SUBJECT INDEX

‘A’

Administrative Law- Principles of Natural Justice- Applicability and non-compliance- Effect– Termination of service and appointment of new incumbent– School Management Committee (SMC) terminating service of petitioner as Mid-day meal worker without notice and appointing ‘A’ (R5) in her place– R5 was member of SMC of said school and signed resolution appointing her as Mid-day meal worker– Petition against-Held, State had framed guidelines for appointing Mid-may meal workers- Advertisement inviting applications was required to be called by SMC– No such process was ever followed in case of engagement of petitioner or R5– There was breach of compliance of principles of natural justice in terminating service of petitioner and also in engaging service of R5– Since original appointment of petitioner was also contrary to instructions, petition partly allowed– Appointment of R5 set aside– SMC directed to conduct fresh selection process. (Paras 4 & 5) Title: Dromati Devi vs. State of H.P. & others, Page- 697

Administration Law– Quasi-judicial functions– Principles of natural justice– Applicability of- Held, Ombudsman directed recovery of amount from petitioners and also imposed fine on them on basis of reassessment report which was prepared behind petitioners’ back and without associating them in the process by Authority doing reassessment– The very genesis of order of Ombudsman was bad in eyes of law– Such order cannot be sustained– Order of Ombudsman set aside– Matter remitted to him to reopen it after providing opportunity of hearing to parties and not to consider such material which was obtained behind petitioners’ back. (Paras 7 to 9) Title: Bhag Singh & Ors. vs. State of H.P. & Ors., Page- 701

Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996–Sections 2(1)(h) and 31(5)– Pronouncement of award– Duty of arbitrator to deliver copy of award to party – Expression ‘party’, whether includes party’s agent? Held, expression ‘party’ means a person who is party to an arbitration agreement– Definition is not qualified in any way so as to include agent of a ‘party’ to such agreement- Therefore delivery of a signed copy of award is to be made on party himself and not on his advocate. (Para 4) Title: Ram Lal Thakur vs. Executive Engineer, Kumarsain Division H.P.P.W.D., Kumarsain, H.P., Page-966 Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996- Section 11(6)- Appointment of arbitrator- Circumstances– Held, building contract inter-se parties providing for arbitration clause for adjudication of disputes arising out of such contract– Contractor claiming non-payment despite completing work within stipulated time– Chief Engineer not appointing arbitrator despite request of contractor- Question whether contractor executed work as per terms of contract would be looked into by arbitrator during arbitration proceedings– Petition allowed- Arbitrator appointed by court. Sh. Master Jagmohan (Minor) & others …Petitioners.

Versus
Shri Amar Chand …Respondent.

Decided on: 31.05.2019

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908– Section 47– Order XXI Rule 17 (4)- Execution of decree– Objection thereto– Maintainability - Executing court summarily dismissing objections of wife and son of judgment debtor raised to the execution of decree of specific performance of agreement to sell to effect that land was ancestral in hands of judgment debtor and he was debarred from selling it– Petition against– Held, jurisdiction of executing court is limited and narrow and it cannot be equated with jurisdiction of court of appeal or review - Right to raise objections does not mean that objector can re-open the matter– Only such objections may be raised which are apparent on face of record and show that decree was void ab initio or it is otherwise unexecutable– Objections raised do not pertain to lack of jurisdiction of court or unexecutability of decree– Petition dismissed. (Paras 6 & 7)

Vasudev Dhanjibhai Modi vs. Rajabhai Abdul Rehman and Others, 1970(1) SCC 670

For the petitioners. : Mr. Owais Khan Pathan, Advocate.
For the respondent : Nemo for the respondent.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Jyotsna Rewal Dua, J (Oral)

Instant petition has been preferred against the order dated 2.8.2018, passed by the learned Senior Civil Judge, Kullu, H.P., dismissing Objection Petition No. 1/2015, filed by the petitioners in Execution Petition No. 68-X/2013.

02. The factual matrix of case :-

2 (i) Suit was filed by the respondent seeking specific performance of the agreement to sell dated 25.08.1998. The suit was decreed vide judgment dated 20.5.2004 (Civil Suit No. 207 of 1999/62/2003). First appeal filed by the Judgment Debtor was dismissed by the learned District Judge, Kullu. Second appeal filed by the Judgment Debtor (RSA No.1 of 2005) was dismissed by this Court, vide judgment, dated 22.03.2013. Special Leave Petition bearing No. 24773/2013 filed by the Judgment Debtor was also dismissed by the Hon'ble Apex Court, vide order dated 16.8.2013.

2(ii) Decree holder, thereafter filed execution petition on 02.12.2013. Objections were preferred by the Judgment Debtor and thereafter by petitioners (wife and children as his successors) to the effect that (a) suit land was joint Hindu ancestral property and that Judgment Debtor had no right to execute the agreement in respect of same; (b) petitioners became aware of previous litigation only after dismissal of Special Leave Petition, whereafter, they instituted an independent Civil Suit (No. 76 of 2014) against the Judgment Debtor and Decree Holder. In this suit presently pending adjudication, before the learned Civil Judge Senior Division, Lahul and Spiti at Kullu H.P., petitioners have challenged the judgment and decree dated 20.05.2004, have also sought declaration that they have rights over the suit land and that Judgment Debtor had no right to transfer the same.

2(iii) Replies to the objections were filed by the respondent-Decree Holder, denying that the suit land was joint/ancestral land. It was pleaded that Judgment Debtor had sold the suit land in favor of Decree Holder under the agreement dated 25.08.1998 and that the concurrent judgments right upto Hon'ble Apex Court had been passed affirming the decree of the suit for specific performance of this agreement dated 25.08.1998. The subsequent suit filed by the wife of the Judgment Debtor against the Judgment Debtor and Decree holder was asserted to have been filed in connivance with the Judgment Debtor.

03. Learned Executing Court observed in the impugned order that admittedly no document has been brought on record by the petitioners to show that the suit land was joint Hindu ancestral property. It was also observed that since subsequent to the dismissal of the Special Leave Petition by the Hon'ble Apex Court, petitioners have instituted a separate civil suit for determining their alleged rights over the suit land, therefore, their rights, title or interest, if any, shall be decided in the said Civil Suit. The objections were dismissed. Nine months after the dismissal of objection vide impugned order, present petition has been instituted, challenging the same.

04. I have heard learned counsel for the petitioners and gone through the appended record. Learned counsel for the petitioners argued that the petitioners were not aware of the earlier litigation and the successive appeals filed by Judgment Debtor (Father of Petitioners No. 1 & 2 and Husband of Petitioner No.3). Further that they became aware of the decision only after the Special Leave Petition No. 24773 of 2013 was dismissed on 16.08.2013. It is only thereafter they filed their own separate Civil Suit (No. 76 of 2014). It was further asserted that learned Executing Court should have framed issues in their objection petition and should have given them adequate opportunity to lead evidence for proving their contentions that the suit land was joint Hindu Ancestral Property and that Judgment Debtor was not competent to execute agreement dated 25.08.1998. The order of the learned Executing Court in summarily dismissing the objection was erroneous and therefore is liable to be interfered with.

05. It is settled law that the Executing Court cannot go behind the decree and has to execute the decree as it stands. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vasudev Dhanjibhai Modi Vs. Rajabhai Abdul Rehman and Others, 1970(1) Supreme Court Cases 670 held as under:-

> "6. A Court executing a decree cannot go behind the decree: between the parties or their representatives it must take the decree according to its tenor, and cannot entertain any objection that the decree was incorrect in law or on facts. Until it is set aside by an appropriate proceeding in appeal or revision, a decree even if it be erroneous is still binding between the parties.
> 7. When a decree which is a nullity, for instance, where it is passed without bringing the legal representative on the record of a person who was dead at the date of the decree, or against a ruling prince without a certificate, is sought to be executed an objection in that behalf may be raised in a proceeding for execution. Again, when the decree is made by a Court which has no inherent jurisdiction to make objection as to its validity may be raised in an execution proceeding if the objection appears on the face of the record: Where the objection as to the jurisdiction of the Court to pass the decree does not appear on the face of the record and requires examination of the questions raised and decided at the trial or which could have been but have not been raised, the executing Court will have no jurisdiction to entertain an objection as to the validity of the decree even on the ground of absence of jurisdiction. In Jnanendra Mohan Bhaduri and Another v. Rabindra Nath Chakravarti, the Judicial Committee held that where a decree was passed upon an award made under the provisions of the Indian Arbitration Act, 1899, an objection in the course of the execution proceeding that the decree was made without jurisdiction, since under the Indian Arbitration Act, 1899, there is no provision for making a decree upon an award, was competent. That was a case in which the decree was on the face of the record without jurisdiction.

06. In case of Brakewel Automatic Components (India) Vs. P.R. Selvam Alagappan, 2017 (5) Supreme Court Cases 371,it washeld by Hon'ble Apex Court as under:-

"20. It is no longer res integra that an executing court can neither travel behind the decree nor sit in appeal over the same or pass any order jeopardising the rights of the parties thereunder. It is only in the limited cases where the decree is by a court lacking inherent jurisdiction or is a nullity that the same is rendered non est and is thus unexecutable. An erroneous decree cannot be equalled with one which is a nullity. There are no intervening development as well as to render the decree unexecutable.

21. As it is, Section 47 of the Code mandates determination by an executing Court, questions arising between the parties or their representatives relating to the execution, discharge or satisfaction of the decree and does not contemplate any adjudication beyond the same. A decree of court of law being sacroscant in nature, the execution thereof ought not to be thwarted on mere asking and on untenable and purported grounds having no bearing on the validity or the executability thereof."

In Paras 22 and 23 of the aforementioned judgment Hon'ble Apex Court relying upon judgments rendered in Vasudev Dhanjibhai Modi Vs. Rajabhai Abdul Rehman and Others, (1970) 1 Supreme Court Cases 670 and in Dhurandhar Prasad Singh Vs. Jai Prakash University and others (2001) 6 Supreme Court Cases 534, held that purview of scrutiny under Section 47 of the Code qua a decree is limited to objections to its executability on the ground of jurisdictional infirmity or voidness. Exercise of power under Section 47 of the Code is microscopic and lies in a very narrow inspection hole and an Executing Court can allow objection to the executability of the decree, if it is found that the same is void ab initio and is a nullity, apart from the ground that it is not capable of execution under the law, either because the same was passed in ignorance of such provision of law or the law was promulgated making a decree unexecutable after its passing.

Similar principles have been laid down by Hon'ble Apex Court in Sneh Lata Goel Vs. Pushplata and others (2019) 3 Supreme Court Cases 594 that the Executing Court lacks jurisdiction to decide an objection, which does not relate to inherent lack of jurisdiction of Civil Court.

07. It is not the case of the petitioners here that the decree was passed by a Court lacking inherent jurisdiction. It also cannot be said that objections are such which are apparent on the face of the record. In fact, the objections pertain to the merits of the matter. Any decision thereupon by Executing Court would amount to reopening of the judgment and decree passed in favour of the Decree Holder, which have been concurrently upheld right till the Hon'ble Apex Court. This would have been impermissible in execution petition. Jurisdiction of Executing Court is limited and narrow. Right to raise objection does not mean that objector can re-open the matter. The jurisdiction of Executing Court cannot be equated with that of appeal or review. Therefore, no fault can be found in the impugned order, dismissing the objection petition.

08. Regarding the rights and contentions of the parties in the suit filed by the petitioners, subsequent to the dismissal of the Special Leave Petition, it will be apt to refer few paragraphs of decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sneh Lata Goel Vs. Pushplata and others (2019) 3 Supreme Court cases 594:-

> 5. On 12th May 2014, the appellant filed proceedings for the execution of the final decree at Ranchi. On 1st January 2015, the first respondent filed an objection under Section 47 of the Code of Civil Procedure contending that the decree dated 13.6.1990, the final decree dated 5th April 1991 and the supplementary final decree dated 18th December 2013, were without jurisdiction and therefore, a nullity. On 10th March 2015, the first respondent challenged the decree dated 13th June 1990 in appeal under Section 96 CPC. The appeal is pending.
> 6. On 10th March 2016, the executing court dismissed the objections of the first respondent under Section 47 CPC with the following observations:
>
> "The decree holder is entitled to get the fruits of the decree and the executing cannot go behind the decree. When a decree is made by a court which has no inherent jurisdiction, an objection as to its validity may be raised in an execution proceeding if the objection appears on the face of the record. Where the objection as to the jurisdiction of the court to pass the decree does not appear on the face of the record and requires examination of the questions raised and decided at trial, which could have been but have not been raised, the executing court will have no jurisdiction to entertain an objection as to the validity of the decree on the ground of jurisdiction.
>
> ___________……………………….___________
> 25. The respondent has filed a first appeal (First Appeal No. 43 of 2015) where the issue of jurisdiction has been raised. We must clarify that the findings in the present judgment shall not affect the rights and contentions of the parties in the first appeal."

Thus, while affirming order of Executing Court dismissing the objection, which did not pertain to inherent lack of jurisdiction of Court, the rights and contentions of the parties in the first appeal were protected by the Hon'ble Apex Court. Such protection was also accorded by this Court in Gulab Singh and others versus Mahender Singh and others 2019 (2) Him L.R. (HC) 1055, a case involving somewhat similar factual position.

09. Learned Executing Court has rightly observed in the impugned order that right, title or interest of the objectors (petitioners), if any over the suit land shall be decided in the Civil Suit (No. 76 of 2014). Thus, dismissal of the objection petition will not come in the way of determination of right, title or interest of the petitioners over the suit land in their independent suit pending before the learned Civil Judge Senior Division, Lahul and Spiti at Kullu, H.P. Observations made in present judgment are for adjudication of present petition and shall have no bearing on Civil Suit filed by the petitioners.

10. In view of the foregoing observations, the present petition is dismissed, being devoid of any merit. Pending miscellaneous application(s), if any, also stand disposed of.

Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 226- The*Securitization and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Securities Interest Act, 2002 (Act)-Section 13 (2)- Notice to take possession of secured assets – Writ against – Whether maintainable?- Petitioner filing writ and challenging all measures undertaken by bank under Act- Also challenging notice issued to it regarding taking over of possession of secured assets by bank – Held, account of petitioner had become NPA and same was got regularized by it by making some payment – Account again became NPA and bank issued notice to petitioner to take over possession of secured assets – Notice already challenged by petitioner before Debt Recovery Tribunal – Petitioner has alternative remedies under Act before Debt Recovery Tribunal qua grievances in question- Maintainability of writ in High Court on same grounds is doubtful – Petition disposed of. (Para 4)

Case referred:
Authorized Officer, State bank of Travncore & another vs. Mathew K.C., (2018) 3 SCC 85

For the petitioner: Mr. Mukesh Pandit, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Arvind Sharma, Advocate for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Narinder Guleria, Addl. A.G.with Mr. J.S.Guleria and Kunal Thakur, Dy. AGs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Acting Chief Justice (Oral)

This writ petition has been filed with the following prayers:

"a) To set aside all the measures undertaken by the respondent-Bank under the Securitization & Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002.

b) The impugned notice u/s 13(2) dated 15.05.2017 and Order Annexure P-12, copy of Possession Notice dated 29.07.2017 Annexure P-8, Copy of D.M. order Annexure P-10, Copy of sale Auction Notice dated 7.05.2019 Annexure P-16 may be ordered to be quashed and the Respondent Bank be further restrained from initiating any further action under the Securitization Act against the Petitioner and their movable and immovable properties in any manner whatsoever, through any mode and further break open the locks and hand over the physical possession of the Property to the Applicant.

c) To direct the Respondent to produce the actual amount paid by the petitioner and the actual amount payable till today as per the Terms Loan Agreement dated 2.06.2015."

2. On the previous date, learned Vacation Judge has passed a detailed order highlighting therein all the developments having taken place and the orders passed by the Debt Recovery Tribunal (I), Chandigarh twice. It has also been noticed that in view of the proceedings pending before learned Debts Recovery Tribunal, the maintainability of the present writ petition in this Court is doubtful. This order reads as follows:

> "Notice. Ms. Divya Sood, learned Deputy Advocate General, appears and accepts service of notice on behalf of respondent No.2/State. Issue separate dasti notice to the respondent No. 1, returnable for 10th June, 2019. Petitioners to take steps for the service of respondent No. 1, during the course of the day and also to ensure that the service of said respondent is effectuated before the next date of hearing.
> List on 10th June, 2019, as prayed for.
> CMP No. 5038 of 2019
>
> Allowed and disposed of.
> The immediate grievance of the petitioners is in respect of Annexure P-16 dated 07th May, 2019, whereby, the Authorizing Officer of the respondent-bank has notified Public E-Auction of secured assets mortgaged/charged to be held on 10.06.2019.
>
> The perusal of the record appended with the writ petition reveals that the petitioners have already approached the learned Debts Recovery Tribunal-I, at Chandigarh, in S.A. No. 7 of 2018, inter alia laying challenge to notice issued to them on 12th December, 2016, under Section 13 (2) of SARFAESI Act as well as possession notice dated 29th July, 2017. There are other reliefs prayed for by the petitioners in this Securitization Application. To this application, reply was filed by the respondent-bank, submitting therein that subsequent to the demand notice dated 12th December, 2016 issued under Section 13 (2) of SARFAESI Act, challenged by the petitioners in Securitization Application, the petitioners had deposited some amount. Whereafter, the account of the petitioner had become regular. But, their accounts again became NPA on 10th May, 2017, which led the respondent-bank to issue fresh notice under Section 13 (2) of SARFAESI Act on 15th May, 2017. It was further submitted by the bank in its reply that neither the demand notice dated 15th May, 2017 duly received by the borrowers and guarantors nor the possession notice dated 19th January, 2018 have been challenged by the petitioners. This Secruitization Application is pending for adjudication and the record reveals that this is now fixed for arguments on 15th June, 2019.
> The record also reveals that the respondent bank filed its own separate Original Application bearing No. 1741 of 2018 against the petitioners for recovery of total sum of Rs1,98,63,040,71p (Rupees One Crore Ninety Eight Lakh Sixty Three Thousand Forty point Seventy One only). This Original Application has been allowed by the learned Debts Recovery Tribunal-I, Chandigarh, vide its order dated 07th March, 2019. It is subsequent, to allowing the Original Application No. 1741 of 2018, that bank had issued auction notice dated 07th May, 2019. The petitioners moved I.A. No. 303 of 2019 in S.A. No. 7 of 2018, pending adjudication before the learned Debts Recovery Tribunal-I, Chandigarh, seeking preponement of S.A. No. 7 of 2018 as well as for stay of proceedings including operation of sale notice dated 07th May, 2018. This application was decided on 31st May, 2019 by the learned Debts Recovery TribunalI, Chandigarh, noticing the contentions of the bank that S.A. has become infructuous, as earlier notices issued by the bank under Section 13(2) as well as 13 (4) of SARFAESI Act, have been withdrawn, but on subsequent default the bank has issued fresh notices, which have not been challenged by the petitioners. The S.A. No. 7 of 2018 has now been fixed for arguments, before the learned Debts Recovery Tribunal-I, Chandigarh, on 15th June, 2019.

Learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that no challenge to the order allowing Original Application No. 1741 of 2018 has been laid. It is for the petitioners to avail alternative remedies available to them in terms of provisions of SARFAESI Act, be it against the order dated 7th March, 2019, allowing the Original Application No. 1741 of 2018, filed by the respondent-bank for recovery of loan amount or subsequent notices issued to them. Presently the Securitization Application is already pending adjudication before the learned Debts Recovery Tribunal-I, Chandigarh and as observed earlier is now fixed for 15th June, 2019. Maintainability of present writ petition during the pendency of the proceedings before the learned Debts Recovery Tribunal-I, Chandigarh is another question to be looked into.

In view of the above facts, list the matter before the Appropriate Bench, at the pleasure of Hon'ble the Acting Chief Justice on 10th June, 2019."

3. The facts reveal that the loan account of the petitioner has been declared NPA on 10.12.2016 by the respondent-Bank. The total term loan sanctioned by the respondent-Bank under the Scheme "School Plus" is Rs.1,75,00,000/-. After the account of the petitioner having declared NPA, the respondent-Bank issued notice under Section 13(2) of the SARFAESI Act. Irrespective of a sum of Rs.45,09,276/- having already been deposited by the petitioner to liquidate the liability towards outstanding loan amount, till January, 2018 a sum of Rs. 61,34,276/- was paid by the petitioner. Even another notice under Section 13(2) of the Act was slapped by the respondent on 15.7.2017 without there being any mention of the date of NPA of the loan account therein. Even symbolic possession notice was also served upon the petitioner on 29.7.2017 on which a request was made for OTS on 30.10.2017, however, declined. When a letter to take over the physical possession of the assured assets was received, the petitioner preferred S.A. No. 7 of 2018 in the Debts Recovery Tribunal but of no avail as the possession was taken over by respondent No. 2 and handed over the same to respondent No. 1. Even the sale notice was also challenged before learned Tribunal, however, the Tribunal was reluctant to hear the petitioner. Fortunately, respondent no. 1 did not find any purchaser and as such the notice has turned infructuous. In O.A. No. 1741 of 2018 preferred by the respondent-Bank, the petitioner could not appear hence proceeded against ex-parte. The application filed for setting aside the ex-parte order was also dismissed and to the contrary, the respondent got issued another sale notice for auction on 7.2.2019 for re-auction on 10.6.2019. It is the entire proceedings having taken place in this matter before the Debts Recovery Tribunal and the notices issued under Section 13(2) as well as under Section 13(4) of the SARFAESI Act has been sought to be quashed.

4. It is worth mentioning that the proceedings against the petitioner under the SARFAESI Act have already been initiated by the respondent-Bank. Therefore, the petitioner has equally alternative and efficacious remedy available under the provisions of the Act itself. The submissions of the petitioner are that irrespective of it was regular in repayment of the loan amount, the proceedings under the Act should have not been initiated. We, however, are not inclined to entertain the same as alternative remedy is available to the petitioner under the Act itself. The petitioner, after issuance of demand notice dated 12.12.2016 by the respondent-Bank had deposited some amount and thereby made its account regular. The account, however, again declared NPA on 10.5.2017 which led the respondent-Bank to issue fresh notice under Section 13(2) of SARFAESI Act on 15.5.2017. The said notice seems to be neither received by the petitioner nor the guarantor. Not only this, the notice to take over the possession dated 19.1.2018 has also been challenged further. The securitization application, as noticed supra, is pending for adjudication and fixed for the purpose before learned Tribunal on 15.6.2019. On the other hand, the original application registered as 1741/2018 filed by the respondent-Bank against the petitioner for recovery of sum of Rs. 1,98,63,040.71 paise stands allowed vide order dated 7.3.2019. It is thereafter the auction notice dated 7.5.2019 has been issued. The application I.A. No. 303/2019 in S.A. No. 7 of 2018 seeking preponment of the S.A. and also stay of the proceedings, including auction notice dated 7.5.2018 had turned infructuous because the earlier notices issued by the respondent-Bank under Section 13(2) as well as 13(4) of the SARFAESI Act stood withdrawn in view of the petitioner having deposited the amount in its account and thereby made the same regular. The S.A. No. 7/2018 has otherwise been fixed for arguments on 15.6.2019. The order passed in OA No. 1741/2018 has not been challenged by the petitioner any further. It is for this reason also the petitioners, if so desire, may avail the alternative remedies available to it in terms of the provisions contained under the SARFAESI Act. We are not adverting to other and further contentions raised in this petition in view of the alternative remedy available to the petitioner and also the ratio of the judgment of the Supreme Court in Authorized Officer, State bank of Travncore & another vs. Mathew K.C., (2018) 3 SCC 85. The writ petition is, therefore, disposed of, so also the pending application(s), if any.

Dev Dutt vs. Union of India & Others, (2008) 8 SCC 725
Sukhdev Singh vs. Union of India, (2013) 9 SCC 566

For the petitioner : Mr. T.S. Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. Sanjeev Bhushan, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Abhilasha Kaundal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Jyotsna Rewal Dua, Judge*(Oral).*

Dispute in this matter pertains to un-communicated, adverse Annual Confidential Reports (ACRs) and their effect on further promotion of a public servant.

2(i). Respondent filed Civil Writ Petition (No.10741/ 2012) in this Court, praying for promotion to the post of Assistant Engineer (Electrical) from the date his juniors were promoted, alongwith all consequential benefits, including seniority, pay, arrears etc. The ground for praying the relief was that the Electricity Board, petitioner herein, had denied the promotion to the respondent on the basis of un-communicated ACRs for the years 2007-08, 2008-09, 2009-10 and 2010-11, wherein he was graded as "Good". It was the stand of the present respondent in the aforesaid writ petition that ACRs were graded 'Good' but they had civil consequences and therefore, were required to be communicated to him, so that he could have taken appropriate steps in that regard.

2(ii). Reply to this writ petition was filed by the Board, taking the defence that since the present respondent, in these ACRs, was assessed as "Good", therefore, there was no question of informing him about these ACRs. The fact that these ACRs were not communicated to the respondent, was not denied. It was also submitted in the reply that on account of these adverse entries in his ACRs, the respondent was not promoted to the higher post and has been superseded by his juniors who were graded as "Very Good", in the Departmental Promotion Committee meeting which was convened on 08.06.2012 for promotion to the post of Assistant Engineer (Electrical).

2(iii). This writ petition (CWP No.10741/2012)was transferred to learned H.P. Administrative Tribunal, where it was registered as T.A. No.4096 of 2015 and decided on 15th May, 2017. The transferred application was allowed by learned Tribunal and directions were given to the Electricity Board (petitioner herein) to consider the case of the respondent for promotion to the post of Assistant Engineer by ignoring the un-communicated ACRs for the period 2007 to 2011, alongwith all consequential benefits.

3. Feeling aggrieved against this decision, the Electricity Board has preferred the instant writ petition.

4. The law in respect of un-communicated adverse entries and its effect on a public servant, is well settled by Hon'ble Apex Court in catena of judgments. In Dev Dutt versus Union of India & Others, (2008) 8 SCC 725, it was held that every entry in a ACR of public servant must be communicated to the public servant within a reasonable period whether it is a poor, fair, average, "Good" or "Very Good" entry. The object of communication is to enable the employee to know about the assessment of his work and conduct by his superiors, enabling him to improve his work in future. It is apt to reproduce Paras-16 and 18 of the judgment (supra):-

> "16. In our opinion if the office memorandum dated 10/11-9-1987, is interpreted to mean that only adverse entries (i.e. "poor" entry) need to be communicated and not "fair", "average" or "Good" entires, it would become arbitrary (and hence illegal) since it may adversely affect the incumbent's chances of promotion, or to get some other benefit. For example, if the benchmark is that an incumbent must have "very good" entries in the last five years, then if he has "very good" (or even "outstanding") entries for four years, a "good" entry for only one year may yet make him ineligible for promotion. This "good" entry may be due to the personal pique of his superior, or because the superior asked him to do something wrong which the incumbent refused, or because the incumbent refused to do sycophancy of his superior, or because of caste or communal prejudice, or to for some other extraneous consideration.
> 18. Thus, it is not only when there is a benchmark but in all cases that an entry (whether it is poor, fair, average, good or very good) must be communicated to a public servant, otherwise there is violation of the principle of fairness, which is the soul of natural justice. Even an outstanding entry should be communicated since that would boost the morale of the employee and make him work harder."

6. In Abhijit Ghosh Dastidar versus Union of India and Others, (2009) 16 SCC 146, relying upon Dev Dutt's case (supra), it was held that non-communication of entries in the Annaul Confidential Report to a public servant have civil consequences affecting his chances of promotion and getting other benefits. Non-communication of adverse ACRs would be violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. Para-8 of the judgment is reproduced as under:-

> "8. Coming to the second aspect, that though the benchmark "very good" is required for being considered for promotion, admittedly the entry of "good" was not communicated to the appellant. The entry of "good" should have been communicated to him as he was having "very good" in the previous year. In those circumstances, in our opinion, non-communication of entries in the annual confidential report of a public servant whether he is in civil, judicial, police or any other service (other than the armed forces), it has civil consequences because it may affect his chances of promotion or getting other benefits. Hence, such non-communication would be arbitrary, and as such violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. The same view has been reiterated in the abovereferred decision (Dev Dutt case, SCC p.738, para 41) relied on by the appellant. Therefore, the entries "good" if at all granted to the appellant, the same should not have been taken into consideration for being considered for promotion to the higher grade. The respondent has no case that the appellant had ever been informed of the nature of the grading given to him."

7. In Sukhdev Singh versus Union of India, (2013) 9 SCC 566, the larger Bench of Hon'ble Apex Court, relied and followed afore two judgments to hold that every entry in ACR must be communicated to the public servant and communication of only adverse entry is not enough.

8. Recently, in Rukhsana Shaheen Khan verus Union of India, Civil Appeal No.32 of 2013, decided on 28th August, 2018, it has been held in Para- 2 as under:-

> "2. In view of the decision of this Court in Sukhdev Singh vs. Union of India & Ors. reported in (2013) 9 SCC 566, there cannot be any dispute on this aspect. This Court has settled the law that un-communicated and adverse ACRs cannot be relied upon in the process."

9. It is the admitted case of the petitioner-Board that ACRs for the period 2007 to 2011, with grading "Good", were not communicated to the respondent and on the basis of these very gradings, he was not promoted as Assistant Engineer (Electrical) and was superseded by his juniors with grading "very good". Applying the law, discussed above, no fault can be found with the impugned order dated 15th May, 2017, passed by learned H.P. Administrative Tribunal.

10. It has been brought to our notice that during the pendency of the present writ petition, in terms of the directions issued by this Court on 21st November, 2018, the petitioner-Electricity Board had convened a Review DPC and promoted the respondent as Assistant Engineer (Electrical) on regular basis (notionally) w.e.f. 01.10.2012 and as Sr. Executive Engineer(E) on regular basis (notionally) w.e.f. 31.08.2017 from the date of promotion of his immediate junior. Since we have upheld the order passed by learned Tribunal, the respondent will be entitled to all consequential benefits on actual basis.

11. In view of the observations made hereinabove, we find no merit in the instant writ petition and the same is accordingly dismissed, so also pending application(s), if any.

Decided on: 26.06.2019

Constitution of India, 1950– Article 227- Writ jurisdiction– Alternative remedy, available– Consequences – Held, when petitioner has an alternative remedy under law, he can not avail writ jurisdiction – Order of Addl. District Magistrate setting aside appointment of petitioner as Anganwari Helper is made appealable under notification/scheme – Petitioner cannot file writ petition to challenge said order – Petition dismissed. (Para 4)

Cases referred:
Ruma Devi vs. State of H.P. & others, 2013 (1) Shimla. LC 112

For the petitioner	Ms. Suman Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondents	M/s Desh Raj Thakur, Anil Jaswal and Rameeta Rahi, Additional Advocate Generals, for respondents No. 1 to 4. Mr. Ashok K. Tyagi, Advocate, for respondent No. 5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Jyotsna Rewal Dua, J (Oral)

Prayer of the petitioner is for setting aside the order dated 07.10.2013, passed by the Additional District Magistrate, District Sirmaur, Nahan, H.P., whereby appointment of petitioner as Anganwadi worker was quashed.

02. The undisputed factual position of the case is:-

2 (i) In terms of notification dated 11.04.2007, selection process was initiated for the post of Anganwadi Worker/Helper for Anganwadi Centre, Kadiyana, Tehsil Renuka Ji, ICDS, Block- Sangrah, District Sirmaur.

2(ii) Petitioner was selected as Anganwadi worker and appointment letter in this regard was issued on 03.08.2007. Respondent No.5 participated in the selection process and had stood 2nd in the merit list, after the petitioner, for the post of Anganwadi Worker. Presently respondent No.5 is working as Anganwadi Helper.

2(iii) A complaint against the selection of the petitioner as Anganwadi Worker was filed by respondent No.5, which was registered as Case No. 16/4 of 2007, before the Additional District Magistrate, District Sirmaur, Nahan, H.P. The complaint was in respect of ineligibility of petitioner for the post on the date of interview, primarily on grounds of her having married before the cut off date and therefore belonging to another area & the other grounds pertained to her higher family income & relations being in service.

2(iv) While the complaint was pending, the petitioner filed writ petition bearing No. CWP No. 564 of 2008, titled as Luxmi Devi Versus State of H.P., before this Court, seeking her transfer to a vacant post in another Anganwadi Centre. This request was directed to be considered, in accordance with law, vide order dated 11.04.2008 passed in the writ petition. In terms of this order, the petitioner's case for transfer was considered and she was accordingly transferred on her request to Anganwadi Centre at Aun Khadri, Teshil Nahan, H.P.

2(v) The complaint filed by respondent No. 5 against the selection of the petitioner was decided by the Additional District Magistrate, District Sirmaur at Nahan, H.P., vide impugned order dated 07.10.2013 (annexure P-12) holding therein that the allegations levelled against the petitioner were proved and that she was not eligible candidate for the post of Anganwadi Worker, on the date of interview i.e. 2.8.2007, accordingly, her appointment was quashed and set aside. It is against this order, petitioner has filed the instant writ petition.

3. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record.

4(i) Under the notification dated 11.04.2007, there exists a provision for appeal under Clause-12, against the order passed by the Deputy Commissioner. Such an order can be assailed within a period of 15 days from the date of passing of the order before the Divisional Commissioner.

4(ii) Respondent No.5 has taken a categoric stand in its reply with regard to maintainability of the writ petition without exhausting alternate remedy available against impugned order under that very policy in terms of which the petitioner was appointed. Respondent No.5 has also alleged that pendency of complaint against the selection & appointment of the petitioner was not disclosed by the petitioner in CWP No.564 of 2008. Respondent-State has also supported the impugned order on merits.

4(iii) No whisper has been made in the writ petition as to why the petitioner did not approach the appellate authority for redressal of her grievances.

4(iv). Admittedly, this recourse to alternate remedy, has not been availed by the petitioner. There is not even a whisper in the writ petition in respect of existence of this provision in the notification. The averments made in the writ petition that there is no alternate efficacy remedy available to her, is a factually incorrect statement.

5. The law in this regard is well settled, in case Ruma Devi Vs. State of H.P. & others,2013 (1) Shimla. LC 112*, where similar question was raised. There also, a selection process undertaken in terms of notification dated 11.4.2007, was in question and the petitioner therein had not availed the alternate remedy as provided under Clause-12 of the notification. It was held therein as under:-

> "9. There is no explanation why the petitioner could not file the appeal within 15 days which is the period of limitation prescribed. With regard to the present petition all that has been stated is that the petitioner could not muster up proper legal advice till the month of April, 2012. The petitioner was represented by counsel throughout and had earlier also filed a writ petition and we fail to understand how she can be heard to urge that she could not muster up proper legal advice.
> 10. We are also of the view that in case an alternative remedy is provided the party approaching the writ Court without availing of this remedy must in all fairness give the reasons for not availing the alternative remedy. The principle of alternative remedy is a rule of prudence. It is not as if the writ Court is powerless to interfere but when an alternative remedy is available the writ Court normally will not exercise its jurisdiction unless such remedy has been availed of. A person who fails to avail the alternative remedy within the time prescribed stands on an even worst position. In a case where the petitioner informs the Court that for certain reasons he could not file an appeal and since the appellate authority has no right to condone the delay he may be left with no other efficacious remedy but to file a writ petition. However, in this case other than saying that the petitioner was debarred from filing an appeal because limitation has expired, no reason has been given as to why the appeal was not filed within limitation."

6. The ratio of above judgment squarely applies to the facts of instant case. Petitioner without exhausting provision of alternate remedy, directly invoked the writ jurisdiction of this Court and falsely stated therein that no alternate remedy is available to her. No explanation was given in the writ petition as to why alternate remedy could not be invoked by the petitioner.

7. In view of above, I find no merit in the writ petition and the same is accordingly dismissed. Petitioner is at liberty to avail appropriate remedy in accordance with law, if so advised. The present petition is disposed of, so also the pending application, if any.

(Paras 10 to 13)

For the Appellants: Mr. C.N. Singh, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Deepak Bhasin, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiffs' suit for rendition of a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction, vis-a-vis, the suit land, and, against the defendant, stood hence decreed, and, the defendant's/counter claimant's, counterclaim, wherein he reared a plea qua his acquiring title, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number(s), through, adverse possession, rather stood dismissed, by the learned trial Court. The aggrieved therefrom defendant/counter claimant one Ram Lal, preferred an appeal, before the learned First Appellate Court, and, the latter court , while upholding the appealed against verdict, hence, dismissing the defendant's/counter claimant's counterclaim, (a) thereafter proceeded to accept the appellant/defendant's appeal, only, on the score qua the suit being not maintainable, vis-a-vis, the undivided suit property, conspicuously for want of joinder, of all the co-sharers, in the array of plaintiffs or in the array of co-defendants. The plaintiffs are aggrieved therefrom, hence, have instituted, the instant regular second appeal, before this Court.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are are that the plaintiff has filed suit for rendition of a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction against the defendant to restrain the defendant from interfering in any manner in peaceful ownership and possession of the land comprised in Khasra No.912, 913 and 915, Kita 3, measuring 00-18-38 hectares, Khata No.8, min, Khatauni No. 56, situated in Chak Chillala, Tehsil Chirgaon, District Shimla, H.P. The suit land is averred to be in exclusive ownership and possession of plaintiff's father along with other co-sharers and over khasra No.912, there is two storeyed house and over the land comprised in Khasra No. 913 and 915, there is apple orchard with fruit bearing plants. The house was constructed by the plaintiff himself in 1990 and apple orchard was planted by the father of the plaintiff along with other co-sharers in the year 1975. It is also averred that father of the plaintiff and other co-sharers died in 1998 and suit land was inherited by the plaintiff and other co-sharers. The plaintiff along with other co-sharers is exclusive owner in possession of the suit land. The defendant is real uncle of the plaintiff and other cosharers and he resides near to the suit land. The plaintiff used to reside maximum time in village Tangnu. The defendant by taking advantage of absence of plaintiff from the suit land started causing interference by preparing bedding and pruning etc., in the apple orchard in the first week of March, 2003 with the intention to take its possession. The plaintiff has not allowed the defendant to take forcible possession of the suit land by the defendant is still adamant to take forcible possession of the suit land. It is also averred that in the column of possession and ownership, the name of Smt. Bhajan Dei and Parmod Kumar, Smt. Sarojni etc., figures but they have not been arrayed parties as the suit has also been filed for their benefit also. The defendant has o right, title or interest over the suit land and he be restrained from causing any kind of interference with the ownership and possession of the plaintiff in respect of the suit land in any manner and prayed that the suit be decreed.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein he has taken preliminary objections qua maintainability, suit is not properly constituted, land being in possession of the defendant and suit for injunction being not maintainable, suit being bad for non joinder of necessary parties, and, that the plaintiff has not cause of action to file the suit and the replying defendant has acquired title over the suit land by way of adverse possession. On merits, it is averred that it is wrong that orchard was raised by the father of the plaintiff. It is also denied that there is two storeyed house upon the suit land. It is averred that in the month of March, 1975, the father of the plaintiff Main Ram sent defendant to village Chillala to develop the land and use the same for the benefit of family. The parties to the suit belongs from village Tangnu and there entire landed property is joint at village Tangnu. Earlier the father of the plaintiff Main Ram and now plaintiff himself along with his family used to reside at village Tangnu. However, the replying defendant is residing at village Chillala where suit land is situated and he has constructed the house over the suit land and developed the orchard out of his personal income. Neither the plaintiff nor his father Main Ram ever took any activities over the suit land. The suit land was purchased by defendant and father of the plaintiff jointly out of joint funds of family and 90% was contributed by the defendant but the father of the plaintiff by taking advantage of illiteracy of the defendant got entered the suit land in his name only. It is averred that recently, defendant came to know about the wrong revenue entries hence he inspected the revenue record. The revenue entires in the name of the plaintiff and earlier in the name of his father may be declared null and void. The suit land is in possession of the replying defendant and there arises no question of taking forcible possession as averred in the plaint. The possession of the defendant over the suit land is since 1975 and the defendant has now acquired title by way of adverse possession regarding which the defendant is filing counterclaim separately.

4. The defendant in his counter claim has pleaded that the suit land was jointly purchased by the counter claimant and his late brother Main Ram out of joint funds and the entries showing previously late Main Ram as exclusive owner and thereafter the non counter claimant are illegal, baseless and may be set aside. In the alternate, it is prayed that the counter claimant is in hostile possession of the suit land since March, 1975 and has acquired title, vis-a-vis, the suit land.

5. Plaintiff filed written statement to the counterclaim, wherein, he has taken preliminary objections qua maintainability, evaluation, non supplying of better particulars, mis-joinder and non joinder of parties and counter claim is barred by limitation. On merits, it is averred that initially Swarup Chand, brother of non counter claimant/plaintiff was looking after the suit land till his death in the year 1986 and thereafter it was the father of the non counter claimant/plaintiff till 1998 and now non counter claimant/plaintiff is looking after the suit land. The counter claimant/defendant has his own land near to the suit land and also in its possession. It is further averred that the counter claimant has made a false story that the suit land was purchased out of joint funds of the family. In fact, the counter claimant/defendant has purchased the land comprised in Khata No.49, Khataoni No.225 to 228 to the extent of 1/12 share situated in Chak Chillala on 28.2.1997. The plea of adverse possession which has been taken in alternate is in contradiction tot he plea taken about the joint property. The suit land is in possession of plaintiff/non-counter claimant and there arises no question of adverse possession.

6. The plaintiffs filed replication to the written statement of the defendant(s), wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement(s), and, re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

7. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, as prayed? OPP.
2. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is not maintainable and competent as alleged? OPD.
3. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is bad in the eyes of law and effect thereof?OPD.
4. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is bad for non joinder of necessary parties, as alleged?OPD.
5. Whether the suit land is joint property of parties to the suit as alleged by the counter claimant? OPD.
6. Whether the revenue entries firstly showing late Main Ram as owner and then the non counter claimant as owner by way of succession are wrong, illegal, unlawful, null and void, being fraudulent and effect thereof?OPD
7. Whether the counter claimant have acquired the title of the suit by way of adverse possession, as alleged? OPD.
8. Whether the counter claimant is entitled to the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction,a s prayed for?OPD.
9. Relief.

8. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed plaintiffs'/appellants' herein suit, whereas, it dismissed the defendant's/counter-claimant's counterclaim. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by, aggrieved defendant/counter-claimant, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court affirmed the verdict of the learned trial court, hence, dismissing the defendant's/counter-claimant's counterclaim, whereas, it dismissed the plaintiff's suit, for want of non joinder, of all co-sharers, in the undivided suit property either in the array of plaintiffs, or in the array of co-defendants.

9. Now the plaintiff/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein he assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, on 24.10.2013, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiff/appellant, against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on, the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether the judgment/decree dated 14.8.2013 passed by the first appellate court, is perverse, unsustainable in law in view of the fact that the first appellate court misinterpreted documentary evidence which was the foundation of the rights of the parties and failed to give benefit of the revenue record in favour of the appellant/plaintiff, i.e. Missal Hakiat and Parcha Jamabandi pertaining to the suit PW1/A, PW1/B,m and PW1/C to which the appellant/plaintiff was entitled for?

2. Whether the first appellate court failed to appreciated the fact that the reliance put on by the appellant/plaintiff upon the revenue record i.e. Missal Haquiat and Parcha Jamabandi pertaining tot he suit land i.e. PW1/A, PW1/B and PW1/C showing the possession of the appellant/plaintiff in law substantiate his case/claim and that the presumption of truth is attached with the revenue records under section 35 of the Indian Evidence Act and under Section 45 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act. Ignoring the aforementioned position of law has lead to passing of a judgment and decree which is perverse and not sustainable in law?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 and 2:

10. For the reasons to be assigned hereinafter, it would be wholly unnecessary either to dwell upon or to mete an adjudication, vis-a-vis, the afore substantial question of law, whereon the extant appeal hence came to be admitted, under orders recorded by this Court, on 24.10.2013. The learned First Appellate Court, has made a fallacious or an erroneous reasoning, vis-a-vis, the suit being not maintainable, for want of joining in the apposite array, of legal combatants, all the co-owners in the undivided suit property, and, thereafter, it, also untenably proceeded to decline, the espoused relief qua rendition of a decree, of, permanent prohibitory injunction, qua the suit property, (i) given an issue in respect thereof, serialized as issue No.4, standing struck, and, also thereon the learned trial Court, hence, rendering findings qua, despite, non joinder of all co-sharers, in the undivided suit property, rather not rendering the plaintiffs' suit, being not maintainable, (ii) given, the plaintiff averring qua the suit standing instituted, for the benefit of all co-sharers, in the undivided suit property, and, also when no relief against all the co-owners, in the undivided suit property, standing, claimed or ventilated hence in the plaint. The afore reasoning is well merited, as, a perusal of the plaint, as well as, of, the copies of missal hakiyat, and, of the apposite jamabandis, respectively embodied in Ex.PW1/A, to, Ex.PW1/C, (iii) appertaining to the suit property, though carrying reflections therein qua the suit property besides the legal contestants in the extant suit, being also, owned by other co-owners, (iv) and, when they may have been hence necessary parties, for, hence theirs being joined in the apposite array, of, legal combatants. (v) Importantly, all the concomitant effects thereof, and, besides fatality, vis-a-vis, non joinder, in the extant suit, of all co-owners in the undivided suit property, rather was required to be tested, in the light, of forthright averments, being cast in the plaint, qua apart, from the plaintiff, and, the defendant, there being other co-owners in the undivided suit property, (vi) casting, of, candid averment(s) whereof, spark, an inference qua the plaintiff coming forth with clean hands, and, obviously not camouflaging, the factum qua the suit property, standing, co-owned apart from him, and, by the defendant, rather also by other co-owners, as reflected in the afore exhibits, (vii) imperatively when therein also rather qua other co-owners in the suit property, there is no further espousal, vis-a-vis, rendition of a decree, of, permanent prohibitory injunction against them, rather the afore relief being confined only, vis-a-vis, the defendant. Cumulatively, hence, when the acquisition of title, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra numbers, though, forming a part of other lands jointly owned, and, possessed by the plaintiff, and, the defendant, along with other co-owners, (viii) is squarely rested, upon, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff, making a registered deed of conveyance, with the vendor thereof. (ix) Moreover, when, further thereonwards, with the defendant's/counter claimant's, counter claim, being only confined, vis-a-vis, validity of execution of a sale deed, inter se the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff, and, the vendor of the apposite sale deed, (x) inasmuch as it being fraudulently executed, despite, his liquidating to the vendor a substantial part, of the sale consideration, (xi) and, when also in addition thereto, hence, the defendant in the counter-claim, rather projecting a stand qua his acquiring title, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra numbers, through adverse possession, and, when all the afore espousals rather stood negated, by the learned trial Court, (xii) and, the defendant/counter claimant's appeal, reared therefrom, before the learned first appellate Court, also, suffering an alike fate. (xiii) Moreover, when the defendant/counter claimant, has not assailed, the dismissal, of, his counter-claim, by both the learned courts below, carrying therein the afore espousal, (xiv) hence, when the verdicts concurrently rendered, upon, his counter claim hence acquire conclusive, and, binding effect, (xv) the natural corollary thereof, is that, the acquisition of title, through, a sale deed, by the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra numbers, khasra numbers whereof, upon being pooled or amalgamated, with the other khasra numbers, which are rather jointly owned and possessed, by other co-owners, also, apart from the legal contestants hereat, (xvi) and, even though even when, vis-a-vis, the suit property acquired, through, a registered deed of conveyance, by the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff, may be distinct, from other jointly owned property, inter se the legal contestant hereat, (xvii) and, the co-owners reflected in the afore exhibits, yet, upon, anvil of the principle of unity of title, and, community of possession, rather all the other recorded co-owners, also hence hold joint interests in the suit property, (xviii) and, though also would be required to be joined in the apposite array, of co-plaintiffs, or, in the array, of co-defendants. However, when the defendant, did not, after raising the afore preliminary objection, in his written statement, instituted to the plaint, hence, institute an appropriate application, for adding, in the array of co-defendants, other recorded co-owners, namely, Bhajan Devi, Parmod Kumar, Smt. Sarojni etc., (xix) thereupon, it appears that his raising the afore objection, vis-a-vis, the non joinder of the afore, in the array of litigants, being merely a mechanical, and, a perfunctory recourse, and, also his acquiescing qua the plaintiff instituting the suit, for permanent prohibitory injunction, also for the protection of the interests, in the jointly owned property, of, even afore recorded co-owners, in the undivided suit property. (xx) Conspicuously when the counsel for the defendant while holding, the plaintiff to cross-examination, meted an affirmative suggestion to him, qua the property located, at village Tangnu, standing partitioned inter se him, and, the defendant, and, whereto an affirmative answer, stood, purveyed by the plaintiff, (xxi) and, thereupon, this court makes a fortified inference, that there was no necessity at all, for the joining in the array of legal contestants, in the extant suit, of all the recorded co-sharers, in the undivided suit property nor hence the conclusion, recorded by the learned first appellate court, (xxii) that for want of joinder in the array, of legal contestants, in the extant suit, hence, of all the recorded co-owners, hence, the suit being not maintainable, (xxiii) and, thereafter its proceeding to decline the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, vis-a-vis, the plaintiffs also rather cannot be countenanced, by this Court.

11. Be that as it may, since the dismissal of the defendant's counter claim, has acquired conclusivity, and, binding effect, and, when the afore conclusivity, acquired by the concurrently recorded verdicts, by both the learned courts below, upon, the defendant's counterclaim, wherethroughs, it rather stood dismissed, (i) and wherein espousals are borne qua his acquiring title, vis-a-vis, the suit land by adverse possession, (ii) and, qua the father, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff fraudulently purchasing the suit land, through, a registered deed of conveyance executed inter se him, and, the apposite vendor thereto, (iii) resultantly also begets an imperative sequel, qua the plaintiff, validly deriving an interest in the suit property through his predecessor-in-interest, and, hence both, in equity and in law, he held a valid right to seek relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, vis-a-vis, the suit property, and, against the defendant/respondent herein. In aftermath, the declining of relief, to him, by the learned first appellate Court, under, the afore specious and flimsy reasoning, is unmeritworthy, and, suffers from a gross mis-appreciation of pleadings respectively, cast by the plaintiff, and, by the defendant.

12. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court, being not based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first appellate court has excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions, of law are answered in favour of the appellants/plaintiffs, and, against the respondent/defendant.

13. In view of the above discussion, the instant appeal is allowed, and, the verdict of the learned first appellate court, dismissing the plaintiffs' suit for permanent prohibitory injunction is set aside. Consequently, judgment and decree rendered by the learned trial Court upon Civil Suit No. 250/1 of 2008, is affirmed and maintained. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back forthwith.

For the Appellants: Mr. Dinesh Bhanot, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Rakesh Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiff, one Smt. Jagiro's suit, for rendition of a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction, and, for mandatory injunction, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number, stood decreed, by the learned trial Court, and, in an appeal carried therefrom, before the learned first appellate Court, by the aggrieved defendants, and, also upon, cross-appeal No.30-NL/13 of 2004, preferred therebefore hence by the plaintiff, rather sequelled, a pronouncement, hence dismissing the defendants' appeal, and, allowing, of, the plaintiff's cross appeal, (a) wherethrough, in consonance with Ex.P-1 (site plan), the defendants were directed to provide, through, the, suit khasra numbers, hence, space for enabling water traveling, through, the kuhal onto the land, of the plaintiff, hence for facilitating the plaintiff's land, being irrigated. The defendants being aggrieved therefrom, hence, institute the instant appeal before this Court.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the subject matter of the present list is a permanent katchi kuhal crossing through the land bearing Khasra Nos. 1036/115, 1039/117, 1040/121, comprised in Khewat/Khatauni No.24 min/25 min, situated in the area of village Makhnu, Majra, Pargana Dharampur, Tehsil Nalagarh, District Solan, H.P. for irrigation of the land of the plaintiff comprised in Khewat/Khatauni Nos. 27/28, bearing Khasra No. 1031/93, 1038/117, 118 and 119 total measuring 5 bighas as shown with red ink in Annexure PA. The case of the plaintiff is that the plaintiff is resident and Khewatdar of village Mahnumajra, and, had installed one tube well shown at point T in annexure PA about 20 years ago in village Makhnu Majra, for providing irrigation water to the Khewatdars. The water from the tube well is distributed to all the landowners for irrigation of their respective lands. The Irrigation and Public Health Department has further constructed some small water distribution tank at point C and water from point C used to cross through permanent kutcha channel/drain to irrigate the lands of the adjoining owners. The water passes through the lands of Kali Ram, Amin Chand and defendants and then reaches to the land of the plaintiff for the last about 28 years. The plaintiff used to irrigate her land measuring 5 bighas comprised in Khata/Khatauni No. 27/28, for the last 28 years peacefully, continuously, openly and uninterruptedly through kutcha channel over the land of the defendants. The plaintiff has acquired easementary right by way of prescription to irrigate her land through kutcha channel/kuhal over the land of the defendants and the defendant shave no right to interrupt or cause hindrance in smooth running of the water through disputed channel. The plaintiff is also having right to enter upon the land of the defendants in order to repair or remove blockage in the channel. The defendants used to irrigate their aforesaid land through Kutcha Kuhal which is passing over the land of other villagers. The defendants disturbed the kutcha channel/kuhal over their land by way of ploughing and refused the plaintiff to use the irrigation water from the disputed channel illegally. Hence the suit.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statement to the plaint, wherein, they have taken preliminary objections, qua maintainability, cause of action, suppression of facts etc. On merits, the defendants averred that there was no kutcha kuhal through the land of the defendants for irrigation of land of the plaintiff. The Government of Himachal Pradesh had installed tube well about 8 years ago in village Makhnu Majra for irrigation to the Khewatdars of village Makhnu Majra but the Government of Himachal Pradesh had not prepared any plan for irrigation of the land of the inhabitants. There was no water channel for irrigation of the land nor the plaintiff had any right to pass channel of water from the fields of the defendants my making alignment of her own choice nor plaintiff had any right of easement. The water from tube well flowed to the fields of the inhabitants of the locality with the consent of the each other. The landowners were irrigating their fields per the season as licencees and the plaintiff cannot claim easementary right to irrigate her fields. The plaintiff being a relative of the defendants was allowed to irrigate suit land by taking water from one corner of the land upto her land purely as a concession. The plaintiff had no right to cross the water channel in the middle of the fields of the defendants. Khasra No.1031/93 measuring 1 bigha 03 biswas was far away from the land of defendants. The defendants themselves used to irrigate the aforesaid land through Kutcha channel/kuhal which was passing through the land of the other villager with their consent. The defendants had acquired right to irrigate their land per facility and water available and with the consent of the villagers. There is no easementary or customary right for getting the water through kutcha channel/kuhal for irrigating over the land of adjoining landowners.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether there exists a water channel in the land of the defendants? OPP
2. Whether the plaintiff is having right to irrigate his fields from the water channel existing in the fields of the plaintiff by way of custom or by way of easement?OPP
3. Whether the defendant is interfering with the flow of water in the water channel? OPP
4. Whether this suit is bad for non joinder of necessary parties? OPD
5. Whether the plaintiff has suppressed material facts from the court, if so its effect? OPD
6. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form?OPD.

6A. Whether the plaintiff has suffered loss to the tune of Rs.15,000/- due to the acts of the defendants? OPD.

7. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff/respondent herein. The appeal, preferred therefrom, by, aggrieved defendants, before the learned First Appellate Court, as also, the cross-appeal preferred therebefore, by the plaintiff, sequelled a pronouncement, hence dismissing the defendants' appeal, and, allowing, of, the plaintiff's cross-appeal.

6. Now the defendants/appellant(s) herein, have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein, they assail the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, on 12.1.2006, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the defendants/appellant(s) against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on, the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

1. Whether in the facts and circumstances of the present case relief of permanent prohibitory injunction could be granted unless a declaration of the right to take water through the fields of the appellants/defendants was sought and granted by ld. Trial Court?
2. Whether the plaintiff was entitled to the entire damages when she is the owner to the extant of ½ land only?
3. Whether the judgment and decree of the learned appellate court is sustainable in view of the fact that the application under Order 41, Rule 27 of the CPC filed by the appellants remains undecided by the learned lower appellate court, if so the effect thereof?

4. Whether the jurisdiction of the civil courts is barred in view of the provisions of Section 54 of the H.P. Minor Canals Act, 1976 Act No.42 of 1976, if so its effect?

7. For the reasons to be assigned hereinafter, and, without meteing any answer to the afore substantial question of law, this Court proceeds, to, make an order of wholesale remand, vis-a-vis,l the learned trial Court, for its hence within six months hereafter, in compliance with the further directions enunciated hereinafter, rather making a fresh decision, upon, the apposite civil suit No. 291/1 of 2000. (a) The aggrieved defendants instituted an application bearing CMP No. 414 of 2012, within the instant RSA, (a) wherethrough, they seek leave of this Court, to adduce into evidence, copies of the revenue records, with articulations therein, vis-a-vis, the plaintiff, extantly not, being recorded as owner in possession of the suit land, (b) wheretowhich the defendants were directed, through a decree of mandatory injunction, hence, provide through their fields, water channels, hence for irrigating her land. The afore enunciations, if, credible, thereupon, it comprises, a, valuable piece(s) of evidence, (c) rather whereupon, the defendant may be entitled to make an espousal, before this Court, that, the decree impugned rather squarely appertaining, vis-a-vis, acquisition, of, easementary rights, before this Court, hence being in personam or in other words, only appertaining to the rights, and, entitlements, of one Jagiro, (d) thereupon, her alienees/assignees, not being entitled to receive, the benefit, of, the concurrently recorded judgments, and, decrees, by both the learned courts below, rather holding leanings, vis-a-vis, one Jagiro. Further corollary thereof, is that, when the afore documents appended, with the afore application, may be, just and essential, for the defendants hence making a meritworthy effort, to dislodge the concurrent findings, recorded by both the learned courts below, against them, thereupon, it is deemed fit to grant the espoused relief, to, the defendant.

8. Be that as it may, for the reasons to be assigned hereinafter, it would not be appropriate, merely, on anvil, of the afore leave being granted, vis-a-vis, the defendants, for, this Court, (a) also proceeding to, thereafter accept, the further submission made before this Court by their counsel, that hence, the verdicts recorded by both the learned courts below, wholly wanting in legal efficacy, and, hence after accepting, the instant appeal, the concurrently recorded verdicts against them, by both the learned courts below, rather being set aside. (b) Conspicuously, only, upon the attested copies of the relevant documents, being permitted to be placed on record, and, merely, upon, a presumption of truth, being, may be, enjoyed by them, hence their purportedly holding the requisite fullest probative vigour, or hence theirs being also per se admissible, and, exhibitable. (c) Emphatically, when all the afore endeavours, can be resorted to, only before the learned trial Court, and, obviously after an opportunity, to the counsel, for the litigants concerned, to adduce evidence, for rebutting the veracities or truth(s) thereof, (d) dehors reiteratedly even if assumingly, the documents in respect whereof, the espoused relief hence stands granted, to the aggrieved defendants/appellants, hence are, documents whereto, a, presumption, of, truth is attached. (e) Preeminently, also when solitarily upon the afore facet, it would be inappropriate, to conclude, that the extant regular second appeal being amenable, for it being allowed, (f) as reiteratedly prima faice at this stage, it cannot be straight way hence concluded, that, the verdicts recorded, vis-a-vis, one Jagiro, are, judgments in rem, or verdicts in personam nor it can be concluded, that, the alienees/ assignees/successors-in-interest, of one Jagiro, are not, entitled to the benefits, of the judgments, and, decrees recorded by both, the learned courts below, vis-a-vis, one Jagiro, (g) conspicuously, also when, without, the alienees/successor-in-interest/assignees of Jagiro or persons, who derive an interest from her, are neither strived to be impleaded, as legal contestants, in the apposite array of litigating parties, nor are permitted to be added, (h) whereas only upon theirs being added, they would hold, the fullest opportunity to contest the arguments raised, before this Court by the counsel, for, the aggrieved defendants/appellant, that, the verdict pronounced, vis-a-vis, Jagiro Devi/ rather bestowing benefits only upon her, and, not upon any of her successors-in-interest or any of her assignees, (i) emphatically also when, only upon, adding of assignees or persons, who through Jagiro hence purportedly derive any valid easementary right(s) from the judgments, and, decrees, pronounced qua Jagiro, may ultimately, upon, being added, in the array of legal contestants, (j) thereupon, may prevail, upon this Court that dehors the reflections existing in the documents, in respect whereof leave, is granted, they are yet entitled to derive benefits, of, the judgment and decree recorded, only vis-a-vis, Jagiro Devi. Consequently, for facilitating all the afore recoursings, it is deemed appropriate, to remand the lis, to enable it the learned trial Court, to allow, the exhibition therebefore of the afore documents, and, after an opportunity being granted, to the Jagiro, to adduce rebuttal evidence thereto. In case Jagiro is not holding any subsisting derivable interest, from, the concurrently recorded judgments, and, decrees, thereupon, it is open for the assignees, whereupon whom, derivation of the rights, as, encapsulated in the judgments and decrees, are ensuing, to through an application, being cast under the provisions of Order 1, Rule 10 CPC, seek their impleadment in the suit, (k) and, upon the afore apposite motion being, cast before the learned trial court, it shall proceed to make a decision thereon, in accordance with law, (j) and, thereafter, upon, an affirmative decision being recorded upon it, he may permit the newly added contestants concerned, to make amendment(s), in the apposite pleadings, and, thereafter if need, may strike any additional issue(s), and, shall permit adduction of evidence thereon.

9. Consequently, CMP No. 414 of 2012 is allowed, and, only for the afore reasons, the instant appeal is allowed, and, judgments impugned before this Court are set aside. The learned trial Court is directed to complete, the, afore mechanism, within, six months from today. The parties are directed to appear before the learned trial Court on 23rd July, 2019. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Section 166 - Motor accident – Claim application -Liability of insurer, when limited by contract – Effect – Held, when contract of insurance inter se parties itself limits liability of insurer to indemnify award only up to certain amount, then insurer cannot be directed to pay entire amount covered by award – Liability beyond the contracted amount is to burdened upon registered owner of offending vehicle. (Para 3)

Cases referred:

National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, 2017 ACJ 2700

For the Appellant: Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Jeevan Kumar, Advocate.
For Respondents No. 1 to 6: Mr. Sanket Sankhyan, Advocate.
For Respondents No. 7 & 8: Mr. Dhiraj Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The Insurer of the offending vehicle, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, it, casts, a, challenge, upon, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Bilaspur, upon, Claim Petition No. 34/2 of 2017, as stood, cast therebefore, under, the provisions of Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as the Act), (i) AND, whereunder, compensation amount, comprised in, a sum of Rs.18,84,400/- alongwith interest accrued thereon, at the rate of 7.5% per annum, was, hence ordered to commence, from, the date of petition till realization thereof, rather stood, assessed, vis-a-vis, claimants, (ii) and, the apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, was, fastened upon the insurer/appellant herein.

2. The learned counsel appearing, for, the appellant/insurer, has, not contested, the, validity, of, rendition, of, affirmative findings, upon, issue No.1, hence appertaining to the demise of Paras Ram, being a sequel of rash, and, negligent manner of driving of the offending vehicle, by respondent No.8 herein, nor he has contested the validity of fastening of the apposite indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer, vis-a-vis, the afore compensation amount. However, the learned counsel appearing, for the insurer, has with much vigour contended before this Court, (a) that the computation of compensation, in the impugned award, by the learned tribunal concerned, suffers from a gross fallacy, of, mis-appraisal of evidence on record. However, the afore contention reared before this Court by the learned counsel for the insurer, is, a mis-espousal, (b) as a perusal of the impugned award, makes visible echoings, that the per mensem salary drawn, by the deceased, from his being engaged, as a cleaner in Bulker No. HP-24A-7161 owned by M/s Naresh Kumar and Company Pvt. Ltd., rather being comprised in a sum of Rs.7,500/-, besides therewith, hence, diet money, borne in a sum of Rs.50/- per diem being also disbursed to the deceased. Since, the salary certificate stood exhibited as Ex.PW4/A, and, no suggestions, were put to PW-4, during, the course of his being subjected to cross-examination qua Ex.PW4/A being fictitiously drawn, (c) given it being issued, despite, the deceased not being maintained on the rolls, of, the employees of the company concerned, (d) rather when he has in his cross-examination, hence, volunteered, to, make a communication, that, the online data, in respect thereof standing displayed, on the relevant website, of the company concerned, echoing whereof remains unrepulsed, rather begets a formidable conclusion, that, the per mensem salary of the deceased, as determined by the learned tribunal, on anvil of Ex.PW4/A not suffering from any aura, of, any inveracity. Further, thereonwards addition or accretions towards future prospects, as stood levied upon the afore reared per mensem salary of the deceased, from, his employment, as a cleaner, in the truck owned by the company concerned, is in tandem, with the verdict rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, and, hence obviously does not merit any interference. Moreover, ¼th deduction, as, made, vis-a-vis, the per mensem income of the deceased, rather by the learned tribunal, given, the number of the dependents upon the latters' income, exceeding three, is also in consonance with a plethora, of judgments rendered by courts of law.

Moreover, the application of the requisite multiplier, upon, the afore figure, of, annual dependency, also, is within the domain of the decision, rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court, in a case titled, as Sarla Verma vs. Delhi Transport Corporation, reported in (2009)6 SCC 121. In sequel, it is to be concluded, that, the compensation amount, as adjudged in the impugned award, does not merit, any interference.

3. However, the learned counsel, appearing for the aggrieved insurer, has contended with much vigour, before this Court, (a) that with Ex. R-4, limiting the liability, of the insurer, vis-a-vis, any action founded, upon, the provisions, encapsulated in the Motor Vehicles Act, rather being limited only to a sum of Rs.7,50,000/-, (b) thereupon, the afore contractually limited apposite liability of the insurer, does, in consonance therewith, enjoin this Court to hence fasten the indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer, only upto a sum of Rs.7,50,000/- and, any liabilities, vis-a-vis, sums of compensation rather falling beyond the afore sums, of hence the afore contractually limited liability, rather being enjoined to be burdened, upon, the registered owner of the offending vehicle. The afore submission obviously, cannot be rejected, as, it is within the domain of the contract of insurer executed, inter se, the aggrieved insurer, and, the owner of the offending vehicle, and, as embodied in Ex. R-4, especially when authenticity thereof, has, remained unchallenged.

4. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the insurer is partly allowed, and, the award rendered by the learned tribunal, is, modified to the afore extent only. In sequel, the insurer of the offending vehicle shall be burdened with the apposite indemnificatory liability, only, in a sum of Rs.7,50,000/-, and, the apposite liability, vis-a-vis, the remaining sum of compensation amount, as adjudged under the impugned award shall be saddled, upon, the registered owner of the offending vehicle. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

Case referred:

National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, 2017 ACJ 2700

For the Appellant(s): Mr. Abhishek Barowalia, Advocate, in FAO No. 190 of 2019 and Mr. Naresh Kaul, Advocate, in FAO No. 191 of 2019.

For Respondents: Mr. Naresh Kaul, Advocate in FAO No. 190 of 2019 and Mr. Abhishek Barowalia, Advocate in FAO No., 191 of 2019.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The owner-cum-driver of the offending vehicle, and, also the claimants, are, all aggrieved, by the award rendered, by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Kangra at Dharamshala, District Kangra, H.P., upon MACP No. 44-II/2013/2012, (i) wherethrough, compensation amount comprised in a sum of Rs. 11,01,000/-, stood awarded, vis-a-vis, the claimants, and, thereon stood levied interest, at, the rate of 8% per annum, and, was ordered to commence from the date of petition, and, till realization, of, the afore compensation amount. The apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, stood fastened, upon, registered owner of the offending vehicle.

2. The learned counsel appearing, for, the registered owner, of, the offending vehicle rather restricts his challenge, vis-a-vis, the impugned award, (a) only qua the rendering, of, hence affirmative findings, upon, issue No.1. In making the afore espousal, he submits, that the dependence, made, by the learned tribunal, upon, the FIR embodied in Ex.PW1/A, in its hence rendering the afore findings, rather being a gross mis-dependence, (b) as, the testification, rendered by RW-1 benumbs, the evidentiary worth, if any, of the afore exhibit. However, the afore addressed submission before this Court, is, misplaced, (c) as PW-1, who during the course of his examination-in-chief, rather enabled exhibition, of, the apposite FIR, and, whereon an exhibit mark, bearing Ex.PW1/A was embossed, (d) and, when perusal thereof hence makes trite articulations qua ascription(s), of, culpable negligence being qua one Prashant Singh alias Pintu, (e) and, with the afore echoings occurring in Ex.PW1/A, remaining unscathed, during, the course of his being subjected to the ordeal, of, a rigorous cross-examination, (f) rather contrarily when, in course thereof, no suggestion(s) stood meted to him, for, hence, repulsing the afore echoings borne in Ex.PW1/A, nor with any independent ocular account, vis-a-vis, the occurrence being adduced, (g) rather begets an inference qua the appellant herein acquiescing qua the afore echoings hence holding veracity. Dehors an inference, of, acquiescence, vis-a-vis, the truth, of, the narration, borne in Ex.PW1/A, being erectable, for, hence, ousting the afore propagation reared before this Court, by the counsel, for the appellant, and, when the afore acquiescence, was, erodable, vis-a-vis, its efficacy, by rendition of, an uneroded ocular account, vis-a-vis, the occurrence. However, with RW-1 being an interested witness, and, his solitarily testifying in support, of, the afore espousal qua the relevant vehicle, at the relevant stage, being driven by the deceased, and, rather the latter being negligent, when, reiteratedly is unaccompanied, by any independent ocular account, renders it being construable, to, be a stained and vitiated narration, and, further does enable this Court, to conclude, that (h) the amplitude of the afore acquiescence, both drowning, and, underwhelming, the effects, if any, of, the solitarily testification, rendered by RW-1. Consequently, the submission, of the learned counsel appearing for the registered owner, is rejected.

3. The claimants, through, FAO No. 191 of 2019, sought enhancement of compensation, from, the sums computed in the impugned award, to a sum, as espoused in the extant appeal. The learned tribunal, had, in the impugned award, determined the per mensem income, of deceased, to be borne in a sum of Rs.7,500/-, and, the afore income was concluded, to, stand generated, from his avocation, as a carpenter/contractor. Even the afore computations, were made, on anvil of the testification rendered by PW-3, yet the afore computation, is, not made strictly, within the rule, of, hence, wholesome appreciation, of, evidence comprised, in the examination-in-chief, and, in the cross-examination, of, the apposite witness. Preeminently, when the afore witness, in his testification, comprised in his examination-in-chief, and, as borne in his affidavit, tendered during the course thereof, and, whereon exhibit mark bearing Ex.PW3/A, stand, embossed, rendering clear echoings qua his deceased son hence performing the work of carpenter, and, also his being engaged in deploying other carpenter(s) along with him, for executing works of carpentry. The afore testification, though, remained uneroded of its efficacy, yet, the learned tribunal while construing, that, hence with his being a skilled workman, rather computed his per mensem derivation, of income therefrom, hence, in a sum of Rs.7,500/-. The afore computation, as, aforestated, is beyond the rule, of a wholesome appreciation, of the evidence, as, comprised in his examination-in-chief, of PW-3, and, in his cross-examination, and, rather adherence, vis-a-vis, the afore rule hence prods this Court, to conclude (a) qua when, his testification borne in his examination-in-chief, wherein, he has testified qua his deceased son, earning an income of Rs.20,000/- from his performing, the work of carpentry, as also, from his deploying workers, for, executing the contracted carpentry works, is uneroded of its vigour, hence, this Court is constrained to conclude, that, the deceased was drawing an income of Rs.20,000/- per mensem, from, his afore avocation.

4. The deceased, is, in the postmortem report, is reflected, to be aged 28 years, at the relevant time. With the Hon'ble Apex Court, in case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, the relevant paragraph No.61, extracted hereinafter:

>
> (i) The two-Judge Bench in Santosh Devi should have been well advised to refer the matter to a larger Bench as it was taking a different view than what has been stated in Sarla Verma, a judgment by a coordinate Bench. It is because a coordinate Bench of the same strength cannot take a contrary view than what has been held by another coordinate Bench.
>
> (ii) As Rajesh has not taken note of the decision in Reshma Kumari, which was delivered at earlier point of time, the decision in Rajesh is not a binding precedent.
> (iii) While determining the income, an addition of 50% of actual salary to the income of the deceased towards future prospects, where the deceased had a permanent job and was below the age of 40 years, should be made. The addition should be 30%, if the age of the deceased was between 40 to 50 years. In case the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years, the addition should be 15%. Actual salary should be read as actual salary less tax.
> (iv) In case the deceased was self-employed or on a fixed salary, an addition of 40% of the established income should be the warrant where the deceased was below the age of 40 years. An addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years and 10% where the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years should be regarded as the necessary method of computation. The established income means the income minus the tax component.

> (v) For determination of the multiplicand, the deduction for personal and living expenses, the tribunals and the courts shall be guided by paragraphs 30 to 32 of Sarla Verma which we have reproduced hereinbefore.
> (vi) The selection of multiplier shall be as indicated in the Table in Sarla Verma read with paragraph 42 of that judgment.
> (vii) The age of the deceased should be the basis for applying the multiplier.

expostulating (i) that where the deceased concerned, was a self employed, as is, the apt employment, of, the deceased, (a) thereupon, hikes or accretions, on anvil, of future incremental prospects, vis-a-vis, the salary drawn by him, at the time contemporaneous, to, the ill fated mishap, from his employer, being also meteable thereto. However, before applying the mandate of the aforesaid relevant paragraph, borne in the judgment supra, it is significant to also bear in mind, the age of the deceased, (ii) since the postmortem report reflects, the deceased being aged 28 years, at the relevant time, hence with the afore extracted paragraph, mandating, qua, accretions towards future incremental prospects, vis-a-vis, the salary last drawn, by the deceased, being pegged upto 40% thereof, besides being tenably meteable, vis-a-vis, the apposite last drawn salary. Consequently, after meteing 40% increase(s), vis-a-vis, the apposite last drawn salary, thereupon, the relevant last drawn salary, of, the deceased, is reckonable to be Rs.24,000/-, [Rs.20,000/-(last drawn salary of the deceased)+Rs.4,000/-[40% of the last drawn salary). Significantly, the deceased was a bachelor, hence, 50% deduction is to be visited, upon, a sum of Rs.24,000/-, hence, after making, the, apt aforesaid deduction, vis-a-vis, the afore sum, the per mensem dependency, comes to Rs.12,000/-. In sequel whereto, the annual dependency, of the dependents, upon, the income of the deceased, is computed, at Rs.12,000/- x 12=Rs.1,44,000/-. After applying thereto, the apposite multiplier of 17, the total compensation amount, is assessed in a sum of Rs.1,44,000/- x 17=Rs.24,48,000/- (Rs. Twenty four lakhs, forty eight thousand only).

5. Apart from the aforesaid compensation amount, the claimants are also entitled for Rs.15,000/- towards funeral charges, and, Rs.15,000/-, towards the loss of estate. Consequently, the claimants are entitled to a total compensation of Rs.24,78,000/- (Rs.twenty four lakhs, seventy eight thousand only).

6. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the registered owner-cum-driver of the offending vehicle, bearing FAO No. 190 of 2019, is dismissed, whereas, the appeal filed by the claimants, bearing FAO No.191 of 2019 is allowed. In sequel, the impugned award, is, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified. Accordingly, the claimants/appellants, are, held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.24,78,000/- (Rs.twenty four lakhs, seventy eight thousand only) along with interest @8%, from, the date of petition till the date, of, deposit, of the compensation amount. The indemnificatory liability, vis-a-vis, the afore compensation amount, shall be, of the registered owner of the offending vehicle. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted in the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. The aforesaid amount of compensation be apportioned in the manner as ordered by the learned tribunal.All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

For the Appellant:	Mr. Virender Sharma, Advocate.
For Respondents No. 1 & 2:	Mr. Anirudh Sharma, Advocate.
For Respondents No. 3 & 4:	Mr. Rakesh Chaudhary, Advocate vice Mr. Ravinder Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The Insurer of the offending vehicle, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, it, casts, a, challenge, upon, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-I, Solan, H.P., upon, MAC Petition No. 29-s/2 OF 2015 (i) whereunder compensation amount, embodied, in a sum of Rs.14,11,000/- alongwith interest accrued thereon, at the rate of 6% per annum, and, commencing from, the date of petition till realization thereof, hence stood, assessed, vis-a-vis, claimants No.1 and 2, (ii) and, the apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, was, fastened upon the insurer/appellant herein.

2. The learned counsel appearing, for the insurer, has contested, the returning of affirmative findings, upon, issue No.1, and, has also contested, the, returning of disaffirmative findings, upon, issue No.4, (a) and, his afore contest(s), has also, facilitated him, to make a further submission, before this Court, (b) that thereupon the impugned award is vitiated, as, assumingly, upon, the compensation amount determined under the impugned award, being maintained by this Court, (c) nonetheless, only upon, the joinder of the owner, driver and the insurer of Innova car bearing No. DL-1YV-8580, would rather facilitate the rendition, of, befitting findings, vis-a-vis, the afore purported co-tortfeasor, in the relevant mishap, (d) and, would also bring requisite enablements, for, proportionately fastening hence the apposite indemnifiatory liabilities, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle, and, upon the insurer of the Innova Car bearing No. DL-1YV-8580, (e) whereas, the afore want of, the afore legitimate recoursings, deficlitate the making, of the afore rendition.

3. However, the afore submission addressed before this Court, by the learned counsel, appearing for the insurer/appellant, is rudderless, (i) as it is not founded upon any credible evidence, existing on record, (ii) rather with PW-2 making an uneroded testification, qua in pursuance, to the lodging, of, the apposite FIR, carrying therein ascriptions, vis-a-vis, the driver of the offending vehicle, being rash, and, negligent in driving it, (iii) thereupon, with his being the sole tortfeasor, (iv) and, when he further testifies that after completion of the investigation(s), a report under Section 173 of the Cr. P. C., standing filed rather exclusively against respondent No.3 herein, does cumulatively, beget an invincible inference, conspicuously also when credible ocular account, vis-a-vis, the afore propagation, of the counsel for the insurer, is also not existing on record, rather reiteratedly qua the afore espousal being raised surmisally, and, it being not embedded, on any assured or firm evidentiary material hence existing on record.

4. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer, has also contended, that (a) the assessment made by the learned tribunal qua the deceased, from his purported avocation, of, his assisting, his father in agriculture and horticulture pursuits, and, from his rendering tuitions to students, hence, rearing, a, per mensem salary of Rs.12,000/-, is, an exercise based upon conjectures, and, requires interference. However, the afore submission also falters, as, the father of the deceased, while stepping into the witness box, and, during course whereof, he tendered into evidence, his affidavit, rather therein his making clear underlinings qua the deceased, as apparent from Ex.PW1/C, to Ex.PW1/G, hence, possessing a masters degree in Physics, (b) and, also a B.Ed. Degree and thereonwards also his making echoings qua his son assisting him, in performing horticulture, and, agriculture pursuits, and, wherefrom, he has testified qua his rearing, an, income of Rs. Two lakhs. Even though, he has further testified, that, his deceased son, also rearing incomes from his imparting tuitions, to students, and, when all the afore testimonies, have, withstood the rigour of an exacting cross-examination, (c) thereupon, even when the students/wards, wheretowhom the deceased imparted tuitions or their respective parents, omitted to hence step into the witness box, to succor, the afore testification, (d) however, wants of theirs hence stepping into the witness box, rather would not render the afore evidence, being discardable, given all the afore testifications, remaining uneroded, vis-a-vis, their vigour, for, wants, of any apposite rebuttal evidence thereto rather being adduced by the respondent, (e) hence, bearing in mind the afore factum, and, also bearing in mind qua the father of the deceased being deprived of assistance(s) being meted to him by his son, in his performing, both agricultural, and, horticultural pursuits, (f) and, when hence he would be required to engage labourers, for assisting him, thereupon, the afore loss of services, to the father of the deceased, is also required to be re-recompensed. However, since, the claimants, have not filed any appeal, before this Court, seeking enhancement of compensation nor they have preferred cross-objections, (g) hence, bearing in mind, the afore unfoldments, and, more precisely the factum of the deceased, being well qualified, and, his qualification, empowering him, to obtain, a, befitting adequately remunerative employment, hence, the quantification, in the impugned award, vis-a-vis, the income of the deceased, hence computed in a sum of Rs.12,000/-, rather cannot be construed to be not firmly bedrocked, upon, any hard evidentiary material nor it is interferable.

5. Be that as it may, even if, the claimants, have not instituted any appeal against the impugned award, nor preferred any cross-objections, within, the instant appeal, yet the afore omission would not cast any bar upon this Court against its granting, in consonance with the verdcit of the Hon'ble Apex Court, rendered in a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, future hikes, upon the per mensem income adjudged by the learned tribunal, and, borne in a sum of Rs.12,000/-,given it standing mandated therein, qua the, awarding(s), of, future incremental hikes, vis-a-vis, a deceased engaged, in non governmental sector or being self employed, as, the deceased visibly hereat stood engaged, and, also the age of the deceased, being the requisite parameter. Since the postmortem report reflects, the deceased being aged 24 years, at the relevant time, hence within, the, ambit, of, verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in Pranay Sethi's case (supra), and, when, it reiteratedly stands mandated therein, qua accretions towards future incremental prospects, vis-a-vis, the assessed income of, a self-employed deceased, as, the deceased hereat candidly was, being pegged upto 40% thereof, besides being tenably meteable, vis-a-vis, the apposite assessed per mensem income. Consequently, after meteing 40% increase(s), vis-a-vis, the apposite assessed per mensem income, thereupon, the relevant per mensem income, of, the deceased, is, reckonable to be Rs.16,800/-, [Rs.12,000/-(per mensem assessed income of the deceased)+Rs.48,00/-[40% of the last drawn salary). Significantly, the deceased was a bachelor, hence, 50% deduction, is to be visited, upon, a sum of Rs.16,800/-, hence, after making, the, apt aforesaid deduction, vis-a-vis, the afore sum, the per mensem dependency, comes to Rs.8,400/-. In sequel whereto, the annual dependency, of the dependents, upon, the income of the deceased, is computed, at Rs.8,400/- x 12=Rs.1,,00,800/-. After applying thereto, the apposite multiplier of 18, the total compensation amount, is assessed in a sum of Rs.1,00,800/- x 18=Rs.18,14,400/- (Rs. Eighteen lakhs, fourteen thousand, four hundred only).

6. However, the quantification, of damages, by the learned Tribunal in a sum of Rs.1 lacs vis-a-vis, the claimants, under the head, " loss of love and affection" is in, conflict with the mandate of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in Pranay Sethi's case (supra), (b) wherein, it has been expostulated, that reasonable figures, only under conventional heads, namely, loss to estate, and, funeral expenses, being quantified, only upto Rs.15,000/-, and Rs.15,000/- respectively. Consequently, the award of the learned tribunal is interfered, to the extent aforesaid, of, its determining compensation, under, the aforesaid heads vis-a-vis the claimants. Accordingly, in addition to the aforesaid amount of Rs.18,14,400/-, the claimants, are, entitled under conventional heads, namely, loss to estate, and, funeral expenses, sums of Rs.15,000/-, and Rs.15,000/- respectively, as such, the total compensation to which the claimants are entitled comes to Rs.18,14,400 + Rs.15,000/- + Rs.15,000/-= Rs.18,44,400/-(Rs. Eighteen lakhs, forty four thousand, four hundred only).

7. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the insurer is dismissed, however, the impugned award, is, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified. Accordingly, the petitioners/claimants/respondents No.1 and 2, are, held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.18,44,400/-(Rs. Eighteen lakhs, forty four thousand, four hundred only), along with interest @ 6 % per annum, from, the date of petition till the date, of, deposit, of the compensation amount. The indemnificatory liability, vis-a-vis, compensation amount shall be borne by the insurer of the offending vehicle, i.e. appellant herein. The afore amount of compensation be apportioned amongst the claimants/respondents No.1 and 2 herein, in the manner as ordered, by the learned tribunal. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted in the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

Smt. Sakina Devi and others ....Respondents.

FAO No. 452 of 2018.
Reserved on : 17th June, 2019.
Decided on : 28th June, 2019.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 149 - Motor accident– Claim application– Defence of gratuitous passenger in goods vehicle– Proof– Insurer contending that contents of FIR not showing that deceased was travelling as owner of goods in offending vehicle– He was gratuitous passenger and indemnificatory liability cannot be fastened upon it – Held, mere fact that at time of accident deceased was not accompanying any goods in offending vehicle, will not suggest that vehicle was never hired by him for transporting goods – After unloading of goods such passengers do travel in same vehicle to place from where they had commenced their journey – Passengers do so and are allowed to do so in their capacity as owner of goods or their representatives who hired the vehicle for transportation of goods – In such circumstances indemnificatory liability will have to fasten on insurer – But onus is always upon claimants concerned to prove that deceased had hired vehicle for transportation of goods. (Para 4)

Case referred:

United India Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Suresh K.K. and another, (2008)12 SCC 657

For the Appellant: Mr. Jagdish Thakur, Advocate.
For Respondents No. 1 to 5: Mr. G. R. Palasra, Advocate For Respondent No. 6: Mr. Janesh Gupta, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The Insurer of the offending vehicle, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, it, casts, a, challenge, upon, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (III), Mandi, upon, Claim Petition No. 15/2015, as stood, cast therebefore, under, the provisions of Section 166, of, the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as the Act), (i) AND, whereunder, compensation amount, comprised in, a sum of Rs.17, 36, 912/-alongwith interest accrued thereon, at the rate of 7.5% per annum, was, hence ordered to commence, from, the date of petition till realization thereof, rather stood, assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimants, (ii) and, the apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, was, fastened upon the insurer/appellant herein.

2. The learned counsel appearing, for, the appellant/insurer, has, not contested, the, validity, of, rendition, of, affirmative findings, upon, issue No.1, hence appertaining to the demise of Mansa Ram, being a sequel of rash, and, negligent manner of driving of the offending vehicle, by respondent No.6. The deceased, Mansa Ram, as visible, on a reading of, the, postmortem report, borne in Ex.PW2/A, begot his end, for the reasons as disclosed therein, (a) and, PW-2, who during the course of his examination-in-chief, hence tendered into evidence, the, postmortem report, and, also enabled its exhibition, and, his also obviously proving the afore exhibit, rather carries disclosures therein qua the afore cause of demise, being a sequel of a road side accident, (b) thereupon, it is to be concluded that the demise of the afore deceased, hence, germinating, from, rash, and, negligent manner of driving of the offending vehicle, by its owner-cum-driver.

3. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the appellant/insurer, has contended, that (a) with the registration certificate appertaining to the offending vehicle, and, exhibited as Ex.RW1/C, and, it making a categorical echoing qua it being registered, rather as a light goods vehicle, (b) and, when it is construable, to be hence a goods carrier, thereupon, he contends (c) that when the claimants were hence enjoined to adduce cogent proof, vis-a-vis, the deceased, at the relevant time, occupying the offending vehicle not as a gratuitous passenger, rather as the owner, of the goods concerned, (d) whereas, with the FIR borne in Ex.PW3/A, not making any bespeaking in consonance therewith, thereupon, he contends that the deceased hence was travelling in the offending vehicle, as a gratuitous passenger, (e) and further thereonwards, he also makes, a, vehement espousal before this Court that, the, fastening of the apposite indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer, vis-a-vis, the offending vehicle, hence, registered, as, a goods carrier vehicle, rather warranting interference, by this Court.

4. Primarily, even if, the FIR borne in Ex.PW1/A, and, lodged at the instance of one Rajinder Kumar, an,d not at the instance of the owner-cum-driver, of the offending vehicle, arrayed as co-respondent No.6 herein, though does not, carry, an, explicit narrative therein, vis-a-vis, at the time of happening, of, the ill-fated occurrence, hence involving the offending vehicle, driven at the relevant time, by it co-respondent No.6 herein, it not carrying therein any goods purportedly, rather owned by the predecessor-in-interest, of, the claimants, (a) yet the afore want, of, the afore echoings therein, would not beget a further concomitant conclusion, that, the afore argument(s) addressed, by the counsel for the insurer/appellant, is, weighty nor it can be concluded, that the deceased never hired, for the relevant purpose, the offending vehicle, nor it can be concluded, that, he was travelling as, a, gratuitous passenger therein. Contrarily, dehors, the afore narrative, and, also irrespective of the fact, that at the relevant time, the, goods owned by the deceased, were not borne, in the relevant vehicle, it would not relieve the insurer, vis-a-vis, the burdening of the apposite indemnificatory liability upon it, nor coax this Court to make a conclusion, that the afore indemnificatory liability, hence, saddled upon it, being unsaddleable, as a decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court, rendered in a case titled as United India Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Suresh K.K. and another, reported in (2008)12 SCC 657, the relevant paragraph No.7 whereof stands extracted hereinafter:-

> "7. A sum of Rs. 1,19,300/- was awarded in favour of the claimant with interest @ 9% pr annum. Appellant preferred an appeal before the High Court in terms of Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act. The High Court negatived the contention of the appellant that the word 'goods' was used in Section of the Act, would not be referable to the word 'carried' stating :
> > "According to us, the language of the amended provision does not show that the owner or the representative must accompany the goods or his representative who hires the vehicle travels in the hired vehicle from the place of hiring to the place where the goods are to be loaded into the vehicle > and then proceeds to travel along with the goods. It is also common that after unloading the goods such passengers travel in the same vehicle to the place from where they commenced journey. The passenger does so and is allowed to do so in his capacity as the owner of the goods or his representative who has hired the vehicle for transporting goods. The amended provision makes it explicitly clear that the word `carried' qualifies the owner of goods or his representative and not the goods carried. If goods are found inside the vehicle at the time of the accident, it is a clinching circumstance to establish that the passenger who claims to be the owner of goods or the owner's representative was travelling in that capacity. Chances of passengers or the insured raising false claims in this regard cannot be safe method to ascertain the intention of the Legislature. False claims can be disapproved by appropriate contentions. In our view, such issues are matters of evidence and will not stand scrutiny while construing a beneficial provision intended to compensate the loss caused to innocent victims of motor accidents. The party who claims that the person representative of the owner of the goods shall discharge the burden cast on him. Merely for the reason that the benefit granted will be misused, it will not be proper to give a narrow interpretation to the above provision. We, therefore, hold that the owner or the authorised representative need not invariably be shown to accompany the goods at the time the goods carriage meets with accident causing injury to or resulting in the death of the passenger who is either the owner of the goods or the authorised representative of the owner of the goods.'' rather makes clear explicit, and, categorical expostulations of law, (a) qua passengers, hence, hiring the offending vehicle concerned, for goods being therein carried, along with them, conspicuously, also after, unloading the goods at their apposite destination, hence, proceeding to occupy, the hired apposite offending vehicle, for, theirs returning from, the apposite destination, whereupto they travelled, along with, the, goods, rather to travel to their place of abode, wherefrom they commenced their journey, (b) and conspicuously therein it also stands candidly and tritely expostulated therein, that, in the afore scenario, and, reiteratedly, when the offending vehicle, in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the ill event of an accident, besetting it, rather not carrying goods, loaded therein, (c) and, the owner of the good(s), rather continuing to occupy, it, as a passenger therein, and, reiteratedly his occupation, as a passenger in the offending vehicle, continuing after his dispatching, the goods, loaded in the offending vehicle, at their apt destination, hence being facilitative, for, his returning home, (d) rather would yet enjoin(s) the courts of law, to, fasten the apposite indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle, (e) but the relevant discharging onus, especially for avoiding the misuse of the afore expostulation of law, being always cast, upon, the claimants concerned. Succinctly, the claimants, whereuponwhom, the apposite discharging onus, is cast, do appear through Sakina Devi, to ensure its apposite discharging,(f) given the afore during the course of recording of her deposition, tendering in her examination-in-chief, her affidavit, borne in Ex.PW1/A, exhibit whereof carries, articulation(s) qua deceased Mansa Ram, upon, engaging the offending vehicle, for carrying therein "patals", upto Trambel village, and, also after his completing the journey, in the offending vehicle, along with the afore bundles of patals, being loaded therein, rather, his, after delivering the afore patals at Trambel, (f) hence thereafter also continuing to occupy the offending vehicle, as passenger, for hence his being enabled to arrive, at the place of commencement of his journey. Reiteratedly, the afore despoition also falls, within the expostulation of law, encapsulated, in the judgment (supra), hence, the fastening of the apposite indemnificatory liability, in the impugned award, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle, does not suffer, from any fallacy nor hence the deceased, is, construable to be a gratuitous passengers, in the offending vehilce.

5. However, the learned counsel, appearing for the insurer/appellant herein, has continued to contend with much vigour, before this Court that with respondent No.6 herein, in his testification, embodied in his cross-examination, acquiescing to an affirmative suggestion put to him, by the counsel for the insurer qua the deceased, hence, occupying the offending vehicle merely as a passenger, (a) hence, he concerts, to, therefrom hence generate an inference, that the deceased was throughout rather occupying the offending vehicle, as, a gratuitous passenger, and, hence, the apposite indemnificatory liability, being not amenable, to be fastened, upon, the insurer. However, the afore inference, as strived to be drawn, by the counsel for the insurer, is, misplaced, and, misfounded, (b) as it appears, that, the afore suggestion appertains, vis-a-vis, the stage rather when the relevant mishap occurred, and, does not, hence enable him to therefrom, make or derive any inference, that the deceased had never engaged the offending vehicle for carrying therein, the bundles of patals, (c) nor qua after the delivery of the afore at Trambel, hence, he was not returning in the offending vehicle, for his being facilitated, to arrive at his homestead, (d) nor he can thereupon, obviously erode, the afore expostulation, of law, as borne in Suresh K.K.'s case (supra), rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court, (e) wherein rather the travelling, of, the owner concerned, without the goods occurring, in the offending vehicle, especially when prior thereto, he has delivered the goods, at their relevant destination, rather purveys apt leverage, to the registered owner, to make, an, espousal, that, the indemnificatory liability being fastenable upon the insurer. (f) Furthermore, the afore inference, also stands filliped, from, RW-1 acquiescing to a suggestion meted to him, by the counsel for the insurer, while subjecting to cross-examination, that, his, rearing a claim, vis-a-vis, damages caused to the vehicle, before the insurance company, (g) and, when thereto visibly no objection stood raised by the insurer, (h) thereupon, upon, the afore suggestion standing combined with, and, read in conjunction, with the claim form, occurring at page 46 of the record of the learned tribunal, wherein, there occurs, an echoing hence in consonance, with the afore testification rendered by PW-1, (i) and, it also squarely and pointedly echoing qua respondent No.1, after unloading, at the apt destination concerned, hence, the goods of the deceased Mansa Ram, his thereafter performing his return journey, rather in the offending vehilce, (j) and, during the course thereof, the ill-fated mishap hence involving the offending vehicle occurring, rather fortifies an inference, qua the afore expostulation of law, borne in the judgment (supra) hence being standing satisfactorily satiated, and, also hence, the relevant discharging onus, cast upon the claimants, being discharged.

6. Lastly, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer, has, contended with much vigour, before this Court, that the afore echoing occurring in the claim form, and, claim form whereof exists at page 46, of the record of the learned tribunal, hence, being readable, as, carrying, a signification qua the offending vehicle, being engaged, by deceased Mansa Ram, to carry therein, his household luggage, or personal effects, and, he hence contends (a) that when the afore luggage or personal effects, of the deceased Mansa Ram, as stood carried, in the offending vehicle, when rather stand excluded, from the statutory definition, of goods, encapsulated in Section 2(13) of the Motor Vehicles Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "S. 2(13) "goods" includes livestock, and, anything (other than equipment ordinarily used with the vehicle), carried by a vehicle except living persons, but does not include luggage or personal effects carried in a motor car or in a trailer attached to a motor car or the personal luggage of passengers travelling in the vehicle:"

(a) thereupon also it being invincibly concludable, that the patals, as stood, carried in the offending vehicle rather being luggage and, the personal effects, of, the deceased. He also makes a further submission, that, the apposite indemnificatory liability hence being not tenably saddled upon the insurer. However, the afore submission, cannot be accepted by this Court, as, the echoing made in the claim form, existing at page 46 of the records, of the learned tribunal, is, qua bundles of patals being carried, in the offending vehicle concerned, prior to the ill-fated mishap, rather happening, (b) and thereafter with no further explanation , is, concerted to be elicited from RW-1, by the counsel for the insurer, during, the course of his holding him, to cross-examination, vis-a-vis, patals not being carried, in the offending vehicle, at the relevant stage, rather household luggage or personal effects, of, the deceased, being carried at the relevant stage, in the offending vehicle, (c) and, when only upon the afore endeavour being made, it may be possible, to rear a conclusion that hence no patals rather other house hold items or personal effects of the deceased, rather at the relevant time, being carried in the offending vehicle. (d) Reiteratedly, when the afore elicitation, is not concerted, to be unearthed from RW-1, (e) thereupon, it is to be also concluded qua the counsel for the insurer, of the offending vehicle acquiescing qua the patals, being carried, at the relevant stage in the offending vehicle, (e) thereupon, it is to be concluded that the afore patals, obviously not being construable to be either luggage or personal effects of the deceased, rather being construable, to be goods, as, defined under Section 2(13) of the Act, emphatically when the "patals" are not meant, for, the permanent personal use, vis-a-vis, consignee nor, vis-a-vis, the consignor, nor are personal effects or luggage rather are meant, for, community users. Corollary thereof, is that the fastening, of the apposite indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle, vis-a-vis, the compensation amount, by the learned tribunal, does not suffer, from, any infirmity.

7. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit, in the instant petition, and, it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the award impugned before this Court is maintained, and, affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

For the petitioners. Mr. S.R. Chauhan, for the petitioner.

For the respondent Mr. Kunal Thakur, Ld. Deputy Advocate General, for the respondent.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Jyotsna Rewal Dua,(J)

A very peculiar issue is involved in this case. The question is what would be the status of the off-springs of a Schedule Tribe woman, married to a forward caste man. The Revenue/Competent Authority did not grant Schedule Tribe status to the off-springs. The writ petition claiming such status was dismissed by the learned Single Judge, hence, present appeal has been preferred.

2.(i) Before adverting to the factual position of this case, it would be appropriate to refer to the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Rameshbhai Dabhai Naika Vs. State of Gujarat and others*, (2012) 3 Supreme Court Cases 400,* relied upon by the learned Single Judge, while dismissing the writ petition, wherein it washeld by Hon'ble Apex Court as under:-

> 54. In view of the analysis of the earlier decisions and discussions made above, the legal position that seems to emerge is that in an inter-caste marriage or a marriage between the tribal and non-tribal the determination of the caste of the offspring is essentially a question of fact to be decided on the basis of the facts adduced in each case. The determination of caste of a person born of an inter-caste marriage or a marriage between a tribal and a non-tribal cannot be determined in complete disregard of attending facts of the case.
> 55. In an inter-caste marriage or a marriage between a tribal and a non-tribal there may be a presumption that the child has the caste of the father. This presumption may be stronger in the case where in the inter-caste marriage or a marriage between a tribal and a non-tribal the husband belongs to a forward caste. But by no means the presumption is conclusive or irrebuttable and it is open to the child of such marriage to lead evidence to show that he/she was brought up by the mother who belonged to the Scheduled Caste/Scheduled tribe. By virtue of being the son of a forward caste father he did not have any advantageous start in life any other member of the community to which his/her mother belonged. Additionally, that he was always treated as a member of the community to which her mother belonged not only by that community but by the people outside the community as well." (emphasis supplied)

2(ii) Hon'ble Supreme Court in K.P. Manu Vs. Chairman, Scrutiny Committee for verification of community certificate, (2015) 4 Supreme Court Cases 1, held as under:-

"51. In the instant case, the appellant got married to a Christian lady and that has been held against him. It has also been opined that he could not produce any evidence to show that he has been accepted by the community for leading the life of a Hindu. As far as the marriage and leading of Hindu life are concerned, we are of the convinced opinion that, in the instant case, it really cannot be allowed to make any difference. The community which is a recognized organization by the State Government, has granted the certificate in categorical terms in favour of the appellant. It is the community which has the final say as far as acceptance is concerned, for it accepts the person, on reconversion, and takes him within its fold. Therefore, we are inclined to hold that the appellant after reconversion had come within the fold of the community and thereby became a member of the Scheduled Caste. Had the community expelled him the matter would have been different. The acceptance is in continuum. Ergo, the reasonings ascribed by the Scrutiny Committee which have been concurred with by the High Court are wholly unsustainable." (emphasis supplied)

2(iii) In another judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Anjan Kumar Vs. Union of India and others, (2006) 3 Supreme Court Cases 257, it was held as under:-

"6. Undisputedly, the marriage of the appellants' mother (tribal woman) to one Lakshmi Kant Sahay (Kayastha) was a court marriage performed outside the village. Ordinarily, the court marriage is performed when either of the parents of bride or bridegroom or the community of the village objects to such marriage. In such a situation, the bride of the bridegroom suffers the wrath of the community of the village and runs the risk of being ostracized or excommunicated from the village community. Therefore, there is no question of such marriage being accepted by the village community. The situation will, however, stand on different footing in a case where a tribal man marries a non-tribal woman (Forward Class) then the offshoots of such wedlock would obviously attain the tribal status. However, the woman (if she belongs to a Forward Class) cannot automatically attain the status of tribal unless she has been accepted by the community as one of them, observed all rituals, customs and traditions which have been practised by the tribals from time immemorial and accepted by the community of the village as a member of tribal society for the purpose of social relations with the village community. Such acceptance must be by the village community by a resolution and such resolution must be entered in the Village Register kept for the purpose. Often than not, such acceptance is preceded by feast/rituals performed by the parties where the elders of the village community participated. However, acceptance of the marriage by the community itself would not entitle the woman (Forward Class) to claim the appointment to the post reserved for the reserved category. It would be incongruous to suggest that the tribal woman, who suffered disabilities, would be able to compete with the woman (Forward Class) who does not suffer disabilities wherefrom she belongs but by reason of marriage to tribal husband and such marriage is accepted by the community would entitle her for appointment to the post reserved for the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes. It would be a negation of constitutional goal.(emphasis supplied)

15. The Scheduled Caste and Scheduled tribe certificate is not a bounty to be distributed. To sustain the claim, one must show that he/she suffered disabilities-socially, economically and educationally cumulatively. The authority concerned, before whom such claim is made, is duty-bound to satisfy itself that the applicant suffered disabilities socially, economically and educationally before such certificate is issued. Any authority concerned issuing such certificates in a routine manner would be committing a dereliction of constitutional duty."

3. We have gone through the complete record of the writ petition and heard learned counsels for the parties. The factual position in the case remains undisputed. Such undisputed and relevant facts can be summed up as hereunder:-

3(i) The father of the petitioner, namely Shri Jodh Singh, son of late Shri Jant r/o village & P.O. Ulansa, Tehsil Bharmour, District Chamba, H.P., belonged to Gaddi Hali Community Tribe, which has been enumerated as such in the Constitutional Presidential Order 1950- Himachal Chapter. Thus, Shri Jodh Singh, father of the petitioner was recognized as Scheduled Tribe. He was owner of 05-12-08 bighas of land situated in Mauza Ulansa Parganah Bharmour, Sub-Tehsil Holi, District Chamba.

3(ii) Petitioner is the only surviving daughter of late Shri Jodh Singh. She resided in village & P.O. Ulansa, Tehsil Bharmour, Sub Tehsil Holi, District Chamba, H.P. Petitioner was also recognized as Gaddi Haliand was issued Scheduled Tribe certificates by the Competent Authority. Petitioner served as a JBT teacher.

3(iii) Smt Sreshta Devi/petitioner, married one Shri Madan Kumar, son of Shri Prem Lal, in October, 1985. Shri Madan Kumar, was resident of village Mangla, Tehsil & District Chamba. He belonged to Rajput caste (forward caste). The marriage was solemnized at village Ulansa, in accordance with traditions, customs, rituals, followed by local Gaddi Hali community. Photographs of the marriage of the couple have been annexed with the petition. Local people belonging to Gaddi Hali Community, participated in the marriage ceremonies with all fervour, gaiety and blessed the couple.

3(iv) Marriage of Shri Madan Kumar with the petitioner who belonged to low caste and Scheduled Tribe-Gaddi Halicommunity, was not accepted, by former's family members. He was completely ostracized, by his upper class community. He was also divested from his ancestral moveable and immoveable property at his native village Mangla Tehsil and District Chamba, H.P. So much so that none of his ancestral land, in village Mangla, is in his possession. He has not been allowed to enter in his native village, either in the house of his father or in the houses of his relatives. In fact his name has been stuck off from the record of rights by his father.

3(v) After marriage, petitioner alongwith her husband, continued to live in her father's home in Village & P.O. Ulansa, Tehsil Bharmour, Sub Tehsil Holi, District Chamba, H.P. Petitioner even though, was the only surviving daughter of her father, yet, in view of the bar on females (in the area) in respect of inheriting their father's property, couldn't inherit her father's property as such. She had no option but to purchase her own father's land, in order to retain the family land. As such, the land owned by her father, eventually became hers, though not by inheritance, but by way of purchase. The couple continued to possess this land and kept on cultivating it. This land is now recorded in the ownership and possession of the petitioner.

3(vi) The couple was blessed with three children namely i) Monika (daughter born in 1986), ii) Sushila (daughter born in 1988) iii) Mr. Vijender Kumar (son born in 1991). All the three children resided in village & P.O. Ulansa, Tehsil Bharmour, Sub Tehsil Holi, District Chamba. All of them took their primary education till 5th standard, in village Ulansa, tribal area. Petitioner and her children were throughout treated, recognized and accepted as belonging to Gadi Hali by the local community. They are ration card holders of village Ulansa. Their voter cards are also of village Ulansa. Their names are entered in Parivar Register of village Ulansa.

3(vii) Village Ulansa is situated at a height of about 8000-8500 feet above sea level. From this height people migrate to low altitude areas during winter. At the relevant time, there were no schools for secondary education in village Ulansa. Petitioner being a JBT teacher, in order to provide, further education to her children post their primary education in Ulasna, got herself transferred to the nearest town i.e., in Government Primary School, Chamba. The couple purchased 3 biswas land in Mohalla Obdi, Tehsil and District Chamba. They never acquired the status of permanent residents of village Obdi. Rather, they remained permanent residents of village Ulansa, had their house & land in village Ulansa, where they lived for education of children. The children got secondary education in Chamba. It has also come on record that one of the daughter of the petitioner namely Sushila also did her M.C.A. from Punjab University. Smt. Monika has married a person belonging to Scheduled Caste. It has been asserted by petitioner that her children could not get benefit of reservations & concessions available to Scheduled Tribes under the Constitution of India and faced hardship in respect of admissions & recruitments.

4. Application for issuance of Scheduled Tribe certificate and the inquiry thereupon:-

4(i) The children of the petitioner applied for issuance of Scheduled Tribes certificate, by moving an application dated 01.09.2011, before the learned Collector, District Chamba.

4(ii) On this application, inquiry was entrusted to the Naib Tehsildar, Sub Tehsil Holi, District Chamba, (Revenue Officers). During inquiry following documents were collected by the Inquiry Officers:-

a) Certificate issued on 25.01.2012, by Gram Panchayat, Mangla, to the effect that Smt. Sreshta Devi, and her off-springs were not recorded either in the Pariwar Register or in the Ration Card Register, of village Mangla.

b) Certificate dated 25.10.2013, issued by Gram Panchayat Mangla, certifying that Shri Madan Kumar, was not permanent resident of Village Mangla. It was also certified therein that on account of his marrying a tribal lady in October, 1985, he had been ostracized by his family members and therefore, neither Shri Madan Kumar nor his wife and children reside in Village Mangla.

c) Certificate dated 26.3.2012, issued by Municipal Councillor, Sultanpur Chamba to the effect that the couple resided in village Obdi Post Office Sultanpur, District Chamba, for the higher education of their children. It is also certified therein that the petitioner and her children are permanent residents of Village Ulansa, Tehsil Bharmour, District Chamba. By virtue of petitioner being in Government job and on account of her posting in Chamba, she resided in Mohalla Obdi, Post Office Sultanpur, Chamba, H.P., but she is not permanent resident of Mohalla Obdi. Document is also to the effect that only Shri Madan Kumar, was recorded as ration card holder of Village Obdi, Post Office Sultanpur, Chamba, H.P., and none else.

d) Jamabandis to the effect that Smt. Sreshta Devi, is owner in possession of 05-12-03 bighas of land in Mauza Ulansa, Pargana Bharmour, Sub Tehsil Holi, District Chamba are on record.

e) Gram Panchayat Ulansa, vide resolution dated 30.8.2011 had certified that petitioner is permanent resident of village Ulansa, Tehsil Bharmaour and she & her children are accepted as Scheduled Tribe by the local community.

f) Significantly, not just Gram Panchayat, Ulansa, but the larger body i.e. Gram Sabha, Ulansa, had also passed resolution on 01.04.2012, to the effect that :-

'Sreshta Devi w/o Madan Lal, is permanent resident of Gram Panchayat, Ulansa, whose family is entered at Serial No. 84 of the Pariwar Register with following particulars of the family:-

I) Sreshta Devi, w/o Madan Lal, caste Gaddi Hali.

