THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS HIMACHAL SERIES, 2015

EDITOR

RAKESH KAINTHLA

Director,

H.P. Judicial Academy,

Shimla.

MAY-JUNE, 2015

Vol. XLV (III)

Pages: HC 1 to 1427

Mode of Citation : I L R 2015 (III) HP 1

Containing cases decided by the High Court of Himachal Pradesh and by the Supreme Court of India

And Acts, Rules and Notifications.

PUBLISHED UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE GOVERNMENT OF HIMACHAL PRADESH , BY THE CONTROLLER, PRINTING AND STATIONERY DEPARTMENT, HIMACHAL PRADESH, SHIMLA-5.

All Right Reserved

INDIAN LAW REPORTS

HIMACHAL SERIES

(May-June, 2015)

INDEX

1) Nominal Table i-ix

2) Subject Index & cases cited I-LXXV

3) Reportable Judgments 1 to 1427

Nominal table
I L R 2015 (III) HP 1

Sr. No.	Title		Page
1	Abhay Shankar Shukla Vs. SJVN Ltd. & ors.	D.B.	1208
2	Ajai Srivastava Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others	D.B.	969
3	Ajay Kumar Vs. Shubham Kumar and others		1
4	Amar Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh		1358
5	Amarjeet Singh Vs. State of H.P.		218
6	Amrik Singh and others Vs. Abnash Chand and others		881
7	Anu Mahindru Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & others	D.B.	454
8	Anu Rana Vs. Central Bank of India & ors.		1103
9	Anubha Sood and others Vs. Krishan Chand and others		1127
10	Anupam Kumar Vs. Harmeet Singh Ghai & others		293
11	Ashok Kapoor Vs. Murtu Devi		1312
12	Ashok Singh and others Vs. Ved Parkash and others	D.B.	929
13	Ashwani Gupta Vs. State of H.P. and others	D.B.	1210
14	Ateek Ahmed son of Shaeed Ahmed Vs. State of H.P.		93
15	Azam Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	65
16	Babita Rani Vs. Divisional Commissioner Kangra & others		167
17	Babu Ram son of Mushu Ram Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh		559
18	Bachitar Singh & ors. Vs. Divisional Commissioner Mandi & ors.		1220
19	Bahadur Vs. Bratiya and others		1259
20	Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Gohdi Devi & others		418
21	Balbir Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and another	D.B.	1225
22	Balkar Singh & others Vs. Ram Pal alias Sanju & others		295
23	Balwant Singh Vs. Sheela Devi & another		1330
24	Bansi Lal Thakur Vs. Ram Saran Thakur		1108
25	Birbal Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	1411
26	Bishan Singh alias Bishnoo Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B.	337
27	Budhi Singh & another Vs. Ashok Kumar & others		531
28	Chobe Ram Vs. Chander Kala & ors. RSA No. 347/2003		359

29	Chobe Ram Vs. Chanderkala & ors.RSA No. 483 of 2005		363
30	Court on its own motion Ref:- Ghazala Abdullah Vs. State of H.P. & others	D.B.	1291
31	Court on its own motion Vs. State of H.P. and others CW PIL No. 03 of 2014	D.B.	973
32	Court on its own motion Vs. State of H.P. and others CWPIL No.8480 of 2014	D.B.	879
33	Court on its own motion Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others CW PIL No. 02 of 2015	D.B.	934
34	Court on its own motion Vs. The Principal Secretary (Social Justice & Empowerment) and ors.	D.B.	937
35	Court on its own motion Vs. The State of Himachal Pradesh and others CW PIL No. 30 of 2011	D.B.	940
36	Courts on its own motion Vs. State of H.P. & others	D.B.	569
37	Deep Bahadur Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	95
38	Deepak Arora and another Vs. Vijay Khanna		75
39	Deepi Devi wife of Sh. Rupia Ram Vs. State of H.P. & others		703
40	Desh Raj Vs. Chaudhary Shrawan Kumar Himachal Pradesh Krishi Vishvavidyalaya	D.B.	944
41	Dev Sundri and others Vs. State of H.P. and others		785
42	Devta Balu Nag Ji Vs. Devta Shring Rishi Ji & others	D.B	674
43	Dhameshwar Vs. Gish Pati and others		737
44	Dharam Pal & another Vs. Amar Nath & others		1063
45	Dharam Pal and another Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	1240
46	Dharam Singh Negi Vs. State of H.P. & others	D.B.	181
47	Dharma Devi Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	587
48	Divisional Engineer Telecom Project (BSNL) & another Vs. Chet Ram & another		790
49	Dixit Chauhan Vs. Jagdish Thakur and others		1405
50	Dr. Devkanya wife of Sh. Rahul Lodhta Vs. State of H.P.		1331
51	Dr. Lalita Bansal Vs. State of H.P. & ors.	D.B.	953
52	Dr. Vivek Kumar Garg and ors. Vs. State of H.P. & ors.	D.B.	1111
53	Fate Ram and others Vs. Parvati		388
54	General Manager, Northern Railway Vs. Ramesh Chand and others		102
55	Gopal Chauhan Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh		120
56	Govinda alias Rahul Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B.	2
57	Gumti Devi Vs. Pushpa Devi and others		1141

58	Hardeep Singh Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	258
59	Harish Chander & others Vs. Financial Commissioner and others		10
60	Hem Ram & another Vs. Krishan Chand & another		796
61	Hema Ram Vs. State of Hemachal Pradesh	D.B.	218
62	Himachal Pradesh Petroleum Dealers Association Vs. Neeraj Mittal and others	D.B.	740
63	Himachal Pradesh Rajkiya Prathmik Anubandh Adhayapak Sangh Vs. P.C. Dhiman and another	D.B.	1055
64	Himachal Road Transport Corporation Vs. Naresh Kumar & others		980
65	Himesh Sharma Vs. State of H.P		229
66	HPSIDC Employees Union Vs. State of H.P. & anr.		466
67	Inderpal Singh Vs. State of H.P.		229
68	J.P.Chatrath Vs. Khem Chand Chauhan and others		1020
69	Jagdish Chand Vs. State of H.P. & another		408
70	Jagdish Vs. Rahul Bus Service & others		298
71	Jagdishwari Devi Vs. Subhash Chand		366
72	Jagjeevan Singh and another Vs. State of H.P. and another		21
73	Jai Kishan and others Vs. Sardari Lal and others		745
74	Jai Singh Vs. State of H.P. and others	D.B.	1057
75	Jatinder Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh		122
76	Jeevan Rana Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B.	343
77	Joga Singh and others Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others	D.B.	1023
78	Joginder Singh & another Vs. Chanan Ram and others		595
79	Jyoti Kumari & ors. Vs. The Secretary Education & anr.		436
80	Kamal Bahadur Rana Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B.	817
81	Kamal Deep Bhardwaj Vs. State of H.P.		230
82	Kamal Dev Verma son of Sh. R.C.Verma & others Vs. H.P. University & others		275
83	Kameshwar son of late Sh. Parma Ram Vs. State of H.P.		105
84	Kamla Devi & others Vs. Ravinder Gupta		27
85	Kansara Mayur Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B.	958
86	Karan Laroiya & another Vs. State of H.P. & others		1363
87	Kartar Singh son of Sh Tula Ram Vs. State of H.P.	D.B	848
88	Kashmir Singh and others Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	961

89	Kehar Singh and another Vs. Ashwani Kumar and others		986
90	Kehar Singh and another Vs. Ramesh Chand (dead), through LRs		539
91	Kekti Devi Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	597
92	Kuldeep Thakur son of Shri Ludar Chand Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh		470
93	Lal Chand Prasad Vs. State of H.P. and others	D.B.	440
94	Lashkari Ram Vs. State of H.P. & anr.		250
95	M/s Cosmo Ferrites Limited and others Vs. Rajinder Singh		525
96	M/s P.A. Times Industries Vs. M/s Apex Marketing		890
97	M/s Sainsons Pulp & Papers Ltd. and another Vs. State Bank of India and others CWP No. 2805 of 2011		908
98	M/s Sainsons Pulp & Papers Ltd. and another Vs. State Bank of India and others CMP No. 5525 of 2015		912
99	M/s Samsung India Electronics Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of H.P. & ors. CWP No. 1596 of 2015	D.B.	1226
100	M/s United India Insurance Company Vs. M/s Kishan Singh & Co. Pvt. Ltd & others		1408
101	Malkiyat Singh son of Chiman Singh Vs. State of H.P.		125
102	Manbir Singh Vs. Suresh Bansal and others		760
103	Mandeep Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	604
104	Mangat Ram Vs. Dila Ram Verma		1422
105	Manohar Lal Vs. Sukh Bahadur & others		29
106	Manoj Singh Vs. Union of India & ors.	D.B.	706
107	Mast Ram Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B.	1027
108	Master Sachin & others Vs. Urmila Chauhan & others		988
109	Micromax Informatics Ltd. Vs. State of HP and others	D.B.	1334
110	Mohinder Kumar Sharma Vs. State of H.P.		542
111	Mohinder Kumar Vs. Union of India and others	D.B.	967
112	Mool Chand son of Shri Tulle Ram Vs. State of H.P.		905
113	Municipal Corporation, Shimla Vs. Mohinder Singh Malhi and others		481
114	Nand Lal and others Vs. State of H.P.		127
115	Narinder Lal Negi Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others	D.B.	1364
116	National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Hanogi Mata Sansthan & ors.		424
117	National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Anu Devi & others		612

118	National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Jhanpli Devi alias Mukka Devi and others		547
119	National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Kaushlaya & others		614
120	National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Satish Kumar & others		1143
121	Neelam Kumari Vs. Yogender Singh and others		1145
122	Nek Ram Vs. Financial Commissioner (Appeals) and others		254
123	New India Assurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Sommaya Shaipy and others		825
124	New India Assurance Company Ltd. Vs. Kamla Devi & others		820
125	Nikhil Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh		442
126	Nishant Sharma son of Sh. Desh Raj Sharma Vs. State of H.P.		107
127	NTPC Limited Vs. Jitender and others		1064
128	Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Ambi Chand and others		1175
129	Oriental Insurance Company Limited Vs. Arvind Pal and others		619
130	Oriental Insurance Company Vs. Dinesh Kumar & others		990
131	Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Geeta Devi & others		325
132	Oriental Insurance Company Vs. Indiro & others		1149
133	Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Kishan Chand & others		37
134	Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Krishan Dev and others		621
135	Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Sharda Devi & others		829
136	Pankaj Sharma son of Dina Nath Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh		550
137	Pankaj Sood & another Vs. State of H.P. & others		1348
138	Parmeshwari Devi Vs. Kamlesh Devi and another		369
139	Partap Chand and another Vs. Harinder Kumar and another		992
140	Partap Singh Bhagnal Vs. Ramkali & others		995
141	Partap Singh Vs. Kanwar Singh		110
142	Parveena Devi Vs. State of H.P. and others	D.B.	1035
143	Pawan Kumar Vs. Prabahu Lal & others		634
144	Pooja Devi Vs. General Manager, Punjab Roadways & others		42

145	Pradeep Kumar Vs. State of H.P. & others		1124
146	Puran Chand & anr. Vs. Sanjay & ors.		1066
147	Raghu Devi Vs. Dewan Chand (deceased)& others		831
148	Raj Bala Gaur Vs. H.P. University and others		411
149	Raj Pal Singh Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation & others	D.B.	859
150	Rajan Chopra Vs. Uttam Chand		453
151	Rajesh Kumar Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	231
152	Rakesh Kumar & Anr. Vs. Pratap Chand & Others.		373
153	Rakesh Kumar son of Gola Ram Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh		553
154	Rakesh Kumar son of Shri Sohan Lal Vs. State of H.P.		328
155	Ram Swarup and others Vs. Narinder Parkash and others		386
156	Ramesh Kumar and another Vs. Himachal Pradesh Road Transport Corporation and another		1177
157	Ramesh Kumar Vs. Rajesh Kumar and others	D.B.	636
158	Ranjodh Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B	51
159	Rattan Singh and others Vs. Dodi Devi and others		1179
160	Ravi Kumar @ Chimnu son of Sh. Waryam Singh Vs. State of H.P.		330
161	Rikhikesh son of Shri Narain Dass Vs. Om Parkash		918
162	Roop Chand Vs. Union of India & others	D.B.	137
163	Roshan Lal Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B.	1036
164	Rubi Sood and another Vs. Major (Retd.) Vijay Kumar Sud & others		771
165	Ruchi Kant and others Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B.	1039
166	S.M. Katwal Vs. Virbhadra Singh and others		486
167	Sada Ram Vs. Chief Secretary Govt. of H.P.	D.B.	725
168	Sandeep Gupta Vs. Indu Gupta		556
169	Sandeep Singh son of Jagdish Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh		149
170	Sanjay Kumar Vs. Yashpal Singh		833
171	Sanjeev Kumar son of Shri Jagdish Singh Vs. State of H.P. through Principal Secretary (Home) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh Shimla-171002		1292
172	Sanjokta Devi and others Vs. Himachal Road Transport Corporation and another		1005
173	Sarla Devi Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B.	395

174	Sashi Kumar and another Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	116
175	Satish Kumar alias Bichhu Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	840
176	Satya Devi and another Vs. Kartar Chand and others		779
177	Satya Devi widow of late Shri Udho Ram Vs. Hari Chand son of Udho Ram		1380
178	Savitra Devi & another Vs. Jaiwanti Devi & others		1007
179	Secretary (Home) & others Vs. Shanti Devi & others		1009
180	Seema Mehta Vs. Chairman-cum-Deputy Commissioner and another		236
181	Seli Hydro Electric Power Company Ltd. Vs. State of H.P. and others	D.B.	1069
182	Sesh Ram Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	1416
183	Shankari Devi Vs. State of H.P. & ors.		243
184	Shashi Kant Vs. State of H.P.		250
185	Sheel Darshan Sood and another Vs. Manju Sood and others		334
186	Soni Gulati & Co. Vs. JHS Svendgaard Laboratories Limited		182
187	SPS Steels Rolling Mills Ltd. Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & others	D.B.	1387
188	State of H.P. Vs. Kulbhushan Sood and others	D.B.	193
189	State of H.P. through Secretary (GAD) Vs. Purushottam Sharma	D.B	877
190	State of H.P. through Secretary (IPH) to Govt. of H.P. and another Vs. Raj Kumar son of Shri Jaisi Ram		1349
191	State of H.P. Vs. Om Parkash	D.B.	921
192	State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Durgu Ram and another	D.B.	152
193	State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Mizuta Natsuhiro	D.B.	59
194	State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Nomu Ram and others.	D.B.	277
195	State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Om Parkash @ Pappu	D.B.	1390
196	State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Renuka Devi & others	D.B.	158
197	State of Himachal Pradesh Vs.Kaur Singh son of Utam Singh & others	D.B.	167
198	Subhash Kumar Vs. Mandra Devi (deceased) through L.R.s Ujjagar Singh and others		198
199	Sucha Singh Vs. Ritesh Kumar & another		1182
200	Sudesh Bala Vs. Union of India and others		844
201	Sudesh Kumar Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B.	675
202	Sumit Kumar son of Shri Yogendra Singh Vs. Sudesh Dogra wife of late Sh. Suresh Chander Dogra & another		1352

203	Sumitra Rani Vs. Vinod Kumar and others		847
204	Sunehru Devi (Now deceased) through LRs and others Vs. Pohlo Ram and another		668
205	Sunita Kumari Vs. Bhumi Chand		683
206	Suraj Bahadur Vs. H.P. State Forest Development Corporation Ltd. and ors.		394
207	Surender Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B	689
208	Surinder Singh son of Darshan Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh		164
209	Takki Mohd. Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B.	647
210	Tanuja Bhatia Vs. H.P.University and others		924
211	Tapat Bahadur Shahi Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B	663
212	Tara Devi & others Vs. HRTC and others		1184
213	Tarsem Lal Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh	D.B.	1187
214	The Director, Telecom Project-II Vs. Neelam Chadha and another	D.B.	731
215	The New India Assurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Roshan Lal & others		1011
216	The Presiding Officer, Motor Accident Claims Tribunal Vs. Jitwar Singh deceased through his LRs Sadhna Devi and others		400
217	The Reserve Bank of India and another Vs. M/s A.B.Tools (P) Ltd., and another	D.B.	1086
218	Tilak Raj son of Sh. Amar Nath Vs. Gram Panchayat Barsar		927
219	Tripta Devi widow of Shri Jagdish & others Vs. Krishan Chand (died) through LRs. Kadshi Devi and others		266
220	Tulsi Ram Vs. HPSEB & another.		119
221	Uma Akash Agro Pvt. Ltd. and others Vs. State of H.P. and others		90
222	Union of India & others Vs. Paras Ram	D.B.	1397
223	Union of India and others Vs. Tripta Sharma	D.B.	426
224	United India Insurance Company Limited Vs. Union of India and others		1016
225	United India Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Madhvender Kuthleharia and others		62
226	United India Insurance Company Vs. Lalli alias Laloo and another		1199
227	Vidya Devi Vs. Naresh Kumar and another		1205
228	Vijay Kumar @ Tantu son of Sh.Nater Singh Vs. State of H.P.	D.B.	1296
229	Vikram Verma Vs. Manju Verma		423

230	Vinay Bodh Vs. Dolekar & others		429
231	Vinod Kumar Vs. Varinder Kumar Sood		404
232	Vipin Sharma & anr. Vs. Punjab State Electricity Board & anr.		205
233	Vipul Lakhanpal Vs. Pooja Sharma		896
234	Vishan Dass & anr. Vs. State of H.P. & ors.	D.B.	456
235	Vyasa Devi wife of Sh. Shyam Lal Vs. State of H.P. & others		734

****

SUBJECT INDEX

'A'

Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 - Section 34- A contract was awarded by NHPC for the construction of permanent suitable bridge across the river Siul- 67 meters length of suspended portion being launched with 33.5 meters length of the nose fell down in the river- 16 persons died on the spot and 5 persons were grievously injured- the bridge was insured – a claim for loss of Rs.1,51,30,000 was made- Arbitral Tribunal awarded various amounts towards loss of bridge and rejected the claim for compensation on account of death of workmen- held, that Court cannot reappraise the material on record and substitute its own view in place of Arbitrator's views – the findings recorded by Tribunal are based upon correct evidence and cannot be termed as perverse - where two views are possible, the view taken by arbitrator has to be preferred- petition dismissed.

Title: M/s United India Insurance Company Vs. M/s Kishan Singh & Co. Pvt. Ltd & others Page-1408

'C'

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 9- A dispute between an employer and a single workman cannot be termed as an industrial dispute but may become one, if it is taken up by Union or number of workmen- the case of the plaintiff was not taken up by the Union, therefore, civil Court had jurisdiction to hear and entertain and suit.

Title: M/s Cosmo Ferrites Limited and others Vs. Rajinder Singh Page-525

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Section 11- Plaintiff filed a suit for injunction which was dismissed on the ground that defendants were in possession of the suit land without any right, title or interest- plaintiff subsequently filed a suit for possession of the suit land and also for claiming damages for unauthorized use and occupation, which was decreed- held, that in earlier suit, findings were recorded regarding the defendants being in unauthorized occupation over the suit land- the plea of the defendants having become owner by way of adverse possession stood repelled – these findings were never challenged by the defendants- defendants pleaded that they had become owners on the basis of sale deed- they had also pleaded adverse possession, which is not permissible- Court had rightly decreed the suit partly for possession.

Title: Kehar Singh and another Vs. Ramesh Chand (dead), through LRs. Page-539

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Section 24- A Petition for transfer was filed by the tenant stating that no Lawyer was ready to take up his case as the respondent had a great influence in the society- held, that a petition for transfer is not to be dealt with in a light hearted manner – transfer of a case from one Court to another should not be granted readily as a matter of course - power has to be exercised with extreme care, caution and circumspection- petitioners had failed to mention the name of Lawyer who had refused to accept the brief under the influence of respondent- petitioners are adopting delaying tactics to prolong the trial by filing such application- petition is a gross abuse of the process of the Court, hence, same is dismissed with cost of Rs. 50,000/-.

Title: Rakesh Kumar & Anr. Vs. Pratap Chand & Others Page-373

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 34- Interest is in the nature of the compensation for the loss of money by one who is entitled to the same.

Title: Vinay Bodh Vs. Dolekar & others Page-429

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 79- An award was passed for the sum of Rs.1,78,000/- as compensation- awarded amount was partly ordered to be released to the plaintiffs, however, a sum of Rs. 1,25,000/- was ordered to be invested in Kisan Vikas Patras - this amount was not deposited by the employee of the Court- this fact came to the notice when an application for release of the amount was filed- FIR was registered and the employee was convicted – Civil Writ Petition was filed for the recovery of the amount which was disposed of with liberty to the plaintiffs to seek appropriate remedy in accordance with law- plaintiff filed a civil suit for recovery of Rs. 3,57,500/-- held, that employee was a government servant and the State and the employer are liable for the acts of the employees - therefore, defendant No. 1 and 2 were rightly held liable to pay amount - however, they are at liberty to recover the amount from the employee in accordance with law.

Title: The Presiding Officer, Motor Accident Claims Tribunal Vs. Jitwar Singh deceased through his LRs Sadhna Devi and others Page-400

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 80 (2)- Plaintiff filed an application to institute the suit against Gram Panchayat without serving a notice- it was recorded in the resolution that plaintiff was creating obstruction on the public road- Naib Tehsildar (Settlement) mentioned that road was in existence since long time- Gram Panchayat had spent Rs. 7,15,000/- upon the road- Panchayat was repairing the road for the benefit of public - no urgent and immediate relief was required by the plaintiff, therefore, application was rightly dismissed.

Title: Tilak Raj son of Sh. Amar Nath Vs. Gram Panchayat Barsar Page-927

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 100- Court will not upset the concurrent finding of fact, unless the findings are perverse, without consideration of material evidence, based on no evidence or misreading of evidence or is grossly erroneous or if allowed to stand, would result in miscarriage of justice.

Title: Rubi Sood and another vs. Major (Retd.) Vijay Kumar Sud & others Page-771

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Sections 144- Judgment debtor claimed that he had deposited an amount of Rs. 4,68,25,228/-, whereas he is liable to pay only Rs. 3,70,49770.80- he sought the refund of the excess amount - Decree holder contended that judgment debtor had not objected to attachment of the property and the principle of res-judicata will apply to the present case- held, that amount of Rs. 63,11,334/- was not awarded to the decree holder - the Court can only recover the amount, which is awarded under the decree- decree holder cannot be allowed to enrich himself unjustly and to retain the amount, which was not awarded to him - petition allowed and the excess amount ordered to be refunded to the J.D.

Title: Deepak Arora and another Vs. Vijay Khanna Page-75

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 115- Learned Counsel for the revisionists stated that he did not want to continue with the Revision Petition- hence, petition dismissed as withdrawn.

Title: Dharam Pal & another Vs. Amar Nath & others Page-1063

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order 1 Rule 10- Order VI Rule 17- Plaintiff filed a Civil Suit for declaration that he is owner in possession of the suit land and in adverse possession of the area adjacent to the suit land- suit was partly decreed- it was claimed that sale deeds were made in favour of respondents No. 2 and 3 through an attorney of a dead person, which are null and void- land belongs to respondents No. 4 to 9 who have to be impleaded and necessary amendment has to be made in the plaint- held, that plea of adverse possession is not available to the plaintiff as the suit cannot be filed on the basis of adverse possession - adverse possession can be used as a shield and not a sword - therefore, application dismissed with cost of Rs. 20,000/-.

Title: J.P. Chatrath Vs. Khem Chand Chauhan and others Page-1020

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order V Rule 20- An application for substituted service was filed on the ground that defendants No. 4, 7 and 8 had left Shimla long time ago and their whereabouts were not known- contesting defendant pleaded that defendants No. 4 and 8 had died and instead of bringing on record their legal representatives, present application has been filed- held, that there was no satisfactory proof of death and the factum of the death was disputed – report of process server was contradictory and did not establish the death of the defendants - therefore, an issue framed to determine, whether defendant No. 4 and 8 had died and parties ordered to lead evidence.

Title: Sheel Darshan Sood and another Vs. Manju Sood and others. Page-334

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 6 Rule 17- Petitioners sought amendment of the Writ Petition, which was opposed on the ground that application was filed with a view to delay the decision of civil writ petition- petitioners had violated the financial discipline of the bank and had not adhered to the payments schedule- notice was issued to the petitioner under Section 13(2) SARFESI Act and the Writ Petition is not maintainable- held, that Court should allow all the amendments, which are necessary for determining the real controversy between the parties and do not cause any prejudice to the other side, which cannot be compensated in terms of money – in the present case, no prejudice would be caused if the application is allowed as the proposed amendment is explanatory in nature relating to subsequent events- application allowed subject to the payment of cost of Rs. 3,000/-.

Title: M/s Sainsons Pulp & Papers Ltd. and another Vs. State Bank of India and others (CMP No. 5525 of 2015) Page-912

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 6 Rule 17- Plaintiff filed an application for seeking amendment in the plaint- application was filed after the issues were framed and it was belated - the amendment would change the nature of the suit- it was not pleaded in the application that in spite of due diligence, amendment could not have been made earlier, therefore, application is liable to be dismissed.

Title: Partap Singh Vs. Kanwar Singh Page-110

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 6 Rule 17- Plaintiff sought the amendment of the plaint for claiming the outstanding charges from the defendants- defendants contended that evidence had been led and the proposed amendment will change the nature of the suit - held, that no new fact was being introduced- the power to allow amendment is wide and can be exercised at any stage- plaintiff had claimed any other relief to which he is entitled, therefore, application allowed and plaintiff permitted to amend the plaint.

Title: The Reserve Bank of India and another vs. M/s A.B. Tools (P) Ltd., and another (D.B.) Page-1086

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order 8 Rule 1- Defendants were granted time for filing written statement on 08.07.2014 and on 01.08.2014- defendant No. 1 died thereafter and application for bringing on record legal representatives was allowed on 25.11.2014 – application was filed for placing on record written statement- held, that main case could not proceed further on account of death of defendant No. 2-delay was not unreasonable, which could not be compensated in terms of money- trial Court had rightly exercised the discretion to allow the defendant to file written statement.

Title: Sumitra Rani Vs. Vinod Kumar and others Page-847

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order 9 Rule 4- claimant had filed a Claim Petition, which was dismissed in default and application under Order 9 Rule 4 was also withdrawn by the claimant- held, that procedural wrangles and tangles, hyper technicalities and mystic maybes should not be a ground to dismiss the Claim Petition – a fresh petition can be filed under Order 9 Rule 4, if it is not barred by limitation.

Title: Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Kishan Chand & others Page-37

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order 9 Rule 9- Petitioner was ordered to be ejected by Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Mandi- he filed an appeal, which was dismissed in default for non-appearance- an application for restoration of appeal was filed, which was dismissed on the ground that it was filed after two years and three months - this order was challenged unsuccessfully in appeal and revision- held, that length of delay is not a decisive factor for condonation for delay, but sufficiency of satisfactory explanation is a material factor- petitioner had hired an advocate and he cannot be penalized for non-appearance of the advocate- authorities had not gone into the sufficiency of the explanation offered by the petitioner- further, application for restoration was decided after 10 years- hence, petition allowed and case remanded with a direction to decide the same afresh after giving reasons.

Title: Nek Ram Vs. Financial Commissioner (Appeals) and others Page-254

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 9 Rule 13- A decree was passed by the Court ex-parte- an application was filed for setting aside ex-parte decree – held that ex-parte decree cannot be set aside on the ground that there was some irregularity in the service of the summons- Process Server went to the commercial premises and found it locked - thereafter he went to the residential house of the Managing Director, where he met the Managing Director- process was shown to the managing director but he refused to accept the same- therefore, copy of notice was affixed on the gate of his residence- it is apparent from the report that Managing Director was duly served and there was no reason for setting aside ex-parte decree- application dismissed.

Title: M/s P.A. Times Industries Vs. M/s Apex Marketing Page-890

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order 16- Insurance Company relied upon the verification report issued by the Licensing Authority- owner produced another driving license, which was put for the first time to RW-2 –Insurance Company filed an application to lead additional evidence by placing on record certain documents to show that license was fake- application was allowed and last opportunity was granted to produce the witnesses on self responsibility- adjournment prayed was declined on the ground that Petition was old and was filed in the year 2011- held, that Commissioner should not have imposed cost when Insurance Company was not at fault and the license was produced for the first time by the claimants- further, Commissioner had refused to provide any assistance for summoning the witnesses and had directed the company to produce the witnesses from Manipur on self responsibility – order passed by the Commissioner to close the evidence of the Insurance Company was not sustainable - Petition allowed and the Commissioner directed to allow the Insurance Company to lead additional evidence.

Title: National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Jhanpli Devi alias Mukka Devi and others Page-547

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 16 read with Sec.151- Petitioner filed an application for examining the material witnesses on the ground that it was reported in the summons that the witness had died about 16 years ago and it was necessary to examine his son-defendant No. 6 was also to be examined regarding the signatures of the marginal witnesses- held that mere delay in filing the application is not sufficient to dismiss the same- Rules of Procedure are handmaid of justice and the purpose of prescribing procedure is to advance the course of justice – marginal witness had died and his son is alive- brother of the plaintiff and other defendants are material witnesses - case relates to a dispute between the family members and, therefore, was required to be dealt with by exhibiting more compassion and sympathy - application allowed subject to the payment of cost of Rs. 40,000/-.

Title: Neelam Kumari Vs. Yogender Singh and others Page-1145

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 19- Plaintiff relied upon an affidavit - however, he had not made specific averment in the plaint regarding the execution of affidavit- he had not examined the Executive Magistrate who had attested the affidavit- compromise was already arrived at and there was no question of executing the affidavit – held, that in these circumstances, affidavit was not admissible in evidence.

Title: Chobe Ram Vs. Chander Kala & ors. Page-359

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 21- Petitioners filed a Writ Petition before the High Court which was transferred to Administrative Tribunal- petition was allowed and the respondent No. 1 was directed to constitute Review Departmental Promotion Committee and place the cases of the petitioners before the Committee for consideration of their promotion w.e.f. 27.2.1980, the date from which their juniors were promoted and in case petitioners are ordered to be promoted they would be entitled to all consequential benefits- respondent promoted the petitioner notionally and denied the benefits of arrears of salary to the petitioner- petitioner claimed the higher pay only on the ground that one 'K' was drawing more pay than him but record showed that 'K' was stagnated on the post of Senior Assistant and was given two proficiency increments- this difference was only on the ground of fortuitous circumstances – the petitioner cannot be equated to 'K' as he had not suffered the pain and pangs of stagnating on one post for more than 21 years- hence, pay was rightly fixed- petition dismissed.

Title: Sada Ram vs. Chief Secretary Govt. of H.P. (D.B.) Page-725

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 21 Rule 32- A counter-claim was filed for specific performance of the contract which was decreed- application for execution of the decree was filed- objections were filed pleading that Execution Petition is not maintainable and the decree is not executable in view of the instructions issued by the govt. - held that, decree had attained finality and it cannot be nullified by taking recourse to administrative instructions.

Title: Rikhikesh son of Shri Narain Dass Vs. Om Parkash Page-918

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 22- Insurer pleaded that owner has died and appeal had abated - held that provisions of Order 22 regarding the abatement have not been made applicable to MACT, therefore, Claim Petition would not abate on the death of the owner/insured.

Title: Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Kishan Chand & others Page-37

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 22- Plaintiff No. 1 died during the pendency of the suit- no application was filed for bringing on record his legal representatives – however, the suit has been filed by many plaintiffs- plaintiff No. 8 was recorded to be owner of 1/3rd share- therefore, cause of action relating to plaintiff No. 8 was severable and the suit will abate qua him and not in its entirety.

Title: Tripta Devi widow of Shri Jagdish & others Vs. Krishan Chand (died) through LRs. Kadshi Devi and others Page-266

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 22 Rule 3- One of the petitioners in an appeal had expired during the pendency of the reference petition- this fact was not brought to the notice of the Court and the award was passed in ignorance of the death- held, that death of the petitioner and non-substitution of his legal representatives in Reference Petition does not affect the same – legal representatives are entitled to receive compensation, therefore, they are ordered to be brought on record.

Title: NTPC Limited Vs. Jitender and others Page- 1064

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 23 Rule 1- Learned Counsel for the petitioner submitted that he did not want to continue with the present petition and same be dismissed as withdrawn- In view of statement of the Learned Counsel, petition is dismissed as withdrawn.

Title: Babita Rani vs. Divisional Commissioner Kangra & others Page-167

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 23 Rule 1- Learned Counsel for the petitioner submitted that he did not want to continue with the present petition and same be dismissed as withdrawn- In view of statement of the Learned Counsel, petition is dismissed as withdrawn.

Title: Tulsi Ram Vs. HPSEB & another. Page-119

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 26 Rule 9- Plaintiff had obtained demarcation from the revenue authorities- report was not accepted by trial Court- plaintiff moved an application for appointment of local commissioner, which was allowed- defendant raised objections to the report which were decided along with main appeal- report was supported by Aks Tatima Shajra as well as the copy of Field Book- it was in accordance with the instructions issued by Financial Commissioner - when a fresh local commissioner was appointed, the earlier report would be of no consequences.

Title: Jagdishwari Devi Vs. Subhash Chand Page-366

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 39 Rules 1 and 2- Plaintiffs claimed an injunction pleading that defendants had started interfering with the path and the kuhal due to which plaintiffs were unable to sow paddy in the suit land- defendant pleaded that they had not consented for the construction of the path- when the objection was raised Panchayat stopped the construction work- major portion of the path has been constructed over the land of the plaintiff- respondents have given no objection for the construction of the jeepable road- plaintiffs could not be deprived of their right of access to the houses- therefore, plaintiff was rightly held entitled for the relief of injunction by the trial court.

Title: Puran Chand & anr. Vs. Sanjay & ors. Page-1066

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 39 Rules 1 and 2- Plaintiff filed a suit seeking injunction for restraining the defendants from transferring the plaintiff from Cosmo Ferrites Limited and causing any obstruction in entering the factory premises for attending his job- the application was allowed- an appeal preferred against the order was dismissed- according to Clause 20 of the Standing Order, the workman can be transferred according to exigency of the work from one department to another provided that his wages, grade, continuity of service and other conditions of service are not adversely affected by such transfer - such transfer can be made only when the workman consents after getting a reasonable notice - plaintiff had brought to the notice of the management that he was not capable of performing heavy work and that he may be given work according to his capability- he had never requested for his transfer- transfer was made simply because the workman had participated in a strike and an FIR was also registered against him- held that trial Court below had rightly granted injunction.

Title: M/s Cosmo Ferrites Limited and others Vs. Rajinder Singh Page-525

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 39 Rules 1 and 2- Plaintiff sought a relief of injunction pleading that 'D' was owner to the extent of ½ share- successor of the 'D' got the suit land recorded in his exclusive possession in connivance with the revenue staff- he was threatening to raise construction without getting the suit land partitioned- defendant pleaded that he was exclusive owner of the suit land- he had started construction in the month of February, 2012 and had spent more than Rs.7 lakh- lower Courts had recorded a finding that plaintiff is owner to the extent of ¼ share, whereas defendant is owner to the extent of ½ share- a transfer by the co-owner makes the transferee a co-owner- such transferee is entitled to all the rights and obligation which the other co-owners have- a co-owner has right to enter upon the common property and to take possession of the whole subject to the equal rights of other co-owners- he is not entitled to injunction for restraining other co-owners from exceeding his rights in common property absolutely unless the act of co-owner amounts to ouster- mere making of construction or improvement in the common property does not amount to ouster- if the act of the co-owner amounts to diminution in the value of the property then a co-owner can seek an injunction to prevent the diminution- a co-owner out of possession can seek an injunction to prevent an act, which is detrimental to his interest- plaintiff has to establish that the act complained of would cause some injury which would affect his position and enjoyment- defendant had claimed a right to raise construction over the suit land - he had claimed that he is in peaceful and uninterrupted possession of the suit land which amounts to ouster- therefore, in these circumstances, injunction was rightly granted.

Title: Ashok Kapoor Vs. Murtu Devi Page-1312

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order XLVII- Review petitioners claimed that the original petitioner was not sponsored by the employment exchange nor was he entitled to the grant of temporary status- he was not entitled to regularization and was a casual worker- the grounds taken in the Review Petition show that petitioners have filed an appeal and not a Review Petition – there was no error on the face of the record- petition dismissed.

Title: Union of India & others Vs. Paras Ram (D.B.) Page-1397

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 2 (wa)- Victim is a person who has suffered any loss or injury on account of an act or omission with which accused persons have been charged- petitioner claimed that he had set the criminal law in motion and, therefore, he falls within the definition of victim- complainant had made a complaint on the basis of which an inquiry was conducted but FIR was not lodged– complainant has enmity with accused and, the possibility of filing complaint to wreak-vengeance cannot be ruled out- when the prosecution lodged an FIR on the basis of complaint, it is only the State which can prefer an appeal and not the complainant or informant who is not a victim.

Title: S.M. Katwal Vs. Virbhadra Singh and others Page-486

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 378- Accused was found sitting in the Volvo Bus on seat No. 30- he got perplexed on seeing the police- conductor disclosed that luggage of the accused was inside the dickey and was marked with chalk - one bag bearing Mark seat No. 30 was taken out and during the search 190 grams of charas was recovered – accused was acquitted by the Trial Court- an application was filed seeking leave to appeal against the order passed by trial Court- independent witnesses had turned hostile- merely because, prosecution witnesses corroborated each other and link evidence was established is not sufficient when the bag was not produced before the Court- Trial Court had appreciated the facts properly- hence, leave to appeal refused.

Title: State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Mizuta Natsuhiro (D.B.) Page-59

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 401- Compromise was entered between the parties- in view of compromise revisionist ordered to pay amount of Rs. 50,000/- as full and final settlement and the sentence of imprisonment imposed by trial Court as affirmed by appellate Court set aside.

Title: Balwant Singh Vs. Sheela Devi & another Page-1330

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 401- Counsel submitted that in view of compromise executed between the parties, revisionist does not want to continue with the present petition - hence, in view of statement; Revision Petition dismissed as withdrawn.

Title: Vikram Verma vs. Manju Verma Page-423

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- An FIR was lodged against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 341, 504, 506 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- petitioner had joined investigation- no recovery is to be effected from the petitioner- petitioner being female is entitled to special provision of bail - therefore, bail granted to the petitioner.

Title: Dr. Devkanya wife of Sh. Rahul Lodhta vs. State of H.P. Page-1331

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 430, 504 and 506 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- Courts are under an obligation to maintain balance between human rights and a criminal cases- considering that investigation is complete and no recovery is to be effected from the accused, bail granted to the accused.

Title: Kameshwar son of late Sh. Parma Ram Vs. State of H.P. Page-105

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Section 11(D) of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act and Section 8 of Prohibition of H.P. Cow Slaughter Act- co-accused are yet to be arrested- cruelty to animal is a heinous offence- Courts are under legal obligation to protect the lives of animals because animals cannot protect themselves- investigation is at initial stage and it would not be expedient to release the petitioner on anticipatory bail- application dismissed.
Title: Ateek Ahmed son of Shaeed Ahmed Vs. State of H.P. Page-93

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 420, 465 and 471 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- police had not claimed that custodial interrogation is necessary in the present case- interests of the State or general public will not be affected by keeping the accused inside the jail- therefore, bail granted.
Title: Gopal Chauhan vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-120

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 420, 465 and 471 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- police had not claimed that custodial interrogation is necessary in the present case- interests of the State or general public will not be affected by keeping the accused inside the jail- therefore, bail granted.
Title: Surinder Singh son of Darshan Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh
Page-164

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 420, 468, 471 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- if anticipatory bail is allowed, interests of the State and general public will not be adversely affected- petitioner had cooperated with the police, therefore, bail application allowed and the petitioner ordered to be released on bail.
Title: Mool Chand son of Shri Tulle Ram Vs. State of H.P. Page-905

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commissions of offences punishable under Sections 341, 323, 395, 367, 147, 148, 149, 120-B IPC- petitioner pleaded that he is a student and his career would be spoiled in case he is not permitted to appear in the last semester of final examination- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- release of the petitioner will not affect the investigation adversely- bail granted.

Title: Nishant Sharma son of Sh. Desh Raj Sharma Vs. State of H.P. Page-107

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 376(D) and 506 of IPC- it was pleaded that challan has been filed before the Court- statement of eye-witnesses have been recorded and the disposal of the case will take some time- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behaviour of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- mere fact that petitioner is in judicial custody and there will be delay in the conclusion of the trial is not sufficient to grant bail- petitioner is facing trial of heinous and grave offence of gang rape – release of the petitioner on bail would affect the trial adversely- bail declined but direction issued to trial Court to dispose of the case expeditiously.

Title: Rakesh Kumar son of Shri Sohan Lal Vs. State of H.P. Page-328

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 366, 376, 354, 506 and 511 read with Section 34 of IPC- it is pleaded that trial will take a long time- prosecution witnesses did not support the prosecution version- original culprits were not apprehended and the petitioners were falsely implicated- held, that contradictions in the statements of the witnesses will be seen by the trial Court at the time of disposal of the case - merely because, there will be delay in the conclusion of trial is no ground for granting bail- petitioner is facing trial for heinous offence of sexual assault, such offences are increasing – every woman has a right to reside in the society with honour and dignity- releasing the petitioner on bail will affect the trial adversely- hence, bail declined but direction issued to the trial Court to conclude the trial expeditiously.

Title: Ravi Kumar @ Chimnu son of Sh. Waryam Singh Vs. State of H.P. Page-330

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioners for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 323, 354, 364, 436, 452 and 506 IPC- held that in case a person is suspected of a crime of an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life, there must be ground to negate the existence of reasonable grounds for believing that such a person is guilty of an offence punishable with sentence of death or imprisonment for life - Court must record reasons for prima facie concluding as to how bail was granted- the heinous nature of the crime warrants more caution and there is a greater chance of rejection of bail- mere fact that accused surrendered themselves will not entitle them to bail- investigation is at initial stage- many accused are yet to be arrested- release at this stage would be a serious threat to the peace and tranquility as well as threat to the safety of the complainant and her family members- release at this stage will also affect the investigation- application dismissed.

Title: Nikhil Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-442

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 307 and 323 read with Section 34 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- in the present case, challan has already been filed in the Court, investigation is complete and no recovery is to be effected from the petitioner- trial of the case will be concluded in due course of time, therefore, petition allowed.

Title: Pankaj Sharma son of Dina Nath Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-550

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 307 and 323 read with Section 34 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- in the present case, challan has already been filed in the Court, investigation is complete and no recovery is to be effected from the petitioner- trial of the case will be concluded in due course of time, therefore, petition allowed.

Title: Rakesh Kumar son of Gola Ram Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-553

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- Petitioner was arrested for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 457 and 380 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- investigation is complete and challan has been filed in the Court- criminal cases would be disposed of in course of the time – interests of the general public or State would not be affected by releasing the petitioner on bail, therefore, petitioner ordered to be release on bail.

Title: Sandeep Singh son of Jagdish Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page- 149

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439 - Petitioner was arrested for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 457 and 380 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- investigation is complete and challan has been filed in the Court- criminal cases would be disposed of in course of the time – interests of the general public or State would not be affected by releasing the petitioner on bail, therefore, petitioner ordered to be release on bail.

Title: Jatinder Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-122

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- Petitioner was arrested for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 457 and 380 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- investigation is complete and challan has been filed in the Court- criminal cases would be disposed of in course of the time – interests of the general public or State would not be affected by releasing the petitioner on bail, therefore, petitioner ordered to be release on bail.
Title: Malkiyat Singh son of Chiman Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-125

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 468- An offence punishable under Section 323 of IPC is punishable with imprisonment for a period of one year- FIR was registered on 01.06.2008 and final report was presented on 4.1.2010 beyond the period of limitation- held, that charge-sheet presented against the petitioner was time barred.
Title: Amar Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-1358

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Cancellation report has been filed before the trial Court, therefore, the petition dismissed as infructuous- however, petitioners will be at liberty to file fresh petition on the same cause of action.
Title: Karan Laroiya & another Vs. State of H.P. & others Page-1363

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Husband was directed to pay monthly maintenance @ Rs.4,000/- to wife and minor child and to provide one room in the shared household – husband contended that accommodation belongs to his mother and will not fall in the definition of shared household- he is ready to hire a separate accommodation for the wife and the child- held, that wife does not have a right to reside in a particular property – she only has a right in the property of her husband - husband had failed to prove that house belongs exclusively to his mother- it has come on record that he along with his mother had taken a loan for building and he was repaying the loan – therefore, his contention that house is not shared household cannot be accepted- petition dismissed.
Title: Sandeep Gupta Vs. Indu Gupta Page-556

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Matter was compromised before Lok Adalat- petitioner claimed that he had never authorized Advocate to appear before Lok Adalat or to make any statement on his behalf- held, that the proceedings before Lok Adalat cannot be challenged before the High court by filing a petition- statement of facts as to what transpired in the hearing is conclusive regarding the facts so recorded in the judgment and no one can contradict such statement by filing affidavit or by leading evidence- further, petitioner had not placed any material to show that he had taken action against either of the counsel- therefore, in these circumstances, petition dismissed.
Title: Rajan Chopra Vs. Uttam Chand Page-453

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition against the anticipatory bail order passed by Sessions Judge, Shimla- Additional Advocate General submitted that he has no objection in case the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in para-5 of the order is deleted and the word 'India' is ordered to be incorporated- therefore, the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in the order be deleted and word 'India' be incorporated.
Title: Kamal Deep Bhardwaj Vs. State of H.P. Page- 230

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition against the anticipatory bail order passed by Sessions Judge, Shimla- Additional Advocate General submitted that he has no objection in case the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in para-5 of the order is deleted and the word 'India' is ordered to be incorporated- therefore, the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in the order be deleted and word 'India' be incorporated.

Title: Amarjeet Singh Vs. State of H.P Page-218

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition against the anticipatory bail order passed by Sessions Judge, Shimla- Additional Advocate General submitted that he has no objection in case the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in para-5 of the order is deleted and the word 'India' is ordered to be incorporated- therefore, the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in the order be deleted and word 'India' be incorporated.

Title: Inderpal Singh Vs. State of H.P Page-229

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition against the anticipatory bail order passed by Sessions Judge, Shimla- Additional Advocate General submitted that he has no objection in case the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in para-5 of the order is deleted and the word 'India' is ordered to be incorporated- therefore, the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in the order be deleted and word 'India' be incorporated.

Title: Shashi Kant Vs. State of H.P. Page- 250

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition against the anticipatory bail order passed by Sessions Judge, Shimla- Additional Advocate General submitted that he has no objection in case the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in para-5 of the order is deleted and the word 'India' is ordered to be incorporated- therefore, the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in the order be deleted and word 'India' be incorporated.

Title: Himesh Sharma Vs. State of H.P Page-229

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition for quashing the FIR registered against him- respondent contended that final report has been presented before the Court; therefore, petition is not maintainable- petitioner contended that the dispute is essentially of a civil nature and is given a cloak of a criminal case, therefore, Court has jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceedings- held, that complaint can be quashed where a dispute is predominately of a civil nature and not when the allegation against the petitioner constitutes a criminal offence - these principles cannot be made applicable when a prima facie case is made out against the petitioner, which has culminated into a charge-sheet- only the Court where the charge-sheet has been filed should be left to deal with the same- petition dismissed.

Title: Lashkari Ram Vs. State of H.P. & anr. Page-250

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition seeking quashing of FIR as well as order passed by JMIC, Kasauli and Sessions Judge, Solan- it was alleged that respondent No. 2 had sold 11,170 apple boxes to respondent No. 3- respondent No. 3 had paid amount of Rs. 20 lacs and remaining amount was not paid- 11,170 apple boxes were stored in the cold store owned by petitioner No. 1- held, that respondent No. 3, purchaser of the goods, had acquired title from respondent No. 2- mere non-payment of part of sale consideration cannot constitute an entrustment- thus, no offence punishable under Section 406 of IPC was made out against the respondent No. 3 or respondent No. 1- further, petitioner was not liable to pay the sale consideration and it cannot be held liable for the non- payment of the sale consideration- accordingly, FIR ordered to be quashed- however, the order regarding the sale of the apples cannot be challenged on behalf of petitioner No. 1 who is merely a bailee.

Title: Uma Akash Agro Pvt. Ltd. and others Vs. State of H.P. and others Page-90

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioners sought quashing of FIR on the ground that private complaint was filed before Sub Divisional Judicial Magistrate Aanadpur Sahib in which all the accused were acquitted- wife had left matrimonial home in the month of May, 2003 and FIR was lodged after more than 10 years- no specific date and time regarding the demand of dowry were given- record showed that ACJM had given liberty to the complainant to file fresh complaint under provision of law before competent Court having jurisdiction and this judgment has attained finality- hence, fresh complaint filed by the complainant pursuant to the direction of the Court cannot be said to be barred by law.

Title: Sanjeev Kumar son of Shri Jagdish Singh Vs. State of H.P. through Principal Secretary (Home) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh Shimla Page-1292

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Reply filed by State showed that cancellation report of FIR stood already filed before the trial Court; hence petitioner withdrew the petition with liberty to file a fresh petition on same cause of action.

Title: Pankaj Sood & another Vs. State of H.P. & others. Page-1348

Companies Act, 1956 - Section 433 (e)- Petitioner claimed that respondent/company was indebted to the petitioner for a Sum of Rs. 12,06,580/- against Bill dated 26.9.2006- service tax on previous bill of Rs. 30,000/- and penalty of Rs.1,50,000/- for backing out of the contract is payable- held, that where the company disputes the claim and the dispute is bona-fide, it cannot be said that company was avoiding its liability- said inference can only be drawn when debt is undisputed or bona-fide or some sham defence is sought to be raised towards the liability -winding up petition is not a legitimate means of seeking to enforce payment of the debt which is bonafide disputed by the Company- balance-sheet shows that Company is financially sound and solvent – respondent has disputed the debt and it cannot be said that there was no bonafide reason for non-payment of the amount- petition dismissed.

Title: Soni Gulati & Co. vs. JHS Svendgaard Laboratories Limited Page-182

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- A letter was received by the High court highlighting the difficulties being faced by blind and deaf students- reply filed by the State shows that there are shortcomings in the implementation of The Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995 - University directed to provide necessary amenities- direction also issued to provide basic facilities required for blind and deaf students in the school and to appoint the requisite number of teachers, to enhance their scholarship, to provide them screen readers, screen magnifiers, speech recognition software, Text-to-speech software, optical character recognition software, large monitors, hand held magnifiers and standalone reading machines.

Title: Court on its own motion Vs. The State of Himachal Pradesh and others (D.B.) (CW PIL No. 30 of 2011) Page-940

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- A letter was received stating there are 17 inmates in the Old Age Home at Basantpur- out of them, four inmates are severely handicapped- it was prayed that these inmates be given disability/rehabilitation pension, a separate rehabilitation centre should be opened by the State for the helpless disabled persons with facility to provide some vocational training and that inmates suffering from mental illness be shifted to the Hospital of Mental Health and Rehabilitation- held, that it is the constitutional duty of the State Government to look after the interests of shelter less, disabled, destitute, mentally retarded person by providing them necessary assistance- old age pension has been denied to two persons on the ground that they are not citizens of India - the policy enacted by the State Government to deny the pension on the ground of domicile is arbitrary and unreasonable- direction issued to the State to open separate home for adult disabled and mentally retarded and to check whether basic amenities are being provided- further direction issued to provide vocational training, disability allowance and to release old age pension.

Title: Ajai Srivastava Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others (D.B.) Page-969

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- A letter was written to the High Court stating that there are 30 adult inmates housed in the State Home for Destitute Women at Mashobra- there is no Sweeper available between 5 p.m. to 10 a.m- there is no nurse to look after the mentally sick persons- there is no boundary wall around the Home- old age pension is not being provided to the inmates and their relatives had not been contacted- held, that it is responsibility of the State to provide necessary succor to the inmates- basic rights of the inmates are required to be protected by the State- inmates cannot be segregated on the basis of their domicile or citizenship- direction issued to provide fencing around the building, to pay disabled/old age pension, to appoint Sweeper, nurse and washerman - efforts be made to contact their nearest relatives.

Title: Court on its own motion Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others (D.B.) (CW PIL No. 02 of 2015) Page-934

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- All India Post Graduate Medical Entrance Examination (AIPGMEE) was conducted from 1.12.2014 to 6.12.2014- admission process was started on the basis of entrance examination - initially it was provided that allotment of the seats will be made in the specified ratio- however, subsequently roster was issued on the basis of method of appointment- petitioner contended that allotment has to be made in accordance with original condition- held, that while filling up the seats for post graduate qualification, the only criterion should be merit – State has created sub groups on the basis of method of appointment – all the medical officers discharge the same duties - once they are permitted to sit in one examination, they are to be treated as the same- the classification within the classification is not permissible and it was also not permissible to change the condition after the publication of the prospectus.

Title: Dr. Vivek Kumar Garg and ors. Vs. State of H.P. & ors. (D.B.) Page-1111

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Appellant was not a party before the Writ Court and had not filed any application seeking leave to appeal- held, that leave can be granted to 3rd party provided it carves out a case to the effect that the judgment is prejudicial to its rights and interests- since no such case was made out therefore, writ Petition dismissed as not maintainable.

Title: Devta Balu Nag Ji Vs. Devta Shring Rishi Ji & others (D.B.) Page-674

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Appellants were appointed as Panchayat Sahayaks- their appointments were quashed and set aside- an advertisement was issued for filling up 9 posts of Panchayat Sahayaks- a communication was sent to Sub Regional Employment Officer, Ex-servicemen Cell, Hamirpur – respondent appeared for interview- a communication was sent by respondent No. 4 to respondent No. 3 requesting him to issue appointment letter- appointments were not given by respondent No. 3- private respondent approached the High Court pleading that suitability of the ex-serviceman was to be adjudged only by Ex-servicemen Cell and thereafter department is to offer appointment letters to the candidates- as per letter dated 17.8.1987 ex-servicemen once interviewed by State Level Selection Committee are not required to be subjected to any future interview for which they have been nominated - once the private respondents are found eligible, they could not have been subjected to further test- they were rightly held entitled for the appointment by the Writ Court.

Title: Ashok Singh and others Vs. Ved Parkash and others (D.B.) Page-929

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Complaints were received in the Court that authorities are not taking action against the person who are violating the directions issued by the Court- trees are being cut on the pretext that permission had been obtained from the authorities to cut the trees- respondent directed to appear before the Court to explain the situation and the respondent commanded to take action strictly as per law.

Title: Court on its own motion Ref:- Ghazala Abdullah Vs. State of H.P. & others (D.B.)

Page-1291

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Departmental proceedings were initiated against the petitioner- disciplinary authority asked the petitioner to explain as to why the proposed penalty be not imposed upon her within seven days from the date of receipt of the order- however, an order of compulsory retirement was passed on the same day- held, that purpose of show cause notice is to enable the delinquent to show as to how the report submitted by the Inquiry Officer is factually incorrect - when the order imposing the penalty and to show cause are passed on the same day, show cause notice is an empty formality to show that principle of natural justice had been complied with - order of compulsory retirement could have been passed after adhering to the principle of natural justice and fair play- authority passing an order must act with an open mind while issuing show cause notice-order of compulsory retirement set aside, however, respondent left at liberty to pass a fresh order after complying with the principle of natural justice.

Title: Anu Rana Vs. Central Bank of India & ors. Page-1103

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Government had framed Himachal Pradesh Vidya Upasak Yojna, 1998 to provide teaching man power in Government Primary Schools located in remote/backward/difficult/tribal areas as regular teachers were not willing to serve in those areas- Vidya Upasaks were to be initially recruited for a period of one year and their services could be extended after evaluating their performances- services of those teachers who had passed a written test and had successfully completed one year's condensed teacher training course specifically prepared for them were to be regularized after a period of five years subject to the condition that they passed 10+2 examination and had qualified written test and interview conducted by H.P. Subordinate Service Selection Board- appointment letters were issued on the basis of combined merit list- services of the candidates were counted from the date of the regular appointment and not from the date of initial appointment- further, they were also not held entitled for pension- petitioners were appointed in the year 2000 and their appointment continued till 2007- their services were to be counted from the date of the initial appointment- pension rules were amended in the year 2003 and their appointment was prior to the amendment- hence, they were wrongly deprived of the pension- petition allowed and their services were ordered to be counted from 2000 for the purpose of pension and annual increments etc.

Title: Joga Singh and others Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others (D.B.)
Page-1023

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Government of India had introduced Voluntary Retirement Scheme for the employees of the public enterprises- scheme was adopted by State Government as well as by HPSIDC- however, scheme was subsequently modified and instead of 1½ months' emoluments for each completed year, one month's emoluments were proposed to be given- the representation was made to the State Government which was rejected without a speaking order- held, that fixation of the date was arbitrary and had no nexus sought to be achieved by retirement scheme- all the employees who were in the service of State Government and Corporation were given the benefit - modified order is quashed and set aside- Corporation directed to grant ex-gratia payment equivalent to 1½ months emoluments as per original scheme.
Title: HPSIDC Employees Union Vs. State of H.P. & anr. Page-466

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- It was stated in the status report dated 25.4.2015 that first milestone would be achieved by June, 2015, subject to the weather conditions- Status report filed before the Court showed that required progress had not been made till filing of the status report- respondents were taking the plea that delay in the execution of the work was due to bad weather- held, that construction technology had improved to such an extent that construction work is being carried out smoothly even in the areas where temperature remains in minus - a committee of two persons appointed to monitor the progress of the work in question- committee members directed to visit the spot fortnightly and to submit the report about the progress of work and also to give suggestions to take work to logical conclusion.
Title: Court on its own motion Vs. State of H.P. and others (D.B.) (CWPIL 8480 of 2014)
Page-879

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- It was stated on behalf of petitioner that Writ Petition was disposed of in terms of reply- counsel for the respondent stated that he has no objection for adopting this course- hence, petition disposed of in terms of para-14 (I to IX) of the reply and respondent directed to do needful within 8 weeks.
Title: Anu Mahindru Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & others (D.B.) Page-454

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Land was allotted to the father of the petitioner No.1- no objection was raised by the respondent to the allotment of the land- however, a Revision Petition was filed which was allowed without a speaking order- a Writ Petition was filed which was allowed and the petitioners were permitted to approach Divisional Commissioner, Mandi who dismissed the application filed by the petitioners- a Revision was filed after 17 years – such revision was not maintainable- authorities had not adverted to the question of delay- hence, petition allowed and the order set aside.
Title: Bachitar Singh & ors. Vs. Divisional Commissioner Mandi & ors. Page-1220

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Names of the petitioners were sponsored by District Employment Officer, Hamirpur, for interview to the post of TGT (Med.) under the quota reserved for wards of ex-servicemen- petitioners were not interviewed on the ground that married daughters were not eligible to get the benefit- held, that son of ex-serviceman was eligible for consideration as the ward of ex-servicemen, even though he is married, however, the daughters were not being considered to be the wards of ex-servicemen- this amounted to discrimination on the basis of sex and is violative of the constitution- it has no nexus with the object sought to be achieved – petition allowed and respondents directed to interview the petitioners for the advertised post.
Title: Jyoti Kumari & ors. Vs. The Secretary Education & anr. Page-436

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner and 1600 workmen were retrenched on 9.2.2004- services of more than 1000 workmen were reinstated but the services of the petitioner were not reinstated- retrenchment order was set aside but the petitioner was not given employment- petitioner raised an industrial dispute but his case was rejected on the ground of delay and was not referred to Industrial Tribunal- held, that relief cannot be denied to workmen on the ground of delay- petitioner is a labourer and should not have been denied the relief simply on the ground of delay.
Title: Vyasa Devi wife of Sh. Shyam Lal Vs. State of H.P. & others Page-734

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner applied for 42 days earned leave, which was sanctioned- he applied for extension of leave and when he came to join his duty he was told that his services had been terminated- he made various representations which were rejected- Municipal Corporation Act provides for giving a reasonable opportunity to the employee to the show cause- petitioner was never served with any show cause notice- petitioner was never told that his leave was not sanctioned - no inquiry was conducted – absence is not misconduct unless it is pleaded or proved that absence was willful- employer had failed to prove that absence was willful, therefore, services of the petitioner were wrongly terminated and the Writ was rightly allowed.
Title: Municipal Corporation, Shimla Vs. Mohinder Singh Malhi and others Page-481

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner claimed that retail outlets are being opened indiscriminately without any regard to distance, volume and growth potential- High Court issued an order that no letter of intent shall be issued without obtaining order from the Court- Government of India issued fresh guidelines stating that existing roster was closed in July, 2012- petitioner contended that order issued by High Court was not complied with in letter and spirit- held, that respondents have complied with major portion of the directions except that the locations already advertised were ordered to be governed as per the old conditions- respondents directed to consider the old cases which are pending at the time of filing of the petition as per new guidelines.
Title: Himachal Pradesh Petroleum Dealers Association vs. Neeraj Mittal and others
Page-740

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner filed a Civil Writ Petition before the High Court which was allowed and a supernumerary post was created- case of the petitioner was considered by the Departmental Promotion Committee and his name was recommended for promotion on notional basis- petitioner claimed that he has not been paid the actual salary though he was ready to work on the higher post- held, that petitioner has been kept away from discharging the duties of the higher post- he was always ready and willing to work on the higher post- thus, petition allowed and the respondent directed to pay salary from the date of promotion till the date of superannuation.

Title: Balbir Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and another (D.B.) Page-1225

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner filed a Writ Petition seeking relief that respondent No. 5 be held to be disqualified from holding the office of MLA and he be restrained from acting as MLA- held, that power under Article 226 is in the widest possible terms but this power cannot be used to set aside the election- election can be set aside only by raising an election dispute and only an Election Tribunal can set aside the election under properly filed election petition under Representation of the People Act- writ petition dismissed as not maintainable.

Title: Ashwani Gupta Vs. State of H.P. and others (D.B.) Page-1210

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner pleaded that more than 50% of the paper was out of syllabus –Registrar, H.P. University submitted a report that some questions were out of syllabus- held, that students should not suffer for the fault of the university- University directed to award marks regarding the questions set out of syllabus to the students.

Title: Kamal Dev Verma son of Sh. R.C. Verma & others Vs. H.P. University & others

Page-275

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner sought a direction to the respondent to issue NOC to the petitioner on the basis of remarks obtained in the All India Post Graduation Medical Entrance Examination 2015- Clause No. 1.9 of the notification is illegal and not applicable to the case of the petitioner- petitioner joined PG courses at Chandigarh- she came to know about her critical pregnancy diagnosed as "HYPEREMESIS GRAVIDARUM"- she was not entitled to any maternity leave - she had no option but to submit her resignation- she requested the respondent to relax the P.G. policy so that she could appear in P.G. examination in future as a sponsored candidate- she applied for no objection certificate but the certificate was not issued in her favour- clause No. 1.9 clearly provided that In-Service Medical Officers who leave the PG/ Diploma course midway shall stand debarred to re-appear in the PG/ Diploma Entrance Examination for next 5 years- held, that provisions relating to admission to PG courses were clear and unambiguous- Court cannot pass any direction to accommodate the petitioner- petitioner had not made any attempt to obtain leave or to withdraw the resignation furnished by her- she made a request to consider her posting in the blood bank at IGMC, Shimla which shows that her condition was not critical - rule cannot be declared unreasonable because it operates harshly in a given case- petition dismissed.

Title: Dr. Lalita Bansal Vs. State of H.P. & ors Page-953

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner sought a writ of certiorari for quashing an order of the cabinet to shift Divisional Office of HPPWD from Balakrupi to Tanda- held, that a decision to shift the office of DFO was a policy decision and the Court will not interfere with the same except where the policy is contrary to Law or Constitution or is arbitrary or irrational - merely because certain section of the public does not approve the decision is no ground to interfere with the same- petition dismissed.

Title: Jagjeevan Singh and another Vs. State of H.P. and another Page-21

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner sought quashing of a letter stating that notification issued under Section 4 of Land Acquisition Act, 1984 stood lapsed and direction be issued to Land Acquisition Collector to initiate the proceedings under the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013- the record showed that there was unreasonable delay on the part of the respondents in finalizing the proceedings under Land Acquisition Act- therefore, respondents cannot take advantage of their wrong to claim that they will proceed under the new Act- provision of Section 6 will not come in to operation till the requirement laid down in part-VII of the Act are fulfilled – respondents had delayed the proceedings instead of promptly paying compensation- petitioner cannot be made to suffer for the default in discharge of statutory duties by the respondents- Writ Petition allowed and the letter issued by respondents quashed.
Title: Seli Hydro Electric Power Company Ltd. Vs. State of H.P. and others (D.B.)
Page-1069

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner sought the transfer of investigation in FIR to CBI or to Delhi- record shows that closure report had been submitted to the Court of competent jurisdiction- interference by High Court will amount to taking over the jurisdiction and powers of the Magistrate- petitioner had filed similar petition before Delhi, High Court which was withdrawn in view of submission of cancellation report- when investigation is complete, it is not permissible to direct the police to conduct further investigation- there can be further investigation but no fresh investigation- second FIR cannot be registered when an FIR had already been registered- petition dismissed.
Title: Raj Pal Singh vs. Central Bureau of Investigation & others (D.B.) Page- 859

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was an employee of BCB - she was declared surplus and was redeployed to the NSSO (FOD)- she claimed grant of higher pay scale with ACP- Government of India had taken a decision in the year 1986-1987 to afford fresh option to Ex-BCB employees but she was not given a chance to exercise the option- respondent stated that she was placed in Punjab Government pay-scale - similarly situated person had approached Central Administrative Tribunal and the judgment passed by the Tribunal was upheld by the High Court as well as by the Apex Court- held, that similarly situated person should be treated similarly irrespective of the fact that only one person had approached the Court- denying the benefits to the person who had not approached the Court is unjustified.
Title: Union of India and others Vs. Tripta Sharma (D.B.) Page- 426

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as a cleaner on daily wages on 1.10.1986- he was subsequently regularized on 6.11.1997- respondents were shown senior – although they were appointed later- held, that seniority list should have been drawn on the basis of length of service- respondents directed to re-draw the seniority list and to promote the petitioner if otherwise found eligible.
Title: Suraj Bahadur Vs. H.P. State Forest Development Corporation Ltd. and ors.
Page-394

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as clerk-cum-typist in Indian Red Cross Society- she claimed regularization of her services- claim was denied by the Labour Court on the ground that Red Cross Society is not a State and the petitioner is not an employee of the State Government- held, that Red Cross Society falls within the definition of State under Article 12 of the Constitution of India- it cannot deny regularization to its employee for 26 years, whereas employees in the State Government are regularized after 7 years – petition allowed and the respondent directed to consider the case of the petitioner for regular appointment.

Title: Seema Mehta Vs. Chairman-cum-Deputy Commissioner and another
Page-236

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as Part Time Water Carrier- her services were terminated- petitioner claimed that no notice was served upon her prior to the termination of her services – respondent stated that date of birth of the petitioner was recorded as 1940 in the family register- therefore, she had attained the age of superannuation even prior to her appointment- when this fact came to the notice of the respondent, petitioner was retired from the services- held, that order retiring the services of the petitioner involved civil consequences, therefore, a notice was required to be served upon the petitioner prior to the passing of the order- since no notice was served upon the petitioner, therefore, petition allowed and the order passed by the respondent set aside.
Title: Shankari Devi Vs. State of H.P. & ors. Page-243

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed on ad hoc basis on a consolidated salary of Rs. 1500/- per month in H.P.U. Model School on 31.5.1997 – a committee recommended creation of regular posts of Headmaster and teachers in the regular pay scale- these recommendations were accepted subject to the approval of Executive Council- petitioners were put in a regular pay scale but the increment was not released to them- held, that petitioners were appointed after completing all the codal formalities – therefore, they should have been granted annual increments from the initial date of appointment - Vice Chancellor had created posts subject to the approval by Executive Council and appointment on such post is valid until set aside- since, appointments were regularized by Executive Council- therefore, the appointees are entitled to annual increment as well as GPF at par with regular employees.
Title: Raj Bala Gaur Vs. H.P. University and others Page-411

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as Lower Division Clerk on contract basis- Department invited application for three posts of Lower Division Clerk for which the petitioner also applied- his case was rejected on the ground that he was over age- when his contract was not renewed, he filed an application before Central Administrative Tribunal which was also dismissed - selected candidates were not arrayed as party- this application was not filed before the High court, therefore, it could not be said as to what plea was taken by the petitioner before the Court-in these circumstances, petition dismissed.
Title: Mohinder Kumar Vs. Union of India and others Page-967

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was debarred from taking part in any activities or proceedings of the Gram Panchayat by the Deputy Commissioner- an appeal was preferred before Divisional Commissioner which was dismissed- held that order passed by Divisional Commissioner is non-speaking one, hence, order passed by him set aside with a direction to pass a reasoned and speaking order.
Title: Dharam Singh Negi Vs. State of H.P. & others (D.B.) Page-181

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was engaged on daily wages basis on muster roll as Beldar - services of 1087 workmen including petitioner were retrenched by respondent No. 3- 43 workmen raised industrial dispute and their services were reinstated – petitioner raised an industrial dispute after this order but his case was rejected and was not referred to Industrial Tribunal on the ground of delay- held, that relief cannot be denied to workmen on the ground of delay- petitioner is a labourer and should not have been denied the relief simply on the ground of delay.

Title: Deepi Devi wife of Sh. Rupia Ram Vs. State of H.P. & others Page-703

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was engaged on daily wages on 22.3.1983- he was regularized as electrician on 1.4.1995- he was re-designated as Technician Grade-I and his pay was fixed at Rs. 4,550/-- he was informed subsequently that Rs. 4,68,300/- was wrongly released to him- his pay was re-fixed as per audit para- held, that it was not permissible for the respondent to recover the amount or to re-fix his pay after a long time - respondent had not taken into consideration the representation filed by the petitioner assailing the combined seniority list- petition allowed and the order re-fixing the salary set aside.

Title: Jagdish Chand Vs. State of H.P. & another Page-408

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was transferred from Corporate Office Shimla to STPL, Patna- the persons who were working for more period than the petitioner were not transferred- wife of the petitioner had undergone renal (kidney) transplant in the year 2000- daughter of the petitioner is studying in 10+2 at Shimla- petitioner has worked only for three years at Shimla and has been transferred while the people working for more than 9-10 years have not been transferred- therefore, petition allowed and the transfer order of the petitioner quashed, liberty granted to the respondent to transfer the person on the basis of length of services at a particular place.

Title: Abhay Shankar Shukla Vs. SJVN Ltd. & ors. (D.B.) Page-1208

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioners are beldars who were placed beyond the parent cadre by way of secondment- it was contended that consent of the petitioners was not obtained prior to their transfer- respondent contended that Statute did not provide for obtaining consent for placement on deputation/secondment/foreign service- Statute did not provide that the consent of the employee need to be taken - willingness of posting beyond the cadre need not be expressly sought and can be implied – where the employees had joined without any reservation they are not entitled for any relief but where employees had approached the Court immediately after the passing of the order, they are entitled to the relief.

Title: Desh Raj Vs. Chaudhary Shrawan Kumar Himachal Pradesh Krishi Vishvavidyalaya (D.B.) Page-944

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioners are pursuing their studies in the St. Bedes College, Shimla- petitioners had obtained 8 marks whereas they were required to obtain 10 marks for obtaining admission in higher classes- a representation was made which was allowed by respondent No. 3 and the internal marks were changed- respondent No. 1 did not accept the recommendation of respondent No. 3- it was contended that there is a specific bar regarding the revision of internal assessment- held, that there is no provision in the statute for the revision/review of internal assessment- therefore, respondent No. 1 had rightly refused to accede to the request of respondent No. 3- petition dismissed.

Title: Tanuja Bhatia Vs. H.P.University and others Page-924

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Respondent No. 6 started work of the widening the road by cutting and excavating the hill rock - it resulted in massive amount of boulders rolling down the hills causing damage to the plants and land of the petitioners- damage assessment report was prepared but compensation was not paid- held, that respondents should have redressed the grievances of the petitioners on their own level and should have paid the compensation- State has vicarious liability to pay compensation for acts of its employees- a person cannot be deprived of the use of his property except in accordance with law- respondent No. 6 directed to pay compensation of Rs.15,00,000/- along with interest @ 9% p.a. from the date of filing of the petition.

Title: Vishan Dass & anr. Vs. State of H.P. & ors. (D.B.) Page-456

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Respondent was working on daily wages basis as Beldar- his services were retrenched- he filed a petition before the Labour Court which was allowed- held, that while retrenching the employee, the principle of last come first go has to be applied- while giving re-employment preference has to be given to the retrenched employee- petitioner was not re-employed but his juniors were re-employed- thus, seniority was rightly granted to the respondent- reference can be made at any time and there is no limitation for making the reference.

Title: State of H.P. through Secretary (IPH) to Govt. of H.P. and another Vs. Raj Kumar son of Shri Jaisi Ram Page-1349

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcements of Security Interest Act, 2002 (SARFAESI Act) – Section 13(4)- Petitioner filed a Writ Petition against an action taken against it in terms of Section 13(4) of SARFAESI Act- petitioner has a remedy of appeal under Section 17 of the Act- held that when an alternative remedy is available, writ petition is not maintainable.
Title: SPS Steels Rolling Mills Ltd.Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & others (D.B.) Page-1387

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Show cause notice was issued to the petitioner asking them to show cause as to why action be not taken for not paying proper VAT on mobile chargers- petitioners have efficacious and alternative remedy under Section 48 of the Act- petitioners have to appear before the authority and to file reply- it would be open for the petitioners to take all the grounds which have been taken before the High Court – a show cause notice cannot be quashed by the Writ Court- hence, Writ Petition dismissed as not maintainable.

Title: Micromax Informatics Ltd. Vs. State of HP and others (D.B.) Page-1334

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act 1985- Section 22- Petitioners sought a direction to the bank to take steps to prevent the petitioner from becoming sick- petitioners had stated that an order was passed by BIFR which was upheld in AAIFR- held that where an inquiry under Section 16 of the Act is pending or where any scheme is under preparation or consideration then all the inquiries and legal proceedings would be suspended- Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act is a special Act and will prevail over the general law, hence, proceedings in the Writ Petition will remain under suspension till pendency of proceedings under Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act.

Title: M/s Sainsons Pulp & Papers Ltd. and another Vs. State Bank of India and others (CWP No. 2805 of 2011) Page-908

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- State Government had granted extension of one year of service to some of the employees- extension was withdrawn subsequently by the State- held, that policy was promulgated by the State Government in exercise of executive powers and the Policy was withdrawn by exercising the same power and authority – it was specifically mentioned in the policy that it was conditional and could be withdrawn at any stage - once employee accepted the extension in terms of policy, he cannot complain, however, it is directed that any adverse remarks will not affect the petitioners and such remarks are expunged.

Title: Lal Chand Prasad Vs. State of H.P. and others (D.B.) Page-440

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- State had not created any post of psychiatric in district hospital- direction issued to the State to create post of psychiatric in all district hospital- to increase rehabilitation grant, to provide protective electric heaters, neat and clean good quality towels and to provide necessary grant for taking cured to their houses.

Title: Court on its own motion Vs. The Principal Secretary (Social Justice & Empowerment) and ors. (D.B.) Page-937

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- State pleaded that it was not in a position to consider the cases of employees for the allotment of Government accommodation as per their entitlement and prayed that government be directed to examine the cases of government servant and to make allotment as per the rule - statement is acceptable to the Counsel for the respondent - accordingly State directed to make allotment as per rules which would be subject to the outcome of the Writ Petition.

Title: State of H.P. through Secretary (GAD) Vs. Purushottam Sharma (D.B.)

Page- 877

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Status report filed regarding the condition of various institutions for Mentally Challenged and Differently-abled Children/Adults established throughout the State- report pointed out many deficiencies- direction issued to remove the deficiencies- further, direction issued to establish one institution for mentally retarded children in cluster of three Districts- direction issued to Municipal Council, Nagar Panchayats and the State to accord "No Objection Certificate" to cut/remove the trees for constructing public utility building by imposing necessary condition.

Title: Court on its own motion Vs. State of H.P. and others (D.B.) Page-973

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- The newspaper reported that the shopkeepers in the lower bazaar had encroached upon the road and as against the time of five minutes, it was taking more than one hour fifteen minutes to cover the distance from one corner of the Lower Bazaar to the another - this news item was treated as a Public Interest Litigation- M.C. Shimla admitted the contents of the news item and stated that shopkeepers re-encroach soon after the removal of the encroachment- Chief Fire Officer also pointed out that it took more than 40 minutes to ply the vehicle from one corner to another, whereas, it should not take more than 6 minutes in any case- fire tenders faced difficulties in reaching at the spot where the fire had broken out due to encroachment made by shopkeepers - held, that shopkeepers did not have any right to encroach upon the public street and the Corporation is duty bound to remove all the encroachments- the Government was bringing out the policy of regularization which increases the encroachment- further, Shimla falls in a high Seismic Zone and it would be improper for the Government to regularize the deviation and to put the life of citizens in danger- therefore, direction issued to remove encroachment, to implement the provisions of law and to remove the illegal projections.

Title: Courts on its own motion Vs. State of H.P. & others (D.B.) Page-569

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 227- It was reported that closure report had been filed before the Magistrate- held, that petitioner should approach the Court of competent jurisdiction for the redressal of his grievances.
Title: Parveena Devi Vs. State of H.P. and others (D.B.) Page- 1035

Contempt of Courts Act, 1971- Section 12 – It was stated that respondent could not have complied with the directions issued by the Court as the directions issued in the judgment are contrary to the judgment delivered in LPA No.105 of 2012- held, that once judgment has been upheld respondents are bound to obey the same or to seek clarification, if necessary- hence, respondents directed to comply with the directions within a period of 6 weeks.
Title: Himachal Pradesh Rajkiya Prathmik Anubandh Adhayapak Sangh Vs. P.C. Dhiman and another (D.B.) Page-1055

'G'

Gramin Dak Sevak (Conduct and Employment) Rules, 2001- Rule 10- Petitioner was involved in indiscipline and forgery- Inquiry was conducted against him- Inquiry Officer found that all the charges were proved – Disciplinary Authority imposed the penalty of the removal – record established that petitioner had forged the signatures of the Head of Village on many occasions- he was involved in indiscipline and had undermined the authorities and had disgraced them - a person who indulges in illegal activities and commits fraudulent or frivolous acts by deceitful means, is to be dealt with iron hands – Writ Court cannot re-appreciate the evidence- considering the gravity of the accusations, the punishment cannot be said to be disproportionate or shocking - Writ petition dismissed.
Title: Roop Chand Vs. Union of India & others (D.B.) Page- 137

'H'

H.P. Holdings (Consolidation and Prevention of Fragmentation) Act, 1971- Section 54 - Consolidation proceedings concluded in the year 1997- a revision petition was filed in the year 2009 after 12 years- Divisional Commissioner ordered rectification in the revenue entries without considering the delay- litigation was also pending before Civil Court in which findings were recorded by Civil Court - such findings are binding on the revenue Court – Divisional Commissioner had upset those findings ignoring the fact that matter was pending before the Civil Court- in these circumstances, order was rightly quashed by the Writ Court.
Title: Jai Singh Vs. State of H.P. and others (D.B.) Page-1057

H.P. Land Revenue Act, 1954- Section 45- Petitioners filed an application before Learned A.C. 2nd Grade stating that they were in possession and their possession be recorded in the revenue record- correction of revenue record was ordered by Learned A.C. 2nd Grade- this order was challenged unsuccessfully before Sub Divisional Collector and Divisional Commissioner - orders were set aside by Financial Commissioner- petitioners claimed that amount of Rs.10,000/- was received by predecessor-in-interest of the respondent and the possession was delivered at the spot- held, that oral sales were not permissible in the year 1980 when amount was paid- sale was effected for more than Rs. 100/- and could have only been made by way of registered document - statement was vague and will not amount to the sale - land had vested in BBMB at the time of making of statement- borrowing of Rs. 10,000/- and putting the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners in possession will not amount to acquiring right or interest.

Title: Harish Chander & others Vs. Financial Commissioner and others Page-10

H.P. Panchayati Raj Act, 1994- Section 113- Election of the petitioner was assailed on the ground that he had not obtained no objection certificate from the office of BDO- his election was set aside- petitioner claimed that the election petition was barred by limitation- this plea was rejected on the ground that same was taken only at the time of argument- provision of limitation is mandatory and there is no provision to condone the delay- Court cannot proceed with the matter if the same is barred by limitation- hardship and injustice are no grounds for extending the period of limitation, therefore, orders passed by the Court below set aside.

Title: Ramesh Kumar Vs. Rajesh Kumar and others (D.B.) Page-636

H.P. Land Revenue Act, 1954- Section 134- A person can apply for delivery of possession within three years from the date of preparation of instrument of partition – if the possession is not delivered within three years, aggrieved person can seek possession on the basis of title before the Civil Court.

Title: Satya Devi widow of late Shri Udho Ram Vs. Hari Chand son of Udho Ram Page-1380

H.P. Land Revenue Act, 1954- Section 135- Plaintiff applied for partition of the land before Assistant Collector 1st Grade- respondent stated that suit land had already been partitioned- this objection was rejected and the land was partitioned- appeal was preferred against the order which was allowed and the case was remanded- meanwhile, settlement operation started in the revenue estate, Una- application was allowed by Tehsildar Settlement Una – appeal was preferred before Settlement Officer, Kangra who allowed the same and directed the parties to approach the Civil Court having jurisdiction in the matter-a civil suit was preferred pleading that land was joint- held, that where the parties had partitioned the land privately without intervention of the revenue officer, any party can apply to a revenue official to record the same- a report was made in rapat roznamcha regarding the partition – this entry was also reflected in the jamabandi- parties were shown in separate possession- this probablises the plea of private partition - it is permissible for the parties to partition a particular piece of land leaving other land joint- merely because the award was accepted by the parties cannot belie the plea of private partition- appeal dismissed.

Title: Amrik Singh and others Vs. Abnash Chand and others Page-881

Himachal Pradesh Nautor Land Rules, 1968- Rules 13 and 14- Petitioner was a government employee at the time of allotment of nautor land- land was granted to him for the construction of cow-shed - he had mentioned his annual income as Rs. 4,800/- from all sources- he had spent a sum of Rs. 80,000/- on the construction of the shops- he was not even resident of estate for which he had applied for the grant of nautor land- he had violated the Rule 7 as he had used the land for the purpose other than for which the land was sanctioned by constructing a shop- his income was Rs. 48,000/- but he had given his income as Rs. 4,800/- p.a. which was more than Rs. 2,000/- prescribed under the Rules- the object of nautor land rules was to help the persons who were landless or were in dire need of land for cultivation- petitioner cannot be called to be a landless or needy personnautor land was allotted in 5,769 cases in the State- Financial Commissioner directed to call for the records in all the cases and to pass the order of resumption/cancellation if the allotment had been made contrary to the provision of Rules – a further direction issued to refund the amount with interest if the land has been acquired.

Title: Narinder Lal Negi Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others (D.B.) Page-1364

Himachal Pradesh Urban Rent Control Act, 1987- Section 14- Landlord sought eviction on the ground that building had become unfit and unsafe for human habitation and the building is required bonafide by landlord for re-construction – landlord had entered into an agreement for reconstruction of the building- there is no requirement of approval or sanction of building plan for seeking eviction- in these circumstances, tenant directed to handover the vacant possession to the landlord- tenant shall have a right to be re-inducted in the premises after re-construction of the building.
Title: Vinod Kumar Vs. Varinder Kumar Sood Page-404

Himachal Pradesh Urban Rent Control Act, 1987- Section 14- Petitioner was held to be in arrears of rent to the extent of Rs. 20 lakh - amount was not deposited by the petitioner within 30 days of the order- held, that Court does not have power to extend time to deposit arrears of rent beyond the period of 30 days.
Title: Vipin Sharma & anr. Vs.Punjab State Electricity Board & anr. Page-205

Himachal Pradesh Urban Rent Control Act, 1987- Section 24(5)- Petitioner claimed that respondent was in arrears of rent, tenant had changed the user of premises and he was causing nuisance by testing and firing the guns in the area- tenant himself stated that he was not carrying the business after the cancellation of his license, therefore, allegation of the landlord that tenant was causing nuisance by firing and testing gun was not acceptable- tenant pleaded that he had a franchisee of respondent No. 2 but he had failed to place on record any document appointing him as a franchisee – witnesses claiming to be employees failed to produce any document like appointment letter, salary slip etc. – record of employees was not furnished to the shop inspector- tenant was no longer residing at Solan and was not carrying the business of arms and ammunition from the premises – he was not paying any salary to the employees of respondent No. 2 nor he was paying any taxes to the authority- held, that in these circumstances, it can be held that tenant had walked out of the premises and had given possession of the property to sub-tenant who is running business of courier service from the premises.
Title: Manbir Singh Vs. Suresh Bansal and others Page-760

Himachal Pradesh Value Added Tax Act, 2005- Section 16(xiii)- Petitioner was paying tax @ 5% on the sale of cell phone chargers and other accessories instead of 13.75%- a show cause notice was issued to it to revise the assessment order- petitioner filed a Writ Petition challenging the show cause notice- held that petitioner has an alternate remedy of filing an appeal under the H.P. VAT Act 2005 -mere illegal or irregular exercise of powers will not make the order without jurisdiction - when an effective remedy is available Court should not entertain the Writ Petition- Writ Petition dismissed for the lack of maintainability.
Title: M/s Samsung India Electronics Pvt. Ltd. Vs. State of H.P. & ors. (D.B.)
Page-1226

Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act 1956- Section 12– An adopted son gets transplanted into adoptive family with the same right as a natural born son, however, he continues to have his share in the coparcenary property of his natural father as he had acquired share in the property at the time of birth and would not be divested by subsequent adoption.

Title: Tripta Devi widow of Shri Jagdish & others Vs. Krishan Chand (died) through LRs. Kadshi Devi and others Page-266

Hindu Marriage Act, 1955- Section 13(1) (ia) (ib)- Wife started residing in the house of her parents- a compromise was effected- husband went to bring her back but she did not return- husband was serving in the army - he suffered a stroke of paralysis but wife did not visit home to care for him- wife claimed that she and her child were forced to reside in her parental home- wife had gone to Hamirpur to get her son educated and had agreed to return to her matrimonial home after the conclusion of examination- she instead went to her parental home - she had not complied with the decision of the Panchayat – she claimed maintenance from the Army Authority- she had not visited her husband even when he had suffered paralytic stroke- all this showed that intention of the wife was to harass her husband- held, that in these circumstances, husband was rightly held entitled for divorce.

Title: Sunita Kumari Vs. Bhumi Chand Page-683

Hindu Succession Act, 1956- Section 15(2)(b)- Plaintiff pleaded that predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff was married to 'G'- she succeeded to the property on the death of 'G'- she settled with one 'H' and plaintiff was born out of the wedlock between 'P' and 'H'- defendants claimed that they are tenants in possession on the payment of 1/4th of the produce and plaintiff has no right in the property- plaintiff admitted that he was not born out of the wedlock of 'P' and 'G' but was born to 'H'- held, that when son or daughter begotten by the deceased female not through her husband, whose property was with her during her but from someone else, such son or daughter has no right to inherit such property- such property shall devolve upon heirs of the husband or father-in-law- hence, plaintiff was not competent to file the suit.

Title: Fate Ram and others Vs. Parvati Page-388

Hindu Succession Act, 1956- Sections 2(2) and 4- Plaintiff filed a Civil Suit pleading that his father was Gaddi and was governed by custom according to which daughters do not inherit the property of their father and the attestation of mutation in favour of the plaintiff and defendants was wrong- held, that any text, rule or interpretation of Hindu Law or any custom or usage immediately before the commencement of the Act shall cease to have effect with respect to which provision is made in the Act- custom providing that the daughters will not inherit the property will be in derogation of the provision of Hindu Succession Act and cannot be recognized- further, such custom will be in violation of Article 15 of the Constitution of India.

Title: Bahadur Vs. Bratiya and others Page-1259

'I'

Indian Contract Act, 1872- Section 70- Plaintiff No. 1 had sold 8 flats in the Valley Side Estate to the defendants together with lease- it was specifically agreed that the seller will not be bound to carry out any repair after one year and alternate arrangement will be made by Flat Owners' Association- plaintiff spent Rs. 26,000,00/- towards the maintenance of common area- held, that no Flat Owners' Association was formed in area and services were rendered by the plaintiff- once the defendants had taken the advantage of the services, they were bound to pay for the same- Article 113 of Limitation Act will be applicable in such a situation - cause of action arose on 20.9.2004 and the suit was filed on 18.1.2006 within limitation- hence, suit decreed.

Title: The Reserve Bank of India and another Vs. M/s A.B.Tools (P) Ltd., and another (D.B.)
Page-1086

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- Evidence of the witnesses cannot be discarded on the ground of relationship.
Title: Ranjodh Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-51

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 35- Birth certificate is issued under Registration of Birth and Death Act- similarly, family register is prepared by the Public Officer in discharge of his official duty- therefore, both these documents are admissible under Section 35 of Indian Evidence Act.
Title: Kuldeep Thakur son of Shri Ludar Chand Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh
Page-470

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 50- Plaintiff was married to the deceased- plaintiff stated that marriage was witnessed by the respectables of the village- PW-3 deposed that marriage of the plaintiff and the deceased was solemnized in accordance with customary rites - statement was corroborated by PW-4 and PW-5- testimonies regarding the marriage can be taken into consideration under Section 50 of Indian Evidence Act – held that it was duly proved that marriage of the plaintiff was solemnized with the deceased as per custom.
Title: Subhash Kumar Vs. Mandra Devi (deceased) through L.R.s Ujjagar Singh and others
Page-198

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 90- Plaintiff claimed the ownership on the basis of sale deed dated 11.1.1962 and 19.3.1965- defendant denied the execution of the sale deed dated 19.3.1965 and pleaded that document was manipulated by predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs who obtained thumb impression on the pretext of getting the land demarcated- it was contended that Court was bound to draw the presumption under Section 90 of the Evidence Act- held, that the power conferred upon the Court is discretionary and the Court is not obliged to draw such presumption- further, mere proof of formal execution of a document does not lead to a presumption that recitals contained therein are also correct- plaintiff has neither pleaded nor proved as to how the consideration was paid, who was the Deed Writer, before whom the document was executed- hand-writing was not proved nor anyone was called from Sub Registrar office, therefore, in these circumstances, trial Court had rightly refused to rely upon the sale deed.
Title: Budhi Singh & another Vs. Ashok Kumar & others Page-531

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 114- Defendant No. 1 did not appear in the witness box and did not offer himself for cross-examination- therefore, the presumption can be drawn that case set up by him was not correct.
Title: Rubi Sood and another Vs. Major (Retd.) Vijay Kumar Sud & others
Page-771

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Sections 3 and 65 (B)- Prosecution relied upon the conversation between the accused and 'K' to prove the acceptance of bribe- held, that before acting upon the electronic record, Court has to consider whether it is genuine or not- technology of preparing CD was not in existence in the year 1989-90 when the bribe was allegedly received by the accused – no evidence was produced to show as to what was the device used for recording the CD- whether such device was technically in order- the name of the person who recorded the conversation was also not mentioned- FSL had raised certain queries which was not answered- there were contradictions in the testimonies of the witnesses- there was no evidence against the accused except CD - therefore, acquittal of the accused in these circumstances was justified.
Title: S.M. Katwal Vs. Virbhadra Singh and others Page-486

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 84- Accused claimed that he had no malice against the deceased- accused was a chronic patient of epilepsy and last attack had occurred one day prior to the date of incident- accused was not in a proper state of mind at the time of incident- held, that absence of motive is no ground to discard the prosecution story and witnesses- mere lack of motive is also not sufficient to establish the unsoundness of mind- medical evidence does not establish the insanity of the accused- version of accused that he suffered from mental disorder was not believable – Doctor admitted that accused had normal behaviour and he was cooperative at the time of examination- hence, his plea of insanity was not established.
Title: Surender Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-689

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 84- Accused contended that he was insane- reliance was placed upon the testimony of DW-1 who deposed that accused was suffering from bipolar affective disorder and he had impaired judgment as he was suffering from psychosis- held, that accused has to prove that he was suffering from legal insanity- the burden is upon him to establish this fact- accused ran away from the spot, which shows that he knew what he was doing was wrong- PW-1 had not noticed any abnormality in the behavior of the accused- held that the plea of insanity taken by the accused not proved.
Title: Jeevan Rana Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-343

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 201 read with Section 34- Accused cremated the deceased without intimating any person- held, that in order to establish Section 201 of IPC, prosecution has to prove that accused had knowledge about the commission of offence and that they had caused disappearance of evidence of commission of criminal offence- two persons were sent to intimate the parents of the deceased about the death- deceased was cremated in presence of co-villagers- in these circumstances, offence punishable under Section 201 read with Section 34 of IPC is not proved against the accused.
Title: State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Kaur Singh son of Utam Singh & others (D.B.)
Page-167

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 302- Accused conspired with co-accused to murder the deceased- deceased was taken to nearby jungle where he was murdered- the accused and deceased were last seen travelling on the motorcycle by independent witness- police official found a motorcycle parked at an isolated place- police went to jungle to find the owner –they heard the ring of mobile phone and noticed the dead body of the deceased- Medical Officer found multiple incised wounds on the vital parts of the body which could have been caused by means of a knife- PW-1 stated that accused went alone on his motorcycle towards the main road, whereas deceased went on foot- prosecution failed to establish that after the accused left the house of the deceased, motorcycle remained in his possession or was being driven by him – police officials admitted that a Nepali had told them about hearing a telephonic ring but Nepali was not interrogated immediately- police had not seized the motorcycle- disclosure statement was not proved - clothes recovered by police were not connected to the accused- Medical Officer found injuries on the person of the accused- held, that in these circumstances, prosecution version was not proved and acquittal of the accused was justified.

Title: Takki Mohd. Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-647

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 302- Accused resided with his wife, mother and sister-in-law in a temporary shed- PW-16, father-in-law of the accused, was asked by PW-7 to call mother of the accused to milk the cattle- temporary shed occupied by the accused was bolted from inside and his daughter refused to open the same -on the second day same reply was received – matter was reported to police and the door was got opened- dead bodies of the parents of the accused were found- accused made a disclosure statement and got darat and scissor recovered- there was contradiction regarding the person who had asked the father-in-law of the accused to leave- further, he had not informed his employer that the door was found locked from the inside – it is difficult to believe that accused, his children, his wife and sister-in-law would have remained inside the room for 48 hours after the commission of crime and would not have run away from the scene of crime- in normal course, the occupants of the house would have come out of the room and would have raised hue and cry- wife of the accused who was present in the room was also not examined- clothes of the accused were recovered but no blood stains were found - blood stains were bound to be present on the clothes if the accused had committed the crime- there was contradiction as to who had informed the police- the motive for killing the parents was not established- held, that these circumstances made prosecution case doubtful- accused acquitted.
Title: State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Om Parkash @ Pappu (D.B.) Page-1390

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 302- An altercation took place in marriage in which accused and the deceased grappled with each other - subsequently at Ner Chowk, accused came near the vehicle in which deceased was sitting and asked him to come down as the accused wanted to have duel with the deceased- accused and the deceased started grappling with each other- accused took out a Khukhari and started stabbing the deceased repeatedly due to which deceased fell down and died at the spot- held, that act of the accused was not premeditated- quarrel had taken place, which resulted in subsequent fight- fight had taken place all of a sudden- accused had a knowledge that his act would result in the death of the deceased- his act falls within the preview of Section 304(II) and not Section 302 of IPC.
Title: Satish Kumar alias Bichhu Vs. State of H.P. (D.B.) Page-840

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 302- Deceased was posted as Assistant. Lineman, in HPSEB- he left home after his duty but did not return- his dead body was found with the injuries on the head in the jungle by PW-1- PW-4 admitted that deceased had consumed alcohol and was unable to walk properly- 316.25 mg % ethyl alcohol was found in the blood sample of the deceased- since, deceased was heavily drunk, therefore, possibility of his fall from a height cannot be ruled out, especially when body was recovered at a distance of more than 100 meters below the path- accused acquitted.
Title: Hema Ram Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-218

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 302 read with Section 34- Deceased left his house to bring some articles but had not returned - his dead body was found by his wife-it was revealed during the investigations that accused had consumed alcohol with the deceased and they had killed the deceased due to animosity- accused 'D' confessed to commission of crime before 'Y'- wife of the deceased and PW-2 admitted that there was no enmity between the deceased and the accused- there was no evidence that deceased was last seen with the accused- extra judicial confession made by the accused that they had sent the deceased 'Upar' (Abode of God) cannot be construed to be an admission of guilt- statement of witness to recovery was not inspiring confidence- deceased was under heavy influence of liquor- Doctor had not ruled out the possibility of sustaining injury by way of fall- held, that in these circumstances, acquittal of the accused was justified.

Title: State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Durgu Ram and another (D.B.) Page-152

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 306 read with Section 34- Deceased solemnized love marriage with accused no. 1- both husband and wife used to quarrel with each other- she wanted to take control of the finances- she and her brother subjected the deceased to cruelty and abetted him to commit suicide- deceased died by jumping into the river- held, that in order to prove the abetment, the intention of the accused to aid or instigate or abet the deceased to commit suicide is necessary- parents of the deceased nowhere deposed that accused wanted to control the finances- colleagues of the deceased stated that salary was remitted directly to the bank- Bank Manager deposed that deceased was operating the account himself and all the benefits of the deceased were released to his mother- no complaint was made by the deceased regarding the cruelty- mere daily quarrels cannot amount to abetment – in these circumstances, acquittal of the accused was justified.

Title: State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Renuka Devi & others (D.B.) Page-158

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 306 read with Section 34- Deceased was married to accused 'K'- accused harassed the deceased for bringing insufficient dowry- she narrated the incident of harassment to her father, step mother, Pardhan and ward member- milk was not provided to her children on which she complained to her father- complainant had provided cow to the deceased two months prior to her death - deceased died and was cremated without intimating any person- held, that there should be nexus between abetment and suicide- no positive, cogent and reliable evidence was led to prove that accused had abetted the deceased to commit suicide- accused acquitted of the commission of offence punishable under Section 306 of IPC.

Title: State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Kaur Singh son of Utam Singh & others (D.B.)
Page-167

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 363- Prosecutrix, aged 14½ years old, did not return from the school- she was persuaded by accused 'K' to go to Rivalsar- she was taken to the house of co-accused 'H'- father of the prosecutrix specifically stated that prosecutrix had gone to school and had not returned - there was no evidence that consent of the father was taken - since prosecutrix was minor, therefore, her consent was immaterial- held, that in these circumstances, accused was rightly held liable for the commission of offence punishable under Section 363 of I.P.C.

Title: Kuldeep Thakur son of Shri Ludar Chand Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh
Page-470

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 376- Prosecutrix, aged 14½ years old, was taken by accused 'K' to go to Rivalsar – she was taken to the house of co-accused 'H' where she was raped – prosecutrix supported the prosecution version – her testimony is trustworthy, reliable and confidence inspiring - same is corroborated by medical evidence- held, that testimony of prosecutrix is sufficient to convict a person if the same is free from blemish.
Title: Kuldeep Thakur son of Shri Ludar Chand Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh
Page-470

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 376(2)(g)- Prosecutrix had stayed with her boyfriend in a hotel- accused 'N' who was manager in the hotel entered into the room where prosecutrix was staying and gagged her mouth- he called co-accused 'V' who took the prosecutrix to adjoining room No. 27 where she was raped – prosecutrix had immediately given an affidavit before the Executive Magistrate stating that she was pressurized by the police officials to file complaint- she was examined medically and no rape was committed upon her- her boyfriend had specifically stated that no rape was committed by accused person- he had also filed an affidavit to this effect- no injuries were detected on her person- case was filed earlier against the prosecutrix under Section 41(2) and 109 Cr.P.C.- all these circumstances create doubt regarding the prosecution version- held, that in these circumstances, accused were wrongly convicted by the Court.
Title: Vijay Kumar @ Tantu son of Sh.Nater Singh vs. State of H.P. (D.B.)
Page-1296

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 395- PW-2 had kept boxes of nose pins and other ornaments in her home- 4-5 persons entered in the room armed with pistols and darat- they searched the almirah and took away the ornaments- mobile phone and chains were also taken away- prosecution witnesses stated that door was opened after some time- it was not believable that door could be opened from inside when it was bolted from outside- in case, door was opened by pushing it, latch would have broken but police had not seized the broken latch- further, prosecution version that accused entered the house when PW-3 used the toilet, cannot be believed- presence of witnesses to the disclosure statement was doubtful- local police was not informed about the recovery nor independent witness was associated at the time of seizure of the mobile phone- independent witnesses ought to have been joined at the time of recovery -further recovery was made from an open place which was not believable - DNA profile matched with one accused but the Medical Officer did not depose that sample was preserved by her- Medical Officer, CH, Sundernagar was not examined to prove preservation of blood sample- it was not believable that door of gold smith could be opened by pushing it inside- held, that these circumstances create doubt regarding prosecution version- accused acquitted.
Title: Azam Vs. State of H.P. (D.B.) Page-65

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 498-A read with Section 34 - Accused 'K' used to harass the deceased for bringing insufficient dowry- she narrated the incident of harassment to her parents as well as Pardhan and ward member- milk was not provided to her children on which she complained to her father- two months prior to her death, complainant provided cow to the deceased- deceased died and was cremated without intimating any person-PW-1 specifically stated that accused used to call the deceased 'Kanjar' (Person leading illicit life)- held, that calling a married woman 'Kanjar' ipso facto amounts to cruelty upon married woman- other prosecution witnesses also deposed that deceased used to complain about the harassment- held that the prosecution had proved its case for the commission of offence punishable under Section 498-A read with Section 34 IPC.

Title: State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Kaur Singh son of Utam Singh & others(D.B.) Page-167

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 109, 147, 148, 149 and 323- A charge was framed against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 109, 147, 148, 149 and 323 of IPC- only petitioner was arrayed as accused and other persons were arrayed as suspects- held, that offence can be committed by an unlawful assembly of 5 or more than five persons - when only one accused has been arrayed before the Court, he cannot be charged for the commission of offence punishable under Section 149.
Title: Amar Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-1358

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 and 120-B – Construction work of IPH Sub Division at Village Gharyana Brahmana, District Hamirpur was allotted to the deceased- deceased had engaged accused as a sub-contractor to execute the electrical fitting and paint work- accused was not carrying out the work to the satisfaction of the deceased and due to the deficiency, payment of the accused was withheld by the deceased- deceased visited the construction site to supervise the work where he expressed his dissatisfaction with the work done by the accused- he also refused to make the payment till the deficiency was removed- accused left the spot - he returned with the co-accused armed with a baseball bat and hit the deceased due to which the deceased became unconscious and died- witnesses duly proved the presence of the accused at the spot- accused made a disclosure statement on the basis of which baseball bat was recovered- keys of the vehicle, clothes and danda were also recovered- medical evidence proved that deceased had died due to the head injury and injury to brain leading to neurogenic shock and death- injury could have been caused by means of baseball bat- held, that in these circumstances, guilt of the accused was duly proved.
Title: Mandeep Vs. State of H.P. (D.B.) Page-604

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 and 201- Accused told that deceased had not returned from Sujanpur- people got suspicious and conducted search of the house of the accused- blood stained bed-sheet, Chadar, Dupatta and a blanket were recovered from an almirah in the house- matter was reported to the police – inquiry was made from the accused – he confessed to the killing of the deceased- accused made a disclosure statement that he had killed his wife and had concealed her body in a septic tank - deceased was recovered from septic tank but she was breathing- she succumbed to her injuries subsequently- a danda was recovered on the basis of disclosure statement made by the accused- blood stained clothes were also recovered from the house of the accused- blood was detected on the shirt and Salwar of the deceased- held, that chain of circumstances were complete and the accused was rightly convicted by the Court.
Title: Ranjodh Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-51

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 and 201 read with Section 34- Deceased had engaged the services of 'B' and other Gorkhas- wife of the deceased told that deceased had not reached his home, although, he had told his mason or labrourers that he was going to his house- a missing report was lodged subsequently- accused got recovered the dead body, a stick, wooden plank with which the dead body was tied and a rope – he also gave Nishandehi of the place where he had killed the deceased- Medical Officer stated that it was not possible to opine about the exact cause of death but the possibility of the head injury could not be ruled out- no material was placed on record to show that there was any dispute regarding the payment- there was discrepancy regarding the person who had recorded the statement of the accused under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act- danda, wooden plank or rope were not sent for analysis to FSL - no entry was made at the time of taking out the case property for production before the Court- held, that in these circumstances, prosecution version was not proved.

Title: Bishan Singh alias Bishnoo Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.)
Page-337

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 and 201 read with Section 34- Marriage of the deceased was settled with the daughter of co-accused 'N'- deceased had given Rs. 50,000/- to 'N' as marriage consideration amount- the daughter of 'N' stayed with deceased at Kullu-Manali for about 10-12 days – 'N' brought back his daughter from Manali and got her married somewhere else- deceased use to demand money from 'N'- accused use to quarrel with deceased- deceased went to the house of 'N' for demanding money but did not return- his dead body was found in the water of a dam – accused were arrested- clothes and stick were recovered at their instance- Medical Officer opined that deceased could have died by infliction of injury with a stick- case of the prosecution is based upon circumstantial evidence- dead body was found in a dam and the possibility of the involvement of 3rd person could not be ruled out- co-accused had sustained injuries which were not explained by the prosecution, which means that prosecution has concealed the genesis of the incident- witnesses to the disclosure statement did not support the prosecution version- blood group of the blood detected on the clothes was not determined and, therefore, it is not sufficient to connect the accused with the commission of crime- suspicion howsoever strong cannot take place of proof – held, that in these circumstances, acquittal of the accused was justified.
Title: State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Nomu Ram and others (D.B.) Page-277

Indian Penal code, 1860- Sections 302 and 323 read with Section 34- Complainant was thrashing the paddy in his courtyard- houses of the deceased and accused are adjoining to each other- there was a passage between the houses- accused had stacked Bajri on the passage due to which the walls of the house of the complainant were damaged as a result of dampness- complainant asked the accused to remove Bajri but the accused started quarreling with the complainant- accused also assaulted the deceased and 'B'- matter was reported to the police, when the complainant party returned home from the police station, they found that deceased had died- record showed that complainant was asking the accused to remove Bajri immediately at 10:00 P.M, which led to a sudden fight- therefore, case would fall under Exception (4) of Section 300 of IPC- prosecution had also not explained the injury received by the accused- role of accused 'K' and 'N' was not established- appeal partly allowed.
Title: Kashmir Singh and others Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-961

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 and 376- Accused attempted to rape the deceased- deceased resisted on which accused gave a blow on the head of the deceased with a stone- he met 'D' and told him that he had murdered a woman and needed money to run away- 'D' told the contractor regarding the murder who advised 'D' to take the accused to Pradhan- accused made extra judicial confession before Pradhan- Pradhan informed the police on which FIR was registered- Pradhan improved his version in the Court making his statement doubtful- there were contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses- making of extra judicial confession to a person who is not known to the accused is highly improbable – further name of the victim was not mentioned in the extra-judicial confession- extra-judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence- extra-judicial confession was not corroborated and was lacking in detailed particulars –held, that in these circumstances, acquittal of the accused was justified.

Title: Govinda alias Rahul vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-2

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 and 498-A- Deceased was married to the accused- accused was not satisfied with the dowry given to her- deceased told her parents and her sister that she was being harassed for not bringing sufficient dowry- she gave birth to a daughter but nobody came to see her and her daughter- deceased came back after compromise to her matrimonial home- she was again harassed by accused- she died due to beatings given to her with fist and kick blows - she was carrying pregnancy of 34-36 weeks- post mortem revealed that she had died due to fracture and dislocation of cervical vertebrae- dead body was found at a distance of 200 meters from the house of the accused- accused had not lodged any missing report and had not made any inquiry about his wife- Doctor admitted that fracture and dislocation of cervical vertebrae could be caused by twisting neck with great force with hands- accused had also sustained injuries- accused had made an extra-judicial confession stating that he had given beatings to the deceased- held, that act of the accused fell within the definition of cruelty- relation between accused and deceased did not improve even after convening the panchayat – accused was rightly convicted of the commission of offences punishable under Sections 302 and 498-A of IPC.
Title: Sarla Devi Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-395

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302, 323, 324, 201, 452 and 506 (II)- Accused gave beatings to his sister who took refuge in the house of his neighbour – accused went to the house of the neighbour and again gave beating to her when another neighbour 'S' tried to intervene - she was also beaten by the accused- accused gave beatings to 'R' and 'K'- accused poured kerosene upon them and set them on fire- testimonies of the witnesses were corroborated by medical officer who stated that deceased had died due to shock caused as a result of 100% burn injuries- held that the accused was rightly convicted.
Title: Surender Singh Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-689

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302, 323, 324, 427 and 201- Accused and the deceased went to attend the marriage where accused and deceased had a scuffle – injuries were caused to the deceased with sharp edged weapon- accused pelted stone on the car and damaged window panes- injured was brought to the Civil Hospital where he was declared brought dead- PW-1 specifically stated that when they had placed injured in the car and were taking him to the Hospital, accused did not allow him to take the deceased to the Hospital and they pelted stones on the car- this was corroborated by other witnesses- mere fact that accused had been acquitted of the commission of other offences is no ground to acquit them- related witnesses cannot be called to be interested witnesses- minor contradictions in the testimonies are not sufficient to discredit, the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses when they are examined after considerable lapse of time.
Title: Dharam Pal and another Vs. State of H.P. (D.B.) Page-1240

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302, 364 and 201- PW-1 and PW-4 were staying at Mehatpur- they had two daughters and one son- accused claimed to be putative father of the son- he took away the girls on 3.8.2009- PW-1 brought the matter to the notice of the police- investigation revealed that accused had thrown his daughters in a water canal- dead bodies were recovered- parents had duly identified the girls- accused made a disclosure statement and identified the place from where the girls were thrown in the canal- chappals were recovered which were identified by the parents- it was duly proved that accused had taken away the girls without the consent of the parents- Medical Officer specifically stated that girls had died due to drowning- recovery of chappals pursuant to the disclosure statement was duly proved- all the circumstances led to the guilt of the accused- held, that accused was rightly convicted.

Title: Birbal Vs. State of H.P. (D.B.) Page-1411

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 304-II and 506-I read with Section 34- Complainant party wanted the accused to remove the obstruction caused on the passage commonly used by the villagers - accused failed to remove such obstruction - when she tried to remove the obstruction, accused pelted the stones- one stone hit 'V' who sustained injuries- he was taken to PGI where he succumbed to the injuries- Medical Officer opined that there was fracture of skull and death was caused on account of shock caused due to extra dural haemorrhage - presence of the deceased was duly proved by the complainant party- testimonies of the witnesses corroborated each other- it was duly proved that accused had hurled abuses and had proclaimed to settle the matter – they caused injuries to the complainant party- all the accused were together and shared their common intention- held that conviction of the accused was justified.

Title: Nand Lal and others Vs. State of H.P. Page-127

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 341, 506 and 376- Prosecutrix was going to her home- accused met her on the road and raped her- incident was narrated by her to her parents who reported the matter to Pardhan- Pardhan called accused and his parents- his father and brother came and expressed their regrets- even if it is assumed that accused and prosecutrix knew each other and were in love with each other that would not give a licence to the accused to sexually assault the victim- testimony of prosecutrix is sufficient to convict the accused if it inspires confidence- matter was reported to the police promptly- mere fact that victim did not resist due to fear cannot lead to the conclusion of consent.

Title: Sudesh Kumar Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-675

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 363, 366, 376 and 120-B- Accused kidnapped the prosecutrix with an intention to force her to marry the co-accused 'B'- accused 'H' told the father of the minor prosecutrix to send her to tailoring centre- accused 'H' took the prosecutrix towards the bridge where she was pushed inside the car- accused 'H' caught the prosecutrix and threatened to kill her- minor prosecutrix was brought to the Court and her age was wrongly disclosed- the documents relating to her marriage with accused 'B' were prepared – she was kept in the house where she was raped – testimony of the prosecutrix is trustworthy, reliable and inspires confidence- it is corroborated by the medical evidence- the age of the prosecutrix was proved to be less than 16 in the certificate issued by Registrar of Birth and Death and Middle standard examination certificate- father of the prosecutrix had specifically mentioned that age of the prosecutrix was 15 years- accused 'H' had called the prosecutrix from her home and had dragged her in the vehicle- father of the prosecutrix had not consented to taking away of the prosecutrix- therefore, accused were rightly convicted- appeal dismissed.

Title: Babu Ram son of Mushu Ram vs. State of Himachal Pradesh Page-559

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 364, 302, 201 read with Section 34- Section 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989- PW-1 informed the police that accused had kidnapped her husband after beating him- search was made to locate her husband but he could not be found- the slippers of her husband were found on the next day near the house of the accused- accused had enmity with the deceased as deceased had purchased the land which accused intended to purchase – accused had beaten the complainant and her son- accused 'A' was arrested and he made a disclosure statement on which body parts of the deceased and darat were recovered- PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 had not made any efforts to search the deceased, even though they were accompanied by many persons- PW-33 admitted the overwriting on the disclosure statement- motive for the commission of crime was not established and no material was brought by the prosecution on record to show that deceased was killed simply because he happened to be member of scheduled caste category- Medical Officer stated that cause of death could not ascertained due to advance decomposition of the body- witnesses were closely related to each other and their statements did not inspire confidence- held, that in these circumstances, prosecution version was not proved- accused acquitted.
Title: Ruchi Kant and others Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-1039

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 376 and 506- Prosecutrix was found to be pregnant- she disclosed that her pregnancy was due to forcible sexual intercourse by accused within a period of 1 years- a panchayat was convened in which compromise was effected - however, mother of the prosecutrix filed a complaint against the accused before Panchayat which was forwarded to the police where FIR was registered- prosecutrix made improvement in her statement while appearing in the Court- there are variations in her statement recorded on 11.7.2012 and 12.7.2012 under Section 161 of Cr.P.C and the statement made in the Court- it was admitted that prosecutrix and her family members went to the Clinic in the vehicle of the accused after the incident was disclosed by the prosecutrix – family members would have never boarded the vehicle if the incident was narrated by the prosecutrix- witness of the compromise turned hostile- prosecutrix stated that she was raped in the house- it was not believable that accused would have raped the prosecutrix in the house in the presence of all the members of the family- version of the prosecutrix did not inspire confidence- accused acquitted.
Title: Mast Ram Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-1027

Indian Succession Act, 1925- Section 63- Plaintiff claimed that no Will was executed by her husband during his life time and the Will propounded by the defendant is invalid, inoperative and ineffective qua the rights of the plaintiff- wife and mother of the deceased were alive at the time of execution of the Will, however, no reference was made to them in the Will- there is no evidence to suggest that deceased did not have a cordial relation with his mother and wife, therefore, it is highly improbable that a person executing a Will in favour of third person, will not make a reference to his wife and mother at the time of execution of the Will- deprivation of the natural heirs is not a suspicious circumstance but in view of non-mentioning of the legal representative of the deceased, the Will is required to be seen with care and caution- propounder is required to prove that there was some reason for leaving aside his aged mother and wife- propounder had failed to prove that he attended to the deceased at the time of his illness and was with him in the hospital- mere registration of the Will does not dispense with the statutory requirement of proving the Will in accordance with law- where there are some suspicious circumstances, burden is upon the propounder to prove the due execution of the Will.
Title: Subhash Kumar Vs. Mandra Devi (deceased) through L.R.s Ujjagar Singh and others Page-198

Indian Succession Act, 1925- Section 63- Plaintiff claimed that she is owner in possession of suit land on the basis of Will executed by the deceased- deceased had consumed poison- plaintiff admitted in her cross-examination that Doctor had refused to treat the petitioner, according to him, deceased had consumed strong poison- deceased had died at about 3-4 a.m.- witnesses of the Will admitted that the Will was written when the sun was rising- Sun rose at about 6:00 A.M- one witness stated that Will was scribed at the instance of one 'K'- this casts doubt about the execution of the Will- deceased was under the influence of strong poison and could not be in a sound disposing mind- no marginal witness was associated from the vicinity- propounder and her husband had actively participated in the execution of the Will which casts doubt regarding the genesis of the Will.

Title: Parmeshwari Devi Vs. Kamlesh Devi and another Page-369

Indian Succession Act, 1925- Section 63- Plaintiff claimed to be a successor on the basis of registered will- he claimed that administrator had wrongly resumed the property in favour of State without affording any opportunity of hearing to the plaintiff- defendant claimed that bidder had not raised construction within two years- thus, he had violated the condition of the auction- general notice was published in the weekly gazette requiring all the bidders to complete the construction after getting the plans approved from the respondent- order was passed in exercise of power under H.P. New Mandi Townships (Development and Regulation) Act, 1973- a plot was purchased in the year 1940 and the provisions of the act were not in operation, therefore, plot could not be resumed under provision of the Act.

Title: Pradeep Kumar Vs. State of H.P. & others Page-1124

Indian Succession Act, 1925- Section 63- Will was stated to have been executed by 'D', aged more than 78 years old- it was proved on record that the contents of the Will were read over and explained to 'D' who put her thumb impression on the same- marginal witness had signed the Will thereafter- merely because the marginal witness had used different ink will not make the Will suspicious- mere non-registration of the Will is not sufficient to doubt the same.

Title: Dhameshwar Vs. Gish Pati and others Page-737

Industrial Disputes Act, 1947- Section 25- Employer contended that workman had not completed 240 days in the preceding 12 months, however, no such plea was taken before the Writ Court- it was further contended that project had come to an end and there is no work, however, Labour Court had specifically found that management was having the work- no material was placed on record to controvert this finding - workman was terminated without any cause and the order was in breach of the principles of natural justice.

Title: The Director, Telecom Project-II Vs. Neelam Chadha and another (D.B.)

Page-731

'L'

Land Acquisition Act, 1894- Section 18- One of the petitioners had died during the Reference Petition before the trial Court- this fact was not brought to the notice of trial Court- held, that when the award was passed in ignorance of death of the sole petitioner, award has to be set aside - in case of more than one petitioner, death of one of the petitioners does not make the award a nullity and the legal representatives can be brought on record in appeal.

Title: General Manager, Northern Railway vs. Ramesh Chand and others Page-102

Limitation Act, 1963- Article 65- Petitioner claimed ownership as well as adverse possession- held, that both these pleas were contradictory to each other - mere long possession is not equal to adverse possession - Court has to be circumspect while adjudicating the plea of adverse possession in case of an encroacher, illegal occupant or land grabber of public property - petitioner had not mentioned the date from which his possession became adverse- hence, his plea of adverse possession was not acceptable.
Title: Manoj Singh Vs. Union of India & ors. (D.B.) Page-706

Limitation Act, 1963- Article 65- Plaintiff claimed to be a non-occupancy tenant –he also claimed to have become owner by way of adverse possession- held, that pleas taken by the plaintiff were contradictory - plaintiff had not specified the date of commencement of his possession with necessary animus – hence his plea of becoming owner by operation of law was not acceptable.
Title: Sunehru Devi (Now deceased) through LRs and others Vs. Pohlo Ram and another
Page-668

Limitation Act, 1963 - Section 5- Petitioner claiming himself to be a victim filed an appeal against the judgment of acquittal- appeal is barred by limitation- an application for condonation of delay was filed pleading that petitioner came to know about the judgment from the newspaper- State had not preferred any appeal against the acquittal and, therefore, petitioner had to file the appeal- explanation furnished by the petitioner is vague, cryptic and highly unbelievable – petitioner was present in the Court when judgment was announced- acquittal gained wide publicity on the next day and therefore, petitioner would come to know about the judgment, hence, application is liable to be dismissed.
Title: S.M. Katwal Vs. Virbhadra Singh and others Page-486

'M'

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 147- The cover note recorded the date of issue as 21.1.2005 but the effective date of commencement of insurance was recorded as 22.1.2005- accident had taken place on 21.1.2005 at about 3:45 P.M- Insurance Company had never questioned the cover note till the date of accident – held that the date of commencement mentioned in the cover note is the date from which insurer is liable- policy document is to be construed strictly- since insurer was liable only from 22.1.2005, therefore, he is not liable for the accident which had taken place on 21.1.2005.
Title: Partap Singh Bhagnal Vs. Ramkali & others Page-995

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 147- Tractor was insured with trolley and additional premium was paid- tractor of the trolley was being used for agriculture purposes- therefore, insurer was wrongly discharged by MACT.
Title: Rattan Singh and others Vs. Dodi Devi and others Page-1179

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- 24 persons died and 40 persons were injured in a motor vehicle accident- 25 claim petitions were filed- seating capacity of vehicle was 42+2- Insurer has to satisfy the award to the extent of risk cover- if the claim petitions are more than the risk covered, then it is for the insured to satisfy the same.
Title: Oriental Insurance Company Vs. Indiro & others Page-1149

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- A cover note showed that vehicle was insured at the time of accident- insurer had failed to prove that owner had committed any breach or the driver of the offending vehicle did not have a valid and effective license at the time of accident- held, that Insurance Company was rightly held liable to pay compensation.
Title: Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Sharda Devi & others Page-829

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Accident had taken place on 12.7.2004- license expired in the month of February, 2002 and it was renewed w.e.f. 24.11.2004-driver did not have a valid driving license w.e.f. 1.2.2002 till 24.11.2004 – owner had committed willful breach of the terms and conditions of the policy by employing a driver having no valid driving license- therefore, insured was rightly held liable to pay compensation.
Title: Sucha Singh Vs. Ritesh Kumar & another Page-1182

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Claimants had specifically pleaded that driver of the vehicle had given lift to the deceased- owner stated in the reply that deceased was travelling in the vehicle in the capacity of a labourer – driver stated that deceased was travelling in the vehicle as owner of goods- held that in these circumstances, plea of insurance company that the deceased was a gratuitous passenger has to be accepted as correct - owner had committed willful breach of the terms and conditions of the policy and he was rightly saddled with liability.
Title: Gumti Devi Vs. Pushpa Devi and others Page-1141

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Driver had a learner licence- held, that a person holding a learner licence is competent to drive motor vehicle for which the licence has been issued.
Title: New India Assurance Company Ltd.Vs. Kamla Devi & others Page-820

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Driver possessed a valid driving licence to drive the vehicle at the time of accident – insurer was not able to show as to how driver did not have a valid and effective licence at the time of accident- insurer had also failed to prove any breach of the terms and conditions of the policy- therefore, insurer was rightly held liable to pay compensation.
Title: National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Satish Kumar & others Page-1143

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Driver was driving the Mahindra Jeep whose gross weight is 2270 kilograms, therefore, it falls within the definition of light motor vehicle and endorsement of PSV is not required in the driving license– Insurance Company had not led any evidence that accident had taken place due to the reason that driver of the offending vehicle was competent to drive one kind of vehicle and he was found driving different kind of vehicle – held that in these circumstance, Tribunal had fallen in error in saddling the owner and the driver with the liability.
Title: Manohar Lal Vs. Sukh Bahadur & others Page-29

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Driving Licence of the driver had expired on 13.6.2004 – it was renewed w.e.f. 24.8.2004- accident had taken place on 12.8.2004- held, that licence is valid from the date of renewal – driver did not possess any valid driving licence on the date of accident and the owner had committed breach of the terms and conditions of the licence by employing a driver having no valid driving licence- therefore, insurance company was rightly held liable to pay compensation with a right to recovery.

Title: Partap Chand and another Vs. Harinder Kumar and another Page-992

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Insurance Company contended that driver did not have a valid driving licence and the owner had committed willful breach by employing a driver having a fake licence- held, that Insurance Company has to prove that owner knew that licence was fake- mere evidence that licence was fake is not sufficient to absolve the Insurance Company of its liability- Insurance Company had failed to lead the evidence to prove that owner knew that licence was fake and it was rightly held liable.

Title: National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Kaushlaya & others Page-614

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Insurance Company covered the risk of 8 persons including 5 passengers; therefore, deceased cannot be called to be a gratuitous passenger and insurance company is liable to pay indemnify the insured.

Title: Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Kishan Chand & others Page-37

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Insurance Company pleaded that driver did not have a valid driving licence as he possessed a learner licence- owner had committed willful breach of terms and conditions of the policy- held, that a person having a learner licence is competent to drive the motor vehicle for which he was given the licence - therefore, Insurance Company was rightly held liable.

Title: Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Krishan Dev and others Page-621

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Insurance Company pleaded that driver did not possess valid driving licence at the time of accident- unladen weight of the vehicle was 1670 kg. and laden weight of the vehicle was 2820 kg. – vehicle falls within the definition of light motor vehicle- driver possessed a driving licence to drive light motor vehicle- held, that Insurance Company was rightly held liable to pay compensation.

Title: The New India Assurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Roshan Lal & others Page-1011

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Insurance Company pleaded that it was wrongly saddled with liability and the owner had committed willful breach- insurer had not led any evidence to prove that owner/insurer and driver of the offending vehicle had committed any willful breach- a batch of claim petitions was filed in Utarakhand where insurer was saddled with liability- this award was questioned before the Apex Court by filing SLP which was dismissed- therefore, the plea of the Insurance Company that it was wrongly saddled with liability cannot be accepted.

Title: National Insurance Company Limited Vs. Anu Devi & others Page-612

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Insurer pleaded that driver did not have a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident- held, that it was for the insurer to plead and prove that owner had committed willful breach of the terms and conditions of the policy- insurer had not led any evidence to prove the breach of the terms and conditions of the policy and it was rightly held liable.

Title: United India Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Madhvender Kuthleharia and others Page-62

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- MACT held that owner was liable to pay compensation- driver had a learner driving licence w.e.f. 22.10.2002 to 21.4.2003- the accident had taken place on 14.10.2002, therefore, driver did not have a valid driving licence at the time of accident- held, that in these circumstances, insured had committed the breach of the terms and conditions of the policy and owner was rightly ordered to pay compensation.
Title: Ajay Kumar Vs. Shubham Kumar and others Page-1

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Mahindra Utility met with an accident in which five persons died- claimants pleaded that deceased were travelling in the vehicle along with goods/articles - the owner and driver did not deny this fact specifically but had denied it evasively- Insurer had not produced the copies of the registration certificate and the route permit- the risk of '1 + 3' is covered in terms of the insurance contract- therefore, insurer is to be saddled with liability to pay compensation in respect of three person- held, that in these circumstances Insurance Company was wrongly absolved of the liability and the owner was wrongly held liable to pay compensation.
Title: Hem Ram & another Vs. Krishan Chand & another Page-796

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Owner specifically stated that he had engaged the driver after examining his driving licence and after knowing that he was driver of tractor in the same village- held, that owner had performed his duty which he was supposed to do- insurance policy covered 1+1 person which means that risk of driver and passenger was covered- only the claimant had filed the claim, therefore, insurance company is liable to satisfy the award and it was rightly saddled with liability.
Title: United India Insurance Company Vs. Lalli alias Laloo and another Page-1199

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Petitioner pleaded that deceased had gone to attend the marriage but on return, the vehicle met with an accident- held, that in view of averments made in the petition, injured and deceased were travelling as gratuitous passengers- insurer was rightly directed to satisfy the awards with a right to recovery.
Title: Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Geeta Devi & others Page-325

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 157- Registered owner pleaded that he had sold the vehicle to 'S' prior to the accident- reliance was placed upon the affidavit and an application made by 'S' – held, that evidence on record did not prove that registered owner had sold the vehicle to 'S'- further, owner had not questioned the award, in which liability was fastened upon him- appeal dismissed.
Title: Pawan Kumar Vs. Prabahu Lal & others Page-634

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- A bridge was constructed by Union of India across Jankar Nallah- bridge was meant for crossing by one vehicle at a time- caution boards were put on both side of the bridge to this effect- respondent/driver took the vehicle to the bridge when another vehicle was present on it- bridge could not bear the weight of two vehicles and collapsed- Union of India filed a petition seeking compensation of Rs. 8,11,536/-- Insurer had admitted in the reply that accident had taken place due to the negligence of the driver who took the vehicle to the bridge when another vehicle was crossing- therefore, MACT had rightly held that Insurance Company was liable to pay compensation.
Title: United India Insurance Company Limited Vs. Union of India and others
Page-1016

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- A bus hit a group of persons standing near the vehicle bearing registration No. HP-64-0238, parked on the extreme left side of the road with parking lights on, as a result of which, 7 persons sustained injuries and succumbed to the same- Tribunal held that accident was outcome of the contributory negligence of the drivers of the bus and jeep- accordingly, 50% liability was fastened upon the insurer of the jeep as well as HRTC - it was contended that awards were excessive- On scrutiny, some of the awards were found to be excessive which were ordered to be modified and the excess amount was ordered to be refunded to HRTC.
Title: Himachal Road Transport Corporation Vs. Naresh Kumar & others
Page-980

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Claim petition was dismissed on the ground that claimant had earlier filed a claim petition which was dismissed in default- held, that provisions of Code of Civil Procedure are not applicable to MACT- procedural technicalities cannot be used to decline the claim of a person- petition was dismissed in absence of both the parties – held that second petition was maintainable in these circumstances.
Title: Jagdish Vs. Rahul Bus Service & others Page-298

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Claimant had boarded the bus- she sustained injuries in the accident and was taken to PGI, Chandigarh- her right arm was amputated below elbow- she was only 13 years old and a student of class 6th – she sustained 80% disability- Tribunal awarded compensation of Rs. 2,09,400/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the Claim Petition - held, that Tribunal had not assessed the just compensation- it had not taken into consideration the physical frame of the injured/claimant, her marriage prospects, amenities, future income, pain and sufferings and other prospects- claimant was aged 13 years and would have become earning hand after five years, even a housewife is earning Rs. 6,000/- per month by making contribution towards her family- keeping in view the percentage of disability, loss of income can be taken as Rs. 4,000/- per month and applying multiplier of '15', claimant would be entitled for Rs. 7,20,000/- under the head 'loss of earning' – amount of Rs. 50,000/- awarded towards the 'future medical treatment'- amount of Rs. 40,000/- awarded under the head 'pain and sufferings'- Rs. 1,00,000/- awarded under the head 'future pain and sufferings'- Rs. 1,00,000/- awarded under the head 'loss of amenities of life' and Rs. 2,00,000/- awarded under the head 'marriage prospects'- thus, total amount of Rs. 12,31,400/- awarded to the petitioner.
Title: Pooja Devi Vs. General Manager, Punjab Roadways & others Page-42

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Claimant had suffered 100% permanent disability - he has not only lost his earning capacity but his whole life has become burden for himself and his family- Court has to pass an award which is fair, just and proper – court has to keep in view hardships, discomfort, amenities of life, pain and sufferings undergone while assessing compensation.
Title: Sanjay Kumar Vs. Yashpal Singh Page-833

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Claimants had specifically pleaded that deceased was a house wife and was earning Rs. 5,000 to 7,000/- p.m. by agriculturist and horticulturist vocations- they further pleaded that they have to engage a servant for looking after the affairs of the house and orchard by paying Rs. 3,000/- p.m. - it can be held by guess work that income of the deceased was not less than Rs. 4,5000/- p.m.- 1/3rd of the amount is to be deducted towards personal expenses - loss of dependency would be Rs. 3,000/- p.m. and applying multiplier of '8', claimants will be entitled to Rs. 3,000x12x8=2,88,000/- as compensation for loss of dependency.

Title: Ramesh Kumar and another Vs. Himachal Pradesh Road Transport Corporation and another Page-1177

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Claimants pleaded that deceased was travelling in the vehicle along with apple plants but it was not pleaded that she had hired the vehicle – fare paid was also not specified- insurer had specifically pleaded that deceased was travelling in the vehicle as a gratuitous passenger – no plants were found at the place of the accident- therefore, plea of the Insurance Company that deceased was a gratuitous passenger has to be accepted as correct – held that the Insurance Company was rightly held liable to make the payment with right to recovery.

Title: Savitra Devi & another Vs. Jaiwanti Devi & others Page-1007

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Compensation of Rs. 40,000/- and Rs.1,09,000/- were awarded with interest to the claimants – appeals were preferred against the award - held, that even under no fault liability compensation of Rs.25,000/- has to be awarded, hence amount of Rs. 40,000/- awarded as compensation is reasonable- claimant had suffered injury which had shattered her physical frame and, therefore, compensation of Rs.1,09,000/- awarded to her cannot be said to be excessive, rather, same was not just, however, it was not questioned by victim and it was upheld reluctantly.

Title: Oriental Insurance Company Vs. Dinesh Kumar & others Page-990

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased 'A' was riding the scooter while other deceased was a pillion rider - scooter was hit by a bus- deceased sustained injuries and subsequently succumbed to the injuries- Claim Petition was filed by the parents of the deceased- Tribunal held that it was a case of contributory negligence and directed the Union of India to satisfy 50% of the award - driver of the bus was court martialed and was convicted - therefore, he cannot take the plea of contributory negligence- held, that Tribunal had wrongly recorded the findings of contributory negligence.

Title: Sudesh Bala Vs. Union of India and others Page-844

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was aged 19 years at the time of accident – annual income of the deceased was taken as Rs. 15,000/- by the Tribunal- deceased was young person aged 19 years- he was pursuing three years diploma Course in Electrical Engineering and had almost put in two years - by guess work his income can be taken as Rs. 6,000/- p.m.- 50% of the amount is to be deducted towards personal expenses and parents had lost Rs. 3,000/- p.m. as source of dependency - they are entitled to Rs. 3000x12x14= 5,04,000/-, as compensation for loss of dependency and Rs. 30,000/- as funeral charges and compensation for love and affection.

Title: Kehar Singh and another Vs. Ashwani Kumar and others Page-986

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was aged 38 years at the time of accident- he was a government servant drawing salary of Rs. 9,610/- p.m before the accident - 1/4th of the amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses- loss of dependency would be Rs. 6,400/- applying multiplier of '14', claimants will be entitled for compensation of Rs. 6,400 x 12 x 14=10,75,200/-- in addition to this they will be entitled for compensation of Rs.

28,000/- under other heads - petitioners are entitled to total compensation of Rs. 11,03,200/-.
Title: Master Sachin & others Vs. Urmila Chauhan & others Page-988

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988 - Section 166- Deceased was aged 42 years- multiplier of '14' will be applicable- he was earning Rs. 1,06,483/ as salary- Tribunal had deducted 1/3rd towards deduction and further deducted 1/4th towards his personal expenses- held, that further deductions are not permissible from the salary - only 1/4th amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses- after deducting 1/4th i.e. Rs.26,500/- -loss of dependency would be Rs. 79,500/- and claimant would be entitled for Rs.11,13,000/- as compensation for loss of income.
Title: Anubha Sood and others Vs. Krishan Chand and others Page-1127

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was drawing salary of Rs. 7,103/- p.m.- 1/4th of the amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses- thus, loss of dependency is Rs. 5,300/- p.m.- multiplier has to be applied considering the age of the deceased - applying multiplier of '13', claimants are entitled to Rs. 5300x12 =Rs.63,600 x 13 = 8,26,800/-.
Title: Tara Devi & others Vs. HRTC and others Page-1184

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was drawing salary of Rs.13,315/-- Tribunal had wrongly assessed his monthly income as Rs.12,455/-- amount of 50% was wrongly deducted towards his personal expenses, whereas 1/3rd amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses- compensation enhanced to Rs.14,02,800/-.
Title: Balkar Singh & others Vs. Ram Pal alias Sanju & others Page-295

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was working as a mason and his income can be taken as Rs. 6,000/- p.m.- he was aged 21 years and multiplier of '15' has to be applied- Claim Petition was filed by mother and loss of dependency has to be taken as Rs. 3,000/- p.m. - thus, claimant is entitled to compensation of Rs. 5,04,000/- + Rs. 30,000/- for loss of love and affection.
Title: Raghu Devi Vs. Dewan Chand (deceased) & others Page-831

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was working as a trained Electrician- therefore, his income can be taken as Rs. 6,000/- p.m. - 50% of the amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses of the deceased- age of the deceased is to be taken into consideration while determining the multiplier- deceased was aged 28 years and multiplier of '13' is applicable- hence, compensation of Rs.4,68,000/- awarded under the head loss of dependency.
Title: Sanjokta Devi and others Vs. Himachal Road Transport Corporation and another
Page-1005

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was working in the police department- last salary drawn by him was Rs.7,500/--Rs.8,000/-- 1/4th of the amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses- deceased was aged 34 years and multiplier of '16' was applicable- thus, claimants are entitled for Rs. 9 lakh under the head 'loss of dependency'.
Title: Secretary (Home) & others Vs. Shanti Devi & others Page-1009

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased were students of Class 11th – they would have got employment after 2-3 years or at least they would have become labourers and would have been earning not less than Rs. 5000/- per month each- loss of dependency can be taken as Rs. 2,500/- per month - multiplier of '16' has to be applied- compensation of Rs.4,80,000/- is to be paid to the claimants along with interest @ 7.5% per annum.

Title: Sudesh Bala Vs. Union of India and others Page-844

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Income from the agriculture- deceased was managing orchard- claimants will have to engage a person to manage and supervise the orchard- at least Rs. 5,000/- per month would be payable as salary to him- therefore, claimants are entitled to Rs. 5,000x12x14 = Rs. 8,40,000/- as compensation on this account.

Title: Anubha Sood and others Vs. Krishan Chand and others Page-1127

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Insurance Company pleaded that brother and sister are not the legal representatives and cannot file a Claim Petition- held, that persons who were dependent upon the deceased at the time of accident can file a Claim Petition - brother & sister if dependent upon the deceased can file a Claim Petition- they were minor at the time of accident and will fall within the definition of dependent.

Title: Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Gohdi Devi & others Page-418

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- MACT had deducted 1/3rd of amount towards the personal expenses- deceased was bachelor, therefore, 50% of the amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses- income of the deceased was Rs.4,000/- p.m.- loss of dependency would be Rs.2,000/- p.m.- deceased was 22 years of age at the time of accident- multiplier of '15' has to be applied and the compensation of Rs. 3,60,000/- (Rs.2,000/- x 12 x 15) has to be awarded towards loss of dependency.

Title: Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Ambi Chand and others Page-1175

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- MACT treated income of the deceased as Rs. 15,000/-, deducted 50% and assessed loss of dependency as Rs. 7,500/-- applying multiplier of 11, assessed the loss of income as Rs. 9,80,000/- and awarded total compensation of Rs. 10,40,000/- which cannot be said to be excessive or meager- appeal dismissed.

Title: Joginder Singh & another Vs. Chanan Ram and others Page-595

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Mere acquittal in a criminal case is not a ground to defeat the rights of the claimant- the findings recorded by Criminal Court will have no bearing whatsoever in the proceedings pending before MACT.

Title: Divisional Engineer Telecom Project (BSNL) & another Vs. Chet Ram & another Page-790

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Rashness and negligence is an essential ingredient for maintaining the claim petition- it is for the claimant to lead evidence and to prove on preponderance of probabilities that the driver had driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently- respondent examined 6 witnesses who proved that respondent was not driving the vehicle but deceased was driving the vehicle at the time of accident- this evidence was not rebutted- therefore, claimants are not entitled for any compensation.

Title: Kamla Devi & others Vs. Ravinder Gupta Page-27

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Tribunal had assessed the income of the deceased as Rs.3,000/- per month and loss of dependency as Rs.1,000/-- deceased was agriculturist and horticulturist by profession and it can be safely held that he was earning Rs.6,000/- p.m.- loss of dependency has to be taken as 50%- deceased was 21 years old at the time of accident - applying multiplier of '14', claimant will be entitled to Rs. 3000x12x14=Rs.5,04,000/-+ Rs. 1000/-costs=Rs. 5,05,000/-.
Title: Vidya Devi Vs. Naresh Kumar and another Page-1205

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 167- Labrourers/employees have a remedy to obtain compensation under Workmen Compensation Act, 1923- if a claim made under Workmen Compensation Act, the claimant will get compensation as per scheduled attached to the Act, however, claimants can seek higher compensation under Motor Vehicle Act- insurer pleaded that it is liable to pay compensation as per the policy- held, that insurance policy does not restrict the liability of the insurer- claimants are entitled to the compensation under law and the Insurance Company was rightly held liable to pay compensation to the claimants.
Title: Oriental Insurance Company Limited Vs. Arvind Pal and others Page-619

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 168- Claimant had claimed the compensation of Rs.12,00,000/-, whereas, he was entitled for more compensation- held, that it is the duty of Claim Tribunal to award just compensation and it can award more compensation than claimed-.
Title: Jagdish Vs. Rahul Bus Service & others Page-298

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 169- First petition was consigned to record room- it was contended that second petition is not maintainable- held, that even if first petition had been dismissed in default, second petition is maintainable.
Title: Anupam Kumar Vs. Harmeet Singh Ghai & others Page-293

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 169- It was contended that claimant had not lodged FIR and therefore, claim petition is not maintainable- held, that lodging of FIR, dismissal of criminal case or acquittal cannot be ground to deny compensation.
Title: Jagdish Vs. Rahul Bus Service & others Page-298

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 169- Petitioner filed an application for releasing the awarded amount but MACT only released 25% of the arrear- held, that compensation awarded in favour of minors, illiterate claimants or widows is to be invested- petitioner does not fall in the category of claimants specified above- no reason was assigned as to why the entire amount was not released to the claimant- petition allowed and the entire amount ordered to be released in favour of petitioner.
Title: Dixit Chauhan Vs. Jagdish Thakur and others Page-1405

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 171- Interest is to be awarded from the date of the award and not from the date of Claim Petition.
Title: Partap Chand and another Vs. Harinder Kumar and another Page-992

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 171- Interest was awarded by MACT @ 12% P.A. in all the petitions except 7 in which interest was awarded @ 7.5 % p.a.- held, that interest has to be awarded as per the prevailing rate- interest awarded @ 9% p.a. in all the claim petitions.
Title: Oriental Insurance Company Vs. Indiro & others Page-1149

'N'

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 15- 138.500 kg of poppy husk was found in the vehicle of accused - PW-1 to PW-3 did not support the prosecution version- all the seals were not found intact in the Court- no entry was made regarding taking out of the case property from Malkhana and depositing it - held, that in these circumstances, prosecution had failed to prove that contraband was recovered from exclusive and conscious possession of the accused- accused acquitted.
Title: Hardeep Singh Vs. State of H.P.(D.B.) Page-258

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Accused 'P' was carrying a boru on his shoulder- accused 'P' and 'A' were holding a pithu bag from each side- they tried to run away on seeing the police but were apprehended- their search was conducted- boru contained 24 kg. of charas and pithu contained 8 kg. of charas- prosecution witnesses admitted that police officials prepared the documents together by sitting in the police station- no entry was made in the malkhana register regarding taking out of the property for sending it to FSL for analysis- further, there is no entry regarding the re-deposit or taking the case property to the Court or deposit in malkhana after it was brought from the Court- no independent witness was associated- held, that in these circumstances, case of the prosecution was not proved- accused acquitted.
Title: Deep Bahadur Vs. State of H.P. (D.B.) Page-95

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Accused was carrying a bag which was containing 2 kg 500 grams charas - independent witness had not supported the prosecution version- accused was not apprised of his legal right to be searched before Magistrate or Gazetted Officer- no entry was made regarding the taking out of the case property after it was brought from the Court- it has caused serious prejudice to the accused- held, that in these circumstances, prosecution version was not proved – accused acquitted.
Title: Rajesh Kumar Vs. State of H.P. (D.B.) Page-231

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Accused was found in possession of 1120 grams of charas- prosecution witnesses deposed in tandem and harmony- sample was taken on 14.5.2006 and was deposited on 19.5.2006- sample of 25 grams was taken at the spot but its weight was found to be 19.3711 grams in the laboratory- held that, variation in the weight of the sample leads to an inference that sample analysed was not connected to the sample taken at the spot.
Title: State of H.P. Vs. Om Parkash (D.B.) Page-921

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Accused was found in possession of 2.3 k.g of charas in a bag held in right hand- PW-1 stated that Investigating Officer had stopped the ongoing vehicles and had asked the occupants of the vehicles to become witness- it is not believable that occupants would not have become independent witnesses to support the arrest, search and seizure- place of apprehension is a busy Highway and police could have easily associated independent witness- no entry was made in the malkhana register regarding the taking out of the property for production in the Court and re-deposit of the property in malkhana- entries are required to be made in malkhana register at the time of taking out of the property and depositing the same in malkhana- held that these circumstances created doubt regarding the prosecution version- accused acquitted.

Title: Kansara Mayur Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-958

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Accused was found in possession of 8 k.g of charas- police did not have any prior information- it was a case of chance recovery- accused was unable to satisfactorily answer the queries of the police party, on which he was searched- non-association of the independent witnesses in such circumstances is not material- police officials had corroborated testimonies of each other- their version is clear, cogent and consistent – testimonies are free from exaggerations, embellishments and major contradictions- once possession has been proved, burden is upon the accused to prove that possession was not conscious- held, that prosecution version was proved beyond reasonable doubt and the accused was rightly convicted.

Title: Sesh Ram Vs. State of H.P. (D.B.) Page-1416

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Accused was found to be carrying a bag which was containing 1.800 grams of charas- police officials had not gone to the residence of any person to associate him with investigation, although, houses were located at a distance of 200 meters from the place where the accused was apprehended - there was no entry regarding taking out of the case property from the Malkhana for production in the Court- it is necessary to make entry when the case property is deposited in the Malkhana or is taken out from the same - non-making of the entry makes it doubtful whether the same property was produced before the Court or not- in these circumstances, accused is entitled to be acquitted.

Title: Kamal Bahadur Rana Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-817

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- An Alto car being driven by accused 'R' was stopped for checking- accused 'V' was sitting on the front seat - remaining accused 'T', 'N' and 'Z' were sitting on the rear seat- police found one bag containing 1.850 kgs of charas- independent witnesses did not depose that bag from which charas was recovered belonged to appellant 'T'- PW 'H' stated that when he made inquiries from the occupants of the vehicle, accused 'T' revealed that the bag belonged to him- this version was made for the first time in the Court- bag was concealed underneath the driver's seat and none had deposed that vehicle was hired by 'T' or that the passengers sitting on the rear seat were his relatives, friends, acquaintances or business associates- further, other persons were acquitted and it was not permissible to convict one conspirator, when others had been acquitted- held, that in these circumstances, prosecution version was not proved.

Title: Tapat Bahadur Shahi Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-663

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Petitioner was found in possession of 2.1 kg. of charas- driver of the bus was declared hostile- he and conductor of the bus admitted part of the prosecution version- police officials had corroborated their version- conviction can be made on the basis of testimonies of the police official if the same are found to be trustworthy, credible and reliable - minor contradictions are bound to come in the testimonies when they are recorded after a considerable period of time and are not sufficient to reject the prosecution version.

Title: Kartar Singh son of Sh Tula Ram Vs. State of H.P (D.B.) Page-848

N.D.P.S Act, 1985- Section 20- Search of the vehicle was conducted during which 500 grams of charas was recovered – when parcel Ex. P1 was opened in the Court, it was containing another parcel Ex. P2 sealed with seal impression 'P'- seal impression 'P' was put on the parcel when the contraband was seized- parcel was opened for analysis at FSL, Junga and the seals were bound to be removed at FSL- no entry was made in the Malkhana register regarding taking out of the property for production before the Court- case property was to be taken out after making entry in the Malkhana register and after recording the same in the daily dairy – case property was to be re-deposited in malkhana register and entry in the daily dairy was to be recorded- held, that these circumstances make it doubtful that case property remained intact- hence, accused acquitted.
Title: Sashi Kumar and another Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-116

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- The person who produced the case property in the Court was not examined- no evidence was led to prove as to when the case property was taken out from the Malkhana for production before the court- Malkhana register was not produced to verify this fact- entry was required to be made when the case property was taken out from the Malkhana for its production in the court and when it was returned to be deposited in the Malkhana after its production in the court- failure to do so would make it doubtful that the case property, which was seized from the accused was sent to FSL, Junga and was produced before the court, or it was the case property of some other case- link evidence has not been established from the seizure of the case property till its production in the Court- accused acquitted.
Title: Roshan Lal Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-1036

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20(b)(ii)(c)- Accused was carrying a rucksack on her back- she tried to throw away the rucksack and run away from the spot on seeing the police- she was apprehended- rucksack was searched and 2.5 kg of charas was recovered- testimonies of police officials were clear, consistent, cogent and reliable – minor variations regarding the time are not sufficient to make the prosecution case doubtful - link evidence was also proved- accused had failed to discharge the burden to account for the possession of charas- she had failed to discharge the presumption that possession was not conscious - therefore, she was rightly convicted by the trial Court.
Title: Dharma Devi Vs. State of H.P. (D.B.) Page-587

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20(b)(ii)(c)- Accused was carrying a rucksack on her back- she tried to throw away the rucksack and run away from the spot on seeing the police- she was apprehended- rucksack was searched and 2.5 kg of charas was recovered- testimonies of police officials were clear, consistent, cogent and reliable – minor variations regarding the time are not sufficient to make the prosecution case doubtful - link evidence was also proved- accused had failed to discharge the burden to account for the possession of charas- she had failed to discharge the presumption that possession was not conscious - therefore, she was rightly convicted by the trial Court.
Title: Kekti Devi Vs. State of H.P. (D.B.) Page-597

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 42- I.O specifically stated that she had prepared special information report and had handed it over to H.C with a direction to take it to SP Crime- HC stated that he had deposited the special report with SP Crime- testimonies are corroborating each other – there is no reason to disbelieve their testimonies – held that the provision of Section 42 of N.D.P.S. Act was complied.
Title: Kartar Singh son of Sh Tula Ram Vs. State of H.P (D.B.) Page-848

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 50- Accused was found in possession of a bag from which 2.1 k.g of charas was recovered- held, that Section 50 is applicable only when the contraband was found on the person of the accused - since the contraband was found from the bag and not from the person of the accused, therefore, Section 50 of N.D.P.S. Act is not applicable.
Title: Kartar Singh son of Sh Tula Ram Vs. State of H.P (D.B.) Page-848

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 50- Accused was found in possession of 5.6 k.g of charas- consent memo did not mention that accused had a legal right to be searched before a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer- consent memo further inquired from the accused whether the accused wanted to be searched before Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer or police officer- only two options namely to be searched before Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer can be given as per law - consent was collective and should have been given individually – option was given prior to the search of the vehicle and no option to be searched was given prior to the search of the person- held, that requirements of Section 50 of the Act were not complied with.
Title: Tarsem Lal Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (D.B.) Page-1187

'P'

Prevention of Corruption Act, 1947- Section 13(2)- Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 409- Accused had withdrawn the money for the construction of Panchayat Ghar but had not utilized the same and in this manner he had misappropriated Rs.65,000/-- held, that in order to prove criminal breach of trust, prosecution is required to prove dishonest intent, converting the property to his own use, dishonestly using or disposing of the property in violation of law or agreement – statements of witnesses showed that some money was paid for construction of Panchayat Ghar- valuation certificate showed that more amount than withdrawn was spent for construction of Panchayat Ghar- the mere fact that Panchayat Ghar is not habitable will not establish the guilt of the accused.
Title: Mohinder Kumar Sharma Vs. State of H.P. Page-542

Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988- Section 13(2)- Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 467, 468, 471, 419, 420 and 120-B- a surprise checking of the record was conducted during which signatures on some of the forms were found to be forged- FIR was registered- SDM, Palampur initiated inquiry regarding the licence being forged by the accused- ADM, Kangra concluded that accused had forged the signatures- however, signatures on the forged licences, signatures of the accused and SDM were not sent for comparison- SDM admitted that accused used to bring licences in bulk and he used to sign them in bulk - hand-writing expert also found that licences were in hand-writing of the accused but this opinion is not sufficient as the hand-writing of the SDM was not sent for comparison- further, no evidence was led that applicant had paid the driving licence fee in excess of the prescribed fee, therefore, offence punishable under Section 13(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 was not proved- held, that in these circumstances, acquittal of the accused was justified.
Title: State of H.P. Vs. Kulbhushan Sood and others (D.B.) Page-193

Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005- Section 12- Wife was maltreated by the petitioner- her petition was allowed and the husband was prohibited from committing any act of domestic violence -he was ordered to pay maintenance @ Rs. 5,000/- along with compensation of Rs. 10,000/-- husband contended that wife is TGT Maths and was drawing salary of Rs. 9,000/-- he was compelled to tender resignation from his job and was not doing anything- held, that husband is under an obligation to maintain his wife-statute commands that there has to be some acceptable arrangement so that wife can sustain herself- if husband is an able-bodied person capable of earning sufficient money, he cannot deny his obligation to maintain his wife - carry home salary of the husband was Rs. 45,000/-- income of the wife was taken into consideration by the Court, while awarding maintenance – wife is entitled to the status which she was enjoying in the house of her husband –hence, maintenance of Rs. 5,000/- cannot be said to be excessive.

Title: Vipul Lakhanpal Vs. Pooja Sharma Page-896

Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorized Occupants Act) 1971- Section 4- Petitioner claimed that his grand-father had been in possession of land and after his death, he is in possession- administrator had accorded sanction to carry out additions, alterations and re-construction- additions and alterations were carried out according to the sanctioned plan- he was wrongly held to be unauthorized possession – petitioner had failed to prove his ownership over the land- letters permitting him to carry out the construction were not sufficient to establish the ownership - his plea of adverse possession implied that he is not the owner but some other person is owner of the land, held, that in these circumstances, he was rightly evicted.
Title: Manoj Singh Vs. Union of India & ors. (D.B.) Page-706

Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorized Occupants Act) 1971- Section 5- Petitioner claimed that his grand-father had been in possession of land and after his death he is in possession of the same - administrator had accorded sanction to carry out additions and alterations and re-construction- additions and alterations were carried out according to sanctioned plan- held that the petitioner was wrongly held to be in unauthorized possession.
Title: Manoj Singh Vs. Union of India & ors. (D.B.) Page-706

'R'

Registration Act, 1908- Section 17- Plaintiff had filed a civil suit in which a compromise was effected - the tenants surrendered the possession of 1-10 bighas while 3-00 bighas was gifted to the tenants- compromise did not form part of the order- plaintiffs were not shown to be the owners of the land- right was created for the first time by means of the compromise and the compromise was required to be registered, however, it was never registered, therefore, it could not have been relied upon to pass a decree.
Title: Chobe Ram Vs. Chanderkala & ors. Page-363

'S'

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Article 65- Plaintiff claimed to be the owner in possession of the suit land- he claimed that defendants have got themselves recorded as Kabazan in connivance with settlement staff- defendant claimed to be in adverse possession- held, that there is a distinction between long possession and adverse possession- mere long possession is not equivalent to adverse possession- defendants categorically admitted that he was not in hostile possession of the land- he claimed ownership and it is inherent in the plea that someone else is owner of the land.
Title: Jai Kishan and others Vs. Sardari Lal and others Page-745

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 5- Plaintiff claimed that he had rented out one shop consisting of two rooms to the defendant- tenancy was terminated by serving a legal notice- correct address was mentioned in the notice and there is presumption that addressee had received the same- mere acceptance of the rent subsequent to the delivery of notice which will not have the effect of extending the tenancy.

Title: Bansi Lal Thakur Vs. Ram Saran Thakur Page-1108

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 5- Plaintiff filed a Civil suit for recovery of possession pleading that plaintiff and defendant were co-sharers of the suit land- plaintiff applied for partition and the possession was delivered to him- defendant occupied the suit land forcibly- defendant pleaded that he was never dispossessed from the suit land- a wrong report was made in the rapat roznamcha- held, that joint status of co-owner is extinguished after preparation of instrument of partition- allottee becomes exclusive owner of the allotted land- defendant had not pleaded adverse possession- plaintiff is entitled to the relief of possession on the basis of his title.

Title: Satya Devi widow of late Shri Udho Ram Vs. Hari Chand son of Udho Ram Page-1380

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 20- Plaintiff sought specific performance of the contract by execution of a sale deed, cancellation of the sale deed executed by defendant No. 1 in favour of defendants No. 2 and 3 and cancellation of subsequent sale deed executed by defendants No. 2 and 3 in favour of defendant No. 4- defendant No. 1 stated that she had taken friendly loan from the plaintiff and had executed sale agreement as per past practice – this agreement was not to be acted upon and was executed towards security for securing the repayment of the loan- defendants No. 2 to 4 claimed that they were bonafide purchasers for consideration- defendant No. 1 examined only herself to prove her assertion, any custom, usage or practice is required to be established by leading cogent and convincing evidence - the plea of the defendants No. 2 and 3 that they were bonafide purchasers for consideration was not proved while the plea of the defendant No. 4 that he was bona fide purchaser for consideration was proved, therefore, plaintiff cannot be held entitled for the decree of specific performance and cancellation- plaintiff granted the relief of the refund of entire sale consideration along with interest @ 18% per annum.

Title: Vinay Bodh Vs. Dolekar & others Page-429

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 20- Plaintiff sought specific performance of the contract- it was specifically mentioned in condition No. 4 of the agreement that case No. 38/2004 is pending before High Court of H.P and sale deed will be executed only if the said case is decided in favour of seller - no evidence was led to prove that case was decided in favour of the seller- since, decision of case is the pre-condition for the execution of the sale deed, therefore, plaintiff cannot be held entitled for the relief of specific performance – however, plaintiff held entitled for the refund of the amount paid by him along with interest.

Title: Sumit Kumar son of Shri Yogendra Singh Vs. Sudesh Dogra wife of late Sh. Suresh Chander Dogra and another Page-1352

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff claimed that he is owner in possession of the suit land - defendants were stacking construction material and laying pipeline without his permission- defendants had not laid any claim over the suit land and the suit was decreed by the trial Court- High Court should not interfere with the concurrent findings of the fact recorded by the Court- no substantial question of law arose – appeal dismissed.

Title: Jai Singh Vs. State of H.P. and others (D.B.) Page-1057

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff claimed that land measuring more than 150 bighas was being irrigated through Kuhal known as Nal Ka Banda since time immemorial openly, peacefully and continuously- defendants have no right to cause interference in the flow of water- Kuhal originates from Sharatu Ka Nala- Pataru Ka Nala and Bagh Ka Nala are the tributaries of Sharatu Ka Nala - defendants threatened to tap the water from Sharatu Ka Nala and Bagh Ka Nala- plaintiff relied upon a rough map in which no khasra numbers were mentioned- the points from which the pipes were installed were also not mentioned- defendants got prepared a map by an expert - the factual position shown in the map, got prepared by defendants, is in conformity with the statements of the witnesses regarding the source of water- other co-villagers were not arrayed as parties- held that in these circumstances suit was rightly dismissed.

Title: Ram Swarup and others Vs. Narinder Parkash and others Page-386

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Plaintiff claimed that defendants/State had constructed a road in which proper drainage was not provided- flow of water from the road causes damage to the house and orchard of the plaintiff- defendant claimed that proper drainage system was provided and no damage was being caused- version of the plaintiff was proved by his evidence as well as by the inspection made by the Court- suit was decreed but the decree was reversed on the ground that suit was decreed without impleading 'B', a co-owner of the property- held, that plaintiff had sought relief against the officials of the State who were under obligation to protect the life and properties of its citizens and had failed to abide by their duties- Officers of the State are liable to compensate a person for the loss sustained by him- suit could not have been dismissed on the ground that co-owner was not impleaded in the suit- defendant directed to provide drainage system to ensure that property of the plaintiff and 'B' is not damaged from flow of water.

Title: Dev Sundri and others Vs. State of H.P. and others Page-785

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 38- Plaintiff sought a relief of permanent prohibitory injunction claiming that he had constructed a work shed (Reniali) for the work of Iron smith- defendant No. 1 dismantled the wall of the work shed and threw the material from the land- held, that when the plaintiff had admitted that he was dispossessed from the suit land by dismantling his work shed and his material was thrown out, he was out of possession, he could not have sought the relief of injunction as necessary requirement for granting the relief of injunction is possession which is not established.

Title: Sunehru Devi (Now deceased) through LRs and others Vs. Pohlo Ram and another Page-668

Specific Relief Act,1963- Section 38- Torts- Defendant started raising construction of the house and in the process stacked the construction material on the retaining wall- wall fell down along with stones and excavated material on the house of the building causing damage of Rs.94,000/-- defendant denied the allegation made in the plaint- trial Court dismissed the suit- the decree was upheld in the appeal- held, that injunction can be granted to prevent the breach of an obligation and when there is invasion of the plaintiff's right to enjoy any property - injunction can also be granted when defendant was trustee of the property and invades the rights of enjoyment of such property where the damage caused or to be caused by such invasion cannot be measured in terms of money- collapse of retaining wall cannot be attributed to any omission or negligence on the part of the defendant, rather, plaintiff had dug pits for erection of pillars without raising any retaining wall –merely, because defendant had not obtained approval from the Town and Country Planning Department to raise construction is not sufficient- moreover, plaintiff had also not obtained the permission from Town and Country Planning Department- in these circumstances, suit was rightly dismissed.

Title: Mangat Ram Vs. Dila Ram Verma Page-1422

'T'

Torts - Plaintiff filed a civil suit for recovery of the compensation against the defendants on the ground that widening work of NH at point 229/0 was carried out by defendant No. 1 - heavy blast was done as a result of which heavy boulders and rocks were thrown on the temple and other buildings causing damages to them- Insurance Company pleaded that the plaintiff was a stranger to the contract- held, that work was executed by 'G' who had taken the insurance policy- insurance company had undertaken to indemnify the 'G' for any loss, hence, suit could have been filed against the Insurance Company also.

Title: National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Hanogi Mata Sansthan & ors. Page-424

Transfer of Property Act, 1882- Section 123 - Plaintiff claimed that he is owner in possession of the suit land- he had executed gift deed of the suit land in favour of his wife- gift was presented for registration before Sub Registrar but Registrar asked him to come on some other day as he was busy- defendant No. 1 came to the plaintiff and told that he could get the gift deed registered- signatures of the plaintiff were obtained on some documents which were presented for registration – plaintiff was told that documents had been registered- plaintiff subsequently came to know that sale deed and Special Power of Attorney were got executed from him- it was proved that plaintiff had no other land and, therefore, he had no justification to sell the only piece of land- gift deed was executed earlier in time and the sale deed was executed subsequently- mere non-registration of the gift is not sufficient- since, plaintiff had already executed a gift in favour of his wife, therefore, he could not have intended to sell the same land to some other person.

Title: Satya Devi and another Vs. Kartar Chand and others Page-779

'W'

Workmen Compensation Act, 1923- Section 3- Deceased was a workman- he slipped near the site of work and rolled down in the Nalla- Insurance Company pleaded that it is not liable to pay compensation and interest- no such plea was taken in the reply but this plea was taken for the first time in the appeal- terms and conditions of insurance contract were also not proved- held, that Insurance Company was rightly held liable to pay compensation with interest.

Title: New India Assurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Sommaya Shaipy and others Page-825

TABLE OF CASES CITED

'A'

A.P. SRTC versus STAT and State of Haryana & Ors. versus Shakuntla Devi, 2008 (13) SCALE 621

A.P.S.R.T.C. & another versus M. Ramadevi & others, 2008 AIR SCW 1213

A.V. Padma and others vs. R. Venugopal and others (2012) 3 SCC 378

Abdul Rehman and another vs. Mohd. Ruldu and others, (2012) 11 SCC 341

Abdul Rehman vs. Mohd. Ruldu, 2012 (10) JT SC 97

Abdulla Mohammed Pagarkar Versus State (Union Territory of Goa, Daman and Diu), (1980) 3 SCC 110

Achutrao Haribhau Khodwa and others v. State of Maharashtra and others, AIR 1996 SC 2377

Aher Raja Khima Versus State of Surashtra, AIR 1956 SC 217

Ahmedabad Municipal Corporation Vs. Dilbag Singh Balwant Singh and others, 1992 Supp.(2) SCC 630,

Ahmedabad Municipal Corporation vs. Nawab Khan Gulab Khan and others, (1997) 11 SCC 121

AIIMS Students' Union vrs. AIIMS and others, (2002) 1 SCC 428

Air India Statutory Corporation and others Vs. United Labour Union and others (1997) 9 Supreme Court Cases 377

Ajab Enterprises vs. Jayant Vegoiles and Chemicals Pvt. Ltd., AIR 1991 Bombay 35

Ajit Singh and others vs. State of Punjab and others (Constitutional Bench), AIR 1999 SC 3471

Akanman Bora v. State of Assam Cr. LJ 1988 (3) 572

Allarakha K. Mansuri Vs. State of Gujarat, (2002) 3 SCC 57

Amalgamated Commercial Traders (P) Ltd. Vs. A.C.K. Krishnaswami 1965 (35) Company Cases 456

Amar Bahadur Singh v. State of U.P., (2011) 14 SCC 671

Amar Nath Agarwalla versus Dhillon Transport Agency (2007) 4 SCC 306

Amar Singh and others versus State of Punjab AIR 1987 SC 826

Amir Hassan Khan versus Sheo Baksh Singh (1884) ILR 11 P.C. 6

Amit Kumar Shaw and another vs. Farida Khatoon and another, (2005) 11 SCC 403

Amitbhai Anilchandra Shah versus Central Bureau of Investigation and Anr., 2013 AIR SCW 2353

Amresh Kumari versus Niranjan Lal Jagdish Pd. Jain and others, (2015) 4 SCC 433

Amrit Bhanu Shali and others versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, (2012) 11 SCC 738

Amrit Bhushan Gupta v. Union of India and others, (1977) 1 SCC 180

Amulya Gopal Majumdar vs. United Industrial Bank Ltd. and others, AIR 1981 Calcutta 404

Anant R. Kulkarni vs. Y.P. Education Society and others, (2013) 6 Supreme Court Cases 515

Anathula Sudhakar vs. P. Buchi Reddy (Dead) By L.Rs. and others, 2008 AIR SCW 2692

Anjlus Dungdung Vs. State of Jharkhand, (2005) 9 SCC 765

Anju Chaudhary versus State of U.P. and Anr., 2013 AIR SCW 245

Anuj Sirkek versus Neelma Devi and Ors., ILR, (H.P. Series), 2014 Vol. (XLIV)-VI, Page 1145

Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer and others, AIR 2015 SC 180

Appabhai and another Vs. State of Gujarat, AIR 1988 SC 696
Arulvelu and another Vs. State, (2009) 10 SCC 206
Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another, 2010 AIR SCW 6085
Ash Mohammad Vs. Shiv Raj Singh, (2012) 9 SCC 446
Asha vrs. Pt. B.D.Sharma University of Health Sciences and others, (2012) 7 SCC 389
Ashish Batham Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 2002 SC 3206
Ashok Gangadhar Maratha v. Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. AIR 1999 SC 3181
Ashok Kumar Chatterjee vs. State of M.P., 1989 Supp. (1) SCC 560
Ashok Kumar Chatterjee Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1989 SC 1890
Ashok vrs. State of Maharashtra, 2015(4) SCC 393,
Assistant Commissioner, Income Tax, Rajkot vs. Saurashtra Kutch Stock Exchange Limited (2008) 14 SCC 171

'B'

Babbo and others Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1979 SC 1042
Bablu alias Mubarik Hussain v. State of Rajasthan, (2006) 13 SCC 116
Babu Barkya Thakur vs. State of Bombay and others (1961) 1 SCR 128
Babu Lal and others v. State of Madhya Pradesh AIR 2004 SC 846
Babu Ram versus Shrimati Roshan Devi 1997(2) Current Law Journal (H.P.) 251
Bachan Singh versus Swaran Singh AIR 2001 Punjab and Haryana 112
Bala Shankar Maha Shankar Bhattjee and others vs. Charity Commissioner, Gujarat State, AIR 1995 SC 167
Balak Ram and another Vs. State of UP, AIR 1974 SC 2165
Balasaheb Rangnath Khade v. State of Maharashtra and others, 2012 (2) CCR 381
Balasaheb v. The State of Maharashtra, 1994 CLJ 3044
Balbir Kaur and others versus New India Assurance Company Limited and others, (2009) 13 Supreme Court Cases 370
Balbir Singh versus Smt.Kaushalaya Devi (now deceased) through her L.R. Bakshi Ram 2000(1) Current Law Journal (H.P.) 240
Balkar Singh vs. State of Haryana, (2015) 2 SCC 746
Balwant Singh Bhagwan Singh and another vs. Firm Raj Singh Baldev Kishen, AIR 1969 Punjab and Haryana 197
Balwinder Singh v. State of Punjab, 1995 Supp (4) SCC 259
Balwinder Singh vs. State of Punjab, (1987) 1 SCC 1
Bapu alias Gujraj Singh v. State of Rajasthan, (2007) 8 SCC 66
Barkat Ali and others Vs. Badrinarain AIR 2001 Rajasthan 51
Baru Ram and others versus Smt.Kishani Devi 1992 (1) Sim. L.C. 115
Basudev Bhoi vs. Bipadabhanjan Puhan and anr., 1997(2) Crimes 331 (Orissa High Court)
Bhagat Ram (D) by L.Rs versus Teja Singh (D) by L.Rs., AIR 2002 Supreme Court (1)
Bhagat Ram Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1954 SC 621
Bhago vs. Satbir, AIR 2007 Punjab and Haryana 161
Bhagwan Singh Vs. State of Haryana, AIR 1976 SC 202
Bhagwant Singh versus Commissioner of Police and another, AIR 1985 Supreme Court 1285
Bhajju @ Karan Singh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2012 (4) SCC 327
Bharpur Singh and others versus Shamsher Singh (2009) 3 SCC 687
Bhartu versus Ram Sarup 1981 Punjab Law Journal, 204

Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai Vs. State of Gujarat, AIR 1983 SC 753
Bhavuben Dineshbhai Makwana v. State of Gujarat and others, 2013 Cri.L.J. 4225
Bhe Ram Vs. State of Haryana, AIR 1980 SC 957
Bhim Singh and another vrs. State of Uttarakhand, (2015) 4 SCC 281
Bhola Ram vs. State of Punjab, (2013)16 SCC 421
Bhop Ram Versus Dharam Das, Latest HLJ 2009(HP) 560.
Bhugdomal Gangaram and others Vs. The State of Gujarat, AIR 1983 SC 906
Bhup Singh vrs. The Director of Consolidation & ors., Latest HLJ 2008 (HP) 516
Bilasi Ram vs. Bhanumagi 2007 (1) Shim. LC 88
Binod Bihari Singh vs. Union of India, (1993) 1 SCC 572
Blyth v. Blyth (1966 (1) All E.R. 524 (HL)
Bodhisattwa Gautam vs. Miss Subhra Chakraborty, AIR 1996 SC 922
Bodhraj alias Bodha & others vs. State of Jammu and Kashmir, (2002) 8 SCC 45
Brathi alias Sukhdev Singh v. State of Punjab, (1991) 1 SCC 519
Brij Lal versus Puran Chand, 2011 (1) Him. L.R. 80
Budh Ram and others vs. Bansi and others, 2010)11 SCC 476

'C'

C. Masilamani Mudaliar and others vs. Idol of Sri Swaminathaswami Swaminathaswami Thirukoil and others, (1996) 8 SCC 525
C.B. Muthamma, I.F.S. versus Union of India and others, (1979) 4 SCC 260
C.Muniappan and others Vs. State of Tamil Nadu, 2010 (9) SCC 765
CCE, Bangalore V. Brindavan Beverages (P) Ltd. 2007, (213) ELT 487 (S.C.)
Celina Coelho Pereira (Ms) and others versus Ulhas Mahabaleshwar Kholkar and others (2010) 1 SCC 217
Census Commissioner and others vs. R. Krishnamurthy (2015) 2 SCC 796
Chairman, Railway Board and others v. Chandrima Dass and others, AIR 2000 SC 988
Chairman, Railway Board and others Vs. Chandrima Das (Mrs) and others (2000) 2 Supreme Court Cases 465
Chairman, Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation & ors. versus Smt. Santosh & Ors., 2013 AIR SCW 2791
Charan Singh etc. vs. State of Punjab and others etc., AIR 1997 SC 1052
Charan Singh Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh, AIR 1967 SC 520
Chennupati Venkatasubbamma Vs. Nelluri Narayanaswami, AIR 1954 Madras 215
Chhedi Lal and another versus Chhotey Lal AIR (38) 1951 Allahabad 199
Chitru Devi vs. Ram Dai, AIR 2002 HP 59
Chittaranjan Mirdha versus Dulal Ghosh & Anr., 2009 AIR SCW 3873.
Chuni Lal and another vs. State of H.P, 1996 Cri.L.J.3864 (H.P.)
Cicily Kallarackal vs. Vehicle Factory 2012 (8) SCC 524
CIT V. Max India Ltd. (2007) 15 SCC 401
CIT versus Dr.Sham Lal Narula AIR 1963 Punj 411
Collector L.A.C. Mandi vs. Karam Singh and others and connected matters, Latest HLJ 2000 (2) (HP) 694
Collector Land Acquisition Anantnag and another vs. Mst. Katji and ors, AIR 1987 SC 1353
Collector Land Acquisition NHPC versus Khewa Ram and others, Latest HLJ 2007 (HP) 270

Collector, Land Acquisition Anantnag Vs. Katiji, AIR 1987 SC 1353
Comet Filaments (India) Ltd. vs. Pradeshya Industrial and Investment Corporation of U.P. Ltd., (1989)Vol.66 Comp.Cases page124 (Allahabad High Court)
Commissioner of Income Tax and others vs.Chhabil Dass Agarwal, JT 2013 (11) SC 387
Commissioner of Income Tax, Bhopal Versus G.M. Mittal Stainless Steel (P) Ltd. (2003) 11 SCC 441
Crest Hotel Ltd. and another vs. The Assistant Superintendent of Stamps and another, AIR 1994 Bombay 228

'D'

D.S. Nakara & Others vs Union Of India, AIR 1983 SC 130
Dahyabhai Chhaganbhai Thakkar v. State of Gujarat, AIR 1964 SC 1563
Dalbir Singh Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1987 S.C. 1328
Dalip Kumar Versus Rajesh Sahani and others, Latest HLJ 2004 (HP) 1030
Damodaran Pillai and others vs. South Indian Bank Limited, (2005) 7 SCC 300
Darbara Singh and another vs. Gurdial Singh and another, 1994 (1) S.L.J. 433 (Punjab and Haryana)
Dashrath Singh Vs. State of UP, 2004 (7) SCC 408
Dattonpant Gopalvarao Devakate Versus Vithalrao Marutirao Janagaval (1975) 2 SCC 246
Daya Singh and another vs. Gurdev Singh (dead) by LRs and others, (2010)2 SCC 194
Dayaram vs. Sudhir Batham and others, (2012) 1 SCC 333
Deelip Singh alias Dilip Kumar v. State of Bihar, (2005) 1 SCC 88
Deepak vs. State of Haryana, (2015)4 SCC 762
Dehal Singh v. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 1139
Deity Pattabhiramaswamy v. S. Hanymayya and others, AIR 1959 SC 57
Delhi Development Authority vs. Skipper Construction Co. (P) Ltd. and another, (1996) 4 SCC 622
Devki Nandan Bangur and Ors. versus State of Haryana and Ors. 1995 ACJ 1288
Dhabai Marandi vs. Bibhuti Marandi Lodo Marandi and others, 2009 Law Suit (Jhar) 1485
Dhan Kaur (Died) through LRs versus Shamsher Singh and others, 2005(3) Civil Court Cases 673 (P&H)
Dharam Deo Yadav v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2014) 5 SCC 509
Dharampal Singh v. State of Punjab, (2010) 9 SCC 608
Dharm Das Wadhwani Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh, AIR 1975 SC 241
Dhoom Singh and another versus Ram Kumar and another 1988 Punjab Law Journal 72
Dilip Singh Moti Singh versus State of Gujarat, (2010) 15 SCC 622
Dinesh alias Buddha Vs. State of Rajasthan (2006)3 Supreme Court Cases 771
Dorab Cawasji Warden vrs. Coomi Sorab Warden and ors., AIR 1990 SC 867
Dr.C.N. Malla vs. State of J&K, 1999 SLJ 366
Dr.Sham Lal Narula versus CIT, AIR 1964 SC 1878
Dulcina Fernandes and others vs. Joaquim Xavier Cruz and another, (2013) 10 SCC 646
Durga Shankar Mehta vs. Raghuraj Singh, AIR 1954 SC 520
Dwarku Devi Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh 2014 (2) Shim. LC 882

'E'

Earabhadrappa vs. State of Karnataka, (1983) 2 SCC 330

Effuah Amissah vs. Effauh Krabah and others, AIR 1936 Privy Council 147
Elavarasan V. State, AIR 2011 SC 2816
Elavarasan v. State, represented by Inspector of Police, (2011) 7 SCC 110
Election Commission of India through Secretary vs. Ashok Kumar and others (2000) 8 SCC 216
Enviro-legal Action Vs. Union of India and others, (2011) 8 Supreme Court Cases 161
Erach Boman Khavar versus Tukaram Shridhar Bhat and another, 2014 AIR SCW 61
Eradu vs. State of Hyderabad, AIR 1956 SC 316]
Executive Engineer, Southern Electricity Supply Company of Orissa Limited (SOUTHCO) and another vs. Sri Seetaram Rice Mill (2012) 2 SCC 108

‘F’

Fibrosa versus Fairbairn (1943) A.C. 32

‘G’

G.M. (Operation) S.B.I. & Anr. versus R. Periyasamy, 2015 AIR SCW 455
Ganeshlal vs. State of Maharashtra, (1992) 3 SCC 106
Gangamma and others Versus Shivalingaiah, (2005) 9 SCC 359
Gayatri Devi and others Versus Shashi Pal Singh, (2005) 5 SCC 527
General Industrial Society Ltd. V. Collector of Central Excise 1993 (68) ELT 839 (Tri.- Del)
Ghanshyam Sarda vs. M/s Shiv Shankar Trading Co. and others, AIR 2015 SC 403
Gian Mahtani Vs. State of Maharashtra AIR 1971 SC 1898
Gian Singh and others versus Ram Krishan Kohli and others, AIR 2002 Jammu and Kashmir 82
Girija Prasad (dead) by LRs v. State of M.P., (2007) 3 SC (Cri) 475
Girja Prasad v. State of M.P., (2007) 7 SCC 625
Gokal Chand vs. Parvin Kumari, AIR 1952 SC 231
Gopinder Singh Vs. The Forest Department of Himachal Pradesh & Ors., AIR 1991 SC 433
Gouri and others versus Dr. C.H. Ibrahim and another AIR 1980 Kerala 94
Government of India through Secretary and another Vs. Ravi Prakash Gupta and another (2010) 7 Supreme Court Cases 626
Govindaraju alias Govinda v. State by Srirampuram Police Station and another, (2012) 4 SCC 722
Gram Panchayat, Kakran vrs. Addl. Director of Consolidation and anr, (1997) 8 SCC 484
Gujarat State Road Transport Corporation, Ahmedabad versus Ramanbhai Prabhatbhai and another, AIR 1987 Supreme Court 1690,
Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration), AIR 1978 SC 179
Gurdeep Singh Dhillon vs. Satpal and others (2006) 10 SCC 616
Gurdev Kaur & Ors. vs. Kaki & Ors., 2006 AIR SCW 2404
Gurdwara Sahib versus Gram Panchayat Village Sirthala and another, (2014) 1 SCC 669
Gurpal Singh versus Darshan Singh 1998 (1) S.L.J. 174

‘H’

Hanumant Govind Nargundkar v. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1952 SC 343
Hari Dass Sharma vs. Vikas Sood and others, (2013) 5 SCC 243,

Hari Singh Gond v. State of M.P., (2008) 16 SCC 109
Hari Vishnu Kamath vs. Syed Ahmad Ishaq, AIR 1955 SC 233
Harihar Prasad Singh and another Versus Deonarain Prasad and others, AIR 1956 SC 305
Harishchandra Ladaku Thange v. State of Maharashtra, (2007) 11 SCC 436
Harivadan Babubhai Patel vs. State of Gujarat, (2013) 7 SCC 45
Harpal Singh vs. State of H.P. (Full Bench), AIR 1981 SC 361
Himachal Road Transport Corporation and another versus Jarnail Singh and others, Latest HLJ 2009 (HP) 174
Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd. Vs. Dilbahar Singh (2014) 9 SCC 78
Hole versus Chard Union 1894 (1) Ch. 293
HPCL versus Dibahar Singh (2014) 9 SCC 78
Hukam Singh vs. State of Rajasthan, (1977) 2 SCC 99
Hussain Pasha versus Andhra Pradesh State Road Trans. Corpn. & Anr., II (2007) ACC 454

'I'

IBA Health (India) Private Limited vs. INFO-Drive Systems SDN. BHD. (2010) 10 SCC 553
Ibrahimpatnam Taluk Vyavasaya Collie Sangham Vs. K. Suresh Reddy and others (2003) 7 Supreme Court Cases 667
Imtiaz Ali vs. Nasim Ahmed, AIR 1987 Delhi 36
Indian Bank versus M/s. Blue Jaggers Estate Ltd. & Ors., 2010 AIR SCW 4751
Indian Council for Enviro-Legal Action Vs. Union of India and others (2011) 8 SCC 161
Indira Fruits and General Market Meerut vs. Bijendra Kumar Gupta and others, AIR 1995 Allahabad 316
Indrajit Barua and others vs. Election Commission of India and others AIR 1986 SC 103
Indramani Devi and others vs. Raghunath Bhanja Birbar Jagadeb and another, AIR 1961 Orissa 9
Inspector of Police, Tamil Nadu vs. John David, (2011) 5 SCC 509
Israr v. State of U.P. AIR 2005 SC 249
Iswar Bhai C. Patel @ Bachu Bhai Patel vs. Harihar Behera and another, 1999(1) S.L.J. 724

'J'

J. Kalaivani and others versus K. Sivashankar and another, (2007) 7 SCC 792
J. Rajiv Subramaniyan and another versus Pandiyas and others, (2014) 5 SCC 651
J. Samuel and others vs. Gattu Mahesh and others, (2012) 2 SCC 300
Jagdish and others vs. State of Rajasthan and another, 1998 Cr.L.J. 554
Jagdish Ram versus Vishwamitter and others Latest HLJ 2012(HP) 1427
Jai Singh and others versus Gurmej Singh 2009 (1) SLJ (SC) 714
Janardhan Reddy & others vs. The State of Hyderabad & others AIR 1951 SC 217
Janku and others versus Nagnoo and others AIR 1986 Himachal Pradesh 10, Jarnail Singh Vs. State of Punjab, 2011 Crl.L.J. 1738
Jasmer Singh vs. State of Haryana and others, (2015)4 SCC 458
Jaspal Singh Arora vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (1998) 9 SCC 594
Jitendra Singh Vs. Bhanu Kumari and others, (2009) 1 Supreme Court Cases 130
Jiwan Dass Rawal vs. Narain Dass, AIR 1981 Delhi 291

Joginder Singh & others versus Suresh Kumar and others AIR 2015 HP 18
Joginder Singh and another vrs. Smt. Jogindero and ors., AIR 1996 SC 1654
Joginder Singh v. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2013(2) RCR (Criminal) 60
Jose Vs. The State of Kerla (Full Bench), AIR 1973 SC 944
Jose Caetano Vaz versus Julia Leocadia Lucretia Fernandes AIR 1969 Goa 90

'K'

K. Shrinivas Rao Vs. D.A. Deepa, (2013) 5 SCC 226
K. Venkatachalam vs. A. Swamickan and another (1999) 4 SCC 526.
K.T. Verrappa and others versus State of Karnataka and others, (2006) 9 SCC 406
Kailash versus Nanhku and others (2005) 4 SCC 480
Kalawati and another versus Sudhir Chand and others 2011 Law Suit (HP) 692
Kale versus Deputy Director of Consolidation, AIR 1976 SC 807
Kalema Tumba Vs. State of Maharashtra and another, 1999 (8) SCC 257
Kalidindi Venkata Subbaraju and others Versus Chintalapati Subbaraju and others, AIR 1968 SC 947
Kalpanaraj & Ors. versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corpn., 2014 AIR SCW 2982
Kalpanaraj and others versus Tamil Nadu State Transport Corporation (2015) 2 SCC 764
Kanaiyalal Lalchand Sachdev and others versus State of Maharashtra and others, (2011) 2 Supreme Court Cases 782
Kanshi Ram and another Vs. Lachhman and others (2001) 5 Supreme Court Cases 546
Karmi Devi versus Satendra Kumar Singh and another, 2010 ACJ 1661
Kartik Oraon vs. David Munzni and another, AIR 1964 Patna 201
Kashmir Singh vs. Harnam Singh & Anr., 2008 AIR SCW 2417
Kaviraj and others vs. State of Jammu and Kashmir and others (2013) 3 SCC 526
Kavita versus Deepak and others, 2012 AIR SCW 4771
Kennedy versus De Trafford, 1897 AC 180
Keshab Kishore Narain Saraswati versus State of Bihar and another AIR 1971 Patna 99
Keshardeo Chamaria V. Radha Kissen Chamaria and others AIR 1953 SC 23
Keshavlal Khemchand and sons Private Limited and others versus Union of India and others, (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 770
Khem Dutt and others versus Palkia and another 1983 Shim.L.C 77
Khujji @ Surendra Tiwari Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1991 SC 1853
Kora Lukose versus Chacko Uthuppan AIR 1957 Kerala 19 (Full Bench)
Kota Varaprasada Rao and another vs. Kota China Venkaiah and others AIR 1992 AP 1
Krishan Murari vs. Amar Dutt Sharma 1994 (Suppl.) Sim. L.C. 242
Krishna Ballabh Prasad Singh vs. Sub Divisional Officer Hilsa-cum- Returning Officer and others (1985) 4 SCC 194
Krishnan alias Ramasamy & others, vs. State of Tamil Nadu, AIR 2014 SC 2548
Kristamma Naidu and others versus Chapa Naidu and others (1894) ILR 17 Mad 410
Krushnakant B. Parmar vs. Union of India and another, 2012 AIR SCW 1633
KSL and Industries Limited versus Arihant Threads Limited and others, (2015) 1 SCC 166
Kuldeep K. Mahato vs. State of Bihar, AIR 1998 SC 2694
Kulmeet Kaur Mahal and others vrs. State of Punjab and others, (2014) 13 SCC 756

Kurapati Maria Das vs. Dr. Ambedkar Seva Samajan and others (2009) 7 SCC 387
Kuriya and another Vs. State of Rajasthan, 2012 (10) SCC 433
Kusheshwar Prasad Singh vs. State of Bihar and others (2007) 11 SCC 447

'L'

L. Chander Kumar vs. Union of India (Constitutional Bench of India), (1997)3 SCC 261
L.N. Aswathama & anr. vs. P. Prakash (2009) 13 SCC 229
Labishwar Manjhi vs. Pran Manjhi and others, (2000) 8 SCC 587
Lachhman Singh (Deceased) Through legal representatives and others Versus Hazara Singh (Deceased) Through legal representatives and others, (2008) 5 SCC 444
Lakhi Baruah and others Versus Padma Kanta Kalita and others, 1996(8) 357
Lal Chand versus Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., 2006 AIR SCW 4832
Lal Mandi v. State of W.B., (1995) 3 SCC 603
Lalla Ram versus D.C.M. Chemical Works Ltd. and another, (1978) 3 SCC 1
Lallan Singh and others Versus State of Bihar, 1969 (3) SC 765
Lalsai vs. Bodhan Ram and others, AIR 2001 Madhya Pradesh 159
Lanka Venkateswarlu (dead) by LRs. v. State of Andhra Pradesh and others, (2011) 4 SCC 363
Larsen & Toubro Ltd. vs. State of Gujarat and others (1998) 4 SCC 387
Laxman Vs. Poonam Singh and others , 2004 (10) SCC 94
Leela Ram Vs. State of Haryana, 1999 (9) SCC 525
Lella Srinivasa Rao Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, AIR 2004 SC 1720
Lila Wati and others versus Paras Ram and others, AIR 1977 Himachal Pradesh 1
Lingappa Pochanna Appelwar vs. State of Maharashtra and another, (1985) 1 SCC 479

'M'

M.A. Murthy Vs. State of Karnataka and others (2003) 7 Supreme Court Cases 517
M.B. Ramesh (Dead) By LRs. Versus K.M. Veeraje Urs (Dead) By LRs., (2013) 7 SCC 490
M.D. Bhoruka Textiles Limited vs. M/s Kashmiri Rice Industries, AIR 2009 SC (Supp) 1947
M.G. Agarwal vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1963 Supreme Court 200
M.Mohans vs. State, AIR 2011 SC page 239
M.P. Electricity Board versus Jagdish Chandra Sharma, (2005) 3 Supreme Court Cases 401
M/s Craft Centre and ors. vs. The Koncherry Coir Factories, Cherthala, AIR 1991 Kerala 83
M/s D.L.F. Housing and Construction Company (O) Ltd., New Delhi V. Sarup Singh and others, 1969 (3) SCC 807
M/s Ganesh Trading Co. vs. Moji Ram, AIR 1978 SC 484
M/s Gobind Pershad Jagdish Pershad Vs. New Delhi Municipal Committee, AIR 1993 SC 2313
M/s Hansraj Gupta and Co. versus Union of India AIR 1973 SC 2724
Mackinnon Mackenzie and Company Limited vs. Mackinnon Employees Union, (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 544
Madamanchi Ramappa and another Versus Muthaluru Bojjappa, AIR 1963 SC 1633
Madan Gopal Kakkad Vs. Naval Dubey and another, 1992 (3) SCC 204
Madan Lal and another vs. State of H.P., 2003 (7) SCC 465

Madhu Versus State of Kerala, (2012) 2 SCC 399
Madhusudan Gordhandas & Co. Vs. Madhu Woollen Industries (P) Ltd. 1971(3) SCC 632
Mahadev Govind Gharge and others vs. The Special Land Acquisition Officer, Upper Krishna Project, Jamkhandi, Karnataka, 2011 (6) Scale 1
Mahant Shri Srinivas Ramanuj Das vs. Surjanarayan Das and another, AIR 1967 SC 256
Maharashtra Ekta Hawkers Union and another Vs. Municipal Corporation, Greater Mumbai and another, AIR 2004 SC 416
Mahasay Ganesh Prasad Ray and another Versus Narendra Nath Sen and others, AIR 1953 SC 431
Mahomed Ibrahim Rowther vs. Shaik Ibrahim Rowther and ors., AIR 1922 Privy Council 59
Major S.S. Khanna V. Brig. F.J. Dhillon (1964) 4 SCR 409
Makhan Singh vrs. State of Haryana, JT 2015 (4) SC 222
Malabar Industries Co. Ltd. V. Commissioner of Income Tax, Kerala State (2000) 2 SCC 718
Man Kaur (dead) by LRs. Vs. Hartar Singh Sangha, (2010) 10 SCC 512
Manchegowda etc. vs. State of Karnataka and others, AIR 1984 SC 1151
Mandal Revenue Officer vs. Goundla Venkaiah and another (2010) 2 SCC 461
Mangat Ram versus Gulat Ram (since deceased) through his LRs Jagdeep Kumar and others Latest HLJ 2011(H.P.) 274
Mangheru Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others, ILR 1981 Vol.X 283
Maniben Devraj Shah v. Municipal Corporation of Brihan Mumbai, (2012) 5 SCC 157
Manindra Land and Building Corporation Limited vs Bhutnath Banerjee and others, AIR 1964 SC 1336
Manjuri Bera versus Oriental Insurance Company Limited, AIR 2007 Supreme Court 1474
Manshan and others vs. Tej Ram and others, AIR 1980 SC 558
Mantoo Sarkar versus Oriental Insurance Company Limited and others, (2009) 2 Supreme Court Cases 244,
Mast. Taro vs. Darshan Singh and others, AIR 1960 Punjab 145
Masumsha Hasanasha Musalman Vs. State of Maharashtra (2000) 3 SCC 557
Md. Mohammad Ali (Dead) by LRs versus Jagadish Kalita and others, (2004)1 Supreme Court Cases, 271
Mediquip Systems (P) Ltd. Vs. Proxima Medical System GmbH 2005(7) SCC 42
Mohammad Ali vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh and others, AIR 1958 Allahabad 681
Mohammed Ankoos and others versus Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad (2010) 1 SCC 94
Mohan Lal (deceased) vs. Mira Abdul Gaffar and another (1996) 1 SCC 639
Mohd. Alam vs. State (NCT of Delhi), 2007 Cri..L.J. 803 (Delhi)
Mohinder Kaur and others versus Hira Nand Sindhi (Ghoriwala) and another, (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 434
Mohinder Kumar v. State, Panaji, Goa, (1998) 8 SCC 655
Mohinder Singh (died) through his LRs. and others vs. Kashmir Singh and another, 1985 SLJ 94
Mohinder Singh Gill and another vs. The Chief Election Commissioner, New Delhi and others (1978) 1 SCC 405
Monica Kumar (Dr.) and another vs. State of U.P. and others, (2008)8 SCC 781

Montford Brothers of St. Gabriel and Anr. versus United India Insurance & Anr. etc., 2014 AIR SCW 1051

Mookkiah and another Vs. State, (2013) 2 SCC 89

Motibhai Jesingbhai Patel V. Ranchodbhai Shambhubhai Patel 1934 (LIX) ILR 430

Mulakh Raj and others Versus Satish Kumar and others, (1992) 3 SCC 43

Mulamchand versus State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1968 SC 1218

Municipal Board, Manglaur Vs. Mahadeoji Maharaj, AIR 1965 SC 1147

Municipal Corporation of Delhi Vs. Gurnam Kaur, AIR 1989 SC 38

Munna Lal Jain and another vs. Vipin Kumar Sharma and others, JT 2015(5) SC 1

Munshi Lal versus Rajiv Vaidya 2013 (2) Him.L.R. 1172

Murugan @ Settu vs. State of Tamil Nadu, AIR 2011 SC 1691

Musheer Khan and another Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 2010 SC 762

'N'

N.K.V. Bros. (P.) Ltd. versus M. Karumai Ammal and others etc., AIR 1980 Supreme Court 1354

N.P. Ponnuswami vs. Returning Officer, Namakkal Constituency AIR 1952 SC 64

N.T.C. (WBAB and O) Ltd. and another vs. Anjan K. Saha, AIR 2004 SC 4255

Nagappa Gulappa Amminabhavi vs. Fakirappa Bhimappa Hanchinal and others, AIR 1970 Mysore 73

Nagappa versus Gurudayal Singh and others, AIR 2003 Supreme Court 674

Nagesh Kumar versus Kewal Krishan AIR 2000 HP 116

Nalini Kumari vs. K.S. Bopaiah 2007 (1) KarLJ 342

Nalini Ranian Guha versus Union of India (1954) 93 Calcutta Law Journal 373

Nancy Bhatt & another Vs. State of H.P. and another, ILR, H.P. Volume XLV- II, 2015, Page 550

Nand Lal and another vs. State of H.P. and others, 2014 (2) HLR (DB) 982

Nanhar Vs. State of Haryana, (2010) 11 SCC 423

Narayan alias Naran v. State of Rajasthan, (2007) 6 SCC 465

Narayan Sonagi Sagne V. Seshrao Vithoba and others, AIR 1948 Nag 258

Narender Kumar Versus State (NCT of Delhi), (2012) 7 SCC 171

Nathu Singh Vs. State of MP, AIR 1973 SC 2783

National Commission for Women v. State of Delhi and another, (2010) 12 SCC 599

National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, AIR 2004 SCC 1531

National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Indira Srivastava and others 2008 ACJ 614

National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Laxmi Narain Dhut, (2007) 3 SCC 700

National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Laxmi Narain Dhut, (2007) 3 SCC 700

National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Sobina Iakai (Smt) and others, with National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Kerolin P. Marak (Smt) and others, (2007) 7 Supreme Court Cases 786

National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh & others, AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531

National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, AIR 2004 SCC 1531

National Insurance Company Limited versus Abhaysing Pratapsing Waghela and others, (2008) 9 Supreme Court Cases 133

National Insurance Company Limited versus Anjana Shyam & others, n 2007 AIR SCW 5237

National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Annappa Irappa Nesaria & Ors., 2008 AIR SCW 906

National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Smt. Sumna @ Sharda & others, ILR(H.P.)-2015 Vol. XLV-II, Page 825

Navodaya Mass Entertainment Limited versus J.M. Combines, (2015) 5 SCC 698

Nelson versus Larholt (1948) 1 K.B. 339

New India Assurance Co. Ltd. versus Shanti Bopanna and others 2014 ACJ 219

New India Assurance Co. Ltd. versus C. Padma and another, AIR 2003 Supreme Court 4394

New India Assurance Co. Ltd. versus R. Srinivasan, AIR 2000 Supreme Court 941

New India Assurance Co. Ltd. vs. Harshadbhai Amrutbhai Modhiya & Anr., 2006 AIR SCW 2352

New India Assurance Company, Bangalore versus Kareemunnisa, (2009) 16 SCC 241

Nika Ram vs. State of H.P., (1972) 2 SCC 80

Nikhil Himthani vrs. State of Uttarakhand and others, (2013) 10 SCC 237

Nilabati Behera (Smt) alias Lalita Behera (through the Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee) Vs. State of Orissa and others (1993) 2 Supreme Court Cases 746

Ningamma & another versus United India Insurance Co. Ltd., 2009 AIR SCW 4916

Nirmala J. Jhala versus State of Gujarat and another, 2013 AIR SCW 1800

‘O’

Olga Tellis and others Vs. Bombay Municipal Corporation and others, AIR 1986 SC 180,

Om Parkash & ors. vs. Gian Chand & ors. 2014(2) Him.L.R. 1071

Om Parkash Sharma vs. Indian Red Cross Society, Punjab and another, 2005 (3) PLR, 271

Omprakash vs. Radhacharan, (2009) 15 Supreme Court Cases 66

Oriental Aroma Chemical Industries Limited v. Gujarat Industrial Development Corporation and another (2010) 5 SCC, 459

Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Mohd. Nasir & Anr., 2009 AIR SCW 3717

Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Shri Kishan Chand & others, ILR 2015 (HP) Volume-III, Page-37

Oriental Insurance Co. versus Mst. Zarifa and others, AIR 1995 Jammu and Kashmir 81

Oriental Insurance Company Limited versus Porselvi and another, (2009) 15 SCC 116

Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Pratibha Devi and others, ILR(HP)-2014 (IX), Page-705

Oryx Fisheries Private Limited v. UOI (2010) 13 SCC 427

Oyami Ayatu v. The State of Madhya Pradesh; and Bhikari v. The state of Uttar Pradesh, AIR 1966 SC 1

‘P’

P. Periasami (dead) by L.Rs. vs. P. Periathambi and others (1995) 6 SCC 523

P.D. Dinakran (1) vs. Judges Inquiry Committee and others (2011) 8 SCC 380

P.K. Ramachanderan v. State of Kerala, AIR 1998 SC, 2276

P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy and others vs. Revamma and others (2007) 6 SCC 59

Padala Veera Reddy v. State of Andhra Pradesh and others, 1989 Supp (2) SCC 706

Palitana Sugar Mills Private Limited and another vs Vilasiniben Ramachandran and others, (2007) 15 SCC 218

Pant Raj Sachdev vs. The Indian Red Cross Society and others, 1986 (1) SLR 675

Papaiah vs. State of Karnataka and others, (1996) 10 SCC 533
Paramjeet Batra vs. State of Uttarakhand and others (2013) 11 SCC 673
Paras Ram and others v. State of Punjab, (1981) 2 SCC 508
Parduman Singh and another versus Narain Singh and another 1991 (2) SLC 215
Parkash vrs. State of Karnataka, (2014) 12 SCC 133
Parkash vs. State of Haryana, (2004)1 SCC 339
Parvinder Singh versus Renu Gautam and others (2004) 4 SCC 794
Pavitri Devi and another Versus Darbari Singh and others, (1993) 4 SCC 392
Payar Singh versus Narayan Dass and others 2010 (3) Shim. LC 205
Pentakota Satyanarayana and others versus Pentakota Seetharatnam and others AIR 2005 SC 4362
Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217
Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, 2013 AIR SCW 6505
Percy Chauhan Vs. State and another, Indian Law Reports (Himachal Series) 1979 (Vol.-8) 35
Perla Somasekhara Reddy and others Vs. State of A.P., (2009) 16 SCC 98
Perumon Bhagvathy Devaswom, Perinadu Village Vs. Bhargavi Amma (dead) by LRS and others, (2008) 8 SCC 321
Prabhu Nath and another versus Sushma 2014 (2) Shim. LC 1003
Prabodh Verma and others versus State of Uttar Pradesh and others AIR 1985 SC 167
Pradeshiya Industrial and Investment Corporation of Uttar Pradesh Vs. North India Petro Chemical and Another 1994 (79) Company Cases 835
Prakash Chand Sachdeva versus The State and another AIR 1994 SC 1436
Prakash S.Akotkar and others versus Mansoorkha Gulabkha and ors AIR 1996 Bombay 36
Prakash vs. State of Rajasthan (Apex Court DB), 2013 Cri.L.J. 2040
Prandas v. The State, AIR 1954 SC 36
Pratapbhai Hamirbhai Solanki vs. State of Gujarat, 2012 (10) JT 286
Prithu Chand and another Vs. State of HP, 2009 (11) SCC 588
Public Service Commission, Uttaranchal versus Mamta Bisht and others (2010) 12 SCC 204
Pudhu Raja and another Vs. State Represented by Inspector of Police, (2012) 11 SCC 196
Punithawalli Ammal vs. Minor Ramalingam and another, AIR 1970 SC 1730
Punjab State Electricity Board Ltd. versus Zora Singh and Others (2005) 6 SCC 776
Pyda Subbaramayya Chetty vs. The Premier Bank of India Limited, Branch Nellore and others, AIR 1959 Andhra Pradesh 96

‘R’

R. Vishwanatha Pillai versus State of Kerala and others, AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1469
R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others, AIR 1995 SC 755
R.N. Jadi & Brothers vs. Subhash Chandra), (2007) 9 Scale 202
Rabindra Kumar Dey Vs. State of Orissa, AIR 1977 SC 170
Radha Bhallabh & others vs. State of U.P., 1995(4) JT 206
Radha Mohan Singh v. State of U.P., (2006) 2 SCC 450
Radha Mohan Singh Vs. State of UP, AIR 2006 SC 951

Radha Pisharassiar Amma Versus State of Kerala, (2007) 13 SCC 410
Raghunath Vs. State of Haryana, (2003) 1 SCC 398
Raghuvir vs. G.M. Haryana Roadways Hissar, (2014)10 SCC 301
Raheja Universal Limited vs. NRC Limited and others, AIR 2012 SC 1440
Rahim Beg v. State of U.P. (1972) 3 SCC 759
Rai Singh vs. State of Haryana, AIR 1971 SC 2505
Rajashtan State Road Transport Corporation and another versus Bal Mukund Bairwa (2), (2009) 4 SCC 299
Rajendra Prasad Gupta vs. Prakash Chandra Mishra and others, SC 2011 (1) Scale 469
Rajesh Patel vs. State of Jharkhand, (2013)3 SCC 791
Rajinder Singh vs. State of Jammu and Kashmir & others, 2008 AIR SCW 5157
Rajkishore Mohanty and another Vs. Kangali Moharana and others AIR (59) 1972 Orissa 119
Rajni Tandon Versus Dulal Ranjan Ghosh Dastidar and another, (2009) 14 SCC 782
Ram Babu Tiwari vs. United India Insurance Co.Ltd. & Ors, 2008 AIR SCW 6512
Ram Govind Upadhyay Vs. Sudarshan Singh and others, (2002) 3 SCC 598
Ram Kaur @ Jaswinder Kaur v. Jagbir Singh @ Jabi and ors. (2010) 3 RCR (Cri.), 391 (DB)
Ram Narain and another vs. Mst. Har Narinjan Kaur and another, 1924 Lahore 116
Ram Niwas vs. Rajinder Prasad 1996 (1) RCR 427
Ram Saran Mahto vs. State of Bihar, AIR 1999 Supreme Court page 3435
Ram Singh @ Chhaju Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2010) 2 SCC 445
Ramachandran versus R. Udayakumar & Ors., 2008 AIR SCW 5469
Ramaiah alias Rama vs. State of Karnataka, (2014)9 SCC 365
Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited, 2011 AIR SCW 4787
Ramdas and others Vs. State of Maharashtra (2007) 2 Supreme Court Cases 170
Ramesh & others vs. State of Rajasthan, (2011) 3 SCC 685
Ramesh Chand and another vrs. Director of Consolidation & ors., 2008(2) Shim. LC 176
Ramesh Harijan Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, 2012 (5) SCC 777
Rameshbhai Mohanbhai Koli vs. State of Gujarat, (2011) 11 SCC 111
Rammi Vs. State of M.P, AIR 1999 SC 3544
Ramrameshwari Devi and others Vs. Nirmala Devi and others, (2011) 8 Supreme Court Cases 249
Ramreddy Rajesh Khanna Reddy v. State of A.P., (2006) 10 SCC 172
Ravindra Kumar Vs. State of Orissa, AIR 1977 SC 170
Ravindra Shantram Savant v. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 5 SCC 604
Ravirala Laxmaiah vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, (2013) 9 SCC 283
Reeta Nag versus State of West Bengal & Ors., 2010 AIR SCW 476
Remco Industries Workers House Building Co-operative Society versus Lakshmeesha M. and others, AIR 2003 Supreme Court 3167
Renusagar Power Co. Ltd. Vs. General Electric Co. 1994 Supp (1) SCC 644
Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR SCW 3120
Rewat Ram vs. Ashok Kumar and others 2011 (Supp) Him L.R. 1580
Riches versus Westminster Bank Ltd., 1947 AC 390 : (1947) 1 All ER 469 (HL)
Rohtash Kumar vs. State of Haryana, (2013) 14 SCC 434

Rukmani and others versus H.N. Thirumalai Chettiar AIR 1985 Madras 283
Rukmini Amma Saradamma V. Kallyani Sulochana and others (1993) 1 SCC 499

'S'

S. L. Kapoor vs. Jagmohan, AIR 1981 SC 136
S. Malla Reddy vs. Future Builders Cooperative Housing Society and Others, (2013) 9 SCC 349
S. Partap Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 1964 SC 72
S.C. Prashar and another Vs. Vasantsen Dwarkadas and others, AIR 1963 SCC 1356
S.F. Engineer versus Metal Box India Limited and Another (2014) 6 SCC 780
S.P.Bhatnagar and another Vs. The State of Maharashtra, AIR 1979 SC 826
S.R. Tewari versus Union of India & Anr., with S.R. Tewari versus R.K. Singh & Anr., 2013 AIR SCW 3338
S.R.Batra & Anr. versus Taruna Batra AIR 2007 SC 1118
S.Rama Krishna Vs. S. Rami Raddy (D) by his LRs. & others, (2008) 11 SCC 186
Sachindra Nath Sarkar and others versus Binapani Basu and others AIR 1976 Calcutta 277
Sadashiv Prasad Singh versus Harender Singh and others, (2015) 5 SCC 574
Saheb Khan Versus Mohd. Yosufuddin and others, (2006) 4 SCC 476
Saheli, a Women's Resources Centre through Ms. Nalini Bhanot and others v. Commissioner of Police, Delhi and others, AIR 1990 SC 513
Sait Tarajee Khimchand and others Versus Yelamarti Satyam and others, AIR 1971 SC 1865
Sakharam Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1992 SC 2045
Sakharam Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1992 SC 758
Salem Advocate Bar Association, Tamil Nadu vs. Union of India, AIR 2005 SC 3353
Sama Alana Abdulla v. State of Gujarat, (1996) 1 SCC 427
Samaj Parivartan Samudaya & Ors. versus State of Karnataka & Ors., 2012 AIR SCW 3323
Samantra Devi & others vs. Sanjeev Kumar & others, ILR 2014 (IX) HP 861
Sambhaji and others vs. Gangabai and others (2008) 17 SCC 117
Sambhaji Hindurao Deshmukh and others Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2008 SC 2066,
Sangaralonia Sreenoo vs. State of A.P., 1997 (4) Supreme Court page 214
Sangharabonia Sreenu Vs. State of A.P., 1997 (4) SCC 214
Sangram Singh vs. Election Tribunal, Kotah, AIR 1955, S.C. 425
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, 2012 Cri. L.J. 702 Apex Court DB 702
Sanobanu Nazirbhai Mirza & others versus Ahmedabad Municipal Transport Service, 2013 AIR SCW 5800
Sant Ram Nagina Ram versus Daya Ram Nagina Ram AIR 1961 Punjab 528
Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others (2012) 6 SCC 421
Santosh Devi versus National Insurance Company Ltd. and others, 2012 AIR SCW 2892
Saradamani Kandappan Versus S. Rajalakshmi and others, (2011) 12 SCC 18
Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, AIR 2009 SC 3104
Sarwan Kumar and another vs. Madan Lal Aggarwal (2003) 4 SCC 147
Saurabh Chaudri and others Vs. Union of India and others (2004)5 SCC 618
Savita Samvedi (Ms) and another versus Union of India and others, (1996) 2 SCC 380

Savita versus Bindar Singh & others, n 2014 AIR SCW 2053
Savithri and others versus Karthyayani Amma and others (2007) 11 SCC 621
Savitri and others versus M.A.C.T.-cum-District and Sessions Judge, Jhunjhunu and others, 2013 ACJ 1361
Secretary, Irrigation Department, Government of Orissa and others versus G.C.Roy (1992) 1 SCC 508
Shakir Husain vs. Chandoo Lal and others, AIR 1931 Allahabad 567
Shakuntala Devi versus Savitri Devi and others AIR 1997 HP 43
Shalimar Chemical Works Limited Versus Surendra Oil and Dal Mills (Refineries) and others, (2010) 8 SCC 423
Shamima Farooqui vs. Shahid Khan JT 2015 (3) SC 576
Shanti Prasad Devi and another vrs. Shankar Mahto and others, AIR 2005 SC 2905
Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Versus State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116
Shashidhar Purandhar Hedge and another Vs. State of Karnataka, 2004 (12) SCC 492
Sheikh Makbul v. Union of India and another, AIR 1960 Orissa 146
Sheo Nandan Paswan v. State of Bihar and others, AIR 1987 SC 877
Sheodan Singh versus Daryao Kunwar, AIR 1966 Supremem Court 1332
Sheralli Wali Mohammed v. The Statte of Maharashtra, (1973) 4 SCC 79
Sheralli Wali Mohammed vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1972 SC 2443
Shiv Chand versus Manghru and others, 2007 (1) Latest HLJ (H.P.) 413
Shiv Lal and others Versus Chet Ram and others, 1970 (2) SCC 773
Shivaji Dayanu Patil and another vs. Vatschala Uttam More (Smt), (1991) 3 SCC 530
Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade & another vs. State of Maharashtra, (1973) 2 SCC 793
Shreenath and Another vs. Rajesh and others AIR 1998 SC 1827
Shrikant Anandrao Bhosale v. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 7 SCC 748
Shyamal Kumar Roy Versus Sushil Kumar Agarwal, AIR 2007 SC 637
Sidhapal Kamala Yadav v. State of Maharashtra, (2009) 1 SCC 124
Sita Ram and others vs. State of Haryana and another, 1997(3) Crimes 362 (P&H)
Sital Das Versus Sant Ram and others ,AIR 1954 SC 606
Sital Prasad Saxena Vs. Union of India and others, AIR 1985 SC 1
Smt. Savita versus Bindar Singh & others, 2014 AIR SCW 2053
Sohan Lal Passi versus P. Sesh Reddy and others, AIR 1996 Supreme Court 2627
Sohrab and another Vs. The State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1972 SC 2020
South Eastern Coalfields Limited vs. State of M.P. and others (2003) 8 SCC 648
Special Director and another v. Mohd. Ghulam Ghouse and another, 2004 AIR SCW 416.
Sri Raja Lakshmi Dyeing Works and others Versus Rangaswamy Chettair (1980) 4 SCC 259
Standard Chartered Bank versus V. Noble Kumar and others with Senior Manager, State Bank of India and another versus R. Shiva Subramaniyan and another, (2013) 9 SCC 620
State (Delhi Administration) Vs. Gulzarilal Tandon, AIR 1979 SC 1382
State (NCT of Delhi) v. Ahmed Jaan, 2008 Cri.L.J, 4355
State (NCT of Delhi) v. Navjot Sandhu alias Afsan Guru, (2005) 11 SCC 600
State Bank of India & Ors. versus Ramesh Dinkar Punde, 2006 AIR SCW 5457
State Bank of India and others Vs. S.N. Goyal (2008) 8 SCC 92
State of Andhra Pradesh and another vrs. T.Yadagiri Reddy and others, (2008) 16 SCC 299

State of Andhra Pradesh and others Versus Star Bone Mill and Fertiliser Company, (2013) 9 SCC 319
State of Bihar and another versus J.A.C. Saldanna and ors, AIR 1980 Supreme Court 326
State of Bihar versus Thawardas Pherumal AIR 1964 Patna 225
State of Delhi v. Ram Avtar (2011) 12 SCC 207
State of Gujarat v. Kaliashchandra Badriprasad, 2001 (1) RCR (Criminal) 162
State of Gujarat Vs. Raghunath Vamanrao Baxi, AIR 1985 SC 1092
State of Gujarat vs. Ramprakash P. Puri, 1970 (2) SCR 875
State of Gujarat vs. Shantilal Mangaldas and others AIR 1969 SC 634
State of H.P. & ors. vrs. Raj Kumar Brijender Singh and ors., (2004) 10 SCC 585
State of H.P. v. Gian Chand, (2001) 6 SCC 71; (1974) 3 SCC 299
State of H.P. v. Sunil Kumar, (2014) 4 SCC 780.
State of H.P. vs. Ani Kumar and others, 2012(2) Shim. LC 710
State of H.P. vs. Lekh Raj and another, (2000)1 SCC 247
State of H.P. vs. Umardeen, 2012(1) Shim.LC 108
State of Haryana and another versus Jasbir Kaur and others, (2003) 7 SCC 484
State of Haryana and another versus Jasbir Kaur and others, AIR 2003 SCC 3696
State of HP Vs. Lekh Raj and another, 2000 (1) SCC 247
State of HP Vs. Pawan Kumar, 2005 (4) SCC 350
State of HP Vs. Tara Dutt, AIR 2000 SC 297
State of Karnataka and others versus C. Lalitha, (2006) 2 SCC 747
State of Karnataka vs. Suvarnamma & another, (2015) 1 SCC 323
State of Kerala and another vs. Cahndramohanan, (2004) 3 SCC 429
State of M.P. and others vrs. Gopal D. Tirthani and others, (2003) 7 SCC 83
State of M.P. vs. Surendra Singh, AIR 2015 SC 398
State of Madhya Pradesh v. Shmadulla, AIR 1961 SC 998
State of Madhya Pradesh vs. Union of India and another, (2011) 12 SCC 268
State of Maharashtra Vs. Annappa Bandu Kavatage, AIR 1979 SC 1410
State of Maharashtra Vs. Champalal Punjaji Shah, AIR 1981 SC 1675
State of Maharashtra vs. Chander Prakash, (1990)1 SCC 550
State of Nagaland v. Lipok A.O. and others (2005) 3, SCC, 752
State of Punjab and others etc. versus Rafiq Masih (White Washer) etc., JT 2015 (1) SC 95
State of Punjab and others versus Nokia India Pvt. Ltd., Civil Appeal No. 11486 – 14487 of 2014, dated 17.12.2014 (Supreme Court)
State of Punjab and others versus Ram Singh Ex-Constable, (1992) 4 SCC 54
State of Punjab v. Baldev Singh, (1999) 6 SCC 172
State of Punjab Vs. Gurmit Singh and others, AIR 1996 (2) SCC 384
State of Punjab vs. Nokia India Pvt. Ltd. AIR 2015 SC 1068
State of Punjab Vs. Shamlal Murari, AIR 1976 S.C. 1177
State of Rajashthan Vs. Talevar and another, 2011 (11) SCC 666
State of Rajasthan & Anr. vs. Mohammed Ayub Naz., 2006 AIR SCW 197
State of Rajasthan v. Bhawani, (2003) 7 SCC 291
State of Rajasthan v. Kashi Ram (2006) 12 SCC 254
State of Rajasthan v. Parmanand (2014) 5 SCC 345

State of Rajasthan Versus Babu Meena, (2013) 4 SCC 206
State of Rajasthan Vs. Bhawani, AIR 2003 SC 4230
State of Rajasthan Vs. Kalki and another, AIR 1981 SC 1390
State of Rajasthan Vs. N.K, 2000 (5) SCC 30
State of Rajasthan Vs. Om Parkash, AIR 2007 SC 2257
State of Rajasthan Vs. Shera Ram @ Vishnu Dutt, 2012 (1) SCC 602
State of Tamilnadu v. N. Suresh Ranjan and others, 2014 (1) RCR (Cr.) 572.
State of U.P Vs. Ram Veer Singh and others, AIR 2007 SC 3075
State of U.P. v. Ashok Kumar Srivastava, (1992) 2 SCC 286
State of U.P. v. Krishna Gopal and another, (1988) 4 SCC 302
State of U.P. vs. Chotte Lal, (2011)2 SCC 550
State of U.P. vs. Sukhbasi, 1985 Supp. SCC 79
State of UP Vs. M.K.Anthony, AIR 1985 SC 48
State of UP Vs. Santosh Kumar and others, 2009 (9) SCC 626
State of UP Vs. Sukhbasi and others, AIR 1985 SC 1224
State of West Bengal versus M/s B.K. Mondal and Sons AIR 1962 SC 779
State of West Bengal vs. Orilal Jaiswal and another, 1993(3) Crimes 518 SC
State Vs. Saravanan and another, AIR 2009 SC 152
Steel Authority of India Limited vs. Gupta Brother Steel Tubes Limited, (2009) 10 SCC 63
Suba Singh versus Mohinder Singh and others, 1983 Revenue Law Reporter 384
Subhash Chand Sharma Vs. Smt. Shakuntla Devi, ILR, HP VOL.(XLV)-I, 2015, Page, 336
Subran alias Subramanian and others versus State of Kerala (1993) 3 SCC 32,
Sudhakaran v. State of Kerala, (2010) 10 SCC 582
Sujit Biswas vs. State of Assam, (2013) 12 SCC 406
Sukh Dev versus Parsi and others AIR 1940 Lahore 473
Sunder and others versus Hukmi Devi and another 1999(1) CLJ (H.P) 314
Sundrabai Hanmantrao Kulkarni and others vs. Hanmant Gurunath Kulkarni and others, AIR 1932 Bombay 398
Surat Singh versus F.C. (Appeals) and another, 2008(1) Shim,LC 3
Surender Mishra v. State of Jharkhand, (2011) 11 SCC 495
Surendra Tiwari Vs. State of MP, AIR 1971 SC 1853
Surendra Vs. State of Rajasthan, AIR 2012 SC (Supp) 78
Sushil Kumar Sabharwal Versus Gurpreet Singh & Others, (2002) 5 SCC 377
Sushil Kumar Sen v. State of Bihar (1975) 1 SCC 774
Swan Gold Mining Limited vs. Hindustan Copper Limited, (2015) 5 SCC 739
Swaran Sharma vs. State of Haryana, 2007 (4) PLR, 526
Syad Akbar Vs. State of Karnataka, AIR 1979 SC 1848
Syed Basheer Ahmed & Ors. versus Mohd. Jameel & Anr., (2009) 2 SCC 225
Syed Jalaluddin Hasan Quadri v. M/s. Tarapharmacy, AIR 1966 A.P. 136
Syed Jameel Abnbas and others vs. Mohd. Yamin alias Kallu Khan, (2004) 4 SCC 781

‘T’

T. Saraswathi Ammal v. Jagadambal and another, AIR 1953 SC 201
T.N. Lakshmaiah v. State of Karnataka, (2002) 1 SCC 219

Tahir Vs. State of Delhi, AIR 1996 (3) SCC 338
Tanusree Basu and others versus Ishani Prasad Basu and others (2008) 4 SCC 791
Tara Chand and others versus Virender Singh and another, ILR, 2015 H.P. (XLV)-II- 367
Thakorlal D. Vadgama vs. State of Gujarat, AIR 1973 SC 2313
The Bombay Union of Journalists and others vs. The Hindu, Bombay and another, AIR 1963 SC 318
The District Red Cross Society, Sirsa vs. Radha Kishan Rajpal and anr, 2005 (1) SLR, 781
The Divisional Controller, K.S.R.T.C. versus Mahadeva Shetty and another, AIR 2003 Supreme Court 4172
The Management of Tournamulla Estate versus Workmen, (1973) 2 SCC 502
The Sale Tax Officer, Banaras and others Vs. Kanhaiya Lal Makund Lal Saraf, AIR 1959 SC 135
The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh, AIR 1962 SC 253
Thomson Press (India) Limited vs. Nanak Builders and Investors Private Limited and others, (2013) 5 SCC 397
Tika Ram Vs. State of MP, 2007 15 SCC 760
Tilak Chand Kureel Versus Bhim Raj, 1969(3) SCC 367
Tridip Kumar Dingal versus State of West Bengal and others (2009) 1 SCC 768
Trimukh Maroti Kiran versus State of Maharashtra, (2006) 10 SCC 681

'U'

U.P. Avas Evam Vikas Parishad and another vs. Friends Coop. Housing society Limited and another, 1995 (Supp) 3 SCC 456
U.P. State Road Transport Corporation, Dehradun versus Suresh Pal, 2006 AIR SCW 4903
U.P. State Road Transport Corporation versus Suresh Chand Sharma with Suresh Chand Sharma versus State of U.P. and Anr., 2010 AIR SCW 3859
Ujagar Singh vs. Mst. Jeo, AIR 1959 SC 1041
Union Bank of India and another versus Panchanan Subudhi, (2010) 15 SCC 552
Union of India and Anr. v. Kunisetty Satyanarayana, 2007 AIR SCW 607
Union of India and others Versus A. Nagamalleshwar Rao, AIR 1998 SC 111
Union of India and others versus Major General Shri Kant Sharma and another, 2015 AIR SCW 2497
Union of India and others versus Narain Singh, (2002) 5 Supreme Court Cases 11
Union of India and others versus P. Gunasekaran, 2014 AIR SCW 6657
Union of India and others versus Tarsem Singh (2008) 8 SCC 648
Union of India and others vrs. Atul Shukla etc., AIR 2015 SC 1777
Union of India and others vs. K.V. Jankiraman and others, (1991) 4 SCC 109
Union of India and others vs. Major General Shri Kant Sharma and anr 2015 AIR SCW 2497
Union of India versus Kamal Kumar Goswami and others AIR 1974 Calcutta 231
Union of India Versus Ibrahim Uddin and another, (2012) 8 SCC 148
Union of India vs. Brigadier P.S. Gill (2012) 4 SCC 463
Union of India vs. Major General Shri Kant Sharma and another, JT 2015 (4) SC 576
United Bank of India versus Satyawati Tondon and others, (2010) 8 SCC 110
United India Insurance Co. Ltd. and others versus Patricia Jean Mahajan and others, (2002) 6 Supreme Court Cases 281

United India Insurance Co. Ltd. versus N. Appi Reddy and others, 2013 ACJ, 545
United India Insurance Company Limited versus K.M. Poonam & others, 2011 ACJ 917
United India Insurance Company Ltd. versus Smt. Kulwant Kaur, Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) 174
United India Insurance Company vs. Thomas, I (1999) ACC 587 (DB)
Upendra Krishna Mandal and another versus Naba Kishore Mandal and others AIR 1921 Calcutta 93

'V'

V. Subbulakshmi and others versus S. Lakshmi and another (2008) 4 SCC 224
V.M. Salgaocar and Bros. vs. Board of trustees of Port of Mormugao, (2005) 4 SCC 613
V.R.Subramanyam versus B.Thayappa (deceased) and others AIR 1966 SC 1034
Velamuri Venkata Sivaprasad (dead) by LRs vs. Kothuri Venkateswarlu (Dead) by LRs and others, (2000) 2 SCC 139
Vidhyadhar Vs. Mankikrao, AIR 1999 Supreme Court 1441
Vidyadhar vs. Mohan, ILR 1978 HP 174
Vijay Industries Vs. NATL Technologies Limited 2009(3) SCC 527
Vijayee Singh and others v. State of H.P., (1990) 3 SCC 190
Vikram Greentech India Limited and another versus New India Assurance Company Limited, (2009) 5 Supreme Court Cases 599
Vinay Kumar Rai and another v. State of Bihar (2008) 12 SCC 202
Vinay Tyagi versus Irshad Ali alias Deepak and Ors., 2013 AIR SCW 220.
Vinobabai and others versus K.S.R.T.C. and another, 1979 ACJ 282
Vinod Kumar v. State of Kerala, (2014) 5 SCC 678
Vishal Goyal and others vrs. State of Karnataka and others, (2014) 11 SCC 456, Vishwanath Bapurao Sabale Versus Shalinibai Nagappa Sabale and ors., (2009) 12 SCC 101

'Y'

Yoginder Lal Sharma versus Municipal Corporation, Shimla and others, 1983 (12) ILR 457
Yomeshbhai Pranshankar Bhatt Vs. State of Gujarat, 2011 (6) SCC 312
Yusufalli Esmail Nagree v. The State of Maharashtra, AIR 1968 SC 147

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Ajay Kumar ...Appellant
VERSUS
Shubham Kumar and others ...Respondents.

