW3 Prem Lal, PW-4 Chaman Lal, PW-5 Smt. Ahilya Devi, PW-6 Mehar Chand, PW-7 Oommen George, PW-8 Budhi Singh, PW-9 Seema Devi and PW-10 ASI Parma Nand.

13. Learned Court below also recorded statement of accused under Section 313 Cr.PC, wherein, he admitted that three wheeler involved in the accident was being driven by him but he stated that he is innocent and witnesses have falsely deposed against him because accident occurred due to skidding of the vehicle in question, however, record suggests that he did not lead any evidence in his defence.

14. The complainant, who appeared in witness box as PW-5 stated that on 2.4.2001, she along with her daughter namely Manisha, Seema and her five months old son was travelling in offending vehicle from Bashisht to Manali and at about 4:40 pm when they reached Chadhyari, it struck against a lady, as a result of which, the vehicle fell down 40 feet down from the road causing injuries to the occupants. She stated that she sustained injuries on her head, hand and stomach. It has also come in her statement that son of Seema sustained injuries on his head and had become unconscious. She categorically stated in her examination-in-chief that vehicle at that time was being driven by the accused in high speed, and accident occurred due to his fault. He also stated that she had reported the matter to police vide statement Ext.PW5/A, which was recorded by the police in the Hospital in Manali. Careful perusal of cross-examination conducted by the defence of PW5 suggests that PW-5 stuck to her stand, which she actually took in her examination-in-chief . She denied all the suggestions of the defence and categorically reiterated that vehicle was being driven by the accused in an excessive speed rashly and negligently. Defence has not been able to extract anything contrary to what the complainant stated in examination-in-chief while cross-examining her. Moreover, no suggestion worth the name was put to PW1 which could be suggestive of the fact that she had motive to depose falsely against the complainant. Rather, no suggestion with regard to prior animosity/enmity of this witness with the accused was put to her. Similarly, another occupant of offending vehicle, Smt. Sema Devi (PW9) stated that on 2.4.2001 when she was travelling in the vehicle from Bashisht to manali with her mother Ahilya Devi (PW5), sister Manisha and her son Yogesh, vehicle struck with a lady and thereafter fell down from the road causing injuries to all the occupants. It has also come in her statement that offending vehicle was being driven by the accused in fast speed rashly/negligently and when they reached Chadhyari turn, driver lost his control after hitting lady and as a result of which, vehicle fell down in 40 feet deep gorge. She also supported the story of the prosecution with regard to taking of all the injured persons to Mission Hospital Manali for treatment. She also stated that her son namely Yogesh sustained head injuries and was referred to PGI Chandigarh for treatment where he breathed his last on 14th May, 2001. She categorically stated in examination-in-chief that since vehicle was driven in high speed, accused is responsible for commission of offence. In her cross-examination, she reiterated that accident took place due to negligence of accused, who failed to negotiate the curve and, as such, vehicle after hitting lady fell down from the road. This Court while perusing the statements of PWs had an occasion to peruse the cross-examination conducted by the defence of the witnesses. Minute analyses of the cross-examination conducted of these witnesses clearly suggests that defence has not been able to extract anything contrary to which this PW stated in examination-in-chief. Similarly, as in the case of PW5, no suggestion with regard to any motive to falsely depose against the accused and any prior animosity or enmity with the accused was put to this prosecution witness in her cross-examination.

15. After critically analyzing the statements made by PW5 and PW9, who were the occupants of the vehicle at that relevant time, it clearly emerges that vehicle was being driven by the accused in high speed and that too negligently. Both of the aforesaid prosecution witnesses, who can be termed as eye witnesses to the accident have unequivocally deposed that three wheeler at the time of accident was being driven by the accused rashly in high speed and accident actually occurred due to his fault. Both the witnesses have stated that when vehicle reached Chadhyari turn, it struck against one lady and thereafter fell down from the road causing injuries to the occupants. Both the prosecution witnesses have stated that the accused while negotiating the curve at Chadhyari, lost the control over the vehicle and after hitting the lady, fell 40 ft. down in the gorge. Both the material witnesses, traveling in the vehicle in question at the time of the accident, have been very very consistent, specific and candid in narrating the event actually happened just before the accident, as referred above. Defence has not been able to shatter the testimonies of these witnesses, who have been very very consistent and truthful while deposing before the learned trial Court. Though, accused while making statement under Section 313 Cr.PC stated that he is innocent and witnesses have falsely deposed against him to implicate in a false case but interestingly, no suggestion qua the motive to depose against the accused or any prior enmity with the accused was put to him and as such, the version put forth by the accused in statement made under Section 313 Cr.PC cannot be relied upon, rather, same deserve to be rejected outrightly by this Court.

16. In the present case, PW1 Lata and PW2 Tulsi mother in law of PW1 were moving on foot at that time and as per the depositions made by PW5 and 9, vehicle firstly struck against PW1 and thereafter fell 40 ft. down in a gorge.

17. PW1 deposed before the learned trial court that she along with her mother in law PW2 Tulsi and another women Prem Lata was coming back from Bashisht to Manali and when they reached at Chadhyari curve, vehicle/three wheeler came from the side of the Bashisht and hit her from her back and the vehicle went down from the road. She stated that she does not know the speed of the vehicle as she was hit from her back. However, in her cross-examination, she stated that accused driver was not at fault and the vehicle had skidded of the road.

18. PW2 Tulsi also reiterated the version put forth by PW1. She stated that she along with PW1 Lata and another woman, after taking bath at Bashisht, were coming back to Manali by walking, and when they reached Chadhyari curve, a three wheeler came and struck against her daughter in law PW1, as a result of which, her daughter in law fell down and vehicle in question also fell down from the road. Though aforesaid, PW1 and PW2 have not supported the case of the proseuciton that vehicle was being driven by the accused rashly and negligently and in high speed at the time of accident but careful perusal of these PWs corroborates the statement given by PWs 5 and 9 with regard to the timing and place of the accident because these two witnesses have supported the version put forth by PW5 and another occupant of the offending vehicle (PW9) where they stated that at Chadhyari turn the vehicle lost the control and after hitting one lady, fell down in the 40 ft. deep gorge.

19. Since it has specifically come in the statement of PW1 that she was hit by vehicle from her back, she could not be expected to state anything qua the speed of the vehicle. As per the statements of PW1 and PW2, when they were coming back from Bashisht after taking bath, at Chadhyari, vehicle came from the side of Bashisht and hit against PW1. PW10 specifically stated that three wheeler came from Bashisht side and struck her, meaning thereby, PW1 was not in a position to see the offending vehicle at the time of accident and, as such, non-stating /mentioning of speed by her of the vehicle in question at the time of accident is immaterial and accused cannot be allowed to take any advantage of the same. Admittedly, PWs1 and 2 in cross-examination stated that driver was not at fault at the time of accident since vehicle had skidded of the road but aforesaid admission made by PW1 cannot be given much weightage for two reasons: firstly PW5 and 9 have categorically stated that at the time of accident vehicle was being driven rashly and negligently in high speed by the accused and being occupants/eye witnesses, version put forth by them cannot be brushed easily in view of the statement given by PWs1 and 2, secondly, PW1 himself admitted that vehicle struck against her from her back and she had not seen/feigned ignorance with regard to the speed of three wheeler. Since PW1 was hit by the offending vehicle from her back, she along with PW2 was definitely coming in the downwards direction at the time of accident and as per the statements of PW1, where she herself stated that she was struck from her back by the vehicle, no statement with regard to speed of the vehicle, if any, made by PWs1 and 2, can be taken into consideration solely for the reason that they had no occasion to see vehicle coming from back. As far as skidding of vehicle from the road is concerned, admission made by PW1 cannot be relied upon because admittedly, as emerges from the statements made by all the prosecution witnesses, PW1, PW2 had no idea of any vehicle coming from her back side. Had PW1 seen the vehicle coming from her back, she would have definitely tried to save herself by taking side. Moreover, none of the other prosecution witnesses have stated that the road on the given date was wet and vehicle skidded of the road. Rather, careful perusal of the cross-examination conducted on PWs 5 and 9 suggests that suggestion put to these prosecution witnesses with regard to skidding as well as road being wet has been specifically denied by them.

20. Statement of PW4 is formal in nature and they are not required to be dealt with by this Court for determining the controversy at hand. Otherwise also PW3 as per record, took the injured to the Hospital after accident whereas PW4 and PW6 namely Chaman Lal and Mehar Chand are the witnesses to the seizure memo Ext.PW4/A vide which vehicle was taken into possession by the police.

21. PW7. Dr. Oommen George, Medical Officer, Mision Hospital, Manlai medically examined injured persons PW1 Lata Devi, Complainant Ahilya Devi, Seema Devi, Manisha, Yogesh (deceased) and accused driver Sanjay Rana and issued MLC Ext.PW7/A to Ext.PW7/F. It came in her statement that injury caused to master Yogesh were grievous injuries. She also stated that injury No. 3 sustained by injured Seema Devi could also be grievous. She also stated that except master Yogesh, who was referred to PGI, Chandigarh, all other occupants sustained simple injuries. He has stated that on 2.4.2001, he examined the injured and the injuries sustained by Yogesh (deceased) were grievous whereas other injured sustained simple injuries.

22. At this stage, it may be pointed out that deceased Yogesh at the time of accident was only five months' old and sustained head injury. Since he had sustained head injury, he was referred to PGI, Chandigarh for treatment and unfortunately died on 14.5.2001. Accordingly, medical evidence collected on record clearly depicts that PW1 namely Lata sustained simple injuries after falling on the road.

23. PW8 Budhi Singh, examined the vehicle involved in the accident and stated that after accident, he investigated the vehicle mechanically.

24. PW1, PW5 and PW9 suffered simple injuries on account of accident whereas another occupant master Yogesh succumbed to the injury. If the statement given by PW7 is read in conjunction with the statement given by other prosecution witnesses, especially, PW 5 and 9, it can be safely inferred that vehicle in question was being driven by the accused at the time of the accident rashly and negligently, as a result of which, one person died.

25. PW8 mechanically examined the vehicle. He in his statement stated that on 3.4.2001, he examined the vehicle and issued mechanical report Ext.PW8/A. He stated that vehicle in question was found in order at the time of examination but in his cross-examination, he categorically admitted that at the time of mechanical examination, he found the vehicle in neutral gear. He also admitted that road was wet when he examined the vehicle and accident was result of skidding of vehicle from the road. From the careful perusal of the statement made by PW8, who mechanically examined the vehicle, very important/crucial fact emerge, which certainly indicates towards the rash and negligent conduct of the accused. Aforesaid witnesses in cross-examination categorically stated that at the time of mechanical examination, vehicle was found in neutral gear. Careful perusal of spot map as well as statements rendered by all prosecution witnesses suggest that at the time of accident vehicle was going down the hill. Now after taking into consideration the admission made by the mechanical examiner PW8 in cross-examination, one thing clearly emerges that at the time of accident vehicle was being driven down the hill. At this stage, it can be presumed that accused driver solely with a view to save fuel put the vehicle in neutral gear as the vehicle was moving downwards and later on, it picked up speed in neutral gear and accused driver lost his control.

26. The aforesaid admission on the part of PW8, of vehicle being in neutral gear, certainly points towards the rash and negligent conduct of the accused. Learned counsel for the accused petitioner however stated that aforesaid statement of vehicle being in neutral gear at the time of mechanical examination could not be given much weightage because there is nothing apart from the statement of PW8 on record to suggest that vehicle at that relevant time was being driven in neutral gear by the accused driver. But in view of the fact, as has emerged from the records of the case, this Court after seeing the spot map and mechanical report Ext.PW8/A has reasons to presume that accused put the vehicle in neutral gear to save the fuel while driving down the hill and lost control. Another statement made by PW8 in cross examination that road was wet and accident occurred due to sudden skidding of the vehicle from the road needs to be rejected outrighly because as per his version, he mechanically tested the vehicle on 3rd April, 2001 whereas accident occurred on 2.4.2001. Since admittedly, PW8 was not present at the time of accident, which occurred on 2nd April, 2001, any statement made by him with regard to road being wet and skidding of vehicle on 2.4.2001 cannot be relied upon. Rather mechanical report i.e. Ext. PW8/A itself speaks volumes with regard to the negligent conduct of the accused that he admittedly was driving down the hill that too in neutral gear. Another factor which points towards the negligent driving being done by accused can be gauzed from the fact that as per the depositions made by all the PWs, accused first hit against the lady and thereafter, lost control of the vehicle and fell down the vehicle in gorge.

27. PW10 ASI Parma Nand stated that he had visited the Mission Hospital and recorded the statements of the complainant under Section 151 Cr.PC Ext.PW5/A and on the basis of which he lodged FIR. He also admitted of having obtained MLC Ext.PW7/A to Ext.PW7/F. It has also come in his statement that injured Yogesh was referred to PGI where he died later. He also proved spot plan Ext.PW10/C.

28. Careful perusal of site plan suggests that the width of road where accident actually occurred was 25 feet wide and and there was 30 feet long retaining wall at that place. It also emerges from perusal of Ext.PW10/C that there was 6 inch wall on the side of the road and the vehicle after breaking that wall fell down in 40 ft. gorge. As emerges from the perusal of the spot map, road was sufficiently wide and but for high speed, there could not be any other reason for vehicle to go off the road. After perusing the site plan and mechanical report, this Court has no reason to dis-believe the version put forth by PW5 and PW9 being the occupants of the vehicle that vehicle in question was being driven by the accused petitioner rashly and negligently at the time of the accident. Factum with regard to speed as well as rash and negligent driving by the accused at the relevant time can be ascertained from the fact that at the relevant place, road was 25 ft. wide and there was six inch wall on the side of the road. It is pertinent to notice at this stage that as per the statement of accused as well as PWs1 and 2, vehicle got skidded of the road and as a result of which it struck against the PW1 but record as well as statements made available on record suggests that vehicle after striking against PW1, lost control and went off the road. Had the vehicle was being driven in normal speed, definitely, it would have stopped after hitting PW1. But in the present case, vehicle went off the road that too after crossing six inch wall on the side of the road.

29. This court also carefully perused the statement given by Investigating Officer PW10, careful perusal of which clearly suggests that he has been very very consistent, specific and candid in giving the narration of the events occurred before and after the accident. There is nothing in cross-examination of PW-10 from where, it could be inferred that he had any reason/motive to falsely implicate the accused. Rather careful perusal of photographs No. 1 to 4 and mechanical report Ext.PW8/A clearly indicates that vehicle got badly damaged in the incident.

30. Conjoint reading of all the prosecution witnesses statements made by all the prosecution witnesses as well as documentary evidence led on record has compelled this Court to draw the conclusion that vehicle at the time of accident was being driven by the accused rashly and negligently that too in high speed and as such, accused has miserably failed to prove the accident occurred due to skidding of the vehicle. Rather, perusal of site plan, photographs and, especially, mechanical report that is Ext.PW8/A clearly points towards the negligent conduct of the accused. Hence, this court sees no reason whatsoever to differ with the decisions rendered by both the courts below that vehicle was being driven on high speed and accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of the accused.

31. During the arguments having been made by the counsel for the petitioner, it was contended that none of the prosecution witnesses have categorically stated that vehicle was being driven on high speed at that relevant time, and, as such, both the courts below have fallen in an error while concluding that vehicle was being driven rashly and negligently in high speed. He also invited attention of this Court to the statements given by PW1 and PW2 and PW8 to demonstrate that accident actually occurred when the road was wet and vehicle skidded of the road and there was no fault, if any, of the accused. He also tried to point out that none of the prosecution witnesses has specifically stated that vehicle in question was being driven at the relevant time on high speed.

32. At this stage learned counsel also placed reliance upon judgment of this Court reported in Gurcharan Singh versus State of Himachal Pradesh 1990 (2) ACJ 598, the relevant paragraphs of which are reproduced here-in-below:-

14. Adverting to the facts of this case, it is in evidence that the truck in question was loaded with fertilizer weighing 90 quintals. Obviously, it cannot be said that the speed of the vehicle was very fast. Secondly, it is a State Highway and not a National Highway. Therefore, the speed on this account as well cannot be considered to be high.

15. Coming to the statements of witnesses on this aspect, it has been stated that the truck was moving in high speed but it has not been said as to what that speed actually was. To say that a vehicle was moving in a high speed is neither a proper and legal evidence on high speed nor in any way indicates thereby the rashness on the part of the driver. The prosecution should have been exact on this aspect as speed of the vehicle is an essential point to be seen and proved in a case under Section 304-A of the Indian Penal Code. Further, there are no skid marks which eliminate the evidence of high speed of the vehicle. In addition to this, it has been stated by the witnesses that the vehicle stopped at a distance of 50 feet from the place of accident. This appears to be exaggerated. However, it is not a long distance looking to the two points; viz, the first impact of the accident and the last tyres of the vehicle and the total length of the body of the truck in question. If seen from these angles, the distance stated by the witnesses cannot be considered to be very long and thus an indication of high speed. The version of the petitioner that he blew the horn near about the place of curve which frightened the child, cannot be considered to be without substance. This can otherwise be reasonably inferred that the petitioner would have blown the horn on seeing the child on the road as it is in evidence that the child had come on the pucca portion of the road while there is no evidence as to whether the witnesses, more particularly, Ghanshyam, PW7, Chander Kanta, PW8, mother, and a few other witnesses were there at that particular time. Rather the depositions of these witnesses indicate that they were coming from some village lane which was joining the main road in question. Children of this age, usually crafty by temperament, move faster than the parents and are in advance of them while walking. This appears to have happened in the present case. Minute examination of the circumstances of this case and the evidence brought on the record, discloses that the deceased had reached the pucca portion of the road much before the arrival of his parents and the witnesses. That is why in their deposition they have said that the child had been run over by the truck. On the other hand, the petitioner has stated that horn by him and started crossing the road which could not be seen by him and the result was the accident and the death of the child. In case some pedestrians suddenly cross a road, the driver of the vehicle cannot save the pedestrian, however slow he may be driving the vehicle. In such a situation he cannot be held negligent; rather it appears that the parents of the child were negligent in not taking proper care of the child and allowed him to come alone to the road while they were somewhere behind and they could have rushed to pull back the child before the approaching vehicle came in contact with him as it is in their depositions that the truck driver was at a distance coming at a high speed and in case the child wanted to cross the road, it could do so within the time it reached at the place of the accident. How the accident has actually taken place, has not been clearly and comprehensively stated by any of the witnesses. They appear to have been prejudiced by the act of the driver. Their versions are, therefore, coloured by the ultimate act of the petitioner and the fact that the child had been finished.

33. True it is that the Hon'ble High Court while passing aforesaid judgment has observed that "prosecution should have been exact on this aspect as speed of the vehicle is an essential point to be seen and proved under Section 304-A of the Indian Penal Code". Definitely, there cannot be any quarrel with regard to the aforesaid observations made by the Court but now question arises as to what can be the method/mode for measuring the exact speed of the offending vehicle at the time of accident. Undisputedly, in the present case, offending vehicle after collusion stopped and automatically speedometer springs back to “Zero” and as such, no help at all can be taken from speedometer to ascertain the exact speed of the vehicle. To my mind, the eye witnesses of the accident can be the best persons to depose whether offending vehicle was in high speed or not. Apart from above, aspect of high speed can be gauzed from the side/direction of the offending vehicle being driven on the wrong side and certainly an inference of its being driven rashly and negligently on high speed can be drawn by perusing spot map, photographs and mechanical reports which may point towards the force/impact, as supporting evidence. But obviously, in the absence of some specific mode to gauze the speed, only eye witnesses to the accident can be the best persons to depose the high speed/actual speed of the vehicle.

34. Mr. Goel, learned counsel also invited attention of this Court to the judgment rendered by the Hon’ble Punjab and Haryana High Court reported in Thana Ram versus State of Haryana 1996 (2) CRI.L.J. 2020, the relevant paragraphs of which are reproduced here-in-below:-

> 8. From a bare perusal of the testimony of Avdesh Yadav (PW.2), it is evident that it is quite vague and indefinite as regards the investigation carried out by Sub Inspector Ram Chander on the spot of occurrence. According to him, he is an eye witness. He has nowhere stated if any site plan of the spot of the occurrence was prepared, whether any measurements of the spot of occurrence were taken, whether any other document was prepared on the spot in his presence, and whether any persons of the nearby place who might have been present at that time were questioned or examined by the Investigating Officer. According to this witness, the truck in question was coming from the front side and he was at a distance of about 20 yards behind the deceased. In these circumstances testimony of Avdesh Yadav (PW.2) could not be said to be safe to hold that the petitioner was driving the vehicle in question in a rash and negligent manner. It appears that both the Courts were impressed with the fact that an accident had taken place in which Kishore along with cycle were crushed under the right rear wheel of the truck and as such, came to the conclusion that the petitioner was driving his vehicle in a rash and negligent manner. To base conviction of an accused for the offences under Sections 279/304-A of the Indian Penal Code, the prosecution is bound to prove that the accused was driving the vehicle in a rash and negligent manner and there should be nexus between such driving and death of the deceased. Therefore, there should have been some material to corroborate the testimony of Avdesh Yadav (PW.2) to prove the rash and negligent driving on the part of the petitioner.

35. Reliance is also placed on Judgment rendered by the Delhi High Court in Abdul Subhan V. State, 2007 CRI. L. J. 1089, the relevant para of which is being reproduced herein below:-

> “10. I now take up examination of the question of convicting a person merely on the allegation that he was driving a vehicle at a high-speed. In State of Karnataka v. Satish (supra) the Supreme Court was faced with a similar situation. The Court observed as under: --
> > 3. Both the trial court and the appellate court held the respondent guilty for offences under Section 337, 338 and 304A IPC after recording a finding that the respondent was driving the truck at a "high-speed". No specific finding has been recorded either by the trial court or by the first appellate court to the effect that the respondent was driving the truck either negligently or rashly. After holding that the respondent was driving the truck at a "high- speed", both the courts pressed into aid the doctrine of res ipsa loquitor to hold the respondent guilty.

4. Merely because the truck was being driven at a "high-speed" does not bespeak of either "negligence" or "rashness" by itself. None of the witnesses examined by the prosecution could give any indication, even approximately, as to what they meant by "high-speed". "High-speed" is a relative term. It was for the prosecution to bring on record material to establish as to what is meant by "high-speed" in the facts and circumstances of the case. In a criminal trial, the burden of proving everything essential to the establishment of the charge against an accused always rests on the prosecution and there is a presumption of innocence in favor of the accused until the contrary is proved. Criminality is not to be presumed, subject of course to some statutory exceptions. There is no such statutory exception pleaded in the present case. In the absence of any material on the record, no presumption of "rashness" or "negligence" could be drawn by invoking the maxim "res ipsa loquitor". There is evidence to show that immediately before the truck turned turtle, there was a big jerk. It is not explained as to whether the jerk was because of the uneven road or mechanical failure. The motor vehicle inspector who inspected the vehicle had submitted his report. That report is not forthcoming from the record and the inspector was not examined for reasons best known to the prosecution. This is a serious infirmity and lacuna in the prosecution case.

5. There being no evidence on the record to establish "negligence" or "rashness" in driving the truck on the part of the respondent, it cannot be said that the view taken by the High Court in acquitting the respondent is a perverse view. To us it appears that the view of the High Court, in the facts and circumstances of this case, is a reasonably possible view. We, therefore, do not find any reason to interfere with the order of acquittal. The appeal fails and is dismissed. The respondent is on bail. His bail bonds shall stand discharged. The aforesaid observations of the Supreme Court make it more than clear that a mere allegation of high-speed would not tantamount to rashness or negligence. In the present case also, I find that apart from the allegation that the truck was being driven at a very high-speed there is nothing to indicate that the petitioner acted in a manner which could be regarded as rash or negligent. In any event there is no description or approximation of what was the speed at which the truck was being driven. The expression "high-speed" could range from 30 km per hour to over 100 km per hour. It is not even known as to what the speed limit on Mathura Road was and whether the petitioner was exceeding that speed limit. Therefore, in the absence of material facts it cannot be said, merely because there is an allegation that the petitioner was driving the truck at a high-speed, that the petitioner is guilty of a rash or negligent act. Clearly the petitioner cannot be convicted on the sole testimony of PW 3 which itself suffers from various ambiguities.

36. There cannot be any quarrel as far as the observation having been made by the Hon'ble Courts in cases referred above, however, this Court after seeing the overwhelming evidence on record is unable to accept the aforesaid contention put forth by the counsel for the accused. PWs No. 5 and 9, who were the occupants and the eye witnesses to the accident have categorically stated that vehicle at that relevant time was being driven rashly and negligently in high speed by the accused. As far as the statements given by the PW1, 2 and 8 are concerned, same cannot be given much weightage solely for the reason that none of them saw vehicle coming at that time. PW1 specifically stated that she was hit from her back and, as such, she could not state anything with regard to speed and as far as PW8 is concerned, his statement of road being wet and skidding of road cannot be relied upon solely for the reason that he, for the first time, saw vehicle on 3.4.2016, when he came there for mechanical examination of the vehicle, whereas accident took place on 2.4.2016

37. In the present case, where it stands proved beyond any doubt that vehicle was being driven rashly and negligently by the accused at the time of accident, as a result of which, one person namely Yogesh lost his life, no fault, if any, can be found with the judgments passed by both the Court below.

38. Faced with this situation, learned counsel for the petitioner-accused also prayed that accused may be given the benefit of probation under Section 4(b) of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 keeping in view his age and his being first offender. He also stated that mitigating circumstance in this case is that more than 15 years have passed after happening of that incident and 6 years have been passed after passing the judgment dated 12.3.2008, whereby the accused was convicted and he has already suffered agony during the pendency of the appeal in the court of learned Sessions Judge, Kullu as well as in High Court of Himachal Pradesh. In support of the aforesaid arguments, Mr. Goel, also invited the attention of this Court to the judgment passed by this Hon'ble Court in Yudhbir Singh versus State of Himachal Pradesh 1998(1)S.L.J. 58, wherein it has been held as under:

> 9. The only mitigating circumstance that appears to be there is that the time gap of about six years between the date of occurrence as well as the date of decision of this revision petitioner. During this entire period sword of present case looming over the head of the petitioner was always there. That being so, this court is of the view that instead of sending the petitioner to jail as ordered by the courts below, he is given the benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act. Accordingly, it is ordered that he shall furnish personal bond in the sum of Rs. 5,000/- to the satisfaction of the trial Court within a period of four weeks from today to keep peace and to be of good behavior for a period of one year from the date of execution of the bond before the court below as well as not to commit any such offence. In addition to being given benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, petitioner is further directed to pay a sum of Rs. 3,000/- each to PWs Baldev Singh and Dilbagh Singh injured as compensation. Shri R.K. Gautam submitted that this amount of compensation be deposited with the trial Court on or before 31.8.1997, who will thereafter pay the same to said persons.

39. On the other hand, Mr. Rupinder Singh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General, invited attention of this Court to the judgment passed in the Hon'ble Apex Court in Dalbir Singh versus State of Haryana 2000 (5) SCC 82 wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under :-

> 13. Bearing in mind the galloping trend in road accidents in India and the devastating consequences visiting the victims and their families, criminal courts cannot treat the nature of the offence under Section 304-A IPC as attracting the benevolent provisions of Section 4 of the PO Act. While considering the quantum of sentence to be imposed for the offence of causing death by rash or negligent driving of automobiles, one of the prime considerations should be deterrence. A professional driver pedals the accelerator of the automobile almost throughout his working hours. He must constantly inform himself that he cannot afford to have a single moment of laxity or inattentiveness when his leg is on the pedal of a vehicle in locomotion. He cannot and should not take a chance thinking that a rash driving need not necessarily cause any accident; or even if any accident occurs it need not necessarily result in the death of any human being; or even if such death ensues he might not be convicted of the offence; and lastly, that even if he is convicted he would be dealt with leniently by the court. He must always keep in his mind the fear psyche that if he is convicted of the offence for causing death of a human being due to his callous driving of the vehicle he cannot escape from a jail sentence. This is the role which the courts can play, particularly at the level of trial courts, for lessening the high rate of motor accidents due to callous driving of automobiles.

14. Thus, bestowing our serious consideration on the arguments addressed by the learned counsel for the appellant we express our inability to lean towards the benevolent provision in Section 4 of the PO Act. The appeal is accordingly dismissed.

40. This Court also cannot lose sight of the stern observations made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Punjab versus Saurabh Bakshi 2015 (5) SCC 182. While dealing with the accident case, the Hon'ble Apex Court has taken serious view of reduction of sentences by the courts below. Their lordships in the aforesaid judgment in paras No. 1, 14, 24 and 25 have held as under;

"1. Long back, an eminent thinker and author, Sophocles, had to say:

"Law can never be enforced unless fear supports them."

Though the aforesaid statement was made centuries back, it has its pertinence, in a way, with the enormous vigour, in today's society. It is the duty of every right thinking citizen to show veneration to law so that an orderly, civilized and peaceful society emerges. It has to be borne in mind that law is averse to any kind of chaos. It is totally intolerant of anarchy. If any one defies law, he has to face the wrath of law, depending on the concept of proportionality that the law recognizes. It can never be forgotten that the purpose of criminal law legislated by the competent legislatures, subject to judicial scrutiny within constitutionally established parameters, is to protect the collective interest and save every individual that forms a constituent of the collective from unwarranted hazards. It is sometimes said in an egocentric and uncivilised manner that law cannot bind the individual actions which are perceived as flaws by the large body of people, but, the truth is and has to be that when the law withstands the test of the constitutional scrutiny in a democracy, the individual notions are to be ignored. At times certain crimes assume more accent and gravity depending on the nature and impact of the crime on the society. No court should ignore the same being swayed by passion of mercy. It is the obligation of the court to constantly remind itself that the right of the victim, and be it said, on certain occasions the person aggrieved as well as the society at large can be victims, never be marginalised. In this context one may recapitulate the saying of Justice Benjamin N. Cardizo "Justice, though due to the accused, is due to the accuser too". And, therefore, the requisite norm has to be the established principles laid down in precedents. It is neither to be guided by a sense of sentimentality nor to be governed by prejudices.

14. In this context, we may refer with profit to the decision in Balwinder Singh (supra) wherein the High Court had allowed the revision and reduced the quantum of sentence awarded by the Judicial Magistrate, First Class, for the offences punishable under Section 304A, 337, 279 of IPC by reducing the sentence of imprisonment already undergone that is 15 days. The court referred to the decision in Dalbir Singh v. State of Haryana and reproduced two paragraphs which we feel extremely necessary for reproduction:- (Balwinder Singh case, SCC pp. 186-87, para12)

"12…1. When automobiles have become death traps any leniency shown to drivers who are found guilty of rash driving would be at the risk of further escalation of road accidents. All those who are manning the steering of automobiles, particularly professional drivers, must be kept under constant reminders of their duty to adopt utmost care and also of the consequences befalling them in cases of dereliction. One of the most effective ways of keeping such drivers under mental vigil is to maintain a deterrent element in the sentencing sphere. Any latitude shown to them in that sphere would tempt them to make driving frivolous and a frolic.

13. Bearing in mind the galloping trend in road accidents in India and the devastating consequences visiting the victims and their families, criminal courts cannot treat the nature of the offence under Section 304-A IPC as attracting the benevolent provisions of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act. While considering the quantum of sentence to be imposed for the offence of causing death by rash or negligent driving of automobiles, one of the prime considerations should be deterrence. A professional driver pedals the accelerator of the automobile almost throughout his working hours. He must constantly inform himself that he cannot afford to have a single moment of laxity or inattentiveness when his leg is on the pedal of a vehicle in locomotion. He cannot and should not take a chance thinking that a rash driving need not necessarily cause any accident; or even if any accident occurs it need not necessarily result in the death of any human being; or even if such death ensues he might not be convicted of the offence; and lastly, that even if he is convicted he would be dealt with leniently by the court. He must always keep in his mind the fear psyche that if he is convicted of the offence for causing death of a human being due to his callous driving of the vehicle he cannot escape from a jail sentence. This is the role which the courts can play, particularly at the level of trial courts, for lessening the high rate of motor accidents due to callous driving of automobiles." (Dalbir Singh case, SCC pp. 84—85 & 87, paras 1 &13)"

24. Needless to say, the principle of sentencing recognizes the corrective measures but there are occasions when the deterrence is an imperative necessity depending upon the facts of the case. In our opinion, it is a fit case where we are constrained to say that the High Court has been swayed away by the passion of mercy in applying the principle that payment of compensation is a factor for reduction of sentence to 24 days. It is absolutely in the realm of misplaced sympathy. It is, in a way mockery of justice. Because justice is "the crowning glory", "the sovereign mistress" and "queen of virtue" as Cicero had said. Such a crime blights not only the lives of the victims but of many others around them. It ultimately shatters the faith of the public in judicial system. In our view, the sentence of one year as imposed by the trial Magistrate which has been affirmed by the appellate court should be reduced to six months

25. Before parting with the case we are compelled to observe that India has a disreputable record of road accidents. There is a nonchalant attitude among the drivers. They feel that they are the "Emperors of all they survey". Drunkenness contributes to careless driving where the other people become their prey. The poor feel that their lives are not safe, the pedestrians think of uncertainty and the civilized persons drive in constant fear but still apprehensive about the obnoxious attitude of the people who project themselves as "larger than life". In such obtaining circumstances, we are bound to observe that the law-makers should scrutinize, relook and revisit the sentencing policy in Section 304-A IPC, so with immense anguish."

41. After giving my thoughtful consideration to the law cited by Mr. Goel, Advocate representing the accused in the present case, I am of the view that same cannot be made applicable in the present case for granting the benefit of Section 4 of probation of Offenders Act, 1958. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgment cited above has deprecated the practice of courts in settling the matter by awarding compensation or releasing the accused by giving the benefit of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958. In the facts and circumstances of the present case, where there is overwhelming evidence to suggest that vehicle was driven by the accused in most rash and negligent manner, no leniency can be shown to the accused.

42. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, this Court has no reason to interfere with the well reasoned judgments of courts below, which are apparently based upon the correct appreciation of the evidence on record. However, this Court after careful perusal of the material evidence available on record as well as facts and circumstances is of the view that sentences imposed by the court below under Section 304-A of the Indian Penal Code is harsh and excessive and same needs to be modified accordingly. Accordingly, sentence imposed by the learned court below under Section 304-A of the Indian Penal Code is reduced to three months instead of one year. The petitioner-accused is directed to surrender himself before the learned trial Court forthwith to serve the sentence as awarded by learned Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, Manali, vide separate order dated 13.3.2008 and further modified by this Court vide this judgment. Needless to say that order dated 21.8.2009, passed by this Court, whereby sentence imposed by the Court below was suspended, shall stand vacated automatically. Pending applications, if any, stand disposed of.

Sanjeev Kumar .....Appellant

Versus

Manmohan Singh and another .....Respondents

FAO No.:229 of 2011.
Decided on : 01.07.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- Driver had a valid and effective driving licence to drive LMV (TPT) - offending vehicle was a jeep, and its un-laden weight was 1610 kg., thus, vehicle falls within definition of LMV- Tribunal had wrongly saddled the insured with liability- appeal allowed and the insurer directed to satisfy the award. (Para-5 to 11)

Case referred:

Kulwant Singh and others vs. Oriental Insurance Company Limited, (2015) 2 Supreme Court Cases 186

For the appellant: Mr.Jagdish Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr.Praneet Gupta, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Mr.G.D. Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is the award, dated 30th September, 2010, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Fast Track Court, Una, District Una, H.P. (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.5 of 2006, titled Manmohan Singh vs. Sanjiv Kumar and another, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.1,47,000/-, alongwith interest at the rate of 7% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till the payment is made, came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and the insurer was saddled with the liability, with right of recovery, (for short the "impugned award").

2. The claimant and the insurer have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus, the same has attained finality so far as it relates to them.

3. Feeling aggrieved, the insured/owner has challenged the impugned award by the medium of instant appeal on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen into an error in granting right of recovery to the insurer.

4. Thus, the only question to be determined in this appeal is – Whether the insurer has rightly granted right of recovery in favour of the insurer. The answer is in the negative for the following reasons.

5. Admittedly, the appellant i.e. original respondent No.1, namely, Sanjiv Kumar was driving the offending vehicle (Mahindra Pick Up) bearing No.HP-36-3685 and was having a valid and effective driving licence to drive LMV (TPT) vehicles. Copy of the driving licence has been placed on record as Mark X, which would show that the driver was competent to drive a light motor vehicle transport and the said license was valid at the time of accident. The offending vehicle involved in the accident was Jeep, registration certificate of which has been placed on record as Mark Y, wherein it is mentioned that the unladen weight of the offending vehicle was 1610 kg. Thus, the offending vehicle, in terms of Section 2(21) of the Motor Vehicle Act, which is reproduced hereinbelow, comes under the definition of "light motor vehicle".

> (21) "light motor vehicle" means a transport vehicle or omnibus the gross vehicle weight of either or which or a motor car or tractor or road-roller the unladen weight of any of which, does not exceed 7,500 kilograms."

6. The above provision clearly shows that the vehicle, with unladen weight not exceeding 7,500 kilograms, would fall within the definition of "light motor vehicle".

7. As has been discussed supra, the driver of the offending vehicle was having driving license to drive vehicles falling within the definition of "light motor vehicle", thus, can be said to have a valid and effective driving licence, as has been held by this Court in catena of judgments, i.e. FAO No.125 of 2006, titled Oriental Insurance Company vs. Shashibala and others, FAO No.312 of 2012, titled Sukhvinder Singh and another vs. The New India Assurance Ltd. and others, etc.

8. This Court in series of cases i.e. FAO No.320 of 2008, titled Dalip Kumar and another vs. New India Assurance Company Ltd. & another, decided on 6th June, 2014, FAO No.306 of 2012, titled Prem Singh and others vs. Dev Raj and others, decided on 18th July, 2014 and FAO No.54 of 2012, titled Mahesh Kumar and another vs. Smt.Priaro Devi and Others, decided on 25th July, 2014, has discussed the issue and held that the driver having driving licence to drive Light Motor Vehicle is not required to have endorsement of "PSV" i.e. public service vehicle.

9. The Apex Court in latest decision, in Kulwant Singh and others vs. Oriental Insurance Company Limited, (2015) 2 Supreme Court Cases 186, has held that the driver who is having valid and effective driving licence to drive a Light Motor Vehicle is not required to have endorsement to drive a light commercial vehicle. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs No.10 and 11 hereunder:

> "10. In S. Iyyapan (supra), the question was whether the driver who had a licence to drive 'light motor vehicle' could drive 'light motor vehicle' used as a commercial vehicle, without obtaining endorsement to drive a commercial vehicle. It was held that in such a case, the Insurance Company could not disown its liability. It was observed :

> "18. In the instant case, admittedly the driver was holding a valid driving licence to drive light motor vehicle. There is no dispute that the motor vehicle in question, by which accident took place, was Mahindra Maxi Cab. Merely because the driver did not get any endorsement in the driving licence to drive Mahindra Maxi Cab, which is a light motor vehicle, the High Court has committed grave error of law in holding that the insurer is not liable to pay compensation because the driver was not holding the licence to drive the commercial vehicle. The impugned judgment (Civil Misc. Appeal No.1016 of 2002, order dated 31.10.2008 (Mad) is, therefore, liable to be set aside."

No contrary view has been brought to our notice.

11. Accordingly, we are of the view that there was no breach of any condition of insurance policy, in the present case, entitling the Insurance Company to recovery rights."

10. In view of the above discussion, it is apparent that the Tribunal has wrongly decided issue No.3 against the owner/insured and in favour of the insurer. Accordingly, the findings returned on issue No.3 are set aside and it is held that the driver of the offending vehicle was having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident.

11. The findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.4 are also required to be set aside for the reason that the onus to prove the said issue was on the insurer, which it has not discharged. It is apt to record that the factum of insurance was admitted. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the vehicle, at the relevant time, was being driven in violation of the terms and condtions of the insurance policy and thus the insurer was in breach, has failed to do so. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on this issue are also set aside and this issue is also decided against the insurer and in favour of the owner/insured.

12. Having said so, the appeal is allowed, the impugned award is modified and the insurer is saddled with the liability.

13. At this stage, the learned counsel for the claimant stated that the insurer has already deposited the amount before the Tribunal. He placed on record the particulars of bank account of the claimant and prayed that the Tribunal be directed to release the amount in favour of the claimant through the said bank account. Accordingly, the Tribunal is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimant through his bank account. The Registry is directed to send down the record forthwith alongwith a copy of this judgment and a copy of the claimant's bank account particulars to the Tribunal forthwith.

14. The appeal stands disposed of.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- It was pleaded by claimants that deceased was unloading the marble slabs- marble slab slipped and hit the deceased - vehicle was stationary for unloading - held that the accident had taken place due to use of the motor vehicle and the claim petition is maintainable- deceased was driver by profession and his income cannot be less than

Rs. 6,000/-- 1/3rd amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses- multiplier of '15' is applicable- claimants are entitled to Rs. 4,000/- x 12 x 15 = Rs. 7,20,000/- under the head 'loss of dependency'- claimants are also entitled to Rs. 10,000/- each under the heads 'loss of consortium', 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses'- thus, claimants are entitled to total compensation of Rs. 7,20,000/- + Rs. 10,000/- + Rs. 10,000/- + Rs. 10,000/- + Rs. 10,000/- = Rs. 7,60,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the claim petition till its realization. Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Ishan Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice.

Challenge in this appeal is to judgment and award, dated 29th August, 2009, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (II), Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P. (for short "the Tribunal") in MACP No. 31-J/2006 titled as Smt. Sharestha Devi and others versus Kishori Lal and others, whereby the claim petition filed by the appellants-claimants came to be dismissed (for short "the impugned award").

2. In order to determine this appeal, it is necessary to give a brief resume of the case, the womb of which has given birth to the instant appeal.

3. The appellants-claimants invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal by the medium of the claim petition for grant of compensation to the tune of ₹ 10,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the ground that their sole bread earner, namely Parhlad, husband of appellant-claimant No. 1 and son of appellants-claimants No. 2 & 3, became victim of the accident arising out of use of the motor vehicle, i.e. truck, bearing registration No. HP-69-0747, on 15th September, 2005, at about 10.30 A.M. near 33 Miles, on Pathankot-Manali National Highway.

4. It has been averred in the claim petition that when the deceased was unloading marble slabs from the offending vehicle, one of the marble slabs slipped, hit the deceased near the truck, who sustained injuries and succumbed to the said injuries.

5. The claim petition was resisted by the driver, owner-insured and the insurer of the offending vehicle on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections.

6. The replies filed by the respondents are evasive and not as per the mandate of Order VIII of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short "CPC"). Thus, it is deemed that they have admitted the averments contained in the claim petition.

7. On the pleadings of the parties, following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal on 11th December, 2007:

> "1. Whether the death of the deceased had taken place due to the rash and negligent act of the respondent No. 2 by moving the truck No. HP-69-0747 at 33 Miles on Pathankot-Manali National Highway as alleged? OPP
>
> 2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation the petitioners are entitled to and from whom? OPP
>
> 3. Whether the petition is not maintainable in the present form as alleged? OPR
>
> 4. Whether the respondent No. 2 being driver of the offending vehicle was not having valid and effective driving licence as alleged? OPR-3
> 5. Relief."

8. Parties have led evidence.

9. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that the claimants have failed to prove that the accident was outcome of rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle by its driver. The Tribunal dismissed the claim petition, however, has assessed the compensation and held that the claimants are entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 5,25,000/-, as per the details given in para 15 of the impugned award.

Issue No. 1:

10. The moot question is – whether the Tribunal has rightly determined issue No. 1 and dismissed the claim petition? The answer is in the negative for the following reasons:

11. The appellants-claimants have specifically averred in the claim petition that deceased-Parhlad was unloading the marble slabs from the offending vehicle at the relevant point of time, one of the marble slabs slipped and hit deceased-Parhlad near the truck, have led evidence to this effect.

12. The appellants-claimants have examined HHC Des Raj as PW-1, who has proved the report under Section 174 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short "CrPC"), filed before the Court of competent jurisdiction, which has been exhibited as Ext. PW-1/A.

13. The Tribunal has made mention of the said report in para 8 of the impugned award. The Tribunal has also held in the same para that there is no dispute about the death of deceased-Parhlad. It would be profitable to reproduce relevant portion of para 8 of the impugned award herein:

> "8. ....The responsibility of unloading the material is always that of the owner of the material. Police had reached the Hospital and there they found deadbody of Prahlad. Police conducted proceedings under Section 174 CrPC and the same is Ex. PW1/A. A perusal of it would show that Prahlad was unloading the marvel of his employer and he was working with Shri Shan Singh.
> xxx xxx xxx
> There is no dispute qua the death of Prahlad and autopsy report is Ex. PW2/A and deceased had died on account of internal injury to trachea filled with blood leading to suffocation causing death due to asphyxia in due course."

14. Admittedly, the offending vehicle was parked and stationary at the relevant point of time for the purpose of unloading the marble slabs, as has also been mentioned by the Tribunal in para 9 of the impugned award, the relevant portion of which reads as under:

> "9. While filing petition, the claimants relied on report prepared by the police which is Ext.PW1/A and it recited that deceased Prahlad was unloading the marvel slabs of his owner Shan Singh and he suffered injuries while unloading........"

15. The said finding has not been questioned by the owner-insured, driver and insurer of the offending vehicle, has attained finality.

16. It is also admitted fact that the offending vehicle was stationery for the purpose of unloading the marble slabs, as discussed hereinabove. Thus, the question is – whether the claim petition was maintainable?

17. The compensation was to be granted irrespective of the fact as to whether the claim petition was filed under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "MV Act") or Section 163A of the MV Act for the following reasons:

18. The MV Act has gone through a sea change in the year 1994 and in terms of Sections 158 (6) and 166 (4) of the MV Act, the Tribunal can treat even a police report as a claim petition.

19. The purpose of granting compensation is just to ameliorate the sufferings of the victims of the motor vehicular accident and the niceties, hypertechnicalities, procedural wrangles and tangles and mystic maybes have no role to play and that should not be a ground to dismiss the claim petition and to defeat the rights of the claimants.

20. The same principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in the cases titled as N.K.V. Bros. (P.) Ltd. versus M. Karumai Ammal and others etc., reported in AIR 1980 Supreme Court 1354; Sohan Lal Passi versus P. Sesh Reddy and others, reported in AIR 1996 Supreme Court 2627; and Dulcina Fernandes and others versus Joaquim Xavier Cruz and another, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 646.

21. This Court has also laid down the same principle in a series of cases.

22. It is the duty of the Tribunal/Appellate Court to achieve the aim and object of the granting of compensation. The strict proof is not required and discrepancies or pleadings or loose pleadings cannot be made a ground to dismiss the claim petition. These proceedings are summary in nature, do not require strict compliance of the rules of evidence and pleadings. The Tribunal has to take special care to see that innocent victims do not suffer and it cannot wash its hands of the responsibility and duty by dismissing the claim petition. It is to be kept in mind by the Tribunal that it is dealing with a claim petition which is outcome of social welfare legislation.

23. It is well established principle of law that the Tribunal, while dealing with claim petition, has to keep in mind that it is outcome of a social legislation, has to follow the principles of justice, equity and good conscience and has to apply a more realistic, pragmatic and liberal approach.

24. The Apex Court in a case titled as Madan Gopal Kanodia versus Mamraj Maniram and others, reported in (1977) 1 Supreme Court Cases 669, held that the Courts should not scrutinize the pleadings with such meticulous care resulting in genuine claims being defeated on trivial grounds. It is apt to reproduce para 13 of the judgment herein:

> "13. ...... It is well-settled that pleadings are loosely drafted in the Courts and the Courts should not scrutinise the pleadings with such meticulous care so as to result in genuine claims being defeated on trivial grounds. In our opinion the finding of the High Court that there was wide gap between the pleadings and the proof is not at all borne out from the record of the present case."

25. Having glance of the above discussions, one comes to an inescapable conclusion that the deceased was unloading marble slabs at the relevant point of time, one of the marble slabs slipped and hit the deceased near the truck. Thus, it is a case of accident arising 'out of use of motor vehicle'.

26. This Court, while dealing with a case of similar nature in FAO No. 537 of 2008, titled as United India Insurance Company Ltd. Versus Sh. Talaru Ram and others, decided on 18th December, 2015, held that claim petition is maintainable. It is apt to reproduce paras 25 to 31 and 33 of the judgment herein:

> "25. The Apex Court in the case titled as Shivaji Dayanu Patil and another versus Vatschala Uttam More, reported in 1991 ACJ 777, has interpreted the words and expression 'use of motor vehicle' and held that these have a wide connotation. It is apt to reproduce paras 31 to 36 of the judgment herein:
> > "31. The words "arising out of" have been used in various statutes in different contexts and have been construed by Courts widely as well as narrowly, keeping in view the context in which they have been used in a particular legislation.
> >
> > 32. In Heyman v. Darwins Ltd., 1942 AC 356, while construing the arbitration clause in a contract, Lord Porter expressed the view that as compared to the word 'under', the expression 'arising out of' has a wider meaning. In Union of India v. E.B. Aaby's Rederi A/S, 1975 AC 797, Viscount Dilhorne and Lord Salmon stated that they could not discover any difference between the expression "arising out of" and "arising under" and they equated "arising out of" in the arbitration clause in a Charter Party with "arising under."
> >
> > 33. In Samick Lines Co. Ltd. v. Owners of the Antonis P. Lemos, (1985) 2 WLR 468, the House of Lords was considering the question whether a claim for damages based on negligence in tort could be regarded as a claim arising out of an agreement under section 20(2)(1)(h) of the Supreme Court Act, 1981 and fell within the admiralty jurisdiction of the High Court. The words "any claim arising out of any agreement relating to the carriage of goods in a ship or to the use of hire of a ship" in section 20(2)(1)(h) were held to be wide enough to cover claims, whether in contract or tort arising out of any agreement relating to the carriage of goods in a vessel and it was also held that for such an agreement to come within paragraph (h), it was not necessary that the claim in question be directly connected with some agreement of the kinds referred to in it. The words "arising out of" were not construed to mean "arising under" as in Union of India v. E.B. Aaby's A/S, 1975 AC 797, which decision was held inapplicable to the "The words" injury caused by or ar ising out construction of S. 20(2)(1)(h) and it was observed by Lord Brandon:
> >
> > "With regard to the first point, I would readily accept that in certain contexts the expression 'arising out of' may, on the ordinary and natural meaning of the words use, be the equivalent of the expression 'arising under', and not that of the wider expression 'connected with'. In my view, however, the expression 'arising out of' is, on the ordinary and natural meaning of the words used, capable, in other contexts, of being the equivalent of the wider expression 'connected with'. Whether the expression 'arising out of' has the narrower or the wider meaning in any particular case must depend on the context in which it is used."

Keeping in view the context in which the expression was used in the statute it was construed to have the wider meaning viz. 'connected with'.

34. In the context of motor accidents the expressions 'caused by' and 'arising out of' are often used in statutes. Although both these expressions imply a causal relationship between the accident resulting in injury and the use of the motor vehicle but they differ in the degree of proximity of such relationship. This distinction has been lucidly brought out in the decision of the High Court of Australia in Government Insurance Office of N.S.W. v. R.J. Green & Lloyd Pty. Ltd., 1967 ACJ 329 (HC, Australia), wherein Lord Barwick, C.J., has stated :

"Bearing in mind the general purpose of the Act I think the expression' arising out of' must be taken to require a less proximate relationship of the injury to the relevant use of the vehicle than is required to satisfy the words caused by'. It may be that an association of the injury with the use of the vehicle while it cannot be said that that use was causally related to the injury may yet be enough to satisfy the expression 'arise out of' as used in the Act and in the policy."

35. In the same case, Windeyer, J. has observed as under :

"The words 'injury by or arising out of the use of the vehicle' postulate a causal relationship between the use of the vehicle and the injury. 'Caused by' connotes a 'direct' or 'Proximate' relationship of cause and effect. 'Arising out of' extends this to a result that is less immediate; but it still carries a sense of consequence."

36. This would show that as compared to the expression 'caused by', the expression 'arising out of' has a wider connotation. The expression 'caused by' was used in sections 95(1)(b)(i) and (ii) and 96(2)(b)(ii) of the Act. In section 92-A, Parliament, however, chose to use the expression 'arising out of' which indicates that for the purpose of awarding compensation under section 92-A, the causal relationship between the use of the motor vehicle and the accident resulting in death or permanent disablement is not required to be direct and proximate and it can be less immediate. This would imply that accident should be,connected with the use of the motor vehicle but the said connection need not be direct and immediate. This construction of the expression "arising out of the use of a motor vehicle" in section 92-A enlarges the field of protection made available to the victims of an accident and is in consonance with the beneficial object underlying the enactment."

26. While going through the judgment (supra), one comes to an inescapable conclusion how the accident and injury/death have relationship with use of motor vehicle.

27. The Apex Court in another case titled as Rita Devi (Smt) and others versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. and another, reported in (2000) 5 Supreme Court Cases 113, has discussed the scope of Section 163A of the MV Act and the expression 'death due to accident arising out of the use of motor vehicle' occurring in Section 163A of the MV Act. It is profitable to reproduce paras 9 to 18 of the judgment herein:

"9. A conjoint reading of the above two sub-sections of Sec. 163-A shows that a victim or his heirs are entitled to claim from the owner / insurance company a compensation for death or permanent disablement suffered due to accident arising out of the use of the motor vehicle (emphasis supplied), without having to prove wrongful act or neglect or default of anyone. Thus, it is clear, if it is established by the claimants that the death or disablement was caused due to an accident arising out of the use of motor vehicle, then contention of the Insurance Company which was accepted by the High Court is that the death of the deceased (Dasarath Singh) was not caused by an accident arising out of the use of motor vehicle. Therefore, we will have to examine the actual legal import of the words "death due to accident arising out of the use of motor vehicle".

10. The question, therefore is, can a murder be an accident in any given case? There is no doubt that "murder", as it is understood, in the common parlance is a felonious act where death is caused with intent and the perpetrators of that act normally have a motive against the victim for such killing. But there are also instances where murder can be by accident on a given set of facts. The difference between a "murder" which is not an accident and a "murder" which is an accident, depends on the proximity of the cause of such murder. In our opinion, if the dominant intention of the act of felony is to kill any particular person, then such killing is not an accidental murder, but is a murder simpliciter, while if the cause of murder or act of murder was originally not intended and the same was caused in furtherance of any other felonious act, then such murder is an accidental murder.

11. In Challis v. London and South Western Rly. Co., (1905) 2 KB 154, the Court of Appeal held where an engine driver while driving a train under a bridge was killed by a stone wilfully dropped on the train by a boy from the bridge, that his injuries were caused by an accident. In the said case, the Court rejecting an argument that the said incident cannot be treated as an accident held :

> "The accident which befell the deceased was, as it appears to me, one which was incidental to his employment as an engine driver, in other words, it arose out of his employment. The argument for the respondents really involves the reading into the Act of a proviso to the effect that an accident shall not be deemed to be within the Act, if it arose from the mischievous act of a person not in the service of the employer. I see no reason to suppose that the legislature intended so to limit the operation of the Act. The result is the same to the engine driver, from whatever cause the accident happened; and it does not appear to me to be any answer to the claim for indemnification under the Act to say that the accident was caused by some person who acted mischievously.

12. In the case of Nisbet v. Rayne & Burn, (1910) 2 KB 689, where a cashier, while travelling in a railway to a colliery with a large sum of money for the payment of his employers' workmen, was robbed and murdered. The Court of Appeal held :

> That the murder was an accident from the standpoint of the person who suffered from it and that it arose out of an employment which involved more than the ordinary risk, and consequently, that the widow was entitled to compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906. In this case, the Court followed its earlier judgment in the case of Challis (supra). In the case of Nisbet (supra) the Court also observed that it is contended by the employer that this was not an accident within the meaning of the Act, because it was an intentional felonious act which caused the death, and that the word accident negatives the idea of intention. In my opinion, this contention ought not to prevail, I think it was an accident from the point of view of Nisbet, and that it makes - no difference whether the pistol shot was deliberately fired at Nisbet or whether it was intended for somebody else and not for Nisbet."

13. The judgment of the Court of Appeal in Nisbet case (supra) was followed by the majority judgment by the House of Lords in the case of Board of Management of Trim Joint District School v. Kelly, 1914 AC 667.

14. Applying the principles laid down in the above cases to the facts of the case in hand, we find that the deceased, a driver of the auto-rickshaw, was dutybound to have accepted the demand of fare-paying passengers to transport them to the place of their destination. During the course of this duty, if the passengers had decided to commit an act of felony of stealing the auto-rickshaw and in the course of achieving the said object of stealing the auto-rickshaw, they had to eliminate the driver of the auto-rickshaw then it cannot but be said that the death so caused to the driver of the auto-rickshaw was an accidental murder. The stealing of the auto-rickshaw was the object of the felony and the murder that was caused in the said process of stealing the auto-rickshaw is only incidental to the act of stealing of the auto-rickshaw. Therefore, it has to be said that on the facts and circumstances of this case the death of the deceased (Dasarath Singh) was caused accidentally in the process of committing theft of the auto-rickshaw.

15. Learned Counsel for the respondents contended before us that since the Motor Vehicles Act has not defined the word "death" and the legal interpretations relied upon by us are with reference to the definition of the word "death" in the Workmen's Compensation Act the same will not be applicable while interpreting the word death in the Motor Vehicles Act, because according to her, the objects of the two Acts are entirely different. She also contends that on the facts of this case no proximity could be presumed between the murder of the driver and the stealing of the auto-rickshaw. We are unable to accept this contention advanced on behalf of the respondents. We do not see how the object of the two Acts, namely, the Motor Vehicles Act and the Workmen's Compensation Act are in any way different. In our opinion, the relevant object of both the Acts is to provide compensation to the victims of accidents. The only difference between the two enactments is that so far as the Workmen's Compensation Act is concerned, it is confined to workmen as defined under that Act while the relief provided under Chapter X to XII of the Motor Vehicles Act is available to all the victims of accidents involving a motor vehicle. In this conclusion of ours, we are supported by Sec. 167 of the Motor Vehicles Act as per which provision, it is open to the claimants either to proceed to claim compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act or under the Motor Vehicles Act. A perusal of the objects of the two enactments clearly establishes that both the enactments are beneficial enactments operating in the same field, hence the judicially accepted interpretation of the word death in the Workmen's Compensation Act is, in our opinion, applicable to the interpretation of the word death in the Motor Vehicles Act also.

16. In the case of Shivaji Dayanu Patil v. Vatschala Uttam More, (1991) 3 SCC 530 this Court while pronouncing on the interpretation of Section 92-A of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939 held as follows : (SCC p. 532, para 12)

"... Section 92-A was in the nature of a beneficial legislation enacted with a view to confer the benefit of expeditious payment of a limited amount by way of compensation to the victims of an accident arising out of the use of a motor vehicle on the basis of no-fault liability. In the matter of interpretation of a beneficial legislation the approach of the Courts is to adopt a construction which advances the beneficent purpose underlying the enactment in preference to a construction which tends to defeat that purpose."

17. In that case, in regard to the contention of proximity between the accident and the explosion that took place, this Court held : (SCC pp. 549-50, para 36)

"36. This would show that as compared to the expression 'caused by', the expression 'arising out of' has a wider connotation. The expression 'caused by' was used in Sections. 95(1)(b)(i) and (ii) and 96(2)(b)(ii) of the Act. In Section 92-A, Parliament, however, chose to use the expression 'arising out of' which indicates that for the purpose of awarding compensation under Section 92-A, the causal relationship between the use of the motor vehicle and the accident resulting in death or permanent disablement is not required to be direct and proximate and it can be less immediate. This would imply that accident should be connected with the use of the motor vehicle but the said connection need not be direct and immediate. This construction of the expression arising out of the use of a motor vehicle in Section 92-A enlarges the field of protection made available to the victims of an accident and is in consonance with the beneficial object underlying the enactment."

18. In the instant case, as we have noticed the facts, we have no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that the murder of the deceased (Dasarath Singh) was due to an accident arising out of the use of motor vehicle. Therefore, the trial Court rightly came to the conclusion that the claimants were entitled for compensation as claimed by them and the High Court was wrong in coming to the conclusion that the death of Dasarath Singh was not caused by an accident involving the use of motor vehicle."

28. In this judgment, the Apex Court has also discussed the intention, motive and other aspects in order to make a distinction and to arrive at a prima facie finding whether the accident falls within the expression 'use of motor vehicle'. The case in hand is squarely covered by para 10 of the judgment (supra).

29. In the case titled as Union of India versus Bhagwati Prasad (D) and others, reported in AIR 2002 Supreme Court 1301, the Apex Court has discussed the concept of joint tortfeasor and maintainability of claim petition, jurisdiction of the Claims Tribunal and the expression 'accident arising out of use of motor vehicle'. Though, the judgment is not directly applicable to the facts of the case, but the principle is applicable for the reason that the expression 'use of motor vehicle' stands thrashed out. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 3 of the judgment herein:

"3. .... In our considered opinion, the jurisdiction of the Tribunal to entertain application for claim of compensation in respect of an accident arising out of the use of a motor vehicle depends essentially on the fact whether there had been any use of motor vehicle and once that is established, the Tribunals jurisdiction cannot be held to be ousted on a finding being arrived at a later point of time that it is the negligence of the other joint tortfeasor and not the negligence of the motor vehicle in question. We, are therefore, of the considered opinion that the conclusion of the Court in the case of Union of India v. United India Insurance Co. ltd., 1997 (8) SCC 683 to the effect -

"It is ultimately found that mere is no negligence on the part of the driver of the vehicle or there is no defect in the vehicle but the accident is only due to the sole negligence of the other parties/agencies, then on that finding, the claim would go out of Sec. 110(1) of the Act because the case would men become one of exclusive negligence of the Railways. Again, if the accident had arisen only on account of the negligence of persons other than the driver/ owner of the motor vehicle, the claim would not be maintainable before the Tribunal" is not correct in law and to that extent the aforesaid decision must be held to have not been correctly decided."

30. The Apex Court in another case titled as Malikarjuna G. Hiremath versus Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. & Anr., reported in II (2009) ACC 738 (SC), has discussed the scope of Section 3 of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923 and the expression 'accident arising out of and in the course of employment'. The Apex Court has also discussed the entire law dealing with the principles for grant of compensation, which are applicable in this case also. It is apt to reproduce paras 10 to 19 of the judgment herein:

"10. The expression "accident" means an untoward mishap which is not expected or designed. "Injury" means physiological injury. In Fenton v. Thorley & Co. Ltd. (1903) AC 448, it was observed that the expression "accident" is used in the popular and ordinary sense of the word as denoting an unlooked for mishap or an untoward event which is not expected or designed. The above view of Lord Macnaghten was qualified by the speech of Lord Haldane A.C. in Trim Joint District, School Board of Management v. Kelly (1914) A.C. 676 as follows:

"I think that the context shows that in using the word "designed" Lord Macnaghten was referring to designed by the sufferer."

11. The above position was highlighted by this Court in Jyothi Ademma v. Plant Engineer, Nellore and Anr., V (2006) SLT 457=III(2006) ACC 356 (SC)=III(2006) CLT 178(SC)=2006(5) SCC 513.

12. This Court in ESI Corpn. v. Francis De Costa, 1996 (6) SCC 1 referred to, with approval, the decision of Lord Wright in Dover Navigation Co. Ltd. v. Isabella Craig, 1940 AC 190, wherein it was held: (All ER p. 563)

"Nothing could be simpler than the words `arising out of and in the course of the employment . It is clear that there are two conditions to be fulfilled. What arises `in the course of the employment is to be distinguished from what arises `out of the employment . The former words relate to time conditioned by reference to the man s service, the latter to causality. Not every accident which occurs to a man during the time when he is on his employment--that is, directly or indirectly engaged on what he is employed to do - gives a claim to compensation, unless it also arises out of the employment. Hence the section imports a distinction which it does not define. The language is simple and unqualified."

13. We are not oblivious that an accident may cause an internal injury as was held in Fenton (Pauper) v. J. Thorley & Co. Ltd., 1903 AC 443 by the Court of Appeal:

"I come, therefore, to the conclusion that the expression `accident is used in the popular and ordinary sense of the word as denoting an unlooked-for mishap or an untoward event which is not expected or designed."

Lord Lindley opined:

"The word `accident is not a technical legal term with a clearly defined meaning. Speaking generally, but with reference to legal liabilities, an accident means any unintended and unexpected occurrence which produces hurt or loss. But it is often used to denote any unintended and unexpected loss or hurt apart from its cause; and if the cause is not known the loss or hurt itself would certainly be called an accident. The word `accident is also often used to denote both the cause and the effect, no attempt being made to discriminate between them. The great majority of what are called accidents are occasioned by carelessness; but for legal purposes it is often important to distinguish careless from other unintended and unexpected events."

14. There are a large number of English and American decisions, some of which have been taken note of in ESI Corpn.'s case (supra) in regard to essential ingredients for such finding and the tests attracting the provisions of Section 3 of the Act. The principles are:

(1) There must be a causal connection between the injury and the accident and the accident and the work done in the course of employment.

(2) The onus is upon the applicant to show that it was the work and the resulting strain which contributed to or aggravated the injury.

(3) If the evidence brought on records establishes a greater probability which satisfies a reasonable man that the work contributed to the causing of the personal injury, it would be enough for the workman to succeed, but the same would depend upon the fact of each case.

15. An accident may lead to death but that an accident had taken place must be proved. Only because a death has taken place in course of employment will not amount to accident. In other words, death must arise out of accident. There is no presumption that an accident had occurred.

16. In a case of this nature to prove that accident has taken place, factors which would have to be established, inter alia, are:

(1) stress and strain arising during the course of employment,

(2) nature of employment,

(3) injury aggravated due to stress and strain.

17. In G.M., B.E.S.T. Undertaking v. Agnes, 1964 (3) SCR 930 referring to the decision of the Court of Appeal in Jenkins v. Elder Dempster Lines Ltd., 1953 (2) All ER 1133, this Court opined therein that a wider test, namely, that there should be a nexus between accident and employment was laid down. It also followed the decision of this Court in Saurashtra Salt Mfg. Co. v. Bai Valu Raja, AIR 1958 SC 881.

18. In Mackinnon Mackenzie & Co. (P) Ltd. v. Ibrahim Mohd. Issak, 1969 (2) SCC 607, this Court held:

"5. To come within the Act the injury by accident must arise both out of and in the course of employment. The words `in the course of the employment mean `in the course of the work which the workman is employed to do and which is incidental to it . The words `arising out of employment are understood to mean that `during the course of the employment, injury has resulted from some risk incidental to the duties of the service, which, unless engaged in the duty owing to the master, it is reasonable to believe the workman would not otherwise have suffered . In other words there must be a causal relationship between the accident and the employment. The expression `arising out of employment is again not confined to the mere nature of the employment. The expression applies to employment as such--to its nature, its conditions, its obligations and its incidents. If by reason of any of those factors the workman is brought within the zone of special danger the injury would be one which arises `out of employment . To put it differently if the accident had occurred on account of a risk which is an incident of the employment, the claim for compensation must succeed, unless of course the workman has exposed himself to an added peril by his own imprudent act."

19. The above position was again highlighted in Shakuntala Chandrakant Shreshti v. Prabhakar Maruti Garvali and Anr., VIII (2006) SLT 654=IV (2006) ACC 769 (SC)=2007 (11) SCC 668."

31. The Apex Court in the case titled as Surinder Kumar Arora & another versus Dr. Manoj Bisla & others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2241, held that rash and negligent driving of the driver is sine qua non for maintaining claim petition under Section 166 of the MV Act, which is not the essential ingredient for maintaining claim petition under Section 163A of the MV Act. It is apt to reproduce paras 9 and 10 of the judgment herein:

"9.Admittedly, the petition filed by the claimants was under Section 166 of the Act and not under Section 163-A of the Act. This is not in dispute. Therefore, it was the entire responsibility of the parents of the deceased to have established that respondent No.1 drew the vehicle in a rash and negligent manner which resulted in the fatal accident. Maybe, in order to help respondent No.1, the claimants had not taken up that plea before the Tribunal. Therefore, High Court was justified in sustaining the judgment and order passed by the Tribunal. We make it clear that if for any reason, the claimants had filed the petition under Section 163-A of the Act, then the dicta of this Court in the case of Kaushnuma Begum (Smt.) & Ors. (AIR 2001 SC 485 : 2001 AIR SCW 85) (supra) would have come to the assistance of the claimants.

> 10. In our view the issue that we have raised for our consideration is squarely covered by the decision of this Court in the case of Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. (AIR 2007 SC 1609 : 2007 AIR SCW 2362) (supra). In the said decision the Court stated:
> "....Therefore, the victim of an accident or his dependents have an option either to proceed under Section 166 of the Act or under Section 163-A of the Act. Once they approach the Tribunal under Section 166 of the Act, they have necessarily to take upon themselves the burden of establishing the negligence of the driver or owner of the vehicle concerned. But if they proceed under Section 163-A of the Act, the compensation will be awarded in terms of the Schedule without calling upon the victim or his dependants to establish any negligence or default on the part of the owner of the vehicle or the driver of the vehicle."
> 32. ....
> 33. The Apex Court has examined the scope of Sections 163A and 166 of the MV Act in the case titled as Oriental Insurance Company Limited versus Premlata Shukla & others, reported in 2007 AIR SCW 3591, and Bimla Devi & Ors. versus Himachal Road Transport Corpn. & Ors., reported in 2009 AIR SCW 4298, and made a fine distinction."

27. The same question came up for consideration before the Hon'ble Karnataka High Court in a case titled as B. Fathima versus S.M. Umarabba & ors., reported in II (2007) ACC 613 (DB), wherein wooden logs were being unloaded from a lorry at a saw-mill, the rope tied as a grip to the said logs was untied negligently, due to which a wooden log fell on the deceased who was near the lorry for the purpose of unloading. It was held that the accident occurred when the lorry was in use, deceased was a third party and the insurer was saddled with liability.

28. The Hon'ble Kerala High Court in a case titled as Rajan versus John, reported in 2009 (2) T.A.C. 260 (Ker.), wherein the claimant sustained injury while unloading marble from a stationed truck, held that any accident arising during loading and unloading is an accident arising on account of use of vehicle and claim petition was maintainable.

29. The High Court of Jammu and Kashmir in the case titled as Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., through its Senior Divisional Manager, Jammu versus Smt. Nirmala Devi and others, reported in 2009 (3) T.A.C. 684 (J&K) has laid down the same principle.

30. Having said so, it is held that deceased-Parhlad died 'in the use of motor vehicle'. Viewed thus, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are set aside and is determined accordingly.

31. Before dealing with issue No. 2, I deem it proper to determine issues No. 3 and 4.

Issue No. 3:

32. It was for the respondents, i.e. the owner-insured, driver and insurer of the offending vehicle, to prove that the claim petition was not maintainable, have not led any evidence to this effect, thus, have failed to discharge the onus. Even otherwise, in view of the findings returned by this Court on issue No. 1, the claim petition was maintainable. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 3 are set aside and it is held that the claim petition was maintainable.

Issue No. 4:

33. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence to drive the same and the owner-insured has committed a willful breach.

34. In the given facts and circumstances of the case, the question whether the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence is irrelevant for the reason that at the relevant point of time, the driver was not driving the offending vehicle, but, the same was parked and stationary in order to unload the marble slabs. The question of valid and effective driving licence has no connection with the death of the deceased. Thus, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 4 are set aside and the same is decided accordingly.

35. Admittedly, the deceased was 27 years of age at the time of the accident. The claimants have pleaded that the monthly income of the deceased was ₹ 8,000/- per month. The Tribunal, while applying the minimum wages formula, has held that the deceased was earning ₹ 3,000/- per month and deducted ₹ 500/- towards his personal expenses, which is not legally correct.