2) Monika, d/o Madan Lal, caste Gaddi Hali.

3) Sushila, d/o Madan Lal, caste Gaddi Hali.

4) Vijender s/o Madan Lal, caste Gaddi Hali.

It has been resolved by Gram Sabha that the above family belongs to Gaddi Hali. Gaddi Hali Community, accepts this family as such. Families of Vishu Ram and Kalu Ram, also accept this family as such. The resolution is unanimously passed by Gram Sabha.'

Thus, the Local Gaddi Hali, Tribal Community had accepted the off-springs of Smt. Sreshta Devi, as belonging to their own community.

g) Petitioner had been issued Scheduled Tribe certificate. Her pedigree table was made available to the Inquiry Officer. Documents to the effect that the names of petitioner and her children were recorded in 'Pariwar Register' of village Ulansa, had ration cards only in village Ulansa, had voting rights only in village Ulansa, were made available to the Inquiry Officer.

5. Inquiry report and order passed thereupon:-

5(a). The statements of the petitioner, her husband were recorded by the concerned authorities. On the basis of inquiry, so conducted and the documents placed before him, the Naib Tehsildar submitted his report to the Sub Divisional Officer (Civil), Tehsil Bharmour, District Chamba on 29.10.2014. Relevant portion of this report is reproduced hereinafter:-

Above letter clearly indicates the finding recorded by the Sub-Division Officer (Civil) to the effect that the children of the petitioner had suffered socially, economically, educationally. He has also recorded the fact that all the three children of Smt. Sreshta Devi studied in village Ulansa till their primary classes, their names are recorded in Gram Panchayat, Ulansa, and that they have not been accepted by their paternal family. It has been noticed by the Collector that their maternal family and the entire tribal society of Gadi Halihas completely accepted them and have passed resolutions to this effect. However, the Collector expressed his doubts regarding his powers to issue Scheduled Tribes certificates in such like cases and perhaps for that reason, he did not take the proceedings to the logical conclusion and instead sought guidance from higher authority in this regard.

5(c). The file, thereafter remained in State Revenue Department/Personnel Department. Two relevant notings in the file are apt for reproduction:-

> -52"Ns.41-51 Examined. The A.D. has sought clarification in the 03.10.2008 by the State Government which is relating to status of the offsprings of the couple where one of the spouses is a member of a Scheduled Tribe.
> It is clarified that the instructions issued by the Government of India on 03.10.2008 were circulated by State Government vide Department of Personnel's letter No. PER(AP)-C-F(10)-4/2005, dated 18.11.2008 to all Deputy Commissioners in Himachal Pradesh for compliance. The A.D., therefore, may decide the instant case in accordance with the instructions dated 18.11.2008 and in case further clarification is required, matter may be referred to the Tribal Development Department which has constituted a Scrutiny Committee for issuance and verification of Scheduled tribe Certificates vide their notification No. TBD (F)-4-5/ 2002-II dated 13th January, 2009."

Subsequently, the Tribal Department at noting No. 58-59, refused to go into the question on the ground that that the matter pertains to grant of Scheduled Tribes certificate to the children, born to a couple, having solemnized an inter caste marriage and further advised the Personnel Department to take action as per Note No. 52.

5(d). Tribal Development Department, having refused to deal with the question of issuance of such Scheduled Tribes certificates, the matter therefore, again went to the Personnel Department. The Personnel Department, vide letter dated 05.07.2014, directed the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Bharmaour, to decide the case in accordance with the instructions issued by Government of India on 03.10.2008, circulated by the State Government vide Department of Personnel letter dated 18.11.2008.

5(e) Pursuant to such direction, the Sub Divisional Officer (Civil) Bharmour, got the inquiries conducted again and passed an order on 22.08.2015, rejecting the prayer for grant of Scheduled Tribes certificates in favour of children of the petitioner. A review of this order was sought by the petitioner & her children, vide application dated 13.11.2015. This was also turned down on 04.02.2016. Petitioner preferred CWP No. 294 of 2016, which also came to be dismissed vide impugned judgment dated 06.12.2016. Hence, present appeal.

6. Order refusing the Scheduled Tribe certificate:-

6(a). In our considered view, learned Collector, in rejecting the prayer for grant of Scheduled Tribes certificate has traveled beyond the power and jurisdiction vested in him. What has primarily weighed with him and also with the learned Single Judge is the fact that children had their education post 5th class outside village Ulansa, therefore, they cannot be said to have suffered socially, economically and educationally. The collector has even gone beyond the domain of the instructions, issued in this regard by the Government, from time to time. The instructions dated 03.10.2008, circulated vide letter dated 18.11.2008, relied upon by the collector, are to the following effect:-

> "I am directed to say that a set of legal views on the caste status of such offsprings where one spouse is a not scheduled tribe was already brought out, vide the Ministry of Home Affairs letter No. 39/37/73 SCTI, dated 4th March, 1975 ad 1st May, 1977 (Copy enclosed for ready reference). The matter has, however been further examined in view of a recent judgment of Supreme Court involving the offspring of a couple where the mother belonged to a Scheduled Tribe and the father was Non-Scheduled Tribe (belonging to forward community) in the case of titled Anjan Kumar versus Union of India reported in (2006) 3 SCC 25 wherein the Supreme Court has, been discussing earlier decisions of the court on this issue said that in view of the catena of decisions of the Supreme Court, the questions raised are not more res-integra. The court has further stated that in condition precedent for granting tribe certificate being that one must suffer disabilities, wherefrom one belong. The offshoots of the wedlock of a tribal woman married to a non-tribal husband. Forward class Kayashta in the present case claim Scheduled Tribe Status. The reason being such offshoot was brought in the atmosphere of Forward Class and he is not subjected to any disability.(emphasis supplied).
> Furthermore, the Supreme Court has stated that the Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe certificate is not a bounty to be disturbed. To, sustain the claim one must show that he/she suffered disabilities-socially, economically and educationally cumulatively. The authority concerned, before whom such claim is made,is duly bound satisfy itself that the applicant suffered disabilities socially, economically and educationally before such certificate is issued, (para-15)
>
> It is significant to note that Supreme Court in the said case has also remarked that woman (if she belongs to a Forward Class) cannot claim the status of tribal unless she has been accepted by the community as one of them….. (Para-6) and that by no stretch of imagination, a casual visit to the relative in other village would provide the status of a permanent resident of the village or acceptance by the village community as a member of the tribal community. (para-7)
>
> In view of the above, the caste certificate issuing authority may ensure that each individual case is examined in the light of existing fact and circumstance of such cases, keeping in mind the instructions of MHA cited above and the Supreme Court's observation in the case referred above. A copy of the Supreme Court decision in the said case of Sh. Anajan Kumar versus Union of India and others is enclosed for ready reference.
> It is requested that these instructions may be circulated among all the authorities empowered to issues Scheduled Tribe Certificates."

6(b) Instructions dated 1975 & 1977 referred in 2008 instructions have not been appreciated by Collector, in the letter and spirit. These being relevant, are reproduced hereinafter:-

"Annexure 20.49

Copy of H.P. Govt. Deptt., of Personnel letter No. PER. (AP-II)- f(4)-7/75, dated 6.7.1977 addressed to all the Secretaries/Joint Secretaries/Deputy Secretaries/Under Secretaries to the Government of Himachal Pradesh and all Heads of Deptts., and copy endorsed to all Deputy Commissioners etc.etc.

Subject:-Caste status of the offsprings of inter- caste married couples.

I am directed to forward herewith a copy of the Government of India, Ministry of Home Affairs letter No. 39/-37/73-SCT. I dated the 21st May, 1977 alongwith its enclosures for information and guidance.

…Enclosure to Annexure 20.49

Copy of Govt. of India, Ministry of Home Affairs letter No. 39/37/73-SCT. I dated 21st May, 1977 addressed to all the Chief Secretaries of all State Governments & Union Territory Administrations and copy endorsed to others.

Subject:-Caste status of the offsprings of inter-caste married couples.

I am directed to say that enquiries about the caste status of the offsprings of the inter caste married couples; have been sought from this Ministry by various State Governments/Union Territory Administrations, from time to time. Accordingly, this question has been receiving the attention of this Ministry for quite some time. A set of legal views on the caste status of such offsprings was already brought out vide this Ministry's letter of even number dated the 4th March 1975. The matter has, however, been further examined and the comprehensive legal position about the status of the offsprings born to couples where one or both of the spouses is/are member(s) of Scheduled Castes and/or Scheduled Tribes, is given in the enclosed Annexure (A to D).

2. It is requested that these instructions may be circulated among all the authorities empowered to issue Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribes certificates.

3. Hindi version will follow.

Annexure "A"

LEGAL VIEWS ON THE STATUS OF THE OFFSPRINGS OF A COUPLE WHERE ONE OF THE SPOUSES IS A MEMBER OF A SCHEDULED CASTE.

Annexure "B"

LEGAL VIEWS ON THE STATUS OF THE OFFSPRINGS OF A COUPLE WHERE ONE OF THE SPOUSES IS A MEMBER OF A SCHEDULED TRIBE.

The question has arisen whether the offspring born out of wedlock between a couple one of whom is a member of Scheduled Tribe and other is not, should be treated as a Scheduled Tribe or not.

2. It may be stated at the outset the unlike members of Scheduled Castes the members of Scheduled Tribes continue as such even after their conversion to other religion. This is because while Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950 provides in Clause 3 that only a member of Hindu or Sikh religion shall be deemed to be a member of Scheduled Castes, the Constitution (Scheduled Tribes) Order, 1950 does not provide any such condition. This view has been upheld by the Supreme Court in the case reported in AIR 1964 S.C. at p.201.

3. It may be stated that unlike members of Scheduled Castes members of Scheduled Tribe remain in homogeneous groups and quite distinct from any other group of Scheduled Tribes. Each tribe lives in a compact group under the care and supervision of the elders of the Society whose word is obeyed in all social matters. A member committing breach of any prescribed conduct is liable to be excommunicated. The social custom has a greater binding force in their day to day life.

4. In the case of marriage between a tribal with a non-tribal the main factor for consideration is whether the couple were accepted by the triable society to which the tribal spouse belongs. If he or she as the case may be accepted by the society then their children shall be deemed to be Scheduled Tribes. But this situation can normally happen when the husband is a member of the Scheduled Tribes. However, a circumstance may be there when a Scheduled Tribe woman may have children from marriage with a non-Scheduled Tribe man. In that event the children may be treated as Scheduled Tribes only if the members of the Scheduled Tribe community accept them and treat them as members of their own community. This view has been held by the Assam High Court in Wilsom Read V.C.S. Booth, reported in AIR 1958 at p.128 where it has been held.

> "The test which will determine the membership of the individual will not be the purity of blood, but his own conduct in following the customs and the way of life of the tribe, the way in which he has been treated by the community and the practice amongst the tribal people in the matter of dealing with persons whose mother was a khasi and father was a European".

Similarly, in the case of Muthuswamy Mudaliar v.s Masilaman Mudaliar, reported in ILR 33, Madras 342, the court held:

> "It is not uncommon process for a class of tribe outside the pale of caste to another pale and if other communities recognized their claim, they are treated as of that class of caste."

Similary, in V.V. Giri V.D. Dora, reported in AIR 1959 S.C. 1318 (1327) the Court held:

> "The case-status of a person in the context would necessarily have to be determined in the light of the recognition received by him from the members of the caste into which he seeks an entry.
> 5. As mentioned above, it is the recognition and acceptance by the society of the children born out of a marriage between a member of Scheduled Tribes with an outsider, which is the main determining factor irrespective of whether the Tribe is matriarchal or patriarchal. The final result will always depend on whether the child was accepted as a member of the Scheduled Tribes or not.
> 6. The general position of law has been stated above. However, each individual case will have to be examined in the light of existing facts and circumstances in such cases.

6(c). Thus, the above instructions, which are still in force amply make it clear that main factor for grant of Scheduled Tribes certificate to the off-springs, of a couple, where one of the spouses is member of the Scheduled Tribe, is the acceptance of such offsprings by the tribal society, as belonging to their community. In case the children are accepted by the society then they shall be deemed to be Scheduled Tribes. Para-5 categorically says that final result will always depend on whether the child was accepted as member of the Scheduled Tribes or not. The other factors being whether the children had advantageous start in life or suffered socially, economically and educationally.

6(d) Looking into the order passed by Sub-Divisional Officer (Civil) Bharmour, dated 22.8.2015, one cannot help, but notice that the Scheduled Tribe certificate to the off-springs of the petitioner has been denied, on the basis of mere conjectures, assumptions and presumptions. The Collector has not accorded due credence to the undisputed facts that petitioner and her children do not reside at native village of Sh. Madan Kumar (husband of petitioner). They are permanent residents of village Ulansa, have their names recorded in Pariwar Register of village Ulansa, have voter cards in village Ulansa, ration cards in village Ulansa. Petitioner and her children do not have any such certificate with respect to village Obdi, Post Office Sultanpur, where only the name of their father Sh. Madan Kumar, is entered. Learned Collector has not appropriately considered the fact that Gram Sabha Ulansa, had passed resolutions, to the effect that the local community has always accepted & regarded their children as belonging to the Gaddi Hali community. The community of their father did not accept them as their own.

6(e) Learned Collector has not at all effectively dealt with the instructions, while rejecting the claim of the children, for the issuance of Scheduled Tribes certificate. He has not disputed the factual position or the certificates, which were collected, during the inquiry, conducted by the Revenue Officer. His view in the impugned order is contrary to his own view as reflected in his communication dated 14.11.2014. He has refused to issue Scheduled Tribe certificate to the children of petitioner, primarily on the ground that they had resided at Mohalla Obdi, Chamba town, Tehsil and District Chamba and took higher education there and one of the daughters of the petitioner did M.C.A. from Punjab University, therefore, they cannot be said to be permanent resident of village Ulansa and therefore cannot be said to have suffered in any manner. There reasons have also weighed with the learned Single Judge, in dismissing the CWP No. 294 of 2016, decided on 06.12.2016.

7. In our considered opinion, in view of law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, coupled with the factual position of the instant case, which has not been disputed, considering that Gram Sabha Ulansa, passed resolutions, wherein the petitioner and her children were acknowledged and accepted as belonging to Gadi HaliTribal Community, in view of the fact that the off-springs were certified as permanent residents of village Ulasna, in view of fact that children were raised as Gaddi Hali and were not accepted by their father's community, the impugned order cannot be allowed to sustain. If a tribal person for some reason, be it on account of work or on account of education, etc. leaves his permanent residence, for some other place, it cannot be said that he will loose his status of being permanent resident of his original village. It is profitable to reproduce the instructions issued by the Government of Himachal Pradesh, Department of Personnel hereinafter as under:-

> "Enclosure to Annexure 20.47, Copy of Govt. of India, Mini*stry of Home Affairs letter No. B.C. 12025/2/76 -SCT I dated 22.3.1977.*
> Subject:- Issue of Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe Certificates-Clarification regarding.
> I am directed to say that many instances have come to the notice of this Ministry wherein certificates of belonging to a particular Scheduled

Caste/Scheduled Tribe have not been issued strictly in accordance with the principles governing the issue of such certificates. This is presumably due to inadquate appreciation of the legal position regarding the concept of the term "residence' on the part of the authorities empowered to issue such certificates.

As required under articles 341 and 342 of the Constitution, the President has, with respect to every State and Union Territory and where it is State after consultation with the Governor of the concerned State, issued orders notifying various castes and tribes as Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes in relation to that State or Union territory from time to time. The inter-State area restrictions have been deliberately imposed so that the people belonging to the specific Community residing in a specific area, which has been assessed to qualify for the Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe status, only benefit from the facilities provided for them. Since the people belonging to the same caste but living in different States/Union territories may not necessarily suffer from the same disabilities, it is possible that two person belonging to the same caste but residing in different States/Union territories may not both be treated to belong to Scheduled Castes/Tribes or vice-versa. Thus, the residence of particular person in a particular locality assumes a special significance. This residence has not to be understood in the literal or ordinary sense of the word. On the other hand it connotes the permanent residence of a person on the date of the notification of the Presidential Order Scheduling his caste/tribe in relation to that locality. Thus, a person who is temporarily away from his permanent place of abode at the time of the notification of the Presidential order applicable in his case, say for example, to earn a living or seek education, etc., can also be regarded as a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribes, as the case may be, if his caste/tribe has been specified in that order in relation to his State/U.T. But he cannot be treated as such in relation to the place of his temporary residence notwithstanding the fact that the name of his caste/tribe has been scheduled in respect of that area in any Presidential Order.

8. Competence to issue certificate and procedure.

8(a) A very relevant aspect also needs to be addressed to, in respect of competence to issue Scheduled Tribe certificate & the procedure required to be followed, in this regard. Chapter-28, of H.P. Land Records Manual, which deals in this regard:-

"28.1. The Sub-Divisional Officer (C) and Tehsildar Mohal shall be the competent authorities to issue SC/ST, Backward class and Bonafide Himachali certificates within their respective jurisdictions.

28.4. The applicant shall submit the application in Form-A. The Revenue Officer who receives an application for issuing SC/ST certificate shall enter the application in the register to be maintained by him in Form-R-I. He shall forward the application to the patwari Mohal or Consolidation or Settlement if the estate is under consolidation/settlement operations, for inquiry and report.

28.5. The patwari shall report on the application form regarding his caste/tribe from the revenue records like Shajra Nasab, Mutation register, jamabandi etc. If the applicant is a tenure holder in the estate. He shall also append a copy of the relevant revenue record in support of the caste/tribe with the application. If the applicant does not own or possess any land in the estate, he shall make an inquiry into the matter from the reliable and respectable residents of the estate in which the applicant resides regarding his caste/tribe as the case may be. He will submit his inquiry report alongwith application to the competent Revenue Officer for further necessary action within a week.

28.6. The Competent Revenue Officer to issue certificate shall satisfy himself about the correctness of the inquiry and report of the patwari. He may make further inquiry as he deems necessary in the matter before issuing the certificate.

After satisfying himself he will issue the certificate to the applicant in Form-B in pursuance of the Act referred to above. He shall obtain the signature of the applicant after issuing the certificate in relevant column of the Register." (emphasis supplied)

8(b) In respect of procedure to be followed in such inquiry, detailed guidelines have been issued by Hon'ble Apex Court in case Kumari Madhuri Patil and another Vs. Addl. Commissioner, Tribal Development and others, (1994) 6 Supreme Court Cases 241, held as under:-

> 13. The admission wrongly gained or appointment wrongly obtained on the basis of false social status certificate necessarily has the effect of depriving the genuine Scheduled Castes or Scheduled Tribes or OBC candidates as enjoined in the Constitution of the benefits conferred on them by the Constitution. The genuine candidates are also denied admission to educational institutions or appointments to office or posts under a State for want of social status certificate. The ineligible or spurious persons who falsely gained entry resort to dilatory tactics and create hurdles in completion of the inquiries by the Scrutiny Committee. It is true that the applications for admission to educational institutions are generally made by a parent, since on that date many a time the student may be a minor. It is the parent or the guardian who may play fraud claiming false status certificate. It is, therefore, necessary that the certificates issued are scrutinised at the earliest and with utmost expedition and promptitude. For that purpose, it is necessary to streamline the procedure for the issuance of social status certificates, their scrutiny and their approval, which may be the following:
> 1. The application for grant of social status certificate shall be made to the Revenue Sub-Divisional Officer and Deputy Collector or Deputy Commissioner and the certificate shall be issued by such officer rather than at the Officer, Taluk or Mandal level.
>
> 2. The parent, guardian or the candidate, as the case may be, shall file an affidavit duly sworn and attested by a competent gazetted officer or non-gazetted officer with particulars of castes and sub-castes, tribe, tribal community, parts or groups of tribes or tribal communities, the place from which he originally hails from and other particulars as may be prescribed by the Directorate concerned.
> 3. Application for verification of the caste certificate by the Scrutiny Committee shall be filed at least six months in advance before seeking admission into educational institution or an appointment to a post.
> 4. All the State Governments shall constitute a Committee of three officers, namely, (1) an Additional or Joint Secretary or any officer higher in rank of the Director of the department concerned, (11) the Director, Social Welfare/Tribal Welfare/Backward Class Welfare, as the case may be, and (III) in the case of Scheduled Castes another officer who has intimate knowledge in the verification and issuance of the social status certificates. In the case of the Scheduled Tribes, the Research Officer who has intimate knowledge in identifying the tribes, tribal communities, parts of or groups of tribes or tribal communities.

5. Each Directorate should constitute a vigilance cell consisting of Senior Deputy Superintendent of Police in over-all charge and such number of Police Inspectors to investigate into the social status claims. The Inspector would go to the local place of residence and original place from which the candidate hails and usually resides or in case of migration to the town or city, the place from which he originally hailed from. The vigilance officer should personally verify and collect all the facts of the social status claimed by the candidate or the parent or guardian, as the case may be. He should also examine the school records, birth registration, if any. He should also examine the parent, guardian or the candidate in relation to their caste etc. or such other persons who have knowledge of the social status of the candidate and then submit a report to the Directorate together with all particulars as envisaged in the pro forma, in particular, of the Scheduled Tribes relating to their peculiar anthropological and ethnological traits, deity, rituals, customs, mode of marriage, death ceremonies, method of burial of dead bodies etc. by the castes or tribes or tribal communities concerned etc.

6. The Director concerned, on receipt of the report from the vigilance officer if he found the claim for social status to be "not genuine" or 'doubtful' or spurious or falsely or wrongly claimed, the Director concerned should issue show-cause notice supplying a copy of the report of the vigilance officer to the candidate by a registered post with acknowledgement due or through the head of the educational institution concerned in which the candidate is studying or employed. The notice should indicate that the representation or reply, if any, would be made within two weeks from the date of the receipt of the notice and in no case on request not more than 30 days from the date of the receipt of the notice. In case, the candidate seeks for an opportunity of hearing and claims an inquiry to be made in that behalf, the Director on receipt of such representation/reply shall convene the committee and the Joint/Additional Secretary as Chairperson who shall give reasonable opportunity to the candidate/parent/guardian to adduce all evidence in support of their claim. A public notice by beat of drum or any other convenient mode may be published in the village or locality and if any person or association opposes such a claim, an opportunity to adduce evidence may be given to him/it. After giving such opportunity either in person or through counsel, the Committee may make such inquiry as it deems expedient and consider the claims vis-a-vis the objections raised by the candidate or opponent and pass an appropriate order with brief reasons in support thereof.

7. In case the report is in favour of the candidate and found to be genuine and true, no further action need be taken except where the report or the particulars given are procured or found to be false or fraudulently obtained and in the latter event the same procedure as is envisaged in para 6 be followed.

8. Notice contemplated in para 6 should be issued to the parents/guardian also in case candidate is minor to appear before the Committee with all evidence in his or their support of the claim for the social status certificates.

9. The inquiry should be completed as expeditiously as possible preferably by day-to-day proceedings within such period not exceeding two months. If after inquiry, the Caste Scrutiny Committee finds the claim to be false or spurious, they should pass an order cancelling the certificate issued and confiscate the same. It should communicate within one month from the date of the conclusion of the proceedings the result of enquiry to the parent/guardian and the applicant.

10. In case of any delay in finalising the proceedings, and in the meanwhile the last date for admission into an educational institution or appointment to an officer post, is getting expired, the candidate be admitted by the Principal or such other authority competent in that behalf or appointed on the basis of the social status certificate already issued or an affidavit duly sworn by the parent/guardian/candidate before the competent officer or non-official and such admission or appointment should be only provisional, subject to the result of the inquiry by the Scrutiny Committee.

11. The order passed by the Committee shall be final and conclusive only subject to the proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution.

12. No suit or other proceedings before any other authority should lie.

13. The High Court would dispose of these cases as expeditiously as possible within a period of three months. In case, as per its procedure, the writ petition/miscellaneous petition/matter is disposed of by a Single Judge, then no further appeal would lie against that order to the Division Bench but subject to special leave under Article 136.

14. In case, the certificate obtained or social status claimed is found to be false, the parent/guardian/the candidate should be prosecuted for making false claim. If the prosecution ends in a conviction and sentence of the accused, it could be regarded as an offence involving moral turpitude, disqualification for elective posts or offices under the State or the Union or elections to any local body, legislature or Parliament.

15. As soon as the finding is recorded by the Scrutiny Committee holding that the certificate obtained was false, on its cancellation and confiscation simultaneously, it should be communicated to the educational institution concerned or the appointing authority by registered post with acknowledgement due with a request to cancel the admission or the appointment. The Principal etc. of the educational institution responsible for making the admission or the appointing authority, should cancel the admission/appointment without any further notice to the candidate and debar the candidate from further study or continue in office in a post.

Thus, SC/ST certificates are to be issued by Sub Divisional Magistrate, on the basis of reports submitted by the Revenue Officer. It is thereafter, for the Scrutiny Committee, to examine the veracity, legality and validity of such certificates.

This procedure has admittedly not been followed in the instant case. Certificate has been denied by learned Collector on the basis of hypothesis, assumptions, presumptions & conjectures. Resultantly, matter was never examined by the Scrutiny Committee.

9. In view of the aforesaid discussions, the present appeal is allowed. The orders dated 22.8.2015 and 04.02.2016, passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer (Civil) Bharmour, District Chamba, H.P., are quashed & set aside. The judgment of learned Single Judge, dated 06.12.2016, passed in CWP No. 294 of 2016, is also set aside. Matter is remitted back to the Sub Divisional Officer (Civil), Tehsil Bharmour, District Chamba, with a direction to decide the matter of issuance of Scheduled Tribe certificates, to the children of petitioner afresh, keeping in view the observations made in the judgment within 8 weeks, from today. Appeal stands disposed of, so also, pending application(s), if any.

Land Acquisition Act, 1894– Section 34– Taking over of possession of land by Government without acquiring it –Consequences –Possession of land taken by Government in 1985 for construction of road- Notification under Section 4 of Act for its acquisition issued in 2005- Held– On facts, there is no specific evidence of date regarding taking over of possession of land by Govt. for purpose of raising construction of road in 1985- Landowner entitled for additional interest @ 15% of per annum on market value of land towards its utilization by government from January, 1986 till issuance of notification under Section 4 of Act as damages. (Paras 3 & 4)

For the Appellant(s): Mr. Yudhveer Singh Thakur, Dy. A.Gs.
For the Respondent/Cross-objector: Mr. Anand Sharma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Karan Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The State of Himachal Pradesh, is, aggrieved by the award pronounced by the learned Reference Court, upon, reference petition No. 3FTC/4 of 2008, wherethrough, compensation amount, borne in a sum of Rs.4000/- per square meter stood assessed, vis-a-vis, the lands, of, the respondents herein, and, all the statutory benefits, were, also ordered to be added thereon.

2. The landlowners' lands, were validly acquired, rather for construction of Kather Bye Pass road, and, during the pendency of the land reference petition, before the learned reference Court, sale deeds respectively borne, in Ex.PW1/C, to, Ex.PW1/G, and, in Ex.R-1 and Ex. R-2, were tendered into evidence, (i) each comprising hence valid, and, reckonable sale exemplars, and, theirs purveying facilitation, to the learned reference Court, to, on their anvil, hence, adjudge just, fair, and, reasonable compensation, vis-a-vis, the acquired lands. However, the learned reference Court appears, not to assign any merit thereto, rather appears, to, on anvil of an award rendered, on 17.3.2008, upon, Reference Petition No. 9-S/4 of 2006, by the learned District Judge, Solan, (ii) award whereof appertains, to the acquisition of land situated at Basal Patti Kather, District Solan, H.P., and, whereunder market value, of, therein acquired land stood assessed at Rs.4000/- per square meter, and, hence, in tandem therewith, rather , assess compensation, vis-a-vis, the acquired lands hereat. The previous award, borne in Ex.PW1/B, appertains to a notification issued under Section 4, of the Land Acquisition Act, on 4.6.2005, and, the award hereat, was made by the land acquisition Collector, and, subsequently by the Reference Court, in respect, of, a notification, issued on 22.9.2005, (iii) and, when hence there is proximity in respect of issuance, of, the afore respective notification(s), under Section 4, of, the Land Acquisition Act, for, hence bringing therethroughs rather acquisition, of, lands of the landowners, (iv) and, when the purpose of acquisition, is common inter se the notification issued, in respect whereof, Ex.PW1/B was pronounced, and, vis-a-vis, the lands hereat, (v) and, when the learned Deputy Advocate General, has not been, able to bring forth, any potent evidence, personificatory qua placing, of, reliance thereon being misfounded, (vi) given the lands hereat not bearing proximity in location, vis-a-vis, the lands borne in Ex.PW1/B, (vii) and, the notification in respect whereof Ex.PW1/B, stood rendered also not holding proximity, in time, vis-a-vis, the notification issued, for hence bringing therethroughs, to, acquisition, the lands of the landowners hereat, (viii) and, rather when, for the reasons aforestated, when close proximity, in timing occurs inter se the issuance, of, notification, in respect whereof, award borne in Ex.PW1/B stood rendered, vis-a-vis, the issuance, of, the extant notification, thereupon, the reliance placed by the learned reference Court, upon, Ex. PW1/B, is, both meritworthy, and, sagacious.

3. The plea of the cross-objectors, with respect, to taking of possession, of, their land for construction, of the road, in the year 1985, stands averred in the petition, and, is also testified by the petitioner/cross-objector, in his testification. The afore averment is not denied by the respondents. In their reply to the petition, they have admitted qua the possession of the land of the petitioner being taken in the year 1985. Consequently, the plea of the respondent/cross-objector qua taking of possession of land of the petitioner, for construction of the road, in the year 1985, hence is, cogently proven. Admittedly, notification under Section 4 of the Act was published, on 24.9.2005, and, the land acquisition collector or the learned reference court, has not awarded, any rent or damages, for utilization of land of the respondent/cross-objector, since the year 1985 till 24.9.2005. Consequently, damages were required to be determined by the land Acquisition Collector, at the time of announcing, of, award, qua compensation amount.

4. The learned counsel appearing for the respondent/cross objector has placed reliance, upon, the verdicts, pronounced by the Apex Court in a case titled, as Bahuan Singh and others vs. Land Acquisition Collector, and, another reported in (2016)13 SCC 412, wherein, after considering, and, relying upon a judgment passed in cases R.L. jain (d) by LRs v. DDA, reported in (2004)4 SCC 79, Madishetti Bala Ramul v. Land Acquisition Officer, reported in (2007)9 SSC 650, and Tahera Khotoon v. Land Acquisition Officer, (2014) 13 SCC 613, landowners in the similar circumstances were awarded, an additional interest by way of damages, at the rate of 15% per annum, vis-a-vis, the compensation amount, from the taking of actual possession, till the date of issuance, of, notification under Section 4 of the Act.

5. Since, in the instant case, there is no specific date, on record with respect to taking of possession, by the State in the year 1985, consequently, the respondent/cross-objector, is, awarded additional interest @15% per annum, on the market value of land, fixed by reference Court, since, 01.01.1986 till the date of issuance, of, notification under Section 4 of the Act, i. e. 24.9.2005, as damages, for utilization of land, for, construction, of, road.

6. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the State is dismissed, whereas, the cross objections filed by the respondent/cross-objector is allowed, in the afore manner, and, the impugned award is modified to the afore extent. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

For the Appellant: Shri J.S. Guleria and Shri Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.
For the Respondent: Shri S.K. Sood, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur, J.

This appeal has been preferred by State against judgment dated 29.8.2009 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Kinnaur at Rampur, in Sessions Trial No. 07 of 2007 titled State of H.P. vs. Naresh Kumar, whereby respondent Naresh Kumar stands acquitted in case FIR No. 109 of 2006 dated 26.11.2006 registered at Police Station Ani under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, (hereinafter referred to as 'the NDPS Act').

2. We have heard Mr. J.S. Guleria, learned Additional Advocate General as well as Mr. S.K. Sood, learned counsel for the respondent, and have also gone through the record.

3. The prosecution case is that the police party, headed by SI/SHO Daya Sagar (PW7), consisting of HC Tain Singh (PW1),HHC Raj Kumar (PW2) and C. Bhup Singh had left the Police Station, Ani, at about 8.40 AM for patrolling and traffic checking towards Shamshar etc. after recording DDR No. 5 dated26.11.2006 (Ext.PX). This police party, at about 10 AM, while patrolling at Shamshar curve (moad), noticed a person coming from Kandu Gadd towards Ani having a plastic bag in his hand, who, on noticing the police party, became perplexed, which caused suspicion leading to inquiry about his name and address and thereafter search of his bag was conducted after giving him notice under Section 50 of NDPS Act, Ext.PW1/A, whereupon charas weighing 1 Kg. 500 grams was recovered from the bag carried by him, out of which two samples of 25 grams each were taken and thereafter entire bulk and two samples were sealed indifferent packets with seal impression 'K' and were taken in possession vide memo Ext.PW1/C. Entire search and seizure proceedings were witnessed by PW1 Tain Sigh and PW Bhup Singh (not examined). Copy of memo was also supplied to the respondent/accused under his signatures and NCB formExt.PW7/A was filled in, in triplicate, specimen seal impressionExt.PW1/F was also taken on NCB Form and separate piece of cloth. After completing the search and seizure proceedings, rukkaExt.PW6/A was prepared by PW7 Daya Sagar and was sent to the Police Station through PW2 HHC Raj Kumar for registration of FIR, who had handed over it to PW6 MHC Lal Singh, whereupon PW6Lal Singh had registered FIR Ext.PW6/B and handed over the copy thereof along with case file to PW2 Raj Kumar for giving it toPW7 Daya Sagar. PW7 Investigating Officer had recorded the statements of witnesses and prepared the site plan Ext.PW7/Band had arrested the respondent giving information about his arrest to his brother Karamvir as per memo Ext.PW1/D, as desired by the respondent/accused.

4. On arrival at the Police Station, PW7 Vidya Sagar had deposited the case property along with documents in the Malkhana through PW6 MHC Lal Singh, who had made entries in Malkhana Register in this regard, copy of extract whereof isExt.PW6/C.

5. On 27.11.2006, PW7 Daya Sagar had prepared the special report Ext.PW3/A and the same was delivered to SDPO Ani through PW4 HHC Santosh Kumar at 10.15 AM on the same day. PW3 Om Parkash, the then Reader to SDPO Ani, after receiving the said special report, had entered the same in his register at Sr. No. 1625.

6. On 28.11.2006 PW6 Lal Singh through PW5 HHC Neel Chand had sent one sample of recovered contraband to Central Forensic Science Laboratory, Chandigarh for chemical analysis vide RC No. 73 of 2006 Ext.PW6/D. However, the sample was not accepted in the Laboratory and was returned back for completing certain formalities and after removing the objections, the sample of recovered contraband was again taken to CFSL Chandigarh on4.12.2006. Report Ext. PC was received from CFSL Chandigarh, wherein it was found that it was a sample of charas. On completion of investigation, challan was presented in the Court.

7. On the basis of record, placed before it, the trial Court, on finding prima facie complicity of respondent/accused in the commission of offence, framed the charge under Section 20of NDPS Act against the respondent wherein the respondent had pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

8. Prosecution has examined seven witnesses and has produced the documentary evidence to establish its case, whereas after recording statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C, respondent had chosen to examine HC Anup Kumar, as DW1. On conclusion of trial, the trial Court has acquitted the respondent/accused, hence the State is in appeal.

9. As per prosecution story, the place of apprehending the respondent and recovering the contraband from his possession, is secluded one and as at that time no independent witness was available on the spot, therefore, PW1 Tain Singh and PW Bhup Singh were associated as the witnesses to the search and seizure by the Investigating Officer. Prosecution has examined Investigating Officer SI/SHO Daya Sagar (PW7), HC Tain Singh (PW1) and HHC Raj Kumar (PW2) as spot witnesses to the recovery of contraband, whereas C. Bhup Singh was given up by learned Public Prosecutor being a witness of the same sequence. PW6 has performed the duty of MHC for registering of FIR, after receiving Ruka, accepting the deposit of case property in Malkhana by entering the same in Register. PW3 Om Parkash,PW4 HHC Santosh and PW5 Neel Chand have performed their duties respectively as Reader to SDPO(PW3), carrier of special report to SDPO Ani (PW4) and carrier of the sample to CFSL Chandigarh twice (PW5). PW1, PW2 and PW7 in their depositions in Court have substantially corroborated the prosecution case.

10. PW7 Daya Sagar, Investigating Officer, in his deposition in Court, has corroborated the prosecution case. Two witnesses PW1 Tain Singh and PW2 Raj Kumar, by and large, have corroborated the prosecution story except both of them have added that personal search of accused was conducted and nothing incriminatory was found from his personal search, whereas prosecution case ,as placed on record in notice U/s 50 of NDPS Act, (Ext.PW1/A), seizure memo (Ext.PW1/C), Rukka(Ext.PW6/A) and FIR (Ext.PW6/B) as well as in deposition of PW7Investigating Officer is that polythene bag being carried by the respondent was only searched. Not only in above referred documents, prepared on 26.11.2006, but in special report dated27.11.2006 (Ext.PW3/A) also, it is mentioned that after obtaining oral as well as written consent of respondent, Jamatalashi of his polythene bag was carried out. No doubt, Jamatalashi means personal search, but here in the present case, everywhere on the documents, it is categorically mentioned that Jamatalashi of bag was undertaken. It appears that poor Investigating Officer was not even having the knowledge of meaning of word 'Jamatalashi' so used for conducting the search of polythene bag. He has used the words 'Jamatalashi of polythene bag was undertaken'. The fact that no personal search of respondent was carried out is also substantiated from the facts that neither there is any personal search memo available on record, nor has been referred in any of the documents prepared during search and seizure proceedings undertaken during search of bag being carried by the respondent in his hand.

11. Incident is of 26.11.2006, whereas PW1 and PW2have been examined in Court on 15th February, 2008. It appears that they have tried to become more wise by adding the procedural fact on record for the fact that notice under Section50 of NDPS Act was given to accused and his written consent for his personal search to the police was also undertaken thereon. The fact remains that neither as per documents on record nor as per statement of Investigating Officer, PW7, it can be construed that personal search of respondent was ever conducted at the time of recovery of contraband. Therefore, keeping in view the manner in which contraband was recovered from the possession of respondent, provisions of Section 50 of NDPS Act are not applicable. As there was no necessity to issue the notice under Section 50 of NDPS Act, any defect in the said notice/consent memo (Ext.PW1/A) hardly makes any difference. The trial Court in its reasons for rejecting the claim of prosecution has also observed that accused was apprised his right to have searched before the Gazetted Officer, Magistrate or the Police and as third option to search before the police, other than two options of Gazetted Officer or Magistrate, was observed to have been given to respondent, notice under Section 50 of NDPS Act was found defective, resultantly vitiating the entire search and seizure procedure. As observed supra, provision of Section 50 of NDPS Act was not applicable in the present case, even if it is considered applicable, as per record, fact referred by the trial Court that third option of search by police has been extended or communicated to the respondent has been found false as evident from consent memo Ext.PW1/A and seizure memoExt.PW1/C. Anyhow, in given facts and circumstances of present case, Section 50 of NDPS Act is not applicable as no personal search of accused has been claimed to have been conducted.

12. It is true that keeping in view the stringent punishment for commission of offence under the NDPS Act and also issue of personal liberty of accused, Legislature as well as the Courts have provided and evolved safeguards to protect the personal liberty by insisting for joining of independent witnesses at the time of carrying out search and seizure procedure during apprehension of transportation/recovery of contraband. However, it may not be possible, in all times, to associate and join independent witnesses on account of non-availability for various reasons. Therefore, considering that police/official witnesses are also like other witnesses, where the deposition of official/police witnesses have been found cogent, reliable, trustworthy and convincing, the Courts have not hesitated from punishing the culprits even in absence of independent witness. However, where the integrity and veracity of official/police witnesses are doubtful, the Courts have always given its benefit to accused on the basis of cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that where there is doubt then benefit is to be extended to the accused.

13. In the present case, there is no major infirmity or discrepancy or contradiction in the depositions of official witnesses in Court with respect to the prosecution case as put forth in the challan except the one, as referred supra. It has also come on record that during cross examination of witnesses,PW1 Tain Singh has explained that no private witness was available and therefore, no such witness could be associated.PW2 Raj Kumar has also stated like this. Similarly, PW7Investigating Officer, in his cross examination, though has admitted that passage was thoroughfare but has explained that spot of recovery was secluded place and therefore, any witness from locality could not be associated. To these three witnesses, no suggestion has been put about availability of witnesses on the spot or possibility of presence of any independent witness at some distance or with regard to any habitation nearby the place where contraband was recovered from the accused/respondent. Therefore, non-joining of independent witnesses, as explained by official witnesses, has not been questioned by and on behalf of the respondent.

14. In his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C, the respondent has taken the ground that on 25.11.2006 at about8.30 AM, he had reached Luhri by a mini bus and at that time HC Tain Singh had misbehaved with him and had taken him to the Police Post and had also taken Rs.42,000/- from his pocket where after, at about 11.30 AM, police from the Police Station, Ani had come and taken him to Ani and thereafter a false case was foisted upon him. Strangely enough, no such question/suggestion was ever put to PW1 HC Tain Singh during his cross examination or PW2 Raj Kumar who were examined in February, 2008. However, the suggestion has been put to PW7,who was examined in April, 2008, that HC Tain Singh had hot exchange with the accused at Luhari when he was going in bus from Karsu to Rampur leading to foisting of case upon respondent. There was no suggestion to PW1 and PW2 regarding this altercation in February, 2008, whereas allegations of altercation with HC Tain Singh were alleged for the first time in April, 2008 in cross examination of PW7 and in May, 2008, instatement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., grabing of Rs.42,000/- from the pocket of accused was also added. Had it been the true, the respondent would have made a complaint to the appropriate authority at the initial stage and respondent did not raise any such issue neither immediately after his arrest or foisting of false case upon him, nor also during the cross examination of relevant material witnesses. Therefore, this defence appears to have beena result of an afterthought.

15. Learned counsel for the respondent, by referring documents Ext.PW1/A, Ext.PW1/B, and Ext.PW1/D, has submitted that there are cutting, over-writing and discrepancies over these documents with reference to name of witness Bhup Singh which indicates that these documents have not been prepared on the spot and also that C. Bhup Singh was not present on the spot and these documents have been prepared and signed at the Police Station. In the memo of consent Ext.PW1/A, word “Aarkshi”(constable) has been written by doing over writing on the name of Raj Kumar. It is a fact that C. Raj Kumar was also present on the spot and Bhup Singh and Tain Singh were also present and I.O. had associated Tain Singh and Bhup Singh as witnesses to the search and seizure procedure, whereas through Raj Kumar the Ruka was sent to the Police Station. Therefore, writing the name of Raj Kumar instead of Bhup Singh during the process of preparing consent memo and later on correcting it as Bhup Singh is not fatal to the prosecution case.

16. Similarly, in Ext.PW1/B C. Bhup Singh has been mentioned as HC Bhup Singh and in Ext.PW1/D, he has been mentioned as C. Bhup Ram. In these three documents, C. Bhup Singh has signed as Bhup Singh and his signatures in these documents have neither been disputed nor are different in nature. On these three documents, the signatures of C. Bhup Singh are identical. Therefore, we find that cuttings/over-writing so pointed out by learned counsel for the respondent are not material in nature. Perusal of document Ext.PW1/D clearly indicates that this document has been prepared in natural course as after signatures of respondent, a little space is left for mentioning the name of witness and same has been mentioned in that small place. Had these documents been prepared, as alleged by learned counsel for the respondent, these natural cuttings and adjustments would not have been there in these documents.

17. Prosecution has not examined C. Bhup Singh by giving up him. Investigating Officer has appeared as PW7 and two other witnesses PW1 and PW2 have corroborated the major portion of his statement, which is in consonance with prosecution case. In their cross examination, nothing favourable to the accused was elicited. Therefore, giving up the examination of C. Bhup Singh being a witness of same sequence is also not fatal to the prosecution. Had there been any material contradiction or discrepancy going to the root of genesis of prosecution case, there would have been necessity to examine C. Bhup Singh compulsorily.

18. Learned counsel for the respondent has also pointed out that there is lapse on the part of police in depicting movement of samples sent to CFSL Chandigarh in correct manner. He has pointed out that in RC dated 28.11.2006(Ext.PW6/D), there is reference of departure of PW5 Neel Chand along with sample of charas and other relevant documents, whereas the said sample was delivered in CFSL Chandigarh on5.12.2006 and in extract of Malkhana register (Ext.PW6/C) also, sending of sample to CFSL Chandigarh has been claimed on 28.11.2006 and there is no explanation as to where PW5 Neel Chand, along with sample, remained from 28.11.2006 to5.12.2006. PW5 HHC Neel Chand, in his deposition in Court has categorically stated that the sample was handed over to him on28.11.2006 which was returned by CFSL Chandigarh with objections and in turn, he had handed over it back to MHC LalSingh,PW6, who again had handed over it to him on 4.12.2006which was deposited by him in CFSL Chandigarh and receipt thereof was handed over to PW6 on 7.12.2006. In his crossexamination, there is no suggestion to him that he had not approached the CFSL Chandigarh after receiving it on 28.11.2006and that there was no objection raised by CFSL Chandigarh and he had taken the sample somewhere-else or the sample was replaced by him. The nature of cross examination is such that instead of doubting the claim of prosecution it stands further clarified by PW5 Neel Chand during his cross examination by explaining that sample was taken to Chandigarh on 30.11.2006after getting the docket prepared from Kullu. Judicial notice of the fact can be taken that during winter season journey from Ani to Kullu consumes a complete one day i.e. about 12 hours journey. Further PW6 Lal Singh has committed irregularity by not entering the return of sample in Malkhana on 30.11.2006 and thereafter handing over the same on 4.12.2006 after removing the objections, but keeping in view the other overwhelming evidence on record proving the recovery of charas from conscious possession of respondent and the fact that in cross examination of PW5 Neel Chand, his version, stated in examination in chief, has not been disputed, this faulty performance of duty by PW6Lal Singh is not affecting the merits of the case of prosecution against the respondent.

19. Learned counsel for the respondent has also raised the issue that in the present case, complainant as well as Investigating Officer is one and same Officer and therefore, keeping in view the pronouncement of Apex Court in Mohan Lalvs. State of Punjab reported in AIR 2018 SC 3853, the respondent is entitled for acquittal and has rightly been acquitted by the trial Court. This plea is not available to respondent as the Apex Court in case Varinder Kumar vs. State of Himachal Pradesh reported in 2019 SCC OnLine SC170 has clarified that the judgment passed in Mohan Lal's case shall not affect the status of cases instituted/filed prior to the said judgment, rather this judgment shall have the prospective applicability/effect and all pending criminal prosecutions, trials and appeals prior to the law laid down in Mohan Lal's case supra shall continue to be governed by the individual facts of the case.

20. From the aforesaid evidence on record, prosecution has been able to establish that there was recovery of contraband from the possession of respondent on 26.11.2006 as claimed by prosecution. Therefore, presumption under Sections 35 and 54 of NDPS Act comes into play and in such a situation, there is reverse onus on the accused to prove the case otherwise. In the present case, the respondent is resident of District Kaithal, State of Haryana and he was found at a place which is interior place of Himachal Pradesh and respondent has not brought anything on record to justify his presence in such a remote area of Himachal Pradesh for any other lawful reason except for indulging in the trafficking of drugs.

21. In the absence of independent witness on record, we have scrutinized the evidence of official witnesses with more carefulness and as discussed above, we find that there is cogent, reliable, trustworthy and convincing evidence on record which establishes that accused was found in possession of charas as alleged by prosecution and therefore, he is liable to be convicted for the same.

22. The trial Court has failed to appreciate the evidence on record in right perspective and has acquitted the accused on the grounds which were not material in nature or having impacton the veracity of prosecution case and also relied upon the factors which were not material so as to doubt the veracity of prosecution case. Rather, as discussed above, evidence on record has established the prosecution case qua the recovery of charas from the conscious possession of respondent. Therefore, the judgment passed by the trial Court acquitting the respondent is set aside and respondent is convicted for commission of offence under Section 20 of NDPS Act.

23. As quantum of recovery is concerned, as per prosecution case, 1 Kg. 500 grams charas was recovered from the respondent and after taking out two samples of 25 grams each, the remaining contraband was sealed in parcel and samples were also sealed in two different parcels. Bulk of charas claimed to be recovered from the respondent is Ext.P2 but during investigation and thereafter also, only one sample of 25 grams of charas was sent to CFSL Chandigarh for chemical analysis and as per chemical analyst report Ext.PX the sample was found to be of charas.

24. As per ratio laid down by the Apex Court in Gaunter Edwin Kircher vs. State of Goa, reported in (1993)3 SCC145 the amount of contraband, recovered from the respondent, cannot be held more than that which was sent to the Chemical Analyst and was affirmed by the Forensic Science Laboratory as a contraband. The failure to send the entire mass for chemical analysis would result to draw inference that said contraband has not been analyzed and identified by CFSL as the charas.

25. Learned Single Judge of this Court in Dhan Bahadurvs. State of H.P. reported in 2009(2) Shim.L.C. 203, after relying upon the judgment in Gaunter Edwin Kircher's case supra, has held that only analyzed quantity of contraband can be said to have been recovered from the respondent. Applying the ratio of law laid down by the Apex Court and followed by learned Single Judge of this Court, we find that in the present case quantity of recovered contraband is to be taken as 25 grams only and therefore, respondent can be convicted for recovery of 25grams charas from his conscious possession for which punishment has been provided under Section 20(b)(ii)(A) for a term which may extend the six months or with fine which may extend to Rs.10,000/- or/with both.

26. Respondent was arrested by police on 26.11.2006and he remained in custody during the entire trial till pronouncement of final judgment on 29.8.2008. Therefore, he has already served the sentence more than the period prescribed for commission of offence proved on record committed by him. Therefore, no further sentence is required to be imposed upon him. The bail bonds, so furnished by the respondent stand discharged. Appeal is allowed in aforesaid terms. Record be sent back forthwith.

S. Kalawati Devi vs. V.R. Somasundaram and others, 2010(2) Shimla Law Journal (SC) 770

For the Appellant: Mr. R.S. Chandel, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Y.P. Sood, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiff's suit, for, rendition of a decree for specific performance of contract of sale, executed inter se him, and, the defendant, stood decreed, by the learned trtial Court, and, in an appeal carried therefrom by the aggrieved defendant, hence, before the learned first appellate court, also begot, a verdict in affirmation thereto. The defendant, is, aggrieved from the concurrent judgments, and, decrees recorded against him, upon, civil suit No. 120/1 of 2009, and, upon Civil Appeal No. 14-T/13 of 2013/12, hence, has, thereagainst instituted the instant appeal before this Court.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff has filed a suit for specific performance of agreement dated 22.2.22009 vide which the defendant had agreed to sell the land comprised in Khata No.74, Khatauni No.208, Khasra No.795, 797 and 798, Kita 3, measuring 5-13 bighas, situated in Chak Bagain, Pargana Shilla Ghoond, Tehsil Theog, District Shimla, H.P. along with single storeyed house having three rooms for sale consideration of Rs.5,00,000/-. The oral agreement to sell was entered into in the month of January, 2009, at that time, the possession of suit land was delivered to the plaintiff. The plaintiff had planted 500 apple plants over the suit land. The sale deed was to be executed on or before 30.09.2009. The plaintiff requested the defendant to receive the balance sale consideration of Rs.2,00,000/- as the plaintiff is still ready and willing to perform his part of agreement. Despite the legal notice of 28.7.2009, the defendant threatened to alienate the suit land in favour of the third person. On 22.8.2009, the wife and, son of defendant started interference in the suit land and forcibly tried to dispossess the plaintiff. The matter was reported to the police and FIR No.136/2009 has been registered at police station Theog. The defendant failed to execute the sale deed. The plaintiff has prayed that the decree for specific performance of contract of sate dated 22.2.2009 be passed in his favour and further prayed that decree for permanent prohibitory injunction be passed against the defendant restraining him from interfering with the possession of the plaintiff over the suit land in any manner.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein he has taken taken preliminary objections qua the suit of the plaintiff as framed is not competent, plaint deserves to be rejected as the agreement is neither registered nor properly stamped. On merits. The defendant has denied that he had entered into an agreement to sell the suit land for sale consideration of Rs.5,00,000/-. The defendant further denied that he has executed any agreement. The agreement is a forged and fabricated document in view to grab the land of the defendant. The plaintiff had obtained the signatures of the defendant on blank papers on the pretext of exchange of land. It is denied that the earnest money to the tune of Rs.3,00,000/- were paid by the plaintiff to the defendant. The oral agreement has also been denied. It is also denied that in the month of January, 2009, the possession was delivered to the plaintiff. It is denied that the plaintiff has planted the apple orchard over the suit land. The defendant claimed that the electricity meter is also in his name. The defendant further averred that the plaintiff on 22.8.2009 tried to trespass into the house along with 4-5 persons, and, gave beating to the son of the defendant, threw the articles belonging to the defendant and outraged the modesty of wife of the defendant, as, the FIR was registered against the plaintiff at police station Theog. The question of readiness and willingness to perform the agreement does not arise at all as no agreement has been executed.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is ready and willing to perform his part of the agreement dated 22.2.2009, as prayed for? OPP
2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for specific performance of agreement dated 22.2.2009, as prayed for?OPP.
3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for permanent prohibitory injunction as prayed for?OPP
4. Whether the suit is not properly framed as alleged?OPD.
5. Whether the suit is liable to be rejected as alleged?OPD.
6. Whether the defendant has agreed to exchange his land with the plaintiff, as alleged?OPD
7. Whether the plaintiff has obtained the signature of the defendant over the agreement dated 22.2.2009 on the pretext of filing of the application for exchange as alleged?OPD.
8. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff/respondent herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by, the defendant/appellant herein, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed, the, appeal, and, affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

6. Now the defendant/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein he assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, on 4th May, 2016, this Court, admitted the appeal, instituted by the defendant/appellant against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on, the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

> Whether on account of mis-appreciation of the pleadings and law and also misreading of the oral as well as documentary evidence available on record, the findings recorded by both courts below are erroneous and, as such, the judgment and decree impugned in this appeal, being perverse and vitiated is not legally sustainable?

Substantial question of Law No.1 :

7. The contract of sale, executed inter se the contesting litigants, was entered into, on 22.2.2009. The learned counsel appearing for the appellant/defendant has contended with much vigour, before this Court, that since the contract of sale stood executed subsequent, to an amendment being made to Section 17(1)(A), of, the Indian Registration Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "The documents containing contracts to transfer for consideration, any immovable pro9perty for the purpose of Section 53A of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (4 of 1882) shall be registered, if they have been executed on or after the commencement of the Registration and, other related laws (Amendment) Act, 2001, and, if such documents are not registered on or after such commencement, then, they have have not effect for the purpose of the said Section 53A."

(a) and when the afore extracted provisions, hence peremptorily, require qua any document rather embodying therewithin, a contract of sale, vis-a-vis, any immovable property, hence containing a value of more than Rs.100/-, and, entered subsequent, to, the afore amendment taking place, vis-a-vis, the provisions of Section 17 (1)(A) of the Indian Registration Act, (b) and when therethrough, the possession, of, immovable property, has been evidently delivered, vis-a-vis, the purchaser, as uncontrovertedly hereat, possession, of, the suit property, stands delivered by the defendant to the plaintiff, (c) thereupon, hence, it being compulsorily registrable, (d) and, when uncontestedly, the contract of sale hereat, embodied in Ex.PW1/A, is, not registered, rather in consonance with the afore requirement of law, (e) thereupon, he contends, that the afore document hence being neither readable in evidence, nor became admissible in evidence, rather was required to be impounded, and, thereafter, he contends, that the rendition of a decree of specific performance, with respect to the suit property, embodied in Ex.PW1/A, by both the learned courts below, being shaky, and, infirm.

8. However, the afore submission, as, addressed before this Court by the learned counsel, appearing for the aggrieved defendant/appellant herein, is, a gross mis-dependence, upon, the afore provisions of law, (a) given the afore amendment made to Section 17(1)(A) of the Indian Registration Act, being interpreted by the Hon'ble Apex Court in a case titled as S. Kalawati Devi vs. V.R. Somasundaram and others, reported in 2010(2) Shimla Law Journal (SC) 770, and, in a judgement rendered by the Orissa High Court and reported in AIR 2002, Orissa 77, (b) both the verdicts whereof, pronounce a candid, view that a document, containing sale of immovable property, hence holding, a value more than Rs.100/-, though, requiring it being compulsorily registered, (c) and, also make trite expostulation qua when a suit for specific performance is founded, upon, an unregistered contract of sale of immovable property, embodying therein rather property, holding a value of more than Rs.100/-, and, when therethrough, the afore contract, of, sale is, strived to be enforced, through, rendition, of a decree for specific performance of contract, (d) rather, not, on a combined interpretation, of, the provisions of Section 49 of the Registration Act, alongwith the proviso to Section 49 of the Registration Act, being either discardable, nor inadmissible, nor unreadable, (e) rather it being admissible evidence, vis-a-vis, strivings by the plaintiff concerned, for his, on anvil thereof, hence, staking a claim, for rendition, of, a decree for specific performance. Moreover, as propounded, in a judgment rendered, in a case, titled as Didar Singh Vs. Nasib Kaur, and, others, reported in 2012(2), Civil Court Cases, 428 (P&H), even, if in, pursuance to execution, of, though a compulsorily registrable contract, of sale hence possession, of the property, as,l enclosed therein rather standing delivered to the plaintiff, by the defendant, (f) yet even on the afore anchorage, no leverage being drawable, by the defendant, from, the provisions borne, in Section 53-A, of, the Transfer of Property Act, (g) and, further thereonwards, it also stands explicitly pronounced therein, that, dehors the afore bar or embargo being peremptorily erectable, against the plaintiff, upon, his previously receiving possession, or in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the execution, of, the contract of sale, of the suit property, embodied in Ex.PW1/A, though a compulsorily registrable contract of sale, (h) and, when in consonance therewith, he is rather baulked to seek rendition of a decree, of, specific performance, rather on anvil of the mandate borne in Section 53-A of the Transfer of property Act, conspicuously, upon, its remaining unregistered, (i) yet the plaintiff not being barred, to, on anvil thereof, claim rendition of a decree for specific performance, (j) and, nor the plaintiff's suit for specific performance, anchoraged, upon, an unregistered contract of sale, being oustable nor any unregistered contract of sale, being hence construable rather to be completely nullified. Reiteratedly, the subtle nuance, of the afore verdict, is qua, that the salutary purpose, of, the mandate engrafted in Section 53A of the Transfer of Property Act, being, qua, it being used as a sword, than, as a shield, (k) with a concomitant effect, vis-a-vis, it working adversarially only qua the defendant/counter-claimant, than qua the plaintiff, thereupon, the effect, if any, of, possession of the suit property being delivered, to the plaintiff, stands, fully negated, nor hence, the plaintiff is debarred to institute, a suit, for rendition of a decree for specific performance, of, contract , of, sale.

9. In summa, even if the contract of sale stood executed subsequent to the requisite amendment, made to the provisions of Section 17(1)(A), of, the Indian Registration Act, and, even if, possession of the suit property, was delivered, by the plaintiff to the defendant, (i) and, even if, the contract of sale embodied, in, Ex.PW1/A rather peremptorily enjoined its being registered, and, uncontestedly, when it is not registered, (ii) nonetheless, the plaintiff is not debarred, to enforce the unregistered contract of sale, by his instituting, a suit for specific performance of contract of sale, against the defendant, (iii) nor in pursuance thereto he is barred to seek a decree against the defendant for executing, with him, a, registered deed of conveyance.

10. Be that as it may, the factum of execution of Ex.PW1/A, has been proven by the plaintiff, and, his testification, vis-a-vis, the completest execution, of Ex. PW1/A, also stands corroborated by PW-2. The defendant though, in his deposition has not denied the existence, of his signatures, on Ex.PW1/A, yet, he in his testification, rather projected qua his being beguiled, (a) to append his signatures upon Ex.PW1/A, (b) under the pretext of it being, executed in lieu of exchanges of some lands, inter se him, and, the plaintiff. However, when he further, in his cross-examination, has admitted qua his working, as a Senior Assistant in HPPWD, and, his being a matriculate, (c) thereupon, he is concluded to comprehend the recitals borne in Ex.PW1/A, and, furthermore, when he has not disputed, the authenticity of his signatures, as exist, upon, Ex.PW1/A, (d) hence he cannot also contend, that, the plaintiff beguiled him, under, the afore pretext, to, hence emboss his signatures upon Ex.PW1/A, and, sequel thereof, is that, when hence assured proof, is adduced, vis-a-vis, the completest satisfactory execution Ex.PW1/A, and, also vis-a-vis, with the apt fullest volition, of, the executants concerned, (e) thereupon, the contract of sale, strived, to be enforced, through, rendition of a decree, for specific performance, of, the afore agreement, is, rather a striving bearing tandem, with the afore proclamation of law, and, enjoins it being affirmed. Predominantly also with the defendant, admitting qua a part of the sale consideration, comprised in a sum of Rs.3 lakhs standing received by the defendant, from, the plaintiff, hence, in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the execution of Ex.PW1/A. Furthermore, when the plaintiff, has shown, his readiness and willingness to perform his part of contract, and, with recitals also being carried in Ex.PW1/A, that, upon refusal by the defendant, to execute the sale deed, vis-a-vis, the suit property, borne in Ex.PW1/A, thereupon, the plaintiff being reserved with a right, to enforce Ex.PW1/A, by recoursing all the remedies available under law, thereupon, the concurrent adversarial decrees, as, stand pronounced against the defendant, by both the learned courts below, do not deserve, any interference.

11. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court, as well as by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, both the learned Courts below have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial question, of law is answered in favour of the plaintiff/respondent, and, against, the defendant/appellant.

12. In view of the above discussion, the instant appeal is dismissed, and, the impugned judgments, and, decrees are maintained and affirmed. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back forthwith.

Decided on : 28th June, 2019.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Section 149 (2)(a)(ii) - Motor accident - Claim application – Defence of fake driving licence – Proof – Held, insurer did not lead any evidence to prove that driving licence of driver of offending vehicle was fake – Copy of driving licence placed on record clearly indicating that its holder was authorised to drive the offending vehicle – Insurer failed to discharge its onus of proving driving licence of driver of offending vehicle as fake.(Para 4)

For the Appellant:	Mr. Ashwani Sharma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Mayank Sharma, Advocate.
For Respondents No. 1 to 4:	Mr. Kulwant Chauhan, Advocate vice Mr. Sanjeev Kumar Suri, Advocate.
For Respondent No. 5:	Mr. Karan Veer Singh, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The Insurer of the offending vehicle, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, it, casts, a, challenge, upon, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal Una, District Una, H.P., upon, MACP No. 53/2017, as stood, cast therebefore, under, the provisions of Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as the Act), (i) AND, whereunder, compensation amount, comprised in, a sum of Rs.8,78,792/-alongwith interest accrued thereon, at the rate of 9% per annum, was, hence ordered to thereon commence, from, the date of petition till realization thereof, rather stood, assessed, vis-a-vis, claimants, (ii) and, the apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, was, fastened upon the insurer/appellant herein.

2. The learned counsel appearing, for, the appellant/insurer, has, not contested, the, validity, of, rendition, of, affirmative findings, upon, issue No.1, hence appertaining to the demise of Balwant Chand, being a sequel of rash, and, negligent manner of driving of the offending vehicle, by Pawan Kumar, respondent No.5 herein.

3. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer has contended before this Court that (a) since the deceased, as borne, from, his salary certificate, embodiedin Ex.PW2/A, stood, engaged as a part time worker, (b) thereupon, he contends that the apposite, and, relevant accretions or hikes working towards future incremental prospects, vis-a-vis, his salary of Rs.4,500/- per mensem, as stood, drawn by him, in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the relevant mishap, being rather ridden with an inherent fallacy, as, (c) the afore rendition of part time services hence by the deceased, are obviously construable, to be merely temporary in nature, and, when the services of the deceased, were disengagable, at any time, (d) rather hence the apt corollary therefrom, is, qua it, being highly speculative to conjure any inference qua permanence of his employment, nor reiteratedly, it can be inferred qua the afore hikes, vis-a-vis, his last drawn salary rather being meteable thereon. However, the afore submission would be weighty, and, tenacious, upon, evidence being adduced qua the terms, of, engagement of the deceased by his employer (d) with clear unravelings borne therein, vis-a-vis, the services of the deceased surviving only upto a specific period of time, and, the duration of his services, not being, beyond the contractual tenure of services. However, when the afore evidence, is, amiss thereupon it has to be concluded that the part time engagement, of the deceased, as, a part time worker, by his employer rather being amenable to be visited with extensions, and, continuances in service, (e) and, obviously hence also his being facilitated to obtain regularization, in service under his employer, (f) besides his also being visited with concomitant therewith benefits of enhancements or increases, in his per mensem salary, (g) wherefrom, it is to be concluded that the afore meteings of hikes, towards future incremental prospects rather not warranting any interference by this Court.

4. The learned counsel appearing for the appellant/insurer has contended before this Court (a) that with Ex.RW2/B making echoings qua the driving licence held, by the driver of the offending vehicle rather being fake, and, unauthentic, thereupon, the fastening of the apposite indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer rather warranting interference. However, the afore submission also cannot be countenanced by this Court, as, Ex. RW2/B is signatured by the District Transport Officer, Mon, Nagaland, (b) and, when the author of Ex.PW2/B hence stand enjoined to step into the witness box, for, proving, the contents borne therein, whereas, his omitting to step into the witness box, hence, the recitals borne, in Ex.PW2/B rather carry no probative vigour. Moreover, Ex.PW2/B, merely carries an echoing qua the office of District Transport Officer, Mon, Nagaland, being not, in a position to furnish any information, as, RW-2 sought therefrom, whereupon, it cannot be assuredly concluded, qua the afore information being unauthentic. Moreover, the insurer has not endeavoured to elicit, through the aegis of the Court, the apposite record appertaining, to the driving licence, of the driver of the offending, maintained in the office of District Transport Officer, to, hence prove the afore espousal qua the driving licence, as held by the driver, of the offending vehicle, rather being fake. On the contrary, the copy of driving licence, borne in Ex.RW1/B, unveils, that its holder standing authorised to drive, the offending vehicle, and, it also holds the seals and signatures, of the issuing authority, thereupon, it acquires an aura, of, authenticity, given neither the seals nor the signatures, as, occurring thereon, standing, proven to be fake or fictitious.

5. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit, in the instant petition, and, it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the award impugned before this Court is maintained, and, affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Acting Chief Justice. (Oral)

Notice. Mr. Narender Guleria, learned Additional Advocate General appears and accepts service of notice on behalf of respondents No. 1 and 2. In the nature of the judgment, we propose to pass in this writ petition, no notice need be issued to respondent No. 3.

2. As a matter of fact, the grouse as brought to this court by filing the present writ petition is that the second respondent did not refer the matter to the District Judge as required under Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act on the ground of delay. The point in issue is squarely covered against the petitioner by the judgment of this Court dated November 26, 2018 passed in CWP No. 2741 of 2018, titled as Surat Ram and another versus State of H.P. & others in which it has been held that against an order passed under Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act by the Collector, the remedy under sub-section (3) of Section 18 of the Act is to challenge the same by way of filing a revision petition.

3. This writ petition is, therefore, not maintainable. The same is accordingly disposed of with liberty reserved to the petitioner to avail the alternative remedy under sub-section (3) of Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act. In the matter of limitation, the petitioner shall be entitled to the benefit of Section 14 of the Limitation Act as he has been pursuing the remedy in the wrong forum.

4. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand disposed of.

defendants any right, title or interest over the estate of Durga Devi and from interfering with or managing the estate of Durga Devi.

3. In these proceedings, plaintiff filed an application under Order 7 Rule 14 read with Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure for placing on record certain documents and for proving them by leading additional evidence. As per the plaintiff, though she had examined 15 witnesses, however, one witness cited from the office of Medical Superintendent IGMC, Shimla had intentionally not brought the summoned record and made false statement that the record summoned by the plaintiff was not maintained in the hospital. As per plaintiff, in this regard, she filed an application under Right to Information Act and sought information from PIO of IGMC, Shimla. Her application was initially rejected on 06.07.2015 by the PIO. Appeal filed by her against the said order was also rejected on 08.09.2015. Feeling aggrieved, she preferred a second appeal before the State Information Commissioner, which was allowed on 09.03.2016 and information sought by her was supplied to her (plaintiff) on 06.04.2016. After receipt of the said information, she filed the application intending to place the said documents on record with a prayer for permission to prove the same in accordance with law. The details of the documents are spelled out in para-6 of the application, which are as under:

"a. Photostat copy of the application filed by the applicant under R.T.I. Act.

b. Photostat copy of the order dated 06.07.2015 passed by PIO, IGMC, Shimla, H.P.

c. Photostat copy of the Appeal filed by applicant before Principal-cum-Appellate Authority, IGMC, Shimla, H.P.

d. Photostat copy of the order dated 08.09.2015, passed by Principal-cum-Appellate Authority, IGMC, Shimla, H.P.

e. Photostat copy of the Second Appeal filed by applicant before Ld. State Information Commissioner, Shimla, H.P.

f. Certified copies of the information pertaining to Smt. Durga Devi supplied by PIO (20 pages). And order dated 09.03.2016 passed in Appeal No. 0400/2015-16."

4. As per the plaintiff, the documents supplied by the PIO, IGMC, Shimla were relevant to decide the controversy and the same were necessary to prove her case. It was also mentioned in the application that as the documents were supplied to the plaintiff under the Right to Information Act, there was no chance of the same being manufactured or otherwise.

5. The application was resisted by the non-applicants, inter alia, on the ground that the same was filed at a highly belated stage with malafide intent. Filing of the application was an afterthought and the same was based on record which appeared to have been fabricated in order to create false evidence. As per respondent, plaintiff had summoned witnesses from IGMC, Shimla alongwith record of admission and death of Smt. Durga Devi. The witness in issue Shri Madan Singh Chauhan, Senior Assistant from IGMC, Shimla was examined as PW-15 on 20.02.2015 and had categorically stated in his statement that no record with respect to handing over of the dead body was maintained in IGMC nor any such entries were there in the original record. It was further mentioned in the reply that had there been record with respect to handing over of the dead body of late Smt. Durga Devi existed, then the plaintiff should have filed it alongwith the suit. It was further mentioned in the reply that the plaintiff could not be permitted to take undue advantage of her own negligence and lapses and permitted to fill up lacunae.

6. This application had been dismissed by way of impugned order. While dismissing the application, learned Trial Court has held that in case the application was allowed, then the documents sought to be placed on record being per se not admissible, would have to be proved by examining witnesses, who would have to step in the witness box and that it would amount to relegating the clock to the date, i.e., 24.06.2015, when plaintiff's right to produce evidence was closed. It further held that allowing the application would amount to re-opening of the case. Documents intended to be placed on record were not relevant for deciding the dispute. Fact regarding handing over the dead body of Durga Devi or pertaining to her admission/discharge from the hospital had little relevance in ascertaining the issues involved in the suit. Learned Court also held that there was no law or rule that only a person who was related to a dead person could claim the body. It further held that in what manner said facts would prove adoption of the plaintiff was also not stated by her and therefore also, the documents intended to be placed on record were not important.

7. Be that as it may, I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the impugned order as well as other documents appended with the petition.

8. As per record, on 24.06.2015, an adjournment was sought by the plaintiff to lead further evidence, however, the request was declined by the learned Trial Court and evidence was ordered to be closed and said order when assailed before this Court, was upheld vide order dated 04.09.2015.

9. Order 7 Rule 14 (3) of the Code of Civil Procedure provides that a document which ought to be produced in Court by the plaintiff when the plaint is presented, or to be entered in the list to be added or annexed to the plaint but is not produced or entered accordingly, shall not, without the leave of the Court, be received in evidence on his behalf at the hearing of the plaint.

10. Coming to the facts of the present case, the application under Rule 14 of Order 7 of the Code was, inter alia, filed to place on record documents which were obtained by the plaintiff under the Right to Information Act. These documents were provided to her under the Right to Information Act, pursuant to her second appeal having been allowed by the State Information Commissioner on 09.03.2016. In other words, after the second appeal of the petitioner/plaintiff was allowed on 09.03.2016, the documents were supplied to her under the Right to Information Act on 06.04.2016. The application was filed by her to place them on record and to prove the same by leading additional evidence on 26.04.2016, meaning thereby that the application was filed within a month of the receipt of documents.

11. The genesis of the filing of the application was that PW-15-Madan Singh Chauhan, who was a witness sited from the office of Medical Superintendent, IGMC, Shimla had intentionally not brought the summoned record and had made false statement that the record summoned by the plaintiff was not maintained by IGMC, Shimla. As per the plaintiff, now as the said record was supplied to her, the same be allowed to be taken on record and proved as per law.

12. It has not been disputed that PW-15, i.e., witness from the office of Medical Superintendent, IGMC, Shimla had not brought the requisitioned record and had stated in the Court that no such record was maintained at IGMC, Shimla. It is not in dispute that the record which was called from IGMC, Shimla inter alia pertained to the admission of deceased Smt. Durga Devi in the hospital and handing over of her dead body after her death. Incidentally, a perusal of the reply filed by the non-applicants, who were opposing the said application demonstrates that the stand taken by the non-applicants in the reply was that the filing of the application was just an afterthought, as the plaintiff intended to fill up lacunae and further that the documents which were intended to be placed on record appeared to have been fabricated in order to create false evidence.

13. Learned Trial Court while dismissing the application erred in not appreciating that prayer of the plaintiff was to place those documents on record, which as per her, PW-15 had intentionally not brought on record by wrongly stating in the Court that said record was not available in the hospital and said application was opposed by the non-applicants on the ground that the plaintiff wanted to fill up the lacunae in her case and the documents appeared to be fabricated.

14. Learned Court erred in not appreciating that when the requisitioned record summoned through PW-15 was not brought, it could not be said that the plaintiff was trying to fill up lacunae in her case. It erred in not appreciating that there was no merit in the contention of the non-applicants that the documents, which plaintiff intended to place on record were fabricated documents, as the documents which were intended to be placed on record, admittedly, were those which had been provided to her under the Right to Information Act. This demonstrates that learned Trial Court has not dealt with the application upon proper appreciation of the contention made in the application as also in the reply. Learned Trial Court was more influenced and swayed by the fact that on an earlier date, i.e., on 24.06.2015, said Court had rejected the request of the plaintiff for grant of opportunity by way of adjournment to lead evidence and that said order on challenge, had been upheld by this Court. Learned Trial Court erred in not appreciating that as the information stood supplied to the plaintiff after 24.06.2015, therefore, said order had no bearing with the prayer which was made by the plaintiff in application filed under Order 7 Rule 14 of the Code.

15. It is settled law that on a party satisfying the Court that after exercise of due diligence that evidence was not within his knowledge or could not be produced at the time the party was leading evidence, the Court may permit leading of such evidence at a later stage on such terms as may appear to be just {See Salem Advocate Bar Association, TN. Vs. Union of India, (2005) 6 Supreme Court Cases 344}.

16. In the present case, the plaintiff had spelled out cogent reasons as to why the documents, which she intended to place on record, could not be placed on record earlier. In this background, the findings returned by the learned Trial Court that the application filed by the plaintiff could not be allowed as the same would relegate the Clock back to the date, i.e., 24.06.2015 are perverse findings, especially in view of the fact that the documents which the plaintiff intended to place on record were not in her possession as on 24.06.2015 when her request for adjournment to lead evidence was denied by the learned Court below. The subsequent findings returned by the learned Trial Court that the documents were not important and had no relevance with the controversy, subject matter of the lis between the parties, in my considered view, were totally uncalled for, because learned Court should not have ventured into the said area while dismissing the application of the plaintiff on other grounds.

17. Accordingly, as this Court is of the view that the impugned order is per se bad and not sustainable in the eyes of law, this petition is allowed and the impugned order dated 07.09.2018 is ordered to be set aside. As a natural corollary, the application filed by the plaintiff under Order 7 Rule 14 of the Code of Civil Procedure is allowed and the documents appended with the same are ordered to be placed on record. Learned Trial Court is directed to permit the plaintiff to prove the documents in accordance with law. This, however, will be subject to payment of cost of Rs.5000/- by the plaintiff to the defendants.

18. Parties are directed to appear before the learned Trial Court on 22nd July, 2019. The petition stands disposed of, so also pending miscellaneous applications, if any.

Date of Decision: 04.07.2019

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order XXII Rule 4 (4)– Application seeking exemption from bringing on record legal representatives of deceased defendant– Disposal of– Held, order of trial court dismissing such application is not supported by any reason– Order of trial court in rejecting or allowing such application should have been reasoned one– Petition allowed– Order set aside -Matter remanded. (Para 3)

For the petitioners: Mr. Dheeraj K. Vashisht, Advocate.
For the respondents: Nemo.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge(Oral):

By way of this petition, the petitioners have prayed for quashing of order dated 06.04.2019 (Annexure P-4), passed by the Court of learned Senior Civil Judge, Court No. 1, Amb, Una in Case No. 215-I-2009, whereby an application filed by the petitioners under Order XXII Rule 4(4) read with Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure, wherein a request was made that petitioners/plaintiffs be permitted not to bring on record the legal representatives of deceased defendant No. 24, has been dismissed.

2. Mr. Dheeraj K. Vashisht, learned counsel for the petitioners has argued that the impugned order is not sustainable in the eyes of law, primarily on the ground that no reasons have been assigned by the learned Court below as to why the prayer made in the application did not find merit with it, especially in view of the fact that qua other defendants in the same suit, similar application filed by the petitioners/plaintiffs was allowed by the learned Court below.

3. Having heard learned counsel for the petitioners, this Court concurs with him to the extent that the impugned order, vide which, the application filed by the present petitioners has been dismissed, is a cryptic order. This Court expects that when an adjudication is made by the learned Court below either on applications or otherwise, then the orders to be passed, ought to be reasoned and speaking. This Court is not at all commenting as to what final order should have been passed by the learned Court below on the application filed by the petitioners/plaintiffs, but all that this Court is observing, is that the said application ought to have been disposed of by passing a speaking and reasoned order, wherein the reasons should have been well spelled out as to why that particular order was being passed by the learned Court below.

4. Accordingly, the present petition is partly allowed. While setting aside the impugned order dated 06.04.2019, the matter is being remanded back to the learned Trial Court with the direction that the Civil Miscellaneous Application filed by the present petitioners/plaintiffs shall be revived and heard afresh and thereafter, the same shall be disposed of by passing a speaking and reasoned order. This Court is again clarifying that what final order is to be passed by the learned Court below shall be the domain of the learned Court below, however, this Court expects that the application shall be disposed of by the learned Court below by passing a reasoned and speaking order.

The petition stands disposed of in above terms, so also pending miscellaneous applications, if any.

2. The work in terms of the agreement executed between the parties was to be completed within 15 days from the date of issuance of letter of award. Accordingly, the work was completed by the petitioners-Contractors within the stipulated period, as indicated in the tabulated information hereinabove. The entries qua measurement of the work executed were made by the respondents in the measurement book. The Executive Engineer concerned also certified the work so executed on the spot. However, the payments, irrespective of the final bill prepared and submitted were not made to the Contractors. The procedure prescribed under the contract agreement for resolution of disputes is contained in Annexure C-1. Therefore, when the respondents failed to make the payment to the petitioners as per bills they raised, the Chief Engineer, HPPWD, Shimla zone was requested vide Annexure C-2 to appoint Arbitrator to adjudicate the disputes having arisen between the parties on both sides. The Arbitrator(s), however, was not appointed, hence these applications with a prayer to appoint the Arbitrator for adjudication of the disputes having arisen between the parties.

3. In reply, the award of the work to the petitioners-Contractors has not been disputed. It is, however, submitted that no work was found to be executed on the spot. The entries made by the Junior Engineer, incharge in the MB were verified on inspection of the site and it transpired that work was never executed by the petitioners-Contractors. The entries in the MB were accordingly cancelled. Therefore, according to the respondents, there exist no disputes which need to be adjudicated upon by the Arbitrator.

4. On hearing Mr. J.S. Bhogal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Tarunjeet Singh Bhogal and Ms. Srishti Verma, Advocates representing the petitioners and learned Additional Advocate General on behalf of the respondents as well as going through the record, the claims and counter-claims as laid on both sides constitute disputes within the meaning of Clause 25 (Annexure C-1) of the contract agreement. The petitioners-Contractors have executed the work awarded to them or not is a question to be gone into during the course of arbitral proceedings and adjudicated by learned Arbitrator. Therefore, it cannot be believed by any stretch of imagination that there exist no disputes between the parties in these applications. Keeping in view, work awarded, identical in nature and at a meager cost of Rs.2,20,500/- for each work, the parties on both sides agreed for appointment of single Arbitrator to adjudicate the disputes in all these cases. Consequently, Shri J.S. Mahantan, District and Sessions Judge (Retd.) is appointed as Arbitrator to enter upon the reference in these matters and adjudicate the claims/counter-claims to be laid by the parties on both sides. In view of the paltry amount of Rs.2,20,500/- involved in each case, the fee of learned Arbitrator is fixed as Rs. 1,00,000/- in lump sum in all the cases, out of which Rs.50,000/- shall be paid to him in advance within two weeks after he enters upon the reference and remaining well before the pronouncement of the award.

5. All the petitions are accordingly allowed and stand disposed of, so also the pending application(s), if any.

(Paras 5 to 7)

Case referred:
Salem Advocate Dist. Bar Association vs. Union of India, AIR 2005 SC 3353

For the petitioner : Mr. Ajay Shandil, Advocate.
For the respondent : Mr. Rajiv Rai, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge (oral):

Instant petition filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India lays challenge to order dated 4.4.2018, passed by the learned Civil Judge, Court No.3, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, H.P. in CS No. 120-1 of 2017-12, whereby an application under Order 8 Rule 1 A (3) CPC having been filed by the petitioner-defendant (in short "the defendant") for placing on record copy of Pariwar Register of the family came to be rejected.

2. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused material adduced on record by the respective parties vis-à-vis reasoning assigned in the impugned order passed by the learned court below, this Court finds no illegality and infirmity in the same, because bare perusal of application (Annexure P-4) filed under Order 8 Rule 1 A (3) CPC, nowhere suggests that plausible explanation, if any, is rendered on record by the defendant that despite due diligence, she could not produce the record earlier with regard to her marriage with deceased Ram Dass.

3. In the instant case, respondent-plaintiff (in short "the plaintiff") filed suit for declaration and permanent prohibitory injunction under Sections 34, 37 and 38 of the Specific Relief Act to the effect that she is owner in possession of the suit land, description where of is given in the plaint (Annexure P-1). In the suit referred herein above, plaintiff while seeking injunction, in alternative, also prayed for suit for possession, if she is dispossessed by the defendant forcibly from any part of the suit land. Plaintiff averred in the plaint that she is a legally wedded wife of late Sh. Ram Dass, so of Sh. Khawaja, resident of village Rohin, Tehsil Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur and no issue was born out of the said wedlock and Sh. Ram Dass expired on 6.6.2012.

4. Defendant by way of written statement while denying the contents of the plaint contended that plaintiff had left the society of deceased Ram Dass 35 years prior to his death, whereafter defendant was residing with him and was enjoying possession of the suit land with Ram Dass. She further pleaded that by virtue of will dated 4.7.1998, duly registered in the office of Sub Registrar Ghumarwin, her name came to be recorded in the revenue record as co-sharer. Defendant claimed that plaintiff has no right over the suit land and she being wife of the deceased Ram Dass and by virtue of registered will dated 4.7.1998, is in lawful ownership of the property in question.

5. Application under Order 8 Rule 1 A (3) CPC admittedly came to be filed after closure of evidence of the defendant, who by way of aforesaid application sought permission of the court to tender on record copy of Pariwar Register of the family of Ram Dass. However, as has been noticed herein above such application came to be rejected vide impugned order dated 4.4.2018 passed by the court below on the ground that there is nothing to establish that despite due diligence, documents intended to be placed on record by way of instant application were not accessible earlier.

6. Though careful perusal of record, especially, impugned order reveals that matter repeatedly came to be adjourned at the behest of the defendant and there is no plausible explanation rendered on record that despite due diligence defendant failed to place on record document i.e. Pariwar Register, but having taken note of the fact that document intended to be placed on record by the defendant would enable court below to adjudicate the controversy at hand in just and fair manner, this Court is of the view that court below ought to have allowed the application at hand by granting one opportunity to the defendant to place on record copy of Pariwar Register. Admittedly, copy of pariwar register intended to be placed on record corroborates version of the defendant as stated in written statement having been filed by her with regard to her marriage with deceased Ram Dass. Needless to say, document, if permitted to be placed on record, would be required to be proved in accordance with law by the defendant and as such, no prejudice, whatsoever, would be caused to the opposite party in case prayer made in the present application is allowed.

7. No doubt, in case titled Salem Advocate Dist. Bar Association v. Union of India AIR 2005 SC 3353, Hon'ble apex Court has held that party intending to place on record additional document must satisfy the court that proposed evidence was not within his/her knowledge or the evidence could not have been led earlier despite the exercise of due diligence, but this Court is of the view that Pariwar Regiter, which is crucial for adjudication of the case would have been not ordinarily withheld by the defendant, if it was readily available with her. Though explanation rendered on record does not appear to be plausible, but keeping in view the nature of document intended to be placed on record and its bearing on the case, this Court is certainly compelled to draw a conclusion that in normal circumstances, defendant would not have withheld it purposely, but since same was not in her custody or knowledge prior to her filing application under Order 8 Rule 1 A (3) CPC, prayer to place the same on record came to be filed at a belated stage.

8. Consequently in view of the detailed discussion made herein above, present petition is allowed and impugned order 4.4.2018 is quashed and set-aside and the petitioner defendant is permitted to place on record the documents intended to be placed by her before the court below, subject to payment of costs of Rs. 11,000/- payable to the respondent/plaintiff. Learned counsel undertake to cause presence of respective parties before the Court below on 23.7.2019, enabling it to proceed with the matter in accordance with law. Petition stands disposed of, so also pending application, if any.

Copy dasti.

Notice. Mr. Ajay Vaidya, learned Senior Additional Advocate General appears and accepts service of notice on behalf of respondents No. 1 and 2-State and Ms. Manjula Kumari, Advocate vice Mr. Neel Kamal Sharma, Advocate on behalf of respondent No.3-University.

2. The petitioner in these cases have approached this Court with identical set of prayers, therefore, one set of prayers is extracted below:-

"(i) That this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to issue writ of mandamus directing the respondents to include the category of the petitioner i.e. children of Private Sector Employees of bonafide Himachali as eligible to compete for 85% State Quota especially in view of the judgment passed by this Hon'ble Court dated 13.07.2018 and 31.07.2018, and further hold the action of the respondent of not including the category of the petitioner in the prospectus-cum-application form as bad in law.

(ii) That this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to issue a writ of certiorari quashing Clause IV(A) 2(iv) of the Prospectus and application Form 2019-20 whereby children of bonafide Himachali who are working with Central Government/Undertaking or Autonomous bodies established by the Central Government are being given benefit of 85% State Quota Seats, with the further direction by issuing writ of mandamus directing the respondent that in case children of Central Government employees are to enlarge the benefit of 85% State Quota then the petitioner category may also be included in the same.

(iii) That this Hon'ble Court may further direct the respondents to allow the petitioner to apply for online application before 29.06.2019 and participate in counselling scheduled from 5.7.2019 to 11.07.2019 (and thereafter) for admission to MBBS/BDS courses for the academic session 2019-20 in IGMC Shimla/ Dr. RPGMC Tanda at Kangra and other medical and dental colleges being offered by Government and private medical and dental courses."

3. The points in issue in these writ petitions came up for consideration before this Court in a bunch of writ petitions, lead case whereof was CWP No. 1353 of 2018 titled Shivam Sharma V. State of H.P., decided on 13.07.2018, (Annexure P-5 to CWP No. 1417 of 2019) with the following observations:-

"30. We find the present a case where dropping the category of petitioners from Prospectus for the purpose of the exemption is on the basis of reasonable classification because the category of the petitioners and the exempted category 3(ii) are distinct and separate and there is rationale relationship between such classification and the object sought to be achieved by deletion of category 3(iv) and Note 1 appended below it. The classification is based upon various considerations like topography of the State, socio-economic condition of the people, scarcity of good schools, tutors and coaching centres for the children studying in the schools situated in the State and that the meritorious Himachali children gets a chance of admission in the MBBS/BDS courses to serve the State. The paramount consideration, of course, is to provide better medical facilities to the people of the State, especially in snow bound and remote areas. Therefore, there is a nexus between the basis of such classification and the object i.e. dropping the provisions in the Prospectus qua providing exemption to the category of the petitioners, sought to be achieved.

31. It is held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Transport and Dock Workers Union & ors. Vs. Mumbai Port Trust & anr., (2011) 2 SCC 575, that differential treatment always does not amount to violation of Article 14 of the Constitution. It violates the same only when there is no reasonable basis for the differentiation. Since, as noticed supra, the exclusion of the category of the petitioners from exemption is based on intelligible differentia and there is a nexus between such exclusion and the object sought to be achieved, therefore, there is no question of violation of Article 14 of the Constitution of India in this case. Support in this regard can be drawn from the judgment of the Apex Court in Shayara Bano vs. Union of India & ors. & connected petitions, (2017) 9 SCC 1. The relevant text thereof reads as follows:

"101. It will be noticed that a Constitution Bench of this Court in Indian Express Newspapers v. Union of India, (1985) 1 SCC 641, stated that it was settled law that subordinate legislation can be challenged on any of the grounds available for challenge against plenary legislation. This being the case, there is no rational distinction between the two types of legislation when it comes to this ground of challenge under Article 14. The test of manifest arbitrariness, therefore, as laid down in the aforesaid judgments would apply to invalidate legislation as well as subordinate legislation under Article 14. Manifest arbitrariness, therefore, must be something done by the legislature capriciously, irrationally and/or without adequate determining principle. Also, when something is done which is excessive and disproportionate, such legislation would be manifestly arbitrary. We are, therefore, of the view that arbitrariness in the sense of manifest arbitrariness as pointed out by us above would apply to negate legislation as well under Article 14."

32. True it is that it is not possible to the State to provide employment to all, however, those who are residing outside the State in connection with their service in private sector or being in private occupation, must also know that their children can seek admission in the Medical/Dental colleges situated in the State only on having passed two examinations out of the four mentioned below clause 1 of item IV(A) of the Prospectus. Therefore, their children like the children of those who are permanently residing in the State can also pass two examinations from the schools situated in the State. They cannot be heard of any grievance nor that declining the exemption to their children is discriminatory or violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. Mr. Sunil Mohan Goel, Advocate, though has tried to draw support from the judgment of this Court in Vikram Singh Negi's case cited supra, however, unsuccessfully because observations in the judgment came to be made while examining the legality and validity of the exemption provided to the exempted category 3(ii). True it is that the Court at that time had no occasion to compare the rights of the petitioners to seek exemption vis-à-vis the right of the exempted category 3(ii), however, for the reasons recorded hereinabove and also to be recorded hereinafter, we find no similarity in the category of the petitioners with exempted category 3(ii). We agree with further submission made by Mr. Sunil Mohan Goel, that the eligibility criteria i.e. requirement of passing two examinations out of four from the Schools situated in the State of Himachal Pradesh held legal and valid by this Court in Gagan Deep's case (supra) should have been applied in letter and spirit. The eligibility criteria should have been applied as it is, however, the policy makers have exempted most probably subsequently some of the categories mentioned in clauses 2, 3 (i) to 3(iii) of main item IV (A). Such benefit was available to the category of the petitioners also in the recent past, however, as discussed hereinabove, the same now stands withdrawn from the current academic session 2018-19. We leave it open to the policy makers to re-consider the desirability of continuing such concession to these categories in future for the reason that when the persons falling under these categories claim themselves to be Himachalis having roots in the society can conveniently make their children to study in the schools situated in their respective areas or elsewhere in the State of Himachal Pradesh, if interested in seeking admission in the Medical/Dental Colleges situate in the State. Their children having not studied from the schools situated in the State amply demonstrate that they have been proclaiming themselves to be a Himachali merely to avail such concession.

(Per: Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.)

4. Per majority view also, the exemption from condition of passing two examinations from the recognized schools situated within the State of Himachal Pradesh by the candidates whose parents are residing outside the State in connection with their private occupation has been held to be rightly deleted from the Prospectus. However, the dis-agreement is only to the limited extent of taking away such exemption from the children of those employees residing out of State of Himachal Pradesh in connection with their employment in private sector, treating them at par, those under Clause 3(ii) of the main item IV(A) in the Prospectus for the previous year. The disagreement qua deletion of Clause 3(iv) of the main item IV(A), therefore, otherwise was also partial.

5. Any how, the State of Himachal Pradesh had preferred the Special Leave to Appeal (C) No. 23025-23026/2018 in the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India against the majority view taken in Shivam Sharma's case supra. In view of the judgment of the Apex Court in Writ Petition (c) No. 766 of 2018 titled Rajdeep Ghosh Vs. State of Assam and others, the Apex Court though not inclined to interfere therewith, however, with the observations that the same be not treated as a precedent. Therefore, the petitioners, in these writ petitions, cannot press in service the majority view taken in Shivam Sharma's case cited supra. Not only this but the Apex Court in Rajdeep Ghosh's case cited supra has taken similar view of the matter as taken by one of us (Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.) in Shivam Sharma's case, while holding that to lay down the essential educational requirements, residential/ domicile in a particular State as the eligibility criteria to seek admission in the MBBS/BDS/Ayurvedic course against the State Quota Seats is legally permissible. The ratio of the judgment in Rajdeep Ghosh's case reads as follows:-

> "32. As held in the aforesaid decisions, it is permissible to lay down the essential educational requirements, residential/domicile in a particular State in respect of basic courses of MBBS/BDS/Ayurvedic. The object sought to be achieved is that the incumbent must serve the State concerned and for the emancipation of the educational standards of the people who are residing in a particular State, such reservation has been upheld by this Court for the inhabitants of the State and prescription of the condition of obtaining an education in a State. The only distinction has been made with respect to post graduate and post doctoral super specialty course.
> 33. Rule 3(1)(c) of the Rules of 2017 lays down the requirement of obtaining education in the State and relaxation has been given to the wards of the State Government employees or Central Government employees or to an employee of Corporation/Agency/instrumentality under the Government of Assam or the Central Government, whether on deputation or transfer on regular posting from obtaining education from class VII to XII for the period his/her father or mother is working outside the State. As urged on behalf of the petitioners the employees of other State Government but residents of Assam, similar relaxation ought to have been made cannot be accepted. Thus, their exclusion cannot be said to be irrational and arbitrary. The wards of the employees in the service of other States like Government employees of Arunachal Pradesh, in our opinion, form a totally different class. When the wards are obtaining education outside and the parents are working in Arunachal Pradesh as Government employee or elsewhere,they are not likely to come back to the State of Assam. As such Government of Assam holds that they should provide preference to State residents/institutional preference cannot be said to unintelligible criteria suffering from vice of arbitrariness in any manner whatsoever, thus, Rule 3(1)(c) framed by the Government of Assam is based on an intelligible differentia and cannot be said to be discriminatory and in violation of Article 14.
> 34. With respect to the private employees also, the submission was raised that wards of private employees working outside the State ought to have been placed at the similar footing as that of the wards of the State Government/Central Government employees etc. In our opinion, when once parents have moved outside in a private employment and wards obtaining education outside, they are not likely to come back, thus, their exclusion as aforestated footing cannot be said to be irrational or illegal.

> 35. It was urged that some of the students may obtain admission in other States for the purpose of better coaching. Relevant data has not been placed on record by the petitioners that in Assam coaching is not available. Apart from that, when they can afford to obtain coaching in States, they stand on a different footing, they are the one who belongs to an affluent class who can afford expensive education in other States and it is not necessary that they should be adjusted in State quota seat, they can stake claim for All India Quota Seats for the State of Assam. They can stake their claim with respect to open seats within the State of Assam. The exclusion is not total for them. However, with respect to the State quota seats, since it is open to the State Government to lay down the educational as well as domicile requirement, incumbents must fulfill the criteria. The criteria so laid down in Rule 3(1)(c) of Rules of 2017, cannot be said to be ultra vires of Article 14 of the Constitution of India."

6. The observations hereinabove made by Hon'ble the Apex Court, therefore, substantiate the view of the matter taken by one of us (Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.) in the judgment rendered in Shivam Sharma's case, reproduced hereinabove.

7. Being so, the points raised in these writ petitions are squarely covered against the petitioners by the law laid down in Rajdeep Ghosh's case cited supra. We, therefore, find no merit in these writ petitions and the same are accordingly dismissed, so also the pending application(s) if any.

Civil Revision No. 134 of 2018
Decided on : 1.7.2019

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908-Section 47– Decree of permanent prohibitory injunction– Execution of– Whether judgment debtor can be asked by way of mandatory injunction to remove obstruction caused by him on path- Executing court directing judgment debtor (JD) to remove stones stacked by him over path– Petition against– JD submitting that in execution of decree of prohibitory injunction, he cannot be asked to remove stones kept on path since there was no decree of mandatory injunction against him– Held, necessary effect of decree of permanent prohibitory injunction is that any obstruction raised upon suit path being amenable for removal by JD– Court is to ensure vigor of conclusive and binding decree of prohibitory injunction and not to render it nugatory and redundant. (Para 3)

For the petitioners: Mr. Romesh Verma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Devender K. Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J (oral)

The dismissal of the JDs objection, against, the execution, of, a binding and conclusive decree, of, permanent prohibitory injunction, wherethrough, the plaintiffs' suit, for restraining the, JDs, from causing any obstruction, upon, suit khasra Nos. 1562/5, 1562/13, and, khasra No. 1567/2, as, depicted in tatima, borne in Ext. PW1/A, stood decreed, hence constrains them, to, institute the instant petition, before this Court.

2. The learned counsel, for the aggrieved JDs, contends with much vigor, before this Court (a) that since the execution petition, embodied in Annexure P-7, makes, a, disclosure, qua the purported obstruction, of, the suit path, rather occurring on 10.3.2013, comprised in erection of stones, by the JDs thereon, (b) and, when also the learned first appellate Court, upon, a, first appeal being reared therebefore by the plaintiffs, against the afore judgment and decree, rendered, by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division) in Civil Suit No. 89, of 2004, (c) and, wherein they espoused, vis-a-vis, rendition of decree of mandatory injunction, for, removal by the JDs, of the afore obstruction, made upon, the suit land, (d) and, with the learned first appellate Court, hence dismissing the appeal, (e) thereupon, unless a Regular Second Appeal was filed, against declining, of, the afore relief of mandatory injunction, for, hence directing the defendants, to, remove, the afore obstruction, upon the suit land, (f) thereupon the verdict rendered vis-a-vis, the defendants, acquiring conclusivity, and, the learned Executing Court being barred, to, order for removal of obstruction, if any, created by the JDs, upon, the suit bath, (g) given the learned Executing Court hence evidently , going beyond the decree. However, the afore contention, reared before this Court, by the learned counsel for the JDs, is not accepted by this Court, (i) as the afore submission, is rested upon his, not reading the relief clause, of the plaint, wherein the plaintiffs, had espoused for rendition, of a decree, vis-a-vis, the defendants, for, the latters being restrained from causing any nuisance or obstruction, to, the plaintiffs, vis-a-vis, the user by them, of, suit khasra numbers, as a suit path, (ii) and, when, upon, the afore relief canvassed, in, Civil Suit No.89 of 2004, a conclusive and binding decree stood granted, vis-a-vis, the plaintiffs/decree holders, (iii) thereupon, obviously, it also bears, the, necessary effect, qua any obstruction raised, upon the suit path, even during the pendency of the Civil Suit, being amenable for removal by the JDs, (iv) for thereupon, ensuring qua hence the vigor of the conclusive, and, binding decree, of, permanent and prohibitory injunction, rendered upon the afore espousal, of the plaintiffs, being not rendered both nugatory, and, redundant.

3. Even otherwise, the declining of relief, to, the plaintiffs-decree holders, by the learned First Appellate Court, vis-a-vis, rendition, of, decree, of, mandatory injunction, cannot operative as a bar, upon the learned Executing Court, to, efficaciously execute, the, conclusive and binding decree, of permanent prohibitory injunction, rendered vis-a-vis, the suit khasra numbers, (a) given a reading of the apposite rendition unfolding qua only for want, of best evidence, in respect of the afore obstruction, being raised by the JDs, upon, the suit khasra numbers, hence, it, declining the decree, of mandatory injunction, and, whereas, the afore evidence being, yet, elicitable rather by the learned Executing Court.

4. Once the learned Executing Court, has, made a order to ensure the fullest and efficacious execution, of, a binding and conclusive decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, rendered vis-a-vis, the user of the suit path, by the plaintiffs-decree holders, (i) thereupon recourses, vis-a-vis, the, aegises of the revenue officers, is, necessary, (ii) moreso, for, ensuring execution, of, necessary determination(s) of dimensions thereof, (iii) thereupon the dismissal of the JDs objection, vis-a-vis, the conclusive, and, binding decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, cannot be, interfered with. However, the learned executing Court is directed, to elicit, the report of the demarcating officer, for determining qua any obstruction, upon, the suit path, being raised, in any manner by the petitioners herein, (iv) and, upon receiving of the afore report, of the Local Commissioner, the learned Executing Court, is, directed to order for removal, of the requisite obstructions, made upon, the suit path. The parties are directed to appear before the learned Executing Court, on 25.7.2019.

5. In view of the above observations, there is no merit in the instant petition, and, the same is accordingly dismissed. All pending applications if any, also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

6. Any observation made herein above shall not be taken as any expression of opinion on the merits of the case, and, the learned Court concerned, shall decide the matter uninfluenced, by any observation made hereinabove.

Decided on : 2.7.2019

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988– Section 166– Motor accident– Claim application- Compensation towards leave availed by claimant during treatment, medical rest and hiring services of domestic help etc – Grant of - Held, in absence of any evidence as to kind of leave i.e., earned leave or medical leave taken by claimant during hospitalization and medical rest no compensation can be granted on ground that claimant could have got that leave (earned leave) encashed at time of retirement - Similarly in absence of necessary evidence qua availing of services of domestic help during prolonged hospitalization and subsequent to recuperation compensation cannot be awarded to claimant. (Paras 3 & 4)

For the appellant: Mr. Sanjeev Bhushan, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Abhilasha Kaundal, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Deepak Bhasin, Advocate, for respondent No.1.
Mr. Divya Raj Singh, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J. (oral)

The disabled claimant standing, aggrieved, by the award, rendered, by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Chamba, Division Chamba, H.P. (for short "MACT"), upon, M.A.C. No. 35 of 2017, has, hence through the instant appeal before this Court, sought enhancement of the compensation amount, assessed therethrough, vis-a-vis, her.

2. The disabled claimant, stood entailed, with a 40% disability, as reflected in the disability certificate, borne in Ext. PW-4/A, and, hence her counsel contends, that, the learned MACT concerned, has failed to assess compensation, (a) qua her, despite, hers remaining hospitalized for six months, and, during the afore prolonged period of her hospitalization, hers' being granted earned leave, and, thereupon, on her superannuation, there hence occurring diminutions, vis-a-vis, the period, of, leave encashment, and, thereupon hers standing entitled, qua monetary values thereof being recompensed. However, the afore submission, addressed before this Court, by the learned counsel for the appellant, is destabilized, (i) as a thorough reading, of her testification, embodied in her affidavit, affidavit whereof stands borne, in, Ext. PW-1/A, and, exhibit whereof stood tendered, during the course, of, her examination-in-chief, rather not, carry any echoings in tandem therewith nor any documentary evidence, hence stood adduced, with echoings carried therein, vis-a-vis, the nature, of, leave applied, for, by the disabled claimant, (b), and, it carrying, the, concomitant effect, (ii) vis-a-vis, hence gross reductions, in the disabled claimants' entitlement, for, availing the requisite leave encashment, on her superannaution, standing encumbered hence upon her.

3. Furthermore, the learned counsel for the disabled claimant, also, contends that the afore gross percentum, of disability, entailed upon her, also rendering her, incapacitated to perform, domestic services rather both, during, the, prolonged period of her hospitalization, and, also subsequent, to, her recuperation, and, hence when she was constrained, to, engage the services, of, helping hand(s), (a) and hence the expenditures, incurred in respect(s) thereof, being also enjoined to be assessed, as compensation, vis-a-vis, her, (b) given there occurring, a, direct nexus, inter-se, the disability entailed, upon her, and, the domestic service(s)/helps, performing, the, afore hitherto chores, as, stood performed by her. Moreover, the afore submission is also bereft of any vigor, as no echoing, in tandem therewith, stands borne in her affidavit, adduced, into evidence, as Ext. PW-1/A nor any befitting documentary evidence, also, stands not adduced rather on record.

4. Be that as it may, the learned counsel, for the claimant, submits that the learned MACT, had awarded, vis-a-vis, the disabled claimant only, a sum of Rs. 1,88,222/-, under, the head "medical expenses", despite, the factum that, the claimant had tendered into evidence, certain exhibited medical bills, carrying therein monetary value(s), rather beyond the afore amount(s). The medical bills, were permitted to be exhibited, by the learned counsel for the insurer, and, the effect of the learned counsel, for the insurer permitting, hence, exhibition marks being made upon, the, afore bills also renders incapacitated, the learned counsel, for, the insurer, to, before Court, make any contentions, qua given the amount(s), borne in the afore exhibits, being beyond the claim, reared by the claimant, in the claim petition, hence the disabled claimant, being entitled, only to the sums reflected in paragraph-14, of the claim petition. Furthermore, though, the learned counsel for the insurer, has contended, that the disabled claimant, during, the course of her cross-examination, rather voluntarily rendering, a, testification, vis-a-vis, the expenses incurred, towards the treatment, of, her injuries, as, stood entailed upon her, especially at private hospitals, being partly reimbursed, to her, (b) and, therefrom he makes, a contention, that, the total of the medical expenditure(s), borne in the relevant exhibits, being not assessable as compensation, vis-a-vis, the disabled claimant, under, the head "medical expenses". However, even the afore submission, cannot be accepted, by this Court, as thereafter, the learned counsel, for the insurer, appearing before the learned Tribunal below, did not, ensure adduction into evidence, of, documentary evidence qua all the expenditure(s) incurred by her, towards her medical treatment rather standing reimbursed to her, and, wherefrom, rather, it was fathomable, qua the precise amounts, of, the medical expenses, as, stands borne, in the relevant exhibits, standing not reimbursed to her, or, vis-a-vis, the precise amounts thereof standing reimbursed to her. Consequently, the effect, of the afore omission, is, qua, the learned counsel, for the insurer being disabled, to, contend qua the entire amount, as, stands carried, in, the relevant exhibits, being not reimbursable, to her.

Consequently, excepting the amount(s), adjudged, vis-a-vis, the disabled claimant, as compensation to her, under, the head "medical expenses", the remainders' thereof, as, borne in the relevant exhibits, also, stand assessed, as compensation to her, under the head, "medical expenses".

5. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed, by the disabled claimant, is in, the afore manner hence partly allowed, and, the impugned award, is, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified, and, the afore modified amount, shall carry thereon interest @ 9%, per annum, from, the date of petition, till deposit, of the apposite amount. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

For the Petitioner : Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Senior Advocate with Mr. Ajay Kochhar and Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocates.

For the Respondent : Mr. Sanjeev Sood, Additional Advocate General with Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge (oral):

Bail petitioner namely Vinay Dhawan, who is behind bars since 7.5.2018, has approached this Court in the instant proceedings filed under Section 439 of Cr.PC, praying therein for grant of regular bail in connection with FIR No. 110/18, dated 7.5.2018, under Section 302 read with Section 34 of IPC, registered at P.S. Baddi, District Solan, H.P.

2. Sequel to order dated 13.6.2019, SI Mehar Singh Chauhan, P.S. Baddi, District Solan, H.P., has come present alongwith records. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, has also placed on record status report prepared on the basis of investigation carried out by the Investigating Agency.