FAO No.519 of 2007.
Decided on: 01.05.2015.

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- MACT held that owner was liable to pay compensation- driver had a learner driving licence w.e.f. 22.10.2002 to 21.4.2003- the accident had taken place on 14.10.2002, therefore, driver did not have a valid driving licence at the time of accident- held, that in these circumstances, insured had committed the breach of the terms and conditions of the policy and owner was rightly ordered to pay compensation. (Para-4 to 6)

For the Appellant: Mr.Rajesh Mandhotra, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr.Anup Rattan, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Mr.Rajiv Jiwan, Advocate, for respondent No.3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, C.J. (Oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to the award, dated 24th June, 2006, passed by Motor Accident Claims Tribunal(II), Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P., (hereinafter referred to as the 'Tribunal'), in MAC Petition No.33-J of 2003, titled Shubham Kumar versus Ajay Kumar and others, whereby a sum of Rs.2,01,200/-, with interest at the rate of 6% per annum, stands awarded in favour of the claimant (respondent No.1 herein) and the owner (appellant herein) was saddled with the liability, (for short the 'impugned award').

2. The insurer, the driver and the claimant have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus the same has attained finality so far as it relates to them. Only the owner/insured has challenged the impugned award on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen in error in fastening the owner with the liability.

3. I have gone through the impugned award and the record of the case.

4. Admittedly, the driver of the offending vehicle, namely, Mohinder Singh, was having learner's license valid w.e.f. 22nd October, 2002 to 21st April, 2003, while the accident had taken place on 14th October, 2002. Thus, it is apparent that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid driving license on the fateful day when the accident had taken place.

5. The Tribunal has rightly made discussion in paragraph 12 of the impugned award and has rightly decided issue No.3 in favour of the insurer, by holding that the insured has committed breach of the terms and conditions contained in the insurance policy.

6. Having said so, no interference is required. Accordingly, the appeal is dismissed and the impugned award is upheld.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Govinda alias Rahul …Appellant
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh …Respondent

Cr. Appeal No. 133/2011
Reserved on: 29.4.2015
Decided on: 1.5.2015

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 and 376- Accused attempted to rape the deceased- deceased resisted on which accused gave a blow on the head of the deceased with a stone- he met 'D' and told him that he had murdered a woman and needed money to run away- 'D' told the contractor regarding the murder who advised 'D' to take the accused to Pradhan- accused made extra judicial confession before Pradhan- Pradhan informed the police on which FIR was registered- Pradhan improved his version in the Court making his statement doubtful- there were contradictions in the statements of the prosecution witnesses- making of extra judicial confession to a person who is not known to the accused is highly improbable – further name of the victim was not mentioned in the extra-judicial confession- extra-judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence- extra-judicial confession was not corroborated and was lacking in detailed particulars –held, that in these circumstances, acquittal of the accused was justified. (Para-25 to 31)

Cases referred:
Rahim Beg v. State of U.P. (1972) 3 SCC 759
Akanman Bora v. State of Assam Cr. LJ 1988 (3) 572
State of Rajasthan v. Kashi Ram (2006) 12 SCC 254

For the Appellant : Mr. Vivek Darhel, Advocate vice Mr. Virender Singh Chauhan, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. M.A. Khan, Additional Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge.

This appeal is instituted against Judgment dated 30.4.2011 rendered by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track court, Solan, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh in Sessions Trial No. 3FTC/7 of 2009, whereby appellant-accused (herein after referred to as 'accused'), who was charged with and tried for offence under Section 302 and 376 IPC, stands convicted under Section 302 IPC with rigorous imprisonment for life and to pay a fine of Rs.10,000/-, in default of payment of fine to further undergo rigorous imprisonment for two years. He was acquitted under Section 376 IPC.

2. Case of the prosecution in a nutshell is that on 29.11.2008, Dashoda Devi was going alone from village Barla to village Darwa for attending marriage in her relations and when she reached near Gaad Pump house in the jungle path, accused met her. He, after seeing the deceased alone in the jungle path, with the intention to commit sexual intercourse with her, caught hold of her from behind her waist and despite the cries made by the deceased Dashoda Devi, accused did not leave her and after pushing her back, he laid her on the path and started making attempts to commit sexual intercourse with her and when the deceased resisted the attempt of the accused, accused again pushed her towards the bushes below 'Dank' and accused thereafter also came below to the bushes where deceased was lying and again attempted to forcibly commit sexual intercourse with her. When the deceased did not stop crying, accused lifted a big stone which was lying there and hit on the head of the deceased Dashoda Devi twice and after she became unconscious he attempted to have sex with her and further he again gave blow twice with the same stone on the head of the deceased Dashoda Devi. Accused went to the pump house where his companion Dipender met him to whom the accused disclosed that he had murdered one woman and demanded some money from Dipender and started saying that he will flee away from that place. Dipender told accused that he is not having any money with him and they will visit Darwa and demand money from their contractor by telephoning him. They came to their quarter at Darwa where Dipender asked the accused to sit in the room and he will come back to the room after making telephone call to their contractor. Dipender, on telephone, told contractor regarding killing of the woman by accused and on this, he asked Dipender to take the accused before Pradhan, Gram Panchayat Darwa and he will telephone the Pradhan. Dipender thereafter came to his quarter and told the accused that the telephone of contractor is disconnecting and they will go to the Pradhan and demand money from him.

3. Accused and Dipender came to Puran Chand. Accused made extra-judicial confession before Puran Chand Gupta about killing of Dashoda Devi. Pradhan took few local people to the place pointed out by the accused. They found dead body of deceased in the bushes of 'Dank' (cliff). Accused identified the stone. Pradhan informed the police. Police reached the spot. Statement of Puran Chand Gupta was recorded under Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. FIR was registered. Spot map was prepared. Photographs were taken. Dead body of deceased Dashoda Devi was sent for post-mortem examination at CHC Dharampur. Case property was deposited by SI SHO Ramesh Thakur with MHC Police Station Kasauli. MHC sent the case property to FSL Junga on 4.12.2008. Investigation was completed. Challan was put up in the Court after completion of all codal formalities.

4. Prosecution has examined as many as 19 witnesses. Accused was also examined under Section 313 CrPC. According to the accused, he was falsely implicated. Accused was convicted and sentenced as noticed herein above by the trial Court. Hence, this appeal.

5. Mr. Vivek Darhel, Advocate has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused.

6. Mr. M.A. Khan, Additional Advocate General has supported the judgment of trial court dated 30.4.2011.

7. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the judgment and record very carefully.

8. PW-1 Puran Chand testified that on 29.11.2008, accused Govinda came to his shop at about 6.00 pm. Accused was working with Ashok Kumar. Accused told him that he has killed a woman by hitting stone on her head near Gaad Pump House. He, accompanied by Bhagat Ram, Naresh, Devi Chand, Dipender and Ramesh went to the spot. Govinda took them to the spot. They noticed a woman lying dead on the spot in bushes. They identified her. Blood was oozing out from upper side of temporal bone. They informed the police post. Police came to the spot. Accused, on being asked, told that he killed the woman for sex. When she did not agree, he killed her. Police took into possession dead body vide Ext. PW-1/A. Police also seized stone vide seizure memo Ext. PW-1/B. He identified the stone. On the next day, police took them to the spot. Police seized blood stained earth from the spot vide seizure memo Ext. PW-1/D. Accused got the spot of incident identified vide memo Ext. PW-1/F. In his cross-examination, he has deposed that Dipender Thapa had come with him to the spot at 6.00 pm. Thereafter he came with them alongwith dead body to the Vipin's shop. He admitted that police took Dipender in Jeep to Kandaghat Police Station for saving him from the crowd. He received a telephonic call from Ashok at 6.00 pm telling him that Dipender had told that Govinda who is a labourer with him, has murdered a woman.

9. PW-2 Naresh Kumar deposed that on 29.11.2008, at about 6.15 pm, Puran Chand Gupta, Pradhan, Darwa told him that one Gorkha Rahul alias Govinda has pelted stone near pump house and killed a lady. He alongwith Pradhan, Puran Chand Gupta and Bhagat Ram visited the pump house at Gaad. There they found dead body of Dashoda Devi, who was also known to him as Dashoda was a neighbourer. Her dead body was stained with blood. Police also visited the spot. Police noticed dead body at the spot. Accused was also present, as he was brought by Pradhan from quarter with Gorkha namely Dipender. Police has taken into possession blood stained stone and put in a cloth parcel sealed with seal impression 'K'. Police also took into possession blood stained leaves, grass and soil from the spot.

10. PW-3 Vipin Kumar deposed that on 29.11.2008, Dipender Thapa, Karan Bahadur and Govinda had proceeded to work to the pump house. At about 6.00 pm, Dipender Thapa had come to his shop and told him that he wanted to make a call to Ashok Contractor. Dipender Thapa had made a call from his STD to contractor Ashok and thereafter he went to the shop of Puran Chand, Pradhan. Dipender Thapa was alone at that time. On 4.12.2008, he and Pradhan Puran Chand were associated in the investigation by the police. In the custody of police, accused took them to the place of occurrence. He identified the spot and told them that he killed Dashoda Devi with a stone. Police prepared Nishandehi vide ex. PW-1/F. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that Dipender Thapa had told him that Rahul had murdered a woman. This fact was also disclosed by Dipender Thapa to Ashok Kumar.

11. PW-4 Bhagat Ram deposed that on 29.11.2008, Pradhan disclosed to him that one Gorkha Govinda came to his shop and disclosed to him that he killed a lady by hitting her with stone. He, accompanied by Pradhan Puran Chand, Naresh Kumar and Devi Chand went to the spot at Gaad. Police also visited the spot. Accused was with them at that time. Accused, on being asked why he killed the woman, told that he wanted to have sex with her, but she did not agree, on which he killed her. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that in his presence, accused Govinda has disclosed nothing to the Pradhan.

12. PW-5 Devi Chand, deposed that on 29.11.2008, Pradhan, Gram Panchayat Darwa called him to his shop at about 6.15 pm and told him that one Gorkha Govinda alias Rahul came to his shop and disclosed to Pradhan Puran Chand that he killed a lady by hitting with stone near Guard Pump. He accompanied Pradhan Puran Chand, Naresh, Bhagat Ram and Devi Chand and Govinda (accused) and went to the spot i.e. Gaad Pump. They noticed body of a woman lying on the spot. Police asked accused and he told that he was working with Ashok Kumar, contractor. Accused had killed the deceased Dashoda Devi for sex.

13. PW-6 Sunder Singh deposed that on 29.11.2008, in the evening time, his aunt Dashoda Devi came from village Barla to village Darwa for attending a marriage. She told him to accompany her to village Darwa. He told that he would come later. She proceeded to Darwa to attend marriage. She used to reside at village Barla with them. He also proceeded to village Darwa at about 7-8 pm to attend the marriage. He attended the marriage at Darwa and came to know that one lady had been killed. During night period, he visited the place at guard pump where a dead body was lying in the bushes. He noticed injury on the upper side of temporal bone and blood was oozing out from the injury. He identified the dead body. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that he disclosed to the police during investigation that accused had killed Dashoda Devi to commit sex with her and on her refusal he had killed her with stone (confronted with statement mark 'B', wherein, it is not so recorded).

14. PW-7 Ashok Kumar deposed that on 29.11.2008, at about 6.15 pm, he received a telephone call. Again stated about 6.00 to 6.15 pm, he received a telephonic call from Dipender Thapa. He called him from STD shop of Vipin Kumar and told on the telephone that he has disclosed that he had killed someone and demanded money. He directed him to inform the Pradhan. He also told that he should not flee from there. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that he called Puran Chand on 29.11.2008 at 12-1.00 pm. He further stated that when he telephoned Pradhan, he disclosed to him that he has murdered someone on 29.11.2008. He did not meet Pradhan Puran Chand on 29.11.2008.

15. PW-8 Dipender Thapa is a material witness. According to him, accused told him that he had murdered a woman and demanded money. He told that he did not have any money. He came to Darwa alongwith accused. Then he called on telephone his contractor, Ashok Kumar and told that accused has told him that he (accused) had killed a woman and he had committed murder. Ashok Kumar directed to disclose the entire incident to Pradhan Puran Chand. Thereafter, he alongwith accused went to the shop of Pradhan Puran Chand where he disclosed to the Pradhan that he had murdered (voluntarily stated 'not in his presence'). There were 10-12 people. Thereafter, he came to the Tank at Darwa and slept there due to fear. On the next day, he went to Ashok Kumar, contractor.

16. PW-9 HHC Shayam Lal, is a formal witness.

17. PW-10 Jagat Ram deposed that on 29.11.2008, he alongwith police party, SHO Ram Thakur, was present near Gaad Pump House. Dead body of one woman was lying in the bushes. Case FIR No. 83 dated 29.11.2008 was registered.

18. PW-11 Dharam Chand Patwari has proved copy of Jamabandi Ext. PW-11/A and map Ext. PW-11/B.

19. PW-12 MC Jai Chand is a formal witness.

20. PW-13 Chet Ram recorded Rapat No. 34 dated 30.11.2008. ASI MA Khan handed over 19 sealed parcels to him. He entered them in the Malkhana register. Stone weighing 10 kg was also handed over to him. He sent the case property to FSL Junga on 4.12.2008 vide RC No. 60/2008 through constable Shyam Lal alongwith samples of seal 'M' and 'K'. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that Rapat Ext. PW13/A was recorded by him, name of Gorkha was not disclosed to him.

21. According to PW-14 Manohar Lal, deceased died due head injury leading to severe blood shock, cardio respiratory arrest and finally death. The time between injury and death was instantaneous. Time between death and post-mortem was about 12-24 hours.

22. PW-15 Dr. Naresh Attri has examined accused and issued MLC Ext. PW-15/B.

23. PW-16 Balo Devi deposed that on 29.11.2008 she was going to attend a marriage at Darwa at about 3.00 pm. She was going on foot. When she reached at the pump house, then one Gorkha was standing in the way. He came from backside and pushed her with his shoulder. She turned towards him and he folded his hands for 'Namaste' and started walking swiftly on foot. One person came on the spot and remained there. Thereafter, she did not know what happened. In her cross-examination, she admitted that she has not narrated the fact of murder of her Devrani (Sister-in-law) to any person except Police on 4.12.2008.

24. PW-17 Ramesh Chand deposed that the police noticed a dead body lying in the bushes near Pump House. Puran Chand's statement was recorded under Section 154 CrPC vide Ext. PW-1/C. FIR was registered. Photographs were also taken. Dead body of the deceased was taken into possession vide seizure memo Ext. PW-1/A. Stone was recovered on 30.11.2008. Control samples of soil/ leaves were taken. He recorded statements of 5 witnesses on 30.11.2008. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that name of Gorkha was not disclosed by the Pradhan to the police when he intimated regarding the incident on 29.11.2008. He also admitted that Dipender Thapa had also been interrogated for one day in the Kasauli Police Station on 30.11.2008.

25. Case of the prosecution precisely is that accused after killing deceased Dashoda Devi made extra-judicial confession before Puran Chand. Puran Chand and other witnesses went to the spot and noticed dead body lying in the bushes. Police also reached the spot. body was taken into possession. Post-mortem was got conducted. Dashoda Devi died due to head injury. Statement of PW-1 Puran Chand was recorded under Section 154 CrPC on 29.11.2008. According to the contents of Ext. PW-1/C, Rukka, accused came to the shop of PW-1 Puran Chand and disclosed that he killed one woman near Gaad Pump House by hitting her with a stone. He informed the police post Kuthar. Police reached the spot. Police took into possession the stone, and according to him, Govinda has murdered the deceased since the deceased resisted his advances. However, Puran Chand (PW-1) deposed in the Court that accused was accompanied by Dipender Thapa. He came to the shop at 6.00 pm. PW-1 Puran Chand has made improvements in his statement recorded under Section 154 CrPC. It is settled law that Rukka or FIR need not be encyclopaedia but bare necessary facts must be stated in the same. In Ext. PW-1/C, PW-1 Puran Chand has not stated the name of the deceased who was allegedly killed by the accused. He has narrated that the accused has made disclosure statement that he had killed a woman by hitting her with a stone.

26. In case Dipender Thapa had accompanied the accused to the shop of Puran Chand, he should have definitely stated so in the statement recorded under Section 154 CrPC. PW-8 Dipender Thapa has also testified that he alongwith accused went to the shop of Pradhan Puran Chand where he (accused) disclosed to Puran Chand that he has committed murder, though voluntarily stated that 'not in his presence'). Thus, there is doubt whether the accused went to the shop of Puran Chand in the company of Dipender or not, when it is not so stated in the Rukka, Ext. PW-1/C. PW-13, in his cross-examination has admitted that in the Rapat, Ext. PW-13/A, name of Gorkha was not disclosed to him. Similarly, PW-17, Ramesh Thakur SI has also admitted in his cross-examination that the name of Gorkha was not disclosed by the Pradhan to the police when he intimated about the incident on 29.11.2008. In case, accused had made disclosure statement before Puran Chand, he would have definitely told this fact while informing police post Kuthar. PW-1 Puran Chand has testified in his examination-in-chief that he accompanied Bhagat Ram, Naresh, Devi Chand and Dipender Thapa and they went to the spot. However, PW-8, Dipender Thapa deposed that he alongwith accused went to the shop of Pradhan Puran Chand and thereafter he went to the Tank at Darwa and slept there. Thus, there is major contradiction in the statements of PW-1 Puran Chand and PW-8 Dipender Thapa. According to the PW-1 Puran Chand, PW-8 had accompanied him to the spot but PW-8 has deposed that he had gone to sleep in his Dera, after accused made extra-judicial confession.

27. Case of the prosecution is that Dipender Thapa (PW-8) had gone to the shop of PW-3 Vipin Kumar to make a telephonic call. PW-3 Vipin Kumar deposed that at about 6.00 pm, Dipender came to his shop and told that he had killed Dashoda Devi. Statement of PW-3 was recorded on 4.12.2008. Statements of all the witnesses are required to be recorded immediately. According to PW-16 Balo Devi, accused had pushed her with shoulder and thereafter she turned towards him. He folded his hands. Thus, prosecution tried to establish that the accused was on the path near Pump House and was identified by Balo Devi. In her cross-examination, PW-16 has admitted that she has not narrated that accused murdered her Devrani (Sister-in-law), to any person except the Police on 4.12.2008. It is not believable that in case, she had identified the accused on 29.11.2008, and he has murdered her Devrani on 29.11.2008, this fact was bound to be disclosed by her to her family members.

28. Case of the prosecution is based on circumstantial evidence. In order to prove the case based on circumstantial evidence, it is necessary to complete the entire chain of events. All the circumstances must point towards the guilt of the accused alone. In the instant case, prosecution has failed to complete the entire chain of events linking the accused with the commission of alleged offence. Mr. M.A. Khan, has argued that the accused has murdered the deceased since she resisted the attempts of the accused to rape her. Accused has been acquitted of charge under Section 376 IPC. Mr. Khan has also argued that the accused made extra-judicial confession before Puran Chand (PW-1), Bhagat Ram(PW-4) and Devi Chand (PW-5). However, fact of the matter is that in view of the variance in the statements of PW-1 recorded under Section 154 CrPC and statement recorded before the court, the alleged extra-judicial confession by accused is doubtful. According to PW-8, Dipender Thapa, 10-12 people were already at the spot when he visited the shop of PW-1 alongwith accused. The extra-judicial confession is required to be made before a particular person and not in front of so many people as stated by PW-8 Dipender Thapa. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

29. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rahim Beg v. State of U.P. reported in (1972) 3 SCC 759, have held that where extra-judicial confession is alleged to have been made to a person having no history of previous association between the witness and the confessing accused as may justify the inference that the accused could repose confidence in him, it is highly improbable that the accused would have gone to him and blurt out a confession. Their Lordships have held as under:

> " 18. We may now deal with the evidence regarding the extra-judicial confession of the two accused to Mohammad Nasim Khan (P.W.4) and the recovery of ornaments belonging to the deceased from the two accused. It is primarily upon these two pieces of prosecution evidence that the conviction of the accused has been based. So far as the confession to Mohd. Nasim Khan is concerned, we find that, according to the said witness, the two accused came to him at his house in Sakunpur on August 4, 1969 and told him about their having raped and killed the daughter of Ramjas by strangulating her as well as regarding the removal of her ornaments. Mohammad Nasim Khan belongs to another village. There was no history of previous association between the witness and the two accused as may justify the inference that the accuse could repose confidence in him. In the circumstances, it seems highly improbable that the two accused would go to Mohammad Nasim Khana and blurt out a confession. It is also no clear as to why the two accused should try to run away on seeing the police party coming with Mohammad Nasim Khan if Mohammad Nasim Khan had gone to the police at the request of the accused. According to Mohammad Nasim Khan, Gur Sewak PW was with the police Sub Inspector when the Sub-Inspector came with Mohammad Nasim Khan to his house and apprehended the accused. The evidence of Ramjas PW however, shows that Gur Sewak PW went with Ramjas to the mortuary on the night between 3 and 4 August, 1969 and that on August 4, 1969 Gur Sewak remained with Ramjas throughout the day at Rae Bareli. It was on August 5, 1969 that, according to Ramjas, he and Gur Sewak returned to their village after throwing the dead body of Kesh Kali in Sain river. It would thus appear that Ramjas PW who, being the father of the deceased, had no particular reason to damage the prosecution case and to support the accused has contradicted Mohammad Nasim Khan has on the point that Gur Sewak PW was with the police Sub-Inspector on August 4, 1969. The fact that Mohammad Nasim Khan has deposed regarding the presence of Gur Sewak with the police Sub-Inspector with a view to support the prosecution case even though, according to Ramjas PW, Gur Sewak was not with the police Sub-Inspector shows that Mohammad Nasim Khan has scant regard for truth. The evidence of extra-judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence. The evidence in this respect adduced by the prosecution in the present case is not only of a frail nature, it is lacking in probability and does not inspire confidence.

In this case, there was no previous association of the accused with PW-1 Puran Chand except that PW-1 stated that accused and Dipender used to come to buy articles from his shop.

30. A Division Bench of Gauhati High Court in Akanman Bora v. State of Assam reported in Cr. LJ 1988 (3) 572, has held that since there was no disclosure of name of the victim, extra-judicial confession was a weak piece of evidence. It was found to be infirm. It was held that:

> "12. The Village Defence Party members PW 5 Prasad Saikia and PW 6 Padmaswar Bora intercepted the accused in the night of 22-5-1981. It is in their evidence that on quarry the accused disclosed to them that he committed murder of a person at Dhunaguri village. They took the accused to Bangalmara police post and handed him over to the Officer-in-Charge of that post. Both the witnesses were independent and disinterested. They had no reason whatsoever to falsely manufacture the statement of extra-judicial confession of the accused to falsely implicate him. However, that extra-judicial confession suffers from infirmity, as there was no disclosure of the name of the victim. extra-judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence. When it suffers infirmity, as in the instant case, it further loses its evidentiary value. Therefore, the type of extra-judicial confession narrated by PWs 5 and 6 in no way helps the prosecution.

In the instant case also, as noticed above, PW-1 stated that accused proclaimed before him that he has killed a woman without naming her.

31. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Rajasthan v. Kashi Ram reported in (2006) 12 SCC 254, have held that extra-judicial confession is a weak piece of evidence and it must be proved like any other fact. Their Lordships have held as under:

> " 14. On appeal, the High Court reversed the findings of fact recorded by the trial court and acquitted the respondent. Before adverting to the other incriminating circumstances we may at the threshold notice two of them, namely, the circumstance that the respondent made an extra-judicial confession before PWs 3 and 4, and the circumstance that recoveries were made pursuant to his statement made in the course of investigation of the waist cord used for strangulating Kalawati (the deceased) and the keys of the locks which were put on the two doors of his house. The High Court has disbelieved the evidence led by the prosecution to prove these circumstances and we find ourselves in agreement with the High Court. There was really no reason for the respondent to make a confessional statement before PWs 3 and 4. There was nothing to show that he had reasons to confide in them. The evidence appeared to be unnatural and unbelievable. The High Court observed that evidence of extrajudicial confession is a weak piece of evidence and though it is possible to base a conviction on the basis of an extra-judicial confession, the confessional evidence must be proved like any other fact and the value thereof depended upon the veracity of the witnesses to whom it was made. The High Court found that PW 3 Dinesh Kumar was known to Mamraj, the brother of deceased Kalawati. PW 3 was neither a Sarpanch nor a ward member and, therefore, there was no reason for the respondent to repose faith in him to seek his protection. Similarly, PW 4 admitted that h e was not even acquainted with the accused. Having regard to these facts and circumstances, we agree with the High Court that the case of the prosecution that the respondent had made an extra-judicial confession before PWs 3 and 4 must be rejected."

In the instant case, extra-judicial confession is alleged to have been made before PW-1, Puran Chand. Extra-judicial confession is not corroborated and lacking detailed particulars. Facts and circumstances of the case rule out possibility of making alleged extra-judicial confession before PW-1 Puran Chand.

32. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. Judgment dated 30.4.2011 rendered by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track court, Solan, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh in Sessions Trial No. 3FTC/7 of 2009 is set aside. Accused is acquitted of the offence under Section 302 IPC by giving him benefit of doubt. He be released forthwith, if not required in any other case by the Police. Fine amount, if any, deposited by the accused, be refunded to him. Registry is directed to issue the release warrants of the accused and send the same to the Superintendent of Jail, concerned immediately.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Harish Chander & others ...Petitioners
Versus
Financial Commissioner and others ...Respondents

CWP No. 2813 of 2013
Date of decision: 1.5.2015

H.P. Land Revenue Act, 1954- Section 45- Petitioners filed an application before Learned A.C. 2nd Grade stating that they were in possession and their possession be recorded in the revenue record- correction of revenue record was ordered by Learned A.C. 2nd Grade- this order was challenged unsuccessfully before Sub Divisional Collector and Divisional Commissioner - orders were set aside by Financial Commissioner- petitioners claimed that amount of Rs.10,000/- was received by predecessor-in-interest of the respondent and the possession was delivered at the spot- held, that oral sales were not permissible in the year 1980 when amount was paid- sale was effected for more than Rs. 100/- and could have only been made by way of registered document - statement was vague and will not amount to the sale - land had vested in BBMB at the time of making of statement- borrowing of Rs. 10,000/- and putting the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners in possession will not amount to acquiring right or interest. (Para-4 to 16)

Case referred:

Tara Chand and others versus Virender Singh and another, ILR, HP, 2015, (XLV)-II, Page, 367

For the Petitioners: Mr. Digvijay Singh, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr.V.K. Verma, Mr.Rupinder Singh, Additional Advocate Generals with Ms.Parul Negi, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent No. 1.
Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate, for respondents No. 2 to 6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan J. (Oral).

By medium of this writ petition, the petitioners have called in question the order passed by the Financial Commissioner (Appeals), whereby he accepted the appeal preferred by the private respondents and rejected the claim of the petitioners seeking correction of entries in revenue records.

The facts in brief may be noticed.

2. The predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners filed an application before the Assistant Collector IInd Grade, Sundernagar on 13.12.1987 stating that he was in possession of Khasra No. 441 and 442, kita 2 measuring 1116.0 Sq. meters situate in village Ropa since 1980 and therefore, his possession be recorded in the revenue record. The Assistant Collector IInd Grade vide his order dated 29.2.1988, ordered the correction of the revenue records w.e.f. Rabi Girdwari on 1988. This order was challenged by the private respondents before the Sub Divisional Commissioner, who upheld the same. In further challenge, even the Divisional Commissioner upheld this order, constraining the private respondents to approach the Financial Commissioner, who finally allowed the petition and quashed the orders passed by all the authorities below.

3. The petitioners have challenged this order as being based on assumptions and presumptions, conjectures and surmises. They have further averred that once the consideration amount of Rs.10,000/- had been received by the predecessor-in-interest of the respondents and possession delivered to their predecessor-in-interest, then there was nothing wrong with the orders passed by the revenue authorities in ordering the entry of possession in favour of the petitioners in the revenue records.

4. The private respondents 2 to 6, who are the successors of Lal Man, have in their reply averred that in the year 1980 when an amount of Rs.10,000/- is alleged to have been paid to their predecessor Lal Man by the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners, then oral sales were not permissible and whereas under Section 17 of the Registration Act, the sale deed was compulsorily required to be registered since the value of the sale consideration was more than Rs.100/-. It is also submitted that Lal Man at the relevant time had no right, title and interest or authority to sell the land as he was neither its owner nor in possession and the same at that time belonged to the Bhakra Beas Management Board. It is also contended that the A.C. IInd Grade had no power to record the statements of the parties and further had no jurisdiction to change the revenue entries on the basis of the impermissible oral sale.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records of the case.

6. It would be seen from the records that the possession of the petitioners had been ordered to be recorded only on the basis of a statement alleged to have been made by Sh.Lal Man before the Assistant Collector IInd Grade on 19.2.1988 when the proceedings were infact pending before it. It is recorded therein that he had received Rs.10,000/- from Sadhu, father of Mangat Ram as sale consideration and he therefore, had no objection in case the possession of Mangat Ram is recorded over the land in dispute.

7. Interestingly, this statement bears a thumb impression, whereas it has been proved on record that Sh.Lal Man was literate and therefore, there was no occasion for him to have put his thumb impression on the statement. The relevant portion of the statement reads thus:-

> "That khata khatauni min 68/183, Khasra No. 441, 452, area 1116 sq. mt. has been given in 'Bhai Bandi' to Shri Sadhu S/o Sidhu, who are growing vegetables, they are not paying me any rent but they have given me Rs.10,000/- in the shape of a sale, I owe them back the said money and at this juncture I do not possess the money to return them."

8. Apparently, this statement is absolutely vague and by no standards can be construed to be an agreement of sale. Above all, where was the necessity of recording such statement particularly when the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners is alleged to have paid the entire sale consideration. Why he did not choose to file a suit for specific performance for having the agreement enforced? Why did he approach the revenue authorities instead of the Civil Court, is not forthcoming. After all any person who had paid the entire sale consideration would be more interested in getting the agreement enforced and claim title, rather than just seeking a mere paper entry regarding possession in the revenue record.

9. That apart, it has come on record that the land at the time when the statement was recorded was in fact vested with the BBMB and therefore, the statement of Sh. Lal Man was otherwise of no consequence.

10. Above all, what surprise me is the fact that though the order dated 29.2.1988 was itself under challenge initially before the Sub Divisional Collector and thereafter before the Divisional Commissioner himself, yet an officer that too of the rank of the Divisional Commissioner would still choose to rely upon the revenue entries which in turn were admittedly based upon the impugned orders itself that too by attaching presumption of truth to it in accordance with Section 45 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act, 1954 (for short 'Act'). The relevant observation is extracted below:-

> "I have considered the arguments put forth by the parties and have also gone through the record and law. It transpires from the record that as per statement of Sh. Lalman, predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners recorded by the AC IInd grade Sunder Nagar on 19.02.1988 has categorically stated that he had received Rs.10,000/- from the predecessor in interest of the present respondents in the shape of sale of land and has admitted that the land under dispute is possessed by the present respondents. Record further shows that on this statement, the AC IInd Grade Sunder Nagar has passed the order on 29.02.1988 for correction of revenue entries on the patent facts prevailing on the spot for which he is competent to do. It is also on the record that after attestation of the mutation of correction it had been implemented in the subsequent Jamabandi of Muhal Ropa prepared in year 1988-89, 1993-94, 1998-99 and 2003-04. These entries incorporated in the above Jamabandis, have got presumption of truth in accordance with Section 45 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act, 1954. The petitioners could not establish their claim raised by them in the present revision. There is no illegalities or irregularities in the orders passed by both the courts below. Hence, the revision fails."

11. The aforesaid passage reflects complete ignorance and lack of legal knowledge of the Divisional Commissioner or else there was no occasion for him to have invoked the provisions of Section 45 of the Act when the order passed by the A.C.IInd Grade on 29.02.1988 on the sole basis of which the revenue entries had admittedly been ordered to be corrected was itself under challenge before him.

12. It is in similar circumstances that a coordinate Bench of this Court (Justice Rajiv Sharma) in CMPMO No.421 of 2014 titled Tara Chand and others versus Virender Singh and another, decided on 19.03.2015, was constrained to make the following observations:

> "13 This Court is of the considered view that the Assistant Collector or Collector, Commissioner and Financial Commissioner (Appeals), must have the requisite legal background to adjudicate the matters under the H.P. Land Revenue Act, 1953. They determine the valuable rights of the parties. The quasi judicial authorities are also required to take notice of the facts and thereafter to apply the law. The adjudication by the revenue authorities has certain trappings of the Court as well.
>
> 14. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Thakur Jugal Kishore Sinha vrs. The Sitamarhi Central Co-operative Bank Ltd. And another*, reported in* AIR 1967 SC 1494*, have held that the Assistant Registrar discharging functions of Registrar under S. 48 read with S. 6 (2) of Bihar and Orissa Co-operative Societies Act is a Court. Their lordships have held as under:*
>
>> "11. It will be noted from the above that the jurisdiction of the ordinary civil and revenue courts of the land is ousted under s. 57 L4 Sup. Cl/67-12 of the Act in case of disputes which fell under S. 48. A Registrar exercising powers under S. 48 must therefore be held to discharge the duties which would otherwise have fallen on the ordinary civil and revenue courts of the land. The Registrar has not merely the trappings of a court but in many respects he is given the same powers as are given to ordinary civil courts of the land by the Code of Civil Procedure including the power to summon and; examine witnesses on oath, the power to order inspection of documents, to hear the parties after framing issues, to review his own, order and even exercise the inherent jurisdiction of courts mentioned in s. 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure. In such -a case, there is no difficulty in holding that in adjudicating upon a dispute referred under s. 48 of the Act, the Registrar is to all intents and purposes a court discharging the same functions and ,duties in the same manner as a court of law is expected to do.
>>
>> 20. It was sought to be argued that a reference of a dispute had to be filed before the Registrar and under sub-s. 2(b) of s. 48 the Registrar transferred it for disposal to the Assistant Registrar and therefore his position was the same as that of a nominee under the Bombay Cooperative Societies Act. We do not think that contention is sound merely because sub-s. (2) (c) of s. 48 authorises the Registrar to refer a dispute for disposal of an arbitrator or arbitrators. This procedure was however not adopted in this case and we need not pause to consider what would have been the effect if the matter had been so transferred. The Assistant Registrar had all the powers of a Registrar in this case as noted in the delegation and he was competent to dispose of it in the same manner as the Registrar would have done. It is interesting to note that under r. 68 sub-r. (10) of the Bihar and Orissa Cooperative Societies Rules, 1959 :

> "In proceedings before the Registrar or arbitrator a party may be represented by a legal practitioner."

In conclusion, therefore, we must hold that the Assistant Registrar was functioning as a court in deciding the dispute between the bank and the appellant and Jagannath Jha."

15. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Union of India vrs. R. Gandhi President, Madras Bar Association & connected matter*, reported in* (2010) 11 SCC 1*, have held that so far as technical members are concerned, mere experience in civil service, is not enough and to be technical members of tribunals, persons concerned should be persons with expertise in the area of law concerned or allied subjects and mere experience in civil service cannot be treated as technical expertise in the area of law concerned. Their lordships have further held that the rule of law can be meaningful only if there is an independent and impartial judiciary to render justice. An independent judiciary can exist only when persons with competence, ability and independence with impeccable character man the judicial institutions. Their lordships have held as under:*

"106. We may summarize the position as follows:

(a) A legislature can enact a law transferring the jurisdiction exercised by courts in regard to any specified subject (other than those which are vested in courts by express provisions of the Constitution) to any tribunal.

(b) All courts are tribunals. Any tribunal to which any existing jurisdiction of courts is transferred should also be a Judicial Tribunal. This means that such Tribunal should have as members, persons of a rank, capacity and status as nearly as possible equal to the rank, status and capacity of the court which was till then dealing with such matters and the members of the Tribunal should have the independence and security of tenure associated with Judicial Tribunals.

(c) Whenever there is need for `Tribunals', there is no presumption that there should be technical members in the Tribunals. When any jurisdiction is shifted from courts to Tribunals, on the ground of pendency and delay in courts, and the jurisdiction so transferred does not involve any technical aspects requiring the assistance of experts, the Tribunals should normally have only judicial members. Only where the exercise of jurisdiction involves inquiry and decisions into technical or special aspects, where presence of technical members will be useful and necessary, Tribunals should have technical members. Indiscriminate appointment of technical members in all Tribunals will dilute and adversely affect the independence of the Judiciary.

(d) The Legislature can re-organize the jurisdictions of Judicial Tribunals. For example, it can provide that a specified category of cases tried by a higher court can be tried by a lower court or vice versa (A standard example is the variation of pecuniary limits of courts). Similarly while constituting Tribunals, the Legislature can prescribe the qualifications/eligibility criteria. The same is however subject to Judicial Review. If the court in exercise of judicial review is of the view that such tribunalisation would adversely affect the independence of judiciary or the standards of judiciary, the court may interfere to preserve the independence and standards of judiciary. Such an exercise will be part of the checks and balances measures to maintain the separation of powers and to prevent any encroachment, intentional or unintentional, by either the legislature or by the executive.

108. The Legislature is presumed not to legislate contrary to rule of law and therefore know that where disputes are to be adjudicated by a Judicial Body other than Courts, its standards should approximately be the same as to what is expected of main stream Judiciary. Rule of law can be meaningful only if there is an independent and impartial judiciary to render justice. An independent judiciary can exist only when persons with competence, ability and independence with impeccable character man the judicial institutions. When the legislature proposes to substitute a Tribunal in place of the High Court to exercise the jurisdiction which the High Court is exercising, it goes without saying that the standards expected from the Judicial Members of the Tribunal and standards applied for appointing such members, should be as nearly as possible as applicable to High Court Judges, which are apart from a basic degree in law, rich experience in the practice of law, independent outlook, integrity, character and good reputation. It is also implied that only men of standing who have special expertise in the field to which the Tribunal relates, will be eligible for appointment as Technical members."

16. In the case of State of Gujarat and another vrs. Gujarat Revenue Tribunal Bar Association and another*, reported in* (2012) 10 SCC 353*, their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court have held that where there is a lis between the two contesting parties and a statutory authority is required to decide such dispute between them, such an authority may be called as a quasi-judicial authority i.e. a situation where, (a) a statutory authority is empowered under a statute to do any act; (b) the order of such authority would adversely affect the subject; and (c) although there is no lis or two contending parties, and the contest is between the authority and the subject; and (d) the statutory authority is required to act judicially under the statute, the decision of the such authority is a quasi judicial decision. Their lordships have held as under:*

"18. Tribunals have primarily been constituted to deal with cases under special laws and to hence provide for specialized adjudication alongside the courts. Therefore, a particular Act/set of Rules will determine whether the functions of a particular Tribunal are akin to those of the courts, which provide for the basic administration of justice. Where there is a lis between two contesting parties and a statutory authority is required to decide such dispute between them, such an authority may be called as a quasi-judicial authority, i.e., a situation where, (a) a statutory authority is empowered under a statute to do any act (b) the order of such authority would adversely affect the subject and (c) although there is no lis or two contending parties, and the contest is between the authority and the subject and (d) the statutory authority is required to act judicially under the statute, the decision of the said authority is a quasi judicial decision. An authority may be described as a quasi-judicial authority when it possesses certain attributes or trappings of a 'court', but not all. In case certain powers under C.P.C. or Cr.P.C. have been conferred upon an authority, but it has not been entrusted with the judicial powers of the State, it cannot be held to be a court.

21. The present case is also required to be examined in the context of Article 227 of the Constitution of India, with specific reference to the 42nd Constitutional Amendment Act 1976, where the expression 'court' stood by itself, and not in juxtaposition with the other expression used therein, namely, 'Tribunal'. The power of the High Court of judicial superintendence over the Tribunals, under the amended Article 227 stood obliterated. By way of the amendment in the sub article, the words, "and Tribunals" stood deleted and the words "subject to its appellate jurisdiction" have been substituted after the words, "all courts". In other words, this amendment purports to take away the High Court's power of superintendence over Tribunals. Moreover, the High Court's power has been restricted to have judicial superintendence only over judgments of inferior courts, i.e. judgments in cases where against the same, appeal or revision lies with the High Court. A question does arise as regards whether the expression 'courts' as it appears in the amended Article 227, is confined only to the regular civil or criminal courts that have been constituted under the hierarchy of courts and whether all Tribunals have in fact been excluded from the purview of the High Court's superintendence. Undoubtedly, all courts are Tribunals but all Tribunals are not courts.

22. The High Court's power of judicial superintendence, even under the amended provisions of Article 227 is applicable, provided that two conditions are fulfilled; firstly, such Tribunal, body or authority must perform judicial functions of rendering definitive judgments having finality, which bind the parties in respect of their rights, in the exercise of the sovereign judicial power transferred to it by the State, and secondly such Tribunal, body or authority should be the subject to the High Court's appellate or revisional jurisdiction.

23. In S.P. Sampath Kumar v. Union of India, AIR 1987 SC 346, this Court held that, in the Central Administrative Tribunal (hereinafter referred to as the 'CAT'), the presence of a judicial member was in fact a requirement of fair procedure of law, and that the administrative Tribunal must be presided over in such a manner, so as to inspire confidence in the minds of the people, to the effect that it is highly competent and an expert body, with judicial approach and objectivity and, thus, this Court held that the persons who preside over the CAT, which is intended to supplant the High Court must have adequate legal training and experience. This Court further observed that it was desirable that a high- powered committee, headed by a sitting Judge of the Supreme Court who has been nominated by the Chief Justice of India to be its Chairman, should select the persons who preside over the CAT, to ensure the selection of proper and competent people to the office of trust and help to build up its reputation and accountability. The Tribunal should consist of one Judicial Member and one Administrative Member on any Bench.

24. In L. Chandra Kumar v. Union of India & Ors., AIR 1997 SC 1125, this Court held that the power of judicial review of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, being a basic feature of the Constitution cannot be excluded. In this context, the Court held:

> "88....It must not be forgotten that what is permissible to be supplanted by another equally effective and efficacious institutional mechanism is the High Courts and not the judicial review itself......."

The Court further observed that the creation of this Tribunal is founded on the premise that, specialised bodies comprising of both, well trained administrative members and those with judicial experience, would by virtue of their specialised knowledge, be better equipped to dispense speedy and efficient justice. The contention that the said Tribunal should consist only of a judicial member was rejected, and it was held that such a direction would attack the primary grounds of the theory, pursuant to which such Tribunals were constituted.

25. In V.K. Majotra & Ors. v. Union of India & Ors., AIR 2003 SC 3909, this Court reversed the judgment of the Allahabad High Court wherein, direction had been issued that the Vice Chairman of the CAT could be only a retired Judge of the High Court, i.e., a Judicial Member and that such a post could not be held by a Member of the Administrative Service, observing that such a direction had put at naught/obliterated from the statute book, certain provisions without striking them down.

26. A Constitution Bench of this Court in Statesman (Private) Ltd. v. H.R. Deb & Ors., AIR 1968 SC 1495, examined the provisions of Sections 7(3)(d) and g(1) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, which contain the expression 'judicial office', and held that a person holds 'judicial office' if he is performing judicial functions. The scheme of Chapters V and VI of the Constitution deal with judicial office and judicial service. Judicial service means a separation of the judiciary from the executive in public services. The functions of the labour court are of great public importance and are quasi-judicial in nature, therefore, a man having experience of the civil side of the law is more suitable to preside over it, as compared to a person working on the criminal side. Persons employed performing multifarious duties and, in addition, performing some judicial functions, may not truly fulfil the requirement of the statute. Judicial office thus means, a fixed position for the performance of duties, which are primarily judicial in nature.

27. In Kumar Padma Prasad v. Union of India & Ors., (1992) 2 SCC 428, this Court held that the expression, `judicial office' in the generic sense, may include a wide variety of offices which are connected with the administration of justice in one way or another. The holder of a judicial office under Article 217(2)(a), means a person who exercises only judicial functions, determines cases inter- se parties and renders decisions in purely judicial capacity. He must belong to the judicial services which is a class in itself, is free from executive control, and is disciplined to hold the dignity, integrity and independence of the judiciary. The Court held that `judicial office' means a subsisting office with a substantive position, which has an existence independence from its holder.

……..

33. During the course of arguments before the High Court, learned Additional Advocate General had conceded that the judgments and orders passed by the Tribunal can be challenged under Article 227 of the Constitution. Thus, it has been conceded before the High Court that the High Court has supervisory control over the Tribunal, to the extent that it can revise and correct the judgments and orders passed by it. In such a fact-situation, the consultation/concurrence of the High Court, in the matter of making the appointment of the President of the Tribunal is required.

34. The object of consultation is to render the consultation meaningful to serve the intended purpose. It requires the meeting of minds between the parties involved in the process of consultation on the basis of material facts and points, to evolve a correct or at least satisfactory solution. If the power can be exercised only after consultation, consultation must be conscious, effective, meaningful and purposeful. It means that the party must disclose all the facts to other party for due deliberation. The consultee must express his opinion after full consideration of the matter upon the relevant facts and quintessence."

17. In the case of Satya Pal Anand vrs. State of Madhya Pradesh and another*, reported in* (2014) 7 SCC 244*, their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court have held that the Registrars, Joint Registrars of the Co-operative Societies and other officials discharging quasi-judicial functions are supposed to be conscious of competing rights and decide issues justly, fairly and by legally sustainable orders. The State Government was directed to* appoint suitable persons as Registrars, Joint Registrars, etc. commensurate with the functions exercised under scheme of State Cooperative Societies Act. Their lordships have held as under:

> "20. Having determined the question raised, we would like to emphasize the need for appointment of suitable persons not only as Registrar, Joint Registrar etc. but as Chairman and members of the tribunal as well. While discharging quasi-judicial functions Registrar, Joint Registrars etc. have to keep in mind that they have to be independent in their functioning. They are also expected to acquire necessary expertise to effectively deal with the disputes coming before them. They are supposed to be conscious of competing rights in order to decide the case justly and fairly and to pass the orders which are legally sustainable.
>
> 21. In this behalf, we would like to refer to judgment dated 3.9.2013 passed in the Review Petition (C) No.2309/2012 (Namit Sharma case). In that case, one unfortunate feature that was noted was that experience over the years has shown that the orders passed by Information Commissions have, at times, gone beyond the provisions of the Right to Information Act and that Information Commissions have not been able to harmonise the conflicting interests indicated in the preamble and other provisions of the Act. The reasons for this experience about the functioning of the Information Commissions could be either that the persons who do not answer the criteria mentioned in Sections 12(5) and 15(5) have been appointed as Chief Information Commissioner or that the persons appointed even when they answer the aforesaid criteria, they do not have the required mind to balance the interests indicated in the Act. It was therefore insisted that experienced suitable persons should be appointed who are able to perform their functions efficiently and effectively. In this behalf certain directions were given and one of the directions was that while making recommendation for appointment of CIC and Information Commissioners the Selection Committee must mention against name of each candidate recommended the facts to indicate his eminence in public life (which is the requirement of the provision of that Act), his knowledge and experience in the particular field and these facts must be accessible to the citizens as part of their right to information under that Act, after the appointment is made.
>
> 22. Taking clue from the aforesaid directions, and having gone through the similar dismal state of affairs expressed by the petitioner in the instant petition about the functioning of the cooperative societies, we direct that the State Government shall, keeping in mind the objective of the Act, the functions which the Registrar, Joint Registrar etc. are required to perform and commensurate with those, appointment of suitable persons shall be made. Likewise, having regard to the fact that the Chairman of the Tribunal is to be a judicial person, namely, Former Judge of the High Court or the District Judge, we are of the opinion that for appointment of the Chairman and the Members of the > Tribunal, the respondent- State is duty bound to keep in mind and follow the mandate of the Constitution Bench judgment of this Court in R.Gandhi (supra). Thus, for appointment of the Chairman and Members of the Tribunal, the selection to these posts should preferably be made by the Public Service Commission in consultation with the High Court."

>
> 18. In the case of Mamuda Khateen and ors. Vrs. Beniyan Bibi and ors., reported in AIR 1976 Calcutta 415, the Full Bench has held that where an appeal is barred by limitation and an application is made under Section 5 of the Limitation Act for condonation of delay alongwith the memorandum of appeal, until the application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act is allowed, the appeal cannot be finally allowed or admitted. It has been held as follows:
>
> > "7. It seems to us that when an appeal is barred by limitation and an application is made under Section 5 of the Limitation Act for condonation of the delay along with the memorandum of appeal, until the application under Section 5 is allowed the appeal cannot be filed or admitted at all. In other words, till a favourable order is made on the application under Section 5 the appeal is non est. In that event, the question of rejecting a memorandum of appeal does not arise at all at this stage."
>
> 22. It is reiterated that the functions discharged by the revenue authorities under the H.P. Land Revenue Act, 1953 are quasi-judicial in nature. They determine the lis between the parties. Their decision is binding upon the parties subject to appeal. The orders passed by the appellate authority are open to supervision under Article 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India. Under the scheme of the H.P. Land Revenue Act, 1953, in certain contingencies the revenue authorities can convert themselves into Courts and their orders are to be treated as decrees."

13. The very object of Constitution of Revenue Courts in the scheme of administration of justice was to provide an additional and speedy forum. It is, therefore, of uttermost importance to ensure that the revenue authorities work in a proper, effective and efficacious manner while exercising their power to hear and dispose of quasi-judicial matters of appeal, revision etc. which require some basic knowledge of law. While making decisions, the Revenue Courts must not lack judicious approach.

14. The Revenue Courts make decisions about fundamental issues which affect the rights of the parties and are treated as final unless challenged. It is, therefore, very critical that the Revenue Courts make fair decisions and must possess some basic knowledge of law as they have a sacrosanct duty to administer justice.

15. The Revenue Courts are conferred with the discretion to adjudicate upon quasi-judicial matters and such discretion is governed by the maxim "*discretio est discerner per lagan quid sit justum (*discretion consists in knowing what is just in law). Discretion in general is the discernment of what is right and proper. It denotes knowledge and prudence, that discernment which enables a person to judge critically of what is correct and proper united with caution, to discern between falsity and truth, between shadow and substance, between equity and colourable glosses and pretences and not to do according to the will and private affections or illwill. It has to be done according to the rules of reasons and justice, not according to private opinion. It has to be done according to law and not humour. It is not be arbitrary vague and fanciful but legal and regular.

16. Reverting back to the facts, the Financial Commissioner has rightly concluded that the basic question regarding borrowing of Rs.10,000/- and putting the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners in possession over the land temporarily, even if taken to be correct, cannot be equated with acquiring of right or interest, which otherwise was required to be established before a competent Court, that too after leading evidence to this effect.

17. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find no merit in this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Jagjeevan Singh and another …Petitioners.
Versus
State of H.P. and another ..Respondents.

CWP No. 618 of 2013
Date of decision: 1st May, 2015

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner sought a writ of certiorari for quashing an order of the cabinet to shift Divisional Office of HPPWD from Balakrupi to Tanda- held, that a decision to shift the office of DFO was a policy decision and the Court will not interfere with the same except where the policy is contrary to Law or Constitution or is arbitrary or irrational - merely because certain section of the public does not approve the decision is no ground to interfere with the same- petition dismissed. (Para-6 to 11)

Cases referred:
Nand Lal and another vs. State of H.P. and others, 2014 (2) HLR (DB) 982
Census Commissioner and others vs. R. Krishnamurthy (2015) 2 SCC 796

For the Petitioners: Mr. R.K.Sharma, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Gaurav Thakur, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr. Virender Kumar Verma, Mr. Rupinder Singh, Additional Advocate Generals, with Ms. Parul Negi, Dy. Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (Oral)

By medium of this petition, the petitioner has sought writ of certiorari for quashing order dated 2.2.2013 (Annexure P-27) whereby the State Government in its Cabinet meeting decided to shift back the Divisional Office of HPPWD (for short 'Division') from Balakrupi to Tanda.

2. The petitioners have averred that in teeth of more than 25 resolutions of various Panchayats, the decision of the respondents to shift back the division from Balakrupi to Tanda is illegal, malafide, discriminatory and appears to be a political motivated to harass the public or else such a decision would not have been arrived at.

3. In response to the writ petition, the respondents in their reply have stated that shifting of the division to Tanda is a conscious decision taken by the Cabinet keeping in view the work load of Kangra Division which has the jurisdiction over six sub-divisions. The present work load in this division is of `4279.62 lacs. Moreover, because of the Medical College at Tanda, more attention to the building works was required to be paid as the sanctioned work of these buildings alone was `4863.64 lacs.

4. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case carefully.

5. Mr. V.K. Verma, learned Additional Advocate General has raised preliminary objection regarding the very maintainability of the writ petition on the ground that impugned decision regarding shifting of division is a policy matter and, therefore, should not be interfered with by the Courts. While on the other hand, learned counsel for the petitioners would argue that this Court can always exercise powers of judicial review even in policy matters when the same is contrary to law or is in violation of the provisions of the Constitution or is arbitrary or irrational and Courts must perform their constitutional duties by striking it down.

6. A similar question came up for consideration before the learned Division Bench of this Court (of which I was one of the member) in CWP No. 621 of 2014 titled Nand Lal and another vs. *State of H.P. and others reported in 2014 (2) HLR (DB) 982 where the petitioners therein had challenged the decision of the Government to open a Government Degree College at Diggal on the ground that the same should be opened at Ramshehar (Nalagarh) because the Panchayats of the area of Ramshehar had made demand for sanctioning and opening of the College at Ramshehar which was more feasible and centrally located. This Court held as under:

> "4. Heard. The moot question for consideration in this writ petition is-whether the petitioners can question the decision made by the Government for opening a Government Post Graduate College at Diggal, District Solan?
>
> 5. During the process of consideration of the issue, the residents of various Gram Panchayats of Ramshehar area made resolution(s) and represented to the Government for sanctioning and opening a Degree College at Ramshehar (Nalagarh), District Solan, instead of at Diggal, District Solan. After considering all the documents and keeping in view the policy-norms, governing the field, the respondents made decision to open the said college at Diggal.
>
> 6. The petitioners are aggrieved for the reason that the State Government has not made decision in accordance with the facts, their contentions read with norms and policy.

7. It is a beaten law of land that Government decision and policy cannot be subject matter of a writ petition, unless its arbitrariness is shown in the decision making process.

8. It is averred that Panchayats of the area of Ramshehar have made demand for sanctioning and opening the said college at the said place, which is centrally located and is feasible also.

9. The Apex Court in Sidheshwar Sahakari Sakhar Karkhana Ltd. Vs. Union of India and others, 2005 AIR SCW 1399, has laid down the guidelines and held that Courts should not interfere in policy decision of the Government, unless there is arbitrariness on the face of it.

10. The Apex Court in a latest decision reported in Manohar Lal Sharma Vs. Union of India and another, (2013) 6 SCC 616, also held that interference by the Court on the ground of efficacy of the policy is not permissible. It is apt to reproduce paragraph 14 of thesaid decision as under:

> "14. On matters affecting policy, this Court does not interfere unless the policy is unconstitutional or contrary to the statutory provisions or arbitrary or irrational or in abuse of power. The impugned policy that allows FDI up to 51% in multi-brand retail trading does not appear to suffer from any of these vices."

14. The Apex Court in the case titled as Mrs. Asha Sharma versus Chandigarh Administration and others, reported in 2011 AIR SCW 5636 has held that policy decision cannot be quashed on the ground that another decision would have been more fair, wise, scientific or logical and in the interest of society. It is apt to reproduce para 10 herein:

> "10. The Government is entitled to make pragmatic adjustments and policy decisions, which may be necessary or called for under the prevalent peculiar circumstances. The Court may not strike down a policy decision taken by the Government merely because it feels that another decision would have been more fair or wise, scientific or logic. The principle of reasonableness and nonarbitrariness in governmental action is the core of our constitutional scheme and structure. Its interpretation will always depend upon the facts and circumstances of a given case. Reference in this regard can also be made to Netai Bag v. State of West Bengal [(2000) 8 SCC 262 : (AIR 2000 SC 3313)]."

15. It appears that the respondents have examined all aspects and made the decision. Thus, it cannot be said that the decision making process is bad. The Court can not sit in appeal and examine correctness of policy decision. The Apex Court in the case titled as Bhubaneswar Development Authority and another versus Adikanda Biswal and others, reported in (2012) 11 SCC 731 laid down the same principle. It is apt to reproduce para 19 of the judgment herein:

> "19. We are of the view that the High Court was not justified in sitting in appeal over the decision taken by the statutory authority under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It is trite law that the power of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is not directed against the decision but is confined to the decision making process. The judicial review is not an appeal from a decision, but a review of the manner in which the decision is made and the Court sits in judgment only on the correctness of the decision making process and not on the correctness of the decision itself. The Court confines itself to the question of legality and is concerned only with, whether the decision making authority exceeded its power, committed an error of law, committed a breach of the rules of natural justice, reached an unreasonable decision or abused its powers."

7. The aforesaid judgment was followed by the learned Division Bench of this Court (of which I was one of the member) in CWP No. 4625 of 2012 titled Gurbachan vs. State of H.P. and others, decided on 15th July, 2014, which pertained to the shifting of the veterinary dispensary from village Kosri to village Lunus, in Tehsil Nalagarh, District Solan, H.P. This Court after reiterating what had been stated in Nand Lal's case (supra) refused to interfere and observed that this Court cannot sit in appeal and examine the correctness of a policy decision.

8. The scope of judicial review and its exclusion was a subject matter of a recent decision by three Judges of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Census Commissioner and others vs. R. Krishnamurthy (2015) 2 SCC 796 and it was held that it is not within the domain of Courts to embark upon enquiry as to whether particular public policy is wise and acceptable or whether better policy could be evolved, Court can only interfere if policy framed is absolutely capricious or not informed by reasons or totally arbitrary and founded on ipse dixit offending Article 14. It was held as under:

"23. The centripodal question that emanates for consideration is whether the High Court could have issued such a mandamus commanding the appellant to carry out a census in a particular manner.

24. The High Court has tried to inject the concept of social justice to fructify its direction. It is evincible that the said direction has been issued without any deliberation and being oblivious of the principle that the courts on very rare occasion, in exercise of powers of judicial review, would interfere with a policy decision.

25. Interference with the policy decision and issue of a mandamus to frame a policy in a particular manner are absolutely different. The Act has conferred power on the Central Government to issue Notification regarding the manner in which the census has to be carried out and the Central Government has issued Notifications, and the competent authority has issued directions. It is not within the domain of the Court to legislate. The courts do interpret the law and in such interpretation certain creative process is involved. The courts have the jurisdiction to declare the law as unconstitutional. That too, where it is called for. The court may also fill up the gaps in certain spheres applying the doctrine of constitutional silence or abeyance. But, the courts are not to plunge into policy making by adding something to the policy by way of issuing a writ of mandamus. There the judicial restraint is called for remembering what we have stated in the beginning. The courts are required to understand the policy decisions framed by the Executive. If a policy decision or a Notification is arbitrary, it may invite the frown of Article 14 of the Constitution. But when the Notification was not under assail and the same is in consonance with the Act, it is really unfathomable how the High Court could issue directions as to the manner in which a census would be carried out by adding certain aspects. It is, in fact, issuance of a direction for framing a policy in a specific manner.

26. In this context, we may refer to a three-Judge Bench decision in Suresh Seth V. Commr., Indore Municipal Corporation, (2005) 13 SCC 287 wherein a prayer was made before this Court to issue directions for appropriate amendment in the M.P. Municipal Corporation Act, 1956 so that a person may be debarred from simultaneously holding two elected offices, namely, that of a Member of the Legislative Assembly and also of a Mayor of a Municipal Corporation. Repelling the said submission, the Court held: (SCC pp. 288-89, para 5)

> "5……In our opinion, this is a matter of policy for the elected representatives of people to decide and no direction in this regard can be issued by the Court. That apart this Court cannot issue any direction to the legislature to make any particular kind of enactment. Under out constitutional scheme Parliament and Legislative Assemblies exercise sovereign power to enact laws and no outside power or authority can issue a direction to enact a particular piece of legislation. In Supreme Court Employees' Welfare Assn. v. Union of India (1989) 4 SCC 187 (SCC para 51) it has been held that no court can direct a legislature to enact a particular law. Similarly, when an executive authority exercises a legislative power by way of a subordinate legislation pursuant to the delegated authority of a legislature, such executive authority cannot be asked to enact a law which it has been empowered to do under the delegated legislative authority. This view has been reiterated in state of J & K v A.R. Zakki, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 548. In A.K. Roy v. Union of India, (1982) 1 SCC 271, it was held that no mandamus can be issued to enforce an Act which has been passed by the legislature."

27. At this juncture, we may refer to certain authorities about the justification in interference with the policy framed by the Government. It needs no special emphasis to state that interference with the policy, though is permissible in law, yet the policy has to be scrutinized with ample circumspection.

28. In N.D. Jayal and Anr. V. Union of India & Ors.(2004) 9 SCC 362, the Court has observed that in the matters of policy, when the Government takes a decision bearing in mind several aspects, the Court should not interfere with the same. In Narmada Bachao Andolan V. Union of India (2000) 10 SCC 664, it has been held thus: (SCC p. 762, para 229)

> " 229. "It is now well settled that the courts, in the exercise of their jurisdiction, will not transgress into the field of policy decision. Whether to have an infrastructural project or not and what is the type of project to be undertaken and how it has to be executed, are part of policy-making process and the courts are ill-equipped to adjudicate on a policy decision so undertaken. The court, no doubt, has a duty to see that in the undertaking of a decision, no law is violated and people's fundamental rights are not transgressed upon except to the extent permissible under the Constitution."

29. In this context, it is fruitful to refer to the authority in Rusom Cavasiee Cooper V. Union of India, (1970) 1 SCC 248, wherein it has been expressed thus: (SCC p. 294, para 63)

"63….It is again not for this Court to consider the relative merits of the different political theories or economic policies… This Court has the power to strike down a law on the ground of want of authority, but the Court will not sit in appeal over the policy of Parliament in enacting a law".

30. In Premium Granites V. State of Tamil Nadu, (1994) 2 SCC 691 while dealing with the power of the courts in interfering with the policy decision, the Court has ruled that: (SCC p.715, para 54)

"54. it is not the domain of the court to embark upon unchartered ocean of public policy in an exercise to consider as to whether a particular public policy is wise or a better public policy could be evolved. Such exercise must be left to the discretion of the executive and legislative authorities as the case may be. The court is called upon to consider the validity of a public policy only when a challenge is made that such policy decision infringes fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution of India or any other statutory right."

31. In M.P. Oil Extraction and Anr. V. State of M.P. & Ors.(1997) 7 SCC 592, a two-Judge Bench opined that: (SCC p. 611, para 41)

"41…….. The executive authority of the State must be held to be within its competence to frame a policy for the administration of the State. Unless the policy framed is absolutely capricious and, not being informed by any reason whatsoever, can be clearly held to be arbitrary and founded on mere ipse dixit of the executive functionaries thereby offending Article 14 of the Constitution or such policy offends other constitutional provisions or comes into conflict with any statutory provision, the Court cannot and should not outstep its limit and tinker with the policy decision of the executive functionary of the State."

32. In State of M.P. V. Narmada Bachao Andolan & Anr.(2011) 7 SCC 639, after referring to the State of Punjab V. Ram Lubhaya Bagga (1998) 4 SCC 117 , the Court ruled thus: (SCC pp. 670-71, para 36)

"36. The Court cannot strike down a policy decision taken by the Government merely because it feels that another decision would have been fairer or more scientific or logical or wiser. The wisdom and advisability of the policies are ordinarily not amenable to judicial review unless the policies [pic]are contrary to statutory or constitutional provisions or arbitrary or irrational or an abuse of power. (See Ram Singh Vijay Pal Singh v. State of U.P., (2007) 6 SCC 44, Villianur Iyarkkai Padukappu Maiyam v. Union of India, (2009) 7 SCC 561 and State of Kerala v. Peoples Union for Civil Liberties, (2009) 8 SCC 46.)"

33. From the aforesaid pronouncement of law, it is clear as noon day that it is not within the domain of the courts to embark upon an enquiry as to whether a particular public policy is wise and acceptable or whether a better policy could be evolved. The court can only interfere if the policy framed is absolutely capricious or not informed by reasons or totally arbitrary and founded ipse dixit offending the basic requirement of Article 14 of the Constitution. In certain matters, as often said, there can be opinions and opinions but the Court is not expected to sit as an appellate authority on an opinion."

9. Aforesaid exposition of law would go to show that policy matters cannot normally be interfered with by the Courts, except where the policy is contrary to law or is in violation of the provisions of the Constitution or is arbitrary or irrational and the Courts must then perform their constitutional duties by striking it down.

10. Therefore, the moot question required to be considered is as to whether merely because certain section of the general public does not subscribe and approve the decision of the Government for transferring the division from Balakrupi to Tanda, can the same be nullified on this ground alone. It is more than settled that individual interest must yield in favour of societal and public interest and this Court would only interfere with policy decision if the petitioners can carve out a case falling within the parameters as set out in para 9 supra.

11. The requirement of having a full fledged Government Medical College at Tanda is of paramount importance as the same shall cater to the medical needs of nearly half of the State because of its strategic location. Once an amount of `4863.64 lacs is being spent on the building works of this College, it is then obvious that these works will have to be overseen, monitored and supervised. Therefore, in such circumstances, no fault can be found with the decision of the respondents whereby they took a decision to transfer the Divisional Office of the HPPWD from Balakrupi to Tanda. The petitioners have failed to point out as to how and in what manner this decision is either arbitrary or irrational much less capricious or whimsical.

12. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find no ground to interfere in this petition, hence the same is dismissed along with pending application(s) if any. The parties are left to bear their own costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Smt. Kamla Devi & others …Appellants.
Versus
Shri Ravinder Gupta …Respondent.

FAO No. 214 of 2008
Decided on: 01.05.2015

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Rashness and negligence is an essential ingredient for maintaining the claim petition- it is for the claimant to lead evidence and to prove on preponderance of probabilities that the driver had driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently- respondent examined 6 witnesses who proved that respondent was not driving the vehicle but deceased was driving the vehicle at the time of accident- this evidence was not rebutted- therefore, claimants are not entitled for any compensation. (Para- 4 to 8)

For the appellants: Mr. H.C. Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondent: Ms. Leena Guleria, Advocate, vice Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is award, dated 04.12.2007, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Mandi, H.P., Camp at Karsog (for short "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No. 40 of 2003, titled as Smt. Kamla Devi and others versus Shri Ravinder Gupta, whereby the claim petition filed by the appellants came to be dismissed, however, Rs.50,000/- came to be awarded under 'No Fault Liability' (for short "the impugned award").

2. The owner-insured-respondent herein has not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to him.

3. Learned counsel for the appellants-claimants argued that the vehicle, i.e. maruti car, bearing registration No. HP-30-0097, was driven by the respondent herein, namely Shri Ravinder Gupta, rashly and negligently on 31.12.2002, near Chindi and caused the accident, in which deceased, namely Shri Prem Singh, sustained injuries and succumbed to the injuries.

4. It is beaten law of land that sine qua non for maintaining the claim petitions is rash and negligent driving of the vehicle by its driver.

5. It was for the claimants-appellants to lead evidence and to prove by preponderance of probabilities that the driver had driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently.

6. The respondent-Ravinder Gupta has examined six witnesses. All of them have stated that Ravinder Gupta was not driving the offending vehicle at the relevant point of time, but, it was Prem Singh, who had snatched the keys from Ravinder Gupta and driven the car, which met with the accident.

7. Learned counsel for the appellants-claimants half heartedly argued that FIR was registered against Ravinder Gupta and there is evidence on the file that he was driving the offending vehicle at the relevant point of time, but was not able to shatter the evidence led by Ravinder Gupta. The fact of the matter is that it was deceased-Prem Singh who was driving the offending vehicle at the time of the accident, as held by the Tribunal while passing the impugned award.

8. Having glance of the above discussions, I am of the considered view that the impugned award is well reasoned, legal one and needs no interference.

9. Accordingly, the appeal is dismissed and the impugned award is upheld, as indicated hereinabove.

10. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Manohar Lal .....Appellant
Versus
Sukh Bahadur & others ...Respondents

FAO No. 399 of 2007
Decided on : 1.05.2015

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Driver was driving the Mahindra Jeep whose gross weight is 2270 kilograms, therefore, it falls within the definition of light motor vehicle and endorsement of PSV is not required in the driving license– Insurance Company had not led any evidence that accident had taken place due to the reason that driver of the offending vehicle was competent to drive one kind of vehicle and he was found driving different kind of vehicle – held that in these circumstance, Tribunal had fallen in error in saddling the owner and the driver with the liability. (Para-5 to 23)

Cases referred:
National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531
Lal Chand versus Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., 2006 AIR SCW 4832,
Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217

For the appellant : Mr. Y.P. Sood, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Sanjeev Kuthiala, Advocate for respondents No. 1 & 2.
Mr. J.S. Bagga, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Subject mater of this appeal is the award, dated 18th June, 2007, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Fast Track, Kullu, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal") in Claim Petition No. 71 of 2004, titled Sh. Sukh Bahadur & another versus Sh. Manohar Lal & others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.1,75,000/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization, was awarded in favour of the claimants and the owner and the driver came to be saddled with the liability (hereinafter referred to as the "impugned award").

2. The claimants, the driver and the insurer have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality so far as it relates to them.

3. The insured-owner has challenged the impugned award on the ground that the driver was having the valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident and he has not committed any breach.

4. Thus, the only issue to be determined in this appeal is-whether the Tribunal has rightly discharged the insurer-Oriental Insurance Company from the liability and saddled the owner and the driver with the same.

5. Admittedly, the driver was driving Mahindra Jeep bearing registration No. HP-34-0432, the gross weight of which is 2270 kilograms, as per the Registration Certificate, Ext. R-3, is a light motor vehicle.

6. I deem it proper to reproduce the definitions of "driving licence", "light motor vehicle", "private service vehicle" and "transport vehicle", as contained in Sections 2 (10), 2 (21), 2(35) and 2 (47), respectively of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, (hereinafter referred to as 'the MV Act') herein:

> "2. ....
>
> (10) "driving licence" means the licence issued by a competent authority under Chapter II authorising the person specified therein to drive, otherwise than a learner, a motor vehicle or a motor vehicle of any specified class or description.
>
> xxx xxx xxx
>
> (21) "light motor vehicle" means a transport vehicle or omnibus the gross vehicle weight of either of which or a motor car or tractor or road-roller the unladen weight of any of which, does not exceed 7,500 kilograms.
>
> xxx xxx xxx
>
> (35) "public service vehicle" means any motor vehicle used or adapted to be used for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward, and includes a maxicab, a motorcab, contract carriage, and stage carriage.
>
> xxx xxx xxx
>
> (47) "transport vehicle" means a public service vehicle, a goods carriage , an educational institution bus or a private service vehicle."

7. Section 2 (21) of the MV Act provides that a "light motor vehicle" means a transport vehicle or omnibus, the gross vehicle weight of either of which or a motor car or tractor or road roller the unladen weight of any of which, does not exceed 7500 kilograms. Section 2 (35) of the MV Act gives the definition of a "public service vehicle", which means any vehicle, which is used or allowed to be used for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward and includes a maxicab, a motorcab, contract carriage and stage carriage. It does not include light motor vehicle (LMV). Section 2 (47) of the MV Act defines a "transport vehicle". It means a public service vehicle, a goods carriage, an educational institution bus or a private service vehicle.

8. At the cost of repetition, definition of "light motor vehicle" includes the words "transport vehicle" also. Thus, the definition, as given, mandates the "light motor vehicle" is itself a "transport vehicle", whereas the definitions of other vehicles are contained in Sections 2(14), 2 (16), 2 (17), 2 (18), 2 (22), 2 (23) 2 (24), 2 (25), 2 (26), 2 (27), 2 (28) and 2 (29) of the MV Act. In these definitions, the words "transport vehicle" are neither used nor included and that is the reason, the definition of "transport vehicle" is given in Section 2 (47) of the MV Act.

9. In this backdrop, we have to go through Section 3 and Section 10 of the MV Act. It is apt to reproduce Section 3 of the Act herein:

> "3. Necessity for driving licence. - (1) No person shall drive a motor vehicle in any public place unless he holds an effective driving licence issued to him authorising him to drive the vehicle; and no person shall so drive a transport vehicle [other than a motor cab or motor cycle hired for his own use or rented under any scheme made under sub-section (2) of section 75] unless his driving licence specifically entitles him so to do.
>
> (2) The conditions subject to which sub-section (1) shall not apply to a person receiving instructions in driving a motor vehicle shall be such as may be prescribed by the Central Government."

10. It mandates that the driver should have the licence to drive a particular kind of vehicle and it must contain endorsement for driving a transport vehicle. In this section, the words "light motor vehicle" are not recorded. Meaning thereby, this section is to be read with the definition of other vehicles including the definition given in Section 2 (47) of the MV Act except the definition given in Section 2 (21) of the MV Act for the reason that Section 2 (21) of the MV Act provides, as discussed hereinabove, that it includes transport vehicle also.

11. My this view is supported by Section 10 of the MV Act, which reads as under:

> "10. Form and contents of licences to drive. - (1) Every learner's licence and driving licence, except a driving licence issued under section 18, shall be in such form and shall contain such information as may be prescribed by the Central Government.
>
> (2) A learner's licence or, as the case may be, driving licence shall also be expressed as entitling the holder to drive a motor vehicle of one or more of the following cases, namely:-
>
> (a) motor cycle without gear;
>
> (b) motor cycle with gear;
>
> (c) invalid carriage;
>
> (d) light motor vehicle;
>
> (e) transport vehicle;
>
> (i) road-roller;
>
> (j) motor vehicle of a specified description."

12. Section 10 (2) (d) of the MV Act contains "light motor vehicle" and Section 10 (2) (e) of the MV Act, was substituted in terms of amendment of 1994, class of the vehicles specified in clauses (e) to (h) before amendment stands deleted and the definition of the "transport vehicle" stands inserted. So, the words "transport vehicle" used in Section 3 of the MV Act are to be read viz-a-viz other vehicles, definitions of which are given and discussed hereinabove.

13. A Division Bench of the High Court of Jammu and Kashmir at Srinagar, of which I (Justice Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice) was a member, in a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Muhammad Sidiq Kuchey & ors., being LPA No. 180 of 2002, decided on 27th September, 2007, has discussed this issue and held that a driver having licence to drive "LMV" requires no "PSV" endorsement. It is apt to reproduce the relevant portion of the judgment herein:

> "The question now arises as to whether the driver who possessed driving licence for driving abovementioned vehicles, could he drive a passenger vehicle? The answer, I find, in the judgment passed by this court in case titled National Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Irfan Sidiq Bhat, 2004 (II) SLJ 623, wherein it is held that Light Motor Vehicle includes transport vehicle and transport vehicle includes public service vehicle and public service vehicle includes any motor vehicle used or deemed to be used for carriage of passengers. Further held, that the authorization of having PSV endorsement in terms of Rule 41 (a) of the Rules is not required in the given circumstances. It is profitable to reproduce paras 13 and 17 of the judgment hereunder:-
>
> > "13. A combined reading of the above provisions leaves no room for doubt that by virtue of licence, about which there is no dispute, both Showkat Ahamd and Zahoor Ahmad were competent in terms of section 3 of the Motor Vehicles Act to drive a public service vehicle without any PSV endorsement and express authorization in terms of rule 4(1)(a) of the State Rules. In other words, the requirement of the State Rules stood satisfied.
> >
> > ..
> >
> > 17. In the case of Mohammad Aslam Khan (CIMA no. 87 of 2002) Peerzada Noor-ud-Din appearing as witness on behalf of Regional Transport Officer did say on recall for further examination that PSV endorsement on the licence of Zahoor Ahmad was fake. In our opinion, the fact that the PSV endorsement on the licence was fake is not at all material, for, even if the claim is considered on the premise that there was no PSV endorsement on the licence, for the reasons stated above, it would not materially affect the claim. By virtue of "C to E" licence Showkat Ahmad was competent to drive a passenger vehicle. In fact, there is no separate definition of passenger vehicle or passenger service vehicle in the Motor Vehicles Act. They come within the ambit of public service vehicle under section 2(35). A holder of driving licence with respect to "light Motor Vehicle" is thus competent to drive any motor vehicle used or adapted to be used for carriage of passengers i.e. a public service vehicle."
>
> In the given circumstances of the case PSV endorsement was not required at all."

14. The mandate of Sections 2 and 3 of the MV Act came up for consideration before the Apex Court in a case titled as Chairman, Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation & ors. versus Smt. Santosh & Ors., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 2791, and after examining the various provisions of the MV Act held that Section 3 of the Act casts an obligation on the driver to hold an effective driving licence for the type of vehicle, which he intends to drive. It is apt to reproduce paras 19 and 23 of the judgment herein:

> "19. Section 2(2) of the Act defines articulated vehicle which means a motor vehicle to which a semi-trailer is attached; Section 2(34) defines public place;

Section 2(44) defines 'tractor' as a motor vehicle which is not itself constructed to carry any load; Section 2(46) defines `trailer' which means any vehicle, other than a semi- trailer and a side-car, drawn or intended to be drawn by a motor vehicle. Section 3 of the Act provides for necessity for driving license; Section 5 provides for responsibility of owners of the vehicle for contravention of Sections 3 and 4; Section 6 provides for restrictions on the holding of driving license; Section 56 provides for compulsion for having certificate of fitness for transport vehicles; Section 59 empowers the State to fix the age limit of the vehicles; Section 66 provides for necessity for permits to ply any vehicle for any commercial purpose; Section 67 empowers the State to control road transport; Section 112 provides for limits of speed; Sections 133 and 134 imposes a duty on the owners and the drivers of the vehicles in case of accident and injury to a person; Section 146 provides that no person shall use any vehicle at a public place unless the vehicle is insured. In addition thereto, the Motor Vehicle Taxation Act provides for imposition of passenger tax and road tax etc.

20. ....

21. ....

22. ....

23. Section 3 of the Act casts an obligation on a driver to hold an effective driving license for the type of vehicle which he intends to drive. Section 10 of the Act enables the Central Government to prescribe forms of driving licenses for various categories of vehicles mentioned in sub-section (2) of the said Section. The definition clause in Section 2 of the Act defines various categories of vehicles which are covered in broad types mentioned in sub-section (2) of Section 10. They are 'goods carriage', 'heavy goods vehicle', 'heavy passenger motor vehicle', 'invalid carriage', 'light motor vehicle', 'maxi-cab', 'medium goods vehicle', 'medium passenger motor vehicle', 'motor-cab', 'motorcycle', 'omnibus', 'private service vehicle', 'semi- trailer', 'tourist vehicle', 'tractor', 'trailer' and 'transport vehicle'."

15. The Apex Court in another case titled as National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Annappa Irappa Nesaria & Ors., reported in 2008 AIR SCW 906, has also discussed the purpose of amendments, which were made in the year 1994 and the definitions of 'light motor vehicle', 'medium goods vehicle' and the necessity of having a driving licence. It is apt to reproduce paras 8, 14 and 16 of the judgment herein:

"8. Mr. S.N. Bhat, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents, on the other hand, submitted that the contention raised herein by the appellant has neither been raised before the Tribunal nor before the High Court. In any event, it was urged, that keeping in view the definition of the 'light motor vehicle' as contained in Section 2(21) of the Motor vehicles Act, 1988 ('Act' for short), a light goods carriage would come within the purview thereof.

A 'light goods carriage' having not been defined in the Act, the definition of the 'light motor vehicle' clearly indicates that it takes within its umbrage, both a transport vehicle and a non-transport vehicle.

Strong reliance has been placed in this behalf by the learned counsel in Ashok Gangadhar Maratha vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., [1999 (6) SCC 620].

9. ....

10. ....

11. ....

12. ....

13. ....

14. Rule 14 prescribes for filing of an application in Form 4, for a licence to drive a motor vehicle, categorizing the same in nine types of vehicles.

Clause (e) provides for 'Transport vehicle' which has been substituted by G.S.R. 221(E) with effect from 28.3.2001. Before the amendment in 2001, the entries medium goods vehicle and heavy goods vehicle existed which have been substituted by transport vehicle. As noticed hereinbefore, Light Motor Vehicles also found place therein.

15. ....

16. From what has been noticed hereinbefore, it is evident that 'transport vehicle' has now been substituted for 'medium goods vehicle' and 'heavy goods vehicle'. The light motor vehicle continued, at the relevant point of time, to cover both, 'light passenger carriage vehicle' and 'light goods carriage vehicle'.

A driver who had a valid licence to drive a light motor vehicle, therefore, was authorised to drive a light goods vehicle as well."

16. Having glance of the above discussions, I hold that the endorsement of PSV was not required.

17. It is also not a case of the insurer that the accident was due to the reason that the driver of the offending vehicle was competent to drive one kind of the vehicle and was found driving different kind of vehicle, which was the cause of the accident.

18. The Apex Court in a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531, held that it has to be pleaded and proved that the driver was having licence to drive one kind of vehicle, was found driving another kind of vehicle and that was the cause of accident. If no such plea is taken, that cannot be ground for discharging the insurer. It is apt to reproduce para 84 of the judgment herein:

"84. Section 3 of the Act casts an obligation on a driver to hold an effective driving licence for the type of vehicle which he intends to drive. Section 10 of the Act enables Central Government to prescribe forms of driving licences for various categories of vehicles mentioned in sub-section (2) of said section. The various types of vehicles described for which a driver may obtain a licence for one or more of them are (a) Motorcycles without gear, (b) motorcycle with gear, (c) invalid carriage, (d) light motor vehicle, (e) transport vehicle, (f) road roller and (g) motor vehicle of other specified description. The definition clause in Section 2 of the Act defines various categories of vehicles which are covered in broad types mentioned in sub-section (2) of Section 10. They are `goods carriage', `heavy-goods vehicle', `heavy passenger motor-vehicle', `invalid carriage', `light motor-vehicle', `maxi-cab', `motorcycle', `omnibus', `private service vehicle'. In claims for compensation for accidents, various kinds of breaches with regard to the conditions of driving licences arise for consideration before the Tribunal. A person possessing a driving licence for `motorcycle without gear', for which he has no licence. Cases may also arise where a holder of driving licence for `light motor vehicle' is found to be driving a `maxi-cab', `motor-cab' or `omnibus' for which he has no licence. In each case on evidence led before the tribunal, a decision has to be taken whether the fact of the driver possessing licence for one type of vehicle but found driving another type of vehicle, was the main or contributory cause of accident. If on facts, it is found that accident was caused solely because of some other unforeseen or intervening causes like mechanical failures and similar other causes having no nexus with driver not possessing requisite type of licence, the insurer will not be allowed to avoid its liability merely for technical breach of conditions concerning driving licence. Emphasis added."

19. In the said judgment, the Apex Court has also laid down principles, how can insurer avoid its liability. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment in Swaran Singh's case (supra):

"105. ....

(i) ....

(ii) ....

(iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in sub-section (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.

(iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.

(v)........................

(vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

20. In a case titled as Lal Chand versus Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd., reported in 2006 AIR SCW 4832, the owner had performed his duties and obligations, which he was required to do and satisfied himself that the driver was having valid driving licence. The Apex Court held the insurer liable. It is apt to reproduce paras 8, 9 and 11 of the judgment herein:

> "8. We have perused the pleadings and the orders passed by the Tribunal and also of the High Court and the annexures filed along with the appeal. This Court in the case of United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Lehru & ors., reported in 2003 (3) SCC 338, in paragraph 20 has observed that where the owner has satisfied himself that the driver has a licence and is driving competently there would be no breach of Section 149(2)(a)(ii). He will, therefore, have to check whether the driver has a driving licence and if the driver produces a driving licence, which on the face of it looks genuine, the owner is not expected to find out whether the licence has in fact been issued by a competent authority or not. The owner would then take test of the driver, and if he finds that the driver is competent to drive the vehicle, he will hire the driver.
>
> 9. In the instant case, the owner has not only seen and examined the driving licence produced by the driver but also took the test of the driving of the driver and found that the driver was competent to drive the vehicle and thereafter appointed him as driver of the vehicle in question. Thus, the owner has satisfied himself that the driver has a licence and is driving competently, there would be no breach of Section 149(2)(a)(ii) and the Insurance Company would not then be absolved of its liability.
>
> 10. ....
>
> 11. As observed in the above paragraph, the insurer, namely the Insurance Company, has to prove that the insured, namely the owner of the vehicle, was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by a duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant point of time."

21. It would also be profitable to reproduce para 10 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217, hereinbelow:

> "10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran Singh case. If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the Insurance Company is not liable for the compensation."

22. Admittedly, the driver was having driving licence to drive 'light motor vehicle'. This Court has held in so many cases, FAO No. 538 of 2007, titled as Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. versus Sh. Khem Chand & others, decided on 27.02.2015, being one of them, that the driver who was having licence to drive "light motor vehicle", requires no "PSV" endorsement.

23. Having said so, I am of the considered opinion that the Tribunal has fallen in error in saddling the insured-owner and the driver with the liability and exonerating/discharging the insurer from the liability. Accordingly, the insurer-Oriental Insurance Company is saddled with the liability.

24. The impugned award so far as it relates to right of recovery is set aside.

25. The Registry is directed to release the award amount in favour of the claimants, strictly as per the terms and conditions, contained in the impugned award.

26. The appeal is disposed of and the impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove.

27. Send down the record after placing a copy of this judgment on the file.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. ...Appellant.
Versus
Shri Kishan Chand & others ...Respondents.

FAO No. 186 of 2008
Decided on:01.05.2015

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order 9 Rule 4- claimant had filed a Claim Petition, which was dismissed in default and application under Order 9 Rule 4 was also withdrawn by the claimant- held, that procedural wrangles and tangles, hyper technicalities and mystic maybes should not be a ground to dismiss the Claim Petition – a fresh petition can be filed under Order 9 Rule 4, if it is not barred by limitation. (Para-7 to 14)

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 22- Insurer pleaded that owner has died and appeal had abated - held that provisions of Order 22 regarding the abatement have not been made applicable to MACT, therefore, Claim Petition would not abate on the death of the owner/insured. (Para-15 to 20)

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Insurance Company covered the risk of 8 persons including 5 passengers; therefore, deceased cannot be called to be a gratuitous passenger and insurance company is liable to pay indemnify the insured. (Para-21 to 25)

Cases referred:

N.K.V. Bros. (P.) Ltd. versus M. Karumai Ammal and others etc., AIR 1980 Supreme Court 1354

Sohan Lal Passi versus P. Sesh Reddy and others, AIR 1996 Supreme Court 2627

Dulcina Fernandes and others vs. Joaquim Xavier Cruz and another, (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 646

For the appellant:	Mr. Deepak Bhasin, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Ms. Archana Dutt, Advocate, for respondent No. 1.
	Mr. Abhyendra Gupta, Advocate, vice Mr. Nimish Gupta, Advocate, for respondents No. 2 and 4.
	Name of respondent No. 3 stands already deleted.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

Subject matter of this appeal is award, dated 29.02.2008, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Chamba Division, Chamba, (H.P.) (for short "the Tribunal") in MAC Petition No. 19 of 2006, titled as Sh. Kishan Chand versus The Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 1,78,770/- with interest @ 9% per annum from the date of petition till realization came to be awarded in favour of the claimant-injured with a direction to the appellant-insurer to satisfy the award (for short "the impugned award").

2. The claimant-injured, the driver and the owner-insured have not questioned the impugned award on any count, thus, has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. Appellant-insurer has questioned the impugned award on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in saddling the insurer with liability.

4. Thus, the only questioned to be determined in this appeal is - whether the appellant-insurer came to be rightly saddled with liability or otherwise?

5. Learned counsel for the appellant-insurer argued that the claim petition filed by the claimant-injured was not maintainable for the following reasons:

> (1) That the claimant-injured had filed a claim petition, which came to be dismissed in default, constraining the claimant-injured filed an application under Order 9 Rule 4 of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short "CPC") for setting aside the dismissal, which was also withdrawn by the claimant-injured;

(2) That during the pendency of the claim petition, the owner-insured has died, thus, the appeal has abated in terms of the mandate of Order 22 CPC; and

(3) That the claimant-injured was a gratuitous passenger.

6. The arguments of the learned counsel for the appellant-insurer, though attractive, are devoid of any force for the following reasons:

7. Granting of compensation is a social one and it is for the welfare of the victims of the vehicular accidents. The purpose of granting compensation in terms of the mandate of Chapters XI and XII of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "the MV Act") is for the welfare of the claimants, who have become victims of vehicular accident, in order to save them from social evils, like starvation etc.

8. The aim and object of awarding compensation is just to ameliorate the sufferings of the claimants and the Courts/Tribunals have to decide the matter as early as possible, that too, summarily in terms of the mandate of Chapter XII of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as "the MV Act").

9. The Apex Court and other High Courts have held that the Courts should not succumb to the procedural wrangles and tangles, hypertechnicalities and mystic maybes and that should not be a ground to dismiss the claim petition and to defeat the rights of the claimants.

10. The same principle has been laid down by the Apex Court in the cases titled as N.K.V. Bros. (P.) Ltd. versus M. Karumai Ammal and others etc., reported in AIR 1980 Supreme Court 1354; Sohan Lal Passi versus P. Sesh Reddy and others, reported in AIR 1996 Supreme Court 2627; and Dulcina Fernandes and others vs. Joaquim Xavier Cruz and another, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 646, and by this Court in FAO No. 339 & 340 of 2008, titled as NIC versus Parwati & others; FAO No. 172 of 2006, titled as Oriental Insurance Company versus Shakuntla Devi & others; FAO No. 396 of 2012, titled as Asha & others versus Moti Ram & others and FAO No. 4248 of 2013, titled as Magni Devi & others versus Suneel Kumar & others, decided on 13.03.2015.

11. It is beaten law of land that limitation cannot be a ground to defeat the claim petitions. The MV Act has gone through a sea change in the year 1994 and the provision dealing with limitation was deleted and the claim petitions can be filed at any point of time. Thus, limitation cannot come in the way of the claimants for filing claim petitions.

12. The next argument of the learned counsel for the appellant-insurer that the claim petition was not maintainable because the first claim petition came to be dismissed in default, was not restored, is not tenable for the reason that in terms of Order IX Rule 4 CPC, a fresh suit can be filed, provided it is not hit by limitation.

13. It is apt to reproduce the relevant portion of the dismissal order, dated 18.02.2005, made by the Tribunal, Exhibit RJ, herein:

"Present: None.

Case called thrice during the day, but none appeared for the parties. Hence, the petition is dismissed in default. It be consigned to the record room after due completion."

The first claim petition was dismissed in default in absence of all the parties, thus, fresh claim petition was maintainable.

14. Order of dismissal in default is not a decree in terms of the mandate of Section 2 (2) (b) of CPC. It is apt to reproduce Section 2 (2) CPC herein:

> "2. ....
>
> (2)"decree" means the formal expression of an adjudication which, so far as regards the Court expressing it, conclusively determines the rights of the parties with regard to all or any of the matters in controversy in the suit and may be either preliminary or final. It shall be deemed to include the rejection of a plaint and the determination of any question within section 144, but shall not include-
>
> (a) any adjudication from which an appeal lies as an appeal from an order, or
>
> (b) any order of dismissal for default.
>
> Explanation. - A decree is preliminary when further proceedings have to be taken before the suit can be completely disposed of. It is final when such adjudication completely disposes of the suit. It may be partly preliminary and party final."

Thus, it can be safely said that doctrine of res judicata is not applicable.

15. The claim petition is to be taken to its logical end without any delay, that too, summarily. The cumbersome procedure is not to be followed in view of the mandate of Sections 169 and 176 (b) of the MV Act.

16. Sections 169 and 176 (b) of the MV Act read as under:

> "169. Procedure and powers of Claims Tribunals :- (1) In holding any inquiry under section 168 , the Claims Tribunal may, subject to any rules that may be made in this behalf, follow such summary procedure as it thinks fit.
>
> (2) The Claims Tribunal shall have all the powers of a Civil Court for the purpose of taking evidence on oath and of enforcing the attendance of witnesses and of compelling the discovery and production of documents and material object and for such other purposes as may be prescribed; and the Claims Tribunal shall be deemed to be a Civil Court for all the purposes of section 195 and Chapter XXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.
>
> (3) Subject to any rules that may be made in this behalf, the Claims Tribunal?may, for the purpose of adjudicating upon any claim for compensation, choose one or more persons possessing special knowledge of and matter relevant to the inquiry to assist it in holding the inquiry.
>
> ........................

176. Power of State Government to make rules :-*
A State Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of sections 165 to 174, and in particular, such rules may provide for all or any of the following matters, namely:-
(a) ....
(b) the procedure to be followed by a Claims Tribunal in holding an inquiry under this Chapter;
..............................."

17. The States have framed Rules in terms of Sections 169 and 176 (b) of the MV Act and some of the provisions of CPC have been made applicable. The State of Himachal Pradesh has also framed the Himachal Pradesh Motor Vehicle Rules, 1999 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules").

18. It is apt to reproduce Rule 232 of the Rules herein:

*"232. The Code of Civil Procedure to apply in certain cases:-

The following provisions of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, shall so far as may be, apply to proceedings before the Claims Tribunal, namely, Order V, Rules 9 to 13 and 15 to 30; Order IX; Order XIII; Rule 3 to 10; Order XVI, Rules 2 to 21; Order XVII; Order XXI and Order XXIII, Rules 1 to 3."

19. This Rule provides which of the provisions of the CPC are applicable. Order XXII of the CPC deals with abatement and the provisions of said Order have not been made applicable. Only on this count, the argument of the learned counsel for the appellant-insurer, that the claim petition was abated, merits to be turned down.

20. These provisions of law provide that all the provisions of CPC are not applicable, thus, the claim petitions cannot be dismissed in view of the procedural wrangles and tangles, as stated hereinabove.

21. The next argument of the learned counsel for the appellant-insurer that the claimant-injured was travelling in the offending vehicle as a gratuitous passenger, is also devoid of any force because the insurance contract, Exhibit RA, covers the risk of eight persons, i.e. driver, conduct, owner and five passengers. It is apt to reproduce the relevant portion of Exhibit RA herein:

Details of the Vehicle Insured

Number of Vehicle HP 44 0140	Licensed Carrying Capacity		Cubic Capacity Horse Power
Make & year of Manufacture Mahindra 1998	Gross Vehicle Weight in kg.	Passenger Carrying Capacity
Engine No.	2270 kgs	2+5+1 = 8	62 HP
Chassis No.

22. While going through the insurance contract, one comes to an inescapable conclusion that the risk of five passengers is covered.

23. Viewed thus, it can be safely said that the claimant-injured was not a gratuitous passenger. The appellant-insurer has to plead and prove that the owner-insured has committed any willful breach in terms of the insurance contract, has failed to prove the said issue.

24. Having said so, the Tribunal has not committed any error in saddling the appellant-insurer with liability.

25. It is also apt to record herein that the appellant-insurer has not led any evidence, thus, has failed to discharge the onus to prove issues No. 3 to 9.

26. Accordingly, the appeal is dismissed and the impugned award is upheld, as indicated hereinabove.

27. Registry is directed to release the awarded amount in favour of the claimant-injured strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award after proper verification.

28. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Pooja Devi .....Appellant
Versus
General Manager, Punjab Roadways & others ...Respondents

FAO No. 479 of 2007
Decided on : 1.05.2015

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Claimant had boarded the bus- she sustained injuries in the accident and was taken to PGI, Chandigarh- her right arm was amputated below elbow- she was only 13 years old and a student of class 6th – she sustained 80% disability- Tribunal awarded compensation of Rs. 2,09,400/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the Claim Petition - held, that Tribunal had not assessed the just compensation- it had not taken into consideration the physical frame of the injured/claimant, her marriage prospects, amenities, future income, pain and sufferings and other prospects- claimant was aged 13 years and would have become earning hand after five years, even a housewife is earning Rs. 6,000/- per month by making contribution towards her family- keeping in view the percentage of disability, loss of income can be taken as Rs. 4,000/- per month and applying multiplier of '15', claimant would be entitled for Rs. 7,20,000/- under the head 'loss of earning' – amount of Rs. 50,000/- awarded towards the 'future medical treatment'- amount of Rs. 40,000/- awarded under the head 'pain and sufferings'- Rs. 1,00,000/- awarded under the head 'future pain and sufferings'- Rs. 1,00,000/- awarded under the head 'loss of amenities of life' and Rs. 2,00,000/- awarded under the head 'marriage prospects'- thus, total amount of Rs. 12,31,400/- awarded to the petitioner. (Para-12 to 34)

Cases referred:
R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others, AIR 1995 SC 755
Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another, 2010 AIR SCW 6085
Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited, 2011 AIR SCW 4787
Kavita versus Deepak and others, 2012 AIR SCW 4771

For the appellant : Mr. J.R. Poswal, Advocate.
For the respondents: Nemo for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Ashish Verma, Advocate vice Mr. Anuj Nag, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.
Mr. Naveen K. Bhardwaj, Advocate, for respondents No. 3 & 4.
Mr. B.M. Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No. 5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

Despite service, there is no representation on behalf of respondent No. 1, hence he is set ex-parte.

2. By the medium of this appeal, the appellant has challenged the award, dated 14th August, 2007, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Bilaspur, District Bilaspur, (hereinafter referred to as 'the Tribunal') in MAC Petition No. 91 of 2004, titled Pooja Devi versus the General Manager, Punjab Roadways, Ropar & others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.2,09,400/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization, was awarded in her favour and against the respondents (hereinafter referred to as the "impugned award").

3. Before I deal with the facts of the case and the findings recorded in the impugned award by the Tribunal, I deem it proper to record herein that the Tribunal has dealt with the claim petition casually and has not reached to the claimant-injured.

4. The appellant-claimant-injured being victim of the motor vehicular accident, which was caused on 25th May, 2004, at about 1.45 p.m., on National High Way No. 21, at Chehri near Chharol, District Bilaspur, by the contributory negligence of Gurnam Singh, driver of bus bearing registration No. PB-12-C-9004 and Rakesh Kumar, driver of tempo Tata Pick Up 207 bearing registration No. HP-20-C-0266, while driving the said vehicles, rashly and negligently, had invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal in terms of the mandate of Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, (for short "the Act"), for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.15,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

5. It is averred in the claim petition that the claimant had boarded the offending bus, sustained injuries in the accident, was taken to P.G.I., Chandigarh, where she remained admitted from 25.05.2004 to 31.05.2004, which resulted in amputation of her right arm, above elbow. Thereafter, she was taken for treatment to Anandpur Civil Hospital, where she remained admitted from 31.05.2004 to 16.06.2004.

6. FIR No. 77/2004, dated 25.05.2004, under Sections 279, 337, 201 of the Indian Penal Code and 184 & 187 of the Motor Vehicles Act, was lodged in Police Station Sadar, District Bilaspur. Investigation was conducted and challan was presented against both the drivers under Sections 279, 337 & 338 of the Indian Penal Code before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Bilaspur, H.P. The claimant, who was 13 years of age and a student of sixth class at the time of accident, has suffered 80% disability, which has shattered her physical frame and has made her permanently disabled.

7. The respondents contested the claim petition on the grounds taken in their memo of objections.

8. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal on 11.07.2005

> "1. Whether the petitioner has sustained injuries in the accident which took place due to the rash and negligent driving of bus No. PB-12-C-9004 by respondent No. 2 and driver of tempo Pick 207 No. HP-20-C-0266, respondent No. 5? .....OPP
>
> 2. If issue No. 1 supra is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation, the petitioner is entitled to and from which of the respondents? ...OPP
>
> 3. Whether the driver of the offending vehicle i.e. respondent No. 5 was not having a valid and effective driving license at the time of the accident, if so, its effect? ...OPR-6
>
> 4. Relief."

9. The claimant examined Ramesh Chand (PW-1), Chaman Lal (PW-2) and Dr. Navtej Pal (PW-3). Driver of bus Gurnam Singh appeared in witness box as RW-1 and Driver of Tempo Pick Up Rakesh Kumar appeared in the witness box as RW-2. The insurer of the tempo i.e. respondent No. 5 and the owner of the bus, i.e. respondent No. 1 have not led any evidence.

10. The Tribunal dealt with the claim petition casually and awarded compensation to the tune of Rs.2,09,400/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum to the claimant from the date of the claim petition till its realization, which is too meager.

11. All the witnesses have stated that both the drivers have driven the offending vehicles rashly and negligently, caused the accident in which the claimant suffered injuries, which has remained unrebutted.

12. The Tribunal has come to the conclusion that the claimant-injured was traveling in the offending bus, the accident was outcome of the rash and negligent driving of both the drivers and the claimant was also negligent. The Tribunal has held that 60% of the compensation was to be satisfied by the insurer of the tempo and 30% of the same was to be satisfied by the owner and driver of the offending bus, i.e. the General Manager, Punjab Roadway and Gurnam Singh, respectively, jointly and severally.

13. The drivers, the owners of the offending vehicles and the insurer of the tempo have not questioned the impugned award. Thus, it has attained finality, so far as it relates to them.

14. Keeping in view the averments contained in the claim petition read with the reply filed by the respondents and the evidence on record, I deem it proper to hold that the claimant was not negligent in any way and the driver of the tempo was negligent to the extent of 60% and the driver of the bus was negligent to the extent of 40%.

15. Having said so, the claimant has proved that both the drivers had driven the offending vehicles rashly and negligently. The insurer of the offending vehicle-tempo is saddled with the liability to the extent of 60% and the owner of the bus, i.e. respondent No. 1 is saddled with the liability to the extent of 40%. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 1 are modified.

16. Before I deal with Issue No. 2, I deem it proper to deal with issue No. 3.

17. It was for the insurer of the tempo-New India Assurance Company to lead evidence, but it has failed to discharge the onus. At the cost of repetition, it has not questioned the impugned award. Thus, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 3 are also upheld.

18. The findings returned by the Tribunal on Issue No. 2 are trash and unreasonable for the following reasons.

19. Admittedly, the appellant-claimant-injured was admitted in the hospital for about one month i.e. w.e.f. 25th May, 2004 to 16th June, 2004.

20. The Tribunal has awarded a meager amount while ignoring the facts that the claimant has suffered too much, was not in a position to move, was bed ridden, had undergone pain and sufferings and has to undergo pain and sufferings forever and has lost marriage prospects. The accident has shattered her physical frame and she has become dependant.

21. The Tribunal has not assessed the just compensation. It had to take into consideration the physical frame of the injured-claimant, marriage prospects, amenities of life, future income, pain and sufferings and other prospects.

22. The question is - how to grant compensation in such injury cases? The concept of granting compensation is outcome of Law of Torts. The Tribunal, while considering the case for grant of compensation, has to do some guess work.

23 The Apex Court in case titled as R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others, reported in AIR 1995 SC 755, had discussed all aspects and laid down guidelines how a guess work is to be done and how compensation is to be awarded under various heads. It is apt to reproduce paras 9 to 14 of the judgment hereinbelow:

> "9. Broadly speaking while fixing an amount of compensation payable to a victim of an accident, the damages have to be assessed separately as pecuniary damages and special damages. Pecuniary damages are those which the victim has actually incurred and which is capable of being calculated in terms of money; whereas non-pecuniary damages are those which are incapable of being assessed by arithmetical calculations. In order to appreciate two concepts pecuniary damages may include expenses incurred by the claimant: (i) medical attendance; (ii) loss of earning of profit up to the date of trial; (iii) other material loss.

So far non-pecuniary damages are concerned, they may include: (i) damages for mental and physical shock, pain suffering, already suffered or likely to be suffered in future; (ii) damages to compensate for the loss of amenities of life which may include a variety of matters, i.e., on account of injury the claimant may not be able to walk, run or sit; (iii) damages for the loss of expectation of life, i.e., on account of injury the normal longevity of the person concerned is shortened; (iv) inconvenience, hardship, discomfort, disappointment, frustration and mental stress in life.

10. It cannot be disputed that because of the accident the appellant who was an active practising lawyer has become paraplegic on account of the injuries sustained by him. It is really difficult in this background to assess the exact amount of compensation for the pain and agony suffered by the appellant and for having become a life long handicapped. No amount of compensation can restore the physical frame of the appellant. That is why it has been said by courts that whenever any amount is determined as the compensation payable for any injury suffered during an accident, the object is to compensate such injury "so far as money can compensate" because it is impossible to equate the money with the human sufferings or personal deprivations. Money cannot renew a broken and shattered physical frame.

11. In the case Ward v. James, 1965 (1) All ER 563, it was said:

> "Although you cannot give a man so gravely injured much for his "lost years", you can, however, compensate him for his loss during his shortened span, that is, during his expected "years of survival". You can compensate him for his loss of earnings during that time, and for the cost of treatment, nursing and attendance. But how can you compensate him for being rendered a helpless invalid? He may, owing to brain injury, be rendered unconscious for the rest of his days, or, owing to back injury, be unable to rise from his bed. He has lost everything that makes life worthwhile. Money is no good to him. Yet Judges and Juries have to do the best they can and give him what they think is fair. No wonder they find it well-nigh insoluble. They are being asked to calculate the incalculable. The figure is bound to be for the most part a conventional sum. The Judges have worked out a pattern, and they keep it in line with the changes in the value of money."

12. In its very nature whenever a Tribunal or a Court is required to fix the amount of compensation in cases of accident, it involves some guess work, some hypothetical consideration, some amount of sympathy linked with the nature of the disability caused. But all the aforesaid elements have to be viewed with objective standards.

13. This Court in the case of C.K. Subramonia Iyer v. T. Kunhikuttan Nair, AIR 1970 SC 376, in connection with the Fatal Accidents Act has observed (at p. 380):

"In assessing damages, the Court must exclude all considerations of matter which rest in speculation or fancy though conjecture to some extent is inevitable."

14. In Halsbury's Laws of England, 4th Edition, Vol. 12 regarding non-pecuniary loss at page 446 it has been said :-

"Non-pecuniary loss : the pattern. Damages awarded for pain and suffering and loss of amenity constitute a conventional sum which is taken to be the sum which society deems fair, fairness being interpreted by the courts in the light of previous decisions. Thus there has been evolved a set of conventional principles providing a provisional guide to the comparative severity of different injuries, and indicating a bracket of damages into which a particular injury will currently fall. The particular circumstances of the plaintiff, including his age and any unusual deprivation he may suffer, is reflected in the actual amount of the award.

The fall in the value of money leads to a continuing reassessment of these awards and to periodic reassessments of damages at certain key points in the pattern where the disability is readily identifiable and not subject to large variations in individual cases."

24. The said judgment was also discussed by the Apex Court in case titled as Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another, reported in 2010 AIR SCW 6085, while granting compensation in such a case. It is apt to reproduce para-7 of the judgment hereinbelow:

"7. We do not intend to review in detail state of authorities in relation to assessment of all damages for personal injury. Suffice it to say that the basis of assessment of all damages for personal injury is compensation. The whole idea is to put the claimant in the same position as he was in so far as money can. Perfect compensation is hardly possible but one has to keep in mind that the victim has done no wrong; he has suffered at the hands of the wrongdoer and the court must take care to give him full and fair compensation for that he had suffered. In some cases for personal injury, the claim could be in respect of life time's earnings lost because, though he will live, he cannot earn his living. In others, the claim may be made for partial loss of earnings. Each case has to be considered in the light of its own facts and at the end, one must ask whether the sum awarded is a fair and reasonable sum. The conventional basis of assessing compensation in personal injury cases - and that is now recognized mode as to the proper measure of compensation - is taking an appropriate multiplier of an appropriate multiplicand."

25. The Apex Court in case titled as Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited, reported in 2011 AIR SCW 4787 also laid down guidelines for granting compensation. It is apt to reproduce paras 8 & 9 of the judgment hereinbelow:

"8. The compensation is usually based upon the loss of the claimant's earnings or earning capacity, or upon the loss of particular faculties or members or use of such members, ordinarily in accordance with a definite schedule. The Courts have time and again observed that the compensation to be awarded is not measured by the nature, location or degree of the injury, but rather by the extent or degree of the incapacity resulting from the injury. The Tribunals are expected to make an award determining the amount of compensation which should appear to be just, fair and proper.

9. The term "disability", as so used, ordinarily means loss or impairment of earning power and has been held not to mean loss of a member of the body. If the physical efficiency because of the injury has substantially impaired or if he is unable to perform the same work with the same ease as before he was injured or is unable to do heavy work which he was able to do previous to his injury, he will be entitled to suitable compensation. Disability benefits are ordinarily graded on the basis of the character of the disability as partial or total, and as temporary or permanent. No definite rule can be established as to what constitutes partial incapacity in cases not covered by a schedule or fixed liabilities, since facts will differ in practically every case."

26. The Apex Court in case titled as Kavita versus Deepak and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 4771 also discussed the entire law and laid down the guidelines how to grant compensation. It is apt to reproduce paras 16 & 18 of the judgment hereinbelow:

"16. In Raj Kumar v. Ajay Kumar (2011) 1 SCC 343, this Court considered large number of precedents and laid down the following propositions:

"The provision of the motor Vehicles Act, 1988 ('the Act', for short) makes it clear that the award must be just, which means that compensation should, to the extent possible, fully and adequately restore the claimant to the position prior to the accident. The object of awarding damages is to make good the loss suffered as a result of wrong done as far as money can do so, in a fair, reasonable and equitable manner. The court or the Tribunal shall have to assess the damages objectively and exclude from consideration any speculation or fancy, though some conjecture with reference to the nature of disability and its consequences, is inevitable. A person is not only to be compensated for the physical injury, but also for the loss which he suffered as a result of such injury. This means that he is to be compensated for his inability to lead a full life, his inability to enjoy those normal amenities which he would have enjoyed but for the injuries, and his inability to earn as much as he used to earn or could have earned.

The heads under which compensation is awarded in personal injury cases are the following:

"Pecuniary damages (Special damages)

(i) Expenses relating to treatment, hospitalisation, medicines, transportation, nourishing food, and miscellaneous expenditure.

(ii) Loss of earnings (and other gains) which the injured would have made had he not been injured, comprising:

(a) Loss of earning during the period of treatment

(b) Loss of future earnings on account of permanent disability.

(iii) Future medical expenses.

Non-pecuniary damages (General damages)

(iv) Damages for pain, suffering and trauma as a consequence of the injuries.

v) (Loss of amenities (and/or loss of prospects of marriage).

(vi) Loss of expectation of life (shortening of normal longevity).

In routine personal injury cases, compensation will be awarded only under heads (i), (ii)(a) and (iv). It is only in serious cases of injury, where there is specific medical evidence corroborating the evidence of the claimant, that compensation will be granted under any of the heads (ii)(b), (iii), (v) and (vi) relating to loss of future earnings on account of permanent disability, future medical expenses, loss of amenities (and/or loss of prospects of marriage) and loss of expectation of life."

17. …………………………

18. In light of the principles laid down in the aforementioned cases, it is suffice to say that in determining the quantum of compensation payable to the victims of accident, who are disabled either permanently or temporarily, efforts should always be made to award adequate compensation not only for the physical injury and treatment, but also for the loss of earning and inability to lead a normal life and enjoy amenities, which would have been enjoyed but for the disability caused due to the accident. The amount awarded under the head of loss of earning capacity are distinct and do not overlap with the amount awarded for pain, suffering and loss of enjoyment of life or the amount awarded for medical expenses."

27. The Tribunal has awarded Rs.1,08,000/- to the claimant under the head 'loss of future income', which is too meager.

28. Admittedly, the claimant was 13 years of age at the time of accident. After a lapse of about five years, she would have become an earning hand. By a guess work, even a house wife is earning more than Rs.6,000/- per month by making contribution towards her family by maintaining the household works and other marital and family matters. But the claimant is not in a position to render any service towards her family and has become dependant. If we take her as a labourer or housewife, she would have been earning not less than Rs.6,000/- per month. Keeping in view the percentage of the disability, it can safely be held that the claimant has lost source of income to the tune of Rs.4,000/- per month. Thus, she is deprived of the earning capacity to the tune of Rs.4,000/- per month. The multiplier applied by the Tribunal is just and appropriate. Accordingly, the claimant is held entitled to the sum of Rs.4,000/- x 12 = Rs.48,000 x 15 = Rs.7,20,000/- (rupees seven lacs twenty thousands only) under the head 'loss of earning'.

29. Admittedly, the claimant had spent a lot of money on her treatment and has to go for treatment in future also. The Tribunal has only awarded the amount of Rs.9,400/- under the head 'expenditure on medicines'. The Tribunal has lost sight of the very important fact that the claimant has to undergo treatment in future also. Accordingly, the compensation amount to the tune of Rs.9,400/- (rupees nine thousand four hundred only) awarded under the head 'expenditure on medicines', is maintained and she is also held entitled to the sum of Rs.50,000/- (rupees fifty thousands only) under the head 'expenditure on future treatment'.

30. The Tribunal has awarded Rs.1,000/- (rupees one thousand only) under the head 'taxi charges', Rs.6,000/- (rupees six thousands only) under the head 'attendant charges' and Rs.5,000/- (rupees five thousands only/-) under the head 'special diet, is maintained.

31. The Tribunal has not awarded just and appropriate compensation to the claimant under the head 'pain and sufferings', because she has to undergo pain and sufferings throughout her life. Thus, she is held entitled to the tune of Rs.40,000/- (rupees forty thousands only) under the head 'pain and sufferings undergone' and Rs.1,00,000/- (rupees one lac only) under the head ' future pain and sufferings'.

32. The Tribunal has only awarded Rs.20,000/- to the claimant under the head 'loss of amenities of life', which is too meager, is held entitled to the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (rupees one lac only) under the head 'loss of amenities of life'.

33. The Tribunal has fallen in error in granting compensation to the tune of Rs.20,000/- under the head 'loss of suitable match' to the claimant. At least, the amount of Rs.2,00,000/- (rupees two lacs only) was to be awarded to the claimant under the head 'marriage prospects'. Had she been in good health, she would have enjoyed the charm of marital life, of which she is deprived of. Accordingly, she is held entitled to the sum of Rs.2,00,000/- (rupees two lacs only) under the head 'marriage prospects'.

34. Having glance on the aforesaid discussion, the claimant is entitled to Rs.7,20,000/- under the head 'loss of future income'; Rs.9,400/- under the head 'expenditures on medicines', Rs.50,000/- under the head 'expenditure on future treatment'; Rs.1,000/- under the head 'taxi charges', and Rs.6,000/- under the head 'attendant charges', Rs.5,000/- under the head 'special died, Rs.40,000/- under the head 'pain and sufferings undergone', Rs.1,00,000/- under the head 'future pain and sufferings', Rs.1,00,000/- under the head 'loss of amenities of life' and Rs.2,00,000/- under the head 'marriage prospects', total amounting to Rs.12,31,400/- (rupees twelve lacs thirty one thousands four hundred only) and the amount of compensation is enhanced to Rs.12,31,400/- with interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of the impugned award till its realization.

35. In view of the aforesaid discussion, it is held that 60% of the compensation amount shall be deposited by the insurer of the tempo i.e. the New India Assurance Company and 40% of the compensation amount shall be deposited by the owner of the bus, i.e. the General Manager, Punjab Roadways Ropar, within six weeks before the Registry.

36. On deposition, 75% of the compensation amount be deposited in the name of the claimant in the fixed deposit and 25% be released in her favour through payees' cheque account.

37. Accordingly, the impugned award is modified, as indicated above and the appeal is disposed of.

38. Send down the record after placing a copy of this judgment on the file.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Ranjodh Singh ...Appellant
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh ...Respondent

Cr. Appeal No. 274/2011
Reserved on: 29.4.2015
Decided on: 1.5.2015

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3- Evidence of the witnesses cannot be discarded on the ground of relationship. (Para-31 and 32)

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 and 201- Accused told that deceased had not returned from Sujanpur- people got suspicious and conducted search of the house of the accused- blood stained bed-sheet, Chadar, Dupatta and a blanket were recovered from an almirah in the house- matter was reported to the police – inquiry was made from the accused – he confessed to the killing of the deceased- accused made a disclosure statement that he had killed his wife and had concealed her body in a septic tank - deceased was recovered from septic tank but she was breathing- she succumbed to her injuries subsequently- a danda was recovered on the basis of disclosure statement made by the accused- blood stained clothes were also recovered from the house of the accused- blood was detected on the shirt and Salwar of the deceased- held, that chain of circumstances were complete and the accused was rightly convicted by the Court. (Para-28 to 30)

Cases referred:

Babu Lal and others v. State of Madhya Pradesh AIR 2004 SC 846
Vinay Kumar Rai and another v. State of Bihar (2008) 12 SCC 202
Israr v. State of U.P. AIR 2005 SC 249

For the Appellant : Mr. T.S. Chauhan, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. P.M. Negi, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge.

This appeal is instituted against judgment dated 7.7.2011 rendered by learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh in Sessions Trial No. 28 of 2010, whereby appellant-accused (herein after referred to as 'accused'), who was charged with and tried for offence under Sections 302 and 201 of Indian Penal Code, has been convicted and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life and to pay a fine of Rs.20,000/- for offence under Section 302 IPC, and in default of payment of fine to further undergo imprisonment for six months, and under Section 201 IPC, he has been sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for three years and to pay a fine of Rs.20,000/-, and in default of payment of fine, to further undergo imprisonment for six months.

2. Case of the prosecution, in a nutshell, is that on 21.7.2010, at about 10.00 pm, accused called Pawna Devi alias Pano Devi on telephone whether Raj Kumari (deceased) had come to their house or not and Pano Devi replied in negative. Thereafter, Pano Devi asked her brother-in-law, Roshan Lal on telephone as to whether Raj Kumari had come to his house or not and Roshan Lal also replied in negative. Pano Devi further told Roshan Lal that accused Ranjodh Singh was asking about Raj Kumari as she had not returned home from Sujanpur. On 22.7.2010 at about 8.30 AM, Roshan Lal, Desh Raj, Praveen Kumar, Pawna Devi alias Pano Devi, Maya Devi, Nirmala Devi and Naseeb Devi went to the house of the accused in order to know whereabouts of Raj Kumari. After reaching at his house, Roshan Lal inquired from accused about Raj Kumari and he told them that Raj Kumari did not return home since the previous day from Sujanpur. Roshan Lal was not satisfied with the reply of the accused. They got suspicious and started searching the house. They recovered blood stained bed-sheet, Chadar, Dupatta and a blanket from an almirah in the house. After recovery of blood stained clothes, they became more suspicious. Desh Raj went to the police station, Sujanpur, where he gave application, Ext. PW.2/A. SI/SHO, Ramesh Chand, alongwith other police officials went to the house of accused. The police and Roshan Lal again asked the accused about the whereabouts of Raj Kumari and accused confessed that after killing Raj Kumari, with a Danda on the previous night, he wrapped the dead body in a gunny bag and threw the same in Beas river. Thereafter, SHO Ramesh Chand recorded statement of Roshan Lal under Section 154 CrPC Ext. PW1/A. Consequently, FIR was registered under Sections 302 and 201 IPC. The accused while in police custody made disclosure statement that he had concealed his shirt and Pyjama in a heap of bricks in the verandah. He got recovered blood stained shirt and Pyjama from the heap of bricks. He also made disclosure statement that he had concealed the dead body of Raj Kumari in septic tank. Accused led police party to the septic tank. Raj Kumari was recovered from the septic tank. She was alive at that time. She was sent by the IO to Community Health Centre Sujanpur for medical treatment. Medical Officer referred Raj Kumari to Dr. RP Medical College, Tanda and she was further referred to PGI. On 24.7.2010, accused made disclosure statement about Danda (handle of axe). Thereafter he got recovered the Danda. Raj Kumari died on 25.7.2010. Investigation was completed. Challan was put up after completing all the codal formalities. Accused was convicted and sentence as noticed herein above. Hence this appeal.

3. Prosecution has examined as many as 24 witnesses to prove its case against the accused. Accused was also examined under Section 313 CrPC. He pleaded innocence and examined two witnesses in his defence.

4. Mr. T.S. Chauhan, Advocate has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused.

5. Mr. P.M. Negi, Deputy Advocate General has supported the judgment of trial court dated 7.7.2011.

6. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the judgment and record very carefully.

7. PW-1 Roshan Lal testified that on 21.7.2010 at about 10.15 pm, Pano Devi, his sister in law, informed on telephone that whether her sister Raj Kumari had come to his house or not. He told her that she did not come to his house. Pano Devi told that accused was enquiring about her. On 22.7.2010, he contacted accused on telephone. He inquired if Raj Kumari had returned to the matrimonial house or not. He told that she has not returned. He alongwith his wife Nirmala Kumari, Kashmiri Devi, Pano Devi, Maya Devi, Parveen Kumar and Desh Raj as well as his mother left for the house of the accused. They inquired about Raj Kumari. However, accused was not giving satisfactory reply. They got suspicious. They started searching the house. They noticed mobile and Chappal of Raj Kumari in the house. They became more suspicious. When they opened the almirah, blood stained clothes fell down on the floor. Accused told that during previous night he gave beatings to Raj Kumari for coming late and killed her by giving Danda blows. Thereafter he wrapped the body of deceased in a gunny bag and threw in the Beas river. He deputed Desh Raj to report the matter to the Pradhan. He sent Desh Raj to the police station. Police recorded his statement vide Ext. PW1/A. Blood stained bedsheet, Dupatta, one blanket in the shape of Galaf, were taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW1/B. He identified the Galaf Ext. P2, Chadar Ext. P3, Duptta Ext. P4 and blanket Ext. P5. Accused was interrogated by the police. Accused told that he has concealed his clothes underneath the heap of bricks. These were recovered vide Ext.PW1/E. He identified Shirt Ext. P7 and Trousers Ext. P8. Inquest reports Ext. PW1/F and PW1/G were prepared by the police. He denied the suggestion in his cross-examination that Raj Kumari was suffering from mental ailment.

8. PW-2 Desh Raj is brother of the deceased. According to him, Pano Devi telephoned Roshan Lal, PW-1 informing that Raj Kumari was not at home. He, Roshan Lal and Naseeb Devi, his mother, Nirmala Devi, Parveen Kumar and Kashmiri Devi went to the house of accused on 22.7.2010. They asked the accused about Raj Kumari. When police came to the house of accused, accused made confession about the murder of Raj Kumari. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. Learned trial Court noticed his demeanour. He was laughing while answering the questions. Court observed that he appeared to have consumed liquor.

9. PW-3 Parveen Kumar deposed that he had also accompanied his family members. They asked the accused about Raj Kumari. He replied that she has not returned home from Sujanpur. His Bhabhi Maya Devi opened the almirah in the room and blood stained clothes fell down from the almirah on the floor. Accused admitted that he had killed Raj Kumari and thrown body of Raj Kumari in a jute bag in Beas river. Desh Raj went to the police station.

10. PW-4 Seema Devi deposed that she accompanied Desh Raj to the police Station. Desh Raj made report Ext. PW-2/A. They returned to the spot followed by police. She went inside the room alongwith police officials and almirah was opened. Blood stained clothes were found in the same. She was also declared hostile but in her cross-examination by the learned public prosecutor, she has admitted that when accused was questioned, he told that on previous night, he had thrown body of Raj Kumari after killing her, in the river. Thereafter, she alongwith Desh Raj, had gone to the police station. Body of Raj Kumari was taken out of the septic tank by calling sweepers. She identified Danda, Ext. P9.

11. PW-5 Pawna Devi deposed that accused telephoned at their house in the evening. Call was attended by her. Accused inquired about Raj Kumari. She telephoned her brother-in-law Roshan Lal about the telephone call made by accused. She telephoned the accused and told that Raj Kumari was not at home and whether she has returned to the house by that time or not. In the morning, all the family members went to the house of accused. She denied the suggestion that Raj Kumari was suffering from giddiness or palsy.

12. PW-6 Maya Devi also deposed that she accompanied her relations to the house of the accused. When she opened almirah in the room, some clothes i.e. bed sheet, blanket, Dupatta etc. fell down from upper most shelf of the Almirah. She noticed blood on the same. She told her Jeth Roshan Lal and Nirmala Devi about it. They advised to keep the clothes as such. Then they came out in the courtyard. Roshan Lal, PW-1, asked accused about the blood on the clothes. Accused admitted that he had killed Raj Kumari and thrown the body in a gunny bag in the Beas river.

13. PW-7 Nirmala Devi deposed that on 21.7.2010, during night, Pawna alias Pano made a telephone call to her inquiring about the whereabouts of Raj Kumari. She also told her that accused was inquiring about her. She informed Roshan lal about it. In the next morning, they telephoned the accused and he told that Raj Kumari was not traceable. They all went to the house of accused. Accused was asked by them but he replied that Raj Kumari had not come home. They started searching the house. They found her mobile phone and chappal in the house. Maya Devi opened the almirah in the room in her presence. Some clothes i.e. blanket, Chuni and bed sheet fell down from almirah. They were stained with blood. Accused was asked about it. He told that he had killed his wife for not returning home on time. Desh Raj went to the police station.

14. PW-8 Onkar Chand deposed that on 21.7.2010, his father telephoned him at about 10.00 pm and informed that his mother had gone to Sujanpur in the morning on that day but had not returned. In the morning on 22.7.2010, he again telephoned the house of his maternal uncle. He suspected that there might have been some quarrel between his parents and that some untoward incident might have taken place. Accused used to quarrel with his wife. He called his father and noticed that he was under some fear and told him by that time that he had no information about mother. Then he came back from Chandigarh to his house and reached about 1.00 pm. He went to the septic tank site. Body of his mother was already lying outside the septic tank. Mother was moved to the hospital. She was shifted to Tanda and thereafter to PGI, where she died. After post-mortem, dead body was brought back for cremation.

15. PW-9 Surinder Kumar deposed that accused made disclosure statement Ext. PW-9/A that he has kept one Danda /stick concealed near his kitchen.

16. PW-10 Manoj Kumar deposed that on 22.7.2010, he received a telephonic call from the police station Sujanpur that a dead body was to be retrieved. He arranged for three sweepers. Body was recovered vide Ext. PW-1/A. He signed the same.

17. PW-11 Ranjit Singh deposed that on 22.7.2010, accused was in police custody. At about 8/8.30 pm, accused made statement and told the IO Ramesh Chand that he had concealed the body of his wife in his septic tank after killing her and he could get the same recovered. Statement was recorded vide Ext. PW11/A.

18. PW-12 Mani Ram deposed that accused led them to his septic tank and lifted the lid of the septic tank and showed body of his wife. Body was noticed in the torch light. Stair case was arranged. He went inside the septic tank. Body was lying in the septic tank. There was knee deep water in the septic tank.

19. PW-13 Dr. Kunal Kaushal has examined the deceased Raj Kumari on 22.7.2010. According to him, injuries could be inflicted with Danda, Ext. P9.

20. PW-14, PW-15, PW-16 and PW-17 are formal in nature.

21. PW-18 Raghujeet Singh submitted that the case property was deposited with him.

22. PW-19 Ravinder Nath deposed that he took parcel to the CHC Sujanpur and produced the same before the Medical Officer. He opened one Beul Danda without axe and gave his opinion Ext. PW13/C.

23. PW-20 Asha Kumari deposed that accused has called her and asked her to milk the buffalo. She went to the house of accused. Sandla Devi tried to milk the buffalo but milk could not be collected. Raj Kumari was not present in the house.

24. PW-21 Sunita is daughter of deceased. She was residing with her maternal uncle for the last two months. She had gone to the house of her Bua at village Plahi 12/13 days prior to the incident. On 21.7.2010, accused telephoned the son of her Bua that her mother was not at home. She has gone somewhere. She was told about it next morning by her cousin Sanjeev Kumar. She alongwith her cousin sister Amita came to her house. They reached at 2.00 pm. Police had already come. She asked her father about her mother. He told her that he had killed her and thrown body in the river Beas.

25. PW-22 Dr. S.P. Mandal has conducted post mortem examination on 26.7.2010. According to him, cause of death was Oedema of brain due to head injuries. These injuries were ante mortem and caused by blunt weapon. Post-mortem report is Ext.PW-22/B.

26. PW-23 ASI Shamsher Singh deposed that at the instance of accused, body of Raj Kumari was recovered from septic tank with the help of sweepers. She was alive. She was taken to Sujanpur Hospital. She was referred to Dr. RP Medical College Tanda. On 24.7.2010, accused made disclosure statement in the presence of Manoj Kumar and Surinder Kumar, vide Ext. PW-9/A. One handle of axe, Ext. P9 was recovered. Site map was prepared. Raj Kumari was referred to PGI Chandigarh. He went to PGI and got post-mortem conducted.

27. PW-24 SI Ramesh Chand deposed that he alongwith ASI Shamsher Singh and HC Pawan Kumar went to village Tihra and inspected the house. He found blood stained clothes in one room. He recorded statement Ext. PW-1/A of Roshan Lal under Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. He also took photographs. He prepared spot map, Ext. PW24/A. Shirt Ext. P7, Trousers Ext. P8 were recovered. Accused made disclosure statement Ext. PW11/A that after killing his wife he had put dead body in septic tank and body was recovered vide Ext. PW-10/A. Body of Raj Kumari was taken out of septic tank. Sweepers told that Raj Kumari was alive when she was brought outside the septic tank. He directed ASI Shamsher Singh to shift Raj Kumari to the hospital at Sujanpur.

28. Accused has made extra-judicial confession before PW-1 Roshan Lal that he has killed his wife by giving Danda blows and after wrapping body of Raj Kumari in a gunny bag had thrown in Beas river. According to PW-2 Desh Raj, when police came to the house of accused, accused made confession about murder of Raj Kumari. Though he was declared hostile, but his demeanour was noticed by the trial Judge. PW-8 Parveen Kumar is the brother of deceased. According to him also, accused had admitted that he has killed Raj Kumari and thrown body in Beas river. PW-4 Seema Devi though declared hostile, but in her cross-examination by the Public Prosecutor, has admitted that when accused was questioned, he told that on previous night he had thrown body of Raj Kumari after killing her, in the river. PW-6 Maya Devi deposed that PW-1 Roshan Lal asked accused about blood on clothes, then accused admitted that he has killed Raj Kumari and thrown body in a gunny bag in Beas river. PW-7 deposed that when accused was asked about blood on the clothes, he told that he has killed his wife and thrown body in a gunny bag in the river. PW-8 Onkar Chand, son of accused asked his father about the whereabouts of his mother, but he could not reply. When police was interrogating the accused, he told the police that he had killed his mother and thrown body in the river. PW-20 Asha Kumari has not seen Raj Kumari when she was asked to milk buffalo of the accused. PW-21 Sunita asked about the whereabouts of mother, then accused told her that he has killed her and thrown body in Beas river.

29. Accused has earlier told the witnesses, as noticed herein above, that he has killed his wife and thrown body in the river but he made disclosure statement vide Ext. PW-11/A to the effect that he has killed his wife and concealed the body in septic tank. Body was retrieved from the septic tank by PW-12 Mani Ram. Raj Kumari was breathing. She was sent to CHC Sujanpur. Medical Officer at Sujanpur referred her to Dr. RP Medical College Tanda and Medical Officer at Tanda further referred her to PGI Chandigarh. Danda was recovered on the basis of disclosure statement made by accused vide Ext. PW-9/A. PW-13 Dr. Kunal Kaushal has opined that injuries could be inflicted by Danda, Ext. P9. Raj Kumari has died due to ante mortem injuries inflicted with a blunt weapon as per statement of Dr. S.P. Mandal, PW-22.

30. Mr. T.S. Chauhan has argued that all the witnesses are close relations of the deceased and their statements could not be believed. However, it is settled law that statements of witnesses, who are related to the victim, can be relied upon if they inspire confidence. Statements made by the close relations of deceased are natural and believable. PW-8, son of accused and PW-21, daughter of accused, have also deposed against their father. It has come in the statement of PW-8 Onkar Chand, that his father used to give beatings to his mother. It has also come on record that the deceased had gone to Sujanpur and had come late in the evening. Accused has given beatings to the deceased with Danda and presuming her to be dead had dumped her in the septic tank. It was only a coincidence that she did not die immediately but died later on at PGI. Prosecution has recovered blood stained clothes from the house of accused (Ext. P2 to Ext P5). Shirt (Ext. P7) and Pyjama (Ext. P8) were also recovered. Blood of group 'B' was detected on quilt cover, bed sheet, blanket, Dupatta and shirt of accused. Blood was also detected as per Ext. PW24/F on Pyjama and stick/Danda. Blood was also detected on the shirt and Salwar of the deceased. Mr. Chauhan has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to attribute any motive against the accused and in case of circumstantial evidence, motive plays a very important role. It is settled law that when chain of events is complete, as is in the present case, motive is not that important. Prosecution has fully proved the case against the accused.

31. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Babu Lal and others v. State of Madhya Pradesh reported in AIR 2004 SC 846 have held that credible evidence of witnesses could not be discarded on the ground of relationship. Their lordships have held as under:

> "[8] The materials on record clearly established that the deceased was in mentally fit condition, though battered in the physical frame. The High Court has rightly held that presence of P.Ws. 1 and 2 did not result in any presumption of tutoring, when the FIR was recorded. Merely because there was a thumb impression on the FIR, and not the signature as stated by P.W. 1, that does not falsify the prosecution version. The same has been clarified by the High Court. It has to be noted that P.W. 16, who had scribed the FIR, stated that the contents were read over to the deceased, who had thereafter put his thumb impression. In fact the defence itself has suggested to P.W. 1 during cross-examination that the thumb impression was taken on the paper first and thereafter the writings were inserted. In other words, there was acceptance of the fact that the thumb impression was there but writings were done later which have been denied by P.W. 1. We do not find any reason to discard the dying declaration only on this ground. The High Court has also found in analysing the evidence that the plea relating to anti-dating or anti-timing of the FIR is a myth. Though some of the accused persons have been acquitted by the trial Court, the High Court has carefully analysed the evidence and have sifted the grain from the chaff and disengaged truth from falsehood. Merely because some persons have not been named in the FIR and have given the benefit of doubt, that cannot be a reason for discarding the dying declaration or the evidence of the witnesses."

32. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vinay Kumar Rai and another v. State of Bihar reported in (2008) 12 SCC 202 have held that merely because eye-witnesses are family members, their evidence can not be discarded. Their lordships have held as under:

"11. Merely because the eye-witnesses are family members their evidence cannot per se be discarded. When there is allegation of interestedness, the same has to be established. Mere statement that being relatives of the deceased they are likely to falsely implicate the accused cannot be a ground to discard the evidence which is otherwise cogent and credible. We shall also deal with the contention regarding interestedness of the witnesses for furthering prosecution version.

"5. ....Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible.

[6] In Dalip Singh and Ors. v. The State of Punjab, (AIR 1953 SC 364) it has been laid down as under :-

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are l ikely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily a close relation would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is ofter a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalization. Each case must be judged on its own facts. Our observations are only made to combat what is so often put forward in cases before us as a general rule of prudence. There is no such general rule. Each case must be limited to and be governed by its own facts."

[7] The above decision has been followed in Guli Chand and Ors. v. State of Rajasthan (1974 (3) SCC 698) in which Vadivelu Thevar v. State of Madras (AIR 1957 SC 614) was also relied upon.

[8] We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently being a partisan witness, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dalip Singh's case (supra) in which surprise was expressed over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the Members of the Bar that relatives were not independent witnesses. Speaking through Vivian Bose, J. it was observed :

"25. We are unable to agree with the learned Judges of the a High Court that the testimony of the two eye-witnesses requires corroboration. If the foundation for such an observation is based on the fact that the witnesses are women and that the fate of seven men hangs on their testimony, we know of no such rule. If it is grounded on the reason that they are closely related to the deceased we are unable to concur. This is a fallacy common to many criminal cases and one which another Bench of this Court endeavoured to dispel in - 'Rameshwar v. State of Rajasthan', (AIR 1952 SC 54 at p. 59). We find, however, that it unfortunately still persists, if not in the judgments of the Courts, at any rate in the arguments of counsel."

[9] Again in Masalti and Ors. v. State of U. P., (AIR 1965 SC 202) this Court observed :

"14........But it would, we think, be unreasonable to contend that evidence given by witnesses should be discarded only on the ground that it is evidence of partisan or interested witnesses ....The mechanical rejection of such evidence on the sole ground that it is partisan would invariably lead to failure of justice. No hard and fast rule can be laid down as to how much evidence should be appreciated. Judicial approach has to be cautious in dealing with such evidence; but the plea that such evidence should be rejected because it is partisan cannot be accepted as correct."

To the same effect is the decisions in State of Punjab v. Jagir Singh, (AIR 1973 SC 2407); Lehna v. State of Haryana, (2002 (3) SCC 76) and Gangadhar Behera and Ors. v. State of Orissa, (2002 (8) SCC 381). The above position was also highlighted in Babulal Bhagwan Khandare and Anr. v. State of Maharashtra, (2005 (10) SCC 404) and in Salim Sahab v. State of M. P., (2007 (1) SCC 699)."

33. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Israr v. State of U.P. reported in AIR 2005 SC 249 have held that relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Their lordships have held as under:

> "12. We shall first deal with the contention regarding interestedness of the witnesses for furthering prosecution version. Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible."

34. Accordingly, there is no merit in the present appeal and the same is dismissed, so also the pending applications, if any.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

State of Himachal Pradesh ...Appellant.
Versus
Mizuta Natsuhiro ...Respondent.

Cr.MP(M) No. 308 of 2015.
Date of decision: 1.5.2015

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 378- Accused was found sitting in the Volvo Bus on seat No. 30- he got perplexed on seeing the police- conductor disclosed that luggage of the accused was inside the dickey and was marked with chalk - one bag bearing Mark seat No. 30 was taken out and during the search 190 grams of charas was recovered – accused was acquitted by the Trial Court- an application was filed seeking leave to appeal against the order passed by trial Court- independent witnesses had turned hostile- merely because, prosecution witnesses corroborated each other and link evidence was established is not sufficient when the bag was not produced before the Court- Trial Court had appreciated the facts properly- hence, leave to appeal refused. (Para- 7 to 11)

For the petitioner: Mr. M.A.Khan, Additional Advocate General with Mr. Anup Rattan, Additional Advocate General.

For the respondent: Nemo.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J.

Through the instant Cr.M.P(M) the appellant has sought grant of leave to appeal against the impugned findings of acquittal rendered in favour of respondent/accused by the learned Special Judge-II (Additional Sessions Judge), Kullu, in Sessions Trial No. 49 of 2014 decided on 1.1.2015.

2. The facts necessary for rendering an adjudication on the Cr.MP(M) No. 308 of 2015 are that on the evening of 13.3.2014 at about 6.30 p.m when a police party headed by PW-9 HC Vinay Kumar and consisting of Head Constable Hitesh Kumar, HHG Jagdish Chand, driver of official vehicle No. HP-34-A-9984 was on Nakabandi duty at Temporary

Check Post Bajaura with Constable Mukesh Kumar, constable Naresh Kumar and Constable Vikram, then one Volvo Bus of Yak Bus Service bearing No. UP-83-T-1704 came from Manali side and was going to Delhi, was signaled to stop. Thereafter HC Vinay Kumar, HC Hitesh Kumar and Constable Naresh Kumar boarded the bus and started checking the bus and when they reached near Seat No. 30 the accused on seeing the police party got perplexed and on asking the accused he disclosed his name Mizuta Natsuhiro. The investigator asked the conductor about the luggage of the accused and the conductor disclosed that the luggage of the accused was inside the dickey of the bus where seat Nos. of the passengers have been marked with chalk. Thereafter, the investigator got the accused alighted from the bus and one bag with Mark seat No. 30 belonging to accused was taken out from the dickey of the bus by conductor of the bus and the bag as well as the accused were taken to temporary check post. Thereafter, investigator PW-9 Head Constable Vinay Kumar gave his personal search to the accused but nothing incriminating was recovered. Thereafter, the bag of the accused was checked by investigator and inside the bag one transparent polythene envelope was found in which two shoes of red coloured were kept and on checking the shoes, transparent envelopes were found which were containing black colour substance in pan cake and round shape and when the said black coloured substance was checked, it was found charas. The recovered charas was weighed with the help of an electronic scale and its weight was found 190 grams. Out of the recovered 190 grams charas, one sample of ten gram charas was taken and put in a cloth parcel and sealed with three seal of 'M'. Thereafter, investigating officer completed all the codal formalities.

3. After completion of the investigation, challan, under Section 173 of the Cr.P.C. was prepared and filed in the Court. The trial Court charged the accused for his having committed offence punishable under Section 20 of the NDPS ACt, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined as many as 10 witnesses. On closure of the prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded, in which he pleaded innocence. On closure of proceedings under Section 313 Cr.P.C. the accused was given an opportunity to adduce evidence in defence and he chose not to adduce any evidence in defence.

5. On appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused/respondent.

6. The State of H.P. is aggrieved by the judgement of acquittal, recorded by the learned trial Court. Shri M.A.Khan, ld. Additional Advocate General, has concertedly and vigorously contended that the findings of acquittal, recorded by the learned trial Court, are not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, they are sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of the material on record. Hence, he contends that leave to appeal be granted by this Court.

7. Admittedly, accused Mizuta Natsuhiro, as proved by ticket Ext.P-1 was occupying seat No. 30 and contraband was recovered from a rucksack kept in the dickey of the bus. The accused is sought to be connected with the ownership of the rucksack on the score of and on the strength of the rucksack wherefrom a polythene bag was retrieved wherein two shoes were found in which charas weighing 190 grams was recovered, bearing an inscription thereon compatible to the number of the seat occupied by the accused in the bus nomenclatured as Volvo Bus bearing No. UP-83-T-1704 bound from Kullu to Delhi. The prosecution has concerted to convey that the accused-respondent owned it, given the analogity qua seat No. 30 occupied by the accused and the inscription borne on the rucksack wherefrom charas weighing 190 grams was allegedly recovered.

8. Even though the prosecution witnesses have deposed in tandem and in harmony qua each of the links in the chain of circumstances commencing from the proceedings relating to search, seizure and recovery till the consummate link comprised in the rendition of an opinion by the FSL on the specimen parcels sent to it for analysis, portraying proof of unbroken and unsevered links, in the entire chain of the circumstances, hence, it is argued that when the prosecution case stood established, it would be legally unwise for this Court to refuse to grant leave to appeal against the impugned findings of acquittal.

9. Besides, it is contended that when the testimonies of the official witnesses unravel the fact of their being bereft of any inter se and intra se contradictions hence, consequently when they too enjoy credibility they were undiscardable.

10. However, independent witnesses PW-8 and PW-10 turned hostile and omitted to lend support to the prosecution case. The mere fact of the prosecution witnesses having deposed in corroboration with each other besides in tandem qua each of the links of the prosecution case commencing from search, seizure and recovery till the consummate link comprised in the rendition of an opinion by the FSL, nonetheless the aforesaid proof lent by or existing in the deposition of the official witnesses qua each of the links in the prosecution case hence having come to be substantiated does not hold good for the prosecution nor does it prod an inference that the genesis of the prosecution version as such has come to be proved, especially the preponderant fact of recovery of charas weighing 190 grams having been effectuated from 'rucksack' found in the dickey of the bus though inscribed with a seat number analogous to the one demonstrated by ticket Ext.P-1 as held by the accused besides occupied by the latter when preeminently the rucksack remained not produced in Court. Non production of rucksack in Court, in its entirety belies the factum deposed by the prosecution witnesses that on its search and seizure by the Investigating Officer charas weighing 190 grams was recovered from the pair of shoes kept inside a polythene enclosed in the rucksack. The omission of production of rucksack in Court for reiteration reinforcibly gives impetus to the formidable conclusion that the entire edifice of the genesis of the prosecution story of charas having come to be recovered in the manner alleged by the prosecution gets shattered. Besides, as a necessary sequel, the findings of acquittal rendered by the learned trial Court in favour of accused respondent suffers from no infirmity, especially when there is also no evidence on record personifying the fact that inscription, if any, of seat No. 30 on the rucksack though analogous to the seat occupied by the accused was scribed by the accused or that hence the rucksack was owned by the accused as also when there is non-existence of any germane evidence on record personifying the fact that the two shoes wherefrom charas was recovered were owned by the accused.

11. In view of the above discussion, the learned trial Court is to be concluded to have appreciated the evidence in a mature and balanced manner and its findings, hence, do not necessitate interference. Therefore, the application for leave to appeal is dismissed being devoid of any merit and the findings rendered by the learned trial Court are affirmed and maintained.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

United India Insurance Company Ltd. .....Appellant.
Versus
Madhvender Kuthleharia and others ...Respondents

FAO (MVA) No. 137 of 2009.
Date of decision: 1st May, 2015.

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Insurer pleaded that driver did not have a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident- held, that it was for the insurer to plead and prove that owner had committed willful breach of the terms and conditions of the policy- insurer had not led any evidence to prove the breach of the terms and conditions of the policy and it was rightly held liable. (Para-11 to 14)

Cases referred:

National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531
Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217

For the appellant:	Mr. Rajiv Jiwan, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr. R.L. Chaudhary, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
	Mr. Suneet Goel, Advocate, for respondent No.2.
	Nemo for respondent No.3.

The following judgment of the court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

Insurer has questioned the judgment and award dated 29.11.2008, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-cum- Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi, H.P., in Claim Petition. Nos. 126/02, 243/2005 titled Madhvender Kuthleharia versus Kusum Lata Sood and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.5,37,000/- with 7.5% interest was awarded in favour of the claimant and insurer/appellant herein came to be saddled with the liability, hereinafter referred to as "the impugned award", for short, on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. Claimant/injured, owner Kusum Lata Sood and driver Amarnath have not questioned the impugned award on any ground, thus, it has attained finality so far it relates to them.

3. The insurer-United India Insurance Company has questioned the impugned award on the ground that the driver was not having a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident. Thus, the only question to be determined in this appeal is whether the owner has committed any willful breach?

4. The claimant filed a claim petition before the Tribunal for the grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.3 lacs, as per break-ups given in the claim petition, on the ground that on 20.7.2002, he was going on his scooter towards Mandi-Pandoh, on his extreme left side of the road and when he reached at Jagar, near Pandoh, one private bus bearing registration No. HP-34-A-0925 came from Kullu side towards Mandi, hit the scooter and he sustained injuries, rendering him permanently disabled.

5. The owner, driver and insurer have filed replies to the claim petition and resisted the claim petition.

6. The Tribunal, after examining the pleadings and the documents of the parties, framed following issues:

(i) Whether the claimant sustained injuries in the Motor Vehicle Accident caused by the Rash and Negligent driving of the respondent No.2 as alleged? OPP

(ii) If the above issue is proved in the affirmative the quantum of compensation, the claimant is entitled and from whom? OPP

(iii) Whether the breach of the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy was occasioned or not? OPR3.

(iv) Relief.

7. The claimant examined Dr. D.K. Arora as PW1, Prithvi Raj PW2, Pawan Kumar PW3, Narender Kumar PW4 and claimant himself stepped in to the wetness-box as PW5.

8. The owner has examined Vidya Sagar as RW1 and Amar Nath driver himself stepped into the witness-box as RW2.

9. The insurer has not led any evidence. Thus, the evidence led by the claimant, owner and driver has remained unrebutted.

10. In this appeal, the findings recorded on Issues No. 1 and 2 are not in dispute, thus upheld.

11. Issue No.3. It was for the insurer to discharge the onus, but it has failed to do so. However, I have gone through the statements of RW1 and RW2. The Tribunal has discussed the said statements in para 18 of the impugned award, is well reasoned, needs no interference.

12. It was for the insurer to plead and prove that the owner has committed any willful breach in terms of Sections 147 and 149 of the Motor Vehicles Act read with National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Swaran Singh and others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1531. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 105 of the judgment herein:

"105. ....

(i) ....

(ii) ....

(iii) The breach of policy condition e.g. disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in sub-section (2) (a) (ii) of Section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.

(iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability, must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings but must also establish 'breach' on the part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefore would be on them.

(v)……………………

(vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under Section 149 (2) of the Act."

13. It would also be profitable to reproduce para 10 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Pepsu Road Transport Corporation versus National Insurance Company, reported in (2013) 10 Supreme Court Cases 217, herein:

"10. In a claim for compensation, it is certainly open to the insurer under Section 149(2)(a)(ii) to take a defence that the driver of the vehicle involved in the accident was not duly licensed. Once such a defence is taken, the onus is on the insurer. But even after it is proved that the licence possessed by the driver was a fake one, whether there is liability on the insurer is the moot question. As far as the owner of the vehicle is concerned, when he hires a driver, he has to check whether the driver has a valid driving licence. Thereafter he has to satisfy himself as to the competence of the driver. If satisfied in that regard also, it can be said that the owner had taken reasonable care in employing a person who is qualified and competent to drive the vehicle. The owner cannot be expected to go beyond that, to the extent of verifying the genuineness of the driving licence with the licensing authority before hiring the services of the driver. However, the situation would be different if at the time of insurance of the vehicle or thereafter the insurance company requires the owner of the vehicle to have the licence duly verified from the licensing authority or if the attention of the owner of the vehicle is otherwise invited to the allegation that the licence issued to the driver employed by him is a > fake one and yet the owner does not take appropriate action for verification of the matter regarding the genuineness of the licence from the licensing authority. That is what is explained in Swaran Singh case. If despite such information with the owner that the licence possessed by his driver is fake, no action is taken by the insured for appropriate verification, then the insured will be at fault and, in such circumstances, the Insurance Company is not liable for the compensation."

14. Applying the test, the Tribunal has rightly recorded the findings and saddled the insurer with the liability and are upheld.

15. Viewed thus, the impugned award is upheld and appeal is dismissed.

16. Registry is directed to release the amount in favour of the claimants strictly, in terms of the conditions contained in the impugned award, through payee's cheque account.

17. Send down the record, forthwith, after placing a copy of this judgment.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Cr. Appeal No. 72 of 2012 with Cr. Appeal Nos. 46 and 126 of 2012.
Reserved on: April 30, 2015.
Decided on: May 02, 2015.

1. Cr. Appeal No. 72 of 2012
   Azam ……Appellant.
   Versus
   State of H.P. …….Respondent.
2. Cr. Appeal No. 46 of 2012
   Shamshudin ……Appellant.
   Versus
   State of H.P. …….Respondent.
3. Cr. Appeal No. 126 of 2012
   Sheharudin ……Appellant.
   Versus
   State of H.P. …….Respondent.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 395- PW-2 had kept boxes of nose pins and other ornaments in her home- 4-5 persons entered in the room armed with pistols and darat- they searched the almirah and took away the ornaments- mobile phone and chains were also taken away- prosecution witnesses stated that door was opened after some time- it was not believable that door could be opened from inside when it was bolted from outside- in case, door was opened by pushing it, latch would have broken but police had not seized the broken latch- further, prosecution version that accused entered the house when PW-3 used the toilet, cannot be believed- presence of witnesses to the disclosure statement was doubtful- local police was not informed about the recovery nor independent witness was associated at the time of seizure of the mobile phone- independent witnesses ought to have been joined at the time of recovery -further recovery was made from an open place which was not believable - DNA profile matched with one accused but the Medical Officer did not depose that sample was preserved by her- Medical Officer, CH, Sundernagar was not examined to prove preservation of blood sample- it was not believable that door of gold smith could be opened by pushing it inside- held, that these circumstances create doubt regarding prosecution version- accused acquitted. (Para-25 to 37)

For the appellant: Mr. Naresh Kumar Tomar, Advocate for appellant in Cr. Appeal No. 72 of 2012.
Mr. N.K.Thakur, Sr. Advocate, with Mr. Inder Sharma, Advocate, for appellant in Cr. Appeal No. 46 of 2012.
Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate, for appellant in Cr. Appeal No. 126 of 2012.
For the respondent: Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

Since common questions of law and facts are involved in these appeals, all these appeals were taken up together for hearing.

2. These appeals are directed against the common judgment dated 23.12.2011/29.12.2011, rendered by the learned Addl. Sessions Judge, Mandi, H.P., in Sessions Trial No. 10 of 2010, whereby the appellants-accused (hereinafter referred to as the "accused", namely, Azam, Shamshudin and Sheharudin), who were charged with and tried for offence punishable under Section 395 IPC, have been convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of 10 years each and to pay fine of Rs. 10,000/- each and in default of payment of fine, they were further ordered to undergo simple imprisonment for six months each. Accused Kasim was acquitted by the learned trial Court for offence under Section 395 IPC.

3. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that PW-1 Shyam Lal is running shop of Goldsmith at Sundernagar, Bhojpur. He had gone to Shimla on 8.9.2009. His wife Sushma, PW-2 and his servant Raju were present in the shop. Sushma brought boxes of nose pins containing five trays and other ornaments to her home from the shop on 8.9.2009. They were kept by her in the almirah. Shyam Lal and his family members were sleeping in the house on 9.9.2009. Somebody knocked at the door at 1:30 AM. Sushma opened the door. Krishna Devi PW-3, mother of Shyam Lal was standing on the door. 4-5 persons were accompanying her. As soon as Sushma opened the door, one person entered inside the room. He was armed with pistol. He put the pistol on the head of Shyam Lal. Other persons entered inside the room. They were also armed with the pistols. The fourth person was armed with the darat. They searched the almirah. Other family members also arrived in the room. They were made to sit in the room. Tilak Raj, the younger brother of Shyam Lal and his wife also arrived after sometime. They were also threatened. Bag containing various ornaments was taken out of the almirah. The chains of Sushma and Krishna were snatched. Two mobile phones were also taken away. The accused left the room with all the articles. The matter was reported to the police and entry in the daily diary Ext. PW-10/A was recorded. Statement of the complainant Shyam Lal Ext. PW-1/A was recorded and sent to the Police Station. FIR Ext. PW-11/A was registered. Empty wrappers of Shikhar Gutka make Ext. P-4 and P-5, and one bottle of Godfather beer were taken into possession vide seizure memo Ext. PW-1/B. It was found that Gutka was spitted on the mat lying on the floor. Piece of mat was cut and seized vide memo Ext. PW-1/C alongwith the lock and key. These were sealed in separate parcel with seal A. Seal impression was taken on separate piece of cloth. Site plan Ext. PW-27/D was prepared. Shyam Lal produced ledger book, bill and drat, which were seized vide seizure memo Ext. PW-1/F. Accused Shehruddin was arrested on 15.11.2009. He made disclosure statement Ext. PW-6/A on 18.11.2009 that he had concealed mobile phone in the house of his sister, which he could got recovered. He got the phone Ext. P-2 recovered from an attaché kept inside the room. The mobile phone was sealed with seal 'V' and seized vide seizure memo Ext. PW-18/B. Site plan of the place of recovery Ext. PW-27/E was prepared. This mobile was sold by Vijay Kumar to Shyam Lal vide bill No. PW-26/A. Accused Shehruddin told during interrogation that Raju and Nuru met him and told him to go to Himachal and to return after committing dacoity. He, Raju, Nuru, Afzal, Islam and Azam came to Himachal in Scorpio bearing regn. No. DL-3CY-8786, being driven by Shamsuddin. Raju stayed at Kiratpur. Shehruddin, Nuru, Afzal, Islam and Azam went to the house of Mehfooz. Mehfooz brought two pistols. One pistol was with Nuru. Mehfooz handed over one pistol to Afzal and one to Islam. The vehicle was stopped at Kangu from where Nuru, Afzal, Islam, Azam and Shehrudin went on foot to the house of the complainant. Shamsuddin and Mahfoz waited in the vehicle. All of them went to Delhi after committing theft. The articles stolen during theft were distributed in Delhi. The mobile phone fell in the share of Shehrudin, which was sold by him to Kasam. Kasam returned the phone because money transaction could not be completed. Nuru, Azam and Islam had sold jewellery to Mittal Jewelers. The police seized Scorpio bearing regn. No. DL-3CY-8786 on 23.11.2009 from Ganda Nala Hajuri Khas. Visiting cards were found inside the vehicle, which were seized vide seizure memo Ext. PW-8/C. Accused Azam, Shamsuddin and Islam were arrested on 26.11.2009. Mohammad Azam made a statement on 8.12.2009 under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act that he could get gold recovered from Shamli Bazaar. Azam showed shop of Mittal Jewellers in Bara Bazaar, Shamli. Memo Ext. PW-24/B was prepared. Shamsudin made a statement under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act that he could get the gold recovered from his house, which was kept by him outside his house in a tarpaulin. Memo Ext. PW-5/B was prepared in this behalf. He led the police to his house from where one polythene bag was recovered which was opened and it was found to be containing gold nose pins. Nose pins were taken to shop No. 224 and Madan Lal owner of the shop separated artificial gold and real gold. It weighed 20.760 grams. Artificial gold and gems weighed 5.150 grams. These were seized vide seizure memo Ext. PW-24/D. The site plan was also prepared. Dr. Sanjay Pathak collected saliva samples. He also conducted their medical examination and issued MLCs Ext. PW-14/B to Ext. PW-14/E. Salvia sample and piece of mat picked up from the spot were sent to FSL, Junga for analysis vide letter Ext. PW-22/A. An application Ext. PW-15/A was moved for taking blood Sample. Dr. Babita Chaursia, PW-15 supervised taking samples. The blood samples were handed over to the police. These were sent to FSL for analysis. Report Ext. PW-20/A was issued by the FSL. Gold was also recovered from PW-23 Manoj Kumar who was running shop at Bara Bazaar, Shamli. The statements of the witnesses were recorded. The investigation was completed and the challan was put up after completing all the codal formalities.

4. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as 29 witnesses. The accused were also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. They have denied the prosecution case. According to them, they were falsely implicated. The learned trial Court convicted accused Azam, Shehrudin and Shamsudin, as noticed hereinabove. Accused Kasim was acquitted. Hence, these appeals on behalf of the accused persons.

5. M/S. N.K.Thakur, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Inder Sharma, Ajay Sharma and Naresh Kumar Tomar, Advocates, appearing on behalf of the respective accused, have vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused. On the other hand, Mr. M.A.Khan, learned Addl. AG, for the State has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 23/29.12.2011.

6. We have heard learned counsel for both the sides and gone through the records of the case carefully.

7. PW-1 Shyam Lal, testified that he was running a shop of goldsmith at Sundernagar. His wife use to work with him in the shop. He had gone to Shimla on 8.9.2009. His wife and his servant Raju were present in the shop. He returned from Shimla in the evening. He and his wife slept in their room. Children slept in their room. There was a knock on his door at about 1:00 AM. He heard the muffled voice of his mother. His wife switched on the light and opened the door. As soon as she opened the door somebody pushed her. There were 2-3 persons on the door. One of the persons put the pistol on the head of his wife. She was taken to a side. He was behind her. Another person slapped him and put the pistol on his head and took him to a side. His mother was caught by two persons. A pistol was put on her head. She was also brought inside the room. They were made to sit inside the room with pistol pointing towards their heads. The children also came inside the room on hearing noise. They were also made to sit alongwith them. There were four persons who came inside their room. One was standing on the door. The wife of his younger brother Mamta also came to their room on hearing the noise. One of the person snatched her chain and brought her inside the room. She was also made to sit with them. His younger brother Tilak Raj came after her. He was also dragged inside the room. He was slapped twice-thrice. One of the persons was armed with darat. Two of the persons covered them and two went to the Almirah. One hit the lock of almirah with darat and broke it. The other started searching the almirah and the room. There were two bags inside the almirah. One was bigger and the other was smaller. The small bag was having cash and bigger was having gold. He put the smaller bag in the bigger bag. They had kept two mobiles on the TV set. They picked up the mobile phones, took away the bags and all of them came out of the room. They bolted the door from outside. He caught the door and tried to open it. It opened after some time. They went out and started shouting. They could not find out as to where those persons went. The people came after some time because their houses were at some distance. He telephoned the police. The police came and inspected the spot. His statement Ext. PW-1/A was recorded. The police also took the photographs. The police cut the piece of the mat where they had spitted. It was sealed in a parcel. The lock of the Almirah was also seized by the police vide memo Ext. PW-1/C. The police also seized the accounts book Ext. PW-1/D, bill Ext. PW-1/E and one darat vide seizure memo Ext. PW-1/F. Vijay and Mohan Lal had put their signatures on this memo. He identified darat Ext. P-1. The identification of the accused was got conducted in the month of December in Sub Jail, Mandi. He identified three persons. The police took him to Shamli. The gold was melted and converted into a piece. The police also recovered 20 grams of nose pins. This was identified by Vijay Kumar and memo Ext. PW-1/G was prepared. It was seized vide memo Ext. PW-1/H. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he told the police that he had heard muffled voice. His mother was caught from arms by two persons. 2-3 slaps were given to his brother. One person hit the lock with the blunt side of darat. He had kept two mobiles on TV set and had pulled the door and it opened. (Confronted with Ext. PW-1/A where it is not so recorded).

8. PW-2 Sushma Devi also supported the version of PW-1 Shyam Lal. According to her, all the accused went outside the room and bolted from outside. Her husband pulled the door from inside. The door opened after sometime but the accused had left by that time.

9. PW-3 Krishna Devi, mother of PW-1 Shyam Lal also deposed the manner in which the accused entered the house. According to her, she was going to toilet at mid night. One person was standing on the door. She thought her younger son was standing. She caught him by the arm and inquired Bablu where you were going. He put his hand on her mouth and pointed a pistol on her head. He threatened to kill her in case she would shout. Two persons caught her arms. They told her that they were police officials. They made inquiry about the person who runs a shop at Sundernagar. She replied that he is her son and he was sleeping in the room. They took her inside the room. She was not allowed to make any noise. Her daughter-in-law, Sushma opened the door. They pushed her inside the room. They pointed pistol at her head and also on the head of her daughter-in-law. The person with darat and empty handed started searching the room. The lock was broken with the blunt side of the darat. The accused went away with the bag and the mobiles. They bolted the door from outside the room. Shyam Lal pulled at the door and the door opened after some time.

10. PW-4 Vijay Kumar proved cashbook Ext. PW-1/D, bill Ext. PW-1/E. According to him, one darat Ext. P-1 was seized by the police vide memo Ext. PW-1/F on 10.9.2009. One nugget of gold was produced by Manoj alias Boby owner of Mittal Jewellers. He examined it. It weighed 250 gms. He had issued certificate Ext. PW-1/G. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he did not know Manoj Kumar. The police had taken them to the shop of Manoj Kumar. The police told them that they knew about the shop of Manoj Kumar and they had to accompany the police to his shop. The police had telephoned them and told them to come to the shop of Manoj Kumar. In the cross-examination by the Advocate, appearing on behalf of accused Azam, he deposed that the shop of Manoj Kumar was open and Manoj Kumar made the statement in his presence.

11. PW-5 Const. Mohan Lal, deposed that the police recovered mat over which the assailants had spitted in his presence on 9.9.2009 vide seizure memo Ext. PW-1/C. The police also recovered one piece of broken lock and one key vide the same memo. These were sealed in separate parcels with seal ‘A’. Accused Azam made a disclosure statement in his presence and in the presence of Bhinder and Sanjeev Kumar that he could show the shop and could get recover the ornaments sold by him, Islam and Noordin. Memo Ext. PW-5/A was prepared. The memo was signed by him, Binder and Sanjeev Kumar as witnesses and also by the accused. Accused Shamsudin made a disclosure statement on the same day in his presence and in the presence of Bhinder and Sanjeev Kumar that he could get recovered some ornaments concealed by him outside his house in a tarpaulin. Memo Ext. PW-5/B was prepared and it was signed by him alongwith Bhinder and Mohan Lal. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he did not remember the time when the disclosure statement was made in the Police Station Sundernagar. However, it was day time.

12. PW-6 Puran Chand deposed that the accused Sheharudin made a statement that he had concealed a black coloured mobile with his sister. He could get it recovered. Memo Ext. PW-6/A was prepared.

13. PW-7 Binder Kumar deposed that on 8.12.2009, ASI Vijay Kumar and other police officials were present in the Police Station. Accused Azam was present in the Police Station. He made a statement that he could get the ornaments recovered from Shamli in Uttar Pradesh. Memo Ext. PW-5/A was prepared and signed by him, Sanjeev and Mohan Lal alongwith the accused. Thereafter, accused Samshudeen made the statement that he could get recovered the ornaments from a tarpaulin outside his house. Memo Ext. PW-5/B was prepared and signed by him, Sanjeev and Mohan Lal alongwith the accused. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he went to the Police Station in connection with the personal work. He did not remember the time when he visited the Police Station. He did not remember the time of making the statements or the time at which the investigation was completed. He did not remember the time at which he left the Police Station. He reached at home at 6:00 PM. He did not go to Delhi.

14. PW-8 Sant Ram, deposed that accused Sheharudin made disclosure statement that he has kept mobile in his rented accommodation at Nehru Vihar and he could get it recovered. Statement Ext. PW-8/A was recorded and signed by him, HC Chaman Lal and thumb mark by the accused was also put. They took accused Sheharudin to his rented accommodation from where he got mobile recovered which was kept by him in an attache. Memo Ext. PW-8/B was prepared and signed by him, HC Chaman Lal and thumb mark by the accused was also put. He had gone with the police party to search for the accused in Delhi, Mustafabad and Hazuirkhas. One black coloured Scorpio bearing regn. No. DL-3CY-8786 was parked near ganda nalla. It was the same vehicle wanted by the police. The key of the vehicle was attached to the lock of the front door. The door was opened. Visiting cards were found inside the vehicle and were seized by the police. The vehicle was seized by the police vide seizure memo Ext. PW-8/C. Ashwani Kumar, produced one agreement mark-B which was seized vide memo Ext. PW-8/D. In his cross-examination, he submitted that they left the Police Station on 19.11.2009 in a hired Scorpio. He alongwith Vijay Kumar and HC Chaman Lal were in that vehicle. They reached Delhi on the same day. He did not remember the time. He did not know who had hired the Scorpio vehicle. He did not remember its colour. They had stopped many times on the way to Delhi. He did not inquire the name of the driver. They went to the house of sister of accused Sharudin where his statement Ext. PW-8/A was recorded. He did not remember who were present in the house of sister of accused. The statement was recorded by ASI Vijay Kumar. Thereafter, they went to Nehru Vihar. He admitted that no person of Delhi police or resident of Delhi was associated during investigation. He did not remember the colour of the vehicle in which they went to Delhi on 22.11.2009.

15. PW-9 Subhash Bashin, JMIC-II, Amb, has recorded the statements of the accused regarding their willingness for identification vide Ext. PW-9/B to PW-9/E.

16. PW-14 Dr. Sanjay Pathak, has examined the accused and issued MLCs Ext. PW-14/B to Ext. PW-14/E.

17. PW-17 HC Krishan Chand, made the statement that the case property was deposited with him and he deposited the same in the malkhana by making appropriate entry.

18. PW-21 Ashwani Kumar deposed that he was owner of vehicle bearing regn. number DL-3CY-8786. He had purchased the vehicle from Rajender Yogi. He issued certificate Ext. PW-21/A. He proved agreement Ext. PW-21/B.

19. PW-22 Dr. Aparna Sharma, has proved report Ext. PW-20/A. According to her, Ext. 2, 3, 4 & 5 yielded degraded DNA and STR amplification through PCR was not successful despite repeated attempts. The I.O. was again asked to send fresh samples to generate the DNA profile of the accused. According to her, on the basis of analysis performed on the exhibits, it was concluded that DNA profile obtained from exhibit 1 (piece of mat having spitting of gutka) matched fully with DNA profile from exhibit 6-d (blood sample of Islam).

20. PW-23 Manoj Kumar deposed that in the month of September, 2009, 4-5 boys, one lady and children came to his shop. They asked for exchanging the gold. The accused Azam and Shehruddin were accompanying those boys. One Neeru and Islam showed the identity cards. They handed over200 grams of gold in the form of broken ornaments in the form of nose rings, rings, karas, chains and ear rings. He deducted 15% as per the conditions/quality of the ornaments. The gold was 200 grams after melting it. He handed over the ornaments, namely, 8 karas, two chains, 3-4 pair of ear rings, nose pins and Rs. 1,50,000/- as per the market price. In his cross-examination, he admitted that Mittal Jewelers is not a registered jeweler. He had maintained a copy regarding the transaction. It was a rough copy because it is not to be shown to any person. He had made entry in the rough copy regarding the transaction. They maintaind the rough copy for about 1-2 months and thereafter, they dispose of the same. They did not obtain the signatures of the person delivering the articles. Signatures of the persons who came to him were not obtained by him. He has not taken any receipt of Rs. 1,50,000/- paid to the accused. He did not pay sale tax and income tax. They were only charging labour charges.

21. PW-24 HC Chaman Lal deposed that accused Shehruddin made a statement Ext. PW-8/A that earlier statement made by him was false to mislead the police and he had kept the stolen mobile in Nehru Vihar in his tenanted house which could be got recovered from him. Memo was prepared which bears his signatures and signatures of Sant Ram. Recovery memo Ext. PW-8/B was prepared which bears his signatures and signatures of Sant Ram as witnesses. Azam, Islam and Shamsuddin were taken to Shamli on 9.12.2009. Azam pointerd out one shop Mittal Jewelers and told that the gold was sold in this shop. It was verified by Islam. The gold was sold in this shop. Memo is Ext. PW-24/B which bears his signatures and Azam put his signatures and Islam put his thumb impression. The shop was closed. Inquiry was made from Shamsuddin. He told that he could get the ornaments recovered from his house. The accused showed the place from where gold ornaments namely nose pins and nose rings were got recovered by him. The weight of gold was found to be 20.760 grams and weight of stones was found to be 5.150 grams. These were kept in piece of paper and were wrapped in a piece of cloth. These were seized vide memo Ext. PW-24/D. In his cross-examination, he could not narrate the number of days when he remained with the police during the course of investigation. He did not remember the registration number or colour of the vehicle. They had gone in Scorpio vehicle. He did not remember the registration number and colour of the same. No person accompanied them from the complainant party. He could not tell as to who had hired the jeep. He could not tell the name of the driver. They had not associated any local police official. The local police was not associated at Shamli.

22. PW-25 Krishan Lal, has proved receipt No. 086885 vide Ext. PW-25/A. According to him, the vehicle Scorpio 8786 crossed the barrier on 8.9.2009 towards Himachal. He admitted in his cross-examination that receipt Ext. PW-25/A was not in his handwriting but in the hand writing of his employee. He could not tell the State to which vehicle bearing regn. no. 8786 belonged. The receipt was for the small vehicle. He could not narrate the description of any other vehicle mentioned in the counterfoil. He could not narrate as to how he remembered the description of Scorpio.

23. PW-27 ASI Vijay Kumar, deposed that a telephonic information was received in the police post Slapper on 9.9.2009 that a dacoity had been committed in the house of Shyam Lal. The statement of Shyam Lal was recorded. Photographs were taken. The statements of the witnesses were also recorded. Disclosure statements made by the accused under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act were also recorded. Recoveries were effected of the gold and telephone. In his cross-examination, he admitted that he has not associated the local police. Volunteered that local beat Constable was present but he was not cooperating them. He had not made any complaint regarding this fact because he was short of time. He also admitted that the recovery was got effected by Shamsuddin from open place underneath the tarpaulin. No local witness was associated because it was similar community inhabited by people of one community. He further deposed in his cross examination by Sh. Vikash Sharma, Advocate that Azam made a disclosure statement on 8.12.2009 in the presence of Binder Kumar and Sanjeev Kumar. They had visited the Police Station by chance in connection with their work. He could not tell the details of the work. In his further cross-examination, he admitted that there was no identification mark on the recovered gold to connect it with the stolen gold. Four revolvers could not be recovered in this case.

24. PW-28 Madan Lal, was declared hostile. He denied the suggestion by the learned Public Prosecutor that the police came to him on 9.12.2009.

25. PW-29 Shashikant Verma proved letter Ext. PW-18/A, call details Ext. PW-18/B, customers identification form Ext. PW-19/C and identity proof (election card) Ext. PW-18/D.

26. The case of the prosecution, precisely, is that the accused entered the house of PW-1 Shyam Lal, complainant when PW-3 Krishna Devi came out to use the toilet. According to PW-1 Shyam Lal, he heard the muffled noise of his mother. His wife opened the door after switching on the light. The accused were armed with pistols. They pointed the pistols on their heads and entire family was made to sit together. One of the accused opened the almirah by using darat. Jewelery and cash was removed and the accused fled away after bolting the door from outside.

27. PW-1 Shyam Lal, deposed that the door was opened after some time. Similar statement is made by PW-2 Sushma Devi and PW-3 Krishna Devi. It cannot be believed that the door could be opened from inside when it was bolted from outside. In case, the door was to be opened, even hypothetically, by pushing it, latch would have broken. The police has not recovered any broken latch or the door.

28. The manner in which the prosecution has narrated the entry of the accused to the house is also doubtful. According to PW-3, Krishna Devi, she went out to use the toilet and accused entered their house. It is not believable that 4-5 persons, fully armed were waiting for her to come out to use the toilet in order to enter the house and that too at 1:30 AM.

29. The case of the prosecution is that accused Azam made the disclosure statement vide Ext. PW-5/A that he could show the shop and could recover the ornaments sold by him. The memo was signed by Binder and Sanjeev Kumar. Accused Shamshudin has also made the disclosure statement Ext. PW-5/B to the effect that he could recover some ornaments concealed by him outside his house in a tarpaulin. PW-5 Const. Mohan Lal, in his cross-examination, has admitted that he did not remember the time when the statement was made. Statements Ext. PW-5/A and PW-5/B were also signed by PW-7 Binder Kumar. His presence in the Police Station is doubtful. According to him, he went to the Police station in connection with some personal work. The Police requested him to sit. He reached the Police Station during day time. He did not remember the time. He did not remember the time at which he left the Police Station or making statements or investigation completed. He did not remember as to when he has taken character certificate. The report was handed over to him by MHC. He did not know whether entry was made by MHC in the daily diary or not. He produced the report in the Tehsil on the next day. He took the character certificate on 9.12.2009. His signatures were obtained by clerk of the Tehsil at the time of delivery of the character certificate. He had not seen the register of the character certificate. The character certificate has not been proved. He was supposed to know the time when he reached the Police Station and left from there.

30. According to PW-8 Const. Sant Ram, mobile phone Ext. P-2 was recovered vide memo Ext. PW-8/B. He had gone with the police party in search of the accused. One black coloured Scorpio bearing regn. No. DL-3CY-8786 was parked near gandanala. The key of the vehicle was attached to the lock of the front door. In his cross-examination, he deposed that they left for Delhi on 19.11.2009 in a hired Scorpio. They reached Delhi on the same day. However, he did not remember the colour of the vehicle. He also admitted that no person of Delhi or Delhi Police was associated in the investigation. The mobile phone has been recovered from Nehru Vihar. The police has neither informed the local police nor any independent witnesses were associated at the time of seizure of mobile phone vide seizure memo Ext. PW-8/B. Both the witnesses of Ext. PW-8/B are police officials.

31. According to the prosecution, the accused Azam has made disclosure statement on 8.12.2009 that he could get the gold ornaments recovered from Shamli town. This statement was witnessed by PW-7 Binder Kumar, Mohan Lal and Sanjeev Kumar. We have already discussed the statement of PW-7 Binder Kumar. His presence in the Police Station is doubtful. Similarly the statement of Shamshudin was recorded under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act that he could recover ornaments concealed by him outside his house in a tarpaulin. It was also witnessed by PW-7 Binder Kumar and Mohan Lal. The shop was got identified by accused Azam vide Ext. PW-24/B. Ext. PW-24/B has been witnessed by the official witnesses. No independent witnesses were associated at the time of preparing Ext. PW-24/B. The police has also not even informed the local police. The gold was recovered vide memo Ext. PW-24/D at the instance of accused Shamshudin. Ext. PW-24/D has also not been signed by any independent witness. It was signed by police officials Const. Chaman Lal and Baldev Singh. The reason assigned by the I.O. for not associating the independent witnesses is that the neighbor also belonged to the same community. The independent witnesses ought to have been associated at the time when Ext. PW-24/B and PW-24/D were prepared. Similarly, we have already noticed that when the mobile phone Ext. P-2 was recovered, no independent witnesses were associated by the police.