36. The claimants have led evidence and have proved that the deceased was a driver by profession. However, by guess work, it is held that he was a labourer and would have been earning not less than ₹ 6,000/- per month. One third was to be deducted towards his personal expenses keeping in view the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104 and upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in the case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120. Thus, it can be safely said and held that the claimants have loss source of dependency to the tune of ₹ 4,000/- per month.

37. The Apex Court in the case titled as Munna Lal Jain & another versus Vipin Kumar Sharma & others, reported in 2015 AIR SCWE 3105, held that the multiplier has to be applied while keeping in view the age of the deceased.

38. In view of the law laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's case (supra) and upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari's case (supra), and Munna Lal Jain's case (supra) read with Second Schedule appended with the MV Act, multiplier of '15' is just and appropriate.

39. Having said so, the appellants-claimants are held entitled to compensation under the head 'loss of dependency' to the tune of ₹ 4,000/- x 12 x 15 = ₹ 7,20,000/-.

40. The appellants-claimants are also held entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 10,000/- each under the heads 'loss of consortium', 'loss of love and affection' 'loss of estate' and 'funeral expenses'.

41. The question is – who is to be saddled with liability?

42. Admittedly, the offending vehicle was insured at the relevant point of time and the risk of third party was covered. As discussed hereinabove, the deceased was unloading the marble slabs and was hit by one of the marble slabs near the truck, is a third party. Thus, the risk was covered and the insurer was to be saddled with liability. Issue No. 2 is decided accordingly.

43. Having glance of the above discussions, the impugned award is set aside, the claim petition is granted, the appellants-claimants are held entitled to compensation to the tune of ₹ 7,20,000/- + ₹ 10,000/- + ₹ 10,000/- + ₹ 10,000/- + ₹ 10,000/- = ₹ 7,60,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the claim petition till its realization and the insurer is saddled with liability.

44. The insurer is directed to deposit the awarded amount before the Registry within eight weeks. On deposition, one half share of the same be released in favour of appellant-claimant No. 1 and one half to appellants-claimants No. 2 & 3 in equal shares through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective bank accounts.

45. The appeal is allowed accordingly.

46. Send down the records after placing copy of the judgment on the Tribunal's file.

Cr. Appeal No.: 195 of 2012
Reserved on : 21.06.2016
Date of Decision: 01.07.2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 302 and 201- Husband of the informant went to a sawmill of R but did not return - his dead body was found on the next day- an FIR was registered – investigations revealed that accused had given lift to one K on motorcycle- deceased was found under the influence of liquor – accused was seen following the deceased- accused was tried and acquitted by the trial Court- held, in appeal that prosecution had relied upon the fact that a complaint of intimidation was filed in the year 2007, which furnished the motive for commission of crime- however, the incident had taken place in the year 2011- therefore, motive is not established- Chappal recovered from the spot was not connected to the accused- it was also not proved that accused was last seen with the deceased- circumstances do not lead to the inference of the guilt of the accused- trial Court had rightly acquitted the accused- appeal dismissed.

Cases referred:
Vijay Thakur Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2014) 14 Supreme Court Cases 609
Manthuri Laxmi Narsaiah Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, (2011) 14 SCC 117

For the appellant: Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Addl. Advocate General, with Mr. Vikram Thakur, Dy. Advocate General.
For the respondent: Ms. Kanta Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J. :

This appeal has been filed by the State against judgment passed by the Court of learned Additional Sessions Judge (II), Kangra at Dharamshala dated 06.01.2012 in Sessions Case No. 22-J/2011 vide which, learned trial Court has acquitted the accused for commission of offences under Sections 302 and 201 of the Indian Penal Code.

2. The case of the prosecution was that on 18.04.2011, Sounki Ram, husband of complainant Nakhro Devi, R/o Village Chukhyal had gone to a sawmill of one Rashpal, but he did not return back in the evening. In routine, Sounki Ram used to come from his work at around 8:00/8:30 p.m. and he also used to give telephonic information in the neighbourhood in case he was not able to come back. However, on 18.04.2011, no such information was received from Sounki Ram by the complainant.

3. On 19.04.2011, in the morning one Guddo Devi and her son Sunil were going to Chukhyal jungle to bring grass and on their way they saw the dead body of Sounki Ram with injuries on the face and head of the dead body. Guddo Devi called Reena Devi, daughter of Sounki Ram, who told her mother Nakhro Devi and consequently, they went to the spot. In the meanwhile, Sunil had called Kuldeep Vice President of the Gram Panchayat, who informed the police. Nakhro Devi raised suspicion on the accused as in the past accused had beaten Nakhro Devi as well as her daughter and threatened to kill them. On the basis of the statement of Nakhro Devi recorded under Section 154 Cr. P.C., an FIR was lodged and the body of the deceased was sent for post mortem. From the spot, police took into possession sample of the soil, currency notes, mobile telephone, one diary, match box, cigarette packet, biddi bundle and two chappals.

4. During investigation, it transpired that on the evening of 18.04.2011 accused had given lift to one Kewal Krishan on motorcycle and they had met Sounki Ram, who was under the influence of liquor. Accused threatened and provoked Sounki Ram. Sounki Ram asked Kewal Krishan to leave him ahead of the house of Jeevan because Sounki Ram was afraid of the dog of Jeevan. Accused parked his motorcycle in the courtyard of Jeevan and Kanta Devi, wife of Jeevan, saw Sounki Ram going through the path adjacent to her house and she also saw accused following Sounki Ram. Investigation also revealed that one of the chappals recovered near the dead body of Sounki Ram belonged to the accused.

5. After completion of the investigation, challan was presented in the Court. As a prima facie case was found against the accused, he was charged for the commission of offences under Sections 302 and 201 of the Indian Penal Code, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

6. On the basis of material placed on record by the prosecution, learned trial Court came to the conclusion that the prosecution had not been able to prove the liability of the accused for offences punishable under Sections 302 and 201 beyond the scope of reasonable doubt and accordingly, it acquitted the accused for commission of offences under Sections 302 and 201 of the Indian Penal Code.

7. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also perused the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by the learned trial Court.

8. The case of the prosecution is based on circumstantial evidence. There is no eye witness who has seen the accused committing the crime with which he has been charged.

9. The Honble Supreme Court on circumstantial evidence in Vijay Thakur Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2014) 14 Supreme Court Cases 609 has carved out the following salient points on the basis of which guilt of the accused can be brought home in the case of circumstantial evidence:

> "(i) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must or should be and not merely 'may be' fully established;
>
> (ii) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty;
>
> (iii) The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency;
>
> (iv) They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and
>
> (v) Thee must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

10. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Manthuri Laxmi Narsaiah Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, (2011) 14 SCC 117 has held as under:

> "6. It is by now well settled that in a case relating to circumstantial evidence the chain of circumstances has to be spelt out by the prosecution and if even one link in the chain is broken the accused must get the benefit thereof. We are of the opinion that the present is in fact a case of no evidence."

11. Where a case rests upon circumstantial evidence, such evidence in order to base conviction, must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of guilt of the accused and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence.

12. In these circumstances because it is a case of circumstantial evidence, this Court has to satisfy its judicial conscience as to whether by way of circumstantial evidence produced on record by the prosecution, it has been able to link the commission of the offence with the accused or not.

13. Now, we will apply the above salient features to the facts of the present case in order to ascertain as to whether there is any infirmity or perversity with the judgment passed by the learned trial Court in the present case.

14. According to the appellant, the accused was having motive to do away with the deceased. As per the prosecution, dead body of Sounki Ram was recovered in the morning of 19.04.2011 by PW-10 Guddo Devi and her son PW-4 Sunil Kumar at 9:00 a.m. when they were going to Chukhyal jungle to bring grass and on their way, they saw the dead body of the deceased. Thereafter, PW-2 Reena Devi, daughter of the deceased was called. She also called her mother PW-1 Nakhro Devi and accordingly, they reached the spot. PW-5 Kuldeep Singh, Vice President of the Panchayat reached the spot on the basis of telephonic intimation given to him by Sunil Kumar.

15. It has come in the testimony of complainant Nakhro Devi that the accused was inimical towards her family. According to her, earlier also accused had beaten the complainant and her daughter and in this regard a criminal case was pending against the accused.

16. According to PW-2 Reena Devi, daughter of the deceased, this quarrel with the accused had taken place in the year, 2007.

17. There is no material placed on record by the prosecution nor there is any deposition by PW-2 that after 2007 also there was either any threatenings given or intimidation made to the deceased or his family members by the accused.

18. A perusal of the statement of PW-18 Inspector Parkash Chand demonstrates that in fact cases were filed and were pending both against accused Alamgir as well as deceased Sounki Ram for beating each other.

19. Keeping this aspect of the matter in view that the cases of alleged intimidation pertain as far back as in the year 2007 and Sounki Ram was killed on 19.04.2011, it cannot be concluded that the deceased was killed by the accused to take revenge of the criminal cases so pending against him pertaining to the year, 2007. In this view of the matter, the contention of the appellant that the accused was having a motive to do away with the deceased is not proved beyond reasonable doubt.

20. It has been further urged that another circumstance which links the accused with the commission of the offence is recovery of his chappal. According to the prosecution, this circumstance has been proved by PW-2 Reena Devi, PW-5 Kuldeep Singh and PW-6 Subash Chand.

21. PW-5 Kuldeep Singh has deposed that he runs a shop in the Village and accused had purchased Chappal Ex.-P9 from his shop 1 ½ months back. In his cross-examination, he has stated that he brings 8/10 pairs of Chappal in his shop for sale. His answer to the Court question was that he remembers the names of all his customers because all of them are local. He has further stated that in 15 days, he sells about 5 to 8 pairs of chappals. He has also deposed that during those days, he sold 7 number chappal to Dinesh Kumar which was country made Eva Chappal and 6 number chappal to Balwinder. He has thereafter said that in those days, he had not sold Chappal to Alamgir. He has further stated that he sold 9 number Chappal to Alamgir about nine months back. He has also admitted it to be correct that he was a witness in a criminal case between the accused and the wife of the deceased. The deposition of this witness reveals that he has made contradictory statements in his examination-in-chief and in his cross-examination. While in Chief, he has stated that Ex. P9 was purchased by the accused from his shop about 1 ½ months back, however in cross-examination, he has stated that he sold 9 number chappals about nine months back to Alamgir. Keeping in view the fact that he is an interested witness because he has admitted that he is a witness in a criminal case pending between the accused and the wife of the deceased, the possibility of the said witness not deposing the truth cannot be ruled out. Incidentally, a perusal of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court will demonstrate that the learned trial Court had disbelieved his testimony on the ground that whereas according to PW-5, the chappal was sold to Alamgir about 1 ½ months back, the fact of the matter was that Ex. P9 was an old chappal and the size number of the same was also not decipherable.

22. PW-6 Subhash Chand in his cross-examination has also corroborated what PW-5 Kuldeep Singh has stated in his examination-in-chief and said that the chappal was purchased by the accused from the shop of Kuldeep Singh about 1 ½ months back. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that Kuldeep is his real brother. Thus, if the testimony of PW-6 is to be believed, then the same is contrary to what his brother PW-5 Kuldeep Singh has stated in his cross-examination. The abovementioned contradiction in the statement of PW-5 has not been satisfactorily explained by the prosecution. In this view of the matter, the statement of PW-6 also does not inspires any confidence. As far as PW-2 Reena Devi is concerned, she obviously is an interested witness being the daughter of the deceased and it is not the case of the prosecution that she was present in the shop of PW-5 when the accused had purchased the chappal allegedly from the shop of PW-5. Therefore, in our considered view, the prosecution has not been able to prove this circumstance also against the accused beyond reasonable doubt. Therefore, it cannot be conclusively said that the chappal so recovered from the spot by the prosecution was that of the accused.

23. Now we will test the last seen theory propounded by the appellant as a link evidence connecting the accused with the commission of the crime. As per the prosecution, the accused was last seen in the company of the deceased in the evening of 18.04.2011 and this stood proved by PW-3 Om Nath and PW-17 Kanta Devi.

24. PW-3 has deposed in the Court that on 18.04.2011, he had gone to Tehsil Jawali and at 6:30 p.m. near Bateru accused met him on his motorcycle. He boarded the motorcycle of the accused and started proceeding towards Nana. On their way, Sounki Ram met them who was under the influence of liquor. Accused threatened and provoked Sounki by saying 'Oye Sounki'. He further deposed that accused purchased some articles at Nana and thereafter they come to the house of Jeevan Kumar at around 7:00/7:15 p.m. Sounki also reached there and told him that dog of Jeevan bites, so he asked him (PW-3) to leave him ahead of the house of Jeevan. Alamgir parked his motorcycle in the courtyard of Jeevan. He inquired from the wife of Jeevan as to where was Jeevan. Alamgir consumed liquor. It was raining at that time. Thereafter, as per PW-3, he went to his house. He has further deposed that next day, he was to go to Jawali with some documents. He further deposed that Guddo Devi was calling wife of Sounki and she told that her husband was lying in the jungle. He has further deposed that he went to the spot where Pradhan and other persons had reached. In his cross-examination, he has stated that the house of Sounki was situated at a distance of 100-150 meters from his house.

25. One thing which is pertinent to be taken note is this that it is not proved on record by prosecution that accused followed Sounki Ram beyond the house of Jeevan. On the other hand, if the testimony of PW-3 is read harmoniously, then what emerges is that in fact the deceased was last seen not with the accused but with PW-3 because as per PW-3, Sounki Ram had requested him, i.e. PW-3 to leave him ahead of the house of Jeevan.

26. PW-17 Kanta, wife of Jeevan has stated that on the fateful night, Sounki Ram had come to her house and inquired about her husband. At the relevant time, she was preparing food. It was raining and there was no electricity. Thereafter, Kewal came and went away. Thereafter, accused came on motorcycle and parked the same in their courtyard. He asked for water and glass. He consumed liquor in the court yard. She has further deposed that Sounki Ram was going ahead and Alamgir was following him. In her cross-examination, she has admitted it to be correct that Kewal helped Sounki to pass their house because of the dog. She has also stated that thereafter Kewal had also gone following Sounki. She also admitted it to be correct that through the said path many people were passing. She also admitted it to be correct that Alamgir had come after half an hour of the departure of the said two persons.

27. In our considered view, on the basis of the deposition of PW-17 read with deposition of PW-3, it cannot be said that the prosecution has conclusively proved this circumstance against the accused that he was last seen with the deceased. It is no one's case that path leading from the house of Jeevan to the house of the deceased was a desolated path and was not frequented by people generally. On the other hand, PW-17 has stated in her cross-examination that Kewal had helped the deceased to cross her house and had followed him. Thereafter, according to her, Alamgir had reached her house half an hour after the said two persons had passed. Therefore, in our considered view, prosecution has not been able to prove this circumstance against the accused.

28. Now, we will refer to the testimony of PW-16 Muhammad Ali, which has been heavily relied upon by the appellant-State to link the accused with the commission of the offence.

29. PW-16 Mohammad Ali has deposed that he is milk vendor and sells milk at Jawali. According to him, on 19.04.2011 at 7:30 a.m., he boarded Patiyal bus with milk and got down at Kehrian. There accused came alongwith his wife. There was a liquor vend adjacent and accused called him 3-4 times. PW-16 went to him when accused called him third time and there accused told him that he had killed his neighbour Sounki Ram. He has further deposed that his statement was recorded by the learned Judicial Magistrate, which is Ex. PW-16/A. In his cross-examination, he has deposed that after selling milk, he had come back to his house and when he reached his house, police was present in the village. He has also deposed that the police had been visiting the village continuously for 2/3 days. He has denied the suggestion that he has deposed falsely under pressure of the police to save himself. He has admitted it to be correct that on 19th, 20th and 21st April, 2011, no such statement of his was recorded by the police.

30. On the face of it, the testimony of the said witness does not seem to be inspiring confidence. In our considered view, it will not be the normal behaviour of a person to confess commission of a murder in the mode and the manner as has been deposed by PW-16. Even otherwise, it is settled law that extra judicial confession which is made by the accused is admissible in evidence only as a corroborative piece of evidence. Hence in the absence of any substantive evidence against the accused which links him with the commission of the offence alleged against him, the said corroborative piece of evidence looses its significance and the same cannot be made the basis for convicting a person. According to PW-16, the confession was so made before him by the accused on 19.04.2011. It is a matter of record that his statement under Section 164 Cr. P.C. has been recorded on 21st May, 2011. It is also a matter of record that his statement under Section 161 Cr. P.C. has also been recorded by the police on the same date. No cogent explanation has come from the prosecution as to why the said witness remained quiet and did not reveal the alleged extra judicial confession made by the accused either to the police or any other person including members of the Gram Panchayat. In these circumstances, this possibility cannot be ruled out that PW-16 has deposed at the behest of the police and his statement is not true and whatever he has deposed has been stated to falsely implicate the accused. In view of the above, in our considered view, the said circumstances, i.e. extra judicial confession made by the accused in the presence of PW-16 has also not been proved beyond doubt by the prosecution and, hence prosecution has not been able to prove this circumstance against the accused.

31. The post mortem of the deceased was conducted by PW-7 Dr. Mukesh Bhardwaj. According to him, the cause of the death of deceased was due to right lung laceration with right massive haemothorix with splinic rupture with massive haemoperitonum leading to hypovolumic shock and death. It is evident from his testimony that as per the Chemical Examiner's report, the deceased had consumed alcohol. It has also come in the testimony of PW-3 Kewal Krishan that on the fateful night the deceased was under the influence of liquor. Incidentally, a perusal of the testimony of the wife of the deceased PW-1 Nakhro Devi reveals that her stand is that her husband never used to drink. In other words, the deposition of the said witness does not depict the true facts because she has concealed the factum of her husband being a consumer of alcohol.

32. Therefore, when we assess all these circumstances together and take into consideration the material produced on record by the prosecution to prove the circumstances against the accused to link him with the commission of offence, the only conclusion which can be drawn is that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove any of the circumstance on the basis of which the accused could be linked with the commission of the offence alleged against him.

33. A perusal of the judgment passed by the learned trial Court demonstrates that all these aspects of the matter have been minutely gone into by the learned trial Court. It is on the basis of the careful appreciation of the evidence on record that the learned trial Court has come to the conclusion that the prosecution has not been able to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the accused was guilty of the offences charged against him. In our considered view, there is neither any perversity nor any infirmity with the judgment so passed by the learned trial Court. According to us also, the prosecution has miserably failed to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the accused is guilty of the offence with which he was charge. Therefore, we uphold the judgment passed by the learned trial Court and dismiss the present appeal being devoid of any merit.

Decided on: July 1, 2016

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 18 and 20- Accused tried to run away on seeing the police- he was apprehended- search of his bag was conducted during which 5 kg charas and 1.5 kg opium were recovered – accused was tried and acquitted by the trial Court- held, in appeal that codal formalities were completed on the spot- case property was produced before SHO who re-sealed it and handed it over to MHC- Trial Court had acquitted the accused on the ground that no independent witness was associated by the police, whereas, prosecution witnesses had specifically stated that accused was apprehended at a secluded place- requests were made to the driver and occupants of the vehicle to become witnesses but nobody had agreed- this shows that police had made efforts to associate independent witness but had not succeeded- testimonies of police officials are creditworthy and inspire confidence- minor contradictions are not sufficient to make prosecution case doubtful- appeal allowed- judgment passed by the trial Court set aside and accused convicted of the commission of offences punishable under Sections 18 and 20 of N.D.P.S. Act. (Para-13 to 18)

State of H.P. vrs. Mehboon Khan and analogous matters, Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) (FB) 900.

For the appellant : Mr. P.M. Negi, Deputy Advocate General
For the respondent : Mr. Anup Chitkara, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Rajiv Sharma, Judge:

The State has come in appeal against Judgment dated 30.4.2011 rendered by learned Presiding Officer (Special Judge) Fast Track Court, Mandi, District Mandi, HP in Sessions Trial No. 28 of 2010, whereby respondent-accused (hereinafter referred to as 'accused' for convenience sake), who was charged with and tried for offence under Sections 18 and 20 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act' for convenience sake), has been acquitted by the learned trial Court.

2. Prosecution case, in a nutshell, is that on 7.1.2010, ASI Ram Lal, the then IO Police Station, Sadar, Mandi, alongwith ASI Mohan Lal, HHC Dharam Pal, LHC Narpat Ram, Constable Kashmir Singh and Constable Suresh Kumar was present at Khoti Nala on patrolling and Nakabandi. At about 12.30 PM, accused came from Aut side. He was carrying a bag on his shoulder. On seeing the police party, he tried to run. He was apprehended. The place was secluded. No independent witnesses were available. Vehicles passing through the road were stopped and occupants were requested to become witnesses. However, they expressed their unwillingness. ASI Ram Lal, in the presence of ASI Mohan Lal and HHC Dharam Pal searched the bag carried by the accused. It was found to be containing another plastic bag like Boru of light blue colour containing black coloured material in it, in the shape of sticks. It was found to be cannabis. Besides this, two plastic packets were also found in the Boru containing brown coloured liquid material. It was found to be opium. Cannabis weighed 5 kg. Opium weighed 1.500 kg. Recovered cannabis was put in the same plastic Boru. Packets containing opium were also put in that same plastic Boru. Plastic Boru was put in bag and bag was parceled and sealed with 16 seals of 'S'. NCB form in triplicate was filled in on the spot. Sample seal was separately taken. Facsimile of seal was also taken on NCB form. Seal after use was handed over to ASI Mohan Lal. Recovered cannabis and opium were taken into possession by the police vide memo Ext. PW-1/B. Rukka was sent to the police station through LHC Narpat Ram, on the basis of which FIR No. 16/2010 was recorded against the accused. Case property alongwith sample seals was handed over to Inspector Hari Pal Saini. He resealed the same with seal impression 'S' and thereafter deposited the case property alongwith sample seal, NCB form and other related documents with Incharge Malkhana Anil Kumar. Special report was prepared and sent to Additional SP Mandi. Case property was sent for chemical examination. Report of the FSL is Ext. PW-8/B. Investigation was completed. Challan was put in the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. Prosecution has examined as many as eleven witnesses to prove its case against the accused. Accused was also examined under Section 313 CrPC. He pleaded innocence. Accused was acquitted as noticed above. Hence, this appeal by the State.

4. Mr. P.M. Negi, Deputy Advocate General, has vehemently argued that the prosecution has proved its case against the accused.

5. Mr. Anoop Chitkara, Advocate, has supported Judgment dated 30.4.2011.

6. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the Judgment and record carefully.

7. ASI Mohan Lal (PW-1) testified that on 7.1.2010 he alongwith HHC Dharam Pal, LHC Narpat Ram, ASI Ram Lal, Constable Suresh Kumar and Constable Kashmir Singh was present at Khoti Nalla and had set up Naka at Khoti Nalla. Accused was seen coming on foot from Aut side towards Mandi. He was carrying a bag on his shoulder. He tried to run away. He was apprehended. Spot was secluded one so IO asked the drivers and conductors of the bus passing there for being associated as witnesses in the case. However, they refused to be associated as independent witnesses. Thereafter, he and HHC Dharam Pal were associated as witnesses in the case. Bag carried by accused was searched. A light blue coloured Boru containing black coloured material in the shape of sticks and other two polythene packets containing liquid black material was recovered. Black material was found to be cannabis and liquid material was found to be opium. Cannabis weighed 5 kg and opium weighed 1.5 kg. Recovered cannabis was put in a parcel alongwith Boru. Parcel was sealed with seal impression 'R' at 16 places. Opium packets were also put in same parcel and sealed with seal impression 'R' at 16 places. Recovery memo Ext. PW-1/B was prepared. NCB form in triplicate was also filled in at the spot. Seal was handed over to him. Sample seal Ext. PW-1/C was taken on a piece of cloth. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that they left the Police Station at 8.30 AM in a private Sumo Jeep driven by a private driver. They took the vehicle straight to Khoti Nalla They did not stop on the way. No Naka was laid before reaching the spot. Khoti Nala was 26 kms from PS Mandi on National Highway 21. After the proceedings were completed, they returned in a private bus to the Police Station. He did not know if tickets were purchased. He also deposed that Naka was laid at Khoti Nalla at 9.30 AM to 12.30 PM. He denied the suggestion that there were two shops and a residence at the alleged place of Naka They checked about 20-25 vehicles at Khoti Nala. About 15-20 buses were stopped by the IO and they had requested the drivers and conductors of the said buses to become independent witnesses.

8. LHC Narpat Ram (PW-2) deposed the manner in which search, seizure and sampling proceedings were completed at the spot. He was handed over Rukka by the IO. He took the same to the Police Station, on the basis of which FIR Ext. PW-2/A was registered. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that about 30-40 vehicles were checked by the IO before the accused was spotted. He denied the suggestion that there were two tea shops and a house at the alleged place of Naka. He denied that there was a temple at the place of incident. IO had stopped 8-10 vehicles and requested their drivers to become witnesses. IO had hired Sumo Taxi from Taxi Stand Mandi.

9. HC Anil Kumar (PW-3) deposed that on 7.1.2010 Inspector/ SHO Hari Pal Saini deposited with him case property alongwith relevant documents. He entered the case property in Malkhana Register at Sr. No. 953. He proved copy of abstract of Malkhana Register Ext. PW-3/A. Case property was sent to FSL through Constable Sanjeev Kumar vide RC No. 249/2010, copy of which is Ext. PW-3/B. Constable after obtaining receipt from FSL Junga, over RC, handed over the same to him on his return to the Police Station. Case property remained safe and intact during the period it remained in his custody. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that olumn No. 7 of the Malkhana Register did not contain the signature of the SHO. He admitted that this column was meant for signature of the person who received the case property. However, the property has remained in the safe custody from the date of its seizure till production in the Court and the column No. 7 being not signed by the SHO, has not prejudiced the case of the accused.

10. HC Sanjeev Kumar (PW-6) deposed that on 8.1.2010, Anil Kumar handed over to him one parcel alongwith related documents for delivering the same to FSL Junga vide RC No. 249/10, Ext. PW-3/B. He took the case property and delivered at FSL Junga on the same day. He obtained receipt over RC. He deposited the receipt with MHC Police Station on his return. Case property remained safe and intact during the period it remained in his custody.

11. Inspector Hari Pal (PW-8) deposed that on 7.1.2010, at about 5.30 PM, case property was deposited with him by ASI Ram Lal. He resealed the same with seal impression 'S' at nine places. Case property was already sealed with seal 'R' at 16 places and seals were intact. He prepared reseal memo Ext. PW-8/A. He handed over the case property to the Incharge Malkhana Anil Kumar.

12. ASI Ram Lal (PW-11) deposed that on 7.1.2010, he alongwith ASI Mohan Lal, HHC Dharam Pal, LHC Narpat Ram, Constable Suresh Kumar and Constable Kashmir Singh proceeded towards Pandoh Khoti Nala for Nakabandi. They set up Naka at Khoti Nala on National Highway at about 11 AM. At about 12.30 PM a person was seen coming from Aut side towards Pandoh. He was coming on foot and was carrying a bag on his right shoulder. The person on seeing the police tried to flee. He was nabbed. ASI Mohan Lal and HHC Dharam Pal were associated as witnesses. Search of the bag carried by the accused was conducted. A plastic Boru light blue in colour was found and inside the Boru black coloured material in the shape of sticks was recovered. It was found to be cannabis. Two plastic envelopes containing black molten material were found which was found to be opium. Cannabis weighed 5 kg and opium weighed 1.5 kg. Cannabis and opium were packed and sealed with same Boru and plastic envelope alongwith bag. Parcel was sealed with seal impression 'R' at sixteen places. Sample seal Ext. PW-1/C was separately drawn over a piece of cloth. Seal after use was handed over to ASI Mohan Lal. He prepared Rukka Ext. PW-11/A and sent to the Police Station through LHC Narpat Ram for registration of the case. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that there were two shops located at Khoti Nala but these were located at a distance of about 200 metres from the place where Naka was laid. He admitted that there was a bridge on Khoti Nala. He further admitted that Mandi side of Khoti Nala, Pandoh town was situate and on the other side, towards Kullu, Aut town was situate. He denied the suggestion that there was a village near Khoti Nala at a height of 50-60 metres. He further admitted that the police party had gone to Khoti Nala in a public bus from Bus Stand Mandi. He did not remember whether it was a private bus or HRTC bus. He also did not remember if tickets were purchased for their journey. Khoti Nala was about 26 kms from Mandi. On the way they had got down from the bus and had also laid Naka at one or two places. He did not remember the places where Naka was laid. When they got down from first bus, they hired another bus for Khoti Nala. Accused was spotted when he had reached within 20 metres from them. Columns No. 1 to 8 of NCB form Ext. PW-8/C were filled by him on the spot.

13. Case of the prosecution, precisely, is that the accused was apprehended at a place near Khoti Nala. He was carrying a bag. He tried to flee. He was overpowered. 5 kg cannabis and 1.5 kg opium was recovered from the bag. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot. Case property was produced before PW-8 Inspector Hari Pal. He resealed the same with seal impressions of 'S'. Case property was produced before MHC Anil Kumar. He made entry in the Malkhana Register at Sr. No. 953. Case property was sent to FSL Junga through Constable Sanjeev Kumar (PW-6) by Anil Kumar (PW-3). Sanjeev Kumar (PW-6) has deposited the case property. It remained intact in their custody. Report of FSL is Ext. PW-8/B. Learned trial Court has acquitted the accused on the ground that the independent witnesses were not associated at the time when accused was arrested, search, seizure and sampling proceedings were completed at the spot. According to the learned trial Court, there were major contradictions in the statements of PW-1 ASI Mohan Lal and ASI Ram Lal (PW-11) at what time, Naka was laid. The ground for the acquittal of the accused is that the prosecution did not prove that the contraband recovered from the accused was cannabis and opium. He has relied upon 2010(1) Him. L.R. (DB)598, State of HP vs. Parkash Chand.

14. PW-1 Mohan Lal in his statement has specifically deposed that the place where accused was apprehended was a secluded place. IO had requested the drivers and conductors of the buses passing through the area to be associated as witnesses in the case but they were not ready and willing to be associated as witnesses. He has denied the suggestion, in the cross-examination that there were two shops and residence at the alleged place of Naka . PW-2 Narpat Ram has also deposed that no person from the locality came on the spot. IO had stopped 8-10 vehicles and requested their drivers to become witness. PW-11 Ram Lal has also deposed that since the place was secluded, no independent witnesses were available to become witnesses. He stopped vehicles and the occupants of the vehicles were requested to become witnesses, however nobody was ready and willing to become witness. In these circumstances, HHC Dharam Pal and Mohan Lal were associated as witnesses. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that two shops and residence were situate at Khoti Nala but these were 200 metres from the place where Naka was laid.

15. It is, thus, evident that the police has tried to join independent witnesses but they were not available. Statements of the official witnesses i.e. PW-1 ASI Mohan Lal, HHC Narpat Ram (PW-2) and ASI Ram Lal (PW-11) are trustworthy and inspire confidence. Mohan Lal (PW-1) and Narpat Ram (PW-2) deposed that they have gone to the spot in Sumo Jeep. However, ASI Ram Lal (PW-11) has deposed that he has gone in bus. These are minor contradictions in the statements of PW-1 Mohan Lal, PW-2 Narpat Ram and PW-11 Ram Lal about the mode of transportation to reach the spot. There are bound to be minor contradictions when a case is registered and statements of the witnesses are recorded in the Court after a considerable gap of time. PW-1 Mohan Lal has deposed that Naka was laid at 9.30 AM, PW-11 Ram Lal deposed that Naka was laid at 11 AM. This is a minor contradiction. It will not help the case of the accused in any manner. Fact of the matter is that Naka was set up at Khoti Nala, from where accused was arrested at about 12.15 AM.

16. Learned trial Court has erred in law by relying upon judgment reported in 2010(1) Him. L.R. (DB)598, State of HP vs. Parkash Chand as the same has been overruled by this Court in the case of State of H.P. vrs. Mehboon Khan and analogous matters, reported in Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) (FB) 900. The Full Bench of this Court has categorically held that there is no legal requirement of the presence of particular percentage of resin to be there in the sample and the presence of the resin in purified or crude form is sufficient to hold that the sample was that of Charas. It has been held as follows:

> "………….The separated resin is cannabis resin not only when it is in 'purified' form, but also when in 'crude' form or still mixed with other parts of the plant. Therefore, the resin mixed with other parts of the plant i.e. in 'crude' form is also charas within the meaning of the Convention and the Legislature in its wisdom has never intended to exclude the weight of the mixture i.e. other parts of the plant in the resin unless or until such mixture proves to be some other neutral substance and not that of other parts of the cannabis plant. Once the expert expressed the opinion that after conducting the required tests, he found the resin present in the stuff and as charas is a resinous mass and after conducting tests if in the opinion of the expert, the entire mass is a sample of charas, no fault can be found with the opinion so expressed by the expert nor would it be appropriate to embark upon the admissibility of the report on any ground, including non-mentioning of the percentage of tetrahydrocannabinol or resin contents in the sample…………
> f. We are also not in agreement with the findings recorded by the Division Bench in Sunil's case that " mere presence of tetrahydrocannabinol and cystolithic hair without there being any mention of the percentage of tetrahydrocannabinol in a sample of charas is not an indicator of the entire stuff analyzed to be charas" for the reason that the statute does not insist for the presence of percentage in the stuff of charas and mere presence of tetrahydrocannabinol along with cystolithic hair in a sample stuff is an indicator of the same being the resin of cannabis plant because the cystolithic hair are present only in the cannabis plant. When after observing the presence of tetrahydrocannabinol and cystolithic hair, the expert arrives at a conclusion that the sample contains the resin contents, it is more than sufficient to hold that the sample is of charas and the view so expressed by the expert normally should be honoured and not called into question. Of course, neutral material which is not obtained from cannabis plant cannot be treated as resin of the cannabis plants. The resin rather must have been obtained from the cannabis plants may be in 'crude' form or 'purified' form. In common parlance charas is a hand made drug made from extract of cannabis plant. Therefore, any mixture with or without any neutral material > of any of the forms of cannabis is to be considered as a contraband article. No concentration and percentage of resin is prescribed for 'charas' under the Act.."

17. Prosecution has proved beyond reasonable doubt that cannabis and opium were recovered from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused.

18. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. Judgment dated 30.4.2011 rendered by learned Presiding Officer (Special Judge) Fast Track Court, Mandi, District Mandi, HP in Sessions Trial No. 28 of 2010 is set aside. The accused is convicted for offences punishable under Sections 18 and 20 of the Act. Accused be produced to be heard on quantum of sentence on 7.7.2016. Bail bonds of accused are cancelled.

19. Registry is directed to prepare and send the production warrant to the quarter concerned.

Case referred:
State of H.P. vrs. Mehboon Khan and analogous matters, Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) (FB) 900

For the appellant : Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Deputy Advocate General
For the respondent : Mr. Sat Parkash, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Rajiv Sharma, Judge:

The State has come in appeal against Judgment dated 13.3.2012 rendered by the learned Special Judge-II, Solan, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh in Sessions Trial No. 13-S-7 of 2012/2010, whereby respondent-accused (hereinafter referred to as 'accused' for convenience sake), who was charged with and tried for offence under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act' for convenience sake), has been acquitted by the learned trial Court.

2. Prosecution case, in a nutshell, is that on the intervening night of 5/6.1.2010, a police party headed by ASI Santosh Kumar, the then Incharge, Traffic Barrier, Parwanoo started routine checking of vehicles passing through barrier. At about 12.15 AM (night) on 6.1.2010, a Haryana Roadways bus bearing registration No. HR-63-A-8394 came from Shimla side proceeding to Delhi. It was stopped for checking. Accused was travelling in the bus on seat No. 23. One more passenger was also sitting on the said bench. Accused had kept a Pithoo bag in between his legs. It was checked. It contained a packet wrapped with brown tape. One portion of the said packet was opened. It contained black coloured substance in the shape of sticks wrapped with plastic. It was found to be Charas. Balwan Singh was the driver and Om Kanwar was the conductor on the said bus. They were associated as witnesses. Accused alongwith bag was taken to the barrier at Parwano. Driver and conductor of the bus told that some of the passengers had to board train from Ambala and they were in a hurry therefore they could not take part in the investigation. Bus, alongwith passengers was allowed to go. Charas weighed 3.3 Kg. It was put in the same packet and packet was put in the bag. Bag was packed in a cloth parcel. It was sealed with four seal impressions of 'A'. Sample seal was separately taken on a piece of cloth. NCB form was filled in and facsimile of seal 'A' was also taken on it. Case property was taken into possession by the police. Rukka was prepared. It was sent to the Police Station through Constable Vijay Kumar. FIR No. 3/2010 was recorded against the accused. Case property was produced before the SHO Police Station Parwanoo. He resealed the same with five seal impressions of seal 'H'. Sample seal 'H' was separately taken. He also filled in relevant columns of NCB form and facsimile of seal 'H' was also taken on the NCB form. Case property, alongwith sample seals 'A' and 'H' and NCB form in triplicate was deposited with MHC Bhagi Rath, who made entry in the Malkhana Register. Case property was sent to laboratory through HHC Santosh Singh. It was found to be Charas vide Ext. PW-12/G. Special report was sent to SDPO Parwanoo. Investigation was completed. Challan was put in the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. Prosecution has examined as many as fourteen witnesses to prove its case against the accused. Accused was also examined under Section 313 CrPC. He pleaded innocence. Accused was acquitted as noticed above. Hence, this appeal by the State.

4. Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Deputy Advocate General, has vehemently argued that the prosecution has proved its case against the accused.

5. Mr. Sat Parkash, Advocate, has supported Judgment dated 13.3.2012.

6. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the Judgment and record carefully.

7. Balwan Singh (PW-1) deposed that he was working as a driver with the Haryana Roadways Jhajhar Depot. On 5.1.2010, he was coming from Shimla in Bus No. HR-63-A-8394 to Delhi. He was driving the bus. Om Kanwar was conductor on the bus. They started from Shimla at about 9 PM. They reached at about 12-12.15 AM on 6.1.2010 at Police Barrier Parwanoo. Police stopped the vehicle. Police started checking the bus. Passengers demanded that they should proceed further. He alongwith passengers entered the police booth. Police told that one person had been apprehended. He did not know from where the person was apprehended. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination by the learned Public Prosecutor, he has admitted that Bus No. HR-63-A-8394 was enroute from Shimla to Delhi. It was searched on 6.1.2010 at about 12.15 AM at Parwanoo. He denied the suggestion that on seats No. 21, 22 and 23, only two passengers were sitting. Volunteered that 70 passengers were in the bus. It was a 52 seater bus. He denied the suggestion that Pithunuma bag was kept by the person who was sitting on window side of the bus on seat Nos. 21 to 23, and he was apprehended by the police. He denied the suggestion that the recovered bag was wrapped with tape. Volunteered that nothing was shown to him. He denied the suggestion that accused was apprehended in Bus No. HR-63-A-8394. He admitted that he was in the bus, when bus was stopped. Conductor was also present in the bus. He denied portions 'A' to 'A', 'B' to 'B' and 'C' to 'C' of his statement mark X. He was also cross-examined by the learned defence Counsel. He admitted in his cross-examination that the bus was overcrowded. Many passengers were standing in the bus. He admitted that at Parwanoo barrier there were marketing office, Sales Tax Office and Forest Office. He also admitted that people were standing in queue to pay their taxes. There was a tea shop adjacent to the sales tax office.

8. Om Kanwar (PW-2) testified that on 5.1.2010, they started journey from Shimla to Delhi in Bus No. HR-63-A-8394. They started from Shimla at about 9 PM. At about 12.15 AM they reached Parwanoo on 6.1.2010. Police stopped the bus. Police checked the vehicle. Police were checking the luggage of the vehicle. Volunteered that he had deboarded the bus. There were 70 passengers in the bus. Two persons were sitting on seats No. 21, 22 and 23. He was also declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination by the Public Prosecutor, he denied the suggestion that there were 70 passengers in the bus and three persons were sitting on seats No. 21 to 23. He also denied the suggestion that police checked the persons sitting in the bus in his presence or in the presence of Driver. He has admitted that he has issued tickets amounting to `242/- to the passenger which are Exts. P1 to P8. However, he denied that he had issued tickets Ext. P1 to Ext. P8 to the accused. However, fact of the matter is that he has admitted his signatures on Ext. P1 to Ext. P8 in red circle. He denied portions 'A' to 'A', 'B' to 'B' and 'C' to 'C' of his statement mark X1.

9. Rati Bhan Sub Inspector, Haryana Roadways (PW-3) deposed that as per record, on 5.1.2010, Balwan Singh No. 98 was driver and Om Kanwar was the conductor on Bus No. HR-63-A-8394. They started from Shimla in the bus on 5.1.2010.

10. LHC Jai Nand (PW-4) deposed that at 12.15 AM, Bus No. HR-63-A-8394 enroute Shimla to Delhi came at Parwanoo. It was stopped for checking. IO entered the bus alongwith other officials. Luggage of passengers was checked. ASI Santosh Kumar after checking the luggage of passengers, reached near seats No. 21 to 23 and found that two persons were sitting there. Accused was sitting on seat No. 23. A Pithunuma bag was found in between legs of person sitting on seat No. 23. Bag was wrapped with tape. On opening the bag, black substance was found in the bag. It was found to be Charas. Driver Balwan Singh and Conductor Om Kanwar were associated during the search. Accused alongwith recovered bag, driver and conductor of the bus was taken to the barrier at Parwanoo. The bag was opened in his presence. On opening the bag, Charas was recovered. It weighed 3.3 kg. Search, seizure and sampling proceedings were completed at the spot. Rukka mark AB was prepared by the IO. Rukka alongwith other documents through Constable Vijay Kumar was sent to the Police Station Parwanoo. He admitted in his cross-examination that there were offices of Excise, RTO and Forest and Marketing Check Post at Parwanoo barrier and they remained open 24 hours. He admitted that there were persons on the private contractor barrier who charged entry fee from all vehicles entering Himachal Pradesh. Vehicles also remained parked 24 hours at the barrier for paying taxes.

11. HHC Santosh Singh (PW-7) deposed that he remained posted as HHC in Police Station, Parwanoo in the year 2010. On 6.1.2010, HHC Bhagi Rath PS Parwanoo handed over to him one sealed parcel which was resealed with seal impressions of 'H', five in number, vide RC No. 101/09-10 alongwith sample of seals' A' and 'H', NCB form, FIR and copy of memo. He deposited the case property alongwith above mentioned documents on 6.1.2010 at FSL Junga and handed over receipt to MHC Bhagi Rath.

12. HHC Vijay Kumar (PW-8) also deposed the manner in which accused was apprehended while sitting on seat No. 23 and contraband was recovered from his bag. It weighed 3.3 kg. Rukka was handed over to him. He took the same to the Police Station. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination by the learned Public Prosecutor, he admitted that 8-10 passengers told that they had to board train from Ambala. He admitted that the IO directed the Driver and the Conductor of the bus to proceed the journey alongwith passengers as the passengers were in a hurry. He admitted that sealing proceedings were conducted in the presence of witnesses Devender Kumar and Jai Nand after allowing the bus to proceed further. He identified the case property in the Court. IO tried to associate independent witnesses but all the passengers refused to be associated in the proceedings. All the offices situate at Parwanoo were busy throughout. Since officials at the tax barrier remain busy in tax collection, they were not associated in the proceedings. Persons who were in the queue refused to join investigation. Nobody came to the police barrier from the queue. He admitted that due to the slip of tongue he has admitted that driver and conductor were allowed to proceed further after sealing.

13. HC Bhagi Rath (PW-9) deposed that on 6.1.2010, at 2.30 AM, SHO Govind Ram handed over to him one sealed parcel stated to be containing 3.3 kg Charas in the shape of sticks sealed with seal impressions of 'H', five in number alongwith samples of seals 'H' and 'A', NCB form in triplicate, two copies of seizure memos. Case property was kept by him in safe custody in the Malkhana. He entered the case property at Sr. No. 391/10 of Malkhana Register of Police Station, Parwanoo. On 6.1.2010, he handed over the parcel alongwith samples of seals 'H' and 'A', NCB form in triplicate, seizure memo to HHC Santosh Kumar vide RC No. 101/09 dated 6.1.2010 to be deposited with FSL Junga. He proved extract of Malkhana Register Ext. PW-9/B. He has not tampered with the case property during the time it remained in his possession.

14. HC Devender Sharma (PW-10) deposed the manner in which accused was apprehended while sitting in seat No. 23. Bag was searched. It contained Charas. In his cross-examination, he admitted that at Parwanoo Barrier there were Excise Office, RTO Office, Forest Department, which remained open 24 hours. He also admitted that the employees of the contractor who charged toll tax from the vehicles also remained present at Parwanoo barrier 24 hours. He also admitted that a number of vehicles remained parked at Parwanoo. Many people were standing in queue for paying their taxes.

15. ASI Santosh Kumar (PW-11) also deposed that the accused was found sitting on seat No. 23. He was carrying a bag. Bag was opened. It contained Charas. Codal formalities were completed at the spot. He also admitted that there were offices of Excise, RTO, Forest, which remained open 24 hours. Employees of the contractor remained present at the barrier for collecting toll tax from the vehicles coming towards Shimla. He has not associated any witness from the office of Excise, RTO, Forest or the employees of the contractor. Volunteered that they refused to join the investigation. He denied the suggestion that the accused was not travelling in the bus.

16. Govind Ram (PW-12) deposed that on 6.1.2010 at about 2.30 AM, Constable Vijay Kumar produced before him, a parcel sealed with seal 'A' having four impressions alongwith NCB form in triplicate and its columns No. 1 to 8 were filled by ASI Santsoh Kumar. The parcel was stated to be containing 3.3 Kg Charas. He found seal impressions intact. Case property was sent by ASI Santosh Kumar through Constable Vijay Kumar. Sealed parcel was put in another cloth parcel and was resealed with five seal impressions of 'H'. Sample of seal 'H' was drawn. He also filled in columns No. 9 to 11 of the NCB form. Specimen of seal 'H' was also taken on NCB form. Case property alongwith samples of seals 'A' and 'H' and NCB form in triplicate were entered in Malkhana Register of Police Station, Parwanoo by MHC Bhagi Rath. Case property was kept in safe custody. It was sent to FSL Junga. All the seals were found intact as per FSL report Ext. PW-12/G. Prosecution has given the explanation that why the independent witnesses could not be associated at 12.15 AM.

17. Bus bearing No. HR-63-A-8394 was on its way to Delhi. It was signalled to stop at 12.15 AM at Police Barrier Parwanoo on 6.1.2010. Accused was occupying seat No. 23. He was carrying a bag. Bag was checked. It contained Charas. All the codal formalities were completed at the spot. Case property was produced before SHO. He resealed the same and deposited with MHC Bhagi Rath. Case property was sent to FSL Junga. All the seals were found intact. Prosecution case has not been supported by PW-1 Balwan Singh and PW-2 Om Kanwar in its entirety. They have resiled from their statements recorded under Section 161 CrPC. However, fact of the matter is that PW-2 Om Kanwar, in his cross-examination, has admitted his signatures on Exts. P1 to P8. These two witnesses were the employees of Haryana Roadways but have tried to help the accused by resiling from their earlier statements recorded by the police. In this case, surprisingly, PW-8 Vijay Kumar, the official witness, was also declared hostile. However, in his cross-examination by the learned Public Prosecutor he has supported the case of the prosecution. He has also deposed that the IO has tried to associate independent witnesses but all the passengers refused to be associated in the proceedings. He also deposed that the persons who were in the queues, refused to join investigation. Nobody came to the police barrier. He also deposed that the officials in tax barrier remained busy in tax collection that is why they were not associated in the proceedings. Statement of PW-4 Jai Nand inspires confidence in the manner in which accused was apprehended, codal formalities were completed at the spot. He has admitted that the offices of Excise, RTO and Marketing Check Post remained open 24 hours and employees of the contractor also used to work 24 hours. Similarly, PW-10 Devender Sharma deposed that the RTO office, Forest Office remained open 24 hours and employees of contractor also used to collect toll tax 24 hours. Vehicles were parked at Parwanoo. However, fact of the matter is that the police have tried earlier to join the passengers of the bus as witnesses but they were not ready and willing to be joined as witnesses. Officials of the RTO and Excise Offices were busy. Persons deployed in these offices could not be associated as independent witnesses. Statements of official witnesses i.e. PW-4 Jai Nand, PW-10 Devender Sharma and PW-11 Santosh Kumar duly prove that the accused was found in conscious possession of the contraband while he was travelling from Shimla to Delhi. No doubt, there is a defect in the investigation carried out by the police, however, accused can not take advantage of the defective investigation when entire evidence is taken into consideration.

18. Judgment relied upon by the learned trial Court in Sunil vs. State has been overruled by this Court in the case of State of H.P. vrs. Mehboon Khan and analogous matters, reported in Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) (FB) 900. The Full Bench of this Court has categorically held that there is no legal requirement of the presence of particular percentage of resin to be there in the sample and the presence of the resin in purified or crude form is sufficient to hold that the sample was that of Charas. It has been held as follows:

> "………….The separated resin is cannabis resin not only when it is in 'purified' form, but also when in 'crude' form or still mixed with other parts of the plant. >
> f. We are also not in agreement with the findings recorded by the Division Bench in Sunil's case that " mere presence of tetrahydrocannabinol and cystolithic hair without there being any mention of the percentage of tetrahydrocannabinol in a sample of charas is not an indicator of the entire stuff analyzed to be charas" for the reason that the statute does not insist for the presence of percentage in the stuff of charas and mere presence of tetrahydrocannabinol along with cystolithic hair in a sample stuff is an indicator of the same being the resin of cannabis plant because the cystolithic hair are present only in the cannabis plant. When after observing the presence of tetrahydrocannabinol and cystolithic hair, the expert arrives at a conclusion that the sample contains the resin contents, it is more than sufficient to hold that the sample is of charas and the view so expressed by the expert normally should be honoured and not called into question. Of course, neutral material which is not obtained from cannabis plant cannot be treated as resin of the cannabis plants. The resin rather must have been obtained from the cannabis plants may be in 'crude' form or 'purified' form. In common parlance charas is a hand made drug made from extract of cannabis plant. Therefore, any mixture with or without any neutral material of any of the forms of cannabis is to be considered as a contraband article. No concentration and percentage of resin is prescribed for 'charas' under the Act"

19. It was also not necessary to indicate the percentage of the Tetrahydrocannabinol in the report. Prosecution has proved beyond reasonable doubt that the contraband was recovered from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused

20. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. Judgment dated 13.3.2012 rendered by the learned Special Judge-II, Solan, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh in Sessions Trial No. 13-S-7 of 2012/2010 is set aside. The accused is convicted for the commission of offence punishable under Section 20 of the Act. Accused be produced to be heard on quantum of sentence on 7.7.2016. Bail bonds of the accused are cancelled.

21. Registry is directed to prepare and send the production warrant to the quarter concerned.

22. However, before parting with the judgment, it is pertinent to note that a number of witnesses resile from their statements recorded under Section 161 CrPC. In the present case, the police official and the employees of Haryana Roadways have resiled from their earlier statements recorded under Section 161 CrPC. It is a dangerous trend. Thus, in order to discourage the practice of the witnesses resiling from their earlier statements recorded under Section 161 CrPC, Principal Secretary (Home) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh is directed to issue necessary directions to all the Superintendents of Police in the State of Himachal Pradesh to ensure that Proviso-1 to Sub-section 3 of Section 161 CrPC inserted by Act 5 of 2009 (w.e.f. 31.12.2009) be followed scrupulously, in letter and spirit, in future by recording statements under Section 161 CrPC by the IO, in writing and also by audio/video/electronic means to curb the tendency of the witnesses resiling from/disowning their earlier statements recorded under Section 161 CrPC, in the interest of justice. A certified copy of this judgment be sent to the Principal Secretary (Home) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh, for doing the needful, as ordered herein above.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

The New India Assurance Co. .....Appellant

Versus

Minakshi Sharma and others ... Respondents

FAO No.:203 of 2011 with
CO No.: 321 of 2011.
Decided on : 01.07.2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- It was contended that vehicle did not have valid permit and the insurer is not liable- held, that this issue was not pressed before the Tribunal and cannot be agitated in appeal- otherwise no evidence was led to prove that there was no valid permit- appeal dismissed. (Para-7)

For the appellant: Mr.B.M. Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents: Ms.Seema Guleria, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Mr.S.K. Banyal, Proxy Counsel, for respondents No.2 and 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

This appeal is directed against the award, dated 26th February, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Una, District Una, H.P. (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.11 of 2010, titled Minakshi Sharma vs. Balbir Singh and others, whereby the claim petition was allowed, compensation to the tune of Rs.2,83,,400/-, alongwith interest at the rate of 9% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till the realization thereof, came to be awarded in favour of the claimant and the insurer was saddled with the liability, (for short the "impugned award").

2. The owner and the driver have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus, the same has attained finality so far as it relates to them.

3. Feeling aggrieved, the insurer has challenged the impugned award by the medium of instant appeal, while the claimant has questioned the impugned award by filing Cross Objections No.321 of 2011.

4. Heard and gone through the record.

5. The Tribunal, while deciding issue No.1, after making reference to the evidence, held that the claimant has proved that Rakesh Kumar had died in the accident which was the outcome of rash and negligent driving of driver, namely, Balbir Singh, while driving bus bearing No.PB-07U-6979. There is no challenge to the said findings. Accordingly, the same are upheld.

6. Qua issues No.3 and 4, the Tribunal has rightly held that the claimant had cause of action and the claim petition was maintainable. Accordingly, the said findings are upheld.

7. During the course of hearing, the learned counsel for the insurer only argued that the offending vehicle was not having a valid route permit and therefore, the insurer is not liable. The submission made by the learned counsel for the appellant revolves around issue No.6. Issues No.5 to 9 were decided before the Tribunal as not pressed, therefore, the appellant is precluded to lay any challenge to the said findings. Moreover, it was for the insurer to lead evidence and discharge the onus, has not led any evidence for which reason the insurer has not pressed issues No.5 to 9 before the Tribunal and were decided accordingly. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issues No.5 to 9 are upheld.

8. Coming to issue No.2 and the Cross Objections filed by the claimant for enhancement, I have gone through the assessment made by the Tribunal and am of the view that the Tribunal has rightly made the guess work and has rightly assessed the compensation. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No.2 are upheld.

9. Having said so, there is no merit in the appeal as well as Cross Objections and the same are dismissed.

FAO No. 227 of 2011

United India Insurance Company Limited ...Appellant.
Versus
Smt. Bimla Devi and others ...Respondents.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- It was contended that vehicle was not insured at the time of accident- owner had committed willful breach of the terms and conditions of the policy- held, that insurer had not pressed issues No. 3 and 4, burden of which was placed upon it- burden to prove the breach of the terms and conditions was upon the insurer but no evidence was led to discharge the burden- appeal dismissed. (Para-6 to 10)

For the appellant(s): Mr. Lalit K. Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Abhishek Raj, Advocate, vice Mr. Rajan Kahol, Advocate, for respondent No. 1 in FAO No. 184 of 2011.
Mr. S.C. Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No. 1 in FAO No. 227 of 2011.
Mr. Ashok Tyagi, Advocate, vice Mr. Ramesh Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No. 2 in both the appeals.
Mr. Sanjay Parashar, Advocate, for respondent No. 3 in both the appeals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice. (Oral)

In terms of order, dated 2nd July, 2013, the ex-parte proceedings were drawn against respondent No. 3 in both the appeals, are recalled for the reason that Mr. Sanjay Parashar, Advocate, has filed power of attorney on behalf of the said respondent.

2. The challenge in both these appeals is to the judgments and awards of different dates, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Una, District Una, Himachal Pradesh (for short "the Tribunal") in M.A.C.P. No. 06/2007, titled as Smt. Kanta Rani alias Kanta Devi versus Shri Pawan Kumar & others and M.A.C.P. No. 04/2007, titled as Smt. Bimla Devi versus Shri Pawan Kumar & others, whereby compensation to the tune of ₹ 85,000/- and ₹ 1,61,000/-, respectively, with interest @ 9% per annum from the date of institution of the claim petitions till realization alongwith costs assessed at ₹ 1,000/- in both the cases, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and against the insurer (for short "the impugned awards").

3. Both these appeals are outcome of one motor vehicular accident, which was allegedly caused by the driver, namely Shri Pawan Kumar, while driving car, bearing registration No. PB-10 AP-6969, rashly and negligently on 25th November, 2006, at about 7.20 A.M. at Panjawar Chowk, thus, I deem it proper to determine both these appeals by this common judgment.

4. The claimants, the owner-insured and the driver of the offending vehicle have not questioned the impugned awards on any count, thus, the same have attained finality so far as the same relate to them.

5. The appellant-insurer has questioned the impugned awards on the grounds taken in the memo of the respective appeals.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant-insurer argued that the offending vehicle was not insured at the time of the accident and the owner-insured has committed a willful breach.

7. The argument of the learned counsel for the appellant-insurer is not correct for the following reasons:

8. The Tribunal, after scanning the pleadings of the parties, framed similar set of issues in both the claim petitions. I deem it proper to reproduce the issues framed in M.A.C.P. No. 06/2007 (subject matter of FAO No. 184 of 2011) herein:

> "1. Whether the petitioner suffered injuries because of the rash and negligent driving of Car No. PB-10 AP-6969 by the respondent/driver Sh. Pawan Kumar as alleged? OPP
> 2. If the issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioner is entitled to the compensation as claimed. If so, its quantum and from whom? OP Parties
>
> 3. Whether the respondent/driver Sh. Pawan Kumar was not holding and possessing a valid and effective licence to drive the car as alleged. If so, its effect? OPR
>
> 4. Whether the liquor was being smuggled in the car as alleged? OPR
> 5. Relief."

9. The grounds projected in the memo of appeals revolve around issues No. 3 and 4. It was for the insurer to discharge the onus to prove the said issues. It is apt to record herein that the insurer has not pressed both these issues before the Tribunal and came to be determined against the insurer with the findings 'not pressed'.

10. I have gone through the memo of appeals. It is nowhere recorded in the memo of appeals that the said finding has wrongly been recorded by the Tribunal. Once the insurer has not pressed issues No. 3 and 4 before the Tribunal, it cannot lie in its mouth to say that the owner-insured has committed a willful breach or there was violation of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy read with the mandate of Sections 146, 147 and 149 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "MV Act").

11. Having said so, the grounds taken in the memo of appeals do not survive.

12. Accordingly, the impugned awards are upheld and the appeals are dismissed.

13. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in both the appeals in favour of the claimants strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the respective impugned awards through payee's account cheque or by depositing the same in their respective bank accounts.

14. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on each of the Tribunal's files.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was a government servant- he was earning Rs. 9,921/- per month, or say Rs. 10,000/- per month- claimants are 4 in number- 1/4th amount is to be deducted towards personal expenses – thus, loss of dependency is Rs. 7,500/- per month- age of the deceased was 40 years- multiplier of '14' is applicable- claimants are entitled to compensation of Rs. 7,500 x 12 x 14 = Rs.12,60,000/- under the head 'loss of dependency'- claimants are also entitled to Rs. 10,000/- each under the heads 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of estate', 'loss of consortium' and ' funeral expenses'- thus, claimants are entitled to total compensation of Rs. 12,60,000/- + Rs. 40,000/- = Rs. 13,00,000/- along with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization. For the appellants: Mr.G.R. Palsara, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr.Kush Sharma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No.1 and 2.
Mr.Surender Verma, Advocate, for respondent No.3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is the award, dated 15th February, 2011, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Mandi, District Mandi, H.P. (for short, "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No.79 of 2003, titled Veena Devi and others vs. State of H.P. and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.10,00,000/-, alongwith interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till the amount is deposited, came to be awarded in favour of the claimants and respondents No.1 and 2 were saddled with the liability, (for short the "impugned award").

2. Respondents have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus, the same has attained finality so far as it relates to them.

3. Feeling aggrieved, the claimants have challenged the impugned award by the medium of instant appeal on the ground of adequacy of compensation. Thus, the only question needs to be determined is – Whether the amount awarded by the Tribunal is inadequate? The answer is in the affirmative for the following reasons.

4. Admittedly, the deceased was a government servant, was serving with respondents No.1 and 2, and, as per the salary certificate proved on record as Ext.PW-5/A, was earning Rs.9,921/- per month, or say Rs.10,000/- per month.

5. The claimants, in the instant case, are four in number. Therefore, in view of the law laid by the Apex Court in the case of Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others vs. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121, which decision was also upheld by the larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari and others vs. Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR (SCW) 3120, 1/4th was to be deducted towards the personal expenses of the deceased. Thus, the monthly loss of source of dependency to the claimants, after deducting 1/4th, can be said to be Rs.7,500/-.

6. The deceased was 40 years of age at the time of accident. Therefore, in view of the dictum of the Apex Court in the case of Sarla Verma (supra) and 2nd Schedule attached to the Act, multiplier of 14 is just and appropriate and is applied accordingly.

7. In view of the above, the claimants are held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.7,500x12x14=Rs.12,60,000/- under the head 'loss of source of dependency'. In addition, the claimants are also held entitled for Rs.10,000/- each (total Rs.40,000/-) under the heads 'loss of love and affection', 'loss of estate', 'loss of consortium' and ' funeral expenses'.

8. Accordingly, the claimants are held entitled to Rs.12,60,000/- + Rs.40,000/- = Rs.13,00,000/-.

9. Learned counsel for the appellants also submitted that the Tribunal has awarded interest at the rate of 6% per annum, which is on the lower side and prayed for enhancing the same.

10. It is beaten law of land that the rate of interest should be awarded as per the prevailing rates, in view of the judgments rendered by the Apex Court in cases titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, reported in (2002) 6 Supreme Court Cases 281; Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 2892; Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2012) 11 Supreme Court Cases 738; Smt. Savita versus Binder Singh & others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2053; Kalpanaraj & Ors. versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2982; Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, reported in (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 433, and Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, reported in (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 434, and discussed by this Court in a batch of FAOs, FAO No. 256 of 2010, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Smt. Indiro and others, being the lead case, decided on 19.06.2015.

11. Having said so, it is held that the amount of compensation awarded by the Tribunal shall carry interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till the same is deposited and the enhanced amount shall carry interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of passing of the impugned award till the final payment is made. Respondents No.1 and 2 are directed to deposit the amount of compensation, alongwith up-to-date interest, within a period of eight weeks from today and on deposit, the Registry is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants, strictly in terms of the impugned award.

12. Viewed thus, the impugned award is modified and the appeal is allowed, as indicated hereinabove.

13. Send down the record forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J.

Assailing the judgment dated 6.4.2015/7.4.2015, passed by learned Special Judge, Kullu, Distt. Kullu, H.P., in Sessions Trial No. 43 of 2014, titled as State of H.P. vs. Bansari lal, whereby the accused stands convicted of the offences punishable under the provisions of Section 376 (2)(i) of the Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as the IPC) and Section 4 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 (hereinafter referred to as the POCSO Act) and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of 10 years and pay fine of Rs.10,000/- and in default thereof to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of two months for offence under Section 376 (2)(i) of the IPC; and rigorous imprisonment for a period of 10 years and pay fine of Rs.10,000/- and in default thereof to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of two months for offence under Section 4 of the POCSO Act, he has filed the present appeal under the provisions of Section 374 (2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

2. It is the case of the prosecution that Sushma Devi (PW-1) was married to Asha Dutt some time in the year 1996 through whom she gave birth to two daughters Sunita (PW-6) and the prosecutrix (PW-2). Sometime in the year 2006, they separated and the marriage came to be dissolved by divorce when Sushma Devi started residing at Bhunter whereas the daughters continued to reside with their father at village Deori. Accused Bansari Lal, brother of Asha Dutt, who also resides in the very same village had two sons, one of whom used to reside in a different village, with his maternal aunt. On 2.2.2014, one of the sons of the accused namely Chand Parkash took the prosecutrix to his house where both played together. While prosecutrix was sleeping with Chand Parkash in one of the rooms, in the night, accused carried the prosecutrix to his bed and subjected her to forcible sexual intercourse. Such incident came to be repeated even the following day i.e. 3.02.2014. Prosecutrix narrated the incident to her elder sister (PW-6) who informed her father, grand mother and other members of the family. However they instructed her not to talk to anyone and that in future they would take care of the prosecutrix. On 9.02.2014 Sunita (PW-6) telephonically requested her mother to meet her and upon meeting, disclosed the incident to her, where after, the matter came to be reported to the police and F.I.R. No. 11/2014, dated 9.2.2014 (Ext. PW-1/A) came to be registered against the accused at Police Station Banjar (Seraj), Distt. Kullu, H.P. under the provisions of Sections 376 IPC and 4 POCSO Act. Police machinery was swung into action and the prosecutrix immediately got medically examined from Dr. Anu Devi (PW-11) who issued MLC (Ext. PW-11/A). Investigation so conducted by Const.

Mamta (PW-7) and SHO Chint Ram (PW-10) revealed that at the time of occurrence of the crime, prosecutrix who was studying in the sixth standard was a minor. During the course of investigation, on the basis of disclosure statement (Ext. PW-7/A) so made by the accused, who stood arrested by the police, incriminating articles in the form of clothes, blanket, bed sheet etc. came to be recovered. Clothes of the prosecutrix were also taken into possession. The incriminating articles were sent to the Regional Forensic Science Laboratory, Mandi, H.P. for chemical analysis and report (Ext. PW-10/F) taken on record. With the completion of investigation, which prima facie revealed complicity of the accused in the alleged crime, challan was presented in the Court for trial.

3. Accused was charged for having committed offences punishable under the provisions of Section 376-G IPC and Section 4 POCSO Act , to which he did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, in all, prosecution examined twelve witnesses and statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr. P.C. also recorded, in which he took plea of innocence and false implication. No evidence in defence was led by the accused.

5. Appreciating the material on record, including the testimonies of the witnesses, trial Court convicted the accused of the charged offences and sentenced as aforesaid. Hence, the present appeal..

6. We have extensively heard learned counsel appearing on both the sides and perused the record.

7. Mr. H.S. Rangra, learned counsel for the appellant assails the judgment on the following grounds: (i) Inordinate delay in reporting the matter to the police, more so in the absence of any record pertaining to the telephonic conversion which Sunita (PW-6), sister of the prosecutrix had had with her mother Sushma Devi (PW-1), remains unexplained, rendering the prosecution case to be fatal; (ii) Contradictions and improvements in the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses have rendered their statements to be unbelievable and the witnesses unreliable; (iii) Ocular version stands contradicted through documentary evidence; (iv) Non association of independent witnesses has rendered the prosecution case to be doubtful; (v) Medical evidence does not corroborate and support the prosecution case of sexual intercourse; and (vi) Even by way of link/scientific evidence, prosecution case stands falsified.

8. In support, learned counsel has referred to and relied upon the following decisions: Krishan Kumar Malik vs. State of Haryana, (2011) 7 SCC 130; Jai Krishna Mandal & another vs. State of Jharkhand, (2011) 3 SCC (Cri) 842; State of Andhra Pradesh vs. Jalapathi Subbarayudu & others, (2010) 15 SCC 472; State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Ajay Kumar, 2010 Cri. L.J. 2990; Rama Nand Gandwal vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2010 Cri. L.J. 3005; Malkiat Singh & Anr. etc. vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2010 Cri. L.J. 635; and judgment dated 23.3.2011, passed by this Court in Cr. Appeal No. 220 of 2001, titled as State of H.P. vs. Rajinder Singh.

9. On the other hand, Mr. Vikram Thakur learned Deputy Advocate General assisted by Mr. J. S. Guleria, learned Assistant Advocate General, appearing for the respondent-State, have supported the judgment for the reasons set out therein.

10. At this juncture we deem it appropriate to deal with the statement of law on the point.

11. In Indian Woman Says Gang-Raped on Orders of Village Court Published in Business and Financial News Dated 23.10.2014, In Re, (2014) 4 SCC 786, the Apex Court has highlighted the need for having an effective State police machinery for curbing the menace of rape, for such crime is not only in contravention of the domestic laws, but is also in direct breach of obligations under International Law, treaties whereof stand ratified by the State, which is under an obligation to protect its women from any kind of discrimination.

12. The Apex Court has highlighted the need for prompt disposal of cases of crime against women and children. (Rajkumar v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2014) 5 SCC 353).

13. In Shyam Narain v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2013) 7 SCC 77, the Apex Court held as under:

> "27. Respect for reputation of women in the society shows the basic civility of a civilised society. No member of society can afford to conceive the idea that he can create a hollow in the honour of a woman. Such thinking is not only lamentable but also deplorable. It would not be an exaggeration to say that the thought of sullying the physical frame of a woman is the demolition of the accepted civilized norm, i.e., "physical morality". In such a sphere, impetuosity has no room. The youthful excitement has no place. It should be paramount in everyone's mind that, on one hand, the society as a whole cannot preach from the pulpit about social, economic and political equality of the sexes and, on the other, some pervert members of the same society dehumanize the woman by attacking her body and ruining her chastity. It is an assault on the individuality and inherent dignity of a woman with the mindset that she should be elegantly servile to men. Rape is a monstrous burial of her dignity in the darkness. It is a crime against the holy body of a woman and the soul of the society and such a crime is aggravated by the manner in which it has been committed. We have emphasised on the manner because, in the present case, the victim is an eight year old girl who possibly would be deprived of the dreams of "Spring of Life" and might be psychologically compelled to remain in the "Torment of Winter". When she suffers, the collective at large also suffers. Such a singular crime creates an atmosphere of fear which is historically abhorred by the society. It demands just punishment from the court and to such a demand, the courts of law are bound to respond within legal parameters. It is a demand for justice and the award of punishment has to be in consonance with the legislative command and the discretion vested in the court."

14. In Narender Kumar v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2012) 7 SCC 171, the apex Court has cautioned the Court to adopt the following approach:

> "The courts while trying an accused on the charge of rape, must deal with the case with utmost sensitivity, examining the broader probabilities of a case and not get swayed by minor contradictions or insignificant discrepancies in the evidence of the witnesses which are not of a substantial character."

15. The Apex Court in Munna v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2014) 10 SCC 254, has reiterated the principle that testimony of prosecutrix is almost at par with an immediate witness and can be acted upon without corroboration.

16. The Apex Court in Madan Gopal Makkad v. Naval Dubey and another*,* (1992) 3 SCC 204, has held as under:

> "34. A medical witness called in as an expert to assist the court is not a witness of fact and the evidence given by the medical officer is really of an advisory character given on the basis of the symptoms found on examination. The expert witness is expected to put before the court all materials inclusive of the data which induced him to come to the conclusion and enlighten the court on the technical aspect of the case by explaining the terms of science so that the court although, not an expert may form its own judgment on those materials after giving due regard to the expert's opinion because once the expert's opinion is accepted, it is not the opinion of the medical officer but of the court.

35. Nariman, J. in Queen v. Ahmed Ally, (1989) 11 Sutherland WR Cr 25, while expressing his view a on medical evidence has observed as follows:

> "THE evidence of a medical man or other skilled witnesses, however, eminent, as to what he thinks may or may not have taken place under particular combination of circumstances, however, confidently, he may speak, is ordinarily a matter of mere opinion."

36. Fazal Ali, J. in Pratap Misra v. State of Orissa, (1977 3 SCC 41, has stated thus:

> "... [l]t is well settled that the medical jurisprudence is not an exact science and it is indeed difficult for any Doctor to say with precision and exactitude as to when a particular injury was caused ... as to the exact time when the appellants may have had sexual intercourse with the prosecutrix."