3. Record made available to this Court reveals that on 7.5.2018, complainant namely Jagmohan got his statement recorded under Section 154 Cr.PC., at PS Baddi, District Solan, H.P., alleging therein that on 6.5.2018, at 5:00 pm, when he had gone to his fields near Omexe colony, he saw deceased Harjinder Pal getting the construction of room done in his field. He further alleged that at 6:00 pm, above named Harjinder Pal went to his shop i.e. Kanishk Gasage and thereafter at 8:00pm, accused Ramesh, who runs City Cable at Baddi, came on the spot alongwith his son and other four five people. Firstly, above named accused hurled abuses at deceased Harjinder Pal and thereafter gave him merciless beatings using swords, daggers and knives etc. As per complainant, when deceased Harjinder fell on road on account of beatings given to him by the accused Ramesh Dhawan, present bail petitioner and with other persons, accused Ramesh Dhawan ran over his vehicle bearing HP12H-0389 (XUV) over the deceased Harjinder Pal. Complainant as well as other persons present on the spot tried to stop Ramesh Dhawan and other persons, but he succeeded in fleeing away from the spot. Complainant Jagmohan with the help of other people took the deceased Harjinder Pal to CHC Baddi. On the basis of aforesaid statement made by the complainant, formal FIR as detailed herein above came to be lodged against the accused namely Ramesh Dhawan and Vinay Dhawan i.e. present bail petitioner. As per investigation Ramesh Dhawan, who allegedly ran over the vehicle over the deceased Harjinder Pal absconded and subsequently, he was arrested at Sales Tax Toll at Baddi, whereas present bail petitioner, who happens to be son of Ramesh Dhawan, came to be arrested from his house on the same day.

4. Record reveals that during investigation though complainant maintained that present bail petitioner Vinay Dhawan was also present on the spot at the time of alleged incident alongwith his father Ramesh Dhawan, but all other witnesses associated by Investigating Agency save and except another witness Munish, nowhere stated something specific with regard to presence of the present bail petitioner Vinay Dhawan. Even initial version put forth by the complainant Jagmohan that at the first instance, deceased Harjinder Pal was given beatings by the co-accused Ramesh Dhawan and other persons with the aid of swords, daggers and knives never came to be corroborated by other witnesses of spot associated by the Investigating Agency. Record reveals that since police in preliminary inquiry arrived at a conclusion that presence of the present bail petitioner Vinay Dhawan is doubtful on the spot on the alleged date of incident, it moved an application under Section 169 Cr.PC for discharge of present bail petitioner, but before this application could be decided by the court below, complainant Jagmohan along with person namely Raghubir, approached the police with an intention to give supplementary statement. In supplementary statement, complainant Jagmohan though denied that at the time of alleged incident, knives, daggers and swords were used by the accused Ramesh Dhawan and other persons, but maintained that on the date of alleged incident, present bail petitioner Vinay Dhawan was also present on the spot alongwith his father. Another person namely Raghubir also supported aforesaid version put forth by the complainant. After recording of aforesaid fresh statements given by the complainant and person namely Rahubir, police withdrew the application filed by it under Section 169 Cr.PC. Now investigation in the case is complete and challan stands filed in the competent court of law.

5. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General while fairly acknowledging factum with regard to completion of investigation and filing of challan contends that there is overwhelming evidence available on record suggestive of the fact that present bail petitioner was also present on the spot along with his father Ramesh Dhawan at the time of the alleged incident. He further contends that keeping in view the overall evidence collected on record by the Investigating Agency, it cannot be said that present bail petitioner did not play any active role at the time of alleged incident and as such, keeping in view the gravity of offence alleged to have been committed by the present bail petitioner along with his father Ramesh Dhawan, present petition deserves to be dismissed. Lastly, Mr. Thakur, contends that this court cannot lose sight of the fact that one person has lost his life in the alleged incident, who was allegedly crushed to death by the bail petitioner and another co-accused Ramesh Dhawan.

6. Mr. Satyen Vaidya, learned Senior counsel duly assisted by Mr. Ajay Kochhar and Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocates, contends that bare perusal of statements given by the witnesses associated by the Investigating Agency, especially, subsequent statement given by the complainant on 15.5.2018, clearly suggests that present bail petitioner has been falsely implicated. Mr. Vaidya, contends that bare perusal of statements made by witnesses associated by the Investigating Agency nowhere suggests that present bail petitioner first gave beatings to the deceased and thereafter, crushed him under the tyres of his vehicle, which in fact was being driven by his father Ramesh Dhawan. Mr. Vaidya while specifically referring to the subsequent statement made by the complainant on 5.5.2018, made a serious attempt to persuade this Court to agree with his contention that version put forth by the complainant cannot be believed, because initially he alleged that deceased Harjinder Pal was beaten by Ramesh Dhawan using swords, knives and daggers, but subsequently, he in his supplementary statement categorically retracted from earlier statement and claimed that present bail petitioner was also present. Lastly, Mr. Vaidya contends that even as per CDR details, tower location of the bail petitioner was not found to be of the alleged spot of incident.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused record made available to this Court, this Court finds that initially, complainant in his statement recorded on 7.5.2018, alleged that accused Ramesh Dhawan along with his son came to the spot and hurled abuses on deceased Harjinder Pal. He also alleged in that statement that thereafter deceased Harjinder Pal was given beatings by the accused Ramesh Dhawan and other 4-5 people using swords, knives and daggers, but interestingly, this witness in his supplementary statement, which he got recorded on 15.5.2018, took a u-turn and stated that his initial statement to the effect that deceased Harjinder Pal was given beatings with the aid of swords, knives and daggers was not correct and as such, there appears to be force in the argument of Mr. Satyen Vaidya, learned Senior Counsel that version put forth by the complainant is required to be taken into consideration with utmost caution, especially, when none of other witnesses associated by the Investigating Agency fully corroborated the version put forth by the complainant.

8. It is not in dispute that after preliminary inquiry, police had filed an application under Section 169 Cr.PC seeking discharge of present bail petitioner, whose presence on the spot was found to be highly doubtful. But as has been noticed herein above, complainant having noticed filing of application under Section 169 Cr.PC got his fresh statement recorded on 5.5.2018, retracting from his earlier statement with regard to use of knives, swords and daggers, but reiterated that present bail petitioner Vinay Dhawan was also present on the spot. Careful perusal of both the statements made on 7.5.2018 and 15.5.2018, otherwise nowhere suggests that present bail petitioner crushed deceased Harjinder Pal under the tyres of vehicle, because he in both the statements has categorically stated that accused Ramesh Dhawan ran over the vehicle over the body of the deceased Harjinder Pal. Medical evidence adduced on record clearly suggests that deceased Harjinder Pal died on account of crush injuries suffered by him. Even if version put forth by all the witnesses associated by the Investigating Agency is presumed to be correct, in that situation also, there is nothing to suggest that present bail petitioner played role, if any, in crushing the deceased Harjinder Pal, who admittedly died on account of injuries suffered by him on account of his being crushed under the vehicle, which was allegedly being driven by the accused Ramesh Dhawan.

9. Needless to say, mere insertion of Section 34 IPC is not sufficient to hold the present bail petitioner guilty of having committed offence punishable under Section 302 of IPC, rather prosecution in this regard is required to prove that the present bail petitioner alongwith other co-accused had come to the spot with prior preparation and with an intent to kill the deceased, which evidence at this stage is lacking. See. Judgment passed by a coordinate Bench of this Court in case titled Jeet Ram v. State of HP, Latest HLJ 2003 (HP) 23.

10. Though aforesaid aspects of the matter are to be considered and decided by the court below on the basis of totality of evidence collected on record by the Investigating Agency, but this Court having perused material available on record at this stage, sees no reason to let the bail petitioner incarcerate in jail for an indefinite period, especially when challan stands filed in the competent court of law and nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner. Otherwise also, this Court was unable to lay its hand to any evidence led on record suggestive of the fact that in the event of petitioner's being enlarged on bail, he may flee from justice and temper with the evidence. Leaving everything aside, this Court is alive of the fact that guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner is yet to be proved in accordance with law by the prosecution by leading cogent and convincing evidence and as such, it would not be appropriate to curtail his freedom for an indefinite period.

11. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr., decided on 6.2.2018, has categorically held that a fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. Hon'ble Apex Court further held that while considering prayer for grant of bail, it is important to ascertain whether the accused was participating in the investigations to the satisfaction of the investigating officer and was not absconding or not appearing when required by the investigating officer. Hon'ble Apex Court has further held that if an accused is not hiding from the investigating officer or is hiding due to some genuine and expressed fear of being victimized, it would be a factor that a judge would need to consider in an appropriate case. The relevant paras of the aforesaid judgment are reproduced as under:

> "2. A fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. However, there are instances in our criminal law where a reverse onus has been placed on an accused with regard to some specific offences but that is another matter and does not detract from the fundamental postulate in respect of other offences. Yet another important facet of our criminal jurisprudence is that the grant of bail is the general rule and putting a person in jail or in a prison or in a correction home (whichever expression one may wish to use) is an exception. Unfortunately, some of these basic principles appear to have been lost sight of with the result that more and more persons are being incarcerated and for longer periods. This does not do any good to our criminal jurisprudence or to our society.

3. There is no doubt that the grant or denial of bail is entirely the discretion of the judge considering a case but even so, the exercise of judicial discretion has been circumscribed by a large number of decisions rendered by this Court and by every High Court in the country. Yet, occasionally there is a necessity to introspect whether denying bail to an accused person is the right thing to do on the facts and in the circumstances of a case.

4. While so introspecting, among the factors that need to be considered is whether the accused was arrested during investigations when that person perhaps has the best opportunity to tamper with the evidence or influence witnesses. If the investigating officer does not find it necessary to arrest an accused person during investigations, a strong case should be made out for placing that person in judicial custody after a charge sheet is filed. Similarly, it is important to ascertain whether the accused was participating in the investigations to the satisfaction of the investigating officer and was not absconding or not appearing when required by the investigating officer. Surely, if an accused is not hiding from the investigating officer or is hiding due to some genuine and expressed fear of being victimised, it would be a factor that a judge would need to consider in an appropriate case. It is also necessary for the judge to consider whether the accused is a first-time offender or has been accused of other offences and if so, the nature of such offences and his or her general conduct. The poverty or the deemed indigent status of an accused is also an extremely important factor and even Parliament has taken notice of it by incorporating an Explanation to Section 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. An equally soft approach to incarceration has been taken by Parliament by inserting Section 436A in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

5. To put it shortly, a humane attitude is required to be adopted by a judge, while dealing with an application for remanding a suspect or an accused person to police custody or judicial custody. There are several reasons for this including maintaining the dignity of an accused person, howsoever poor that person might be, the requirements of Article 21 of the Constitution and the fact that there is enormous overcrowding in prisons, leading to social and other problems as noticed by this Court in In Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons.

12. Needless to say object of the bail is to secure the attendance of the accused in the trial and the proper test to be applied in the solution of the question whether bail should be granted or refused is whether it is probable that the party will appear to take his trial. Otherwise, bail is not to be withheld as a punishment. Otherwise also, normal rule is of bail and not jail. Court has to keep in mind nature of accusations, nature of evidence in support thereof, severity of the punishment which conviction will entail, character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused involved in that crime.

13. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sanjay Chandra versus Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 Supreme Court Cases 49; held as under:-

> "The object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it can be required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The Courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty. Detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In India , it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the propose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson."

14. In Manoranjana Sinh Alias Gupta versus CBI 2017 (5) SCC 218, The Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:-

> " This Court in Sanjay Chandra v. CBI, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive or preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him to taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has to be exercised with care ad caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of > the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and the grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

15. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Prasanta Kumar Sarkar v. Ashis Chatterjee and Another (2010) 14 SCC 496, has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind, while deciding petition for bail:

> (i). whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;
>
> (ii). nature and gravity of the accusation;
>
> (iii). severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;
>
> (iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;
>
> (v). character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;
>
> (vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;
>
> (vi) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and
> (vi) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

16. In view of the aforesaid discussion as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, petitioner has carved out a case for grant of bail, accordingly, the petition is allowed and the petitioner is ordered to be enlarged on bail in aforesaid FIR, subject to his furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rs. 2,00,000/- with one local surety in the like amount to the satisfaction of concerned Chief Judicial Magistrate/trial Court Solan/Nalagarh, with following conditions:

> (a). He shall make himself available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;
>
> (b). He shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;
>
> (c). He shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and
>
> (d) He shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

17. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses the liberty or violate any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

18. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this application alone. The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE CHANDER BHUSAN BAROWALIA, J.

Dr. Joginder Singh Chauhan & anr. .....Petitioners

Versus

Praveen Dulta Chauhan & Ors. .....Respondents

CMPMO No. 424 of 2017
Reserved on: 03.05.2019
Decided on: 21.05.2019

Guardian and Wards Act, 1890 - Section 25 –Child Access and Custody Guidelines alongwith Parenting Plan adopted by High Court of Himachal Pradesh – Custody of minor or visitation rights - Grant of – Relevant considerations – Boy aged 8 years residing with mother and maternal grandparents on account of strained relations between his mother and father – Multiple litigation between two in different courts – Husband committing suicide allegedly on account of torture of wife and her relatives and FIR for abetment to commit suicide also registered against wife and her parents on basis of suicide note of deceased – Paternal grandparents praying for custody of minor child – Held, child has been deprived of love and affection of his parental grandparents – Custody of child should remain with mother so that she could bring him up with due care – Parental grandparents given visitation rights once in week for eight hours from morning to evening – During school vacations, they would be having custody of child for one week. (Paras 13 to 16)

For the petitioners: Mr. B.C. Negi, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Peeyush Verma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Neeraj Gupta, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Poonam Gehlot, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition, under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has been maintained by the petitioners against the order dated 24.07.2017, passed by learned Civil Judge (Sr. Div.), Shimla, H.P. in CMA No. 103-6 of 2016, whereby the application filed by the petitioners under Section 25 of the Guardian and Wards Act, read with Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure for interim directions with regard to the custody of minor respondent No. 4, Master Vedant, has been partly allowed and they were held entitled for visitation rights of respondent No. 4, Master Vedant once in a week, i.e. every Sunday.

2. Briefly stating facts giving rise to the present petition are that marriage between respondent No. 1 and son of the petitioners was solemnized on 09.12.2010 and out of wedlock of their son and respondent No. 1, a male child was born on 31.08.2011. After the said marriage respondent No. 1 refused to perform household chores and her behavior towards the family was not cordial. On account of disputes between the son of the petitioners and respondent No. 1, several cases were initiated and during intervening night of 01.12.2016 and 02.12.2016, their son committed suicide, leaving behind a suicide note stating details of facts and circumstances of his death. Subsequently, a case under Section 306 of the Indian Penal Code was registered against respondents No. 1 to 3, at Police Station New Shimla, H.P. and after their arrest, minor respondent No. 4, Master Vedant, has been left all alone in the custody of relatives of the respondents. Hence, the application under Section 25 of the Guardian and Wards Act, read with Section 151 CPC has been filed by the petitioners.

3. Learned trial Court vide order dated 24.07.2017, partly allowed the application of the petitioners and held them entitled for visitation rights of respondent No. 4, Master Vedant once in a week, i.e. every Sunday. However, their prayer for custody of minor has been rejected. Hence the present petition.

4. Mr. B.C. Negi, leaned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioners has argued that paternal grand parents after loosing their son have esteem love and affection with the grand son and at this old age they wanted to have the custody of their grand son. Mr. Negi, learned Senior Counsel has further argued that though paternal grand parents are affluent enough to invest anything for the welfare of the grand son and similar is the situation with respect to maternal grand parents, however, the paternal grand parents need the custody of the child, as he is from their blood and afterall he has to inherit them.

5. On the other hand, Mr. Neeraj Gupta, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents has argued that the litigation inter se the parties, after the death of the father of the child, had made the relations of parties so strained that it is difficult for the child to accept the paternal grand parents and in these circumstances, the petition is liable to be dismissed, as the paternal grand parents have visitation rights as per the order of learned Court below.

6. In rebuttal, Mr. Negi, learned Senior Counsel has argued that it is very difficult for the paternal grand parents to meet the child in the house of the respondents and the purpose of visitation rights will only be solved, if the custody of the child is given temporarily at least to the paternal grand parents. In support of his arguments, Mr. Negi, has placed reliance upon Child Access and Custody Guidelines alongwith Parenting Plan, which are adopted by this High Court.

7. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel for the parties, this Court has gone through the records in detail.

8. It is true that minor child has been deprived of love and affection of the father due to litigation going on inter se the couple at that time on their small matters, which is yet to be adjudicated upon by the criminal Court, where those proceedings are pending. Late Mr. Nitin Chauhan, seems to have been a strong bond with the child and with his family. Which is evident from the fact that he has ended his life, as per the averments which has come on record. The child is now studying in D.A.V. Sr. Secondary School, New Shimla and as disclosed by the parties when present in the Court, the paternal grand parents are residing in New Shimla and maternal grand parents alongwith their daughter (mother of minor) and the child are residing below Khalini. Whenever child goes to school, he goes by passing near the house of his paternal grand parents.

9. It has been vehemently contended by the parties that the mediation in this case was tried many a times, however, no fruitful purpose has been achieved. Even this Court has also tried to make the parties to arrive at some compromise and though the paternal and maternal grand parents attended the Court, but maternal grand parents seems to be annoyed for getting them involved in a criminal case.

10. This Court has considered the aspect that the child who has to get the love and affection of both grand parents, has been deprived of getting love and affection of paternal grand parents. At this stage, this Court has also considered the aspect that it is Smt. Praveen Dulta Chauhan, the mother, who is to be granted custody of the minor child, but, at the same point of time, the emotions of paternal grand parents are also required to be considered for granting the visitation rights and especially in the circumstance when they see their son in the grand child.

11. The grand son of the petitioners is eight years of age and studying in first class. This Court has taken into consideration the Child Access and Custody Guidelines alongwith Parenting Plan as adopted by this High Court and as per these guidelines, the basic principles of the Courts are to ensure that the child/children get(s) to spend equal or substantial and significant time to be showered with love and affection from both the parents irrespective of parent's conflict and efforts should be made by parties and if necessary Court should direct parties to mutually agree upon a visitation schedule to be drawn up alongwith Marriage Counselor within a maximum period of 60 days. Pending, finalization of mutual final overnight visitation agreement, an interim access has to be worked out immediately. In the present case inspite of various conciliatory/ mediatory proceedings nothing has come up, so it is now for the Court to decide about the visitation rights.

12. Now coming to the visitation rights of non-custodial parents for children above 36 months and older. The guidelines provides that, the non-custodial parent shall be entitled to weekend visitation every other weekend or every weekend one night every week. Every other weekend visitation shall begin Friday at 6:00 p.m. and end at 6:00 p.m. on Sunday. If every weekend visitation is opted then every week overnight visitation shall begin either from every Friday at 6:00 p.m., and end on Saturday 6:00 p.m. Or from every Saturday 6:00 p.m. and end at 6:00 p.m. on Sunday. It is not the responsibility of the custodial parent to provide food or shelter for the child during the non-custodial parent parent's visitation.

13. This Court has taken into consideration all the material which has come on record and the factum of pendency of the criminal proceedings against maternal grand parents and mother and taking into consideration the welfare of the child, this Court concludes that the custody of the child should remain with the mother and she should bring up the child with due care, love and emotions. She should give so much love to the child and her maternal parents should also shover so much blessings on the child that he should never feel the loss of his father in his life throughout and always see till he gets mature, his maternal grand father as his father. So, the custody of the child is required to be given to the mother, living with her parents.

14. As far as maternal grand parents are concerned taking into consideration the fact that they are prosperous enough to bestow any monitory favour to the minor child, but the paternal grand parents who had lost their son and have hopes on the grand son to come and inherit them one day, are also required to be given visitation rights to the child. Now once holding that visitation rights are required to be given to the paternal grand parents, whether granting them visitation rights in the house of maternal grand parents will meet the ends of justice? The answer is "no", because there will be a stress and atmosphere of negativism, as maternal grand parents are facing criminal trial for the allegations with respect to the death of their son-in-law.

15. In these circumstances, this Court finds that paternal grand parents are required to be given visitation rights in such a manner that they can take away the minor who is eight years of age once in a week on holiday for eight hours from morning to evening to have a feeling of oneness with their grand son. When the holidays will come, this Court leave it to the parties to decide exact time of week among themselves that in the first year the custody of the child be given to the paternal grand parents at least for seven days intermediately or continuously to get acquainted with the grand paternal parents.

16. This Court having failed to get the parties mediated, even though the mediator has made many efforts, has now to bound the parties as under:

> (i) That on every weekend for eight hours grand maternal parents and mother of the child will hand over the custody of the minor to paternal grand parents, who will return the child in the evening to the maternal grand parents and mother at their residence.
>
> (ii) Whenever there will be vacation in the school, the custody of the child will be given for one week, which mutually the parties will decide, i.e. with breaks or continuously to the paternal grand parents for the first year and for increase or decrease of the same, if need be, the parties are at liberty to approach this Court.
>
> (iii) It is expected from the parties that they should love the child. Loving the child does not mean that they should do something to make the child comfortable, it means that they should do something with which the child develops and progress to become a very able, competent, smart person in the times to come. Afterall the mother, maternal grand parents and paternal grand parents have a vital role to play throughout the life of the child and till the time he gets mature enough to understand his well-being. This Court expects the parties to do best as per their intellectual, physical and monitory capacities for the welfare of the child.
> (iv) It is also expected that the interest of the child should be acquainted with the activities, when taken on weekends making the physical and mental growth by providing him sports articles and good books to read and to be taught, including religious epics.

This Court is making these observations, as the custody of the child has been decided by the order of the Court and the parties have failed to mediate themselves.

17. With the aforesaid direction, the petition, so also pending application(s), if any, stands disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE CHANDER BHUSAN BAROWALIA, J.

State of Himachal Pradesh ……Appellant
Versus
Joban Dass ……Respondent

Cr. Appeal No. 332 of 2009
Reserved on: 09.05.2019
Decided on: 21.05.2019

Punjab Excise Act, 1914 (as applicable to state of HP) -Section 61 (1)(a) – Recovery of illicit liquor- Proof – Prosecution alleging recovery of can containing illicit liquor from accused – Trial court acquitting accused- Appeal by state- Held, spot of alleged recovery surrounded by about 30 houses – No independent person called to join investigation before conducting search – Non-joining of independent persons when easily available makes prosecution case doubtful – Evidence of police witnesses not inspiring any confidence – Appeal dismissed- Acquittal upheld. (Paras 6 & 7)

Cases referred:
Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415
K. Prakashan vs. P.K. Surenderan, (2008) 1 SCC 258
T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (2006) 1 SCC 401

For the appellant : Mr. Shiv Pal Manhans and Mr. P.K. Bhatti, Additional Advocates General with Mr. Raju Ram Rahi, Deputy Advocate General.
For the respondent : Mr. H.K.S. Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge

The present appeal, under Section 378 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, has been maintained by the appellant-State of Himachal Pradesh, assailing the judgment of acquittal, dated 01.01.2009, passed by learned Sub Divisional Judicial Magistrate, Rampur Bushahr, District Shimla, H.P. in Criminal Case No. 94-3 of 2006, under Section 61-1-14 of Punjab Excise Act (hereinafter to be called as "the Act"), as applicable to State of Himachal Pradesh.

2. Briefly the facts giving rise to the present appeal as per the prosecution story are that on 18.03.2006, at about 7:15 p.m., when HC Kewal Singh, HHC Sunder Singh, No. 304 and Constable Shiv Ram were present at place Labana Sadana in execution of their routine patrolling duty, they found a person carrying a plastic can in his right hand. The person on seeing the police party got perplexed and on suspicion he was arrested. During his personal search, he was found in conscious and exclusive possession of one plastic can, containing three bottles of illicit liquor. After separating one nip as sample, both the nips as well as sample were sealed with seal 'A' and taken into possession. FIR was registered against the accused at Police Station Jhakri. Site plan was prepared and statements of witnesses were recorded. On receipt of chemical examiner report, final police report was prepared and presented before the learned trial Court.

3. Prosecution, in order to prove its case, examined as many as six witnesses. Statement of the accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr. P.C, wherein he denied the prosecution case and claimed innocence. Accused did not lead any defence evidence. The learned trial Court, vide impugned judgment dated 01.01.2009, acquitted the accused for the commission of offence, punishable under Section 61-1-14 of the Act, hence the present appeal.

4. Learned Additional Advocate General, has argued that the prosecution has proved the guilt of the accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt. On the other hand, learned counsel for the accused-respondent has argued that the alleged quantity of three bottles of illicit liquor stated to be recovered from the respondent is a concocted story, as no independent witness was associated by the police. Even the Investigating Officer in his statement has specifically stated that he does not find it appropriate to associate any independent witness. So, the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused-respondent beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt and, therefore, the well reasoned judgment of acquittal, passed by the learned trial Court needs no interference. In rebuttal, learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the prosecution has proved the guilt of the accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt and as there was no independent witness was available on the spot, after re-appreciating the evidence, the judgment of acquittal passed by learned trial Court be set aside and accused be convicted for the commission of offence, he was charged with.

5. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel for the parties, this Court has gone through the record in detail and minutely scrutinized the statements of the witnesses.

6. The most incriminating evidence against the accused in the instant case is seizure memo, Ext. PW-2/A, vide which plastic can, Ext. P-1 alongwith nip sample was taken into possession. The seizure memo was signed by the accused, as well two official witnesses. Both these witnesses, i.e. Sunder Singh and Shiv Ram has appeared in the witness box as PW-2 and PW-4. As per the statements of these witnesses on 18.03.2006 at about 7:15 p.m. they found a person carrying a plastic can in his hand. Both these witnesses have admitted that on the spot there were about 30 houses, however, they did not associate any independent witnesses. Similarly, PW-6, Investigating Officer has also admitted that there is close vicinity nearby the spot, but he did not find it proper to associate any independent witness.

7. After going through the evidence of PW-2, PW-4 and PW-6, who are official and material witnesses of this case, this Court finds that when independent witnesses were available on spot the Investigating Officer should have associate them. However, the Investigating Officer simply stated that he does not find it proper to associate independent witnesses. The non joining of the independent prosecution witnesses when they were available, makes the prosecution case doubtful with respect to recovery of three bottles of illicit liquor. At the same point of time the testimony of official witnesses are required to be scrutinized with care and caution, when their statements are not confidence inspiring and in the case in hand also, the statement of official witnesses are not confidence inspiring. In these circumstance, after taking into consideration the evidence, which has come on record and testimonies of the witnesses, even after re-appreciating the evidence, this Court finds that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt and the well reasoned judgment of acquittal, passed by the learned trial Court, needs no interference.

8. It has been held in K. Prakashan vs. P.K. Surenderan (2008) 1 SCC 258, that when two views are possible, appellate Court should not reverse the judgment of acquittal merely because the other view was possible. When judgment of trial Court was neither perverse, nor suffered from any legal infirmity or non consideration/misappreciation of evidence on record, reversal thereof by High Court was not justified.

9. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2006) 1 SCC 401, has held that where two views are reasonably possible from the very same evidence, prosecution cannot be said to have proved its case beyond reasonable doubt.

10. In Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415,the Hon'ble Supreme Court has culled out the following principles qua powers of the appellate Courts while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal :

> "42. From the above decisions, in ourconsidered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:

(1) An appellate court has full power to review, reappreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

(2) The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1873 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

(3) Various expressions, such as, 'substantial and compelling reasons', 'good and sufficient grounds', 'very strong circumstances', 'distorted conclusions', 'glaring mistakes', etc. are not intended to curtail extensive powers of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of 'flourishes of language' to emphasise the reluctance of an appellate court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

(4) An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

(5) If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court."

11. In view of the aforesaid decisions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the discussion made hereinabove, I find no merit in this appeal and the same deserves dismissal and is accordingly dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stands disposed of.

Decided on: 21.05.2019

Indian Penal Code, 1860- Section 304-A- Death by medical negligence– Proof– Prosecution alleging that accused by his medical negligence caused death of sister of complainant – Trial court acquitting accused – Appeal against – Evidence on record revealing (i) victim visited hospital of accused for kidney ailment and her X-ray examination showed that she had kidney stone and needed operation (ii) during operation she died and death certificate indicated reason of death as perforation and rupture of intestine– (iii) accused gave fair treatment to deceased and made every possible effort for her betterment–

Held, death of deceased was a sheer accident– Accused had no mens rea and was not negligent in conducting operation– Appeal dismissed– Acquittal upheld.(Paras 10 to 13)

Cases referred:
Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415
K. Prakashan vs. P.K. Surenderan, (2008) 1 SCC 258
T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (2006) 1 SCC 401

For the appellant: Mr. S.C. Sharma, Mr. Shiv Pal Manhans and Mr. P.K. Bhatti, Additional Advocates General with Mr. Raju Ram Rahi, Deputy Advocate General.
For the respondent: Mr. Ajay Chandel, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge

The present appeal, under Section 378 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, has been maintained by the appellant-State of Himachal Pradesh, assailing the judgment of acquittal, dated 12.02.2008, passed by learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kullu, District Kullu, H.P, in criminal case No. 223-1/2003/28-II/2005, under Section304-A of the Indian Penal Code (for short "IPC").

2. Briefly the facts giving rise to the present appeal as per the prosecution story are that on 22.04.2002, Kamla Devi (since deceased) sister of complainant, Bhag Singh visited the hospital of respondent-accused for kidney stone problem. The respondent gave her medicines, conducted her X-ray and advised her to come again for medical checkup. Consequently, on 29.04.2002, the deceased again visited the hospital of the accused, where her X-ray was conducted and it was disclosed to her that she is having stone in her kidney and to remove the stone, an operation is required to be conducted. On 08.07.2002, the deceased accompanied by Bhag Singh went to the hospital of the accused and she was admitted for operation. On 09.07.2002, she was taken to operation theatre, however, after sometime, the accused told the complainant that patient was running 103 degree fever. It was also told by the accused that there is a hole in intestine of the deceased. At that time, no anesthetist was available. The condition of the deceased deteriorated and ultimately at 10:00 p.m. she died. It has been alleged by the complainant that the accused had operated her sister for kidney stone, but it was revealed in the death certificate that the reason of the death was perforation and rapture of intestine. Consequently, the incident was reported to the police and FIR was registered against the accused on the allegations that the deceased died on account of negligence on his part. During the course of investigation, police took into possession the relevant records from the hospital of the accused, as well as medical treatment records of the deceased. The spot map was also prepared and after completion of investigation, challan was presented in the Court

3. Prosecution, in order to prove its case, examined as many as ten witnesses. Statement of the accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr. P.C, wherein he denied the prosecution case and claimed innocence. Accused did not lead any defence evidence. The learned trial Court, vide impugned judgment dated 12.02.2008, acquitted the accused for the commission of offence, punishable under Section 304-A of IPC, hence the present appeal.

4. Learned Additional Advocate General, has argued that the judgment of acquittal, passed by the learned trial Court is without appreciating the evidence to its true perspective and after re-appreciating the evidence correctly, the accused be convicted, as the prosecution has proved the guilt of the accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the accused/respondent has argued that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt and, therefore, the well reasoned judgment of acquittal, passed by the learned trial Court needs no interference.

5. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel for the parties, this Court has gone through the record in detail and minutely scrutinized the statements of the witnesses.

6. PW-1, Bhag Singh and PW-2, Meera Bai, while appearing in the witness box have deposed that the deceased went to the hospital of the accused on 22.04.2002 and again she was told to come to the hospital. Consequently, on 29.04.2002, the deceased again visited the hospital for medical check up and she was told to conduct operation for kidney stone problem. On 08.07.2002, the deceased was admitted in the hospital for operation and on 09.07.2002, when she was inside the operation theatre, the accused told that the deceased was running 103 degree fever and at about 5:00 p.m., the accused told that the patient was having a hole in her intestine. As per PW-1 and PW-2, the accused preferred to conduct the operation without the help of any anesthetist expert. At about 9:00 p.m., the deceased expired. As per the statement of PW-1, the death of the deceased took place due to negligence on the part of the accused. PW-1, in his cross-examination, admitted that the accused had advised him to conduct the operation of the deceased from some other hospital, however, he insisted that he wanted to keep the patient in S.R. Hospital.

7. PW-3, Bhanu Sharma, Laboratory Technician in the hospital of the accused has deposed that on 09.07.2002, the operation of the deceased was conducted by the accused and at that time, Dr. Anurag Sharma, MBBS, Dr. Sohan Singh, BMS and Farmacist Gopal Singh were present there. She further deposed that accused himself had administered anesthesia to the patient.

8. PW-4, Dr. Satish Malhotra, has deposed that during the month of July, 2002, PW-1 came to him with medical reports issued by S.R. Hospital of the accused. He further deposed that from the perusal of the documents issued by the hospital, it was clear that the patient was being treated for kidney stone. However, the death certificate was revealing that the cause of death was due to intestine. As per this witness, if any person is having perforation in the intestine, it would not be possible for him/her to stand and walk. He deposed that as per PW-1 on the relevant day, he and the deceased came on foot for about 5/6 kms. But, the deceased could not have walked 5/6 kms with perforation in intestine.

9. PW-5, Ghamir Chand, Retd. SHO, Police Station Kullu, has prepared the challan. PW-6, HC, Upender Singh, has deposed that during investigation of the case, he recorded the statements of the witnesses and took into possession certain documents from the hospital of the accused. PW-7, ASI Rinchain Gialchhen, has deposed that he also carried out the investigation, during which, he took into possession treatment chart, as well as death certificate of the deceased, vide recovery memo, Ext. PW-7/A. PW-8, Ludermani, uncle of the deceased has also deposed the facts, as stated by the complainant Bhag Singh. PW-9, ASI Mathru Ram has proved FIR, Ext. PW-1/A. PW-10, S.I. Rup Singh, another Investigating Officer of the case, has deposed that after visiting the spot, he prepared spot map, Ext. PW-10/A. He also took into possession prescription slip and X-ray films, vide recovery memo, Ext. PW-1/B. The relevant registers from the hospital of the accused were also taken into possession vide recovery memo, Ext. PW-10/B. He also took into possession other relevant record of treatment of the deceased, vide recovery memo, Ext. PW-10/C.

10. It is admitted case of the prosecution that on 22.04.2002, the deceased visited the hospital of the accused for kidney stone problem and thereafter on 29.04.2002, she was advised for operation in order to remove kidney stone, on which date, her X-ray was conducted and medicines were given to her. After 29.04.2002, the deceased did not visit the accused till 08.07.2002 and this fact proves that during the aforesaid period, the deceased was having no pain in the abdomen, or any other problem. Meaning thereby, that the medicines prescribed by the accused on 29.04.2002 had positive result.

11. Now coming to the medical evidence and Ext. PB, Ext. PW-1/D and Exts. PN & PM in this regard are very important evidence which have come on record. Ext. PM reveals that on 08.07.2002 at about 4:00 p.m., the deceased was medically examined by the accused in his hospital for severe abdomen pain. The accused had also shown the position of pain and tenderness by diagram, which reveals that on 08.07.2002, pain and tenderness was detected on the left side, whereas on 22.04.2002, pain was detected on the right side of the abdomen. Which proves that the deceased had developed new tenderness and pain on the left side on 08.07.2002 and her earlier problem, i.e. the pain on the right side was fully cured. Whereas, Ext. PB shows that all the necessary tests of the deceased were carried out by the accused. The X-ray and ultrasound reports of the deceased show that air and fluid level was causing obstruction in the intestine and to remove the said obstruction from the intestine, the accused preferred the surgery of the deceased for her improvement. Ext. PM further reveals that the accused had taken precaution before conducting surgery, as the deceased was put to nil oral diet. On 08.07.2002, the deceased was medically checked at 6:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. and on both occasions patient was having no pain. Meaning thereby that medical treatment started at 4:00 p.m. had given positive results. On 09.07.2002 at 12 O'Clock (midnight), the deceased was again examined and no new complaint was noticed. However, tenderness was noticed on the left side. In the morning of 09.07.2002 at about 6:00 a.m. and 10:00 a.m. the deceased was again medically checked up. Thereafter, on the same day at 1:00 a.m., the condition of the patient deteriorated and 103 degree fever was noticed. The blood pressure of the deceased had also dipped and it was 90/60 at that time. Accordingly, the accused advised for immediate surgery. Ext. PW-1/D further reveals that before surgery, the accused had advised to conduct operation from some other hospital, however, complainant Bhag Singh and Kamla Devi insisted that they wanted to keep the patient in S.R. Hospital of the accused and this fact has been admitted by the complainant in his cross-examination.

12. The another important document, i.e. Ext. PN, is treatment chart of the deceased. As per the allegation of the prosecution, the accused conducted the operation of the deceased without the help of anesthetist expert. However, as per Ext. PN, the operation of the deceased was conducted by the accused on 09.07.2002 at about 3:30 p.m. with the monitoring anesthesia by Dr. Anurag Sharma, Mr. Gopal and Bhanu Guleria, Assistants. PW-3, Smt. Bhanu, has specifically deposed in her evidence that at the time of operation, Doctor Anurag Sharma was present, whereas the accused had administered anesthesia and only in one part, the body of the deceased was under the influence of anesthesia. In these circumstances, it is clear that the accused is a qualified doctor, as well as surgeon and at the time of operation, one another MBBS, Dr. Anurag Sharma was assisting him.

13. After going through the medical evidence in detail, this Court finds that the accused gave fair treatment to the deceased and made every possible effort for her betterment. So, the learned trial Court has rightly come to the conclusion that death of the deceased was sheer an accident, wherein the accused was having no mens rea in any manner whatsoever. Meaning thereby that the accused was not rash and negligent in causing death of the deceased while conducting her operation. In these circumstance, after taking into consideration the medical evidence, which has come on record and testimonies of the witnesses, even after re-appreciating the evidence, this Court finds that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt and the well reasoned judgment of acquittal, passed by the learned trial Court, needs no interference.

14. It has been held in K. Prakashan vs. P.K. Surenderan (2008) 1 SCC 258, that when two views are possible, appellate Court should not reverse the judgment of acquittal merely because the other view was possible. When judgment of trial Court was neither perverse, nor suffered from any legal infirmity or non consideration/misappreciation of evidence on record, reversal thereof by High Court was not justified.

15. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2006) 1 SCC 401, has held that where two views are reasonably possible from the very same evidence, prosecution cannot be said to have proved its case beyond reasonable doubt.

16. In Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415,the Hon'ble Supreme Court has culled out the following principles qua powers of the appellate Courts while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal :

Cr. Revision No. 308 of 2018

Decided on: 29.05.2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973– Sections 156 (3) and 173– Cancellation report– Protest petition– Disposal of– Magistrate committing protest petition of complainant to court of session without considering it and without issuing summons to accused (R 2 to R 4)- Petition against– Held, role of Magistrate is little more than of a simple post office– He is to decide protest petition if filed and to summon persons to whom he on material on record prima facie finds to be involved in commission of offences- He may also direct further investigation in the matter– Order of Magistrate committing protest petition to court of Session set aside– Matter remanded with direction to proceed in accordance with law.(Para 7)

Case referred:

Dharam Pal vs. State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306

For the petitioner: Petitioner present in person.

For the respondents: Mr. S.C. Sharma and Mr. P.K. Bhatti, Additional Advocates General with Mr. Raju Ram Rahi, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Senior Advocate with Mr. Deven Khanna and Mr. Harsh Kalta, Advocates, for respondents No. 2 and 3.
Mr. N.S. Chandel, Senior Advocate with Mr. Vinod Gupta, Advocate, for respondent No. 4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition, under Section 397, read with Section 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure has been maintained by the petitioner against the order dated 04.08.2018, passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kasauli, District Solan, H.P., in case No. 133/2 of 2018/17, whereby learned Chief Judicial Magistrate finds it just to forward the petition of the petitioner to the Court of learned Sessions Judge at the time of committal and issued summons against accused Jagbhushan Kapil, mentioned in column No. 1.

2. The petitioner in person has argued that the learned Magistrate below vide impugned order has committed the trial to the learned Sessions Judge and has not exercised his jurisdiction to summon respondents No. 2 to 4. He has further argued that the learned Magistrate has failed to exercise his jurisdiction in the facts and circumstances of the case to order for further investigation which was necessary to meet the ends of justice. In support of his arguments "that learned Magistrate was required to exercise his jurisdiction", the petitioner has referred the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dharam Pal vs. State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 and has argued that respondents No. 2 to 4 were in column No. 2 of the police report presented before the learned Magistrate under Section 173(2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The petitioner argued that the learned Magistrate should have exercised the powers under Section 173(8) of the Code of Criminal Procedure and order for the further investigation of the case, as there was sufficient material before him to do so.

3. On the other hand, Mr. Shrawan Dogra, learned Senior Counsel for respondents No. 2 and 3 while inviting the attention of this Court to Sections 190, 193, 209, 319 and 173(8) of the Code of Civil Procedure and the law as referred hereinabove, has vehemently argued that the learned Magistrate cannot apply mind and take cognizance of the offences which are exclusively triable by the Court of Session, as he can neither conduct the inquiry, as the legislature has amended the Code purposely to avoid the cognizance to be taken by the Magistrate, because cognizance can only be taken once either by the learned Magistrate or by learned Sessions Judge. He has further argued that the order passed by learned Court below is as per law and the revisional powers of this Court are not required to be exercised to look into that order, as the same was passed after appreciating the law correctly and to its true perspective. Mr. Dogra, further argued that as far as the application of mind under Section 173(8) of Cr. P.C. is concerned, it has to be exercised by the Court of competent jurisdiction and in the cases exclusively triable by the Sessions Judge(s), the Magistrate(s) has/have no authority/jurisdiction to apply mind to that aspect also. So, in these circumstances order passed by learned Magistrate is as per law and suffers from no infirmity.

4. Mr. S.C. Sharma, learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the impugned order needs no interference by this Court, as it was passed as per the law.

5. Mr. N.S. Chandel, learned Senior Advocate, has argued that the Magistrate after complying with the provisions of Sections 204 to 207, comes to the conclusion that the case is triable by the Sessions Judge has to commit the case to the learned Sessions Judge without going into other merits of the case as per the spirit of law. Lastly, he has argued that as the impugned order passed by learned Magistrate is as per law, the same needs no interference.

6. The judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court relied upon by learned counsel for the parties when gone into, makes it clear that the Magistrate has to do the following acts when report is placed before him:

> (a) He has to see whether the case is triable by him or not.
>
> (b) If he comes to the conclusion that the case is triable by the Court of Session, he has to commit the case to Sessions Court for trial.
>
> (c) In case there is a protest petition he has to consider and dispose of the same in accordance with law.

Now coming to the protest petition, it is settled law that any person can maintain protest petition before the Magistrate and whether the Magistrate has to consider that protest petition while taking into consideration the Police report or not, the answer is "yes", because without considering the protest petition the Magistrate cannot make up his mind with respect to proper provision to be applied in the facts and circumstances. Simply to say that role of the Magistrate is just as a Post Office is not acceptable. The role of a Magistrate is though passive. This passive role is required to be considered in appropriate respect, as the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dharam Pal vs. State of Haryana and Balveer Singh vs. State of Rajasthan has held that Magistrate has to also apply its mind with regard to accused persons mentioned in column 2 of the police report, merits of the case and whether re-investigation is required or not and thereafter he has to summon them, supply them the copies of challan and then direct them to appear before the learned Session Judge, where the case is committed as per law.

7. The role of the magistrate is little more than a simple Post Office, as he has to decide the protest petition, he has to summon the persons to whom he finds that they are accused even if they are not named as accused by the police and kept in column 2 of the police report, if from the facts on record he comes to conclusion that their act is culpable and there is prima facie case against them. This the Magistrate can only do after considering the protest petition and applying his mind to that. The role of the Magistrate while committing is not so passive that he is only to forward the papers.

8. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dharam Pal vs. State of Haryana, (2014) 3 SCC 306 has given a view regarding the role, which Magistrate has to play while committing the case to the Court of Session upon taking cognizance on the police report submitted before him under Section 173(2) Cr. P.C. The relevant extract of the judgment is as under:

> "33. As far as the first question is concerned, we are unable to accept the submissions made by Mr. Chahar and Mr. Dave that on receipt of a police report seeing that the case was triable by Court of Session, the Magistrate has no other function, but to commit the case for trial to the Court of Session, which could only resort to Section 319 of the Code of array any other person as accused in the trial. In other words, according to Mr. Dave, there could be no intermediary stage between taking of cognizance under section 190(1) (b) and Section 204 of the Code issuing summons to the accused. The effect of such an interpretation would lead to a situation where neither the Committing Magistrate would have any control over the persons named in column 2 of the police report nor the Sessions Judge, till the Section 319 stage was reached in the trial. Furthermore, in the event the Sessions Judge ultimately found material against the persons named in column 2 of the police report, the trial would have to be commenced de novo against such persons which would not only lead to duplication of the trial, but also prolong the same.
> 34. The view expressed in Kishun Singh case, in our view, is more acceptable since, as has been held by this Court in the cases referred to hereinbefore, the Magistrate has ample powers to disagree with the final report that may be filed by the police authorities under Section 173(2) of the Code and to proceed against the accused persons dehors the police report, which power the Sessions Court does not have till the Section 319 stage is reached. The upshot of the said situation would be that even though the Magistrate had powers to disagree with the police report filed under Section 173(2) of the Code, he was helpless in taking recourse to such a course of action while the Sessions Judge > was also unable to proceed against any person, other than the accused sent up for trial, till such time evidence had been adduced and the witnesses had been cross-examined on behalf of the accused.

> 35. In our view, the Magistrate has a role to play while committing the case to the Court of Session upon taking cognizance on the police report submitted before him under Section 173(2) Cr. PC. In that event the Magistrate disagrees with the police report, he has two choices. He may act on the basis of a protest petition that may be filed, or he may, while disagreeing with the police report, issue process and summon the accused. Thereafter, if on being satisfied that a case had been made out to proceed against the accused named in column 2 of the report, proceed to try the said persons or if he was satisfied that a case had been made out which was triable by the Court of Session, he may commit the case to the Court of Session to proceed further in the matter."

9. Similar view has been taken by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Balveer Singh vs State of Rajasthan, wherein in sub-para 15.1 it has been held as under:

> "15.1. The Magistrate has ample powers to disagree with the final report that may be filed by the police under Section 173(2) of the Code and to proceed against the accused persons dehors the police report. The Magistrate has a role to play while committing the case to the Court of Session upon taking cognizance on the police report submitted before him under Section 173(2) of the Code. In the event the Magistrate disagrees with the police report, he has two choices. He may act on the basis of a protest petition that may be filed, or he may, while disagreeing with the police report, issue process and summon the accused. Thereafter, if on being prima facie satisfied that a case had been made out to proceed against the accused named in column 2 of the report, proceed to try the said persons or if he was satisfied that a case had been made out which was triable by the Court of Session, he may commit the case to the Court of Session to proceed further in the matter. Further, if the Magistrate decides to proceed against the persons accused, he would have to proceed on the basis of the police report itself and either inquire into the matter or commit it to the Court of Session if the same is found to be triable by the Sessions Court.

10. So, in these circumstances, This Court finds that learned Magistrate was required to consider the protest petition, order for further investigation, summon respondents No. 2 to 4 and direct them to appear before the learned Sessions Judge after supplying them the copies of the chargesheets, if the Magistrate comes to the conclusion that they are accused persons, as it is for the Magistrate to firstly apply its mind with respect to the facts, which have come in the protest petition and the party, has a right to appeal against the order of the Magistrate and to preserve this right of the party, the protest petition is required to be remanded back to learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kasauli, District Solan, H.P. to adjudicate the same as per the law. Ordered accordingly. Parties to appear before learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kasauli, District Solan, H.P. on 26th June, 2019.

11. With aforesaid observations, the petition, so also pending application(s), if any, stands disposed of.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908-Order XXVI Rule 9- Appointment of Commissioner– Justification – Held, plaintiff claiming right of passage through staircase as well as land of defendant– No boundary dispute exists interse parties. It is for plaintiff to prove right of passage through land/staircase in possession of defendant– No purpose would be served by getting the land demarcated– Trial court justified in dismissing plaintiff's application seeking demarcation of land through local commissioner– Petition dismissed.(Para 6)

For the petitioner: Mr. Vaibhav Tanwar, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Rohit Sharma and Mr. Anuj Gupta, Advocates.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition, under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, has been maintained by the petitioner/defendant (hereinafter to be called as "the defendant"), against the order dated 04.05.2018, passed by learned Civil Judge (Jr. Div.), Court No. 6, Shimla, H.P., whereby an application under Order 26, Rule 9 CPC, filed by the defendant for appointment of a Local Commissioner has been dismissed.

2. Briefly stating facts giving rise to the present petition are that the respondent-plaintiff (hereinafter to be called as "the plaintiff") filed a Suit for permanent prohibitory injunction and for mandatory injunction, wherein the plaintiff has claimed the right of passage through the stairs which passes through defendant's land and garden, comprised in Khasra No. 296 and then joins the main road, situated at Bhagwati Nagar, Tehsil and District Shimla. The plaintiff has claimed the passage from the said stairs to the main road, which has been constructed by the defendant through Khasra No. 296 on the basis that the stairs have been constructed on the common land, as no partition has taken place amongst the co-sharers. It has been further averred that there was no common path ever constructed on common land, nor it was ever a passage shown in the revenue papers. In April, 2013, the defendant carried out private demarcation of his land, comprised in Khasra No. 296, in which the plaintiff was also associated being a necessary party. In said demarcation, the report was submitted by the revenue officials on 06.01.2017, wherein it has been stated that the stairs in question have been constructed by the defendant on Khasra No. 296. Feeling aggrieved by the said demarcation report, the defendant filed an appeal before Sub Divisional Magistrate (Rural), Shimla, who set aside the order dated 06.01.2014, passed by Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Shimla, on the ground that the instructions given by the Financial Commissioner, under Section 107 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act, i.e. Guidelines of demarcation are not followed by the lower revenue authority. As per the defendant, present boundary dispute can only be decided through the revenue agency by demarcating the plot, building and stairs in question, as such, a Local Commissioner is required to be appointed. Hence the present application.

3. In reply to the application, the plaintiff has taken preliminary objection qua maintainability. On merits, it has been averred that the land in question is still unpartitioned amongst the co-sharers and there is no boundary dispute. It has been further averred that at the time when the plot was purchased by the plaintiff there existed a common path from the main road to the plots, comprised in Khata/Khatauni No. 74/106, Khasra No. 512, situated at Muhal Vihar, Pargana Jajhot, Tehsil and District Shimla, H.P. The plaintiff used the said path to only access the plot and has been using the same since the purchase of plot by her. The land over which the defendant has constructed his house, has been assigned Khasra No. 296 and the land on which the plaintiff constructed her house was assigned Khasra No. 297, the common passage which existed on the spot in old Khasra No. 512, after the settlement operation is now lead to Khasra No. 297. The defendant after filing of the present suit entered into an agreement with the plaintiff, wherein existence of old common path and construction of stairs over the said common paths has been admitted by the defendant. Lastly, it has been averred that prejudice shall be caused to the plaintiff, if the present application is allowed and dismissal of the application has been prayed.

4. Learned Court below vide order dated 04.05.2018, dismissed the application, so filed by the defendant, hence the present petition.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the order of the learned Court below without appreciating the fact that a Local Commissioner was required to be appointed to tell exact location of the land where the stairs are constructed, dismissed the application filed by the petitioner/defendant. So, the order of the learned Court below be set aside and a Local Commissioner be appointed. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondent has argued that the order passed by learned Court below is just reasoned and needs no interference and the land was common land, upon which no partition has taken place and the path is kept common.

6. From the record it is clear that as the defendant was obstructing the passage, suit was filed by the plaintiff. The plaintiff is claiming the right of the staircase and path as easementary right, so present dispute cannot be said to be a boundary dispute. It is for the plaintiff to prove that there exist any path or passage over the suit land and she was using it for ingress and egress since long and the right has accrued to her as easementary right, vide sale deed dated 14.07.1992. So, in the given facts and circumstances of the case, no purpose would be served by getting the demarcation of the land as the plaintiff has not disputed that both the disputed Khasra numbers are in the possession of the defendant or there is any encroachment etc., which the defendant and the plaintiff want to prove. Accordingly, This Court finds that present dispute is with respect to the obstruction of the passage only and the Court is not to create evidence for the party to prove its case.

7. So, the order passed by the learned Court below needs no interference, as the land is still joint and only dispute is with respect to using of the passage which is joint and there is no boundary dispute. Consequently the present petition sans merit, deserves dismissal and is accordingly dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, also stands dismissed. No order as to costs. Parties to appear before the learned Court below on 15th July, 2019.

Kalyan Singh .....Appellant
Versus
Kartar Singh .....Respondent

RSA No. 226 of 2016
Reserved on: 22.05.2019
Decided on: 20.06.2019

Indian Easements Act, 1882- Section 13 – Right of passage by way of necessity for cultivation etc.– Held, on facts, lands came to parties through their mother – Land of plaintiff can be cultivated only if he has access through defendant's land – Defendant's land is a servient tenement vis-a-vis land of plaintiff – Right of passage for cultivation includes right to carry tractor also but for cultivation purposes – Passage closed by defendant by erecting gate – Decree of mandatory injunction for removal of obstruction in the said passage as well as for damages as passed by trial court restored. (Paras 14 to 17)

For the appellant: Sh. Kalyan Singh in person.
For the respondent : Mr. K.D. Sood, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Shubham Sood, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge

The present regular second appeal has been maintained by the appellant, who was the plaintiff before the learned trial Court (hereinafter to be called as "the plaintiff"), laying challenge to the judgment and decree, dated 03.02.2016, passed by learned Additional District Judge, Hamirpur, H.P., in Civil Appeal No. 139/12 RBT 88/13, 72/14, whereby the judgment and decree, dated 17.05.2012, passed by learned Civil Judge (Sr. Div.), Nadaun, District Hamirpur, H.P, in Civil Suit No. 254/2002 was set aside.

2. Briefly, the facts, which are necessary for determination and adjudication of the present appeal are that the plaintiff filed a suit for declaration, mandatory injunction, as well as recovery of Rs. 10,000/- qua land comprised in Khata No. 9, Khatauni No. 20, Khasras No. 96/1, 154/1, 167, 179, 184/1, 205, 205/1 and 208, measuring 1-97-11 hectares, situated in Village Jangal-Khor, Mouza Jalari, Tehsil Nadaun, District Hamirpur, H.P. as per Misal Hakiat Bandobast Jadid Sani 1994-95 (hereinafter to be called as "suit land No. 1"). As per the plaintiff, the defendant-respondent is owner in possession of land comprised in Khata No. 10, Khatauni No. 21, Khasra Kita 7, measuring 1-97-93 hectares and Khata No. 4 min, Khatauni No. 11 min, Khasras No. 106 and 181, measuring 0-08-16 hectares situated in village Jangal-Khor, Mouza Jalari, Tehsil Nadaun, District Hamirpur, H.P. as per Misal Hakiat Bandobast Jadid Sani 1994-95 (hereinafter to be called as "suit land No. 2"). Earlier, the land comprised in Khatas No. 9 and 10 was exclusively owned and possessed by the mother of the parties, Smt. Malook Dei and somewhere in the year 1995, she gifted the said land to the plaintiff and the defendant. However, prior to 1995 Smt. Malook Dei alongwith other villagers approached the authorities concerned for construction of road from village Jajoli to village Jangal-Khor upto her house. The authorities on acceding to the request, carried out survey of the road upto old house of Smt. Malook Dei, which was approved by Engineer-in-Chief vide letter dated 17.04.1994 for a length of 1.250 kms, touching the old house of Smt Malook Dei. In September, 1994 PWD, B & R Sub Division Dhaneta deployed bulldozer and the road was carved out upto complete length through present Khasras No. 73 and 70 partly and Khasras No. 106, 181 and 105. At that time, Khasra No. 105 was owned by Smt. Malook Dei and Khasras No. 106 and 181 by Panjab Singh and Bimla Devi, whereas Khasra No. 70 by both of them alongwith one Krishni Devi. At that time, no objection was raised to the proposed construction. However, during the year 1997 when PWD B & R started soling work from point 0.000 to 1.051 km, the defendant obstructed the same from point 1.051 km to 1.250 km. Thereafter, the concerned department carried out work upto 0.975 Km, because beyond same it was obstructed by the defendant, who beyond point 0.975 Ks to 1.051 Km himself laid concrete, as he had become owner of Khasras No. 105, 106 and 181. He also fenced the common boundary line of Khasras No. 105 and 184/1 by completely blocking ingress and outgress of the plaintiff to the land and for his house situated over suit land No. 1. Owing to said acts of the defendant, the plaintiff has been deprived of cultivation of his land, which is rendered barren. According to plaintiff, as per custom, he has a right to take tractor for the purpose of agriculture and the purposes subservient to the agriculture. Thus, the plaintiff suffered a loss to the tune of Rs. 10,000/- and is suffering it continuously. Hence, the present suit.

3. In written statement, preliminary objection qua maintainability, limitation, estoppel and valuation were taken. On merits, it has been averred that mother of the parties gifted her property in their favour by way of separate and individual Khasra numbers and they are in possession of the same. The road was constructed in place where there was Gair Mumkin passage. Beyond that, there was exclusive land of the defendant and he himself has constructed the passage and mettled the same for his personal use. He has also put up grills and boundary walls. The construction of the passage and its use is for the last 10-15 years and during this period, no right was ever exercised by the plaintiff over the same. The plaintiff is having separate passage and is carrying his bullocks and tractor through the land of other villagers. There is no passage through the land of the defendant in a manner, as claimed by the plaintiff, nor any construction of road or soling was done by the department, as alleged. The gate has been erected by the defendant on the boundary of his land and the plaintiff has no right to access the road, as suit land No. 2 is exclusive property of the defendant. The easementary rights claimed by the plaintiff were also denied in the written statement.

4. By filing replication, the contents of the plaint were reasserted. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court on 01.06.2004 framed the following issues for determination and adjudication:

> "1. Whether the plaintiff has acquired easementary right by way of necessity to use the road/path existing on the land of the defendant, as alleged? OPP
> 2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the relief of mandatory injunction, as alleged? OPP
>
> 3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to recover Rs. 10,000/- as damages and the cost of the suit, as alleged? OPP
>
> 4. Whether the suit is within time? OPD

> 5. Whether the suit is not maintainable, as alleged? OPD
>
> 6. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing the suit by his act and conduct, as alleged? OPD
>
> 7. Whether the suit is not properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction, as alleged? OPD
> 8. Relief."

5. After deciding issues No. 1 to 4 in affirmative and issues No. 5 to 7 in negative, the suit of the plaintiff was decreed. Subsequently, the defendant maintained an appeal before the learned first Appellate Court, which was allowed and the judgment and decree of learned trial Court was set aside. Hence the present regular second appeal, which was admitted for hearing on the following substantial questions of law:

> "1. Whether the learned Appellate Court has not appreciated the document Ext. PW-3/G Shrayat (Wajeb-al-arz) to its true perspective?
> 2. Whether the learned Court below has not misread and misappreciated the evidence and the judgment and decree passed by the learned Appellate Court is perverse?
> 3. Whether the other documents are not appreciated by the learned Appellate Court to its true perspective and the judgment and decree is perverse?

6. Sh. Kalyan Singh, appellant, has argued that the judgment and decree passed by learned lower Appellate Court is based upon surmises and conjectures and the learned lower Appellate Court has failed to take into consideration the evidence and not appreciated it in an appropriate manner. He has further argued that when it has come on record that the road was constructed by PWD, which is blocked by the respondent by putting the gate, there is no other conclusion other than that the respondent has blocked the path and thus the judgment and decree passed by learned lower Appellate Court deserves to be set aside.

7. On the other hand, Mr. K.D. Sood, learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent has vehemently argued that the judgment and decree passed by learned lower Appellate Court is in accordance with law. He has further argued that there is alternative path to the house of the appellant and by way of present proceedings, he only wants to use the land of the respondent, as a road. He argued that the land is never used as a road at any time and it is the appellant who is making out a new case to grab the land of the respondent. In support of his contentions, learned Senior Counsel has referred to the evidence led by the parties and argued that as there is no substantial question of law involved in the present appeal, the appeal deserves dismissal.

8. In rebuttal appellant, Sh. Kalyan Singh has argued that the respondent, who is his real younger brother has blocked the road and the evidence on record shows that the road/path which was constructed by PWD is there and in these circumstances, the judgment and decree passed by learned lower Appellate Court is based upon complete mis-appreciation of evidence and the same deserves to be set aside by re-appreciating the evidence correctly.

9. In order to appreciate the rival contentions of the parties, I have gone through the record carefully.

10. To prove its case, the plaintiff, Kalyan Singh has submitted his examination-in-chief upon affidavit, wherein he testified about his claim to take the tractor for the purpose of agriculture, which is obstructed by the defendant. He further testified that due to putting of gate by the defendant, about 19 kanals of his land is lying uncultivated. He also testified about the statement of custom enabling him to take tractor for the purpose of cultivation and purposes subservient to agriculture. In cross-examination, he admitted that before gate is put by the defendant, there is 2 ½ feet wide path, again stated 4-6 feet wide path. He admitted that the aforesaid path leads to his abadi, as well as to the fields, however he denied that he takes tractor also through that path, as if the path is merely 2 ½ feet wide, tractor cannot be taken.

11. PW-2, Manish Kumar, Assistant Engineer, HP PWD, Sub-Division Dhanera, Hamirpur, in his cross-examination has deposed that the road up to point 1,051 kilometers has not been acquired by his Department and he is also not aware of the Khasras number through which the said road would be passing. However, he testified that from National Highway to Village Jangal-Khor upto 1,051 kms the road is constructed on the Government expenses.

12. PW-3, Ashok Kumar, Patwari, has proved the revenue record. PW-4, Chameli Devi, has admitted in her cross-examination about a path, but she denied that this path is 6 feet wide and claimed the same to be 3 feet wide. PW-5, Urmila Devi, also supported the case of the plaintiff, but regarding the path going towards the house of the plaintiff and other before the gate, she stated it to be incorrect that it is 5-6 feet wide and claimed the same to be 3 feet wide.

13. On the other hand, defendant Kartar Singh, while appearing in the witness box as DW-2 has deposed that HP PWD had constructed a link road to village Jangal-Khor from Nadaun-Hamirpur road through Gair Mumkin Gohar and also made the same pucca. He on leaving 15-20 feet path as katcha has constructed the same up to his house. He erected gate at his boundary and inside the same and he has made the path pucca by laying concrete and cement. In order to protect his land, he has fenced the same. He denied the claim of the plaintiff that the road was constructed by HP PWD upto the old house of Malook Dei, which was end point of survey as 1.250 kilometers. He also denied the fact of taking tractor by the plaintiff through the disputed path. He deposed that from the road constructed by HP PWD, a pucca path of 5-6 feet wide, passes towards the house of the plaintiff, Chameli Devi and Rasil Singh and one pucca path is also going separately to the Harijan locality. DW-1, Balwant Singh and DW-3, Dharam Singh, have also supported the version of DW-2, Kartar Singh on material aspects.

14. From the evidence which has come on record it is clear that the land was gifted to the parties by their mother, which shows that the land was one tenement and both plaintiff and defendant has acquired the land from the one owner, i.e. their mother. The land now a days is required to be cultivated by tractor and the land owned by the plaintiff requires passage for tractor through the land of the defendant. Meaning thereby that the land of the plaintiff is dominant and land of the defendant is servient and in these circumstances the dominant heritage has a right through the servient heritage, because whosoever enjoys dominant heritage, for the effective enjoyment of the dominant heritage has easementary right to enjoy servient heritage, when both are part of one estate. Consequently, this Court finds that the findings recorded by learned trial Court are in accordance with law and after appreciating the evidence which has come on record, including Ext. PW-3/G Shrayat (Wajeb-al-arz) correctly and also the plaintiff has right by way of easement of necessity as provided under Section 13 of the Indian Easements Act. The statement of PW-2 also shows that the road was constructed by PWD upto the place where the gate is erected. Beyond the gate, the whole land was belonging to the mother of the parties and after she gifted the land, the land was given to the plaintiff and defendant by the mother of the plaintiff, which was earlier part of the one estate.

15. Further, the gate was constructed later on when the land was partitioned. Meaning thereby that earlier there was no hindrance, so, can the defendant create hindrance for the smooth passage of the tractor?, "the answer is no". The version of the defendant that if the tractor is taken by the plaintiff, the mainds would be damaged cannot be favored, because a deliberate damage would not be done by the plaintiff and denial to take the tractor through the land of the defendant would lead to turning a big chunk of land of the plaintiff barren, as now a days ploughing for cultivation through bullocks is not commercially available. Further the customary right of the plaintiff to take the tractor through the land of the defendant, as claimed, has been proved. It has also been proved that even beyond the gate fixed by the defendant the soling was done by PWD. PW-2 in his statement has testified that from National Highway to Village Jangal-Khor, the road is constructed on the Government expenses upto the gate now raised by the defendant. Consequently, the plaintiff has a customary right of easement to use the road and path from the suit land for the purpose of cultivation and other purposes subservient to agriculture. So, the defendant is required to remove the obstruction and to allow the plaintiff to exercise the customary right of easement to take and bring back the tractor from his land.

16. In the given facts and circumstances of the case, this Court finds that the judgment passed by learned lower Appellate Court is perverse, as learned Court has failed to appreciate the document, Ext. PW-3/G Shrayat (Wajeb-al-arz) correctly and to its true perspective and has come to the conclusion, which is not at all possible, so substantial question of law No. 1 is answered accordingly. As far as substantial questions of law No.2 and 3 are concerned, learned lower Appellate Court has misread and misappreciated the evidence, as well as the documents which has come on record and findings arrived at by learned Court are thus perverse and not sustainable in the eyes of law, so substantial questions of law No. 2 and 3 are answered accordingly.

17. Consequently, for the reasons as discussed hereinabove, the present appeal is allowed and the judgment and decree, passed by the learned lower Appellate Court is set aside and judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court is affirmed. However, in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, parties are left to bear their own costs, as they are real brothers.

18. The appeal, so also pending application(s), if any, stand(s) disposed of accordingly.

Employees Compensation Act, 1923– Sections 4 & 22– Injury during course of employment– Claim application– Limitation– Held, it is statutory duty of employer to immediately calculate compensation and pay to employee for injuries suffered by latter during course of his employment – If there is any delay, employer has to pay the penalty also– Injury to workman during course of employment not in dispute– When employer though initially agreeing to pay was delaying payment of compensation on one pretext or other, employee has a continuing cause of action to file claim– Application cannot be said to be barred by limitation - At any rate delay if any, is not attributable to employee and can be condoned. (Para 7)

For the petitioner: Ms. Seema K. Guleria, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Parveen Kumar, Advocate, vice Mr. Jai Dev Thakur, Advocate, for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Imran Khan, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition, under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, has been maintained by petitioner, against the order dated 16.08.2018, passed by learned Commissioner, under the Employee's Compensation Act, Rampur Bushahr, District Shimla, H.P., wherein application under Section 10 of the Employee's Compensation Act (hereinafter to be called as "the Act"), with a prayer to file application under Section 22 of the Act, after the statutory period, has been allowed.

2 Briefly stating facts giving rise to the present petition are that respondent No. 1 filed an application under Section 22 of the Act, claiming compensation for suffering injury in his right hand middle finger, during the course of employment under the petitioner and respondent No. 2, as a Dryer Operator. As per the petitioner, the said application was time barred and deserves to be dismissed, as the petitioner did not disclose sufficient grounds for condonation of delay and moreover the lacuna was being tried to be filled up, however, learned Commissioner without granting an opportunity to the contesting parties to prove their objections allowed the said application.

3. The application filed by the applicant was resisted and contested by respondent No. 1 by filing reply, wherein preliminary objection qua maintainability has been taken. On merits, it has been averred that the delay cannot be condoned and the lacuna by moving the application cannot be filled up at belated stage. Lastly, a prayer for dismissal of the application has been made.

4 Learned Court below vide impugned order dated 16.08.2018, allowed the application, so filed by the applicant, hence the present petition.

5 Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the learned Court below has failed to take into consideration the fact that claim petition was time barred and the order of the learned Court below is illegal. On the other hand, learned counsel for respondent No. 1 has argued that it was for the petitioner to make the payment of amount due and permissible instantaneously and the petitioner cannot take the plea that claim is time barred. Learned counsel for respondent No. 2 has argued that it is for the petitioner to pay compensation, as respondent No. 1 was employee of the petitioner.

6 The case of respondent No. 1 is that he was working as Dryer Operator with respondents No. 1 and 2, being regular employee and on 23.07.2014, at about 11:00 a.m., when he was working near the rotary machine, his right hand middle finger was stuck inside the moving machine, resultantly, the middle finger of his right hand got amputated. After the said accident respondent No. 1 asked the Manager of milk plant to report the matter to the police, but he assured him that they will compensate him later on, when he will join his duties. However, thereafter respondent No. 1 kept on asking the respondents about compensation, but, the respondents on one pretext or another delayed the matter by giving false assurance to him, as such, respondent No. 1 could not file the claim petition earlier.

7 It is settled proposition of law that it is for the employer to immediately calculate the compensation and pay it to the employee and if there is any delay, employer is to make the payment of penalty also, but in the instant case strangely enough the employer is denying the payment of compensation and earlier he was assuring respondent No. 1 that the payment will be released with respect to the compensation. Admittedly, the injury and incapacity by way of loss of one finger is not in dispute. In these circumstances, this Court finds no infirmity with the order passed by learned Court below holding that the just claim of the petitioner cannot be denied and barred on the flimsy grounds and technical reasons. When the employer-petitioner was assuring employee-respondent No. 1 that he will make payment and on this pretext delaying the matter, there is continuing cause of action.In these circumstance also the delay is not attributable to the employee and the employer-petitioner cannot take any benefit out of this and delay, if at all, has occurred, is required to be condoned. Even otherwise, the order passed by learned Court below is just reasoned and there is no occasion to interfere after invoking extraordinary powers vested in this Court under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

8 Taking into consideration the overall aspects of the case and the discussion made hereinabove, the present petition is dismissed with costs of Rs. 5,000/-. The petitioner-employer is directed to make payment of costs within four weeks from today to employee-respondent No. 1.

9 With these observations, the petition, so also pending miscellaneous application(s), if any, stands disposed of. Parties to appear before the learned Court below on 25th July, 2019.

For the petitioner Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.
For the respondent Mr. Bodh Raj Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition has been filed against the judgment passed by the learned Sessions Judge, Mandi, District Mandi, dated 1.9.2016, in Cr. Appeal No. 12 of 2016, whereby the appeal filed by the petitioner against the judgment of conviction and sentence passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Mandi, District Mandi, dated 18.2.2016, in Case No. 14 of 2012, under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, vide which, petitioner-accused was convicted and sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for a period of six months and to pay compensation to the tune of Rs.50,000/- (rupees fifty thousand only) to the complainant, has been dismissed and the judgment and sentence passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.1, Mandi, District Mandi, dated 18.2.2016, has been upheld.

2. Briefly stating facts giving rise to the present petition are that in the 1st week of August, 2012, the petitioner-accused borrowed Rs.50,000/- from the complainant to discharge his liability towards the complainant, the accused gave a post dated cheque bearing No.697837, dated 1.9.2012, amounting to Rs.50,000/- of Indian Bank, Mandi, to be encashed out of his bank Account No.916443761. On 25.9.2012, the respondent-complainant presented the said cheque to the banker of the accused, but the same was dishonoured for "Insufficient Funds" in the account of accused and was returned back to the complainant. Thereafter, the complainant issued a legal notice, dated 9.10.2012 to the accused through registered post through his counsel, but the accused neither responded to the said notice nor paid the cheque amount to the complainant. While giving the cheque in question to the complainant, the accused was fully aware and in the knowledge that he was not having sufficient funds in his bank account for encashment of the said cheque nor he had made any arrangement for encashment of the cheque and thereby the accused defrauded, deceived and cheated the complainant. Consequently, the complainant filed a complaint against the accused for the offence punishable under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act.

3. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner-accused has argued that as the amount in question has been paid to the complainant and the complainant has compromised the matter with the petitioner-accused, vide compromise deed, placed on the file, the offence be compounded and the petitioner be acquitted of the offence, he was convicted.

4. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for the respondent-complainant has argued that as the amount in question has been received by his client and he has entered into a compromise with the petitioner-accused, he may be permitted to withdraw the present complaint, in view of the compromise and the judgment/order of conviction and sentence be set aside.

5. After hearing the learned counsel for the parties and going though the records, including compromise deed, this Court finds that as the amount in question has been received by the complainant and he does not want the accused to get convicted, it would be in the interest of justice, if the parties are permitted to get the matter settled in light of the compromise arrived at inter se them. So, taking into consideration the overall aspects of the case, the complainant is permitted to withdraw the complaint and the judgment/order of conviction and sentence passed by the learned Courts below are hereby set aside and the petitioner-accused is acquitted of the offence punishable under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act.

6. Accordingly, the petition is disposed of in the aforesaid terms, so also the pending application(s), if any.

Cases referred:
Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415
K. Prakashan vs. P.K. Surenderan, (2008) 1 SCC 258
T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (2006) 1 SCC 401

For the appellant Mr. Shiv Pal Manhans and Mr. P.K. Bhatti, Additional Advocate Generals.
For the respondent Mr. Vinod Gupta, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge (oral).

The present appeal is maintained by the appellant-State of Himachal Pradesh against the judgment of acquittal of accused in a case under Sections 279, 337 and 338 of the Indian Penal Code, passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Nalagarh, District Solan (H.P) dated 12.11.2008, in Criminal Case No.63/2 of 2004.

2. Briefly stating facts giving rise to the present appeal are that on 5.12.2003, Police of Police Station, Nalagarh, received a telephonic message from Civil Hospital, Nalagarh, that two injured have been brought in the hospital with the alleged history of roadside accident. HC Sunil Kumar, has recorded the statement of complainant, under Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, in which, he has stated that he is working as a worker in 'Laxmi Brick Kiln' Baglehan alongwith his wife. According to him, at about 3:00 p.m, he had sent his son Ankit to purchase 'biri bundle' from the nearby shop, when he was coming back after purchasing the aforesaid articles and when he was crossing the road, Maruti van came from Nalagarh side in a rash and negligent manner so as to endanger human life and personal safety of others struck against the legs of child. Thereafter, the injured child was lifted in the same vehicle bearing registration No.HP-01-3116 for medical treatment to Civil Hospital, Nalgarh. This accident has taken place due to the rash and negligent act on the part of the accused. On the basis of aforesaid statement, HC Sunil

Kumar, sent rukka through Constable Ram Pyara to Police Station, Nalagarh. The matter was reported to the police, on the basis of which, FIR Ex.PW5/B was registered. Statement of the witnesses was also recorded and site plan was prepared. Thereafter, codal formalities were completed and challan was presented in the Court.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, examined as many as eleven witnesses. Statement of the accused was recorded under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, wherein he has denied the prosecution case and claimed innocence. No defence evidence was led by the accused.

4. Learned Additional Advocate General has argued that the prosecution has proved the guilt of accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt, but the learned Court below on the basis of surmises and conjectures has acquitted the accused and the present is a fit case, where the accused is liable to be convicted after setting aside the judgment of acquittal.

5. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the accused has argued that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused beyond all reasonable doubt and there is no occasion to interfere with the well reasoned judgment passed by the learned trial Court.

6. To appreciate the arguments of learned Additional Advocate General and learned counsel for the accused, this Court has gone through the record in detail and minutely scrutinized the statements of the witnesses.

7. In order to prove its case, the prosecution has examined PW-1, father of the injured, Pratap Singh. He has deposed that he has sent his son to purchase 'biri bundle' from the nearby shop of 'brick kiln' and when his son was coming back, then, a vehicle came from the Nalagarh side and crushed the foot of his son. He has nowhere stated that the Maruti van was in high speed. PW-2 Chanan Singh, has also supported the same and similar version given by PW-1. In his cross-examination, he has admitted that at the time of occurrence, he was sitting in his office and someone has come from Ranjeet Singh's shop to disclose that the accident has taken place. Thereafter, he went to the spot and the father of the injured, Pratap Singh, was also called. Meaning thereby, at the time of occurrence, neither PW-1 Pratap Singh nor PW-2 Chanan Singh, was present there and they are only the hearsay witness. He has also denied that the injured was crossing the road in a running condition. He has further denied that the occurrence has taken place due to the rash and negligent act on the part of injured. PW-3, Kushal Kumar, owner of the vehicle has proved the certificate Ex.PW3/A, which was issued by him with regard to the employment of the accused. PW-4, Rajinder Singh, proved the mechanical report Ex.PW4/A. PW-6, Jagdish Chand, prepared the spot map Ex.PW6/A and recorded the statement of witnesses as per their version. PW-8, Jagdish Ram, prepared the challan after completion of the investigation. PW-11, ASI Harjeet Singh, has taken into possession the vehicle alongwith its documents and medico legal case summary from PGI, Chandigarh.

8. In the present case, it is admitted fact that injured Ankit is not cited as prosecution witness. His age in the Medico Legal Certificate is mentioned as five years and he was sent by his father to purchase 'biri bundle' all alone after crossing the road. In these circumstances, it is clear that the father of the injured himself was negligent by sending his child to purchase 'biri bundle' after crossing the National Highway. PW-2, Charan Singh, the matter was initially reported to him by a person from the shop of shopkeeper Ranjeet Singh. Meaning thereby, the alleged eye witnesses of the occurrence were not present at the time of occurrence. It is admitted fact that the injured was aged about five years and he was all alone allowed to cross the road to purchase a 'biri bundle'. There is nothing on record with respect to the rash and negligent act on the part of the driver of the vehicle in the absence of any evidence to that effect, it is difficult to convict a person, as no conviction can be based upon the presumption of surmises and conjectures. In these circumstances, it cannot be said that the accident was caused due to rash and negligent driving of the accused. So, this Court finds that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt.

9. It has been held in K. Prakashan vs. P.K. Surenderan (2008) 1 SCC 258, that when two views are possible, appellate Court should not reverse the judgment of acquittal merely because the other view was possible. When judgment of trial Court was neither perverse, nor suffered from any legal infirmity or non consideration/misappreciation of evidence on record, reversal thereof by High Court was not justified.

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2006) 1 SCC 401, has held that where two views are reasonably possible from the very same evidence, prosecution cannot be said to have proved its case beyond reasonable doubt.

11. In Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has culled out the following principles qua powers of the appellate Courts while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal :

> "42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:
> (1) An appellate court has full power to review, reappreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.
>
> (2) The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1873 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.
>
> (3) Various expressions, such as, 'substantial and compelling reasons', 'good and sufficient grounds', 'very strong circumstances', 'distorted conclusions', 'glaring mistakes', etc. are not intended to curtail extensive powers of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of 'flourishes of language' to emphasise the reluctance of an appellate court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.
>
> (4) An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.
> (5) If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court."

12. The net result of the above discussion is that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused conclusively and beyond reasonable doubt. There is no illegality and infirmity in the findings, so recorded by the learned trial Court.

13. Accordingly, in view of the observations and analysis, made hereinabove, there is no merit in the appeal and the same is dismissed. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 133- Public nuisance, what is? Whether private disputes can be brought before Executive Magistrate? Complainant praying for removal of branches of mango tree belonging to respondent on ground that said tree may fall at any time and cause damage to complainant's house– Executive Magistrate dropping proceedings on ground that it is a private dispute and provisions of Section 133 of Code are not attracted– Sessions Judge allowing revision and directing owner of tree to cut branches which were extending towards complainant's house– Petition against- Held, no evidence on record that tree had become dangerous– Simply to give relief to complainant to enable her to raise second storey of her house after cutting extended branches of tree, is not intendment of Section 133 of code– It is not a case of public nuisance– Petition allowed– Order of Sessions Judge set aside and of Executive Magistrate restored. (Para 7)

For the petitioner: Ms. Manjula Kumari, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Shiv Pal Manhans and Mr. P.K. Bhatti, Addl. AGs with Ms. Svaneel Jaswal, Dy. AG, for respondent No. 1.
Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge

The present petition, under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, read with Article 227 of the Constitution of India, has been maintained by the petitioner against the order dated 05.09.2017, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, H.P., in Cr. Revision No. 16 of 2014, whereby order dated 26.06.2014, passed by learned Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Bhoranj, District Hamirpur, H.P., in case No. 14/11, has been set aside and complaint under Section 133(1)(d) of the Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter to be called as "the Code") filed by respondent No. 2/complainant (hereinafter to be called as "the complainant") has been allowed.

2. Briefly stating the facts, giving rise to the present petition are that on 16.03.2010, complainant filed a complaint against the present petitioner under Section 133(1) (d) of the Code, wherein it has been alleged that there is one mango tree of the petitioner and house of the complainant is located under the branches of the said tree and the tree may be fall at any time and may cause damage to the house of the complainant. So, the complainant prayed for removal of the nuisance. Consequently, the matter was sent to S.H.O., Police Station Bhoranj and report was called. On the report, learned trial Magistrate has taken cognizance and issued notice under Section 133 of the Code to the petitioner. In reply to the said notice, the petitioner totally denied the fact of apprehension of public nuisance and it has been averred that the tree will not cause any damage to the house of the complainant, as the house is 20 feet away from the house of the complainant. It has been further averred that the complainant constructed the house below the branches of the tree and now he wants to construct second storey. Lastly, dismissal of the notice was prayed.

3. The learned trial Magistrate after recording the statements of the witnesses, dropped the proceedings against the petitioner on the ground that it is a private dispute between the parties and provisions of Section 133 of the Code are not attracted at all. Feeling aggrieved, the complainant filed a revision petition against the said order and learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, set aside the order passed by learned trial Magistrate and directed the petitioner to cut the branches of mango tree, which are extending towards the house of the complainant within 30 days. Hence the present petition.

4. In order to prove his case, the complainant has examined Sh. Harman Singh, CW-1, Sh. Surjeet Singh, CW-II, Sh. Niranjan Ram, CW-III and Sh. Bidhi Chand, CW-IV. All these witnesses admitted that there is a mango tree on the spot and its one branch is over the house of the complainant and stated that due to branch of mango tree, the complainant is unable to construct the second storey of his house.

5. On the other hand, respondent (petitioner herein), while appearing in the witness box as RW-1, has deposed that the complainant has constructed his house four years ago, whereas mango tree is 50 years old. He further deposed that there is no danger from this mango tree and if it happens in future, she would be responsible and ready for compensation.

6. Section 133 (1) (a) and (d) of the Code provides as under:

> "133. Conditional order for removal of nuisance.-(1) Whenever a District Magistrate or a Sub-divisional Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf by the State Government, on receiving the report of a police officer or other information and on taking such evidence (if any) as he thinks fit, considers-
>
> (a) that any unlawful obstruction or nuisance should be removed from any public place or from any way, river or channel which is or may be lawfully used by the public; or
>
>
> (d) that any building, tent or structure, or any tree is in such a condition that it is likely to fall and thereby cause injury to persons living or carrying on business in the neighbourhood or passing by, and that in consequence the removal, repair or support of such building, tent or structure, or the removal or support of such tree, is necessary; or

……………….. ……….”

7. From the evidence which has come on record, coupled with the provisions of law as contained under Section 133 of the Code, if the tree becomes dangerous, it can be asked to be removed by exercising the power under Section 133 of the Code. In the instant case, there is no evidence that the tree has become dangerous. The only factum that the complainant has constructed his house near the mango tree and a branch of tree is there near the lintel wall of the house of the complainant, is not a proof that the branch or tree is dangerous to the house or persons living there. The dispute is only with respect to the fact that the complainant wanted to raise second storey after cutting the branch of the tree. This is simply a civil dispute and the order passed by learned Magistrate is in accordance with law. The learned lower Appellate Court has misread the provisions of Section 133 of the Code by concluding that the tree has become dangerous, without there being any evidence to that effect. Simply to give relief to the complainant by permitting him to cut branches in order to raise second storey of the house is no way the intend of Section 133 of the Code.

8. So, in view of the above discussion, this Court finds that the order passed by learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, H.P., is without appreciating the law correctly and to its true perspective in the facts and circumstances of the present case. Consequently, the order passed by learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, H.P., is set aside and the order passed by Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Bhoranj, District Hamirpur, H.P., is upheld.

9. With these observations, the petition, so also pending application(s), if any, stands disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge

The present petition, under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter to be called as “the Code”), has been maintained by the petitioner for quashing of F.I.R No. 182/16, dated 01.07.2016, under Section 188 of the Indian Penal Code, registered at Police Station Balh, District Mandi, H.P., alongwith all consequent proceedings arising out of the said F.I.R., pending before the learned trial Court.

2. Briefly stating the facts, giving rise to the present petition are that the petitioner had filed RSA No. 204/2013 against the judgments passed by learned Courts below before this Court and this Court vide order dated 03.03.2016, passed interim order restraining respondent No. 2 from raising construction and changing the nature of the suit land. However, despite interim order, respondent No. 2 demolished the Khokhas existing on the suit land. Accordingly, this Court vide order dated 14.03.2016 directed the police authorities to ensure the compliance of order dated 03.03.2016. The police authorities in supervision of S.I., Incharge Rewalsar, visited the spot and directed respondent No. 2 to stop construction. Respondent No. 2 again violated the orders by putting tin/PVC sheets in order to conceal further construction. On 21.06.2016, the petitioner made a complaint to the police authorities, wherein it has been alleged that respondent No. 2 is not a law abiding citizen and has taken the law in his own hand and is still continuing with the illegal construction, consequently, F.I.R No. 182/16, dated 01.07.2016, came to be registered against the petitioner. The petitioner has also proceeded against respondent No. 2 under Order 39, Rule 2A of CPC before this Court. During the proceedings in the said application, the matter was ordered to be listed before the learned Mediator to see whether the matter can be compromised and due to sincere efforts made by learned Mediator, now the parties have entered into a compromise (Annexure P-2) and in order to maintain their relation cordial, they do not want to pursue the case against each other. Hence the present petition.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that as the parties have compromised the matter, vide Compromise Deed (Annexure P-2), no purpose will be served by keeping the proceedings alive, hence the FIR, alongwith consequent proceedings, arising out of the same, pending before the learned trial Court may be quashed and set aside.

4. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No. 2 has argued that the present petition may be allowed, in view of the compromise arrived at between the parties.

5. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties, I have gone through the entire records in detail.

6. Their Lordships of the Hon’ble Supreme Court B.S. Joshi and othersvs. State of Haryana and another, (2003) 4 SCC 675, have held that if for the purpose of securing the ends of justice, quashing of FIR becomes necessary, section 320 would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing. It is well settled that the powers under section 482 have no limits. Of course, where there is more power, it becomes necessary to exercise utmost care and caution while invoking such powers. Their Lordships have held as under:

> [6] In Pepsi Food Ltd. and another v. Special Judicial Magistrate and others ((1998) 5 SCC 749), this Court with reference to Bhajan Lal's case observed that the guidelines laid therein as to where the Court will exercise jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code could not be inflexible or laying rigid formulae to be followed by the Courts. Exercise of such power would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case but with the sole purpose to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. It is well settled that these powers have no limits. Of course, where there is more power, it becomes necessary to exercise utmost care and caution while invoking such powers.
> [8] It is, thus, clear that Madhu Limaye's case does not lay down any general proposition limiting power of quashing the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint as vested in Section 482 of the Code or extraordinary power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. We are, therefore, of the view that if for the purpose of securing the ends of justice, quashing of FIR becomesnecessary, Section 320 would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing. It is, however, a different matter depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case whether to exercise or not such a power.
> [15] In view of the above discussion, we hold that the High Court in exercise of its inherent powers can quash criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint and Section 320 of the Code does not limit or affect the powers under Section 482 of the Code.

7. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Preeti Gupta and anothervs. State of Jharkhand and another, (2010) 7 SCC 667, have held that the ultimate object of justice is to find out the truth and punish the guilty and protect the innocent. The tendency of implicating the husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon. At times, even after the conclusion of the criminal trial, it is difficult to ascertain the real truth. Experience reveals that long and protracted criminal trials lead to rancour, acrimony and bitterness in the relationship amongst the parties. The criminal trials lead to immense sufferings for all concerned. Their Lordships have further held that permitting complainant to pursue complaint would be abuse of process of law and the complaint against the appellants was quashed. Their Lordships have held as under:

> [27] A three-Judge Bench (of which one of us, Bhandari, J. was the author of the judgment) of this Court in Inder Mohan Goswami and Another v. State of Uttaranchal & Others, 2007 12 SCC 1 comprehensively examined the legal position. The court came to a definite conclusion and the relevant observations of the court are reproduced in para 24 of the said judgment as under:-
> "Inherent powers under section 482 Cr.P.C. though wide have to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with great caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in this section itself. Authority of the court exists for the advancement of justice. If any abuse of the process leading to injustice is brought to the notice of the court, then the Court would be justified in preventing injustice by invoking inherent powers in absence of specific provisions in the Statute."

[28] We have very carefully considered the averments of the complaint and the statements of all the witnesses recorded at the time of the filing of the complaint. There are no specific allegations against the appellants in the complaint and none of the witnesses have alleged any role of both the appellants.

[35] The ultimate object of justice is to find out the truth and punish the guilty and protect the innocent. To find out the truth is a herculean task in majority of these complaints. The tendency of implicating husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon. At times, even after the conclusion of criminal trial, it is difficult to ascertain the real truth. The courts have to be extremely careful and cautious in dealing with these complaints and must take pragmatic realities into consideration while dealing with matrimonial cases. The allegations of harassment of husband's close relations who had been living in different cities and never visited or rarely visited the place where the complainant resided would have an entirely different complexion. The allegations of the complaint are required to be scrutinized with great care and circumspection.

36. Experience reveals that long and protracted criminal trials lead to rancour, acrimony and bitterness in the relationship amongst the parties. It is also a matter of common knowledge that in cases filed by the complainant if the husband or the husband's relations had to remain in jail even for a few days, it would ruin the chances of amicable settlement altogether. The process of suffering is extremely long and painful.

[38] The criminal trials lead to immense sufferings for all concerned. Even ultimate acquittal in the trial may also not be able to wipe out the deep scars of suffering of ignominy. Unfortunately a large number of these complaints have not only flooded the courts but also have led to enormous social unrest affecting peace, harmony and happiness of the society. It is high time that the legislature must take into consideration the pragmatic realities and make suitable changes in the existing law. It is imperative for the legislature to take into consideration the informed public opinion and the pragmatic realities in consideration and make necessary changes in the relevant provisions of law. We direct the Registry to send a copy of this judgment to the Law Commission and to the Union Law Secretary, Government of India who may place it before the Hon'ble Minister for Law & Justice to take appropriate steps in the larger interest of the society.

8. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jitendra Raghuvanshi and othersvs. Babita Raghuvanshi and another,(2013) 4 SCC 58, have held that criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint can be quashed under section 482 Cr.P.C. in appropriate cases in order to meet ends of justice. Even in non-compoundable offences pertaining to matrimonial disputes, if court is satisfied that parties have settled the disputes amicably and without any pressure, then for purpose of securing ends of justice, FIR or complaint or subsequent criminal proceedings in respect of offences can be quashed. Their Lordships have held as under:

[13] As stated earlier, it is not in dispute that after filing of a complaint in respect of the offences punishable under Sections 498A and 406 of IPC, the parties, in the instant case, arrived at a mutual settlement and the complainant also has sworn an affidavit supporting the stand of the appellants. That was the position before the trial Court as well as before the High Court in a petition filed under Section 482 of the Code. A perusal of the impugned order of the High Court shows that because the mutual settlement arrived at between the parties relate to non-compoundable offence, the court proceeded on a wrong premise that it cannot be compounded and dismissed the petition filed under Section 482. A perusal of the petition before the High Court shows that the application filed by the appellants was not for compounding of non-compoundable offences but for the purpose of quashing the criminal proceedings.

[14] The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 of the Code are wide and unfettered. In B.S. Joshi , this Court has upheld the powers of the High Court under Section 482 to quash criminal proceedings where dispute is of a private nature and a compromise is entered into between the parties who are willing to settle their differences amicably. We are satisfied that the said decision is directly applicable to the case on hand and the High Court ought to have quashed the criminal proceedings by accepting the settlement arrived at.

[15] In our view, it is the duty of the courts to encourage genuine settlements of matrimonial disputes, particularly, when the same are on considerable increase. Even if the offences are non-compoundable, if they relate to matrimonial disputes and the court is satisfied that the parties have settled the same amicably and without any pressure, we hold that for the purpose of securing ends of justice, Section 320 of the Code would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing of FIR, complaint or the subsequent criminal proceedings.

[16] There has been an outburst of matrimonial disputes in recent times. The institution of marriage occupies an important place and it has an important role to play in the society. Therefore, every effort should be made in the interest of the individuals in order to enable them to settle down in life and live peacefully. If the parties ponder over their defaults and terminate their disputes amicably by mutual agreement instead of fighting it out in a court of law, in order to do complete justice in the matrimonial matters, the courts should be less hesitant in exercising its extraordinary jurisdiction. It is trite to state that the power under Section 482 should be exercised sparingly and with circumspection only when the court is convinced, on the basis of material on record, that allowing the proceedings to continue would be an abuse of the process of the court or that the ends of justice require that the proceedings ought to be quashed. We also make it clear that exercise of such power would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and it has to be exercised in appropriate cases in order to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone the courts exist. It is the duty of the courts to encourage genuine settlements of matrimonial disputes and Section 482 of the Code enables the High Court and Article 142 of the Constitution enables this Court to pass such orders.

[17] In the light of the above discussion, we hold that the High Court in exercise of its inherent powers can quash the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint in appropriate cases in order to meet the ends of justice and Section 320 of the Code does not limit or affect the powers of the High

9. Similarly, Hon'ble Supreme Court in Parbatbhai Aahir alias Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur and othersvs.State of Gujarat and another, (2017) 9 Supreme Court Cases 641, wherein it has been held as under :

> "16.The broad principles which emerge from the precedents on the subject, may be summarised in the following propositions:

>
> 16.2. The invocation of the jurisdiction of the High Court to quash a First Information Report or a criminal proceeding on the ground that a settlement has been arrived at between the offender and the victim is not the same as the invocation of jurisdiction for the purpose of compounding an offence. While compounding an offence, the power of the court is governed by the provisions of Section 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The power to quash under Section 482 is attracted even if the offence is non-compoundable.
>
> 16.3. In forming an opinion whether a criminal proceeding or complaint should be quashed in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482, the High Court must evaluate whether the ends of justice would justify the exercise of the inherent power;
>
> 16.4 While the inherent power of the High Court has a wide ambit and plenitude it has to be exercised; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent an abuse of the process of any court;
>
> 16.5 The decision as to whether a complaint or First Information Report should be quashed on the ground that the offender and victim have settled the dispute, revolves ultimately on the facts and circumstances of each case and no exhaustive elaboration of principles can be formulated;
>
> 16.6. In the exercise of the power under Section 482 and while dealing with a plea that the dispute has been settled, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous and serious offences involving mental depravity or offences such as murder, rape and dacoity cannot appropriately be quashed though the victim or the family of the victim have settled the dispute. Such offences are, truly speaking, not private in nature but have a serious impact upon society. The decision to continue with the trial in such cases is founded on the overriding element of public interest in punishing persons for serious offences;
>
> 16.7. As distinguished from serious offences, there may be criminal cases which have an overwhelming or predominant element of a civil dispute. They stand on a distinct footing in so far as the exercise of the inherent power to quash is concerned;
>
> 16.8. Criminal cases involving offences which arise from commercial, financial, mercantile, partnership or similar transactions with an essentially civil flavour may in appropriate situations fall for quashing where parties have settled the dispute;

16.9 In such a case, the High Court may quash the criminal proceeding if in view of the compromise between the disputants, the possibility of a conviction is remote and the continuation of a criminal proceeding would cause oppression and prejudice; and 16.10. There is yet an exception to the principle set out in propositions 16.8 and 16.9 above. Economic offences involving the financial and economic well-being of the state have implications which lie beyond the domain of a mere dispute between private disputants. The High Court would be justified in declining to quash where the offender is involved in an activity akin to a financial or economic fraud or misdemeanour. The consequences of the act complained of upon the financial or economic system will weigh in the balance.

Even if, the trial is allowed to be continued, as the parties have compromised the matter, there are bleak chances of conviction to secure the ends of justice.

10. Thus, taking into consideration the law as discussed hereinabove, I find that the interest of justice would be met, in case, the proceedings are quashed, as the parties have already compromised the matter, as per Compromise (Annexure P-2), placed on record.

11. Accordingly, looking into all attending facts and circumstances, this Court finds that present is a fit case to exercise jurisdiction vested in this Court, under Section 482 of the Code and, therefore, the present petition is allowed and F.I.R No. 182/16, dated 01.07.2016, under Section 188 of the Indian Penal Code, registered at Police Station Balh, District Mandi, H.P., is ordered to be quashed. Since F.I.R No. 182/16, dated 01.07.2016, under the aforesaid Section has been quashed, consequent proceedings, arising out of the said F.I.R., pending before the learned trial Court are thereby rendered infructuous.

12. The petition is accordingly disposed of alongwith pending applications, if any.

Mr. Prashant Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No. 2.
Parties are present.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge

The present petition, under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter to be called as "the Code"), has been maintained by the petitioners for quashing of F.I.R No. 27/17, dated 28.04.2017, under Sections 324, 323, 504, 506 and 34 of the Indian Penal Code, registered at Police Station Chintpurni, District Una, H.P., alongwith all consequent proceedings arising out of the said F.I.R., pending before the learned trial Court.

2. Briefly stating the facts, giving rise to the present petition are that on 27.04.2017, some controversy took place between respondent No. 2 and petitioner No. 1 and petitioner No. 1 started hurling abuses to respondent No. 2. In the meantime, son of petitioner No. 1 came to the spot and pushed respondent No. 2, due to which, she fell down and sustained internal injuries on her person, as such, an F.I.R No. 27/17, dated 28.04.2017, came to be registered against the petitioners. However, now the parties have entered into a compromise (Annexure P-3) and in order to maintain their relation cordial, they do not want to pursue the case against each other. Hence the present petition.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioners has argued that as the parties have compromised the matter, vide Compromise Deed (Annexure P-3), no purpose will be served by keeping the proceedings alive, hence the FIR, alongwith consequent proceedings, arising out of the same, pending before the learned trial Court may be quashed and set aside.

4. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No. 2 has argued that the present petition may be allowed, in view of the compromise arrived at between the parties.

5. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties, I have gone through the entire records in detail.

6. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court B.S. Joshi and othersvs. State of Haryana and another, (2003) 4 SCC 675, have held that if for the purpose of securing the ends of justice, quashing of FIR becomes necessary, section 320 would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing. It is well settled that the powers under section 482 have no limits. Of course, where there is more power, it becomes necessary to exercise utmost care and caution while invoking such powers. Their Lordships have held as under:

[6] In Pepsi Food Ltd. and another v. Special Judicial Magistrate and others ((1998) 5 SCC 749), this Court with reference to Bhajan Lal's case observed that the guidelines laid therein as to where the Court will exercise jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code could not be inflexible or laying rigid formulae to be followed by the Courts. Exercise of such power would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case but with the sole purpose to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice. It is well settled that these powers have no limits. Of course, where there is more power, it becomes necessary to exercise utmost care and caution while invoking such powers.

[8] It is, thus, clear that Madhu Limaye's case does not lay down any general proposition limiting power of quashing the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint as vested in Section 482 of the Code or extraordinary power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. We are, therefore, of the view that if for the purpose of securing the ends of justice, quashing of FIR becomesnecessary, Section 320 would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing. It is, however, a different matter depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case whether to exercise or not such a power.

[15] In view of the above discussion, we hold that the High Court in exercise of its inherent powers can quash criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint and Section 320 of the Code does not limit or affect the powers under Section 482 of the Code.

7. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Preeti Gupta and anothervs. State of Jharkhand and another, (2010) 7 SCC 667, have held that the ultimate object of justice is to find out the truth and punish the guilty and protect the innocent. The tendency of implicating the husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon. At times, even after the conclusion of the criminal trial, it is difficult to ascertain the real truth. Experience reveals that long and protracted criminal trials lead to rancour, acrimony and bitterness in the relationship amongst the parties. The criminal trials lead to immense sufferings for all concerned. Their Lordships have further held that permitting complainant to pursue complaint would be abuse of process of law and the complaint against the appellants was quashed. Their Lordships have held as under:

[27] A three-Judge Bench (of which one of us, Bhandari, J. was the author of the judgment) of this Court in Inder Mohan Goswami and Another v. State of Uttaranchal & Others, 2007 12 SCC 1 comprehensively examined the legal position. The court came to a definite conclusion and the relevant observations of the court are reproduced in para 24 of the said judgment as under:-

"Inherent powers under section 482 Cr.P.C. though wide have to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with great caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in this section itself. Authority of the court exists for the advancement of justice. If any abuse of the process leading to injustice is brought to the notice of the court, then the Court would be justified in preventing injustice by invoking inherent powers in absence of specific provisions in the Statute."

[28] We have very carefully considered the averments of the complaint and the statements of all the witnesses recorded at the time of the filing of the complaint. There are no specific allegations against the appellants in the complaint and none of the witnesses have alleged any role of both the appellants.

[35] The ultimate object of justice is to find out the truth and punish the guilty and protect the innocent. To find out the truth is a herculean task in majority of these complaints. The tendency of implicating husband and all his immediate relations is also not uncommon. At times, even after the conclusion of criminal trial, it is difficult to ascertain the real truth. The courts have to be extremely careful and cautious in dealing with these complaints and must take pragmatic realities into consideration while dealing with matrimonial cases. The allegations of harassment of husband's close relations who had been living in different cities and never visited or rarely visited the place where the complainant resided would have an entirely different complexion. The allegations of the complaint are required to be scrutinized with great care and circumspection.

36. Experience reveals that long and protracted criminal trials lead to rancour, acrimony and bitterness in the relationship amongst the parties. It is also a matter of common knowledge that in cases filed by the complainant if the husband or the husband's relations had to remain in jail even for a few days, it would ruin the chances of amicable settlement altogether. The process of suffering is extremely long and painful.

[38] The criminal trials lead to immense sufferings for all concerned. Even ultimate acquittal in the trial may also not be able to wipe out the deep scars of suffering of ignominy. Unfortunately a large number of these complaints have not only flooded the courts but also have led to enormous social unrest affecting peace, harmony and happiness of the society. It is high time that the legislature must take into consideration the pragmatic realities and make suitable changes in the existing law. It is imperative for the legislature to take into consideration the informed public opinion and the pragmatic realities in consideration and make necessary changes in the relevant provisions of law. We direct the Registry to send a copy of this judgment to the Law Commission and to the Union Law Secretary, Government of India who may place it before the Hon'ble Minister for Law & Justice to take appropriate steps in the larger interest of the society.

8. Their Lordships of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jitendra Raghuvanshi and othersvs. Babita Raghuvanshi and another,(2013) 4 SCC 58, have held that criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint can be quashed under section 482 Cr.P.C. in appropriate cases in order to meet ends of justice. Even in non-compoundable offences pertaining to matrimonial disputes, if court is satisfied that parties have settled the disputes amicably and without any pressure, then for purpose of securing ends of justice, FIR or complaint or subsequent criminal proceedings in respect of offences can be quashed. Their Lordships have held as under:

[13] As stated earlier, it is not in dispute that after filing of a complaint in respect of the offences punishable under Sections 498A and 406 of IPC, the parties, in the instant case, arrived at a mutual settlement and the complainant also has sworn an affidavit supporting the stand of the appellants. That was the position before the trial Court as well as before the High Court in a petition filed under Section 482 of the Code. A perusal of the impugned order of the High Court shows that because the mutual settlement arrived at between the parties relate to non-compoundable offence, the court proceeded on a wrong premise that it cannot be compounded and dismissed the petition filed under Section 482. A perusal of the petition before the High Court shows that the application filed by the appellants was not for compounding of non-compoundable offences but for the purpose of quashing the criminal proceedings.

[14] The inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 of the Code are wide and unfettered. In B.S. Joshi , this Court has upheld the powers of the High Court under Section 482 to quash criminal proceedings where dispute is of a private nature and a compromise is entered into between the parties who are willing to settle their differences amicably. We are satisfied that the said decision is directly applicable to the case on hand and the High Court ought to have quashed the criminal proceedings by accepting the settlement arrived at.

[15] In our view, it is the duty of the courts to encourage genuine settlements of matrimonial disputes, particularly, when the same are on considerable increase. Even if the offences are non-compoundable, if they relate to matrimonial disputes and the court is satisfied that the parties have settled the same amicably and without any pressure, we hold that for the purpose of securing ends of justice, Section 320 of the Code would not be a bar to the exercise of power of quashing of FIR, complaint or the subsequent criminal proceedings.

[16] There has been an outburst of matrimonial disputes in recent times. The institution of marriage occupies an important place and it has an important role to play in the society. Therefore, every effort should be made in the interest of the individuals in order to enable them to settle down in life and live peacefully. If the parties ponder over their defaults and terminate their disputes amicably by mutual agreement instead of fighting it out in a court of law, in order to do complete justice in the matrimonial matters, the courts should be less hesitant in exercising its extraordinary jurisdiction. It is trite to state that the power under Section 482 should be exercised sparingly and with circumspection only when the court is convinced, on the basis of material on record, that allowing the proceedings to continue would be an abuse of the process of the court or that the ends of justice require that the proceedings ought to be quashed. We also make it clear that exercise of such power would depend upon the facts and circumstances of each case and it has to be exercised in appropriate cases in order to do real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone the courts exist. It is the duty of the courts to encourage genuine settlements of matrimonial disputes and Section 482 of the Code enables the High Court and Article 142 of the Constitution enables this Court to pass such orders.

[17] In the light of the above discussion, we hold that the High Court in exercise of its inherent powers can quash the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint in appropriate cases in order to meet the ends of justice and Section 320 of the Code does not limit or affect the powers of the High Court under Section 482 of the Code. Under these circumstances, we set aside the impugned judgment of the High Court dated 04.07.2012 passed in M.C.R.C. No. 2877 of 2012 and quash the proceedings in Criminal Case No. 4166 of 2011 pending on the file of Judicial Magistrate Class-I, Indore."

9. Similarly, Hon'ble Supreme Court in Parbatbhai Aahir alias Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur and others*vs.*State of Gujarat and another, (2017) 9 Supreme Court Cases 641, wherein it has been held as under :

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The plaintiff is the appellant, who aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by learned Single Judge on 10.01.2013 in Civil Suit No. 22 of 2004 whereby the suit filed by him came to be dismissed, has filed the instant Original Side Appeal.

2. The plaintiff filed a suit for recovery of a sum of Rs. 22,00,000/- along with interest at the rate of 18% per annum from the date of filing of the suit till its realization on the allegation that he was a Class 'A' Contractor and was awarded the construction work of Yatri Niwas (Phase-II) Dharamshala. A formal agreement with respect to the same was executed between the parties. The plaintiff executed the said work well within time and to the satisfaction of the defendant and the final bill of the plaintiff was released only on 21.5.2001. The plaintiff had also raised a claim for escalation under Clause 10 CC of the agreement but the same was not released to him alongwith the final bill. Even though the same was prepared by the Assistant Engineer, HPTDC, Dharamshala in consultation with the plaintiff and thereafter forwarded to the Superintending Engineer vide letter dated 20.10.1999 for an amount of Rs.21,32,119/-. The same was checked by the office of Superintending Engineer for an amount of Rs.18,79,871/-. It was averred that in terms of the agreement the final authority to decide the amount of compensation payable under Clause 10 CC was the Superintending Engineer, but the amount was illegally detained by the defendant even after the same had been approved by the competent authority for payment to the plaintiff.

3. It was further averred that besides the aforesaid amount, a sum of Rs.1,00,000/-has also been detained by the defendant on account of the security and, therefore, the plaintiff is also entitled for release of the same since the work had been satisfactorily completed. It was lastly averred that despite oral requests made on several occasions by the plaintiff to the defendant for release of the amount the same was wrongly withheld, the plaintiff is entitled to interest at the current commercial rate of 18% per annum from the date when the amounts became due till its realization. The plaintiff claimed the following amounts:

a. Amount of Escalation as passed underclause 10 CC	: Rs.18,79,871/-
b. Security	: Rs. 1,00,000/-
c. Costs of notice.	: Rs. 1,100/-
d. Interest @ 18% from 18.5.2001	: Rs. 10,69,130/-
Total:	Rs.30,50,101/-

However, the plaintiff categorically gave up a part of his claim for pre-suit interest and restricted his claim to Rs.22,00,000/- as is evident from para 10 of the plaint.