32. The case of the prosecution is that the gold was recovered from the shop of PW-23 Manoj Kumar. PW-23 Manoj Kumar in his statement has admitted that Mittal Jewelers is not a registered jeweler. He had maintained a copy regarding the transaction. It is a rough copy because it is not to be shown to any person. He used to make entry in the rough copy regarding the transaction. They maintain the rough copy for about 1-2 months and thereafter, they dispose of the same. They did not obtain the signatures of the person delivering the articles. Signatures of the persons who came to him were not obtained by him. He has not taken any receipt of Rs. 1,50,000/- paid to the accused. Local police has not been associated at Shamli and even the house of the accused was also not got identified by any person.

33. PW-27 ASI Vijay Kumar, the I.O. in the case, in his cross-examination has admitted that the recovery from Shamsuddin was made from open place underneath the tarpaulin. It is not believable that accused would have kept the gold underneath the tarpaulin which was accessible to all. PW-27 ASI Vijay Kumar in his further cross-examination has deposed that Azam has made disclosure statement. Binder Kumar and Sanjeev Kumar had visited the Police Station by chance in connection with some work. He could not narrate the details of the work. He has also admitted that there was no identification mark on the recovered gold. He has also admitted that four revolvers could not be recovered in this case. The recovery of revolvers/pistols was very important since the case of the prosecution is that the accused have threatened the family of PW-1 Shyam Lal by pointing pistols on their heads. Since the revolvers/pistols have not been recovered, it casts doubt on the entire version of the prosecution as to whether the accused were carrying revolvers/pistols at all.

34. Mr. M.A.Khan, learned Addl. Advocate General for the State has vehemently argued that the vehicle used in the case bearing registration No. DL-3CY-8786, was recovered. He further submitted that the vehicle had entered Himachal. He has also drawn the attention of the Court to Ext. PW-24/A. We have gone through Ext. PW-24/A. In Ext. PW-24/A, vehicle No. 8786 has only been recorded but the registration number allotted to a particular State is also to be pre-fixed before the number. Ext. PW-24/A has not been even signed by PW-25 Krishan Lal. Rather, Ext. PW-25/A does not bear the signatures of any person or verification of any person.

35. Mr. M.A.Khan, learned Addl. Advocate General for the State has further argued that the prosecution has obtained the DNA profile of the accused. PW-22 Dr. Aparna Sharma has proved report Ext. PW-20/A. The following observations have been made in Ext. PW-20/A:

> "Observations:
>
> i). Exhibits P-1, 6a, 6b, 6c & 6d yielded good quality DNA and it was possible to amplify all the fifteen autosomal STR loci and amelogenin (X & Y) using AmpF/STR Identifier PCR Amplification Kit.
>
> ii). The genotype profile of the source of exhibit 6d (Sh. Islam) matched fully with the genotype profile obtained from exhibit-1 (source: piece of mat having spitting with Gutka) at all the fifteen STR loci.
>
> Conclusion:
>
> On the basis of the above analysis performed on the aforesaid exhibits, it was concluded that the DNA profile obtained from exhibit-1 (piece of mat having spitting of gutka) matched fully with DNA profile from exhibit 6-d (Blood sample of Sh. Islam)."

36. The DNA profile matched fully with DNA profile from blood sample of Islam only. The report qua other accused is not conclusive that the DNA profile matched with their blood samples. The blood samples of the accused have been obtained by PW-15 Dr. Babita Chaursia. It has come in the statement of PW-22 Dr. Aparna Sharma that the I.O. was asked to provide fresh samples to generate the DNA profile of the accused. PW-15 Dr. Babita Chaursia has not deposed that the Medical Officer has kept the samples of blood preserved by the Medical Officer, CH Sundernagar. The Medical Officer, CH Sundernagar, has not been examined to establish that he had preserved the blood samples of the accused. According to the conclusion of Ext. PW-20/A, the DNA profile obtained from exhibit-1 matched fully with DNA profile from exhibit 6-d, the blood sample of Sh. Islam and not of the accused.

37. Mr. M.A.Khan, learned Addl. Advocate General has also drawn the attention of the Court to Ext. PW-24/A to establish that the Medical Officer, CH Sundernagar has preserved the blood samples, however, in the absence of examination of Medical Officer, CH Sundernagar, it cannot be conclusively said that he had preserved the blood samples.

38. PW-1 Shyam Lal is goldsmith and thus the doors of his house are bound to be strong and the same could not be opened by pushing it from inside and that too, when the door was bolted from outside by the accused. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove the case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt for the commission of offence under Section 395 IPC.

39. Accordingly, in view of the analysis and discussion made hereinabove, the appeals are allowed. Judgment of conviction and sentence dated 23/29.12.2011, rendered by the learned Addl. Sessions Judge, Mandi, H.P., in Sessions Trial No. 10 of 2010, is set aside. Accused persons are acquitted of the charges framed against them by giving them benefit of doubt. Fine amount, if any, already deposited by the accused is ordered to be refunded to them. Since the accused are in jail, they be released forthwith, if not required in any other case.

40. The Registry is directed to prepare the release warrants of the accused and send the same to the Superintendent of Jail concerned, in conformity with this judgment forthwith.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Deepak Arora and another …Decree-Holders
Versus
Vijay Khanna …Applicant/Judge-Debtor

OMP No. 44 of 2015 In
Ex. Petition No. 10 of 2013
Reserved on 23.4.2015
Date of decision: 2.5.2015

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Sections 144- Judgment debtor claimed that he had deposited an amount of Rs. 4,68,25,228/-, whereas he is liable to pay only Rs. 3,70,49770.80- he sought the refund of the excess amount - Decree holder contended that judgment debtor had not objected to attachment of the property and the principle of res-judicata will apply to the present case- held, that amount of Rs. 63,11,334/- was not awarded to the decree holder - the Court can only recover the amount, which is awarded under the decree- decree holder cannot be allowed to enrich himself unjustly and to retain the amount, which was not awarded to him - petition allowed and the excess amount ordered to be refunded to the J.D. (Para 9 to 22)

Cases referred:

Rajkishore Mohanty and another Vs. Kangali Moharana and others AIR (59) 1972 Orissa 119

Barkat Ali and others Vs. Badrinarain AIR 2001 Rajasthan 51

The Sale Tax Officer, Banaras and others Vs. Kanhaiya Lal Makund Lal Saraf, AIR 1959 SC 135,

Renusagar Power Co. Ltd. Vs. General Electric Co. 1994 Supp (1) SCC 644:

Indian Council for Enviro-Legal Action Vs. Union of India and others (2011) 8 SCC 161

State Bank of India and others Vs. S.N. Goyal (2008) 8 SCC 92

For the Decree Holders: Mr.R.L. Sood, Senior Advocate with Mr.Ashwani K. Sharma and Mr.Arjun Lal, Advocate.

For the Applicant/Judgment Debtor: Mr.Ajay Mohan Goel and Mr.Rajesh Mandhotra, Advocates.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan J.

By medium of this application under Section 151 read with Section 144 C.P.C, the applicant/judgment debtor has sought refund of the excess amount deposited by him with a further direction to recall the order dated 24.2.2015 (mentioned as 23.2.2015), whereby this Court had directed to release of the amount deposited by the judgment debtor in favour of the decree holder.

2. It is alleged by the judgment debtor that as against the amount of Rs.2,84,25,372/- along with proportionate interest, he has deposited a sum of Rs.4,68,25,228/-, whereas the total amount due to the Decree Holder as per the award is as follows:-

"a)	Amount due as on 26.5.208:	Rs.1,84,58,030/-
b)	Interest from 26.5.2008 @: Rs.12% p.a.	Rs. 99,67,342/-
	Total:	Rs.2,84,25,372/-
c)	Cost as awarded by Ld. Arbitrator:	Rs.15,00,000/- and interest on the amount of Rs.1,84,58,030/- @ 18% per annum from 1.1.2013 till date of deposit i.e. 21.2.2015.
d)	Interest of two years 1.1.2013: to 31.12.2014.	Rs.66,44,490.80
e)	Interest of 52 days	Rs.4,79,908.00
	Grand total a) to e)	Rs.3,70,49,770.80"

3. It is in this background that the present application has been preferred for claiming refund of the excess amount.

4. The application has been vehemently opposed by the Decree Holders by filing reply, wherein preliminary objections have been taken to the effect that the application is not maintainable, as the same seeks to raise issues, which stand already decided or are deemed to be decided and therefore, cannot again be permitted to be raised. It has been alleged that these orders have obtained finality and operate as resjudicata between the parties. In support of their allegations, the Decree Holders have made the following averments:-

> "(a) That the Judgment Debtor/applicant was served in the execution petition as well as in the application for attachment of his properties being OMP No. 262 of 2013. Both in the execution petition and OMP No. 262 of 2013, details of the amounts due from the Judgment Debtor to the Decree Holders were clearly spelt out item-wise alongwith the interest claimed separately. Therefore, the total amount due was also indicated. The Judgment Debtor appeared in the present proceedings on 10.7.2013. He specifically prayed for and was granted time to file objections to the execution petition as well as OMP No. 262 of 2013.
>
> (b) That on 2.8.2013 the judgment debtor was again granted time to file objections to execution petition and reply to OMP No. 262 of 2013 subject to costs of Rs.2000/-
>
> (c) On 27.8.2013, this Hon'ble Court closed the right of the Judgment Debtor to file objections to the execution petition. It also closed his right to file a reply to OMP No. 262 of 2013.
>
> (d) On 27.8.2013, the Court further proceeded to order the Decree Holder to take necessary steps for the attachment of the property, the means of which were detailed in the said order.
>
> (e) The aforesaid order is an order under Order 21 Rule 22 and is dated 27.8.2013, that is a decree unto itself. One stage of the execution proceedings culminated with the said order, which is to be treated as a decree. Thereafter, the Court proceeded to the next stage by passing an order under Order 21 Rule 23 CPC. Once the Judgment Debtor, with open eyes failed to file any objections having appeared pursuant to the notice issued to him, and the Court closed his right to do so, in law, it will be deemed that while ordering the attachment of his property, after closing his right to file objections, this Court had adjudicated and determined the amount to be recovered from the Judgment Debtor. J.D. had as such agreed with the calculations put forth by the Decree Holders, both in the execution petition as also in the application. The said order dated 27.8.2013, is a decree unto itself and if the Judgment Debtor was not satisfied with the same, the only course left open to him was to file an appeal against the same. Since no appeal was filed, and the said decree dated 27.8.2013 has attained finality. The Judgment Debtor is barred in law from filing the present application in order to question the amount that is claimed by the Decree Holders and which has not only been deposited by the Judgment

Debtor, but his no objection to the release of the amount in favour of the Decree Holder stands recorded in Order dated 24.2.2015 by this Court. The Decree Holders are supported by the law as laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, the Full Bench and Division Benches of various High Courts, which shall be furnished to this Hon'ble Court in the form of a compilation at the time of arguments.

(f) That the application is also not maintainable for the reason that after the property was attached for recovery of the amount claimed and detailed in the execution petition (to which no objections have been filed), this Hon'ble Court proceeded to pass an order dated 25.3.2014, thereby allowing OMP No. 69 of 2014 and ordering the sale of the attached property of the Judgment Debtor at Dharamshala to be sold by way of public auction to recover the amount detailed and indicated in the execution petition. The Judgment Debtor did not file any objections to the said application nor did he challenge the said order in appeal. The same has also attained finality.

(g) That thereafter the Judgment Debtor filed an OMP No. 196 of 2014, under Section 151 CPC for recalling the order. In the said application, the Judgment Debtor has admitted in para-4 thereof the amount claimed in the execution petition in the following words: "The learned Arbitrator has come to the conclusion that the non-applicants/judgment holders are entitled for an amount of Rs.3,82,06,988/- (this is amount detailed and claimed in the Execution Petition). At no stage, the Judgment Debtor questioned the correctness of this amount that had been claimed by the Decree Holders. The said application was also dismissed by this Hon'ble Court vide its order dated 9.7.2014. The appeal filed against the Order was dismissed as withdrawn.

(h) That thereafter, the proclamation for sale was ordered to be drawn up and was drawn up and, at that stage also, (although, in law he could not have raised any objection), the Judgment Debtor failed to raise any objections regarding the correctness of the amount for which the decree was being executed.

(i) That the Judgment Debtor then filed an application being OMP No. 457 of 2014. He raised several objections therein, but he did not question the amount claimed in the execution petition."

5. It is thereafter averred that this Court has become functus officio after passing of order dated 24.2.2015 and the application, therefore, deserves to be dismissed. It is also contended that the Arbitrator has specifically held that the Judgment Debtor had withdrawn an amount of Rs.67,44,947/- before the dissolution of the Firm and therefore, this amount had infact been awarded in favour of the Decree Holder.

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record of the case.

6. The Decree Holder in the application under Order 21 Rule 1 C.P.C. has claimed the following amounts:-

"7.	Amount with interest due up to the decree or other relief granted thereby together with particulars of any cross decree.	(a) Original amount as awarded vide award dated 1.12.2012, i.e. amount due as on 26.05.2008 Rs.1,84,58,030/- and interest thereupon @12% from 26.11.2012 as awarded by the arbitrator i.e Rs.99,67,342/-	2,84,25,372.00
		(b) Interest @18% p.a. on Rs.1,84,58,030/- from 01.12.2012 till 30.04.2013.
		(c) Amount awarded in favour of the Decree Holders after dissolution of the partnership firm as payable by the Judgment Debtor.	13,84,352.00
		(d) Interest @ 18% p.a. on Rs.63,11,334/- from 01.12.2012 till 30.04.2013
		Total (a) to (d)
			63,11,334.00
			4,73,350.00
			3,65,94,408.00
8.	Amount of costs, if any awarded.	Cost awarded	Rs.15,00,000/-
		Interest @18% p.a. on Rs.15,00,000/- from 01.12.2012 till 30.04.2013	Rs.1,12,500/-
		The Decree in total i.e. amounts mentioned in para 7(a) to (d) and para 8 (as on 30.04.2013).	Rs.3,82,06,908/-

	N.B. The Judgment Debtor is also liable to pay interest @18% p.a. on the aforesaid amount from 01/05/2013 till date of payment of the entire decreetal amount to the Decree Holders

7. Therefore, the main question which arises for determination is as to whether the Decree Holder is entitled to the amount of Rs.63,11,334/- along with the interest thereon.

8. The relevant portion of the award passed by the learned Arbitrator reads thus:-

> "From the close scrutiny of this post-dissolution accounts maintained in different Banks, a casual chart of amounts transferred from SHR Account to and in the name of Shri Vijay Khann's personal account referred to below read with the record in the form of Compilation of Provisional Income and Expenditure Account of SHR, it is evident that the Respondent has grained huge profits by carrying on the business by using the partnership property for his personal gains since the date of dissolution till date. The Hotel business has monetarily gained grounds day by day and Respondent is having thriving business as is apparent from the Statement of amount(s) withdrawn by him (Respondent) from the account of SHR with ICICI Branch Office Dharamshala for his personal use after dissolution of partnership firm i.e. 26.5.2008 and other Banks. From the CHART prepared by this forum based on the entries of the accounts of different Bank read with Provisional Income and Expenditure Account of SHR and entries detailed therein CHART Annexure MARK "Y" Respondent has withdrawn an amount of Rs.67,44,947/- before dissolution and an amount of Rs.63,11,334 after dissolution. It is to be seen that the cash withdrawals by Respondent and by his family, ATM withdrawals, Car Loan payments when compared with the Provisional Income and Expenditure Account of M/s SHR as compiled by the above-said Chartered Accountants does not find mention therein as much as no such personal Ledger Account of Respondent Vijay Khanna has been opened under any Head as are detailed in any of the said Compilation of Provisional Income and Expenditure Account(s) of aforesaid SHR. As such it is not possible to conclude the financial status of the parties to the instant lis even for the purposes of settlement of accounts in the winding up process of the instant case from the above said Provisional Income and Expenditure Account of SHR as produced by Respondent without the concerned papers indicated for the purpose of withdrawal, payment or expenditure so incurred. Huge amount towards legal and professional charges have been indicated in the said compiled accounts but other withdrawals through ATM etc do not find place therein. Therefore, it is not possible to seek help and rely upon the entries of the said Compilation of Provisional Income and Expenditure Account of M/s SHR aforesaid after dissolution of the partnership firm on 26.3.2008.

Even otherwise Respondent from the very inception of receipt of notice adopted a stubborn attitude to defy the claim of the Claimants. Rather the Respondent filed a Counter Claim on untenable, contradictory and inconsistent pleas which have been proved to be not only destructive of each other but on false grounds as well.

Admittedly this is a Commercial Industry/business. Thus this forum deems it just and proper to adopt the procedure of awarding interest from the date of dissolution in accordance with sub-section 7(a) and (b) of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996 on the whole of the amount found to be due as per the terms and conditions of the partnership deed @ 12% per annum. Thus the total payable amount (as of today) by the Respondent to the Claimants comes to

a) Amount due as on 26.5.2008	Rs.1,84,58,030/-
b) Interests from 26.5.2008 to 26.11.212 @12% p.a.	Rs. 99,67,342/-
Total	Rs. 2,84,25,372/-

In case the amount found due is not paid within one month from the date of receipt of the copy of the duly signed award, the Respondent shall be further bound to pay interest in accordance with Section 17(7) (b) of the Act 26 of 1996 i.e. @ 18% per annum on the amount of Rs.1,84,58,030/- till the date of its payment."

9. Now a bare perusal of the award would show that nowhere has the learned Arbitrator awarded a sum of Rs.63,11,334/- in favour of the Decree Holders.

10. However, the learned Counsel for the Decree Holder has vehemently argued that not only at any stage of proceeding did the Judgment Debtor ever file any objections against the decree, but he has also not objected at the time when notice of attachment of his property had been issued. He did not object even when his property was attached and thereafter when attached property was in fact ordered to be sold. He further argued that the Judgment Debtor while filing OMP No. 196 of 2014 for recalling of order, had clearly admitted in para 4 regarding the amount claimed in the execution in the following words:

> "4. That after sometime partnership was dissolved and decree holder/non-applicant has filed a case and matter was referred to Ld. Single Arbitrator. The Ld. Arbitrator has come to the conclusion that the non applicants/judgment holders are entitled for an amount of Rs.3,82,06,988/-"

11. Learned counsel for the Decree Holders has argued that if after receiving notice of the execution application under Rule 22 of Order 21 C.P.C., the Judgment Debtor does not appear or does not show cause to the satisfaction of the Court why the decree should not be executed, the Court is bound to order that the decree be executed. Such an order passed by the Court is not automatic, but involves an implied adjudication that the Decree Holder has a right to execute the decree and the Judgment Debtor is liable to satisfy the decree. He further contended that the principle of constructive resjudicata is applicable to the execution proceedings, where in response to the notice under Order 21 Rule 22 or Order 21 Rule 23 sub Rule 1 and 2 of the Civil Procedure Code, the Judgment Debtor either does not appear in the Court or having appeared does not object to the execution on any grounds and the Court thereupon orders that the execution to proceed then by application of explanation IV to Section 11 of the Civil Procedure Code, it would be deemed that the plea as sought to be raised now had been raised and rejected and consequently the judgment debtor would not be permitted at a later stage of the same execution proceedings to again raise the plea.

12. In support of his contention, the learned counsel for the Decree Holder has relied upon Full Bench decision of Orissa High Court in Rajkishore Mohanty and another Vs. Kangali Moharana and others AIR (59) 1972 Orissa 119, a Division Bench Judgment of Rajasthan High Court in Barkat Ali and others Vs. Badrinarain AIR 2001 Rajasthan 51, which in turn has been upheld by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in (2008) 4 SCC 615.

13. There can be no quarrel with the proposition of law as canvassed by learned counsel for the Decree Holder more particularly in teeth of the judgment passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Barkat Ali's case (supra). The relevant portion whereof reads as under:-

> "9. Order 21 Rule 22 CPC culminates in end of one stage before attachment of the property can take place in furtherance of execution of decree. The proceedings under Order 21 Rule 23 can only be taken if the executing court either finds that after issuing notice under Order 21 Rule 21 (sic Rule 22) the judgment-debtor has not raised any objection or if such objection has been raised, the same has been decided by the executing court. Sub-rule (1) as well as sub-rule (2) under Order 21 Rule 22, operate simultaneously in the same field. Sub-rule (1) operates when no objection is filed. Then the court proceeds and clears the way for going to the next stage of the proceedings, namely, attachment of the property and if the court finds objections on record then it decides the objections in the first instance and thereafter clears the way for taking up the matter for attachment of the property if the objections have been overruled."

14. But question which still remains to be adjudicated is as to whether the Decree Holders are entitled to the amount of Rs.63,11,334 along with interest, despite the fact that, this amount has not been awarded in their favour by the learned Arbitrator.

15. It cannot be disputed that the provision of Order 21 makes reference to a 'decree'. Would 'decree' in this context mean the award passed by the learned Arbitrator or would it mean the amount claimed unilaterally by the Decree Holders in their application preferred under Order 21 Rule 1 C.P.C.

16. Indisputably it is the award of the Arbitrator, which is required to be enforced, as if it was a decree. It is borne in mind that the executing Court is duty bound to give effect to the decree in its substance and ought not to pass an order rendering in the judgment and decree as futile one. It is a trite that the executing Court must take the decree according to its tenor and it cannot go beyond the decree. The executing Court cannot sit in appeal over the decree passed by the Court nor is it entitled to pass an order, which will virtually result in effecting the rights of the parties already settled under the decree. The executing Court can neither add nor subtract anything in the decree.

17. If that be so, then the excess amount deposited by the Judgment Debtor, at best can be termed to be a deposit made under a mistake.

Section 72 of the Contract Act provides:-

> "72. Liberty of person to whom money is paid, or thing delivered, by mistake or under coercion.---A person to whom money has been paid, or anything delivered, by mistake or under coercion, must repay or return it."

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in The Sale Tax Officer, Banaras and others Vs. Kanhaiya Lal Makund Lal Saraf, AIR 1959 SC 135, while construing the provisions of Section 72 of Contract Act, has held that the term "mistake" used in Section 72, Contract Act has been used without any qualification or limitation whatever and comprises within its scope a mistake of law as well as a mistake of fact. It has further been held that there is no warrant for ascribing any limited meaning to the word "mistake" as has been used therein. Lastly, it has been held that the true principle is that if one party under a mistake, whether of fact or law, pays to another party money which is not due by contract or otherwise, that money must be repaid. The mistake lies in thinking that the money paid was due when in fact it was not due and that mistake, if established, entitles the party paying the money to recover it back from the party receiving it.

19. Confronted with this position, the learned counsel for the Decree Holder would still argue that the principle of constructive resjudita would apply to both the factual and legal aspects of the matter and therefore, Judgment Debtor cannot raise this plea at this stage.

20. The learned counsel for the Decree Holder would probably have been right in his submission, in case there would have been some ambiguity in the award passed by the learned Arbitrator or alternatively if the Decree Holders would be in a position to convince the Court that the amount now claimed by the Judgment Debtor had in fact been awarded to the Decree Holders. That not being so, this Court cannot shut its eyes or else the same would amount to Decree Holder being unduly enriched.

21. The principle of unjust enrichment proceeds on the basis that it would be unjust to allow one person to retain a benefit received at the expense of another person. This was so held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Renusagar Power Co. Ltd. Vs. General Electric Co. 1994 Supp (1) SCC 644:-

> "98. The principle of unjust enrichment proceeds on the basis that it would be unjust to allow one person to retain a benefit received at the expense of another person. It provides the theoretical foundation for the law governing restitution. The principle has, however, its critics as well as its supporters. In the words of Lord Diplok: "…there is no general doctrine of unjust enrichment in English law. What it does is to provide specific remedies in particular cases of what might be classed as unjust enrichment in a legal system that is based upon civil law." (See: Orakpo V. Manson Investments Ltd. 1978 AC, 104). In The Law of Restitution by Goff and Jones, it has, however, been stated "that the case-law is now sufficiently mature for the courts to recognize a generalized right of restitution" (3rd Edn., P. 15). In Chitty on Contracts, 26th Edn., Vol. I, p. 1313, para 2037, it has been stated that "the principle of unjust enrichment is not yet clearly established in English law". The learned editors have, however, expressed the view:

> "Even if the law has not yet developed to that extent, it does not follow from the absence of a general doctrine of unjust enrichment that the specific remedies provided are not justifiable by reference to the principle of unjust enrichment even if they were originally found without primary reference to it." (pp. 1313-1314, para 2037)."

The issue regarding undue enrichment thereafter came up before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Indian Council for Enviro-Legal Action Vs. Union of India and others (2011) 8 SCC 161 and it was held as follows:-

*"UNJUST ENRICHMENT

151. Unjust enrichment has been defined as:*

> "Unjust enrichment.---A benefit obtained from another, not intended as a gift and not legally justifiable, for which the beneficiary must make restitution or recompense."

See Black's Law Dictionary, 8th Edition (Bryan A. Garner) at page 1573. A claim for unjust enrichment arises where there has been an "unjust retention of a benefit to the loss of another, or the retention of money or property of another against the fundamental principles of justice or equity and good conscience."

152. "Unjust enrichment" has been defined by the court as the unjust retention of a benefit to the loss of another, or the retention of money or property of another against the fundamental principles of justice or equity and good conscience. A person is enriched if he has received a benefit, and he is unjustly enriched if retention of the benefit would be unjust. Unjust enrichment of a person occurs when he has and retains money or benefits which in justice and equity belong to another.*

153. Unjust enrichment is "the unjust retention of a benefit to the loss of another, or the retention of money or property of another against the fundamental principles of justice or equity and good conscience." A defendant may be liable "even when the defendant retaining the benefit is not a wrongdoer" and "even though he may have received [it] honestly in the first instance." (Schock v. Nash, 732 A.2d 217, 232-33 (Delaware. 1999). USA)*

154. Unjust enrichment occurs when the defendant wrongfully secures a benefit or passively receives a benefit which would be unconscionable to retain. In the leading case of Fibrosa v. Fairbairn, [1942] 2 All ER 122, Lord Wright stated the principle thus :

> "... .Any civilized system of law is bound to provide remedies for cases of what has been called unjust enrichment or unjust benefit, that is, to prevent a man from retaining the money of, or some benefit derived from another which it is against conscience that he should keep. Such remedies in English law are generically different from remedies in contract or in tort, and are now recognized to fall within a third category of the common law which has been called quasi-contract or restitution."

155. Lord Denning also stated in Nelson v. Larholt, [1947] 2 All ER 751 as under:-

> "..... It is no longer appropriate, however, to draw a distinction between law and equity. Principles have now to be stated in the light of their combined effect. Nor is it necessary to canvass the niceties of the old forms of action. Remedies now depend on the substance of the right, not on whether they can be fitted into a particular frame-work. The right here is not peculiar to equity or contract or tort, but falls naturally within the important category of cases where the court orders restitution if the justice of the case so requires."

156. The above principle has been accepted in India. This Court in several cases has applied the doctrine of unjust enrichment.

Restitution and compound interest

157. American Jurisprudence 2d. Volume 66 Am Jur 2d defined Restitution as follows:

> "The word `restitution' was used in the earlier common law to denote the return or restoration of a specific thing or condition. In modern legal usage, its meaning has frequently been extended to include not only the restoration or giving back of something to its rightful owner, but also compensation, reimbursement, indemnification, or reparation for benefits derived from, or for loss or injury caused to, another. As a general principle, the obligation to do justice rests upon all persons, natural and artificial; if one obtains the money or property of others without authority, the law, independently of express contract, will compel restitution or compensation."

158. While Section (') 3 (unjust enrichment) reads as under:

"The phrase "unjust enrichment" is used in law to characterize the result or effect of a failure to make restitution of, or for, property or benefits received under such circumstances as to give rise to a legal or equitable obligation to account therefor. It is a general principle, underlying various legal doctrines and remedies, that one person should not be permitted unjustly to enrich himself at the expense of another, but should be required to make restitution of or for property or benefits received, retained, or appropriated, where it is just and equitable that such restitution be made, and where such action involves no violation or frustration of law or opposition to public policy, either directly or indirectly."

159. Unjust enrichment is basic to the subject of restitution, and is indeed approached as a fundamental principle thereof. They are usually linked together, and restitution is frequently based upon the theory of unjust enrichment. However, although unjust enrichment is often referred to or regarded as a ground for restitution, it is perhaps more accurate to regard it as a prerequisite, for usually there can be no restitution without unjust enrichment. It is defined as the unjust retention of a benefit to the loss of another or the retention of money or property of another against the fundamental principles of justice or equity and good conscience. A person is enriched if he has received a benefit, and he is unjustly enriched if retention of the benefit would be unjust. Unjust enrichment of a person occurs when he has and retains money or benefits which in justice and equity belong to another.

160. While the term `restitution' was considered by the Supreme Court in South-Eastern Coalfields 2003 (8) SCC 648 and other cases excerpted later, the term `unjust enrichment' came to be considered in Sahakari Khand Udyog Mandal Ltd vs Commissioner of Central Excise & Customs ((2005) 3 SCC 738). This Court said:

> "31. ...'unjust enrichment' means retention of a benefit by a person that is unjust or inequitable. `Unjust enrichment' occurs when a person retains money or benefits which in justice, equity and good conscience, belong to someone else."

161. The terms `unjust enrichment' and `restitution' are like the two shades of green - one leaning towards yellow and the other towards blue. With restitution, so long as the deprivation of the other has not been fully compensated for, injustice to that extent remains. Which label is appropriate under which circumstances would depend on the facts of the particular case before the court. The courts have wide powers to grant restitution, and more so where it relates to misuse or non-compliance with court orders.

162. We may add that restitution and unjust enrichment, along with an overlap, have to be viewed with reference to the two stages, i.e., pre-suit and post-suit. In the former case, it becomes a substantive law (or common law) right that the court will consider; but in the latter case, when the parties are before the court and any act/omission, or simply passage of time, results in deprivation of one, or unjust enrichment of the other, the jurisdiction of the court to levelise and do justice is independent and must be readily wielded, otherwise it will be allowing the Court's own process, along with time delay, to do injustice.

163. For this second stage (post-suit), the need for restitution in relation to court proceedings, gives full jurisdiction to the court, to pass appropriate orders that levelise. Only the court has to levelise and not go further into the realm of penalty which will be a separate area for consideration altogether.*

164. This view of law as propounded by the author Graham Virgo in his celebrated book on "The Principle of Law of Restitution" has been accepted by a later decision of the House of Lords (now the UK Supreme Court) reported as 136 Sempra Metals Ltd (formerly Metallgesellschaft Limited) v Her Majesty's Commissioners of Inland Revenue and Another [2007] UKHL 34 = [2007] 3 WLR 354 = [2008] 1 AC 561 = [2007] All ER (D) 294.*

165. In similar strain, across the Altantic Ocean, a nine judge Bench of the Supreme Court of Canada in Bank of America Canada vs Mutual Trust Co. [2002] 2 SCR 601 = 2002 SCC 43 (both Canadian Reports) took the view :*

> "There seems in principle no reason why compound interest should not be awarded. Had prompt recompense been made at the date of the wrong the plaintiff should have had a capital sum to invest; the plaintiff would have received interest on it at regular intervals and would have invested those sums also. By the same token the defendant will have had the benefit of compound interest. Although not historically available, compound interest is well suited to compensate a plaintiff for the interval between when damages initially arise and when they are finally paid."

This view seems to be correct and in consonance with the principles of equity and justice.

166. Another way of looking at it is suppose the judgment- debtor had borrowed the money from the nationalised bank as a clean loan and paid the money into this court. What would be the bank's demand.*

167. In other words, if payment of an amount equivalent of what the ledger account in the nationalised bank on a clean load would have shown as a debit balance today is not paid and something less than that is paid, that differential or shortfall is what there has been : (1) failure to restitute; (2) unfair gain by the non-complier; and (3) provided the incentive to obstruct or delay payment. Unless this differential is paid, justice has not been done to the creditor. It only encourages non-compliance and litigation. Even if no benefit had been retained or availed even then, to do justice, the debtor must* > pay the money. In other words, it is this is not only disgorging all the benefits but making the creditor whole i.e. ordering restitution in full and not dependent on what he might have made or benefitted is what justice requires.

22. In so far as the contention raised by the Decree Holder that this Court has become functus officio is concerned, it needs to be noticed that no final decision has been taken in the Execution Petition and the same is still pending. It is only when a Court decides a question brought before it finally that it becomes functus officio and cannot review its own decision. In observing so, this Court draws support from the following observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State Bank of India and others Vs. S.N. Goyal (2008) 8 SCC 92:-

> "25. The learned counsel for respondent contended that the Appointing Authority became functus officio once he passed the order dated 18.1.1995 agreeing with the penalty proposed by the Disciplinary Authority and cannot thereafter revise/review/modify the said order. Reliance was placed on the English decision VGM Holdings Ltd, Re (1941) 3 All. ER 417 wherein it was held that once a Judge has made an order which has been passed and entered, he becomes functus officio and cannot thereafter vary the terms of his order and only a higher court, tribunal can vary it. What is significant is that decision does not say that the Judge becomes functus officio when he passes the order, but only when the order passed is 'entered'. The term 'entering judgment' in English Law refers to the procedure in civil courts in which a judgment is formally recorded by court after it has been given.
>
> 26. It is true that once an Authority exercising quasi judicial power, takes a final decision, it cannot review its decision unless the relevant statute or rules permit such review. But the question is as to at what stage, an Authority becomes functus officio in regard to an order made by him. P. Ramanatha Aiyar's Advance Law Lexicon (3rd Edition, Vol. 2 pp. 1946-47) gives the following illustrative definition of the term 'functus officio' :*
>
> "Thus a Judge, when he has decided a question brought before him, is functus officio, and cannot review his own decision."
>
> 27. Black's Law Dictionary (Sixth Edition Page 673) gives its meaning as follows:*
>
> "Having fulfilled the function, discharged the office, or accomplished the purpose, and therefore, of no further force or authority".
>
> 28. We may first refer to the position with reference to civil courts. Order XX of Code of Civil Procedure deals with judgment and decree. Rule 1 explains when a judgment is pronounced. Sub-rule (1) provides that the Court, after the case has been heard, shall pronounce judgment in an open court either at once, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable, and when the judgment is to be pronounced on some future day, the court shall fix a day for that purpose of which due* notice shall be given to the parties or their pleaders. Sub-rule (3) provides that the judgment may be pronounced by dictation in an open court to a shorthand writer (if the Judge is specially empowered in this behalf). The proviso thereto provides that where the judgment is pronounced by dictation in open court, the transcript of the judgment so pronounced shall, after making such corrections as may be necessary, be signed by the Judge, bear the date on which it was pronounced and form a part of the record. Rule 3 provides that the judgment shall be dated and signed by the Judge in open court at the time of pronouncing it and when once signed, shall not afterwards be altered or added to save as provided by section 152 or on review. Thus where a judgment is reserved, mere dictation does not amount to pronouncement, but where the judgment is dictated in open court, that itself amounts to pronouncement. But even after such pronouncement by open court dictation, the Judge can make corrections before signing and dating the judgment. Therefore, a Judge becomes functus officio when he pronounces, signs and dates the judgment (subject to section 152 and power of review). The position is different with reference to quasi judicial authorities. While some quasi judicial tribunals fix a day for pronouncement and pronounce their orders on the day fixed, many quasi judicial authorities do not pronounce their orders. Some publish or notify their orders. Some prepare and sign the orders and communicate the same to the party concerned. A quasi judicial authority will become functus officio only when its order is pronounced, or published/notified or communicated (put in the course of transmission) to the party concerned. When an order is made in an office noting in a file but is not pronounced, published or communicated, nothing prevents the Authority from correcting it or altering it for valid reasons. But once the order is pronounced or published or notified or communicated, the Authority will become functus officio. The order dated 18.1.1995 made on an office note, was neither pronounced, nor published/notified nor communicated. Therefore, it cannot be said that the Appointing Authority became functus officio when he signed the note on dated 18.1.1995."

23. In view of the aforesaid discussion, it can safely be concluded that the Decree Holders are only entitled to what has been awarded to them in terms of the award of the learned Arbitrator and this Court while executing the award cannot go behind the award by adding or subtracting anything from it. The Judgment Debtor having deposited the excess amount under mistake is entitled to refund of the same or else the same would amount to undue enrichment of the Decree Holder. Therefore, the Decree Holder is held entitled only to an amount of Rs.3,70,49770.80 and the remaining amount is required to be refunded to the Judgment Debtor and accordingly the order dated 24.2.2015 directing release of the amount in favour of the Decree Holders is modified to that extent.

In view of the aforesaid discussion, the present application is allowed and the Judgment Debtor is held entitled to excess amount deposited by him.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Uma Akash Agro Pvt. Ltd. and others ... Petitioners.
Versus
State of H.P. and others ... Respondents.

Cr.MMO No.4127 of 2013.
Reserved on : 21.04.2015.
Date of decision: 02.05.2015

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition seeking quashing of FIR as well as order passed by JMIC, Kasauli and Sessions Judge, Solan- it was alleged that respondent No. 2 had sold 11,170 apple boxes to respondent No. 3- respondent No. 3 had paid amount of Rs. 20 lacs and remaining amount was not paid- 11,170 apple boxes were stored in the cold store owned by petitioner No. 1- held, that respondent No. 3, purchaser of the goods, had acquired title from respondent No. 2- mere non-payment of part of sale consideration cannot constitute an entrustment- thus, no offence punishable under Section 406 of IPC was made out against the respondent No. 3 or respondent No. 1- further, petitioner was not liable to pay the sale consideration and it cannot be held liable for the non- payment of the sale consideration- accordingly, FIR ordered to be quashed- however, the order regarding the sale of the apples cannot be challenged on behalf of petitioner No. 1 who is merely a bailee. (Para-3)

For the petitioners: Mr. Vinay Kuthiala, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Gaurav Sharma, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Dy. A.G. for respondent No.1.
Mr. Sudheer Thakur and Mr. Anirudh Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J. (oral)

The petitioners herein through this petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. seek the indulgence of this Court for quashing of F.I.R. No. 94 of 2013 registered at Police Station Parwanoo, District Solan under Sections 406 and 420 IPC and also seek quashing of orders of 13.11.2013 rendered by the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Kasauli, District Solan besides orders of 16.12.2013 rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Solan.

2. The petitioner No.1 is a private limited company and owns a cold storage for storing farm/horticultural produce. Respondent No. 2 is the owner of an apple orchard. The factum of respondent No.2 having sold apple boxes to respondent No.3 is perse evident from a perusal of the averments contained in paragraph 3 of Cr.MP No. 708 of 2014 in Cr.MMO No. 4127 of 2013. Besides, the factum of respondent No. 2 having sold his apple boxes carrying a value of Rs.1.32 crore to Rakesh @ Rajender Prasad @ Rajan Sharma is forthcoming from a perusal of a detailed report submitted by the Investigating Officer, SHO Police Station, Parwanoo. Therefore, the factum of passing of title in the apple boxes numbering 11,117 by respondent No.2 in favour of respondent No. 3 stands clinched. However, it is also evident from an incisive reading of the comprehensive report submitted by the SHO, Police Station, Parwanoo, that the buyer of goods inasmuch, as, respondent No.3 had paid to the seller who is respondent No. 2 only a sum of Rs. 20 lacs and the remaining price of apple boxes aforesaid remains unpaid to respondent No. 2 by respondent No. 3. On respondent No. 3 purchasing the goods from respondent No.2 he came to as portrayed by Annexure P-8 deposit them in the cold storage owned by the petitioner No.1. Since the entire sale consideration for 11,117 apple boxes purchased by respondent No.3 from respondent No.2 stood not paid and theirs having come to be stored in the cold storage owned by petitioner No.1, the respondent No.2 took to institute a complaint against the petitioners herein averring therein that the latter in connivance with the respondent No.3 had deprived him of the entire sale consideration qua apple boxes numbering 11,117 owned by respondent No.2, as such, they had committed offences constituted under Section 420 and 406 IPC.

3. The uncontroverted factum as is evident from the aforesaid discussion is of title qua 11,117 of apple boxes having passed in favour of respondent No. 3 from respondent No.2, its hitherto owner. Consequently, the aforesaid factum cannot obviously constitute the factum of the goods purchased by respondent No.3 from respondent No.2 to be hence entrusted to respondent No.2 nor also when title in the goods was transferred or alienated by respondent No.2 in favour of respondent No.3, the recipient of the goods, who is the petitioner No.1, besides petitioners No. 2 and 3 its employees, cannot also be in any manner concluded to have connived or colluded with respondent No.3, in the latter having purportedly committed the offence of criminal breach of trust. The respondent No.3 who is the purchaser of the goods from respondent No.2, constituted by the act of his uncontrovertedly receiving goods from respondent No.3, had acquired title qua them from respondent No.2. It is obvious that when respondent No.3 became the owner of the contentious goods, he cannot be construed to have been entrusted their custody by respondent No.2. Besides, the mere fact that the entire sale consideration qua contentious goods had not come to be passed by respondent No.3 in favour of respondent No.2 even the said fact cannot imbue the fact of their possession gained by respondent No.3 on payment of part of sale consideration to be an entrustment thereof to him. In aftermath, for reiteration the owner of goods cannot be construed to have when they stood purchased by him from its owner received them by way of entrustment from the seller. Consequently, when the respondent No.2 lost control or title over the goods, he cannot claim to have, when he possesses no title qua them as owner, that hence he had entrusted them to the buyer. Obviously, when there is no element of entrustment of goods by respondent No.2 to respondent No.3 especially in the event of respondent No.3 having purchased or acquired title over 11,117 number of apple boxes from its seller, who is respondent No.2, then prima facie no offence of criminal breach of trust is constituted against respondent No.3. The petitioners, who are the recipient of goods from respondent No.2 cannot, also be by the act of theirs receiving goods from a lawful buyer, by the mere fact of theirs receiving them from the latter, be construed to have also in continuity committed the offence of criminal breach of trust enshrined in Section 406 of the Indian Penal Code. An incisive reading of the detailed report furnished by the SHO, as also of the record of the case unfolds that respondent No.2 hitherto owner of 11,117 apple of boxes was aggrieved by the act of respondent No.3, constituted by the latter not paying the entire sale consideration to him qua 11,117 apple boxes sold by him to respondent No.3. The complainant alleges that the petitioners and the respondent No.3 colluded and connived with each other. The said fact is attempted or concerted to be ingrained in the act of the petitioners, who when sought to be conversed over landline and mobile phone by respondent No.2 having transferred calls to the mobile number of respondent No.3. The aforesaid fact does not perse constitute nor convey the fact that there was collusion or connivance interse the petitioners and respondent No.3 especially in the act of respondent No.3 having not paid the entire sale consideration to respondent No.2 qua the 11,117 of apple boxes purchased by him from respondent No.2. The collusion or connivance interse the petitioners and respondent No.3 was cullable only from the evident fact comprised in payments qua the goods purchased by respondent No.3 from respondent No.2 having emanated from the petitioners. However, no such forthright evidence exists on record portraying that the petitioner No.1 was a buyer or a hidden buyer and that the respondent No. 3 was merely a benamidar and that hence the liability for defraying the entire sale consideration to respondent No.2 was fastenable, upon the petitioners and theirs having omitted to part with the entire sale consideration for goods purchased by respondent No. 3 from respondent No.2, they are rendered amenable for penal liability envisaged in Section 420 of the IPC. However, when the above fact is not forthcoming, on a deep and incisive scanning of the file, consequently no inference other than the one that the respondent No.3 was the actual and not an obscure buyer of the petitioner company hence he alone was liable to defray to the respondent No. 2, the entire sale consideration for goods purchased by him from the latter. The aforesaid discussion constrains this Court to conclude that the complaint with the allegations against the petitioners is misconceived, it constitutes abuse of process of law and tantamounts to harassing the petitioners and as such it deserves to be quashed and set-aside. Moreso, when the liability, if any of the respondent No.3 to the respondent No.2 arising from his purported act of not defraying to the latter the entire sale consideration for 11,117 apple boxes, is a civil liability. Besides, when it stands mitigated by the orders rendered by the Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Kasauli, District Solan, wherein the said Court ordered for the release of apple boxes in favour of respondent No.2 as also of appropriation by him of their sales turn over, it looses tinge if any of criminality. Accordingly, the petition is allowed to the extent that the F.I.R. is quashed and set-aside. However, since the orders rendered by the Judicial Magistrate have attained finality and are rendered qua perishable goods and appear to have been rendered to recompense the respondent No.2 the owner of goods for his having come to be not defrayed by the respondent No.3 the entire sale consideration, as such, when respondent No.3, the person who may have been aggrieved by the said orders, may then proceed to impeach the said orders before the competent Court. Consequently, the assailing of the orders of the Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Kasauli, comprising in Annexure P-5 at the instance of the petitioner No.1 is wholly unwarranted, who is merely a bailee of goods who rather may be entitled to claim rent from respondent No.2 or respondent No.3 for the period the apple boxes stood stored in its premises and which stands tendered before the Sessions Court, Solan and is comprised in FDR in the sum of Rs.21 lacs, as is evident from the reading of the impugned orders rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Solan comprised in Annexure P-7. Consequently, it is not deemed fit to interfere with the orders of the learned Sessions Judge. It rather is deemed fit, just and appropriate that the petitioners herein approach the learned Sessions Judge, Solan for laying or staking a claim for the release of rent amount for storing apple boxes in its premises comprised in the FDR amounting to Rs.21 lacs, which application if and when stands instituted shall be decided in accordance with law.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Ateek Ahmed son of Shaeed Ahmed ….Applicant
Versus
State of H.P. ….Non-applicant

Cr.MP(M) No. 357 of 2015
Order Reserved on 23rd April, 2015
Date of Order 4th May, 2015

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Section 11(D) of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act and Section 8 of Prohibition of H.P. Cow Slaughter Act- co-accused are yet to be arrested- cruelty to animal is a heinous offence- Courts are under legal obligation to protect the lives of animals because animals cannot protect themselves- investigation is at initial stage and it would not be expedient to release the petitioner on anticipatory bail- application dismissed. (Para-6 to 8)

Cases referred:
Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration), AIR 1978 SC 179
The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh, AIR 1962 SC 253

For the Applicant: Mr. Deepak Kaushal, Advocate
For the Non-applicant: Mr. J.S. Rena, Assistant Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge.

Present bail application is filed under Section 438 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 for grant of anticipatory bail in connection with FIR No. 307 of 2014 dated 31.8.2014 registered under Section 11(D) of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act and Section 8 of Prohibition of H.P. Cow Slaughter Act P.S. Paonta Sahib District Sirmaur (H.P.)

2. It is pleaded that applicant is only bread earner of his family and is a labourer and is agriculturist. It is further pleaded that applicant is innocent and he does not have any connection in the case. It is pleaded that bail application was filed before learned Additional Sessions Judge Nahan District Sirmaur vide bail application No. 122 of 2015 which was rejected on dated 4.4.2015. It is pleaded that applicant has been falsely implicated in present case. It is pleaded that owner of vehicle and main accused Irshad already stood released by the Court of learned JMIC Paonta Sahib. It is further pleaded that applicant is not owner of the cattle nor is the owner of vehicle. It is also pleaded that applicant will not tamper with prosecution evidence and will abide by terms and conditions imposed by Court. Prayer for acceptance of anticipatory bail application sought.

3. Per contra police report filed. There is recital in police report that on dated 31.8.2014 ASI Mohar Singh along with HC Jagir Singh, C. Ayub Khan, C. Jaagar Singh were posted in check post Bahral and HHC Sewa Singh and C. Ishwar Singh were on patrolling duty at about 6 AM. There is recital in police report that vehicle having registration No. HR-55F-3717 came and same was stopped for checking purpose. There is recital in police report that driver of vehicle told that ice-cream was loaded in the vehicle. There is further recital in police report that some voices came from inside the vehicle and on suspicion driver was directed to produce the documents of vehicle. There is recital in police report that two persons were travelling in the vehicle and one person boarded down from the vehicle and ran towards the forest. There is recital in police report that driver of vehicle disclosed his name as Mohammad Hussain @ Mausim Khan son of Raiees Khan resident of Akbarabad, P.O. Dariyal Tehsil Swar P.S. Tanda District Rampur U.P. There is recital in police report that driver of vehicle disclosed the name of another person who fled away at the time of checking as Raoop son of Poona Chaudhary resident of VPO Dariyal Tehsil Swar P.S. Tanda District Rampur U.P. There is further recital in police report that vehicle was checked in presence of Ranbir Singh and Kedar Singh. There is also recital in police report that nine ox were kept in the vehicle. There is recital in police report that seizure memo was prepared. There is further recital in police report that site plan was prepared and statements of witnesses recorded. There is recital in police report that owner of animals and another person who was travelling in the vehicle have concealed themselves. There is further recital in police report that Ateek Ahmad filed the anticipatory bail application but he did not appear before the Court and thereafter his anticipatory bail application was dismissed. There is further recital in police report that co-accused Ateek Ahmad is to be arrested and other co-accused Naushad and Raoop are also to be arrested. There is recital in police report that co-accused Ateek Ahmad, Naushad and Raoop are resident of another State and they were carrying the animals for slaughter purpose in vehicle No. HR-55F-3717. There is recital in police report that religious sentiments of Hindus have been damaged and there is resentment in the Hindu community. Prayer for rejection of anticipatory bail application sought.

4. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant and learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State and also perused the record.

5. Following points arise for determination in this bail application:-

1. Whether anticipatory bail application filed under Section 438 Cr.P.C. is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of bail application?
2. Final Order.

Findings on Point No.1

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of applicant that applicant is innocent and applicant did not commit any criminal offence cannot be decided at this stage. Same fact will be decided when the case shall be disposed of on merits after giving due opportunity to both the parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

7. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that any condition imposed by Court will be binding upon applicant and on this ground anticipatory bail application be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. In present case as per police report co-accused Naushad and Raoop are still to be arrested. Court is of the opinion that cruelty to animal is a heinous offence. Courts are under legal obligation to protect the life of animals because animals cannot protect themselves. There are serious allegations against the applicant that applicant along with other co-accused was carrying nine ox in the vehicle which was closed from all sides. At the time of granting bail following factors are considered. (i) Nature and seriousness of offence (ii) The character of the evidence (iii) Circumstances which are peculiar to the accused (iv) Possibility of the presence of the accused at the trial or investigation (v) Reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with (vi) The larger interests of the public or the State. See AIR 1978 SC 179 titled Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration). Also see AIR 1962 SC 253 titled The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh. In present case Court is of the opinion that for proper investigation custodial interrogation of applicant is essential. Court is of the opinion that if applicant is released on anticipatory bail at this stage then investigation of case will be adversely affected. In view of the fact that investigation is at the initial stage of case it is not expedient in the ends of justice to release the applicant on anticipatory bail at this stage.

8. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of non-applicant that if applicant is released on anticipatory bail at this stage then applicant will induce and threat the prosecution witnesses is accepted for the reasons mentioned hereinafter. There is apprehension in the mind of Court that if applicant is released on bail at this stage then applicant will threat and induce the prosecution witnesses which would adversely effect the case. In view of above stated facts, point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2 (Final order)

9. In view of my findings on point No.1 anticipatory bail application filed by applicant under Section 438 Cr.P.C. is rejected. Observations made in this order will not effect the merits of case in any manner and will strictly confine for the disposal of this bail application filed under Section 438 of Code of Criminal Procedure 1973. Pending application(s) if any also disposed of. Application filed under Section 438 of Code of Criminal Procedure is disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Cr. Appeal Nos. 392, 206, 211 & 393 of 2011.
Reserved on: May 01, 2015.
Decided on: May 04, 2015.

1. Cr. Appeal No. 392 of 2011.

Deep Bahadur ……Appellant.

Versus

State of H.P. …….Respondent.

2. Cr. Appeal No. 206 of 2011.

Bal Bahadur ……Appellant.

Versus

State of H.P. …….Respondent.

3. Cr. Appeal No. 211 of 2011.

Deep Bhadur & anr. ……Appellant.

Versus

State of H.P. …….Respondent.

4. Cr. Appeal No. 393 of 2011.

Asha Devi ……Appellant.

Versus

State of H.P. …….Respondent.

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Accused 'P' was carrying a boru on his shoulder- accused 'P' and 'A' were holding a pithu bag from each side- they tried to run away on seeing the police but were apprehended- their search was conducted- boru contained 24 kg. of charas and pithu contained 8 kg. of charas- prosecution witnesses admitted that police officials prepared the documents together by sitting in the police station- no entry was made in the malkhana register regarding taking out of the property for sending it to FSL for analysis- further, there is no entry regarding the re-deposit or taking the case property to the Court or deposit in malkhana after it was brought from the Court- no independent witness was associated- held, that in these circumstances, case of the prosecution was not proved- accused acquitted. (Para-19 to 25)

For the appellant(s): Mr. Anup Chitkara, Advocate, for appellant(s) in Cr. Appeals No. 392 & 393 of 2011.
Mr. M.L.Sharma, Advocate, for appellant in Cr. Appeal No. 206 of 2011.

For the respondent(s): Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. AG, with Mr. P.M.Negi, Dy. AG and Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Asstt. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

Since common questions of law and facts are involved in these appeals, all these appeals were taken up together for hearing, except Cr. Appeal No. 211 of 2011, titled as Deep Bhadur & anr. Vrs. State of H.P. It is made clear that accused Deep Bahadur has infact filed two Cr. Appeals bearing No. 392 of 2011 through Sh. Anoop Chitkara, Advocate and Cr. Appeal No. 211 of 2011 as Jail Appeal.

2. These appeals are directed against the common judgment dated 4/5.1.2011, rendered by the learned P.O. Fast Track Court, Mandi, H.P., in Sessions Trial No. 16 of 2009, whereby the appellants-accused (hereinafter referred to as the "accused"), who were charged with and tried for offence punishable under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the ND & PS Act) have been convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of 10 years each and to pay fine of Rs. 1,00,000/- each and in default of payment of fine, they were further ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for six months each under Section 20(ii)(C) of the ND & PS Act.

3. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that on 2.9.2008, police party headed by Insp. Hemant Kumar Thakur, I.O. Police Station, SV & ACB, Mandi, H.P., set up a naka at Pansara bridge, a secluded place. At about 9:30 PM, the accused persons were seen coming from the area of Bhadoli-Kullu side. Accused Bal Bahadur was carrying a "Boru" on his shoulder. Accused Deep Bahadur and Asha Devi were carrying a "Pithu bag". Accused Deep Bahddur was holding that Pithu bag from one side while accused Asha Devi was holding that bag from the other side. The accused tried to turn back. The accused persons were nabbed. The Insp. Hemant Kumar Thakur, I.O. and other police officials gave their personal search to the accused vide memo Ext. PW-1/B. The accused persons were informed of their legal right to be searched by a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer vide memo Ext. PW-1/A. The accused persons consented to be searched by the Police party. The boru carried by the accused Bal Bahadur was searched. It was found to be containing charas in the shape of chapattis, wrapped in polythene. The bag carried by accused Deep Bahadur and Asha Devi was found to be containing charas in the shape of sticks. The recovered stuff on smelling was found to be charas. The charas, so recovered from boru was weighed. It weighed 24 kgs whereas the charas, so recovered from Deep Bahadur and Asha Devi weighed 8 kgs. Out of the charas recovered from boru, two samples of 50 gms. each were drawn which were separately parceled and sealed with three seals of seal-S each. The bulk charas was put in that very boru which was parceled and sealed with six seals of seal-S. The sample parcels were marked as mark A-1 and mark A-II. The parcel containing balance charas was marked as mark P-1. Two samples of 50 gms. each were drawn from the charas recovered from the pithu bag carried by accused Deep Bahadur and Asha Devi. These were separately parceled and sealed with three seals of seal-S each. The bulk charas was put in that very pithu bag, which was parceled and sealed with six seals of seal-S. The sample parcels were marked as mark A-III and mark A-IV. The parcel containing balance bulk charas was marked as mark P-II. NCB form in triplicate was filled in on the spot. The recovered charas was taken into possession by the police vide memo Ext PW-1/C. Rukka Ext. PW-3/A was scribed and sent to the Police Station through Const. Pankaj Kumar, on the basis of which FIR No. 9/2008 Ext. PW-4/A was registered at PS SV & ACB, Mandi, H.P. The case property was brought before the SI Om Verma for resealing, who resealed each parcel with three seals of "C" and prepared the reseal memo Ext. PW-4/E. Thereafter, he deposited the case property alongwith sample seals and other related documents with MHC. The sample parcels Mark A-I and A-III were sent for chemical analysis. The report of FSL is Ext. PW-4/D. During the pendency of the trial, the prosecution sent the parcels containing balance charas to the Laboratory for chemical examination and the report is Ext. PX. The investigation was completed and the challan was put up after completing all the codal formalities.

4. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as 14 witnesses. The accused were also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. They have denied the prosecution case. According to them, they were falsely implicated. The learned trial Court convicted and sentenced the accused persons, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, these appeals on behalf of the accused.

5. M/S. Anup Chitkara and M.L.Sharma, Advocates, appearing on behalf of the respective accused, have vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused. On the other hand, Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. AG, for the State has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 4/5.1.2011.

6. We have heard learned counsel for both the sides and gone through the judgment and records of the case carefully.

7. PW-1 LC Chandra Thakur deposed that on 22.9.2008, she was associated by Insp. Hemant Kumar, in the raiding party. They all went in the official vehicle to Pansara bridge of Aut area of District Mandi. The police laid naka at Pansara bridge at 9:30 PM. In the meantime, two male persons and one lady came from Bhadyoli Kullu side. They were coming towards Pansara bridge. One male person was carrying jute bag on his left shoulder. The other male and lady were holding pithunuma bag of black and blue colour, in which the word "Alpine" was written. The lady was holding that bag from one side and the male was holding it from the other side. The accused disclosed their identity. The place where the accused were intercepted, was lonely place. The I.O. informed the accused persons of their legal right vide written option memo Ext. PW-1/A as to whether they intend to give personal search and of the articles in their possession, to a Gazetted Officer or to the police. The accused persons opted to give their personal search to the police. In this regard, memo Ext. PW-1/A was prepared. Hemant Kumar I.O. gave his personal search and that of the raiding party. Thereafter, Insp. Hemant got checked the jute bag (boru) after calling the accused Bal Bahadur to bring down the jute bag from his shoulder. The said bag was opened. It was found containing charas in the shape of chapatinuma and aitakar which was wrapped with polythene. It weighed 24 kgs. Thereafter, the bag which was carried by accused Deep Bahadur and Asha Devi was checked. It found containing charas. It weighed 8 kgs. The samples were drawn. The same were put in polythene bags. Thereafter, they were packed and sealed in separate cloth parcels. The charas was also put in the same jute bag i.e. 23.900 kgs and thereafter, it was packed and sealed in a cloth parcel. The sample parcels were marked as A-1 and A-2 and sealed with three seals of "S" on each parcel and the enclosure of the parcels were also signed by her, Rajender, Const. Lal Singh as well as by the accused. The parcel of Boru was marked as P-1 and six seal impressions were affixed on it on different places. Thereafter, the cloth parcels of sample were marked as A-3 and A-4 and sealed with the seal impression of "S" and three seals were affixed on the parcel and thereafter the parcel of Pithu bag was marked as P-2 and six seal impressions of seal "S" were affixed thereon. The I.O. has also taken the impression of seal on NCB form in triplicate. The sealed articles were taken into possession vide recovery memo Ext. PW-1/D. In her cross-examination, she admitted that Pansara is a big village.

8. PW-2 Const. Rajinder Singh also deposed the manner in which the accused were apprehended, searched, recoveries were made and the codal formalities were completed on the spot. In his cross-examination, he admitted that it was the duty of the I.O. to associate some independent witnesses from Pansara and none of the member of the raiding party including the senior officer had tried to join any independent witness nor they reminded the I.O. to do so. The National Highway was just half a kilometer away from the Pansara bridge. On the National Highway, hundreds of vehicles, motor cycles, car and three wheelers used to ply day and night. No hukamnama was issued to any of the member of the raiding party to bring independent witnesses from the nearby locality. In his further cross-examination, he admitted that there were houses between NH 21 which leads to Kullu-Manali and the Pansara bridge.

9. PW-3 Const. Pankaj Kumar, also deposed the manner in which the accused were apprehended, searched, recoveries were made and the codal formalities were completed on the spot. In his cross-examination, he admitted that there were residential houses within a span of 300 meters of village Badyawali and 700 meter at village Dalashani, where people do reside. He also admitted that village Dalshani is a big Panchayat where Panchayat Pradhan and other members were available. He further admitted that village Pansara is also a big village on National Highway 21, where Panchayat Pradhan and other members of the Panchayat were available. He did not remember that any member of the raiding party was instructed by the I.O. to bring local respectable members from nearby vicinity of villages Dalshani, Badayawali and Pansara.

10. PW-4 Om Parkash, deposed that Const. Pankaj Kumar produced rukka at about 2:15 AM in the PS, ACB, Mandi, on the basis of which, FIR Ext. PW-4/A was registered and its endorsement bears his signature. On 23.9.2008, at about 7:15 AM, Insp. Hemant Thakur produced the contraband before him. The resealing process was completed. He also filled in column No. 11 of the NCB form vide Ext. PW-4/D. He also prepared the certificate of resealing vide Ext. PW-4/E.

11. PW-5 HC Kuldeep Singh deposed that SI Om Prakash has deposited the case property with him. He made the entries in the malkhana register vide Ext. PW-5/A. He sent Const. Rajinder Singh vide RC No. 24/08 to deposit the samples at FSL Junga for chemical analysis. The copy of RC is Ext. PW-5/B. On 17.11.2008, Const. Brijesh Kumar took the report the chemical analysis alongwith the sample A-1 and A-3 from FSL Junga which were sealed with seals of FSL and deposited with him. He kept the aforesaid case property in the malkhana intact. In his cross-examination, he admitted that the malkhana register Ext. PW-5/A does not find mention regarding deposit of NCB forms. He also admitted that the sample was sent to FSL Junga after a delay of 72 hours. He categorically admitted that all the police officials prepared the documents together by sitting in the Police Station. He also admitted that in the report of FSL, Junga, it does not find mention of RC number through which samples were allegedly sent to the laboratory. Column No. 12 in the NCB-1 form was filled up by him. He admitted that the said column does not find mention of the name of the laboratory where the sample was allegedly sent by him. He also admitted that column No. 12 was not stamped by him.

12. PW-7 Const. Som Dev, also deposed the manner in which the accused were apprehended, searched, recoveries were made and the codal formalities were completed on the spot.

13. PW-9 HC Brajesh Kumar, deposed that on 16.6.2008, he was deputed to collect the report from FSL, Junga. He went to FSL Junga on 16.11.2008 and collected the report and handed over the same to the MHC.

14. PW-11 HC Vinod Kumar, MHC deposed that on 17.6.2010, he received order from the Court that two parcels of this case were allowed to be sent to the laboratory for chemical examination. On 19.6.2010, both the parcels of this case sealed with the court seal were sent to the laboratory through HC Yog Raj vide R/C No. 40/10. According to him, so long as the case property remained in his custody, he did not do any tampering nor did he allow anybody to tamper with it. The FSL report was received on 6.7.2010. When the parcels were sent to the laboratory an entry was made to this effect in the malkhana register at Sr. No. 45/19.

15. PW-12 HC Yog Raj, deposed that on 19.6.2010, MHC handed over to him two parcels of this case sealed with the court seal vide R/C No. 40/10 for being taken to FSL Junga. He deposited the same after obtaining the receipt and returned the R/C and receipt to the MHC on his return.

16. PW-13 Const. Som Dev, deposed that on 6.7.2010, he went to FSL Junga to collect the case property of this case. He brought two parcels of this case vide Ext. PW-10/A and PW-10/B alongwith the FSL report Ext. PX. He handed over the same to MHC PS SV and ACB Mandi on 6.7.2010.

17. PW-14 Insp. Hemant Kumar deposed the manner in which the accused were apprehended, searched, recoveries were made and the codal formalities were completed on the spot. He filled up the NCB form. He sent the rukka to the Police Station. In his cross-examination, he admitted that village Bashing was at a distance of 4 kms. from Kullu towards Manali. He did not send any police official to call any independent person. He could not assign any special reason for not sending any police official to call any independent person. He also admitted that Pansara is a big village but not thickly populated. He also admitted that he did not associate any independent witness in the raiding party. Voluntarily deposed that there were various reasons for it like witnesses turn hostile and witnesses do not come forward to join the raiding party. He also admitted that he did not make any efforts to associate any independent witnesses.

18. The case of the prosecution, precisely, is that the accused were nabbed on 22.9.2008 carrying charas in boru and pithu. The samples were drawn and these were sealed. The bulk was also sealed. NCB forms were filled up in triplicate. Rukka was sent to the Police Station, on the basis of which, FIR was registered.

19. According to PW-5 Kuldeep Singh, the samples were sent for analysis to FSL Junga through Constable Rajinder Singh to be deposited in the FSL vide RC No. 24/08. The copy of RC is Ext. PW-5/B. On 17.11.2008, Const. Brijesh Kumar took the report of the chemical analysis alongwith the sample A-1 and A-3 from FSL Junga which were sealed with seals of FSL and deposited with him. He kept the aforesaid case property in the malkhana intact. In his cross-examination, he has categorically admitted that all the police officials prepared the documents together by sitting in the Police Station, though the documents are required to be completed, including filling up of NCB forms, on the spot. Initially, two parcel samples Ext. A-1 and A-3 were sent for chemical analysis to FSL Junga. Thereafter, the Court sent the bulk charas for chemical analysis as per the trial Court order dated 16.6.2010. The samples were sent by PW-11 HC Vinod Kumar to laboratory through HC Yog Raj, PW-12 vide RC No. 40/10. The FSL report was received on 6.7.2010. When the parcels were sent to the laboratory, the entry to this effect was made in the malkhana register at Sr. No. 45/19. Parcels Ext. PW-10/A and PW-10/B were taken by HC PW-12 Yog Raj through RC No. 40/10 to FSL Junga. The samples were brought back with the report Ext. PX by Const. Som Dev (PW-13).

20. The case property was produced before the Court while recording the statement of PW-14 Insp. Hemant Kumar. He identified the case property. We have gone through Ext. PW-5/A malkhana register, carefully. The entry at Sr. No. 45/19 has been made to the effect that the case property was deposited by PW-4 Om Prakash on 23.9.2008. The samples A-1 and A-3 were sent for chemical analysis vide RC No. 24/08 through Const. Rajender Singh to Junga. These were received back through Brijesh Kumar on 17.11.2008 carrying seal of the FSL.

21. PW-11 MHC Vinod Kumar, as noticed by us hereinabove, stated that on 19.6.2010, both the parcels of this case sealed with the court seal were sent to the laboratory through HC Yog Raj vide R/C No. 40/10. Surprisingly, RC No. 40/10 has not been proved. According to him, when the parcels were sent to the laboratory an entry was made to this effect in the malkhana register at Sr. No. 45/19. There is no corresponding entry of the bulk charas being taken out from the malkhana on 19.6.2010. The malkhana register is not on the prescribed proforma and the case property when deposited, entry is required to be made and when the same is taken out corresponding entry is also required to be made. PW-12 HC Yog Raj, deposed that he was handed over two parcels of this case, PW-10/A and PW-10/B, sealed with the court seal vide R/C No. 40/10 for being taken to FSL Junga. He deposited the same after obtaining the receipt and returned the R/C and receipt to the MHC on his return. These samples were brought from FSL Junga by PW-13 Const. Som Dev alongwith the report of the FSL Ext. PX. He handed over the same to MHC PS SV and ACB Mandi on 6.7.2010. There is no corresponding entry of re-deposit of Ext. PW-10/A and PW-10/B in the malkhana register Ext. PW-5/A. Thus, there is no entry in the malkhana register when the bulk was taken out for analysis and when it was re-deposited by PW-13 Const. Som Dev. The case property was produced in the Court but there is no entry in the malkhana register when it was taken out. The necessary entry was to be made in the malkhana register when Ext. PW-10/A and PW-10/B were taken out from the malkhana to be produced in the Court alongwith the DDR report. Similarly, when the case property after its production in the Court was to be brought back in the malkhana, the entry was required to be made alongwith the DDR. The case property when taken out from the malkhana is entrusted to police official/officer, for its safe custody from malkhana to the Court and to be brought back. Since the case property, as per the procedure duly established, has neither been deposited nor taken out from the malkhana as per law, it casts serious doubt whether it was the same contraband/case property, which was seized from the accused and sent for chemical analysis at FSL, Junga. It has caused serious prejudice to the accused persons.

22. The accused were nabbed on 22.9.2008 at about 9:30 PM, when the police had laid down naka at Pansara bridge. PW-2 Rajinder Singh, in his cross-examination has admitted specifically that it was the duty of the I.O. to associate some independent witnesses from Pansara and none of the member of the raiding party including the senior officers have tried to join any independent witnesses nor they reminded the I.O. about the same. The National Highway was just half a kilometer away from the Pansara bridge. According to him, on the National Highway, hundreds of vehicles, motor cycles, car and three wheelers used to ply day and night. No hukamnama was issued to any of the member of the raiding party to bring independent witnesses from the nearby locality. In his further cross-examination, he admitted that there were houses between NH 21 which leads to Kullu-Manali and the Pansara bridge. PW-3 Const. Pankaj Kumar has admitted that there were residential houses within a span of 300 meters of village Badyawali and 700 meter at village Dalashani, where people do reside. He further admitted in his cross-examination that village Dalshani is a big Panchayat where Panchayat Pradhan and other members were available. He further admitted that village Pansara is also a big village on National Highway 21 where Panchayat Pradhan and other members of the Panchayat were available. He did not remember that any member of the raiding party was instructed by the I.O. to bring local respectable members from nearby vicinity of villages Dalshani, Badayawali and Pansara. PW-7 Const. Som Dev also admitted that Pansara is a big Panchayat having Panchayat Pradhan and its members. It is a thickly populated village.

23. PW-14 Insp. Hemant Kumar, in his cross-examination, has admitted that village Bashing was at a distance of 4 kms. from Kullu towards Manali. He did not send any police official to call any independent person. He could not assign any special reason for not sending any police official to call any independent person. He also admitted that Pansara is a big village but not thickly populated. He also admitted that Pansara Panchayat was headed by Pradhan. He did not send any police official to associate any independent person. However, he stated that there were various reasons, when cross-examined by the learned Advocate appearing on behalf of accused Bal Bahadur and Deep Bahadur, that at times, witnesses turn hostile and witnesses do not come forward to join the raiding party. He further admitted that he did not make any efforts to associate any independent witnesses. It is proved on the basis of the statements, as discussed, hereinabove, that the independent witnesses, though available from villages Dalshani, Badayawali and Pansara, were not associated. PW-14 Insp. Hemant Kumar has not even made any efforts to associate independent witnesses. No hukamnama was issued to the police party to bring the independent witnesses.

24. The accused were nabbed at village Pansara at about 9:30 PM. The National Highway was nearby, where hundreds of vehicles ply day and night. Thus, it cannot be presumed that it was a secluded place, where independent witnesses were not available. The purpose of joining independent witnesses at the time of arrest, search and sealing process is to inspire confidence that all the codal formalities were completed on the spot at the time of arrest, search and sealing process.

25. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove the case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt for the commission of offence under Section 20 of the N.D & P.S., Act, since the mandatory provisions have not been complied with and the manner in which the case property was taken out and re-deposited, coupled with the fact that no independent witnesses, though available were associated.

26. Accordingly, in view of the analysis and discussion made hereinabove, the appeals are allowed. Judgment of conviction and sentence dated 4/5.1.2011, rendered by the learned P.O. Fast Track Court, Mandi, H.P., in Sessions Trial No. 16 of 2009, is set aside. Accused are acquitted of the charges framed against them by giving them benefit of doubt. Fine amount, if any, already deposited by the accused is ordered to be refunded to them. Since the accused are in jail, they be released forthwith, if not required in any other case.

27. The Registry is directed to prepare the release warrants of the accused and send the same to the Superintendent of Jail concerned, in conformity with this judgment forthwith.

Cr. Appeal No. 211 of 2011.

28. In view of the judgment rendered in Cr. Appeal No. 392 of 2011, no orders are required to be passed in this appeal.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

General Manager, Northern Railway, ...Appellant.
Versus
Ramesh Chand and others. ....Respondents.

CMP(M) No. 1295 & 1296 of 2014 in RFA No. 4104 of 2013.
Decided on: 4th May, 2015

Land Acquisition Act, 1894- Section 18- One of the petitioners had died during the Reference Petition before the trial Court- this fact was not brought to the notice of trial Court- held, that when the award was passed in ignorance of death of the sole petitioner, award has to be set aside - in case of more than one petitioner, death of one of the petitioners does not make the award a nullity and the legal representatives can be brought on record in appeal. (Para-2 and 3)

Case referred:
Collector Land Acquisition NHPC versus Khewa Ram and others, Latest HLJ 2007 (HP) 270

For the appellant:	Mr. Prince Chauhan, Advocate vice Mr. Rahul Mahajan, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr. Dheeraj K. Vashisth, Advocate for respondents No. 1, 3 to 5 and for proposed LRs No. 2(a) and 2(b).
	Mr.D.S.Nainta, Addl. A.G with Mr. Pushpinder Jaswal, Dy. A.G for respondents No. 6 and 7.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge (Oral)

Respondent No. 2, Shri Raj Kumar (one of the petitioner in the trial Court) in the main appeal has expired on 02.10.2010 i.e. during the pendency of the reference petition in the trial Court. The factum of his death was neither brought to the notice of the trial Court either by the surviving petitioners or legal representatives of the said respondent nor any steps for his substitution taken. To the contrary, the reference petition filed by said Sh. Raj Kumar and his brothers S/Sh. Ramesh Chand, Pawan Kumar, Arun Kumar and Pardeep Kumar came to be decided along with batch of petitions vide award dated 30.04.2012, under challenge in the present appeal, without taking notice of his death and substitution of his legal representatives.

2. The question for adjudication as arisen in these applications is as to what is the impact of death of deceased respondent Raj Kumar and non-substitution of his legal representatives in these proceedings. The law in this regard is no more res-integra as this Court in Collector Land Acquisition NHPC versus Khewa Ram and others, Latest HLJ 2007 (HP) 270, after taking into consideration the provisions contained under the Land Acquisition Act and also under Order 22 of the Code of Civil Procedure, has held that a reference petition under Section 18 has to be answered by the Court and in case the claimant does not appear despite notice, he do so at his own risk. In the event of the sole claimant died during the course of proceedings and the Court unaware of his death answered the reference on the basis of the material available on record, in an appeal either filed by his legal representatives or the acquiring authority, the award has to be set aside and the proceedings deem to have been abated, of course subject to the consideration of the question of setting aside the abatement on condonation of delay, however, only by the reference Court and not by the appellate Court. In a case where there are more claimants or where more than one petition (a batch of petitions) decided by a common award, death of one of the claimants during the course of proceedings do not render the award passed on common evidence led by all the parties a nullity and the legal representatives can even be brought on record during the pendency of the appeal also. The relevant portion of the judgment supra reads as follows:

> "13. The question that next arises is as to what happens if the claimant has died during the proceedings. This can also happen under various circumstances, some of which are being dealt with hereunder:

a. In case there is only one claimant in an isolated case of land acquisition and the claimant dies, then obviously if the court is unaware about the death of the claimant, it will proceed to decide the reference on the material placed on record before it. In such a case, if either the legal representatives of the claimant or the acquiring authority files an appeal, then the award of the District Judge will have to be set aside and the reference proceedings deemed to have been abated. The questions whether abatement should be set aside and whether the delay, if any, should be condoned are questions to be decided by the District Judge alone and not by the appellate court.

b. However even in the aforesaid situation, the award cannot be said to be nullity since the reference court is bound by law to answer the reference. In case none of the parties is aggrieved, the legal representatives can execute the award in accordance with law.

c. In cases where there are more than one claimants and each is owner of a separate share, then the death of one of the claimants can never render the award to be a nullity. The award is answered in favour of all the claimants. Therefore, in an appeal filed either by the claimants or by the acquiring authority, the legal representatives of the deceased claimant can be brought on record even during the course of the appeal and it is not necessary to refer the matter back to the reference court.

d. Where there are more than one petitions and they are decided by a common award and the sole claimant in one of the petitions has died during the pendency of the reference proceedings, the entire award cannot be termed a nullity. Since the award is a common award based on common evidence led by all the parties, the legal representatives of the deceased can be brought on record during the pendency of the appeal also.

e. In cases(c) and (d) above, the abatement, if any, will be qua the deceased and the entire proceedings will not abate. In both these cases the legal representatives can be brought on record even during the pendency of the appeal.

3. The present is a case which is covered by (b) and (c) of para 13 of the judgment supra, as Raj Kumar was not the only petitioner in the reference petition but his brother S/Sh. Ramesh Chand, Pawan Kumar, Arun Kumar and Pardeep Kumar being co-owners of the acquired land were also the petitioners with him. Above all, the reference petition, they preferred has been decided by a common award passed in a batch of petitions on the basis of common evidence available on record. Therefore, irrespective of the death of deceased respondent Raj Kumar during the course of the proceedings in the reference petition in the trial Court, the question of abatement of the appeal and substitution of his legal representative can be gone into by this Court in the present appeal. Since his brothers, petitioners No. 1, 3, 4 and 5 were their on record to represent the estate of the deceased petitioner-respondent and to pursue the petition, therefore, the question of abatement does not arise. The proposed legal representatives of deceased respondent Raj Kumar named in para 3 of the application [CMP(M) No. 1295 of 2014] are otherwise also required to be brought on record being entitled to receive the compensation in respect of the acquired land to the extent of their share and also to straighten the record.

4. The application, no doubt, has been filed beyond the period of limitation. The delay, however, stands explained from the contents of another application [CMP(M) No. 1296 of 2014] filed under Section 5 of the Limitation Act.

5. I, therefore, allow both the applications and on setting aside the abatement of the proceedings, order to substitute the proposed legal representatives named in para 3 of the application,[CMP(M) No. 1295 of 2014] as respondents No. 2(a) and 2(b) in the main appeal. Necessary corrections be made in the records accordingly. Amended memo, in terms of this order be also filed within two weeks. Both the applications stand disposed of.

An authenticated copy of this order be sent to learned trial Court for making necessary corrections in the records in terms of this order.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Kameshwar son of late Sh. Parma Ram ….Applicant
Versus
State of H.P. ….Non-applicant

Cr.MP(M) No. 359 of 2015
Order Reserved on 23rd April,2015
Date of Order 4th May, 2015

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 430, 504 and 506 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- Courts are under an obligation to maintain balance between human rights and a criminal cases- considering that investigation is complete and no recovery is to be effected from the accused, bail granted to the accused. (Para-7 and 8)

Cases referred:

Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration), AIR 1978 SC 179

The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh, AIR 1962 SC 253
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, 2012 Cri. L.J. 702 Apex Court DB 702

For the Applicant: Mr. G.C.Gupta, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Meera Devi, Advocate
For the Non-applicant: Mr. J.S.Rana, Assistant Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge.

Present bail application is filed under Section 438 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 for grant of anticipatory bail in connection with case FIR No. 20 of 2015 dated 21.3.2015 registered under Sections 430, 504 and 506 Part-B of IPC at P.S. New Shimla.

2. It is pleaded that applicant has not committed any offence as alleged and further pleaded that applicant will abide by terms and conditions imposed by Court. Prayer for acceptance of anticipatory bail application sought.

3. Per contra police report filed. There is recital in police report that applicant intentionally uprooted public water tap from sehan of complainant and placed the public water tap in his house and stopped the water supply to the house of complainant. There is recital in police report that accused did not allow the complainant and his children to use the public water tap since six months and when complainant went to take the water from water tap accused abused the complainant and told the complainant that if he would again come to take the water from public water tap then he would kill him. There is further recital in police report that site plan was prepared and statements of witnesses recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. There is also recital in police report that no further investigation is to be conducted from applicant and no recovery is to be effected from the applicant. There is recital in police report that accused is quarrelsome person and another FIR No. 46 of 2014 dated 1.10.2014 registered under sections 336, 504 and 427 IPC against the applicant. There is further recital in police report that applicant would induce and threat the prosecution witnesses in case applicant is released on bail and prayer for rejection of anticipatory bail application sought.

4. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant and learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the non-applicant and also perused the record.

5. Following points arise for determination in this bail application:-

1. Whether the anticipatory bail application filed under Section 438 Cr.P.C. by applicable is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of bail application?
2. Final Order.

Findings on Point No.1

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of applicant that applicant is innocent and applicant did not commit any criminal offence cannot be decided at this stage. Same fact will be decided when case shall be disposed of on merits after giving due opportunity to both the parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

7. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that investigation is completed and no recovery is to be effected from applicant and on this ground anticipatory bail application filed by applicant be allowed is accepted for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. At the time of granting bail following factors are considered. (i) Nature and seriousness of offence (ii) The character of the evidence (iii) Circumstances which are peculiar to the accused (iv) Possibility of the presence of the accused at the trial or investigation (v) Reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with (vi) The larger interests of the public or the State. See AIR 1978 SC 179 titled Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration). Also see AIR 1962 SC 253 titled The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh. It was held in case reported in 2012 Cri. L.J. 702 Apex Court DB 702, titled Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial. It was held that grant of bail is the rule and committal to jail is exceptional. It was held that refusal of bail is a restriction on personal liberty of individual guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution. It was further held that accused should not be kept in jail for an indefinite period. In view of the fact that investigation is complete and in view of the fact that no recovery is to be effected from applicant Court is of the opinion that it would be in the interest of justice if applicant is released on bail because trial will be concluded in due course of time.

8. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of non-applicant that if bail is granted to applicant then applicant will induce, threat and influence the prosecution witnesses and on this ground bail application be declined is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that conditional bail will be granted to applicant and condition will be imposed in the bail order to the effect that applicant will not induce and threat the prosecution witnesses. Court is of the opinion that if applicant will flout the terms and conditions of bail order then non-applicant will be at liberty to file application for cancellation of bail strictly in accordance with law. It is well settled law that Courts are under legal obligation to keep equal balance between criminal case and human rights of individual. In view of the fact that investigation is complete and in view of the fact that no recovery is to be effected from applicant it is expedient in the ends of justice to allow the application. In view of above stated facts point No.1 is answered in affirmative.

Point No.2 (Final Order)

9. In view of my findings on point No.1 bail application filed by applicant under Section 438 Cr.P.C. is allowed and interim order dated 9.4.2015 is made absolute. Observations made in this order will not effect the merits of case in any manner and will strictly confine for the disposal of bail application filed under Section 438 of Code of Criminal Procedure 1973. All pending application(s) if any also disposed of. Bail petition filed under Section 438 of Code of Criminal Procedure stands disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Nishant Sharma son of Sh. Desh Raj Sharma ....Applicant

Versus

State of H.P. ....Non-applicant

Cr.MP(M) No. 360 of 2015
Order Reserved on 23rd April,2015
Date of Order 4th May, 2015

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commissions of offences punishable under Sections 341, 323, 395, 367, 147, 148, 149, 120-B IPC- petitioner pleaded that he is a student and his career would be spoiled in case he is not permitted to appear in the last semester of final examination- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- release of the petitioner will not affect the investigation adversely- bail granted.

(Para-6 to 8)

Cases referred:

Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration), AIR 1978 SC 179
The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh, AIR 1962 SC 253
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, 2012 Cri. L.J. 702 Apex Court DB 702

For the Applicant: Mr. Jitender P. Ranote, Advocate.
For the Non-applicant: Mr. J.S.Rana, Assistant Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge.

Present bail application is filed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 for grant of bail in connection with case FIR No. 28 of 2015 dated 5.3.2015 registered under Sections 341, 323, 395, 367, 147, 148, 149, 120-B IPC at P.S. Nadaun, District Hamirpur (H.P.)

2. It is pleaded that applicant is not directly connected with criminal offence and applicant has been implicated in false case. It is pleaded that age of applicant is 20 years and applicant is studying in the last semester at Government Industrial Training Institution Rail District Hamirpur and his final examination scheduled to be held in the month of July 2015. It is pleaded that if applicant is not released on bail then applicant will not be in position to appear in examination and career of applicant would be ruined. It is pleaded that learned Sessions Judge Hamirpur has rejected the bail application of applicant. It is further pleaded that investigation is complete and no recovery is to be effected from applicant and applicant would not tamper with prosecution witnesses in any manner and would abide by terms and conditions imposed by Court. Prayer for acceptance of bail application sought.

3. Per contra police report filed. As per police report, FIR No. 28 of 2015 dated 5.3.2015 registered under Sections 341, 323, 395, 367, 147, 148, 149 and 120-B of Indian Penal Code at Nadaun District Hamirpur (H.P.) against the applicant. There is recital in police report that on dated 4.3.2015 at about 10.10 PM information received that one person was brought for his medical treatment in CHC Sujanpur. There is recital in police report that Deep Sharma is taxi driver by profession and owner of vehicle No. HP-01-H-1316. There is recital in police report that on dated 4.3.2015 when Deep Sharma reached outside his house then two boys aged 20-25 years told him that they would go to Chabutra. There is recital in police report that Deep Sharma took those two boys to Chabutra in his vehicle and thereafter accused persons told Deep Sharma to take them to Karot in his vehicle. There is further recital in police report that thereafter Deep Sharma brought the accused persons to Karot and thereafter accused persons told Deep Sharma to take them to Jihan in his vehicle. There is recital in police report that thereafter when Deep Sharma and accused persons reached at Bhou road accused persons directed Deep Sharma to stop his vehicle. There is further recital in police report that thereafter Deep Sharma was dragged outside from vehicle and was beaten with sticks and fist blows. There is also recital in police report that Rs. 10,000/- (Rupees ten thousand only) of Deep Sharma could not be traced out. There is recital in police report that matter was investigated and Deep Sharma was medically examined and as per report Deep Sharma had sustained fifteen injuries on his body. As per further police report the site plan was prepared and statements of prosecution witnesses recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. There is further recital in police report that two sticks were also recovered as per Section 27 of Indian Evidence Act and Rs.1000/- (Rupees one thousand only) were also recovered as per disclosure statement given by accused. There is recital in police report that Gurdev Singh raised alarm and thereafter when Gurdev Singh raised alarm accused persons fled away. There is further recital in police report that as per MLC report Deep Sharma had sustained simple injuries. There is recital in police report that in case applicant is released on bail then applicant would threat the prosecution witnesses. Prayer for dismissal of bail application sought.

4. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant and learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the non-applicant and also perused the record.

5. Following points arise for determination in this bail application:-

1. Whether bail application filed under Section 439 Cr.P.C. by applicable is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of bail application?
2. Final Order.

Findings on Point No.1

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of applicant that applicant is innocent and applicant did not commit any criminal offence cannot be decided at this stage. Same fact will be decided when case shall be disposed of on merits after giving due opportunity to both the parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

7. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that any condition imposed by Court will be binding upon the applicant and applicant is student and his career would be spoiled in case he would not be in position to appear in last semester of final examination and on this ground bail application be allowed is accepted for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. At the time of granting bail following factors are considered. (i) Nature and seriousness of offence (ii) The character of the evidence (iii) Circumstances which are peculiar to the accused (iv) Possibility of the presence of the accused at the trial or investigation (v) Reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with (vi) The larger interests of the public or the State. See AIR 1978 SC 179 titled Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration). Also see AIR 1962 SC 253 titled The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh. It was held in case reported in 2012 Cri. L.J. 702 Apex Court DB 702, titled Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial. It was held that grant of bail is the rule and committal to jail is exceptional. It was held that refusal of bail is a restriction on personal liberty of individual guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution. It was further held that accused should not be kept in jail for an indefinite period. It is well settled law that accused is presumed to be innocent till convicted by competent Court of law. In view of the fact that applicant is student and in view of the fact that applicant would appear in examination of last semester Court is of the opinion that it is expedient in the ends of justice to allow the bail application filed by applicant. It is held that if applicant is released on bail then investigation of case will not be adversely effected.

8. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of non-applicant that if bail is granted to applicant then applicant will induce, threat and influence the prosecution witnesses and on this ground bail application be declined is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that conditional bail will be granted to applicant and condition will be imposed in the bail order to the effect that applicant will not induce and threat the prosecution witnesses. Court is of the opinion that if applicant will flout the terms and conditions of bail order then non-applicant will be at liberty to file application for cancellation of bail in accordance with law under Section 439(2) of Code of Criminal Procedure 1973. In view of above stated facts point No.1 is answered in affirmative.

Point No.2 (Final order)

9. In view of my findings on point No.1 bail application filed by applicant under Section 439 Cr.P.C. is allowed subject to furnishing personal bond to the tune of Rs. 1 lac (Rupees one lac only) with two sureties in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned trial Court on following terms and conditions. (i) That the applicant will join the investigation of case whenever and wherever directed by Investigating Officer in accordance with law. (ii) That applicant will attend the proceedings of learned trial Court regularly till conclusion of trial of case. (iii) That applicant will not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer. (iv) That the applicant will not leave India without the prior permission of the Court. (v) That applicant will give his residential address in written manner to the Investigating Officer and Court so that applicant can be located in short notice. (vi) That applicant will not commit similar offence qua which he is accused. Observations made in this order will not effect the merits of case in any manner and will strictly confine for the disposal of bail application filed under Section 439 of Code of Criminal Procedure 1973. All pending application(s) if any also disposed of. Bail petition filed under Section 439 of Code of Criminal Procedure stands disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

Partap Singh ……Petitioner.
Versus
Kanwar Singh …….Respondent.

CMPMO No. 25 of 2015.
Reserved on: 28.4.2015.
Decided on: 04.5.2015.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 6 Rule 17- Plaintiff filed an application for seeking amendment in the plaint- application was filed after the issues were framed and it was belated - the amendment would change the nature of the suit- it was not pleaded in the application that in spite of due diligence, amendment could not have been made earlier, therefore, application is liable to be dismissed. (Para-4 to 6)

Cases referred:
State of Madhya Pradesh vrs. Union of India and another, (2011) 12 SCC 268
J.Samuel and others vrs. Gattu Mahesh and others, (2012) 2 SCC 300

For the petitioner: Mr. Raman Prashar, Advocate.
For the respondent: Nemo.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

The respondent was served but there is no representation on his behalf.

2. This petition is instituted against the order dated 14.10.2014, rendered by the learned Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.), Arki, Distt. Solan, H.P. in CMA No. 200/6 of 2012.

3. Key facts, necessary for the adjudication of this petition are that the respondent-plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as the plaintiff) has instituted a civil suit for permanent prohibitory injunction under Section 38 of the Specific Relief Act, for restraining the petitioner-defendant (hereinafter referred to as the defendant) from carrying out digging, construction activities and from interfering into the land shown in the plaint. The written statement was filed by the defendant on 15.1.2010. The plaintiff did not file any replication, despite numerous opportunities granted to him. The issues were framed by the learned trial Court on 10.8.2010. The plaintiff also led his evidence on 2.1.2012. The plaintiff moved an application under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC, seeking amendment of the plaint. The application was resisted by the defendant by filing detailed reply. The learned trial Court allowed the application on 14.10.2014. Hence, this petition.

3. I have heard Mr. Raman Prashar, Advocate, for the petitioner and gone through the impugned order dated 14.10.2014, carefully.

4. In the present case, the written statement was filed on 15.1.2010 and issues have already been framed by the learned trial Court on 10.8.2010. The application has been filed belatedly and it is an afterthought. The description of the suit land was already within the knowledge of the plaintiff at the time of instituting the suit. The amendment of the plaint would definitely change the basic nature of the suit causing serious prejudice to the defendant. The amendment sought for was not necessary for the final adjudication of the suit. The plaintiff has not specifically stated in the application filed under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC that inspite of due diligence, such amendment could not have been sought earlier.

5. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Madhya Pradesh vrs. Union of India and another, reported in (2011) 12 SCC 268, have held that when application is filed after the commencement of the trial, it must be shown that inspite of due diligence, such amendment could not have been sought earlier. Their lordships have held as under:

"7). The above provision deals with amendment of pleadings. By Amendment Act 46 of 1999, this provision was deleted. It has again been restored by Amendment Act 22 of 2002 but with an added proviso to prevent application for amendment being allowed after the trial has commenced, unless the Court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial. The proviso, to some extent, curtails absolute discretion to allow amendment at any stage. Now, if application is filed after commencement of trial, it must be shown that in spite of due diligence, such amendment could not have been sought earlier.

8). The purpose and object of Order VI Rule 17 of the Code is to allow either party to alter or amend his pleadings in such manner and on such terms as may be just. Amendment cannot be claimed as a matter of right and under all circumstances, but the Courts while deciding such prayers should not adopt a hyper-technical approach. Liberal approach should be the general rule particularly, in cases where the other side can be compensated with costs. Normally, amendments are allowed in the pleadings to avoid multiplicity of litigations.

9) Inasmuch as the plaintiff-State of Madhya Pradesh has approached this Court invoking the original jurisdiction under Article 131 of the Constitution of India, the Rules framed by this Court, i.e., The Supreme Court Rules, 1966 (in short `the Rules) have to be applied to the case on hand. Order XXVI speaks about "Pleadings Generally". Among various rules, we are concerned about Rule 8 which reads as under:

> "8. The Court may, at any stage of the proceedings, allow either party to amend his pleading in such manner and on such terms as may be just, but only such amendments shall be made as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the real question in controversy between the parties."

The above provision, which is similar to Order VI Rule 17 of the Code prescribes that at any stage of the proceedings, the Court may allow either party to amend his pleadings. However, it must be established that the proposed amendment is necessary for the purpose of determining the real question in controversy between the parties.

10) This Court, while considering Order VI Rule 17 of the Code, in several judgments has laid down the principles to be applicable in the case of amendment of plaint which are as follows:

(i) Surender Kumar Sharma v. Makhan Singh, (2009) 10 SCC 626, at para 5:

> "5. As noted hereinearlier, the prayer for amendment was refused by the High Court on two grounds. So far as the first ground is concerned i.e. the prayer for amendment was a belated one, we are of the view that even if it was belated, then also, the question that needs to be decided is to see whether by allowing the amendment, the real controversy between the parties may be resolved. It is well settled that under Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure, > wide powers and unfettered discretion have been conferred on the court to allow amendment of the pleadings to a party in such a manner and on such terms as it appears to the court just and proper. Even if, such an application for amendment of the plaint was filed belatedly, such belated amendment cannot be refused if it is found that for deciding the real controversy between the parties, it can be allowed on payment of costs. Therefore, in our view, mere delay and laches in making the application for amendment cannot be a ground to refuse the amendment."

(ii) North Eastern Railway Administration, Gorakhpur v.

Bhagwan Das (dead) by LRS, (2008) 8 SCC 511, at para16:

> "16. Insofar as the principles which govern the question of granting or disallowing amendments under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC (as it stood at the relevant time) are concerned, these are also well settled. Order 6 Rule 17 CPC postulates amendment of pleadings at any stage of the proceedings. In Pirgonda Hongonda Patil v. Kalgonda Shidgonda Patil which still holds the field, it was held that all amendments ought to be allowed which satisfy the two conditions: (a) of not working injustice to the other side, and (b) of being necessary for the purpose of determining the real questions in controversy between the parties. Amendments should be refused only where the other party cannot be placed in the same position as if the pleading had been originally correct, but the amendment would cause him an injury which could not be compensated in costs."

(iii) Usha Devi v. Rijwan Ahamd and Others, (2008) 3 SCC 717, at para 13:

> "13. Mr Bharuka, on the other hand, invited our attention to another decision of this Court in Baldev Singh v. Manohar Singh. In para 17 of the decision, it was held and observed as follows: (SCC pp. 504-05) "17. Before we part with this order, we may also notice that proviso to Order 6 Rule 17 CPC provides that amendment of pleadings shall not be allowed when the trial of the suit has already commenced. For this reason, we have examined the records and find that, in fact, the trial has not yet commenced. It appears from the records that the parties have yet to file their documentary evidence in the suit. From the record, it also appears that the suit was not on the verge of conclusion as found by the High Court and the trial court. That apart, commencement of trial as used in proviso to Order 6 Rule 17 in the Code of Civil Procedure must be understood in the limited sense as meaning the final hearing of the suit, examination of witnesses, filing of documents and addressing of arguments. As noted hereinbefore, parties are yet to file their documents, we do not find any reason to reject the application for amendment of the written statement in view of proviso to Order 6 Rule 17 CPC which confers wide power and unfettered discretion on the court to allow an amendment of the written statement at any stage of the proceedings."

(iv) Rajesh Kumar Aggarwal and Others v. K.K. Modi and Others, (2006) 4 SCC 385, at paras 15 & 16:

> "15. The object of the rule is that the courts should try the merits of the case that come before them and should, consequently, allow all amendments that may be necessary for determining the real question in controversy between the parties provided it does not cause injustice or prejudice to the other side.
>
> 16. Order 6 Rule 17 consists of two parts. Whereas the first part is discretionary (may) and leaves it to the court to order amendment of pleading. The second part is imperative (shall) and enjoins the court to allow all amendments which are necessary for the purpose of determining the real question in controversy between the parties."

(v) Revajeetu Builders and Developers v. Narayanaswamy and Sons and Others, (2009) 10 SCC 84, at para 63:

"63. On critically analysing both the English and Indian cases, some basic principles emerge which ought to be taken into consideration while allowing or rejecting the application for amendment:

> (1) whether the amendment sought is imperative for proper and effective adjudication of the case;
>
> (2) whether the application for amendment is bona fide or mala fide;
>
> (3) the amendment should not cause such prejudice to the other side which cannot be compensated adequately in terms of money;
>
> (4) refusing amendment would in fact lead to injustice or lead to multiple litigation;
>
> (5) whether the proposed amendment constitutionally or fundamentally changes the nature and character of the case;
>
> and (6) as a general rule, the court should decline amendments if a fresh suit on the amended claims would be barred by limitation on the date of application.

These are some of the important factors which may be kept in mind while dealing with application filed under Order 6 Rule 17. These are only illustrative and not exhaustive."

The above principles make it clear that Courts have ample power to allow the application for amendment of the plaint. However, it must be satisfied that the same is required in the interest of justice and for the purpose of determination of real question in controversy between the parties."

6. Their lordships in the case of J. Samuel and others vrs. Gattu Mahesh and others, reported in (2012) 2 SCC 300, have held that omission of specific plea mandatorily amounts to negligence and lack of due diligence. Their lordships have explained the term "due diligence". It has been held as under:

> "15) In this legal background, we have to once again recapitulate the factual details. In the case on hand, Suit O.S. No. 9 of 2004 after prolonged trial came to an end in September, 2010. The application for amendment under Order VI Rule 17 CPC was filed on 24.09.2010 that is after the arguments were concluded on 22.09.2010 and the matter was posted for judgment on 04.10.2010. We have already mentioned that Section 16(c) of the Specific Relief Act contemplates that specific averments have to be made in the plaint that he has performed and has always been willing to perform the essential terms of the Act which have to be performed by him. This is an essential ingredient of Section 16(c) and the form prescribes for the due performance. The proviso inserted in Rule 17 clearly states that no amendment shall be allowed after the trial has commenced except when the court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of the trial.
>
> 18) The primary aim of the court is to try the case on its merits and ensure that the rule of justice prevails. For this the need is for the true facts of the case to be placed before the court so that the court has access to all the relevant information in coming to its decision. Therefore, at times it is required to permit parties to amend their plaints. The Court's discretion to grant permission for a party to amend his pleading lies on two conditions, firstly, no injustice must be done to the other side and secondly, the amendment must be necessary for the purpose of determining the real question in controversy between the parties. However to balance the interests of the parties in pursuit of doing justice, the proviso has been added which clearly states that:
>
>> "... no application for amendment shall be allowed after the trial has commenced, unless the court comes to the conclusion that in spite of due diligence, the party could not have raised the matter before the commencement of trial."
>
> 19) Due diligence is the idea that reasonable investigation is necessary before certain kinds of relief are requested. Duly diligent efforts are a requirement for a party seeking to use the adjudicatory mechanism to attain an anticipated relief. An advocate representing someone must engage in due diligence to determine that the representations made are factually accurate and sufficient. The term `Due diligence' is specifically used in the Code so as to provide a test for determining whether to exercise the discretion in situations of requested amendment after the commencement of trial.
>
> 20) A party requesting a relief stemming out of a claim is required to exercise due diligence and is a requirement which cannot be dispensed with. The term "due diligence" determines the scope of a party's constructive knowledge, claim and is very critical to the outcome of the suit."

7. Accordingly, the petition is allowed. Impugned order dated 14.10.2014, rendered by the learned Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.), Arki, Distt. Solan, H.P. in CMA No. 200/6 of 2012, is quashed and set aside.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Cr. Appeal No. 452/2012
with Cr. Appeal no. 39/2013
Reserved on: 1.5.2015
Decided on: 4.5.2015

1. Cr. Appeal No. 452/2012

Sashi Kumar and another …Appellants

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh …Respondent

2. Cr. Appeal No. 39/2013

State of Himachal Pradesh …Appellant

Versus

Shashi Kumar and another …Respondents

N.D.P.S Act, 1985- Section 20- Search of the vehicle was conducted during which 500 grams of charas was recovered – when parcel Ex. P1 was opened in the Court, it was containing another parcel Ex. P2 sealed with seal impression 'P'- seal impression 'P' was put on the parcel when the contraband was seized- parcel was opened for analysis at FSL, Junga and the seals were bound to be removed at FSL- no entry was made in the Malkhana register regarding taking out of the property for production before the Court- case property was to be taken out after making entry in the Malkhana register and after recording the same in the daily dairy – case property was to be re-deposited in malkhana register and entry in the daily dairy was to be recorded- held, that these circumstances make it doubtful that case property remained intact- hence, accused acquitted. (Para-13 to 16)

For the Appellant(s) : Mr. Lakshay Thakur and Mr. Abhi Raj Guleria, Advocates, in Cr. Appeal No. 452/2012.
Mr. M.A. Khan, Additional Advocate General, in Cr. Appeal No. 39/2013.

For the Respondent(s): Mr. Lakshay Thakur and Mr. Abhi Raj Guleria, Advocates, in Cr. Appeal No. 39/2013.
Mr. M.A. Khan, Additional Advocate General, in Cr. Appeal No. 452/2012.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge.

Since both the appeals have arisen out of the same judgment, the same were taken together and are being disposed of vide this common judgment.

2. These appeals are instituted against Judgment dated 8.10.2012 rendered by learned Special Judge, Kullu, Himachal Pradesh in Sessions Trial No. 29 of 2012, whereby appellants in Criminal Appeal No. 452/2012 (hereinafter referred to as 'accused' for convenience sake), who were charged with and tried for offence under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act' for convenience sake), were convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year and to pay a fine of Rs.20,000/-, in default of payment of fine, to further undergo simple imprisonment for three months. The State has come in appeal bearing No. 39/2013, for enhancement of the sentence dated 8.10.2012.

3. Case of the prosecution in a nutshell is that on 4.5.2011, PW-7 SHO Tenzin (IO) alongwith HC Bala Ram was on patrolling duty near Larji. At about 4.00 am, a vehicle bearing No. HP01H-6009 came from Larji side. It was signalled to stop. Driver of the vehicle and other occupants disclosed their identification. Search of the vehicle was taken. One packet kept in the dashboard was recovered. On checking Charas was recovered and it weighed 500 gms. It was wrapped in the same manner in the packet and sealed with six seals of impression 'P'. Samples of seals were prepared on separate piece of cloth. IO filled NCB form at the spot. Possession memo was prepared. Rukka was prepared at the spot and sent to the police station, Bharari through HHC Bala Ram alongwith case property alongwith NCB form. NCB form in triplicate, sample seal 'P' and copy of seizure memo were handed over to SHO Balbir Singh. He lodged FIR. SHO Balbir Singh resealed case property with 5 impressions of seal 'W'. He also filled up column Nos. 9 to 11 of the NCB form and deposited case property with PW-5 Parkash Chand. Case property was entered in the Malkhana register at Sr. No. 46. He sent the sealed parcels vide RC Ext. PW-1/B to FSL Junga through PW-1 Bala Ram. He deposited the same in laboratory and obtained receipt. Thereafter, codal formalities were completed and challan was put up in the Court.

4. Prosecution, in all, examined 7 witnesses to prove its case against the accused. Accused were also examined under Section 313 CrPC. According to them, they were innocent and were falsely implicated. Accused were convicted and sentenced as noticed above. Hence, these two appeals, one by the accused against their conviction bearing Cr. Appeal No. 452/2012, and another by the State bearing Cr. Appeal No. 39/2013, for enhancement of sentence.

5. Mr. Lakshay Thakur, Advocate has vehemently argued that the Prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused.

6. Mr. M.A. Khan, Additional Advocate General has also argued that accused should have been given maximum punishment of 10 years being in possession of Charas.

7. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the judgment and record carefully.

8. PW-1 Bala Ram has deposed that on 4.5.2011, he alongwith SHO Tenzin and team was on patrolling and excise duty. They reached near Larji. At about 4.00 am, one vehicle came from Larji side which was stopped by the police and checked. Identities of the occupants of the vehicle were established. Search of the vehicle was conducted. During search, one pack kept on dashboard was recovered. It contained 500 gms charas. IO prepared Rukka and handed over to him for registration of case vide Ext. PW-1/A. On 5.5.2011, MHC handed over to him case property alongwith record of the case vide RC No. 30/11 Ext. PW-1/B. He deposited the same with FSL Junga and handed over receipt to MHC.

9. PW-2 and PW-3 are formal witnesses.

10. PW-4 deposed that he lodged FIR Ext. PW-4/B on the same day. Bala Ram produced/ handed over case property alongwith documents. He resealed the parcel with 'W' and affixed 5 seals over parcel vide Ext. PW-4/D. Sample of seal is Ext. PW-4/E. He filled up columns No. 9 to 11, which is Ext. PW-4/F and affixed three impressions of seal 'W'. MHC thereafter handed over case property to MHC Parkash Chand.

11. PW-5 Parkash Chand deposed that on 4.5.2011 SI Balbir Singh handed over case property i.e. one parcel resealed with five seals of 'W', which he entered in the Malkhana register at Sr. No. 46. He proved abstract of Malkhana register Ext. PW-5/A. On 5.5.2011, sealed parcel alongwith other record was sent to FSL Junga through PW-1 HC Bala Ram.

12. PW-6 ASI Rajesh Kumar deposed the manner in which accused were apprehended, search and sealing process was completed at the spot. Case property was produced in the Court. While recording statement of PW-6 Rajesh Kumar, the trial Court has observed as under:

> "On opening the parcel Ex. P1, it contains another sealed parcel Ex. P2 sealed with seal P six in numbers. Seals are intact. On opening Ex. P2, it contains charas Ex. P3, cello tape and polythene wrappers Ex. P4 are the same which were taken in possession from the vehicle of the accused."

13. PW-7 SHO Tenzin was leading the patrol party. He also deposed the manner in which vehicle was stopped, accused were apprehended and vehicle was searched. He prepared NCB form. He also prepared Rukka Ext. PW-1/A. He sent the same through HHC Bala Ram alongwith case property, NCB form, sample seal 'P', copy of seizure memo to Police Station Bharari. He also prepared rough spot map.

14. Mr. Lakshay Thakur has drawn the attention of the court to Ext. PW-5/A i.e. Malkhana Register. According to PW-5, he entered in the Malkhana Register at Sr. No. 46 property deposited on 4.5.2011. He sent the same to FSL Junga through PW-1 HC Bala Ram. Bala Ram carried case property to FSL Junga vide RC Ext. PW1/B. According to Ext. PX, the report was signed by Assistant Director on 11.5.2011. After examination of the extract, original cloth parcel containing remnants of the exhibit were resealed. Case property was produced before the Court. While recording statement of PW-6, on opening of parcel Ext. P1, it contained another sealed parcel Ext. P2, sealed with seal impression 'P' six in number. Seals were intact. Seal 'P' six in number were put when the contraband was seized and thereafter 5 seals of 'W' were put by the PW-4 Balbir Singh. Parcel was supposed to be reopened for the purpose of analysis by FSL Junga. Five seals of 'W' and six seals of 'P' were bound to be removed in order to take the contraband out for the purpose of analysis from the pocket. Analysis was carried and thereafter property was put in the same parcel and sealed with FSL seals. However, when the property has been produced before the Court all the 6 seals of 'P' were found intact. The trial Court has not noticed whether seals of FSL were on the packet when produced before the Court. There is no entry also in the malkhana register Ext. PW-5/A when the property was taken out from Malkhana for production before the Court. Case property was to be taken out after making entry in Malkhana and after recording same in daily diary report. Case property was to be re-deposited in the Malkhana register and daily diary was to be prepared. Thus, it casts doubt whether the case property, which was sent to FSL Junga and the property produced before the Court, was the same which was seized from the accused coupled with the fact that six impression of 'P' were found intact as per the observations made by the Court, while recording statement of PW-6 when the case property was produced before the Court and opened. These seals were bound to be removed when the sample was examined as alleged. It creates doubt in the version of the prosecution and, thus, prosecution has failed to prove case against accused beyond reasonable doubt. There is no reference of FSL seals. Statement of PW-6 was recorded on 21.8.2012 and as noticed by us, Ext. PX is dated 11.5.2011.

15. In Punjab Police Rules, applicable to the State of Himachal Pradesh, Malkhana registered is assigned serial number-19. It is in a tabular form. There are different columns like who has deposited the case property and when it was taken out and deposited back. These details are very material and every deposit made in the Malkhana /Store Room is to be recorded and also at the time when it is re-deposited.

16. In this case, there is no evidence who has brought the case property from Malkhana at the time of production before the Court and who has taken it back to the Malkhana. Generally, case property is taken from the Malkhana after recording entry. It is sent by MHC through some Constable and handed over to Naib Court and returned in the same manner to be deposited back in the Malkhana/Store Room.

17. Accordingly, Cr. Appeal No. 452/2012 preferred by the accused is allowed. Judgment dated 8.10.2012 rendered by learned Special Judge, Kullu, Himachal Pradesh in Sessions Trial No. 29 of 2012 is set aside. Accused be released forthwith, if not required in any other case by the Police. Fine amount, if already deposited, be also refunded to them. Registry is directed to prepare the release warrant of the accused and send them to the Superintendent of Jail concerned immediately.

18. In view of above, Cr. Appeal No. 39/2013 preferred by the State is dismissed being without any merits. Pending applications, if any, in both the appeals are disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Tulsi Ram. ....Petitioner.

Versus

HPSEB & another. ....Respondents.

CWP No. 5074 of 2011
Decided on: 4.5.2015

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 23 Rule 1- Learned Counsel for the petitioner submitted that he did not want to continue with the present petition and same be dismissed as withdrawn- In view of statement of the Learned Counsel, petition is dismissed as withdrawn.

For the petitioner : Mr. R.D. Kaundal, Advocate, vice counsel.
For the respondents : Mr. Raj Pal Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana Judge (Oral)

Learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner submitted that petitioner does not want to continue the present petition and the same be dismissed as withdrawn. In view of the submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner petition is dismissed as withdrawn. No order as to costs. For fresh cause of action petitioner would be at liberty to file fresh petition. Petition is disposed of. Pending applications if any also disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE P.S.RANA, J.

Gopal Chauhan. .....Applicant.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh. ....Non- applicant.

Cr.MP(M) No. 367 of 2015.
Order reserved on: 1.5.2015.
Date of Order: May 5, 2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 420, 465 and 471 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- police had not claimed that custodial interrogation is necessary in the present case- interests of the State or general public will not be affected by keeping the accused inside the jail- therefore, bail granted. (Para-6 to 8)

Cases referred:
Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration), AIR 1978 SC 179
The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh AIR 1962 SC 253
Sanjay Chandra Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation 2012 Cri.L.J 702

For the applicant: Mr. Ravinder Singh Jaswal, Advocate.
For non-applicant . Mr. M.L.Chauhan, Addl. Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S.Rana, Judge.

Present application is filed under Section 438 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 for grant of anticipatory bail in connection with case FIR No. 26 of 2014 dated 10.7.2014 registered under Sections 420, 465 and 471 of the Indian Penal Code at Police Station Jubbal District Shimla Himachal Pradesh.

2. It is pleaded that applicant is an agriculturist and apple merchant. It is further pleaded that service of complainant namely Bhupinder Singh son of Late Sh Roop Chand resident of Mandhol Tehsil Jubbal District Shimla HP was hired for transportation of 130 boxes of apples from Matasa (Jubbal) to Solan in the month of July and August, 2014. It is further pleaded that apple boxes transported in the vehicle were found lying on the road between Kharapathar and Kaina Kenchi road due to loosing of rope of the truck. It is further pleaded that boxes were further re-loaded in the same vehicle. It is further pleaded that as the apple boxes were got damaged the parties arrived into a compromise that complainant would compensate applicant to the extent of damage caused to the applicant. It is further pleaded that complainant just to avoid the liability towards applicant filed a false criminal complaint against applicant. It is further pleaded that allegations leveled by the complainant against the applicant are without any basis. It is further pleaded that applicant is innocent. Prayer for acceptance of anticipatory bail application sought.

3. Per contra police report filed. There is recital in police report that applicant Gopal Chauhan has also filed counter FIR No.61 of 2012 dated 5.10.2012 under Section 407 IPC against complainant. There is further recital in police report that applicant Gopal Chauhan has also submitted carbon copy of G.R builty during investigation of FIR No.61 of 2012 and thereafter cancellation report was submitted before learned Judicial Magistrate Ist Class Jubbal which was accepted by learned Judicial Magistrate Ist Class Jubbal. There is recital in police report that carbon copy of G.R.builty was sent to FSL Junga for comparison of signatures and it was found that complainant Bhupinder Thakur had not signed in the carbon copy of G.R. builty and his signatures were obtained through some other persons. There is further recital in police report that applicant had joined investigation in the present case. There is further recital in police report that applicant will threaten the prosecution witness. Prayer for rejection of anticipatory bail application sought.

4. Following points arise for determination in the present bail application:

(1) Whether bail application filed under Section 438 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of bail application.

(2) Final Order.

5. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of applicant and Court also heard learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State.

Finding upon Point No.1.

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that applicant is innocent and he has been falsely implicated in the present case cannot be decided at this stage. Same fact will be decided when case shall be decided on its merits by learned trial Court after giving due opportunity of hearing to both the parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

7. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that custodial investigation of the applicant is not essential in the present case and on this ground anticipatory bail application filed by applicant be allowed is accepted for the reason hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that at the time of granting bail following factors should be considered such as (i) Nature and seriousness of offence (ii) The character of the evidence (iii) Circumstances which are peculiar to the accused (iv) Possibility of the presence of the accused at the trial or investigation (v) Reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with (vi) The larger interests of the public or the State. See AIR 1978 SC 179 titled Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration. Also see AIR 1962 SC 253 titled The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh. It was held in case reported in 2012 Cri.L.J 702 titled Sanjay Chandra Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial and it was held that object of bail is not punitive in nature. It was held that bail is rule and committal to jail is exception. It was also held that refusal of bail is a restriction on the personal liberty of the individual guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. It was held that it is not in the interest of justice that accused should be kept in jail for indefinite period. In the present case there is no recital in police report that custodial investigation of the applicant is essential in the present case. It is well settled law that accused is presumed to be innocent till proven guilty by the competent Court of law. Court is of the opinion that if applicant is released on bail at this stage then interests of the general public or the State will not be adversely effected because there is no recital in police report that custody of the applicant is necessary for investigation in present case.

8. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General that if the applicant is released on bail then applicant will induce and threat prosecution witness and on this ground bail application be rejected is devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that conditions will be imposed in the bail order that applicant will not induce or threat prosecution witnesses. If applicant will flout terms and conditions of bail order then prosecution agency or investigating agency will be at liberty to file application for cancellation of bail in accordance with law. Point No.1 is decided in affirmative.

Point No.2 (Final order).

9. In view of my above findings on point No.1 anticipatory bail application filed by applicant is allowed and interim order dated 10.4.2015 is made absolute with all terms and conditions mentioned in interim order dated 10.4.2015. Observation made hereinabove is strictly for the purpose of deciding the present anticipatory bail application and it shall not effect merits of case in any manner. All pending application(s) if any are also disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE P.S.RANA, J.

Jatinder Singh ……Applicant.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh. …….Non-applicant.

Cr.MP(M) No. 370 of 2015.
Order reserved on: 1.5.2015.
Date of Order: May 5, 2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439 - Petitioner was arrested for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 457 and 380 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- investigation is complete and challan has been filed in the Court- criminal cases would be disposed of in course of the time – interests of the general public or State would not be affected by releasing the petitioner on bail, therefore, petitioner ordered to be release on bail.
(Para-6 to 8)

Cases referred:
Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration), AIR 1978 SC 179
The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh AIR 1962 SC 253
Sanjay Chandra Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation 2012 Cri.L.J 702

For the applicant: Mr. Naresh Verma, Advocate.
For non-applicant . Mr. M.L.Chauhan, Addl. Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S.Rana, Judge.

Present application is filed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 for grant of bail in connection with case FIR No.180 of 2014 dated 27.9.2014 registered under Sections 457 and 380 of the Indian Penal Code at Police Station Jawalamukhi District Kangra Himachal Pradesh.

2. It is pleaded that investigation of the present case is completed and recovery has been effected. It is further pleaded that there is no direct evidence against the applicant and he is innocent. It is further pleaded that applicant will not induce or threat prosecution witness in any manner and will abide by the terms and conditions imposed by the Court. Prayer for acceptance of bail application sought.

3. Per contra police report filed. As per police report FIR No. 180 of 2014 dated 27.9.2014 registered under Sections 457 and 380 IPC at Police Station Jawalamukhi District Kangra HP. There is recital in police report that statement of co-accused Jitender Singh was recorded under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act and as per disclosure statement of co-accused Jitender Singh site plan of location was prepared where cash chest of ATM machine was kept. There is further recital in police report that broken locks of shutter which were thrown in the bushes by accused persons were also recovered as per disclosure statement given by co-accused Jitender Singh. There is further recital in police report that one CD and bank statement dated 26.9.2014 and statement of cash kept in the ATM machine also took into possession vide seizure memo. There is further recital in police report that on dated 26.9.2014 the ATM machine kept by PNB Bank Kaloh Tehsil Rukker District Kangra HP was broken and Rs.6,24,200/-(Six lac twenty four thousand two hundred) was stolen from cash chest of ATM machine by accused persons. There is further recital in police report that one spray bottle, cash chest of ATM machine and cash to the tune of Rs.5,97,700/- (Five lac ninety seven thousand seven hundred) and car having registration No. HR-51E-6011 were also took into possession vide seizure memo. There is further recital in police report that investigation is complete and challan is filed in the competent Court of law on dated 2.12.2014.

4. Following points arise for determination in the present bail application:

(1) Whether bail application filed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 is liable to be accepted after completion of investigation and after filing of challan in competent Court of law as alleged?.

(2) Final Order.

5. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of applicant and Court also heard learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State.

Finding upon Point No.1.

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that applicant is innocent and he has been falsely implicated in the present case cannot be decided at this stage. Same fact will be decided when case shall be decided on its merits by learned trial Court after giving due opportunity of hearing to both the parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

7. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that investigation is complete and challan already stood filed in competent court of law and criminal case will be disposed of in due course of time and on this ground bail application be allowed is accepted for the reason hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that at the time of granting bail following factors should be considered.(i) Nature and seriousness of offence (ii) The character of the evidence (iii) Circumstances which are peculiar to the accused (iv) Possibility of the presence of the accused at the trial or investigation (v) Reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with (vi) The larger interests of the public or the State. See AIR 1978 SC 179 titled Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration. Also see AIR 1962 SC 253 titled The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh. It was held in case reported in 2012 Cri.L.J 702 titled Sanjay Chandra Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial and it was held that object of bail is not punitive in nature. It was held that bail is rule and committal to jail is exception. It was also held that refusal of bail is a restriction on the personal liberty of the individual guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. It was held that it is not in the interest of justice that accused should be kept in jail for indefinite period. As per police report investigation is complete and challan already stood filed in Court in the present case and criminal case will be disposed of in due course of time. It is well settled law that accused is presumed to be innocent till proven guilty by the competent of Court of law. Court is of the opinion that if applicant is released on bail at this stage then interests of the general public or the State will not be adversely effected.

8. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General that if the applicant is released on bail then applicant will induce and threat prosecution witness and on this ground bail application be rejected is devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that conditions will be imposed in the bail order that applicant will not induce or threaten prosecution witness and if applicant will induce or threaten prosecution witness after grant of bail then prosecution will be at liberty to file application for cancellation of bail in accordance with law. It is not expedient in the ends of justice to keep applicant in jail because investigation is complete and challan stood filed in competent Court of law. Point No.1 is answered in affirmative.

Point No.2 (Final order).

9. In view of my findings on point No.1 bail application filed by applicant is allowed. It is ordered that applicant will be released on bail on following terms and conditions on furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (One lac) with two sureties in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned trial Court (i) That applicant will join investigation as and when called for by the Investigating Officer in accordance with law.

(ii) That applicant shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer. (iii) That applicant will not leave India without prior permission of the Court. (iv) That applicant will not commit similar offence qua which he is accused. (v) That applicant will give his residential address to the Investigating Officer in written manner so that applicant can be located after giving short notice. (vi) That applicant will attend the proceedings of learned trial Court regularly. Observation made hereinabove is strictly for the purpose of deciding the present bail application and it shall not effect merits of case in any manner. Bail application disposed of. All pending application(s) if any also disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE P.S.RANA, J.

Malkiyat Singh son of Chiman Singh .....Applicant.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh. ....Non- applicant.

Cr.MP(M) No. 371 of 2015.
Order reserved on: 1.5.2015.
Date of Order: May 5, 2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- Petitioner was arrested for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 457 and 380 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- investigation is complete and challan has been filed in the Court- criminal cases would be disposed of in course of the time – interests of the general public or State would not be affected by releasing the petitioner on bail, therefore, petitioner ordered to be release on bail.
(Para-6 to 8)

Cases referred:

Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration), AIR 1978 SC 179
The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh AIR 1962 SC 253
Sanjay Chandra Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation 2012 Cri.L.J 702

For the applicant: Mr. Naresh Verma, Advocate.
For non-applicant . Mr. M.L.Chauhan, Addl. Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S.Rana, Judge.

Present application is filed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 for grant of bail in connection with case FIR No.180 of 2014 dated 27.9.2014 registered under Sections 457 and 380 of the Indian Penal Code at Police Station Jawalamukhi District Kangra Himachal Pradesh.

2. It is pleaded that investigation of the present case is completed and recovery has been effected. It is further pleaded that there is no direct evidence against the applicant and he is innocent. It is further pleaded that applicant will not induce or threat prosecution witness in any manner and will abide by the terms and conditions imposed by the Court. Prayer for acceptance of bail application sought.

3. Per contra police report filed. As per police report FIR No. 180 of 2014 dated 27.9.2014 registered under Sections 457 and 380 IPC at Police Station Jawalamukhi District Kangra HP. There is recital in police report that statement of co-accused Jitender Singh was recorded under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act and as per disclosure statement of co-accused Jitender Singh site plan of location was prepared where cash chest of ATM machine was kept. There is further recital in police report that broken locks of shutter which were thrown in the bushes by accused persons were also recovered as per disclosure statement given by co-accused Jitender Singh. There is further recital in police report that one CD and bank statement dated 26.9.2014 and statement of cash kept in the ATM machine also took into possession vide seizure memo. There is further recital in police report that on dated 26.9.2014 the ATM machine kept by PNB Bank Kaloh Tehsil Rukker District Kangra HP was broken and Rs.6,24,200/-(Six lac twenty four thousand two hundred) was stolen from cash chest of ATM machine by accused persons. There is further recital in police report that one spray bottle, cash chest of ATM machine and cash to the tune of Rs.5,97,700/- (Five lac ninety seven thousand seven hundred) and car having registration No. HR-51E-6011 were also took into possession vide seizure memo. There is further recital in police report that investigation is complete and challan is filed in the competent Court of law on dated 2.12.2014.

4. Following points arise for determination in the present bail application:

(1) Whether bail application filed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 is liable to be accepted after completion of investigation and after filing of challan in competent Court of law as alleged?.

(2) Final Order.

5. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of applicant and Court also heard learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State.

Finding upon Point No.1.

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that applicant is innocent and he has been falsely implicated in the present case cannot be decided at this stage. Same fact will be decided when case shall be decided on its merits by learned trial Court after giving due opportunity of hearing to both the parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

7. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that investigation is complete and challan already stood filed in competent court of law and criminal case will be disposed of in due course of time and on this ground bail application be allowed is accepted for the reason hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that at the time of granting bail following factors should be considered. (i) Nature and seriousness of offence (ii) The character of the evidence (iii) Circumstances which are peculiar to the accused (iv) Possibility of the presence of the accused at the trial or investigation (v) Reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with (vi) The larger interests of the public or the State. See AIR 1978 SC 179 titled Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration. Also see AIR 1962 SC 253 titled The State Vs. Captain Jagjit

Singh. It was held in case reported in 2012 Cri.L.J 702 titled Sanjay Chandra Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial and it was held that object of bail is not punitive in nature. It was held that bail is rule and committal to jail is exception. It was also held that refusal of bail is a restriction on the personal liberty of the individual guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. It was held that it is not in the interest of justice that accused should be kept in jail for indefinite period. As per police report investigation is complete and challan already stood filed in Court in the present case and criminal case will be disposed of in due course of time. It is well settled law that accused is presumed to be innocent till proven guilty by the competent of Court of law. Court is of the opinion that if applicant is released on bail at this stage then interests of the general public or the State will not be adversely effected.

8. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General that if the applicant is released on bail then applicant will induce and threat prosecution witness and on this ground bail application be rejected is devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that conditions will be imposed in the bail order that applicant will not commit similar offence in future. If applicant commits similar offence in future then prosecution will be at liberty to file application for cancellation of bail in accordance with law. It is not expedient in the ends of justice to keep applicant in jail because investigation is complete and challan stood filed in competent Court of law. Point No.1 is answered in affirmative.

Point No.2 Final order.

9. In view of my findings on point No.1 bail application filed by applicant is allowed. It is ordered that applicant will be released on bail on following terms and conditions on furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (One lac) with two sureties in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned trial Court (i) That applicant will join investigation as and when called for by the Investigating Officer in accordance with law. (ii) That applicant shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer. (iii) That applicant will not leave India without prior permission of the Court. (iv) That applicant will not commit similar offence qua which he is accused. (v) That applicant will give his residential address to the Investigating Officer in written manner so that applicant can be located after giving short notice. (vi) That applicant will attend the proceedings of learned trial Court regularly. Observation made hereinabove is strictly for the purpose of deciding the present bail application and it shall not effect merits of case in any manner. All pending application(s) if any are also disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANJAY KAROL, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Criminal Appeals No.331 & 453 of 2009
Reserved on : 8.4.2015
Date of Decision : May 5, 2015

---

1. Cr. Appeal No.331 of 2009

Nand Lal and others ...Appellants.

Versus

State of H.P. ...Respondent.

2. Cr. Appeal No. 453 of 2009

State of HP ...Appellant.

Versus

Nand Lal and others ...Respondents

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 304-II and 506-I read with Section 34- Complainant party wanted the accused to remove the obstruction caused on the passage commonly used by the villagers - accused failed to remove such obstruction - when she tried to remove the obstruction, accused pelted the stones- one stone hit 'V' who sustained injuries- he was taken to PGI where he succumbed to the injuries- Medical Officer opined that there was fracture of skull and death was caused on account of shock caused due to extra dural haemorrhage - presence of the deceased was duly proved by the complainant party- testimonies of the witnesses corroborated each other- it was duly proved that accused had hurled abuses and had proclaimed to settle the matter – they caused injuries to the complainant party- all the accused were together and shared their common intention- held that conviction of the accused was justified. (Para-12 to 30)

Cases referred:

K. Ravi Kumar v. State of Karnataka, (2015) 2 SCC 638

Murllidhar Shivram Patekar and another v. State of Maharashtra, (2015) 1 SCC 694

Balu s/o Onkar Pund and others v. State of Maharashtra, (2015) 3 SCC 409

Virsa Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 1958 SC 465

For the Appellant(s) : Mr. Ajay Kumar, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Dheeraj Vashist, Advocate, in Cr.A No.331/2009; and Mr. Ashok Chaudhary & Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Additional Advocates General and Mr. J.S. Guleria, Assistant Advocate General in Cr.A No.453/2009.

For the Respondent(s) : Mr. Ashok Chaudhary & Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Additional Advocates General and Mr. J.S. Guleria, Assistant Advocate General in Cr.A No.331/2009, and Mr. Ajay Kumar, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Dheeraj Vashist, Advocate, in Cr.A No.453/2009.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, Judge

Since both these appeals arise out of the same judgment of the trial Court; hence, they are being decided by a common judgment.

2. Appellants-convicts Nand Lal, Dayala Ram, Smt. Neelam Kumari and Smt. Geeta Devi, hereinafter referred to as the accused, have filed Criminal Appeal No.331 of 2009, assailing the judgment dated 30.7.2009/ 31.7.2009, passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, H.P., in Sessions Trial No.20/7 of 2006, titled as State of H.P. Vs. Nand Lal and others, whereby accused Nand Lal stands convicted for having committed offences, punishable under the provisions of Sections 304-II and 506-I/34 of the Indian Penal Code, and accused Dayala Ram, Neelam Kumari and Geeta Devi stand convicted for having committed offence, punishable under the provisions of Section 506-I/34 of the Indian Penal Code, and sentenced as under:

Name of accused	Sections	Sentence
Nand Lal	304-II IPC	Simple Imprisonment for a period of three years and eight months and to pay a fine of Rs.5000/-, and in default of payment thereof to further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of six months.
	506-I IPC	Simple Imprisonment for a period of 20 days and pay fine of Rs.500/- and in default of payment thereof to further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of seven days.
Dayala Ram, Neelam Kumari and Geeta Devi	506-I IPC	Each of the convicts to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of 20 days and pay fine of Rs.500/- each and in default of payment thereof to further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of seven days.

3. Cr. Appeal No.453 of 2009 stands filed by the State.

4. The issue which arises for consideration in the present appeals is as to whether findings returned by the Court below, holding accused Nand Lal to have committed an offence, punishable under the provisions of Section 304-II and Section 506-I read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code and co-accused Dayala Ram, Neelam Kumari and Geeta Devi, having committed an offence, punishable under the provisions of Section 506-I read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, are based on correct appreciation of evidence on record or not? Primarily what needs to be considered is as to whether the prosecution has been able to prove that Nand Lal committed an offence of murder or not? Correctness, legality and perversity of all findings are to be adjudged.

5. In relation to FIR No. 196 of 2005 dated 1.12.2005 (Ex.PW13-/A), registered under the provisions of Sections 307, 336, 504, 506, 34 of the Indian Penal Code, prosecution filed challan against all the accused persons, namely Dayala Ram, his wife Geeta Devi, son Nand Lal and daughter-in-law Neelam Kumari, for having committed offences, punishable under the provisions of Sections 302 and 504, both read with Section 34 IPC. Finding no evidence, all the accused persons were discharged in relation to an offence, punishable under the provisions of Section 504 read with Section 34 IPC. Also, accused Dayala, Neelam Kumari and Geeta Devi stand discharged for having committed an offence, punishable under the provisions of Section 302 and 504, both read with Section 34 IPC. However, accused Nand Lal was charged for having committed an offence, punishable under Section 302 of the IPC as also section 506 read with Section 34 of IPC, and accused persons, namely Dayala Ram, Neelam Kumari and Geeta Devi, were charged for having committed an offence, punishable under Section 506 read with Section 34 of IPC.

6. As per prosecution story, the incident took place in village Kularu (District Bilaspur), between accused Dayala Ram and his family on one side, and the complainant party, including Chaman Lal on the other side. Complainant party wanted the accused to remove the obstruction so caused on the passage commonly used by the villagers. Houses of the complainant party and the accused are just adjoining to each other. Despite intervention of the Panchayat, accused failed to remove such obstruction. The accused were insistent of not doing so, for the reason that the alleged obstruction, in the form of stairs-case was not on public passage, but on their own land. On 1.12.2005, at 7.30 am, after convening meeting of the villagers, when Chaman Lal tried to remove the obstruction, accused threw stones at the villagers. One such stone, so pelted by accused Nand Lal hit Vijay Ram, as a result of which, he sustained injuries and was taken to the Civil Hospital, Ghumarwin, where he was attended to by Dr. Rakesh Dhiman (PW-10). Prakash Chand (PW-1) telephonically informed the police of the incident and entry (Ex.PW-12/A) was recorded by HC Rakesh Kumar (PW-16) in this regard. Shiv Chaudhary (PW-14) and Gian Chand (PW-17) conducted investigation, which revealed that the accused persons, with a guilty intent, pelted stones, with an object of committing murder, and also criminally intimidated Prakash Chand (PW-1) and other villagers present on the spot (witnesses examined in the court).

7. Finding condition of Vijay Ram to be serious, he was referred for further treatment to PGI, Chandigarh, where unfortunately he succumbed to the injuries. Since he remained unconscious, police could not record his statement. Postmortem of the dead body was conducted by Dr. Savita Mehta (PW-11), who issued report (Ex.PW-11/B). Upon receipt of report of the Chemical Examiner (Ex.PW-13/C) from the Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga, final opinion of the doctor was obtained, who issued report (Ex. PW-11/B). With the completion of investigation, which prima facie revealed complicity of the accused in the alleged crime, Challan was presented in the Court for trial.

8. Accused persons, who were charged, as aforesaid, did not plead guilty and claimed trial. Significantly, State did not assail the order of discharge of some of the accused persons in relation to certain offences.

9. In order to establish its case, prosecution examined as many as seventeen witnesses. Statements of the accused, under the provisions of Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, were also recorded, in which accused Nand Lal took the following defence:-

> "We had dismantled out house 12 years back. Thereafter, we started constructing a new house after three years. When the land was vacant, Chaman Lal, used to cross there from. Thereafter, we constructed pillars of the house slowly and put a lintel there over and constructed walls. Thereafter, followed the work of second storey. We had kept space between two pillars to facilitate transportation of articles of construction of the upper storey of the house. The wall in such gape had been constructed 4-5 days before the incident., again started that I am not aware when the wall was constructed as I had come to the house a day before the incident and was working in connection with 'Bee Keeping at Haryana. However, on the wall being given Chaman Lal gave an application to the Panchayat, at which we were asked to open the wall for the way but we refused. On the panchayat being convened, we refused to open the way. On 1.12.2005, while we were involved in daily routine, some people started coming in the house of Chaman Lal with Dandas etc. and started proclaiming that they shall eliminate use that day. At this, I went inside my house. When such persons started stoning our house, when I have a ring to the police at about 7.15-7.30AM. Thereafter, I took snaps of such persons with my camera from the roof of my house. While I was taking photographs, one stone hit me on the forehead at which I fell down. Thereafter, I do not know as to what happened and I regained consciousness in the hospital and at that time I saw my father Dayala Ram lying near me on the bed with bandage on his head. Thereafter, I was taken to police station at about 2.30-3.00 PM and was put behind the bars. My mother and wife were also put behind the bar at 9.00-9.30 PM by the police. I did not throw any stone. I do not know now as to what has happened to the wall. Had we been inside the wall we would have been killed by those present outside at the spot on that day."

10. While taking similar defence, remaining accused further elaborated that the villagers, who were armed with hammers and Darat, had criminally intimidated them. In order to probablize their defence, accused examined three witnesses.

11. Appreciating the testimony of the witnesses and the material placed on record, trial court found all the accused persons guilty and sentenced them, as aforesaid.

12. We have heard Mr. Ajay Kumar, Sr. Advocate, assisted by Mr. Dheeraj Vashisht, Advocate, learned counsel, on behalf of the appellants-accused, as also Mr. Ashok Chaudhary and Mr. V.S. Chauhan, learned Additional Advocates Geneal, and J.S. Guleria, learned Assistant Advocate General, on behalf of the State. We have also minutely examined the testimonies of the witnesses and other documentary evidence so placed on record by the prosecution. Having done so, we are of the considered view that no case for interference is made out at all. We find the findings returned by the trial Court to be based on complete, correct and proper appreciation of evidence (documentary and ocular) so placed on record. There is neither any illegality/infirmity nor any perversity with the same, resulting into miscarriage of justice. Prosecution has been able to prove its case to the extent so held by the trial Court, beyond reasonable doubt. The sentences imposed cannot be said to be disproportionately less.

13. Correctness of the decision is subject matter of these appeals, so filed by the convicts and the State.

14. Can it be said that defence of the accused stands probablized through the testimonies of their witnesses and cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses? Having minutely examined the same, we are of the opinion it to be not so.

15. The fact that dispute in relation to the obstruction caused on the passage was going on between the parties is not only admitted by the accused, but also established on record through the testimony of Prakash Chand (PW-1) and Chaman Lal (PW-3). The matter was also taken to the Panchayat. Accused Nand Lal admits that his brother, at the relevant time, was posted at the Police Station, Sadar. It be observed that in relation to the complaint so filed by this accused, none from the village came forward to support him and, as such, cancellation report was filed by the police. What happened thereafter is not evident from the record. Defence of this accused that he was hit with a stone, as a result of which, he fell down and became unconscious, does not inspire confidence. There is no material on record to substantiate such fact. One cannot lose sight of the fact that Nand Lal himself appeared as a defence witness. Medical record pertaining to treatment, which he undertook, was in his possession. Assuming that the police, despite his brother being in the police force and posted in the very same district, was not extending help, he could have himself produced such material in support of his case. But, then it was not so done. The photographs, so taken by him on the spot, cannot be said to have been proved in accordance with law. Krishan Lal (DW-1), who claims to be a Photographer, has categorically deposed that the photographs (Ex.P-1 to Ex.P-5) were not developed by him. Also, no date/time is reflected in these photographs. Similarly, factum of telephonic conversation between the accused party and the police cannot be said to have been established on record, despite the testimony of Ramesh Kumar (DW-2), who admits not to have produced the original record pertaining to the person in whose name the said telephone was installed. Thus, the defence cannot be said to have been probablized.

16. From the conjoint reading of testimonies of Parkash Chand, Banti Devi, Chaman Lal and Ram Kumar, it is apparent that the incident took place on 1.12.2005, sometime between 7-7.30 am. It appears that Vijay Ram was immediately rushed to Civil Health Centre, Ghumarwin, where he was attended to at 8.45 am by Dr. Rakesh Dhiman (PW-10), who found the patient to be unconscious. On physical examination, the doctor found the patient to have sustained the following injuries:-

1. There was swelling and abrasion on scalp extending from forehead to occipital region vertically placed and was 3.5 cm. wide.

2. A small abrasion on right hand. Dorsal portion with fresh blood present on the wound."

17. Despite application moved by the police, his statement could not be recorded as he was found not fit to do so. This doctor also admits to have examined Dayala Ram, who was also brought by the police for having suffered a lacerated would on the left side of the parietal region.

18. Dr. Savita Mehta, who conducted the postmortem of the deceased, has categorically opined that there was fracture of scull just above the right eye from frontal point going back to parietal bone linear (there in extra dural haemorrhage). According to the doctor, death took place on account of shock caused due to extra dural haemorrhage due to head injury. These experts as is so deposed by them in the court are of the considered view that injury, which was fatal, could be as a result of blow received with a stone (Ex.P-8).

19. Presence of the accused, the deceased and the complainant party (prosecution witnesses) at the time of occurrence of the incident cannot be disputed. This fact not only stands established on record, but also admitted by the accused.

20. We shall now deal with the testimonies of spot witnesses. Chaman Lal states that in relation to obstruction so caused by the accused party, he had moved an application with the Panchayat and other authorities. A compromise was arrived at and the accused agreed to dismantle the stairs so constructed by them. In fact, some portion of the stairs was removed, which was re-erected by the accused party. This was so done on 30.11.2005. On 01.12.2005, he called a meeting of the villagers, in relation to the same. He, Vijay Ram, Rakesh Chand, Sarwan Kumar, Bhrami Devi and 2-3 other villagers went to the house of accused, where he found all the accused persons standing on the lintel of the house, which was on the higher side. Vijay Ram asked the accused to come down for talks, which was opposed by them as they had wanted to decide the matter only from the place where they were standing. Thereafter, the accused started abusing and pelting stones on all the persons who were standing below. One stone thrown by accused Nand Lal hit Vijay Ram, as a result of which, he fell down. He was taken to the hospital. From the cross-examination, we find that the dispute, inter se the parties, was pending for more than 2- 2½ years. This witness, however, does not probablize the defence, so taken by the accused that either or the other villagers had assembled with hammers/sickles for the purpose of removing the obstruction.

21. We find testimony of this witness to have been corroborated by Ram Kumar (PW-4), who has also deposed that Nand Lal refused to come down for talks, but "proclaimed that the decision shall be made from the upper side".

22. Prakash Chand (PW-1) further corroborates the version of these two witnesses by stating that hearing noise coming from the courtyard of Chaman Lal, he went and saw the accused throwing stones at Chaman Lal and Vijay Ram from the second storey of their house. He also saw the stone so thrown by accused Nand Lal hit Vijay Ram. Also accused extended threats of killing the persons present on the spot. The witness does state that he had seen Chaman Lal with a hammer in his hand, but then he does not state that the hammer belonged to Chaman Lal. This witness does not state that Chaman Lal had started breaking the wall for removing the obstruction and Vijay Ram was hit by the debris.

23. We find that on the complaint so lodged by Prakash Chand (PW-1), Rakesh Kumar (PW-16) made entry in the police record and went to the Community Health Centre, Ghumarwin, where he moved an application (PW-10/B) for recording statement of Vijay Ram. Since the patient was certified not fit, needful could not be done. Thereafter, he recorded the statement of Prakash Chand under the provisions of Section 154 of Code of Criminal Procedure (Ex.PW-1/A), which was sent to the Police Station for registration of FIR. Shiv Chaudhary (PW-14), SHO of the Police Station reached on the spot and conducted the investigation. He collected some of the stones (Ex.P-8 to Ex.P-15) lying on the spot vide a memo (Ex.PW-1/B). The spot map (Ex.PE-5/A) was prepared and necessary investigation conducted.

24. "Criminal intimidation" is defined in Section 503 of the Indian Penal Code. To constitute an offence of Criminal intimidation, prosecution is to prove the following essential ingredients:-

1. Threatening a person with any injury.
   (i) to his person, reputation or property; or
   (ii) to the person or reputation of any one in whom that person is interested.
2. The threat must be with intent
   (i) to cause alarm to that person, or
   (ii) to cause that person to do any act which he is not legally bound to do as the means of avoiding the execution of such threat; or
   (iii) to cause that person to omit to do any act which that person is legally entitled to do as the means of avoiding the execution of such threat.

25. It is a settled principle of law that the threat must be to the person with an intent to cause harm. Threat has to be real and not artificial. It must have an effect on the complainant party. It has to be specific and not vague.

26. Now in the instant case, Parkash Chand (PW-1), Banti Devi (PW-2), Chaman Lal (PW-3) and Ram Kumar (PW-4) are clear and consistent in their version with regard to not only presence of the accused on the spot, but also having hurled abuses and proclaimed of settling the matter, causing injury to the complainant party. Their intent being their preparedness of pelting stones. All the accused persons were together and shared common intention of having intimidated the complainant and the other persons present on the spot. In this view of the matter, it cannot be said that the Court below erred in convicting the accused for having committed an offence, punishable under the provisions of Section 506 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code.

27. It has come on record that despite Chaman Lal having taken the matter before the Panchayat, there was no animosity or hostility inter se the parties and more specifically between Nand Lal and deceased Vijay Ram. In fact, Banti Devi widow of deceased Vijay Ram admits that relations between her family and that of the accused are cordial.

28. That deceased was hit with the stone, so pelted by Nand Lal, stands evidently established and proved through the testimony of Prakash Chand, Banti Devi, Chaman Lal and Ram Kumar. Stone (Ex.P-8), so recovered by the police, was shown to the doctors, who were of the view that injury No.1, found on the body of the deceased, could have been caused with the same. Intent of Nand Lal, in killing the deceased, cannot be inferred from the testimony of the prosecution witnesses. After all, all the accused persons were throwing stones on the persons, who had gathered on the spot. Nand Lal did not, however, has any animosity against Vijay Ram, who happened to be there only on the asking of Chaman Lal, who, in fact, had filed a complaint with the Panchayat. The main dispute appears to be with Chaman Lal and not Vijay Ram. None of the prosecution witnesses has deposed that Nand Lal, with an intent of committing murder, threw the stone at Chaman Lal. Intent, if at all, could have been for causing bodily injury to Chaman Lal and not Vijay Ram. But then this is not the prosecution case. As such, the stone, with which Vijay Ram was hit, cannot be said to have been thrown with an intent of murdering Vijay Ram. However, the fact that stone weighing 1 Kg., which is so deposed by the doctor, would have caused injury is only reflective of the knowledge that in all probability and likelihood, death of the recipient could have been caused. The Court is aware of the fact that stone was pelted from a height with Nand Lal being in an advantageous position, as he was standing on the lintel of his house, which is two storeys above the courtyard of Chaman Lal.

29. From the record, it cannot be said that there was premeditation of mind in the commission of crime. Also, motive or animosity to commit the same is absent. Provocation, if at all, on the part of the accused, was one day prior to the occurrence of the incident. It stands established, through the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses that it was Chaman Lal, who had taken the villagers to the spot for talks. It is not the other way round. To us, it appears to be a case of sudden quarrel and in the heat of moment, the accused started pelting stones. The assailants cannot be said to have taken undue advantage or acted in a premeditated manner.

30. It is a settled principle of law that the cause of quarrel or the wounds caused is not a factor, on the basis of which accused can be held guilty or let off for having committed an offence, punishable under Section 302 of the Indian Penal Code. (K. Ravi Kumar v. State of Karnataka, (2015) 2 SCC 638; and Murllidhar Shivram Patekar and another v. State of Maharashtra, (2015) 1 SCC 694).

31. In Balu s/o Onkar Pund and others v. State of Maharashtra, (2015) 3 SCC 409, the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India, has reiterated the principles of law laid down by it in Virsa Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 1958 SC 465 and other decisions, as under:

“16 The learned Judge Vivian Bose in his distinctive style of writing and speaking for the Court succinctly stated as under: (Virsa Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 1958 SC 465)

"11. In considering whether the intention was to inflict the injury found to have been inflicted, the enquiry necessarily proceeds on broad lines as, for example, whether there was an intention to strike at a vital or a dangerous spot, and whether with sufficient force to cause the kind of injury found to have been inflicted. It is, of course, not necessary to enquire into every last detail as, for instance, whether the prisoner intended to have the bowels fall out, or whether he intended to penetrate the liver or the kidneys or the heart. Otherwise, a man who has no knowledge of anatomy could never be convicted, for, if he does not know that there is a heart or a kidney or bowels, he cannot be said to have intended to injure them. Of course, that is not the kind of enquiry. It is broad-based and simple and based on commonsense: the kind of enquiry that "twelve good men and true" could readily appreciate and understand.

12. To put it shortly, the prosecution must prove the following facts before it can bring a case under Section 300 "thirdly":

First, it must establish, quite objectively, that a bodily injury is present.

Secondly, the nature of the injury must be proved. These are purely objective investigations.

Thirdly, it must be proved that there was an intention to inflict that particular bodily injury, that is to say, that it was not accidental or unintentional, or that some other kind of injury was intended.

Once these three elements are proved to be present, the enquiry proceeds further, and Fourthly, it must be proved that the injury of the type just described made up of the three elements set out above is sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. This part of the enquiry is purely objective and inferential and has nothing to do with the intention of the offender.

13. Once these four elements are established by the prosecution (and, of course, the burden is on the prosecution throughout) the offence is murder under Section 300 "thirdly". It does not matter that there was no intention to cause death. It does not matter that there was no intention even to cause an injury of a kind that is sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature (not that there is any real distinction between the two).

It does not even matter that there is no knowledge that an act of that kind will be likely to cause death. Once the intention to cause the bodily injury actually found to be present is proved, the rest of the enquiry is purely objective and the only question is whether, as a matter of purely objective inference, the injury is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. No one has a licence to run around inflicting injuries that are sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature and claim that they are not guilty of murder. If they inflict injuries of that kind, they must face the consequences; and they can only escape if it can be shown, or reasonably deduced, that the injury was accidental or otherwise unintentional."

17 Relying on the aforesaid principle of law, recently this Court in Pulicherla Nagaraju @ Nagaraja Reddy Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, 2006 11 SCC 444, again examined the issue as to what relevant factors should be kept in consideration while deciding the question as to whether case in hand falls under Section 302 or 304 Part-I or Part-II. Justice Raveendran speaking for the Court held in para 29 as under:

> "29. Therefore, the court should proceed to decide the pivotal question of intention, with care and caution, as that will decide whether the case falls under Section 302 or 304 Part I or 304 Part II. Many petty or insignificant matters - plucking of a fruit, straying of cattle, quarrel of children, utterance of a rude word or even an objectionable glance, may lead to altercations and group clashes culminating in deaths. Usual motives like revenge, greed, jealousy or suspicion may be totally absent in such cases. There may be no intention. There may be no premeditation. In fact, there may not even be criminality. At the other end of the spectrum, there may be cases of murder where the accused attempts to avoid the penalty for murder by attempting to put forth a case that there was no intention to cause death. It is for the courts to ensure that the cases of murder punishable under Section 302, are not [pic] converted into offences punishable under Section 304 Part I/II, or cases of culpable homicide not amounting to murder, are treated as murder punishable under Section 302. The intention to cause death can be gathered generally from a combination of a few or several of the following, among other, circumstances: (i) nature of the weapon used; (ii) whether the weapon was carried by the accused or was picked up from the spot; (iii) whether the blow is aimed at a vital part of the body; (iv) the amount of force employed in causing injury; (v) whether the act was in the course of sudden quarrel or sudden fight or free for all fight; (vi) whether the incident occurs by chance or whether there was any premeditation; (vii) whether there was any prior enmity or whether the deceased was a stranger; (viii) whether there was any grave and sudden provocation, and if so, the cause for such provocation; (ix) whether it was in the heat of passion; (x) whether the person inflicting the injury has taken undue advantage or has acted in a cruel and unusual manner; (xi) whether the accused dealt a single blow or several blows. The above list of circumstances is, of course, not exhaustive and there may be several other special circumstances with reference to individual cases which may throw light on the question of intention. Be that as it may."”

32. Thus, in our considered view, prosecution has been able to establish guilt of the accused, beyond reasonable doubt, to the extent so held by the trial Court, by leading clear, cogent, convincing and reliable piece of evidence, not only ocular but also corroborative in the shape of recovery of weapon of offence.

33. For all the aforesaid reasons, we find no reason to interfere with the judgment passed by the trial Court. The Court has fully appreciated the evidence placed on record by the parties. There is no illegality, irregularity, perversity in correct and/or in complete appreciation of the material so placed on record by the parties. Hence, the appeal is dismissed.

34. From the material placed on record, it stands established by the prosecution witnesses that the accused are guilty of having committed the offences, they stood convicted for. There is sufficient, convincing, cogent and reliable evidence on record to this effect. The circumstances stand conclusively proved by unbroken chain of unimpeachable testimony of the prosecution witnesses. The guilt of the accused stands proved beyond reasonable doubt to the hilt. The chain of events stand conclusively established and lead only to one conclusion, i.e. guilt of the accused. Circumstances when cumulatively considered fully establish completion of chain of events, indicating the guilt of the accused and no other hypothesis other than the same. It cannot be said that accused is innocent or not guilty or that he has been falsely implicated or that his defence is probable or that the evidence led by the prosecution is inconsistent, unreliable, untrustworthy and unbelievable. It cannot be said that the version narrated by the witnesses in Court is in a parrot-like manner and hence is to be disbelieved.

35. Thus, Criminal Appeal No.331 of 2009, so filed by the accused-convicts is dismissed.

36. Findings of conviction can also not be assailed on the ground so urged by the State. Noticeably, State never challenged the initial order of discharge of some of the convicts.

37. Now coming to the appeal filed by the State for enhancement of sentence, we are of the considered view that, in the facts and circumstances of the present case, sentences imposed by the trial Court are adequate and no enhancement is required. Hence, Criminal Appeal No.453 of 2009 is also dismissed. Both the appeals stand disposed of, so also pending application, if any.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Roop Chand …Petitioner.
Versus
Union of India & others …Respondents.

CWP No. 278 of 2010-A
Reserved on: 28.04.2015
Decided on: 05.05.2015

Gramin Dak Sevak (Conduct and Employment) Rules, 2001- Rule 10- Petitioner was involved in indiscipline and forgery- Inquiry was conducted against him- Inquiry Officer found that all the charges were proved – Disciplinary Authority imposed the penalty of the removal – record established that petitioner had forged the signatures of the Head of Village on many occasions- he was involved in indiscipline and had undermined the authorities and had disgraced them - a person who indulges in illegal activities and commits fraudulent or frivolous acts by deceitful means, is to be dealt with iron hands – Writ Court cannot re-appreciate the evidence- considering the gravity of the accusations, the punishment cannot be said to be disproportionate or shocking - Writ petition dismissed. (Para-11 to 38)

Cases referred:
R. Vishwanatha Pillai versus State of Kerala and others, AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1469
U.P. State Road Transport Corporation versus Suresh Chand Sharma with Suresh Chand Sharma versus State of U.P. and Anr., 2010 AIR SCW 3859
U.P. State Road Transport Corporation, Dehradun versus Suresh Pal, 2006 AIR SCW 4903
S.R. Tewari versus Union of India & Anr., with S.R. Tewari versus R.K. Singh & Anr., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3338
G.M. (Operation) S.B.I. & Anr. versus R. Periyasamy, 2015 AIR SCW 455
State Bank of India & Ors. versus Ramesh Dinkar Punde, 2006 AIR SCW 5457
Nirmala J. Jhala versus State of Gujarat and another, 2013 AIR SCW 1800
Union of India and others versus P. Gunasekaran, 2014 AIR SCW 6657
State of Punjab and others versus Ram Singh Ex-Constable, (1992) 4 SCC 54
The Management of Tournamulla Estate versus Workmen, (1973) 2 SCC 502
Lalla Ram versus D.C.M. Chemical Works Ltd. and another, (1978) 3 SCC 1
Union of India and others versus Narain Singh, (2002) 5 Supreme Court Cases 11
M.P. Electricity Board versus Jagdish Chandra Sharma, (2005) 3 Supreme Court Cases 401

For the petitioner: Mr. B.M. Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Ashok Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice

Challenge in this writ petition is to the judgment and order, dated 13.08.2009, made by the Central Administrative Tribunal, Chandigarh Bench (Circuit at Shimla) (for short "the CAT"), whereby O.A. No. 682/HP/2007, titled as Shri Roop Chand versus Union of India and others, filed by the writ petitioner came to be dismissed (for short "the impugned judgment").

2. Writ petitioner was employee of respondents-department, was found involved in indiscipline and forgery, thus, has committed a misconduct. The respondents, after noticing the conduct, actions and the fact of forgery, decided to conduct departmental inquiry against him. Preliminary inquiry was conducted by the appointing authority and memorandum of charge sheet containing three article of charges was issued to him on 14.10.2005 (Annexure P-1), details of which have been given in the opening para of the impugned judgment.

3. Writ petitioner denied the charges, Inquiry Officer & Presenting Officer were appointed on 25.10.2005, and inquiry under Rule 10 of the Gramin Dak Sevak (Conduct and Employment) Rules, 2001 (for short "the Rules") was conducted. The Inquiry Officer submitted his report on 30.10.2006, who, after concluding the inquiry, came to the conclusion that all the charges were proved against the writ petitioner. Writ petitioner was asked to file representation vide letter, dated 24.11.2006, who filed representation on 04.12.2006. Thereafter, the disciplinary authority, vide order, dated 03.01.2007 (Annexure P-3) awarded the penalty of removal from service upon the writ petitioner.

4. Writ petitioner, feeling dissatisfied with the said order of the disciplinary authority, i.e. order of removal from service, filed an appeal before the Appellate Authority, i.e. Superintendent of Post Offices, Rampur Bushahr Division, Rampur, on 22.01.2007 (Annexure P-4), was dismissed by the said authority vide order, dated 13.03.2007 (Annexure P-5).

5. Writ petitioner also invoked the jurisdiction of the revisional authority by filing revision petition before the Director Postal Services, HP Circle, Shimla on 16.05.2007 (Annexure P-6), which too was dismissed vide order, dated 10.09.2007 (Annexure P-7). All the said orders are the subject matter of the writ petition.

6. Writ petitioner has assailed all the said orders on the grounds taken in the writ petition, particularly, in paras 7 (a) to 7 (m) of the writ petition.

7. The respondents have filed reply and resisted the writ petition on the grounds taken in the memo of objections.

8. Learned counsel for the writ petitioner argued that the Inquiry Officer came to the conclusion that the charges are partly brought home to the writ petitioner, which is not correct as per the findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer. He has also questioned the proportionality of the punishment.

9. Learned Assistant Solicitor General of India argued that the writ petitioner has committed a grave misconduct, i.e. forgery, indiscipline, arrogance and was also giving names to his superiors as 'Shakuni, Duryodhan and Dhritrashtra', thus, was disrespectful towards his superiors.

10. Learned counsel for the writ petitioner was asked to show as to how the writ petitioner was not involved in forgery as it is established on record that on so many occasions, he had forged the signatures of the Head of Village, was not able to demolish the said evidence and the findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer, Disciplinary Authority, Appellate Authority and the Revisional Authority. Virtually, the learned counsel for the writ petitioner was not able to satisfy the Court that the writ petitioner was not involved in forgery.

11. Learned counsel for the writ petitioner was also asked to show as to whether the Writ Court can appreciate the evidence and whether the writ petitioner has carved out a case for appreciating the evidence, which already stands appreciated by the authorities supra. He tried to argue, but was not able to, prima facie, carve out a case.

12. It is not a case of perversity or a case of mis-appreciation or misreading of the evidence.

13. While going through the record, it appears that the writ petitioner was involved in indiscipline and has acted in such a way, which amounts to undermining the authorities and disgrace them, to whom he was subordinate. If an employee is found committing forgery, to us, only on this count, the employee can be dismissed from service, as it is a grave misconduct.

14. The Apex Court in a case titled as R. Vishwanatha Pillai versus State of Kerala and others, reported in AIR 2004 Supreme Court 1469, held that if an employee has acted unfairly and has managed the documents, which are fictitious, by fraud or has committed forgery, is not entitled to any relief and cannot be even heard.

15. It is beaten law of land that a person, who claims equity, must do equity. A person, who is not fair, cannot claim equity. It is apt to reproduce para 19 of the judgment in R. Vishwanatha Pillai's case (supra) herein:

> "19. .... A person who seeks equity must come with clean hands. He, who comes to the Court with false claims, cannot plead equity nor the Court would be justified to exercise equity jurisdiction in his favour. A person who seeks equity must act in a fair and equitable manner. Equity jurisdiction cannot be exercised in the case of a person who got the appointment on the basis of false caste certificate by playing a fraud. No sympathy and equitable consideration can come to his rescue. We are of the view that equity or compassion cannot be allowed to bend the arms of law in a case where an individual acquired a status by practising fraud.
>
> (Emphasis added)"

16. In another case titled as U.P. State Road Transport Corporation versus Suresh Chand Sharma with Suresh Chand Sharma versus State of U.P. and Anr., reported in 2010 AIR SCW 3859, fare was recovered from the passengers but they were not issued tickets by the bus conductor, charge was proved, he was dismissed from service. The Apex Court, while upholding the punishment of dismissal from service, held that misappropriating the public money is a grave misconduct. It is apt to reproduce para 20 of the judgment herein:

> "20. We do not find any force in the submissions made by Dr. J.N. Dubey, learned Senior counsel for the employee that for embezzlement of such a petty amount, punishment of dismissal could not be justified for the reason that it is not the amount embezzled by a delinquent employee but the mens rea to mis-appropriate the public money."

17. It is a duty of the State/Government/Department to weed out the dead wood. A person who indulges in illegal activities and commits fraudulent or frivolous acts by deceitful means, is to be dealt with iron hands and is to be weeded out.

18. The Apex Court in a case titled as U.P. State Road Transport Corporation, Dehradun versus Suresh Pal, reported in 2006 AIR SCW 4903, held that misconduct should be dealt with iron hands and not leniently. It is apt to reproduce paras 7 to 9 of the judgment herein:

> "7. Short question for our consideration in the present case is whether the punishment which has been modified by the learned Single Judge is justified or not? The learned Single Judge found that the punishment awarded in the present case is disproportionate to the guilt of the delinquent. So far as, the guilt of the petitioner is concerned, in the domestic enquiry it has been found that the petitioner is guilty of not issuing tickets to the twenty passengers and the same finding of the domestic enquiry has been upheld by the Labour Court & High Court. The petitioner was a conductor and holding the position of trust. If incumbent like the petitioner starts misappropriating the money by not issuing a ticket and pocketing the money thereby causing loss to the Corporation then this is a serious misconduct. It is unfortunate that the petitioner was appointed in 1988 and in the first year of service he started indulging in mal practice then what can be expected from him in the future. If this is the state of affair in the first year of service and if such persons are allowed to let off to the light punishment then this will be a wrong signal to the other persons similarly situated. Therefore, in such cases the incumbent should be weeded out as fast as possible and same has been upheld by the Labour Court. We are firmly of the view that such instances should not be dealt with lightly so as to pollute the atmosphere in the Corporation and other co-workers.

8. Normally, courts do not substitute the punishment unless they are shockingly disproportionate and if the punishment is interfered or substituted lightly in the punishment in exercise of their extra-ordinary jurisdiction then it will amount to abuse of the process of court. If such kind of misconduct is dealt with lightly and courts start substituting the lighter punishment in exercising the jurisdiction under Art. 226 of the Constitution then it will give a wrong signal in the Society. All the State Road Transport Corporations in the country have gone in red because of the misconduct of such kind of incumbents, therefore, it is the time that misconduct should be dealt with iron hands and not leniently.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant invited our attention to a decision of this Court in the case of Regional Manager, U.P. SRTC, Etawah & Ors. V/s. Hoti Lal & Anr., reported in [2003 (3) SCC 605] wherein, this Court has very categorically held that a mere statement that it is disproportionate would not suffice to substitute a lighter punishment. This Court held as under :

> "The court or tribunal while dealing with the quantum of punishment has to record reasons as to why it is felt that the punishment was not commensurate with the proved charges. The scope for interference is very limited and restricted to exceptional cases. In the impugned order of the High Court no reasons whatsoever have been indicated as to why the punishment was considered disproportionate. Failure to give reasons amounts to denial of justice. A mere statement that it is disproportionate would not suffice. It is not only the amount involved but the mental setup, the type of duty performed and similar relevant circumstances which go into the decision-making process while considering whether the punishment is proportionate or disproportionate. If the charged employee holds a position of trust where honesty and integrity are inbuilt requirements of functioning, it would not be proper to deal with the matter leniently. Misconduct in such cases has to be dealt with iron hands. Where the person deals with public money or is engaged in financial transactions or acts in a fiduciary capacity, the highest degree of integrity and trustworthiness is a must and unexceptionable. Judged in that background, conclusions of the Division Bench of the High Court are not proper."

19. In S.R. Tewari versus Union of India & Anr., with S.R. Tewari versus R.K. Singh & Anr., reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3338, the Apex Court held that judicial review in the cases of disciplinary proceedings is very limited and the Courts cannot substitute its findings for the findings recorded by the disciplinary authority. It is apt to reproduce para 22 of the judgment herein:

"22. The role of the court in the matter of departmental proceedings is very limited and the court cannot substitute its own views or findings by replacing the findings arrived at by the authority on detailed appreciation of the evidence on record. In the matter of imposition of sentence, the scope for interference by the court is very limited and restricted to exceptional cases. The punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority or the appellate authority unless shocking to the conscience of the court, cannot be subjected to judicial review. The court has to record reasons as to why the punishment is disproportionate. Failure to give reasons amounts to denial of justice. The mere statement that it is disproportionate would not suffice. (Vide: Union of India & Ors. v. Bodupalli Gopalaswami, (2011) 13 SCC 553 : (2011 AIR SCW 5331) and Sanjay Kumar Singh v. Union of India & Ors., AIR 2012 SC 1783 : (2012 AIR SCW 2361)."

20. It is also apt to reproduce para 9 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in the case titled as G.M. (Operation) S.B.I. & Anr. versus R. Periyasamy, reported in 2015 AIR SCW 455, herein:

"9. It is not really necessary to deal with the judgment of the learned Single Judge since that has merged with the judgment of the Division Bench. However, some observations are necessary. The learned Single Judge committed an error in approaching the issue by asking whether the findings have been arrived on acceptable evidence or not and coming to the conclusion that there was no acceptable evidence, and that in any case the evidence was not sufficient. In doing so, the learned Single Judge lost sight of the fact that the permissible enquiry was whether there is no evidence on which the enquiry officer could have arrived at the findings or whether there was any perversity in the findings. Whether the evidence was acceptable or not, was a wrong question, unless it raised a question of admissibility. Also, the learned Single Judge was not entitled to go into the question of the adequacy of evidence and come to the conclusion that the evidence was not sufficient to hold the respondent guilty."

21. The Apex Court in a case titled as State Bank of India & Ors. versus Ramesh Dinkar Punde, reported in 2006 AIR SCW 5457, after discussing the facts in paras 10 to 13, which are similar to the case in hand, has taken note of the principles and the ratio laid down in a series of judgments, reproduced in paras 14 to 19. It is apt to reproduce para 21 of the judgment herein:

> "21. Confronted with the facts and the position of law, learned counsel for the respondent submitted that leniency may be shown to the respondent having regard to long years of service rendered by the respondent to the Bank. We are unable to countenance with such submission. As already said, the respondent being a bank officer holds a position of trust where honesty and integrity are inbuilt requirements of functioning and it would not be proper to deal with the matter leniently. The respondent was a Manager of the Bank and it needs to be emphasised that in the banking business absolute devotion, diligence, integrity and honesty needs to be preserved by every bank employee and in particular the bank officer so that the confidence of the public/depositors is not impaired. It is for this reason that when a bank officer commits misconduct, as in the present case, for his personal ends and against the interest of the bank and the depositors, he must be dealt with iron hands and he does not deserve to be dealt with leniently."

22. It is established principle of law that High Courts or other Courts cannot act as Appellate Court while dealing with the writ petitions or appeals, outcome of disciplinary proceedings, and cannot substitute their own views unless the view expressed by the disciplinary authority shocks the conscience or is not supported by record.

23. It is apt to reproduce para 6 (III) of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in a case titled as Nirmala J. Jhala versus State of Gujarat and another, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 1800, herein:

> "6. ....
>
> III. Scope of Judicial Review :
>
> (i) It is settled legal proposition that judicial review is not akin to adjudication on merit by re-appreciating the evidence as an Appellate Authority. The only consideration the Court/Tribunal has in its judicial review, is to consider whether the conclusion is based on evidence on record and supports the finding or whether the conclusion is based on no evidence. The adequacy or reliability of the evidence is not a matter which can be permitted to be canvassed before the Court in writ proceedings. (Vide: State of T.N. & Anr v. S. Subramaniam, AIR 1996 SC 1232; R.S. Saini v. State of Punjab, (1999) 8 SCC 90; and Government of Andhra Pradesh & Ors. v. Mohd. Nasrullah Khan, AIR 2006 SC 1214).
>
> (ii) In Zora Singh v. J.M. Tandon & Ors., AIR 1971 SC 1537, this Court while dealing with the issue of scope of judicial review, held as under:
>
> "The principle that if some of the reasons relied on by a Tribunal for its conclusion turn out to be extraneous or otherwise unsustainable, its decision would be vitiated, applies to cases in which the conclusion is arrived at not on assessment of objective facts or evidence, but on subjective satisfaction. The reason is that whereas in cases where the decision is based on subjective satisfaction if some of the reasons turn out to be irrelevant or invalid, it would be impossible for a superior Court to find out which of the reasons, relevant or irrelevant, valid or invalid, had brought about such satisfaction. But in a case where the conclusion is based on objective facts and evidence, such a difficulty would not arise. If it is found that there was legal evidence before the Tribunal, even if some of it was irrelevant, a superior Court would not interfere if the finding can be sustained on the rest of the evidence. The reason is that in a writ petition for certiorari the superior Court does not sit in appeal, but exercises only supervisory jurisdiction, and therefore, does not enter into the question of sufficiency of evidence." (Emphasis added)

(iii) The decisions referred to hereinabove highlights clearly, the parameter of the Court's power of judicial review of administrative action or decision. An order can be set-aside if it is based on extraneous grounds, or when there are no grounds at all for passing it or when the grounds are such that, no one can reasonably arrive at the opinion. The Court does not sit as a Court of Appeal but, it merely reviews the manner in which the decision was made. The Court will not normally exercise its power of judicial review unless it is found that formation of belief by the statutory authority suffers from malafides, dishonest/corrupt practice. In other words, the authority must act in good faith. Neither the question as to whether there was sufficient evidence before the authority can be raised/examined, nor the question of re-appreciating the evidence to examine the correctness of the order under challenge. If there are sufficient grounds for passing an order, then even if one of them is found to be correct, and on its basis the order impugned can be passed, there is no occasion for the Court to interfere. The jurisdiction is circumscribed and confined to correct errors of law or procedural error, if any, resulting in manifest miscarriage of justice or violation of principles of natural justice. This apart, even when some defect is found in the decision-making process, the Court must exercise its discretionary power with great caution keeping in mind the larger public interest and only when it comes to the conclusion that overwhelming public interest requires interference, the Court should intervene."

24. The Apex Court in a recent judgment in the case titled as Union of India and others versus P. Gunasekaran, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 6657, has held that in disciplinary proceedings, the High Court is not and cannot act as a second court of first appeal, the High Court, in exercise of its powers under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India, shall not venture into re- appreciation of the evidence and laid down certain tests as to when findings of the disciplinary authority can be interfered by the High Court and what is the scope of the High Court. It is apt to reproduce para 13 of the judgment herein:

"13. Despite the well-settled position, it is painfully disturbing to note that the High Court has acted as an appellate authority in the disciplinary proceedings, re-appreciating even the evidence before the enquiry officer. The finding on Charge no. I was accepted by the disciplinary authority and was also endorsed by the Central Administrative Tribunal. In disciplinary proceedings, the High Court is not and cannot act as a second court of first appeal. The High Court, in exercise of its powers under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India, shall not venture into re- appreciation of the evidence. The High Court can only see whether:

a. the enquiry is held by a competent authority;

b. the enquiry is held according to the procedure prescribed in that behalf;

c. there is violation of the principles of natural justice in conducting the proceedings;

d. the authorities have disabled themselves from reaching a fair conclusion by some considerations extraneous to the evidence and merits of the case;

e. the authorities have allowed themselves to be influenced by irrelevant or extraneous considerations;

f. the conclusion, on the very face of it, is so wholly arbitrary and capricious that no reasonable person could ever have arrived at such conclusion;

g. the disciplinary authority had erroneously failed to admit the admissible and material evidence;

h. the disciplinary authority had erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which influenced the finding;

i. the finding of fact is based on no evidence.

Under Article 226/227 of the Constitution of India, the High Court shall not:

(i). re-appreciate the evidence;

(ii). interfere with the conclusions in the enquiry, in case the same has been conducted in accordance with law;

(iii). go into the adequacy of the evidence;

(iv). go into the reliability of the evidence;

(v). interfere, if there be some legal evidence on which findings can be based.

(vi). correct the error of fact however grave it may appear to be;

(vii). go into the proportionality of punishment unless it shocks its conscience."

25. The Apex Court in para 24 of the judgment rendered in S.R. Tweari's case (supra) held that if there is some evidence on record which is acceptable and which could be relied upon, the conclusions would not be treated as perverse and the findings would not be interfered with. It is apt to reproduce para 24 of the judgment herein:

> "24. The findings of fact recorded by a court can be held to be perverse if the findings have been arrived at by ignoring or excluding relevant material or by taking into consideration irrelevant/inadmissible material. The finding may also be said to be perverse if it is "against the weight of evidence", or if the finding so outrageously defies logic as to suffer from the vice of irrationality. If a decision is arrived at on the basis of no evidence or thoroughly unreliable evidence and no reasonable person would act upon it, the order would be perverse. But if there is some evidence on record which is acceptable and which could be relied upon, the conclusions would not be treated as perverse and the findings would not be interfered with. (Vide: Rajinder Kumar Kindra v. Delhi Administration, AIR 1984 SC 1805; Kuldeep Singh v. Commissioner of Police & Ors., AIR 1999 SC 677: (1999 AIR SCW 129); Gamini Bala Koteswara Rao & Ors. v. State of Andhra Pradesh thr. Secretary, AIR 2010 SC 589 : (2009 AIR SCW 7158) and Babu v. State of Kerala, (2010) 9 SCC 189 : (2010 AIR SCW 5105).
>
> Hence, where there is evidence of malpractice, gross irregularity or illegality, interference is permissible."

26. In order to claim perversity, writ petitioner has to establish how it is perverse, which the writ petitioner, has miserably failed to do so, thus, cannot raise question of perversity.

27. The standard of proof in disciplinary inquiry and in criminal proceedings is on different footing. In disciplinary inquiry, the charge is to be proved by preponderance of probabilities and not proved beyond reasonable doubt, which is sine qua non in a criminal trial.

28. It is apt to reproduce para 10 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in R. Periyasamy's case (supra) herein:

> "10. It is interesting to note that the learned Single Judge went to the extent of observing that the concept of preponderance of probabilities is alien to domestic enquiries. On the contrary, it is well known that the standard of proof that must be employed in domestic enquiries is in fact that of the preponderance of probabilities. In Union of India Vs. Sardar Bahadur, 1972 4 SCC 618], this Court held that a disciplinary proceeding is not a criminal trial and thus, the standard of proof required is that of preponderance of probabilities and not proof beyond reasonable doubt. This view was upheld by this Court in State Bank of India & ors. Vs. Ramesh Dinkar Punde, 2006 7 SCC 212]. More recently, in State Bank of India Vs. Narendra Kumar Pandey, 2013 2 SCC 740], this Court observed that a disciplinary authority is expected to prove the charges leveled against a bank-officer on the preponderance of probabilities and not on proof beyond reasonable doubt. Further, in Union Bank of India Vs. Vishwa Mohan, 1998 4 SCC 310], this Court was confronted with a case which was similar to the present one. The respondent therein was also a bank employee, who was unable to demonstrate to the Court as to how prejudice had been caused to him due to non-supply of the inquiry authorities report/findings in his case. This Court held that in the banking business absolute devotion, diligence, integrity and honesty needs to be preserved by every bank employee and in particular the bank officer. If this were not to be observed, the Court held that the confidence of the public/depositors would be impaired. Thus in that case the Court set-aside the order of the High Court and upheld the dismissal of the bank employee, rejecting the ground that any prejudice had been caused to him on account of non-furnishing of the inquiry report/findings to him."

29. Learned counsel for the writ petitioner seriously argued that the punishment is not proportionate. We are of the considered view that in the given circumstances of the case, the punishment cannot be said to be disproportionate because the department has to come down heavily and also to show door to an employee, who is involved in indiscipline, mudslinging and forgery, which is a grave misconduct.

30. The punishment can be questioned on proportionality if it shocks the conscience of the Court, as held by the Apex Court in its judgment rendered in S.R. Tewari's case (supra), which is lacking in the present case.

31. It would also be profitable to reproduce paras 20 and 24 of the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in P. Gunasekaran's case (supra) herein:

"20. The impugned conduct of the respondent working as Deputy Office Superintendent in a sensitive department of Central Excise, according to the disciplinary authority, reflected lack of integrity warranting discontinuance in service. That view has been endorsed by the Central Administrative Tribunal also. Thereafter, it is not open to the High Court to go into the proportionality of punishment or substitute the same with a lesser or different punishment. These aspects have been discussed at quite length by this Court in several decisions including B.C. Chaturvedi v. Union of India and others, 1995 6 SCC 749, Union of India and another v. G. Ganayutham, (1997) 7 SCC 463, Om Kumar and others v. Union of India, (2001) 2 SCC 386, Coimbatore District Central Cooperative Bank v. Coimbatore District Central Cooperative Bank Employees Association and another, (2007) 4 SCC 669, Chairman-cum- Managing Director, Coal India Limited and another v. Mukul Kumar Choudhuri and others, (2009) 15 SCC 620 and the recent one in Chennai Metropolitan Water Supply (AIR 2014 SC 1141) (supra).

21. ....

22. ....

23. ....

24. The Central Administrative Tribunal, in the order dated 01.02.2001 in O.A. No. 521 of 2000, after elaborately discussing the factual as well as the legal position, has come to the conclusion that the punishment of compulsory retirement is not outrageous or shocking to its conscience, it was not open to the High Court to interfere with the disciplinary proceedings from stage one and direct reinstatement of the respondent with backwages."

32. One of the charges against the writ petitioner is that he was calling the officers by nick names and was also involved in mudslinging, is indiscipline and that stands proved during the departmental inquiry, is itself a misconduct.

33. The Apex Court in a case titled as State of Punjab and others versus Ram Singh Ex-Constable, reported in (1992) 4 Supreme Court Cases 54, defined the word 'misconduct' in para 5 of the judgment. It is apt to reproduce para 6 of the judgment herein:

"6. Thus it could be seen that the word 'misconduct' though not capable of precise definition, its reflection receive its connotation from the context, the delinquency in its performance and its effect on the discipline and the nature of the duty. It may involve moral turpitude, it must be improper or wrong behaviour; unlawful behaviour, wilful in character; forbidden act, a transgression of established and definite rule of action or code of conduct but not mere error of judgment, carelessness or negligence in performance of the duty; the act complained of bears forbidden quality or character. Its ambit has to be construed with reference to the subject-matter and the context wherein the term occurs, regard being had to the scope of the statute and the public purpose it seeks to serve. The police service is a disciplined service and it requires to maintain strict discipline. Laxity in this behalf erodes discipline in the service causing serious effect in the maintenance of law and order."

34. The Apex Court in the cases titled as The Management of Tournamulla Estate versus Workmen, reported in (1973) 2 Supreme Court Cases 502, and Lalla Ram versus D.C.M. Chemical Works Ltd. and another, reported in (1978) 3 Supreme Court Cases 1, held that misbehave towards superiors is misconduct, which justifies dismissal. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 9 of the judgment reported in Lalla Ram's case (supra) herein:

"9. Though it is true that private quarrel between an employee and a stranger with which the employer is not concerned as in Agnani's case (supra) (1963-1 Lab LJ 684) (SC) falls outside the categories of misconduct, it cannot be reasonably disputed that acts which are subversive of discipline amongst employees or misconduct or misbehaviour by an employee which is directed against another employee of the concern may in certain circumstances constitute misconduct so as to form the basis of an order of dismissal or discharge. It cannot also be disputed that the extent of jurisdiction exercisable by an approving authority under S. 33 (2) (b) of the Act is very limited as has been clearly and succinctly pointed out by this Court in a number of decisions........."

35. The Apex Court in the case titled as Union of India and others versus Narain Singh, reported in (2002) 5 Supreme Court Cases 11, held that disobeying the lawful commands, directions or orders of the superior officer is misconduct.

36. The Apex Court in a case titled as M.P. Electricity Board versus Jagdish Chandra Sharma, reported in (2005) 3 Supreme Court Cases 401, held that social order for the promotion of welfare of the State and role of discipline in general and especially at the workplace is sine qua non and its cardinality for the prosperity of the organization as well as of the employees is must and if an employee commits breach, is a misconduct and is to be dismissed from service.

37. Applying the test to the instant case, order of removal from service is reasoned one and cannot be said to be harsh or disproportionate.

38. While going through the findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer, Disciplinary Authority, Appellate Authority and the Revisional Authority read with the impugned judgment, it is crystal clear that the writ petitioner has not made out a case for any interference and has failed on all counts.

39. Having said so, the impugned judgment is upheld and the writ petition is dismissed alongwith all pending applications.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE P.S.RANA, J.

Sandeep Singh son of Jagdish Singh. .....Applicant.
Versus:
State of Himachal Pradesh. ....Non- applicant.

Cr.MP(M) No. 373 of 2015.
Order reserved on: 1.5.2015.
Date of Order: May 5,2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- Petitioner was arrested for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 457 and 380 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- investigation is complete and challan has been filed in the Court- criminal cases would be disposed of in course of the time – interests of the general public or State would not be affected by releasing the petitioner on bail, therefore, petitioner ordered to be release on bail. (Para-6 to 8)

Cases referred:

Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration), AIR 1978 SC 179
The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh AIR 1962 SC 253
Sanjay Chandra Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation 2012 Cri.L.J 702

For the applicant: Mr. Naresh Verma, Advocate.
For non-applicant . Mr. M.L.Chauhan, Addl. Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S.Rana, Judge.

Present application is filed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 for grant of bail in connection with case FIR No.180 of 2014 dated 27.9.2014 registered under Sections 457 and 380 of the Indian Penal Code at Police Station Jawalamukhi District Kangra Himachal Pradesh.

2. It is pleaded that investigation of the present case is completed and recovery has been effected. It is further pleaded that there is no direct evidence against the applicant and he is innocent. It is further pleaded that applicant will not induce or threat prosecution witness in any manner and will abide by the terms and conditions imposed by the Court. Prayer for acceptance of bail application sought.

3. Per contra police report filed. As per police report FIR No. 180 of 2014 dated 27.9.2014 registered under Sections 457 and 380 IPC at Police Station Jawalamukhi District Kangra HP. There is recital in police report that statement of co-accused Jitender Singh was recorded under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act and as per disclosure statement of co-accused Jitender Singh site plan of location was prepared where cash chest of ATM machine was kept. There is further recital in police report that broken locks of shutter which were thrown in the bushes by accused persons were also recovered as per disclosure statement given by co-accused Jitender Singh. There is further recital in police report that one CD and bank statement dated 26.9.2014 and statement of cash kept in the ATM machine also took into possession vide seizure memo. There is further recital in police report that on dated 26.9.2014 the ATM machine kept by PNB Bank Kaloh Tehsil Rukker District Kangra HP was broken and Rs.6,24,200/-(Six lac twenty four thousand two hundred) was stolen from cash chest of ATM machine by accused persons. There is further recital in police report that one spray bottle, cash chest of ATM machine and cash to the tune of Rs.5,97,700/- (Five lac ninety seven thousand seven hundred) and car having registration No. HR-51E-6011 were also took into possession vide seizure memo. There is further recital in police report that investigation is complete and challan is filed in the competent Court of law on dated 2.12.2014.

4. Following points arise for determination in the present bail application:

(1) Whether bail application filed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 is liable to be accepted after completion of investigation and after filing of challan in competent Court of law as alleged?.

(2) Final Order.

5. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of applicant and Court also heard learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State.

Finding upon Point No.1.

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that applicant is innocent and he has been falsely implicated in the present case cannot be decided at this stage. Same fact will be decided when case shall be decided on its merits by learned trial Court after giving due opportunity of hearing to both the parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

7. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that investigation is complete and challan already stood filed in competent court of law and criminal case will be disposed of in due course of time and on this ground bail application be allowed is accepted for the reason hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that at the time of granting bail following factors should be considered. (i) Nature and seriousness of offence (ii) The character of the evidence (iii) Circumstances which are peculiar to the accused (iv) Possibility of the presence of the accused at the trial or investigation (v) Reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with (vi) The larger interests of the public or the State. See AIR 1978 SC 179 titled Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration. Also see AIR 1962 SC 253 titled The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh. It was held in case reported in 2012 Cri.L.J 702 titled Sanjay Chandra Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial and it was held that object of bail is not punitive in nature. It was held that bail is rule and committal to jail is exception. It was also held that refusal of bail is a restriction on the personal liberty of the individual guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. It was held that it is not in the interest of justice that accused should be kept in jail for indefinite period. As per police report investigation is complete and challan already stood filed in Court in the present case and criminal case will be disposed of in due course of time. It is well settled law that accused is presumed to be innocent till proven guilty by the competent of Court of law. Court is of the opinion that if applicant is released on bail at this stage then interests of the general public or the State will not be adversely effected.

8. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General that if the applicant is released on bail then applicant will induce and threat prosecution witness and on this ground bail application be rejected is devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that conditions will be imposed in the bail order that applicant will not commit similar offence in future. If applicant commits similar offence in future then prosecution will be at liberty to file application for cancellation of bail in accordance with law. It is not expedient in the ends of justice to keep applicant in jail because investigation is complete and challan stood filed in competent Court of law. Point No.1 is answered in affirmative.

Point No.1 (Final order).

9. In view of my findings on point No.1 bail application filed by applicant is allowed. It is ordered that applicant will be released on bail on following terms and conditions on furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (One lac) with two sureties in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned trial Court (i) That applicant will join investigation as and when called for by the Investigating Officer in accordance with law. (ii) That applicant shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer. (iii) That applicant will not leave India without prior permission of the Court. (iv) That applicant will not commit similar offence qua which he is accused. (v) That applicant will give his residential address to the Investigating Officer in written manner so that applicant can be located after giving short notice. (vi) That applicant will attend the proceedings of learned trial Court regularly. Observation made hereinabove is strictly for the purpose of deciding the present bail application and it shall not effect merits of case in any manner. All pending application(s) if any are also disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANJAY KAROL, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

State of Himachal Pradesh ...Appellant.

Versus

Durgu Ram and another ...Respondents.

Criminal Appeal No.495 of 2007
Reserved on : 7.4.2015
Date of Decision: May 5, 2015

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 302 read with Section 34- Deceased left his house to bring some articles but had not returned - his dead body was found by his wife-it was revealed during the investigations that accused had consumed alcohol with the deceased and they had killed the deceased due to animosity- accused 'D' confessed to commission of crime before 'Y'- wife of the deceased and PW-2 admitted that there was no enmity between the deceased and the accused- there was no evidence that deceased was last seen with the accused- extra judicial confession made by the accused that they had sent the deceased 'Upar' (Abode of God) cannot be construed to be an admission of guilt- statement of witness to recovery was not inspiring confidence- deceased was under heavy influence of liquor- Doctor had not ruled out the possibility of sustaining injury by way of fall- held, that in these circumstances, acquittal of the accused was justified. (Para-16 to 30)

Cases referred:

Prandas v. The State, AIR 1954 SC 36
Pudhu Raja and another Versus State Represented by Inspector of Police, (2012) 11 SCC 196
Madhu Versus State of Kerala, (2012) 2 SCC 399
Dilip Singh Moti Singh versus State of Gujarat, (2010) 15 SCC 622
Mulakh Raj and others Versus Satish Kumar and others, (1992) 3 SCC 43
Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Versus State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116
Padala Veera Reddy v. State of Andhra Pradesh and others, 1989 Supp (2) SCC 706
Ramreddy Rajesh Khanna Reddy v. State of A.P., (2006) 10 SCC 172
Balwinder Singh v. State of Punjab, 1995 Supp (4) SCC 259
Harishchandra Ladaku Thange v. State of Maharashtra, (2007) 11 SCC 436
State of U.P. v. Ashok Kumar Srivastava, (1992) 2 SCC 286
Mohammed Ankoos and others versus Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad (2010) 1 SCC 94

For the Appellant : Mr. Ashok Chaudhary, Additional Advocate General and Mr. J.S. Guleria, Assistant Advocate General.
For the Respondents : Mr. Javed Khan and Ms Kanta Thakur, Advocates.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, Judge

State has appealed against the judgment dated 6.9.2007 of the Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Mandi, Himachal Pradesh, passed in Sessions Trial No.4/2007, titled as State of Himachal Pradesh v. Durgu Ram & another, challenging the acquittal of respondents Durgu Ram and Mukti Ram (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who stand charged for having committed an offence punishable under the provisions of Section 302 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code.

2. It is the case of prosecution that on 8.9.2006, Puran Chand (deceased) left his wife Geeta Devi (PW-1) for buying certain articles from the shop of Kaltu Ram (PW.4). Since he did not return home, following day she asked her Devar Raj Kumar to search for him. She also went to the shop of Kaltu Ram and made inquiries. On way, she found dead body of her husband lying alongside the path near the Temple of Sehali Dev. Information was given by her to Smt. Bimla Devi, Pradhan of the Panchayat, who, in turn, informed the police. SHO Kapoor Chand (PW-18), upon receiving telephonic information, rushed to the spot, where he prepared inquest report (Ex. PW-18/C), after taking photographs (Ex. PW-8/A1 to PW-8/A4). He sent the dead body for postmortem. Statement of Geeta Devi (Ex. PW-1/A), under the provisions of Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was also recorded, on the basis of which FIR No.219/06, dated 9.9.2006 (Ex. PW-14/B), under the provisions of Section 302 of the Indian Penal Code, was registered at Police Station, Joginder Nagar, District Mandi, Himachal Pradesh. Postmortem was conducted by Dr. Vishwajeet (PW-8), who opined the cause of death to be injury to the vital organ of brain.

3. Investigation revealed that on 8.9.2006, deceased Puran Chand had consumed chicken and liquor in the company of Prem Lal (PW-2), Bhupinder and Raj Kumar. This was at about 8 p.m. After some time, accused Mukti Ram joined them, who in the company of the deceased left to the house of Dharam Chand (PW-3), from whom they purchased illicit liquor and after consuming the same left together. Investigation further revealed that the accused persons harboured animosity, as a result of which they killed Puran Chand with an axe. Thereafter, accused Yadav Singh (juvenile) and Durgu Ram confessed of having committed the crime with Kaltu Ram. During the course of investigation, accused Durgu Ram and Yadav Singh made disclosure statements, on the basis of which they got recovered weapon of offence (Ex. P-3), in the presence of Mahinder Singh (PW-7) and Tej Singh (not examined). Reports of the Forensic Science Laboratory, Junga (Ex. PW-18/N and PW-18/O) were obtained and taken on record. With the completion of investigation, which prima facie revealed complicity of the accused in the alleged crime, challan was presented in the Court for trial.

4. Both the accused persons were charged for having committed an offence punishable under the provisions of Section 302/34 of the Indian Penal Code, to which they did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

5. In order to establish its case, prosecution examined as many as 18 witnesses and statements of the accused persons, under the provisions of Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, were also recorded, in which they pleaded innocence and false implication.

6. Based on the testimonies of witnesses and the material on record, trial Court acquitted both the accused of the charged offence. Hence, the present appeal by the State.

7. We have heard Mr. Ashok Chaudhary, learned Additional Advocate General, on behalf of the State as also Mr. Javed Khan and Ms Kanta Thakur, Advocates, on behalf of the accused. We have also minutely examined the testimonies of the witnesses and other documentary evidence so placed on record by the prosecution. Having done so, we are of the considered view that no case for interference is made out at all. We find that the judgment rendered by the trial Court is based on complete, correct and proper appreciation of evidence (documentary and ocular) so placed on record. There is neither any illegality/infirmity nor any perversity with the same, resulting into miscarriage of justice.

8. It is a settled principle of law that acquittal leads to presumption of innocence in favour of an accused. To dislodge the same, onus heavily lies upon the prosecution. Having considered the material on record, we are of the considered view that prosecution has failed to establish the essential ingredients so required to constitute the charged offence.

9. In Prandas v. The State, AIR 1954 SC 36, Constitution Bench of the apex Court, has held as under:

> "(6) It must be observed at the very outset that we cannot support the view which has been expressed in several cases that the High Court has no power under S. 417, Criminal P.C., to reverse a judgment of acquittal, unless the judgment is perverse or the subordinate Court has in some way or other misdirected itself so as to produce a miscarriage of justice. In our opinion, the true position in regard to the jurisdiction of the High Court under S. 417, Criminal P.c. in an appeal from an order of acquittal has been stated in – 'Sheo Swarup v. Emperor', AIR 1934 PC 227 (2) at pp.229, 230 (A), in these words:
>
> > "Sections 417, 418 and 423 of the Code give to the High Court full power to review at large the evidence upon which the order of acquittal was founded, and to reach the conclusion that upon that evidence the order of acquittal should be reversed. No limitation should be placed upon that power, unless it be found expressly stated in the Code. But in exercising the power conferred by the Code and before reaching its conclusions upon fact, the High Court should and will always give proper weight and consideration to such matters as (1) the views of the trial Judge as to the credibility of the witnesses, (2) the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused, a presumption certainly not weakened by the fact that he has been acquitted at his trial, (3) the right of the accused to the benefit of any doubt, and (4) the slowness of an appellate Court in disturbing a finding of fact arrived at by a Judge who had the advantage of seeing the witnesses. To state this, however, is only to say that the High Court in its conduct of the appeal should and will act in accordance with rules and principles well known and recognized in the administration of justice." "

10. Undisputedly, there is no eye-witness to the occurrence of the incident. Hence, the present case is based on circumstantial evidence.

11. Law with regard to circumstantial evidence is now well settled. It is a settled proposition of law that when there is no direct evidence of crime, the guilt of the accused can be proved by circumstantial evidence, but then the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn, should be fully proved and such circumstances must be conclusive in nature, to fully connect the accused with the crime. All the links in the chain of circumstances must be established beyond reasonable doubt, and the proved circumstances should be consistent, only with the hypothesis of guilt of the accused, being totally inconsistent with his innocence. While appreciating the circumstantial evidence, the Court must adopt a very cautious approach and great caution must be taken to evaluate the circumstantial evidence. [See: Pudhu Raja and another Versus State Represented by Inspector of Police, (2012) 11 SCC 196; Madhu Versus State of Kerala, (2012) 2 SCC 399; Dilip Singh Moti Singh versus State of Gujarat, (2010) 15 SCC 622, Mulakh Raj and others Versus Satish Kumar and others, (1992) 3 SCC 43; and Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Versus State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116.].

12. Also, apex Court in Padala Veera Reddy v. State of Andhra Pradesh and others, 1989 Supp (2) SCC 706, Court held that when a case rests upon circumstantial evidence, following tests must be satisfied:

> "(1) the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn, must be cogently and firmly established;
>
> (2) those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards guilt of the accused;
>
> (3) the circumstances, taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and none else; and
>
> (4) the circumstantial evidence in order to sustain conviction must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence."
>
> (Also see: Ramreddy Rajesh Khanna Reddy v. State of A.P., (2006) 10 SCC 172; Balwinder Singh v. State of Punjab, 1995 Supp (4) SCC 259; and Harishchandra Ladaku Thange v. State of Maharashtra, (2007) 11 SCC 436).

13. Each case has to be considered on its own merit. Court cannot presume suspicion to be a legal proof. In the absence of an important link in the chain, or the chain of circumstances getting snapped, guilt of the accused cannot be assumed, based on mere conjectures.

14. The apex Court in State of U.P. v. Ashok Kumar Srivastava, (1992) 2 SCC 286, while cautioning the Courts in evaluating circumstantial evidence, held that if the evidence adduced by the prosecution is reasonable, capable of two inferences, the one in favour of the accused must be accepted. This of course must precede the factum of prosecution having proved its case, leading to the guilty of the accused.

15. Prosecution case primarily rests upon five circumstances: (i) animosity between the accused and the deceased, (ii) accused lastly seen in the company of the deceased, (iii) confessional statement, (iv) disclosure statement leading to discovery of weapon of offence, (v) link evidence corroborating substantive evidence.

16. Genesis of the prosecution story of animosity inter se the parties, stands belied by prosecution witnesses themselves. Geeta Devi (PW-1), wife of the deceased, as also Prem Lal (PW-2), uncontrovertedly admit that there was no animosity between the deceased and the accused persons and more specifically accused Mukti. Apart from the testimony of these two witnesses, there is nothing on record to even remotely suggest that the accused was harbouring any animosity against the deceased. Motive of crime is missing in this case.

17. Even with regard to the circumstance of the deceased lastly seen in the company of accused Mukti, we do not find the prosecution witnesses to have supported the prosecution.

18. To begin with, Geeta Devi admits that after meeting her husband, accused Mukti went to his house. Prem Lal, simply states that on 8.9.2006, he, Puran Chand, Prem Lal (another person by the same name), Bhupinder and Raj Kumar had consumed chicken (which they had cooked along the road side) and liquor. After some time, accused Mukti Ram came from the side of Tinu Nalla. Puran Chand left with Mukti Ram for fetching Khaini and Beedi from the shop of Kaltu Ram. This is all, that the witness states.

19. Postmortem report as also testimony of Dr. Vishwajeet (PW-8) suggest that death took place much prior to the time of meeting of these persons. Be that as it may, Prem Lal admits that the deceased went with accused Mukti Ram of his own. It is not a case where the accused persons, after hatching conspiracy, enticed deceased Puran Chand to leave with Prem Lal or Mukti.

20. We find that even on the last seen circumstance, both Dharam Chand (PW-3) and Kaltu Ram (PW-4) have not supported the prosecution. They were declared hostile and despite extensive cross-examination by the Public Prosecutor, nothing fruitful could be elicited from their testimony. All that Prem Chand states is that at about 8 p.m., Mukti Ram came alongwith Puran Chand and purchased bottles of liquor. It appears that this witness himself was a suspect. In his uncontroverted testimony, he categorically states that the police had kept him in the Police Station for three hours and had also severely beaten him. That apart, the witness also states that house of Mukti Ram is just at a distance of 30 metres from his house whereas house of Puran Chand is at a distance of 300 metres and that too in an opposite direction. He is categorical that from his shop both Mukti Ram and Puran Chand went to their respective houses. That apart, there is not even a whisper in the testimony of this witness with regard to presence of accused Yadav Singh and Durgu. Witness also states that Mukti Ram left his house first, implying that Puran Chand was still in the company of this witness. It is perhaps for this reason that the police suspected him. Prosecution has not been able to establish that after deceased Puran Chand and accused Mukti left the house of witness Dharam Singh, they were seen together in the night.

21. Thus, the witness clearly belies the prosecution story of the deceased being seen last in the company of accused Mukti Ram. If the accused and the deceased had left the house of Dharam Chand for their respective houses, which were in opposite directions, it cannot be said that the accused was lastly seen in the company of the deceased.

22. Kaltu Ram states that on 9.9.2006, accused Durgu Ram and Yadav Singh came to his shop and told him that “they have sent Puran Chand “Upper”(Abode of God)”. After their visit, he learnt that dead body of Puran Chand was found near the temple of Sehali Dev. We find the witness to have been cross-examined by the Public Prosecutor, yet despite the same, there is nothing in his testimony, which would support the prosecution. He is categorical of not having understood the meaning of the words “Upper Bhej Diya”. Crucially, witness admits not to have signed any statement or memo so recorded by the police. Now, “Upper Bhej Diya” cannot be construed to be an admission of guilt.

23. Prosecution wants the Court to believe that blood soiled clothes of the deceased as also the weapon of offence (Ex. P-3) were recovered from the house of Yadav Singh, in the presence of Mahinder Singh (PW-7).

24. It is not the case of prosecution that the accused persons had first killed the deceased in the jungle and then after carrying the dead body kept it on the road near the temple. Significantly, as has come in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses, dead body was found in the village itself. Now, had the deceased been killed by the accused with an axe, surely, someone would have heard the cries, which in fact is not the case of the prosecution. Also, Kaltu Ram is not able to remember as to whether such words were spoken by Durgu Ram or Yadav Singh. Significantly, these accused persons do not state that accused Mukti Ram was also involved in the crime. From the testimony of the witness, we also notice that the factum of confessional statement was so disclosed to the police, only after three-four days of the occurrence of the incident. It was not voluntary or prompt in nature. As such, it would be absolutely unsafe to give credence or weightage to such extra judicial confession.

25. On the circumstance of recovery of incriminating articles, i.e. axe (P-3), we find the testimony of Mahinder Singh (PW-7) and the Investigating Officer Kapoor Chand (PW-18) not to be inspiring in confidence at all. Even otherwise, they have contradicted each other. Mahinder Singh states that the incriminating articles, i.e. axe (Ex. P-3), shirt (Ex. P-4), pant (Ex.P-5) were recovered from the house of Yadav Singh. Significantly, witness states that he did not enter the house at the time when recovery was effected. He tries to explain the reason of the same being a caste factor. But then this is no recovery in the eyes of law. Recovery from the house of the accused had to be in presence of an independent witness. What is crucial is his admission that police was already present in the house of accused Yadav Singh, when he was called, alongwith other villagers, by the police. Now if police was already aware of the place where articles were hidden, then obviously recovery cannot be said to have been effected on the basis of disclosure statement (Ex.PW-7/A) so recorded by the police. Now, if this witness was socially not allowed to enter the house, then why is it that police did not associate any other person present on the spot? That apart, witness states that axe was lying outside on the floor of the courtyard. It was visible to all and not concealed. Investigating Officer as also other prosecution witnesses admit that prior to 17.9.2006, police had already visited the village, on a number of occasions, yet no recovery was effected at that point in time. This totally renders the prosecution case of having effected the recovery to be doubtful, if not false. Further prosecution wants the Court to believe that blood soiled Chappal of the deceased was also recovered by the police. Reports of the Forensic Science Laboratory (Ex. PW-18/N & 18/O) reveal that no blood was found on any of the articles recovered by the police, including the weapon of offence, i.e. axe (Ex. P-3).