37. We feel that it would be quite appropriate, in this context, to reproduce the opinion expressed by Modi in Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology (Twenty-first Edition) at page 369 which reads thus:

> "THUS to constitute the offence of rape it is not necessary that there should be complete penetration of penis with emission of semen and rupture of hymen. Partial penetration of the penis within the labia majora or the vulva or pudenda with or without emission of semen or even an attempt at penetration is quite sufficient for the purpose of the law. It is therefore quite possible to commit legally the offence of rape without producing any injury to the genitals or leaving any seminal stains. In such a case the medical officer should mention the negative facts in his report, but should not give his opinion that no rape had been committed. Rape is crime and not a medical condition. Rape is a legal term and not a diagnosis to be made by the medical officer treating the victim. The only statement that can be made by the medical officer is that there is evidence of recent sexual activity. Whether the rape has occurred or not is a legal conclusion, not a medical one. "

38. In Parikh 's Textbook of Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology, the following passage is found:

> "SEXUAL intercourse. In law, this term is held to mean the slightest degree of penetration of the vulva by the penis with or without emission of semen. It is therefore quite possible to commit legally the offence of rape without producing any injury to the genitals or leaving any seminal stains."

39. In Encyclopedia of Crime and Justice (Vol. 4 at page 1356, it is stated:

> "... [E]ven slight penetration is sufficient and emission is unnecessary."

40. In Halsbury's Statutes of England and Wales, (Fourth Edition), Volume 12, it is stated that even the slightest degree of penetration is sufficient to prove sexual intercourse within the meaning of S. 44 of the Sexual Offences Act, 1956. Vide (1) R. v. Hughes, (1841) 9 C&P 752, (2) R. v. Lines and R. v. Nicholls, (1844) 1 Car & Kir 393.

41. See also Harris's Criminal Law, (Twenty-second Edition) at page 465.

42. In American Jurisprudence, it is stated that slight penetration is sufficient to complete the crime of rape. Code 263 of Penal Code of Califomia reads thus:

"RAPE; essentials Penetration sufficient. The essential guilt of rape consists in the outrage to the person and feelings of the victim of the rape. Any sexual penetration, however slight, is sufficient to complete the crime."

> 43. The First Explanation to S. 375 of Indian Penal Code which defines 'Rape' reads thus:
> > "EXPLANATION.PENETRATION is sufficient to constitute the sexual intercourse necessary to the offence of rape."
> 44. In interpreting the above explanation whether complete penetration is necessary to constitute an offence of rape, various High courts have taken a consistent view that even the slightest penetration is sufficient to make out an offence of rape and the depth of penetration is immaterial. Reference may be made to (1) Natha v. Emperor, (1925) 26 CrLJ 1185, (2) Abdul Majid v. Emperor, AIR 1927 Lah 735(2), (3) Mst. Jantan v. Emperor, (1934) 36 Punj LR 35, (4) Ghanashyam Misra v. State, 1957 CriLJ 469*, (5) Das Bernard v. State*, 1974 CriLJ 1098. In re Anthony, AIR 1960 Mad 308 it has been held that while there must be penetration in the technical sense, the slightest penetration would be sufficient and a complete act of sexual intercourse is not at all necessary. In Gour's The Penal Law of India, 6th Edn. 1955 (Vol. II), page 1678, it is observed, "Even vulval penetration has been held to be sufficient for a conviction of rape." ”

17. Also, it is a settled principle of law that absence of injuries on the external or internal parts of the victim by itself cannot be a reason to disbelieve the testimony of the prosecutrix. [Mukesh v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2014) 10 SC 327); State of Haryana v. Basti Ram, (2013) 4 SCC 200; O.M. Baby (Dead) by Legal Representative v. State of Keral, (2012) 11 SCC 362; and State of U.P. v. Chhotey Lal, (2011) 2 SCC 550]

18. The Apex Court in Puran Chand v. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2014) 5 SCC 689, observed that even non-rupture of hymen itself would be of no consequence and rape could be held to be proved even if there is slight penetration.

19. Mere fact that hymen is intact or that there is no actual wound on the private part of the prosecutrix is not conclusive of the fact that prosecutrix was not subjected to rape. (Radhakrishna Nagesh v. State of Andhra Pradesh, (2013) 11 SCC 688).

20. Reiterating its earlier view in Mohd. Iqbal v. State of Jharkhand, (2013) 14 SCC 481; Narender Kumar v. State (NCT of Delh), (2012) 7 SCC 171, the Apex Court in Mukesh v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2014) 10 SC 327, has held that sole testimony of prosecutrix is sufficient to establish commission of rape, even in the absence of any corroborative evidence.

21. In Radhakrishna Nagesh v. State of Andhra Pradesh, (2013) 11 SCC 688, the apex Court held as under:

> “33. It will be useful to refer to the judgment of this Court in the case of O.M. Baby v. State of Kerala, (2012) 11 SCC 362, where the Court held as follows:-
> > "17. ….. ‘16. A prosecutrix of a sex offence cannot be put on a par with an accomplice. She is in fact a victim of the crime. The Evidence Act nowhere says that her evidence cannot be accepted unless it is corroborated in material particulars. She is undoubtedly a competent witness under Section 118 and her evidence must receive the same weight as is attached to an injured in cases of physical violence. The same degree of care and caution must attach in the evaluation of her evidence as in the case of an injured complainant or witness and no more. What is necessary is that the court must be alive to and conscious of the fact that it is dealing with the evidence of a person who is interested in the outcome of the charge levelled by her. If the court keeps this in mind and feels satisfied that it can act on the evidence of the prosecutrix, there is no rule of law or practice incorporated in the Evidence Act similar to Illustration (b) to Section 114 which requires it to look for corroboration. If for some reason the court is hesitant to place implicit reliance on the testimony of the prosecutrix it may look for evidence which may lend assurance to her testimony short of corroboration required in the case of an accomplice. The nature of evidence required to lend assurance to the testimony of the prosecutrix must necessarily depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. But if a prosecutrix is an adult and of full understanding the court is entitled to base a conviction on her evidence unless the same is shown to be infirm and not trustworthy. If the totality of the circumstances appearing on the record of the case disclose that the prosecutrix does not have a strong motive to falsely involve the person charged, the court should ordinarily have no hesitation in accepting her evidence.'

18. We would further like to observe that while appreciating the evidence of the prosecutrix, the court must keep in mind that in the context of the values prevailing in the country, particularly in rural India, it would be unusual for a woman to come up with a false story of being a victim of sexual assault so as to implicate an innocent person. Such a view has been expressed by the judgment of this Court in the case of State of Punjab v. Gurmit Singh, (1996) 2 SCC 384 and has found reiteration in a recent judgment in Rajinder @ Raju v. State of H.P., (2009) 16 SCC 69, para 19 whereof may be usefully extracted:

> '19. In the context of Indian culture, a woman - victim of sexual aggression - would rather suffer silently than to falsely implicate somebody. Any statement of rape is an extremely humiliating experience for a woman and until she is a victim of sex crime, she would not blame anyone but the real culprit. While appreciating the evidence of the prosecutrix, the courts must always keep in mind that no self-respecting woman would put her honour at stake by falsely alleging commission of rape on her and therefore, ordinarily a look for corroboration of her testimony is unnecessary and uncalled for. But for high improbability in the prosecution case, the conviction in the case of sex crime may be based on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix. It has been rightly said that corroborative evidence is not an imperative component of judicial credence in every case of rape nor the absence of injuries on the private parts of the victim can be construed as evidence of consent.' "”

22. In Rameshwar v. The State of Rajasthan, AIR 1952 SC 54, the Supreme Court has held that previous statement of the raped girl to her mother, immediately after the occurrence, is not only admissible and relevant as to her conduct, but also constitutes corroboration of her statement under the provisions of section 157 of the Evidence Act. In order to come to the aforesaid conclusions, illustration (j) to section 8 of the Evidence Act was relied upon. In that case, the victim, named Purni, was 7/8 years old. She was not administered oath, but was held to be competent witness and, therefore, duly examined and believed.

23. In State of Punjab versus Jagir Singh (1974) 3 SCC 277 the apex Court held that:-

"A criminal trial is not like a fairy tale wherein one is free to give fight to one's imagination and fantasy. It concerns itself with the question as to whether the accused arraigned at the trial is guilty of the crime with which he is charged. Crime is an event in real life and is the product of interplay of different human emotions. In arriving at the conclusion about the guilt of the accused charged with the commission of a crime, the Court has to judge the evidence by the yardstick of probabilities, its intrinsic worth and the animus of witnesses. Every case in the final analysis would have to depend upon its own facts. Although the benefit of every reasonable doubt should be given to the accused, the Courts should not at the same time reject evidence which is ex facie trustworthy on grounds which are fanciful or in the nature of conjectures."

24. The Apex Court in State of Rajasthan versus N. K. THE ACCUSED (2000) 5 SCC 30 has held that:-

"... ...It is true that the golden thread which runs throughout the cobweb of criminal jurisprudence as administered in India is that nine guilty may escape but one innocent should not suffer. But at the same time no guilty should escape unpunished once the guilt has been proved to hilt. An unmerited acquittal does no good to the society. If the prosecution has succeeded in making out a convincing case for recording a finding as to the accused being guilty, the Court should not lean in favour of acquittal by giving weight to irrelevant or insignificant circumstances or by resorting to technicalities or by assuming doubts and giving benefit thereof where none exists. A doubt, as understood in criminal jurisprudence, has to be a reasonable doubt and not an excuse for finding in favour of acquittal. An unmerited acquittal encourages wolves in the society being on prowl for easy prey, more so when the victims of crime are helpless females. It is the spurt in the number of unmerited acquittals recorded by criminal Courts which gives rise to the demand for death sentence to the rapists. The Courts have to display a greater sense of responsibility and to be more sensitive while dealing with charges of sexual assault on women."

(Emphasis supplied)

25. It is also a settled position of law that victim of a sex offence cannot be put on par with an accomplice. She is in fact a victim of the crime. If for some reason Court is hesitant to place implicit reliance on the testimony of the victim it may look for evidence which may lend assurance to her testimony short of corroboration required in the case of an accomplice. The nature of evidence required to lend assurance to the testimony of the victim must necessarily depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. If the totality of the circumstances appearing on the record of the case disclose that victim does not have a strong motive to falsely involve the person charged, Court should ordinarily have no hesitation in accepting her evidence. [State of Maharashtra versus Chandraprakash Kewalchand Jain, (1990) 1 SCC 550 and O. M. Baby (dead) by Legal Representative vs. State of Kerala, 2012 (11) SCC 362].

26. The Apex Court in State of Punjab versus Gurmit Singh and others, (1996) 2 SCC 384 has held that:-

"... ...The Courts must, while evaluating evidence, remain alive to the fact that in a case of rape, no self-respecting woman would come forward in a Court just to make a humiliating statement against her honour such as is involved in the commission of rape on her. In cases involving sexual molestation, supposed considerations which have no material effect on the veracity of the prosecution case or even discrepancies in the statement of the prosecutrix should not, unless the discrepancies are such which are of fatal nature, be allowed to throw out an otherwise reliable prosecution case. The inherent bashfulness of the females and the tendency to conceal outrage of sexual aggression are factors which the Courts should not overlook. The testimony of the victim in such cases is vital and unless there are compelling reasons which necessitate looking for corroboration of her statement, the Courts should find no difficulty to act on the testimony of a victim of sexual assault alone to convict an accused where her testimony inspires confidence and is found to be reliable. Seeking corroboration of her statement before relying upon the same, as a rule, in such cases amounts to adding insult to injury. Why should the evidence of a girl or a woman who complains of rape or sexual molestation, be viewed with doubt, disbelief or suspicion ?

"21. Of late, crime against women in general and rape in particular is on the increase. It is an irony that while we are celebrating women's rights in all spheres, we show little or no concern for her honour. It is a sad reflection on the attitude of indifference of the society towards the violation of human dignity of the victims of sex crimes. We must remember that a rapist not only violates the victim's privacy and personal integrity, but inevitably causes serious psychological as well as physical harm in the process. Rape is not merely a physical assault - it is often destructive of the whole personality of the victim. A murderer destroys the physical body of his victim, a rapist degrades the very soul of the helpless female. The Court, therefore, shoulder a great responsibility while trying an accused on charges of rape. They must deal with such cases with utmost sensitivity. The Courts should examine the broader probabilities of a case and not get swayed by minor contradictions or insignificant discrepancies in the statement of the prosecutrix, which are not of a fatal nature, to throw out an otherwise reliable prosecution case." … …

(Emphasis supplied)

The Court again reiterated its view in Siriya @ Shri Lal vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2008) 8 SCC 72.

27. In State of M.P. v. Dharkole alias Govind Singh and others, (2004) 13 SCC 308 the Apex Court has held that:-

"9. … Eye witnesses' account would require a careful independent assessment and evaluation for their credibility which should not be adversely prejudged making any other evidence, including medical evidence, as the sole touchstone for the test of such credibility. The evidence must be tested for its inherent consistency and the inherent probability of the story; consistency with the account of other witnesses held to be credit-worthy; consistency with the undisputed facts; the 'credit' of the witnesses; their performance in the witness-box; their power of observation etc. Then the probative value of such evidence becomes eligible to be put into the scales for a cumulative evaluation."

"10. A person has, no doubt, a profound right not to be convicted of an offence which is not established by the evidential standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt. Though this standard is a higher standard, there is, however, no absolute standard. What degree of probability amounts to 'proof' is an exercise particular to each case?

> "The simple multiplication rule does not apply if the separate pieces of evidence are dependent. Two events are dependent when they tend to occur together, and the evidence of such events may also be said to be dependent. In a criminal case, different pieces of evidence directed to establishing that the defendant did the prohibited act with the specified state of mind are generally dependent. A junior may feel doubt whether to credit an alleged confession, and doubt whether to infer guilt from the fact that the defendant fled from justice. But since it is generally guilty rather than innocent people who make confessions and guilty rather than innocent people who run away, the two doubts are not to be multiplied together. The one piece of evidence may confirm the other."

"11. Doubts would be called reasonable if they are free from a zest for abstract speculation. Law cannot afford any favourite other than truth. To constitute reasonable doubt, it must be free from an over emotional response. Doubts must be actual and substantial doubts as to the guilt of the accused persons arising from the evidence, or from the lack of it, as opposed to mere vague apprehensions. A reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or a merely possible doubt; but a fair doubt based upon reason and commonsense. It must grow out of the evidence in the case." [Emphasis supplied]

28. In Dattu Ramrao Sakhare v. State of Maharashtra (1997 (5) SCC 341) it held that:

'5. .....A child witness if found competent to depose to the facts and reliable one such evidence could be the basis of conviction. In other words even in the absence of oath the evidence of a child witness can be considered under Section 118 of the Evidence Act provided that such witness is able to understand the answers thereof. The evidence of a child witness and credibility thereof would depend upon the circumstances of each case. The only precaution which the Court should bear in mind while assessing the evidence of a child witness is that the witness must be a reliable one and his/her demeanour must be like any other competent witness and there is no likelihood of being tutored'. The decision on the question whether the child witness has sufficient intelligence primarily rests with the trial Judge who notices his manners, his apparent possession or lack of intelligence, and said Judge may resort to any examination which will tend to disclose his capacity and intelligence as well as his understanding of the obligation of an oath. The decision of the trial court may, however, be disturbed by the higher Court if from what is preserved in the records, it is clear his conclusion was erroneous. This precaution is necessary because child witnesses are amenable to tutoring and often live in a world of make beliefs. Though it is an established principle that child witnesses are dangerous witnesses as they are pliable and liable to be influenced easily, shaped and moulded, but it is also an accepted norm that if after careful scrutiny of their evidence the Court comes to the conclusion that there is an impress of truth in it, there is no obstacle in the way of accepting the evidence of a child witness."

29. Law with regard to testimony of a child witness is now well established. In Golla Yelugu Govindu vs. State of Andhra Pradesh (2008) 16 SCC 769, while reiterating its earlier view the Apex Court held that:-

"11. 6.Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (in short the 'Evidence Act') does not prescribe any particular age as a determinative factor to treat a witness to be a competent one. On the contrary, Section 118 of the Evidence Act envisages that all persons shall be competent to testify, unless the Court considers that they are prevented from understanding the questions put to them or from giving rational answers to these questions, because of tender years, extreme old age, disease whether of mind, or any other cause of the same kind. A child of tender age can be allowed to testify if he has intellectual capacity to understand questions and give rational answers thereto. This position was concisely stated by Brewer J in Wheeler v. United States [159 U.S. 523 (1895)]. The evidence of a child witness is not required to be rejected per se; but the Court as a rule of prudence considers such evidence with close scrutiny and only on being convinced about the quality thereof and reliability can record conviction, based thereon. [See Suryanarayana v. State of Karnataka (2001) 9 SCC 129].

30. In State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Suresh Kumar (2009) 16 SCC 697, the Apex Court was dealing with a case where victim was ravished by the accused on 15.3.2000 which incident was narrated by the victim to her sister later during the day. She also narrated the incident to her parents the following day and later on to the Doctors. Court accepted the statement of the sister, parents and the doctors while holding the accused guilty. Importantly, Apex Court reversed the finding recorded by the High Court wherein it was held that statement of the victim being minor was not worthy of credence.

31. The apex Court in Radhakrishna Nagesh Versus State of Andhra Pradesh, (2013) 11 SCC 688 had an occasion to deal with a case of a child victim. After considering its earlier decisions, the Court held that Court must examine the evidence of the prosecution in its entirely and then see its cumulative effect to determine whether offence of rape stands committed or not.

32. The apex Court in Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v. State of Gujarat, (1983) 3 SCC 217 has held as under:

> "9. In the Indian setting, refusal to act on the testimony of a victim of sexual assault in the absence of corroboration as a rule, is adding insult to injury. Why should the evidence of the girl or the woman who complains of rape or sexual molestation be viewed with the aid of spectacles fitted with lenses tinged with doubt, disbelief or suspicion? To do so is to justify the charge of male chauvinism in a male dominated society. We must analyze the argument in support of the need for corroboration and subject it to relentless and remorseless cross-examination. And we must do so with a logical, and not an opinionated, eye in the light of probabilities with our feet firmly planted on the soil of India and with our eyes focussed on the Indian horizon. We must not be swept off the feet by the approach made in the western world which has its own social milieu, its own social mores, its own permissive values, and its own code of life. Corroboration may be considered essential to establish a sexual offence in the backdrop of the social ecology of the western world. It is wholly unnecessary to import the said concept on a turnkey basis and to transplant it on the Indian soil regardless of the altogether different atmosphere, attitudes, mores, responses of the Indian society, and its profile. The identities of the two worlds are different. The solution of problems cannot therefore be identical. It is conceivable in the western society that a female may level false accusation as regards sexual molestation against a male for several reasons such as :-
> > (1) The female may be a 'gold digger' and may well have an economic motive- to extract money by holding out the gun of prosecution or public exposure.
> >
> > (2) She may be suffering from psychological neurosis and may see an escape from the neurotic prison by phantasizing or imagining a situation where she is desired, wanted, and chased by males.
> >
> > (3) She may want to wreak vengeance on the male for real or imaginary wrongs. She may have a grudge against a particular male, or males in general, and may have the design to square the account.
> >
> > (4) She may have been induced to do so in consideration of economic rewards, by a person interested in placing the accused in a compromising or embarrassing position, on account of personal or political vendetta.
> >
> > (5) She may do so to gain notoriety or publicity or to appease her own ego or to satisfy her feeling of self-importance in the context of her inferiority complex.
> >
> > (6) She may do so on account of jealousy.
> >
> > (7) She may do so to win sympathy of others.
> >
> > (8) She may do so upon being repulsed.
> 10. By and large these factors are not relevant to India, and the Indian conditions. Without the fear of making too wide a statement, or of overstating the case, it can be said that rarely will a girl or a woman in India make false allegations of sexual assault on account of any such factor as has been just enlisted. The statement is generally true in the context of the urban as also rural society. It is also by and large true in the context of the sophisticated not so sophisticated, and unsophisticated society. Only very rarely can one conceivably come across an exception or two and that too possibly from amongst the urban elites. Because :- (1) A girl or a woman in the tradition bound non-permissive society of India would be extremely reluctant even to admit that any incident which is likely to reflect on her chastity had ever occurred, (2) She would be conscious of the danger of being ostracized by the Society or being looked down by the society including by her own family members, relatives, friends, and neighbours, (3) She would have to brave the whole world. (4) She would face the risk of losing the love and respect of her own husband and near relatives, and of her matrimonial home and happiness being shattered. (5) If she is unmarried, she would apprehend that it would be difficult to secure an alliance with a suitable match from a respectable or an acceptable family. (6) It would almost inevitably and almost invariably result in mental torture and suffering to herself. (7) The fear of being taunted by others will always haunt her. (8) She would feel extremely embarrassed in relating the incident to others being overpowered by a feeling of shame on account of the upbringing in a tradition bound society where by and large sex is taboo. (9) The natural inclination would be to avoid giving publicity to the incident lest the family name and family honour is brought into controversy. (10) The parents of an unmarried girl as also the husband and members of the husbands' family of a married woman, would also more often than not, want to avoid publicity on account of the fear of social stigma on the family name and family honour. (11) The fear of the victim herself being considered to be promiscuous or in some way responsible for the incident regardless of her innocent. (12) The reluctance to face interrogation by the investigating agency, to face the Court, to face the cross-examination by counsel for the culprit, and the-risk of being disbelieved, act as a deterrent.

11. In view of these factors the victims and their relatives are not too keen to bring the culprit to books. And when in the face of these factors the crime is brought to light there is a built-in assurance that the charge is genuine rather than fabricated. On principle the evidence of a victim of sexual assault stands on par with evidence of an injured witness. Just as a witness who has sustained an injury (which is not shown or believed to be self-inflicted) is the best witness in the sense that he is least likely to exculpate the real offender, the evidence of a victim of a sex-offence is entitled to great weight, absence of corroboration notwithstanding. And while corroboration in the form of eye-witness account of an independent witness may often be forthcoming in physical assault cases, such evidence cannot be expected in sex offences, having regard to the very nature of the offence. It would therefore be adding insult to injury to insist on corroboration drawing inspiration from the rules devised by the Court's in the western world (obeisance to which has perhaps become a habit presumably on account of the colonial hangover). We are therefore of the opinion that if the evidence of the victim does not suffer from any basic infirmity, and the 'probabilities- factor' does not render it unworthy of credence, as a general rule, there is no reason to insist on corroboration except from the medical evidence, where, having regard to the circumstances of the case, medical evidence can be expected to be forthcoming, subject to the following qualification : Corroboration may be insisted upon when a woman having attained majority is found in a compromising position and there is a likelihood of her having levelled such an accusation on account of the instinct of self preservation. Or when the 'probabilities-factor' is found to be out of tune."

[Also: State of H.P. v. Asha Ram, (2005) 13 SCC 766]

33. We shall now discuss the evidence in view of the aforesaid settled proposition of law.

34. It is a matter of record that the accused, who pleaded false implication, did not lead any evidence. The fact that prosecutrix is daughter of his brother and the fact that his elder son used to live in another village and at the time of occurrence of the incident, on account of holidays in the school had come home, stands admitted by the accused.

35. Even though accused has admitted the prosecutrix to have been born on 25.03.2003, such fact stands conclusively established through birth certificate (Ext. PW3/A) issued under the provisions of Section 12/17 of the Registration of Births and Deaths Act, 1969 and Rule 8 of the Himachal Pradesh Registration of Births and Deaths Rules, 2003, so produced on record by Kavita (PW-3) Secretary, Gram Panchayat Kalwari. There is no challenge with regard to the date of birth of the prosecutrix. Radiological age of the prosecutrix also stands proved on record by Dr. Shailender Thakur (PW-5). Hence, as on the date of commission of crime, prosecutrix was 10 years and 10 months of age and accused was aged 45 years. That prosecutrix was studying in sixth class is also not in dispute and stands established on record.

36. Dr. Anu Devi (PW-11) who conducted medical examination of the prosecution on 10.02.2014, found her to be of average built. There was no evidence of external injury but however hymen was torn, old healed with no evidence of active bleeding. The victim did not allow vaginal examination. However, the Doctor found the prosecutrix to be exposed to coitus. Her opinion is definite to such effect. In any event, if the testimony of the prosecutrix is found to be convincing then, even in the absence of any corroborative medical evidence, as laid down in Madan Gopal Makkad (supra), conviction would be sustainable.

37. It is a matter of record that neither the father of the prosecutrix, nor any member of the family of the accused, stands examined in Court. None has come forward from the village to support either the prosecutrix or the accused. But then even such fact would not be fatal if the prosecution otherwise establishes its case beyond reasonable doubt. In any event, accused himself could have produced and examined such persons as witnesses to dislodge the presumption in law.

38. In the instant case, it has come through the testimony of the Sushma Devi (PW-1) mother of the prosecutrix, that the parents of the prosecutrix got divorced eight years prior to the incident in question. Though the prosecutrix and her sister were residing with their father in village Deori, yet they were on visiting terms with her. It is not the suggested case of the accused that relations between the mother and the father were either strained or hostile or that she was in a position to yield undue influence over her children. Mother had no motive to falsely implicate anyone, much less the accused, more so, in connection with the crime in question. No mother would put the honour of her daughter at stake without any sufficient cause or justifiable reason.

39. Version of Sunita (PW-6) to the effect that "I told this fact to my father and grandmother and other members of the family and they told it happens and I should not tell this fact to any one and, in future, they would take care of Lovely", goes unrebutted on record. According to this witness the incident in question came to be reported to her by the prosecutrix after two days and this was when she found her gait to be different. Yet despite having brought the matter to the notice of the elders nothing was done. It is in this background that this witness thought it prudent of reporting the matter to her mother which was so done on 9.02.2014. It is true that there is no record corroborating the version of this witness of having telephonically asked her mother to meet her. But the question which arises for consideration is as to whether it would make any difference? In our considered view, no. Witness has categorically deposed that she did try to call her mother through the cell phone of her father but the call could not mature and it was only later on that, through the cell phone of her maternal aunt, she was able to contact her mother. This witness who herself was studying in class tenth was dependent upon the elders for taking up the matter to its logical end. We are of the considered view that there is no delay in lodging the matter with the police, for the FIR came to be registered on 9.02.2014. Period of six days in reporting the matter to the mother, in our considered view stands sufficiently explained by the witness who herself is a school going child. Only when no action was taken by the elders in the family, this witness mustered courage and prudently brought the matter to the notice of her mother. Also for two days children were busy in a function at the school.

40. Still the question which arises for consideration is as to whether the accused is guilty of having committed the crime or not? Answer to the same lies in the testimonies of the prosecutrix (PW-2) and her sister Sunita (PW-6). Principles laid down in the decisions referred to in paragraphs 20 to 24 (supra) would be relevant at this juncture.

41. In court, prosecutrix states that on 2nd/3rd February, 2014, on the asking of Chand Prakash, she went to the house of her uncle where they started playing. It is a matter of record that such house is just adjoining to the house of her father. Their relations appear to be normal. Innocently the child slept with Chand Parkash when in the night, accused took her to his bed. At that time, the elder son was sleeping in the kitchen. The witness is categorical that the accused made her sleep with him and by opening the clothes, sexually assaulted her as a result of which blood started oozing from her private part. The incident was repeated the following day. She is categorical that the accused had threatened to cut his head [here she refers to the elder son of the accused] and also threatened her not to disclose the incident either to her father or grand parents. She is categorical that the following day, the incident came to be reported to her sister who told her that she would inform their mother. She disclosed all such facts to her mother who had come to meet them after her sister had called her over phone. Now in cross examination we do not find her testimony to have been shattered or rendered uninspiring in confidence. In fact she is clear, categorical and her testimony consistent with her version so disclosed to the police and her statement recorded before the Magistrate (Ext.PW-2/A) during the course of investigation. It cannot be said that the witness is tutored or has deposed under some influence. She understands the consequences of all actions. Even though a child but she has deposed the events in the most natural manner. She meets the test laid down by the apex Court in the decisions referred to in paragraphs 28 to 31 (supra). She is categorical that the incident came to be noticed by the sons of the accused who had also woken up, whose heads the accused had threatened to cut off in case the incident came to be reported to anyone. One cannot lose sight of the fact that the parties are rustic villagers hailing from the remotest corner of the State where generally children are dependent upon their parents for survival. Village Deori is in the hinterland where generally decisions are taken by the elder members of house.

42. Version of the prosecutrix (PW-2) stands materially corroborated by her sister Sunita (PW-6) on all counts and her mother Sushma Devi (PW-1).

43. We do not find the contradictions in the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses to be significant enough to shatter their testimonies or impeach their credit. Whether their statements came to be recorded at the police station or on the spot is immaterial.

44. Also whether the recoveries were affected pursuant to the disclosure statement made by the accused or otherwise is immaterial, for prosecution case does not rest upon the link evidence which is not substantive evidence but only corroborative in nature. Report of the Forensic Science Laboratory does not advance the case of the prosecution, even though blood and hair was found on the respective clothes of the parties. Absence of spermatozoa on the vaginal swabs also does not render the prosecution case to be fatal for according to the Doctor (PW-11), prosecutrix was exposed to coitus. Site plan not depicting true position of the place of crime would also not render the version of the prosecutrix to be false. It is in the house which fact is evidently clear from the said document. Principle laid down in Narender Kumar (supra) is evidently clear, for minor contradictions need to be ignored. In any event, no material contradiction, rendering the genesis of the prosecution case to be fatal, stands pointed out.

45. Non association of independent witnesses would also not render the testimony of the prosecution witnesses to be doubtful.

46. Judgments relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant/convict in no manner advance his case. They are based on relevant fact situation where the Court itself found the testimony of the prosecutrix to be shaky and unbelievable.

47. From the material placed on record, it stands established by the prosecution witnesses that the accused is guilty of having committed the offences he stands charged for. There is sufficient, convincing, cogent and reliable evidence on record to this effect. The circumstances stand conclusively proved by unbroken chain of unimpeachable testimony of the prosecution witnesses. The guilt of the accused stands proved beyond reasonable doubt to the hilt. It cannot be said that accused is innocent or not guilty or that he has been falsely implicated or that his defence is probable or that the evidence led by the prosecution is inconsistent, unreliable, untrustworthy and unbelievable. It cannot be said that the version narrated by the witnesses in Court is in a parrot-like manner and hence is to be disbelieved.

48. Thus, from the material placed on record, it stands established by the prosecution, beyond reasonable doubt, that accused committed rape on the prosecutrix, a minor girl, by leading clear, cogent, convincing and reliable piece of evidence.

49. For all the aforesaid reasons, we find no reason to interfere with the well reasoned judgment passed by the trial Court. The Court has fully appreciated the evidence placed on record by the parties. There is no illegality, irregularity, perversity in correct and/or in complete appreciation of the material so placed on record by the parties. Findings of conviction cannot be said to be erroneous or perverse. Hence, the appeal is dismissed.

50. Appeal stands disposed of, so also pending application(s), if any.

Records of the Court below be immediately sent back.

CMP (M) No. 806 of 2015
Decided on: 4.7.2016

Limitation Act, 1963- Section 5- An application for condonation of delay of one year, 6 months and 5 days has been filed pleading that applicant came to know that respondent No. 2 had sold some portion of the suit land – an inquiry was made on which, he came to know about passing of the decree- application was contested- held, that applicant has not assigned sufficient reasons for the condonation of delay- Court should be liberal in condoning the delay but the valuable right accrued to the opposite party cannot be taken away - Court should adopt strict approach while considering the case of inordinate delay- sufficient cause for delay should not override substantial justice - application dismissed. For the Respondents: Mr. Varun Rana, Advocate for respondent No.2.
Mr. K.D. Sood, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Sanjeev Sood, Advocate for applicant in CMP No.9470/2015

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge (oral):

CMP (M) No. 806/2015

Applicant has filed a Regular Second Appeal against the judgment and decree dated 21.9.2013 passed by the learned Additional District Judge (1), Mandi in Civil Appeal No. 65 of 2012. The Regular Second Appeal is barred by one year, six months and five days. The applicant has moved an application under section 5 of the Limitation Act for condonation of delay. According to the averments made in the application, respondent No.2 has filed an appeal against the judgment and decree dated 12.6.2012 bearing Civil Appeal No. 65/2012. Appellant Kamal Dev was added as proforma respondent No.2 in the cause title of Civil Appeal No. 65 of 2012 alongwith other legal heirs of late Sh. Thenu Ram. They were proceeded ex parte. Thereafter, a compromise deed was executed by respondent Nos. 1 and 2. Except respondent Nos. 1 and 2, i.e. Ram Prakash and Himmat Ram, none have signed the compromise deed. Thereafter, compromise decree was passed on 21.9.2013. He came to know on 10.3.2015 that respondent No.2 Himmat Ram has sold some portion of the suit land. He made inquiry about the decree passed by the learned trial court dated 1.6.2012. Thereafter, he came to know that matter has been compromised. He applied for the judgment and decree passed by the first appellate court on 6.4.2015. It was attested on 17.4.2015 and delivered to him on 5.5.2015. He collected his brief from the local counsel of the trial court on 10.6.2015 and thereafter on 21.6.2015 engaged a counsel for filing the present appeal. The delay in filing the appeal was neither intentional nor deliberate.

2. The application was contested. It is averred in the reply that the present applicant was proceeded ex parte as he has failed to appear despite service on 21.8.2006 in the trial court. Kamal Dev was also served before the first appellate court, however, no appearance was put in and he was proceeded ex parte. It is evident that the applicant has neither contested the civil suit nor appeal. The Court has gone through order dated 21.9.2013 whereby the suit filed by Sh. Ram Prakash was dismissed as withdrawn and the appeal was compromised as per compromise deed Ex.CA. Compromise deed Ex.CA and Tatima Ex.CB were ordered to be form part of decree. The Regular Second Appeal is barred by one year, six months and five days. It is not believable that the applicant did not know about the judgment and decree dated 1.6.2012 of the trial court and compromise decree dated 21.9.2013 rendered by the Additional District Judge (I), Mandi in Civil Appeal No. 65 of 2012. The applicant has slept over his rights for considerable long time and it cannot be believed that he came to know about the passing of decree at the time of suit land being sold by respondent No.2-Himmat Ram. The applicant has remained negligent in pursuing the case. A valuable right has accrued to the opposite party.

3. It is true that the Court ought to be very liberal while considering the applications under section 5 of the Limitation Act, but at the same time the valuable rights accruing to the opposite party cannot be ignored. The applicant has not assigned sufficient reasons for the condonation of delay.

4. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Oriental Aroma Chemical Industries Limited versus Gujarat Industrial Development Corporation and another, (2010) 5 SCC 459 have held that liberal approach in condoning delay of short duration and the strict approach in cases of inordinate delay should be applied. Their Lordships have held as under:

> "14. We have considered the respective submissions. The law of limitation is founded on public policy. The legislature does not prescribe limitation with the object of destroying the rights of the parties but to ensure that they do not resort to dilatory tactics and seek remedy without delay. The idea is that every legal remedy must be kept alive for a period fixed by the legislature. To put it differently, the law of limitation prescribes a period within which legal remedy can be availed for redress of the legal injury. At the same time, the courts are bestowed with the power to condone the delay, if sufficient cause is shown for not availing the remedy within the stipulated time."

5. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Lanka Venkateswarlu (dead) by LRS versus State of Andhra Pradesh and others, (2011) 4 SCC 363 have held that the liberal approach in considering sufficiency of cause for delay should not override substantial law of limitation, especially when court finds no justification for delay. Their Lordships have held as under:

"19. We have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel. At the outset, it needs to be stated that generally speaking, the courts in this country, including this Court, adopt a liberal approach in considering the application for condonation of delay on the ground of sufficient cause under Section 5 of the Limitation Act. This principle is well settled and has been set out succinctly in the case of Collector, Land Acquisition, Anantnag & Ors. Vs. Katiji & Ors. ((1987) 2 SCC 107).

23. The concepts of liberal approach and reasonableness in exercise of the discretion by the Courts in condoning delay, have been again stated by this Court in the case of Balwant Singh (supra), as follows:-

"25. We may state that even if the term "sufficient cause" has to receive liberal construction, it must squarely fall within the concept of reasonable time and proper conduct of the party concerned. The purpose of introducing liberal construction normally is to introduce the concept of "reasonableness" as it is understood in its general connotation."

"26. The law of limitation is a substantive law and has definite consequences on the right and obligation of party to arise. These principles should be adhered to and applied appropriately depending on the facts and circumstances of a given case. Once a valuable right has accrued in favour of one party as a result of the failure of the other party to explain the delay by showing sufficient cause and its own conduct, it will be unreasonable to take away that right on the mere asking of the applicant, particularly when the delay is directly a result of negligence, default or inaction of that party. Justice must be done to both parties equally. Then alone the ends of justice can be achieved. If a party has been thoroughly negligent in implementing its rights and remedies, it will be equally unfair to deprive the other party of a valuable right that has accrued to it in law as a result of his acting vigilantly."

26. Having recorded the aforesaid conclusions, the High Court proceeded to condone the delay. In our opinion, such a course was not open to the High Court, given the pathetic explanation offered by the respondents in the application seeking condonation of delay.

28. We are at a loss to fathom any logic or rationale, which could have impelled the High Court to condone the delay after holding the same to be unjustifiable. The concepts such as "liberal approach", "justice oriented approach", "substantial justice" can not be employed to jettison the substantial law of limitation. Especially, in cases where the Court concludes that there is no justification for the delay. In our opinion, the approach adopted by the High Court tends to show the absence of judicial balance and restraint, which a Judge is required to maintain whilst adjudicating any lis between the parties. We are rather pained to notice that in this case, not being satisfied with the use of mere intemperate language, the High Court resorted to blatant sarcasms.

29. The use of unduly strong intemperate or extravagant language in a judgment has been repeatedly disapproved by this Court in a number of cases. Whilst considering applications for condonation of delay under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, the Courts do not enjoy unlimited and unbridled discretionary powers. All discretionary powers, especially judicial powers, have to be exercised within reasonable bounds, known to the law. The discretion has to be exercised in a systematic manner informed by reason. Whims or fancies; prejudices or predilections can not and should not form the basis of exercising discretionary powers."

6. The same principles have been reiterated by their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Maniben Devraj Shah versus Municipal Corporation of Brihan Mumbai, (2012) 5 SCC 157 as under:

"15. The expression sufficient cause used in Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 and other statutes is elastic enough to enable the Courts to apply the law in a meaningful manner which serve the ends of justice. No hard and fast rule has been or can be laid down for deciding the applications for condonation of delay but over the years this Court has advocated that a liberal approach should be adopted in such matters so that substantive rights of the parties are not defeated merely because of delay.

23. What needs to be emphasised is that even though a liberal and justice oriented approach is required to be adopted in the exercise of power under Section 5 of the Limitation Act and other similar statutes, the Courts can neither become oblivious of the fact that the successful litigant has acquired certain rights on the basis of the judgment under challenge and a lot of time is consumed at various stages of litigation apart from the cost."

7. Accordingly, in view of the observation and discussion made hereinabove, there is no merit in the application and the same is dismissed.

CMP No. 9470 of 2015

In view of the dismissal of CMP (M) No.806 of 2015, the present application stands disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Master Sanjeev Kumar(minor) through his natural guardian Smt. Leela Devi .....Petitioner.

Versus

Sh. Kehar Singh .....Respondent.

Cr.MMO No. 76 of 2008 and
Cr.MP No. 1023 of 2011.
Date of Decision : 4th July, 2016.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 125- A petition for maintenance was filed which was allowed by the trial court- a revision was preferred which was allowed by the Ld. Sessions Judge and the judgment of trial court was set aside on the ground that marriage was not proved- held, that version of the claimant was not corroborated by her witness regarding the marriage- she had leveled allegations for the commission of offence punishable under Sections 420 and 376 of IPC in a complaint filed by her which was withdrawn- The Sessions Court had rightly reversed the judgment of the trial court- petition dismissed. (Para 3-8).

Case referred:
Nand Lal Wasudeo Badwaik versus Lata Nand Lal Badwaik and another, (2014)2 SCC 576

For the Petitioner: Mr. Gaurav Gautam, Advocate.
For Respondent : Mr. Janesh Gupta, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (Oral)

The petitioner herein being minor through his natural guardian-cum-mother Smt. Leela Devi had instituted an application under Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short "Cr.P.C.") before the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chamba claiming therein an order being rendered upon the respondent herein for the latter paying to him the necessary expenses for his maintenance. The application was allowed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chamba and in a revision preferred therefrom by the respondent herein before the learned Sessions Judge, Chamba, the latter Court accepted the revision petition and also reversed the findings besides the verdict recorded by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chamba.

2. Since, the petition constituted before the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chamba was laid therebefore under Section 125 of the Cr.P.C., hence, the petitioner herein was held by it to stand entitled to claim maintenance from the respondent herein, even if no clinching proof stood adduced therebefore by his mother of hers contracting a valid marriage with the respondent herein. However, the necessary ingredient for fastening liability upon the respondent herein to pay the necessary maintenance for the up keep and welfare of the petitioner herein was of, the mother of the petitioner and the respondent herein sexually accessing each other, also concomitant cogent proof in substantiation thereto stood enjoined to be adduced therebefore at the instance of the mother of the petitioner herein.

3. Be that as it may, the mother of the petitioner herein, Smt. Leela Devi in proof of hers solemnizing marriage with the respondent herein had while stepping into the witness box deposed of hers 3-1/2 years prior to her deposition standing recorded before the Court concerned hers solemnizing marriage with the respondent herein at Bhalei temple whereat both garlanded each other, in succession whereto one Bainsu, the maternal uncle of Smt. Leela Devi, the mother of the petitioner herein, stands deposed by her to have met her thereat who entreated them to accompany him to his house. The factum as deposed by AW-1 Smt. Leela Devi of hers in the manner aforesaid solemnizing marriage with the respondent herein, though stands corroborated by Bainsu Ram, who stepped into the witness box as AW-3, yet the latter has not corroborated AW-1 Smt. Leela Devi qua the factum of hers along with the respondent herein on entreaties made upon them by him, theirs proceeding to his house. Consequently, with AW-3 not supporting AW-1 qua the factum of his beseeching both to accompany him to his house whereat they, as contrarily deposed by AW-1, proceeded to, renders the deposition of AW-1 qua the factum aforesaid to stand obviously contrived by her, whereupon no reliance is imputable. In sequel, it is also to be concluded of even the factum of AW-3 witnessing the purported marriage solemnized inter se the mother of the petitioner, Smt. Leela Devi and the respondent herein holding no veracity. In aftermath, the solitary testimony of AW-1 qua hers purportedly solemnizing marriage with the respondent herein at Bhalei temple, testimony whereof stood concerted by her to be corroborated by AW-3 whereas with the testimony of AW-3 for the reasons aforestated standing concluded to be a contrived besides an interested testimony, whereupon the testimony of AW-1 wherein she named AW-3 to be the person who witnessed her marriage with the respondent herein also is to be construable to be a concoction in its entirety. Also, the factum of Ex.PA, a complaint lodged by the mother of the petitioner against the respondent herein wherein she has constituted allegations against the respondent herein of his committing offences constituted under Sections 420 and 376 of the IPC being reticent qua the factum of hers solemnizing marriage with the respondent herein does per se repel the factum of hers holding any relationship as a spouse of the respondent herein. Furthermore, with no graphic display occurring therein of hers solemnizing a marriage with the respondent herein does for reiteration countervail the effect, if any, of her deposition qua hers in the manner besides at the venue enunciated therein solemnizing a marriage with the respondent herein. It is also stated by the learned counsel appearing for the parties of Ex.PA standing withdrawn on 3.05.2004 by the mother the petitioner, whereupon hence a conclusion can also stand erected of the allegations constituted therein against the respondent herein qua his holding her to sexual intercourse, in sequel whereof she conceived a child in her womb, losing efficacy.

4. Now the only evidence which is to be adverted to is the testimony of AW-2 Mutlabi, who is purported witness qua the factum of both the mother of the petitioner and the respondent herein holding a sexually compromising posture. Even, the testimony of AW-1 qua the factum aforesaid whereupon the counsel for the petitioner herein contends of the respondent herein sexually accessing the mother of the petitioner herein, in sequel, whereto she conceived a child in her womb begotten from the loins of the respondent herein cannot stand to be capitalized upon by the counsel for the petitioner, as given the factum aforesaid of the mother of the petitioner herein withdrawing Ex.PA, withdrawal whereof by her holding a consequential effect of the narrations occurring therein also standing nullified, renders the deposition of AW-1 to be bereft of veracity, rather a conclusion stand reared of his being an engineered witness.

5. The learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has contended with much vigour by placing reliance upon a decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in Nand Lal Wasudeo Badwaik versus Lata Nand Lal Badwaik and another, (2014)2 SCC 576, relevant paragraphs whereof stand extracted hereinafter, to espouse before this Court of yet on his application standing preferred hereat under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C., an order, for unearthing the truth qua the factum of the petitioner herein standing begotten from the loins of the respondent herein, be rendered thereupon, for hence facilitating the impugned order wherefrom the instant petition stand filed hereat being concluded to be infirm. The relevant paragraphs No. 14 to 17 of the afore-referred judgment read as under:-

> “14. Now we have to consider as to whether the DNA test would be sufficient to hold that the appellant is not the biological father of respondent no. 2, in the face of what has been provided under Section 112 of the Evidence Act, which reads as follows:
> > "112. Birth during marriage, conclusive proof of legitimacy.- The fact that any person was born during the continuance of a valid marriage between his mother and any man, or within two hundred and eighty days after its dissolution, the mother remaining unmarried, shall be conclusive proof that he is the legitimate son of that man, unless it can be shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other at any time when he could have been begotten."
> 15. From a plain reading of the aforesaid, it is evident that a child born during the continuance of a valid marriage shall be a conclusive proof that the child is a legitimate child of the man to whom the lady giving birth is married. The provision makes the legitimacy of the child to be a conclusive proof, if the conditions aforesaid are satisfied. It can be denied only if it is shown that the parties to the marriage have no access to each other at any time when the child could have been begotten. Here, in the present case, the wife had pleaded that the husband had access to her and, in fact, the child was born in the said

wedlock, but the husband had specifically pleaded that after his wife left the matrimonial home, she did not return and thereafter, he had no access to her. The wife has admitted that she had left the matrimonial home but again joined her husband. Unfortunately, none of the courts below have given any finding with regard to this plea of the husband that he had or had not any access to his wife at the time when the child could have been begotten.

16. As stated earlier, the DNA test is an accurate test and on that basis it is clear that the appellant is not the biological father of the girl- child. However, at the same time, the condition precedent for invocation of Section 112 of the Evidence Act has been established and no finding with regard to the plea of the husband that he had no access to his wife at the time when the child could have been begotten has been recorded. Admittedly, the child has been born during the continuance of a valid marriage. Therefore, the provisions of Section 112 of the Evidence Act conclusively prove that respondent No. 2 is the daughter of the appellant. At the same time, the DNA test reports, based on scientific analysis, in no uncertain terms suggest that the appellant is not the biological father. In such circumstance, which would give way to the other is a complex question posed before us.

17. We may remember that Section 112 of the Evidence Act was enacted at a time when the modern scientific advancement and DNA test were not even in contemplation of the Legislature. The result of DNA test is said to be scientifically accurate. Although Section 112 raises a presumption of conclusive proof on satisfaction of the conditions enumerated therein but the same is rebuttable. The presumption may afford legitimate means of arriving at an affirmative legal conclusion. While the truth or fact is known, in our opinion, there is no need or room for any presumption. Where there is evidence to the contrary, the presumption is rebuttable and must yield to proof. Interest of justice is best served by ascertaining the truth and the court should be furnished with the best available science and may not be left to bank upon presumptions, unless science has no answer to the facts in issue. In our opinion, when there is a conflict between a conclusive proof envisaged under law and a proof based on scientific advancement accepted by the world community to be correct, the latter must prevail over the former.

18. We must understand the distinction between a legal fiction and the presumption of a fact. Legal fiction assumes existence of a fact which may not really exist. However presumption of a fact depends on satisfaction of certain circumstances. Those circumstances logically would lead to the fact sought to be presumed. Section 112 of the Evidence Act does not create a legal fiction but provides for presumption.

19. The husband's plea that he had no access to the wife when the child was begotten stands proved by the DNA test report and in the face of it, we cannot compel the appellant to bear the fatherhood of a child, when the scientific reports prove to the contrary. We are conscious that an innocent child may not be bastardized as the marriage between her mother and father was subsisting at the time of her birth, but in view of the DNA test reports and what we have observed above, we cannot forestall the consequence. It is denying the truth. "Truth must triumph" is the hallmark of justice."

6. The aforesaid submission addressed before this Court by the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner herein would come to be accepted by this Court only in the event of material as exists on record hereat being bereft of any stain of premeditation, invention or contrivance on the part of the mother of the petitioner herein also unblemished evidence qua the respondent herein sexually accessing the mother of the petitioner herein would constrain this Court to fasten a liability upon the respondent herein to maintain the petitioner herein given his being his purported biological father. However, when for reasons aforestated, the material as extantly exists on record pronounces with vividty of the mother of the petitioner herein inventing besides contriving evidence in display of the petitioner herein standing begotten from the loins of the respondent herein, renders the endeavour now concerted to by the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner to be unacceptable, rather its also likewise being construable to be a mere contrivance adopted by the mother of the petitioner to untenably claim maintenance from the respondent herein for the upkeep and welfare of the petitioner herein.

7. Be that as it may, even the Hon'ble Apex Court in the judgment (supra) dwelt upon the imperativeness qua the holding of the DNA test, its constituting conclusive evidence in rebuttal qua the presumption constituted under Section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act. Given fastening of conclusivity to the findings recorded by the expert concerned while holding the DNA test besides concomitantly its holding leverage to rebut the presumption constituted under Section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act renders its application hereat to be grossly inapposite given the apt provisions of Section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act standing bedrocked upon substantiation of the indispensable statutory tenet qua subsistence of a valid marriage inter se the spouses being peremptory for its provisions to hold play. The inappositeness qua pronouncement hereat of any order directing the holding of the relevant DNA test for the relevant purpose stands engendered by the prime factum of the mother of the petitioner herein not proving hers contracting a valid marriage with the respondent herein, imperatively when the aforesaid proof hereat is amiss, whereas the pronouncement of the Hon'ble Apex Court squarely with full might holds qua the imperativeness for the ordering for the holding of the DNA test for eroding the presumption constituted under Section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act, presumption whereof hereat cannot per se be held to be open to suffer erosion or rebuttal given the sine qua non for its facing the ill-fate of rebuttal by an opinion rendered by the expert concerned on holding the DNA test, when stands comprised in the evident fact of a valid subsisting marriage occurring vis-a-vis the mother of the petitioner herein and the respondent herein, whereas the aforesaid indispensable tenet for rendering workable Section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act remains hereat un-satiated, renders also any ordering by this Court qua the holding of the relevant DNA test to be inappropriate, fortifyingly when any ordering hereat for its being held is only for rebutting the presumption constituted under Section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act, rebuttal whereof would not emanate given the lack of proof of any valid subsisting marriage occurring inter se the mother of the petitioner herein with the respondent herein. Contrarily, when hereat for reasons alluded hereinabove the mother of the petitioner and the respondent herein never entered into a lawful wedlock nor ever held any sexual intimacy renders the petitioner herein to hold no leverage to foist any right upon the petitioner to stake any claim from the respondent herein for his maintenance by the latter on the ground of his standing begotten from the loins of the respondent herein, besides disables the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner herein to stake on the anchorage of the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court for any ordering hereat of the DNA test, amplifyingly when the pronouncement of the Hon'ble Apex Court with specificity stand confined to hold clouts besides legal might solitarily for rebutting the presumption constituted under Section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act, presumption whereof enjoins satiation by conclusive evidence of the indispensable statutory tenet of the mother of the petitioner herein and the respondent herein holding a valid marriage, whereas, with the aforesaid tenet being amiss hereat, there is obviously no occasion hereat to rebut the presumption constituted under Section 112 of the Act by this Court ordering for the holding of the DNA test.

8. True it is of the holding of the DNA test would firmly rests an entrenched conclusion qua the factum of the respondent herein being the biological father of the petitioner herein, nonetheless, the endeavour hereat is belated also its standing strived hereat alone whereas it was enjoined to be strived earlier either before the learned trial Court or before the learned Sessions Judge, Chamba, renders the belated concert hereat to be for reasons assigned hereinabove to be a mere ploy or a contrivance of the petitioner hereat. Also indubitably though a plenary jurisdiction stands vested in this Court under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. to order for the holding of a DNA test for determining the paternity of the petitioner herein besides for reversing the impugned rendition of the learned Sessions Judge, Chamba, yet again with lack of the apposite endeavours therebefore by the petitioner herein besetting hence a constraint upon the learned Sessions Judge to record an order for the holding of a DNA test for determining the paternity of the petitioner herein besides obviously his not holding the apposite material to pronounce qua the respondent herein being the biological father of the petitioner herein, renders the endeavour hereat for the purpose aforesaid tantamounting to collection of evidence by this Court for the petitioner for facilitating his claim for maintenance from the respondent herein. Also countenancing of the aforesaid endeavour by this Court would sequel an in-sagacious order from this Court of its proceeding to reverse the well reasoned findings of the learned Sessions Judge. In aftermath, with there existing ample and abundant proof in display of the respondent herein never holding the mother of the petitioner herein to sexual intercourse, renders the findings arrived at by the learned Sessions Judge to not suffer from any mis-appreciation and non appreciation of the apposite material on record. Consequently, the instant petition is dismissed as also Cr.MP No. 1023 of 2011 preferred hereat by the petitioner herein for seeking permission of this Court to order for the holding of the DNA test of the parties at contest stands dismissed. In sequel, the order of the learned Sessions Judge, Chamba is affirmed and maintained. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

For the Respondent: Mr.Ajay Kumar, Sr.Advocate with Mr.Gautam Sood, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J.

Civil Revision Petition No.67 of 2015 stands directed against the impugned order of the learned District Judge, Forest, Shimla whereby he allowed the application preferred thereat by the applicant-JD/respondent herein under Section 28 of the Specific Relief Act (for short hereinafter referred to as 'the Act'). In sequel, the agreement of sale recorded inter se the petitioner herein and the respondent herein stood set-aside, with a sequelling effect whereof of the rendition of the learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court recorded in Civil Suit No.72-S/1 of 2004/1999 rendition whereof stood affirmed by this Court in its decision recorded in RFA No.351 of 2005, standing also quashed and set-aside.

2. Civil Revision Petition No.68 of 2015 stands directed against the orders rendered on 30.03.2015 by the learned District Judge (Forests), Shimla on the Execution Petition preferred thereat by the decree holder-petitioner whereby her prayer for execution of the decree rendered by the learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Shimla, H.P., decree whereof stood affirmed by this Court in its decision recorded in RFA No.351 of 2005, stood declined to her.

3. Since both the orders impugned in the Civil Revision Petitions aforesaid stand hinged upon the decree of the learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Shimla, decree whereof stood affirmed in appeal by this Court in its judgment recorded in RFA No.351 of 2005 besides stand hinged upon apposite conditional decree, consequently when both also stand embroiled in a factual matrix common to each essentially the one impinging upon the effect of disobedience if any at the instance of the decree holder-petitioner herein of the mandate of the apposite conditional decree aforesaid, both warrant theirs standing disposed of by a common judgment.

4. The petitioner herein/decree holder, had from the Court of the learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Shimla, secured a decree for specific performance of agreement of 12.07.1997 recorded inter se her and the respondent herein qua property nomenclatured as Cottage No.24, MIG, H.P. Housing Board, Jakhoo, Shimla-1. The operative part of the judgment and decree recorded by the Court of the learned Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Shimla underlines the factum of the respondent herein/Judgment debtor standing directed to execute within a period of two months there-from a sale deed with the decree holder-petitioner herein qua the afore-referred suit property, also a condition stood mandated therein upon the petitioner-decree holder to within one month since thereat deposit a sum of Rs.8 lacs in the Court concerned. Furthermore, the relief claimed in the suit by the plaintiff of hers standing entitled to recover from the defendant a sum of Rs.50,000/- as damages stood accorded in her favour by the learned trial Court along with 9% interest being leviable thereon from the date of filing of the suit till realization of the amount aforesaid.

5. The judgment and decree of the learned trial Court stood appealed hereat by the aggrieved defendant-respondent herein. The appeal preferred hereat by the aggrieved defendant-JD against the judgment and decree of the learned trial Court, stood registered as RFA No.351 of 2005. This Court recorded therein a decision qua its dismissal. Consequently, the apposite judgment and decree recorded by the learned trial Court stood affirmed hereat. However, even though the defendant thereat appellant hereat omitted to in his apposite grounds of appeal urge therein of the apposite decree recorded by the learned trial Court suffering any impairment awakened by the factum of the plaintiff not within one month since thereat depositing before the Court concerned the balance sale consideration though hers standing enjoined by the mandate of the apposite decree yet the aforesaid facet of challenge was left open by this Court for its being urged by the defendant-JD before the learned Executing Court at the stage the apposite execution petition stood laid thereat by the plaintiff-decree holder. The plaintiff / decree holder palpably omitted to within one month of the apposite rendition of the learned Additional District Judge deposit the balance sale consideration thereat. She deposited the balance sale consideration aforesaid in January 2006, hence its deposit by her occurred on 84 days standing elapsed since the elapsing of the relevant one month wherewithin she stood enjoined by the apposite rendition of the learned trial Court to deposit it thereat. The plaintiff did not hence beget compliance with the mandate of the decree of the learned trial Court affirmation whereof stood accorded by this Court in its rendition recorded in RFA No.351 of 2005. Also the deposit of the aforesaid amount by the plaintiff beyond a period of one month since 25.10.2005 stood un-accompanied by an apposite application preferred thereat yet the decree holder-plaintiff preferred an application before the Executing Court in the year 2010 under Sections 148 and 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure with a prayer therein of time being ordered to be extended to her by it for depositing the balance sale consideration of Rs.8 lacs, as stood enjoined to be deposited by her before the learned trial Court within one month from the date of its rendition, rendition whereof stood pronounced on 25.10.2005. Though narrations qua it occur in the order of the learned District Judge, (Forests) rendered in Civil Miscellaneous application No.151-S/6 of 2013/10 comprising the application constituted thereat by the judgment debtor under Section 28 of the Act for rescission of contract of agreement recorded inter se the plaintiff and the defendant on 12.7.1997 besides for setting aside the decree of the learned trial Court rendered on 25.10.2005, yet he discountenanced the belated endeavour of the plaintiff-decree holder to seek extension of time from it for hers begetting compliance qua the apposite rendition of the learned trial Court. Furthermore, the learned District Judge (Forests) also hence proceeded to dismiss the Execution Petition preferred thereat by the plaintiff/petitioner herein wherefrom Civil Revision No.68 of 20015 has arisen.

6. The quintessential/nerve centre of the controversy engaging the parties at contest hinges upon an interpretation of Section 28 of the Act, provisions whereof stands extracted hereinafter:

> "28. Rescission in certain circumstances of contracts for the sale or lease of immovable property, the specific performance of which has been decreed :- (1) Where in any suit or decree for specific performance of a contract for the sale or lease of immovable property has been made and the purchaser or lessee does not, within the period allowed by the decree or such further period as the court may allow, pay the purchase money or other sum which the court has ordered him to pay, the vendor or lessor may apply in the same suit in which the decree is made, to have the contract rescinded and on such application the court may, by order, rescind the contract either so far as regards the party in default or altogether, as the justice of the case may require.
> (2) Where a contract is rescinded under sub-section (1), the court-(a) shall direct the purchaser or the lessee, if he has obtained possession of the property under the contract, to restore such possession to the vendor or lessor, and
>
> (b) may direct payment to the vendor or lessor of all the rents and profits which have accrued in respect of the property from the date on which possession was so obtained by the purchaser or lessee until restoration of possession to the vendor or lessor, and, if the justice of the case so requires, the refund of any sum paid by the vendee or lessee as earnest money or deposit in connection with the contract.
>
> (3) If the purchaser or lessee pays the purchase money or other sum which he is ordered to pay under the decree within the period referred to in sub-section (1), the court may, on application made in the same suit, award the purchaser or lessee such further relief as he may be entitled to, including in appropriate cases all or any of the following reliefs, namely:-(a) the execution of a proper conveyance or lease by the vendor or lessor;
>
> (b) the delivery of possession, or partition and separate possession, of the property on the execution of such conveyance or lease.
>
> (4) No separate suit in respect of any relief which may be claimed under this section shall lie at the instance of a vendor, purchaser, lessor or lessee, as the case may be.

(5) The costs of any proceedings under this section shall be in the discretion of the Court."

A mandate stands enjoined therein of omission on part of the vendee/decree holder to deposit the sale consideration within the time allowed/granted to her by the learned trial Court or within such further validly extended period, empowering it hence to rescind the contract. Since the plaintiff omitted to within the time prescribed by the learned trial Court make the apposite deposit thereat of the balance sale consideration nor moved it with dispatch for further time being granted to her for meteing compliance thereto rather hers belatedly seeking enlargement of time from the learned Executing Court for its deposit thereat, by hers preferring an application thereat in the year 2010, constituted the prime ground for the learned District Judge (Forest), Shimla to discountenance her grossly procrastinated apposite endeavour whereupon it concluded of with the conditional decree of the learned trial Court hence standing infracted by the plaintiff, infraction whereof warranting it to order for rescission of the contract of 12.07.1997 qua the suit property recorded inter se the plaintiff and the defendant. The learned District Judge (Forest) while allowing the application preferred thereat under Section 28 of the Act had relied upon pronouncements of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in V.S.Palanichamy Chettair Firm versus C.Alagappan & Anr., (1999) 4 SCC 702, besides placed reliance upon a verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in Lanka Venkateswarlu (Dead) by LRs versus State of Andhra Pradesh & Ors., (2011) 4 SCC 363. The tenacity of the rendition of the learned District Judge (Forests), Shimla recorded in Civil Miscellaneous Application No.151-S/6 of 2013/10 wherefrom Civil Revision Petition No.67 of 2015 has arisen would assume vigour only when this Court on analyzing the aforesaid judgments of the Hon'ble Apex Court whereupon he founded his impugned verdict, it holds of their respective ratio decidendi standing aptly applied in his impugned rendition before this Court by the learned District Judge (Forests). Hence this Court proceeds to engage itself in the onerous task of analyzing the import of the verdicts of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in the law journals aforesaid besides this Court would hence unearth therefrom qua reliance thereupon by the learned District Judge (Forests) being apt or inapt, also its standing hence coaxed to concomitantly sustain or reverse his verdict. For this Court to efficaciously engage itself in the aforesaid task, the extraction of relevant paragraphs thereof is imperative. The relevant paragraphs of the rendition of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in V.S.Palanichamy's case (supra) stand encompassed in paragraphs 16 and 17, paragraphs whereof stand extracted herein-after:-

"16. In view of the decision of this Court in Ramankutty Guptan's case (1994) AIR SCW 1533) (supra) when the trial Court and the executing Court are same, executing Court can entertain the application for extension of time though the application is to be treated as one filed in the main suit. On the same analogy, the vendor judgment-holder can also seek rescission of the contract of sale or take up this plea in defence to bar the execution of decree. One of the grounds on which the trial Court dismissed the execution application was that the decree holder did not pay the balance of consideration as per the sale agreement and also did not pay within the time stipulated by the Court in the decree. High Court could have certainly gone into this question when application for extension of time was filed before it. However, on the objection by the judgment-debtor, it chose to send back the matter to the executing Court for decision on these applications, which was perhaps, in the circumstances, was not correct procedure to adopt. But then, at the same time, the High Court put shackles on the discretion of the executing Court by observing that vendor might have felt that after the appeal filed by the vendor judgment-holder against the decree for specific performance was disposed of they can even then deposit the amount or at the time of seeking the execution of the sale deed.

17. The agreement of sale was entered into as far back on February 16, 1980, about 19 years ago. No explanation is forthcoming as to why the balance amount of consideration could not be deposited within time granted by the Court and why no application was made under Section 28 of the Act seeking extension of time of this period. Under Article 54 of the Limitation Act, 3 years period is prescribed for filing the suit for specific performance of contract of sale from the date of the agreement or when the cause of action arises. Merely because a suit is filed within the prescribed period of limitation does not absolve the vendee-plaintiff from showing as to whether he was ready and willing to perform his part of agreement and if there was non-performance was that on account of any obstacle put by the vendor or otherwise. Provisions to grant specific performance of an agreement are quite stringent. Equitable considerations come into play. Court has to see all the attendant circumstances including if the vendee has conducted himself in a reasonable manner under the contract of sale. That being the position of law for filing the suit for specific performance, can the Court as a matter of course allow extension of time for making payment of balance amount of consideration in terms of a decree after 5 years of passing of the decree by the trial Court and 3 years of its confirmation by the appellate Court? It is not the case of the respondent-decree holder that on account of any fault on the part of the vendor-judgment-debtor, the amount could not be deposited as per the decree. That being the position, if now time is granted, that would be going beyond the period of limitation prescribed for filing of the suit for specific performance of the agreement though this provision may not be strictly applicable. It is nevertheless an important circumstance to be considered by the Court. That apart, no explanation whatsoever is coming from the decree-holder-respondents as to why they did not pay the balance amount of consideration as per the decree except what the High Court itself thought fit to comment which is certainly not borne out from the record. Equity demands that discretion be not exercised in favour of the decree holder-respondents and no extension of time be granted to them to comply with the decree."

7. The verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in Lanka Venkateshwarlu's case (supra), relevant paragraphs whereof stand extracted herein-after:-

"19. We have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel. At the outset, it needs to be stated that generally speaking, the courts in this country, including this Court, adopt a liberal approach in considering the application for condonation of delay on the ground of sufficient cause under Section 5 of the Limitation Act. This principle is well settled and has been set out succinctly in the case of Collector, Land Acquisition, Anantnag & Ors. Vs. Katiji & Ors., 1987 2 SCC 107.

23. The concepts of liberal approach and reasonableness in exercise of the discretion by the Courts in condoning delay, have been again stated by this Court in the case of Balwant Singh (supra), as follows:-

"25. We may state that even if the term "sufficient cause" has to receive liberal construction, it must squarely fall within the concept of reasonable time and proper conduct of the party concerned. The purpose of introducing liberal construction normally is to introduce the concept of "reasonableness" as it is understood in its general connotation."

"26. The law of limitation is a substantive law and has definite consequences on the right and obligation of party to arise. These principles should be adhered to and applied appropriately depending on the facts and circumstances of a given case. Once a valuable right has accrued in favour of one party as a result of the failure of the other party to explain the delay by showing sufficient cause and its own conduct, it will be unreasonable to take > away that right on the mere asking of the applicant, particularly when the delay is directly a result of negligence, default or inaction of that party. Justice must be done to both parties equally. Then alone the ends of justice can be achieved. If a party has been thoroughly negligent in implementing its rights and remedies, it will be equally unfair to deprive the other party of a valuable right that has accrued to it in law as a result of his acting vigilantly."

28. We are at a loss to fathom any logic or rationale, which could have impelled the High Court to condone the delay after holding the same to be unjustifiable. The concepts such as "liberal approach", "justice oriented approach", "substantial justice" can not be employed to jettison the substantial law of limitation. Especially, in cases where the Court concludes that there is no justification for the delay. In our opinion, the approach adopted by the High Court tends to show the absence of judicial balance and restraint, which a Judge is required to maintain whilst adjudicating any lis between the parties. We are rather pained to notice that in this case, not being satisfied with the use of mere intemperate language, the High Court resorted to blatant sarcasms.

29. The use of unduly strong intemperate or extravagant language in a judgment has been repeatedly disapproved by this Court in a number of cases. Whilst considering applications for condonation of delay under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, the Courts do not enjoy unlimited and unbridled discretionary powers. All discretionary powers, especially judicial powers, have to be exercised within reasonable bounds, known to the law. The discretion has to be exercised in a systematic manner informed by reason. Whims or fancies; prejudices or predilections can not and should not form the basis of exercising discretionary powers."