4. The defendant contested the suit by filing written statement wherein preliminary objections were raised to the effect that the plaintiff had not submitted any claim or bill for escalation under Clause 10 CC etc. of the agreement for which he has inter alia claimed the payment in the present suit, as such, the suit was not maintainable and deserves to be dismissed. The other objection raised by the defendant was with regard to the maintainability of the suit in view of the arbitration clause contained in the agreement entered into between the parties. Lastly, an objection was raised that since the plaintiff had accepted the full and final payment without any objection or reservation long ago on 7.1.2000, therefore, he cannot agitate or dispute the matter at this belated stage and the suit was barred by limitation and was not maintainable.

On merits, the preliminary objections so raised were elaborated, yet it was further averred that the plaintiff was required to complete the work within one year i.e. before 2.12.1997. However, the same was delayed considerably by the plaintiff and was completed only on 15.4.1999. After acceptance of measurements by the plaintiff and completion of required formalities, the full and final payment was made to the plaintiff on 7.1.2000 which was accepted by him without any reservation or objection.

5. As regards the escalation bill, it was averred that the Assistant Engineer, Dharamshala vide his letter dated 20.10.1999 had only assessed the tentative and provisional liability which was further verified by the Superintending Engineer of the Corporation and, therefore, the plaintiff cannot claim any payment on the basis of the said assessment of liability. As regards the security amount of Rs.1,00,000/-, it was averred that this amount of refundable security to the plaintiff had been detained by the defendant as the plaintiff despite repeated requests had not furnished the proof of clearance of his liabilities towards the deposit of CPF with the competent authority in respect of the employees engaged by him for the work executed by him for the defendant. The plaintiff having failed to furnish the CPF clearance certificate from the competent authority was not entitled to the security amount till such payment was cleared. The defendant accordingly prayed for dismissal of the suit.

6. The replication to the written statement was filed by the plaintiff wherein the averments made in the plaint were reiterated and reaffirmed, while those in the written statement were denied. As regards the preliminary objection No.1, it was averred that the bill for the price escalation was duly prepared by the staff of the defendant as per the practice in the office of the defendant and the counter-signatures of the contractors are obtained thereupon at the time of making the payment.

7. As regards the preliminary objection No.2, it was averred that since the work was completed and the final payment for the same was made to the plaintiff on 21.5.2001 when the price escalation was also admissible but was not paid, therefore, the arbitration clause would not come into operation and the same would otherwise come into operation only when there is no dispute relating to the price escalation as the bill for the same had been checked in the office of the Superintending Engineer of the defendant.

8. Insofar as the preliminary objections No.3 and 4 relating to the suit being time barred, it was averred that the final payment was accepted by the plaintiff on 7.1.2000 and, therefore, the suit was well within the period of limitation. As observed, the other allegations in the written statement on merits were denied and corresponding averments made in the plaint were reiterated.

9. On the pleadings of the parties, the following issues came to be framed on 4.3.2005:

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the suit amount as alleged? OPP
2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for future interest at the rate of 18% per annum? OPP
3. Whether the suit is not maintainable in view of the arbitration agreement between the parties? OPD
4. Whether the plaintiff cannot claim the suit amount as he has accepted the full and final payment from the defendant without any protest? OPD.
5. Whether the suit is within the period of limitation? OPP
6. Whether the plaintiff did not make any claim under Clause 10 CC of the agreement between the parties as well, if so, its effect? OPD
7. Relief.

10. After recording the evidence and evaluating the same, the suit filed by the plaintiff came to be dismissed by the learned Single Judge on 10.01.2013, constraining the plaintiff to file the instant appeal.

11. The issues No. 1, 2 and 5 were answered against the plaintiff, whereas, issue No.3 was answered against the defendant, while issues No. 4 and 6 were answered in favour of the defendant.

12. It is vehemently argued by Mr. J.S. Bhogal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. T.S. Bhogal, Advocate that the learned Single Judge erred in dismissing the suit, that too, on the ground of limitation by simply relying upon Article 18 of the Limitation Act without considering the provisions of Section 19 thereof under which a fresh period would start from the date when payment on account of the work was made. It is further urged that the learned Single Judge erred while deciding issues No. 1, 2, 4 and 6 by holding that the plaintiff did not make the representation for enhanced payment for escalation and by further concluding that he has accepted the payment of the final bill without any objection. It is lastly argued by learned counsel for the appellant that the learned Single Judge has given undue weightage to the fact that the Managing Director of the defendant did not approve the bill, but at the same time, has failed to appreciate the fact that on account of the failure of the officers of the defendant to approve and make the payment of escalation bills and the security that initially the notice was issued and subsequently the suit was instituted against the defendant.

13. On the other hand, Mr. G.D. Verma, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Mr. B.C.Verma, Advocate would argue that since the plaintiff had received the payment without any objection or protest, therefore, he is estopped from filing the suit and would otherwise claim that the suit being time barred has been rightly dismissed by learned Single Judge.

14. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the case and would now proceed to examine the issue-wise findings in the same order as has been considered by the learned Single Judge.

ISSUE NO.5:

15. Noticeably, the point of law for consideration in the instant appeal is: whether a suit for money for remuneration for work done would amount to a suit for enforcement of debt and consequently payment in writing would extend the period of limitation under Section 19 of the Limitation Act.

16. Article 18 of the Limitation Act, which has been relied upon by learned Single Judge reads as under:

18.	For the price of work done by the plaintiff for the defendant at his request, where no time has been fixed for payment.	Period of Limitation is three years.	When the work is done.

17. Section 19 of the Limitation Act deals with the effect of payment and reads thus:

> "Effect of payment on account of debt or of interest on legacy.- Where payment on account of a debt or of interest on a legacy is made before the expiration of the prescribed period by the person liable to pay the debt or legacy or by his agent duty authorised in this behalf, a fresh period of limitation shall be computed from the time when the payment was made :
>
> Provided that, save in the case of payment of interest made before the 1st day of January, 1928, an acknowledgement of the payment appears in the handwriting of, or in a writing signed by, the person making the payment.
>
> Explanation. – For the purposes of this section,-
>
> (a) where mortgaged land is in the possession of the mortgagee, the receipt of the rent or produce of such land shall be deemed to be a payment.
> (b) "debt" does not include money payable under a decree or order of a court."

18. Noticeably, Section 19 deals with a debt and, therefore we would have to fall back on the meaning of debt in the context of Section 73 of the Indian Contract Act. The question was considered in detail by a Full Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in Ram Lal Jain vs. Central Bank of India, AIR 1961 Punj. 340 and it was held that debt would include any liability to pay for a breach of a contract and since the liability is pecuniary it would take the character of a debt.

19. The Allahabad High Court in Paras Nath vs. Kishan Lal AIR 1965 All 189 held that "debt" comes into existence in the cases of accrued rent not paid to the landlord and the pecuniary liability quantified or capable of quantification will come in the definition of debt.

20. Earl Jowitt in his definition of English law has defined debt as follows:

> "a sum of money due from one person to another, a debt exits when a certain sum of money is owing from one person to another."

21. In DPP vs. Turner 1973 3 All England Reporter, 124, it was held a debt is a sum that one person is bound to pay to another. It was further held that debt normally has one or other of two meanings it can mean an obligation to pay money or it can mean a sum of money owed.

22. In Kesoram Industries and Cotton Mills Ltd. vs. Commissioner of Wealth-Tax (Central), Calcutta, (1966) 69 ITR 767, the Hon'ble Supreme Court after discussing various decisions, has observed at pages 786 and 787, as under:

> "a debt is a sum of money which is now payable or will become payable in the future by reason of a present obligationdebitum in praesenti, solvendum in futuro.
>
> A debt involves an obligation incurred by the debtor and the liability to pay a sum of money in present or future. The liability must, however, be to pay a sum of money, i.e., to pay an amount which is determined or determinable in the light of factors existing on the date when the nature of the liability is to be ascertained."

23. It was further held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in para 32 as under:

> "32. To summarize: A debt is a present obligation to pay an ascertainable sum of money, whether the amount is payable in praesenti or in futuro; debitum in praesenti, solvendum in futuro. But a sum payable upon a contingency does not become a debt until the said contingency has happened….."

24. Black's Law Dictionary defines 'debt' as under:

1. Liability on a claim; a specific sum of money due by agreement or otherwise.
2. The aggregate of all existing claims against a person, entity, or state.
3. A non-monetary thing that one person owes another, such as goods or services.

25. From the aforesaid exposition of law, we are of the considered view that the money which is sought to be recovered by the plaintiff for the work done must be held to be a liability to pay an amount as per the contract and, therefore, a debt. Section 19 is comprehensive to include every situation where the financial liability is ascertained.

26. Adverting to the impugned judgment, it would be noticed that the learned Single Judge took note of the limitation as prescribed under Article 18 without considering Section 19 of the Limitation Act and held the suit to be time barred. While reaching at such a conclusion, it relied upon the judgment of Punjab and Haryana High Court in Jullundur Improvement Trust vs. Kuldip Singh 1984 AIR (Punjab) 185 where the Court held that the starting point of limitation for an agreement for construction of work would be three years from the time when the work was completed. It further held that receipt of payment therefor was irrelevant.

27. However, it would be noticed that there was no specific consideration of the effect of Section 19 in the said judgment and, therefore, the same could not have been applied.

28. This fact has been duly noted by another learned Single Judge of the Punjab and Haryana High Court in SAO No. 81 of 2011 (O&M), decided on 13.12.2013 in case titled Unitech Ltd. vs. M/s Prem Builders India and others, wherein the point of law for consideration like in the instant case was whether a suit for money for remuneration for work done amounts to a suit for enforcement of debt and consequently payment in writing will extend the period of limitation under Section 19 of the Limitation Act.

29. While answering the question in affirmative, the earlier judgment of that Court in Ram Lal Jain's case (supra) was distinguished in the following manner:

> "6. The counsel for the petitioner brings to me a judgment of this Court in Jullundur Improvement Trust vs. Kuldip Singh 1984 AIR (Punjab) 185 where the court was holding that the starting point of limitation for an agreement for construction of work would be three years from the time when the work was completed. The Court was holding that receipt of payment thereof was irrelevant. There was no specific consideration of the effect of Section 19 in the said judgment and I will not therefore find any reason to apply the said judgment."

And it was thereafter held:

> "7. The money which is sought to be recovered by the plaintiff for the work done must be taken as a liability to pay an amount as per the contract and therefore a debt. Section 19 is comprehensive to include every situation where the financial liability is ascertained. To persist with the second appeal against the order is frivolous. I find it to be an excuse not to pay the amount due under the contract. The second appeal against the order of the court below is dismissed with exemplary costs of Rs.3,500/- Counsel's fee Rs.5,000/-"

30. We see no reason to take a different view from the one taken by the learned Single Judge of Punjab and Haryana High Court in Unitech Ltd. (supra). Consequently, the findings on issue No.5 as recorded by learned Single Judge, are liable to be set-aside. Ordered accordingly.

ISSUE NO. 3:

31. Issue No.3 has already been decided by the learned Single Judge against the defendant and admittedly the said findings have attained finality as the defendant has not chosen to file separate appeal or cross-objections questioning the same.

ISSUES NO. 4 & 6:

32. Now, adverting to the findings rendered on issue No.6; the onus to prove this issue was upon the defendant, who in order to prove its case examined Pyara Singh Thakur as DW-1, who stated that even though the work was required to be executed within one year, however, the plaintiff took three years for its completion. He further stated that the plaintiff did not make any representation for enhanced payment on account of costs escalation. However, in his cross-examination, he admitted that on reporting of execution of a work, the Junior Engineer concerned used to measure the work done on the spot and enter the same in the measurement book and thereafter, prepare the final bill. He also admitted that the signature of the contractor used to be obtained in token of his acknowledgement with respect to correct measurement of the work. He further admitted that the defendant did not submit any bill either on his pad or letter head or in any bill form and rather it was the Junior Engineer, who prepared one bill for the work and another for escalation in the costs of material and wages of labours. The witness also admitted that the bill was sent to the head office. It has come on record that it was the Managing Director of the defendant, who failed to take a decision on the bill by neither rejecting it nor accepting the same. In such circumstances, it could not be said that the plaintiff had not made any claim under Section 10 CC of the agreement and the contrary findings recorded by learned Single Judge on this issue is therefore, liable to be set-aside. Ordered accordingly.

33. Adverting to issue No.4, it would be noticed that there is nothing on record to even remotely suggest that the plaintiff had accepted the full and final amount without any objection or protest, so as to dis-entitle him to claim a sum of Rs. 18,79,871/- on account of escalation.

34. In the present case the defendant is H.P. Tourism Development Corporation, which is a public authority. It does not lie to the public authority like the defendant raising such plea to deprive a just claim of the plaintiff, though the suit is within time depriving just claim of the plaintiff.

35. We make it clear that even though a public authority is not prohibited from raising such a plea and the Court is otherwise duty bound to decide such plea when raised, but such a plea should not ordinarily be taken up by a Government or a public authority, unless of course the claim of the plaintiff is not well founded and by reason of delay in filing a suit, the evidence for the purpose of resisting such a claim has become un-available.

36. In Urban Improvement Trust, Bikaner vs. Mohan Lal (2010) 1 SCC 512, it was observed that it is a matter of concern that such frivolous and unjust litigations by Governments and statutory authorities are on the increase. It was further observed that statutory authorities which existed for to discharge statutory functions in public interest should be responsible litigants and cannot raise frivolous and unjust objections nor act in a callous and high-handed manner. It would be apposite to refer to the relevant observations, which reads thus:

> "5. It is a matter of concern that such frivolous and unjust litigation by governments and statutory authorities are on the increase. Statutory Authorities exist to discharge statutory functions in public interest. They should be responsible litigants. They cannot raise frivolous and unjust objections, nor act in a callous and highhanded manner. They can not behave like some private litigants with profiteering motives. Nor can they resort to unjust enrichment. They are expected to show remorse or regret when their officers act negligently or in an overbearing manner. When glaring wrong acts by their officers is brought to their notice, for which there is no explanation or excuse, the least that is expected is restitution/restoration to the extent possible with appropriate compensation. Their harsh attitude in regard to genuine grievances of the public and their indulgence in unwarranted litigation requires to be corrected.

6. This Court has repeatedly expressed the view that the governments and statutory authorities should be model or ideal litigants and should not put forth false, frivolous, vexatious, technical (but unjust) contentions to obstruct the path of justice. We may refer to some of the decisions in this behalf.

7. In Dilbagh Rai Jarry vs. Union of India [1974 (3) SCC 554] where the Hon'ble Supreme Court extracted with approval, the following statement (from an earlier decision of the Kerala High Court (P.P. Abubacker vs. Union of India, AIR 1972 Ker 103, AIR pp. 107-08, para 5)]:(SCC p.562, para 25)

> "25.......'5. ....."The State, under our Constitution, undertakes economic activities in a vast and widening public sector and inevitably gets involved in disputes with private individuals. But it must be remembered that the State is no ordinary party trying to win a case against one of its own citizens by hook or by crook; for the State's interest is to meet honest claims, vindicate a substantial defence and never to score a technical point or overreach a weaker party to avoid a just liability or secure an unfair advantage, simply because legal devices provide such an opportunity. The State is a virtuous litigant and looks with unconcern on immoral forensic successes so that if on the merits the case is weak, government shows a willingness to settle the dispute regardless of prestige and other lesser motivations which move private parties to fight in court. The lay-out on litigation costs and executive time by the State and its agencies is so staggering these days because of the large amount of litigation in which it is involved that a positive and wholesome policy of cutting back on the volume of law suits by the twin methods of not being tempted into forensic show-downs where a reasonable adjustment is feasible and ever offering to extinguish a pending proceeding on just terms, giving the legal mentors of government some initiative and authority in this behalf. I am not indulging in any judicial homily but only echoing the dynamic national policy on State litigation evolved at a Conference of Law Ministers of India way back in 1957.' "

8. In Madras Port Trust v. Hymanshu International, (1979) 4 SCC 176 the Hon'ble Supreme Court held: (SCC p. 177, para 2):

"2. .... It is high time that governments and public authorities adopt the practice of not relying upon technical pleas for the purpose of defeating legitimate claims of citizens and do what is fair and just to the citizens. Of course, if a government or a public authority takes up a technical plea, the Court has to decide it and if the plea is well founded, it has to be upheld by the court, but what we feel is that such a plea should not ordinarily be taken up by a government or a public authority, unless of course the claim is not well-founded and by reason of delay in filing it, the evidence for the purpose of resisting such a claim has become unavailable...."

9. In a three Judge Bench judgment of Bhag Singh & Ors. v. Union Territory of Chandigarh through LAC, Chandigarh [(1985) 3 SCC 737]: the Hon'ble Supreme Court held: (SCC p. 741, para 3)

"3... The State Government must do what is fair and just to the citizen and should not, as far as possible, except in cases where tax or revenue is received or recovered without protest or where the State Government would otherwise be irretrievably be prejudiced, take up a technical plea to defeat the legitimate and just claim of the citizen."

10. Unwarranted litigation by governments and statutory authorities basically stem from the two general baseless assumptions by their officers. They are:

(i) All claims against the government/statutory authorities should be viewed as illegal and should be resisted and fought up to the highest court of the land.

(ii) If taking a decision on an issue could be avoided, then it is prudent not to decide the issue and let the aggrieved party approach the Court and secures a decision.

The reluctance to take decisions, or tendency to challenge all orders against them, is not the policy of the governments or statutory authorities, but is attributable to some officers who are responsible for taking decisions and/or officers in charge of litigation. Their reluctance arises from an instinctive tendency to protect themselves against any future accusations of wrong decision making, or worse, of improper motives for any decision making. Unless their insecurity and fear is addressed, officers will continue to pass on the responsibility of decision making to courts and Tribunals."

37. Similar reiteration of law can be found in a fairly recent judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rajendra Shankar Shukla and others vs. State of Chhattisgarh and others (2015) 10 SCC 400, wherein again while referring to the earlier decision in Hymanshu's case (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held in para 32 as under:

"32. Further, this Court has frowned upon the practice of the Government to raise technical pleas to defeat the rights of the citizens in Madras Port Trust vs. Hymanshu International (1979) 4 SCC 176, wherein it was opined that it is about time that governments and public authorities adopt the practice of not relying upon technical pleas for the purpose of defeating legitimate claims of citizens and do what is fair and just to the citizens. Para 2 from the said case reads thus :- (SCC p.177)

> "2. We do not think that this is a fit case where we should proceed to determine whether the claim of the respondent was barred by Section 110 of the Madras Port Trust Act (2 of 1905). The plea of limitation based on this section is one which the court always looks upon with disfavour and it is unfortunate that a public authority like the Port Trust should, in all morality and justice, take up such a plea to defeat a just claim of the citizen. It is high time that governments and public authorities adopt the practice of not relying upon technical pleas for the purpose of defeating legitimate claims of citizens and do what is fair and just to the citizens. Of course, if a government or a public authority takes up a technical plea, the Court has to decide it and if the plea is well-founded, it has to be upheld by the court, but what we feel is that such a plea should not ordinarily be taken up by a government or a public authority, unless of course the claim is not well-founded and by reason of delay in filing it, the evidence for the. purpose of resisting such a claim has become unavailable. Here, it js obvious that the claim of the respondent was a just claim supported as it was by the recommendation of the Assistant Collector of Customs and hence in the exercise of our discretion under Article 136 of the Constitution, we do not see any reason why we should proceed to hear this appeal and adjudicate upon the plea of the appellant based on Section 110 of the Madras Port Trust Act (2 of 1905)."

38. The learned Single Judge held that the plaintiff was not entitled to the suit amount as he had accepted the full and final payment from the defendant without any protest. However, such findings are not supported by the material placed on record.

39. Even otherwise mere acceptance of the amount would not debar the plaintiff to make further claims as was held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in R.L. Kalathia and Company vs. State of Gujarat (2011) 2 SCC 400, wherein it was observed as under:

> "9. On going through the entire materials including the oral and documentary evidence led in by both the parties and the judgment and decree of the trial Judge, we are unable to accept the only reasoning of the High Court in non-suiting the plaintiff. It is true that when the final bill was submitted, the plaintiff had accepted the amount as mentioned in the final bill but "under protest". It is also the specific claim of the plaintiff that on the direction of the Department, it had performed additional work and hence entitled for additional amount/damages as per the terms of agreement. Merely because the plaintiff had accepted the final bill, it cannot be deprived of its right to claim damages if it had incurred additional amount and is able to prove the same by acceptable materials."

40. It was further observed that merely because the plaintiff had accepted the final bill, he cannot be deprived of his right to claim damages if he had incurred additional amount and is able to prove the same by acceptable materials.

41. Earlier to that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Chairman and MD, NTPC Ltd. vs. Reshmi Constructions, Builders & Contractors (2004) 2 SCC 663 and Asian Techs Limited vs. Union of India and others (2009) 10 SCC 354 considered that the Public Sector undertaking and Financial Institutions always have an upper hand and they would not ordinarily release the money unless a "No Demand Certificate" is signed and further held that each case, therefore, is required to be considered on its own merits. The Hon'ble Supreme Court applied legal maxim necessitas non habet legem which means necessity knows no law. A person may sometimes have to succumb to the pressure of the other party to the bargain who is in a stronger position.

42 In R.L. Kalathia's case (supra) the legal position was summed up as under:

(I) Merely because the contractor has issued "no-dues certificate", if there is an acceptable claim, the court cannot reject the same on the ground if issuance of "no-dues-certificate".

(ii) Inasmuch as it is common that unless a discharge certificate is given in advance by the contractor, payment of bills are generally delayed, hence such a clause in the contract would not be an absolute bar to a contractor raising claims which are genuine at a later date even after submission of such "no-claim certificate".

(iii) Even after execution of full and final discharge voucher/receipt by one of the parties, if the said party is able to establish that he is entitled to further amount for which he is having adequate materials, he is not barred from claiming such amount merely because of acceptance of the final bill by mentioning "without prejudice" or by issuing "no-dues certificate".

Accordingly, these issues are decided against the respondent/defendant.

43. It would be noticed that the basis for deciding these issues against the plaintiff were that the findings recorded qua issues No.4 and 6 and admittedly no further reasons were given for deciding these issues against the plaintiff. Now issues No.4 and 6 stand decided against the defendant, obviously then, both these issues have to be answered in favour of the plaintiff. Apart from that, save and except, the claim of refund of Rs.1,00,000/- as security, which in fact, has been withheld only for CPF clearance certificate, which in our considered view cannot be termed to be unjustified, the suit of the plaintiff must be decreed. Issues No.1 and 2 are accordingly decided in favour of the plaintiff.

44. Now, adverting to the question regarding the entitlement of the plaintiff towards the interest, it would be noticed that save and except the legal notice, no other document has been placed on record by the plaintiff. Even the agreement for award of the work of contract in favour of the plaintiff has not been placed on record so as to enable this Court to come to the conclusion as to whether there was a clause in the said agreement regarding the payment of interest. In the notice issued by the plaintiff, he has claimed 18% interest, whereas while appearing as PW-1 the interest @ 24% has been claimed.

45. Be that as it may, once this Court has come to the conclusion that the plaintiff has been deprived of use of money, because of lapse or fault of the defendant, to which he is entitled to, then he would have a right to be compensated for such deprivation which may be called interest, compensation or damages etc.

46. A Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Secretary, Irrigation Department, Government of Orissa and others versus G.C.Roy (1992) 1 SCC 508,held that:-

> "43…(i) A person deprived of the use of money to which he is legitimately entitled has a right to be compensated for the deprivation, call it by any name. It may be called interest, compensation or damages……. ."

47. Black's Law Dictionary (7th Edition) defines 'interest' inter alia as:

> "3. The compensation fixed by agreement or allowed by law for the use or detention of money, or for the loss of money by one who is entitled to its use; especially, the amount owed to a lender in return for the use of [the] borrowed money."

48. According to Stroud's Judicial Dictionary of Words And Phrases (5th Edition) interest means, inter alia, compensation paid by the borrower to the lender for deprivation of the use of his money.

49. The essence of interest in the opinion of Lord Wright, in Riches versus Westminster Bank Ltd., 1947 AC 390 : (1947) 1 All ER 469 (HL) (AC at p.400: All ER at p.472-E-F) is that:-

> '…..it is a payment which becomes due because the creditor has not had his money at the due date. It may be regarded either as representing the profit he might have made if he had had the use of the money, or conversely the loss he suffered because he had not that use. The general idea is that he is entitled to compensation for the deprivation'; the money due to the creditor was not paid, or, in other words, 'was withheld from him by the debtor after the time when payment should have been made, in breach of his legal rights, and interest was a compensation, whether the compensation was liquidated under an agreement or statute'.

50. At this stage, it may be relevant to note that the following observations made by a Division Bench of the High Court of Punjab in CIT versus Dr.Sham Lal Narula AIR 1963 Punj 411 on the concept of 'interest' were duly approved by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dr.Sham Lal Narula versus CIT, AIR 1964 SC 1878 and it was held as under:-

> "8. The words "interest" and "compensation" are sometimes used interchangeably and on other occasions they have distinct connotation. "Interest" in general terms is the return or compensation for the use or retention by one person of a sum of money belonging to or owed to another. In its narrow sense, "interest" is understood to mean the amount which one has contracted to pay for use of borrowed money……
> In whatever category "interest" in a particular case may be put, it is a consideration paid either for the use of money or for forbearance in demanding it, after it has fallen due, and thus, it is a charge for the use or forbearance of money. In this sense, it is a compensation allowed by law or fixed by parties, or permitted by custom or usage, for use of money, belonging to another, or for the delay in paying money after it has become payable."

51. In South Eastern Coalfields Ltd. Vs. State of M.P. and others (2003) 8 SCC 648, it was held that interest is also payable in equity in certain circumstances. It was further observed that rule in equity is that interest is payable even in the absence of any agreement or custom to that effect though subject, of course, to a contrary agreement. Applicability of the rule to avoid interest in equity is attracted when the existence of a state of circumstances is established which justify the exercise of such equitable jurisdiction and such circumstances can be many. It is apt to reproduce paragraphs 21, 24, 26 and 28 of the judgment, which reads thus:-

"21. Interest is also payable in equity in certain circumstances, me rule in equity is that interest is payable even in the absence of any agreement or custom to that effect though subject, of course, to a contrary agreement (See: Chitty on Contracts, Addition 1999, Vol. II, Part 38-248, at page 712). Interest in equity has been held to be payable on a market rate even though the deed contains no mention of interest. Applicability of the rule to award interest in equity is attracted on the existence of a state of circumstances being established which justify the exercise of such equitable jurisdiction and such circumstances can be many.

24. We are, therefore, of the opinion that in the absence of there being a prohibition either in law or in the contract entered into between the two parties, there is no reason why the Coalfields should not be compensated by payment of interest for the period for which the consumers/purchasers did not pay the amount of enhanced royalty which is a constituent part of the price of the mineral for the period for which it remained unpaid. The justification for award of interest stands fortified by the weighty factor that the Coalfields themselves are obliged to pay interest to the State on such amount. It will be a travesty of justice to hold that though the Coalfields must pay the amount of interest to the State but the consumers/purchasers in whose hands the money was actually withheld be exonerated from liability to pay the interest.

Liability of the consumers/purchasers to pay interest to the Coalfields:

(b) for the period for which the restraint order passed by the Court remained in operation.

26. In our opinion, the principle of restitution takes care of this submission. The word 'restitution' in its etymological sense means restoring to a party on the modification, variation or reversal of a decree or order, what has been lost to him in execution or decree or order or the court or in direct consequence of a decree or order (See : Zafar Khan and Ors. v. Board of Revenue, U.P., and Ors., . In law, the term 'restitution' is used in three senses; (i) return or restoration of some specific thing to its rightful owner or status; (ii) compensation for benefits derived from a wrong done to another; (iii) compensation or reparation for the loss caused to another. (See Black's Law Dictionary, Seventh Edition, p.1315). The Law of Contracts by John D. Calamari & Joseph M. Perillo has been quoted by Black to say that 'restitution' is an ambiguous term, sometimes referring to the disgorging of something which has been taken and at times referring to compensation for injury done:

"Often, the result in either meaning of the term would be the same. ..... Unjust impoverishment as well as unjust enrichment is a > ground for restitution. If the defendant is guilty of a non-tortuous misrepresentation, the measure of recovery is not rigid but, as in other cases of restitution, such factors as relative fault, the agreed upon risks, and the fairness of alternative risk allocations not agreed upon and not attributable to the fault of either party need to be weighed."

The principle of restitution has been statutorily recognized in Section 144 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. Section 144 of the C.P.C. speaks not only of a decree being varied, reversed, set aside or modified but also includes an order on par with a decree. The scope of the provision is wide enough so as to include therein almost all the kinds of variation, reversal, setting aside or modification of a decree or order. The interim order passed by the Court merges into a final decision. The validity of an interim order, passed in favour of a party, stands reversed in the event of final decision going against the party successful at the interim stage. Unless otherwise ordered by the Court, the successful party at the end would be justified with ail expediency in demanding compensation and being placed in the same situation in which it would have been if the interim order would not have been passed against it. The successful party can demand (a) the delivery of benefit earned by the opposite party under the interim order of the court, or (b) to make restitution for what it has lost; and it is the duty of the court to do so unless it feels that in the facts and on the circumstances of the case, the restitution would far from meeting the ends of justice, would rather defeat the same. Undoing the effect of an interim order by resorting to principles of restitution is an obligation of the party, who has gained by the interim order of the Court, so as to wipe out the effect of the interim order passed which, in view of the reasoning adopted by the court at the stage of final decision, the court earlier would not or ought not to have passed. There is nothing, wrong in an effort being made to restore the parties to the same position in which they would have been if the interim order would not have existed.

28. That no one shall suffer by an act of the court is not a rule confined to an erroneous act of the court; the 'act of the court' embraces within its sweep all such acts as to which the court may form an opinion in any legal proceedings that the court would not have so acted had it been correctly apprised of the facts and the law. The factor attracting applicability of restitution is not the act of the Court being wrongful or a mistake or error committed by the Court; the test is whether on account of an act of the party persuading the Court to pass an order held at the end as not sustainable, has resulted in one party gaining an advantage which it would not have otherwise corned, or the other party has suffered an impoverishment which it would not have suffered but for the order of the Court and the set of such party. The quantum of restitution, depending on the facts and circumstances of a given case, may take into consideration not only what the party excluded would have made but also what the party under obligation has or might reasonably have made. There is nothing wrong in the parties demanding being placed in the same position in which they would have been had the court not intervened by its interim order when at the end of the proceedings the court pronounces its judicial verdict which does not match with and countenance its own interim verdict. Whenever called upon to adjudicate, the court would act in conjunction with what is the real and substantial justice. The injury, if any, caused by the act of the court shall be undone and the gain which the party would have earned unless it was interdicted by the order of the court would be restored to or conferred on the party by suitably commanding the party liable to do so. Any opinion to the contrary would lead to unjust if not disastrous consequences. Litigation may turn into a fruitful industry. Though litigation is not gambling yet there is an element of chance in every litigation. Unscrupulous litigants may feel encouraged to approach the Courts, persuading the court to pass interlocutory orders favourable to them by making out a prima facie case when the issues are yet to be heard and determined on merits and if the concept of restitution is excluded from application to interim orders, then the litigant would stand to gain by swallowing the benefits yielding out of the interim order even though the battle has been lost at the end. This cannot be countenanced, we are, therefore, or the opinion that the successful party finally held entitled to a relief assessable in terms of money at the end of the litigation, is entitled to be compensated by award of interest at a suitable reasonable rate for the period for which the interim order of the court withholding the release of money had remained in operation."

52. Judged in light of the aforesaid exposition of law, we are of the considered view that the ends of justice would be subserved in case the plaintiff is awarded interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of filing of the suit i.e. on 19.5.2004 till the date of its realisation. Ordered accordingly.

53. In view of the issue-wise findings recorded above, the appeal is allowed. The judgment and decree passed by the learned Single Judge is set-aside. However, even though the plaintiff is held entitled to the entire amount of Rs.18,79,871/-,but as regards the security amount of Rs.1,00,000/- the same shall be refunded to him only in the event of his submitting CPF clearance certificate. In addition thereto, the plaintiff is held entitled to interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of filing of the suit i.e. on 19.5.2004 till its realisation. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of. Decree-sheet be prepared accordingly.

For the appellant:	Mr. L.S. Mehta, Advocate.
For the respondent:	Mr. Varun Chandel, Advocate.
	Parties are present in person.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge (Oral):

By way of this appeal, the appellant has challenged the judgment dated 24.10.2018, passed by the Court of learned District Judge, Bilaspur, H.P. in HMA Petition No. 18/3 of 2017, titled as Shri Anil Kumar Jamwal Vs. Smt. Reena Devi, vide which, a petition filed under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 by the appellant for dissolution of marriage by way of decree of divorce, has been dismissed.

2. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of the appeal are that appellant-petitioner (husband){hereinafter referred to as 'the petitioner'} filed a petition for dissolution of marriage under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 on the ground that his marriage was solemnized with the respondent-Reena Devi as per Hindu Rites on 15.01.2005. They lived peacefully in their village for some time after the marriage and out of the said wedlock, two children were born. After the birth of children, the behaviour of the respondent changed towards the appellant and she started abusing, maltreating and misbehaving with the petitioner. On numerous occasions, respondent left the house of the petitioner without any prior permission. On number of occasions, petitioner brought her back from the house of in-laws. He was also maltreated by the parents and brothers of the respondent, who threatened him with dire consequences and also dissuaded him from visiting the house of in-laws. According to the petitioner, on one occasion, the matter was got amicably settled between the parties with the help of nears and dears and respondent came back to her matrimonial house, however, after few days, she again started misbehaving and quarreling with the petitioner. According to the petitioner, there was no physical/biological relation between him and the respondent after the birth of their children. Respondent had caused mental as also physical cruelty to the petitioner. During the years 2005 to 2007, petitioner was posted at Jalandhar and w.e.f. 2007 to 2008, he remained posted at Baddi and since then, he was doing a private job at Shimla. Somewhere in the year 2009-2010, on the request of the petitioner, respondent remained with him at Shimla for about 10-15 days, but thereafter she deserted him in the month of January, 2010 and went to her parents house. It was also the case of the petitioner that in the year 2007, his parents had disowned him. His case was that respondent was hand-in-glove with his parents in getting him dis-owned from the property of his parents. His children were also residing with their grandparents. Petitioner was not even being permitted to visit his own house. As the parties were residing separately since last four years as from the date when the petition was filed and there were no chances of re-conciliation between the parties, the petitioner filed a petition praying for dissolution of marriage by way of decree of divorce.

3. The petition was resisted by the respondent, inter alia, on the ground that it was the petitioner who has failed to maintain the respondent and their children, who were minor and school going. According to the respondent, petitioner had never spent even a single penny towards the education of the children. The factum of ill-treatment of the petitioner at the behest of respondent was emphatically denied. All other allegations levelled in the petition by the petitioner against the respondent were also denied. It was denied that respondent used to leave the matrimonial house without the prior permission of petitioner to go to her parental house. It was also denied that the parents or brothers of the respondent misbehaved with the petitioner or that he was threatened by them, as alleged. As per the respondent, while in Jalandhar, petitioner got entangled with some other girl. He came back at the insistence of his parents and other relatives. Petitioner while in Shimla, was living a life of adultery. It was only on account of his misdeeds that his parents had disowned him and in fact were supporting their daughter-in-law (respondent) and their grandchildren. It was denied that after the birth of the children, there was no physical/biological relation between the parties. As per the respondent, there was physical relation between them even in the month of February, 2015 when the petitioner visited his home. It was also the case of the respondent that petitioner constantly used to visit his parental house. It was denied by the respondent that parties were residing separately for the last four years and according to the respondent, it was the petitioner who was ill-treating and misbehaving with the respondent.

4. On the basis of pleadings of the parties, learned Court below has framed the following issues:

> "1. Whether the petitioner is entitled for divorce on the grounds of cruelty? OPP.
>
> 2. Whether the petitioner is entitled to decree on the ground of desertion? OPP.
>
> 3. Whether the petition is not maintainable? OPR.
>
> 4. Whether the petitioner has concealed the material facts from the Court as alleged. If so, its effect? OPR.
>
> 5. Whether the petitioner has no cause of action to file the present petition? OPR.
>
> 6. Whether this Court has no jurisdiction to hear and decide the matter? OPR.
> 7. Relief."

5. On the basis of evidence adduced by the respective parties in support of their respective claims, the following findings were returned by learned Trial Court on the issues so framed:

"Issue No. 1:	No.
Issue No. 2:	No.
Issue No. 3:	No.
Issue No. 4:	No.
Issue No. 5:	No.
Issue No. 6:	No.
Relief:	Petition is dismissed with costs per operative part of the judgment."

6. While dismissing the petition filed by the appellant, learned Court below held that it was not proved on record that the petitioner was treated with cruelty and desertion by the respondent, whereas it had come on record that respondent was residing with her in-laws alongwith children. Learned Court held that there was no convincing ground to infer that the respondent was in the habit of leaving her in-laws' house without intimation and permission nor there was any convincing ground to infer that the respondent had misbehaved with petitioner or ill-treated him. Learned Court also held that it had come on record that the petitioner had been disowned by his parents in the year 2007 and despite this, he was visiting the house of his father. Learned Court held that the petitioner had failed to lead any convincing evidence that respondent acted in a manner, which amounted to cruelty and desertion. It held that petitioner had failed to provide due care to his wife as also children and the allegation of cruelty and desertion against the respondent were not legally proved. On these grounds, learned Court below dismissed the petition.

7. Feeling aggrieved, the appellant/petitioner has filed the present appeal.

8. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the judgment passed by the learned Court below.

9. To prove his case, petitioner examined five witnesses. His father Gian Singh entered the witness box as PW-1 and stated that respondent (wife) was residing with him and he was also looking after his grandchildren, who were residing with him. This witness also stated that petitioner, who was his son, was not residing with him for the last two years and nine months. He also stated that he had disowned the petitioner from his property by issuing a public notice in this regard.

10. Mother of the petitioner-Pyaro Devi entered the witness box as PW-2 and she also deposed in the Court that the petitioner was not residing in his parental house and that neither her son nor daughter-in-law were under their command. She further stated that the respondent as also her grandchildren were being maintained by them and were residing with them. She also stated that the petitioner who is her son was disowned by them as he had got himself engaged to a girl at Jalandhar in the year 2007 and now his son wanted to marry with some other girl in Shimla.

11. PW-3 Sh. Piar Singh, Pradhan, Gram Panchayat Kotlu Brahmna has stated in the Court that at the instance of the father of the petitioner, a meeting of the Panchayat was convened with regard to the maintenance of the respondent, however, no meeting was actually held as the petitioner did not turn up before the Panchayat.

12. One Shri Sandeep Kumar, who entered the witness box as PW-4 feigned his ignorance about having any knowledge with regard to the dispute between the parties. He also showed his ignorance to the fact that the petitioner wanted to marry some other girl and therefore, the petitioner had filed the petition for divorce.

13. Petitioner himself entered the witness box as PW-5 and he stated in the Court about the cruelty being meted out to him by the respondent, who was a quarrelsome and abusive lady. He stated in the Court that the respondent used to leave the house of the petitioner and go to her parents house without his consent and since 2010, he was having no physical relations with his wife.

14. Respondent examined Shri Bharat Bhushan as RW-1 and Sh. Bal Chand as RW-2 and both these witnesses deposed that after her marriage, the respondent had resided in her matrimonial house. He had never abused the petitioner. These witnesses deposed that it was the petitioner who was interested in marrying some other girl at Jalandhar and had also performed ring ceremony with another girl despite his being married to the respondent. Shri Ramesh Chand and Mustaq Mohammad entered into the witness box as RW-3 and RW-5. RW-3 Ramesh Chand, who was Pradhan of Gram Panchayat Bhatoli-Kalan stated that in the year 2016, father of respondent had brought into his notice the fact that his daughter was being ill-treated in her in-laws' house and when he met the parents of the petitioner, he was told that the petitioner was neither residing with them nor he was listening to their directions, whereas the respondent was living with them.

15. RW-5 Mustaq Mohammad also stated in the Court that petitioner was interested in marrying some other girl and this was the reason as to why he had filed the divorce petition.

16. Respondent entered the witness box as RW-4 and she stated in the Court that she alongwith her children were residing in the house of her in-laws. She had never left her matrimonial house, as alleged by the petitioner. She further stated that petitioner had in fact committed fraud by getting engaged to another girl at Jalandhar and thereafter, they had shifted to Shimla. She stated that now at Shimla, the petitioner was again interested in marrying another girl and for this reason, he had filed the divorce petition.

17. From the above discussion, certain facts which clearly emerge, are that whereas the respondent is residing with her in-laws with her two minor children, the petitioner is not living with his parents. Petitioner while in Jalandhar had performed a ring ceremony with another girl, despite the fact that he was already married to the respondent. While at Shimla, he was now interested in marrying another girl and for the said purpose, he had initiated divorce proceedings against the respondent. The above noted facts are strengthened by the statements of the parents of the petitioner himself, who entered the witness box as his witnesses. Both these witnesses have deposed that petitioner was not residing with them, he was not listening to them, respondent was residing with them, father-in-law of the respondent was maintaining the respondent as also her two minor children and the petitioner was disowned by the parents, because he had performed a ring ceremony with some other girl at Jalandhar. The petition for divorce was filed by the husband on the ground of cruelty. Onus was upon him to have had proved the ingredients of cruelty, which he miserably failed to prove. This is exactly what has been held by the learned Court below also. Learned Court below by way of a well reasoned judgment has dismissed the petition filed by the petitioner. Learned Court has discussed the entire evidence on record, as also the relevant case law in detail. The findings so returned by the learned Trial Court are duly borne out from the records of the case and this Court concurs with the findings so returned, because in my considered view also, the petitioner has not been able to prove that respondent has subjected him to cruelty, as alleged in the divorce petition. On the contrary, there is merit in the contention of learned counsel for the respondent that the divorce petition was filed by the petitioner so that he could marry some other girl.

18. During the course of arguments, learned counsel for the appellant could not point out any infirmity or perversity with the findings returned by the learned Trial Court with reference to the record of the case. Thus, in this view of the matter, as in my considered view, learned Court below has rightly held that the petitioner had not been able to make out any case of cruelty against the respondent, there is no infirmity with the judgment passed by the learned Trial Court, vide which it has dismissed the petition filed by the appellant herein for grant of divorce. Therefore, this appeal being devoid of any merit is dismissed. Pending miscellaneous applications, if any, also stand disposed of.

Amicus Curiae	:	Mr. Shrawan Dogra, Senior Advocate as Amicus Curiae with Mr. Karan Singh Kanwar, Advocate.
For the appellant	:	Mr. Amrinder Singh Rana, Advocate, as Legal Aid Counsel, for the appellant.
For the respondent	:	Ms. Divya Sood, Deputy Advocate General for the respondent/State.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Anoop Chitkara, Judge.

The present appeal has been filed by convict Om Prakash, under Section 374 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, assailing the judgment dated 22.6.2016, passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, H.P., in Sessions Trial No. 19 of 2014, whereby he has been convicted for having committed an offence punishable under Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code, and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of seven years and pay a fine of INR 20,000/-, and in case of default of payment to fine to further undergo simple imprisonment for three months. The trial Court further ordered that out of the amount of fine so imposed upon the convict, an amount of INR 15,000/- be paid to the victim as compensation, on its realization. The period for which, the convict already remained in custody, was also set off by giving him the benefit of Section 428 CrPC.

2. The gist of the facts apposite to arrive at a just conclusion, are as follows:

(a) One Rajesh Kumar (who appeared during the trial as PW-1), made a written complaint to the SHO Police Station Talai, Distt. Bilaspur, H.P. on 17th March 2014. He informed the police that his wife has left her matrimonial home without informing him (She is the victim and her name is being withheld because of Section 288-A CrPC, and starting now she would be referred to as the 'victim').

(b) He further stated that around 7-8 months before, he had entered into a love marriage with the victim, which was registered in the Court of Ghumarwin, Bilaspur, HP. The couple was living happily at his house. On 15-03-2014, the victim left home by saying that she was going to Jhandutta, for filling a form (Kaushal Grant Form). After that, in the evening, when he reached home, then his mother told him that the victim has gone to Jhandutta. Thereupon he made a telephonic call to her on Mobile Number No. 82619-79926 but could not contact her. He suspected that somebody might have lured her and taken her away.

(c) On this information, the Investigating Officer found a prima facie case under Section 366 of IPC to have been made out and, hence, he registered FIR No. 22/2014 (Ext. PW-15/A), at Police Station- Talai, District-Bilaspur, HP, on 17.03.2014.

(d) After that, the police swung into action and tried to find out the whereabouts of the missing lady. During such inquiry, SHO Hem Raj (PW-18), received telephonic information from Pradhan Savita Devi of Gram Panchayat, Patta (PW-8) that a girl has been brought to his house by Om Prakash (Convict). On receiving such information, he incorporated entry No. 12(A) in the daily station diary on 24.04.2014 at 8:15 hours. During the trial, this daily diary entry was tendered in evidence as Ext. PW-15/B.

(e) After that, Inspector Hem Raj (PW-18) visited the house of Pradhan Smt. Savita Devi (PW-8) and gave protection to the victim. The father of the victim Sh. Kali Ram (PW-9) also reached the house of Pradhan Savita Devi (PW-8).

(f) At that place, the victim made a statement to Lady Constable Anjana Kumari (PW-17) which she recorded under Section 154 of CrPC. (Ext. PW-7/A), vide entry incorporated in the daily diary (Ext. PW-15/C), at 7.05 p.m.

3. The victim (PW-7) in her statement under Section 154 CrPC. (Ext. PW-7/A) mentioned her age as 18 years and stated to be the wife of one Rajesh Sharma (PW-1) stated as follows:

(a) On 15.3.2014, out of her free will, she left her matrimonial home and went to the house of one Mukesh Kumar resident of Village Patta, Tehsil Bhoranj, Distt. Hamirpur (Not examined during trial).

(b) From that date, she had been residing in the house of Mukesh Kumar. In the evening of 23.4.2014, when she was present in his home, then Om Prakash (convict), whose house is in the vicinity, came along with Dhani Ram, father of Mukesh Kumar, to his house. He asked her to accompany him to his home because he apprehended that the police might raid the premises. After that Shakuntala Devi (PW-11), mother of Mukesh Kumar also told the same thing. Shakuntala Devi (PW-11) further assured the victim that Om Prakash (convict) is known to them, and it would be safe to go with him. She stated that, that is why she agreed to accompany to the house of Om Prakash (convict) and went along with him.

(c) On reaching the house of Om Prakash (convict), she asked him to provide drinking water to her. After drinking water, she ran away from his house and reached the house of Mukesh Kumar. She further stated that she did so because while accompanying Om Prakash to his home, on the way he had molested her.

(d) On reaching back to the home of Mukesh Kumar, she told the father of Mukesh Kumar that his friend is not a good man and that she will not go to his house. On this, the father of Mukesh Kumar told her to sleep there itself in his home. After about ten minutes, Om Prakash (convict) again visited the house of Mukesh Kumar and forcibly dragged her to his house.

(e) She further stated that in the house of Om Prakash (convict) he gave her milk to drink and he consumed liquor. Then he asked the victim to provide the phone number of her father and he made her speak with him. Her father told her that he would visit the next morning and take her back.

(f) The victim further stated that during the night, Om Prakash (convict) indulged in forcible coitus with her without her consent.

(g) On the next morning, at about 4.00 a.m., Om Prakash (convict) received a phone call on his mobile, and then he told the caller that he has entrapped one female pigeon (kabootari) and that he has to sell her.

(h) For whole night Om Prakash (convict) slept in the same room with her, and in the morning Om Prakash on his own brought her to the house of Pradhan of Gram Panchayat, Patta (PW-8). There, on the arrival of the police, she got her statement recorded.

(i) Consequently, the police found an offence punishable under Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code, prima facie, to have been made out and registered F.I.R. No.64/2014, dated 24.4.2014 (Ext. PW-13/C) against the accused at Police Station Bhoranj, Distt. Hamirpur, H.P.

4. The Police of Police Station, Talai, did not further investigate the previous FIR No. 22/2014 (Ext.PW-15/A), dated 17.03.2014 and it stood merged with the new FIR No.64/2014 (Ext. PW-13/C), registered against the accused at Police Station Bhoranj, Distt. Hamirpur, H.P., on 24.4.2014.

5. On the next date i.e., 25.4.2014, the Investigating Officer produced the victim in the Court at Hamirpur, where the Judicial Magistrate recorded her statement under Section 164 CrPC. (Ext. PW-7/C). In the said statement, the victim reiterated some facts but made some additions and omissions from FIR (Ext. PW-13/C). In her statement (Ext. PW-7/C), the victim stated as follows:

(a) On 15.3.2014, she left the house of her in-laws, without telling them, and went to the home of Shakuntala Devi (PW-11) where her son Mukesh and son-in-law Vipin Sharma were also present. There was one other person who had a vehicle, but she could not remember his name.

(b) She stated that Shakuntala Devi (PW-11) declared and accepted her as her daughter-in-law in front of the entire village and she started living there in her house for about one and half month.

(c) After that father of Mukesh Kumar and his friend Om Prakash came there to take her away.

(d) She stated that when the police came to the village, Patta and Shakuntala Devi (PW-11) made her climb the roof of the house. Along with them were her son Parkash and daughter Nisha Sharma. Then the police raided the premises.

(e) After that, Shakuntala Devi (PW-11) asked her to jump from the roof, and the moment she jumped, she fell on her left side and received injuries on her foot and arm. She stated that Nisha then helped her and took her to reach near the bamboo grove. With great difficulty, she reached Patta, where Vipin Sharma also entered the house at 7.30 p.m. and gave her medicine. After that at around 9 – 9.30 p.m., father of Mukesh, Shakuntala Devi and Om Prakash (convict) reached at her house at Patta. At that time, Shakuntala Devi came towards the kitchen, and Om Prakash (convict) and father of Mukesh went to a different room. Then Om Prakash went to the kitchen, and he lifted her and took her to another room. Om Prakash told her that he has three daughters, and she is like them. After that, Om Prakash took her to his house.

(f) On the way to his home, Om Prakash (convict) expressed his gratitude to the fate that she met him. He asked her why she fell into the trap of these people (actual word withheld because the said word is offensive, under the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities), Act. Om Prakash told her that he would get her married to some other person. After that, she reached the house, Om Prakash.

(g) On reaching the house of Om Prakash, she demanded water to drink and then returned to her home. On entering the house of Mukesh Kumar, she told his father not to send her there.

(h) After half an hour, Om Prakash (convict) visited the house of Mukesh Kumar and gave her beatings with kicks and fist blow. However, he did not say anything to Mukesh or his family members. After that, the convict again took her to his home, and on the way to his home started molesting her.

(i) On reaching his home, Om Prakash (convict) asked his wife to bring milk for the victim, and he kept a glass for taking drinks. After grabbing drinks, the convict asked her to make a phone call to her father. The victim further stated that then Om Prakash spoke with her father and asked him that has his daughter gone missing. He also told the father of the victim to take her back at 4.00 a.m. After that, the victim told her father to rescue her. After this, he disconnected the phone call and committed rape upon her, against her will and consent. He kept on committing rape with her for half an hour.

(j) In the morning, Om Prakash (convict) brought her to the house of Pradhan, and she apprised the Pradhan of the entire incident.

6. The Investigating Officer ASI Jai Chand (PW-19) arrested accused Om Prakash on 24.4.2014 at 11.30 p.m., and daily diary entry to that effect was made vide Ext. PW19/D.

7. Before the recording of the statement of the victim under Section 164 CrPC, she was medically examined by Dr. Sapna Dhiman (PW-4) at CHC Bhoranj, Distt. Hamirpur. During the trial, Dr. Sapna Dhiman (PW-4) tendered in evidence MLC of the victim (Ext. PW-4/B). The examining Doctor took samples of thick whitish fluid from the posterior fornix and vaginal walls. She further opined that the possibility of sexual intercourse could not be ruled out. During the investigation, the police also took into possession one mattress lying on the bed from the house of accused Om Prakash on which he had raped the victim.

8. Subsequently, the Investigating Officer sent this sample to the Regional Forensic Science Laboratory, Mandi on 27.4.2014. Vide report dated 28.4.2014, Ext. PW-19/P, the Laboratory vide notified detection of human blood of group 'O,' on blood sample as well as on the salwar of the victim. The Laboratory also discovered semen on the salwar as well as on the mattress, seized during the investigation. FSL also detected human blood of group 'B' on the blood sample of Om Prakash (convict). The other findings of the Regional Forensic Science Laboratory are not material to conclude the present case.

9. During the investigation, the Investigation Officer also got the medico-legal examination of Om Prakash (convict) conducted and the MLC rendered in evidence as Ext. PW-5/B; seized one mobile phone of Lava KKT-341 Black from Om Prakash on 24.4.2014

vide Ext. PW-8/A; prepared site plan Ext. PW-19/A, recorded statements of the witnesses under Section 161 CrPC; and also took the call details of the mobile phone No. 98826-08231 of Om Prakash vide Ext. PW-19/Q to 19/T.

10. The Investigating Officer also procured the birth certificate (Ext. PW-3/B) of the victim according to which she was born on 16.8.1995. Therefore, the fact of the victim, above 18 years of age is undisputed.

11. On this evidence, the SHO filed a report under Section 173 CrPC, in the Court of Sessions Judge, Hamirpur. In compliance with the provisions of Section 207 CrPC., the Trial Court provided the complete copies of challan (Police report) to the accused/convict. The trial Court as per the mandate of Sections 211 and 214 Cr.P.C. framed charges against the accused/convict for the commission of an offence under Section 376 I.P.C. vide order dated 9.12.2014, to which he did not plead guilty and claimed trial.

12. It is pertinent to mention here that the charge stated the age of the victim as 18 years.

13. During trial, prosecution though examined all the material witnesses. However, it did not examine (i) Mukesh Kumar with whom she was staying; (ii) Dhani Ram (father of Mukesh Kumar), who had allegedly sent her to the house of Om Prakash (convict); (iii) Nisha who had climbed with her on the roof as mentioned in statement under Section 164 CrPC. (Ext. PW-7/C); and (iv) Vipan Sharma who had provided first aid to her.

14. Accused could not afford to engage a lawyer at his expenses. Hence, the Trial Court provided him with the services of a lawyer, at the costs of the State. After the completion of the prosecution evidence, the learned Sessions Judge put the incriminating circumstances appearing against the accused to him as per the requirement of Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused has taken a specific plea in answer to question No. 65 in his statement under Section 313 Cr.PC in the following terms:

> "Q.65. Why the witnesses have deposed against you?
> Ans. When Dhani Ram and Shakuntla left (victim) with me, then I rang up father of (victim). Due to this reason he got annoyed and deposed against me falsely."

15. The accused was allowed to lead defence evidence which he did not avail, and consequently, the trial Court closed the evidence. The accused also did not file any oral arguments or memo of arguments as contemplated under Section 314 CrPC.

16. After hearing the arguments, the learned Sessions Judge accepted the prosecution evidence and convicted the accused for the charged offence and sentenced as aforesaid. Hence the present appeal.

17. The accused/convict could not engage any private lawyer and requested the H.P. State Legal Services Authority to provide a lawyer at State expenses. Accordingly, Mr. Amrinder Singh Rana, Advocate, was appointed as a Legal Aid Counsel to file the appeal in this Court, under Section 374 CrPC, against the judgment of conviction.

18. On 10.6.2019, during the final hearing of the matter, this Court found it appropriate to seek the assistance of some Senior Advocate on the proposition of law and passed the following order:

> "During the course of arguments, this Court is of the considered opinion that on the proposition of law that when the accused does not specifically take > the plea of consent either in cross examination or in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and then without affording an opportunity to the prosecutrix, can she be fastened with her conduct of any sexual intercourse as a willing and consenting party."

19. The Court found it appropriate to request Sh. Shrawan Dogra, learned Senior Advocate, who is the former Advocate General of the State of Himachal Pradesh, to assist the Court as an Amicus and also requested Sh. Karan Singh Kanwar, Advocate to assist him in this proposition. After that the learned counsel for the parties were heard at length and Sh. Shrawan Dogra, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sh. Karan Singh Kanwar, Advocate, also rendered valuable assistance by explaining the proposition of law to the full satisfaction of the Court.

20. After careful reading of the entire evidence, application of law and judicial precedents, my reasoning is as follows:-

21. During the trial, the victim appeared as PW-7. Undisputedly, at the time of the alleged occurrence, she was a major, well above eighteen years of age and a married lady. Her testimony, on oath, leads to the following material facts, some of which on the face of it are credible, some needs corroboration and some are contradicted by other evidence.

(a) The victim testified that she was married to Rajesh Kumar (PW-1) in August 2013. It was a love marriage. Until 15.3.2014, she was staying with her husband in her matrimonial home. This fact finds mention from the statements of her husband, Rajesh Kumar (PW-1) and father Kali Ram (PW-9).

(b) It appears that the victim was known to Mukesh Kumar (not examined in Court), his mother Shakuntala Devi (PW-11), Nisha and Seema (both not tested in Court). On 15.3.2014, the victim went to the house of Mukesh Kumar, without informing her husband or any member of his family. In her cross-examination, she admitted that she had gone with Mukesh Kumar to his house.

(c) When Rajesh Kumar (PW-1), husband of the victim realized that she is missing, then he informed the police, which registered FIR No. 22/2014 (Ext. PW-15/A), at Police Station- Talai, District- Bilaspur, H.P. on 17.03.2014, under Section 366 of the Indian Penal Code.

(d) Rajesh Kumar (PW-1) in his testimony, stated that he had tried to contact his wife (victim) on her mobile number 82619-79926. Even the victim does not deny that she was having a mobile phone with her when she left her matrimonial home.

(e) On receipt of information about the missing of a young lady, the police swung into action. SI – Hem Raj (PW-18) took over the investigation. During the investigation, police based on the tower location zeroed her location to village Patta. HC – Rajesh Kumar (PW-15), who was also part of this investigating team, inquired from one Dinesh Kumar (PW-2) of village Patta, who informed him that the missing girl was present in the house of Savita Minhas (PW-8), Pradhan of Village Patta. HC-Rajesh Kumar (PW-15) further testified in his examination-in-chief that Dinesh Kumar mentioned above, also told him that Om Prakash (accused) had brought the victim to the house of Savita (PW-8).

(f) The Pradhan Savita Minhas (PW-8) testified that at around 7 a.m. of 24.4.2014, accused Om Prakash brought one girl to her house, and she identified such girl to be the victim. When she made an inquiry from the victim then apart from other details, she also told her that during the previous night, the accused made the victim speak to her father on the phone.

(g) Savita Minhas (PW-8) in her cross-examination stated that the victim was staying in the house of Mukesh Kumar for the last 1 ½ months.

(h) She further stated that accused resides in his house with his wife and three daughters and the eldest of whom was a student of Class X.

(i) When the police visited the house of Savita Minhas (PW-8) and rescued the victim, they communicated about the tracing of the victim to her husband who was the informant of the FIR No. 22/14 (Ext. PW-15/A).

(j) When the police party headed by SI Hem Raj (PW-18) was trying to trace the victim, then they contacted Dinesh Kumar (PW-2) of village Patta. This Dinesh Kumar testified that on 23.4.2014, SHO Police Station, Shahtalai, approached and told him that from the tower location of the phone of the victim she is likely to be present in and around village Patta. He further testified that after that he, along with the police, visited the house of Dhani Ram, father of Mukesh Kumar, where only his wife and children were found present. The SHO inquired from them about the missing girl; however, the police could not trace her in the said house. In his cross-examination, Dinesh Kumar (PW-2) stated that when the police had visited the home of Dhani Ram then around fifteen villagers were present there and the said villagers told the police that the victim had run away from the house of Dhani Ram.

(k) Dinesh Kumar (PW-2) in his cross-examination stated that three other homes surround the house of accused Om Prakash.

(l) In the house of Pradhan Savita Minhas (PW-8), the victim gave information to the police that on the intervening night of 23rd and 24th April 2019 accused had committed rape upon her. On receiving such information, the police team thought it appropriate that FIR is registered at Police Station Bhoranj, Hamirpur and accordingly they called ASI Jai Chand (PW-19) from the said police station. Consequently, they recorded, FIR No.64/2014, dated 24.4.2014 (Ext. PW-13/C), against the accused at Police Station Bhorang, Distt. Hamirpur, H.P. under Section 376 of the Indian Penal Code. Police also transferred the earlier FIR (Ext. PW-15/A) to Police Station Bhoranj.

22. After the registration of the FIR, the police got the victim medically examined at CHC Bhoranj, Distt. Hamirpur, from Dr. Sapna Dhiman.

(a) Dr. Sapna Dhiman, Medical Officer, CHC Bhoranj, examined the victim on 24.4.2014 and recorded her observations and opinion in MLC (Ext. PW-4/B). During the trial, the said Doctor appeared as PW-4 and has proved the MLC and her medical observations. Before the examination, she inquired from the victim and was narrated the history of sexual assault and beaten by shoes.

(b) On examination of the victim, she noticed the following injuries. Four small sized abrasions/scratch marks on the left forearm and elbow; one abrasion of size 1cm X 2 cm on the left forearm; a small-sized scratch on the

(c) The Doctor noticed that the hymen of the victim was not intact (nulliparous). On examination, per speculum, the Doctor noticed thick whitish colored fluid in posterior fornix and also took the swab. The Doctor did not found any injury on any portion of her vagina, labia majora, labia minora, clitoris, and fornix.

(d) Regarding injuries, the examining Doctor observed that bruises of size 2cm X 3 cm on the left knee with swelling of the left foot were possible due to falling while running. The Doctor further stated in her cross-examination that the injuries mentioned at Sr. No. 1, 2, and 4 are not possible on account of fall while running.

(e) The Investigating Officer sent the swab to the laboratory for analysis.

(f) The Investigating Officer tendered in evidence, the report of Regional Forensic Science Laboratory, Mandi as Ext. PW-19/P. Because of the provisions of Section 297 CrPC, the statement is per se admissible. The laboratory detected human semen on salwar of the victim. Apart from that, the laboratory also identified human blood on bra and salwar of the victim and human blood group 'O' on the blood sample of the victim. The laboratory also detected semen and blood group 'B' on the mattresses as well as blood group 'B' on the blood sample of Om Prakash (accused).

(g) The convict, Om Prakash was proved to be a married person, and the presence of semen on the mattress is not conclusive that this semen is not because of his cohabiting with his wife.

(h) Surprisingly the Investigating officer did not seek DNA examination of the semen collected from the swab of the victim and her clothes. Since the laboratory could not detect any semen, from the vaginal swabs collected from the posterior fornix, as such, no conclusive finding can be given that she had any coitus with the convict. Regarding the presence of human semen on the salwar of the victim, in the absence of DNA examination, it cannot be said with certainty that the semen connects with convict Om Prakash.

(i) Furthermore, it has also come in evidence that the victim was staying in the house of Mukesh Kumar for the last 1 ½ months. The Investigating Officer was well aware of this fact. Therefore, to ensure that the semen found on her bra and salwar was that of the accused alone and none else, it was only possible by getting it examined through DNA test.

(j) In Krishan Kumar Malik v. State of Haryana, 2011 (7) SCC 130, Supreme Court holds,

> "44. Now, after the incorporation of Section 53-A in the Criminal Procedure Code, w.e.f. 23.06.2006, brought to our notice by learned counsel for the Respondent-State, it has become necessary for the prosecution to go in for DNA test in such type of cases, facilitating the prosecution to prove its case against the accused. Prior to 2006, even without the aforesaid specific provision in the Criminal > Procedure Code prosecution could have still resorted to this procedure of getting the DNA test or analysis and matching of semen of the Appellant with that found on the undergarments of the prosecutrix to make it a fool proof case, but they did not do so, thus they must face the consequences."

(k) According to the victim, convict forced himself upon her during the night. The victim was a married lady hence, must have experienced sexual intercourse. She would have sufficient information about the fallouts of sex. She did not say that the rapist had used any condoms or that he did not ejaculate inside her vaginal canal. On the next day at 3.45 p.m., around 16 – 17 hours or so, the doctor medically examined her and collected swabs. Despite, such a short interval, the laboratory could not detect any semen. Given this scientific evidence, simply because the laboratory found semen on her salwar, it is not sufficient to fasten or connect the said salwar with the accused and none else.

(l) The victim did not attribute to the convict, the three small scratch marks on the neck as well as any of the injuries received by her, at the time of the sexual assault. Her case is that she had received all these injuries when she had jumped from the roof of the house of Shakuntala Devi. To the contrary, while giving the history to the Doctor, she further stated that the convict had beaten her with shoes, in the home of Shakuntala Devi. Therefore, the prosecution failed to prove that she received these injuries at the time of the sexual assault by the convict.

23. Regarding missing of the victim from the house, her husband, Rajesh Kumar (PW-1) had informed the father of the victim Kali Ram (PW-9). Kali Ram corroborates this fact. He testified during the trial that on 23.4.2014, he spoke on the phone with convict Om Prakash, who told him that his daughter is with him. Om Prakash further said to him that he must take his daughter back by 4.00 a.m.; otherwise he will not be responsible for her. Kali Ram further testified that after that Om Prakash made him speak with the victim, who requested him to take her back. Next day, he also reached the house of Pradhan of village Patta where he found his daughter to be present.

24. Shakuntala Devi (PW-11), the mother of Mukesh Kumar, contradicted the victim by stating that she had visited their house on her own. She further testified that the victim told them that she had left her husband's home after getting fed up from the beatings administered by him upon her. After that, the victim sought their permission to stay in their house, and such, they give their consent. On the face of it, this statement is not at all credible, and she is trying to save her son and her involvement. The victim certainly had a place to go, to her father in case she was fed up with the behavior and cruelty of her husband. The version of the victim appears to be more probable that she had left her husband's home on her own free will and had accompanied Mukesh son of Shakuntala Devi to his house also on her free will and her accord. Shakuntala Devi further stated that on 23.4.2014 police from police station Shah Talai visited her home. Police took away Mukesh Kumar on the charges of abducting the victim. This part of the statement has not been rebutted by the prosecution, and the Public Prosecutor did not seek the permission of the Court to declare this witness as a hostile witness. It means that the case of the prosecution is also the same. It is pertinent to mention that Shakuntala Devi (PW-11) did not reveal the whereabouts of the victim to the police. She stated that in the night accused Om Prakash visited her house, and as per her the accused told them that he would take the victim to his own home and after that would drop her at, the house of her parents. On this assurance, they sent the victim with the accused. She further stated that after some time, the victim returned to their home and told them that she is afraid of the accused and refused to accompany him. During the night at around 11.00 p.m., accused again visited their house and after giving threats to them took the victim with him. Shakuntala Devi in her cross-examination admitted that during that time the victim was staying in their home, she was free to move around where ever she wanted. She further revealed that the victim on her own had gone with accused Om Prakash. Shakuntala Devi also in her cross-examination stated that there are lots of houses near the house of accused Om Prakash and further pointed out that around 20 – 25 people reside there.

25. Ramesh Chand (PW-14) was examined by the prosecution to prove the occupation of the accused. He stated that the accused is doing menial work of serving water in the marriages. He said that on 24.4.2014 he had called the accused Om Prakash and asked him whether he would like to work in a wedding on which Om Prakash declined. This witness did not support the prosecution case and was declared hostile. When a leading question was put to him by the Public Prosecutor under Section 138 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, he stated that the convict/accused told him on the phone that he has lured one female (kabootari) and that he wants to sell her. Now prosecution did not lead any evidence that why would accused disclose this intention to Ramesh Chand.

26. In Hanuman Govind Nargundkar v State of M.P., AIR 1952 SC 343, Supreme Court observed that It is settled law that an admission made by a person whether amounting to a confession or not cannot be split up and part of it used against him. An admission must be used either as a whole or not at all.

27. It is difficult to believe this admission. What advantage the accused would derive by conveying this information to him. It is not the case of the prosecution that Ramesh Chand (PW-14) was dealing with the trafficking of women. The prosecution also did not lead any evidence to prove what kind of relationship accused was sharing with this witness. It shall be highly unsafe to rely upon the extra-judicial confession and that too by way of leading questions put by the Public Prosecutor. Therefore, it shall be highly insecure to place any reliance on such a weak type of evidence.

28. The victim testified that on 24.4.2014, during day time, the police from Police Station Shahtalai visited village Patta, where she was staying. She further stated that Mukesh Kumar, his mother Shakuntala Devi (PW-11) and other members of the family, made her hide in the upper floor of the house. Nisha, who is the sister of Mukesh Kumar, pushed her from the balcony of the house. Because of this push, she fell and received injuries in her left leg and due to which she found it difficult to walk. In cross-examination, the victim stated that Nisha gagged her mouth. It is unbelievable. Even it is not possible to forcibly make someone hide. She was also aware that the police is trying to search for her. In her cross-examination, she stated that before that she was made to conceal in the houses of different people. It is shocking that when the police had come to rescue her then instead of cooperating with the police, she sided with Mukesh and his family members and successfully concealed herself from the police. There is no allegation that Shakuntala, Mukesh, and Nisha, made her hide forcibly. There is also no allegation that when she was made to conceal, they gagged her mouth and tied her feet and arms. Her not seeking help from the police lends assurance of the fact that she was willing to stay in the house of Mukesh. In the light of this analysis, the answer given by the accused in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. assumes great significance. The plea of the accused is that it was he who had informed the father of the victim on the phone, and because of which Mukesh and his family members were extremely annoyed with him. This conduct of Om Prakash lends corroboration from the proved fact that it was the convict Om Prakash who had taken her to the house of Pradhan Savita Minhas (PW-8). Had the accused raped the victim, then there was no occasion for him to himself take her to the home of the Pradhan. Had the accused intended to rape her, then he would not have made her speak to her father on the phone. Both these facts stand proved during the trial, and it dents the credibility of the prosecutrix to the hilt.

29. The irrationality in the conduct of the victim is writ large. She was trying to conceal herself from the police. She never wanted to go back either to her husband or her father. Therefore, the possibility cannot be ruled out that to show her annoyance with accused Om Prakash she leveled allegation of rape against him. She would have discerned the presence of police, and in turn, she had the determination to keep on staying in the home of Mukesh Kumar.

30. The victim testified that, after she had fallen from the balcony, she was given first aid by Anu Sharma, who was the son-in-law of Shakuntala Devi. She further stated that Dhani Ram and Shakuntala Devi also reached there and told that Police had taken their son Mukesh Kumar along with them. They requested her to go to Shahtalai and make a statement to save Mukesh Kumar. However, she refused to do so and asked her to take her back to their parental home. Now, this action again impeaches the credibility of the prosecutrix as well as of the Investigation team. The prosecution did not associate said Mukesh Kumar as a witness. This statement also reveals that Police had also used its usual tactics of putting pressure. Prosecutrix resisted leaving the house of Mukesh Kumar to such an extent that she did not care that Police had taken Mukesh Kumar to the police station. So finally, when the convict Om Prakash brought her to the house of Pradhan (PW-8), she had all the reasons for getting angry with him. It is quite possible that intending to take revenge; she falsely implicated the accused Om Prakash. The victim testified that around 9.30 p.m., convict Om Prakash visited the house of Mukesh Kumar. Impliedly by that time, the police had left the village. She says that after that, Dhani Ram asked her to accompany Om Prakash to his house. Understandably, the police might come again during the night so to keep her safe they sent her with Om Prakash. The conduct of the victim is suspicious when she says that when she was going to the house of Om Prakash, he had molested her on the way. After that, she returned to the home of Mukesh Kumar. Consequently, she says that the convict came there again, dragged her from her braid, and gave her kick blows and took her to his house. This conduct is highly doubtful. It has come in the evidence that at least three houses are surrounding the home of Om Prakash and 15 to 20 people who live nearby his house. As per the victim, Convict Om Prakash had beaten her in the presence of family members of Mukesh Kumar. She said that she had accompanied Om Prakash to his house.

31. According to the victim (PW-7), in the house of Om Prakash, his wife and daughters were there. She says that when the accused was trying to do coitus with her when she told her that she is like his daughter on which he replied that he did not care of his daughters. The prosecution did not dispute the presence of the daughters of Om Prakash, in the house at that very time. Now there is a wife and three daughters, one of whom is in Class-X and must have been sixteen years old at that time. There is no evidence of how many rooms are there in the house of the accused. There is no evidence that even if there were more than one room in the house, whether the voice was audible from one place to another. It assumes significance because Ramesh Chand (PW-14) with whom accused was working testified that he is working to offer water during marriages. Accused was an unskilled worker. This Court shall not hesitate to take Judicial notice of the financial status of the convict. The Trial Court, as well as this Court, provided him legal aid counsel to him. Therefore, his house cannot be said to be expansive from where noise would not be audible from one room to another. It is challenging to believe that a person would rape a young girl in his own house and when his wife and daughters are present there.

32. Moreover, the victim was aware of the presence of these persons. Neither did she seek their help to rescue her, nor did she raise any cries. In cross-examination, she admits that there was no weapon with the accused. She also admits that none gagged her mouth nor anyone intimidated her. She did not make any effort to resist sexual advances and rape. She was a matriculate and was a grown-up married lady. She would certainly know what coitus means. In case such a thing would happen, she was expected to offer some resistance. It impeaches her credibility.

33. In Dilip & another vs. State of M.P., 2001 (9) SCC 452, Supreme Court observed,

> "14. The age of the prosecutrix was around 16 years, may be a little more. The fact remains that she was not just a child who would have surrendered herself to a forced sexual assault without offering any resistance whatsoever. Without going into testing truthfulness of the explanation offered by the prosecutrix that because of being over-awed by the two accused persons she was not able to resist, the fact remains that the 'probabilities factor' operates against the prosecutrix. The gang rape is alleged to have been committed at about 2 p.m., in her own house situated in a populated village by the side of the main road where people were moving on account of Holi festival. The prosecutrix did raise hue and cry to the extent she could and yet none was attracted to the place of the incident. The prosecutrix is said to have sustained injuries, also bleeded from her private parts staining her body as also the clothes which she was wearing. This part of the story, is not only not corroborated by the medical evidence, is rather belied thereby. The presence of blood-stains is not confirmed by forensic science laboratory or by the doctors who examined the prosecutrix. Her own maternal aunt to whom the story of sexual assault has been narrated by the prosecutrix gives a version which does not tally with the version of the prosecutrix as given in the court. The learned Counsel for the State relied on Section 114A of Evidence Act, 1872 which provides that in a trial on a charge under Section 376(2)(g) of Indian Penal Code on the prosecutrix stating that she was not a consenting party, the Court shall presume absence of consent of the woman alleged to have been raped. Suffice it to observe that we should not be misunderstood as recording a finding that the prosecutrix was a willing party to sexual intercourse by the accused persons. The court is finding it difficult to accept the truthfulness of the version of the prosecutrix that any sexual assault as alleged was committed on her in view of the fact that her narration of the incident becomes basically infirm on account of being contradicted by the statement of her own aunt and medical evidence and the report of forensic science laboratory. The defence has given suggestion in cross-examination for false implication of the accused persons which however have not gone beyond being suggestions merely. It is not necessary for us to dwell upon further to find out the probability of truth contained in the suggestions because we are not satisfied generally of the correctness of story as told by the prosecutrix. We find it difficult to hold the prosecutrix in the case as one on whose testimony an implicit reliance can be placed."

34. Another significant pointer of the credibility of the victim is that in her cross-examination, she stated that police were searching for her desperately, but every time Mukesh Kumar and his family members would make her conceal at different places. As far as five to seven times, she was made to hide in the houses of different people.

35. In the absence of credible testimony of the prosecution, it shall be hazardous to assume that rape had taken place simply because the victim says so. She stands contradicted on almost every aspect. Like the manner, she was made to hide at five to seven locations, and she also appears to have concealed in the house of the accused. It is quite possible that she would have visited the home of the accused to hide there, like five to seven times on earlier occasions. But she was offended when he made her speak to her father and brought her to the house of the Pradhan. Accused Om Prakash defeated her entire exercise of concealing from her husband and father. Therefore, intending to take revenge with the accused, she leveled allegations of rape against him.

36. Ld. Amicus Mr. Shravan Dogra, Sr. Advocate ably assisted by Mr. Karan Singh Kanwar, Advocate, rightly contended that it may not be prudent to attribute every act of coitus as consent, in the absence of cross-examination on this score. To substantiate his point, he has placed reliance upon Narender Kumar v. State (NCT of Delhi), 2012(7) SCC 171, which holds as follows:

> "28. The courts while trying an accused on the charge of rape, must deal with the case with utmost sensitivity, examining the broader probabilities of a case and not get swayed by minor contradictions or insignificant discrepancies in the evidence of witnesses which are not of a substantial character.
> 29. However, even in a case of rape, the onus is always on the prosecution to prove, affirmatively each ingredient of the offence it seeks to establish and such onus never shifts. It is no part of the duty of the defence to explain as to how and why in a rape case the victim and other witness have falsely implicated the accused. Prosecution case has to stand on its own legs and cannot take support from the weakness of the case of defence. However great the suspicion against the accused and however strong the moral belief and conviction of the court, unless the offence of the accused is established beyond reasonable doubt on the basis of legal evidence and material on the record, he cannot be convicted for an offence. There is an initial presumption of innocence of the accused and the prosecution has to bring home the offence against the accused by reliable evidence. The accused is entitled to the benefit of every reasonable doubt. (Vide: Tukaram & Anr. v. The State of Maharashtra, AIR 1979 Supreme Court 185; and Uday v. State of Karnataka, AIR 2003 Supreme Court 1639*)*.
> 30. The prosecution has to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and cannot take support from the weakness of the case of defence. There must be proper legal evidence and material on record to record the conviction of the accused. Conviction can be based on sole testimony of the prosecutrix provided it lends assurance of her testimony. However, in case the court has reason not to accept the version of prosecutrix on its face value, it may look for corroboration. In case the evidence is read in its totality and the story projected by the prosecutrix is found to be improbable, the prosecutrix case becomes liable to be rejected."

37. Therefore, appreciation of the evidence and application of law cited herein above takes this Court to only one conclusion that the possibility of the accused being innocent cannot be ruled out. The prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubts.

38. Hence, for all the aforesaid reasons, appeal is allowed and the judgment of conviction and sentence, dated 22.6.2016/23.6.2016, passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, H.P., in Sessions Trial No. 19 of 2014, is set aside and the accused is acquitted of the charged offence.

39. The Appellant Om Prakash be set at liberty forthwith, if not required in any other case. Amount of fine, if deposited by the appellant, be refunded to him. Release warrants be prepared accordingly.

40. Once the Courts have found the inmates not guilty, then, simply because of noncompliance of Section 437A CrPC, to the effect that sureties are not available, the liberty of an individual cannot be curtailed. Such curtailment on the face of it is, in total violation of Article 21 & 22 of the Constitution of India.

41. The Jail Superintendent and all concerned officers of the jail are directed to release the inmate on the very same date when she/he receives release warrants from this Court. To comply with the provisions of Section 437A of CrPC, he shall only wait until Sunset or when he realizes that the inmate in question is unable to arrange sureties. The concerned officer(s) shall not wait for the sureties beyond the time of closure of the prison. If on the day, the release warrants are received, and sureties are available, then bonds from such sureties may be taken. However, if the sureties are not available, then concerned jail official(s) shall release the inmate on furnishing personal bonds for INR 10,000/- (Rupees ten thousand only), and it shall deem compliance of the provisions of Section 437A Cr.P.C.

The appeal stands allowed in the terms mentioned above. All pending applications, if any, are also closed.

Date of Decision: 05.07.2019

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order XXVI Rule 9- Appointment of local commissioner– Stage– Held– When there is a boundary dispute between parties, appointment of local commissioner for demarcation of land will facilitate the court in arriving at just decision of the case- Plaintiff filing suit for possession of part of suit land – Dismissal of application for demarcation of land simply because suit is at stage of final arguments not justified, when no demarcation was carried by revenue authorities on his application– Petition allowed–

Application for appointment of local commissioner for demarcation of land allowed. (Paras 12, 13 & 14)

Case referred:
Liaquat Ali vs. Amir Mohammad and others, Latest HLJ 2016 (HP) 831

For the petitioner: Mr. Janesh Gupta, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Dalip K. Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge (Oral):

By way of this petition, the petitioner has assailed order dated 12.05.2017, passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No. II, Solan in CMA No. 227/6 of 2016 in Civil Suit No. 108/1 of 2010, vide which, an application filed by the petitioner, who is the plaintiff before the learned Trial Court for appointment of a Local Commissioner under Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code of Civil Procedure has been dismissed.

2. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of the petition are that petitioner herein has filed a suit for possession of part of the suit land on the basis of title and also for a decree of permanent prohibitory as also mandatory injunction against the defendants, inter alia, on the ground that the defendants have encroached upon the portion of the suit land, which is owned by the plaintiff.

3. Record demonstrates that during the pendency of the suit, an application was filed under Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code by the plaintiff for demarcation of the suit land, however, the same was dismissed by the learned Trial Court vide order dated 28.02.2015 (Annexure P-6) by inter alia holding that as the parties were yet to lead their evidence and alleged dispute as averred by the plaintiff was at the stage of pleadings only, the application was not maintainable at that stage.

4. It is also borne out from the record as per the averments made in the pleadings submitted on behalf of the petitioner/plaintiff that for the purpose of demarcation of the land in dispute, he approached the Revenue Authorities, however, despite this, no action was taken by the Revenue Authorities to carry out the demarcation of the disputed land. In these circumstances, another application was filed by the present petitioner under Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code, though at a slightly belated stage, i.e., after the respective parties had led their evidence and the matter was fixed for arguments. This application has been rejected by the learned Court below vide impugned order, i.e., order dated 12.05.2017 by inter alia holding that as the matter was being listed for arguments since 21.07.2016 and the application was filed by the plaintiff on 23.09.2016, the Court must be vigilant and must see that the parties are not stalling the proceedings, otherwise, it would lead to travesty of justice.

5. Feeling aggrieved, the petitioner/plaintiff has filed the present petition.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the impugned order is prima facie perverse, as learned Court below has erred in not appreciating that it was a fit case wherein the Court should have had exercised its jurisdiction as vested under the provisions of Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code, because the dispute between the parties being a boundary dispute and the petitioner already having filed application before the Revenue Authorities for demarcation, had no option but to approach the Court under Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code with the prayer for appointment of a Local Commissioner, when revenue staff was not carrying out demarcation. He also argued that the order passed by the learned Court below is otherwise also a cryptic order, because the provisions of Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code per se do not contemplate a particular stage for filing such an application and it was incumbent upon the Court to have had passed a reasoned order within the ambit of provisions of Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code if the application filed by the petitioner was not finding merit with it. According to learned counsel, the same could not have been dismissed simply on the ground that as the application has been filed at the stage of hearing of the parties, the same was filed to stall the proceedings. Learned counsel has further argued that the application filed under Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code was a self speaking application. It contained all the averments as to why the application was filed at that stage and none of the reasons which were mentioned in the application have been touched and dealt with in the impugned order. In these circumstances, it has been prayed that the petition be allowed and the impugned order be set aside.

7. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents has argued that the order passed by the learned Court below cannot be said to be a perverse order, because learned Court below has rightly held that the application was filed just to stall the proceedings, as it is apparent from the record that the same was filed at the stage of hearing. He has further argued that because the petitioner, i.e., the plaintiff had alleged encroachment, therefore, onus was upon him to have had proved this fact and it is not for the Court to garner or gather evidence for the parties. He has also argued that in case one peruses the evidence which has come on record, from the same it is apparent that the plaintiff has not been able to prove his case and therefore, filing of the application is nothing but an attempt to fill up the lacunae. He further argued that in view of the fact that plaintiff had closed his evidence on 18.05.2015 by giving up one of the cited witnesses, who was a Revenue Officer, therefore also, rejection of the application by the learned Court below is justifiable in the facts of the case. Learned counsel has also relied upon the judgment of this Court in Liaquat Ali Vs. Amir Mohammad and others, Latest HLJ 2016 (HP) 831.

8. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the impugned order as also other documents appended with the petition.

9. A perusal of the record demonstrates that the suit which has been filed by the petitioner/plaintiff is for possession of part of the suit land, on the basis of title and the allegation against the defendants therein is that they have encroached upon the suit land. It is also evident from the record that earlier an application was filed by the petitioner under Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code with the prayer for appointment of a Local Commissioner to carry out the demarcation of the land, however, the same was rejected by the Court vide order dated 28.02.2015 on the ground that the same was premature. In these circumstances, what the Court now has to assess is as to whether the rejection of the subsequent application filed by the petitioner under Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code in the facts of the case is justified or not?

10. It is not in dispute that the subsequent application was filed by the petitioner after both the parties had closed their evidence and the matter was being taken up by the learned Trial Court for arguments. The application which was subsequently filed by the petitioner is appended with the petition as Annexure P-11. A perusal of the averments made in the said application demonstrates that it was mentioned in the said application that applicant, i.e., the petitioner had moved an application for demarcation of the suit land, but no action was being taken by the Revenue Authorities on the same. It further stood mentioned in the application that the controversy between the parties pertained to a boundary dispute and it would be in the interest of justice in case a Local Commissioner is appointed for demarcation of the suit land, as the applicant/petitioner had already approached the Revenue Authorities for the said purpose, who were not acting on his application and in these circumstances, only option left to him was to approach the Court by filing an application under Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code

11. Reply filed to the said application demonstrates that the same was inter alia resisted on the ground that the applicant/petitioner had not supplied any particulars with regard to the application allegedly filed by him to the Revenue Authorities for getting the suit land demarcated and as earlier application filed for the same relief stood rejected by the learned Court, therefore, subsequent application also deserved rejection, as the application was being filed just to harass the respondents.

12. A perusal of the impugned order passed by the learned Trial Court demonstrates that there is no discussion made in the said order on merit with regard to the respective contentions taken therein by the parties concerned. Suffice it to say that except observing that the application stood filed by the petitioner/plaintiff at a belated stage and was an attempt to stall the proceedings, no other reasoning has been assigned by the learned Trial Court while rejecting the application. It has not dealt with the specific averments made by the petitioner/plaintiff before it that in view of the fact that the petitioner had already approached the Revenue Authorities for the purpose of demarcation of the land, who were not carrying out the required demarcation, the petitioner was not having any other option but to approach the Court for the purpose of getting the land demarcated by appointment of a Local Commissioner.

13. It is settled law that when there is a boundary dispute between the parties, then it is in the interest of justice in case a Local Commissioner is appointed to have the land demarcated, because the same facilitates the Court in arriving at a just conclusion in order to dispense justice between the parties. The judgment relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondents has no applicability in the facts of the said case, because it has not been held by the Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the said judgment that even in a case where a party approaches the Revenue Authorities for the purpose of demarcation of the land and no action is taken by the Authorities therein, then also subsequent application filed under Order XXVI Rule 9 of the Code by the said party deserves rejection.

14. In my considered view, in the peculiar facts of the case, learned Trial Court rather than passing a mechanical order, ought to have gone into all the averments which stood mentioned by the petitioner/plaintiff in the application and ought to have allowed the same by ordering the appointment of a Local Commissioner for the purpose of demarcation of the suit land to find out as to whether there was any encroachment upon the same by the defendants, as alleged or not.

15. In view of the specific contention of learned counsel for the respondents that during the course of evidence led by the parties, the plaintiff has failed to demonstrate that there is any encroachment upon the suit land is concerned, in my considered view, the respondents should not shy away from the land being demarcated by way of appointment of a Local Commissioner, because if there is no encroachment upon the land by them, then it is in their interest that such a demarcation be carried out, to falsify the case of plaintiff.

16. Accordingly, in view of the observations made hereinabove, the impugned order dated 12.05.2017 is set aside and the application filed by the petitioner/plaintiff for demarcation of the suit land is allowed. Tehsildar, Solan is directed to demarcate the suit land in accordance with law within a period of four weeks from today, after giving prior intimation to the parties concerned. Report thereof be taken on record by the learned Trial Court and thereafter, learned Trial Court may proceed with the matter in accordance with law. The expenses for carrying out the demarcation by the Revenue Authorities are assessed at Rs.5,000/-, which shall be deposited by the present petitioner with Tehsildar, Solan within a period of four weeks from today.

The petition stands disposed of in above terms, so also pending miscellaneous applications, if any.

Versus
Sh. Som Nath ….Respondent.

CMPMO No.: 353 of 2017
Date of Decision: 08.07.2019

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order XXXIII Rules 1, 2 & 6– Leave to sue as indigent– Whether notice of such application to opposite party and Govt pleader necessary? Trial court permitting plaintiff to sue as an indigent without issuing notice to opposite party and Govt pleader– Petition against– Held, if court comes to conclusion that there is no reason to reject application of party seeking its leave to sue as an indigent, it must issue notice to other party for receiving such evidence– Court must follow procedure as contemplated under Rule 6– Allowing application without issuing notices to opposite party and Government pleader is illegal– Petition allowed– Order set aside– Matter remanded with direction to proceed further in accordance with law. (Para 10)

For the petitioners: Ms. Shalini Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Amit Kumar Dhumal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge (Oral):

By way of this petition, the petitioner has challenged order dated 5th May, 2017, passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Sirmaur District at Nahan in CMA No. 56-6 of 17 in Civil Suit Registration No. 56/2017 (Filing No. 137/2017), titled as Sh. Som Nath Vs. Shri Raj Kumar and another, whereby an application filed under Order XXXIII Rules 1 and 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure by the respondent herein for permission to file the suit for recovery as an indigent person, has been dismissed.

2. Brief facts necessary for the adjudication of the present petition are that respondent herein filed an application alongwith plaint under the provisions of Order XXXIII Rules 1 and 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure praying for grant of permission to the applicant/plaintiff for filing the Civil Suit for recovery of an amount of Rs.5,00,000/- (rupees five lacs only) as damages/compensation against the petitioners herein.

3. Vide order dated 5th May, 2017, said application has been allowed by the learned Court below by passing the following order:

> "….The Court fee has been exempted by order dated 13.12.2016 by the District Legal Services Authority. Hence, the application U/O 33 R. 1 & 2 stands deemed accepted.
> Heard. Let def. be summoned for 05/06/17."

Said order stands assailed by the petitioners before this Court.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioners has argued that the impugned order is per se not sustainable in the eyes of law, as no opportunity was granted to the petitioners to contest the said application in terms of Rule 6 of Order XXXIII of the Code, as per which, it is mandatory for the learned Trial Court that in case it comes to the conclusion that there is no reason to reject the application on any of the grounds taken by the applicant therein, then notice has to be issued to the other party and the Government pleader for receiving such evidence, as the applicant may adduce in proof of his indigency and for hearing any evidence which may be adduced in disproof thereof. On these basis, learned counsel for the petitioners has argued that the impugned order is liable to be set aside.

5. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondent has submitted that there is no perversity in the impugned order, because the order was passed by the learned Trial Court by placing reliance upon Eligibility Certificate issued by the District Legal Services Authority, declaring the present respondent to be a disabled person. On these basis, he has submitted that the petition has been filed just to prolong the suit filed by the respondent and the same be dismissed.

6. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the impugned order as well as other documents appended with the petition.

7. As per record, the application filed by the respondent herein under Order XXXIII Rules 1 and 2 of the Code was allowed by the learned Trial Court without any notice having been issued to the opposite party. This is a matter of record and this position has not been disputed by the learned counsel appearing for the respondent. In this view of the matter, what this Court has to adjudicate is as to whether the order which has been passed by the learned Court below without complying with the procedure, as contemplated under Rule 6 of Order XXXIII of the Code is sustainable in law or not?

8. Order XXXIII of the Code deals with suits by indigent persons. Rule 1 of Order XXXIII provides that suits may be instituted by indigent person subject to the provisions enumerated therein. Rule 1-A of the said Rule provides for the manner in which inquiry has to be conducted into the means of an indigent person.

9. Rule 6 of Order XXXIII reads as under:

> "6. Notice of day for receiving evidence of applicant's indigency- Where the Court sees no reason to reject the application on any of the grounds stated in rule 5, it shall fix a day (of which at least ten days clear notice shall be given to the opposite party and the Government pleader) for receiving such evidence as the applicant may adduce in proof of his indigency, and for hearing any evidence which be adduced in disproof thereof."

10. A perusal of the said Rule demonstrates that where Court comes to the conclusion that apparently there is no reason to reject the application filed under Rule 1 of Order XXXIII of the Code, then the Court has to fix a date with at least 10 days clear notice to the opposite party and the Government pleader for receiving such evidence as the applicant may adduce in proof of his indigency and for hearing any evidence which may be adduced in disproof thereof.

11. Admittedly, in the present case, application which has been allowed by way of impugned order was filed under Order XXXIII Rules 1 and 2 of the Code. In these circumstances, in my considered view, once the Court came to the conclusion that there was no reason to reject the said application, then it ought to have followed the procedure as provided in Order XXXIII Rule 6 of the Code. In other words, such an application could not have been allowed by the learned Court below without issuing a clear notice to the opposite party as prescribed in Rule 6 of Order XXXIII of the Code.

12. At this stage, Mr. Amit Kumar Dhumal, learned counsel for the respondent points out that probably it was not necessary for the learned Court below to have followed this procedure, because it is not as if the respondent has been permitted to file the suit without payment of Court Fee on the ground that he was an indigent person, said concession was given to him on the ground that he is a physically disabled person and, thus, is entitled for the relief of non-payment of Court Fee in terms of the provisions of the Himachal Pradesh Legal Services Authority Act, 1987.

13. In my considered view, even if that is the case, then also, because the application was filed by the applicant under the provisions of Order XXXIII, the procedure as is mentioned in Rule 6 thereof, ought to have been followed. In other words, even if the concession given to the applicant/respondent was on the basis of the provisions of the Himachal Pradesh Legal Services Authority Act, 1987, then also it was incumbent upon the learned Trial Court to have heard the petitioners/defendants therein before passing any order.

14. In this view of the matter, this petition is allowed. Impugned order dated 5th May, 2017, passed by the Court of learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Sirmaur District at Nahan in CMA No. 56-6 of 17 in Civil Suit Registration No. 56/2017 (Filing No. 137/2017), titled as Sh. Som Nath Vs. Shri Raj Kumar and another is set aside. Application filed by the respondent under Order XXXIII Rules 1 and 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure is revived with the direction that the said application shall be decided by the learned Trial Court afresh after following the procedure as prescribed in Rule 6 of Order XXXIII of the Code. The application be positively decided by the learned Trial Court after giving opportunity to put forth their respective case to the parties before it within a period of three months from today.

Petition stands disposed of in above terms, so also pending miscellaneous applications, if any.

CWP No.3011 of 2018.
Judgment reserved on: 04.07.2019
Decided on: 9 .7.2019

Constitution of India, 1950- Articles 14 & 16 - Notice inviting applications for appointment of medical officers on contractual basis issued by the Goverment – Challenge thereto– Justification– Petitioners- medical officers, already working with Ministry of Defence on contractual basis ,filing writ to challenge notice issued by union of India inviting applications for appointment of medical officers on contractual basis for 11 months - Also praying that petitioners should be allowed to continue on contractual basis – Held, petitioners were working on contractual basis only – Notice inviting applications did not in any manner affect terms and conditions of their contract – Prayer to allow them to continue is not based on any Rule– Petition lacks merits and is dismissed. (Paras 10 & 11)

For the petitioners: Mr. Nipun Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Rajesh Kumar Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

V. Ramasubramanian, Chief Justice.

Challenging a Notice inviting applications for the appointment of Medical Officers on contractual basis and also seeking a direction to the respondents to allow them to continue on contract basis as Medical Officers, two doctors have come up with the above writ petition.

2. Heard Mr. Nipun Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioners and Mr. Rajesh Kumar Sharma, learned Assistant Solicitor General of India, for the respondents.

3. The Government of India, Ministry of Defence issued a Policy in the year 2003 for the welfare of Ex-Servicemen. It was known as the "Ex-Servicemen Contributory Health Scheme". The Scheme was launched w.e.f. 1.4.2003, with a view to provide Medicare to Ex-Servicemen, pensioners and their dependents through a network of Polyclinics, Service Medical Facilities and Civil Empanelled/Govt. Hospitals spread across the country.

4. One of the broad features of this Scheme was to engage Medical Officers, who were themselves Ex-Servicemen, on contract basis. If adequate number of Ex-Servicemen medical personnel were not available, civilian medical professionals could be engaged on contract basis.

5. In accordance with the said Scheme, the first petitioner herein was appointed in the first instance, by the proceedings dated 10.5.2014 for a period of one year w.e.f. 16.5.2014 to 15.5.2015. Subsequently, he was again employed on contract basis by the proceedings dated 13.5.2015, for a period of one year from 18.5.2015 to 17.5.2016. By three subsequent proceedings dated 25.5.2016, 3.8.2017 and 18.4.2018, the petitioner was engaged on contract, during the period 25.5.2016 to 19.5.2017, 5.8.2017 to 21.4.2018 and 1.5.2018 to 30.3.2019.

6. Similarly, the second petitioner herein was appointed as a Medical Officer on contract basis by a letter dated 18.4.2018, for a period of 11 months w.e.f. 1.5.2018 up to 30.3.2019.

7. It is relevant to note that the petitioners are actually retired State Government servants. As on date, both the petitioners herein have crossed 65 years of age.

8. Even before the current contracts of appointment issued to the petitioners, were to expire on 30.3.2019, the respondents issued the impugned employment notice inviting applications from Medical professionals for appointment on contract basis for a period of 11 months. Though this employment notice did not, in any way, affect the terms and conditions of contract of the petitioners, the petitioners have come up with the above writ petition not only challenging the impugned notice but also seeking a direction to the respondents to continue them on contract basis.

9. There is no dispute about the fact that the petitioners are retired Government servants. Their age is also not in dispute. The fact that the first petitioner was engaged from time to time on contract and the fact that the second petitioner has been engaged on a contract only w.e.f. 1.5.2018, are all not denied. But the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioners is that the petitioners are entitled to continue in service up to the age of 68 years. Therefore, it is their case that they should be allowed to continue. Though in the relief column of the writ petition, the petitioners have not confined their claim to continue in service up to the age of 68 years, the learned counsel for the petitioners at least conceded before us that the petitioners will be entitled to continue only up to the age of 68 years.

10. But the claim of the petitioners appears to be baseless. At the outset, the petitioners have no right to challenge the impugned employment notice. There is no indication in the impugned employment notice that the contracts of appointment issued to the petitioners would get terminated. The Scheme floated by the Central Government envisaged the appointment of a large number of Medical personnel. Therefore, two persons cannot come to Court challenging the employment notice. Hence the first prayer sought by the writ petitioners is thoroughly misconceived.

11. The second relief claimed by the petitioners in the writ petition is to allow them to continue. The petitioners have not even indicated the date up to which they are entitled to continue. If the writ petition is to be allowed, the petitioners would become entitled to continue as long as they wish. Therefore, such a prayer cannot be entertained.

12. In any case, even their prayer for continuing them up to the age of 68 years cannot be allowed, since their claim is not based upon any Rules. Admittedly, they were appointed under a Scheme which contemplates appointments on contract basis. The first petitioner has been working on contract basis from 2014. There is not a single condition incorporated in the contract, which allows them to continue up to the age of 68 years. Therefore, the writ petition is completely devoid of merits, and hence it is dismissed alongwith pending applications, if any.

Constitution of India, 1950 - Articles 14 & 226– Procedural fairness- Notice inviting tender for leasing out District Water Sports Centre, Taleru, District Chamba to intended lease holders issued – Challenge thereto- After participating in tender process, petitioner contending notice inviting tender as arbitrary on ground that on previous occasions only 'experienced agencies' were invited to tender but this time no such condition was stipulated and it was done to exclude him– Held, notice and terms and conditions contained in tender document did not speak about requirement of prior experience– If prescription of prior experience is necessarily to be a prerequisite for participating in tender, petitioner could have approached the Court earlier immediately after issuance of notice or after downloading of tender document– Petitioner participated in tender process by filing bid and awaited the outcome– A person who participated in entire tender process, subject to terms and conditions contained in tender document, is estopped from questioning its correctness. (Paras 11& 12)

Constitution of India, 1950–Article 14– Tender- Delay in finalizing the tender process, whether inference of lack of transparency can be drawn? Held, on facts, tenders though opened by authorities earlier but could not be finalized because of prevailing Model Code of Conduct on account of elections– Department finalized tenders after obtaining necessary permission from Election Commission of India– Plea of lack of transparency cannot accepted. (Para 13)

Constitution of India, 1950– Article 14– Procedural fairness- Tender process– Notice inviting tender dated 15.2.2019 issued for leasing out District Water Sports Centre, Taleru in Chamba– Corrigendum dated 11.3.2019 – Challenge thereto and court's interference- Notice document providing that lessee would not prohibit other registered private operators/boat owners using jettis in premises of sports centre– Corrigendum deleting this stipulation and thereby prohibiting use of premises by private operators– Petitioner, a registered private operator and who participated in tender process, challenging corrigendum on ground that it prohibited registered private operators to use premises of Water Sports Complex– Petitioner submitting that corrigendum will infringe his rights as registered private operator– Held, petitioner can not don two roles, one as of bidder and another that of private operator– He could have either challenged corrigendum as private operator without participating in tender or he could have assailed tender only as a person who participated in tender- Deletion of condition through corrigendum was with intention to benefit the highest bidder– If petitioner had become highest bidder, corrigendum would have gone to his assistance– Act of petitioner in waiting for result of tender to challenge corrigendum cannot be accepted. For the petitioner:	Mr. Rajiv Jiwan, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Janesh Mahajan, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr. Ashok Sharma, Advocate General with Mr. Ranjan Sharma, Mr. Ashwani Sharma and Ms. Ritta Goswami, Additional Advocates General, for respondents No. 1 to 3/State.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

V. Ramasubramanian, Chief Justice.

Challenging a Notice Inviting Tenders dated 15.2.2019, and a corrigendum dated 11.3.2019, the petitioner, who is into the business of carrying on Water Sports Activities, has come up with the above writ petition.

2. Heard Mr. Rajiv Jiwan, learned Senior Advocate, for the petitioner and Mr. Ashok Sharma, learned Advocate General for the respondents.

3. By a communication dated 26.11.2018, the Government of Himachal Pradesh accorded approval to the District Tourism Development Officer, Chamba, for leasing out the Water Sports Centre at Taleru in Chamba District by inviting fresh tenders for a period of three years "on existing terms and conditions".

4. Pursuant to the approval so granted, the third respondent herein issued a Notice on 15.2.2019 inviting tenders for the operation, maintenance and the management of the Government property and equipment at Water Sports Centre, including Jetty at Taleru in Chamba District, for a period of three years on contract. The notice stipulated that the tender form/documents will be available on-line w.e.f. 25.2.2019 and that the tenders will be opened on 23.3.2019. The bidders were required by the said notice to pay tender cost of Rs.1000/- (one thousand) and also to deposit an earnest money of Rs.1,00,000/- (rupees one lac), by way of a demand draft/bankers cheque from any of the Nationalized/Commercial Bank in favour of "Chamba District Water Sports and Allied Activities Society". The reserve price for the bid was fixed at Rs. 50,00,000/- (rupees fifty lacs) for the three years contract period.

5. The Notice Inviting Tenders was accompanied by a Tender Schedule. The Schedule reads as under:-

purpose."

6. Before the date intended for the opening of the eligibility bid, a corrigendum was issued on 11.3.2019 to the Notice Inviting Tenders. By this Corrigendum, condition No. 19 found at page No. 14 of the Tender Document, was deleted. The deleted condition No. 19 reads as follows:

> "19.The Contractor shall not prohibit in any manner the registered private operators/Boat owners using the jetties installed in the premises of the water sports Centre."

7. Thereafter, the bids were opened on 23.3.2019 as per tendering schedule stipulated in the Notice Inviting Tenders. But further processing was kept on hold, as the Model Code of Conduct imposed by the Election Commission of India had come into force by then. However, the Election Commission of India accorded permission on 10.4.2019 to complete the tender process. Accordingly, the technical evaluation was done on 11.4.2019. After such evaluation, the petitioner, who was one of the bidders, has come up with the above writ petition challenging the Notice Inviting Tenders dated 15.2.2019 and also challenging the corrigendum issued on 11.3.2019.

8. The challenge to the Notice Inviting Tenders and the entire tendering process is on the following grounds:-

(i) That when the approval granted by the Government of Himachal Pradesh by a communication dated 26.11.2018, was for leasing out the Water Sports Complex "on existing terms and conditions", the third respondent ought not to have deleted the condition relating to prior experience in carrying out Water Sports Activities;

(ii) That though the bids were opened on 23.3.2019, the evaluation was up-loaded in the website only on 11.4.2019, showing thereby that there was no transparency in the process;

(iii) That a person by name "Udey Singh" who did not upload the correct documents, was declared as qualified though he was not;

(iv) The deletion of condition No. 19 through a corrigendum dated 11.3.2019 was done with the malafide intention of throwing out the petitioner; and

(v) That the whole process was completely vitiated by arbitrariness.

9. We have carefully considered the submissions made by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner and the learned Advocate General.

10. It is true that by a letter dated 26.11.2018, the Government of Himachal Pradesh granted approval to the third respondent to lease out the Water Sports Complex, by inviting fresh tenders for a period of three years "on existing terms and conditions". It is also true that on earlier occasions, tenders were invited only from "Experienced Agencies". Nevertheless, the impugned Notice Annexure P-2 dated 15.2.2019 and the terms and conditions contained in the tender document did not speak about prior experience.

11. But if public interest demanded the prescription of prior experience as a pre-requisite for participating in the tender, the petitioner, in all fairness, could have approached this Court immediately after issue of impugned Notice dated 15.2.2019 or at least immediately after down-loading the tender document. The petitioner did not do so. On the contrary the petitioner participated in the tender process, by filing his bid and awaiting the outcome when the tenders were opened on 23.3.2019. As a person who participated in the entire tender process, subject to the terms and conditions contained in the tender document, the petitioner is estopped from questioning the correctness of the tender document.

12. The case on hand is not a Public Interest Litigation. The petitioner has come up primarily because he could not succeed in the tender. Therefore, the first contention that the non-prescription of prior experience as a pre-requisite, vitiated the tender, does not lie in the mouth of the petitioner to be raised.

13. The second ground of attack to the tender process is that though the tenders were opened on 23.3.2019, they were not finalized till 11.4.2019, showing thereby that there was no transparency in the process. But the respondents have filed a reply-affidavit pointing out that the Model Code of Conduct imposed by the Election Commission of India was in force at that time and that by a letter dated 22.3.2019, permission was sought from the Election Commission of India. The respondents have also brought on record, the letter of the Election Commission of India dated 10.4.2019 permitting the third respondent to proceed with and finalize the process. In the light of this, the contention that the delay in finalization of the tender was a pointer to the lack of transparency, cannot be accepted.

14. The third ground of attack to the tender process is that a person by name Udey Singh who was not qualified due to the uploading of wrong documents, was shown as qualified. But this contention loses its force, in view of the fact that Mr. Udey Singh has not come out as a successful bidder. Therefore, the declaration on 23.3.2019 that he was qualified, is hardly of any significance today.

15. The fourth ground of attack revolves around the deletion of condition No. 19 from the tender document, by way of a corrigendum dated 11.3.2019. We have already extracted condition No. 19 that was deleted by the corrigendum.

16. It may be of interest to note that the petitioner is a private player organizing various water sports activities, including boating in the lake in question.

17. Until the advent of the impugned tender process, a person who bagged the contract for operating the water sports complex was not entitled to prohibit other registered private operators from using the jetties in the Sports Complex. Since condition No. 19 now stands deleted from the impugned tender, through a corrigendum dated 11.3.2019, the petitioner apprehends that his rights as a private operator will get infringed. But we are of the considered view that the petitioner cannot assail the impugned tender on the basis of a collateral damage that he may suffer. The primary grievance with which the petitioner has come up with the above writ petition is that he could not become a successful bidder. If he had become the successful bidder, he would have taken advantage of this corrigendum to prevent private operators other than himself from using the jetties.

18. It is not open to the petitioner to await the outcome of the tender process and then come up with a challenge to the corrigendum issued on 11.3.2019. The petitioner cannot don two roles, one as that of a bidder and another as that of a private operator. The petitioner could have either assailed the corrigendum as a private operator, without participating in the tender or he could have assailed the tender only as a person, who participated in the tender. The reason as to why he cannot attack the tender process in two avtaars is this. The deletion of condition No. 19 was to the benefit of the highest bidder. If the petitioner had become the highest bidder, the corrigendum would have gone to his assistance. Therefore, the act of the petitioner in waiting for the result of the tender, to challenge the corrigendum, cannot be accepted. For the very same reason the fourth ground of attack should also fail.