26. We find that prosecution has also examined Sunu Ram (PW-5), Shukru Ram (PW-6) as also Sukh Ram (PW-10) to establish its case. Sukh Ram has not supported the prosecution and testimony of the remaining witnesses is only hearsay in nature, for they learnt about the incident after recovery of the dead body and during the course of investigation.

27. Version of police officials, namely HC Kushal Kumar (PW-13), ASI Jagroop Singh (PW-14) and SI Kapoor Chand (PW-18) also cannot be said to be inspiring in confidence. According to HC Kushal Kumar, he recorded statement of Geeta Devi, under the provisions of Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Ex. PW-1/A), whereas Jagroop Singh states that after reaching the spot he recorded the statement of Geeta Devi. The said statement was sent to the Police Station and Constable Bhagat Ram registered the FIR, which was signed by him, whereas according to Bhagat Ram it was he who had scribed the statement (Ex. PW-1/A) and FIR was written by Milap Chand. Prem Lal (PW-2) states that photographs on the spot were taken by a private photographer. This version of his totally belies and contradicts the testimony of SI Kapoor Chand, according to whom photographs were taken by him from his personal camera.

28. There is yet another mitigating circumstance in favour of the accused. Undisputed case of the prosecution is that deceased was under heavy influence of alcohol, which fact is evident from the report of the Forensic Science Laboratory and the doctors have not ruled out the possibility of vital injury to have been sustained on account of fall.

29. Hence, it cannot be said that prosecution has been able to prove its case, by leading clear, cogent, convincing and reliable piece of evidence so as to prove that the accused persons, in furtherance of their common intention, inflicted injury on the head of Puran Chand, resulting into his death.

30. From the material placed on record, prosecution has failed to establish that the accused are guilty of having committed the offence, they have been charged with. The circumstances cannot be said to have been proved by unbroken chain of unimpeachable testimony of the prosecution witnesses. The guilt of the accused does not stand proved beyond reasonable doubt to the hilt. The chain of events does not stand conclusively established, leading only to one conclusion, i.e. guilt of the accused. Circumstances when cumulatively considered do not fully establish completion of chain of events, indicating to the guilt of the accused and no other hypothesis other than the same.

31. For all the aforesaid reasons, we find no reason to interfere with the judgment passed by the trial Court. The Court has fully appreciated the evidence so placed on record by the parties.

32. The accused have had the advantage of having been acquitted by the Court below. Keeping in view the ratio of law laid down by the Apex Court in Mohammed Ankoos and others versus Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad (2010) 1 SCC 94, it cannot be said that the Court below has not correctly appreciated the evidence on record or that acquittal of the accused has resulted into travesty of justice. No ground for interference is called for. The present appeal is dismissed. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by the accused are discharged. Appeal stands disposed of, so also pending application(s), if any.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANJAY KAROL, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

State of Himachal Pradesh …Appellant.

Versus

Renuka Devi & others …Respondents.

Cr. Appeal No. 498 of 2009
Judgment reserved on: 07.04.2015
Date of Decision: May 5, 2015

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 306 read with Section 34- Deceased solemnized love marriage with accused no. 1- both husband and wife used to quarrel with each other- she wanted to take control of the finances- she and her brother subjected the deceased to cruelty and abetted him to commit suicide- deceased died by jumping into the river- held, that in order to prove the abetment, the intention of the accused to aid or instigate or abet the deceased to commit suicide is necessary- parents of the deceased nowhere deposed that accused wanted to control the finances- colleagues of the deceased stated that salary was remitted directly to the bank- Bank Manager deposed that deceased was operating the account himself and all the benefits of the deceased were released to his mother- no complaint was made by the deceased regarding the cruelty- mere daily quarrels cannot amount to abetment – in these circumstances, acquittal of the accused was justified.

(Para-11 to 26)

Cases referred:

Prandas v. The State, AIR 1954 SC 36

M. Mohan Versus State Represented by the Deputy Superintendent of Police, (2011) 3 SCC 626

Mohammed Ankoos and others versus Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad (2010) 1 SCC 94

For the Appellant: M/s Ashok Chaudhary, Addl. AGs., with Mr. J.S. Guleria, Asstt. AG., for the appellant-State.

For the Respondents: Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Advocate, for the respondents.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J.

Assailing the judgment dated 06.06.2009, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Kinnaur Sessions Division at Rampur Bushahr, H.P., in Sessions Trial No. 9 of 2005, titled as State Versus Renuka Devi & others, State has filed the present appeal under the provisions of Section 378 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

2. It is the case of prosecution that deceased Hem Singh was working as a Junior Supervisor with the Nathpa Jhakri Power Corporation (hereinafter referred to as NJPC). In the year 2003, he was posted at a place known as Jhakri. Deceased solemnized love marriage with Renuka Devi (accused No.1), sometime in the year 1998. From the wedlock two children were born. Both the husband and wife would often quarrel with each other. Also accused Renuka Devi wanted to take control of all finances. In effect, accused Renuka Devi alongwith her brothers, co-accused, Sat Pal (accused No.2) and Yashpal (accused No.3) subjected the deceased to cruelty and abetted him to commit suicide on 29.09.2003. Prosecution also wants the Court to believe that on 27.09.2003, co-accused Sat Pal, who had come to stay with the deceased, demanded money and picked up a quarrel which incident was witnessed by the maid servant Premi Devi (PW.8). On the complaint of Smt. Nirmala Devi (PW.1), police registered an FIR No.124 of 2003 dated 30.09.2003 (Ex.PW.15/C) under the provisions of Section 306 of the IPC at Police Station, Jhakri, against the accused. Investigation was conducted by police officials SI Vidya Chand (PW.15) and Inspector Phool Chand (PW.18). The incident of deceased jumping into the river and committing suicide was witnessed by Narayan (PW.2), Rakesh Chandel (PW.3) and Rattan Lal (PW.4). With the completion of investigation, which prima facie revealed complicity of the accused in the alleged crime, Challan was presented in the Court for trial.

3. Accused were charged for having committed an offence punishable under the provisions of Section 306 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, to which they did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to establish its case, in all, prosecution examined as many as eighteen witnesses. Statements of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure were also recorded, in which accused Renuka Devi took the following defence:-

> "Sh. Hem Singh was having abnormal behavior and in the evening whenever we wanted to go to Rampur he used to comment that the people wanted to kill him and during nights he never switched off the lights which were normally switched off by me. He used to woke me up during nights and used to say that somebody was outside the window who wanted to kill me and I should sleep on side the bed, sit or draw curtains. I used to teach children of Smt. Bindu Chandel and she wanted to come close to my husband and I found that she wanted to be intimate with my husband which was not to my liking. Smt. Bindu Chandel did not pay tuition fee to me, despite request and got furious. My father in law used to demand money regularly from my husband and my husband even used to take my salary for sending to them on demand. My husband used to be under stress on telephonic call from my father in law as he used to say that his father may disinherit him."

Other co-accused took plea of false implication. Four witnesses were examined by the accused in their defence.

5. Trial Court, after appreciating the testimony of prosecution witnesses acquitted the accused. Hence the present appeal.

6. We have heard M/s Ashok Chaudhary, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Mr. J.S. Guleria, learned Assistant Advocate General, on behalf of the State as also Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Advocate, on behalf of the accused. We have also minutely examined the testimonies of the witnesses and other documentary evidence so placed on record by the prosecution. Having done so, we are of the considered view that no case for interference is made out at all. We find that the judgment rendered by the trial Court is based on complete, correct and proper appreciation of evidence (documentary and ocular) so placed on record. There is neither any illegality/infirmity nor any perversity with the same, resulting into miscarriage of justice.

7. It is a settled principle of law that acquittal leads to presumption of innocence in favour of an accused. To dislodge the same, onus heavily lies upon the prosecution. Having considered the material on record, we are of the considered view that prosecution has failed to establish the essential ingredients so as to constitute the charged offence.

8. In Prandas v. The State, AIR 1954 SC 36, Constitution Bench of the apex Court, has held as under:

> "(6) It must be observed at the very outset that we cannot support the view which has been expressed in several cases that the High Court has no power under S. 417, Criminal P.c., to reverse a judgment of acquittal, unless the judgment is perverse or the subordinate Court has in some way or other misdirected itself so as to produce a miscarriage of justice. In our opinion, the true position in regard to the jurisdiction of the High Court under S. 417, Criminal P.c. in an appeal from an order of acquittal has been stated in – 'Sheo Swarup v. Emperor', AIR 1934 PC 227 (2) at pp.229, 230 (A), in these words:

> "Sections 417, 418 and 423 of the Code give to the High Court full power to review at large the evidence upon which the order of acquittal was founded, and to reach the conclusion that upon that evidence the order of acquittal should be reversed. No limitation should be placed upon that power, unless it be found expressly stated in the Code. But in exercising the power conferred by the Code and before reaching its conclusions upon fact, the High Court should and will always give proper weight and consideration to such matters as (1) the views of the trial Judge as to the credibility of the witnesses, (2) the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused, a presumption certainly not weakened by the fact that he has been acquitted at his trial, (3) the right of the accused to the benefit of any doubt, and (4) the slowness of an appellate Court in disturbing a finding of fact arrived at by a Judge who had the advantage of seeing the witnesses. To state this, however, is only to say that the High Court in its conduct of the appeal should and will act in accordance with rules and principles well known and recognized in the administration of justice." "

9. The fact that deceased committed suicide and was not murdered is not in dispute.

10. The apex Court in M. Mohan Versus State Represented by the Deputy Superintendent of Police, (2011) 3 SCC 626 has held, "sui" to mean "self" and "cide" to mean "killing", thus implying an act of self-killing.

11. It is also a settled proposition of law that to attract ingredients of offence of abetment, the intention of the accused to aid or instigate or abet the deceased to commit suicide is necessary. The act of abetment is thus sine-qua- non for invocation of provisions of Section 306 IPC.

12. Smt. Nirmala Devi (PW.1) and Uttam Singh (PW.9), parents of the deceased, have no where disclosed that accused wanted to take control of the finances of the deceased. On the contrary, officials of NJPC, who were colleagues of the deceased, have categorically deposed that salary was directly remitted into the bank account of the deceased, which only he would operate. We find through the testimonies of N.D. Negi (DW.4), Branch Manager of State Bank of India, Branch Jhakri, accused to have established that even her bank account was in fact being operated by the deceased himself. Thus, there is no evidence on record, establishing the fact that accused Renuka Devi attempted or desired of taking over the control of the assets or the salary of the deceased. On the other hand, we find, through the testimony of Smt. Seema Kumari (PW.14) that entire benefits, were released in favour of Smt. Nirmala Devi, mother of the deceased, on the basis of legal heirs certificate, so produced by her. Noticeably, complainant, who is the mother of the deceased, has not even reflected the children (minor) born out of the wedlock to be the legal heirs.

13. It is also alleged that on 27.09.2003, brothers of accused Renuka Devi, who are also the accused persons, came and stayed at Jhakri and demanded money for solemnizing a function in their house. Now except for the testimony of Premi Devi (PW.8), there is no other evidence (documentary or oral) on record to this effect.

14. We find testimony of Premi Devi not to be inspiring in confidence at all, apart from the fact that Investigating Officer Phool Chand (PW.18), himself admits to have introduced her as a witness during investigation. He states that "……..It is correct that Smt. Premi Devi was introduced by us and actually she was not female servant of the deceased Hem Singh. It is correct that from the statements of the witnesses Dr. Jagat Ram, Tameshwar, SI and Avtar Singh it can be said that Hem Singh at that time was mentally disturbed. I also received the treatment slip and reference letter of the doctor by which Hem Singh was referred to the Indira Gandhi Medical College, Shimla. I did not take the account statements of Sh. Hem Singh and Renuka from the banks at Jhakri. I cannot say that Sh. Hem Singh was mentally disturbed and due to this, he committed suicide. I have not filed any final report in this case."

15. Premi Devi is supposed to have stayed in the house of deceased, as a maid servant only for a period of one month and twelve days prior to the incident. She states that on 27.09.2003 accused Sat Pal came to the house of the deceased and at about 3.00 AM in the night, she noticed accused Renuka Devi and deceased quarrelling with each other. A demand of Rs.20,000/-, two Karas and some gold ornaments was raised. Who raised the demand, she does not state. She categorically does not ascribe any role to the co-accused. She further states that Hem Singh resisted the same on the ground that even in the past he had been giving enough money to her brothers and nothing was left with him. Now we do not find this version of hers to be anywhere recorded by the police. There is improvement / exaggeration / embellishment. Veracity of her statement, itself is in doubt, in view of the statement of the Investigating Officer. There is no other evidence proving employment of Premi Devi as a maid servant. Noticeably Hem Singh never disclosed such fact to his mother or any other relative.

16. The question, which needs to be further considered, is as to whether prosecution has been able to establish, through the testimonies of Smt. Nirmala Devi (PW.1), Rakesh Chandel (PW.3), Bindu Chandel (PW.5), Surjeet Singh (PW.6) and Jyoti Prakash (PW.12) that the accused abetted the crime or not.

17. At this juncture, we take notice of the testimonies of defence witnesses on the question of mental state of the deceased. Dr. J.R. Thakur (DW.1) has categorically deposed that on 19.05.2003, at about 6.00 AM, he saw a person whom he identified to be the deceased, throwing pieces of glass and stones. Deceased also climbed the roof of his house. Since the behaviour was abnormal, police was called for help. Such version is corroborated by Attar Singh (DW.3).

18. That deceased was suffering from acute schizophrenia stands witnessed by prosecution witness Dr. R.L. Gupta (PW.7), according to whom, he had referred the deceased, through the Chief Medical Officer, for treatment to the IGMC Hospital at Shimla.

19. Dr. Hardayal Chauhan (PW.11) does state that he did examine the deceased but found him to be normal. But the fact of the matter is that all was not well with the mental state of the deceased. He had to undergo medical treatment at two places. He may have become normal when so examined by this person. According to the mother, accused wanted the deceased to be declared insane for getting the monetary benefits and as such, on one occasion, noticed the deceased tied with a rope by the accused. We do not find such version to be believable. Had it been so, deceased would have not come from Kullu/Jhakri to Shimla for showing himself at the State level Hospital. In fact the defence taken by the accused to some extent stands probablized.

20. Prosecution also wants the Court to believe that accused Renuka Devi used to constantly quarrel with the deceased, which prompted him to take away his life. We find the testimony of Smt. Nirmala Devi (PW.1), Rakesh Chandel (PW.3), Bindu Chandel (PW.5), Surjeet Singh (PW.6) and Jyoti Prakash (PW.12) to be vague on the issue. One cannot forget that marriage was solemnized in the year 1998. No complaint whatsoever, of any nature, was ever lodged by the deceased with any person with regard to any acts of cruelties/maltreatment. In fact, mother of the deceased admits that on most of the occasions she used to reside with the parties at Jhakri. In any event her version of such quarrels is vague and unspecific with respect to time, nature, duration and place. Also mother admits that 4-5 days prior to the incident, she had left for her native place.

21. What was that immediate cause, which prompted the deceased to have committed suicide has not come on record. In fact it has come on record, as also is the prosecution case, that on the fateful day, in his car, deceased himself took his wife and children for visiting the temple. However, after driving for some distance, he suddenly stopped the vehicle on the side and went towards the river and jumped from the boulder. None of the witnesses have deposed that on the fateful day, deceased and the accused had quarrelled. Though it has come in the testimony of Bindu Chandel that the previous night, accused and the deceased quarrelled and she had also noticed scratch marks on his face. But the question is whether version of this witness is believable or not. In our considered view, no. This we say so for the reason that she never ever informed anyone about the same. Accused Renuka Devi was employed as a teacher at DPS School, Jhakri. Children of Bindu Chandel were also studying in the same school, yet no grievance was made with any person. In fact, witness admits that she had no knowledge of any quarrel between the accused and the deceased, which took place the night preceding the fateful day. Thus, she contradicts herself.

22. Uttam Singh (PW.9), father of the deceased, states that even Bhupinder Singh, father of accused Renuka had threatened of murdering the deceased. But then such version has emerged for the first time, only in Court. Bhupinder Singh is not an accused. This witness produced a letter (Ex.PW.9/A), allegedly written by the deceased, so found by him two years prior to his deposition in Court. But this document is absolutely inadmissible in evidence. Mere exhibiting of a document would not prove contents thereof. Father does state that letter was written by his son, but then prosecution has not led any evidence to prove the author of the same and the letter is not despatched in the normal course of business/routine. After all deceased was employed with a Public Sector undertaking and his hand writing could have been matched with the material, contemporaneous in nature, which was easily available. Father does not even remember the date when he handed over this letter to the prosecution. In any event contents of the letter do not reveal any act of abetment.

23. None of the witnesses, in our considered view, have been able to establish the essential ingredients, required for constituting an offence of abetment. Mere daily quarrels and discords cannot be termed as abetment, forcing the deceased to commit suicide.

24. On the contrary, we find that accused Renuka Devi, who loved her husband, despite his mental state, not only continued to reside with him, but also gave birth and brought up his children.

25. To our mind, prosecution has not been able to establish, beyond reasonable doubt, by leading clear, cogent, convincing and reliable piece of evidence so as to prove that suicide was abetted by the accused.

26. The Court below, in our considered view, has correctly and completely appreciated the evidence so placed on record by the prosecution. It cannot be said that the judgment of trial Court is perverse, illegal, erroneous or based on incorrect and incomplete appreciation of material on record, resulting into miscarriage of justice.

27. The accused has had the advantage of having been acquitted by the Court below. Keeping in view the ratio of law laid down by the Apex Court in Mohammed Ankoos and others versus Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh, Hyderabad (2010) 1 SCC 94, since it cannot be said that trial Court has not correctly appreciated the evidence on record or that acquittal of the accused has resulted into travesty of justice, no interference is warranted in the instant case.

For all the aforesaid reasons, present appeal, being devoid of merit, is dismissed, so also the pending application(s), if any. Bail bonds furnished by the accused are discharged. Record of the trial Court be immediately sent back.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE P.S.RANA, J.

Surinder Singh son of Darshan Singh …..Applicant.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh. …….Non- applicant.

Cr.MP(M) No. 372 of 2015.
Order reserved on: 1.5.2015.
Date of Order: May 5,2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 420, 465 and 471 of IPC- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behavior of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- police had not claimed that custodial interrogation is necessary in the present case- interests of the State or general public will not be affected by keeping the accused inside the jail- therefore, bail granted. (Para-6 to 8)

Cases referred:

Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration), AIR 1978 SC 179

The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh AIR 1962 SC 253
Sanjay Chandra Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation 2012 Cri.L.J 702

For the applicant: Mr. Naresh Verma, Advocate.
For non-applicant . Mr. M.L.Chauhan, Addl. Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S.Rana, Judge.

Present application is filed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 for grant of bail in connection with case FIR No.180 of 2014 dated 27.9.2014 registered under Sections 457 and 380 of the Indian Penal Code at Police Station Jawalamukhi District Kangra Himachal Pradesh.

2. It is pleaded that investigation of the present case is completed and recovery has been effected. It is further pleaded that there is no direct evidence against the applicant and he is innocent. It is further pleaded that applicant will not induce or threat prosecution witness in any manner and will abide by the terms and conditions imposed by the Court. Prayer for acceptance of bail application sought.

3. Per contra police report filed. As per police report FIR No. 180 of 2014 dated 27.9.2014 registered under Sections 457 and 380 IPC at Police Station Jawalamukhi District Kangra HP. There is recital in police report that statement of co-accused Jitender Singh was recorded under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act and as per disclosure statement of co-accused Jitender Singh site plan of location was prepared where cash chest of ATM machine was kept. There is further recital in police report that broken locks of shutter which were thrown in the bushes by accused persons were also recovered as per disclosure statement given by co-accused Jitender Singh. There is further recital in police report that one CD and bank statement dated 26.9.2014 and statement of cash kept in the ATM machine also took into possession vide seizure memo. There is further recital in police report that on dated 26.9.2014 the ATM machine kept by PNB Bank Kaloh Tehsil Rukker District Kangra HP was broken and Rs.6,24,200/-(Six lac twenty four thousand two hundred) was stolen from cash chest of ATM machine by accused persons. There is further recital in police report that one spray bottle, cash chest of ATM machine and cash to the tune of Rs.5,97,700/- (Five lac ninety seven thousand seven hundred) and car having registration No. HR-51E-6011 were also took into possession vide seizure memo. There is further recital in police report that investigation is complete and challan is filed in the competent Court of law on dated 2.12.2014.

4. Following points arise for determination in the present bail application:

(1) Whether bail application filed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 is liable to be accepted after completion of investigation and after filing of challan in competent Court of law as alleged?.

(2) Final Order.

5. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of applicant and Court also heard learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State.

Finding upon Point No.1.

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that applicant is innocent and he has been falsely implicated in the present case cannot be decided at this stage. Same fact will be decided when case shall be decided on its merits by learned trial Court after giving due opportunity of hearing to both the parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

7. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicant that investigation is complete and challan already stood filed in competent court of law and criminal case will be disposed of in due course of time and on this ground bail application be allowed is accepted for the reason hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that at the time of granting bail following factors should be considered. (i) Nature and seriousness of offence (ii) The character of the evidence (iii) Circumstances which are peculiar to the accused (iv) Possibility of the presence of the accused at the trial or investigation (v) Reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with (vi) The larger interests of the public or the State. See AIR 1978 SC 179 titled Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration. Also see AIR 1962 SC 253 titled The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh. It was held in case reported in 2012 Cri.L.J 702 titled Sanjay Chandra Vs. Central Bureau of Investigation that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial and it was held that object of bail is not punitive in nature. It was held that bail is rule and committal to jail is exception. It was also held that refusal of bail is a restriction on the personal liberty of the individual guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. It was held that it is not in the interest of justice that accused should be kept in jail for indefinite period. As per police report investigation is complete and challan already stood filed in Court in the present case and criminal case will be disposed of in due course of time. It is well settled law that accused is presumed to be innocent till proven guilty by the competent of Court of law. Court is of the opinion that if applicant is released on bail at this stage then interests of the general public or the State will not be adversely effected.

8. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General that if the applicant is released on bail then applicant will induce and threat prosecution witness and on this ground bail application be rejected is devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that conditions will be imposed in the bail order that applicant will not commit similar offence in future. If applicant commits similar offence in future then prosecution will be at liberty to file application for cancellation of bail in accordance with law. It is not expedient in the ends of justice to keep applicant in jail because investigation is complete and challan stood filed in competent Court of law. Point No.1 is answered in affirmative.

Point No.1 (Final order).

9. In view of my findings on point No.1 bail application filed by applicant is allowed. It is ordered that applicant will be released on bail on following terms and conditions on furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (One lac) with two sureties in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned trial Court (i) That applicant will join investigation as and when called for by the Investigating Officer in accordance with law. (ii) That applicant shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer. (iii) That applicant will not leave India without prior permission of the Court. (iv) That applicant will not commit similar offence qua which he is accused. (v) That applicant will give his residential address to the Investigating Officer in written manner so that applicant can be located after giving short notice. (vi) That applicant will attend the proceedings of learned trial Court regularly. Observation made hereinabove is strictly for the purpose of deciding the present bail application and it shall not effect merits of case in any manner. All pending application(s) if any are also disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Babita Rani. ....Petitioner
versus
Divisional Commissioner Kangra & others. ...Respondents.

CMPMO No. 37 of 2015
Decided on: 6.5.2015.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 23 Rule 1- Learned Counsel for the petitioner submitted that he did not want to continue with the present petition and same be dismissed as withdrawn- In view of statement of the Learned Counsel, petition is dismissed as withdrawn.

For the petitioner : Ms. Sacholan Rana, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. M.L. Chauhan, Additional Advocate General, for respondents No. 1 to 4.
Mr. Sanjeev Kuthiala, Advocate, for respondent No.5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge (Oral)

Learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner submitted that petitioner does not want to continue the petition and the same be dismissed as withdrawn. In view of the submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner petition is dismissed as withdrawn. No order as to costs. Petition disposed of. Pending applications if any also disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANJAY KAROL, J. AND HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE P.S.RANA, J.

State of Himachal Pradesh .....Appellant.
Vs.
Kaur Singh son of Utam Singh & others ...Respondents.

Cr. Appeal No. 569 of 2008
Judgment reserved on: 17th March, 2015
Date of Decision: 8th April, 2015

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 306 read with Section 34- Deceased was married to accused 'K'- accused harassed the deceased for bringing insufficient dowry- she narrated the incident of harassment to her father, step mother, Pardhan and ward member- milk was not provided to her children on which she complained to her father- complainant had provided cow to the deceased two months prior to her death - deceased died and was cremated without intimating any person- held, that there should be nexus between abetment and suicide- no positive, cogent and reliable evidence was led to prove that accused had abetted the deceased to commit suicide- accused acquitted of the commission of offence punishable under Section 306 of IPC. (Para-11)

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 498-A read with Section 34 - Accused 'K' used to harass the deceased for bringing insufficient dowry- she narrated the incident of harassment to her parents as well as Pardhan and ward member- milk was not provided to her children on which she complained to her father- two months prior to her death, complainant provided cow to the deceased- deceased died and was cremated without intimating any person-PW-1 specifically stated that accused used to call the deceased 'Kanjar' (Person leading illicit life)- held, that calling a married woman 'Kanjar' ipso facto amounts to cruelty upon married woman- other prosecution witnesses also deposed that deceased used to complain about the harassment- held that the prosecution had proved its case for the commission of offence punishable under Section 498-A read with Section 34 IPC. (Para-13)

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 201 read with Section 34- Accused cremated the deceased without intimating any person- held, that in order to establish Section 201 of IPC, prosecution has to prove that accused had knowledge about the commission of offence and that they had caused disappearance of evidence of commission of criminal offence- two persons were sent to intimate the parents of the deceased about the death- deceased was cremated in presence of co-villagers- in these circumstances, offence punishable under Section 201 read with Section 34 of IPC is not proved against the accused. (Para-14)

Cases referred:

Sangaralonia Sreenoo vs. State of A.P., 1997 (4) Supreme Court page 214
M.Mohans vs. State, AIR 2011 SC page 239
Sita Ram and others vs. State of Haryana and another, 1997(3) Crimes 362 (P&H)
Jagdish and others vs. State of Rajasthan and another, 1998 Cr.L.J. 554
Ram Saran Mahto vs. State of Bihar, AIR 1999 Supreme Court page 3435
Bhee Ram vs. State of Haryana, AIR 1980 SC 957
Rai Singh vs. State of Haryana, AIR 1971 SC 2505
State of West Bengal vs. Orilal Jaiswal and another, 1993(3) Crimes 518 SC
Ramaiah alias Rama vs. State of Karnataka, (2014)9 SCC 365
Bhola Ram vs. State of Punjab, (2013)16 SCC 421
State of H.P. vs. Umardeen, 2012(1) Shim.LC 108
State of H.P. vs. Ani Kumar and others, 2012(2) Shim. LC 710
Jose Vs. The State of Kerla (Full Bench), AIR 1973 SC 944
Dalbir Singh Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1987 S.C. 1328
State of M.P. vs. Surendra Singh, AIR 2015 SC 398

For the Appellant: Mr. Ashok Chaudhary Additional Advocate General with Mr. V.S.Chauhan, Additional Advocate General and Mr.J.S.Guleria, Assistant Advocate General.

For the Respondents: Mr. Rajesh Mandhotra, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S.Rana, J.

Present appeal is filed against the judgment of acquittal passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge Court No.1 Kangra at Dharamshala in Sessions case No. 1-N of 2006 decided on dated 28.3.2008.

BRIEF FACTS OF THE PROSECUTION CASE:

2. Brief facts of the case as alleged by prosecution are that deceased Veena @ Sanju Devi was married with co-accused Kulwant about 10-12 years back. It is alleged by prosecution that co-accused Kaur Singh is father-in-law of deceased, co-accused Krishna Devi is mother-in-law of deceased, co-accused Parvesh Lata is sister-in-law and Ravindr is brother-in-law of deceased. It is alleged by prosecution that accused persons have committed cruelty with deceased Veena Devi for bringing insufficient dowry. It is alleged by prosecution that all accused persons used to call the deceased as 'Kanjar' (Person leading illicit life). It is further alleged by prosecution that deceased had narrated the incident of harassment to her father and her step mother and also narrated the incident of cruelty to Pardhan and ward member. It is alleged by prosecution that milk was not provided to the children of deceased Veena Devi and she has complained to her father two months prior to her death and thereafter on advice of Panchayat Pardhan complainant Chanda Singh had provided cow to deceased in order to arrange milk for her children. It is also alleged by prosecution that accused persons have cremated deceased Veena Devi without informing her parents and destroyed the evidence. It is alleged by prosecution that FIR Ext.PW1/A was recorded in police station Nurpur and after registration of FIR statements of prosecution witnesses were recorded. It is also alleged by prosecution that site plan Ext.PW14/A was prepared where deceased was cremated and thereafter ash and bones at the spot were collected and sealed in separate piece of cloth. It is alleged by prosecution that deceased had committed suicide by way of consuming poison due to cruelty committed upon the deceased in her matrimonial house. It is alleged by prosecution that post mortem of deceased was not allowed to be conducted. It is also alleged by prosecution that ash and bones of deceased were collected from cremation site on dated 30.7.2004 after four days of cremation of dead body of deceased and sent to FSL Junga for chemical analysis through C. Dhani Ram who deposited the same in FSL Junga and chemical analyst report Ext.PA was sought.

3. Charge was framed against the accused persons by learned Additional Sessions Judge Court No.1 Kangra at Dharamshala on dated 21.6.2006 under Sections 498-A read with Section 34 IPC, under Section 306 read with Section 34 IPC and under Section 201 read with Section 34 IPC. Accused person did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

4. Prosecution examined the following witnesses in support of its case:-

Sr.No.	Name of Witness
PW1	Chanda Singh

PW2	Veena Devi
PW3	Roshan Lal
PW4	Baldev Singh
PW5	Balbir Singh
PW6	Harbans Singh
PW7	Joginder Singh
PW8	Kuldeep Singh
PW9	Ramesh Chaudhary
PW10.	C. Dhani Ram
PW11	Anju
PW12	Dr. Sanjeev Aggarwal
PW13	Rajinder Singh
PW14	SI Parkash Chand
PW15	Inspector Nathu Ram

4.1 Prosecution also produced following piece of documentary evidence in support of its case:-

Sr.No.	Description:
Ex.PW1/A.	FIR
Ex.PW13/A.	Recovery memo
Ex.PW14/A	Site plan
Ext.PW14/B	Sample of seal
Ex.PW14/C to Ext.PW14/H	Statements
Ext.PA	Chemical Examiner report
Ext.P1	Parcel
Ex.P2 &Ext.P3	Ash and bones

5. Statements of the accused recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Accused did not lead any defence evidence. Learned trial Court acquitted all accused persons qua offence under Sections 498-A, 306 and 201 read with Section 34 IPC.

6. Feeling aggrieved against the judgment passed by learned Trial Court State of H.P. filed present appeal under Section 378 of Code of Criminal Procedure.

7. We have heard learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State of H.P. and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the respondent and also perused the entire record carefully.

8. Point for determination in present appeal is whether learned trial Court did not properly appreciate oral as well as documentary evidence placed on record and whether learned trial Court had committed miscarriage of justice.

9. ORAL EVIDENCE ADDUCED BY PROSECUTION:

9.1. PW1 Chanda Singh has stated that he was married twice. He has stated that his first wife Leela Devi died and from loins of his first wife he has two daughters and one son. He has stated that deceased Veena Devi @ Sanju was born from the loins of first wife. He has stated that deceased was married with co-accused Kalwant Singh about 10-12 years back and out of wedlock three children born. He has stated about 2/3 years before the death of Veena Devi she was harassed and beaten by accused persons present in Court. He has stated that accused persons used to harass and beat his daughter for bringing insufficient dowry and further stated that same fact was narrated to him directly by his deceased daughter Veena Devi. He has further stated that accused persons used to taunt deceased that she did not perform household work and also used to taunt the deceased that father of deceased had married second time. He has stated that accused persons used to address his deceased daughter as 'Kanjar' (Person leading illicit life). He has stated that whenever deceased used to come to her parental house she used to disclose the facts of harassment and beating. He has stated that deceased has also informed the facts of cruelty to Pardhan and ward members Prem Singh and Baldev Singh. He has stated that two months prior to her death she had visited her parental house and directly told him that accused persons were not provided milk to her children. He has stated that thereafter he had given cow to his daughter on advice of Pardhan of Panchayat. He has stated that his son-in-law co-accused Kulwant Singh is working in factory at Jammu. He has stated that on dated 25.7.2004 he came to know about 9 PM from Roshan about death of his daughter. He has stated that deceased had consumed poison because of harassment given to deceased by accused persons. He has stated that on dated 26.7.2004 he went to house of accused but dead body of his daughter was not found and deceased was already cremated by accused persons. He has stated that FIR Ext.PW1/A was lodged on police station Nurpur and further stated that at that time Pardhan, Prem Singh, his wife and Baldev Singh were also with him. He has admitted that all three children of deceased Veena Devi are residing in the house of accused. He has denied suggestion that on dated 25.7.2004 Pawan Kumar came to his house on motor cycle and informed that his daughter died because of vomiting and dysentery. He has denied suggestion that accused persons had not harassed and beaten his deceased daughter. He has denied suggestion that accused persons have not told his deceased daughter that she was daughter of 'Kanjar' (Person leading illicit life). He has denied suggestion that deceased has not personally narrated to him the facts of harassment. He has denied suggestion that deceased had died natural death due to dehydration. He has denied suggestion that he has inimical relations with accused persons and due to inimical relations he has deposed falsely against accused persons in present case.

9.2 PW2 Veena Devi Pardhan Gram Panchayat has stated that PW1 Chanda Singh belonged to her village and deceased Veena Devi was daughter of Chanda Singh and was married to co-accused Kulwant Singh in the year 1994. She has stated that her house is situated adjacent to the house of Chanda. She has stated that 2/3 months prior to death of deceased Veena Devi visited her parental house and deceased directly told her that she was ill-treated by accused persons for bringing insufficient dowry. She has stated that deceased has also told her directly that accused persons were taunting her that she did not perform the household work properly. She has stated that deceased also directly told her that deceased was beaten by accused persons. She has stated that deceased has also visited her parental house 2/3 months prior to her death and told that accused persons did not provide milk to her children and thereafter she requested her father to purchase a cow for deceased so that milk could be provided to children of deceased. She has stated that on dated 25.7.2004 she heard the cries of weeping from house of Chanda Singh and thereafter she went to the house of Chanda Singh and came to know about death of Veena Devi. She has stated that accused persons have not informed about death. She has stated that deceased had committed suicide by way of consuming poison as she was harassed and beaten by accused persons. She has admitted that children of deceased are residing in the house of accused. She has stated that she does not know that on dated 25.7.2004 at about 12 Noon Pawan Kumar co-villager of accused persons had visited the village on motor cycle and informed the parents of deceased about death. She had denied suggestion that deceased had not disclosed any fact to her during her life time relating to harassment by accused persons. She has denied suggestion that deceased had not narrated to her any fact during her life time relating to beatings to deceased by accused persons. She has denied suggestion that she did not advice PW1 Chanda to purchase cow for deceased. She has denied suggestion that PW1 has not given any cow to deceased. She has denied suggestion that being co-villager and relative of deceased she had given statement to police after due deliberation in connivance with Chanda.

9.3 PW3 Roshan Lal has stated that on dated 25.7.2004 at about 8.30 PM he was at bus stop in connection with his personal work. He has stated that two boys came there on motor cycle and they asked about Chanda Singh. He has stated that he told them that there are 3-4 Chanda Singh in their village. He has stated that thereafter they told him that they wanted to inquire about Chanda Singh whose daughter was married to co-accused Kulwant Singh of village Randoh. He has stated that thereafter they told him to inform that his daughter had died. He has stated that he informed Chanda Singh at about 8.45 PM. He has stated that he does not know that information about death of deceased was given to Chanda Singh at about 12 Noon. He has denied suggestion that he remained busy in deliberating false story against accused persons for about 2/3 days.

9.4 PW4 Baldev Singh has stated that he was BDC member during the year 2004 and further stated that he also remained Pardhan of G.P. Khehar. He has stated that he is familiar with Chanda Singh and further stated that Chanda Singh had married twice. He has stated that deceased Veena Devi was born from first wife. He has stated that deceased was married 8-10 years back with co-accused Kulwant Singh of village Randoh. He has stated that 2-3 years prior to death deceased came to her parents’ house and told her father that accused were harassing her for bringing insufficient dowry. He has stated that deceased father has also personally told him that deceased was taunted and ill-treated by her husband, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, father-in-law and mother-in-law. He has stated that he tried to console the deceased. He has further stated that deceased also came to her parental house two months prior to her death and told that accused were not providing milk to her children. He has stated that thereafter he asked the father of deceased Chanda Singh to purchase cow for deceased so that she could provide milk to her children. He has stated that on dated 26.7.2004 early in the morning Chanda Singh came to his home and informed that his daughter was killed and her last rites were also performed without informing him. He has stated that thereafter he along with Pardhan of Gram Panchayat along with 2/3 persons went to village Randoh. He has stated that he inquired from father-in-law of deceased as to how the deceased had died and thereafter father-in-law of deceased informed that deceased had died by consuming poison. He has stated that thereafter he also inquired from father-in-law of deceased as to why post mortem of deceased was not conducted but father-in-law of deceased did not reply. He has stated that deceased had died at 6 AM in the morning and was consigned to flames without giving intimation to parents of deceased. He has stated that deceased had died because of harassment given to her by accused persons. He has denied suggestion that deceased Veena Devi and her father Chanda Singh did not informed him about non-supply of milk to her children. He has denied suggestion that deceased Veena Devi and her father did not tell him about harassment and beatings on behalf of accused persons.

9.5 PW5 Balbir Singh has stated that Kaur Singh accused is his real uncle. He has stated that at about 6-7 AM he heard noise from house of Kaur Singh and thereafter he went to the house of Kaur Singh and he saw that Veena was vomiting in verandah of house. He has stated that Kaur Singh was not in his house and he arrived in house after some time. He has stated that he, Bhuri Singh, Kaur Singh took the deceased Veena Devi to hospital in tractor and thereafter from Bhojpur they hired a jeep and took Veena Devi to the hospital in jeep. He has stated that he remained outside the hospital. He has stated that he does not know what happened inside hospital because he had not gone inside hospital. The witness was declared hostile. He has stated that incident took place on dated 25.7.2004. He has denied suggestion that yellow water was emitting. He has denied suggestion that Kaur Singh had disclosed to medical officer that deceased Veena had consumed some poisonous substance. He has denied suggestion that medical officer had applied pipe to deceased and extracted the poisonous water from her body. He has denied suggestion that he has resiled from his earlier statement in order to save accused persons. He has admitted that co-accused Parvesh sister-in-law of deceased is married and is residing in her in-laws house. He has stated that one Pawan Kumar was sent at 12 Noon to the house of parents of deceased on motor cycle for giving information to parents of deceased about death and he came back around 1 PM.

9.6 PW6 Harbans Singh has stated that after retirement from Army he was performing the agriculture work at village Randoh. He has stated that he heard noise from house of accused and thereafter he asked his wife and thereafter his wife told him that wife of co-accused Kulwant Singh had died. He has stated that thereafter he went to the house of co-accused. He has stated that dead body of deceased was kept in room and many people of village had assembled. He has stated that he told Kaur Singh to inform parents of deceased about death but he kept mum. He has stated that co-accused Kulwant arrived at 4 PM and thereafter dead body was took for last rites at about 5 PM. He has stated that he had also joined the funeral procession. He has stated that he does not know that accused persons have sent Pawan Kumar to the house of parents of deceased to inform them about death.

9.7 PW7 Joginder Singh has stated that after retiring from Army he is plying Mahindra jeep bearing number HP-38-7203. He has stated that jeep is driven by him. He has stated that on dated 25.7.2004 Bhuri Singh of village Randoh came to his house and told that one lady was to be taken to hospital as she was unconscious. He has stated that lady was brought upto Bhojpur in tractor and thereafter she was took to Pathankot in private hospital in his jeep. He has stated that accused Kaur Singh, Manju and Balbir were accompanying the deceased. He has stated that lady was in unconscious condition and she was daughter-in-law of co-accused Kaur Singh. He has stated that deceased had vomited in the vehicle and further stated that deceased was took to Krishna hospital. He has stated that he does not know what happened inside the hospital. He has stated that thereafter the person who took the lady to hospital came out and told that Veena had died. He has stated that thereafter he brought back the dead body to place near the village of accused. He has stated that thereafter he returned to his village.

9.8 PW8 Kuldeep Singh has stated that on dated 25.7.2004 he had gone to his fields at about 7 AM. He has stated that his sister-in-law came to him in field and told him that Veena was ill and she was to be taken to hospital. He has stated that he took his tractor and took deceased Veena upon tractor upto Bhojpur. He has stated that Balbir Singh, Kaur Singh, Manju, Bhuri Singh were with deceased Veena Devi and further stated that Veena Devi was unconscious when he took her in his tractor. He has stated that thereafter from Bhojpur the deceased was took to hospital at Pathankot in jeep of Joginder. He has stated that thereafter they returned back at 10.30 AM with dead body of deceased. He has stated that dead body of deceased was consigned to flames at 4 PM. He has stated that he does not know what was consumed by deceased. The witness was declared hostile. He has stated that accused Kaur Singh is his real uncle and his wife is real aunt and other co-accused are his brother and sister. He has stated that he wanted that accused should be saved from criminal punishment. He has stated that he does not know whether Pawan was sent to the house of parents of deceased to inform about the death.

9.9 PW9 HC Ramesh Chaudhary has stated that in the year 2004 he was posted as MHC in P.S. Nurpur and on dated 23.7.2004 Parkash Chand had deposited with him one parcel sealed with seal 'M' containing bones and ash. He has stated that he recorded the entry in register and thereafter sent to FSL Junga through C. Dhani Ram vide RC No. 175/04. He has stated that after depositing the articles in office of FSL Junga RC was returned by constable. He has stated that articles remained intact in his custody.

9.10, PW10 C. Dhani Ram has stated that in the year 2004 he was posted in P.S. Nurpur and further stated that on dated 10.10.2004 MHC Ramesh Chand handed over him one parcel, sample of seal and docket vide RC No. 175/04 for depositing the same in FSL Junga. He has stated that he deposited the same in office in proper condition and further stated that articles remained intact during his custody.

9.11 PW11 Anju has stated that accused Kaur Singh is her father-in-law and her house is situated at about 30-40 feet from house of accused. She has stated that on dated 25.7.2004 she was milking the cow at 7 AM in her house. She has stated that Bhuri Singh came to her house and asked and inquired about Kuldeep Singh. She has stated that Kuldeep Singh is her brother-in-law. She has stated that when she reached in house of co-accused Kaur Singh at that time whole villagers were present there and she has stated that Veena was vomiting in verandah and she came to know that Veena was ill. She has stated that she does not know that what Veena Devi had consumed. She has stated that thereafter Veena took to hospital in tractor of her brother-in-law and she, her husband, Kaur Singh and Bhuri Singh were also accompanying Veena Devi in tractor which was driven by her brother-in-law Kuldeep Singh. She has stated that they travelled in tractor upto Bhojpur and thereafter they went to Krishna hospital at Pathankot in a hired vehicle from there. She has stated that at Krishna hospital the deceased was checked by medical officer. Again stated that she was sitting in vehicle and she does not know what was stated by doctor. She has stated that from Krishna hospital they came back. She has stated that Veena Devi had died on way to hospital. She has stated that thereafter deceased was took to cremation place for her last rites. She has stated that Parmanand was sent to call the parents of deceased but none came from parents' side of deceased. She has denied suggestion that Bhuri Singh had told her that Beena Devi had consumed poison due to which she would be taken to hospital. She has denied suggestion that doctor working in Krishna hospital informed that deceased had died due to consumption of poison. She has denied suggestion that deceased was not brought to government hospital deliberately by accused persons. She has denied suggestion that parents of deceased were not informed about death of deceased. She has admitted that all accused are relatives i.e. father-in-law, mother-in-law and brother-in-law. She has denied suggestion that in order to save accused persons she has resiled from her previous statement. She has admitted that parents of deceased could not come on the day for cremation and they came on next day.

9.12 PW12 Dr. Sanjeev Aggarwal has stated that he was proprietor of Krishna hospital Pathankot. He has stated that he does not know what had actually happened. He has stated that some police officials came to the hospital for inquiries. He has denied suggestion that on dated 25.7.2004 accused persons present in Court have brought deceased Beena Devi to his clinic at about 8.30 AM. He has denied suggestion that he examined the deceased and told the accused to take the deceased to government hospital because deceased had consumed poison.

9.13 PW13 Rajinder has stated that he remained associated with police. He has stated that police has collected the ash and bones and were sealed in cloth parcel with seal 'M' and same were took into possession vide memo Ext.PW13/A. He has stated that he could not state that dead body of deceased was consigned to flames in absence of her parents. He has stated that he does not know that accused persons have informed the police officials that cause of death of deceased was consumption of poison. Witness was declared hostile by prosecution. He has admitted that accused had helped his wife in the elections of Panchayat. He has denied suggestion that he has resiled from his earlier statement from portion 'A' to 'A' and 'B' to 'B' in order to give benefit to accused.

9.14 PW14 SI Parkash Chand has stated that during the year 2004 he was posted as ASI in P.S. Gangth. He has stated that FIR Ext.PW1/A was registered and matter was investigated. He has stated that he recorded statements of witnesses and thereafter he went to village Randoh. He has stated that he also went to cremation ground and prepared site plan Ext.PW14/A. He has stated that from cremation ground he collected ash and bones. He has stated that accused persons have not informed the parents of deceased and also did not inform the police officials qua consumption of poison by deceased. He has stated that accused persons destroyed the evidence by way of burning the dead body and thereafter took the bones to Haridwar on the same day. He has stated that deceased had died on dated 25.7.2004. He has stated that no report of incident was lodged till dated 30.7.2004. He has denied suggestion that deceased had died due to vomiting and dysentery. He has denied suggestion that FIR was lodged after due deliberation at the instance of Pardhan, Veena Devi, Baldev Singh and parents of deceased. He has denied suggestion that he recorded the statements of witnesses according to his own choice. He has denied suggestion that he has implicated the accused persons forcibly in false case.

9.15 PW15 Inspector Nathu Ram has stated that in the year 2004 he was posted as SHO P.S. Nurpur. He has stated that case file was taken by him for investigation on dated 1.8.2004. He has stated that he recorded statements of six witnesses correctly as per their versions. He has stated that after completion of investigation ASI Parkash Chand handed over the file to him. He has stated that after receipt of FSL report he prepared final report. He has denied suggestion that deceased was residing in her in-laws house properly. He has stated that deceased was treated in her matrimonial house with cruelty. He has denied suggestion that he recorded statements of witnesses according to his own choice.

10. Statements of accused recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Accused have stated that deceased had died due to natural death and further stated that deceased was not harassed in any manner and accused have also stated that parents of deceased were informed well in time and when they did not come only then deceased was cremated. Accused persons did not lead any defence evidence.

11. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State that offence of abetment under Section 306 IPC is proved against accused persons beyond reasonable doubt is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that 'sui' means self and 'cide' means self-killing. It is well settled law that there should be direct nexus between abetment and suicide and there should be proximity of time between abetment and suicide. It is well settled law that there are two types of abetment (1) Active abetment (2) Passive abetment. Active abetment is done to end the life of deceased while in passive abetment something is not done to save the life of deceased. Court has carefully perused the testimonies of PW1 to PW15. There is no positive, cogent and reliable evidence on record in order to prove that accused persons had abetted the deceased to commit suicide. Hence it is held that criminal offence of abetment is not proved against accused persons beyond reasonable doubt because there is no positive evidence of proximity of time between abetment and suicide in present case. See 1997 (4) Supreme Court page 214 titled Sangaralonia Sreenoo vs. State of A.P. See AIR 2011 SC page 239 titled M.Mohans vs. State.

12. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State that prosecution has proved beyond reasonable doubt that accused persons have committed criminal offence under Section 498-A IPC is accepted for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. We have carefully perused the testimony of PW1 Chanda Singh. PW1 Chanda Singh has specifically stated in positive manner that deceased was harassed in her matrimonial house and was beaten in her matrimonial house by accused persons for bringing insufficient dowry. PW1 has also specifically stated in positive manner that accused persons used to address the deceased as daughter of 'kanjar' (Person leading illicit life). PW1 has specifically stated in positive manner that above stated fact was directly narrated by deceased to him when deceased had visited her parental house. We are of the opinion that uttering the word 'Kanjar' (Person leading illicit life) to a married woman ipso facto amounts to mental cruelty upon married woman. It is well settled law that cruelty is of two types i.e. mental cruelty and physical cruelty. By way of uttering the word 'Kanjar' (Person leading illicit life) to deceased the mental cruelty in matrimonial house upon deceased is proved on part of accused persons.

13. We have carefully perused the testimony of PW2 Veena Devi. PW2 Veena Devi who was Pardhan of Gram Panchayat has specifically stated in positive manner when she appeared in witness box that deceased had directly told her when deceased came to her parental house that her husband, her sister-in-law and others ill-treated her for bringing insufficient dowry and deceased had also directly narrated to PW2 Veena Devi Pardhan that deceased was beaten by accused persons in her matrimonial house. Mental cruelty upon deceased in her matrimonial house is proved beyond reasonable doubt as per testimony of PW2. We have carefully perused the testimony of PW4 Baldev Singh BDC member. PW4 has specifically stated in positive manner that when deceased came to her parental house she told her father about cruelty and demand of insufficient dowry and thereafter father of deceased directly told these facts to PW4. Testimony of PW4 is also trustworthy reliable and inspires confidence of Court. It was held in case reported in 1997(3) Crimes 362 (P&H) titled Sita Ram and others vs. State of Haryana and another that cruelty is not physical only but mental cruelty is also cruelty as defined under Section 498-A IPC. It is well settled law that offence under Section 498-A IPC is continuing offence. (See 1998 Cr.L.J. 554 titled Jagdish and others vs. State of Rajasthan and another) Court is of the opinion that uttering work 'kanjar' (Person leading in illicit relations) to a married woman in her matrimonial house amounts to mental cruelty as defined under Section 498-A IPC. It is well settled law that every woman has legal right to live in her matrimonial house with dignity and honour and any derogatory remarks to a married woman in her matrimonial house amounts to mental cruelty.

14. Another submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State that criminal offence under Section 201 IPC is also proved beyond reasonable doubt against accused persons is rejected being denied of any force for reasons hereinafter mentioned. Ingredients of Section 201 IPC are (1) That accused should have knowledge that an offence has been committed (2) That thereafter accused persons have caused disappearance of evidence of commission of criminal offence. See AIR 1999 Supreme Court page 3435 titled Ram Saran Mahto vs. State of Bihar. In the present case two persons were sent to inform parents of deceased about death of deceased and thereafter about 4 p.m. deceased was cremated in presence of co-villagers. There was no concealment of dead body on the part of accused person. All the co-villagers were allowed to see dead body in the house of accused persons. It is held that offence under Section 201 IPC is not proved on record beyond reasonable doubt.

15. Submission of learned defence Advocate appearing on behalf of accused persons that conduct of complainant himself renders the case of prosecution doubtful because incident took place on dated 25.7.2004 and information in police station was given on dated 30.7.2004 after a gape of sufficient time and on this ground appeal filed by State be dismissed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. In present case delay in lodging the FIR is not fatal to prosecution because there was mental shock to the father of deceased when deceased had died in her matrimonial house all of a sudden. PW1 has specifically stated in positive manner that on dated 26.7.2004 he had gone to the house of accused and dead body of his daughter was not found and it was informed to him that deceased was cremated by accused persons. He has stated that thereafter on dated 27.7.2004 PW1 father of deceased had gone to police station Indora and thereafter officials of P.S. Indora informed him that case would be registered in police station Nurpur. Thereafter PW1 father of deceased went to P.S. Nurpur and criminal case was registered. We are of the opinion that delay in filing FIR has been satisfactorily explained by PW1 when he appeared in witness box. Hence it is held that delay in filing the FIR is not fatal to prosecution case.

16. Another submission of learned defence Advocate appearing on behalf of accused that there is material contradiction and improvement in testimonies of PW1 and PW4 and on this ground appeal filed by State be dismissed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. We have carefully perused testimonies of PW1 and PW4. Incident took place on 25.7.2004 and testimonies of prosecution witnesses were recorded on 6.10.2006, 10.10.2006, 11.10.2006, 12.10.2006, 12.11.2006, 21.11.2007, 22.11.2007, 22.1.2008 and 23.1.2008 after a gape of sufficient time. We are of the opinion that minor contradictions are bound to come in criminal case when testimonies of prosecution witnesses are recorded after a gape of sufficient time. In present case learned defence Advocate appearing on behalf of accused did not point out any material contradiction which goes to the root of case. It is also well settled law that concept of falsus in uno falsus in omnibus is not applicable in criminal cases. (See AIR 1980 SC 957 titled Bhee Ram vs. State of Haryana. See AIR 1971 SC 2505 titled Rai Singh vs. State of Haryana.)

17. Another submission of learned defence Advocate appearing on behalf of accused that deceased was residing separately from her in-laws and her in-laws have been falsely implicated in present case is rejected being devoid of any force. No suggestion has been given by accused persons to the prosecution witnesses when they appeared in witness box that deceased used to reside separately from her in-laws prior to her death. No reason has been assigned by accused persons as to why suggestion was not given to prosecution witnesses when they appeared in witness box that deceased was residing separately from her in-laws. There is no evidence on record in order to prove that deceased was residing separately from her in-laws prior to her death. In view of above stated facts plea that deceased was residing separately from her in-laws is not tenable before High Court of H.P. for the first time.

18. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of accused that Smt. Parvesh Kumar sister-in-law of deceased was married at a distant place and no role has been attributed by prosecution to her is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. PW1 Chanda Singh has specifically stated in positive manner that deceased had directly disclosed him the factum of cruelty on the part of accused persons when deceased came to her parental house. Even PW2 Veena Devi has specifically stated when she appeared in witness box that deceased had directly narrated to her when she came to her parental house that accused persons have ill-treated her for bringing insufficient dowry and PW2 has also stated that deceased had directly informed her the fact of taunting and beating the deceased in her matrimonial house. Testimonies of PW1 and PW2 are trustworthy reliable and inspire confidence of Court. There is no evidence on record in order to prove that co-accused Parvesh Lata did not come to matrimonial house of deceased along with her husband at several intervals prior to death of deceased.

19. Another submission of learned defence Advocate appearing on behalf of accused that no offence has been committed by husband of deceased because husband of deceased was working at a distant place at Jammu and on this ground appeal filed by State be dismissed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that deceased had committed suicide in her matrimonial house leaving behind her three minor children. Court is of the opinion that no mother would commit suicide in her matrimonial house without any reasonable cause leaving her three minor children at the mercy of society. Factum of mental cruelty was informed by deceased during her life time to her father PW1 and also informed to PW2 Pardhan of G.P. Court is of the opinion that husband is under legal obligation to maintain his legally wedded wife in her matrimonial house properly. In present case it is proved on record that derogatory remarks 'kanjar' (Person who deals in illicit relations) were given to deceased in her matrimonial house. It is well settled law that offence under Section 498-A is a continuing offence and criminal offence under Section 498-A is offence against society at large. Mental harassment by way of demand of dowry and by way of uttering derogatory words to a married woman in her matrimonial house is not permissible in advance civilized society. Criminal offence under Section 498-A IPC is punishable upto three years imprisonment and fine. As per Section 468 of Cr.P.C. 1973 cognizance of criminal offence can be taken within three years if punishment of criminal offence is exceeding one year but not exceeding three years. In present case there is no evidence on record in order to prove that husband of deceased and sister-in-law of deceased did not come to their parental house within three years prior to the death of deceased. No suggestion has been given to prosecution witnesses that co-accused Kulwant and co-accused Parvesh did not come to their parental house within three years prior to death of deceased. On contrary there is positive cogent and reliable evidence on record that deceased had personally told to PW1 when she came to her parental house within two month prior to her death about factum of cruelty committed by accused persons.

20. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of accused that minor children of deceased have not been examined by prosecution in present case and on this ground appeal filed by State be dismissed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. We are of the opinion that number of witnesses to prove the fact is not required as per Section 134 of Indian Evidence Act 1872. We are of the opinion that fact in criminal case can be proved even by testimony of a single witness. The facts of demand of dowry and facts of mental cruelty and fact of utterance of words 'kanjari' (Person who deals in illicit relations) are proved on record in present case as per testimonies of PW1, PW2 and PW4.

21. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of accused that seller of cow is not examined in present case and on this ground appeal filed by State be dismissed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. In present case it is proved on record as per testimonies of PW1, PW2 and PW4 that father of deceased had provided cow to deceased so that deceased could provide milk to her minor children. Testimonies of PW1, PW2 and Ext.P4 remain unrebutted on record. It is held that examination of seller of cow was not mandatory in the presence of testimonies of PW1, PW2, and PW4.

22. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of accused that PW1, PW2 and PW4 are interested witnesses and conviction under Section 498-A IPC could not be given to accused persons on their testimonies is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that mental cruelty upon the deceased was committed in four walls of matrimonial house. It is well settled law that generally married women used to narrate the factum of mental cruelty to her near relatives only. It is held that procurement of independent witness is impossible when mental cruelty is committed upon married woman inside the four walls of residential house. It was held in case reported in 1993(3) Crimes 518 SC titled State of West Bengal vs. Orilal Jaiswal and another that where evidence about physical and mental torture of deceased came from relatives same should not be discarded simply on ground of absence of corroboration from independent witness.

23. Facts of case law cited by learned defence Advocate appearing on behalf of accused persons i.e. (2014)9 SCC 365 titled Ramaiah alias Rama vs. State of Karnataka (2013)16 SCC 421 titled Bhola Ram vs. State of Punjab, 2012(1) Shim.LC 108 titled State of H.P. vs. Umardeen , 2012(2) Shim. LC 710 titled State of H.P. vs. Ani Kumar and others and facts of present case are entirely different. It is held that case law cited supra by learned defence Advocate are not applicable in facts and circumstances of present case and case law cited supra are distinguishable.

24. It is well settled law that conviction could be based on testimony of a single witness in the criminal case if testimony of single witness inspires confidence of Court. (See: AIR 1973 SC 944 Jose Vs. The State of Kerla (Full Bench) It was held in case reported in AIR 1987 S.C. 1328 Dalbir Singh Vs. State of Punjab that there is no hard and fast rule which could be laid down for appreciation of evidence and it is a question of fact and each case has to be decided on the fact as they proved in a particular case.

25. In view of above stated facts and case law cited supra appeal is partly allowed. Acquittal of accused persons qua criminal offence punishable under Section 306 and 201 IPC are upheld. Acquittal of accused persons qua criminal offence punishable under Section 498-A read with Section 34 IPC is set aside and all accused persons are convicted qua criminal offence punishable under Section 498-A read with Section 34 IPC. Judgment of learned trial Court is modified to this extent only. Now convicted persons be heard on quantum of sentence on 6.5.2015.

****

Cr. Appeal No. 569 of 2008

QUANTUM OF SENTENCE

6.5.2015

Present:- Mr. Ashok Chaudhary, Additional Advocate General with Mr.V.S. Chauhan, Additional Advocate General, and Mr. J.S. Guleria, Assistant Advocate General, for the appellant.

Mr. Rajesh Mandhotra, Advocate with the convicted persons.

Convicted persons are in custody of HHC Nardev Singh No. 1142 P.S. Nurpur, C. Darpan Kumar No. 1064 P.P. Gangth, L.C. Rita Devi No. 617, P.S. Nurpur, L.C. Mumtaz No. 578 P.S. Jawali, ASI Ashok Kumar P.P. Gangth and ASI Sukhdev Raj P.S. Jawali.

26. We have heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of convicted persons and learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State upon quantum of sentence.

27. Learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the convicted persons submitted before us that age of convicted Kaur Singh is 80 years, age of convicted Krishna Devi is 75 years, age of convicted Parvesh Lata is 50 years, age of convicted Kulwant Singh is 45 years and age of convicted Ravinder Singh is 40 years and they are first offenders and they have family to support and convicted persons namely Kaur Singh, Krishna Devi and Parvesh Lata are suffering from medical ailment and lenient view be adopted. On the contrary learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State submitted before us that offence under Section 498-A IPC is an offence against Society and deterrent punishment be given to convicted persons in order to maintain majesty of law.

28. We have considered the submissions of learned Additional Advocate General appearing for the State and learned defence counsel appearing on behalf of convicted persons carefully upon quantum of sentence.

29. We are of the opinion that offences under Section 498-A IPC are increasing in the society day by day. We are of the opinion that it is not expedient in the ends of justice to release the convicted persons under Probation of Offenders Act. It was held in case reported in AIR 2015 SC 398 titled State of M.P. vs. Surendra Singh that sentence should commensurate with gravity of offence. Keeping in view the fact that convicted Kaur Singh is 80 years old, convicted Krishna is 75 years old, convicted Parvesh Lata is 50 years old and in view of the fact that these convicted persons are suffering from medical ailment and keeping in view the fact that all convicted are first offenders, we sentence the convicted persons as follow:-

Sr. No.	Nature of Offence	Sentence imposed
1.	Offence under Section 498-A IPC	Each convicted persons are sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for one month twenty days and fine to the tune of Rs.10,000/- (Rupees ten thousand only) is imposed upon each convicted person. In default of payment of fine each convicted persons shall further undergo simple imprisonment for twelve days.

30. Period of custody during investigation, inquiry and trial will be set off. Certified copy of judgment and sentence will be supplied to convicted persons forthwith free of cost by learned Registrar (Judicial). Case property if any will be confiscated to State of H.P. after the expiry of period of filing further legal proceedings before the competent Court of law. The Registrar (Judicial) will prepare the warrant of commitment strictly in accordance with law. File of learned trial Court along with certified copy of judgment and sentence be transmitted forthwith. Appeal stands disposed of. All pending miscellaneous application(s) if any also stands disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Dharam Singh Negi …Petitioner.
Versus
State of H.P. & others …Respondents.

CWP No. 1890 of 2015-I
Decided on: 07.05.2015

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was debarred from taking part in any activities or proceedings of the Gram Panchayat by the Deputy Commissioner- an appeal was preferred before Divisional Commissioner which was dismissed- held that order passed by Divisional Commissioner is non-speaking one, hence, order passed by him set aside with a direction to pass a reasoned and speaking order. (Para-2 to 5)

For the petitioner: Mr. Deepak Kaushal, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General, with Mr. Romesh Verma & Mr. V.S. Chauhan, Additional Advocate Generals, and Mr. J.K. Verma & Mr. Kush Sharma, Deputy Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

Petitioner has called in question order, dated 4th March, 2015, made by the Deputy Commissioner, District Sirmaur at Nahan, whereby he has been debarred from participating and taking part in any of the activities or proceedings of the Panchayat for the period of six months (Annexure P-6) and order, dated 16th March, 2015, made by the Divisional Commissioner, Shimla, whereby the appeal filed by the writ petitioner came to be dismissed (Annexure P-7).

2. It appears that order, dated 4th March, 2015, (Annexure P-6) has been passed by the Deputy Commissioner in terms of the powers vested with him under Section 146 (1-A) of the Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Act, 1994 (for short "the Act"), which reads as under:

> "146. Removal of office bearers of Panchayats.
>
> ...................
>
> (1-A) The State Government, the Divisional Commissioner or the Deputy Commissioner, as the case may be, may, on consideration of the enquiry report or if it thinks proper, for reasons to be recorded in writing, revoke the suspension order and instead of removing an office bearer, warn him to be vigilant in the discharge of his duties or may also debar him from taking part in any act or proceedings of the Panchayat for the period of six months."

3. Feeling aggrieved, the petitioner filed an appeal before the Divisional Commissioner, Shimla, which came to be dismissed vide order, dated 16th March, 2015 (Annexure P-7).

4. We have gone through order, dated 16th March, 2015, made by the Divisional Commissioner, is a non-speaking one.

5. Accordingly, order, dated 16th March, 2015, made by the Divisional Commissioner, (Annexure P-7) is set aside, the appeal is restored and the Divisional Commissioner is directed to decide the appeal afresh after hearing the parties by passing a reasoned and speaking order within two weeks with effect from 11th May, 2015.

6. Parties are directed to cause appearance before the Divisional Commissioner, Shimla, on 11th May, 2015.

7. The writ petition is disposed of, as indicated hereinabove, alongwith all pending applications. Copy dasti.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Soni Gulati & Co. ....Petitioner.

Versus

JHS Svendgaard Laboratories Limited ...Respondent.

Company Petition No. 8 of 2009.
Judgment reserved on: 17.4.2015
Date of decision: May 7, 2015.

Companies Act, 1956 - Section 433 (e)- Petitioner claimed that respondent/company was indebted to the petitioner for a Sum of Rs. 12,06,580/- against Bill dated 26.9.2006- service tax on previous bill of Rs. 30,000/- and penalty of Rs.1,50,000/- for backing out of the contract is payable- held, that where the company disputes the claim and the dispute is bona-fide, it cannot be said that company was avoiding its liability- said inference can only be drawn when debt is undisputed or bona-fide or some sham defence is sought to be raised towards the liability -winding up petition is not a legitimate means of seeking to enforce payment of the debt which is bonafide disputed by the Company- balance-sheet shows that Company is financially sound and solvent – respondent has disputed the debt and it cannot be said that there was no bonafide reason for non-payment of the amount- petition dismissed. (Para-22 to 37)

Cases referred:

Amalgamated Commercial Traders (P) Ltd. Vs. A.C.K. Krishnaswami 1965 (35) Company Cases 456
Madhusudan Gordhandas & Co. Vs. Madhu Woollen Industries (P) Ltd. 1971(3) SCC 632
Pradeshiya Industrial and Investment Corporation of Uttar Pradesh Vs. North India Petro Chemical and Another 1994 (79) Company Cases 835
Mediquip Systems (P) Ltd. Vs. Proxima Medical System GmbH 2005(7) SCC 42
Vijay Industries Vs. NATL Technologies Limited 2009(3) SCC 527
IBA Health (India) Private Limited vs. INFO-Drive Systems SDN. BHD. (2010) 10 SCC 553

For the Petitioner : Mr. K.D. Sood, Senior Advocate with Ms. Ranjana Chauhan, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. Atul Jhingan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, J.

The petitioner by medium of this petition under Section 433(e) of the Companies Act, 1956 seeks winding up of the respondent company.

2. It has been averred that the petitioner firm is registered with the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India and is carrying on the profession of the Chartered Accountants. Whereas, the respondent - company is a Public Limited Company constituted under the provisions of the Companies Act, 1956 and is limited by shares and is indebted to the petitioner for a Sum of Rs.12,06,580/- against Bill No. TS 5/09/06 dated 26.9.2006 for rendering services in connection with preparation of detailed project report for getting term loan and working capital limits sanctioned from Punjab National Bank. In addition, service tax or previous bill of Rs.30,000/- and penalty for default in honouring the contract/backing out amounting to Rs.1,50,000/- is also payable.

3. It is further averred that the respondent used to avail professional services of the petitioner in matters of preparation of project reports, conducting audit, liaison with banks for term loans and working capital etc. and even company law matters. The petitioner also used to render such services on credit and also after taking some advance from time to time. The petitioner used to take instructions from the respondent on e-mail from its Managing Director as well as other officers of the company. Even information supplied for onward submission to various authorities/Bank was through e-mail.

4. It is further averred that the petitioner had been doing his work properly but suddenly problem started when the Managing Director asked the petitioner to show EPS of more than Rs.15/- on a share of Rs.10/- on the balance sheet of September, 2005 on annualized basis (as per MD this was the minimum EPS wanted by MB).

5. In addition to this, the petitioner pointed out that:

(i). the land building at MCIA which is in the name of Proprietor of erstwhile firm should be transferred to the company as part of going concern or disclosure made for the same ;

(ii). identified some nonexistent assets and was against issue of shares to promoters against that and told not to take over those assets even from the promoters as on 31.3.2005;

(iii). the petitioner refused to compromise with the professional duties cast upon by the professional ethics.

This was sometime in Nov. 2005. On 29th Nov. 2005 the petitioner got e-mail from MD asking to go slow with bank proposal, so as to match it with post public issue. The bank proposal at that time was in its final stage. On Dec. 27, 2005, petitioner got a call from MD and then an e-mail message that MD wants to change the auditors. Petitioner was offered assignment of internal audit and all work of IPO, but terms were not acceptable and so he declined the offer.

6. It is further averred that during February petitioner was asked to resign as auditor which was done. Later petitioner was asked to give no objection certificate by new auditors which was also given but informed that the fee amounting to Rs.6.65 lacs for work done has not been paid. However, this amount was settled by MD at Rs.3 lacs as time already spent and claimed in the bill would be compensated by the continued assignment of bank loan proposal and with the condition that petitioner will continue with the job of Bank Term Loan and w/c limits of Rs.25 crore with fee of 0.5% of sanctioned amount. In addition, it was agreed that the fee settled at Rs.3 lacs would include Rs.1.5 lacs as advance towards bank work (because the significant part this work has already been done and in Principal sanction obtained). The terms of payment were Rs.50,000/- cheque dated 16.2.2006, Rs.1,00,000/- cheque dated March, 2006, Rs.2,00,000/- on clearance from Zonal office of the bank, Rs.5,00,000/- on sanction and balance on take over from Bank of Punjab.

7. However, the work was to be done in such a way that sanction matches with the Public issue. Letter was sent through e-mail for the same, as the work was done very fast as compared to the expectations of the respondent during the first assignment. Further, it was agreed that if at any stage the company backs out/or do not take the loan sanctioned/or take only in parts, the fee will still be payable as agreed and additional Rs.1,50,000/- being agreed advance will also be payable as penalty by the respondent in case the loan is not taken or company backs out at any stage.

8. It is further averred that no dues certificate was issued to enable the new auditors to take the assignment, but the respondent was asked not to put any date on that, because the auditors may have to sign the balance sheet as on 31.12.2005 in back date, as prospectus etc. has already been finalized and circulated. The petitioner looking at the time spent on the job including procuring Principal sanction from PNB, preparing various documents and taking over of or running business of firms, incorporation of the respondent company etc. accepted this. But by the time fresh papers were filed with PNB the time of validity of IPS was over, so the case had to be filed afresh by preparing fresh documents.

9. It is the further case of petitioner that respondent through MD and other staff continued to chase the petitioner on daily basis till final sanction on 23rd September, 2006. The petitioner handed over the bill for Rs.12,06,580/- to the MD of the company on 26.9.2006 after final sanction of the loan. It is averred by the petitioner that during personal visit of the partner of petitioner to company office on 23rd, 25th September, 2006, the MD of the respondent promised the payment after he would be free from the public issue i.e. a week later but was asked to deliver the bill immediately since the MD was going to various cities for IPO conferences during those days.

10. It is averred that these promises continued to be postponed and commitment changed for availing the facilities sanctioned which constrained the petitioner to issue legal notice on 9.1.2007 asking to pay the amount due within 30 days and on failure to pay winding up petition would be filed. Reply to the notice was received on 5.9.2007 wherein respondent accused the petitioner for blackmailing etc. and claimed that all payments had already been made to the petitioner. On 11.10.2007, the petitioner sent a letter to the MD advising him to inform the facts of the case to his solicitor enclosing some papers.

11. It is further averred that the partner of the petitioner got a telephone call from the elder brother of the MD of respondent Mr. Punit, who is settled in USA, advising not to take any legal step and assured that he will convince the MD to make the payment. During February, 2008 the partner of petitioner got a call from MD of respondent asking him to prepare Power Project Report which the petitioner refused on the pretext of his outstanding dues. During May & June, 2008, it is claimed that the partner of petitioner again visited to MD of respondent and requested him to pay outstanding amount upon which MD threatened the petitioner with dire consequences. The partner of the petitioner had suffered heart attack on 26.6.2008 and was admitted in CCU of IGMC, Shimla.

12. On these allegations, it is alleged that respondent had "failed and "ignored" to make payment of the outstanding amount which had become due on 26.9.2009 alongwith penalty of Rs.1,50,000/- and interest on the whole amount. It has been prayed that the respondent-company having its registered office at Trilokpur Road, Kheri (Kala-Amb), Tehsil Nahan, District Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh be ordered to be wounded up being "unable to pay its debts".

13. The respondent opposed the petition by filing its reply wherein preliminary objections regarding suppressing of material facts, malafide intentions, maintainability, disputed question of facts, claim being time barred, dismissal for non-compliance of Section 434(1)(a) of the Companies Act, 1956, no legally recoverable dues payable by the respondent, non-performance of the contract etc. were raised. In paragraphs I, J and K of the reply, the respondent has made the following averments:-

> "I. that the respondent has paid all fees and expenses to the petitioner which has been duly admitted and acknowledged by them which is clear from the document filed b y the petitioner appearing at page No.70 of their paper book wherein it has been stated by them on 11.2.2006 that they acted as the Statutory Auditors of the respondent company till 14.1.2005. Further, it has been declared therein by the petitioner that they have received all the claims/dues from respondent for whatever work done by them for the respondent and no dues/claim is pending from respondent in respect of any matter whatsoever, whether in their professional or personal capacity.

J. That it is most humbly submitted that the petitioner volunteered to the respondent to get them term loan and working capital limits of Rs.23 crores sanctioned from Punjab National Bank on the condition that they will get the Zonal Office clearance by 6.3.2006, proposal cleared from Head Office by 25.3.2006, L/C opening by 1.4.2006 and get the sanction on or before 15th April, 2006 vide agreement in writing signed by the parties on 11.2.2006. The petitioner received a sum of Rs.1,50,000/- from the respondent through three cheques for Rs.50,000/- each dated 16.2.2006, 22.2.2006, and 25.3.2006 respectively towards advance for sanction. However, due to the inability of the petitioner to obtain the promised financial facility and loan and as a result of non availability of funds in time, respondent company suffered huge loss on account of Excise Duty loss as the land was already bought by the respondent company to set up their unit through internal resources but was unable to construct and move production to the tax free location due to inordinate delay and pressure tactics by the petitioner to continue extract money on one pretext or the other. It is submitted that apart from these the petitioner's partner Sh. S.C. Soni cajoled the MD of the respondent company to cough out money in cash on the ground of his personal difficulties like his child's admission to college etc., and Rs.1,00,000/- (Rupees one lakh) was thus extracted with promise to return the same on completion of work and on payment of fees which also he is liable to return.

K. That it is most respectfully submitted that petitioner failed inter alia to get the sanction of the financial facility and loan within the time as mutually agreed between the parties and thereby became liable to refund to the respondent the said entire advance received i.e. Rs.1,50,000/- . This is evident and clear from the various documents filed by the petitioner with their paper book. It is submitted that the petitioner also made the respondent pay a sum of Rs.5,00,000/- (Rupees five lakhs) to the bank towards processing fees much before the proposal was sanctioned. Despite repeated correspondences of the respondent to the bank to return the same the bank is yet to return the same causing loss to the respondent. Thus, the petitioner by their various acts of omission and commission has put the respondent to great loss and damages which he is fully liable to compensate.

14. Similarly in para-7 of the reply on merits the respondent has stated as thus:-

"It is most humbly submitted that respondent company had appointed their Merchant Bankers in August 2005 and filed RHP in SEBI by Feb, 2006. The petitioner was out of the whole IPO matter the day respondent appointed their Merchant Banker and EPS allegations of petitioner is nothing but a means to blackmail the respondent company. It is wrong and denied that the alleged work was done very fast as compared to the alleged expectations of the defendant during the alleged first assignment as alleged or otherwise. It is wrong and denied that the defendant was asked not to put any date on the No Dues Certificate as alleged or otherwise. Even otherwise, since it is a no objection to be given by the petitioner where is the question of asking defendant not to put a date on the same and especially when a date was already put on the same by the petitioner. It is wrong and denied that bill for Rs.12,06,580/- was delivered by petitioner on 26.9.2006 as alleged or otherwise. It is denied that alleged last letter the petitioner got from the defendant regarding alleged work was on 12th Sept. 2006 as alleged or otherwise. On the other hand, no such alleged letter dated 12th Sept., 2006 was handed over by the respondent to the petitioner. It is wrong and denied that during alleged personal visit of the alleged partner of petitioner to company office on 23rd, 25th Sept., 2006 the MD of the defendant promised the alleged payment after the MD is free from alleged Public issue viz a week later but was asked to deliver the alleged bill immediately since MD was going to various cities for IPO conferences during those days as alleged or otherwise. It is wrong and denied that the alleged promises continued to postpone and alleged commitment changed for availing the alleged facilities sanctioned. It is wrong and denied that alleged reminder was also sent on 20.12.2006 by alleged partner of firm requesting to make payment of at least the alleged amount which had become allegedly due on sanction as alleged or otherwise and it is also denied that alleged bill was submitted on 26th Sept. 2006 as alleged or otherwise. It is wrong and denied that it was requested to pay at least Rs.5 lakhs out of Rs.12 lakhs as alleged or otherwise. It is wrong and denied that on phone the MD of defendant informed that payment would be made in full on alleged documentation with bank as alleged or otherwise. It is wrong and denied that looking at the lapse of sanction and alleged bad intention of the MD of the defendant, alleged notice was sent on 9.1.2007 asking to pay within 30 day and on failure to pay winding up petition would be filed as alleged or otherwise. It is wrong and denied that on 11.10.2007 petitioner sent alleged letter to the MD advising him to inform the facts of the case to his solicitor enclosing some alleged papers evidencing the alleged facts as stated in the said alleged letters and enclosures as alleged or otherwise. It is wrong and denied that the brother of the MD from USA, Mr. Punit called partner of the petitioner advising him not to take any legal step and assured that he would convince MD of defendant to make the alleged payment as alleged or otherwise. It is wrong and denied that during Feb. 2008 partner of the petitioner got a call from MD of defendant asking him to prepare alleged power project report to which petitioner asked to pay alleged previous dues first before alleged fresh assignment could be taken as alleged or otherwise. It is wrong and denied that during May & June, 2008 the alleged partner of petitioner called MD of the defendant requesting him to pay otherwise he would be compelled to take legal help for recovery including winding up petition as alleged or otherwise. It is wrong and denied that upon this, MD threatened with alleged dire consequences as alleged or otherwise. It is wrong and denied that purported bill for alleged services was sent on 26th Sept. 2006 and the limitation fall on 26.09.2009 as alleged or otherwise. It is most humbly submitted that contents of para D of the reply may also form part and parcel of the present para."

All the other averments, as contained in the petition were denied.

15. The petitioner filed rejoinder, reiterating the submissions made in the petition and the contrary submissions made in the reply were denied.

16. This Court on 14.3.2014 had heard detailed arguments whereafter the judgment was reserved. But, before the judgment could be pronounced, the learned counsel for the petitioner moved an application for placing on record the documents relating to the public issue for which the services of the petitioner had been engaged by the respondent-Company for sanctioning the loan from the Punjab National Bank.

17. In this application, it is alleged that the prospectus for public issue was published by the respondent-Company and even thereafter on 21.8.2006 the respondent-Company continued to correspond with the petitioner for sanctioning of the loan from the Punjab National Bank. In this regard a copy of financial results for the quarter ended 30.6.2006 was given to the petitioner for onward submission to the Punjab National Bank. It is further alleged that the loan was sanctioned to the respondent-Company by the Punjab National Bank on 23.9.2006 and communication in this regard was duly sent by the bank to the respondent-Company and the public issue was subsequently opened on 26.9.2006.

18. In reply to this application, it is submitted that the averments of the petitioner to the effect that the respondent-Company even after 31.8.2006 continued to correspond with the petitioner for sanctioning of the loan was factually incorrect and projects an incomplete picture. As per the terms and conditions/regulations concerning the public issue, the respondent-Company prior to opening of the public issue was essentially required to arrange for the sanction of term loan. Since the petitioner failed to get the term loan sanctioned in a timely manner, the opening of the public issue got delayed. In order to avoid continuous and further delay in the opening of the public issue, the Company was constrained to seek sanction of the term loan from the Centurion Bank of Punjab Ltd. It was after obtaining this loan that the public issue was floated on 26.9.2006 and not due to any effort of the petitioner in attempting to get the term loan sanctioned from the Punjab National Bank. It was not denied that some functionaries of the Company may have corresponded with the petitioner, who by then had started blackmailing and threatening the respondent-Company that he would write letters to the regulatory bodies like SEBI and others for stalling the launching of the public issue.

19. In rejoinder to the reply of this application, the petitioner has stated that the Managing Director of the respondent-Company vide his e-mail dated 11.9.2006 had asked the petitioner not to send e-mail on Airtel/Blackberry as he was not in station in Delhi and had been frequently touring. Earlier an unsigned statement had been sent by the Company to the petitioner and it had been requested that the Managing Director of the Company send signed statements and documents for submission to the Punjab National Bank.

20. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case carefully and meticulously.

21. The following point arises for determination:-

> "Whether in the given facts and circumstances the respondent-Company is required to be wound up having failed and ignored to make payments of the outstanding amount being unable to pay its debts."

22. In a petition for winding up of a company on the basis that the company is unable to pay its debts, apart from the merits of dispute, the sincerity of the respondent-Company in raising the same is also relevant. In such a situation, where the company disputes the claim and the said dispute appears to be bonafide, it naturally follows that the company has declined to pay the claim on account of a dispute and not on account of its inability or negligence to pay the debts. The assumption that the company is unable to pay its debts can only be made in a situation where the debt is undisputed or an illusory and a sham defense is sought to be raised towards the liability. In both these cases, the company is liable to pay the debt and the fact that it has failed and neglected to pay the same despite a notice under Section 434 (1) (a) of the Act would indicate that the Company is unable to discharge its liability. However, in a case where the company sincerely believes that the amount is not payable and is able to establish that there are bonafide disputes, the question of failure and neglect to pay an admitted debt does not arise as the claim is neither accepted as a debt nor admitted to be payable. In such circumstances there can be no failure or neglect to pay a debt as contemplated under Section 434(1) (a) of the Act.

23. Though number of judgments have been cited on either side, but in view of the comprehensive law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, this Court shall be confining itself to the pronouncements made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court from time to time.

24. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Amalgamated Commercial Traders (P) Ltd. Vs. A.C.K. Krishnaswami reported in 1965 (35) Company Cases 456 has held that a winding up petition is not a legitimate means of seeking to enforce payment of the debt which is bona fide disputed by the Company but if debt is not disputed on some substantial ground, the court may decide on the petition and make the order.

25. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Madhusudan Gordhandas & Co. Vs. Madhu Woollen Industries (P) Ltd. reported in 1971(3) SCC 632 has culled out the following rules for passing the order of winding up:-

> "20. Two rules are well settled.
>
> First, if the debt is bona fide disputed and the defence is a substantial one, the court will not wind up the company. The court has dismissed a petition for winding up where the creditor claimed a sum for goods sold to the company and the company contended that no price had been agreed upon and the sum demanded by the creditor was unreasonable. See London and Paris Banking Corporation (1874) LR 19 Eq 444. Again, a petition for winding up by a creditor who claimed pauyment of an agreed sum for work done for the company when the company contended that the work had not been properly was not allowed. See Re. Brighton Club and Horfold Hotel Co. Ltd (18565) 35 Beav 204.
>
> 21. Where the debit is undisputed the court will not act upon a defence that the company has the ability to pay the debt but the company chooses not to pay that particular debt, see Re. A Company 94 SJ 369. Where however there is no doubt that the company owes the creditor a debt entitling him to a winding up order but the exact amount of the debt is disputed the court will make a winding up order without requiring the creditor to quantify the debt precisely see Re. Tweeds Garages Ltd 1962 Ch 406. The principles which the court acts are first that the defence of the company is in good faith and one of substance, secondly, the defence is likely to succeed in point of law and thirdly the company adduces prima facie proof of the facts on which the defence depends".

26. In the case of Pradeshiya Industrial and Investment Corporation of Uttar Pradesh Vs. North India Petro Chemical and Another reported in 1994 (79) Company

Cases 835, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that an order under Section 433(e) is discretionary and there must be a debt due and the company must be unable to pay the same and the debt must be a determined or definite sum of money payable immediately or at a further date and inability u/S.433(e) should be taken in the commercial sense.

27. In the matter of Mediquip Systems (P) Ltd. Vs. Proxima Medical System GmbH reported in 2005(7) SCC 42 Hon'ble Supreme Court has reiterated the principles relevant for passing winding up order by holding as follows:-

> "25. The rules as regards the disposal of winding-up petition based on disputed claims are thus stated by this Court in Madhsudan Gordhandas & Co. v. Madhu Woollen Industries (P) Ltd (1971) 3 SCC 632.
>
> This Court has held that if the debt is bona fide disputed and the defence is a substantial one, the court will not wind up the company. The principles on which the court acts are;
>
> > [i] that the defence of the company is in good faith and one of substance;
> >
> > [ii] the defence is likely to succeed in point of law; and [ii] the company adduces prima facie proof of the facts on which the defence depends.

28. In the matter of Vijay Industries Vs. NATL Technologies Limited reported in 2009(3) SCC 527, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has reiterated the prerequisites for winding up on the ground of inability to pay debt by holding that for invoking Sec.433(e) what is necessary that despite service of notice by the creditor, the company which is indebted in a sum exceeding one lakh rupees then due, failed or neglected to pay the same within three weeks thereafter or to secure or compound for it to the reasonable satisfaction of the creditor. It has further been held that Section 433(e) does not state that the debt must be precisely a definite sum and it is not a requirement of law that the entire debt must be definite and certain.

29. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of IBA Health (India) Private Limited vs. INFO-Drive Systems SDN. BHD. (2010) 10 SCC 553, has also explained that a dispute would be substantial if it is bonafide and not spurious, speculative, illusory or misconceived, the relevant extract from the decision is quoted below:

> "20. The question that arises for consideration is that when there is a substantial dispute as to liability, can a creditor prefer an application for winding up for discharge of that liability? In such a situation, is there not a duty on the Company Court to examine whether the company has a genuine dispute to the claimed debt? A dispute would be substantial and genuine if it is bonafide and not spurious, speculative, illusory or misconceived. The Company Court, at that stage, is not expected to hold a full trial of the matter. It must decide whether the grounds appear to be substantial. The grounds of dispute, of course, must not consist of some ingenious mask invented to deprive a creditor of a just and honest entitlement and must not be a mere wrangle. It is settled law that if the creditor's debt is bonafide disputed on substantial grounds, the court should dismiss the petition and leave the creditor first to establish his claim in an action, lest there is danger of abuse of winding up procedure. The Company Court always retains the discretion, but a party to a dispute should not be allowed to use the threat of winding up petition as a means of forcing the company to pay a bonafide disputed debt."

30. From the aforesaid judgments, the following broad legal principles can be deduced:

1. If the debt is bonafide disputed and the defense is a substantial one, the Court will not wind up the company. Conversely, if the plea of denial of debit is moonshine or a cloak, spurious, speculative, illusory or misconceived, the Court can exercise the discretion to order the company to be wound up.

2. A petition presented ostensibly for winding up order, but in reality to exert pressure to pay the bonafide disputed debt is liable to be dismissed.

3. Solvency is not a stand alone ground. It is relevant to test whether denial of debt is bonafide.

4. Where the debt is undisputed and the company does not choose to pay the particular debt, its defence that it has the ability to pay the debt will not be acted upon by the Court.

5. Where there is no dispute regarding the liability, but the dispute is confined only to the exact amount of the debt, the Court will make the winding up order.

6. An order to wind up a company is discretionary. Even in a case where the companys liability to pay the debt was proved, order to wind up the company is not automatic. The Court will consider the wishes of shareholders and creditors and it may attach greater weight to the views of the creditors.

7. A winding up order will not be made on a creditors petition if it would not benefit him or the companys creditors generally and the grounds furnished by the creditors opposing winding up will have an impact on the reasonableness of the case.

In the light of the settled legal principles, the endeavour of this Court must be to find out whether the debt claimed by the petitioner is a bonafide disputed debt or not and in this process this Court will not dwell into the intricate disputed questions of fact like a Civil Court exercising its jurisdiction in a suit filed for recovery of money. It is for this precise reason that the pleadings of the parties has been quoted in extenso.

31. The respondent has placed on record its balance-sheets as on 31.3.2006 from which it can safely be gathered that the Company was in a financially sound and in solvent condition. Therefore, the question would arise is as to whether the dispute between the parties is extant and not illusory. No doubt, numbers of e-mails and other correspondences have been exchanged between the parties, which would indicate that the petitioner had indeed raised a dispute with the respondent, but then the question arises as to whether the defense raised by the respondent is a bonafide one or not. After all, to raise a presumption of a company's inability to pay its debts it is not enough merely to show that the company had omitted to pay the debt despite service of statutory notice, it must be further shown that the company had omitted or neglected to pay without reasonable excuse and conditions of insolvency in the commercial sense exist.

32. While considering the issue of commercial solvency, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in IBA Health (India) Supra held that the examination of the company's insolvency may be a useful aid in deciding whether the refusal to pay is a result of the bonafide dispute as to liability or whether it reflects an inability to pay, and in such a situation, solvency is relevant not as a separate ground. It was held as under:

> "24. The appellant Company raised a contention that it is commercially solvent and, in such a situation, the question may arise that the factum of commercial solvency, as such, would be sufficient to reject the petition for winding up, unless substantial grounds for its rejection are made out. A determination of examination of the company's insolvency may be a useful aid in deciding whether the refusal to pay is a result of the bona fide dispute as to liability or whether it reflects an inability to pay, in such a situation, solvency is relevant not as a separate ground. If there is no dispute as to the company's liability, the solvency of the company might not constitute a stand alone ground for setting aside a notice under Section 434(1)(a), meaning thereby, if a debt is undisputedly owing, then it has to be paid. If the company refuses to pay on no genuine and substantial grounds, it should not be able to avoid the statutory demand. The law should be allowed to proceed and if demand is not met and an application for liquidation is filed under Section 439 in reliance of the presumption under Section 434(1)(a) that the company is unable to pay it debts, the law should take its own course and the company of course will have an opportunity on the liquidation application to rebut that presumption.
>
> 25. An examination of the company's solvency may be a useful aid in determining whether the refusal to pay debt is a result of a bona fide dispute as to the liability or whether it reflects an inability to pay. Of course, if there is no dispute as to the company's liability, it is difficult to hold that the company should be able to pay the debt merely by proving that it is able to pay the debts. If the debt is an undisputedly owing, then it should be paid. If the company refuses to pay, without good reason, it should not be able to avoid the statutory demand by proving, at the statutory demand stage, that it is solvent. In other words, commercial solvency can be seen as relevant as to whether there was a dispute as to the debt, not as a ground in itself, that means it cannot be characterised as a stand alone ground."

33. It would be noticed here that the petitioner has neither made any averment nor has placed any document on record to demonstrate that the respondent is commercially insolvent. On the other hand, from the documents on record, it is evident that the respondent is a profit making solvent company and is in a position to meet its debt as and when it arises.

34. The Company Court exercises an equitable jurisdiction. It is well settled that a winding up petition is not legitimate means of seeking to enforce for payment of dues which is bonafidely disputed by the respondent.

35. The respondent-Company has clearly set out in their reply the reasons why the amount as claimed by the petitioner has not been paid to them and the contents thereof have already been reproduced (infra). The debt, therefore, is disputed and it cannot also be said that the respondent-Company has no genuine or substantial ground for refusal to pay or is unable to pay the same. The Company refusal to pay debt is as a result of bonafide dispute. The dispute is substantial and genuine and cannot be termed to be spurious, speculative, illusory or misconceived.

36. In view of the preceding analysis, it is evident that the amount due in the instant case has not crystallized and there is a bonafide dispute with regard to liability of the respondent to pay the amount in question to the petitioner. The petitioner has also failed to prove that the respondent is insolvent in the commercial sense.

37. It is well settled that proceeding for winding up, is not a proceeding for the recovery of outstanding dues. Nor for that matter, can the remedy of a petition for winding up be utilized to pressure a company which is commercially solvent to pay a debt which is bonafide disputed.

38. For the reasons aforesaid, no case for winding up of the respondent is made out. In the result, the company petition fails and is hereby dismissed, so also the pending application(s) if any.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

State of H.P. …..Appellant.

Versus

Kulbhushan Sood and others …Respondents.

Cr. Appeal No.: 24 of 2012
Reserved on: 23.04.2015
Date of Decision : 07.05.2015

Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988- Section 13(2)- Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 467, 468, 471, 419, 420 and 120-B- a surprise checking of the record was conducted during which signatures on some of the forms were found to be forged- FIR was registered- SDM, Palampur initiated inquiry regarding the licence being forged by the accused- ADM, Kangra concluded that accused had forged the signatures- however, signatures on the forged licences, signatures of the accused and SDM were not sent for comparison- SDM admitted that accused used to bring licences in bulk and he used to sign them in bulk - hand-writing expert also found that licences were in hand-writing of the accused but this opinion is not sufficient as the hand-writing of the SDM was not sent for comparison- further, no evidence was led that applicant had paid the driving licence fee in excess of the prescribed fee, therefore, offence punishable under Section 13(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 was not proved- held, that in these circumstances, acquittal of the accused was justified.
(Para-10 and 11)

For the Appellant:	Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Asstt. A.G.
For the respondents:	Mr. Adarsh Sharma, Advocate vice Mr. Ashok Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.1. Mr. Rajnish Maniktala, Advocate, for respondents No. 2 & 5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

This appeal is directed against the judgement of acquittal rendered on 6.6.2011 by the learned Special Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P. in Corruption Case No. 4-P/2004 whereby he acquitted the respondents for theirs having committed offences punishable under Sections 467, 468, 471, 419, 420 and 120-B IPC and under Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988.

2. The prosecution story, in brief, is that during the period July 2001 to January 2002, PW-50 Devesh Kumar was posted as SDM, Palampur and was incharge of license branch and at that time accused Kulbhushan was working as license clerk. It is alleged that in the month of January, 2002 PW-50 Devesh Kumar conducted a surprise checking of the record pertaining to the licenses and it was found that in some of the forms his signatures were found forged, regarding which he sent intimation to Deputy Commissioner, Kangra. Deputy Commissioner, Kangra, ordered for an inquiry into the matter and during inquiry PW-31 found that the licenses were not signed by the then SDM and forged signatures of SDM were on the licenses, about which PW-31 prepared his report and submitted the same to the Deputy Commissioner, Kangra, on which F.I.R. Ext.PW-49/A came to be registered. During investigation, the police impounded the record of the forged driving license from the SDM Office, Palampur. Some of the prosecution witnesses deposed during investigation that they had given money to accused Kulbhushan, which was in excess of the license fees and that the driving licenses after preparation were given to them by the accused. During investigation, accused Rameshwar Singh, Manager, Kundan Driving School, produced one register Ext.PW-43/A which was from November, 2001 to February 2002 which was impounded by the police vide memo Ext.PW-43/B. Accused Dinesh Awashti produced one diary to the police which was taken into possession vide seizure memo Ext.PW-47/A. Dr. Varinder Kumar, also produced one register of his clinic which was taken into possession vide memo Ext.PW-53/A. The specimen signatures for comparison of Devesh Kumar were taken before learned JMIC, Mandi and before the learned CJM, Hamirpur. I.O. during investigation took into possession some of the licenses and recorded the statements of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Dr. Meenakshi Mahajan, G.E.Q.D had examined the above questioned writings, specimen handwritings and admitted writings and given her report Ext.PW-58/B.

3. After completion of the investigation, challan, under Section 173 of the Cr.P.C. was prepared and filed in the Court. The trial Court charged the accused for theirs having committed offence punishable under Sections 467, 468, 471, 419, 420 and 120-B IPC and under Section 13 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988. to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined as many as 61 witnesses. On closure of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. were recorded, in which they pleaded innocence. On closure of proceedings under Section 313 Cr.P.C. the accused were given an opportunity to adduce evidence in defence and they chose not to adduce any evidence in defence.

5. On appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused/respondents.

6. The State of H.P. is aggrieved by the judgement of acquittal, recorded by the learned trial Court. Shri Ramesh Thakur, Assistant Advocate General, has concertedly and vigorously contended that the findings of acquittal, recorded by the learned trial Court, are not based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, they are sequelled by gross mis-appreciation of the material on record. Hence, he contends that the findings of acquittal be reversed by this Court, in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction and be replaced by findings of conviction and concomitantly an appropriate sentence be imposed upon the accused/respondents.

7. On the other hand, the learned counsel appearing for the respondents-accused, has, with considerable force and vigour, contended that the findings of acquittal, recorded by the Court below, are based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record and do not necessitate interference, rather merit vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. PW-50 the then SDM Palampur, Devesh Kumar, initiated an inquiry qua the factum of driving licenses issued to PWs being forged by accused Kulbhushan Sood. PW-31 the then ADM, Kangra, S.S.Guleria, was appointed an inquiry officer. He submitted his report PW-31/A wherein he concluded that the accused Kulbhushan Sood had forged the signatures of PW-50 on driving licenses Ext.PW-4/D, Ext.PW-5/E, Ext.PW-7/A, Ext.PW-10/A, Ext.PW-17/A, Ext.PW-18/A, Ext.PW-19/A, Ext.PW26/A, Ext.PW-34/A, Ext.PW-35/A, Ext.PW-37/F, Ext.PW-39/A, Ext.PW-42/D. However, the preliminary inquiry does not hold good nor conclusively determines the factum of the prosecution hence having been able to prove its case against the accused, especially when then the signatures existing on the purportedly forged driving licenses of the prosecution witnesses, as also of the accused besides of PW-50 were not sent for comparison to the handwriting expert for rendition of opinion qua the factum of the accused Kulbhushan having forged the signatures of PW-50. In sequel to the furnishing of report by PW-31 comprised in Ext.PW-31/A an F.I.R. was lodged against the accused persons. The accused Kulbushan was working as a license clerk in the office of PW-50, the then SDM Palampur and Motor Licensing Authority. PW-50 has deposed that accused Kulbhushan used to bring forms for preparation of license etc in bulk for signatures before him and he used to sign the licenses and forms in routine. Nonetheless, apart from offences of forgery attributed to Kulbhushan Sood, there is no depiction or disclosure in the deposition of the Investigating Officer of the driving license issued to the prosecution witnesses having not preceding their issuances to the prosecution witnesses undergone the enjoined processes of theirs having not come to be entered in the apposite register. Consequently, it can be with aplomb at this stage held that the accused Kulbhushan Sood did not present driving license before PW-50 without the necessary enjoined processes prior to their presentation before PW-50 having come to be completed or consummated.

10. In the month of January, 2002 when PW-50 conducted a surprise checking of the license register he found that in some of the forms his signatures did not exist and were forged qua which he sent intimation letter to Deputy Commissioner, Kangra. He disputed his signatures existing on the licenses of the prosecution witnesses. Though PW-58 has proved her opinion Ext.PW-58/B, underscoring the factum of the specimen handwritings of the accused Kulbhushan comprised in Ext.PW58/S-1 to Ext.PW58/S-18 on comparison with the questioned writings having been found to be in the handwritings of the accused, nonetheless the aforesaid opinion rendered by the hand writing expert is of no avail to the prosecution in clinching the fact of the aforesaid accused having forged signatures of PW-50 on the license register as also on the driving licenses of PWs, especially when preponderantly the admitted handwritings of PW-50 the then Motor Licensing Authority were not sent for comparison with his purported disputed signatures existing on the license register or on the purported fake driving licenses held by the PWs. Hence, the deposition of PW-50 qua the factum of his having not signatured either the license register or the driving licenses cannot be construed to be truthful, besides even in the absence of the investigating officer having uncontrovertedly not sent the specimen handwritings of the accused alongwith the purportedly forged signatures of PW-50 existing on the driving licenses of the PWs or the ones existing on the driving license for their interse comparison for facilitating an opinion thereupon by the handwriting expert that hence the specimen handwritings of accused on being tallied with the disputed handwritings existing on both the driving licenses of the PWs and also those existing on the license register were similar, for as such constraining a conclusion that hence the accused Kulbhushan Sood had forged the signatures of PW-50 on both the license register and the driving licenses issued to PWs. Consequently, a sound and formidable conclusion, which is to be formed is that the prosecution has been unable to prove the factum of accused Kulbushan Sood having forged the signatures of PW-50 either on the license register or on the driving licenses issued to PWs. Even the opinion of the handwriting expert comprised in Ext.PW-58/B does connect the accused in his having forged the signatures of PW-50 on driving license application forms. The reason for so concluding is anvilled on the factum that the specimen handwritings of accused Kulbhushan had been collected during the investigation of the case and not during its trial and with the amendment to Section 311 Cr.P.C. whereby clause (A) had come to be introduced on the statute book in the year 2006 to the provisions of Section 311 Cr.P.C. which then alone facilitated the collection of the specimen handwritings of the accused during the investigation of the case and not earlier in the year 2002 when the case was investigated against the accused, renders the collection of the specimen handwritings and signatures of the accused during investigation of the case to be legally impermissible besides constitutes the opinion of the handwriting expert comprised in Ext.PW-58/B connecting the accused Kulbhushan Sood with his having forged the signatures of PW-50 on driving license application forms to be concomitantly not binding upon this Court. Provision, if any, which empowered the Court to render any conclusion on comparison of the specimen handwritings of the accused collected by it from the accused with his admitted handwritings qua the factum of accused Kulbhushan Sood hence having forged the signatures of PW-50 on driving license application forms existed in Section 73 of the Evidence Act. However, the said provisions have their application, only during the course of trial of the case. Nonetheless the said provisions were never resorted to by the learned Court. In aftermath, for reiteration the opinion of the handwriting expert comprised in Ext.PW-58/B connecting the accused Kulbhushan Sood in his having forged the signatures of PW-50 on the driving license forms are rendered to be acquiring no probative tenacity or force. Consequently, the opinion of the handwriting expert comprised in Ext.PW-58/B is not handy to the prosecution for succoring a conclusion qua the factum of accused Kulbhushan Sood having forged the signatures of PW-50 on driving license application forms.

11. Moreover, accused Kulbhushan Sood was charged for his having committed offence punishable under Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 inasmuch, as, in the face of the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses underlining the factum of theirs having paid the driving license fees to accused Kulbhushan Sood in excess of their mandatory obligation to do so, hence he is canvassed to be liable for conviction for committing an offence punishable under Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act.

However, the license fee as purportedly received by him from the prosecution witnesses had come to be deposited by Kulbhushan Sood in the manner as ordained by law. Potent evidence ought to exist on record portraying the factum of the precise quantum of the license fees to be deposited by the PWs in the branch concerned, as a pre requisite process for theirs obtaining a driving license from the Motor Licensing Authority, Palampur, for rendering an apt and concomitant finding that the money, if any, constituting the license fee was purportedly in excess of the enjoined fee. Now when the license fees stood deposited in the branch concerned even though it was handed over to Kulbhushan Sood by the PWs, the factum of its deposit by Kulbhushan Sood in the branch concerned, as also the prosecution witnesses omitting to underline in their respective testimonies that the accused was demanding fees, purportedly in excess of the license fees, per se entwined with the factum that when they took to handover the cash to Kulbhushan Sood rather than depositing it with the branch concerned, renders an inference that except for the immunity granted to them under Section 24 of the Prevention of Corruption Act for theirs allegedly paying bribe to the accused, who is a public servant, they would have stood prosecuted for the offence constituted under Section 7 of the Prevention of Corruption Act for giving bribe and would have also rendered themselves punishable under Section 12 of the prevention of Corruption Act. Even if they enjoyed the immunity from Section 24 of the Prevention of Corruption Act against their prosecution yet their testimonies are fraught with discrepancies constituted in the fact that they omitted to at the time of handing over license fees in its purported excess to accused Kulbhushan Sood, which came to be deposited by Kulbhushan Sood in the branch concerned of the Motor Licensing Authority, reported the said fact to the authority concerned or rather when they remained reticent qua the aforesaid fact till the lodging of the F.I.R. qua the occurrence, renders their testimonies to be suspect qua accused Kulbhushan Sood having committed offence punishable under Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988.

12 In so far accused Ajay Mehta is concerned, he is the proprietor of Kundan Driving School, Dharamshala. No specific evidence of probative worth has been brought by the prosecution portraying his connectivity or collusion with accused Kulbhushan Sood in the preparation of forged driving license especially when none of the witnesses deposed against the accused. Hence, his exculpation from guilt by the learned trial Court does not warrant any interference. Besides, accused Rameshwar Singh, who is the owner of Kundan Driving School at Dharamshala and whom PW-21 paid Rs.3000/- for his being imparted training in driving by accused Rameshwar Singh is alleged to have as connoted by the testimony of PW-21 to have obtained Rs.1500/- from him for his getting his driving license prepared. However, his testimony is vague qua the date and time on which he handed over the money to accused Rameshwar Singh as also qua the persons in whose presence such money was demanded and handed over to accused Rameshwar Singh, as such, with an imprecise occurrence in his deposition qua the date and time on which he handed over Rs.1500/- to accused Rameshwar Singh to get his driving license prepared renders the testimony of PW-21 while connoting a role to accused Rameshwar Singh of his having colluded with accused Kulbhushan Sood for the offences which the latter came to be charged, to be legally unworthwhile.

13. Accused Dinesh Kumar is a document writer and is alleged to be working as a middleman for accused Kulbhushan Sood. However, the investigating officer impounded his diary Ext.PW47/B. In it there is no portrayal of his having colluded or connived with accused Kulbhushan Sood and theirs having committed an offence for which the latter came to be charged. There has also been omission on the part of the prosecution to either collect the opinion of the handwriting expert telling upon the factum of accused Dinesh Kumar having forged signatures of PW-50 on driving licenses as also on license register. As such, his role in the alleged commission of offence stands negated.

14. Lastly the only role which has been ascribed to Dr. Varinder Kumar is that of his having issued medical certificates. However, there has been no evidence on record by the prosecution underscoring the factum of his having played any role in the preparation of the purportedly forged licenses held by the PWs. Rather even the factum of his having issued medical certificate Ext.PW59/A to one of the prosecution witnesses perse would not render him liable inculpation for his having purportedly colluded or connived with other accused in the commission of offences attributed to other accused. Moreso when Ext.PW-59/A has not been proved by cogent evidence to be a forged medical certificate.

15. In view of the above discussion, the learned trial Court is to be concluded to have appreciated the evidence in a mature and balanced manner and its findings, hence, do not necessitate interference. The appeal is dismissed being devoid of any merit and the findings rendered by the learned trial Court are affirmed and maintained.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Subhash Kumar .....Appellant/Defendant.
Versus
Mandra Devi (deceased) through L.R.s
Ujjagar Singh and others ..... Respondents/Plaintiff.

RSA No. 425 of 2001-E.
Judgment reserved on :01.05.2015.
Date of decision: May 7, 2015.

Indian Succession Act, 1925- Section 63- Plaintiff claimed that no Will was executed by her husband during his life time and the Will propounded by the defendant is invalid, inoperative and ineffective qua the rights of the plaintiff- wife and mother of the deceased were alive at the time of execution of the Will, however, no reference was made to them in the Will- there is no evidence to suggest that deceased did not have a cordial relation with his mother and wife, therefore, it is highly improbable that a person executing a Will in favour of third person, will not make a reference to his wife and mother at the time of execution of the Will- deprivation of the natural heirs is not a suspicious circumstance but in view of non-mentioning of the legal representative of the deceased, the Will is required to be seen with care and caution- propounder is required to prove that there was some reason for leaving aside his aged mother and wife- propounder had failed to prove that he attended to the deceased at the time of his illness and was with him in the hospital- mere registration of the Will does not dispense with the statutory requirement of proving the Will in accordance with law- where there are some suspicious circumstances, burden is upon the propounder to prove the due execution of the Will. (Para-16 to 18 and 25)

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 50- Plaintiff was married to the deceased- plaintiff stated that marriage was witnessed by the respectables of the village- PW-3 deposed that marriage of the plaintiff and the deceased was solemnized in accordance with customary rites - statement was corroborated by PW-4 and PW-5- testimonies regarding the marriage can be taken into consideration under Section 50 of Indian Evidence Act – held that it was duly proved that marriage of the plaintiff was solemnized with the deceased as per custom. (Para- 20 to 24)

Cases referred:

Shakuntala Devi versus Savitri Devi and others AIR 1997 HP 43
Pentakota Satyanarayana and others versus Pentakota Seetharatnam and others AIR 2005 SC 4362
Savithri and others versus Karthyayani Amma and others (2007) 11 SCC 621
Bharpur Singh and others versus Shamsher Singh (2009) 3 SCC 687
Gurpal Singh versus Darshan Singh 1998 (1) S.L.J. 174
Baru Ram and others versus Smt.Kishani Devi 1992 (1) Sim. L.C. 115
Babu Ram versus Shrimati Roshan Devi 1997(2) Current Law Journal (H.P.) 251
Balbir Singh versus Smt.Kaushalaya Devi (now deceased) through her L.R. Bakshi Ram 2000(1) Current Law Journal (H.P.) 240.

For the Appellant : Mr. Sanjeev Kuthiala, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr.Neeraj Gupta, Advocate, for respondent No.1(b).
Mr.Tara Singh Chauhan, Advocate, for respondents No.1(a), 1(c), 1(d), 1(g) and 1(h), except minors.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge .

The defendant is the appellant, who has lost in both the Courts below.

2. The predecessor-in-interest of the respondents, Mandra Devi, had filed a suit for declaration to the effect that she is owner in respect of estate of her husband namely Ramesh Chand which is fully detailed in the head note of the plaint. Ramesh Chand, husband of the plaintiff, died on 30.07.1983 and the plaintiff being the only legal heir is entitled to succeed the estate of her husband. It was alleged that the defendant is very head strong person and being influential in the locality managed to procure some forged document alleged to be the Will having been executed by deceased Ramesh Chand in his favour during his life. The alleged Will is invalid, inoperative and ineffective and has no bearing on the right, title or interest of the plaintiff over the suit land. It was further alleged that on the basis of the alleged Will the defendant has started extending threats to interfere over the suit land.

3. The suit was contested by the defendant by filing written statement wherein he raised preliminary objections that the plaintiff was neither widow of deceased Ramesh Chand nor his legal heir and thus had no concern with the suit property. On merits, it was admitted that Ramesh Chand son of Biru was owner of the suit land, but it was specifically denied that he was married to plaintiff. Ramesh Chand, infact, was unmarried and was living with the defendant. Since the plaintiff was neither the widow of Ramesh Chand nor his legal heir, therefore, the plaintiff was not entitled to the suit property. It was admitted by the defendant that Ramesh Chand died on 30.07.1983 and during his lifetime he bequeathed his entire property including the suit land in favour of the defendant vide registered sale deed dated 25.07.1983. Lastly, it was alleged that the defendant is in possession of the suit property on the basis of the aforesaid Will.

4. Plaintiff filed replication whereby she reiterated and reaffirmed the averments made in the plaint and denied the averments made by the defendant in the written statement.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the following issues were framed by the learned trial Court on 04.02.1985:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is the widow of deceased Ramesh Chand. If so, its effect? OPP
2. Whether the deceased Ramesh Chand executed a valid Will in favour of the defendant as alleged? OPD
3. Whether the plaintiff has cause of action? OPP.
4. Relief.

6. After recording the evidence and evaluating the same, the learned trial Court on 31.03.1994 decreed the suit filed by the plaintiff with costs. The appeal preferred against the judgment and decree by the appellant was dismissed. Aggrieved by the judgments and decrees passed by the learned Courts below, the appellant has filed the present appeal and this Court was pleased to admit the same on the following substantial question of law:-

> "Whether the learned Courts below have misread and misconstrued the oral and documentary evidence on record especially the statements of PW-2 Mandra Devi, PW-5 Surat Ram, PW-6 Ujjagar Singh, DW-1 Subhash Kumar, DW-3 Om Parkash, DW-4 Balak Ram (both marginal witnesses), Ex.D1 extract of family register, Ex.DX extract of pass book, Ex.DA extract of voter list and Ex.DW-2/A Registered Will dated 25-7-1997 (it should be 25.07.1983)?"

7. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the case.

8. Shri Sanjeev Kuthiala, learned counsel for the appellant has strenuously argued that the Will Ex.DW-2/A has been duly executed in accordance with the requirements of law. He further contended that once the appellant had proved the due execution of the Will, then the onus shifted on the plaintiff/respondent to prove by cogent and reliable evidence that the Will is shrouded with suspicious circumstances. He further contended that merely because there is no recital in the Will regarding disinheritance of the plaintiff, who was not even the wife of the deceased Ramesh Chand and the mother of Ramesh Chand namely Durgi Devi admittedly who was alive at that time would not in any manner prove that the Will in question was a fake document. After-all, the entire purpose of executing the Will was to disinherit the natural heirs. The learned counsel for the appellant would further contend that the learned Courts below have failed to take into consideration the oral and documentary evidence available on record and thereby reached a wrong conclusion.

9. The learned counsel for the appellant has drawn the attention of this Court to various judgments wherein it has been held that debarring natural successors should not raise any suspicion. Reliance has been placed upon the judgment of this Court in Shakuntala Devi versus Savitri Devi and others AIR 1997 HP 43, wherein it was held that merely because certain natural heirs had been excluded would not be a suspicious circumstance because the whole idea behind making a Will is to interfere in normal line of succession. The relevant paras read thus:-

> "25. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Smt. Sushila Devi v. Pandit Krishna Kumar Missir, AIR 1971 SC 2236, has held that prima facie, the circumstance that no bequest was made to the natural heir(s) by the testator would make the will appear unnatural, but if the execution of the Will is satisfactorily proved, the fact that the testator had not bequeathed any property to one of his children cannot make the Will invalid."
>
> 26. Again, in Rabindra Nath Mukherjee v. Panchanan Benerjee (dead) by LRs., (1995) 4 SCC 459: (AIR 1995 SC 1684), it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that deprivation of natural heirs should not raise any suspicion because the whole idea behind execution of will is to interfere with the normal line of succession. So natural heirs would be debarred in every case of will; of course, it may be that in some cases they are fully debarred and in others only partially. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the said case, where the will was executed by the testator in favour of the sons of a half-blood brother by excluding the descendants of a full blood sister, held the Will to be valid and that disinheritance of the descendants of a full blood sister could not have been taken as a suspicious circumstances."

10. It would be seen that this Court in Shakuntala Devi's case (supra) has only followed what the Hon'ble Supreme Court had held in Sushila Devi and Rabindra Nath Mukherjee's cases. To similar effect is the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pentakota Satyanarayana and others versus Pentakota Seetharatnam and others AIR 2005 SC 4362 and judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Savithri and others versus Karthyayani Amma and others (2007) 11 SCC 621, wherein again it has been held that mere exclusion of natural heirs would not in itself be a suspicious circumstance.

11. The learned counsel for the appellant has though relied upon the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bharpur Singh and others versus Shamsher Singh (2009) 3 SCC 687, but the ratio thereof as would be discussed later goes against the appellant.

12. The learned counsel for the appellant further relied upon a judgment of learned single Judge of Punjab and Haryana High Court in Gurpal Singh versus Darshan Singh 1998 (1) S.L.J. 174, wherein it was held that registered Will raises a presumption of the Will having been executed in a sound disposing mind, especially, when there is no evidence to show that at the time of execution of the Will the testator was suffering from any mental ailment or other disability or was incapable of making disposition.

13. On the other hand, Shri Neeraj Gupta, learned counsel for the respondent No.1(b) has vehemently argued that registration of a Will in itself does not raise any presumption of the genuineness of the Will and has relied upon the following observations from judgment rendered by this Court in Baru Ram and others versus Smt.Kishani Devi 1992 (1) Sim. L.C. 115.

> "5. Sh. K.D.Sood, learned Counsel for Sh. Baru Ram and others, has urged that since the will was registered, presumption of its correctness and genuineness arises in the facts and circumstances of the present case. This argument deserves to be rejected outrightly in view of the law laid down in Gopal Das and another v. Sri Thakurji and others, AIR 1943 Privy Council 83, that even after the endorsement of Registrar made under section 60(2) of the Registration Act is proved, it remains to be shown that the person admitting execution before the Registrar was Balandu. The registration of the will does not create any presumption of its genuineness, which is to be proved independently and statement of the Registrar is only a piece of evidence which is to be assessed to Judge how far it proves that the execution of will is in accordance with section 63 of Indian Succession Act. It is to be kept in mind that the Registrar cannot be statutory attesting witness. (Please refer to Karri Nookaraju v. Putra Ventataro and others, AIR 1974 And Pra 13; In the Goods of Late Shri C.Rai, Barrister-at-law, 1980 RLR 346, Punjab and Haryana High Court; Labh Singh and others v.Piara Singh (deceased) by L.Rs)and another, AIR 1984 P & H 270 and Dharam Singh v.A.S.O. and another, 1990 (Supp) SCC 684."

14. He has further argued that once the two Courts below have concurrently on a question of fact regarding the execution of the Will held against the appellant, then these findings cannot be challenged and interfered with in the present second appeal. In support of his submission, he has relied upon a judgment of this Court in Babu Ram versus Shrimati Roshan Devi 1997(2) Current Law Journal (H.P.) 251 wherein it was held as under:-

"10. The learned counsel for the defendant at the very outset has raised a preliminary objection that the concurrent findings of the two courts below on a question of fact regarding the execution of a Will cannot be challenged and interfered with in the present Second Appeal.

11. In Ladli Parshad Jaiswal v. The Karnal Distillery Co. 1, Ltd. Karnal & Ors., AIR 1963 SC 1279, it was held that whether a particular transaction was vitiated, on the ground of undue influence, is primarily a decision on the question of fact and that the High Court has no jurisdiction to entertain a second appeal on the ground of an erroneous finding of fact howsoever gross or in executable the error may seem to be.

12. In Ramanuja Naidu v. V. Kanniah Naidu & Anr., JT 1996(3) SC 164, the question of genuineness of a sale -deed was involved. The trial Court and the first appellate court had upheld the genuineness of the sale -deed. The High Court in second appeal had set aside the concurrent findings of the two courts below as to the genuineness of the sale-deed. On further appeal before the Apex court, it was held:

> ".....The concurrent findings of the courts below that Ex.B-2, sale deed in favour of the first defendant is earlier in point of time and was genuine and valid is a finding of fact. Such a finding was not open to any challenge in Second Appeal. The learned single Judge of the High Court totally misconceived his jurisdiction in deciding the second appeal under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure in the way he did. No question of law arose for consideration before the learned single Judge. The sole question that arose for consideration was, whether Ex.B-2, sale deed, in favour of the first defendant dated

5.5.1967, which is admittedly earlier in point of time to Ex.A-1 dated 5.6.1967, in favour of the plaintiff is genuine and valid ..."

13. The Apex court further held that in interfering with the concurrent findings of fact of the lower courts, the High Court acted in excess of the jurisdiction vested in it, under Section 100, Code of Civil Procedure. The High Court totally erred in its approach to the entire question, and in reappraising and reappreciating the entire evidence, and in considering the probabilities of the case, to hold that the judgments of the courts below were perverse and that the plaintiff was not entitled to the declaration of title to suit property and recovery of possession."

15. To similar effect is the judgment of this Court in Balbir Singh versus Smt.Kaushalaya Devi (now deceased) through her L.R. Bakshi Ram 2000(1) Current Law Journal (H.P.) 240.

16. It is more than settled that the onus to prove the Will lies upon the propounder. The learned Courts below have concurrently found that at the time of execution of the Will Ex.DW-2/A, not only Mandra Devi wife of Ramesh Chand, but even his mother Durgi Devi was very much alive. If that be so, atleast a reference qua them ordinarily and in normal course would have been made in the Will. This assumes greater importance because there is nothing on the record to suggest that the deceased Ramesh Chand prior to his death was not having cordial relations with his mother or wife. Therefore, in such circumstances, the learned Courts below have rightly concluded that it is highly improbable that an ordinary man at the time of execution of the Will in favour of a person, who is not even related to him, would not make reference regarding his legal heirs, particularly, his wife and mother.

17. Undoubtedly, mere deprivation of the natural heirs in itself may not raise any suspicion but then this contention has to be appreciated in the peculiar facts and circumstances of each case. Why would anyone execute a Will in favour of a person, who is not even related to him, when his mother and wife with whom he is sharing cordial relations are alive and living with him? This fact is further required to be viewed with suspicion when the appellant has failed to lead clear, cogent and convincing evidence that he had served Ramesh Chand during his lifetime. The appellant was further required to prove that there were special reasons why Ramesh Chand leaving aside his aged mother and wife executed a Will in his favour.

18. The appellant has tried to prove that he was looking after deceased Ramesh Chand during his lifetime and had got him admitted at T.B. Hospital, Tanda and spent money on his treatment, but he has failed to prove any record in support of his claim. Shri Balwant Singh from Tanda Hospital was though examined as DW-5, who in his statement has stated that the name of the attendant, who was accompanying the patient from 12.05.1980 to 27.05.1980 is mentioned in the record Ex.DW5/A. But, then a perusal of this document shows that it does not indicate that some attendant or atleast the appellant was infact accompanying Ramesh Chand at that time.

19. The learned counsel for the appellant would further argue that Mandra Devi was not the wife of Ramesh Chand. He has further contended that in the family register Ex.D1 pertaining to the year 1983 to 1990 relating to the family of Ramesh Chand, the plaintiff Mandra Devi has been shown as daughter of Balandu Ram aged about 24 years.

This extract of family register pertains to the village of the plaintiff prior to her marriage. The learned counsel for the appellant has thereafter drawn the attention of this Court to Ex.DX wherein Mandra Devi has been shown to be the wife of one Harmesh Chand and would contend that it has not been proved on record as to whether Harmesh was also known by the name of Ramesh Chand. He would further argue that in the voter list Ex.DA, Mandra Devi has been shown to be the wife of one Sadhu Ram at Serial No.546.

20. However, the learned counsel for the respondents, on the other hand, would argue that as per the statement of Bal Krishan, Election Kanungo, in the voter list at Serial No.833, Ramesh Chand son of Biru is shown to be married and the name of his wife has been reflected as Sundri. Since Ramesh Chand was not having any wife except the plaintiff, hence, this entry pertains to the plaintiff only. Regarding marriage between the plaintiff and deceased Ramesh Chand, he further made reference to the statement of PW-2 Mandra Devi herself, who stated that she had been married to Ramesh Chand and this marriage had been witnessed by the respectable of the village.

21. The learned counsel for the respondents also invited my attention to the statement of PW-3 Jeet Singh, who has stated that plaintiff was married to Ramesh Chand, son of Biru and he had also participated in the marriage which was solemnized about 26-27 years ago. Jeet Singh further deposed that the marriage was solemnized in accordance with the customary rites. This statement is corroborated and supported by PW-4 Surat Ram, who is uncle of the plaintiff. This witness has deposed that marriage was solemnized in accordance with the customary rites. PW-5 Ujjagar Singh is from the family of deceased Ramesh Chand and father of Ramesh Chand namely Biru was grandfather of this witness. He has deposed that Ramesh Chand was his uncle and had solemnized marriage with the plaintiff at Indora and since then Mandra Devi and Ramesh Chand had been living together as husband and wife.

22. At this stage, it may be noticed that the learned lower appellate Court has rightly invoked the provisions of Section 50 of the Evidence Act to conclude that the plaintiff was married to deceased Ramesh Chand. Section 50 of the Evidence Act reads as follows:-

> "50. Opinion on relationship, when relevant.- When the Court has to form an opinion as to the relationship of one person to another, the opinion, expressed by conduct, as the existence of such relationship, or any person who, as a member of the family or otherwise, has special means of knowledge on the subject, is a relevant fact:
>
> Provided that such opinion shall not be sufficient to prove a marriage in proceedings under the Indian Divorce Act, 1869 (4 of 1869) or in prosecution under sections 494, 495, 497 or 498 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860)."

23. Now, once the plaintiff alongwith other respectable persons from her as well as her husband's relations have stepped into the witness box and stated regarding the marriage of the plaintiff and Ramesh Chand and they have further stated that they had participated in the marriage or had seen solemnization of marriage was a relevant factor and could, therefore, be taken into consideration. Statements of Jeet Singh PW-3, who belongs to the village of Ramesh Chand, PW-4 Surat Ram, who is uncle of the plaintiff, PW-5 Ujjagar Singh, who is the nephew of Ramesh Chand, are very relevant. As discussed above, these witnesses have clearly stated that marriage between Ramesh Chand and the plaintiff was solemnized in accordance with customary rites.

24. The learned Courts below have concurrently found Mandra Devi to be the wife of deceased Ramesh Chand and such finding being a finding of fact is not open to challenge. Moreover, the appellant has no locus-standi to challenge her status, particularly, when he has failed to prove on record the so-called Will and also the fact that he had served Ramesh Chand during his lifetime. Suffice it to say that the learned Courts below have correctly appreciated the statements of Bal Krishan, Election Kanungo, PW-2 Mandra Devi, PW-3 Jeet Singh and PW-4 Surat Ram and PW-5 Ujjagar Singh and after evaluating their statements have come to the firm conclusion that Mandra Devi was the wife of deceased Ramesh Chand.

25. The appellant has vehemently argued that the deceased had executed a registered Will in his favour and, therefore, greater weight as to the presumption of its genuineness should be attached to the same. In Bharpur Singh's case (supra), it was categorically held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that it may be true that the Will was registered one, but the same by itself would not mean that the statutory requirements of proving the Will need not be complied with. In terms of Section 63(c), Succession Act, 1925 and Section 68, Evidence Act, 1872, the propounder of the Will must prove its execution by examining one or more attesting witnesses. It was further held that when the Will is surrounded with suspicious circumstances, it would not be treated as the last testamentary disposition of the testator, its proof ceases to be a simple lis between the plaintiff and the defendant and adversarial proceeding in the case becomes a matter of Court's conscience and propounder of the Will has to remove all suspicious circumstances to satisfy that the Will was duly executed by the testator wherefor cogent and convincing explanation of suspicious circumstances shrouding the making of Will must be offered.

26. The concurrent findings recorded by both the Courts below are in the realm of appreciation. They are pure findings of fact and these findings are properly and reasonably arrived at. No perversity could be pointed out. Second appeal is limited to substantial question of law and cannot be converted into a third innings of fact. The substantial question of law is accordingly answered against the appellant.

27. In view of aforesaid discussion, I find no merit in this appeal and accordingly the same is dismissed. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of. The parties are left to bear their own costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J

Vipin Sharma & anr. …… Petitioners.

Vs.

Punjab State Electricity Board & anr. …….. Respondent

Civil Revision No. 12 of 2015.
Date of decision: 7.5.2015.

Himachal Pradesh Urban Rent Control Act, 1987- Section 14- Petitioner was held to be in arrears of rent to the extent of Rs. 20 lakh - amount was not deposited by the petitioner within 30 days of the order- held, that Court does not have power to extend time to deposit arrears of rent beyond the period of 30 days. (Para-4 to 8)

Cases referred:
Krishan Murari vs. Amar Dutt Sharma 1994 (Suppl.) Sim. L.C. 242
Ram Niwas vs. Rajinder Prasad 1996 (1) RCR 427
Bilasi Ram vs. Bhanumagi 2007 (1) Shim. LC 88
Rewat Ram vs. Ashok Kumar and others 2011 (Supp) Him L.R. 1580,
Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd. Vs. Dilbahar Singh (2014) 9 SCC 78

For the petitioners : Mr. Neel Kamal Sood, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. Anand Sharma, Advocate with Mr. Jagan Nath, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, J. (Oral).

The petitioner is a tenant, who has suffered an eviction order passed by the learned Rent Controller, Jogindernagar, which in turn has been affirmed by the appellate authority holding the petitioner to be arrears of rent of more than Rs.20,00,000/- (twenty lacs) as on the date of eviction.

2. Sh. Neel Kamal Sood, learned counsel for the petitioners has strenuously argued that order passed by the learned Rent Controller is based on surmises and conjectures and that the learned Rent Controller had not correctly calculated the amount in question.

On the other hand Sh. Anand Sharma, learned counsel for the respondents has supported the order of eviction passed by the learned Rent Controller and has argued that this court would have no jurisdiction to extend the time period for deposit of arrears of rent, even if the petitioner is now ready and willing to deposit the amount.

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the case.

3. Indisputably even as on date the entire arrears of rent as determined by the learned Rent Controller have not been tendered/ paid by the petitioner. However, learned counsel for the petitioner states that his clients are ready to deposit the arrears in instalments. Therefore, in this background one of the questions which requires to be determined is as to whether this court, under section 14 of H.P. Urban Rent Control Act, 1987 (hereinafter referred to as the Act) can enlarge the period of deposit of arrears beyond the statutory period of 30 days from the order of eviction as passed by the learned Rent Controller.

4. This question is no longer res integra in view of numerous judgements of this court, some of which are being noticed below.

5. In Krishan Murari vs. Amar Dutt Sharma 1994 (Suppl.) Sim. L.C. 242, this court has held as follows:-

> "12. Tenant in the aforesaid provisions has been afforded two opportunities to be availed of by him in order to avoid his eviction on the ground of non-payment of arrears of rent. The first and Second proviso referred to above deal with first opportunity which the tenant can avail in order to avoid eviction order. In this regard third proviso contains the second opportunity.

13. It has been contended on behalf of the landlord-respondent that third proviso only gives to a tenant thirty days from the order of the Controller alone to deposit the amount due and not otherwise. It has been contended on behalf of the tenant that in case Controller dis-allowed the eviction petition and the lower Appellate Authority accepts the same on the ground of non-payment of arrears of rent, time for depositing the arrears of rent and other amounts, thirty days time limit would start from the date of the order passed by the lower Appellate Authority and not from the order of Controller.

14. Insofar as, third proviso is concerned it clearly makes out that where the Controller has made an order for eviction on the ground of non payment of arrears of rent, due from him, in that event, tenant shall not be evicted as a result of his order (i. e. order of eviction passed by the Rent Controller), if the tenant pays the amount due within a period of 30 days from the date of order. This proviso clearly speaks regarding the order of eviction passed by the Controller, but this provision is not to be read in isolation. There may be a case as submitted by the learned Counsel for the tenant-petitioner that Controller has dis-allowed eviction petition on the ground of non-payment of arrears of rent but the same has been allowed by the lower Appellate Authority and in case third proviso deals with order of Controller alone, it will not at all serve the purpose and intention of the Act insofar as the order of eviction passed upon arrears of rent due is to be made and complied with.

15. At this stage, sections 24 (4) and (5) of the Act can safely be referred which runs as under :-

> "Section 24 (4) The decision of the Appellate Authority and subject only to such decision, an order, of the Controller shall be final and shall not be liable to be called in question in any court of Jaw except as provided in sub-section (5) of this section.
>
> Section 24 (5), The High Court may at any time, on the application' of any aggrieved party or on its own motion call for and examine the records relating to any order passed or proceedings taken under this Act for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of such order or proceedings and may pass such order in relation thereto as it may deem fit."

16. Section 24 deals with Power of the State Government for conferring powers of Appellate Authority for the purposes of the Act and also deals with right of the party to file an appeal assailing the order of the Controller passed for recovery of possession etc The aforesaid provision of law makes it very clear that the decision of the Appellate Authority and subject only to such decision, an order, of the Controller shall b; final and shall not be liable to be called in question in any court of law except as provided in sub-section (5) of this section. This provision only means that insofar as the order of Controller, is concerned it would remain final subject to variations made to such an order by the Appellate Authority in an appeal preferred before this Authority or subject to revisional powers of the High Court as provided under sub-section (5) above.

17. These provisions clearly reflected that in case Rent Controller has dis-allowed the petition and the Appellate Authority has accepted the eviction petition on the ground of non-payment of arrears of rent, tenant could legally avoid eviction order in case tenant deposits the arrears of rent etc. within thirty days from the passing of the order by the Appellate Authority and in case Rent Controller and lower Appellate Authority have both disallowed the eviction petition, and the High Court in revision passed eviction order, in that event, thirty days period for depositing rent would start from the date of passing of the eviction order by the High Court.

18. In the present case, Rent Controller passed eviction order on 25-11-1993, which order of eviction was maintained by the lower Appellate Authority, though amount due was varied. It may be very specifically referred here that admittedly the amount due was not deposited by the tenant within thirty days from the passing of the eviction order by the Rent Controller on 25-11-1993 The eviction order has been maintained uptil High Court though the amount due as observed by the Appellate Authority was maintained by the High Court also. It is not a case where the Rent Controller dis-allowed the petition and the lower Appellate Authority allowed the eviction petition on the ground of non-payment of arrears of rent but it is otherwise. Order of eviction passed by the Rent Controller was assailed before the Appellate Authority, was not at all stayed by the lower Appellate Authority, otherwise if it had been stayed insofar as depositing of amount due within thirty days from the order of Rent Controller was concerned, this statutory period could not have been enlarged by any authority whatsoever. The tenant selected not to deposit the amount due as ordered by the Rent Controller within 30 days of the passing of the order. The risk was his and he assailed the order of eviction before the lower Appellate Authority. On the basis of the grounds taken by him, entire order passed by the Rent Controller, could have been set aside and in that event tenant could have got the benefit but the risk taken by him was not successful. He avoided to comply with the directions of the Rent Controller to deposit the amount within thirty days He has to bear all the legal consequences for not complying with that order.

19. At this stage, some decided case law can safely be referred.

20. In 1994 Supp (1) SCC 437, Madan Mohan and another v. Krishan Kumar Sood, it has been held that the Rent Control Acts are necessary social measures for protection of tenants, and the Rent Control laws have tried to balance the equity. Their Lordships observed that landlord is duty bound to satisfy the ground of eviction mentioned in various Rent Acts and if he does not satisfy, he cannot get the order of eviction merely because the Act restricts his rights, but there are certain Rent Acts which, even when a ground of eviction is satisfied, still confer powers on the Rent Controllers to consider the question of comparative hardship and it is only in those types of cases, if the Controller is satisfied, he can decline passing orders of eviction. But if there is no such limitations, the Rent Controllers, after the ground of eviction specified in the Act is made out, have no discretion to reject the application. It was further observed that once the order of eviction is passed, the executing court is duty bound to execute its orders. No question of equity or hardship arises at this stage.

21. Their Lordships further observed taking note of the facts of the case that in the present case, the tenant spared no efforts to harass the landlords and after the order of eviction, the tenant again failed to pay the rent and the landlord was forced to file another eviction petition on the ground of non-payment of arrears of rent and it was only after the filing of the said eviction petition and in order to avoid eviction he deposited the rent. The matter did not rest there even and it was only after the notice of the special leave petition was issued in the present case that the tenant chose to pay the rent after keeping it in arrears for practically six years and under the circumstances, Supreme Court's interference under Article 136 is called for.

22. It was further held that in view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, impugned order of the High Court dated May 17, 1991 and the order of the Rent Controller dated May 18, 1990 were set aside and the Rent Controller was directed to issue warrants of possession for ejectment of the respondent from the premises in dispute and place the landlords/appellants in possession. The apex Court held that order being not without jurisdiction, right or wrong, executing court had not to go behind its own order and grant extension of time.

23. In ILR (Himachal Series) (1982) p 279, in M/s. K. N. Trading Company v. Masonic Fraternity of Simla, following observations of this Court would be very much relevant:

> "Section 14. This section (section 14) gives various opportunities to a tenant to pay the arrears of rent. The second proviso gives a last chance to the tenant to pay up the amount due from him. This he can avail even after the order of eviction has been passed. The period during which be can deposit the dues is fixed. It is 30 days from the date of the order. He can save the eviction only if he pays the amount due within the prescribed period in terms of the aforementioned proviso. This period can neither be enlarged nor abridged by the court. There is no provision for condonation of the delay in depositing the rent. Since the time is fixed by law there is no question of anyone misleading the tenant about the same."

24. Earlier decision of this very court in Krishan Kumar v. Gurbax Singh, 1977 (2) RCR 62, was also taken note of while disposing of the aforesaid proposition of law. In Krishan Kumar's case {supra) this court held:

> "It is apparent that the statute itself provides a period of 30 days from the date of the order for payment of rental arrears by the tenant. On such payment, the statute declares, effect will not be given to the order of eviction. The statute does not leave the determination of the period to the Rent Controller. It is ' not open to the Rent Controller when, disposing of the petition for eviction, to make an order either abridging or enlarging the period of 30 days Indeed, the period having being determined by the statute itself, no order was necessary by the Rent Controller."

25. In M/s. K. N. Trading Company v. Masonic Fraternity of Simla, referred to above, facts appear to be of identical nature as in the present case. However, in the reported case, even there was a stay order passed by the Appellate Authority against the order of eviction of the Controller, but inspite of that it was held that period of 30 days would start from the passing of the eviction order passed by the Controller.

26. The aforesaid citations clearly established that the date when eviction order was passed by Rent Controller on the basis of arrears of rent, would be the date to be taken note of for depositing the amount due by the tenant within 30 days and not from the date of the order passed by the Appellate Authority or by the High Court where the eviction order had been maintained, as passed by the Controller.

27. In the present case, the tenant if so advised could have deposited the amount due as arrived by the Rent Controller within thirty days from the date of passing of the order by Rent Controller and in case, as has happened in the present case, the amount being varied by the higher authority it could have been permitted to be withdrawn by the tenant but the original amount required to be deposited could not have been under the provisions of the Act deferred for a period not allowed by the statute."

6. The matter was again considered by this court in Ram Niwas vs. Rajinder Prasad 1996 (1) RCR 427, wherein the aforesaid proposition was reiterated and it was held that period of 30 days provided under the Act for the deposit of arrears of rent cannot be extended.

7. Yet again when the matter came up before this court in Bilasi Ram vs. Bhanumagi 2007 (1) Shim. LC 88, it was held as follows:-

"3. Third proviso to clause (i) of sub-section (2) of Section 14 of the H.P. Rent Control Act, 1987 clearly enjoins upon the tenant against whom the Rent Controller has made an order for eviction on the ground of nonpayment of rent due from him, the statutory duty to pay the amount due within a period of 30 days from the date of order.

4. By now it is well established, in the light of the authoritative pronouncements by a Full Bench of this Court in the case of Wazir Chand v. Ambaka Rani and another, reported in 2005 (2) Shim. L.C. 498, based upon and in the light of the ratio in the case of Madam Mohan and another v. Krishan Kumar Sood, reported in 1994 Supp (1) Supreme Court Cases 437, that the expression "amount due" occurring in the aforesaid third; proviso includes the arrears of rent, the interest thereupon @ 9% per annum and the amount of costs. It is also a well settled proposition of law by now that if the tenant fails to deposit the amount due within a period of 30 days from the date of the order, the only option available in law is to enforce the eviction order. Whether the shortfall is Re. 1/- or the shortfall is more than Re. 1/- if there is any shortfall in the deposit of the amount the eviction order has to be executed, because by not depositing the amount due in its entirety, the tenant forfeits the concession granted to him under the aforesaid third proviso and the only option thereafter is to execute the eviction order.

5. While interpreting the aforesaid third proviso in the light of the fact situation that there occurred a shortfall, howsoever small, in the matter of deposit of the amount due, the Court cannot take into consideration either any extenuating circumstance or any circumstance based upon leniency or amplitude or any other circumstance-which may be based upon or linked with any compelling reason or reasons of difficulty or discomfiture. If there is a shortfall with respect to the deposit of the amount due within a period of 30 days or if the amount due has not been deposited within the aforesaid period of 30 days and even if the deposit is late by one day, concession granted under the aforesaid third proviso immediately goes away. There is no escape to that."

8. The third proviso to clause (1) of sub-section (2) of section 14 of the Act was yet again a subject matter of discussion by this court in Rewat Ram vs. Ashok Kumar and others 2011 (Supp) Him L.R. 1580, wherein after analyzing the entire provisions of the Rent Act, it was held as follows:-

"5. Section 14(1) and 14(2)(i) of the H.P. Urban Rent Control Act read as follows:-

"Section 14(1) A tenant in possession of a building or rented land shall not be evicted there from in execution of a decree passed before or after the commencement of this Act or otherwise, whether before or after the termination of the tenancy, except in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

(2) A landlord who seeks to evict his tenant shall apply to the Controller for a direction in that behalf. If the Controller, after giving the tenant a reasonable opportunity of showing cause against the applicant is satisfied-

(i) that the tenant has not paid or tendered the rent due from him in respect of the building or rented land within fifteen days after the expiry of the time fixed in the agreement of tenancy with his landlord or in the absence of any such agreement by the last day of the month next following that for which the rent is payable:

Provided that if the tenant on the first hearing of the application for ejectment after due service pays or tenders the arrears of rent and interest at the rate of 9% per annum on such arrears together with the cost of application assessed by the Controller, the tenant shall be deemed to have dully paid or tendered the rent within the time aforesaid;

Provided further that if the arrears pertain to the period prior to the appointed ay, the rate of interest shall be calculated at the rate of 6% per annum:

Provided further that the tenant against whom the Controller has made an order for eviction on the ground of non payment of rent due from him, shall not be evicted as a result of his order, if the tenant > pays the amount due within a period of 30 days from the date of the order; or"

6. A bare reading of this provision clearly shows that a landlord can apply for eviction of a tenant in case the tenant has not paid or tendered the rent due from him in respect of the rented premises within the stipulated time. Since the Rent Control legislation is in the nature of a legislation to protect the tenant, the legislature in its wisdom included a proviso that if the tenant on the first hearing of the application for ejectment pays or tenders the arrears of rent alongwith interest @ 9% per annum alongwith the costs assessed by the Rent Controller, the tenant shall be deemed to have duly paid or tendered the rent within time and therefore no order of eviction can be passed.

7. We are not concerned with the second proviso since admittedly the arrears relate to the period after the appointed day i.e. 18th August, 1997 and all the arrears which are subject matter of this petition fell due after the said date.

8. By the third proviso to this sub section the legislature gave another protection to the tenant. Even after the order of eviction is passed the tenant can avoid being affected if he pays or deposits the arrears of rent alongwith interest @ 9% per annum alongwith costs of the petition as assessed by the Rent Controller.

9. These provisions have come up for consideration in a number of cases. A Division Bench of this Court in Om Parkash vs. Sarla Kumari and others, 1991(1) Sim. LC 45, held that the "amount due" in the third proviso is only the arrears of rent and not interest. This judgement of the Division Bench was overruled by the Apex Court in Madan Mohan and another vs. Krishan Kumar Sood, 1994 Supp(1) SCC 437, wherein the Apex Court held as follows:-

> "12. A reading of the aforesaid relevant part of the section shows that sub-section (1) of Section 14 creates a ban against the eviction of a tenant except in accordance with the provisions of the Act. The ban is liable to be lifted. Sub-section (2) of Section 14 provides the circumstances in which the ban is partially lifted. It contemplates that where an eviction petition is filed, inter alia, on the ground of non-payment of rent by the landlord, the Controller has to be satisfied that the tenant has neither paid nor tendered the rent in the circumstances mentioned in clause (i) of sub Section (2) of Section 14. He has to arrive at this satisfaction after giving a reasonable opportunity of showing cause against it to the tenant. But there may be cases where the tenant, on being given notice of such an application for eviction, may like to contest or not to contest the application. The tenant is given the first chance to save himself from eviction as provided in the first proviso to clause (i) of sub-section (2) of Section 14. This first proviso contemplates that the tenant may on the first hearing of the application for ejectment pay or tender in court the rent and interest at the rate mentioned in the proviso on such arrears together with the cost of application assessed by the Controller and in that case the tenant is deemed to have duly paid or tendered the rent within the time as contemplated by clause (i) of sub section (2) of Section 14. Where the tenant does not avail of this opportunity of depositing as contemplated by the first proviso and waits for an ultimate decision of the application for eviction on the ground of non-payment of rent, the Controller has to decide it and while deciding, the Controller has to find whether the ground contained in clause (i) of sub-section (2) of Section 14 has been made out or not. If the Controller finds that the ground as contemplated by clause (i) of sub-section (2) of Section 14 is made out, he is required to pass an order of eviction on the ground of non-payment of rent due from him. A second opportunity to avoid eviction is provided by the third proviso to clause (i) of sub section (2) of Section 14. But the second opportunity is provided after the order of eviction. The benefit of avoiding eviction arises if the tenant pays the "amount due" within the period of 30 days of the date of order.

13. The question is what is the meaning of the words "amount due" occuring in the third proviso to clause (i) of sub-section (2) of Section 14 of the Act.

14. It will be noticed that there is no provision in the Act for giving powers to the Controller to direct payment or deposit of 'pendente lite' rent for each month during the pendency of the petition for eviction of the tenant. First proviso to sub-section (2) of Section 14 shows that in order to show payment or valid tender as contemplated by clause (i) of Ss. (2) of Section 14 by a tenant in default, he has to pay on the first date of hearing the arrears of rent along with interest and costs of the application which are to be assessed by the Controller. Surely where a tenant does not avail of the first opportunity and contests the eviction petition on the ground of non-payment of arrears of rent and fails to show that he was not in default and court finds that the ground has been made out, an order of eviction has to follow. Therefore, it does not stand to reason that such a tenant who contests a claim and fails to avoid order of eviction can still avoid it by merely paying the rent due till the date of the filing of the application for ejectment. The third proviso to clause (i) of Ss. (2) of Section 14 should also receive an interpretation which will safeguard the rights of both the landlord and tenant. The "amount due" occurring in the third proviso in the context will mean the amount due on and up to the date of the order of eviction. It will take into account not merely the arrears of rent which gave cause of action to file a petition for eviction but also include the rent which accumulated during the pendency of eviction petition as well. If the tenant has been paying the rent during the pendency of the eviction petition to the landlord, the "amount due" will be only arrears which have not been paid. The landlord, as per the scheme of the section, cannot be worse off vis-a-vis a tenant who was good enough to deposit in court the arrears of rent together with interest and costs on the first date of hearing. If the interpretation given by the High court is accepted the result would be that the tenant will be better off by avoiding to pay the arrears of rent with interest and costs on the first date of hearing and prefer suffering order of ejectment after contest and then merely offer the amount due as mentioned in the application for ejectment to avoid eviction. This could not be the intention of the legislature.

15. In such cases it will be advisable if the Controller while passing the order of eviction on the ground specified in clause (0 of Ss. (2 of Section 14 of the Act specifies the "amount due" till the date of the order and not merely leave it to the parties to contest it after passing of the order of eviction as to what was the amount due.

16. Surely the Rent Control Acts, no doubt, are measures to protect tenants from eviction except on certain specified grounds if found established. Once the grounds are made out and subject to any further condition which may be provided in the Act, the tenants would suffer ejectment. Again the protection given in the Acts is not to give licence for continuous litigation and bad blood,

17. Surely the legislature which made the Act could not have envisaged that after the parties finish off one round of litigation, the party should be relegated to another round of litigation for recovery of rent which accrued pendente lite. Whatever protection Rent Acts give they do not give blanket protection for "non-payment of rent". This basic minimum has to be complied with by the tenants. Rent Acts do not contemplate that if one takes a house on rent, he can continue to enjoy the same without payment of rent."

10. The Apex Court in no uncertain terms held that a tenant who pays the rent after an order of eviction is passed can in no circumstances be placed on a better footing than a tenant who pays the arrears of rent on the first date of hearing. A reading of the first proviso shows that on the first date of hearing, a tenant, can avoid an order of eviction if he deposits not only the rent but also the interest due thereupon and the costs as assessed by the Rent Controller. Obviously, the interest has to be calculated from the date when the interest fell due and is not the day of the institution of the petition or any other date.

11. The question which arises in this petition is whether a tenant who deposits the amount due after an order of eviction is passed can claim that he is liable to deposit the interest only from the date of the institution of the petition? The answer is obviously no. The Full Bench of this Court in Wazir Chand vs. Ambaka Rani and another, 2005(2) Shim.L.C.498 again considered the import of Section 14(2)(i) after taking note of the judgement of the Apex Court in Madan Mohan's case supra and held as follows:-

"9. Taking a cue from the aforesaid observations of their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Madan Mohan and another vs. Krishan Kumar Sood (supra), we hereby issue a binding direction to all the Rent Controllers in the State that whenever a Rent Controller passes an eviction order in terms of Section 14(2)(i) of the 1987 Act, it must in the same eviction order, in its concluding part specify the exact amount of rent payable by the tenant to the landlord, of course, alongwith interest and costs. Undoubtedly, based on the ratio of Madan Mohan and another vs. Krishan Kumar Sood (Supra), the rent payable by the tenant to the landlord, which the Rent Controller would be specifying in the order of eviction would be the arrears of rent uptil the filing of the eviction petition under Section 14(2)(i) as well as the arrears of rent which have accumulated ruing the pendency of eviction petition, right up to the date of passing of the eviction order. The purpose behind the Rent Controller specifying in the eviction order the exact amount of rent payable by the tenant is to directly link it with the third proviso so as to effectively enable the tenant to know with certainty the amount that he is liable to pay to save his eviction.

10. There can be situations and circumstances where a tenant may have a grievance that even though the Rent Controller in the final eviction order has specified the amount of rent payable by the tenant to the landlord, yet while doing so the Rent Controller did not take into account any amount paid by the tenant by way of arrears of rent during the pendency of the eviction petition. Disputes and controversies can arise with regard to this aspect of the matter, in as much as in certain situations and circumstances a tenant can contend and agitate that during the pendency of the petition he had been paying the rent to the land lord and despite such payments having been made by him, the Rent Controller did not reflect such payments nor took note of them, nor adjusted such payments while assessing and specifying, in the course of final eviction order the rent payable by the tenant to the landlord. To avoid the happening of any such eventuality, we wish to observe and direct that the onus to prove that the tenant had been paying any rent or arrears of rent during the pendency of the eviction petition, with a view to claim adjustment of such amount in the final analysis, would lie on the tenant alone and upon no one else. The only way in which such apprehended dispute can effectively be avoided is for the tenant to conclusively establish before the Rent Controller, before the passing of the final eviction order, that the tenant had actually paid a specified amount by way of arrears of rent during the pendency of eviction petition. A duty, therefore, would be cast always on the tenant to establish beyond any doubt before the Rent Controller, before the passing of final eviction order, that during the pendency of the eviction petition the tenant had paid a particular amount towards the arrears of rent so that the tenant gets the amount adjusted in the final analysis. With a view to minimize or ourtail any scope for any dispute on this account we wish to observe and lay down as a binding principle of law that any prudent tenant in normal course of wisdom would like to avoid any dispute about establishing the fact of such payment being made during the pendency of the eviction petition by taking recourse to Section 21 of the 1987 Act because the endeavour of every tenant should be to establish beyond any doubt conclusively the fact of any amount of rent having been paid during the pendency of the petition. After all, when the landlord and the tenant are locked in a litigation over the fact of the tenant allegedly having committed defaults and the landlord seeking eviction of the tenant from the property in question on the ground of default, it cannot legitimately be believed that the tenant in the face of such litigation would risk payment to the landlord without his insisting on conclusive proof of such payment having been made. The Rent Controller, therefore, while taking not of any such submission of the tenant has to take into account above referred circumstances and, therefore, while passing the final eviction order and specifying the exact amount payable, has to give credit and adjustment only to such amount which the tenant claims it has paid as has been conclusively established. Any claim of the tenant which is shrounded in doubt, or which does not have the trappings of any conclusive proof, has to be rejected."

12. Thereafter, a learned Single Judge of this Court in Bilasi Ram vs. Bhanumagi, 2007(1) Shim.LC 88, while considering the provisions of Section 14 held as follows:-

"4. By now it is well established, in the light of the authoritative pronouncements by a Full Bench of this Court in the case of Wazir Chand vs. Ambaka Rani and another, reported in 2005 (2) Shim. L.C. 498, based upon and in the light of the ratio in the case of Madam Mohan and another vs. Krishan Kumar Sood, reported in 1994 Supp (1) Supreme Court Cases 437, that the expression "amount due" occurring in the aforesaid third proviso includes the arrears of rent, the interest thereupon @ 9% per annum and the amount of costs. It is also a well settled proposition of law by now that if the tenant fails to deposit the amount due within a period of 30 days from the date of the order, the only option available in law is to enforce the eviction order. Whether the shortfall is Re.1/- or the shortfall is more than Re.1/-, if there is any shortfall in the deposit of the amount, the eviction order has to be executed, because by not depositing the amount due in its entirety, the tenant forfeits the concession granted to him under the aforesaid third proviso and the only option thereafter is to execute the eviction order.

5. While interpreting the aforesaid third proviso in the light of the fact situation that there occurred a shortfall, howsoever small, in the matter of deposit of the amount due, the Court cannot take into consideration either any extenuating circumstance or any circumstance based upon leniency or amplitude or any other circumstance which may be based upon or linked with any compelling reason or reasons of difficulty or discomfiture. If there is a shortfall with respect to the deposit of the amount due within a period of 30 days or if the amount due has not been deposited within the aforesaid period of 30 days and even if the deposit is late by one > day, concession granted under the aforesaid third proviso immediately goes away. There is no escape to that."

9. In so far as the contention of the petitioner that the amount has not been correctly calculated or worked out by the learned Rent Controller is concerned, the petitioner was unable to convince this court in this regard. Moreover, the petitioner cannot be permitted to raise this ground more particularly when the same was not agitated before the learned Lower Appellate Authority.

10. This Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction is only entitled to satisfy itself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any decision or order impugned before it. However, to satisfy itself to the regularity, correctness, legality or propriety of the impugned decision or order, this Court shall not exercise its powers as an appellate power to reappreciate or reassess the evidence for coming to a different finding on facts. Revisional power is not and cannot be equated with the power of reconsideration of all questions of fact as a Court of first appeal. This was so held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd. Vs. Dilbahar Singh (2014) 9 SCC 78 wherein after discussing various provisions of rent laws in India, the following conclusion was arrived at:-

> "43. We hold, as we must, that none of the above Rent Control Acts entitles the High Court to interfere with the findings of fact recorded by the first appellate court/first appellate authority because on reappreciation of the evidence, its view is different from the court/authority below. The consideration or examination of the evidence by the High Court in revisional jurisdiction or examination of the evidence by the High Court in revisional jurisdiction under these Acts is confined to find out that findings of facts recorded by the court/authority below is according o law and does not suffer from any error of law. A finding of fact recorded by court/authority below, if perverse or has been arrived at without consideration of the material evidence or such finding is based on no evidence or misreading of the evidence or is grossly erroneous that, if allowed to stand, it would result in gross miscarriage of justice, is open to correction because it is not treated as a finding according to law. In that event, the High Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction under the above Rent Control Acts shall be entitled to set aside the impugned order as being not legal or proper. The High Court is entitled to satisfy itself as to the correctness or legality or propriety of any decision or order impugned before it as indicated above. However, to satisfy itself to the regularity, correctness, legality or propriety of the impugned decision or the order, the High Court shall exercise its power as an appellate power to reappreciate or reassess the evidence for coming to a different finding on facts. Revisional power is not and cannot be equated with the power of reconsideration of all questions of fact as a court of first appeal. Where the High Court is required to be satisfied that the decision is according to law, it may examine whether the order impugned before it suffers from procedural illegality or irregularity."

11. In view of the aforesaid discussion and also taking into consideration the settled position of law, I find no infirmity, impropriety or illegality in the order passed by the learned Rent Controller as affirmed by the learned Appellate Authority. Accordingly, there is no merit in the revision petition and the same is dismissed, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Amarjeet Singh. ....Petitioner
versus
State of H.P. ....Non-petitioner.

Cr.MMO No. 114 of 2015
Decided on: 8.5.2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition against the anticipatory bail order passed by Sessions Judge, Shimla- Additional Advocate General submitted that he has no objection in case the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in para-5 of the order is deleted and the word 'India' is ordered to be incorporated- therefore, the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in the order be deleted and word 'India' be incorporated.

For the petitioner : Mr. Vishal Aggarwal & Sanjay Sharma, Advocates.
For the non-petitioner : Mr. M.L. Chauhan Additional Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge (Oral)

Petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. against the anticipatory bail order passed by the learned Sessions Judge Shimla H.P. on 4.5.2015 in Criminal Bail Application No. 56-8/22 of 2015. Notice. At this stage learned Additional Advocate General appears and waives service of notice on behalf of the respondent. Learned Additional Advocate General submitted that he does not want to file any reply and he has no objection if the word H.P. State mentioned in para-5 of order dated 4.5.2015 is deleted and word India is incorporated. In view of the above stated facts and in view of the express provision mentioned under Section 438 (2) (iii) Cr.P.C. petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed in the ends of justice and word H.P. State mentioned at Sr. No. (iv) of para-5 of the order dated 4.5.2015 is ordered to be deleted and word India is ordered to be incorporated. Order passed by the learned Sessions Judge Shimla dated 4.5.2015 in Criminal Bail Application No. 56-8/22 of 2015 is modified to this extent only. Petition disposed of. Pending applications if any also disposed of. Dasti copy.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Hema Ram ......Appellant.
Versus
State of Hemachal Pradesh ....Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 223 of 2009
Reserved on: May 06, 2015.
Decided on: May 08, 2015.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 302- Deceased was posted as Assistant. Lineman, in HPSEB- he left home after his duty but did not return- his dead body was found with the injuries on the head in the jungle by PW-1- PW-4 admitted that deceased had consumed alcohol and was unable to walk properly- 316.25 mg % ethyl alcohol was found in the blood sample of the deceased- since, deceased was heavily drunk, therefore, possibility of his fall from a height cannot be ruled out, especially when body was recovered at a distance of more than 100 meters below the path- accused acquitted. (Para- 27 to 36)

Cases referred:

Parkash vrs. State of Karnataka, (2014) 12 SCC 133,
Ashok vrs. State of Maharashtra, 2015(4) SCC 393,
Bhim Singh and another vrs. State of Uttarakhand, (2015) 4 SCC 281

For the appellant: Mr. Umesh Kanwar, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This appeal is instituted against the judgment dated 23/26.05.2009, rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Shimla, H.P. in Sessions Trial No. 16-S/7 of 2008, whereby the appellant-accused (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who was charged with and tried for offence punishable under Sections 302 IPC, has been convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life and to pay a fine of Rs. 10,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo simple imprisonment for one year.

2. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that Hitender Kumar was posted as Asstt. Lineman, in the HPSEB at Drabla, Sub Section. On 3.7.2008, at about 8:30 AM, Hitender Kumar left from his house for duties to Drabla and did not return in the evening and also till the evening of 4.7.2008. On 4.7.2008, at about 11:00 PM, PW-5 Devloo Ram, resident of Village Malyan, telephonically informed his brother PW-1 Tikhu Ram, that one dead body was lying in Jug Forest, upon which PW-1 alongwith his elder brother Hukmi Ram proceeded to the forest in search of his brother Hitender Kumar. But, they could not locate the dead body in the forest and they returned back. On the following day, PW-1 alongwith PW-4 Kamlesh Kumar, his brother Hukmi Ram and Mathu Ram proceeded to the Jungle in search of his brother Hitender Kumar. During their search, they found that Hitender Kumar was lying dead facing downward at a distance of 100-120 meters down from the path in the Jungle. Hitender Kumar had suffered injuries on his head and forehead, apparently caused with heavy object. PW-1 telephonically informed PW-12 Deep Ram, who in turn informed the police. The police reached the spot and recorded the statement of PW-1 Tikhu Ram under Section 154 Cr.P.C., vide Ext. PW-1/A. The FIR was registered vide Ext. PW-19/A. PW-23, proceeded with the investigation of the case and inspected the dead body of Hitender Kumar. He took photographs of the spot and also prepared the site plan. The articles lying near the body were seized and taken into possession. PW-23 also lifted blood with cotton swab from the spot. The dead body was sent for post mortem examination. The post mortem on the dead body was conducted by PW-24 Dr. Piyush Kapila. The report is Ext. PW-24/B. According to the report, the deceased died as a result of gross head injury leading to laceration of brain and death. The accused was arrested. Disclosure statement was recorded vide Ext. PW-6/B, on the basis of which, the recoveries were effected. The case property was sent for chemical examination. On completion of the investigation, challan was put up after completing all the codal formalities.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as 24 witnesses. The accused was also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. He specifically denied the incriminating circumstances put to him. The learned trial Court convicted and sentenced the accused, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. Umesh Kanwar, Advocate for the accused has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove the case against the accused. On the other hand, Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. Advocate General, appearing on behalf of the State, has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 23/26.5.2009.

5. We have heard learned counsel for both the sides and gone through the records of the case carefully.

6. PW-1 Tikhu Ram, deposed that his brother was posted as Asstt. Lineman in HPSEB. On 3.7.2008, his brother Hitender Kumar, left for his duties to Drabla. He did not return from his duties in the evening. He also did not return from his duty till the evening of 4.7.2008. On 4.7.2008, at about 11:00 PM, PW-5 Devloo Ram, resident of Village Malyan, telephonically informed him, that one unknown person was lying in Jug Forest. He alongwith his elder brother Hukmi Ram proceeded to the forest in search of his brother Hitender Kumar. But, they could not locate the person who was lying in the forest and they returned. On the following day, he alongwith Kamlesh Kumar, his brother Hukmi Ram and Mathu Ram proceeded to the Jungle in search of his brother Hitender Kumar. During the search, they found that Hitender Kumar was lying dead by his face downward at a distance of 160/170 feet down from the path in the said Jungle. Hitender Kumar had suffered injuries on his head and forehead. It appeared that he had been inflicted injuries with some heavy object. The police was informed. The police reached the spot. He further deposed that on 4.7.2008, at 11:00 PM, while Devloo Ram informed him telephonically that there was a person lying in the jungle. He also informed him that in the evening of 3.7.2008, Hitender Kumar, Kamlesh Kumar and Hema Ram were together at Baldian and all the three were proceeding downwards. The police reached the spot and recorded the statement Ext. PW-1/A. In his cross-examination, he admitted that Devloo Ram is the father-in-law of his brother Hitender Kumar. Atma Ram is the brother-in-law of Hitender Kumar. The house of Devloo is at a distance of 5-6 km. from his house. The house of Devloo Ram is at a distance of about half kilometer from the place where dead body was found. They did not inquire about the whereabouts of Hitender Kumar during the night intervening 3rd and 4th July, 2008 because sometimes, he was deputed on night duty. He reiterated in his further cross-examination that only Devloo Ram had disclosed on telephone on 4.7.2008 at 11 PM that a person was lying in Jug Jungle and blood was also lying there. He received the telephone of Atma Ram after one hour after receipt of the telephone of Devloo Ram on 4.7.2008. He admitted in his cross-examination that the path below on which the dead body was found in Jug Jungle, is sloppy and rocky in the shape of Dhank (cliff).

7. PW-2 Kamlesh Kumar, deposed that he had gone in search of Hitender Kumar with PW-1 Tikhu Ram. In his cross-examination, he admitted that Hitender Kumar and Hema Ram were not inimical to each other. Both of them were friends. The land was sloppy but not steep. The land was not rocky. There were no stones from the path where blood was lying up to the dead body of Hitender Kumar.

8. PW-3 Const. Tek Singh, has apprehended the accused from the rain shelter alongwith his cousin Bal Krishan.

9. PW-4 Kamlesh Kumar, is the most material witness. He knew accused Hema Ram from his childhood. He also knew Hitender Kumar from childhood. On 3.7.2008 at about 7-7:30 PM, Hema Ram accused and Hitender Kumar both together met him at Baldian. Both were drunk and were under the influence of liquor. Both of them asked him to bring bottle of country liquor and to purchase the said bottle of liquor Hema Ram handed over to him Rs. 70/-. They also asked him to accompany them. He brought the bottle from the liquor vend and handed over to Hema Ram accused. He accompanied Hema Ram accused and Hitender Kumar towards his house. When they reached in the next bazaar of Baldian, Hema Ram accused purchased two disposable glasses and Namkieen from the shop of Rakesh Kumar alias Bhaiya. All of them proceeded from the said shop together towards their houses. When they were proceeding on a path through the forest named Jug Jungle, they stopped near a water tank. At that place, both Hema Ram and Hitender Kumar took liquor. He did not take liquor. Both of them consumed about 3/4th bottle of liquor. While they were taking liquor, he asked both of them to proceed to their houses as they were getting late. They walked on the path for about 15-20 minutes and reached a curve at place Dudladhar in the jungle. Both of them stopped at the said place and wanted to take more liquor. He asked them to proceed further, upon which, Hema Ram accused abused him. At that time, Hema Ram accused was in anger and also abused him and Hitender Kumar. He also threatened Hitender Kumar by saying that he would see him. Thereafter, he left the spot alone. On the following day, at about 8/8:30 AM, he came to Baldian on his duty from his house. When he was proceeding through the same path to Baldian, Devloo Ram, father in law of Hitender Kumar alongwith his wife met him at place curve of Dudladhar, where he had left Hitender Kumar and Hema Ram accused on the previous evening. He disclosed to Devloo Ram that in the previous evening two persons were sitting there taking liquor and abusing each other. He had disclosed that they were Hitender Kumar and Hema Ram. Thereafter, they left for their own houses and he left for his duty. On 5.7.2008, he was called by SHO, PS Dhalli and upon asking, he disclosed to him about the occurrence which was witnessed by him. From SHO he came to know that Hitender Kumar had died. In his cross-examination, he admitted that the dead body was found below the kenchy more (curve) on the path where he had left their company. When he started from Baldian, Hitender Kumar was heavily drunk and was not walking properly. While he was walking on the steep path, he was unable to walk properly and walking with jerks by holding grass and bushes. The jungle below the kenchy more (curve) was sloppy having trees and stones.

10. PW-5, Devloo Ram deposed that on 4.7.2008 at about 8:15/8:30 A.M., he was returning to his house from Baldian. He was alone. While he was proceeding to his home through a path which passes from Jug-Ka-Jungle, PW-4 Kamlesh Kumar met him at place Dudladhar. He was proceeding from Baldian for his work. He disclosed to him that on the previous evening two persons, namely Hema and Hitender were sitting there on the path taking liquor. He asked about as to whether they have reached home or not. PW-4 had left the spot. On 4.7.2008 at about 8:00 p.m., his son Atma Ram came back. He asked Atma Ram to telephone at the house of Hitender Kumar and enquire as to whether he had reached home or not. It was disclosed on telephone to Atma Ram by PW-1 Tikhu Ram that Hitender Kumar had not come neither on 3rd nor on 4.7.2008. During the night, they remained at home. On 5.7.2008 at about 5:00 a.m, he received a telephone of PW-1 and his daughter. They disclosed that the dead body of Hitender Kumar was found in the jungle. He alongwith his son and other persons proceeded to the spot. The police reached the spot and prepared the inquest papers vide memo Ext. PW5/A. The police took into possession bag Ext. P1, folding umbrella Ext. P2, two diaries Ext. P3 and P4 alongwith passbook Ext. P5. The blood stained hair were also taken into possession. The police had lifted the blood from the scene of occurrence. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he along with PW-4 Ramesh Kumar remained at the spot named Dudladhar for about 10-15 minutes. There was no blood or any other symptoms of struggle or quarrel. He reached at his house at about 9:00 a.m., in the morning. He did not try to enquire about the whereabouts of Hitender Kumar. He did not ring or talk to Tikhu on the night of 4.7.2008. Volunteered that his son Atma Ram had talked. The place in front of path was sloppy having rock and forest trees. Tikhu Ram told him in the morning of 5.7.2008 that the dead body of his son-in-law was found.

11. PW-6 Khem Raj deposed that the accused made disclosure statement vide Ext. PW6/B, on the basis of which, recoveries were effected. He signed the memo along with Besar Dass. The accused got recovered the clothes stained with blood.

12. PW-7, Bal Krishan deposed that on 5.7.2008 before 1:00 p.m., Hema Ram accused met him at village Jagalru near nullah. Hema Ram had handed over a key of the lock of his room.

13. PW-8, Atma Ram is the brother-in-law of the deceased. He deposed that on 4.7.2008 at about 10:00 a.m., his father came home from Baldian bazaar. Kamlesh disclosed to his father that some quarrel had taken place between Hema Ram and Hitender Kumar. In the evening, his father asked him to telephone at the house of Hitender Kumar and enquire about his welfare. He rang him up. The phone was attended by PW-1 Tikhu Ram. He talked with his sister. He enquired the whereabouts of his brother-in-law Hitender Kumar. His sister disclosed that Hitender Kumar had not come home for the last 2-3 days. He had seen blood in the path in Jug Jungle. He telephoned to them at about 9:30 p.m. On the next morning, the dead body of Hitender Kumar was recovered.

14. PW-11 Besar Dass has deposed the manner in which the disclosure statement was made by the accused vide memo Ext.PW6/B and he signed the same. The recoveries were made on the basis of disclosure statement made by the accused.

15. PW-12 Deep Ram has informed the police of police post Mashobra.

16. PW-13 Dr. Soma Negi has examined the accused and issued MLC Ext.PW13/B.

17. PW-14 Rakesh Kumar deposed that Hitender Kumar was an employee of the electricity department. In the rainy season on 3rd of that month of 2008 at about 8:00 p.m., Hema Ram accused along with accused Kamlesh Kumar came to his shop and purchased Namkeen and two disposable glasses.

18. PW-15 HHC Subhash Chand deposed that he received telephone of Deep Ram son of Rattan Dass to the effect that dead body of Hitender Kumar, his brother-in-law, was lying in Jug Jungle.

19. PW-16 HHG Chander Mohan deposed that he along with SHO left for the spot of incident. The statement of PW-1 Tikhu Ram was recorded by the SHO vide memo Ext. PW1/A.

20. PW-18 HC Shiv Kumar deposed that the case property was deposited with him. He entered the same in malkhana register. The case property was sent through Constable Sant Ram to FSL Junga.

21. PW-21 Constable Sant Ram deposed that he had taken 13 sealed parcels to FSL Junga.

22. PW-23 Insp. Manohar Lal deposed that he received a telephone message from P.P. Mashobra at about 6:45 a.m., that dead body of Hitender was lying in Jug Jungle. He deputed SI Shyam Sunder, to the spot. He along with other staff reached at the spot. The dead body was lying facing downwards. It had injury marks on the head. He recorded the statement of Tikhu Ram under Section 154 Cr.P.C. vide memo Ext.PW1/A. He prepared the site plan. The case property was taken into possession. In his cross-examination he admitted that when they visited the spot, the stone was got recovered by the accused on 9.7.2008. He had removed Section 34 IPC against the accused and Kamlesh as during the investigation, it was found that Kamlesh had left accused Hema Ram and deceased Hitender. Except Kamlesh, nobody told him that Kamlesh had left the company of accused Hema Ram and deceased Hitender.

23. PW-24 Dr. Piyush Kapila has issued post mortem report Ext. PW24/B. According to the final opinion the deceased died as a result of gross head injury leading to laceration of brain. In his cross-examination he admitted that at 316.25 mg % urine alcohol concentration, the person can loose his equilibrium and balance and can fall. He also admitted that the chances of loosing balance and inconsequence of that falling from height are more in case of the heavy alcohol concentration than in a normal person. He also admitted that there were more chances of fall with the concentration of 316.25 mg% if the path is sloppy and narrow.

24. The case of the prosecution, precisely, is that the deceased left his house at 8:30 PM on 3.7.2008. The deceased did not return home on the evening of 3rd and 4th July, 2008. On 4.7.2008, as per the averment contained in rukka Ext. PW-1/A, at about 11:00 PM, Atma Ram son of Devloo Ram telephoned PW-1 Tikhu Ram and told that the dead body was lying at Jug jungle. Then, they went in search of their brother. However, when PW-1 Tikhu Ram appeared in the Court, he testified that on 4.7.2008, at about 11:00 PM, PW-5 Devloo Ram, resident of Village Malyan, telephonically informed him, that one unknown person was lying in Jug Forest, upon which he alongwith his elder brother Hukmi Ram proceeded to the forest in search of his brother Hitender Kumar. Devloo Ram is the father-in-law of his brother Hitender Kumar. Atma Ram is the brother-in-law of Hitender Kumar deceased. Thus, according to PW-1 Tikhu Ram's statement in the Court, PW-5 Devloo Ram told him that the dead body was lying in Jug Jungle. However, PW-5 Devloo Ram, categorically deposed that he asked his son on 4.7.2008 at 8:00 PM to telephone at the house of Hitender Kumar and enquire whether he had reached home or not. It was disclosed on telephone to Atma Ram by PW-1 Tikhu Ram that the deceased has not come home. He has also admitted in his cross-examination that he did not ring Tikhu Ram on the night of 4.7.2008. PW-8 Atma Ram also deposed that on 4.7.2008, at 10:00 AM, his father came home from Baldian bazaar. In the evening his father asked him to telephone at the house of Hitender Kumar and enquire about his welfare. He accordingly telephoned to the house of Hitender Kumar. However, according to the statement made under Section 154 Cr.P.C. by PW-1 Tikhu Ram, it was Atma Ram, who has told him about the body lying in the forest.

25. PW-1 Tikhu Ram, as noticed above, testified that PW-5 Devloo Ram has informed him about the incident. PW-5 Devloo Ram stated that it was his son who informed Tikhu Ram. PW-8 Atma Ram also deposed that he contacted PW-1 Tikhu Ram. An important information has been supplied to Tikhu Ram about the dead body lying in the Jug Jungle. The deceased has not come home in the evening of 3rd July, 2008 and also in the evening of 4th July, 2008. The family members of the deceased have not made any efforts to find out the whereabouts of the deceased. The only explanation given by PW-1 Tikhu Ram is that at times, he was put on night duty. There is no contemporaneous material placed on record to establish that Jitender Kumar deceased was put on night duty on 4.7.2008.

26. The father-in-law of the deceased PW-5 Devloo Ram was apprised by PW-4 Kamlesh that he had seen Hitender and Hema Ram fighting at a particular spot. If that was so, it was expected from PW-5 Devloo Ram to contact his daughter who was residing only at a distance of 5 kms. from his house. He waited till evening and only told his son on 4.7.2008 at night to inquire about the whereabouts of Hitender Kumar. The conduct of PW-5 Devloo Ram is not the one which is expected from a normal person. Rather the conduct of PW-5 Devloo Ram is not worth credence. He should have made inquiries since PW-4 Kamlesh Kumar in his statement has stated that he has told PW-5 Devloo Ram that he has seen Hema Ram and deceased abusing each other. The normal human conduct of PW-5 Devloo Ram and PW-8 Atma Ram would have been to reach the house of the deceased to know about his whereabouts instead of waiting till 5:00 AM.

27. PW-4 Kamlesh Kumar was in the company of accused and Jitender Kumar deceased. His version is that the deceased and Hema Ram were taking liquor and were intoxicated. They asked him to bring bottle of country liquor and to purchase the bottle of liquor Hema Ram handed over to him Rs. 70/-. They also asked him to accompany them. He brought the bottle from the liquor vend and handed over to Hema Ram accused. He accompanied Hema Ram accused and Hitender Kumar towards their houses. When they reached in the next bazaar of Baldian, Hema Ram accused purchased two disposable glasses and Namkieen from the shop of Rakesh Kumar alias Bhaiya. In his cross-examination, he admitted that when he started from Baldian, Hitender Kumar was heavily drunk and was not walking properly. While he was walking on the steep path, he was unable to walk properly. He was walking with jerks by holding grass and bushes. The jungle below the kenchy more (curve) was sloppy having trees and stones.

28. The quantity of ethyl alcohol found in the blood sample of deceased was 316.25 mg %. PW-24 Dr. Piyush Kapila, in his cross-examination has admitted that at 316.25 mg % urine alcohol concentration, the person can loose his equilibrium and balance and can fall. The deceased died due to gross head injury leading to laceration of brain. Since the deceased was heavily drunk and was going down the steep path, the possibility of his fall from the height cannot be ruled out, more particularly when his body was recovered at a distance of more than 100 meters below the path.

29. Mr. M.A.Khan, learned Addl. Advocate General has vehemently argued that the accused was last seen in the company of deceased by PW-4 Kamlesh Kumar. It has come in the statement of PW-2 Kamlesh Kumar that the accused and deceased were not inimical to each other but were friends. While relying upon the theory of 'last seen together', all the circumstances have to be taken into consideration including the relationship of the deceased with the person last seen together. The case in hand is based on circumstantial evidence. There is no eye witness. There is variance in the statements made by PW-1 Tikhu

Ram, PW-5 Devloo Ram and PW-8 Atma Ram about the inquiries made about the whereabouts of the deceased and who telephoned PW-1 Tikhu Ram.

30. The statement of PW-4 Kamlesh Kumar, does not inspire confidence for the simple reason that he was also made accused in the case at one point of time. His name was subsequently struck off, as per the statement of PW-23 SI Manohar Lal, only on the ground that he had left Hitender Kumar and Hema Ram at a particular spot and gone to his house. Nobody has told him except Kamlesh Kumar that he had left the company of accused Hema Ram and deceased Hitender Kumar and gone home.

31. Mr. Umesh Kanwar, Advocate, appearing on behalf of the accused has drawn the attention of the Court to Ext. PW-23/E, FSL report of the viscera, whereby the quantity of ethyl alcohol in urine was found to be 316.25 mg%. According to Ext. PW-24/C, final opinion of Dr. Piyush Kapila, the deceased died due to gross head injury leading to laceration of brain in case of consumption of alcohol. The doctor has noticed urine alcohol concentration i.e. 316.25 mg%. The prosecution has failed to prove the case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt. There are major contradictions, embellishments in the statement of witnesses. The conduct of PW-1 Tikhu Ram of not searching his brother till 4.7.2008 and the conduct of PW-5 Devloo Ram, who despite claiming that PW-4 Kamlesh had told him about the fight between the deceased and the accused in the morning of 4.7.2008, has not made inquiries from his daughter, is not worth belief.

32. Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. AG, has also argued that the blood stained clothes of the deceased were recovered and has also drawn the attention of the Court to Ext. PW-23/D, report of FSL, whereby human blood was found on exhibit-1, 5, 6(a), 6(b), 8(a), 8(b) and 8(c).

33. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Parkash vrs. State of Karnataka, reported in (2014) 12 SCC 133, have held that when the blood stained clothes are recovered, a serological comparison of blood of deceased and appellant and blood stains on his clothes was necessary and that was absent from evidence of prosecution. In this case, the prosecution has sought to prove that blood group of deceased was AB and blood stains on appellant's seized clothes also belong to blood group AB. This does not lead to any conclusion that bloodstains on appellant's clothes were those of deceased's blood. There are millions of people who have blood group AB and it is quite possible that even appellant had the blood group AB. Thus, merely since clothes of appellant were bloodstained and stains bore same blood group as that of deceased, circumstances could not be used against the appellant. Their lordships have further held that in a case of circumstantial evidence, there has to be some degree of trustworthiness and certainly about existence of circumstances. It has been held as follows:

> "40. The second discrepant statement was that Shivanna stated that the police had kept Prakash's clothes on the table. It was submitted, in other words, that the blood stained clothes were already seized by the police and kept on the table. We are not sure whether the actual statement made by Shivanna has been lost in translation.
>
> 41. In any event, the recovery of the blood stained clothes of Prakash do not advance the case of the prosecution. The reason is that all that the prosecution sought to prove thereby is that the blood group of Gangamma was AB and the blood stains on Prakash's seized clothes also belong to blood group AB. In our opinion, this does not lead to any conclusion that the blood stains on Prakash's clothes were those of Gangamma's blood. There are millions of people who have the blood group AB and it is quite possible that even Prakash had the blood group AB. In this context, it is important to mention that a blood sample was taken from Prakash and this was sent for examination. The report received from the Forensic Science Laboratory [Exh.P-27] was to the effect that the blood sample was decomposed and therefore its origin and grouping could not be determined. It is, therefore, quite possible that the blood stains on Prakash's clothes were his own blood stains and that his blood group was also AB.

45. We are not satisfied with the conclusion of the High Court that since the clothes of Prakash were blood stained and the stains bore the same blood group as that of Gangamma, the circumstance could be used Prakash. A serological comparison of the blood of Gangamma and Prakash and the blood stains on his clothes was necessary and that was absent from the evidence of the prosecution."

34. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ashok vrs. State of Maharashtra, reported in 2015(4) SCC 393, have held that 'last seen together' itself is not conclusive proof but along with other circumstances surrounding the incident, like relations between the accused and the deceased, enmity between them, previous history of hostility, recovery of weapon from the accused etc., non-explanation of death of the deceased, may lead to a presumption of guilt. In the instant case, we have already noticed that the relations of accused with the deceased were cordial. Their lordships have held as under:

"8. The "last seen together" theory has been elucidated by this Court in Trimukh Marotiu Kirkan v. State of Maharashtra, (2006)10 SCC 106, in the following words:

"22. Where an accused is alleged to have committed the murder of his wife and the prosecution succeeds in leading evidence to show that shortly before the commission of crime they were seen together or the offence takes place in the dwelling home where the husband also normally resided, it has been consistently held that if the accused does not offer any explanation how the wife received injuries or offers an explanation which is found to be false, it is a strong circumstance which indicates that he is responsible for commission of the crime. Thus, the doctrine of last seen together shifts the burden of proof on the accused, requiring him to explain how the incident had occurred. Failure on the part of the accused to furnish any explanation in this regard, would give rise to a very strong presumption against him."

9. In Ram Gulab Chaudhary v. State of Bihar, (2001) 8 SCC 311, the accused after brutally assaulting a boy carried him away and thereafter the boy was not seen alive nor his body was found. The accused, however, offered no explanation as to what they did after they took away the boy. It was held that for absence of any explanation from the side of the accused about the boy, there was every justification for drawing an inference that they had murdered the boy.

10. In Nika Ram v. State of H.P., (1972) 2 SCC 80, it was observed that the fact that the accused alone was with his wife in the house when she was murdered with a "Khukhri" and the fact that the relations of the accused with her were strained would, in the absence of any cogent explanation by him, point to his guilt.

11. The latest judgment on the point is Kanhaiya Lal v. State of Rajasthan, (2014) 4 SCC 715. In this case this Page 10 10 Court has held that the circumstance of last seen together does not by itself and necessarily lead to the inference that it was the accused who committed the crime. There must be something more establishing the connectivity between the accused and the crime. Mere non-explanation on the part of the accused by itself cannot lead to the proof of guilt against the accused.

12. From the study of above stated judgments and many others delivered by this Court over a period of years, the rule can be summarized as that the initial burden of proof is on the prosecution to bring sufficient evidence pointing towards guilt of accused. However, in case of last seen together, the prosecution is exempted to prove exact happening of the incident as the accused himself would have special knowledge of the incident and thus, would have burden of proof as per Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act. Therefore, last seen together itself is not a conclusive proof but along with other circumstances surrounding the incident, like relations between the accused and the deceased, enmity between them, previous history of hostility, recovery of Page 11 11 weapon from the accused etc., non-explanation of death of the deceased, may lead to a presumption of guilt.

20. From the above discussion, we conclude that the prosecution has not brought any clinching evidence in support of last seen together theory so as to shift the burden of proof on the accused-appellant. In light of this, the prosecution has evidently failed to prove the guilt of the accused-appellant beyond doubt. Therefore, the appeal is allowed and the judgment and order passed by the High Court as also by the Trial Court are set aside. The appellant is directed to be released forthwith if not required in connection with any other case."

35. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bhim Singh and another vrs. State of Uttarakhand, reported in (2015) 4 SCC 281, have held that there should not be any snap in the chain of circumstances and if there is a snap in the chain, the accused is entitled to benefit of doubt. Their lordships have held as under:

"22. In the present case, the guilt or innocence of the accused has to be adduced from the circumstantial evidence. The law regarding circumstantial evidence is more or less well settled. This Court in a plethora of judgments has held that when the conviction is based on circumstantial evidence solely, then there should not be any snap in the chain of Page 22 22 circumstances. If there is a snap in the chain, the accused is entitled to benefit of doubt. Gurpreet Singh v. State of Haryana (2002) 8 SCC 18 is one of such cases. On the question of any reasonable hypothesis, this Court has held that if some of the circumstances in the chain can be explained by any other reasonable hypothesis, then the accused is entitled to benefit of doubt. But in assessing the evidence, imaginary possibilities have no place. The Court considers ordinary human probabilities.

23. On circumstantial evidence, this Court has laid down the following principles in Sharad Birdhichand Sardar v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116:

> "(1) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must or should be and not merely "may be" fully established.
>
> (2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty.
>
> (3) The circumstances should be of conclusive nature and tendency.
>
> (4) They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved and,
>
> (5) There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused. Whenever there is a break in the chain of circumstances, the accused is entitled to the benefit of doubt; State of Maharashtra v. Annappa Bandu Kavatage (1979) 4 SCC 715."

36. In the instant case, there was no eye witness and the case is based on circumstantial evidence. It is the duty of the prosecution to link the accused with the alleged incident. The prosecution could not link the entire chain of events. It is settled law that in a case based on circumstantial evidence, the chain must be complete and the circumstances should point towards the guilt of the accused. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove the case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

37. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. Judgment of conviction and sentence dated 23/26.5.2009, rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Shimla, H.P., in Sessions trial No. 16-S/7 of 2008, is set aside. The accused is acquitted of the charges framed under Sections 302 IPC, by giving him benefit of doubt. Fine amount, if any, already deposited by the accused is ordered to be refunded to him. Since the accused is in jail, he be released forthwith, if not required in any other case.

38. The Registry is directed to prepare the release warrant of the accused and send the same to the Superintendent of Jail concerned, in conformity with this judgment forthwith.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Himesh Sharma. ....Petitioner
Versus
State of H.P. ....Non-petitioner.

Cr.MMO No. 117 of 2015
Decided on: 8.5.2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition against the anticipatory bail order passed by Sessions Judge, Shimla- Additional Advocate General submitted that he has no objection in case the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in para-5 of the order is deleted and the word 'India' is ordered to be incorporated- therefore, the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in the order be deleted and word 'India' be incorporated.

For the petitioner : Mr. Vishal Aggarwal & Sanjay Sharma, Advocates.
For the non-petitioner : Mr. M.L. Chauhan Additional Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge (Oral)

Petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. against the anticipatory bail order passed by the learned Sessions Judge Shimla H.P. on 4.5.2015 in Criminal Bail Application No. 60-8/22 of 2015. Notice. At this stage learned Additional Advocate General appears and waives service of notice on behalf of the respondent. Learned Additional Advocate General submitted that he does not want to file any reply and he has no objection if the word H.P. State mentioned in para-5 of order dated 4.5.2015 is deleted and word India is incorporated. In view of the above stated facts and in view of the express provision mentioned under Section 438 (2) (iii) Cr.P.C. petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed in the ends of justice and word H.P. State mentioned at Sr. No. (iv) of para-5 of the order dated 4.5.2015 is ordered to be deleted and word India is ordered to be incorporated. Order passed by the learned Sessions Judge Shimla dated 4.5.2015 in Criminal Bail Application No. 60-8/22 of 2015 is modified to this extent only. Petition disposed of. Pending applications if any also disposed of. Dasti copy.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Inderpal Singh. ....Petitioner
Versus
State of H.P. ....Non-petitioner.

Cr.MMO No. 115 of 2015
Decided on: 8.5.2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition against the anticipatory bail order passed by Sessions Judge, Shimla- Additional Advocate General submitted that he has no objection in case the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in para-5 of the order is deleted and the word 'India' is ordered to be incorporated- therefore, the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in the order be deleted and word 'India' be incorporated.

For the petitioner : Mr. Vishal Aggarwal & Sanjay Sharma, Advocates.
For the non-petitioner : Mr. M.L. Chauhan Additional Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge (Oral)

Petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. against the anticipatory bail order passed by the learned Sessions Judge Shimla H.P. on 4.5.2015 in Criminal Bail Application No. 57-8/22 of 2015. Notice. At this stage learned Additional Advocate General appears and waives service of notice on behalf of the respondent. Learned Additional Advocate General submitted that he does not want to file any reply and he has no objection if the word H.P. State mentioned in para-5 of order dated 4.5.2015 is deleted and word India is incorporated. In view of the above stated facts and in view of the express provision mentioned under Section 438 (2) (iii) Cr.P.C. petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed in the ends of justice and word H.P. State mentioned at Sr. No. (iv) of para-5 of the order dated 4.5.2015 is ordered to be deleted and word India is ordered to be incorporated. Order passed by the learned Sessions Judge Shimla dated 4.5.2015 in Criminal Bail Application No. 57-8/22 of 2015 is modified to this extent only. Petition disposed of. Pending applications if any also disposed of. Dasti copy.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Kamal Deep Bhardwaj. ….Petitioner
versus
State of H.P. ….Non-petitioner.

Cr.MMO No. 113 of 2015
Decided on: 8.5.2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition against the anticipatory bail order passed by Sessions Judge, Shimla- Additional Advocate General submitted that he has no objection in case the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in para-5 of the order is deleted and the word 'India' is ordered to be incorporated- therefore, the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in the order be deleted and word 'India' be incorporated.

For the petitioner : Mr. Vishal Aggarwal & Sanjay Sharma, Advocates.
For the non-petitioner : Mr. M.L. Chauhan Additional Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge (Oral)

Petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. against the anticipatory bail order passed by the learned Sessions Judge Shimla H.P. on 4.5.2015 in Criminal Bail Application

No. 61-8/22 of 2015. Notice. At this stage learned Additional Advocate General appears and waives service of notice on behalf of the respondent. Learned Additional Advocate General submitted that he does not want to file any reply and he has no objection if the word H.P. State mentioned in para-5 of order dated 4.5.2015 is deleted and word India is incorporated. In view of the above stated facts and in view of the express provision mentioned under Section 438 (2) (iii) Cr.P.C. petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed in the ends of justice and word H.P. State mentioned at Sr. No. (iv) of para-5 of the order dated 4.5.2015 is ordered to be deleted and word India is ordered to be incorporated. Order passed by the learned Sessions Judge Shimla dated 4.5.2015 in Criminal Bail Application No. 61-8/22 of 2015 is modified to this extent only. Petition disposed of. Pending applications if any also disposed of. Dasti copy.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Rajesh Kumar ……Appellant.
Versus
State of H.P. …….Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 387 of 2012
Reserved on: May 07, 2015.
Decided on: May 08, 2015.

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 20- Accused was carrying a bag which was containing 2 kg 500 grams charas - independent witness had not supported the prosecution version- accused was not apprised of his legal right to be searched before Magistrate or Gazetted Officer- no entry was made regarding the taking out of the case property after it was brought from the Court- it has caused serious prejudice to the accused- held, that in these circumstances, prosecution version was not proved – accused acquitted. (Para-15 to 19)

Case referred:
Makhan Singh vrs. State of Haryana, JT 2015 (4) SC 222

For the appellant: Mr. Bhupinder Ahuja, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This appeal is instituted against the judgment dated 26.3.2012, rendered by the learned Special Judge (II), Kinnaur at Rampur, H.P., in RBT No. 33-AR-3 of 2010/2011, whereby the appellant-accused (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who was charged with and tried for offence punishable under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the ND & PS Act), has been convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of 10 years and to pay fine of Rs. 1,00,000/- and in default of payment of fine, he was further ordered to undergo simple imprisonment for one year.

2. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that on 27.6.2008 at about 6:45 P.M., PW-11 Insp. Sangat Ram, SHO PS Rampur alongwith PW-4 SI Brij Lal, PW-5 HC Uttam Kumar, Const. Sanjeev Kumar, PW-10 Const. Devi Dass was present at Kudidhar near Nirth, in connection with routine patrol duty. PW-2 Pawan Katoch and PW-3 Pal Singh met them there and they started talking to the police party. In the meantime, accused Rajesh came from the side of Snahjhula carrying a bag in his right hand and on seeing the police party, he got scared and tried to flee. He was apprehended. He was informed to exercise his option under Section 50 of the Act. He opted to be searched by the police party. Thereafter, PW-11 Insp. Sangat Ram alongwith other witnesses rendered themselves to be searched by the accused. The accused and his bag was searched. Charas weighing 2 kg 500 grams was recovered from the possession of the accused. The charas recovered was put in the same bag, which was made into parcel and seal impression "O" was taken on it. NCB form Ext. PW-11/B was updated in triplicate. The impression of seal "O" was also taken on a piece of cloth vide memo Ext. PW-11/C. The case property was taken into possession vide seizure memo Ext. PW-11/D. Rukka Ext. PW-9/A was prepared on the spot. It was sent to the Police Station Rampur through Const. Devi Dass, on the basis of which FIR Ext. PW-9/B was registered. Site plan was prepared. PW-11 Insp. Sangat Ram deposited the case property in the malkhana of the Police Station with MHC. PW-9 MHC Liaq Ram incorporated the entries at Sr. No. 734 in the malkhana register vide Ext. PW-9/D. Special report was also prepared and sent to SDPO Rampur. Chemical report is Ext. PW-11/H. The investigation was completed and the challan was put up after completing all the codal formalities.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as 11 witnesses. The accused was also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused has denied the prosecution case. The learned trial Court convicted the accused, as noticed hereinabove.

4. Mr. Bhupinder Ahuja, Advocate, appearing on behalf of the accused, has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused. On the other hand, Mr. M.A.Khan learned Addl. AG, for the State has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 26.3.2012.

5. We have heard learned counsel for both the sides and gone through the records of the case carefully.

6. PW-1 Prem Singh deposed that on 27.6.2010, HC Uttam Chand visited his shop and borrowed weighing scale and weights of 1 kg, 500 gms, 200 gms and 100 gms at about 7:15 PM.

7. PW-2 Pawan Katoch, deposed that on 27.6.2010 at 6:45 PM, when he was coming to attend his duty and reached at Kuridhar near Nirath on NH-22, the police was present there alongwith the accused person. One bag was lying near the accused. The police told him that charas was contained in that bag but he did not check the stuff but had seen it. He did not see the police apprehending the accused. The police also did not make inquiry about the name and address of the accused in his presence. He remained present on the spot for 15-20 minutes as he was to attend his duty. The police also did not inform the accused that they were suspecting that he was carrying some narcotic substance and as such it was intended to conduct his personal search as well as search of his bag. The police had prepared documents on the spot and obtained his signatures on those documents. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. He denied that when he alongwith Pal Singh and police were present on the spot, the accused person came from the side of Shnahjhula and on seeing the police party, he turned back and tried to escape. He also denied that on suspicion the police apprehended the accused person in their presence and at that time the accused person was also carrying a bag in his right hand. He also denied that the police had made inquiry about the name and address of the accused person in their presence and thereafter informed that it was intended to conduct personal search as well as search of his bag and if he so desired search could be arranged in the presence of the Magistrate or the gazetted officer but the accused person opted to be searched by the police on the spot in their presence. He also denied that thereafter the bag of the accused was checked in their presence from which one pink colour bag containing three nylon socks containing charas was recovered. He also denied that the charas recovered from the bag was put back into the same bag which was made into parcel and sealed with seal bearing impression "O" which was handed over to Pal Singh after its use. He also denied that NCB form in triplicate were updated in his presence. He identified his signatures on mark A, B and C. In his cross-examination, he admitted that when he reached on the spot, at that time Pal Singh was not present and he reached there after five minutes.

8. PW-3 Pal Singh deposed that on 27.6.2010, when he was coming from Nankhari, the police met him at Kuridhar near Nirath at about 6:45 PM. At that time, besides police accused Rajesh were also present. The police officials were preparing some documents. The police asked him to stop by saying that his signatures were required on some documents as they had seized charas from the accused person. Thereafter, the police obtained his signatures on some documents. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. He admitted that Pawan Katoch was also present on the spot. He denied that when they were talking to the police the accused person came from Snahjhula and on seeing the police party, he tried to flee and on suspicion, he was apprehended. He denied that the police informed the accused that it was intended to conduct his personal search and that if he so desired the search could be arranged in presence of Magistrate of gazetted officer but the accused person opted to be searched by the police on the spot in their presence vide consent memo Mark A. He also denied that bag of the accused was searched and during search, three nylon socks containing chars 2 kg. 500 gms were recovered from the bag of the accused. He also denied that the charas recovered from the bag was put back in the same bag which was made into parcel and sealed with seal bearing impression "O". He also denied that NCB form in triplicate were updated in their presence and thereafter samples of seal were drawn and the seal was handed over to him. He also denied that search and seizure memo mark B was prepared which was witnessed by him and Pawan Katoch. He admitted that consent memo Mark A, seizure memo Mark B, form mark C and sample of seal Mark G bears his signatures. He denied that he has put his signatures on all the aforesaid documents after going through its contents. In his cross-examination, he denied that the bag containing charas was recovered from the accused in his presence.

9. PW-4 SI Brij Lal, deposed the manner in which the accused was apprehended and the charas was recovered, on search from the accused. The same was put back in the bag and thereafter made into parcel which was sealed with seal impression "O". Rukka was scribed by Insp. Sangat Ram, which was sent to the Police Station through Const. Devi Dass. In his cross-examination, he admitted that a large number of shops are situated at Nirath. According to him, Pawan Katoch and Pal Singh were already present on the spot before they reached there.

10. PW-5 HC Uttam Kumar, also deposed the manner in which the accused was apprehended and the charas was recovered, search and sealing process was completed on the spot. In his cross-examination, he admitted that no search memo about their personal search was prepared.

11. PW-8 Const. Sanjeev Kumar, deposed that on 30.6.2010, MHC PS Rampur Laiq Ram handed over one parcel having seal impression “O” alongwith the NCB form and samples of seal to him vide RC No. 64/2010. He delivered it in FSL, Junga on 1.7.2010 and obtained its receipt on the RC which he handed over to MHC.

12. PW-9 HC Laiq Ram, deposed that he recorded FIR Ext PW-9/B on the basis of rukka. On the same day at 10:35 PM Insp. Sangat Ram deposited the case property of this case alongwith the sample of seal and NCB form in triplicate in malkhana of the Police Station. He incorporated the entries in the malkhana register at Sr. No. 734. On 30.6.2010, he sent the case property to FSL Junga through Const. Sanjeev Kumar vide RC 64/2010 who after depositing the same handed over its receipt on the RC to him.

13. PW-10 const. Devi Dass, also deposed the manner in which the accused was apprehended and the charas was recovered, search and sealing process was completed on the spot. He has carried the rukka which he delivered to MHC Laiq Ram.

14. PW-11 Insp. Sangat Ram, was the I.O. He also deposed the manner in which the accused was apprehended and the charas was recovered, search and sealing process was completed on the spot. He filled up NCB form. He deposited the case property alongwith the NCB form with MHC Laiq Ram at 10:35 PM. He prepared DD 46 to this effect. The case property was produced during the recording of his statement. The seals were found intact. He identified parcel cover Ext. P-1, bag Ext. P-2, socks Ext. P-3, P-4 and P-5. In his cross-examination, he admitted that in the rukka and special report and the statements of the witnesses, there was no specific mention about option of being searched in the presence of Magistrate or the Gazetted Officer.

15. The copy of the consent is mark A. The accused was not apprised that it was his legal right to be searched before the Executive Magistrate or the Gazetted Officer. It is mandatory to apprise the accused of his legal right to be searched before the Executive Magistrate or the Gazetted Officer.

16. The police has cited two independent witnesses, PW-2 Pawan Katoch and PW-3 Pal Singh. They have not supported the case of the prosecution but they have admitted their signatures on mark A, B and C. They were declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned P.P. PW-2 Pawan Katoch has not seen the police apprehending the accused person. According to him, the police also did not make enquiry about the name and particulars of the accused. The police also did not inform the accused person that they were suspecting the accused of carrying some narcotic substance and as such, it was intended to carry his personal search and that of his bag. He denied specifically when cross-examined by the learned P.P. that he alongwith Pal Singh were present alongwith the police on the spot. He has also denied that NCB form were filled in his presence. He also denied that the charas was recovered and put back into the same bag and sealed with seal impression “O”. It was handed over to Pal Singh after its use. In his cross-examination by the Advocate on behalf of the accused, he testified that when he reached on the spot, at that time, Pal Singh was not present and he reached after five minutes. Similarly, PW-3 Pal Singh, has not supported the case of the prosecution. He was also cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. He denied that charas was recovered from the bag of the accused. He also denied that charas recovered from the bag was put into the same bag which was made into parcel and sealed with seal impression "O".