8. The Hon'ble Apex Court had in its judgment recorded in V.S.Palanichamy (supra) vindicated the orders recorded by the learned Executing Court thereat whereby the learned Executing Court had dismissed the execution petition preferred thereat by the decree holder on the ground of the decree holder thereat constituting an apposite application thereat for execution of the decree after three years standing elapsed since the dismissal of the appeals by the High Court, appeals whereof stood preferred thereat by the aggrieved judgment debtors-defendants therein. Besides the aforesaid facet which constrained the Hon'ble Apex Court in V.S.Palanichamy (supra) to uphold the rendition of the learned Executing Court whereby the latter dismissed the apposite Execution Petition preferred thereat, the factum of the decree holders not depositing the sale consideration within the period enjoined upon them by the decree nor theirs within limitation preferring an apposite application thereat for seeking there-from enlargement of time to them for depositing the sale consideration, also constrained the Hon'ble Apex Court to validate the orders of the learned Executing Court whereby the latter Court dismissed the apposite Execution Petition constituted thereat by the decree holders. Even in the rendition of the Hon'ble Apex Court embodied in Lanka Venkateshwarlu (supra) the Hon'ble Apex Court had while dwelling upon the imperativeness qua launching of an appropriate remedy within time by an aggrieved, also had therein prescribed the adoption of a liberal approach by Courts of law while dealing with an application preferred under Section 5 of the Limitation Act yet the Hon'ble Apex Court therein enjoined Courts of law whereat an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act stands preferred, to insist upon delay in the launching of an appropriate remedy by the aggrieved standing anchored upon an evident explicated sufficient cause whereupon alone they would hold empowerment to condone the apposite delay, contrarily lack of portrayals by the aggrieved in explication of delay occurring in his canvassing his remedy warranting the sequel of the apposite application of the aggrieved suffering the misfortune of dismissal, especially when the countenancing of the belated endeavour of the aggrieved without any evident explicated sufficient cause when precludes him to espouse his remedy would tantamount to a deprivation of a valuable right foisted in the party acting vigilantly. The verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court as relied upon by the learned District Judge (Forests) in V.S.Palanichamy (supra) for its standing approbated by this Court warrants congruity qua the factual matrix therein vis-à-vis the factual matrix hereat. The order of the learned Executing Court dismissing the application constituted thereat by the decree holders secured validation from the Hon'ble Apex Court in V.S.Palanichamy (supra) on the anvil of the decree holders thereat proceeding to prefer before the Executing Court concerned an apposite Execution Petition after five years standing elapsed since the rendition of the apposite decree by the trial Court besides its preferment thereat by the decree holders therein occurring beyond three years since the dismissal of the appeals of the aggrieved defendants by the High Court concerned. Hereat, it is imperative to allude to the relevant paragraph of the rendition of Hon'ble Apex Court in V.S.Palanichamy (supra) which stood extracted herein-after, wherein the view stood taken by it of with a period of three years standing prescribed as the period of limitation within which the apposite execution petition for execution of a decree of specific performance stands enjoined to be constituted by the decree holder before the learned Executing Court concerned, period whereof though stands mandated therein to be not strictly applicable nonetheless it being an important circumstance to be considered:-

> "…That being the position, if now time is granted, that would be going beyond the period of limitation prescribed for filing of the suit for specific performance of the agreement though this provision may not be strictly applicable. It is nevertheless an important circumstance to be considered by the Court. That apart, no explanation whatsoever is coming from the decree-holder-respondents as to why they did not pay the balance amount of consideration as per the decree except what the High Court itself thought fit to comment which is certainly not borne out from the record…"

Since with the Hon'ble Apex Court applying the aforesaid principle, it concluded thereupon of the decree of specific performance thereat becoming executable within three years of the rendition of the High Court concerned yet the apposite Execution Petition thereat standing constituted beyond three years hence palpably appears to garner a conclusion from the Hon'ble Apex Court qua the orders of dismissal of the learned Executing Court thereat of the apposite application preferred thereat by the decree holders apposite orders whereof standing anvilled upon the apposite applications being grossly time barred, consequently not suffering from any vice of invalidation. However, extantly the Execution Petition hereat stood constituted by the decree holder herein before the learned Executing Court on 15.7.2010 hence within less than nine months standing elapsed since the decree of the learned trial Court standing affirmed by this Court under its decision recorded on 11th November, 2009 in RFA No.351 of 2005. The decree in affirmation to the decree of the learned trial Court stood rendered by this Court on 11th November, 2009 hence became the executable decree predominantly when this Court had temporarily stayed the execution of the apposite decree of the learned trial Court, order whereof of this Court temporarily staying the operation of the apposite judgment and decree of the learned trial Court impugned hereat by the aggrieved defendant stood made absolute by this Court on 13.11.2006. Hence, consequently with this Court on 22.12.2005 temporarily staying the execution of the apposite decree of the learned trial Court whereafter it made absolute its ad interim order temporarily staying the execution of the apposite decree recorded by the learned trial Court obviously precluded the decree holder herein to since 22.12.2005 with dispatch therefrom up to the judgment recorded by this Court on 11th November, 2009 launch an apposite Execution Petition before the learned Executing Court concerned. The apposite Execution Petition constituted by the decree holder before the learned Executing Court would suffer the ill fate of dismissal only when she had constituted it thereat beyond three years which is the period mandated in the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court in V.S.Palanichamy (supra), within which a decree holder of a decree of specific performance stands empowered to constitute an Execution Petition before the learned Executing Court concerned. In aftermath, with merely a delay of nine months occurring on part of the decree holder herein computable from the recording of a decision on 11th November, 2009 by this Court in RFA No.351 of 2005 cannot render her apposite

Execution Petition constituted before the learned Executing Court concerned to be beyond limitation. Also hence the aforesaid delay is minimal besides the apposite application of the decree holder herein is within limitation vis-à-vis the inordinate delay beyond limitation manifested in the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in V.S.Palanichamy (supra), procrastinated time barred delay whereof on part of the decree holders therein constrained the learned Executing Court thereat to refuse its execution, orders whereof of the learned Executing Court thereat stood affirmed by the Hon'ble Apex Court. Sequelly, hence with an apparent distinctivity occurring inter se the factual matrix hereat vis-à-vis the factual matrix existing in the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in V.S.Palanichamy (supra) palpably of a visible display therein of an immense hiatus or a time barred gap occurring in the launching of the execution proceedings by the decree holders thereat vis-à-vis the minimal gap besides the relevant gap being not time barred hereat, qua the executable rendition of this Court recorded in RFA No.351 of 2005 on 11th November, 2009, besides reiteratedly with the decree holder hereat constituting the apposite Execution Petition before the learned Executing Court within limitation, the application of the principle enshrined in the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court in V.S.Palanichamy (supra) qua immensity of delay or any evident statutorily barred procrastinated delay occurring at the instance of the decree holder thereat since the apposite executable rendition therein vis-à-vis the launching of execution proceedings by the decree holders thereat, concomitantly barring the decree holders thereat to seek execution of the decree, was obviously unavailable for attraction hereat by the learned Court below preeminently when for reasons afore-stated, the immensity of delay as had occurred therein does not occur hereat. In sequel, its application hereat is grossly inapt. However, the principle also encapsulated therein of an omission on the part of the decree holder to within the time prescribed in the apposite decree deposit the sale consideration before the Court concerned operating as a bar upon the decree holder to seek execution of the apposite decree yet may also for reasons assigned herein-after remains un-attracted qua the facts at hand rendering hence also any reliance thereupon by the learned District Judge (Forests) to be inapt. However, before determining qua theirs occurring any deliberate willful omission on the part of the decree holder to beget compliance with the apposite rendition of the learned trial Court enjoining her to deposit the sale consideration within one month of its rendition, rendition whereof stood pronounced on 25.10.2005, for hence this Court standing constrained to accept the findings of the learned District Judge founded upon the verdicts of the Hon'ble Apex Court, an allusion to the factum of the plaintiff-decree holder depositing the sale consideration 64 days beyond the time prescribed in the apposite decree for its deposit by her besides the factum of the deposit aforesaid not resting upon any apposite order recorded by the learned trial Court yet rendering the aforesaid deposit by the decree holder being construable to be a valid or an invalid deposit, also enjoins an adjudication thereon by this Court. The pronouncement by this Court qua the validity or invalidity of deposit by the plaintiff of the sale consideration beyond the period prescribed for its deposit by the apposite decree of the learned trial Court of 25.10.2005 preeminently is imperative as on this Court rendering an adjudication qua the apposite deposit by her constituting a valid deposit would concomitantly render the preferment of an apposite application by the plaintiff-decree holder in the year 2010 before the Executing Court wherein she sought an order from it qua extension of time for its deposit thereat standing granted to her, to assume no significance rather it would be relegated to the limbo of oblivion, also reliance by the learned District Judge in his impugned rendition upon a verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Lanka Venkateshwarlu (supra) wherein their Lordships interdict Courts of law against allowing application for condonation of delay when they omit to explicate therein a sufficient cause precluding the aggrieved to promptly avail the remedy especially when hence a right accrues to a vigilant litigant, would hence stand jettisoned or reliance thereupon by him would be amenable to a construction of it being an inapposite reliance by him also his thereupon holding a fallacious view of the belated endeavour made there-before by the decree holder for its ordering qua extension of time being granted to her for depositing the balance sale consideration before the Court concerned, warranting hence its standing discountenanced by this Court. Before alluding to the relevant records manifesting theirs impinging upon the validity of deposit by the decree holder of the balance sale consideration beyond 64 days of its standing enjoined by the apposite conditional decree to be deposited by her before the Court concerned, it is imperative to also allude to the provisions engrafted in Section 28 of the Act, provisions whereof stand extracted herein-above, provisions whereof though warrant the Court to on an apposite application laid there-before by the defendant-judgment debtor to on availability of demonstrable affirmative evidence, allow it, provisions whereof also manifest of with the decree holder evidently not depositing the sale consideration within time granted in the apposite decree nor the decree holder seeking an order from the Court concerned for time standing extended to her/him for its deposit there-before by him/her, empowering hence the Court concerned to allow the application preferred thereat by the judgment debtor under Section 28 of the Act yet the import borne by the phrase 'as justice of the case may require' as occurs in Section 28 of the Act warrants its standing imputed its innate signification by this Court for thereupon its determining qua the impugned rendition of the learned Court below on an application constituted there-before by the judgment debtor-defendant under Section 28 of the Act, even if assumingly clinching proof for sustaining the relief ventilated therein stood evinced there-before qua the decree holder omitting to within the time purveyed to him by the apposite decree nor hers within the extended time afforded to her depositing the sale consideration before the Court concerned, while overlooking its existence/occurrence therein has committed a fallacy in recording its impugned decision. The parlance borne by the aforesaid words existing in Section 28 of the Act is of the Court concerned even when standing assumingly seized with demonstrable evidence of compliance not standing begotten by the decree holder with the mandate of an apposite decree nor the decree holder begetting necessary compliance within the time extended by the Court concerned for the purposes aforesaid yet the aforesaid non compliances by the decree holder not per se warranting it to rescind the contract, if the attending circumstances coagulated with the omissions aforesaid would sequel perpetuation of injustice whereas the Court concerned while even when assumingly standing seized with evidence warranting the rescission by it of the apposite contract, is yet enjoined to in the larger interest of justice omit to rescind it.

9. For gauging from the relevant records the prime factum of whether the order of the learned District Judge in Civil Misc. App. No.151-S/6 of 2013/10 whereby he rescinded the contract of sale qua the suit property recorded inter se the parties at lis stands percolated with a paragon virtue of justice dehors non-compliances, if any, by the decree holder within the time prescribed by the mandate of the learned trial Court of 25.10.2005, this Court ought not to remain oblivious to the factum of the aggrieved defendant preferring an appeal before this Court against the decree of the learned trial Court of 25.10.2005, appeal whereof came to be registered as RFA No.351 of 2005. The appeal aforesaid came to be instituted on 19.12.2005. On 22.12.2005 this Court stayed till further orders the operation of the decree of the learned trial Court impugned hereat by the aggrieved defendant. In the interregnum since 22.12.2005 till 13.11.2006 the plaintiff-decree holder deposited the balance of the sale consideration before the trial Court. On 13.11.2006 this Court recorded an order qua recalling of the aforesaid amount as stood deposited by the plaintiff- decree holder before the learned trial Court besides for its being invested in a fixed deposit. Furthermore, this Court on 13.11.2006 had made absolute its order of 22.12.2005 whereby it temporarily stayed the operation of the apposite decree of the learned trial Court impugned hereat by the aggrieved defendant also it on 13.11.2006 had mandated therein of its aforesaid rendition being subject to the defendant depositing Rs.50,000 plus interest @ 9% per annum from the date of filing of the suit till its deposit. The defendant abided by the aforesaid direction of this Court rendered on 13.11.2006. Also the defendant did not oppose the application preferred hereat by the plaintiff for its release being ordered in her favour whereupon this Court in its order recorded on 13.11.2006 directed the aforesaid sum of money deposited by the aggrieved defendant being released in her favour. The aforesaid manifestations bespeak of the acquiescence of the aggrieved defendant with the apposite renditions of the learned trial Court, effect whereof stands alluded herein-after to estop him to contest the execution application of the decree holder.

10. Be that as it may, before this Court proceeds to on the anvil of the previous herein-above referred renditions of this Court holds of theirs assumingly validating the deposit of the balance sale consideration by the plaintiff before the Court concerned besides of hers hence begetting compliance with the rendition of the learned trial Court of 25.10.2005, an advertence to the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in Kumar Dhirendra Mullick & Ors. Versus Tivoli Park Apartments Ltd., (2005) 9 SCC 262, relevant paragraph 30 whereof stands extracted herein-after is imperative:-

> "30. In the case of Sardar Mohar Singh v. Mangilal4 it has been held that section 28 (1) postulates that the court does not lose its jurisdiction after the grant of the decree for specific performance nor it becomes functus officio Section 28 gives power to grant order of rescission of the agreement which itself indicates that till the sale deed is executed, the trial court retains its power and jurisdiction to deal with the decree of the specific performance. Therefore, the court has the power to enlarge the time in favour of the judgment-debtor to pay the amount or to perform the conditions mentioned in the decree for specific performance, despite the application for rescission of the agreement/decree."

In the verdict aforesaid, the Hon'ble Apex Court has postulated the diktat of the Court whereat applications under Section 28(1) of the Act are constituted not being functus officious rather its still standing invested with a power to enlarge time qua the decree holder for hers/his depositing the balance sale consideration before the Court concerned dehors hers/his omission to make the relevant deposit within time prescribed by the apposite renditions, diktat whereof read in coagulation with the diktat referred to herein-above comprised in the renditions of this Court made in proceedings occurring in RFA No.351 of 2005, constrain an imperative inference of theirs constituting validation by this Court qua the deposit of the sale consideration by the decree holder before the Court concerned even when the relevant deposit by her occurred beyond the time mandated in the apposite decree for its deposit thereat. In sequel, the apposite renditions of this Court occurring in proceedings drawn in RFA No.351 of 2005 did operate as a fiat upon the learned District Judge to formalize the deposit of a sum of Rs.8 lacs made by the decree holder before the Court concerned, deposit whereof constituted the balance sale consideration payable by the plaintiff to the defendant-judgment debtor, dehors the factum of the decree holder preferring an application thereat for extension of time or enlargement of time on five years standing elapsed since the rendition of the apposite decree of specific performance pronounced by the learned trial Court on 13.11.2006 preeminently when this Court had recalled from the learned trial Court a sum of Rs.8 lacs as stood deposited thereat by the plaintiff. Consequently, when the order of this Court of 13.11.2006 whereby it recalled from the learned trial Court a sum of Rs.8 lacs deposited thereat by the decree holder for it standing invested in a fixed deposit hereat hence tantamounts to its legalizing also its legitimizing the deposit of the aforesaid amount by the plaintiff/decree holder before the learned trial Court besides also gives leverage to an inference of hence this Court per se extending the time for its deposit thereat by her. In aftermath, the unequivocal communications existing in the verdict of the learned District Judge recorded in Civil Miscellaneous application No.151-S/6 of 2013/10 whereby he allowed the application preferred thereat by the judgment debtor under Section 28 of the Act, for reasons afore-stated his inappositely applying the mandate of the judgments comprised in V.S.Palanichamy and Lanka Venkateswarlu (supra) besides the view held by him of the deposit of the balance amount of sale consideration by her not occurring within the time for its deposit granted by the apposite rendition of the learned trial Court also his holding qua the apposite application of the decree holder preferred thereat wherein she sought a relief qua enlargement or extension of time standing granted to her without hers explicating therein a sufficient cause which precluded her to with dispatch institute it thereat hence entailing it to accord relief to the judgment debtor/defendant on his application preferred under Section 28 of the Act, stands concluded by this Court to hold no efficacy preeminently when palpably his verdict appears to undermine the efficacy of the renditions of this Court recorded on 13.11.2006 whereupon given the echoings therein hence the aforesaid inferences stand drawn by this Court, inferences whereof concomitantly ipso facto invalidate the impugned rendition recorded by the learned District Judge. Also the learned District Judge while holding a stricto senso interpretation of Section 28 of the Act bereft of his perceiving the import of the phraseology 'as the justice of the case may require' as stands embodied therein, coinage whereof bear a signification, of the Court concerned though standing assumingly seized with evidence of the plaintiff not begetting compliance with the apposite decree yet the said non compliance being not persuasive enough to allow the application of the judgment debtor/defendant preferred thereat under Section 28 of the Act unless attending material warrants of justice being done to the plaintiff/decree holder. Significantly, with the plaintiff receiving an order from this Court on 13.11.2006 whereupon hence the deposit of the sale consideration by her before the Court concerned stood formalized, the belittling of its significance by the learned District Judge by his erroneously deciding Civil Miscellaneous application No.151-S/6 of 2013/10 has not done justice to the plaintiff rather has perpetuated injustice upon her especially when she has palpably manifested hence her readiness and willingness to perform the contract. Furthermore, with the defendant-judgment debtor portraying his acquiescence qua the rendition of this Court of 13.11.2006 whereupon he stood enjoined to deposit a sum of Rs.50,000 plus interest @ 9% per annum from the date of filing of the suit till its realization, besides his meteing compliance qua the condition precedent aforesaid foisted upon him qua the order of this Court making absolute its ad interim order staying the operation of the decree impugned hereat by the aggrieved defendant/judgment debtor, hence his fastening efficacy in its entirety qua it whereupon he too fastened conclusivity qua the order of this Court recorded on 13.11.2006, besides connoted his unwillingness besides his un-readiness to execute the decree of the learned trial Court, apart there-from when he contrarily also acquiesced to this Court ordering for a sum of Rs.50,000 deposited by him in the Registry of this Court alongwith up to date interest standing released to the plaintiff hence portrayed his acquiescence to the decree under execution, does estop him to contend of non compliances, if any, by the plaintiff with the apposite rendition of the trial Court being open for its standing rescinded spurring from hers omitting to deposit within the time mandated by the apposite decree a sum of Rs.8 lacs before the Court concerned. Even otherwise as apparent on a reading of the operative part of the judgment of this Court recorded in RFA No.351 of 2005, given the said facet standing not taken by the aggrieved defendant as an apposite ground of appeal in RFA No.351 of 2005 as stood preferred hereat by him against the impugned rendition of the learned trial Court, also does entail an inference from this Court of with the defendant waiving the said ground besides abandoning the aforesaid facet hence his holding no leverage for baulking the execution of the apposite decree by the plaintiff. Even if this Court in its decision recorded in RFA No.351 of 2005 did leave an option to the defendant to urge the facet aforesaid before the learned Executing Court yet thereunder with no right standing reserved in his favour to file a petition under Section 28 of the Act did obviously not foist in him any leverage to institute a petition under Section 28 of the Act before the learned District Judge. In aftermath for the reasons recorded hereinabove spurring an inference of this Court under its afore-referred rendition formalizing the deposit of the balance sale consideration by the plaintiff before the Court concerned of hence her concomitantly begetting compliance with the rendition recorded in her favour by learned trial Court also warranted the learned District Judge to reject the application preferred there-before by the defendant under Section 28 of the Act. The rejection of the application preferred thereat under Section 28 of the Act by the judgment debtor would given the in extenso narrations made herein-above whereupon an inference stands erected by this Court qua validation of the deposit of balance sale consideration by the plaintiff-decree holder before the Court concerned upsurging therefrom, apposite echoings therein when operating as a fiat upon the learned District Judge yet when stood overlooked by him ingrain his verdict with an aura of invalidation. Hence, given the imputation by this Court qua the signification borne by the parlance 'in the interest of justice' embodied in Section 28 of the Act of all the afore-referred attending circumstances standing enjoined to be borne in mind by him for doing justice to the plaintiff-decree holder, contrarily when they stood in the impugned rendition relegated to the limbo of oblivion, as a corollary, the impugned rendition is far away from doing justice to the plaintiff.

11. The learned counsel appearing for the defendant-respondent herein has relied upon a judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in P.R.Yelumalai versus N.M.Ravi (2015) 9 SCC 52, relevant paragraph-12 whereof stands extracted herein-after, for this Court standing constrained to not accept the revision petitions arising from the impugned renditions recorded by the learned trial Court:-

> "11. Arguments were also made by the learned counsel on both sides as to which Court had the power to grant extension of time and several authorities were cited on this point. However, we find that after the execution Court had dismissed the execution proceeding on the ground of delay in depositing the amount, the same question was dealt with by the original side of the Trial Court as well in the application for extension of time. Since both the Courts have given concurrent findings that the case for extension of time was not made out, we are of the opinion that dealing with the question as to which Court had the jurisdiction to decide this point, will be an exercise in futility. It would suffice to say that the Court has the discretion to extend the time upon an application made by the party required to act within a stipulated time period. Extension of time can be granted even after the expiry of the period originally fixed. In Johri Singh v. Sukh Pal Singh and Ors., 1989 4 SCC 403, this Court observed:
>> "This Section empowers the Court to extend the time fixed by it even after the expiry of the period originally fixed. It by implication allows the Court to enlarge the time before the time originally fixed. The use of 'may' shows that the power is discretionary, and the Court is, therefore, entitled to take into account the conduct of the party praying for such extension."

wherein a formidable verdict stands recorded therein by their Lordships, of failure on the part of the decree holder holding a conditional decree, to deposit the balance sale consideration within the time as enjoined upon him by the apposite decree besides his omitting to make the apposite deposit within the validly extended time, sequelling the fate of the Hon'ble Apex Court validating the order of the Executing Court whereby it refused to execute the apposite decree. However, the aforesaid judgment relied upon by the learned counsel for the defendant is reflective of the factum of the conditional decree thereat recorded by the Court concerned in favour of the decree holder therein being a conditional decree mandating therein of with the decree holder omitting to deposit the balance sale consideration within the time stipulated therein, his relevant omissions sequelling the legal effect of his suit being deemed to be dismissed. However, extantly the apposite decree hereat of the learned trial Court though enjoins upon the decree holder to deposit the balance sale consideration within one month since its pronouncement before the learned trial Court nonetheless there is no further diktat therein of failure of the decree holder-plaintiff to deposit the balance sale consideration thereat within the time stipulated therein yet sequelling the effect of her suit being deemed to be dismissed. Predominantly hence with the judgment relied upon by the learned counsel for the defendant, the cascading effect of non deposit by the decree holder of the balance sale consideration before the Court concerned within the time stipulated by it stood also mandated therein inasmuch as the apposite omissions begetting the sequel of a deemed dismissal of the suit of the plaintiff-decree holder thereat whereas the aforesaid diktat is palpably amiss hereat. In aftermath, any reliance by the learned counsel for the defendant upon the aforesaid verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court for his espousing hereat qua the failure on the part of the decree holder to within time or beyond the validly extended time deposit the balance sale consideration before the Court concerned not facilitating her to execute the decree rather validating the rendition of the learned trial Court recorded in Civil Miscellaneous application No.151-S/6 of 2013/10, holds no vigour and sinew. Also the aforesaid submission stands emaciated in view of the afore-referred ad nauseam discussion tellingly bespeaking the factum of with this Court formalizing the deposit of the balance sale consideration by the plaintiff-decree holder before the Court concerned even when the deposit aforesaid by her occurred beyond the time prescribed by the apposite decree of specific performance recorded in her favour by the learned trial Court besides when the effect of formalizing by this Court qua the deposit of the balance sale consideration by the plaintiff is of hence time standing enlarged or extended by this Court to the plaintiff for begetting compliance qua the apposite rendition of the learned trial Court, the learned District Judge fell in gross error in belittling its significance also his overlooking its impact whereupon he untenably construed of with the plaintiff not begetting compliance with the apposite rendition of the decree of specific performance recorded in her favour by the learned trial Court within the time stipulated therein, the application preferred thereat by the judgment debtor under Section 28 of the Act warranting its standing allowed especially when the aforesaid verdict for all the reasons afore-stated has overlooked besides subtracted the import of the signification borne by the phraseology 'as the justice of the case may require' as occur in the apposite provisions of Section 28 of the Act. Imperatively when for carrying forward the spirit of the words 'as the justice of the case may require' occurring therein for reasons afore-stated this Court holds a view of the orders previously recorded by this Court on 13.11.2006 during the course of its holding proceedings in RFA No.351 of 2005 tantamounting to theirs being construed to be formalizing the deposit of the balance sale consideration by the plaintiff before the Court concerned besides extending the time afforded by the apposite decree for its deposit by her. As a corollary, hence the overlookings of the aforesaid facets by the learned District Judge necessitates when hence defeats the mission/spirit of the imputation by this Court to the coinage 'as the justice of the case may require' occurring in Section 28 of the Act, both his impugned renditions warrant interference by this Court.

12. In view of the above detailed discussions both the petitions stand allowed and the impugned orders recorded by learned District Judge (Forests), Shimla in Civil Misc. Application No.151-S/6 of 2013/10 rendered on 30.3.2015 and the impugned order rendered in Execution Petition on 30.3.2015 stand quashed and set aside. The Executing Court concerned is directed to decide the Execution Petition in accordance with law within three months. The parties are directed to appear before the learned Executing Court on 20th July, 2016. All pending applications stand disposed of. Records of the Courts below be sent down forthwith.

G.Narayana Raju (dead) by his legal representative vs. G. Chamaraju and others, AIR 1968 SC 1276

For the appellant(s): Mr. Bhupinder Gupta, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. K.D.Sood, Sr. Advocate, with Mr. Mukul Sood, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This regular second appeal is directed against the judgment and decree of the learned Addl. District Judge, Una, H.P. dated 31.3.2004, passed in Civil Appeal No. 149/2000/96.

2. Key facts, necessary for the adjudication of this regular second appeal are that the respondent-plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as the plaintiff) has filed a suit for possession of half share of the land described in the plaint and for declaration to the effect that the plaintiff is exclusive owner in possession of land measuring 0-14 marlas as 1/6 share of land measuring 4-4 kanals bearing khewat No. 297 Khatauni No. 430 and 431 and Kh. Nos. 2482/2277/1, 2263, 2259, including abadi consisting of two kacha posh rooms and one pucca room having plinth area measuring 45 sq. meters with shaream rasta to the East, house of Ravinder son of Satya Pal to the West, the land of Wattana son of Rania to the North and the land of Ganesh son of Sukhdev Ram to North and the land of Ganesh son of Sukhdev to the South situated in village Bhera, Tehsil Amb, Distt. Una, H.P. According to the averments made in the plaint, the suit land was jointly owned and possessed by the plaintiff and Dev Raj along with their father as coparceners. The father of the plaintiff has died, therefore, the plaintiff has got ½ share in the suit land. Some of the suit land has been purchased by the plaintiff from his earnings in the name of his father Satya Pal and it was thrown in the common pool of joint Hindu family property. It has become integral part of it. The plaintiff has constructed his abadi in Kh. No. 2263 and 2259 by spending huge amount with the consent of his father and appellants-defendants (hereinafter referred to as the defendants), who created permanent licence in favour of the plaintiff. The defendants have never raised any objection at the time of raising construction by the plaintiff. His father was never in need of any money nor he had any legal necessity to sell the part of the suit land. However, on 13.2.1989, defendant No. 2 Champa Devi, wife of Dev Raj in connivance with her husband got fictitious sale-deed executed by the father of the plaintiff without any sale consideration. Thus, the sale deed was null and void and has got no effect on the plaintiff's share in the joint Hindu coparcenary property. The father of the plaintiff had no right to alienate the house mentioned in headnote-II of the plaint since the plaintiff has constructed the house after spending huge amount with the consent of his father.

3. The suit was contested by the defendants. According to them, the suit land was not joint Hindu coparcenary property as the same was the self acquired property of Satya Pal. Sh. Satya Pal purchased some of the suit land through sale and some by way of preemption for consideration paid by him from his personal earnings. Defendant Dev Raj and his wife advanced money to him. They have denied that the plaintiff has purchased the land in the name of his father. The abadi in Kh. No. 2259 was raised by Satya Pal. No licence was created in favour of the plaintiff. Regarding sale deed dated 13.2.1989, the same was executed by Satya Pal in favour of Smt. Champa Devi for consideration of Rs. 24,000/-. The plaintiff was living separately from his father.

4. The learned Sub Judge Ist Class (II), Amb, H.P., framed the issues on 22.8.1990 and 8.4.1992 and suit was decreed on 1.7.1996. Feeling aggrieved, the appellants-defendants preferred an appeal bearing No. 149/2000/96 before the learned Addl. District Judge, Una. The learned Addl. District Judge, Una, dismissed the same on 31.3.2004. Hence, this regular second appeal.

5. This Regular Second Appeal was admitted on the following substantial question of law on 13.9.2004:

> "1. Whether both the courts below have misunderstood the provisions of Hindu Succession Act and wrongly held the devolution of property after the death of Shri Satya Pal to be governed under Section 6 of the Hindu Succession Act by ignoring the provisions of Section 8 of the said Act?"

6. Mr. Bhupinder Gupta, Sr. Advocate, for the appellants, on the basis of substantial question of law, has vehemently argued that the suit property was self acquired property of Satya Pal and not coparcenary property. Satya Pal has acquired property during his life time. The property was never thrown in joint stock. On the other hand, Mr. K.D.Sood, Sr. Advocate, has supported the judgments and decrees of both the Courts below.

7. I have heard the learned Senior Advocates for the parties and gone through the judgments and records of the case carefully.

8 PW-1 Surjeet Singh has proved site plan Ext. PW-1/A.

9. PW-2 Ravinder Prakash is the plaintiff. He testified that his father was owner of 38/39 kanals of land. It has come to him from his ancestors. Out of this, 2-3 kanals of land was purchased by his father from the earnings of joint family property. They belonged to joint Hindu family having ancestral property. He raised kucha house in the year 1969 and raised pucca construction in the year 1979. The land was given to him by his father. His father has also given land to defendant Dev Raj. His father has given land to him for construction of house bearing Kh. Nos. 2259 and 2263. He has also taken water and electricity connections. Defendant Dev Raj has also constructed his house on 4-5 kanals of land. This land was given to him by his father. Dev Raj has got executed sale deed in favour of his wife from his father on 13.2.1989.

10. PW-3 Onkar Singh has proved that electricity meter was sanctioned in the name of plaintiff.

11. PW-4 Subhash Chand has deposed that on 26.3.1981, the plaintiff had applied for water connection to his house. It was sanctioned in his favour on 25.5.1981.

12. PW-5 J.C.Sharma, has proved bills Ext. PW-5/A to PW-5/D regarding purchase of cement.

13. PW-6 Teja Ram has proved bill Ext. PW-6/A vide which plaintiff had purchased 30 bags of cement on 26.4.1982.

14. PW-7 Ram Lal, deposed that he worked as labourer when plaintiff constructed his house in the year 1979.

15. PW-8 Gian Singh is the mason. He deposed that in the year 1979, he constructed the house of the plaintiff.

16. PW-11 Sher Mohammad has proved bill Ext. PW-11/A whereby he has sold bricks to the plaintiff.

17. One of the defendants, Dev Raj has appeared as DW-1. According to him, the suit land was sold to his wife by Satya Pal vide registered sale deed for consideration of Rs. 24,000/-, which includes house situated on the suit land. The suit land was sold by his father since he was in dire need of money. His father had incurred debts at the time of marriage of education of his younger son. The house situated on the suit land was constructed by his father in the year 1979. His father has also purchased the property on the basis of sale as well as through preemption. The plaintiff has never contributed any amount to his father. The suit land was self acquired property of his father. The plaintiff has never raised the construction of the house. After the sale, his wife came into possession of the suit land. His father was also owner of 10-15 kanals of land, mutation of which has already been sanctioned in his favour and in favour of the plaintiff.

18. DW-3 Suresh Kumar has scribed sale deed Ext. DW-2/A dated 13.2.1989.

19. DW-4 Hardyal was examined by the defendants to prove that in the record of the Panchayat, separate house tax was assessed in the name of the plaintiff and his father Satya Pal.

20. DW-5 Preme Ram is the attesting witness of sale deed Ext. DW-2/A.

21. DW-6 Ajeet Singh is the Secretary of the Cooperative Society, Bhera. He has been examined by defendants to prove that Satya Pal was the member of their society who took loan from the society on different dates.

22. DW-7 Parmeshwari Dass is another attesting witness of sale deed Ext. DW-2/A.

23. According to the copy of jamabandi for the year 1955-56, Ext. P-9 in respect of Mauja Bhera, Tehsil Amb, District Una, the common ancestor has been shown to be Sh. Anokha, father of Mehtaba. This entry with respect to the ancestor Anokha son of Manna also finds mention in the copy of mutation for the year 1970-71 Ext. P-3. According to the pedigree table, sons of Mehtaba Ram have been shown to have succeeded to the estate of Mehtaba Ram. Ext. P-10 is the copy of Khatoni Istemal which was prepared after consolidation and in the jamabandi Ext. P-15 for the year 1981-82, shares of different share holders have been described. Ext. P-13 is the copy of Istemal for the year 1965-66 and Ext. P-14 is the copy of Bandobast Jadid. In all these documents, there is categorical mention of the suit land apart from the fact that common ancestor was mentioned as Anokha father of Mehtaba. Anokha's father was Manna. Anokha was the common ancestor.

24. The defendants have also filed documents Ext. D-1 to D-6. Ext. D-1 and D-2 are copies of orders and decree sheet dated 8.8.1986 vide which suit for possession by way of preemption filed by Satya Pal against Rattni wife of Amrit Lal son of Jai Karan Dass was decreed. Ext. D-3 and D-4 are the copies of order and decree dated 2.1.1985 vide which suit filed by Satya Pal against Joginder Lal and Amar Nath for possession by way of preemption in respect of land measuring 6-11 kanals was decreed. Ext. D-5 and D-6 are the copies of order and decree sheet dated 14.12.1983 vide which suit filed by Satya Pal against Chhaju Ram for possession of land measuring 14 marlas by way of preemption was decreed in his favour.

25. The plaintiff has led ample evidence to prove that the property in the hands of Satya Pal was coparcenary. The defendants have not rebutted the revenue entries proved by the plaintiff. Satya Pal has also purchased land through sale deed dated 29.11.1971 Ext. DW-1/A from one Sukho and by virtue of another sale deed dated 11.1.1967 Ext. DW-8/A from Smt. Hukmi vide sale deed Ext. P-2 dated 15.1.1969 executed by Ram Krishan and sale deed Ext. P-1 dated 15.1.1969 also by one Parshotam. There is no evidence on record even remotely to suggest that Satya Pal has individually kept separate land purchased by him on the basis of sale and preemption decrees. This property was thrown by him in common stock. The defendants have also not led any evidence that Satya Pal has any separate source of income and he invested funds to purchase the property. In the present case, the 'doctrine of blending' was attracted since Satya Pal has thrown his property into the common stock and the separate property has lost its significance and identity. It has become joint family property of the coparceners.

26. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Lakkireddi Chinna Venkata Reddi and ors. vs. Lakkireddi Lakshmama, reported in AIR 1963 SC 1601, have held that law relating to blending of separate property with joint family property is well settled. Property separate or self- acquired of a member of a joint Hindu family may be impressed with the character of joint family property if it is voluntarily thrown by the owner into the common stock with the intention of abandoning his separate claim therein but to establish such abandonment a clear intention to waive separate rights must be established. It has been held as follows:

> "9. Law relating to blending of separate property with joint family property is well settled. Property separate or self- acquired of a member of a joint Hindu family may be impressed with the character of joint family property if it is voluntarily thrown by the owner into the common stock with the intention of abandoning his separate claim therein but to establish such abandonment a clear intention to waive separate rights must be established. From the mere fact that other members of the family were allowed to use the property jointly with himself, or that the income of the separate property was utilised out of generosity to support persons whom the holder was not bound to support, or from the failure to maintain separate accounts, abandonment cannot be inferred, for an act of generosity or kindness will not ordinarily be regarded as an admission of a legal obligation. It is true that Butchi Tirupati who was one of the devisees under the will of Venkata Konda Reddy was a member of the joint family consisting of himself, his five brothers and his father Bala Konda. It is also true that there is no clear evidence as to how the property was dealt with, nor, as to the appropriation of the income thereof, But there is no evidence on the record to show that by any conscious art or exercise of volition Butchi Tirupati surrendered his interest in the property devised in his favour under the will of Venkata Konda Reddy so as to blend it with the joint family property. In the absence of any such evidence, the High Court was, in our judgment, right in holding that Lakshmama was entitled to a fourth share in the property devised under the will of Venkata Konda Reddy."

27. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of G.Narayana Raju (dead) by his legal representative vs. G. Chamaraju and others, reported in AIR 1968 SC 1276, have held that it is a well- established doctrine of Hindu law that property which was originally self-acquired may become joint property if it has been voluntarily thrown by the coparcener into the joint stock with the intention of abandoning all separate claims upon it. But the question whether the coparcener has done so or not is entirely a question of fact to be decided in the light of all the circumstances of the case. It must be established that there was a clear intention on the part of the copareener to waive his separate rights and such an intention will not be inferred merely from acts which may have been done, from kindness or affection. The important point to keep in mind, is that the separate property of a Hindu coparcener ceases to be his separate property and acquires the characteristics of his joint family or ancestral property, not by mere act of physical mixing with his joint family or ancestral property, but by his own volition and intention, by his waiving or surrendering his special right it as separate property. The intention can be gathered only from his words and acts and conduct. It has been held as follows:

> "6. We pass on to consider the alternative argument put forward on behalf of the appellant, namely, that even if the business of Ambika Stores was started as, a separate business of Muniswami Raju, it became converted at a subsequent stage into joint family business. It was argued on behalf of the appellant that the business of Ambika Stores was thrown by Muniswami Raju into the common stock with the intention of abandoning all separate claims to it and therefore the business of Ambika Stores lost its character of a separate property and was impressed with the character of joint family property. It is a well- established doctrine of Hindu law that property which was originally self-acquired may become joint property if it has been voluntarily thrown by the coparcener into the joint stock with the intention of abandoning all separate claims upon it. The doctrine has been repeatedly recognized by the Judicial Committee [See Hurpurshad v. Shea Dayal(1) and Lal Bahadur v. 'Kanhaiya Lal(-). But the question whether the coparcener has done so or not is entirely a question of fact to be decided in the light of all the circumstances of the case. It must be established that there was a clear intention on the part of the copareener to waive his separate rights and such an intention will not be inferred merely from acts which may have been done, from kindness or affection [See the decision in Lata Muddun Gopat v. Khikhinda Koer (3). For instance, in Naina Piltal v. Daiyanai (1) 3 I.A. 259. (2) 34 I. A. 65.(3) 18 I. A. 9.Ammal, (1) where in a series of documents, self-acquired property was described and dealt with as ancestral-joint family it was held by the Madras High Court that the mere dealing with self-acquisitions as joint family property was not sufficient but an intention of the coparcener must be shown to waive his claims with full knowledge of his right to it as his separate property. The important point to keep in mind, is that the separate property of a Hindu coparcener ceases to be his separate property and - acquires the characteristics of his joint family or ancestral property, not by mere act of physical mixing with his joint family or ancestral property, but by his own volition and intention, by his waiving or surrendering his special right it as separate prop". A man's intention can be discovered only from- his words or from his acts I and conduct. When his intention with regard to his separate property is not expressed in words, we must seek for it in his acts and conduct. But it is the intention that we must seek in every case, I the acts and conduct being no more than evidence of the intention. - In the present case, the High Court has examined the evidence adduced by the parties and has reached the conclusion that there was no intention on the part of Muniswami Raju to throw the separate business of Ambika Stores into the common stock, nor was it his intention to treat it as a joint family business. Counsel on behalf of the appellant referred to the recital, in Ex. E describing the properties being those of the executants and that the borrowings was for trade and benefit of the family and it was argued that there was a clear intention on the part of. Muniswaini Raju to treat the business as joint family business. We have already referred to this document and indicated that the recitals were probably made for the-purpose of securing a loan and cannot be construed as consent on the part of the members of the joint family to treat the business as the joint family business. Further, there is ample evidence to show that in all succeeding years before his death Muniswami Raju had always described himself and conducted himself as the sole proprietor of Ambika Stores, Such an attitude on the part of Muniswami Raju was not consistent with any intention on his part either to abandon his exclusive right to the business or to allow the business' to be treated as joint family business. Exhibits XXXV to XLVI are all documents executed by third parties in favour of Muniswami Raju in which Muniswami Raju has been described as the proprietor of Ambika Stores. Exhibits III, XXIII, XXIV, 51, 52, 56, 58, ZZ, AAA series and BBB -are all communications addressed by institutions like Banks etc., in which Muniswwni Raju has been described as the proprietor of Ambika Stores. It may be stated that the appellant himself has admitted in his evidence that he was not drawing any moneys from the business of Ambika Stores and that whenever he wanted any_money, he would ask Muniswami Raju and obtain (1) A.I.R. 1936 Mad .177.from him. If really the appellant had considered himself to be I co-owner equally with Muniswami Raju, such conduct on his part is not explicable. it was urged on behalf of the appellant that there was no documentary evidence to show that the appellant was being paid any salary 'Muniswami Raju, and that prior to Muniswami Raju's death, it was the appellant who was in the entire management of Ambike stores when Muniswami Raju was ill and after the death of Muniswami Raju also it was the appellant who had been in management. Al, the books of > account and other documents pertaining to the business of Ambika Stores had been admittedly entrusted to the appellant. But it is not explained on behalf of the appellant as to why the documents were not produced on his behalf to disprove the Case of the respondents that he was a salaried servant. It is therefore not unreasonable to draw an inference from the conduct of the appellant that the Account Books, if produced in court, would not have supported his case. We accordingly reject the argument of the appellant that the business of Ambika Stores became converted into joint family business at any subsequent stage by the conduct of Muniswami Raju in throwing the business into the common stock or in blending the earnings of the business with the joint family income."

28. Sh. Satya Pal has permitted his son to raise construction over the property. Satya Pal rather had no intention to keep self acquired property for individual purpose. Satya Pal had abandoned his individual rights in the property so purchased by him and the same, as discussed hereinabove, was put in joint stock. Since the property in the hands of Satya Pal was joint Hindu coparcenary property the inter se succession has to take place in accordance with Section 6 of the Hindu Succession Act. Section 6 of the Hindu Succession Act reads as under:

> "6. Devolution of interest of coparcenary property. – When a male Hindus dies after the commencement of this Act, having at the time of his death an interest in a Mitakshara coparcenary property, his interest in the property shall devolve by survivorship upon the surviving members of the coparcenary and not in accordance with this Act:"

29. The property will devolve upon the members of the coparcenary property by way of survivorship on surviving members of coparcenary and not by succession. In the present case, only Section 6 is attracted and not Section 8 of the Hindu Succession Act, as argued by Mr. Bhupender Gupta, Sr. Advocate.

30. The rule of survivorship applies to joint family property while the rule of succession applies to property held in absolute severally by the last owner. It is reiterated that Mehtaba was common male ancestor of the parties as per the revenue record. He was shown in exclusive ownership and possession of the suit land. The case of the plaintiff specifically was that the property was purchased by his father from the funds contributed by him. This plea has remained unrebutted. The defendants have not led any conclusive evidence that Satya Pal was living separately from his sons. The suit land was joint Hindu coparcenary property and not self acquired property of Satya Pal. There is also merit in the contention of Mr. K.D.Sood, Sr. Advocate that there was no need for Satya Pal to sell the land to Champa Devi on 13.2.1989. Champa Devi has not entered into the witness box to depose about the legal necessity. According to the plaintiff, there was no need for Satya Pal to sell the land. The plaintiff has raised the construction over Kh. Nos. 2259 and 2263. He has raised the construction in the year 1979. The water and electricity connections have been sanctioned in his favour. Defendant Dev Raj has admitted that electricity and water connections in the house in dispute were in the name of plaintiff. The mason and labourers have supported his case. He has placed on record the copies of bills of cement and bricks etc. There is no evidence on record to prove that during his life time the father of the plaintiff, Satya Pal raised any objection to the construction raised by the plaintiff. Even, defendant No. 2 has not raised any objection when the plaintiff raised construction in the year 1990. Thus, the sale deed entered into between Satya Pal and Champa Devi was without any legal necessity.

31. It was for the defendants to prove that the land purchased by Satya Pal through preemption decrees was kept separate from the joint holding. It cannot be conclusively proved from the evidence led and conduct of Satya Pal that he had no intention to keep the property purchased by him and by way of preemption decrees as separate. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

32. Consequently, there is no merit in this appeal and the same is dismissed, so also the pending application(s), if any.

(Para-18 to 21)

For the appellant: Mr. P.M.Negi, Dy. AG.
For the respondent: Mr. N.K.Thakur, Sr. Advocate, with Ms. Jamuna Kumari, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This appeal is instituted against the judgment dated 20.10.2012, rendered by the learned Special Judge, Fast Track Court, Una, H.P., in Sessions case No. 13-VII-2011, whereby the respondent-accused (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who was charged with and tried for offence punishable under Section 15 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the ND & PS Act), has been acquitted.

2. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that on 1.6.2011, police party headed by HC Sanjay Kumar, I.O. SIU, Una along with ASI Kuldeep Singh, HC Prem Singh, HHC Dharam Pal and others was on patrolling duty at Palkwah chowk at around 4:15 PM. HC Sanjay Kumar received secret information about the indulgence of the accused in illegal business of selling poppy straw in his tea-stall/Khokha at village Thakran. HC Sanjay Kumar prepared rukka Ext. PW-1/A and sent the same to PS Haroli through PW-1 Const. Ram Gopal, on the basis of which FIR Ext. PW-15/A was registered. Credible information report Ext. PW-3/A was prepared and sent through HHC Dharam Pal to Superintendent of Police, Una. The police team reached at village Thakran and local witnesses Surjeet Singh, Niranjan Kaur and Sushma were called. The I.O. formed the raiding party and the search of the Khokha was carried out. During search, one pink coloured polythene envelope lying underneath Almirah was recovered. The packet was opened and it was found to be poppy straw. It weighed 2.250 Kgs, including the weight of the packet. The same was wrapped in a cloth parcel and sealed with impression "J" at distinct places. IO also filled in column Nos. 1 to 8 of the NCB form in triplicate and affixed three seal impressions on the form. The I.O. took sample seal impression Ext. PW-4/B on separate piece of cloth and seal after use was handed over to witness PW-5 Niranjan Kaur. The I.O. took the case property into possession vide memo Ext. PW-4/A. He also prepared the site plan. The case property was produced before PW-15 SHO Shakti Singh at Police Station, Haroli who resealed the same with three seals of impression "T" and filled in relevant columns of the NCB form and deposited the same with the MHC. The Khokha was got demarcated. The investigation was completed and the challan was put up before the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as seventeen witnesses. The accused was also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. According to him, he was falsely implicated. He also examined two witnesses in defence. The learned trial Court acquitted the accused, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. P.M.Negi, Dy. AG has vehemently argued that the prosecution has proved its case against the accused. On the other hand, Mr. Naresh Thakur, Sr. Advocate, has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 20.10.2012.

5. We have heard the learned counsel for both the sides and have also gone through the judgment and records of the case carefully.

6. PW-1 Const. Ram Gopal, deposed that at around 4:15 PM on 1.6.2011, HC Sanjay Kumar received secret information which was reduced into writing and sent to the Police Station through him. He handed over the rukka Ext. PW-1/A at Police Station, Haroli and FIR was registered. In his cross-examination, he admitted that Palkwah chowk is busy and many shops are situated at the spot.

7. PW-2 Sushma Devi deposed that in the month of June, 2011, one Surjit Singh came to her house and told that her presence was required by S.I. Pathania in connection with search of Khokha of accused. She went to the spot where the police party was present and one polythene bag was in the hands of one police official. No search was conducted in her presence. She was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In her cross-examination, she denied the suggestion that she was called by Ward Panch, Niranjan Kaur. She denied that police officials gave their personal search to the accused in her presence. She admitted that memo Ext. PW-2/A was prepared at the spot. Volunteered that the IO had not read over the contents of the memo to her. She was made to sign on the memo by SI/SHO Pathania believing him, she had signed the same. She denied portion A to A and B to B of her statement Mark-B. In her cross-examination by the learned defence counsel, she deposed that the Khokha of the accused was not situated in the land owned by the accused. The police party was consisting of 10-12 persons. The mother of the accused as well as his brother used to sit in the Khokha. The accused was called from his house to the Khokha. His house was at a distance of around 100 meters from Khokha.

8. PW-3 HHC Dharam Pal testified that on 1.6.2011 at around 4:15 PM, he along with the police party was present at Palkwah chowk. HC Sanjay Kumar received secret information which was reduced into writing and sent through Const. Ram Gopal to the Police Station for registration of a case. Reasons of belief under Section 42-1 (2) of ND & PS Act were handed over to him to be given to S.P. Una. He delivered the same at 6:00 PM at SP Office, Una vide Ext. PW-3/A.

9. PW-4 HHC Ashwani Kumar, deposed that on 1.6.2011 at around 4:15 PM, he along with ASI Kuldeep and other police officials was on patrolling duty in official vehicle. HC Sanjay Kumar received secret information which was reduced into writing. He prepared rukka Ext. PW-1/A and sent it through Const. Ram Gopal to Police Station, Reasons of belief under Section 42-1(2) of ND & PS Act were handed over to Dharam Pal. AT about 4:50 PM, the police party reached at village Thakran. The I.O. deputed him to bring public witnesses and he brought Smt. Niranjan Kaur, Sushma and Surjeet Singh. They went to the shop of the accused and apprised him about the reason of search of his shop. The Khokha of the accused was searched leading to recovery of one polythene bag beneath the steel almirah lying in the shop. On opening the same, poppy straw was found. It weighed 2 kg.200 grams. The recovered poppy straw was wrapped in a cloth parcel and sealed with seal impression "J". He also clicked the photographs. In his cross-examination, he deposed that there were two shops in front of the shop of the accused. One shop was open and people were sitting in the shop of Surjeet Singh. Surjeet Singh was also present in his shop. He did not go inside the shop/khokha of the accused. They left the spot at 8:00 PM.

10. PW-5 Niranjan Kaur testified that she was Ward Panch of village Palkwah, Majra Thakran. She was called by the police. When she reached on the spot, she saw the police party having one polythene carry bag. Nothing was recovered from the shop of the accused in her presence. She was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In her cross-examination she admitted that on 1.6.2011 at about 5:00 PM, she was called by the police to the shop of accused where Surjeet Singh and Sushma had come later on. She denied that the police informed them that it had information that accused had kept poppy husk in his Khokha. She denied that police gave personal search to accused. She admitted that rukka Ext. PW-1/A was prepared at the spot and she signed the same. She denied that the police searched the shop of the accused and a polythene bag containing poppy straw was found beneath steel almirah in the khokha/shop of the accused, though she admitted that the contraband weighed 2 kg. 250 grams. Volunteered that the bag was with the police. She also admitted that the polythene bag was wrapped in a cloth parcel and sealed. The police has obtained her signatures on Ext. PW-4/A as well as PW-4/B and parcel Ext. P-1.

11. PW-6 Surjeet Singh deposed that he used to sit in his father's shop at village Thakran. The police called him. Sanjay Sharma, asked him to call Sushma Devi and he accordingly brought her to the spot. No poppy straw was recovered in his presence from the shop of the accused. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. He denied the suggestion that the police told him that they have to search shop of accused on the suspicion that he possessed poppy husk. He admitted his signatures on Ext. PW-2/A. Volunteered that it was prepared later on. The poppy husk was weighed. He admitted his signatures on memos Ext. PW-4/A, PW-2/A and Ext. P-1. In his cross-examination by the learned defence counsel, he deposed that mother and brother of accused also used to sit in Khokha of the accused.

12. PW-7 ASI Kuldeep Singh also deposed the manner in which secret information was received by HC Sanjay Kumar. On this information, HC Sanjay Kumar prepared rukka and also recorded reasons of belief. The same were sent through HHC Dharam Pal to Superintendent of Police, Una. They reached at village Thakuran near Water tank. The shop of the accused was searched. One polythene bag was recovered from below the Godrej almirah. It contained poppy husk. It weighed 2.250 Kgs. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot, including filling up of NCB forms etc. In his cross-examination, he admitted that there is one shop near water tank.

13. PW-9 Satpal Singh, Kanungo deposed that he along with Halqa Patwari Sunil Kumar on the directions of Tehsildar visited the spot at village Thakran, Tehsil Haroli, Distt Una and demarcated the land comprised in Kh. No. 416, in which Khokha was constructed. According to the revenue record, Gram Panchayat Palkwah was recorded as owner in the column of possession. Entry of "Bartan Aam" was recorded. A tea stall was found on the spot run by a lady at that time. The local persons present on the spot informed them that Khokha belonged to the accused. The police officials identified the spot. He prepared demarcation report on the spot vide Ext. PW-9/A. In his cross-examination, he admitted that he did not record the separate statements of the local persons to the effect that Khokha was constructed by the accused.

14. PW-12 Const. Gurbax had gone to FSL to deposit the case property and other documents in FIR No. 157/11. On 28.6.2011, he collected the sealed parcel of result in case FIR No. 126 (present case).

15. PW-14 HC Vipan Kumar deposed that he remained posted as MHC at PS Haroli w.e.f. July, 2009 to August, 2011. On 1.6.2011, SI Shakti Singh Pathania deposited with him one cloth parcel containing 2 kg. 250 grams of poppy husk duly sealed with seals "J" and "T" along with sample seals "J" and "T", NCB form etc. He entered the same at Sr. No. 605/11 vide Ext. PW-14/A in the register. On 3.6.2011, he handed over the case property to HHC Dharam Pal vide RC No. 163/11. He also filled in relevant columns of the NCB form vide Ext. PW-14/C. HHC Dharam Pal after depositing the case property handed over the RC to him.

16. PW- 15 SI Shakti Singh Pathania deposed that on 1.6.2011 HC Sanjay Kumar and Const. Ram Gopal came at Police Station, Haroli in a private vehicle and regarding this rapat vide Ext. PW-11/A was entered in the daily diary. On the same day at around 5:00 PM, he received rukka Ext. PW-1/A. On the same day at 8:15 PM, HC Sanjay Kumar handed over the case property to him. He resealed the same with seal "T" at three places and also filled in relevant columns of NCB form. He also obtained seal impression on the NCB form and handed over the case property to the MHC, Police Station Haroli for further action.

17. PW-16 HC Sanjay Kumar deposed that he was posted as I.O., SIU Una. On 1.6.2011, he along with Const. Ram Gopal was in his car on patrolling duty. He asked SHO to provide some additional force for patrolling in the area about Narcotic drugs on which SHO provided ASI Kuldeep Singh, HC Prem Singhy, HHC Ashwani Kumar, HHC Dharam Pal, Const. Sanjay Kumar, HHG P.C. Vijay Kumar, etc. At 4:15 PM, they reached at Palkwah chowk. He received secret information about the indulgence of accused in narcotics. He was selling poppy husk illegally to the customers. No time was left to seek search warrant as there was apprehension that the accused would liquidate the contraband from his tea stall. The information was well founded. He scribed rukka Ext. PW-1/A and sent the same to the Police Station, Haroli and FIR Ext. PW-15/A was registered. He along with other police officials reached at village Thakran. The raiding party was constituted. The Khokha of accused was searched in the presence of accused leading to recovery of one polythene packet. It contained poppy husk. It weighed 2.250 Kgs. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot. The application Ext. PW-16/E was moved before the Tehsildar for demarcation of the Khokha. On 18.7.2011, Kanungo had demarcated the Khokha of the accused and report is Ext. PW-9/A. In his cross-examination, he admitted that there was abadi and shops near the spot.

18. The independent witnesses, namely, PW-2 Sushma Devi, PW-5 Niranjan Kaur and PW-6 Surjeet Singh have not supported the case of the prosecution except to the extent that they have appended their signatures on various documents.

19. According to PW-2 Sushma Devi when she went to the spot, the police party was present and one polythene bag was in the hands of one police official. No search was conducted in her presence. In her cross-examination, she admitted that the mother of the accused as well as his brother used to sit in the Khokha. The accused was called from his house to the Khokha. His house was at a distance of around 100 meters from the Khokha. PW-5 Niranjan Kaur deposed that she was called by the police. When she reached at the spot, she saw the police party having one polythene carry bag. Nothing was recovered from the shop of the accused in her presence. She was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In her cross-examination she denied the suggestion that the police searched the shop of the accused and a polythene bag containing poppy straw was found beneath steel almirah in the Khokha/shop of the accused. PW-6 Surjeet Singh deposed that no poppy straw was recovered in his presence from the shop of the accused. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination by the learned defence counsel, he deposed that the mother and brother of the accused also used to sit in Khokha of the accused.

20. The case of the prosecution is that the Khokha of the accused was searched in the presence of PW-2 Sushma Devi, PW-5 Niranjan Kaur and PW-6 Surjeet Singh, but they have denied that contraband was recovered from the khokha in their presence. Rather, PW-2 Sushma Devi and PW-5 Niranjan Kaur deposed that when they reached at the spot, the polythene bag was already in the hands of the police officials.

21. PW-9 Satpal Singh, Kanungo, as noticed hereinabove, has undertaken the demarcation of the Khokha/shop in question. According to him, entry of "Bartan Aam" was recorded. A tea stall was found on the spot run by a lady at that time. However, in his cross-examination, he admitted that he did not record the separate statements of the local persons to the effect that Khokha was constructed by the accused. PW-4 HHC Ashwani Kumar, deposed that the photographs were taken from outside the shop/Khokha. He did not go inside the Khokha. HC Sanjay Kumar had entered the Khokha of accused and he remained standing at the door. The investigation should have been carried by PW-7 ASI Kuldeep Singh who was superior to HC Sanjay Kumar. The prosecution has failed to prove that the accused was found in exclusive possession of the contraband inside his shop. The prosecution has also not proved that the Khokha belonged to the accused from where the alleged recovery was effected. The independent witnesses, as noticed hereinabove, have not supported the case of the prosecution. There were shops around the place where the alleged recovery was made, however, no independent witnesses were associated.

22. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt and there is no occasion for us to interfere with the well reasoned judgment of the learned trial Court dated 20.10.2012.

23. Accordingly, there is no merit in this appeal and the same is dismissed.

Cases referred:

K. Prakashan vs. P.K. Surenderan (2008) 1 SCC 258
T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2006) 1 SCC 401

For the appellant : Mr. Parmod Thakur, Additional Advocate General.
For the respondent : Mr. Lovneesh Kanwar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present appeal is maintained by the appellant-State of Himachal Pradesh against the judgment of acquittal of the accused in a case under Sections 409, 420, 467, 468 and 471 of the Indian Penal Code, passed by the learned Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Chamba, District Chamba, dated 17.12.2009, in Criminal Case No.429-I/05/2000/187-II/05/2000.

2. Briefly stating the facts giving rise to the present appeal are that accused/respondent (hereinafter referred to as accused) was working as Sub Inspector in Food and Civil Supply Office Chamba, District Chamba. On 2.6.1984, the accused was entrusted to control the charge of Tundah, Durgathi and Runukothi Food grains godown in District Chamba. As per the prosecution story, charge was duly handed over to the accused and had received the balance wheat which was lying in the said godown of department pertaining to the year 1984-85. Charge of godown of Tundah was handed over to the accused on 8.6.1984 by Shri Rakesh Kumar, Inspector Food and Civil Supply department at Holi. At the time of receiving the charge on 8.6.1984, there was 117 Qt. 79 K.G 500 grams wheat in the stock, in the godown of Tundah. In the intervening period 6/84 to 3/85, the accused had received 411 Qt. 44 K.G wheat for selling and distributing, therefore, total 529 Qt. 23 K.G 500 grams wheat was in the stock upto said period. Out of entire stock, 404 Qt. wheat was sold by accused upto 31.3.1985 and found that 125 Qt. 23 K.G 500 grams wheat was lying in the stock. As per entry, in the stock for the financial year 1985-86, 125 Qt. 23 K.G 500 grams wheat was in the balance of the said godown and accused received 340 Qt. 25 K.G 500 grams wheat in the said godown. On physical checking, an excess wheat of 16 K.G 500 gram was found in the stock of said godown. Therefore, in the stock total balance of wheat was 465 Qt. 68 K.G 500 grams. Out of said stock, accused had sold 440 Qt. plus 15 Qt. i.e. total 555 Qt. wheat and was left with 10 Qt. 68 K.G 500 grams wheat on 31.3.1986, as per the entries in the stock register.

3. Further the case of the prosecution is that on 6.3.1986, the accused received 420 Qt. 60 K.G. 500 grams wheat from Contractor, Ram Krishan, who was deployed by the department to carry the wheat and hand over to the said godown. After receiving the same 420 Qt. 60 K.G 500 grams wheat by the accused, he did not enter the same in the stock register and as per entry in the stock register on 31.3.1986, he had shown only 10 Qt. 68 K.G. 500 grams wheat in his stock. In the year 1986-87, after showing the wrong balance of 10 Qt. 68 K.G 500 grams wheat, on 3.6.1986 received 178 Qt. 67 K.G wheat from Shri Rishi Ram, Contractor, deployed by the department to carry and hand over the wheat to the accused. After receiving the wheat accused issued the receipt of receival to said Contractor on 16.12.1986. The accused, instead of entering 178 Qt. 67 K.G. wheat in the stock register, intentionally with object to cheat the department, entered 40 Qt. wheat in the stock register and remaining 138 Qt. 67 K.G. wheat was misappropriated by him. The value of the said wheat was Rs.260/- per Qt., on calculating at this rate, it comes out to Rs.36,054.20/- and the said amount is alleged to be misappropriated by the accused. It is alleged that in the stock register, the accused had wrongly mentioned 50 Qt. 68 K.G 500 grams wheat as a balance lying with him at Tundah godown, out of which, he had sold/distributed 20 Qt. wheat and as per balance on 31.5.1986, 30 Qt. 68 K.G 500, was lying balance in the said register. As per voucher No.2, dated 23.6.1986, Rs.2100/-, sale proceed of 15 Qt. wheat was deposited by the accused, which amount was less then actual sale proceed of said 15 Qt. of wheat and Rs.336/- were misappropriated by the accused. As per the stock 15 Qt. 68 K.G 500 grams wheat was lying in the godown of Tundah to which the accused deployed by the department, but on 5.6.1986, at the time of giving charge, vide letter No.FDS(B)-2-ESTT-86/3617-19 dated 4.6.1986, there was zero stock which was handed over by the accused to Mohinder Singh, Inspector Food and Civil Supply Department, Bharmour. The accused has misappropriated 15 Qt. 68 K.G. 500 grams wheat, which on calculating at the rate of Rs.260/- per Qt, comes out to Rs.4,078.10/- and the said amount was also misappropriated by the accused in the year 1986 relating to Tundah godown. It is further alleged that during the year 1984 to 1986, accused misappropriated the wheat and its sale proceed. Accused had received 420 Qt. 60 K.G 500 grams wheat at the rate of `264.25/- per Qt. from contractor Ram Krishan which he had misappropriated, which on calculating comes out to Rs.1,11,144.85/-. Similarly, the accused had received 138 Qt. 67 K.G wheat from Rishi Ram, contractor, the value of the said wheat was Rs.260/- per Qt, on calculating the said wheat, the sale proceed thereof comes out to Rs.36,054.20/- and accused misappropriated the said amount. Accused deposited the sale proceed of 15 Qt. wheat in treasury, vide voucher No.2 dated 2.7.1986, which is `336/- less than the actual sale price and the said amount has been misappropriated by him. Further, 15 Qt. 68 K.G 500 gram was found less at the time of handing over the charge to Mohinder Chand, value of the said wheat was Rs.260/- per Qt. which comes to Rs.4,078.10/- and the said amount had been misappropriated by the accused. Further, during the period from 6/1984 to 6/1986 the accused had misappropriated 574 Qt. 96 K.G wheat from Tundah godown whose sale proceed was Rs.1,51,613.15/-. Therefore, case of the prosecution is that the accused has misappropriated a sum of Rs.1,51,613.15/- and has committed the offences punishable under Sections 409, 420, 467, 468 and 471 of the Indian Penal Code.

4. The prosecution in order to prove its case has examined as many as 22 witnesses. Statement of the accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C, wherein he has denied the prosecution case and claimed innocence. No defence evidence was led by the accused.

5. We have heard learned Additional Advocate General for the appellant/State and learned defence counsel for the respondent/accused.

6. To appreciate the arguments of learned Additional Advocate General and learned defence counsel, this Court has gone through the record in detail and has minutely scrutinized the statements of the prosecution witnesses.

7. PW-1, Rattan Chand, has deposed that accused was deployed to the godown of Runukothi, Durgathi and Tundah, belonging to Food and Civil Supply Department and the said godowns were mainly received wheat from District Chamba godown. As per the version of complainant, he found that, in stock the accused had shown less wheat in comparison to actual wheat supplied to him to which he verbally could not give the details. In examination-in-chief, the deposition of this witness Rattan Chand/PW-1 appears to be on verbal entrustment of the wheat and he failed to depose, in fact, how much wheat was supplied to the said accused during his tenure as Incharge, in the said godowns. He has stated that the accused misappropriated the sale proceed and the wheat, due to this fact, he lodged an FIR by writing a complainant Ex.PW1/A. In written complaint, it was alleged that time to time the accused had misappropriated the wheat, but while appearing as a witness, he did not support any word to show the entrustment of the wheat. Case of the prosecution as well as complainant depends upon the stock register, but the said register was not produced by the prosecution on record. In absence of such register and its entries, it cannot be held as to how much wheat was entrusted to the accused and in what manner he wrongly maintained the false record in his office. In his cross-examination, he admitted that he could not tell that how much wheat was supplied to the accused and for which period. He has further admitted that the wheat which was supplied from Chamba Office has been entered in the stock register at Chamba and after the supply of said food grains, it has to be entered in the stock register of the receiving depot. After going through the entire case of the prosecution, as the record of stock register of Chamba or alleged depots were not produced, gives inference that prosecution has failed to prove as to how much wheat was actually supplied to the accused from time to time from main depot at Chamba to godowns, to which the accused was deployed. In his cross-examination, PW-1 has admitted that all the godowns were under his control, but personally, he did not check any godowns. In absence of any checking of the godown by PW-1, it cannot be held that this witness has deposed rightly to the stock issued from Chamba to godown, where the accused was posted. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that he had not seen any stock register.

8. PW-12 Mohinder Chand, in examination-in-chief, has deposed that on 4.6.1986, on the written instructions of District Food & Supplies Controller, he and Krishan Dev/PW-22 went to take the charge of godowns those had to be physically verified by Krishan Dev/PW-22, as per stock register maintained by the accused. He has stated that as per stock register of Durgathi godown, on 5.6.1986, 40 Qt. 51 K.G 500 grams wheat was shown as balance. In the entire examination-in-chief, he does not support the case of prosecution, as per complaint Ex.PW1/A. He simply stated that on the spot, 1 Qt. 51 K.G 500 grams wheat was found missing and thereafter Shri Krishan Dev physically verified the stock register and prepared the report. He has stated that Krishan Dev by his writing passed the order in the register for less stock of wheat as the accused had not deposited the sale proceed thereof. After going through the entire examination-in-chief, it is found that he has failed to depose as to how much stock was less in each godowns. In examination-in-chief, he has stated that the accused was given the charge of all the stocks at one time. Again deposed that on 7.6.1986, they returned and requested the accused to give charge of Tundah, but he has stated that he would give the charge after two holidays and went again to Durgathi depot on 10.6.1986, but the accused did not appear despite having been waited for. While going through such examination-in-chief, it is not clear how the prosecution connects the accused with the alleged entrustment of wheat as per story of the prosecution. This witness in examination-in-chief categorically admitted that copies of the stock register were not placed on record. He was unable to tell whether the sale proceed of 39 Qt. wheat was deposited by the accused or not and admitted that he did not lodge the FIR. Statement of PW-12/Mahinder Chand, is not convincing to convict the accused for the offence of breach of trust or cheating as he did not disclose the actual act of entrustment or misappropriation. This witness, on the one hand, stated the case of department and on the other hand, failed to disclose the actual stock. He has admitted that stock register was not produced, but he had seen it. It was the duty of the prosecution to prove entrustment, but while going through the entire deposition of PW-5/Madan Lal, there is nothing by which it can be held as to how much wheat from time to time was entrusted to the accused, out of which the accused had misappropriated.

9. PW-18/Krishan Dev, in examination-in-chief, has stated that he went to see the stock of godowns of village Durgathi, Tundah and Runukothi. He has stated that he was ordered to hand over the charge of said godown to witness Mahinder Chand/PW-12 and Satya Prakash/PW-8. In compliance of the order passed by District Food & Supplies Controller, Chamba, dated 5.6.1986, he verified the stock of Durgathi godown in the presence of the accused and as per actual stock on 5.6.1986, opening balance of wheat was 40 Qt. 51 K.G 500 grams, out of which 39 Qt. was sold to depot holders and on the spot, he found 1 Qt. 51 K.G 500 grams wheat was lying. In absence of documentary record, prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused with the help of the statement of Krishan Dev. In further examination-in-chief, he has stated that on 7.6.1986, he directed the accused and Satya Prakash to show the accounts of Runukothi godown due to the reason that the accused, in his statement, has shown zero balance in the said godown. He has stated that thereafter the accused was told to show the stock of godown at Tundah on 8.6.1986, but he refused by stating that 8th and 9th June, 1986 were holidays. The accused was asked to accompany them to Tunda on 10.6.1986, but he did not come back after holidays. So, on 28.10.1986, in the absence of the accused, Mahinder Chand went to Tundah godown and verified the stock. He has stated that there should have been 30 Qt. 7 K.G wheat in the balance of stock register, but physically there was Nil wheat at the said godown. The entire examination-in-chief does not disclose how much wheat from time to time was received by the accused and how it was distributed. This witness did not depose that he had actually verified the stock register and admitted that the said stock register was not produced before the learned Court, so it is not clear how much wheat was actually entrusted to the accused from main godown Chamba for the godowns managed by the accused. This witness, in cross-examination, categorically admitted that he did not see the actual stock register. He has failed to depose whether District Food & Supplies Controller, was also suspended due to this wheat scam or not. He has admitted that he did not depose before the police that the accused has misappropriated the wheat or its sale proceed and admitted that he cannot tell how the accused had misappropriated the wheat in the said scam. He has stated that verification report to District Food & Supplies Controller, Chamba, was not shown to him at the time of his statement. So, the prosecution has failed to prove the necessary entrustment to the accused or as to how much actual wheat was possessed by the accused in the godowns of Durgathi, Tundah and Runukothi. Statement of PW-18/Krishan Dev is not convincing, so, it can be held that the accused had misappropriated the wheat of Food and Civil Supply Department.

10. The deposition of PW-1/Rattan Chand, PW-12/Mahinder Chand and PW-18/Krishan Dev, are not convincing and so prosecution has failed to prove the entrustment of the wheat and has failed to prove the actual stock. The prosecution has failed to prove the alleged misappropriation of wheat and preparation of forged record by the accused to commit the offence of cheating. It is upon the prosecution to prove the actual entrustment and its distribution by the help of stock register. Therefore, the accused is entitled to get the benefit of doubt and accordingly, benefit of doubt is granted to the accused. It is apparent from the perusal of record that neither the stock register was produced nor it was taken into possession by the prosecution for the reason best known to it.

11. PW-7/Surinder Kumar has admitted in his cross-examination that the said documents narrated in Ex.PW7/A, are photocopies and the originals were not found in the case file. The statement of this witness does not give any help to the prosecution to prove the alleged act of entrustment and further, the prosecution has failed to produce the original record.

12. The net result of the above discussion is that neither the entrustment of the wheat to the accused nor the act of deceiving any person by the accused is proved on record beyond reasonable doubt.

13. It has been held in K. Prakashan vs. P.K. Surenderan (2008) 1 SCC 258, that when two views are possible, appellate Court should not reverse the judgment of acquittal merely because the other view was possible. When judgment of trial Court was neither perverse, nor suffered from any legal infirmity or non consideration/misappreciation of evidence on record, reversal thereof by High Court was not justified.

14. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2006) 1 SCC 401, has held that where two views are reasonably possible from the very same evidence, prosecution cannot be said to have proved its case beyond reasonable doubt.

15. In view of the aforesaid decisions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and discussion made above, I find no merit in this appeal and the same is accordingly dismissed. Bail bonds of accused are discharged.

Cr. Appeal No. 4099/2013
Decided on: July 4, 2016

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 363, 366 and 376- Prosecutrix went to Sundernagar but did not return- she was recovered from Tanda along with accused- accused was arrested – it was found on investigation that accused had taken away the prosecutrix with the promise to marry her and had sexual intercourse with her against her wishes- accused was tried and acquitted by the trial Court- held, in appeal that prosecutrix had admitted that she had not raised any alarm at Sundernagar Bus Stand or at Chandigarh Bus Stand- her date of birth is shown to be 4.6.1993 and her age was more than 17 years as per ossification test- it was not proved on what basis her date of birth was recorded- her age was more than 18-19 years at the time of incident- prosecutrix had numerous opportunities to raise alarm or to escape- injuries were not noticed on her person- in these circumstances, prosecution version was doubtful and accused was rightly acquitted- appeal dismissed. (Para-16 and 17)

For the appellant : Mr. P.M. Negi, Deputy Advocate General.
For the Respondent : Mr. Harish Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Rajiv Sharma, Judge:

The present appeal has been filed by the State against Judgment dated 22.3.2013 rendered by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Mandi, District Mandi, HP, in Sessions Trial No. 12 of 2009, whereby respondent-accused (hereinafter referred to as 'accused' for convenience sake), who was charged with and tried for offences under Sections 363, 366 and 376 IPC, has been acquitted.

2. Case of the prosecution, in a nutshell, is that on 8.8.2009, Ghinder Singh reported the matter to the police on the basis of which an FIR No. 224/2009 was registered for offences under Sections 363, 366 and 376 IPC against accused on the allegations that his daughter (prosecutrix) aged 17 years, on 5.8.2009, at about 6.30 AM had gone to Sundernagar from home but has not returned to the home in the evening. He searched for his daughter at all possible places but she was not found. He suspected that she had been taken away by the accused with him forcibly for the purpose of marriage. Prosecutrix was recovered during the investigation from Tanda alongwith accused. Her medical examination was conducted. Her clothes, vaginal slides etc. were sent for chemical examination. Opinion of the Medical Officer was obtained. Accused was arrested. His medical examination was got conducted. Statements of the witnesses were recorded. Birth certificate of the prosecutrix was also obtained alongwith copy of parivar register. During investigation, it has come on record that on 5.8.2009, accused forcibly took away the prosecutrix with him to Chandigarh with the promise to marry and had sexual intercourse with her against her wishes. Investigation was completed. Challan was put in the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. Prosecution has examined as many as eleven witnesses to prove its case against the accused. Accused was also examined under Section 313 CrPC. He pleaded innocence. Trial Court acquitted the accused as noticed above. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. P.M. Negi, Deputy Advocate General has vehemently argued that the prosecution has proved its case against the accused person.