19. According to the learned Advocate General appearing for the respondents, the third respondent has already awarded the contract by a letter dated 16.4.2019 to the successful bidder. The above writ petition was filed only on 16.4.2019. Moreover, the amount quoted by the petitioner was Rs.71,01,959/- (rupees seventy one lacs one thousand nine hundred fifty nine only). This is in contrast to the amount quoted by the highest bidder of Rs.1,51,09,000/- (rupees one crore fifty one lacs and nine thousand only). Therefore, apart from the fact that all the grounds of challenge to the impugned process are devoid of merits, the huge difference in the rate quoted by the petitioner and the rate quoted by the successful bidder would also dissuade us from interfering with the tender process.

20. Inviting our attention to the xerox copies of two demand drafts, one for rupees one thousand and another for rupees one lac drawn by the successful bidder towards payment of the cost of the tender and earnest money respectively, it was contended by Mr. Rajiv Jiwan, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioner that the successful bidder ought to have been disqualified as the demand drafts were not drawn in favour of the appropriate Authority. In the impugned Notice Inviting Tender dated 15.2.2019, the tender cost and the earnest money were directed to be deposited by way of demand draft/bankers cheque in favour of “Chamba District Water Sports and Allied Activities Society”. But the demand drafts which bear the name of “Shri Maa Bhawani Transport Company”, who is the successful bidder, show that they were drawn in favour of “Deputy Commissioner-cum-Chairman Water,Sports Activities Society Chamba”. Therefore, it is contended that the successful bidder never even complied with the essential condition for the acceptance of his bid.

21. But unfortunately, the xerox copies of the demand drafts relied upon by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner were filed as Annexure P-10 only along with the rejoinder. Therefore, the respondents did not have an opportunity to meet these allegations. We cannot allow the pleadings in a writ petition of this nature to be enlarged in scope over a period of time.

22. In any case, keeping aside the technicalities for a moment, if we take a look at the Note File produced by the learned Advocate General, it is seen that several bidders were granted some reprieve from the strict adherence to the prescriptions contained in the tender document. The following are some of the instances:

(i) A bidder by name Udey Singh mentioned the demand draft number wrongly while up-loading the information. The same was condoned; and.

(ii) Four bidders, including the petitioner herein failed to mention the date and place in the pre- qualification bids in proforma I and II. But this was also condoned by the Committee on the ground that they were trivial clerical errors.

23. Therefore, it is clear that the petitioner himself was the beneficiary of a small reprieve granted by the Evaluation Committee and hence, he cannot complain about the successful bidder’s failure (if at all it is true) to take the demand drafts describing the name of drawee accurately.

24. Thus, in fine, we find that the grounds of challenge to the impugned tender process are without substance. Therefore, the writ petition is dismissed. There will be no order as to costs. Pending applications, if any also stand disposed of.

For the petitioners: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Senior Advocate, with Mr. Sushant Vir Singh, Advocate.
For the respondents: None.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

V. Ramasubramanian, Chief Justice.

Challenging an order passed by Debts Recovery Appellate Tribunal, New Delhi (hereinafter referred to as 'the Appellate Tribunal') directing them to make a pre-deposit of 50% of the debt recoverable from them, the borrowers as well as guarantors have come up with the above writ petition.

2. Heard Mr. Ajay Sharma, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioners.

3. Assailing the measures taken by the Authorized Officer of the respondent-Bank under Section 13 (4) of the Securitization and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 (hereinafter referred to as 'SARFAESI Act'), the petitioners herein filed an Appeal in SA No. 316 of 2016 on the file of the Debts Recovery Tribunal-I, Chandigarh (hereinafter referred to as 'the Tribunal'). The appeal was dismissed by the Tribunal by an order dated 20th April, 2019.

4. Challenging the said order of the Tribunal, the petitioners filed a statutory Appeal before the Appellate Tribunal under Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act. The Appeal was accompanied by an Application in IA No. 457 of 2019 for waiver of the pre-deposit condition. In the said Application, it was contended by the petitioners that the Bank had already realized a sum of ₹ 6.75 crores by the auction sale of the mortgaged property and that since the total dues to the Bank were estimated only at ₹ 7,48,46,284/-, the requirement of pre-deposit condition stood satisfied. Reliance was placed by the petitioners in this regard on a judgment of the Delhi High Court in Srishti Arogyadham Pvt. Ltd. versus Punjab National Bank {W.P. (C) No. 12299 of 2018}.

5. However, by an order dated 31st May, 2019, the Appellate Tribunal rejected the prayer for waiver of pre-deposit condition and directed the petitioners to make payment of 50% of the amount due. It is against the said order that the petitioners have come up with the above writ petition.

6. The one and only issue that arises for our consideration in this writ petition is as to whether the sale proceeds of an auction sale conducted by the Authorized Officer of the Bank are liable to be adjusted as against the requirement of pre-deposit stipulated statutorily in the second proviso to sub-Section (1) of Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act or not.

7. Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act reads as follows:

> 18. Appeal to Appellate Tribunal.—(1) Any person aggrieved, by any order made by the Debts Recovery Tribunal under section 17, may prefer an appeal alongwith such fee, as may be prescribed to the Appellate Tribunal within thirty days from the date of receipt of the order of Debts Recovery Tribunal:
>
> Provided that different fees may be prescribed for filing an appeal by the borrower or by the person other than the borrower:
>
> Provided further that no appeal shall be entertained unless the borrower has deposited with the Appellate Tribunal fifty per cent of the amount of debt due from him, as claimed by the secured creditors or determined by the Debts Recovery Tribunal, whichever is less:
>
> Provided also that the Appellate Tribunal may, for the reasons to be recorded in writing, reduce the amount to not less than twenty-five per cent of debt referred to in the second proviso.
> (2) Save as otherwise provided in this Act, the Appellate Tribunal shall, as far as may be, dispose of the appeal in accordance with the provisions of the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993 (51 of 1993) and rules made thereunder.

8. The second proviso mandates that an Appellate Tribunal shall not entertain an appeal, unless the borrower has deposited with the Appellate Tribunal 50% of the amount of debt due from him, as claimed by the secured creditors or determined by the Debts Recovery Tribunal, whichever is less. A discretion is conferred upon the Appellate Tribunal by the third proviso to sub-Section (1) of Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act, to reduce the amount of pre-deposit to not less than 25%.

9. The language of the second proviso to sub-Section (1) of Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act is unambiguous and it is mandatory. The second proviso to sub-Section (1) of Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act does not provide room for any controversy with regard to the quantum of amount to be deposited. The amount to be deposited is 50% and this 50% should be of either the amount of debt as claimed by the secured creditors or of the amount of debt as determined by the Debts Recovery Tribunal.

10. In Srishti Arogyadham's case, the Delhi High Court interpreted the second proviso tosub-Section (1) of Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act to the effect that once the Bank had realized some portion of the debt through the auction sale of a secured asset, the first eventuality contemplated by the second proviso to sub-Section (1) of Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act that there must be a debt due, will not stand satisfied. Therefore, the Delhi High Court came to be conclusion that an appellant before the Debts Recovery Appellate Tribunal cannot be called upon to make a pre-deposit of 50% of the amount that was due before the auction sale. Paragraphs 16 to 18 of the judgment of the Delhi High Court in Srishti Arogyadham's case read as follows:

> "16. On a perusal of the second proviso to Section 18, it is clear that the same pre-supposes two eventualities; (i) that debt is due from the petitioner as claimed by the respondent No. 1 Bank or; (ii) debt has been determined by the Debt Recovery Tribunal, and the same is liable to be paid/recovered on the date when the appeal is entertained by the DRAT. In either of the eventualities 50% of the amount of debt need to be made as pre-deposit. We may state here that the Supreme Court in Narayan Chandra Ghosh v. UCO Bank and Others reported as (2011) 4 SCC 548, has inter alia held that the requirement of pre-deposit is a mandatory provision and need to be complied with. There cannot be any dispute on the said proposition and the same is binding upon this Court. In the said case, the argument of the petitioner therein was, that the debt has not been determined by the DRT. The Supreme Court rejected the plea by holding, if the debt has not been determined by the DRT, the borrower is liable to pay 50% of the debt due from him as claimed by the secured creditors. The facts being at variance, as there is no amount due from the borrower i.e. petitioner herein when more than due amount has already been realized by the Bank the judgment has no applicability.
> 17. It is a conceded case of the respondents that none of the eventualities exist as the amount due to the Bank has been recovered. The application has been opposed by the respondents and decided by the DRAT primarily on an apprehension that since, the petitioner has challenged the auction, the same may be set aside. In other words, the sale remains in a nebulous stage and the sale will achieve finality/confirmed only when the legal proceedings come to an end.
> 18. Surely such an apprehension as noted above, cannot govern the interpretation of Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002. The Section is clear and contemplates a situation stated in the earlier paragraph and the same has to be interpreted in the manner it exist, by giving a plain meaning."

11. But with great respect to the Delhi High Court, we are unable to persuade ourselves to accept the line of reasoning given by them. The reasons are manifold.

12. If we peep into the history of the SARFAESI Act, 2002, it could be seen that immediately after Act 54 of 2002 was notified in the Gazette, challenges were made to the constitutional validity of the same before various Courts. Finally, the Supreme Court upheld almost all provisions of the Act by its decision in Mardia Chemicals Ltd. and others versus Union of India and others, (2004) 4 Supreme Court Cases 311. The Supreme Court struck down sub-Section (2) of Section 17 of the SARFAESI Act as ultra vires, as it mandated the deposit of 75% of the amount claimed by the Bank, before the Debt Recovery Tribunal entertained an appeal under Section 17 of the SARFAESI Act. Though Section 17 of the SARFAESI Act used the expression “Appeal”, the Supreme Court held that it is in the nature of an original proceeding and that therefore, a condition for making a pre-deposit will be ultra vires.

13. After the decision of the Supreme Court in Mardia Chemicals' case, a series of amendments were made to the SARFAESI Act by Amendment Act 30 of 2004. It is through the said Amendment Act 30 of 2004 that the second and third provisos to sub-Section (1) of Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act were inserted. These two provisos came into effect on 11th November, 2004.

14. The Statement of Objects and Reasons to the Amendment Act 30 of 2004 would show that the Parliament in its wisdom not only stipulated the payment of 50% of the amount of debt as claimed by the secured creditor or as determined by the Debts Recovery Tribunal as a pre-deposit, but also conferred power upon the Tribunal through the third proviso to grant waiver of the pre-deposit up to a particular limit.

15. The very reason why the Appellate Tribunal is conferred the power by the third proviso to sub-Section (1) of Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act to reduce the amount, is to take note of certain contingencies, such as, the payment of money during the period when the matter was pending before the Debts Recovery Tribunal or after the disposal of the application by the Debts Recovery Tribunal but before an appeal was filed.

16. Primarily, the second proviso to sub-Section (1) of Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act imposes an obligation upon a person filing an appeal to make a pre-deposit. A person filing an appeal before the Appellate Tribunal cannot take advantage of the amount paid by other parties, except under certain circumstances. Say, for instance, the Bank was proceeding against the properties of a guarantor, after exhausting its remedies against the borrower and after recovering a portion of the debt due from the borrower. In cases of that nature, the very attempt of the Bank would only be to recover from the guarantor, the balance of the money due after appropriating the sale proceeds of the properties of the borrower. But in cases where the borrowers themselves are the appellants, they cannot claim the benefit of the money recovered through an auction, which itself had become the subject matter of challenge. A borrower who assails an auction conducted under the Act, as null and void, cannot take advantage of the amount recovered by the Bank through such an auction. If in the opinion of the borrower, an auction is invalid, it would not confer any benefit upon any of the parties, including the secured creditors and the auction purchaser. As a corollary, such an auction cannot confer a benefit upon the borrower. To put it differently, an auction, which, according to the borrower, cannot confer any benefit upon the auction purchaser or the secured creditor, on account of being a nullity, cannot confer a benefit upon the borrower either. To show the sale proceeds of the very auction that is assailed in an appeal, as a money recovered by the Bank, would tantamount to the proverbial act of eating the cake even while retaining it.

17. The issue can be looked at from another angle also. An illegality cannot confer any benefit upon anyone. If an auction, according to the borrower is illegal, he cannot be heard to contend that the proceeds of such auction sale represent the amount of debt already recovered by the secured creditor.

18. Interestingly, Delhi High Court accepted the argument, as seen from paragraph 19 of its judgment that the condition of pre-deposit is intended to discourage frivolous litigation. Once the foundation for the condition contained in the second proviso to sub-Section (1) of Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act is accepted as valid and justified, there is no room for maneuvering or manipulating within the letter of the law.

19. As seen from paragraph 22 of the judgment of the Delhi High Court in Srishti Arogyadham's case, the Supreme Court already clinched the issue in Indian Bank versus Blue Jaggers Estates Limited and others, (2010) 8 Supreme Court Cases 129. But the Delhi High Court distinguished the said judgment on the ground that in the case before the Supreme Court, the sale had not been confirmed and that therefore, it was in a nebulous stage.

20. But with great respect, we do not think that such a distinction is plausible. No borrower accepts before the Appellate Tribunal that his right of redemption is already lost due to the confirmation of sale or the issue of a sale certificate and its registration. So long as it is contended by the borrower/guarantor that his right of redemption is not lost and he is entitled to have the sale certificate set aside by the Appellate Tribunal, the money recovered by the Bank through the auction, is not a money fully and finally recovered.

21. Therefore, we are of the considered view that the Appellate Tribunal was right in demanding from the petitioner, the payment of 50% of the amount as per the second proviso to sub-Section (1) of Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act. As a result, we see no merits in the writ petition. Hence, it is dismissed, so also the pending applications, if any.

Decided on: 09.07.2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Section 125(1)(d)- Interim maintenance– Grant of– Quantum– Challenge thereto– Held- Magistrate granted, interim maintenance to mother at rate of Rs.4000/-p.m. (Rs. 2000/- p.m. from each son) purely on abstract and hypothetical grounds- Order interfered with– Maintenance allowance reduced to Rs. 1500/- p.m. from each son.(Para 9)

For the petitioner: Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Sr. Advocate, with Mr. Mayank Sharma, Advocate.

For respondent No. 1: Mr. Tara Singh Chauhan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge

The present petition is maintained by the petitioner under Section 482 Cr.P.C. read with Article 227 of the Constitution of India against the judgment dated 20.09.2018, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, H.P., whereby the revision filed by the petitioner was dismissed and order dated 28.04.2015, passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hamirpur, H.P., in proceedings under Section 125(1)(d) Cr.P.C., i.e., application for grant of maintenance to respondent No. 1 at the rate of Rs. 4,000/- per month from the date of petition in the learned Trial Court, was affirmed.

2. The facts giving rise to the present petition can be encapsulated as under:

Respondent No. 1 herein, Smt. Satya Devi, was the petitioner before the learned Trial Court (hereinafter referred to as "the petitioner"). The petitioner maintained an application under Section 125(1)(d) Cr.P.C. before the learned Trial Court seeking grant of maintenance allowance from her two sons, i.e., Shri Sanjeev Kumar, petitioner herein (hereinafter referred to as respondent No. 1) and Shri Punit Kumar (hereinafter referred to as respondent No. 2). As per the petitioner, after the death of her husband, she inherited property and she brought up her children, married and settled them. She averred that respondent No. 1 fraudulently executed a sale deed in his favour and respondent No. 2 also purchased land comprised in khasras No. 1285 and 1309 and he did not pay even a single penny to the petitioner. The petitioner had been deprived of her property and now she is unable to maintain herself. The petitioner made a prayer before the learned Trial Court for grant of Rs. 10,000/- and Rs. 5,000/- per month from respondents No. 1 and 2, respectively, as interim maintenance allowance. Respondent No. 1 (petitioner herein) contested the claim of the petitioner and contended that his income is far less, as alleged by the petitioner. He has further averred that he purchased the land from the petitioner and paid full consideration amount. He has contended that in order to harass him respondent No. 2 has managed the petitioner to file the petition against him. He has further averred that the petitioner sold her property for Rs.22,67,000/-. As per respondent No. 1, petitioner is 50% partner in the business of respondent No. 2 and the income of respondent No. 2 is Rs. 5,00,000/- per month. Respondent No. 2 also filed reply and contended that his income is less. However, he averred that a reasonable maintenance amount be awarded to the petitioner. The learned Trial Court, vide its order dated 28.04.2015, allowed the application and granted maintenance allowance @ Rs. 2000/- per month from each of the respondents. Respondent No. 1 feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied, filed a revision petition against the order granting monthly maintenance allowance to the petitioner before the learned Revision Court, but the learned Revision Court, vide its order dated, 20.09.2018, dismissed the revision, hence the present petition is maintained by respondent No. 1 (petitioner herein).

3. I have heard the learned Senior Counsel/counsel for the parties and gone through the available records.

4. The learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has argued that the impugned orders passed by the learned Courts below are without appreciating the facts and law and the maintenance amount is on very higher side. He has argued that the learned Trial Court, while granting maintenance, took the income of the petitioner on higher side. He has argued that the maintenance granted by the learned Trial Court and upheld by the learned Revision Court is on very higher side and the same is liable to be reduced. On the other hand, learned counsel for respondent No. 1 (petitioner before the learned Trial Court) has argued that in view of the income of the petitioner, the amount of maintenance is just and reasoned. He has argued that the petition has no merits and the same deserves dismissal and may be accordingly dismissed.

5. In rebuttal, the learned Counsel for the petitioner has argued that keeping in view the income of the petitioner and the fact that the maintenance allowance as awarded by the learned Trial Court is on a very higher side, the petition be allowed and the impugned order passed by the learned Revision Court be quashed and set aside and some reasonable monthly maintenance allowance be granted.

6. The relationship between the parties is not in dispute. The inter se relationship between the parties might have weighed in the minds of the learned Courts below in granting the monthly maintenance amount to the petitioner. At this stage, this Court cannot sneak the fact that the learned Trial Courts below had only granted interim maintenance allowance to the petitioner and final maintenance amount is yet to be decided. After perusing the orders of the learned Trial Court, it is discernable that the learned Trial Court granted interim maintenance allowance to the petitioner after scrutinizing the pleadings of the parties and evidence to the support of pleadings is yet to be recorded. Agreeably, status of the parties, reasonable wants of the claimant, income and property of the claimant, liabilities of the claimant etc. are some of factors which a Court must look into while granting monthly maintenance, be it interim maintenance allowance, but all these factors cannot be clearly seen by a Court without examining the witnesses. For granting interim maintenance amount the Courts cannot be oblivious to fact that the claimant has to spend on his/her upkeep or dependants, purchase of essential items etc. The aim of granting maintenance is to prevent vagrancy to the claimant. However, in the case in hand, after weighing the rival contentions of the parties, which emerge from the petition filed by the petitioner in the Court of lowest rung and its replies and the contentions have been also noted by the learned Trial Court, at this stage this Court finds that the contentions of the parties are evenly balanced.

7. In the case in hand, the mother (petitioner) is claiming maintenance from her two sons and one son, i.e., respondent No. 2 has conceded that reasonable maintenance allowance be granted to the petitioner, but respondent No. 1 challenged the orders of the learned Courts below whereby petitioner was granted monthly maintenance allowance Rs. 2,000/-. No doubt, after going through the records, it is clear that the learned Trial Court granted interim maintenance allowance to the petitioner only after scrutinizing the averments of the parties. The status of the parties, reasonable wants of the claimant, income and property of the claimant, liabilities of the claimant etc. are some of factors, which can be judiciously adjudged only after scrutinizing the averments and also the evidence. At this stage, after analyzing the contentions of the parties the interim maintenance allowance, as granted by the learned Trial Court, seems to be on higher side. True it is that the maintenance amount should be reasonable, neither excessive nor exorbitant.

8. Indeed, the petitioner, prima facie seems to be entitled for monthly maintenance allowance, however, the rate of monthly maintenance allowance cannot be fixed on an abstract and hypothetical grounds. The petitioner alleged that the monthly income of respondent No. 1 is Rs. 1,00,000/- and respondent No. 2 earns Rs. 30,000/- per month. Respondent No. 1 denied his income, as alleged by the petitioner and besides this, he contended that the petitioner is 50% business partner with respondent No. 2 and monthly income of respondent No. 2 is Rs. 5,00,000/-. Thus, in the petition before the court of lowest rung the petitioner and respondents alleged contrary to each other. The parties are yet to prove what they have alleged by leading evidence and the learned Trial Court only on the basis of contentions made in the petition granted monthly interim maintenance of Rs. 2,000/- from each of the respondent.

9. In the above backdrop, the petition is allowed and the impugned orders of the learned Trial Court are quashed and set aside and monthly interim maintenance amount is reduced from Rs. 2,000/- to Rs. 1500/- per month from each of the respondents, as the learned Trial Court granted monthly interim maintenance allowance to the petitioner only on abstract and hypothetical grounds, i.e., the averments made by the petitioner and the maintenance amount can always be enhanced at any stage, if the learned Trial Court deems it apt and proper. Therefore, the respondents are directed to pay monthly interim maintenance from of Rs. 1500/- to the petitioner and outstanding amount of arrear be liquidated within two weeks from the date of passing of the judgment. However, it is expected from the learned Trial Court to dispose of the matter expeditiously keeping in view the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case.

10. With the above observations the petition, as also pending application(s), if any, stand(s) disposed of. Parties to appear before the Court below on 29.07.2019.

Date of decision: 10.6.2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (Code)– Section 154– First information report– Essential requirements and relevancy during trial– Held, no doubt, FIR is not to be an encyclopedia but only first information as to commission of offence intended to set investigating agency into motion, but it is also settled law that evidence led in court during trial must run inconsonance with contents of FIR– Any evidence contrary to genesis of case narrated in FIR is fatal to prosecution case. (Para 23)

Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 147, 148, 302 and 323 read with 149 –Rioting, murder etc., by unlawful assembly– Proof -Appeal against conviction– Prosecution alleging accused having caused death of 's' and injuries to 'B' and 'H' in prosecution of common object of unlawful assembly at village water source– Held– Complainant 'B' giving entirely different sequence of events on oath than what he told in statement recorded under Section 154 of Code – Denying statement given in FIR – Witnesses 'VC', 'RD' and 'HY' giving entirely different versions as to manner and sequence of occurrence of incident – Medical examination reports of accused not placed on record by investigating agency –Injured witness saying that on account of darkness, it was not possible to identity persons who were assailants - Identity of accused as assailants beyond reasonable doubts not established– Appeal allowed- Accused acquitted – Conviction set aside. (Paras 25 to 41)

For the Appellants:	Mr.Satyen Vaidya, Senior Advocate with Mr.Vivek Sharma, Advocate in Cr. Appeal No. 92 of 2017, Mr.Manoj Pathak, Advocate in Cr. Appeal No. 95 of 2017 and Mr.George, Advocate in Cr. Appeal No. 161 of 2017.
For the Respondent:	Mr.Vikas Rathore, Additional Advocate General, with Mr.J.S. Guleria, Mr.Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate Generals and Mr.Suny Dhatwalia, Assistant Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur, Judge.

These appeals, preferred by convicts/appellants against their conviction and sentence imposed upon them vide judgment dated 21.1.2017 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge II, Solan, District Solan, H.P. in Sessions Trial No. 4-ASJ/7 of 2015, titled as State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Sher Singh and others, are being decided by this common judgment as common questions of fact and law are involved therein.

2. Vide impugned judgment, each of convicts/appellants have been convicted and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life and to pay fine of Rs.20,000/- each for commission of offence under Section 302 of Indian Penal Code (in short "IPC") and in case of default of payment of fine, to further undergo rigorous imprisonment for 6 months, rigorous imprisonment for 6 months and to pay fine of Rs.1,000/- each, under Section 323 IPC and in default of payment of fine, to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one month, rigorous imprisonment for 3 years and to pay fine of Rs.5,000/- each under Section 148 IPC and in default of payment of fine, rigorous imprisonment for 6 months and rigorous imprisonment for 1 year with fine of Rs.5,000/- each under Section 147 IPC and in default of payment of fine, to undergo rigorous imprisonment for 3 months.

3. It is informed by learned Additional Advocate General, that proceedings arising out of the same FIR are also pending against juvenile offender Sonu S/o Hukam Singh before Juvenile Justice Board, Solan, which are at the stage of recording evidence of prosecution for 5.7.2019. Trial against the appellants and proceedings against juvenile Sonu are arising out of the same FIR, but forum and process for adjudicating the same is entirely different and the trial before the Court and proceedings before the Juvenile Justice Board are to be concluded by rendering a decision on the basis of material placed before respective forums and not on the basis of evidence. Present appeals are being decided on the basis of material on record placed before the trial Court, which in itself will not have any bearing on the decision of Juvenile Justice Board, as the proceedings before that are to be concluded on the basis of material placed before it in those proceedings. The appellants have suffered conviction and are languishing in jail, therefore, we find it in the interest of justice to proceed with hearing of these appeals.

4. We have heard learned counsel representing convicts/appellants in respective appeals and also learned Additional Advocate General, for the State and have also gone through the record.

5. Brief facts of the case emerging from the record are that on 29.5.2014 at 9:00 P.M., a telephonic information was received from Medial Officer ESI Hospital Parwanoo in Police Station Parwanoo, requesting to send police official as some persons had come to the hospital for treatment after quarrel. The said information was entered in daily station diary vide GD entry No. 52(A) (Ex. PW-13/B) and Head Constable Brij Lal (PW-14) along with HHG Karam Chand (PW-10) was sent to the hospital. PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal at about 10:05 P.M. had informed from the hospital to Police Station that injuries received by Santosh were reported by the Medial Officer as dangerous to his life and he was referred for treatment from Parwanoo to Government Medical Civil Hospital, Sector 32, Chandigarh and he further informed that on the basis of cursory inquiry and secret inputs, names of Sher Singh, Sonu, Anup, Parmod, Vinod and Vijay etc., belonging to U.P. Bihar, residing in Shanties (Jhugi Jhopari) in village Taksal surfaced as assailants, who had caused injury to Santosh Kumar. The said information was entered in daily station diary vide GD entry No. 53 (A) (Ex.PW-13/C) and after recording reasons that there is possibility of absconding of accused, SHO Inspector Pritam Singh Parmar (PW-16) had rushed to the spot at Taksal along with PSI Rupesh Kant, Constable Suresh Kumar, HHG Dheeraj Kumar (PW-7) and HHG Suresh Kumar in the official vehicle being driven by HHC Bahadur Singh.

6. PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal, in the hospital at Parwanoo, had recorded statement of PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary under Section 154 Cr.P.C., wherein it was stated that he (PW-1) Bitu Chaudhary was residing in Shanties in village Taksal along with PW-4 Prem Ghund, injured Santosh mason (now deceased) and on that date i.e. 29.5.2014, after working with deceased Santosh, he, along with other companions, had come to their respective shanties and he had started cooking meals, whereas Santosh had gone to fetch water from the water source (Bowli) and at about 8:00 P.M., on hearing some voices of quarrel from water source side, he rushed to the spot and saw that 4-5 persons of district Badaiun, were beating Santosh mason with sticks, kicks and fist blows, whose names were not known to him but he knew them by faces only and when he, along with other companions, had tried to rescue Santosh mason, those persons had started beating him also and when they lifted Santosh mason from the spot towards shanties, then also those persons had again beaten Santosh mason brutally, whereupon Santosh mason had become unconscious having no movement in his body. Thereafter, his companions had brought Santosh to ESI, wherefrom Medical Officer referred Santosh to Government Medical Hospital, Chandigarh. Lastly, request for his (PW-1) medical examination and also that of Harinder (PW-1) was made. After reducing the statement into writing and getting the signatures of PW-1 thereon, this statement Ex. PW-1/A was sent to the Police Station through HHG Karam Chand (PW-10), by making endorsement Ex. PW-14/A, for registration of FIR under Sections 307, 323, 147, 148, 149 IPC, which was received at Police Station at about 11:25 P.M. In the meanwhile, information was received in Police Station regarding arrival of Santosh Kumar in Government Medical Civil Hospital, Sector 32, Chandigarh at 11:30 P.M. as a refer case from Parwanoo, which was entered in daily station diary vide GD entry No. 54(a) (Ex. PW-13/D) and concerned Investigating Officer was informed in this regard.

7. On receiving ruka/statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C. (Ex. PW-1/A), FIR Ex. PW-12/A was prepared by PW-13, H.C. Hem Raj, the then MHC and its prints were signed by PW-12 ASI Joginder Singh being officiating SHO and with one copy of FIR, the case file was handed over to H.C. Brij Lal, who in the meanwhile had arrived in Police Station from the hospital. Before that in the hospital, PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal had requested Medical Officer vide application Ex. PW-18/A for medical examination of PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary and PW-11 Harinder Yadav. H.C. Brij Lal (PW-14), on his arrival in the Police Station Parwanoo, had informed that MLCs of three injured would be issued by the Medical Officer in the morning and further that Medical Officer, on his application Ex. PW-8/A, had informed that Santosh was unfit for making statement and injuries sustained by him could be dangerous to his life. The said information was also entered in daily station diary vide GD entry No. 3(A) (Ex. PW-13/E) at 12:30 A.M. On 30.5.2014 at about 12:35 A.M., PW-3 Ram Dev had reached in the Police Station and stated that on 29.5.2014 Vinod Kumar, Sher Singh, Sonu, Anup, Parmod and Vijay etc., at the time of beating Santosh Kumar, had also beaten him, caused injuries to him and had requested for his medical examination and for taking legal action against those persons. The said fact was entered in daily station diary vide GD entry No. 4(A) at 12:35 A.M. (Ex. PW-13/F) and PW-3 Ram Dev was sent to hospital along with constable Abhinav Chandel (PW-18). At 12:45 A.M., PW-16 SHO Pritam Singh had directed to send PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal along with case file, whereupon after recording GD entry No. 5(A) (Ex. PW-13/G) in daily station diary, Head Constable Brij Lal had departed to village Taksal.

8. PW-16 Inspector Pritam Singh had returned to the Police Station at 12:10 P.M. on 30.5.2014 and had brought Sher Singh, Sonu, Anup and Parmod to Police Station for interrogation. The said fact was recorded in daily station diary at GD entry No. 26(A) (Ex. PW-13/H).

9. On 31.5.2014, on receiving information with respect to death of injured Santosh, PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal, being deputed by PW-16 Inspector Pritam Singh, visited Government Hospital Chandigarh and submitted an application Ex. PW-9/A for conducting post mortem of deceased Santosh, whereupon PW-9 Dr. Arti, after conducting post mortem, had issued report Ex. PW-9/B, stating therein that cause of death, in her opinion, was due to carnio cerebral damage due to blunt trauma/surface impact over the head and she had also handed over the viscera to PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal, which was deposited by him in the Malkhana by handing over to PW-13 H.C Hem Raj, who had entered it in Malkhana register at Sr. No. 383 of 2014 and had sent it to SFL Junga through PW-15 HHC Ramesh Chand vide RC Ex. PW-13/J, who after depositing the same in FSL, Junga had handed over the RC to PW-13 H.C. Hem Raj along with acknowledgment of delivery thereof. Report of State FSL was received back on 25.6.2014 through Constable Balwant Singh (not examined). Copy of extract of Malkhana register is Ex. PW-13/K.

10. On the basis of information supplied by PW-3 Ram Dev on 10.6.2014, accused Sonu S/o Bhupal, who was involved in the incident and was absconding, was arrested by PW-16 Inspector Pritam Singh. It is further case of the prosecution that on 10.6.2014 accused Sonu had produced a bamboo stick to Police in presence of PW-3 Ram Dev and PW-7 Dheeraj, which was taken into possession vide memo Ex. PW-3/A and was sealed in a piece of cloth and parcel was sealed with seal impression "K" and sample impression of seal "K" was taken on a piece of cloth Ex. PW-7/A, which was also witnessed by PW-3 Ram Dev and PW-7 Dheeraj.

11. It is further case of prosecution that accused Vijay, Vinod and Suresh were also absconding and Vijay and Vinod had surrendered on 30.6.2014 and thereafter on 2.7.2014 accused Vijay had produced a bamboo stick, used as a weapon in the incident, in the presence of witnesses PW-7 Dheeraj Kumar and PW Kanya Lal (not examined) and the said bamboo stick was identified by PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary and the same was taken in possession vide memo Ex. PW-2/C after putting it in a parcel of cloth sealed with seal 'P'. On the same day, one five litre plastic canny, a lether belt and a bamboo stick, used as weapon in the incident, were also recovered at the instance of accused Vinod and was taken in possession in presence of PW-7 Dheeraj Kumar and PW Kanhya Lal vide memo Ex. PW-2/A by putting these articles in a parcel of cloth sealed with seal 'P'. The articles were also identified by PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary. On that date, i.e. 2.7.2014 PW-2, Vinod Chaudhary had also produced three plastic cannies along with a bamboo stick used for bringing water in these cannies and these articles were also taken in possession vide memo Ex. PW-2/B in presence of witnesses PW-7 Dheraj Kumar and Kanhya Lal after putting the same in a parcel of cloth, sealed with seal 'P'. The bamboo stick was identified by PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary as a stick being used by the deceased for bringing water, which was snatched by accused Sonu for beating the said witness PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary and deceased Santosh.

Sample impression of seal 'P' was also taken on a piece of cloth Ex. PW-7/C, which was also witnessed by PW-7 Dheeraj and Kanya Lal.

12. According to prosecution, accused Suresh Kumar had surrendered on 14.8.2014 and during his remand, on 16.8.2014 a bamboo stick was recovered at his instance in presence of witnesses PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary and PW-7 Dheeraj Kumar, which was taken into possession vide memo Ex. PW-2/D, after putting it in the parcel of cloth, sealed with seal 'L'. Sample impression of seal 'L' was also taken in piece of cloth Ex. PW-7/B, which was also witnessed by the same witnesses. It is further case of the prosecution that memo of identification of spot Ex. PW-2/E was prepared in pursuance to identification of the spot by said Suresh Kumar.

13. Investigating Officer has also obtained MLCs of deceased Santosh (Ex. PW-8/C), PW-11 Harinder Yadav (Ex. PW-8/L), PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary (Ex. PW-8/M) and PW-3 Ram Dass (Ex. PW-8/E) from the Medical Officer, Civil Hospital Parwanoo. After seizure of cannies and bamboo sticks, the same were deposited in the Malkhana by PW-16 SHO Pritam Singh, which were entered by PW-13 HC Hem Raj in the Malkhana register at Sr. No. 388 of 2014 dated 2.7.2014 and 421 of 2014 dated 16.8.2014, extracts whereof are Ex. PW-13/L, Ex. PW-13/M and PW-13/N. Articles recovered vide memo Ex. PW-3/A, Ex. PW-2/A, Ex. PW-2/B and Ex. PW-2/C were produced by PW-16 Inspector Pritam Singh before Medical Officer PW-8 Dr. Vinod Kumar Kapil seeking his opinion, vide application Ex. PW-8/D and Ex. PW-16/C dated 21.7.2014, whereupon PW-8 Dr. Vinod Kumar Kapil had given his opinion vide endorsement Ex. PW-8/E stating that the injuries sustained by victim can be caused by these bamboo sticks and belt and thereafter these articles, after resealing by the Medical Officer, were again deposited in the Malkhana. Daily station diary vide GD entry No. 38, regarding taking out these articles from Malkhana and GD entry No. 44(A) regarding re-deposit of these articles dated 21.7.2017 entered at 3:00 P.M. and 5:00 P.M. respectively are on record as Ex. PW-13/Q and PW-13/R. The articles taken in possession vide memo Ex. PW-2/D were taken out by PW-16 Inspector Pritam Singh from Malkhana after entering GD entry No. 15(A) dated 17.8.2014 at 8:15 A.M. Ex. PW-13/S and were produced before Medical Officer PW-8 Dr. Vinod Kumar Kapil, seeking his opinion vide application Ex. PW-8/G, whereupon PW-8 Dr. Vinod Kumar Kapil had expressed his opinion vide endorsement Ex. PW-8/H, stating therein that articles shown to him could have caused the injuries mentioned in MLC of deceased Santosh, PW-3 Ram Dev and PW-11 Harinder Yadev. Thereafter vide GD entry No. 19(A) dated 17.8.2014 (Ex. Pw-13/D) entered at 10:15 A.M, the bamboo stick was re-deposited in the Malkhana. During investigation, site map Ex. PW-16/A has also been prepared and photographs Ex. PW-16/A-1 to Ex. PW-16/A-37 were also taken. Photographs of deceased Santosh taken after his death are Ex. PW-16/A-38 and Ex. PW-16/A-39. Photographs of accused have also been placed and proved on record as Ex.PW-16/A-40 to Ex. PW-16/A-47. On the basis of identification of spot by accused Suresh Kumar site map Ex. PW-16/B was also prepared. Chemical analysis reports received from State FSL have also been relied upon by the prosecution as Ex. P-X and P-Y, wherein it is opined that no poison was detected in the viscera and human blood was detected on the clothes of deceased.

14. PW-5 Kamal Kishore Patwari has prepared naksha tatima and jamabandi of the land whereupon the incident had taken place. PW-17 Sh. Partap Bhan Singh is an Accounts Manager of the Corporation with which PW-4 Prem Ghund was working for construction work of building. PW-6 Sh.Raj Kumar was with PW-4 Prem Ghund (brother of deceased Santosh) in the market when a telephonic call was received by PW-4 Prem Ghund from deceased Santosh Kumar regarding quarrel in question taking place.

15. After completion of investigation, challan was presented in the Court and after committal, on finding prima facie complicity of accused in commission of offences, on the basis of record produced before it, trial Court had framed the charges against the accused under Sections 147, 148, 323, 302 IPC read with Section 149 IPC, whereafter the accused were subjected to trial on claiming not guilty.

16. During trial, prosecution has examined 18 witnesses to prove its case. Whereas, after recording of their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. accused/appellants had not chosen to lead any evidence in their defense. The defense of the accused is that false case was instituted against them.

17. On conclusion of trial, accused have been convicted for the offences charged and have been sentenced as detailed supra.

18. PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary, complainant, PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary, PW-3 Ram Dev and PW-11 Harinder Yadav are witnesses, who have been examined as spot witnesses by the prosecution. PW-4 Prem Ghund and PW-6 Raj Kumar are the witnesses, who have been relied upon by the prosecution as witnesses who reached on the spot after receiving the information about the incident from deceased Santosh Kumar and their statements may be relevant under Section 6 of the Indian Evidence Act to read with spot witnesses. None of other witnesses are spot witnesses.

19. PW-8 Dr. Vinod Kumar Kapil has conducted the medical examination of deceased Santosh Kumar, PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary, PW-3 Ram Dev and PW-11 Harinder Yadev, whereas PW-9 Dr. Arti has conducted the post mortem of deceased Santosh Kumar.

20. PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal has conducted the part of investigation, whereas major investigation has been conducted by PW-16, Inspector Pritam Singh Parmar.

21. PW-7 Dheeraj Kumar is a common witness to all recovery/seizure memos, whereby articles, including bamboo sticks and belt used as weapon of offence, were taken in possession by the police. Other witnesses are link witnesses, who were associated during investigation for performing their formal role like taking Ruka from the hospital to Police Station, registration of FIR on the basis of Ruka, taking PW-3 Ram Dev to hospital for medical examination, identification of land whereupon the incident had taken place, performing duty of MHC for receiving/depositing the case property in Malkhana and sending the same to State FSL, Junga as well as to Medical Officer and also for sending the viscera to State FSL. Statements of these witnesses will be relevant in case deposition of spot witnesses PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary, PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary, PW-3 Ram Dev and PW-11 Harinder Yadev along with statements of PW-4 Prem Ghund and PW-6 Raj Kumar are found to be convincing and reliable.

22. Scrutiny of statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C. Ex. PW-1/A, made by PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary and deposition of spot witnesses, including this witness, in the Court compel us to draw inference that true version of the incident has not been brought on record before the Court, which constrains us to interfere in the conviction of accused persons, for the reasons stated herein after.

23. No doubt, it is settled position of law that FIR is not to be an encyclopedia, but only first information of commission of offence to set the Investigating Agency/Police in motion is sufficient to be recorded therein and the entire case can be proved by leading elaborate evidence on the basis of the said FIR, despite the fact that minute details are not there in the FIR. However, at the same time, it is also settled that evidence led in the Court must run in consonance with the contents of FIR and any evidence, contrary to the genesis of the case narrated in the FIR, is fatal to the prosecution case.

24. PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary, complainant, in his statement recorded under Section 154 Cr.P.C (Ex. PW-1/A) has stated that after hearing the noise from the side of water source, where Santosh had gone to fetch water, he had rushed to the spot where he had seen that 4-5 persons, residents of District Badaiun, were beating Santosh with sticks, fist and kick blows and when he tried to save Santosh Kumar along with his companions, he was also beaten by those persons and when they lifted Santosh Kumar from the spot towards shanties, those persons had again beaten Santosh Kumar brutally with sticks causing him unconscious. As per this statement, Santosh Kumar had gone to fetch water alone. While appearing in the Court, in his deposition on oath, PW-1 has narrated a different story, wherein he has stated that deceased Santosh Kumar and PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary had gone to fetch water and PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary had come back to shanty and had informed him that Santosh was being beaten by the person belonging of Badaiun area whereupon he along with Virjan, Rama Nand and Vinod had rushed to the spot but by that time other persons had disengaged the Badaiun people from assaulting the deceased Santosh and they were 4-5 in number and after about 10-15 minutes of their reaching in their shanty along with Santosh, accused persons had again attacked Santosh and when they tried to rescue him, accused also assaulted them causing injuries to him, Rama Nand, Virjan and Vinod. This sequence of events given by him in the Court is in contrast with the version stated by him in Ex. PW-1/A. In cross-examination, he has stated that statement made by him in the Court is correct and the statement made contrary in statement recorded under Section 154 Cr.P.C. Ex. PW-1/A, was not made by him. Even if, his explanation is believed by suspecting that PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal had not recorded correct version of his statement in Ex. PW-1/A, his testimony is not reliable being not corroborated, rather contradicted by other evidence on record.

25. As per prosecution story, PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary was along with deceased Santosh throughout the episode. Contrary to version of PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary, deposed in the Court that Santosh was lifted from Bowali (water source) to Shanty after the first part of the episode, he has stated that when he rushed to the spot along with PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary, Virjan and Rama Nand, other person had already disengaged the quarrel and thereafter deceased Santosh made a call to his brother PW-4 Prem Ghund and informed that he was not allowed to fetch water from the spring, whereupon PW-4 Prem Ghund advised him to take water from other water source whereupon he (PW-2) and Santosh went to another water source, which was adjacent to the first one and after fetching water in the remaining cans, they picked up those cans with bamboo stick and started coming back to their shanty and when they reached near shanty, accused Vijay snatched bamboo stick being from them and assaulted both of them, i.e. PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary and deceased Santosh and thereafter PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary, Rama Nand and Virjan arrived there, but remaining accused persons, who were called telephonically by accused Vijay and Vinod, also reached there and assaulted them with kick, fist and stick blows and due to injuries sustained by Santosh, he fell down. Thereafter PW-4 Prem Ghund was called and Santosh was taken to Hospital Parwanoo, wherefrom he was referred to Chandigarh where he died.

26. PW-3 Ram Dev has a different story to tell. According to him, on the date of incident at about 8:00 P.M., when he was changing his clothes in his shanty, he heard a noise and found that accused Vinod and Sonu were quarreling with deceased and they had also given 2-3 slaps to him and on advising them by him not to quarrel, accused Vinod and his five companions dragged him out of his Shanty and also assaulted him, as a result whereof he fell down and became unconscious. As per his deposition, accused Vinod had hit him with stick and also had given a blow with bamboo stick on the head of deceased Santosh. He has further stated that after about three hours of beating he went to Police Station whereafter, in the Hospital, he was medically examined. This witness was declared hostile on the claim of Public Prosecutor that he had concealed some material facts and thereafter he was subjected to cross-examination by learned Public Prosecutor and was confronted with his earlier statement Ex. PW-16/D recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., wherein it is recorded that Sher Singh, Anup, Parmod and Sonu were beating deceased Santosh and Bitoo. He has stated that he was not having any knowledge of making any such statement to the police, as at that time, he was not in full senses. In cross-examination by defence, he has stated that he had not seen any incident taken place near the Shanty of Santosh and he had identified accused Vinod and Sonu by their voice at the time when they were quarreling with deceased, however, he has not seen any one assaulting deceased Santosh.

27. PW-11 Harinder Yadav is telling another story. According to him, on the date of incident at about 8:00 P.M., when he was in his Shanty, he heard some commotion from outside, whereupon he came out and saw that accused persons were assaulting deceased Santosh with kick, fist and sticks blows. PW-1 Bittu was also assaulted by them. When he (PW-11) intervened, accused persons had also assaulted him causing injuries on his head and due to beating, Santosh fell down on the earth and became unconscious. It is claimed by this witness that he could identify accused only by their face. According to him accused persons had fled away from the spot after leaving behind the sticks. In cross-examination, he has further stated that deceased Santosh, PW-1 Bitu Chaudary and one another person used to reside with him in the same Shanty, wherein no electricity light was available. He has further stated that on account of darkness outside the Shanty, it was not possible to recognize a person and whosoever had come in front of him, he had recognized him.

28. There are contradictions in the versions of the spot witnesses with regard to incident. According to PW-1, the incident had taken place at water source and thereafter near the Shanties, when they had brought Santosh to the Shanty. Whereas, according to PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary, after the first part of incident at water source, PW-3 Prem Ghund was contacted by deceased Santosh and on his advise they went to another water source and after filling up their cannies, they came back to the Shanty and on the way both of them i.e. PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary and Santosh were assaulted, which falsifies the claim of PW-1 that immediately after the first part of incident Santosh was lifted to Shanty in unconscious state. According to PW-2, Santosh had become unconscious after the second assault, when they were coming back to the Shanty with the cannies filled up with water from another source. Whereas PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary is completely silent about fetching of water from second source and assault by accused on PW-2 Vinod and Santosh on the way.

29. The sequence of incident is also contradictory. According to PW-1, immediately after first quarrel at water source, Santosh in an unconscious state was lifted to the Shanty. Whereas according to PW-2 after the first part of incident, he and Santosh had gone to another water source. In his statement Ex. PW-1/A, PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary, has stated that he had seen 4-5 persons, namely, Vijay, Sonu, Anup and Vinod, who were of Badaiun, giving fist and kick blows to Santosh. In the Court he has stated that prior to his arrival on the spot, the quarrelling parties were disengaged by the persons present there and the first episode was over before his arrival on the spot along with Virjan, Rama Nand and Vinod Chaudhary. Whereas, according to PW-2, only two persons, namely, Vinod and Vijay were there, who assaulted Santosh on the Bowri. Whereas according to PW-3 Ram Dev, Vinod and Sonu were quarrelling with the deceased.

30. In his statement, PW-3 Ram Dev has nowhere uttered even a single word that other accused had also assaulted Vinod Chaudhary or deceased Santosh. All other witnesses, except PW-4 Prem Ghund, are completely silent about the name of Sher Singh, whereas PW-4 Prem Ghund has stated that on the way to the hospital, deceased Santosh had informed him that Sher Singh and other persons had assaulted him. Though PW-6 Raj Kumar has endorsed this statement, however, it is matter of fact that none of the spot witnesses i.e. PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary, PW-2, Vinod Chaudhary and PW-3 Ram Dev had ever taken the name of accused Sher Singh as assailant, who attacked the deceased Santosh. On the contrary, PW-3 Ram Dev has categorically stated that accused Vinod had given bamboo stick blow to deceased on his head. He has not named Sher Singh as assailant who had beaten the deceased Santosh. PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary and PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary have also not disclosed his name in their statements as an assailant. It is also again an inconsistency about the names of assailants in the statements of these witnesses.

31. Claim of prosecution is that no other person was present on the spot. However, it is falsified by depositions of PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary and PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary, made on oath in the Court, wherein they have specifically stated that when PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary rushed back to the spot of incident along with PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary, Virjan and Rama Nand, they found that other persons present there had already disengaged the persons quarreling with deceased Santosh, which indicates that other persons were also present on the spot.

32. In his statement Ex. PW-1/A, PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary, had prayed for his medical examination along with PW-11 Harinder Yadav only being injured persons in the incident. He is silent about PW-3 Ram Dev as well as also about Virjan and Rama Nand. Whereas, in his deposition in the Court, he has claimed that Rama Nand and Virjan were also assaulted along with him and PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary and all of them had sustained injuries. PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary, though, has claimed that he was assaulted, but he is silent about receiving injuries, if any, by him. He is also silent about the beatings given by accused to PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary and Rama Nand. Though he has claimed that he was also beaten along with Santosh, but he never presented himself for medical examination at the time of recording Ex. PW-1/A or even thereafter at any point of time. Presence of PW-2 Vinod Chauhdary has also not been claimed on the spot in Ex. PW-1/A, whereas it is claim of prosecution that PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary had witnessed the entire incident, as he was accompanying deceased Santosh since beginning till last when he fell unconscious.

33. Though, it is true that statement Ex. PW-1/A would give only gist of the incident, however, at the same time it should give complete minimum details of incident. In Ex. PW-1/A, it has been categorically stated that deceased Santosh alone had gone to fetch water and it is completely silent about the presence of PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary, either in Shanty or as a companion with deceased Santosh for fetching water. Had he been accompanying the deceased, he must have received some injury. It is claimed by PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary and PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary that PW-2 was also beaten by accused persons, but prosecution has placed on record MLCs Ex. PW-8/C, Ex. PW-8/M, Ex. PW-8/L and Ex. PW-8/P only belonging to deceased Santosh, Bitu Chaudhary, Harinder Yadev and Ram Dev, respectively. As per contents of daily station diary report and statement Ex. PW-1/A and also in the deposition of PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal and PW-16 Pritam Singh, there is no reference of receiving injuries by PW-2 Vinod Chadhary and other two persons, namely, Virjan and Rama Nand, which casts doubt, not only about the presence of PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary on the spot, but credence of the prosecution claim. PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary had not disclosed that PW-3 Ram Dev was also beaten in the incident and in his deposition in the Court also he has not mentioned his name anywhere in his statement. He has named Virjan, Rama Nand and Vinod Chaudhary. Interestingly, neither these two persons, Virjan and Rama Nand, nor Ram Dev were claimed to be present on the spot and injured in Ex. PW-1/A.

34. Prosecution has, not only, failed to produce the details of injury or MLC, if any of Virjan and Rama Nand on the record, but also the MLCs of the accused persons after conducting their medical examination on the very next day after their arrest. It is stated in his deposition in the Court by PW-16 Inspector Pritam Singh Parmar that accused persons were medically examined, but he has failed to give any satisfactory explanation for not producing their MLCs in the Court during trial in evidence. Withholding the material piece of evidence is also fatal to the prosecution case, as on the basis of injuries received by the accused, if any, it would have thrown light on the reality of the incident.

35. Another fact which in isolation may not be so glaring, but in view of the aforesaid contradictions and inconsistencies in the deposition of the eye witnesses, would also have impact on the fairness and veracity of prosecution story. In station diary report recorded at 12.30 A.M. (Ex. PW-13/E), dated 30.5.2014, PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal has recorded that Medical Officer had told MLCs of injured examined by him would be issued in the morning, whereas from the MLC of deceased Santosh Ex. PW-8/C, MLC of Harinder Yadev Ex. PW-8/L and that of PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary Ex. PW-8/M, these persons were brought to the hospital at 9:10 P.M. and examined at the same time and thereafter date and hour report send to the police has been mentioned as 29.5.2014 at 9:30 P.M. Meaning thereby, that MLCs were issued immediately after examination during night on 29.5.2014. It creates doubt about presence of PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal in the Hospital. It is also noticeable that PW-3 Ram Dev was medically examined at 1:15 A.M. and his MLC was also handed over to the police on 30.5.2014 at 2:55 A.M. Meaning thereby that all the MLCs had been issued during night itself at the time of examination of injured. It also falsifies the contents of daily station diary report Ex. PW-13/E.

36. As per prosecution case as recorded in daily station diary Ex. PW-13/C at 10:05 P.M., on the basis of preliminary inquiry and secret information, names of the assailants were in the knowledge of PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal and also PW-16 Inspector Pritam Singh however, in the statement PW-1/A recorded at 11:25 P.M., name of assailants have not been disclosed and on the basis of said statement FIR was registered at 11:35 P.M. against unnamed persons. It is also evident from daily station diary Ex. PW-13/H that at the first instance Sonu Diwakar, S/o Sh. Hukam Singh was apprehended by the Police, however, later on another Sony S/o Bhopal was also apprehended.

37. As per prosecution case Santosh was shifted to hospital by PW-4 Prem Ghund on the Motor Cycle of PW-6 Raj Kumar, whereas PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary in his statement is silent about the arrival of PW-4 Prem Ghund and PW-6 Raj Kumar on the spot, but has stated that they brought Santosh to the hospital at Parwanoo. PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary has stated that they called Prem Ghund and thereafter they took Santosh to hospital. PW-3 Ram Dev has not stated anything in this regard. According to PW-6 Raj Kumar when he reached on the spot, PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary was lying on the side of Shanty, whereas PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary has not stated so. It creates doubt about the arrival of PW-4 Prem Ghund along with PW-6 Raj Kumar on the spot and therefore, it would not be safe to believe the version of PW-4 that deceased Santosh, on the way to the hospital, has told him that Sher Singh and other persons had assaulted him.

38. In the aforesaid circumstances, there are three stories on record, first one stated in Ex. PW-1/A and second is narrated in the deposition of PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary in the Court and third story has been propounded by PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary. PW-3 Ram Dev and PW-11 Harinder Yadav, though has claimed victim in the incident and have asserted their presence on the spot, but in their deposition in the Court they have not narrated the incident, as has been narrated by PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary either in Ex. PW-1/A or in his deposition in the Court or PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary in his deposition in the Court. In cross-examination on behalf of accused persons, except accused Parmod, this witness has stated that many persons had gathered on the spot at the time of incident. All these witnesses have been examined as spot witnesses, therefore, it is difficult to believe the manner and the sequence of events of the alleged incident, as propounded by the prosecution, more particularly when there are irreconcilable inconsistencies with regard to manner in which incident had happened, also presence of assailants at two places of alleged incident and also that of other independent persons. There is variance in the examination-in-chief and cross-examination of PW-1, as in his examination-in-chief he has categorically stated that before his arrival at the water source at the time of first part of incident, other persons, present there, had disengaged the quarreling persons, whereas in his cross-examination he has stated that there was no other person at the water spring at the time of first part of incident. Version of PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary is also similar.

39. From the trend of cross-examination, it appears that injuries suffered by deceased Santosh and other witnesses have not been disputed and accordingly there is no dispute with respect to MLCs of deceased Santosh, PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary, PW-3 Ram Dev and PW-11 Harinder Yadav and also the post mortem report of the deceased Santosh. However, the manner in which the complainant party received the injuries has been disputed. As discussed supra, spot witnesses, instead of clarifying the facts, have created confusion.

40. In his statement Ex. PW-1/A, PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary has clearly stated that he did not know the names of assailants, but could identify them by face. In his deposition in the Court, in cross-examination, he has admitted that on account of darkness, it was not possible to identify the persons who were assaulting Santosh, with further clarification that the names of the accused had been told to him by PW-4 Prem Ghund and not by the police. Whereas PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary who also claimed to be residing with PW-1 and Santosh in the same Shanty, has stated in the court that he knew the names of Vijay and Vinod prior to the incident, as they were residing in adjacent Shanty. It is difficult to believe that PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary and deceased Santosh were residing in the same Shanty adjacent to the Shanty of Vijay and Vinod, were not knowing their names. PW-2 Vinod Chaudhary in his cross-examination has stated that he had not seen the incident which had taken place near the Shanty of Santosh and further that he had identified accused Vinod and Sonu throguh their voices heard at the time when they were quarreling with deceased, but he has not seen any one assaulting Santosh. If PW-4 is believed that deceased Santosh had disclosed that Sher Singh and other persons had assaulted him, then at least name of Sher Singh must have been known to the complainant party, however, at the time of recording statement Ex. PW-1/A at 11:25 PM in the hospital, PW-1 had not disclosed the name of any person, rather he had stated that he did not know the names. In daily station diary, recorded at 10.05 P.M. on the basis of information supplied by PW-14 H.C. Brij Lal, it has been recorded by PW-16 Inspector Pritam Singh that on the basis of cursory inquiry and secret information Sher Singh, Sonu, Anup, Parmod, Vinod, Vijay and others were involved in beating Santosh Kumar. When police, on the basis of inquiry, was knowing the names of assailants at 10.05 P.M. it is difficult to believe that PW-1 Bitu Chaudhary who happened to be residing in the adjacent Shanty of the named accused, was not knowing their names, but knowing the assailants by face only. Therefore, it creates doubt about the involvement of the accused in the incident.

41. Prosecution has also relied upon seizure memos Ex. PW-2/A, Ex. PW-2/B, Ex. PW-2/C, Ex. PW-2/D and Ex. PW-3/A and identification memo Ex. PW-2/E prepared on the basis of alleged recovery of weapon of offence and identification of the spot at the instance of accused, when they were in custody. These recoveries have been claimed to have been effected on the basis of statement(s) recorded made by accused during their police custody, but no such statement(s) in accordance with the provisions of Section 27 of Evidence Act, if any, has seen the light of day. So far as the recovery memos are concerned, it is pertinent to notice that there are three dates of recovery of weapon of offence i.e. 10.6.2014, 2.7.2014 and 16.8.2014, but in all three dates witness PW-7 Dheeraj Kumar is a common witness and he has categorically admitted that all the three times, he was called by the Police and in his cross-examination, he has stated that all these weapon of offences i.e. bamboo sticks were produced by accused from their shanties and prior to that Police had already visited the site of incident for many times and all the shanties were adjacent to the Shanty of PW-4 Prem Ghund and Police had also carried out search of these shanties. He has further stated that all the recovery memos and parcels of articles were signed by him in Police Station. Another witness to recovery memo Ex. PW-2/A, Ex. PW-2/B and Ex. PW-2/C was Kanya Lal, who has not been examined. Therefore, these recovery/seizure memos can also not be relied upon for establishing the case of the prosecution.

42. From the evidence on record, it can be said that deceased Santosh has expired on account of injuries received in the incident of quarrel. However, what was real cause of injuries, has not been proved on record. It is not established on record beyond reasonable doubt that it is accused who were assailants and none else, as the evidence of eye witnesses is neither convincing nor reliable or cogent. For such sketchy evidence on record, accused persons cannot be held guilty only on the basis of suspicion. Contradictions, inconsistencies and discrepancies in the deposition of spot witnesses are establishing three parallel stories with respect to manner and sequence of events of the alleged incident and as such they are major in nature, which are demolishing the geneses of prosecution story, rendering the prosecution case unbelievable. The evidence on record is depicting possibility of more than one story, creating doubt on prosecution version and leading to the benefit of doubt in favour of appellants.

43. In view of above discussion, we feel that prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused persons beyond reasonable doubt by leading cogent, convincing and tangible evidence. The trial court has not considered the aforesaid aspect of the evidence on record and therefore, has wrongly convicted the accused persons. Therefore, impugned judgment and order dated 21.1.2017, convicting and sentencing the accused, passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge II, Solan is set aside and the accused are acquitted from the charges framed against them. They shall be released forthwith, if not required in any other case. The appellants shall also be entitled to refund of fine amount, if deposited. Release warrants be prepared accordingly. Record be sent back to the trial Court.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE VIVEK SINGH THAKUR, J.

Municipal Corporation, Shimla. …Appellant.
Versus
Sh.Surinder Kumar. …Respondent

RSA No. 162 of 2016

Date of decision: 28.6.2019

Indian Contract Act, 1872 - Section 70– Quasi-contract– Duty to pay –Money suit for execution of additional work– Trial court decreeing money suit of plaintiff by holding that he had executed additional work over and above what was awarded and he was entitled to recover amount for same– First appellate court upholding decree– RSA – Held, the then junior engineer, specifically admitting of plaintiff having executed additional work as per directions of executive engineer – And that such work could not be awarded through tender due to enforcement of model code of conduct - Nor the could be entered into measurement book – Additional work was in continuity of awarded work – Execution of additional work not denied even by defendant- Work not of gratuitous nature – Payment of said work cannot be denied on ground that work was not awarded to him through tender process. (Paras 7 to 9)

For the Appellant: Mr.Naresh Gupta, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr.Ashok Sood, Senior Advocate, with Mr.Khem Raj, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur J. (Oral).

In present case a suit, filed by respondent/plaintiff, for recovery of Rs.6,13,100/- on account of amount due for the additional works done by him during performing the works awarded to him vide letters No. MCS/XEN/3730/RB/08-2400 and MCS/XEN/3730/RB/08-2402 dated 5.12.2008, has been decreed by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Shimla vide judgment dated 18.11.2014, whereby plaintiff was held entitled to recover Rs.4,50,000/- along with costs of Rs.1100/- and interest @ 8% per annum from the date of filing the suit till realization of entire decreetal amount.

2. The judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court was assailed by both the parties. Appellant-Defendant had preferred Civil Appeal under Section 96 of the Code of Civil Procedure, whereas respondent/plaintiff had filed Cross-Objections therein for grant of interest @12% per annum, as claimed in the plaint, instead of awarded interest @8% per annum. The appeal as well as cross-objections were dismissed by learned Additional District Judge-II, Shimla vide common judgment dated 2.1.2016.

3. Thereafter appellant/Municipal Corporation has filed the present appeal, whereas respondent/plaintiff has not assailed the dismissal of his claim qua the interest part.

4. Present appeal was admitted vide order dated 5.7.2016 on the following substantial questions of law:-

> "1. Whether the courts below have committed illegality by decreeing the suit when there was no proof/evidence with regard to execution of additional works by plaintiff.
> 2. Whether the courts below have failed to appreciate that the suit was bad for non-joinder of necessary parties.

Question No. 1

5. Perusal of record reveals that plaintiff has demonstrated the additional works done by him with specific details in para 1 of the plaint, claiming that the same was performed by him in addition to awarded work on the request of Executive Engineer of the Municipal Corporation. In the written statement, execution of additional works was denied for want of evidence on record of the Municipal Corporation.

6. Plaintiff in his examination-in-chief, filed in the Court by way of affidavit, re-iterated the pleadings with respect to the execution of additional work. In his cross-examination, nothing impeaching his veracity with respect to the said claim has been brought on record. Respondent/plaintiff has also examined PW-2 J.K. Mahendru to substantiate his claim, who has proved on record the assessment and photographs of the additional work done on spot by respondent/plaintiff. From the trend of cross-examination of the said witness, it is apparent that only thrust of appellant/defendant Municipal Corporation was on questioning existence of award/tender of additional work claimed to be performed by respondent/plaintiff, but not performance of that work.

7. PW-3 Ajeet Kumar examined by respondent/plaintiff in support of his claim was the concerned Junior Engineer of the appellant/defendant Municipal Corporation at the relevant point of time. In his statement, he has deposed that entire awarded work was completed by the respondent/plaintiff under his supervision and thereafter respondent/plaintiff had also performed additional works at the instance of Lalit Bhushan, the then Executive Engineer of the Municipal Corporation. He has endorsed the performance of works by respondent/plaintiff, as claimed in the plaint, by giving details thereof in his statement. He has further clarified that at the time of performance of the said works, Model Code of Conduct was in force due to elections and for that reason during that period neither tender could have been floated nor the works could have been awarded and further that for this reason measurement of this additional work was also not entered in books. He has also deposed that additional works are also got done through the contractors on the site in continuity of the awarded works and formalities, including assessment of the said works, are completed later on and he has asserted that respondent/plaintiff has completed the additional works on the spot. In his cross-examination also, lack of award of additional works has been pressed by the Municipal Corporation, but there is no suggestion in cross-examination, denying the execution of the additional works, as asserted by this witness in his examination-in-chief. PW-4 Sh. Amit Vaid is local resident of the area. He has also endorsed the execution of works on the spot.

8. Appellant/defendant-Municipal Corporation has examined only one witness DW-1 Sanjeev Dharma, Junior Engineer of Municipal Corporation. In his examination-in-chief he has deposed to the extent that no additional work was allotted to the respondent/plaintiff and additional work, claimed in plaint to have been done by him, was never awarded to him and for the awarded work, which was completed by the respondent/plaintiff, entire payment was made. However, not only in cross-examination, but in examination-in-chief also, he has categorically stated that he had never visited the spot. In his cross-examination he has further stated that it was only the concerned Junior Engineer who could have made the statement about the fact that as to whether additional work was performed on the spot or not.

9. From the above discussion, it is evident that there is ample evidence on record so as to establish that additional work was performed by the plaintiff. Not only this, the concerned official i.e. PW-3 Ajeet Kumar has categorically stated that the additional work was performed by respondent/plaintiff at the instance of the then Executive Engineer, Lalit Bhushan. Therefore, it cannot be said that additional work was done by respondent/plaintiff at his own. Otherwise also, the respondent/plaintiff was not going to be benefited in any manner by doing the additional work done, which was not awarded to him and by taking risk of investing money without award. There is specific allegation that the work was done at the instance of concerned Executive Engineer, but the Municipal Corporation has not come forward with the plea that no such work was ever asked to be performed by the said Executive Engineer nor the said Officer has been examined as a defence witness.

10. From above discussion, it is evident that plea of appellant that Courts below have committed illegality by decreeing the suit without having any proof or evidence on record of execution of additional work by the plaintiff, is not sustainable and the substantial question of law is decided accordingly against the appellant./defendant-Municipal Corporation.

Question No. 2.

11. The second substantial question of law is that the suit was bad for non-joinder of necessary parties. In the written statement, no objection was ever taken to that effect, nor it has been brought in the notice of the trial Court that who was the necessary party for proper and effective adjudication of the suit. However, in appeal, in ground No. 2, this issue was raised for the first time and in present second appeal in ground 6(f), it has been stated that respondent/plaintiff has failed to array the concerned officials/officers of the Corporation as party at whose instance the respondent executed the extra works. It is settled law of land that the ground, which has not been raised in the trial Court, is not available to the appellant in appeal, however, a legal question can be raised at any stage, including in appeal. But in case, this objection is considered even at this stage, then also the same is not sustainable. Each official/officer, under whose supervision work was done, is not necessary to be made a party to the suit, where the work was being performed by respondent/plaintiff for and on behalf of Municipal Corporation and amount is to be paid by Municipal Corporation and Municipal Corporation has been sued through Commissioner, which includes the entire official machinery of the Municipal Corporation. Municipal Corporation is responsible for omission and commission of its employees related to their performance during course of their employment. Such officer/official would have been necessary party in case the respondent/plaintiff would have set up a specific claim against them also, in their personal capacity, which is not a case in present lis. There is no non-joinder of necessary party as the suit can be and has been adjudicated and decided effectively and completely by the trial Court in presence of necessary parties to the suit. It is a dispute between plaintiff and defendant wherein claim has been put forth against defendant and none else. Therefore, point raised regarding non-joinder of necessary party is not sustainable. Therefore, substantial question of law No. 2 is also decided against the appellant/defendant.

12. In view of aforesaid discussion, appeal is dismissed, being devoid of any merits. Record be sent back.

Cases referred:

State of Uttar Pradesh vs. Manbodhan Lal Srivastava, AIR 1957 SC 912
Union of India and another vs. T.V. Patel, 2007(4) SCC 785

For the petitioner :	Mr. K.D. Shreedhar, Senior Advocate with Ms. Shreya Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondents:	Mr. Rajesh Kumar Sharma, Assistant Solicitor General of India, for respondents No. 1 to 3.
	Mr. Ashok Sharma, Advocate General with M/s Adarsh Sharma and Ritta Goswami, Additional Advocate Generals, for respondents No. 4 & 5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

V. Ramasubramanian, Chief Justice (Oral)

Aggrieved by the dismissal of his application by the Central Administrative Tribunal, challenging an order of penalty of reduction to the lowest stage in the time scale of pay till the date of retirement, an Officer of the All India Police Services, has come up with the above writ petition.

2. Heard Mr. K.D. Shreedhar, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Rajesh Kumar Sharma, learned Assistant Solicitor General of India for respondents No. 2 &

3 and Ms. Ritta Goswami, learned Additional Advocate General appearing for respondents No. 4 & 5.

3. The petitioner was selected and appointed to the Indian Police Services in the year 1988. On 11.06.2008, he was served with a charge-sheet, alleging that while he was working as Superintendent of Police, Mandi in the year 1994, he failed to take congnizance of an offence of rape allegedly committed by the Station House Officer, Sadar and also that he discouraged the prosecutrix from getting herself medically examined.

4. An enquiry followed, in which all but the 3rd charge, were held not proved. At this juncture, it will be useful to extract the five Articles of Charges framed against the petitioner, which read as follows:-

> "1. Whether he has discouraged Smt. Nirmala Devi from getting herself medically examined immediately?
>
> 2. Whether he failed to discharge his lawful duties and responsibilities as prescribed under Rule 16.38 of the PPR exercising proper control and supervision over subordinate?
>
> 3. Whether he failed to exercise his power under Section 36 of Cr.P.C.?
>
> 4. Whether he failed to comply with the provisions of Rule 3.3(1) of All India Service Conduct Rules?
> 5. Whether he had kept Smt. Nirmala Devi (prosecutrix) waiting outside his office on 19.9.1994 for about 3 hours upto 5 P.M.?"

5. The petitioner was held guilty of the 3rd Charge alone and Charges 1, 2, 4 & 5 were held not proved. After supplying a copy of the Enquiry Report and calling for his further representation, the Competent Authority, namely the 3rd respondent, took a provisional decision to impose a minor penalty of Censure. This was in view of the fact that even Charge No. 3 was held only partly proved and not fully proved.

6. The proposal of the 3rd respondent-State Government was forwarded to the Union Public Service Commission, which is the 2nd respondent herein, for their concurrence. The Union Public Service Commission disagreed with the proposed penalty and recommended the penalty of reduction to the lowest stage in the existing time scale of pay till the age of retirement. Accordingly, the punishment was imposed by the order dated 06.03.2010. The petitioner subsequently gotsuperannuated on 30th November, 2010.

7. Challenging the said penalty, the petitioner filed Original Application No. 235-HP of 2010 on the file of the Central Administrative Tribunal. The Tribunal dismissed the application on the ground that the Rules of Procedure had been followed and that there was also no violation of the principles of natural justice. Aggrieved by the said order, the petitioner has come up with the above writ petition.

8. It is relevant to note that the complaint of the lady, which formed the basis for disciplinary proceedings, resulted in a Criminal Case against the Station House Officer, Mandi. It also resulted in his conviction. When the matter was taken on appeal to the High Court, the High Court made certain observationsabout the failure on the part of the petitioner to discharge his duties as a Superior Officer. It was the said observation of the High Court that led to major penalty proceedings being initiated against the petitioner. This has perhaps weighedin the mind of the Central Administrative Tribunal in confirming the major penalty imposed upon the petitioner.

9. But *as*rightly pointedout by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner, Charges 1, 2, 4 & 5 are more grievous in nature than the 3rd Charge. The Enquiring Authority held these four Charges not proved. Neither the Disciplinary Authority nor even the Union Public Service Commission disagreed with the findings of the Enquiry Officer with respect to Charges 1, 2, 4 & 5. As an employer, the Government had the power and authority to disagree with the findings of the Enquiry Officer even in respect of Charges 1, 2, 4 & 5, but they did not do so. A look at the recommendations of the Union Public Service Commission would show that even the Union Public Service Commission did not come to a different conclusion with respect to Charges 1, 2, 4 & 5.

10. Once the findings of the Enquiry Officer with respect to more grievous Charges have been accepted by the employer and not even found fault by the Union Public Service Commission, then the only question to be considered was as to whether the penalty proposed was proportionate or disproportionate to the Charge held proved.

11. Let us now come to the findings of the Enquiry Officer with respect to Charge No. 3. The findings, extracted in the order of the Central Administrative Tribunal, read as follows:-

> "(c) As per the section 36 Cr.P.C. Police Officers superior in rank to an officer in charge of a police station may exercise the same powers throughout the local area to which they are appointed, as may be exercised by such officer within the limits of his station. The Charged Officer Shri O.C. Thakur, soon after hearing the complainant has taken immediate action by speaking to the Incharge, Police Post, Mandi on telephone and directed him to register a case as soon as the complainant reports at the police Post Mandi.
> However, nothing would have stopped the SP from taking recourse to Section 36 Cr.P.C. and register a case himself against the SHO Sadar, Mandi. Nevertheless he has taken all steps to ensure that the case is registered against the SHO and informed the DM requesting him to initiate action under 16.38 PPR."

12. Considering the gravity of the misconduct arising out of Charge No. 3, the Competent Authority, namely the 3rd respondent, chose only to impose a minor penalty of Censure. A look at the recommendations of the Union Public Service Commissioner would show that the Union Public Service Commission did not even examine the correctness of the conclusion reached by the State Government.

13. The recommendations made by the Union Public Service Commission by its letter dated 25.11.2009, comprises of six paragraphs. The second paragraph extracts the Charges against the petitioner. Sub paragraph (1) of paragraph 2 gives an indication of the statement of imputations of misconduct. The 3rd paragraph records as to what happened in the Enquiry. The 4th paragraph, which comprises of six sub-paragraphs, records the statements made by various witnesses in the course of the Enquiry, the conclusion reached, the observations of the High Court in the Criminal Appeal etc. The only portion of the recommendations of the Union Public Service Commission, where an independent analysis of the whole case could be found, are in Paragraphs 4.6 and 4 (after paragraph 4.6, the next paragraph has been numbered again as Paragraph 4, perhaps by typographical mistake). These two paragraphs, containing the recommendations dated 25.11.2009 of the Public Service Commission, read as follows:-

"4.6 The Commission have carefully examined the records of the case including court orders, the IO's report representations made by the MOS, DA's comments and other related documents to come to the conclusion that the MOS should have taken recourse to Section 36 Cr.P.C. and himself had registered a case against the accused SHO, PS, Mandi instead of directing the victim to the Police Post, Mandi. The MOS was obliged by the spirit of Section 36 Cr.PC to register a case and to this extent MOS is guilty of component-3 of the Article of charge.

4. In the light of the observations and findings as discussed above and after taking into account all other relevant aspects of the case, the Commission consider that the ends of justice would be met in this case if the penalty of reduction to the lowest stage in the existing time scale of pay till the date of his retirement is imposed on the MOS, Shri O.C. Thakur. They advise accordingly."

14. A careful look at the portion of the recommendations of the Union Public Service Commission, extracted above, would show that after concurring with the findings of the Enquiry Officer that Charge No. 3 stood proved, the Union Public Service Commission suddenly jumped to the conclusion in Paragraph No. 4 that a penalty of reduction to the lowest stage in the time scale of pay till the date of retirement had to be imposed. There is no whisper in the entire recommendations of the Union Public Service Commission as to how the decision of the Competent Authority, namely the 3rd respondent, to impose the penalty of Censure was vitiated.

15. The Union Public Service Commission did not come to the conclusion that the gravity of Charge No. 3 held proved against the petitioner was such that it warranted the penalty recommended by them.Therefore, it is clear that instead of acting as an Advisory Authority, the Union Public Service Commission donnedtherole of the Original Authority to independently come to the conclusion. This is not what the Union Public Service Commission is called upon to do.

16. On the role of the Union Public Service Commission, it was pointed out by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India and another versus T.V. Patel, reported in 2007(4) SCC 785 that the role given to the Public Service Commission under sub Clause (c) of Clause (3) of Article 320 of the Constitution, was to provide advice to the Government. The question as to whether the consultation with the Commission under Article 320 (3) (c) was mandatory or not and the question whether it is binding or not, fell for consideration before a Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh versus Manbodhan Lal Srivastava, reported inAIR 1957 SC 912. The Court indicated that if the provisions of Article 320 were of a mandatory character, the Constitution would not have left it to the discretion of the Head of the Executive Government to accept or not to accept the advice of the Commission.

17. Therefore, the role of the Union Public Service Commission is to find out whether the conclusion reached by the Competent Authority was fair, arbitrary or unjust and to tender necessary advice. The Union Public Service Commission cannot independently come to a different conclusion as though, they have the role of the Disciplinary Authority. In this case, the Union Public Service Commission did not consider either the question of proportionality or the question as to whether the Competent Authority was justified in reaching the conclusion to impose the minor penalty of Censure.

18. It is true that while dealing with Criminal Appeal No. 393/2003, a Bench of this Court directed major penalty proceedings to be initiated against the petitioner. But it does not necessarily mean that either a penalty should invariably be imposedor a major penalty alone should be imposed. The direction issued by this Court in Criminal Appeal No. 393/2003 to initiate major penalty proceedings against the petitioner cannot be taken to be a finding of guilt. If the same is taken to be a finding of guilty, there is no necessity to hold disciplinary proceedings at all. Therefore, the directions issued by this Court while dealing with the Criminal Appeal will not prevent us from independently examining the outcome of the enquiry.

19. In the course of the enquiry, the Enquiry Officer found Charges 1, 2, 4 & 5 not proved. The Disciplinary Authority accepted the findings. Even the Union Public Service Commission did not find fault with the findings of 'not proved' with respect to Charges 1, 2, 4 & 5. Therefore, we are of the considered view that the imposition of the penalty of reduction to the lowest stage in the existing time scale of pay was grossly disproportionate to the only Charge held proved against the petitioner.

20. The Administrative Tribunal, in its order dated 10.12.2010, merely considered the question of violation of principles of natural justice and the adherence to the Rules of Procedure. In fact, the petitioner did not and could not challenge the penalty of Censure. His challenge before the Tribunal was the imposition of the penalty recommended by the Union Public Service Commission, on the ground that it was disproportionate. On this aspect, the Tribunal did not dwell deep upon. Therefore, the order of the Tribunal calls for interference.

21. An important aspect, that has been lost sight of both by the Government and by the Central Administrative Tribunal, is that under Fundamental Rule 29(1), the Authority ordering reduction to a lower stage in the time scale of pay of a Government servant, as a measure of penalty, should actually state the period for which it shall be effective and whether on the restoration, it will operate to postpone future increments and if so, to what extent. F.R 29(1) reads as follows:

> "F.R. 29.(1) If a Government servant is reduced as a measure of penalty to a lower stage in his time-scale, the authority ordering such reduction shall state the period for which it shall be effective and whether, on restoration, the period of reduction shall operate to postpone future increments and, if so, to what extent."

22. In this case, the order of penalty is dated 06.03.2010. The petitioner retired on reaching the age of superannuation on 30.11.2010. The date, on which his increment was to fall due, was not even noted in the order dated 06.03.2010. Interestingly, the recommendation made by the Public Service Commission is dated 25.11.2009. In the recommendation itself, the UPSC recommended the penalty of reduction to the lowest stage in the time scale of pay till the date of his retirement. On the date on which the UPSC made its recommendation, namely 25.11.2009, the petitioner was left with service for a full period of one year up to 30.11.2010. Therefore, if the intention of the UPSC and that of the State Government was to impose the penalty operative for a period of one year, they must have specified as to what should happen after completion of the period of one year. A penalty of this nature imposed at a time coinciding with the date of retirement of a Government servant, would actually impact the retirement benefits and the pensionary benefits of a Government servant. Therefore, such an impact should have been taken note of by the respondents before passing the orders.

23. Way back in the year 1970, the Government of India issued clarifications on the purport of F.R 29(1) in D.G., P. & T., Letter No. 6/8/70-Disc. 1, dated the 16th December, 1970. The first part of the aforesaid letter, which is found in Swamy's Compilation of FRSR reads as follows:

> "(2) Reduction to a lower stage in time-scale.- Doubts have been expressed in regard to the exact interpretation of sub-rule (1) of FR 29. The same are clarified as follows:-
>
> (a) Every order passed by a competent authority imposing on a Government servant the penalty of reduction to a lower stage in a time-scale should indicate-
>
> (i) the date from which it will take effect and the period (in terms of years and months) for which the penalty shall be operated;
>
> (ii) the stage in the time-scale (in terms of rupees) to which the Government servant is reduced; and
>
> (iii) the extent (in terms of years and months), if any, to which the period referred to at (i) above should operate to postpone future increments.
> It should be noted that reduction to a lower stage in a time-scale is not permissible under the rules either for an unspecified period or as a permanent measure. Also when a Government servant is reduced to a particular stage, his pay will remain constant at that stage for entire period of reduction. The period to be specified under (iii) should in no case exceed the period specified under (i)".

24. It is clear from the above that reduction to a lower stage in a time scale of pay is not permissible either for an unspecified period of time or as a permanent measure. Reduction in the time scale of pay up to the date of retirement is actually a permanent measure.

25. Under the All India Services (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1969, a person belonging to the service may be imposed with a penalty of reduction to a lower stage in the time scale of pay for a specified period. Rule 6(1)(v) of the All India Services (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1969 shows that reduction to a lower stage in the time scale of pay should only be for a specified period with a further direction as to whether or not, members of the service will earn increments during the period of reduction and whether on the expiry of such period, the reduction will or will not have the effect of postponing future increments of his pay. Therefore, a simple order of reduction to lower stage in the time scale of pay until the date of retirement, without considering the impact of such reduction either upon the future increments or upon the pensionary benefits, is not permissible. Even this aspect was not taken into account by the respondents. Therefore, the impugned order of penalty is liable to be set aside.

26. We must also record the fact that the recommendations of the Union Public Service Commission were made on 25.11.2009. The order of penalty pursuant to the recommendations of the Union Public Service Commission was made on 06.03.2010 and the petitioner reached the age of superannuation on 30.11.2010. Therefore, after having completed his tenure in the higher post and towards the end of his career, this penalty of reduction to the lowest stage in the time scale of pay came to be issued.

27. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed and the impugned order dated 10.12.2010 (Annexure P-17) of the Central Administrative Tribunal is set aside. The application filed by the petitioner in OA No. 235-HP of 2010 shall stand allowed and the order of penalty dated 06.03.2010 (Ext. P-9) is also set aside. The Competent Authority shall recalculate the difference in salary payable to the petitioner, on account of the impugned order being set aside. The Competent Authority shall also recalculate the terminal and the pensionary benefits payable as a result of this order and shall disburse all the benefits within three months from the date of receipt of a copy of this order.

28. Pending application(s), if any, also stand disposed of.

Gaurav Kumar alias Monu vs. State of Haryana, (2019) 4 SCC 549
Rajeshwar Prasad Misra vs. The State of West Bengal and another, AIR 1965 SC 1887

For the Petitioner: Mr.Sandeep Chauhan, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr.Sushant Vir Singh, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur, Judge

This petition has been preferred against the impugned order dated 26.5.2018 passed by learned Sessions Judge Sirmour at Nahan in Criminal Appeal No. 47-CR.A/10 of 2017, titled Gurbachan Singh Vs. Himachal Pradesh State Co-operative Bank, preferred by petitioner against his conviction under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, whereby an application, filed on behalf of petitioner/accused under Section 391 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (herein after referred to as the "Cr.P.C." in short), seeking permission to lead additional evidence in appeal, has been dismissed by the Appellate Court.

2. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the record of the Courts below.

3. Impugned order has been assailed mainly on the ground that the petitioner has taken a specific defence plea during trial that impugned cheque was not issued by him in favour of respondent-Bank, as the petitioner had already mortgaged his landed property in favour of bank against house loan availed by the petitioner/accused from the bank, regarding which entries have also been made in the revenue record and further that cheque in question does not bear his signatures and counsel for the petitioner, despite instructions of the petitioner, had failed to take steps to examine the official witness before the trial Court and further that examination of witnesses related to record is material to prove the innocence of the petitioner and is necessary for effective and proper adjudication of the case, as cheque in question was without consideration and could not have made basis for conviction. It is also contended by learned counsel for the petitioner/accused that cheque book, wherefrom the cheque in question has been alleged to have been issued, was never received by the petitioner/accused from the bank, as the petitioner/accused had never requested for issuance of cheque book in his favour and therefore, in order to prove this fact, additional evidence proposed to be lead in appeal, is necessary for doing the complete justice.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner, in support of prayer for allowing the prayer of the petitioner/accused for permission to lead additional evidence, has put reliance on the judgments of Apex Court, reported in Rajeshwar Prasad Misra Vs. The State of West Bengal and another, AIR 1965 SC 1887, Abdul Latif and others Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, (1978) 1 SCC 466, Brig. Sukhjeet Singh (Retd.) MVC Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh and others 2019(2) Scale, 104 and Gaurav Kumar alias Monu Vs. State of Haryana (2019) 4 SCC 549.

5. Learned counsel for the respondent-Bank has supported the impugned order, for the reasons assigned therein and has prayed for dismissal of the petition.

6. Perusal of record reveals that respondent-Bank had filed a complaint under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act against the petitioner for dishonor of cheque issued for Rs.2,81,000/- by the petitioner/accused against his outstanding liability for repayment of house loan availed by him from respondent-Bank. Evidence of respondent-bank was completed on 6.12.2016, whereafter case was listed on 7.12.2016 for presence and recording petitioner's statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C, but he did not attend the Court on 7.12.2016 and 19.12.2016 and statement of petitioner under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded on 29.12.2016, wherein he had expressed his intention to lead evidence in defence. Accordingly, case was fixed on 24.1.2017 for examination of defence witnesses. However, not only the petitioner did not take steps for examination of defence witnesses for 24.1.2017, but also for dates fixed subsequent thereto i.e. on 23.2.2017, 21.3.2017 and 29.3.2017. On failure to produce defence witnesses on 21.3.2017, last opportunity, for examination of defence witnesses on 29.3.2017, was granted. But on 29.3.2017 also no defence witness was present. Thereafter for non production of evidence despite grant of ample opportunity, the right to lead evidence in defence was struck off on 29.3.2017 and after hearing arguments, ultimately petitioner was convicted vide judgment dated 31.3.2017, but on that date, he was not present and his personal appearance in the Court was exempted on his application, whereafter he was directed to be present for hearing on quantum of sentence on 6.4.2017, but he did not appear on 6.4.2017, 25.5.2017 and lastly on his appearance on 7.6.2017 sentence was announced.

7. Against the impugned judgment dated 7.6.2017 passed by the trial Court, petitioner has preferred an appeal on 5.7.2017 and when appeal, after receiving the record of trial Court, was listed for arguments on 3.11.2017, an application under Section 391

Cr.P.C. for leading additional evidence was filed by petitioner, which has been dismissed by learned Sessions Judge by passing impugned order dated 26.5.2018.

8. In *Rajeshwar Prasad Misra's case supra*the Apex Court has held that the Cr.P.C. gives power to the Appellate Court to take additional evidence, which, for the reasons to be recorded, it considers necessary and the Cr.P.C. gives wide discretion to the Appellate Court to deal appropriately with different cases, but for that again failure of justice is a condition precedent. The Apex Court has further clarified that additional evidence must be necessary, not because it would be impossible to pronounce judgment, but there would be failure of justice without it and thus power must be exercised sparingly and only in suitable cases and additional evidence must not ordinarily be permitted if the party has had a fair opportunity, but has not availed of it, unless the requirement of justice dictates otherwise.

9. In Abdul Latif's case supra, the Apex Court has re-iterated that additional evidence ought to be lead must serve useful purpose for arriving at just decision of the case.

10. Referring Rajeshwar Prasad Mishra's case (supra), the Apex Court in Rambha's case (surpa), has held that Section 391 forms an exception to the general rule that an appeal must be decided on the evidence which was before the trial Court and the power, being an exception, shall always have to be exercised with caution and circumspection, so as to meet the ends of justice and this power is not to fill up the lacuna, but to subserve the ends of justice. The Apex Court also held that a very wide discretion in the matter of obtaining additional evidence is available to the Court in terms of Section 391 of Cr.P.C, but additional evidence also cannot and ought not to be received in such a way so as to cause any prejudice to the accused and the order must not ordinarily be made if the prosecution has had a fair opportunity, but has not availed of it. The same principle is applicable in case of application filed by accused.

11. Referring Rambhau's case, the Apex Court in *Zahira Habibulla H. Sheikh's case,*has re-iterated that object of Section 391 Cr.P.C. is not to fill in the lacuna, but to subserve the ends of justice and Court considering the salutary principles shall also keep in view that the wide discretion conferred on the Court has to be exercised judiciously, as the legislature has put safety valve by requiring recording of reasons. It is further observed that Section 391 Cr.P.C. is in the nature of exception to Section 386 Cr.P.C. and the necessity for additional evidence arises when the Court feels that some evidence which ought to have been before it, is not before it or that some evidence has been left out or erroneously brought in and in all cases, it could not be laid down as a rule of universal application, that the court has to first find out whether the evidence already on record is sufficient and the nature and quality of the evidence on record is also relevant and this provision is a salutary provision which clothes the Court with power to decide an appeal effectively and being an exception to general rule, it must also be exercised with great care in consonance with the legislature intent for enacting Section 391 Cr.P.C. which empowers the Appellate Court to ensure that justice is done between the parties.

12. After considering its earlier pronouncements in Rajeshwar Prasad Mishra and Rambhau's cases, the Apex Court in Brig. Sukhjeet Singh (Retd) MVC's case, has again re-iterated that there are no fetters on the power under Section 391 Cr.P.C. of the Appellate Court and that all powers are conferred on the Court to secure ends of justice and ultimate object of judicial administration is to secure ends of justice and the Courts exists for rendering justice to the people.

13. Judgment in Gaurav Kumar's case in my considered opinion, is not applicable in present case, as in the given facts and circumstances of the case, it only permits the documents to be taken on record, which were sought to be submitted before the High Court. There is no discussion in this judgment with regard to the provisions of Section 391 Cr.P.C. or the purpose governing taking of additional evidence in a case at appellate stage invoking the provisions of Section 391 Cr.P.C.

14. From the provisions of Section 391 Cr.P.C. and ratio of law laid down by the Apex Court, it emerges that Section 391(1) Cr.P.C. empowers the Appellate Court, dealing with any appeal under Chapter XXIX of Cr.P.C. either to take evidence itself or direct it to be taken by the Courts subordinate to it, but after recording the reasons, if it thinks that additional evidence is necessary. Undoubtedly, the Courts are there for dispensation of justice and necessary reasons for taking additional evidence at appellate stage must be in the interest of justice and for a just and proper decision of the Appellate Court, as not only the primary, but sole purpose of judicial machinery, is to impart justice. Therefore, provisions of this Section should be invoked only for the ends of justice and not for any other reason. This Section is also not intended to remedy the negligence or laches of the party. It is also settled that though power is unfettered, but the recourse to exercise of these powers are not to be made ordinarily in a situation where either of the parties did not avail the opportunity to adduce evidence and accused should not be allowed to adduce the defence evidence at appellate stage, where he has failed to adduce the evidence despite granting of several opportunities. Appellate Court should not admit additional evidence where the party had opportunity to file the same before the trial Court, unless the requirement of justice dictates otherwise.

15. In present case, in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on 29.12.2016, petitioner/accused had expressed his desire to lead evidence in defence and for the said purpose case was listed on 24.1.2017, but as noticed supra, petitioner/accused did not take any steps for leading evidence in defence on 24.1.2017 and also on subsequent dates i.e. on 23.2.2017, 21.3.2017 and 29.3.2017 and ultimately on 29.3.2017, his right to lead evidence in defence was stuck off by the order of the trial Court. Thus, it is evident from the record that despite grant of ample opportunities by the trial Court to the petitioner/accused to lead evidence in defence, he had failed to adduce the evidence.

16. It is also a fact that not only after recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., petitioner/accused did not produce any evidence in defence, but also after conclusion of arguments, he did not appear on subsequent dates i.e. 31.3.2017, 6.4.2017 and 25.5.2017, fixed for determination of quantum of sentence. This conduct of the petitioner/accused establishes that he was very keen for lingering the conclusion of trial.

17. By filing application under Section 391 Cr.P.C. petitioner/accused has sought permission to lead additional evidence by examining the Manager/Clerk of the respondent-Bank of concerned Branch along with record of certified copy of account opening form, specimen signatures of the petitioner/accused, saving bank account No. 7212 and also certified copy of mortgage deed executed by petitioner/accused in favour of respondent-Bank. Evidence, sought to be produced now in appeal, was very much in existence during the trial and the petitioner/accused was well aware of the same, but except disputing the issuance of cheque/cheque book and his signatures on the cheque in question verbally, petitioner/accused had not made any endavour to substantiate his version by leading evidence on record, despite existence of the provision of reserve onus under Section 139 of Negotiable Instruments Act.

18. In present case debt liability of petitioner/accused towards respondent-Bank, is an admitted case, as it is no where disputed that petitioner did not owe the amount for repayment of house loan to the respondent-Bank and also it is not in dispute that on the date on which the cheque is stated to have been issued, the amount filled therein was not outstanding against petitioner/accused. Rather plea was taken that when the land of the petitioner was lying mortgaged with the respondent-Bank, neither there was any occasion to the petitioner/accused to issue cheque nor the bank had right to obtain such cheque from the petitioner/accused for recovering the outstanding loan amount, despite the fact that there was default in repayment on the part of petitioner/accused, but respondent-Bank would have resorted to recover its amount by other modes available with it including by selling the land of the petitioner/accused mortgaged with the Bank. Petitioner/accused has disputed his signatures on the cheque, but neither during the trial nor in the application filed under Section 391 Cr.P.C., he has prayed for sending his admitted signatures or handwriting, to Handwriting Expert to have its comparison with the signatures on the cheque, rather he is intending to call for the old record of the Bank, which may or may not be available in the bank after such a long time. It is also not in dispute that account, wherein sufficient funds were not available for honouring the cheque, belonged to petitioner/accused and genuineness and liability of the amount for which cheque was issued is also not in dispute. Loan was availed by the petitioner/accused from the respondent-Bank in the year 2013 and failed to make regular payment of loan amount. Thereafter in last week of June, 2015, on approaching by the Bank Officials for re-payment, petitioner/accused had issued the cheque bearing No.104103 dated 15.7.2015, for repayment of outstanding loan liability. It is not a case where the debt or the liability of the petitioner/accused is in dispute. Debt or liability of the petitioner/accused is with regard to the loan availed by him from the State Co-operative Bank, therefore, the petitioner/accused is enjoying the benefits of public money, but without making its repayment and instead of making attempt to discharge his liability, he is asking the Bank for adopting a long cumbersome exercise to recover its debt by selling land mortgaged with the Bank. Where banker has two options to recover the amount the option to be exercised is to be decided by the banker. The loanee cannot dictate terms to the banker for adopting a particular path for recovery of loan amount.

19. In view of aforesaid discussion, I am of the considered opinion that allowing the application filed for additional evidence by the petitioner/accused would have defeated the interest of justice. When the petitioner/accused was having knowledge of documents during trial, then, unless prevented by sufficient plausible cause, he ought to have called these documents to produce in evidence before trial Court. Now at this stage, and also for discussion herein above, he is not entitled for leading additional evidence, particularly, when he made no efforts to adduce evidence during trial. Learned Sessions Judge has adopted the right course for the ends of justice and therefore, I find no irregularity, illegality and perversity in the impugned order, therefore, the same is affirmed. The petition is dismissed in aforesaid terms.

Vivek Singh Thakur, Judge

This petition has been preferred against the impugned order dated 26.5.2018 passed by learned Sessions Judge Sirmour at Nahan in Criminal Appeal No. 48-CRA/10 of 2017, titled Jagdeep Kumar Vs. Himachal Pradesh State Co-operative Bank, preferred by petitioner against his conviction under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, whereby an application, filed on behalf of petitioner/accused under Section 391 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (herein after referred to as the "Cr.P.C." in short), seeking permission to lead additional evidence in appeal, has been dismissed by the Appellate Court.

2. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the record of the Courts below.

3. Impugned order has been assailed mainly on the ground that the petitioner has taken a specific defence plea during trial that impugned cheque was not issued by him in favour of respondent-Bank, as the petitioner had already mortgaged his landed property in favour of bank against house loan availed by the petitioner/accused from the bank, regarding which entries have also been made in the revenue record and further that cheque in question does not bear his signatures and counsel for the petitioner, despite instructions of the petitioner, had failed to take steps to examine the official witness before the trial Court and further that examination of witnesses related to record is material to prove the innocence of the petitioner and is necessary for effective and proper adjudication of the case, as cheque in question was without consideration and could not have made basis for conviction. It is also contended by learned counsel for the petitioner/accused that cheque book, wherefrom the cheque in question has been alleged to have been issued, was never received by the petitioner/accused from the bank, as the petitioner/accused had never requested for issuance of cheque book in his favour and therefore, in order to prove this fact, additional evidence proposed to be lead in appeal, is necessary for doing the complete justice.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner, in support of prayer for allowing the prayer of the petitioner/accused for permission to lead additional evidence, has put reliance on the judgments of Apex Court, reported in Rajeshwar Prasad Misra Vs. The State of West Bengal and another, AIR 1965 SC 1887, Abdul Latif and others Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, (1978) 1 SCC 466, Brig. Sukhjeet Singh (Retd.) MVC Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh and others 2019(2) Scale, 104 and Gaurav Kumar alias Monu Vs. State of Haryana (2019) 4 SCC 549.

5. Learned counsel for the respondent-Bank has supported the impugned order, for the reasons assigned therein and has prayed for dismissal of the petition.

6. Perusal of record reveals that respondent-Bank had filed a complaint under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act against the petitioner for dishonor of cheque issued for `9,47,000/- by the petitioner/accused against his outstanding liability for repayment of house loan availed by him from respondent-Bank. Evidence of respondent-bank was completed on 4.3.2016, whereafter statement of petitioner under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded on 23.3.2016, wherein he had expressed his intention to lead evidence in defence. Accordingly, case was fixed on 31.5.2016 for examination of defence witnesses. However, not only the petitioner did not take steps for examination of defence witnesses, but also did not attend the Court on 31.5.2016, whereupon non bailable warrants returnable for 21.6.2016 were issued for securing his presence and ultimately petitioner/accused appeared in the Court on 29.9.2016 with an application for cancellation of non bailable warrants, which was accepted and case was again listed for examination of defence witnesses on self responsibility on 21.10.2016. On failure to produce defence witnesses on 21.10.2016, last opportunity, for examination of defence witnesses on 21.11.2016, was granted. But on 21.11.2016 also no defence witness was present. However, one more opportunity by way of 'exceptional last opportunity' was granted to the petitioner/accused to produce his evidence on 19.12.2016. Thereafter for non production of evidence despite grant of ample opportunity, the right to lead evidence in defence was struck off on 19.12.2016 and after hearing arguments, ultimately petitioner was convicted vide judgment dated 28.1.2017, but on that date, he was not present and his personal appearance in the Court was exempted on his application, whereafter he was directed to be present for hearing on quantum of sentence on 25.2.2017, but he did not appear on 25.2.2017, 29.3.2017, 28.4.2017, 26.5.2017 and lastly on his appearance on 7.6.2017 sentence was announced.

7. Against the impugned judgment dated 7.6.2017 passed by the trial Court, petitioner has preferred an appeal on 5.7.2017 and when appeal, after receiving the record of trial Court, was listed for arguments on 3.11.2017, an application under Section 391 Cr.P.C. for leading additional evidence was filed by petitioner, which has been dismissed by learned Sessions Judge by passing impugned order dated 26.5.2018.

8. In *Rajeshwar Prasad Misra's case supra*the Apex Court has held that the Cr.P.C. gives power to the Appellate Court to take additional evidence, which, for the reasons to be recorded, it considers necessary and the Cr.P.C. gives wide discretion to the Appellate Court to deal appropriately with different cases, but for that again failure of justice is a condition precedent. The Apex Court has further clarified that additional evidence must be necessary, not because it would be impossible to pronounce judgment, but there would be failure of justice without it and thus power must be exercised sparingly and only in suitable cases and additional evidence must not ordinarily be permitted if the party has had a fair opportunity, but has not availed of it, unless the requirement of justice dictates otherwise.

9. In Abdul Latif's case supra, the Apex Court has re-iterated that additional evidence ought to be lead must serve useful purpose for arriving at just decision of the case.

10. Referring Rajeshwar Prasad Mishra's case (supra), the Apex Court in Rambha's case (surpa), has held that Section 391 forms an exception to the general rule that an appeal must be decided on the evidence which was before the trial Court and the power, being an exception, shall always have to be exercised with caution and circumspection, so as to meet the ends of justice and this power is not to fill up the lacuna, but to subserve the ends of justice. The Apex Court also held that a very wide discretion in the matter of obtaining additional evidence is available to the Court in terms of Section 391 of Cr.P.C, but additional evidence also cannot and ought not to be received in such a way so as to cause any prejudice to the accused and the order must not ordinarily be made if the prosecution has had a fair opportunity, but has not availed of it. The same principle is applicable in case of application filed by accused.

11. Referring Rambhau's case, the Apex Court in *Zahira Habibulla H. Sheikh's case,*has re-iterated that object of Section 391 Cr.P.C. is not to fill in the lacuna, but to subserve the ends of justice and Court considering the salutary principles shall also keep in view that the wide discretion conferred on the Court has to be exercised judiciously, as the legislature has put safety valve by requiring recording of reasons. It is further observed that Section 391 Cr.P.C. is in the nature of exception to Section 386 Cr.P.C. and the necessity for additional evidence arises when the Court feels that some evidence which ought to have been before it, is not before it or that some evidence has been left out or erroneously brought in and in all cases, it could not be laid down as a rule of universal application, that the court has to first find out whether the evidence already on record is sufficient and the nature and quality of the evidence on record is also relevant and this provision is a salutary provision which clothes the Court with power to decide an appeal effectively and being an exception to general rule, it must also be exercised with great care in consonance with the legislature intent for enacting Section 391 Cr.P.C. which empowers the Appellate Court to ensure that justice is done between the parties.

12. After considering its earlier pronouncements in Rajeshwar Prasad Mishra and Rambhau's cases, the Apex Court in Brig. Sukhjeet Singh (Retd) MVC's case, has again re-iterated that there are no fetters on the power under Section 391 Cr.P.C. of the Appellate Court and that all powers are conferred on the Court to secure ends of justice and ultimate object of judicial administration is to secure ends of justice and the Courts exists for rendering justice to the people.

13. Judgment in Gaurav Kumar's case in my considered opinion, is not applicable in present case, as in the given facts and circumstances of the case, it only permits the documents to be taken on record, which were sought to be submitted before the High Court. There is no discussion in this judgment with regard to the provisions of Section 391 Cr.P.C. or the purpose governing taking of additional evidence in a case at appellate stage invoking the provisions of Section 391 Cr.P.C.

14. From the provisions of Section 391 Cr.P.C. and ratio of law laid down by the Apex Court, it emerges that Section 391(1) Cr.P.C. empowers the Appellate Court, dealing with any appeal under Chapter XXIX of Cr.P.C. either to take evidence itself or direct it to be taken by the Courts subordinate to it, but after recording the reasons, if it thinks that additional evidence is necessary. Undoubtedly, the Courts are there for dispensation of justice and necessary reasons for taking additional evidence at appellate stage must be in the interest of justice and for a just and proper decision of the Appellate Court, as not only the primary, but sole purpose of judicial machinery, is to impart justice. Therefore, provisions of this Section should be invoked only for the ends of justice and not for any other reason. This Section is also not intended to remedy the negligence or laches of the party. It is also settled that though power is unfettered, but the recourse to exercise of these powers are not to be made ordinarily in a situation where either of the parties did not avail the opportunity to adduce evidence and accused should not be allowed to adduce the defence evidence at appellate stage, where he has failed to adduce the evidence despite granting of several opportunities. Appellate Court should not admit additional evidence where the party had opportunity to file the same before the trial Court, unless the requirement of justice dictates otherwise.

15. In present case, in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on 23.3.2016, petitioner/accused had expressed his desire to lead evidence in defence and for the said purpose case was listed on 31.5.2016, but as noticed supra, petitioner/accused neither took any steps for leading evidence in defence nor attended the Court on the date fixed, which lead to issuance of non bailable warrants against him for his presence. After cancellation of non bailabe warrants on 29.9.2016, on listing the case for defence witnesses on 21.10.2016, 21.11.2016 and 19.12.2016, petitioner/accused did not lead any defence evidence and ultimately on 19.12.2016, his right to lead evidence in defence was stuck off by the order of the trial Court. Thus, it is evident from the record that despite grant of ample opportunities by the trial Court to the petitioner/accused to lead evidence in defence, he had failed to adduce the evidence.

16. It is also a fact that not only after recording of statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., petitioner/accused remained absent and did not produce any evidence in defence, but also after conclusion of arguments, he did not appear on subsequent dates i.e. date fixed for announcing the order and on numerous subsequent dates thereafter, i.e. 25.2.2017, 21.3.2017, 28.4.2017 and 26.5.2017, fixed for determination of quantum of sentence. This conduct of the petitioner/accused establishes that he was very keen for lingering the conclusion of trial.

17. By filing application under Section 391 Cr.P.C. petitioner/accused has sought permission to lead additional evidence by examining the Manager/Clerk of the respondent-Bank of concerned Branch along with record of certified copy of account opening form, specimen signatures of the petitioner/accused, saving bank account No. 652 and also certified copy of mortgage deed executed by petitioner/accused in favour of respondent-Bank. Evidence, sought to be produced now in appeal, was very much in existence during the trial and the petitioner/accused was well aware of the same, but except disputing the issuance of cheque/cheque book and his signatures on the cheque in question verbally, petitioner/accused had not made any endavour to substantiate his version by leading evidence on record, despite existence of the provision of reserve onus under Section 139 of Negotiable Instruments Act.

18. In present case debt liability of petitioner/accused towards respondent-Bank, is an admitted case, as it is no where disputed that petitioner did not owe the amount for repayment of house loan to the respondent-Bank and also it is not in dispute that on the date on which the cheque is stated to have been issued, the amount filled therein was not outstanding against petitioner/accused. Rather plea was taken that when the land of the petitioner was lying mortgaged with the respondent-Bank, neither there was any occasion to the petitioner/accused to issue cheque nor the bank had right to obtain such cheque from the petitioner/accused for recovering the outstanding loan amount, despite the fact that there was default in repayment on the part of petitioner/accused, but respondent-Bank would have resorted to recover its amount by other modes available with it including by selling the land of the petitioner/accused mortgaged with the Bank. Petitioner/accused has disputed his signatures on the cheque, but neither during the trial nor in the application filed under Section 391 Cr.P.C., he has prayed for sending his admitted signatures or handwriting, to Handwriting Expert to have its comparison with the signatures on the cheque, rather he is intending to call for the old record of the Bank, which may or may not be available in the bank after such a long time. It is also not in dispute that account, wherein sufficient funds were not available for honouring the cheque, belonged to petitioner/accused and genuineness and liability of the amount for which cheque was issued is also not in dispute. Loan was availed by the petitioner/accused from the respondent-Bank in the year 2007 and the last installment of repayment was made by the petitioner/accused on 22.6.2010. Thereafter in the Month of November, 2014 on approaching by the Bank Officials for re-payment, petitioner/accused had issued the cheque bearing No.281951 dated 3.11.2014 for repayment of outstanding loan liability. It is not a case where the debt or the liability of the petitioner/accused is in dispute. Debt or liability of the petitioner/accused is with regard to the loan availed by him from the State Co-operative Bank, therefore, the petitioner/accused is enjoying the benefits of public money, but without making its repayment and instead of making attempt to discharge his liability, he is asking the Bank for adopting a long cumbersome exercise to recover its debt by selling land mortgaged with the Bank. Where banker has two options to recover the amount the option to be exercised is to be decided by the banker. The loanee cannot dictate terms to the banker for adopting a particular path for recovery of loan amount.

19. In view of aforesaid discussion, I am of the considered opinion that allowing the application filed for additional evidence by the petitioner/accused would have defeated the interest of justice. When the petitioner/accused was having knowledge of documents during trial, then, unless prevent by sufficient plausible cause, he ought to have called these documents to produce in evidence before trial Court. Now at this stage, and also for discussion herein above, he is not entitled for leading additional evidence, particularly, when he made no efforts to adduce evidence during trial. Learned Sessions Judge has adopted the right course for the ends of justice and therefore, I find no irregularity, illegality and perversity in the impugned order, therefore, the same is affirmed. The petition is dismissed in aforesaid terms.

Kunal Brahma ....Petitioner.
Versus
The Board of Trustees of IRMT & others ....Respondents.

CWP No.2680 of 2015.
Judgment reserved on : 04.07.2019.
Date of decision: 09.07.2019.