17. The case property was produced when the statement of PW-11 Sangat Ram was recorded. The copy of the malkhana register is Ext. PW-9/D. There is entry of the deposit of the contraband on 27.6.2010 and when it was received back from the FSL Junga. There is no entry when the case property was taken out from the malkhana and produced in the Court. There is no DDR recorded when the case property was produced before the trial Court. Similarly, there is no entry when the case property after production in the trial Court was re-deposited in the malkhana register. It is necessary for the prosecution to prove that the case property was taken out from the malkhana for the production in the Court and also preparing DDR to this effect and the same process is to be undergone when the case property after its production in the Court is taken back and deposited in the malkhana. There has to be entry in the malkhana register when it is re-deposited and DDR is also prepared. The production of the case property in the Court is mandatory. There is doubt whether the case property which was produced in the Court was the same which was recovered from the accused and sent to FSL, Junga in the absence of any corresponding entries made at the time of taking it and re-deposit in the malkhana register. It has caused serious prejudice to the accused. The nabbing of the accused, recovery and sealing is doubtful, since the case of the prosecution has not been supported by the independent witnesses. The accused has not been told specifically that he has legal right to be searched before the Executive Magistrate or the Gazetted Officer. The case property when produced in the Court, there is no reference who brought the case property to the Court from malkhana and by whom it was taken back.

18. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in a recent decision in the case of Makhan Singh vrs. State of Haryana, reported in JT 2015 (4) SC 222, have held that it is well settled that conviction can be based solely on the testimony of official witnesses, condition precedent is that the evidence of such official witnesses must inspire confidence. In that case, it was not as if independent witnesses were not available. Independent witness PW1 and another independent witness examined as DW-2 had spoken in one voice that the accused person was taken from his residence. In such circumstances, their lordships have held that the High Court ought not to have overlooked the testimony of independent witnesses, especially when it casts doubt on the recovery and the genuineness of the prosecution version. Their lordships have held as under:

> "10. For recording the conviction, the Sessions Court as well as the High Court mainly relied on the testimony of official witnesses who made the recovery, i.e. H.C. Suraj Mal-PW2 and Inspector Raghbir Singh-PW6, and found them sufficiently strengthening the recovery of the possession from the appellant. In our considered view, the manner in which the alleged recovery has been made does not inspire confidence and undue credence has been given to the testimony of official witnesses, who are generally interested in securing the conviction. In peculiar circumstances of the case, it may not be possible to find out independent witnesses at all places at all times. Independent witnesses who live in the same village or nearby villages of the accused are at times afraid to come and depose in favour of the prosecution. Though it is well-settled that a conviction can be based solely on the testimony of official witnesses, condition precedent is that the evidence of such official witnesses must inspire confidence. In the present case, it is not as if independent witnesses were not available. Independent witnesses PW1 and another independent witness examined as DW2 has spoken in one voice that the accused person was taken from his residence. In such circumstances, in our view, the High Court ought not to have overlooked the testimony of independent witnesses, especially when it casts doubt on the recovery and the genuineness of the prosecution version."

19. The prosecution has failed to prove that the contraband was recovered from the exclusive and conscious possession of the accused. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove the case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt for the commission of offence under Section 20 of the N.D & P.S., Act.

20. Accordingly, in view of the analysis and discussion made hereinabove, the appeal is allowed. Judgment of conviction and sentence dated 26.3.2012, rendered by the learned Special Judge-II, Kinnaur at Rampur, H.P., in RBT No. 33-AR-3 of 2010/2011, is set aside. Accused is acquitted of the charges framed against him by giving him benefit of doubt. Fine amount, if any, already deposited by the accused is ordered to be refunded to him. Since the accused is in jail, he be released forthwith, if not required in any other case.

21. The Registry is directed to prepare the release warrant of the accused and send the same to the Superintendent of Jail concerned, in conformity with this judgment forthwith.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Smt. Seema Mehta …… Petitioner
Vs.
Chairman-cum-Deputy Commissioner and another ….. Respondents

CWP No. 5318 of 2013
Date of decision: 8.5.2015.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as clerk-cum-typist in Indian Red Cross Society- she claimed regularization of her services- claim was denied by the Labour Court on the ground that Red Cross Society is not a State and the petitioner is not an employee of the State Government- held, that Red Cross Society falls within the definition of State under Article 12 of the Constitution of India- it cannot deny regularization to its employee for 26 years, whereas employees in the State Government are regularized after 7 years – petition allowed and the respondent directed to consider the case of the petitioner for regular appointment. (Para-8 to 16)

Cases referred:

Pant Raj Sachdev vs. The Indian Red Cross Society and others, 1986 (1) SLR 675

The District Red Cross Society, Sirsa vs. Radha Kishan Rajpal and another, 2005 (1) SLR, 781
Om Parkash Sharma vs. Indian Red Cross Society, Punjab and another, 2005 (3) PLR, 271
Swaran Sharma vs. State of Haryana, 2007 (4) PLR, 526

For the petitioner	:	Mr. Deepak Kaushal, Advocate.
For the respondents	:	Mr. Virender Kumar Verma, Ms. Meenakshi Sharma and Mr. Rupinder Singh, Additional Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (Oral).

The petitioner is aggrieved by the award passed by the learned Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla (for short 'Tribunal') dated 28.3.2013 whereby her claim for regular appointment to the post of PBX Clerk has been denied and has therefore, filed this writ petition seeking the following substantive relief:

> "That the award dated 28.03.2013 (Annexure P-2) may kindly be quashed and set aside and same may kindly be declared illegal and the respondents may kindly be directed to give regular appointment to the petitioner in the post of PBX Clerk on regular basis as per the policy of the State."

2. On 10.1.1989 the petitioner was appointed in Indian Red Cross Society (for short 'Society') as Clerk-cum-Typist. This appointment was given by the Deputy Commissioner, Solan in the capacity of the Chairman of the Society and the emoluments of the petitioner were fixed at Rs.750/- per month.

3. Indisputably, the petitioner has been working in the said capacity till date. The petitioner had earlier approached the Tribunal for regularization of her services and reference was decided in her favour vide award dated 16.1.2007. However, the said award was challenged by the respondents by medium of CWP No. 259 of 2007 and the matter was remitted back to the Tribunal for considering two communications annexed as Annexures R-6 and R-7, respectively. The Tribunal below vide its award dated 28.3.2013 rejected the claim of the petitioner on the ground that she is an employee of Red Cross Society, and therefore, her services cannot be regularized.

4. The petitioner has challenged this award on the ground that after having worked w.e.f. 10.1.1989, it was legitimate that her services to be regularized even if they had been rendered with the Indian Red Cross Society of which the Deputy Commissioner is the Chairman.

5. In response to the petition, the respondents in their reply have raised preliminary objection regarding maintainability of the petition and on merits, the factual averments have not been denied and the only ground to deny the claim of the petitioner is that she has never been on the pay role of the State.

6. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the records of the case carefully.

7. The only reason which outweigh all other considerations before the Tribunal to deny the benefit of regularisation to the petitioner was that the petitioner was not an employee of the State Government and, therefore, her services could not be regularised. Even before this Court, the only contention raised by the respondents to defeat the legitimate claim of the petitioner is that respondent No.1 i.e. the Indian Red Cross Society is not the State within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution of India and thus is not amenable to the writ jurisdiction of this Court.

8. The issue regarding the Indian Red Cross Society being a State and amenable to writ jurisdiction is no longer res-integra in view of the judgment of the learned Single Judge of Punjab and Haryana High Court in Pant Raj Sachdev vs. The Indian Red Cross Society and others, 1986 (1) SLR 675, which in turn has been affirmed by a Division Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in The District Red Cross Society, Sirsa vs. Radha Kishan Rajpal and another, 2005 (1) SLR, 781, Om Parkash Sharma vs. Indian Red Cross Society, Punjab and another, 2005 (3) PLR, 271, Swaran Sharma vs. State of Haryana, 2007 (4) PLR, 526 and Division Bench judgment in Alka Ghai vs. J.R.Verma and others, LPA No. 176 of 2008, decided on 16.4.2009.

9. In view of the exposition of law laid down by the Punjab and Haryana High Court, it can conveniently be held that respondent No.1 is amenable to the writ jurisdiction of this Court and if that be so, it cannot shirk from its responsibility and liability for ensuring that a fair and reasonable treatment be meted out to the petitioner.

10. Indisputably, insofar as the State Government and other Boards/Corporations of the State are concerned, a decision to regularise the services of all daily waged employees after completion of seven years of service, is already in vogue, but then can the petitioner, who has rendered nearly 26 years of service be denied her legitimate claim of regularisation? Can the Red Cross Society headed by the Deputy Commissioner, indulge in exploitation on the sheer strength of its unequal bargaining power?

11. A learned Division Bench of this Court in LPA No. 132 of 2014 titled Dr. Lok Pal vs. State of H.P., decided on 18.12.2014 was seized of a similar matter where the appointment of the person was though on a consolidated salary of Rs.43000/- per month but after his appointment he was actually paid Rs.21000/- per month and the learned Division Bench held this to be exploitation on the sheer strength of the unequal bargaining power and it was held as under:

> "7. This case reflects a sorry state of affairs where the respondents on the sheer strength of its bargaining power have taken advantage of their position and imposed wholly un-equitable and unreasonable condition of employment on their prospective employees, who did not have any other choice but to accept the employment on the terms and conditions offered by the respondents. This action of the respondents is violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. Here it is apt to reproduce relevant observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the celebrated decision of Central Inland Water Transport Corporation Ltd. Vs. Brojo Nath Ganguly and another, (1986) 3 SCC 156, which reads as under:-
>
> > "88. As seen above, apart from judicial decisions, the United States and the United Kingdom have statutorily recognized, at least in certain areas of the law of contracts, that there can be unreasonableness (or lack of fairness, if one prefers that phrase) in a contract or a clause in a contract where there is inequality of bargaining power between the parties although arising out of circumstances not within their control or as a result of situations not of their creation. Other legal systems also permit judicial review of a contractual transaction entered into in similar circumstances. For example, section 138(2) of the German Civil Code provides that a transaction is void "when a person" exploits "the distressed situation, inexperience, lack of judgmental ability, or grave weakness of will of another to obtain the grant or promise of pecuniary advantages........which are obviously disproportionate to the performance given in return." The position according to the French law is very much the same.

89. Should then our courts not advance with the times? Should they still continue to cling to outmoded concepts and outworn ideologies? Should we not adjust our thinking caps to match the fashion of the day? Should all jurisprudential development pass us by, leaving us floundering in the sloughs of nineteenth-century theories? Should the strong be permitted to push the weak to the wall? Should they be allowed to ride roughshod over the weak? Should the courts sit back and watch supinely while the strong trample under-foot the rights of the weak? We have a Constitution for our country. Our judges are bound by their oath to "uphold the Constitution and the laws". The Constitution was enacted to secure to all the citizens of this country social and economic justice. Article 14 of the Constitution guarantees to all persons equality before the law and the equal protection of the laws. The principle deducible from the above discussions on this part of the case is in consonance with right and reason, intended to secure social and economic justice and conforms to the mandate of the great equality clause in Art. 14. This principle is that, the courts will not enforce and will, when called upon to do so, strike down an unfair and unreasonable contract, or an unfair and unreasonable clause in a contract, entered into between parties who are not equal in bargaining power. It is difficult to give an exhaustive list of all bargains of this type. No court can visualize the different situations which can arise in the affairs of men. One can only attempt to give some illustrations. For instance, the above principle will apply where the inequality of bargaining power is the result of the great disparity in the economic strength of the contracting parties. It will apply where the inequality is the result of circumstances, whether of the creation of the parties or not. It will apply to situations in which the weaker party is in a position in which he can obtain goods or services or means of livelihood only upon the terms imposed by the stronger party or go without them. It will also apply where a man has no choice, or rather no meaningful choice, but to give his assent to a contract or to sign on the dotted line in a prescribed or standard form or to accept a set of rules as part of the contract, however unfair, unreasonable and unconscionable a clause in that contract or form or rules may be. This principle, however, will not apply where the > bargaining power of the contracting parties is equal or almost equal. This principle may not apply where both parties are businessmen and the contract is a commercial transaction. In today's complex world of giant corporations with their vast infra-structural organizations and with the State through its instrumentalities and agencies entering into almost every branch of industry and commerce, there can be myriad situations which result in unfair and unreasonable bargains between parties possessing wholly disproportionate and unequal bargaining power. These cases can neither be enumerated nor fully illustrated. The court must judge each case on its, own facts and circumstances."

In terms of the aforesaid exposition of law, it is clear that this Court has the jurisdiction and power to strike or set aside the unfavourable term of contract of employment which purports to give effect to unreasonable bargain violating Article 14 of the Constitution.

8. The undertaking obtained from the appellant is so unfair and unreasonable that it shocks the conscious of this Court. It reflects the inequality of the bargaining power between the appellant and the respondents which emanates from the great disparity in the economic strength between the job seeker and job giver.

9. The appellant was compelled by circumstances to accept the offer made by the respondents, but then the mere acceptance of this offer would not give it a stamp of approval regarding its validity. It is an age old maxim that "necessity knows no law" and a person sometimes may have to succumb to pressure of the other party to bargain who is in stronger position. Although, it may not be strictly in place, but the Court cannot shut its eyes to this ground reality.

10. At this stage, it shall be apt to quote the following observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Chairman and MD NTPC Ltd. Vs. Rashmi Construction Builders and Contractors (2004) 2 SCC 663:-

> "28. Further, necessitas non habet legem is an age-old maxim which means necessity knows no law. A person may sometimes have to succumb to the pressure of the other party to the bargain who is in a stronger position."

11. Notably the respondents herein are none other than the functionaries of the State who are expected to function like a model employer. A model employer is under an obligation to conduct itself with high probity and expected candour and the employer, who is duty bound to act as a model employer has social obligation to treat an employee in an appropriate manner so that an employee is not condemned to feel totally subservient to the situation. A model employer should not exploit its employees and take advantage of their helplessness and misery. The conduct of the respondents falls short of expectation of a model employer.

12. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in its decision in Bhupendra Nath Hazarika and another Vs. State of Assam and others, (2013) 2 SCC 516 has succinctly explained this position in the following terms:-

> "61. Before parting with the case, we are compelled to reiterate the oft stated principle that the State is a model employer and it is required to act fairly giving due regard and respect to the rules framed by it. But in the present case, the State has atrophied the rules. Hence, the need for hammering the concept.
>
> 62. Almost a quarter century back, this Court in Balram Gupta V. Union of India 1987 Supp SCC 228 had observed thus: (SCC p. 236, para 13)
>
> > "13…. As a model employer the Government must conduct itself with high probity and candour with its employees."
>
> In State of Haryana V. Piara Singh (1992) 4 SCC 118 the Court had clearly stated: (SCC p. 134, para 21).
>
> > "21….The main concern of the court in such matters is to ensure the rule of law and to see that the Executive acts fairly and gives a fair deal to its employees consistent with the requirements of Articles 14 and 16."
>
> 63. In State of Karnataka V. Umadevi (3) (2006) 4 SCC 1 (SCC P. 18, para 6) the Constitution Bench, while discussing the role of State in recruitment procedure, stated that if rules have been made under Article 3089 of the Constitution, then the Government can make appointments only in accordance with the rules, for the State is meant to be a model employer.
>
> 64. In Mehar Chand Polytechnic V. Anu Lamba (2006) 7 SCC 161 (SCC p. 166, para 16) the Court observed that public employment is a facet of right to equality envisaged under Article 16 of the Constitution of India and that the recruitment rules are framed with a view to give equal opportunity to al the citizens of India entitled for being considered for recruitment in the vacant posts.
>
> 65. We have stated the role of the State as a model employer with the fond hope that in future a deliberate disregard is not taken recourse to and deviancy of such magnitude is not adopted to frustrate the claims of the employees. It should always be borne in mind that legitimate aspirations of the employees are not guillotined and a situation is not created where hopes end in despair. Hope for everyone is gloriously precious and a model employer should not convert it to be deceitful and treacherous by playing a game of chess with their seniority. A sense of calm sensibility and concerned sincerity should be reflected in every step. An atmosphere of trust has to prevail and when the employees are absolutely sure that their trust shall not be betrayed and they shall be treated with dignified fairness then only the concept of good governance can be concretised. We say no more."

12. In view of the aforesaid decision which otherwise is binding on this Court, it can conveniently be concluded that only on account of unequal bargaining power, the petitioner cannot be exploited. The respondent-society cannot be permitted to act with a total lack of sensitivity and indulge in 'begar', which is specifically prohibited under Article 23 of the Constitution of India.

13. Once the Deputy Commissioner is heading the Indian Red Cross Society, then there is a flavour of public element and duty attached to the office. It, therefore, is expected to be function like a model employer, who is under an obligation to conduct itself with high probity and expected candour and the employer, who is duty bound to act as a model employer has social obligation to treat an employee in an appropriate manner so that an employee is not condemned to feel totally subservient to the situation.

14. It has to be borne in mind that it is not even the case of the respondents that the petitioner has not been discharging her duties diligently, honestly and faithfully. It is also not the case of the respondents that the petitioner is lacking any qualification or has any blemished record during her employment of more than two and half decades. Rather, the Deputy Commissioner himself had sought the permission of the Government for regularizing the services of the petitioner vide communication Ex.R-7, which reads:

> "To
>
> The F.C.-cum-Secretary(Revenue) to the > Government of Himachal Pradesh.
>
> Subject: Representation regarding regularisation of services of the employees of the Red Cross Society Distt. Branch, Solan, Distt. Solan, in accordance with the policy of the State Govt. and in the light of the decisions Court of India.
>
> Sir,
>
> Kindly refer to your office letter No. Rev.A(B)1- 12/2002(SLN) dated 10.2.2003 on the above cited subject.
>
> In this connection, I have the honour to say that reply in this regard has already been sent to your office vide this office letter No. Estt./4-4/72 dated 27.10.2001, (Copy enclosed) further it is intimated that Smt. Seema Devi was appointed as Clerk on 10.1.89 by the Indian Red Cross Society, Solan Branch @ Rs.750/- now which has been increased @ Rs.3000/- per month. She is continuing her service in this society since 10.1.89 but she has not been regularised by the said Society till date.
>
> You are, therefore, requested to consider her case sympathetically for regularisation of her service. At present 14 posts of Clerks are lying vacant in this office and this office has no objection if her service are regularised against the vacant post of Clerk.
>
> Sd/-
> For Deputy Commissioner, > Solan."

15. Once the Deputy Commissioner, Solan, being the Chairman of respondent No.1-Society, himself has recommended the case of the petitioner for regularisation, it does not stand to reason that now he can turn around and oppose the same.

16. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find merit in this petition and accordingly the award passed by the learned Tribunal below dated 28.3.2013 is quashed and set-aside and the respondents are directed to consider the case of the petitioner for regular appointment to the post of PBX Clerk on the pattern of State Government with all actual consequential benefits. The parties are left to bear their own costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Smt. Shankari Devi …… Petitioner
Vs.
State of H.P. & ors. ….. Respondents

CWP No. 2074 of 2008
Date of decision: 8.5.2015.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as Part Time Water Carrier- her services were terminated- petitioner claimed that no notice was served upon her prior to the termination of her services – respondent stated that date of birth of the petitioner was recorded as 1940 in the family register- therefore, she had attained the age of superannuation even prior to her appointment- when this fact came to the notice of the respondent, petitioner was retired from the services- held, that order retiring the services of the petitioner involved civil consequences, therefore, a notice was required to be served upon the petitioner prior to the passing of the order- since no notice was served upon the petitioner, therefore, petition allowed and the order passed by the respondent set aside.
(Para-6 to 10)

Case referred:
P.D. Dinakran (1) vs. Judges Inquiry Committee and others (2011) 8 SCC 380

For the petitioner	:	Mr. Dalip K. Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents	:	Mr. Virender Kumar Verma, Ms. Meenakshi Sharma and Mr. Rupinder Singh, Additional Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (Oral).

The petitioner is aggrieved by the order dated 26.9.2008 whereby her services came to be terminated and has filed the present writ petition claiming therein the following substantive reliefs:

(a) That a writ of certiorari may be issued for quashing and setting aside the impugned order dated 26.9.2008 whereby the services of the petitioner has been terminated without any notice/reasons/show cause, in the interest of justice and fair play.

(b) That writ of mandamus may be issued directing the respondent to allow the petitioner to perform her duties Govt. Primary School, Kuftoo, Tehsil Kandaghat, District Solan, H.P.

2. The facts lie in narrow campus. The petitioner applied for the post of Part Time Water Carrier and on 19.5.2000 was appointed in Govt. Primary School, Kuftoo. She joined her services on 22.5.2000. However, her services came to be terminated on 26.9.2008. The precise grievance of the petitioner is that before terminating her services, no notice/reasons/show cause notice was issued to her and she is not even aware as to why and on what basis her services came to be terminated.

3. The respondents in their reply have stated that as per the information received from the Block Primary Education Officer, Kandaghat, the petitioner's date of birth in the family register was entered as 1940 and, therefore, she had attained the age of superannuation even prior to her appointment and when this fact came to the notice of the department, the petitioner was retired from service on 26.9.2008.

4. When the matter came up for consideration on 27.10.2008, it passed the following orders:

> "CWP No. 2074 of 2008
>
> Heard Mr. Dalip Kumar Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioner . Issue notice. Notice on behalf of respondents No. 1 to 5 is being accepted by learned Advocate General. Necessary instructions have to be obtained by learned Advocate General by 3.11.2008 to apprise this Court whether notice before termination in terms of the conditions of appointment letter was given to the petitioner or not. Liberty is also given to file short reply by the learned Advocate General."

5. In compliance to the above directions, respondents filed affidavit, the copy whereof is though not available on the record but however, learned counsel for the petitioner has made available a copy thereof which shall now form part and parcel of the records of this case. Para-2 of the reply affidavit reads thus:

> "That in this regard it is submitted that as per the information received from the Block Elementary Education Officer, Kandaghat, i.e. respondent No.4, the petitioner Smt. Shankari Devi was working as part time water carrier in Govt. Primary School, Kuftoo, as per entry of the family register of Gram Panchayat, Podhana, her date of birth is entered 1940, therefore, she was retired on 26.09.2008 on superannuation. This fact is also clear from Annexure P/7, wherein word retired in Hindi is also written. So there was no need to issue notice to her."

6. The moot question which arises for consideration is as to whether the services of the petitioner could have been terminated/ retired from service in the manner aforesaid? Has not the impugned order visited her with civil and evil consequences? Was not the petitioner required to be afforded atleast a reasonable opportunity of being heard before the impugned order could have been passed?

7. The natural justice is a branch of public law. It is a formidable weapon which can be wielded to secure justice to citizens. Rules of natural Justice are 'basic Values' which a man has cherished throughout the ages. Principles of natural justice control all actions of public authorities by applying rules relating to reasonableness, good faith and justice, equity and good conscience. Natural justice is a part of law which relates to administration of justice. Rules of natural justice are indeed great assurances of justice and fairness. The underline object of rules of natural justice is to ensure fundamental liabilities and rights of citizens. They thus served public interest. The golden rule which stand firmly established is the doctrine of natural justice is not only to secure justice but to prevent miscarriage of justice.

8. Treaties on the subject is the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in P.D. Dinakran (1) vs. Judges Inquiry Committee and others (2011) 8 SCC 380, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

> "32. The traditional English Law recognised the following two principles of natural justice:
>
> > "(a) "Nemo debet esse judex in propria causa: No man shall be a judge in his own cause, or no man can act as both at the one and the same time - a party or a suitor and also as a judge, or the deciding authority must be impartial and without bias; and
> >
> > (b) Audi alteram partem: Hear the other side, or both the sides must be heard, or no man should be condemned unheard, or that there must be fairness on the part of the deciding authority."
>
> However, over the years, the Courts through out the world have discovered new facets of the rules of natural justice and applied them to judicial, quasi-judicial and even administrative actions/decisions. At the same time, the Courts have repeatedly emphasized that the rules of natural justice are flexible and their application depends upon the facts of a given case and the statutory provisions, if any, applicable, nature of the right which may be affected and the consequences which may follow due to violation of the rules of natural justice.
>
> 33. In Russel v. Duke of Norfolk (1949) 1 All ER 109, (CA), Tucker, L.J. observed: (All ER p.118 D-E)
>
> > "There are, in my view, no words which are of universal application to every kind of inquiry and every kind of domestic tribunal. The requirements of natural justice must depend on the circumstances of the case, the nature of the inquiry, the rules under which the tribunal is acting, the subject-matter that is being dealt with, and so forth."
>
> 34. In Byrne v. Kinematograph Renters Society Limited (1958) 2 All ER 579, Lord Harman made the following observations: (WLR p. 784)
>
> > "What, then, are the requirements of natural justice in a case of this kind? First, I think that the person accused should know the nature of the accusation made; secondly, that he should be given an opportunity to state his case; and thirdly, of course, that the tribunal should act in good faith. I do not think that there really is anything more."

35. In Union of India v. P.K. Roy AIR 1968 SC 850, Ramaswami, J. observed: (AIR p.858, para 11)

> " 11. ….The extent and application of the doctrine of natural justice cannot be imprisoned within the strait-jacket of a rigid formula. The application of the doctrine depends upon the nature of the jurisdiction conferred on the administrative authority, upon the character of the rights of the persons affected, the scheme and policy of the statute and other relevant circumstances disclosed in the particular case."

36. In Suresh Koshy George v. University of Kerala AIR 1969 SC 198, K.S. Hegde, J. observed: (AIR p.201, para 7)

> "7. …….The rules of natural justice are not embodied rules. The question whether the requirements of natural justice have been met by the procedure adopted in a given case must depend to a great extent on the facts and circumstances of the case in point, the constitution of the Tribunal and the rules under which it functions."

37. A.K. Kraipak v. Union of India (1969) 2 SCC 262 represents an important milestone in the field of administrative law. The question which came up for consideration by the Constitution Bench was whether Naqishbund who was a candidate seeking selection for appointment to the All India Forest Service was disqualified from being a member of the selection board. One of the issues considered by the Court was whether the rules of natural justice were applicable to purely administrative action. After noticing some precedents on the subject, the Court held: (SCC pp. 268-69, para 13)

> " 13. The dividing line between an administrative power and a quasi-judicial power is quite thin and is being gradually obliterated. For determining whether a power is an administrative power or a quasi-judicial power one has to look to the nature of the power conferred, the person or persons on whom it is conferred, the framework of the law conferring that power, the consequences ensuing from the exercise of that power and the manner in which that power is expected to be exercised. Under our Constitution the rule of law pervades over the entire field of administration. Every organ of the State under our Constitution is regulated and controlled by the rule of law. In a welfare State like ours it is inevitable that the jurisdiction of the administrative bodies is increasing at a rapid rate. The concept of rule of law would lose its vitality if the instrumentalities of the State are not charged with the duty of discharging their functions in a fair and just manner. The requirement of acting judicially in essence is nothing but a requirement to act justly and fairly and not arbitrarily or capriciously. The procedures which are considered inherent in the exercise of a judicial power are merely those which facilitate if not ensure a just and fair decision. In recent years the concept of quasi-judicial power has been undergoing a radical change. What was considered as an administrative power some years back is now being considered as a quasi- judicial power."

38. The Court then considered whether the rules of natural justice were applicable to a case involving selection for appointment to a particular service. The learned Attorney General argued that the rules of natural justice were not applicable to the process of selection. The Constitution Bench referred to the judgments of the Queen's Bench in re H.K. (An infant) (1967) 2 QB 617 and of this Court in State of Orissa v. Dr.(Miss) Binapani Dei (1967) 2 SCR 625 and observed: (A.K. Kraipak case, SCC pp. 272-73, para 20)

> "20. The aim of the rules of natural justice is to secure justice or to put it negatively to prevent miscarriage of justice. These rules can operate only in areas not covered by any law validly made. In other words they do not supplant the law of the land but supplement it. The concept of natural justice has undergone a great deal of change in recent years. In the past it was thought that it included just two rules namely: (1) no one shall be a judge in his own case (Nemo debet esse judex propria causa) and (2) no decision shall be given against a party without affording him a reasonable hearing (audi alteram partem) . Ver y soon thereafter a third rule was envisaged and that is that quasi-judicial enquiries must be held in good faith, without bias and not arbitrarily or unreasonably. But in the course of years many more subsidiary rules came to be added to the rules of natural justice. Till very recently it was the opinion of the courts that unless the authority concerned was required by the law under which it functioned to act judicially there was no room for the application of the rules of natural justice. The validity of that limitation is now questioned. If the purpose of the rules of natural justice is to prevent miscarriage of justice one fails to see why those rules should be made inapplicable to administrative enquiries. Often times it is not easy to draw the line that demarcates administrative enquiries from quasi- judicial enquiries. Enquiries which were considered administrative at one time are now being considered as quasi- judicial in character. Arriving at a just decision is the aim of both quasi-judicial enquiries as well as administrative enquiries. An unjust decision in an administrative enquiry may have more far reaching effect than a decision in a quasi-judicial enquiry. As observed by this Court in Suresh Koshy George v. University of Kerala the rules of natural justice are not embodied rules. What particular rule of natural justice should apply to a given case must depend to a great extent on the facts and circumstances of that case, the framework of the law under which the enquiry is held and the constitution of the Tribunal or body of persons appointed for that purpose. Whenever a complaint is made before a court that some principle of natural justice had been contravened the court has to decide whether the observance of that rule was necessary for a just decision on the facts of that case." (emphasis supplied)

39. In Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India (supra), a larger Bench of seven Judges considered whether passport of the petitioner could be impounded without giving her notice and opportunity of hearing. Bhagwati, J, speaking for himself and for Untwalia and Fazal Ali, JJ, gave a new dimension to the rule of audi alteram partem and declared that an action taken in violation of that rule is arbitrary and violative of Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution. The learned Judge referred to Ridge v. Baldwin (1964) AC 40, State of Orissa v. Dr.(Miss) Binapani Dei (supra), In re H.K.(An Infant) (supra) and A.K. Kraipak v. Union of India (supra) and observed: (Maneka Gandhi case, SCC pp. 291-92, para 14)

> "14. ....The audi alteram partem rule is intended to inject justice into the law and it cannot be applied to defeat the ends of justice, or to make the law "lifeless, absurd, stultifying, self-defeating or plainly contrary to the common sense of the situation". Since the life of the law is not logic but experience and every legal proposition must, in the ultimate analysis, be tested on the touchstone of pragmatic realism, the audi alteram partem rule would, by the experiential test, be excluded, if importing the right to be heard has the effect of paralysing the administrative process or the need for promptitude or the urgency of the situation so demands. But at the same time it must be remembered that this is a rule of vital importance in the field of administrative law and it must not be jettisoned save in very exceptional circumstances where compulsive necessity so demands. It is a wholesome rule designed to secure the rule of law and the court should not be too ready to eschew it in its application to a given case. True it is that in questions of this kind a fanatical or doctrinaire approach should be avoided, but that does not mean that merely because the traditional methodology of a formalised hearing may have the effect of stultifying the exercise of the statutory power, the audi alteram partem should be wholly excluded. The court must make every effort to salvage this cardinal rule to the maximum extent permissible in a given case. It must not be forgotten that "natural justice is pragmatically flexible and is amenable to capsulation under the compulsive pressure of circumstances". The audi alteram partem rule is not cast in a rigid mould and judicial decisions establish that it may suffer situational modifications. The core of it must, however, remain, namely, that the person affected must have a reasonable opportunity of being heard and the hearing must be a genuine hearing and not an empty public relations exercise. .....A fair opportunity of being heard following immediately upon the order impounding the passport would satisfy the mandate of natural justice and a provision requiring giving of such opportunity to the person concerned can and should be read by implication in the Passports Act, 1967. If such a provision were held to be incorporated in the Passports Act, 1967 by necessary implication, as we hold it must be, the procedure prescribed by the Act for impounding a passport would be right, fair and just and it would not suffer from the vice of arbitrariness or unreasonableness. We must, therefore, hold that the procedure "established" by the Passports Act, 1967 for impounding a passport is in conformity with the requirement of Article 21 and does not fall foul of that article."

40. In Olga Tellis v. Bombay Municipal Corporation (1985) 3 SCC 545, the Constitution Bench dealt with the question whether pavement and slum dwellers could be evicted without being heard. After adverting to various precedents on the subject, Chandrachud, C.J. observed: (SCC pp. 577-78, para 40)

> "40. Just as a mala fide act has no existence in the eye of law, even so, unreasonableness vitiates law and procedure alike. It is therefore essential that the procedure prescribed by law for depriving a person of his fundamental right, in this case the right to life, must conform to the norms of justice and fairplay. Procedure, which is unjust or unfair in the circumstances of a case, attracts the vice of unreasonableness, thereby vitiating the law which prescribes that procedure and consequently, the action taken under it. Any action taken by a public authority which is invested with statutory powers has, therefore, to be tested by the application of two standards: the action must be within the scope of the authority conferred by law and secondly, it must be reasonable. If any action, within the scope of the authority conferred by law, is found to be unreasonable, it must mean that the procedure established by law under which that action is taken is itself unreasonable. The substance of the law cannot be divorced from the procedure which it prescribes for, how reasonable the law is, depends upon how fair is the procedure prescribed by it. Sir Raymond Evershed says that, "from the point of view of the ordinary citizen, it is the procedure that will most strongly weigh with him. He will tend to form his judgment of the excellence or otherwise of the legal system from his personal knowledge and experience in seeing the legal machine at work". Therefore, 'He that takes the procedural sword shall perish with the sword.' "

9. In view of the aforesaid exposition of law, the impugned action/order of the respondents cannot be sustained as the same is not only violative of principles of natural justice but also fair play. The least which was expected from the respondents was to serve a show cause notice upon the petitioner calling for her explanation and it was only after hearing the petitioner that her services could have been terminated that too if so warranted. Therefore, this Court has no option but to quash and set-aside the order dated 26.9.2008.

10. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed and the order dated 26.9.2008 whereby the petitioner was ordered to be retired is quashed and set-aside. The petitioner shall be deemed to continue in service on the basis of her date of birth as reflected in the medical certificate of fitness (Annexure P-6) or till such time when the respondents hold an inquiry and establish the date of birth of the petitioner to be at variance to what is reflected in Annexure P-6. Since the petitioner's services have been illegally retired, she shall be entitled to all consequential benefits including arrears which shall be paid to her within a period of eight weeks, failing which, the respondents shall also be liable to pay interest on this amount at the rate of 9% per annum.

11. The writ petition is disposed of in the aforesaid terms, so also the pending application(s), if any.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Shashi Kant. ....Petitioner
Versus
State of H.P. ....Non-petitioner.

Cr.MMO No. 116 of 2015
Decided on: 8.5.2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition against the anticipatory bail order passed by Sessions Judge, Shimla- Additional Advocate General submitted that he has no objection in case the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in para-5 of the order is deleted and the word 'India' is ordered to be incorporated- therefore, the word 'H.P. State' mentioned in the order be deleted and word 'India' be incorporated.

For the petitioner : Mr. Vishal Aggarwal & Sanjay Sharma, Advocates.
For the non-petitioner : Mr. M.L. Chauhan Additional Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge (Oral)

Petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. against the anticipatory bail order passed by the learned Sessions Judge Shimla H.P. on 4.5.2015 in Criminal Bail Application No. 59-8/22 of 2015. Notice. At this stage learned Additional Advocate General appears and waives service of notice on behalf of the respondent. Learned Additional Advocate General submitted that he does not want to file any reply and he has no objection if the word H.P. State mentioned in para-5 of order dated 4.5.2015 is deleted and word India is incorporated. In view of the above stated facts and in view of the express provision mentioned under Section 438 (2) (iii) Cr.P.C. petition filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is allowed in the ends of justice and word H.P. State mentioned at Sr. No. (iv) of para-5 of the order dated 4.5.2015 is ordered to be deleted and word India is ordered to be incorporated. Order passed by the learned Sessions Judge Shimla dated 4.5.2015 in Criminal Bail Application No. 59-8/22 of 2015 is modified to this extent only. Petition disposed of. Pending applications if any also disposed of. Dasti copy.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Lashkari Ram ...... Petitioner.
Vs.
State of H.P. & anr. ..... Respondents

Cr.MMO No. 56 of 2015.
Judgement reserved on: 7.5.2015.
Date of decision: 11.5.2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Petitioner filed a petition for quashing the FIR registered against him- respondent contended that final report has been presented before the Court; therefore, petition is not maintainable- petitioner contended that the dispute is essentially of a civil nature and is given a cloak of a criminal case, therefore, Court has jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceedings- held, that complaint can be quashed where a dispute is predominately of a civil nature and not when the allegation against the petitioner constitutes a criminal offence - these principles cannot be made applicable when a prima facie case is made out against the petitioner, which has culminated into a charge-sheet- only the Court where the charge-sheet has been filed should be left to deal with the same- petition dismissed. (Para- 3 to 11)

Case referred:

Nancy Bhatt & another Vs. State of H.P. and another, ILR, H.P. Volume XLV- II, 2015, Page 550

Paramjeet Batra vs. State of Uttarakhand and others (2013) 11 SCC 673

For the petitioner	:	Mr. Subhash Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents :		Mr. Virender Kumar Verma, Ms. Meenakshi Sharma and Mr. Rupinder Singh, Addl. A.Gs. for respondent No. 1. Mr. Ashok Verma, Advocate, for respondent No.2. Mr. Pyare Lal, HC No. 21, Police Station, Bharari, Distt. Bilaspur.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

The petitioner has prayed for quashing of FIR No. 61/2014 dated 9.6.2014, under sections 354, 451, 506 IPC registered against him at Police Station, Bharari, District Bilaspur, H.P.

2. It is contended that because of a civil dispute, inter se, the parties, a false case has been filed against the petitioner.

3. A preliminary objection has been raised by the respondent regarding the very maintainability of this petition in view of final report having been presented before the Magistrate. In support of his contention, the respondent has relied upon a judgement of this court in Cr.MMO No. 183 of 2014 titled Nancy Bhatt & another vs. State of H.P. decided on 6.4.2015, where like in the present case the final report had been presented and this court held as follows:-

> "2. A preliminary objection has been raised by the respondents that once the FIR has culminated in charge-sheet, the present petition has been rendered infructuous, because it is not the FIR but the chargesheet which forms the basis of criminal trial.
>
> 3. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the records of the case carefully.

4. In State of Punjab vs. Dharam Vir Singh Jethi 1994 SCC (Cri.) 500, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that when the chargesheet was submitted, quashing of FIR is not permissible since it would be open to the Court to refuse to frame charge. It was observed as under:

> "2. Heard learned counsel for the State as well as the contesting respondent. We are afraid that the High Court was not right in quashing the First Information Report on the plea that the said respondent had no role to play and was never the custodian of the paddy in question. In fact it was averred in the counter-affidavit filed in the High Court that the said respondent had acted in collusion with Kashmira Singh resulting in the latter misappropriating the paddy in question. At the relevant point of time the respondent concerned, it is alleged, was in overall charge of the Government Seed Farm, Trehan. This allegation forms the basis of the involvement of the respondent concerned. The High Court was, therefore, wrong in saying that the respondent concerned had no role to play. A specific role is assigned to him, it may be proved or may fail. In any case, pursuant to the First Information Report the investigation was undertaken and a charge sheet or a police report under Section 173(2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure was filed in the court. If the investigation papers annexed to the charge sheet do not disclose the commission of any crime by the respondent concerned, it would be open to the court to refuse to frame a charge, but quashing of the First Information Report was not permissible.

5. In Vineet Narain and others vs. Union of India and another (1996) 2 SCC 199, the Supreme Court after refusing to quash the FIR, held that when a chargesheet was filed in the competent Court, it is that Court alone which will then deal with the case on merits, in accordance with law.

6. This legal position has been reiterated in number of cases. (See: Anukul Chandra Pradhan vs. Union of India and others (1996) 6 SCC 354 and Jakia Nasim Ahesan and another vs. State of Gujarat and others (2011) 12 SCC 302).

7. Admittedly the FIR is not a substantive piece of evidence. It is information of a cognizable offence given under Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (for short 'Code'). The legislature in its wisdom under the provisions of the Code has given limited/restrictive power to the Court to intervene at the stage of investigation by the police. Investigation is the exclusive domain of the police. Ordinarily, it is only when the charge sheet is filed that the Court is empowered either to take cognizance and to frame charge or to refuse to do the same.

8. The FIR is the sheet anchor on the basis of which the investigation ensues. However, once the FIR on the basis of which the investigation was initiated has culminated into a chargesheet, the FIR does not remain the sheet anchor because the same alone then cannot be read and has to be read along with the material gathered by the investigating agency during the course of the investigation.

> 9. It would, therefore, not be permissible for this Court to quash the FIR or else that would amount to annihilating a still born prosecution by going into the merits on the plea of proof of the prima facie case. Further, adverting to those facts and giving findings on merits would otherwise result in the grossest error of law because this Court in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code cannot undertake pre-trial of a criminal case."

4. On the other hand, the learned counsel for the petitioner would argue that once the dispute is essentially of a civil nature and is given a cloak of a criminal offence, then court has every jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceedings irrespective of its stage. In support of his submission, the learned counsel has relied upon the judgement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Paramjeet Batra vs. State of Uttarakhand and others (2013) 11 SCC 673, wherein it was held as follows:-

> "12. While exercising its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code the High Court has to be cautious. This power is to be used sparingly and only for the purpose of preventing abuse of the process of any court or otherwise to secure ends of justice. Whether a complaint discloses a criminal offence or not depends upon the nature of facts alleged therein. Whether essential ingredients of criminal offence are present or not has to be judged by the High Court. A complaint disclosing civil transactions may also have a criminal texture. But the High Court must see whether a dispute which is essentially of a civil nature is given a cloak of criminal offence. In such a situation, if a civil remedy is available and is, in fact, adopted as has happened in this case, the High Court should not hesitate to quash criminal proceedings to prevent abuse of process of court."

5. There is no quarrel with the proposition as canvassed by Sh. Subhash Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioner but the same will only apply in case the dispute would have been predominately of a civil nature, but then the allegations constituting the offence, under sections 354, 451 and 506 IPC can by no stretch of imagination be termed to be constituting an offence of civil nature.

6. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Paramjeet Batra's case (supra) was seized of the matter which involved monetary consideration and a civil suit making similar grievance had already been filed and was pending adjudication. It is in this background that the observations as reproduced hereinabove were made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. Whereas in the present case there are specific allegations against the petitioner which when taken on the face value, constitute an offence punishable under law.

7. The prosecutrix in her statement under section 154 Cr.P.C. has specifically stated that on 9.6.2014 at about 11 a.m. when she was all alone in the courtyard and washing clothes then the petitioner came there and threatened her that she should advise her husband not to set his eyes on the land or else he alongwith his son would kill him. Thereafter with the bad intention he caught hold of the prosecutrix and pushed her because of which she sustained injuries on her left leg as the same struck against the stairs resulting in further injuries to her knee. This statement of the prosecutrix is further corroborated by the Medico Legal Certificates (MLCs).

8. Though the learned counsel for the petitioner would argue that because the prosecutrix is a Staff Nurse, therefore, she has manipulated the MLCs and it was on the basis of such false documents that petitioner is sought to be involved in the present case.

9. The mere fact that prosecutrix is working as Staff Nurse would not in itself establish that MLCs are in any way false, however, these are the matters which are required to be considered during the course of the trial and at present the court is only required to consider the allegations as contained in the First Information Report and the final report, which as observed earlier, prima-facie, indicate and make out the commission of offence for which the petitioner has been charged.

10. In addition to the aforesaid, it would be noticed that after the investigation, the petitioner has not been charged with for lesser offence, but has been charged with this very offence for which he had been booked at the time of registration of FIR. That apart, the petitioner cannot take any advantage of the pendency of civil proceedings, because admittedly the civil proceedings were instituted after the registration of the FIR, that too, at the instance of the opposite party. The FIR in question was registered on 9.6.2014 while the civil suit came to be filed exactly after one month on 8.7.2014.

11. Having said so, I find no merit in this petition and the same is dismissed.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Nek Ram ...Petitioner
Versus
Financial Commissioner (Appeals) and others ...Respondents

CWP No. 2763 of 2014
Date of decision: 11.5.2015

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order 9 Rule 9- Petitioner was ordered to be ejected by Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Mandi- he filed an appeal, which was dismissed in default for non-appearance- an application for restoration of appeal was filed, which was dismissed on the ground that it was filed after two years and three months - this order was challenged unsuccessfully in appeal and revision- held, that length of delay is not a decisive factor for condonation for delay, but sufficiency of satisfactory explanation is a material factor- petitioner had hired an advocate and he cannot be penalized for non-appearance of the advocate- authorities had not gone into the sufficiency of the explanation offered by the petitioner- further, application for restoration was decided after 10 years- hence, petition allowed and case remanded with a direction to decide the same afresh after giving reasons.

(Para-3 to 11)

Cases referred:

State of Punjab Vs. Shamlal Murari, AIR 1976 S.C. 1177
Sital Prasad Saxena Vs. Union of India and others, AIR 1985 SC 1
Collector, Land Acquisition Anantnag Vs. Katiji, AIR 1987 SC 1353
Perumon Bhagvathy Devaswom, Perinadu Village Vs. Bhargavi Amma (dead) by LRS and others, (2008) 8 SCC 321

For the Petitioner: Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr.Vivek Singh Attri, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan J. (Oral).

Facts in brief, as are necessary for the adjudication of this writ petition are that, proceeding under Section 163 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act were initiated against the petitioner by Assistant Collector Ist Grade, Mandi and vide order dated 5.1.1993, the petitioner was ordered to be evicted. This order was challenged by the petitioner before the Sub Divisional Collector, Sadar, Mandi on various grounds, however, before the appeal could be heard on merits, the same was dismissed in default on 3.10.2000. Application for restoration came to be filed on 27.1.2003. However, the matter remained pending before respondent No. 3 and ultimately vide order dated 20.1.2012, this application for restoration was rejected. The petitioner filed appeal before the Divisional Commissioner, Mandi, who too dismissed the same and left with no other option he approached the Financial Commissioner, who too dismissed the Revision Petition. It is these orders, which have been challenged by the petitioner before this Court on the grounds that the authorities below should not have dismissed the appeal on mere technicalities and should have decide the case on merits.

2. In response to the petition, the respondents in their reply supported the impugned orders and have further contended that the petitioner for his lapses cannot blame the respondents. It is further contended that ample opportunity was afforded to the petitioner for being heard and sufficient time had been granted to him to defend the matter in the Courts below and the present petition has been filed only to prolong the eviction proceedings.

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the case.

3. A perusal of the impugned orders would show that all the authorities below have been influenced by the fact that the application for restoration had been moved after more than two years and three months, little realizing that the decisive factor in condonation of delay, is not the length of delay, but sufficiency of satisfactory explanation. The legislature has conferred the power to condone delay to enable the authorities to do substantial justice to the parties by disposing of the mattes on merits. The authorities below appear to be oblivious and were expected to bear in mind that ordinarily the applicant applying for condonation of delay does not stand to benefit by lodging his claim late. Refusing to condone delay can result in meritorious matters to be thrown out at the very thresh hold and cause of justice being defeated.

4. It also cannot be lost site that a party, who as per the present adversary legal system, has selected his advocate, briefed him and paid his fee can remain supremely confident that his lawyer will look after his interest and such an innocent party who has done everything in his power has expected of him, should not suffer for the inaction, omission or misdemeanor of his counsel.

5. The procedural rules have to be liberally construed, and care must be taken, that so strict interpretation be not placed thereon, whereby, technicality may tend to triumph over justice. It has to be kept in mind, that an overly strict construction of procedural provisions, may result in the stifling the best case of a party, even if, for adequate reasons, which may be beyond its control.

6. It has to be remembered that procedural law is not an obstruction, but an aid to justice. Procedural prescriptions are the hand-maid and not the mistress, a lubricant, not a resistant, in the administration of justice. If the breach can be corrected, without injury to the just disposal of a case, regulatory requirement should not be enthroned into a dominant desideratum. Above all, it has to be remembered that the object of Courts and Tribunals is to dispense justice, and not to wreck the end result, on technicalities.

7. In State of Punjab Vs. Shamlal Murari, AIR 1976 S.C. 1177, it was laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court as follows:-

> "Procedural law is not to be a tyrant but a servant, not an obstruction but an aid to justice. It has been wisely observed that procedural prescriptions are the hand-maid and not the mistress, a lubricant, not a resistant in the administrations of justice.... After all, Courts are to do justice, not to wreck this end product on technicalities."

In Sital Prasad Saxena Vs. Union of India and others, AIR 1985 SC 1, while dealing the question of abatement under Order XXII of the Code and allowing substitution at the Supreme Court state, it was laid down as follows:

> "Let it be recalled what has been said umpteen times that rules of procedure are designed to advance justice and should be so interpreted and not to make them penal statutes for punishing erring parties."

In Collector, Land Acquisition Anantnag Vs. Katiji, AIR 1987 SC 1353, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed as follows:-

> "When substantial justice and technical considerations are pitted against each other, cause of substantial justice deserves to be preferred for the other side cannot claim to have vested rights in injustice being done because of a non-deliberate delay."
>
> xxxxxxx "It must be grasped that judiciary is respected not on account of its power to legalize injustice on technical grounds but because it is capable of removing injustice and is expected to do so."

8. In Perumon Bhagvathy Devaswom, Perinadu Village Vs. Bhargavi Amma (dead) by LRS and others, (2008) 8 SCC 321, the Hon'ble Supreme Court taking into consideration the law on the subject and laid down the following principles:-

> "13. The principles applicable in considering applications for setting aside abatement may thus be summarized as follows:
>
> (i) The word "sufficient cause for not making the application within the period of limitation" should be understood and applied in a reasonable, pragmatic, practical and liberal manner, depending upon the facts and circumstances of the case, and the type of case. The words "sufficient cause" in Section 5 of the Limitation Act should receive a liberal construction so as to advance substantial justice, when the delay is not on account of any dilatory tactics, want of bona fides, deliberate inaction or negligence on the part of the appellant.

(ii) In considering the reasons for condonation of delay, the courts are more liberal with reference to applications for setting aside abatement, than other cases. While the court will have to keep in view that a valuable right accrues to the legal representatives of the deceased respondent when the appeal abates, it will not punish an appellant with foreclosure of the appeal, for unintended lapses. The courts tend to set aside abatement and decide the matter on merits, rather than terminate the appeal on the ground of abatement.

(iii) The decisive factor in condonation of delay, is not the length of delay, but sufficiency of a satisfactory explanation.

(iv) The extent or degree of leniency to be shown by a court depends on the nature of application and facts and circumstances of the case. For example, courts view delays in making applications in a pending appeal more leniently than delays in the institution of an appeal. The courts view applications relating to lawyer's lapses more leniently than applications relating to litigant's lapses. The classic example is the difference in approach of courts to applications for condonation of delay in filing an appeal and applications for condonation of delay in refilling the appeal after rectification of defects.

(v) Want of "diligence" or "inaction" can be attributed to an appellant only when something required to be done by him, is not done. When nothing is required to be done, courts do not expect the appellant to be diligent. Where an appeal is admitted by the High Court and is not expected to be listed for final hearing for a few years, an application is not expected to visit the court or his lawyer every few weeks to ascertain the position nor keep checking whether the contesting respondent is alive. He merely awaits the call or information from his counsel about the listing of the appeal."

9. In view of the aforesaid exposition of law, it can be conveniently held that the expression "sufficient cause" has to be liberally interpreted and there is no presumption that the delay is occasioned deliberately or on account of culpable negligence or on account of malafides. A litigant does not stand to benefit by resorting to delay. In fact he runs a serious risk. In such circumstances, the approach of the authorities should be justice-oriented so as to advance the cause of justice and mere delay should not defeat the cause of justice. It is well settled that in matters of condonation of delay highly pedantic approach should be eschewed and justice-oriented approach should be adopted. Every endeavor has to be made to ensure that a party is not made to suffer on account of technicalities.

10. As already observed earlier, none of the authorities have gone into the sufficiency of the explanation offered by the petitioner and have been much influenced by the so called "inordinate delay" in filing of the application for restoration of appeal.

11. There is yet another disturbing feature of this case. The appeal was filed before the Sub Divisional Collector on 4.3.2010 and was dismissed in default on 3.10.2000. The application for restoration was filed on 27.1.2003, but then it took the Sub Divisional Collector nearly ten years i.e. 20.1.2012 to decide the same, that too by rendering self contradictory observations, inasmuch as in the earlier part of the order it appears that the application for restoration was accepted and allowed, while in the next paragraph he rejects the application, that too by holding that the petitioner had not appeared intentionally. The relevant portion of the order is quoted below:-

> "Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the order of AC 1st Grade Tehsil Sadar the appellant preferred appeal before this court alleging therein that the Kanungo as well as the AC Ist Grade have not inspected the spot in the presence of the appellant. He also alleged that he has not been afforded an opportunity of being heard. Moreover the appellant has not been allowed to lead the evidence in order to establish his case and as such the learned court below has passed wrong and illegal order which is liable to be set aside. The appeal was dismissed in default on 3.10.2000 and the appellant has filed an application under order 9 rule 9(1) read with section 151 C.P.C. for restoration of appeal which was accepted and allowed.
>
> I have heard the ld. counsel for appellant and also gone through the lower court record and also record file of this court carefully. It has been found that the ld. counsel for the appellant appeared in the court regularly. The ld. counsel was given last opportunity to put forward his arguments on dated 29.03.2000. But inspite this fact, he did not appear intentionally on the said date. Hence application is rejected. A copy of this order be sent to the AC Ist Grade Tehsil Sadar Mandi District Mandi for compliance. Case file along with original file be consigned to GRR after due completion."

That apart, it is also not understood as to from where the Collector has concluded that the petitioner had not appeared intentionally on 3.10.2000 when the case had been dismissed in default. Before arriving at such a conclusion, it was incumbent upon the Collector to have recorded reasons for the same.

12. In view of the detailed discussion above, I find merit in this petition and the same is accordingly allowed and the orders as contained in Annexures P-1 to P-4 are quashed and set aside and the matter is remanded to the Sub Divisional Collector, Sadar, District Mandi for decision afresh. Since these proceedings are pending for more than two decades, the Sub Divisional Collector is directed to decide the proceedings as expeditiously as possible and in no event later then 15th July, 2015. The parties are left to bear their costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Hardeep Singh ……Appellant.

Versus

State of H.P. …….Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 396 of 2012
Reserved on: May 08, 2015.
Decided on: May 12, 2015.

N.D.P.S. Act, 1985- Section 15- 138.500 kg of poppy husk was found in the vehicle of accused - PW-1 to PW-3 did not support the prosecution version- all the seals were not found intact in the Court- no entry was made regarding taking out of the case property from Malkhana and depositing it - held, that in these circumstances, prosecution had failed to prove that contraband was recovered from exclusive and conscious possession of the accused- accused acquitted. (Para-23 to 26)

Case referred:

Makhan Singh vrs. State of Haryana, JT 2015 (4) SC 222

For the appellant:	Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate, vice Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Advocate.
For the respondent:	Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Asstt. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This appeal is instituted against the judgment dated 16.7.2012, rendered by the learned Special Judge, FTC, Una, H.P, in Sessions Case No. 12-VII-2011, whereby the appellant-accused (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who was charged with and tried for offence punishable under Section 15 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the ND & PS Act), has been convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of 10 years and to pay fine of Rs. 1,00,000/- and in default of payment of fine, he was further ordered to undergo rigorous imprisonment for six months.

2. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that on 16.1.2011 at about 4:20 AM, the police officials, namely, SI Shakti Singh alongwith ASI Sewa Singh and others were on patrolling in Govt. vehicle No. HP -20-C-0507. It was driven by Const. Rakesh Kumar from Haroli to Tahliwal side. HC Sanjay Kumar met the police party and got his statement Ext. PW-7/A recorded with SHO to the effect that when he was present at Tahliwal near Haroli road Chowk at about 4:10 AM, he received telephonic information about the indulgence of accused Hardeep Singh in illegal business of selling poppy husk and he has gone towards Hoshiarpur in his Car No. PB-08W-4849 for bringing contraband and accused often use Nhai Da Mour to Palkwah road for bringing the contraband and if naka is laid at Nichla road, he can be caught red handed. The information was well founded and trustworthy. Accordingly, the statement of HC Sanjay Kumar was sent to PS on the basis of which FIR Ext. PW-7/B was registered. Report Ext. PW-8/A under Section 42 (1)(ii) was prepared and sent to SP, Una through Const. Sanjay Kumar. Naka was laid near Nichla Palkwah road to Bhai da Mour and at about 5:30 AM, a car bearing No. PB-08W-4849 came from Bhai da mour side which was stopped. Accused was found in the vehicle. He disclosed his name as Hardeep Singh and consent memo Ext. PW-5/A under Section 50 was prepared and HC Sanjay Kumar was sent to bring the Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat. In the presence of the accused, vehicle was searched leading to recovery of four plastic sacks from its dicky. No independent witness was available on the spot and local witnesses were arranged. In the morning at about 7:40 AM, after arranging the electronic weighing scale, the sacks were checked and on smelling sacks were found to be containing poppy husk. The contraband was weighed in the presence of witnesses Heera Devi and Sandeep Kumar. Sack No. 1 contained 33.620 kg, 2nd sack contained 34.970 kg, 3rd sack contained 35.110 kg and 4th sack contained 38.800 kg. The total weight of the contraband was found to be 138.500 kgs. All the sacks were made homogeneous and four samples of 1 kg each Ext. SB-1 to SB-4 were taken. The samples and bulks were sealed with seal impression “J” and sample seal was separately drawn as Ext. PW-2/A on a piece of cloth. The IO filled in column Nos. 1 to 8 of the NCB forms. The seal was entrusted to witnesses Heera Devi and sack were marked as B-1 to B-4. Sacks, samples, vehicle, NCB forms and sample seal were taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW-2/B. The IO prepared the spot map. The accused was arrested and searched. The contraband was produced before SI Baldev Ram, who resealed the case property with seal “K”. Special report was sent to the SP, Una. On 26.2.2011, IO moved an application Ext. PW-15/A before the learned JMIC, who prepared inventory Ext. PW-15/C. Samples were sent to chemical analysis and report was obtained. The investigation was completed and the challan was put up after completing all the codal formalities.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as 21 witnesses. The accused was also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused has denied the prosecution case and has pleaded ignorance. The learned trial Court convicted the accused, as noticed hereinabove.

4. Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate, appearing on behalf of the accused, has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused. On the other hand, Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Asstt. AG, for the State has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 16.7.2012.

5. We have heard learned counsel for both the sides and gone through the records of the case carefully.

6. PW-1 Satnam Singh, deposed that he did not remain associated with the investigation of this case nor any RC and insurance of Car was taken into possession by the police in his presence. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In his cross-examination, he denied that recovery memo Ext. PW-1/A was prepared in his presence. He volunteered that the police obtained his signatures on blank papers. He admitted that RC Ext. PA and insurance Ext. PB are the same which he had seen in the Police Station. He admitted that he put his signatures on memo Ext. PW-1/A after reading and understanding its contents.

7. PW-2 Heera Devi, deposed that she saw the accused inside the vehicle. Nothing has happened in her presence. She saw four sacks kept outside the vehicle lying on the road. She was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. In her cross-examination, she denied that accused had told his name in her presence to the police. Volunteered that accusedmay have told his name as Hardeep alias Sonu to the police before she reached at the spot. She denied that the police told her that they wanted vehicle to be searched in her presence. She denied that boy named Sandeep Kumar was also present at the spot. Volunteered that many people had gathered on the spot at that time. She denied that Sandeep Kumar and ASI Sewa Singh were associated in the investigation as witnesses. She denied that Dicky of the car was opened by the accused in her presence and four plastic sacks containing contraband were recovered. She denied that the police checked the sacks. Volunteered that one police official put his hand in the sack to check the material contained therein. She admitted that the police told her that contraband was poppy husk. She denied that the police got weighing scale and weighed the contraband in her presence. She admitted that the contraband was weighed by police in her presence. Volunteered that she did not notice the exact weight of the sacks and she saw the police weighing one sack only. She denied that the police had taken out the samples of contraband from each bag weighing 1 kg each. She deposed that samples were already prepared by the police in cloth parcel. She also denied that the police marked sacks with marks B-1 to B-4 in her presence. She also denied that cloth parcels containing samples of contraband were marked as mark SB-1 to SB-4. She did not know if sealed parcels containing samples of contraband were sealed with seal "J". She denied that the police has filled in NCB forms in her presence and put sample seal on the same and thereafter the seal was given to her. She denied that the police took into possession Ceilo Car PB-08-W-4849 alongwith four sacks of contraband, samples, NCB forms vide memo Ext. PW-2/B. Volunteered that the police obtained her signatures on the already prepared memo. She identified her signatures on memo Ext. PW-2/A. When her statement was recorded, the prosecution has produced four cloth parcels containing samples of contraband duly sealed by FSL and seal impression J. Each parcel bore her signatures. The sacks were opened. The seal was not readable.

8. PW-3 Sandeep Kumar, deposed that the police told him that a sikh gentleman sitting inside the Ceilo car was found possessing contraband. The police requested him to be a witness. The President of the Gram Panchayat reached on the spot after two hours. The police opened the dicky of the Car in his presence and four plastic sacks were taken out of it. The plastic sacks were weighed by the police in his presence. The police after checking told him that the contraband was poppy husk. The police mixed the contraband with their hands. Each bag was 30-35 kg. each. The police took out the samples from each sack. The police obtained his signatures on parcels containing samples and on plastic sacks B-1 to B-4, now Ext. P-1 to P-4. He did not remember sealed parcels containing samples of contraband were sealed by police with seal impression "J" in his presence. Volunteered that the same bears his signatures. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor. He denied that the police sealed cloth parcels containing samples with seal and he did not remember that plastic sacks P-1 to P-4 were sealed with seal "J". Volunteered that Ext. PW-2/A bears his signatures encircled red. The total weight of the sacks was between 130-140 kgs. approximately. He admitted that Ceilo Car along with Key, contraband sacks Ext. P-1 to P-4 and samples Ext. P-5 to P-8 were taken into possession by the police vide memo Ext. PW-2/B in his presence and the memo bears his signatures encircled red. He identified his signatures upon that. He denied that the police got weighing scale on the spot in a vehicle. Volunteered that it was already in the police vehicle.

9. PW-4 Shiv Kumar, deposed that he was registered owner of vehicle No. PB-08W-4849, as per RC Ext. PA. He sold this vehicle to accused.

10. PW-5 Const. Rakesh Kumar, deposed that the statement of HC Sanjay Kumar was recorded in the vehicle in his presence. It was sent to the Police Station. It was also sent to the S.P. Una. The naka was laid at Palkwah Nichla road near cause way. HC Sanjay Kumar was sent to village Kante to arrange independent witnesses. After about 10-20 minutes from laying naka, Ceilo Car No. PB-08W-4849 came from Bhai Ka Mour side. The vehicle was stopped. The SHO told the accused that police wanted to search his vehicle and also to conduct his personal search. The SHO further told the accused whether he wanted to be searched by the police or gazetted officer or Magistrate. The accused consented to be searched by the police and memo Ext. PW-5/a was prepared. Nothing was found in the personal search of the police officials except govt. documents. Thereafter, SHO directed him and HC Santosh Kumar to bring weighing scale from village Samnal in the government vehicle. Satnam Singh provided electric weighing scale which they brought to the spot. When they reached back at the spot Pradhan Heera and Sandeep Kumar were present.

11. PW-6 HHC Harmesh Kumar, deposed the manner in which the accused was apprehended, vehicle was searched and the contraband was recovered. The contraband was weighed. It was sealed. he also clicked the photographs with digital camera.

12. PW-7 Const. Ashok Kumar deposed that HC Sanjay Kumar signaled police party to stop and driver of govt. vehicle Rakesh Kumar stopped the vehicle. He talked with the SHO Pathania and got his statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C. recorded in the police vehicle vide Ext. PW-7/A.

13. PW-8 Const. Sanjay Kumar also deposed the manner in which the accused was apprehended and the contraband was recovered, search and sealing process was completed on the spot. His statement u/s 154 Cr.P.C. was reduced into writing vide Ext. PW-7/A. SHO prepared the information report u/s 42(2) of the ND & PS Act.

14. PW-10 ASI Sewa Singh, deposed the manner in which the vehicle was signaled, stopped and codal formalities were completed on the spot, including search and sealing of the contraband. The contraband was opened while recording his statement in the Court. He has seen the samples and sacks. He identified his signatures. Seals J, K, FSL on parcel were intact. The Court made the following observations:

> "COURT OBSERVATIONS:
>
> Parcel SB-1 contains three seals intact of FSL and one broken. This parcel also contains four intact seals. Two intact seals are having seal impression K. Two seals are partly broken. Mark on two seals are not visible.
>
> Parcel SB-2 contains four intact seals of FSl and six other seals. The mark K is only visible in one seal.
>
> Parcel SB-3 contains three seals of FSL and six other seals. Two seals are containing visible seal impression of seal K and one seal impression J. Other seals are not visible.
>
> Parcel SB-4 contains four seals of FSL, another two seals of impression J and one seal of impression K."

15. PW-11 SI Baldev Ram, deposed that at about 5:10 AM, he received rukka of HC Sanjay Kumar from Const. Ashok Kumar Ext. PW-7/A, on the basis of which FIR Ext. PW-7/B was recorded. At about 11:40 AM, HC Sanjay Kumar alongwith the police party came to PS and deposited case property four sacks weighing total 138.500 kgs. poppy husk, sealed each sack with seal J, sample seal, four samples one kg sealed with seal J bearing three seals on each sample, NCB form in triplicate. He reasealed the sacks Ext. P-1 to P-4 with seal impression K. Thereafter, the case property was handed over to MHC of PS Harolli.

16. PW-12 Const. Gurmail Singh, has taken the contraband to FSL Junga and returned RC to MHC Vipan Kumar on 20.1.2011.

17. PW-13 Const. Jasbir Singh, deposed that on 1.3.2011, MHC Vipan Kumar handed over to him four sealed parcels sealed with court seal (SJ), vide RC No. 62/2011.

The parcels were marked as S-1 to S-4 weighing 500 gms each which he deposited at FSL Junga the same day and returned RC to the MHC.

18. PW-14 HC Vipan Kumar, deposed that on 16.1.2011, SI Baldev Ram, SHO, PS Haroli deposited with him four plastic sacks Ext. P-1 to P-4 sealed with one seal J, resealed with one seal K, marked as B-1 to B-4, containing poppy husk. He entered the case property vide entry No. 507/11 in register No. 19 of Malkhana, Haroli. He filled in the NCB forms in triplicate. The samples alongwith the sample seals J and K, NCB forms in triplicate were sent to FSL, Junga vide RC No. 12/2011 dated 18.1.2011 through Const. Gurmail Singh. He proved copy of register No. 19 as Ext. PW-14/B. On 26.2.2011, four sacks of poppy husk were taken out alongwith the sample seals J and K by SI/SHO Shakti Singh for inventory and produced before the learned JMIC, Court No. 2, Una. The same day, four sacks and four homogeneous samples mark S-1 to S-4 sealed with court seal, alongwith sample seals J and K and sample seal of Court were again deposited with him in the malkhana by SHO. On 1.3.2011, homogeneous samples taken by the Court were sent to chemical test vide RC No. 62/2011 to FSL, Junga through Const. Jasbir Singh. On 11.3.2011, homogeneous samples sent to FSL Junga were received back through HHC Dharam Pal No. 314 alongwith the result. The result Ext. PW-14/E was given to SHO. He admitted in his cross-examination that there was no entry in register about date and returning RC to him. Volunteered that such entries are often made in DDR Register as per procedure. The first result was received on 26.1.2011 and only NCB form was received with result. He admitted that DDR No. are not mentioned when samples are sent to FSL. Volunteered that at the time of sending sample to FSL, separate RC is issued. He also admitted that as per record, number of impression of FSL seals is not mentioned. The entry regarding DD No. 22 dated 26.2.2011 mentioned in the register did not depict time. The case property was taken out of malkhana with the order of SHO, who may be having such order.

19. PW-15 Yajuvender Singh, JMIC, Court No. 2, Una, deposed that on 26.2.2011, SHO PS Haroli Shakti Singh Pathania moved an application Ext. PW-15/A in case FIR No. 16/2011 under Section 52 of the ND & PS Act, seeking certification of inventory and for drawing representative samples. He allowed the application and order is Ext. PW-15/B and certificate is Ext. PW-15/D.

20. PW-20 HC Sanjay Kumar, deposed that he went towards the area of PS Haroli in his private car in connection with detection of ND & PS Act and excise cases. At about 4:10 AM, on 16.1.2011, he reached at Tahliwal Haroli mod. He received secret information that accused Hardeep Singh was indulging in the sale of poppy husk and on that date he had gone to Hoshiarpur (Punjab) in his private vehicle PB-08W-4849, to bring it. He used to go by road Bhai ka mod to Pakwah road to bring the contraband. He came to the conclusion that if naka is laid at Nichla road, accused could be caught red handed. The secret information was well founded and trustworthy. He was going to PS Haroli when SI Shakti Singh Pathania met him at village Palakwah near Nichla Mod. He got recorded his statement u/s 154 Cr.P.C. vide Ext. PW-7/A. Naka was laid down. HC Santosh Kumar was sent by SHO to arrange for independent witnesses of the village. On the asking of SHO this witness told him that he could not arrange the witnesses. In the meanwhile a vehicle came from Bhaida mod side towards Palkwah. SHO signaled that vehicle to stop with the help of torch light. Driver stopped the vehicle. The accused was asked whether he wanted his vehicle to be searched by Magistrate or Gazetted Officer. Accused gave in writing his willingness to get his vehicle searched by the police officer. The President of Gram Panchayat Palkwah was called on the spot. Another witness Sandeep Kumar was also standing on the spot. The contraband was recovered. It was weighed. NCB forms were filled up. The sacks were marked as B-1 to B-4. Samples were marked as SB-1 to SB-4.

21. PW-21 SI Shakti Singh Pathania, testified the manner in which the vehicle was stopped, accused was nabbed and contraband was recovered. The sampling process was completed on the spot including filling up of NCB forms. He also moved application Ext. PW-15/A before the JMIC, Una under Section 52-A of the Act. Inventory was prepared. In his cross-examination, he deposed that naka was laid at about 5:10/5:20 AM.

22. The case of the prosecution, precisely is that naka was laid down. Accused came in his car. He was apprehended. He was asked about his right to be searched by the Gazetted Officer or Executive Magistrate. The contraband was recovered from the dicky. It was weighed. Sampling process was completed on the spot including filling up of NCB forms. The case property was sealed with seal 'J" and thereafter it was produced before the SI Baldev Kumar. He resealed the same vide P-1 to P-4 with seal impression "K". The case property was sent for chemical analysis. The parcel was taken by Gurmail Singh to FSL Junga on 18.1.2011 and thereafter by PW-13 Jasbir Singh on 1.3.2011.

23. The case of the prosecution has not been supported in entirety by PW-1 Satnam Singh, PW-2 Hira Devi and PW-3 Sandeep Kumar, though they have identified their signatures on the memos. The contraband was deposited by PW-11 SI Baldev Ram before the MHC, PS Haroli after resealing the same with seal impression "K". PW-14 HC Vipan Kumar, has proved copy of malkhana register Ext. PW-14/B. There is entry when the case property was deposited with him and it was sent for chemical analysis through Const. Gurmail Singh. There is entry about the receipt of first report of FSL. The samples were taken out vide DD No. 22 for making inventory by the JMIC, Una. It was received back as per the entry made in the malkhana register vide Ext. PW-14/B. These samples were sealed with the court seal. DD was also prepared. The case property was produced in the court at the time of recording the statement of PW-10 ASI Seva Singh. According to PW-10 ASI Seva Singh, seals J, K, FSL on parcels were intact, however, as per the Court observation in parcel SB-1 only three seals of FSL were intact and one broken. The parcel contained four intact seals. Two intact seals were having seal impression K and two seals were partly broken. Mark on two seals were not visible. Parcel SB-2 contained four intact seals of FSL and six other seals. The mark K was only visible in one seal. Parcel SB-3 contained three seals of FSL and six other seals. Two seals were containing visible seal impression of seal K and one seal impression J. Other seals were not visible. Parcel SB-4 contained four seals of FSL, another two seals of impression J and one seal of impression K.

24. The contraband was sent for chemical analysis on two occasions. One by Gurmail Singh and another through Jasbir Singh. The report of FSL was received as per Ext. PW-14/B. However, there is no corresponding entry when the contraband was taken out from the malkhana to be sent to FSL Junga second time, though the report is Ext. PW-14/E. The case property is required mandatorily to be produced before the Court. There is a detailed procedure, the manner in which the case property is to be taken out from the malkhana after making corresponding entry in malkhana register and also by preparing DDR. The case property is sent through Constable to be placed before the Court. Similarly, the case property after its production in the Court is received back and entered in the malkhana by preparing separate DDR. In case the case property has been taken out from the malkhana, it was produced in the Court, there should have been the entry in the malkhana register when it was taken out and when it was re-deposited. The person who has produced the contraband in the Court has not been produced. There is neither any entry in the malkhana register nor any DDR to this effect has been prepared. Thus, it cannot be said conclusively that it was the same case property which was recovered from the accused and sent for FSL examination twice and produced before the Court. Moreover, the case of the prosecution has also not been supported by the independent witnesses. PW-2 Heera Devi has denied that the dicky was opened in her presence and four plastic sacks were recovered. She has denied that the police weighed the contraband. She has also denied that the sampling and sealing process was completed on the spot including filling up of NCB forms. There is breach of mandatory provisions regarding deposit and re-deposit of the contraband in the malkhana register at the time of production and when it is sent back to malkhana.

25. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in a recent decision in the case of Makhan Singh vrs. State of Haryana, reported in JT 2015 (4) SC 222, have held that it is well settled that conviction can be based solely on the testimony of official witnesses, condition precedent is that the evidence of such official witnesses must inspire confidence. In that case, it was not as if independent witnesses were not available. Independent witness PW1 and another independent witness examined as DW-2 had spoken in one voice that the accused person was taken from his residence. In such circumstances, their lordships have held that the High Court ought not to have overlooked the testimony of independent witnesses, especially when it casts doubt on the recovery and the genuineness of the prosecution version. Their lordships have held as under:

> "10. For recording the conviction, the Sessions Court as well as the High Court mainly relied on the testimony of official witnesses who made the recovery, i.e. H.C. Suraj Mal-PW2 and Inspector Raghbir Singh-PW6, and found them sufficiently strengthening the recovery of the possession from the appellant. In our considered view, the manner in which the alleged recovery has been made does not inspire confidence and undue credence has been given to the testimony of official witnesses, who are generally interested in securing the conviction. In peculiar circumstances of the case, it may not be possible to find out independent witnesses at all places at all times. Independent witnesses who live in the same village or nearby villages of the accused are at times afraid to come and depose in favour of the prosecution. Though it is well-settled that a conviction can be based solely on the testimony of official witnesses, condition precedent is that the evidence of such official witnesses must inspire confidence. In the present case, it is not as if independent witnesses were not available. Independent witnesses PW1 and another independent witness examined as DW2 has spoken in one voice that the accused person was taken from his residence. In such circumstances, in our view, the High Court ought not to have overlooked the testimony of independent witnesses, especially when it casts doubt on the recovery and the genuineness of the prosecution version."

26. The prosecution has failed to prove that the contraband was recovered from the exclusive and conscious possession of the accused. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove the case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt for the commission of offence under Section 15 of the N.D & P.S., Act.

27. Accordingly, in view of the analysis and discussion made hereinabove, the appeal is allowed. Judgment of conviction and sentence dated 16.7.2012, rendered by the learned Special Judge, FTC, Una, H.P., in Sessions Case No. 12-VII of 2011, is set aside. Accused is acquitted of the charges framed against him by giving him benefit of doubt. Fine amount, if any, already deposited by the accused is ordered to be refunded to him. Since the accused is in jail, he be released forthwith, if not required in any other case.

28. The Registry is directed to prepare the release warrant of the accused and send the same to the Superintendent of Jail concerned, in conformity with this judgment forthwith.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Tripta Devi widow of Shri Jagdish & others. ....Appellants/Defendants

Versus

Krishan Chand (died) through LRs. Kadshi Devi and others ......Respondents/Plaintiffs.

RSA No. 235 of 2003
Order reserved on 30th April, 2015
Date of order of limited remand 13th May, 2015

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 22- Plaintiff No. 1 died during the pendency of the suit- no application was filed for bringing on record his legal representatives – however, the suit has been filed by many plaintiffs- plaintiff No. 8 was recorded to be owner of 1/3rd share- therefore, cause of action relating to plaintiff No. 8 was severable and the suit will abate qua him and not in its entirety. (Para-11)

Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act 1956- Section 12– An adopted son gets transplanted into adoptive family with the same right as a natural born son, however, he continues to have his share in the coparcenary property of his natural father as he had acquired share in the property at the time of birth and would not be divested by subsequent adoption. (Para-13)

Cases referred:

Budh Ram and others vs. Bansi and others, 2010)11 SCC 476
Daya Singh and another vs. Gurdev Singh (dead) by LRs and others, (2010)2 SCC 194

For the Appellants: Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. G.D. Verma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge.

Order of limited remand under Section 107 of CPC

Regular Second Appeal is filed under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 by the appellants against the judgment and decree dated 31.3.2003 passed by learned Additional District Judge Solan in Civil Appeal No. 63-NL/13 of 1996 titled Tripta Devi and others vs. Krishan Chand and others.

2. Brief facts of the case as pleaded are that Sita Ram and others filed a suit for declaration with consequential relief of injunction pleaded therein that Majlashi predecessor-in-interest of parties had four sons namely Kali Dass, Shivia, Mansha Ram and Manu. It is pleaded that Manu had three sons namely Lajjya Ram @ Lajjya, Jhaiyan and Basu. It is pleaded that Mansha Ram had no issue and he was survived by his widow namely Phullman. It is pleaded that Shivia had two sons namely Ganu and Ganeshu. It is further pleaded that Kali Dass and his brothers were Hindu Brahmins and Kali Dass had adopted Basu as his son and Basu transplanted in the family of Kali Dass. It is pleaded that Phullman Devi widow of Mansha Ram was owner of land measuring 26 bighas 16 biswas and she died intestate leaving behind no legal heirs and after her death dispute arose between Lajjya Ram @ Lajjya, Jhaiyan and Basu on one hand and Ganu and Ganeshu sons of Shivia on the other hand. It is pleaded that thereafter Lajjya Ram @ Lajjya and others filed civil suit No. 41 titled Lajjya and others vs. Ganeshu and others in the Court of Civil Judge and civil suit No. 41 was decreed whereby $1/3^{rd}$ share of estate of Phullman was mutated as per decree of Civil Court. It is pleaded that Basu was adopted by Kali Dass and he had no right title or interest in the estate of natural father Mr. Manu because Basu stood transplanted in the family of Kali Dass. It is pleaded that name of Basu was illegally recorded in the revenue record as legal heir of Manu. It is pleaded that Basu always represented himself to be adopted son of Kali Dass. It is pleaded that only Lajjya Ram @ Lajjya and Jhaiyan were legal heirs of estate of deceased Manu. It is pleaded that in case Lajjya Ram @ Lajjya and Jhaiyan predecessor-in-interest of plaintiffs are not held or proved to be only legal heirs of Manu and if Basu is not held to be adopted son of Kali Dass even then they have acquired the right of adverse possession qua share of Basu openly, continuously and uninterruptedly since 20.9.1979 BK. It is pleaded that consolidation proceedings started in the village and deceased defendant illegally claimed $1/3^{rd}$ share in suit land on the basis of wrong and illegal revenue entries. It is pleaded that deceased defendant could not claim $1/3^{rd}$ share in the suit land. It is pleaded that question of title was raised before consolidation officer for not effecting the partition of suit land on the basis of illegal revenue entries in revenue record. It is pleaded that plaintiff also requested the deceased defendant to admit the claim of plaintiffs but deceased defendant refused to admit the claim of plaintiff. Prayer for decree the suit as mentioned in relief clause of plaint sought.

3. Per contra written statement filed on behalf of deceased defendant pleaded therein that suit is barred by time and plaintiffs are estopped to file the present suit due to their act conduct and acquiescence. It is pleaded that suit is barred by res-judicata and suit of plaintiffs is not maintainable and plaintiffs have no locus standi and cause of action to file the present suit. It is admitted that Manu had three sons namely Lajjya Ram @ Lajja, Jhaiyan and Basu. It is also admitted that Mansha Ram had no son and he was survived by his widow Phullma and Shivia had two sons namely Ganu and Ganeshu. It is also admitted that Kali Dass and his brothers are Brahmins. It is denied that Kali Dass had adopted Basu as his son. It is pleaded that transplantation of Basu in the family of Kali Dass does not arise. It is pleaded that Manu was father of Basu. It is pleaded that from Basu Swanu was born and from Swanu deceased defendant was born. It is pleaded that deceased defendant has inherited the suit property to the extent of his share in accordance with law. It is pleaded that civil suit No. 196 was decided on dated 7.10.1989 BK filed by predecessors-in-interest of deceased defendant against Puran, Lajjaya Ram, and Sita Ram etc and same was decreed in favour of Swanu and thereafter share of Kali Dass went to Swanu. It is pleaded that Kali Dass also executed gift deed qua his share in the name of predecessors-in-interest of deceased defendant. It is pleaded that Basu was not adopted by Kali Dass at any point of time. It is pleaded that Basu had legally inherited the share of Manu along with Lajjya Ram and Jhaiyan. It is pleaded that suit property was devolved upon Swanu Ram and from Swanu it was devolved upon Jagdish deceased defendant. It is pleaded that after death of Manu his all three sons namely Lajjya Ram, Jhaiyan and Basu have inherited the suit property to the extent of 1/3rd share each and further pleaded that plaintiffs did not acquire the title in suit property by way of right of adverse possession. It is pleaded that plaintiffs could not challenge the entries of 80 years old revenue record and further pleaded that contesting deceased defendant was legally entitled to file partition proceedings before consolidation officer and contesting deceased defendant was also legally entitled to get his share separated from the plaintiffs. Prayer for dismissal of suit sought.

4. Plaintiffs also filed replication and re-asserted the allegations mentioned in plaint. As per the pleadings of parties learned trial Court framed following issues on dated 25.8.1992:-

1. Whether Kali Dass formerly adopted one Basu as his son as alleged if so its effect? OPP
2. Whether Shri Manu the predecessor-in-interest of plaintiffs was owner in possession of the land in lieu of which suit land was earmarked and carved out in consequence of first settlement as alleged? OPP
3. Whether there were any decree dated 26.9.1989 B.K. passed in civil suit No. 41 titled Lajja Ram and others vs. Ganeshu and others whereby 1/3rd share of estate of Phullmu (26bighas and 16 biswas) was mutated having been inherited by aforesaid Basu, as alleged? .....OPP
4. Whether entries in the revenue record qua the suit land previously showing Basu and thereafter the successor Sawanu and presently Jagdish were and are null and void as alleged in para No. 7 of the plaint? OPP
5. Whether Lajja Ram and Jhaiyan the predecessors of plaintiffs being the only heirs of Manu exclusively entered into possession of the whole estate of Manu as alleged? OPP
6. In case issue No. 5 is not proved in affirmative whether the plaintiffs have become owners in possession of 1/3rd share of the suit land by way of adverse possession through their predecessors as alleged? OPP
7. Whether suit is barred by limitation as alleged ?OPD
8. Whether plaintiffs are estopped to file the suit for their act and conduct as alleged? OPD
9. Whether suit is barred by res judicata, as alleged? OPD
10. Whether suit is not maintainable as alleged? OPD
11 Whether plaintiffs have no locus standi to file the suit, as alleged? OPD
12 Whether plaintiffs have no cause of action, as alleged? OPD
13 Whether plaintiffs have not affixed the proper court fee, as alleged? OPD
14 Relief.

5. Learned trial Court decided issue Nos. 1 to 5 in favour of the plaintiffs. Learned trial Court held issue No. 6 as redundant and learned trial Court decided issue Nos. 7 to 13 against contesting deceased defendant. Learned trial Court decreed the suit and also granted consequential relief of injunction as prayed for in favour of plaintiffs and against contesting deceased defendant Jagdish.

6. Feeling aggrieved against the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court Tripta Devi and others (Legal heirs of deceased contesting defendant) filed Civil Appeal

No. 63-NL/13 of 1996 titled Tripata Devi and others vs. Krishan Chand and others. Learned Additional District Judge on dated 31.3.2003 dismissed the appeal filed by appellants.

7. Thereafter feeling aggrieved against the judgment and decree passed by learned first Appellate Court in Civil Appeal No. 63-NL-13 of 1996 Tripata Devi and others (Legal representatives of deceased contesting defendant) filed RSA No. 235 of 2003 which was admitted by Hon'ble High Court on dated 22.8.2003 on the following substantial question of law:-

1. Whether learned lower Appellate Court is right in not recording any findings with respect to the question of abatement of a suit as a whole especially when one of the plaintiff had died during the pendency of the appeal before the learned lower Appellate Court?

Court take judicial notice of pleadings and oral and documentary evidence placed on record and framed additional substantial question of law under proviso of Section 100 of Code of Civil Procedure 1908 because Court is satisfied that RSA involves additional substantial question of law:-

(2) Whether adopted son could inherit coparcenary property of natural father as per Section 12(b) of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act 1956?

8. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of parties and also perused the entire record carefully.

9. Parties examined following oral witnesses in supported of their case:-

Sr. No.	Name of witness
PW1	Bansi Ram
PW2	Madan Lal
PW3	Chet Ram
PW4	Chajju Ram
PW5	Devi Ram
PW6	Dwarka
PW7	Sunder Singh
PW8	Chhotu Ram
DW1	Jagdish

10. Oral evidence adduced by the parties:-

10.1 PW1 Bansi Ram has stated that Moti was his father and he died 54 years ago. He has stated that he has seen the suit property and further stated that Sita Ram had cultivated the suit land. He has stated that Sita Ram etc. are in settled possession of suit property and deceased defendant did not possess the suit land at any point of time. He has stated that his village is situated at a distance of ½ K.m. from suit property. He has admitted that Sita Ram and deceased Jagdish belonged to same family. He has stated that Sita Ram is in possession of his own land and deceased Jagdish was in possession of his own land. He has denied suggestion that he has deposed falsely at the instance of plaintiffs.

10.2 PW2 Madan Lal has stated that Fakiriya was his great grandfather who had died and he has further stated that his father had also died. He has stated that he has seen the suit property and same is in possession of Sita Ram and further stated that deceased

Jagdish did not remain in possession of suit property. He has admitted that parties are Hindu by religion and belong to same family. He has stated that he does not know whether partition took place inter se the parties or not. He has admitted that Sita Ram and deceased Jagdish remained in settled possession of property as per their shares.

10.3 PW3 Chet Ram has stated that his maternal grandfather Ganga Ram had died who was resident of Dhar village.

10.4 PW4 Chajju record keeper, record room Nalagarh has tendered the record.

10.5 PW5 Devi Lal has stated that he had seen the suit property. He has stated that Sita Ram is in settled possession of suit land and deceased defendant Jagdish did not remain in possession of suit land. He has stated that Girdawari is conducted which is verified by Tehsildar and he has further stated that no objection was raised relating to preparation of jamabandis and Girdawari. He has stated that he does not know that deceased Jagdish remained co-owner of suit property.

10.6 PW6 Dwarka has stated that he had seen the suit property and further stated that Majlashi was owner of suit property. He has stated that Majlashi was Hindu by religion and was having four sons namely Kali Dass, Shivia, Mansha Ram and Manu. He has stated that Manu had three sons namely Lajjya Ram, Jhaiyan and Basu. He has stated that Basu was adopted by Kali Dass and further stated that factum of adoption was informed to him by Ganu and Ganeshu. He has stated that after adoption of Basu by Kali Dass the title of Basu extinguished in the share of his natural father Manu. He has stated that Phulma was widow of Mansha Ram. He has stated that civil suit relating to share of Pulma was filed. He has stated that share of Kali Dass was inherited by Basu on the basis of adoption. He has stated that share of Manu remained in possession of plaintiffs and further stated that deceased defendant Jagdish did not inherit rights over the share of Manu. He has stated that he does not know that how the property of Manu was devolved after his death. He has stated that no objection relating to preparation of revenue record was raised. He has stated that Basu, Lajjya and Jhaiyan used to live jointly earlier and thereafter Basu separated himself. He has stated that Kali Dass had died prior to his birth. He has stated that he could not state the date and month when Basu was adopted by Kali Dass. He has admitted that Khasra Girdawari and jamabandis are prepared after verification by Tehsildar. He has stated that no objection was raised relating to preparation of revenue record.

10.7 PW7 Sunder Singh has stated that he had translated the documents in Hindu language which are Ext.PW7/A-1, Ext.PW7/B-1, Ext.PW7/C-1, Ext.PW7/D-1, Ext.PW7/E-1, Ext.PW7/F-1, Ext.PW7/G-1, Ext.PW7/H-1, Ext.PW7/J-1, Ext.PW7/K-1, Ext.PW7/L-1 & Ext.PW7/M-1 correctly. He has stated that he has translated the documents as per direction of Krishan. He has stated that documents Ext.PW7/A-1 to Ext.PW7/M-1 have been prepared from revenue record.

10.8 PW8 Chhotu Ram has stated that he is general attorney of Sita Ram copy of which is Ext.PW8/A. He has stated that Majlashi was ancestor of the parties. He has stated that parties are Hindu Brahmins by religion. He has stated that Majlashi had four sons namely Kali Dass, Shivia, Mansha Ram and Manu. He has stated that Mansha Ram had no issue and Phullma was his widow. He has stated that Manu had three sons namely Lajjya, Jhaiyan and Basu and Shivia had two sons namely Ganu and Ganeshu and further stated that Kali Dass was issueless and he adopted Basu as his adopted son. He has stated that Manu and his wife had given Basu in adoption to Kali Dass according to religious customs.

He has stated that thereafter Basu became the adopted son of Kali Dass. He has stated that after the death of Phullma civil litigation started which was decided on dated 29.9.1989. He has stated that contesting deceased defendant Jagdish was wrongly recorded in revenue record and he did not remain in possession of suit property. He has stated that entries of contesting deceased defendant Jagdish to the extent of 1/3rd share was illegally recorded in revenue record. He has stated that Jagdish threatened to dispossess the plaintiffs and thereafter plaintiffs filed the present suit. He has stated that his father remained sick for a long time. He has stated that after death of Majlashi his property was devolved between Manu, Shivia, Mansha Ram and Kali Dass. He has stated that he had not seen Manu, Shivia and Kali Dass. He has stated that initially they used to reside jointly and thereafter they separated. He has stated that he does not know when they separated. He has stated that he does not know when Manu had died. He has stated that property of Manu was devolved upon Lajjya and Jhaiyan. He has stated that Lajjya and Jhaiyan did not file any suit against Basu. He has stated that after death of Manu his property was devolved upon his legal heirs. He has stated that property of Shivia was devolved upon Ganu and Ganeshu and property of Mansha Ram was devolved upon Phullma. He has stated that he does not know when Kali Dass died. He has stated that no document of adoption of Basu was prepared. He has stated that property of Kali Dass was devolved upon Basu. He has admitted that Lajjya, Jhaiyan, Ganu, Ganeshu, Basu have inherited the ancestral property. He has stated that no objection was raised when Girdawari was prepared. He has stated that suit property has not been partitioned and remained joint property.

10.9 DW1 Jagdish has stated that Manu was son of Majlashi. He has stated that Manu had three sons namely Lajjya, Jhaiyan and Basu. He has stated that property of Manu was devolved upon his three sons namely Lajjya, Jhaiyan and Basu. He has stated that thereafter share of Basu was devolved upon Sawanu and thereafter share of Sawanu was devolved upon deceased defendant Jagdish. He has stated that Sita Ram and Asha Ram were born from Jhaiyan. He has stated that Basu had inherited 1/3rd share of Manu. He has stated that he is in settled possession of suit property as co-sharer. He has stated that share of Kali Dass was devolved upon Basu on the basis of gift deed. He has stated that Ganu and Ganeshu have filed a suit against Kali Dass and Basu had died during pendency of civil suit. He has stated that Basu was his great grandfather. He has stated that parties are Hindu Brahmins by religion and Lajjya and Jhaiyan and Basu are three sons of Manu. He has stated that he does not know whether Phullma was widow of Mansha Ram. He has stated that he does not know that Ganu and Ganeshu were sons of Shivia. He has denied suggestion that Basu was adopted by Kali Dass according to religious customs. He has denied suggestion that Basu was adopted son of Kali Dass. He has denied suggestion that Basu had inherited the property of Kali Dass as adoptee son. He has stated that property of Kali Dass was inherited by Basu on the basis of gift deed. He has denied suggestion that Basu was not legally entitled to inherit share of Manu because he was transplanted in the family of Kali Dass as adoptee son. He has denied suggestion that defendants are not in settled possession of suit property and further denied suggestion that wrong revenue record was prepared.

Findings on Point Nos. 1 and 2 of Substantial questions of law

11. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellants that co-plaintiff No. 8 Brahma Nand son of Phipharu son of Lajjya Ram died during the pendency of appeal and his legal representatives were not brought on record and suit filed by plaintiffs be abated as a whole due to death of Brahma Nand co-plaintiff No. 8 is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that on dated

13.12.1996 Tripta Devi filed application under Order 22 Rule 4 read with Rule 9 of CPC for dismissing the suit on the ground of abatement. Tripta Devi pleaded in application that Process Server reported that plaintiff Brahma Nand co-plaintiff No. 8 was dead at the time of passing the decree and during the continuation of trial the other co-plaintiffs did not file any application under Order 22 Rule 3 CPC to implead his LRs and proceedings in the trial Court continued against a dead person and decree was passed by learned trial Court against a dead person which is nullity in law. It is also proved on record that thereafter reply was filed on behalf of contesting plaintiffs and it is admitted that Brahma Nand co-plaintiff died. It is pleaded that Brahma Nand had joined the company of saint on account of religious feelings and his whereabouts were not known to contesting plaintiffs. It is pleaded that share of Brahma Nand co-plaintiff No. 8 was severable and it is denied that contesting plaintiffs have no independent and distinct cause of action to maintain and continue the suit. It is also proved on record that thereafter learned first Appellate Court on dated 16.10.1997 framed following issues:-

1. Whether suit has abated due to death of Shri Brahma Nand plaintiff No. 8 as alleged? …OPA
2. Whether Shri Brahma Nand had become Saint renounced the world as alleged, if so its effect?OPA

   ….Corrected as Non-OPA(Corrected by High Court suo motu being clerical mistake in nature).
3. Relief.

It is also proved on record that thereafter first Appellate Court recorded the statement of Ramesh Kumar and Chhotu Ram. It is also proved on record that on dated 19.5.2000 Shri Kashmiri Lal learned Advocate appeared on behalf of respondents/plaintiffs had stated in Court that he relinquished the claim qua share of deceased Brahma Nand and he has also given the statement that qua share of Brahma Nand suit be abated. It is also proved on record that thereafter Shri H.R. Sharma Advocate who appeared on behalf of the appellants/defendants has also given statement on dated 19.5.2000 that he heard statement of Shri Kashmiri Lal Advocate and same is correct and according to statement given by Shri Kashmiri Lal Advocate application filed under Order 22 Rule 4 be decided. It is also proved on record that thereafter learned first Appellate Court passed a consent order on dated 19.5.2000 which is quoted in toto:-

"19.5.2000

Present:- Sh. H.R. Sharma, Ld. Adv. for appellants.

Sh. Kashmiri Lal, Ld. Adv.for respondents.

At this stage, learned counsel for respondents-plaintiffs stated at Bar that he abandoned the claim of share of plaintiff Brahma Nand. Learned counsel for appellants has admitted the statement of Sh. Kashmiri Lal, Advocate. Separate statements of learned counsel for both the parties to this effect recorded which are placed on record. In view of above statements of learned counsel for the parties, it is ordered that the suit qua the share of plaintiff Brahma Nand son of Sh. Phipharu is abated. Argument in the main appeal heard today. Now it be listed for final orders at Solan on 30.5.2000.

Sd/-

Addl.District Judge, Solan
Camp at Nalagarh."

It is proved on record that learned Appellate Court in view of statements of learned Advocates abated the suit qua share of Brahma Nand only. Court has also perused latest jamabandi for the year 1992-93 Ext.P8 placed on record qua the suit property. In jamabandi for the year 1992-93 it has been specifically mentioned that Brahma Nand was recorded as owner of 1/3rd share, Sita Ram was recorded as owner of 1/3rd share and Jagdish was recorded as owner of 1/3rd share in the suit property. It is proved on record that shares of Brahma Nand, Sita Ram and Jagdish have been specifically defined. In view of the fact that shares of Brahma Nand, Sita Ram& Jagdish have been separately mentioned as 1/3rd each and in view of the fact that cause of action relating to Brahma Nand is severable hence it is held that learned first Appellate Court has rightly abated the suit qua share of Brahma Nand only as per statements of learned Advocates. It is well settled law that abatement depends upon facts and circumstances of an individual case. It is well settled law that where one of the parties has an independent and distinct right of his own not interdependent upon one or other then appeal would be abated only qua the deceased. (See (2010)11 SCC 476 titled Budh Ram and others vs. Bansi and others) Hence in present case Brahma Nand, Sita Ram and Jagdish have independent and distinct rights of their own in suit property and right of deceased Brahma Nand was not interdependent upon Sita Ram and Jagdish. It is held that Brahma Nand was having independent ownership right of 1/3rd share in the suit property.

12. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellants that present suit is barred by limitation because plaintiffs have challenged the revenue record which is in existence for long period is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that plaintiffs have filed the present suit when deceased defendant threatened to dispossess the plaintiff from suit land during consolidation operation and when deceased defendant filed application for partition of suit land before consolidation authorities. It is held that cause of action accrued to the plaintiffs to file the present suit when deceased defendant moved the consolidation authorities for partition of suit land. It is held that cause of action accrued to plaintiffs to file the present suit when deceased defendant namely Jagdish filed partition proceedings before the consolidation authorities and when deceased defendant threatened to dispossess the plaintiffs from suit land. It is well settled law that limitation starts from date of cause of action. (See (2010)2 SCC 194 titled Daya Singh and another vs. Gurdev Singh (dead) by LRs and others)

13. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellants that in para No. 5 of written statement it was pleaded by deceased defendant in positive manner that suit property was inherited by Lajjya Ram, Jhaiyan and Basu from Manu and Manu had inherited the property from Majlashi and suit land is coparcenary property and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellants further submitted that in coparcenary property person has right by birth and even after adoption the adoptee son could not be divested his interest in coparcenary property of natural father as per Section 12 of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act 1956 is accepted for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that on adoption adoptee gets transplanted into adopting family with the same right as that of natural born son. It is well settled law that after adoption adoptee is deemed to be child of adoptive father and mother for all purposes with effect from the date of adoption. It is also well settled law that adopted son continued to have his share in coparcenary property of his natural father and it is well settled law that on adoption the adopted son is not divested from his share in the coparcenary property of his natural father. It is well settled law that share of adopted son in coparcenary property continued to vest in favour of the adopted son even after adoption. As per Section 12 of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act 1956 any property which vested in the adopted child before adoption shall continue to vest in such person subject to obligation if any attaching to the ownership of such property including the obligation to maintain relatives in the family of his birth. It is well settled law that person acquired share in the coparcenary property by birth in the natural family. Hence it is held that share of adopted son in coparcenary property could not be divested after adoption in view of Section 12 of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act 1956. Section 12 of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act 1956 is quoted in toto:-

> "12.Effects of adoption-An adopted child shall be deemd to be the child of his or her adoptive father or mother for all purposes with effect from the date of the adoption and from such date all the ties of the child in the family of his or her birth shall be deemed to be severed and replaced by those created by the adoption in the adoptive family:
>
> Provided that-
>
> (a) the child cannot marry any person whom he or she could not have married if he or she had continued in the family of his or her birth;
>
> (b) any property which vested in the adopted child before the adoption shall continue to vest in such person subject to the obligations, if any, attaching to the ownership of such property, including the obligation to maintain relatives in the family of his or her birth;
>
> (c) the adopted child shall not divest any person of any estate which vested in him or her before the adoption."

14. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the respondents that learned trial Court and learned first Appellate Court have held that Basu was adopted by Kali Dass and his relations in natural family were severed and Basu was not legally entitled to inherit the property from Manu because he was already adopted by Kali Dass and in view of concurrent findings of adoption by learned trial Court appeal filed by appellants be dismissed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is held that learned trial Court and learned first Appellate Court have not decided the material issue involved inter se the parties whether Basu was legally entitled to inherit the coparcenary property owned by Manu. Even learned trial Court did not frame any issue whether suit property was coparcenary property between Lajjya Ram, Jhaiyan and Basu despite specific pleading in written statement that suit property was initially owned by Majlashi and thereafter same was inherited by Kali Dass, Shivia, Mansha Ram and and Manu and thereafter share of Manu was inherited by Lajjya Ram, Jhaiyan and Basu in equal shares. It is well settled law that under Order XIV Rule 5 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 Court can at any time before passing of decree could amend the issue or frame the additional issue as it deems fit for determining the matter in controversy between the parties. It is held that framing of additional issue is necessary for determining the controversy between the parties as per provisions of Order XIV Rule 5 of Code of Civil Procedure 1908. In view of above stated facts following additional issue No. 13A is framed by High Court in order to decide the case properly and effectively and in order to impart substantial justice inter se the parties and in the ends of justice.

Additional Issue No. 13-A framed by High Court of H.P.

13A. Whether suit land was coparcenary property between Lajjya Ram, Jhaiyan and Basu and whether Basu had inherited the coparcenary property by birth and whether right of Basu did not divest in coparcenary property as per Section 12 of Hindu Adoption and Maintenance Act 1956 even after adoption by Kali Dass? OPD

15. In view of above stated facts judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court and affirmed by learned first Appellate Court are reversed and case is remanded back to learned trial Court under Section 107 of Code of Civil Procedure 1908 for limited purpose only. It is held that limited retrial is necessary in the ends of justice. Learned trial Court will re-admit the suit under its original number in the register of civil suits. Observations will not effect merits of case in any manner. Learned trial Court after giving due opportunity to both the parties to lead evidence in support of additional issue No. 13-A framed by High Court will decide the case afresh in accordance with law within two months after receiving the file because present civil suit is pending since 1990 and require expeditious disposal. Evidence recorded during original trial shall subject to all just exceptions be evidence during trial after remand. Observations will not effect merits of case in any manner. Parties are left to bear their own costs. Memo of costs be prepared by the Registrar (Judicial) and thereafter file of learned trial Court and file of learned first Appellate Court along with certified copy of this order and memo of costs will be transmitted forthwith. Appeal stands disposed of. Pending application(s) if any also stands disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Kamal Dev Verma son of Sh. R.C.Verma & others ....Petitioners
Versus
H.P. University & others ....Non-petitioners

CWP No. 5767 of 2014
Order Reserved on 8th May 2015
Date of Order 14th May, 2015

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner pleaded that more than 50% of the paper was out of syllabus –Registrar, H.P. University submitted a report that some questions were out of syllabus- held, that students should not suffer for the fault of the university- University directed to award marks regarding the questions set out of syllabus to the students. (Para-5 to 7)

For the Petitioner: Mr. Suneet Goel, Advocate.
For Non-petitioners 1,3 and 4: Mr. J.L. Bhardwaj, Advocate.
For Non-petitioner No.2: Mr. M.L. Chauhan, Additional Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge

Present civil writ petition is filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India pleaded therein that on dated 22.4.2014 examination of BCA 3rd year Database Management System (BCA 303) paper was held. It is pleaded that question paper was not in conformity with the prescribed syllabus and questions having 64 marks were out of prescribed syllabus. It is pleaded that more than 50% of the question paper was out of prescribed syllabus. It is further pleaded that petitioner immediately filed a complaint with regard to the aforesaid act with the request to look into the matter and factum of 50% of question paper being out of syllabus was admitted by Principals of various colleges as per the report. It is pleaded that petitioners among other students represented to respondent No. 3 to award them appropriate grace marks in order to enable them to take admission in MCA course. It is pleaded that matter was also taken up with Vice Chancellor of H.P. University with request to award grace marks as they were not able to attempt more than 50% questions which were out of prescribed syllabus and further pleaded that thereafter decision was taken to give five percent grace marks to students and thereafter H.P. University declared the result after giving five percent grace marks to students. It is pleaded that due to acts of omission and commission on the part of respondents the career of petitioners is at stake and entire year would be wasted. Prayer for acceptance of writ petition sought.

2. Per contra response filed on behalf of non-petitioners Nos. 1, 3 and 4 pleaded therein that on receipt of complaint the concerned Chairman was requested to look into the complaint and submitted his comments/recommendations in the matter. It is pleaded that papers setter was also requested to give his comments. It is pleaded that in the meantime decision was taken not to declare the result and University received the reply from paper setter on dated 4.6.2014 wherein it was stated that no question was set out of syllabus. It is pleaded that Chairman of the department pointed out that few questions were out of syllabus and he opined that five percent grace marks be given to students. It is pleaded that out of 1485 students 1184 students have cleared the paper of BCA-303 (Data Base Management System) and maximum marks obtained by candidates were 70 out of 80. It is pleaded that opinion given by Chairman to award five percent grace marks was approved by Vice Chancellor of University on dated 24.7.2007 and consequently result was declared. It is pleaded that decision taken by Vice Chancellor of University was in consonance with recommendations submitted by Chairman of the department. It is pleaded that all petitioners have cleared all other papers except BCA-III year (Data Base Management System) held in April 2014. Prayer for dismissal of petition sought.

3. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioners and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-petitioners Nos. 1, 3 and 4 and learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the non-petitioner No.2 and Court also perused the entire record carefully.

4. Following points arise for determination in this civil writ petition:-

1. Whether petitioners are legally entitled for full marks in questions Nos. 3 and 4 of Unit II, question Nos. 7 and 8 of Unit IV and questions Nos. vii, viii, ix and x of Sub Paper of Unit V relating to examination of BCA III year (Database Management System) BCA-303?
2. Final Order.

Findings on point No.1

5. Submission of learned Advocate appearing for the petitioners that petitioners are students and their career is involved and they should not be suffered for their no fault is accepted for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. On dated 16.4.2015 Court directed the respondents to file an affidavit that how many percentages of questions were out of syllabus in order to dispose of the petition properly and effectively and to impart substantial justice inter se the parties. In compliance of order dated 16.4.2015 respondents filed affidavit placed on record. Respondents did not mention in affidavit how much percentage of questions were out of syllabus despite positive direction of Court and respondents have intentionally concealed the percentage of questions which were out of syllabus in affidavit. There is recital in affidavit filed by learned Registrar H.P. University that Chairman/Subject expert had submitted report that questions Nos. 3 and 4 of Unit II, questions Nos. 7 and 8 of Unit IV and questions Nos. vii, viii, ix and x of sub part of Unit V were out of syllabus. It is well settled law that question setter was under legal obligation to set questions in question paper strictly as per syllabus prescribed to students. Court is of the opinion that students cannot be allowed to suffer for fault of question paper setter.

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of respondents that five percent grace marks were given to students and on this ground civil writ petition filed by petitioners be dismissed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that decision to give five percent grace marks to students is not reasonable in view of the fact that respondents did not mention the percentage of questions which were out of syllabus and in view of admission of learned Registrar H.P. University in affidavit placed on record verified on dated 29th April 2015 that as per report of Chairman/subject expert questions Nos. 3 and 4 of Unit II, question Nos. 7 and 8 of Unit No. IV and questions Nos. vii, viii, ix and x of Sub part of Unit V were out of syllabus. It would be expedient in the ends of justice that full marks of these questions should be awarded to petitioners which were out of syllabus. Point No. 1 is decided accordingly.

Point No.2 (Final Order)

7. In view of findings on point No. 1 it is held that co-respondents Nos. 1, 3 and 4 will award whole marks to petitioners qua questions Nos. 3 and 4 of Unit II, questions Nos. 7 and 8 of Unit IV and questions Nos. vii, viii, ix and x of sub part of Unit V which were out of syllabus and thereafter co-respondents Nos. 1,3,4 and 5 will declare the result of petitioners forthwith. It is further ordered that if the petitioners would qualify the BCA 3rd year Course BCA-303 (Data Base Management System) then petitioners would be deemed to be admitted in MCA Course commencing as of today with all consequential legal benefits. Order passed in ends of justice keeping in view that petitioners are students and their future is involved. No order as to costs. Petition stands disposed of. All pending miscellaneous application(s) if any also stands disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANJAY KAROL, J. AND HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE P.S.RANA, J.

State of Himachal Pradesh. .....Appellant.
Vs.
Nomu Ram and others. ....Respondents.

Cr. Appeal No.483 of 2009.
Judgment reserved on: 5.5.2015
Date of Decision: May 14, 2015.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 and 201 read with Section 34- Marriage of the deceased was settled with the daughter of co-accused 'N'- deceased had given Rs. 50,000/- to 'N' as marriage consideration amount- the daughter of 'N' stayed with deceased at Kullu-Manali for about 10-12 days – 'N' brought back his daughter from Manali and got her married somewhere else- deceased use to demand money from 'N'- accused use to quarrel with deceased- deceased went to the house of 'N' for demanding money but did not return-his dead body was found in the water of a dam – accused were arrested- clothes and stick were recovered at their instance- Medical Officer opined that deceased could have died by infliction of injury with a stick- case of the prosecution is based upon circumstantial evidence- dead body was found in a dam and the possibility of the involvement of 3rd person could not be ruled out- co-accused had sustained injuries which were not explained by the prosecution, which means that prosecution has concealed the genesis of the incident-witnesses to the disclosure statement did not support the prosecution version- blood group of the blood detected on the clothes was not determined and, therefore, it is not sufficient to connect the accused with the commission of crime- suspicion howsoever strong cannot take place of proof – held, that in these circumstances, acquittal of the accused was justified.

Cases referred:
Prakash vs. State of Rajasthan (Apex Court DB), 2013 Cri.L.J. 2040
Sakharam Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1992 SC 2045
Ashish Batham Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 2002 SC 3206
Musheer Khan and another Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 2010 SC 762
State of Maharashtra Vs. Annappa Bandu Kavatage, AIR 1979 SC 1410
S.P.Bhatnagar and another Vs. The State of Maharashtra, AIR 1979 SC 826
Ashok Kumar Chatterjee Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1989 SC 1890
Sakharam Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, AIR 1992 SC 758
State of Maharashtra Vs. Champalal Punjaji Shah, AIR 1981 SC 1675
Dharm Das Wadhwani Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh, AIR 1975 SC 241
Bhagat Ram Vs. State of Punjab, AIR 1954 SC 621
Anjlus Dungdung Vs. State of Jharkhand, (2005) 9 SCC 765
Nanhar Vs. State of Haryana, (2010) 11 SCC 423
Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116
Charan Singh Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh, AIR 1967 SC 520
Gian Mahtani Vs. State of Maharashtra AIR 1971 SC 1898
State (Delhi Administration) Vs. Gulzarilal Tandon AIR 1979 SC 1382
Bhugdomal Gangaram and others Vs. The State of Gujarat, AIR 1983 SC 906
State of UP Vs. Sukhbasi and others, AIR 1985 SC 1224
Mookkiah and another Vs. State, (2013) 2 SCC 89
State of Rajashthan Vs. Talevar and another, 2011 (11) SCC 666
Surendra Vs. State of Rajasthan, AIR 2012 SC (Supp) 78
State of Rajasthan Vs. Shera Ram @ Vishnu Dutt, 2012 (1) SCC 602
Balak Ram and another Vs. State of UP, AIR 1974 SC 2165
Allarakha K. Mansuri Vs. State of Gujarat, (2002) 3 SCC 57
Raghunath Vs. State of Haryana, (2003) 1 SCC 398
State of U.P Vs. Ram Veer Singh and others, AIR 2007 SC 3075
S.Rama Krishna Vs. S. Rami Raddy (D) by his LRs. & others, (2008) 11 SCC 186
Sambhaji Hindurao Deshmukh and others Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2008 SC 2066,
Arulvelu and another Vs. State, (2009) 10 SCC 206

Perla Somasekhara Reddy and others Vs. State of A.P., (2009) 16 SCC 98
Ram Singh @ Chhaju Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2010) 2 SCC 445

For the appellant: Mr. Ashok Chaudhary and Mr.V.S.Chauhan, Addl. Advocate Generals and Mr.J.S.Guleria, Assistant Advocate General.
For the respondents: Mr.Anup Chitkara, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S.Rana, Judge.

Present appeal is filed against the judgment passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge Sirmour District at Nahan in Sessions trial No.1-N/7 of 2008 titled State of HP Vs. Nomu Ram and others.

BRIEF FACTS OF THE PROSECUTION CASE:

2. It is alleged by prosecution that deceased Sadhu Ram son of Smt. Kamla Devi and brother of Puran was labourer. It is further alleged by prosecution that marriage of deceased Sadhu Ram was settled with the daughter of co-accused Nomu Ram and deceased Sadhu Ram had given Rs.50,000/- (Fifty thousand) to co-accused Nomu Ram as marriage consideration amount. It is further alleged by prosecution that Reena Devi daughter of co-accused Nomu Ram stayed with deceased Sadhu Ram at Kullu/Manali for about 10/12 days. It is further alleged by prosecution that after some time co-accused Nomu Ram brought back his daughter Reena Devi from Manali and got her married somewhere else due to which the relation between co-accused Nomu Ram and deceased Sadhu Ram became strained. It is further alleged by prosecution that whenever deceased Sadhu Ram used to demand back his money then accused persons used to quarrel with deceased and also used to threaten deceased to kill him. It is further alleged by prosecution that on dated 18.9.2007 at about 9 PM deceased Sadhu Ram came to the house of co-accused Nomu Ram for demand of his money and thereafter deceased Sadhu Ram did not return to his house. It is further alleged by prosecution that on dated 19.9.2007 at about 11.25 AM co-accused Jogi Ram filed a criminal complaint in Police Station Shillai regarding quarrel which took place in the evening on dated 18.9.2007 with deceased Sadhu Ram on the basis of which rapat in daily diary Ext PW10/A was recorded by PW10 Constable Tapender. It is further alleged by prosecution that thereafter medical examination of co-accused Jogi Ram was also conducted by PW12 Dr.Rajeev Chauhan the then Medical Officer CHC Shillai on dated 19.9.2007 and he was found to have sustained three injuries which were simple in nature caused with blunt weapon regarding which MLC Ext PW12/A was issued. It is further alleged by prosecution that on dated 23.9.2007 a telephonic message was received at about 4 PM by PW1 Inspector Narveer Singh that a dead body was seen in the water of Echadi dam and thereafter rapat in the daily diary Ext PW16/A was recorded. It is further alleged by prosecution that thereafter on receipt of information PW19 HC Arjun Singh went to the spot along with police officials and found that a dead body was floating in the water which was fully decomposed. It is further alleged by prosecution that both legs and one hand of the body was tied with the help of a rope. It is further alleged by prosecution that thereafter photographs of dead body were obtained which are Ext PW19/C-1 to Ext PW19/C-10 and inquest report Ext PW19/A and Ext PW19/B were prepared and the dead body was brought to Civil Hospital Paonta Sahib for post mortem examination. It is further alleged by prosecution that thereafter PW1 Inspector Narveer Singh also examined dead body and on examination of dead body it appears to be a case of murder and thereafter rukka Ext PW1/A was prepared which was forwarded to Police Station. It is further alleged by prosecution that body of deceased Sadhu Ram was fully decomposed and thereafter same was sent for post mortem examination. It is further alleged by prosecution that on dated 25.9.2007 PW2 Kamla Devi came to know regarding recovery of dead body and identified the dead body of deceased. It is further alleged by prosecution that as per post mortem report deceased had died due to antemortem head injury and duration between death and injury was instantaneous and between death and post mortem was 7 to 10 days. It is further alleged by prosecution that post mortem report is Ext PW21/A. It is further alleged by prosecution that viscera of the deceased along with clothes were handed over to police for chemical examination and as per report of chemical examiner Ext PA no poison was detected in the viscera. It is further alleged by prosecution that as per report of chemical examiner Ext PX human blood was detected on the vest, trouser and T-shirt of deceased Sadhu Ram. It is further alleged by prosecution that thereafter dead body was handed over to PW3 Puran vide memo Ext PW3/A. It is further alleged by prosecution that thereafter PW2 Smt Kamla Devi expressed suspicion for the commission of murder of deceased Sadhu Ram upon co-accused Nomu Ram and co-accused Jogi Ram. It is further alleged by prosecution that co-accused Nomu Ram and co-accused Jogi Ram were arrested on dated 27.9.2007. It is further alleged by prosecution that FIR Ext PW17/A was recorded. It is further alleged by prosecution that disclosure statement of accused persons were recorded and as per disclosure statement clothes which were worn at the time of incident and stick were recovered. It is further alleged by prosecution that trouser Ext P2 and shirt Ext P3 were also took into possession vide memo Ext PW7/C. It is further alleged by prosecution that stick Ext P1 was also took into possession vide memo Ext PW7/B. It is further alleged by prosecution that as per chemical examination report Ext PX human blood was found on the trouser. It is further alleged by prosecution that akas tatima Ext PW5/A and copy of Jamabandi Ext PW5/D were also took into possession and copy of family register Ext PW6/A was also took into possession. It is further alleged by prosecution that as per opinion of PW21 Dr.Piyush Kapila the injury sustained by deceased on his head could be caused with stick Ext P9 which was sufficient to cause death. Learned Additional Sessions Judge Nahan framed charge against accused persons under Sections 302 and 201 read with Section 34 IPC. Accused persons did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

3. Prosecution examined as many as twenty one witnesses in support of its case.

Sr.No.	Name of Witness
PW1	Inspector Narveer singh
PW2	Smt. Kamla Devi
PW3	Puran @ Pardeep
PW4	Jati Ram
PW5	Dinesh Sharma
PW6	Surat Singh
PW7	Kalyan Singh
PW8	Balbir Singh
PW9	Kalyan Singh

PW10	Constable Tapender
PW11	Dhani Ram
PW12	Dr. Rajeev Chauhan
PW13	Veer Singh
PW14	Kanwar Singh
PW15	Constable Surender Tomar
PW16	Constable Dinesh Kumar
PW17	SI Balak Ram
PW18	Gulasher Ahmed
PW19	HC Arjun Singh
PW20	Inspector Shyam Lal
PW21	Dr. Piyush Kapila

4. Prosecution also produced following piece of documentary evidence in support of its case:-

Sr.No.	Description.
Ext. PW1/A	Rukka
Ext. PW1/B	Statement of Smt. Kamla Devi
Ext. PW1/C	Statement of Somani
Ext. PW1/D	Statement of Sant Ram
Ext. PW1/E	Statement of Puran.
Ext. PW1/F	Letter
Ext. PW3/A	Memo
Ext. PW4/A	Memo regarding place of occurrence.
Ext. PW4/B	Memo regarding recovery of stick and clothes etc.
Ext. PW5/A	Akas Tatima
Ext. PW5/B	Memo of demarcation
Ext. PW5/C	Memo regarding throwing of dead body in Tons river.
Ext. PW5/D	Jamabandi of the spot.
Ext. PW6/A	Copy of family register
Ext. PW7/A	Memo regarding recovery of stick.
Ext. PW7/B	Recovery memo of stick
Ext. PW7/C	Recovery memo of trouser and shirt.
Ext. PW7/D	Recovery memo of clothes.
Ext. PW7/E&F	Recovery memo of trouser, shirt and stick.
Ext. PW7/G	Recovery memo of under shirt and trouser of Jogi Ram.
Ext. PW10/A&B	Rapat No.10 and 18 respectively
Ext. PW12/A	MLC of Jogi Ram

Ext. PW13/A	Memo regarding recovery of stick, Shirt and trouser.
Ext. PW15/A	Rapat
Ext. PW16/A	Copy of rapat No.9 Dated 23-9-2007
*Ext.*PW16/B&C	Copy of rapat No. 20 dated 24-9-2007. and rapat No.7 dated 28-9-2007
Ext. PW17/A	FIR
Ext. PW17/B	Endorsement on the back of Ext. PW1/F
Ext. PW19/ A&B	Inquest reports
Ext. PA	Rapat
Ext. PW20/A	Site plan
Ext. PW20/B	Site plan
Ext. PW20/C	Statement of Balbir Singh
Ext. PW20/D&E	Statements of kanwar singh & Veer Singh.
Ext. PW21/A	Post mortem report
Ext. PW21/B	Final opinion
Ext. PX	Report of chemical examiner
Ext. P1	Stick.
Ext. P2	Trouser
Ext. P3	Shirt
Ext. P4	Trouser
Ext. P5	Shirt
Ext. P6	Stick
Ext. P7	Undershirt.
Ext. P8	Trouser
Ext. P9	Stick.

5. Statement of accused persons also recorded under Section 313 Cr.PC. Accused persons did not lead any defence evidence. Learned trial Court acquitted all accused persons.

6. Feeling aggrieved against the judgment passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge Sirmour District at Nahan State of HP filed present appeal.

7. We have heard learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the respondents and also perused entire record carefully.

8. Point for determination in the present appeal is whether learned trial Court did not properly appreciate the oral as well as documentary evidence adduced by the parties and caused miscarriage of justice to the appellant.

9. ORAL EVIDENCE ADDUCED BY PROSECUTION:

9.1. PW1 Inspector Narveer Singh has stated that during the year 2007 he was posted as Investigating Officer at Police Station Paonta Sahib. He has stated that on dated 23.9.2007 at about 4.00 PM a telephonic message was received in Police Station Paonta Sahib that a dead body of unknown person was floating in the water of Echadi dam and he informed incharge Police Post Rajban and directed him to visit at spot. He has stated that HC Arjun was sent by Incharge Police Post Rajban to visit at the spot who brought dead body to Civil Hospital Paonta Sahib for conducting post mortem. He has stated that dead body was brought to hospital by HC Arjun Singh on dated 24.9.2007 in the evening. He has stated that he personally examined dead body in the mortuary house and dead body had started decomposing. He has stated that deceased was having injury mark on his forehead. He has stated that deceased was wearing green colour T-shirt and grey jeans trouser and deceased was naked from hip portion. He has stated that feet and left hand of deceased Sadhu Ram were tied with rope. He has stated that after examination of dead body it appears to be a case of murder and thereafter he wrote rukka for registration of case at Police Station Paonta Sahib. He has stated that rukka Ext PW1/A was sent through Constable Hira Singh. He has stated that dead body was identified by the relatives of deceased Sadhu Ram. He has stated that he also obtained photographs of the dead body. He has stated that he recorded statements of Smt. Kamla Devi, Smt. Shimani, Sant Ram and Puran which are Ext PW1/B to Ext PW1/E. He has stated that since the case pertains to Police Station Shillai the case was handed over to Police Station Shillai vide letter Ext PW1/F for further investigation. He has stated that on dated 27.9.2007 he arrested co-accused Nomu Ram and co-accused Jogi Ram. He has stated that on dated 28.9.2007 the file was handed over to Police Station Shillai. He has stated that thereafter co-accused Nomu Ram and co-accused Jogi Ram were brought from their house. He has stated that on inspection of dead body only one injury was found on the forehead of deceased Sadhu Ram.

9.2. PW2 Smt. Kamla Devi has stated that deceased Sadhu Ram was her son. She has stated that deceased performed labour work. She has stated that some time deceased went to Kullu/Manali in connection with labour work and co-accused Nomu Ram also used to accompany with deceased Sadhu Ram to Manali. She has stated that there was proposal of marriage of Reena Devi daughter of co-accused Nomu Ram with her son deceased Sadhu Ram. She has stated that Reena Devi daughter of co-accused Nomu Ram had also visited at Manali and stayed at Manali for about 10/12 days with her son deceased Sadhu Ram. She has stated that thereafter co-accused Nomu Ram married his daughter somewhere else in Haryana and relation between deceased Sadhu Ram and co-accused Nomu Ram became strained after the marriage of Reena Devi. She has stated that her son deceased Sadhu Ram had given Rs.50,000/- (Fifty thousand) to co-accused Nomu Ram. She has stated that on dated 18.9.2007 deceased Sadhu Ram went to the house of co-accused Nomu Ram to demand his money at about 9.00 PM and thereafter deceased Sadhu Ram did not return. She has stated that she inquired from her relatives but no information was received regarding her son deceased Sadhu Ram. She has stated that thereafter she thought that her son deceased Sadhu Ram might have gone to Kullu/Manali in connection with labour work. She has stated that whenever her son deceased Sadhu Ram went to the house of co-accused Nomu Ram to demand his money co-accused Nomu Ram and his family members used to threat deceased Sadhu Ram. She has stated that thereafter on dated 25.9.2007 she came to know that police official had recovered a dead body in Echadi dam on dated 24.9.2007. She has stated that thereafter she along with her son and relatives went to the mortuary house at Paonta Sahib and identified the dead body. She has stated that the feet and one hand of deceased Sadhu Ram was tied with rope and she expressed suspicion on co-accused Nomu Ram and co-accused Jogi Ram for the commission of murder of her son deceased Sadhu Ram. She has stated that the age of deceased Sadhu Ram was 19 years. She has stated that she has four sons and three daughters. She has stated that deceased Sadhu Ram was the eldest son. She has stated that her deceased son Sadhu Ram came to village from Manali on dated 24.9.2007 and brought Rs.50,000/- (Fifty thousand) with him. She has stated that deceased Sadhu Ram had given amount to the tune of Rs.50,000/- (Fifty thousand) to co-accused Nomu Ram at the house co-accused Nomu Ram. She has stated that deceased Sadhu Ram only used to bear expenses of entire family as there was no other earning member in her family. She has stated that deceased Sadhu Ram had gone to Manali in connection with labour work in the month of July 2007. She has stated that co-accused Nomu Ram had also gone with deceased Sadhu Ram. She has stated that deceased Sadhu Ram had given Rs.50,000/- (Fifty thousand) to co-accused Nomu Ram as consideration amount for marriage of Reena Devi with her deceased son Sadhu Ram. She has stated that her house is situated at a distance of about 7 Kms. from the house of co-accused Nomu Ram. She has stated that co-accused Nomu Ram did not visit at her house prior to the death of deceased Sadhu Ram. She has stated that when deceased Sadhu Ram did not return back from the house of co-accused Nomu Ram thereafter she went to the house of co-accused Nomu Ram to inquire about deceased Sadhu Ram. She has stated that co-accused Bhagat is the brother of co-accused Nomu Ram. She has denied suggestion that Reena Devi daughter of co-accused Nomu Ram had not visited at Manali. She also denied suggestion that Reena Devi daughter of co-accused Nomu Ram had not stayed with deceased Sadhu Ram at Manali. She has denied suggestion that co-accused Nomu Ram had not promised to marry his daughter with deceased Sadhu Ram. She has denied suggestion that deceased Sadhu Ram did not pay Rs.50,000/- (Fifty thousand) to co-accused Nomu Ram.

9.3 PW3 Puran has stated that deceased Sadhu Ram was his brother. He has stated that deceased Sadhu Ram used to perform labour work and some time deceased used to visit Kullu/Manali in connection with labour work. He has stated that marriage of deceased Sadhu Ram was settled with the daughter of co-accused Nomu Ram. He has stated that his brother deceased Sadhu Ram had given Rs.40,000/- to Rs.50,000/- to co-accused Nomu Ram as marriage consideration amount. He has stated that Reena Devi daughter of co-accused Nomu Ram stayed at Kullu/Manali for about 10/12 days. He has stated that after some time co-accused Nomu Ram brought back his daughter from Manali. He has stated that on dated 18.9.2007 deceased Sadhu Ram went to the house of co-accused Nomu Ram at about 9 PM to bring back money from co-accused Nomu Ram. He has stated that co-accused Nomu Ram had married his daughter in Haryana with some other person. He has stated that his brother deceased Sadhu Ram did not return home from the house of co-accused Nomu Ram. He has stated that whenever deceased Sadhu Ram used to demand back his money co-accused Jogi Ram, co-accused Nomu Ram, co-accused Shupa Ram and co-accused Bhagtu Ram used to quarrel with deceased Sadhu Ram and used to threaten deceased Sadhu Ram to kill him. He has stated that on dated 25.9.2007 he came to know that police had recovered a dead body from Echadi dam which was kept in Civil hospital Paonta Sahib. He has stated that he along with his mother and relatives visited at civil hospital and identified the dead body of his brother deceased Sadhu Ram. He has stated that after post mortem dead body was handed over to him and memo Ext PW3/A was prepared which bears his signature. He has stated that photographs of dead body are marked A1 to A9. He has stated that his brother deceased Sadhu Ram had not given an amount of Rs. 40,000/- (Forty thousand) to co-accused Nomu Ram in his presence. He has stated that he did not visit the house of co-accused Nomu Ram to inquire about his brother deceased Sadhu Ram. He has denied suggestion that Reena Devi did not remain with his brother deceased Sadhu Ram at Manali. He has denied suggestion that no amount was given by his brother deceased Sadhu Ram to co-accused Nomu Ram.

9.4. PW4 Jati Ram has stated that he was associated by the police in the investigation. He has stated that on dated 29.9.2007 co-accused Nomu Ram had given a disclosure statement to the police that he could locate the place where the incident took place. He has stated that memo Ext.PW4/A was prepared by him which bears his signature. He has stated that on dated 3.10.2007 co-accused Bhagtu disclosed to the police that he could locate the place where the dead body of deceased Sadhu Ram was thrown in Tons river. He has stated that co-accused Bhagtu had also given disclosure statement that he could produce stick used in the incident and clothes which were worn by him at the time of incident. He has stated that memo Ext PW4/B was prepared which was signed by him and Chattar Singh. He has stated that co-accused Nomu Ram had also given disclosure statement that he could produce the stick used in the incident. He has stated that he could not tell who wrote disclosure statement. He has denied suggestion that no disclosure statement was given by co-accused Nomu Ram and co-accused Bhagat Ram.

9.5. PW5 Dinesh Sharma has stated that on dated 29.9.2007 on the direction of Tehsildar Shillai he went to village Mohrad to prepare tatima. He has stated that co-accused Nomu Ram located the place of incident and he prepared Akas Tatima Ext PW5/A. He has stated that co-accused Nomu Ram had also shown place where the dead body was thrown in Tons river and memo Ext PW5/C was prepared. He has stated that incident took place in khasra No.1412/601 and he also prepared jamabandi Ext. PW5/D. He has stated that Tons river is situated at a distance of 3 Kms. from the house of co-accused Nomu Ram. He has stated that there was no evidence of throwing of dead body near Tons river. He has stated that police officials have inquired from co-accused Nomu Ram in his court yard about the place of incident.

9.6. PW6 Surat Singh has stated that he was working as Panchayat Assistant Secretary Gram Panchayat Balikoti and on the request of police officials he prepared copy of family register which is Ext PW6/A. He has denied suggestion that he had not given copy of birth register because in the birth register the age of co-accused Jogi Ram was less then 18 years.

9.7. PW7 Kalyan Singh has stated that on dated 29.9.2007 he remained associated in the investigation. He has stated that in his presence co-accused Nomu Ram has produced one stick and one trouser and shirt to police officials. He has stated that he does not know whether any seal was placed on the parcel or not. Witness was declared hostile. He has stated that on dated 29.9.2007 co-accused Nomu Ram had disclosed to police that he could recover stick from his house and thereafter memo Ext PW7/A was prepared. He has admitted that co-accused Nomu Ram produced one stick Ext P1 from his house which was took into possession by investigating agency. He has admitted that recovery memo of stick Ext PW7/B was prepared by police. He has admitted that co-accused Nomu Ram had produced one trouser and shirt to the investigating agency which were kept in a parcel by police. He has stated that trouser Ext P2 and shirt Ext P3 are the same which were took into possession by investigating agency from co-accused Nomu Ram. He has stated that memo Ext PW7/C was prepared at the spot. He has stated that co-accused Shupa Ram had given disclosure statement that he could produce clothes which he had worn at the time of incident and memo Ext PW7/D was prepared. He has stated that thereafter co-accused Shupa Ram had handed over his shirt and trouser to the investigating agency. He has stated that a parcel of clothes was also prepared by investigating agency. He has stated that trouser of co-accused Shupa Ram Ext P4 and shirt Ext P5 were took into possession by the investigating agency. He has stated that co-accused Jogi Ram had also handed over his clothes to the investigating agency. He has stated that all the proceedings had taken place in the court yard of co-accused Nomu Ram. He has stated that undershirt of co-accused Jogi Ram is Ext P7 and trouser is Ext P8. He has stated that he was sent by police officials to his house to bring tea for them and when he came back from his house the parcels were already prepared. He has stated that when he came back his signatures were obtained on various papers already written by police officials.

9.8. PW8 Balbir Singh has stated that co-accused Nomu Ram had not given any disclosure statement in his presence. Witness was declared hostile by the prosecution. He has denied suggestion that on dated 29.9.2007 co-accused Nomu Ram had given disclosure statement that he could recover stick and clothes kept by him in his house. He has denied suggestion that police officials prepared memo Ext PW7/A in his presence. He has admitted that co-accused Nomu Ram had brought one stick from his house and in this regard seizure memo Ext PW1/B was prepared. He has admitted that co-accused Nomu Ram handed over his trouser Ext P2 and shirt Ext P3 to police officials. He has denied suggestion that police officials had sealed the clothes in a parcel. He denied suggestion that co-accused Shupa Ram disclosed to the police that he could recover clothes which were worn by him at the time of incident. He has admitted that co-accused Shupa Ram handed over stick Ext P6 to police which was took into possession vide seizure memo Ext PW7/F. He has denied suggestion that police officials had sealed articles in his presence. He has admitted that co-accused Nomu Ram is his real maternal uncle and co-accused Shupa Ram and co-accused Jogi Ram are his brother-in-law. He denied suggestion that in order to save accused persons he resiled from his earlier statement.

9.9. PW9 Kalyan Singh has stated that he remained posted as MHC at Police Station Shillai from 2006 to May 2007. He has stated that on dated 29.9.2007 SI Shayam Lal had handed over him three parcels sealed with seal impression 'ADS' and two sticks sealed with seal impression 'ADS'. He has stated that again on dated 3.10.2007 SI Shayam Lal had handed over a parcel sealed with seal impression 'P' and a bamboo stick along with seal impression 'P'. He has stated that on dated 5.10.2007 HC Chattar Singh handed over viscera in a Jar and entries were recorded in the register. He has stated that thereafter he sent articles through Constable Dhani Ram to FSL Junga for chemical analysis vide RC No.50 of 2007. He has stated that case property remained intact in his custody.

9.10. PW10 Constable Tapender Singh has stated that he remained posted as MC at Police Station Shillai w.e.f 2005 to March 2008. He has stated that on dated 19.9.2007 he was present at Police Station along with SI Jeet Singh at about 11.25 AM. He has stated that one co-accused Jogi Ram came to Police Station and lodged a criminal complaint regarding quarrel with deceased Sadhu Ram. He has stated that he recorded entry in daily diary at serial No.10 copy of which is Ext PW10/A which was written by him. He has stated that thereafter complainant Jogi Ram was sent for medical examination at CHC Shillai. He has stated that all injuries sustained by co-accused Jogi Ram were simple in nature. He has stated that thereafter on dated 28.9.2007 SHO Paonta Sahib sent to rukka for registration of case against accused persons and thereafter FIR No.56 of 2007 dated 28.9.2007 was registered at Police Station Shillai.

9.11. PW11 Constable Dhani Ram has stated that he was posted at Police Station Shillai since 2006. He has stated that on dated 7.10.2007 MHC Kalyan Singh Police Station Shillai handed over five parcels sealed with seal impression 'SDA'. He has stated that he deposited all parcels at FSL Junga vide RC No.50 of 2007. He has stated that case property remained intact in his custody.

9.12. PW12 Dr. Rajeev Chauhan has stated that he was posted as Medical Officer at CHC Shillar from 2006. He has stated that on dated 19.9.2007 co-accused Jogi Ram son of Nomu Ram was brought by police for medico legal examination with the alleged history of assault. He has stated that on examination he observed that lacerated wound on upper part of left pinna measuring 3 cm in length involving whole thickness clotted blood was present. He has stated that contusion of size 3 cm x 1 cm obliquely placed on left mallor region red in colour with clear interming space skin was abbreted and contusion of size 2 cm x 1 reddish blue in colour on left lower eye lid was present. He has stated that injuries were simple caused by blunt object. He has stated that he issued MLC Ext PW12/A which bears his signature. He has stated that injuries mentioned in MLC Ext PW12/A could be caused within duration of 15 hours. He has stated that injury No.1 was located on a delicate part of body and it could cause contusion and ultimately caused in unconsciousness. He has stated that weapon was used by force. He has stated that injuries No. 1 to 3 could be caused with stick blows.

9.13. PW13 Veer Singh has stated that he was up-Pradhan Gram Panchayat Balikoti. He has stated that on dated 3.10.2007 he along with Sh Kanwar Singh Pardhan Gram Panchayat Balikoti were associated by the police and a stick was shown by police officials of Police Station Shillai. He has stated that he does not know from where the sticks were recovered. He has stated that accused persons are known to him who are resident of Gram Panchayat Balikoti. He has stated that accused persons are not related to him. He has stated that he is Rajput by caste and accused persons are Harijon by caste. He has denied suggestion that on dated 3.10.2007 he along with Kanwar Singh and co-accused Bhagtu were associated by police and sticks were recovered at the instance of co-accused Bhagtu. He denied suggestion that on the same day co-accused Bhagtu has produced one shirt and trouser from his house and told that he was wearing the aforesaid clothes on dated 18.9.2007 at the time of incident. He denied suggestion that co-accused Bhagtu had told that injury was caused upon deceased Sadhu Ram by a stick. He denied suggestion that he resiled from his earlier statement in order to save accused persons. He has stated that he signed memo Ext PW13/A at Police Station Shillai.

9.14 PW14 Kanwar Singh has stated that he was Pardhan Gram Panchayat Balikoti since 2005 and he was called on dated 3.10.2007 by police at Police Station Shillai and was shown to him a shirt, stick and trouser. He has stated that he does not know anything about the case and the same was not recovered in his presence. Witness was declared hostile. He has stated that co-accused Bhagtu is known to him. He has denied suggestion that on dated 3.10.2007 co-accused Bhagtu took police officials to his house and trouser, shirt and sticks were recovered at his instance. He denied suggestion that co-accused Bhagtu had also given disclosure statement that stick was used in beating deceased Sadhu Ram. He denied suggestion that he resiled from his earlier statement in order to save accused persons.

9.15 PW15 Constable Surender Tomar has stated that he remained posted at Police Station Paonta Sahib from September 2006 to September 2008. He has stated that on dated 24.9.2009 he was performing duty at about 8.15 PM and HC Arjun Singh came from Police Post Rajban and lodged rapat Ext PW15/A.

9.16 PW16 Constable Dinesh Kumar has stated that he was posted as MC at Police Post Rajban from April 2006. He has stated that on dated 23.9.2007 on telephonic message received from Station House Officer Paonta Sahib regarding presence of dead body in Echhadi dam he recorded entry in daily diary at serial No.9 and again recorded entry in rapat No.20 on dated 24.9.2007 regarding departure of HC Arjun Singh along with other staff towards Echhadi dam. He has stated that on dated 28.9.2007 a rapat No.7 was entered in daily diary register about arrival of HC Arjun Singh and other police officials. He has stated that copy of rapat No.9 is Ext PW16/A, copy of rapat No.20 is Ext PW16/B and copy of rapat No.7 is Ext PW16/C which are true according to original record.

9.17 PW17 SI Balak Ram has stated that he remained posted at Police Station Shillai from 2006 to 2007. He has stated that on dated 28.9.2007 Constable Hira Singh Police Station Paonta Sahib brought a rukka Ext PW1/A and he registered FIR No. 56 of 2007 Ext PW17/A and endorsement is Ext PW1/F.

9.18 PW18 Gul Sher Ahmad has stated that he is running photographs shop at Paonta Sahib. He has stated that on dated 25.9.2007 he went to mortuary house and clicked photographs of dead body of deceased Sadhu Ram. He has stated that thereafter he handed over photographs along with negatives to police officials.

9.19 PW19 HC Arjun Singh has stated that he was posted at Police Post Rajban from 2007. He has stated that on dated 24.9.2007 information was received that a dead body was floating in Echadi dam. He has stated that he along with police officials went at the spot and found that dead body was floating in the water. He has stated that dead body was brought with the help of boat. He has stated that after inspection of dead body it was observed that dead body was a male person and same was fully decomposed. He has stated that both legs and one hand were tied with the help of rope. He has stated that photograph of dead body was obtained. He has stated that dead body was brought in a private vehicle at Civil Hospital Paonta Sahib. He has stated that dead body was placed in the mortuary house for post mortem. He has stated that Medical Officer posted at civil hospital Paonta Sahib advised for the conduct of post mortem from IGMC Shimla because the body was fully decomposed. He has stated that on dated 26.9.2007 brother of deceased Pardeep Kumar and mother Amla Devi came there and identified dead body of deceased Sadhu Ram. He has stated that thereafter dead body was brought to IGMC Shimla for post mortem and post mortem was conducted in IGMC Shimla. He has stated that after post mortem dead body was handed over to the relative of deceased and receipt Ext PW3/A was prepared. He has stated that photographs are Ext PW19/C-1 to Ext PW19/C-10 and negatives are Ext PW19/C-11. He has stated that he noticed only one injury upon the dead body above the ear.

9.20. PW20 Inspector Shayam Lal has stated that in the year 2007 he remained posted as Station House Officer at Police Station Shillai. He has stated that investigation of the case was conducted by him. He has stated that case was registered in Police Station Paonta Sahib. He has stated that later on it was observed that occurrence took place in the jurisdiction of Police Station Shillai and thereafter case was referred to Police Station Shillai. He has stated that co-accused Nomu Ram was arrested by police officials posted at Police Station Paonta Sahib. He has stated that on dated 29.9.2007 co-accused Nomu Ram had given disclosure statement that he could identify the place of incident where the dead body was thrown in the river. He has stated that disclosure statement of co-accused Nomu Ram was recorded. He has stated that thereafter co-accused Nomu Ram took police officials and witnesses to the place of incident and identify the place where the deceased was thrown in the river. He has stated that he also prepared site plan Ext PW20/A and Ext PW20/B. He has stated that co-accused Nomu Ram had also given disclosure statement that he had concealed sticks in his house and thereafter sticks were recovered from the house of co-accused Nomu Ram. He has stated that stick is Ext P1. He has stated that co-accused Shupa Ram and co-accused Jogi Ram were arrested by him on dated 29.9.2007. He has stated that clothes were also took into possession as per disclosure statement of co-accused Shupa Ram. He has stated that stick Ext P9, Shirt Ext P7 and trouser Ext P8 were recovered as per disclosure statement given by co-accused Bhagtu. He has stated that Akas Tatima Ext PW5/A was got prepared from Halqua Patwari. He has stated that medical of co-accused Jogi Ram was also got conducted in Civil Hospital Shillai and MLC Ext PW12/A was obtained. He has stated that he recorded the statements of the prosecution witnesses as per their versions and nothing was added or deleted by him. He has stated that co-accused Nomu Ram given disclosure statement and located the place of incident where the dead body of deceased Sadhu Ram was thrown. He has denied suggestion that no disclosure statement was given by accused persons. He denied suggestion that accused persons did not locate the place. He denied suggestion that co-accused Bhagtu and co-accused Nomu Ram were not present and they have gone outside for performing labour work.

9.21. PW21 Dr. Piyush Kapila has stated that he was posted in the department of Forensic Medicine IGMC Shimla since September 1998. He has stated that on dated 27.9.2007 a dead body of Sadhu Ram was brought for post mortem examination along with inquest papers. He has stated that dead body was identified by Pardeep Kumar and Shupa Ram. He has stated that dead body was recovered from Echhadi dam in District Sirmour. He has stated that after examination of dead body of deceased Sadhu Ram he observed that height of dead body was 5 feet 5 inches and hands from left side on both legs were tied with a plastic rope and the body was in decomposed condition and maggots all over the body were present. He has stated that skin slippage and ligature marks were present on legs and hands which were parchmentised. He has stated that multiple folds of the rope were kept on the body. He has stated that he observed following anti mortem injuries 3x2 cm. laceration was present on left side of forehead. He has further stated that he also observed following antemortem injuries 5 cm back to left eyebrow and supraorbital ridge, bone deep, radiating fracture directing from the point on frontal bone, parietal bone reaching up to temporal bone with separation of sagittal suture, with vital line of hemorrhage. He has stated that there was gross extradural hemorrhage at the site of fracture however rest of brain tissue was decomposed below the dural space. He has further stated that he also observed parchmentisation of ligature mark on the legs and left hand were ante mortem in nature. He has stated that deceased had died as a result of ante mortem head injury. He has stated that probable time between injury and death was instantaneous. He has stated that clothes of the deceased were preserved, sealed and handed over to police officials. He has stated that he issued post mortem report Ext PW21/A which bears his signature. He has stated that post mortem report contains four leaves and five pages. He has stated that after receiving chemical examiner report Ext PA he issued final opinion report Ext PW21/B. He has stated that the cause of death remained same. He has stated that injury observed by him at the time of post mortem upon the head of deceased could be caused with stick Ext P9. He has stated that sole injury was sufficient to cause death.

10. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State that it is proved on record beyond reasonable doubt that accused persons have motive to eliminate deceased Sadhu Ram in order to escape repayment of Rs.50,000/- (Fifty thousand) and on this ground appeal filed by State of HP be accepted is rejected being devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. It is held that prosecution is under legal obligation to prove whether accused persons have committed murder of deceased Sadhu Ram on dated 18.9.2007 as alleged by prosecution. Case of the prosecution is not based upon oral eye witness but is based upon circumstantial evidence only. It is well settled law that in circumstantial evidence the chain of circumstances should be completed in order to connect accused persons with the commission of criminal offence. The mere fact that deceased Sadhu Ram had given Rs.50,000/- (Fifty thousand) to co-accused Nomu Ram in lieu of marriage of his daughter with deceased Sadhu Ram is not sole sufficient fact to hold that accused persons have committed murder of deceased Sadhu Ram.

11. Another submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State that it is proved on record that deceased on dated 18.9.2007 went to the house of co-accused Nomu Ram in order to bring back Rs.50,000/- (Fifty thousand) which he had advanced as marriage consideration amount to co-accused Nomu Ram and in view of the fact that rapat No.10 Ext PW10/A was recorded at the instance of co-accused Jogi Ram wherein co-accused Jogi Ram son of Nomu Ram had specifically admitted that on dated 18.9.2007 at about 9 PM deceased Sadhu Ram came to the house of co-accused Nomu Ram and thereafter quarrel took place and thereafter dead body of the deceased was found floating in Echhadi dam on dated 24.9.2007 and on this ground appeal filed by the State be accepted is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. It is not the case of the prosecution that dead body of deceased was found in the residential house of accused persons. On the contrary it is the case of the prosecution that dead body of deceased Sadhu Ram was found in Echhadi dam on dated 24.9.2007 which was in floating condition.In the present case the dead body was found in Echhadi dam in a floating manner in open public place and possibility of access of third person could not be ruled out beyond reasonable doubt. It is well settled law that last seen theory comes into play only when time gap between the point of time when accused persons and deceased were last seen together and when deceased was found dead was so small that possibility of any person other then accused being author of the crime becomes impossible.In the present case in view of the fact that deceased went to the house of co-accused Nomu Ram on dated 18.9.2007 during night period at 9 PM and in view of the fact that dead body of the deceased was found on dated 24.9.2007 in Echhadi dam in a floating manner in an open place the possibility of any person other then the accused being author of the crime could not be ruled out. See AIR 2008 SC 2819 titled Kusuma Ankama Rao Vs. State of A.P.

12. Another submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State that it is proved on record that deceased Sadhu Ram had gone to residential house of co-accused Nomu Ram on dated 18.9.2007 at 9 PM and it is proved on record that thereafter quarrel took place and rapat No.10 Ext PW10/A was lodged by co-accused Jogi Ram and co-accused Jogi Ram had also sustained three injuries and on this ground appeal filed by State be allowed is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that rapat No.10 Ext PW10/A was recorded by co-accused Jogi Ram and there is recital in rapat No.10 Ext PW10/A that deceased came in the residential house of co-accused Jogi Ram on dated 18.9.2007 at about 9 PM and quarrel took place and thereafter co-accused Jogi Ram had sustained injuries. It is proved on record that co-accused Jogi Ram was examined by Medical Officer posted in Civil Hospital Shillai on dated 19.9.2007 at 11.45 AM and it is proved on record that co-accused Jogi Ram had sustained three injuries i.e. lacerated wound on upper part of left pinna measuring 3 cm in length involving whole thickness clotted blood. It is proved on record that co-accused Jogi Ram had also sustained contusion injuries of 3 cm x 1 cm size obliquely placed on left mallor region red in colour with clear interming space. It is also proved on record that co-accused Jogi Ram had also sustained contusion of 2 cm x 1 cm reddish blue in colour on left lower eye lid. As per medical examination report all the injuries were simple caused with blunt object during 24 hours. Prosecution has not explained contusion injuries sustained by co-accused Jogi Ram and prosecution has concealed genesis of the present case. No explanation has been given by the prosecution as to how co-accused Jogi Ram had sustained three injuries i.e. lacerated and contusion injuries. It is held that simply filing of rapat No.10 Ext.PW10/A did not prove the case of the prosecution that accused persons have caused murder of deceased Sadhu Ram with sticks.

13. Another submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State that on the basis of disclosure statement given by accused persons the appeal be accepted is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. PW8 Balbir Singh member Gram Panchayat when appeared in witness box has specifically stated that co-accused Nomu Ram did not give any disclosure statement in his presence. Similarly PW13 Veer Singh Up-Pradhan Gram Panchayat has also stated in positive manner that co-accused Bhagtu had not given any disclosure statement in his presence. PW14 Kanwar Singh Pradhan Gram Panchayat has also stated in positive manner that co-accused Bhagtu did not give any disclosure statement in his presence. The independent witness of the disclosure statement relied by the prosecution did not support the prosecution story in the present case which creates doubts in the mind of court.

14. Another submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State that accused persons after committing murder of deceased Sadhu Ram threw the dead body of deceased in Tons river which was situated at a distance of about 3 Km. from the house of accused persons and thereafter dead body was recovered from Echhadi dam on dated 24.9.2007 wherein two legs, left hand and waist of deceased Sadhu Ram were tied with plastic rope and on this ground appeal filed by the State be accepted is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. It is the case of the prosecution that Tons river is situated at a distance of 3 Km. from the house of accused persons and there is no evidence in order to prove on record that in what manner accused persons took the dead body of deceased Sadhu Ram to a distance of 3 Km. from their house to Tons river. Even there is no finger prints or feet prints of accused persons collected by the prosecution in order to connect the accused persons with place Tons river and in order to connect accused persons with weapon of attack i.e. stick.

15. Another submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of State that conduct of accused persons is covered under Section 8 of the Evidence Act and on this ground appeal filed by State be accepted is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that suspicion is not sufficient to convict the accused persons in criminal case. It is well settled law that in circumstantial evidence offence against accused persons should be proved by prosecution beyond reasonable doubt and there should be completion of chain of criminal offence.

16. Another submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State that in view of criminal analyst report placed on record appeal filed by State be accepted is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. We have carefully perused chemical analyst report placed on record. As per chemical analyst report Ext PX and PA placed on record no poison was detected in the stomach and small intestine of the deceased and no poison was detected in the liver, spleen and kidney of the deceased Sadhu Ram. Even as per chemical analyst report Ext PX placed on record that though human blood was detected on exhibit 4a waist of deceased Sadhu Ram, exhibit 5b, exhibit 7a lower trouser of co-accused Jogi Ram and exhibit 8a shirt of co-accused Bhagtu but the blood grouping results on these exhibits were found inconclusive. It is well settled law that in order to connect accused persons with the commission of criminal offence blood group of accused persons or deceased should be proved on exhibits 4a, 5b, 7a and 8a. It is held that simply on the ground that human blood was detected it is not sufficient to convict the accused persons in the absence of blood group of accused persons and deceased upon the exhibits connecting accused persons with the commission of criminal offence. Even as per chemical analyst report blood was not detected on Ext 5a shirt, exhibit 6a trouser of co-accused Nomu Ram, exhibit 6b shirt of co-accused Nomu Ram, exhibit 7b T-shirt of co-accused Jogi Ram and exhibit 8b trouser of co-accused Bhagtu. Even as per chemical analyst report blood was detected on exhibit 4b T-shirt of deceased Sadhu Ram and exhibit 4c pant of deceased Sadhu Ram which was disintegrated for further examination. It is held that chemical analyst report did not connect accused persons in the commission of crime in the absence of blood group of accused persons or deceased Sadhu Ran upon exhibits. In the present case it is proved on record that dead body of deceased Sadhu Ram was not recovered as per prior disclosure statement given by accused persons. On the contrary dead body of deceased as per prosecution story was recovered on dated 24.9.2007 in Echhadi dam and disclosure statements of accused persons under Section 27 of Indian Evidence Act 1872 were recorded on dated 29.9.2007 and 3.10.2007 after the recovery of dead body of deceased Sadhu Ram on dated 24.9.2007 from Echhadi dam. It is also well settled law that in order to convict the accused in circumstantial evidence five golden principles should be proved (i) That circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established and the accused must be and not merely may be guilty (ii) That facts so established should be consistent only with guilt of the accused (iii) That circumstances should be of a conclusive nature. (iv) That chain of evidence should be complete (v) That innocence of accused should be ruled out. (See 2013 Cri.L.J. 2040, titled Prakash vs. State of Rajasthan (Apex Court DB). It is well settled law that circumstantial evidence means combination of facts creating a network through which accused could not escape. See AIR 1992 SC 2045 titled Sakharam Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, also see AIR 2002 SC 3206 titled Ashish Batham Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, also see AIR 2010 SC 762 titled Musheer Khan and another Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, also see AIR 1979 SC 1410 titled State of Maharashtra Vs. Annappa Bandu Kavatage, also see AIR 1979 SC 826 titled S.P.Bhatnagar and another Vs. The State of Maharashtra, also see AIR 1989 SC 1890 titled Ashok Kumar Chatterjee Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, also see AIR 1992 SC 758 titled Sakharam Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, also see AIR 1981 SC 1675 titled State of Maharashtra Vs. Champalal Punjaji Shah, AIR 1975 SC 241 titled Dharm Das Wadhwani Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh, Also see AIR 1954 SC 621 titled Bhagat Ram Vs. State of Punjab.

17. It is well settled law that circumstantial evidence under Section 27 of the Evidence Act is not substantive evidence it is only corroborative evidence. In the present case weapon of attack i.e. sticks were not sent by prosecution for chemical examination in order to prove that deceased had sustained head injury through sticks Ext P9. It is not proved on record beyond reasonable doubt that blood group of deceased was found upon sticks Ext P9 in order to connect the accused persons with the commission of crime as alleged by the prosecution. It was held in case reported (2005) 9 SCC 765 titled Anjlus Dungdung Vs. State of Jharkhand that suspicion however strong cannot take place of proof. It was held in case reported in (2010) 11 SCC 423 titled Nanhar Vs. State of Haryana that prosecution must stand or fall on its own leg and it cannot derive any strength from the weakness of the defense. Also See: (1984) 4 SCC 116 Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra. It is well settled law that conjecture or suspicion cannot take place of legal proof. See: AIR 1967 SC 520 Charan Singh Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh. Also See: AIR 1971 SC 1898 Gian Mahtani Vs. State of Maharashtra. It was held in case reported in AIR

1979 SC 1382 State (Delhi Administration) Vs. Gulzarilal Tandon that even where the circumstances raise a serious suspicion against the accused it cannot take the place of legal proof. Also See: AIR 1983 SC 906 titled Bhugdomal Gangaram and others Vs. The State of Gujarat See: AIR 1985 SC 1224 titled State of UP Vs. Sukhbasi and others. It is well settled principle of law that vested right accrued in favour of the accused with the judgment of acquittal by learned Sessions Court. (See (2013) 2 SCC 89 titled Mookkiah and another Vs. State. See 2011 (11) SCC 666 titled State of Rajashthan Vs. Talevar and another. See AIR 2012 SC (Supp) 78 titled Surendra Vs. State of Rajasthan. See 2012 (1) SCC 602 titled State of Rajasthan Vs. Shera Ram @ Vishnu Dutt). It is well settled principle of law (i) That appellate Court should not ordinarily set aside a judgment of acquittal in a case where two views are possible though the view of the appellate Court may be more probable. (ii) That while dealing with a judgment of acquittal the appellate Court must consider entire evidence on record so as to arrive at a finding as to whether views of learned Courts below are perverse or otherwise unsustainable (iii) That appellate Court is entitled to consider whether in arriving at a finding of fact, learned Courts below failed to take into consideration any admissible fact (iv) That learned courts below took into consideration evidence brought on record contrary to law. (See AIR 1974 SC 2165 titled Balak Ram and another Vs. State of UP, See (2002) 3 SCC 57 titled Allarakha K. Mansuri Vs. State of Gujarat, See (2003) 1 SCC 398 titled Raghunath Vs. State of Haryana, See AIR 2007 SC 3075 State of U.P Vs. Ram Veer Singh and others, See AIR 2008 SC 2066, (2008) 11 SCC 186 S.Rama Krishna Vs. S. Rami Raddy (D) by his LRs. & others. Sambhaji Hindurao Deshmukh and others Vs. State of Maharashtra, See (2009) 10 SCC 206 titled Arulvelu and another Vs. State, See (2009) 16 SCC 98 titled Perla Somasekhara Reddy and others Vs. State of A.P. See: (2010) 2 SCC 445 titled Ram Singh @ Chhaju Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh).

18. In view of the above stated facts it is held that learned trial Court had properly appreciated oral as well as documentary evidence placed on record and it is held that learned trial Court did not cause miscarriage of justice to the appellant. Appeal filed by the State is dismissed and judgment passed by learned trial Court is affirmed. Benefit of doubt is given to accused persons. Case property will be confiscated to the State of Himachal Pradesh after expiry of period of limitation for filing further proceedings. Records of learned trial Court along with certified copy of judgment be sent back forthwith. Appeal is disposed of. Pending application(s) if any are also disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Anupam Kumar …Appellant.

Versus

Harmeet Singh Ghai & others …Respondents.

FAO No. 458 of 2007

Decided on: 15.05.2015

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 169- First petition was consigned to record room- it was contended that second petition is not maintainable- held, that even if first petition had been dismissed in default, second petition is maintainable. (Para-5 and 6)

For the appellant: Mr. Dinesh Bhanot, Advocate.

For the respondents: Nemo for respondent No. 1.

Mr. B.M. Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.
Mr. Ashwani Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

There is no representation on behalf of respondent No. 1 despite service. Hence, he is set ex-parte.

2. Challenge in this appeal is to the judgment and award, dated 19.09.2007, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (III), Shimla, (for short "the Tribunal") in MACT No. 36-S/2 of 2006/99, titled as Sh. Anupam Kumar versus Harmeet Singh Ghai and others, whereby the claim petition filed by the appellant-claimant came to be dismissed (for short "the impugned award").

3. The Tribunal has dismissed the claim petition on the grounds that the claimant-injured has failed to satisfactorily prove that the accident was outcome of the rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle by its driver and that the first claim petition filed by the claimant-injured was consigned to records and second claim petition was not maintainable.

4. Heard.

5. It is apt to record herein that the first claim petition filed by the appellant-claimant-injured has not even dismissed in default and was simply consigned to records. The appellant-claimant-injured was well within his rights to file second claim petition or to lay a motion for calling the file of the first claim petition from the records.

6. In a case titled as Jagdish versus Rahul Bus Service & others, being FAO No. 524 of 2007, decided on 15.05.2015, this Court has discussed the issue and held that the second claim petition is maintainable in case the first claim petition came to be dismissed in default. While applying the ratio to the instant case, second claim petition was maintainable.

7. Having said so, the findings recorded by the Tribunal on issue No. 5 are set aside and it is held that the second claim petition is maintainable.

8. Coming to issue No. 1, it appears that the Tribunal has not discussed the entire evidence and the pleadings of the parties. While going through the record, it , prima facie, appears that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in holding that there was no satisfactory evidence on record suggesting that the appellant-claimant-injured had suffered injuries because of rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle by its driver, without even discussing the entire evidence.

9. Accordingly, the appeal merits to be allowed and the impugned award is to be set aside.

10. However, keeping in view the fact that the accident has taken place in the year 1994 and the appellant-claimant-injured has been dragged from pillar to post and post to pillar and is litigating right from the year 1999, has not even received interim award under 'No Fault Liability' in terms of the provisions of Section 140 of the Motor Vehicles Act,

1988 (for short "the MV Act"), I deem it proper to conclude the lis here by awarding Rs. 25,000/- under 'No Fault Liability' with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the impugned judgment and award till its realization in favour of the appellant-claimant-injured and against the insurer-respondent No. 2.

11. Insurer-respondent No. 2 is directed to deposit the awarded amount before this Registry within three weeks. On deposit, the said amount be released in favour of the appellant-claimant-injured after proper identification.

12. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed, the impugned award is set aside and the claim petition is granted, as indicated hereinabove.

13. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Balkar Singh & others …Appellants.
Versus
Ram Pal alias Sanju & others …Respondents.

FAO No. 153 of 2007
Decided on: 15.05.2015

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Deceased was drawing salary of Rs.13,315/-- Tribunal had wrongly assessed his monthly income as Rs.12,455/-- amount of 50% was wrongly deducted towards his personal expenses, whereas 1/3rd amount was to be deducted towards personal expenses- compensation enhanced to Rs.14,02,800/-. (Para-9 to 13)

Cases referred:

Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, AIR 2009 SC 3104

Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR SCW 3120

For the appellants: Mr. R.K. Gautam, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Gaurav Gautam, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. T.S. Chauhan, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 and 2.
Mr. G.D. Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

Challenge in this appeal is to the judgment and award, dated 28.02.2007, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Una, Himachal Pradesh, (for short "the Tribunal") in M.A.C. Petition No. 9 of 2006, titled as Balkar Singh and others versus Ram Pal alias Sanju and others, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs. 9,06,760/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the petition till its realization came to be awarded in favour of the appellants-claimants (for short "the impugned award"), on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

Brief facts:

2. Smt. Kashmir Kaur became the victim of a vehicular accident, which was allegedly caused by the driver, namely Shri Ram Pal alias Sanju, who had driven Mohindra Pick-up, bearing registration No. HP-36-4320, rashly and negligently on 21.01.2006, at about 6.40 p.m., near Arniala Bazar, Una, hit the scooter, bearing registration No. HP-20 A-8077, on which Smt. Kashmir Kaur was a pillion rider. She sustained injuries and succumbed to the injuries on the spot.

3. Deceased-Kashmir Kaur left behind her husband, namely Shri Balkar Singh, and two minor sons, namely Khushpaul Singh and Tarunjeet Singh, who invoked the jurisdiction of the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.20,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition.

4. The respondents, i.e. the owner-insured, the driver and the insurer, contested the claim petition on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections.

5. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal on 02.06.2006:

> "1. Whether Kashmir Kaur died in a motor accident caused by rash and negligent driving of a Jeep (No. HP-36-4320) by Ram Pal (respondent 1) on January 21, 2006? OPP
>
> 2. Whether petitioners are entitled to compensation. If so, to what amount and from whom? OPP
>
> 3. Whether the accident was attributable to rashness and negligence of the scooterist (deceased Kanta Devi). If so, to what effect? OPP
>
> 4. Whether the petition is bad for non-joinder of the owner and the insurer of the scooter (No. HP-20A-8077)? OPR
>
> 5. Whether the respondent No. 1 was not holding a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident? OPR-3
>
> 6. Whether the jeep in question was being driven in violation of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy? OPR
>
> 6. Relief."

6. Parties led evidence and the Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, held that the claimants have proved that the driver, namely Shri Ram Pal alias Sanju, had driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently on 21.01.2006, at about 6.40 p.m., near Arniala Bazar, caused the accident, in which Smt. Kashmir Kaur sustained injuries and succumbed to the injuries. All the issues were decided in favour of the claimants and against the respondents.

7. The respondents, i.e. the owner-insured, the driver and the insurer, have not questioned the findings recorded by the Tribunal on any count. Neither they have filed any appeal nor cross-objections. Accordingly, the impugned award has attained finality, so far it relates to them.

8. The appellants-claimants have questioned the impugned award only on the ground of adequacy of compensation.

9. Admittedly, the age of the deceased was 41 years at the time of the accident, as her date of birth has been recorded as 31.05.1965 in her matriculation certificate, Mark-X. She was a government employee and was drawing salary to the tune of Rs. 13,315/- in terms of salary certificate, Ext. PW-2/A. The Tribunal has fallen in an error in holding that the monthly income of the deceased was Rs.12,455/-.

10. Keeping in view the Second Schedule appended with the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "the MV Act") read with the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104 and upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in the case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120, multiplier of '13' is applicable. Viewed thus, the Tribunal has fallen in an error while applying the multiplier of '12'.

11. It appears that the Tribunal has adopted the novel procedure in assessing the salary of the deceased. By guess, it can be safely said that deceased would have been spending one third towards her personal expenses. The Tribunal has wrongly deducted 50% towards her personal expenses. At best, one third was to be deducted towards the personal expenses of the deceased while keeping in view the principles laid down by the Apex Court in Sarla Verma's case (supra) and upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in Reshma Kumari's case (supra).

12. In view of the above, it is held that the claimants have lost source of income/dependency to the tune of Rs.8800/- per month, i.e. Rs.8800/- x 12 = Rs.1,05,600/- per annum. Thus, the claimants are entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.1,05,600/- x 13 = Rs.13,72,800/-. The claimants are also held entitled to Rs.10,000/- under the head 'funeral expenses', Rs.10,000/- under the head 'loss of consortium' and Rs.10,000/- under the head 'loss of estate'.

13. Having glance of the above discussions, the claimants are held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.13,72,800/- + Rs.10,000/- + Rs.10,000/- + Rs.10,000/- = Rs.14,02,800/- with interest @ 7.5% per annum from the date of the claim petition till its finalization.

14. The insurer is directed to deposit the enhanced awarded amount before the Registry within six weeks from today. On deposition, the entire awarded amount be released in favour of the claimants strictly as per the terms and conditions contained in the impugned award.

15. The appeal is disposed of accordingly. The impugned award is modified, as indicated hereinabove.

16. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Jagdish …Appellant.
Versus
Rahul Bus Service & others …Respondents.

FAO No. 524 of 2007
Reserved on: 01.05.2015
Decided on: 15.05.2015

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 169- It was contended that claimant had not lodged FIR and therefore, claim petition is not maintainable- held, that lodging of FIR, dismissal of criminal case or acquittal cannot be ground to deny compensation. (Para- 42 to 50)

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Claim petition was dismissed on the ground that claimant had earlier filed a claim petition which was dismissed in default- held, that provisions of Code of Civil Procedure are not applicable to MACT- procedural technicalities cannot be used to decline the claim of a person- petition was dismissed in absence of both the parties – held that second petition was maintainable in these circumstances. (Para-51 to 82)

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 168- Claimant had claimed the compensation of Rs.12,00,000/-, whereas, he was entitled for more compensation- held, that it is the duty of Claim Tribunal to award just compensation and it can award more compensation than claimed-. (Para- 85 to 101)

Cases referred:

Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, AIR 2009 SC 3104

Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, 2013 AIR SCW 3120

R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others, AIR 1995 SC 755

Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another, n 2010 AIR SCW 6085

Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited, 2011 AIR SCW 4787

Kavita versus Deepak and others, 2012 AIR SCW 4771

N.K.V. Bros. (P.) Ltd. versus M. Karumai Ammal and others etc., AIR 1980 Supreme Court 1354

Vinobabai and others versus K.S.R.T.C. and another, 1979 ACJ 282

Himachal Road Transport Corporation and another versus Jarnail Singh and others, Latest HLJ 2009 (HP) 174

Oriental Insurance Co. versus Mst. Zarifa and others, AIR 1995 Jammu and Kashmir 81

Sohan Lal Passi versus P. Sesh Reddy and others, AIR 1996 Supreme Court 2627

Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Shri Kishan Chand & others, ILR, HP, 2015 Volume-III,

New India Assurance Co. Ltd. versus C. Padma and another, AIR 2003 Supreme Court 4394

Mantoo Sarkar versus Oriental Insurance Company Limited and others, (2009) 2 Supreme Court Cases 244,

Hussain Pasha versus Andhra Pradesh State Road Trans. Corpn. & Anr., II (2007) ACC 454

Karmi Devi versus Satendra Kumar Singh and another, reported in 2010 ACJ 1661

Savitri and others versus M.A.C.T.-cum-District and Sessions Judge, Jhunjhunu and others, 2013 ACJ 1361
New India Assurance Co. Ltd. versus R. Srinivasan, AIR 2000 Supreme Court 941
Sheodan Singh versus Daryao Kunwar, AIR 1966 Suprememe Court 1332
Erach Boman Khavar versus Tukaram Shridhar Bhat and another, 2014 AIR SCW 61
United India Insurance Company Ltd. versus Smt. Kulwant Kaur, Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) 174
Nagappa versus Gurudayal Singh and others, AIR 2003 Supreme Court 674
State of Haryana and another versus Jasbir Kaur and others, AIR 2003 Supreme Court 3696
The Divisional Controller, K.S.R.T.C. versus Mahadeva Shetty and another, AIR 2003 Supreme Court 4172
A.P.S.R.T.C. & another versus M. Ramadevi & others, 2008 AIR SCW 1213
Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Mohd. Nasir & Anr., 2009 AIR SCW 3717
Ningamma & another versus United India Insurance Co. Ltd., 2009 AIR SCW 4916
Sanobanu Nazirbhai Mirza & others versus Ahmedabad Municipal Transport Service, 2013 AIR SCW 5800
Smt. Savita versus Bindar Singh & others, 2014 AIR SCW 2053

For the appellant: Ms. Archana Dutt, Advocate.
For the respondents: Respondents No. 1 and 2 already ex-parte.
Mr. B.M. Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice

Appellant-claimant-injured has invoked the jurisdiction of this Court in terms of Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (for short "the MV Act") and has questioned the judgment/award, dated 6th October, 2007, made by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Chamba Division, Chamba,(H.P.) (for short "the Tribunal") in M.A.C. Petition No. 75 of 2004, titled as Jagdish versus Rahul Bus Service and others, whereby the claim petition filed by the claimant came to be dismissed (for short "the impugned award").

2. Before I give the brief resume of the case, I deem it proper to record herein that the appellant-claimant-injured has been driven from pillar to post and post to pillar by the authorities including the Tribunal and the insurer, who have succumbed to the procedural wrangles and tangles and this is how the purpose of granting of compensation in terms of the mandate of Chapters X, XI and XII of the MV Act stands defeated.

3. The appellant-claimant-injured had filed a claim petition before the Tribunal, which was diarized as MAC Petition No. 54 of 2002, and came to be dismissed on 27th May, 2004. He filed a fresh claim petition on 3rd June, 2004, which was dismissed vide the impugned award on the ground that claim petition was barred in view of the dismissal of first claim petition.

4. The core points for consideration involved in this appeal are:

(i) Whether the appellant-claimant-injured has pleaded and proved that the driver, namely Shri Som Raj, had driven the offending vehicle, i.e. bus, bearing registration No. HP-38-7596, rashly and negligently on 3rd July, 2002, at about 1.30 p.m. near Loona Pul (Gehra), and caused the accident, of which he is victim?

(ii) Whether registration of First Information Report (for short "FIR") was required for maintaining the claim petition?

(iii) Whether second claim petition was not maintainable and was barred in view of the fact that the first claim petition filed by the appellant-claimant-injured was dismissed in default in absence of both the parties, vide order, dated 27th May, 2004?

5. In order to determine all these issues, it is necessary to give brief resume of the lis, which has given birth to the appeal in hand.

6. Shri Jagdish, appellant-claimant-injured filed a claim petition before the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.12,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition, on the ground that he became the victim of a vehicular accident, which was caused by the driver, namely Shri Som Raj, while driving the offending vehicle, i.e. bus, bearing registration No. HP-38-7596, rashly and negligently on 3rd July, 2002, at about 1.30 p.m. near Loona Pul (Gehra).

7. The claim petition was resisted by respondents No. 1 and 3, i.e. the owner-insured and the insurer on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections.

8. It is apt to record herein that respondent No. 2, i.e. the driver of the offending vehicle has not contested the claim petition and was set ex-parte.

9. After examining the pleadings and the documents, the Tribunal framed following issues on 3rd December, 2004:

"1. Whether the accident took place due to the rash and negligent driving of bus No. HP-38-7596 by its driver in which petitioner received injuries as alleged? OPP

2. Whether the petitioner is entitled to compensation, if so, to what amount and from whom? OP Parties

3. Whether the petition is not maintainable and the petitioner has no cause of action to file the present petition as alleged? OPR

4. Whether the vehicle was being used in contravention of the provisions contained in the Motor Vehicles Act as well as the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy as alleged? OPR-3

5. Whether the driver of the vehicle was not holding a valid and effective driving licence at the time of accident as alleged? OPR

6. Relief."

10. Appellant-claimant-injured has examined Dr. Rakesh Verma as PW-2, Shri Mulkh Raj as PW-3, Shri Sonu as PW-4, Shri Natho Ram as PW-5, Shri Mohan Lal as PW-6, Dr. S.K. Jain as PW-7, Shri Manoj Davis as PW-8, Dr. Maharaj Krishan Man as PW-9, himself appeared in the witness box as PW-1 and placed on record the disability certificate as Ext. PW-2/A, prescription slips as Ext. PW-7/A & Ext. PW-7/B, treatment summary as Ext. PW-9/A to Ext. PW-9/C, Medical bills as Ext. PA to Ext. PH, Ext. PJ to Ext. PM, Ext. P-1 to Ext. 155, Other medical bills and bus tickets and taxi receipts as Mark X-1 to X-20, X-28 to 30, X-42 to X-44, X-58, 60, 61, 67, 71 to 74, X-96, 101, 105, 109, 127, 137, 138, 139, X-148, 151, 160, 176, 180 to 183, X-186, X-197, X-208, X-211, 212, 217, 218, X-221 to 458.

11. Respondents have not led any evidence and have placed on record the copies of insurance policy as Ext. R-1, route permit as Ex. R-2, Registration certificate as Ext. R-3 and driving licence as Ext. R-4. Thus, the evidence led by the claimant-injured has remained unrebutted.

Issue No. 1:

12. Respondents No. 1 and 3 have not denied the averments contained in the claim petition specifically, but evasively. The claimant-injured has specifically averred in para 24 of the claim petition that the accident was outcome of the rash and negligent driving of the offending vehicle by its driver, which has not been specifically denied by respondents No. 1 and 3 in their replies. The driver, against whom rashness and negligence has been alleged, has not contested the claim petition.

13. It is beaten law of land that evasive denial is deemed to be admission in terms of the mandate of Order VIII of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (for short "CPC").

14. The claimant-injured in paras 13 and 22 of the claim petition has given details how he is entitled to compensation. The said details and figures have not been denied by respondents No. 1 & 3 and, as stated hereinabove, respondent No. 2 has not contested the same.

15. It has come in the evidence that the claimant-injured is a motor mechanic by profession, was requested by the driver to repair his vehicle, accordingly, he accompanied the driver, made the repairs and the bus was set in motion, the driver was in a position to drive the said vehicle and started to ply, the claimant-injured also boarded the said bus and unfortunately, that vehicle met with the accident at Loona Pul (Gehra), in which the claimant-injured sustained injuries, was taken to Hospital at Chamba, thereafter was shifted to Sanjivani Hospital, Chamba, where he was admitted on 3rd July, 2002, was referred to CMC Ludhiana on 4th July, 2002, where he remained admitted from 4th July, 2002, to 10th July, 2002. He has undergone treatment and has placed on record the documents, details of which have been given hereinabove, and has proved that he was in hospital. The doctors have stated that the claimant-injured was in hospital as a case of Road Traffic Accident (RTA).

16. PW-2, Dr. Rakesh Verma, stated that he has issued the disability certificate, which has been exhibited as Ext. PW-2/A, and has proved that the claimant-injured has suffered permanent disability to the extent of 40%.

17. PW-9, Dr. Maharaj Krishan Man, who has treated the claimant-injured at CMC Ludhiana, has proved the discharge summary, Ext. PW-9/A, which does disclose that the claimant-injured was admitted in hospital on 4th July, 2002, and was discharged on 10th July, 2002. It is specifically recorded in Ext. PW-9/A that the claimant-injured has sustained injuries in a road traffic accident. Ext. PW-9/B is treatment summary and Ext.PW-9/C is a medical certificate, which do disclose that the claimant-injured was treated with screw fixation with across knee exfix on 4th July, 2002, bone clearance on 7th August, 2002, flap coverage on 16th August, 2002, STSG on 10th September, 2002, Exfix removal on 26th October, 2002 and screw removal on 4th February, 2003.

18. Thus, the claimant-injured has proved that he has sustained injuries, which are outcome of a road traffic accident, which has rendered him permanently disabled to the extent of 40%. He was also under treatment for a pretty long time and all documents on the record from page 109 to 461 are the proof of the fact that he was under treatment and has spent a huge amount on his treatment.

19. The claimant-injured has also led evidence, oral as well as documentary, that he was a mechanic by profession, his services were hired by the driver of the offending vehicle for repairing the said vehicle, he had gone with the driver to the place where the vehicle was stationed, made repairs, vehicle was made functional and, thereafter, bus was in working condition, the driver started the vehicle, the mechanic also boarded the vehicle, met with the accident, in which he sustained injuries.

20. The owner-insured and the insurer have not led any evidence in rebuttal and the driver has not contested the claim petition. Thus, the evidence of the claimant-injured has remained unrebutted.

21. Having said so, the claimant-injured has proved that the driver, namely Shri Som Raj, while driving the offending vehicle, bus, bearing registration No. HP-38-7596, rashly and negligently on 3rd July, 2002, at about 1.30 p.m. near Loona Pul (Gehra), caused the accident, in which he sustained injuries. Accordingly, issue No. 1 is decided in favour of the claimant-injured and against the respondents. Point No. 1 is answered accordingly.

22. Before I deal with issues No. 2 and 3, I deem it proper to determine issues No. 4 and 5.

Issue No. 4:

23. The insurer has taken a stand that the offending vehicle was being driven in breach of the provisions of the MV Act and the terms and conditions of the insurance policy, has not led any evidence, thus, has failed to discharge the onus. Even otherwise, there is not even a single iota of evidence on the record to suggest the fact that the driver had driven the offending vehicle in contravention of the provisions of the MV Act read with the insurance policy. Accordingly, issue No. 4 is determined against the insurer and in favour of the claimant-injured and the insured-owner.

Issue No. 5:

24. It was for the insurer to prove that the driver of the offending vehicle was not having a valid and effective driving licence, has not led any evidence, thus, has failed to discharge the onus. However, the driving licence is on the file as Ext. R-4, which does disclose that the driver was having a valid and effective driving licence. Accordingly, issue No. 5 is decided against the insurer and in favour of the claimant-injured, owner-insured and the driver.

Issue No. 2:

25. Shri Mulkh Raj has appeared in the witness box as PW-3 and deposed that the claimant-injured was working under him and was earning Rs.250/- - Rs.300/- per day.

The statement of PW-3 does support the plea of the claimant-injured and is suggestive of the fact that he would have been earning not less than Rs.9,000/- per month.

26. PW-2, Dr. Rakesh Verma, has stated that he was a member of the Medical Board which has issued the disability certificate in favour of the claimant-injured after examining him and proved the disability certificate, Ext. PW-2/A, in terms of which the claimant-injured has suffered permanent disability to the extent of 40%. Thus, it is a proved fact that it has affected his income to the extent of 40%. Meaning thereby, the claimant-injured has suffered loss of income to the tune of Rs.3,600/- per month.

27. Admittedly, the claimant-injured was 24 years of age at the time of accident. Thus, in order to assess just and appropriate compensation, multiplier of '15' is applicable in view of Schedule-II appended with the MV Act read with the ratio laid down by the Apex Court in the case titled as Sarla Verma (Smt.) and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in AIR 2009 SC 3104 and upheld by a larger Bench of the Apex Court in the case titled as Reshma Kumari & others versus Madan Mohan and another, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 3120. Thus, the claimant-injured is entitled to Rs. 3,600/- x 12 x 15 = Rs.6,48,000/- per annum under the head 'loss of income'.

28. The concept of granting compensation is outcome of Law of Torts. While considering the case for grant of compensation, particularly in injury cases, some guess work has to be done.

29. The Apex Court in case titled as R.D. Hattangadi versus M/s Pest Control (India) Pvt. Ltd. & others, reported in AIR 1995 SC 755, has discussed all aspects and laid down guidelines how a guess work is to be done and how compensation is to be awarded under various heads. It is apt to reproduce paras 9 to 14 of the judgment hereinbelow:

> "9. Broadly speaking while fixing an amount of compensation payable to a victim of an accident, the damages have to be assessed separately as pecuniary damages and special damages. Pecuniary damages are those which the victim has actually incurred and which is capable of being calculated in terms of money; whereas non-pecuniary damages are those which are incapable of being assessed by arithmetical calculations. In order to appreciate two concepts pecuniary damages may include expenses incurred by the claimant: (i) medical attendance; (ii) loss of earning of profit up to the date of trial; (iii) other material loss. So far non-pecuniary damages are concerned, they may include: (i) damages for mental and physical shock, pain suffering, already suffered or likely to be suffered in future; (ii) damages to compensate for the loss of amenities of life which may include a variety of matters, i.e., on account of injury the claimant may not be able to walk, run or sit; (iii) damages for the loss of expectation of life, i.e., on account of injury the normal longevity of the person concerned is shortened; (iv) inconvenience, hardship, discomfort, disappointment, frustration and mental stress in life.
>
> 10. It cannot be disputed that because of the accident the appellant who was an active practising lawyer has become paraplegic on account of the injuries sustained by him. It is really difficult in this background to assess the exact amount of compensation for the pain and agony suffered by the appellant and for having become a life long handicapped. No amount of compensation can restore the physical frame of the appellant. That is why it has been said by courts that whenever any amount is determined as the compensation payable for any injury suffered during an accident, the object is to compensate such injury "so far as money can compensate" because it is impossible to equate the money with the human sufferings or personal deprivations. Money cannot renew a broken and shattered physical frame.

11. In the case Ward v. James, 1965 (1) All ER 563, it was said:

> "Although you cannot give a man so gravely injured much for his "lost years", you can, however, compensate him for his loss during his shortened span, that is, during his expected "years of survival". You can compensate him for his loss of earnings during that time, and for the cost of treatment, nursing and attendance. But how can you compensate him for being rendered a helpless invalid? He may, owing to brain injury, be rendered unconscious for the rest of his days, or, owing to back injury, be unable to rise from his bed. He has lost everything that makes life worthwhile. Money is no good to him. Yet Judges and Juries have to do the best they can and give him what they think is fair. No wonder they find it well-nigh insoluble. They are being asked to calculate the incalculable. The figure is bound to be for the most part a conventional sum. The Judges have worked out a pattern, and they keep it in line with the changes in the value of money."

12. In its very nature whenever a Tribunal or a Court is required to fix the amount of compensation in cases of accident, it involves some guess work, some hypothetical consideration, some amount of sympathy linked with the nature of the disability caused. But all the aforesaid elements have to be viewed with objective standards.

13. This Court in the case of C.K. Subramonia Iyer v. T. Kunhikuttan Nair, AIR 1970 SC 376, in connection with the Fatal Accidents Act has observed (at p. 380):

> "In assessing damages, the Court must exclude all considerations of matter which rest in speculation or fancy though conjecture to some extent is inevitable."

14. In Halsbury's Laws of England, 4th Edition, Vol. 12 regarding non-pecuniary loss at page 446 it has been said :-

> "Non-pecuniary loss : the pattern. Damages awarded for pain and suffering and loss of amenity constitute a conventional sum which is taken to be the sum which society deems fair, fairness being interpreted by the courts in the light of previous decisions. Thus there has been evolved a set of conventional principles providing a provisional guide to the comparative severity of different injuries, and indicating a bracket of damages into which a particular injury will currently fall. The particular circumstances of the plaintiff, including his age and any unusual deprivation he may suffer, is reflected in the actual amount of the award. The fall in the value of money leads to a continuing reassessment of these awards and to periodic reassessments of damages at certain key points in the pattern where the disability is readily identifiable and not subject to large variations in individual cases."

30. The said judgment was also discussed by the Apex Court in case titled as Arvind Kumar Mishra versus New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & another, reported in 2010 AIR SCW 6085, while granting compensation in such a case. It is apt to reproduce para-7 of the judgment hereinbelow:

"7. We do not intend to review in detail state of authorities in relation to assessment of all damages for personal injury. Suffice it to say that the basis of assessment of all damages for personal injury is compensation. The whole idea is to put the claimant in the same position as he was in so far as money can. Perfect compensation is hardly possible but one has to keep in mind that the victim has done no wrong; he has suffered at the hands of the wrongdoer and the court must take care to give him full and fair compensation for that he had suffered. In some cases for personal injury, the claim could be in respect of life time's earnings lost because, though he will live, he cannot earn his living. In others, the claim may be made for partial loss of earnings. Each case has to be considered in the light of its own facts and at the end, one must ask whether the sum awarded is a fair and reasonable sum. The conventional basis of assessing compensation in personal injury cases - and that is now recognized mode as to the proper measure of compensation - is taking an appropriate multiplier of an appropriate multiplicand."

31. The Apex Court in case titled as Ramchandrappa versus The Manager, Royal Sundaram Aliance Insurance Company Limited, reported in 2011 AIR SCW 4787, also laid down guidelines for granting compensation. It is apt to reproduce paras 8 & 9 of the judgment hereinbelow:

"8. The compensation is usually based upon the loss of the claimant's earnings or earning capacity, or upon the loss of particular faculties or members or use of such members, ordinarily in accordance with a definite schedule. The Courts have time and again observed that the compensation to be awarded is not measured by the nature, location or degree of the injury, but rather by the extent or degree of the incapacity resulting from the injury. The Tribunals are expected to make an award determining the amount of compensation which should appear to be just, fair and proper.

9. The term "disability", as so used, ordinarily means loss or impairment of earning power and has been held not to mean loss of a member of the body. If the physical efficiency because of the injury has substantially impaired or if he is unable to perform the same work with the same ease as before he was injured or is unable to do heavy work which he was able to do previous to his injury, he will be entitled to suitable compensation. Disability benefits are ordinarily graded on the basis of the character of the disability as partial or total, and as temporary or permanent. No definite rule can be established as to what constitutes partial incapacity in cases not covered by a schedule or fixed liabilities, since facts will differ in practically every case."

32. The Apex Court in case titled as Kavita versus Deepak and others, reported in 2012 AIR SCW 4771, also discussed the entire law and laid down the guidelines how to grant compensation. It is apt to reproduce paras 16 & 18 of the judgment hereinbelow:

"16. In Raj Kumar v. Ajay Kumar (2011) 1 SCC 343, this Court considered large number of precedents and laid down the following propositions:

"The provision of the motor Vehicles Act, 1988 ('the Act', for short) makes it clear that the award must be just, which means that compensation should, to the extent possible, fully and adequately restore the claimant to the position prior to the accident. The object of awarding damages is to make good the loss suffered as a result of wrong done as far as money can do so, in a fair, reasonable and equitable manner. The court or the Tribunal shall have to assess the damages objectively and exclude from consideration any speculation or fancy, though some conjecture with reference to the nature of disability and its consequences, is inevitable. A person is not only to be compensated for the physical injury, but also for the loss which he suffered as a result of such injury. This means that he is to be compensated for his inability to lead a full life, his inability to enjoy those normal amenities which he would have enjoyed but for the injuries, and his inability to earn as much as he used to earn or could have earned.

The heads under which compensation is awarded in personal injury cases are the following:

"Pecuniary damages (Special damages)

(i) Expenses relating to treatment, hospitalisation, medicines, transportation, nourishing food, and miscellaneous expenditure.

(ii) Loss of earnings (and other gains) which the injured would have made had he not been injured, comprising:

(a) Loss of earning during the period of treatment;

(b) Loss of future earnings on account of permanent disability.

(iii) Future medical expenses.

Non-pecuniary damages (General damages)

(iv) Damages for pain, suffering and trauma as a consequence of the injuries.

(v) Loss of amenities (and/or loss of prospects of marriage).

(vi) Loss of expectation of life (shortening of normal longevity).

In routine personal injury cases, compensation will be awarded only under heads (i), (ii)(a) and (iv). It is only in serious cases of injury, where there is specific medical evidence corroborating the evidence of the claimant, that compensation will be granted under any of the heads (ii)(b), (iii), (v) and (vi) relating to loss of future earnings on account of permanent disability, future medical expenses, loss of amenities (and/or loss of prospects of marriage) and loss of expectation of life."

17. ....

18. In light of the principles laid down in the aforementioned cases, it is suffice to say that in determining the quantum of compensation payable to the victims of accident, who are disabled either permanently or temporarily, efforts should always be made to award adequate compensation not only for the physical injury and treatment, but also for the loss of earning and inability to lead a normal life and enjoy amenities, which would have been enjoyed but for the disability caused due to the accident. The amount awarded under the head of loss of earning capacity are distinct and do not overlap with the amount awarded for pain, suffering and loss of enjoyment of life or the amount awarded for medical expenses."

33. The claimant-injured is also entitled to compensation, in view of the judgments (supra) under various heads, i.e. pecuniary damages and non-pecuniary damages. As discussed hereinabove, the claimant-injured is entitled to Rs.6,48,000/- under the head 'loss of income'.

34. In view of the the disability certificate and the medical record available on the file, it can be safely said that the claimant-injured has suffered for so many years and is suffering even now. Screws have been fixed and removed, has undergone pain and sufferings and has also to undergo such pain and sufferings throughout his life. Viewed thus, the claimant-injured is held entitled to Rs.1,00,000/- under the head 'pain and sufferings undergone' and Rs.1,00,000/- under the head 'pain and sufferings in future'.

35. The injury has affected the amenities of life of the claimant-injured and has made his life virtually a burden. It has shattered his physical frame. By guess, it can be held that the claimant-injured is also entitled to at least Rs.1,00,000/- under the head 'loss of amenities'.

36. The claimant-injured has claimed Rs.5,40,000/- under the head 'medical treatment' including Rs. 5,00,000/- for medicines and operation etc., Rs.30,000/- for transportation (taxi charges) and Rs.10,000/- for attendant charges. He has placed on record the medical documents and the medical bills, which comes to Rs.2,90,753.07/-. The claimant-injured has spent a huge amount on his treatment and has to go for treatment in future also. Accordingly, the claimant-injured is held entitled to

Rs.3,00,000/- under the head 'medical expenditure incurred' and Rs.1,00,000/- under the head 'medical expenditure in future'.

37. Admittedly, the claimant-injured was taken to Chamba Hospital, thereafter to Sanjivani Hospital, Chamba and from the said hospital, was taken to CMC Ludhiana for treatment and had to go to Ludhiana two-three times for follow-up, thus, claimant-injured has spent a lot of amount on transportation charges. He has claimed Rs.30,000/-, though meager, is awarded in favour of the claimant-injured under the head 'transportation charges'.

38. The treatment summary certificate, Ext. PW-9/C, is a proof of the fact that the claimant-injured was admitted and discharged from the hospital on different intervals with effect from 4th July, 2002 to 4th October, 2003, would have been dependent on the attendant. He has pleaded that he was attended upon by the attendants and claimed Rs.10,000/- as attendant charges, is held entitled to Rs.10,000/- under the head 'attendant charges'.

39. Ms. Archana Dutt, learned counsel for the claimant-injured, has stated that he was unmarried at the time of accident, was not in a position to get a suitable match and is dependent on his parents. The father of the claimant-injured, namely Shri Natho Ram, while appearing as PW-5, has deposed that after the accident, the claimant-injured was bed ridden, was and is totally dependent upon them. Thus, the claimant-injured has lost marriage prospects, i.e. was not in a position to get a suitable match, which he would have got, had he not become the victim of the said accident. Thus, I deem it proper to award Rs.1,00,000/- under the head 'loss of marriage prospects'.

40. The question is - who is to be saddled with liability? Admittedly, the offending vehicle was insured. The said factum has not been denied by the insurer-respondent No. 3, i.e. The New India Assurance Company and has failed to discharge the onus to prove issues No. 4 and 5. Viewed thus, the insurer-respondent No.3 has to indemnify and is, accordingly, saddled with entire liability.

Issue No. 3:

41. The next question is - whether the claim petition can be dismissed on the ground that the claimant-injured has not lodged the FIR.

42. I deem it proper to record herein that lodging of FIR or dismissal of criminal case or acquittal cannot be a ground to deny compensation. It was for the doctor at Chamba to inform the police, which he has miserably failed to do so. A question was put to the doctor, while he was appearing as PW-7, as to whether he had lodged FIR. He replied in negative. PW-7 has specifically stated that the documents i.e. the prescription slips, Ext. PW-7/A and Ext. PW-7/B, are not forged.

43. Can a claim petition be dismissed on the ground that FIR was not lodged when there is evidence on the file that the driver had driven the offending vehicle rashly and negligently or can a claim petition be dismissed on the ground of acquittal. The answer is in negative for the following reasons:

44. The findings recorded by the Criminal Court in acquittal cannot be a ground to defeat the rights of the claimants. Even, if the driver is acquitted in the criminal proceedings, that may not be a ground for dismissal of the claim petitions.

45. My this view is fortified by the judgment rendered by the Apex Court in N.K.V. Bros. (P.) Ltd. versus M. Karumai Ammal and others etc., reported in AIR 1980 Supreme Court 1354 wherein a bus hit an over-hanging high tension wire resulting in 26 casualties. The driver earned acquittal in the criminal case on the score that the tragedy that happened was an act of God. The Apex Court held that the plea that the criminal case had ended in acquittal and that, therefore, the civil suit must follow suit, was rightly rejected by the Tribunal. It is apt to reproduce para 2 of the judgment herein:

> "2. The Facts: A stage carriage belonging to the petitioner was on a trip when, after nightfall, the bus hit an over-hanging high tension wire resulting in 26 casualties of which 8 proved instantaneously fatal. A criminal case ensued but the accused-driver was acquitted on the score that the tragedy that happened was an act of God. The Accidents Claims Tribunal which tried the claims for compensation under the Motor Vehicles Act, came to the conclusion, affirmed by the High Court, that, despite the screams of the passengers about the dangerous overhanging wire ahead, the rash driver sped towards the lethal spot. Some lost their lives instantly; several lost their limbs likewise. The High Court, after examining the materials, concluded:
>
> > "We therefore sustain the finding of the Tribunal that the accident had taken place due to the rashness and negligence of R. W. 1 (driver) and consequently the appellant is vicariously liable to pay compensation to the claimant."
>
> The plea that the criminal case had ended in acquittal and that, therefore, the civil suit must follow suit, was rejected and rightly. The requirements of culpable rashness under Section 304A, I.P.C. is more drastic than negligence sufficient under the law of tort to create liability. The quantum of compensation was moderately fixed and although there was, perhaps, a case for enhancement, the High Court dismissed the cross-claims also. Being questions of fact, we are obviously unwilling to re-open the holdings on culpability and compensation."

46. It is also profitable to reproduce relevant portion of para 8 of the judgment rendered by the High Court of Karnataka in a case titled Vinobabai and others versus K.S.R.T.C. and another, reported in 1979 ACJ 282:

> " 8. .... Thus, the law is settled that when the driver is convicted in a regular trial before the Criminal Court, the fact that he is convicted becomes admissible in evidence in a civil proceeding and it becomes prima facie evidence that the driver was culpably negligent in causing the accident. The converse is not true ; because the driver is acquitted in a criminal case arising out of the accident, it is not established even prima facie that the driver is not negligent, as a higher degree of culpability is required to bring home an offence."

47. Reliance is also placed on the judgment made by this Court in Himachal Road Transport Corporation and another versus Jarnail Singh and others, reported in Latest HLJ 2009 (HP) 174, wherein it has been held that acquittal of the driver in the criminal trial will have no bearing on the findings to be recorded by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal whether the driver was negligent or not in causing the accident. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 15 of the judgment herein:

> "15. In view of the definitive law laid down by their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the judgments cited hereinabove, it is now well settled law that the acquittal of the driver in the criminal trial will have no bearing on the findings to be recorded by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal whether the driver was negligence or not in causing the accident. ...."

48. The purpose of granting compensation is just to come to the rescue of the victim of a traffic accident in order to ensure that he should not become victim of the social evils. The Tribunal has to exercise due care and caution and to take special care to see that the innocent victim does not suffer and the driver, owner-insured and the insurer do not escape their liability merely because some doubt here and some obscurity there.

49. The claim petition is to be determined summarily and that is why the CPC is not applicable. Some of the provisions of CPC have been made applicable in terms of the provisions of the Rules framed by the Central Government as well as State Government. The State of Himachal Pradesh has also framed the Himachal Pradesh Motor Vehicle Rules, 1999 (for short "the Rules") in terms of Sections 169 and 176 (b) of the MV Act, and only some of the provisions of CPC have been made applicable.

50. The Tribunal should not throw out the claim petition on flimsy grounds and should not succumb to other niceties. Thus, lodging of FIR is no ground for dismissing the claim petition. Point No. 2 is accordingly determined.

51. The Tribunal has dismissed the claim petition vide the impugned award also on the ground that the claimant-injured had filed earlier claim petition, which was dismissed in default and accordingly point No. 3 was framed hereinabove, which relates to the issue.

52. Chapters X, XI and XII of the MV Act are really social legislation and its aim and object is to reach to the victim of a traffic accident. The legislature thought it proper to remove all technicalities and even to delete the limitation provision from the statute enabling the claimants to receive compensation. Sections 168 and 169 contained in Chapter XII of the MV Act specifically provide that the claim petition should be tried summarily and provisions of CPC are not applicable. Only some of the provisions are applicable, which are made applicable in terms of the Rules (supra). The claim petition cannot be dismissed on the ground that it is barred by some other provisions of law, which are not applicable, for the following reasons:

53. It is beaten law of land that granting of compensation is a welfare legislation and the hypertechnicalities, mystic maybes, procedural wrangles and tangles have no role to play and cannot be made ground to defeat the claim petitions and to defeat the social purpose of granting compensation.

54. My this view is fortified by the judgment of the Apex Court in N.K.V. Bros.'s case (supra). It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 3 of the judgment herein:

> "3. Road accidents are one of the top killers in our country, specifically when truck and bus drivers operate nocturnally. This > proverbial recklessness often persuades the courts, as has been observed by us earlier in other cases, to draw an initial presumption in several cases based on the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur. Accident Tribunals must take special care to see that innocent victims do not suffer and drivers and owners do not escape liability merely because of some doubt here or some obscurity there. Save in plain cases, culpability must be inferred from the circumstances where it is fairly reasonable. The court should not succumb to niceties, technicalities and mystic maybes. We are emphasising this aspect because we are often distressed by transport operators getting away with it thanks to judicial laxity, despite the fact that they do not exercise sufficient disciplinary control over the drivers in the matter of careful driving. The heavy economic impact of culpable driving of public transport must bring owner and driver to their responsibility to their "neighbour". Indeed, the State must seriously consider no-fault liability by legislation. A second aspect which pains us is the inadequacy of the compensation or undue parcimony practised by tribunals. We must remember that judicial tribunals are State organs and Art. 41 of the Constitution lays the jurisprudential foundation for state relief against accidental disablement of citizens. There is no justification for niggardliness in compensation. A third factor which is harrowing is the enormous delay in disposal of accident cases resulting in compensation, even if awarded, being postponed by several years. The States must appoint sufficient number of tribunals and the High Court should insist upon quick disposals so that the trauma and tragedy already sustained may not be magnified by the injustice of delayed justice. Many States are unjustly indifferent in this regard. Emphasis supplied"

55. The Jammu and Kashmir High Court in the case titled as Oriental Insurance Co. versus Mst. Zarifa and others, reported in AIR 1995 Jammu and Kashmir 81, held that the MV Act is Social Welfare Legislation and the procedural technicalities cannot be allowed to defeat the purpose of the Act. It is profitable to reproduce para 20 of the judgment herein:

> "20. Before concluding, it is also observed that it is a social welfare legislation under which the compensation is provided by way of Award to the people who sustain bodily injuries or get killed in the vehicular accident. These people who sustain injuries or whose kith and kins are killed, are necessarily to be provided such relief in a short span of time and the procedural technicalities cannot be allowed to defeat the just purpose of the Act, under which such compensation is to be paid to such claimants."