5. Mr. Harish Sharma, Advocate, has supported the judgment dated 22.3.2013.

6. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the judgment and record carefully.

7. Ghinder (PW-1) testified that he was a vegetable vendor. Prosecutrix was his daughter. She was found missing from the home on 5.8.2009 in the morning time. He searched for her on 5.8.2009 till evening time. After two days, he came to know that his daughter had been taken away by the accused to Punjab. On 8.8.2009, he got FIR lodged with PS Sundernagar vide Ext. PW-1/A. Prosecutrix told him that she was forcibly taken away by the accused.

8. Prosecutrix (name withheld) deposed that the accused was working at Chai Ka Dora since one year and was known to her. He used to ask her to marry him. She refused to him and told that without the consent of her parents she would not marry him. Accused insisted her to marry him. On 5.8.2009, she was away from her home to Sundernagar where accused met her and asked to marry him. He had come to take her. She again refused for marriage without the consent of her parents. He forcibly made her to sit in the bus and took her to Chandigarh. At Chandigarh, accused took her to the house of his sister who was married. They stayed there for one day. On next day, accused took her to the house of his another sister at Tanda (Punjab). Accused committed sexual intercourse with her forcibly and without her consent despite her refusing not to perform sexual intercourse before marriage. They were alone in the room. Police took them from Tanda to Police Station, Sundernagar. Her medical examination was got done. Her clothes were taken into possession. In her cross-examination, she admitted that on 5.8.2009 she went to Sundernagar of her own. She admitted that so many people were present at Sundernagar Bus Stand. She did not raise any alarm. There were a number of passengers in the bus. Bus stopped on the way. She did not raise any alarm there. At Chandigarh also, many persons were present including police officials. She has also not raised any alarm there. She has not tried to escape.

9. Ramesh Kumar (PW-3) testified that the prosecutrix was his sister-in-law. She was taken by the accused to Punjab. Prosecutrix told him that she was forcibly taken away by the accused to Punjab. Nothing more was told to him by the prosecutrix. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. He denied the suggestion that the prosecutrix told him that the accused used to work at Chai Ka Dora in the house of Lal Singh and asked her to marry him. He also denied the suggestion that the clothes were taken into possession in his presence. He has signed Ext. PW-2/A. He also denied portions marked 'B' to 'B' and 'C' to 'C' of his statement mark 'Z'.

10. Leela Devi (PW-4) testified that the prosecutrix was her daughter. She did not come back home in the evening. They tried to search for her. She was not found. Later on she was traced in Punjab. She suspected that her daughter was taken away by Naresh and Bittu but she was taken away by the accused to marry her. Accused was not known to her. She was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor.

11. Ramesh Kumar (PW-5) deposed that he prepared date of birth certificate Ext. PW-5/A of the prosecutrix as was demanded by the police. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that there was no certificate about the pagination of the register. It was not mentioned in the register on what basis date of birth was entered.

12. Hans Raj (PW-6) deposed that he was working as a Secretary, Gram Panchayat, Tihri. He prepared the birth certificate of the prosecutrix Ext. PW-6/A. Date of birth of the prosecutrix was 4.6.1993. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that the date of birth register is stitched with thread and is not properly bound. He admitted that there was no certificate on the register about number of pages. Entry was made as per order of SDM and as informed by the father of the prosecutrix. Order of the SDM was on record.

13. Dr. Hemender Mahajan (PW-9) examined the accused. He issued MLC Ext. PW-9/B.

14. Dr. Anupma Sharma (PW-10) examined the prosecutrix. She issued MLC Ext. PW-10/A.

15. ASI Surender Kumar (PW-11) deposed that he recorded the statement of the prosecutrix. She was medically examined. Accused was also medically examined. Site map was prepared. Case property was taken into possession. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that the call details of the prosecutrix were not obtained because she told that she was not having any mobile phone.

16. Prosecutrix has deposed that she had gone to Sundernagar. Accused met her. He insisted to marry her. She told him that she would not marry him without the consent of her parents. Accused took her to Chandigarh and thereafter from Chandigarh to Tanda. Prosecutrix has admitted, in her cross-examination, that many people were present at Sundernagar Bus Stand. She has not raised any alarm. She has not raised any alarm at Chandigarh Bus stand and also when she travelled from Chandigarh to Tanda. It has come in the statement of the father of prosecutrix, PW-1 that Tanda was thickly populated. People were present there. Date of birth of the prosecutrix has been shown to be 4.6.1993 in Ext. PW-5/A and Ext. PW-6/A. According to MLC Ext. PW-10/A, as per ossification test, age of the prosecutrix was more than seventeen years. PW-5 Ramesh Kumar and PW-6 Hans Raj, have not deposed that on what basis, the date of birth of the prosecutrix was entered. Learned trial Court has rightly come to the conclusion that the age of the prosecutrix was 18-19 years at the time of alleged occurrence.

17. Surprisingly, the mother of the prosecutrix, Leela Devi (PW-4) and her brother Ramesh Kumar (PW-3) were declared hostile. It is apparent that the accused was known to the prosecutrix. They had intimate relations with each other. It is not the case of the prosecution that the accused has made the prosecutrix to sit in the bus from Sundernagar to Chandigarh and then from Chandigarh to Tanda, forcibly. She had numerous opportunities to raise alarm while going from Sundernagar to Chandigarh and then from Chandigarh to Tanda. She has not tried to escape. According to the opinion given by PW-10 Dr. Anupma Sharma, no injury was seen on labia majora, labia minora, thighs and there was no tenderness or injury in the vagina and cervix though hymen was ruptured. Duration of last sexual intercourse act could not be ascertained. There was no external injury on vagina including internal genitalia. In case, there was forcible sexual intercourse, there should have been some injury on the person of prosecutrix, external or internal. However, fact of the matter is that no injuries were found. Prosecutrix could also make complaint to the sister of the prosecutrix at Chandigarh or at Tanda but she has chosen not to do so.

18. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused under charged sections.

19. Accordingly, we find no occasion to interfere with the well reasoned judgment passed by the learned trial Court. The appeal is dismissed. All pending applications, are also disposed of. Bail bonds of the accused are discharged.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Tarsem Kumar & Others ....Petitioners.
Versus
State of H.P. & Others ....Respondents.
Review Petition No. 135 of 2015.
Decided on: 4th July, 2016

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 47 Rule 1- Appeal preferred by the State was allowed- judgments passed by the Courts below were quashed- respondents No. 8, 9 and 17 had died during the pendency of appeal – deceased were duly represented by the Counsel who had failed to inform the Court about the death- judgment is sought to be recalled on this ground- held, that judgment had been passed without taking note of the death of respondents No. 8, 9 and 17- therefore, there is an error apparent on the face of the record, which is required to be corrected- appeal restored to its original number on the file. (Para-3 to 8)

For the petitioners : Mr. K.D. Sood, Senior Advocate with Mr. Rajnish K. Lall, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. D.S. Nainta & Mr. Virender Verma, Additional Advocates General for the respondent-State.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (oral).

In this petition a prayer has been made to review the judgment dated 14.8.2015, passed by this Court in RSA No.138 of 2004.

2. The appeal preferred by the respondent-State was allowed and the judgment and decree passed by both Courts below quashed and set aside vide the judgment and decree sought to be reviewed. It is pertinent to note that respondents No.8, Onkar Chand, respondent No.9 Moti Ram and respondent No.17 Tilak Raj had already expired, when the appeal was heard and judgment announced. The deceased-respondents were duly represented by a counsel, however, learned counsel has failed to inform this Court qua the factum of death of the said respondent as required under Order 22 Rule 10-A of the Code of Civil Procedure. The State of Himachal Pradesh, appellant in the appeal, has also not taken any step qua their substitution. It is for this reason the appeal came to be heard and decided without taking note of the death of respondents No.8, 9 and 17.

3. This petition has been filed with a prayer to recall the judgment and decree and decide the appeal, after deciding the question of abatement of the appeal on the death of respondents hereinabove and substitution of their legal representatives.

4. A bare perusal of Order 47 Rule 1 CPC makes it crystal clear that a decree or order, from which an appeal is allowed, but no appeal has actually been preferred, should be reviewed on the discovery of new and important matter or evidence, which, after the exercise of due-diligence, was not within the knowledge of the review-petitioner or could not be produced at the time when the decree was passed on account of a mistake.

5. Since the judgment in the main appeal has been passed without taking note of the death of respondents No. 8, 9 and 17, therefore, there is an error apparent on the face of the record and in the ends of justice, the same is required to be corrected by reviewing the judgment and decree in the main appeal. It is worth mentioning that the surviving respondents came to know about non-substitution of the respondents No.8, 9 and 17 and deciding the question of abatement of the appeal on their death, after the appeal was finally heard and decided vide judgment and decree dated 14.8.2015, therefore, on discovery of such facts, this petition has been filed.

6. In the given facts and circumstances, the judgment and decree passed in the main appeal is required to be recalled and the appeal heard as well as decided afresh after deciding the question of abatement of the appeal, if any, on the death of respondents No.8, 9, and 17 and also there being necessity of substitution of their legal representatives, if any.

7. A co-ordinate Bench of this Court in an unreported judgment dated 26.2.2002 passed in CMP(M) (RSA No.294 of 2000) No.562 of 2001, titled Karam Chand & Others versus Bakshi Ram and others, in the similar circumstances has recalled the judgment and decree passed in the main appeal and the appeal heard afresh after deciding the question of abatement and the substitution of the legal representatives of deceased respondents.

8. In view of what has been said hereinabove, this petition is allowed. Consequently, the judgment dated 14.8.2015 passed in RSA No.138 of 2004 is hereby recalled and the appeal restored to its original number and file. The petition is accordingly disposed of. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

State of Himachal Pradesh ….Respondent

Cr. Appeal No. 413 of 2014

Judgment Reserved on 29th June 2016

Date of Judgment 5th July 2016

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 22- Accused was found in possession of 28 capsules of Spasmo Proxyvon and 25 vials of Rexcof cough syrup without any permit/licence- accused was tried and convicted by the trial Court- held, in appeal that testimonies of prosecution witnesses corroborated each other- minor contradictions are bound to come with the passage of time- police officials had no inimical relation with the accused to falsely implicate him- personal search was not conducted- Section 50 of N.D.P.S. Act was not complied with- it was a chance recovery, which cannot be doubted due to non-examination of independent witnesses- link evidence was not completed and there was no tempering with the case property - testimonies of witnesses were corroborated by abstract of malkhana register, road certificate, special report, rukka, resealing of sample, NCB form, resealing certificate, seal impression, seizure memo etc.- trial Court had rightly convicted the accused- appeal dismissed. (10) Ext.PW4/B is seizure memo of 25 bottles of Rexocof Cough syrup and two boxes of Spasmo Proxyvon capsules. (11) Ext.PW5/A is site plan. (12) Ext.PX is SFSL examination report. As per examination report 99.98 mg Dextropropoxyphene Napsylate per capsule of Spasmo Proxyvon was found and 1.981 mg codeine phosphate was found in 100 ml bottle of Rexcof cough syrup. (13) Ext.PW8/A to Ext.PW8/D are daily station diaries.

11. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellant that there is major contradiction in testimonies of prosecution witnesses and on this ground accused be acquitted is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused testimonies of all prosecution witnesses. There is no major contradiction in testimonies of prosecution witnesses which goes to the root of case. In present case 288 capsules of Spasmo Proxyvon and 25 vials of Rexcof cough syrup recovered from exclusive and conscious possession of accused on 15.10.2012 during night period at 10.20 PM at Balmiki Basti Nahan. Testimonies of prosecution witnesses recorded after a gape of sufficient time. Testimonies of PWs 1 to 3 recorded on 3.6.2014, testimony of PW4 and PW5 recorded on 4.6.2014, testimony of PW6 recorded on 16.5.2014, testimonies of PW7 and PW8 recorded on 16.7.2014. It is well settled law that minor contradictions are bound to come when testimonies of prosecution witnesses recorded after a gape of sufficient time. It was held in case reported in (2010)9 SCC 567 title C.

Muniappan and others vs. State of Tamil Nadu that an undue importance should not be attached to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the root of the matter and shake the basic version of prosecution's witness. It was held that minor discrepancies are bound to occur in statements of witnesses when testimony of witness is recorded after a gape of time. See AIR 1972 SC 2020 title Sohrab and another vs. The State of Madhya Pradesh. 12. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellant that false FIR was filed against the appellant contrary to facts and on this ground appeal filed by appellant be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Accused did not lead any positive cogent and reliable evidence on record in order to prove that police officials have inimical relation towards the accused at any point of time. It is not expedient in the ends of justice to disbelieve testimonies of police officials in present case.

13. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellant that provision of Section 50 of NDPS Act not complied in present case and on this ground appeal filed by appellant be accepted is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that 288 capsules of Spasmo proxyvon and 25 vials of Rexcof cough syrup found from bag of accused. It is well settled law that when contraband is recovered from bag of accused then compliance of Section 50 of NDPS Act 1985 is not mandatory. See (1993)8 SCC page 257 title Kalma Tumka vs. State of Maharashtra. 14. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellant that prosecution did not examine any independent witness and on this ground appeal be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that 288 capsules of Spasmo Proxyvon and 25 vials of Rexcof cough syrup found from exclusive and conscious possession of accused on 15.10.2012 in midnight at 10.20 PM. PW5 ASI Dalip Kumar when appeared in witness box has specifically stated that no person crossed the recovery point and houses were locked and residents of locality were sleeping during night period. It is also proved on record that recovery was effected as a chance recovery. It is well settled law that in chance recovery association of two independent witnesses is not mandatory and it is held that non-association of independent witnesses is not fatal to prosecution case. See AIR 1994 SC 1872 title State of Punjab vs. Balbir Singh. See (1998)8 SCC 655 title Mohinder Kumar vs. State Panji Goa. See AIR 2003 SC 7 title Bharatbhai Bhagwanjibhai vs. State of Gujarat. See AIR 1999 SC 2378 title State of Punjab vs. Baldev Singh.

15. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellant that material incriminating circumstances not put to accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and on this ground appeal filed by appellant be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused statement of accused recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. It is held that all material incriminating circumstances put to accused when statement of accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. by learned Trial Court.

16. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellant that learned Trial Court has failed to appreciate the missing link evidence in present case and on this ground appeal be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned.

Court is of the opinion that prosecution has proved the link evidence in present case as required under law. Testimonies of PWs 1 to 3 and 6 to 8 prove the link evidence in accordance with law. Testimonies of PWs 1 to 3 and 6 to 8 are trustworthy reliable and inspire confidence of Court. There is no reason to disbelieve the testimonies of PWs 1 to 3 and 6 to 8 in the present case. There is no evidence on record that PWs 1 to 3 and 6 to 8 have hostile animus against accused at any point of time.

17. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of apepllant that case property was tampered is rejected being devoid of any force. There is no positive cogent and reliable evidence on record in order to prove that case property was tampered at any point of time. Plea of appellant that case property was tampered is defeated on the concept of ipse dixit (Assertion made without proof).

18. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellant that it is not proved on record that dextropropoxyphene Napsylate was found in capsules of Spasmo Proxyvon is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused the examination report submitted by SFSL Junga. There is recital in examination report that after various scientific tests such as physical identification, chemical, chromatographic and UV Spectrophotometrix analysis as well as quantitative analysis dextropropoxyphene napsylate was found to the extent of 99.98 mg per capsule.

19. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellant that there is no positive cogent and reliable evidence on record in order to prove that codeine phosphate was found in Rexocof cough syrup is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Chemical Analyst has specifically mentioned in positive manner in examination report that codeine phosphate was found to the extent of 1.981 mg. per/ml in 100 bottle of Rexocof cough syrup. Accused did not file any written application before learned Trial Court for cross examination of public analyst. Report of public analyst is per se admissible in evidence under Section 293 of Code of Criminal Procedure 1973.

20. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellant that accused cannot be convicted on basis of oral as well as documentaries evidence placed on record is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. PW4 C. Ravinder Kumar has specifically stated in positive manner that 25 bottles of Rexocof cough syrup containing 100 ml. and two boxes containing 288 capsules of Spasmo Proxyvon recovered from exclusive and conscious possession of accused. Testimony of PW4 is corroborated by PW5 ASI Dalip Kumar. Testimonies of PWs 4 and 5 are tustworthy reliable and inspire confidence of Court. There is no evidence on record that PW4 and PW5 have hostile animus against the accused at any point of time. It is well settled law that conviction in criminal law can be sustained on testimony of single witness if testimony of single witness inspires confidence of Court. It was held in case reported in AIR 1973 SC 944 title Jose vs. State of Kerala that conviction can be sustained in a criminal case upon the sole testimony of a single witness if testimony of witness is trustworthy, reliable and inspire confidence of Court. See AIR 2010 SCW 4470 title Bipin Kumar Mondal vs. State of West Bengal. See Lates HLJ 2003(1) HP 541 title State of H.P. vs. Om Parkash.

21. Testimonies of oral witnesses are corroborated by documentaries evidence i.e. extract of malkhana register, road certificate, special report, ruka, resealing sample, NCB form, resealing certificate, seal impression, seizure memo, site plan and examination report submitted by chemical analyst and rapats placed on record.

22. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellant that conviction cannot be sustained on testimonies of police officials alone is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that testimonies of police witnesses can be believed if same inspires confidence of Court. See (2012)4 SCC 722 title Govind Raju alias Govinda vs. State. See (2007)15 SCC 760 title Tika Ram vs. State of M.P. See (2007)7 SCC 625 title Girja Prasad (dead) by LRs vs. State of M.P. See title Tahir vs. State. It is held that business of dextropropoxyphene napsylate and codeine phosphate is spoiling the career of society at large and Court is of the opinion that no one can be allowed to gain monetary benefit at costs of society at large. Hence it is held that judgment and sentence passed by learned Trial Court is not perverse and same is based on oral as well as documentary evidence placed on record. Point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No. 2(Final Order)

23. In view of findings upon point No.1 above appeal is dismissed. Judgment and sentence passed by learned Trial Court affirmed. File of learned Trial Court along with certified copy of judgment be sent back forthwith. Criminal appeal No. 413 of 2014 is disposed of. All pending miscellaneous application(s) also stands disposed of.

The present writ petition is maintained by the petitioner seeking directions to the respondents for quashing order, dated 10.05.2012, passed by the learned Appellate Authority, whereby the appeal of the petitioner was dismissed. Simultaneously, the petitioner is also seeking direction to the respondents to appoint her as Anganwari Worker, in Aganwari Centre, Sikroha, Tehsil Sadar, District Bilaspur, H.P. by quashing the appointment of respondent No. 6, Smt. Soma Devi.

2. Briefly stating the facts of the case, as per the petitioner, are that the petitioner alongwith seven other candidates appeared in interview for the post of Anganwari Worker in Anganwari Centre, Sikroha, Tehsil Sadar, District Bilaspur, H.P., held on 29.05.2010, and consequent to the interviews respondent No. 6, Smt. Soma Devi, was appointed. As per the petitioner, respondent No. 6 did not fulfill the eligibility guidelines as laid down for appointment to the post of Anganwari Worker, as she (respondent No. 6) is living jointly with her father-in-law, which is depicted in copy of Pariwar Register (Annexure P-8). Copy of Pariwar Register demonstrates that respondent No. 6 separated on 31.12.2006, however, as per the Policy and the judgment of this Court the relevant date for separation of a family is 01.01.2004. As per the Policy, the date of separation should be depicted in the Pariwar Register and income of the family is to be computed on the basis of separate family. It is also submitted that the husband of respondent No. 6 works as Senior Platoon Commander in Himachal Pradesh Home Guards, owns 10 bighas of land and is enrolled as Contractor in Himachal Pradesh Public Works Department. On the other hand, 22 bighas of land is being owned by father-in-law of respondent No. 6, who also owns a building in Chakkar Shimla, which is rented out. The petitioner further submits that father-in-law of respondent No. 6 also owns Light Goods Vehicle, in which husband of respondent No. 6 works as driver.

3. The petitioner has further submitted that she is Post Graduate in Sanskrit and respondent No. 6 is only Matriculate and Prabhakar and as per her information Prabhakar is equal to 10+2, but the Himachal Pradesh School Education Board has not recognized Prabhakar equivalent to 10+2. As per the petitioner, awarding of additional 3 marks for higher qualification to respondent No. 6 is illegal and wrong. The petitioner has also raised objections on awarding of marks in personal interview by the Selection Committee.

4. At the first instance the appointment of respondent No. 6 was challenged by the petitioner before the Deputy Commissioner-cum-Appelalte Authority under the Anganwari Scheme, 2009, succinctly on the ground of her family income and the grounds cited above. The learned Appellate Authority dismissed the appeal of the petitioner vide order dated 10.05.2012, hence the present petition.

5. Respondents No. 1 to 4 have filed reply to the petition and refuted the stand of the petitioner. Precisely, the stand of respondents No. 1 to 4 is that respondent No. 6 has been rightly awarded 3 marks for higher qualification, as she was having result-cum-detailed mark having B.A. 1st year, which is higher qualification. So the selection of respondent No. 6 is not illegal and wrong. It is also averred that the learned Deputy Commissioner (Appellate Authority) has heard both the parties and also ordered Tehsildar, Sadar, to re-verify the income certificate of respondent No. 6 and on re-verification it was found correct. As per respondents No. 1 to 4, the Selection Committee selected respondent No. 6 relying on the documents placed before it and also on the performance of the candidate in the interview. It is also submitted that rider of family separation on or before 01.01.2014 was removed in the amended guidelines, Notification dated 05.10.2009, and hence this clause has no application in the present case. The family of respondent No. 6 was separated on 01.01.2009. Further it is submitted that Himachal Pradesh University allowed respondent No. 6 to appear in B.A. 1st year's examination solely on the basis of Prabhakar certificate. Therefore, awarding of 3 marks by the Selection Committee for higher qualification to respondent No. 6 was right. It is also averred that the Selection Committee awarded marks on the basis of performance of candidates in the interview and the same were based on merits.

6. Respondent No. 6 has also filed reply to the writ petition, wherein it is submitted that the family of the petitioner was included in BPL on 30.11.2004, whereas the interview was held on 29.05.2010. So, the petitioner was not in BPL family at the time of applying for the said post. Respondent No. 6 has further submitted that 3 marks for higher qualification were rightly awarded to her, as per Notification (Annexure R6-1/A). As per replying respondent, her family is living separately and the cut off date is not 01.01.2004, as the same subsequently stood amended on 12.10.2009 (Annexure R-6/B) and the cut off date stood changed to 1st January of the recruitment year. As respondent No. 6 was appointed in the year 2010 and her family was living separately w.e.f. 31.12.2006, therefore, the petition was alleged to be misleading. It is also submitted that the replying respondent has separate family and it is denied that her husband works as Driver and enrolled as Contractor with HPPWD.

7. Replying respondent No. 6 has also averred that minimum qualification for the post of Anganwari Worker is 10th standard and in case of higher qualification then 3 marks have to be awarded. So, 3 marks have been rightly awarded to her. It is further submitted that the family of the petitioner was included in BPL on 31.11.2012 and the interview was held on 29.05.2010. So, the family of the petitioner was not in BPL at the time of interview. Replying respondent No. 6 pleaded that the family should have been separated on 1st January of the recruitment year. Interviews were held in the year 2010 and her family was separated on 31.12.2006. It is further submitted that replying respondent possess higher qualification and both petitioner as well as replying respondent were given 3 marks for higher qualification. Prabhakar is equivalent to 10+2 and admission can be sought on the basis of Prabhakar. As per respondent No. 6, there are no allegations of mala fides against the interview committee, as the same is a matter of discretion.

8. Rejoinder to the reply filed by respondent No. 6 has also been filed, wherein stand of respondent No. 6 has been refuted and the petitioner reiterated the averments made in the petition.

9. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record carefully.

10. Now considering the fact that the marks were awarded to respondent No. 6 for higher qualification and whether Prabhakar is a higher qualification or not, this Court finds that the Scheme/Guidelines for the engagement of the Anganwari Workers/Helpers, as enclosed alongwith the reply of respondents No. 1 to 4, provides that the candidate who possesses 10+2 and higher qualification will be awarded 3 additional marks. As per the above policy, the marks shall be given in the following manner:

"(A) Maximum 13 Marks for educational qualification will be given in the following manner:

(i) Percentage of marks in matric divided by 10 subject to the maximum of 10 marks.

(ii) Candidates who possess 10+2 and higher educational qualification will be given 3 additional marks.

11. Considering Prabhakar as 10+2, Himachal Pradesh University has given admission to respondent No. 6 in B.A. 1st year, meaning thereby that even the University recognizes Prabhakar as a higher qualification than matric, as matric pass candidate never gets admission in B.A. 1st year. This Court finds that selection of respondent No. 6 cannot be said to be arbitrary, against law/rules or is vitiated because of mala fides. This Court finds that the order, upholding the appointment of respondent No. 6, passed by the Appellate Authority cannot be said to be arbitrary and against law.

12. The petitioner also tried to assail that Income of respondent No. 6 and averred that income of respondent No. 6 was more than the prescribed limit under the Scheme, but there is no evidence on record to conclude that the Income certificate issued to respondent No. 6 was against her actual income.

13. Consequently, the petition is devoid of merits and requires dismissal. Accordingly, the petition is dismissed. However, in view of peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, there is no order as to costs.

14. The writ petition, as also pending application(s), if any, shall stand(s) disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE CHANDER BHUSAN BAROWALIA, J.

ICICI Lombard General Insurance Company Limited. …Appellant.
Versus
Smt. Soni Devi and others …Respondents.

FAO No.422 of 2010
Reserved on : 30.6.2016
Decided on: 5th July, 2016

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149- It was contended that driver did not have a valid driving licence- held, that un-laden weight of the vehicle is 2560 Kgs., and the vehicle falls within definition of Light Motor Vehicle- driving licence authorized driver to drive LMV, therefore, it cannot be said that driving licence was not valid- appeal dismissed. (Para-19 to 21)

Case referred:
National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Swaran Singh and others, (2004) 3 Supreme Court Cases 297

For the appellant : Mr. Jagdish Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. Bhupinder Ahuja, Advocate, for respondents No.1 to 5.
Mr. Sanjay Jaswal, Advocate, for respondent No.6.
Mr. Praneet Gupta, Advocate, for respondent No.7.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present appeal under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, is maintained against the award dated 9.7.2010, passed by learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-I, Kangra at Dharamshala, in Claim Petition No.36-P/II/2007, filed by respondents/petitioners No.1 to 5 (hereinafter referred to as 'petitioner') against the owner-cum-driver of the Tata 407 LCV (Tempo)/respondent No.6 (hereinafter referred to as 'respondent No.1') and New India Insurance Company, the insurer of the scooter on which the deceased was a pillion rider (hereinafter referred to as 'respondent No.3').

2. The brief facts giving rise to the present appeal are that on 19.5.2007, the deceased alongwith one Ashok Kumar were going on a scooter and the scooter was on the extreme left side of National Highway and the deceased was a pillion ride. The scooter had reached near a place called 61 Miles, then a vehicle TATA 407 LCV (Tempo) applied for, came from Palampur side in such a rash and negligent manner driven by respondent No.1 and struck against the scooter. As a result of which, the deceased and pillion rider fell down on the road. The deceased received multiple injuries on his person, he was taken immediately to Community Health Centre, Nagrota Bagwan, on reaching in the hospital, the deceased was declared dead. The post mortem of the dead body of the deceased was conducted by Medical Officer.

3. Further, case of the petitioner is that the accident occurred due to the rash and negligent driving of the vehicle by respondent No.1. It is pleaded that deceased was 28 years of age and was working as Sepoy in the Indian Army and getting the salary of Rs.9000/- per month. Petitioner No.1 is the widow, petitioner No. 2 and 3 are the parents, petitioner No.4 and 5 are the minor daughters of the deceased and were dependant upon the deceased.

4. Reply was filed by respondent No.1 and denied the accident. It is the case of respondent No.1 that deceased was driving the scooter without having a valid and effective driving licence to drive the same. It is further pleaded that deceased was never struck by the vehicle of respondent No.1.

5. Respondent No.2 also filed the reply and their case is that driver and owner of the vehicle TATA 407 LCV (Tempo) of respondent No.1, was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of alleged accident and the vehicle was being plied in violation of the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy. Respondent No.3 had also filed reply and denied their case.

6. The learned Court below framed the following issues on 30.6.2008, as under:

1. Whether Sunil Kumar had died on account of rash and negligent driving of vehicle No. HP-14-A-9408 by respondent No.1 ? OPP.

2. If Issue No.1 is proved, to what amount of compensation and from whom the petitioners entitled to ? OPP.

3. Whether the respondent No.1 had not been in possession of valid & effective driving licence ? If so with what effect ? OPR-2.

4. Whether the claim petition is bad for non-joinder and mis-joinder of parties ? OPR-2.

5. Relief.

7. After deciding Issue No.1 in favour of the petitioner, the learned Tribunal held that the petitioners are entitled for an amount of Rs.15,00,000/- (rupees fifteen lacs) to be paid by respondent No.2.

8. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the record of the case carefully.

9. To prove their case, the petitioner has examined PW-1 HC Kuldeep Singh. He has deposed that an FIR was registered on 19.5.2007, under Sections 279, 337, 338 and 304-A of the Indian Penal Code, against respondent No.1 driver of Tempo bearing No. HP-9408 and challan was presented before the learned Court below. He has further stated that Tempo was not registered at the time of accident, however it was applied for.

10. PW-2 Milap Chand/Photographer, has stated that on 19.5.2007 at about 3:30 pm, he was on his way from Darang to Kangra on scooter. He deposed that Tempo of respondent No.2 over took him in a high speed at a place called as 61 Miles and after travelling a distance of 100 meters ahead it struck with a scooter. The tempo at that time was driven by respondent No.1 and the scooter was being driven by Sunil Kumar while the deceased was a pillion rider. He has stated that tempo struck with the scooter with such a force that scooter was dragged upto a distance of 5-6 meters. He has also deposed that he stopped his scooter and took the injured to hospital where Sunil Kumar succumbed to injuries. He deposed that after the accident Chander Kumar had fled away from the spot. He deposed that deceased had sustained head injuries. The accident was caused due to the rash and negligent driving of tempo driver and there was no fault on the part of scooter driver.

11. PW-3 Smt. Soni Devi, has stated that name of her husband was Sunil Kumar and at the time of accident his age was 28 years. She has stated that her husband was employed as Sepoy in Assam Rifles. She deposed that her husband came home on leave and on 19.5.2007 at 3:30 pm, accident took place near at a place called 61 Miles in which her husband died. She has stated that driver of tempo 407 had hit his tempo with her husband and the accident was caused due to the rash and negligent driving of tempo driver. She has stated that her husband used to draw salary of Rs.9384/- per month, as per salary slip Ex.PW2/A. She has stated that she has two minor daughters and petitioners were dependant upon the deceased. She has stated that she was not present at the time of accident. She has admitted that she used to get family pension. She has denied that the accident was caused due to the fault of her husband.

12. PW-4 Jai Singh, is father of the deceased and stated that his son died on 19.5.2007, due to the rash and negligent driving of vehicle by its driver. He has stated that he had served in Indian Army for 28 years and retired as a Subedar. He has stated that his son was brilliant and had he been alive he would have retired with some good rank. He has stated that accident did not take place in his presence.

13. PW-5 Dr. Vivek Sood, has stated that in the year 2007, he remained posted as Registrar in RPGMC, Tanda. He conducted the post mortem examination on the body of Sunil Kumar. He has stated that injuries mentioned in the post mortem report could be possible in the road side accident.

14. To rebut the evidence of petitioner, RW-1 Chander Kumar has stated that he is owner-cum-driver of TATA-407 and was having valid driving licence to drive the vehicle in question. He has stated that his vehicle was insured vide insurance policy Ex.RW1/A. He has deposed that photocopy of Registration Certificate is Ex.RW2/B. He has deposed that accident did not take place due to his fault, but the same took place due to the fault of scooter driver who had driven the scooter in a rash and negligent manner. He has admitted that when he purchased the vehicle on 18.5.2007, its temporary number was HP-9408. He had admitted that two persons had traveled on the scooter at the time of accident and one of them had died.

15. RW-2 Munshi Ram, Licence Clerk posted in the office of Motor Licensing Authority, Kangra, has stated that driving licence No.11096/SDMK dated 2.5.2001, which was issued for Light Motor Vehicle. As per record this licence was renewed w.e.f. 9.5.2004 to 8.5.2007 and copy of the same is Ex.RW2/A. He has stated that licence was renewed in the name of Chander Kumar for LMV, which is Ex.RW2/B. In cross-examination, he has admitted that licence No.11096 was issued in favour of Chander Kumar for LMV (Transport) and the same was renewed w.e.f. 8.5.2004 to 8.5.2007. He has deposed that driving licence was further renewed on 21.5.2007.

16. RW-3 Jagdish Kumar, Clerk, posted in the office of RTO, Dharamshala, has stated Chander Kumar was not authorized to carry goods in the vehicle in question. He has stated that the said vehicle was passed on 5.6.2007. He has admitted that temporary registration number is valid for one month for plying the vehicle. He has admitted that route permit is issued after the grant of fitness certificate. He has also admitted that owner of the vehicle in question had applied within one month after the purchase of said vehicle for issuance of fitness certificate and route permit thereof.

17. Thus, it is evident from the testimony of PW-3, Soni Devi, is corroborated by PW-2, Milap Singh an eye witness of the alleged accident. PW-2 has specifically stated that deceased had died due to the rash and negligent driving of vehicle bearing Tempo No.HP-9408 and also stated that his statement was also recorded by the police. The testimony of PW-3 is further corroborated by PW-1 HC Kuldeep Singh. He has deposed that FIR was registered against Chander Kumar, owner-cum-driver of vehicle having Tempo bearing No. HP-9408. PW-5 Dr. Vivek Sood, has conducted the post mortem of deceased Sunil Kumar and proved the copy of post mortem report. He has also stated that injuries mentioned in the post mortem report are possible in motor vehicle accident. The testimony of PW-3 is further corroborated by documentary evidence i.e. FIR Ex.PW1/A. There is no reason to disbelieve the testimony of PWs 1 to 5. Respondents No.1 to 3 did not adduce any independent, cogent and reliable evidence in order to prove their case. There is no evidence on record to show that respondent No.1 was not driving the vehicle in a rash and negligent manner.

18. From the above, it is clear that the deceased had died because of the rash and negligent driving of respondent No.1. It has come on record that respondent No.1 was so rash and negligent that after over taking the scooter of PW-2 had struck the scooter, on which the deceased was pillion rider at a place 61 Miles and the same resulted into the death of deceased.

19. Learned counsel for the appellant has argued that the driving licence was not containing endorsement for driving the transport vehicle, as the vehicle was Light Motor Vehicle. So, the driver was having valid and effective driving licence to drive the vehicle in question. This Court finds no force in the submissions made by learned counsel for the appellant.

20. Further, learned counsel for the appellant has argued that the vehicle was Light Motor vehicle, but from the Registration Certificate, it is clear that unladen weight of the vehicle is 2560 Kgs. less than 3000 Kgs., the conclusion is that it was a Light Motor Vehicle. Respondent No.1 was having valid driving licence and the vehicle was Light Motor Vehicle. The learned Court below has rightly held that the accident has taken place because of the rash and negligent driving of respondent No.1 and respondent No.2 is liable to pay the compensation being insurer of the vehicle. Learned counsel for the appellant has also argued that the vehicle was driven without any route permit and registration certificate, but it is clear from the record that the vehicle was new one, it was purchased just a day before. It has also come on record that respondent No.1 has applied for the vehicle registration, the fitness certificate for getting route permit and for the Registration Certificate. In these circumstances, the award passed by the learned Court below holding that the vehicle was being plied as per the terms and conditions of the insurance policy is just reasoned and needs no interference.

21. Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in (2004) 3 Supreme Court Cases 297, titled National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Swaran Singh and others, has held as under :

> "17. Before we deal with various contentions raised by the parties it is desirable to look into the legislative history of the provisions for their interpretation. The relevant provisions of the Act indisputably are beneficent to the claimant. They are in the nature of a social welfare legislation.
>
> 18. Chapter XI of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, inter alia, provides for compulsory insurance of vehicles in relation to the matters specified therefor. The provision for compulsory insurance indisputably has been made, inter alia, with a view to protect the right of a third party.
>
> 19. This Court in *Sohan Lal Passi noted (SCC p.28, para 10)
>
> "10. The road accidents in India have touched a new height. In majority of cases because of the rash and negligent driving, innocent persons become victims of such accidents because of which their dependants in many cases are virtually on the streets. In this background, the question of payment of compensation in respect of motor accidents has assumed great importance for public as well as for courts. Traditionally, before the Court directed payment of tort compensation, it had to be established by the claimants that the accident was due to the fault of the person causing injury or damage. Now from different judicial pronouncements, it shall appear that even in western countries fault is being read and assumed as someone's negligence or carelessness. The Indian Parliament, being conscious of the magnitude of the plight of the victims of the accidents, has introduced several beneficial provisions to protect the interest of the claimants and to enable them to claim compensation from the owner or the insurance company in connection with the accident."
>
> xxxx xxxxx xxxxx
> 110. The summary of our findings to the various issues as raised in these petitions is as follows :

> (i) Chapter XI of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 providing compulsory insurance of vehicles against third-party risks is a social welfare legislation to extend relief by compensation to victims of accidents caused by use of motor vehicles. The provisions of compulsory insurance coverage of all vehicles are with this paramount object and the provisions of the Act have to be so interpreted as to effectuate the said object."

22. Learned counsel for the appellant has further argued that the deceased was getting salary of Rs.9000/- per month and after giving 1/3rd personal expenses of the deceased, the dependency cannot be more than Rs.6000/-. After applying multiplier of 17 and taking into consideration the age of deceased it was 28 years, the compensation comes much less than Rs.15,00,000/- (rupees fifteen lacs only), the learned Tribunal below has not awarded reasonable compensation.

23. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel for the appellant, I have gone through the income certificate of the deceased, the salary of the deceased was Rs.9384/-. The deceased was getting increments from time to time throughout his service career. Taking into consideration the future increase in income, 50% increase is required to be given in the current salary of the deceased for calculating the loss on account of dependency. So, the salary of the deceased for calculating the dependency becomes Rs. 15,000/- and 1/3rd becomes Rs.5000/-. After deducting the personal expenses of the deceased i.e. 1/3rd (Rs.5,000/-), this Court finds that the compensation has awarded by the learned Court below i.e. Rs.14,72,000/-, (rupees fourteen lacs and seventy two thousand only) is just and reasoned. So, this Court finds that the amount awarded to the petitioners as compensation is just and reasonable.

24. The net result of the above discussion is that the appeal is devoid of any merit and the same is dismissed. Pending application (s), if any, shall also stands disposed of. No order as to costs.

CMPMO No. 340 of 2015.
Date of decision: July 5, 2016.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 72- Petitioner is defendant no. 2, who stood guarantor for the re-payment of the loan taken by defendant No. 1- defendant No. 2 had taken a plea that defendant no. 1 is a habitual defaulter- defendant no. 1 had managed to forge his signature on the guarantee deed- application for comparison of signature of defendant No. 1 was filed- held, that defendant No. 2 is not competent to dispute the signatures of the defendant No. 1- defendant No. 1 himself could have disputed the signatures- application was rightly dismissed by the trial Court- petition dismissed. (Para-3 to 5)

Case referred:

Balak Ram Negi versus State of H.P. & its connected matters, Latest HLJ 2013(HP) 402

For the petitioner	:	Mr. Vijay K. Verma, Advocate.
For the respondents	:	Mr. Balwant Kukreja, Advocate, for respondent No. 1. None for respondent No. 2, though served.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (Oral)

Respondent No. 2 is duly served, however, there is no appearance on his behalf. Hence, proceeded against exparte.

2. Heard. Order Annexure P-5 is under challenge in this petition. The petitioner is defendant No. 2. He stood guarantor on behalf of respondent No. 2 herein, (defendant No. 1 in the trial Court) to ensure the repayment of the loan, the said defendant had raised from respondent No. 1 (plaintiff in the trial Court).

3. Defendant No. 1 has raised loan from the plaintiff-bank. He executed the loan agreement Ext.PW2/D and also demand promissory notes Ext.PW2/E, Ext.PW2/F and Ext.PW2/G and thereby agreed to repay the outstanding loan amount to the plaintiff. Defendant No. 1, however, has defaulted in the payment of the loan amount. This has led in filing the suit against him and the guarantor, the petitioner-defendant No. 2. The principal borrower, defendant No. 1 was duly served in the suit, however, opted for not putting appearance. Even in this petition also, he allowed himself to be proceeded against exparte.

4. The perusal of the written statement reveals that petitioner-defendant No. 2 has taken a plea that defendant No. 1 is habitual defaulter. According to him, he is in the habit of obtaining loan but not to repay the same. There are many civil and criminal cases including complaints under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instrument Act are stated to be filed against defendant No. 1. Defendant No. 1 has approached him (defendant No. 2) with a request to furnish bank guarantee so that he can raise the loan. The petitioner-defendant No. 2 allegedly refused to do so. Defendant No. 1, however has allegedly managed to forge his signature on the guarantee deed. This is the stand of defendant No. 2 taken in the written statement filed to the suit. It was no where his case that the loan agreement and demand promissory notes not bears the signature of defendant No. 1. Otherwise also, an application filed for comparison of the signature of defendant No. 1 is not maintainable at the instance of petitioner/defendant No. 2 because he cannot say that signature on the loan documents are not that of the said defendant. It was for defendant No. 1, the executant himself to have disputed the execution of these documents. Therefore, learned trial Court has not committed any illegality or irregularity while arriving at a conclusion that the petitioner-defendant No. 2 has no locus standi to ask for the comparison of the signature of defendant No. 1.

5. The ratio of the judgment of a Co-ordinate Bench of This Court in Balak Ram Negi versus State of H.P. & its connected matters, Latest HLJ 2013(HP) 402, is distinguishable on facts, hence not applicable. The petition without any merit is accordingly dismissed.

6. Pending application(s), if any, also sands dismissed.

7. Authenticated copy of this judgment be sent to learned trial Court for being taken on record.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J.

Present Civil Revision petition is directed against the order dated 22.11.2013, passed by learned Appellate Authority, Shimla Division in Civil Rent Appeal No.18-S/14 of 2012, partly affirming the order passed by learned Rent Controller-(IV), Shimla, whereby petition filed by the respondent was partly allowed.

2. Briefly stated facts necessary for the adjudication of the present case are that the petitioners filed petition under Section 14(2)(i) and (v) of the H.P. Urban Rent Control Act, 1987 (for short, Rent Act') for eviction of original respondent/tenant, who died during the pendency of the petition and was substituted by her legal heirs (hereinafter referred to as the `respondents'), from one residential room situated in Kapoor Cottage Ist Floor, Hari Nagar, Boileauganj, Shimla, (for short `demised premises') on the ground of arrears of rent as well as the respondents have ceased to occupy the demised premises in question.

3. Learned trial Court, on the basis of material on record, allowed the petition and held that the respondents are in arrears of rent to the tune of Rs.2022.70 as well as they have ceased to occupy the tenanted premises without any reasonable cause preceding 12 months of filling of this petition with costs of Rs.2000/-. However, learned Rent Controller ordered that the respondents shall not be evicted from the tenanted premises on the ground of arrears of rent, if they deposit the same within 30 days from the date of order.

4. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid order passed by learned Rent Controller, respondents-tenants filed an appeal under Section 24 of the Rent Act before the learned Appellate Authority, who modified the order of the learned Rent Controller by partly allowing the petition and held that, "the finding of learned Rent Controller that tenants have not paid rent w.e.f. Ist April, 2008 is affirmed and finding that tenants have ceased to occupy the premises without any reasonable cause continuously for a period of twelve months prior to filing of eviction petition is set aside". The petitioners aggrieved and dissatisfied with the impugned judgment passed by learned Appellate Authority, preferred the instant revision petition.

5. Mr. Adarsh K. Vashishta, learned counsel appearing for the petitioners, vehemently argued that the order/judgment passed by the learned appellate Court below is not sustainable as the same is not based on correct appreciation of evidence available on record. He submitted that learned appellate Court below has not specifically dealt with the pleas and arguments raised by the present petitioners. He also contended that learned appellate Court while deciding the case at hand has miserably failed to appreciate the evidence available on record in its right perspective. He further submitted that the learned appellate Court below has committed an error of law and facts by partly allowing and modifying the order passed by the learned Rent Controller, who had rightly allowed the petition filed by the present petitioners and passed an order of eviction against the tenants on the grounds of arrears of rent as well as ceased to occupy the tenanted premises continuously without reasonable cause. It is also contended on behalf of the petitioner that the learned appellate Court below has wrongly come to the conclusion that the petitioners did not prove on record that the respondents-tenants have ceased to occupy the premises continuously for a period of 12 months prior to the filing of the eviction petition

6. Mr. Vashishta forcefully contended that undue credence has been lent to the statement given by RW-2 Sh. Pyare Lal, posted at District Food and Supply Controller, Shimla, who in his examination-in-chief stated that the ration card was issued in the name of respondents but in his cross-examination he stated that after issuance of ration card to a person, the same is not verified thereafter. He contended that merely issuance of the ration card in favour of the tenant cannot be ground to conclude that he had been staying continuously in the demised premise.

7. During arguments having been made him, he invited attention of this Court to statements given by RW1, who in his cross-examination stated that Rajinder Singh died about two years ago and Smt. Pritmi Devi died about one year ago in her village. He also pointed out that premises were rented out to Pritmi Devi after the death of her husband late Sh. Gopal Singh. Learned counsel contended that learned appellate Court very conveniently ignored the statement of RW3 wherein he in examination-in-chief admitted that his father Rajinder Singh and grandmother died in the premises in question, but in cross examination, he categorically admitted that Smt. Pritmi Devi died in Ludhiana, which clearly suggests that there were material contradictions in the statement given by RW2, which have been heavily relied upon by the learned Appellate Court. Mr. Vashishta, while concluding his arguments specifically invited attention of the Court to the statement of RW3, wherein he specifically admitted that there was less consumption of electricity for the year, 2007-08. RW-3 also admitted that no record of the consumption of the gas during the relevant period has been annexed with the reply to the petition. Mr. Vashishta forcefully contended that the learned Appellate Court miserably failed to appreciate that it stands proved on record that respondents were served on the addresses of the village as mentioned in the memo of appeal, which clearly suggests that they had ceased to occupy the demised premises continuously for the period of 12 months prior to the filing of rent petition. It was also contended on behalf of the petitioners that learned first Appellate Court failed to appreciate the evidence in its right perspective because it ignored the evidence put forth by the petitioners with regard to the consumption of electricity for a period of 12 months. He invited attention of this Court to the statement of PW2 Hans Raj Gupta, Foreman HPSEB, Khalini Sub-Division, to demonstrate that electricity bill of demised premises Ext.PW2/A was in the name of Rajinder Singh and further perusal of which suggests that only one unit of electricity was consumed in two months and consumption for the rest of the period was nil. At last Mr. Vashishta, contended that the petitioners had successfully proved on record the continuous absence of tenant from the premises without any reason and, as such, finding returned by the first appellate Court that petitioners have failed to establish that respondents ceased to occupy the premises, is contrary to material available on record and, as such, judgments passed by the learned First Appellate Court deserve to be quashed and set-aside.

8. On the other hand, Mr. T.S. Chauhan, Advocate, representing the respondents supported the judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court and he vehemently argued that no interference, whatsoever, of this Court is warranted in the present facts and circumstances of the case since the judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court is based upon the correct appreciation of evidence available on record. He contended that landlord had no cause of action, whatsoever, to file the petition since it stands duly proved on record that respondents have been residing in the tenanted premises continuously for thirty five years together. During arguments having been made by him, he invited attention of the Court to the statements given by RW1 Jagarnath and RW2 Pyare Lal to demonstrate that it has come specifically on record that respondents have been residing in the locality for the last 35-36 years. He also referred to that portion of the statement, whereby RW1 stated that two sons of deceased Rajinder Singh were performing business in Shimla and they use to visit residential house of tenants. He also invited attention of this Court to that portion of the statement given by RW2, wherein he stated that ration card for five members was issued on 1.2.2004, to demonstrate that tenanted premise was being regularly used by the respondents. Mr. Chauhan, forcefully contended that by leading cogent and reliable evidence on record, respondents discharged their onus to prove that they have not ceased to occupy the premises but in the present case, no evidence worth the name has been placed on record by the petitioners to suggest otherwise, rather witnesses produced on behalf of respondents have clearly supported the case of the respondents, wherein RW2 admitted that Ration Card was issued in the name of five members. He also submitted that this is not the case, where interference of this Court is warranted while exercising revisionary jurisdiction, especially, when both the courts below have dealt with each and every aspect of the matter very meticulously.

9. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record very carefully.

10. Pleadings on record suggest that the landlord filed petition for eviction of the present respondent on the ground of non-payment of rent as well as cease to occupy the premises. Record further reveals that respondents tenants took the objection that they had deposited the rent up to 31.3.2008. But both the courts below after appreciating the evidence available on record, in this regard, came to the conclusion that respondents tenants are in arrear of rent. Moreover, aforesaid findings qua the arrears of rent have attained finality since no appeal, whatsoever, qua the same has been filed by the respondents-tenants. Since issue with regard to arrear of rent stands finally decided by the court below, this Court needs not to look into at that issue at this stage. Now question which remains to be determined/decided by this Court is whether findings returned by the first appellate Court to the effect that respondents have not ceased to occupy the tenanted premises, are based upon the correct appreciation of evidence available on record or not?

11. Perusal of the impugned judgment suggests that learned Appellate Court, while accepting the finding of the Rent Controller qua the arrears of rent, has concluded that tenants have not ceased to occupy the premises continuously for a period of 12 months prior to filing of the eviction petition. In the present case, petitioner No.1-Mohinder Kumar, with a view to prove its case that respondents have ceased to occupy the demised premises continuously for a period of twelve months before filing of the petition, examined himself as PW1. Careful perusal of his statement suggests that respondent-Pritmi Devi had shifted to her village Hanuman Badog, Arki, District Solan, H.P. four years back and since then, she had been residing there and tenanted premises were lying locked. He specifically stated that respondent never visited the premises during this period. In support of his contentions, he also placed on record Ext.PW1/A electricity bill, however, in his cross-examination, he admitted the mention of one room in tenancy of the respondent and there is no mention with regard to kitchen. He also admitted that tenant Gopal, was the husband of the Pritmi Devi, who used to reside with his wife and four children. He also admitted that after death of Gopal, respondent was residing continuously.

12. Petitioners also examined Hans Raj Gupta Foreman, HPSEB Khalini Sub Division, as PW2, who stated that Ext.PW-2/A is correct as per their record. He also stated that connection of respondent bearing No. H 1000028 was in the name of Sh. Rajinder Singh and record pertains qua aforesaid matter w.e.f. 26.6.2007 to October, 2008 suggests that only one unit of electricity was been consumed in two months and consumption for rest of period was nil. He also stated in examination-in-chief that one unit can be consumed by indicators also, however, in his cross examination, he stated that he cannot tell as to how many Rajinder Singhs are in the sub division, of which, he had brought the record but he also admitted that address of Rajinder Singh is not mentioned in the record.

13. Respondent Kamal with a view to rebut the evidence of the petitioners, himself appeared as RW2-A and stated that Pritami Devi and Gopal Singh were his grandparents. He also stated that the premises in dispute consisted of one room, kitchen and bath room. Stated that respondent Prakasho Devi is his mother and respondents No.3 and 4 are his brothers. He stated that his brother died in 2008 and grandmother died in 2007. It has also come in his statement that after death of grandmother, they along with father were residing in the tenanted premises. He also stated that he had left school in 2008 and his eldest brother was in the army and second brother was a driver. He also admitted in cross examination that in 2007-08, their electricity consumption was less, however, he self stated that during that period, they were in hospital at Ludhiana and denied the house was lying locked. He also admitted of not filing any record showing any gas connection. It has also come in statement that Pritmi Devi as well as all other respondents were served on the village addresses. Another witness namely Shri Jagarnath produced by respondents, appeared as RW-1 stated that he knew respondent and her husband late Shri Gopal Singh. He stated that respondents used to reside in Kapoor Cottage Hari Nagar, Shimla, which was taken on rent by Gopal Singh. It also came in his statement that Gopal Singh was residing with her wife and along with his family. He also stated that Prakasho Devi and children resided in the tenanted premises. He also deposed that he was neighbor of Gopal Singh and was residing in Hari Nagar for 35-36 years. However, he stated that Rajinder Singh got education in Boileauganj school and used to reside with respondent in tenanted premises during their school days. He stated that tenanted premises never remained locked. In his cross examination, he stated that he is not aware that who is the landlord of the tenanted premises. He also admitted that Pritmi Devi died in village. In his cross-examination, he stated that respondents used to go to school 15-16 years ago. He also admitted of having good relations with the respondents. He also admitted that Kaku S/o Rajinder Singh had asked him to appear as witness.

14. RW2 Pyare Lal, Auditor of District Food and Supply Officer Shimla, deposed that ration card was issued in favour of the Rajinder Singh on 1.2.2004. Later he self stated that it was issued in the name of five members and thereafter, the name of Rajinder Singh was struck off because of his death. However, in cross examination he admitted that when ration card is issued once and, thereafter, it is not verified as to whether they are residing on the given address or not?

15. Conjoint reading of the statements given by PWs1 and 2 clearly suggests that respondent Pritima Devi had shifted to her village Hanuman Badog, Arki, HP, after the death of her husband and respondents have not been residing continuously in the premises for the last 4-5 years. PW2 Hans Raj Gupta specifically stated while proving Ext.PW2/A, that only one unit electricity was consumed in two months and consumption for rest of the period was nil, meaning thereby, respondents tenants were not residing in these premises during the aforesaid period. Since this is not the case of respondents that the electricity meter was out of order or dead, version put forth by the PW2 Hans Raj, who is an independent witness cannot be dis-believed, especially, on the face of Ext.PW2/A, which is electricity bill issued in the name of Rajinder Singh. Since, it is admitted case of the respondents that meter was in the name of Rajidner Singh, it can be safely held that meter No. H 1000028 was in the name of son of original tenant i.e. Rajidner Singh.

16. In the present case, landlord, who appeared as PW1 categorically stated that deceased respondent has ben residing at Arki for the last four years and since then, premises are lying locked and to substantiate his aforesaid assertion, he got examined PW2 Hansraj, official of electricity, who while proving Ext.PW2/A categorically stated that during the period w.e.f. 26.2.2008, only one unit of electricity was consumed within two months ,which clearly suggests that during 26.6.2007 to October, 2008, none of the respondents resided in the tenanted premises. Had anyone of the them resided in the premises during the aforesaid period, they would have consumed considerable units of electricity but in the present case, only one unit has been consumed in two months and consumption for the rest of the period is nil. PW2 also stated that one unit can even be consumed by indicators. In view of the above, this Court sees no reason to dis-believe the version put forth by the official witness produced by the plaintiff in support of his contention with regard to cease to occupy. Moreover, records nowhere suggests that any suggestion with regard to motive to depose falsely against the respondents was ever put to this official witness PW2.

17. Conjoint reading of statements given by PW1 and PW2 proves it beyond reasonable doubt that tenanted premises in question remained closed w.e.f. 26.6.2007 to October, 2008. Respondent tenant who himself appeared in witness box stated that electricity consumed was less since they were in hospital at Ludhiana. In his cross examination, he also admitted that Pritmi Devi died in village and his father died in Ludhiana. Aforesaid submissions/admissions made on behalf of respondent No. 2, itself substantiate the claim of the petitioners that deceased respondent used to reside at Arki for the last 4-5 years and premises were lying locked since then. Though RW 1 whose statement has been heavily relied upon by the learned Appellate Court stated that now Prakasho Devi and her children resides in the tenanted premises but in his cross examination, he admitted that original tenant of premises Pritima Devi died in village. He has also admitted in cross examination that he is not aware when children of Rajinder Singh used to go to School, rather, he has stated that they used to go to school 15-16 years ago.

18. Careful perusal of statement of RW1 though suggests that respondents have been residing in tenanted premises for last few years but no specific statement, whatsoever, has come from him suggestive of the fact that respondents have not ceased to occupy the tenanted premises for the last 12 months preceding to filing of the petition, rather RW1 categorically admitted in cross-examination that children of late Rajinder Singh used to go to school 15-16 years ago. Admittedly, there is nothing in the statement of RW 2 to suggest that in the last 12 months prior to filing of the petitioner, respondents were actually residing in the demised premises. Similarly, RW2 Pyare lal, Auditor of office of District Food and Supply stated that ration card was issued in favour of Rajinder Singh on 1.2.2004 but in his cross-examination, he specifically admitted that once ration card Code No. J-7/383, Sr. No. 797 is issued, thereafter, it is not verified as to whether they were residing on the given address or not? Hence, this court is of the view that statements given by RW1 and RW2 were not sufficient to conclude that respondents have not ceased to occupy the tenanted premises continuously for a period of 12 months preceding to filing of the petition because none of the witness produced by the respondents categorically stated that respondents used to reside continuously for a period of 12 months preceding to filing of the petition in the tenanted premises. Respondents, though, by placing ration card on record attempted to prove that they resided in tenanted premises but no evidence worth the name has been placed on record to suggest that preceding 12 months of filing present petition, respondents actually used this ration card. Respondents have not placed on record any evidence to suggest that during last 12 months preceding to filing of petition, they actually used this ration card. Had respondents placed on record any document suggestive of the fact that they procured some ration on the strength of ration card during the period of 12 months preceding to filing of rent petition, this Court would have presumed that they actually resided in the tenanted premises for the last 12 months preceding filing of the petitioner. Apart from ration card, no evidence worth the name with regard to gas connection, if any, was ever placed on record by the respondent to substantiate their claim with regard to their residing in the tenanted premises but merely on the basis of issuance of ration card in favour of the respondents, it cannot be concluded that respondents resided in the tenanted premises during the relevant period. On the other hand, in the present case, petitioner, by way of leading cogent and convincing evidence in the shape of electricity bill which clearly suggests that during the relevant time, the consumption of electricity bill was nil, discharged his onus to prove that respondents have actually ceased to occupy the tenanted premises continuously for a period of 12 months preceding to the filing of the petition. Importantly, in the present case, RW1 and RW3 in their cross examination admitted that Pritimi Devi died in the village, whereas Respondent. RW3 also admitted that they were served on their address of the village, which clearly corroborates the statement given by PW1, where he stated that respondents ceased to occupy the rent /tenanted premises and the premises were locked for 4-5 years. Apart from above, in the present case, it also stands proved on record that notices to all the respondents were served on the village addresses, as is given in the memo of parties, which fact/circumstance also indicates that respondents were residing in the tenanted premises at the time of filing of rent petition.

19. Hence, in view of the detailed discussion made hereinabove, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that the judgment passed by the learned appellate Court as envisaged under Rent Control Act, 1987, is contrary to record and same is not based upon the proper appreciation of the evidence available on record, rather careful perusal of the evidence on record, clearly suggests that evidence available on record have not been dealt with in its right perspective by the appellate authority while accepting the appeal of the respondents. The conclusion drawn by the appellate authority that testimony of PW2 is not sufficient to rebut the testimony of RW1 and RW2 is not tenable at all, especially, when it stands proved on record that during the relevant period, consumption of electricity was nil. Learned appellate Court below fell in grave error while holding that statement given by PW2 is not sufficient to rebut the testimonies of RW1 and RW2 because admittedly, PW2 was expected only to state qua the consumption of the electricity during the relevant period, and, as such, his testimony could not be considered to be a rebuttal, if any, to the depositions made by RW1 and RW2 because in their statements, they only stated with regard to the occupancy and staying of respondents in the tenanted premises during the relevant period. Hence, this Court is not in agreement with the finding returned by the appellate authority as far as the consumption of electricity bill during the relevant time, is concerned. Electricity bill placed on record by the petitioner clearly suggests that tenanted premises remained closed during this period, meaning thereby, it stands proved on record that during the relevant time respondents have not been residing in the tenanted premises because admittedly respondents have not placed anything on record to demonstrate that they continued to reside in the premises during the relevant time.

20. Moreover, as has been observed above, respondents have not led on record any cogent and convincing evidence, be it ocular or documentary to suggest that during the relevant period, they were actually residing in tenanted premises. Had respondents resided in the tenanted premises, during the relevant period, they would have definitely led on record, evidence or details with regard to LPG gas connection or ration procured on the strength of ration card, if any, during the relevant period. Hence this Court finds it difficult to accept the findings returned by the appellate authority that petitioners have not been able to prove that respondents tenants have ceased to occupy the premises. In this regard, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Dunlop India Limited versus A.A.Rahna and another; (2011) 5 Supreme Court Cases 778. The relevant para No. 21 of the judgment reproduced as under:-

> " The word " occupy" used in Section 11(4)(v) is not synonymous with legal possession in technical sense. It means actual possession of the tenanted building or use thereof for the purpose for which it is let out. If the building is let out for residential purpose and the tenant is shown to be continuously absent from the building for six months, the court may presume that he has ceased to occupy the building or abandoned it. If the building is let out for business or commercial purpose, complete cessation of the business/commercial activity may give rise to a presumption that the tenant has ceased to occupy the premises. In either case, legal possession of the building by the tenant will, by itself, be not sufficient for refusing an order of eviction unless the tenant proves that there was a reasonable cause for his having ceased to occupy the building".

21. It clearly emerges from the aforesaid judgment that if the building is let out for the business or residential purpose, complete cessation/absence from the premises may give rise to presumption that the tenant has ceased to occupy the premises. In this case, also there is overwhelming evidence on record, suggestive of the fact that the respondent-tenant had not been residing.

22. Similarly, the Coordinate Bench of this Court in Amrit Lal Sehgal versus Smt. Ramawati Sahu 2007(1) Shim.L.C.55 held as under:-

> "6. There is also statement proved by a witness from the electricity office showing the consumption of electricity through the meter installed in the demised premises. As per this statement only 60 units of electricity, 50 units as reflected in the bill for July, 1990 and 10 units as reflected in the bill for September, 1990, were consumed during the relevant period. This statement also shows that tenant-revision petitioner does not reside in the premises and that only occasionally some people visit the place and stay there".
> "7. As already noticed, even the tenant himself says that his brothers, sisters etc. visit the premises and stay there for sometime, which means that the premises are being used only as a tourist resort by the relatives of tenant- revision petitioner. It is by now well settled that occasional visit to the tenanted premises by the tenant do not amount to the tenant continuing in occupation of the premises. Reference in this behalf may be made to Sohan Lal Khanna V. Amar Singh, 2000(2) Latest HLJ 1008, St. Michaeal's Cathedral Catholic Club v. Smt. Harbans Kaur Nayani, 1997(1) Sim. L.C.237 and Gurbachan Singh V. Ravinder Nath Bhalla and others, Latest HLJ 2006(HP) 177. Therefore, no fault can be found with the finding by the Appellate Authority that the tenant had ceased to occupy the premises for a period of 12 months, before the institution of the petition".

23. Since in the present case, it stands duly proved that during disputed period consumption of electricity was minimal, presumption can be drawn that during this period no activity, whatsoever, was carried out in the said premises by the respondents-tenants to prove that they continuously resided in the demised premises. Respondents were expected to lead positive evidence that in last 12 months preceding to filing of the rent petition, they actually resided in the premises, mere symbolic possession, if any, of the premises cannot be sufficient to prove that they have not ceased to occupy the demised premises. In this regard, reliance is placed on judgment rendered by Hon'ble High Court of Himachal Pradesh in Vipin Kumar versus Raj Kumar Latest HLJ 2010(HP) 1201, the relevant para Nos.13 and 16 of the judgment are reproduced as under:-

> "13. The appeals arise out of proceedings for eviction of the respondents from the premises in question on the ground that they had ceased to occupy the building for a continuous period of more than four months without reasonable cause. The trial Court allowed the applications by orders which were affirmed on appeal by the first appellate Court. The respondents challenged the decree before the High Court by revision applications under Section 15(5) of the Rent Control Act which were allowed by the impugned judgment reversing the decree and dismissing the applications. The High Court has held that the landlord has to prove that the tenant by his conduct has brought the tenancy to an end and with that intention discontinued the occupation of the demised premises, and since this has not been done the application have to be dismissed. The relevant clause of Section 13(2) of the Rent Control Act states that a tenant will be liable to eviction if he ceases to occupy the building for a continuous period of four months without reasonable cause. The section does not require the cession of tenancy in question. The only condition which has to be satisfied is the non-user of the building for the requisite period. The principle underlying the provisions is that if a premise is not required by the tenant, it should become available to another person who may be in need thereof. The High Court, therefore, was clearly in error in assuming that unless the cession of the tenancy is proved eviction cannot be ordered."

"16. We are of the view Rent Control Court and Appellate Authority have committed a grave error in taking the view that only if there is abandonment it could be said that there would be cessation of occupation. Rent Control Court and Appellate Authority used words which are not in statute. Statute has not used the word "abandonment". The word "abandon" means to give up, to desert etc. Tenant need not abandon the building so as to attract section 11(4)(v) of the Act. Landlord is also not expected to establish that tenant has abandoned the building so as to attract section 11(4)(v). Once landlord could establish that tenant has ceased to occupy the premises continuously for six months prior to the filing of the petition he is entitled to get order of eviction under that section. The word" occupy" means to cohabit with to hld or have in possession, Tenanted premises must be in the state of being enjoyed and occupied. The word "occupy" used by the statute would show that tenanted premises be put to use. Tenant cannot be heard to contend that he is having physical possession of the premises though not in occupation. So far as this case is concerned, we are of the view landlord has discharged the burden and then the onus has shifted to the tenant and the tenant could not establish that he has not ceased to occupy the premises and even if there is cessation that was with reasonable cause."

24. Under the Rent Control Act, landlord are entitled to get the premises vacated in case tenant cease to occupy the tenanted premises for a period of 12 months before filing the petition without sufficient cause. In the present case, respondents by producing RW1 attempted to prove that they are in continuous possession of the tenanted premises, even after the death of their grandmother and thereafter, their father but this Court is of the view that tenant may be in possession but unless he occupies the premises, the possession is totally meaningless, rather respondent, to dispel the contention put forth on behalf of the petitioner that they cease to occupy the premises, is expected to lead positive evidence suggestive of the fact that they actually enjoyed premises tenanted by the landlord and not by another person. In the present case, as has been observed above, no positive evidence worth the name has been led on record that during that period, they actually resided in the tenanted premises which they could lead by placing on record copy of gas connection and detail of the ration procured on the basis of ration card place on record.

25. In the present case, admittedly, respondents were served and notices were issued by Rent Controller on the addresses of villages which itself suggests that at the time of filing of petition, respondents were residing at their village, as has been claimed by the petitioners in his rent petition. In this regard, reliance is placed on para -17 of the judgment passed by this Court in Sohan Lal Khanna v. Amar Singh, Latest HLJ 2000 (HP) 1008, which reads as follows:

"17. Again, it was specifically admitted by the tenant, which has been recorded in the judgment of the Appellate Authority that the tenant was served with a copy of the petition at his Faridabad address and all communications were served upon him at his Faridabad address. In the light of these circumstances, if a finding is recorded by the authorities that after retirement, the tenant had stayed at Faridabad with his children, it cannot be said that no such finding could have been arrived at and it requires to be interfered by this Court."

26. In the present case, learned counsel representing respondents-tenants had seriously contested the jurisdiction of this Court to interfere in the revision in the present revision petition. In this regard, reliance is placed on judgment rendered by this Court in Om Parkash v. Subhash Chand, 2003 (2) SLC 217, the relevant paras whereof are reproduced as belows:-

> "11. It is well settled that while exercising revisional jurisdiction under Section 24 of the Act, the High Court should ordinarily not interfere with the findings of facts particularly when such findings are concurrent. However, it is also well settled that in a case where the findings of fact are absurd, unreasonable and contrary to the evidence on record or based on no evidence, the High Court will have to interfere with such findings. It is so because in exercising the supervisory powers which vests in the High Court, it has to ensure that justice is done to the parties and in a case where injustice has been done to a party, it is duty of this Court to undo the same. In the case in hand, the findings of facts recorded by the learned Rent Controller had been reversed by the learned Appellate Authority, therefore, propriety of the findings recorded by the learned Appellate Authority has to be examined on the basis of the material on record."
> 22. The contention of the learned Counsel for the tenant that animus deserendi is not established, therefore, it could not be held that the tenant has ceased to occupy the premises. In G.C. Bhatia's case (supra) relied by the learned Counsel for the tenant to support his contention a learned Single Judge of this Court held as under:
>
> > "9. If a tenant uses the rented building occasionally, it may or may not amount to its non-occupation. The nature and extent of the occasional visits, the animus deserendi and the totality of circumstances each case will have to be considered for the purpose of determining whether the tenant has ceased to occupy the building for a continuous period of twelve months without reasonable cause."
>
> 23. Clause (v) of sub-section (2) of Section 14 of the Act which provides the cessation of the tenant to occupy the rented premises as a ground for eviction reads as under:
>
> > "(v) that the tenant has ceased to occupy the building or rented land for a continuous period of twelve months without reasonable cause."
>
> 24. On a bare reading of the aforesaid provisions, it is clear that to get eviction of the tenant on the aforesaid ground the landlord has to prove that the tenant had ceased to occupy the building for a continuous period of 12 months without reasonable cause and it does not require the landlord to prove further that the tenant has so ceased to occupy the premises with the intention not to occupy them at all at any time in future.
>
> 25. It may be pointed out that the ground to evict the tenant who has failed to occupy the building continuously for the specified period without any reasonable cause has been enacted by the legislature to ensure that the buildings which are scarce in the numbers especially in towns do not remain unused at the instance of the tenants who do not actually need them. Therefore, animus deserendi cannot be imported to the section and the landlord is not required to prove that the non-occupation of the premises by the tenant for a continuous period of months was pursuant to his intention not to occupy the premises in future.
>
> 26. In M/s Babu Ram Gopal and others v. Mathra Dass, AIR 1990 SC 879, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:
> > "3…..The reason of including the clause (v) in Section 13(2) is to ensure that buildings, which are scarce in number specially in the towns, necessitating rent control legislation, do not remain unused at the instance of tenants who do not actually need them. A tenant who is in > possession of a building in the legal sense only cannot be said to be in occupation thereof for the purpose of Section 13(2)(v); otherwise a question of his eviction as envisaged in that section would not arise. The section, by making provisions for his ejectment, assumes that he is in possession, but, still includes cessation of occupation as one of the grounds. The clause, therefore, has to be interpreted in this background and it must take colour from the context. We, therefore, hold that if a tenant stops the business which he is carrying on in a shop and closes the premises continuously for a period of four months without a reasonable cause he will be liable for eviction."

Therefore, animus deserendi on the part of the tenant is not an essential ingredient to be proved where the eviction of the tenant is sought on the ground of his ceasing to occupy the premises for a continuous period of 12 months.