Constitution of India, 1950- Articles 14 & 16– Contractual employee– Termination of service – Challenge thereto- Writ seeking reinstatement and regularization– Maintainability- Held, appointment of petitioner was purely on contractual basis on a non-statutory basis - No scheme of or representation by respondents that petitioner would continue or his service would be regularized - He accepted his appointment with his eyes wide open – Order of respondents terminating service of petitioner on account of financial crunch faced by respondents not unreasonable, unfair or irrational- Petition dismissed. (Paras 5, 7, 10 & 17)

Case referred:
Gridco Ltd. & Another vs. Sadananda Doloi & Ors, AIR 2012 SC 729

For the Petitioner : Mr. B.N. Mehta, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr.Vinod Thakur, Addl. A.G with Mr. Bhupinder Thakur, Dy. A.G and Mr. Ram Lal Thakur, Asstt. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

Aggrieved by his termination, the petitioner has filed the instant writ petition for the following reliefs:-

> "(i) That the petitioner in the facts and circumstances prays that annexure P/4, dated 02.03.2015 may be set aside and quashed and the direction may please be issued to re-instate the petitioner in active service in the interest of law and justice with all consequential benefits.
>
> (ii) That the respondents may also be directed to pay to the petitioner special compensation of Rs.20 lacs on account of leave salary encashment and payment of gratuity.
>
> (iii) The respondents may also be directed to pay due salary of the petitioner w.e.f. February 2015.
> (iv) That the respondent No.1 may be directed to appoint the petitioner and Dr. Madhaik as Director of the trust in view of the contribution of the petitioner and Dr. Madhaik in the Herbal research."

2. The petitioner was appointed as an Administrator with the respondent-Trust purely on contractual basis for a period of one year on monthly salary of Rs.15,000/-. However, he continued to serve the respondents up till 01.03.2015 when his services came to be terminated vide order dated 02.03.2015 (Annexure P-4).

3. It is averred that the order of termination is highly illegal and violative of Articles 14, 16, 19 and 21 of the Constitution of India and that the petitioner has been rendered pauper at the age of 56 years for no fault on his part. It is further averred that the State of Himachal Pradesh is regularizing the services of the daily wagers and contract employees on completion of 7 years and, therefore, the services of the petitioner should have been regularized, rather than being terminating.

4. The respondents opposed the petition by filing reply wherein it is averred that the Trust is not getting recurring grant either from the Government of India or from the State Government and is totally dependent and the entire expenditure of the Trust both committed and emergent is being met mainly from the income accruing to the Trust from the sale of tickets and souvenir items. This income by its very nature is highly fluctuating and seasonal. The Trust has two Curator, one Indian and one Russian. The salary of the Indian Curator is met out from the grant received from the Ministry of External Affairs, whereas, the salary of the Russian Curator is being met from the International Centre of the Roerichs (ICR), Moscow. It is further averred that since the grant given by the Ministry of External Affairs is not a recurring grant and it may not continue, in such a situation, the burden of the Indian Curator i.e. Rs. 20,000/- per month will also have to be met by the Trust. It is after considering the financial position of the Trust that the Board of Trustees in its 17th meeting held on 20.12.2014 decided to abolish the posts of Manager and Cultural Organizer. This was done after due consideration and after weighing all the aspects. It was found that the affairs of the Trust shall not suffer if these positions were ended and the contracts of the incumbents were terminated at the end of their respective terms. The decision is claimed to have been based purely on merit without any ill-will, prejudice or bias towards any individual and has been taken keeping in view the financial constraints and the comparative utility of the positions. It is the posts not the individuals that were found to be redundant.

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the material placed on record.

5. It is not in dispute that the services of the petitioner were engaged purely on contractual basis that too only for a year, as is evident from Clause-I of his appointment letter dated 27.04.2006 which reads as under:-

> "The appointment is purely on contractual basis for a period of one year including probation period. During the period of probation and at the completion of one year his services are liable to be terminated without any notice."

6. In such circumstances, the petitioner has no right to continue or claim continuity in service, especially, when his services are not being replaced by another contract employee.

7. A careful reading of the letter of appointment leaves no manner of doubt that the appointment offered to the petitioner was a limited one. The respondents at the given time had never offered to the petitioner that he would continue in service or that his services would be regularized. It is not even the case of the petitioner that there was any uncertainty or ambiguity in the appointment made by the respondents as to the tenure on the post on which he had been appointed.

8. There is a clear distinction between public employment governed by the statutory rules and private employment governed purely by contract. No doubt with the development of law, there has been a paradigm shift with regard to judicial review of administrative action whereby the writ court can examine the validity of termination order passed by the public authority and it is no longer open to the authority passing the order to argue that the action in the realm of contract is not open to judicial review. However, the scope of interference of judicial review is confined and limited in its scope. The writ court is entitled to judicially review the action and determine whether there was any illegality, perversity, unreasonableness, unfairness or irrationality that would vitiate the action, no matter the action is in the realm of contract.

9. However, judicial review cannot extend to the Court acting as an appellate authority sitting in judgment over the decision. The Court cannot sit in the arm chair of the administrator to decide whether more reasonable decision or course of action could have been taken in the circumstances. (Refer Gridco Ltd. & Another vs. Sadananda Doloi & Ors, AIR 2012 SC 729).

10. The petitioner has failed to place before this Court any material to show that the action of the respondents is either unreasonable or unfair or perverse or irrational. As observed earlier, the service conditions of the petitioner makes it abundantly clear that petitioner had been appointed on contractual basis, that too, on a non-statutory scheme.

11. It may be noticed that the petitioner had voluntarily accepted the appointment granted to him subject to the conditions clearly stipulated in the scheme. The appointment subject to the conditions has been accepted with his eyes wide open, therefore, now the petitioner cannot turn around claiming higher rights ignoring the conditions subject to which the appointment had been accepted.

12. It is next contended by the learned counsel for the petitioner that even though there was nothing adverse to the working of the petitioner, yet his services have malafidely been terminated. However, I find that there is no factual foundation laid for the same.

13. As a last ditch effort, learned counsel for the petitioner would contend that even though the order of termination on the face of it appears to be innocuous, however, in case the veil is pierced, then the real reason for the termination would be writ-large.

14. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the averments made in para-3 on merits of reply to the petition which read thus:-

> "The services of the petitioner were terminated as the Trust decided to discontinue the posts of Manager and the Cultural Organiser and also on the basis of the acts of commission and omission by the petitioner as is evident in the audit reports, and complaints against him. It is clear from the Audit Report submitted by the Chartered Accountant M/s Lamba Vij and Co., Shimla in 2013, which revealed glaring irregularities and mismanagement of finances and violation of procedures by the petitioner thereby defeating the very purpose of his role as Manager. The copies of the audit report of M/s Lamba Vij & Co., Shimla are attached as Annexure R-5. In addition the Internal Audit carried out by the Department of LAC, Government of HP also revealed that the petitioner had failed to discharge his duties. The report finds mention in the letter dated 06-02-2013 which was sent by the Director, Language, Art & Culture HP to the Principal Secretary (Language, Art & Culture) to the Govt. of HP, the copy of which is attached as Annexure R-6. The letter written in January 2013 by the former Director of IRMT, Mr. O.C. Handa, to the Director, Language, Art & Culture HP also casts aspersions on the working of the petitioner. The copy of said letter is attached as Annexure R-7. Employees of the IRMT vide their letter dated 04.01.2013 made a representation against the working of petitioner, to the President of the IRMT Nagar who is also the Chief Minister of the Government of Himachal Pradesh. The copy of the said representation is attached as (Annexure R-8). The aforesaid audit reports and complaints which indict the petitioner were also taken into account by the Board of Trustees of the IRMT in its meeting held at Shimla on dated 20.12.2014 along with the financial position of Trust as mentioned in preliminary submissions supra. The BOT decided to discontinue the post of Manager and also of Cultural Organiser and as such the petitioner was given a notice dated 2.3.2015 (Annexure R-9) in which it was intimated that the services would be terminated w.e.f. 1st April, 2015 and it was directed to handover the charge of files/document, Trust articles/properties and other things to Sh. Ramesh Chander Indian Curator IRMT within 7 days."

15. Even this contention is equally without merit for the simple reason that it was in response to the averments made in para-3 that the respondents had filed the reply as extracted above.

16. Now, in case para-3 of the petition is adverted to, it is stated that the petitioner has been discharging his duties to the entire satisfaction of his superior i.e. respondent No.3 and nothing adverse had been communicated to the petitioner, as would be evident from para-3 of the petition, which reads as under:-

> "That the petitioner was discharging his duty to the entire satisfaction of the Superior i.e. Respondent No.3 and nothing adverse was ever communicated to the petitioner in nutshell he discharged his duty honestly and without any complaint whatsoever, the petitioner was taken aback when he was served with the order of termination dated 02-03-2015."

17. No doubt, the stray averments made in the reply in para-3 (supra) suggest that the services of the petitioner were terminated as the Trust decided to discontinue the posts of Manager and Cultural Organiser on the basis of the acts of commission and omission of the petitioner. But, the fact remains that the services of the petitioner were infact terminated only due to financial crunch and not on account of acts of commission and omission on the part of the petitioner as is loosely stated in para-3 of the reply to the petition, as extracted above.

18. It is settled law that the Court can lift the veil of the innocuous order to find out whether it is the foundation or motive to pass an offending order. If misconduct is the foundation to pass the order, then an inquiry into the misconduct should be conducted and an action according to law should follow. But, if it is motive, it is not incumbent upon the competent officer to have the inquiry conducted and the services of the contract employee could be terminated in terms of the order of appointment.

19. The termination of the petitioner is in terms of the order of appointment and, therefore, it is not by way of punishment as a punitive measure. Accordingly, the need to conduct an inquiry into the alleged misconduct does not arise and the termination of services in terms of the contract has to be held to be valid.

20. In view of the aforesaid discussion and for the reasons stated above, I find no merit in this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of.

	Mr. S.D. Gill, Advocate, for respondents No. 3 & 5 to 7.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

V. Ramasubramanian, Chief Justice

The petitioners, who were engaged on contract basis from time to time as Instructors/Trainers in different Industrial Training Institutes, have come up with these writ petitions, challenging the cut-off date of 31.07.2015, fixed under the Notification of the Department of Technical Education, Government of Himachal Pradesh, dated 03.10.2015, for regularization of the services of persons who were similarly appointed. Alternatively, the petitioners pray for a direction to the respondents to frame a similar Policy as framed by the Notification dated 03.10.2015, for the benefit of those who were appointed after the cut-off date, namely 31.07.2015. Incidentally, the petitioners also challenge the last communication dated 23.08.2018, by which their services were directed to be extended till the end of the current academic session/year, with a further direction not to engage their services thereafter.

2. Heard Shri M.L. Sharma, learned Senior Counsel and Mr. Sanjay Sharma, learned Counsel for the respective petitioners, Mr. Ashok Sharma, learned Advocate General for the respondents-State and Mr. S.D. Gill, learned Counsel for the respective respondents.

Brief Preclude:

3. It appears that the Government of India launched a Scheme way back in the year 2003 for the up-gradation of about 500 Government Industrial Training Institutes in the country into Centers of Excellence. The Scheme was actually floated in 2005-2006. As per the statistics, there were 1896 Government Industrial Training Institutes in the country, as on 01.01.2007.

4. In 2007-2008, the Government of India announced the up-gradation of even the remaining 1396 Government ITIs into Centers of Excellence through Public Private Partnership.

5. Accordingly, a Scheme titled "Upgradation of 1396 Government ITIs through Public Private Partnership" with a total outlay of Rs.3,665 crores was framed. The Scheme received the approval of CCEA (Cabinet Committee on Economic Affairs) and guidelines were issued by the Ministry of Labour and Employment, Director General of Employment and Training of the Government of India, on 01.04.2008.

6. In tune with the aforesaid Scheme, a Tripartite Agreement was entered into between (i) the Government of India; (ii) the Government of Himachal Pradesh and (iii) the Industry Partner of the Government of Himachal Pradesh, namely M/s NTPC Ltd (National Thermal Power Corporation Ltd.).

7. Under this Agreement, the Government of India was to provide interest free loan of up to Rs.2.5 crores to the Institute Management Committee of the ITIs. The Government of India was also required to establish a National Steering Committee as an apex body for grading the implementation and monitoring of the Scheme.

8. In terms of the Agreement, the Government of Himachal Pradesh constituted an Institute Management Committee, which was registered as a Society under the Societies Registration Act. Under Clause 4 (c) (vi) of Section B of the said Agreement, dated 31.10.2008, the Government of Himachal Pradesh undertook to delegate to the Institute Management Committee, adequate administrative and the financial powers to appoint contract faculty as per need. Under Clause 4(g) of Section B of the Agreement, the Government was obliged to ensure that the sanctioned strength of Instructors in ITIs is always filled up.

9. Pursuant to the aforesaid Agreement, a large number of candidates were appointed to the Institute Management Committee as Instructors/Trainers on contract basis. After continuing on contract basis, for a long period of time, the craving for equal pay for equal work and for regularization started. This led to a batch of writ petitions being instituted on the file of this Court in CWP Nos. 2978 of 2012 and batch of cases.

10. A learned Single Judge of this Court allowed the batch of cases by a judgment dated 05.03.2014, declaring that the Instructors/Trainers appointed on contract basis shall be deemed to have been appointed as Lecturers with all consequential benefits. The State was directed to regularize the services of those who had completed six years of uninterrupted service.

11. Challenging the order of the learned Single Judge in the said batch of cases, Letters Patent Appeals were filed both by the State and by a few private parties. These appeals in LPAs No.107/2014 etc. were allowed by a Bench of this Court by a judgment dated 03.12.2014. The Division Bench, eventually, gave a direction to the State Government to examine the case of the petitioners in those batch of cases for regularization or conversion on contractual basis.

12. In implementation of the said judgment of the Division Bench, the Government framed a Policy by way of an 'One Time Measure' and issued a Notification dated 03.10.2015. By this Notification, the Government took over the services of all the teaching and non-teaching employees engaged on contract basis either through the Institute Management Committee or through the Student Welfare Fund. But the benefit was restricted to those engaged up to 31.07.2015. This cut-off date, namely 31.07.2015 was taken on the basis that the same was the date of closing of the academic session 2014-2015 in Government Engineering Colleges, Polytechnics and ITIs.

13. The Scheme made it clear that it is only those who were engaged up to 31.07.2015, will be entitled to the benefit of absorption, upon their completing 7 years of service or 9600 hours of service, whichever was earlier.

14. It may be useful to extract the Notification dated 03.10.2015, as the litigation on hand, is only a product of the said Notification.

"Notification

The Governor, Himachal Pradesh is pleased to take over the services of all the teaching and non teaching employees engaged on contract basis through Student Welfare Fund, Institute Management Committee(s) and under other schemes up to 31.07.2015 (i.e date of closing of academic year 2014-2015) in Government Engineering Colleges, Polytechnics and Industrial Training Institutes of the Department of Technical Education Vocational & Industrial Training, on contract basis after completion of 7 years' or 9600 hours whichever is earlier as one time measure, in the public interest, with immediate effect subject to the condition no litigation is subsisting and an undertaking to this effect shall be taken from all the concerned. The terms and conditions are as under:-

(viii) That in future, engagements of any staff on contract basis through Student Welfare Fund, Institute Management Committees and under > any other Schemes in the institutions existing as on 31.07.2015 in the Department of Technical Education shall not be made without the approval of the State Government, failing which suitable disciplinary action shall be initiated against concerned Head(s) of respective institution(s).

>
> The Director, Technical Education Vocational & Industrial Training and the concerned Heads of the respective Institution(s) are directed to ensure that all the terms and conditions are kept in view."

The Case of the Petitioners:

15. It appears that during the interregnum between the cut-off date, namely 31.07.2015 and the date of the Notification, namely 03.10.2015, the petitioners in all these writ petitions, came to be appointed on contract basis at the time of the commencement of the academic year 2015-2016.

16. Though, the initial appointment was for a period of one year, the contracts of appointment of the petitioners herein, were renewed from time to time.

17. At the time of the second renewal, the Government administered a word of caution, by their letter dated 23.08.2018, directing the Director of Technical Education, not to re-engage the petitioners after the expiry of the term of the contract at the end of the academic session/semester. Finding that the said letter nipped their hopes of getting absorbed on regular basis in the bud, the petitioners have come up with the above writ petitions.

Contentions:

18. Contending that the petitioners are also entitled to be absorbed on regular basis, on par with persons who benefitted by the Policy dated 03.10.2015, it was argued by Mr. M.L. Sharma, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioners:-

(i) That the prescription of an artificial cut-off date for extending the benefit of the Policy dated 03.10.2015, is arbitrary and unfair, offending Articles 14 & 16 of the Constitution, as the same has no nexus with the object sought to be archived by the Policy;

(ii) That all persons appointed on contract basis, both before and after 31.07.2015, form the same class and no intelligible differentia exists between the two, justifying a discriminatory treatment;

(iii) That the petitioners herein as well as the beneficiaries of the Policy, dated 03.10.2015 were selected for appointment, in accordance with the same set of procedure; they were appointed by the same Authority; their appointments were approved by identical Selection Committees; they were recruited through a process of selection comprising of written test and interview; they were selected from the open market through newspaper advertisements and their conditions of service were also similar and hence, no artificial discrimination can be made between these two classes of servants; and

(iv) That the petitioners have a legitimate expectation that the Government, which is a model employer, will treat them on equal terms with those who benefitted by the Policy dated 03.10.2015.

19. In response to the aforesaid contentions, it was argued by the learned Advocate General that the Policy dated 03.10.2015 was intended to an 'One Time Measure'; that the appointments on contract basis are actually appointments made otherwise than through the Statutory Rules and, hence, no right of absorption would inure to the appointees; that when the Scheme itself was framed for the benefit of a set of individuals, who were in service as on a particular date, the question of introducing an artificial cut-off date and the question of discriminating between two sets of candidates would not arise and that the arguments based upon articles 14 & 16 of the Constitution are ill-founded

Discussion and Analysis:

20. The first contention of Mr. M.L. Sharma, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners, is that the prescription of an artificial cut-off date was violative of Articles 14 & 16 of the Constitution and hence, the cut-off date has no nexus with the object sought to be achieved.

21. But, in our considered opinion, the above contention is completely misconceived. We have already brought on record the historical background, in which the Policy dated 03.10.2015 was issued. At the cost of repetition, it may be pointed out that a set of candidates, who were repeatedly appointed on contract basis for a number of years from 2007-208, approached this Court, fought a legal battle up to the Supreme Court and got a direction to the Government to frame a Scheme for their regular absorption. It is only in pursuance of the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court in a group of Letters Patent Appeals that the Policy dated 03.10.2015 was formulated. The very judgment of the Division Bench, dated 03.12.2014, in LPAs No. 107 of 2014 and a batch of cases, was rendered for the benefit of those, who had spent their youth and who had become ineligible to participate in competitive examinations for appointment on regular basis.

22. As a matter of fact, the Division Bench by its judgment dated 03.12.2014, actually over turned the decision of the learned Single Judge, mandating the regularization of the services of the writ petitioners. This was due to the fact that a mandate by this Court to regularize the services of these persons was not permissible in law. But the Division Bench found that by a communication dated 25.04.2011, the Director of Technical Education himself had recommended to the Government to consider the cases of those, who were fully qualified, as per the Recruitment and Promotion Rules and who had been working for a particular number of years continuously.

23. Therefore, by its very nature, the Policy dated 03.10.2015, brought forth pursuant to the decision of this Court, which itself was based upon the recommendations made by the Director of Technical Education, was supposed to be an 'One Time Measure'. The Policy is not to be converted into a death knell for the Recruitment and Promotion Rules. The Policy cannot be converted into an 'All Time Measure' from being an 'One Time Measure'.

24. In fact, the date 31.07.2015 was not chosen by the Government arbitrarily by employing the rule of thumb. The date 31.07.2015 coincides with the date of closure of the academic year 2014-2015. Therefore, there was not even any arbitrariness on the part of the Government in choosing the cut-off date i.e. 31.07.2015. There was a scientific reason as to why the said date was chosen.

25. In so far as fixation of cut-off date is concerned, the Courts have frowned only upon such fixation of cut-off dates that discriminated between two sets of individuals forming part of the same class. Interestingly, most of the cases, in relation to this principle, have arisen out of the grant of the some benefits to the retired pensioners. The earliest decision of the Supreme Court in D.S. Nakara and others Vs. Union of India, (AIR 1983 SC 130) also related to the case of pensioners.

26. While explaining the decision in D.S. Nakara, the Supreme Court pointed out inGovernment of Andhra Pradesh & others Vs. N. Subbarayudu & others, [(2008) 14 SCC, 702] that a cut-off date is fixed by the Executive Authority keeping in view the economic conditions, financial constraints and many other administrative and attending circumstances. In fact, the rigid view taken in D.S. Nakara was actually watered down subsequently and the same was noted by the Supreme Court in its decision in State of Punjab & others Vs. Amar Nath Goyal & others, (2005 (6) SCC 754). It was observed in the said decision as follows:

> "We are afraid that the refrain of D.S. Nakara has been flayed too often to retain its initial charm, which has been worn thin by subsequent dicta."

27. In fact, the argument of discrimination, is advanced on the basis of a misconception that persons appointed before 31.07.2015 and those appointed after 31.07.2015 form the same class. They do not. Persons appointed before 31.07.2015 had approached this Court and secured a judgment directing the Government to frame a Policy, in tune with the recommendations made by the Director of Technical Education in his letter dated 22.04.2011. Anyone and everyone appointed before 31.07.2015 were not given the benefit of the Policy dated 03.10.2015. It was only those who completed 7 years or 9600 hours of service, who were to be granted the benefit, upon their completing 7 years of service or 9600 hours of teaching, whichever was earlier.

28. To compare a person who had completed 7 years of service or 9600 hours of teaching before 31.07.2015 on par with the persons who was appointed after 31.07.2015 and who had rendered a few hours of service before the date of issue of the Policy, namely 03.10.2015, is much worse than comparing apples and oranges. They certainly do not form part of the same class and they cannot object to the prescription of the cut-off date.

29. The object sought to be achieved through the prescription of the cut-off date is to render a benefit upon those who have already rendered sufficiently long period of service. Therefore, the first contention of the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners is wholly unsustainable and hence, it is rejected.

30. The second contention of Mr. M.L. Sharma, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners, that those appointed before and after 31.07.2015 constitute the same class and that no intelligible differentia exists between these two sets of candidates, is also misconceived. This argument could have held water, if the benefit of the Policy dated 03.10.2015 had been conferred upon all persons who had rendered service even for a single day before the cut-off date, namely 31.07.2015. The benefit of the Policy is extended only to those who had completed a prescribed number of years or number of hours of service.

31. If the argument of the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners is accepted, then even pension is payable to a person who had not completed qualifying years of service. As pointed out earlier, the persons who benefitted from the Policy, had come to Court complaining that they had rendered long service and that they had become ineligible to appear in any competitive examination for recruitment to public services. It was this grievance that made them to form a separate class than those appointed after 31.07.2015.

32. The learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners placed reliance upon a judgment of the Supreme Court in Narendra Kumar Tiwari & others Vs. State of Jharkhand & others [(2018) 8 SCC 238]. In the said case, the Supreme Court explained the object and intent of the decision in Secretary, State of Karnataka & others*Vs.* Uma Devi (3) & others,[(2006) 4 SCC 1], to be two fold, namely (i) to prevent irregular or illegal appointments in the future and (ii) to confer a benefit upon those who had been irregularly appointed in the past. After so explaining, the purpose and the intent of the decision in Uma Devi, the Court recorded a factual finding in Narendra Kumar Tiwari that the State of Jharkhand continued with irregular appointments for almost a decade even after the decision in Uma Devi. Therefore, it was a case of exploitation.

33. In the case, on hand, the writ petitions cannot, by any stroke of imagination, complain of exploitation. They were appointed on contract basis during the period between 31.07.2015 and 03.10.2015. Even at the time of the second renewal of the contract, the Government woke up and issued Annexure P-8, dated 23.08.2018 not to continue to engage their services.

34. If seen in the light of the above, it will be clear that the letter dated 23.08.2018 issued by the Government, is an attempt to stop the exploitation of the petitioners. By seeking to set aside the said communication, the petitioners want the Government to subject them to exploitation, so that they can have the benefit of the judgment in Narendra Kumar Tiwari. Therefore, the decision in Narendra Kumar Tiwari, rendered in completely different set of circumstances, cannot go the rescue of the writ petitioners.

35. As pointed out earlier, the Policy dated 03.10.2015 was intended to be an 'One Time Measure', that was brought forth pursuant to a judgment of this Court. The Supreme Court noted in Narendra Kumar Tiwari that the concept of an 'One time Measure' was also explained in State of Karnataka & othersVs. M.L. Kesari & others, [(2010) 9 SCC 247]. The decision of the Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in Uma Devi itself provided for an 'One time Measure'. Therefore, what was prescribed as an 'One Time Measure' for existing exploited employees cannot be converted into an 'All time Measure' by future appointees by exploiting the policy itself. Hence, the second ground of attack of the petitioners to the impugned action of the Government is also unsustainable.

36. The third contention of the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners is that the petitioners herein as well as the beneficiaries of the Policy dated 03.10.2015 were selected for appointment, in accordance with the same set of procedure; they were appointed by the same Authority; their appointments were approved by identical Selection Committees; they were recruited through a process of selection comprising of written test and interview; they were selected from the open market through newspapers advertisements and their conditions of service were also similar and hence, no artificial discrimination can be made between these two classes of servants. In fact, the petitioners have given a tabulation indicating that they were also appointed by following the same process of selection and that they had competed with other candidates to be selected for appointment.

37. But the above argument over-looks the fact that the petitioners were not recruited in accordance with the procedure prescribed by the Recruitment and Promotion Rules. The very advertisements, pursuant to which the petitioners were selected and appointed, were for appointments on contract basis for a period of one year. These advertisements inviting applications for appointment on contract basis for one year would not have certainly attracted more meritorious candidates. It is not the case of the petitioners that their selection was in accordance with the procedure prescribed by Recruitment and Promotion Rules. Therefore, they cannot contend that they were recruited by the same procedure, as prescribed for regular employees.

38. Inviting our attention to the observations of the Supreme Court in Nihal Singh & others Vs. State of Punjab & others, [(2013) 14 SCC 65], it was contended by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners that the appointments of the petitioners cannot be categorized as irregular appointments and that once a procedure of selection had been followed, the petitioners cannot be denied the benefit of the Policy.

39. But, we must remember that the decision in Nihal Singh arose under extraordinary circumstances. There was a large-scale disturbance in the State of Punjab in 1980s. Since, the State was not in a position to handle the law and order situation with the available police personnel, they resorted to Section 17 of the Police Act, 1861, for appointing Special Police Officers. These Special Police Officers were assigned the duty of providing security to the banks and the financial burden was borne by the banks.

40. The Supreme Court specifically found in Nihal Singh that the initial appointment of the appellants therein, was made in accordance with the statutory procedure prescribed under Section 17 of the Police Act, 1861.

41. In any case, the appellants before the Supreme Court in Nihal Singh were also those who had rendered a long period of service before they laid a claim for regularization. Therefore, the petitioners cannot rely upon the said decision.

42. The last contention of the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner is based upon the theory of legitimate expectation. We do not know how, even at the threshold of their appointment on contract basis, the petitioners could have gained a legitimate expectation. If the petitioners had expected that the Government would never resort to appointments in accordance with the Recruitment and Promotion Rules and if the petitioners had expected that every appointment will be made only through the back door giving rise to a claim for regularization, then such an expectation would not fall under the category of legitimate expectation. The Policy introduced by way of an 'One Time Measure', it must be remembered, was an exception to the rule. One can have a legitimate expectation that the Government would follow the rules. One cannot have a legitimate expectation that the Government would continue to flout the rules, leading to the conferment of a benefit upon some individuals. Therefore, the last contention of the learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioners is also liable to be rejected.

43. Relying upon certain observations made by Justice V.R. Krishna Iyer, as he then was, in Som Prakash Rekhi Vs. Union of India and another, (AIR 1981 SC 212*] the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners contended that the State is obliged to promote economic justice by acting as a model employer. We have no doubt in our mind that it is so. It is only because the State is supposed to be a model employer that they are obliged to make appointments to public services, only in accordance with the Statutory Rules. It must be remembered that all appointments made otherwise than in accordance with the Recruitment and Promotion Rules, strike at the very root of equality guaranteed under Articles 14 & 16 of the Constitution. At the outset, an appointment sought to be made on contract basis for a period of one year, does not attract the most meritorious. Secondly, the appointments on contract basis may not strictly follow the rule of reservation, which is the bedrock of Articles 14 & 16 of the Constitution. Therefore, this Court cannot be a party to the conversion of an 'One time Measure' issued by the Government, that too, at the instance of this Court, in to a permanent measure.

44. In view of the above, we find no merits in the writ petitions. Hence, they are dismissed alongwith pending application(s), if any.

For the respondents:	Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Sr. Advocate, with Ms. Devyani Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present regular second appeal has been maintained by the appellants, who were the defendants amongst others before the learned Trial Court (hereinafter referred to as "the defendants"), laying challenge to the judgment and decree, dated 14.10.2004, passed by learned Additional District Judge, Solan Camp at Nalagarh, District Solan, H.P., in Civil Appeal No. 46-NL/13 of 2002, whereby the appeal filed by the respondent, who was plaintiff before the learned Trial Court (hereinafter referred to as "the plaintiff) was partly allowed and defendants No. 1 to 6, 12 and No. 7 to 11 were held as owners-in-possession of the suit land to the extent of $1/9^{th}$ share each and a decree was granted in favour of the plaintiff for permanent injunction restraining the defendants No. 1 and 2 from alienating the share of the plaintiff in the suit land.

2. The key facts of the case can tersely be summarized as under:

The plaintiff maintained a suit seeking declaration that he is co-sharer-in-possession of the land measuring 13 bighas, 7 biswas, being 10/18 shares of land measuring 23 bighas, 19 biswas situated in village Bhatauli and Kasauli, Pargana

Gullarwala, Tehsil Nalagarh, District Solan, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as "the suit land"). The plaintiff also contended that the defendants have no right, title and interest over the suit land and he sought the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendants from alienating the suit land and trees standing thereon and in the alternative for joint possession. As per the plaintiff he was born to Smt. Akki and from the loins of Shri Chuhra. Smt. Anto, predecessor-in-title of proforma defendants No. 7 to 11 and Smt. Shakuntla, proforma defendant No. 12, were also born to Smt. Akki. He has further contended that after the death of Smt. Akki, Shri Chuhra married with Smt. Kishni (defendant No. 3) and subsequently defendants No. 1, 2, 4 and 6 were born to her. The plaintiff and Shri Chuhra had joint Hindu family and they purchased the suit land and other property to the extent of ½ share through trust for the plaintiff. The plaintiff further contended that defendants No. 1 to 6 are admitting his claim that he is co-sharer-in-possession of the suit land by his act, conduct and acquiescence and defendants No. 7 to 12 also admitted the plaintiff to be the co-sharer. Earlier the plaintiff and his father, Shri Chuhra, used to reside at Mastanpura and subsequently they shifted to village Bhatauli and ultimately they came to village Karsoli. The plaintiff has further contended that he and his father built a residential house and also installed a well by contributing ½ shares each. As per the plaintiff, Shri Chuhra died intestate and defendants No. 1 to 6 got the revenue entries change in their favour and for effecting such entries they forged a Will. So, in view of the above contentions, the plaintiff sought a decree for declaration with consequential relief for permanent prohibitory injunction and in the alternative for joint possession.

3. Defendants No. 1 to 3 (i.e., Shri Sohan Lal, Shri Joginder Lal, both sons of deceased Chuhra and Smt. Kishani, widow of Shri Chuhra, respectively) contested the suit of the plaintiff. They raised preliminary objection of maintainability.On merits, defendants No. 1 to 3 contended that the plaintiff started maltreating Shri Chuhra and his step mother Smt. Kishani, so Shri Chuhra started living separately. Defendants No. 1 to 3 further contended that in the year 1958 Shri Chuhra purchased land measuring 22 bighas, 11 biswas, in village Bhatauli from Gurbax Singh, Shri Gurdayal Singh, Shri Harnam Kaur for consideration of Rs. 3500/-. Shri Chuhra also purchased land measuring 1 (one) bigha, 16 biswas in village Bhatauli for Rs. 400/- and land measuring 5 bighas, 13 biswas was exchanged with one Shri Dharam Singh. So, the property of Shri Chuhra was self acquired property, as he purchased it by spending his money, which he used to earn from tailoring. As per defendants No. 1 to 3, the plaintiff used to reside in different villages and he has no concern with the suit land. Shri Chuhra (deceased) executed a valid Will in favour of the defendants and mutation consequent thereto was also attested. Defendants No. 1 to 3 prayed that the suit be dismissed.

4. Defendants No. 4 to 6 filed a separate written statement. They denied the contentions of the plaintiff and asserted that the suit land is self acquired property of the deceased and the plaintiff has no concern in the suit property. These defendants prayed that the suit be dismissed.

5. Defendants No. 7 to 12 also filed separate written statement and they conceded to the claim of the plaintiff.

6. The plaintiff filed replication and refuted the contentions of the defendants. He reiterated the averments made in the plaint.

7. The learned Trial Court on 28.05.1998 framed the following issues for determination and adjudication:

"1. Whether this suit property is joint Hindu family and coparcenary property in the hands of deceased Sh. Chuhra as alleged? OPP

2. If issue No. 1 is proved whether the plaintiff is co-owner and co-sharer in the suit property? OPP

3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the relief of injunction? OPP

4. Whether deceased Sh. Chuhra executed legal and valid Will dated 8.8.95 in favour of the defendant No. 1 to 3? OPD 1-3

5. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD 1-3

6. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action? OPD 1-3

7. Relief."

8. After deciding issues No. 1 to 3 against the plaintiff, issue No. 4 in favour of defendants No. 1 to 3, issue No. 5 against defendants No. 1 to 3, issue No. 6 against the plaintiff the suit of the plaintiff was dismissed. Subsequently, the plaintiff preferred an appeal before the learned Lower Appellate Court, which was partly allowed, vide impugned judgment dated 14.10.2004, hence the present regular second appeal, which was admitted for hearing on the following substantial question of law:

> "Whether the propounder of the Will is discharged of his onus of proving the execution of Will by examining both the attesting witnesses. The onus thereafter Will shift on the person challenging the Will to the unconscionability of the Will, if so its effect thereto."

9. I have heard the learned Counsel for the appellants and the learned Senior Counsel for the respondents and have carefully gone through the records.

10. Mr. P.P. Chauhan, learned Counsel for appellant No. 1 has argued that the learned Lower Appellate Court has passed the impugned judgment and decree ignoring all the material facts which were brought on record and the learned Lower Appellate Court has failed to appreciate the fact that the Will was duly proved as per Section 63 of The Indian Succession Act, 1925. Mr. Tara Singh Chauhan, learned Counsel for appellant No. 2 has also argued that the Will executed by the deceased in favour of the appellants is valid and the same is as per Section 63 of the Act. He has argued that the appeal be allowed the impugned judgment of the learned Lower Appellate Court be set aside.

11. Conversely, the learned Senior Counsel for respondents No. 1 to 6 has argued that the Will in question failed the test of Section 63(c) of The Indian Succession Act, 1925, as the attesting witness, Shri Nirmal Singh (DW-3) while appearing in the Court did not state that he put his signatures on the Will. He has argued that due to non-compliance of Section 63(c) of The Indian Succession Act, 1925, the present appeal is liable to be dismissed. He prayed that the appeal be dismissed, as the same is devoid of merits. In order to draw lateral support to his arguments the learned Senior Counsel has relied upon the following judicial pronouncements:

1. Girja Datt Singh vs. Gangotri Datt Singh, AIR 1955 SC 346;
2. Gopal Swaroop vs. Krishna Murari Mangal & others, (2010) 14 SCC 266.

12. In rebuttal, the learned counsel for the appellants have argued that after re-appreciating the evidence and law, the appeal be allowed the impugned judgment rendered by the learned Lower Appellate Court be quashed and set aside. Learned Counsel appearing for appellant No. 2 has relied upon the decision of Hon'ble Kerala High Court rendered in K.M. Varghese and others vs. K.M. Oommen and others, AIR 1994 Kerala 85.

13. In order to appreciate the rival contentions of the parties I have gone through the record carefully.

14. The controversy in the case in hand mainly relates to Section 63(c) of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act"). At the very outset the same is extracted hereunder:

> "Section 63 in The Indian Succession Act, 1925
>
> 63. Execution of unprivileged Wills. —Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, [12] [or an airman so employed or engaged,] or a mariner at sea, shall execute his Will according to the following rules:—
>
> (a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the Will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.
>
> (b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a Will.
> (c) The Will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the Will or has seen some other person sign the Will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgement of his signature or mark, or the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the Will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary."

Thus, as highlighted above, as per the mandate of Section 63(c) of the Act, a Will is to be attested by two or more witnesses, each of them must have seen the testator of the Will putting his/her signatures or affix mark on the Will and the witnesses must put their signatures on the Will in the presence of the testator. Thus, Section 63 of the Act lays down conditions qua proof of execution of valid Will. A Will has to be proved in the manner provided in Section 63 of the Act. Section 63(c) clearly provides that a Will has to be attested by two or more witnesses, but it is not mandatory that both these witnesses should be present simultaneously and they put their signatures in each others' presence. The mandatory requirement is that these witnesses must have seen the testator signing the Will or affixing his mark thereon or they have received personal acknowledgement from the testator of his signature or mark on the Will. Besides this, other mandatory prerequisite is that the attesting witnesses of the Will must sign the Will in presence of the testator.

15. Thus, in view of mandatory requirements laid down by Section 63 of the Act the propounder of the Will must prove that the attesting witnesses saw him signing the Will or affixing his mark thereon and they also signed in his presence.

16. In the above backdrop, it can safely be held that a Will has to be attested by at least two witnesses and they must sign or affix their mark in presence of the testator and the testator also sign the Will or affix his mark in presence of the attesting witnesses. Thus, the law provides that for a valid Will, it should be attested by two witnesses. The law also postulates that in case a document is required to be attested then it must be proved in the manner provided under Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, for ready reference is extracted hereunder:

> "68. Proof of execution of document required by law to be attested.—If a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence: 1[Provided that it shall not be necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of the execution of any document, not being a Will, which has been registered in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (16 of 1908), unless its execution by the person by whom it purports to have been executed is specifically denied.]"

Thus, in view of the mandate of law ingrained in Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act, due execution and attestation of the Will can only be proved by calling at least one attesting witness of the Will, in case he/she is alive. So, in view of the law, as discussed hereinabove, now this Court has to see the testimonies of witnesses examined by both the plaintiff and the defendants.

17. Will, Ex. D-4, in question is dated 08.08.1995. As per the testimony of DW-2, Shri Raj Kumar Sharma, who purportedly is the Scribe of the Will, Ex. D-4, stated that he scribed the Will on the instructions of Shri Chuhra Ram (testator) and Shri Nirmal Singh, DW-3 and Shri Charan Singh, DW-4, were present there. He has further deposed that the Will was readover to the testator and thereafter he affixed his thumb mark thereon. As per this witness, the witnesses also thumb marked and signed the Will at his instance. DW-3, Shri Nirmal Singh was the witness of the Will. Thereafter, he entered the Will in his register at serial No. 540. He also signed the Will and thumb marked the same. Subsequently, the Will was presented before the Sub-Registrar. This witness, in his cross-examination feigned ignorance that what was the time of scribing the Will. He deposed that he was not acquainted with Shri Chuhra Ram (testator) and could not say that on that day Shri Chuhra Ram was wearing spectacles.

18. DW-3, Shri Nirmal Singh, who is a witness to the Will deposed that on 08.08.1995 he and Shri Charan Singh, DW-4, went to Nalagarh with Shri Chuhra Ram (testator), where he got scribed a Will from Shri Raj Kumar, DW-2. As per this witness, Shri Chuhra Ram signed the Will after admitting its veracity and truthfulness. Thereafter, the Will was registered and presented before the Sub Registrar. As per this witness, Shri Chuhra Ram was of sound mind and admitted the execution of the Will. This witness, in his cross-examination, deposed that they reached to the Scribe prior to 09:00 a.m. and in between 10-11 a.m. he signed the Will and 12 noon the Will was presented before the Sub Registrar.

19. DW-4, Shri Charan Singh, is also an important witness in the instance case, as he is second attesting witness of the Will in question. He deposed that Shri Chuhra Ram took him and Shri Nirmal Singh (DW-3) for execution of the Will. As per this witness, Shri Chuhra Ram, after admitting the correctness of the Will, affixed his thumb mark on the Will and Shri Nirmal Singh also signed the same. Thereafter, the Will was presented before the Sub Registrar and there also Shri Chuhra Ram admitted the execution of the Will. He has further deposed that before the Sub Registrar also they signed. This witness, in his cross-examination, deposed that Shri Chuhra Ram executed the Will to the persons who were looking after him. Subsequently, the Sub Registrar signed the Will and sent the same to Clerk, before whom thumb impressions were obtained and thereafter they again appeared before the Sub Registrar.

20. In the wake of what has been stated by the key witnesses and also keeping in mind the settled position of law, as discussed hereinabove. The present is a case where the Will is not proved, as evidence clearly establish that the Will could not succeed the rigors of Section 63(c) of the Indian Succession Act, 1925, provisions whereof are mandatory in nature. The reasons for not succeeding are that admittedly Will in question is a document of two sheets and both these sheets must bear the thumb impression of the testator, but both the attesting witnesses do not depose that Shri Chuhra Ram (testator) affixed his thumb marks on both the sheets. Shri Nirmal Singh, DW-3, referred to signing of the Will by Shri Chuhra Ram, but DW-4, Shri Charan Singh, deposed that the Will does not bear the signatures of Shri Chuhra Ram and it bears his thumb impression. Thus, there is clear deviance inter se the depositions of DW-3 and DW-4 and the same is not ignorable, especially in view of the position of law. In fact, Shri Nirmal Singh, DW-3, did not say that the Will was also signed by him and Shri Chuhra Ram (testator) affixed his thumb mark thereon. Thus, Shri Nirmal Singh cannot be said to be attesting witness of the Will, Ex. D4. Similarly, as per DW-4, Shri Charan Singh, deposed that he alongwith Shri Nirmal Singh signed the Will, but Will, Ex. D4, allegedly contains his thumb impression and not his signatures. Thus, the fact as narrated by DW-4 that he signed the Will stands clearly proved otherwise. The testimony of DW-4 further reveals that neither he had seen the testator signing or affixing thumb impression on the Will nor he had seen DW-3, Shri Nirmal Singh signing or affixing his thumb impression on the Will. In fact, the testimonies of DW-3 and DW-4 are contrary to each other and they fail to stand the test of credibility. After analyzing the testimonies of both these witnesses, it cannot be said with conviction that Shri Chuhra Ram (testator) executed a valid Will in their presence. Admittedly, registration of a Will is no guarantee of valid execution of Will. The deposition of DW-3, Shri Nirmal Singh, stands severely contradicted by DW-4, Shri Charan Singh, as DW-4 specifically deposed that Will was thumb marked before the Clerk and not before the Sub Registrar. This fact also creates a veil of doubt on the genuineness of the Will as to how the signatures of Shri Nirmal Singh (DW-3) were obtained on the Will in question. Indisputably, DW-3 deposed that Will was executed before the Sub Registrar, it was thumb marked by Shri Chuhra Ram in his presence and he and Shri Charan Singh (DW-4) also signed the same, but the testimony of DW-4, who is portrayed to be other attesting witness of the Will, through his testimony, creates doubts on the genuineness of the Will.

21. The learned Counsel/Senior Counsel have relied upon certain judicial pronouncements. Mr. Tara Singh Chauhan, learned counsel for appellant No. 2 has placed reliance on a judgment of Hon'ble Kerala High Court rendered in K.M. Varghese and others vs. K.M. Oommen and others, AIR 1994 Kerala 85, relevant paras of the judgment (supra) are extracted hereunder:

> "33. Section 63 of the Act deals with the execution of Wills. Section 63 of the Act reads thus:
> 63. Execution of unprivileged wills :--Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition nor engaged in actual warfare, or an ariman so employed or engaged, or a mariner at sea, shall execute his will acceding to the following rules :
>

(c) The will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has been the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgement of his signators or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary".

In Ext. A1, there are seven sheets of paper. In all these sheets of paper both the testator and the testatrix have signed. On the reverse of the first sheet both the testator and the testatrix have signed and the Registrar has made his endorsement. As identifying witness one Prathapan has signed, who was examined in this case as P W 3. In the last sheet two persons have signed as witnesses. Raman Narayanan has signed as witness No. 1. He has described himself as licencee AD/B 153. Then one P. K. Sivarama Pillai has singed as witness No. 2.

(He has not been examined since he was not well). He has described as the person who has written Ext. A1 and has given his licence number. Counsel for the first defendant submitted that the two witnesses signed in Ext. A1 are not attesting witnesses. Both the witnesses look animo attestandi and so they cannot be considered as attesting witnesses. Appellant in M.F.A. No. 631/92 submitted that both the witnesses are attesting witnesses and further the identifying witness Prathapan and also the Registrar can be considered as j attesting witnesses in the circumstances of the case. Further he submitted that if this Court is satisfied about the genuineness of the Will and that the Will is beyond reproach for reasons known to law and recognised by law, the court will be slow and hesitant to reject a registered Will on the technical ground that though there are two witnesses signed in the Will they had no animo attestandi. We will never forget when we examine the question of proof of the Will the requirement that the attesting witness examined should satisfy the court that the witnesses signed the will to bear witness to the fact that the signature of the testator was made or acknowledged in their presence.

34. Now we are only concerned with the question whether the document Ext. Al taken without evidence at all can be rejected as not a Will since there are no attesting witnesses. We may not be wrong in saying that no form of attestation is prescribed by statute, but it is necessary that the witness should put his signature with the intention of attesting it and the attestation must follow execution, and not precede it -- vide Pemandes v. Alves, ILR 3 Bombay 322 and in the matter of Hemlata Dobee. (1883) ILR 9 Cal 226. We also think it correct that a witness to be attesting witness need not be labelled as attesting witness and the place at which the signatures or thumb mark of > witness is subscribed to the document is not decisive to hold whether witness was or was not an attesting witness. A mere pcrsual of the document Ext. Al it is difficult to say that there is non-compliance with the provisions contained in Section 63 of the Act. The fact that both the witnesses have given their identifying description referring to their licence numbers and one of the witnesses saying that he is the person who has prepared the document may not be sufficient to say that those witnesses are not attesting witnesses. Counsel for the first defendant very strenuously argued that the second witness can never be treated as an attesting witness, since he has singed not as a witness, but as a person who has written the document. But it has to be noted that in the document it is stated that he is the second witness. We see no reason to be so technical to say that since the witness has written words indicating that he is the person who has prepared/written the document will lose his character as a witness. It is not necessary for the witnesses who are attesting the document to declare in the document itself that they are attesting witnesses."

The judgment (supra) is of no use to the learned Counsel for appellant No. 2, as the depositions of DWs 3 and 4, who purportedly are the attesting witnesses of the Will in question, fail to withstand the rigors of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925. Both these witnesses, through their testimonies, instead of proving the Will create a doubt qua the genuineness and veracity of Will, Ex. D4. DW-4, Shri Charan Singh, one of the attesting witnesses, stated in the Court that he had not signed the Will. In view of this, the judgment (supra) is of no help to the appellants.

22. On the other hand, Mr. Ramakant Sharma, learned Senior Counsel, for the respondents also placed reliance on some judicial pronouncements. First in the queue is a decision of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in Girja Datt Singh vs. Gangotri Datt Singh, AIR 1955 SC 346, paras 14 and 15 whereof, being relevant, are extracted hereunder:

> "14. It still remains to consider whether the attestation of the signature of the deceased on the will, Ex. A-36 was in accordance with the requirements of S. 63, Indian Succession Act. Section 63 prescribes that:
>
> "(c) The will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the will or has seen some other person sign the will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or of the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the will in the presence of the testator ... ."
> In order to prove the due attestation of the will Ex. A-36 Gangotri would have to prove that Uma Dutt Singh and Badri Singh saw the deceased sign the will and they themselves signed the same in the presence of the deceased. The evidence of Uma Dutt Singh and Badri Singh is not such as to carry conviction in the mind of the Court that they saw the deceased sign the will and each of them appended his signature to the will in the presence of the deceased. They have been demonstrated to be witnesses who had no regard for truth and were ready and willing to oblige Gur Charan Lal in transferring the venue of the execution and attestation of the documents Ex. A-23 and Ex. A-36 from Gonda to Tarabganj for reasons best known to themselves.

If no reliance could thus be placed upon their oral testimony, where would be the assurance that they actually saw the deceased execute the will in their presence and each of them signed the will in the presence of the deceased. It may as well be that the signature of the deceased on the will was appended at one time, the deceased being there all alone by himself and the attestations were made by Uma Dutt Singh and Badri Singh at another time without having seen the deceased sign the will or when the deceased was not present when they appended their signatures thereto in token of attestation. We have no satisfactory evidence before us to enable us to come to the conclusion that the will was duly attested by Uma Dutt Singh and Badri Singh and we are therefore unable to hold that the will Ex. A-36 is proved to have been duly executed and attested.

When this position was realised the learned counsel for Gangotri fell back on an alternative argument and it was that the deceased admitted execution and completion of the will Ex. A-36 and acknowledged his signature thereto before the Sub-Registrar at Tarabganj and this acknowledgment of his signature was in the presence of the two persons who identified him before the Sub-Registrar, viz., Mahadeo Pershad and Nageshur who had in their turn appended their signatures at the foot of the endorsement by the Sub-Registrar. These signatures it was contended were enough to prove the due attestation of the will Ex. A-36. This argument would have availed Gangotri if Mahadeo Pershad and Nageshur had appended their signatures at the foot of the endorsement of registration 'animo attestandi'.

But even apart from this circumstance it is significant that neither Mahadeo Pershad nor Nageshur was called as a witness to depose to the fact of such attestation if any. One could not presume from the mere signature of Mahadeo Pershad and Nageshur appearing at the foot of the endorsement of registration that they had appended their signatures to the document as attesting witnesses or can be construed to have done so in their capacity as attesting witnesses. Section 68, Indian Evidence Act requires an stetting witness to be called as a witness to prove the due execution and attestation of the will. This provision should have been complied with in order that Mahadeo Pershad and Nageshur be treated as attesting witnesses. This line of argument therefore cannot help Gangotri."

The judgment (supra) is applicable to the facts of the present case, as a valid Will has to withstand the test of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act. In the instant case, the Will in question could not be proved in accordance with the manner as provided under Section 63 of the Act.

23. The learned Senior Counsel for the respondents has also relied upon judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in Gopal Swaroop vs. Krishna Murari Mangal & others, (2010) 14 SCC 266, relevant paras whereof as reproduced hereunder:

> "13. Section 68 of the Evidence Act reads as under:
> 68. Proof of execution of document required by law to be attested - If a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence:
>
> Provided that it shall not be necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of the execution of any document, not being a will, which has been registered in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (16 of 1908), unless its execution by the person by whom it purports to have been executed is specially denied.
>
> It is evident that in cases where the document sought to be proved is required by law to be attested, the same cannot let be in evidence unless at least one of the attesting witnesses has been called for the purpose of proving the attestation, if any such attesting witness is alive and capable of giving evidence and is subject to the process of the Court.
>
> 14. Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act deals with execution of unprivileged Wills and, inter alia, provides that every Testator except those mentioned in the said provision shall execute his Will according to the rules stipulated therein. It reads:
>
> 63. Execution of unprivileged wills.- Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare, or an airman so employed or engaged, or a mariner at sea, shall execute his will according to the following rules:
>
> (a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.
>
> (b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a will.
> (c) The will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the Will or has seen some other person sign the Will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgment of his signature or mark, or the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the Will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary.

15. From a conjoint reading of the two provisions extracted above it is evident that a Will is required to be attested by two or more witnesses each of whom has seen the Testator signing or affixing his mark on the Will or has seen some other person signing the Will in the presence and by the direction of the Testator or has received from the Testator a personal acknowledgment of the signature or mark or his signature or the signature of such other person and that each of the witnesses has signed the Will in the presence of the Testator. Section 68 of the Evidence Act is against the use of a Will in evidence unless one attesting witness has been examined to prove the execution.

16. The question, however, is whether the Will propounded by the appellant and purporting to have been attested by two witnesses, namely, Manoj Kumar and Vilas Tikhe has been validly proved. It is not disputed that one of the said witnesses namely, Vilas Tikhe has been summoned and examined as a witness. What is to be seen is whether the examination of the said witness satisfies the requirements of Section 63 of the Evidence Act (supra).

17. A careful analysis of the provisions of Section 63 would show that proof of execution of a Will would require the following aspects to be proved:

(1) That the Testator has signed or affixed his mark to the Will or the Will has been signed by some other person in the presence and under the direction of the Testator.

(2) The signature or mark of the Testator or the signature of the persons signing for him is so placed has to appear that the same was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a Will.

(3) That the Will has been attested by two or more witnesses each one of whom has signed or affixed his mark to the Will or has been seen by some other person signing the Will in the presence and by the direction of the Testator or has received from Testator a personal acknowledgement of the signature or mark or the signature of each other person.

(4) That each of the witnesses has singed the Will in the presence of the Testator.

18. The decisions of this Court in Bhagwan Kaur W/o Bachan Singh v. Kartar Kaur W/o Bachan Singh and Ors., 1994 5 SCC 135, Seth Beni Chand (since dead) now by LRs. v. Smt. Kamla Kunwar and Ors., 1976 4 SCC 554, Janki Narayan Bhoir v. Narayan Namdeo Kadam, 2003 2 SCC 91, Gurdev Kaur and Ors. v. Kaki and Ors., 2007 1 SCC 546, Yumnam Ongbi Tampha Ibema Devi v. Yumnam Joykumar Singh and Ors., > 2009 4 SCC 780, Rur Singh (dead) Through LRs. and Ors. v. Bachan Kaur, 2009 11 SCC 1 and Anil Kak v. Kumari Sharada Raje and Ors., 2008 7 SCC 695 recognize and reiterate the requirements enumerated above to be essential for the proof of execution of an unprivileged Will like the one at hand. It is, therefore, not necessary to burden this judgment by a detailed reference of the facts relevant to each one of these pronouncements and the precise contention that was urged and determined in those cases. All that needs to be examined is whether the requirements stipulated in Section 63 and distinctively enumerated above have been satisfied in the instant case by the appellant propounder of the Will."

Again, as held above, provisions of Section 68 of the Evidence Act and Section 63 of the Succession Act, in juxtaposition, provide that a Will has to be attested by two or more witnesses and each of them has seen the testator signing or affixing his mark on the Will or has seen some other person signing the Will. The judgment (supra) is fully applicable to the facts of the present case.

24. In view of settled position of law, as highlighted above, and after analyzing the testimonies of the key witnesses, it is amply clear that the Will in question could not pass the test of Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act. So, in these circumstances, the only substantial question of law is answered holding that the propounder of the Will could not discharge his onus of proving the execution of Will, as one of the attesting witness has not stated that he has signed the Will and there are contradictions with respect to affixing of thumb marks or signatures, as is apparent from the statement of DW-4, Shri Charan Dass. The substantial question of law is answered accordingly.

25. In view of what has been discussed hereinabove, this Court finds that the findings arrived at by the learned Lower Appellate Court are reasoned, after appreciating the evidence, which has come on record, to its true and correct perspective. The learned Lower Appellate Court has also applied the law to the facts of the present case correctly.

26. The net result of the above discussion is that the appeal, which sans merits, deserves dismissal and is accordingly dismissed. However, taking into consideration the facts and circumstances of the case, the parties are left to bear their own costs.

27. In view of the disposal of the appeal, pending application(s), if any, shall also stand(s) disposed of.

Anoop Chitkara, Judge (oral)

The present petition is under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, seeking ad-interim as well regular bail in FIR No. 156/2010, dated 10.9.2010, registered in Police Station, Bhoranj, District Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh, under the provisions of Sections 379 and 447 of the Indian Penal Code and Section 3 of the Scheduled Castes & Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 (hereinafter referred to as the 'SCST Act').

2. The bail petitioner allegedly called the complainant by name and used the words which are prohibited under the provisions of the SCST Act.

3. Sub Inspector Rajeshwar Singh, Police Station, Bhoranj, District Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh, is present alongwith record. He has filed the status report, which is taken on record in Cr.MP(M) No.1214/2019 and has also brought the police file. I have seen the status report as well as the police file to the extent it was necessary for the purpose of deciding the present petition and the same stands returned to the police official.

4. On 28.6.2019, this Court passed an interim order, directing the petitioner to be enlarged on bail on petitioner's furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rs.5000/- to the satisfaction of any of the Registrar/Additional Registrar/ Deputy Registrar of this Court, subject to the petitioner complying with the conditions imposed therein. The said interim order is in operation till date.

5. The case set up by the petitioner is as follows:

(a) That the allegations are false, wrong and baseless and the petitioner has no connection with the said offence.

(b) It has been specifically averred that the petitioner has been roped into the case by the police just to save the real culprits and at the behest of the complainant who has inimical relations with the petitioner owing to some land dispute and the present FIR is a counter-blast to that.

(c) Hence, the present F.I.R. under the provisions of Section 3 of the Scheduled Caste & Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 and Sections 379 and 447 of the Indian Penal Code, was registered.

6. I have heard Ms. Aanandita Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioner as also Mr. Nand Lal Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General for the respondent/State. Status report is also perused.

7. It has been admitted in the status report that the petitioner has joined the investigation as was directed by this Court. It has further been submitted that no recovery is to be effected from the bail petitioner. Also in the status report there is no mention of any previous criminal history of the bail petitioner. The petitioner is a permanent resident of the address mentioned in the memo of parties. Therefore, the presence of the petitioner can always be secured. I am satisfied that the no purpose will be served if the bail petitioner is sent to judicial custody.

8. At this stage, reference is being made to Section 437 of the Code of Criminal Procedure where the Legislature has mandated that the provisions of bail for woman are not stringent.

9. Sections 18 & 18-A of SCST Act, 1989, bar the rights of anticipatory bail under Section 438 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The provisions read as under:-

> "18. Section 438 of the Code not to apply to persons committing an offence under the Act.—Nothing in section 438 of the Code shall apply in relation to any case involving the arrest of any person on an accusation of having committed an offence under this Act.
> "18A. (1) For the purposes of this Act,— (a) preliminary enquiry shall not be required for registration of a First Information Report against any person; or (b) the investigating officer shall not require approval for the arrest, if necessary, of any person, against whom an accusation of having committed an offence under this Act has been made and no procedure other than that provided under this Act or the Code shall apply. (2) The provisions of section 438 of the Code shall not apply to a case under this Act, notwithstanding any judgment or order or direction of any Court."

10. It is no more res-integra that provisions of Section 438 of the Code of Criminal Procedure are not applicable in cases registered under the provisions of SCST Act.

11. In State of M.P. v. Ram Kishan, 1995(3) SCC 221, Supreme Court upheld the Constitutional validity of Section 18 of SCST Act, holding:-

> "9. Of course, the offences enumerated under the present case are very different from those under the Terrorists and Disruptive Activities (Prevention) Act, 1987. However, looking to the historical background relating to the practice of "Untouchability" and the social attitudes which lead to the commission of such offences against Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes, there is justification for an apprehension that if the benefit of anticipatory bail is made available to the persons who are alleged to have committed such offences, there is every likelihood of their misusing their liberty while on anticipatory bail to terrorise their victims and to prevent a proper investigation. It is in this context that Section 18 has been incorporated in the said Act. It cannot be considered as in any manner violative of Article 21.

10. It was submitted before us that while Section 438 is available for graver offences under the Penal Code, it is not available for even "minor offences" under the said Act. This grievance also cannot be justified. The offences which are enumerated under Section 3 are offences which, to say the least, denigrate members of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes in the eyes of society, and prevent them from leading a life of dignity and self-respect. Such offences are committed to humiliate and subjugate members of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes with a view to keeping them in a state of servitude. These offences constitute a separate class and cannot be compared with offences under the Penal Code.

11. A similar view of Section 18 of the said Act has been taken by the Full Bench of the Rajasthan High Court in the case of Jai Singh v. Union of India, AIR 1993 Rajasthan 177 and we respectfully agree with its findings.

12. In the premises, Section 18 of the said Act cannot be considered as violative of Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution."

12. In Vilas Pandurang Pawar v. State of Maharasthra, 2012 (8) SCC 795, Supreme Court holds as under:-

"9. The scope of Section 18 of the SC/ST Act read with Section 438 of the Code is such that it creates a specific bar in the grant of anticipatory bail. When an offence is registered against a person under the provisions of the SC/ST Act, no Court shall entertain application for anticipatory bail, unless it prima facie finds that such an offence is not made out. Moreover, while considering the application for bail, scope for appreciation of evidence and other material on record is limited. Court is not expected to indulge in critical analysis of the evidence on record. When a provision has been enacted in the Special Act to protect the persons who belong to the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes and a bar has been imposed in granting bail under Section 438 of the Code, the provision in the Special Act cannot be easily brushed aside by elaborate discussion on the evidence."

Supreme Court relied upon this precedent in, Bachu Das v. State of Bihar, 2014(1) R.C.R. (Criminal) 975.

13. In Niranjan Singh v. Prabhakar Rajaram Kharote, 1980 Cri.LJ 426, Justice V.R. Krishna Iyer, J., speaking for the bench of Supreme Court, holds as follows:-

"8. Custody, in the context of Section 439, (we are not, be it noted, dealing with anticipatory bail under Section 438) is physical control or an least physical presence of the accused in court coupled with submission to the jurisdiction and orders of the court.

9. He can be in custody not merely when the police arrests him, produces him before a Magistrate and gets a remand to judicial or other custody. He can, be stated to be in judicial custody when he surrenders before the court and submits to its directions. In the present case, the police officers applied for bail before a Magistrate who refused bail and still the accused, without surrendering before the Magistrate, obtained an order for stay to move the Sessions Court. This direction of the Magistrate was wholly irregular and may be, enabled the accused persons to circumvent the principle of Section 439 Criminal Procedure Code We might have taken a serious view of such a course, indifferent to mandatory provisions by the subordinate magistracy but for the fact that in the present case the accused made up for it by surrender before the Sessions Court. Thus, the Sessions Court acquired jurisdiction to consider the bail application. It could have refused bail and remanded the accused to custody, but, in the circumstances and for the reasons mentioned by it, exercised its jurisdiction in favour of grant of bail. The High Court added to the conditions subject to which bail was to be granted and mentioned that the accused had submitted to the custody of the court. We, therefore, do not proceed to upset the order on this ground. Had the circumstances been different we would have demolished the order for bail. We may frankly state that had we been left to ourselves we might not have granted bail but sitting under Article 136 do not feel that we should interfere with a discretion exercised by the two courts below."

14. In Sundeep Kumar Bafna v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 2014 SC 1745, Supreme Court holds:-

> "….8….Like the science of physics, law also abhors the existence of a vacuum, as is adequately adumbrated by the common law maxim, viz. where there is a right there is a remedy'. The universal right of personal liberty emblazened by Article 21 of our Constitution, being fundamental to the very existence of not only to a citizen of India but to every person, cannot be trifled with merely on a presumptive plane. We should also keep in perspective the fact that Parliament has carried out amendments to this pandect comprising Sections 437 to 439, and, therefore, predicates on the well established principles of interpretation of statutes that what is not plainly evident from their reading, was never intended to be incorporated into law. Some salient features of these provisions are that whilst Section 437 contemplates that a person has to be accused or suspect of a non-bailable offence and consequently arrested or detained without warrant, Section 439 empowers the Session Court or High Court to grant bail if such a person is in custody. The difference of language manifests the sublime differentiation in the two provisions, and, therefore, there is no justification in giving the word `custody' the same or closely similar meaning and content as arrest or detention. Furthermore, while Section 437 severally curtails the power of the Magistrate to grant bail in context of the commission of non-bailable offences punishable with death or imprisonment for life, the two higher Courts have only the procedural requirement of giving notice of the Bail application to the Public Prosecutor, which requirement is also ignorable if circumstances so demand. The regimes regulating the powers of the Magistrate on the one hand and the two superior Courts are decidedly and intentionally not identical, but vitally and drastically dissimilar. Indeed, the only complicity that can be contemplated is the conundrum of 'Committal of cases to the Court of Session' because of a possible hiatus created by the CrPC."
> "… 26… Once the prayer for surrender is accepted, the Appellant before us would come into the custody of the Court within the contemplation of Section 439 CrPC. The Sessions Court as well as the High Court, both of which exercised concurrent powers under Section 439, would then have to venture to the merits of the matter so as to decide whether the applicant/Appellant had shown sufficient reason or grounds for being enlarged on bail."

15. A Bench of this Court in Karam Dass and others v. State of H.P., 1995 (1) Shim.L.C 363, accepted the surrender of the persons who had been arraigned as accused in an FIR under SCST Act, and released them on bail, by exercising its powers under section 439 CrPC.

16. In, Jones versus State, 2004 Cr.LJ 2755, Madras High Court, observed:-

> "16. This Court recently has brought to light the misuse of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 against people of other community. This is another example of misuse of the Act. The purpose of bringing SC & ST Act is to put down the atrocities committed on the members of the scheduled castes and scheduled tribes. The law enforcing authorities must bear in mind that it cannot be misused to settle other disputes between the parties, which is alien to the provisions contemplated under the Act. An Act enacted for laudable purpose can also become unreasonable, when it is exercised overzealously by the enforcing authorities for extraneous reasons. It is for the authorities to guard against such misuse of power conferred on them."

17. In Dr. N.T. Desai vs. State of Gujarat, (1997) 2 GLR 942, High Court of Gujrat, observed:

> "… 8…. But then having closely examined the complaint more particularly in the context and light of the backdrop of the peculiar facts situation highlighted by the petitioner leading ultimately to filing of the complaint, this Court prime facie at the very outset is at some doubt about the complainant's story and yet if it readily, mechanically like a gullible child accepts the allegations made in the complaint at its face value, it would be surely blundering and wandering away from the path of bail-justice, making itself readily available in the hands of the scheming complainant who on mere asking will get arrested accused on some false allegations of having committed non-bailable offence, under the Atrocity Act, meaning thereby the Court rendering itself quite deaf, dumb and blind mortgaging its commonsense, ordinary prudence with no perception for justice, denying the rightful protection to the accused becoming ready pawn pliable in the hands of sometime scheming, unscrupulous complainants !!! This sort of a surrender to prima facie doubtful allegation in the complaint is not at all a judicial approach, if not unjudicial !! At the cost of repetition, 1 make it clear that these observations are only preliminary, at this stage only in peculiar background of the case highlighted by petitioner-accused and for that purpose may be even in future be so highlighted by the accused in some other cases to the satisfaction of the Court ! The reason is having regard to the basic cardinal tenets of the criminal jurisprudence more particularly in view of the peculiar circumstances highlighted by the accused which allegedly actuated complainant to victimise him, in case if ultimately at the end of trial what the accused has submitted in defence is accepted as probable or true and as a result, the accused is given a clean bill, holding that the complaint was nothing else but false, concoction by way of spite to wreck the personal vengeance then in that case what indeed would be the remedy and redresses in the hands of the petitioner, who in the instant case is Doctor by profession and for that purpose in other cases an innocent citizen? He stands not only stigmatised by filing of a false complaint against him but he shall stand further subjected to trial !! Not only that but before > that even subjected to arrest before the public eye and taken to Special Court where only he could pray for bail ! Thus, subjected to all sort of agonies, pains and sufferings lowering his image and esteem in the eye of public because the Court when approached adopted the helpless attitude? Under such bewildering circumstances, what indeed would be the face of the Court and the fate of the Administration of Justice denying bail to some victimised innocent accused at crucial stage when he surrenders to the Court custody for the purpose?!! Should the Court proclaiming doing justice stand befooled at the hands of some mischievous complainant with head-down in shame !! Supposing for giving false evidence before the Court, the complainant is ordered to be prosecuted, but then will such prosecutions of complainant bring back the damage already done to an innocent !! Bearing in mind this most embarrassing and excruciating situation created by the complainant when, this Court as a Constitutional functionary is duty bound to zealously protect the liberty of citizen, should it be helplessly watching and passively surrendering itself to sometimes prima facie ex-facie malicious complaint denying simple bail to the accused? In this regard, perhaps, it may be idly said that accused can be given compensation for the malicious prosecution 22 and ultimate refusal of bail or anticipatory bail !! True, but then in that case what compensation can any Court would be in a position to give when the complainant is a person who is poor enough unable to pay a single pie?!! Not only that but in case complainant is rich and able to pay compensation then even can any monetary compensation ever adequately compensate the wrong accused suffered at the hands of the malicious complainant? It is here that the conscience of this Court stands pricked and terribly perturbed and indeed will have a sleepless night if what ought we do not know where the petitioner, in the facts and circumstances of the case be quite innocent and accordingly a needy consumer of bail justice and yet is unnecessarily subjected to arrest taken to the police custody and then before Court because of denial of bail to him at this stage !!"

18. The practice of accused surrendering before Sessions Court or High Court and thereby obtaining ad-interim bail, cannot be said to be with a view to override the legislative intention of restraining the anticipatory bail to the violators of the SCST Act. If the allegations are serious, keeping in view the object of the SCST Act and the purpose for which this stringent provision in SCST Act was enacted, then certainly, such kind of accused would not be permitted to take advantage of ad interim bails. However, a few persons, who are protected under the SCST Act, try to take undue advantage of the legislative intent, which is to bring them at par with society at large, and which is for their upliftment, and use it as a tool to send people in custody. In those cases, it shall be prudent, proper and legal to grant ad-interim bail. The Courts cannot be mute spectators, even when from the face of the allegations, it is seen that provisions of the SCST Act have been invoked simply with a view to deny the benefit of Section 438 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

19. In the result the present petition is allowed. Interim order dated 28.6.2019 is made absolute subject to further following conditions:

> a) The petitioner is directed to join the investigation as and when called by the Investigating Officer. It shall be open for the Investigating Officer to call the petitioner as and when he feels such a necessity. The petitioner undertakes to appear before the Investigating Officer as and when directed to do so. However, whenever the investigation takes place within the boundaries of the Police Station or Police Post, then the Petitioner shall not be called before 9 am and shall be let off before 5 pm.

b) The Petitioner shall neither influence nor try to control the investigating officer, in any manner whatsoever.

c) The petitioner undertakes not to threaten or browbeat the complainant or to use any pressure tactics.

d) The Petitioner undertakes not to make any inducement threat or promise, directly or indirectly, to the investigating officer or any person acquainted with the facts of the case to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court or any Police Officer or tamper with the evidence.

e) The Petitioner shall not hamper the investigation.

f) In case the of the launching of the prosecution, the petitioner undertakes to attend the trial and to appear before the Court which issues the summons or warrants and shall furnish fresh bail bonds to the satisfaction of such Court.

20. Any observation made herein above shall not be taken as an expression of opinion on the merits of the case and the trial Court shall decide the matter uninfluenced by any observation made herein above.

Petition stands allowed in the aforesaid terms.

Decided on: 11th July 2019

Constitution of India, 1950– Articles 14 & 226-Doctrine of procedural fairness- Applicability- Appointment of DPE in a school by PTA Committee– Challenge thereto on ground that procedure adopted by Committee was not fair and transparent– Hon'ble Single Bench dismissing writ and holding selection as valid– LPA– Held, selection criteria was prepared only on date of interview regarding which candidates had no knowledge before participation- Criteria not giving specific marks for possessing M.Phil degree in subject though such marks to be allocated to candidate having done Ph.D.– No material that all candidates who appeared in interview were not of that area– Only selected candidate obtaining full marks under head 'Local dialects' – Petitioner though only candidate with post graduate qualification given 6 marks out of 10 by subject expert whereas selected candidate having lesser qualification getting full marks out of ten– Criteria gave handle to selection committee to discriminate amongst candidates and had actually given them leverage to choose or reject candidate according to their whims and caprice– LPA allowed– Judgment of Hon'ble Single Bench set aside– Appointment of selected candidate set aside. (Paras 5 & 6)

Case referred:

Kailash Chand Sharma vs. State of Rajasthan and others, (2002) 6 SCC 562

For the appellant : Mr. Gaurav Gautam, Advocate.

For the respondents : Mr. Narender Guleria, Additional Advocate General with Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General for respondents No.1 to 3 & 5.
Mr. Bhuvnesh Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No. 4 & 6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Jyotsna Rewal Dua, J.

The challenge in this appeal is to the judgment dated 30.09.2015, passed by learned Single Judge, whereby writ petition, filed by the appellant assailing the selection and appointment of respondent No.6, to the post of DPE, was dismissed.

2 Factual position in the instant case is:-

2(i) Applications were invited for filling in one post of DPE in Government Senior Secondary School, Jaddu Kuljar, Tehsil Jhandutta, District Bilaspur, under PTA Policy. Last date for applying was 05.10.2007. 53 candidates applied for the post. 25 candidates eventually appeared in the Interview held on 05.10.2007.

2(ii). The result was declared and respondent No.6, was selected for the post of DPE on PTA basis. He joined as such, the very next day of holding of Interview, i.e. on 06.10.2007.

2(iii). The petitioner filed a complaint before Sub Divisional Magistrate-cum-Chairman Inquiry Committee, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, against the selection and appointment of respondent No.6 as DPE on PTA basis. Vide order dated 22.09.2008, the Chairman, holding that merit has been ignored by the PTA Committee while appointing respondent No.6, sent the recommendations to the Head of the Institution as well as to the President, PTA, for further necessary action.

2(iv). The appeal filed by respondent No.6 against the above decision of Chairman Inquiry Committee, was allowed by the Additional District Magistrate, Bilaspur, vide order dated 09.04.2010. The order was on the basis that in the selection process, respondent No.6 had secured 58.05 marks, whereas, the petitioner secured 56.43 marks. Therefore, it was observed that merit has not been ignored by the PTA Committee. It was further observed in the order that any criteria which came into force subsequent to the completion of the selection process cannot be applied with retrospective effect.

2(v). Aggrieved by the order passed by the ADM as well as against his non-selection as DPE, the appellant invoked jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 of Constitution of India by filing a writ petition. This writ petition was initially allowed on 20.12.2012. The appointment of respondent No.6 to the post of DPE was set aside and the order passed by the ADM was also quashed. However, respondent No.6 preferred Letters Patent Appeal, against the judgment dated 20.12.2012. In the appeal, vide decision dated 17.06.2013, the judgment passed by learned Single Judge, was set aside and the writ petition was restored to its original number for it's decision afresh.

2(vi). In view of the above directions, the writ petition came to be decided once again on 30.09.2015. Vide this judgment dated 30.09.2015, impugned in the present appeal, the selection of respondent No.6, has been upheld and the writ petition has been dismissed.

3. Feeling aggrieved against the decision of learned Single Judge, the present appeal has been preferred. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record.

4. Contentions :-

4(i) Learned counsel for the appellant contended that:-

(a) The selection criteria adopted by the PTA Committee was not fair and transparent. It was made to favour the blue eyed persons of the members of Selection Committee. Prejudice has been caused to him by adoption of a discriminatory and arbitrary selection criteria.

(b) Petitioner was the only Post Graduate candidate with M. Phil degree. But only 4% out of total percentage of marks secured in Post Graduation (M. Phil), was to be allocated in this criteria to such Post Graduate candidates with M. Phil degree. Whereas, candidate with Ph.D degree was to be awarded 10 marks. This is alleged to be unreasonable and arbitrary criteria.

(c) 5 marks allocated in the selection criteria for 'Local Dialects' were meaningless. In the instant case, 5 marks reserved for candidates conversant with local dialects, was only to be a tool in the hands of Member of the Selection Committee, to allocate the same to candidates of their choice, irrespective of their merit.

(d) The marks reserved under the heading 'Local Dialects' is in violation of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in (2002) 6 SCC, 562, titled as Kailash Chand Sharma v. State of Rajasthan and others.

4 (ii) Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents, submitted that a fair and reasonable criteria was adopted by the PTA Committee for selection of DPE. It is further contended that after participating in the selection process, it is not open for the writ petitioner to challenge the same.

5. Observations:-

5(a) We are constrained to observe that the selection criteria adopted by the respondents was faulty, arbitrary and unreasonable. The resultant selection process culminating in selection and appointment of respondent No.6, therefore, cannot be held to be lawful. We are observing so for the following reasons:-

(b) The record shows that selection criteria (Annexure R-6) was prepared only by the President, PTA on 05.10.2007, i.e. on the date of the holding of Interview. The competing candidates were not made aware about this criteria before participating in the Interview. Thus, there was no occasion to challenge the same earlier.

(c) As per this selection criteria, the selection was to be conducted out of 100. It is not clear from the criteria as to whether selection was out of 100% or 100 marks. It will be appropriate to reproduce this criteria hereunder:-

*"Criteria

	Academic Examination	Percentage	MM 100
(1)	Basic qualification for the post,i.e. +2 or graduation.	35% (of the total percentage)
(2)	Professional Education for the post, i.e. B.Ped or B.P.E	30%	"
(3)	Higher Education for the M. Ped.	10%	"
(4) (a) M-Phil 4% (of the total percentage)
(b) Ph. D.		10	(10 marks of Ph.D completed by the candidate)
	Interview
(5)	Subject Expert M.M	10
(6)	Local Dialect	05

Total= 100"*

(d) In terms of above criteria, framed by Pradhan-PTA, in case, a candidate is holder of M. Phil degree, he is to be given 4% out of total percentage of marks secured by him in M. Phil. However, in case, the candidate is Ph.D, he is to be given total 10 marks. This defies logic. When a candidate possessing Ph.D degree, could get 10 marks in the criteria, then why not some specific marks could be allocated to a candidate for possessing M. Phil degree. There is no logic to the adopted criteria, of giving 10 marks to Ph. D candidate and 4% out of total percentage of marks to M. Phil candidate. Award of just 4% out of total percentage of marks secured by the appellant in M. Phil degree instead of allocating some specific marks, has definitely caused prejudiced to him. Also, it is not understandable as to why the differentiation was made between holder of M. Phil and Ph. D degree in respect of allocation of percentage of marks and allocation of specific marks. It is to be noticed that petitioner was the only candidate with Post Graduation degree of M. Phil.

(e) It was argued during hearing that PTA Committee perhaps followed the criteria for selection of Para Teachers, a post different to DPE (PTA). However, even if criteria for selection of Para Teachers at (Annexure R-4/2) is perused, it shows entirely different picture. The marks there are awarded, which are in turn based on percentage of marks. This is not the position in the instant case. In any case, it is not the pleaded case of the respondent that the selection criteria was based upon Para Teachers' selection criteria.

(f) Looking at this criteria as a whole, it is impossible to fathom as to whether it is out of 100 marks or out of 100% because both ways, it leads nowhere. Neither 100 marks can be secured in the above criteria nor 100%, by a candidate. How the total comes to 100 is baffling.

(g) The criteria allocates 5 and 10 marks respectively under the heading 'Local Dialect' and 'Subject Expert'. The result of the selection process at (Annexure P-4) is revealing in various aspects. It is nobody's case that 25 candidates who appeared in the interview did not belong to the area or were not conversant with the 'Local Dialects'. Yet, in this result under the heading 'Local Dialects', it is only the selected candidate/respondent No.6, who has been given complete full 5 marks out of 5. No other candidate has been given full 5 marks. As per arguments addressed at bar, all candidates were local. Appellant and respondent No.6 belonged to same Tehsil and District, with just 6 K.M. distance between their houses. It is profitable to reproduce relevant Paras of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in (2002) 6 SCC, 562, titled as Kailash Chand Sharma v. State of Rajasthan and others:-

> "33.The above discussion leads us to the conclusion that the award of bonus marks to the residents of the district and the residents of the rural areas of the district amounts to impermissible discrimination. There is no rational basis for such preferential treatment on the material available before us. The ostensible reasons put forward to distinguish the citizens residing in the State are either non-existent or irrelevant and they have no nexus with the object sought to be achieved, namely, spread of education at primary level. The offending part of the circular has the effect of diluting merit, without in any way promotion the objective. The impugned circular dated 10-6-1998 insofar as the award of bonus marks is concerned, has been rightly declared to be illegal and unconstitutional by the High Court.
> 34. One more serious infirmity in the impugned circular is that it does not spell out any criteria or indicia for determining whether the applicant is a resident of rural area. Everything is left bald with the potential of giving rise to varying interpretations thereby defeating the apparent objective of the rule. On matters such as duration of residence, place of schooling etc., there are bound to be controversies. The authorities, who are competent to issue residential certificates, are left to apply the criteria according to their thinking,which can by no means be uniform. The decision in State of Maharashtra v. Raj Kumar is illustrative of the problem created by vague or irrelevant criteria. In that case a rule was made by the State of Maharashtra that a candidate will be considered a rural candidate if he had passed SSC Examination held from a village or a town halving only 'C type municipality. The object of the rule, as noticed by this court, was to appoint candidates having full knowledge of rural life so that they would be more suitable for working as officers in rural areas. The rule was struck down on the ground that there was no nexus between the classification made and the objection sought to be achieved because "as the rule stands any person who may not have lived in a village at all can appear for SSC Examination from a village and yet become eligible for selection" (SCC p. 314, para 2). rule rule was held to be violative of Articles 14 and 16. when no guidance at all is discernible from the impugned circular as to the identification of the residence of the applicants especially having regard to the indefinite nature of the concept of residence the provision giving the benefit of bonus marks to the rural residents will fall foul of Article 14."

(h) The petitioner figuring at Serial No.2 of the result, the only candidate with Post Graduate Qualification, is given 6 marks out of 10 by the subject expert, whereas, respondent No.6, figuring at Sl. No.3 who is not a Post Graduate, gets 10 out of 10 in addition to 5 out of 5 marks under the heading 'Local Dialects'. Considering the way the selection criteria was made and adopted the way the marks have been allocated, distributed, the favouritism cannot be ruled out. For selection of PTA teachers, where all the candidates will invariably be from the area concerned, it defies logic for reserving 5 marks to be awarded for 'Local Dialects'. Such kind of allocation of marks in the facts and circumstances of the case, will obviously give handle to the selection committee to discriminate amongst the candidates. Selection, therefore, on the basis of such criteria cannot be said to be transparent and free from suspicion.

6. Thus, looking from any angle, the selection criteria adopted by the PTA Committee, neither makes sense nor is in accordance with law. This criteria is bound to give handle to the Members of the Selection Committee to discriminate and has actually given them leverage to choose or reject a candidate according to their whims and caprice, causing prejudice to the deserving candidates. We cannot loose sight of the fact that for one post, there were 53 applicants, out of which, 25 had appeared for the interview.

7. In view of the above discussion, the judgment passed by learned Single Judge, dated 30.09.2015, is set aside. The selection and appointment of respondent No.6, as DPE, in Government Senior Secondary School, Jaddu Kuljar, Tehsil Jhandutta, District Bilaspur, is also set aside. Respondents No.1 to 3, are directed to conduct a fresh selection process by following a reasonable, just and transparent criteria, which is free from ambiguity and which is clear and does not leave any room for its misuse. Though, it will be a fresh selection process, however, 25 candidates, who had appeared in the interview for the post in question on 05.10.2007, will also be at liberty to participate in the fresh selection process. The selection process be initiated and taken to its logical conclusion within 3 months from today.

The appeal is accordingly allowed. Pending application(s), if any, also stand disposed of.

Hemant Mohan and another …Petitioners
Versus
State of H.P. …Respondent

Cr.MMO No. 183 of 2018
Date of Decision 10th July, 2019

Factories Act, 1948 – Section 106 and proviso – Time limitation for taking cognizance of offences – Computation thereof – Petitioner challenging cognizance taken by trial court of offences punishable under Act on ground of limitation – State alleging cognizance to be within limitation - Held, violations of factory laws were noticed by Labour Inspector during inspection on 23.5.2016 – Three months period for filing complaint expired before 23.8.2016 - Complaint filed on 21.9.2016 was barred by limitation and no cognizance could have been taken by court – Complaint totally silent about written notice having been sent to Manager and receipt of his response by complainant – Complainant cannot rely upon proviso to Section 106 of Act and claim extension in period of limitation –Petition allowed - Complaint quashed.(Paras 7 & 8)

For the P etitioners: Mr.K.D. Sood, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Shubham Sood, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr.Desh Raj Thakur, Additional Advocate General with Mr.R.P.Singh, Deputy Advocate General for the respondent/State.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur, J. (Oral)

Present petition has been filed against cognizance of offence taken by learned Magistrate in a complaint filed by Inspector appointed under Section 8 of Factories Act, 1948, (hereinafter in short 'the Act') against the petitioner, being occupier of establishment, for alleged violation of various provisions of Factories Act and Rules framed thereunder.

2 Main ground for assailing the institution of complaint against the petitioner is that as per complaint Annexure P-3, the same has been filed for violation of provisions of Factories Act and Rules noticed during the course of inspection dated 23.5.2016, which is in violation of provision of Section 106 of Factories Act, wherein it is provided that no Court shall take cognizance of any offence punishable under the Act unless complaint thereof is made within three months of date on which the alleged commission of offence came to the knowledge of an Inspector.

3 Learned counsel for the petitioners has pointed out that as per complaint preferred by Inspector, the same has been filed on 21.9.2016, for violation of relevant provisions of law noticed during the course of inspection dated 23.5.2016, whereas three months after the inspection had expired on 23.8.2016 and therefore, in view of provisions of Section 106 of the Act, the impugned orders passed by learned Magistrate taking cognizance of complaint so preferred are liable to be quashed.

4 It is contended on behalf of the respondent/State that though the inspection was carried on 23.5.2016, but thereafter vide written order dated 27.5.2016 (Annexure R-4), the petitioner was called upon by the Inspector along with compliance in writing and relevant documents/registers, with regard to violation noticed during the inspection and the petitioner had responded to the said communication vide letter dated 8.6.2016 which was received in office of Labour Inspector on 5.7.2016 and on finding the response of petitioner unsatisfactory the complaint was filed on 21.9.2016 which is within the limitation period in view of proviso of Section 106 of the Act which provides that where the offence consists of disobeying a written order, made by an Inspector, the complaint thereof may be made within six months of the date on which the offence is alleged to have been committed.

5 In response to the plea of respondent/State, learned counsel for the petitioner has pointed out that respondent/State is relying upon documents Annexure R4 and R5 for the first time in reply to present petition, whereas Labour Inspector has never put reliance on those documents and he has preferred the complaint simply on the basis of inspection carried on 23.5.2016, which is evident from the contents of complaint as well as documents filed therewith as also depicted in the list of enclosures mentioned in the complaint.

6 Perusal of record of complaint, filed by the Inspector, received from learned Magistrate, it is evident that complaint has been filed on the basis of inspection carried on 23.5.2016 and there is not even a whisper about issuance of written order dated 27.5.2016 and initiation of complaint by the Inspector after receiving the response from the petitioner and/or failure of petitioners to comply with directions or for unsatisfactory response of petitioners. Rather, it is the petitioners, who along with their reply to complaint have placed on record the response dated 8.6.2016 on record indicating therein that issues raised in inspection dated 23.5.2016 were duly clarified in said reply.

7 Therefore, it is evident from the record, as pleaded by petitioners, that complaint was not on the basis of non-compliance of written order issued to the petitioners but on the basis of inspection dated 23.5.2016 only. Therefore, as noticed supra, in case of filing the complaint on the basis of inspection dated 23.5.2016, the same was to be preferred before 23rd August, 2016 and thus, the complaint is time barred and for this reason, learned Magistrate was precluded from taking cognizance of complaint on the basis of material before him as at the time of taking cognizance neither any written order nor response thereto or any other document or any averment in complaint was before him so as to invoke the proviso of Section 106 of the Act.

8 Even otherwise, if it is considered that there was written order dated 27.5.2016 issued by the Inspector to comply with the provisions of Factories Act and Rules made thereunder, then also after receiving the response of petitioners, with respect to compliance thereof, it was incumbent upon the Labour Inspector to inspect the factory again for pointing out the deficiencies on the part of factory management or non-compliance of written order issued by him, but in the complaint Inspector remained completely silent not only about issuance of written order but also about response received from the petitioners.

9 If the Labour Inspector was claiming the limitation period of six months on the basis of proviso to Section 106 of the Act, then it was incumbent upon him to have referred to this written order as well as response of the petitioners in complaint and also to state in the complaint about the shortcomings in compliance of written order on the basis of response of petitioners and/or after conducting the inspection again for verification of compliance. But it is not the case in the present proceedings.

10 Therefore, without referring to deficiencies in response filed by petitioners, it is not permissible for the respondent/State to justify the action of Inspector on the basis of written order dated 23.5.2016.

11 Learned Additional Advocate General has also contended that in present case there is a continuing offence and therefore, as per Explanation (a) to Section 106 of the Act, the period of limitation shall be computed with reference to every point of time during which the offence continues and as the petitioners have failed to comply with written order issued to them, the limitation period is continuing.

12 First of all, as noticed supra, Labour Inspector is not relying upon the written instructions issued by him and also there is nothing on record to establish that even after issuance of written order, the offence, as alleged, was continuing on the part of petitioners. Therefore, for want of cogent and reliable material/evidence on record, the benefit of Explanation (a) to Section 106 of the Act is also not available to the respondent/State.

13 Perusal of record indicates that Labour Inspector has relied upon document i.e. 'report of offence' dated 22.7.2016 under the Act, but again this report refers the date and time of inspection as 23.5.2016. This report is also silent about issuance of written order, reply received in response thereto and also about any further verification by the Inspector with regard to continuation of offence. Where the petitioners were claiming the compliance of communication sent to them by the Labour Inspector, it was necessary for the Labour Inspector to refer the same in its report and complaint, and also to verify the status of compliance on the part of Management. Had it been so, then definitely the Prosecution Agency was entitled for the benefit of proviso and Explanation (a) to Section 106 of the Act.

14 Therefore, in view of above discussion, the impugned orders dated 4.1.2017 and 21.8.2017 are set aside and proceedings, arising out of complaint filed by the Inspector, pending before learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, in case No. 490-3 of 2016 titled State of H.P. vs. Hemant Mohan and another are quashed. Petition stands disposed of. Record be returned forthwith.

Uma Devi Nambiar and Others vs. T.C.Sidhan (dead), (2004) 2 SCC 321

For the appellant : Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate.
Respondents already exparte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Jyotsna Rewal Dua, J.

This is appellant/ plaintiff's second appeal for challenging the Will dated 29.02.1988, executed by one Sh. Latu and consequent attestation of mutation on that basis, in favour of the defendant.

2. Original parties to the litigation died during the pendency of present appeal and were substituted by their successors-in-interest. The parties are being addressed hereinafter as 'plaintiff' and 'defendant', as they were in learned Trial Court. Plaintiff (now successors-in-interest) is the appellant in the present appeal and defendant (now successors-in-interest) is the respondent.

3. Facts which have come out from the record are:-

3(i) Latu, the testator of the suit property in question, was owner in possession of the suit land measuring 9-15 bighas, comprised in Khata Khatauni No. 50/96, Khasra Nos.42, 93 and 309, situated in Mauza, Briela, Pargana Giripur, Tehsil Rajgarh, District Sirmour, H.P., as per Jamabandi for the year 1986-87. Latu's wife had predeceased him. He had no issues. The plaintiff (Jatho Devi) is daughter of one Sh. Dhonu, brother of Latu. Jatho Devi, was married years ago and was living separately in her matrimonial home in a separate distant village.

3(ii) Latu died in 1989 due to old age. After his death, Mutation No.195 was initially attested in respect of suit property on 29.09.1989 in favour of Jatho Devi, as his sole surviving legal heir.

3(iii) The above mutation order was challenged by the defendant before the Collector Sub Division Rajgarh in case No. 26/2010. Vide his order dated 24.06.1991, the Collector remanded the matter. Where after, on 22.12.2000, the Assistant Collector reviewed his earlier order dated 29.09.1989 and passed fresh order conferring the suit property owned by Latu in favour of defendant, on the basis of registered Will dated 29.02.1988, executed by Latu, in favour of defendant.

3(iv) Aggrieved against reviewing of mutation No.195 vide order dated 22.12.2000, in favour of the defendant, as well as for seeking a decree for declaration that she is an exclusive owner in possession of the suit property by way of inheritance from late Sh. Latu as his sole legal heir; and also for seeking permanent prohibitory injunction against the defendant in respect of suit property, the plaintiff filed the civil suit on 18.01.2001.

3(v) In his written statement, the defendant propounded Will dated 29.02.1988, executed by late Sh. Latu in his favour, bequeathing the entire suit property in his favour.

3(vi) Evidence was led by the parties. Both the learned Courts below, on appreciation of the pleadings and the evidence on record, have concurrently come to the conclusion that the Will dated 29.02.1988, (Ext. DW-2/A) has been duly proved in accordance with law. And also held that there are no suspicious circumstances surrounding the execution of the Will. Hence, the suit has been dismissed.

4. Feeling aggrieved against the concurrent judgments and decrees, dismissing her suit, the present Regular Second Appeal has been preferred by the plaintiff. This appeal was admitted on 20.09.2005. Following, substantial questions of law were framed on 22.03.2018:-

1. Whether the Will Ex. DW-2/A as set up by the respondent has not been prepared in conformity with the mandatory provisions of law and the same is shrouded with suspicious circumstances and, therefore, no reliance could be placed thereon;
2. Whether the findings, as recorded by both the Courts below are vitiated on account of misreading and mis-appreciating of the pleadings of the parties, as well as, oral and documentary evidence on record;
3. Whether the marginal witness in Will Ex. DW-2/A, being near relation of the respondent and so much so that DW-3 Shankar Dass, Kanungo uncle of the respondent and the fact that the respondent himself actively participated in the preparation of Will Ex. DW-2/A, therefore, this Will is not legal and valid."

5. I have heard learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff and gone through the record. No one has put in appearance for the respondent/defendant. They were proceeded against ex-parte vide order dated 12.07.2018.

6. Questions No. 1:

Execution of the Will:-

6(i) It is settled law that the Will has to be executed in the manner required by Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925 and has to be proved in accordance with Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act.

Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925:-

"63. Execution of unprivileged Wills. —Every testator, not being a soldier employed in an expedition or engaged in actual warfare,or a mariner at sea, shall execute his Will according to the following rules:*

(a) The testator shall sign or shall affix his mark to the Will, or it shall be signed by some other person in his presence and by his direction.

(b) The signature or mark of the testator, or the signature of the person signing for him, shall be so placed that it shall appear that it was intended thereby to give effect to the writing as a Will.

(c) The Will shall be attested by two or more witnesses, each of whom has seen the testator sign or affix his mark to the Will or has seen some other person sign the Will, in the presence and by the direction of the testator, or has received from the testator a personal acknowledgement of his signature or mark, or the signature of such other person; and each of the witnesses shall sign the Will in the presence of the testator, but it shall not be necessary that more than one witness be present at the same time, and no particular form of attestation shall be necessary."

Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act:-

"68.Proof of execution of document required by law to be attested.—If a document is required by law to be attested, it shall not be used as evidence until one attesting witness at least has been called for the purpose of proving its execution, if there be an attesting witness alive, and subject to the process of the Court and capable of giving evidence: [Provided that it shall not be necessary to call an attesting witness in proof of the execution of any document, not being a Will, which has been registered in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (16 of 1908), unless its execution by the person by whom it purports to have been executed is specifically denied]."

Relevant Statements:-

6(ii) Defendant as DW-1:-

For proving the execution of Will as well as for proving its validity, the defendant/the propounder of the Will, stepped into the witness box as DW-1. He has stated that; The testator was alone in his old age; He was issue-less; His wife had predeceased him; His brothers had also died; Jatho Devi/plaintiff had not visited Latu for the last 14-

15 years or more; Plaintiff's General Power of Attorney Smt. Basanti Devi was also married and living in Solan; Both of them never visited village Briela where testator lived and where suit property is situated; It was the defendant, resident of same village, who took care of the testator for around 4-5 years preceding his death; It was the defendant, who had performed last rites of Latu/testator; Neither plaintiff nor her General Power of Attorney had visited village Briela even after the death of the testator; There was no relation of the testator who cared for him; It is because of defendant's care and looking after the testator that the later executed the Will in question in favour of the defendant.

He further stated that for such execution of the Will, the testator took the defendant to the Tehsil office on 29.02.1988; Testator/Latu, was not suffering from any mental or physical incapability at the time of execution of the Will; There was no pressure on him either of the defendant or of anyone else for executing the Will in question; Will was executed by him of his own free volition; The testator had himself requested the scribe for writing the Will; Where after, the scribe had read over the Will to the testator, who after accepting the contents thereof put his thumb impression on it; S/Sh. Jagat Ram and Madan Singh, who were present on that day in Tehsil office in connection with their own work, stood as attesting witnesses to the Will; The attesting witnesses were present at the time of execution of the Will and had put their signatures as such on the Will after the thumb impression were put on it by the testator; Neither plaintiff nor her General Power of Attorney took care of late Sh. Latu and that it was he, who looked after the testator and it is because of such looking after and also taking care of him that the testator had genuinely bequeathed the suit property in his favour by executing the Will in question. DW-1 has further stated that after the Will was executed by late Sh. Latu in presence of scribe and after the attesting witnesses put their signatures on it, the Will was taken for registration before the Sub Registrar/ Tehsildar and was registered on the same day. Latu was in sound disposition of mind.

6(iii). On going through the record, one cannot help but notice that the plaintiff even in the plaint has no where mentioned that either she or her attorney ever looked after Latu. No suggestion was given to DW-1, during his cross-examination that Will was the result of undue influence exercised by the defendant over Latu.

6(iv) DW-2 (Madan Singh) :

For proving the due and valid execution of the Will, the defendant has also examined one of the attesting witnesses as per the requirement of Section 68 of the Indian Evidence Act. Sh. Madan Singh (DW-2), stated that he was in the Tehsildar office in connection with his own work regarding registry of his land. In fact, in cross-examination, he has given the complete details of the land, which he got registered in his favour on that very day. He stated that he knew Latu as well as defendant Surat Singh. He further proved the valid execution of the Will by saying that; The Will was scribed by Munshi, thereafter, it was read over to Latu, who admitted it to be correctly drafted as per his desire and then put his thumb impression on it; Thereafter, he and Jagat Ram appended their signatures on the Will as attesting witnesses; Will was thereafter taken by them before the Sub Registrar/Tehsildar for its registration, where Shankar Dass had identified the testator. This witness has identified his as well as Jagat Ram's signatures and thumb impression of Latu on the Will. He has also testified that at the time of execution of the Will, Latu was in perfect mental and physical condition. Plaintiff could not extract anything in her favour from the statement of DW-2.

6(v) DW-3 (Shankar Dass):-

Defendant has also produced in the witness box, Shankar Dass, the identifier of the testator at the time of registration of Will. Shankar Dass as DW-3, has stated that in 1988, he was working as Office Kanugoo in Rajgarh and he knew Latu, as he belonged to adjoining village; Latu had come in 1988 in Tehsil office for execution and registration of the Will. He admitted having identified Latu before the Registrar at the time of registration of the Will. He further says that on the day of execution and registration of the Will, Latu was in good physical condition and suffered from no infirmity either of body or of mind.

6(vi). Considering the above evidence, there is no escape from concluding that execution and registration of the Will has been duly proved in accordance with law by the propounder of the Will. Question is answered accordingly.

Questions No. 2 & 3:

7. Suspicious Circumstances & Appreciation of Evidence:-

7(i) It has been argued by learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff that Will is shrouded with suspicious circumstances, in as much as, beneficiary and his acquaintances have played active part in execution and registration of the Will. This he contended, in itself is suspicious circumstance. The contention merits rejection, in the facts and circumstances of the case.

7(ii) Mere participation by the beneficiary or his relation in execution of the Will, cannot be construed to be a suspicious circumstance. I have gone through the statements of the plaintiff's witnesses as well as statements of defendant's witnesses. The statements of defendant's witnesses are coherent and natural, without any ambiguity or confusion. It is not the case of the plaintiff that either the attesting witness or the identifier or the Registering Authority had any axe to grind against the plaintiff. The will has been proved in accordance with law and the witnesses have been examined. No doubt, the beneficiary was present at the time of execution of the Will, but that cannot be a ground to doubt the valid execution of the Will or to contend that such participation has to be treated as a suspicious circumstance. The beneficiary has not even been put any suggestion by the plaintiff about any undue pressure, influence having been put by him on the testator for executing the Will. It is also not disputed by the plaintiff that the testator was neither incapacitated nor infirmed either in body or in mind because of which, he could not have executed the Will of his own free volition. The attesting witnesses as well as identifier have, off course admitted that they knew the testator. The argument of the plaintiff that the testator has not chosen persons from his own village to be attesting witnesses, will be a suspicious circumstance, cannot be accepted. The argument is illogical. Testator would definitely choose a person upon whom he could trust and place confidence.

7(iii) Another argument has been raised by the appellant that the beneficiary/defendant has stated that he was not related to Sh. Madan Singh/attesting witness, whereas, Sh. Madan Singh (DW-2), has stated that beneficiary was in his near relation. This, in itself, will not make execution of the Will suspicious. Learned counsel also tried to point out a contradiction in the statement of a witness regarding the mode of arrival of testator and beneficiary, in Tehsil office. It is to be noted that the statements were recorded about 14 years after the execution of Will. Resultantly, some minor discrepancies can occur, which are not of the nature to discredit the valid execution of Will and to put it under cloud of suspicious circumstances.

7(iv) Hon'ble Apex Court has held that mere active participation of the propounder/beneficiary in the execution of the Will or his relation/ acquaintances, can not lead to an inference that Will was not genuine. It is profitable to reproduce relevant para of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in (2004) 2 SCC, 321, titled as Uma Devi Nambiar and Others v. T.C.Sidhan (dead), :

> "16. A Will is executed to alter the ordinary mode of succession and by the very nature of things it is bound to result in either reducing or depriving the share of natural heir. If a person intends his property to pass to his natural heirs, there is no necessity at all of executing a Will. It is true that a propounder of the Will has to remove all suspicious circumstances. Suspicion means doubt, conjecture or mistrust. But the fact that natural heirs have either been excluded or a lesser share has been given to them, by itself without anything more, cannot be held to be a suspicious circumstance especially in a case where the bequest has been made in favour of an offspring. As held in PPK Gopalan Nambiar v. PPK Balakrishnan Nambiar it is the duty of the propounder of the Will to remove all the suspected features, but there must be real, germane and valid suspicious features and not fantasy of the doubting mind. It has been held that if the propounder succeeds in removing the suspicious circumstance, the Court has to give effect to the Will, even if the Will might be unnatural in the sense that it has cut off wholly or in part near relations (See Puspavati v. Chandraja Kadamba.)In Rabindra Nath Mukherjee v. Panchanan Banerjee, it was observed that the circumstance of deprivation of natural heirs should not raise any suspicion because the whole idea behind execution of the Will is to interfere with the normal line of succession and so, natural heirs would be debarred in every case of Will. Of course, it may be that in some cases they are fully debarred and in some cases partly"

Hon'ble Apex Court in (2005) 2 SCC, 784, titled as Sridevi and Others v. Jayaraja Shetty and Others, held as under:-

> "11. It is well settled proposition of law that mode of proving the will does not differ from that of proving any other document except as to the special requirement of attestation prescribed in the case of a will by Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925. The onus to prove the will is on the propounder and in the absence of suspicious circumstances surrounding the execution of the will, proof of testamentary capacity and proof of the signature of the testator, as required by law, need be sufficient to discharge the onus. Where there are suspicious circumstances, the onus would again be on the propounder to explain them to the satisfaction of the court before the will can be accepted as genuine. Proof in either case cannot be mathematically precise and certain and should be one of satisfaction of a prudent mind in such matters. In case the person contesting the will alleges undue influence, fraud or coercion, the onus will be on him to prove the same. As to what are suspicious circumstances have to be judged in the facts and circumstances of each particular case. (For this see H. Venkatachala Iyengar v. B.N. Thimmajamma and the subsequent judgments Ramachandra Rambux v. Champabai,Surendra Pal v. Dr. Saraswati Arora, Jaswant Kaur v. Amrit Kaur and Meenakshiammal v. Chandrasekaran)."

In (2005) 8 SCC, 67, titled as Pentakota Satyanarayana and Others v. Pentakota Seetharatnam and Others, Hon'ble Apex Court, held as under :-

"24. In the instant case, the propounders were called upon to show by satisfactory evidence that the Will was signed by the testator, that the testator at the relevant time was in a sound and disposing state of mind, that he understood the nature and effect of the dispositions and put his signature to the document on his own freewill. In other words, the onus on the propounder can be taken to be discharged on proof of the essential facts indicated above. It was argued by learned counsel for the respondent that propounders themselves took a prominent part in the execution of the Will which confer on them substantial benefits. In the instant case, the propounders who were required to remove the said suspicion have let in clear and satisfactory evidence. In the instant case, there was unequivocal admission of the Will in the written statement filed by P. Srirammurthy. In his written statement, he has specifically averred that he had executed the Will and also described the appellants as his sons and Alla Kantamma as his wife as the admission was found in the pleadings. The case of the appellants cannot be thrown out. As already noticed, the first defendant has specifically pleaded that he had executed a Will in the year 1980 and such admissions cannot be easily brushed aside. However, the testator could not be examined as he was not alive at the time of trial. All the witnesses deposed that they had signed as identifying witnesses and that the testator was in sound disposition of mind. Thus, in our opinion, the appellants have discharged their burden and established that the Will in question was executed by Srirammurthy and Ex.B9 was his last will. It is true that registration of the Will does not dispense with the need of proving, execution and attestation of a document which is required by law to be proved in the manner as provided in Section 68 of the Evidence Act. The Registrar has made the following particulars on Ex.B9 which was admitted to registration, namely, the date, hour and place of presentation of document for registration, the signature of the person admitting the execution of the Will and the signature of the identifying witnesses. The document also contains the signatures of the attesting witnesses and the scribe. Such particulars are required to be endorsed by the Registrar along with his signature and date of document. A presumption by a reference to Section 114 of the Evidence Act shall arise to the effect that particulars contained in the endorsement of registration were regularly and duly performed and are correctly recorded. In our opinion, the burden of proof to prove the Will has been duly and satisfactorily discharged by the appellants. The onus is discharged by the propounder adducing prima facie evidence proving the competence of the testator and execution of the Will in the manner contemplated by law. In such circumstances, the onus shift to the contestant opposing the Will to bring material on record meeting such prima facie case in which event the onus shift back on the propounder to satisfy the court affirmatively that the testator did know well the contents of the Will and in sound disposing capacity executed the same."

"25. It is settled by a catena of decisions that any and every circumstance is not a suspicious circumstance. Even in a case where active participation and execution of the Will by the propounders/beneficiaries was there, it has been held that that by itself is not sufficient to create any doubt either about the testamentary capacity or the genuineness of the Will. It has been held that the mere presence of the beneficiary at the time of execution would not prove that the beneficiary had taken prominent part in the execution of the Will. This is the view taken by this Court in Sridevi & Ors vs. Jayaraja Shetty & Ors, (2005) 2 SCC 784. In the said case, it has been held that the onus to prove the will is on the propounder and in the absence of suspicious circumstances surrounding the execution of the will proof of testamentary capacity and the proof of signature of the testator as required by law not be sufficient to discharge the onus. In case, the person attesting the Will alleges undue influence, fraud or coercion, the onus will be on him to prove the same and that as to what suspicious circumstances which have to be judged in the facts and circumstances of each particular case."

The substantial questions of law are answered accordingly. The findings recorded by learned Courts below are based on correct appreciation of pleadings and evidence on record. Valid execution of Will has been proved, without any suspicious circumstance surrounding it.

Mutation No.195:

Opportunity of Hearing:

7(v) Before parting, it may be noticed that Mutation No.195, initially attested in favour of Jatho Devi/ plaintiff on 29.09.1989 by ignoring the registered Will, was challenged by the defendant before the Collector. The Collector had remanded the matter to the Assistant Collector for fresh decision after giving opportunity of hearing to the parties. On remand, Assistant Collector on 22.12.2000 records the fact that Jatho Devi despite service effected upon her, did not present herself before the Court. Where after, she was given written instructions to remain present in the Court. She did not abide by that also. A proclamation was also issued for informing her about the proceedings. Having failed to remain present, exparte proceedings were initiated against Jatho Devi. Consequently, on the basis of registered Will dated 22.02.1988, executed by Latu in favour of the defendant, the entries in respect of the suit land were recorded in ownership and possession of the defendant. It has otherwise come on record that it is the defendant who is actually in possession of the suit property after the death of Latu And subsequent to review of Mutation No.195, carried out on 22.12.2000, has become owner thereof on the basis of registered Will in question.