56. It is also apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 12 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case titled as Sohan Lal Passi versus P. Sesh Reddy and others, reported in AIR 1996 Supreme Court 2627, herein:

> "12. ....While interpreting the contract of insurance, the Tribunals and Courts have to be conscious of the fact that right to claim compensation by heirs and legal representatives of the victims of the accident is not defeated on technical grounds. Unless it is established on the materials on record that it was the insured who had wilfully violated the condition of the policy by allowing a person not duly licensed to drive the vehicle when the accident took place, the insurer shall be deemed to be a judgment-debtor in respect of the liability in view of sub-section (1) of Section 96 of the Act. It need not be pointed out that the whole concept of getting the vehicle insured by an insurance company is to provide an easy mode of getting compensation by the claimants, otherwise in normal course they had to pursue their claim against the owner from one forum to the other and ultimately to execute the order of the Accident Claims Tribunal for realisation of such amount by sale of properties of the owner of the vehicle. The procedure and result of the execution of the decree is well known."

57. It is apt to reproduce Rule 232 of the Rules herein:

*"232. The Code of Civil Procedure to apply in certain cases:-

The following provisions of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, shall so far as may be, apply to proceedings before the Claims Tribunal, namely, Order V, Rules 9 to 13 and 15 to 30; Order IX; Order XIII; Rule 3 to 10; Order XVI, Rules 2 to 21; Order XVII; Order XXI and Order XXIII, Rules 1 to 3."

58. In terms of the provisions of the Rule 232 (supra), Order IX CPC is applicable.

59. Before I deal with the provisions relating to dismissal in default, restoration, limitation and other aspects, I deem it proper to reproduce the order of dismissal passed in the claim petition by the Tribunal on 27th May, 2004, herein:

"27.5.2004:
Present: None.
Be called again.

Sd/-
MACT, Chamba.

Called again.
Present: None.

The case has been called thrice during the day, but none appeared on behalf of the parties. Therefore, the petition is dismissed in default. Be consigned to the record room after due completion.

Announced in the open Court this 27th day of May, 2004

Sd/-
(P.D. Goel)
Motor Accident Claims Tribunal
Chamba Division, Chamba (HP)"

60. The said claim petition was dismissed in absence of both the parties. Order IX Rule 4 CPC is applicable. It is apt to reproduce Order IX Rule 4 CPC herein:

"Order IX. Appearance of Parties and Consequence of Non-appearance.

....

4. Plaintiff may bring fresh suit or Court may restore suit to file. - Where a suit is dismissed under rule 2 or rule 3, the plaintiff may (subject to the law of limitation) bring a fresh suit; or he may apply for an order to set the dismissal aside, and if he satisfied the Court that there was sufficient cause for such failure as is referred to in rule 2, or for his non-appearance, as the case may be, the Court shall make an order setting aside the dismissal and shall appoint a day for proceeding with the suit."*

61. While going through this provision of law, it mandates that in case a suit is dismissed in default in absence of both the parties, is not barred from filing a fresh suit, but within the period of limitation. Thus, the only fetter/restriction contained in this provision of law is that fresh suit can be filed provided it is not barred by time.

62. Admittedly, the fresh claim petition has been filed on 3rd June, 2004, i.e. within one month from the date of dismissal of the first claim petition and claim petition relates to accident, which has occurred on 3rd July, 2002.

63. Whether the second/fresh claim petition was barred? The answer is in the negative for the following reasons:

64. The application for restoration can be made in terms of Order IX Rule 4 CPC within thirty days. In the instant case, fresh claim petition has been filed on 3rd June, 2004. If we treat this as an application, it is within time, but instead of application for restoration, fresh claim petition came to be filed.

65. This Court in a latest judgment, dated 1st May, 2015, in the case titled as Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Shri Kishan Chand & others, being FAO No. 186 of 2008, held that fresh claim petition can be filed. It is apt to reproduce paras 12 and 15 of the judgment herein:

12. The next argument of the learned counsel for the appellant-insurer that the claim petition was not maintainable because the first claim petition came to be dismissed in default, was not restored, is not tenable for the reason that in terms of Order IX Rule 4 CPC, a fresh suit can be filed, provided it is not hit by limitation.

13. ....

14. ....

15. The claim petition is to be taken to its logical end without any delay, that too, summarily. The cumbersome procedure is not to be followed in view of the mandate of Sections 169 and 176 (b) of the MV Act."

66. The MV Act has been amended in the year 1994, it has gone through a sea change and provisions of Section 166 (3) of the Act stand deleted, which prescribed limitation period for filing claim petition. The purpose of deletion of the said provision was that the victim should get compensation and delay in filing the petition and limitation period should not come in his way. The Apex Court dealt with this issue in the case titled as Sohan Lal Passi's case (supra).

67. The limitation period is not prescribed for filing claim petition in terms of the mandate of Section 166 of the MV Act after deletion of Section 166 (3) of the MV Act. Therefore, claim petition can be filed at any time. Viewed thus, second claim petition was not barred in terms of mandate of Order IX Rule 4 CPC read with other laws applicable.

68. The Apex Court, while dealing with Section 166 (3) of the MV Act, in a case titled as New India Assurance Co. Ltd. versus C. Padma and another, reported in AIR 2003 Supreme Court 4394, held that Court should be untrammelled by the technicalities and reach the injured-victim in order to achieve the goal of social legislation, the aim of which is to provide cheap, fast and speedy compensation to them in order to save them from social evils. It is apt to reproduce paras 7 and 12 of the judgment herein:

> "7. In the instant case, at the time when the respondents had filed claim petition on 2-11-1995, the situation was completely different. Sub-section (3) of Section 166 of the Act had been omitted by Act 53 of 1994 w.e.f. 14-11-1994. The result of the Act 53 of the Motor Vehicles (Amendment) Act, 1994 is that there is no limitation prescribed for filing claim petitions before the Tribunal in respect of any accident w.e.f. 14-11-1994.
>
> 8 to 11. ....
>
> 12. Learned counsel for the appellant, next contended that since no period of limitation has been prescribed by the Legislature. Article 137 of the Limitation Act may be invoked, otherwise, according to him, stale claims would be encouraged leading to multiplicity of litigation for non-prescribing the period of limitation. We are unable to countenance with the contention of the appellant for more than one reason. Firstly, such an Act like Motor Vehicles Act is a beneficial legislation aimed at providing relief to the victims or their families, if otherwise the claim is found genuine. Secondly, it is a self contained Act which prescribes mode of filing the application, procedure to be followed and award to be made. The Parliament, in its wisdom, realised the grave injustice and injury being caused to the heirs and legal representatives of the victims who suffer bodily injuries/die in accidents, by rejecting their claim petitions at the threshold on the ground of limitation, and purposely deleted sub-section (3) of Section 166, which provided the period of limitation for filing the claim petitions and this being the intendment of the Legislature to give effective relief to the victims and the families of the motor accidents untrammelled by the technicalities of the limitation, invoking of Article 137 of the Limitation Act would defeat the intendment of the Legislature."

69. The Apex Court in a case titled as Mantoo Sarkar versus Oriental Insurance Company Limited and others, reported in (2009) 2 Supreme Court Cases 244, held that MV Act is a special statute; the jurisdiction and powers of the Tribunal are wider than Civil Court and it is for the Tribunal-Presiding Officer to try to achieve the goal as early as possible while keeping in view the mandate of Section and the words used. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 11 herein:

> "11. ....
>
> The said Act is a special statute. The jurisdiction of the Tribunal having regard to the terminologies used therein must be held to be wider than the civil court."

70. The Andhra Pradesh High Court in a case titled as Hussain Pasha versus Andhra Pradesh State Road Trans. Corpn. & Anr., reported in II (2007) ACC 454, held that second claim petition is maintainable and dismissal of earlier claim petition cannot be the ground for dismissing the latter one. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 4 of the judgment herein:

> "4. ....Therefore, I hold that the Tribunal was in error in dismissing the O.P. of the appellant on the ground that the earlier O.P. was dismissed for default and that his remedy is to file a petition for the restoration of earlier O.P. If a petition for restoration of the earlier O.P. were to be filed, either that O.P. or this O.P. has to be withdrawn because two O.Ps. are not maintainable in respect of same accident. Because the earlier O.P. was dismissed for default for non-prosecution, appellant can proceed with the prosecution of this O.P. the point is answered accordingly."

71. The High Court of Jharkhand at Ranchi in a case titled as Karmi Devi versus Satendra Kumar Singh and another, reported in 2010 ACJ 1661, held that plaintiff/claimant has two remedies, i.e. filing of fresh suit or application for restoration of the suit. It is apt to reproduce para 15 of the judgment herein:

> "15. In the light of the provisions contained in Order 9 and the law discussed hereinabove, it can be safely concluded that in case of dismissal of suit under Order 9, rule 4, C.P.C. the plaintiff has both the remedies of filing of fresh suit or application for restoration of the suit. If he chooses one remedy he is not debarred from availing himself of the other remedy. Both these remedies are simultaneous and would not exclude either of them."

Applying the principle to the instant case, limitation is not applicable. Thus, the claimant has rightly filed fresh/second claim petition.

72. The High Court of Rajasthan, Jaipur Bench in a case titled as Savitri and others versus M.A.C.T.-cum-District and Sessions Judge, Jhunjhunu and others, reported in 2013 ACJ 1361, held that when a claim petition has not been decided on merits and was dismissed in default without entering into the merits, the Court should take pragmatic view rather than going into the technicalities and should decide the claim petition on merits enabling the claimant to reap the fruits. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 5 of the judgment herein:

> "5. The Act of 1988 being a beneficial legislation, the court has to, in a situation like this, take a pragmatic view of the matter rather than being too technical and, in the facts of this case, when it is clear that > there was no adjudication on merits, the claimants cannot be left in the lurch without any remedy."

73. The Apex Court, in a case tilted as New India Assurance Co. Ltd. versus R. Srinivasan, reported in AIR 2000 Supreme Court 941, while dealing with a case of similar facts, which had arisen from a complaint under the Consumer Protection Act (68 of 1986), held that it is permissible to file a second case. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 16 and para 20 of the judgment herein:

> "16. ....The fact that the case was not decided on merits and was dismissed in default of non-appearance of the complainant cannot be overlooked and, therefore, it would be permissible to file a second complaint explaining why the earlier complaint could not be pursued and was dismissed in default.
>
> 17 to 19. ....
>
> 20. In the instant case, the vital fact of there being an insurance cover in favour of the respondent is not disputed. The loss suffered by the respondent is not disputed and the claim of the respondent is also not questioned. The only point urged before the State Commission as also before the National Commission and, for that matter, before us is that on account of the first complaint having been dismissed in default and the complaint having not been restored, the second complaint would not lie. The interest of justice, in our opinion, cannot be defeated by this rule of technicality. The rules of procedure, as has been laid down by this Court a number of times, are intended to serve the ends of justice and not to defeat the dispensation of justice. The respondent had suffered loss which was squarely covered by the Policy of Insurance granted by the appellant. Since his claim is not being questioned before us on merits and is being sought to be defeated on the technical plea referred to above. We are not prepared to interfere with the orders passed by the District Forum, the State Commission and the National Commission, particularly as it is stated before us that the whole of the claim amount has already been paid to the respondent."

74. Having said so, the second claim petition was maintainable and the Tribunal has fallen in an error in holding that it was barred by time and was not maintainable.

75. The argument of the learned counsel for insurer that the claimant is caught by doctrine of res judicata, is not tenable for the reason that the doctrine of res judicata is applicable when there is a decision on merits.

76. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of Section 11 of the CPC herein:

> "11. Res Judicata. - No Court shall try any suit or issue in which the matter directly and substantially in issue has been directly and substantially in issue in a former suit between the same parties, or between parties under whom they or any of them claim, litigating under the same title, in a court competent to try such subsequent suit or the suit in which such issue has been subsequently raised, and has been heard and finally decided by such Court.

.........................."

77. The claim petition was dismissed in default without entering into and discussing the merits. On the plain reading of Section 11 (supra), one comes to an inescapable conclusion that the doctrine of res judicata is not applicable.

78. However, this question was raised before the High Court of Jharkhand at Ranchi in Karmi Devi's case (supra). It is apt to reproduce paras 17 and 20 of the judgment herein:

"17. The principle of res judicata is based on the common law maxim nemo debet bis vexari pro una et eadem causa, which means that no man shall be vexed twice over the same cause of action. It is a doctrine applied to give finality to a lis. According to this doctrine, an issue or a point once decided and attains finality, should not be allowed to be reopened and re-agitated in a subsequent suit. In other words, if an issue involved in a suit is finally adjudicated by a court of competent jurisdiction, the same issue in a subsequent suit cannot be allowed to be re-agitated. It is, therefore, clear that for the application of principle of res judicata, there must be an adjudication of an issue in a suit by a court of competent jurisdiction.

18. ....

19. ....

20. From a plain reading of the term 'decree', it is manifestly clear that to constitute a decree, there must be a formal expression of an adjudication which conclusively determines the right of the parties with regard to all or any of the matters in controversy in the suit, but the decree shall not include any adjudication from which an appeal lies as an appeal from an order or any order of dismissal for default. It is, therefore, evidently clear that a dismissal of a suit or application for default particularly under Rule 2 or Rule 3 of Order 9, C.P.C., is not the formal expression of an adjudication upon any right claimed or the defence set up in a suit. An order of dismissal of a suit or application in default is also not appealable order as provided under Order 43 of the Code of Civil Procedure. If we read Order 43, C.P.C., we will find that orders passed under Order 9, Rule 9, C.P.C. or Order 9, Rule 13, C.P.C., are made appealable but an order passed under Order 9, Rule 4, C.P.C. is not appealable. It is, therefore, clear that an order of dismissal of a suit or application in default under Rule 2 or Rule 3 of Order 9, C.P.C, is neither an adjudication or a decree nor it is an appealable order. If that is so, such order of dismissal of a suit under Rule 2 or Rule 3 of Order 9, C.P.C, does not fulfil the requirement of the term 'judgment' or 'decree', inasmuch as there is no adjudication. In my considered opinion, therefore, if a fresh suit is filed, then such an order of dismissal cannot and shall not operate as res judicata."

79. The Apex Court has dealt with this issue in a case titled as Sheodan Singh versus Daryao Kunwar, reported in AIR 1966 Supremem Court 1332.

80. The Apex Court in a latest judgment in the case titled as Erach Boman Khavar versus Tukaram Shridhar Bhat and another, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 61, held that there should be a conscious adjudication of an issue and the plea of res judicata cannot be taken aid of unless there is an expression of an opinion on merits. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 34 of the judgment herein:

> "34. From the aforesaid authorities it is clear as crystal that to attract the doctrine of res judicata it must be manifest that there has been conscious adjudication of an issue. A plea of res judicata cannot be taken aid of unless there is an expression of opinion on the merits..................."

81. Thus, the argument of the learned counsel for the insurer that the claim petition is caught by law of res judicata and barred by limitation and other provisions of law, is devoid of any force and is rejected.

82. Viewed thus, it is held that the Tribunal has fallen in an error in dismissing the claim petition. Point No. 3 is replied and decided accordingly.

83. Delay has crept-in because of the fact that the Tribunal has wrongly applied the procedure and rules, which have defeated the very purpose of the MV Act. Rules and procedure are meant for achieving the purpose of the Act and not to defeat the same. Unfortunately, rules have been applied, which have not only defeated the very purpose of the Act, but has made the claimant-injured to run from pillar to post and post to pillar. The delay caused in the case in hand is really a terrible commentary and suggests how we have reached the claimant-injured, who is the victim of a road traffic accident. It pains me to record herein that delay has taken away the settings of the law.

84. The claimant-injured has claimed compensation to the tune of Rs.12,00,000/-, as per the details given in the claim petition, however, while making the assessment (supra), it appears that the claimant-injured is entitled to compensation more than claimed.

85. The question is - Whether the Tribunal or Appellate Court is/are within its/their jurisdiction to grant more compensation than what is claimed?

86. It would be profitable to reproduce Section 168 (1) of the MV Act herein:

> "168. Award of the Claims Tribunal. - On receipt of an application for compensation made under section 166 , the Claims Tribunal shall, after giving notice of the application to the insurer and after giving the parties (including the insurer) an opportunity of being heard, hold an inquiry into the claim or, as the case may be, each of the claims and, subject to the provisions of section 162 may make an award determining the amount of compensation which appears to it to be just and specifying the person or persons to whom compensation shall be paid and in making the award the Claims Tribunal shall specify the amount which shall be paid by the insurer or owner or driver of the vehicle involved in the accident or by all or any of them, as the case may be:

......................"

87. The mandate of Section 168 (1) (supra) is to 'determine the amount of compensation which appears to it to be just'.

88. The word "just' has been defined in the Webster's Encyclopedic Unabridged Dictionary of the English Language, Deluxe Edition, at page No. 1040, herein:

> "just, adj. 1. guided by truth, reason, justice, and fairness: We hope to be just in our understanding of such difficult situation. 2. done or made according to principle; equitable; proper: a just reply. 3. based on right; rightful; lawful; a just claim. 4. in keeping with truth or fact; true; correct: a just analysis. 5. given or awarded rightly; deserved, as a sentence, punishment, or reward: a just penalty. 6. in accordance with standards or requirements; proper or right: just proportions. 7. (esp. in Biblical use) righteous. 8. actual, real, or genuine. -adv. 9. within a brief preceding time; but a moment before: The sun just came out. 10. exactly or precisely: This is just what I mean. 11. by a narrow margin: barely: The arrow just missed the mark. 12. only or merely: he was just a clerk until he became ambitious. 13. actually; really; positively: The weather is just glorious."

89. In the Oxford Advanced Learner's Dictionary, the word "just" has been defined at page No. 702, as under:

> "just. - adv. 1. exactly, 2. at the same moment as, 3. as good,nice, easily, etc., 4. after, beefore, under, etc. sth, 5. used to say that you/sb did sth very recently, 6. at this/that moment, 7. about/going to do sth, 8. simply, 9. (informal) really; completely, 10. to do sth only, 11. used in orders to get sb's attention, give permission etc., 12. used to make a polite request, excuse etc., 13. could/might/may - used to show a slight possibility that sth is true to will happen, 14. used to agree with sb..........
>
> adj. 1. that most people consider to be morally fair and reasonable, 2. people who are just 3. appropriate in a particular situation."

90. It is for the Tribunal or the Appellate Court to determine what is just compensation. The claimant-injured is a rustic villager, illiterate, hailing from a rural area, i.e. District Chamba, which is a tribal area, can he be deprived of the higher compensation, to which he is entitled to, which appears to the Court to be just. The answer is in negative.

91. Keeping in view the object of granting of compensation and the legislature's wisdom read with the amendment made in the MV Act in the year 1994, it is for the Tribunal or the Appellate Court to assess the just compensation and is within its powers to grant the compensation more than what is claimed for the following reasons:

92. This Court in a case titled as United India Insurance Company Ltd. versus Smt. Kulwant Kaur, reported in Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) 174, held that the Tribunal as well as the Appellate Court is/are within the jurisdiction to enhance the compensation and grant more than what is claimed. It is apt to reproduce paras 41 to 45 of the judgment herein:

> "41. Before I determine what is the just and adequate compensation in the case in hand, it is also a moot question – whether the Appellate Court can enhance compensation, even though, not prayed by the medium of appeal or by cross-objection.
>
> 42. The Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as "the MV Act") has gone through a sea change in the year 1994 and sub-section (6) has been added to Section 158 of the MV Act, which reads as under:
>
> > "158. Production of certain certificates, licence and permit in certain cases. -
> >
> > ..................................
> >
> > (6) As soon as any information regarding any accident involving death or bodily injury to any person is recorded or report under this section is completed by a police officer, the officer incharge of the police station shall forward a copy of the same within thirty days from the date of recording of information or, as the case may be, on completion of such report to the Claims Tribunal having jurisdiction and a copy thereof to the concerned insurer, and where a copy is made available to the owner, he shall also within thirty days of receipt of such report, forward the same to such Claims Tribunal and Insurer."
>
> In terms of this provision, the report is to be submitted to the Tribunal having the jurisdiction.
>
> 43. Also, an amendment has been carried out in Section 166 of the MV Act and sub-section (4) stands added. It is apt to reproduce sub-section (4) of Section 166 of the MV Act herein:
>
> > "166. Application for compensation. -
> >
> > ......................................
> >
> > (4) The Claims Tribunal shall treat any report of accidents forwarded to it under sub-section (6) of Section 158 as an application for compensation under this Act."
>
> It mandates that a Tribunal has to treat report under Section 158 (6) (supra) of the MV Act as a claim petition. Thus, there is no handicap or restriction in granting compensation in excess of the amount claimed by the claimant in the claim petition.
>
> 44. Keeping in view the purpose and object of the said provisions read with the mandate of Section 173 of the MV Act, I am of the view that the Appellate Court is exercising the same powers, which the Tribunal is having. Also, sub-clause (2) of Section 107 of the Code of Civil Procedure (hereinafter referred to as "the CPC") mandates that the Appellate Court is having all those powers, which the trial Court is having. It is apt to reproduce Section 107 sub-clause (2) of the CPC herein:

> *"107. Powers of Appellate Court. -
>
> ................................
>
> (2) Subject as aforesaid, the Appellate Court shall have the same powers and shall perform as nearly as may be the same duties as are conferred and imposed by the Code on Courts of original jurisdiction in respect of suits instituted therein."

45. Thus, in the given circumstances, the Tribunal as well as the Appellate Court is within the jurisdiction to enhance the compensation. "

93. The same view was taken by the Apex Court in the case of Nagappa versus Gurudayal Singh and others, reported in AIR 2003 Supreme Court 674. It is apt to reproduce paras 7, 9 and 10 of the judgment herein:

> "7. Firstly, under the provisions of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, (hereinafter referred to as "the MV Act") there is no restriction that compensation could be awarded only up to the amount claimed by the claimant. In an appropriate case where from the evidence brought on record if Tribunal/Court considers that claimant is entitled to get more compensation than claimed, the Tribunal may pass such award. Only embargo is – it should be 'Just' compensation, that is to say, it should be neither arbitrary, fanciful nor unjustifiable from the evidence. This would be clear by reference to the relevant provisions of the M.V. Act. Section 166 provides that an application for compensation arising out of an accident involving the death of or bodily injury to, persons arising out of the use of motor vehicles, or damages to any property of a third party so arising, or both, could be made (a) by the person who has sustained the injury; or (b) by the owner of the property; (c) where death has resulted from the accident, by all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased; or (d) by any agent duly authorised by the person injured or all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased, as the case may be. Under the proviso to sub-section (1), all the legal representatives of the deceased who have not joined as the claimants are to be impleaded as respondents to the application for compensation. Other important part of the said Section is sub-section (4) which provides that "the Claims Tribunal shall treat any report of accidents forwarded to it under sub-section (6) of Section 158 as an application for compensation under this Act." Hence, Claims Tribunal in appropriate case can treat the report forwarded to it as an application for compensation even though no such claim is made or no specified amount is claimed.

8. ....

9. It appears that due importance is not given to sub-section (4) of Section 166 which provides that the Tribunal shall treat any report of the accidents forwarded to it under sub-section (6) of Section 158, as an application for compensation under this Act.

10. Thereafter, Section 168 empowers the Claims Tribunal to "make an award determining the amount of compensation which appears to it to be just". Therefore, only requirement for determining the compensation is that it must be 'just'. There is no other limitation or restriction on its power for awarding just compensation."

94. In the case titled as State of Haryana and another versus Jasbir Kaur and others, reported in AIR 2003 Supreme Court 3696, the Apex Court has discussed the expression 'just'. It is apt to reproduce para 7 of the judgment herein:

"7. It has to be kept in view that the Tribunal constituted under the Act as provided in S. 168 is required to make an award determining the amount of compensation which is to be in the real sense "damages" which in turn appears to it to be 'just and reasonable'. It has to be borne in mind that compensation for loss of limbs or life can hardly be weighed in golden scales. But at the same time it has to be borne in mind that the compensation is not expected to be a windfall for the victim. Statutory provisions clearly indicate the compensation must be "just" and it cannot be a bonanza; nor a source of profit; but the same should not be a pittance. The Courts and Tribunals have a duty to weigh the various factors and quantify the amount of compensation, which should be just. What would be "just" compensation is a vexed question. There can be no golden rule applicable to all cases for measuring the value of human life or a limb. Measure of damages cannot be arrived at by precise mathematical calculations. It would depend upon the particular facts and circumstances, and attending peculiar or special features, if any. Every method or mode adopted for assessing compensation has to be considered in the background of "just" compensation which is the pivotal consideration. Though by use of the expression "which appears to it to be just" a wide discretion is vested on the Tribunal, the determination has to be rational, to be done by a judicious approach and not the outcome of whims, wild guesses and arbitrariness. The expression "just" denotes equitability, fairness and reasonableness, and non-arbitrary. If it is not so it cannot be just. (See Helen C. Rebello v. Maharashtra State Road Transport Corporation (AIR 1998 SC 3191)."

95. The same view has been taken by the Apex Court in a case titled as The Divisional Controller, K.S.R.T.C. versus Mahadeva Shetty and another, reported in AIR 2003 Supreme Court 4172.

96. The Apex Court in a case titled as A.P.S.R.T.C. & another versus M. Ramadevi & others, reported in 2008 AIR SCW 1213, held that the Appellate Court was within its jurisdiction and powers in enhancing the compensation despite the fact that the claimants had not questioned the adequacy of the compensation.

97. The Apex Court in the case titled as Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Mohd. Nasir & Anr., reported in 2009 AIR SCW 3717, laid down the same principle while discussing, in para 27 of the judgment, the ratio laid down in the judgments rendered in the cases titled as Nagappa v. Gurudayal Singh & Ors, (2003) 2 SCC 274; Devki Nandan Bangur and Ors. versus State of Haryana and Ors. 1995 ACJ 1288; Syed Basheer Ahmed & Ors. versus Mohd. Jameel & Anr., (2009) 2 SCC 225; National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Laxmi Narain Dhut, (2007) 3 SCC 700; Punjab State Electricity Board Ltd. versus Zora Singh and Others (2005) 6 SCC 776; A.P. SRTC versus STAT and State of Haryana & Ors. versus Shakuntla Devi, 2008 (13) SCALE 621.

98. The Apex Court in another case titled as Ningamma & another versus United India Insurance Co. Ltd., reported in 2009 AIR SCW 4916, held that the Court is duty bound to award just compensation to which the claimants are entitled to. It is profitable to reproduce para 25 of the judgment herein:

> "25. Undoubtedly, Section 166 of the MVA deals with "Just Compensation" and even if in the pleadings no specific claim was made under section 166 of the MVA, in our considered opinion a party should not be deprived from getting "Just Compensation" in case the claimant is able to make out a case under any provision of law. Needless to say, the MVA is beneficial and welfare legislation. In fact, the Court is duty bound and entitled to award "Just Compensation" irrespective of the fact whether any plea in that behalf was raised by the claimant or not. However, whether or not the claimants would be governed with the terms and conditions of the insurance policy and whether or not the provisions of Section 147 of the MVA would be applicable in the present case and also whether or not there was rash and negligent driving on the part of the deceased, are essentially a matter of fact which was required to be considered and answered at least by the High Court."

99. The Apex Court in a latest judgment in a case titled Sanobanu Nazirbhai Mirza & others versus Ahmedabad Municipal Transport Service, reported in 2013 AIR SCW 5800, has specifically held that compensation can be enhanced while deciding the appeal, even though prayer for enhancing the compensation is not made by way of appeal or cross appeal/objections. It is apt to reproduce para 9 of the judgment herein:

> "9. In view of the aforesaid decision of this Court, we are of the view that the legal representatives of the deceased are entitled to the compensation as mentioned under the various heads in the table as provided above in this judgment even though certain claims were not preferred by them as we are of the view that they are legally and legitimately entitled for the said claims. Accordingly we award the compensation, more than what was claimed by them as it is the statutory duty of the Tribunal and the appellate court to award just and reasonable compensation to the legal representatives of the deceased to mitigate their hardship and agony as held by this Court in a catena of cases. Therefore, this Court has awarded just and reasonable compensation in favour of the appellants as they filed application claiming compensation under Section 166 of the M.V. Act. Keeping in view the aforesaid relevant facts and legal evidence on record and in the absence of rebuttal evidence adduced by the respondent, we determine just and reasonable compensation by awarding a total sum of Rs. 16,96,000/- with interest @ 7.5% from the date of filing the claim petition till the date payment is made to the appellants."

100. The Apex Court in a latest judgment in the case titled as Smt. Savita versus Bindar Singh & others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2053, has laid down the same proposition of law and held that the Tribunal as well as the Appellate Court can ignore the claim made by the claimant in the application for compensation. It is apt to reproduce para 6 of the judgment herein:

"6. After considering the decisions of this Court in Santosh Devi as well as Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh (supra), we are of the opinion that it is the duty of the Court to fix a just compensation. At the time of fixing such compensation, the court should not succumb to the niceties or technicalities to grant just compensation in favour of the claimant. It is the duty of the court to equate, as far as possible, the misery on account of the accident with the compensation so that the injured or the dependants should not face the vagaries of life on account of discontinuance of the income earned by the victim. Therefore, it will be the bounden duty of the Tribunal to award just, equitable, fair and reasonable compensation judging the situation prevailing at that point of time with reference to the settled principles on assessment of damages. In doing so, the Tribunal can also ignore the claim made by the claimant in the application for compensation with the prime object to assess the award based on the principle that the award should be just, equitable, fair and reasonable compensation."

101. I have discussed hereinabove, what is the just and appropriate compensation, which is to be awarded to the claimant-injured in the instant case.

102. Having glance of the above discussions, the impugned award is set aside, the claim petition is granted and the claimant is held entitled to compensation to the tune of Rs.14,88,000/- (i.e. Rs. 6,48,000/- + Rs.1,00,000/- + Rs.1,00,000/- + Rs.1,00,000/- + Rs.3,00,000/- + Rs.1,00,000/- + Rs.30,000/- + Rs.10,000/- + Rs. 1,00,000/-) with interest @ 7.5 % per annum from the date of the claim petition on Rs. 3,40,000/- {i.e. medical expenditure already incurred + transportation charges + attendant charges} and on remaining amount, from the date of the impugned award till its realization. The insurer-respondent No. 3 is saddled with liability and is directed to deposit the same within six weeks before the Registry.

103. On deposition, Registry is directed to release 50% of the awarded amount in favour of the claimant-injured through payee's account cheque on proper identification and the remaining 50% is to be deposited in fixed deposits for a period of six years.

104. Viewed thus, the appeal is allowed, the impugned award is set aside and the claim petition is granted, as indicated hereinabove.

105. Send down the record after placing copy of the judgment on Tribunal's file.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

FAOs No. 140, 146, 194 & 195 of 2008
Date of decision: 15.05.2015

1. FAO No. 140 of 2008
Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. ...Appellant
Versus
Geeta Devi & others ..Respondents

2. FAO No. 146 of 2008
Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. ...Appellant
Versus
Raj Kumar & others ..Respondents

3. FAO No. 194 of 2008
Jaiwanti Devi ...Appellant
Versus
Smt. Geeta Devi & others ..Respondents

4. FAO No. 195 of 2008
Jaiwanti Devi ...Appellant
Versus
Sh. Raj Kumar & others ..Respondents

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 149- Petitioner pleaded that deceased had gone to attend the marriage but on return, the vehicle met with an accident- held, that in view of averments made in the petition, injured and deceased were travelling as gratuitous passengers- insurer was rightly directed to satisfy the awards with a right to recovery. (Para-12 to 15)

FAOs No. 140 & 146 of 2008
For the appellant(s): Nemo
For the respondents: Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate, for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Lovneesh Kanwar, Advocate, for respondents No. 2 & 3.

FAOs No. 194 & 195 of 2008
For the appellant(s): Mr. Lovneesh Kanwar, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate, for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Dhruv Shaunak, Advocate, vice Mr. Vikram Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.
Nemo for respondent No. 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

By this judgment and order, all the appeals are being disposed of together because they are outcome of a motor vehicular accident, which was caused by driver, namely, Kali Dass @ Ramesh Kumar, while driving Swaraj Mazda bearing registration No. HP-28-1666, rashly and negligently.

2. In FAOs No. 140 & 146 of 2008, the insurer-Oriental Insurance Company Limited has questioned the awards passed in Claim Petition No. 67 of 2004 titled as Smt. Geeta Devi versus Jaiwanti Devi & others and Claim Petition No. 68 of 2004, titled as Raj Kumar versus Jaiwanti Devi & others, dated 4th January, 2008, hereinafter referred to as 'the impugned awards', on grounds taken in the memo of appeals.

3. By the medium of FAOs No. 194 & 195 of 2008, the owner has questioned the aforesaid impugned awards, on the grounds taken in the memo of appeals.

Brief Facts:

4. The claimants being victims of the motor vehicular accident had filed claim petitions before the Tribunal for grant of compensation, as per the break-ups given in the respective claim petitions. It is averred in the claim petitions that on 08.02.2004, Parvej Kumar and Raj Kumar had boarded Swaraj Mazda bearing registration No. HP-28-1666 to attend a marriage ceremony at village Gharwalhri, Tehsil Sadar, District Mandi, H.P., and while returning back, the vehicle met with an accident, at about 5.30 p.m., near the aforesaid village, which was being driven by driver, namely, Kali Dass @ Ramesh Kumar, rashly and negligently and Parvej Kumar and Raj Kumar sustained injuries and Parvej Kumar succumbed to the injuries.

5. The respondents resisted the claim petitions on the grounds taken in the respective memo of objections.

6. The Tribunal, on the pleadings of the parties, framed common issues in both the claim petitions. It is apt to reproduce the issues framed in Claim Petition No. 67 of 2004:-

> 1. Whether respondent No. 2 was driving the Swaraj Mazda HP-28-1666 on 7.2.2004, at 5.30 p.m., at Village Gharwalhi, in rash and negligent manner, resulting in death of Parvej Kumar, as alleged? ....OPP
> 2. If issue No. 1 is proved, to what amount and from whom the petitioner is entitled? ...OPP
> 3. Whether the driver of the vehicle HP-28-1666 at the time of accident was not holding a effective and valid driving licence and was driving the vehicle in violation of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy, as alleged? OPR-3
> 4. Whether the petitioner alongwith other passenger was traveling as gratuitous passenger in vehicle HP-28-1666, as alleged? If so, its effect? OPR-3

5. Relief."

7. The parties led evidence in both the claim petitions. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, passed the impugned awards, whereby the insurer-Insurance Company was asked to satisfy the impugned awards, with right of recovery.

8. The claimants and the driver have not questioned the impugned awards, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far as it relates to them.

9. The insurer-Oriental Insurance Company has questioned both the impugned awards, by the medium of FAOs No. 140 & 146 of 2008, on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen in error in directing it to satisfy the impugned awards.

10. The owner-insured has also questioned both the impugned awards, by the medium of FAOs No. 194 & 195 of 2008, on the ground that the Tribunal has fallen in error in granting right of recovery to the insurer.

11. The only dispute in these appeals is-whether the Tribunal has rightly granted right of recovery to the insurer. The answer is in the affirmative.

12. The claimants have specifically averred in the claim petitions that claimant Raj Kumar and Parvej Kumar were traveling in the offending vehicle after attending the marriage at Village Gharwalhri, the vehicle met with an accident and they sustained injuries and Parvej Kumar succumbed to the injuries.

13. It is apt to reproduce para 24(i) of Claim Petition No. 67 of 2004 herein:-

> "(i) That on the unfortunate and fateful day of 8-2-2004, deceased alongwith his father Raj Kumar has gone alongwith other persons of village to attend the marriage at village Gharwalhi, Tehsil Sadar, District Mandi, H.P. and while returning from the above marriage in the ill-fated vehicle i.e. Swaraj Mazda bearing No. HP-28-1666, owned by respondent No. 1, which was being driven by respondent No. 2 in very high speed and in very rash and negligent manner and at about 5.30 PM near about 20 mts. ahead from village Gharwalhi on Mandi-Dharampur road, respondent No. 2 lost control over the vehicle and as a result of which the vehicle met with an accident and fell downwards from the road. Due to the above accident, the deceased son of petitioner sustained various injuries on different parts of body which proved fatal, as deceased was removed to Zonal Hospital Mandi where declared dead, as he had succumbed to injuries in way to Hospital."

14. Keeping in view the pleadings in the claim petitions, it can safely be held that the injured and deceased were traveling in the offending vehicle as gratuitous passengers.

15. In terms of the mandate contained in Chapter-XI, Sections 146, 147 and 149 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 read with the fact that claimants are the third party, the Tribunal has rightly directed the insurer to satisfy the impugned award, at the first instance, with right of recovery.

16. Accordingly, the impugned awards are upheld and the appeals are dismissed.

17. The Registry is directed to release the entire compensation amount in favour of claimants, strictly as per the terms and conditions, contained in the impugned awards.

18. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on each file of the claim petitions.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Rakesh Kumar son of Shri Sohan Lal ….Petitioner
Versus
State of H.P. ….Non-petitioner

Cr.MP(M) No. 484 of 2015
Order Reserved on 8th May, 2015
Date of Order 15th May, 2015

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 376(D) and 506 of IPC- it was pleaded that challan has been filed before the Court- statement of eye-witnesses have been recorded and the disposal of the case will take some time- held, that while granting bail, Court has to see the nature and seriousness of offence, character and behaviour of the accused, circumstances peculiar to the accused, reasonable possibility of securing the presence of the accused at the trial and investigation, reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with and the larger interest of the public and State- mere fact that petitioner is in judicial custody and there will be delay in the conclusion of the trial is not sufficient to grant bail- petitioner is facing trial of heinous and grave offence of gang rape – release of the petitioner on bail would affect the trial adversely- bail declined but direction issued to trial Court to dispose of the case expeditiously. (Para-6 to 9)

Cases referred:

Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration), AIR 1978 SC 179
The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh, AIR 1962 SC 253

For the Petitioner: Mr. Ashok Kumar Thakur, Advocate
For the Non-petitioner: Mr. M.L. Chauhan, Additional Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge.

Present bail petition is filed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 for grant of bail in connection with FIR No. 79 of 2014 dated 16.5.2014 registered under Section 376(D) and 506 IPC at P.S. Baleauganj District Shimla (H.P.)

2. It is pleaded that petitioner did not commit any offence. It is further pleaded that petitioner is innocent and he is government employee and working in education department. It is pleaded that challan already stood filed in the Court and statements of five witnesses also stood recorded by learned trial Court. It is pleaded that trial will take long time to conclude. It is also pleaded that petitioner will comply all terms and conditions imposed by the Court in bail order. Prayer for acceptance of bail petition sought.

3. Per contra police report filed. As per police report, co-accused Rakesh Kumar and Ram Parsad @ Ramu were already familiar with each other. There is recital in police report that co-accused Rakesh Kumar is posted as peon in education department. There is further recital in police report that on dated 16.5.2014 co-accused Rakesh Kumar was sent to SBI Kalibari in connection with bank draft and thereafter co-accused Rakesh Kumar did not come back. There is also recital in police report that co-accused Rakesh Kumar at 11 AM went to place i.e. 103 tunnel Shimla and co-accused Ram Parsad @ Ramu met him at tunnel 103 Shimla and thereafter both accused went towards railway track in Summer Hill forest. There is further recital in police report that prosecutrix and her companion Manish Attri met accused persons upon the railway track. There is also recital in police report that thereafter both accused persons afraid prosecutrix and her friend and told the prosecutrix and her friend that police raid was effected and police officials would also caught the prosecutrix and her friend. There is further recital in police report that after creating fear in the mind of prosecutrix and her friend accused persons took the prosecutrix and her friend in forest and thereafter accused persons separated the prosecutrix and her friend upon different path. There is further recital in police report that thereafter both accused persons namely Rakesh Kumar and Ram Parsad @ Ramu committed gang rape upon prosecutrix in forest and threatened the prosecutrix that they would kill her in case she would narrate the incident to anybody. There is further recital in police report that challan already stood filed in Court on dated 11.8.2014 which is pending before learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Shimla. There is recital in police report that statements of seven witnesses already stood recorded and case is listed for further prosecution evidence. Prayer for dismissal of bail petition sought.

4. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner and learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the non-petitioner and also perused the record.

5. Following points arise for determination in this bail petition:-

1. Whether bail petition filed under Section 439 Cr.P.C. is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of bail petition?
2. Final Order.

Findings on Point No.1

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that petitioner is innocent and petitioner did not commit any criminal offence cannot be decided at this stage. Same fact will be decided when the case shall be disposed of on merits after giving due opportunity to both the parties to lead evidence in support of their case.

7. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner that petitioner is in judicial custody since ten months and there will be delay in conclusion of trial and on this ground bail petition filed by petitioner be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Petitioner is facing the trial of heinous and grave offence of sexual assault mentioned under Section 376(D) IPC i.e. gang rape. The direction would be issued to learned trial Court to dispose of the case expeditiously.

8. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner that any condition imposed by Court will be binding upon the petitioner and on this ground bail petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. At the time of granting bail following factors are considered. (i) Nature and seriousness of offence (ii) The character of the evidence (iii) Circumstances which are peculiar to the accused (iv) Possibility of the presence of the accused at the trial or investigation (v) Reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with (vi) The larger interests of the public or the State. See AIR 1978 SC 179 titled Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration). Also see AIR 1962 SC 253 titled The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh. In present case petitioner is facing trial under heinous and grave criminal offence punishable under Section 376(D) of IPC. Court is of the opinion that if petitioner is released on bail at this stage then trial of case will be adversely affected and interest of State and general public will also be adversely affected.

9. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of non-petitioner that if petitioner is released on bail at this stage then petitioner will induce and threat the prosecution witnesses is accepted for the reasons mentioned hereinafter. There is apprehension in the mind of Court that if petitioner is released on bail at this stage then petitioner will threat and induce the prosecution witnesses which would adversely effect the case. In view of gravity of offence punishable under Section 376(D) IPC it is not expedient in the ends of justice to release the petitioner on bail. In view of above stated facts point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2 (Final order)

10. In view of my findings on point No.1 bail petition filed by petitioner under Section 439 Cr.P.C. is rejected. However learned trial Court is directed to dispose of the case expeditiously. Observations made in this order will not effect the merits of case in any manner and will strictly confine for the disposal of this bail petition filed under Section 439 of Code of Criminal Procedure 1973. Pending petition(s) if any also disposed of. Petition filed under Section 439 of Code of Criminal Procedure is disposed of. Pending petition(s) if any also disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Ravi Kumar @ Chimnu son of Sh. Waryam Singh ….Petitioner
Versus
State of H.P. ….Non-petitioner

Cr.MP(M) No. 485 of 2015
Order Reserved on 8th May, 2015
Date of Order 15th May, 2015

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioner for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 366, 376, 354, 506 and 511 read with Section 34 of IPC- it is pleaded that trial will take a long time- prosecution witnesses did not support the prosecution version- original culprits were not apprehended and the petitioners were falsely implicated- held, that contradictions in the statements of the witnesses will be seen by the trial Court at the time of disposal of the case - merely because, there will be delay in the conclusion of trial is no ground for granting bail- petitioner is facing trial for heinous offence of sexual assault, such offences are increasing – every woman has a right to reside in the society with honour and dignity- releasing the petitioner on bail will affect the trial adversely- hence, bail declined but direction issued to the trial Court to conclude the trial expeditiously. (Para-6 to 14)

Cases referred:

Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration), AIR 1978 SC 179
The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh, AIR 1962 SC 253

For the Petitioner: Mr. Suresh Kumar Thakur, Advocate
For the Non-petitioner: Mr. M.L. Chauhan, Additional Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge.

Present bail petition is filed under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 for grant of bail in connection with FIR No. 162 of 2013 dated 31.5.2013 registered under Section 366, 376, 511, 354, 506 read with Section 34 IPC at P.S. Nurpur District Kangra (H.P.)

2. It is pleaded that bail petition be allowed because there is difference in statement recorded under Section 154 Cr.P.C. and tatima statement. It is further pleaded that bail petition be allowed because trial will take long time to conclude. It is also pleaded that witnesses have not supported the prosecution story as alleged by prosecution and on this ground bail application be allowed. It is pleaded that police officials did not catch the original culprits and implicate the petitioner falsely in present case. It is pleaded that false case is filed because hot altercation took place between co-accused Rakesh Kumar alias Mahashu and police and due to anger Rakesh Kumar @ Mahashu slapped on the face of police officials. It is further pleaded that there is no call detail on record and on this ground bail petition be allowed. It is pleaded that statement of prosecutrix and other material witnesses already stood recorded by learned trial Court. It is pleaded that any condition imposed by Court will be binding upon the petitioner. Prayer for acceptance of bail petition sought.

3. Per contra police report filed. As per police report, on dated 31.5.2013 prosecutrix was going to sewing work and when she reached at Makodjaman at 9.40 AM then a Scorpio vehicle white in colour came from behind and same was stopped. There is recital in police report that in vehicle four boys were sitting out of whom two boys came down from vehicle and one of them gagged mouth of prosecutrix while other boy caught the prosecutrix from her hairs and under duress they pushed the prosecutrix inside the vehicle and took the prosecutrix inside the vehicle. There is further recital in police report that thereafter the vehicle was took towards Rehan via Nurpur. There is further recital in police report that prosecutrix tried her best to save herself from the clutches of accused persons but all accused persons threatened the prosecutrix with dire consequences. There is recital in police report that one of co-accused picked up a knife and told the prosecutrix that in case she makes hue and cry then she would be killed. There is further recital in police report that in the meanwhile all four boys started molesting the prosecutrix. There is also recital in police report that one boy put off the clothes of prosecutrix and tried to rape the prosecutrix. There is further recital in police report that when prosecutrix restricted about act of sexual assault then clothes of prosecutrix were given back to her. There is further recital in police report that thereafter the vehicle was stopped at village Kehar and two of boys went outside the vehicle to take the water and thereafter prosecutrix came out of vehicle and cried loudly upon which all four boys took away the vehicle and went away. There is further recital in police report that challan stood filed in the court of learned Additional Sessions Judge Dharamshala on dated 29.7.2013. Prayer for dismissal of bail petition sought.

4. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner and learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the non-petitioner and also perused the record.

5. Following points arise for determination in this bail petition:-

1. Whether bail petition filed under Section 439 Cr.P.C. is liable to be accepted as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of bail petition?
2. Final Order.

Findings on Point No.1

6. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that there is contradiction in statement recorded under Section 154 Cr.P.C. and in statements recorded by learned trial Court and on this ground bail petition filed by petitioner be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that trial is under process and some of prosecution witnesses are still to be examined by learned trial Court. Court is of the opinion that if there is any material contradiction in testimonies of prosecution witnesses same would be appreciated by learned trial Court at the time of final disposal of case. Court is of the opinion that at this stage it is not expedient in the ends of justice to appreciate the evidence recorded by learned trial Court as same would prejudice the merits of case.

7. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner that witnesses have not supported the prosecution story and on this ground bail petition filed by petitioner be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that fact whether there are major contradictions in testimonies of prosecution witnesses or not will be examined by learned trial Court when case would be disposed of on merits. At this stage it is not expedient in the ends of justice to give any finding upon merits of case when criminal case is under process of prosecution evidence.

8. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner that there will be delay in conclusion of trial and on this ground bail petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that direction will be given to learned trial Court to dispose of the case expeditiously because petitioner is in judicial custody and criminal case requires expeditious disposal.

9. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner that hot altercation took place between co-accused Rakesh Kumar and police officials and due to anger co-accused Rakesh Kumar @ Mahashu had slapped on face of police officials and due to above stated facts false case was planted against accused persons and on this ground bail petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court is of the opinion that in bail matters it is not expedient in the ends of justice to give any finding on the merits of the case. Entire plea of accused persons will be considered by learned trial Court at the time of final disposal of criminal case on merits in accordance with law.

10. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that there is no call detail on record and on this ground bail petition filed by petitioner be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is not expedient in the ends of justice to give any findings on merits. Court is of the opinion that if any finding is given at this stage on merits the same will prejudice the fair trial of case because prosecution has not closed its evidence and case is under the process of examination of prosecution witnesses at this stage.

11. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that if bail is not granted to petitioner then whole future of petitioner will be spoiled because age of petitioner is 28 years and petitioner is behind the bars for last 23-24 months and on this ground bail petition be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that no one is above the law and it is well settled law that majesty of law always prevails. It is well settled law that criminal cases are decided upon proved oral as well as documentary facts placed on record. It is also well settled law that criminal cases are not disposed of upon any sentimental feelings. It is well settled law that all criminal Courts are under legal obligation to dispose of the cases in accordance with law.

12. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of petitioner that any condition imposed by Court will be binding upon the petitioner and on this ground bail petition filed by petitioner be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force. Petitioner is facing the trial of heinous offence of sexual assault punishable under Section 366, 376, 511, 354, 506 read with Section 34 IPC. Sexual assaults are increasing in the society day by day. Every woman has legal right to reside in society with honour and dignity. No one can be allowed to sexually assault the woman in barbarous manner. Courts are under legal obligation to protect the life and liberty of women in the society in accordance with law. At the time of granting bail following factors are considered. (i) Nature and seriousness of offence (ii) The character of the evidence (iii) Circumstances which are peculiar to the accused (iv) Possibility of the presence of the accused at the trial or investigation (v) Reasonable apprehension of witnesses being tampered with (vi) The larger interests of the public or the State. See AIR 1978 SC 179 titled Gurcharan Singh and others Vs. State (Delhi Administration). Also see AIR 1962 SC 253 titled The State Vs. Captain Jagjit Singh.

13. Submission of learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of non-petitioner that if petitioner is released on bail at this stage then trial of case will be adversely effected is accepted for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. In present case trial is under process and Court is of the opinion that if petitioner is released on bail at this stage then trial of case will be adversely effected. Court is of the opinion that if petitioner is released at this stage then interest of State and interest of general public will also be adversely effected. In view of above stated facts, point No.1 is answered in negative.

Point No.2 (Final order)

14. In view of my findings on point No.1 bail petition filed by petitioner under Section 439 Cr.P.C. is rejected. However learned trial Court is directed to dispose of the case expeditiously because petitioner is in judicial custody and case requires expeditious disposal. Observations made in this order will not effect the merits of case in any manner and will strictly confine for the disposal of bail petition filed under Section 439 of Code of Criminal Procedure 1973. Petition filed under Section 439 of Code of Criminal Procedure is disposed of. Pending petition(s) if any also disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE P.S.RANA, J.

Sheel Darshan Sood and another. ….Applicants/Plaintiffs.
Versus
Manju Sood and others. ….Non-applicants/Defendants.

OMP No.4026 of 2013 in
Civil Suit No. 16 of 2013.
Order reserved upon OMP on: 7.5.2012.
Date of Interim Order upon OMP: May 15 ,2015

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order V Rule 20- An application for substituted service was filed on the ground that defendants No. 4, 7 and 8 had left Shimla long time ago and their whereabouts were not known- contesting defendant pleaded that defendants No. 4 and 8 had died and instead of bringing on record their legal representatives, present application has been filed- held, that there was no satisfactory proof of death and the factum of the death was disputed – report of process server was contradictory and did not establish the death of the defendants - therefore, an issue framed to determine, whether defendant No. 4 and 8 had died and parties ordered to lead evidence. (Para-5 to 7)

For the applicants:	Mr. Bhupinder Gupta, Sr. Advocate with Mr.Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.
For non-applicants	Mr.R.L.Sood, Sr.Advocate No.1to 3 with Mr. Sanjeev Kumar, Advocate.
For non-applicants No.9 to 18.	Mr.Ashok Sood, Advocate and Mr. Dhreeja Vashisht, Advocate

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S.Rana, Judge.

Interim Order Upon OMP No. 4026 of 2013 filed under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC:

Plaintiffs Sheel Darshan Sood and others filed civil suit for declaration, specific performance, partition by metes and bound and rendition of accounts relating to three storey building situated at 22 The Mall Shimla HP. In civil suit No. 16 of 2013 present application filed by plaintiffs under Order 5 Rule 20 read with Section 151 CPC for serving defendants No.4,7 & 8 by way of substituted service. It is pleaded that co-defendants No.4,7 and 8 namely Shamsher C/o 22 The Mall Shimla 171001, Sh Vijay Kumar Sood son of Sh

Balak Ram Sood resident of 27/2 Upper Flat Lower Bazar Shimla-171001 and Sh Jagar Nath C/o 22 The Mall Shimla-171001 have left Shimla long time ago and their whereabouts are not known. It is pleaded that report was submitted by process server that co-defendants No.4 and 8 have either left Shimla or have died. It is further pleaded that present address or legal heirs of co-defendants No. 4 and 8 not mentioned in the report by process server. It is further pleaded that plaintiffs have no reason to believe that c o-defendants No.4 and 8 have died because they have left Shimla in connection with their business long time ago. It is further pleaded that service upon co-defendants No. 4,7 and 8 be effected under Order 5 Rule 20 of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908 by way of publication in daily News Paper circulated in Himachal Pradesh.

2. Per contra reply filed on behalf of contesting defendants No.1,3,9 to 18 pleaded therein that application under Order 5 Rule 20 read with Section 151 CPC is not maintainable. It is pleaded that defendants No. 4 and 8 have died and in order to avoid to bring on record their legal representatives present application has been filed by plaintiffs. It is further pleaded that both Shamsher and Jagar Nath co-defendants No.4 and 8 have left Shimla long time ago to carry on business in the upper regions of Shimla and their whereabouts are not known since more than 40 years. It is pleaded that plaintiffs have themselves admitted in the plaint that co-defendants namely Shamsher and Jagar Nath have left Shimla long time ago. It is further pleaded that co-defendants No.4 and 8 would be legally presumed to be dead as per Section 108 of the Indian Evidence Act 1872. It is further pleaded that as per report of process server placed on record co-defendants No.4 and 8 have died. It is further pleaded that Additional Registrar (Judicial) on dated 3.4.2013 directed plaintiffs to take steps for bringing on record legal representatives of co-defendants No. 4 and 8. It is further pleaded that present Civil Suit has been filed by plaintiffs against dead persons. It is further pleaded that present application filed by plaintiffs for service of dead persons is not permissible under law. Prayer for dismissal of application filed under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC sought.

3. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the applicants/ plaintiffs and learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-applicants/defendants and also perused entire records carefully.

4. Following points arise for determination in the present application.

1. Whether framing of issues are essential in the ends of justice in view of material proposition of fact affirmed by one party and denied by other party upon application filed under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC?.

2. Final Order.

Finding upon Point No.1.

5. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-applicants/defendants that death certificates of co-defendants No.4 and 8 are already placed on record and on this ground application filed under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC be dismissed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reason hereinafter mentioned. It is well settled law that death certificates are not per se admissible and contents of death certificates of Shamsher Chand and Jagar Nath are disputed by the plaintiffs. It is well settled law that documents should be proved by way of primary evidence or by way of secondary evidence as per Indian Evidence Act 1872. Even Photostat copy of death certificate of Jagar Nath placed on record and primary document of death certificate of Jagar Nath not placed on record as required under Section 61 of Indian Evidence Act 1872. Even permission to prove death of Jagar Nath by way of secondary evidence not sought as required under Indian Evidence Act 1872.

6. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of non-applicants/defendants that in view of the report of process server placed on record relating to co-defendants Shamsher Chand and Jagar Nath application filed under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC be dismissed is also rejected for the reason hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused the report of process server. It is proved on record that the report of process server is written in two different inks with two contradictory reports. In one pen ink process server has submitted report that co-defendant No.4 Shamsher and co-defendant No.8 Jagar Nath are not residing at C/o 22, The Mall Shimla HP and in another pen ink process server has submitted report that or co-defendants No.4 and 8 have died long ago. At this stage it is not expedient in the ends of justice to rely upon two contradictory report of process server written with two pen inks. Admittedly the suit property is situated in Urban area number 22 The Mall Shimla process server while submitting his service report relating to service of co-defendants No.4 and 8 relied upon oral statement of Sh Gautam Sood son of contesting co-defendant No.3 Ajay Kumar Sood. Process server did not verify the fact of death of co-defendant No.4 and 8 from ward Commissioner or from any independent person. It is well settled law that issues are to be framed when material proposition of fact is affirmed by one party and denied by other party. See AIR 1994 HP 27 titled Dr.Om Prakash Rawal Vs. Mr.Justice Amrit Lal Bahri. It is well settled law that dead person cannot be served under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC. It is well settled law that only alive person can be served under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC. It is held that framing of issue is essential in the present case in order to decide present application properly and effectively and to impart substantial justice inter se parties in view of fact that material proposition of fact is affirmed by one party and denied by other party. Hence following issues are framed upon application filed under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC.

1. Whether co-defendants No.4 and 8 who are not heard for more than seven years are alive as alleged under Section 108 of Indian Evidence Act 1872?.

....Onus placed upon applicants/plaintiffs.

2. Whether applicants/plaintiffs have no cause of action to file application under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC against co-defendants No.4 and 8 who are dead as alleged?.

...Onus placed upon non-applicants/defendants.

3. Relief.

Point No.2 (Final Order):

7. In view of findings upon point No.1 case be listed for applicants/plaintiffs evidence upon application filed under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC. The date for recording of applicants/plaintiffs evidence upon application filed under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC will be fixed by Additional Registrar Judicial. It is further ordered that statement of process server who has submitted service report relating to service of co-defendants No. 4 and 8 will also be recorded in the ends of justice. It is further ordered that process server will be examined under Order 5 Rule 19 CPC on oath touching his proceedings in the ends of justice. It is further ordered that till recording of entire evidence of both parties application filed under Order 5 Rule 20 CPC shall remain in abeyance and after recording of entire evidence of both parties same will be disposed of in accordance with law. Ordered accordingly.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Bishan Singh alias Bishnoo ……Appellant.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh …….Respondent.

Cr. Appeal No. 444 of 2012
Reserved on: May 15, 2015.
Decided on: May 16, 2015.

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 and 201 read with Section 34- Deceased had engaged the services of 'B' and other Gorkhas- wife of the deceased told that deceased had not reached his home, although, he had told his mason or labrourers that he was going to his house- a missing report was lodged subsequently- accused got recovered the dead body, a stick, wooden plank with which the dead body was tied and a rope – he also gave Nishandehi of the place where he had killed the deceased- Medical Officer stated that it was not possible to opine about the exact cause of death but the possibility of the head injury could not be ruled out- no material was placed on record to show that there was any dispute regarding the payment- there was discrepancy regarding the person who had recorded the statement of the accused under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act- danda, wooden plank or rope were not sent for analysis to FSL - no entry was made at the time of taking out the case property for production before the Court- held, that in these circumstances, prosecution version was not proved. (Para-17 to 23)

For the appellant: Mr. Bhupinder Ahuja, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Anup Rattan and Mr. M.A.Khan, Addl. AGs, with Mr. P.M.Negi, Dy. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This appeal is instituted against the judgment dated 24/25.7.2012, rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Kinnaur at Rampur, H.P. in Sessions Trial No. 01 of 2011, whereby the appellant-accused Bishan Singh (hereinafter referred to as the accused), who was charged with and tried for offences punishable under Sections 302, 201 and 34 IPC alongwith other co-accused namely, Geeta Ram and Bir Bahadur for offences punishable under Section 201 read with Section 34 IPC, has been convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life and to pay a fine of Rs. 5,000/- under Section 302 IPC and in default to further undergo simple imprisonment for one year. He was further sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for four years under Section 201 IPC read with section 34 IPC and to pay a fine of Rs. 3000/- and in default to undergo simple imprisonment for six months. Accused Geeta Ram and Bir Bahadur were sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for four years each and to pay fine of Rs. 3000/- each under Section 201/34 IPC and in default to further undergo simple imprisonment for six months each.

2. The case of the prosecution, in a nut shell, is that Maghu Ram (hereinafter referred to as the deceased), cousin of the complainant had taken the construction work of the house of one Sh. Ganga Dev (PW-4), in village Urni, on contract basis. The deceased had engaged the services of Bishan Singh as mason and other Gorkhas. On 11.8.2010, Sh. Ganga Dev, telephonically informed Smt. Hira Devi, wife of the deceased that Maghu Ram had not reached his house despite the fact that he had told his mason and labourers that he was coming to his house. They started searching him but to no avail. They searched him at Urni where he had taken the work on contract. Even there, neither the deceased was found nor his labourers. Thus, on 26.8.2010, Sh. Shyam Dass, brother of the deceased lodged a missing report at Police Post Tapri. Thereafter, FIR was lodged on 2.9.2010. During investigation, accused Bishan Dass made a disclosure statement under Section 27 of the Evidence Act that he had concealed the dead body of the deceased in a cave and that in this regard he alongwith the co-accused had knowledge. He also gave Nishandehi of the Dogri of one Sh. Anand Singh, situated at village GTalgale where on 11.8.2010, he had allegedly killed the deceased. The site plan was prepared. Thereafter, he took the police to Makhim jungle from where, he got recovered the dead body, concealed in a cave behind bushes. The dead body was identified by Sh. Shiv Ram (complainant) and one Sh. Rattan Dass from the clothes. The photographs of the place of recovery were taken. Inquest papers were prepared. The dead body was subjected to post mortem examination. The dead body was sent to PHC, Urni and from there it was referred to IGMC, Shimla. On 5.9.2010, accused Bishan Dass also made a disclosure statement under Section 27 of the Evidence Act regarding a Danda which he had kept behind his Dera at place Galgale and also to get the same recovered. On the basis of the statement given Nishandehi of the place situated on the backside of the cowshed of Anand Singh and got recovered a Danda. The sketch map was prepared on the spot before sealing it. Fard Nishandehi and site plan of recovery were prepared. Accused Geeta Ram also made a disclosure statement under Section 27 of the Evidence Act that he could get recovered the bali/wooden plank, used in lifting the dead body to the forest which was kept concealed on the lower side of the cowshed of Sh. Anand Singh, of which he alongwith the co-accused had the knowledge. Upon Nishandehi of the place, bali/wooden plank was got recovered. Fard Nishandehi and site plan of recovery were prepared. Bali was taken into possession. Similarly, accused Bir Bahadur made a disclosure statement under Section 27 of the Evidence Act regarding a rope which had been used to tie the dead body with the Bali and that he could get the same recovered from the Dogri of the house of Sh. Jitender in which accused Bir Bahadur was living. he got recovered the rope and in this regard Fard Nishandehi and site plan of recovery were prepared. The blood samplesof the parents of the deceased were also taken for DNA profiling and sent to FSL, Junga alongwith the teeth and bones, preserved during the post mortem examination of the deceased. On completion of the investigation, challan was put up after completing all the codal formalities. Accused Bishan Dass was tried for offences punishable under Section 302, 201 and 34 IPC whereas accused Geeta Ram and Bir Bahadur were tried for offences punishable under Sections 201/34 IPC.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, has examined as many as 13 witnesses. The accused were also examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. They have denied the prosecution version and pleaded innocence. The learned trial Court convicted and sentenced the accused, as noticed hereinabove. Hence, this appeal.

4. Mr. Bhupinder Ahuja, Advocate for the accused has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove the case against the accused. On the other hand, Mr. M.A.Khan, learned Addl. Advocate General, appearing on behalf of the State, has supported the judgment of the learned trial Court dated 24/25.7.2012.

5. We have heard learned counsel for both the sides and gone through the records of the case carefully.

6. PW-1 Shiv Ram, testified that on 11.8.2010, Ganga Dev had informed Hira Devi wife of Maghu Ram deceased that the deceased has not been coming at the site of construction work. Hira Devi told Ganga Dev that he has not come home. Thereafter, they searched Maghu Ram in the relations and other places but his whereabouts were not known. On 26.8.2010, Shyam Dass, brother of the deceased lodged missing report at Police Post Tapri. On 2.9.2010, they came to know that accused Bishan Dass along with other co-accused had killed him. His statement Ext. PW-1/A was recorded by the police. The accused were arrested. The dead body of the deceased was got recovered by the accused from Markami jungle. He identified the dead body. In his cross-examination, he admitted that ASI Ganga Dev had told telephonically to his sister-in-law that Maghu Ram has performed second marriage and has gone to Kinnaur.

7. PW-2 Smt. Hira Devi, is the wife of the deceased. She testified that on 11.9.2010, Ganga Dev informed her that her husband was not attending the construction work of his house. She told him that he has not visited the house. Thereafter, she made a telephonic call to Bishan Singh accused and he told her that Maghu Ram has performed second marriage and has left the place. She searched her husband with her relations and other places but he was not found anywhere. On 26.8.2010, Shyam Dass lodged missing report at P.P. Tapri.

8. PW-3 Surender Singh, deposed that the accused Bishan Singh made disclosure statement under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act that he has killed Sh. Maghu Ram and has concealed his body in Makhim forest about which only he, Geeta Ram and Bir bahadur have the knowledge. The statement to this effect was recorded vide Ext. PW-3/A. He signed the same along with Rattan Dass and accused Bishan Singh appended his thumb impression on the same. Thereafter, accused Bishan Singh led the police party to the spot where he had killed Maghu Ram and concealed his dead body for three days in the cow shed. In this regard memo Ext. PW-3/B was prepared. Accused Bishan Singh told that on 14.8.2010, at mid night, he alongwith co-accused Bir Bahadur and Geta Ram had taken the dead body of Maghu Ram from the cow shed and had concealed the same in the cave in Mukami forest. Thereafter, accused Bishan Singh led the police party to the place where he had concealed the dead body of Maghu Ram in the cave and get the same recovered which was identified by Shiv Ram, the relative of deceased. Recovery memo Ext. PW-1/B was prepared. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he went to the Police Post Tapri. 5-6 persons were already present there. The statement of accused Bishan Singh under section 27 of the Evidence Act was recorded by the SHO under the supervision of the Superintendent of Police.

9. PW-4 Ganga Dev, deposed that he had given contract of construction work of his house to Maghu Ram. In April, 2010, he started the construction work of his Dogri/house. Accused Bishan Singh was working as mason and co-accused Geeta Ram and Bir Bahadur as labourers. In the month of August, 2010, when deceased Maghu Ram did not attend the construction work, he informed his wife that Maghu Ram was not attending the work and asked her as to whether he was at home or not. The accused persons were arrested on 5.9.2010. He was associated in the investigation by the police. During investigation, accused Bishan Singh made disclosure statement that he has killed Maghu Ram with a danda and has concealed the danda about which only he has the knowledge and he can get recovered the same. Statement to this effect was recorded vide Ext. PW-4/A. Accused led the police party to the place where he had kept concealed the danda at place Galgale. He got recovered danda from behind the Dogari of Anand Singh. Sketch was prepared vide memo Ext. PW-4/B. The danda was taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW-4/C. It was put in parcel of cloth and sealed with seal "K". Accused Geeta Ram also made disclosure statement that the plank used for lifting the dead body of deceased by him and Bir Bahadur and Bishan Singh was concealed by him and only he has the knowledge of the same and can get recovered the same. Memo Ext. PW-4/D was prepared to this effect. Thereafter, accused Geeta Ram led the police party to the place where he had concealed the plank/bali and got recovered the same from fencing. It was taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW-4/E. Thereafter, accused Bir Bahadur also made disclosure statement that he has concealed the rope used for tying the dead body in the house of Jitender. The statement was recorded vide memo Ext. PW-4/F. Accused Bir Bahadur led the police party to the place where he had concealed the rope. It was got recovered. Danda Ext. P-2, Wood Ext. P-3, rope Ext. P-4 were produced in the Court during the recording of the statement of PW-4 Ganga Dev. He admitted in his cross-examination that he was receiving complaints that Maghu Ram used to consume liquor. Maghu Ram used to disclose that he has no issue and wanted to perform second marriage.

10. PW-5 Yash Pal, deposed that on 5.9.2010, SHO got deposited with him the case property in case No. 71/2010 dated 2.9.2010. He made the necessary entries in the malkhana register. On 10.9.2010, HC Sandeep Kumar had deposited the long bone of deceased Maghu Ram along with the clothes of deceased which he brought from IGMC, Shimla. The case property was also entered in the malkhana register on 23.9.2010. The SHO PS, deposited two envelopes and the blood samples of deceased Maghu Ram for DNA profiling which were sealed with seal impression "T" and sent to FSL Junga through Const. Chander Mohan.

11. PW-6 Const. Chander Mohan testified that he has carried the case property to FSL, Junga on 23.9.2010.

12. PW-10 Dr. Piyush Kapila, has conducted the post mortem of the dead body and issued post mortem report Ext. PW-10/B. According to him, from the available remains, it was not possible to opine about the exact cause of death by keeping in view the ante mortem fracture of the head. The possibility of the head injury could not be ruled out.

13. PW-11 S.P. Ashok Kumar, testified that the accused were apprehended and brought before him for interrogation. While in custody, accused Bishan Singh made a disclosure statement vide Ext. PW-3/A. The accused Bishan Singh alongwith co-accused took them to the place where he alongwith the co-accused had killed the deceased Maghu Ram and also the place where his dead body was concealed. Spot map was prepared. Dead body was found hidden beneath stones in jungle Makhim. According to him, the house where the deceased was allegedly killed was three storeyed, including the ground floor.

14. PW-12 Dr. Rajeev Sandal, deposed that the body of the deceased maghu Ram was identified by Shiv Ram son of late Sh. Segi Ram. According to him, it was suspected case of murder. The dead body was found in the shape of Skelton. It was referred to the department of Forensic medicines, IGMC, Shimla for expert opinion. The post mortem report is Ext. PW-12/A.

15. PW-13 ASI Ishwar Singh, deposed that he has taken photographs of the spot and also prepared the CD of the spot from where the dead body was got recovered. In his cross-examination, he deposed that the house where the deceased was killed was double sotreyed.

16. PW-15 SI Tejender Kumar, has carried out the investigation. According to him, FIR Ext. PW-15/A was registered on the basis of Ext. PW-1/A. The dead body was recovered on the basis of the disclosure statement made by the accused Bishan Singh. He also got recovered the danda. Accused Geeta Ram also made the disclosure statement that he could get the bali recovered. He got the same recovered. Accused Bir Bahadur also made the disclosure statement that he had concealed the rope in the house of Tejender. He also got the same recovered. He prepared the spot map of the recovery of danda Ext. PW-15/B, Balli Ext. PW-15/C, rope Ext. PW-15/D. In his cross-examination, he deposed that he was present with the Superintendent of Police when statement under Section 27 of the Evidence Act were recorded. The statement of Bishan Singh was recorded by the Superintendent of Police himself. He visited the spot and there was three storeyed house on the spot.

17. The entire case of the prosecution is based on circumstantial evidence. The case of the prosecution, precisely, is that PW-4 Ganga Dev had engaged deceased Maghu Ram as contractor. He did not come for work. PW-4 Ganga Dev made inquiries from the wife of Maghu Ram. She told that he has not come home. Thereafter, the inquiries were made on 11.8.2010. The missing report was lodged by one Shyam Dass on 16.8.2010. Thereafter, the FIR was registered on 2.9.2010.

18. The FIR has to be registered promptly. It is also settled law that the registration of FIR belatedly would not affect the case of the prosecution if the delay has been satisfactorily explained. However, in this case, the deceased Maghu Ram has gone missing from 11.8.2010. The only statement made by PW-1 Shiv Ram and PW-2 Smt. Hira Devi is that inquiries were made from the relatives and other places. The missing report was lodged after about 15 days on 26.8.2010 by brother of deceased Sh. Shyam Dass. The FIR was registered on 2.9.2010. The delay in lodging the FIR has not been explained satisfactorily.

19. According to PW-10 Dr. Piyush Kapila and PW-12 Dr. Rajeev Sandal, the body was in the shape of Skelton. According to PW-10 Dr. Piyush Kapila, from the available remains, it was not possible to opine about the exact cause of death by keeping in view the ante mortem fracture of the head. According to him, the possibility of head injury could not be ruled out. The police has taken the blood samples of the parents of the deceased. These were sent for DNA profiling and the report is Ext. PX. Sh. Leba Ram and Smt. Lacchi Devi were found to be the biological parents of the deceased.

20. The prosecution has not attributed any motive to the accused Bishan Singh. Accused Bishan Singh was employed as mason. There is no material placed on the record by the prosecution that there was any dispute regarding payment or any such issue. Mr.

M.A. Khan, learned Addl. Advocate General, for the State has placed strong reliance upon the disclosure statement made by accused Bishan Singh vide Ext. PW-3/A, whereby the accused has disclosed that he has concealed the dead body in the forest. PW-3 Surinder Singh has stated in his cross-examination that the statement of the accused Bishan Singh under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act was recorded by the SHO under the supervision of the Superintendent of Police. However, PW-15 SI Tejender Kumar stated that he was present with the Superintendent of Police when statement under Section 27 of the Evidence Act was recorded. The statement of accused Bishan Singh was recorded by the Superintendent of Police himself. There is variance in the statements of PW-3 Surender Singh and PW-15 SI Tejender Kumar, as to who has recorded the statement of accused Bishan Singh under Section 27 of the Evidence Act.

21. Mr. M.K.Khan, learned Addl. Advocate General for the State has then argued that on the basis of the disclosure statement made by the accused, the danda, bali and rope were recovered. Neither danda or bali nor rope were sent for FSL examination. These were produced at the time of recording the statement of PW-4 Ganga Dev, vide Ext. P-2, P-3 and P-4. There is entry in the malkhana register when these were deposited in the malkhana register, however, there is no entry when danda, bali and rope Ext. P-2, P-3 and P-4, respectively, were taken out for production before the Court. The case property is required to be deposited in the malkhana and the entry is required to be made when it is taken out and re-deposited in the malkhana.

22. According to PW-11 Ashok Kumar and PW-15 SI Tejender Kumar the house where deceased was allegedly killed was three storeyed. However, according to PW-13 ASI Ishwar Singh, who has taken photographs of the house, it was double storeyed only. There is variance in the statement of PW-11 Ashok Kumar, PW-13 ASI Ishwar Singh and PW-15 SI Tejender Kumar, whereby the house was double storeyed or three storeyed. It casts doubt whether it is the same house where the deceased was allegedly killed. Moreover, the statements under Section 27 of the Evidence Act made by the accused are dated 2.9.2010 but according to PW-4 Ganga Dev, the accused were arrested on 5.9.2010. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove the case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt.

23. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. Judgment of conviction and sentence dated 24/25.7.2012, rendered by the learned Sessions Judge, Kinnaur at Rampur, H.P., in Sessions trial No. 01 of 2011, under Sections 302/201/34 IPC is set aside. The accused is acquitted of the charge framed under Section 302/201/34 IPC, by giving him benefit of doubt. Fine amount, if any, already deposited by the accused is ordered to be refunded to him. Since the accused is in jail, he be released forthwith, if not required in any other case.

24. The Registry is directed to prepare the release warrant of the accused and send the same to the Superintendent of Jail concerned, in conformity with this judgment forthwith.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Jeevan Rana. …Appellant.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh. …Respondent.

Cr.A. No. 324/2012
Decided on: 1.5.2015

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 84- Accused contended that he was insane- reliance was placed upon the testimony of DW-1 who deposed that accused was suffering from bipolar affective disorder and he had impaired judgment as he was suffering from psychosis- held, that accused has to prove that he was suffering from legal insanity- the burden is upon him to establish this fact- accused ran away from the spot, which shows that he knew what he was doing was wrong- PW-1 had not noticed any abnormality in the behavior of the accused- held that the plea of insanity taken by the accused not proved. (Para- 22 to 29)

Cases referred:

Sheralli Wali Mohammed vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1972 SC 2443
Nalini Kumari vs. K.S. Bopaiah 2007 (1) KarLJ 342
Sudhakaran vs. State of Kerala 2010 (10) SCC 582
Hari Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh 2008 (16) SCC 109
Elavarasan V. State, AIR 2011 SC 2816

For the appellant: Mr. Dibender Ghosh, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Ramesh Thakur, Asstt. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge (oral).

This appeal is instituted against the judgment dated 29.9.2011 rendered by the Additional Sessions Judge, Mandi in Sessions Trial No. 20 of 2010, whereby the appellant-accused (hereinafter referred to as the "accused" for convenience sake), who was charged with and tried for offences punishable under section 376 and 452 of the Indian Penal Code, has been convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for ten years and to pay a fine of Rs.10,000/- and in default of payment of fine, he was further directed to undergo simple imprisonment for six months for the commission of offence punishable under section 376 (2) (f) of the Indian Penal Code. He was further sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of one year and to pay a fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo simple imprisonment for three months for the commission of offence punishable under section 451 of the Indian Penal Code. Both the sentences were ordered to run concurrently.

2. Case of the prosecution, in a nutshell, is that the grand father of the prosecutrix filed an application before the police on 5.4.2010 stating therein that he had gone towards his fields at about 4.30 P.M. His wife was present at home. The prosecutrix was present in the house with her brother. She was watching T.V. The wife of the complainant and his grandson were in the upper storey. Accused came to the room of prosecutrix and tried to rape her. She shouted for help. However, her noise could not be heard in the din of the T.V. When the wife of the complainant opened the door, accused ran away. He was identified by the wife of the complainant as Totu alias Jiwan Ram. The incident was narrated to the complainant. He made inquiry from the prosecutrix. She revealed the incident. FIR Ext. PW-15/A was registered. The prosecutrix was medically examined. Accused was arrested. He was also examined medically by Dr. Aman Rana. He issued MLC to PW-1/A. Site Plan Ext. PW-15/A was prepared. Photographs were also taken. Bed sheet was also recovered. Case property was sent to F.S.L., Junga on 12.4.2010 vide RC No. 79/10. The result of the analysis is Ext. PW-15/D. Police investigated the case and the challan was put up in the court after completing all the codal formalities.

3. Prosecution examined as many as 15 witnesses in all to prove its case against the accused. Statement of accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded. He admitted that his underwear, pants and shirt were preserved by the Medical Officer. He also produced DW-1 Dr. Savinder Singh. Learned trial Court convicted and sentenced the accused, as noticed hereinabove.

4. Mr. Dibender Ghosh, learned counsel for the accused, has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused.

5. Mr. Ramesh Thakur, learned Assistant Advocate General, has supported the judgment dated 29.9.2011, passed by the trial Court.

6. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record meticulously.

7. PW-1 Dr. Aman Rana has medically examined the accused. He issued MLC Ext. PW-1/A. According to him, smegma was absent. He noticed small abrasion on left side of glans penis. In his cross-examination, he deposed that accused was mentally normal as per his opinion. He has not noticed any abrasion or scratch on the person of the accused except one mentioned by him in the MLC.

8. PW-2 Dr. Sarla Chand has examined the prosecutrix. She has issued MLC Ext. PW-2/A. According to her, hymen was ruptured, inflamed and swelling was present. According to her, the child was sexually exposed within 24 hours of examination.

9. Prosecutrix has appeared as PW-3. In her examination-in-chief, she has deposed that she was present in the room watching T.V. on a bed. Her grand-mother was present in the different room. Her younger brother was sleeping in the different room. The accused did a bad act (Ganda Kam). She cried and called her grand mother. She has denied the suggestion that accused behaved like a mentally unsound person and roams in the area. She has denied the suggestion that her grand mother had told her to name the accused. She has denied that no bad act was done with her.

10. PW-4 Prakash Chand is the grand father of the prosecutrix. According to him, his wife came to fields at 5.20 P.M. She informed that the prosecutrix was raped. He went to home. The prosecutrix was crying. She told him that one boy came to her room and raped her. He checked her and found that blood was oozing out of her private parts. He informed his son and told about the incident. Thereafter, he reported the matter vide application Ex.PW-4/A. In his cross-examination, he has deposed that girl was lying on the bed and crying when he reached the home.

11. PW-5 Yashoda Devi is the grand mother of the prosecutrix. She told the prosecutrix to go and watch T.V. in the ground floor. When she was returning from the room, she heard some noise of foot steps. She looked from the window but could not find any person. When she saw again, she noticed the accused. He was having his pant and underwear upto the knees. When he looked back, she identified him. The accused was trying to put on the clothes. She went down and found that the prosecutrix was lying on the bed. She was crying. She found that cloths of prosecutrix were pulled up. There was blood on the bed sheet and the blood was coming out from the private part of the prosecutrix. She told her that one boy came, who laid upon her. She shouted. Her husband was in the fields. In her cross-examination, she has deposed that she saw the accused running on the passage towards the back side of the house.

12. PW-6 Vijay Kumar has deposed that his father told him that prosecutrix was raped. He checked and found that blood was oozing out from the private part of the prosecutrix. He, his father and his daughter went to Police Station, Sarkaghat. FIR was registered.

13. PW-7 Kishan Chand has deposed that accused came to his house at about 4/4.30 P.M. He took tea and thereafter he left. His wife gave him Rs. 15/-.

14. Statements of PW-8 Prem Singh and PW-9 Rakesh Kumar are formal in nature.

15. PW-10 HHC Shyam Lal has deposed that he brought the prosecutrix to Zonal Hospital, Mandi alongwith her grandfather on 6.4.2010.

16. Statement of PW-11 Rakesh Kumar is formal in nature.

17. PW-12 Dharam Singh has deposed that Constable Rakesh Kumar deposited the case property with him on 5.4.2010. He made the entry at Sr. No. 1316/10. He deposited the case property in Malkhana. SHO Ranjit Singh handed over to him one parcel on 6.4.2010. He made entry at Sr. No. 1317/10. He deposited the same in Malkhana. HHC Shyam Lal deposited 3 parcels with him on the same day. He deposited the same in Malkhana and made entry at Sr. No. 1318/10. He handed over all these articles to HHC Roop Singh with the direction to carry the same to F.S.L., Junga vide RC No. 70/10.

18. PW-13 HHC Roop Singh has carried out the case property to F.S.L., Junga on 12.4.2010 in safe condition.

19. PW-14 ASI Vijay Kumar moved an application Ext. PW-14/B for examination of the accused.

20. PW-15 has deposed that the application was filed on the basis of which FIR Ext. PW-15/A was registered. He prepared the site plan. The photographs were taken. Bed Sheet was recovered. Statements of the witnesses were recorded. Parcels were sent to F.S.L., Junga. Report of F.S.L., Junga Ext. PW-15/B was received.

21. According to the statement of PW-3 prosecutrix, she was watching T.V. in her room. Accused came and performed bad act 'ganda kaam' with her. Her statement inspires confidence though minor. PW-4 Prakash Chand, and PW-5 Yadhoda Devi grandfather and grandmother of the prosecutrix have corroborated the statement of PW-3. PW-4 Prakash Chand when informed by PW-5 Yashoda Devi has noticed the blood oozing from the private part of the prosecutrix. He has moved an application Ext. PW-4/A, on the basis of which FIR was registered. PW-5 Yashoda Devi has identified the accused and noticed the accused putting up his clothes. She also noticed blood on the bed sheet and blood oozing out from the private parts of the prosecutrix. PW-2 Dr. Sarla Chand has opined definitely that hymen was ruptured, inflamed and swelling was present and the prosecutrix was sexually exposed within 24 hours of examination. PW-1 Aman Rana has examined the accused and issued MLC Ext. PW-1/A. He has noticed abrasion on left side of glans penis. The prosecutrix was born on 4.7.2004 as per Ext. PW-9/A.

22. Mr. Dibender Ghosh has vehemently argued that his client was insane. He has relied upon the statement of DW-1 Dr. Savinder Singh. DW-1 Dr. Savinder Singh has deposed that he has treated the accused. The accused had come to him on 27.7.2009. He was registered on OPD basis. He was diagnosed as suffering from bipolar affective disorder. He prescribed medicines. Patient came again on 28.8.2009. He was admitted in the hospital on the same day. He was put on suitable treatment. He was given four dosages of electric shock. He was discharged on 11.9.2009. Thereafter, patient never came. According to him, patient looked like a normal person. The patient had impaired judgment because he was suffering from psychosis. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that the pages of the indoor file were different. He has not noted pages. Volunteered that pages were not numbered in any file. He did not know the accused personally. He has also admitted that the entries were in different pen inside the red circle. He has also admitted that patient could carry out normal pursuits.

23. We have also gone through Ex.DW-1/A. These are loose papers un-numbered. The Court while taking up the plea of insanity has to see the legal insanity and not medical insanity. It is for the accused to prove that he was suffering from insanity as per section 105 of the Indian Evidence Act. The accused has not led any tangible evidence to prove that he was suffering from insanity.

24. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sheralli Wali Mohammed vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1972 SC 2443 have held that the law presumes every person of the age of discretion to be sane unless the contrary is proved and it would be most dangerous to admit the defence of insanity upon arguments derived merely from the character of the crime. Their Lordships have held as under:

> "12. To establish that the acts done are not offences under S. 84 of the Indian Penal Code, it must be proved clearly that, at the time of the commission of the acts, the appellant, by reason of unsoundness of mind, was incapable of either knowing the nature of the act or that the acts were either morally wrong or contrary to law. The question to be asked is, is there evidence to show that, at the time of the commission of the offence, he was labouring under any such incapacity? On this question, the state of his mind before and after the commission of the offence is relevant. The general burden of proof that an accused person is in a sound state of mind is upon the prosecution. In Dahyabhai Chhaganbhai Thakkar v. The State of Gujarat, (1964) 7 SCR 361 at p. 367 = (AIR 1964 SC 1563), Subba Rao, J., as he then was, speaking for the Court said
>
> > "(1) The prosecution must prove beyond reasonable doubt that the accused had committed the offence with the requisite mens rea; and the burden of proving that always rests on the prosecution from the beginning to the end of the trial. (2) there is a rebuttable presumption that the accused was not insane, when he committed the crime, in the sense laid down by S. 84 of the Indian Penal Code: the accused may rebut it by placing before the Court all the relevant evidence oral, documentary or circumstantial, but the burden of proof upon him is no higher than that rests upon a party to civil proceedings. (3) Even if the accused was not able to establish conclusively that he was insane at the time he committed the offence, the evidence placed before the Court by the accused or by the prosecution may raise a reasonable doubt in the mind of the Court as regards one or more of the ingredients of the offence, including mens rea of the accused and in that case the Court would be entitled to acquit the accused on the ground that the general burden of proof resting on the prosecution was not discharged.''

13. With this in mind, let us consider the evidence to see whether the accused was in an unsound state of mind at the time of the commission of the acts attributed to him, P. W. 3, one of the brothers of the accused stated that the accused used to become excited and uncontrollable, that sometimes he behaved like a mad man, and that he was treated by Dr. Deshpande and Dr. Malville. P. W. 4, Hyderali, also a brother of the accused, has stated that the accused used to suffer from temporary insanity and that he was treated by Dr. Deshpande and Dr. Malville. The evidence of these two witnesses on the question of the insanity of the accused did not appeal to the trial Court and the Court did not, we think rightly, place any reliance upon it. No attempt was made by the defence to examine the two doctors. There was, therefore, no evidence to show that, at the time of the commission of the acts, the accused was not in a sound state of mind. On the other hand, P. W. 8, Rustom Mirja, has stated in his deposition that the accused has been working with him as an additional motor driver for the last 8 or 10 years and that his work and conduct were normal. He also stated that the accused worked with him on March 6, 1968, till 4 P.M. P. W. 16, Dr. Kaloorkar, who examined the accused at 7.20 A.M. on the day of the occurrence, has stated in his deposition that he found that the accused was in normal condition. His evidence has not been challenged in cross-examination.

We think that not only is there no evidence to show that the accused was insane at the time of the commission of the acts attributed to him, but that there is nothing to indicate that he had not the necessary mens rea when he committed the offence. The law presumes every person of the age of discretion to be sane unless the contrary is proved. It would be most dangerous to admit the defence of insanity upon arguments derived merely from the character of the crime. The mere fact that no motive has been proved why the accused murdered his wife and child or, the fact that he made no attempt to run away when the door was broke open, would not indicate that he was insane or, that he did not have the necessary mens rea for the commission of the offence. We see no reason to interfere with the concurrent findings on this point either."

25. The nature and symptom of the mis bipolar disease were described by the Hon'ble High Court of Karnataka in Nalini Kumari vs. K.S. Bopaiah 2007 (1) KarLJ 342. The Court has observed as under:

"19. Now let us discuss what is mis Bipolar disease and whether it is curable/controllable and treatable disease?

20. In National Institute of Mental Health Publication No. 3679, it is stated:

Introduction:

Bipolar disorder, also known as manic-depressive illness, is a brain disorder that causes unusual shifts in a person's mood, energy, and ability to function. Different from the normal ups and downs that everyone goes through, the symptoms of bipolar disorder are severe. They can result in damaged relationships, poor job or school performance, and even suicide.

But bipolar disorder can be treated, and people with this illness can lead full and productive lives.

(underlining is by us) What is the Course of Bipolar Disorder?

Episodes of mania and depression typically recur across the life span. Between episodes, most people with bipolar disorder are free of symptoms, but as many as one-third of people have some residual symptoms. A small percentage of people experience chronic unremitting symptoms despite treatment.

The classic form of the illness, which involves recurrent episodes of mania and depression, is called bipolar I disorder. Some people, however, never develop severe mania but instead experience milder episodes of hypomania that alternate with depression; this form of the illness is called bipolar II disorder. When four or more episodes of illness occur within a 12-month period, a person is said to have rapid-cycling bipolar disorder. Some people experience multiple episodes within a single week, or even within a single day. Rapid cycling tends to develop later in the course of illness and is more common among women than among men.

People with bipolar disorder can lead healthy and productive lives when the illness is effectively treated (see below - "How is Bipolar Disorder Treated"). Without treatment, however, the natural course of bipolar disorder tends to worsen. Over time a person may suffer more frequent (more rapid-cycling) and more severe manic and depressive episodes than those experienced when the illness first appeared. But in most cases, proper treatment can help reduce the frequency and severity of episodes and can help people with bipolar disorder maintain good quality of life.

21. In Health & Medical Information in Psychiatry (Australia's Central Health & Medical Information Resource), it is stated:

Bipolar Affective Disorder (BPAD) is a psychological disease.

This condition is characterised by alternating syndromes of depression and mania. Depression is a psychiatric syndrome characterised by a subjective feeling of depression, loss of enjoyment in all activities and overwhelming feelings of guilt and worthlessness.

Mania represents the opposite end of the spectrum characterised by erratic and disinhibiter, behaviour, poor tolerance or frustration, over-extension of responsibility and vegetative signs. These include raised libido, weight loss with anorexia, decreased need for sleep and excessive energy.

Incidence:

The prevalence is 1% worldwide. It is equally common in men and women. There is no variation between socioeconomic class or race. Page 0134 The average age of onset is 21. The increased frequency found in divorced people is probably a consequence of the condition.

Predisposing Factors:

The most significant risk factor for the development of BPAD is a family history of either BPAD or depression.

Natural History:

The condition of bipolar usually begins between the ages of 30 to 40 years old. There are two types of bipolar affective disorder - Type I and type II. In type I BPAD, patients will meet the criteria for a full manic episode but may never experience an episode of major depression, type II BPAD, the patient will fulfil the criteria for a major depressive episode but will never experience a full manic episode. They may experience a less form of mania called hypomania.

The patient in an episode of major depression is at increased risk of self-harm and suicidal behaviour and must be monitored closely for risk factors. The duration of depressive episode varies but usually lasts for approximately six months if left untreated. In the majority of cases, the patient experiencing an episode of mania will generally refrain from self-harm behaviour. They will, however, place their finances and social life at risk by indulging in wreckless behaviour. These episodes again last for around 3-6 months if left untreated by medication. The patient with type I BPAD will typically experience 10 episodes of mania throughout their lives.

Prognosis:

The average duration of a manic episode is 3-6 months with 95% making a full recovery in time. Recurrence is the rule is bipolar disorders, with up to 90% relapsing within 10 years. In terms of overall prognosis, 15% completely recover from the illness. 50-60% partially recover and one third will retain chronic symptoms resulting in social and occupational dysfunction.

Investigation:

Patients should be screened for thyroid function and can produce hypothyroidism. During treatment, lithium levels should be checked for 3 months, along with regular thyroid and renal function rents.

Treatment Overview:

The primary treatment for BPAD involves long-term daily medications. The most commonly used drug in the initial management of BPAD is lithium. The drug takes about 2 weeks to take effect and is effective in stabilising the patient's mood. Other drugs such as valproate and tegretol are more commonly used in the long term to help prevent the recurrence of mania and depression in patients with BPAD. They may also be combined with lithium for greater effect, if one agent proves inadequate to control the symptoms.

Psychotherapy is also helpful in the management of BPAD Group therapy, family therapy and individual psychotherapy have been shown to improve the outcome of this condition when combined with the regular use of medications.

22. In Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia, it is stated:

Bipolar disorder (previously known as Manic Depression) is a psychiatric diagnostic category describing a class of mood disorders in which the person experiences clinical depression and/or mania, hypomania, and/or mixed stated. The disorder can cause great distress among those afflicted and those living with them. Bipolar disorder can be a disabling condition, with a higher-than-average risk of death through suicide.

The difference between bipolar disorder and unipoloar disorder (also called major depression) is that bipolar disorder involves both elevated and depressive mood states. The duration and intensity of mood states varies widely among people with the illness. Fluctuating from one mood state to the next is called "cycling". Mood swings can cause impairment or improved functioning depending on their direction (up or down) and severity (mild to severe). There can be change in one's energy level, sleep pattern, activity level, social rhythms and cognitive functioning. Some people may have difficulty functioning during these times.

Domains of the bipolar spectrum:

Bipolar disorder is often a life-long condition that must be carefully managed. Because there is so much variation in severity and nature of mood problems, it is increasingly being called bipolar spectrum disorder. The spectrum concept refers to subtypes of bipolar disorder or a continuant of mood problems, that can include sub-syndromal (below the symptom threshold for categorical diagnosis) symptoms. Nassir Ghaemi, M.D., has also contributed to the development of a bipolar spectrum questionnaire. The full bipolar spectrum includes all states or phases of the bipolar disorders.

Kraepelin's (1921) construct is useful for primary care clinicians, patients and families. It describes variations in two directions (mania and depression) and of three aspects: mood, activity and thinking.

Bipolar depression:

According to the Mayo Clinic, in the depressive phase, signs and symptoms include: persistent feelings of sadness, anxiety, guilt, anger, isolation and/or hopelessness, disturbances in sleep and appetite, fatigue and loss of interest in daily activities, problems concentrating, irritability, chronic pain without a known cause, recurring thoughts of suicide.

A 2003 study by Robert Hirschfeld, M.D., of the University of Texas Medical Branch, Galveston found bipolar patients fared worse in their depressions than unipolar patients. In terms of disability, lost years of productivity, and potential for suicide, bipolar depression, which is different (in terms of treatment), from unipolar depression, is now recognized as the most insidious aspect of the illness.

Severe depression may be accompanied by symptoms of psychosis. These symptoms include hallucinations (hearing, seeing or otherwise sensing the presence of stimuli that are not there) and delusions (false personal beliefs that are not subject to reason or contradictory evidence and are not explained by a person's cultural concepts). They may also suffer Page 0136 from paranoid thoughts of being persecuted or monitored by some powerful entity such as the government or a hostile force or become paranoid that they'll be abandoned and left by those close to them. Intense and unusual religious beliefs may also be present, such as patients' strong insistence that they have a God-given role to play in the world, a great and historic mission to accomplish, or even that they possess supernatural powers. Delusions in a depression may be far more distressing, sometimes taking the form of intense guilt for supposed wrongs that the patient believes he or she has inflicted on your others. There are a number of conflicting theories on what can be considered the cause of bipolar depression, and what may be a symptom, none of which are yet widely accepted as correct.

It is crucially important to understand that there is no blood test or brain scan that expresses distinctly that this disorder exists.

Diagnosis:

Diagnostic criteria:

Flux is the fundamental nature of bipolar disorder. Both within and between individuals with the illness, energy, mood, thought, sleep, and activity are among the continually changing biological markers of the disorder. The diagnostic subtypes of bipolar disorder are thus static descriptions - snapshots, perhaps - of an illness in continual change. Individuals may stay in one subtype, or change into another, over the course of their illness. The DSMV, to be published in 2011, will likely include further and more accurate sub-typing (Akiskal and Ghaemi, 2006).

There are currently four types of bipolar illness. The DSM-IV-TR details four categories of bipolar disorder, Bipolar I, Bipolar II, Cyclothymia, and Bipolar Disorder NOS (Not Otherwise Specified).

According to the DSM-IV-TR, a diagnosis of Bipolar I disorder requires one or more manic or mixed episodes. A depressive episode is not required for a diagnosis of BP I disorder, although the overwhelming majority of people with BP I suffer from them as well.

Bipolar II, the more common but by no means less severe type of the disorder, is usually characterized by one or more episodes of hypomania and one or more severe depressions. A diagnosis of bipolar II disorder requires only one hypomanic episode. This stipulation is used mainly to differentiate it from unipolar depression. Although a patient may be depressed, it is very important to find out from the patient or the patient's family or friends if hypomania has ever been present, using careful questioning. This, again, avoids the antidepressant problem. Recent screening tools such as the Hypomanic Check List Questionnaire (HCL-32) have been developed to assist the quite often difficult detection of Bipolar II disorders.

A diagnosis of Cyclothymic Disorder requires the presence of numerous hypomanic episodes, intermingled with depressive episodes that do not meet full criteria for major depressive episodes. The main idea here is that there is a low-grade cycling of mood which appears to the observer as a personality trait, but interferes with functioning.

Page 0137 If an individual clearly seems to be suffering from some type of bipolar disorder but does not meet the criteria for one of the subtypes above, he or she receives a diagnosis of Bipolar Disorder NOS (Not Otherwise Specified).

Misdiagnosis:

There are many problems with symptom accuracy, relevance, and reliability in making a diagnosis of bipolar disorder using the DSM-IV-TR. These problems all too often lead to misdiagnosis.

Infact, University of California at San Diego's Hagop Akiskal M.D., believes that the way the bipolar disorders in the DSM are conceptualized and presented routinely lead many primary care doctors and mental health professionals to misdiagnose bipolar patients with unipolar depression, when a careful history from patient, family, and/or friends would yield the correct diagnosis.

If misdiagnosed with depression, patients are usually prescribed antidepressants, and the person with bipolar depression can become agitated, angry, hostile, suicidal, and even homicidal (these are all symptoms of hypomania, mania, and mixed states).

Treatment:

Currently, bipolar disorder cannot be cured, though psychiatrists and psychologists believe that it can be managed.

The emphasis of treatment is on effective management of the long-term course of the illness, which usually involves treatment of emergent symptoms. Treatment methods include pharmacological and psychotherapeutic techniques. Leading bipolar specialist, Gillian Townley, has researched the effect of the Ferret Rabbit process.

Prognosis and the goals of long-term treatment:

A good prognosis results from good treatment which, in turn, results, from an accurate diagnosis. Because bipolar disorder continues to have a high rate of both under-diagnosis and misdiagnosis, it is often difficult for individuals with the illness to receive timely and competent treatment.

Bipolar disorder is a severely disabling medical condition. In fact, it is the 6th leading cause of disability in the world, according to the World Health Organization. However, with appropriate treatment, many individuals with bipolar disorder can live full and satisfying lives. Persons with bipolar disorder are likely to have periods of normal or near normal functioning between episodes.

Ultimately one's prognosis depends on many factors, which are, infact, under the individual's control; the right medicines; the right does of each; a very informed patient; a good working relationship with a competent medical doctor; a competent, supportive and warm therapist; a supportive family or significant other; and a balanced lifestyle including a regulated stress level, regular exercise and regular sleep and wake times.

There are obviously other factors that lead to a good prognosis, as well, such as being very aware of small changes in one's energy, mood, sleep Page 0138 and eating behaviors, as well as having a plan in conjunction with one's doctor for how to manage subtle changes that might indicate the beginning of a mood swing. Some people find that keeping a log of their moods can help them in predicting changes.

The goals of long-term optimal treatment are to help the individual achieve the highest level of functioning while avoiding lapse.

23. The following is a quote from a successfully treated individual with bipolar disorder (from the U.S. National Institute of Mental Health):

Manic-depression distorts moods and thoughts, incites dreadful behaviors, destroys the basis of rational thought, and too often erodes the desire and will to live. It is an illness which is biological yet looks and feels psychological, one that is unique in conferring advantage and pleasure, yet one that brings in its wake almost unendurable suffering and, not infrequently, suicide. I am fortunate that I have not died from my illness, fortunate in having received the best medical care available, and fortunate of having the friends, colleagues, and family that I do.

Bipolar disorder and creativity Bipolar disorder is found in disproportionate numbers in people with creative talent such as artists, musicians, authors, performers, poets and scientists, and some credit the condition for their creativity. Many famous historical figures gifted with creative talents commonly are believed to have been affected by bipolar disorder, and were "diagnosed" after their deaths based on letters, correspondence, contemporaneous accounts, or other material.

It has been speculated that the mechanisms, which cause the disorder may also spur creativity.

Kay Redfield Jamison, who herself has bipolar disorder and is considered a leading expert on the disease, has written several books that explore this idea, including Touched with Fire. Research indicates that while mania may contribute to creativity (See Andreasen, 1988), hypomanic phases experienced in bipolar I, II, and in cyclothymia appear to have the greatest contribution in creativity (See Richarges, 1988). This is perhaps due to the distress and impairment associated with full-blown mania, which may be preceded by symptoms of hypomania (i.e. increased energy, confidence, activity), but soon spirals into a state much too debilitating to allow creative endeavour.

Hypomanic phases of the illness allow for heightened concentration on activities, and the manic phases allow for around-the-clock work with minimal need for sleep.

Another theory is that the rapid thinking associated with mania generates a higher volume of ideas and as well associations drawn between a wide range of seemingly unrelated information.

The increased energy also allows for grater volume of production."

26. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sudhakaran vs. State of Kerala 2010 (10) SCC 582 have distinguished the legal insanity with medical insanity as under:

"26. The defence of insanity has been well known in the English Legal System for many centuries. In the earlier times, it was usually advanced as a justification for seeking pardon. Over a period of time, it was used as a complete defence to criminal liability in offences involving mens rea. It is also accepted that insanity in medical terms is distinguishable from legal insanity. In most cases, in India, the defence of insanity seems to be pleaded where the offender is said to be suffering from the disease of Schizophrenia.

27. The plea taken in the present case was also that the appellant was suffering from "paranoid schizophrenia". The term has been defined in Modi's Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology1 as follows:

"Paranoia is now regarded as a mild form of paranoid schizophrenia. It occurs more in males than in females. The main characteristic of this illness is a well-elaborated delusional system in a personality that is otherwise well preserved. The delusions are of persecutory type. The true nature of this illness may go unrecognized for a long time because the personality is well preserved, and some of these paranoiacs may pass off as a social reformers or founders of queer pseudo- religious sects. The classical picture is rare and generally takes a chronic course.

Paranoid Schizophrenia, in the vast majority of case, starts in the fourth decade and develops insidiously. Suspiciousness is the characteristic symptom of the early stage. Ideas of reference occur, which gradually develop into delusions of persecution. Auditory hallucinations follow which in the beginning, start as sound or noises in the ears, but later change into abuses or insults. Delusions are at first indefinite, but gradually they become fixed and definite, to lead the patient to believe that he is persecuted by some unknown person or 1 [23rd Ed. Page 1077] some superhuman agency. He believes that his food is being poisoned, some noxious gases are blown into his room and people are plotting against him to ruin him. Disturbances of general sensation give rise to hallucinations which are attributed to the effects of hypnotism, electricity, wireless telegraphy or atomic agencies. The patient gets very irritated and excited owing to these painful and disagreeable hallucinations and delusions. "

28. The medical profession would undoubtedly treat the appellant herein as a mentally sick person. However, for the purposes of claiming the benefit of the defence of insanity in law, the appellant would have to prove that his cognitive faculties were so impaired, at the time when the crime was committed, as not to know the nature of the act.

29. Section 84 of the Indian Penal Code recognizes the defence of insanity. It is defined as under:-

"Nothing is an offence which is done by a person who at the time of doing it, by reason of unsoundness of mind, is incapable of knowing the nature of the act, or that he is doing what is either wrong or contrary to law."

30. A bare perusal of the aforesaid section would show that in order to succeed, the appellant would have to prove that by reason of unsoundness of mind, he was incapable of knowing the nature of the act committed by him. In the alternate case, he would have to prove that he was incapable of knowing that he was doing what is either wrong or contrary to law."

27. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hari Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh 2008 (16) SCC 109 have held that section 84 of the Indian Penal Code lays down the legal test of responsibility in cases of alleged unsoundness of mind. There is no definition of unsoundness of mind in the Indian Penal Code. Courts have, however, mainly treated this expression as equivalent to insanity. Their Lordships have further held that every person, who is mentally diseased, is not ipso facto exempted from criminal responsibility. Their Lordships have held as under:

"5. Section 84 lays down the legal test of responsibility in cases of alleged unsoundness of mind. There, is no definition of "unsoundness of mind" in the IPC. Courts have, however, mainly treated this expression as equivalent to insanity. But the term "insanity" itself has no precise definition. It is a term used to describe varying degrees of mental disorder. So, every person, who is mentally diseased, is not ipso facto exempted from criminal responsibility. A distinction is to be made between legal insanity and medical insanity. A Court is concerned with legal insanity, and not with medical insanity. The burden of proof rests on an accused to prove his insanity, which arises by virtue of Section 105 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1972 (in short the `Evidence Act') and is not so onerous as that upon the prosecution to prove that the accused committed the act with which he is charged. The burden on the accused is no higher than that resting upon a plaintiff or a defendant in a civil proceeding. (See Dahyabhai v. State of Gujarat AIR 1964 SC 1563). In dealing with cases involving a defence of insanity, distinction must be made between cases, in which insanity is more or less proved and the question is only as to the degree of irresponsibility, and cases, in which insanity is sought to be proved in respect of a person, who for all intents and purposes, appears sane. In all cases, where previous insanity is proved or admitted, certain considerations have to be borne in mind. Mayne summarises them as follows:

> "Whether there was deliberation and preparation for the act; whether it was done in a manner which showed a desire to concealment ; whether after the crime, the offender showed consciousness of guilt and made efforts to avoid detections whether, after his arrest, he offered false excuses and made false statements. All facts of this sort are material as bearing on the test, which Bramwall, submitted to a jury in such a case : Would the prisoner have committed the act if there had been a policeman at his elbow ? It is to be remembered that these tests are good for cases in which previous insanity is more or less established. These tests are not always reliable where there is, what Mayne calls, "inferential insanity".

6. Under Section 84 IPC, a person is exonerated from liability for doing an act on the ground of unsoundness of mind if he, at the time of doing the act, is either incapable of knowing (a) the nature of the act, or (b) that he is doing what is either wrong or contrary to law. The accused is protected not only when, on account of insanity, he was incapable of knowing the nature of the act, but also when he did not know either that the act was wrong or that it was contrary to law, although he might know the nature of the act itself. He is, however, not protected if he knew that what he was doing was wrong, even if he did not know that it was contrary to law, and also if he knew that what he was doing was contrary to law even though he did not know that it was wrong. The onus of proving unsoundness of mind is on the accused. But where during the investigation previous history of insanity is revealed, it is the duty of an honest investigator to subject the accused to a medical examination and place that evidence before the Court and if this is not done, it creates a serious infirmity in the prosecution case and the benefit of doubt has to be given to the accused. The onus, however, has to be discharged by producing evidence as to the conduct of the accused shortly prior to the offence and his conduct at the time or immediately afterwards, also by evidence of his mental condition and other relevant factors. Every person is presumed to know the natural consequences of his act. Similarly every person is also presumed to know the law. The prosecution has not to establish these facts.

7. There are four kinds of persons who may be said to be non compos mentis (not of sound mind), i.e., (1) an idiot; (2) one made non compos by illness (3) a lunatic or a mad man and (4.) one who is drunk. An idiot is one who is of non-sane memory from his birth, by a perpetual infirmity, without lucid intervals; and those are said to be idiots who cannot count twenty, or tell the days of the week, or who do not know their fathers or mothers, or the like, (See Archbold's Criminal Pleadings, Evidence and Practice, 35th Edn. pp.31-32; Russell on Crimes and Misdemeanors, 12th Edn. Vol., p.105; 1 Hala's Pleas of the Grown 34). A person made non compos mentis by illness is excused in criminal cases from such acts as are- committed while under the influence of his disorder, (See 1 Hale PC 30). A lunatic is one who is afflicted by mental disorder only at certain periods and vicissitudes, having intervals of reason, (See Russell, 12 Edn. Vol. 1, p. 103; Hale PC 31). Madness is permanent. Lunacy and madness are spoken of as acquired insanity, and idiocy as natural insanity.

8. Section 84 embodies the fundamental maxim of criminal law, i.e., actus non reum facit nisi mens sit rea" (an act does not constitute guilt unless done with a guilty intention). In order to constitute an offence, the intent and act must concur; but in the case of insane persons, no culpability is fastened on them as they have no free will (furios is nulla voluntas est).

9. The section itself provides that the benefit is available only after it is proved that at the time of committing the act, the accused was labouring under such a defect of reason, from disease of the mind, as not to know the nature and quality of the act he was doing, or that even if he did not know it, it was either wrong or contrary to law then this section must be applied. The crucial point of time for deciding whether the benefit of this section should be given or not, is the material time when the offence takes place. In coming to that conclusion, the relevant circumstances are to be taken into consideration, it would be dangerous to admit the defence of insanity upon arguments derived merely from the character of the crime. It is only unsoundness of mind which naturally impairs the cognitive faculties of the mind that can form a ground of: exemption from criminal responsibility. Stephen in `History of the Criminal Law of England, Vo. II, page 166 has observed that if a person cuts off the head of a sleeping man because it would be great fun to see him looking for it when he woke up, would obviously be a case where the perpetrator of the act would be incapable of knowing the physical effects of his act. The law recognizes nothing but incapacity to realise the nature of the act and presumes that where a man's mind or his faculties of ratiocination are sufficiently dim to apprehend what he is doing, he must always be presumed to intend the consequence of the action he takes. Mere absence of motive for a crime, howsoever atrocious it may be, cannot in the absence of plea and proof of legal insanity, bring the case within this section This Court in Sherall Walli Mohammed v. State of Maharashtra: (1972 Cr.LJ 1523 (SC)), held that the mere fact that no motive has been proved why the accused murdered his wife and child or the fact that he made no attempt to run away when the door was broken open would not indicate that he was insane or that he did not have necessary mens rea for the offence. Mere abnormality of mind or partial delusion, irresistible impulse or compulsive behaviour of a psychopath affords no protection under Section 84 as the law contained in that section is still squarely based on the outdated Naughton rules of 19th Century England. The provisions of Section 84 are in substance the same as that laid down in the answers of the Judges to the questions put to them by the House of Lords, in M Naughton's case (1843) 4 St. Tr. (NS) 847. Behaviour, antecedent, attendant and subsequent to the event, may be relevant in finding the mental condition of the accused at the time of the event, but not that remote in time. It is difficult to prove the precise state of the offender's mind at the time of the commission of the offence, but some indication thereof is often furnished by the conduct of the offender while committing it or immediately after the commission of the offence. A lucid interval of an insane person is not merely a cessation of the violent symptoms of the disorder, but a restoration of the faculties of the mind sufficiently to enable the person soundly to judge the act; but the expression does not necessarily mean complete or prefect restoration of the mental faculties to their original condition. So, if there is such a restoration, the person concerned can do the act with such reason, memory and judgment as to make it a legal act ; but merely a cessation of the violent symptoms of the disorder is not sufficient.

10. The standard to be applied is whether according to the ordinary standard, adopted by reasonable men, the act was right or wrong. The mere fact that an accused is conceited, odd irascible and his brain is not quite all right, or that the physical and mental ailments from which he suffered had rendered his intellect weak and had affected his emotions and will, or that he had committed certain unusual acts, in the past or that he was liable to recurring fits of insanity at short intervals, or that he was subject to getting epileptic fits but there was nothing abnormal in his behaviour, or that his behaviour was queer, cannot be sufficient to attract the application of this section."

28. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Elavarasan V. State, AIR 2011 SC 2816 have held that while determining whether the accused is entitled to the benefit of Section 84 I.P.C. the Court has to consider the circumstances that proceeded, attended or followed the crime but it is equally true that such circumstances must be established by credible evidence. Their Lordships have held as under:

"21. From the deposition of the above two witnesses who happen to be the close family members of the appellant it is not possible to infer that the appellant was of unsound mind at the time of the incident or at any time before that. The fact that the appellant was working as a government servant and was posted as a Watchman with no history of any complaint as to his mental health from anyone supervising his duties, is significant. Equally important is the fact that his spouse Smt. Dhanalakshim who was living with him under the same roof also did not suggest any ailment afflicting the appellant except sleeplessness which was diagnosed by the doctor to be the effect of excessive drinking. The deposition of PW3, Valli that her son was getting treatment for mental disorder is also much too vague and deficient for this Court to record a finding of unsoundness of mind especially when the witness had turned hostile at the trial despite multiple injuries sustained by her which she tried to attribute to a fall inside her house. The statement of the witness that her son was getting treatment for some mental disorder cannot in the circumstances be accepted on its face value, to rest an order of acquittal in favour of the appellant on the basis thereof. It is obvious that the mother has switched sides to save her son from the consequences flowing from his criminal act.

25. What is important is that the depositions of the two doctors examined as court witnesses during the trial deal with the mental health condition of the appellant at the time of the examination by the doctors and not the commission of the offence which is the relevant point of time for claiming the benefit of Section 84 I.P.C. The medical opinion available on record simply deals with the question whether the appellant is suffering from any disease, mental or otherwise that could prevent him from making his defence at the trial. It is true that while determining whether the accused is entitled to the benefit of Section 84 I.P.C. the Court has to consider the circumstances that proceeded, attended or followed the crime but it is equally true that such circumstances must be established by credible evidence. No such evidence has been led in this case. On the contrary expert evidence comprising the deposition and certificates of Dr. Chandrashekhar of JIPMER unequivocally establish that the appellant did not suffer from any medical symptoms that could interfere with his capability of making his defence. There is no evidence suggesting any mental derangement of the appellant at the time of the commission of the crime for neither the wife nor even his mother have in so many words suggested any unsoundness of mind leave alone a mental debility that would prevent him from understanding the nature and consequences of his actions. The doctor, who is alleged to have treated him for insomnia, has also not been examined nor has anyone familiar with the state of his mental health stepped into the witness box to support the plea of insanity. There is no gainsaying that insanity is a medical condition that cannot for long be concealed from friends and relatives of the person concerned. Non- production of anyone who noticed any irrational or eccentric behaviour on the part of the appellant in that view is noteworthy. Suffice it to say that the plea of insanity taken by the appellant was neither substantiated nor probablised.

26. Mr. Mani, as a last ditch attempt relied upon certain observations made in Mahazar Ex.P3 in support of the argument that the appellant was indeed insane at the time of commission of the offences. He submitted that the Mahazar referred to certain writings on the inner walls of the appellant's house which suggested that the appellant was insane. A similar argument was advanced even before the Courts below and was rejected for reasons which we find to be fairly sound and acceptable especially when evidence on record establishes that the appellant was an alcoholic, who could scribble any message or request on the walls of his house while under the influence of alcohol. The Courts below were, therefore, justified in holding that the plea of insanity had not been proved and the burden of proof cast upon the appellant under Section 105 of the Evidence Act remained undischarged. The High Court has also correctly held that the mere fact that the appellant had assaulted his wife, mother and child was not ipso facto suggestive of his being an insane person."

29. In the instant case, the plea of insanity is not available to the accused under section 84 of the Indian Penal Code, as he knew what he was doing since he ran away from the spot and he was noticed by PW-5 Yashoda Devi putting up his cloths. Even PW-1 Dr. Aman Rana has not noticed any abnormality in his behaviour. The medical evidence produced is not sufficient to prove that at the time of commission of rape, accused was medically insane and incapable of understanding the nature of act performed by him. Hence, his defence under section 84 of the Indian Penal Code is not proved.

30. Accordingly, there is no merit in the present appeal and the same is dismissed.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

Chobe Ram ……Appellant.
Versus
Chander Kala & ors. …….Respondents.

RSA No. 347 of 2003.
Reserved on: 28.4.2015.
Decided on: 6.5.2015.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 19- Plaintiff relied upon an affidavit - however, he had not made specific averment in the plaint regarding the execution of affidavit- he had not examined the Executive Magistrate who had attested the affidavit- compromise was already arrived at and there was no question of executing the affidavit – held, that in these circumstances, affidavit was not admissible in evidence. (Para-21 and 22)

For the appellant(s): Mr. Jagan Nath, Advocate, vice Mr. Anand Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. T.S.Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No. 1(d).
None for respondents No. 1(a) to 1(c) & respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This regular second appeal is directed against the judgment and decree of the learned District Judge, Kullu, H.P. dated 6.6.2003, passed in Civil Appeal No.09 of 2002.

2. Key facts, necessary for the adjudication of this regular second appeal are that the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs, namely, Sh. Poshu Ram, has filed suit for possession of house shown in the site plan attached with the Plaint and for recovery of Rs. 500/- per month by way of mesne profit for the use and occupation of the house in suit and also for permanent prohibitory injunction. According to the plaintiffs, the land measuring 9 biswas comprising in khata khatauni No. 428 min/503 min, Kh. No. 555, situated in Phati Mohal, Kothi Khokhan, Tehsil and District Kullu, is recorded as Phati Abadi which was owned and possessed by the plaintiff as shown in the copy of jamabandi for the year 1993-94 and on the portion of this land a house of plaintiff measuring 27 x 14 Haath is also standing and that adjoining to the said land and house of the plaintiff abuts land comprising Kh. No. 551 and 552 which was also owned and possessed by the plaintiff over which the fruit bearing orchard of the plaintiff is also standing. An agreement was entered into between the plaintiff and defendant No. 1 to sell the fruit crop of the orchard comprising Kh. No. 551 and 552 for the fruit seasons from 1997 to 2001 for consideration of Rs. 50,000/- and Rs. 40,000/- was payable by the defendant No. 1 to the plaintiff on or before 10.7.1997. The defendant has committed breach of the agreement. The defendant No. 1 has requested the plaintiff to allow him to keep some bardana in suit house and to allow defendant No. 2 to keep him as his Chowkidar, namely Sh. Purkhu. The plaintiff granted licence and permission to defendant No. 1 to use and occupy the house for two months w.e.f. 10.4.1997 to 9.6.1997. He was also entitled to recover Rs. 500/- towards mesne profits.

3. The suit was contested by the defendants. According to them, the original plaintiff was neither owner nor in possession of the property in suit and the site plan was not correct. The house did not exist on the abadi comprising Kh. No. 555. It is also denied that on the request of defendant No. 1, the original plaintiff allowed defendant No. 1 to use and occupy the house as licensee for two months. It is also contended that since the original plaintiff has no right, title or interest over the suit land nor was owner-in-possession of the property in suit. Infact, the plaintiff was not residing or right holder of Phati Mohal. He was resident of Phati Balh. The defendant No. 1 was resident and right holder of Phati Mohal from the time immemorial. The father of defendant No. 1 has constructed house 22 years back on the portion of abadi in suit land comprising Kh. No. 555.

4. The replication was filed by the plaintiff. The learned Senior Sub Judge, Kullu, H.P. framed the issues on 17.1.1998. The learned Senior Sub Judge, Kullu, H.P., dismissed the suit on 19.12.2001. Sh. Chobe Ram, feeling aggrieved, preferred an appeal before the learned District Judge, Kullu. The learned District Judge, Kullu, partly allowed the same on 6.6.2003. Hence, this regular second appeal.

5. This Regular Second Appeal was admitted on the following substantial question of law on 25.5.2004:

> "1. Whether document/affidavit Ext. PW-7/A could not have been read in evidence by the learned first appellate Court as the same was not pleaded and proved in accordance with law which vitiated the findings arrived at by the learned first appellate Court?"

6. Mr. Jagan Nath, Advocate, for the appellant has supported the judgment and decree passed by the learned Senior Sub Judge, Kullu. He then contended that the affidavit Ext. PW-7/A dated 17.5.1995 could not be read in evidence by the learned first appellate Court since the same was neither pleaded in the plaint nor proved in accordance with law. On the other hand, Mr. T.S.Chauhan, Advocate, has supported the judgment rendered by the first appellate Court dated 6.6.2003.

7. I have heard the learned Advocates for the parties and gone through the judgments and records of the case carefully.

8. PW-1 Sh. Poshu Ram has testified that he was owner of the land in the suit over which 1 ½ storyed slate posh house and apple plants of 28 years old were raised. He constructed the house in the suit land about 14 years ago. He was having his orchard of 14/15 bighas abutting to the suit land. Out of 14/15 bighas of his land, 4 ½ bighas of land was given to the tenants and the tenants sold the land to Chobe Ram in the year 1993. He inherited the land in suit from his mother in the year 1956 and since then he has been possessing the same. He filed a suit in the Court. The suit was compromised between the parties. The defendant No. 1 has sworn in an affidavit which was attested by the Executive Magistrate wherein the defendant has agreed to give two karam wide passage through Kh. No. 553 to give access to Kh. Nos. 551, 552 and 555 and after purchasing the land from his tenants, Brestu and others Chobe Ram resold the same and made colony. Defendant No. 1 requested him to give the house in suit for two months to keep his bardana therein which request was accepted by him and after two months, when he demanded the possession of his house from Chobe Ram, the defendant asserted the same to be his Phati abadi having possession over it. The defendant has removed six apple plants. Police came to the spot. Chobe Ram has installed electricity meter over it and rented out the same to Pukhru Ram. He submitted an application for appointment of L.C. The site plan of the house was prepared by Nidhi Singh. He proved shajra nasab Ext. PW-1/F. He proved Ext. PW-1/G shajra nasab of phati abadi of Fulnu Devi. He proved shajra nasab Ext. PW-1/H and copy of abadi Ext. PW-1/I. He also proved copy of musabi Ext. PW-1/J, copy of mutations Ext. PW-1/K to PW-1/M alongwith the copies of jamabandi Ext. PW-1/N and PW-1/O.

9. PW-2 Madan Lal deposed that Poshu Ram was having orchard and 1 ½ storyed house. The house was constructed in the year 1975.

10. PW-3 Beli Ram testified that the suit land was owned by Poshu Ram. There was apple orchard1 ½ storyed house over the same. It was in possession of Chobe Ram since 1997. Chobe Ram has also cut apple trees.

11. PW-4 Prem Dass Bhatia, deposed that Poshu Ram is owner of the land in suit over which 1 ½ storyed house and fruit orchard are standing. The house of Phulma Devi Ward Panch and Dev Raj abuts the land in suit. Chobe Ram had taken the orchard of Poshu on contract and then took the possession of the same. Chobe Ram had white washed the house in suit and installed the electricity meter and also raised retaining wall. Chobe Ram is not having any land abutting land in suit. Chobe Ram's father was having 2 bighas five biswas of land and a house which was dismantled.

12. According to PW-5 Sh. Narender Sharma, affidavit of Chobe Ram dated 17.5.1995 was entered at Sr. No. 303 in his register. He has not brought the photocopy of the original affidavit as it was destroyed as per rules.

13. PW-6 Nidhi Singh has proved site plan Ext. PW-1/A.

14. PW-7 Chuni Lal Sharma, Advocate, Kullu, has stated that he knows Chobe Ram. In affidavit Ext. PW-7/A, he identified Chobe Ram, but this affidavit was not attested by the Executive Magistrate in his presence nor any person put signatures in his presence. The signature of defendant was already there on the affidavit. He identified Chobe Ram in the precincts of the Court. He never went to the Executive Magistrate and Ext. PW-7/A was brought to him by Chobe Ram.

15. PW-8 Dr. R.Sharma, Asstt. Government Examiner of Questioned Documents has testified that he examined several documents and gave his opinion. He received the documents from the Court of Senior Sub Judge, Kullu vide letter No. 2237 dated 21.12.2000 alongwith Q-1 to Q-3, Ext. PW-7/A and admitted signatures A-1 to A-3 which are Vakalatnama and written statement and after examining these documents he came to the conclusion that Q-1 to Q-3 and A-1 to A-3 were written by the same person. He proved his reports Ext. PW-8/A and PW-8/B.

16. Sh. Chobe Ram has appeared as DW-1. He testified that he was owner-in-possession of the house in suit which has been constructed on the abadi land at the time of his fore fathers which is 23' x 23'. He also constructed a shed. He pays the house tax of the house and proved receipts Ext. D-1 to D-5. He has also installed electricity meter and proved the bills alongwith receipts thereof which are Ext. D-6 to Ext. D-8. According to him, the plaintiff was resident of Phati Balh, Kothi Majara having no house in Phati Mohal. Purkhu, defendant No. 2 was his tenant and the plaintiff filed the suit just to harass him.

17. DW-2 Hari Chand has supported the version of DW-1 Chobe Ram.

18. The case of the plaintiff, precisely, is that Chobe Ram has sworn in an affidavit Ext. PW-7/A, before the Executive Magistrate, Kullu vide which he agreed to give two karam wide passage through Kh. No. 553 to give access to Kh. Nos. 551, 552 and 555 to Poshu Ram.

19. Ext. PW-7/A is dated 17.5.1995 and the compromise is dated 16.5.1995. If the matter had already been compromised on 16.5.1995, there was no occasion to Chobe Ram to sworn in an affidavit dated 17.5.1995. PW-7 Chuni Lal Sharma, Advocate, as noticed above, has admitted that he identified Chobe Ram, but this affidavit was not attested by the Executive Magistrate in his presence nor any person put signatures in his presence. The signature of defendant was already there on the affidavit. He identified Chobe Ram in the precincts of the Court. He never went to the Executive Magistrate and Ext. PW-7/A was brought to him by Chobe Ram.

20. The plaintiff has moved an application under Order 18 Rule 17A and under Order 18 Rule 2(4) read with Section 151 CPC. It was allowed on 12.11.1998. Thereafter, the plaintiff again moved an application under Order 18 Rule 17 and under Order 18 Rule 2(4) read with Section 151 CPC. According to the averments contained in the application, the plaintiff at the time of examination of PW-7 Sh. Chuni Lal, Advocate, he could not put specific suggestions. The learned Sr. Sub Judge, Kullu, has rightly come to the conclusion while deciding the application on 25.6.1999 that it was for the plaintiff to have taken all care and caution to have put all the suggestions to said PW-7 Sh. Chuni Lal when he appeared in the witness box. Rather, PW-7 Chuni Lal has not supported the case of the plaintiff. Thus, Chuni Lal, PW-7 could not be recalled for putting further suggestions to him. It was for the plaintiff to prove the affidavit Ext. PW-7/A dated 17.5.1995. Thus, the learned Sr. Sub Judge, Kullu, has rejected the application on 25.6.1999. The plaintiff filed another application under Order 18 Rule 17A and Order 18 Rule 2(4) read with Section 151 CPC for comparison of signatures of defendant on the affidavit and Sh. N.C.Sood, Dy. Government Examiner, office of the Government Examiner of Questioned Douments, Ministry of Home Affairs, was ordered to be summoned for 11.7.2001 vide order dated 16.5.2001. The plaintiff filed yet another application under Order 18 Rule 17A and order 18 Rule 2(4) for placing on record copy of Order dated 17.5.1995 passed by the Sr. Sub Judge, Kullu in Civil Suit No. 87/94 and application dated 16.5.1995 for preponment and taking case on that date and also to prove certified copy of compromise dated 16.5.1995 in Civil Suit No. 87 of 1994. The application was dismissed by the learned Sr. Sub Judge, Kullu on 20.8.2001. The learned trial Court has noticed that the plaintiff wanted to place on record documents dated 17.5.1995 and 16.5.1995 but no reason was assigned why those were withheld by the plaintiff for such a long period and it was not the case of the plaintiff that after exercising due diligence he could not produce the same at the time when he was leading his evidence. The application was rejected on 20.8.2001.

21. Mr. Jagan Nath, Advocate, has taken the Court through the plaint. There is no averment with regard to Ext. PW-7/A. In view of this, the plaintiff ought to have made a specific averment in the plaint and then could lead the evidence to prove the affidavit. The plaintiff has not examined the Executive Magistrate who has attested the affidavit on 17.5.1995. The Court, as noticed above, that the compromise is dated 16.5.1995 and the affidavit was sworn in on 17.5.1995. There was no occasion for the Chobe Ram to sworn in an affidavit after the compromise had already been arrived at on 16.5.1995.

22. The learned first appellate court has failed to take into consideration the repeated filing of application by plaintiff under Order 18 Rule 17 and under Order 18 Rule 2(4) read with Section 151 CPC to prove the affidavit Ext. PW-7/A in order also to wriggle out of the statement made by PW-7 Chuni Lal Advocate. The trial Court has correctly appreciated the oral as well as documentary evidence, more particularly, Ext. PW-7/A while dismissing the case of the plaintiff but the first appellate Court has erred in law by placing reliance on Ext. PW-7/A, which has not been proved in accordance with law. It was not pleaded in the plaint that defendant No. 1 has sworn in an affidavit on 17.5.1995. The defendant No. 1 has proved on record the copies of house rent payable by him vide Ext. D-1 to D-5 and also the electricity bills. The first appellate Court has wrongly treated the affidavit as admissible on behalf of defendant Chobe Ram to come to the conclusion that the plaintiff was owner of the land comprised in Kh. No. 555. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

23. Consequently, the Regular Second Appeal is allowed. The judgment of the trial Court dated 19.12.2006 is restored. The judgment of the first appellate Court dated 6.6.2003 is set aside.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

Chobe Ram ……Appellant.
Versus
Chanderkala & ors. …….Respondents.

RSA No. 483 of 2005.
Reserved on: 28.4.2015.
Decided on: 7.5.2015.

Registration Act, 1908- Section 17- Plaintiff had filed a civil suit in which a compromise was effected - the tenants surrendered the possession of 1-10 bighas while 3-00 bighas was gifted to the tenants- compromise did not form part of the order- plaintiffs were not shown to be the owners of the land- right was created for the first time by means of the compromise and the compromise was required to be registered, however, it was never registered, therefore, it could not have been relied upon to pass a decree. (Para-20 to 24)

For the appellant(s): Mr. Karan Singh Kanwar, Advocate,
For the respondent: Mr. T.S.Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent Nos. 1(a), 1(b) and 1(d).
None for respondent Nos. 1(c), to 1(e) & respondent Nos.2 to 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This regular second appeal is directed against the judgment and decree of the learned District Judge, Kullu, H.P. dated 30.6.2005, passed in Civil Appeal No.49 of 2004.

2. Key facts, necessary for the adjudication of this regular second appeal are that respondents-plaintiffs (hereinafter referred to as the plaintiffs) instituted a suit for permanent prohibitory injunction against the appellant-defendant No. 1 (hereinafter referred to as the defendant) and Sh. Hukam Ram, defendant No. 2. The plaintiff Poshu died during the pendency of this regular second appeal. His legal heirs were brought on record vide order dated 3.1.2012. The suit was filed for permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendant from causing any sort of interference or obstruction in two karams wide path shown in photo copy of aks musabi by points A and B passing through the portion of Kh. No. 553, connecting common village path running along the side of western boundary of Kh. No. 553 which touches eastern boundary of said Kh. number and connecting khasra Nos. 552 and 555, with the aforesaid village path, situated in Phati Mohal, Kothi Khokhan, Tehsil and District Kullu, and for mandatory injunction that in case it is found that defendant had succeeded in causing any obstruction, the same be ordered to be removed. According to the averments made in the plaint, the plaintiff, predecessor-in-interest of the present respondents No. 1(a) to 1(e) Sh. Poshu Ram, had filed suit bearing No. 87 of 1994. In the said litigation, Chobe Ram entered into amicable settlement and compromise was effected i.e. Ext. PW-1/B on 16.5.1995. It was further stated in the plaint that the land situated in Kh. No. 553 measuring 4-10-0 in Phati Mohal, Kothi Khokhan was earlier owned and possessed by the plaintiff Poshu and there were tenants who failed to pay the rent and Poshu had to file a suit for possession. The compromise was effected, as stated hereinabove, and the tenants surrendered the possession of 1-10-0 bigha in favour of plaintiff Poshu Ram and land 3-0-0 was gifted to the tenants by the plaintiff Poshu Ram. He became owner of land qua 1-10-0 bighas.

3. The suit was contested by the defendant. He denied the right, title and interest of the plaintiffs over Kh. No. 553. He purchased 10 biswas of land in Kh. No. 553 from Trilok Nath and 1/9 share from Brestu and 4/90 share from Shukari. The execution of compromise dated 16.5.1995 was denied. Defendant No. 2 filed a separate written statement and supported the version of the plaintiffs.

4. The replication was filed by the plaintiffs. The learned Civil Judge (Senior Divn.), Kullu, H.P. framed the issues on 16.5.2002. The learned Civil Judge (Senior Divn.), Kullu, H.P, decreed the suit on 31.5.2004. Sh. Chobe Ram, defendant No. 1 feeling aggrieved, preferred an appeal before the learned District Judge, Kullu. The learned District Judge, Kullu, dismissed the same on 30.6.2005. Hence, this regular second appeal.

5. This Regular Second Appeal was admitted on the following substantial question of law on 20.9.2005:

> "1. Whether the Courts below in decreeing the suit have erred in considering and relying inadmissible evidence by way of compromise Ext. PW-1/B in Civil Suit No. 87/94, which was not recorded in that Civil Suit by the Court and that suit was dismissed as withdrawn, the compromise otherwise was not registered.?"

6. Mr. Karan Singh Kanwar, Advocate, for the appellant, on the basis of the substantial question of law, has argued that the Courts below have wrongly relied upon the compromise Ext. PW-1/B in Civil Suit No. 87 of 1994. He also contended that the defendant was not party to Civil Suit No. 87 of 1994. On the other hand, Mr. T.S.Chauhan, Advocate, has supported the judgments and decrees rendered by both the Courts below.

7. I have heard the learned Advocates for the parties and gone through the judgments and records of the case carefully.

8. PW-1 Umavati, brought the record of Civil Suit No. 87/94. She proved the copy of plaint Ext. PW-1/A, copy of compromise dated 16.5.1995 vide Ext. PW-1/B, copy of application dated 16.5.1995 vide Ext. PW-1/C, order dated 17.5.1995 Ext. PW-1/D and order dated 30.5.1995 vide Ext. PW-1/E.

9. PW-2 Bhagat Ram, proved affidavit dated 17.5.1995 vide Ext. PW-2/A.

10. PW-3 Radha Devi deposed that the affidavit was attested by the Executive Magistrate on 17.5.1995 and was entered at Sr. No. 303. She admitted in her cross-examination that entries made at Sr. Nos. 301, 302 and 303 were not in her hand writing and she was not in a position to disclose as to who has made these entries. She was not in a position to state as to who had signed it. She could not identify the signatures of the Executive Magistrate. The name of the person who has sworn in the affidavit was not mentioned in the register, including his permanent address.

11. The plaintiff has appeared as PW-4. He stated that the property at Mohal was inherited by him from his mother. His mother inherited the same from her father Bali Ram. He was owner of Kh. No. 553 measuring 4 bighas 10 biswas. He proved copy of jamabandi Ext. PW-4/A. He had kept Brestu, Piaru and Shobha Ram as tenants over the suit land. They did not pay any rent to him. He filed civil suit and the matter was compromised. The land measuring 1 ½ bigha was left for him and he was also put in possession. He has given them 3 bighas of land by way of gift. He further stated that he entered into an agreement on 16.5.1995 with Brestu, Shukri, Mangri, Tarlok Nath and Chobe Ram. It was scribed by Bhoj Chander, Advocate. The contents were read over and explained. He put his signatures over the same and thereafter other persons also signed the same. He proved affidavit Ext. PW-1/B. The map of the path was prepared by Nidhi Singh.

12. PW-5 Vidya Sagar, deposed that he was Vice President of Panchayat Sayogi. An agreement was entered into on 16.5.1995 in his presence and other witnesses Kurbu Ram, Bhoj Chander Thakur, Advocate and Prem Chander Thakur, Advocate. It was scribed by Bhoj Chander Thakur, Advocate. The contents were read over in Hindi to the parties. They have signed the same. He along with Kurbu Ram singed as marginal witnesses.

13. PW-9 C.L.Sharma, Advocate, deposed that he was practicing since 1979 in District Courts Kullu. The affidavit was brought to him by Chobe Ram. He has identified him. He also put his signatures on Ext. PW-7/A. The copy of the same is Ext. PW-2/A. In his cross-examination, he admitted that the affidavit dated 17.5.1995 was not typed in his presence. On the affidavit, the name of the person who has drafted/typed it is not mentioned. He did not know where it was typed. It was not attested in his presence before the Executive Magistrate on 17.5.1995. The signatures were already put on the affidavit before he put his signatures. In his presence, neither Chobe Ram nor Executive Magistrate put their signatures. In his further cross-examination, he stated that the affidavit was not got prepared by Chobe Ram. Volunteered that Chobe Ram had brought it to him.

14. PW-11 B.C.Thakur, deposed that he was an Advocate of Poshu in Civil Suit No. 87/94. The agreement was scribed by him and P.C.Thakur. The contents of the same were read over to the parties. They, after admitting the contents to be correct had put their signatures. The marginal witnesses Kurbu and Vidya Sagar singed the same. The rest of the marginal witnesses also signed the same. He has moved the application on 16.5.1995 vide Ext. PW-1/C before the Senior Sub Judge, Kullu. He has signed the same.

15. PW-12 Karam Singh deposed that he has seen the disputed path. It was at a distance of 100-150 meters from his house. The width of the path is 9 ft. 4 inch and 105 ft. in length.

16. PW-13 Nidhi Singh has prepared Ext. PW-13/A. He admitted in his cross-examination that he has not signed Ext. PW-13/A nor any date was mentioned.

17. PW-14 Jai Singh has produced the record of Civil Suit No. 120/97.

18. PW-15 Ghaman Singh deposed that the defendant has purchased Rs. 5 stamp on 17.5.1995.

19. The defendant has appeared as DW-1. He testified that the plaintiff was not owner of Kh. No. 533. Kh. No. 555 was abadi. The house 1 ½ storyed existed on this khasra number. He was owner of the abadi and house. He has not sworn in any affidavit on 17.5.1995.

20. The plaintiff Poshu Ram has filed Civil Suit No. 87/1994 for declaration and injunction against Sh. Brestu, Shukri, Mangri, Trilok Nath and Chobe Ram. According to the plaintiff, compromise-deed was prepared vide Ext. PW-1/B. It was scribed by the learned Advocates and signed by marginal witnesses. It was also signed by Poshu Ram. An application for preponment and taking the case for hearing on 16.5.1995 was filed vide Ext. PW-1/C. The learned trial Court on 17.5.1995 has examined the parties and they were granted time to understand the implication of compromise. The matter was ordered to be put up on 30.5.1995. The statement of the plaintiff was recorded and as per his statement, the suit was withdrawn on 30.5.1995. The statement made by the plaintiff is not on record.

21. The defendant Chobe Ram was not party in the Civil Suit bearing No. 87 of 1994. The compromise dated 16.5.1995 was not even registered. There is no reference in order dated 30.5.1995 about the compromise Ext. PW-1/B. In case the compromise had been effected, the same ought to have been reflected in the order dated 30.5.1995, whereby the suit was withdrawn.

22. The case of the plaintiffs is also that the affidavit Ext. PW-2/A was also sworn in by defendant Chobe Ram. PW-9 C.L.Sharma, has not supported the case of the plaintiff. In his cross-examination, has admitted that the affidavit dated 17.5.1995 was not typed in his presence. He did not know as to where it was typed. It was not attested in his presence before the Executive Magistrate on 17.5.1995. The signatures were already put on the affidavit before he put his signatures. In his presence, neither Chobe Ram nor Executive Magistrate put their signatures. Even if hypothetically presumed that the compromise Ext. PW-1/B was entered into, the same has never formed an integral part of Civil Suit No. 87 of 1994. The Court has already noticed that there is no reference to the compromise even in orders dated 17.5.1995 and 30.5.1995 when the suit was withdrawn.

23. The learned first appellate Court has observed that there was no bar for the parties to enter into compromise even if they were not parties to the suit. However, in the instant case, it is reiterated that the compromise never formed part of the order dated 30.5.1995, whereby the civil suit No. 87 of 1994 was withdrawn.

24. Mr. Karan Singh Kanwar, Advocate, has drawn the attention of the Court to jamabandi Ext. PW-4/A. The plaintiffs have not been shown as owners of the land comprised in Kh. No. 553 in Ext. PW-4/A. Sh. Tirlok Nath Magri and defendant No. 1 Chobe Ram, have been shown as owners-in-possession of the suit land. No tangible evidence has been led by the plaintiffs to rebut jamabandi Ext. PW-4/A. The first appellate Court has come to the wrong conclusion that no new right was created vide compromise Ext. PW-1/B. The right was created for the first time vide Ext. PW-1/B. Thus, the same was required to be registered and admittedly, Ext. PW-1/B was never registered. Both the Courts below have erred in relying upon Ext. PW-1/B, while decreeing the suit of the plaintiffs. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

22. Consequently, the Regular Second Appeal is allowed. The judgments and decrees passed by both the Courts below are set aside. Civil Suit No. 71 of 2000 is dismissed.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

Smt. Jagdishwari Devi ……Appellant.
Versus Subhash Chand …….Respondent.

RSA No. 121 of 2004.
Reserved on: 6.5.2015.
Decided on: 7.5.2015.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 26 Rule 9- Plaintiff had obtained demarcation from the revenue authorities- report was not accepted by trial Court- plaintiff moved an application for appointment of local commissioner, which was allowed- defendant raised objections to the report which were decided along with main appeal- report was supported by Aks Tatima Shajra as well as the copy of Field Book- it was in accordance with the instructions issued by Financial Commissioner - when a fresh local commissioner was appointed, the earlier report would be of no consequences. (Para-10 to 13)

For the appellant(s): Mr. Suneet Goel, Advocate,
For the respondent: Mr. Deepak Kaushal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This regular second appeal is directed against the judgment and decree of the learned District Judge, Hamirpur, H.P. dated 24.11.2003, passed in Civil Appeal No.72 of 1998.

2. Key facts, necessary for the adjudication of this regular second appeal are that respondent-plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as the plaintiff) instituted a suit for permanent prohibitory injunction and in the alternative for possession, against the appellant-defendant (hereinafter referred to as the defendant). According to the plaintiff, the land comprised in Khata No. 183, Khatoni No. 272, Kh. No. 2755/1/1571/3, measuring 9 marlas, situate in Tika Sujanpur, Tappa Bhaleth, Tehsil Sujanpur, Distt. Hamirpur, H.P., was owned by him and other co-sharers. The defendant was stranger and she has got no right, title or interest over the suit land. The defendant has started illegal and unauthorized interference over the suit land by digging the same for the purpose of raising construction of the septic tank over it and has started collecting construction material over the same.

3. The suit was contested by the defendant. According to the defendant, the septic tank was constructed in her own land and when it was being dug and constructed, the plaintiff raised no objection. The septic tank was ready by 1.10.1993.

4. The replication was filed by the plaintiff. The learned Sub Judge-II, Hamirpur, H.P. framed the issues on 22.4.1994. The learned Sub Judge-II, Hamirpur, H.P, dismissed the suit on 6.3.1998. The plaintiff, feeling aggrieved, preferred an appeal before the learned District Judge, Hamirpur. The learned District Judge, Hamirpur, allowed the same on 24.11.2003. Hence, this regular second appeal.

5. This Regular Second Appeal was admitted on the following substantial question of law on 24.3.2004:

> "1. Whether the appellate court in this case could have relied upon the report of the Local Commissioner appointed by it without setting aside the report of the earlier Local Commissioner whose report was already on record on questions of facts already gone into by the trial court?"

6. Mr. Suneet Goel, Advocate, for the appellant, on the basis of the substantial question of law framed, has argued that the report of the Local Commissioner appointed by the first appellate Court could not be relied upon without rejecting the report submitted by earlier Local Commissioner. On the other hand, Mr. Deepak Kaushal, Advocate, has supported the judgment and decree rendered by the learned first appellate Court.

7. I have heard the learned Advocates for the parties and gone through the judgments and records of the case carefully.

8. The plaintiff has examined General Power of Attorney Sh. Fateh Chand as PW-1 and Amar Nath as PW-2. He has also examined PW-3 Baldev Ram and PW-4 Bidhi Chand. In rebuttal, the defendant has appeared as DW-1 and examined Swarup Chand as DW-2.

9. It is the admitted case of the parties that plaintiff is owner-in-possession of land comprised in Kh. No. 2755/1/1571/3, measuring 9 marlas, situate in Tika Sujanpur, Tappa Bhaleth, Tehsil Sujanpur, Distt. Hamirpur, H.P., as per jamabandi for the year 1987-88, Ext. PD. The plaintiff had obtained demarcation report from the revenue authorizes, qua Kh. No. 2755/1/1571/3, from PW-4 Sh. Bidhi Chand, the then Field Kanungo, vide his report Ext. PA. The report Ext. PA was not accepted by the trial Court, the same being not in accordance with law and instructions laid down by the Financial Commissioner and by the High Court Rules and Orders. Accordingly, the suit was dismissed.

10. The plaintiff has moved an application under Order 26 Rule 9 CPC for appointment of the Local Commissioner before the first appellate Court. The same was allowed. Sh. Dila Ram, retired Tehsildar was appointed as Local Commissioner to demarcate the suit land afresh on the spot. He visited the spot on 24.2.1999. He prepared the report and placed the same on record alongwith the tatima and statements of the parties. The defendant had raised the objections to the report. These objections were decided alongwith the decision of the appeal. The learned first appellate Court has considered the objections raised by the defendant at length. The Local Commissioner, has conducted the demarcation on the spot in the presence of the parties besides Halqua Patwari and S/Sh. Fateh Chand, Suresh Kumar, Ramesh Kumar, Vijay Kumar and Krishan Sarup etc. The plaintiff had produced Musabi as well as Aks Musabi before him containing sikmi khasra numbers. The Patwari had also produced the mutations pertaining to partition of the land between the parties. The pucca points A, B, C & D were fixed in the presence of the parties. The report was also supported by Aks Tatima Shajra as well as the copy of Field Book. The report was strictly in conformity with the instructions issued by the Financial Commissioner governing the demarcation.

11. PW-1 Fateh Chand has deposed that the defendant has raised the construction of septic tank in the month of October, 1993. Thereafter, they obtained the demarcation in the month of November, 1993 and that they did not raise any objection thereto. According to PW-2 Amar Nath, the defendant had raised the construction of septic tank in October, 1993 and has encroached upon 3 marlas of the suit land. PW-4 Bidhi Chand, has earlier demarcated the suit land and submitted the report to the Court Ext. PA.

12. Defendant, DW-1 has admitted that the construction of the septic tank was completed on 15.9.1993 initially and later on stated that the construction work was commenced on 15.9.1993 and the same was completed within 10-15 days. DW-2 Swarup Chand deposed that the latrine was constructed by the defendant in September, 1993 and later on stated that the construction work commenced on 10-11 September and completed within 15-20 days.

13. The plaintiff has conclusively proved that the defendant has encroached upon the suit land to the extent of 3 marlas. Since the earlier report was not at all in accordance with law, the learned first appellate Court has allowed the application preferred by the plaintiff under Order 26 Rule 9 CPC for the appointment of the Local Commissioner to demarcate the suit land. Since the learned first appellate Court has appointed the Local Commissioner afresh, the earlier report would be deemed to be of no consequence. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

14. Consequently, the Regular Second Appeal is dismissed. The judgment and decree passed by the learned first appellate Court is upheld.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

Parmeshwari Devi. …Appellant.
Versus
Kamlesh Devi and another. …Respondents.

RSA No. 505 of 2003
Reserved on: 29.4.2015
Decided on: 7.5.2015

Indian Succession Act, 1925- Section 63- Plaintiff claimed that she is owner in possession of suit land on the basis of Will executed by the deceased- deceased had consumed poison- plaintiff admitted in her cross-examination that Doctor had refused to treat the petitioner, according to him, deceased had consumed strong poison- deceased had died at about 3-4 a.m.- witnesses of the Will admitted that the Will was written when the sun was rising- Sun rose at about 6:00 A.M- one witness stated that Will was scribed at the instance of one 'K'- this casts doubt about the execution of the Will- deceased was under the influence of strong poison and could not be in a sound disposing mind- no marginal witness was associated from the vicinity- propounder and her husband had actively participated in the execution of the Will which casts doubt regarding the genesis of the Will. (Para-16 and 17)

For the Appellant : Mr. Bhupinder Gupta, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Ajeet Jaswal, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr. N.K. Thakur, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Rahul Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge.

This Regular Second Appeal is directed against the judgment and decree dated 31.10.2003 rendered by the Addl. District Judge, Una in Civil Appeal (RBT) No. 123/2000/97

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of this appeal are that the appellant-plaintiff (herein after referred to as 'plaintiff' for convenience sake) instituted a suit against the respondents-defendants (hereinafter referred to as the "defendants" for convenience sake) for declaration to the effect that plaintiff was owner in possession of the land measuring 15 kanals 10 marlas out of the land measuring 61 kanals 17 marlas as detailed in the head note of the plaint on the basis of "will" executed by Darshan Lal on 5.4.1984 and the defendants have no right, title and interest of any kind in the suit land and the alleged mutation dated 25.6.1988 in favour of the defendants was wrong, incorrect and contrary to law. Consequential relief was also sought restraining the defendants to interfere with the possession of the plaintiff over the suit land and also restraining them from taking possession of the suit land. Darshan Lal (deceased) was married to defendant No.1 Kamlesh Devi on 22.6.1983. Defendant No.1 used to live with her parents. On 4.4.1984 due to some heated arguments between deceased Darshan Lal and defendant No.1, Darshan Lal consumed poison. The parents of Darshan Lal tried their best to save his life. However, Darshan Lal died on 5.4.1984. He executed valid "will" regarding his estate in favour of the plaintiff. Thereafter, defendant No.1 gave birth to defendant No.2, namely, Parmila Devi.

3. The suit was contested by the defendants by filing written statement. According to them, Darshan Lal had differences with his parents also. He was not admitted in civil hospital. Darshan Lal became unconscious and remained as such till his death.

4. Plaintiff filed replication to the written statement. Issues were framed by the Sub Judge, Una on 9.11.1989. He decreed the suit on 31.1.1997. Defendants preferred an appeal before the Additional District Judge, Una. He allowed the same on 31.10.2003. Hence, the present Regular Second Appeal. It was admitted on the following substantial questions of law:

1. When the defendant-respondent did not challenge the "will" on any specific ground except that the executant died after consuming poison, could the lower appellate court on its own assume suspicious circumstances enumerated in the impugned judgment and decree and proceed to determine the same in holding the "will" Ex.P-1 to be a sham document, shrouded by suspicious circumstances?
2. Whether the lower appellate court has acted in excess of its jurisdiction in not taking into consideration the pronouncements of this Hon'ble Court as well as the apex court to be considered while determining the due execution and the validity of the will, Ex.P-1? Are not the findings of the lower appellate court illegal, erroneous and perverse being a result of misreading the material evidence and wrong appreciation of the correct law?
3. Whether the impugned judgment and decree passed by the lower appellate court is a result of misreading of oral and documentary evidence and rendering illegal, erroneous and perverse findings by assuming and presuming the facts extraneous to record?

5. Mr. Bhupender Gupta, learned Senior Advocate, for the appellant, on the basis of the substantial questions of law framed, has vehemently argued that the first appellate court has come to a wrong conclusion that the "will" dated 5.4.1984 was shrouded with mystery. According to him, "will" was valid. He has lastly contended that the first appellate court has misread and mis-appreciated the oral as well as documentary evidence.

6. Mr. N.K. Thakur, learned Senior Advocate, has supported the judgment and decree passed by the first appellate court.

7. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records carefully.

8. Since all substantial questions of law are interlinked, they are being discussed together to avoid repetition of discussion of evidence.

9. Plaintiff Parmeshwari has appeared as PW-1. She has deposed that her son used to quarrel with his wife. Kamlesh Devi used to live in village Basal and she used to tell her son that she would not reside in Pandoga and would reside in Basal. Six years ago, in the evening, her son was irrigating the land. She and her husband were also undertaking agriculture pursuits. Husband and wife picked up a quarrel and her son told Kamlesh Devi that if she does not want to stay with him, he would commit suicide. He went to his house and consumed poison and told the parents that he has ended the controversy once for all. He told that his property should go to his mother. He was taken to hospital Panjawar. He was treated by the doctor and brought back 3-4 A.M. in the morning and her son told her that his chances of survival were bleak and he wanted to execute the "will". The entire family was on the spot. She has admitted in her cross-examination that there is a regular bus service after 15 minutes between Pandoga and Una. She has also admitted that her husband and her son had told her that Doctor at Panjawar told that he could not treat Darshan Lal since he has taken a very strong poison. They were sad. There was no use of taking him to the hospital. She has also admitted that when Darshan Lal was brought from Panjawar, all of them sat with him and he died. She has also admitted that Darshan Lal wanted to construct his own house at Pandoga. Darshan Lal used to threaten them that if they won't permit him to construct house at Pandoga, he would reside at Basal. She has also admitted that there used to be quarrel between them and Darshan Lal. She initially stated that Darshan Lal has written the "will" and then stated it was scribed.

10. PW-2 Ranbir Singh has scribed the "will". He has deposed that Darshan Lal wanted to execute the "will". He was in sound state of mind. He was normal. Marginal witnesses Thakar Dass and Devi Dass were also present. He identified "will" Ex.P-1. He has read the contents of "will" to Darshan Lal and he after admitting the contents of the same to be correct signed the same followed by marginal witnesses Thakar Dass and Devi Dass. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that his house was situated at a distance of 2 KMs from the house of Darshan Lal.

11. PW-3 Thakar Dass is the marginal witness. He went to the house of Darshan Lal at 5-6 A.M. Darshan Lal was sitting on the cot. Darshan Lal told Kartar Chand that there were very bleak chances of his survival and they should get the "will" executed. The "will" was scribed by Ranbir Singh. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that he left the house at 6.00 A.M. He has also admitted in his cross-examination that when he reached at 5.00 A.M., Darshan Lal was telling that his chances of survival were bleak. He has denied the suggestion that Darshan Lal could not speak, volunteered that his voice was feeble. He has also admitted that there were about 7 houses at a distance of 100 meters.

12. PW-4 Devi Dass is another marginal witness. In his cross-examination, he has deposed that when the "will" was scribed, the sun was rising. Darshan Lal was sitting on the cot. He left for his house within one hour.

13. PW-5 Kartar Chand is the father of Darshan Lal. He has deposed that his son was irrigating the land. He heard that his son and Kamlesh were quarreling. They took him to Dr. Verma at Panjawar. Darshan Lal was administered glucose and he recovered. He was not in a position to state that why Darshan Lal was not taken to Government Hospital. Post-mortem was not got conducted.

14. PW-6 Mohan Lal has deposed that Darshan Lal had consumed poison. They came with the patient in the morning at 3.00 A.M. from Panjawar on 5.4.1984. He has also admitted that Darshan Lal died on 5.4.1984 at 3.45 A.M.

15. Defendant No.1 Kamlesh Devi has appeared as DW-1. In her examination-in-chief, she has testified that Darshan Lal died within 2-3 hours after consuming poison.

He became unconscious after consuming poison. Her husband was taken to Panjawar. She remained at home.

16. Darshan Lal had consumed poison in the evening of 4.4.1984. He was brought back at 3.00/4.00 A.M. on 5.4.1984, as per the statement of PW-1 Parmeshwari Devi. PW-1 Parmeshwari Devi has admitted in her cross-examination that doctor had refused to treat Darshan Lal since according to him, he had consumed strong poison. She has also admitted that Darshan Lal wanted to construct a house at Pandoga and used to threaten that if he was not permitted to construct a house at Pandoga, he would settle at Basal. PW-2 Ranbir Singh has scribed the "will" Ex.P-1. His residence was at a distance of 2 KMs from the house of Darshan Lal. PW-3 Thakar Dass is the marginal witness. He went to the house of Darshan Lal at 5-6 A.M. He signed the "will" as a marginal witness and left the house at 6.00 A.M. However, PW-4 Devi Dass has deposed that when the "will" was scribed, the sun was rising. The first appellate court has taken judicial notice that in the month of April, sun rises after 6.00 A.M. PW-6 Mohan Lal has categorically admitted in his cross-examination that Darshan Lal died in the morning of 5.4.1984 at 3.45 A.M. Darshan Lal had consumed aluminium phosphide (Celphos). Learned first appellate court has referred to Modi Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology Twenty Second Edition and according to it, the fatal period after consuming aluminium phosphide (celphos) is about 24 hours. Darshan Lal had consumed poison in the evening and his health was bound to deteriorate instead of improving. PW-1 has stated, as noticed hereinabove, that doctor told that Darshan Lal could not survive since he has taken very strong poison. In case Darshan Lal has died at 3.45 A.M., there was no possibility of execution of "will" Ex.P-1. There is also variance when the "will" was scribed and signed by the marginal witnesses. It was for the propounder to dispel the suspicious circumstances qua the "will". Plaintiff has failed to remove the suspicious circumstances. The mutation No.5084 was attested on 25.6.1988. The copy of mutation is Ex.P-5. There is a reference of the statement made by PW-3 Thakar Dass, the marginal witness of will Ex.P-1 in the mutation Ex.P-5. According to him, the "will" was scribed by Darshan Lal at the instance of Kartar Chand. It further casts doubt about the validity of the "will". There was a regular bus service after 15 minutes between Pandoga and Una and despite that Darshan Lal was not taken to hospital. The reason assigned by the plaintiff was that doctor at Panjawar had told her that chances of survival were bleak. In fact, he was brought back at 3.00/3.30 A.M. and he died at 3.45 A.M. The deceased after consuming strong poison could not be in a sound disposing mind to execute the "will". PW-3 Thakar Dass, in his cross-examination, has admitted that the voice of Darshan Lal was feeble. PW-3 Thakar Dass and PW-4 Devi Dass did not belong to the same village and no marginal witnesses were associated from the neighbourhood at the time of execution of "will" though there were 7-8 houses at a distance of 100 meters. The propounder and her husband have actively participated at the time of execution of the "will". It further casts doubt about the validity of the "will".

17. Learned first appellate court has correctly appreciated the oral as well as documentary evidence led by the parties and there is no need to interfere with the well reasoned judgment and decree passed by the first appellate court. All the substantial questions of law are answered accordingly.

18. No other point was urged.

19. In view of the analysis and discussion made hereinabove, there is no merit in the appeal and the same is dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, also stands disposed of. There shall, however, be no order as to costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Rakesh Kumar & Anr. ....Petitioners.

Versus

Sh. Pratap Chand & Others. ...Respondents.

Civil Revision No. 155 of 2014
Decided on: 07.05.2015.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Section 24- A Petition for transfer was filed by the tenant stating that no Lawyer was ready to take up his case as the respondent had a great influence in the society- held, that a petition for transfer is not to be dealt with in a light hearted manner – transfer of a case from one Court to another should not be granted readily as a matter of course - power has to be exercised with extreme care, caution and circumspection- petitioners had failed to mention the name of Lawyer who had refused to accept the brief under the influence of respondent- petitioners are adopting delaying tactics to prolong the trial by filing such application- petition is a gross abuse of the process of the Court, hence, same is dismissed with cost of Rs. 50,000/-. (Para-7 to 15)

Cases referred:

Jitendra Singh Vs. Bhanu Kumari and others, (2009) 1 Supreme Court Cases 130
Subhash Chand Sharma Vs. Smt. Shakuntla Devi, ILR, HP VOL.(XLV)-I, 2015, Page, 336
Ramrameshwari Devi and others Vs. Nirmala Devi and others, (2011) 8 Supreme Court Cases 249
South Eastern Coalfields Ltd. Vs. State of M.P (2003) 8 SCC 648
Enviro-legal Action Vs. Union of India and others, (2011) 8 Supreme Court Cases 161

For the petitioners. : Mr. Dushyant Dadwal, Advocate.
For respondent No.1. :Mr. R.L. Sood, Sr.Advocate with Mr. Sanjeev Kumar, Advocate.
For remaining respondents. : None.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge (Oral)

This petition under Section 28 of the Himachal Pradesh Rent Control Act, 1987 (for short the 'Act') at the behest of the tenants seeks quashing of order passed by the learned Appellate Authority whereby their application for transfer of the case has been rejected.

2. In the application filed for transfer of case before the learned Appellate Authority, it has contended that the petitioners wanted to engage the services of some lawyers at Rohru, but none was ready to take up the case for the reason that the respondent was local person and had great influence in the locality, as he had retired as a District & Sessions Judge. Not only this, before joining the H.P. Judicial Service he had been practicing Advocate at Rohru and therefore, this was the additional ground that none of the lawyers were ready to accept their brief.

3. The respondent No.1 filed reply wherein it was contended that the allegations made in the application were vague and indefinite to the extreme, besides being incorrect. The petitioners had failed to disclose the names of the lawyers who were allegedly approached by them and who allegedly refused to take up their brief. It is further contended that on 19.3.2014 when the Rent Controller required the petitioners to disclose the name of the lawyers who had refused to accept their brief, the petitioners on 3.4.2014 were able to disclose the name of only one lawyer. Whereas, there were more than 40 lawyers practicing at the Rohru Bar. The allegations regarding influence in the locality or at Rohru was denied and it was contended that the respondent had commenced his practice at Rohru only for a short stint in the year 1973 and thereafter had immediately joined service but was now a senior citizen aged about 65 years leading a retired life.

4. The learned Appellate Court dismissed the application by holding that the allegations contained therein were vague, general in nature and it was fairly settled that the proceedings in the civil cases could not be transferred on the mere asking of a party. It was further held that since the respondent had retired as a District & Sessions Judge long back, it did not mean that none of the lawyers would be ready to accept his brief.

5. It is this order passed by the learned District & Sessions Judge which has been challenged by the petitioners.

6. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the case.

7. The basic principle governing the grant of petition for transfer which are required to be borne in mind are that these petition are not to be dealt with in a light hearted manner and transfer of the case from one court to another should not be granted readily for any fancied notion and unless a sufficiently cogent ground is disclosed, transfer should not be allowed as a mater of course. Exercising powers for transfer is discretionary and therefore, have to be exercised with extreme care, caution and circumspection. The petitioner cannot be stopped from going on with his petition in a chosen forum where he has a right of action against the respondent. As a general rule, the courts will not interfere unless the expenses and the difficulty of the trial would be so great as to lead to injustice or the petition has been filed in a particular court only for the purpose of causing injustice.

8. The nature and scope as also the discretion of the court to order transfer civil cases was the subject matter of decision by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jitendra Singh Vs. Bhanu Kumari and others, (2009) 1 Supreme Court Cases 130 wherein it was held:-

> "The purpose of Section 24 CPC is merely to confer on the court a discretionary power. A court acting under Section 24 CPC may or may not in its judicial discretion transfer a particular case. Section 24 does not prescribe any ground for ordering the transfer of a case. In certain cases it may be ordered suo motu and it may be done for administrative reasons. But when an application for transfer is made by a party, the court is required to issue notice to the other side and hear the party before directing transfer. To put it differently, the court must act judicially in ordering a transfer on the application of a party. In the instant case the reason which has weighed with the High Court for directing transfer does not really make out a case for transfer."

9. The petitioners even before this court have failed to name even a single Advocate who when contacted had refused to accept the brief only because of the so-called 'influence' of the respondent. The learned counsel for the petitioners was not in a position to deny that the respondent had joined the services more than 35 years back and had now retired more than 5 years back. Therefore, in such circumstances to allege that the respondent was exercising influence is not only too far fetched but factually incorrect.

10. The proceedings in the instant case were commenced in 2012 and the case is still at the service stage. This in itself shows that the petitioners have left no stone unturned to drag the proceedings by adopting different and delaying tactics. Such practice in my considered view should never be encouraged by the courts. To say the least, the conduct of the petitioners is far from being fair and the application is nothing but a sheer abuse of the process of the court.

11. It is the bounden duty of the court to ensure that dishonesty and any attempt to surpass the legal process must be effectively curbed and the courts must further ensure that there is no wrongful, unauthorized or unjust gain to anyone as a result of abuse of process of court. This court while adjudicating upon RSA No. 481 of 2002, titled Subhash Chand Sharma Vs. Smt. Shakuntla Devi decided on 9.1.2015 observed :-

> "20. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has repeatedly pointed out that rent acts have not been enacted only to protect the tenants from unjust eviction but have been enacted to equally enforce the lawful right of the landlords to obtain a possession of their own property in the event of satisfying the grounds prescribed for eviction. In this case the appellant is not even tenant and yet he has succeeded in retaining the premises by not residing but putting a lock on the same.
>
> 21. It is proved on record that the defence set up by the appellant was absolutely false. In Maria Margarida Sequeria Fernandes v. Erasmo Jack de Sequeria, (2012) 5 SCC 370, the Supreme Court held that false claims and defences are serious problems with the litigation. The Supreme Court held as under:-
>
> > "False claims and false defences
> >
> > 84. False claims and defences are really serious problems with real estate litigation, predominantly because of ever escalating prices of the real estate. Litigation pertaining to valuable real estate properties is dragged on by unscrupulous litigants in the hope that the other party will tire out and ultimately would settle with them by paying a huge amount. This happens because of the enormous delay in adjudication of cases in our Courts. If pragmatic approach is adopted, then this problem can be minimized to a large extent."
>
> In Dalip Singh v. State of U.P., (2010) 2 SCC 114, the Supreme Court observed that a new creed of litigants have cropped up in the last 40 years who do not have any respect for truth and shamelessly resort to falsehood and unethical means for achieving their goals. The observations of the Supreme Court are as under:-
>
> > "1. For many centuries, Indian society cherished two basic values of life i.e., 'Satya' (truth) and 'Ahimsa' (non-violence). Mahavir, Gautam Buddha and Mahatma Gandhi guided the people to ingrain these values in their daily life. Truth constituted an integral part of the justice-delivery system which was in vogue in the pre-Independence era and the people used to feel proud to tell truth in the courts irrespective of the consequences. However, post-Independence period has seen drastic changes in our value system. The materialism has over shadowed the old ethos and the quest for personal gain has become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood, misrepresentation and suppression of facts in the court proceedings.
> >
> > 2. In last 40 years, a new creed of litigants has cropped up. Those who belong to this creed do not have any respect for truth. They shamelessly resort to falsehood and unethical means for achieving their goals. In order to meet the challenge posed by this new creed of litigants, the courts have, from time to time, evolved new rules and it is now well established that a litigant, who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands, is not entitled to any relief, interim or final."

In Satyender Singh v. Gulab Singh, 2012 (129) DRJ, 128, the Division Bench of Delhi High Court following Dalip Singh v. State of U.P. (supra) observed that the Courts are flooded with litigation with false and incoherent pleas and tainted evidence led by the parties due to which the judicial system in the country is choked and such litigants are consuming Courts" time for a wrong cause."

The observations of Court are as under:-

> "2. As rightly observed by the Supreme Court, Satya is a basic value of life which was required to be followed by everybody and is recognized since many centuries. In spite of caution, courts are continued to be flooded with litigation with false and incoherent pleas and tainted evidence led by the parties. The judicial system in the country is choked and such litigants are consuming courts„ time for a wrong cause. Efforts are made by the parties to steal a march over their rivals by resorting to false and incoherent statements made before the Court. Indeed, it is a nightmare faced by a Trier of Facts; required to stitch a garment, when confronted with a fabric where the weft, shuttling back and forth across the warp in weaving, is nothing but lies. As the threads of the weft fall, the yarn of the warp also collapses; and there is no fabric left."

In Sky Land International Pvt. Ltd. v. Kavita P. Lalwani, (2012) 191 DLT 594, Delhi High Court held as under:-

> "26.20 Dishonest and unnecessary litigations are a huge strain on the judicial system. The Courts are continued to be flooded with litigation with false and incoherent pleas and tainted evidence led by the parties. The judicial system in the country is choked and such litigants are consuming courts„ time for a wrong cause. Efforts are made by the parties to steal a march over their rivals by resorting to false and incoherent statements made before the Court.
>
> xxx xxx xxx
>
> 26.22 Unless the Courts ensure that wrongdoers are denied profit or undue benefit from the frivolous litigation, it would be difficult to control frivolous and uncalled for litigations. In order to curb uncalled for and frivolous litigation, the Courts have to ensure that there is no incentive or motive for uncalled for litigation. It is a matter of common experience that the Courts" scarce and valuable time is consumed or more appropriately wasted in a large number of uncalled for cases. It becomes the duty of the Courts to see that such wrong doers are discouraged at every step and even if they succeed in prolonging the litigation, ultimately they must suffer the costs. Despite settled legal positions, the obvious wrong doers, use one after another tier of judicial review mechanism as a gamble, knowing fully well that the dice is always loaded in their favour, since even if they lose, the time gained is the real gain. This situation must be redeemed by the Courts."

22. The judicial system has been abused and virtually brought to its knees by unscrupulous litigants like the defendant/appellant in this case. It has to be remembered that Court's proceedings are sacrosanct and should not be polluted by unscrupulous litigants. The defendant/appellant has abused the process of the Court. What is 'abuse of the process of the Court' has been dealt with in detail by this Court in Amar Singh vs. Shiv Dutt and others, RFA No. 646 of 2012 decided on 30.7.2014 wherein it was held:

> "9. …………Therefore, the question at this stage, would than arise as to whether a party can be permitted to indulge in filing frivolous and vexatious proceedings and whether the same amount to abuse of process of Court.

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in K.K.Modi vrs. K.N.Modi and others, reported in (1998) 3 SCC 573 has dealt in detail with the proposition as to what would constitute an abuse of the process of the Court, one of which pertains to re-litigation. It has been held at paragraphs 43 to 46 as follows:

> 43. The Supreme Court Practice 1995 published by Sweet & Maxwell in paragraph 18/19/33 (page 344) explains the phrase "abuse of the process of the Court" thus: "This terms connotes that the process of the Court must be used bona fide and properly and must not be abused. The Court will prevent improper use of its machinery and will in a proper case, summarily prevent its machinery from being used as a means of vexation and oppression in the process of litigation. . . . .
>
> The categories of conduct rendering a claim frivolous, vexatious or an abuse of process are not closed but depend on all the relevant circumstances. And for this purpose considerations of public policy and the interests of justice may be very material."
>
> 44. One of the examples cited as an abuse of the process of Court is re-litigation. It is an abuse of the process of the Court and contrary to justice and public policy for a party to re-litigate the same issue which has already been tried and decided earlier against him. The re-agitation may or may not be barred as res judicata. But if the same issue is sought to be re-agitated, it also amounts to an abuse of the process of the Court. A proceeding being filed for a collateral purpose, or a spurious claim being made in litigation may also in a given set of facts amount to an abuse of the process of the Court. Frivolous or vexatious proceedings may also amount to an abuse of the process of Court especially where the proceedings are absolutely groundless. The Court then has the power to stop such proceedings summarily and prevent the time of the public and the Court from being wasted. Undoubtedly, it is a matter of Courts' discretion whether such proceedings should be stopped or not; and this discretion has to be exercised with circumspection. It is a jurisdiction which should be sparingly exercised, and exercised only in special cases. The Court should also be satisfied that there is no chance of the suit succeeding.
>
> 45. In the case of Greenhalgh v. Mallard (1947) 2 All ER 255, the Court had to consider different proceedings on the same cause of action for conspiracy, but supported by different averments. The Court held that if the plaintiff has chosen to put his case in one way, he cannot thereafter bring the same transaction before the Court, put his case in another way and say that he is relying on a new cause of action. In such circumstances he can be met with the plea of res judicata or the statement or plaint may be struck out on the ground that the action is frivolous and vexatious and an abuse of the process of the Court.
>
> 46. In Mcllkenny v. Chief Constable of West Midlands Police Force (1980) 2 All ER 227, the Court of Appeal in England struck out the pleading on the ground that the action was an abuse of the process of the Court since it raised an issue identical to that which had been finally determined at the plaintiffs ' earlier criminal trial. The Court said even when it is not possible to strike out the plaint on the ground of issue estoppel, the action can be struck out as an abuse of the process of the Court because it is an abuse for a party to re-litigate a question or issue which has already been decided against him even though the other party cannot satisfy the strict rule of res judicata or the requirement of issue estoppels.

11. Similarly, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kishore Samrite vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, reported in (2013(2) SCC 398, has dealt in detail with "abuse of process of Court" in the following terms:

Abuse of the process of Court :

"31. Now, we shall deal with the question whether both or any of the petitioners in Civil Writ Petition Nos. 111/2011 and 125/2011 are guilty of suppression of material facts, not approaching the Court with clean hands, and thereby abusing the process of the Court. Before we dwell upon the facts and circumstances of the case in hand, let us refer to some case laws which would help us in dealing with the present situation with greater precision.

32. The cases of abuse of the process of court and such allied matters have been arising before the Courts consistently. This Court has had many occasions where it dealt with the cases of this kind and it has clearly stated the principles that would govern the obligations of a litigant while approaching the court for redressal of any grievance and the consequences of abuse of the process of court. We may recapitulate and state some of the principles. It is difficult to state such principles exhaustively and with such accuracy that would uniformly apply to a variety of cases. These are:

32.1. Courts have, over the centuries, frowned upon litigants who, with intent to deceive and mislead the Courts, initiated proceedings without full disclosure of facts and came to the courts with 'unclean hands'. Courts have held that such litigants are neither entitled to be heard on the merits of the case nor entitled to any relief.

32.2. The people, who approach the Court for relief on an ex parte statement, are under a contract with the court that they would state the whole case fully and fairly to the court and where the litigant has broken such faith, the discretion of the court cannot be exercised in favour of such a litigant.

32.3. The obligation to approach the Court with clean hands is an absolute obligation and has repeatedly been reiterated by this Court.

32.4. Quests for personal gains have become so intense that those involved in litigation do not hesitate to take shelter of falsehood and misrepresent and suppress facts in the court proceedings. Materialism, opportunism and malicious intent have over-shadowed the old ethos of litigative values for small gains.

32.5. A litigant who attempts to pollute the stream of justice or who touches the pure fountain of justice with tainted hands is not entitled to any relief, interim or final.

32.6. The Court must ensure that its process is not abused and in order to prevent abuse of the process the court, it would be justified even in insisting on furnishing of security and in cases of serious abuse, the Court would be duty bound to impose heavy costs.

32.7. Wherever a public interest is invoked, the Court must examine the petition carefully to ensure that there is genuine public interest involved. The stream of justice should not be allowed to be polluted by unscrupulous litigants.

32.8. The Court, especially the Supreme Court, has to maintain strictest vigilance over the abuse of the process of court and ordinarily meddlesome bystanders should not be granted "visa". Many societal pollutants create new problems of unredressed grievances and the Court should endure to take cases where the justice of the lis well-justifies it. [Refer : Dalip Singh v. State of U.P. & Ors. (2010) 2 SCC 114; Amar Singh v. Union of India & Ors. (2011) 7 SCC 69 and State of Uttaranchal v Balwant Singh Chaufal & Ors. (2010) 3 SCC 402].

33. Access jurisprudence requires Courts to deal with the legitimate litigation whatever be its form but decline to exercise jurisdiction, if such litigation is an abuse of the process of the Court. In P.S.R.Sadhanantham v. Arunachalam & Anr. (1980) 3 SCC 141, the Court held:

> "15. The crucial significance of access jurisprudence has been best expressed by Cappelletti:
>
> > "The right of effective access to justice has emerged with the new social rights. Indeed, it is of paramount importance among these new rights since, clearly, the enjoyment of traditional as well as new social rights presupposes mechanisms for their effective protection. Such protection, moreover, is best assured be a workable remedy within the framework of the judicial system. Effective access to justice can thus be seen as the most basic requirement the most basic 'human-right' of a system which purports to guarantee legal rights."
> >
> > 16. We are thus satisfied that the bogey of busybodies blackmailing adversaries through frivolous invocation of Article 136 is chimerical. Access to justice to every bona fide seeker is a democratic dimension of remedial jurisprudence even as public interest litigation, class action, pro bono proceedings, are. We cannot dwell in the home of processual obsolescence when our Constitution highlights social justice as a goal. We hold that there is no merit in the contentions of the writ petitioner and dismiss the petition."

34. It has been consistently stated by this Court that the entire journey of a Judge is to discern the truth from the pleadings, documents and arguments of the parties, as truth is the basis of the Justice Delivery System.

35. With the passage of time, it has been realised that people used to feel proud to tell the truth in the Courts, irrespective of the consequences but that practice no longer proves true, in all cases. The Court does not sit simply as an umpire in a contest between two parties and declare at the end of the combat as to who has won and who has lost but it has a legal duty of its own, independent of parties, to take active role in the proceedings and reach at the truth, which is the foundation of administration of justice. Therefore, the truth should become the ideal to inspire the courts to pursue. This can be achieved by statutorily mandating the Courts to become active seekers of truth. To enable the courts to ward off unjustified interference in their working, those who indulge in immoral acts like perjury, prevarication and motivated falsehood must be appropriately dealt with. The parties must state forthwith sufficient factual details to the extent that it reduces the ability to put forward false and exaggerated claims and a litigant must approach the Court with clean hands. It is the bounden duty of the Court to ensure that dishonesty and any attempt to surpass the legal process must be effectively curbed and the Court must ensure that there is no wrongful, unauthorised or unjust gain to anyone as a result of abuse of the process of the Court. One way to curb this tendency is to impose realistic or punitive costs.

36. The party not approaching the Court with clean hands would be liable to be non-suited and such party, who has also succeeded in polluting the stream of justice by making patently false statements, cannot claim relief, especially under Article 136 of the Constitution. While approaching the court, a litigant must state correct facts and come with clean hands. Where such statement of facts is based on some information, the source of such information must also be disclosed. Totally misconceived petition amounts to abuse of the process of the court and such a litigant is not required to be dealt with lightly, as a petition containing misleading and inaccurate statement, if filed, to achieve an ulterior purpose amounts to abuse of the process of the court. A litigant is bound to make "full and true disclosure of facts". (Refer : Tilokchand H.B. Motichand & Ors. v. Munshi & Anr. [1969 (1) SCC 110]; A. Shanmugam v. Ariya Kshatriya Rajakula Vamsathu Madalaya Nandhavana Pari palanai Sangam & Anr. [(2012) 6 SCC 430]; Chandra Shashi v. Anil Kumar Verma [(1995) SCC 1, 421]; Abhyudya Sanstha v. Union of India & Ors. [(2011) 6 SCC 145]; State of Madhya Pradesh v. Narmada Bachao Andolan & Anr. [(2011) 7 SCC 639]; Kalyaneshwari v. Union of India & Anr. [(2011) 3 SCC 287)].

37. The person seeking equity must do equity. It is not just the clean hands, but also clean mind, clean heart and clean objective that are the equi-fundamentals of judicious litigation. The legal maxim jure naturae aequum est neminem cum alterius detrimento et injuria fieri locupletiorem, which means that it is a law of nature that one should not be enriched by the loss or injury to another, is the percept for Courts. Wide jurisdiction of the court should not become a source of abuse of the process of law by the disgruntled litigant. Careful exercise is also necessary to ensure that the litigation is genuine, not motivated by extraneous considerations and imposes an obligation upon the litigant to disclose the true facts and approach the court with clean hands.

38. No litigant can play 'hide and seek with the courts or adopt 'pick and choose'. True facts ought to be disclosed as the Court knows law, but not facts. One, who does not come with candid facts and clean breast cannot hold a writ of the court with soiled hands. Suppression or concealment of material facts is impermissible to a litigant or even as a technique of advocacy. In such cases, the Court is duty bound to discharge rule nisi and such applicant is required to be dealt with for contempt of court for abusing the process of the court. [K.D. Sharma v. Steel Authority of India Ltd. & Ors. [(2008) 12 SCC 481].

39. Another settled canon of administration of justice is that no litigant should be permitted to misuse the judicial process by filing frivolous petitions. No litigant has a right to unlimited drought upon the court time and public money in order to get his affairs settled in the manner as he wishes. Easy access to justice should not be used as a licence to file misconceived and frivolous petitions. (Buddhi Kota Subbarao (Dr.) v. K. Parasaran, (1996) 5 SCC 530)."

12. Now, it is to be seen as to whether the conduct of the respondents was in fact in abuse of the process of the Court. What is "abuse of process of Court" of course has not been defined or given any meaning in the Code of Civil Procedure. However, a party to a litigation can be said to be guilty of abuse of process of the Court in any of the following cases as held by the Hon'ble Madras High Court in Ranipet Municipality Rep. by its.... Vs. M. Shamsheerkhan, reported in 1998 (1) CTC 66 at paragraph 9. To quote:

" 9. It is this conduct of the respondent that is attacked by the petitioner as abuse of process of Court. What is 'abuse of the process of the Court'? Of course, for the term 'abuse of the process of the Court' the Code of Civil Procedure has not given any definition. A party to a litigation is said to be guilty of abuse of process of the Court, in any of the following cases:-

(1) Gaining an unfair advantage by the use of a rule of procedure.

(2) Contempt of the authority of the Court by a party or stranger.

(3) Fraud or collusion in Court proceedings as between parties.

(4) Retention of a benefit wrongly received.

(5) Resorting to and encouraging multiplicity of proceedings.

(6) Circumventing of the law by indirect means.

(7) Presence of witness during examination of previous witness.

(8) Institution vexatious, obstructive or dilatory actions.

(9) Introduction of Scandalous or objectionable matter in proceedings.

(10) Executing a decree manifestly at variance with its purpose and intent.

(11) Institution of a suit by a puppet plaintiff.

(12) Institution of a suit in the name of the firm by one partner against the majority opinion of other partners etc."

The above are only some of the instances where a party may be said to be guilty of committing of "abuse of process of the Court".

23. The appellant by keeping these proceedings alive has gained an undeserved and unfair advantage. The appellant has successful in dragging the proceedings for a very long time on one count or the other and because of his wrongful possession he has drawn delight in delay in disposal of the cases by taking undue advantage of procedural complications. The case at hand shows that frivolous defences and frivolous litigation is a calculated venture involving no risks situation. One has only to engage professionals to prolong the litigation so as to deprive the rights of a person and enjoy the fruits of illegalities. The Court has been used as a tool by the defendant/appellant to perpetuate illegalities and has perpetuated an illegal possession. It is on account of such frivolous litigation that the court dockets are overflowing. Here it is apt to reproduce the observations made by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in paras 174, 175 and 197 of the judgment in Indian Council for Enviro-Legal Action vs. Union of India and others (2011) 8 SCC 161 which are as under:

174. In Padmawati vs Harijan Sewak Sangh, (2008) 154 DLT 411 (Del) decided by the Delhi high Court on 6.11.2008, the court held as under: (DLT p.413, para 6)

"6.The case at hand shows that frivolous defences and frivolous litigation is a calculated venture involving no risks situation. You have only to engage professionals to prolong the litigation so as to deprive the rights of a person and enjoy the fruits of illegalities. I consider that in such cases where Court finds that using the Courts as a tool, a litigant has perpetuated illegalities or has perpetuated an illegal possession, the Court must impose costs on such litigants which should be equal to the benefits derived by the litigant and harm and deprivation suffered by the rightful person so as to check the frivolous litigation and prevent the people from reaping a rich harvest of illegal acts through the Court. One of the aims of every judicial system has to be to discourage unjust enrichment using Courts as a tool. The costs imposed by the Courts must in all cases should be the real costs equal to deprivation suffered by the rightful person."

We approve the findings of the High Court of Delhi in the aforementioned case.

175. The Court also stated: (Padmawati case, DLT pp. 414-15, para 9)

"Before parting with this case, we consider it necessary to observe that one of the main reasons for over-flowing of court dockets is the frivolous litigation in which the Courts are engaged by the litigants and which is dragged as long as possible. Even if these litigants ultimately loose the lis, they become the real victors and have the last laugh. This class of people who perpetuate illegal acts by obtaining stays and injunctions from the Courts must be made to pay the sufferer not only the entire illegal gains made by them as costs to the person deprived of his right and also must be burdened with exemplary costs. Faith of people in judiciary can only be sustained if the persons on the right side of the law do not feel that even if they keep fighting for justice in the Court and ultimately win, they would turn out to be a fool since winning a case after 20 or 30 years would make wrongdoer as real gainer, who had reaped the benefits for all those years. Thus, it becomes the duty of the Courts to see that such wrongdoers are discouraged at every step and even if they succeed in prolonging the litigation due to their money power, ultimately they must suffer the costs of all these years long litigation. Despite settled legal positions, the obvious wrong doers, use one after another tier of judicial review mechanism as a gamble, knowing fully well that dice is always loaded in their favour, since even if they lose, the time gained is the real gain. This situation must be redeemed by the Courts."

197. The other aspect which has been dealt with in great details is to neutralize any unjust enrichment and undeserved gain made by the litigants. While adjudicating, the courts must keep the following principles in view.

1. It is the bounden duty and obligation of the court to neutralize any unjust enrichment and undeserved gain made by any party by invoking the jurisdiction of the court.

2. When a party applies and gets a stay or injunction from the court, it is always at the risk and responsibility of the party applying. An order of stay cannot be presumed to be conferment of additional right upon the litigating party.

3. Unscrupulous litigants be prevented from taking undue advantage by invoking jurisdiction of the Court.

4. A person in wrongful possession should not only be removed from that place as early as possible but be compelled to pay for wrongful use of that premises fine, penalty and costs. Any leniency would seriously affect the credibility of the judicial system.

5. No litigant can derive benefit from the mere pendency of a case in a court of law.

6. A party cannot be allowed to take any benefit of his own wrongs.

7. Litigation should not be permitted to turn into a fruitful industry so that the unscrupulous litigants are encouraged to invoke the jurisdiction of the court.

8. The institution of litigation cannot be permitted to confer any advantage on a party by delayed action of courts."

12. The further question which now arises is as to how to curb this tendency of abuse of process of court. As suggested in Kishore Samrita (supra), one of the ways to curb this tendency is to impose realistic or punitive costs. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ramrameshwari Devi and others Vs. Nirmala Devi and others, (2011) 8 Supreme Court Cases 249 took judicial notice of the fact that the courts are flooded with these kinds of cases because there is an inherent profit for the wrongdoers and stressed for imposition of actual, realistic or proper costs and it was held:-

"52. The main question which arises for our consideration is whether the prevailing delay in civil litigation can be curbed? In our considered opinion the existing system can be drastically changed or improved if the following steps are taken by the trial courts while dealing with the civil trials:

A. Pleadings are the foundation of the claims of parties. Civil litigation is largely based on documents. It is the bounden duty and obligation of the trial Judge to carefully scrutinize, check and verify the pleadings and the documents filed by the parties. This must be done immediately after civil suits are filed.

B. The court should resort to discovery and production of documents and interrogatories at the earliest according to the object of the Act. If this exercise is carefully carried out, it would focus the controversies involved in the case and help the court in arriving at the truth of the matter and doing substantial justice.

C. Imposition of actual, realistic or proper costs and/or ordering prosecution would go a long way in controlling the tendency of introducing false pleadings and forged and fabricated documents by the litigants. Imposition of heavy costs would also control unnecessary adjournments by the parties. In appropriate cases the courts may consider ordering prosecution otherwise it may not be possible to maintain purity and sanctity of judicial proceedings.

D. The court must adopt realistic and pragmatic approach in granting mesne profits. The court must carefully keep in view the ground realities while granting mesne profits.

E. The courts should be extremely careful and cautious in granting ex parte ad interim injunctions or stay orders. Ordinarily short notice should be issued to the defendants or respondents and only after hearing the parties concerned appropriate orders should be passed.

F. Litigants who obtained ex parte ad interim injunction on the strength of false pleadings and forged documents should be adequately punished. No one should be allowed to abuse the process of the court.

G. The principle of restitution be fully applied in a pragmatic manner in order to do real and substantial justice.

H. Every case emanates from a human or a commercial problem and the court must make serious endeavour to resolve the problem within the framework of law and in accordance with the well-settled principles of law and justice.

I. If in a given case, ex parte injunction is granted, then the said application for grant of injunction should be disposed of on merits, after hearing both sides as expeditiously as may be possible on a priority basis and undue adjournments should be avoided.

J. At the time of filing of the plaint, the trial court should prepare a complete schedule and fix dates for all the stages of the suit, right form filing of the written statement till pronouncement of the judgment and the courts should strictly adhere to the said dates and the said timetable as far as possible. If any interlocutory application is filed then the same be disposed of in between the said dates of hearing fixed in the said suit itself so that the date fixed for the main suit may not be disturbed."

13. Prior to this the Hon'ble Supreme Court in South Eastern Coalfields Ltd. Vs. State of M.P (2003) 8 SCC 648 had held that the litigation should not turn into a fruitful industry and observed as under :-

> "28. …… Litigation may turn into a fruitful industry. Though litigation is not gambling yet there is an element of chance in every litigation. Unscrupulous litigants may feel encouraged to approach the courts, persuading the court to pass interlocutory orders favourable to them by making out a prima facie case when the issues are yet to be heard and determined on merits and if the concept of restitution is excluded from application to interim orders, then the litigant would stand to gain by swallowing the benefits yielding out of the interim order even though the battle has been lost at the end. This cannot be countenanced. We are, therefore, of the opinion that the successful party finally held entitled to a relief assessable in terms of money at the end of the litigation, is entitled to be compensated by award of interest at a suitable reasonable rate for the period for which the interim order of the court withholding the release of money had remained in operation."

14. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Indian Council for Enviro-legal Action Vs. Union of India and others, (2011) 8 Supreme Court Cases 161 observed:-

> "191. In consonance with the principles of equity, justice and good conscience Judges should ensure that the legal process is not abused by the litigants in any manner. The court should never permit a litigant to perpetuate illegality by abusing the legal process. It is the bounden duty of the court to ensure that dishonesty and any attempt to abuse the legl process must be effectively curbed and the court must ensure that there is no wrongful, unauthorized or unjust gain for anyone by the abuse of the process of the court. One way to curb this tendency is to impose realistic costs, which the respondent or the defendant has in fact incurred in order to defend himself in the legal proceedings. The courts would be fully justified even imposing punitive costs where legal process has been abused. No one should be permitted to use the judicial process for earning undeserved gains or unjust profits. The court must effectively discourage fraudulent, unscrupulous and dishonest litigation.
>
> 192. The court's constant endeavour must be ensure that everyone gets just and fair treatment. The court while rendering justice must adopt a pragmatic approach and in appropriate cases realistic costs and compensation be ordered in order to discourage dishonest litigation. The object and true meaning of the concept of restitution cannot be achieved or accomplished unless the courts adopt a pragmatic approach in dealing with the cases.
>
> 193. This Court in a very recent case Ramrameshwari Devi v. Nirmala Devi had an occasion to deal with similar questions of law regarding imposition of realistic costs and restitution. One of us (Bhandari, J.) was the author of the judgment. It was observed in that case as under: (SCC pp. 268-69, paras 54-55)
>
>> "54. While imposing costs we have to take into consideration pragmatic realities and be realistic as to what the defendants or the respondents had to actually incur in contesting the litigation before different courts. We have to also broadly take into consideration the prevalent fee structure of the lawyers and other miscellaneous expenses which have to be incurred towards drafting and filing of the counter-affidavit, miscellaneous charges towards typing, photocopying, court fee, etc.
>>
>> 55. The other factor which should not be forgotten while imposing costs is for how long the defendants or respondents were compelled to contest and defend the litigation in various courts. The appellants in the instant case have harassed the respondents to the hilt for four decades in a totally frivolous and dishonest litigation in various courts. The appellants have also wasted judicial time of the various courts for the last 40 years."

15. In view of the aforesaid discussion not only is there any merit in this petition but the same is also a gross abuse of the process of court and is accordingly dismissed with costs of Rs. 50,000/-.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

Ram Swarup and others. ...Appellants.
Versus
Narinder Parkash and others. ...Respondents.

RSA No. 263 of 2013
Reserved on: 4.5.2015
Decided on: 7.5.2015

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 34- Plaintiff claimed that land measuring more than 150 bighas was being irrigated through Kuhal known as Nal Ka Banda since time immemorial openly, peacefully and continuously- defendants have no right to cause interference in the flow of water- Kuhal originates from Sharatu Ka Nala- Pataru Ka Nala and Bagh Ka Nala are the tributaries of Sharatu Ka Nala - defendants threatened to tap the water from Sharatu Ka Nala and Bagh Ka Nala- plaintiff relied upon a rough map in which no khasra numbers were mentioned- the points from which the pipes were installed were also not mentioned- defendants got prepared a map by an expert - the factual position shown in the map, got prepared by defendants, is in conformity with the statements of the witnesses regarding the source of water- other co-villagers were not arrayed as parties- held that in these circumstances suit was rightly dismissed. (Para-16)

For the Appellants : Mr. G.D. Verma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate for respondent No.2.
None for other respondents.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge.

This Regular Second Appeal is directed against the judgment and decree dated 5.1.2013 rendered by the Addl. District Judge, Fast Track Court, Solan in Civil Appeal No. 10 FTC/13 of 2010.

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of this appeal are that the appellants-plaintiffs (herein after referred to as 'plaintiffs' for convenience sake) have stated that they are owners-in-possession of the land situated in village Dangheel and Bhuira pargana Pashgaon, Tehsil Kandaghat, District Solan. These villages are adjacent to each other. It is stated that out of land located in village Dangheel and Bhuira, land measuring more than 150 bighas was being irrigated through Kuhal No.5 known as "Nal Ka Banda" since time immemorial openly, peacefully, continuously and uninterruptedly. Respondents-defendants (herein after referred to as 'defendants' for convenience sake) have no right to cause any kind of interference in the flow of water from Kuhal No.5 known as "Nal Ka Banda" in any manner. The Kuhal originates from "Sharatu Ka Nala at point 'A' as shown in rough site plan. Besides "Pataru Ka Nala" and Bagh Ka Nala are the tributaries of Sharatu Ka Nala. Pataru Ka Nala merges in the Sharatu Ka Nala at point 'B' and Bagh Ka Nala joins the Sharatu Ka Nala at point 'C'. It is stated that the defendants who are inhabitants of the villages Sayola and Kharanji threatened to tap the water from Sharatu Ka Nala and Bagh Ka Nala with the help of Alkathene pipe to their houses.

3. The suit was contested by defendants No. 3, 4, 6 and 7. Defendant No.2 has filed separate written statement. According to the defendants, plaintiffs have not disclosed Khasra numbers and area which were irrigated by them from different water sources. It was denied that the land of the plaintiffs was being irrigated from Kuhal No.5 since time immemorial. It was also denied that the defendants were interfering with the flow of water of Kuhal No.5. The source of Kuhal No.5 Nal Ka Banda was also denied. It was denied by defendant No.2 that he was causing interference in the Kuhal. After the death of Sant Ram, he was using the water peacefully, continuously and without any interruption. Defendant No.5 has also stated that the lands were being irrigated as per Riwazat Ab Pashi.

4. Issues were framed by the Civil Judge (Junior Division) on 28.9.1999. She dismissed the suit on 30.3.2010. Plaintiffs filed an appeal before the Additional District Judge, Fast Track Court, Solan. He dismissed the same on 5.1.2013. Hence, the present appeal.

5. Mr. G.D. Verma, learned Senior Advocate, for the appellants, on the basis of the substantial questions of law framed, has vehemently argued that both the courts below have misconstrued and misread the oral as well as documentary evidence. He then contended that in order to ascertain the exact position at the spot, local commissioner ought to have been appointed. He has further contended that the suit was maintainable on behalf of the plaintiffs.

6. Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate, has supported the judgments passed by both the Courts below.

7. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records carefully.

8. Since all substantial questions of law are interlinked, they are being discussed together to avoid repetition of discussion of evidence.

9. PW-1 Ram Swaroop has proved site plant Ext. PW-1/A. According to him, the original source of water of Nal Ka Banda was from Sharatu Ka Nala, Patru Ka Nala and Bagh Ka Nala. According to him, defendants have no right to interfere in Sharatu Ka Nala and Pataru Ka Nala. According to him, if the water is used by the defendants, the supply of water to their lands would be drastically reduced. The sketch PW-1/A was prepared by his son namely Susheel, who was student of +2 in Chail. However, Ext. DW-4/C relied upon by the defendants has been prepared by DW-4 Dharmender Verma, who was qualified draughtsman. He has prepared Ext. DW-4/A after visiting the spot in the presence of 6-7 villagers. PW-1 has admitted that below Nal Ka Banda, there is Bagh Ka Nala and there are houses of Kartar and Phulma Devi. There are 3 flour mills, one run by Bhagat Ram second by Phulma Devi and third one by Shiv Ram.

10. PW-2 Sant Ram has placed on record Hindi translation of documents Ext. PW-2/A to Ext. PW-2/C.

11. DW-1 Narender Parkash has led his evidence by filing affidavit Ext. DW-1/A. In his cross-examination, he has denied that Sharatu Ka Nala emerges into Pataru Ka Nala.

12. DW-2 Hari Krishan has led his evidence by filing his affidavit Ext. DW-2/A. He has denied the suggestion that Bagh Ka Nala emerges into Sharatu Ka Nala.

13. DW-3 Dharam Dutt has corroborated the statements of DW-1 Narender Parkash and DW-2 Hari Krishan, respectively. He has proved map Ext. DW-4/C. He has placed on record, copy of diploma certificate Ext. DW-4/B.

14. DW-5 Hardev has deposed that they wanted to take water forcibly from Sharatu Ka Nala.

15. There is no specific reference to Khasra numbers in the pleadings of the plaintiffs. The map Ext. PW-1/A is a rough map. The map placed on record by defendants is Ext. DW-4/C. The plaintiffs have also not mentioned Khasra numbers, which are being irrigated through Kuhal No. 5. It is not mentioned from which point, the pipes have been installed by the defendants. The plea of Mr. G.D. Verma, learned Senior Advocate that the local commissioner has not been appointed merits rejection. The plaintiffs, as noticed hereinabove, have not given even the Khasra numbers, which were alleged to have been irrigated from Kuhal No.5. Ext. P1 to Ex. P4 Riwazat Ab Pashi do not support the case of the plaintiffs. The factual position as shown in Ext. DW-4/C is in conformity with the statements of the witnesses with regard to the source of water. Ext. DW-4/C has been prepared by an expert and PW-1/A has been prepared by the plaintiff and his son. The son of the plaintiff has not appeared in the Court. The plaintiffs have also not added other co-villagers as party.

16. Both the learned Courts below have correctly appreciated the oral as well as documentary evidence led by the parties and there is no need to interfere with the well reasoned judgments and decrees passed by the Courts below.

17. In view of the analysis and discussion made hereinabove, no question of law, much less to say substantial question of law, involved in the present appeal, and the same is dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, also stands disposed of. There shall, however, be no order as to costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

Fate Ram and others ....Appellants.
Versus
Smt. Parvati ......Respondent.

RSA No. 156 of 2004
Reserved on 30th March, 2015
Decided on: 8th May, 2015

Hindu Succession Act, 1956- Section 15(2)(b)- Plaintiff pleaded that predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff was married to 'G'- she succeeded to the property on the death of 'G'- she settled with one 'H' and plaintiff was born out of the wedlock between 'P' and 'H'- defendants claimed that they are tenants in possession on the payment of 1/4th of the produce and plaintiff has no right in the property- plaintiff admitted that he was not born out of the wedlock of 'P' and 'G' but was born to 'H'- held, that when son or daughter begotten by the deceased female not through her husband, whose property was with her during her but from someone else, such son or daughter has no right to inherit such property- such property shall devolve upon heirs of the husband or father-in-law- hence, plaintiff was not competent to file the suit. (Para-14 to 16)

Cases referred:
Omprakash vs. Radhacharan, (2009) 15 Supreme Court Cases 66
Bhagat Ram (D) by L.Rs versus Teja Singh (D) by L.Rs., AIR 2002 Supreme Court (1)
Remco Industries Workers House Building Co-operative Society versus Lakshmeesha M. and others, AIR 2003 Supreme Court 3167

For the appellants: Mr. B.K. Malhotra, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge.

Challenge herein is to the judgment dated 17.12.2003 passed by learned Additional District Judge, Mandi in Civil Appeal No. 16 of 1999 affirming thereby the judgment and decree passed by learned Sub Judge, 1st Class, Court No.1, Mandi in Civil Suit No. 103/98 (92) on the dismissal of the first appeal.