27. Even in G.C. Bhatia's case (supra), this Court has not held that animus deserendi is essential ingredient to be proved by the landlord seeking eviction of the tenant on the ground of his ceasing to occupy the rented premises but it has been held only to be one of the factors which may weigh with the Court in determining whether the tenant has ceased to occupy the building or not. Moreover, intention of a human being is his mental state regarding which direct evidence can be seldom expected. Therefore, the contention of the learned Counsel for the tenant that animus deserendi in the case is not proved, therefore, order of the learned Appellate Authority calls for no interference is not sustainable.

27. No doubt, while exercising revisionary jurisdiction under Section 24 of the Act, High Court has very limited powers to interfere, especially when the findings are concurrent but it is now well settled that in case court comes to the conclusion that the findings of the court are absurd, unreasonable and contrary to the evidence available on record and same are not based upon proper appreciation of evidence, court has jurisdiction to interfere with such findings. In the present case also, as has been discussed above, learned Appellate Authority has not returned findings with regard to "cease to occupy" on the basis of evidence available on record, rather, same appears to be contrary to the facts as well as law. Hence, this Court with a view to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of the order passed by the learned appellate Authority undertook an exercise to critically examine the evidence available on record to ascertain that judgments passed by the learned appellate Authority is not perverse and same is based upon the proper appreciation of the evidence on record. This Court after perusing the evidence available on record deemed it fit to exercise its revisionary jurisdiction in the present facts and circumstances.

28. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made herein above, this Court sees no infirmity and illegality in the finding recorded by the learned Rent Controller that the "respondents-tenants have ceased to occupy the tenanted premises for the relevant time and, therefore, respondents are liable to be evicted from the tenanted premises," is based on the proper appreciation of evidence, whereas the contrary view taken by the Appellate Authority is not sustainable as same appears to be not based upon the correct appreciation of evidence available on record. Accordingly, the present petition is allowed and impugned order passed by the learned Appellate Authority is set-aside and order of Rent Controller directing eviction of tenant from the tenanted premises on the ground that respondents have ceased to occupy the tenanted premises without any reasonable cause preceding filing of this petition with costs of Rs. 2,000/- is restored.

Decided on: 5th July, 2016.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 6 Rule 17- Plaintiffs filed a civil suit for seeking injunction- an application for amendment was filed pleading that after filing of the suit defendants had got the window panes of the glaze of second floor towards the house of the plaintiffs and this fact was required to be pleaded- application was opposed by the defendants- held, that application was filed to incorporate the subsequent fact- hence, same is allowed subject to the payment of cost of Rs.6,000/-. (Para-5 to 7)

For the petitioners : Mr. Parveen Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. Avinash Jaryal, Advocate, for respondents No.5.
Nemo for respondents No.1 to 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition is maintained by the petitioners under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, for quashing and setting the order dated 10.11.2015, passed by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Chamba, District Chamba, H.P, in case titled Neeraj & others vs. Rajinder Kumar and others, in an application filed by the petitioners/applicants under Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure, dismissing the application of the petitioner with a prayer to allow the petitioners/plaintiffs to amend the plaint.

2. Brief facts giving rise to the present petition are that the petitioners/plaintiffs (hereinafter referred as 'plaintiffs') maintained the suit for mandatory injunction against the respondents/defendants (hereinafter referred as 'defendants') before the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Chamba, with a prayer that respondents No.1 to 4 be restrained from constructing the window panes of the glaze of second floor towards the house of the plaintiffs by issuing a mandatory injunction, but after filing of the suit, the defendants have in fact raised construction of the first floor of the window panes of the glaze, in such a manner that they have encroached upon the open air towards the house of the plaintiffs. So, the suit was required to be amended by including the loss. As per the plaintiffs, defendants No.1 to 4 have got the window panes of the glaze of the second floor towards the house of the plaintiffs during the pendency of the suit. Plaintiffs claimed the relief of mandatory injunction qua the window panes of the glaze of the second storey/floor of the house of the defendants and for that purpose the plaintiffs intend to amend their plaint in the following manner :

> "I) That the head note "A" and prayer clause "A" of the plaint is to be amended as under :
>
> The words "Thereby directing the defendants No.1 to 4 to open the window panes of their glaze laid in newly constructed 1st floor of their house" are to be substituted by the words "Directing the defendants No.1 to 4 to open the window panes of their glazes laid in newly constructed 1st floor and 2nd floor of their house inside their rooms."
> II) That a new para No.7-A is to be added in the plaint as under :

> "That the defendant No.1 to 4 has got the window panes of the second floor of their house fixed with its opening towards the house of plaintiffs during the pendency of the suit which are also required to be removed."

3. Reply to the application was filed. As per the defendants, plaintiffs have already sought the relief of mandatory injunction in their amended plaint, which was filed by them in the month of April, 2009, when plaintiffs moved an application under Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure for amendment of their plaint. Plaintiffs have filed another application under Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure, to fill up the lacuna of their case to which they are not entitled.

4. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the record of the case carefully.

5. At this moment, it is clear from the record that the plaintiffs want to amend the plaint after filing of the suit, defendants have raised the construction and the plaint is required to be amended as the cause of action has accrued after filing of the suit. The plaintiffs were required to be allowed to amend the suit, as plaintiff was having this cause after filing of the plaint, since the construction, as per the plaintiffs, was raised during the pendency of the suit.

6. Earlier also, the plaintiffs had moved a similar application before the learned Court below, but the same was withdrawn. In these circumstances, this Court finds that application of the plaintiffs under Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure, is required to be allowed to meet the ends of justice. However, the defendants are required to be compensated with costs assessed to the tune of Rs.6,000/- (rupees six thousand only).

7. In view of the above, the order of learned Court below is set aside and application of the plaintiffs under Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure, is allowed, however subject to costs of Rs.6,000/- (rupees six thousand only) to be paid by the plaintiffs to the defendants and only then the amended plaint be taken on record. Parties are directed to appear before the learned Court below on 28th July, 2016.

8. The petition is accordingly disposed of. Pending applications, if any, shall also stands disposed of.

For the petitioner : Mr. Chandranarayana Singh, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Senior Advocate with Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge

The present writ petition is maintained by the petitioner under Section 226 of the Constitution of India for issuance of writ of certiorari, mandamus or any other order quashing the order dated 10.12.2013 (Annexure P-5), passed by the learned Divisional Commissioner, Mandi (exercising the powers of Appellate Authority), in an appeal under Section 127 of the Electricity Act, 2003, whereby the appeal of the appellant has been dismissed without affording opportunity of hearing to the petitioner/appellant and to remand the case back to the Appellate Authority for fresh adjudication after hearing the petitioner/appellant before the Appellate Authority.

2. Briefly stating the facts giving rise to the present petition are that the petitioner is an Undertaking of Government of India and was the consumer of the respondent-Board for the consumption of electricity. The petitioner applied to the respondents for the supply of electricity for the Project and Township, which includes residential, as well as, official colony at Sainj, District Kullu, H.P, initially applied for a load of 216.77 KW in the year, 2004.

3. The respondent-Company called upon the petitioner to deposit Rs.2,17,000/- vide letter dated 26.7.2004, which was deposited in cash by the petitioner on 13.8.2004, alongwith Bank Guarantee to the tune of Rs.1,73,600/-.

4. The petitioner further applied for increase of load from the existing load of 216.77 KW to 1085 KW vide an application in September, 2005. Respondents asked the petitioner to deposit security on account of enhanced load to the tune of Rs.3,47,000/- in cash and a Bank Guarantee of Rs.6,95,200/-. The petitioner deposited the security amount of Rs.3.47,000/- on 21.9.2005 along with Bank Guarantee of Rs.6,95,200/- on 2.12.2005.

5. The petitioner further submitted an application on 24.12.2007 for extension of load to that of 3285.39 KW and a contract demand of 1460 KVA, as it was expected that in the near future, the petitioner would be demanding more load to run its activities and expected occupation of its residential quarters.

6. That respondent No.2, vide communication dated 26.2.2008, directed the appellant to deposit an amount of Rs.23,58,700/-. However, the said amount was on higher side and accordingly respondent No.2 issued a revised demand notice on 20.3.2008 for an amount of Rs.8,06,600/-. The said amount was deposited on 24.3.2008.

7. It has further been averred that on 17.3.2008 and 18.3.2008, officer of the respondent-Company visited petitioner's Sainj Township area and made certain inspections. However, the petitioner received a notice dated 10.6.2008. It was further averred in the notice that upon the inspection, the connected load was found to be 4843.18 KW against the sanctioned load of 216.77/1085.97 KW. It was further intimated that double of the amount of demand charges from March, 2007 to February, 2008 amounting to Rs.25,31,660/- and double the amount of energy charges for the same period to the tune of Rs.27,72,314/- totaling Rs.53,03,974 may be deposited.

8. It has further been averred that on receipt of the notice, the appellant submitted reply and that during the time of inspection, most of the residential premises had fallen vacant and no electricity connection was provided to those premises. It has also been averred that, in case, there was an increase in load, it would result in increase of the maximum demand, which would have been recorded in Meter Reading Instrument (hereinafter to be referred as MRI). It has also been averred that in case, there was an increase in the load during the last one year, the MRI would have immediately recorded the increase in maximum demand exceeded the contract demand which was to be 80% of the connected load (taking 0.9 factor), would have been immediately reflected in the MRI and consequently contract demand violation charge (CDVC) would have been reflected in the monthly electricity bills. It is also averred that no such charges were ever levied by the respondents in monthly electricity bills during the relevant tenure. As the same was demanded without any basis, the order was challenged before the Appellate Authority, i.e. the learned Divisional Commissioner, Mandi under Section 127 of the Electricity Act, who was exercising the powers of the Appellate Authority. The appeal was registered as Appeal No.156 of 2011, which was listed on 6.7.2011 and was adjourned from time to time.

9. On 27.6.2013, the Appellate Authority could not hold the Court and the case was adjourned as per the notice affixed on the Notice Board, The petitioner was not present in the Court on the next date as no notice of the next date had either been given by the Appellate Authority to the petitioner or to the learned counsel for the petitioner. As the petition was heard without any prior notice or intimation of the date either to the appellant or to the learned counsel on 10.12.2013. The same was decided without hearing the petitioner.

10. The respondents contested the writ petition by filing the reply and they had denied the contents of the writ petition and have averred that at the time of inspection, a load of 3285.39 KW was applied vide application in December, 2007, which was under sanctioning process, but the petitioner had connected additional load of 4843.18 KW above the sanctioned load of 216.77 KW un-authorisedly before it was sanctioned by the competent Authority.

11. However, the respondent has admitted that on 27.9.2013, the case was not taken up due to the administrative reasons, as the Presiding Officer could not hold the Court at Mandi, but it is averred by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the case has been adjourned intentionally and deliberately. The learned lower Appellate Court passed the following order:

> "Mandi
> 27.9.2013.
>
> "Due to administrative reasons, Ld. P.O. could not hold Court at Mandi today and as per his directions, this case is fixed on 25.10.2013 for the same purpose for which it was listed for today.
>
> Parties have been informed accordingly today by pasting a notice on the notice board of this court room.
>
> Sd/-
> N.T. (Peshi) to
> Divisional Commissioner,
> Mandi Division, Mandi."

12. Rejoinder was filed by the petitioner denying the contents of the reply and reiterated the averments, as made in the writ petition. It is further averred that it is for the respondent to intimate timely with regard to the increase/decrease of the maximum demand, as recorded by the Meter Reader Instrument (MRI) during the relevant period and held that reading be produced on record. It would have been clear that there was no unauthorized consumption of the electricity by the petitioner. It is further averred that the date was never intimated by the Appellate Authority either to the petitioner or to their learned counsel and it was the duty of the Court to communicate next date when the Court did not assemble.

13. Thereafter, on 25.10.2013, the Divisional Commissioner, passed the following order :

> "Mandi.

25.10.2013

"Case was called, no one became present on behalf of the appellant. Last opportunity was granted. Now, the case be listed for 12.11.2013.

Divisional Commissioner,
Mandi Division, Mandi."

14. On 12.11.2013, none was present for the petitioner, but the respondent was represented by an Advocate and the case was listed for orders on 10.12.2013 when the appeal was dismissed.

15. To appreciate the arguments adduced by the learned counsel for the parties, I have gone through the entire record of this case.

16. From this, it is clear that the notice was issued to the parties on 25.10.2013, but there is nothing on record to depict that the petitioner was served thereafter or the petitioner, had appeared in the Court on the next date, when the Appellate Authority had ordered the parties to appear in the Court on 25.10.2013, as the case had been adjourned on that day on 27.9.2013, when the Court had not assembled. So, it is clear that the appeal has been disposed of without serving the petitioner/appellant before the Appellate Authority and the same is decided without affording an opportunity of being heard to the petitioner/appellant by the Appellate Authority. Therefore, this is a fit case where the writ petition is required to be allowed directing the Appellate Authority to pass a detailed and speaking order. The order dated 10.12.2013 (Annexure-P-5) passed in Case No.155/2011, passed by the learned Divisional Commissioner, Mandi Division, Mandi exercising the powers of the Appellate Authority under Electricity Act, 2003, is quashed and set aside.

17. Consequently the present petition is allowed. All pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of accordingly. However, parties are directed to appear before the Appellate Authority, Mandi, H.P. on 22.8.2016. The Appellate Authority shall dispose of the matter within a period of three months from the receipt of the copy of this judgment. Records be also sent forthwith alongwith a copy of this judgment for further compliance.

The present writ petition is maintained by the petitioner under Section 226 of the Constitution of India for issuance of writ of certiorari, mandamus or any other order quashing the order dated 10.12.2013 (Annexure P-5), passed by the learned Divisional Commissioner, Mandi (exercising the powers of Appellate Authority), in an appeal under Section 127 of the Electricity Act, 2003, whereby the appeal of the appellant has been dismissed without affording opportunity of hearing to the petitioner/appellant and to remand the case back to the Appellate Authority for fresh adjudication after hearing the petitioner/appellant before the Appellate Authority.

2. Briefly stating the facts giving rise to the present petition are that the petitioner is an Undertaking of Government of India and was the consumer of the respondent-Board for the consumption of electricity. The petitioner applied to the respondents for the supply of electricity for the Project and Township, which includes residential as well as official colony at Sainj, District Kullu, H.P, and initially the petitioner applied for a load of 403.82 KW in the year, 2002.

3. The respondent-Company called upon the petitioner to deposit Rs.404025/- as security deposit, which, as per the petitioner, was deposited on 07.3.2002.

4. It has been averred that the petitioner further applied for increase of load from the existing load of 403.82KW to 2539.85 KW vide an application in December, 2007. Respondent No.2 vide communication dated 20.3.2008, directed the appellant to deposit security on account of applied enhanced load to the tune of Rs.5,56,000/- which was also deposited on 24.3.2008. The petitioner received a notice on 10.6.2008 in which it was alleged that on the inspection of Sainj Township area, the connected load was found to be 1118.26 KW against the sanctioned load of 403.82 KW and demanded double amount of the demand charges from March, 2007 to February, 2008 to the tune of Rs.12,56,500/- and double the amount of energy charges for the same period to the tune of Rs.10,36,344/- totaling Rs.22,92,844/- , which was also asked to be deposited.

5. It has further been averred that on receipt of the notice, the appellant submitted a reply and that during the time of inspection, most of the residential premises had fallen vacant and no electricity connection to those premises have been provided. It has also been averred that, in case, there was an increase in load, it would result in increase of the maximum demand, which would have been recorded in Meter Reading Instrument (hereinafter referred to be as MRI). It has also been averred that in case, there was an increase in the load during the last one year, the MRI would have immediately recorded the increase in maximum demand exceeded the contract demand, which was to be 80% of the connected load (taking 0.9 power factor), would have been immediately reflected in the MRI and consequently contract demand violation charge (CDVC) would have been reflected in monthly electricity bills. It is also averred that no such charges have ever been levied by the respondents in monthly electricity bills during the relevant tenure. It has been alleged that respondent No.2 vide communication dated 24.6.2008 observed that the alleged violation had already been established during the visit of Addl. Superintending Engineer, Shimla. The electricity bill was communicated along with the said communication directing the appellant to pay an amount of Rs.34,83,265/-. As the same was demanded without any basis, the order was challenged before the Appellate Authority, i.e. the learned Divisional Commissioner, Mandi, under Section 127 of the Electricity Act, which was exercising the powers of the Appellate Authority. The appeal was registered as Appeal No.155 of 2011, which was adjourned from time to time.

6. On 27.6.2013, the Appellate Authority could not hold the Court and the case was adjourned. The appeal was taken up without any prior notice or any intimation to the appellant or its learned counsel, on 10.12.2013 and the learned Court on its own, without affording any reasonable opportunity of hearing to the petitioner, heard and considered the appeal. The petitioner came to know about the order dated 10.12.2013, whereby the appeal had been dismissed by the Appellate Authority. It has further been averred that the petitioner also enquired from his counsel in this regard, who was not at all aware of the order passed by the Appellate Authority.

7. In view of the above stated position, this Court finds that no notice of the next date was either given by the Appellate Authority to the petitioner or to the learned counsel for the petitioner. As the petition was heard on 10.12.2013 without any prior notice or intimation of the date either to the appellant or to the learned counsel, the appeal was decided without hearing the petitioner.

8. The respondents contested the writ petition by filing the reply and had denied the contents of the writ petition and had averred that the petitioner had applied for increasing load from existing load of 403.82 KW to 2539.85 KW vide application in December, 2007, which was under sanctioning process, but the petitioner had connected additional load of 1118 KW above the sanctioned load of 403.82 KW unauthorizedly before it was sanctioned by the competent Authority.

9. However, the respondents have admitted that on 27.9.2013, the case was not taken up due to the administrative reasons, as the Presiding Officer could not hold the Court at Mandi, but it is averred by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the case has been adjourned intentionally and deliberately. 10. Rejoinder was filed by the petitioner denying the contents of the reply and reiterated the averments as made in the writ petition. 12. On 12.11.2013, none was present for the petitioner, but the respondent was represented by an Advocate and the case was listed for orders on 10.12.2013, when the appeal was dismissed.

13. To appreciate the arguments addressed by the learned counsel for the parties, I have gone through the entire record of this case.

14. From this, it is clear that the notice was issued to the parties, on 25.10.2013 but there is nothing on record to show that the petitioner was served thereafter or the petitioner had appeared in the Court on the next date, when the Appellate Authority had ordered the parties to appear in the Court on 25.10.2013, as the case had been adjourned for that day on 27.9.2013, when the Court has not assembled. Both the sentences have been ordered to run concurrently.

2. Case of the prosecution, in a nutshell, is that on 11.7.2014, prosecutrix alongwith her sister visited the Police Station, Barsar, and reported to the police vide application Ext. PW-1/A that she was a permanent resident of village Samtana, Tehsil Barsar, District Hamirpur. On 11.7.2014, at about 11.00 AM, she after doing her agriculture work in the fields was taking bath in the courtyard of village after raising a curtain with a bed sheet. While taking bath, accused came there. She, on seeing him, sat down and told the accused not to come there as she was bathing. But accused came to her and caught hold of her from her leg and then pushed her down on the ground. She fell down on her back. Accused removed his pajama and when he was in the process of removing his underwear, she got up and on making a noise, tried to run away but the accused caught hold of her from her leg and then dragged her on the ground. In the meantime, her niece Sangeeta reached there. Other persons namely Satya Devi, Santosh Kumari and Kamla also reached the spot. Accused ran away. She disclosed to them that the accused, on finding her naked and alone, attempted to commit rape on her but could not succeed as they had come in the meantime. She received injuries on her back, neck and leg. On the basis of application, FIR Ext. PW-12/A was registered. Photographs of spot were taken. Slippers of accused left behind at the spot were taken into possession. Statements of witnesses were recorded. Accused made disclosure statement Ext. PW-7/A, in the presence of Constable Ajay and Constable Happy Singh that he could identify the place where he attempted to commit rape upon the prosecutrix. Accused was subjected to medical examination vide MLC Ext. PW-4/C. Medical examination of the prosecutrix was also done on 12.7.2014 vide Ext. PW-4/A. Investigation was completed. Challan was put in the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. Prosecution examined as many as thirteen witnesses to prove its case against the accused. Accused was examined under Section 313 of Criminal Procedure Code. He has denied the case of the prosecution. Accused was convicted and sentenced as noticed above. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. Mohit Thakur, Advocate has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused.

5. Mr. Parmod Thakur, Additional Advocate General, has supported Judgment dated 5.5.2015.

6. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the judgment and record carefully.

7. Prosecutrix (PW-1) testified that on 11.7.2014, at about 11 AM, she had gone to her cowshed to keep her cattle. After keeping her cattle in the same, she raised a curtain outside her residence to take bath. When she was taking bath, accused came there and asked whether there was water in the tap. She told that there was no water and he should bring some vessel. She thought that the accused had gone. She continued taking bath. While she was taking batch, accused suddenly appeared there and on seeing him, she sat down and closed her arms. Accused started gazing at her and on her asking as to what he was doing, accused pulled her from her legs. She fell down. Accused took off his pajamas and underwear, upon which she raised alarm and caught the accused in order to stop him from doing wrong act. On hearing her cries, Sangeeta PW-3, Satya (PW-2) and Kamla came to the spot. When Sangeeta was coming, accused pulled her from her legs, resultantly she fell down. Accused after pulling up his pajama, ran away from the spot. She sustained injuries on her neck, back and legs. Had the aforesaid persons not come on the spot, accused would have committed rape upon her. She visited the house of Pradhan twice but she was not at home. She was alone in her house. She called her sister Kamlesh Kumari and with her went to the Police Station, Barsar to report the matter to the police. She presented application Ext. PW-1/A against accused. Police took her to hospital for medical examination. Police visited the spot. Spot map was prepared by the police. They took photographs and recovered slippers of accused which were left on the spot. In her cross-examination, she has admitted that the accused was her brother-in-law. They were two members in the house, she and her son. House of accused was 200 metres from her house. Her house consisted of two rooms and a separate kitchen. She denied the suggestion that they have two latrines and one bathroom. She admitted that there was a path leading from Samtana to Paniali village in front of cowshed. She also admitted that the path after leading through the front of her cowshed further leads through its backside. She admitted that the path had been made pakka by the Panchayat. She admitted that there were 35-40 houses in the village Paniali. She admitted that land of the accused measuring 5-6 Kanal was adjoining to her house. She denied the suggestion that there was no land adjoining to her house. She denied the suggestion that she used to cultivate the land of accused. She also denied the suggestion that sometimes back, fields had been taken back. She denied the suggestion that dispute took place due to lopping of Biul trees. She had raised curtain with the help of one big bed sheet. Curtain had been raised with the help of drum and wooden sticks. She admitted that the bed sheet was not transparent. Accused caught hold of her from both the legs. She received injuries on her back and head struck against stone. Application Ext. PW-1/A was got written from Pradhan Roma Devi at Ukhali on the same day. She admitted that her brother was serving as HHC in the Police Department at Police Station, Barsar. She admitted that her village fell in Police Station Bijhari. Accused while committing said act remained at the spot for 30-35 minutes.

8. Satya Devi (PW-2) corroborated the statement of PW-1. She testified that on 11.7.2014, she was working in her fields and complainant was grazing her goats near her fields. She asked her to move to the house but she told that she would come after tying her goats in the cowshed. She waited for her but when she did not come for sometime, she returned to her house and started taking bath. When she was taking bath, she heard the prosecutrix shouting and calling her daughter's name, on which she asked her daughter to go and see what was happening. After sending her daughter, she also rushed towards the complainant's cowshed. When she reached there accused had already left and complainant told her that while she was taking bath, near her cowshed after raising curtain, accused came there and tried to rape her. She also told her that accused ran away towards the jungle when Sangeeta reached there. When she reached there, prosecutrix was undressed. On the next day, police visited the spot, prepared spot map, took photographs and took into possession a pair of slippers of accused which were lying at the spot. In her cross-examination, she has admitted that the complainant was her real sister-in-law. They had good relations with the complainant. Their houses were adjacent. She denied the suggestion that the bathroom was jointly used by them and complainant. She admitted that land of accused was adjoining to their houses. She denied the suggestion that the land of accused used to be cultivated by the complainant. She denied the suggestion that the complainant was asking accused to give land for constructing a house. She denied the suggestion that accused and complainant had a quarrel regarding lopping of Biul trees as well as cutting of grass. Curtain was raised with the help of bed sheet

9. Sangeeta (PW-3) deposed that the complainant was her aunt (Chachi). She was a student of BA 1st year at Bhota. On 11.7.2014, at about 11.30 AM, her mother, while she was taking bath, called her and asked her to go and see as to why complainant was shouting. On this, she rushed towards the cowshed of prosecutrix. On reaching there, she saw that her aunt was naked and accused was also coming from that side. She picked a Danda for beating the accused, but he on seeing her, ran towards jungle. Soon thereafter, her mother and Kamla Devi also reached the spot. In her cross-examination, she deposed that the path existing in front of cowshed was used to reach village Paniali. She denied the suggestion that there was a quarrel between the complainant and accused regarding cutting of grass. Curtain was raised with the help of drum and bed sheet.

10. Dr. Sapna (PW-5) is the Medical Officer. She examined the prosecutrix and observed following injuries

1. Complain of pain on left shoulder
2. Scratch over nape of neck left side.
3. Bruise measuring 2 x 3 cm over left ankle.

11. All the injuries were simple in nature. She issued MLC Ext. PW-4/A. She also examined the accused and issued MLC Ext. PW-4/B.

12. Roma Kumari (PW-5) deposed that on 11.7.2014, prosecutrix met her at Ukhali and disclosed that accused had attempted to commit rape upon her while she was taking bath by raising curtain. She wrote application Ext PW-1/A to SHO Police Station Badsar. On the next day, police visited the spot at 7-7.30 AM on the identification by prosecutrix, prepared spot map and took photographs. Police also recovered a pair of slippers lying on the spot and which, as per the prosecutrix were of the accused.

13. Constable Happy Singh (PW-7) testified that on 25.7.2014, accused made a disclosure statement in his presence and in the presence of Constable Ajay Kumar that he could lead the police party to the place where he attempted to commit rape on the complainant. Statement was reduced into writing vide Ext. PW-7/A.

14. ASI Parkash (PW-10) testified that on 12.7.2014, Inspector /SHO Shashi Pal visited the spot and handed over investigation of the case to him. At about 7-7.30 AM, he visited the spot which was identified by the prosecutrix. Photographs of the spot were taken. Spot map Ext. PW-10/A was prepared. A pair of plastic slippers lying on the spot was recovered. He recorded the statements of the witnesses Satya Devi, prosecutrix, Roma Devi under Section 161 CrPC. He also recorded statements of Sangeeta, Kamla and Santosh Kumari. Accused was arrested on 23.7.2014. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that the path shown in Ext. PW-10/A was Kachha and leads to village Paniali. He denied the suggestion that investigation was undertaken on the dictates of Karam Chand.

15. SI Amar Singh (PW-11) deposed that on 25.7.2014, case file was handed over to him for investigation by Inspector Shashi Pal. Accused made a disclosure statement. It was reduced into writing vide Ext. PW-7/A. Accused led the police to the spot where he had attempted to commit rape upon the prosecutrix. Map Ext. PW-11/A was prepared.

16. It is evident from the statements of the witnesses analyzed hereinabove that the accused has arrived at the spot at a time when prosecutrix was taking bath. He asked for water. Prosecutrix told him that there was no water and he should bring a vessel. However, accused pulled her from her legs. She fell down. Accused thereafter took off his pajamas. She raised alarm. Satya Devi (PW-2) and Sangeeta (PW-3) came on the spot. Accused again pulled her from legs. She fell down. Accused pulled up his pajama and ran away. She received injury on her neck, back and legs. Matter was reported to the police. Statement of PW-1 (prosecutrix) is duly supported by PW-2 Satya Devi, about the manner in which prosecutrix shouted for help and she sent her daughter to the spot. PW-2 Satya Devi noticed that the prosecutrix was undressed when she reached the spot. She has denied the suggestion that there was any quarrel. Similarly, PW-1 (prosecutrix) has also denied that there was any enmity between the parties about the fields or lopping of Biul trees. PW-3 Sangeeta has also deposed that her mother was taking bath. She told her to go and find out why the prosecutrix was shouting. She reached the spot. She found her Aunt in naked condition. Accused was also going that side. She picked a Danda however, accused managed to escape. Soon thereafter, her mother Kamla and Aunt also came on the spot. PW-4 Dr. Sapna has noticed simple injuries on the left side of her (prosecutrix) neck and bruises measuring 2 x 3 cm were found on her left ankle. She proved MLC Ext. PW-4/A. Slippers of the accused were taken into possession by the police. Police visited the spot after disclosure statement was made by the accused.

17. Mr. Mohit Thakur, Advocate has vehemently argued that the accused has been falsely implicated due to the dispute between the parties. However, fact of the matter is that, as noticed above, there was no enmity between the parties. No woman would risk her honour by leveling false allegations that too against her brother-in-law. He also argued that it is not believable that the prosecutrix was taking bath in a temporary bathroom raised near a busy thoroughfare. It has come in the statement of the prosecutrix (PW-1) that she has constructed a bathroom with the help of drums and wooden sticks. The Court can take judicial notice of the fact that in the villages, there are no permanent bathrooms in most of the houses and temporary bathrooms are constructed/raised. Accused was seen coming from the spot by PW-3 Sangeeta. Accused has pulled down prosecutrix from her legs twice, resulting into injuries. She raised alarm and even after raising alarm, accused pulled the prosecutrix down. Delay in filing the FIR has been duly explained since PW-1 prosecutrix has twice visited the house of Pradhan for reporting the matter. Statement of PW-1 prosecutrix is duly corroborated by PW-2 Satya Devi, PW-3 Sangeeta and PW-5 Roma Kumari. Accused has made an attempt to commit rape upon the prosecutrix by reaching the spot and removing curtain. He had the intention to commit the offence of rape upon the prosecutrix. Thus, the prosecution has duly proved the case against the accused under Sections 376 read with Sections 511 and 354 © IPC. There is no occasion for this Court to interfere with the well reasoned judgment of the learned trial Court.

18. Accordingly, there is no merit in the present appeal and the same is dismissed, so also the pending applications, if any

Cases referred:

Union of India vs. Ibrahim Uddin and Another, (2012)8 SCC 148
Wadi vs. Amilal and Others, (2015)1 SCC 677
Laxmidevamma and Others vs. Ranganath and Others, (2015)4 SCC 264

For the Appellant:	Mr.G.R. Palsra, Advocate,
For Respondent No.1:	Mr.Atul Jhingan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma,J.

This appeal has been filed by the appellant-plaintiff against the judgment and decree dated 1.12.2006, passed by the learned District Judge, Mandi, District Mandi, H.P., affirming the judgment and decree dated 26.8.2003, passed by the learned Sub Judge Ist Class, Court No.2, Mandi, H.P., whereby the suit filed by the appellant-plaintiff has been dismissed.

2. The brief facts of the case are that the plaintiff- appellant (herein after referred to as the `plaintiff'), filed a suit for declaration with consequential relief of injunction wherein he averred that the land comprised in Khata No.127 Khatauni No.134, Khasra No.943 (old) and new Khasra No.913/1, measuring 0-5-1 bigha and the land comprised in Khewat No.127/134 min, Khatauni No.913 min (old), 935/1 (new), measuring 0-4-17 bighas, situated in Mauja Ledo, District Mandi, H.P., (hereinafter referred as the "suit land"), is recorded in the ownership and possession of defendant No.2 Durga. It is alleged that the aforesaid suit property is joint Hindu coparcenary and ancestral property and plaintiff, being grandson of defendant No.2, has got right in the said property by birth. It is further alleged that on 12.12.1991, defendant No.2 has wrongly and illegally entered into an agreement to sell with defendant No.1 for the sale of the suit land, measuring 0-5-0 bigha from each of Khasra numbers for a consideration of Rs.4,000/-. The plaintiff further alleged that defendant No.1 has also obtained ex-parte decree against defendant No.2 for specific performance of contract and injunction as consequential relief with regard to the suit land vide judgment and decree dated 28.8.1998 passed in Civil Suit No.151/96(95), which is collusive, wrong, illegal and not binding on the rights of the plaintiff. It is further alleged by the plaintiff that the defendants were asked time and again to get the said agreement cancelled as well as judgment of trial Court set aside but all in vain, hence the present suit.

3. Defendant No.1, by way of written statement, raised preliminary objections on the ground of maintainability, the present suit being collusive between the plaintiff and defendant No.2 and plaintiff having no locus standi to challenge the decree dated 28.8.1998. On merits, the defendant denied the averments made in para-1 of the plaint and alleged that defendant No.2 is not owner in possession of the suit land. However, defendant No.1 admitted the factum of agreement to sell between him and defendant No.2. It was also denied that the suit land is joint Hindu Coparcenary property and plaintiff is grandson of defendant No.2. Vide averments made in para-3 of the written statement, defendant No.1 has referred to the previous judgment passed on the basis of agreement to sell between him and defendant No.2 and also made reference to the execution of sale deed by way of appointment of Commissioner on 3.7.2000, on the basis of which now he has become owner in possession of the suit property and the said decree is denied to be collusive. Rather, the present suit is alleged to be collusive. It was averred that defendant No.2 has also sold some land out of the suit land to different persons. All the other averments have been denied by defendant No.1 and prayed that the suit be dismissed.

4. Defendant No.2, as per record of the trial Court, has not filed any written statement as he was proceeded ex-parte.

5. The plaintiff also filed replication to the written statement filed by defendant No.1 and reiterated the allegations made in the plaint and denied those of written statement.

6. The learned trial Court, on the basis of pleadings of the parties, settled inasmuch as 7 issues and decided four issues against the plaintiff and three issues against defendant No.1 and accordingly dismissed the suit of the plaintiff. An appeal preferred before the learned Appellate Court was also dismissed.

7. This second appeal was admitted on the following substantial questions of law:

(1) Whether both the ld.courts below have misread, misconstrued and misinterpreted the oral as well as documentary evidence especially Ex.PX,

Ex.RX and Ex.RY, which has materially prejudiced the case of the appellant?

(2) Whether the judgment dated 28.8.1998 in previous suit has been obtained in collusion with defendant Durga?

8. Shri G.R. Palsra, learned counsel representing the appellant-plaintiff, vehemently argued that the judgment and decree passed by both the Courts below are against law and facts on record and as such the same deserve to be quashed and set aside being unsustainable in the eye of law. He also submitted that, while dismissing the suit filed by the plaintiff, both the Courts bellow misread, misconstrued and misinterpreted oral as well as documentary evidence made available on record, especially Ex.PX, Ex.RX and Ex.RY. He contended that both the Courts below, in order to prove the relationship of the plaintiff with Durga, have failed to appreciate ample oral evidence led by the plaintiff coupled with the document Ex.PX, hence, any finding returned by the Courts below that the plaintiff failed to prove the relationship, if any, with Durga is contrary to the record and same deserves to be quashed and set aside. He forcefully contended that the finding returned by the learned Courts below that the suit land is self acquired property of deceased Durga is contrary to record and cannot be allowed to sustain, especially in view of the documentary evidence available on record. During arguments having been made by him, he also invited the attention of this Court to the oral as well as documentary evidence led on record to demonstrate that the plaintiff had led the cogent and convincing evidence on record to prove relationship between the parties. He also made this Court to peruse the statements rendered by the defendant and argued that bare perusal of deposition made by defendant suggests that it is untrustworthy and does not inspire confidence and has been wrongly relied by the Courts below. He also contended that findings returned by the both the Courts below that ex-parte decree, dated 28.8.1998, obtained by defendant No.1, is not collusive, rather the same is based upon the agreement to sell, allegedly entered into by Shri Durga with defendant No.1 is not based on correct appreciation of record. He strenuously argued that the rights of the plaintiff, who was admittedly minor, were required to be protected by the Court. But, in the present case, both the Courts below, solely relying upon the statement given by the defendant, dismissed the suit of the plaintiff ignoring the revenue record, wherein it stands clearly established that Durga inherited the suit property from his forefathers and as such plaintiff, being grandson of Durga, had right over the ancestral property. He also invited the attention of this Court to CMP No.115 of 2007 filed in this appeal under Order 41 Rule 27 of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short `CPC') for permission to lead additional evidence. However, perusal of order dated 27.2.2009, when the present appeal was admitted, suggests that aforesaid application was ordered to be considered at the time of final hearing of the main appeal.

9. Shri Atul Jhingan, learned counsel, representing the respondents, supported the judgments passed both the Courts below. He vehemently argued that no interference, whatsoever, of this Court is called for in the present case, where concurrent findings have been returned by the Courts below that too after appreciating material evidence available on record. During submissions having been made by him, he made this Court to travel through oral as well as documentary evidence available on record by respective parties to demonstrate that how miserably the plaintiff has failed to prove that the suit land was joint, co-parcenary and ancestral property and he being the member of joint Hindu co-parcenary and ancestral property, (being the grandson of defendant No.2), has right in the suit property by birth. He forcefully contended that there is no document on record suggestive of the fact that the plaintiff, being grandson of defendant No.2, has right in the suit property by birth. He also invited the attention of this Court to the statement made by PW-1 Keshav Ram, father of the plaintiff, wherein he deposed that Durga, apart from ancestral property, had some self-acquired property. He also argued that there is nothing in the statement of PW-1 to suggest that which part of land was sold by Durga to defendant No.1. He also opposed the prayer made on behalf of the plaintiff for setting aside the ex-parte decree dated 28.8.1998 obtained by defendant No.1 on the ground that no evidence worth the name has been led on record to demonstrate/suggest that agreement to sell dated 12.12.1991, entered between defendant No.1 and Durga, is a result of fraud or collusion. He also opposed the aforesaid application bearing CMP No.115 of 2007 filed on behalf of the plaintiff for leading additional evidence, at this stage, by stating that the plaintiff had ample opportunity to place on record additional documents, if any, at the trial stage of suit and thereafter during the pendency of first appeal. He invited the attention of this Court to the application and argued that no reasons, whatsoever have been spelt out in the application for non-placing of these documents at the time of filing of the suit, when admittedly these were available with the plaintiff. At last he prayed for the dismissal of the appeal.

10. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record of the case.

11. Before proceeding to answer the substantial questions of law formulated by this Court, at the time of admission, it would be appropriate and in the interest of justice to deal with the application being CMP No.115/2014 filed on behalf of the plaintiff under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC for placing on record additional evidence at first instance.

12. Appellant in his application moved under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC has sought permission to lead additional evidence during the pendency of the present appeal. It would be apt to reproduce paras 2 and 3 of the application which are reproduced hereinbelow.

> "2. That the applicant/appellant due to inadvertence could not file the material documents, which are very necessary and bone of contention between the parties because most of the record is in Urdu and the applicant is minor, whose interest has not been protected and watched in proper manner by the guardian who is also simpleton/illiterate lady. Now, the applicant wants to file by way of additional evidence the following documents:-
> (i) Copy of Sajra Naxb (Pedigre table)
>
> (ii) Copy of jamabandi for the year 1939-40
>
> (iii) Copy of mutation No.334 dated 15.6.1951 alongwith jamabandi for the year 1950-51
> (iv) Copy of pariwar register
>
> (v) Copy of jamabandi for the year 1997-98.
>
> (vi) Copy of consolidation for the year 1991-92.
>
> (vii) Copy Misalhaquiat Bandobast Jadid.
> 3. That if the aforesaid documents are not allowed to be produced and exhibited in this case, then the case of the applicant/appellant will be adversely affected because these documents prove the nature of the suit land and the relationship of the plaintiff with the deceased Durga."

13. Bare perusal of averments contained in the paras reproduced above, suggests that applicant-appellant, due to inadvertence, failed to file these documents at the time of filing of the suit. Interestingly, applicant-appellant, mother of the minor Rajan Sharma, has moved this application for placing on record the aforementioned documents by way of additional evidence. Only reason, which has been given for not furnishing these documents at the time of suit, is that same could not be filed due to inadvertence since the applicant is minor, his interest has not been protected and watched in proper manner by his mother, who is a simpleton illiterate lady. But careful perusal of this application, which is duly supported by affidavit of Smt.Dhanwanti Devi widow of Shri Keshav Ram, who had actually filed a suit on behalf of Rajan Sharma, minor plaintiff, being natural guardian. It is not understood that how a simpleton illiterate lady, who failed to protect and watch the interest of the minor in proper manner, could file the instant application at this stage for leading additional evidence by placing some documents on record. Since this application on behalf of minor plaintiff has been moved by the same lady, who allegedly, as per averments contained in para-2, failed to protect and watch interest of minor in proper manner, it cannot be accepted that due to inadvertence documents proposed to file at this stage could not be filed at the time of filing the suit. Rather, while perusing the judgments passed by both the Courts below, it transpired that applicant-appellant had moved one application for leading additional evidence before the first appellate Court, wherein copy of Parivar Register was sought to be placed on record to prove that minor plaintiff Rajan Sharma grandson of Durga had share in the joint co-parcenary property. At this stage, plaintiff-appellant owes explanation that why these documents, if any, available with them, were not filed at the time of moving application before the first appellate Court. Perusal of the documents proposed to be placed on record at this stage, as find mention in paragraph-2 of the application, itself suggests that all these documents were available at the time of filing the suit and no plausible explanation worth the name has been rendered by the applicant-appellant in the application that why despite due diligence he could not lay his hand to these documents at the time of filing of the suit and as such this Court sees no reasons, whatsoever, to accept the contention put forth by the applicant-appellant at this stage regarding inadvertence. Rather, Court has reasons to believe that after passing of the judgments by both the Courts below better sense prevailed upon the appellant and they after taking hint from the observations made by the Courts below, moved instant application under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC at this stage, which cannot be permitted at this belated stage. No doubt, documents, proposed to be led in additional evidence, are prepared by the government servants in discharge of their duties and same are perse admissible, but fact remains that it was duty of the applicant-plaintiff to place the same on record at the time of filing of the suit and in case these documents were not available to the plaintiff at that time, he could always move an application at the time of filing first appeal. If the application filed by the applicant-appellant is read in its entirety, no plausible explanation worth the name has been rendered for not placing these documents on record at the time of filing of the suit and thereafter at the time of filing the first appeal. There is no whisper that what prevented the applicant-plaintiff to place these documents on record earlier. As has been observed above, only explanation rendered by the applicants, that interest of minor was not protected and watched in proper manner by his guardian, who is simpleton illiterate lady, is also falsified on the face of it because admittedly present application has also been filed by the same lady, who, as per paragraph-2 of the application, failed to protect and watch the interest of minor being guardian and mother of the minor. Hence, this Court sees no reason, whatsoever, to allow this application at this belated stage because allowing the application, at this stage, would be detrimental to the interest of the defendants, who, admittedly, after contesting the suit for almost 13 years, have finally succeeded by leading cogent and convincing evidence on record to establish their right over the suit land. Apart from this, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that no sufficient cause has been rendered by the applicant-appellant in the application for non production of these documents, hence application deserves to be rejected.

14. In this regard reliance is placed on Union of India vs. Ibrahim Uddin and Another, (2012)8 SCC 148, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held:-

> "Order 41 Rule 27 CPC
> 36. The general principle is that the Appellate Court should not travel outside the record of the lower court and cannot take any evidence in appeal. However, as an exception, Order 41 Rule 27 CPC enables the Appellate Court to take additional evidence in exceptional circumstances. The Appellate Court may permit additional evidence only and only if the conditions laid down in this rule are found to exist. The parties are not entitled, as of right, to the admission of such evidence. Thus, provision does not apply, when on the basis of evidence on record, the Appellate Court can pronounce a satisfactory judgment. The matter is entirely within the discretion of the court and is to be used sparingly. Such a discretion is only a judicial discretion circumscribed by the limitation specified in the rule itself. (Vide: K. Venkataramiah v. A. Seetharama Reddy, AIR 1963 SC 1526; The Municipal Corp. of Greater Bombay v. Lala Pancham, AIR 1965 SC 1008; Soonda Ram v. Rameshwarlal, AIR 1975 SC 479; and Syed Abdul Khader v. Rami Reddy, AIR 1979 SC 553).

37. The Appellate Court should not, ordinarily allow new evidence to be adduced in order to enable a party to raise a new point in appeal. Similarly, where a party on whom the onus of proving a certain point lies fails to discharge the onus, he is not entitled to a fresh opportunity to produce evidence, as the Court can, in such a case, pronounce judgment against him and does not require any additional evidence to enable it to pronounce judgment. (Vide Haji Mohammed Ishaq v. Mohd. Iqbal and Mohd. Ali and Co., AIR 1978 SC 798).

38. Under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC, the appellate Court has the power to allow a document to be produced and a witness to be examined. But the requirement of the said Court must be limited to those cases where it found it necessary to obtain such evidence for enabling it to pronounce judgment. This provision does not entitle the appellate Court to let in fresh evidence at the appellate stage where even without such evidence it can pronounce judgment in a case. It does not entitle the appellate Court to let in fresh evidence only for the purpose of pronouncing judgment in a particular way. In other words, it is only for removing a lacuna in the evidence that the appellate Court is empowered to admit additional evidence. (Vide Lala Pancham).

39. It is not the business of the Appellate Court to supplement the evidence adduced by one party or the other in the lower Court. Hence, in the absence of satisfactory reasons for the non- production of the evidence in the trial court, additional evidence should not be admitted in appeal as a party guilty of remissness in the lower court is not entitled to the indulgence of being allowed to give further evidence under this rule. So a party who had ample opportunity to produce certain evidence in the lower court but failed to do so or elected not to do so, cannot have it admitted in appeal. (Vide State of U.P. v. Manbodhan Lal Srivastava, AIR 1957 SC 912 and S. Rajagopal v. C.M. Armugam, AIR 1969 SC 101).

40. The inadvertence of the party or his inability to understand the legal issues involved or the wrong advice of a pleader or the negligence of a pleader or that the party did not realise the importance of a document does not constitute a "substantial cause" within the meaning of this rule. The mere fact that certain evidence is important, is not in itself a sufficient ground for admitting that evidence in appeal.

41. The words "for any other substantial cause" must be read with the word "requires" in the beginning of sentence, so that it is only where, for any other substantial cause, the Appellate Court requires additional evidence, that this Rule will apply, e.g., when evidence has been taken by the lower Court so imperfectly that the Appellate Court cannot pass a satisfactory judgment."(pp.167-169)

15. In Wadi vs. Amilal and Others, (2015)1 SCC 677, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held:

"4. It cannot be disputed that the correct date of death of Rupa Ram would clinch the issue and enable the court to pronounce a satisfactory judgment in the suit. A perusal of mutation No. 49, if proved, would throw considerable light on the issue. On the question of admission of that document by the appellate court, it would be necessary to notice the relevant provision of Order 41 Rule 27 of the Code of Civil Procedure:

"27. Production of additional evidence in appellate court. (1) The parties to an appeal shall not be entitled to produce additional evidence, whether oral or documentary, in the appellate court, but if -

(a)-(aa) * * *

(b) the appellate court requires any document to be produced or any witness to be examined to enable it to pronounce judgment, or for any other substantial cause, the appellate court may allow such evidence or document to be produced or witness to be examined."

5. Now it is clear that Rule 27 deals with production of additional evidence in the appellate court. The general principle incorporated in Sub-rule (1) is that the parties to an appeal are not entitled to produce additional evidence (oral or documentary) in the appellate court to cure a lacuna or fill up a gap in a case. The exceptions to that principle are enumerated thereunder in Clauses (a), (aa) and (b). We are concerned here with Clause (b) which is an enabling provision. It says that if the appellate court requires any document to be produced or any witness to be examined to enable it to pronounce judgment, it may allow such document to be produced or witness to be examined. The requirement or need is that of the appellate court bearing in mind that the interest of justice is paramount. If it feels that pronouncing a judgment in the absence of such evidence would result in a defective decision and to pronounce an effective judgment admission of such evidence is necessary, Clause (b) enables it to adopt that course. Invocation of Clause (b) does not depend upon the vigilance or negligence of the parties for it is not meant for them. It is for the appellant to resort to it when on a consideration of material on record it feels that admission of additional evidence is necessary to pronounce a satisfactory judgment in the case."(pp.678-679)

16. In the present case, applicant-plaintiff nowhere pleaded on record that despite due diligence, he could not produce these documents before the learned first appellate Court, rather very strange stand has been taken in para-2 of the application which is reproduced hereinbelow:

"2. That the applicant/appellant due to inadvertence could not file the material documents, which are very necessary and bone of contention between the parties because most of the record is in Urdu and the applicant is minor, whose interest has not been protected and watched in proper manner by his guardian who is also simpleton/illiterate lady."

17. But, as has been observed above, present application has also been moved by the same lady who has been termed as `simpleton/illiterate lady'. There is no averment worth the name to suggest that it was beyond their control to place these documents in evidence at the time of filing suit and thereafter in appeal. Appellant-applicant could have definitely produced these documents, if he had shown due diligence during the course of the trial but as emerges from the record, suit in question has been filed half heartedly by the father of the minor plaintiff namely; Rajan Sharma, who admittedly was the son of late Durga i.e. grandfather of plaintiff. It is not understood when a suit for declaration with consequential relief of injunction against the defendant was filed by stating that the suit property is joint Hindu co-parcenary and ancestral property and plaintiff, being grandson of defendant No.2, has right to said property by birth, why the documents, which are now being sought to be placed on record, were not filed, which were admittedly crucial of determining the dispute in question. This Court, while deciding this application, constrained to take into consideration the stand taken by the defendants in the suit where specific objection with regard to collusion of present plaintiff and defendant No.2 has been taken. In totality of the facts and circumstances narrated hereinabove, this Court has plausible reasons to conclude that the present application has been filed solely with a view to fill up the lacune as indicated by both the Courts below and as such application moved at this belated stage cannot be allowed by this Court, accordingly the same is dismissed.

18. To answer substantial question of law No.1, as formulated above, this Court traveled through the evidence led on record by the respective parties as well as documentary evidence especially Exs.PX, RX, and RY.

19. After traversing through record of this Case, it appears that plaintiff Rajan Sharma, being grandson of Durga, filed a suit on the ground that he being the member of joint Hindu co-parcenary and ancestral property has a right in the property by birth. He filed suit for declaration with consequential relief of injunction, wherein, he averred that land, description whereof has been given above, is recorded in the ownership and possession of the defendant No.2- deceased (LRs of whom stand proceeded ex-parte). Plaintiff specifically alleged that property is a joint Hindu co-parcenary and ancestral property and he, being grandson of defendant No.2, has right in the property by birth since, as per plaintiff, defendant No.1 wrongly and illegally entered into agreement to sell on 12.12.1991 with defendant No.2 for the sale of 0-10 bighas of land i.e. 0-5-0 bigha each from two Khasra Numbers, for a consideration of very petty amount i.e. Rs.4,000/-. The plaintiff has further alleged that defendant No.1 has also obtained ex-parte decree against defendant No.2 for specific performance of contract and injunction as consequential relief with regard to the suit land vide judgment and decree dated 28.8.1998 passed in Civil Suit No.151/96(95). Plaintiff by way of suit also sought declaration that aforesaid decree being collusive, wrong, illegal and not binding on the rights of the plaintiff may also be declared nonest and set aside. Defendant contested the suit and specifically denied that defendant No.2 is owner in possession of the suit land. Defendant No.1 in written statement admitted that he had entered into an agreement to sell with defendant No.2 and after obtaining decree from the Civil Court he got the sale deed executed qua the suit land. Assertion of the plaintiff that the suit land is a joint Hindu co-parcenary property and he is grandson of defendant No.2 has also specifically been denied by the defendant. Defendant also denied that the decree obtained by him is collusive, rather he alleged that suit is collusive.

20. Keshav Ram, father of plaintiff Rajan Sharma, appeared as PW-1 and reiterated the submissions contained in the plaint. He specifically stated that defendant No.2 Durga was his father and suit property is ancestral in nature as the same was inherited by Durga from his ancestors. In his statement he also deposed with regard to the agreement allegedly executed between defendants No.1 and 2, but stated the same to be result of fraud. However, in his cross-examination he stated that the name of his grandfather is Gopal and that of his great-grandfather is Mahajan. In his cross-examination he also admitted that the entire land in the name of his father was not by way of Natature but some land was his self-acquired and some was ancestral. However, in his cross-examination, he could not explain that how much land was inherited by his father from his forefathers. After perusing the deposition made by aforesaid plaintiff witness, one thing clearly emerges that deceased Durga was the owner of the suit land. But, since, as per statement of this witness Durga had acquired some land in Nautore apart from the ancestral property which he inherited from his forefathers, onus was definitely upon PW-1 to prove that land, if any, sold to defendant No.1 was ancestral. In the present case, careful perusal of deposition made by PW-1 nowhere suggests that he was able to distinguish the land owned and possessed by defendant No.2. Admittedly, in the present case, no evidence worth the name has been led on record by the plaintiff to suggest that defendant No.2 sold that portion of the land to defendant No.1 which he had inherited from his forefathers being ancestral property. PW-1 also tendered in evidence Ex.PW-1/A, Jamabandi for the year 1991-92, wherein land in Khasra Nos.913 and 935, kitta 2, measuring 3-14-11 bighas is recorded in the name of Durga son of Gokal. There is another document Ex.PW-1/B on record which suggests that defendant No.2 Durga had agreed to sell land in Khasra No.943, measuring 0-5-0 bigha and Khasra No.913/2, measuring 0-5-0 bighas for a sale consideration of Rs.4,000/- in favour of defendant No.1 Chaudhary.

21. Similarly, Khem Chand, PW-2, stated that Keshav Ram is father of the plaintiff and Durga is father of Keshav Ram and that the suit property is ancestral property of the parties which is in possession of Keshav Ram and Smt.Indira. However, in his cross-examination he admitted that suit land has been sold by Durga to defendant No.1 Chaudhary in terms of agreement. He also failed to depose that how much land was ancestral land inherited by Durga from his ancestors.

22. Conjoint reading of statements made by PW-1 and PW-2, however, suggests that defendant No.2 Durga had sold certain portion of land, description whereof has been given in Ex.PW-1/B, but, as has been observed, it remains un-explained that out of which property Durga had sold this property to defendant No.1. It has specifically come in the statement of aforesaid plaintiff witnesses that defendant No.1 Dugra, apart from having ancestral property, had acquired some land in Nautore but specifically in the absence of specific proof that Durga had sold some portion of the land which he actually acquired as an ancestral property, version put forth by the plaintiff that action of defendant No.2 for selling the ancestral property was not in accordance with law, cannot be lent much credence. Since plaintiff has miserably failed to lead any evidence on record to suggest that defendant No.2 Durga sold ancestral property acquired by him from his forefathers, Courts below rightly relying upon the evidence available on record concluded that plaintiff miserably failed to prove that nature of the property sold by defendant No.2 Durga was ancestral.

23. Factum with regard to the sale deed executed by defendant No.2 in favour of defendant No.1 in terms of judgment dated 28.8.1998 also stands proved on record because it is an admitted case of the parties that on the basis of agreement to sell entered into between defendant No.1 and defendant No.2, decree was passed in favour of the defendant No.1 and as a result whereof Commissioner was appointed by the Court for execution of the sale deed, which fact stands duly proved vide Ex.DW-1/D i.e. order dated 23.5.2000. This Court, while traversing through evidence made available on record, could not lay its hand to any evidence, be it ocular or documentary, which could be sufficient to prove that there was fraud, if any, played by defendant No.1 upon defendant No.2 to execute the sale deed in question. But fact remains that defendant No.2, who had allegedly entered into sale agreement with defendant No.1 on the basis of which sale deed was executed after passing of the decree by the trial Court, never assailed the sale deed on the basis of fraud, undue influence or coercion etc. Moreover, fact remains that the judgment passed by the trial Court in Civil Suit No.151/96(95) has attained finality and at this stage parties cannot be allowed to rake-up that issue by alleging that previous judgment is vitiated by fraud. This Court, after careful perusal of the evidence available on record, is of the view that both the Courts below have rightly passed the judgments and no fault, if any, can be found with the same. Rather, both the Courts below have very meticulously dealt with each and every aspect of the matter and it cannot be said that Courts below mis-read and mis-construed the evidence available on record. It is well settled law that co-parcernary or ancestral property cannot be alienated by sale, gift or in any other manner by co-parcernar except for legal necessity, discharge of debt or better management of ancestral property. But, as per law, coparcener has no right to restrain the Karta of the Hindu Joint Family from discharging his duties as Karta in accordance with law. It is also well settled law that there cannot be any injunction by a Court restraining the Karta from making alienation when the same is being managed by Karta of the family.

24. In the present case, where plaintiff being grandson of defendant No.2 challenged that action of the defendant No.2 in selling the property to defendant No.1 on the ground that the property was co-parcenary or ancestral in nature and as such it could not be sold by the defendant No.2 to the detriment of plaintiff. But in such like case onus was upon the plaintiff to prove that nature of the property, which has been sold by defendant No.2. Plaintiff has nowhere led any evidence from where it could be inferred that land sold by Durga (defendant No.2) was actually ancestral and same was inherited by Durga i.e. grandfather from his forefathers. Moreover, in the present case no evidence worth the name has been led on record by the plaintiff to suggest that he is the grandson of Durga and thereafter no evidence worth the name has been led to suggest that the property in question sold by defendant No.2 to defendant No.1 was ancestral in nature. Hence in the absence of specific evidence led on record by the plaintiff to prove that the property in question was ancestral and he being the grandson of defendant No.2 had any right in the ancestral property, the suit filed by the plaintiff has been rightly rejected by the trial court below. The fact remains that the plaintiff has not led any evidence on record, as has been observed by the Courts below, in the shape of pedigree table to establish that he is the grandson of Durga, defendant No.2. Though by leading the additional evidence, during the pendency of appeal, document Ex.PX was placed on record i.e. extract of Pariwar Register to demonstrate that Rajan Sharma is recorded as son of Keshav Ram, but defendant placed on record another documentary evidence i.e. extract of Pariwar Register Ex.RX, pertaining to year 1995, wherein name of father of Keshav Ram is recorded as Durga. In Ex.RY there is no mention of the name of plaintiff Rajan Sharma. Both the aforesaid certificates have been issued by Secretary, Gram Panchayat, Biarkot to plaintiff and defendant No.2. After perusing Ex.RY, it can be concluded that if Rajan Sharma was grandson of defendant No.2, his name should have been mentioned in Pariwar Registrar of the year 1995 and subsequent thereto. Learned first appellate Court has rightly concluded that entry, if any, made in the Pariwar register Exs.PX and RX, is infact on the basis of some certificate produced by the plaintiff from Municipal Council, Shimla, whereas in that eventuality plaintiff should have examined the officers of the Municipal Council, Shimla to prove the same, but admittedly no official of Municipal Council, Shimla was ever examined.

25. Consequently, in view of the discussion made hereinabove, this Court is of the view that there is no mis-reading and mis-appreciation of oral as well as documentary evidence i.e. Exs.PX, RX and RY as alleged by the plaintiff and the judgments passed by both the Courts below are based upon proper appreciation of evidence available on record and as such substantial question No.1 is answered accordingly.

26. So far substantial question No.2 is concerned, since no specific evidence has been led on record by the plaintiff to prove that the judgment dated 28.8.1998 in previous suit has been obtained in collusion, both the Courts below have rightly held that the judgment and decree dated 28.8.1998 passed by the learned Court in previous Civil Suit No.151/96(95), by Sub Judge, Court No.2, Mandi has attained finality and it is binding upon the parties. There is no evidence worth the name led by the plaintiff on record to prove that the aforesaid decree was result of fraud exercised by defendant No.2 upon defendant No.1 and as has been observed above that best person to assail aforesaid sale deed on the basis of fraud, undue influence was defendant No.2, who never during his life time chosen to assail the same and as such findings returned by the both the Courts below deserve to be upheld and substantial question of law No.2 is answered accordingly.

27. Consequently, in view of detailed discussion made hereinabove, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that judgments passed by both the Courts below are based upon the correct appreciation of record/evidence available on record. To answer the substantial question, reproduced hereinabove, this Court traveled through entire evidence led on record by the parties to the lis and it can be safely concluded that both the Courts below have rightly returned the concurrent findings of facts as well as law after dealing with the evidence on record meticulously. There is no doubt that defendant, by leading cogent and convincing evidence, has established that he purchased the suit land from defendant No.2 in terms of sale agreement, whereas plaintiff miserably failed to prove that he, being the grandson, has right in the ancestral property. Hence this Court is of the view that this is not a fit case where in exercise of powers/jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC concurrent findings returned by both the Courts below cannot be upset, especially when the plaintiff has failed to prove that judgments are perverse.

28. Reliance is placed in Laxmidevamma and Others vs. Ranganath and Others,* (2015)4 SCC 264, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court held:

> "16. Based on oral and documentary evidence, both the courts below have recorded concurrent findings of fact that the plaintiffs have established their right in A schedule property. In the light of the concurrent findings of fact, no substantial questions of law arose in the High Court and there was no substantial ground for reappreciation of evidence. While so, the High Court proceeded to observe that the first plaintiff has earmarked the A schedule property for road and that she could not have full-fledged right and on that premise proceeded to hold that declaration to the plaintiffs' right cannot be granted. In exercise of jurisdiction under Section 100 CPC, concurrent findings of fact cannot be upset by the High Court unless the findings so recorded are shown to be perverse. In our considered view, the High Court did not keep in view that the concurrent findings recorded by the courts below, are based on oral and documentary evidence and the judgment of the High Court cannot be sustained." (p.269)

29. Hence, in view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court is compelled to conclude that the impugned judgments passed by both the Courts below are based on proper appreciation of the evidence, be it ocular or documentary on the record and, as such, substantial questions of law, framed above, are answered accordingly. Hence, present appeal fails and the same is, accordingly dismissed.

30. Interim direction, if any, is vacated. All miscellaneous applications are disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE CHANDER BHUSAN BAROWALIA, J.

State of Himachal Pradesh. ……Appellant.
Versus
Virender Singh. ……Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 353 of 2011
Reserved on : 27.5.2016.
Decided on: July 5, 2016.

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Accused was found coming through forest path holding a bag on his right shoulder- he became nervous on seeing the police party- he was apprehended – his search was conducted during which 3.5 kgs charas was recovered- accused was tried and acquitted by the trial Court due to non-joining of independent witnesses, contradictions in the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses - aggrieved from the judgment, present appeal was filed - held in appeal, that accused was found at a lonely place- no independent witness was available, therefore, non-association of independent witness is not fatal to the prosecution version- conviction can be based on the testimonies of official witnesses, if they inspire confidence- police officials had consistently stated that accused had tried to run away on seeing the police- he was apprehended and his search was conducted during which 3.5 kgs. Charas was recovered- they consistently deposed about taking of sample- non-production of seal will not make the prosecution version doubtful – contradictions in the testimonies of official witnesses are not significant and are bound to come with the passage of time - they should not be used to discard the prosecution version- link evidence was complete- seals were intact when the case property was produced before the Court- prosecution version was proved beyond reasonable doubt- trial Court had wrongly acquitted the accused- appeal allowed- accused convicted of the commission of offence punishable under Section 20 of N.D.P.S. Act. (Para-13 to 42)

For the appellant: Mr. D.S. Nainta and Mr. Virender Verma, Additional AGs.
For the respondent: Mr. Ajay Kochhar and Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocates.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.

The State of Himachal Pradesh aggrieved by the judgment dated 20.5.2011 passed by learned Special Judge (II), Kinnaur at Rampur has preferred the present appeal with a prayer that the impugned judgment be quashed and the respondent (hereinafter referred as the 'accused') be convicted of the charge under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred in short as "NDPS Act').

2. The prosecution case in a nut shell is that on 12.1.2009 PW9 SI Dulo Ram accompanied by PW2 Moti Ram and Constable Chand Misra of Police Station, Nirmand left towards Bagipul, Darar Nallah and Urtu side in official vehicle No. HP-34-0085 being driven by Constable-driver Tikkam Singh PW1 for patrolling and detection of cases under the Excise and NDPS Act. A rapat was entered in the Rojnamcha in this regard, copy whereof is Ext.PW3/A. Around 1:00 P.M. the police party reached at Parjanda nallah. The vehicle was parked there. PW9 accompanied by the other police officials then proceeded towards Darar nallah and village Kalah on foot. When the police party reached at Darar nallah, the accused was spotted coming down through forest path. He was holding a bag on his right shoulder. On seeing the police party, he became nervous. On suspicion, PW9 over powered him with the help of other police officials. It was an isolated place. No one, therefore, could be associated as independent witness. The I.O. PW9 has, therefore, associated Constable Chand Misra and PW2 Constable Moti Ram as independent witnesses. On inquiry, the accused disclosed his name as Virender Singh and father's name Hawa Singh whereas the address as village and post office Budsham, Tehsil Samalkha, District Panipat (Haryana). Since the I.O. suspected that the accused must be carrying some narcotic substance or drugs with him or in the bag he was holding on his shoulder, an option that he has a legal right of being searched in the presence of a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer was given to him orally as well as in writing vide memo Ext.PW1/A. The accused as per the endorsement made on Ext.PW1/A in his own hand has opted for being searched by the police i.e. PW9 himself. Consequently, the PW9 has first offered his personal search to the accused which he conducted vide memo Ext.PW1/B.

3. PW9 has thereafter conducted the search of the black coloured bag having written 'PUMA' thereon with metal and found one polythene bag half black and half red in colour having 'Lintaaz Premium Shirts' printed thereon. The said polythene bag when searched further was found containing black coloured substance in the shape of rounds which on checking was found charas. Immediately thereafter, PW9 has informed the then Deputy Superintendent of Police, Anni on his Cell No. 93180-11419 from his personal Cell No. 94182-97457 regarding the recovery of charas from the accused. The information so given to the DSP was reduced into writing. The recovered charas was taken out from the bag and it was weighed with the weights and scale the I.O. PW9 having in his kit. The recovered charas when weighed was found 3 Kgs 500 grams. Out of the same, 25-25 grams was separated for the purpose of samples. The remaining bulk 3Kgs 450 grams was sealed in a cloth parcel Ext.P3 with three seals of impression 'T'. The sample parcels Ext.P1 and Ext.P2 were also sealed separately with 3-3 impressions of the same seal of impression 'T'. Ext.PW1/C was separately obtained on a piece of cloth. It is thereafter NCB-I form Ext.PW9/A was filled-in in triplicate by PW9. The charas recovered from the accused was thereafter taken by him in possession vide seizure memo Ext.PW1/D in the presence of PW1 Tikkam Singh and Constable Chand Misra. It is thereafter Rukka Ext.PW2/A was reduced into writing and sent to police Station Nirmand through PW2 Constable Moti Ram. The I.O. has thereafter prepared the spot map Ext.PW9/B. On the basis of Rukka Ext.PW2/A, FIR Ext.PW2/B was registered in Police Station, Nirmand by PW7 MHC Lal Chand. PW7 has handed over the case file to PW2 Constable Moti Ram for being taken to the I.O. PW9 on the spot. The accused was apprised about the grounds of arrest vide memo Ext.PW1/E. He was arrested and intimation of his arrest given to his father Hawa Singh over Cell Phone No. 09050861977 vide memo Ext.PW1/F. The I.O. has recorded the statements of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. The case file was handed over to him by PW2 Constable Moti Ram at Nirmand bus stand. The statement of Constable Moti Ram was recorded at bus stand. The I.O. PW9 arrived at the Police Station along with the accused and case property at 8:15 P.M. He made entries of his arrival in the police station vide rapat No. 28, Ext.PW3/B. PW9 has deposited the case property along with NCB-I form in triplicate and specimen of seal with PW7 MHC Lal Chand in the Malkhana of Police Station. PW7 has made entries Ext.PW7/A in this regard in the Malkhana register. The I.O. prepared the special report Ext.PW5/B and it was sent to Sub Divisional Police Officer, Anni through PW6 HHC Shyam Lal. PW6 has delivered the same on the same day to PW5 ASI Sohan Lal, the then Reader to SDPO Anni. PW5 has entered the special report in the prescribed register vide entries Ext.PW5/A. The special report was produced before the then DSP Anni Bhajan Singh Negi who on perusal thereof returned the same to PW5 for being retained in the record. One of the sample parcels was sent for analysis to Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga, District Shimla on 14.1.2009 vide RC Ext.PW7/B along with NCB-I form in triplicate and a docket through Constable Nanak Chand. Subsequently, the entire bulk was also sent to Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga vide RC No. 37/2010 Ext.PW7/C through Constable Shyam Lal. It is so stated by the MHC PW7 while in the witness box. Later on, PW8 Constable Shyam Dass was deputed to Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga to collect the case property and also the report of Chemical Examiner. PW8 has brought the case property and also the Chemical Examiner's report Ext.PW8/A and handed over the same to PW7 for being retained in the Malkhana.

4. On completion of the investigation, PW9 has prepared the report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and it was filed in the Court.

5. Learned trial Court after having gone through the report and also documents annexed therewith arrived at a conclusion that prima-facie the commission of offence punishable under Section 20 of the NDPS Act has been made out against the accused, hence charge was framed against him accordingly. The accused, however, not pleaded guilty to the charge and claimed trial. The prosecution was therefore, called upon to produce evidence in order to sustain charge against the accused.

6. The prosecution in turn has examined PW1 Constable Tikkam Singh who has witnessed the manner in which search and seizure has taken place on the spot and also PW2 Constable Moti Ram who was also present at the time when the search of the bag, the accused was carrying on his shoulder, was conduced and the contraband allegedly charas recovered from him. The another material prosecution witness is the I.O. PW9 who was posted as Station House Officer in Police Station, Nirmand at the relevant time.

7. The remaining prosecution witnesses are LC Rima, who has entered rapat rojnamcha Ext.PW3/A and Ext/PW3/B in the rojnamcha of the Police Station, PW4, who has taken one of the sample parcels vide RC No. 6/09 to Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga, PW5, who was posted at the relevant time as reader to Dy.S.P. Anni. It is he who received the special report Ext.PW5/B and made the entries Ext.PW5/A in this regard in the relevant register. It is he who even has produced the same before the Dy.S.P. for perusal. PW6 HHC Shyam Lal has taken the special report Ext.PW5/B to the office of Dy. S.P. Anni and handed over the same to PW5. PW7 HC Lal Chand was posted at the relevant time as Moharar Head Constable in Police Station, Nirmand. He received Rukka Ext. PW2/A from Constable Moti Ram and registered the case on the basis thereof vide FIR Ext.PW2/B. He made endorsement Ext.PW2/C on the Rukka and handed over the file for being taken to the I.O. on the spot. The case property and also the sample parcels along with NCB form and sample of seal were deposited by PW9 with him in the Malkhana. He made the entries Ext.PW7/A in the Malkhana register in this regard. It is he who initially sent sample parcel for analysis vide RC No. 6/09 Ext.PW7/B and thereafter the entire bulk vide RC No. 37/10 Ext.PW7/C to Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga, Shimla for analysis. He made the entries in Malkhana register Ext.PW7/D and also proved the receipts on RC Ext.PW7/B and Ext.PW7/C. PW8 Constable Shyam Dass has collected the case property from the Forensic Science Laboratory and also the report of Chemical Examiner Ext.PW8/A and handed over the same to MHC in the Malkhana. PW9 is the Station House Officer, Police Station, Nirmand and also the Investigating Officer of this case.

8. On the other hand, the accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure has denied the incriminating circumstances appearing against him in the prosecution evidence being wrong and also for want of knowledge. In his defence while answering question No. 27, it is stated that he is a patient of polio since his childhood, hence not able to walk in a hilly area. He was not at the alleged place of occurrence. He, however, was arrested from a bus namely Kumkum Bus Service at Nirmand near the office of Tehsildar when the police party found an abandoned bag behind driver's seat and as on inquiry he told that he is from Haryana, hence was made to alight from the bus and taken to the Police Station situated nearby. All the documents were prepared by the police in the Police Station. In his defence, he has also examined one Satish Kumar DW1, a taxi driver.