In view of the above discussion, present appeal fails and is dismissed as such. Pending application(s), if any, also stand disposed of.

CWP No.2937 of 2015.
Judgment reserved on : 09.07.2019.
Date of decision: 12.07.2019.

Constitution of India, 1950- Articles 14 & 226 – Appointment as Aganwari worker – Setting aside of by Competent Authority (Deputy Commissioner) on ground of her family having higher income at relevant time and thus she was not being eligible for appointment - Challenge thereto – Writ jurisdiction – Held – Husband of petitioner was Home Guard Personnel and his income during relevant period was Rs. 12,740/- which was more than prescribed for Anganwari post – Income certificate issued by patwari and Naib Tehsildar in favour of petitioner not only false but was issued solely with intention to illegally help her – Petitioner has not come to court with clean hands – Petition dismissed with costs – Departmental action directed against patwari and Naib Tehsildar concerned. (Paras 6 , 8, 12 & 16)

Case referred:
Indian Council for Enviro-Legal Action vs. Union of India and others, (2011) 8 SCC 161

For the Petitioner : Mr. Ashish, Advocate vice Mr. Neel Kamal Sood, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr.Vinod Thakur, Addl. A.G with Mr. Bhupinder Thakur, Ms. Svaneel Jaswal, Dy. A.Gs and Mr. Ram Lal Thakur, Asstt. A.G., for respondents No. 1 to 4.
Mr. A.K. Sharma, Advocate, for respondent No.5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The case has a long-drawn chequered history. Interviews for the post of 'Anganwari Worker' at Anganwari Centre, Devthana by the Integrated Child Development Project Officer, Sangrah, District Sirmaur, were held during the year 2007, in which the petitioner came to be selected. However, her appointment was challenged by respondent No.5 before the Deputy Commissioner, Sirmaur (first appellate authority) on the ground of higher family income, who set aside the selection of the petitioner vide order dated 10.06.2008. The petitioner assailed the order before the Divisional Commissioner, Shimla, who vide his order dated 09.07.2009 dismissed the appeal filed by the petitioner by upholding the order passed by the Deputy Commissioner.

2. The petitioner thereafter approached this Court by filing CWP No.2605/2009 and the same was decided by this Court on 17.05.2010 along with bunch of similar cases with the direction to the appellate authority to hear afresh all these matters in light of the directions/clarifications given by this Court.

3. In compliance to such directions, the issue of income of the petitioner was got verified from the Naib Tehsildar, Sub Tehsil, Nohra, who vide report dated 15.01.2011

(Annexure P-5) reported that income of the family of the petitioner during the year 2007 was Rs. 11,000/- and, therefore, income certificate issued to her was correct. However, the Sub Divisional Magistrate, Rajgarh, in his report dated 25.03.2009 (Annexure P-7) reported that the family of the petitioner had separated on 02.07.2006 (i.e. after 01.01.2004, the date prescribed in the guidelines). He further reported that the husband of the petitioner was employed in the Home guards and had received an amount of Rs.6,300/- as wages during 2006-07, therefore, the income of the petitioner should be taken to be Rs.16,300/- or more. On the basis of such report, the Deputy Commissioner set aside the selection of the petitioner vide his order dated 23.06.2011 (Annexure P-6). Even though, this order was again assailed before the Divisional Commissioner by the petitioner but the appeal so preferred came to be dismissed vide order dated 25.05.2015 (Annexure P-9), constraining the petitioner to file the instant writ petition.

4. The petitioner has filed the writ petition mainly on the ground that the findings recorded by the authorities below are perverse.

I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the material placed on record.

5. At the outset, it needs to be observed that the petitioner has not approached the authorities and even this Court with clean hands manipulating material facts in support of her petition, more particularly, her income based on false certificate. This is clearly evident from the material placed on record by the respondents along with their reply.

6. Annexure R-5/1 is the certificate of income issued in favour of the petitioner dated 14.05.2007 wherein her income is shown as Rs.16,150/- per annum from all sources. Annexure R-5/2 is the document supplied to the husband of respondent No.5 under Right to Information Act regarding salary details of the husband of the petitioner which reveals that during the relevant time with effect from 01.04.2007 to 07.07.2007, the total income of the husband of the petitioner for these 98 days alone was Rs.12,740/- against the prescribed income of Rs.12,000/-. Notably, this is the income of the husband of the petitioner alone and does not include the income of the petitioner and her other family members.

7. Strong reliance is then placed by the learned counsel for the petitioner on the report of the Patwari and the inquiry conducted by the Naib Tehsildar, Nohra.

8. As regards the report of Patwari, the same has been annexed with the writ petition as Annexure P-8 along with its translation Annexure P-8/T and reads as under:-

There is total 10-03 bighas land in the name of family, out of 2-6 bighas is Majrua* and 7-17 bighas is Gair Majrua and the annual income of the family is assessed at Rs.11000/- from all sources and the report issued by me is based on the true and correct facts. This is my statement.

Sr.No. 96-Reader/2011 dated 15-1-11

To

The Deputy Commissioner,
Nahan, District Sirmour.

Subject: Appeal No. 44/4 of 2010 titled Sunita Devi Vs. Santosh Kumari AWW Devthana ICDS Block Sangrah (CWP No. 2605/2009)

Fixed for 28-1-2011

Sir,

With reference to your office Letter No. Reader-DC/2010-56493 dated 31.12.2010 on the subject cited above, it is requested that as per your order, Sunita Devi and Santosh Kumari both the parties were called through summonses on 7-1-2011 and both were heard and their statements were recorded, which are enclosed and Patwari Halqa Devamanal was also called. His statement was also recorded, which is enclosed. The income certificate issued to Sunita Devi, which was later on cancelled, was also perused. The income certificate dated 14.11.2006 of Rs.11000/-(Eleven Thousand), which was issued by the Executive Magistrate Nohra in favour of Smt. Sunita Devi, was later on cancelled by the Naib Tehsildar Nohra on dated 29.10.2007. As per Sunita Devi, the income certificate which was issued to her is correct and according to that, she was given appointment in Anganwari and she had joined her duties on 8.8.2007 and the income certificate has been cancelled on dated 29.10.2007.

On perusal of the aforesaid facts and documents, it is found that at the time of interview, the family should be separate prior to 1-1-2004, but the family of Sunita has been shown to be separated in the year 2006, on the basis of which, the Sub Divisional Officer (Civil) had ordered for cancellation of Income Certificate. But as per the documents and spot report, the joint family income of Smt. Sunita during the year 2006 also comes to Rs.11,000/-, because no member from her family was in Government/Semi Government service. The respondent Santosh has told that her husband is appointed in Home Guard, which is wrong, because in this regard the certificate issued by the Commandant, Home Guard,fourth battalion,Nahan is enclosed, from which it is clear that no wages of any kind is paid to him by the department. The report, therefore, is submitted for further action.

10. In light of the material placed on record, especially, the information obtained by the husband of respondent No.5 under Right to Information Act, it can safely be held that the statement of Patwari as also report submitted by Naib Tehsildar, Sub Tehsil, Nohra, are not only false, but the same have been issued solely with the intention to illegally help the petitioner or else being custodian of the official records, there was no occasion or reason for both these officials to have given false reports regarding the income of the petitioner.

11. Admittedly, interviews for the post in question were held in August, 2007 and as per information (Annexure R-5/3), the husband of the petitioner with effect from 01.04.2007 to 07.07.2007 received an amount of Rs.12,740/- at the rate of Rs. 130/- per day, whereas, Patwari, in his statement has though stated that the husband of the petitioner had been engaged as Home Guard for three months, but his wages were only Rs.70/- per day. As regards, the Naib Tehsildar, he has clearly submitted in his report that even though the husband of the petitioner was appointed as Home Guard, but no wages of any kind were paid to him by the department.

12. Therefore, this is a fit case where departmental inquiry, apart from any other action, that may be taken, needs to be initiated against both these officials, irrespective of the fact whether they are still serving or have retired.

13. Since, the petitioner was not even eligible for being considered to the post of 'Anganwari Worker', therefore, there is no question of her being selected to the said post.

14. It is unfortunate that the petitioner from the year 2007 on one pretext or the other has managed to deprive respondent No.5 from her appointment and thereby converted the litigation into a fruitful industry.

15. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Indian Council for Enviro-Legal Action versus Union of India and others (2011) 8 SCC 161 examined the principles of restitution and the abuse of process of Court and issue of doctrine of unjust enrichment of unscrupulous litigants and in order to ensure that the abuse of legal process is not done, it was also held that Court should adopt a pragmatic approach and also impose realistic costs since litigation has been turned into a fruitful industry by such litigants. The relevant observations of the Hon'ble Apex Court are as under:-

> "191. In consonance with the principles of equity, justice and good conscience Judges should ensure that the legal process is not abused by the litigants in any manner. The court should never permit a litigant to perpetuate illegality by abusing the legal process. It is the bounden duty of the court to ensure that dishonesty and any attempt to abuse the legal process must be effectively curbed and the court must ensure that there is no wrongful, unauthorized or unjust gain for anyone by the abuse of the process of the court. One way to curb this tendency is to impose realistic costs, which the respondent or the defendant has in fact incurred in order to defend himself in the legal proceedings. The courts would be fully justified even imposing punitive costs where legal process has been abused. No one should be permitted to use the judicial process for earning undeserved gains or unjust profits. The court must effectively discourage fraudulent, unscrupulous and dishonest litigation.

192. The court's constant endeavour must be to ensure that everyone gets just and fair treatment. The court while rendering justice must adopt a pragmatic approach and in appropriate cases realistic costs and compensation be ordered in order to discourage dishonest litigation. The object and true meaning of the concept of restitution cannot be achieved or accomplished unless the courts adopt a pragmatic approach in dealing with the cases.

197. The other aspect which has been dealt with in great detail is to neutralize any unjust enrichment and undeserved gain made by the litigants. While adjudicating, the courts must keep the following principles in view:-

(1) It is the bounden duty and obligation of the court to neutralize any unjust enrichment and undeserved gain made by any party by invoking the jurisdiction of the court.

(2) When a party applies and gets a stay or injunction from the court, it is always at the risk and responsibility of the party applying. An order of stay cannot be presumed to be conferment of additional right upon the litigating party.

(3) Unscrupulous litigants be prevented from taking undue advantage by invoking jurisdiction of the court.

(4) A person in wrongful possession should not only be removed from that place as early as possible but be compelled to pay for wrongful use of that premises fine, penalty and costs. Any leniency would seriously affect the credibility of the judicial system.

(5) No litigant can derive benefit from the mere pendency of a case in a court of law.

(6) A party cannot be allowed to take any benefit of his own wrong.

(7) Litigation should not be permitted to turn into a fruitful industry so that the unscrupulous litigants are encouraged to invoke the jurisdiction of the court.

(8) The institution of litigation cannot be permitted to confer any advantage on a party by delayed action of courts."

16. In view of the aforesaid discussion, not only there is no merit in this writ petition, but the same is liable to be dismissed with costs which are assessed at Rs.25,000/- to be paid to respondent No.5. Ordered accordingly. Pending application (s), if any, also stands disposed of.

17. However, before parting, the State Government is directed to initiate departmental proceedings against Shri Khajan Singh, the then Patwari Halqua, Devimanal, Sub Tehsil Nohra, District Sirmaur, H.P. and the then Naib Tehsildar, for having submitted false reports to the Deputy Commissioner. The inquiry be conducted within six months and report thereof be submitted to this Court on 10.01.2020, on which date the case be again listed before this Court.

Mohinder Guer ....Petitioner.

Decided on: 12.07.2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Section 125(1)–Maintenance– Quantum of– Factors relevant for determination– Held, aim of granting maintenance is to prevent vagrancy to claimant– Maintenance amount should be reasonable, neither low nor excessive and exorbitant– Status of parties, reasonable wants of claimants, income and property of claimants and their liabilities etc., are some of factors which a court must look into while granting monthly maintenance. (Para 6)

For the petitioner: Mr. Malkeeyat Singh, Advocate, vice Mr. Sumit Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Sanjay Kumar Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge

The present petition is maintained by the petitioner, who was the respondent before the learned Trial Court (hereinafter referred to as "the respondent") under Section 482 Cr.P.C. read with Article 227 of the Constitution of India against the judgment dated 30.11.2012, passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge (Fast Track Court), Hamirpur, H.P., in Criminal Revision No. 6 of 2012, whereby the revision filed by the respondents, who were petitioners before the learned Trial Court (hereinafter referred to as "the petitioners") was allowed.

2. The facts giving rise to the present petition can be encapsulated as under:

The petitioners maintained a petitioner under Section 125 Cr.P.C. seeking maintenance of Rs. 20,000/- per month from the respondent in the Court of lowest rung. Admittedly, petitioner No. 1, Smt. Reena Kumari, is wife of the respondent and petitioners No. 2 and 3, Sagun and Suraj are daughter and son of the respondent. The marriage between petitioner No. 1 and the respondent was solemnized on 27.01.2004 and petitioners No. 2 and 3 were born out of the wedlock. The petitioners alleged that the respondent forcibly took petitioner No. 3 from the custody of petitioner No. 1 and petitioner No. 2 is residing with petitioner No. 1. It is further alleged that the family of the respondent started maltreating petitioner No. 1 and she was often given beatings and was also denied food, raiment and other basic necessities. The respondent leveled allegations of unchastity on petitioner No. 1. Ultimately, due to the coercive and intolerable behaviour of the respondent and his family members petitioner No. 1 left her matrimonial home on 26.09.2008 and since then she is residing in her parental house. It was also alleged that the respondent had refused to maintain the petitioners without any cause and justification. As per petitioner No. 1, the respondent is doing the business of hardware shop and his income is in lakhs. Thus, the petitioners sought monthly maintenance allowance of Rs.20,000/- to each of them. The petitioners also alleged that they are poor persons having no source of income. The learned Trial Court partly allowed the petition and monthly maintenance amount of Rs. 2,000/- was granted to petitioner No. 2 (minor daughter) and no maintenance was granted to petitioner No. 1, as she was held to be receiving all necessities of her life, including maintenance from the respondent. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied, the petitioner, by way of filing criminal revision, approached the learned Revision Court and the learned Revision Court, vide its judgment dated 30.11.2012 (impugned judgment) granted monthly maintenance of Rs. 3,000/- to petitioner No. 1 (wife) and Rs. 2,000/- to petitioner No. 2 (minor daughter) from the date of filing the petition. Hence, the respondent (husband) maintained the present petition laying challenge to the impugned judgment dated 30.11.2012, passed by the learned Revision Court.

3. I have heard the learned Counsel for the parties and gone through the available records.

4. The learned vice Counsel for the petitioner herein has argued that the petitioner is working as servant in a shop and getting Rs. 9,000/- per month, so it is difficult for him to give Rs. 5,000/- per month to the respondents. He has further argued that the petitioner has to spend money on his son also. He has prayed that the petition be allowed and the impugned judgment of the learned Lower Revision Court be quashed and set side and the monthly maintenance amount granted to the petitioners be reduced. Conversely, the learned Counsel for the respondents herein has argued that the petitioner is not working in a shop, but he runs the shop of his father. He has further argued that monthly income of the petitioner is handsome for him Rs. 5,000/- is not a big amount. He has argued that the respondents are poor persons and they could not maintain themselves, as they have no means of livelihood. Petitioner No. 2 is minor daughter and petitioner No. 1 has to spend on her upbringing and education, so they are totally dependant upon the maintenance amount. It is prayed that the petition, which sans merits, be dismissed.

5. In rebuttal, the learned Counsel for the petitioner has argued that keeping in view the income of the petitioner and the fact that the maintenance allowance as awarded by the learned Trial Court is on a very higher side, the petition be allowed and the impugned order passed by the learned Revision Court be quashed and set aside and monthly maintenance allowance be reduced.

6. The relationship between the parties is not in dispute. Agreeably, status of the parties, reasonable wants of the claimant, income and property of the claimant, liabilities of the claimant etc. are some of factors which a Court must look into while granting monthly maintenance. For granting maintenance amount the Courts cannot be oblivious to fact that the claimant has to spend on his/her upkeep or dependants, purchase of essential items etc. The aim of granting maintenance is to prevent vagrancy to the claimant. In the instant case, the record reveals that the learned Lower Revision Court granted monthly maintenance amount Rs. 3,000/- to petitioner No. 1 (wife) and Rs. 2,000/- to petitioner No. 2 (minor daughter). True it is that the maintenance amount should be reasonable, neither excessive nor exorbitant. It has come in the evidence, as also noted by the learned Revision Court, that the father of the respondent runs a business of hardware in Main Bazaar, Ghumarwin. It is highly imaginative that the respondent is engaged as a servant by his father for monthly salary of Rs. 9,000/-. In order to dodge his liabilities towards the petitioners, the respondent unsuccessfully tried to portray that he is working as a servant in the shop of his father. Viewed with the angle that the petitioners, being wife and minor daughter of the respondent, have no source of income to maintain themselves and respondent is liable to maintain them and also keeping in view the cost of living index, this Court sees no merits in the instant petition. This Court finds that the monthly maintenance amount granted to petitioner No. 1 and 2 is neither excessive nor exorbitant.

7. Plainly, the expression 'maintenance' means appropriate food, clothing and lodging, but the expression 'maintenance' is not to be narrowly interpreted. Maintenance is to be fixed and granted by the Courts keeping in view many circumstances, viz., minimum amount for education of children, expenses of upbringing of children, food, raiment, shelter, expenses on health etc. etc. Therefore, maintenance merely to a human body is not sufficient and it does not only mean clothing and food. So, keeping in view the settled position of law as also the evidence, which has come on record and without discussing the same in depth, this Court finds that the learned Lower Revision Court has rightly fixed and granted the maintenance amount to petitioner No. 1 (wife) and petitioner No. 2 (daughter).

8. In view of the above, this Court finds no merits in the instant petition. The petition, which sans merits, deserves dismissal and is accordingly dismissed.

9. With the above observations the petition, as also pending application(s), if any, stand(s) disposed of.

Asif Beg and another vs. Estate Officer/Station Commander, ILR 2016 (III) HP 2002 (D.B.)
Daulat Ram and others vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others, 1979 SLC 215

For the Appellants: Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr. Sanjeev Kuthiala, Senior Advocate, with Ms.Sonia Saini, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The defendants are the appellants, who aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by learned first appellate Court whereby it allowed the appeal and set-aside the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court, have filed the instant regular second appeal.

The parties shall be referred to as the plaintiffs and the defendants.

2. The plaintiffs filed a suit for declaration that they were owners in possession of the suit land comprised in Khewat No. 25 min, Khatauni No. 57 min, Khasra Nos. 39, 45, 92, 94, 175, 195, 215 and 218 Kitta 8 measuring 6-2-13 bighas, situated in Village Kheyogi, Illaqua Tilli, Tehsil Chachiot, District Mandi, H.P. and for permanent prohibitory injunction. It was averred that the plaintiffs are in possession of the suit land as non-occupancy tenants since the time of their father on payment of ½ produce as rent to defendant No.1 and prior to him his father Pira. The plaintiffs were also getting receipts of Galla Batai and after enforcement of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, had become owners of the suit land and, therefore, defendant No.1 had no right, title and interest in the suit land. However, with a motive to oust the plaintiffs from the suit land, he in collusion with defendant No.3 hatched a conspiracy against the plaintiffs and executed general power of attorney in favour of defendant No.3. Defendant No.3 taking undue advantage of the wrong entries alienated Khasra Nos. 92 and 94 measuring 0-19-9 bighas of land in favour of his son defendant No.2 and defendants No.2 and 3 in collusion with defendant No.1 started interfering in the suit land and cut and remove the wheat crop therefrom. Hence, the suit.

3. The defendants resisted and contested the suit and raised preliminary objections regarding locus standi and maintainability. On merits, it was pleaded that defendant No.1 was owner in possession of the suit land and after sale of some portion thereof, defendant No.2 was owner in possession of that land. It was also averred that the plaintiffs neither were in possession of the suit land as non-occupancy tenants nor had been paying any produce of the land to defendant No.1 nor to his father Pira. The receipts were wrong and did not pertain to the suit land. The part of the suit land had been validly alienated by defendant No.3 in favour of defendant No.2 and there was no conspiracy since the land had been sold for consideration of Rs.2000/-.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the trial Court framed the following issues:

1. Whether the plaintiffs were in possession of the land in dispute as tenant, as alleged? OPP
2. If issue No.1 is proved whether the plaintiffs have become owners of the land in dispute u/s 104 of the H.P.Tenancy and Land Reforms Act? OPP
3. Whether revenue entries showing the defendant No.1 as owner in possession are wrong? OPP
4. Whether the plaintiffs have no locus-standi to file the suit and the present suit is not legally maintainable? OPD
5. Relief.

5. After recording the evidence and evaluating the same, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit and aggrieved thereby the plaintiffs filed an appeal before the learned first Appellate Court, who allowed the same vide judgment and decree dated 30.7.2004, constraining the defendants to file the instant appeal.

6. On 2.11.2004, the appeal came to be admitted on the following substantial question of law:

> "Whether the learned Appellate Court misread, misconstrued and misinterpreted the evidence led by the respondents and ignored the evidence on record in holding that the respondents were tenants in the land, subject matter of dispute?"

7. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have also gone through the records of the case carefully.

8. Adverting to the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court, it would be noticed that even though the plaintiffs produced receipts regarding the payment of rent, but it is more than settled that the tenancy is a bilateral agreement between the parties and in absence of payment of rent, there can be no valid tenancy. Admittedly, in the instant case, there is no written agreement of tenancy, however, the plaintiffs on proof placed on record the rent receipts Ex.PW-3/A and Ex.PW-3/B both dated 16.12.1975 which pertained to the receipt of Kharif crop by the defendants. However, these receipts were discarded by the trial Court mainly on the ground that the same did not bear any khasra number in respect of the receipt of Galla Batai, which findings being totally perverse, was rightly set-aside by the learned first Appellate Court.

9. That apart, the rent receipts otherwise stood duly proved on record by the Nambardar, who stepped into the witness box and proved the receipts of Galla Batai, which bear his signatures and also bore the signatures of the defendant/respondent Hiru in Ext. PW-3/A to Ext. PW-3/F and besides Ext.PW-3/B has bore the thumb impression of the father of PW-3 the then Numberdar and thumb impression of the mother of the defendant/respondent. Even though the witness was cross-examined, but nothing fruitful could be elicited therefrom by the defendant. Besides this, even PW-2 Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat has also proved his report Ext.PW-2/A which was made on a complaint made to him by the plaintiffs alleging interference in the suit land by the defendants. Lastly and more importantly is the statement of PW-1 Hiru himself, who though in his examination-in-chief has simply denied the claim of the defendants being a tenant in possession of the suit land, but when confronted with his statement Ex.AW-1/A that was recorded in a suit filed by one Mansa Ram against Shukru where he, apart from denying the said statement, had virtually no explanation for the admissions made therein.

10. Now, adverting to his cross-examination. Hiru admitted that the respondent was in occupation of his land measuring 6 bighas and cultivating the same as a tenant. It would be noticed that the respondent moved an application before the learned first Appellate Court for leading additional evidence under Order 41 Rule 27 CPC seeking permission to tender in evidence certified copy of the statement made by Hiru in Civil Suit No. 17/1996 decided on 9.5.2000. The said application was allowed vide order dated 3.12.2002 and the statement of Hiru was allowed to be placed on record. Thereafter, the parties led evidence and the appellant examined Record Keeper Bimla Devi as AW-1 and closed his evidence. Whereas, the appellant again examined Hiru, who surprisingly enough even feigned ignorance having been made a statement Ex.AW-1/A. The relevant portion of cross-examination of Hiru reads as under:

"........वादग्रस्त जमीन जिसका दावा मंशा ने मेरे उपर किया है उसका रकबा छह बीघा है। यह गलत है कि मैने शुकू के मुदकमा में जब मैं बतौर गवाह DW-2 पैश। हुआ था तो मैने यह कहा हो कि वादी के पास मेरी छह बीघा भूमि बतौर मजारा कास्त के लिए दी थी। यह गलत है कि मैने शुकू की तरफ से गवाह पेश हुआ था तो मैने यह कहा कि शुकू मेरा मुजारा है तथा मालिक मैं स्वर्य हूँ। मुझे याद न है कि बयान Ex.AW-1/A का भाग A से A मैने दिया था या नहीं। मुझे यह भी याद न है कि बयान B to B का भाग मैने दिया था या नही। बयान C से C मैंने सुन लिया है ऐसा बयान मै न दिया था। बयान Ex. AW1/A का भाग D से D भी मैने सुन लिया है ऐसा बयान मैने न दिया था। बयान Ex. AW1/A का भाग E से E मैने सुन लिया है ऐसा बयान मैने Court में न दिया था। बयान Ex. AW1/A का भाग F to F गलत है मैने ऐसा बयान न दिया था।"

11. The purpose of proving an admission of a party is not to contradict a statement given by the party as a witness to the case. The purpose is to prove the case of the party who relies on the admission.

12. It is true that a statement on oath (given as a witness) of the party making an admission will have to be considered along with the admission and unless an explanation as to the circumstances in which the admission was made is given or it is otherwise proved that the admission was erroneous, the statement contrary to the admission must be taken to be reliable.

13. No doubt, evidence in previous suit does not prove anything and it ought to be put to the witness, but it is not so in the case of admission where the party making the admission is required to explain and rebut the same and unless and until that is satisfactorily done the fact admitted must be taken to be established.

14. As already stated, a mere contradictory statement on oath cannot be said to be an explanation of the circumstances under which the previous admission was made, and the duty cast upon the party to explain his previous admission cannot be said to have been satisfactorily discharged unless he offers an explanation, and as the duty is on him to offer an explanation, there is no reason why it should be the duty of the opposite party to ask for his explanation by putting the previous statement to him.

15. Thus, once the admission of the respondent Hiru stands duly proved on record, this Court need not wander here and there to come to the conclusion that the plaintiffs were in possession of the land in dispute as tenant as admitted by Hiru himself and since the vestment under the H. P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act is automatic on coming into force of the Act, had become owners thereof on the appointed day.

16. Once that be the position, then it is absolutely difficult to countenance and appreciate the stand taken by the appellants/ defendants because under sub section (3) of Section 104 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972 , the conferment of proprietary rights upon non-occupancy tenant under the provisions of law was automatic and it commenced from the date of issue of the notification as was held by the learned Single Judge of this Court in Daulat Ram and others vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and others 1979 SLC, 215, wherein it was observed as under:

> "15. Under sub-section (3) of section 104 of the Act, all rights, title and interest (including a contingent interest, if any) of the landowner of the land held by tenants shall be extinguished, and all such rights, title and interest shall vest in the tenants free from all encumbrances created by the landowner, with effect from the date to be notified by the State Government in the Official Gazette, provided that if the tenancy is created after the commencement of this Act, the provision of this sub-section shall apply immediately after the creation of such tenancy. It cannot be disputed that the entry of tenancy existed much before the promulgation of the Act, and the respondents cannot question the tenancy when it is so recorded in the revenue papers which is a conclusive proof of the factum of the existence of the tenancy. Once a person is entered as a tenant in the revenue record then notwithstanding any agreement, etc. to the contrary, the person so entered shall become the owner by virtue of the provision of sub-section (3) of section 104 of the Act. The conferment of the proprietary rights under the Act is automatic from the date of the issue of the notification by the State Government in the Official Gazette, and the vestment of ownership shall be free from all encumbrances. Under rule 27 of the Himachal Pradesh Tenancy and Land Reforms Rules 1975, all rights, title and interests in the tenancy land of landowners...shall vest in the non-occupancy tenants with effect from the commencement of these rules. Similarly, the proprietary rights of tenancy land of the non-occupancy tenants on Government land shall also vest in the tenants from the commencement of these rules. These rules came into force on 3.10.1975. Therefore, from that date the ownership rights vested free from all encumbrances on the persons who were so recorded as tenants under the landowners or for the matter of that the State Government in that land. Therefore, the plea taken up by the respondents that they were not the tenants is wholly incorrect because they cannot set up this case when they are so recorded, and once they are so recorded they become the owner of the land by virtue of the operation of law and they actually became owners with effect from the date of the publication of the rules."

17. This issue has thereafter been considered by a Division Bench of this Court (of which I was a member) in CWP No. 3084 of 2015, titled as Asif Beg and another vs. Estate Officer/Station Commander*,* decided on 20.06.2016, wherein it was observed as under:

> "33. In the cases titled asShri Bishambhar Nath versus Shri Hari Chand and others, reported in 1993 (3) S.L.J. 2906; Sant Ram versus Jash Ram, reported in 1995 (3) S.L.J. 2510; and Jethu through K. Guddi and others versus Gobind Singh, reported in 1995 (4) S.L.J.3031, it has been held that the proprietary rights stand conferred upon the tenants by operation of law. It is apt to reproduce para 27 of the judgment in Jethu's case (supra) herein:
> > "27. Thus, on the basis of the aforesaid circumstances examined during the trial both the Courts below acted illegally in ignoring the legally competent evidence supporting the defendants' plea of tenancy as claimed by them. The defendants having been held to be in occupation of the suit land as tenants since 1954 55, till date, accordingly, under Section 104 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act the proprietary rights in respect of the suit land stood conferred upon them and they have become owners of the same by operation of law."

34. In the case titled as Mohar Singh versus Manju Devi & others, reported in 1997 (1) S.L.J. 304, this Court has held that the conferment of proprietary rights under HP Tenancy Act is automatic and by operation of law. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of para 11 of the judgment herein:

" 11. ....Needless to point out here that after coming into force of the Himachal Pradesh Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972, the conferment of proprietory right is automatic and by operation of law. Rest of the matter is procedural as required under the Act and the rules framed thereunder."

35. This issue stands clinched by the Apex Court in Civil Appeal No. 5424 of 1998, titled as State of Himachal Pradesh versus Chander Dev, wherein it has been held that conferment of the proprietary rights is automatic. It is apt to reproduce relevant portion of the judgment herein:

".......From the above provisions, it is clear that all rights, title and interest of a landowner shall be extinguished and all such rights, title and interest shall, with effect from the date to be notified by the State Government in the Official Gazette, vest in the tenant free from all encumbrances."

36. The Apex Court in the case titled as Tarsem Lal and others versus Ram Sarup and others, reported in 2014 AIR SCW 2886, held that a tenant becomes owner on enforcement of Act. It is apt to reproduce para 13 of the judgment herein:

" 13. As per the aforesaid provision, all right, title and interest including a contingent interest of a land owner other than the land owner entitled to resume land under subsection (1) shall be extinguished and all such rights, title and interest in respect of the land in question vest in the tenant, i.e. original plaintiff, free from all encumbrances from the date the Act came into force. The Act was published in the Official Gazette on 21st February, 1974 vide Act No.8 of 1974. What is not in dispute is that the original plaintiff became owner of the suit land by operation of law and continued to enjoy all the rights including right of irrigation from the common source which was in possession of the original landlord."

37. Thus, it is accordingly held that the conferment of the proprietary rights is automatic, by operation of law."

18. In view of the aforesaid discussion, it cannot be held that the learned first appellate Court has misread, misconstrued and misinterpreted the evidence led by the respondents and ignored the evidence on record while coming to the conclusion that the respondents/plaintiffs were the tenant in the land in dispute.

The substantial question of law is accordingly answered against the appellants.

19. In view of the aforesaid discussion, there is no merit in this appeal and the same is accordingly dismissed, so also the pending application(s) if any, leaving the parties to bear their own costs.

Shakuntala Sawhney vs. Kaushalya Sawhney, (1979) 3 SCR 639

For the Petitioner : Mr. Vivek Chauhan, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. Manoher Lal Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Anoop Chitkara, Judge. (Oral)

The matter for consideration before this Court is the criminal revision petition, filed under sections 397 & 401 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, starting now to be called as CrPC. The petitioner is challenging the judgment dated 5.1.2019, passed by Sessions Judge, Solan, dismissing his appeal, (Criminal appeal no. 2-S/10 of 2018) and upholding the decision of the trial Court, dated 19-12-2017, passed by Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, Court No. 2, Solan, H.P., (Case no. 298-3/2015, Suman Sehgal Vs. Manoj Chauhan), convicting the accused of commission of an offence punishable under section 138 of Negotiable instruments Act, from now on called as NIA. The petition was put up on 11-4-2019, when this Court issued notices to the respondent/complainant.

2. On 19-06-2016, the learned counsel for the parties stated that the parties have entered into a compromise and they have settled all the money transactions in terms of the same. Petitioner has also moved an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. (Cr.M.P. No.

1051 of 2019) for compounding of the offence in question, annexing therewith the compromise deed (Annexure-A).

3. Today the petitioner, who is present in the Court, has stated that the entire settled amount stands paid to the complainant-respondent and now nothing is outstanding. His statement to this effect also stands recorded separately in Court today. The learned Counsel for the complainant-Respondent does not dispute this statement.

4. The gist of the complaint filed by the complainant/respondent, under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instrument Act is as follows:-

(a) The accused approached the complainant and requested to give him a sum of Rs.2,50,000/- and assured to return that amount. In lieu thereof, the accused issued one cheque for a sum of Rs.2,50,000/-, bearing No. 002309 dated 29-07-2015 drawn at Union Bank of India, the Mall Solan, Tehsil & District- Solan, in favour of the complainant. The complainant presented this cheque for encashment in State Bank of India, The Mall Solan, H.P., but it was returned by the bank as dishonoured, on account of insufficient funds, in the account of the accused.

(b) The complainant got issued a legal notice dated 20-08-2015 to the accused, calling upon him to make the payment of cheque amount, within fifteen days of the receipt of notice. Despite the service of notice, the accused did not pay the cheque amount.

(c) Resultantly, a complaint was filed under Section 138 of the Act.

(d) Learned trial Court put notice of accusation to the accused.

(e) After completion of the trial, accused was convicted and sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for two months and was also directed to pay compensation to the tune of Rs.2,20,000/- lacs. In case of default in payment of the compensation amount, he shall have to undergo further simple imprisonment for a period of fifteen days.

(f) The appellate Court upheld the judgment of conviction. Resultantly, petitioner filed the present criminal revision.

5. It has been argued by the learned counsel for the appellant/accused that in view of the fact that the parties have compromised the matter, and entire settled amount has been paid by the accused, therefore, this matter be compounded in terms of the Act, and the consequential proceedings arising thereof be quashed. Learned counsel appearing for respondent consented for such closure and therefore, the offence is ordered to be compounded.

6. The jurisprudence behind the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 is that the drawer of the cheque, who signs the promissory instrument, honors his commitment, made during a transaction. The legislative intention is not to send the people to suffer incarceration because of the bouncing of the cheques but to provide them an opportunity to pay. These proceedings are to execute the recovery of cheque amount by showing teeth of penal laws.

7. This Court has inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which is further supported by Section 147 of the N.I. Act to interfere in this kind of matter, where parties have paid the entire money, to close all the proceedings.

8. Given the entirety of the facts of the case, as well as judicial precedents, I am of the considered opinion that continuation of these proceedings will not suffice any fruitful purpose whatsoever. Therefore, I am of the considered opinion that this is a fit case where the inherent jurisdiction of the High Court under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure read with 147 of Negotiable Instruments Act, is invoked to quash the criminal proceedings.

9. In Shakuntala Sawhney v. Kaushalya Sawhney, (1979) 3 SCR 639, at p 642, Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as follows:

> "The finest hour of Justice arise propitiously when parties, despite falling apart, bury the hatchet and weave a sense of fellowship or reunion."

10. Consequently, in view of the compounding of offences, the judgement of conviction passed by the learned trial Court, and affirmed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, is set aside and quashed.

11. A three judges bench of Supreme Court, in Damodar S. Prabhu v. Sayed Babalal H., (2010) 5 SCC 663, laid down the following law for compounding of offences punishable under Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881:

> "THE GUIDELINES
>
> (i) In the circumstances, it is proposed as follows :
>
> (a) That directions can be given that the Writ of Summons be suitably modified making it clear to the accused that he could make an application for compounding of the offences at the first or second hearing of the case and that if such an application is made, compounding may be allowed by the court without imposing any costs on the accused.
>
> (b) If the accused does not make an application for compounding as aforesaid, then if an application for compounding is made before the Magistrate at a subsequent stage, compounding can be allowed subject to the condition that the accused will be required to pay 10% of the cheque amount to be deposited as a condition for compounding with the Legal Services Authority, or such authority as the Court deems fit.
>
> (c) Similarly, if the application for compounding is made before the Sessions Court or a High Court in revision or appeal, such compounding may be allowed on the condition that the accused pays 15% of the cheque amount by way of costs.
>
> (d) Finally, if the application for compounding is made before the Supreme Court, the figure would increase to 20% of the cheque amount.
> Let it also be clarified that any costs imposed in accordance with these guidelines should be deposited with the Legal Services Authority operating at the level of the Court before which compounding takes place. For instance, in case of compounding during the pendency of proceedings before a Magistrate's Court or a Court of Sessions, such costs should be deposited with the District Legal Services Authority. Likewise, costs imposed in connection with composition before the High Court should be deposited with the State Legal Services Authority and those imposed in connection with composition before the Supreme Court should be deposited with the National Legal Services Authority.

17. We are also conscious of the view that the judicial endorsement of the above quoted guidelines could be seen as an act of judicial law-making and therefore an intrusion into the legislative domain. It must be kept in mind that Section 147 of the Act does not carry any guidance on how to proceed with the compounding of offences under the Act. We have already explained that the scheme contemplated under Section 320 of the Criminal Procedure Code cannot be followed in the strict sense. In view of the legislative vacuum, we see no hurdle to the endorsement of some suggestions which have been designed to discourage litigants from unduly delaying the composition of the offence in cases involving Section 138 of the Act. The graded scheme for imposing costs is a means to encourage compounding at an early stage of litigation. In the status quo, valuable time of the Court is spent on the trial of these cases and the parties are not liable to pay any Court fee since the proceedings are governed by the Code of Criminal Procedure, even though the impact of the offence is largely confined to the private parties. Even though the imposition of costs by the competent court is a matter of discretion, the scale of costs has been suggested in the interest of uniformity. The competent Court can of course reduce the costs with regard to the specific facts and circumstances of a case, while recording reasons in writing for such variance. Bonafide litigants should of course contest the proceedings to their logical end. Even in the past, this Court has used its power to do complete justice under Article 142 of the Constitution to frame guidelines in relation to subject-matter where there was a legislative vacuum.

12. In Madhya Pradesh State Legal Services Authority v. Prateek Jain, (2014) 10 SCC 690, the Supreme Court holds as under:

> "22. What follows from the above is that normally costs as specified in the guidelines laid down in the said judgment has to be imposed on the accused persons while permitting compounding. There can be departure therefrom in a particular case, for good reasons to be recorded in writing by the concerned Court. It is for this reason that the Court mentioned three objectives which were sought to be achieved by framing those guidelines, as taken note of above. It is thus manifestly the framing of "Guidelines" in this judgment was also to achieve a particular public purpose. Here comes the issue for consideration as to whether these guidelines are to be given a go by when a case is decided/settled in the Lok Adalat? Our answer is that it may not be necessarily so and a proper balance can be struck taking care of both the situations.
> 23. Having regard thereto, we are of the opinion that even when a case is decided in Lok Adalat, the requirement of following the guidelines contained in Damodar S. Prabhu (supra) should normally not be dispensed with. However, if there is a special/specific reason to deviate therefrom, the Court is not remediless as Damodar S. Prabhu (supra) itself has given discretion to the concerned Court to reduce the costs with regard to specific facts and circumstances of the case, while recording reasons in writing about such variance. Therefore, in those matters where the case has to be decided/settled in the Lok Adalat, if the Court finds that it is a result of positive attitude of the parties, in such appropriate cases, the Court can always reduce the costs by imposing minimal costs or even waive the same. For that, it would be for the parties, particularly the accused person, to make out a plausible case for the waiver/reduction of costs and to convince the > concerned Court about the same. This course of action, according to us, would strike a balance between the two competing but equally important interests, namely, achieving the objectives delineated in Damodar S. Prabhu (supra) on the one hand and the public interest which is sought to be achieved by encouraging settlements/resolution of case through Lok Adalats."

13. The accused-petitioner is presently unemployed. The respondent has not disputed this fact. On the other hand, counsel for the respondent, on the count of financial difficulties of the accused/convict had agreed to discount the compensation amount. The accused in his statement, which is separately recorded on oath, stated that he has a daughter studying in 1st Year and a son studying in 9th Class and the financial difficulties faced by the petitioner/convict can very well be analyzed. It is not a case under some serious penal offences but a case of failure, to discharge his financial liabilities.

14. Therefore, given the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Damodar S. Prabhu vs. Sayed Babalal H., (2010) 5 SCC 663 and further explained in Madhya Pradesh State Legal Services Authority vs. Prateek Jain and another (2014) 10 SCC 690, sufficient reasons exist to waive off the compounding fee. Hence, this Court, need not resort to the powers conferred under section 482 CrPC and all Courts can grant such relief by placing reliance upon the jurisprudence behind the Judicial precedents, cited before. Therefore, this Court is dispensing with the compounding fee, quantified at 15% of the sum, and the same is waived off. The criminal revision stands closed, and in a nutshell, the Court is acquitting the petitioner of all the charged offences.

15. The learned trial Court shall release all the amount deposited in this case, if any, along with interest in favour of respondent, in the account of the complainant in the manner, as desired by her, immediately on production of the certified copy of this judgment.

16. Accordingly, the petition stands allowed in the terms mentioned above. All pending application(s), if any, stand closed.

Cr.MP(M) No. 1153 of 2019
Decided on: 15.07.2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439– Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (Act)– Section 37– Bail– Grant of– Accused allegedly supplied huge quantity of charas to co-accused– Subsequent to registration of FIR, he remained absconded and evaded his arrest for long time- It is third successive application for grant of bail- No change of circumstances is there since dismissal of earlier applications- There are chances of his fleeing away from justice– Petition dismissed. (Para 7)

For the petitioner: Mr. N.S. Chandel, Sr. Advocate, with Mr. Rajesh Verma, Advocate.

For the respondent/NCB: Mr. Ashwani Pathak, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Sandeep Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge. *(oral).*

The present bail application has been moved by the petitioner under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure seeking his release in case registered vide NCB Crime No. 41 of 2014, dated 20.10.2014, by Narcotic Control Bureau, Sub-Zone Mandi, H.P., under Sections 8 and 20 of the ND&PS Act.

2. The petitioner has preferred the present application seeking his bail. The petitioner had earlier also filed petitions seeking bail. His first petition, being Cr.MP(M) No. 786 of 2018, was dismissed by this Court vide order dated 28th August, 2018. Subsequently, he preferred second petition, being Cr.MP(M) No. 105 of 2019, which was dismissed as withdrawn. Thus, the petitioner has come to this Court third time seeking his bail. The petitioner, like in his earlier petitions, reiterated that he is innocent and has been falsely implicated in the present case. He is neither in a position to tamper with the prosecution evidence nor in a position to flee from justice, as he is permanent resident of the place, so he may be released on bail.

3. In the earlier bail petition (Cr.MP(M) No. 1153 of 2019), this Court tersely summed up the facts of the case. Again, the facts, which have emerged from prosecution story, are that on 20.10.2014, NCB team was on routine surveillance duty at Kullu. At about 06:30 p.m., a secret information was received that co-accused Nilmani will come near span, which is situated at some distance ahead to village Shat towards Manikaran, around 08:30 p.m and 09:00 p.m., and he will give signal of torch towards the village, situated at the other side of the hill and then the villagers will send 15 to 20 kgs of charas through the span towards co-accused Nilmani and he will pick up the contraband. The secret information was given on telephone. A surveillance operation was planned and for interception of the accused persons a team was constituted. NCB team laid a nakka near Shat village and waited for accused Nilmani. Around 08:30 p.m. a person came towards village Shat and near the span he gave signal with torch. After 5-7 minutes some material came through span to the side and the person waiting there picked up the same. The person, who collected the material from the span, was apprehended. That person disclosed his identity as Nilmani alias Nitu. The accused alongwith the bag was taken to NCB, Sub Zone Office, Mandi, where the bag was checked and it was found stuffed with dark brown colour substance, which was wrapped with polythene papers, in the shape of biscuit and square. The recovered substance was tested with the help of drugs detection kit and the same was found to be charas. The recovered contraband was weighed and it was found to be 19.780 kgs. Thereafter, requisite codal formalities were completed. During the course of investigation one Khekh Ram was found to have supplied the contraband to accused Nilmani, but he remained absconded. Accused Khekh Ram subsequently surrendered and his custody was handed over to NCB, Mandi. During the course of investigation it was unearthed that accused Mohar Singh and Ambri Lal were instrumental in arranging the consignment of charas to co-accused Nilmani alias Nitu. Mobile records of the accused persons reveal that accused persons remained in constant touch with each other. Owner of the span stated that on 20.10.2014 a person, namely Ram Lal (petitioner herein) came to him with two bags and asked him to send those bags through his span and he did not divulge about the contents of the bags. The petitioner was found to have used mobile No. 9816559297, through which he made several calls. The petitioner was issued notices under Section 67 of the ND&PS Act, but he did not turn up and remained absconded. The investigation further revealed that the petitioner was supplier of the charas. Lastly, it is prayed that as the petitioner was found involved in a serious offence and he also remained absconded, the bail petition be dismissed, as there is apprehension that the accused might flee from justice in case, at this stage, he is enlarged on bail and there is also a possibility that he may tamper with the prosecution evidence and there is no change in the circumstances.

4. I have heard the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner, learned Senior Counsel for the respondent and gone through the record, carefully.

5. The learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has argued that the petitioner is innocent and has been falsely implicated in the case in hand. He has argued that other accused persons have been acquitted and the petitioner himself surrendered before the police. The petitioner is resident of the place and he is neither in a position to jump over the bail, in case granted in his favour. The petitioner is willing to abide by the terms and conditions of the bail, in case so granted. He has further argued that now there is change in the circumstances and the petitioner is behind the bars for considerable time. Conversely, the learned Senior Counsel for the respondent has argued that there is no change in the circumstances and the bail application of the petitioner stood dismissed by the learned Trail Court on 16.05.2018 and this Court has also once dismissed the bail application of the petitioner and second application preferred by the petitioner was dismissed as withdrawn by this Court. The petitioner was found involved in a serious crime and he is supplier of charas. The investigation revealed that he allegedly supplied huge quantity of charas and subsequently he remained absconded. The petitioner was aware of the proceedings of the Court and there is every likelihood that he will be convicted on the available evidence, which is with the Narcotic Control Bureau. He has further argued that taking into consideration the huge quantity of contraband allegedly supplied by the petitioner and also the fact that there is no change in the circumstances, the present bail application be dismissed.

6. In rebuttal, the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has argued that the petitioner is behind the bars for sufficiently long period and no purpose will be served by keeping him behind the bars for an unlimited period, so the present application be allowed.

7. At this moment, after analyzing the records and hearing the learned Senior Counsel for the parties, this Court finds that there is no change in the circumstances. Admittedly, the petitioner is resident of the place, but this Court cannot shut its eyes to the fact that the petitioner evaded his arrest for long time. The recovered contraband in question is 19.780 kgs and is thus huge quantity. The trial in the case in hand is going on and if at this stage, keeping in view all the above circumstances, the petitioner is enlarged on bail, he may flee from justice and may also influence the witnesses. So, in view of the overall aspects of the case and the material, which has come on record, this Court finds that the present is not a fit case where the judicial discretion to admit the petitioner on bail is required to be exercised in his favour.

8. The petition, which is devoid of merits, deserves dismissal and is accordingly dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand(s) disposed of.

Arun vs. State, (2008) 15 SCC 501
Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415
T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu, (2006) 1 SCC 401

For the appellant: Mr. Shiv Pal Manhans, Additional Advocate General, with Mr. Raju Ram Rahi, Deputy Advocate General.
For the respondent: Mr. Ajit Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present appeal is maintained by the appellant/State, laying challenge to judgment dated 10.09.2008, passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Una, District Una, H.P., in Criminal Appeal No. 8 of 2006, whereby the accused/respondent (hereinafter referred to as "the accused") was acquitted for the commission of the offences punishable under Sections 279, 337 and 304A of Indian Penal Code, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as "IPC").

2. The key facts necessary for adjudication of this appeal can tersely be summarized as under:

As per the prosecution story, on 25.06.2004 police of Police Station, Amb, was informed by Medical Officer, that an injured person has been brought to the hospital. Police reached the spot and recorded the statement of Shri Jitender Kumar (complainant), son of Shri Gian Chand (hereinafter referred to "the deceased") under Section 154 Cr.P.C. The complainant in his statement portrayed that on 25.06.2004 he was standing at Panjoa bazaar and a tube well was being installed there. On the same morning the deceased alongwith Ramesh Chand (accused) went to Una for bringing compressor and at about 03:30 p.m. the accused was driving the tractor and compressor was trussed with the tractor. The accused was driving the tractor and the deceased alongwith one more person was sitting on the tractor. The tractor rolled down the hill and fell about 15 feet down. So, the complainant and other persons ran towards the spot of accident and found that the deceased and other person sustained minor injuries. Soon, the injured were shifted to PHC, Amb, where the deceased was declared dead. As per the complainant, the accused was found to have sustained no injury in the accident and due to his rash and negligent act the accident took place. On the statement of the complainant, police registered a case against the accused and the investigation ensued. It has come in the police investigation that one Surjit Kumar was also brought to PHC, Amb, at about 03:30 p.m., on 25.06.2004, with the alleged history of road accident. As per the post mortem report, the deceased died due to acute haemorrhage shock, as a result of fracture multiple and damage to the base of heart. After completion of investigation, challan was presented in the Court.

3. The prosecution, in order to prove its case, examined as many as ten witnesses. Statement of the accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein he pleaded not guilty. The accused did not lead any evidence in his defence.

4. The learned Trial Court, vide its judgment dated 31.07.2006/04.08.2006 convicted the accused under Sections 279, 337 and 304A IPC and sentenced him to undergo simple imprisonment for three month under Section 279 IPC, rigorous imprisonment for two years and fine of Rs. 5,000/- and in default of payment of fine he was ordered to further undergo simple imprisonment for three months under Section 304A IPC and under Section 337 IPC the accused was sentenced to undergo simple imprisonment for three months. The accused preferred an appeal, laying challenge to the judgment of the learned Trial Court and the learned Lower Appellate Court, vide its judgment dated 10.09.2008 (impugned judgment), acquitted the accused for all the offences, hence the present appeal is preferred by the appellant/State.

5. I have heard the learned Deputy Advocate General for the State, learned counsel for the respondent and carefully gone through the records in detail.

6. Mr. Raju Ram Rahi, learned Deputy Advocate General, has argued that the learned Lower Appellate Court acquitted the accused without appreciating the evidence and law correctly and just on the basis of surmises and conjectures. He has further argued that the learned Lower Appellate Court did not appreciate the fact that the prosecution has proved the guilt of the accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt. He has referred to the statement of PW-1, Shri Jatinder Kumar, who is son of the deceased and also the complainant in the instant case. As per the learned Deputy Advocate General, PW-1 has categorically stated that he has seen that the accused was looking here and there, so he could not negotiate the curve and resultantly the tractor fell down. He has argued that due to the rash and negligent driving of the accused the accident occurred and the deceased lost his life. On the other hand, Mr. Ajit Sharma, learned Counsel for the respondent/accused argued that in the instant case the statement of PW-7, Shri Surjit Singh, who was sitting alongwith the deceased on the tractor, is very vital. He has argued that PW-7 gave portrayal of the accident to the police, through his statement, which was recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. after 6-7 days of the accident. Learned Counsel for the accused has highlighted the statements of Shri Surjit Singh given to the police and before the Court. He has argued that PW-7, Shri Surjit Singh, made major improvements in his statement before the Court, so his testimony is not reliable. He has further argued that the statement of PW-1, Shri Jatinder Kumar (complainant), son of the deceased, is otherwise also not reliable. PW-1 made improvements in his statement before the Court. He has argued that the appeal sans merits, so the same be dismissed and the accused be acquitted.

7. In rebuttal, the learned Deputy Advocate General, has argued that the evidence, which has come on record, clearly show that due to the rash and negligent driving of the accused the accident occurred and the deceased lost his life. He has argued that after re-appreciating the evidence, which has come on record, the appeal be allowed and the accused be convicted.

8. The edifice of the prosecution case mainly rests upon the testimonies of PW-1, Shri Jatinder Kumar (complainant) and PW-7, Shri Surjit Singh (injured). PW-1, Shri Jatinder Kumar, deposed that on 25.06.2004, at about 03:15 p.m., a tractor was going towards Guga, which was being driven by the accused. He has further deposed that the deceased and Shri Surjit Kumar (PW-7) were sitting on the tractor. The tractor was going on downslope and rolled down the road. The accident took place due to the negligence of the accused, as he was looking here and there. The deceased died in the accident and Shri Surjit Singh sustained injuries. He has further deposed that he reported the matter to the police and his statement is Ex. PW-1/A. This witness, in his cross-examination, deposed that the site of work was visible from the site of accident and at that time five persons were working on the site of work. However, these witnesses were not examined by the prosecution for the reasons known to the prosecution. This witness tried to prove that accident took place due to the negligence of the accused, as he was looking here and there. This witness, in his cross-examination, admitted that he did not mention to the police that the accused was looking here and there and due to this the accident took place. So, it would not be inapt to say that this witness made improvements while deposing in the Court.

9. PW-7, Shri Surjit Singh (injured), another key prosecution witness, feigned ignorance qua the time, date and month of the alleged accident. As per this witness, the accused was driving the tractor on high speed and due to this reason he lost control over the tractor and the tractor rolled down from the road. This deposition of PW-7 is complete mismatch to the testimony of PW-1. PW-1 attributed the cause of accident that the accused was looking here and there, whereas, as per PW-7, the accident took place as the accused was driving the tractor on a very high speed. Now, the key prosecution witnesses have given different causes of accident. Indisputably, at the time of the alleged accident a compressor was trussed with the tractor, so it seems highly improbable that the tractor was going on a high speed. PW-1 and PW-7 have given different causes for the alleged accident and both these witnesses, as per the prosecution case, are the eye witnesses of the accident. However, the depositions of these witnesses are distinct, as they attributed different reason for the alleged accident.

10. Dr. R.K. Garg (PW-6) noticed the following injuries on the person of the deceased:

> "1. Multiple abrasions on the right fore arm;
>
> 2. Multiple abrasions on the right eye; &
> 3. Blunt trauma to the back and left shoulder."

This witness issued medico legal certificate, Ex. PW-6/A. As per this witness, the injuries sustained by the deceased could be caused to a person sitting on the tractor and the tractor rolls down.

11. Even if it is taken that the deceased died in the alleged accident, then also the prosecution has to establish that due to the rash or negligent driving of the accused the alleged accident took place. Firstly, PW-1 attributed the cause of accident that accused was looking here and there and secondly PW-7 attributed the cause of accident that accused was driving the tractor on a high speed, even when a compressor was trussed with the tractor.

Principally, a rash act is an over-hasty act and is thus opposed to a conscious act, but it also includes an act which, though it may be said to be conscious, is yet done without due care and caution. In rashness the criminality lies in running the risk of doing an act with recklessness or indifference to consequences. The prosecution has to prove in the instant case that due to rash or negligent act of the accused the alleged accident took place, but the key prosecution witnesses give divergent portrayal qua the cause of the accident. Thus, it cannot be said that the accused was rash or negligent in driving the tractor.

12. As noted above, the testimonies of PW-1 and PW-7, the key prosecution witnesses, make the prosecution story doubtful. There are other auxiliary contradictions which render the prosecution story tainted with doubts. The first portrayal of the accident was given by PW-1, through his statement, Ex. PW-1/A, under Section 154 Cr.P.C. However, this statement nowhere mentions the name of PW-7, especially when PW-7 was known to PW-1. This Court cannot shut its eyes to the fact that accident took place on 25.06.2004 and the police recorded the statement of PW-7 on 01.07.2004. This unexplained delay of 6-7 days further makes the prosecution story doubtful. As per the prosecution story, the accused, who was driving the tractor, had not sustained any injury, especially when the tractor alongwith the accused, the deceased and PW-7, Shri Surjit Singh (injured) rolled down for 10-15 feet. Thus, the fact that the accused had not sustained any injury in the accident also seems improbable and the prosecution could not offer any explanation why the accused had not sustained any injury in the alleged accident. So, all these facts clearly create doubt qua the veracity of the prosecution story and makes it unbelievable.

13. Though, prosecution has also examined other witnesses, but their depositions are not worth discussing, as the prosecution case fails after examining the key prosecution witnesses, i.e., PW-1 and PW-7, who are also alleged eye witnesses of the accident.

14. After exhaustively discussing the testimonies of key prosecution witnesses, it is safe to hold that prosecution witnesses have not given true version about the accident and, in fact, they tried to exaggerate the things and in their attempt to do so, they created a doubt in the mind of this Court qua the veracity of the prosecutions story. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Arun vs. State, (2008) 15 SCC 501, has held that if there are two reasonable views, then the view favouring the accused be adhered to. In the present case also there are two views and the available material on record compels this Court to tilt towards the view favouring the accused.

15. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in T. Subramanian vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2006) 1 SCC 401, has held that where two views are reasonably possible from the very same evidence, prosecution cannot be said to have proved its case beyond reasonable doubt.

16. In Chandrappa vs. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has culled out the following principles qua powers of the appellate Courts while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal:

> "42. From the above decisions, in our considered view, the following general principles regarding powers of the appellate court while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal emerge:
> 1. An appellate court has full power to review, reappreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

2. The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1873 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.
3. Various expressions, such as, 'substantial and compelling reasons', 'good and sufficient grounds', 'very strong circumstances', 'distorted conclusions', 'glaring mistakes', etc. are not intended to curtail extensive powers of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of 'flourishes of language' to emphasise the reluctance of an appellate court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.
4. An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial Court.
5. If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial Court."

17. In view of the settled position of the law as discussed hereinabove and also the testimonies of the key prosecution witnesses, which are marred with contradictions and discrepancies, it would be more than safe to hold that the prosecution story is full of doubts and the prosecution could not cogently and convincingly establish the guilt of the accused. Thus, it is more than safe to hold that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of the accused beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt. Therefore, the findings of acquittal, as recorded by the learned Lower Appellate Court do not suffer from any infirmity. This Court sees no ground to overturn the findings of acquittal of the learned Lower Appellate Court.

18. The appeal, which sans merits, deserves dismissal and is accordingly dismissed. Pending miscellaneous application(s), if any, shall stand(s) disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE CHANDER BHUSAN BAROWALIA, J.

Surender Sharma …Petitioner

Versus

Nek Ram Verma …Respondent

Cr. MMO No. 523 of 2018
Decided on: 10.07.2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Sections 397 and 401-Interlocutory orders– Revision against– Maintainability– Held, order rejecting accused's application for sending disputed cheques to expert for comparison with his admitted/specimen handwriting is purely interlocutory in nature and revision against it is not maintainable. (Para 11)

For the petitioner: Mr. Shyam Singh Chauhan, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Nitin Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Chander Bhusan Barowalia, Judge.

The present petition has been maintained by the petitioner/accused under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure for quashing and setting aside the order dated 04.08.2018 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge(1), Shimla, H.P. in Cr. Revision No.6-S/10 of 2018.

2. Briefly stating the facts, giving rise to the present petition are that the respondent/complainant (hereinafter to be referred as the 'respondent') filed a compaint under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instrument Act before the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Shimla, H.P. It has been alleged that the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate took cognizance and the petitioner/accused was summoned. Notice of Acquisition was also framed and the petitioner pleaded not guilty and thereafter the case was fixed for evidence on behalf of the complainant/respondent. The complainant was examined on 18.03.2017 and thereafter the evidence on behalf of complainant was closed.

3. As per the petitioner, his case is that he has not filled in the cheque (CW-1A), except the signatures in the alleged cheque and the cheque was given as a security money to the tune of Rs.2,50,000/- to the complainant, which was later on misused by the complainant/respondent by filing fake complaint under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instrument Act before the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate.

4. I have heard the learned Counsel for the parties and gone through the record carefully.

5. It has been alleged that the petitioner had filed an application under Section 45 and Section 73 of the Evidence Act read with Section 311 of Criminal Procedure Code in the Court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Shimla for sending the alleged cheque to the handwriting and ink expert, however, the learned trial Court dismissed the application filed by the petitioner on 16.2.2018. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied, the petitioner filed a Criminal Revision under Section 397 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, against the order dated 16.2.2018 passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Shimla before the learned Additional Sessions Judge(I), Shimla and the same was dismissed on 04.8.2018.

6. The learned trial Court vide order dated 16.2.2018, dismissed the application of the petitioner. Thereafter, he maintained the revision petition before the learned Lower Revisional Court and filed a criminal revision petitioner under Section 397 of the Code, which was also dismissed. The petitioner wants to prove on record by way of application that he has not filled the cheque.

7. As per the learned counsel for the petitioner, he has been deprived of by the valuable right to examine the figure mentioned in the disputed cheque from the handwriting expert. As per him, the figure was wrongly mentioned by the complainant.

8. The learned Counsel for the petitioner has argued that the petitioner is innocent and he has admitted that he has issued the cheque in question and also admitted his signatures on it, hence, no case can be made out against him. Conversely, the learned counsel appearing for the respondent has argued that the petitioner has commited a serious offence and that the offence is not compoundable, so, the petition may be dismissed.

9. To appreciate the arguments of learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties, I have gone through the entire record in detail.

10. The impugned order dated 16.2.2018 of the learned trial Court is to the effect that the application filed by the petitioner/accused under Sections 45 and 73 of the Indian Evidence Act read with Section 311 of Code of Criminal Procedure to call the report of handwriting expert whether handwritten portion of the cheque in question, except signatures is written by the petitioner or whether the ink used in the signatures and the ink used in filling the name of bearer and amount in words as well as figure are different and the age of the ink used to put the signatures in the cheque.

11. Now, the question arises; whether it is an ingtermediate order and on its reversal in this revision, the procedings would culminate in entirety? Even if, the contention of the revision petitioner is accepted, as correct, and the revision petition is allowed, still the proceedings before the learned trial Court will not come to an end. Even if, it is assumed that the plea of petitioner is accepted and his revision is allowed, so, the impugned order is purely interlocutory in nature and the revision against it is not maintainable.

12. The accused while answering Question No.7 of his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., which reads as under:-

> "Q.No.7.
>
> It has further come in the evidence of the complainant led against you accused that on 14.01.2015, you accused issued and executed Cheque No.027548 for a sum of Rs.3,50,000/- (Ext. CW-1/A) in favour of the complainant against your Account No.100028246375, drawn on IndusInd Bank Limited, Shimla Branch, the Mall, Shimla, H.P. What you have to state about it?
>
> Ans.
> "Cheque Maine Khali Hastakshar Karke Rs.2,50,000/- Ke Liye Diya thaa."

13. It means that the petitioner has admitted that he has issued the cheque, but for Rs.2,50,000/- and has admitted his signatures on the cheque. So, when he has admitted the signatures on the negotiable instrument, no fruitful purpose will be served by sending the same to the handwriting expert. It is further to be noted that he has admitted his signatures on the cheque, in these circumstanes, this Court finds that there is no reason to inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Criminal Procedure Code, as the orders passed by the learned trial Court as well as by the learned Revisional Court are in accordance with law. So, these needs no intereference. Hence, the petition is devoid of merits and deserves dismissal and is accordingly dismissed. Parties through their learned counsel are directed to appear before the Learned Court below on 25th July, 2019.

14. Pending application(s) if any, shall also stand disposed of accordingly.

Versus
Inder Pal Singh Rana (since deceased) through his legal heirs and others ....Respondents/plaintiffs.

RSA No. 513 of 2004.
Reserved on : 3rd July, 2019.
Decided on : 12th July, 2019.

Indian Succession Act, 1925 –Section 63 – Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 68 – Execution and proof of Will – Held, mere statements of attesting witnesses regarding due execution of Will per se would not constrain court to mete deference to their testifications - Witnesses if inherently incredible, their deposition cannot be taken as proof of due execution of Will – Will scribed in grossly unnatural manner – Recitals made therein belied from other evidence on record – Marginal witness admitting legatee having assisted him in earlier litigation – Due execution of will not proved. (Para 9)

For the Appellants: Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Dinesh Bhatia, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Rajneesh K. Lall, Advocate vice Mr. Sanjeev Sood, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiffs' suit, for, rendition of a decree for declaration, and, also for rendition of a decree, for permanent prohibitory injunction, stood, under concurrently recorded verdicts, hence, decreed by both the learned courts below. The defendants/appellants herein are aggrieved therefrom, hence, institute the instant appeal before this Court.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that one Smt. Karam Kaur, widow of Sh. Moti Singh was owner in possession of the suit land detailed in the plaint. After the death of Moti Singh his estate vested in Karam to the extent of ½ share and in Smt. Shardi widow of Sh. Moti Singh, predecessor-in- tile of the plaintiffs, and, after death of Shardi, her estate was inherited by son of Smt. Jit Kaur, plaintiffs No.1 to 3 and Sh. Surinder Pal Singh Rana. Sh. Surinder Pal Singh Rana died and his estate vested in his widow Smt. Paramjit Kaur, daughter Ekta Rana and Angad Singh. Plaintiffs No. 1 to 3 and their brother Sh. Surinder Pal Singh Rana had been serving, looking after and managing the estate of Smt. Karam Kaur. The plaintiffs are the successors of Smt. Jit Kaur daughter of Shardhi. Smt. Karam Kaur executed a will of her estate in favour of plaintiffs No.1 to 3 on 21.9.1981 to the extent of ¼ share and got the same registered. Shri Surinder Pal Singh Rana died. Smt. Karam Kaur came to village Jagatpur to join a function of retirement of Sh. Avtar Singh. Sh. Raminder Pal Singh son of Plaintiff No.1 accompanied her from Kiratpur Sahib to Jagatpur and stayed in her home. Smt. Karam Kaur executed her last will on 31.1.1997 in faovur of the plaintiffs to provide for inheritance of her estate of the share of Surinder Pal Singh Rana. Smt. Karam Kaur died on 2.2.1997 and her last rites were performed by plaintiff No.1. The estate of Smt. Karam Kaur vested in the plaintiffs to the extent of ¼ share each. The defendants fabricated a will on 27.1.1997 alleged to have been executed by Smt. Karam Kaur which is the result of forgery and in alternative has been fabricated by way of mis-representation and fraud. The mutation had been sanctioned in favour of defendant No.1, at the instance of defendant No.2, who was working in the office of SDO (Civil) Nalagarh. The plaintiffs are owners in possession of the land in suit and the defendants are threatening to interfere with the possession of the plaintiffs over the land in suit. So, the plaintiff filed the suit for declaration that they were owners in possession of the land in suit and the entries in the revenue record are wrong, illegal, void, invalid, malafide along with a decree for permanent injunction restraining the defendants from forcibly dispossessing and interfering in the possession of the plaintiffs over the land in suit.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, it has been averred that Smt. Karam Kaur was the widow of Sh. Moti Singh. The plaintiffs did not have any concern with Smt. Karam Kaur and she was not being served by the plaintiffs. Smt. Karam Kaur used to reside in village Joghon and was patient of paralysis. The defendants were serving her and her last rites were performed by the defendants. The mutation of the estate of Smt. Karam Kaur had been attested in the names of the defendants on the basis of Will dated 27.1.1997 executed by Smt. Karam Kaur in favour of defendant No.1. Smt. Karam Kaur had executed her last will in favour of defendant No.1 The alleged Will dated 21.9.1981 and 31.1.1997 were manipulated. The mutation had been validly attested in favour of the defendant No.1. The defendant No.1 was absolute owner in possession of the suit land.

4. The plaintiffs filed replication to the written statement of the defendant(s), wherein, they denied the contents of the written statement(s), and, re-affirmed, and, re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court, struck, the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether deceased Smt. Karam Kaur executed a legal and valid will on 21.9.1981 in favour of plaintiffs No.1 to 3 and Surinder Pal Singh, predecessor-in-title of the plaintiffs No.4 to 6, as alleged? OPP.
2. Whether deceased Karam Kaur executed Will dated 31.1.1997 in favour of the plaintiffs ,as alleged? OPP.
3. Whether the plaintiffs are nearest legal heirs of deceased Smt. Karam Kaur, as alleged? OPP.
4. Whether deceased Smt. Karam Kaur executed a legal and valid will dated 27.1.1997 in favour of the defendant No.1, as alleged? OPD.
5. Whether this suit is not maintainable? OPD.
6. Whether the plaintiffs have no locus standi to file the present suit? OPD.
7. Whether the plaintiffs have no cause of action? OPD.
8. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed, the suit, of, the plaintiffs/respondents herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by, the defendants/appellants herein, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed, the, appeal, and, affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the defendant(s)/appellant(s) herein, have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein they assail the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, on 24th November, 2004, this Court, admitted the appeal, instituted by the defendant(s)/appellant(s) against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on, the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

1. Whether the findings of the learned first appellate Court are dehors the evidence on record and wrong application of law, particularly Section 60(c) of the Indian Succession Act?

Substantial question of Law No.1 :

8. The deceased testator one Karam Kaur, allegedly executed three Wills, respectively on 21.9.1981, on 27.1.1997, and, on 31.1.1997. The testamentary disposition executed by deceased Karam Kaur, on 21.9.1981, and, borne in Ex.P-2, is, a registered testamentary disposition, (i) whereas, the subsequent thereto executed testamentary dispositions, respectively on 27.1.1997, and, on 31.1.1997, and, as respectively borne in Ex.D-1, and, in Ex. P-1, are, both unregistered testamentary dispositions. However, the Will propounded by the plaintiffs, and, as, embodied in Ex.P-2, stood concluded, by both the learned courts below, to stand proven, hence, to be validly, and, duly executed, by the deceased testator. The Will, borne in Ex.P-2, annuls the unregistered testamentary disposition, as, executed by deceased testator, and, as respectively borne in Ex.D-1, and, in Ex. P-1. Nonetheless, obviously hence both the learned courts below, proceeded to, concurrently pronounce rather qua the registered testamentary disposition, borne in Ex.P-2, and, executed by the deceased testator, hence prevailing over, the, subsequent thereto, executed unregistered testamentary dispositions, respectively borne in Ex.P-1, and, in Ex.D-1, (I) AND, wherethrough, she, bestowed her estate, upon, her legatees, as, recited therein. The afore pronouncements, as, concurrently recorded, by both the learned courts below, remain unchallenged, at the instance of the plaintiffs/respondents herein, and, the challenge thrown before this Court, by the aggrieved defendants, is centered, upon, both the learned courts below, despite, the scribe, and, marginal witness to Ex. D-1, (ii) exhibit whereof comprises, an unregistered testamentary disposition, executed, vis-a-vis, the defendants, by the deceased testator, hence, within the statutory domain, of, Section 63 of the Indian Evidence Act, making unequivocally echoings, in their respective testification(s) qua (iii) the deceased testator, appending her thumb impression, upon Ex.D-1, respectively in their presence, and, thereafter each of the witnesses, also making their relevant signatures thereon, hence, also in the presence, of, the deceased testator, (iv) yet both the learned courts below proceeding to construe, qua it, not being proven to be validly, and, duly executed, by the deceased testator, rather merely, on anvil, of certain suspicious circumstances, surrounding, the, due and valid execution, of, Will borne, in Ex. D-1.

9. This court has proceeded to, keenly discern, the testification(s) respectively rendered by the scribe of Ex. D-1, namely, Pushpinder Singh, who stepped into the witness box as DW-3, as also, has, with circumspect care and precision, hence, perused the testification, of, a marginal witness thereto, one Randeep Singh, and, who stepped into the witness box as DW-4. However, though, in their, respectively recorded testifications, they rendered echoings, vis-a-vis, (a) the deceased terstator being possessed with, the, requisite compos mentis, (b) hers after being readover, and, explained, the contents borne in Ex.D-1, hers thereafter, in their respective presence(s), hence, appending her thumb impressions thereon, and, thereafter, in her presence, theirs also appending their signatures thereon. The afore testified articulations, occurring, in, the testifications, as, respectively rendered by the scribe, and, the marginal witness to Ex. D-1, do prima facie, fall within the sanctified, domain of Section 63 of the Indian Evidence Act, (c) and, when thereupon this Court, may proceed, to dis-concur hence with the findings recorded, by both the learned courts below, hence, irrevering their testifications. However, the mere factum, of the afore testifying, rather within the statutory parameters, as, encapsulated in Section 63, of, the Indian Evidence Act, (d) would not per se constrain this Court, to mete deference, to their testifications, (e) as both, the, afore defendants' witnesses, as, is evident, from their respective cross-examinations, and, for the reasons to be assigned hereinafter, rather render their testifications being incredible, (f) given Ex. D-1 standing scribed, by the brother of the legatee, and, it being scribed in a grossly unnatural manner, and, the recitals borne therein, vis-a-vis, the deceased testator, hence during her life time, rather standing served by the defendants, also standing belied by the factum, given, the legatee, during, the course of his cross-examination, being unable to describe, the apt part of the body, of, the deceased testator, whereon she, stood afflicted with paralysis, (g) despite, DW-1 in his cross-examination rendering a testification, with clear echoings therein qua, at the time contemporaneous, to the deceased testator hence executing Ex.D-1, hers being afflicted with paralysis. The testification, of, the marginal witness, vis-a-vis, Ex. D-1, is also unamenable for any meteings, hence, of, any credence thereto, as, upon, a thorough reading, of his deposition, comprised in his cross-examination, he has acquiesced to a suggestion, put thereat, to him, by the counsel for the plaintiff, with, echoings therein, qua the defendant rather assisting him in an earlier case, regarding encroachments made by him, upon, government land, (h) thereupon, when he is a witness, who is deeply interested, in, rather furthering the espousal of the defendants, and, with no explanation, standing, meted, by the defendants, for theirs not joining any independent persons, as marginal witnesses to Ex. D-1, (i) thereupon, when his testimony is stained, with, deep pervasive stains, of his hyper interestedness, vis-a-vis, the, espousal of the defendants, (j) thereupon, dehors the factum, given his rendering, a, testification hence strictly in accordance with provisions, of Section 63 of the Indian Evidence Act, (k) yet would not incline this Court, to accept his testification, (l) rather this Court is constrained to conclude, that, the Will propounded by the defendants, and, borne in Ex. D-1, being stained with gross vices, and, it being executed, by the deceased testator, upon, the legatee(s) thereof, hence, exerting undue influence, and, pressure upon her.

10. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by both the learned Courts below, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned courts below have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial question(s), of law are answered in favour of the respondents/plaintiffs, and, against the defendants/appellants.

11. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in the instant appeal, and, it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the judgments, and, decrees, impugned before this Court are affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back forthwith.

Cases referred:
Md. Maqdoom Ahmed and another vs. Special Deputy Collector, 2003(4) ALD 715
Popat Bahiru Govardhane and others vs. Special Land Acquisition Officer and another, (2013) 10 SCC 765

For the Petitioners: Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Yudhvir Singh Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The lands, of, the predecessors-in-interest, of co- petitioners No.1, 2, and 3 to 6 herein, namely respectively one Lajje Ram, and, one Fattu, stood, under a common notification, of, 23.11.1982, hence, acquired for construction of NH-21. The land acquisition Collector concerned, vis-a-vis, the lands of the afore, determined compensation amount. However, the afore predecessors-in-interest, of, the afore co-petitioners, standing aggrieved by determination of compensation, vis-a-vis, their acquired lands, hence, by the Land Acquisition Collector, rather through, theirs constituting, a valid reference, under, Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act, before the learned Reference Court concerned, sought enhancement of compensation determined, vis-a-vis, their lands, by the Land Acquisition Collector, (a) and, their land reference petition bearing No. 9 of 1987, stood, under a common verdict rendered thereon, on 1.9.1988, answered in their favour, and, therethrough compensation, vis-a-vis, their land, stood, enhanced. However, the predecessor-in-interest of co-petitioner No.7 to 9, namely Jagat Ram, and, Mansu Ram, did not constitute any valid reference, against the determination of compensation, vis-a-vis, them by the Land Acquisition Collector concerned. However, the effect(s) thereof would be answered hereinafter.

2. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the contesting litigants, do not controvert, the factum qua the landowners, other than, the predecessors-in-interest, of co-petitioners No.1 to 6 herein, proceeding, to constitute RFAs bearing RFA No. 44 of 1988, RFA No. 72 of 1988, RFA No. 69 of 1988 before this Court, and, (a) therethrough, statutory benefits higher than the one awarded by the learned Reference Court, upon, the apposite land reference petitions hence stood accorded, vis-a-vis, them. Upon, bestowing of benefits, upon, the landowners concerned, whereuponwhom, this Court through, Annexure P-4, had accorded relief, higher than the one accorded, vis-a-vis, them, in their respectively constituted land reference petitions, (b) one Janawar alias Jorawar, arrayed as co-petitioner No.1 in Land Reference Case No. 6 of 1987, and, one Lajja Ram, one Fateh Chand @ Fattu, and, one Dhani Ram, all respectively arrayed as co-petitioners No. 1, 2 and 3 in Land Reference Case No.9 of 1987, proceeded, to, on 5.6.1997, constitute a petition under Section 28-A of the Land Acquisition Act, for, hence, vis-a-vis, them also compensation amount, being determined, at par, with the appellants, in RFA No. 44 of 1988, decided on 20.03.1986. The afore requisite application, cast under the provisions of Section 28-A, of the Land Acquisition Act before the land Land Acquisition Collector, and, borne in Annexure P-2, stood dismissed, by the latter vide order rendered on 29.1.2014, borne in Annexure P-1. The petitioners are aggrieved therefrom, hence, motioned this Court.

3. As expostulated in a judgment, rendered by the Hon'ble Andhra Pradesh High Court, in a case titled as Md. Maqdoom Ahmed and another vs. Special Deputy Collector, reported in 2003(4) ALD 715, a period limitation of three months, stands, prescribed, for the relevant purpose, rather in Section 28-A of the Land Acquisition Act, and, the afore being not relaxable nor condonable, through, an application, cast under the provisions of Section 5 of the Limitation Act.

4. Be that as it may, even the afore expostulation of law also find explicit expression, in a judgment, of the Hon'ble Apex Court, rendered in a case titled as Popat Bahiru Govardhane and others vs. Special Land Acquisition Officer and another, reported in (2013) 10 SCC 765, wherein, in paragraph No.14 thereof, (a) the principle of hardship; (b) besides the principle of period of limitation prescribed in Section 28-A, being computable, from, the date of knowledge rather stands discountenanced

5. Even if, assumingly, Annexure P-2, stood instituted within the period of limitation, prescribed, in Section 28-A of the Land Acquisition Act. However, for the reasons to be assigned hereinafter, (a) the endeavour of the petitioners herein to claim, the, benefit(s) of the judgment pronounced by this Court, upon, RFA No. 44 of 1988, RFA No. 72 of 1988, and, RFA No. 69 of 1988, constituted before this Court, by those landowners, who were also aggrieved, by the award pronounced, by the learned Reference Court, upon, their apposite land reference petitions, all rather arising from a notification common hereat, yet cannot be countenanced, (I) as, a plain reading of the provisions of Section 28-A of the Land Acquisition Act, wherewithin, the apt parlance, borne by underlined phrase "the persons interested in all other land covered by the same notification under Section 4 sub-section (1) notwithstanding that they had not made an application to the Collector under Section 18, by written application to the Collector within three months from the date of the award of the court require that the amount of compensation payable to them may be redetermined on the basis of amount of compensation awarded by the Court", (ii) is qua it hence carrying, the, natural connotations, vis-a-vis, the benefits enshrined, in, Section 28-A of the Land Acquisition Act, being bestowable, only, upon those landowners concerned, (iii) who after, an, award being rendered, by the Land Acquisition Collector concerned, omit to constitute, a valid reference, under, Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act, (iv) rather other landowner concerned, whose lands, along with, the land of the landowners, rather proceed, to, canvass the apt statutory remedy, by constituting a valid reference, under, Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act, and, their striving(s) therethrough begetting success, (v) thereupon, the omitting landowners, being bestowed with a statutory right, to through recoursing Section 28-A, of, the Land Acquisition Act, and, within the period of limitation, prescribed in the proviso, borne underneath, to hence espouse, for parity of determination, of compensation inter se them, and, the landowners concerned, who succeed hence in, the, validly constituted petition, under Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act, hence, before the learned Reference Court. However, when the afore underlined phrase occurring in Section 28-A, also does not, narrate any explicit statutory expression (vi) that the landowners concerned, also, upon making omission(s), after, receiving, the, beneficial verdict, vis-a-vis, them, from, the learned Reference Court concerned, as hereat the co-petitioners, through, their predecessors-in-interest, hence, achieved/received, to, thereafter rather constitute a challenge thereagainst, under, Section 54, of the Land Acquisition Act, before the High Court, (vii) thereupon, also theirs being entitled, to the benefits, of Section 28-A of the Land Acquisition Act. In other words, the landowners concerned, who constitute a valid reference, under, Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act, upon, failing to thereafter, cast a challenge thereto, by availment of the remedy constituted, under Section 54 of the Land Acquisition Act, and, whereas, others recoursing the afore remedy, thereupon, upon, the latters' remedy begetting success, rather would not bestow, any, entitlements, vis-a-vis, any omitting landowners, qua, the, benefits, of, Section 28-A, of, the Land Acquisition Act.

6. In view of the above, there is no merit in the instant petition, and, it is dismissed accordingly. The impugned order is maintained and affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

FAO No. 243 of 2018 along with FAO No. 189 of 2019.
Reserved on: 3rd July, 2019.
Decided on : 12th July, 2019

Motor Vehicles Act 1988- Section 166– Motor accident– Permanent disability–Assessment of compensation under head "Future pain and suffering, loss of amenities" etc – Held, medical disability not proved by examining medical officer – No evidence that disability mentioned in disability certificate would permanently render claimant disabled from doing household work – Disability of 41% accruing from 26% mild hearing impairment and 20% loss of olfaction – Auditory impairment may be reparable with auditory aids – Olfactory disability appertains to loss of smell – Disability does not render claimant incapable to perform household chores – Compensation reduced to Rs. 75000/- towards failure pain & suffering and loss of amenities of life. (Para 4)

For the Appellant(s): Mr. Divya Raj Singh, Advocate in FAO No.243 of 2018 and Mr. Amrinder Singh Rana, Advocate in FAO No. 189 of 2019.

For Respondents: Mr. Amrinder Singh Rana, Advocate in FAO No. 243 of 2018, and, Mr. Divya Raj Singh, Advocate, in FAO No. 189 of 2019.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The owner-cum-driver of the offending vehicle, and, also the disabled claimant, are, both aggrieved, by the award rendered, by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-III, Una, H.P., upon MAC Petition No. 64 of 2015, (i) wherethrough, compensation amount comprised in a sum of Rs.3,25,000/-, stood awarded, vis-a-vis, the disabled claimant, and, thereon stood levied interest, at, the rate of 9% per annum, and, was ordered to commence from the date of petition, and, till realization, of, the afore compensation amount. The apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, stood fastened, upon, registered owner-cum-driver of the offending vehicle.

2. Through, FAO No. 243 of 2018 reared before this Court, by the registered owner-cum-driver, of the offending vehicle concerned, the latter concerts, to, reverse the findings, recorded upon issue No.1, appertaining to the relevant mishap which occurred, inter se, the offending vehicle, and, the vehicle, whereon the disabled claimant was astride upon its pillion, standing pronounced, to be sequelled by, the, rash, and, negligent manner of driving of the offending vehicle, by one Rachna Devi, the appellant herein (in FAO No. 243 of 2018). Obviously, since, the offending vehicle, did not, carry any insurance cover, thereupon, the learned counsel appearing for the registered owner-cum-driver of the offending vehicle, does not contest, the, fastening of the apposite indemnificatory liability, upon her. The learned counsel appearing for the registered owner-cum-driver, of the offending vehicle, has made a vehement submission, before this Court (a) that the dependence, as, made by the tribunal, upon, the ocular narratives, vis-a-vis, the relevant occurrence, wherein, the tort of negligence stood squarely ascribed, vis-a-vis, the appellant herein, hence, being a gross mis-dependence, (b) given PW-2, being an interested witness, and, PW-4's corroborative testification, vis-a-vis, the testification of PW-2, being also overlookable, and, discardable, (c) as, at the relevant stage, vis-a-vis, the happening, of, the ill-fated occurrence, he, given his serving as a clerk, with an advocate practising, at Courts located at Una, rather was naturally required, to be present within the precincts of, the Court than, at the site of occurrence, hence his version being both concocted, and, invented. However, the interestedness of PW-2, in his purportedly rendering a testification hence holding leanings, vis-a-vis, the disabled claimant, (d) arising from his being her relative, would not, per se negate the probative vigour of his testification, (e) unless, pointed suggestions stood meted to him, during, the course of his being subjected, to cross-examination, by the learned counsel, for the registered owner-cum-driver, of the offending vehicle, qua his not being present, at the site of occurrence, and, his hence rendering a concocted, and, invented version qua the occurrence, and, thereupon, rather his testimony being discardable. However, PW-2, is, also the informant, vis-a-vis, the relevant collision, which occurred, inter se, the apposite vehicle, (f) and, the offending vehicle, and, upon his purveying information to the police agencies concerned, the apposite FIR, borne in Ex.PW1/A stood registered, (g) and, furthermore, with a close scrutiny, of his testification, borne, in his cross-examination, hence not, making any emergences, that, the counsel for the registered owner-cum-driver, denying the afore factum, rather through his meteing suggestions, to him, vis-a-vis, his not being present, at the relevant site of occurrence, (h) nor his attempting to bely his version qua the occurrence, embodied in his examination-in-chief, wherein, he has pointedly, and, squarely, rather ascribed tort of negligence, vis-a-vis, the appellant herein. Conjoining, the afore, with, despite, it being open for the driver, of, the offending vehicle, to, mete, vis-a-vis, PW-2, hence, a suggestion, appertaining qua, in the relevant collision, the tort of negligence rather standing committed by the driver of the vehicle, whereon, on its pillion, the disabled claimant was astride, emphatically, given the latter vehicle occupying, the, inappropriate side of the road, (i) yet, with, even the afore espousal remaining un-recoursed, by the counsel for the appellant, as, visibly no suggestion compatible therewith, stood meted to PW-2, during the course, of his cross-examination, (j) hence, wants of all afore suggestion(s) being meted to PW-2, by the counsel for the registered owner-cum-driver, of the offending vehicle, hence, cumulatively fillip an inference, that, not only the owner-cum-driver of the offending vehicle, driving it, in a rash and negligent manner, also, the vehicle driven by her, rather occupying the inappropriate site of the road, hence, hers committing the tort of negligence.

3. Even though, the meteing of credence, vis-a-vis, PW-2's testification, vis-a-vis, the relevant occurrence, was,sufficient to render affirmative findings hence in consonance therewith, upon, issue No.1, yet corroborative thereto testification, is, also encapsulated in the deposition rendered by PW-4, Ram Singh, another ocular witness tot he occurrence, (i) who alike PW-2 has squarely ascribed the tort of negligence, vis-a-vis, the registered owner-cum-driver, of, the offending vehicle. Even though, he may be serving, as a clerk, with an advocate practising at Courts located at Una, and, even if, the relevant occurrence rather occurred, at a time, whereat he was expected, to be present within the precincts of the Courts located at Una, (ii) however, when he has meted an explanation qua his proceeding, to the site of occurrence in connection with his personal work, (iii) thereupon, his being merely expected to hence remain present, within the court precincts, would not belittle the efficacy, of the testification rendered by him. Consequently, the affirmative findings rendered by the learned tribunal, upon, issue No.1 are upheld.

4. Through, FAO No. 243 of 2018, and, FAO No. 189 of 2019, the learned counsel appearing for the litigating parties, respectively contend, vis-a-vis, reduction of compensation,and, for enhancement of compensation. The learned tribunal had, vis-a-vis, the disabled claimant assessed hence compensation, under, various heads, i.e. under head “conveyance charges” Rs.21,000/-, under head “unreimbursed bills” Rs.3,858/-, under head “Attendant Charges” Rs.24,000/-, under head “Special diet” Rs.20,000/-, under head “Actual loss of earning” Rs.30,000/-, under head “Pain and sufferings” Rs.75,000/-, and, under head “Future pain and suffering, loss of amenities of life, future loss of income on account of disability, Rs.1,51,200/-, hence, in total compensation of Rs.3, 25,100/- stood assessed, vis-a-vis, the disabled claimant. The serious contention which has emerged inter se the contesting litigants, is confined, vis-a-vis, under assessment, and, contrarily over assessment, by the learned tribunal, on anvil of “future pain and suffering, loss of amenities of life, future loss of income, on account of disability”, and, comprised in a sum of Rs.3,25,100/-. Even though, the, disability certificate issued vis-a-vis the disabled claimant, borne in Ex.PW6/A-27, stood tendered by PW-6, during, the course of recording her testification, obviously when it stands rather not tendered by the author thereof, (a) yet the afore omission would not stain, it, with any aura of invalidity, (b) hence, also renders it to be possessing the requisite probative efficacy, as, during the course of cross-examination of PW-6, no suggestion stood meted, vis-a-vis, her hence qua PW6/A-27 being forged, and, fictitious, and, also qua it not holding any nexus with the injuries encumbered, upon her, during the course of the collision, which occurred inter se the apposite vehicle, whereon she was astride, as a pillion, and, the offending vehicle. Moreover, with the learned counsel appearing for the registered owner-cum-driver, rather permitting the exhibition, of, the afore disability certificate tendered, during, the course of examination-in-chief of PW-6, whereupon, he is rather concluded to acquiesce qua authenticity(ies) thereof. Though, the per centum of disability encumbered, upon, the disabled claimant, is quantified therein in 41%. However, the afore per centum, of, disability, do not, per se hence entitle the disabled claimant, to, apart from hers being disabled to perform household chores, during the course, of her hospitalization also hence rear any claim for compensation being assessed, vis-a-vis, and, towards loss of future income, arising, from hers, being enjoined to pay for the service(s) of domestic helps, for the latter, rather performing the hitherto household chores, and, wheretowhich, she maybe entitled for monetary compensation. The reason, for making the afore conclusion, is, generated from the doctor concerned, not, proving the disability hence permanently, prohibiting the disabled claimant, to perform, the household chores, and, with the disability pronounced in Ex.PW6/A-27 being 41%, yet with also enunciation, rather standing borne therein, vis-a-vis, 41 % disability, rather erupting from 26% mild hearing impairment, and, 20% loss of olfaction, (a) and, when the auditory impairment, may be, repairable with auditory aids, and, when, the, olfaction disability rather appertains to loss of smell, (b) and, also when qua therewith, a, minimal per centum, of, disability, hence stands entailed upon her, (c) thereupon, unless the doctor concerned, had while stepping into the witness box, rendered a testification qua the disabled claimant, throughout her life, being disabled to perform the household chores, thereupon, the afore inference also bolsters a deduction, that, the afore disability neither, prohibiting the disabled claimant, to, throughout her life, hence, perform the household chores nor it besetting her with perennial pain and suffering nor hence, compensation under the head “future pain and suffering, loss of amenities of life, future loss of income on account of disability”, borne in a sum of 1,51,200/- is, assessable, vis-a-vis, her. Nonetheless, only a sum of Rs.75,000/- is, assessed towards “future pain and suffering, loss of amenities of life”.

5. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the registered owner-cum-driver of the offending vehicle, bearing FAO No. 243 of 2018, is partly allowed, whereas, the appeal filed by the disabled claimant, bearing FAO No.189 of 2019 is dismissed. In sequel, the impugned award, is, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified. Accordingly, the disabled claimant/appellant, is, held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.2,48,900/- (Rs. Two Lakh, forty eight thousand, nine hundred only) along with interest @ 9%, from, the date of petition till the date, of, deposit, of the compensation amount. The indemnificatory liability, vis-a-vis, the afore compensation amount, shall be, of the registered owner of the offending vehicle. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015–Sections 3 (iv) and 18 (1) (a)- Dispositional orders– Principle of best interest– Juvenile Justice Board ordering detention of juvenile in conflict with law in observation home for one month – Sessions court upholding order in appeal– Revision against– Juvenile in conflict with law found having tendered apology at very first opportunity to victim and her parents– No history of his ill conduct subsequent or prior to said incident– Dispositional order modified– He is let off after due admonition. (Para 12)

For the Petitioners: Mr. Vijender Katoch, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Hemant Vaid & Mr. Desh Raj Tahkur, Addl. A.Gs. With Mr. Y.S. Thakur, and, Mr. Vikrant Chandel, Dy. A. Gs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant Criminal Revision Petition, stands directed, by the petitioner, against, the concurrently recorded verdicts, made, both by the Juvenile Justice Board, Kangra at Dharamshala, vis-a-vis, the inquiry conducted, under Sections 354, 354-A and Section 354-B, of, the IPC, and, under Section 12, of, the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, and, the affirming thereto verdict, recorded by the learned Sessions Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala, (a) wherethrough, the juvenile in conflict, with law was found involved in the offences punishable, under Sections 354, 354-A and Section 354-B of the IPC, and, under Section 12, of, the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, (b) and, he was ordered to be kept, in custody for a period of one month, hence, at an observation home, and, also compensation, vis-a-vis, the victim was assessed, and, was directed to be defrayed, vis-a-vis, the victim, by the DLSA.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that on 8.10.2014, Banita Devi came to Police Station and got recorded her statement under Section 154 of the Cr.P.C., wherein, she has stated that on 5.1.0.2014 at about 9 p.m., after having dinner her daughter (prosecutrix) had told her that in the day time when she went to the house of child in conflict with law then child in conflict with law had taken her to his room and had lowered her and his pent. It is alleged that the appellant also made the prosecutrix to sit in his lap. On these allegations, the FIR was registered and inquiry was made by the police. Thereafter, the police completed all the investigation formalities.

3. On conclusion of the investigations, into the offences, allegedly committed by the juvenile in conflict with law, a report under Section 173, of, the Code of Criminal Procedure, stood hence prepared, and, filed before the Juvenile Justice Board, Kangra at Dharamshala.

4. The accused/petitioner herein, stood put, notice of accusation, by the Juvenile Justice Board, for his, committing offences, punishable under Sections 354, 354-A and 354-B of the IPC, and, under Section 12, of, the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 13 witnesses. On conclusion of recording, of the prosecution evidence, the statement of the juvenile, in conflict with law, stood, under Section 13(4) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules 2007, hence recorded by the Board, wherein, he claimed innocence, and, pleaded false implication, in the case.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the Board, returned findings of conviction, upon, the juvenile in conflict with law/petitioner herein, for his, committing offences punishable Sections 354, 354-A and 354-B of the IPC, and, under Section 12, of, the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act. In an appeal preferred therefrom, by the petitioner herein, before the learned Sessions Judge concerned, the latter affirmed the apposite findings of conviction, and, sentence, as, stands recorded in impugned therebefore judgment, as, pronounced by the Board, and, affirmed by the learned Sessions Judge concerned.

6. The the petitioner herein/juvenile in conflict with law, stands aggrieved, by the findings recorded, by the learned Sessions Judge concerned, in, affirmation, to the judgment of conviction recorded against him, by the Board. The learned counsel appearing for the petitioner herein/juvenile in conflict with law, has concertedly, and, vigorously contended qua the findings of conviction, recorded by the learned Sessions Judge concerned, rather standing not based, on, a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation, by it, of the material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction warranting reversal by this Court, in, the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction, and, theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. On the other hand, the learned Deputy Advocate General has with considerable force, and, vigour, contended qua the findings of conviction, recorded by the learned Sessions Judge concerned, rather standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation, by him, of the evidence on record, and, theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The learned counsel appearing, for the juvenile in conflict with law, has contended, (a) that the concurrent verdicts rendered, upon, the juvenile, in conflict with law, rather arising from gross mis-appreciation, of evidence existing, on record. He has in making, the afore espousal, before this Court, hence, focused, upon, (b) the minor prosecutrix through declared fit, by the board, to make a statement, hers thereafter while meteing an answer, to a question, "have you remember, what you have told your mother?" rather through gesture in, the, disaffirmative, hence, by nodding her head, obviously declined, to, render any affirmative answer thereto, (c) hence he contends that the concurrent verdicts recorded, vis-a-vis, the inquired into offences rather warranting interference by this Court. However, the afore submission, addressed before this Court, is not amenable, for acceptance by this Court, (d) as, the learned counsel appearing for the juvenile in conflict with law, has remained oblivious, vis-a-vis, the prior thereto question meted to her, by the board, with an echoing therein, qua, the juvenile in conflict with law, holding his residence in the neighbourhood, of the prosecutrix, (e) and, whereto, she meted, an, answer in affirmative, (f) and, also he has remained unmindful, to a query put to her by the Board, vis-a-vis, hers proceeding to join, the company of the juvenile, in conflict with law, rather for playing with him, whereto also she meted, an answer, in the affirmative. He has also slighted, the effect of a query put to her, by the Board, vis-a-vis, hers making any disclosure to her mother, whereto, she answered in the affirmative. The effect thereof,when stands combined, with, the learned counsel for the juvenile, in conflict with law, not cross-examining the prosecutrix, and, more particularly, hers meteing, an, answer in, the, affirmative to a query put to her qua hers, making disclosures, to her mother, (g) and, upon, conjoining the afore, with her mother, during, the course of her examination-in-chief, rendering, a, testification in consonance, with, the narratives, borne in the FIR, embodied in Ex.PW11/C, (h) besides with hers, during, the course of her cross-examination, by the learned defence counsel, standing meted, a, suggestion qua hers, during, night hours, visiting the house of the juvenile, in conflict with law, and, thereat, the latter rendering apologies, and hers thereto, hence, meteing an answer in the affirmative, (i) rather all galvanising an inference qua the defence acquiescing qua the relevant occurrence rather taking place, and, further effect thereto, is that, all the effects, of the minor prosecutrix, upon, query(ies) being put to her by the Board, vis-a-vis, hers remembering the content(s), of, the, disclosures made by her to her mother, rather through the nod of head, rendering an answer, in the disaffirmative, hence standing throughly effaced.

10. However, the learned counsel, appearing for the juvenile in conflict with law, has hence, thereafter proceeded to also address a submission, before this Court (i) that with PW-9, during, the course of his cross-examination rather admitting a suggestion put to him, vis-a-vis, the patient examined, by him, lacking the basic sexual knowledge, (ii) thereupon, the inquired into penal misdemeanors, and, orders of conviction, concurrently recorded, upon, the juvenile in conflict with law, not carrying hence the requisite mens rea. However, the afore submission is rendered rudderless, and, is also obliterated, vis-a-vis, all its relevant effects, (iii) given the learned defence counsel while cross-examining, the mother, of the prosecutrix rather meteing a suggestion to her qua the juvenile in conflict with law, during, night hours, upon, the parents of the prosecutrix, visiting his house, rather his thereat rendering apologies, to them, rather obviously hence, are, personificatory, vis-a-vis, the juvenile in conflict with law, at the relevant time, also holding the requisite mens rea, for, his committing the inquired into offences.

11. The learned counsel appearing for the juvenile in conflict with law, has proceeded, to make a further submission, for lessening the rigour, of the punishment imposed, upon, the juvenile in conflict with law, wherethrough, he was ordered to be kept, for a period of one month, in an observation home, (a) as, extantly, the juvenile in conflict in law, has joined the military services, and, also when he has, since, the occurrence and uptill now, reformed himself, and, when there, is no evidence on record, vis-a-vis, his previous ill conduct, thereupon, hence, the ends of justice would met in case, the juvenile in conflict with law, is let off, after admonition, hence, in consonance, with sub-section 1(a) of Section 18 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015. The learned Additional Advocate General, however, opposes the afore prayer, made before this Court, by the learned counsel appearing for the juvenile in conflict with law, (a) and, has made a submission, that the proviso, to sub-section (1) of Section 24 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, when, is not applicable, vis-a-vis, the juvenile in conflict with law, (b) thereupon, the benefit of sub-section (1) (a), of, Section 18 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, is, not bestowable, upon, the juvenile in conflict with law, (c) and, even if the orders made initially, by the Board, and, later affirmed, by the learned Sessions Judge concerned, wherethrough, the juvenile in conflict with law, stands, directed to be detained, at an observation home, are meritworthy, thereupon also hence with the juvenile in conflict with law, rather, joining, the, military services rather would not statutorily attract, any stigma, of, any disqualification.

12. This Court, has considered, the respective submissions, as, addressed before this Court, by the learned counsel appearing for the juvenile in conflict with law, and, by the learned Additional Advocate General, and, though, this Court affirms the impugned verdicts, of, conviction, concurrently made, upon, the juvenile in conflict with law, initially by the Juvenile Justice Board, and, lateron affirmed by the learned Sessions Judge concerned, (I) yet rather with both the Juvenile Justice Board, and, the learned Sessions Judge concerned, hence maintaining, the defrayment of compensation, to the victim, by the DLSA concerned, (ii) and, when hence it would appropriately alleviate, the, grievance(s) of the minor prosecutrix, (iii) besides when the juvenile in conflict with law, has, at the earliest tendered apology, for his penal misdemeanor, to the prosecutrix, and, her parents, besides when there is no evidence on record, with, respect to his prior ill-conduct, and, also, vis-a-vis, his subsequent ill-conduct, consequently, the order directing, the juvenile in conflict with law to be kept, for a period of one month, in an observation home, is modified, to his, being let off, on admonition.

13. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, the instant criminal revision petition, is partly allowed, and, the verdicts impugned before this Court is/are modified in the afore manner. Consequently, the dispositional order rendered by the Juvenile Justice Board, wherethrough, the juvenile in conflict is ordered to be kept for a period of one month, in a observation home, is modified to his being, let off on admonition. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Smt. Shashi Bala & Anr. .....Appellants/defendants.

Versus

Sh. Shankru (since deceased) through his legal heir Smt. Samitra Devi alias Harpreet Kaur .....Respondent/plaintiff.

RSA No. 60 of 2005.
Reserved on : 2nd July, 2019.
Decided on : 12th July, 2019.

Transfer of Property Act, 1882- Section 53 A – Himachal Pradesh Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972– Section 118– Held, when in previous litigation, agreement to sell in question itself has been held as void being in contravention of provisions of Section 118 of Himachal Pradesh Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, then person cannot claim protection of Section 53 A of Transfer of Property Act. (Para 8)

For the Appellants: Mr. G.D. Verma, Senior Advocate with Mr. B.C. Verma, Advocate

For the Respondent: Mr. Bhupender Gupta, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Rinki Kashmiri, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The defendants, standing aggrieved, by concurrently recorded verdicts, respectively, by the learned trial Court, upon, Civil Suit No. 139/1 of 1995, and, latter by the learned First Appellate Court, upon, Civil Appeal No. 40-S/13 of 2003, wherethrough, the plaintiff's suit, vis-a-vis, suit khasra number stood decreed, hence, institute the instant appeal before this Court, and, therethrough hence strive their reversal.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the deceased plaintiff One Shankru had filed a suit for possession of land and house comprised in Khata No.9/51 min, Khasra No.485/268, measuring 7 biswas, situate in mauja Barog, Pargana Bharoli, Kalan, Tehsil and District Solan, H.P. with the allegations that previously the suit property was owned by the plaintiff, who had transferred the same in the name of his wife Smt. Sundri, who had constructed a house subservient to the need of agriculture with respect to her adjoining land in Khata No.10/52 min and, other land. After the death of Smt. Sundri her estate has devolved upon the plaintiff and mutations No.438 and 525 have been attested. The house constructed over Khasra No.485/268 consisted of two rooms in the basement and two rooms in the upper side adjoining the Kalka Shimla Highway. The defendant No.1 and Shri Inder Sain Sethi desired to purchase the suit property but being non agriculturist could not do so and some wrong documents was got executed which were resiled with by Smt. Sundri, the then owner and per agreement the house over the suit property was given on rent at the rate of Rs.200/- per month to Smt. Shashi Bala, defendant No.1 and, all the documents executed between Smt. Sundri and Shashi Bala and Inder were treated as cancelled and a sum of Rs.15,000/- paid on 20.07.1980 was agreed to be adjusted towards the rent upto August, 1988. The payment was adjusted and the notice terminating the tenancy was served on the defendants for delivery of the vacant possession of the house on or before 1.10.1994. The defendant No.2 Bhagat Ram is a relative of defendant No.1 in order to put pressure upon Smt. Sundri filed a suit for injunction qua the suit property, on the basis of some fake agreement in which learned District Judge, held the defendant No.2 to be in possession of the suit property and he was liable to be dispossessed in due course of law per judgment dated 13.4.1994, in case No.444/1 of 1989. The agreement was of 1981 whereas there was bar on purchasing of land by non agriculturist by dint of the provisions contained in Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act. Defendants No.1 and 2 had added 2 rooms more in the said existing construction without the consent of the plaintiff illegally and had no right to remain in occupation of the same and are liable to deliver the vacant and peaceful possession of the house to the plaintiff. Shashi Bala also filed suit No.414/1 of 1988 in the year 1988 against Smt. Sundri for injunction in respect of Khasra No.268/1 to the extent of 2 biswas 9 biswansi out of 7 biswas which suit was decreed partly only with a liberty to recover possession in due process of law and appeal against the judgment was filed whereby the suit was remanded on account of the amendment sought. The defendant No.2 had stated that the defendant No.3 was in possession of the part of the property. The plaintiff after reserving his right to recover mesne profits has filed this suit for possession of the suit property.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein they have taken preliminary objections qua maintainability, cause of action, resjudicata, misjoinder4 of defendants No.2 and 3 as parties, valuation, estoppel, acquisition of title by the defendant by way of adverse possession and limitation. estoppel, res judicata etc. On merits, the defendants averred that Smt. Sundri and Shankaru owners of the property had agreed to sell the property in favour of defendants No.1 and 2 by a valid agreement and received consideration. The defendants were owners in possession of the suit property. Smt. Sundri had admitted the receipt of consideration before the Tehsildar. Shri Inder Sain Sethi did not agree to pay rent at the rate of Rs.200/- per month to Smt. Sundri and Shankaru. The documents were also not cancelled and validity of the documents was upheld by Senior Sub Judge, Solan. Sh. Bhagat Ram defendant No.2 was an agriculturist and suit regarding 2 bighas 11 biswas land on the basis of agreement and tatima was decreed by Senior Sub Judge, Solan. The suit against Sh. Bhagat Ram cannot be clubbed with the suit against Smt. Shashi Bala as the cause of action were different and sales took place at different times. The sale appertaining to a house which was not subservient to agriculture and the plaintiff was not entitled to take advantage of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act. There was no relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties, and, the possession of the defendants was also not unlawful. The suit was hit by Section 11 and Order 2, Rule 2 CPC.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is owner in possession of the suit land, as alleged? OPP.
2. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.
3. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is hit by principles of resjudicata? OPD
4. Whether the suit is bad for misjoinder of parties? OPD.
5. Whether the suit is not properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction? OPD.
6. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing the suit as alleged? OPD.

7. Whether the defendants have become owners of the land by virtue of adverse possession? OPD.
8. Whether the suit is barred by limitation? OPD.
9. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff/respondent herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by, the defendants/appellants herein, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed, the, appeal, and, affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

6. Now the defendants/appellants herein, have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein they assail the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. The appeal stands admitted by this Court, on the following substantial questions of law, respectively framed, on, 3.6.2005, and, on 10.12.2018:-

1. Whether bar of provisions of Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act has not been put to trial in accordance with law and findings are vitiated and whether in the present case property in suit being built up therefore no prior permission from State Government of Himachal Pradesh was required to be obtained?
2. Whether the appellant is entitled to the protection as contained in Section 53-A of Transfer of Property Act as held in 2002(3) SCC Page 676?
3. Whether respondents having set up plea of tenancy against appellant No.1 and in view view of the fact that PW-1 has deposed nothing as to when and between whom the alleged tenancy was created, therefore, in the absence of any agreement for creation of tenancy claim of the respondent was required to be rejected and disbelieved and for want of termination of tenancy suit merit dismissal?
4. Whether the present suit is not maintainable on account of joinder and non joinder of necessary parties and because of different causes of action and the suit in question is not maintainable on account on principle of resjudicata as well as estoppel.?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 and 2 :

7. In, a, previous suit, inter se, the extantly contesting litigants, rather conclusive, and, bindings judgments, and, decrees, stood rendered, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number(s), hence, bearing similarity, vis-a-vis, the extant suit khasra number, (i) judgments and decrees whereof, stand, borne in Ex.PW1/J, in Ex.PW1/K, and, in Ex.PW1/L, (ii) and, they make unfoldments, vis-a-vis, the agreement, of, sale executed inter se the executants thereof, respectively borne, in, Ex.PD, standing pronounced to be void, (iii) and, upon its attracting, the, statutory bar contemplated in Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy, and, Land Reforms Act, (iv) whereupon, the afore conclusive pronouncement(s), vis-a-vis, the afore facet, recorded, inter se, the contesting litigants, inevitably constrain, a conclusion from this Court, that, the substantial of law No.1, framed, with respect to the statutory bar encapsulated, in, the provisions of Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, being not amenable, for, being re-decided, (v) given, the afore conclusion, vis-a-vis, the conclusivity, and, binding effect(s), of, an earlier pronouncement recorded, vis-a-vis, the invalidity of the apposite agreement sale, hence, sparking thereon, rather, the requisite statutory bar of estoppel, and, (vi) given, whereupon, rather the solemn statutory principle of estoppel, created by the underlying therewith principle, of, constructive res judicata, being rendered both negated, as well, as beinghence deprived, of its, apt legal efficacy.