2. It is the defendants, who are in second appeal before this Court. The complaint is that the judgment and decree passed by both Courts below is against the law and also the facts of the case. Learned lower appellate Court while deciding the appeal has fell into error in not appreciating the facts relating to the status of the defendants as tenants and failure to draw appropriate inferences from the proved facts has vitiated the judgment and decree under challenge. The Courts below allegedly fell into a grave error giving undue weightage to the factum of the non-production of rent receipts of the defendants, because in view of the evidence brought on record by the plaintiff herself, the rent receipts were not being issued by the land-lord hence the non-production thereof should not have been given much importance. The factum of the plaintiff and her mother both are residing for the last more than 40 years at Bajaora, District Kullu has not been taken into consideration. The plea of the defendants that the rent used to be deposited with one Smt. Charan Dassi, maternal aunt of plaintiff is duly proved from the evidence produced by the plaintiff herself. Said Charan Dassi has not been produced to deny this fact, had the rent been not deposited with her. The judgment and decree on account of non-appreciation of the evidence as has come on record by way of own statement of the plaintiff that she is not the daughter of Smt. Padmu born to her from the lions of Sh. Gholu her previous husband, from whom the property in dispute had come to her. The plaintiff, therefore, not born to Smt. Padmu from lions of Sh. Gholu, the previous owner of the suit land is not entitled to claim the same in any manner whatsoever nor has any locus-standi to file the suit. The revenue entries qua the suit land stood duly rebutted were wrongly relied upon. On account of clubbing of the main issues for decision, the judgment and decree under challenge is vitiated and has been sought to be quashed and set aside.

3. The appeal has been admitted on the following substantial questions of law:

a) Whether the courts below erred in law in decreeing the suit for permanent injunction?

b) Whether the succession to the property inherited by a female from her previous husband could not have devolved upon the legal heirs of second husband?

4. If coming to the factual matrix, the suit land is measuring 17-14-8 bighas entered in Khewat No. 10, Khatauni No. 11, Khasra Nos. 266, 313, 316, 337, 381, 383, 390, 427, 428, 474, 488, 514, 518, 525, 581, 586, 589, 592 and 607 Kitas 20 situated at village Tundla/443, Ilaqua Badar, Tehsil Sadar, District Mandi. Its previous owner was one Sh. Gholu. Smt. Padmu, mother of the respondent-plaintiff was married to said Shri Gholu. The suit property came in the hands of Smt. Padmu on the death of her previous husband through Gholu. Said Smt. Padmu settled with one Hukme Ram at village Bajaora, District Kullu. The respondent-plaintiff was born to her from the lions of said Shri Hukme Ram. Smt. Padmu, mother of the plaintiff also died and mutation No. 121 of the suit land came to be sanctioned and attested in favour of the plaintiff on 9.10.1992, as is apparent from the copy of Jamabandi for the year 1990-91, Ext. P-A. The respondent-plaintiff filed the suit for the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction and also for possession of the suit land as a consequential relief on the ground that though it is she who is owner in possession of the suit land, however, the defendants are threatening to take forcible possession thereof form her. Subsequently, by way of amendment, it is pleaded that she was dispossessed forcibly by them from the suit land in November, 1995.

5. In the written statement, the defendants raised the question of maintainability of the suit and locus of the plaintiff to file the same. On merits, they claim themselves to be in possession of the suit land in the capacity of tenant on payment of ¼ of the produce as rent. Smt. Padmu though might be recorded as owner of the suit land, however, it is they who are in possession thereof in the capacity of tenant. The entries to the contrary regarding possession of the suit land have been said to be wrong and against the facts. It is denied that plaintiff is in possession of the suit land, therefore, no question of any interference at their instance does arise. As regards the claim of the plaintiff that she is owner in possession of the suit land, it is specifically averred as under:

> "….In addition to it, it may be added that the plaintiff is claiming herself to be the successor of late. Smt. Padmu wife of Gholu, but as a matter of fact she had left the house of Gholu much earlier during the life time of Gholu and settled in the house of one Sh. Hukme Ram who is her father and as such she has no right in the estate of late Sh. Gholu earlier husband of said Smt. Padmu, Photocopy of Parivar Register, Shajra Nasab, Copy of affidavit, copy of death register, copy of Jamabandi Istemal of Mauja Tundhla and Niul, "report of Kanungo" are attached herewith in proof thereof."

6. It is denied that the plaintiff was dispossessed by them forcibly in the month of November, 1995. Such assertions in the plaint have been claimed to be malafidely raised with the motive to maintain the suit.

7. The plaintiff in replication filed to the written statement has denied the contents of the preliminary objections being wrong and on merits while reasserting the case as set out in the plaint denied the contentions to the contrary in the written statement.

8. On the basis of pleadings of the parties, following issues were framed:

1. Whether the plaintiff is owner in possession of the suit land, as alleged OPP
2. Whether the defendants are threatening to dispossess the plaintiff over the suit land, as alleged? OPP
3. If issues No. 1 and 2 proved in affirmative, whether the plaintiff is entitled for the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, as prayed for? OPP

3a. Whether the defendant has dispossessed the plaintiff during the pendency of the suit, if so, its effect? OPP

3b. Whether the suit is not properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction, if so, what is the correct valuation? OPD

4. Whether the plaintiff has no locus-standi to file the present suit? OPD

5. Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties? OPD

5a. Whether the defendants are tenant in possession of the suit land? OPD.

6. Relief.

9. After taking on record the evidence produced by the parties on both sides and hearing arguments, learned trial Court has decreed the suit. Learned lower appellate Court has dismissed the appeal and affirmed the judgment and decree passed by the trial Court.

10. Shri B.K. Malhotra, learned counsel representing the appellants-defendants has strenuously contended that it was deceased Gholu admittedly was the owner of the suit land. No doubt, Padmu was his wife, however, she left him during his life time and settled with one Hukme Ram at village Bajaora in District Kullu. Also that, the plaintiff who has been born to Smt. Padmu from the lions of said Shri Hukme Ram in terms of Section 15(2)(b) of the Hindu Succession Act is not entitled to claim any right, title or interest in the suit land being not the daughter of said Shri Gholu. The plea to this effect duly raised in the written statement has been ignored by both Courts below, as neither any issue framed to this effect nor any findings recorded. Mr. Malhotra, has, therefore, canvassed that after framing of an additional issue to this effect and quashing the judgment and decree under challenge, the suit deserves to be remanded as a whole.

11. On merits, it is urged that said Smt. Padmu and for that matter the respondent-plaintiff are residing at village Bajaura in District Kullu, whereas, the suit land is situated in District Mandi, there is no question of the plaintiff in possession of the suit land. The defendants rather have been proved to be in settled possession thereof in the capacity of tenant. When the respondent-plaintiff was not in possession of the suit land, decree for permanent prohibitory injunction could have not been passed.

12. Mr. G.R. Palsra, learned counsel representing the respondent-plaintiff has urged that the plea of tenancy raised by the defendants in the written statement is itself sufficient to arrive at a conclusion that they admit the plaintiff to be owner of the suit land. They, rather throughout admitted her mother late Smt. Padmu owner of the suit land and after her death, they admit her to be the owner thereof. Therefore, it is urged that the judgment and decree under challenge being legally and factually sustainable calls for no interference.

13. As noticed hereinabove, interesting questions of law arise for determination in the present appeal. It is to be seen that in the given facts and circumstances, decree for perpetual injunction should have been granted by both Courts below, particularly when the issue of the competency of the respondent-plaintiff to succeed to her mother late Smt. Padmu so far as the suit land is concerned, being not born to her from the lions of late Sh. Gholu, admittedly the previous owner of the suit land is neither discussed nor any issue in this regard framed. As a matter of fact, the issue qua competency of the plaintiff to inherit the suit land being vital one, should have been considered and decided. The Courts below should have not swayed merely by the entries in the revenue record showing the plaintiff to be owner in possession of the suit land. What is important in the given facts and circumstances was to ascertain the source, whether lawful resulted in sanction and attestation of mutation No. 121 qua the suit land in the name of the plaintiff, without going into such question the decree for permanent prohibitory injunction and as a consequential relief for possession of the suit land could have not been granted.

14. Plaintiff not born to Smt. Padmu from the lions of Gholu stands proved from her own statement while in the witness box as PW-1, because when cross-examined she tells us that her mother Padmu when settled with Hukme Ram, she born to her from the lions of said Shri Hukme Ram. The plaintiff is born from the lions of Hukme Ram is, therefore, proved from her own statement and no other and further evidence is required in this regard. It takes us to Section 15(2) (b) of the Hindu Succession Act, which read as follows:

> "(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1),- > (b) any property inherited by a female Hindu from her husband or from her father-in-law shall devolve, in the absence of any son or daughter of the deceased (including the children of any pre-deceased son or daughter) not upon the other heirs referred to in sub-section(1) in the order specified therein, but upon the heirs of the husband."
>
> (a).....
>

15. It is crystal clear from the bare perusal of the Section ibid that the son or daughter begotten by the deceased female not through her husband, whose property was with her during her lifetime but from someone else, such son or daughter have no right to inherit such property on her death. Object of Section 15(2) is to ensure that the property left by a Hindu female does not loose its real source. If it was the property she had inherited from her parents, the same on her death should go to legal heirs of her father. In case the property was inherited by her from her husband or her father-in-law the same on her death shall devolve upon the heirs of the husband or her father-in-law i.e. the source from which the property was inherited by her. The Apex Court in (2009) 15 Supreme Court Cases 66 has held that when the property is devolved upon the deceased Hindu female from the parent's side, on her death, the same would go to her parents family and not to her husband's family. Similarly, in case where she had inherited some property from her husband or from her husband's family, on her death, the same would revert back to her husband's family and not to her own heirs. The Apex Court in Bhagat Ram (D) by L.Rs versus Teja Singh (D) by L.Rs., AIR 2002 Supreme Court (1) has held that the factum of a Hindu female originally had a limited right and later acquired full right, in any way would not alter the rules of Successions given in sub-Section (2) of Section 15 of the Act.

16. As noticed supra, the plaintiff admittedly is born to Padmu from the lions of Sh. Hukme Ram, therefore, she is not the heir of Gholu, the previous husband of said Smt. Padmu. The question of competency of the plaintiff to inherit the suit land on the death of Smt. Padmu was raised in the written statement. Learned trial Court, however, has ignored this vital aspect of the matter because neither any issue has been framed nor is there any adjudication in this regard. Mr. Malhotra, learned counsel has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in Remco Industries Workers House Building Co-operative Society versus Lakshmeesha M. and others, AIR 2003 Supreme Court 3167 and on the strength of the ratio thereof has argued that when an issue arises from the pleadings of the parties is not redressed by the trial Court, the appellate Court can remand the suit as a whole. This judgment read as follows:

> "18. From the above resume of facts and the nature of orders of grants of Occupancy rights to the contesting parties, we find that the basic issue of the effect of earlier grant dated 28-5-

> 1965 (Ex. D-3) in favour of the tenant – Muniyappa on the subsequent granted dated 9-12-1969 (Ex. P-1) in favour of plaintiff/respondent was neither addressed to by any of the Courts below nor a decision has been rendered on the same. The issue of effect f Ext. D-3 on Ex. P1 and the identity of the land under the two grants is vital to the just decision of the case. The powers of the appellate Court are not inhibited by the acts or omissions of the parties. Rule 25 of Order 41 of the Code of Civil Procedure empowers the appellate court to frame an issue and remit it for trial which has been omitted to be framed and tried by the trial Court and which appears to the appellate Court essential to the right decision of the case, Rule 23-A. Order 41 introduced by CPC Amendment Act No. 104 of 1976 w.e.f. 1-2-1977 confers powers on the appellate Court to remand whole suit for re-trial. In our considered opinion, this is a fit case where this Court should exercise powers of remand under Order 21, Rule 25 read with Rule 23-A of CPC."

17. On the strength of the ratio of the judgment supra, Mr. Malhotra has urged that after framing of an issue qua competency of the plaintiff to inherit the suit land on the death of her mother Smt. Padmu, the suit as a whole be remanded to the trial Court.

18. It is to be seen from the above quoted plea specifically raised by the defendants in the written statement that mother of the plaintiff had settled with Sh. Hukme Ram perhaps after the death of her previous husband, Gholu, whose property is the subject matter of dispute in the present lis. Also that the plaintiff is born to her mother Smt. Padmu aforesaid from the lions of Hukme Ram. Therefore, she is not entitled to inherit the suit property. The plea so raised being vital one, should have been considered and duly redressed. The trial Court, however, has failed to frame any issue and also to decide the same after affording the parties due opportunity of being heard. This being a vital issue raised by the defendants should have not been ignored. As a matter of fact, without deciding the question of entitlement of the plaintiff to inherit the suit land, a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction or for possession of the suit land could have not at all been granted. No grounds seem to have been raised in this regard in learned lower appellate Court, however, may be that in the lower Courts', the pleadings are notoriously drafted. Before this Court one of the grounds raised for setting aside the impugned judgment and decree pertains to this aspect of the matter. Any how, a specific plea was raised in the written statement, therefore, the trial Court was under an obligation to have framed an issue and decide the same in accordance with law. The parties having not agitated the point raised in the pleadings is hardly of any consequence, as in view of the ratio of the judgment of the Apex Court in Remco Industries Worker's case supra, the powers of the appellate Court are not inhibited by the acts or omission of parties. Therefore, when in the considered opinion of this Court, a very vital issue having arisen in view of the pleadings on record stand ignored and redressal thereof is essentially required for the just and effective decision of the suit, an additional issue needs to be carved out and the suit remanded as a whole to the trial Court.

19. Consequently, it is deemed appropriate to frame an additional issue, which reads as follows:

> Whether the suit property inherited by Smt. Padmu from her previous husband late Gholu, could have not been devolved upon the plaintiff not born to said Padmu from the lions of Gholu, the owner thereof but from the lions of one Hukme Ram and if so to what effect? OPD.

20. The judgment and decree under challenge, which does not decide the controversy under the additional issue so framed is, therefore, perverse and not legally and factually sustainable. Consequently, leaving all questions of law open to be considered and decided on merits, the same deserves to be quashed and set aside and the suit remanded as a whole to learned trial Court for fresh disposal in accordance with law.

21. In view of what has been said hereinabove, this appeal succeeds and the same is accordingly allowed. The judgment and decree impugned in the present appeal is quashed and set aside. The suit is remanded to the trial Court for fresh disposal after taking on record the evidence, if any, sought to be produced by the parties on the additional issue carved-out hereinabove in this judgment and also affording them due opportunity of being heard.

22. In view of the suit pertains to the year 1992, it is expected from learned trial Court to decide the same expeditiously, however, not later then 30th September, 2015. The parties through learned counsel representing them are directed to appear in the trial Court on 23rd May, 2015. The Registry to ensure that the record is received in the trial Court well before the date fixed.

23. The appeal stands disposed of accordingly. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

Suraj Bahadur ……Petitioner.

Versus

H.P. State Forest Development Corporation Ltd. and ors. …….Respondents.

CWP No. 4575 of 2012.
Decided on: 08.5.2015.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed as a cleaner on daily wages on 1.10.1986- he was subsequently regularized on 6.11.1997- respondents were shown senior – although they were appointed later- held, that seniority list should have been drawn on the basis of length of service- respondents directed to re-draw the seniority list and to promote the petitioner if otherwise found eligible. (Para-2 to 5)

For the petitioner: Mr. P.D.Nanda, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Pranay Pratap Singh, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 & 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

The petitioner was appointed on daily waged basis as Cleaner against the vacancy on 1.10.1986. He was regularized as Cleaner on 6.11.1997. The post of cleaner is in the feeder category for promotion to the post of Driver, as per the R & P Rules, framed vide Annexure P-1. According to bye laws 3.4, the inter-se seniority of the employees of the respondent-Corporation is to be determined based on the length of service in the grade.

2. The tentative seniority list of Cleaners as it stood on 25.3.2011, was notified on 2.4.2011. The respondent-Corporation has drawn two seniority lists of Cleaners, one is at page 26 and the second is at page 27 of the paper book. The petitioner, as per the seniority list at page 26 of the paper book, is at Sr. No. 1. Respondents No. 3 & 4 are at Sr. Nos. 8 and 9 of seniority list at page 27 of the paper book. Their date of appointment is 3.5.2003 and 14.6.2004, respectively. The date of regularization of the petitioner is 6.11.1997 and his date of appointment as daily waged Cleaner is 1.10.1986. The respondent-Corporation has promoted respondent No. 3 as Driver on 21.11.2011 as per Annexure P-5. Respondent No. 4 has been promoted as Driver on 20.6.2012, vide Annexure P-7.

3. The seniority was to be determined on the basis of the length of service of those persons, who were in the same grade. The petitioner and respondents No. 3 & 4 were in the same grade. However, surprisingly, the respondent-Corporation in defiance of service jurisprudence has drawn two seniority lists, as noticed hereinabove. The explanation given in the reply filed is that the petitioner has been regularized in his personal post and the respondents No. 3 & 4 were appointed in the regular cadre. There is fallacy in the averments contained in the reply. The classification made on the basis of "personal post" and "cadre post" is violative of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. All the Cleaners form homogeneous class.

4. The petitioner was working on daily wage basis since 1.10.1986 and regularized on 6.11.1997. He would be deemed to be regularized in the regular cadre. The respondent No. 3 was appointed on compassionate basis, as per seniority list only on 3.5.2003 and respondent No. 4 on 14.6.2004, but they stood promoted to the post of Driver by ignoring the petitioners. The action of the respondents, ignoring the petitioner for promotion and considering respondents No. 3 & 4 as Drivers, is illegal and arbitrary and thus violative of Articles 14 & 16 of the Constitution of India. The petitioner was also in feeder category for promotion to the post of Driver and has a better right vis-à-vis respondents No. 3 & 4, since the post of Driver is a non-selection post. The seniority list should have been drawn, as per the bye laws, on the basis of the length of service. The petitioner has a fundamental right to be considered for promotion in accordance with law.

5. Accordingly, the Writ Petition is allowed. Annexure P-5 dated 21.11.2011 and Annexure P-7 dated 20.6.2012, are quashed and set aside. The respondents are directed to re-draw the seniority list Annexure P-4 on the basis of length of service and to consider the case of the petitioner for promotion to the post of Driver. Needful be done within a period of ten weeks from today. Pending application(s), if any, shall stand disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Cr. Appeal No. 735/2008
With Cr. Appeal No. 31/2009
Reserved on: 8.5.2015
Decided on: 12.5.2015

---

1. Cr. Appeal No. 735/2008

Sarla Devi …Appellant

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh …Respondent

2. Cr. Appeal No. 31/2009

Yashpal ...Appellant

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh ...Respondent

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Sections 302 and 498-A- Deceased was married to the accused- accused was not satisfied with the dowry given to her- deceased told her parents and her sister that she was being harassed for not bringing sufficient dowry- she gave birth to a daughter but nobody came to see her and her daughter- deceased came back after compromise to her matrimonial home- she was again harassed by accused- she died due to beatings given to her with fist and kick blows - she was carrying pregnancy of 34-36 weeks- post mortem revealed that she had died due to fracture and dislocation of cervical vertebrae- dead body was found at a distance of 200 meters from the house of the accused- accused had not lodged any missing report and had not made any inquiry about his wife- Doctor admitted that fracture and dislocation of cervical vertebrae could be caused by twisting neck with great force with hands- accused had also sustained injuries- accused had made an extra-judicial confession stating that he had given beatings to the deceased- held, that act of the accused fell within the definition of cruelty- relation between accused and deceased did not improve even after convening the panchayat – accused was rightly convicted of the commission of offences punishable under Sections 302 and 498-A of IPC. (Para-21 to 25)

For the Appellant(s) : Mr. N.S. Chandel, Advocate, in both the appeals.

For the Respondent : Mr. M.A. Khan, Additional Advocate General

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge.

These appeals are instituted against Judgment dated 10.11.2008 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Una, District Una, Himachal Pradesh in Sessions Case No. 25/99 RBT 11/2004, whereby appellant-accused namely Yashpal (hereinafter referred to as 'accused' for convenience sake), was convicted and sentenced under Sections 302 and 498A IPC and acquitted of offences punishable under Section 304-B and 315 IPC. He was sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life and to pay a fine of Rs.10,000/-, in default of payment of fine, to further under go simple imprisonment for one year under Section 302 IPC. He was also sentenced to undergo imprisonment for two years and to pay a fine of Rs.2,000/- for offence under Section 498-A IPC and in default of payment of fine, to further undergo imprisonment for two months. Appellant-accused Sarla Devi (hereinafter referred to as 'accused' for convenience sake) was convicted and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for two years and to pay a fine of Rs.2,000/- for the offence punishable under Section 498-A Indian Penal Code In default of payment of fine, she is to further undergo simple imprisonment for two months.

2. Since common questions of law and facts are involved in both the appeals, they were taken up together and are being disposed of vide this common judgment.

3. Case of the prosecution, in a nutshell, is that on 17.1.1999 at about 10.15 PM a telephonic information was received in the Police Station Gagret from Kashmir Singh Up Pradhan Gram Panchayat Oel regarding death of Meena Kumari wife of Yashpal. Thereafter, police from police station Gagret went to the spot. Dead body was found with the help of torch, lying in the bushes at a distance of 200 meters from the house of the accused.

Shri Onkar Singh, PW-4 inspected the body of Meena Kumari. He noticed scars on the face and other parts of the body. Parents of the deceased also came there. PW-14 Onkar Singh recorded the statement of Darshan Singh, brother of the deceased under Section 154 CrPC. He disclosed that Meena Kumari was his younger sister and was married to accused in November 1995. They had given dowry in the marriage according to their capacity but accused were not satisfied. After 3-4 months of marriage when deceased Meena Kumari came to her parental house, she told the complainant and her parents that she was being harassed by her husband Yashpal and her mother-in-law Sarla Devi used to taunt her for not bringing sufficient dowry. On the complaint of Meena Kumari, complainant and parents visited the house of accused many times and requested not to harass her. Thereafter, accused shunted Meena Kumari out of their house. She came to the house of her parents at village Nagnoli and remained there for about 3-4 months where she gave birth to a daughter. Nobody came to look after Meena Kumari and her daughter. Meena Kumari was sent back after convening a Khangi Panchayat, to her matrimonial house. Accused kept on harassing her. On 18.1.1999 a message was received by the complainant through one Jamal Deen of his village that Meena Kumari had died in village Oel. Compromise Ext. PF was taken into possession. Viscera of the deceased was sent to FSL Junga for chemical examination. According to the post-mortem report, deceased died due to fracture and dislocation of cervical vertebrae at level C-1-2 and C-2-3. Death was caused by beatings given to her with fist and kick blows. She was carrying pregnancy of 34-36 weeks. Matter was investigated and challan was put up in the Court after completing all codal formalities.

4. Prosecution has examined as many as 17 witnesses to prove its case against the accused. Accused was also examined under Section 313 CrPC. Accused were convicted and sentenced as notice by us above. Hence, these two appeals.

5. Mr. N.S. Chandel, Advocate has vehemently argued that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused.

6. Mr. M.A. Khan, Additional Advocate General, has supported the judgment of trial court dated 10.11.2008.

7. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the judgment and record very carefully.

8. PW-1 Dr. Satinder Chauhan deposed that he alongwith Dr. Umesh Gautam and Dr. Vipan Chaudhary conducted post-mortem on the dead body of Meena Kumari. According to the post-mortem report, there were multiple contusions and abrasions on the face of deceased. Upper part of neck which was reddish in colour with defused swelling on both sides of neck just below angles of mandible corresponding to haemorrahge present subcutaneous. There was no ligature marks on the neck. Rigor mortis was present. There was fracture of cervical vertebrae at C1-2 and C2-3. Post-mortem report is Ext. PB. According to Satinder Chauhan, PW-1, deceased was pregnant and there was no evidence of rape, as per post-mortem report. He did not take swab since rape was not suspected.

9. PW-2 Shri Darshan Kumar is brother of deceased. According to him, Meena was married to Yashpal, accused in the month of November 1995 as per Hindu rites. She was harassed by her in-laws. They used to give beatings to Meena Kumari for bringing insufficient dowry. Accused also demanded money from his sister for the purpose of colour TV, fridge, Scooter etc. 3-4 months after marriage Meena came to their house and told that she was being maltreated and given beatings for bringing insufficient dowry. His sister gave birth to a daughter, however, nobody came from the side of in-laws of Meena to enquire about her well-being. A Khangi Panchayat was convened. He admitted that his sister has also consumed poison due to maltreatment by the accused. He came to know about death of his sister on 18.1.1999. He went to the spot. Dead body of his sister was also lying there. He noticed scratches and injuries on the face and neck. Blood was oozing from nose and mouth. Neck was swollen.

10. PW-3 Kashmir Singh deposed that he was Up Pradhan of village Oel. On 17.1.1999, at about 7.30-7.45 Pawan Kumar Ward Panch came to him and told that wife of Yashpal had died. Body was in the bushes. He informed the police. He noticed injury on the face of the deceased. Police came to the spot. They took into possession the tooth, Ext. P1, Shawl Ext. P2, pair of Chappal Ext. P3 and broken bangles Ext. P4. House of the accused was also searched. He was declared hostile and cross-examined by the learned Public Prosecutor.

11. PW-4 Amrit Lal deposed that Meena Kumari was his daughter and married in 1995. Her in-laws used to harass her for bringing insufficient dowry including fridge, TV Scooter etc. Accused also gave beatings and tortured his daughter by calling her names. She gave birth to a daughter about 3 years back in their house. No one from the family of her in-laws came at that time to enquire about the welfare of Meena Kumari and her child. His daughter remained in the house only for 4-5 months. He took Jaswant and Jagan Nath with him to the house of accused where a Khangi Panchayat was held. In the Khangi Panchayat, a compromise was effected. He proved Ext. PF, the compromise. It was signed by Meena Kumari and Yashpal. Even after the compromise, she was harassed. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that earlier also, his daughter had taken poison and was saved by her husband Yashpal and his brother by calling his daughter and giving timely treatment.

12. PW-5 Bhagat Singh deposed that he attended the marriage ceremony of Yashpal and Meena Kumari. After marriage Meena Kumari met him many times. She complained to him that her husband and mother-in-law used to demand dowry articles like fridge, TV, Scooter etc. he went to the spot where body of Meena Kumari was lying. There were signs of throttling the neck, injuries on face and blood was oozing out from the nose and mouth.

13. PW-6 Shri Ram deposed that before death of Meena Kumari, a Khangi Panchayat was held in the village in the house of the accused. Father of Meena Kumari alongwith 2-3 persons was present in the Khangi Panchayat on the complaint of the girl.

14. PW-7 Jaswant Singh deposed that the after marriage, Meena Kumari used to meet him in the village. She used to tell him that her husband and mother-in-law used to torture her for touching household articles by saying that these were not brought by her.

15. PW-8 Kamla Devi is mother of deceased. She also deposed the manner in which her daughter was tortured by the accused for bringing insufficient dowry. First child was born to Meena in their house but accused never came to enquire about the wellbeing of Meena or her child. A compromise was also arrived at. Meena was brought back to their house and again wept and told that accused were demanding more dowry and her life was in danger.

16. PW-9, PW-10, PW-11 and PW-12 are all formal witnesses.

17. PW-13 Yog Raj deposed that Onkar Singh SI deposited one sealed parcel containing viscera of Meena Kumari which he kept in the Malkhana. It was sent to FSL Junga through Constable Pardeep on 3.2.1999.

18. PW-14 Onkar Singh has deposed that he received a telephonic information on 17.1.1999. It was recorded in Rojnamcha. He went to the spot and with the help of torch, dead body was inspected by him. He found swelling on the neck of dead body of Meena. He also noticed blood oozing from nose and mouth of deceased. There were blue scars on face and other parts of the body. Statement of brother of the deceased was recorded vide Ext. PC under Section 154 CrPC. Inquest report Ext. PD was prepared. Post-mortem report was obtained.

19. PW-15 Kashmir Singh DSP Vigilance deposed that a compromise Ext. PF was produced by Shashi Pal, which was taken into possession vide memo Ext. PJ. He got accused medically examined on 21.1.1999. He could not get accused examined on 19.1.1999.

20. PW-17 N.K. Bhardwaj has examined the accused and found following injuries on the body of accused:-

> "1. Brown coloured abrasion 1.5 cm x 0.2 cm on right cheek 2cm away from right lower id.
>
> 2. another brownish coloured abrasion present 1cm away from angle or mandible on left side neck."

21. What emerges from the statements of witnesses is that the marriage between Yashpal and deceased Meena Kumari was solemnised in 1995. She was maltreated for bringing insufficient dowry. She was administered beatings by the accused. A Khangi Panchayat was also convened. A compromise Ext. PF was arrived at. Despite that she was tortured and harassed by the accused. Deceased gave birth to a daughter in her parental house. No member from the family of accused came to enquire about welfare of the deceased or her child. Accused used to demand fridge, TV, Scooter etc. as per statement of PW-2 Darshan Kumar, PW-4 Amrit Lal and PW-8 Kamla Devi.

22. Dead body was found at a distance of 200 metres from the house of accused. He has not lodged any missing report with the police or made any enquiry of whereabouts of his wife. According to PW-1, deceased died due to fracture /dislocation of cervical vertebrae at C-1-2 and C-2-3. Deceased was pregnant and was carrying pregnancy of 34-36 weeks. In his cross-examination, he stated that fracture and dislocation of cervical vertebrae could be caused by twisting neck with great force with hands. Accused Yashpal has also received injuries as per statement of Dr. NK Bhardwaj (PW-17). He also opined that injuries were possible in a scuffle.

23. Mr. NS Chandel argued that accused was not medically examined immediately. Merely that the accused was not medically examined immediately would not rule out the injuries received by the accused. PW-5 Bhagat Singh has deposed that the accused has made extra-judicial confession before him. Yashpal said that an altercation between him and Meena. There was a scuffle in the kitchen of the accused. Broken bangles of Meena Kumari were in the kitchen. Yashpal told that he was not given food by Meena Kumari. He further told that at 5.00 pm Meena had gone out to ease herself. He followed her and gave her beatings severely out of anger. She died due to beatings. Deceased has taken poison earlier. It further strengthens the prosecution case that the deceased was tortured and harassed by accused. Otherwise there was no occasion for a young lady like Meena Kumari to consume poison or to convene a Khangi Panchayat as Ext. PF. Ext. PF also suggests that the deceased was maltreated and harassed and tortured by the accused.

24. Mr. NS Chandel also argued that in fact somebody has tried to rape her since her string was found loose. PW-1 Dr. Satinder Chauhan has categorically opined that there was no evidence of rape as per post-mortem report. Deceased has died due to fist and kick blows given by the accused. Police has taken into possession tooth Ext. P1, blood stained Shawl Ext. P2, a pair of Chappals Ext. P-3 and broken bangles Ext. P4. Mr. N.S. Chandel has lastly argued that prosecution has attributed no motive to the accused. It is true that in a case based on circumstantial evidence, motive plays an important role. However, when the chain of events is complete, motive is not very important. In this case, though there is no eye-witness but the prosecution has completed the entire chain of events pointing exclusively to the guilt of the accused. There is sufficient material on record to prove that deceased was tortured and harassed by both the accused for bringing insufficient dowry. Neither Yashpal nor his mother have visited the house of deceased at the time of child birth. Meena Kumari was also forced to consume poison earlier. PW-5 Bhagat Singh, PW-7 Jaswant have deposed categorically that as and when Meena Kumai used to meet them, she used to complain about being harassed by her in-laws for bringing insufficient dowry. Acts of the accused fall under the ambit of 'cruelty'. Relation between accused and deceased did not improve even after convening the Khangi Panchayat. Depositions have been made by witnesses only against accused and not against other family members of the accused.

25. Accordingly, the prosecution has fully proved its case against the accused Yashpal under Section 302 and 498-A IPC and accused Sarla Devi under Section 498-A. There is no occasion for us to interfere in the well-reasoned judgment of the trial Court. Consequently, both the appeals fail and are dismissed, so also the pending applications, if any, in both the appeals. Bail bonds are cancelled.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

The Presiding Officer, Motor Accident Claims Tribunal. ... Appellant.

Versus

Jitwar Singh deceased through his LRs Sadhna Devi and others ... Respondents.

RSA No. 351 of 2011.
Decided on: 12th May, 2015.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Section 79- An award was passed for the sum of Rs.1,78,000/- as compensation- awarded amount was partly ordered to be released to the plaintiffs, however, a sum of Rs. 1,25,000/- was ordered to be invested in Kisan Vikas Patras - this amount was not deposited by the employee of the Court- this fact came to the notice when an application for release of the amount was filed- FIR was registered and the employee was convicted – Civil Writ Petition was filed for the recovery of the amount which was disposed of with liberty to the plaintiffs to seek appropriate remedy in accordance with law- plaintiff filed a civil suit for recovery of Rs. 3,57,500/-- held, that employee was a government servant and the State and the employer are liable for the acts of the employees - therefore, defendant No. 1 and 2 were rightly held liable to pay amount - however, they are at liberty to recover the amount from the employee in accordance with law. (Para-15 to 18)

Cases referred:

Chairman, Railway Board and others v. Chandrima Dass and others, AIR 2000 SC 988
Achutrao Haribhau Khodwa and others v. State of Maharashtra and others, AIR 1996 SC 2377
Saheli, a Women's Resources Centre through Ms. Nalini Bhanot and others v. Commissioner of Police, Delhi and others, AIR 1990 SC 513

For the appellant : Mr. G.D. Verma, Senior Advocate with Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate.
For respondents: Mr. V.D. Khidtta, Advocate, for respondents No.1(a), 1(b), 2 and 3.
Mr.D.S. Nainta, Additional Advocate General, with Mr. Pushpinder Jaswal, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent No.4.
Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Advocate, for respondent No.5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J. (Oral)

Defendant No.2, the Presiding Officer of Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Kinnaur Civil and Sessions Division at Rampur Bushahr, is in second appeal before this Court.

2. Facts in brief giving rise to file the present appeal, in a nutshell, are that one Ravi Kant son of respondent No.1 Jitwar Singh Negi (since dead) and respondent No.2 Smt. Dolma, (hereinafter to be referred to as 'the plaintiffs'), was travelling in a jeep bearing registration No.HP02-4716, on 24th July, 1995. The vehicle met with an accident near Sanarsa (Jhakari) and said Shri Ravi Kant died in the said accident.

3. The plaintiffs filed a petition under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act before learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal at Rampur Bushahr. Appellant herein, defendant No.2 passed an award and awarded a sum of Rs.1,78,000/- as compensation together with interest to the plaintiffs. The insurer, National Insurance Company subsequently deposited the awarded amount before learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal. The awarded amount was partly ordered to be released to the plaintiffs, however, a sum of Rs.1,25,000/- was ordered to be invested in Kisan Vikas Patras.

4. Defendant No.3, who was holding the post of Daftri in the office of appellant-defendant No.2 and looking after the work of Naib Nazir under the authority of defendant No.2, had withdrawn a sum of Rs.1,25,000/- from State Bank of India, Rampur on 22nd May, 1998. Defendant No.3, however, did not invest the amount in question in the post-office in the form of Kisan Vikas Patra. This fact came to notice on 19th April, 2004, when the plaintiffs filed an application for release of the amount so invested in Kisan Vikas Patra. The matter was brought to the notice of the High Court. On the direction of the High Court, a criminal case came to be registered against defendant No.3. He was tried by learned Sub Divisional Judicial Magistrate, Rampur Bushahr and convicted.

5. In a Civil Writ Petition filed by the plaintiffs seeking the relief of recovery of the amount in question, the High Court ordered to initiate disciplinary proceedings against defendant No.3. Liberty was also reserved in favour of the plaintiffs to seek appropriate remedy available to them in accordance with law. This has led in filing Civil Suit No.75-1 of 2009 in the Court of learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Rampur, District Shimla, for the recovery of Rs.3,57,500/- against the defendants jointly and severally.

6. Learned trial Court has decreed the suit vide judgment dated 1st May, 2009, for the recovery of Rs.2,50,000/- together with interest at the rate of 9% per annum against defendant No.3 alone. Defendants No.1 and 2 were not held liable to pay the decretal amount with the following observations:

> "Further-more, it is expressly made clear that since defendants No.1 and 2 have no active role in the present suit. More-so-over, it is no where pleaded from the side of plaintiffs that defendants are jointly and severally liable to pay the suit amount to the plaintiffs. It is > expressly admitted by PW-1 as well as DW-1 that Government of Himachal Pradesh through Secretary Home or learned MACT Tribunal is not involved in the present suit. It is proved to the satisfaction of this Court rather from the Criminal Court that has been convicted for commission of offence punishable under Sections 409 and 420 of IPC. He had misappropriated a sum of Rs.1,25,000/- after embezzling a sum being government servant, therefore, this Court is of the considered opinion that it is the defendant No.3 who is himself liable and responsible to re-pay the suit amount to the plaintiffs. As a sequent effect, issue No.1 is answered affirmative in favour of the plaintiffs and against the defendants."

7. The plaintiffs aggrieved by that part of the judgment and decree whereby defendants No.1 and 2 were exempted from liability to pay the decretal amount, have preferred Civil Appeal No.1-AR/13 of 2009/10 in District Courts at Rampur Bushahr, which came to be decided by learned Additional District Judge, Kinnaur at Rampur vide judgment and decree dated 30th April, 2011, under challenge in the present appeal. Learned lower appellate Court while reversing findings on issue No.1 to the extent of defendants No.1 and 2 discharged from the liability, has held that defendants are jointly and severally liable to pay the decretal amount and has partly allowed the appeal and modified the judgment and decree of the trial Court to the extent that the suit stands decreed against defendants No.1 to 3 jointly and severally.

8. Defendants No.1 and 3 have not preferred any appeal against the judgment and decree passed by learned lower appellate Court. The judgment and decree passed by learned lower appellate Court qua them have thus attained finality.

9. It is, however, defendant No.2, who has assailed the judgment and decree passed by learned lower appellate Court in the present appeal on the grounds inter alia that, learned lower appellate Court has not appreciated the evidence available on record in its right perspective and to the contrary based its findings on the surmises and conjectures. It is defendant No.3, who allegedly was liable to pay the decretal amount because this amount was entrusted to him with a direction to purchase the Kisan Vikas Patra. He, however, failed to do so and to the contrary embezzled the amount in question. He was convicted for the offence so committed. It is contended that the appellant was not supposed to accompany defendant No.3 to post-office for deposit of the amount in question and to purchase Kisan Vikas Patra.

10. The appeal has been admitted on the following substantial questions of law:

1. Whether the learned lower appellate court has erred by ignoring the finding rendered as Ex.PW-1/J whereby the respondent No.5 was convicted on account of misappropriation of Rs.1,25,000/-?
2. Whether the learned lower appellate Court has been wrong in applying the principle of Master and Servant under the given facts and circumstances of the present case?

11. Mr. G.D. Verma, learned Senior Advocate has argued that no liability could have been fastened upon appellant-defendant No.2, as according to Mr. Verma, appellant-defendant No.2 has no role to play in embezzlement of the amount in question. It is rather defendant No.3, who is liable to pay the decretal amount. Learned trial Court has rightly saddled him with the said liability and the findings so recorded could have not been quashed by learned lower appellate Court.

12. On the other hand, Mr. V.D. Khidtta, learned Counsel representing the respondents-plaintiffs, has urged that learned lower Court has rightly held all the defendants jointly and severally liable to pay the decretal amount in view of there being Master-Servant relationship in existence. Similar are the arguments on behalf of defendant No.3.

13. The questions of law need adjudication are that in view of the conviction of defendant No.3, he alone is liable to satisfy the decree and that Master-Servant relationship has nothing to do in this case and as such appellant should have not been saddled with liability.

14. Keeping in view questions so raised in this appeal, elaboration of the facts and evidence available on record is not required, as it is only the legal questions, having been raised, need to be redressed.

15. Section 79 of the code of Civil Procedure deals with the suits by or against the Government or public Officer in connection with any act done in their official capacity. Law on the issue is no more res-integra, as the Apex Court in such cases of omission of employees has held the Master, i.e., the State liable. Reference can be made to a judgment of the Apex Court in Chairman, Railway Board and others v. Chandrima Dass and others, AIR 2000 SC 988. In this case some railway employees subjected a woman to sexual intercourse in Yatri Niwas at railway-station. The Apex Court, while holding that the employees, who were deputed to manage the establishment including the railway-station and Yatri Niwas, were essential components of the government machinery. Carrying commercial activity, if any, such employee committed an act of tort the Union Government of which they are employees on satisfaction of other legal requirement can be held vicariously liable for damages to the persons wronged.

16. In Achutrao Haribhau Khodwa and others v. State of Maharashtra and others, AIR 1996 SC 2377, a case where the staff of Government Medical Hospital while operating upon a patient left mop in the body of the patient resulting in formation of pus and ultimately death of the patient, held the State liable by applying the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur.

17. In Saheli, a Women's Resources Centre through Ms. Nalini Bhanot and others v. Commissioner of Police, Delhi and others, AIR 1990 SC 513, where a nine years old child died on account of beatings given by the police officer, the State was held liable for tortuous acts of its employees, i.e., police officer and to pay the compensation to the dependents of the child.

18. Applying the above principles in the present case, defendant No.3 was an employee of defendants No.1 and 2. He was entrusted a sum of Rs.1,25,000/- to deposit the same in post-office and purchase the Kisan Vikas Patra in the names of the plaintiffs. He neither deposited the amount in the post-office nor purchased the Kisan Vikas Patra and rather embezzled the amount in question. In a criminal case he has been held guilty and convicted under Sections 409 and 420 of the Indian Penal Code, vide judgment dated 14th May, 2007, Ext.PW-1/J. Defendants No.1 and 2 being the Masters of defendant No.3 have, therefore, been rightly held jointly and severally liable to pay the decretal amount. Learned lower appellate Court has, therefore, not committed any illegality or irregularity while decreeing the suit against all the defendants. Defendants No.1 and 2, if so advised, may recover the amount in question from defendant No.3 in accordance with law.

19. In view of above, no legal questions muchless to speak of substantial questions of law as formulated, arise for determination in the present appeal. The judgment and decree passed by learned lower appellate Court is legally and factually sustainable and as such deserves to be upheld.

20. For all the reasons hereinabove, this appeal fails and the same is accordingly dismissed. No order as to costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

Vinod Kumar. …Petitioner.

Versus

Varinder Kumar Sood. …Respondent.

Civil Revision No.60/2013
Reserved on : 30.4.2015
Decided on: 13.5.2015

Himachal Pradesh Urban Rent Control Act, 1987- Section 14- Landlord sought eviction on the ground that building had become unfit and unsafe for human habitation and the building is required bonafide by landlord for re-construction – landlord had entered into an agreement for reconstruction of the building- there is no requirement of approval or sanction of building plan for seeking eviction- in these circumstances, tenant directed to handover the vacant possession to the landlord- tenant shall have a right to be re-inducted in the premises after re-construction of the building. (Para-16 to 22)

Cases referred:

Hari Dass Sharma vs. Vikas Sood and others, (2013) 5 SCC 243,
Joginder Singh and another vrs. Smt. Jogindero and ors., AIR 1996 SC 1654
Syed Jameel Abnbas and others vs. Mohd. Yamin alias Kallu Khan, (2004) 4 SCC 781

For the Petitioner: Mr. Bharat Bhushan Vaid, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Ashok Kumar Sood, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge (oral).

This revision petition is directed against the order dated 9.1.2013 passed by the learned Appellate Authority, Shimla in Rent Appeal No. 54-S/14 of 2012.

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of this petition are that respondent-landlord (hereinafter referred to as the "landlord" for convenience sake) filed eviction petition under section 14 of the H.P. Urban Rent Control Act, 1987 against the petitioner-tenant (hereinafter referred to as the 'tenant' for convenience sake). The landlord has sought the eviction of the tenant from the demised premises firstly on the ground that the building in question has become unsafe and unfit for human habitation; the building is more than 100 years old, it was constructed of Dhajji wall and with the passage of time the construction material has decayed rendering the building unsafe and unfit for human habitation and secondly the building is required bona fide by the landlord for building and rebuilding.

3. Petition was contested by the tenant. According to the tenant, the building was owned by two different persons, namely, Varinder and Keshav Ram. The ground floor and first floor of the building were owned by Keshav Ram since 1993. The building could not be reconstructed without sanction accorded by the Municipal Corporation, Shimla. The building is not in a dilapidated condition. The construction could be carried without eviction of premises by the tenant.

4. Issues were framed by the Rent Controller. He allowed the petition on 16.5.2012 by ordering the eviction of the tenant. However, according to the Rent Controller the eviction would become available to the landlord only when the building plans are sanctioned by the competent authority. Tenant feeling aggrieved by the order dated 16.5.2012 filed an appeal bearing Rent Appeal No.54-S/14 of 2012 before the Appellate Authority. Landlord preferred an appeal against the order dated 16.5.2012 bearing Rent Appeal No.55-S/14 of 2012 before the Appellate Authority. The appeal filed by the tenant bearing Rent Appeal No.54-S/14 of 2012 was partly accepted by the appellate authority on 9.1.2013 by ordering re-entry of the tenant after the completion of rebuilding equivalent to the area to original premises. The appeal bearing Rent Appeal No.55-S/14 of 2012 filed by the landlord was dismissed. Hence, the present petition.

5. Mr. Bharat Bhushan Vaid, learned counsel for the petitioner, has vehemently argued that the landlord has failed to prove that the building has become unsafe and unfit for human habitation. He has further argued that the courts below have come to a wrong conclusion that the building in question was required bona fide for the purpose of building and rebuilding. He has also contended that there are two owners of the building and in these circumstances, the building cannot be reconstructed. He has lastly contended that till the maps are not approved, eviction order would not become effective.

6. Mr. Ashok Kumar Sood, learned counsel for the respondent, has supported the order dated 9.1.2013.

7. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records carefully.

8. Firstly, the Court will advert to the question whether the building has become unsafe and unfit for human habitation. Landlord Varinder Kumar has appeared as AW-1. According to him, the building is 100 years old. He intends to reconstruct building on the basis of RCC structure after demolishing building on old lines. Reconstruction was not possible without eviction of tenant. He is owner of ground floor. He has further stated that Keshav Ram is owner of basement floor and sub-basement floor. The agreement was executed inter se the parties jointly vide Ext.AW-1/B. The Building plan was approved by Municipal Corporation, Shimla vide Ext.AW-1/C. He has proved sanction order Ext.AW-1/D and AW-1/E. According to him, floors have developed cracks and foundation of the building was weak. He has sufficient funds for the purpose of building and re-building. He wanted to reconstruct the building for better economic use.

9. AW-2 Keshav Ram has testified that he has purchased two floors from the landlord in the year 1993. He intends to reconstruct building alongwith landlord Varinder Kumar. He executed agreement for the purpose of reconstruction Ext. AW-1/A. The building is in dilapidated condition.

10. AW-3 B.C. Sharma is most material witness. He has proved report Ext. AW-3/A. He has proved photographs Ext. AW-3/A-1 to Ext. AW-3/A-4. He has visited the spot on 25.6.2008. He has found the condition of the building dilapidated. According to him, the building was made of Dhajji walls. The building has developed cracks. The main load bearing wall has developed cracks. He has proved that the building has become unsafe and unfit for human habitation and the same is required to be reconstructed. Reconstruction was not possible without evicting the tenant.

11. AW-4 Gurvir has proved sanction letter Ext. AW-1/D. According to him, the extension was granted on 19.7.2000 vide Ext. AW-4/A. The construction of two storeys was sanctioned from road level and two storeys were sanctioned below road level.

12. AW-5 Pardeep Gupta has proved Ext.AW-1/C. According to him, sanction letter Ext. AW-1/D was correct as per original record.

13. Tenant Vinod Kumar has appeared as RW-1. According to him, towards eastern side there is a building of Rajesh Khanna and towards eastern side there is a building of Kulbhushan Sood. The landlord has instituted eviction petition with intention to enhance rent. Reconstruction was possible without his eviction. Some other person was owner of the basement portion. He has denied the suggestion that wood used in the premises was damaged completely. He has denied the suggestion that the building is 100 years old.

14. RW-2 Rajesh Khanna has deposed that his father Dharam Pal was owner of building and after his death in the year 2005, he and his brother have become owners. The wall of the building was common. Half portion of common stairs was owned by him and other half was owned by Varinder Kumar.

15. What emerges from the statements of the witnesses is that the building is 100 years old. It has out lived its life. It has become unsafe and unfit for human habitation as per report Ext. AW-3/A prepared by AW-3 B.C. Sharma. AW-3 B.C. Sharma has visited the spot on 25.6.2008. According to him, the main load bearing wall has developed cracks. According to him, rebuilding was not possible without evicting the tenant. The landlord has proved that he has sufficient funds for reconstruction of the building since he wanted to put the building for better use after reconstruction. He has proved the sanction letter/AW-1/D. Though the same has expired but it was extended vide Ext. AW-4/A dated 19.7.2000. The building is situated in the core area. The construction in core area can also be carried out after getting sanction from the competent authority.

16. Mr. Bharat Bhushan Vaid has argued that the building is owned by two owners and rebuilding can not be carried out. Suffice it to say that landlord has entered into an agreement with AW-2 Keshav Ram, for reconstruction of the building vide Ext. AW-1/A. Agreement Ext. AW-1/A has been proved by AW-1 Varinder Kumar and AW-2 Keshav Ram. The tenant has not produced any witness to prove the condition of the building.

17. Now, as far as approval of sanction of building plan is concerned, their lordships of Hon'ble Supreme Court have held while interpreting section 14 of the HP Urban Rent Control Act that the approval of sanction of building plan is not sine qua non seeking eviction of the tenant.

18. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hari Dass Sharma vs. Vikas Sood and others, (2013) 5 SCC 243, have held that under section 14 (3) (c) of the H.P. Urban Rent Control Act, 1987 duly sanctioned building plan is not a condition precedent for entitlement of landlord for eviction of tenant. Their Lordships have held as under:

> 17. In fact, the only question that we have to decide in this appeal filed by the appellant is whether the High Court could have directed that only on the valid revised/renewed building plant being sanctioned by the competent authority, the order of eviction shall be available for execution. The High > Court has relied on the decision of this Court in Harrington House School v. S.M. Ispahani & Anr. (supra) and we find in that case that the landlords were builders by profession and they needed the suit premises for the immediate purpose of demolition so as to construct a multi-storey complex and the tenants were running a school in the tenanted building in which about 200 students were studying and 15 members of the teaching staff and 8 members of the non-teaching staff were employed and the school was catering to the needs of children of non-resident Indians. This Court found that although the plans of the proposed construction were ready and had been tendered in evidence, the plans had not been submitted to the local authorities for approval and on these facts, R.C. Lahoti, J, writing the judgment for the Court, while refusing to interfere with the judgment of the High Court and affirming the eviction order passed by the Controller, directed that the landlords shall submit the plans of reconstruction for approval of the local authorities and only on the plans being sanctioned by the local authorities, a decree for eviction shall be available for execution and further that such sanctioned plan or approved building plan shall be produced before the executing court whereupon the executing court shall allow a reasonable time to the tenant for vacating the property and delivering the possession to the landlord and till then the tenants shall remain liable to pay charges for use and occupation of the said premises at the same rate at which they are being paid.

>
> 18. In the present case, on the other hand, as we have noted, the Rent Controller while determining the bonafides of the appellant-landlord has recorded the finding that the landlord had admittedly obtained the sanction from the Municipal Corporation, Shimla, and has accordingly passed the order of eviction and this order of eviction has not been disturbed either by the Appellate Authority or by the High Court as the Revision Authority. In our considered opinion, once the High Court maintained the order of eviction passed by the Controller under Section 14(4) of the Act, the tenants were obliged to give vacant possession of the building to the landlord and could only ask for reasonable time to deliver vacant possession of the building to the landlord and hence the direction of the High Court that the order of eviction could only be executed on the revised plan of the building being approved was clearly contrary to the provisions of Section 14(4) of the Act and the proviso thereto."

19. Mr. Bharat Bhushan Vaid has also contended that there are two common walls and thus reconstruction is not possible. Whether the construction is possible on common wall is to be seen when the building is to be reconstructed and it is between the neighbours and landlord to resolve this issue at the time of building and rebuilding. The tenant is estopped from disputing title of the landlord as per section 116 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872.

20. In the case of Joginder Singh and another vrs. Smt. Jogindero and ors., reported in AIR 1996 SC 1654, their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court have held that tenant cannot deny the title of land lord. It has been held as follows:

> "6. Late Surain Singh and Respondent Bur Singh did not seriously dispute that they were not tenants under Smt. Soman in respect of the land in dispute and adduced no evidence in that behalf. On the contrary Khasra Girdawari Ext.P.6 clearly indicated that the deceased Surain Singh (who is represented by his legal representatives in this appeal) and Bur Singh were tenants under Smt. Soman with regard to the land in suit. This being the position the tenants could not be permitted to deny or dispute the title of the owner. This is a settled view that having regard to the provisions of Section 116 of the Evidence Act no tenant of immovable property or person claiming through such tenant shall, during the continuance of the tenancy, be permitted to deny the title of the owner of such property. In this connection it would be relevant to make a reference to the decision of this Court in Veerraju Vs. Venkanna [1966 (1) SCR 831 (839) = AIR 1966 SC 629] wherein this Court, with reference to the decision of Privy Council took the view as under:-

"A tenant who has been let into possession cannot deny his landlord's title, however defective it may be, so long as he has not openly restored possession by surrender to his landlord"

21. The Appellate authority has rightly come to the conclusion that the tenant has a right to re-entry after building is reconstructed and rent would be as agreed between the parties after taking into consideration the rent prevalent in the area.

22. Accordingly, in view of the analysis and discussion made hereinabove, there is no merit in the petition and the same is dismissed. Tenant is now directed to handover the vacant possession to the landlord within a period of three months from today. Tenant shall be re-inducted in the demised premises after one month of the construction of the building in the same place, location and area equivalent to the area which was in occupation of the tenants before the orders were passed by the Rent Controller. The rate of rent after the induction of the tenant by the landlord would be determined as per the law laid down by their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Syed Jameel Abnbas and others vs. Mohd. Yamin alias Kallu Khan, (2004) 4 SCC 781. Pending application(s), if any, also stands disposed of. No costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

Jagdish Chand ……Petitioner.
Versus
State of H.P. & another ……Respondents.

CWP No. 10568 of 2012.
Decided on: 14.5.2015.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was engaged on daily wages on 22.3.1983- he was regularized as electrician on 1.4.1995- he was re-designated as Technician Grade-I and his pay was fixed at Rs. 4,550/-- he was informed subsequently that Rs. 4,68,300/- was wrongly released to him- his pay was re-fixed as per audit para- held, that it was not permissible for the respondent to recover the amount or to re-fix his pay after a long time - respondent had not taken into consideration the representation filed by the petitioner assailing the combined seniority list- petition allowed and the order re-fixing the salary set aside. (Para-4 to 8)

Cases referred:

State of Punjab and others etc. versus Rafiq Masih (White Washer) etc., JT 2015 (1) SC 95

For the petitioner: Mr. Narender Singh Thakur, vice counsel Sh. R.R.Rahi, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. Parmod Thakur, Addl. AG, with Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Dy. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

The petitioner was initially engaged in the department of Agriculture on daily wage basis on 22.3.1983. He was regularized w.e.f. 1.4.1995 as Electrician. In sequel to the notification dated 1.9.1998 issued by the Government of Himachal Pradesh, the petitioner was re-designated as Technician Grade-I (Electrician) w.e.f. 1.1.1996 and put in the pay scale of Rs.4020-7220/- vide a letter dated 20.6.2003. The petitioner's pay was fixed at Rs.4550/- (at the minimum of the scale) with date of next increment as 1.1.1997, vide office order dated 23.6.2003. The petitioner was served with notice dated 12.10.2012 whereby he was informed that an amount of Rs.4,68,300/- was wrongly released to him w.e.f. 1.1.1996 to 1.1.2012. On the basis of audit para, his pay was re-fixed as per his entitlement in accordance with the Rules. The petitioner was informed and requested to settle audit para No.3. He was granted merely 3 days' time to file the reply. The petitioner was served with notice dated 9.11.2012 whereby he was granted opportunity to explain his position before the withdrawal of office order dated 20.6.2003. The petitioner submitted reply vide Annexure P-14 on 24.11.2012 informing that since Sh. Gita Ram did not possess qualification of ITI, he was not qualified and he also belonged to a different category, though petitioner was possessing qualification of ITI. However, the fact of the matter is that vide office order dated 29.11.2012, the petitioner's placement order made on 20.6.2003 was withdrawn and his pay was re-fixed vide office order dated 6.12.2012. Hence, this petition.

2. The petitioner was re-designated as Technician Gr-I (Electrician) and placed in the pay scale of Rs. 4020-7220 w.e.f. 1.1.1996. His pay was fixed at Rs. 4550/- with date of next increment as 1.1.1997. He was also allowed higher pay scale on the recommendation of the DPC and put in pay scale of Rs. 5000-8100 w.e.f. 1.1.2004. The petitioner was informed, as noticed hereinabove, of the audit para No.3 and he was requested to settle the same vide Annexure P-11 dated 12.10.2012. The petitioner was granted only three days' time to file the reply. According to the averments contained in notice dated 9.11.2012, the petitioner was not eligible to be re-designated as Technician Gr-I (Electrician), whereas his name was at Sr. No. 3 of the seniority list. In the placement orders, it was mentioned that placement along with the scale was subject to the decision of any representation made in that behalf/verification by audit and in case any over-payment was paid, the same would be recovered from the official concerned. It is also stated that the case of the petitioner did not fall in 20% category. The fact of the matter is that the petitioner has neither misrepresented nor concealed any relevant facts at the time of his placement in cadre of Technician on 20.6.2003, which led to fixation of his pay at Rs. 4550/- as per Annexure P-4, dated 23.6.2003. The petitioner has also been put in the higher pay scale of Rs. 5000-8100 w.e.f. 1.1.2004 on the basis of the recommendation made by the DPC.

3. Mr. Parmod Thakur, learned Additional AG has vehemently argued that one Sh. Dila Ram has filed CWP No. 5479 of 2012 in this Court. It is specifically averred in the present petition that Sh. Dila Ram has not challenged the placement of the petitioner as Electrician Gr-I. He has only sought his promotion as Technician Gr-II.

4. Now as far as Sh. Dila Ram is concerned, he does not fulfill even the basic qualification of ITI. The Court has gone through order dated 29.11.2012 with reference to CWP No. 5479 of 2012. It is evident that the CWP filed is still pending and despite that the placement of the petitioner has been withdrawn. There is no final adjudication on the writ petition filed by his senior. There is no tangible material placed on record that the petitioner was heard before the matter was looked into by the Deputy Controller (F&A). If the petitioner had been given an opportunity, he would have narrated the circumstances before the Deputy Controller, the manner in which he was put in the higher pay scale and that too on 20.6.2003. The respondents have further reduced the pay of the petitioner vide Annexure P-16 dated 6.12.2012 on the basis of order dated 29.11.2012. It is not that the petitioner's salary has been reduced but recovery amounting to Rs. 4,68,300/- has also been ordered.

5. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in a recent judgment, in the case of State of Punjab and others etc. versus Rafiq Masih (White Washer) etc., reported in JT 2015 (1) SC 95, have laid down the following principles governing the situation where recovery by the employers would be impermissible in law. It has been held as follows:

> "12. It is not possible to postulate all situations of hardship, which would govern employees on the issue of recovery, where payments have mistakenly been made by the employer, in excess of their entitlement. Be that as it may, based on the decisions referred to herein above, we may, as a ready reference, summarise the following few situations, wherein recoveries by the employers, would be impermissible in law:
>
> (i) Recovery from employees belonging to Class-III and Class-IV service (or Group 'C' and Group 'D' service).
>
> (ii) Recovery from retired employees, or employees who are due to retire within one year, of the order of recovery.
>
> (iii) Recovery from employees, when the excess payment has been made for a period in excess of five years, before the order of recovery is issued.
>
> (iv) Recovery in cases where an employee has wrongfully been required to discharge duties of a higher post, and has been paid accordingly, even though he should have rightfully been required to work against an inferior post.
>
> (v) In any other case, where the Court arrives at the conclusion, that recovery if made from the employee, would be iniquitous or harsh or arbitrary to such an extent, as would far outweigh the equitable balance of the employer's right to recover."

6. In the instant case also, the respondents cannot be permitted, at this belated stage, to re-fix the petitioner's pay on the basis of office order dated 29.11.2012 as well as to recover an amount of Rs. 4,68,300/- from the petitioner.

7. The respondents have also not taken into consideration the representation which has already been filed by the petitioner assailing the combined seniority list. The respondents have also overlooked Annexure P-5 whereby the petitioner was granted higher pay scale of Rs. 5000-8100 on the basis of Annexures P-3 and P4 dated 20.6.2003 and 23.6.2003, respectively.

8. Accordingly, the Writ Petition is allowed. Annexure P-11 dated 12.10.2012, Annexure P-13 dated 9.11.2012, Annexure P-15 dated 29.11.2012 and Office Order Annexure P-16, dated 6.12.2012 are quashed and set aside. Pending application(s), if any, shall stand disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

CWP No. 160/2011 alongwith CWPs No. 161, 162, 164, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171 and 172 of 2011
Reserved on: 13.5.2014
Decided on: 14.5.2015

1. CWP No. 160/2011

Raj Bala Gaur. ...Petitioner.
Versus
H.P. University and others. ...Respondents.

2. CWP No. 161/2011

Veena Bhadwal. ...Petitioner.
Versus
H.P. University and others. ...Respondents.

3. CWP No. 162/2011

Bandna Kumari. ...Petitioner.
Versus
H.P. University and others. ...Respondents.

4. CWP No. 164/2011

Hans Raj Sharma. ...Petitioner.
Versus
H.P. University and others. ...Respondents.

5. CWP No. 166/2011

Neeta Ahluwalia. ...Petitioner.
Versus
H.P. University and others. ...Respondents.

6. CWP No. 167/2011

Sunita Gupta. ...Petitioner.
Versus
H.P. University and others. ...Respondents.

7. CWP No. 168/2011

Suresh Verma. ...Petitioner.
Versus
H.P. University and others. ...Respondents.

8. CWP No. 169/2011

Reena Dhawan. ...Petitioner.
Versus
H.P. University and others. ...Respondents.

9.CWP No. 170/2011

Sunita Sharma. ...Petitioner.
Versus
H.P. University and others. ...Respondents.

10.CWP No. 171/2011

Rakesh Kumar Sharma. ...Petitioner.
Versus
H.P. University and others. ...Respondents.

11.CWP No. 172/2011

Avneeta Vaid. ...Petitioner.

Versus

H.P. University and others. ...Respondents.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was appointed on ad hoc basis on a consolidated salary of Rs. 1500/- per month in H.P.U. Model School on 31.5.1997 – a committee recommended creation of regular posts of Headmaster and teachers in the regular pay scale- these recommendations were accepted subject to the approval of Executive Council- petitioners were put in a regular pay scale but the increment was not released to them- held, that petitioners were appointed after completing all the codal formalities – therefore, they should have been granted annual increments from the initial date of appointment - Vice Chancellor had created posts subject to the approval by Executive Council and appointment on such post is valid until set aside- since, appointments were regularized by Executive Council- therefore, the appointees are entitled to annual increment as well as GPF at par with regular employees. (Para-2 to 15)

Cases referred:

Shakir Husain vs. Chandoo Lal and others, AIR 1931 Allahabad 567

Mohammad Ali vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh and others, AIR 1958 Allahabad 681

U.P. Avas Evam Vikas Parishad and another vs. Friends Coop. Housing society Limited and another, 1995 (Supp) 3 SCC 456

(In all the petitions)

For the Petitioners: Mr. Anil God, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr. J.L. Bhardwaj, Advocate for respondents No.1 and 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge

Since common questions of law and facts are involved in all these petitions, the same were taken up together and are being disposed of by a common judgment. However, in order to maintain clarity, facts of CWP No. 160/2011 have been taken into consideration.

2. Petitioner was appointed on ad hoc/tenure basis on a consolidated salary of Rs. 1500/- per month in H.P.U. Model School on 31.5.1997. A meeting comprising of Prof. Suresh Kapoor, Dean of Studies, Dr. S.K. Garg, Dean, CDC and Prof. J.B. Nadda, Registrar was conveyed on 1.8.2002 in the Chambers of Registrar was held on 1.8.2002 at 3.00 P.M. The Committee made the following recommendations:

> 1. The post of Head Master be got created in the regular pay scale of Rs.7000-22-8100-275-10,300-340-10980 and against which Mr. Umesh Modgil who fulfils the requisite qualification maybe considered for his regularization after he completes 4 years service as such with prospective effect.
>
> 2. The posts of the following teachers may be got created in the regular pay scale of Rs.4550-150-5000-160-5800-200-7000-220-7280 and against which the mentioned below teachers who have completed 4 years or more service as such may be considered for their regularization with prospective effect.

	NAME & DESIGNATION TEACHERS	ACADEMIC QUALIFICATION	DATE OF JOINING
1.	Mrs. Avneeta Vaid	MA B.Ed. Prabhakar	10.7.1992
2.	Mrs. Neeta Ahluwalia	BA B.Ed. NTT	26.10.1992
3.	Mrs. Bandana Sharma	-do MA	1.3.1993
4.	Mrs. Sunita Gupta	BA B.Ed.	26.7.1993
5.	Mrs. Vena Badhwal	BA B.Ed. M.Ed. M.Phil. PhD. (Education0	10.5.1995
6.	Mrs. Sunita Sharma	BA B.Ed. M.Ed. M. Phil (Pol. Sc)	25.5.1995
7.	Mrs. Raj Bala Gaur	BA MA, B.Ed.	5.6.1997
8.	Sh. Pushpender Sharma Arts Teacher	BA Diploma in Painting	21.7.1997
9.	Mrs. Reena Dhawan Teacher	B.Sc. B.Ed.	22.7.1997
10.	Teacher Sh. Suresh Verma	PGDCA, MA (Eco.) B.Ed.	9.9.1998
11.	Ms. Anjali Sharma	B.Sc. B.Ed.	21.10.1998
12.	Sh. Hans Raj Sharma	-do-	26.10.1998
13.	Sh. Rakesh Sharma	B.Sc. B.Ed. M.Com	26.10.1998

Their regularization and inter-se seniority will be regulated in accordance with the date of their initial appointment. After their regularization the head master and teaching staff of the school may be allowed.

3. The posts of the non-teaching staff i.e. Aya and peon of the school may be got created in the regular scale of Rs.2520-100-3220-110-3660-120-4140 (with initial start of Rs.2620/-) and against which the following may be considered for their regularization on completion of 8 years service as per instructions of the state Govt.

	NAME & DESIGNATION TEACHERS	ACADEMIC QUALIFICATION	DATE OF JOINING
1.	Mrs. Pushpa Thakur Aya	Matric	3.1.1992
2.	Sh. Geeta Ram Sharma, Peon	Middle	26.9.1994

> The financial liabilities of the above mentioned staff would be borne on the staff-strength of the University for first five years and thereafter the such liabilities shall be met out of the resources of the school as there is a proposal to construct a new building for the school for which the revenue /income of the school has been kept reserved for its utilization. In order to met the expenditure on account of salary etc. of the teachers/ staff, it was recommended that 10% hike in fee may be made every year.
>
> The service conditions of the staff of the school will be governed as per Act, Statutes and Ordinances of the University vis-à-vis rules, regulations and instructions as amended from time to time and as applicable to the teaching staff of the State Govt. The school will observe the vacation schedule at par with the State govt. The teaching staff including head master shall form their own separate cadre with a separate entity. The appointing authority of the teaching staff including the head master shall be the vice-chancellor of this University and their service record shall be maintained by the establishment branch."

3. In sequel to the recommendations made by the high power committee, the Vice Chancellor of the respondent-university was pleased to create the posts of Headmaster and teachers in the regular pay scale of Rs. 7000-10980 and Rs. 4500-7200, respectively, subject to the approval from the Executive Council vide notification dated 5.9.2002.

4. Petitioners and similarly situate persons were appointed to the posts of school teachers and Head Master in H.P.U. Model School in the running pay scale mentioned against their post on 9.9.2002. Petitioners joined their duties vide office order dated 30.9.2002. Though the petitioners were put in the regular pay scale but the increments were not released to them. They made several representations, which led to issuance of letter dated 4.11.2008 whereby the petitioners were granted annual increment with effect from 1.9.2003 but on notional basis.

5. Petitioners made several representations seeking G.P.F. account number. The Executive Council vide resolution No.9 in its meeting held on 27.9.2008 approved the creation of one post of Head Master and 13 posts of Teachers in the pay scale given in the notifications dated 5.9.2002 and 13.9.2002. The notification to this effect was issued on 6.2.2009.

6. Mr. Anil God, learned counsel for the petitioner, has vehemently argued that his clients are entitled to regular increments from their initial date of appointment. The petitioners are required to be issued G.P.F. account number instead of C.P.F. account number. He then contended that the appointments of his clients have already been made on regular basis after the creation of posts by the Vice Chancellor.

7. Mr. J.L. Bhardwaj has placed strong reliance upon notification dated 6.2.2009.

8. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the pleadings carefully.

9. Petitioner in CWP No. 160/2011 was appointed on ad hoc/ tenure basis on 31.5.1997. A conscious decision has been taken vide Annexure R-1/A to regularize the petitioners and similarly situate persons in the running pay scale of Rs. 4550-7220. An observation has also been made in Annexure RA-1/C that the petitioners possessed more than the required educational qualification, as laid down by the Government for the posts of JBTs/TGTs. Thereafter, the Vice Chancellor created the posts as per Annexure P-2 dated 5.9.2002 in the regular pay scale. Petitioners were appointed against these posts in the running pay scale vide office order dated 9.9.2002. They joined their duties on 30.9.2002. Since the petitioners have been appointed/regularized after completing all the codal formalities, that too, after approval by the Executive Counsel, they should have been granted annual increments from their initial date of appointment, i.e. 9.9.2002. Petitioners have been granted annual increments only vide Annexure P-6 dated 4.11.2008, that too, on notional basis after the decision dated 27.9.2008. It is true that the posts were earlier created on ad hoc/tenure basis but thereafter the petitioners were regularized in the regular pay scale after the posts were created by the Vice Chancellor, subject to the approval from the Executive Council. The approval from the Executive Council was only ministerial act since all the codal formalities for the creation of posts have been complied with. The posts have been created by the Vice Chancellor on the basis of the recommendations made by the high power committee vide Annexure P-2. The petitioners have been regularized with effect from 9.9.2002 and the approval of the posts by the Executive Council vide notification dated 27.9.2008 would relate back to the date of creation of posts by the Vice-Chancellor on 5.9.2002. The petitioners possessed the essential qualification. Their suitability has been adjudged by a duly constituted Selection Commission.

10. The posts are created by the Executive Council as per Statute 10 (iii). In the instant case, the posts have been created by the Vice Chancellor, subject to approval of the Executive Council. The Vice Chancellor can take immediate action as per section 12 (c) (7) of the Himachal Pradesh University Act, 1970, but the same is required to be approved by the Executive Council. The Vice Chancellor has created the posts on 5.9.2002, subject to approval by the Executive Council. The Executive Council has approved the same on 27.9.2008.

11. Full Bench of Allahabad High Court in Shakir Husain vs. Chandoo Lal and others, AIR 1931 Allahabad 567 has defined the difference between approval and permission as under:

> "Ordinarily the difference between the approval and permission is that in the first the act holds good until disapproved, while in the other case it does not become effective until permission is obtained. But permission subsequently obtained may all the same validate the previous act."

12. This judgment was relied upon by the Division Bench of Allahbad in Mohammad Ali vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh and others, AIR 1958 Allahabad 681. The Division Bench has held that an appointment which is to be made with the permission of a higher authority or the Government cannot be made unless the permission is first obtained, but an appointment which can be made subject to the approval of a higher authority or the Government may be made and will be rendered invalid only when it is disapproved by the higher authority. The Division has held as under:

> "[1] This special appeal is directed against an order dated 22-11-1957 passed by a learned Single Judge of this Court by which Civil Miscellaneous Writ Petition No. 3023 of 1957 had been rejected. The appellant was employed by the Municipal Board of Maunath Bhanjari in the district of Azamgarh as an overseer. Under the provisions of Section 68(2) of the U. P. Municipalities Act the appointment and the salary and other conditions attached thereto are required to be subjected to the approval of the State Government. The matter in the present case appears never to have been sent up to the State Government for approval. It came to the notice of the District Magistrate of Azamgarh that the appellant was performing duties as an overseer without the approval of the State Government. Consequently he brought it to the notice of the State Government.

The State Government after carefully considering the matter refused to approve of the appointment and sent a direction to the District Magistrate with a copy to the President of the Municipal Board, Maunath Bhanjan, that the retention of the appellant was wholly unjustified and that his services may be terminated at once. In compliance with the instructions of the Government the President of the Board passed an order on 19-11-1957 terminating the services of the appellant with immediate effect; and that order was communicated to the appellant by the officiating Secretary of the Board on 20-11-1957. In the writ petition two prayers had been made. The first prayer was that a writ in the nature of certiorari be issued quashing the decision of the President of the Board and that of the State Government.

The second prayer was that a writ in the nature of mandamus be issued directing the State Government to accord recognition and approval to the appointment of the appellant as overseer. So far as the second prayer is concerned Mr. M. H. Beg, appearing on behalf of the appellant, has conceded that such a writ in the nature of mandamus cannot be issued to the State Government. We are therefore concerned with the first prayer enunciated above. For the disposal of the matter we have got to look to Section 68 of the U. P. Municipalities Act. That section says that a Board may, and, if so required by the State Government shall by a special resolution appoint the principal officers of its technical departments such as ..... a qualified overseer or sub-Overseer ..... Sub-clause (2) of that section says that each such appointment and the salary and other conditions attached thereto shall be subject to the approval of the State Government.

The view taken by the learned Single Judge was that since the approval of the State Government was not obtained by the Board at the time of appointing the appellant and when the matter came to their knowledge they refused to approve the appointment, there was in fact no valid appointment of the appellant and the result was that the appointment was automatically terminated by the refusal of the State Government to give its approval. The learned Single Judge was further of the opinion that what was done by the President and by the Secretary under the orders of the President was not to dismiss or punish the appellant so as to bring into picture the operation of Section 69 of the U. P. Municipalities Act, but to inform the appellant that in view of the refusal by the State Government to approve of his appointment the appointment had lapsed. In our opinion the view taken by the learned Single Judge was correct.

When a person is employed under a power which is to be exercised subject to the approval of a higher authority or the Government, the appointment holds good so long as the higher authority or the Government has not disapproved of it. There is a distinction between an appointment with the permission of a higher authority or the Government, and an appointment subject to the approval of the higher authority or the Government. An appointment which is to be made with the permission of a higher authority or the Government cannot be made unless the permission is first obtained, but an appointment which can be made subject to the approval of a higher authority or the Government may be made and will be rendered invalid only when it is disapproved by the higher authority. This distinction was pointed out by a Full Bench of this Court in Shakir Hu-sain v. Chandoolal, AIR 1931 All 567 (A). Sir Shah Sulaiman, Acting Chief Justice, as he then was, observed:

"Ordinarily the difference between the approval and permission is that in the first the act holds good until disapproved, while in the other case it does not become effective until permission is obtained. But permission subsequently obtained may all the same validate the previous act."

13. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in U.P. Avas Evam Vikas Parishad and another vs. Friends Coop. Housing society Limited and another, 1995 (Supp) 3 SCC 456 have held that the difference between approval and permission is that in the first case the action holds good until it is disapproved, while in the other case it does not become effective until permission is obtained. Their Lordships have further held that permission subsequently granted may validate the previous Act. Their Lordships have held as under:

"[5] This Court in Life Insurance Corpn. of India v. Escorts Ltd., (1986) 1 SCC 264 : (AIR 1986 SC 1370), considering the distinction between "special permission" and "general permission", "previous approval" or "prior approval" in paragraph 63 held that "we are conscious that the word "prior" or "previous" may be implied if the contextual situation or the object and design of the legislation demands it, we find on such compelling circumstances justifying reading any such implication into S. 29(1) of the Act". Ordinarily, the difference between approval and permission is that in the first case the action holds good until it is disapproved while in the other case it does not become effective until permission is obtained. But permission subsequently granted may validate the previous act. As to the word "approval" in S. 33 (2) (b) of the Industrial Disputes Act, it was stated in Lord Krishna Textiles Mills Ltd. v. Workmen, (1961) 1 Lab LJ 211 at 215-16: (AIR 1961 SC 860 at p. 863) that the management need not obtain the pervious consent befor taking any action. The requirement that the management must obtain approval was distinguished from the requirement that it must obtain permission, of which mention is made in S. 33(1). It is seen that approval envisaged under exception (iii) of S.59 (1) (a), is to enable the Parishad to proceed further in implementation of the scheme framed by the Board. Until approval is given by the Government, the Board may not effectively implement the scheme. Neverthless, once the approval is given, all the previous acts done or actions taken in anticipation of the approval get validated and the publications made under the Act thereby become valid."

14. The respondent-University has not permitted the petitioners to opt for G.P.F. account number and were forced for giving option for C.P.F. account number and their case has been rejected on 24.4.2010 vide Annexure P-8. Since the petitioners have been regularized before the cut-off date, i.e. 15.5.2003, the respondent-university was bound to permit them to opt for G.P.F. account number instead of coercing the petitioners to opt for C.P.F. account number. The respondent-University has discriminated against the petitioners since similarly situate persons, who were working on ad hoc basis in the school, their services were regularized alongwith petitioners have been given regular increments and they have been allotted G.P.F. account number. Equals cannot be treated unequals. Action of the respondent-University not to grant effective increments to the petitioners from 9.9.2002 is unreasonable and arbitrary. Their appointments have been made against the regular pay scale and they should have been granted annual increments from the date of their regularization. Since the appointment of the petitioners is before the cut-off date, i.e. 15.5.2003, they are entitled to opt for G.P.F. account number. Since the petitioners have been appointed after completing all the codal formalities, their services are required to be counted from the initial date of appointment followed by regularization for all intents and purposes, including pension.

15. Accordingly, in view of the analysis and discussion made hereinabove, all the writ petitions are allowed. Annexures P-6 and P-8 dated 4.11.2008 and 24.4.2010, respectively, are quashed and set aside. Respondent-University is directed to release the petitioners annul increments from the initial date of appointment with interest @ 9% per annum. The respondent-University is also directed to permit the petitioners to opt for G.P.F. account number by treating their appointments on regular basis with effect from 9.9.2002. The respondent-University is further directed to pay and release the revised pay scales to the petitioners from the due date. It is made clear that the services rendered by the petitioners on ad hoc basis followed by regularization shall also be counted for all intents and purposes, including pension. Needful be done within a period of four weeks from today. Pending application, if any also stands disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J.

Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company Ltd. …Appellant
Versus
Smt. Gohdi Devi & others …Respondents

FAO No. 142 of 2008
Date of decision: 15.05.2015

Motor Vehicle Act, 1988- Section 166- Insurance Company pleaded that brother and sister are not the legal representatives and cannot file a Claim Petition- held, that persons who were dependent upon the deceased at the time of accident can file a Claim Petition - brother & sister if dependent upon the deceased can file a Claim Petition- they were minor at the time of accident and will fall within the definition of dependent. (Para12 to 19)

Cases referred:

Gujarat State Road Transport Corporation, Ahmedabad versus Ramanbhai Prabhatbhai and another, AIR 1987 Supreme Court 1690
Gian Singh and others versus Ram Krishan Kohli and others, AIR 2002 J & K 82
United India Insurance Co. Ltd. versus N. Appi Reddy and others, 2013 ACJ, 545
Manjuri Bera versus Oriental Insurance Company Limited, AIR 2007 Supreme Court 1474
Montford Brothers of St. Gabriel and Anr. versus United India Insurance & Anr. etc., 2014 AIR SCW 1051
Samantra Devi & others vs. Sanjeev Kumar & others, ILR 2014 (IX) HP 1, Page-861

For the appellant : Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. Malay Kaushal, Advocate vice Mr. Vinod Thakur, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 to 5.
Mr. Vijay Chaudhary, Advocate, for respondent No. 6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

By the medium of this appeal, the appellant-Bajaj Allianz General Insurance Company has questioned the award, dated 3rd December, 2007, passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Chamba Division, Chamba (hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal") in MAC Petition No. 24 of 2007/2006, whereby compensation to the tune of Rs.4,22,000/- with interest at the rate of 9% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till its realization, was awarded in favour of the claimants-respondents No. 1 to 5, (for short, the "impugned award"), on the grounds taken in the memo of appeal.

2. The claimants, driver and owner have not questioned the impugned award, on any count. Thus, it has attained finality, so far as it relates to them.

Brief Facts:

3. The claimants, being victims of the motor vehicular accident, had filed the claim petition before the Tribunal for grant of compensation to the tune of Rs.8,00,000/-, as per the break-ups given in the claim petition. It is averred in the claim petition that on 25.12.2005, Pawan Kumar was traveling in vehicle (Taxi Cab) bearing registration No. JK-08A-3145, which was being driven by driver, namely, Kishan Chand, rashly and negligently and at about 12.30 a.m., near Biana Mor Tehsil Salooni, District Chamba, caused the accident, in which Pawan Kumar sustained injuries and succumbed to the injuries.

4. The claim petition was resisted by the respondents on the grounds taken in their memo of objections.

5. Following issues came to be framed by the Tribunal:

> "1. Whether Shri Pawan Kumar died due to the rash and negligent driving of vehicle No. JK-8A-3145 by its driver (Late Sh. Kishan Chand), as alleged? …OPP
>
> 2. If issue No. 1 is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioners are entitled to the compensation as claimed. If so, its quantum and from whom? ….OP Parties.
>
> 3. Whether late Shri Kishan Chand was not holding and possessing a valid and effective driving licence to drive the vehicle in question at the desired time. If so, its effect? OPR-2
>
> 4. Whether the vehicle was being plied in violation of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy, as alleged. If so, its effect? …OPR-2
>
> 5. Whether the vehicle was not having a valid registration certificate. If so, its effect? …OPR-2
>
> 6. Relielf."

6. The claimants have examined Dr. Subhash Chauhan (PW-2), Diwan Chand (PW-3), Head Constable Shish Pal (PW-4) and statement of claimant Smt. Gohdi Devi was recorded. The respondents have not led any evidence. Thus, the evidence led by the claimants has remained unrebutted.

7. The Tribunal, after scanning the evidence, oral as well as documentary, passed the impugned award, whereby the insurer-Insurance Company was asked to satisfy the impugned award.

8. There is no dispute on issue No. 1. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on the aforesaid issue are upheld.

9. Onus to prove issues No. 3 to 5 was upon the insurer. The insurer has not led any evidence. Thus, it has failed to discharge the onus. Accordingly, the findings recorded by the Tribunal on the aforesaid issues are upheld.

10. Learned Counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company argued that the claim petition was not maintainable so far as it relates to respondents No. 2 and 5, who are brothers and sisters of the deceased.

11. The argument addressed by the learned Counsel for the appellant is misconceived for the following reasons.

12. Dependant or legal representative of the deceased, who has died in a motor vehicular accident, can file a claim petition. Claimants No. 2 to 5 were minors at the relevant time i.e. the date of accident, are legal representatives of the deceased and were dependants.

13. The Apex Court in a case titled as Gujarat State Road Transport Corporation, Ahmedabad versus Ramanbhai Prabhatbhai and another, reported in AIR 1987 Supreme Court 1690, held that brother of a deceased is also a legal representative, provided he is dependent.

14. The same view has been taken by a Division Bench of the Jammu and Kashmir High Court in a case titled as Gian Singh and others versus Ram Krishan Kohli and others, reported in AIR 2002 Jammu and Kashmir 82, while holding that sisters and brothers of a person, who dies in accident, are entitled to maintain petition under Section 166 of the MV Act, if they are legal representatives of the deceased.

15. The Andhra Pradesh High Court in a case titled as United India Insurance Co. Ltd. versus N. Appi Reddy and others, reported in 2013 ACJ, 545, has also laid down the same principle.

16. The Apex Court in a case titled as Smt. Manjuri Bera versus Oriental Insurance Company Limited, reported in AIR 2007 Supreme Court 1474, held that even a married daughter of a deceased, though not dependant on deceased, is entitled to compensation, if she is 'legal representative' of the deceased.

17. The Apex Court in a latest case titled as Montford Brothers of St. Gabriel and Anr. versus United India Insurance & Anr. etc., reported in 2014 AIR SCW 1051, has taken note of various judgments and held that brothers, sisters, brothers' children and some times, the foster children are entitled to maintain claim petition, provided they are dependent. It is apt to reproduce paras 10, 11, 15 and 16 of the judgment herein:

> "10. From the aforesaid provisions it is clear that in case of death of a person in a motor vehicle accident, right is available to a legal representative of the deceased or the agent of the legal representative to lodge a claim for compensation under the provisions of the Act. The issue as to who is a legal representative or its agent is basically an issue of fact and may be decided one way or the other dependent upon the facts of a particular case. But as a legal proposition it is undeniable that a person claiming to be a legal representative has the locus to maintain an application for compensation under Section 166 of the Act, either directly or through any agent, subject to result of a dispute raised by the other side on this issue.

11. Learned counsel for the Insurance Company tried to persuade us that since the term `legal representative' has not been defined under the Act, the provision of Section 1-A of the Fatal Accidents Act, 1855, should be taken as guiding principle and the claim should be confined only for the benefit of wife, husband, parent and child, if any, of the person whose death has been caused by the accident. In this context, he cited judgment of this Court in the case of Gujarat State Road Transport Corporation, Ahmedabad vs. Raman Bhai Prabhatbhai & Anr., AIR 1987 SC 1690. In that case, covered by the Motor Vehicles Act of 1939, the claimant was a brother of a deceased killed in a motor vehicle accident. The Court rejected the contention of the appellant that since the term `legal representative' is not defined under the Motor Vehicles Act, the right of filing the claim should be controlled by the provisions of Fatal Accident Act. It was specifically held that Motor Vehicles Act creates new and enlarged right for filing an application for compensation and such right cannot be hedged in by the limitations on an action under the Fatal Accidents Act. Paragraph 11 of the report reflects the correct philosophy which should guide the courts interpreting legal provisions of beneficial legislations providing for compensation to those who had suffered loss.

"11. We feel that the view taken by the Gujarat High Court is in consonance with the principles of justice, equity and good conscience having regard to the conditions of the Indian society. Every legal representative who suffers on account of the death of a person due to a motor vehicle accident should have a remedy for realisation of compensation and that is provided by Sections 110-A to 110-F of the Act. These provisions are in consonance with the principles of law of torts that every injury must have a remedy. It is for the Motor Vehicles Accidents Tribunal to determine the compensation which appears to it to be just as provided in Section 110-B of the Act and to specify the person or persons to whom compensation shall be paid. The determination of the compensation payable and its apportionment as required by Section 110-B of the Act amongst the legal representatives for whose benefit an application may be filed under Section 110-A of the Act have to be done in accordance with well-known principles of law. We should remember that in an Indian family brothers, sisters and brothers' children and some times foster children live together and they are dependent upon the bread-winner of the family and if the bread-winner is killed on account of a motor vehicle accident, there is no justification to deny them compensation relying upon the provisions of the Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 which as we have already held has been substantially modified by the provisions contained in the Act in relation to cases arising out of motor vehicles accidents. We express our approval of the decision in Megjibhai Khimji Vira v. Chaturbhai Taljabhai, (AIR 1977 Guj.195) and hold that the brother of a person who dies in a motor vehicle accident is entitled to maintain a petition under Section 110-A of the Act if he is a legal representative of the deceased."

12. ....

13. ....

14. ....

15. On coming to know about the High Court judgment the appellants filed a review petition in which they gave all the relevant facts including the constitution of the society appellant no.1 in support of their claim that a `Brother' of the Society renounced his relations with the natural family and all his earnings and belongings including insurance claims belonged to the society. These facts could not have been ignored by the High Court but even after noticing such facts the review petition was rejected.

16. A perusal of the judgment and order of the Tribunal discloses that although issue no.1 was not pressed and hence decided in favour of the claimants/appellants, while considering the quantum of compensation for the claimants the Tribunal adopted a very cautious approach and framed a question for itself as to what should be the criterion for assessing compensation in such case where the deceased was a Roman Catholic and joined the church services after denouncing his family, and as such having no actual dependents or earning? For answering this issue the Tribunal relied not only upon judgments of American and English Courts but also upon Indian judgments for coming to the conclusion that even a religious order or organization may suffer considerable loss due to death of a voluntary worker. The Tribunal also went on to decide who should be entitled for compensation as legal representative of the deceased and for that purpose it relied upon the Full Bench judgment of Patna High Court reported in AIR 1987 Pat. 239, which held that the term `legal representative' is wide enough to include even "intermeddlers" with the estate of a deceased. The Tribunal also referred to some Indian judgments in which it was held that successors to the trusteeship and trust property are legal representatives within the meaning of Section 2(11) of the Code of Civil Procedure."

18. This Court in FAO No. 71 of 2007, titled Smt. Samantra Devi & others versus Sanjeev Kumar & others, decided on 17th October, 2014, also laid down the same principle.

19. In view of the ratio laid down by the apex Court, Andhra Pradesh High Court and this Court in the aforesaid judgments, the argument addressed by the learned Counsel for the appellant is turned down.

20. Learned Counsel for the appellant also argued that the amount of compensation is excessive.

21. Claimant No.1 has lost her son and respondents No. 2 to 5, who were minors at the time of accident and dependant upon the deceased, have lost their brother. The Tribunal after taking into consideration the claim petition, pleadings and the evidence on the file, has rightly assessed the compensation, cannot be said to be excessive, in any way. Accordingly, the findings returned by the Tribunal on issue No. 2 are upheld.

22. Learned Counsel for the appellant-insurer has also argued that the Tribunal has fallen in error in rejecting the application under Order 6 Rule 17 of the Code of Civil Procedure for amendment of the reply filed on behalf of the insurer.

23. I have gone through the pleadings and the record. I am of the considered view that the Tribunal has rightly rejected the aforesaid application.

24. Having said so, the impugned award is upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

25. The Registry is directed to release the award amount in favour of claimants, strictly as per the terms and conditions, contained in the impugned award.

26. Send down the records after placing a copy of the judgment on the file of the claim petition.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE P.S. RANA, J.

Vikram Verma. ….Revisionist

Versus

Smt. Manju Verma. ….Non-Revisionist.

Cr. Revision No. 346 of 2014
Decided on: 15.5.2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 401- Counsel submitted that in view of compromise executed between the parties, revisionist does not want to continue with the present petition - hence, in view of statement; Revision Petition dismissed as withdrawn.

For the revisionist : Mr. Anirudh Sharma, Advocate.
For the non-revisionist : Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S. Rana, Judge (Oral)

Learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the revisionist submitted that in view of the compromise executed inter-se the parties in divorce petition No. 37-S/3/2012 titled Vikram Verma vs. Manju Verma decided on 2.5.2015 revisionist does not want to continue the revision petition and same be dismissed as withdrawn. In view of the submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the revisionist petition is dismissed as withdrawn. Petition disposed of. Pending applications if any also disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

National Insurance Co. Ltd. ……Appellant.
Versus
Sh. Hanogi Mata Sansthan & ors. …….Respondents.

RSA No. 492 of 2003.
Reserved on: 16.5.2015.

Torts - Plaintiff filed a civil suit for recovery of the compensation against the defendants on the ground that widening work of NH at point 229/0 was carried out by defendant No. 1 - heavy blast was done as a result of which heavy boulders and rocks were thrown on the temple and other buildings causing damages to them- Insurance Company pleaded that the plaintiff was a stranger to the contract- held, that work was executed by 'G' who had taken the insurance policy- insurance company had undertaken to indemnify the 'G' for any loss, hence, suit could have been filed against the Insurance Company also. (Para-15)

For the appellant(s): Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr.C.N.Singh , Advocate for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Sanjeev Kuthiala, Advocate, for respondent No.2.
Mr. Parmod Thakur, Addl. AG with Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Dy. AG for respondents-State.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

This regular second appeal is directed against the judgment and decree of the learned Addl. District Judge, Mandi, H.P. dated 21.10.2000, passed in Civil Appeal No. 83 of 1995.

2. Key facts, necessary for the adjudication of this regular second appeal are that the respondent-plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as the plaintiff) has filed a suit for payment of damages/compensation against the appellant-defendant No. 5 and respondents-defendants No. 2 to 4 (hereinafter referred to as the defendants). According to the plaintiff, Shrimata Hanogi Sansthan is a Society registered under the Society Registration Act, 1860. The Sansthan manages the affairs including its immovable property which includes Satsang Bhawan, Kitchen, Canteen building and Dharamshala constructed by the trust for the benefit of pilgrims and visitors. Sh. Pawan Kumar, was authorized to file the suit on behalf of the Sansthan. In the last week of December, 1987, widening work of NH at point 229/0 was carried out by defendant No. 1 through Gopal Sharma. During the widening work, heavy blasting was done as a result of which, heavy boulders and rocks/muck were thrown on the temple and other buildings. The damage was caused to the temple and buildings. The necessary remedial measures were not taken to avoid damage to the temple. The plaintiff had to re-construct and re-build the damaged building by spending Rs. 85,000/-.

3. The suit was contested by defendants including the appellant-defendant Insurance Company. According to defendant No. 1 Gopal Sharma, work was allotted to him vide letter dated 4.12.1987. This work was insured with the National Insurance Company. It is denied that heavy blasting was carried out. Inspite of the best efforts by the deendant and keeping in view the nature of the site on the spot, some damage has been caused to the temple. According to the State Government, the widening work was completed in the year 1978-79. The temple and other buildings were constructed after completion of the widening work. There existed loose boulders on the hill side for which temple authority approached Public Works Department, which in the interest of safety of public and the temple premises engaged defendant No. 1 for removal of loose boulders on contract. The payment of Mr. Gopal Sharma was withheld. It was released only after he produced no-objection certificate from the plaintiff. No damage has been caused to the plaintiff by the defendants. Only defendant Gopal Sharma, was responsible to the loss. There was vertical slope ranging from 70 degree to 80 degree. The appellant-Insurance Company also filed the written statement. They have shown ignorance about the damage caused to the temple while executing the widening work.

4. The learned Senior Sub Judge, Mandi, H.P., framed the issues on 16.3.1992. The suit was dismissed by the learned Senior Sub Judge, Mandi, H.P. on 8.6.1995. The plaintiff, preferred an appeal before the learned Addl. District Judge, Mandi. The learned Addl. District Judge, Mandi, allowed the appeal and suit was decreed partly against appellant-defendant No. 5 i.e Insurance Company for recovery of Rs. 68,590/-. Hence, this regular second appeal.

5. This Regular Second Appeal was admitted on the following substantial question of law on 19.3.2004:

> "1. Whether the suit filed by the plaintiff claiming damages/ compensation is maintainable against the appellant/insurance company when there was no privity of contract between the two and whether a stranger to the contract can enforce the same even the contract may have been entered for his benefit?"

6. Mr. Ashwani Sharma, Advocate, for the appellant has vehemently argued that the suit was not maintainable against the Insurance Company. On the other hand, Mr. R.L.Chaudhary, Advocate, has supported the judgment of the first appellate Court. Mr. Sanjeev Kuthiala, Advocate, for respondent No. 2 has argued that the National Insurance Co. alone was liable to indemnify the plaintiff.

7. I have heard the learned Advocates for the parties and gone through the judgments and records of the case carefully.

8 The work in question was awarded to the defendant Gopal Sharma vide letter dated 15.12.1987. The widening of the road was taken up by the Public Works Department in the year 1978-79. The work was allotted to Gopal Sharma in larger public interest to protect the public at large including the property of the temple. Gopal Sharma has insured the work against the loss on 5.12.1987.

9. PW-1 Pawan Kumar testified that the damage was caused to the property of the temple. He was looking after development work of the Sansthan. Sh. Gopal Sharma DW-1 started the execution of the work in front of the temple in the year 1987. The work continued up to 3-4 months, as a result of which, the Satsang Bhawan, office building and front portion of the temple was damaged including canteen and kitchen. The damage resulted due to blasting without adopting safety measures. The offerings in the temple were also reduced. He has prepared estimate vide Ext. PW-1/C. He wrote letters to Gopal Sharma about the possible damage vide Ext. PW-1/D and PW-1/G. The reply of the same is Ext. PW-1/H. He also wrote letter to Ex. Engineer vide Ext. PW-1/I and the reply of the Public Works Department is Ext. PW-1/K. He has also proved copy of notices Ext. PW-1/M and Ext. PW-1/N, receipt Ext. PW-1/O and acknowledgement Ext. PW-1/R.

10. PW-2 Yadvinder Sharma, testified that Gopal Sharma was executing the cutting work near Shrimata Hanogi Temple, as a result of which, huge damage was caused to Satsang Bhawan, Dispensary, temple and canteen. The damage was caused due to blasting work. No safety measures were taken.

11. PW-3 Jai Ram, testified that he was working as mason in the temple. The cutting work was undertaken in front of the temple. The damage was caused to the Satsang Bhawan, office and temple. After that re-construction work was carried out by the temple authority. He worked as mason.

12. PW-4 T.D.Sharma, testified that he is founder member and patron of plaintiff. According to him, the trust is looking after movable and immovable property of the plaintiff. According to him also, while executing the work, blasting was undertaken. It resulted in damage caused to Satsang Bhawan, kitchen and canteen. He is Civil Engineer by profession. He has retired as Ex. Engineer from H.P. PWD. The estimates of damage were prepared by Pawan Kumar PW-1.

13. Gopal Sharma, DW-1 has testified that in the year 1987, he undertook contract to remove the boulders and loose strata near the temple. he has taken insurance policy from National Insurance Company for Rs.5,00,000/-. He has proved insurance cover note Ext. DB. According to him, if any damage has been caused, it was to be indemnified by the Insurance Company. He executed the work from December 1987 to March 1988. In the year 1988, he also paid a sum of Rs.15,000/- to the plaintiff. He handed over the Insurance Policy to the plaintiff and thereafter no objection certificate Ext. DA was issued by the plaintiff.

14. DW-2 Suresh Patyal, has proved the insurance policy bearing No. 179894. It was valid between 5.12.1987 to 14.5.1988. He also proved on record the terms and conditions vide Ext. PW-5/A.

15. What emerges from the facts enumerated hereinabove is that the work was allotted to Gopal Sharma on 4.12.1987. He has executed the work between December, 1987 to March, 1988. The insurance cover note of policy was duly proved. it was valid between 5.12.1987 to 14.5.1988. The work in question was insured for a sum of Rs. 5,00,000/-, as per Ext. DB dated 5.12.1987. There was privy between the National Insurance Company and defendant No. 1 whereby the Insurance Company had to indemnify defendant No. 1 Gopal Sharma for the damage caused to the plaintiff while executing the work awarded on 4.12.1987.

16. Consequently, there is no merit in this appeal and the same is dismissed, so also the pending application(s), if any.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Union of India and others. …Petitioners.
Versus
Tripta Sharma …Respondent.

CWP No. 2463/2015
Reserved on : 1.5.2015
Decided on: 16.5.2015

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner was an employee of BCB - she was declared surplus and was redeployed to the NSSO (FOD)- she claimed grant of higher pay scale with ACP- Government of India had taken a decision in the year 1986-1987 to afford fresh option to Ex-BCB employees but she was not given a chance to exercise the option- respondent stated that she was placed in Punjab Government pay-scale - similarly situated person had approached Central Administrative Tribunal and the judgment passed by the Tribunal was upheld by the High Court as well as by the Apex Court- held, that similarly situated person should be treated similarly irrespective of the fact that only one person had approached the Court- denying the benefits to the person who had not approached the Court is unjustified. (Para-4 to 6)

Cases referred:
State of Karnataka and others versus C. Lalitha, (2006) 2 SCC 747
K.T. Verrappa and others versus State of Karnataka and others, (2006) 9 SCC 406

For the Petitioners: Mr. Ashok Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India.
For the Respondent: Nemo.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge (oral).

This petition is instituted against the judgment dated 22.7.2014 rendered by the learned Central Administrative Tribunal, Chandigarh Bench, Chandigarh in O.A. No. 332/HP/2012.

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of this petition are that the respondent has filed O.A. No. 332/HP/2012 before the Central Administrative Tribunal, Chandigarh Bench, Chandigarh, being an Ex-BCB employee. She was declared surplus in the year 1984. She was redeployed to the NSSO (FOD) against the post of a Clerk in the pay scale of Rs. 260-400. She sought the grant of pay scale of Rs. 1350-2200 with effect from 1.1.1986 revised to Rs. 4500-7000 with effect from 1.1.1996, including other benefits such as financial upgradation under the ACP scheme in the pay scale of Rs. 5000-8000 (as first upgradation) and Rs. 5500-9000 (as second upgradation) with arrears of pay and allowance with further revision with effect from 1.1.2006 on the recommendations of 6th Pay Commission alongwith interest @ 18% per annum. According to her, the Government of India has taken a decision in the year 1987 to afford fresh option to Ex-BCB employees, who had opted for the Central Pay scales, but she was not given any opportunity to exercise the option. She was not given option even after letter dated 31.3.1992 on the basis of judgment rendered in O.A. No. 159/1987 titled as O.P. Jaswal and others Vs. Union of India and others. She has placed strong reliance on O.A. No. 253/CH/1991, titled as Bharat Bhushan and others vs. Union of India and others decided on 9.2.2011. The DOPT has already given advice on 4.11.2005 to extend the benefit of related judgments even to the non-petitioners. She made a representation in the year 2006. It was decided on 27.9.2006. She again made representation on 19.11.2011. It was rejected on 6.3.2012.

3. The original application was resisted by the petitioners on the ground of limitation. According to the petitioners, respondent has failed to exercise her option. Thus, she was not entitled to the relief.

4. Respondent has become surplus employee in the year 1984 and was redeployed to the NSSO (FOD. She was put up in the pay scale of Rs. 260-400 in the central pay pattern in lieu of Rs. 400-600 of Punjab Government scale of pay in view of her option to switch over to the Central Pay Scale under the provision of O.M. dated 27.2.1985. Similarly situate persons had approached the Central Administrative Tribunal by way of O.A. No.253/CH/1991. It was decided on 9.2.2000. The judgment was upheld by the High Court and also the Apex Court. Case of the respondent was similar to the case filed by Bharat Bhushan and others with only difference that Bharat Bhushan and others were placed in the pay scale of Rs. 510-800 and the respondent was put in the pay scale of Rs. 400-600. Since the respondent was suffering financial loss every month for non-fixation of pay on the basis of Bharat Bhushan's case, the petition could not be stated to be barred by limitation. She has rather continuous cause of action since non-fixation of her pay has also affected her retiral/pensionary benefits. Moreover, the Government of India has also issued instruction on 11.4.2005 to extend the benefits of judgment even to non-petitioners. The petitioners should have granted the benefits to the respondent instead of coercing her to file the original application before the Central Administrative Tribunal. The earlier judgment is rem and not in personam. The benefit could not be denied to the respondent on the ground that she was not party in the earlier lis.

5. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Karnataka and others versus C. Lalitha, (2006) 2 SCC 747 have held that all persons similarly situated should be treated similarly irrespective of the fact that only one person has approached the court. Their Lordships have held as under:

> "29. Service jurisprudence evolved by this Court from time to time postulates that all persons similarly situated should be treated similarly. Only because one person has approached the court that would not mean that persons similarly situated should be treated differently. It is furthermore well-settled that the question of seniority should be governed by the rules. It may be true that this Court took notice of the subsequent events, namely, that in the meantime she had also been promoted as Assistant Commissioner which was a Category I Post but the direction to create a supernumerary post to adjust her must be held to have been issued only with a view to accommodate her therein as otherwise she might have been reverted and not for the purpose of conferring a benefit to which she was not otherwise entitled to."

6. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in K.T. Verrappa and others versus State of Karnataka and others, (2006) 9 SCC 406 have held that grant of revised pay scale to the 23 employees who had earlier approached the High Court but denying the same benefit to appellants similarly placed employees by the University was unjustified. Their Lordships have held as under:

> "9. In the counter-affidavit filed by the State of Karnataka, it is admitted that the Government of Karnataka has revised the pay scales of its employees with effect from 1-1-1977 and this revision was also extended to the employees of the universities, including the University of Mysore, Respondent 2. Grant of benefit of revised pay scales by the University to its 23 employees, who had succeeded in the earlier writ petitions, is admitted. It is stated that the order of the Division Bench impugned in these appeals has only directed the implementation of the first order of the Division Bench in its true spirit. The State, for the first time, has taken wholly untenable stand that pursuant to the order earlier passed by the Division Bench, the action of the University granting pay scales to the 23 employees was not in accordance with the provisions of the Karnataka State Universities Act, 1976 as the pay scales of the employees of the University are to be fixed by framing or amending the existing statute of the University.

16. The defence of the State Government that as the appellants were not the petitioners in the writ petition filed by 23 employees of the respondent University to whom the benefit of revised pay scales was granted by the Court, the appellants are estopped from raising their claim of revised pay scales in the year 1992-94, is wholly unjustified, patently irrational, arbitrary and discriminatory. As noticed in the earlier part of this judgment, revised pay scales were given to those 23 employees in the year 1991 when the contempt proceedings were initiated against the Vice-Chancellor and the Registrar of the University of Mysore. The benefits having been given to 23 employees of the University in compliance with the decision dated 21-6-1989 recorded by the learned Single Judge in WPs Nos. 21487-506 of 1982, it was expected that without resorting to any of the methods the other employees identically placed, including the appellants, would have been given the same benefits, which would have avoided not only unnecessary litigation but also the movement of files and papers which only waste public time."

7. Accordingly, there is no merit in the present petition and the same is dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, also stands disposed of. No costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Vinay Bodh. …Plaintiff

Versus

Smt. Dolekar & others …Defendants

Civil Suit No. 56 of 2006.
Reserved on: 16.4.2015.
Date of decision: May 16, 2015.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Section 20- Plaintiff sought specific performance of the contract by execution of a sale deed, cancellation of the sale deed executed by defendant No. 1 in favour of defendants No. 2 and 3 and cancellation of subsequent sale deed executed by defendants No. 2 and 3 in favour of defendant No. 4- defendant No. 1 stated that she had taken friendly loan from the plaintiff and had executed sale agreement as per past practice – this agreement was not to be acted upon and was executed towards security for securing the repayment of the loan- defendants No. 2 to 4 claimed that they were bonafide purchasers for consideration- defendant No. 1 examined only herself to prove her assertion, any custom, usage or practice is required to be established by leading cogent and convincing evidence - the plea of the defendants No. 2 and 3 that they were bonafide purchasers for consideration was not proved while the plea of the defendant No. 4 that he was bona fide purchaser for consideration was proved, therefore, plaintiff cannot be held entitled for the decree of specific performance and cancellation- plaintiff granted the relief of the refund of entire sale consideration along with interest @ 18% per annum. (Para-7 to 23)

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 34- Interest is in the nature of the compensation for the loss of money by one who is entitled to the same. (Para-18 to 22)

Cases referred:
Secretary, Irrigation Department, Government of Orissa and others versus G.C.Roy (1992) 1 SCC 508
Riches versus Westminster Bank Ltd., 1947 AC 390 : (1947) 1 All ER 469 (HL)
CIT versus Dr.Sham Lal Narula AIR 1963 Punj 411
Dr.Sham Lal Narula versus CIT, AIR 1964 SC 1878

For the Plaintiff: Mr.Sunil Mohan Goel, Advocate.
For the Defendants: Mr.Atul Jhingan, Advocate, for defendant No. 1.
Mr. K.D. Sood, Senior Advocate with Ms. Ranjana Chauhan, Advocate, for defendants No.2 and 3.
Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Advocate, for defendant No. 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge.

The plaintiff has filed the present suit claiming therein the following reliefs:-

"(i) Pass a decree for specific performance of the contract dated 27.9.2005, directing the defendant No. 1, to execute a legal valid and proper sale deed in favour of the plaintiff and to get the same registered in the office of Sub Registrar Manali in respect of land comprised in Khatauni No. 308(old) 505/660 (new) Khasra No. 686 measuring 0-07-23 hectares alongwith two houses as detailed in agreement to sell in village Shuru, Phati Prini, Kothi Jagatsukh Tehsil Manali District Kullu.

(ii) To cancel sale deed executed and registered on 25.11.2005 by defendant No. 1 in favour of defendants No. 2 & 3 and declaring the same null and void and not binding upon the rights of parties.

(iii) To cancel subsequent sale deed executed and registered on 29.9.2006, by defendant No. 2 & 3 in favour of defendant No. 4 and declare the same null and void and not binding upon the rights of the plaintiff.

(iv) To grant damages to the tune of Rs.20,00,000/- to the plaintiff against the defendants jointly and severally as also in the alternative the refund of entire sale consideration i.e. Rs.15,00,000/- with interest.

(v) To grant injunction in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants restraining them from transferring, alienating, mortgage the demised property to make any addition or alterations or change the nature of the same or lease out the same to any third party or encumber the said demised property in any manner till the final disposal of the suit.

(vi) Any other equitable relief in addition to relief of specific performance which this Hon'ble Court deems fit just and equitable in the facts and circumstances of the case in the interest of justice"

2. The facts as pleaded in the plaint are that the plaintiff is permanent resident of village Bhuntar, Phati & Kothi Khokan Tehsil and District Kullu and is a bonafide Himachali and is an agriculturist within the meaning of H.P. Tenancy & Land Reforms Act, 1972. Defendant No. 1 is resident of village Shuru, Phati Prini, Kothi Jagatsukh, Tehsil Manali District Kullu and was well known to the plaintiff. She wanted to sell her land and house standing thereupon and after negotiations, defendant No. 1 agreed to sell the two houses along with land comprised in Khewat No. 308(old) 505/660 (new), Khasra No. 3201/2665 (old) now Khasra No.686 (new), measuring 0-07-23 hectares. An agreement to sell was entered into by the parties on 27.9.2005, on which date the plaintiff paid full sale consideration of Rs.15,00,000/-. In terms of this agreement time for defendant No. 1 to remove her personal belongings was given and the sale deed was agreed to be executed before or latest by 31st March, 2006. Defendant No.1 encashed the cheque on 1.10.2005, but thereafter when the plaintiff contacted her and requested her to execute the sale deed in his favour and deliver physical possession of the demised premises, as agreed to be sold, defendant No.1 kept evading the matter on one pretext or the other and stated that she would get the sale deed executed well before 31st March, 2006. Even on 31st March, 2006, defendant No. 1 failed to appear in the office of Sub Registrar, though the plaintiff reached there at 10:00 A.M. and remained there till 4.30 P.M. An affidavit evidencing the presence of the plaintiff was got attested on 31.3.2006 before the Executive Magistrate, Manali. The plaintiff thereafter contacted defendant No. 1 who still assured him that she would get the sale deed executed and it was only on account of certain unavoidable circumstances that she was compelled to remain at Chandigarh. When defendant No. 1 despite a passage of time failed to execute the sale deed, the plaintiff got a legal notice dated 31.8.2006 served upon defendant No.1, both on her residential address in Tehsil Manali as also the address at Chandigarh. But these notices were received back undelivered. It is then averred that the plaintiff came to know that defendant No.1 had got executed a sale deed and got the same registered in favour of defendants No. 2 and 3 on 25.11.2005 of the same property in the office of Sub Registrar, Manali for a sale consideration of Rs.20,00,000/-. This sale deed was stated to be illegal, void and not binding upon the rights of the plaintiff. It is thereafter averred that defendants No. 2 and 3 after realizing that the sale deed executed in their favour by defendant No. 1 was likely to be cancelled being illegal and void, sold the suit land to defendant No. 4 vide sale deed dated 29.9.2006 for a sale consideration of Rs.20,00,000/-. The plaintiff states that he was ready and willing to perform his part of contract and is still ready and willing to perform his part of contract and even has sufficient funds with him for purchase of stamp papers. It is lastly claimed that the suit is within time, since the cause of action has arisen on 27.9.2005. It is in this background that the present suit has been filed claiming therein the reliefs as mentioned herein above.

3. Defendant No.1 resisted the suit of the plaintiff by filing written statement, wherein preliminary objections regarding the form of suit as also the plaintiff being suppressio veri and suggestio falsi were raised. On merits, specific defence of defendant No. 1 is that she had sought a friendly loan from the plaintiff and as per general practice had executed a sale agreement with him. The sale agreement was not to be acted upon and was actually executed towards security for securing the loan amount. It was implied that the suit land would remain in possession and ownership of defendant No. 1 and as and when the loan amount would be retuned, the sale agreement would be destroyed and not acted upon. Defendant No. 1 did not deny the receipt of notice, but averred that since she was unable to pay the plaintiff friendly loan, she was constrained to sell the suit land in favour of defendants No. 2 and 3 for a sale consideration of Rs.20,00,000/- vide sale deed dated 25.11.2005. Defendants No. 2 and 3 were made fully aware of the fact that the land was being sold, so that defendant No. 1 could repay back the money to the plaintiff. Defendants No. 2 and 3 agreed to purchase the land and undertook to indemnify defendant No. 1 from any claims or litigations, if initiated by the plaintiff with respect to the suit property.

4. Defendants No.2 and 3 have filed separate written statement and have claimed themselves to be bonafide purchasers for consideration, having no knowledge regarding any agreement having been entered into between the plaintiff and defendant No.1. It is claimed that the property in dispute had been agreed to be sold by defendant No.

1 in pursuance to the agreement to sell dated 25.5.2005 for a sale consideration of Rs.20,00,000/-, which sale deed was executed and registered in their favour on 25.11.2005. The suit property was purchased jointly by defendants, but owing to differences between them, they chose to dispose of the property in favour of defendant No. 4 for a sale consideration of Rs.20,00,000/- on 29.9.2006. Neither defendants No. 2 and 3 nor defendant No. 4 was ever aware of any agreement having been entered into between the plaintiff and defendant No. 1 and therefore, claimed that they were bonafide purchasers for consideration.

5. Defendant No. 4 filed separate written statement, wherein she claimed to be a bonafide purchaser for consideration, as she had no knowledge of any agreement having been entered into between the plaintiff and defendant No. 1.

6. On 28.3.2008, this Court framed the following issues:-

"(1) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to a decree for specific performance of the agreement to sell dated 27.9.2005 executed by defendant No. 1 qua suit property as described in the plaint? …OPP.

(2) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the other reliefs, as prayed for, namely, damages to the extent of Rs.20 lacs and refund of the entire sale consideration of Rs.15 lacs or any other amount, as prayed for? …OPP.

(3) Whether the plaintiff is entitled for a decree declaring the sale deed executed and registered on 25.11.2005 by defendant No. 1 in favour of defendants No. 2 and 3 to be null and void and not binding on the interest of plaintiff? …Onus of proof on plaintiff, defendants 1, 2 and 3

(4) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to a decree declaring the sale deed registered on 29.9.2006 by defendants No. 2 and 3 in favour of defendant No. 4 to be null and void and inoperative on the rights of the plaintiff?

…Onus of proof on the parties.

(5) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendants from transferring, alienating, encumbering or mortgaging the suit property? ….OPP.

(6) Whether the plaint as filed is neither competent not maintainable, as alleged? …OPD-1.

(7) Whether the plaintiff is guilty of suppressio veri and suggestio falsi, as alleged? …OPD-1.

(Both issues objected to by learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff on the ground that complete particulars as required by Order 6 Rule 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure have not been given).

(8) Whether the amount of Rs.15 lacs was paid as sale consideration by the plaintiff to the defendant or was in the nature of a land, as alleged? …OPD-1.

(9) Whether defendants No. 2 and 3 had knowledge of the fact that a valid agreement to sell to the suit property had been executed between the plaintiff and defendant No. 1 such knowledge having been imparted by defendant No. 1 as alleged? ….OPD-1.

(10) Whether defendants No. 2 and 3 had agreed with defendant No. 1 that they would be responsible for any litigation/suit which may be brought against defendant No. 1 and would defend the same at very risk, costs and consequences? …OPD-1.

> (11) Whether defendants No. 2 and 3 are bonafide purchaser of the suit property for a consideration of Rs.20 lacs, as alleged? …OPD-2 & 3.
>
> (12) Whether defendant No. 4 is the bonafide purchaser of the property for valuable consideration, as alleged? …OPD-4.
>
> (13) Relief."

ISSUES NO. 6 & 7.

7. No evidence in support of these issues was led by defendant No.1 apparently because the objections are legal one. However, even the pleadings are wholly deficient and defendant No.1 has failed to establish how the plaint was neither competent nor maintainable, save and except for these bald averments, there is nothing on record to substantiate this plea. Accordingly, these issues are decided against defendant No.1.

ISSUE NO. 8.

8. The defendant No. 1 in order to prove this issue has examined herself as DW-1 and has stated that she is an illiterate and had entered into an agreement with the plaintiff, which was executed on 27th September, 2005. She had taken a loan of Rs.15,00,000/- from the plaintiff. She had no intention to sell the land and the house and the same was only kept as security against the aforesaid loan. After the payment of loan amount she was to get back the land and the house. The loan amount was required to be paid within 4-5 months but when the plaintiff began demanding the amount even before the date, she went to defendant No. 2, Nimat Ram, who is her husband's friend and showed him the agreement and told him that she had to pay the plaintiff Rs.15,00,000/-. Defendant No. 2 told her that he would make the payment to plaintiff and that she should transfer the land and the house in his name. Defendant No. 2 neither made the payment to the plaintiff nor to her. She further states that she had transferred the land and house in the name of defendant No.2 by registered sale deed and had borne the expenses of stamp papers and registration charges. Prior to this sale deed no agreement was executed between her and Nimat Ram and Balak Ram, defendants. After seeing agreement Ex.D-1, she denied that the same contained her signatures at E-1 and E-2 respectively. She specifically denied having received the consideration amount from Sh.Nimat Ram.

9. The defendant No.1 save and except for this bald and uncorroborated statement has led no other evidence to prove this issue. It is more than settled that any custom, usage or practice is required to be established and proved by leading cogent and convincing evidence. Having failed to do so, this issue is decided against defendant No.1.

ISSUES NO. 9 & 10.

10. The defendant No.1 has led no evidence whatsoever in support of these issues and, therefore, the issues are decided against the defendant No.1.

ISSUE NO. 11.

11. The defendants No.2 and 3 have filed common written statement wherein it has been alleged that they jointly bought the property in dispute in pursuance to the agreement to sell dated 25.05.2005. But, when defendant No.3 appeared in the witness box as DW-3 he has nowhere stated that the agreement dated 25.05.2005 had been executed jointly by defendants No.2 and 3 with defendant No.1 rather he claims that the agreement was executed by him with defendant No.1 on 25.05.2005. Similarly, when defendant No.2 entered into the witness box as DWR/1 he has stated that he had entered into an agreement with defendant No.1 vide agreement Ex.D-1. Nowhere in his statement he makes a mention of defendant No.3 or that this agreement was jointly executed by him alongwith defendant No.3. Thus, the agreement dated 25.05.2005 Ex.D-1 has not at all been proved on record.

Now in case the agreement dated 25.05.2005 is ignored, then it was the agreement of the plaintiff Ex.P-2 which was prior in point of time. No evidence has been led by defendants No.2 and 3 to show that they were bonafide purchasers of the suit property. Accordingly, this issue is decided against defendants No.2 and 3.

ISSUE NO.12.

12. Though the defendant No.4 has not appeared in the witness box, however, her husband Pawan Kumar has appeared as DW-4/1. In examination in chief, he has stated that he is the Power of Attorney holder of defendant No.4 and placed on record its original Ex.DW-4-1/A. He states that the land and building was purchased by defendant No.4 from defendants 2 and 3 vide sale deed Ex.P-12 dated 29.09.2006. He goes on to state that prior to entering into sale deed, he alongwith his wife had checked the revenue records and had found that the defendants 2 and 3 were the recorded owners of the land. Defendants No.2 and 3 were not only in possession of the title deed, but even the mutation in the revenue records had been attested in their favour. He states that he alongwith his wife and children are now in possession of the property which they had purchased for a sale consideration of Rs.20,00,000/-.

13. In cross-examination by defendant No.1, this witness has stated that before purchasing the property, his wife had conducted an inquiry in the local area. He denied the suggestion that the plaintiff and defendant No.1 had informed her prior to execution of the sale deed Ex.P-12 that the property was already under an agreement to sell in favour of the plaintiff.

14. In cross-examination by the plaintiff, the witness states that he is residing both at Delhi and Manali. He admitted his address as given in the plaint to be correct. He further stated that his wife before marriage was a resident of Bhunter and after filing of the suit he came to know that even the plaintiff was a resident of Bhunter. He denied the suggestion that his wife was knowing the plaintiff before the property had been purchased by her. He states that the sale deed executed in favour of defendant No.1 was also inspected by him at the Tehsil Office. He denied the suggestion that he was aware of the agreement to sell between the plaintiff and defendant No.1 and clarified that the defendants 2 and 3 were introduced to him by one friend Rupesh, who negotiated the deal.

15. Thus, from the statement of DW-4/1, it is proved beyond reasonable doubt that defendant No.4 is a bonafide purchaser of property for a valuable consideration as he has virtually not been cross-examined on any material aspects with regard to either the sale or its consideration and even his bonafides either by the plaintiff or defendant No.1. The issue is decided accordingly.

ISSUES NOs.1,3,4 & 5.

16. These issues are inter-connected and are, therefore, taken up together for consideration. As the defendant No.4 has proved on record that she is a bonafide purchaser for consideration, therefore, the plaintiff cannot be held entitled to a decree for specific performance of the agreement to sell dated 27.09.2005. It is for this precise reason that the plaintiff cannot be held entitled for a decree of declaration that the sale deed executed and registered on 25.11.2005 by defendant No.1 in favour of defendants No.2 and 3 be declared as null and void and not binding on the interest of the plaintiff. Similarly, the plaintiff cannot also be held entitled to a decree declaring the sale deed registered on 29.09.2006 by defendants 2 and 3 in favour of defendant No.4 to be null and void and inoperative on the rights of the plaintiff. Now, once the plaintiff cannot be accorded the aforesaid declaration, therefore, he also cannot be held entitled to the decree for permanent prohibitory injunction. Accordingly, all these issues are answered against the plaintiff.

ISSUE NO.2.

17. The plaintiff has duly proved on record that he had paid a sum of Rs.15,00,000/- to defendant No.1. However, since defendant No.4 has simultaneously proved on record that she is a bonafide purchaser for a consideration and also in possession of the suit land, therefore, the suit of the plaintiff for specific performance though cannot be decreed, but then the plaintiff cannot be deprived of his right to claim this amount of Rs.15,00,000/-.

18. Since the plaintiff has been deprived of the use of money to which he is entitled, he has a right to be compensated for the deprivation, whether it be by interest, compensation or damages. A Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Secretary, Irrigation Department, Government of Orissa and others versus G.C.Roy (1992) 1 SCC 508, held that:-

> "43...(i) A person deprived of the use of money to which he is legitimately entitled has a right to be compensated for the deprivation, call it by any name. It may be called interest, compensation or damages. This basic consideration is as valid for the period the dispute is pending before the arbitrator as it is for the period prior to the arbitrator entering upon the reference. This is the principle of Section 34, Civil Procedure Code and there is no reason or principle to hold otherwise in the case of arbitrator."

19. Black's Law Dictionary (7th Edition) defines 'interest' inter alia as:

> '3. The compensation fixed by agreement or allowed by law for the use or detention of money, or for the loss of money by one who is entitled to its use; especially, the amount owed to a lender in return for the use of [the] borrowed money.'

20. According to Stroud's Judicial Dictionary of Words And Phrases (5th Edition) interest means, inter alia, compensation paid by the borrower to the lender for deprivation of the use of his money.

21. The essence of interest in the opinion of Lord Wright, in Riches versus Westminster Bank Ltd., 1947 AC 390 : (1947) 1 All ER 469 (HL) (AC at p.400: All ER at p.472-E-F) is that:-

> '.....it is a payment which becomes due because the creditor has not had his money at the due date. It may be regarded either as representing the profit he might have made if he had had the use of the money, or conversely the loss he suffered because he had not that use. The general idea is that he is entitled to compensation for the deprivation';
>
> the money due to the creditor was not paid, or, in other words,
>
> 'was withheld from him by the debtor after the time when payment should have been made, in breach of his legal rights, and interest was a compensation, whether the compensation was liquidated under an agreement or statute'.

22. At this stage, it may be relevant to note that the following observations made by a Division Bench of the High Court of Punjab in CIT versus Dr.Sham Lal Narula AIR 1963 Punj 411 on the concept of 'interest' were duly approved by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dr.Sham Lal Narula versus CIT, AIR 1964 SC 1878, in an appeal preferred against this decision and it was held as under:-

> "8. The words "interest" and "compensation" are sometimes used interchangeably and on other occasions they have distinct connotation.

> "Interest" in general terms is the return or compensation for the use or retention by one person of a sum of money belonging to or owed to another. In its narrow sense, "interest" is understood to mean the amount which one has contracted to pay for use of borrowed money……
>
> In whatever category "interest" in a particular case may be put, it is a consideration paid either for the use of money or for forbearance in demanding it, after it has fallen due, and thus, it is a charge for the use or forbearance of money. In this sense, it is a compensation allowed by law or fixed by parties, or permitted by custom or usage, for use of money, belonging to another, or for the delay in paying money after it has become payable."

23. Though, plaintiff has claimed damages to the extent of Rs.20,00,000/-, apart from refund of the entire sale consideration of Rs.15,00,000/-. But, I find no basis upon which the plaintiff has laid such a claim. The ends of justice would subserve if the plaintiff is granted refund of the entire sale consideration of Rs.15,00,000/- with interest at the rate of 18% per annum to be paid by defendant No.1. The issue is accordingly answered.

Relief.

24. In view of my issues-wise findings recorded hereinabove, the suit of the plaintiff is decreed to the extent that he is held entitled to the refund of entire sale consideration of Rs.15,00,000/- and is further held entitled to an interest thereupon at the rate of 18% per annum with effect from the date of execution of the agreement i.e. 27.09.2005 till the time the same is not paid by the defendant No.1. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. Parties are left to bear their costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

Jyoti Kumari & ors. ……Petitioners.
Versus
The Secretary Education & anr. …….Respondents.

CWP No. 2958 of 2009.
Reserved on: 15.5.2015.
Decided on: 18.5.2015.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Names of the petitioners were sponsored by District Employment Officer, Hamirpur, for interview to the post of TGT (Med.) under the quota reserved for wards of ex-servicemen- petitioners were not interviewed on the ground that married daughters were not eligible to get the benefit- held, that son of ex-serviceman was eligible for consideration as the ward of ex-servicemen, even though he is married, however, the daughters were not being considered to be the wards of ex-servicemen- this amounted to discrimination on the basis of sex and is violative of the constitution- it has no nexus with the object sought to be achieved – petition allowed and respondents directed to interview the petitioners for the advertised post. (Para-2 to 5)

Cases referred:

Savita Samvedi (Ms) and another versus Union of India and others, (1996) 2 SCC 380
C.B. Muthamma, I.F.S. versus Union of India and others, (1979) 4 SCC 260

For the petitioners: Mr. Nitin Thakur, Advocate, vice Mr. J.R.Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Parmod Thakur, Addl. AG with Mr. Neeraj Sharma, Dy. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

The petitioners are wards of ex-servicemen. Their names were sponsored by the District Employment Officer, Hamirpur, for interview to the post of TGT (Med.) under the quota reserved for wards of ex-servicemen. They were issued call letters for batch-wise interview for the post of TGT (Med.), vide Annexure P-1. The petitioners were to be interviewed w.e.f. 31.7.2009 to 1.8.2009. However, the date was later on shifted to 5.8.2009. The fact of the matter is that the petitioners were not interviewed on the basis of the note appended to Annexure P-1 to the effect that married daughters were not eligible to get the benefit under the ward of ex-servicemen. There is reference to Annexure R-1 dated 22.2.2003, whereby the married daughters cannot be considered as dependent on ex-servicemen for employment against quota reserved for ex-servicemen.

2. The action of the respondents of not considering the petitioners as wards of ex-servicemen, is wholly unreasonable and arbitrary. There is discrimination on the basis of sex. The son of ex-serviceman is eligible to be considered for the quota under the category "wards of ex-servicemen" even though married, but not the married daughters. It is violative of Articles 14, 15 and 16 of the Constitution of India. There is no nexus with the object sought to be achieved by incorporating the note appended to Annexure P-1 read with Annexure R-1 dated 22.2.2003. The primary object to provide employment to wards of ex-servicemen is to recognize the outstanding services rendered by the ex-servicemen to the Nation and also to ensure that the children who suffers due to long absence of his/her father are given benefit towards employment by making reservation to them under the category of "wards of ex-servicemen". The daughter, even if married, would be eligible for public employment under the category "wards of ex-servicemen". She would be considered by legal fiction dependent upon her father, if she gets married.

3. In a similar situation, their Lordships of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Savita Samvedi (Ms) and another versus Union of India and others, (1996) 2 SCC 380 have held as under (paras 5 to 10):-

> "5. As is obvious from the plain reading of the Circular, the married daughter of a retiring official is eligible to obtain regularization if her retiring father has no son. She thus has a foothold, not to be dubbed as an outcaste outright. In case he has a son, she shall not be in a position to do so, unless he is unable to maintain the parents, e.g. like a minor son, but then she should be the only person who is prepared to maintain her parents. It is thus plain that a married daughter is not altogether debarred from obtaining regularization of a railway quarter, but her right is dependent on contingencies. The authorities concerned as also the Central Administrative Tribunal seemed to have overlooked the important and predominant factor that a married daughter would be entitled to regularization only if she is a railway employee as otherwise, she by mere relationship with the retiring official, is not entitled to regularization. Logically it would lead to the conclusion that the presence of a son or sons, able or unable to maintain the parents, would again have to be railway employees before they can oust the claim of the married daughter. We are not for the moment holding that they would be capable of doing so just because of being males in gender. Only on literal interpretation of the Circular, does such a result follow, undesirable though.

6. A common saying is worth pressing into service to blunt somewhat the Circular. It is > "A son is a son untill he gets a wife. A daughter is a daughter throughout her life."

7. The retiring official's expectations in old age for care and attention and its measure from one of his children cannot he faulted, or his hopes dampened, by limiting his choice. That would be unfair and unreasonable. If he was only one married daughter, who is a railway employee, and none of his other children are, then his choice is and has to be limited to that railway employee married daughter. He should be in an unfettered position to nominate that daughter for regularization of railway accommodation. It is only in the case of more than one children in Railway service that he may have to exercise a choice and we see no reason why the choice be not left with the retiring official's judgment on the point and be not respected by the railways authorities irrespective of the gender of the child. There is no occasion for the railways to be regulating or bludgeoning the choice in favour of the son when existing and able to maintain his parents. The railway Ministry's Circular in that regard appears thus to us to be wholly unfair, gender biased and unreasonable, liable to be struck down under Article of the Constitution. The eligibility of a married daughter must be placed at par with an unmarried daughter (for she must have been once in that state), so as to claim the benefit of the earlier part of the Circular, referred to in its first paragraph, above-quoted.

8. The Tribunal took the view that when the Circular dated 11.8.1992 had itself not specifically been impugned before it and ex-facie the conditions contained in the said Circular had not been satisfied in the present case, no relief need be given to the appellants. The Tribunal viewed that when there were two major sons of the second appellant, gainfully employed, the fact that they were not railway employees, not residing in Delhi, did not alter the situation that the terms of the Circular dated 11.8.1992 had not been satisfied, under which alone regularization was permissible. As brought about before, the Tribunal overlooked this aspect that the Circular was meant only to enlist the eligibles, who could claim regularization, but the important condition of one being a railway employee had to be satisfied before claim could be laid. In the instant case, the first appellant, on that basis, alone was eligible (subject to gender disqualification going). So the second appellant could exercise his choice/option in her favour to retain the accommodation, obligating the railway authorities to regularise the quarter in her favour, subject of course to the fulfillment of other conditions prescribed. The error being manifest is hereby corrected, holding the first appellant in the facts and circumstances to be the sole eligible for regularization of the quarter.

9. It was also pointed out before us that the Central Administrative Tribunal, Bombay Bench in one of its decisions in OA 314 of 1990 decided on 12.2.1992 (Ann. P-8) relying upon its own decision in Ms. Ambika R. Nair and another vs. Union of India and others (T.A. No. 467 of 1986) in which the earlier Circular of the railway board dated 27.12.1982 had been questioned, held that the same to be unconstitutional per se as it suffered from the twin vices of gender discrimination and discrimination inter se among women on account of marriage. We have also come to the same view that the instant case is of gender discrimination and therefore should be and is hereby brought in accord with Article 14 of the Constitution. The Circular shall be taken to have been read down the deemed to have been read in this manner from its initiation in favour of the married daughter as one of the eligibles, subject, amongst others, to the twin conditions that she is (i) a railway employee; and (ii) the retiring official has exercised the choice in her favour for regularization. It is so ordered.

10. For the reasons stated above, this appeal is allowed and direction is issued to the respondents to grant regularization of the quarter in favour of the first appellant with effect from the date of retirement of the second appellant and regulate/re-adjust the charges on account of house rent accordingly. There shall be no order as to costs."

4. Their Lordships of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Miss C.B. Muthamma, I.F.S. versus Union of India and others, (1979) 4 SCC 260 have held that sex-discrimination in service Rules would be unconstitutional unless justified by the peculiarities and nature of the employment. Their Lordships have held as under (paras 4 to 7):-

"What is more manifest as misogynist in the Foreign Service is the persistence of two rules which have been extracted in the petition. Rule 8(2) of the Indian Foreign Service (Conduct & Discipline) Rules, 1961, unblushingly reads:

"Rule 8(2) : In cases where sub-rule (1) does not apply, a woman member of the service shall obtain the per- 671 mission of the Government in writing before her marriage is solemnized. At any time after the marriage, a woman member of the Service may be required to resign from service, if the Government is satisfied that her family and domestic commitments are likely to come in the way of the due and efficient discharge of her duties as a member of the service."

Discrimination against women, in traumatic transparency, is found in this rule. If a woman member shall obtain the permission of government before she marries, the same risk is run by government if a male member contracts a marriage. If the family and domestic commitments of a woman member of the Service is likely to come in the way of efficient discharge of duties, a similar situation may well arise in the case of a male member. In these days of nuclear families, inter-continental marriages and unconventional behaviour, one fails to understand the naked bias against the gentler of the species. Rule 18 of the Indian Foreign Service (Recruitment Cadre, Seniority and Promotion) Rules, 1961, run in the same prejudicial strain:

(1)…………

(2)………….

(3)………….

(4) No married woman shall be entitled as of right to be appointed to the service."

At the first blush this rule is in defiance of Article 16. If a married man has a right, a married woman, other things being equal, stands on no worse footing. This misogynous posture is a hangover of the masculine culture of manacling the weaker sex forgetting how our struggle for national freedom was also a battle against woman's thraldom. Freedom is indivisible, so is Justice. That our founding faith enshrined in Articles 14 and 16 should have been tragically ignored vis-a-vis half of India's humanity, viz., our women, is a sad reflection on the distance between Constitution in the book and Law in Action. And if the Executive as the surrogate of Parliament, makes rules in the teeth of Part III, especially when high political office, even diplomatic assignment has been filled by women, the inference of die-hard allergy to gender parity is inevitable.

We do not mean to universalise or dogmatise that men and women are equal in all occupations and all situations and do not exclude the need to pragmatise where the requirements of particular employment, the sensitivities of sex or the peculiarities of societal sectors or the 672 handicaps of either sex may compel selectivity. But save where the differentiation is demonstrable, the rule of equality must govern. This creed of our Constitution has at last told on our governmental mentation, perhaps partly pressured by the pendency of this very writ petition. In the counter affidavit, it is stated that Rule 18(4) (referred to earlier) has been deleted on November 12, 1973. And, likewise, the Central Government's affidavit avers that Rule 8(2) is on its way to oblivion since its deletion is being gazetted. Better late than never. At any rate, we are relieved of the need to scrutinise or strike down these rules.”

5. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed. Note appended to Annexure P-1 on the basis of Annexure R-1 dated 22.2.2003, is quashed and set aside. The respondents are directed to interview the petitioners for the post of TGT(Med.), against their respective batch and to issue appointment letters to them with all consequential benefits within six weeks. Pending application(s), if any shall stand disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON’BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J. AND HON’BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

CWP Nos.8738, 8916, 9002, 9003 of 2014,
1379, 1380 and 1928 of 2015.
Date of decision: 18.05.2015

CWP No.8738 of 2014

Lal Chand Prasad ……Petitioner
Versus
State of H.P. and others ….. Respondents

CWP No.8916 of 2014

Ramesh Kumar Joshi ……Petitioner
Versus
State of H.P. and others ….. Respondents

CWP No.9002 of 2014

Ashwani Kumar Kapila ……Petitioner
Versus
HIMUDA and another ….. Respondents

CWP No.9003 of 2014

Jagat Ram Azad ......Petitioner

Versus

HIMUDA and another ..... Respondents

CWP No.1379 of 2015

Y.S. Thakur ......Petitioner

Versus

State of H.P. and another ..... Respondents

CWP No.1380 of 2015

Lal Chand Chauhan ......Petitioner

Versus

State of H.P. and others ..... Respondents

CWP No.1928 of 2015

Nirmala ......Petitioner

Versus

State of H.P. and others ..... Respondents

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- State Government had granted extension of one year of service to some of the employees- extension was withdrawn subsequently by the State- held, that policy was promulgated by the State Government in exercise of executive powers and the Policy was withdrawn by exercising the same power and authority – it was specifically mentioned in the policy that it was conditional and could be withdrawn at any stage - once employee accepted the extension in terms of policy, he cannot complain, however, it is directed that any adverse remarks will not affect the petitioners and such remarks are expunged. (Para-5 to 11)

For the petitioner(s): M/s Bipin Negi, J.L. Bhardwaj, Dinesh Bhanot, Archana Dutt, R.S. Gautam and Ajay Vaidya, Advocates.

For the respondents: Mr.Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General, with Mr.Romesh Verma and Mr.Anup Rattan, Addl.A.Gs., and Mr.J.K. Verma, Dy.A.G., for the respondents/State.

Mr.Rajnish Maniktala, Advocate, for respondents No.2 and 3 in CWP No.8738 of 2014.

Mr.Bhupender Pathania, Advocate, for respondent No.2 in CWP No.1379 of 2015.

Mr.C.N. Singh, Advocate, for the respondent/HIMUDA.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (oral)

These writ petitions are the outcome of a conditional Policy promulgated by the respondent-State, whereby extension of one year in service was granted to some of the employees.

2. The State Government has now withdrawn the said Policy.

3. In some of the writ petitions, the petitioners have questioned the action of the respondent-Authorities, whereby extension in service was not granted in their favour and in some of the writ petitions, the petitioners have challenged the cancellation of the extension orders, while in some of the writ petitions, the petitioners have challenged the notification whereby the said Policy has been withdrawn.

4. The moot question is – Whether the writ petitions are maintainable?

5. The writ petitions are not maintainable for the reason that the Policy was promulgated by the State Government by exercising executive powers and the Policy has been withdrawn by exercising the same power and authority. Thus, the petitioners are not within their rights to question the action of the State Government of withdrawing the said Policy.

6. A perusal of the Policy notified vide notification, dated 28th May, 2014, clearly shows that the same was conditional and could be withdrawn at any stage. It is apt to reproduce the last clause of the Policy hereunder:

> "(iv) The extension in service will be subject to satisfaction of the State Government and the State Government may withdraw the extension given at any stage."

7. While going through the above clause, the State Government was within its power to withdraw the extension at any stage. Once the employee accepted the extension in terms of the said Policy, cannot blow hot and cold in the same breath.

8. The Government has withdrawn the said Policy and also passed the cancellation orders by exercising the power vested in it. Therefore, all the writ petitions have become infructuous.

9. Having said so, the writ petitions are not maintainable.

10. The learned counsel for the petitioners in CWP Nos.1379 and 1380 of 2015 have submitted that while withdrawing/denying the extension granted in favour of the petitioners, the respondents have made some adverse remarks, which are adversely affecting the petitioners. Therefore, it is made clear that any such observation shall not affect the petitioners in any way, and rather, the same are expunged.

11. With these observations, all the writ petitions are disposed of. However, the petitioners are at liberty to seek appropriate remedy, if any, available.

12. Pending CMPs, if any, also stand disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Cr.M.P.(M) No. 395 of 2015 with Cr.M.P.(M) Nos. 396, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 402, 403 of 2015.
Reserved on 15.5.2015.
Date of decision: 18.5.2015

1. Cr.M.P.(M) No. 395 of 2015

Nikhil …Petitioner

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh. …Respondent

2. Cr.M.P.(M) No. 396 of 2015

Vishal …Petitioner

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh. …Respondent

3. Cr.M.P.(M) No. 397 of 2015
Sandeep alias Kaku ...Petitioner
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh ...Respondent
4. Cr.M.P.(M) No. 398 of 2015
Sunil ...Petitioner
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh. ...Respondent
5. Cr.M.P.(M) No. 399 of 2015
Dalip Singh ...Petitioner
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh. ...Respondent
6. Cr.M.P.(M) No. 400 of 2015
Pardeep Kumar alias Ritu ...Petitioner
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh. ...Respondent
7. Cr.M.P.(M) No. 401 of 2015
Devinder ...Petitioner
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh. ...Respondent
8.Cr.M.P.(M) No. 402 of 2015
Prince Mohan ...Petitioner
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh. ...Respondent
9. Cr.M.P.(M) No. 403 of 2015
Man Singh ...Petitioner
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh. ...Respondent

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- An FIR was registered against the petitioners for the commission of offences punishable under Sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 323, 354, 364, 436, 452 and 506 IPC- held that in case a person is suspected of a crime of an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life, there must be ground to negate the existence of reasonable grounds for believing that such a person is guilty of an offence punishable with sentence of death or imprisonment for life - Court must record reasons for prima facie concluding as to how bail was granted- the heinous nature of the crime warrants more caution and there is a greater chance of rejection of bail- mere fact that accused surrendered themselves will not entitle them to bail- investigation is at initial stage- many accused are yet to be arrested- release at this stage would be a serious threat to the peace and tranquility as well as threat to the safety of the complainant and her family members- release at this stage will also affect the investigation- application dismissed. (Para-10 to 22)

Cases referred:

Ash Mohammad Vs. Shiv Raj Singh, (2012) 9 SCC 446
Ram Govind Upadhyay Vs. Sudarshan Singh and others, (2002) 3 SCC 598
Dwarku Devi Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh 2014 (2) Shim. LC 882

For the Petitioner(s): Mr.Ajay Kochar, Advocate with Mr.Vivek Sharma, Advocate.

For the Respondent: Mr.V.K. Verma, Ms.Meenakshi Sharma, Mr.Rupinder Singh, Additional Advocate Generals.
Mr.Munish Dhadwal, HPS, Dy. S.P./SDPO, Chopal and Mr. Gulam Akbar, SI/SHO P.S. Chopal, District Shimla present with records.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan J.

The above mentioned nine bail petitions have been filed for grant of regular bail in case FIR No. 14 of 2015, dated 11.3.2015 registered under Sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 323, 354, 364, 436, 452 and 506 IPC at Police Station, Chopal, District Shimla, H.P.

2. In the application(s), it has been pleaded that on 11.3.2015 a marriage ceremony of Manoj Mehta was being solemnized at Village Tuil, Post Office Chambi, Tehsil Chopal, District Shimla, H.P. A few guests had started returning to their respective places after having food. While crossing a village path above the house of one Narvir an altercation took place between the said Narvir and one Bharat Bhushan. Narvir was holding a double barrel gun in his hand and he without any provocation fired at Bharat Bhushan. Bharat Bhushan received gun shot on his stomach and he immediately fell on the field. Narvir threw his gun on the spot and ran downwards. Bharat Bhushan was immediately lifted by the people present on the spot, but he succumbed to the injuries and died. The matter was reported to the police and the police registered a case vide FIR No. 13/2015.

3. When the police reached on the spot with a purpose to investigate the case registered vide FIR No. 13 of 2015, Smt. Virendra Devi, wife of Narvir got recorded a false statement to the police with the purpose to save her husband. She alleged that her husband was assaulted with lethal weapons by a mob.

4. On the basis of the statement of Smt. Virendra Devi, the police has registered a case vide FIR No. 14 of 2015 under Sections 147, 148, 149, 302, 323, 354, 364, 436, 452 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code against 35 persons, who have been falsely named by the aforesaid complainant.

5. It is the case of the bail petitioners that they had been falsely implicated and many of them being innocent have themselves surrendered before the police, who are now in judicial custody. It is claimed that the petitioners have been falsely implicated in the case, which was a counter blast to the FIR No. 13 of 2014 registered with the sole purpose of saving her husband and herself from the clutches of law.

6. The respondent after having put to notice, have produced the records of the investigation and have also filed the status report.

7. The record discloses that on 11.3.2015, complainant got recorded her statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C. to ASI Partap Singh disclosing therein that she along with her husband and three children is residing in village Tuil. As about 3.00 P.M., on 11.3.2015, she along with her husband was present in her house. Meanwhile, a stone was thrown on the head of her husband, upon which, the husband told her that people are pelting stones upon them, upon which the complainant along with children got into the house. Her husband also came inside the house. The people were pelting stones on the roof of the house. They also proclaimed that if Narvir would come out, they will not spare him. Then, the accused Bantu son of Sunder Singh, Dalip son of Jalam Singh, Bhupinder son of Sh. Roop Singh, Pappu, Kaku son of Joban Dass, Rakesh son of Lachhi Ram, Sunil son of Sant Ram, Manu son of Beer Singh, Gulshan son of Lachhi Ram, Ritu son of Joban Dass, Joban Dass, Sanu son of Bhupinder, Rajinder son of Balak Ram, Dinesh Mehta son of Masat Ram, Manu alias Sachin son of Rajinder entered in the house. After entering the house, Bhupinder son of Sh. Bhoop Singh caught hold the complainant from her hair, Rinku and Kaku caught hold the complainant from her arms. Rajinder, Sunil and Pappu tore the clothes of the complainant and they have also proclaimed to molest her. Ritu was having stone in his hand and he inflicted injuries on the face of the complainant. Those persons were proclaiming to the deceased Narvir that he could save his wife if he can. The husband of the complainant was having a gun in his hand. He tried to save the complainant, then the persons who came there inflicted Darat blow on the head of her husband. They also snatched the gun. In that process, the bullet got fired and hit Bantu son of Sh. Sunder Singh. Thereafter, all those persons dragged the husband of the complainant out of the house along with the person who sustained the bullet injuries. Apart from the above persons, women were also present there. All of them have beaten the husband of the complainant. One Surinder Nepali had inflicted the axe blow on the husband of the complainant. They dragged the husband of the complainant towards the fields. She also got recorded the names of the accused Rama Nand son of Mahi Ram, Bantu son of Rama Nand, Yashu son of Ram Lal, Yashu son of Gian Singh, Man Singh son of Kumbia, Prince Mohan son of Man Singh, Dimple son of Man Singh, Dimple son of Ishri Nand, Virender son of Sh. Roshan Lal, Devinder son of Roshan Lal, Inder Singh son of Sh.Roshan Lal, Pankaj son of Daulat Ram, Sanjay son of Daulat Ram, Ravi son of Mangat Ram, Vishal son of Sandeep, Sandeep son of Sh. Sohan Singh, Nikhil son of Sh. Sandeep, Pinku son of Bhindru, Kundan Singh son of Jalam Singh, Vir Singh son of Sh. Mehar Singh, Sunder Suingh son of Sh. Mehar Singh. She further recorded that when her husband was dragged by the above persons, then after sometime, the accused Daleep, Pradeep, Bhupinder, Surinder Nepali, Sunil, Manoj, Rajinder came to the house of the complainant and told her that they had killed her husband and thrown his dead body in the rivulet. They have also proclaimed that they will burn the complainant as well as her children. They also sprinkled kerosene oil on the grass and wood lying on the rear side of the house and set the same on fire. On all these allegations the complainant prayed that action be taken against them.

8. On the said statement of the complainant, the police machinery swung into motion and registered F.I.R. No. 14/2015 under Sections 302, 147, 148, 149, 452, 364, 436, 354, 323 and 506 of the Indian Penal Code.

9. The police searched for Narvir Thakur on 11/12.3.2015, but he was not found. On 12.3.2015, the spot was videographed. The other codal formalities were completed on the spot. On 12.3.2015, the dead body of Narvir was found in the jungle. The dead body was taken into possession and the same was sent for postmortem examination. On 16.3.2015, the bail applicants have surrendered before the police. They were arrested and were medico legally examined. During the course of investigation on 19.3.2015, the accused Kundan Singh and Dalip Singh made a statement under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act and Kundan Singh got recovered the Axe and Dalip Singh got recovered the clothes which he had worn at the time of incident.

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records of the case.

10. It is well settled that the matters to be considered in an application for bail are:-

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused has committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the charge;
(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;
(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;
(v) character, behaviour, means position and standing of the accused;
(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;
(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being tampered with; and (viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

11. It is also more then settled that if a person was suspected of a crime of an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life, then there must explaining grounds which specifically negate the existence of reasonable grounds for believing that such an accused is guilty of an offence punishable with sentence of death or imprisonment for life. The jurisdiction to grant bail must, therefore, be exercised on the basis of well settled principles having regard to the circumstances of each case. The discretion to be exercised in such matters must be exercised in a judicious manner and not as a matter of course. It may not be necessary to do detailed examination of evidence and elaborate documentation of the merit of the case need not be undertaken, but there is a need to indicate reasons for prima facie concluding why bail was being granted, particularly where the accused is charged of having committed a serious offence. The heinous nature of the crime warrants more caution and there is a greater chance of rejection of bail, though, however dependent on the factual matrix of the matter.

12. In Ash Mohammad Vs. Shiv Raj Singh, (2012) 9 SCC 446, the legal position was summed up in the following manner:-

> "7. The centripodal issue that emerges for consideration is: whether the order passed by the High Court is legitimately acceptable and legally sustainable within the ambit and sweep of the principles laid down by this Court for grant of regular bail under Section 439 of the Code?
>
> 8. In Ram Govind Upadhyay V. Sudarshan Singh (2002) 3 SCC 598, it has been opined that the grant of bail though involves exercise of discretionary power of the Court, such exercise of discretion has to be made in a judicious manner and not as a matter of course. The heinous nature of the crime warrants more caution and there is greater chance of rejection of bail, though, however dependent on the factual matrix of the matter. IN the said case the learned Judges referred to the decision in Prahlad Singh Bhati V. NCT, Delhi (2001) 4 SCC 280 and stated as follows: (Ram Govind case (2002) 3 SCC 598, SCC p. 602, para 4)*
>
> > "(a) While granting bail the court has to keep in mind not only the nature of the accusations, but the severity of the punishment, if the accusation entails a conviction and the nature of evidence in support of the accusations.
> >
> > (b) Resonable apprehensions of the witnesses being tampered with or the apprehension of there being a threat for the complainant should also weigh with the court in the matter of grant of bail.
> >
> > (c) While it is not expected to have the entire evidence establishing the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt but there ought always to be a prma facie satisfaction of the court in support of the charge.

(d) Frivolity in prosecution should always be considered and it is only the element of genuineness that shall have to be considered in the matter of grant of bail, and in the event of there being some doubt as to the genuineness of the prosecution, in the normal course of events, the accused is entitled to an order of bail."

9. In Chaman Lal V. State of U.P. (2004) 7 SCC 525 this court while dealing with an application for bail has stated that certain factors are to be considered for grant of bail, they are: (SCC p. 525)

"…(i) the nature of accusation and the severity of punishment in case of conviction and the nature of supporting evidence, (ii) reasonable apprehension of tampering with the witness or apprehension of threat to the complainant, and (iii) prima facie satisfaction of the court in support of the charge."

10. In Mansroor v. State of U.P. (2009) 14 SCC 286, while giving emphasis to ascribing reasons for granting of bail, however, brief it may be, a two-Judge Bench observed that: (SCC p. 290, para 15)

"15. There is no denying the fact that the liberty of an individual is precious and is to be zealously protected by the courts. Nonetheless, such a protection cannot be absolute in every situation. The valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general has to be balanced. Liberty of a person accused of an offence would depend upon the exigencies of the case."

Bearing in mind the well settled principles of law, I proceed to deal with the merits of the bail applications.

13. Learned counsel for the petitioners has strenuously argued that the present complaint was a counter blast to FIR No. 13 of 2015, which was registered prior in point of time against the deceased husband of the complainant. He further contended that as per the contents of FIR the names of the persons who have entered the house of the complainant are:

(1) Bantu S/o Sunder Singh (Deceased in FIR No. 13/15
(2) Dalip S/o Jalam Singh (bail applicant)
(3) Bhupinder S/o Roop Singh
(4) Pappu S/o Joban Dass
(5) Kaku S/o Joban Dass (Sandeep) bail applicant.
(6) Rakesh S/o Lachhi Ram
(7) Sunil S/o Sant Ram (bail applicant)
(8) Mannu S/o Vir Singh
(9) Gulshan S/o Lachhi Ram
(10) Ritoo S/o Joban Dass (bail applicant)
(11) Joban Dass, S/o Bhupinder
(12) Rajinder S/o Balak Ram
(13) Dinesh Mehta S/o Mast Ram
(14) Mannu @ Sachin S/o Rajinder
(15) Sonu S/o Bhupinder

While the persons who are alleged to be present outside the house are:

(1) Rama Nand S/o Mohi Ram (father of person at Sr. No. 2)
(2) Bantoo S/o Rama Nand
(3) Yashu S/o Rama Nand
(4) Yashu S/o Gian Singh
(5) Maan Singh S/o Kumb Dass (bail applicant)
(6) Prince S/o Maan Singh (bail applicant)
(7) Dimple S/o Maan Singh
(8) Dimple S/o Ishwari Nand
(9) Varinder S/o Roshan Lal
(10) Devinder S/o Roshan Lal (bail applicant)
(11) Inder S/o Roshan Lal
(12) Pankaj S/o Daulat Ram
(13) Sanjay S/o Daulat Ram
(14) Ravi S/o Mangat Ram
(15) Sandeep S/o Sohan Singh
(16) Vishal S/o Sandeep (bail applicant)
(17) Nikhil S/o Sandeep (bail applicant)
(18) Pinku S/o Bhupinder
(19) Kundan S/o Jhalam Singh
(20) Dalip S/o Jalam Singh
(21) Lachi Ram S/o Jhalam Singh
(22) Veer Singh S/o Mehar Singh
(23) Sunder Singh S/o Mehar Singh
(24) Along with all the ladies of the village.

Whereas there is yet a third set of persons, who proclaimed to have killed the husband of the complainant, who are:

(1) Dalip
(2) Pradeep
(3) Bhupinder
(4) Surinder (Gorkha)
(5) Sunil
(6) Manoj
(7) Rajinder

Therefore, each of the accused cannot be made to stand on equal pedestal, as the seriousness of the allegations against one of the accused cannot be taken as a ground to deny bail to all accused against whom allegations may not so serious. It is also contended that one of the accused Mannu @ Sachin S/o Rajinder was not at the scene of the incident on the relevant date and time and was in fact in Shimla, which fact is duly proved from the withdrawal made by him from the ATM. It is also contended that some of the accused have been stated to be present at the spot when admittedly they were accompanying Bantu S/o Sunder Singh (deceased) in FIR No. 13 of 2015 and their names find mentioned in the receipt obtained at the time of handing over of the body. He further argued that the petitioners being innocent had of their own surrendered to the police, which proved their innocence.

14. Before proceeding any further, it would be relevant to note that the learned Sessions Judge has rejected the bail applications of the petitioners on the following grounds:-

(i) Mere fact that the bail applicants are in judicial custody does not mean that the investigation qua them is complete. The investigation was at a crucial juncture where number of accused were yet to be arrested.

(ii) The FIR at the instance of the complainant could not be held to be a counter blast to the accused registered against her deceased husband vide FIR No. 13 of 2015.

(iii) The release of the bail applicants would send wrong signal to the society that after commission of such heinous offence, the applicants are moving freely in the society.

(iv) Since it was a heinous offence, the Court has to maintain a delicate balance between the individual liberty and the larger interest of the society.

(v) In teeth of specific allegation of constitution of unlawful assembly, the petitioner could not be treated to be innocent.

15. The grounds now canvassed before me are virtually the same which had been canvassed before the Learned Sessions Judge. It is not that the accused do not have a right to make successive bail applications, but then the Court entertaining such subsequent applications has a duty to consider the reasons and grounds on which the earlier bail applications were rejected. In such case, the Court also has a duty to record what are the sufficient grounds which persuade it to take a different view from the one taken in the earlier application. This was so held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram Govind Upadhyay Vs. Sudarshan Singh and others, (2002) 3 SCC 598:-

> "9. Undoubtedly, considerations applicable to the grant of bail and considerations for cancellation of such an order of bail are independent and do not overlap each other, but in the event of non- consideration of considerations relevant for the purpose of grant of bail and in the event an earlier order of rejection available on the records, it is a duty incumbent on to the High Court to explicitly state the reasons as to why the sudden departure in the order of grant as against the rejection just about a month ago. The subsequent FIR is on record and incorporated therein are the charges under Sections 323 and 504 IPC in which the charge-sheet have already been issued ---- the Court ought to take note of the facts on record rather than ignoring it. In any event, the discretion to be used shall always have to be strictly in accordance with law and not dehors the same. The High Court thought it fit not to record any reason, far less any cogent reason, as to why there should be a departure when in fact such a petition was dismissed earlier not very long ago. The consideration of the period of one year spent in jail cannot in our view be a relevant consideration in the matter of grant of bail, more so by reason of the fact that the offence charged is that of murder under Section 302 IPC having the punishment of death or life imprisonment --- it is a heinous crime against the society and as such the court ought to be rather circumspect and cautious in its approach in a matter which stands out to be a social crime of very serious nature."

16. Leaned counsel for the petitioners has vehemently argued that it was not the police who arrested them, but they of their own volition surrendered, which proved their innocence. Mere fact that the petitioners have surrendered of their own volition, to my mind does not in itself lead to an inference, much less proves their innocence. If such a plea were to be accepted, then in all crimes where the accused surrenders, he would plead innocence only on the sheer strength of his having surrendered, and therefore, this plea cannot be countenanced. The petitioners admittedly have been named as accused in the FIR and definite role has been ascribed to them. This is an exceptional case where allegations have been made against a large number of people, who are claiming themselves to be innocent, but then the investigation is only at the stage of infancy and arming the petitioners with bail at this stage would seriously prejudice and hamper the investigation.

17. It is more then settled that at this stage the examination of the evidence is to be avoided, lest it amounts to prejudging and prejudicing either of the parties. However, a prima facie examination of the record does disclose the commission of offence and the involvement of the petitioners in the commission of the same. In so far as the absence of some of the accused at the time of commission of offence or scene of occurrence is concerned, they admittedly are not the bail petitioners and therefore, no finding on this aspect is being recorded lest it prejudices the case of those accused or the investigating agency.

18. The learned counsel for the petitioners would then contend that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has time and again held that the personal liberty of an individual is a Constitutional guarantee and he cannot be deprived of the same. What has probably been overlooked by the learned counsel is the fact that lawful detention cannot be questioned as being violative of Article 21 of the Constitution, since the same is authorized by law.

19. The question of "liberty" has come up for consideration repeatedly before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the position has been summed up by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ash Mohammad's case (supra), wherein it was held:-

> "17. We are absolutely conscious that liberty of a person should not be lightly dealt with, for deprivation of liberty of a person has immense impact on the mind of a person. Incarceration creates a concavity in the personality of an individual. Sometimes it causes a sense of vacuum. Needless to emphasize, the sacrosanctity of liberty is paramount in a civilized society. However, in a democratic body polity which is wedded to Rule of Law an individual is expected to grow within the social restrictions sanctioned by law. The individual liberty is restricted by larger social interest and its deprivation must have due sanction of law. In an orderly society an individual is expected to live with dignity having respect for law and also giving due respect to others' rights. It is a well accepted principle that the concept of liberty is not in the realm of absolutism but is a restricted one. The cry of the collective for justice, its desire for peace and harmony and its necessity for security cannot be allowed to be trivialized. The life of an individual living in a society governed by Rule of Law has to be regulated and such regulations which are the source in law subserve the social balance and function as a significant instrument for protection of human rights and security of the collective. It is because fundamentally laws are made for their obedience so that every member of the society lives peacefully in a society to achieve his individual as well as social interest. That is why Edmond Burke while discussing about liberty opined, "it is regulated freedom".

18. It is also to be kept in mind that individual liberty cannot be accentuated to such an extent or elevated to such a high pedestal which would bring in anarchy or disorder in the society. The prospect of greater justice requires that law and order should prevail in a civilized milieu. True it is, there can be no arithmetical formula for fixing the parameters in precise exactitude but the adjudication should express not only application of mind but also exercise of jurisdiction on accepted and established norms. Law and order in a society protect the established precepts and see to it that contagious crimes do not become epidemic. In an organized society the concept of liberty basically requires citizens to be responsible and not to disturb the tranquility and safety which every well-meaning person desires. Not for nothing J. Oerter stated:*

> "Personal liberty is the right to act without interference within the limits of the law."

19. Thus analyzed, it is clear that though liberty is a greatly cherished value in the life of an individual, it is a controlled and restricted one and no element in the society can act in a manner by consequence of which the life or liberty of others is jeopardized, for the rational collective does not countenance an anti-social or anti-collective act.*

20. Having said about the sanctity of liberty and the restrictions imposed by law and the necessity of collective security, we may proceed to state as to what is the connotative concept of bail. In Halsbury's Laws of England 4th Edn., Vol. 11, para 166 it has been stated thus: -*

> "166. Effect of bail.---The effect of granting bail is not to set the defendant [(accused) at liberty], but to release him from the custody of law and to entrust him to the custody of his sureties who are bound to produce him to appear at his trial at a specified time and place. The sureties may seize their principal at any time and may discharge themselves by handing him over to the custody of law and he will then be imprisoned….."

21. In Sunil Fulchand Shah v. Union of India and others (2000) 3 SCC 409 Dr. A.S. Anand, learned Chief Justice, in his concurring opinion, observed: (SCC pp. 429-30, para 24)*

> "24…..Bail is well understood in criminal jurisprudence and Chapter 33 of the Code of Criminal Procedure contains elaborate provisions relating to grant of bail. Bail is granted to a person who has been arrested in a non-bailable offence or has been convicted of an offence after trial. The effect of granting bail is to release the accused from internment though the court would still retain constructive control over him through the sureties. In case the accused is released on his own bond such constructive control could still be exercised through the conditions of the bond secured from him. The literal meaning of the word 'bail' is surety."

> 22. As grant of bail as a legal phenomenon arises when a crime is committed it is profitable to refer to certain authorities as to how this Court has understood the concept of crime in the context of society. In P.S.R. Sadhanantham v. Arunachalam, (1980) 3 SCC 141, R.S. Pathak, J. (as His Lordship then was), speaking for himself and A.D. Kaushal, J., referred to Mogul SS Co. Ltd. v. McGregor Gow & Co. (1989) 23 QBD 598, and the definition given by Blackstone and opined thus: (SCC p. 150, para 24)
>
> > "24…..A crime, therefore, is an act deemed by law to be harmful to society in general, even though its immediate victim is an individual."
>
> 23*. In Mrs. Harpreet Kaur Harvinder Singh Bedi v. State of Maharashtra (1992) 2 SCC 177 a two-Judge Bench, though in a different context, has observed: (SCC p. 186, para 24)*
>
> > "24. Crime is a revolt against the whole society and an attack on the civilization of the day. Order is the basic need of any organized civilized society and any attempt to disturb that order affects the society and the community."
>
> 24*. In T.K. Gopal alias Gopi v. State of Karnataka (2000) 6 SCC 168 it has been held that: (SCC p. 176, para 11)*
>
> > "11….Crime can be defined as an act that subjects the doer to legal punishment. It may also be defined as commission of an act specifically forbidden by law; it may be an offence against morality or social order."

20. To be fair to the learned counsel for the petitioners, he has canvassed that this Bench in Dwarku Devi Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh 2014 (2) Shim. LC 882 had granted bail to the petitioners who too were accused of an offence punishable under Sections 302, 376, 202 read with Section 34 IPC and therefore, the petitioners ought to be released.

21. I have gone through the judgment and find that in that case the shield anchor of the prosecution case was the statement of Kumari Anjana Kashyap recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. A perusal whereof revealed that nothing contained therein, even remotely suggested, the complexity or involvement of the petitioners therein. While, this is not the fact situation obtaining in the present case, as the petitioners have been specifically named by the complainant in her statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C.

22. The petitioners are accused of serious and heinous offence and their liberty at this stage cannot be placed at a high pedestal, which would bring in anarchy or disorder in the society. Their release at this stage would be a serious threat to the peace and tranquility and above all would be a threat to the safety of the complainant and her family members. Moreover, their release at this stage may hamper the investigation and they may also coerce the witnesses.

In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find no merit in these petitions and the same are accordingly dismissed.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Rajan Chopra …Petitioner.
Versus
Uttam Chand …Respondent.

Cr. MMO No. 4018 of 2013
Judgment reserved on: 15.5.2015
Date of decision : May 18, 2015

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Matter was compromised before Lok Adalat- petitioner claimed that he had never authorized Advocate to appear before Lok Adalat or to make any statement on his behalf- held, that the proceedings before Lok Adalat cannot be challenged before the High court by filing a petition- statement of facts as to what transpired in the hearing is conclusive regarding the facts so recorded in the judgment and no one can contradict such statement by filing affidavit or by leading evidence- further, petitioner had not placed any material to show that he had taken action against either of the counsel- therefore, in these circumstances, petition dismissed. (Para-4 to 10)

For the Petitioner : Mr. B. S. Attri, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. Naveen K. Bhardwaj, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India read with Section 482 Cr.P.C. has been preferred by the petitioner with a prayer to quash and set-aside the order dated 16.3.2013 passed by the Lok Adalat, Kullu whereby his complaint under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, (for short 'Act') was compounded.

2. The facts as pleaded are that the petitioner filed a complaint under Section 138 of the Act against the respondent for dishonouring cheque of Rs.50,000/- which was returned with the remarks "funds insufficient". After issuing the statutory notice, the proceedings under Section 138 of the Act were initiated and the respondent came to be convicted and sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment of one year and the petitioner was awarded compensation to the tune of Rs.80,000/-. In default of payment, the respondent was further directed to undergo imprisonment of two months.

3. The respondent preferred an appeal before the learned Sessions Judge, Kullu, and upon the notice, the petitioner engaged the services of Sh. Vivek Thakur, Advocate. The criminal appeal came to be listed before the Lok Adalat on 16.3.2013. The statement of the respondent was recorded and on behalf of the petitioner, the statement of one Sudhir Bhatnagar, Advocate was recorded. On the basis of the statement recorded, the appeal was disposed of as having been compromised and the offence was compounded.

4. Now, the grievance of the petitioner is that he had never engaged/ instructed Sh. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Advocate to appear on his behalf much less make a statement before the Lok Adalat regarding the compromise. The petitioner had never instructed him to receive a sum of Rs.25,000/- as had been reflected in the impugned statement dated 16.3.2013. The petitioner also placed on record the power of attorney executed by him in favour of Sh.Vivek Thakur, Advocate. It is also the grievance of the petitioner that the amount of Rs.25,000/- which was alleged to have been received by Sh. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Advocate was never remitted to the petitioner and further that the awarded compensation of Rs.80,000/- was never deposited or paid to the petitioner. Lastly, it is contended that the statement as arrived at was not only against the settled position of law but also contrary to the provisions of the Act.

5. On the other hand, Mr. N.K. Bhardwaj, learned counsel for the respondent has vehemently argued that his client cannot be made to suffer for no fault on his part because the respondent had duly paid the settled amount of Rs.25,000/- to the counsel for the petitioner and that fact stands reflected in the order of the Lok Adalat dated 16.3.2013.

6. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the case carefully.

7. A perusal of the grounds of the petition would show that the petitioner is more aggrieved by the fact that he had not engaged Sh. Sudhir Bhatnagar as his Advocate and had engaged Sh. Vivek Thakur, Avocate and, therefore, Sh. Sudhir Bhatnagar had no authority to appear and then compromise the matter with the opposite party. Admittedly, it was on the representation of Sh. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Advocate that the matter was compromised and in case Sh. Sudhir Bhatnagar, had been authorized then no illegality, impropriety or infirmity can be found with the impugned order.

8. In case the petitioner felt that the happenings in the Court (Lok Adalat) had been wrongly recorded in the judgment, then it was incumbent upon him to report the matter to the members of the Lok Adalat and bring this fact to their notice.

9. The happenings in Court (Lok Adalat) cannot be challenged before this Court as it is settled law that statement of facts as to what transpired in the hearing recorded in the judgment of the Court (Lok Adalat), are conclusive of the facts so stated and none can contradict such statement by affidavit or the evidence. Though, the petitioner would contend that the order is not in conformity with the provisions of the Negotiable Instruments Act and the settled position of law, but then it has to be remembered that in cases of compromise, neither rigors of procedure nor the rigors of law would apply.

10. This Court cannot launch an inquiry as to what transpired before the Lok Adalat. Public Policy and judicial decorum do not permit it. The matters of judicial record in that sense are unquestionable. This Court is not a play field where judicial officers can be roped into settle individual claims. This is simply not done especially when the petitioner himself has failed to place on record any material which may even remotely suggest that he had taken action against either of the counsels.

11. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find no merit in this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

CWP No. 8337 of 2014
a/w CWPs No. 8338, 8340,
8341, 8350 to 8353 of 2014
Decided on: 19.05.2015

1. CWP No. 8337 of 2014

Smt. Anu Mahindru …Petitioner.

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh & others …Respondents.

2. CWP No. 8338 of 2014
Sh. Ajay Lotheta ...Petitioner.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh & others ...Respondents.
....

3. CWP No. 8340 of 2014
Sh. Rajesh Chauhan ...Petitioner.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh & others ...Respondents.
....

4. CWP No. 8341 of 2014
Dr. Shyam Chand ...Petitioner.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh & others ...Respondents.
....

5. CWP No. 8350 of 2014
Sh. Balvir Singh ...Petitioner.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh & others ...Respondents.
....

6. CWP No. 8351 of 2014
Sh. Akshay Bhardwaj ...Petitioner.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh & others ...Respondents.
....

7. CWP No. 8352 of 2014
Sh. Praveen Kumar Sharma ...Petitioner.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh & others ...Respondents.
....

8. CWP No. 8353 of 2014
Sh. Sunil Kumar ...Petitioner.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh & others ...Respondents.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- It was stated on behalf of petitioner that Writ Petition was disposed of in terms of reply- counsel for the respondent stated that he has no objection for adopting this course- hence, petition disposed of in terms of para-14 (I to IX) of the reply and respondent directed to do needful within 8 weeks. (Para-1 to 4)

For the petitioner(s): Mr. M.L. Sharma, Senior Advocate, with M/s. B.L. Soni & Aman Parth Sharma, Advocates.

For the respondents: Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General, with Mr. Anup Rattan & Mr. Romesh Verma, Additional Advocate Generals, and Mr. J.K. Verma, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent No. 1.
Mr. J.L. Bhardwaj, Advocate, for respondents No. 2 and 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, Chief Justice (Oral)

Mr. B.L. Soni, learned counsel for the writ petitioners stated at the Bar that respondents No. 2 and 3 have filed reply in CWP No. 8337 of 2014 and prayed that all these writ petitions may be disposed of in terms of the reply contained in para 14 (I to IX), with all just exceptions, with a direction to respondents No. 2 and 3 to do the needful within four weeks. His statement is taken on record.

2. Mr. J.L. Bhardwaj, learned counsel for respondents No. 2 and 3, stated at the Bar that he is not averse to the said proposition, however, sought three months' time to do the needful. His statement is also taken on record.

3. Keeping in view the submissions made, we deem it proper to dispose of these writ petitions in terms of para 14 (I to IX) (supra) of the reply filed by respondents No. 2 and 3, with all just exceptions, with a direction to do the needful within eight weeks and report compliance before the Registrar (Judicial).

4. The writ petitions are disposed of accordingly alongwith all pending applications. Copy dasti.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Vishan Dass & anr. ……Petitioners.
Versus
State of H.P. & ors. …….Respondents.

CWP No. 6604 of 2014.
Reserved on: 12.5.2015.
Decided on: 19.5.2015.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Respondent No. 6 started work of the widening the road by cutting and excavating the hill rock - it resulted in massive amount of boulders rolling down the hills causing damage to the plants and land of the petitioners- damage assessment report was prepared but compensation was not paid- held, that respondents should have redressed the grievances of the petitioners on their own level and should have paid the compensation- State has vicarious liability to pay compensation for acts of its employees- a person cannot be deprived of the use of his property except in accordance with law- respondent No. 6 directed to pay compensation of Rs.15,00,000/- along with interest @ 9% p.a. from the date of filing of the petition. (Para-7 to 14)

Cases referred:

Collector L.A.C. Mandi vs. Karam Singh and others and connected matters, Latest HLJ 2000 (2) (HP) 694

Nilabati Behera (Smt) alias Lalita Behera (through the Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee) Vs. State of Orissa and others (1993) 2 Supreme Court Cases 746

Chairman, Railway Board and others Vs. Chandrima Das (Mrs) and others (2000) 2 Supreme Court Cases 465

For the petitioners: Mr. P.P.Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Shrawan Dogra, AG with Mr. Romesh Verma, Mr. Anup Rattan, Addl. AGs and Mr. J.K Verma, Dy. AG, for respondents No. 1 to 5.
Mr. Ajay Mohan Goel, Advocate for respondents No. 6 & 7.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

The petitioners are owner-in-possession of land comprised in Kh. Nos. 619/548/386, measuring 00-44-88 hectares, Bagicha Kullahu Aval, Kh. No. 630/548/384 measuring 00-03-91 hectares, Bagicha Kullahu Aval, Kh. No. 500/386 measuring 00-15-60 hectares, Bagicha Kullahu Aval and Kh. No. 506/469 measuring 00-16-29 hectares, Banjar Kadim situated in Patwar Circle Kothi, Mauja Up-Mohal Ragura, Pargana Shua, Tehsil Kalpa, Distt. Kinnaur, H.P., as per jamabandi for the years 2003-04 and 2008-09 (Annexures P-1 and P-2).

2. The respondent No. 6 has undertaken the widening work of road called Pangi Intake road between 2006 to 2009. The Contractors employed by respondent No. 6 indiscriminately used explosives for cutting and excavation of the hill rock. It resulted in creation of massive amount of huge boulders rolling down the hills causing total damage to the plants and land of the petitioners. The petitioner No. 1 visited the office of respondent No. 6-Corporation on many occasions but his grievance was not redressed. The petitioners made representations vide Annexure P-4, P-4/A and P-5 on 19.5.2009, 27.12.2010 and 29.12.2010, respectively. The petitioners also approached the revenue authorities in order to get the damage assessed by visiting the spot.

3. The Kanungo submitted the report to the Tehsildar on 31.3.2011, stating therein that he has visited the site in the presence of the petitioners and it was found that the land owned by the petitioners stand littered with huge boulders during the construction of road for Kashang Hydro Electricity Project. The muck has also filled the fields of the petitioners. The Tehsildar submitted the report to the SDM concerned on 6.5.2011. The recommendations were also made by the SDM to the Deputy Commissioner vide letter dated 13.5.2011. The matter was taken up with respondent No. 6 vide Annexure P-9 by the Deputy Commissioner. However, the grievance of the petitioners was not redressed. The District Agriculture Officer has submitted the report of assessment for the loss caused to the crop of the petitioners to the tune of Rs. 6,50,000/- vide Annexure P-15 dated 13.9.2012. The damage to the landed property of the petitioners was also assessed, as per Annexure P-16. It was assessed at Rs.27,59,216/-. As a matter of fact, around 500 apple plants and 18 chilgoza trees were damaged, as per the averments made in the petition. The joint inspection was carried out by SDO, HPPWD in-charge with Asstt. Engineer (Dev.)-cum-Member Secretary, Technical Committee for Hydro Electric Projects alongwith Junior Engineer LADC, in the presence of Asstt. Engineer Integrated Kashang Hydro Electric Project and his staff. The demarcation was also undertaken by the Field Kanungo and Patwari of the Patwar Circle Kothi. They prepared the damage report as per HP PWD Schedule or rate 2009. The damage was duly verified by the Revenue Officer Field Kanungo on 1.9.2012. However, the fact of the matter is that the petitioners have not been paid any compensation. Hence this petition.

4. Respondent No. 6, in its reply, has admitted that it has undertaken the widening of the Pangi Intake road and the work has been got executed through the contractors engaged for the purpose. The land of the petitioners was below the road in question. However, according to the averments contained in the reply only 217 kg. explosive material was used and the reports have been prepared by the revenue agency and District Agriculture Officer, belatedly.

5. It is apparent from the material placed on record that the Kanungo has visited the spot and came to the conclusion that the plants and landed property of the petitioners was damaged as per Annexure P-6. The Tehsildar has submitted the report to the SDM and the SDM has forwarded it to the Deputy Commissioner. The Deputy Commissioner, though has taken up the matter with the authorities of respondent No. 6 but to no avail. The damage to the petitioners' property was separately assessed vide Annexure P-15, by the District Agriculture Officer on 13.9.2012 and by the various functionaries of H.P. PWD, as per Annexure P-16.

6. According to the reply filed by respondent No. 5, the damage was only to the extent of Rs.4,70,976/-, as per Annexure A-II. In Annexure A-II, it has come that the number of plants of apple completely damaged are 176. The age of the trees was 8 years, the basic value has been assessed at Rs.774/- and the income for remaining bearing years at Rs.1902/-. This calculation is not as per the Harbans Singh case formula to determine loss and damage caused to the fruit bearing trees. The assessment at Rs.4,70,976/- only is on the very conservative side.

7. Mr. Shrawan Dogra, learned Advocate General for the State and Mr. Ajay Mohan Goel, Advocate for respondents No. 6 & 7, have vehemently argued that the present petition is not maintainable since the disputed questions of fact are involved and the petitioners should be relegated to file Civil Suit. We have gone through the petition and records. We are of the considered view that on the basis of the material placed on record, duly supported by the affidavit, the present petition is maintainable. The petitioners have placed sufficient material on record from the various functionaries of the State that a colossal loss has been caused to the plants and landed property of the petitioners violating Article 300-A of the Constitution of India.

8. The officials of the revenue agency have visited the spot. The District Agriculture officer has also assessed the damage. The Courts have discretion to grant compensation under Article 226 of the Constitution of India for any infringement of Constitutional rights of the citizens. In the instant case, the damage has been caused to the petitioners' landed property and plants. The petitioners are agriculturists. The respondents, at their own level, should have redressed their grievances instead of forcing them to file the present petition.

9. The Division Bench of this Court in Collector L.A.C. Mandi vs. Karam Singh and others and connected matters, Latest HLJ 2000 (2) (HP) 694, while relying upon standing order No.28 of Financial Commissioner, has held that when the fruit bearing trees are acquired, trees distinctly and separately can be assessed. The Division Bench has held as under:

> "12. The Director of the Horticulture of the State Government while % assessing the market value of the fruit bearing trees has been adopting the formula of Shri Harbans Singh. The Land Acquisition Collectors of the State have applied and adopted the same formula in awarding compensation of the fruit bearing trees separately. !n these factual position and circumstances, the State of Himachal Pradesh and the Land Acquisition Collector cannot be permitted to urge that they are not obliged to pay the amount of compensation on the basis of the Standing Order No. 28 and Shri Harbans

Singh formula for acquired lands and fruit bearing tees separately. The Land Acquisition Collector is the agent of the State Government who makes offer to the claimants of the amount of compensation awarded in the awards and if the offer so made is not acceptable to the claimants, the claimants are entitled to receive the amount of compensation under protest and make reference petitions under Section 18 of the Act for enhancement of the amount of compensation. Therefore, the State Govt. and the Land Acquisition Collector, who are appellants before us in these appeals cannot be permitted to raise the plea that the awards of the Collector and enhancement of the amount of compensation by the District Judges and Additional District Judges based upon the Government Standing Order, provisions contained in the Himachal Pradesh Land Records Manual and Shri Harbans Singh formula which allow compensation in respect of the land and fruit bearing trees separately. Nothing contrary has been brought to our notice and, therefore we do not think it proper to disturb the awards of the Courts below making enhancement of the amount of compensation for the land and the fruit bearing trees separately. These cases are squarely covered by the ratio of the judgment of the apex Court in State of J&K Vs. Mohammad Mateen Wani and others (Supra) and we do not find any merit in these appeals filed by the State and the Land Acquisition Collector challenging the awards on the grounds of assessment of compensation for lands and fruit trees separately.

According to para 28.9, the competent revenue officer has to assess the income from horticulture on the basis of age and kind of fruit-bearing plants according to formula evolved and approved by the Government of Himachal Pradesh, as per Appendix 'C' of Chapter 28. Appendix 'C' extract is taken from "the evaluation of fruit trees, basic principles and method by Shri Harbans Singh". This is commonly known as Harbans Singh formula. First part of Appendix deals with classification of fruit trees, value of the fuel of timber and final assessment of a tree. The value fuel of timber and final assessment of the tree, is to be made as under:

"Value of the Fuel of Timber:

Most of the fruit trees yield comparatively small quantity of fuel. Only a few fruit trees will have any timber value. However, every tree will turn out some fuel on being cut down. The extent to which a tree will provide fuel will mainly depend upon the glint of the main limbs and size of the tree. Once one knows the estimated quality of fuel wood on a tree at the time of its acquisition, it is easy to calculate its value by taking into consideration the local market rates of such a non dry wood. As regards timber value the work relates to the forest Department.

Final assessment of a Tree:

Most of the factors affecting the value of a tree have been elucidated. It would appear that the value of a tree at a particular time will be the sum total of the basic value, income from the remaining bearing years of the tree and fuel value. There is another a important factor which cannot escape attention. The owner of the tree will get payment for the future bearing capacity of the tree in one lot without incurring any expenditure on his tree, disposal of fruit etc. for the remaining bearing years. Normally he would have got income in yearly installments spread over a long period. There are obvious advantages and benefits in getting the income of all the future years in one lot. Such a compensation will be not justifiable. Keeping all these factors into consideration it has been felt that the value of the remaining bearing age of a tree may be reduced to 25 per cent. This will do justice to the owner of the tree getting the compensation and the agency paying the price in one lot. The final formula will thus be as follows:

Basic value of the tree + No. of remaining bearing years. x income per year x ¼ + Fuel value

A. Basic value. An apple tree comes into bearing in the 6th year and as such it remains in sapling stage for 5 yeas. (Sl. No. 1 col. 5 of appendix).

(a) Non recurring expenditure: Rs.5.00 (col. 3 of appendix).

(b) Recurring expenditure for 5 years at the rate of Rs.5/- per year: Rs.59.80 (col. 4 of appendix).

Or say total basic value
5+(5x5)= Rs.30.00

B. Assessment of Remaining Bearing Age:

A ten year old apple tree has already completed five years of bearing life. Average bearing life of an apple tree is 45 years (col. 6 of appendix). Having borne fruit for five years, the tree is expected to bear for another 40 years.

A class I apple tree will give an yearly income of Rs. 100 per year (Col. 7 of appendix). Thus the tree will give a total gross income of Rs.4000.00 during the remaining years of its bearing life. Future expenditure and payment in one lot will reduce the amount by one fourth to Rs.1000.00. or in other words (40x10x1/4)=Rs.1000

Fuel Value:

If the spot inspection reveals that the tree has about 5 quintals of wood and the local rate is Rs.5.00 per quintal of wet wood, the fuel value will be Rs.25.00. Total value of a ten year old class I tree will thus be.

Rs.30.00 (Basic value) +Rs.1000
(Income from the remaining bearing years)
+Rs.25.00 (Fuel value)=Rs.1055.00."

Similarly, now, the court has to determine the compensation for fruit bearing and non-fruit bearing trees. It has come in the standing order No. 28 that the value of the house and trees standing in the land has also to be worked out. Initially, these are worked out by the Department concerned. The compensation for fruit-bearing/non-fruit-bearing trees is to be determined as per Harbans Singh Formula and Appendix-C of para 28.9 of the Himachal Pradesh Land Records Manual. The Harbans Singh Formula was prepared in the year 1966, but while allowing the compensation, the inflationary trends have not been taken into consideration. The Division Bench of this Court in 1988 (1) Shim.L.C. 479 has taken into consideration the inflationary trends on the basis of price index while calculating the damage caused to the fruit bearing trees.

10. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Nilabati Behera (Smt) alias Lalita Behera (through the Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee) Vs. State of Orissa and others (1993) 2 Supreme Court Cases 746 have held that award of compensation in proceedings for enforcement of fundamental rights under Articles 32 and 226 is a remedy available in public law. Their Lordships have held as under mortem while the rest were ante-mortem. The doctor excluded the possibility of the injuries resulting from dragging of the body by a running train and stated that all the ante-mortem injuries could be caused by lathi blows. It was further stated by the doctor that while all the injuries could not be caused in a train accident, it was possible to cause all the injuries by lathi blows. Thus, the medical evidence comprising the testimony of the doctor, who conducted the post-mortem, excludes the possibility of all the injuries to Suman Behera being caused in a train accident while indicating that all of them could result from the merciless beating given to him. The learned Additional Solicitor General placed strong reliance on the written opinion of Dr. K. K. Mishra, Professor & Head of the Department of Forensic Medicine, Medical College, Cuttack, given on 15-2-1988 on a reference made to him wherein he stated on the basis of the documents that the injuries found on the dead body of Suman Behera could have been caused by rolling on the railway track in between the rail and by coming into forceful contact with projecting part of the moving train/engine. While adding that it did not appear to be a case of suicide, he indicated that there was more likelihood of accidental fall on the railway track followed by the running engine/ train. In our view, the opinion of Dr. K. K. Mishra, not examined as a witness, is not of much assistance and does not reduce the weight of the testimony of the doctor who conducted the post-mortem and deposed as a witness during the inquiry. The opinion of Dr. K. K. Mishra is cryptic, based on conjectures for which there is no basis, and says nothing about the injuries being both ante-mortem and post-mortem. We have no hesitation in reaching this conclusion and preferring the testimony of the doctor who conducted the post-mortem.

"8. The doctor deposed that all the injuries were caused by hard and blunt object; the injuries on the face and left temporal region were post-

9. We may also refer to the Report dated 19-12-1988 containing the findings in a joint inquiry conducted by the Executive Magistrate and the Circle Inspector of Police. This Report is stated to have been made under S. 176, Cr. P.C. and was strongly relied on by the learned Additional Solicitor General as a statutory report relating to the cause of death. In the first place, an inquiry under S. 176, Cr. P.C. is contemplated independently by a Magistrate and not jointly with a police officer when the role of the police officer itself is a matter of inquiry. The joint finding recorded is that Suman Behera escaped from police custody at about 3 a.m. on 2-12-1987 and died in a train accident as a result of injuries sustained therein. There was handcuff on the hands of the deceased when his body was found on the railway track with rope around it. It is significant that the Report dated 11-3-1988 of the Regional Forensic Science Laboratory (Annexure 'R-8', at p. 108 of the paperbook) mentions that the two cut ends of the two pieces of rope which were sent for examination do not match with each other in respect of physical appearance. This finding about the rope negatives the respondents' suggestion that Suman Behera managed to escape from police custody by chewing off the rope with which he was tied. It is not necessary for us to refer to the other evidence including the oral evidence adduced during the inquiry, from which the learned District Judge reached the conclusion that it is a case of custodial death and Suman Behera died as a result of the injuries inflicted to him voluntarily while he was in police custody at the Police Outpost Jeraikela. We have reached the same conclusion on a reappraisal of the evidence adduced at the inquiry taking into account the circumstances, which also support that conclusion. This was done in view of the vehemence with which the learned Additional Solicitor General urged that it is not a case of custodial death but of death of Suman Behera caused by injuries sustained by him in a train accident, after he had managed to escape from police custody by chewing off the rope with which he had been tied for being detained at the Police Outpost. On this conclusion, the question now is of the liability of the respondents for compensation to Suman Behera's mother, the petitioner, for Suman Behera's custodial death.

10. In view of the decisions of this Court in Rudul Sah v. State of Bihar (1983) 3 SCR 508 : (AIR 1983 SC 1086), Sebastian M. Homgray v Union of India (1984) 1 SCR 904 : (AIR 1984 SC 571) and (1984) 3 SCR 544 : (AIR 1984 SC 1026), Bhim Singh v. State of J. & K., 1984 (Supp) SCC 504 and (1985) 4 SCC 677 : (AIR 1986 SC 494), Saheli, A Women's Resources Centre v. Commr. of Police, Delhi Police Headquarters (1990) 1 SCC 422 : (AIR 1990 SC 513) and State of Maharashtra v. Ravikant S. Patil (1991) 2 SCC 373 : (1991 AIR SCW 871) the liability of the State of Orissa in the present case to pay the compensation cannot be doubted and was rightly not disputed by the learned Additional Solicitor General. it would, however, be appropriate to spell out clearly the principle on which the liability of the State arises in such cases for payment of compensation and the distinction between this liability and the liability in private law for payment of compensation in an action on tort. It may be mentioned straightway that award of compensation in a proceeding under Art. 32 by this Court or by the High Court under Art. 226 of the Constitution is a remedy available in public law, based on strict liability for contravention of fundamental rights to which the principle of sovereign immunity does not apply, even though it may be available as a defence in private law in an action based on tort. This is a distinction between the two remedies to be borne in mind which also indicates the basis on which compensation is awarded in such proceedings. We shall now refer to the earlier decisions of this Court as well as some other decisions before further discussion of this principle.

16. Lord Hailsham while dissenting from the majority regarding the liability for compensation in that case, concurred with the majority opinion on this principle and stated at page 687, thus :-

> "............. I am simply saying that, on the view I take, the expression 'redress' in sub-s. (1) of S. 6 and the expression 'enforcement' in sub-s. (2), 'although capable of embracing damages where damages are available as part of the legal consequences of contravention, do not confer and are not in the context capable of being construed so as to confer a right of damages where they have not hitherto been available, in this case against the state for the judicial errors of a judge ...."
>
> Thus, on this principle, the view was unanimous, that enforcement of the constitutional right and grant of redress embraces award of compensation as part of the legal consequences of its contravention.

17. It follows that a claim in public law for compensation for contravention of human rights and fundamental freedoms, the protection of which is guaranteed in the Constitution, is an acknowledged remedy for enforcement and protection of such rights, and such a claim based on strict liability made by resorting to a constitutional remedy provided for the enforcement of a fundamental right is 'distinct from, and in addition to the remedy private law for damages for the tort' resulting from the contravention of the fundamental right. The defence of sovereign immunity being inapplicable, and alien to the concept of guarantee of fundamental rights, there can be no question of such a defence being available in the constitutional remedy. It is this principle which justifies award of monetary compensation for contravention of fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution, when that is the only practicable mode of redress available for the contravention made by the State or its servants in the purported exercise of their powers, and enforcement of the fundamental right is claimed by resort to the remedy in public law under the Constitution by recourse to Arts. 32 and 226 of the Constitution. This is what was indicated in Rudul Sah (AIR 1983 SC 1086) and is the basis of the subsequent decisions in which compensation was awarded under Arts. 32 and 226 of the Constitution, for contravention of fundamental rights.

22. The above discussion indicates the principle on which the Court's power under Arts. 32 and 226 of the Constitution is exercised to award monetary compensation for contravention of a fundamental right. This was indicated in Rudul Sah (AIR 1983 SC 1086) and certain further observations therein adverted to earlier, which may tend to minimise the effect of the principle indicated therein. do not really detract from that principle. This is how the decisions of this Court in Rudul Sah and others in that line have to be understood and Kasturilal (AIR 1965 SC 1039) distinguished therefrom. We have considered this question at some length in view of the doubt raised, at times, about the propriety of awarding compensation in such proceedings, instead of directing the claimant to resort to the ordinary process of recovery of damages by recourse to an action in tort. In the present case, on the finding reached, it is a clear case for award of compensation to the petitioner for the custodial death of her son."

11. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Chairman, Railway Board and others Vs. Chandrima Das (Mrs) and others (2000) 2 Supreme Court Cases 465 have held that the State has vicarious liability to pay compensation for tortuous acts of its employees. Their Lordships have further held that the doctrine of sovereign power not applicable in welfare State where functions of the State now extend to various fields which cannot be strictly related to sovereign power. Their Lordships have held as under:

"9. Various aspects of the Public Law field were considered. It was found that though initially a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution relating to contractual matters was held not to lie, the law underwent a change by subsequent decisions and it was noticed that even though the petition may relate essentially to a contractual matter, it would still be amenable to the writ jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226. The Public Law remedies have also been extended to the realm of tort. This Court, in its various decisions, has entertained petitions under Article 32 of the Constitution on a number of occasions and has awarded compensation to the petitioners who had suffered personal injuries at the hands of the officers of the Govt. The causing of injuries, which amounted to tortious act, was compensated by this Court in many of its decisions beginning from Rudul Sah v. State of Bihar, (1983) 3 SCR 508 : (1983) 4 SCC 141 : AIR 1983 SC 1086. [See also Bhim Singh v. State of Jammu and Kashmir, (1985) 4 SCC 577 : AIR 1986 SC 494; People's Union for Democratic Rights v. State of Bihar, (1987) 1 SCR 631 : (1987) 1 SCC 265 : AIR 1987 SC 355; People's Union for Democratic Rights Thru. Its Secy. v. Police Commissioner, Delhi Police Headquarters, (1989) 4 SCC 730 : 1989 (1) SCALE 598; Saheli, A Women's Resources Centre v. Commissioner of Police, Delhi, (1990) 1 SCC 422 : 1989 Supp (2) SCR 488 : AIR 1990 SC 513; Arvinder Singh Bagga v. State of U. P., (1994) 6 SCC 565 : AIR 1995 SC 117 : (1994 AIR SCW 4148); P. Rathinam v. Union of India, 1989 Supp (2) SCC 716; In Re: Death of Sawinder Singh Grower, (1995) Supp (4) SCC 450 : (1992) 6 JT (SC) 271 : 1992 (3) SCALE 34 (2); Inder Singh v. State of Punjab, (1995) 3 SCC 702 : AIR 1995 SC 1949 : (1995 AIR SCW 3037); D. K. Basu v. State of West Bengal, (1997) 1 SCC 416 : AIR 1997 SC 610 : (1997 AIR SCW 233)].

11. Having regard to what has been stated above, the contention that Smt. Hanuffa Khatoon should have approached the Civil Court for damages and the matter should not have been considered in a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution, cannot be accepted. Where public functionaries are involved and the matter relates to the violation of Fundamental Rights or the enforcement of public duties, the remedy would still be available under the Public Law notwithstanding that a suit could be filed for damages under Private Law.

12. In the instant case, it is not a mere matter of violation of an ordinary right of a person but the violation of Fundamental Rights which is involved. Smt. Hanuffa Khatoon was a victim of rape. This Court in Bodhisattwa v. Ms. Subhra Chakraborty, (1996) 1 SCC 490 : (1996 AIR SCW 325 : AIR 1996 SC 922) has held "rape" as an offence which is violative of the Fundamental Right of a person guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution. The Court observed as under (Para 10 of AIR):

"Rape is a crime not only against the person of a woman, it is a crime against the entire society. It destroys the entire psychology of a woman and pushes her into deep emotional crisis. Rape is therefore the most hated crime. It is a crime against basic human rights and is violative of the victims most cherished right, namely, right to life which includes right to live with human dignity contained in Article 21."

14. The main contention of the learned counsel for the appellants is that Mrs. Chandrima Das was only a practising advocate of the Calcutta High Court and was, in no way, connected or related to the victim, Smt. Hanuffa Khatoon and, therefore, she could not have filed a petition under Article 226 for damages or compensation being awarded to Smt. Hanuffa Khatoon on account of the rape committed on her. This contention is based on a misconception. Learned counsel for the appellants is under the impression that the petition filed before the Calcutta High Court was only a petition for damages or compensation for Smt. Hanuffa Khatoon. As a matter of fact, the reliefs which were claimed in the petition included the relief for compensation. But many other reliefs as, for example, relief for eradicating anti-social and criminal activities of various kinds at Howrah Railway Station were also claimed. The true nature of the petition, therefore, was that of a petition filed in public interest.

15. The existence of a legal right, no doubt, is the foundation for a petition under Article 226 and a bare interest, may be of a minimum nature, may give locus standi to a person to file a Writ Petition, but the concept of "Locus Standi" has undergone a sea change, as we shall presently notice. In Dr. Satyanarayana Sinha v. S. Lal and Co. Pvt. Ltd., AIR 1973 SC 2720 : (1973) 2 SCC 696, it was held that the foundation for exercising jurisdiction under Article 32 or Article 226 is ordinarily the personal or individual right of the petitioner himself. In writs like Habeas Corpus and Quo Warranto, the rule has been relaxed and modified.

17. In the context of Public Interest Litigation, however, the Court in its various judgments has given widest amplitude and meaning to the concept of locus standi. In People's Union for Democratic Rights v. Union of India, AIR 1982 SC 1473 : (1982) 3 SCC 235, it was laid down that Public Interest Litigation could be initiated not only by filing formal petitions in the High Court but even by sending letters and telegrams so as to provide easy access to Court. (See also Bandhua Mukti Morcha v. Union of India, AIR 1984 SC 802 : 1984 (2) SCR 87 : (1984) 3 SCC 161 and State of Himachal Pradesh v. Student's Parent Medical College, Shimla, AIR 1985 SC 910 : (1985) 3 SCC 169 on the right to approach the Court in the realm of Public Interest Litigation). In Bangalore Medical Trust v. B. S. Muddappa, AIR 1991 SC 1902 : 1991 (3) SCR 102 : (1991) 4 SCC 54 : (1991 AIR SCW 2082), the Court held that the restricted meaning of aggrieved person and narrow outlook of specific injury has yielded in favour of a broad and wide construction in the wake of Public Interest Litigation. The Court further observed that public-spirited citizens having faith in the rule of law are rendering great social and legal service by espousing causes of public nature. They cannot be ignored or overlooked on technical or conservative yardstick of the rule of locus standi or absence of personal loss or injury. There has, thus, been a spectacular expansion of the concept of locus standi. The concept is much wider and it takes in its stride anyone who is not a mere "busy-body".

18. Having regard to the nature of the petition filed by respondent Mrs. Chandrima Das and the relief claimed therein it cannot be doubted that this petition was filed in public interest which could legally be filed by the respondent and the argument that she; could not file that petition as there was nothing personal to her involved in that petition must be rejected."

12. The petitioners have also served legal notice upon the respondents and the reply thereof is Annexure P-28. The averments contained in the reply to the legal notice are contrary to the material placed on record by the petitioners. The respondent No. 6-Corporation, is vicariously liable for the acts of the contractor, who has undertaken the widening of the road and resultantly causing loss to the petitioners' property.

13. The petitioners have constitutional/human right to enjoy and protect their properties. A person cannot be deprived of his property save and except in accordance with law. The property of the petitioners has been damaged by the contractor(s) employed on behalf of respondent No. 6. The value of the trees was required to be calculated on the basis of the Harbans Singh, after taking into consideration inflationary trends. Thus, the value of 176 trees of apple and 18 chilgoza trees, which are completely damaged and remaining trees which are partially damaged due to debris, would not be less than rupees twelve lacs. Since there are huge boulders lying on the land of the petitioners, the same are required to be removed and it would at least incur expenditure not less than rupees three lacs. The Court while assessing the damage to completely damaged trees and remaining trees which are partially damaged due to debris, has also relied upon Annexures P-15 and P-16.

14. Accordingly, the Writ Petition is allowed. Respondent No. 6 is directed to pay compensation to the petitioners to the tune of Rs. 15,00,000/- (Fifteen lacs), with interest @ 9% per annum, from the date of filing of the petition, within a period of six weeks from today. Pending application(s), if any, shall stand disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

HPSIDC Employees Union ……Petitioners.
Versus
State of H.P. & anr. …..Respondents.