9. Learned trial Judge on appreciation of the prosecution evidence and also the evidence produce by the accused in his defence has arrived at a conclusion that the evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of the prosecution witnesses is contradictory in nature, hence inspires no confidence. Therefore, it was not deemed appropriate to place reliance on the evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of official witnesses as in view of the findings recorded by learned trial Court the same was not reliable. Therefore, benefit of doubt is given to the accused and consequently, he has been acquitted of the charge.

10. The State has assailed the impugned judgment on the grounds, inter-alia, that the prosecution evidence has been appreciated by learned trial Court in a slip-shod and perfunctory manner. The trial Court has allegedly set unrealistic standards to evaluate the cogent and reliable evidence produced by the prosecution. The testimony of the prosecution witnesses has been discarded for untenable reasons in the absence of any proof of their enmity with the accused. The findings recorded by the Court below are stated to be based upon conjectures and surmises. The impugned judgment, as such, has been sought to be quashed and set aside with further prayer that since the prosecution has proved its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt, therefore, he be convicted for the offence he committed.

11. Learned Additional Advocate General has vehemently argued that the testimony of police officials is as much good as that of any other person. Also that, PW1, PW2 and PW9 while in the witness box have made consistent statements qua all material aspects of the case.

Learned trial Court has illegally brushed aside the same while giving undue weightage to the facts such as non-joining of independent witnesses, contradictions minor in nature, qua the place of occurrence, on the point of traffic checking, filling of NCB form etc.-etc. Learned Additional Advocate General has thus urged that the evidence available on record is sufficient to establish the involvement of the accused in the commission of the offence. He, therefore, has been sought to be convicted for the offence, he committed.

12. On the other hand, Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate, learned defence Counsel has pointed out from the record the contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses and taken note of by learned trial Judge and has contended that on the basis of the evidence contradictory in nature having come on record by way of testimony of official witnesses the findings of conviction could have not been recorded. It is further argued that the search and seizure has not taken place in the manner as claimed by the prosecution and rather the recovery of contraband allegedly charas has been fastened upon the accused only because of he happens to be from the State of Haryana and was traveling in Kumkum bus service at Nirmand when the police failed to apprehend the real culprit.

13. The only point needs adjudication in this case is as to whether irrespective of prosecution having proved its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt he has been erroneously acquitted of the charge framed against him.

14. In order to decide the fate of this case, the reappraisal of the evidence produced by the prosecution and the accused in his defence is required. However, before that it is desirable to note that an offence under the Act is not only heinous but serious in nature. An offence under the Act is not against an individual but against the Society as a whole because the illicit trafficking of drugs not only affects a particular individual but the public at large and in particular our young generation. The NDPS Act is a piece of social legislation enacted with the sole idea to curb illicit trafficking of drugs. A case registered under the Act, therefore, needs consideration keeping in mind the above factors. At the same time keeping in view there being provision of deterrent punishment against an offender if ultimately held guilty, the provisions contained under the act to safeguard an offender from conviction and sentence also need to be looked into thoroughly so that any innocent person may not be convicted and sentenced.

15. The statute casts a duty upon the prosecution not only to prove beyond all doubts the commission of an offence by an offender but additionally the compliance of various provisions mandatory in nature enshrined there under. Thus, law casts a duty on the Courts seized of the case registered under the Act to deal with it with all circumspect and caution and before recording the findings of conviction against an offender to satisfy itself about the compliance of procedural requirements and also the availability of cogent and reliable evidence connecting the accused with the commission of the offence.

16. The perusal of the judgment under challenge reveals that learned trial Judge on being influenced with the factum of non-joining of independent witnesses, the so called contradictions in the statements of material prosecution witnesses PW1, PW2 and PW9 qua the exact location of the place of occurrence, place of parking of police vehicle, the manner of filling the columns of NCB-I form, the police party on its way to Bagipul and to the place of the recovery, whether conducted traffic checking or interrogated other persons and distance of the spot where search and seizure took place has concluded that the prosecution case is doubtful. The accused was, therefore, given the benefit of doubt and consequently acquitted of the charge framed against him.

17. The present is a case of recovery of charas weighing 3Kgs 500 Grams from the bag, the accused was carrying on his right shoulder. Learned trial Judge has not recorded any findings as to whether the contraband has been recovered from the accused or not and rather discarded the prosecution story on being influenced by the fact that the prosecution witnesses are police officials and that there are contradictions in their statements.

18. The recovery of the contraband from the exclusive and physical possession of the accused is sine qua non to infer the commission of offence by him. This aspect needs evidence cogent and reliable for its proof. The joining of independent person in such a case to witness the search and seizure is in the interest of fair trial. However, it is again well settled that the evidence having come on record by way of the testimony of official witnesses is as much as good as that of an independent person. The same, however, is required to be examined with all circumspection and cautiously. If such evidence inspires confidence should be relied upon. It is held so by the Apex Court in Girja Prasad Versus State of M.P., (2007) 7 Supreme Court Cases 625.

19. Similar is the ratio of the judgment of the Apex Court in Makhan Singh Versus State of Haryana, (2015) 12 Supreme Court Cases 247. As per the ratio of this judgment the conviction of an offender booked under the Act can be based on the testimony of official witnesses, however, if the same inspires confidence.

20. In the light of the legal and factual aspect of the matter discussed hereinabove, it is to be seen that the statements of PWs 1, 2 and 9 are worthy of credence or the so called contradictions noticed by the learned trial Court goes to the very root of the prosecution case and render the same doubtful.

21. PWs 1, 2 and 9 are categoric and specific in stating that they were away to Bagipul area in connection with patrolling and detection of cases under the Excise and NDPS Act on that day. According to PW1 and PW9 from Bagipul they went to Parjanda "nallah" and parked the official vehicle HP-34-0085 there on road side. Then they proceeded towards village Darar and Kalah on foot. The accused was spotted coming down through forest path when the police party was at point 'X' in the map Ext.PW9/B. The statements of all the three prosecution witnesses to this extent are consistent.

22. As per their further version the accused got scared the moment he noticed the presence of the police party there. He was over powered. The map Ext.PW9/B amply demonstrates that the spot is an isolated place having no inhabitation. Although a village is there in the hill side as has come in the cross-examination of these witnesses. Yet nothing suggestive has come on record qua its distance from that place. The plea raised by learned defence Counsel that someone should have been associated from that village as an independent witness is without any merit for the reason that the I.O. PW9 while in the witness box has stated that the place of recovery was isolated and as such, no one could be associated as independent witness. Similar is the version of PW1 Tikkam Singh and PW2 C. Moti Ram. The suggestion given to them that a village is situated in hill side of the spot no doubt has been admitted by them, however, as already said for want of any evidence qua the distance of that village, the plea in defence so raised by the accused is hardly of any help to his case. In hilly area one can see a village or place in the hill side even from a distance of 10 KM-15 KM and even 20 KM also and in that situation, it is not always possible to depute someone to the village and call someone there from to witness the search and seizure. The present is, therefore, not a case where it can be said that the action of the I.O. in not associating the independent witness was intentional or deliberate.

23. The Apex Court in State of Haryana Versus Asha Devi and Another, (2015) 8 Supreme Court Cases 39 a case with more or less similar facts has held that when the official witnesses were consistent that the efforts to join the independent witnesses were made however, none from public agreed to witness the occurrence, non-joining of the independent witnesses is not fatal to the prosecution case. The relevant extract of this judgment reads as follows:-

> "……We find that both DSP Maharaj Singh as well as IO Ramphal have deposed that public persons were available when the contraband was seized; however, none of the public persons acceded to their request of joining the investigation as an independent witness. The court below have found it unbelievable but no reason for the same is rendered. In our opinion, the consistent statement of both DSP as well as IO rather enhances the veracity of the circumstances as put forth by them...."

24. It is well settled at this stage that some time independent witnesses are not available to witness the search and seizure and some time afraid to come and depose in favour of the prosecution. Also that the conviction can be based solely on the testimony of the official witnesses if inspires confidence. We are drawing support in this regard from the judgment again that of the Apex Court in Makhan Singh Versus State of Haryana, (2015) 12 Supreme Court Cases 247. The relevant extract of this judgment reads as follows:-

> "......In peculiar circumstances of the case, it may not be possible to find out independent witnesses at all places at all times. Independent witnesses who live in the same village or nearby villages of the accused are at times afraid to come and depose in favour of the prosecution. Though it is well settled that a conviction can be based solely on the testimony of official witnesses, condition precedent is that the evidence of such official witnesses must inspire confidence. In the present case, it is not as if independent witnesses were not available....."

25. In view of the above, the findings that the failure on the part of the prosecution to join the independent witnesses has rendered the prosecution story doubtful as recorded by learned trial Court are neither legally nor factually sustainable.

26. If coming to further version of PW1, PW2 and PW9, they are again categoric and specific while stating that on seeing the police party the accused got scared and tried to flee away. He, however, was over powered and on inquiry he has disclosed his name and also the parentage as well as his complete address. In view of he having become nervous and tried to flee away has obviously created doubt in the mind of the police officials that he must be carrying some narcotic substance with him, the I.O. was left with only option to associate the police officials itself as witnesses and to proceed with the search of the accused and the bag he was carrying on his right shoulder. However, before that an option as required under Section 50 of the Act was given to the accused who, however, opted for being searched by the police itself. This aspect of the prosecution case finds corroboration from the consent memo Ext.PW1/A. PW1 and PW2 have stated in one voice that it is the bag of the accused which was firstly searched and the 'charas' weighing 3 KGs 500 Grams recovered therefrom. No doubt, PW2 has deposed while in the witness box that it is the personal search of the accused was first conducted. This contradiction, however, is not of such a nature so as to have gone to the very root of the prosecution case because all of them have stated in one voice that the charas was recovered from the polythene bag, which was taken out from the bag the accused was carrying on his shoulder.

27. The prosecution witnesses are also unanimous so far as the sampling and sealing process is concerned. As per their version out of the recovered charas 25-25 grams was separated for the purpose of samples and sealed with impression of seal 'T'. They have also stated in one voice that the remaining charas weighing 3KGs 450 Grams was put into the same plastic envelope and then in the same bag which the accused was carrying on his right shoulder and then it was sealed with the impression of seal 'T'. As per the version of the I.O. PW9, the seal after its use was handed over to Constable Chand Misra. No doubt, the seal has not been produced nor Constable Chand Misra is examined during the course of trial. However, the version of the I.O. that the seal was handed over to Constable Chand Misra remained unshattered for the reason that no suggestion that the seal was not handed over to said Shri Chand Misra was given to PW9 the I.O. in his cross examination. Therefore, the plea that for want of non-production of the seal the trial has vitiated is neither legally nor factually sustainable. The judgment of a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Sunder Singh, Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) 1293 being distinguishable on facts is not applicable in this case.

28. Now, if coming to NCB-I form Ext.PW9/A as per the evidence available on record the I.O. has filled-in all columns i.e. 1 to 8 thereof on the sot. As a matter of fact, it is column Nos. 1 to 7 needs to be filled-in by the I.O., so far as column No. 8 is concerned, against the same only facsimile of the seal used is required to be given. According to PW1 and PW2 column Nos. 1 to 8 were filled-in by the I.O. on the spot. The I.O., however, has stated that it is the entries in column Nos. 1 to 7 were filled-in by him on the spot. As a matter of fact, it is the entries only in these columns are required to be filled-in whereas against column No. 8 only facsimile of seal is required to be placed. Even if it is a contradiction, the same again is of not such a nature so as to render the prosecution case as well as the recovery of the contraband weighing 3 KGs 500 Grams from the accused doubtful. Therefore, it is satisfactorily established on record that NCB-I form was filled-in by the I.O. on the spot.

29. Much has been said about the place where the official vehicle was parked by the police. PW1 and PW9 have stated in one voice that the same was parked at Parjanda nallah. However, PW 2 has stated that the vehicle was parked at Darar nallah. As a matter of fact, this witness has clarified that the vehicle was parked at a place in between Parjanda nallah and the place of recovery. The statements of PW1 and PW9 can also be interpreted in the similar manner because as per their version also the vehicle was at a place at Parjanda nallah in between the nallah and the place of recovery. In our opinion, undue weightage should have not been given to this aspect of the matter when charas in huge quantity i.e. 3 KGs 500 Grams has been recovered from the accused and the recovery thereof from him cannot be believed to have been planted on him.

30. The findings that the presence of the police party could have been noticed by the accused from the path through which he was coming down are again hypothetical and based upon conjectures and surmises. It is not even the defence of the accused also that the place mark 'X' in the site plan was visible from the path on which he was walking down. Otherwise as per the site plan Ext.PW9/B there is growth of Cheel trees at that place. Therefore, the presence of the police party on the spot may have escaped the notice of the accused while coming down cannot be ruled out. The trees as per the map Ext.PW9/B are Cheel trees. PW1 and PW9 have also stated so while in the witness box. True it is, that PW2 has stated that it is the Cheel tress and Kail trees which were in existence at the spot. His statement that Kail trees were also in existence there should have not been given undue weightage by the trial Court particularly when the map Ext.PW9/B discloses the existence of Cheel trees alone and similar is the statements of PW1 and PW9. Above all with the passage of time memory also fades and PW2 seems to have stated qua existing of kail trees due to this reason.

31. The contradictions in the statements of prosecution witnesses as pointed out that according to PW1 and PW9 the place of recovery was situated at a distance of 2 K.M. from Parjanda nallah whereas as per PW2 at a distance of 500 meters from the place where they had parked the vehicle should have also not been taken so seriously because with the passage of time such type of contradictions are bound to occur. Above all parrot like version is not possible to be given by a witness that too after a period over two years because the date of occurrence was 12.1.2009 whereas the statements of the witnesses were recorded on 4.11.2011. In this view of the matter, the contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses qua conducting of traffic checking and interrogation of other persons while on the way to the place of occurrence should have also not been viewed so seriously that too when PW1 and PW9 have stated that they have conducted traffic checking on the way while going to the place of occurrence. No doubt, PW2 has stated that they went straight to Bagipul and there from to Darar nallah and did not stop at any place on the way. However, as already observed, this aspect was also not required to be viewed so seriously so as to discard the recovery of huge quantity of charas from the accused.

33. As per the ratio of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dalel Singh Vs. State of Haryana, 2010(1) SCC 149 and in State of Punjab Vs. Lakhvinder Singh and another, (2010) 4 SCC 402, minor contradictions and discrepancies in the statements of the witnesses are bound to occur due to fading of memories of the witnesses, hence should not be viewed so seriously to render the prosecution case doubtful, if the same otherwise found to have been proved beyond all reasonable doubt with the help of cogent and reliable evidence.

33. The present is also not a case where it can be said that the link evidence is missing for the reason that resealing of the parcels containing the case property was not involved in this case because the SHO was the I.O. himself. He has handed over the parcels containing the case property and the sample parcels sealed with eight seals of impression 'T' along with NCB-I from in triplicate. PW7 Head Constable Lal Chand is the Moharar Head Constable. The entries in Malkhana register Ext.PW7/A substantiate this aspect of the matter. The findings that there is no mention of handing over NCB-I form to PW7 are therefore contrary to the evidence available on record.

34. Now, if coming to the RC Ext.PW7/B, one of the sample parcels along with seizure memo and NCB-I form in triplicate was sent to Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga through a docket for analysis. The case property was taken to the Laboratory by PW4 Constable Nanak Chand. There is no reason to disbelieve his testimony that till the deposit of the case property in the Laboratory the same remained in his safe custody. The report Ext.PW9/C reveals that the sample sent for analysis was the mixture of cannabis and the sample of charas. Subsequently the entire recovered bulk sealed in a parcel was sent to Forensic Science Laboratory vide RC No. 37/10 Ext.PW7/C along with sample of seal, copy of FIR, NCB form in triplicate through Constable Shyam Lal PW8. The parcel containing the charas was also deposited in the Laboratory in same condition and not allowed to be tampered with as has come on record by way of the testimony of PW Shyam Lal. The report Ext.PW8/A reveals that the recovered contraband was extract of cannabis and as such sample of charas.

35. Learned trial Court has, therefore, erroneously concluded that the link evidence is missing for the reasons that the Malkhana register finds the entries Ext.PW7/A which reveals that besides the sample parcels and the parcel containing the recovered charas, NCB-I form was also handed over to PW7 in triplicate. The finding that photocopy of NCB-I form was sent when the entire bulk forwarded to the Forensic Science Laboratory for analysis also appears to be not correct for the reasons that the repot Ext.PW8/A reveals that along with the parcel the specimen of seal and NCB-I form were also sent to the Laboratory which were kept in safe custody till analyzed and the report arrived and dispatched. The photocopy as referred to by the trial Court does not form the part of the record and seems to have come on record by way of mistake because there is no need to tag the NCB-I form with the report of the Chemical Examiner. Otherwise also, the photocopy of the NCB-I form is neither marked nor an exhibited document. Therefore, the findings recorded by learned trial Court are contrary to the factual position.

36. On behalf of the accused, reliance has been placed on the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Rajasthan Versus Parmanand and Another, (2014) 5 Supreme Court Cases 345. This judgment deals with the admissibility of joint communication made to two accused under Section 50 of the Act. The Apex Court has not held the same as legally admissible. It is not known as to how this judgment is applicable in this case because the consent memo Ext.PW1/A makes it crystal clear that thereby the sole accused has been apprised about his legal right of giving his search either in the presence of a Gazetted Officer or a nearby Magistrate.

37. The ratio of the judgment delivered by a Single Bench of this Court in Dhyan Singh Versus State of Himachal Pradesh, 2015 (3) Shim. LC 1222 is also not applicable in this case for the reason that the case property in duly sealed condition was produced in the Court by the Public Prosecutor in the presence of the accused and learned Counsel representing him. The seals were intact. The defence has not doubted the production of the case property in safe custody in the Court. No doubt, there is no evidence as to when the case property was taken out from the Malkhana and who has brought the same to the Court. The fact, however, remains that the same was produced by learned Public Prosecutor in parcels which were duly sealed. The parcels containing the case property after recording the evidence are ordered to be resealed with the seal of Court. In this case the trial Judge has not passed any order on 4.1.2011 and 5.1.2011 when statements of PWs 1, 2 and 3 were recorded. Therefore, the trial Court itself is at fault. Anyhow, it is not the case of the accused that the case property was not sealed with seal of the Court and returned to the Malkhana. Therefore, the ratio of the judgment supra is not applicable in this case.

38. The ratio of the judgment of this Court in State of Himachal Pradesh Versus Gurpreet Singh & Connected matter, 2014(3) Him. L.R. (DB) 1897 and Lal Kishore Vs. State of H.P. & Anil Kumar Vs. State of H.P., Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) 962 is also distinguishable on facts, hence not applicable in this case. The consent memo Ext.PW1/A amply demonstrates that an option was given to the accused to opt for his search in the presence of a nearest Gazetted Officer or Magistrate. Therefore, the judgment of a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Ashok Kumar Versus State of H.P., Latest HLJ 2009 (HP) 557 is also not applicable.

39. On reappraisal of the evidence available on record and also the given facts and circumstances as well as law cited at the Bar, in our considered opinion, the present is not a case where it can be said that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. No doubt, the witnesses are police officials as the spot being an isolated place it was not possible to associate the independent witnesses. The evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of official witnesses is however consistent, categoric and also supports the prosecution case on all material aspects. The prosecution has, therefore, discharged the onus on it satisfactorily. We find the present a fit case where the presumption as envisaged under Section 35 and 54 of the Act can be raised against the accused because onus to prove otherwise that he was neither apprehended nor charas recovered from him stood shifted on him.

40. The accused a resident of Haryana has, however, failed to explain as to what he was doing at Darar nallah, a remote area. Even if it is believed that he was traveling in Kumkum Bus Service and apprehended at Nirmand he failed to explain as to what was the purpose of his visit to that area and from where he had boarded Kumkum Bus Service and where he was going. DW1 Satish Kumar he examined also belongs to Punjab. No doubt, he claims himself to be the driver of Indica Car HP-01A-1989 being plied as taxi and had gone with passengers on that day to Bagipul. However, there is no supporting evidence that some mechanical defect developed in the vehicle and he boarded Kumkum Bus Service for Rampur to bring a mechanic. He failed to produce any ticket and also the bill of repair of the vehicle. Therefore, to our mind, he is a liar and has deposed falsely to help the accused may be for some extraneous consideration. The accused, therefore, has failed to discharge the onus upon him and as such, the presumption as envisaged under Sections 35 and 54 of the Act can be raised against him. In similar circumstances, the Apex Court in Noor Aga Versus State of Punjab, (2008) 16 SCC 417 has held as under:

> "58. Sections 35 and 54 of the Act, no doubt, raise presumptions with regard to the culpable mental state on the part of the accused as also place burden of proof in this behalf on the accused; but a bare perusal the said provision would clearly show that presumption would operate in the trial of the accused only in the event the circumstances contained therein are fully satisfied. An initial burden exists upon the prosecution and only when it stands satisfied, the legal burden would shift. Even then, the standard of proof required for the accused to prove his innocence is not as high as that of the prosecution. Whereas the standard of proof required to prove the guilt of accused on the prosecution is "beyond all reasonable doubt" but it is 'preponderance of probability' on the accused. If the prosecution fails to prove the foundational facts so as to attract the rigours of Section 35 of the Act, the actus reus which is possession of contraband by the accused cannot be said to have been established.

59. With a view to bring within its purview the requirements of Section 54 of the Act, element of possession of the contraband was essential so as to shift the burden on the accused. The provisions being exceptions to the general rule, the generality thereof would continue to be operative, namely, the element of possession will have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt.

6. Whether the burden on the accused is a legal burden or an evidentiary burden would depend on the statute in question. The purport and object thereof must also be taken into consideration in determining the said question. It must pass the test of doctrine of proportionality. The difficulties faced by the prosecution in certain cases may be held to be sufficient to arrive at an opinion that the burden on the accused is an evidentiary burden and not merely a legal burden. The trial must be fair. The accused must be provided with opportunities to effectively defend himself."

41. Be it stated that as per the ratio of the judgment supra it is the prosecution which has first to prove the foundational facts i.e. proof qua the recovery of the contraband from the exclusive and conscious possession of the accused beyond all reasonable doubt to attract the rigors of Section 35 of the Act and it is only thereafter the burden to prove otherwise that the contraband has not been recovered from his exclusive and conscious possession would shift upon the accused. Also that, the standard of proof to discharge the onus upon the accused to prove his innocence is not so high as compared to that upon the prosecution and the accused can discharge such onus upon him merely on preponderance of probability. However, we are of the firm view that cogent and consistent eye witness count given by PWs 1 and 2 and supported by the testimony of the I.O. PW9 leaves no manner of doubt that the 'charas' has been recovered from the physical and conscious possession of the accused. As noticed supra, he however, failed to discharge the onus upon him even by preponderance of probability also. The factors such as he is a resident of Haryana, the purpose of his presence in a remote area where he has been apprehended and if he had not come there to carry 'charas' what was the purpose of his visit in that area which remained unexplained lead to the only conclusion that the 'charas' has been recovered from his physical and conscious possession.

42. In view of what has been said hereinabove, the only inescapable conclusion would be that the prosecution has been able to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. We, therefore, set aside the impugned judgment and convict the accused for the commission of the offence punishable under Section 20 of the NDPS Act.

43. The accused is now to be heard on the quantum of sentence. Let him appear for the purpose on 15.7.2016.

(Para-11 to 22)

For the petitioner: Mr. B.N. Mehta, Advocate.
For the respondents: Ms. Ritta Goswami, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
None for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.

The case of the petitioner is that with a view to earn livelihood, she applied for a loan with respondent No.1 to start tailoring and stitching factory for readymade garments at Ghora Chowki, Shimla. The project report was accordingly prepared and submitted to respondent No.1. The said respondent approved the project report of the petitioner for an amount of Rs.3 lac and forwarded the case for the purpose of financing the project to respondent No.2. On 31.3.2003, respondent No.1 addressed a sanction letter (Annexure P-1) to respondent No.2, copy of which was forwarded to the petitioner. The project was sponsored under the margin money scheme of the Khadi and Village Industries Commission (hereinafter referred to as "KVIC"). In the said project, a subsidy of Rs.90,000/- was to be kept with respondent No.2 in a fixed deposit. It was further the case of the petitioner that as per the policy scheme of respondent No.1, firstly the beneficiary was to contribute upto 50% of the total cost of the project, which was subsequently amended vide circular dated 11.3.2003 (Annexure P-2) as per which, it was decided that the maximum own contribution of the beneficiaries in the project cost would be 10% in case of general category and 5% in case of weaker section. The said decision was to be effective from 1.4.2003.

2. Respondent No.2 vide communication dated 3.7.2003 (Annexure P-3) informed respondent No.1 that the project of the petitioner had been sanctioned. As per said sanction letter, the expenditure loan was Rs.1 lac, working capital loan was Rs. 2 lac and thus, the total project cost was Rs. 3 lac, out of which the promoter's equity was Rs.0.15 lac. According to the petitioner, thereafter respondent No.2 sent the case of the petitioner to respondent No.1 for releasing the subsidy/margin money of Rs.90,000/-, which was lying in the shape of an FDR with respondent No.2 vide communication dated 7.7.2003 (Annexure P-4). On 27.6.2004 (Annexure P-5), the petitioner requested respondent No.2 to allow her to shift the said unit to Hotel Angel Inn, Village Aleo, Tehsil Manali, District Kullu and the requisite permission was granted in her favour vide communication dated 3.7.2004 (Annexure P-6).

3. In the meanwhile, respondent No.1 also directed its Assistant Development Officer to inspect the unit of the petitioner to find out as to whether the same was functioning or not, who submitted his inspection report dated 17.8.2005 (Annexure P-7), which demonstrated that the petitioner had set up her readymade garments unit in Hotel Angel Inn Complex.

4. The grievance of the petitioner is that respondent No.1 rather than releasing the subsidy of Rs.90,000/- in her favour issued impugned communication dated 27.12.2005 (Annexure P-8) instructing respondent No.2 to refund an amount of Rs.90,000/- as margin money and interest thereon to respondent No.1 immediately for being refunded to KVIC in view of the fact that the petitioner had not set up a new unit as per the norms of the scheme. According to the petitioner, the said impugned communication is not sustainable in the eyes of law because there was no occasion for respondent No.1 to have had issued the same and in fact, she was entitled for the release of the subsidy amount of Rs.90,000/-. Accordingly, in these circumstances, the petitioner has filed the writ petition.

5. Respondent No.1 in its reply contested the case of the petitioner and submitted that KVIC through H.P. Khadi and Village Industries Board under REGP (margin money scheme) sanctioned the margin money in favour of the petitioner for setting up a new unit vide communication dated 31.3.2003 (Annexure P-1). However, there is a condition precedent that the credit facility should be provided for a new proposed unit and no funds should be sanctioned for any expansion or against an existing unit as is evident from communication dated 31.3.2003. The stand of respondent No.1 is that the project of the petitioner was in fact not a new project, as per the norms of the Scheme. Therefore, keeping in view this fact and condition No.4 of the communication dated 31.3.2003, when it came to the notice of respondent No.1 that the petitioner had already set up a unit before the project was sanctioned in her favour by the authorities concerned, margin money of Rs.90,000/- was rightly ordered to be refunded back as granting the same in favour of the petitioner would have been against the norms of the scheme.

6. Respondent No.1 has placed on record along with reply purchase bills of the material including machines dated 21.4.2003, 25.4.2003 and 5.5.2003 (Annexures R-1/A to R-1/C), which were prior to the date the petitioner's project was sanctioned. Therefore, it was pleaded that since the petitioner was not eligible and entitled to be granted margin money, respondent No.1 rightly directed respondent No.2 to refund back the amount of Rs.90,000/-, which was lying with the said respondent in the shape of an FDR.

7. It was further case of respondent No.1 that it had received communication from respondent No.2 dated 10.8.2005 (Annexure R-2), in which it was mentioned that the petitioner had informed respondent No.2 on 3.7.2003 that she was not interested in term loan and she would establish the unit from her own sources. As per respondent No.1, this fact was withheld by respondent No.2 and petitioner from respondent No.1, which was also clear violation of terms and conditions of the REGP (margin money scheme) because as per the guidelines of KVIC, the project cost must consist of own contribution, capital expenditure loan and working capital loan/C.C. and in the absence of any of the components, the project is ineligible.

8. Respondent No.2 has also filed its reply stating therein that no relief has been claimed against it and the petitioner is not having any cause of action against respondent No.2. According to the respondent No.2, in fact it is only a disbursing agent and it has nothing to do with the sanctioning of the scheme or payment of margin money etc.

9. Rejoinder has been filed by the petitioner to the reply filed by respondent No.1, in which the petitioner has reiterated her case as put forth in the petition and denied the contentions raised in the reply.

10. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records carefully.

11. During the course of the arguments, this court called upon learned counsel for the petitioner to place on record copy of the project report, which was initially submitted by the petitioner to respondent No.1. Learned counsel for the petitioner stated that this was the responsibility of the respondent No.1 and not the petitioner. Faced with this situation, this Court in the interest of justice, called upon respondent No.1 to provide the records of the case of the petitioner and the said records were made available to the court. The suggestion of the Court to sit across the table and discuss the matter with respondent No.1 was also not accepted by the petitioner and it was urged that the case be decided on merits by this Court.

12. It is apparent from the records produced by respondent No.1 that the case of the petitioner, for loan of Rs. 3 lac for setting up textile unit under REGP scheme i.e. Rural Employment General Programme of KVIC through the H.P. State Khadi and Village Industries Board, was forwarded by the Assistant Development Officer of respondent No.1 to its Chief Executive Officer vide communication dated 31.3.2003. The application form submitted by the petitioner also contained an affidavit dated 29.3.2003 having been sworn in by her, in which it was categorically admitted that she intends to take financial help under margin money scheme of KVIC and undertakes to set up a new unit from the financial assistance involved in margin money scheme of KVIC and that the funds including subsidy availed under this scheme will be purely utilized for the new proposed activity and not for the existing activity/unit.

13. The project report appended with the said application of the petitioner also expressly contained that she proposed to start a readymade garments manufacturing unit under REGP scheme and the proposed unit was to have provision for manufacturing all kinds of gents, ladies and children wears, jackets and other related products.

14. Thus, it is crystal clear from the perusal of the application and project report submitted by the petitioner that she had applied for loan of Rs.3 lac to respondent No.1 for setting up a new textile unit.

15. The Chief Executive Officer sent the case of the petitioner to respondent No.2 for the appraisal of the report on 31.3.2003 (Annexure P-1). The factum of the loan having been sanctioned in favour of the petitioner was conveyed by respondent No.2 to respondent No.1 vide communication dated 3.7.2003 (Annexure P-3). This was followed by communication dated 7.7.2003 (Annexure P-4) addressed to respondent No.1 in the shape of an application form-cum-receipt for claiming margin money from respondent No.1, which was duly signed on behalf of the petitioner. Vide this communication, respondent No.1 was intimated that a village industry project has been sanctioned in favour of the petitioner under the margin money scheme of KVIC and it was requested to advise respondent No.2 to disburse an amount of Rs.90,000/- being margin money sanctioned by the commission.

16. Thus, the fact of the matter is that the project of the petitioner was in fact sanctioned by respondent No.2 only on 3.7.2003 (Annexure P-3). In other words, there was no sanction of the project of the petitioner before 3.7.2003. There is no material placed on record from, where it can be inferred that the petitioner was 100% sure that her project would be approved and cleared by respondent No.2 or before grant of actual sanction by respondent No.2 in favour of the petitioner, there was some "in principal sanction" by respondent No.2 to the petitioner. However, it is a matter of record that even before the project of the petitioner was sanctioned by respondent No.2, there were bills issued in favour of the petitioner qua the purchase of the machinery, which were submitted by her to respondent No.2 and these bills are dated 21.4.2003, 25.4.2003 and 5.5.2003. These bills have been duly appended with the reply by respondent No.1. In the rejoinder to the reply filed by respondent No.1, the explanation given by the petitioner to these bills is that though the sanction was conveyed on 3.7.2003, but respondent No.1 had issued sponsoring of project letter to respondent No.2 on 31.3.2003 (Annexure P-1) which was in reference to consent letter issued by respondent No.2 dated 8.3.2003 and it was only thereafter the she as per terms and conditions contained in Annexure P-1 went ahead to comply with the same and the purchase of the machinery was done as per the petitioner's obligation.

17. In my considered view, the said explanation which has been given by the petitioner is incorrect because there is no mention in communication dated 31.3.2003 that the petitioner had to immediately purchase machinery. On the contrary, it is apparent from the perusal of the said communication that respondent No.1 had only forwarded the case of the petitioner to respondent No.2 for the purpose of grant of sanction and this sanction admittedly was granted to her on 3.7.2003. Therefore, it is amply clear from the material on record that the petitioner had submitted bills to respondent No.2 with regard to purchase of machinery pertaining to the months of April and May 2003, though the fact of the matter is that the said project was sanctioned by respondent No.2 only on 3.7.2003. Therefore, the only inference which can be drawn from the said facts is that the unit of the petitioner was already in existence before the project of the petitioner was actually sanctioned by respondent No.2. Had that not been the case, then it is not understood as to why the petitioner had purchased machinery worth almost Rs.1 lac even before her project was sanctioned by respondent No.2. In my considered view, the machinery could have been purchased for setting up a new project only after project had been sanctioned by respondent No.2 and loan in lieu of that had been released in favour of the petitioner.

18. Therefore, it is clear that the petitioner was already having an existing unit before the project was in fact sanctioned by respondent No.2 and in this view of the matter, there is no infirmity with the impugned communication dated 27.12.2005 (Annexure P-8) issued by respondent No.1 vide which it had directed respondent No.2 to refund the subsidy/margin money.

19. Further, communication dated 27.12.2015 is also addressed to the petitioner. This communication refers to earlier communications dated 7.6.2005 and 6.9.2005 on the same subject. As per records, vide communication dated 7.6.2005, respondent No.1 had called upon respondent No.2 to refund an amount of Rs.90,000/- along with interest, which was margin money pertaining to the unit of the petitioner on the ground that she had not set up readymade garments unit as was reported by the Assistant Development Officer of the Board at Shimla and Kullu. A copy of this communication was also addressed to the petitioner. It is evident from the records that the petitioner shifted the proposed unit from Ghaura Chowki, Shimla to Hotel Angel's Inn, Village Aleo, Manali, District Kullu, without intimation/permission of the respondent No.1. There is letter on record of Assistant Development Officer of the Board dated 18.6.2004, in which it is stated that the said Officer went to inspect the unit of the petitioner and found that there was no unit being run by the petitioner at Ghaura Chowki Shimla and in fact, 10 years' rent agreement with the landlord had been cancelled about four months back. Copy of this letter was also addressed to the petitioner. This letter was followed by another letter dated 27.7.2004 vide which respondent No.1 asked the petitioner to have her unit inspected, otherwise the margin money shall be recalled. In response to this, there is a letter dated 7.8.2004 written by the petitioner to respondent No.1 intimating therein that she had shifted her unit from Ghaura Chowki, Shimla to Hotel Angel's Inn, Village Aleo, Phatti Vashisht, Manali, District Kullu and she had purchased her own land for this purpose. It was also mentioned that she had utilized the funds as per project report and she was not aware that permission was required from the Khadi Board to shift the unit. It was further mentioned that she was planning to shift to Manali completely as her business had already been shifted to that place.

20. Incidentally, vide communication dated 7.6.2005, it is clearly mentioned that as per the report of the Assistant Development Officer of the Board, the petitioner had mis-utilized the funds as she had not set up any readymade garments unit as per terms of Scheme. In response, there is a communication dated 20.6.2005, in which it is mentioned that she was already running readymade garments unit at Hotel Angel's Inn, Village Aleo, Manali, District Kullu. Similarly, vide communication dated 6.9.2005, respondent No.1 had also requested respondent No.1 to refund back the margin money of Rs.90,000/- pertaining to the unit of the petitioner on the ground that she had not set up new unit as per norms of the scheme. Copy of this communication was also addressed to the petitioner. Incidentally, there is another communication dated 20.8.2005 addressed by the petitioner to respondent No.1, contents of which are reproduced here-in-below:

"I want to bring this to your kind notice that my unit for the readymade garments was sanctioned by your department in the year 2002-03 for Rs.3 lac only. At that time promoter's own contribution was permitted to the extent of 50% of the total cost of the project. Copy of the circular enclosed. As I was in a hurry to establish my unit I invested my money for the machinery and fixtures and availed the working capital from the bank. Bank has visited my unit on 10.7.2003 and found working and got satisfied.

You are therefore requested to direct the bank to retain the margin money with them only. Please do the needful at the earliest.

Thanking you."

21. None of these documents have been placed on record by the petitioner and in my considered view there is material concealment of facts by the petitioner and she has not approached this Court with clean hands. The petitioner cannot be permitted to say that she was not aware of the documents which have been referred to by me from the records because all these documents are addressed to the petitioner.

22. Learned counsel for the petitioner during the course of arguments could not satisfy this Court as to why the petitioner purchased machinery in the months of April and May 2003 even before her project was sanctioned by respondent No.2. Further, learned counsel for the petitioner could not satisfy this Court as to why the factum of shifting of unit by the petitioner from Ghaura Chowki, Shimla to Hotel Angel's Inn, Village Aleo, Manali, District Kullu was not brought to the notice of respondent No.1. Learned counsel for the petitioner could not inform this Court as to on which date and where the said unit of the petitioner was registered with any statutory authority. Not only this, it is apparent and evident from what I have discussed above that the earlier communications dated 7.6.2005 and 6.9.2005 issued by respondent No.1, copies of which were duly sent to the petitioner on the subject of the refund of the margin money, have been withheld by the petitioner from the Court. Therefore, the petitioner has not approached this Court with clean hands. It is, thus, apparent that no new unit has been set up by the petitioner as per the norms of the KVIC and the steps taken by respondent No.1 for the refund of the margin money along with interest cannot be termed as illegal.

Therefore, in view of what has been discussed above, I do not find any merit in the present petition and the same is accordingly dismissed with costs assessed at Rs.10,000/-. Pending application(s), if any, also stands disposed of. Records produced by respondent No.1 be returned back to the said respondent.

(Para-13 to 17)

For the appellant: Mr. Peeyush Verma, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Parmod Thakur, Addl. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This appeal is instituted against the judgment dated 31.12.2010, rendered by the learned Special Judge (Forest), Shimla, H.P., in Corruption Case No. 9-S/7 of 2009, whereby the appellant-accused (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who was charged with and tried for offences punishable under Sections 409 and 420 IPC and Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as "the P.C. Act" for convenience sake) was convicted and sentenced to suffer imprisonment for three years and to pay a fine of Rs. 10,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo imprisonment for three months under Section 409 IPC. He was also sentenced to suffer imprisonment for three years and to pay a fine of Rs. 10,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo imprisonment for three months under Section 420 IPC. He was further sentenced to undergo imprisonment for three years and to pay a fine of Rs. 10,000/- and in default of payment of fine to undergo imprisonment for three months under Section 13(2) of the P.C. Act. The sentences were ordered to run concurrently.

2. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that PW-3 Chet Ram obtained a loan of Rs. 50,000/- for running a karyana shop from H.P. Minorities Finance and Development Corporation, Shimla. He committed default. A notice was served upon him on 5.12.2007 asking him to deposit the amount in question. On 25.12.2007 accused Bhag Chand Jr. Assistant of the Corporation visited Chet Ram at his house and received a sum of Rs. 21,000/- and issued receipt thereof. On 6.11.2008, Chet Ram informed the Corporation that he has made payment to accused Bhag Chand. Pursuant to this complaint, the Dy. General Manager was assigned the job of inquiry. Notice was issued to accused Bhag Chand on 17.11.2008. Accused Bhag Chand through communication dated 26.11.2008 admitted to have received the money through his son and regretted the lapse. He also deposited Rs. 21,000/- in the Corporation's account in the Axis Bank. The Dy. General Manager sent letter dated 22.11.2008 for registration of a case and FIR was registered at Police Station SV & ACB, Shimla. Various documents were taken into possession by the police. The investigation was completed and the challan was put up before the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as nine witnesses. The accused was also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. He admitted that he was charge-sheeted and departmental inquiry was conducted. He also admitted that he was responsible for stock and stores, furniture and fixtures, diary dispatch etc. He claimed that when he was deputed for election duty, he had handed over the charge to Sh. C.L.Sharma. He specifically denied to have received Rs. 21,000/- from Chet Ram and issuance of receipt to him. He submitted his reply on 26.11.2008 admitting his guilt. However, no defence evidence was led by the accused. The learned trial Court convicted and sentenced the accused, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. Peeyush Verma, Advocate, has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused. On the other hand, Mr. Parmod Thakur, Addl. Advocate General has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 31.12.2010.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for both the sides and have also gone through the judgment and records of the case carefully.

6. PW-1 Anil Kumar Sharma, testified that he issued memo to accused Bhag Chand. The copy of memo is Ext. PW-1/A. Reply was submitted by accused Bhag Chand vide Ext. PW-2/B. He submitted the matter to the Managing Director. The Managing Director ordered suspension of the delinquent official and for investigation into the matter. Accused also filed letter dated 26.11.2008 vide Ext. PW-1/B. He sent letter dated 22.11.2008 for registration of case vide Ext. PW-1/C. In his cross-examination, he admitted that the accused remained on Vidhan Sabha duty from 6.11.2007 to 9.1.2008 and he was at Shimla. They had sent communication to Chet Ram on 5.12.2007 for default in his loan. The loan was to be re-paid in monthly installments. He denied the suggestion that accused deposited money with the department. He admitted that during election duty, the charge of the official is handed over to another official.

7. PW-2 Farid Khan testified that he was working as Clerk in the office of H.P. Minorities Finance and Development Corporation, Shimla. Accused Bhag Chand had handed over to him the receipt-book bearing No. 0003901 to 0004000 vide Ext. P-1. Page No. 1 of the receipt No. 0003903 was missing. He handed over this receipt book to Atma Ram Bhardwaj, Sr. Assistant. Bhardwaj had kept this in his custody. The police had seized the documents mentioned in memo Ext. PW-2/A during investigation. In his cross-examination, he deposed that the accused was the custodian of the record and the receipt book remained with him. When accused was suspended, then this receipt book Ext. P-1 was handed over to him. He had received Ext. P-1 at the order of the Managing Director. He made endorsement Ext. PW-2/B. Similarly, on one copy of receipt No. 0003903, he also made endorsement Ext. PW-2/C on 20.11.2008.

8. PW-3 Chet Ram deposed that the loan was obtained by him in the year 2003, amounting to Rs. 50,000/-. It was to be returned in quarterly installments. A sum of Rs. 30,800/- was outstanding for repayment. Accused had visited his house imploring him to make the payment otherwise there would be a case against him. He had paid him Rs. 21,000/-. The accused issued receipt on 25.12.2007 vide Ext. PW-3/A. He handed over the receipt Ext. PW-3/A to the police vide memo Ext. PW-3/B. He made complaint to the Managing Director regarding deposit of Rs. 21,000/-. Since the proceedings were initiated against him through Collector, he received notice dated 5.12.2007. In his cross-examination, he deposed that the department had obtained cheques from him. The department used to present cheque issued by him and the amount used to be realized from his account. Many cheques bounced. He has deposited the amount after receipt of the notice. After issuance of notice, cheques were not presented. Accused had come to his house on 25.12.2007.

9. PW-5 A.K.Gupta, deposed that he was posted as Managing Director of H.P. Minorities Finance and Development Corporation, Shimla since September, 2009. He had accorded prosecution sanction under Section 19 of the P.C. Act, for prosecuting accused Bhag Chand. He had gone through the inquiry report conducted by State Vigilance and thereafter he consulted the record available in his office. The sanction letter is Ext. PW-5/A.

10. PW-6 Atma Ram deposed that the Corporation advances loan and finances to minority and disabled persons for setting up of their units. On 1.8.2002, a sum of Rs. 50,000/- was advanced as loan to Chet Ram. On receipt of complaint, the matter was dealt in the office. As per record, only photo copy of complaint dated 6.12.2008 was received and it was dealt with by DGM. A sum of Rs. 21,000/- was deposited after a lapse of 11 months. The amount was deposited by accused Bhag Chand in the Axis Bank. The copy of counter foil of pay-in-slip dated 26.11.2008 is Ext. PW-6/A. The entry of deposit of Rs. 21,000/- paid in cash is at page 148 vide Ext. PW-6/B. Accused had given in writing a letter dated 26.11.2008 vide Ext. PW-1/B. The department had also initiated departmental inquiry against the accused vide Ext. PW-6/D-1. The order of inquiry is Ext. PW-6/D-2 to Ext. PW-6/D-4. The order of suspension is Ext. PW-6/D-5. He admitted in his cross-examination that from counter foil Ext. PW-6/A, it cannot be inferred that the amount in question was deposited by accused Bhag Chand. Volunteered that from the writing it appears that it has been deposited by him. He denied the suggestion that he could not say that during Vidhan Sabha accused remained at Shimla throughout.

11. PW-9 Insp. Karam Chand deposed that he conducted the investigation in the case. He had seized on 20.5.2009, the documents as per memo Ext. PW-2/A. He also seized the original receipt in possession of Chet Ram through memo Ext. PW-3/B on 21.7.2009 at Banjar. The receipt is Ext. PW-3/A. Specimen signatures of accused were obtained before the Judicial Magistrate vide Ext. PW-6/D-13 to PW-6/D-42. The documents were sent to FSL and report Ext. PW-9/A was obtained.

12. It is evident from Ext. PW-1/B written by the accused to the Managing Director on 26.11.2008 that he has admitted that money was paid by the loanee to his son. His son did not tell this fact to him because of fear. He was informed of this fact on 23.11.2008 by his son who was called by him to Shimla. Since he was the custodian of receipt books and receipt No. 003903 dated 22.12.2007 was written by him in good faith and on assurance that the money will be paid soon. He has regretted the lapse and has admitted the deposit of Rs. 21,000/- in Corporation's account No. 2776 on 26.11.2008 with Axis Bank. He has also enclosed the receipt. He has prayed that lenient view be taken.

13. The accused has also sent communication to the Managing Director on 26.11.2008 vide Ext. PW-2/B. He has admitted that the complainant has taken receipt through his son. It is not the case of the accused that PW-3 Chet Ram has taken away receipt Ext. PW-3/A forcibly from accused Bhag Chand. Even, according to the contents of Exts. PW-1/B and PW-2/B the son of accused had received the money on behalf of the accused and receipt Ext. PW-3/A was issued by the accused. It has also come on record that only receipt Ext. PW-3/A was found missing from the entire receipt book.

14. According to the contents of Forensic Science Report Ext. PW-9/A, the writings marked Q-1 were written by one and the same person whose specimen handwritings were marked as S-1 to S-10 and A-1 to A-4. The specimen handwritings of accused Bhag Chand marked as S-1 to S-10 and A-1 to A-4 are Ext. PW-6/D-13 to D-22. It is duly proved by the prosecution that the receipt Ext. PW-3/A was written by accused in his own hand writing. It has come in report Ext. PW-9/A that receipt Ext. PW-3/A was from receipt book Ext. P-1. In case the accused had remained on election duty between 6.11.2007 to 9.1.2008, there is no possibility of the receipt book with him. His son has received the payment and the accused has issued the receipt. He has admitted in Ext. PW-1/B that his son has received the money. Ext. PW-1/B and Ext. PW-2/B were in the handwriting of the accused. These documents were sent by the accused pursuant to notice issued to him by the Management. He has also admitted that he has deposited Rs. 21,000/- in the Corporation's Account in the Axis Bank. The official witnesses were well conversant with the handwriting of the accused, he being their colleague. The fact of the matter is that the author of Ext. PW-3/A was none else than the accused.

15. PW-3 Chet Ram has categorically deposed that the accused had visited his house and received Rs. 21,000/- and issued receipt Ext. PW-3/A. The accused has not led any evidence to prove that on the relevant date he was at Shimla. Rather accused Bhag Chand has admitted in Ext. PW-1/B that he has written the receipt. This fact is duly corroborated by report Ext. PW-9/A. PW-2 Farid Khan has obtained receipt book Ext. P-1 on the basis of orders passed by the Managing Director.

16. Mr. Peeyush Verma, Advocate, for the accused has vehemently argued that there is delay in lodging the FIR. However, the fact of the matter is that the complaint was received on 6.11.2008 and the misappropriation came to the notice of the Department. Thereafter, prompt action was taken against the accused. It is reiterated that the accused has admitted his guilt and has also paid a sum of Rs. 21,000/- to the Corporation through Bank. This amount was tendered by the accused himself.

17. PW-6 Atma Ram has deposed that the writing Ext. PW-6/A was of the accused. The accused has also admitted, as noticed hereinabove, that as per the contents of Ext. PW-1/B, he has deposited the amount in question. Once he has received the amount from Chet Ram on 25.12.2007, he was supposed to deposit the same in the Corporation. However, the default was detected in November, 2008 and accused deposited the amount in question only on 26.11.2008. Thus, the prosecution has proved the case against accused Bhag Chand under Sections 409, 420 IPC and Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988. There is no occasion for this Court to interfere with the well reasoned judgment of the learned trial Court dated 31.12.2010.

18. Accordingly, there is no merit in this appeal, the same is dismissed.

Case referred:

Ram Swaroop versus State (Government of NCT of Delhi) (2013) 14 SCC 235

For the appellant: Mr. Rajesh Kumar, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Parmod Thakur, Addl. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge.

This appeal is instituted against the judgment dated 8.4.2015 rendered by the Special Judge, Mandi, District Mandi in sessions trial No. 15 of 2011 whereby the appellant-accused (hereinafter referred to as the "accused"), who was charged with and tried for offence punishable under section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act' for brevity sake), has been convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for two years and to pay a fine of Rs. 20,000/- and in default of payment of fine he was further ordered to undergo simple imprisonment for six months under section 20 of the Act.

2. Case of the prosecution, in a nutshell, is that PW-9 ASI Surender Singh with other police officials had gone for patrolling on 9.2.2011 after lodging rapat Ex.PW-4/A. The police party had laid a Nakka at Kainchi Mod. At about 2.00 P.M. accused came from Kullu side.

On seeing the police party, turned around and tried to escape. The accused was apprehended. The place was desolate and no independent witness was available. Police made request to various persons, however, no one was ready to be witness in the case. Constables Lalit Kumar and Dhameshar were associated as witnesses. Accused was apprised of his right to be searched either in presence of a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate vide memo Ex.PW-3/B. Accused consented to be searched by the police. During search, one sky blue coloured handkerchief containing some material was found in his left sock. On opening of handkerchief, 250 grams charas Ex.P-2 was found. The charas was resealed in the same manner and was kept in a cloth, which was sealed with six seal impressions 'Y'. Sample seal Ex.PW-3/D was drawn and facsimile of seal was drawn on NCB-1 form filled in triplicate on the spot. The seal after use was handed over to PW-3 Lalit Kumar. The case property alongwith documents was seized vide memo Ex.PW-3/C. Rukka Ex.PW-6/A was prepared and sent to Police Station through constable Dhameshwar. Spot map was prepared. Parcel Ex.P-1 containing charas Ex.P-2, handkerchief Ex.P-3 was produced before PW-7 Surender Pal alongwith NCB form, sample seals etc. He resealed the same with four seal impressions of seal 'T'. Case property was deposited with MHC PW-8 Thakur Singh. He made entry in the Malkhana register. Case property was sent to FSL, Junga vide RC Ex.PW-8/B through constable Gulab Singh. The police investigated the case and the challan was put up in the Court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. Prosecution examined as many as nine witnesses in all to prove its case against the accused. Statement of accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded. The defence of the accused is of simplicitor denial. Trial court convicted and sentenced the accused, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, the present appeal.

4. Mr. Rajesh Kumar, learned counsel for the accused, has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused.

5. Mr. Parmod Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General, has supported the judgment dated 8.4.2015.

6. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the judgment and record meticulously.

7. PW-2 Gulab Singh has testified that on 11.2.2011, HHC Thakur Dass handed over to him a parcel, which was sealed with seal impression 'Y' at four places alongwith sample seals and NCB form in triplicate vide RC Ex.PW-2/A. He took the same to FSL, Junga. No one tampered with the case property till it remained in his custody.

8. PW-3 Lalit Kumar has deposed that on 9.2.2011, he alongwith HC Surinder Singh, constable Parma Nand, Constable Narender, Constable Kashmir Singh and Constable Dhameshwar Singh was present at place Kainchi Mod on Nakkabandi. Accused was seen coming from Hanogi towards Pandoh. On seeing the police party, accused tried to escape. He was apprehended. The I.O. tried to associate independent witness in search party and stopped the vehicles passing thereby; however, none was ready to join the search party. Consent of the accused was obtained for his search vide memo Ex.PW-3/B. Accused consented to be searched by the police. Personal search of the accused was conducted and cannabis in the shape of sticks was recovered from the sock of the left foot, which was wrapped in a handkerchief. It weighed 250 grams. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot. In his cross-examination, he has deposed that they left police post at 12.10 P.M. in a private vehicle. Kainchi Mod is at a distance of 2½ KMs and Pandoh Dam is at a distance of 2 KMs from the Police Post. He denied the suggestion that there was one shop at Kainchi Mod. He has also denied that there was a tea stall at the spot, though admitted that employees generally remain at Pandoh Dam.

9. PW-5 Sachan Kumar has deposed that he was directed by the SHO, Police Station Sadar to bring the report and case property of the case from FSL, Junga. He brought the report Ex.PW-5/A, NCB form and other relevant documents.

10. PW-7 Surender Pal has deposed that on 9.2.2011, HC Surender Singh handed over to him one cloth parcel sealed with seal Y at six places alongwith NCB form in triplicate and sample seal for resealing purposes. The seals were found intact on the parcel. The cloth parcel containing cannabis was resealed by him with seal impression 'T' at four places. Sample seal 'T' was embossed on the NCB form Ex.PW-7/A. He filled in column Nos. 9 to 11 of NCB form in triplicate. Sample seal T was separately taken on a cloth piece Ex.PW-7/B. Thereafter, case property was deposited in Malkhana. He also prepared resealing certificate Ex.PW-7/C.

11. PW-8 HHC Thakur Singh has testified that on 9.2.2011, Inspector/SHO Surender Pal handed over to him one cloth parcel sealed with seal 'Y' at six places and resealed with seal impression 'T' at four places containing 250 grams cannabis alongwith NCB form in triplicate etc. He entered the case property in Malkhana register at Sr. No. 1135. He sent the case property alongwith documents to FSL, Junga vide RC No.275/2010.

12. PW-9 Surender Singh has deposed the manner in which the accused was arrested. Accused was apprised about his legal right to be searched either in presence of a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate vide memo Ex.PW-3/B. Accused consented to be searched by the police. His personal search was conducted. Charas weighing 250 grams was recovered. Case property was taken into possession. The charas was sealed with 6 seal impressions of Y. He prepared Rukka Ex.PW-6/A. It was sent to the Police Station through constable Dhameshwar. He denied the suggestion in his cross-examination that many labourers were present in the mines. He admitted that the spot falls on National Highway. He admitted that number of vehicles cross on the National Highway. He has denied that a tea stall and workshop were situated near the spot. They checked 10 to 20 vehicles after 2.00 P.M. He has denied the suggestion that no attempt was made to join independent witnesses.

13. Accused was apprehended at Kainchi Mod in the afternoon on 9.2.2011. He was apprised of his legal right to be searched in presence of either a Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate vide memo Ex.PW-3/B. He consented to be searched by the police. Charas was recovered from his person. It weighed 250 grams. All the codal formalities were completed on the spot. Rukka Ex.PW-6/A was prepared, on the basis of which FIR was registered. Case property was resealed in accordance with law. It was sent to FSL, Junga for analysis. It was found to be charas. PW-3 HC Lalit Kumar has categorically deposed that the I.O. tried to associate independent witnesses; however, no one was ready to be witness. It is in these circumstances, he was associated in the search party. He has denied that there was one tea stall at Kainchi Mod. Kainchi Mod was at a distance of 2 ½ KMs from Police Post and 2 KMs from Pandoh Dam. Similarly, PW-9 Surender Singh has denied the suggestion that the police has not made any efforts to join independent witnesses. Statements of police officials inspire confidence and are trustworthy. These cannot be discarded.

14. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram Swaroop versus State (Government of NCT of Delhi) (2013) 14 SCC 235 has held that there is no absolute rule that police officers cannot be cited as witnesses and their depositions should be treated with suspicion since generally public at large are reluctant to come forward to depose before court and, therefore, prosecution case cannot be doubted for non-examining independent witnesses. Their Lordships have held as under:

> [7] To appreciate the first limb of submission, we have carefully scrutinized the evidence brought on record and perused the judgment of the High Court and that of the trial Court. It is noticeable that the evidence of PW-7, namely, Ritesh Kumar, has been supported by Balwant Singh, PW-5, as well as other witnesses. It has come in the evidence of Ritesh Kumar that he had asked the passerby to be witnesses but none of them agreed and left without disclosing their names and addresses. On a careful perusal of their version we do not notice anything by which their evidence can be treated to be untrustworthy. On the contrary it is absolutely unimpeachable. We may note here with profit there is no absolute rule that police officers cannot be cited as witnesses and their depositions should be treated with suspect. In this context we may refer with profit to the dictum in State of U.P. v. Anil Singh, 1988 Supp1 SCC 686 wherein this Court took note of the fact that generally the public at large are reluctant to come forward to depose before the court and, therefore, the prosecution case cannot be doubted for non-examining the independent witnesses.

[10] Keeping in view the aforesaid authorities, it can safely be stated that in the case at hand there is no reason to hold that non- examination of the independent witnesses affect the prosecution case and, hence, we unhesitatingly repel the submission advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant."

15. There is no violation of section 50 of the Act, as argued by Mr. Rajesh Kumar, learned counsel for the accused. Minor contradictions pointed out by Mr. Rajesh Kumar in the statements of PW-6 Dharam Singh and PW-9 Surender Singh have not prejudiced the case of the accused. Fact of the matter is that Rukka Ex.PW-6/A was sent to Police Station on the basis of which FIR was registered. PW-3 Lalit Kumar has testified that Rukka was sent through constable Parma Nand. However, PW-9 Surender Pal has deposed that Rukka was sent through constable Dhameshwar. However, PW-6 Dharam Singh has deposed that Rukka was received by him through Constable Parma Nand. It was minor contradiction, which is bound to happen with the passage of time.

16. Consequently, in view of analysis and discussion made hereinabove, the prosecution has proved its case against the accused to the hilt.

17. Accordingly, there is no merit in the appeal and the same is dismissed.

For the appellant: Mr. N.K. Thakur, Senior Advocate with Mr. Ramesh Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. D.S. Nainta and Mr. Virender Verma, Addl. Advocates General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge

Accused Joga Singh, in a case registered under Section 20-61-85 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act' in short) vide FIR No. 11/2012 in Police Station, State CID, Bharari (Shimla) aggrieved by his conviction and sentence by learned Sessions Judge, Shimla vide judgment dated 29.10.2012, is in appeal before this Court.

2. The complaint is that learned trial Court has recorded the findings of conviction against the accused on surmises and conjectures. The contraband allegedly charas, if was tied by him with transparent tape on his both legs, it was necessarily required for the Investigating Officer to have conducted his search either in presence of a Gazetted officer or Magistrate. He never opted for being searched by the police. The consent memo Ext. PW-1/B is stated to be false. There is no compliance of the provisions contained under Section 50 of the Act. There being no evidence as to how much was the quantity of charas tied by him in his each leg, no findings of conviction could have been recorded. The search was conducted at 3.30 p.m. in broad day light and that too on a national highway, therefore, non-joining of independent witnesses has rendered the entire prosecution story highly improbable. The material contradictions in the statements of the official witnesses have been erroneously ignored and brushed aside. The judgment has, therefore, been sought to be quashed and set aside.

3. In a nut-shell, the prosecution case as disclosed from the record shortly stated is that PW-6 Sub Inspector Krishan Chand was posted as Investigating Officer in State CID Police Station, Bharari, Shimla in the year 2012. On 16.05.2012, around 11.30 p.m. he along with Head Constable Pradeep Kumar (PW-1) and Constable Joginder Singh (PW-2), proceeded towards Tara Devi and Shoghi side for patrolling and in connection with detection of crimes. Rapat Ext. PW-1/A to this effect was entered in the rojnamcha. Around 3.30 p.m. when the police party reached at a place one kilometer ahead of bifurcation of road to P.W.D rest house Tara Devi, one person walking ahead of them was spotted. PW-6 asked him to stop. On inquiry, the said person has disclosed his name Joga Singh. Also that he was going on foot from Tara Devi to Shoghi Side. On asking as to why he was going to Shoghi walking on foot and that too at an isolated place, he failed to answer satisfactorily and rather became nervous. He tried to flee away from the spot, however, apprehended by the police. On further inquiry, he disclosed his parentage and also the place of his residence at Patiala in Punjab. PW-6 suspected that the accused is in possession of some narcotic substance or drug. The efforts were made to try independent witnesses, however, the place being isolated, no person could be associated as independent witness. PW-6 even tried to stop few vehicles, but of no avail because the persons on wheel of such vehicles did not stop the same. Therefore, the Investigating Officer has associated Head Constable Pradeep Kumar (PW-1) and HHG Narinder Kumar (PW-2) as witnesses and proceeded further in the matter. The accused was informed orally as well as in writing about his right of being searched either in presence of a Gazetted officer or a Magistrate. The memo Ext. PW-1/B was prepared in this regard. The accused, however, agreed for his search by the police itself. Therefore, after obtaining the consent of the accused, PW-6 offered his own search to the accused first vide memo Ext. PW-1/C. Nothing incriminating was found during the search of PW-6 conducted by the accused. Thereafter, the personal search of the accused was conducted. He was found to have wrapped some substance brown in colour with plastic tape on his both legs below knee level. The Investigating Officer got the plastic tape cut and noticed that two transparent plastic poly bags containing black coloured substance in the shape of balls and sticks were tied with both legs. On checking and smelling the same and on his personal experience, the Investigating Officer found the same to be charas. When weighed with electronic scale, the Investigating Officer having with him, it was found to be 1.300grams. The recovered charas along with plastic bag and tape was packed in a parcel of cloth and it was sealed with 10 seals of impression 'K'. Samples of seal Ext. PW-1/D were drawn and the seal after its use handed over to Head Constable Pradeep Kumar. The recovered charas was taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW-1/E. All the documents were prepared in the presence of witnesses and also the accused, which were also signed by them. The Investigating Officer thereafter filled in the NCB forms Ext. PW-4/D in triplicate. He prepared the rukka Ext. PW-6/A and it was forwarded through Constable Joginder Singh along with parcels containing charas, seizure memo, NCB forms and sample of seal to Police Station State CID Bharari for registration of a case. On the basis of rukka, FIR No. 11/12, Ext. PW-4/A was registered by PW-4 Head Constable Parkash, the then MHC, Police Station, State CID, Bharari. Spot map Ext. PW-6/B was prepared. Since the accused was found to be in possession of charas weighing 1.300grams, therefore, he was arrested after the grounds of arrest disclosed to him vide memo Ext. PW-6/C. The statements of witnesses were recorded. Memo Ext. PW-3/A qua the articles recovered during the personal search of the accused was prepared. Special report Ext. PW-1/F was prepared and it was sent to Deputy Superintendent of Police, Crime Bharari, Shimla. The certificate CIPA (Common Integrated Police Application) was also prepared. The case property was re-sealed by PW-5 Inspector Tenzin Shasni, the then Station House Officer with six seals of impression 'R'. The sample of seal Ext. PW-5/A was separately drawn on a piece of cloth. PW-5 has also filled in relevant columns of NCB forms vide memo Ext. PW-4/D. He thereafter deposited the case property with the MHC in the Malkhana. PW-4 received the parcels containing recovered charas duly sealed along with NCB forms in triplicate, seizure memo, re-sealing certificate and retained the same in Malkhana. Entries Ext. PW-4/B were made in the Malkhana register. On 17.05.2012, PW-4 has handed over the parcels containing the recovered charas, sample of seals 'K' and 'R', NCB forms in triplicate, copy of seizure memo and reseal certificate and copy of FIR vide RC No. 39/12 Ext. PW-4/C to Constable Joginder Singh for being deposited in the Forensic Science Laboratory. The said Constable has deposited the case property in Forensic Science Laboratory and produced the receipt on it before PW-4.

4. On receipt of the chemical examiner's report Ext. P-X and completion of the investigation of the case, report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared by PW-5 and filed in the Court.

5. Learned trial Judge on appreciation of the investigation conducted by the police and the documents annexed to the report filed under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure has prima-facie found the involvement of the accused in the commission of the offence punishable under Section 20-61-85 of the N.D.P.S. Act. Therefore, charge against him was framed accordingly. He, however, pleaded not guilty to the charge, therefore, the prosecution was called upon to produce the evidence in order to sustain the charge so framed against the accused.

6. The prosecution, in turn, has examined six witnesses in all. The material prosecution witnesses are PW-1 HC Pradeep Kumar, PW-2 HHG Narinder Kumar, PW-3 Constable Joginder Singh and PW-6 Sub-Inspector Krishan Chand, the Investigating Officer, who has apprehended the accused, conducted his search and recovered charas weighing 1.300grams from his possession. The remaining witnesses PW-4 and PW-5 are formal being the Moharer Head Constable and the Station House Officer, Police Station, State CID Bharari and the evidence as has come on record by way of their testimony can be considered and taken as link evidence.

7. Learned trial Court on appreciation of the evidence has concluded that in view of the cogent and reliable evidence produced by the prosecution during the course of trial, the charas weighing 1.300 Grams has been recovered from the physical and conscious possession of the accused and as such, he was convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 10 years and to pay a fine of Rs.1,00,000/-. It is this judgment, which is under challenge in the present appeal.

8. Mr. Ramesh Sharma, learned counsel representing the convict has argued with all vehemence that learned trial Court has erred legally and factually in placing reliance on the testimony of official witnesses. According to him, there is no consistency in the statements made by these witnesses and they rather have contradicted each other on material aspects. The option of the accused qua his search either before the Gazetted Officer or a Magistrate is not at all obtained in accordance with law and as such, the entire proceedings in the trial have vitiated. The alleged place of recovery, a national highway, the independent witnesses could have easily been associated. Therefore, it is submitted that the non-joining of independent witnesses has rendered the entire prosecution story highly doubtful. Mr. Sharma has, therefore, urged that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt and the findings of conviction and sentence recorded against the appellant-convict have, therefore, been sought to be quashed and set aside.

9. On the other hand, Mr. D.S. Nainta, learned Additional Advocate General while repelling the submissions made on behalf of learned counsel for the appellant-convict, has urged that the official witnesses are as much good as any independent person and as such, the Court below is stated to have rightly appreciated the evidence as has come on record by way of their testimony. It is also urged that the statements made by the prosecution witnesses are consistent and support the prosecution case on all material aspects. The appeal, therefore, has been sought to be dismissed.

10. We have analyzed the rival submissions and also gone through the evidence available on record. The present is a case registered under Section 20 of the N.D. P.S. Act. The offence under the section ibid is not only heinous but grievous also because the offender not commits an offence of this nature against any individual but the public at large. The illicit trafficking of narcotic drugs and other substances has played havoc in the society as a whole, particularly in our young generation, which got attracted to the drugs and other narcotic substances easily and then become addict thereof. It is for this reason, provision of stringent punishment has been made against an offender, if after holding full trial is found guilty of the commission of offence. At the same time, there are few safeguards also provided under the Act, which save an innocent person from conviction if the investigating agency is found to be lacking in taking care thereof while conducting the search and seizure and the investigation of a case registered under the Act.

11. The sine qua none to infer the commission of an offence under the Act is the recovery of contraband from the actual and physical possession of the accused. The prosecution has successfully pleaded and proved that the police party headed by PW-6 Sub Inspector Krishan Chand has left the Police Station at 11.30 p.m towards Tara Devi and Shoghi side for patrolling and detection of crimes. The police party as per the evidence having come on record by way of the testimony of PWs 1, 3 and 6 first reached at Long Wood from Bharari. They boarded a bus from Long Wood up to Victory tunnel. They boarded another bus from Victory tunnel and reached at Tara Devi around 1.30 p.m. The police party remained at Tara Devi up to 3.00 p.m when collected intelligence (certain secret information) there. Then they started walking on foot on the national highway. When they reached at point 'D' in the spot map Ext. PW-6/B near the bifurcation of road to P.W.D Rest House Tara Devi, the accused was spotted and asked to stop there. All the prosecution witnesses are categoric and specific while deposing so in the witness box.

12. True it is that the place of recovery is a national highway. There is again no quarrel that it is busy road and connecting Shimla with Chandigarh. The time was 3.30 p.m i.e. day time, however, the prosecution case that PW-4 has signaled many vehicles to stop, but of no avail, found corroboration from the testimony of PWs 1, 2, 3 and 6. That place is also isolated, as the market and residential houses are either at Tara Devi or ahead of that place i.e. Shoghi. Since the persons on wheel of the vehicles being driven to and fro did not stop their vehicles, irrespective of signaled by the Investigating Officer and the place an isolated one, it cannot be said that the Investigating Officer has avoided intentionally and deliberately to associate the independent witnesses. The Investigating Officer and the remaining three witnesses of spot have corroborated this aspect of the prosecution case in toto. Meaning thereby that there is a plausible explanation qua non-joining of independent witnesses at the time of conducting search and seizure.

13. The Apex Court has held in Girja Prasad v. State of M.P., (2007) 7 SCC 625 that the conviction can be based on the testimony of official witnesses, however, if otherwise inspires confidence.

14. This legal position has been reiterated by the Apex Court in Makhan Singh v. State of Haryana, (2015) 12 SCC 247. The relevant extract of reads as follows:

> "……In peculiar circumstances of the case, it may not be possible to find out independent witnesses at all places at all times. Independent witnesses who live in the same village or nearby villages of the accused are at times afraid to come and depose in favour of the prosecution. Though it is well settled that a conviction can be based solely on the testimony of official witnesses, condition precedent is that the evidence of such official witnesses must inspire confidence. In the present case, it is not as if independent witnesses were not available….."

15. Now, if coming to the testimony of the prosecution witnesses PWs 1, 3 and 6, they all while in the witness-box have stated in one voice that they started from Police Station, Bharari at 11.30 a.m., boarded a bus from Long Wood to Victory tunnel and from Victory tunnel to Tara Devi. They reached at Tara Devi at 1.30 p.m. They remained there up to 3.00 p.m. It is, thereafter, they started walking on national highway towards Shoghi side. Accused was nabbed at a place where the road bifurcates to P.W.D Rest House, Tara Devi i.e. one kilometer away from Tara Devi bazaar. Independent witnesses were not present, therefore, the Investigating Officer PW-6 has associated PW-1 Head Constable Pradeep Kumar and HHG Narinder Kumar, PW-2 as independent witnesses and conducted the search of the accused in their presence after obtaining his consent. They all have stated that the charas was wrapped by the accused with tape on his both legs below knee level. They have also supported the prosecution case qua the weighment of the recovered charas and sealing process. It is also established from their testimony that after the recovery of charas, NCB forms Ext. Ext. PW-4/D was filled-in, in triplicate. Thereafter, rukka Ext. PW-6/A was prepared and handed over to Constable Joginder Singh, PW-3. The parcels containing case property were also given to PW-3 for being handed over to the Station House Officer in the Police Station. The registration of FIR Ext. PW-4/A on the basis of rukka Ext. PW-6/A is also satisfactorily proved on record.

16. The appreciation of the statements of PWs 1, 3 and 6 leads to the only conclusion that they are specific and categoric on all material aspects, such as time when they left the Police Station. Time when they reached at Tara Devi, the place where the accused was apprehended and the recovery of charas weighing 1.300 kilograms from his possession. Learned counsel though has argued that the evidence as has come on record by way of their testimonies is contradictory in nature, however, merely for rejection because he failed to point out any inconsistency or contradictions in the statements of the witnesses. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Dalel Singh V. State of Haryana (2010) 1 SCC 149 and State of Punjab V. Lakhvinder Singh and another (2010) 4 SCC 402 has held that the minor discrepancies in the statements of witnesses are bound to occur due to the fading of the memories of the witnesses. The same should not be viewed seriously to doubt the prosecution case, if the same otherwise is found to have proved beyond all reasonable doubt with the help of cogent and reliable evidence.

17. The accused belongs to Patiala. In order to explain his presence in Shimla, no doubt, it is his case that he was here on pleasure trip, as a tourist, however, it cannot be believed so for the reason that during his personal search conducted by the Investigating Officer vide memo Ext. PW-3/A, currency notes worth of `13/- were found in his purse. He, therefore, was not in Shimla as a tourist and rather doing business i.e. to carry charas for someone else may be in the capacity of a carrier. Therefore, the recovery of charas from his physical and conscious possession stands satisfactorily established on record. In this view of the matter, the burden to prove otherwise that he is innocent and has not committed any offence was shifted on the accused. In view of the findings hereinabove, he, however, has failed to discharge the onus upon him and as such, the presumptions envisaged under Sections 35 and 54 of the Act can be raised against him.

18. In similar circumstances, the Apex Court in Noor Aga Versus State of Punjab, (2008) 16 SCC 417 has held as under:

> "58. Sections 35 and 54 of the Act, no doubt, raise presumptions with regard to the culpable mental state on the part of the accused as also place burden of proof in this behalf on the accused; but a bare perusal the said provision would clearly show that presumption would operate in the trial of the accused only in the event the circumstances contained therein are fully satisfied. An initial burden exists upon the prosecution and only when it stands satisfied, the legal burden would shift. Even then, the standard of proof required for the accused to prove his innocence is not as high as that of the prosecution. Whereas the standard of proof required to prove the guilt of accused on the prosecution is "beyond all reasonable doubt" but it is 'preponderance of probability' on the accused. If the prosecution fails to prove the foundational facts so as to attract the rigours of Section 35 of the Act, the actus reus which is possession of contraband by the accused cannot be said to have been established.
> 59. With a view to bring within its purview the requirements of Section 54 of the Act, element of possession of the contraband was essential so as to shift the burden on the accused. The provisions being exceptions to the general rule, the generality thereof would continue to be operative, namely, the element of possession will have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt.
> 6. Whether the burden on the accused is a legal burden or an evidentiary burden would depend on the statute in question. The purport and object thereof must also be taken into consideration in determining the said question. It must pass the test of doctrine of proportionality. The difficulties faced by the prosecution in certain cases may be held to be sufficient to arrive at an opinion that the burden on the accused is an evidentiary burden and not merely a legal burden. The trial must be fair. The accused must be provided with opportunities to effectively defend himself."

19. Be it stated that as per the ratio of the judgment supra it is the prosecution which has first to prove the foundational facts i.e. proof qua the recovery of the contraband from the exclusive and conscious possession of the accused beyond all reasonable doubt to attract the rigours of Section 35 of the Act and it is only thereafter the burden to prove otherwise that the contraband has not been recovered from his exclusive and conscious possession would shift upon the accused. Also that, the standard of proof to discharge the onus upon the accused to prove his innocence is not so high as compared to that upon the prosecution and the accused can discharge such onus upon him merely on preponderance of probability. However, we are of the firm view that cogent and consistent eye witness count given by PWs 1 and 3 and supported by the testimony of the I.O. PW6 leaves no manner of doubt that the 'charas' has been recovered from the physical and conscious possession of the accused. As noticed supra, he however, failed to discharge the onus upon him even by preponderance of probability also. The explanation qua his presence at the place of recovery that he had come to Shimla on a pleasure trip as a tourist is neither plausible nor reasonable and stands discarded as per findings recorded in para supra. In our considered opinion, he had come to carry charas may be for someone else. The fact, however, remains that the charas has been recovered from his physical and conscious possession.

20. Much has been said about the compliance of provisions contained under Section 50 of the N.D. P.S Act. The evidence, as discussed hereinabove, makes it crystal clear that the option of being searched in the presence of a Gazetted officer or Magistrate was sought from the accused vide memo Ext. PW-1/B. He, however, opted for being searched by the police itself. It lies ill in the mouth of the accused that his consent was not obtained for the reason that this part of the prosecution case finds full corroboration from the testimonies of PWs 1 and 3 and that of PW-6, the Investigating Officer. Therefore, the convict cannot be said to have any grievance qua this aspect of the matter

21. True it is that at the time of search and seizure of contraband or narcotic drugs, independent witnesses are required to be associated, however, in the case in hand, as already discussed hereinabove, the Investigating Officer, PW-6 has made efforts to associate someone as independent witness, but failed to do so, as the drivers did not stop their vehicles being plied on the road and the place was isolated. No doubt, an effort has been made to show that P.W.D workshop was situated nearby, as is apparent from the trend of cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses conducted by learned defence counsel, however, without any result as except for bald suggestion, nothing has come on record as to at what distance such workshop was situated. Therefore, the ratio of the judgments of Co-ordinate Benches of this Court in Bal Raj Singh v. State of HP, Latest HLJ 2014(HP) 1120 and Tarun Sharma v. State of HP, Latest HLJ 2015(HP) 519 is not attracted in the given facts and circumstances of the case.

22. We, however, draw support qua this aspect of the matter from the judgment of the Apex Court in Makhan Singh's case (supra), in which it has been held that it is not always possible to associate someone as independent witness to witness the search and seizure and at times even the villagers do not agree to assist the police in the investigation of a case. Also that, if the witnesses examined by the prosecution are consistent that the efforts were made to join independent persons as witnesses, the same is sufficient to discharge the onus upon the prosecution.

23. Now if coming to another aspect of the matter, highlighted by Mr. Sharma, learned defence counsel during the course of arguments that failure of the prosecution to produce the evidence as to whom the case property was entrusted for being produced in the Court and under what condition the same was re-deposited in the Malkhana, has vitiated the trial. We are afraid that such a plea can be raised in defence by the accused for the reason that from the perusal of statement of PW-1 Head Constable Pradeep Kumar it is apparent that the parcel containing case property was produced by learned Public Prosecutor in the Court. The accused and learned defence counsel were also present there. On checking, the seals were found intact. It is thereafter the permission as sought by learned Public Prosecutor to open the same was granted by the trial Court. The defence has not raised any objection qua the manner in which the parcel containing the recovered charas was produced in the Court. Therefore, it lies ill in the mouth of the convict to claim that for want of rapat in rojnamcha or evidence qua production of the case property in the Court, the trial has vitiated. The ratio of the judgment of a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Rajinder Singh and another v. State of Himachal Pradesh, Latest HLJ 2015(HP) 1532 is, therefore, distinguishable on facts.

24. True it is that the trial Court was required to have ordered to re-seal the parcel(s) opened with its permission qua re-sealing the same with the seal of the Court and thereafter to hand over the same to learned Public Prosecutor for being taken to Malkhana of the concerned Police Station in order to ensure that the same is re-deposited in safe condition. Though, it appears to us that the trial Court may have re-sealed the parcel containing the case property with its own seal, however, omitted to pass an order to this effect in the zimini order of that day. It is not only in this case but also in other cases registered under the Act, our experience shows that the Subordinate Courts have stopped to pass an order qua re-sealing of the parcels and case property opened during the course of recording prosecution evidence with the permission of the Court. Such an approach is not at all appreciated as the same is not in the interest of fair trial. The trial Courts are required to invariably pass an order qua re-sealing of the parcels containing case property in the Court with its own seal and before handing over the same to learned Public Prosecutor or to any other officer/official authorized to receive the same and ensure that the same are properly re-sealed and also to record its satisfaction in the zimini order. We, therefore, direct Registrar (Vigilance) on the establishment of the Registry of this Court to issue instructions in the light of the observations hereinabove to all the Subordinate Courts in the State for its strict compliance with a caution that any deviation or violation thereof shall be viewed seriously including initiation of proceedings against the erring Judicial Officers in accordance with law.

25. The link evidence is also complete because parcel containing the case property was sealed by the Investigating Officer with impression seal 'K' and the seal was handed over to PW-1, who had also brought the same to the Court on the day of his examination. Parcel along with NCB forms and seizure memo were handed over by PW-3 Constable Joginder Singh to PW-5 Station House Officer on that day at 5.30 p.m. PW-5 has re-sealed the same with six seals of impression 'R' and drawn the sample of seal Ext. PW-5/A over a piece of cloth. It is thereafter, he handed over the case property to PW-4 MHC Parkash who had entered the same in Malkhana register vide entries Ext. PW-4/B and retained the same in safe custody. PW-4 has forwarded the case property to Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga vide RC Ext. PW-4/C through Constable Joginder Singh, PW-3. The said witness has stated that the case property was deposited by him in the Laboratory in safe custody. The prepration of special report Ext. PW-1/F also stands proved in this case, which as per the version of PW-1 was handed over to Shri Vijay Kumar, Deputy Superintendent of Police on 17.05.2012 by the Investigating Officer, PW-6 himself. The report of chemical examiner Ext. P-X makes it crystal clear that the parcel containing the case property duly sealed with impression 'K' and 'R' was received in good condition along with NCB forms and the sample of seals. The same was not tampered with. On analyzing the recovered contraband sent for analysis was found to be the extract of cannabis, hence sample of charas.

26. In view of oral as well as documentary evidence discussed hereinabove, we are satisfied that learned trial Court has not committed any illegality or irregularity while arriving at a conclusion that the prosecution has proved its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. The accused has, therefore, been rightly convicted and sentenced. The impugned judgment cannot be said to be legally and factually unsustainable. The same as such is affirmed.

27. For all the reasons hereinabove, this appeal fails and the same is accordingly dismissed.

Cases referred:

Pasupuleti Venkateswarlu versus The Motor & General TGRaders (1975)1 SCC 770
OM Prakash Gupta versus Ranbir B. Goyal (2002)2 SCC 256

For the Appellant: Mr. Rajesh Mandhotra and Ms. Kanta Thakur, Advocates.
For the Respondent: Mr. R.K.Sharma, Senior Advocate with Ms. Anita Parmar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Sureshwar Thakur, Judge(Oral).

The instant Regular Second Appeal stands directed by the plaintiff/appellant against the impugned rendition of the learned Additional District Judge, Mandi camp at Karsog whereby he accepted the appeal of the defendant/respondent herein and also reversed the decree of mandatory injunction rendered by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Karsog), District Mandi, H.P., whereby the latter Court directed the defendant to erect a boundary wall adjoining the land of the plaintiff. The plaintiff/appellant herein stands aggrieved by the judgment and decree of the learned Additional District Judge, Mandi, camp at Karsog. His standing aggrieved, he has therefrom preferred the instant appeal before this Court for seeking from this Court an order reversing the findings recorded therein.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff is owner in possession of land comprising Khata Khatauni No.111 min/175, khasra No.21, measuring 0-3-0 bighas situated in Mohal Nagroan, Tehsil Karsog, District Mandi, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as the "suit land"). The house of the parties and other persons are situtated in the adjoining abadideh land comprising Khata/Khatauni No.135 min/220 min, Khasra No.19, measuring 0-9-8 bgihas situated in Mohal Nagroan/198. The aforesaid abadideh land bearing khasra No.19 is about 7ft. below the suit land of the plaintiff bearing khasra No.21. The defendant had constructed his house over a portion of Abadideh land bearing Khasra No.19. While raising construction, the defendant encroached upon 3 ft., area out of the suit land. The defendant had proposed to raise additional construction over abadideh land as well as on the suit land of the plaintiff. The proposed construction of the defendant was likely to erode the suit land of the plaintiff by erosion and thus, danger of land sliding of boundary wall of the plaintiff land was caused. Hence the suit.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed the written statement, wherein preliminary objections have been raised qua resjudicata, estopple and maintainability. On merits, it was alleged that the defendant has not encroached upon the suit land. The defendant had constructed his new house on his own land bearing khasra No.19 about eight years back after dismantling the old house. The construction of the house was complete in the year 2003. The plaintiff had previously filed a similar civil suit against the defendant which was dismissed on 19.8.2003. In nutshell, the defendant refuted the entire case of the plaintiff and he prayed for dismissal of the suit.

4. The plaintiff/appellant herein filed replication to the written statement of the defendant/respondent, wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, as prayed? OPP.
2. Whether the suit is barred by resjudicata? OPD
3. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his own act, conduct and deeds from filing the suit? OPD
4. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD
5. Whether the defendant has raised the construction on their own land and plaintiff has no cause of action? OPD
6. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of the evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court rendered a decree for mandatory injunction upon the defendant/respondent. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the defendant/respondent herein, the learned first Appellate Court allowed the appeal.

7. Now the plaintiff/appellant has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court assailing the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 24.05.2007, this Court, admitted the appeal against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned First Appellate Court as instituted by the plaintiff/appellant, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

a) Whether there has been misreading of evidence by the learned first appellate court particularly in regard to documents Ex.PW5/A and Ex.PW5/D?
b) Whether the learned first appellate court has misconstrued the pleadings of the parties and granted the relief wrongly?

Substantial questions of Law No.1and 2:

8. The plaintiff had instituted a suit against the defendant praying therein for a relief of permanent prohibitory injunction besides had canvassed therein the relief of mandatory injunction. In the relevant paragraph No.3 of the plaint, the plaintiff has averred of the defendant while holding construction upon land owned and possessed by him, his encroaching upon a portion of land owned and possessed by the plaintiff comprised in khasra No.21. He also averred therein of in the defendant succeeding to erect pillars over khasra No.21, his land would suffer erosion besides his boundary wall would collapse with a sequeling effect of his land suffering erosion. Apparently, the plaintiff had not claimed in his suit qua a decree of mandatory injunction being rendered in his favour, decree whereof stood accorded by the learned trial Court. So far as the factum of encroachment at the instance of the defendant upon land comprised in khasra No.21 is concerned, land borne whereon uncontrovertedly stands owned and possessed by the plaintiff, the demarcation report comprised in Ex.PW5/A accompanied by tatima, Ex.PW5/B, holds no apposite reflections therein in portrayal of the defendant while holding construction upon land exclusively owned and possessed by him, his proceeding to encroach upon land comprised in khasra No.21, land borne whereon uncontrovertedly stands exclusively owned and possessed by the plaintiff. In sequel, with the defendant not subjecting to construction any portion of land borne on khasra No.21, land borne whereon stands exclusively owned and possessed by the plaintiff, the prayer made by the plaintiff qua the defendant being restrained from erecting pillars thereon was not amenable to its standing accorded.

Consequently, the concurrently recorded renditions of both the learned Courts below of the plaintiff standing not entitled for any relief of permanent prohibitory injunction for restraining the defendant to hold construction upon his land given his purportedly subjecting to construction a portion of the land owned and possessed by the plaintiff, does not merit any interference.

9. The learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff contended with vigour of the relief of mandatory injunction as stood accorded in favour of the plaintiff by the learned trial Court, inasmuch as its enjoning the defendant to raise a boundary wall in the manner as reflected in the operative portion of the judgment and decree rendered by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Karsog was not amenable to its standing reversed by the learned first Appellate Court. He contends of the rendition of the learned First Appellate Court while reversing the judgment and decree of the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Karsog whereby it had afforded to him a relief of mandatory injunction, inasmuch as of the defendant standing mandated to erect a retaining wall to the extent of 26 feet in length and 8 feet in height to protect the land of the plaintiff, stands not anvilled upon a proper appreciation of the manifestations occurring in Ex.PW5/A, manifestations whereof display of the defendant while subjecting to construction land exclusively owned and possessed by him, his excavating a trench holding a depth of 8 feet also its embodying the factum of a boundary wall holding a depth of eight feet existing on the borders of the contiguously located lands of the parties at lis facing the threat of its standing dismantled. He contends of the aforesaid reflections when palpably unveil the factum of hence imminent endangerment ensuing to the land of the plaintiff located above the land of the defendant, the learned trial Court while revering the apposite manifestations occurring therein had tenably proceeded to afford a relief of mandatory injunction in favour of the plaintiff. He also contends of despite the plaintiff not in conformity with the decree of mandatory injunction accorded in his favour by the learned trial Court making a prayer qua it in his plaint yet with the apposite unfoldments occurring in Ex.PW5/A of imminent endangerments ensuing to the land of the plaintiff arising from construction activity carried by the defendant on the land owned and possessed by him. for obviation whereof besides for protecting the land of the plaintiff occurring above the land of the defendant, the factum aforesaid when remained non existent at the time of the institution of the suit rather came into existence during the pendency of the suit, necessarily it was tenable for the learned trial Court to thereupon despite the apposite relief of mandatory injunction not standing asked for by the plaintiff in the plaint to mould the relief to bring it in concurrence with the manifestations in Ex.PW5/A. The learned counsel appearing the plaintiff places reliance upon a decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in Pasupuleti Venkateswarlu versus The Motor & General TGRaders (1975)1 SCC 770, the relevant paragraph No.4 whereof stands extracted hereinafter:-

> "4. We feel the submissions devoid of substance. First about the jurisdiction and propriety vis-a-vis circumstances which come into being subsequent to the commencement of the proceedings. It is basic to our processual jurisprudence that the right to relief must be judged to exist as on the date a suitor institutes the legal proceeding. Equally clear is the principle that procedure is the handmaid and not the mistress of the judicial process. If a fact, arising after the lis has come to court and has a fundamental impact on the right to relief or the manner of moulding it, is brought diligently to the notice of the tribunal, it cannot blink at it or be blind to events which stultify or render inept the decretal remedy. Equity justifies bending the rules of procedure, where no specific provision or fair play is violated, with a view to promote substantial justice, subject, of course, to the absence of other disentitling factors or just circumstances. Nor can we contemplate any limitation on this power to take note of updated facts to confine it to the trial Court. If the litigation pends, the power exists, absent other special circumstances repelling resort to that course in law or justice. Rulings on this point are legion, even as situations, for applications of this equitable rule are myriad. We affirm the proposition that for making the right or remedy claimed by the party just and meaningful as also legally and factually in accord with the current realities, the court can, and in many cases must, take cautious cognisance of events and developments subsequent to the institution of the proceeding provided the rules of fairness to both sides are scrupulously obeyed. On both occasions the High Court, in revision, correctly took this view. The later recovery of another accommodation by the landlord, during the pendency of the case has as the High Court twice pointed out, a material bearing on the right to evict, in view of the inhibition written into S. 10 (3) (iii) itself. We are not disposed to disturb this approach in law or finding of fact." (pp.772)

10. The learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff also places reliance upon another decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in OM Prakash Gupta versus Ranbir B. Goyal (2002)2 SCC 256, the relevant paragraphs No.11 and 12 whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

"11. The ordinary rule of civil law is that the rights of the parties stand crystallised on the date of the institution of the suit and, therefore, the decree in a suit should accord with the rights of the parties as they stood at the commencement of the lis. However, the Court has power to take a note of subsequent events and mould the relief accordingly subject to the following conditions being satisfied : (i) that the relief as claimed originally has, by reason of subsequent events, become inappropriate or cannot be granted; (ii) that taking note of such subsequent event or changed circumstances would shorten litigation and enable complete justice being done to the parties; (iii) that such subsequent event is brought to the notice of the Court promptly and in accordance with the rules of procedural law so that the opposite party is not taken by surprise. In Pasupuleti Venkateswarlu v. The Motor and General Traders, AIR 1975 SC 1409, this Court held that a fact arising after the lis, coming to the notice of the Court and having a fundamental impact on the right to relief or the manner of moulding it and brought diligently to the notice of the Court cannot be blinked at. The Court may in such cases bend the rules of procedure if no specific provision of law or rule of fairplay is violated for it would promote substantial justice provided that there is absence of other disentitling factors or just circumstances. The Court speaking through Krishna Iyer, J. affirmed the proposition that Court can, so long as the litigation pends, take note of updated facts to promote substantial justice. However, the Court cautioned : (i) the event should be one as would stultify or render inept the decretal remedy, (ii) rules of procedure may be bent if no specific provision or fair play is violated and there is no other special circumstance repelling resort to that course in law or justice, (iii) such cognizance of subsequent events and developments should be cautions, and (iv) the rules of fairness to both sides should be scrupulously obeyed.

12. Such subsequent event may be one purely of law or founded on facts. In the former case, the Court may take judicial notice of the event and before acting thereon put the parties on notice of how the change in law is going to affect the rights and obligations of the parties and modify or mould the course of litigation or the relief so as to bring it in conformity with the law. In the latter case, the party relying on the subsequent event, which consists of facts not beyond pale of controversy either as to their existence or in their impact, is expected to have resort to amendment of pleadings under Order 6, Rule 17 of the CPC. Such subsequent event the Court may permit being introduced into the pleadings by way of amendment as it would be necessary to do so for the purpose of determining real questions in controversy between the parties. In Messrs. Trojan and Co. v. R.M.N.N. Nagappa Chettiar, AIR 1953 SC 235, this Court has held that the decision of a case cannot be based on grounds outside the pleadings of the parties and it is the case pleaded that has to be found; without the amendment of the pleadings the Court would not be entitled to modify or alter the relief. In Sri Mahant Govind Rao v. Sita Ram Kesho and others, (1898) 25 Indian Appeals 195

(PC), their Lordships observed that, as a rule, relief not founded on the pleadings should not be granted." (pp.262-263)

11. However, both the decisions as relied upon by the learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff to bring this Court in agreement with his submission of despite the apposite relief of mandatory injunction which stood afforded to him by the learned trial Court, not standing asked for by the plaintiff in his plaint, yet the defendant not subjecting PW-5 to cross-examination qua the relevant embodiments occurring in Ex.PW5/A of imminent endangerment ensuing to the land of the plaintiff spurring from the act of the defendant excavating his land occurring beneath the land of the plaintiff upto a depth of eight feet, excavation whereof would imminently erode the land of the plaintiff, wherefrom the learned counsel for the plaintiff canvasses of hence the defendant acquiescing to the manifestations in Ex.PW5/A also he thereupon erects a submission of the defendant not standing taken by surprise rather it was apt for the learned trial Court to for obviating endangerment ensuing to the land of the plaintiff to mould relief vis-a-vis the plaintiff in the manner occurring in its pronouncement. However, both the decisions of the Hon'ble Apex Court which stand relied upon by the learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff though expostulate the trite proposition of law of Courts of law holding empowerment to mould relief given the occurrence of events subsequent to the institution of a suit. However, in both the verdicts of the Hon'ble Apex Court, the power of the court to in concurrence with subsequent events mould relief stands mandated therein to be not a plenary power rather it being subjected to imposition thereon of statutory fetters enjoined in the procedural laws. In the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in Pasupuleti Venkateswarlu's case (supra) it has been with specificity pronounced therein of any statutory deterrent factors impeding the Court concerned wherebefore an event subsequent to the institution of the plaint/suit occurs to afford relief in tandem thereof also concomitantly baulk it from moulding relief to bring it in concurrence with supervening events. Also in the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in Om Prakash Gupta's case (Supra) a similar principle stands encapsulated therein of the Court concerned though holding jurisdictional vigour to take notice of supervening events vis-a-vis institution of the suit, especially when the event subsequent to the institution of the suit displays of variance in law occurring subsequent to the institution of the suit whereupon the Court concerned would proceed to mould relief to bring its verdict inconformity with the subsequent occurrence of a change in law vis-a-vis the institution of the plaint uptill the pronouncement of the verdict by the court concerned. Imperatively, hence, even though occurrence of any variation/change in law since the institution of the suit uptill the rendition of a verdict upon the apposite lis by the court concerned is the relevant subsequent event which solitarily is to be borne in mind by the court concerned. Also it is the solitary subsequent event since the institution of a suit uptill the rendition of a verdict thereupon by the Court concerned which is enjoined to be borne in mind by it for its according relief in tandem therewith besides empowers it to mould relief in concurrence therewith. However, when therein it has also been propounded qua occurrence of an event subsequent to the institution of the suit when is not an event which constitutes a change in law rather is an event which has a factual tenor, eruption whereof is enjoined to be incorporated in his plaint by the plaintiff by motioning the court concerned under the apposite provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure for leave standing accorded to him for introducing it in his pleadings, would not render any eruption of a fact other than variation in law, eruption whereof occurs subsequent to the institution of the suit to hold any vigour dehors its standing un-incorporated in the suit by the plaintiff by his resorting before the court concerned to the appropriate statutory procedural mechanism nor would the plaintiff hold any leverage to thereupon canvass of his without asking for leave of the Court to beget an apposite amendment to the plaint his standing entitled to a decree for mandatory injunction nor can the plaintiff contend of the aforesaid apposite principle of the Hon'ble Apex Court as relied upon by him, holding any sinew predominantly when the decree of mandatory injunction not stood prayed for in the plaint nor when he with the leave of the court concerned, concerted to beget an apposite amendment in the plaint to bring the rendition of the learned trial court in conformity therewith, as a corollary any moulding of relief by the court concerned for bringing it in conformity with the subsequent events is hence a principle of law which does not warrant any conflict with the apposite statutory mechanism embodied in Order 6, Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure nor it can subtract its vigour. Consequently, the verdict of the learned trial Court to proceed to afford to the plaintiff the relief of mandatory injunction even when it stood not prayed for by the plaintiff in his suit merely by its paying reverence to the manifestations in Ex.PW5/A has subtracted the vigour also has denuded the might of the provisions of Order 6, Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure, provisions whereof even in the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in Om Prakash Gupta's case (supra) stand enjoined to be put in play by the plaintiff for introducing in his plaint any supervening event vis-a-vis the institution of the suit for hence validating the decree in consonance therewith rendered by the Court concerned.

12. The learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff has contended of the apt factual supervening events otherwise, dehors the aforesaid discussion wherefrom the imminent fact emerges to the forefront of the plaintiff not holding any vestige of any right to ask for moulding of relief by the Court concerned in consonance therewith without amending his pleadings for bringing them inconformity with the changed factual scenario manifested in Ex.PW5/A, per se purveying him leverage to yet espouse hereat qua the verdict of the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Karsog holding validation, predominantly, with precise reflections occurring in Ex.PW5/A and in Ex.PW5/B qua the excavation activity carried out by the defendant on his land located in contiguity to the land of the plaintiff rendering it amenable to its peeling off besides its facing an imminent threat of erosion. Be that as it may, even otherwise with the manifestations occurring in Ex.PW5/A of imminent endangerment ensuing to the land of the plaintiff which stands located above the land of the defendant, rather with the manifestations occurring therein standing prepared on 19.7.2004, whereas, since then uptill now no motion standing made by the plaintiff before the courts concerned qua the imminent endangerment to his land ensuing from the construction activity held beneath it by the defendant, sequels an inference of the purported apposite imminent threat not assuming any realistic proportion rather hence the grievance, if any, reared by the plaintiff being surmisal. Consequently, it appears of the manifestations occurring in Ex.PW5/A being wholly surmisal also palpably with the authours of Ex.PW5/A not holding the expertise of a geologist , who alone by holding the relevant tests for determining the erosive capacity of the land of the plaintiff, his revelations in his apposite report qua the land of the plaintiff suffering an imminent threat of erosion would conclusively display of the reflections occurring in Ex.PW5/A qua the endangerment ensuing to the land of the plaintiff arising from construction activity held beneath it by the defendant hence garnering vigour. Contrarily when the best evidence of the geologist qua the facet aforesaid stands unadduced by the plaintiff no imputations of credibility can stand fastened to the manifestations occurring in Ex.PW5/A, more so reiteratedly when since 2004 uptill now with the land of the plaintiff not suffering any erosion rather galvanizes an inference of the land of the plaintiff standing not endangered by any construction activity held beneath it by the defendant. Consequently, with the subsequent event aforesaid manifested in Ex.PW5/A while not carrying any tenacity, any reverence thereto by the learned trial Court dehors the aforesaid discussion is wholly inapt.

13. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court are based upon a proper and mature appreciation of the evidence on record. While rendering the apposite findings, the learned first Appellate Court has not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, both the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the defendant/respondent and against the plaintiff/appellant.

14. In view of above discussion, the present Regular Second Appeal is dismissed. In sequel, the judgement and decree rendered by the learned Additional District Judge, Mandi camp at Karsog is maintained and affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back forthwith.

For the appellants: Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Senior Advocate with Mr. Nishant Verma, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. G.D. Verma, Senior Advocate with Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, J.:

By way of the present appeal, the appellants have challenged the judgment and decree passed by the Court of learned District Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala, dated 01.09.2006, in Civil Appeal No. 123-N/XIII/05, vide which, learned Appellate Court has allowed the appeal by setting aside the judgment and decree dated 31.12.2004 passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division)-II, Nurpur, in Civil Suit No. 57/99.

2. The present appeal has been admitted on the following substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether the impugned judgment passed by Ld. First Appellate Judge is the result of total misreading and misappreciation of pleadings, materials and evidence adduced on record by the parties and misinterpretation of the stipulations of Circulars Ex. PA and Ex. DW1/B and thus, the resultant findings and conclusions drawn by Ld. First Appellate Judge are wrong and perverse?

> 2. Whether the suit filed by the plaintiff seeking decree of declaration was time barred under Article: 55 of the Schedule of Limitation Act and the same did not deserve to be entertained on this count?

3. Brief facts necessary for the purpose of adjudication of the present appeal are that Rakesh Sharma, hereinafter referred to as the plaintiff, filed a suit for declaration with consequential relief of mandatory injunction for directing defendants No. 1 and 2 to place defendant No. 3 under the organization of the plaintiff and to give to the plaintiff all the incentives of the insurance business done by defendant No. 3 as detailed and described in the head note. The case of the plaintiff was that he was a Development Officer of Life Insurance Corporation of India and was posted with defendant No. 2 at Nurpur. Plaintiff had appointed Smt. Suman Sharma, daughter-in-law of defendant No. 3, resident of Lubh, P.O. Makrahan, Tehsil Jawali, District Kangra, as his agent with Code No. 0152-15B on 31.05.1991 to enhance his insurance business within the area falling in his jurisdiction. According to the plaintiff, there was a circular dated 24.04.1980 (Ext. PA) issued by defendant No. 1 Corporation, Para-3 of which provided as under:-

> "When a near relative of an agent working under a Development Officer is recruited as an agent, then the new agent should also be placed under the same Development Officer. The new agent should not be placed under any other Development Officer nor should he/she be placed direct."

4. The defendant organization appointed defendant No. 3 as direct agent on 15.08.1994 with Code No. 0315-15B by ignoring Para-3 of the Memo dated 24.04.1980. According to the plaintiff, defendant No. 3 was a close relative of Smt. Suman Sharma, therefore, defendant No. 3 should have been placed under the organization of the plaintiff and he could not have been appointed as a direct agent. According to the plaintiff, the cause of action arose on 15.08.1994 when the defendant Corporation illegally and arbitrarily appointed defendant No. 3 as direct agent in the area of jurisdiction of the plaintiff. According to him, the cause of action also accrued in January, 1997 when the plaintiff served notice to the defendant. It is in these circumstances, the plaintiff filed the suit.

5. A joint written statement was filed by the defendants. Amongst other preliminary objections, one of the objections taken by the defendants was that the suit was hopelessly time barred. On merit, the stand of the defendant was that prior to the appointment of Suman Sharma, her sister-in-law, Raj Sharma daughter of defendant No. 3 was also agent of defendant Corporation. It was further the case of the defendant that circular relied upon by the plaintiff was not applicable and in fact defendant No. 3 was granted the agency as it was a case of re-appointment of the terminated agency and it was not as if defendant No.3 was granted a fresh agency. As per defendants, defendant No. 3 had worked as an agent with the defendant Corporation from 1963 to 1982 in Branch Office, Dharamshala under agency Code No. 684145 which was a direct agency. Case of defendant No. 3 was covered vide circular of the defendant Corporation dated 09.07.1968, (Ext.DW1/B) relevant para of which is reproduced herein below:-

> "Agents, whose services have been terminated for any reasons whatsoever, should not be reappointed. If the Divisional Manager feels that some person has to be re-appointed, he should refer the matter to the Zonal Manager concerned whose decision in this regard shall be final. The agency, if granted, in any such case, will be treated as "Direct".

6. On these basis, the defendant stated that the plaintiff was not entitled to any relief. It was further averred that the agency of daughter-in-law of defendant No. 3 was terminated in the year 1997 and, therefore, the question of diverting the business does not arise.

7. On the basis of the pleadings on record, learned trial Court framed the following issues:-

1. Whether the appointment of defendant No. 3 as direct agent in the defendant corporation, is illegal, null and void, as alleged? ... OPP

2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to all the benefits/incentives accruing through the insurance business done by the defendant No. 3 as an agent of LIC, as alleged? ... OPP

3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for relief of permanent injunction as prayed for? ... OPP

4. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? ... OPD

5. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action against the defendants? ... OPD

6. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act and conduct from filing the present suit? ... OPD

7. Whether the civil court has got no jurisdiction to entertain and try the present suit? ... OPD

8. Relief.

8. The issues so framed by the learned trial Court were answered as under:-

Issue No. 1	:	No
Issue No. 2	:	No
Issue No. 3	:	No
Issue No. 4	:	Yes.
Issue No. 5	:	No
Issue No. 6	:	No
Issue No. 7	:	No.
Relief ………	:	Suit is dismissed as per operative part of the judgment.

9. Feeling aggrieved of the said judgment passed by the learned trial Court, the plaintiff filed an appeal. The appeal so filed by the plaintiff was allowed by learned Appellate Court vide judgment and decree dated 01.09.2008.

10. Learned Appellate Court held that the provisions of both the Memos have to be read harmoniously. It further held that Baldev Raj Sharma was appointed under the provisions of Ext.DW1/B as direct agent and his appointment could not have been direct keeping in view the provisions of Ext. PA as his daughter-in-law had been appointed as an agent under the plaintiff. Accordingly, learned Appellate Court held that the provisions contained in Ext.DW1/B were subjugate to the provisions contained in Ext. PA and when a near relative of an agent is sought to be reappointed also, he cannot be appointed as a direct agent and he has to be placed under the same Development Officer under whom the earlier agent being a near relative has been appointed. In this view of the matter, the learned Appellate Court further held that the plaintiff was entitled to all consequential benefits on account of insurance business done by Baldev Raj Sharma.

11. Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the appellants has challenged the said findings returned by the learned Appellate Court on the ground that the same are result of mis-interpretation of two circulars and further that the relief granted by the learned Appellate Court was beyond the pleadings and the learned Appellate Court has failed to appreciate that deceased Baldev Raj Sharma was not directly appointed but it was a case of re-engagement.

12. Mr. G.D. Verma, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the respondents on the other hand argued that there was no infirmity with the judgment and decree passed by the learned Appellate Court, which had rightly decreed the suit of the plaintiff. He further argued that Baldev Raj Sharma was not re-appointed but his appointment was a fresh and direct appointment. According to him, the plea of the appellants based on the assumption that deceased Baldev Raj Sharma was reappointed without any genesis and was based on conjectures rather than the records. Mr. Verma also submitted that it was incorrect that the relief granted in favour of the plaintiff by the learned Appellate Court was beyond the pleadings.

13. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records of the case as well as the judgments passed by the learned Courts below.

14. I will deal with both the substantial questions of law separately.

(a) Substantial Question of Law No. 1:

Whether the impugned judgment passed by Ld. First Appellate Judge is the result of total misreading and misappreciation of pleadings, materials and evidence adduced on record by the parties and misinterpretation of the stipulations of Circulars Ex. PA and Ex. DW1/B and thus, the resultant findings and conclusions drawn by Ld. First Appellate Judge are wrong and perverse?

15. Ext. DW1/C communication dated 19.08.1994 is the document vide which late Baldev Raj Sharma was granted agency by the Branch Manager of Life Insurance Corporation of India, Nurpur, contents of the same are quoted herein below:-

> "Reference your letter dated 17.8.94 on the above subject. We are pleased to inform you that the competent authority has allowed the granting of the agency to Sh. Baldev Raj Sharma on DIRECT Agency. The agency papers are also returned herewith."

16. A perusal of the same demonstrates that late Baldev Raj Sharma was granted a "direct agency". Now in this background I will discuss the relevant contents of Memos Ext. PA dated 24.04.1980 and Ext. DW1/A dated 09.07.1968.

17. The relevant extract of Ext. PA circulated on 24.04.1980 is quoted herein below:-

> "When a near relative of an agent working under a Development Officer is recruited as an agent, then the new agent should also be placed under the same Development Officer. The new agent should not be placed under any other Development Officer nor should he/she be placed direct."

18. The relevant extract of Ext. DW1/B dated 09.07.1968 is quoted herein below:-

> "Agents, whose services have been terminated for any reasons whatsoever, should not be reappointed. If the Divisional Manager feels that some person has to be re-appointed, he should refer the matter to the Zonal Manager concerned whose decision in this regard shall be final. The agency, if granted, in any such case, will be treated as "Direct".

19. It is apparent from the contents of circular dated 24.04.1980 that when a near relative of an agent working under a Development Officer is recruited as an agent, then the new agent has to be under the same Development Officer. Further, a perusal of the relevant extract of circular dated 09.07.1968 demonstrates that it is clearly provided therein that agents, whose services have been terminated for any reasons whatsoever, should not be reappointed. It further mentions that if the Divisional Manager feels that some person has to be reappointed, he should refer the matter to the Zonal Manager concerned whose decision in this regard shall be final. It is further mentioned that the agency, if granted, in any such case, will be treated as "Direct".

20. In my considered view, a harmonious reading of communication Ext. DW1/C and relevant extracts of Ext. PA and Ext. DW1/B leaves no room for any doubt whatsoever that the agency granted to late Baldev Raj Sharma was not by way of reappointment but it was a direct agency allotted to him and in this view of the matter keeping in view the fact that it is not disputed that daughter-in-law of deceased Baldev Raj Sharma was working under the plaintiff in 1994, the new agent i.e. Baldev Raj Sharma also had to be placed under the same Development Officer i.e. the plaintiff.

21. Therefore, in my considered view that the findings returned by the learned Appellate Court to the effect that Baldev Raj Sharma was appointed as direct agent and because his daughter-in-law was already appointed as an agent under the plaintiff, therefore, Baldev Raj Sharma could not have been appointed as direct agent and he should have been appointed as an agent under the plaintiff i.e. the Development Officer under whom the near relative of Baldev Raj Sharma was recorded as an agent are absolutely correct.

22. In the present case, it is clear from a perusal of Ext. DW1/C that Baldev Raj Sharma was granted a direct agency by the appellant Corporation. At the time when he was granted direct agency his daughter-in-law stood recruited as the agent under the plaintiff who was a Development Officer. The contention of the learned counsel for the appellant that deceased Baldev Raj Sharma was reappointed and not granted a direct agency is not only in contrast to the contents of communication dated 19.08.1994 Ext. DW1/C but his contention is also contrary to what is contained in circular dated 09.07.1968 Ext. DW1/B because as per the said circular an agent whose services have been terminated cannot be reappointed and if he again is to be granted an agency then the same can be done only by way of treating him as a direct agent. Therefore, subsequent appointment of Baldev Raj Sharma for all intents and purposes was direct appointment. This direct appointment of Baldev Raj Sharma was bad because as per circular dated 24.04.1980, no new agent could be placed as a direct agent whose near relative was working under a Development Officer. Therefore, it was incumbent upon the appellant to have had placed deceased Baldev Raj Sharma under the plaintiff when he was appointed afresh on 19.08.1994 by the appellant. This substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

(b)Substantial Question of Law No. 2:

Whether the suit filed by the plaintiff seeking decree of declaration was time barred under Article: 55 of the Schedule of Limitation Act and the same did not deserve to be entertained on this count?

23. Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, learned Senior Counsel for the appellants argued that the claim of the plaintiff was hopelessly time barred under Article 55 of the Schedule of Limitation Act and this very important aspect of the matter has been ignored by the learned Appellate court while decreeing the suit. According to Mr. Sharma, the appointment of deceased Baldev Raj Sharma as a direct agent vide Ext. DW1/C communication dated 19.08.1994. However, the suit has been filed by the plaintiff in March,1999. He has argued that under Article 55 of the Schedule of Limitation Act, the period of limitation within which the suit was to be filed by the plaintiff was three years.

24. Mr. G.D. Verma, learned Senior Advocate, appearing for the respondents has argued that neither the suit filed by the plaintiff was barred by limitation nor was there any issue framed in this regard by the learned trial Court. According to him, this plea cannot be raised for the first time in the Regular Second Appeal.

25. In order to substantiate his contention, Mr. Verma has relied upon the following judgments:-

1. Dudh Nath Pandey (dead by L.R's.) Vs. Suresh Chandra Bhattasali (dead by L.R's.), reported in AIR 1986 Supreme Court 1509.

2. Krishnapasuba Rao Kundapur (dead) after him his l.r. and another Vs. Dattatraya Krishnaji Karani, reported in AIR 1966 Supreme Court 1024.

3. Babu Ram alias Durga Prasad Vs. Indra Pal Singh (Dead) by LRS., reported in (1998) 6 Supreme Court Cases 358.

4. Satya Gupta (Smt.) alias Madhu Gupta Vs. Brijesh Kumar, reported in (1998) 6 Supreme Court Cases 423.

26. In order to meet the said objections raised by Mr. G.D. Verma, Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma has argued that as the plea of limitation is a legal plea, therefore, the same can be raised at any time.

27. A perusal of the record of the present case will demonstrate that the suit was presented on 19.03.1999. It has been averred by the plaintiff in Para-6 of the plaint that cause of action arose to the plaintiff against the defendants on 15.08.1994 when the defendant-Corporation illegally and arbitrarily appointed defendant No. 3 as a direct agent. He has further averred in this para of the plaint that cause of action also accrued on various subsequent dates when the plaintiff approached the officials of defendant-Corporation and also in the year 1997 when the plaintiff served notices in this regard upon defendants No. 1 and 2.

28. The plaintiff has placed on record Ext. PW2/B and Ext. PW2/F, copies of registered legal notices sent on behalf of the plaintiff to the defendants, wherein he had raised the issue of the wrong appointment of deceased Baldev Raj Sharma as direct agent. The acknowledgement receipts of the said legal notices are also exhibited on record. The receipt of said legal notices has not been denied by the defendants. The plaintiff has also placed on record Ext. PW2/H, copy of communication addressed by him to the defendants dated 13.05.1998.

29. In my considered view, it stands duly proved on record that the appointment of deceased Baldev Raj Sharma as a direct agent by the defendant-Corporation was in contravention of the provisions of the circular of the defendant-Corporation. As a result of the wrong appointment of Baldev Raj Sharma as a direct agent, the plaintiff was suffering continuing wrong. He served legal notices in this regard upon the defendants which are dated 19.02.1997. Before this also, he had raised the issue with the defendants vide communication dated 28.07.1996 Ext. PW2/A. After the issuance of the above mentioned legal notices, he has again raised the issue with the defendants vide Ext. PW2/H dated 13.05.1998.

30. Therefore, keeping in view the fact that appointment of Baldev Raj Sharma as direct agent was a continuing wrong inflicted upon the plaintiff by the defendant-Corporation as it was resulting in recurring loss to the plaintiff. It cannot be said that the suit filed by the plaintiff was time barred. Each business transaction conducted by Baldev Raj Sharma on account of his having been appointed as direct agent gave a fresh cause of action to the plaintiff. It is not the case of the defendants that no business was procured by Baldev Raj Sharma as a direct agent within three years prior to the filing of the suit by the plaintiff. In this view of the matter, there is no merit in the submissions made on behalf of the appellants that the judgment passed by the learned Appellate Court is not sustainable as the suit was time barred. Even otherwise, it is a matter of record that no issue was framed in this regard by the learned trial Court. The only inference which can be drawn is that the point of limitation was not pressed by the defendants before the learned trial Court.

31. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in Dudh Nath Pandey (dead by L.R's.) Vs. Suresh Chandra Bhattasali (dead by L.R's.), reported in AIR 1986 Supreme Court 1509. has held as under:-

> "This plea was however negatived by the High Court as it has never been taken when the case was remanded to the First Appellate Court by judgment dated 8th February, 1961. Besides the question requires investigation into certain facts which was not possible in the Second Appeal. The High Court however reversed the finding of the First Appellate Court on the question of limitation relying on the so-called admission of the defendant in the written statement and the evidence of the witnesses produced on behalf of the defendant. Virtually, the High Court has made a fresh appraisal of the evidence and has come to a different finding contrary to the finding recorded by the First Appellate Court which the High Court could not do in the exercise of power under S. 100 of the Civil P.C. Even on merits, if the High Court had to rely upon the alleged admission in the written statement, the admission must be taken as a whole and it is not permissible to rely on a part of the admission ignoring the other. The High Court, in our opinion, has erred in making a fresh appraisal of the evidence to come to a different conclusion. Even otherwise, the plaintiff has to stand on his own strength.

32. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in Krishnapasuba Rao Kundapur Vs. Dattatraya Krishnaji Karani, reported in AIR 1966 Supreme Court 1024, has held that a plea which had not been taken by a party in the Courts below is no longer open to it to be raised before the High Court.

33. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in Babu Ram alias Durga Prasad Vs. Indra Pal Singh (Dead) by LRS., reported in (1998) 6 Supreme Court Cases 358, has held that the High Court in second appeal exceeded its jurisdiction under Section 100 in giving a finding on an issue which was not pressed in the trial Court.

34. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in Satya Gupta (Smt.) alias Madhu Gupta Vs. Brijesh Kumar, reported in (1998) 6 Supreme Court Cases 423, has held in Para-16 as under:-

> "At the outset, we would like to point out that the findings on facts by the Lower Appellate Court as a final Court on facts, are based on appreciation of evidence and the same cannot be treated as perverse or based on no evidence. That being the position, we are of the view that the High Court, after reappreciating the evidence and without finding that the conclusions reached by the lower appellate court were not based on the evidence, reversed the conclusions on facts on the ground that the view taken by it was also a possible view on the facts. The High Court, it is well settled, while exercising jurisdiction under Section 100, C.P.C., cannot reverse the findings of the lower appellate court on facts merely on the ground that on the facts found by the lower appellate court another view was possible.

35. Thus, the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the appellants that the suit was hopelessly time barred and this aspect of the matter has also not been looked into by the learned Appellate Court, is without any merit. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

36. Therefore, in view of the findings returned by me on both the substantial questions of law, there is no merit in the present appeal and the same is dismissed with cost. Miscellaneous application(s) pending, if any, also stand disposed of.

For the respondents : Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 to 3.
None for respondents No. 6 to 8.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (Oral)

RSA No. 592 of 2015 & CMP Nos. 3429 & 3430 of 2016

Plaintiffs are in second appeal. They are aggrieved from the judgment and decree dated 11.9.2015 passed by learned Additional District Judge-II, Shimla camp at Rohroo in Civil Appeal No. RBT-81-R/13 of 2014/2013.

2. The suit filed by the plaintiffs for declaration that they have become owners of the suit land by way of adverse possession and permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendants from causing any interference in the suit land comprised in Khewat No. 46 min, Khatauni No. 96, Khasra Nos. 5, 364, 490, 491, 759, 761, 766 and 776, Kita 8, measuring 1-64-94 hectares situated in Mohal Saundari, Tehsil Chirgaon, District Shimla, H.P. was dismissed by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Court No. 1, Rohroo on 26.4.2013 and Counter Claims preferred by the defendants were decreed and the decree for possession of the suit land passed in their favour. The plaintiffs were directed to handover the possession of the suit land to the defendants within two months. Learned Lower Appellate Court has dismissed the appeal filed by the plaintiffs. The legality and validity of the impugned judgment and decree has been questioned before this Court in the present appeal.

3. Process against the respondents-defendants was issued in the appeal. Notices issued to respondents No. 4 and 5 were received back with the report that they have expired. This has led in filing the two applications, as aforesaid, under Order 22 Rule 4 (4) of the Code of Civil Procedure for seeking exemption from substitution of the legal representatives of the said respondents on the ground that they have neither filed the written statement to the suit in the trial Court nor contested the same at any stage and rather allowed themselves to be proceeded against exparte.

4. The death certificates, annexed to the applications aforesaid, reveal that respondent No. 5 Moti Ram has expired on 20.6.2012 i.e. during the pendency of the suit in the trial Court whereas respondent No. 4 Nand Ram on 13.10.2014 during the pendency of the appeal in the learned Lower Appellate Court.

5. Be it stated that in a case where the defendant(s) has failed to file written statement and if written statement is filed to contest the suit or allow himself to be proceeded against exparte, the plaintiff can be exempted from substitution of the legal representatives of the said defendant. However, the application for the purpose is required to be filed during the pendency of the suit/appeal in the Court below. I am drawing support in this regard from the judgment of this Court in Chet Ram versus Ami Chand & ors., Latest HLJ 2015(HP) 1440 in which after taking note of the law laid down by the Apex Court in T. S. Gnanavel Versus T.S. Kanagaraj and Another, (2009)14 SCC 294, that the defendants died during the pendency of the suit for specific performance of the contract for sale and no exemption was sought at the instance of the plaintiff from bringing on record the heirs and legal representatives of the said defendants before the judgment was pronounced, the judgment and decree was held to be nullity and as such quashed.

6. In view of the ratio of the judgment supra, the exemption from substitution of the legal representatives of respondents No. 4 and 5 cannot granted at this stage as the same could have only been sought before the judgment was pronounced by the trial Court/lower Appellate Court.

7. The judgment and decree passed by both Courts below are, therefore, quashed and set aside. The suit is remanded to the trial Court for fresh disposal after deciding the question of abatement of the suit on the death of deceased defendant No. 5 Shri Moti Ram and substitution of his legal representatives with further direction to remit the record thereafter to the lower Appellate Court for similar action i.e. disposal of the appeal afresh after deciding the question of abatement of the appeal, if any, on the death of deceased respondent No. 4 Nand Ram and the substitution of his legal representatives.

8. The parties through learned Counsel representing them are directed to appear in the trial Court on 1.8.2016. There shall be a direction to the trial Court to decide the suit afresh in the light of this judgment at the earliest, however, not beyond 30th September, 2016. On receipt of the record of the suit, there shall be a direction to the lower Appellate Court to decide the appeal afresh at the earliest however, not beyond 31st December, 2016.

9. The appeal stands disposed of accordingly. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

(ii) That in alternative of prayer No.(i) above, the respondents may be directed to initiate land acquisition proceedings under Land Acquisition Act and to make the payment of compensation according to the provisions of Land Acquisition Act."

2. The case of the petitioners is that the respondent-department acquired land for the construction of Namhol-Asha Majari Road and for the said purpose it issued a Notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act. After complying with the provisions as envisaged in the Land Acquisition Act, an award was passed by respondent No.2 on 20.1.1997. Against the said award, reference petitions were also preferred in the Court of learned District Judge which were also decided on 28.2.2006. Vide judgment dated 23.12.2008 in RFA No. 359 of 2006 and connected matters, this Court dismissed all the appeals and cross-objections which were filed by the respective parties against the award passed in reference petitions by the learned District Judge.

3. Petitioners are owners in possession of land measuring 2.7 bighas comprised in Khata Khatauni No. 29, Khasra No. 171/1, out of which 0.13 bighas of land has been utilized by the respondents for the construction of Namhol-Asha Majari road from the above stated khasra number without acquiring the same. As per petitioners, respondents by mistake or otherwise ignored this portion of land comprised in Khasra No. 171/1 to be included in the notification issued under the Land Acquisition Act for the purposes of acquiring the land required for the construction of road. Thus, as a result of the said act of omission and commission of the respondents, the land of the petitioners stands utilized by the respondents for the purpose of the construction of the road mentioned above without compensating them in accordance with law. It is further their case that they are rustic and illiterate villagers and they came to know of the factum of their land having been utilized without them being adequately compensated as per law when the matters were decided by this Court vide its judgment dated 23.12.2008. It is in these circumstances that the petitioners thereafter have approached this Court with the prayer that the respondents be directed to compensate the petitioners in terms of the award/rates of compensation settled by learned District Judge vide order dated 28.2.2006 which has been upheld by this Court vide its judgment dated 23.12.2008.

4. In its reply, respondents have not denied the factum of the construction of road through the land of the petitioners, however, the stand of the State is that at the time when the said land of the petitioners was utilized for the purpose of construction of the road no objection was raised by the petitioners and now at such a belated stage petitioners cannot be permitted to plead that their land should be acquired and they should be compensated for their land, which has been utilized for the construction of the road. According to the respondents, petition is hit by delay and laches and there is no justifiable explanation given by the petitioners as to why they have approached the Court so late in the year 2009 when the road was constructed between the years 1982-1990.

5. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case.

6. In order to substantiate its case that at this stage no relief can be granted to the petitioner, learned Additional Advocate General has relied upon a Full Bench judgment of this Court in Shankar Dass Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and Connected Matter, 2013(2) Him L.R. (FB) 698. The following was the question referred for adjudication by Full Bench of this Court:-

> "In cases where the State has not taken steps under the Land Acquisition Act for the purpose of construction of roads, on the ground that the required land has been willingly surrendered either orally or otherwise or with implied or express consent by the owners at the relevant time, can they seek a direction in a writ petition filed after a long time for a direction to the State to initiate land acquisition proceedings in respect of their such land which has been utilized for the purposes of construction of the road?"

7. The reference was answered by the Full Bench of this Court in the following manner:-

> "As per the view of the majority, the Reference is answered as follows:
> "In cases where the State has not taken steps under the Land Acquisition Act for the purpose of construction of roads on the ground that the required land had been willingly surrendered either orally or otherwise or with implied or express consent by the owners at the relevant time, they can invoke the jurisdiction refuting such express or implied consent or the stand of the State on voluntary surrender, only within the time within which such a relief can be claimed in a Civil Suit. Once such a question is thus raised in a Writ Petition the same can be considered in the Writ Petition itself." Post these cases in the respective Benches."

8. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in K.B. Ramachandra Raje Urs (Dead) By Legal Representatives. Vs. State of Karnataka and others (2016) 3 Supreme Court Cases 422 has held in para 28 as under:-

> "28. It has been vehemently argued on behalf of the respondents that the writ petition ought not to have been entertained and any order thereon could not have been passed as it is inordinately delayed and the appellant has made certain false statements in the pleadings before the High Court details of which have been mentioned hereinabove. This issue need not detain the Court. Time and again it has been said that while exercising the jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India the High Court is not bound by any strict rule of limitation. If substantial issues of public importance touching upon the fairness of governmental action do arise, the delayed approach to reach the Court will not stand in the way of the exercise of jurisdiction by the Court. Insofar as the knowledge of the appellant-writ petitioner with regard to the allotment of the land to Respondent 28 Society is concerned, what was claimed in the writ petition is that it is only in the year 1994 when Respondent 28 Society had attempted to raise construction on the land that the fact of allotment of such land came to be known to the appellant-writ petitioner."

9. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in SLP(C) No(s) 2373/2014, Raj Kumar Vs. State of H.P. & others decided on 29.10.2015 has held as under:-

"There is in our opinion considerable merit in the submission made by Mr. Nag. It is true that the appellant had approached the High Court rather belatedly inasmuch the land had been utilized some time in the year 1985-86 while the writ petition was filed by the appellant in the year 2009. At the same time it is clear from the pleadings in the case at hand that the user of the land owned by the appellant is not denied by the State in the counter affidavit filed before the High Court or that filed before us. It is also evident from the averments made in the court affidavit that the State has not sought any donation in its favour either by the appellant or his predecessor in interest during whose life time the road in question was constructed. All that is stated in the counter affidavit is that the erstwhile owner of the land "might have donated" the land to the State Government. In the absence of any specific assertion regarding any such donation or documentary evidence to support the same, we are not inclined to accept the ipsit dixit suggesting any such donation. If that be so as it indeed is, we fail to appreciate why the State should have given up the land acquisition proceedings initiated by it in relation to the land of the appellant herein. The fact that the State Government had initiated such proceedings is not in dispute nor is it disputed that the same were allowed to lapse just because the road had in the meantime been taken under the Pradhan Mantri Gram Sadak Yojna. It is also not in dispute that for the very same road the land owned by Kanwar Singh another owner had not only been notified for acquisition but duly paid for in terms of Award No. 10 of 2008."

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. and Others Vs. Manohar has held as under:-

"5. As a matter of fact, the appellants were unable to produce even a scrap of evidence indicating that the land of the respondent had been taken over or acquired in any manner known to law or that he had ever been paid any compensation in respect of such acquisition. That the land was thereafter constructed upon, is not denied.

6. Having heard the learned counsel for the appellants, we are satisfied that the case projected before the Court by the appellants is utterly untenable and not worthy of emanating from any State which professes the least regard to being a welfare State. When we pointed out to the learned counsel that, at this stage at least, the State should be gracious enough to accept its mistake and promptly pay the compensation to the respondent, the State has taken an intractable attitude and persisted in opposing what appears to be a just and reasonable claim of the respondent.

7. Ours is a constitutional democracy and the rights available to the citizens are declared by the Constitution. Although Article 19(1)(f) was deleted by the 44th Amendment to the Constitution, Article 300A has been placed in the Constitution, which reads as follows: "300A- Persons not to be deprived of property save by authority of law _ No person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law."

8. This is a case where we find utter lack of legal authority for deprivation of the respondent's property by the appellants who are State authorities. In our view, this case was an eminently fit one for exercising the writ jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution. In our view, the High Court was somewhat liberal in not imposing exemplary costs on the appellants. We would have perhaps followed suit, but for the intransigence displayed before us."

11. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Tukaram Kana Joshi and others through power of attorney holder Vs. Maharashtra Industrial Development Corporation and others, (2013) 1 Supreme Court Cases 353 has held as under:-

"16. The High Court committed an error in holding the appellants non-suited on the ground of delay and non-availability of records, as the Court failed to appreciate that the appellants had been pursuing their case persistently. Accepting their claim, the statutory authorities had even initiated the acquisition proceedings in 1981, which subsequently lapsed for want of further action on the part of those authorities. The claimants are illiterate and inarticulate persons, who have been deprived of their fundamental rights by the State, without it resorting to any procedure prescribed by law, without the Court realizing that the enrichment of a welfare State, or of its instrumentalities, at the cost of poor farmers is not permissible, particularly when done at the behest of the State itself. The appellants belonged to a class which did not have any other vocation or any business/calling to fall back upon, for the purpose of earning their livelihood.

17. Depriving the appellants of their immovable properties was a clear violation of Article 21 of the Constitution. In a welfare State, statutory authorities are bound, not only to pay adequate compensation, but there is also a legal obligation upon them to rehabilitate such persons. The non-fulfilment of their obligations would tantamount to forcing the said uprooted persons to become vagabonds or to indulge in anti-national activities as such sentiments would be born in them on account of such ill-treatment. Therefore, it is not permissible for any welfare State to uproot a person and deprive him of his fundamental/constitutional/human rights, under the garb of industrial development.

18. The appellants have been deprived of their legitimate dues for about half a century. In such a fact situation, we fail to understand for which class of citizens the Constitution provides guarantees and rights in this regard and what is the exact percentage of the citizens of this country, to whom constitutional/statutory benefits are accorded, in accordance with the law."

12. This Court in Jeet Ram Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others, Latest HLJ 2016 (HP) 615 has held as under:-

"4. No person can be deprived of his property without following due process of law. Respondents have utilized the land of the petitioner without paying him any compensation. There is no contemporaneous record placed on record by the respondent-State to show that the petitioner had consented for the construction of the road through his land. It is evident from the contents of Annexure P-1 that the nature of land in Khasra No. 279, as per Jamabandi for the year 2001-02, is Bagicha. A valuable piece of land of the petitioner has been utilized in an arbitrary manner by the respondent-State, for the purpose of construction/widening of the Shillaru-Reog road.

5. It is also argued by Mr. Anup Rattan, Additional Advocate General, that there is delay in filing the present petition, as construction of the road on the suit land was only undertaken on 5.6.2006. Immediately thereafter, the petitioner had served a notice upon the respondents on 30.4.2007. Some action ought to have been taken on notice dated 30.4.2007. Petitioner was constrained to serve another notice on 22.9.2009. Despite that no action has been taken by the respondent-State to redress the grievance of the petitioner.

6. Legitimate right of a citizen, that too pertaining to valuable property, can not be defeated merely on the technical objections. There ought to be difference in the approach of a private litigant vis-à-vis State. The State stands on a higher pedestal. It is the duty of the functionaries of the State to maintain the Rule of Law. There can not be any estoppel/ waiver against the constitutional /fundamental/ legal rights.

13. In view of the above discussed law, now I revert to the facts of the present case. The factum of the land of the petitioners having been utilized for the purposes of construction of Namhol-Asha Majari road is not disputed by the respondent-State. There is no material produced on record by the State from which it can be inferred that the said road was utilized by the State for the construction of the road with the consent of the petitioners implied or otherwise. There is no cogent explanation given by the State as to why the land of the petitioners was not acquired as per the provisions of Land Acquisition Act when the land of similarly situated persons was duly acquired under the provisions of Land Acquisition Act and they have been duly compensated for the utilization of their land as per law.

14. It is a matter of record that in the present case notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act was published in the Rajpatra on 2.10.1993. It is also a matter of record that the award passed by the Land Acquisition Collector pertaining to the land owners similarly situated as the petitioners whose land were utilized for the construction of the road in issue was announced on 20.1.1997 and the reference petitions against the said award were decided by the Court of learned District Judge vide award dated 28.2.2006. It is also a matter of record that appeals and cross-objections filed against the award passed by the learned District Judge were decided by this Court vide its judgment dated 23.12.2008 in RFA No. 359 of 2006 and other connected matters. The reasons as to why the petitioners have approached this Court in the year 2009 by way of writ petition are mentioned in para 7 of the same which are reproduced hereinbelow:-

"7. That the petitioners are rustic and illiterate villagers and could not approach this Hon'ble Court earlier, however since the matter has been recently decided by this Hon'ble High Court vide its judgment dated 23.12.2008 Annexure P-3 regarding the land acquired for the same road where the land of the petitioners as mentioned hereabove is situated, therefore, it is duty of the respondents to make the payment of compensation as per the rate already settled by the Hon'ble High Court regarding amount of compensation for the acquisition of land in the area and as per the award passed by the learned District Judge dated 28.2.2006and upheld by this Hon'ble Court vide judgment dated 23.12.2008. The petitioners are entitled for compensation to the tune of Rs. 2 thousand per biswas alongwith solacium, interest and other amounts as per the mandatory provisions of the Land Acquisition Act."

15. The following is the reply which has been filed by respondents to the said para of the writ petition:-

"7&8. That the contents of these paras are wrong as such denied in view of detailed preliminary submission para-2 & 3."

16. In my considered view there is not an inordinate delay of 35 years in filing of the writ petition as has been stated in the preliminary objections taken in the rely by the State. Notification under Section 4 itself was issued on 13th September, 1993. This fact is duly borne out from the award passed by the Land Acquisition Collector dated 20.1.1997. The present petition has been filed by the petitioners after the decision of this Court dated 23.12.2008 in RFA No. 359 of 2006 and other connected matters which appeals and cross-objections were filed by the aggrieved parties against the award passed by the learned District Judge in reference petitions preferred against the award passed by the Land Acquisition Collector. The petitioners have stated that they could not approach the Court earlier being rustic and illiterate villagers. Reply to the said averments made in the writ petition by the State is cryptic.

17. Not only this, for the first time the State has taken the stand about the land of the petitioners being utilized on account of no objection being raised by them is in the reply which has been filed to the writ petition. As per the judgment of Full Bench of this Court in cases where the State has not taken steps under the Land Acquisition Act for the purpose of construction of roads on the ground that the required land had been willingly surrendered either orally or otherwise or with implied or express consent by the owners at the relevant time, the petitioners can invoke the jurisdiction refuting such express or implied consent or the stand of the State on voluntarily surrender only within the time within which such a relief can be claimed in a civil suit. It has also been held that once such a question has been raised in the writ the same can be considered in the writ petition.

18. As I have already held above this stand of the State for the first time has been taken in the reply which has been filed by the State to the writ petition. In other words, there is no material on record produced by the State to the effect that the State had already made it evident to the petitioners that no compensation shall be paid to them as their land has been utilized with their consent and from that date the writ was not preferred by the petitioners within the time within which the relief could have been claimed by them in a civil suit.

19. Therefore, in my considered view, in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and Full Bench of this Court it cannot be said that the petition filed by the petitioners is hit by delay and laches.

20. It is settled law that no person can be deprived of his property without following due process of law. It is not disputed by the respondent-State that they have utilized the land of the petitioners without paying compensation. No material has been placed on record by the State to show that the petitioners had consented for the construction of the road through their land thus the fact remains that the land of the petitioners has been utilized by the State for the purpose of construction of the road in issue without following the procedure of law and without compensating them as per law. In this view of the matter and in view of the law discussed above in my considered view the right of the petitioners pertaining to valuable right of property cannot be defeated on technical objections like delay and laches especially keeping in view the fact that the land has been utilized by the State and the status of the State is on high pedestal as compared to a private litigant.

21. Further keeping in view the fact that it is the duty of the functionaries of the State to maintain the Rule of Law, the State cannot be permitted to deprive due and just compensation for the utilization of their land which has been used by the State for the construction of the road.

22. It is reiterated that the State has not been able to demonstrate that the petitioners had consented for the use of their land for the purpose of road and even otherwise, keeping in view the fact that right to property is a constitutional right, there cannot be estoppel/waiver against constitutional/fundamental/legal rights.

Accordingly, the present writ petition is allowed and the respondents are directed to initiate the process for the acquisition of the land of the petitioners in accordance with law and complete the entire proceedings within a period of one year. The respondents shall be at liberty to compensate petitioners for the land which has been utilized by the State on the basis of the award passed by the learned District Judge in Land Ref Pet No. 12 of 2002 and connected matters dated 28.2.2006 which has been upheld by this Court in RFA No. 359 of 2006 and connected matters. The writ petition is allowed in the above terms. No order as to cost.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

Shashi Pal ……..Petitioner

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh and another ……..Respondents

CrMMO No. 343/2015
Reserved on: July 5, 2016
Decided on: July 7, 2016

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Complaint was filed by the petitioner for registering the case for the commission of offences punishable under Section 166-B, 337 and 338 of Indian Penal Code pleading that daughter of the informant had suffered pain and was taken to hospital- she was prescribed medicines- she again complained of pain- she was referred to respondent No. 2 who noticed that her appendix had burst- operation was conducted- respondent No. 2 never visited the patient despite repeated requests- her condition deteriorated and she was sent to PGI which concluded that Doctor was negligent while performing duty- complaint was filed, which was dismissed- aggrieved from the order, present petition has been filed- held, that contents of the complaint prima facie disclose the negligence of respondent No. 2 while treating daughter of the informant- merely because affidavit has not been filed along with application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. cannot lead to its rejection- order set aside and SHO directed to register the case against respondent No. 2 and to complete investigation. (Para-7 to 11)

Cases referred:

Priyanka Srivastava v. State of U.P. (2015) 6 SCC 287
Ramdev Food Products (P) Ltd. v. State of Gujarat (2015) 6 SCC 439

For the petitioner : Mr. N.K. Thakur, Senior Advocate with Ms. Jamuna Kumari, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. Parmod Thakur, Additional Advocate General, for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Rajesh Mandhotra, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Rajiv Sharma, Judge (oral)

This petition is directed against Order dated 15.9.2015 rendered by the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class (IV) Una, District Una, HP in Criminal Complaint No. 128-I-14 under Section 156(3) CrPC, whereby request of the petitioner for registering a case under Sections 166-B, 337 and 338 IPC, has been rejected. .

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of the present petition are that the petitioner is a permanent resident of villaeg Bharolian Kalan, Tehsil and District Una, Himachal Pradesh and has got a daughter named Alka Sharma. She is 20 years of age. On 19.4.2014, Alka Sharma complained of stomach pain and petitioner took her to Regional Hospital, Una and after giving some medicines, she was sent back. She was attended by Dr. Bansal. Again on 5.5.2014, Ms. Alka Sharma, complained about the pain and she was taken to the Regional Hospital Una. She was admitted in the hospital by Dr. Bansal. Alka had been taking medicines as prescribed by Dr. Bansal. On 22.5.2014, in the midnight she again complained of pain in the stomach. On 23.5.2014 she was taken to hospital where Dr. Bansal advised some tests and after seeing the report of the tests, Ms. Alka was referred to respondent No. 2. Respondent No.2 advised ultrasound. Respondent No.2 observed that the patient had a problem of appendix which had burst. Operation was done on 23.5.2014. Thereafter, respondent No.2 told the petitioner that food pipe of patient was damaged and she was kept under observation till 25.5.2014. On 26.5.2014, respondent No.2 cleaned the operated surface and replaced the gauge. Till 31.5.014, respondent

No. 2 never visited the patient despite repeated requests. On 31.5.2014, condition of the patient deteriorated. Dr. Dharoch referred the patient to PGI Chandigarh. Alka Sharma was taken to PGI Chandigarh. Head of Department, Department of General Surgery, Chandigarh supplied information on the request of petitioner on medical report of the patient. Medical report dated 27.2.2015 is at Annexure P-1, relevant portion of which is reproduced herein below:

> "Patient Alka (C.R. No. 201402864300) who was admitted through emergency services of PGIMER, Chandigarh on 31.5.2014 with diagnosis of faecal fiotula following surgery for appendicular perforation on 23.5.2014 in a hospital at RH, Una (HP). She underwent lapurtomy and ileotrass verse anastomosis in the above mentioned hospital. She was re-exaplored in emergecny at PGIMER, Chandigarh at 31.5.2014 with a diagnosis of faecal fiotula where leak was found from the Ileotrass verse anastomosis with multiple perforation in the terminal ileum although the disclosure of caecum was intact. Therefore, right hemicolectomy was done with end ileostomy and also distal mucous fistula was made . comparison of caecum is an uncommon differential diaprosis for acute appendicitis. Anastomotic leak is a known complication after any gastrointestinal anastomosis. Therefore, it cannot be affirmatively concluded that the treating doctor was negligent while performing his duties."

3. Petitioner's father made a complaint under Section 156 (3) CrPC for giving necessary directions to the SHO Sadar, Una, for registering an FIR under relevant sections/ provisions of law. Learned JMIC (IV), Una, dismissed the complaint on 15.9.2015 by making observation that the complaint filed by the petitioner was not supported by any affidavit and it can not be concluded that the doctor was negligent in performance of his duties as per expert report from PGI dated 27.2.2015.

4. Mr. N.K. Thakur, learned Senior Advocate has vehemently argued that the Ms. Alka was not suffering from appendicitis. She had been wrongly operated for the problem of appendicitis. According to him, as per report of the PGI, respondent No. 2 was negligent in duties. He further contended that the order passed by the court below was unwarranted and uncalled for and the matter is to be investigated by the police.

5. Mr. Rajesh Mandhotra, Advocate has supported Order dated 15.9.2015.

6. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties at length and also gone through the record carefully.

7. Alka Sharma was taken to the hospital on 19.4.2014 and thereafter on 5.5.2014. She felt severe pain in the stomach on 23.5.2014. She was operated upon by respondent No. 2 on 23.5.2014. Her health deteriorated. She was taken to PGI Chandigarh. She was operated upon with the diagnosis of faecal fiotula where leak was found from the ileotrass verse anastomosis with multiple perforation in the terminal ileum although the disclosure of caecum was intact. Surgeon has undertaken right hemicolectomy with end ileostomy and also distal mucous fistula was made.