CWP No. 134 of 2009.
Reserved on: 13.5.2015.
Decided on: 20.5.2015.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Government of India had introduced Voluntary Retirement Scheme for the employees of the public enterprises- scheme was adopted by State Government as well as by HPSIDC- however, scheme was subsequently modified and instead of 1½ months' emoluments for each completed year, one month's emoluments were proposed to be given- the representation was made to the State Government which was rejected without a speaking order- held, that fixation of the date was arbitrary and had no nexus sought to be achieved by retirement scheme- all the employees who were in the service of State Government and Corporation were given the benefit - modified order is quashed and set aside- Corporation directed to grant ex-gratia payment equivalent to 1½ months emoluments as per original scheme. (Para-5 to 9)

Case referred:
D.S. Nakara & Others vs Union Of India, AIR 1983 SC 130

For the petitioners: Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Parmod Thakur, Addl. AG with Mr. Neeraj Sharma, Dy. AG for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Ajay Kumar, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Dheeraj K. Vashistha, Advocate, for respondent N o. 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, J.

The petitioner is a registered Union of the employees of the Himachal Pradesh State Industrial Development Corporation Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as the respondent-Corporation, in short). The Union of India has introduced Voluntary Retirement Scheme (VRS) for employees of the public enterprises as per memorandum dated 5.10.1988. The State Government also approved the scheme for implementation of all public sector undertakings in Himachal Pradesh. The proposal was placed before the Board of Directors of the respondent-Corporation. The same was adopted by the respondent-Corporation vide communication dated 3.2.1993 (Annexure P-2). Para (d) of the same reads as under:

> "(d) In addition, an employee whose request for Voluntary Retirement is accepted would also be entitled to an ex-gratia payment equivalent to 1.5 months' emoluments (pay + DA) for each completed year of service of the monthly emoluments at the time of retirement multiplied by the balance months of service left before normal date of retirement, whichever is less. For example an employee, who has put in 24 years of service and has got only one year of service for normal retirement will get ex-gratia payment of only 12 months emoluments and not 36 months' emoluments."

2. The Scheme was also introduced by the Corporation in the year 2000. Thereafter, vide Circular dated 6.1.2005, Scheme was again introduced. This Scheme was further re-introduced vide Annexure P-7 dated 17.3.2007. The fact of the matter is that the respondent-Corporation vide Annexure P-9 has amended the Voluntary Retirement Scheme (VRS) by substituting following clause (d):

> "(d) In addition, an employee whose request for Voluntary Retirement is accepted would also be entitled to an ex-gratia payment equivalent to one month's emoluments (Basic pay + DA) for each completed year of service or the monthly emolument at the time of retirement multiplied by the balance months of service left before normal date of retirement, whichever is less. For example an employee, who has put in 24 years of service and has got only one year of service for normal retirement will get ex-gratia payment of only 12 months emoluments and not 24 months' emoluments."

3. This has been done as per the orders of the Principal Secretary (Fin.) to the Government of H.P., dated 2.9.2008. The petitioner-Union made a representation on 11.11.2008 before the Board of Directors of the respondent-Corporation. It was referred to the State Government on 7.1.2009. The same has been rejected vide Annexure R-2/II on 22.1.2009 by retaining amended clause (d).

4. The Voluntary Retirement Scheme (VRS) was framed by the Government of India vide Office memorandum dated 5.10.1988 for the employees of the public enterprises. The same has been approved by the State Government, as noticed hereinabove, and adopted by the respondent-Corporation, w.e.f. 11.1.1993. It was re-introduced in the year 2000, 2005 and 2007.

5. It is evident from clause (d) of the Scheme, as it existed before 2008, that the ex-gratia payment was equivalent to 1 ½ months' emoluments (pay + DA) for each completed year of service or the monthly emolument at the time of retirement multiplied by the balance months of service left before normal date of retirement, whichever is less. The respondent-Corporation has accorded benefit of granting the ex-gratia payment equivalent to 1 ½ months' emoluments (pay + DA) for each completed year of service or the monthly emolument at the time of retirement multiplied by the balance months of service left before normal date of retirement to those employees who have sought voluntary retirement under Voluntarily Retirement Scheme. However, vide letter dated 2.9.2008 Annexure P-9, the ex-gratia payment has been reduced equivalent to one month's emoluments (pay + DA) for each completed year of service. This has been introduced as per the Circular dated 2.1.2009. All the employees who were in the service of respondent-Corporation have been given the benefit of ex-gratia payment equivalent to 1 ½ months' emoluments but the employees thereafter would only be paid ex-gratia payment equivalent to one month's emoluments (pay + DA), in case they seek voluntary retirement.

6. The purpose of Voluntary Retirement Scheme (VRS) is to offer golden hand shake and should have been applied uniformly to all the employees instead of creating artificial cutoff date i.e. 27.1.2009, whereby the benefits have been drastically reduced from 1 ½ months to 1 month for ex-gratia payment at the time of retirement. The cut-off date i.e. 2.9.2008 and 27.1.2009, has no nexus with the object sought to be achieved. All the employees of the respondent-Corporation constitute a homogeneous class. The employees who have sought voluntary retirement before the cut-off date, as per letter dated 2.9.2008 and 27.1.2009 were released ex-gratia payment equivalent to 1 ½ months' emoluments and employees who would seek voluntary retirement after these dates, would only get the benefit of ex-gratia payment equivalent to 1 month's emoluments (pay + DA).

7. The petitioners have made a detailed representation for not altering the ex-gratia payment from 1 ½ months to one month. The Board of Directors of the respondent-Corporation have referred the matter to the State Government on 26.12.2008. However, surprisingly, the same has been rejected on 27.1.2009 without a speaking order. The petitioners have suffered civil and evil consequences on the basis of alteration of para (d), whereby the ex-gratia payment has been reduced. The representation ought to have been decided by passing a speaking/detailed order, after taking into consideration all the pleas raised by the employees.

8. Their lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of D.S. Nakara & Others vs Union Of India, reported in AIR 1983 SC 130, have held that the date must have nexus with the object sought to be achieved and the State Government could not pick up the date arbitrarily. It has been held as follows:

> 51 We repeatedly posed a question: what are those relevant and valid considerations and waited for the answer in vain. We say so because in the written submissions filed on behalf of the Union of India, we find not a single valid or relevant consideration much less any consideration relevant to selection of eligibility criteria. The tenor is "we select the date and it is unquestionable; either take it or leave it as a whole". The only submission was that the date is not severable and some submissions in support of it.
>
> 52. Having examined the matter on principle, let us turn to some precedents. In D. R. Nim v. Union of India, (1967) 2 SCR 325 : (AIR 1967 SC 1301) the appellant questioned his seniority which was to be determined in accordance with the provisions contained in Indian Police Service (Regulation of Seniority) Rules, 1954. These rules required first to ascertain the year of allotment of the person concerned for the determination of his seniority. In doing so the Government of India directed that. officers promoted to the Indian Police Service should be allowed the benefit of their continuous officiation with effect only from 19th May, 1951. The appellant challenged the order because the period of officiation from June, 1947 to May, 1951 was excluded for the purpose of fixation of his seniority. His grievance was that there was no rationale behind selecting this date. After taking into consideration affidavit in opposition, this Court held as under:
>
> "It would be noticed that the date, May 19, 1951, to begin with had nothing to do with the finalisation of the Gradation List of the Indian Police Service because it was a date which had reference to the finalisation of the gradation list for the IAS Further this date does not seem to have much relevance to the question of avoiding the anomalous position mentioned in para 9 of the affidavit, reproduced above. This date was apparently chosen for the IAS because on this date the Gradation List for all the earlier persons required to the service had been finalised and issued in a somewhat stable stage. But why should this date be applied to the Indian Police Service has not been adequately explained. Mr, B. R. L. Iyengar. the learned counsel for the appellant, strongly urges that selection of May 19, 1951, as a crucial date for classifying people is arbitrary and irrational. We agree with him in this respect. It further appears from the affidavit of Mr. D. K. Guha, Deputy Secretary to the Government of India, Ministry of Home Affairs, dated Dec. 9, 1966, that "the Government of India have recently decided in consultation with the Ministry of Law that the Ministry of Home Affairs Letter No. 2/32/51-AIS, dated the 25th Aug., 1955, will not be applicable to those SCS/SPS Officers, who were appointed to IAS/IPS prior to the promulgation of IAS/JPS (Regulation of Seniority) Rules, 1954, and the date of the issue of the above letter if their earlier continuous officiation was approved by the Ministry of Home Affairs and Union Public Service Commission". It further appears that 'in the case of Shri C. S. Prasad also, an IPS Officer of Bihar, a decision has been taken to give the benefit of full continuous officiation in senior posts and to revise his year of allotment accordingly'. But, it is stated that "as Shri Nim was appointed to IPS on the 22nd Oct., 1955, i.e. after the promulgation of IPS (Regulation of Seniority) Rules, 1954 and after the issue of letter dated 25-8-1955, his case does not fall even under this category". The above statement of the case of the Government further shows that the date, May 19, 1951 was an artificial and arbitrary date having nothing to do with the application of the first and the second provisos to Rule 3 (3). It appears to us that under the second proviso to Rule 3 (3) the period of officiation of a particular officer has to be considered and approved or disapproved by the Central Government in consulation with the Commission considering all the relevant facts. The Central Government pick out a date from a hat --- and that is what it seems to have done in this case -- and say that a period prior to that date would not be deemed to be approved by the Central Government within the second proviso."

57. The learned Attorney General next referred to D.C. Gouse and Co. etc. v. State of Kerala & Anr. etc. (1) This Court while repelling the contention that the choice of April 1, 1973 as the date of imposition of the building tax is discriminatory with reference to Art. 14 of the Constitution, approved the ratio in the case of M/s. Parameswaran Match Works etc. supra. Even while reaching this conclusion the Court observed that it is not shown how it could be said that the date (April 1, 1973) for the levy of the tax was wide of the reasonable mark. What appealed to the Court was that earlier an attempt was made to impose the building tax with effect from March 2, 1961 under the Kerala Building Tax Act, 1961 but the Act was finally struck down as unconstitutional by this Court as per its decision dated August 13, 1968. While delivering the budget speech, at the time of introduction of the 1970-71 budget, the intention to introduce a fresh Bill for the levy of tax was made clear. The Bill was published in June 73 in which it was made clear that the Act would be brought into force from April 1, 1970. After recalling the various stages through which the Bill passed before being enacted as Act, this Court held that the choice of date April 1, 1973 was not wide of the reasonable mark. The decision proceeds on the facts of the case. But the principle that when a certain date or eligibility criteria is selected with reference to legislative or executive measure which has the pernicious tendency of dividing an otherwise homogeneous class and the choice of beneficiaries of the legislative/executive action becomes selective, the division or classification made by choice of date or eligibility criteria must have some relation to the objects sought to be achieved. And apart from the first test that the division must be referable to some rational principle, if the choice of the date or classification is wholly unrelated to the objects sought to be achieved, it cannot be upheld on the specious plea that was the choice of the Legislature."

9. Accordingly, the Writ petition is allowed. Newly substituted clause (d) of Annexure P-9 is struck down. Annexure R-2/II dated 27.1.2009 is quashed and set aside. It is declared that the employees of the respondent-Corporation shall get ex-gratia payment equivalent to 1 ½ months' emoluments (pay + DA) for each completed year of service, as per memorandum(s) P-2 dated 3.2.1993, P5 dated 6.1.2005 and P-7 dated 17.3.2007 at the time of their retirement under Voluntary Retirement Scheme. Pending application(s), if any, shall stand disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE P.S.RANA, J.

Kuldeep Thakur son of Shri Ludar Chand .....Appellant.
Vs.
State of Himachal Pradesh. ....Respondent.

Cr.Appeal No. 01 of 2013
Judgment reserved on: 23rd April, 2015
Date of Judgment: May 20, 2015

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 376- Prosecutrix, aged 14½ years old, was taken by accused 'K' to go to Rivalsar – she was taken to the house of co-accused 'H' where she was raped – prosecutrix supported the prosecution version – her testimony is trustworthy, reliable and confidence inspiring - same is corroborated by medical evidence- held, that testimony of prosecutrix is sufficient to convict a person if the same is free from blemish. (Para-11)

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 363- Prosecutrix, aged 14½ years old, did not return from the school- she was persuaded by accused 'K' to go to Rivalsar- she was taken to the house of co-accused 'H'- father of the prosecutrix specifically stated that prosecutrix had gone to school and had not returned - there was no evidence that consent of the father was taken - since prosecutrix was minor, therefore, her consent was immaterial- held, that in these circumstances, accused was rightly held liable for the commission of offence punishable under Section 363 of I.P.C. (Para-12)

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 35- Birth certificate is issued under Registration of Birth and Death Act- similarly, family register is prepared by the Public Officer in discharge of his official duty- therefore, both these documents are admissible under Section 35 of Indian Evidence Act. (Para-13)

Cases referred:

Bodhisattwa Gautam vs. Miss Subhra Chakraborty, AIR 1996 SC 922
Mohd. Alam vs. State (NCT of Delhi), 2007 Cri..L.J. 803 (Delhi)
State of Punjab vs. Gurmit Singh and others, (1996)2 SCC 384
State of Rajasthan vs. N.K. the accused, (2000)5 SCC 30
State of H.P. vs. Lekh Raj and another, (2000)1 SCC 247
Madan Gopal Kakkad Vs. Naval Dubey and another, (1992) 3 SCC 204
State of Maharashtra vs. Chander Prakash, (1990)1 SCC 550
State of U.P. vs. Chotte Lal, (2011)2 SCC 550
Harpal Singh vs. State of H.P. (Full Bench), AIR 1981 SC 361
Vidyadhar vs. Mohan, ILR 1978 HP 174
Murugan @ Settu vs. State of Tamil Nadu, AIR 2011 SC 1691
Chitru Devi vs. Ram Dai, AIR 2002 HP 59

For the Appellant: Mr. Chaman Negi, Advocate
For the Respondent: Mr. J.S. Rana Assistant Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

P.S.Rana Judge

Present appeal is filed against the judgment and sentence passed by learned Sessions Judge Mandi in Sessions Trial No 38 of 2011 titled State vs. Kuldeep Thakur and another decided on dated 28.6.2012 and quantum of sentence announced on dated 29.6.2012.

Brief facts of the case as alleged by the prosecution:-

2. It is alleged by the prosecution that on dated 2.2.2011 prosecutrix left her home in order to attend Government Senior Secondary School Chowk where she was studying. It is alleged by prosecution that age of prosecutrix was 14½ years. It is alleged by prosecution that prosecutrix did not come back and her father inquired about prosecutrix from her relatives. It is also alleged by prosecution that one Ishwar Dass noticed the prosecutrix in Baba bus which was enrouted to Kullu and on dated 4.2.2011 prosecutrix was found at Bhunter along with co-accused Kuldeep and thereafter prosecutrix and co-accused Kuldeep were brought to police station Sarkaghat and FIR Ext.PW3/A was registered. It is alleged by prosecution that on dated 2.2.2011 co-accused Kuldeep met the prosecutrix and pursuaded the minor prosecutrix to go to Rewalsar and also pursuaded the minor prosecutrix to throw away her school bag. It is alleged by prosecution that thereafter prosecutrix accompanied co-accused Kuldeep to Rewalsar in private bus namely Baba bus service and thereafter accused took the prosecutrix to Kullu. It is alleged by prosecution that co-accused Kuldeep expressed his desire to marry the prosecutrix and took the minor prosecutrix to village Kharahal in the house of co-accused Hari Singh. It is alleged by prosecution that co-accused Kuldeep committed forcible sexual intercourse with minor prosecutrix in the house of co-accused Hari Singh in the night of dated 3.2.2011. It is alleged by prosecution that Investigating Officer moved application Ext.PW9/A and requested the medical officer CHC Sarkaghat to conduct medical examination of prosecutrix. It is alleged by prosecution that no lady doctor was available in hospital CHC Sarkaghat and thereafter minor prosecutrix was forwarded to Zonal Hospital Mandi where PW9 Dr. Renu conducted the medical examination of minor prosecutrix and medical officer opined that age of prosecutrix was between 14 to 16½ years. It is alleged by prosecution that accused was also medically examined and MLC of accused Ext.PA was obtained. It is alleged by prosecution that birth certificate of prosecutrix from family register was also obtained. It is alleged by prosecution that date of birth of minor prosecutrix is dated 11.12.1996 and birth certificate of prosecutrix is Ext.PW1/C. It is alleged by prosecution that father of prosecutrix produced the photocopy of middle standard certificate of minor prosecutrix which was took into possession vide seizure memo Ext.PW2/A. It is alleged by prosecution that attendance certificate of minor prosecutrix from school was obtained and copies of school admission and withdrawal certificate were also obtained. It is alleged by prosecution that spot map Ext.PW11/C was prepared and room of co-accused Hari Singh where co-accused Kuldeep committed forcible sexual intercourse upon minor prosecutrix was located and prosecutrix identified blanket Ext.P2 which was took into possession vide seizure memo Ext.PW11/D. It is alleged by prosecution that case property was deposited in malkhana and entry was recorded in malkhana register at Sr. No. 1225/11 and abstract of malkhana register is Ext.PW5/A. It is alleged by prosecution that case property was sent to FSL Junga through PW3 Nanak Chand vide RC No. 49 of 2011 and further alleged that DNA profiling was conducted and report was obtained.

3. Learned trial Court on dated 7.9.2011 framed the charge against co-accused Kuldeep under Sections 363, 366-A and 376 IPC and learned trial Court framed the charge against co-accused Hari Singh under Section 368 IPC. Both accused persons did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

4. Prosecution examined as many as twelve witnesses in support of its case and accused persons examined one witness as defence witness:-

Sr.No.	Name of Witness
PW1	Jia Lal
PW2	Sita Devi
PW3	Ramjit Singh
PW4	HC Nanak Chand
PW5	HC Dharam Singh
PW6	Pinki Devi
PW7	Dev Raj
PW8	Pyar Chand
PW9	Dr. Renu Behl
PW10	Prosecutrix
PW11	ASI Vikram Singh
DW12	Ayesha Patial
DW1	Ludar

4.1 Prosecution and accused also produced following piece of documentary evidence in support of its case:-

Sr.No.	Description.
Ext.PW1/A	Application.
Ext.PW1/B	Copy of family register
Ext.PW1/C	Birth certificate of prosecutrix
Ext.PW2/A	Memo
Ext.PA	MLC of co-accused Kuldeep Singh
Ext.PW3/A	FIR
Ext.PW4/A	Receipt
Ext.PW4/B	Copy of RC.
Ext.PW5/A	Extract of malkhana register
Ext.PW6/A	Application
Ext.PW6/B	Copy of attendance register
Ext.PW7/A	Certificate
Ext.PW9/A	Application
Ext.PW9/B	Endorsement
Ext.PW9/C	MLC of prosecutrix
Ext.PW9/D	Noting
Ext.PW11/A	Application
Ext.PW11/B	Certificate
Ext.PW11/C	Spot map
Ext.PW11/D	Memo
Ext.PW11/E	Copy of forwarding note
Ext.PW11/F	Identification form of prosecutrix
Ext.PW11/G	Copy of forwarding note

Ext.PW11/H	Identification form of co-accused Kuldeep Singh
Ext.P1	Blanket
Ext.PW11/J	Seal impression
Ext.PW12/A	Report
Ext.PW12/B	FTA card of co-accused Kuldeep Singh
Ext.PW12/C	FTA card of minor prosecutrix
Ext.DA	Copy of family register.

5. Learned trial Court convicted appellant Kuldeep Singh under Sections 363 and 376 IPC and acquitted him under Section 366-A IPC. Learned trial Court acquitted co-accused Hari Singh qua criminal offence punishable under Section 368 IPC. Learned trial Court awarded rigorous imprisonment for a period of three years and fine to the tune of Rs.10,000/- (Rupees ten thousand only) for the offence punishable under Section 363 IPC and further directed that in default of payment of fine convicted shall further undergo simple imprisonment for six months. Learned trial Court also awarded rigorous imprisonment for a period of seven years and fine to the tune of Rs.10,000/- (Rupees ten thousand only) for offence punishable under Section 376 IPC and further directed that in default of payment of fine convicted shall further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of six months.

6. Feeling aggrieved against the judgment and sentence passed by learned trial Court appellant filed present appeal. Court heard learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellant and learned Assistant Advocate General appearing on behalf of the respondent-State and also perused the entire record carefully.

7. Question that arises for determination in present appeal is whether learned trial Court did not properly appreciate oral as well as documentary evidence placed on record and whether learned trial Court had committed miscarriage of justice as mentioned in memorandum of grounds of appeal.

8. ORAL EVIDENCE ADDUCED BY PROSECUTION:

8.1. PW1 Jia Lal has stated that he is posted as Panchayat Secretary in G.P. Dhanalag from November 2009 and on dated 19.3.2011 police of P.S. Sarkaghat moved application Ext.PW1/A before Pardhan G.P. Dhanalag. He has stated that family register of father of prosecutrix and birth register of prosecutrix obtained by police. He has stated that copy of family register is Ext.PW1/B and copy of birth certificate is Ext.PW1/C. He has stated that as per record date of birth of prosecutrix is 11.12.1996. He has stated that entry in the family register is not in his hands. He has stated that as per record information was given by one Meera Kumari. He has denied suggestion that both certificates were issued by him on the basis of wrong information.

8.2 PW2 Smt. Sita Devi has stated that she is Pardhan of G.P. Dhanalag and on dated 3.2.2011 at about 4 AM Pyar Chand resident of Majyath telephonically informed that some pony wallas had enticed away his daughter. She has stated that thereafter she advised Pyar Chand to inform the police and thereafter information was given to police officials. She has stated that she along with Pyar Chand and his relatives visited police post Bhunter and disclosed the entire matter to police. She has stated that thereafter she and relatives of prosecutrix along with one police official went to the house of accused Kuldeep. The witness identified the accused in Court. She has stated that on dated 4.2.2011 Pyar Chand handed over the middle standard examination of prosecutrix which was took into possession by police vide seizure memo Ext.PW2/A. She has stated that memo was signed by her and was also signed by one another marginal witness Ludar Chand. She has stated that she did not visit the house of Kuldeep at Bhunter.

8.3 PW3 Inspector Ranjit Singh has stated that he remained posted as SHO in P.S. Sarkaghat from November 2010 to July 2011 and on dated 4.2.2011 complainant Pyar Chand got recorded FIR Ext.PW3/A. He has stated that contents of FIR Ext.PW3/A were read over and explained to complainant Pyar Chand who accepted the same as correct and thereafter signed on FIR. He has stated that thereafter investigation of case was entrusted to ASI Vikram Singh for further investigation and after completion of investigation file was produced before him and as he found prima-facie case under Sections 363, 366-A and 376 IPC against accused persons he prepared challan and submitted the same in Court of JMIC Sarkaghat. He has stated that when the complainant came to police station for lodging FIR Ext.PW3/A his daughter and Kuldeep were with him. He has denied suggestion that accused Kuldeep was not accompanied with complainant when he came to police station to file FIR. He has denied suggestion that FIR was recorded on concocted facts. He has denied suggestion that no case under Section 368 IPC was made out against co-accused Hari Singh.

8.4 PW4 HC Nanak Chand has stated that he is posted as HHC in P.S. Sarkaghat for the last one and half years and on dated 1.4.2011 MHC Dharam Singh handed over to him one parcel stated to be containing blanket with direction to take the same to FSL Junga vide RC No. 49/2011 and further stated that on the same day he deposited the case property with FSL Junga vide receipt Ext.PW4/A. He has further stated that RC is Ext.PW4/B and case property remained intact in his custody. He has stated that his departure as well as arrival reports were recorded in daily diary of P.S. Sarkaghat. He has denied suggestion that no case property was given to him and also denied suggestion that he did not take the case property to FSL Junga.

8.5 PW5 HC Dharam Singh has stated that he is posted as MHC in P.S. Sarkaghat since 2010 and on dated 7.2.2011 ASI Vikram Singh deposited with him a parcel sealed with seven seals of T along with sample seal and he entered the parcel in Malkhana register at Sr. No. 1225/11. He has further stated that on dated 1.4.2011 he handed over the said parcel to Nanak Chand vide RC No. 49/2011. He has stated that abstract of malkhana register is Ext.PW5/A.

8.6 PW6 Pinki Devi TGT has stated that she has been posted as TGT in Government Senior Secondary school Chowk since 2006 and on dated 19.3.2011 police of P.S. Sarkaghat moved an application Ext.PW6/A and demanded copy of attendance register of 9th class for the moth of February 2011 and copy of age proof. She has stated that she was class teacher of 9th class and as such she submitted the copy of attendance register after attested from Principal. She has stated that copy of attendance register is Ext.PW6/B and name of prosecutrix is entered as Sr. No. 22 of attendance register. She has stated that as per record prosecutrix remained absent from school w.e.f. 2.2.2011 to 8.2.2011. She has stated that she has brought the original attendance register in Court. She has denied suggestion that she has wrongly marked the absence of prosecutrix in the attendance register at the instance of police. She has denied suggestion that prosecutrix did not remain absent from school w.e.f. 2.2.2011 to 8.2.2011.

8.7 PW7 Dev Raj has stated that he has brought the original admission register of Government Senior Secondary School Chowk Tehsil Sarkaghat District Mandi. He has stated that on dated 19.3.2011 police of P.S. Sarkaghat moved an application Ext.PW6/A to the Principal, Government Senior Secondary school Chowk requesting him to supply the copy of attendance register as well as copy of age proof on the basis of admission register. He has stated that thereafter he prepared certificate Ext.PW7/A on the basis of official record. He has stated that as per record prosecutrix got admitted in Government Senior Secondary School Chowk on dated 19.4.2010 and date of birth of prosecutrix is recorded as 11.12.1996. He has denied suggestion that wrong birth certificate was issued.

8.8 PW8 Pyar Chand has stated that prosecutrix is his daughter. He has stated that on dated 2.2.2011 prosecutrix had gone to attend the school at Government Senior Secondary School Chowk. He has stated that prosecutrix was student of class 10th and her age was about 14½ years. He has stated that prosecutrix did not come back to her home and he inquired from her class mates who disclosed that prosecutrix did not attend the school. He has stated that thereafter he inquired by way of telephone from his relatives about whereabouts of prosecutrix. He has stated that on same day one Ishwar Dass who was his relative and who was working as Lecturer in Pattrighat school disclosed him that he noticed that prosecutrix was sitting in Baba bus. He has stated that thereafter he reported the matter to police officials. He has stated that his relative Ishwar Dass also disclosed that Baba bus was approaching to Kullu and thereafter he hired a private vehicle and then went to Bhunter, Kullu. He has stated that on dated 4.2.2011 prosecutrix was found at Bhunter. He has stated that prosecutrix was travelling in three-wheeler along with co-accused Kuldeep. He has stated that thereafter he brought prosecutrix as well as accused Kuldeep and handed over both of them to police at P.S. Sarkaghat. He has stated that he also lodged criminal report against accused Ext.PW3/A which bears his signatures at point 'A'. He has stated that during investigation police took into possession school certificate of prosecutrix vide seizure memo Ext.PW2/A. He has stated that he also inquired whole incident from prosecutrix and prosecutrix disclosed him that she was took by accused Kuldeep to Kharahal. He has stated that prosecutrix disclosed him that she was brought to Kharahal District Kullu at the residence of maternal uncle of accused Kuldeep. He has stated that prosecutrix also disclosed him that accused Kuldeep had committed galat kaam with her twice. He has stated that prosecutrix was also medically examined. He has stated that he started search of prosecutrix at 4/4.30 PM when other students came back. He has stated that he inquired about his daughter from his brother-in-law and sister-in-law. He has stated that on dated 2.2.2011 his daughter left the home along with school bag for school. He has stated that on the same day the school bag was found at a distance of 1-1½ K.m. from his house. He has stated that bag was found during search operation. He has denied suggestion that no bag was found. He has stated that he hired the private taxi and went to Bhunter Kullu along with five persons. He has stated that prosecutrix and accused were found at Bhunter bus stand. He has stated that accused and prosecutrix told him that they came to bus stand Bhunter in three-wheeler. He has denied suggestion that prosecutrix was failed in her annual examination once or twice. He has stated that accused started living in rice sheller of his brother for about 1-1½ months prior to the incident. He has denied suggestion that accused was not living in rice sheller of his brother. He has denied suggestion that prosecutrix did not meet them at Bhunter and also denied suggestion that he did not go to Bhunter. He has denied suggestion that false case filed against the accused just to extract money from him. He has denied suggestion that age of prosecutrix was 18-19 years. He has denied suggestion that accused had no concern with prosecutrix.

8.9 PW9 Dr. Renu has stated that in the month of February 2011 she was posted as Medical Officer in Zonal Hospital Mandi and on dated 5.2.2011 lady C. Anjana brought prosecutrix present in Court and she conducted medical examination of prosecutrix. She has stated that prosecutrix aged 14 years was brought with alleged history of sexual assault by one Kuldeep who took the prosecutrix to Kullu where he assaulted her sexually. She has stated that on examination she found no injury on person of prosecutrix and on local examination a fresh mucosal injury to hymen at 9 and 6 O'clock position was found which bleeded on touch. She has further stated that an abrasion on left side of labia minora was found and vaginal swab were taken from posterior fornix of cervix and also two slides of vaginal smear were obtained and seen under microscope but no dead or alive spermatozoa was seen at the time of examination. She has also stated that on per vaginal examination one finger was introduced easily but it was difficult to introduce two fingers and uterus of prosecutrix was found ante-verted normal sized and fornices were clear. She has stated that samples were collected, sealed and handed over to police for chemical analysis. She has stated that as per her opinion prosecutrix was exposed to coitus and probable duration was less than 48 hours and she proved MLC Ext.PW9/C and has further stated that MLC bears her signatures. She has stated that as per report of Radiologist age of prosecutrix was found between 14 to 16½ years. She stated that it was bleeding on touch as such she opined it to be fresh and within 48 hours. She has denied suggestion that such injuries could be caused due to poor hygiene. She has denied suggestion that no reports of radiologist were produced before her and she also denied suggestion that she had not conducted the MLC of prosecutrix.

8.10 PW10 prosecutrix aged 15 years has stated that on dated 2.2.2011 at about 8 AM she was present in her house and at about 8 AM she moved for her school and when she reached at bus stop Nahalan then accused Kuldeep met her and he offered her to go to Rewalsar. She has stated that accused also requested her to throw away her school bag and thereafter she threw away her school bag. She has stated that thereafter accused Kuldeep took her to Rewalsar in a private bus namely Baba Bus Service and at Rewalsar she requested the accused to return back to her house but accused Kuldeep insisted her to go to somewhere. She has further stated that thereafter accused Kuldeep took her to Kullu in same bus and at Kullu accused disclosed her that he wanted to marry her. She has also stated that thereafter accused Kuldeep took her to village Kharahal in house of his maternal uncle. She has stated that co-accused Hari Singh present in Court kept the prosecutrix in his house and further stated that accused Kuldeep forcibly committed the sexual intercourse with her in the house of his maternal uncle. She has stated that accused Kuldeep kept her in his maternal uncle's house for two days. She has stated that on the second night also accused committed forcible sexual intercourse/rape with her. She has stated that after spending two days at Kharahal accused Kuldeep brought her back. She has stated that when she and co-accused Kuldeep reached at Bhunter her father along with Ghop Chand, Pardhan and other persons met them. She has stated that thereafter they were brought to P.S. Sarkaghat and thereafter her custody was handed over to her father. She has stated that her medical examination was conducted and thereafter police officials took her and co-accused Kuldeep to village Kharahal where co-accused Kuldeep identified the house of his uncle. She has stated that police also took into possession the blanket. She has stated that blanket was taken from bed from the house of maternal uncle of accused and further stated that accused committed forcible sexual intercourse with her. She has stated that accused Kuldeep took her to Kullu on the pretext of marrying her. She has stated that she was not interested to marry with co-accused Kuldeep and thereafter co-accused Kuldeep committed forcible sexual intercourse twice at Kharahal. She has stated that her date of birth is dated 11.12.1996. She has stated that accused was working in rice sheller of her uncle. She has stated that rice sheller is situated nearby to her residential house. She has stated that seven persons were found in the house where co-accused Kuldeep kept her for two days. She has stated that four of them were women and three of them were male. She has stated that on dated 3.2.2011 she remained inside the house at Kharahal and due to language problem she could not understand the language of other members of house. She has denied suggestion that co-accused Kuldeep did not work in the rice sheller of her uncle. She has denied suggestion that co-accused did not go to her village.

She has denied suggestion that co-accused Kuldeep did not take her to Kullu and also denied suggestion that co-accused did not keep her in his maternal uncle's house. She has denied suggestion that accused did not commit any forcible sexual intercourse with her. She has denied suggestion that accused did not allure her to marry. She has denied suggestion that her date of birth is 1992. She has denied suggestion that accused was falsely implicated in present case.

8.11 PW11 ASI Vikram Singh has stated that in the month of February 2011 he remained posted in P.S. Sarkaghat and after registration of FIR No. 23 of 2011 Ext.PW3/A investigation of case was entrusted to him. He has stated that he requested the medical officer to conduct the medical examination of prosecutrix. He has stated that no lady doctor was present in CHC Sarkaghat hence medical officer advised to take the prosecutrix to Zonal Hospital Mandi for medico legal examination of prosecutrix. He has stated that consequently PW9 Dr. Renu conducted the medical examination of prosecutrix and her MLC is Ext.PW9/C. He has stated that he also requested the medical officer CHC Sarkaghat to conduct the medical examination of accused. He has stated that during investigation father of prosecutrix produced the school certificate of prosecutrix which is Ext.PW2/A. He has stated that he also recorded statements of witnesses as per their version. He has stated that he prepared spot map Ext.PW11/C and prosecutrix also located the room of co-accused Hari Singh and blanket which was on the cot. He has stated that blanket was took into possession and recovery memo Ext.PW11/D was prepared. He has stated that he also obtained the copy of family register Ext.PW1/B, birth certificate of prosecutrix Ext.PW1/C by moving application Ext.PW1/A. He has stated that case property was handed over to MHC of P.S. Sarkaghat and he also obtained attendance register from GSSS Chowk and date of birth certificate of prosecutrix was also obtained. He has stated that he also filled in FT card/identification forms of prosecutrix and accused which are Ext.PW11/G and Ext.PW11/H. He has denied suggestion that blanket Ext.P2 did not belong to co-accused Hari Singh. He has denied suggestion that when he visited the spot at that time prosecutrix was not with him. He has denied suggestion that prosecutrix did not locate the room in which she was raped. He has denied suggestion that accused has been falsely implicated in present case. He has denied suggestion that accused Kuldeep did not take prosecutrix to Kullu. He has denied suggestion that co-accused Kuldeep has been falsely implicated in present case at the instance of father of prosecutrix. He has denied suggestion that he recorded the statements of prosecution witnesses at his own. He has denied suggestion that co-accused Kuldeep did not visit the house of co-accused Hari Singh.

8.12 PW12 Ayesha Patial Scientific Officer (DNA) has stated that she is posted as Scientific Officer in State Forensic Science Laboratory Junga from 2.11.2010 and on dated 1.4.2011 two sealed parcels were received in DNA division for examination and on dated 5.5.2011 four sealed parcels after biological and serological examination were received from Biology and Serology Division SFSL Junga for examination. She has stated that seals on parcels were intact and tallied with specimen seals sent with docket. She has stated that DNA profile obtained from vaginal swab female DNA fraction of prosecutrix matched with DNA profile obtained from blood sample of prosecutrix on FTA card. She has stated that DNA profile obtained from underwear of co-accused Kuldeep matched with DNA profile obtained from blood sample of co-accused Kuldeep on FTA card. She has also stated that Y-STR DNA profile obtained from salwar of prosecutrix matches completely with Y-STR DNA profile obtained from blood sample of Kuldeep Singh on FTA card. She has stated that co-accused Kuldeep could not excluded as the possible source of male DNA on salwar of minor prosecutrix. She has proved report Ext.PW12/A and proved FTA card of accused Kuldeep as Ext.PW12/B. She has stated that she had qualified M.Sc. Micro Biology from Central Institute Kasauli affiliated to HPU and posted as Scientific Officer (DNA) from dated

2.11.2010. She has stated that she also obtained training from CFSL Hyderabad from 17.1.2011 to 28.1.2011 on DNA profiling and also at FSL Sagar on DNA profiling with reference to criminal investigation. She has stated that report Ext.PW12/A was signed by her as well as by Dr. Vivek Sahajpal Assistant Director DNA Division Junga and they both of them examined the exhibits for DNA profiling. She has denied suggestion that underwear of co-accused Kuldeep and blood sample of co-accused Kuldeep on FTA card were in tampering condition. She has denied suggestion that she has not done the DNA profiling in the laboratory.

9. Statement of accused recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. He has stated that he is innocent and prosecution witnesses have deposed falsely against him. Accused also produced oral evidence in defence.

10. Defence evidence adduced by the accused

10.1. DW1 Ludar Singh has stated that he is mule driver by profession and co-accused Kuldeep present in Court did not work with him.

11. Submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellant that no criminal offence under Section 376 IPC is proved against the appellant is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Prosecutrix while appearing in witness box has specifically stated that appellant Kuldeep took the prosecutrix to Kullu on the pretext of marrying her and thereafter took the prosecutrix to village Kharahal in his maternal uncle Hari Singh's house where accused Kuldeep committed forcible sexual intercourse with prosecutrix twice during the night period. Court has carefully perused the testimony of minor prosecutrix. Testimony of minor prosecutrix is trustworthy reliable and inspires confidence of Court. There is no reason to disbelieve the testimony of minor prosecutrix. There is no evidence on record in order to prove that minor prosecutrix has hostile animus against the appellant at any point of time. Testimony of minor prosecutrix is corroborated with testimony of medical officer PW9 Dr. Renu Behl who opined that prosecutrix was exposed to coitus and medical officer has given the probable duration of sexual assault as less than 48 hours. Minor prosecutrix was medico legally examined on dated 5.2.2011. Even medical Officer PW9 Dr. Renu has clearly stated in positive manner that injury to hymen was 9 and 6 O'clock position and there was bleeding on touch of hymen. Testimony of minor prosecutrix is also corroborated by documentary evidence i.e. MLC of prosecutrix placed on record. Rape is not only a crime against a person of a victim but it is a crime against the entire society. It destroys the entire psychology of woman and pushed the woman into deep emotional crisis. Rape is a crime against the basic human rights and is violative of the victim's most cherished Fundamental Rights as mentioned in Article 21 of Constitution of India. (See AIR 1996 SC 922 titled Bodhisattwa Gautam vs. Miss Subhra Chakraborty) It is well settled law that sole testimony of prosecutrix is enough to convict the person if the testimony is free from blemish and implicit reliable. (See 2007 Cri..L.J. 803 (Delhi) titled Mohd. Alam vs. State (NCT of Delhi). It is well settled law that testimony of prosecutrix must be appreciated in the background of entire case and Courts should be alive to its responsibility and should be sensitive while dealing with cases involving sexual molestation. (See (1996)2 SCC 384 titled State of Punjab vs. Gurmit Singh and others, See (2000)5 SCC 30 titled State of Rajasthan vs. N.K. the accused, See (2000)1 SCC 247 titled State of H.P. vs. Lekh Raj and another, (1992) 3 SCC 204 Madan Gopal Kakkad Vs. Naval Dubey and another. Also see (1990)1 SCC 550 titled State of Maharashtra vs. Chander Prakash. Also see (2011)2 SCC 550 titled State of U.P. vs. Chotte Lal)

12. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellant that no criminal offence of kidnapping under Section 363 IPC is proved against appellant is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. The definition of kidnapping has been defined under Section 361 of Indian Penal Code and as per definition under Section 361 IPC the age of a female should be below 18 years at the time of kidnapping. It is well settled law that kidnapping is of two types. (1) Kidnapping from India as defined under Section 360 of Indian Penal Code and (2) Kidnapping from lawful guardianship as defined under Section 361 of Indian Penal Code 1860. It is proved on record that at the time of incident PW8 Pyare Lal was the lawful guardian of minor prosecutrix and PW8 Pyare Lal has specifically stated in positive manner that on dated 2.2.2011 prosecutrix went to school but did not return back and thereafter she was found at Bhunter along with accused Kuldeep. Testimony of PW8 Pyare Lal is also trustworthy reliable and inspires confidence of Court. There is no reason to disbelieve the testimony of PW8 Pyare Lal. It is proved beyond reasonable doubt that appellant had kidnapped the minor prosecutrix without consent of lawful guardian on dated 2.2.2011 when minor prosecutrix was student of 10th class.

13. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellant that birth certificate wherein birth of prosecutrix is proved as 11.12.1996 and middle standard examination certificate placed on record wherein date of birth of prosecutrix mentioned as 11.12.1996 and certified copy of family register placed on record have been illegally relied by learned trial Court relating to age of prosecutrix is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is proved on record that birth certificate was issued under Section 12 and 17 of the Registration of Births and Deaths Act 1969 and Rule 8 of the H.P. Registration of Births and Deaths Rules 2003 and it is also proved on record that certified copy of family register was prepared prior to incident and was issued by pubic servant in discharge of his official duty and is relevant fact under Section 35 of Indian Evidence Act. It is also proved on record that family register was also issued by public servant in discharge of his official duty and is relevant fact under Section 35 of Indian Evidence Act. It is held that middle standard examination certificate placed on record is also issued by public servant in discharge of his official duty and is relevant fact under Section 35 of Indian Evidence Act. Appellant did not adduce any positive cogent and reliable evidence in rebuttal to rebut above stated public documents issued by public servants while discharging their official duty. It was also held in case reported in AIR 1981 SC 361 titled Harpal Singh vs. State of H.P. (Full Bench) that entry made by public officials in discharge of official duty in public record is relevant fact under Section 35 of Indian Evidence Act. (Also see ILR 1978 HP 174 titled Vidyadhar vs. Mohan) Even entry in birth register is much prior to incident of rape. It was held in case reported in AIR 2011 SC 1691 titled Murugan @ Settu vs. State of Tamil Nadu that document made ante litem motam can be relied upon safely when such document is admissible under Section 35 of Indian Evidence Act 1872. It was held in case reported in AIR 2002 HP 59 titled Chitru Devi vs. Ram Dai that entries in birth register kept by competent authority under Birth and Death Registration Act 1969 is admissible in evidence.

14. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellant that present case is a case of consent and on this ground appeal filed by appellant be allowed is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Definition of rape has been defined under Section 376 of Indian Penal Code 1860 and in description 6th it has been specifically mentioned that factum of consent would be immaterial when age of prosecutrix would be under 16 years of age. In present case it is proved by way of oral as well as documentary evidence that at the time of incident age of prosecutrix was 14 years and two months and it is proved on record that prosecutrix was minor at the time of incident. Hence it is held that consent of minor is immaterial in view of description 6th mentioned in Section 375 IPC.

15. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellant that there was no resistance on the part of prosecutrix and there was no teeth bite or scratches on face of assailant from nails of prosecutrix and on this ground appeal be accepted is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is held that in view of the fact that age of prosecutrix was 14 years and 2 months at the time of incident the pleas of resistance and teeth biting and scratches on face of assailant is immaterial.

16. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellant that present case was filed due to vengeance and grudge on the part of prosecutrix and on this ground appeal be allowed is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Accused did not adduce any positive cogent and reliable evidence on record in order to prove that there was prior enmity between prosecutrix and appellant. Plea of appellant that there was prior enmity is defeated on the concept of ipse-dixit (An assertion made without proof).

17. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellant that in present case corroboration qua testimony of prosecutrix was required is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused testimony of prosecutrix. It is held that testimony of prosecutrix is trustworthy reliable and inspires confidence of Court. There are no positive reasons to disbelieve testimonies of prosecution witnesses in present case.

18. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of appellant that there is visible tampering in FIR and FIR is result of deliberation and concoctions and on this ground appeal filed by appellant be accepted is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Appellant did not adduce any positive cogent and reliable evidence on record in order to prove tampering in FIR. The plea of appellant that there was tampering in FIR is also defeated on the concept of ipse dixit (An assertion made without proof).

19. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellant that there is material contradiction and improvement in present case and on this ground appeal filed by appellant be accepted is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused the entire oral and documentary evidence placed on record. There are no material contradictions in testimonies of prosecution witnesses which goes to the root of the case. It is well settled law that minor contradictions are bound to come in criminal case when statements of prosecution witnesses are recorded after a gape of sufficient time. In present case incident took place on dated 2.2.2011 and testimonies of prosecution witnesses were recorded on 25.11.2011, 26.11.2011, 20.12.2011, 24.1.2012, 3.5.2012 and 17.5.2012 after gape of sufficient time.

20. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellant that all recoveries and specimen signatures obtained in present case are in violation of Article 20(3) of the Constitution of India and are legally inadmissible is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. In present case PW2 Sita Devi Pardhan of G.P. has proved the seizure memo of school certificate Ext.PW2/A in accordance with law. PW2 Sita Devi when appeared in witness box has stated that school certificate took into possession in her presence by Investigating Agency. Even seizure memo of blanket Ext.PW11/D also proved on record as per testimony of marginal witness namely Pyar Chand

PW8 and as per testimonies of other prosecution witnesses. Birth certificate has been proved by PW1 Jia Lal. The birth certificate Ext.PW1/C and copy of family register Ext.PW1/B proved by prosecution as per testimony of PW1 Jia Lal. Testimony of PW1 Jia Lal is also trustworthy reliable and inspires confidence of Court. There is no reason to disbelieve the testimony of PW1 Jia Lal.

21. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellant that FSL report tendered in evidence is also inadmissible in law is also rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. Court has carefully perused the FSL report placed on record. As per FSL report DNA profile obtained from vaginal swab matches with DNA profile obtained from blood sample of prosecutrix on FTA card. Even as per FSL report DNA profile obtained from underwear of accused Kuldeep Singh matches with DNA profile obtained from blood sample of accused Kuldeep Singh on FTA card. As per report of FSL placed on record, Y-STR DNA profile obtained from salwar of prosecutrix matches completely with Y-STR DNA profile obtained from blood sample of accused on FTA card. There is positive recital in FSL report placed on record that appellant could not be excluded possible source of male DNA on salwar of minor prosecutrix.

22. Another submission of learned Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellant that conviction has been based on facts which were not explained to accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and on this ground appeal filed by appellant be accepted is rejected being devoid of any force for the reasons hereinafter mentioned. It is held that learned trial Court has put all material questions to accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. relating to present case and it is further held that no miscarriage of justice has been caused to appellant by way of not putting any material questions under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

23. In view of above stated facts and case law cited supra appeal filed by appellant is dismissed. Judgment and sentence passed by learned trial Court are affirmed. It is held that learned trial Court had properly appreciated oral as well as documentary evidence placed on record and it is further held that no miscarriage of justice has been caused to appellant in present case. Appeal stands disposed of. All pending miscellaneous application(s) if any also stands disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE MANSOOR AHMAD MIR, C.J. AND HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE TARLOK SINGH CHAUHAN, J.

Municipal Corporation, Shimla …Appellant.

VERSUS

Mohinder Singh Malhi and others …Respondents.

LPA No.96 of 2009.
Decided on: May 20, 2015.

Constitution of India, 1950- Article 226- Petitioner applied for 42 days earned leave, which was sanctioned- he applied for extension of leave and when he came to join his duty he was told that his services had been terminated- he made various representations which were rejected- Municipal Corporation Act provides for giving a reasonable opportunity to the employee to the show cause- petitioner was never served with any show cause notice- petitioner was never told that his leave was not sanctioned - no inquiry was conducted – absence is not misconduct unless it is pleaded or proved that absence was willful- employer had failed to prove that absence was willful, therefore, services of the petitioner were wrongly terminated and the Writ was rightly allowed. (Para-6 to 22)

Cases referred:

Krushnakant B. Parmar vs. Union of India and another, 2012 AIR SCW 1633
State of Rajasthan & Anr. vs. Mohammed Ayub Naz., 2006 AIR SCW 197
Anant R. Kulkarni vs. Y.P. Education Society and others, (2013) 6 Supreme Court Cases 515
N.T.C. (WBAB and O) Ltd. and another vs. Anjan K. Saha, AIR 2004 SC 4255
Dr.C.N. Malla vs. State of J&K, 1999 SLJ 366

For the Appellant: Mr. Hamender Chandel, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. K.D. Shreedhar, Senior Advocate with Mr. Yudhvir Singh Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Mr.Shrawan Dogra, Advocate General, with Mr.Romesh Verma & Mr. Anup Rattan, Addl.A.Gs., and Mr.J.K. Verma, Dy.A.G., for respondents No.2 and 3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Mansoor Ahmad Mir, C.J. (Oral)

By the medium of the present appeal, the appellant-employer (writ respondent) has questioned the judgment and order, dated 7th May, 2009, passed by the learned Single Judge of this Court in CWP(T) No.1978 of 2008, titled Mohinder Singh Malhi vs. Commissioner, Municipal Corporation and others, whereby the writ petition filed by the respondent-employee (writ petitioner) was allowed and the termination order was quashed, (for short, the impugned judgment).

2. The writ petitioner, being a regular employee of the appellant-Corporation, was serving the Corporation as Junior Engineer, applied for 42 days earned leave, which was sanctioned on 24th August, 1981, made applications for extension of leave on various dates right from 7th October, 1981 to 22nd July, 1983 and in the month of February, 1985, when he came back to join his duties, he was informed, rather told, that his services stood already terminated w.e.f. 1st November, 1983, vide office order dated 18th November, 1983, by the appellant/writ respondent. The writ petitioner made representations for re-employment and also questioned the termination order by the medium of representations, which were rejected, constraining him to file the writ petition and question the impugned termination order, on the grounds taken in the memo of writ petition.

3. Appellant-Corporation resisted the writ petition. The learned Single Judge, after appreciating the rival contentions of the parties, allowed the writ petition and quashed the termination order in terms of the impugned judgment. The learned Single Judge has held that the services of the writ petitioner were terminated without conducting a regular inquiry, and thus, the said action of the appellant-employer was held to be against the principles of natural justice and in breach of the mandate of law applicable.

4. The learned Single Judge has also discussed Section 73 of the Himachal Pradesh Municipal Corporation Act, 1979, (hereinafter referred to as the Act), which is reproduced in the impugned judgment.

5. We have gone through the impugned judgment and the material available on the record and are of the view that the impugned judgment is well reasoned and needs to be upheld for the following reasons.

6. Section 73 of the Act provides for giving a reasonable opportunity to the delinquent employee for showing cause. Section 73 of the Act also postulates that in case the competent authority is satisfied that it is not reasonably practicable to give to the delinquent employee an opportunity of showing cause, then the competent authority is required to record reasons.

7. Thus, it was obligatory for the appellant-Corporation to adopt the procedure enshrined in Section 73 of the Act, which procedure was never adopted by it.

8. The Writ Court has categorically recorded that the petitioner was never served with any show cause notice. It was for the employer-appellant to plead and prove that it was not practicable to provide opportunity to show cause and hear him, for which, the appellant-Corporation was required to record reasons. The learned Single Judge has recorded categorical finding that no material was ever placed on record to show that such reasons were ever recorded by the appellant-Corporation.

9. It is beaten law of the land that for passing removal, dismissal or termination order, inquiry is required to be conducted. However, in case the requirement of conducting the inquiry is to be dispensed with, in that eventuality, reasons have to be recorded separately. While going through the writ record and the impugned judgment, one comes to an inescapable conclusion that no such reasons have been recorded or mind has been applied by the competent Authority, while dispensing with the requirement of conducting the regular inquiry. Thus on this count alone, the impugned judgment needs to be upheld.

10. It appears that the petitioner was treated as absent from duty since his application for extension of leave was not approved. However, there is nothing on the file which can be made the basis for holding that the employer has ever communicated to the employee about the non-sanction of the leave. It was for the employer to plead and prove that the employee-writ petitioner (respondent herein) has remained willfully absent from the duty.

11. Thus, the only conclusion which can be drawn in the instant case is that the services of the employee/writ petitioner were terminated without conducting a regular inquiry, though the inquiry was to be conducted in terms of Section 73 of the Act, which fact came to the knowledge of the writ petitioner only when he came for joining his duties. No opportunity was granted to the petitioner to participate in the inquiry proceedings, not to speak of hearing the petitioner at the time of imposing the penalty. In fact, without conducting the inquiry, the termination order was passed and no such ground has been carved out for dispensing with the requirement of conducting a regular inquiry. It was for the Disciplinary Authority to record reasons that the inquiry was not practicable or there were sufficient reasons to dispense with the requirement of conducting the inquiry. No such reasons have been assigned and no reasons have been recorded therefor by the Disciplinary Authority.

12. The absence of the respondent-employee has been made the foundation for passing the termination order. However, absence itself is not misconduct unless it is pleaded and proved that absence of the employee was willful.

13. The Apex Court in case Krushnakant B. Parmar vs. Union of India and another, 2012 AIR SCW 1633, has dilated on the issue as to when absence can be said to be willful. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 16 to 19 of the said decision hereunder:

> "16. The question whether 'unauthorised absence from duty' amounts to failure of devotion to duty or behaviour unbecoming of a Government servant cannot be decided without deciding the question whether absence is willful or because of compelling circumstances.
>
> 17. If the absence is the result of compelling circumstances under which it was not possible to report or perform duty, such absence cannot be held to be willful.
>
> 18. Absence from duty without any application or prior permission may amount to unauthorized absence, but it does not always mean willful. There may be difference eventualities due to which an employee may abstain from duty, including compelling circumstances beyond his control like illness, accident, hospitalization, etc., but in such case the employee cannot be held guilty of failure of devotion to duty or behaviour unbecoming of a Government servant.
>
> 19. In a Departmental proceeding, if allegation of unauthorized absence from duty is made, the disciplinary authority is required to prove that the absence is willful, in absence of such finding, the absence will not amount to misconduct.

14. The Apex Court in case State of Rajasthan & Anr. vs. Mohammed Ayub Naz., 2006 AIR SCW 197, has referred to various decisions in paragraphs 10, 12, 14, 15, 16 and 17, and has observed that in case the charge of willful absence is proved against a delinquent employee, he can be removed from service, of course after giving an opportunity of hearing. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 9 and 18 of the said decision hereunder:

> "9. Absenteeism from office for prolong period of time without prior permission by the Government servants has become a principal cause of indiscipline which have greatly affected various Government Services. In order to mitigate the rampant absenteeism and wilful absence from service without intimation to the Government, the Government of Rajasthan inserted Rule 86 (3) in the Rajasthan Service Rules which contemplated that if a Government servant remains wilfully absent for a period exceeding one month and if the charge of wilful absence from duty is proved against him, he may be removed from service. In the instant case, opportunity was given to the respondent to contest the disciplinary proceedings. He also attended the enquiry. After going through the records, the learned Single Judge held that the admitted fact of absence was borne out from the record and that the respondent himself has admitted that he was absent for about 3 years. After holding so, the learned Single Judge committed a grave error that the respondent can be deemed to have retired after seeking of service of 20 years with all retiral benefits which may be available to him. In our opinion, the impugned order of removal from service is the only proper punishment to be awarded to the respondent herein who was wilfully absent for 3 years without intimation to the Government. The facts and circumstances and the admission made by the respondent would clearly go to show that Rule 86 (3) of the Rajasthan Service Rules is proved against him and, therefore, he may be removed from service.
>
> xxxxxxxxxx xxxxxxxxxxxx xxxxxxxxxxxx
>
> 18. For the foregoing reasons, we are of the opinion that a Government servant who has wilfully been absent for a period of about 3 years and which fact is not disputed even by the learned Single Judge of the High Court has no right to receive the monetary/retiral benefits during the period in question. The High Court has given all retiral benefits which shall mean a lump sum money of lakhs of rupees shall have to be given to the respondent. In our opinion, considering the totality of the circumstances and the admission made by the respondent himself that he was wilfully absent for 3 years, the punishment of removal imposed on him is absolutely correct and not disproportionate as alleged by the respondent. The orders passed by the learned Single Judge in S. B. Civil Writ Petition No. 2239/1991 dated 24-8-2001 and of the order passed by the Division Bench in LPA No. 1073 of 2001 dated 13-12-2001 are set aside and the punishment imposed by the disciplinary authority is restored. However, there shall be no order as to costs. Order accordingly."

15. The Apex Court in another decision in Anant R. Kulkarni vs. Y.P. Education Society and others, (2013) 6 Supreme Court Cases 515, has widened on purpose of inquiry against a delinquent. It is apt to reproduce paragraph 17 of the said decision hereunder:

"17. The purpose of holding an enquiry against any person is not only with a view to establish the charges levelled against him or to impose a penalty, but is also conducted with the object of such an enquiry recording the truth of the matter, and in that sense, the outcome of an enquiry may either result in establishing or vindicating his stand, and hence result in his exoneration. Therefore, fair action on the part of the authority concerned is a paramount necessity."

16. The Apex Court in N.T.C. (WBAB and O) Ltd. and another vs. Anjan K. Saha, AIR 2004 SC 4255, has held that the delinquent official must be given an opportunity to show cause and he should be heard on the proposed penalty. It is apt to reproduce paragraph 11 of the said decision hereunder:

"11. As a result of the discussion aforesaid this appeal preferred by the employer is partly allowed. The impugned orders of the High Court to the extent they direct reinstatement in service of the respondent with full monetary dues are set aside. It is directed that in accordance with the legal position explained in the case of B. Karunakar and Ors. (supra) [in paragraph 31 as quoted above], there would be a formal reinstatement of the employee for the limited purpose of enabling the employer to proceed with the enquiry from the stage of furnishing him with the copy of the enquiry report. The employer can place him under suspension for completing the enquiry. After conclusion of the enquiry in the manner as directed in the case of B. Karunakar and Ors. (supra), if the employee is exonerated, the authority shall decide according to law how the intervening period from the date of his dismissal to the date of his reinstatement shall be treated and what consequential benefits should be granted. If on the contrary, the employee is found to be guilty, before taking final decision he should be heard on the proposed penalty in accordance with clause 14(4)(c) of the Standing Order on the quantum of punishment."

17. The Jammu and Kashmir High Court, in Dr.C.N. Malla vs. State of J&K, 1999 SLJ 366, wherein also the charge of overstaying the leave was framed against the delinquent employee, has held the termination, without holding inquiry, to be bad and not sustainable in the eyes of law.

18. Applying the above tests to the instant case, the employer has failed to establish on record that the absence of the employee/writ petitioner was willful.

19. The inquiry was to be conducted in view of the mandate of Section 73 of the Act and in the inquiry proceedings, notice was to be issued to the employee/writ petitioner and he was to be heard. Though it is pleaded by the employer that notice was sent to the writ petitioner, but the same was received back unserved. It has been pleaded by the appellant-employer that a notice was issued in the newspaper, which plea has been rightly turned down by the learned Single Judge on the ground that it is not clear whether the said newspaper had wide circulation in the area in which the writ petitioner was residing at the relevant point of time. What steps thereafter the Disciplinary Authority has taken, is not forthcoming. Even, to conduct the inquiry in absentia, the procedure was to be followed and it was imperative for the Authority concerned to record finding about the willful absence of the employee, whether that absence could be termed as misconduct or otherwise and in case he was found to be guilty, he was to be heard on the proposed penalty, which has not been done in the present case. Thus, the order of termination is against the principles of natural justice and came to be passed in breach of the provisions of the Act.

20. During the course of hearing, the learned counsel for the appellant-Corporation submitted that the Corporation has initiated the regular inquiry against the respondent-employee, which is likely to be concluded within two months. Here, we may place on record that the Writ Court, vide the impugned judgment, has already granted opportunity to the appellant-Corporation to conduct a regular inquiry against the employee-respondent as per the law applicable.

21. Having said so, the Writ Court has passed a well reasoned judgment, which warrants no interference.

22. Viewed thus, the impugned judgment needs to be upheld and the instant appeal merits to be dismissed. Ordered accordingly.

23. Pending CMPs, if any, also stand disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE DHARAM CHAND CHAUDHARY, J.

S.M. Katwal ... Petitioner/Appellant.
Versus
Virbhadra Singh and others ... Respondents.

Cr.M.P.(M) No. 11350 of 2013.
Reserved on: 22nd April, 2015.
Decided on: 20th May, 2015.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 2 (wa)- Victim is a person who has suffered any loss or injury on account of an act or omission with which accused persons have been charged- petitioner claimed that he had set the criminal law in motion and, therefore, he falls within the definition of victim- complainant had made a complaint on the basis of which an inquiry was conducted but FIR was not lodged– complainant has enmity with accused and, the possibility of filing complaint to wreak-vengeance cannot be ruled out- when the prosecution lodged an FIR on the basis of complaint, it is only the State which can prefer an appeal and not the complainant or informant who is not a victim. (Para-34 to 58)

Limitation Act, 1963 - Section 5- Petitioner claiming himself to be a victim filed an appeal against the judgment of acquittal- appeal is barred by limitation- an application for condonation of delay was filed pleading that petitioner came to know about the judgment from the newspaper- State had not preferred any appeal against the acquittal and, therefore, petitioner had to file the appeal- explanation furnished by the petitioner is vague, cryptic and highly unbelievable – petitioner was present in the Court when judgment was announced- acquittal gained wide publicity on the next day and therefore, petitioner would come to know about the judgment, hence, application is liable to be dismissed.

(Para-75 to 89)

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Sections 3 and 65 (B)- Prosecution relied upon the conversation between the accused and 'K' to prove the acceptance of bribe- held, that before acting upon the electronic record, Court has to consider whether it is genuine or not- technology of preparing CD was not in existence in the year 1989-90 when the bribe was allegedly received by the accused – no evidence was produced to show as to what was the device used for recording the CD- whether such device was technically in order- the name of the person who recorded the conversation was also not mentioned- FSL had raised certain queries which was not answered- there were contradictions in the testimonies of the witnesses- there was no evidence against the accused except CD - therefore, acquittal of the accused in these circumstances was justified. (Para-96 to 120)

Cases referred:

Joginder Singh v. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2013(2) RCR (Criminal) 60
Sheo Nandan Paswan v. State of Bihar and others, AIR 1987 SC 877.
Balasaheb Rangnath Khade v. State of Maharashtra and others, 2012 (2) CCR 381
Ram Kaur @ Jaswinder Kaur v. Jagbir Singh @ Jabi and others (2010) 3 RCR (Cri.), 391 (DB)
Bhavuben Dineshbhai Makwana v. State of Gujarat and others, 2013 Cri.L.J. 4225
National Commission for Women v. State of Delhi and another, (2010) 12 SCC 599
State of Tamilnadu v. N. Suresh Ranjan and others, 2014 (1) RCR (Cr.) 572.
State (NCT of Delhi) v. Ahmed Jaan, 2008 Cri.L.J, 4355
State of Nagaland v. Lipok A.O. and others (2005) 3, SCC, 752
State of Gujarat v. Kaliashchandra Badriprasad, 2001 (1) RCR (Criminal) 162
Oriental Aroma Chemical Industries Limited v. Gujarat Industrial Development Corporation and another (2010) 5 SCC, 459
Lanka Venkateswarlu (dead) by LRs. v. State of Andhra Pradesh and others, (2011) 4 SCC 363
Maniben Devraj Shah v. Municipal Corporation of Brihan Mumbai, (2012) 5 SCC 157
P.K. Ramachanderan v. State of Kerala, AIR 1998 SC, 2276
S. Partap Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 1964 SC 72
Yusufalli Esmail Nagree v. The State of Maharashtra, AIR 1968 SC 147
Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer and others, AIR 2015 SC 180
State (NCT of Delhi) v. Navjot Sandhu alias Afsan Guru, (2005) 11 SCC 600

For the petitioner/appellant:	Mr. A.P.S. Deol, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Virbahadur Verma and Mr. Adhiraj Singh Thakur, Advocates.
For respondents No.1 & 2:	Mr. R.S. Cheema, Senior Advocate, with M/s. Ajay Kochhar, Satyen Vaidya and Vivek Sharma, Advocates.
For respondent No.3:	Mr. R.M. Bisht and Mr. P.M. Negi, Deputy Advocates General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.

Petitioner S.M. Katwal is an IAS Officer (Retd.). He claims himself to be a 'victim' within the meaning of Section 2(wa) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, in short to be referred as 'the Code', hence aggrieved by the judgment dated 24th December, 2012, in Corruption Case No.9-S/7 of 2010, passed by learned Special Judge (Forests), Shimla, acquitting accused-private respondents Virbhadra Singh and his wife Pritibha Singh from the charges under Sections 7, 9, 11, 13(1)(d) read with Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 and under Section 120-B of the Indian Penal Code framed against each of them. Hence he has filed a petition under Section 378(4) of the Code seeking leave to appeal along with memorandum of appeal under Section 372 of the Code. The appeal, however, is time barred, therefore, the present petition for condonation of delay has been filed on the grounds, inter alia that while he was at PGI, Chandigarh during the months of January-March, 2013 attending to his ailing wife there, he came to know about the judgment dated 24th December, 2012 under challenge in the appeal, through newspaper. He is having no access to the record nor engaged any lawyer to prosecute the case on his behalf. On coming to know that the State of Himachal Pradesh ruled by the Congress Party Government and accused-respondent No.1 the Chief Minister, who is holding the charge of Home Department also and therefore, prosecutor and the accused became one and the same having common interest not to pursue the case for filing the appeal against the judgment of acquittal, the petitioner has come forward to prefer an appeal against the judgment in the capacity of a 'victim'. An age old rule "nullum tempus qut locus occurrit regi" embedded in criminal justice delivery system has been pressed into service and it is submitted that the Parliament while acknowledging the said rule has prescribed no period of limitation for filing the appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code against an order of acquittal. The rule of limitation, according to the petitioner, cannot be mechanically applied in a case of this nature. He having obtained Photostat copy of the judgment under challenge in the month of August, 2013 has preferred the appeal immediately thereafter. It has been urged that the delay, as occurred in filing the appeal is not intentional, but attributed to the compelling circumstances under which he was made to search for the relevant record required for the purpose of drafting the grounds of appeal.

2. The stand of the respondent-State in reply to the petition in a nutshell is that in the opinion of the District Attorney it was not a fit case for filing an appeal. The said opinion was examined in the office of Additional Director General, State Vigilance & Anti Corruption Bureau, Himachal Pradesh and the file was forwarded to Additional Secretary (Home/Vig.). Based upon the opinion of the District Attorney and that of Joint Director (Prosecution) in the office of Additional Director General, State Vigilance & Anti Corruption Bureau, Himachal Pradesh, the case file along with relevant record was sent to the Law Department for seeking final opinion. In the office of Law Department the case being of no evidence, a conscious decision was taken for not preferring the appeal. It is pointed out that in a police challan no private individual other than victim can prefer appeal against acquittal. The petitioner allegedly is not a victim because initially it is the State Government, which took a conscious decision to hold vigilance enquiry into the allegations against accused-respondents No.1 and 2 and after submission of enquiry report a decision was taken to register a case against them. Consequently, FIR No.27 of 2009 came to be registered against them on 3rd August, 2009 at the instance of Superintendent of Police in the capacity of complainant. Therefore, the petitioner is stated to be neither complainant nor victim as defined under Section 2(wa) of the Code and as such is not entitled to prefer an appeal under Section 372 of the Code.

3. Private respondents in separate reply filed on their behalf have given the details of the criminal cases, which were registered against the petitioner and all those cases the petitioner instituted against the 1st respondent and have submitted that the petitioner is under an impression that the criminal cases against him were registered at the instance of accused-respondent No.1 and the appeal has been filed by him with ulterior motive. It is denied that the petitioner came to know about the announcement of judgment of acquittal during the months of January-March, 2013. Rather the judgment dated 24th December, 2012 was given wide publicity in the print as well as electronic media on 25th December, 2012. Not only this, but the statement of the petitioner as one of the witnesses was recorded on the day of announcement of the judgment, i.e., 24th December, 2012 itself and while appearing as a witness he was fully aware about the conclusion of the trial. The appeal having been filed beyond the period of 90 days, is said to be time barred. It has also been urged that the petitioner is neither a complainant nor victim within the meaning of Section 2(wa) of the Code, hence not competent to file the appeal against their acquittal.

4. In the counter reply (rejoinder) while denying the contentions to the contrary being wrong and reiterating the case as set out in the petition, it is pointed out that accused-respondent No.1 is acting in mala fide manner and with ulterior motive to settle scores not only with the petitioner, but also with all Officers/Officials namely, Dr. D.S. Minhas, former Director General of Police, Himachal Pradesh, Shri I.D. Bhandari, the then Additional Director General, Shri Daya Sagar, Inspector (Retired) and Shri Hardesh Bisht, the then Superintendent of Police, Vigilance (now Retired), the Investigating Officers, who supervised the proceedings in the case registered against him and his wife accused-respondent No.2 in one way or the other/investigated the same. The instances of harassment of the above Police Officers have also been highlighted in the counter reply with the help of documents, i.e., Annexure P-3, representation of Dr. D.S. Minhas to Secretary (Home), Government of India against the request made by the State Government for seeking permission to charge-sheet him in connection with the case in hand registered against accused-respondents No.1 and 2, Annexure P-4, a charge-sheet served upon Shri Daya Sagar, the then Inspector, Vigilance, who has investigated the case partly and Annexure P-5, copy of FIR No.5 dated 29th April, 2014 registered under Section 218 of the Indian Penal Code against Shri Hardesh Bisht, the then Superintendent of Police, SIU and Shri Daya Sagar aforesaid with the allegation that they did not investigate the case against the accused in a fair manner.

5. It is in this backdrop, the questions that the petitioner has shown sufficient cause for condonation of delay and that he is victim within the meaning of Section 2(wa) of the Code and entitled to prefer the appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code, have to be examined and answered, however, before that it is desirable to take note of the facts leading to the institution of the appeal along with this petition and also the arguments addressed by learned Counsel on both sides.

6. Accused-respondent No.1 Virbhadra Singh is the Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh. Accused-respondent No.2 Pritibha Singh, a former Member of Parliament is his wife. Accused-respondent No.1 remained Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh during the period 1985-1990 also. PW-21 Major Vijay Singh Mankotia, former Minister of Himachal Pradesh in the month of May, 2007 received a secret information at Shimla about the audio-cassette having recording of the voice of accused-respondent No.1. The informer arranged to supply the audio-cassette to PW-21, which was found in an envelop alongwith his other Dak nearby the door of MLA flat where he was residing. He played and heard the audio-cassette and found the same to be containing the conversation of accused-respondent No.1 with Shri Mohinder Lal, the then Deputy Commissioner, Shimla, that of accused-respondent No.2 and said Shri Mohinder Lal and also that of Shri Kedar Nath Sharma, the then OSD-cum-Private Secretary to accused-respondent No.1 and said Shri Mohinder Lal qua the exchange of money in lacs of rupees between the accused-respondents on one side and Mr. Piyush Jain of Mini-Steel Plant, Mr. Suresh Neotia and Mr. P.C. Jain of M/s. Gujarat Ambuja Cement, Brigadier Kapil Mohan, owner of Mohan Meakin through one Mr. Suresh Kapoor of Mohan Meakin Brewery and one Mr. Mittal of Kangra on the other.

7. PW-21 has convened the press conference on 28th May, 2007. The audio-cassette was played in that conference in the presence of media persons and released to the media. The audio-cassette was given wide publicity in the media. Petitioner S.M. Katwal (PW-37) having gone through the news-item in the issues of Hindi dailies "Dainik Bhaskar" and "Divya Himachal" dated 29th May, 2007, has reported the matter to Station House Officer, Police Station, Vigilance and Anti Corruption, Shimla vide petition dated 30th May, 2007 (Ext.PW-37-A). The contents of the same read as follows:

> "Your attention is invited towards the news published in the Hindi Dailies, Dainik Bhaskar and Divya Himachal of 29-5-2007 containing details of telephonic conversation between a high officer and reportedly the present CM and his wife and mentioning others, about payment/acceptance of huge sums of money. The facts, prima facie disclose commission of offences, under the PC Act and Specific Corrupt Practices Act, IPC (Conspiracy) and other laws. I request that a case against the persons named/mentioned therein be registered and action as per law be taken against the persons, and a copy of the FIR so registered may be supplied to me, as per law. It is no excuse that the case is old or that I have no locus standi. There is no time limit in such like cases and any body can set the law in motion.
>
> Earlier also, I had requested that a case be registered about jobs on chits, and when no action was taken I had to pray to the Hon'ble High Court and as per directions of the Hon'ble Court, a case (FIR No.1/2006) was registered. It is another matter that under pressure and deliberately, no accused was named and efforts have been and are being made to dilute the offences and the cases, about which the Hon'ble Supreme Court in a recently reported case has taken a serious view. Non action or non response will mean that you are also committing an offence under sections 120B, 217, 218 of the IPC and I may have to approach the Hon'ble High Court again impleading your as a party."

8. On receipt of the complaint (Ext.PW37-A) supra, the Vigilance Headquarter forwarded the same to the Secretary-cum-Director Vigilance, Government of Himachal Pradesh vide letter No.Vig-Compl.199/2007 (SML)-8687/Confidential dated 7th June, 2007 for issuance of necessary directions in the matter. Since the complaint was against former Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh and his wife having reference of CD released by PW-21, the Government decided to get the matter enquired into from the Vigilance Department. The Vigilance Headquarters was directed to take appropriate action in the matter and submit the report to the Government. One CD and copy of CWP No.1913 of 2007 (Ext.PW-37/B) filed by S.M. Katwal (PW-37) was also forwarded to Vigilance Headquarters.

9. Consequently, the Vigilance Headquarters entrusted the enquiry to Shri Anand Pratap Singh, Superintendent of Police, State Vigilance and Anti Corruption Bureau, Southern Zone, Shimla, vide letter dated 18th February, 2008. Shri Anand Pratap Singh aforesaid sought for the service record of Shri Mohinder Lal from General Administration Department of Himachal Pradesh and also sought the voice samples of accused-respondents No.1 and 2 from the Director, Public Relations Department, Himachal Pradesh. The record and voice samples so sought were received. It is on 2nd May, 2008 the Inquiry Officer recorded the statement of Shri Mohinder Lal in the presence of Shri I.D. Bhandari, the then Additional Director General of Police and Shri Ashok Tiwari, Deputy Inspector General, which reads as follows:

> "I have heard the CD today purported to have been converted from a tape recorded sometime in the year 1989. At that time there was no CD but only Tape Recorders were available. I do not know as to how and where it has been recorded. The contents of the CD contain prima facie my conversation with the then Chief Minister, his wife and Shri K.N. Sharma etc. Prima facie the voice in the CD is mine and as far as I remember the conversation has taken place. As regards the names of the persons and the detail thereof the same must have recorded by Rani Sahiba and may be obtained from her. The persons, who made contributions as far as I remember, were sent to the Chief Minister's house on various occasions and the present CD is a version of those occasions which happened and appears to have been recorded on various dates and made into one tape/CD. I am available for any further clarification based on my memory at any time as and when needed, as the matter relates to long time back."

10. The samples of voice of the accused-respondents supplied by the office of Director, Public Relations, Himachal Pradesh were sent to Forensic Science Laboratory, Chandigarh for comparison and report. The Forensic Science Laboratory has submitted its opinion, which reads as follows:

> "Hence, the voice samples marked 'Exh-Q1 and Exh-S1' are probable voice of the same person (Smt. Praibha Singh)".
>
> "Hence, the voice samples of speakers marked 'Exh-Q2 and Exh-S2' are voice of the same person (Sh. Virbhadra Singh, Former Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh) with high probability."

11. The record pertaining to allotment of steel plant to one Piyush Jain was requisitioned from the Managing Director, HPSIDC, Shimla. The same was received and Shri Ashok Tiwari, Deputy Inspector General (Vigilance), has examined the same on the directions of the then Additional Director General Vigilance and submitted the report on 14th May, 2008 highlighting therein that the Committee had helped Shri Piyush Jain in the matter of allotment of the steel plant. The exchange of money between R.R., who in the opinion of the Inquiry Officer could have been Shri Rangila Ram Rao, the then Industry Minister-cum-Chairman of Board of Directors and Piyush Jain also surfaced, as per the conversation recorded in the CD.

12. Shri Santosh Patial, Superintendent of Police, Sate Vigilance and Anti Corruption Bureau, Northern Range, Dharamshala, was directed to interrogate Major Vijay Singh Mankotia (PW21) in the matter. The audio-cassette was taken into possession by Shri Paras Ram, Dy.S.P. (Vigilance) on 21st May, 2008 from Major Vijay Singh Mankotia.

13. After conducting the enquiry, the Inquiry Officer Shri Anand Pratap Singh has submitted the report dated 18th August, 2008 to the Vigilance Headquarters, which reads as follows:

> "To the Addl. Director General of Police SV&ACB, Shimla dated Shimla-2, the 18th August, 2009. Subject:- Complaint against former Chief Minister and his wife made by Shri S.M. Katwal IAS (Retd.) on the basis of CD released by Sh. Mankotia. Sir, A complaint dated 16-2-08 (No.Home (Vig) A(5) 147/2007 MLA) was received from Principal Secretary, Home and Vigilance to enquire into the C.D. released by Mr. Vijay Singh Mankotia and CWP 1913/07 filed by Sh. S.M. Katwal, IAS (Retd.) in Hon'ble High Court in this regard. 2. During enquiry, a transcript of the C.D. was made and statement of Sh. Mohindra Lal IAS (Retd.) was recorded on 02-05-08. The statement of Sh. S.M. Katwal IAS (Retd.) was recorded on 07-05-08. On 15-05-08 the statements of Sh. Chaman Kapoor, Sh. Rajinv Bhanot and Smt. Santosh Saini were also recorded at Una. 3. On 08-05-08, the C.D. submitted by Sh. S.M. Katwal IAS (Retd.) was sent for Auditory Analysis to Central Forensic Laboratory, Chandigarh, alongwith a Video C.D. which contained voice samples of both Sh. Virbhadra Singh and Smt. Praibha Singh, and a Digital Video Cassette, which contained the voice samples of Smt. Pratibha Singh. Both the Video C.D. and the Digital Video cassette were obtained from the Director Public Relation H.P. 4. On 21-05-08 Sh. Vijay Singh Mankotia also handed over an audio cassette to the Vigilance team handed by Dy.S.P SV&ACB Dharamshala purporting to contain the voices of Sh.Virbhadra Singh, Smt. Pritabha Singh and Sh. Mohinder Lal, IAS (Retd.). This cassette was sent to Central Forensic Science Laboratory, Chandigarh, on 23-05-08. 5. According to Sh. Mohinder Lal, the voices belong to him, Sh. Virbhadra Singh, Smt. Pratibha Singh and Sh. K.N. Sharma (now deceased). He has also stated that "the persons, who made contributions as far as I remember, were sent to the Chief Minister's House on various occasions and the present CD is a version of those occasions which happened and appears to have been recorded on various dates and made into one tape/CD". He was evasive and did not comment on 'how' and 'where' it was recorded. 6. Sh. S.M. Katwal IAS (Retd.) in this statement has also stated that since he was posted as SDM Rampur in the past and had worked with Sh. Virbhadra Singh in various capacities, he was familiar with his voice and was certain that the voice in the C.D. was that of Sh. Virbhadra Singh. He was also familiar with the voices of Smt. Pratibha Singh and Sh. Mohinder Lal, IAS (Retd.) and was certain that the CD in question also contained their voices. 7. Shri Chaman Kapoor, Sh. Rajiv Bhanot and Smt. Santosh Saini, whose statements were also recorded at Una have claimed to identify the voices in the CD as those of Sh. Virbhadra Singh, Smt. Pratibha Singh and Sh. Mohinder Lal IAS (Retd.). 8. The report from Central Forensic Science Laboratory, Directorate of Forensic Science (No.CFSL/301/08/Phy/62/08-484 dated 8/8/08), copy attached, opines as under: "The auditory analysis of recorded speech samples of speakers marked 'Exh-Q1 and Exh-S1' and subsequent acoustic analysis of the recorded speech samples of the speakers marked Exh-Q1 and Exh-S1 by using Computerized Speech Lab (CSL), revealed that voice exhibits of speakers marked 'Exh-Q1' are similar to the voice exhibits of speaker marked 'Exh-S1' in respect of their acoustic cues and other linguistic and phonetic features. Hence the voice samples of speakers marked 'Exh-Q1' and 'Exh-S1' are probable voice of the same person (Smt. Pratibha Singh)". "The auditory analysis of recorded speech samples of speakers marked 'Exh-Q2' and 'Exh-S2' and 'Exh-S2' and subsequent acoustic analysis of the recorded speech samples of the speakers marked 'Exh-Q2' and 'Exh-S2' by using Computerized Speech Lab (CSL), revealed that voice exhibits of speakers marked 'Exh-Q2' are similar to the voice exhibits of speakers marked 'Exh-S2' in respect of their acoustic cues and other linguistic and phonetic features. Hence the voice samples of speakers marked 'Exh-Q2' and Exh-S2' are voice of the same person (Sh. Virbhadra Singh, Former Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh) with high probability". 9. A study of the transcripts and contents of the C.D. reveals a total of nine conversations by Sh. Mohinder Lal, four with Smt. Pratibha Singh, four with Sh. Virbhadra Singh and one with K.N. Sharma. During the course of the conversation the following points comes to notice: 1) The conversations took place immediately prior to the Lok Sabha Elections of February, 1990, as there is discussion regarding 4 seats of Lok Sabha from Himachal Pradesh, and since Shri Mohinder Lal is of the opinion that these conversations took place in 1989, it may be reasonably inferred that the conversations took place during the last months of 1989 and may have gone into the early months of 1990 before the Vidhan Sabha elections. 2) The following persons appeared to have made contributions':1) Atma Ram 2.) Owner of Ambuja Cement 3.) Mr. Jain (In connection with a hotel in Manali 4.) Mr. Kapur of Mohan Meakins 5) Owner of Kangra Flour Mills 6.) One Mr. Mittal from Kangra 7.) Some person from Gujarat 8.) Some person from K&K 9.) One Mr. Neotia. 10.) Mr. Piyush Jain (in connection with the allotment of a steel plaint) 3. There is also a reference of helping "these people as and when the opportunity arises" 4.) There is mention of collection of more than 25 lacs as against the target of 15 lacs. 10. During enquiry the following facts also came to light: 1. A project was awarded to Gujarat Ambuja Cement Ltd. for the manufacture of all types of cements for Rs. 150 crores on 19.2.90, and that this project was under consideration during the period when conversation took place. 2. A mini steel plant project of Mr. Piyush Jain (Sl No. 10) was under consideration during the period when conversation took place. 3. A case of Hotel Honeymoon Inn (then called Hotel Hill Huts) was also pending with the government during the period when conversation took place. An FIR for illegal purchase was also registered against Sh. Satish Chand Jain (Sl No.3) along with revenue employees, in the Vigilance department in 1989 and was under investigation at the time of these conversations. The case was not charge sheeted subsequently because Mr. Satish Chand Jain passed away. A departmental inquiry against revenue officials was ordered. The land was eventually transferred to Hotel Hill Huts by the order of Financial Commissioner-cum-Secretary (Rev) vide order No.Rev 2 F(10)38/88 dated 10/9/1992. 4. Shri Mohinder Lal's case for promotion into the super time Scale was also pending for which DPC was to take place at the time of these conversations and there are references to it. 11. The contents of the C.D. Suggest that

Sh. Mohinder Lal I.A.S. (Retd.), posted as Director of Industries, was a conduit for arranging delivery of money to Sh. Virbhadra Singh through various industrialists. It is quite obvious that a record was maintained of the amount collected. There is also a reference of an amount having being paid by Sh. Piyush Jain 'Rao Sahab' on allotment of the Steel Mill. 12. Since the voice samples have been matched by CFSL the identity of the speakers is clear. Furthermore, Sh. Mohinder Lal, IAS (Retd.) in his statement identifies these voices as his own and as those of Sh. Virbhadra Singh and Smt. Pratibha Singh. It is also pertinent to mention here that no clues recording where or how or by whom the C.D was made, came to light during inquiry, as the matter in question pertains to 1989. Shri S.M. Katwal IAS (Retd.) only mentions that the C.D was found in his letter box during the time of Lok Sabha Elections. Shri Mohinder Lal, IAS (Retd.) and Sh. Vijay Singh Mankotia has also not provided any information in this regard. 13. During the course of enquiry evidence of allotment of Ambuja Cement and Steel Mill to Sh. Piyush Jain and case of Hotel Honeymoon Inn on behalf of Sh. Sathish Chand Jain also came to light. It cannot be established where any favours were indeed given to any of the contributors mentioned above in the letter. But it is quite clear that these matters were pending with the Government towards the end of 1989. 14. Sec. 13 1(d) (ii) and (d) (iii) of the PC act 1988 define Criminal Misconduct as under: 13. Criminal Misconduct by Public Servant (1) A Public servant is said to commit the offence of criminal misconduct, (d) if he,--(ii) by abusing his position as public servant, obtains for himself or for any other person any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage; or (iii) while holding office as a public servant, obtains for any person any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage, without any public interest. The inquiry is complete and the facts that have come to light have been disused above. The entire record collected during the course of enquiry is in the custody of the undersigned. Hence the report is submitted as desired by your letter No. Vig. Compl-199/2007(SML)-2418 dated 18/2/2008." Thanking You, Yours faithfully, Sd/- A.P. Singh, SP SV&ACB SR Shimla."

14. The Additional Director General of Police State Vigilance and Anti Corruption Bureau, Himachal Pradesh has forwarded the report to Principal Secretary (Home) and Vigilance vide letter No.16345 dated 9th September, 2008, with his opinion that prima facie a cognizable offence is found to have been committed by the accused-respondents and that it is the Government, which is the competent authority to take final decision in this regard.

15. The matter was examined in the Home Department and vide letter No.Home(Vig.)A(5)147/2007 (MLA&MP) Govt. of HP Department of Home (E-Section) dated 31st July, 2009, the Vigilance Headquarter was informed as under:

> "As per opinion of the Law Department, the Police Officer has to take an independent decision after due application of mind. You are therefore, requested to take further necessary action in the matter. Enquiry report as received from your office is returned herewith."

16. The above communication was received in the Vigilance Headquarter on 1st August, 2009 and on the receipt thereof, Director General of Police, State Vigilance and Anti Corruption Bureau, Shimla, has ordered as under:

> "Get the case registered in P.S. SV&ACB, Shimla and let it be investigated by S.P. (SIU) SV&ACB, Shimla."

17. It is how the case vide FIR No.27 of 2009 came to be registered against the accused-respondents by Shri Arvind Digvijay Singh Negi, the then Additional Superintendent of Police, Incharge, Police Station, State Vigilance and Anti Corruption Bureau, Shimla, under Sections 8, 9, 10, 13(1) (d)(i)(ii) read with Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 and Section 120-B of the Indian Penal Code.

18. The investigation was entrusted to Special Investigating Unit vide letter No.Reader/SR/09-5045 dated 3rd August, 2009. The Investigating Officer had obtained the notifications qua appointment of accused-respondent No.1 as Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh. The transcript of CD in nine separate parts was got prepared and each and every part carefully analyzed. It transpired that Super Time Scale was due to Shri Mohinder Lal on 1st January, 1990; however, the same was released to him well before the due date on 23rd November, 1989. The required action in the matter including constitution of the Committee for the purpose was taken on the same day, i.e., 23rd November, 1989 itself. In the opinion of the investigating agency it was done to help Shri Mohinder Lal, who was apprehending the defeat of the Congress Party in 1989 General Election of Lok Sabha followed by the election of HP Legislative Assembly in the month of February, 1990, hence was in hurry in the matter of his induction in super time scale on promotion. Shri Mohinder Lal died on 19th January, 2009 during the investigation of the case and in his place his son Kavinder Lal (PW-22) was associated in the investigation of the case.

19. The permission to set-up cement plant by Gujarat Ambuja Cement was also found to be expedited in haste allegedly on receipt of bribe. In the matter of installation of modified Effluent Treatment Plant by Mohan Meakin, no action was taken by the concerned Department and it so happened on account of accused-respondent No.2 received `2 lacs from its owner. The case to grant permission to set-up mini steel plant by one Piyush Jain was also found to be given with a view to help him in lieu of the money received from him by the accused-respondents and also Shri Rangila Ram Rao, the then Industry Minister; however, no case could be registered against Mr. Rao for want of sufficient evidence.

20. The perusal of the transcript of the CD further reveals that lacs of rupees were taken in bribe by the accused-respondents in connivance with Shri Mohinder Lal. Though involvement of Shri Mohinder Lal was also established, however, as he died during the course of investigation, therefore, no challan could be filed against him.

21. In view of the investigation conducted in the matter, the investigating agency has arrived at a conclusion that accused-respondent No.1 has committed the offence punishable under Sections 10, 13(1)(d),(i), (ii) read with Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act and 120-B of the Indian Penal Code, whereas accused-respondent No.2 under Sections 8 and 9 of the Prevention of Corruption Act and 120-B of the Indian Penal Code.

22. The report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was filed accordingly against both accused-respondents in the Court of learned Special Judge (forests), Shimla. This has led to registration of Corruption Case No.9-S/7 of 2010 against them.

23. Learned Special Judge after taking into consideration the police report and the documents annexed therewith and hearing learned Public Prosecutor as well as defence Counsel, has prima facie found a case under Sections 7, 13(1)(d) read with Section 13(2), 11 of the Prevention of Corruption Act and Section 120-B of the Indian Penal Code made out against accused-respondent No.1, whereas under Section 9 of the Prevention of Corruption Act and Section 120-B of the Indian Penal Code against accused-respondent No.2. Charges against both of them were framed accordingly to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

24. After holding full trial, learned Special Judge has arrived at a conclusion that the prosecution has failed to prove its case against accused-respondents beyond reasonable doubt and vide judgment dated 24th December, 2012 they have been acquitted from the charges framed against each of them.

25. As noticed at the very outset, the State has not preferred any appeal against the judgment of acquittal. It is the petitioner, who claims himself to be the complainant and ultimately a victim within the meaning of Section 2 (wa) of the Code, has filed the appeal under the proviso to Section 372 along with a petition under Section 378 (4) of the Code seeking leave to appeal. Since the appeal is barred by 96 days, the present petition has been filed with a prayer to condone the delay so occurred in filing the same.

26. Mr. A.P.S. Deol, learned Senior Advocate assisted by M/s. Virbahadur Verma and Adhiraj Singh Thakur, Advocates, has made many fold submissions to substantiate the question of maintainability of the appeal, the petitioner a victim within the meaning of Section 2(wa) of the Code and to persuade this Court that the appeal on condonation of delay may be entertained.

27. As the respondent-State and also accused-private respondents have raised the question of locus-standi of the petitioner to file the appeal and that he has not suffered any loss or injury including physical or mental, economic loss or impairment of his fundamental right through acts and omissions for which the accused persons were charged, hence not a 'victim' within the meaning of Section 2(wa) of the Code. The petitioner, however, claims himself to be a 'victim', hence, it is urged that the proviso to Section 372 extends a right in his favour to file the appeal. Besides, while raising the question of fairness of the trial and learned Special Judge allegedly ignored the merits, it is urged that on condonation of delay as occurred in filing the appeal, the same be decided on merits.

28. Therefore, the following points arise for consideration of this Court:

a. Whether the petitioner is a 'victim' within the meaning of Section 2(wa) of the Code and he has locus-standi to file an appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code against the judgment of acquittal passed by learned Special Judge (Forests), Shimla on 24th December, 2012?

b. Whether the petitioner has been able to show sufficient cause to condone the delay, as occurred in filing the appeal?

c. Whether the merit of the case has been ignored by the trial Court?

d. Whether fair trial has not been conducted by the trial Court?

Point No.1.

Brief background:

29. There is no quarrel that proviso to Section 372 of the Code incorporated by way of amendment on and with effect from 31st December, 2009, extends a right in favour of a victim to prefer an appeal against the judgment passed by the Court acquitting the accused or convicting for a lesser sentence or imposing inadequate compensation either to the Sessions Court or to the High Court, as the case may be. In Cr.M.No.790-MA of 2010(O&M), titled M/s. Tata Steel Ltd. v. M/s. Atma Tube Products Ltd. and others along with its connected matter Cr.M.A. No.547-MA of 2011(O&M), titled Kesar Singh v. Dheeraj Kumar, Punjab and Haryana High Court though has held that in an appeal filed under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code, the leave to appeal under Section 378 of the Code is not required to be obtained in a case of private complaint and the victim is a complainant. He has got two options, i.e. either to file appeal against the order of acquittal recorded by the trial Court to the High Court under Section 378 of the Code or to the Sessions Court, as the case may be under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code. The present, however, is a case where the proceedings against accused-respondents No.1 and 2 have been launched consequent upon registration of a criminal case against both of them. In a case of this nature, as per Division Bench of our own High Court in Joginder Singh v. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2013(2) RCR (Criminal) 60, leave to appeal is required to be obtained by the victim for filing an appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code.

30. Any how the main dispute herein is as to whether the petitioner is a victim within the meaning of Section 2(wa) of the Code and has locus-standi to file the appeal or not.

31. The urge to find out true answers to the questions so formulated vis-à-vis the law laid down by the Apex Court and various High Courts by way of judicial pronouncements led to lengthy arguments addressed on behalf of the petitioner by Mr. A.P.S. Deol, learned Senior Advocate assisted by bright young lawyers S/Shri Virbahadur Verma and Adhiraj Singh Thakur, Advocates, whereas the private respondents by Mr. R.S. Cheema, learned Senior Advocate assisted by S/Shri Ajay Kochhar, Satyen Vaidya and Vivek Sharma, Advocates and respondent No.3-State by S/Shri R.M. Bisht and P.M. Negi, learned Deputy Advocate General.

Respective contentions of learned Counsel representing the parties.

32. Though it is Mr. Cheema, who has raised the question of maintainability of the petition for condonation of delay and also leave to appeal as well as the appeal filed therewith, this Court allowed Mr. Deol to address arguments first in counter to the question so raised.

33. Mr. Deol has drawn the attention of the Court to the definition of the 'victim' as defined in Section 2(wa) of the Code, the same reads as follows:

> "Victim means a person who has suffered any loss or injury caused by reason of the act or omission for which the accused person has been charged and the expression "victim" includes his or her guardian or legal heir."

34. The 'victim', therefore, is a person, who has suffered any loss or injury on account of an act or omission with which the accused persons have been charged. The emphasis, therefore, is on terms "loss" or "injury". The term "loss" has not been defined in the Code. However, it is Section 23 of the Indian Penal Code, which defines term "wrongful loss" as follows:

> ""Wrongful loss".- "Wrongful loss" is the loss by unlawful means of property to which the person losing it is legally entitled."

35. The term "injury" is also defined in Section 44 of the Indian Penal Code, which reads as follows:

> "44. "Injury".- The word "injury" denotes any harm whatever illegally caused to any person, in body, mind, reputation or property."

36. According to Mr. Deol, Ext.PW-37/A is the complaint, which has been made by the petitioner and thereby set into motion the machinery. He is a public spirited person and as the acquittal of the accused persons has resulted in "loss" or "injury" to him, therefore, he is a 'victim' and as such entitled to file the appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code.

37. In support of his contentions, he placed reliance on the decision of Full Bench judgment of Punjab and Haryana High Court in M/s. Tata Steel's case supra. In this judgment terms "victim", "wrongful loss" and "injury" have been discussed in detail and liberally construed.

38. Mr. Deol has also placed reliance upon a decision of the Apex Court in Sheo Nandan Paswan v. State of Bihar and others, AIR 1987 SC 877.

39. Another precedent relied upon is the judgment of Bombay High Court in Balasaheb Rangnath Khade v. State of Maharashtra and others, 2012 (2) CCR 381. It is the observations in paras 47 and 48 of this report which have been pressed into service.

40. Mr. Deol has also placed reliance on a Division Bench judgment of this Court in Joginder Singh's case supra. In this judgment also it is held that a victim has a right to file an appeal against a judgment of acquittal of the accused and also conviction for lesser offence as well as inadequacy of compensation on obtaining leave to appeal under Section 378 (4) of the Code.

41. Mr. Deol has also placed reliance on a Division Bench judgment of Gauhati High Court (Agartala Bench) in C.M. Appl (Crl) 89 of 2011 in Crl. A. No.13 of 2011, titled Gouranga Debnath v. State of Tripura and others and on that of Punjab and Haryana High Court in Ram Kaur @ Jaswinder Kaur v. Jagbir Singh @ Jabi and others (2010) 3 RCR (Cri.), 391 (DB).

42. A Full Bench of Gujarat High Court in Bhavuben Dineshbhai Makwana v. State of Gujarat and others, 2013 Cri.L.J. 4225 has also held that the victim can file an appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code to challenge therein the order of acquittal or conviction for lesser offence or award of inadequate compensation, irrespective of the State has also filed an appeal against the same order.

43. Mr. R.S. Cheema, learned Senior Advocate, while repelling the arguments addressed by Mr. Deol on the question of maintainability of the delay petition, the petition for leave to appeal and the appeal, has strenuously contended that the petitioner is neither a complainant nor even an informant and rather a whistle blower, as the FIR against the accused-respondents was registered on the basis of the complaint made by Superintendent of Police, State Vigilance and Anti Corruption Bureau, Shimla. The petitioner's claim that he being a public spirited person and as such is a complainant/first informant is not sustainable. The proceedings have been initiated by the petitioner merely to wreak-vengeance against the private respondents as he is under the impression that the criminal cases have been registered against him at their instance. Therefore, according to Mr. Cheema, the petitioner is inimical towards accused-respondents No.1 and 2. He according to Mr. Cheema, at the most is a whistle-blower. A whistle-blower cannot be termed to be a 'victim'. It is also urged that even if the petitioner is to be treated as an informant or a complainant in that event also he has no right to prefer an appeal as the proviso to Section 372 of the Code extends a right only in favour of a victim and not in favour of the complainant/ first informant. From the case law referred to by Mr. Deol, it is pointed out that there is not even a single decision in which a view that complainant has a right to file an appeal in terms of Section 372 of the Code, is taken. According to Mr. Cheema, in M/s. Tata Steel's case supra, the point in issue was qua the definition of victim, whereas in Balasaheb Rangnath Khade's case the question examined and answered was with regard to the requirement of obtaining leave to appeal by the victim to file an appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code. The judgment rendered by Full Bench of Gujarat High Court in Bhavuben Dineshbhai Makwana's case deals only with the right of a victim to file an appeal and stated to be not relevant to the present controversy. The ratio of the law laid down by the High Court of Gauhati (Agartala Bench) in Gouranga Debnath's case deals only with the question that the father of a person murdered, is victim or not whereas that of the Apex Court in Sheo Nandan Paswan's case deals with the question of a non-informant to challenge an order of withdrawal of prosecution by the Prosecutor.

44. Per contra, Mr. Cheema has placed reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in National Commission for Women v. State of Delhi and another, (2010) 12 SCC 599. It is held in this judgment that the impression 'victim' has to be interpreted in appropriate legal perspective. It was a case of atrocities against woman and the Apex Court has held that National Commission for Women was neither victim nor complainant to file the appeal. This judgment reads as follows:

> "11. An appeal is a creature of a Statute and cannot lie under any inherent power. This Court does undoubtedly grant leave to the appeal under the discretionary power conferred under Article 136 of the Constitution of India at the behest of the State or an affected private individual but to permit anybody or an organization pro-bono publico to file an appeal would be a dangerous doctrine and would cause utter confusion in the criminal justice system. We are, therefore, of the opinion that the Special Leave Petition itself was not maintainable."

45. Reliance has also been placed upon a Division Bench judgment of Punjab and Haryana High Court in CRM No.26221 of 2011 and CRM No.A-402-MA of 2011, titled Parmod Kumar v. Har Parkash and others, in which petitioner Parmod Kumar, who had lodged the FIR, was not held to be a victim.

Discussion and the conclusion drawn:

46. Now analyzing the rival submissions and also the law cited at the bar, proviso to Section 372 of the Code extends an indefeasible right to the victim to prefer an appeal against an order passed by the Court acquitting the accused or convicting for a lesser offence or imposing inadequate compensation. There is no quarrel in this regard. The petitioner is a victim or not, is a question hotly contested on both sides.

47. It is well established from the law cited on both sides that it is not necessary that an informant or the complainant is always a victim and proviso to Section 372 of the Code confers a right upon the victim alone to prefer an appeal and not on an informant or a complainant. The appeal is a creation of statute and the right to file an appeal has to be determined with reference to the relevant statutory provisions.

48. In a case of prosecution launched on the registration of FIR and presentation of police report under Section 173 of the Code, it is only the State, which is competent to prefer the appeal and the statute does not confer power on a complainant or informant, who is not a victim, to prefer an appeal against the acquittal.

49. Adverting to the case in hand, of course, on the complaint Ext.PW-37/A made by the petitioner, he set into motion the machinery because it is consequent upon said complaint the Government ordered an enquiry into allegations in the complaint, which was conducted by Shri Anand Pratap Singh, Superintendent of Police, State Vigilance and Anti Corruption Bureau. He submitted the report and it is on the basis thereof FIR No.27 of 2009 under Sections 8, 9, 10, 13(1)(d)(i)(ii) read with Section 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 and Section 120-B of the Indian Penal Code was registered against accused-respondents No.1 and 2.

50. As per the decisions cited at the bar and the law as discussed hereinabove, laid down therein, the proviso to Section 372 of the Code empowers the victim to prefer an appeal against an order acquitting the accused or convicting for lesser sentence or imposing inadequate compensation. None of the precedents so cited except for M/s. Tata Steel Limited and Gouranga DebNath's cases supra, however, deal with term 'victim' within the meaning of Section 2(wa) of the Code. The Full Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in M/s. Tata Steel Limited, after examining the term 'victim' within the meaning of Section 2(wa) of the Code and also words "loss" and "injury" within the meaning of Sections 23 and 44 of the Indian Penal Code with the help of the case law relied upon has held that words "loss" and "injury" used in Section 2(wa) are synonymous and that a person, who has suffered an injury in body or mind or reputation or to his/her property, is a 'victim' within the meaning of Section ibid. No doubt, as per law laid down by the Full Bench, 'victim' is a person not only suffered with an injury in body or mind or to the property, but reputation also, is a victim. This judgment reads as follows:

> "47. Section 2(wa) of the Code defines 'victim' to mean a person who has suffered any loss or injury caused by the reason of the act or omission for which the accused person has been charged and the expression "victim" includes his or her 'guardian' or 'legal heir'. We find on its plain reading that the Legislature has classified the 'victim' in two categories i.e. (i) a person who has suffered any loss or injury caused by the act or omission attributed to the accused; and (ii) the 'guardian' or 'legal heir' of such 'victim'. The correct understanding of the first part of the term "victim" is contingent and is subject to the true scope of the words "loss" or "injury" contained therein. Both these words are not denied in the Code, however, its Section 2(y) says that "words and expressions used herein and not denied but defined in the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) have the meanings respectively assigned to them in that Code".
>
> 48. Section 23 IPC defines "wrongful loss" and it says that "wrongful loss" is the loss by unlawful means of property to which the person losing it is legally entitled". It is further explained that "a person is said to lose wrongfully when such person is wrongfully kept out of any property, as well as when such person is wrongfully deprived of property". According to Section 44 IPC, the word "injury" denotes any harm whatever illegally caused to any person, in body, mind, reputation or property". It is, thus, in the context of offences against property, especially under Section 418 and 'mischief' as defined in Section 425 IPC that the term 'wrongful loss' has been used in the Penal code. The Legislature while defining 'victim' in Section 2(wa) of the code has used the word 'any loss' before 'or injury' and has not restricted it to 'wrongful loss' only. We, thus, find that the words 'loss' and 'injury' used in Section 2(wa) are synonymous. This view is also fortified by the use of wide term 'any loss' in clause (b) as compared to 'the loss' in clause (c) of Section 357(1) of the Code.

49. It is so acte clair that a person who has suffered any injury in body or mind or reputation or to his/her property or if such person has been caused loss of property, to which he is legally entitled to, unlawfully at the hands of another person who has charged as an accused, is the 'victim' within the meaning of Section 2(wa). Similarly, if as a result of the aggravated form of victimization, such 'victim' of first part does not survive, the second part of the definition of 'victim' as defined in Section 2(wa) of the Code substitutes the first part and becomes operative whereupon the guardian (if such 'victim' was a minor or of unsound mind) or the legal heirs of the deceased victim, as the case may be, step-in for the 'victims' for the varied purposes under the Code".

51. In Gouranga Debnath's case, Gauhati High Court (Agartala Bench), while giving a wider interpretation to the term 'victim', has observed that the 'victim' is a person, who individually or collectively have suffered hard, including physical or mental injury, emotional suffering, economical loss or substantial impairment to his fundamental rights through the acts or omissions in conflict with criminal law. As a matter of fact, this was the meaning assigned to term 'victim'. This judgment reads as follows:

"41. In the case of Smt. Ram Kaur, the High Court of Punjab and Haryana while examined the Section 2(wa) of the Code took note of the Minutes of the 96th Plenary meeting on 29th November, 1985 of the General Assembly of the United Nations wherein the United Nations made a Declaration of Basic Principles of Justice for victims of Crime and Abuse of Power, recognizing that millions of people throughout the world suffer hard as a result of crime and the abuse of power and that the right of these victims have not been adequately recognized and also that frequently their families, witnesses and other who aid them are unjustly subjected to loss, damage or injury. The Assembly affirmed the necessity of adopting national and international norms in order to secure universal and effective recognition of and respect for, the rights of victims of crimes and abuse of power. In the said declaration, the word 'victim' was defined as under:

> 6.2:- 6.2 The Declaration defines victims as "person who, individually or collectively, have suffered hard, including physical or mental injury, emotional suffering, economic loss or substantial impairment of their fundamental rights, through acts or omissions that are in violation of criminal laws operative within Member States, including those laws prescribing criminal abuse of power".

42. The aforesaid definition of victim has been discussed in 154th Report of Law Commission, but the legislation has not adopted the said definition and have given a restricted meaning of the word "victim" means only a person, who has suffered any loss or injury caused by a reason of the act or omission of the offender and victim includes his or her guardian or legal heir, which in fact subsequently incorporated in the amendment of the Code by way of inserting the clause (wa) of Section 2 of the Code.

43. A joint reading of Smt. Ram Kaur (supra) and Section 2(wa) of the Code, we are of the opinion that person who has suffered loss due to a crime is obviously a victim and more particularly we are also in agreement with Mr. Kar Bhowmik as well as Mr. Deb that in Section 2(wa) of the Code, there are two parts. One part is relating to victim who has suffered loss and injury and by way of other parts, the Legislature expanded the word 'victim' even to the persons who are the guardian and legal heirs."

52. In CRM No. 26221 of 2011 and CRM No.A-402-MA of 2011, titled Parmod Kumar v. Har Parkash and Others, Punjab and Haryana High Court has held as follows:

> "In terms of the proviso to Section 372 of the Code of Criminal Procedure ("Cr. PC" – for short) only a 'victim' can file an appeal. 'Victim' has been defined in Section 2 (wa) Cr.PC to mean a person who has suffered any loss or injury caused by reason of the act or omission for which the accused person has been charged and the expression "victim" includes his or her guardian or legal heir."

53. In rest of the judgments cited on behalf of the petitioner, the only legal question dealt with pertains to the entitlement of a victim to prefer an appeal against a judgment of acquittal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code, qua which there is not much quarrel, hence need no further elaboration.

54. The question, however, arises that the petitioner before this Court is covered by the meaning so assigned to term 'victim' or not. The answer to this poser in all fairness and in the ends of justice would be in the negative for the reason that irrespective of the complaint Ext.PW-37/A having been made by him, he is not a complainant nor the case is registered at his instance. He at the most is a whistle blower. On going through the reply to this petition filed on behalf of accused-respondents No.1 and 2, the petitioner is an accused in criminal cases registered vide FIR No. 3 of 2003 under Sections 465, 467, 468, 471 of the Indian Penal Code and 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, FIR 15 of 2003 under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471, 120-B of the Indian Penal Code and 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, FIR No. 27 of 2005 under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 of the Indian Penal Code and 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, FIR No.11 of 2006 under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 of the Indian Penal Code and 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, FIR No.1 of 2004 under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471 of the Indian Penal Code and 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, FIR No.4 of 2003 under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471, 120B of the Indian Penal Code and 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, and FIR No.2 of 2004 under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471, 120B of the Indian Penal Code and 13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, in Police Station, Enforcement North Zone, Dharamshala. Therefore, all these cases were registered against him at a time when accused-respondent No.1 was the Chief Minister of this State. Not only this, but three Civil Suits bearing No.5 of 2004, 5 of 2005 and 8 of 2005 have been instituted by the petitioner against accused-respondent No.1. It can reasonably be believed that both accused-respondent No.1 and the petitioner are inimical to each other. Therefore, the possibility of he having initiated these proceedings against the accused-respondents merely to wreak-vengeance against them cannot be ruled out. Although, the kind of "loss" and "injury" as discussed by the Full Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in M/s. Tata Steel Limited and Gauhati High Court in Gouranga Debnath's case have not been suffered by the petitioner and at the most he can only be said to have suffered with mental injury or emotional suffering and for that matter even every citizen suffers such loss and injury if an offence of the nature already committed by the accused-respondents is found to be committed by a person occupying such a high position, yet keeping in view that the petitioner has not set the machinery in motion in the capacity of a public spirited person and rather on account of he being inimical to the accused-respondents, he cannot be termed as 'victim' within the meaning of Section 2(wa) of the Code nor competent to prefer an appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code.

55. Of course, charges against accused-respondents No.1 and 2 are that of corruption, therefore, if any "loss" or "injury" including the emotional loss or mental injury is caused by their acquittal, it cannot only be to a particular individual, like the petitioner, but also to the public at large. As already said, the term 'victim' is wide enough and to be construed liberally in a case having charges of corruption that too against a person occupying high position and at the helm of affairs. What to speak of complainant or informant having suffered loss on account of acquittal of an accused from the charge of this nature, any one else may also feel aggrieved, however, this alone is not sufficient because under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code, it is a victim alone competent to prefer appeal. In this case since the petitioner is inimical to accused-respondents No.1 and 2, therefore, if he claims himself to be a 'victim', it is difficult to believe. I am, therefore, in agreement with Mr. Cheema that the petitioner is not a victim within the meaning of Section 2(wa) of the Code for the reason that an informant or complainant has no right to prefer an appeal. The amendment empowers only a 'victim' and none else to prefer an appeal, not a complainant or first informant that too when the criminal proceedings were launched consequent upon the investigation conducted on registration of FIR. It is worth to mention here that in National Commission for Women v. State of Delhi and another, supra the Apex Court has not held the National Commission for Women as 'victim' in-spite of that case being that of atrocities/crime against women. To my mind in that case the National Commission was on better footing as compared to the petitioner in the case in hand.

56. In another precedent cited by Mr. Cheema, Parmod Kumar, at whose instance the FIR was registered, was not held to be a victim by the Punjab and Haryana High Court.

57. As regards Sheo Nandan Paswan's case supra, the same also does not deal with the questions arising in the present case at all. In this case, learned Public Prosecutor moved an application for withdrawal of prosecution, which was opposed by Sheo Nandan Paswan. The said application was allowed and the accused Dr. Jagannath Misra and others were ordered to be discharged. Sheo Nandan Paswan filed a revision against the said order, which was dismissed by the High Court. Sheo Nandan Paswan challenged the orders of learned Courts below before the Hon'ble Supreme Court. Therefore, the questions involved in Paswan's case were entirely different and dealt with the locus standi of a non-informant to challenge an order of withdrawal of prosecution. It was not a case of an appeal against acquittal. The reference by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 14 to a decision of the Constitution Bench in A.R. Antulay's case stating that anybody could set the machinery of law in motion on commission of a crime and file the complaint, does not render any assistance to the petitioner, who has to plead his case on the basis of a statutory right to file an appeal.

58. In view of what has been said in para supra, it would not be improper to conclude that the right to file an appeal is creature of statute and the same need determination with reference to the statutory provisions. In a case, where the prosecution is launched on the basis of an FIR, it is only the State, which can prefer an appeal against the acquittal and not the complainant or informant, who is not a victim. Therefore, when the petitioner is not proved to be a victim, he is not entitled to prefer an appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code against the acquittal of the accused-respondents. This takes us to the second question which pertains to the delay as occurred in filing the appeal.

Point No.2.

Brief background:

59. After having said that the petitioner is not a victim within the meaning of Section 2 (wa) of the Code and as such not competent to file the appeal, it is deemed appropriate to go into the question of limitation also.

60. Now coming to the question of delay the reasons therefor as mentioned in paras 2 to 4 of the petition read as follows:

> "2. That the applicant received knowledge of the judgment dated 24.12.2012 through Newspaper when he was attending to his sick wife who was undergoing treatment for a serious ailment at PGI, Chandigarh during the months of Jan-March, 2013.
>
> 3. That the applicant had no access to the file record since he had not engaged any private counsel for prosecuting this case. On receiving knowledge that the State of Himachal Pradesh which is ruled by Sh. Virbhadra Singh (respondent No.1) and who is also holding charge of Home Department would not let the prosecution department to file any appeal against his acquittal, the petitioner has come forward as a 'victim' to prefer an appeal against the judgment of acquittal. The competent authority to give fitness/unfitness certificate for filing appeal in the High Court was special public prosecutor, appointed in the case by present Govt. after declaration of result of State Assembly on 23.12.2012. The said prosecutor was appointed by the Govt. headed by Sh. Virbhadra Singh by Home Department which intern was headed by Respondent No. 1. Thus the prosecutor and the accused became one and the same having common interest not to peruse the case in effectiveness.

The State Govt. department of Home is thus happy to oblige the accused in this case i.e. Respondent No. 1 and 2 by not filing any appeal against the acquittal and has let the period of limitation expire conveniently for obvious reasons. In this peculiar circumstance the delay in filing the appeal may kindly be considered in the light of above stated facts.

4. That although Section 372 Cr.P.C does not provide a period of limitation for filing an appeal by the victim. However, the period as provided under Article 114 of the Limitation Act has been made applicable by certain decisions rendered by the Hon'ble High Courts in the country. Full Bench of the Gujarat High Court in the case of Bhavu Ben Dinesh Bhai Makwana vs. State of Gujarat Crl Appeal No. 238 of 2012 and 608 of 2012 has held that the period of 90 days should be a reasonable period for the victim to file an appeal since the said period is the longest period of limitation for filing an appeal prescribed by the legislature.

This view is based upon the well recognized principles of criminal jurisprudence (Crime never dies), the Maxim "nullum tempus qut locus occurrit regi" (Lapse of time is no bar to Crown in proceedings against offenders) is an age old rule embedded in criminal justice delivery system. The public policy behind this rule is that a criminal offence is considered as a wrong committed against the State and the Society. The aforesaid rule of prudence has been duly acknowledged by the Parliament as it has prescribed no period of limitation for filing an appeal under proviso to Section 372 of the Code against an order of acquittal. It would be pertinent to mention here that the applicant/appellant has got the Photostat copy of the judgment in the month of August, 2013."

61. The response on behalf of accused-respondents is that not only the petition but also the appeal is mala fide, filed with an ulterior motive to settle score with them as he is under the impression that the criminal cases registered against him during the period 2003 to 2006 detailed in earlier part of this judgment were registered at the behest of accused-respondent No.1. It is denied that the petitioner acquired knowledge of passing judgment of acquittal during the period January-March, 2013. As averred in reply to the petition, the case of the accused-respondents is that the petitioner appeared as PW-37 on 24th December, 2012 in the Court. The impugned judgment was announced on that day itself. The judgment so delivered was given wide publicity in Print and electronic media on 25th December, 2012. The petitioner, therefore, was fully aware about passing of the judgment on 24th December, 2012 and he has filed the appeal due to personal grudge and vindictive attitude against the accused-respondents. The petitioner's claim that he is a victim within the meaning of Section 2(wa) was also denied being wrong. The allegations against the accused-respondents and other functionaries of the State are stated to be baseless, malicious and defamatory. The averments that accused-respondent No.1 having taken over as Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh and Minister in charge of Home Department, the department of Home obliged him by not filing the appeal against his acquittal, have also been denied being wrong. In this behalf, it is submitted that since the competent authority had found the present a case of no evidence, hence rightly decided not to file appeal. It is denied that no period of limitation is prescribed for filing an appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code and stated that the period of limitation as provided under Article 114 of the Limitation Act is 90 days. It is also denied that the petitioner got Photostat copy of the judgment in August, 2013. He rather intentionally and deliberately suppressed the source from where he got the copy of the judgment. The copy of the judgment annexed to the appeal is shown to have been prepared on 31st December, 2012. Therefore, according to accused respondents, the petitioner has no right to file the appeal. Otherwise also, the petition discloses no cause or reason muchless sufficient cause or reason for condonation of delay.

62. The respondent-State in preliminary submissions has come forward with the version that on receipt of the copy of judgment of acquittal, the District Attorney has examined the matter and opined that it was not a fit case for filing the appeal. The opinion of District Attorney was forwarded to Additional Director General, State Vigilance and Anti-Corruption Bureau, Himachal Pradesh and was examined in Vigilance Headquarters by Joint Director (Prosecution). The file along with the opinion of Joint Director was sent to Additional Chief Secretary (Home). The Home Department has forwarded the matter to Law Department for seeking opinion. In the opinion of the Law Department, it was a case of no evidence; therefore, a thoughtful and conscious decision not to file appeal by the State was taken.

63. The petitioner should have been vigilant and approached the Court within the reasonable time for redressal of his grievances. He however, remained negligent. Otherwise also, the present being a police case, it is only the victim, who alone is competent to file an appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code. The petitioner in this case is not a victim, hence not competent to file the appeal. It is denied that the Home Department has obliged the accused-respondent No.1 by not filing the appeal against the judgment. It is also denied that no limitation is prescribed for filing an appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code. It is submitted that the procedure as prescribed under Section 378 of the Code for filing the appeal against the acquittal is applicable for filing the appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code also.

64. In rejoinder to the reply filed on behalf of the accused/respondents, while pointing out the alleged revengeful and vindictive attitude of accused respondent No.1 on becoming Chief Minister of the State, the instances of initiation of criminal/departmental proceedings against Dr. D.S. Minhas, the then Director General of Police, Himachal Pradesh, who allegedly has ordered the registration of FIR No.27 of 2009 against the said accused and monitored the investigation conducted therein, Shri I.D. Bhandari, on the charges of snooping upon certain politicians now in power, Inspector Daya Sagar (Retd.), the Investigating Officer., who allegedly have been charged with recording statements of Brigadier Kapil Mohan and Shri P.C. Jain, the witnesses examined by the prosecution in the trial against the accused/respondents allegedly falsely and Shri Hardesh Bisht, the then Superintendent of Police, SIU one of the Investigating Officer, who filed final report under Section 173 of the Code against accused- respondents No.1 and 2. Therefore, the complaint is that, it is not the petitioner, but the accused-respondent No.1, who is vindictive and inimical not only against the petitioner but also against all those who any how or other monitored/investigated the case FIR No. 27 of 2009, which was registered against him and his wife Pratibha Kumari, accused No.2 on taking over as Chief Minster of the State.

65. The representation Annexure P-3 to the rejoinder highlighting the alleged acts of vindictiveness on the part of accused-respondent No.1, made by Dr. D.S. Minhas to Shri Anil Goswami, Secretary (Home) to the Government of India against the communication made by respondent-State for seeking permission to charge-sheet Dr. Minhas. Annexure P-4 (Colly.) is a communication addressed to Additional Superintendent of Police, Police Station, State Vigilance and Anti-Corruption Bureau, Shimla- 2, with a request to serve charge-sheet upon Shri Daya Sagar, aforesaid and Annexure P-5, copy of FIR No.5 of 2014 registered against Shri Hardesh Bisht, Superintendent of Police, SIU and Shri Daya Sagar, Inspector (Retd.), aforesaid have also been pressed into service.

Respective Contentions of learned Counsel for the parties.

66. Mr. Deol, learned Senior Advocate has argued that the petitioner have not engaged any counsel in the trial Court nor have any access to the record and decided to file appeal against the judgment of acquittal only on coming to know that respondent-State will not file the appeal. Therefore, the delay, which according to Mr. Deol, is not inordinate and on the other hand the offence like immorality and corruption by the persons occupying high position the term "sufficient cause", has been sought to be liberally construed. Therefore, on condonation of delay the appeal has been sought to be entertained and decided on merits.

67. In order to buttress the arguments so addressed, Mr. Deol, has placed reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in State of Tamilnadu v. N. Suresh Ranjan and others, 2014 (1) RCR (Cr.) 572. While answering the issue of delay, the observations made by Hon'ble Apex Court are as under:-

> "10. The contentions put forth by Mr. Sorabjee are weighty, deserving thoughtful consideration and at one point of time we were inclined to reject the petitions filed for condonation of delay and dismiss the special leave petitions. However, on a second thought we find that the validity of the order impugned in these special leave petitions has to be gone into in criminal appeals arising out of Special Leave Petitions (Criminal) Nos. 3810-3811 of 2012 and in the face of it, it shall be unwise to dismiss these special leave petitions on the ground of limitation. It is worth mentioning here that the order impugned in the criminal appeals arising out of Special Leave Petition (Criminal) Nos. 3810-3811 of 2012, State of Tamil Nadu by Ins. of Police, Vigilance and Anti Corruption v. N. Suresh Rajan & Ors., has been mainly rendered, relying on the decision in State by Deputy Superintendent of Police, Vigilance and Anti Corruption Cuddalore Detachment vs. K. Ponmudi and Ors.(2007-1MLJ-CRL.-100), which is impugned in the present special leave petitions. In fact, by order dated 3rd of January, 2013, these petitions were directed to be heard along with the aforesaid special leave petitions. In such circumstances, we condone the delay in filing and re-filing the special leave petitions."

68. The reliance has also been placed on the judgment again that of the apex Court in State (NCT of Delhi) v. Ahmed Jaan, 2008 Cri.L.J, 4355. In this judgment, the Apex Court, after taking note of the law laid down in various judicial pronouncements has elaborated the expression "sufficient cause" as follows:-

> "………The expression "sufficient cause" is adequately elastic to enable the court to apply the law in a meaningful manner which subserves the ends of justice - that being the life-purpose for the existence of the institution of courts. It is > common knowledge that this Court has been making a justifiably liberal approach in matters instituted in this Court. But the message does not appear to have percolated down to all the other courts in the hierarchy. This Court reiterated that the expression "every day's delay must be explained" does not mean that a pedantic approach should be made. The doctrine must be applied in a rational common sense pragmatic manner. When substantial justice and technical considerations are pitted against each other, cause of substantial justice deserves to be preferred for the other side cannot claim to have vested right in injustice being done because of a non-deliberate delay. There is no presumption that delay is occasioned deliberately, or on account of culpable negligence, or on account of mala fides. A litigant does not stand to benefit by resorting to delay. In fact he runs a serious risk. Judiciary is not respected on account of its power to legalise injustice on technical grounds but because it is capable of removing injustice and is expected to do so. Making a justice-oriented approach from this perspective, there was sufficient cause for condoning the delay in the institution of the appeal. The fact that it was the State which was seeking condonation and not a private party was altogether irrelevant. The doctrine of equality before law demands that all litigants, including the State as a litigant, are accorded the same treatment and the law is administered in an even-handed manner. There is no warrant for according a step-motherly treatment when the State is the petitioner. The delay was accordingly condoned."

69. Similar is the ratio of the judgment again that of the Apex Court in State of Nagaland v. Lipok A.O. and others (2005) 3, SCC, 752, which reads as follows:

> "15. It is axiomatic that decisions are taken by officers/agencies proverbially at a slow pace and encumbered process of pushing the files from table to table and keeping it on the table for considerable time causing delay - intentional or otherwise - is a routine. Considerable delay of procedural red tape in the process of their making decision is a common feature. Therefore, certain amount of latitude is not impermissible. If the appeals brought by the State are lost for such default no person is individually affected but what in the ultimate analysis suffers, is public interest. The expression "sufficient cause" should, therefore, be considered with pragmatism in a justice-oriented approach rather than the technical detection of sufficient cause for explaining every day's delay. The factors which are peculiar to and characteristic of the functioning of the governmental conditions would be cognizant to and requires adoption of pragmatic approach in justice-oriented process. The Court should decide the matters on merits unless the case is hopelessly without merit. No separate standards to determine the cause laid by the State vis-à-vis private litigant could be > laid to prove strict standards of sufficient cause. The Government at appropriate level should constitute legal cells to examine the cases whether any legal principles are involved for decision by the courts or whether cases require adjustment and should authorise the officers to take a decision or give appropriate permission for settlement. In the event of decision to file appeal, needed prompt action should be pursued by the officer responsible to file the appeal and he should be made personally responsible for lapses, if any. Equally, the State cannot be put on the same footing as an individual. The individual would always be quick in taking the decision whether he would pursue the remedy by way of an appeal or petition since he is a person legally injured while the State is an impersonal machinery working through its officers or servants."

70. Mr. Deol then placed reliance on a full Bench judgment of Gujarat High Court in State of Gujarat v. Kaliashchandra Badriprasad, 2001 (1) RCR (Criminal) 162 and on that of Gauhati High Court in Gouranga Debnath's case supra.

71. Reliance has also been placed on a Division Bench judgment of our own High Court in Joginder Singh's case cited supra.

72. On the other hand Mr. Cheema, learned Senior Advocate has very fairly submitted that he would have not raised any objections to the plea of condonation of delay, but the petition, according to him, does not disclose sufficient cause and rather has been filed for extraneous consideration with mala fide intention to harass the accused-respondents on account of enmity. The very foundation that the petitioner came to know about the passing of impugned judgment somewhere in January-March 2013, on the face of it is false, as according to Mr. Cheema, the acquittal of the accused followed by taking over as Chief Minister, Himachal Pradesh by accused-respondent No.1 on the next day i.e. 25th December, 2012, the judgment was given wide publicity not only in print media but also in electronic media.

73. The day when the judgment was pronounced i.e. 24th December, 2012, the petitioner was present in the Court as a witness. The copy of judgment is not certified one. The same is Photostat copy having been prepared on 31st December, 2012. There being no explanation as to who applied for the same and when its copy was supplied, renders the explanation so coming forth absolutely false. The petitioner is a convict and his conviction even affirmed by the High Court also, of course the appeal he filed is pending disposal in the Hon'ble Supreme Court. His perception is that the criminal cases against him were registered at the instance of accused-respondent No.1. He, according to Mr. Cheema, is inimical to the accused-respondents and betting for personal interest and not for the cause of public at large. Mr. Cheema has fairly conceded that the Courts have wider discretion in the matter of condonation of delay; however, the discretion should also be exercised judiciously depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case. According to Mr. Cheema, in the present case neither any plausible explanation is forthcoming nor is sufficient cause found to have been shown. It has, therefore, been urged that the delay cannot be condoned. Mr. Cheema has placed reliance on the judgment of Apex Court in Oriental Aroma Chemical Industries Limited v. Gujarat Industrial Development Corporation and another (2010) 5 SCC, 459. Another judgment as relied upon is again that of Apex Court in Lanka Venkateswarlu (dead) by LRs. v. State of Andhra Pradesh and others, (2011) 4 SCC 363. Reliance has also been placed on the judgment of Apex

Court in Maniben Devraj Shah v. Municipal Corporation of Brihan Mumbai, (2012) 5 SCC 157.

74. On the similar lines are the arguments addressed qua this aspect of the matter on behalf of the respondent-State.

Discussion and the conclusion drawn:

75. The above stated factual and legal position takes us to the adjudication of the question of condonation of delay. The present is a case where the delay of 96 days has occurred in filing the appeal. The same has been sought to be condoned on the above grounds in the petition discussed in para supra.

76. It is well settled at this stage that a party seeking the condonation of delay has to show "sufficient cause" warranting condonation of delay.

77. As per the law laid down by the Apex Court in Ahmed Jaan's case supra, the expression 'sufficient cause' should be interpreted liberally and in a meaningful manner to sub-serve the ends of justice. Also that the expression 'every day's delay must be explained' should also be applied in a rational common sense by taking pragmatic approach to do substantial justice.

78. To the similar effect is the ratio of the judgment again that of Apex Court in Lipok A.O's case supra relied upon in support of the case of the petitioner. Be that as it may, however, one should also not lost sight of the fact that the expiry of the period of limitation prescribed for filing appeal/petition results in existence of a valuable right to the opposite party and such right should not be taken away by condoning the delay without sufficient cause. It is apt to make reference to the judgment of Apex Court in P.K. Ramachanderan v. State of Kerala, AIR 1998 SC, 2276. It is held in this judgment that the law of limitation may harshly affect a particular party, but it has to be applied with all rigors when the statute so prescribes and the Courts have no powers to extend the period of limitation on equitable grounds.

79. Here the delay has been sought to be condoned on the following grounds:

i) the petitioner came to know about the judgment under challenge somewhere in January-March 2013 at such a time when he was looking after his ailing wife in PGI Chandigarh;

ii) the trial was being conducted by the public prosecutor and as he had not engaged any counsel hence not having the record of the case;

iii) photocopy of the judgment was made available to him in the month of August, 2013; and

iv) on coming to know that the Home Department with a view to oblige accused respondent No.1, who by that time took over as the Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh, not opted for filing appeal against the judgment of acquittal.

80. Now applying the law as discussed hereinabove in the light of the explanation so forthcoming, taking a lenient view of the matter and pragmatic approach as well keeping in mind that the matter should normally not be closed merely that it is time barred and the merit should not be made to suffer, this Court finds itself unable to agree with the explanation as set forth in the petition for seeking the condonation of delay for the reason that the same does not constitute "sufficient cause" as is required to be shown for seeking the condonation of delay. In the case in hand, the explanation as forth coming is absolutely vague, cryptic and highly unbelievable. The judgment under challenge has been passed on 24th December, 2012. The petitioner on that day was very much present in the Court because he appeared as one of the witnesses. The pronouncement of judgment on 24th December, 2012, followed by oath taking ceremony of accused-respondent No.1 on the very next day, i.e., 25th December, 2012, were such events, which were given wide publicity in print and electronic media. The petitioner, a Himachali and being an IAS Officer (Retired) can reasonably be believed to have gone through the reports in print media and the news in electronic media regarding acquittal of the accused-respondent by learned trial Court on 24th December, 2012. The plea that he came to know about the acquittal of the accused respondents somewhere during January-March, 2013 is not only palpably false but vague, evasive and absurd also. Therefore, on that basis the delay as occurred in filing the appeal could have not been condoned even if the appellant is held to be a 'victim' having right to prefer appeal against the judgment of acquittal. It may be that the petitioner was not represented by a counsel nor had any access to the records of the case; however, no explanation is forthcoming to show as to how and what efforts he made to obtain the record and from whom. It is also missing that he applied for the certified/uncertified copies of record on a particular day and the date on which the same was supplied to him.

81. Surprisingly enough, the petitioner even does not have certified copy of the judgment under challenge because it is only a photocopy of certified copy, which has been filed along with the appeal. It is not known as to who applied for the same. The stamp of copying agency, however, reveals that the certified copy was complete for delivery on 31st December, 2012 and was actually delivered on 23rd February, 2013. The petitioner is persuading this Court to exercise discretion in his favour in the matter of condonation of delay even without disclosing the name of the person, who has supplied him the Photostat copy of the judgment. There is no explanation as to why he himself did not apply for the certified copy of the judgment under challenge. It is again absurd and evasive that he filed the appeal on coming to know that the Home Department with a view to oblige the accused-respondent No.1, has not preferred appeal against the impugned judgment because he has not disclosed the source of such information and also when he came to know about it. The present is a case where there is nothing on record to show that since when the limitation start running because here the petitioner has neither applied for certified copy of the judgment nor is it his case that he came to know on a particular date about passing of the impugned judgment or the date when he received information qua the State Government having decided not to prefer an appeal against the impugned judgment. The explanation for condonation of delay as forth coming is therefore, neither plausible nor cogent and reliable nor constitute sufficient cause. The grounds raised rather are absolutely vague, absurd, cryptic and evasive also. The present, therefore, is a case where the petitioner has miserably failed to show sufficient cause warranting the condonation of delay as occurred in filing the appeal. Therefore, this is not a case warranting liberal construction of expression "sufficient cause" nor any ground for taking pragmatic and justice oriented approach as held by the Apex Court in Lipok AO's and Ahmed Jaan's cases supra, is made out. The present rather is a case where sufficient cause has not been shown nor from the petition any ground is made out warranting condonation of 96 days' delay as occurred in filing the appeal. The present rather is a case where an order condoning the delay would amount to take away a valuable right having accrued in favour of the accused-respondents on the expiry of the period prescribed for filing the appeal. In the given facts and circumstances, the right so accrued in favour of the accused respondents cannot be taken away.

82. Mr. Deol has also placed reliance on a Full Bench judgment of Gujarat High Court in Kaliashchandra Badraiprasad's case supra. However, the law laid down therein is not attracted in this case for the reason that the question referred to the full bench in that case was as to whether delay can be condoned without hearing an accused or not, which has been answered in affirmative while holding that the delay cannot be condoned without hearing the accused and also that in a case of acquittal rather the delay should not be condoned without sufficient cause. The law laid down in this judgment is hardly of any help to the case of the petitioner and rather substantiate the cause of the accused-respondents for the reason that the petitioner has failed to show sufficient cause and as such the delay cannot be condoned.

83. The question for determination before a Division Bench of Gauhati High Court in Gouranga Debnath's case was with regard to exclusion of time by extending the benefit of Section 470 of the Code in certain cases because in that case initially instead of filing an appeal, revision petition was filed, which later on was sought to be withdrawn and dismissed as such. It is in this backdrop, it was held that on coming to know the revisional proceedings and the appeal cannot be pursued together, the petitioner having withdrawn the revision petition in good faith, was held entitled to the benefit of Section 470 of the Code. This, however, is not the point in issue in the case in hand.

84. Coming to the Division Bench judgment of our own High Court in Joginder Singh's case supra, it has been held that the procedure as prescribed for filing the appeal under Section 378 of the Code is applicable even to an appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code. Therefore, the limitation for filing an appeal under the proviso to Section 372 has been held to be 90 days. Anyhow, there is no quarrel on this score as the petitioner himself submits in the petition that the period of limitation prescribed for filing appeal under Section 372 of the Code is 90 days.

85. Now coming to the judgment of Apex Court in N. Suresh Ranjan's case, supra, true it is that the delay of 2171 days as occurred in filing the appeal has been ordered to be condoned, however, on consideration of the facts that the accused, a former Minister, charge-sheeted with the allegations of corruption and in possession of disproportionate assets in his own name and also in the name of his wife, friends and sons as compared to their known sources of income, was discharged by the trial Court and the order affirmed by the High Court. It is in the nature of the allegations and gravity of the offence committed, the Apex Court, while holding that the validity of the order impugned should be gone into in appeal, has condoned the delay.

86. The present is not a case of discharge of the accused-respondents and rather they both have faced the charge and it is on appreciation of the evidence available on record learned trial Court has acquitted them from the charge.

87. On behalf of the accused-respondents reliance has been placed on a judgment rendered in Oriental Aroma Chemical Industries Limited v. Gujarat Industrial Development Corporation, Lanka Venkateswarlu (dead) by LRs. v. State of Andhra Pradesh and others and Maniben Devraj Shah v. Municipal Corporation of Brihan Mumbai's cases supra. The ratio of these judgments is also that while considering the petition for condonation of delay the Court should apply the law in a pragmatic manner to sub-serves the ends of justice and nothing beyond that.

88. The crux of what has been said hereinabove, therefore, would be that the Courts have wide discretion in the matter of condonation of delay, however, the same should be exercised judiciously and only in a case where sufficient cause is found to be shown. In the case in hand there is nothing to infer that the delay is bonafide and occurred owing to the circumstances beyond the control of the petitioner. The petitioner, for the reasons already recorded, seems to be inimical to accused-respondent No.1. The so called vindictive attitude of the said respondent towards the petitioner and other officers named in rejoinder to the reply filed by accused-respondents is not an issue to be discussed and decided in the present petition being not the part of the record of this case. The officers named in the rejoinder in case feel that in order to wreak-vengeance against them, they have been victimized by accused-respondent No.1 on account of they having monitored/ investigated the case registered against him vide FIR No. 27 of 2009, they are at liberty to have recourse to appropriate remedy available to them against the said respondent, in accordance with law. However, so far as this petition is concerned, the so called vindictive and revengeful attitude of the accused-respondents towards them cannot be treated a ground for condonation of delay. Therefore, even if the petitioner had been held to be a 'victim' and competent to file the appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code in that event also the same should have not been entertained being time barred.

89. In view of what has been said hereinabove no case for condonation of delay, as occurred in filing the appeal, is made out. Therefore, the petition for seeking leave to appeal and the appeal itself being time barred cannot be entertained. Consequently, the petition being without any merit deserves to be dismissed.

Point No. 3.

Brief background:

90. Irrespective of the findings that the petitioner is not a victim within the meaning of Section 2 (wa) of the Code, hence not competent to file an appeal under the proviso to Section 372 of the Code and that sufficient cause has also not been shown for condonation of delay of 96 days as occurred in filing the appeal, it is deemed appropriate to examine the merits of the case also because the Apex Court in Lipok A.O.'s case supra has held that the Court should decide the matters on merits unless the case is hopelessly time barred and without merit.

Respective contentions of learned Counsel.

91. Mr. Deol, learned Senior Advocate has mainly emphasized on the transcripts of the CD and also the statement Ex.PW-22/A of late Mohinder Lal, the then Director (Industries), Himachal Pradesh, who as per the transcripts of CDs allegedly spoken with respondents/ accused and late Shri K.N. Sharma, the then OSD to accused respondent No.1 to prove the acceptance of bribe by both accused from Suresh Neotia, Vice President of M/s. Gujarat Ambuja Cement, P.C. Jain, its Chairman, late Shri Suresh Kapoor of Mohan Meakin and Piyush Jain, one of the applicants for allotment of mini Steel Plant etc. The report Ext.PW-32/E and PW-33/H qua analysis of voice samples of both the accused have also been pressed into service. According to Mr. Deol, out of 4 points formulated by learned Special Judge for adjudication no point pertains to the CD and it has vitiated the judgment under challenge, which according to him is perverse, hence not legally sustainable. It is further urged that tape is a document within the meaning of Section 3 of the Evidence Act, hence such evidence having come on record should have been relied upon. While arguing that tape-recorder is admissible in evidence, reliance has been placed on a judgment rendered by a Constitutional Bench of the Apex Court in S. Partap Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 1964 SC 72 and on the strength of the ratio thereof, contended that like any other document a tape-recorder is also document. The tape-recorder version should have not been ignored merely because of capable of being tempered with as according to Mr. Deol for that matter any other document is also capable of being tempered with. Reliance has also been placed on another judgment of the Apex Court in Yusufalli Esmail Nagree v. The State of Maharashtra, AIR 1968 SC 147,* in which it has been held that if a statement is relevant and accurate tape-recorder of such statement, is also relevant and admissible.

92. Mr. Cheema, while repelling the arguments addressed on behalf of the appellant-petitioner has urged that Suresh Neotia of Ambuja Cement was neither associated during the course of investigation nor examined as a witness though was available. Shri S.S. Sodhi, General Manager (Personnel), Ambuja Cement (PW-18) though was examined, however, turned hostile and not supported the prosecution case. Though charge is that Shri Neotia paid a sum of Rs.3 lacs to accused-respondent No.1 in Himachal Bhawan Delhi, however, no evidence to substantiate the same is produced. It is further urged that again there is no evidence that Brigadier Kapil Mohan (PW-26) of Mohan Meakin through one Suresh Kapoor and in consultation with PW-30 H.N. Handa has paid a sum of Rs.2,00,000/- to accused Pratibha so that on account of non-installation of modified Effluent Treatment Plant (ET Plant) electricity and water supply to Brewery premises are not disconnected. Shri P.C. Jain, PW-25 of M/s. Gujarat Ambuja Cement has also not supported the prosecution case and turned hostile. It is further argued that P.C. Jain and Brigadier Kapil Mohan rather filed CWP Nos.145 of 2011 and 1856 of 2011 in this Court on the ground that they never made the statement under Section 161 of the Code with a prayer to direct the investigating agency to record their statements correctly. Major Vijay Singh Mankotia (PW-21) allegedly produced the audio-cassette before the Police and not CD. The audio-cassette was also ordered to be excluded from the evidence by the trial Court in its order framing charge, passed on 25th June, 2012 against the accused person.

93. In order to persuade this Court to discard the audio-cassette/CD as legal and acceptable evidence, reliance has been placed on a recent judgment rendered by the Apex Court in Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer and others, AIR 2015 SC 180. It is urged that no doubt an electronic record is a documentary evidence under Section 3 of the Indian Evidence Act, however, whether it is genuine or not is a question to be taken into consideration in accordance with the legal provisions and also in the given facts and circumstances of the case.

94. Mr. Cheema, while disputing the authenticity of the audio cassette/CD has urged that the report Ex.PW-32/E cannot be relied upon particularly when as per the final report Ex.PW-33/H received from Forensic Science Laboratory, it was not possible to verify the authenticity of the audio recording in exhibits C/1 and A/1. While inviting the attention of this Court to the reply Ex.PW-32/G, in response to the quarries of the laboratory made vide letter Ex.PW-32/F, it is urged that the Forensic Science Laboratory was not apprised with correct position as at that time Mohinder Lal was also alive.

95. Mr. R.M. Bisht, learned Deputy Advocate General has also urged that Audio cassette has already been discarded by learned Special Judge being not a material piece of evidence. Original tape was neither sealed nor seized. According to Mr. Bisht, the bribe allegedly was obtained by accused respondents No.1 and 2 somewhere in 1989-90. At that time CDs were not in existence. Therefore, according to Mr. Bisht, it is for this reason the present was found to be a case of no evidence and as such no appeal was preferred by the respondent State.

Discussion and the conclusion drawn:

96. Now analyzing the rival contentions in the light of the given facts and circumstances and also evidence available on record, admittedly CD (Compact Disk) was not in existence in the year 1989-90 when the alleged recorded talk between Mohinder Lal and accused-respondent No.1, Mohinder Lal and accused-respondent No.2 and Mohinder Lal and Kedar Nath Sharma qua exchange of money had taken place. Of course, tape-recorder used to be there at that time and as such the audio-cassette of recorded talk was being prepared. PW-21 Major Vijay Singh Mankotia is not sure that packet he received through secret source was audio-cassette or CD. According to him, when the document, which he understood audio-cassette played in the press-conference, the same was found to be a CD made by someone else. Even if it was an audio-cassette learned Special Judge has excluded the same from record being not admissible in evidence at the stage of consideration of charge, as is apparent from order dated 25th June, 2012. If it was a CD, the same again is not admissible in evidence for the reason that as per evidence available on record the same has been prepared on the basis of recording done on 1st January, 1995. Above all, CDs were not in existence during the years 1989-90, when the occurrence took place.

97. As noticed supra, the technology of CD was not in existence in the year 1989-90 when accused-respondents No.1 and 2 allegedly received bribe and committed offence. The CD being of 1st January, 1995 rather is belated and creation of undisclosed and unauthenticated version. No evidence is forth-coming that what was the device used for making the recording in the CD. Whether such device(s) was technically in order, again there is no evidence in this behalf. Who has made the recording, is also missing. According to PW-21 also, the CD might have been prepared by someone else.

98. The law on the question of admissibility of an electronic document in evidence is no more res-integra as the Apex Court in Anvar P.V. v. P.K. Basheer supra while taking note of the provisions contained under Sections 22A, 45A, 59, 65A and 65B of the Indian Evidence Act has held as follows:

> "13. Any documentary evidence by way of an electronic record under the Evidence Act, in view of Sections 59 and 65A, can be proved only in accordance with the procedure prescribed under Section 65-B. Section 65-B deals with the admissibility of the electronic record. The purpose of these provisions is to sanctify secondary evidence in electronic form, generated by a computer. It may be noted that the Section starts with a non obstante clause. Thus, notwithstanding anything contained in the Evidence Act, any information contained in an electronic record which is printed on a paper, stored, recorded or copied in optical or magnetic media produced by a computer shall be deemed to be a document only if the conditions mentioned under sub-Section (2) are satisfied, without further proof or production of the original. The very admissibility of such a document, i.e., electronic record which is called as computer output, depends on the satisfaction of the four conditions under Section 65B(2). Following are the specified conditions under Section 65B(2) of the Evidence Act:
>
> (ii) The electronic record containing the information should have been produced by the computer during the period over which the same was regularly used to store or process information for the purpose of any activity regularly carried on over that period by the person having lawful control over the use of that computer;
>
> (iii) The information of the kind contained in electronic record or of the kind from which the information is derived was regularly fed into the computer in the ordinary course of the said activity;

(iv) During the material part of the said period, the computer was operating properly and that even if it was not operating properly for some time, the break or breaks had not affected either the record or the accuracy of its contents; and

(v) The information contained in the record should be a reproduction or derivation from the information fed into the computer in the ordinary course of the said activity.

14. Under Section 65B(4) of the Evidence Act, if it is desired to give a statement in any proceedings pertaining to an electronic record, it is permissible provided the following conditions are satisfied:

(a) There must be a certificate which identifies the electronic record containing the statement;

(b) The certificate must describe the manner in which the electronic record was produced;

(c) The certificate must furnish the particulars of the device involved in the production of that record;

(d) The certificate must deal with the applicable conditions mentioned under Section 65B(2) of the Evidence Act; and

(e) The certificate must be signed by a person occupying a responsible official position in relation to the operation of the relevant device.

15. It is further clarified that the person need only to state in the certificate that the same is to the best of his knowledge and belief. Most importantly, such a certificate must accompany the electronic record like computer printout, Compact Disc (CD), Video Compact Disc (VCD), pen drive, etc., pertaining to which a statement is sought to be given in evidence, when the same is produced in evidence. All these safeguards are taken to ensure the source and authenticity, which are the two hallmarks pertaining to electronic record sought to be used as evidence. Electronic records being more susceptible to tampering, alteration, transposition, excision, etc. without such safeguards, the whole trial based on proof of electronic records can lead to travesty of justice.

16. Only if the electronic record is duly produced in terms of Section 65B of the Evidence Act, the question would arise as to the genuineness thereof and in that situation, resort can be made to Section 45A–opinion of examiner of electronic evidence.

17. The Evidence Act does not contemplate or permit the proof of an electronic record by oral evidence if requirements > under Section 65B of the Evidence Act are not complied with, as the law now stands in India."

99. The larger Bench of the Apex Court has overruled two-Judge Bench judgment of the same Court in State (NCT of Delhi) v. Navjot Sandhu alias Afsan Guru, (2005) 11 SCC 600 and has further held as follows:

> "…Thus, in the case of CD, VCD, chip etc., the same shall be accompanied by the certificate in terms of Section 65B obtained at the time of taking the document, without which the secondary evidence pertaining to that electronic record is inadmissible."

100. In the case before the Apex Court also certificate in terms of Section 65B of the Evidence Act was not produced in respect of the CDs relied upon, hence the Apex Court has held that the same cannot be admitted in evidence.

101. In this case the conditions specified under Section 65B (2) of the Evidence Act are not at all satisfied because nothing is there to show that the information in the CD was being regularly stored or processed in the computer or being regularly fed into the computer in the ordinary course of activity and that the computer at the relevant time was being operated properly or when not operated properly the break, if any, not effected either the record or the accuracy of its contents as well as that the information in the electronic record (CD in the present case) is reproduction of the information fed into the computer in the ordinary course of the activity. The certificate duly signed by a responsible official dealing with the operation of the relevant device within the meaning of Section 65B(4) of the Evidence Act identifying the statement contained in the CD, the manner in which CD was produced, device used for preparation of the CD and its production by PW-21, who does not know anything as to how the same is prepared and by whom and with what device, rendered the document inadmissible in evidence. It is not known as to who played the CD and maker of the statement has neither initialed the CD nor signed the transcript of the contents thereof. The CD during the course of enquiry and investigation remained unsealed throughout. The prosecution story reveals that it was unsealed when received by enquiry officer, remained unsealed during the course of enquiry and received unsealed by the Investigating Officer along with other records of the case. The CD Ext.PW-21/B, therefore, is not a document to be relied upon in evidence.

102. The Forensic Science Laboratory had sought for the following information before the CD/audio cassette is analyzed vide letter dated 9th September, 2008 (Ext.PW-32/F):

> "i) Recording device with which questioned sample was recorded is not provided which is essential to authenticate the recordings;
>
> ii) How and when it was recorded may be informed?
>
> iii) The control samples may be provided as per the transcription of the question sample."

103. The reply (Ex.PW-32/G) to the letter Ex.PW-32/F supra given by the Superintendent of Police, State Vigilance & Anti Corruption Bureau, reveals that the Bureau was not in a position to satisfy the three conditions find mentioned in the letter Ext.PW-32/F supra. Meaning thereby that neither the device used for making recording of CD nor origin of CD nor control samples as per transcription of the CD were available with the Vigilance Bureau. True it is that in the opinion of the Forensic Science Laboratory Ext.PW-

32/E qua the voice-samples Ext.Q2 and Ext.S2 were found to be that of the voice of accused respondent No.1, however, as regards the voice samples Ext.Q1 and Ext.S1 in the opinion of the examiner, most probably the same were that of the voice of accused-respondent No.2. However, the report Ext.PW-33/H is fatal to the prosecution case for the reason that as per the same it was not possible for the experts to verify the authenticity of the tape-recording version in the absence of phone call details and original recording device. The evidence as produced, therefore, is tainted. The prosecution rather has withheld the material required by the Central Forensic Science Laboratory as is apparent from the perusal of letter Ext.PW-32/F and PW-32/G. In the report Ext.PW-33/H, CD is marked as C/1, whereas the audio-cassette as A/1. In the opinion of the Scientific Officer against Item No.9 "Results of examination sub-paras vii., viii and ix", it could not be ascertained that the conversation in C/1 and A/1 was recorded at the instance of Mohinder Lal or at that of the accused-respondents. Also that the authenticity of the audio recording in Ext.C/1 and A/1 could not be verified in absence of phone call details and original recording device. Ext.C/2 and V/1 the specimen of voice recording were returned un-examined. Thus, there hardly remains any legal and acceptable evidence to arrive at a conclusion that the deal of accused-respondents with the representatives of Ambuja Cement, Mohan Meakin Brewery, and Mini-Steel Plant etc. had taken place through Mohinder Lal and that they obtained the bribe and extended undue favour to these industrial units.

104. The law laid down in S. Partap Singh's and Yusufalli* Esmail Nagree's cases supra cited on behalf of the petitioner, is not at all attracted in the present case because the point in issue in S. Partap Singh's case was qua the tape-recording version capable of being tempered with and it is in that background held that like other documentary evidence tape-recording can also be tempered with, but it should not be taken to conclude that the tape-recordings are not legally admissible in evidence. In Yusufalli Esmail Nagree's case it is held that a tape-recorder statement if recorded accurately is also relevant and admissible. As a matter of fact, there cannot be any quarrel so far as the law so laid down in the judgments supra is concerned, however, for the detailed reasons hereinabove, in the case hand, CD/audio-cassette cannot at all be considered as legal and acceptable evidence.

105. Much has been said about the statement Ext.PW-22/A of late Mohinder Lal. The same reads as follows:

> "I have heard the CD today purported to have been converted from a tape recorded sometime in the year 1989. At that time there was no CD but only Tape Recorders were available. I do not know as to how and where it has been recorded. The contents of the CD contain prima facie my conversation with the then Chief Minister, his wife and Shri K.N. Sharma etc. Prima facie the voice in the CD is mine and as far as I remember the conversation has taken place. As regards the names of the persons and the detail thereof the same must have recorded by Rani Sahiba and may be obtained from her. The persons, who made contributions as far as I remember, were sent to the Chief Minister's house on various occasions and the present CD is a version of those occasions which happened and appears to have been recorded on various dates and made into one tape/CD. I am available for any further clarification based on my memory at any time as and when needed, as the matter relates to long time back."

106. It is seen that the CDs as per this statement were not available at that time. Mohinder Lal was not aware of as to where it was recorded. Although, he has said that so far his memory, it was his conversation and the person who made contributions as far as he remembered were sent to the Chief Minister's house on various occasions and the recording also made on various dates, but made into one tape/CD. When the CD/audio-cassette has already been discarded, therefore, the statement of late Shri Mohinder Lal is hardly of any help to the prosecution case. He was not available to make statement in the Court. Though PW-22 Dr. Kavindra Lal, his son, has been examined to prove this document, however, the evidence as has come on record by way of his statement is also hear-say hence not admissible in evidence. Above all, the statement Ext.PW-22/A is vague. The maker of the statement late Shri Mohinder Lal could not recognize his voice with all certainty and rather said that prima facie the voice in the CD was his voice. It is, therefore, not safe to place reliance on such a statement. Nothing can be made out therefrom qua the demand, offer or acceptance of bribe by the accused persons. He repeatedly used the words "as far as I remember", "appears to have been recorded". The statement, therefore, is absurd also and no findings can be recorded on such statement.

107. There are contradictions in the statements of PW-31 I.D. Bhandari, the then Additional Director General of Police and PW-32 A.P. Singh, Superintendent of Police because as per the version of former, Mohinder Lal was interrogated by PW-32 A.P. Singh. He has not said that Mohinder Lal was interrogated in his presence, however, as per version of PW-31 he was called by the Additional Director General of Police to his office and before recording the statement of Mohinder Lal by him CD was already heard by Mohinder Lal. The statement of Mohinder Lal has not been endorsed by any police officer. Therefore, in the considered opinion of this Court the statement Ext.PW-22/A cannot be held to be admissible in evidence by any stretch of imagination.

108. If the CD/audio cassette is excluded from the record, there hardly remains any evidence connecting the accused-respondents with the commission of alleged offence. The charge under Section 7 of the Prevention of Corruption Act against accused-respondent No.1 is that while the Chief Minister of the State of Himachal Pradesh, he has obtained Rs.2 lacs towards illegal gratification from Shri Suresh Neotia of M/s. Gujarat Ambuja Cement for clearance of its cement plant at Darlaghat. The allegations are that Shri Suresh Neotia, Chairman of M/s. Gujarat Ambuja Cement, accompanied by PW-25 P.C. Jain met accused-respondent No.1, the then Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh in Himachal Bhawan at New Delhi and Shri Neotia paid a sum of Rs.2 lacs to the said accused-respondent for early installation of the plant. Surprisingly enough, said Shri Suresh Neotia has neither been associated during the course of investigation nor examined as a witness.

109. Shri P.C. Jain, of course, has stepped into witness box as PW-25, however, has not at all supported the prosecution case, as according to him he never met the then Director (Industries) in the year 1989 nor any political executive, head of the State, in connection with seeking permission of IPARA (Industrial Projects Approval and Review Authority) nor entered into the financial deal with any functionary of the State in connection with seeking such permission. He had not talked with the Chief Minister also. He, therefore, turned hostile to the prosecution. In his cross-examination conducted by learned Public Prosecutor though it is admitted that Shri Suresh Neotia was the Chairman of M/s. Gujarat Ambuja Cement, however, it is denied that he accompanied by Shri Suresh Neotia met accused-respondent No.1 in Himachal Bhawan at New Delhi and that said Shri Neotia paid a sum of Rs.2 lacs to the said accused for early installation of the cement plant. When confronted with his statement Ext.PW-39/E recorded under Section 161 of the Code, he has denied making of such statement. It is also denied that he went to Holly-Lodge, the residence of the Chief Minister and met with accused Pritibha Singh to whom he paid Rs.3 lacs for seeking early clearance of IPARA permission. In a nutshell, Shri P.C. Jain has denied all the suggestions put to him in his cross-examination, being wrong. In his further cross-examination conducted by learned defence Counsel he rather stated that writ petition Ext.RX was filed by him when he came to know from his son about the contents of the statement recorded by the police. The writ petition was filed on the ground that his statement was wrongly recorded by the police. Therefore, the charges under Sections 7 and 11 of the Prevention of Corruption Act against accused-respondent No.1 are not at all proved.

110. PW-18 S.S. Sodhi, General Manager (Personnel) of M/s. Gujarat Ambuja Cement tells us that P.N. Neotia was the Chairman of M/s. Gujarat Ambuja Cement and its head office was at Bombay. Shri P.C. Jain was also Chairman of the Company. He, however, expressed his inability to state that it is Shri P.C. Jain, who had been liaisoning with the State Government at the time of installation of the cement plant of the Company at Darlaghat. He was also declared hostile and his version in cross-examination also remained the same. In his cross-examination conducted by learned defence Counsel, he expressed his ignorance as to whether Shri P.C. Jain was President or Senior Vice President because according to him, Mr. Jain retired well before he joined duties at Darlaghat.

111. Now coming to the charge against accused-respondent Pritibha Singh that she received Rs.2 lacs from one Suresh Kapoor, an employee of M/s. Mohan Meakin Limited and Rs.3 lacs from PW-25 P.C. Jain of M/s. Gujarat Ambuja Cement Plant for exercising influence on her husband accused-respondent Virbhadra Singh to ensure early clearance of IPARA in favour of M/s. Gujarat Ambuja and to ensure that electricity and water supply is not stopped to the premises of M/s. Mohan Meakin Limited on account of non-installation of modified ET Plant, there is again no evidence to substantiate the same for the reason that Shri Suresh Kapoor of M/s. Mohan Meakin Limited, on account of his death, was not available to make statement in the Court and as regards Shri P.C. Jain, as noticed supra, he has not supported the prosecution case at all.

112. PW-30 H.N. Handa also turned hostile to the prosecution because as per his version, he never received any notice from the State Pollution Control Board for installation of modified ET Plant at Solan, as according to him, such plant was already installed. When cross-examined by learned Pubic Prosecutor, he expressed his ignorance that in the year 1983 State Pollution Control Board made correspondence with the Company qua installation of new modified ET Plant and ordered disconnection of water and electricity supply if the plant is not installed. It is also denied that on receipt of the said notice, he contacted Brigadier Kapil Mohan, the Managing Director of the Company and that he asked him to contact Mohinder Lal (since dead) and act accordingly. It is also denied that he was asked by Mohinder Lal to pay Rs.2 lacs to accused-respondent No.2 in Holly-Lodge and that he handed over Rs.2 lacs to Suresh Kapoor for payment thereof to accused-respondent No.2. It is also denied that said Shri Suresh Kapoor had paid the money to accused-respondent No.2 and informed him when came back to Solan. It is also denied that he informed Mohinder Lal qua the payment so made and it is thereafter no notice qua installation of modified ET Plant was made. He has denied his statement Ext.PW-39/C having been recorded by Inspector Daya Sagar, as per his version.

113. Now coming to the statement of Brigadier Kapil Mohan, Managing Director of Mohan Meakin Private Limited, he has stepped into the witness box as PW-26. He was also turned hostile to the prosecution, as according to him, though notice for installation of modified ET Plant was received in the year 1983 from State Pollution Control Board, yet he never asked H.N. Handa (PW-30) to contact Mohinder Lal, the then Director of Industries. Therefore, he was also cross-examined by learned Public Prosecutor, but in sundry because nothing material lending support to the prosecution case could be elicited. He has denied his statement Ext.PW-39/D having been recorded by Inspector Daya Sagar (PW-39) at Gaziabad. He has also denied his relations with accused-respondent Virbhadra Singh. It is denied that he asked PW-30 to make payment to accused-respondents, if required to be made in order to avoid the installation of modified ET Plant. It is also denied that the Company made the payment of money to State Government functionaries and not counted for the same in the accounts. According to this witness, he had filed petition Ext.RS for seeking a direction to record his statement in a proper manner.

114. PW-38 Amar Singh has also not supported the prosecution case that late Suresh Kapoor disclosed him about he having brought Rs.2 lacs for being paid to accused-respondent No.2 Pratibha Singh. He has denied that he made statement Ext.PW-39/B.

115. Now coming to the evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of PW-21 Major Vijay Singh Mankotia, the star prosecution witness, his statement also not lends any support to the prosecution case. He rather is turned hostile to the prosecution. According to him, original audio-cassette, he played in the press conference is Ext.PW-21/B and that in his opinion the same is the original one. Except for Ext.PW-21/B, he allegedly had another audio-cassette Ext.PW-21/C and that in his opinion voice in the audio-cassette was that of accused Virbhadra Singh, accused Pritabha Singh, Mohinder Lal and Kehar Nath Sharma. When further cross-examined by learned defence Counsel while stating that audio-cassette Ext.PW-21/B was not prepared in his presence and that he is not aware as to who and where it was prepared and that the CDs/audio-cassette were played extensively in the election at Hamirpur by Bhartiya Janta Party, has demolished the entire prosecution case. His admission that no identification mark was put by him on the audio-cassette recovered by the police from him and that CD/audio-cassette like Ext.PW-21/B are being largely manufactured and distributed, render the authenticity and genuineness of this document highly doubtful. The statement of PW-21 only reveals that there was an audio-cassette he received from secret source, however, his statement is not suggestive of that Ext.PW-21/B is the same audio-cassette he produced before the police. He has simply produced the same before the police. He has not said anything as to how and at what time as well as about the identity of the person, who has prepared the same. Therefore, the audio-cassette/CD does not stand for the test of legal scrutiny, as discussed in detail in this judgment in paras supra.

116. Another star witness is none-else but petitioner S.M. Katwal, who has stepped into the witness box as PW-37. He also tells us about one CD he found to have been kept in an envelop in his letter-box and on hearing the same he found the voices of Mohinder Lal, Virbhadra Singh and Pratibha Singh therein. He has also said that since he remained posted in various capacities in the Government, therefore, was well conversant with their voices. He made the petition Ext.PW-37/A to Station House Officer, State Vigilance and Anti Corruption Bureau, Shimla. He also filed writ petition Ext.PW-37/B in the High Court. The CD was handed over by him to his lawyer. His testimony in cross-examination is very interesting as he expressed his inability to tell that the CD received by him was original or copied one, when the same was received. In the complaint Ext.PW-37/A there is no mention of CD, which he admits to be correct and tells us that the report he made to the police was based on the news published in a section of newspapers. He further tells us that he did not put any identification mark on the CD and that the CD given by him to the lawyer is still in existence or not, he cannot tell. He also expressed his ignorance about the enquiry, if any, made by the police from him qua the CD. Nothing incriminating has come in the statement of the petitioner connecting the accused-respondents with the commission of offence.

117. The testimony of PW-31 and PW-32, as already noticed, is contradictory on certain aspects because according to Shri I.D. Bhandari (PW-31), Shri Mohinder Lal might have been called by Shri A.P. Singh (PW-32) for the purpose of interrogation and that he did not associate himself with any enquiry, whereas as per the version of PW-32, Mohinder Lal was called by the then ADGP (PW-31) and it is PW-31 who called Mohinder Lal to his office. When he reached in the office of ADGP, the CD was already heard by the ADGP (PW-31) and Mohinder Lal. PW-32, no doubt, tells us that CD was seized by him; however, it was not original. He had asked Santosh Patial, Superintendent of Police, State Vigilance and Anti Corruption Bureau, Dharamshala to seize the CD, but he had sent audio-cassette in a sealed condition. He admits that original audio-cassette was never seized and sent to Forensic Science Laboratory. On the CD, no identification mark was there and the same remained unsealed during the course of enquiry he conducted. The statement of PW-32, who, as a matter of fact, conducted the enquiry in this matter also not substantiate the prosecution case, in any manner whatsoever. The testimony of this witness and that of PW-31 I.D. Bhandari and PW-21 Major Vijay Singh Mankotia rather are contradictory with each other.

118. PW-39 is Daya Sagar, who has partly investigated the case. Though, as per his version, statements Exts.PW-39/A to PW-39/E of S/Shri Vijay Singh Mankotia, Amar Singh, H.N. Handa, Kapil Mohan and P.C. Jain, were rightly recorded by him, however, as noticed supra the above witnesses have stated in one voice that their statements were not recorded by the police as per their version and they rather resiled from the statements so recorded. Therefore, PW-39 is also of no help to the prosecution case.

119. As discussed hereinabove, the testimony of the material prosecution witnesses also not lends any support to the prosecution case. PW-25 P.C. Jain and PW-26 Brigadier Kapil Mohan rather have filed two separate writ petitions in this Court on the ground that their statements in this case have been recorded wrongly by the police. The writ petitions were disposed of by a Division Bench of this Court with the observations that the appropriate course available to them was to have moved to senior officers for recording of their statements. Consequently, petition Ext.RZ was moved by PW-25 with a request to record his statement correctly.

120. The remaining prosecution witnesses are formal in nature. The evidence as has come on record by way of their testimony could have at the most been used as link evidence had the prosecution been otherwise able to bring guilt home to the accused persons beyond all reasonable doubt. Therefore, on merits also, no case is made out to interfere with the impugned judgment.

Point No.4:

Brief Background and respective contentions:

121. On the question of fairness of trial, the complaint is that after declaration of the result of the Himachal Pradesh Legislative Assembly Election on 20th December, 2012 the proceedings in the trial witnessed tremendous speed and that about 20 witnesses were given up by the prosecution thereafter, i.e., during the period 20th December, 2012 to 24th December, 2012 . It is further contended that special Prosecutor conducting the trial on behalf of the prosecution was abruptly replaced by a new Prosecutor. Judgment was delivered on a day before accused-respondent No.1 took over as Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh. The evidence available on record has not been discussed. Mr. Deol has, therefore, urged that the judgment under challenge has been passed in haste to the reasons best known to learned Special Judge. The same allegedly being perverse has been sought to be quashed.

122. On the other hand, Mr. Cheema has urged that who is the material witness, given up by the Prosecutor remained unexplained. Nothing to this effect is forth-coming on record. Also that the present being a case under the Prevention of Corruption Act otherwise was also required to be decided at the earliest. It is pointed out from the record that the charges against the accused were framed in the month of June, 2012, whereas the impugned judgment passed on 24th December, 2012. The present, therefore, is said to be not a case, where it can be said that learned Special Judge has delivered the judgment in a haste. It is rather the prosecution not proceeded in the matter in a fair manner and irrespective of technology of CD was not available in the year 1989 by hook and crook believing the audio-cassette to be a genuine document, booked both the accused falsely in the case. The investigation according to Mr. Cheema has not been conducted in a fair and impartial manner.

Discussion and conclusion drawn:

123. On analyzing the arguments addressed on both sides, true it is that on and after declaration of the result of Himachal Pradesh Legislative Assembly on 20th December, 2012, 24 witnesses were summoned for examination. Out of the eight witnesses summoned for 20th December, 2012 only one witness H.N. Handa could be recorded whereas statement of Rajinder Tarlokta was deferred for the next day, i.e., 21st December, 2012 and one witness was given up by the prosecution. Remaining five not present on that day were ordered to be summoned for 22nd December, 2012, i.e., after one day. On 21st December, 2012, out of eight witnesses plus PW Rajinder Tarlokta aforesaid, statements of three including Rajinder Tarlokta were recorded and four were give up, whereas PW S.K. Jain was not present on that day. There is nothing in the order passed on 21st December, 2012 that PW A.P. Singh summoned for that day was present or not. Similarly on 22nd December, 2012, out of eight witnesses, five including aforesaid A.P. Singh were recorded and six given up. PW Daya Sagar being Investigating Officer was ordered to be examined on 24th December, 2012 along with remaining PWs S.M. Katwal and Amar Singh Thakur. On that day, i.e., 22nd December, 2012, though learned Public Prosecutor prayed for a long date, yet learned Special Judge while recording that only PWs S.M. Katwal and Amar Singh Thakur are left to be examined, adjourned the trial to 3rd day, i.e., 24th December, 2012. On that day, statements of the remaining three witnesses were recorded. The statements of both accused under Section 313 of the Code were also recorded and on hearing arguments, the judgment was also delivered on the same day.

124. Be it stated that out of total 59 witnesses, 24 were ordered to be summoned on the above three dates and those witnesses not present on a particular date were ordered to be summoned either on the next day or a day next to it as discussed hereinabove. The trend, however, was not so before 20th December, 2012. For example on 16th November, 2012 PW Amar Singh was not present, whereas PW Rajinder Tarlokta though present but not produced the record. The case though was adjourned to 17th December, 2012, i.e., after one month for recording remaining prosecution evidence including that of S/Shri Amar Singh and Rajinder Tarlokta, however, they both were not summoned or bound down for 17th November, 2012 and rather Amar Singh was recorded on 24th December, 2012 whereas Rajinder Tarlokta on 20th/21st December, 2012. Again on 9th November, 2012 when PW Nagin Nanda could not appear despite service, no order is passed on that day qua his appearance on the next date, i.e., 16th November, 2012. The order passed on 7th November, 2012 reveals that some of the witnesses were not present on that day. Though, the case was already listed for 8th and 9th November, 2012 also for recording prosecution witnesses, however, such witnesses were not ordered to be summoned/produced for the next day or day thereafter.

125. True it is that the cases in respect of offence under Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 need expeditious hearing and disposal. The cases under the Act are, otherwise also, being fast-tracked and taken up for hearing on priority basis, both at the High Court and District Courts levels, under the Mission Mode Programme and instructions/guidelines issued by the Supreme Court and also the High Court from time to time. Even under sub-section (4) of Section 4 of the Prevention of Corruption Act also a case registered under the Act is required to be heard on day-to-day basis. But sudden change in the trend of proceedings in the case in hand during the period from 20th December, 2012 to 24th December, 2012 casts a doubt that learned trial Judge being guided by instructions issued by the High Court or the provisions ibid under the Act proceeded in the case to dispose it of expeditiously because had it been so the speed in the proceedings observed during the period of four days, i.e., 20th December, 2012 to 24th December, 2012, the speed should have been the same right from very beginning. Anyhow, there being nothing on record that learned trial Judge did so for some extraneous consideration or with oblique motive to help the accused-respondents and particularly accused-respondent No.1 to take over as Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh after declaration of the result of general election of Himachal Pradesh Legislative Assembly on 20th December, 2012, no further discussion on this aspect of the matter is required.

126. Although, nothing is there on record that Shri J.L. Sharma, Special Public Prosecutor was removed and rather he was very much in position upto 20th December, 2012, as is apparent from his presence marked in the zimni order passed on that day. He, however, was replaced on the next day, i.e., 21st December, 2012 by Shri Ashwani Dhiman, Public Prosecutor, whereas on 24th December, 2012, the day when the proceedings in the trial concluded and the judgment announced, the State was represented by Shri L.S. Negi, learned Public Prosecutor. The Public Prosecutor though was replaced on and after 20th December, 2012, however, what prejudice thereby is caused to the petitioner, Mr. Deol has failed to spell out during the course of arguments. The complaint that on and after 20th December, 2012, 20 witnesses were ordered to be given up, is not correct because out of 24 witnesses summoned for three days, i.e., 20th to 22nd December, 2012 and also for 24th December, 2012, 13 were recorded whereas 11 were given up.

127. I find no substance in the submissions that the witnesses were given up for extraneous consideration or with malafide intention to help the accused persons. Otherwise also, it is for the Public Prosecutor to decide as to out of the witnesses cited in the final report, who is to be examined in the Court and who is to be given up. Otherwise also, Mr. Deol again could not point out during the course of arguments as to what prejudice has been caused to the petitioner or for that matter the prosecution from the decision of the Public Prosecutor to give up 11 witnesses or why the said witnesses were required to be recorded and how such evidence would have been material for the prosecution case.

128. True it is that learned trial Judge has avoided the elaboration of the evidence available on record at the pretext that it was not required to do so. Support in this regard has been drawn by learned trial Judge from various judicial pronouncements made by the High Courts including the Apex Court. The impugned judgment reveals that the evidence has not out-rightly been ignored, but learned trial Judge has referred to and discussed the relevant evidence as and where required to do so. Mr. Deol, therefore, failed to persuade this Court to take a different view of the matter on this score. Otherwise also, for want of legal and acceptable evidence connecting both the accused with the commission of the alleged offence even if it is held that fair trial has not been conducted, will hardly be of any help to the petitioner, who being not victim, is not competent to file the appeal and even failed to show sufficient cause for condonation of delay.

129. The investigation of the case seems to be not conducted in a fair manner for the reason that irrespective of technology on CD was not in existence in the year 1989-90, the same has been made basis for registration of a case against the accused persons vide FIR No.27 of 2009 on 3rd August, 2009, i.e., after the expiry of about 20 years from the commission of the alleged offence by them. Both the accused are in their public life because respondent No.1 is the Chief Minister of the State, whereas his wife accused-respondent No.2 is a former Member of Parliament. In the nature of the evidence available on record, discussed supra, they have rightly been acquitted from the charges. Therefore, on this score and on merits also, no case is found to be made out against them.

Crux of the above discussion and conclusion drawn:

130. In view of what has been said hereinabove, the petitioner has no locus-standi to file the appeal as he is not a victim within the meaning of Section 2(wa) of the Code, hence not competent to file the appeal against the judgment of acquittal dated 24th December, 2012 passed by learned Special Judge (Forests), Shimla.

131. Admittedly, the petitioner has been convicted in few of the cases which were registered against him during the period when accused-respondent No.1 previously was also the Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh. Of course, appeals against his conviction he preferred are pending disposal in the Supreme Court. Admittedly, the petitioner has also instituted civil and criminal cases against accused-respondent No.1, out of which few stands disposed of whereas few are still pending disposal. The facts, therefore, remain that the petitioner is inimical to accused-respondent No.1.

132. The petition even does not disclose sufficient cause as required for condonation of 96 days' delay, as occurred in filing the appeal. The expiry of the limitation prescribed for filing the appeal has resulted in a valuable right in favour of the accused-respondents and the same cannot be taken away on such grounds, which are not only vague, absurd, but false also. On merits also, no case is found to be made out against the accused-respondents. Therefore, there is no merit in this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed. Consequently, the petition for seeking leave to appeal and the appeal itself shall also stand dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE RAJIV SHARMA, J.

M/s Cosmo Ferrites Limited and others. ...Petitioners.
Versus
Rajinder Singh. ...Respondent.

CMPMO No. 117/2015
Decided on: 21.4.2015

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order 39 Rules 1 and 2- Plaintiff filed a suit seeking injunction for restraining the defendants from transferring the plaintiff from Cosmo Ferrites Limited and causing any obstruction in entering the factory premises for attending his job- the application was allowed- an appeal preferred against the order was dismissed- according to Clause 20 of the Standing Order, the workman can be transferred according to exigency of the work from one department to another provided that his wages, grade, continuity of service and other conditions of service are not adversely affected by such transfer - such transfer can be made only when the workman consents after getting a reasonable notice -

plaintiff had brought to the notice of the management that he was not capable of performing heavy work and that he may be given work according to his capability- he had never requested for his transfer- transfer was made simply because the workman had participated in a strike and an FIR was also registered against him- held that trial Court below had rightly granted injunction. (Para-6 to 8)

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 9- A dispute between an employer and a single workman cannot be termed as an industrial dispute but may become one, if it is taken up by Union or number of workmen- the case of the plaintiff was not taken up by the Union, therefore, civil Court had jurisdiction to hear and entertain and suit. (Para-10 and 11)

Cases referred:

The Bombay Union of Journalists and others vs. The Hindu, Bombay and another, AIR 1963 SC 318

Rajashtan State Road Transport Corporation and another versus Bal Mukund Bairwa (2), (2009) 4 SCC 299

For the Petitioners: Mr. O.C. Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Nemo.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Rajiv Sharma, Judge (oral).

This petition is instituted against the order dated 3.3.2015 rendered by the Additional District Judge-II, Solan in Civil Miscellaneous Appeal No. 7-FTC/14 of 2010.

2. "Key facts" necessary for the adjudication of this petition are that respondent-plaintiff (hereinafter referred to as the "plaintiff" for convenience sake) has filed a suit against the petitioners-defendants (hereinafter referred to as the "defendants" for convenience sake) under section 38 of Specific Relief Act for decree of permanent injunction restraining the defendants from transferring the plaintiff from Cosmo Ferrites Limited Jabli, Tehsil Kasauli, District Solan and also restraining the defendants from causing any obstruction in entering into the factory premises for attending his job, duty and putting any kind of illegal restriction by themselves through their agents, employees, workers etc.

3. The plaintiff has also moved an application under order 39 rule 1 and 2 read with section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure. The application was contested by the defendants. Learned Civil Judge (Senior Division) allowed the application vide order dated 23.9.2010 whereby the transfer order dated 26.7.2010 was stayed and the defendants were directed not to restrain the plaintiff to come to his place of work. The defendants feeling aggrieved by the order dated 23.9.2010 filed an appeal before the learned Additional District Judge-II, Solan. He dismissed the same on 3.3.2015. Hence, the present petition.

4. Mr. O.C. Sharma, learned counsel for the defendants; has vehemently argued that the civil court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit. He has relied upon standing order framed under the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, 1946. He also contended that the courts below have not taken into consideration the well known principles governing the ad-interim injunction.

5. I have heard Mr. O.C. Sahrma and gone through order dated 23.9.2010 and judgment dated 3.3.2015.

6. The plaintiff was appointed on 12.5.1989. He met with an accident in the year 1992. He has taken treatment from P.G.I. and thereafter from Ludhiana. Employees of the defendant-company had gone on strike with effect from 19.7.2009 to 30.8.2009. FIR No.70/2009 was also registered against the plaintiff. Defendant-company has framed standing order under the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, 1946. Clause 20 of the Standing Order deals with the transfer of the workman. The Additional District Judge has made elaborate reference to clause 20 of the Standing Order. According to clause 20 of the Standing Order, the workman can be transferred according to the exigency of work from one job or department to another or from one station to another or from one establishment to another under the same employer provided that his wages, grade, continuity of service and other conditions of service are not adversely affected by such transfer and where the transfer involves moving from one station to another, such transfer is to take place either with the consent of the workmen where there is a specified provision to this effect in the letter of appointment and provided that reasonable notice is given to such workmen and reasonable joining time is allowed. The plaintiff has been transferred from Jabali, Tehsil Kasauli, District Solan to M/s Sterling Oxide Limited, Works Industrial Area, Sikendrabad, District Buldandshehar, U.P. as Assistant (Clerical). It is not in dispute that Sterling oxide Limited was wound up on 11.7.2013.

7. In the instant case, a notice was issued to the plaintiff on 20.7.2010 informing him that if he did not want to work with them, then his services would be terminated. The plaintiff replied to the notice on 27.7.2010. He brought to the notice of the management that as per medical certificate, he was not capable of performing heavy work and he may be given work as per his capability. The plaintiff has never prayed to be transferred from the present place of posting to Sikendrabad.

8. Mr. O.C. Sharma has vehemently argued that the consent of the plaintiff was obtained. The transfer of the plaintiff was mala fide since he has participated in the strike with effect from 19.7.2009 to 30.8.2009. FIR No.70/2009 was also registered against the plaintiff. The transfer of the plaintiff is also actuated with malice since the workman has been transferred to a distant place without any administrative exigency. The defendants could not be oblivious that plaintiff has suffered injury on four fingers and remained under treatment for a considerable time. The suit has been instituted under section 38 of the Specific Relief Act on the basis of Standing Order framed under the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, 1946.

9. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in The Bombay Union of Journalists and others vs. The Hindu, Bombay and another, AIR 1963 SC 318 have held that a dispute between employer and single workman cannot per se be an industrial dispute, but it may become one if it is taken up by the Union or a number of workmen. Their Lordships have held as under:

> "7. The terms of reference by the Government of Bombay under S. 12(2) indicate that the dispute was primarily between "The Hindu" Bombay and the appellant -- a single employee, relating to his individual claim in which the other employees of "The Hindu" Bombay were not directly interested. In Central Provinces Transport Services Ltd. v. Raghunath Gopal Patwardhan, 1956 SCR 956: ((S) AIR SC l04) this Court after setting out the three possible views on the question whether a dispute by an individual workman may be regarded as an industrial dispute within the meaning of S. 2(k) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, observed,
>
> > "The preponderance of judicial opinion is clearly in favour of the last of the three views stated above (i.e., a dispute between an employer and a single employee cannot per se be an industrial dispute, but it may become one if it is taken up by the Union or a number of workmen and there is considerable reason behind it.) Notwithstanding that the language of S. 2(k) is wide enough to cover a dispute between an employer and a single employee, the scheme of the Industrial Disputes Act does appear to contemplate that the machinery provided therein should be set in motion, to settle only disputes which involve the rights of workmen as a class and that a dispute touching the individual rights of a workman was not intended to be the subject of an adjudication under the Act, when the same had not been taken up by the Union or a number of workmen.

This view was reiterated in Newspapers Ltd. v. Slate Industrial Tribunal, U. P. 1957 SCR 754: ((S) AIR 1957 SC 532). Therefore, the applicability of the Industrial Disputes Act to an individual dispute as distinguished from a dispute involving a group of workmen is excluded, unless the workmen as a body or a considerable section of them make common cause with the individual workman.

9. By its constitution the Bombay Union of Journalists is a Union not of employees of one employer, but of all employees in the industry of journalism in Bombay. Support of the cause, by the Union, will not in our judgment convert the individual dispute of one of its members unto an industrial dispute. The dispute between "The Hindu" Bombay and Salivateeswaran was in respect of alleged wrongful termination of employment; it could acquire the character of an industrial dispute only if it was proved that it was, before it was referred, supported by the Union of the employee of "The Hindu" Bombay or by an appreciable number of its employees. In Workmen of Dimakuchi Tea Estate v. Management of Dimakuchi Tea Estate 1958 SCR 1156: (AIR 1958 SC 353) this Court held by a majority that the two tests of an industrial dispute as defined by sub-sec. (k) of S. 2 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, must, therefore, be -- (1) the dispute must be a real dispute capable. of being settled by relief given by one party to the other and (2) the person in respect of whom the dispute is raised must be one in whose employment, non-employment, terms of employment, or conditions of labour (as the case may be), the parties to the dispute have a direct or substantial interest, and this must depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. In that case certain employees sought to raise a dispute about a person who was not a workman. In the present case members of the Union who were not workmen of the employer against whom the dispute was sought to be raised, seek by supporting the dispute to convert what is prima facie an individual dispute into an industrial dispute. The principle that the persons who seek to support the cause of a workman must themselves be directly and substantially interested in the dispute in our view applies to this class of case also: persons who are not employees of the same employer cannot be regarded as so interested, that by their support they may convert an individual dispute into an industrial dispute. The mere support to his cause by the Bombay Union of Journalists cannot therefore assist the claim of Salivateswaran so as to convert it into an industrial dispute.

16. The effect of the support to the cause of Salivateeswaran by the Indian Federation of Working Journalists and the claim founded thereon does not call for any detailed consideration. After the reference was submitted and it was pending hearing before the Tribunal a letter was written by the President of the Indian Federation of Working Journalists to the General Secretary of the Bombay Union of Journalists on April 16, 1959, stating that the Federation had lent support to Salivateeswaran in the writ petition filed by "The Hindu" in the Supreme Court and that the Federation did so as it was a test case. Another letter dated April,17, 1959, was addressed by the General Secretary of the Indian Federation of Working Journalists to the General Secretary, Bombay Union of Journalists, Bombay stating that they had advised Salivateeswaran to file a petition before the Presiding officer of the Industrial Court in Bombay and had also intervened in the Supreme Court, and further that the Federation fully supported all actions taken by the Bombay Union of Journalists to get justice for Salivateeswaran. The Secretary of the Union by letter dated July 9, 1959, wrote to the President and Secretary-General of the Indian Federation of Working Journalists that Salivateeswaran's case was being heard for a week and that Salivateeswaran was to undergo cross-examination on the next day and that Mahatame, the previous Secretary was to give evidence. He further stated "I am of opinion that we must produce some document whereby it will be possible to prove that the Federation had supported Salivateeswaran's case' and requested the Federation to send a document in the form of a minute of a meeting or a letter or a resolution and if there was none such on the record, to pass a fresh resolution supporting the Bombay Union's action regarding Salivateeswaran's case and to send the same by return of post. Taking a clue from this letter, on July 24, 1959, the President of the Federation sent a copy of the resolution alleged to have been adopted by the members of the Working Committee of the Indian Federation of Working Journalists regarding Salivateeswaran's case. The draft resolution sought to support the case of the Bombay Union of Journalists before the Industrial Tribunal, Bombay, and to "direct the Union to fight the case with all its strength." This resolution is alleged to have been passed by circulation after the commencement of the adjudication proceedings. If the dispute was in its inception an individual dispute and continued to be such till the date of the reference by the Government of Bombay, it could not be converted into an industrial dispute by support subsequent to the reference even of workmen interested in the dispute. We have already held that subsequent withdrawal of support will not take away the jurisdiction of an industrial tribunal. On the same reasoning subsequent support will not convert what was an individual dispute at the time of reference into an industrial dispute. The resolution of the Indian Federation of Working Journalists, assuming that it has any value, would not be sufficient to convert what was an individual dispute into an industrial dispute."

10. In the instant case, plaintiff's case has not been taken up by the union.

11. So far as the question whether the civil court had no jurisdiction to go into the matter as argued by Mr. O.C. Sharma is concerned, the same no more res integra in view of the judgment rendered by their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rajashtan State Road Transport Corporation and another versus Bal Mukund Bairwa (2), (2009) 4 SCC 299. Their Lordships have held as under:

"12. Section 9 of the Code is in enforcement of the fundamental principles of law laid down in the maxim Ubi jus Ibi remedium. A litigant, thus, having a grievance of a civil nature has a right to institute a civil suit in a competent civil court unless its cognizance is either expressly or impliedly barred by any statute. Ex facie, in terms of Section 9 of the Code, civil courts can try all suits, unless bared by statute, either expressly or by necessary implication.

13. The civil court, furthermore, being a court of plenary jurisdiction has the jurisdiction to determine its jurisdiction upon considering the averments made in the plaint but that would not mean that the plaintiff can circumvent the provisions of law in order to invest jurisdiction on the civil court although it otherwise may not possess. For the said purpose, the court in given cases would be entitled to decide the question of its own jurisdiction upon arriving at a finding in regard to the existence of the jurisdictional fact.

14. It is also well settled that there is a presumption that a civil court will have jurisdiction and the ouster of civil court's jurisdiction is not to be readily inferred. A person taking a plea contra must establish the same. Even in a case where jurisdiction of a civil court is sought to be barred under a statute, the civil court can exercise its jurisdiction in respect of some matters particularly when the statutory authority or Tribunal acts without jurisdiction.

26. Applying the said principles to the fact of the cases wherein the plaintiffs alleged that the enquiries were conducted in violation of the Standing Orders whereas the stand taken by the Corporation was that the requirements contained in the Standing Orders were complied with, the Bench, however, noticed that no Regulation had been framed by the Corporation in terms of Section 45 of the Act insofar as the employees answering the description of `workman' as defined in Section 2(s) of the 1947 Act are concerned.

It appears that therein no dispute was raised that the provisions of the Standing Orders were applicable. The question, therefore, which inter alia arose for consideration was as to whether in holding the departmental proceeding the provisions of the Certified Standing Orders were violated or not. While holding that Civil Court's jurisdiction to entertain the suit was bared, it was held:

> "37. It is directed that the principles enunciated in this judgment shall apply to all pending matters except where decrees have been passed by the trial court and the matters are pending in appeal or second appeal, as the case may be. All suits pending in the trial court shall be governed by the principles enunciated herein -- as also the suits and proceedings to be instituted hereinafter."

With greatest of respect to the learned judges, if a statute while creating rights and obligations did not constitute a forum for enforcing the same, plenary jurisdiction of the civil court in view of Premier Automobiles Ltd.(supra) could not be held to have been taken away. There was also no occasion to extend the scope of the dicta laid down therein. Certified Standing Orders lay down the terms and conditions of service. It did not create any new right such as Section 25F, 25G or 25H of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. Any new right created under a statute would ordinarily be a right in favour of an employee over and above the general law.

Let us, however, proceed on the basis that the dicta laid down therein is correct.

33. A dispute arising in between an employer and employee may or may not be an industrial dispute. The dispute may be in relation to or arising out of a fundamental right of the employee, or his right under a Parliamentary Act and the Regulations framed thereunder, and/or a right arising under the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act or the sister laws and may relate to same or similar rights or different rights, or even may be based on common law right or contractual right. The question in regard to the jurisdiction of the civil court must, therefore, be addressed having regard to the fact as to which rights or obligations are sought to be enforced for the purpose of invoking or excluding the jurisdiction of a civil court."

12. There is a prima facie case in favour of the plaintiff and balance of convenience also lies in his favour. He would have suffered irreparable loss and injury if the transfer order was not stayed.

13. Accordingly, there is no merit in the petition and the same is dismissed. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of. No costs.

****

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANJAY KAROL, J.

Sh. Budhi Singh & another ....Appellants.
Versus
Sh. Ashok Kumar & others. ....Respondents.

RSA No.6 of 2004
Judgment reserved on: 01.05.2015
Date of Decision: May 21 of 2015

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 90- Plaintiff claimed the ownership on the basis of sale deed dated 11.1.1962 and 19.3.1965- defendant denied the execution of the sale deed dated 19.3.1965 and pleaded that document was manipulated by predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs who obtained thumb impression on the pretext of getting the land demarcated- it was contended that Court was bound to draw the presumption under Section 90 of the Evidence Act- held, that the power conferred upon the Court is discretionary and the Court is not obliged to draw such presumption- further, mere proof of formal execution of a document does not lead to a presumption that recitals contained therein are also correct- plaintiff has neither pleaded nor proved as to how the consideration was paid, who was the Deed Writer, before whom the document was executed- hand-writing was not proved nor anyone was called from Sub Registrar office, therefore, in these circumstances, trial Court had rightly refused to rely upon the sale deed. (Para-9 to 35)

Cases referred:

Gangamma and others Versus Shivalingaiah, (2005) 9 SCC 359
Tilak Chand Kureel Versus Bhim Raj, 1969(3) SCC 367
Lallan Singh and others Versus State of Bihar, 1969 (3) SC 765
Shiv Lal and others Versus Chet Ram and others, 1970 (2) SCC 773
Lakhi Baruah and others Versus Padma Kanta Kalita and others, 1996(8) 357
State of Andhra Pradesh and others Versus Star Bone Mill and Fertiliser Company, (2013) 9 SCC 319
Mahasay Ganesh Prasad Ray & another Vs Narendra Nath Sen and others, AIR 1953 SC 431

Harihar Prasad Singh and another Versus Deonarain Prasad and others, AIR 1956 SC 305
Madamanchi Ramappa and another Versus Muthaluru Bojjappa, AIR 1963 SC 1633
Vishwanath Bapurao Sabale Vs Shalinibai Nagappa Sabale and others, (2009) 12 SCC 101
Pavitri Devi and another Versus Darbari Singh and others, (1993) 4 SCC 392
Union of India Versus Ibrahim Uddin and another, (2012) 8 SCC 148
Sital Das Versus Sant Ram and others ,AIR 1954 SC 606
Kalidindi Venkata Subbaraju and others Versus Chintalapati Subbaraju and others, AIR 1968 SC 947
Bharpur Singh and others Versus Shamsher Singh, (2009) 3 SCC 687
M.B. Ramesh (Dead) By LRs. Versus K.M. Veeraje Urs (Dead) By LRs., (2013) 7 SCC 490
Saradamani Kandappan Versus S. Rajalakshmi and others, (2011) 12 SCC 18
Gayatri Devi and others Versus Shashi Pal Singh, (2005) 5 SCC 527
Saheb Khan Versus Mohd. Yosufuddin and others, (2006) 4 SCC 476
Sait Tarajee Khimchand and others Versus Yelamarti Satyam and others, AIR 1971 SC 1865
Bhop Ram Versus Dharam Das, Latest HLJ 2009(HP) 560.
Dalip Kumar Versus Rajesh Sahani and others, Latest HLJ 2004 (HP) 1030
Rajni Tandon Versus Dulal Ranjan Ghosh Dastidar and another, (2009) 14 SCC 782
Shyamal Kumar Roy Versus Sushil Kumar Agarwal, AIR 2007 SC 637
Union of India and others Versus A. Nagamalleshwar Rao, AIR 1998 SC 111
Madamanchi Ramappa and another Versus Muthaluru Bojjappa, AIR 1963 SC 1633
Lachhman Singh (Deceased) Through legal representatives and others Versus Hazara Singh (Deceased) Through legal representatives and others, (2008) 5 SCC 444
Shalimar Chemical Works Limited Versus Surendra Oil and Dal Mills (Refineries) and others, (2010) 8 SCC 423

For the appellants: Mr. G.D. Verma, Sr. Advocate with Mr.B.C. Verma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Bhupinder Gupta, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Advocate, for the LRs of respondents No.1 (a) to 1(d).

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sanjay Karol, J.

This regular second appeal, filed under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure, stands admitted on the following substantial question of law:-

> "Whether the two courts below have erred in not raising a presumption under Section 90 of the Indian Evidence Act in respect of two sale deeds dated 11.1.1962 and 19.3.1965"?

It be only clarified that controversy is only with regard to sale deed dated 19.03.1965. Concurrent findings of fact are challenged by the plaintiffs.

2. Budhi Singh and Jamna alias Jamna Dei as plaintiffs, set up their claim, in the suit land, on the basis of sale deeds dated 11.01.1962 (Ex.PW.1/A) and 19.03.1965 (Ex.PW.1/B), executed by Sh. Longu (defendant No.1). Challenge was laid to the entries, erroneously recording the defendants to be co-owners. Plaintiffs claimed 1/4th share in the suit land, pleading defendant No.1 to be owner only to the extent of 3/16th share and defendant No.2 to be owner of a very negligible share.

3. Suit for declaration and injunction so filed by the plaintiffs was primarily resisted by Longu, who while admitting execution of sale deed dated 11.01.1962, denied execution of any sale deed dated 19.03.1965, categorically pleading the document to have been manipulated by Brehabatu (predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs), who on the pretext of getting the land demarcated, so sold vide earlier sale deed obtained thumb impression on a stamp paper which was supposed to be an application for demarcation, to be presented before the Tehsildar. Bhrehabatu had called Longu to the Tehsil Headquarter for the said purpose. Thus, without disputing the share of the plaintiffs in the land sold vide sale deed dated 11.01.1962, with respect to sale deed dated 19.03.1965 defendants pleaded fraud, misrepresentation and undue influence.

4. Based on the pleadings of the parties, trial Court framed the following issues:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs are owners in possession of 7/16th share by way of purchase from defendant No.1, of the suit land by way of sale deeds dated 11.1.1962 & 19.3.1965? OPP.
2. Whether share in the revenue record qua the ownership of plaintiffs are wrongly recorded as alleged? OPP.
3. Whether plaintiffs are entitled for consequential relief of injunction as prayed for? OPP.
4. Whether suit of the plaintiffs is within time? OPP
5. Whether plaintiffs have no locus standi to file the present suit? OPD
6. Whether the plaintiffs are estopped from filing the present suit by their act and conduct? OPD
7. Whether sale deed dated 19.3.1965 is a result of fraud, misrepresentation & undue influence as alleged? OPD
8. Relief.

5. Appreciating the testimonies of the witnesses, trial Court, by answering the material issues, in favour of the defendants, dismissed the suit, vide judgment and decree dated 30.04.2002, passed in CS No. 111 of 2000, titled as Budhi Singh & another Versus Sh. Longu and another.

6. Lower Appellate Court, in the plaintiffs' appeal affirmed all findings of fact vide judgment and decree dated 06.10.2003 rendered in Civil appeal No.74-D/XIII-02, titled as Budhi Singh & another Versus Longu & another.

7. Hence the present appeal.

8. There is no dispute with regard to execution of sale deed dated 11.01.1962 (Ex.PW.1/A). Plaintiffs' share in the suit land, to the extent of the land sold in terms of this sale deed is also not in dispute.

9. Section 90 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, reads as under:-

> "90. Presumption as to documents thirty years old.—Where any document, purporting or proved to be thirty years old, is produced from any custody which the Court in the particular case considers proper, the Court may presume that the signature and every other part of such document, which purports to be in the handwriting of > any particular person, is in that person's handwriting, and, in the case of a document excluded or attested, that it was duly executed and attested by the persons by whom it purports to be executed and attested.

>
> > Explanation.—Documents are said to be in proper custody if they are in the place in which, and under the care of the person with whom, they would naturally be; but no custody is improper if it is proved to have had a legitimate origin, or if the circumstances of the particular case are such as to render such an origin probable".

10. Principle behind the aforesaid provision is of necessity and convenience. The underline principle being, that if a document, private or otherwise is produced from proper custody and is on its face free from suspicion, the Court may presume that it has been signed or written by the person whose signature it bears or in whose handwriting it purports to be and that it has been duly attested and executed, if it purports to be so. To raise such presumption, prima facie proof is necessary to show that the document is 30 years old. But however, such presumption is rebuttable. Where the party opposing the document disproves it to be so by convincing evidence, the Court is duty bound to call the party, relying on it to prove it. Where the factum of execution is not in dispute, no evidence is necessary to prove its genuineness. Proper custody under the Section would mean the custody of any person, so connected with the deed, that possession thereof, does not raise any suspicion or fraud.

11. The power conferred upon the Court is absolutely discretionary. It may or may not draw the presumption and would depend upon the factual matrix of each case. Even if the document is 30 years old, comes from the proper custody, the Court may still call upon the party to prove the same as also its contents. Court is not, under all circumstances, obliged to draw such presumption, and the Court is duty bound to consider evidence, external and internal of the document, in order to enable it to decide, whether in any particular case, it should or should not presume proper signature and execution. Age alone is not the sole criteria. However, while refusing to draw presumption, Court cannot be capricious in its attitude. But then even in the absence of any objection, taken at the time of admission of the document, Court can refuse to draw the statutory presumption. Mere tendering of a document in evidence cannot be regarded as proof of proper custody.

12. Normally Appellate Court should be loathe in interfering with the discretion exercised by the trial Court in refusing to draw the statutory presumption unless and until the discretion so exercised is arbitrary, capricious, illegal or shocks the conscious of the Court.

13. The apex Court in Gangamma and others Versus Shivalingaiah, (2005) 9 SCC 359, has held that even if formal execution of a document is proved, the same by itself would not lead to a presumption that recitals contained therein are also correct. Mere execution of a document does not lead to the conclusion that the recitals made therein are correct, and subject to the statutory provisions contained in Sections 91 and 92 of the Evidence Act. It is open to the parties to raise a plea contra thereto. Also the presumption enacted under the Section can be raised in relation to the original document and not copies thereof. [Also: Tilak Chand Kureel Versus Bhim Raj, 1969(3) SCC 367; Lallan Singh and others Versus State of Bihar, 1969 (3) SC 765; Shiv Lal and others Versus Chet Ram and others, 1970 (2) SCC 773 and Lakhi Baruah and others Versus Padma Kanta Kalita and others, 1996(8) 357]

14. Section 90 of the Evidence Act is based on the legal maxims: nemo dat qui non habet (no one gives what he has not got); and nemo plus juris tribuit quam ipse habet (no one can bestow or grant a greater right, or a better title than he has himself). This section does away with the strict rules, as regards the requirement of proof, which are enforced in the case of private documents, by giving rise to a presumption of genuineness, in respect of certain documents that have reached a certain age. The period is to be reckoned backward from the date of the offering of the document, and not any subsequent date i.e. the date of decision of suit or appeal. [See: State of Andhra Pradesh and others Versus Star Bone Mill and Fertiliser Company, (2013) 9 SCC 319.]

15. The apex Court in Mahasay Ganesh Prasad Ray and another Versus Narendra Nath Sen and others, AIR 1953 SC 431, had the occasion to deal with Book of Accounts which undoubtedly were 30 years old and came from the possession of its keeper. Yet Court held that:-

> "3. … … … Exhibit 32 series as noticed by the High Court, consists of loose sheets of papers. They have not the probative force of a book of account regularly kept. Being old documents, naturally, the writer is not called and barring the fact that they were produced from the Receiver's possession there is nothing to show their genuineness. Section 90, Evidence Act, does not help the appellants because this is not a case where the signature of a Particular person is in question or sought to be established. … …".

16. The apex Court in Harihar Prasad Singh and another Versus Deonarain Prasad and others, AIR 1956 SC 305, the Court has observed as under:-

> "8. Strong reliance was placed by the respondents on Exhibits F-1 and F-1(1) which are khatians relating to the suit lands published on 7-12-1909 recording them as in the possession of the defendants of the second party as 'kaimi' and on the presumption under S. 103-B that entry is correct.
>
> This presumption, it is contended, is particularly strong in the present case, because the predecessors-in-title of the plaintiffs were parties to the proceedings and contested the same, and that the record of rights was made after considering their objections.
>
> The plaintiffs, however, denied that they were parties to the proceedings, and contended that they were taken behind their back by the mortgagees and the second party defendants acting in collusion with a view to defeat their rights. Exhibits A-1 and A-1(1) are certified copies of the objection petitions stated to have been filed by the mortgagors under S. 103-A of the Act, and they purport to have been signed by one Chulai Mahto as karpardaz of some of the mortgagors.
>