8. Even though, the substantial question of law appertaining, to acquisition of rights, in the suit property by the contesting litigants, on anvil of mandate, of, Section 53-A, of, the Transfer of Property Act, (i) even if assumingly, they, upon, the earlier verdicts, were, declared to be entitled, for, a, rendition, of, decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, (ii) and, also hence when they rather stand declared, to be, in possession of the suit property, (iii) rather the mere validity, of, the, afore renditions, made, vis-a-vis, the defendants, cannot per se hence also bestow, upon, them, the benefits, of, the afore provisions, rather validities, vis-a-vis, the afore espousal, is to be determined, along with the afore faceted hence conclusive, and, binding pronouncement recorded, in the earlier verdicts, (iv) and, rather, wherethroughs, the afore apposite agreement to sell, vis-a-vis, the suit land, and, borne thereat, in Ex.PD therein, hence stood declared to be nonest, its, infracting the mandate, encapsulated in Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy, and, Land Reforms Act, (iv) and, the necessary concomitant sequel thereof, is, that the principle embodied in Section 53-A, of, the Transfer of Property Act, though attractable, vis-a-vis, the defendants, upon, theirs holding possession, of, the suit property, (v) yet the afore principle being abridged, with a rider, qua, it operating only, upon, the entire commercial transaction(s) being declared valid, (vi) whereas, with the apposite sale agreement, standing pronounced to be null, and, void, and, further when, in the earlier judgment, the aggrieved therefrom rather, the, plaintiff herein, is reserved, with a right, to, in accordance with law, hence, seek recovery of possession of the suit property, (vii) thereupon, he is entitled to a decree for possession, rather of, the suit property, (viii) given, the agreement to sell, being ingrained with a legal malady, reiteratedly, whereupon, the aggrieved defendants, are, forbidden to stake a claim hence anchored, upon, the mandate borne in Section 53-A, of, the Transfer of Property Act, (ix) especially when any valid anchorage(s) thereon, necessitate(s) qua the apposite agreement, hence, holding legal force. Consequently, substantial questions of Law No.1, and, 2 are hence answered in favour of the respondent/plaintiff, and, against the defendants/appellants.

Substantial question of law No.3 and 4.

9. The learned counsel, appearing for the appellants has contended with much vigour, before this Court, (i) that for want of, a, scribed agreement, hence, creating therethroughs any tenancy, vis-a-vis, a portion, of the suit property, (ii) thereupon, both the learned courts below were interdicted, to record a finding, that, the aggrieved defendants, rather assuming tenancy rights, vis-a-vis, the suit property nor hence, it was amenable, for the learned Courts below, to, through theirs, concurrently recorded verdicts, hence accept the notice borne in Ex.PW1/C, and, Ex.PW1/D, notices whereof, stand, evidently served, upon, the defendants, under, postal receipts, borne in Ex.PW1/E-1 to Ex.PW1/E-3, (iii) besides through postal certificate, borne in Ex.PW 1/E-1 to Ex.PW1/E-3. Since, the afore notices, wherethrough, the tenancy of the aggrieved defendants, hence, stood terminated, rather are evidently proven, to be, served, upon, the latter, (iv) and, when the defendants also permitted exhibition marks being made thereon, besides when the reflections in the jamabandi, appertaining, to the suit land, and, borne in Ex.PW1/B, make clear palpable disclosure, vis-a-vis, the plaintiff/respondent herein standing recorded therein, to be owner, in possession, of the suit property, (v) besides when the earlier conclusive, and, binding verdicts, respectively borne, in Ex.PW1/J to Ex.PW1/L, reserving a right, in the plaintiff/respondent, to recover, through, the processes of law, rather possession of the suit property, (vi) thereupon, merely for absence of recording or execution, of, scribed agreement(s), of tenancy, inter se, the contesting litigants, rather do not forbade, both the learned courts below, to discard or reject the probative vigour, of, the afore exhibits, (vii) rather reiteratedly when the counsel for the defendants permitted, the embossing of exhibition marks thereon, (viii) and, when hence the recitals borne therein, are obviously construable to be admitted by the defendants, (ix) thereupon, it stands formidably concluded, that dehors, any scribing, of, any tenancy agreement, inter se, the contesting litigants, rather the afore exhibits, abundantly proving, the, coming into being, of, an oral, and, implied tenancy, vis-a-vis, the suit property, and, the returning, of, findings, vis-a-vis, oral, and, implied tenancy hence coming into being, inter se, the contesting litigants, vis-a-vis, the suit property, hence, by both the learned Courts below, rather, not warranting, theirs being disturbed.

10. The learned counsel appearing, for the aggrieved defendants, has made, a vehement submission before this Court, (i) that, the joinder of multifarious causes of action in the extant suit rather being grossly impermissible, (ii) as, all the causes of citation joined in the extant suit, are segregable, and, all the encapsulated causes of action are wholly segregable, and, distinct from each other, (iii) and, when hence all the causes of action, were amenable, for being joined in different suits, whereas, reiteratedly, all being joined in the extant suit, (iv) rather rendered the instant suit, to be, mis-constituted, and, the rendition, hence by both the learned courts below, of, decree(s) of possession, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra numbers, by both the learned courts below, hence, warranting interference. However, the afore submission addressed, before this Court, by the learned counsel appearing, for the aggrieved defendants, is, bereft of any vigour, as the suit khasra numbers, are, all embodied in Khasra No.485/268, measuring 0-7 biswas, and, the afore khasra numbers, carries therewithin, different tracts of land, respectively measuring 3 biswas, 2 biswas, and, 2 biswas, 11 biswansi. (iv) Even though, the afore tracts or portion(s) of lands, borne, in, a, common khasra numbers, are, respectively possessed by all the co-defendants. However, also when, the, respective possession(s) thereof, by, all the co-defendants, may be, through different agreements, hence, executed, inter se, the plaintiff, and, the defendants concerned, (v) yet the preeminent fact, which constrains this Court to conclude, that, thereupon, there being no misjoinder of causes of action nor hence any multifarious causes of action, rather being embodied in the plaint, rather the suit being properly constituted, is, encapsulated in (a) the suit khasra number being common; (b) the afore infirmity, as evident, on a reading of Section 199 of the CPC, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "99.No decree to be reversed or modified for error or irregularity not affecting merits or jurisdiction-
> No decree shall be reversed or substantially varied, nor shall any case be remanded in appeal on account of any misjoinder or non-joinder of parties or causes of action or any error, defect or irregularity in any proceedings in the suit, not affecting the merits of the case or the jurisdiction of the Court.
> Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to non-joinder of a necessary party.

rather barring the appellate courts, to reverse or substantially vary or remand any lis, (c) reiteratedly on anvil of purported mis-joinder or non-joinder of parties or causes of action, (d) unless, the merits of the case or the jurisdiction of the Court, is, hence, affected. However, since the learned counsel, for the aggrieved defendants/appellant, has not been able, to persuade this Court that, upon, the afore purported mis-joinings, of causes of action, rather the merits of the case, would be direly affected nor has been able to sway this Court, that thereupon, the jurisdiction of the court hence stands affected, (vi) rather with as aforestated, various tracts of land standing borne in a common suit khasra number, and, when in respect, of the various tracts of land, borne in the common suit khasra number, as, evident, upon, a perusal of, the, jamabandi appertaining therewith, and, as borne, in Ex.PW1/B, rather the plaintiff, is, recorded to be the solitary owner thereof, (vii) whereas, only upon, other persons along with the plaintiff, standing, hence, recorded in, the, jamabandis, as, appertaining to the suit land, as apt co-owners thereof, (viii) thereupon, when the afore, may rather avail, a, ground qua the suit being mis-constituted, hence for his/theirs, non joinders, in the array of co-plaintiffs, rather when, the apposite jamabandis, rather do not, make, the afore upsurgings, and, when, for, wants thereof rather the afore espousal, is, hence barred, (ix) and, when the plaintiff is reserved, through, earlier pronounced verdicts, respectively embodied in Ex.PW1/J to Ex.PW1/L, hence, a right to recover possession, of the suit property, and, when hence the instant suit, is not hit, by, the, principle of res judicata, and, rather the afore principle, is working adversarially, vis-a-vis, the defendants/appellants, (x) and, the thereupon, any, joinder of purported multifarious causes of action, in, the extant suit, are rather amenable, for, being clubbed or joined therein, (xi) more so, when hence, it would enable the court, to efficaciously record a verdict, on merits, qua the contesting espousal(s), and, also without the plaintiff being unnecessarily driven, to institute separate suits purportedly, on anvil of, purported multifarious causes of action, being embodied in the plaint.

11. Be that as it may, even otherwise, the mandate embodied, in Order 1, Rule 3, CPC, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "3. Who may be joined as defendants. -All persons may be joined in one suit as defendants where-
>
> (a) any right to relief in respect of, or arising out of, the same act or transaction or series of acts or transactions is alleged to exist against such persons, whether jointly, severally or in the alternative; and
> (b) if separate suits were brought against such persons, any common question of law or fact would arise."

rather enshrines (a) that the plaintiff being empowered, to join, in the array of co-defendants, all persons against whom, any right to canvass the relief in respect of, or arising out of, the same act or transaction or series of acts or transactions, are, alleged to exist, (b) and, even if when assumingly, the, various acts or series of acts or transactions, as stand embodied in the extant plaint, do per se, hold apparent interconnectivity, (c) thereupon, and, when, upon, separate suits, being reared, against, the co-defendants concerned, would sequel, the, ill legal consequence, of, emanations, of, diverse/conflicting verdicts, despite, common question(s) of fact or law arising, inter se, the contesting litigants, rather, upon, the plaintiff being driven, to institute separate suits, against, the defendants concerned, (d) and, hence, when the mandate, encapsulated in Order 1 Rule 3 of the CPC, is with, a holistic underlying purpose, rather, for avoiding multifariousness, of litigation, and, also for obviating multiplicity(ies) of litigation, and, for avoiding rendition, of, conflicting verdicts, upon, visibly mutual common questions of law, and, with the latter parameter(s) rather being satiated, (d) thereupon, the joining of purported dissimilar or disconjunct causes of action, does not, constrain this Court, to construe, qua the suit being mis-constituted nor this Court would proceeded, to disturb, the concurrent verdicts recorded, by both the learned courts below.

12. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court, as well as by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, both the learned courts below have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions, of law No.3 and 4 are also answered in favour of the respondent and against the appellants.

13. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in the instant appeal, and, it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the impugned judgments, and, decrees are affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back forthwith.

Decided on : 12th July, 2019

Motor Vehicles Act 1988 - Sections 14 & 15- Driving licence – Deemed validity – when is applicable ? - Held, if holder of driving licence applies within 30 days of expiry of licence and licence is got renewed within this period, then licence would be deemed to have been renewed from date of expiry – On facts, driving licence expired on 21.5.2003 and accident took place on 26.5.2003- Licence not proved to be fake by insurer – Accident occurred during statutory protected period of 30 days from expiry and it yet remained effective – Tribunal went wrong in applying principle of pay and recover on ground that driver was not holding valid and effective driving licence on date of accident. (Paras 3 & 4)

For the Appellant(s): Mr. Ramesh Negi, Advocate vice Mr. Khub Singh Thakur, Advocate for the appellants in all appeals.
For Respondent No. 1: Mr. C.N. Singh, Advocate in all appeals.
For Respondent No.2: Mr. Jagdish Thakur, Advocate in all appeals.
For Respondent No.3: None.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Shimla, H.P., under a common verdict, respectively pronounced, upon, MAC Petition No. 38-S/2 of 2013, MAC Petition No. 37-S/2 of 2013, and, upon, MAC Petition No. 39-S/2 of 2013, on 8.12.2017, hence, therethrough determined respectively, vis-a-vis, the claimants concerned, compensation amounts, respectively borne, in sums, of Rs.45,000/-, Rs.70,079/-, and, Rs.36,000/-, and, thereon levied interest at the rate of 9% per annum, and, it was ordered to commence from the date of filing of the apposite claim petition, and, upto realization(s) thereof. However, the learned tribunal, upon, making findings adversarial, to the owner of the offending vehicle, vis-a-vis, the issue appertaining, to, the driver of the offending vehicle, at the relevant time, holding a valid and effective driving licence, to drive the offending vehicle concerned, (a) thereafter proceeded to apply, the, principle of pay and recovery, (b) wherethrough, the insurer of the offending vehicle, was mandated, to initially satisfy, the award, (c) and, thereafter liberty stands preserved, vis-a-vis, it hence to recover, the, compensation amounts, in accordance with law, rather, from the owner of the offending vehicle. The owner of the offending vehicle, is hence, aggrieved, by the the common verdict, recorded on, 8.12.2017, by the learned tribunal, respectively upon, MAC Petition No. 38-S/2 of 2013, MAC Petition No. 37-S/2 of 2013, and, upon, MAC Petition No. 39-S/2 of 2013, hence, therefroms, has, reared the instant afore FAOs, before this Court, wherethrough, he, rather strives to cast hence onslaught(s) thereto.

2. The bedrock of the validity, of the afore contested pronouncement, rendered by the learned tribunal concerned, stands rested, upon, Ex.RW2/A, (i) exhibit whereof, comprises a photo copy of the driving licence, held by the driver of the offending vehicle, namely, one Shaukat Ali, (ii) besides therealongwith, hence, a, perusal of a copy of the RC appertaining to the offending vehicle, and, borne in Ex.RW1/A, is, also obviously imperative. Initially, a perusal of the apposite RC, embodied in Ex. RW1/A, unfolds, qua the offending vehicle, standing registered, as a heavy goods vehicle, and, though a perusal of Ex.RW2/A, also carries an echoing, vis-a-vis, the driver of the offending vehicle, hence holding, the, requisite authorization rather to drive, a, transport vehicle, and, duration of the afore authorization, is therein reflected, to commence from 22.5.2010 and, end, on 21.05.2013. However, the ill-fated mishap, involving the offending vehicle, occurred subsequent, to the expiry of the afore authorization, bestowed upon the driver of the offending vehicle, inasmuch, as it occurred, on 26.05.2013, and, uncontrovertedly thereat one Shaukat Ali, the, driver of the offending vehicle, (iii) obviously in the interregnum, since its expiry, and, till the happening of the ill-fated mishap, did not obtain, its renewal from the Motor Licencing Authority concerned. Furthermore, there is no application for renewal of Ex.RW2/A, for therethrough the afore Shaukat Ali, hence ensuring, its, apt renewal, (iv) rather also outside the statutory mandate encapsulated in the proviso, to Section 14 of the Motor Vehicles Act, inasmuch, as the requisite strivings, for renewal of Ex.RW2/A being recoursed either within 30 days, from its expiry or outside 30 days, reiteratedly, no apt, afore statutory strivings, hence, stood recoursed, by the afore Shaukat Ali. The provisions of Section 15 of the Motor Vehicles Act (hereinafter referred to as the Act):-

> "15 Renewal of driving licences. —
> (1) Any licensing authority may, on application made to it, renew a driving licence issued under the provisions of this Act with effect from the date of its expiry:
>
> Provided that in any case where the application for the renewal of a licence is made more than thirty days after the date of its expiry, the driving licence shall be renewed with effect from the date of its renewal:
> Provided further that where the application is for the renewal of a licence to drive a transport vehicle or where in any other case the applicant has attained the age of forty years, the same shall be accompanied by a medical certificate in the same form and in the same manner as is referred to in sub-section (3) of section 8, and the provisions of sub-section (4) of section 8 shall, so far as may be, apply in relation to every such case as they apply in relation to a learner's licence.

(2) An application for the renewal of a driving licence shall be made in such form and accompanied by such documents as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

(3) Where an application for the renewal of a driving licence is made previous to, or not more than thirty days after the date of its expiry, the fee payable for such renewal shall be such as may be prescribed by the Central Government in this behalf.

(4) Where an application for the renewal of a driving licence is made more than thirty days after the date of its expiry, the fee payable for such renewal shall be such amount as may be prescribed by the Central Government:

Provided that the fee referred to in sub-section (3) may be accepted by the licensing authority in respect of an application for the renewal of a driving licence made under this sub-section if it is satisfied that the applicant was prevented by good and sufficient cause from applying within the time specified in such-section (3):

Provided further that if the application is made more than five years after the driving licence has ceased to be effective, the licensing authority may refuse to renew the driving licence, unless the applicant undergoes and passes to its satisfaction the test of competence to drive referred to in sub-section (3) of section 9.

(5) Where the application for renewal has been rejected, the fee paid shall be refunded to such extent and in such manner as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

(6) Where the authority renewing the driving licence is not the authority which issued the driving licence it shall intimate the fact of renewal to the authority which issued the driving licence."

(a) though enjoin the afore Shaukat Ali, to prefer an application, for renewal of the driving licence, before the RLA concerned, either before its expiry or within 30 days from its expiry, and, upon, his striving hence begetting success, (b) thereupon, the benefit of the first proviso, to Section 15 of the Act, being bestowable upon him, (c) with a further statutory legal corollary, vis-a-vis, his renewal hence operating from the date, of its expiry, (d) and, hence, also covering the period whereat, the relevant mishap rather involving the offending vehicle, hence, happening, (e) besides carrying, the, concomitant effect, qua it being, hence legally facile, for the owner of the offending vehicle, to ensure, the fastening of apposite indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer thereof. However, as, aforestated with the requisite application, being neither placed on record, nor the RLA concerned, hence, making an order of renewal(s) thereof, (f) thereupon, the afore first proviso to Section 15 of the Act, is prima facie aptly concluded, by the learned tribunal concerned, to, fail to beget its statutory clout, hence, operate vis-a-vis, the hereat driving licence, and, thereafter, it prima facie aptly adopted, the, principle of pay and recover.

3. However, for the reasons to be assigned hereafter, the afore reasoning, as meted, in the impugned award, by the learned tribunal concerned, is, extremely fragile, and, is amenable rather for outright rejection. (a) The learned tribunal, abysmally failing, to notice the apt provisions, borne in Section 14 of the Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

"14. Currency of licences to drive motor vehicles.—

(1) A learner's licence issued under this Act shall, subject to the other provisions of this Act, be effective for a period of six months from the date of issue of the licence.

(2) A driving licence issued or renewed under this Act shall,—

(a) in the case of a licence to drive a transport vehicle, be effective for a period of three years:

Provided that in the case of licence to drive a transport vehicle carrying goods of dangerous or hazardous nature be effective for a period of one year and renewal thereof shall be subject to the condition that the driver undergoes one day refresher course of the prescribed syllabus; and

(b) in the case of any other licence,—

(i) if the person obtaining the licence, either originally or on renewal thereof, has not attained the age of 3[fifty years] on the date of issue or, as the case may be, renewal thereof,— 3[fifty years] on the date of issue or, as the case may be, renewal thereof,—

(A) be effective for a period of twenty years from the date of such issue or renewal; or

(B) until the date on which such person attains the age of 3[fifty years], 3[fifty years]," whichever is earlier;

[(ii) if the person referred to in sub-clause (i), has attained the age of fifty years on the date of issue or as the case may be, renewal thereof, be effective, on payment of such fee as may be prescribed, for a period of five years from the date of such issue or renewal:]

Provided that every driving licence shall, notwithstanding its expiry under this sub-section continue to be effective for a period of thirty days from such expiry."

A perusal of sub-section (2)(a) thereof, makes, obvious eruptions, (i) vis-a-vis, the statutory authorisation, to drive a transport vehicle, remaining alive for a period of three years, and, the last proviso borne therein, also, makes graphic echoings, vis-a-vis, every driving licence, dehors, its longevity surviving, only upto, the period mandated, in the apposite sub-section, hence, where underneath, the last proviso, rather occurs, inasmuch, as, vis-a-vis, a licence falling, within, the domain of sub-section (2) of Section 14 of the Act, (ii) rather being statutorily protected, to, continue to hold longevity, upto, a period of 30 days, from the date of expiry of the afore driving licence, and, appertaining, to, authorisation to drive a transport vehicle, in category whereof, the, ill fated vehicle hence evidently rather falls.

4. Even though, the learned counsel, appearing for the insurer, has contended, that, with the last proviso, though, making the afore voicings, and, its covering clause (a) of sub-section (2) of Section 14 of the Act, (i) yet the first proviso underneath sub-section (2) (a) rather ousts the play, of the last proviso, (ii) as the vehicle concerned, was engaged, in carrying goods of dangerous or hazardous nature, and, when thereupon, the, clout of clause (a) of sub-section (2) of Section 14, is subsumed, the concomitant effect thereof, is that, the last proviso underneath sub-section (2) rather also loosing its vigour. However, the afore submission, is sparked, by a gross misunderstanding, of, the play of the first proviso, as, occurs hence underneath clause (a) of sub-section (2), of Section 14 of the Act, (iii) as, there exists no evidence, on record, in, tandem with evident statutory fact, as, borne therein, vis-a-vis, the offending vehicle being engaged in carrying goods of dangerous or hazardous nature, (iv) and, thereupon, the operation, and, clout of the last proviso, occurring underneath sub-section (2) of Section 14, rather remains intact, (v) and, when, dehors, the expiry, of, the driving licence, held by the driver, of the offending vehicle, hence, occurring on 21.5.2013, and, the ill-fated mishap, occurring on 26.5.2013, thereupon, with the ill-fated mishap, happening within a period of 30 days, rather since the expiry of Ex.PW2/A, concomitantly, hence, the apt last statutory proviso, borne in Section 14, becomes rejuvenated, (vi) and, dehors the non renewal, of, the apposite driving licence, by one Shaukat Ali, the phraseology borne therein, vis-a-vis, it yet remaining effective, for a period of 30 days, since its expiry occurring on 21.5.2013, covers, and, clothes, the driving licence, borne in Ex.RW2/A, hence with an aura of validity, (vii) and, thereupon, when the driving licence is not proven, to be fake, and, unauthentic, hence, the learned tribunal was enjoined, not to, bring into play the principle of pay and recovery, rather was enjoined to fasten, the apposite indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle.

5. Be that as it may, the afore interpretation meted, to the apt provisions of Section 14 of the Act, would also not beget any conflict, with the provisions borne in Section 15 of the Act, as Section 15 of the Act, omits to make any voicings, vis-a-vis, the longevity of period, of driving licences, issued, vis-a-vis, transport vehicles, (i) and, when sub-section (2) (a) of Section 14 of the Act, along with its last proviso, with explicity brings hence to the fore, the apt thereto rather, the afore statutory enunciation, and, appertains explicitly, and, specifically, vis-a-vis, a transport vehicle, (ii) reiteratedly hence, there is no disharmony inter se Section 14 of the Act, and, Section 15 of the Act, (iii) rather the specific statutory provisions appertaining, to, hence a transport vehicle, in category, whereof the driving licence of Shaukat Ali rather fell, does obviously, and unflinchingly constrain, a conclusion, qua there being hence a gross overlooking, by the learned tribunal concerned, vis-a-vis, the apt play, of, the provisions appertaining, to the statutory authorisation, or statutory protections' hence bestowed, upon, one Shaukat Ali, vis-a-vis, the longevity, of, the latter's driving licence.

6. For the foregoing reasons, all the afore appeals bearing FAO Nos. 368 of 2018, 369 of 2018, and 370 of 2018, instituted herebefore by the registered owner of the offending vehicle, are allowed, and, the award impugned, before this Court, is, modified in the afore manner. Consequently, the indemnificatory liability, vis-a-vis, the compensation amounts, as stood adjudged by the learned tribunal, vis-a-vis, the claimants concerned, is fastened, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

For the Petitioner:	Mr. T.S. Chauhan, Advocate.
For Respondents No. 1 to 4:	Mr. Hemant Vaid, Addl. Advocate General with Mr. Yudhveer Singh Thakur, Depputy Advocate General.
For Respondent No.5:	Mr. Inderjeet Singh Narwal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The petitioner, is, aggrieved by the order, embodied in Annexure P-7, wherethrough, the Additional District Magistrate, Bilaspur, H.P., hence, upheld the cancellation, vis-a-vis, the income certificate, reflecting, the, family income, of, the husband of respondent No.5 herein to be Rs.40,000/-, hence, by the Tehsildar concerned, (I) and, also upheld the income certificate No.1405, dated 14.5.2007, showing the family income, of, respondent No.5, as Rs.8000/-, and, thereafter recorded a pronouncement, that, with the respondent No.5 herein, obtaining highest marks, in the merit list, as a corollary thereof, he made a direction, for respondent No.5 herein being issued, the, employment letter, for, the post of Aganwari Helper, at Aganwari Centre Parnali.

2. The gravamen, of, the onslaught, as, cast, by the petitioner herein, vis-a-vis, the afore order(s) is entirely rested, upon, an argument qua the income, if any, derived by the husband of respondent No.5 herein, from, his rendering services, as, a Home Guard volunteer, and, embodied, in the income certificate, to be borne, in a sum of Rs.40,000/- (a) being includable, for the relevant purpose, more so, for determining, the, eligibility of respondent No.5 herein.

3. However, the learned counsel for respondent No.5, has, countered the afore submission, and, the edifice of his afore submission is rested, (a) upon, the further factum, vis-a-vis, the allowances, and, honorarium, disbursable to the husband of the respondent No.5 herein rather suffering fluctuations, and, volatility, hence at certain stages, of, rendition of services, by the husband, of, the respondent No.5 herein, as, a Home Guard Volunteer, (b) and, hence, his being not reimbursed, any honorarium, and, allowances, and, thereupon, for ensuring qua the respondent No.5's family hence earning, a, decent livelihood, rather it would be unbefitting, to, compute income, if any, derived by her husband, by his rendering volunteer services, in, the Home Guard Department. The efficacy of the afore submission, is, effaced, by this Court, in a verdict rendered in a case titled as Reena Devi vs. State of H.P. and others, CWP No. 1778 of 2015-H, decided on 30.10.2015, rather, declaring that with the petitioner's husband's, discharging hence duties, as, Home Guard volunteer, and, his receiving daily allowances, in the nature of honorarium, rather rendering his allowances being includable, for, determining, the, income eligibility criteria, of, the aspirant concerned. Furthermore, the afore verdict, is, also, in concurrence with the apt verdict rendered by the Hon'ble Principal Division Bench, of this Court, in a case titled, as, Smt. Reena Devi vs. State of H.P., LPA No. 12 of 2016, decided on 1st August, 2016, the relevant paragraph No.4 whereof, stands extracted hereinafter:-

> “4. The apex Court in Civil Appeal No.2759 of 2015 (Arising out of SLP(C) No.12858 2009) Grah Rakshak, Home Guards Asso. Versus State of H.P. &

> Ors., has held that home guards be paid allowances as well as salary equal to 30 days as is being paid to the police personnel in the State. It is apt to reproduce para 22 of the said judgment herein.
> "22. In view of the discussion made above, no relief can be granted to the appellants either regularization of services or grant of regular appointments hence no interference is called for against the judgments passed by the Himachal Pradesh, Punjab and Delhi High Courts. However, taking into consideration the fact that Home Guards are used during the emergency and for other purposes and at the time of their duty they are empowered with the power of police personnel, we are of the view that the State Government should pay them the duty allowance at such rates, total of which 30 days (a month) comes to minimum of the pay to which the police personnel of State are entitled. It is expected that the State Governments shall pass appropriate orders in terms of aforesaid observation on an early date preferably within three months.""

also postulate qua it being incumbent, upon, the employer, to pay allowances as well salary, equal to 30 days, as is being paid, to the police personnel in the State, rather also vis-a-vis, rendition of services, by a Home Guard, (i) thereupon, the afore submission, that there are fluctuations, and, volatility(ies), in the income, derived by the husband of respondent No.5 herein, by his rendering services, as a volunteer, as, a Home Guard, hence, for the respondent No.5, earning a decent livelihood, rather, his afore income being discountable, and, also being inconsequential, for, determining, the, relevant income criteria, obviously stands rendered wholly benumbed.

4. For the foregoing reasons, the instant petition is allowed, and, the order impugned before this Court, and, borne in Annexure P-7 is set aside. All pending applications also stands disposed of.

Yadvender Singh and another .....Appellants.

Versus

Kirpa Ram and another ....Respondents.

FAO No. 422 of 2018.
Reserved on : 27th May, 2019.
Decided on : 12th July, 2019.

Motor Vehicles Act 1988 – Section 149 (2)(a)(ii) – Motor accident – Claim application – Defences – Validity of driving licence – Onus on whom? – Held, once insured had filed copy of driving licence showing that driver was authorised to drive offending vehicle, onus shifts to insurer to prove its invalidity – In absence of discharge of this onus, liability cannot be fastened on insured / driver of offending vehicle. (Para 2)

For the Appellants: Mr. P. S. Goverdhan, Advocate.
For Respondents No. 2: Mr. Rajvinder Sandhu, Advocate.
Respondent No.1 already ex-parte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal, stands instituted, by the owner, and, the driver of the offending vehicle whereuponwhom, the indemnificatory liability, was fastened, vis-a-vis, the compensation amount, comprised, in a sum of Rs.40,800/-, and, whereon stood levied interest at the rate of 9% per annum, and, it was ordered to commence from the date of filing of the petition, till realization thereof.

2. The counsels appearing for the contesting parties, do not rear any contest, vis-a-vis, the validity, of, rendition of affirmative findings, upon, issue No.1, appertaining to the relevant mishap, being a sequel of rash and negligent manner, of driving, of, the offending vehicle, by appellant No.2 herein. However, the learned counsel appearing for the appellants, has contended (a) that the returning of findings adversarial, to the registered owner, of the offending vehicle, especially, vis-a-vis, the issue. serialized as issue No.4, being grossly shaky, and, infirm. Apparently, the discharging onus, vis-a-vis, issue No.4, was cast, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle. The registration certificate, appertaining to the offending vehicle, and, embodied in Ex.R-3, pronounces qua it being registered, hence, as a bus. The owner of the offending vehicle also during the course of his testification, has placed, on record a photo copy, of the driving licence, of appellant No.2, driving licence whereof stands embodied, in Mark-X. A perusal of Mark-x, echoes qua appellant No.2 being also authorised to drive, the, offending bus. However, the learned tribunal, for want of cogent proof being adduced, by the owner of the offending vehicle qua Mark-X, being proven to be issued or it generating from the records, held by the motor licencing authority concerned, proceeded to slight, its probative efficacy, (b) and, also obviously jointly saddled, the indemnificatory liability qua the compensation amount, vis-a-vis, the appellants herein, i.e. the registered owner of the offending vehicle, and, the driver of the offending vehicle. The afore legal misstep, is, uncalled for, (c) reiteratedly, as the learned tribunal remained unmindful, vis-a-vis, discharging onus qua issue No.4, rather being cast, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle, and, when mark-X, is, the photo copy of the driving licence held, as, by the driver of the offending vehicle, (d) and, when it holds the name and, description of appellant No.2, (e) and, also when it holds the name, and, description of the motor licencing authority concerned, wherefrom, it stood issued, (f) thereupon obviously it facilitated, the insurer of the offending vehicle, respondent No.2 herein, to ensure elicitation(s), of, original thereof, from the records, in respect thereto, as, maintained by the motor licencing authority concerned. Significantly, the afore recourse(s) would ensure, hence, making of an assured conclusion, that hence, the discharging onus cast, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle, vis-a-vis, issue No.4, rather being adequately and satisfactorily discharged, more so, vis-a-vis, the signatures, and, seals borne therein. Contrarily, patent, and, obvious non recoursing thereto by the insurer of the offending vehicle, obviously could not constrain, the learned tribunal, to conclude, (f) qua given upon the driving licence standing marked as Mark-X, hence, the discharging onus, vis-a-vis, issue No.4, standing come to be discharged, by the insurer, of, the offending vehicle. Consequently, want(s) of afore recourses, rather by the counsel for the insurer, constrain this Court, to conclude qua the insurer acquiescing, vis-a-vis, the validity, and, authenticity of Mark-x, even if it is a mere photo copy, of, the original thereof. Consequently, it is held that the driver of the offending vehicle, was, at the relevant time, holding a valid, and, effective driving licence, to, drive the offending vehicle.

3. For the foregoing reasons, the instant appeal is allowed, and, the impugned award is modified to the afore extent. Consequently, the indemnificatory liability, vis-a-vis, the compensation amount, is, fastened upon the insurer of the offending vehicle. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. ..Appellant
Versus
Baldev and others ..Respondents

FAO(MVA) No. 370 of 2017
Decided on: May 24, 2019

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Section 166 – Motor accident – Claim application – Defences – Gratuitous passenger in goods vehicle- Held, on facts, deceased used to collect milk in village and sell it at Chilling Plant – Milk used to be taken to Plant in offending vehicle – Documentary evidence of Chilling Plant corroborating petitioners' case – Plea of deceased being a gratuitous passenger not proved by insurer. (Para 14)

Case referred:
National Insurance Company Limited vs. Pranay Sethi and others, AIR 2017 SC 5157

For the Appellant	:	Dr. Lalit Kumar Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents	:	Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No.1 to 3.
		Ms. Rubeena Bhatt, Advocate, for respondent No.4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

By way of instant appeal having been filed by the appellant-Oriental Insurance Company Limited (hereinafter, 'appellant-Insurance Company'), challenge has been laid to Award dated 23.5.2017 passed by learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Kinnaur at Rampur Bushahar, H.P. in MAC Petition No. 36-R/2 of 2016/2015 titled as Baldev and others vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. and another, whereby learned Tribunal below, while allowing the claim petition having been filed by respondents No.1 to 3-claimants held the appellant-Insurance Company liable to pay compensation to the tune of Rs.16,73,000/- to respondents No.1 to 3/claimants, alongwith interest at the rate of 9% per annum from the date of filing of the petition and till the final realisation of the amount. Though the learned Tribunal below held appellant-Insurance Company and respondent No.4 jointly and severally liable, but the appellant-Insurance Company being insurer, has been directed to indemnify the claimants.

2. Briefly stated the facts as emerge from the record are that respondents No.1 to 3 being legal representatives of deceased Om Dutt, filed a petition under S.166 of the Motor Vehicles Act before learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Kinnaur at Rampur Bushahar, H.P., alleging therein that on 16.9.2014, deceased Om Dutt, while coming alongwith other persons from Rampur after unloading and selling milk in vehicle bearing registration No. HP-06A-3682, met with an accident, as a consequence of which he suffered serious injuries resulting into his death. Respondents-claimants averred in the petition that the vehicle was being driven by the deceased Driver, Govind Ram. In the aforesaid accident, Om Dutt and other two occupants died on the spot. Since deceased Om Dutt was head of the family and was the only bread earner of the family, respondents-claimants, by way of the claim petition as referred to above, claimed compensation to the tune of Rs.30.00 Lakh.

3. Appellant-Insurance Company resisted the claim petition on the ground that the respondents/claimants have filed the claim petition in collusion with respondent No.4, Gian Dass, owner of vehicle bearing registration No. HP-06A-3682. Appellant-Insurance Company also claimed before the learned Tribunal below that the deceased Driver Govind Ram was not having an effective and valid driving licence and vehicle was being driven in violation of the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy, as such, appellant-Insurance Company is not liable to indemnify the insured. Apart from above, appellant-Insurance Company also claimed that the deceased Om Dutt was traveling as a gratuitous passenger in the ill-fated vehicle, as such, no compensation is liable to be paid by the appellant-Insurance Company on account of his death in the alleged accident.

4. Respondent No.4 Gian Dass, by way of a separate reply, while placing on record Insurance Policy issued by the appellant-Insurance Company, claimed that the amount claimed by the respondents/claimants is excessive and without any basis.

5. Learned Tribunal below, on the basis of the pleadings adduced on record by the respective parties, framed following issues on 4.1.2016::

"1. Whether Sh. Om Dutt had died in a motor vehicle accident on account of rash and negligent driving of vehicle No.HP-06A-3682 being driven by its Driver? OPP

2. Whether the claimants are entitled for compensation, if so, to what amount and from whom? OPP

3. Whether the deceased at the relevant time was traveling as unauthorized gratuitous passenger in the offending vehicle, as alleged? ..OPR-1

4. Whether the petition has been filed in collusion with respondent No.2, as alleged? ..OPR-1

5. Whether the Driver of the offending vehicle at the relevant time was not holding a valid and effective driving licence, as alleged? OPR-1

6. Whether the offending vehicle at the relevant time was being plied in violation of terms and conditions of the insurance policy, as alleged? OPR-1

7. Relief."

6. Subsequently, learned Tribunal below, vide Award dated 23.5.2017, held the claimants entitled to a sum of Rs. 16,73,000/- alongwith interest at the rate of 9% per annum from the date of petition till realisation of the whole amount. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid Award passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Kinnaur at Rampur Bushahar, the appellant-Insurance Company has approached this Court in the instant proceedings, praying therein to quash the Award.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record vis-à-vis reasoning assigned by the learned Tribunal below, this Court is not persuaded to agree with learned counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company that the Award passed by the learned Tribunal below is not based upon proper appreciation of the facts as well as evidence led on record by the respective parties, rather, this Court finds that the learned Tribunal below has not only minutely and carefully examined the evidence, but has appreciated the same in right perspective, as such, there is no scope, if any, for this Court to interfere with the same.

8. Respondents/claimants by way of cogent and convincing evidence successfully proved on record that on the date of alleged accident, the offending vehicle was being driven in a rash and negligent manner by deceased Driver, Govind Ram.

9. PW-1, Smt. Padma Devi proved on record copy of FIR Ext. PW-1/B and post-mortem report, Ext. PW-1/C, perusal whereof clearly reveals that the accident took place due to rash and negligent driving of the deceased, Govind Ram, who at the relevant time was driving the offending vehicle bearing registration No. HP-06A-3682. Similarly, perusal of post-mortem report clearly reveals that the deceased Om Dutt died on account of injuries caused in the motor vehicle accident.

10. PW-2 Tikkam Ram who happens to be an eye-witness of the alleged accident, testified that on 16.9.2014, he alongwith deceased and Sher Singh had gone to Rampur in the offending vehicle alongwith their milk. Govind Ram was driving the vehicle. They sold their milk at Rampur and when they were returning to their home, vehicle in question met with an accident due to rash and negligent driving of the Driver, in which Sher Singh and the deceased died. In his cross-examination, this witness denied the suggestion put to him that the accident had not taken place due to mistake of the Driver.

11. Interestingly, no evidence in rebuttal, if any, came to be led on record by respondent No. 4 or the appellant-Insurance Company to rebut the aforesaid evidence led on record by the claimants, as such, there appears to be no illegality committed by the learned Tribunal below while returning the findings on the issue of rash and negligent driving by deceased Driver, Govind Ram.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company, while inviting attention of this Court to the statement of RW-1, Akash K. Verma, a representative of the appellant-Insurance Company, strenuously argued that since it stood duly proved on record that the deceased was traveling in the offending vehicle as a gratuitous passenger, there was no occasion for the learned Tribunal below to entertain the claim petition having been filed by respondents No.1 to 3/claimants.

However, after having carefully examined the evidence led on record by the respective parties qua aforesaid aspect of the matter, this Court is not inclined to agree with the aforesaid contention of learned counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company, because bare perusal of the statement of Akash Kumar, RW-1, nowhere proves the case of the appellant-Insurance Company that the deceased was traveling in the vehicle as a gratuitous passenger, rather, there is overwhelming evidence led on record by the claimants that the vehicle in question was registered as a 'Goods' vehicle and deceased alongwith other persons, had been taking his milk to the Milk Plant regularly in the offending vehicle.

13. RW-2 Tilak Ram, while admitting that he was working as an In-charge at Milk Plant, Kepu, fairly stated before the learned Tribunal below that as per record maintained in the Milk Plant upto 16.9.2014, 342 Litre milk was received in the Milk Plant from the vehicle of Gian Dass (respondent No.4) and thereafter from 17.9.2014, no milk was received and on 18.9.2014 and onwards, milk was received through another vehicle. This witness in his cross-examination admitted that they do not maintain the record of sellers of the milk individually and separately. This witness also admitted that the Chilling Plant had agreement with Govind Ram, for transportation of Milk.

14. Evidence on record clearly reveals that the deceased used to collect milk and sell the same in Chilling Plant alongwith other persons. Deceased alongwith other persons of the Village had hired the vehicle of Gian Dass, respondent No.4, for Rs.200/- per day. Mere statement of RW-1, Akash Kumar, representative of the appellant-Insurance Company is not sufficient to conclude that the deceased at the time of alleged accident was traveling as a gratuitous passenger. This witness in his cross-examination fairly admitted that he did not witness the accident. Though this witness stated that the Company had appointed Investigator after the accident but report of said Investigator never came to be produced on record. In view of aforesaid discussion, this Court sees no merit in the contention raised by learned counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company that the deceased was traveling in the ill-fated vehicle as a gratuitous passenger, as such, same rightly came to be rejected accordingly.

15. Having carefully perused the amount of compensation awarded by the learned Tribunal below under various heads, this Court finds that the learned Tribunal below. erred while awarding compensation to the tune of Rs.1.00 Lakh on account of loss of consortium to petitioner No.3 and Rs.25,000/- on account of funeral expenses. Similarly, no amount could be awarded on account of loss of love and affection to claimants No.1 and 2. Learned Tribunal below further erred in granting Rs.1.00 Lakh on account of loss of estate as such, there appears to be force in the argument of learned counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company that in view of the judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in National Insurance Company Limited vs. Pranay Sethi and others, AIR 2017 SC 5157, learned Tribunal below has wrongly awarded amounts under various other heads i.e. loss of consortium, loss of estate, loss of love and affection and funeral charges and, as such, impugned Award to that extent needs to be modified.

> "47. In our considered opinion, if the same is followed, it shall subserve the cause of justice and the unnecessary contest before the tribunals and the courts would be avoided. 48. Another aspect which has created confusion pertains to grant of loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses. In Santosh Devi (supra), the two-Judge Bench followed the traditional method and granted Rs. 5,000/- for transportation of the body, Rs. 10,000/- as funeral expenses and Rs. 10,000/- as regards the loss of consortium. In Sarla Verma, the Court granted Rs. 5,000/- under the head of loss of estate, Rs. 5,000/- towards funeral expenses and Rs. 10,000/- towards loss of Consortium. In Rajesh, the Court granted Rs. 1,00,000/- towards loss of consortium and Rs. 25,000/- towards funeral expenses. It also granted Rs. 1,00,000/- towards loss of care and guidance for minor children. The Court enhanced the same on the principle that a formula framed to achieve uniformity and consistency on a socioeconomic issue has to be contrasted from a legal principle and ought to be periodically revisited as has been held in Santosh Devi (supra). On the principle of revisit, it fixed different amount on conventional heads. What weighed with the Court is factum of inflation and the price index. It has also been moved by the concept of loss of consortium. We are inclined to think so, for what it states in that regard. We quote:-

"17. … In legal parlance, "consortium" is the right of the spouse to the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, society, solace, affection and sexual relations with his or her mate. That non-pecuniary head of damages has not been properly understood by our courts. The loss of companionship, love, care and protection, etc., the spouse is entitled to get, has to be compensated appropriately. The concept of non pecuniary damage for loss of consortium is one of the major heads of award of compensation in other parts of the world more particularly in the United States of America, Australia, etc. English courts have also recognised the right of a spouse to get compensation even during the period of temporary disablement. By loss of consortium, the courts have made an attempt to compensate the loss of spouse's affection, comfort, solace, companionship, society, assistance, protection, care and sexual relations during the future years. Unlike the compensation awarded in other countries and other jurisdictions, since the legal heirs are otherwise adequately compensated for the pecuniary loss, it would not be proper to award a major amount under this head. Hence, we are of the view that it would only be just and reasonable that the courts award at least rupees one lakh for loss of consortium."

60. The controversy does not end here. The question still remains whether there should be no addition where the age of the deceased is more than 50 years. Sarla Verma thinks it appropriate not to add any amount and the same has been approved in Reshma Kumari. Judicial notice can be taken of the fact that salary does not remain the same. When a person is in a permanent job, there is always an enhancement due to one reason or the other. To lay down as a thumb rule that there will be no addition after 50 years will be an unacceptable concept. We are disposed to think, there should be an addition of 15% if the deceased is between the age of 50 to 60 years and there should be no addition thereafter. Similarly, in case of selfemployed or person on fixed salary, the addition should be 10% between the age of 50 to 60 years. The aforesaid yardstick has been fixed so that there can be consistency in the approach by the tribunals and the courts.

61. In view of the aforesaid analysis, we proceed to record our conclusions:-

(i) The two-Judge Bench in Santosh Devi should have been well advised to refer the matter to a larger Bench as it was taking a different view than what has been stated in Sarla Verma, a judgment by a coordinate Bench. It is because a coordinate Bench of the same strength cannot take a contrary view than what has been held by another coordinate Bench.

(ii) As Rajesh has not taken note of the decision in Reshma Kumari, which was delivered at earlier point of time, the decision in Rajesh is not a binding precedent.

(iii) While determining the income, an addition of 50% of actual salary to the income of the deceased towards future prospects, where the deceased had a permanent job and was below the age of 40 years, should be made. The addition should be 30%, if the age of the deceased was between 40 to 50 years. In case the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years, the addition should be 15%. Actual salary should be read as actual salary less tax.

(iv) In case the deceased was self-employed or on a fixed salary, an addition of 40% of the established income should be the warrant where the deceased was below the age of 40 years. An addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years and 10% where the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years should be regarded as the necessary method of computation. The established income means the income minus the tax component.

(v) For determination of the multiplicand, the deduction for personal and living expenses, the tribunals and the courts shall be guided by paragraphs 30 to 32 of Sarla Verma which we have reproduced hereinbefore.

(vi) The selection of multiplier shall be as indicated in the Table in Sarla Verma read with paragraph of that judgment.

(vii) The age of the deceased should be the basis for applying the multiplier.

(viii) Reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs. 15,000/-, Rs. 40,000/- and Rs. 15,000/- respectively. The aforesaid amounts should be enhanced at the rate of 10% in every three years."

17. This court having perused the aforesaid judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in National Insurance Company Limited vs. Pranay Sethi and others (supra) is in agreement with learned counsel representing the appellant-Insurance Company that amounts awarded by the learned Tribunal below, on account of loss of consortium, loss of estate, loss of love and affection and funeral charges need to be re-assessed. In view of the law laid down in Pranay Sethi (Supra), Rs.40,000/- ought to have been awarded on account of loss of consortium, Rs. 15,000/- each on account of loss of estate and funeral charges and no amount could have been awarded on account of loss of love and affection. So far income of the deceased and loss of dependency are concerned, this Court does not see any irregularity in the amount so assessed by the learned Tribunal below. Similarly, this court finds no illegality in the multiplier applied by the learned Tribunal below, which has rightly been applied as per law.

18. Consequently, in view of aforesaid modification made herein above, respondents No.1 to 3/ claimants are held entitled to following amounts under various heads:

1.	Loss of dependency	12,48,000
2.	Loss of consortium to petitioner No. 3	40,000
3.	Loss of estate	15,000
4.	Funeral charges	15,000
	Total	13,18,000

19. This Court however does not see any reason to interfere with the rate of interest awarded on the amount of compensation and as such, same is upheld. Apportionment shall be made as under:

Respondent No.1 Rs.4,00,000/-

Respondent No.2 Rs.4,00,000/-

Respondent No.3 Rs.5,18,000/-

The amounts falling to the shares of claimants No.1 and 2 be invested in the Fixed Deposits for a period of five years.

20. Consequently, in view of detailed discussion made herein above and law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, present appeal is partly allowed and Award passed by learned Tribunal below is modified to the above extent only.

All pending miscellaneous applications, if any, are disposed of. Interim directions, if any, are vacated.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. ....Appellant
Versus
Smt. Manjani Kumari and others ....Respondents

FAO(MVA) No. 369 of 2017
Decided on: May 24, 2019

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166– Motor accident– Claim application– Defences– Gratuitous passenger in goods vehicle- Held, on facts, deceased used to collect milk in village and sell it at Chilling Plant– Milk used to be taken to Plant in offending vehicle– Documentary evidence of Chilling Plant corroborating petitioners' case – Plea of deceased being a gratuitous passenger not proved by insurer. (Para 14)

Case referred:
National Insurance Company Limited vs. Pranay Sethi and others, AIR 2017 SC 5157

For the Appellant : Dr. Lalit Kumar Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No.1 to 3.
Ms. Rubeena Bhatt, Advocate, for respondent No.4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

By way of instant appeal having been filed by the appellant-Oriental Insurance Company Limited (hereinafter, 'appellant-Insurance Company') challenge has been laid to Award dated 23.5.2017 passed by learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Kinnaur at Rampur Bushahar, H.P. in MAC Petition No. 37-R/2 of 2016/2015 titled Smt. Manjani Kumari and others vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd. and another, whereby learned Tribunal below, while allowing the claim petition having been filed by respondents No.1 to 3-claimants held the appellant-Insurance Company liable to pay compensation to the tune of Rs.19,61,000/- to respondents No.1 to 3/claimants, alongwith interest at the rate of 9% per annum from the date of filing of the petition and till the final realisation of the amount. Though the learned Tribunal below held appellant-Insurance Company and respondent No.4 jointly and severally liable, but the appellant-Insurance Company being insurer, has been directed to indemnify the claimants.

2. Briefly stated the facts as emerge from the record are that respondents No.1 to 3 being legal representatives of deceased Sher Singh, filed a petition under S.166 of the Motor Vehicles Act before learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Kinnaur at Rampur Bushahar, H.P., alleging therein that on 16.9.2014, deceased Sher Singh, while coming alongwith other persons from Rampur after unloading and selling milk, in vehicle bearing registration No. HP-06A-3682, met with an accident, as a consequence of which he suffered serious injuries resulting into his death. Respondents-claimants averred in the petition that the vehicle was being driven by the deceased Driver, Govind Ram. In the aforesaid accident, Sher Singh and other two occupants died on the spot. Since deceased Sher Singh was head of the family and was the only bread earner of the family, respondents-claimants, by way of the claim petition as referred to above, claimed compensation to the tune of Rs.30.00 Lakh.

3. Appellant-Insurance Company resisted the claim petition on the ground that the respondents/claimants have filed the claim petition in collusion with respondent No.4, Gian Dass, owner of vehicle bearing registration No. HP-06A-3682. Appellant-Insurance Company also claimed before the learned Tribunal below that the deceased Driver Govind Ram was not having an effective and valid driving licence and vehicle was being driven in violation of the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy, as such, appellant-Insurance Company is not liable to indemnify the insured. Apart from above, appellant-Insurance Company also claimed that the deceased Sher Singh was traveling as a gratuitous passenger in the ill-fated vehicle, as such, no compensation is liable to be paid by the appellant-Insurance Company on account of his death in the alleged accident.

4. Respondent No.4 Gian Dass, by way of a separate reply, while placing on record Insurance Policy issued by the appellant-Insurance Company, claimed that the amount claimed by the respondents/claimants is excessive and without any basis.

5. Learned Tribunal below, on the basis of the pleadings adduced on record by the respective parties, framed following issues on 4.1.2016::

> "1. Whether Sh. Sher Singh had died in a motor vehicle accident on account of rash and negligent driving of vehicle No.HP-06A-3682 being driven by its Driver? OPP
>
> 2. Whether the claimants are entitled for compensation, if so, to what amount and from whom? OPP
>
> 3. Whether the deceased at the relevant time was traveling as unauthorized gratuitous passenger in the offending vehicle, as alleged? ..OPR-1
>
> 4. Whether the petition has been filed in collusion with respondent No.2, as alleged? ..OPR-1
>
> 5. Whether the Driver of the offending vehicle at the relevant time was not holding a valid and effective driving licence, as alleged? OPR-1
>
> 6. Whether the offending vehicle at the relevant time was being plied in violation of terms and conditions of the insurance policy, as alleged? OPR-1

6. Subsequently, learned Tribunal below, vide Award dated 23.5.2017, held the claimants entitled to a sum of Rs. 19,61,000/- alongwith interest at the rate of 9% per annum from the date of petition till realisation of the whole amount. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid Award passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Kinnaur at Rampur Bushahar, the appellant-Insurance Company has approached this Court in the instant proceedings, praying therein to quash the Award.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record vis-à-vis reasoning assigned by the learned Tribunal below, this Court is not persuaded to agree with learned counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company that the Award passed by the learned Tribunal below is not based upon proper appreciation of the facts as well as evidence led on record by the respective parties, rather, this Court finds that the learned Tribunal below has not only minutely and carefully examined the evidence, but has appreciated the same in right perspective, as such, there is no scope, if any, for this Court to interfere with the same.

8. Respondents/claimants by way of cogent and convincing evidence successfully proved on record that on the date of alleged accident, the offending vehicle was being driven in a rash and negligent manner by deceased Driver, Govind Ram.

9. PW-1, Smt. Manjini Devi proved on record copy of FIR Ext. PW-1/B and post-mortem report, Ext. PW-1/C, perusal whereof clearly reveals that the accident took place due to rash and negligent driving of the deceased, Govind Ram, who at the relevant time was driving the offending vehicle bearing registration No. HP-06A-3682. Similarly, perusal of post-mortem report clearly reveals that the deceased Sher Singh died on account of injuries caused in the motor vehicle accident.

10. PW-2 Tikkam Ram who happens to be an eye-witness of the alleged accident, testified that on 16.9.2014, he alongwith deceased and Sher Singh had gone to Rampur in the offending vehicle alongwith their milk. Govind Ram was driving the vehicle. They sold their milk at Rampur and when they were returning to their home, vehicle in question met with an accident due to rash and negligent driving of the Driver, in which Sher Singh and the deceased died. In his cross-examination, this witness denied the suggestion put to him that the accident had not taken place due to mistake of the Driver.

11. Interestingly, no evidence in rebuttal, if any, came to be led on record by respondent No. 4 or the appellant-Insurance Company to rebut the aforesaid evidence led on record by the claimants, as such, there appears to be no illegality committed by the learned Tribunal below while returning the findings on the issue of rash and negligent driving by deceased Driver, Govind Ram.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company, while inviting attention of this Court to the statement of RW-1, Akash K. Verma, a representative of the appellant-Insurance Company, strenuously argued that since it stood duly proved on record that the deceased was traveling in the offending vehicle as a gratuitous passenger, there was no occasion for the learned Tribunal below to entertain the claim petition having been filed by respondents No.1 to 3/claimants.

However, after having carefully examined the evidence led on record by the respective parties qua aforesaid aspect of the matter, this Court is not inclined to agree with the aforesaid contention of learned counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company, because bare perusal of the statement of Akash Kumar, RW-1, nowhere proves the case of the appellant-Insurance Company that the deceased was traveling in the vehicle as a gratuitous passenger, rather, there is overwhelming evidence led on record by the claimants that the vehicle in question was registered as a 'Goods' vehicle and deceased alongwith other persons, had been taking his milk to the Milk Plant regularly in the offending vehicle.

13. RW-2 Tilak Ram, while admitting that he was working as an In-charge at Milk Plant, Kepu, fairly stated before the learned Tribunal below that as per record maintained in the Milk Plant upto 16.9.2014, 342 Litre milk was received in the Milk Plant from the vehicle of Gian Dass (respondent No.4) and thereafter from 17.9.2014, no milk was received and on 18.9.2014 and onwards, milk was received through another vehicle. This witness in his cross-examination admitted that they do not maintain the record of sellers of the milk individually and separately. This witness also admitted that the Chilling Plant had agreement with Govind Ram, for transportation of Milk.

14. Evidence on record clearly reveals that the deceased used to collect milk and sell the same in Chilling Plant alongwith other persons. Deceased alongwith other persons of the Village had hired the vehicle of Gian Dass, respondent No.4, for Rs.200/- per day. Mere statement of RW-1, Akash Kumar, representative of the appellant-Insurance Company is not sufficient to conclude that the deceased at the time of alleged accident was traveling as a gratuitous passenger. This witness in his cross-examination fairly admitted that he did not witness the accident. Though this witness stated that the Company had appointed Investigator after the accident but report of said Investigator never came to be produced on record. In view of aforesaid discussion, this Court sees no merit in the contention raised by learned counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company that the deceased was traveling in the ill-fated vehicle as a gratuitous passenger, as such, same rightly came to be rejected accordingly.

15. Having carefully perused the amount of compensation awarded by the learned Tribunal below under various heads, this Court finds that the learned Tribunal below. erred while awarding compensation to the tune of Rs.1.00 Lakh on account of loss of consortium to petitioner No.1 and Rs.25,000/- on account of funeral expenses. Similarly, no amount could be awarded on account of loss of love and affection to claimants No.2 and 3. Learned Tribunal below further erred in granting Rs.1.00 Lakh on account of loss of estate as such, there appears to be force in the argument of learned counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company that in view of the judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in National Insurance Company Limited vs. Pranay Sethi and others, AIR 2017 SC 5157, learned Tribunal below has wrongly awarded amounts under various other heads i.e. loss of consortium, loss of estate, loss of love and affection and funeral charges and, as such, impugned Award to that extent needs to be modified.

16. At this stage, it would be profitable to reproduce following paragraphs of aforesaid judgment herein below:

> "47. In our considered opinion, if the same is followed, it shall subserve the cause of justice and the unnecessary contest before the tribunals and the courts would be avoided. 48. Another aspect which has created confusion pertains to grant of loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses. In Santosh Devi (supra), the two-Judge Bench followed the traditional method and granted Rs. 5,000/- for transportation of the body, Rs. 10,000/- as funeral expenses and Rs. 10,000/- as regards the loss of consortium. In Sarla Verma, the Court granted Rs. 5,000/- under the head of loss of estate, Rs. 5,000/- towards funeral expenses and Rs. 10,000/- towards loss of Consortium. In Rajesh, the Court granted Rs. 1,00,000/- towards loss of consortium and Rs. 25,000/- towards funeral expenses. It also granted Rs. 1,00,000/- towards loss of care and guidance for minor children. The Court enhanced the same on the principle that a formula framed to achieve uniformity and consistency on a socioeconomic issue has to be contrasted from a legal principle and ought to be periodically revisited as has been held in Santosh Devi (supra). On the principle of revisit, it fixed different amount on conventional heads. What weighed with the Court is factum of inflation and the price index. It has also been moved by the concept of loss of consortium. We are inclined to think so, for what it states in that regard. We quote:-

"17. … In legal parlance, "consortium" is the right of the spouse to the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, society, solace, affection and sexual relations with his or her mate. That non-pecuniary head of damages has not been properly understood by our courts. The loss of companionship, love, care and protection, etc., the spouse is entitled to get, has to be compensated appropriately. The concept of non pecuniary damage for loss of consortium is one of the major heads of award of compensation in other parts of the world more particularly in the United States of America, Australia, etc. English courts have also recognised the right of a spouse to get compensation even during the period of temporary disablement. By loss of consortium, the courts have made an attempt to compensate the loss of spouse's affection, comfort, solace, companionship, society, assistance, protection, care and sexual relations during the future years. Unlike the compensation awarded in other countries and other jurisdictions, since the legal heirs are otherwise adequately compensated for the pecuniary loss, it would not be proper to award a major amount under this head. Hence, we are of the view that it would only be just and reasonable that the courts award at least rupees one lakh for loss of consortium."

60. The controversy does not end here. The question still remains whether there should be no addition where the age of the deceased is more than 50 years. Sarla Verma thinks it appropriate not to add any amount and the same has been approved in Reshma Kumari. Judicial notice can be taken of the fact that salary does not remain the same. When a person is in a permanent job, there is always an enhancement due to one reason or the other. To lay down as a thumb rule that there will be no addition after 50 years will be an unacceptable concept. We are disposed to think, there should be an addition of 15% if the deceased is between the age of 50 to 60 years and there should be no addition thereafter. Similarly, in case of selfemployed or person on fixed salary, the addition should be 10% between the age of 50 to 60 years. The aforesaid yardstick has been fixed so that there can be consistency in the approach by the tribunals and the courts.

61. In view of the aforesaid analysis, we proceed to record our conclusions:-

(i) The two-Judge Bench in Santosh Devi should have been well advised to refer the matter to a larger Bench as it was taking a different view than what has been stated in Sarla Verma, a judgment by a coordinate Bench. It is because a coordinate Bench of the same strength cannot take a contrary view than what has been held by another coordinate Bench.

(ii) As Rajesh has not taken note of the decision in Reshma Kumari, which was delivered at earlier point of time, the decision in Rajesh is not a binding precedent.

(iii) While determining the income, an addition of 50% of actual salary to the income of the deceased towards future prospects, where the deceased had a permanent job and was below the age of 40 years, should be made. The addition should be 30%, if the age of the deceased was between 40 to 50 years. In case the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years, the addition should be 15%. Actual salary should be read as actual salary less tax.

(iv) In case the deceased was self-employed or on a fixed salary, an addition of 40% of the established income should be the warrant where the deceased was below the age of 40 years. An addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years and 10% where the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years should be regarded as the necessary method of computation. The established income means the income minus the tax component.

(v) For determination of the multiplicand, the deduction for personal and living expenses, the tribunals and the courts shall be guided by paragraphs 30 to 32 of Sarla Verma which we have reproduced hereinbefore.

(vi) The selection of multiplier shall be as indicated in the Table in Sarla Verma read with paragraph of that judgment.

(vii) The age of the deceased should be the basis for applying the multiplier.

(viii) Reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs. 15,000/-, Rs. 40,000/- and Rs. 15,000/- respectively. The aforesaid amounts should be enhanced at the rate of 10% in every three years."

17. This court having perused the aforesaid judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in National Insurance Company Limited vs. Pranay Sethi and others (supra) is in agreement with learned counsel representing the appellant-Insurance Company that amounts awarded by the learned Tribunal below, on account of loss of consortium, loss of estate, loss of love and affection and funeral charges need to be re-assessed. In view of the law laid down in Pranay Sethi (Supra), Rs.40,000/- ought to have been awarded on account of loss of consortium, Rs. 15,000/- each on account of loss of estate and funeral charges and no amount could have been awarded on account of loss of love and affection. So far income of the deceased and loss of dependency are concerned, this Court does not see any irregularity in the amount so assessed by the learned Tribunal below. Similarly, this court finds no illegality in the multiplier applied by the learned Tribunal below, which has rightly been applied as per law.

18. Consequently, in view of aforesaid modification made herein above, respondents No.1 to 3/ claimants are held entitled to following amounts under various heads:

1.	Loss of dependency	15,36,000
2.	Loss of consortium to petitioner No. 1	40,000
3.	Loss of estate	15,000
4.	Funeral charges	15,000
	Total	16,06,000

19. This Court however does not see any reason to interfere with the rate of interest awarded on the amount of compensation and as such, same is upheld. Apportionment shall be made as under:

Respondent No.1	Rs.6,06,000/-
Respondent No.2	Rs.5,00,000/-
Respondent No.3	Rs.5,00,000/-

The amounts falling to the shares of respondent No.3 be invested in the Fixed Deposits for a period of five years.

20. Consequently, in view of detailed discussion made herein above and law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court, present appeal is partly allowed and Award passed by learned Tribunal below is modified to the above extent only.

Pending applications, if any, are disposed of. Interim directions, if any, are vacated.

Case referred:
National Iron and Steel Company Ltd. vs. State of West Bengal, (1967) II LLJ 23 (SC)

For the petitioner : Mr. Adarsh K. Vashista, Advocate.
For the Respondents : Mr. Shyam Singh Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No.1.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge:

Since similar question of facts and law are involved in these petitions, as such, same were tagged together and are being disposed of by this common judgment. However, for the sake of clarity, facts of CWP No. 9814 of 2012 are being discussed herein, which are almost similar in all the petitions.

2. By way of CWP No. 9814 of 2012, challenge has been laid to Award dated 21.1.2012 passed by learned Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Dharamshala in Ref. No. 192/2010, holding retrenchment of the respondent-workman (hereinafter, 'workman') invalid, consequently holding the workman entitled to continuity and seniority from the date of illegal disengagement.

3. Facts, as emerge from the record are that the appropriate Government made following reference under Section 10(1) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (hereinafter, 'Act') to the learned Tribunal below, for determination:

> "Whether termination of the services of Sh. Anil Kumar S/o Shri Karam Chand, by The Executive Officer, Municipal Council, Dalhousie, Distt. Chamba, H.P. w.e.f. 10.7.2002 without complying the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 is proper and justified? If not, what relief of back wages, service benefits and amount of compensation the above aggrieved workman is entitled to?"

4. In the statement of claim made before learned Tribunal below, workman alleged that he was engaged as a Helper on daily wages in April, 1998. He continued as such, till his disengagement on 10.7.2002. As per workman, petitioner vide notice dated 10.7.2002 dispensed with his services with effect from 10.7.2002 without giving him any retrenchment compensation, as such, his termination being in violation of the provisions of Section 25F of the Act ibid, deserves to be quashed and set aside. Workman further alleged that after his disengagement, persons junior to him were retained and as such, there is violation of provisions of S.25G of the Act. Record reveals that prior to raising dispute before appropriate Government, workman had approached Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal, by way of an Original Application, which was disposed of with a direction that the workman would be considered for reengagement as per availability of work and funds. Subsequently, the workman raised an industrial dispute before the competent Authority, who, exercising power under Section 10(1), made aforesaid reference to learned Tribunal below.

5. Record reveals that the petitioner though was served on 5.3.2011, but despite service, none put appearance and as such, it was proceeded against ex parte. Learned Tribunal below, in the totality of evidence led on record by the workman held his termination bad in law and directed the petitioner to reengage him forthwith by giving benefit of seniority and continuity from the date of his illegal disengagement. Learned Tribunal below held the workman not entitled to back wages. Since workman failed to lay challenge, if any, to the aforesaid Award, same has attained finality qua him.

6. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, vis-à-vis reasoning given by learned Tribunal below, while passing impugned award, this Court is not persuaded to agree with Mr. Adarsh K. Vashista, learned counsel for the petitioner-Council that impugned award is not based upon proper appreciation of the evidence and law, rather, this Court finds from the careful perusal of the material adduced on record by the workman that learned Tribunal below rightly held the termination of the workman illegal and in violation of provisions of the Act. Workman, while appearing as PW-1 reiterated the pleas raised by him in his claim. He deposed that he worked with the petitioner-Council with effect from 30.4.1998 to 9.7.2002 and had completed 240 days in the calendar year prior to his illegal retrenchment. He also stated that his services were disengaged orally without any notice and persons junior to him were retained by the petitioner. Aforesaid version put forth by the workman remained unrebutted because none appeared on behalf of the petitioner. It is ample clear from the statement of claim made by workman, that his services were disengaged without complying with the provisions contained under S.25F of the Act, whereby prior notice was required to be issued to the workman. Hence, learned Tribunal below rightly held action of the petitioner to be violative of provisions of S.25F of the Act ibid.

7. Record also reveals that the workman, in his statement of claim, himself admitted that the workman had issued notice dated 10.7.2002 to disengage him with effect from 9.7.2002, wherein he was further directed to collect retrenchment compensation, if any, on 15.7.2002, meaning thereby that no retrenchment compensation, if any was paid to the workman at the time of termination of his services.

8. As per S.25F(b) of the Act, a workman is required to be paid retrenchment compensation equivalent to 15 days of average pay of every completed year of continuous service or in part thereof in excess of six months at the time of retrenchment. It is clear from the plain reading of aforesaid provision that requirement prescribed under sub-sections (a) and (b) is condition precedent to retrenchment and failure, if any, to comply with the same, would render the retrenchment invalid and inoperative.

9. Hon'ble Apex Court in National Iron and Steel Company Ltd. vs. State of West Bengal (1967) II LLJ 23 (SC) has dealt with similar situation wherein, employer while issuing notice dated 15.11.1958 under S.25F of the Act ibid directed the workman to collect retrenchment compensation on November 20 or thereafter. The Hon'ble Apex Court held that manifestly the provisions of S.25F had not been complied and as such, termination in violation of the same deserves to be quashed and set aside.

10. In the case at hand, though there is nothing to rebut the testimony of the workman, who claimed that no notice ever came to be issued under S.25F before his illegal retrenchment, but even if it is presumed and accepted that prior notice was issued, this Court cannot be lose sight of the fact that since no retrenchment compensation as envisaged under S.25F(b) of the Act ibid was paid alongwith the notice, termination of the services of workman cannot be held in accordance with law.

11. Though having carefully examined/analyzed the evidence, this Court finds no force in the argument of Mr. Adarsh K. Vashista, learned counsel for the petitioner that there is no proper appreciation of the evidence, but, otherwise also, this Court has limited scope to re-appreciate the evidence.

12. In this regard, it would be apt to take notice of judgment rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in case Bhuvnesh Kumar Dwivedi vs. M/s Hindalco Industries Ltd. wherein it has been that the Courts while examining correctness and genuineness of the Award passed by Tribunal has very limited powers to appreciate the evidence adduced before the Tribunal below, especially the findings of fact recorded by the Tribunal below and same can not be questioned in writ proceedings and writ court can not act as an appellate Court. Careful perusal of aforesaid judgment clearly suggests that error of law which is apparent on the face of record can be corrected by writ Court but not an error of fact, however, grave it may appear to be. Hon'ble Apex Court has further held in the aforesaid judgment that if finding of fact is based upon no evidence that would be recorded as error of law which can be corrected by a writ of certiorari. Hon'ble Apex Court has further held that in regard to findings of fact recorded by Tribunal, writ of certiorari can be issued, if it is shown that while recording said findings, tribunal erroneously refused to admit admissible evidence or erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence, which influenced impugned findings. It would be profitable to reproduce following paras of the judgment:

> "16. ....The question about the limits of the jurisdiction of High Courts in issuing a writ of certiorari under Article 226 has been frequently considered by this Court and the true legal position in that behalf is no longer in doubt. A writ of certiorari can be issued for correcting errors of jurisdiction committed by inferior Courts or tribunals: these are cases where orders are > passed by inferior Courts or Tribunals without jurisdiction, or is in excess of it, or as a result of failure to exercise jurisdiction. A writ can similarly be issued where in exercise of jurisdiction conferred on it, the Court or Tribunal acts illegally or improperly, as for instance, it decides a question without giving an opportunity to be heard to the party affected by the order, or where the procedure adopted in dealing with the dispute is opposed to principles of natural justice. There is, however, no doubt that the jurisdiction to issue a writ of certiorari is a supervisory jurisdiction and the Court exercising it is no entitled to act as an Appellate Court. This limitation necessarily means that findings of fact reached by the inferior court or Tribunal as result of the appreciation of evidence cannot be reopened for questioned in writ proceedings. An error of law which is apparent on the face of the record can be corrected by a writ, but not an error of fact, however grave it may appear to be. In regard to a finding of fact recorded by the Tribunal, a writ of certiorari can be issued if it is shown that in recording the said finding, the Tribunal had erroneously refused to admit admissible and material evidence, or had erroneously admitted inadmissible evidence which has influenced the impugned finding. Similarly, if a finding of fact is based on no evidence, that would be regarded as an error of law which can be corrected by a writ of certiorari. In dealing with this category of cases, however, we must always bear in mind that a finding of fact recorded by the Tribunal cannot be challenged in proceedings for a writ of certiorari on the ground that the relevant and material evidence adduced before the Tribunal was insufficient or inadequate to sustain the impugned finding. The adequacy or sufficiency of evidence led on a point and the interference of fact to be drawn from the said finding are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Tribunal, and the said points cannot be agitated before a writ Court. It is within these limits that the jurisdiction conferred on the High Courts under Article 226 to issue a writ of certiorari can be legitimately exercised.

13. Aforesaid exposition of law though clearly reveals that there is no complete bar for a writ Court to examine the correctness and genuineness of the Award passed by the Tribunal below but at the same time, an error of fact cannot be corrected by a writ Court, however grave it may appear to be.

14. Having carefully perused the evidence led on record by the workman vis-à-vis reasoning assigned by learned Tribunal below, while answering reference made to it, this Court finds no illegality or infirmity in impugned award, which deserves to be upheld.

15. Accordingly, all the petitions are dismissed. Awards passed by learned Tribunal below, impugned by way of the instant petitions, are upheld.

All pending miscellaneous applications in all the petitions also stand disposed of. Interim directions, if any, are vacated.

Cases referred:
State of HP vs. Jagjit Singh, Latest HLJ 2008 (HP) 919
Surender Singh. vs. State of H.P., Latest HLJ 2013 (2) 865

For the appellant: Ms. Ritta Goswami, Additional Advocate General with Ms. Divya Sood, Deputy Advocate General and Mr. Manoj Bagga, Assistant Advocate General.
For the respondent: Mr. Vivek Singh Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J.

By way of instant appeal, challenge has been laid to judgment dated 1.11.2008 passed by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Jawali, District Kangra, Himachal Pradesh in Criminal Case No. 89-III/2006, whereby learned Court below held the respondent-accused (hereafter, 'accused') not guilty of the offences punishable under Section 61(1)(a) of the Punjab Excise Act, 1914, as applicable to the State of Himachal Pradesh (hereafter, 'Act'), in case FIR No. 156/05 and accordingly, acquitted him.

2. Having heard learned Additional Advocate General and perused the evidence, be it ocular or documentary, led on record by the prosecution vis-à-vis reasoning assigned by the learned Court below while acquitting the accused, this Court is not persuaded to agree with Ms. Ritta Goswami, learned Additional Advocate General that the learned Court below has failed to appreciate the evidence in its right perspective, rather, this Court finds that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, as such, learned Court below rightly acquitted the accused of the charge framed against him under S.61(1)(a) of the Act. As per story of the prosecution, Police party headed by H.D. Pushap Arun alongwith other Police officials was on patrolling duty on 21.9.2005 at Jagnoli, where after having received secret information, they raided the shop of the accused and allegedly recovered 180 bottles of country liquor mark "Lal Quila". After completion of codal formalities, Police sent Rukka Ext. PW-3/B to the Police Station for lodging FIR. Accordingly, on the basis of aforesaid Rukka, Ext. PW-3/B, FIR, Ext. PW-4/A came to be registered against the accused. After completion of investigation, Police presented Challan in the competent Court of law, who being satisfied that prima facie case exists against the accused, charged him with offence punishable under S.61(1)(a) of the Act, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

3. Prosecution examined as many as six witnesses to prove its case but careful perusal of the depositions made by these witnesses nowhere suggest that the prosecution was able to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt. Accused, while getting his statement recorded under S.313 CrPC, denied the case of the prosecution in toto, though he led no evidence in his defence. As has been noticed herein above, as per own case of the Police, after having received secret information, they raided the shop of the accused, which was situated in the middle of the Bazaar, but, interestingly, in the case in hand, Police party failed to associate witnesses, if any, from the bazaar, rather, they associated person namely Ram Pal, PW-2, who nowhere supported the case of the prosecution. PW-2 denied the case of the prosecution in toto, as such, was declared hostile, but even cross-examination conducted upon this witness, nowhere proves the case of the prosecution.

4. Apart from PW-2, all witnesses are police officials, as such, not much reliance can be placed upon their version, especially in view of statement of PW-2, who has specifically denied that raid, if any, was conducted in his presence and 180 bottles of country liquor mark "Lal Quila" were recovered from the exclusive and conscious possession of the accused.

5. True it is that the version put forth by the official witnesses cannot be brushed aside merely on account of non-association of the independent witnesses but, in the case at hand, PW-2, Ram Pal, independent witness associated at the time of raid, seriously disputed the factum with regard to raid and recovery, if any, made thereafter by the patrolling party, as such, story put forth by the other police witnesses has become highly improbable and doubtful.

6. Leaving everything aside, it is not understood that what prevented the Police from associating independent witnesses from the locality, especially when the shop in question was situate in the thickly populated area.

7. There is another aspect of the matter that though the police allegedly took into possession 180 bottles of country liquor mark "Lal Quila", but sent only three bottles for chemical examination, as is evident from Ext. PW-3/D. Moreover, PW-5, H.C. Ashok Kumar has also admitted the factum with regard to sending of only three bottles out of 180 bottles, for chemical examination. Since only three bottles out of 180 bottles came to be sent for chemical analysis/examination, recovery, if any, of three bottles is proved in accordance with law. There is no report, if any, qua the contents of remaining 177 bottles, as such, there is nothing to suggest that the remaining 177 bottles also contained liquor.

8. In this regard reliance is placed upon the judgment passed by our own High Court in "Surender Singh. V. State of H.P.", Latest HLJ 2013 (2) 865, which reads as under:-

> "26. In the instant case, it be also noticed that there is yet another major flaw in the investigation by the police. Assuming that the contraband was actually recovered by the police party, police did not take samples from all the boxes. Samples only from few bottles out of some of the boxes, which they had opened, were taken. None of these witnesses have deposed that the remaining boxes were sealed; from outside appeared to be of the same make or brand; bearing serial numbers; the date of manufacture; or the place and the name of the manufacturer. All that these witnesses have deposed is that boxes of alcohol, as described above, were found in the vehicle. Inside the boxes could be anything. Police could not prove that the remaining boxes actually contained liquor. The samples cannot be said to be representative in character.

27. In similar circumstances, this Court in Mahajan versus State of Himachal Pradesh, 2003 Cr.L.J. 1346; State of H.P. versus Ramesh Chand, Latest HLJ 2007 (2) 1017; Dharam Pal and another versus State of Himachal Pradesh, 2009 (2) Shim. LC 208; and State of Himachal Pradesh versus Kuldeep Singh & others, 2010(2) Him.L.R. 825, acquitted the accused, as prosecution could not prove, beyond reasonable doubt, as to what was actually there in the remaining boxes.

28. As per version of PW-1, outside the boxes 'Sirmour No.1' was printed which version stands denied by PW-7. In the instant case, there is nothing on record to show that the remaining boxes were in fact containing liquor. Quantity of the remaining bottles of the boxes from which samples were drawn has also not been proved to be liquor. These aspects have not been considered by the Courts below. The cumulative effect is that the prosecution has failed to prove the charge against the accused, beyond reasonable doubt and as such judgments of the Courts below are not sustainable in law."

9. Reliance is also placed on the judgment passed by this Court State of HP v. Jagjit Singh, Latest HLJ 2008 (HP) 919, wherein this Court has observed in paras 6 and 7 as under:-

"6.At the very outset, I would like to say that neither the non-compliance of sub-section (6) of Section 100 of the Code of Criminal Procedure will render the search illegally nor the respondent can be acquitted on this sole ground. However, in the instant case the regrettable feature is that as per the case of the prosecution 72 pouches of country liquor of "Gulab" brand country liquor containing 180 ml. each were recovered from the possession of the respondent. Admittedly, one pouch of 180 ml. out of the recovered quantity was retained as a sample, which was of licit origin as opined by the Chemical Analyst.

7. There is nothing on record to show that the remaining 71 pouches alleged to have been recovered from the respondent also contain the country liquor more than the permissible quantity without the permit or licence. Before the respondent could be convicted for the offence charged, it was incumbent upon the prosecution to prove that the respondent was in actual and conscious possession of the licit liquor in excess of the prescribed limit."

10. In view of the aforesaid discussion and law laid down by this Court, recovery if any, from the accused can be said to be of three bottles only and as such, on this count, entire recovery is vitiated which renders the whole story of the prosecution unreliable and untrustworthy.

11. Consequently, in view of detailed discussion made herein above, this Court sees no reason to differ with the judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned Court below, which appears to be based upon correct appreciation of evidence adduced on record.

12. Accordingly, the present appeal is dismissed. Judgment passed by the learned trial Court is upheld. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by the accused are discharged.

13. Case property be disposed of in accordance with law.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Smt. Soma Devi ……Petitioner
Versus
The State of H.P. and others …..Respondents

CWP No. 1650 of 2017
Decided on: May 31, 2019

Building and other Construction Act, 1996– Section 12– Registration of beneficiary, whether can be provisional? - Held, there is no stipulation under Act which provides for provisional registration of beneficiary– Once petitioner admittedly is registered as beneficiary, benefits accruing under Act cannot be denied to her on ground that such registration was provisional.(Para 11)

For the petitioner: Mr. B.C. Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Ashwani Sharma and Mr. Nand Lal Thakur, Additional Advocates General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By the medium of extant petition, the petitioner has prayed for the following main relief(s):

"(i) release the amount of Cheque No. 005594, dated 31-10-2014, i.e. Rs.21,000/-, i.e. Rupees 21,000/-, sanctioned in favour of the p. vide Annexure P-1.

(ii) issue identity card to the petitioner against her registration No. BOCW/LO/KNG/06/4637.

(iii) release all the benefits to the petitioner accruing under the Himachal Pradesh Building and Other Construction Workers Welfare Fund, The Building and Other Construction Workers' (Regulation of Employment and Conditions of Service) Act, 1996 and the rules framed there under, in future."

2. Central Government, with a view to regulate the employment and conditions of services of the Building and Other Construction Workers and with a view to provide for their safety, health and welfare measures and several other matter, connected therewith or incidental thereto, enacted "the Building and Other Construction Workers' (Regulation of Employment and Conditions of Service) Act, 1996 (hereinafter, 'Act') and this Act came into force on the first day of March, 1996. S.12 of the Act ibid provides for registration of building workers as beneficiaries, which is reproduced herein below:

"12. Registration of building workers as beneficiaries.-

(1) Every building worker who has completed eighteen years of age, but has not completed sixty years of age, and who has been engaged in any building or other construction work for not less than ninety days during the preceding twelve months shall be eligible for registration as beneficiary under this Act.

(2) An application for registration shall be made in such form, as may be prescribed, to the officer authorized by the Board in this behalf.

(3) Every application under sub-section (2) shall be accompanied by such documents together with such fee not exceeding fifty rupees as may be prescribed.

(4) If the officer authorized by the Board under sub-section (2) is satisfied that the applicant has complied with the provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder, he shall register the name of the building workers as a beneficiary under this Act;

Provided that an application for registration shall not be rejected without giving the applicant an opportunity of being heard.

(5) Any person aggrieved by the decision under sub-section (4) may, within thirty days from the date of such decision, prefer an appeal to the Secretary of the Board or any other officer specified by the Board in this behalf and the decision of the Secretary or such other officer on such appeal shall be final:

Provided that the Secretary or any other officer specified by the Board in this behalf may entertain the appeal after the expiry of the said period of thirty days if he is satisfied that the building worker was prevented by sufficient cause from filing the appeal in time.

(6) The secretary of the Board shall cause to maintain such registers as may be prescribed."

3. In terms of aforesaid provision of law, every building worker who has completed eighteen years of age, but has not completed sixty years of age, and who has been engaged in any building or other construction work for not less than ninety days during the preceding twelve months shall be eligible for registration as a beneficiary under this Act and an application for registration shall be made in such form, as may be prescribed, to the officer authorized by the Board in this behalf. If the officer authorized by the Board under sub-section (2) is satisfied that the applicant has complied with the provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder, he shall register the name of the building worker as a 'beneficiary' under this Act. It has been specifically provided that an application for registration shall not be rejected without giving the applicant an opportunity of being heard.

4. Chapter V of the Act provides for constitution of a State Welfare Board. S.18 casts a duty upon the State Government to constitute Construction Workers' (Welfare Board). S. 18(3) provides that the Board shall consist of a chairperson, a person to be nominated by the Central Government and such number of other members, not exceeding fifteen, as may be appointed to it by the State Government. Similarly, S. 24 of the Act ibid provides for "Building and Other Construction Workers' Welfare Fund and its Application. Under S.23, it is provided that the Central Government may, after due appropriation made by Parliament by law in this behalf, make to a Board grants and loans of such sums of money as the Government may consider necessary to enable it to distribute to the beneficiaries strictly for the purposes as defined under the Act.

5. In the case at hand, petitioner who is undisputedly a building worker, applied for her registration with the respondent No.3 in the month of February, 2014 enclosing therewith requisite documents. It is also not in dispute that respondent No.3, after examination of documents adduced on record by the petitioner, registered her name vide Registration No. BOCW/LO/KNG/06/4637 dated 25.3.2014 as a building worker beneficiary, however at that time, petitioner was not given identity card subsequent to her aforesaid registration. The petitioner, on account of marriage of her son applied to respondent No.3 for help. Respondent No.2, sanctioned a sum of Rs.21,000/- in favour of the petitioner vide Cheque No. 005594 dated 31.10.2014 vide letter No. BOCW/Acctts./marriage assistance(247)/Sml/2013-4203, dated 3.11.2014 (Annexure P-4), but interestingly, aforesaid amount never came to be released in favour of the petitioner despite her visiting the office of respondent N.3 repeatedly. Since despite repeated requests having been made by the petitioner, respondents failed to pay the amount as referred to above, petitioner was compelled to approach this Court in the instant proceedings.

6. Respondents No.1 to 3 by way of reply-affidavit, while fairly acknowledging the factum with regard to application having been made by the petitioner for registration as a beneficiary under the Act, have stated that since the petitioner's form was not complete in all respects, she was advised to furnish complete details. Respondents further stated that the petitioner failed to do the needful within stipulated time, as such, her case could not be considered. Respondents have further stated that the application submitted by the petitioner was not complete in all respects, as the signature of the employer, his full name and complete address of the establishment in Form No. 27 were not given, hence, petitioner was registered provisionally on 25.3.2014 as a beneficiary vide aforesaid registration number with the following remark, "Subject to the condition to obtain signature of employer on form No. 27 alongwith full name and address of establishment in which the worker has worked or working".

7. Respondents have further stated that despite ample opportunity given to the General Secretary of Trade Union, though whom application of petitioner and other similarly situate persons were submitted, no heed was paid to the repeated reminders sent by respondents, as such, no fault can be found with the respondents and the present petition deserves to be dismissed. It has been further stated in the reply that the claim application for marriage of the petitioner's son was submitted by the petitioner in the office of respondent No.3 on 9.6.2014, after rejection of her application form, but inadvertently her claim was sent to respondent No.2 as a consequence of which, cheque amounting to Rs.21,000/- was ordered to be issued in her favour by oversight.

8. Mr. B.C. Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioner, while inviting attention of this Court Notification dated 2.1.2015, published in Rajpatra of Himachal Pradesh, contended that there was no requirement for the petitioner to submit her application through Contractor of the building in which she was working as a building worker because, as per amended provision i.e. Rule 266 of the HP Building and Other Construction Workers (Regulation of Employment and Conditions of Service) Rules, 2008, building worker intending to get his/her name registered as a beneficiary under the Act can also enclose certificate issued by Bhawan Evam Anya Sanirman Karmkar Sangh or Gram Panchayat or Executive Officer of the urban local body concerned. While referring to documents placed on record alongwith rejoinder filed to the reply of the respondents, learned counsel for the petitioner contended that bare perusal of application filed by petitioner praying therein for registration reveals that she had furnished complete details with regard to work in which she was employed as a building worker. He further contended that bare perusal of annexures P-6 and P-8, clearly suggests that the petitioner also submitted certificate issued by Karmkar Sangh and Gram Panchayat concerned in support of her claim, as such, there is no force in the arguments of Mr. Ashwani Sharma, learned Additional Advocate General that since incomplete form was submitted, name of the petitioner could not be registered as beneficiary under the Act.

9. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, this court finds that application of the petitioner for registration as building worker for having benefit under the Act could not be rejected by the respondents on the ground that she had not furnished complete details with regard to employer/establishment with whom she has rendered her services as a building worker because as has been taken note herein above, Department of Labour Employment, vide Notification dated 31.12.2014, amended Rule 266 of the Himachal Pradesh Building and Other Construction Workers (Regulation of Employment and Conditions of Service) Rules, 2008, whereby in the absence of certificate or wage slips from the employer or contractor or copy of muster roll or attendance rolls, certificate issued by Karmkar Sangh and Gram Panchayat concerned can also be furnished by applicant intending to get his/her name registered under the Act.

10. In the case at hand, undisputedly the petitioner in her application annexure P-4, has categorically stated that she rendered her services as a building/construction worker during construction work of bridge at Gaggal Khadd, Kangra with effect from 1.4.2013 to 31.3.2014. Kamgar Sangh by way of certificate dated 15.2.2014, Annexure P-6, has categorically certified that the petitioner is a Member of Bhawan Evam and Annya Sannirman Kamgar Sangh, registered under Registration No. 1899 and she is working as a labourer for the last five years regularly. Gram Panchayat, Gaggal vide Annexure P-8, has also certified that the petitioner has been working as a building worker with effect from 1.4.2012 to 28.2.2015 and has completed more than 90 days with effect from 1.4.2013 to 31.3.2014 i.e. 100 days. Petitioner has categorically stated that aforesaid documents placed on record by her alongwith rejoinder have been supplied to her under Right to Information Act by the office of respondent No.2, as such, respondents cannot be allowed to say that the petitioner, while applying under the Act has failed to place on record documents as per Form 27.

11. In the case at hand, respondents have admitted the factum with regard to petitioner being registered as a beneficiary under the Act but the stand taken in the reply that registration was provisional, is highly untenable because there is no provision under the Act which provides for provisional registration. As has been noticed herein above, Act came to be enacted with the sole purpose to regulate the employment and conditions of service of Building and Other Construction Workers and to provide for their safety, health and welfare measures. In the case at hand, respondents sanctioned Rs.21,000/- in favour of petitioner for the purpose of marriage of her son but subsequently made her run from pillar to post to have that money that too on very flimsy grounds. Since application form filed by petitioner was complete in all respects, action of the respondents in not registering her name, issuing identity card and thereafter not releasing the benefit under the Act ibid, cannot be said to be justifiable and deserves to be set aside.

12. Consequently, present writ petition is allowed. Respondents No.2 and 3 are directed to issue identity card to the petitioner against her registration No. BOCW/LO/KNG/06/4637 and release a sum of Rs.21,000/- sanctioned in her favour i.e. Annexure P-1, expeditiously, preferably within three weeks.

13. The petition is disposed of in aforesaid terms, alongwith all pending applications, if any.

Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner Mr. Bhupinder Singh Ahuja, Advocate.
For the respondent Mr. Sanjeev Sood, Additional Advocate General with Mr. Sunny Dhatwalia, Assistant Advocate General. ASI Kulmesh Singh, I/O, Police Station Padhar, Mandi (HP).

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

Sequel to order dated 29.5.2019, ASI Kulmesh Singh has come present with the record. Mr. Sanjeev Sood, learned Additional Advocate General has also placed on record status report prepared by the investigating agency on the basis of investigation carried out by it. Record perused and returned.

2. Mr. Sanjeev Sood, learned Additional Advocate General, on instructions of the Investigating Officer, fairly states that pursuant to order dated 29.5.2019, the bail petitioner has joined the investigation and is fully cooperating. Mr. Sood, learned Additional Advocate General further states that at this stage nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner, as such, his custodial interrogation is not required and he can be ordered to be enlarged on bail, subject to the condition that he shall make himself available for investigation as well as trial, as and when called by the investigating agency. Mr. Sood, fairly admits that the co-accused Rati Ram has been already released on anticipatory bail granted by this Court vide judgment dated 11.6.2018 passed in CrMP(M) No. 697 of 2018.

3. Close scrutiny of the record/status report reveals that FIR No. 51, dated 1.5.2018 under S.18 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, came to be lodged against the bail petitioner at Police Station Padhar, Mandi, on the basis of a secret information received by the Police to the effect that the bail petitioner is involved in illegal cultivation of prohibited substance i.e. Opium. Allegedly, the Police recovered 2000 plants of Opium illegally cultivated by the bail petitioner in his fields. As per record, Police, after having drawn samples, destroyed the illegal cultivation of Poppy plants, however, report of the FSL clearly suggests that the plants allegedly confiscated by the investigating agency are samples of Poppy plants and fall within the definition of prohibited substance as defined under the Act ibid.

4. Considering the fact that the land, whereupon cultivation of Opium and Poppy plants was being allegedly done, is a joint land and in possession of many persons coupled with the fact that guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner is yet to be proved in accordance with law by the prosecution by leading cogent and convincing evidence, this court finds no reason to keep the bail petitioner behind the bars during trial. Moreover, rigours of S.37 of the Act ibid are not applicable in the facts and circumstances of the present case, as such, prayer for grant of bail, especially in the offence allegedly committed under S.18 of the Act ibid, deserves to be accepted at this stage.

5. By now it is well settled that freedom of an individual is of utmost importance and same cannot be curtailed for an indefinite period, as such, this court sees no reason to keep the bail petitioner behind the bars for an indefinite period, especially for the reasons stated herein above.

6. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. It has further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "2. A fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. However, there are instances in our criminal law where a reverse onus has been placed on an accused with regard to some specific offences but that is another matter and does not detract from the fundamental postulate in respect of other offences. Yet another important facet of our criminal jurisprudence is that the grant of bail is the general rule and putting a person in jail or in a prison or in a correction home (whichever expression one may wish to use) is an exception. Unfortunately, some of these basic principles appear to have been lost sight of with the result that more and more persons are being incarcerated and for longer periods. This does not do any good to our criminal jurisprudence or to our society.
> 3. There is no doubt that the grant or denial of bail is entirely the discretion of the judge considering a case but even so, the exercise of judicial discretion has been circumscribed by a large number of decisions rendered by this Court and by every High Court in the country. Yet, occasionally there is a necessity to introspect whether denying bail to an accused person is the right thing to do on the facts and in the circumstances of a case.
> 4. While so introspecting, among the factors that need to be considered is whether the accused was arrested during investigations when that person perhaps has the best opportunity to tamper with the evidence or influence witnesses. If the investigating officer does not find it necessary to arrest an accused person during investigations, a strong case should be made out for placing that person in judicial custody after a charge sheet is filed. Similarly, it is important to ascertain whether the accused was participating in the investigations to the satisfaction of the investigating officer and was not absconding or not appearing when required by the investigating officer. Surely, if an accused is not hiding from the investigating officer or is hiding due to some genuine and expressed fear of being victimised, it would be a factor that a judge would need to consider in an appropriate case. It is also necessary for the judge to consider whether the accused is a first-time offender or has been accused of other offences and if so, the nature of such offences and his or her general conduct. The poverty or the deemed indigent status of an accused is also an extremely important factor and even Parliament has taken notice of it by incorporating an Explanation to Section 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. An equally soft approach to incarceration has been taken by Parliament by inserting Section 436A in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

5. To put it shortly, a humane attitude is required to be adopted by a judge, while dealing with an application for remanding a suspect or an accused person to police custody or judicial custody. There are several reasons for this including maintaining the dignity of an accused person, howsoever poor that person might be, the requirements of Article 21 of the Constitution and the fact that there is enormous overcrowding in prisons, leading to social and other problems as noticed by this Court in In Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons."

7. By now it is well settled that gravity alone cannot be a decisive ground to deny bail, rather competing factors are required to be balanced by the court while exercising its discretion. It has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sanjay Chandra versus Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 Supreme Court Cases 49; has been held as under:-

"The object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it can be required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The Courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty. Detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In India , it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the propose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson."

8. Needless to say object of the bail is to secure the attendance of the accused in the trial and the proper test to be applied in the solution of the question whether bail should be granted or refused is whether it is probable that the party will appear to take his trial. Otherwise also, normal rule is of bail and not jail. Apart from above, Court has to keep in mind nature of accusations, nature of evidence in support thereof, severity of the punishment, which conviction will entail, character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused involved in that crime.

9. In Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta versus CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "This Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 40, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has to be exercised with care and caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and that grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under-trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

10. The Apex Court in Prasanta Kumar Sarkar versus Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496, has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind, while deciding petition for bail:

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;

(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;

(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

11. In view of above, bail petitioner has carved out a case for himself and as such, present petition is allowed. Order dated 29.5.2019 is made absolute subject to petitioner furnishing fresh bail bonds in the sum of Rs.50,000/- (Rs. Fifty Thousand) with one local surety in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned/trial court, besides the following conditions:

(a) He shall make himself available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

(b) He shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

(c) He shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and

(d) He shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

(e) He shall surrender passport, if any, held by him.

12. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses the liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

13. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

Copy dasti.

For the petitioner	Mr. Sunil Mohan Goel, Advocate.
For the respondent	Mr. G.S. Rathour, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition filed under Art. 227 of the Constitution of India, challenge has been laid to order dated 9.8.2018, passed by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Court No. VII, Shimla, Himachal Pradesh in CMA No. 1262 of 2018 in Civil Suit No. 75-1 of 2016, titled Naveeta vs. Bhagwan Singh, whereby an application filed by the petitioner-plaintiff (hereinafter, 'plaintiff') under S.151 CPC, praying therein for DNA profiling of the respondent-defendant (hereinafter, 'defendant'), came to be dismissed.

2. For having a bird's eye view, facts in brief, as emerge from the record are that the plaintiff filed a suit for declaration in the court of learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Shimla, to the effect that she (plaintiff) be declared legal and lawful daughter of defendant namely Bhagwan Singh, born from relationship of defendant with Smt. Sneh Prabha, mother of the plaintiff. Plaintiff also prayed that she be held entitled for other consequential reliefs which may flow after the declaration that the plaintiff is legal and lawful daughter of the defendant. In the written statement (Annexure P-2), defendant has specifically denied the claim of the plaintiff that she is his (defendant's) daughter born out of alleged relationship with Smt. Sneh Prabha. Though the pleadings in the case are complete, issues are yet to be framed, however, during the pendency of the suit, plaintiff filed an application (Annexure P-3) under S.151 CPC, praying therein for DNA profiling of the defendant. In the application, Annexure P-3, plaintiff claimed that since the defendant has not accepted her claim that she is his daughter, DNA profiling of the defendant may be ordered to arrive at a just and proper decision. However, the fact remains that the learned trial Court, vide order dated 9.8.2018, dismissed the aforesaid application preferred by the plaintiff being not maintainable at this stage. If the impugned order is read in its entirety, it reveals that the learned trial Court found no "eminent need" for DNA profiling of the defendant, especially when evidence is yet to be led on record by the plaintiff in support of her averments made in the plaint (Annexure P-1).

3. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record.

4. Before adverting to the factual matrix of the case, this court deems it appropriate to take note of the legal pronouncements made by the Hon'ble Apex Court from time to time, on the issue at hand.

5. Hon'ble Apex Court in Goutam Kundu v. State of W.B. (1993) 3 SCC 418, while specifically dealing with the prayer made for DNA profiling, held that it is a rebuttable presumption of law, that a child born during the lawful wedlock is legitimate, and that access occurred between the parties. This presumption can only be displaced by a strong preponderance of evidence and not by a mere balance of probabilities. While interpreting S.112 of the Indian Evidence Act, Hon'ble Apex Court held that effect of this section is this: there is a presumption and a very strong one though a rebuttable one. Conclusive proof means as laid down under section 4 of the Evidence Act.

6. In the totality of facts and circumstances before Hon'ble Apex Court, their Lordships laid down following parameters for considering prayer, if any, for DNA profiling:-

> "26. From the above discussion it emerges:-
>
> (1) that courts in India cannot order blood test as matter of course;
>
> (2) wherever applications are made for such prayers in order to have roving inquiry, the prayer for blood test cannot be entertained.
>
> (3) There must be a strong prima facie case in that the husband must establish non-access in order to dispel the presumption arising under section 112 of the Evidence Act.
>
> (4) The court must carefully examine as to what would be the consequence of ordering the blood test; whether it will have the effect of branding a child as a bastard and the mother as an unchaste woman.
> (5) No one can be compelled to give sample of blood for analysis."

7. Subsequently, Hon'ble Apex Court in Bhabani Prasad Jena v. Orissa State Commission for Women, (2010) 8 SCC 633, held that where paternity of a child is in issue before the court, the use of DNA is an extremely delicate and sensitive aspect. One view is that when modern science gives means of ascertaining the paternity of a child, there should not be any hesitation to use those means whenever the occasion requires. The other view is that the court must be reluctant in use of such scientific advances and tools, which result in invasion of right to privacy of an individual and may not only be prejudicial to the rights of the parties but may have devastating effect on the child. Following paragraphs of the aforesaid judgment may be usefully extracted herein below:

> "21. In a matter where paternity of a child is in issue before the court, the use of DNA is an extremely delicate and sensitive aspect. One view is that when modern science gives means of ascertaining the paternity of a child, there should not be any hesitation to use those means whenever the occasion requires. The other view is that the court must be reluctant in use of such scientific advances and tools which result in invasion of right to privacy of an individual and may not only be prejudicial to the rights of the parties but may have devastating effect on the child. Sometimes the result of such scientific test may bastardise an innocent child even though his mother and her spouse were living together during the time of conception.
> 22. In our view, when there is apparent conflict between the right to privacy of a person not to submit himself forcibly to medical examination and duty of the court to reach the truth, the court must exercise its discretion only after balancing the interests of the parties and on due consideration whether for a just decision in the matter, DNA is eminently needed. DNA in a matter relating to paternity of a child should not be directed by the court as a matter of course or in a routine manner, whenever such a request is made. The court has to consider diverse aspects including presumption under Section 112 of the Evidence Act; pros and cons of such order and the test of 'eminent need' whether it is not possible for the court to reach the truth without use of such test.

23. There is no conflict in the two decisions of this Court, namely, Goutam Kundu[1] and Sharda[2]. In Goutam Kundu[1], it has been laid down that courts in India cannot order blood test as a matter of course and such prayers cannot be granted to have roving inquiry; there must be strong prima facie case and court must carefully examine as to what would be the consequence of ordering the blood test. In the case of Sharda[2] while concluding that a matrimonial court has power to order a person to undergo a medical test, it was reiterated that the court should exercise such a power if the applicant has a strong prima facie case and there is sufficient material before the court. Obviously, therefore, any order for DNA can be given by the court only if a strong prima facie case is made out for such a course."

8. Close scrutiny of aforesaid judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court clearly reveals that the court must exercise its discretion only after balancing the interests of the parties and on due consideration whether for a just decision in the matter, DNA profiling/test is eminently needed. DNA testing in a matter relating to paternity of a child should not be directed by the court as a matter of course or in a routine manner. Whenever such a request is made, the court has to consider diverse aspects including presumption under Section 112 of the Evidence Act; pros and cons of such order and the test of 'eminent need' whether it is not possible for the court to reach the truth without use of such test.

9. In Narayan Dutt Tiwari v. Rohit Shekhar (2012) 12 SCC 554, Hon'ble Apex Court again held that even the Constitution of India casts a duty upon every citizen of India to develop scientific temper and the spirit of inquiry and reform and to strive towards excellence, to reach higher levels of achievement. While specifically dealing with the case relating to prayer for DNA profiling, Hon'ble Apex Court observed in the aforesaid judgment that when modern tools of adjudication are at hand, it is not understood why courts refuse to step out of their dogmas and insist upon the long route to be followed at the cost of misery to the litigants. Following paragraphs of the judgment (supra) are relevant in the context of this case:

"38. Even the Constitution of India, while laying down the fundamental duties, by Articles 51-A(h) and (j) declares it to be the duty of every citizen of India to develop a scientific temper and the spirit of inquiry and reform and to strive towards excellence, to reach higher levels of achievement. What we wonder is that when modern tools of adjudication are at hand, must the courts refuse to step out of their dogmas and insist upon the long route to be followed at the cost of misery to the litigants. The answer obviously has to be no. The courts are for doing justice, by adjudicating rival claims and unearthing, the truth and not for following age-old practices and procedures, when new, better methods are available.

56. Recently in Maria Margarida Sequeira Fernades v. Erasmo Jack de Sequeira it was reiterated that the truth is the guiding star and the quest in the judicial process and the voyage of trial. The trend world over of full disclosure by the parties and deployment of powers to ensure that the scope of factual controversy is minimised was noticed. We are therefore of the opinion that adverse inference from non-compliance cannot be a substitute to the enforceability of a direction for DNA testing. The valuable right of the appellant under the said direction, to prove his paternity through such DNA testing cannot be taken away by asking the appellant to be satisfied with the comparatively weak "adverse inference".

10. In case Nandlal Wasudeo Badwaik v. Lata Nandlal Badwaik (2014) 2 SCC 576, Hon'ble Apex Court reiterated that interest of justice is best served by ascertaining the truth and the court should be furnished with the best available science and may not be left to bank upon presumptions, unless science has no answer to the facts in issue. Following paragraphs of the judgment (supra) are relevant in the case at hand:

"17. We may remember that Section 112 of the Evidence Act was enacted at a time when the modern scientific advancement and DNA test were not even in contemplation of the Legislature. The result of DNA test is said to be scientifically accurate. Although Section 112 raises a presumption of conclusive proof on satisfaction of the conditions enumerated therein but the same is rebuttable. The presumption may afford legitimate means of arriving at an affirmative legal conclusion. While the truth or fact is known, in our opinion, there is no need or room for any presumption. Where there is evidence to the contrary, the presumption is rebuttable and must yield to proof. Interest of justice is best served by ascertaining the truth and the court should be furnished with the best available science and may not be left to bank upon presumptions, unless science has no answer to the facts in issue. In our opinion, when there is a conflict between a conclusive proof envisaged under law and a proof based on scientific advancement accepted by the world community to be correct, the latter must prevail over the former.

18. We must understand the distinction between a legal fiction and the presumption of a fact. Legal fiction assumes existence of a fact which may not really exist. However presumption of a fact depends on satisfaction of certain circumstances. Those circumstances logically would lead to the fact sought to be presumed. Section 112 of the Evidence Act does not create a legal fiction but provides for presumption.

19. The husband's plea that he had no access to the wife when the child was begotten stands proved by the DNA test report and in the face of it, we cannot compel the appellant to bear the fatherhood of a child, when the scientific reports prove to the contrary. We are conscious that an innocent child may not be bastardized as the marriage between her mother and father was subsisting at the time of her birth, but in view of the DNA test reports and what we have observed above, we cannot forestall the consequence. It is denying the truth. "Truth must triumph" is the hallmark of justice."

11. In case Dipanwita Roy v. Ronobroto Roy (2015) 1 SCC 365, Hon'ble Apex Court, while reiterating its earlier judgments rendered in Bhabani Prasad Jena and Nandlal Wasudeo Badwaik (supra), reiterated that depending upon facts and circumstances, it would be permissible for a Court to direct the holding of a DNA examination, to determine the veracity of the allegation(s), which constitute one of the grounds, on which the concerned party would either succeed or lose. Most importantly, in the aforesaid judgment, Hon'ble Apex Court observed that if direction to hold such a test could be avoided, it should be avoided because legitimacy of a child should not be put to peril. It would be apt to reproduce following paragraph of the aforesaid judgment herein below:

"17. The question that has to be answered in this case, is in respect of the alleged infidelity of the appellant-wife. The respondent-husband has made clear and categorical assertions in the petition filed by him under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, alleging infidelity. He has gone to the extent of naming the person, who was the father of the male child born to the appellant-wife. It is in the process of substantiating his allegation of infidelity, that the respondent-husband had made an application before the Family Court for conducting a DNA test, which would establish whether or not, he had fathered the male child born to the appellant-wife. The respondent feels that it is only possible for him to substantiate the allegations levelled by him (of the appellant-wife's infidelity) through a DNA test. We agree with him. In our view, but for the DNA test, it would be impossible for the respondent-husband to establish and confirm the assertions made in the pleadings. We are therefore satisfied, that the direction issued by the High Court, as has been extracted hereinabove, was fully justified. DNA testing is the most legitimate and scientifically perfect means, which the husband could use, to establish his assertion of infidelity. This should simultaneously be taken as the most authentic, rightful and correct means also with the wife, for her to rebut the assertions made by the respondent-husband, and to establish that she had not been unfaithful, adulterous or disloyal. If the appellant-wife is right, she shall be proved to be so."

12. Careful perusal of the aforesaid pronouncements made by Hon'ble Apex Court from time to time though reveal that the matter pertaining to use of DNA testing being extremely delicate and sensitive aspect, should not be resorted to unless it is eminently required. In the earlier pronouncements, Hon'ble Apex Court observed that the court must be reluctant in use of such scientific advances and tools which result in invasion of right to privacy of an individual and may not only be prejudicial to the rights of the parties but may have devastating effect on the child, but, in the subsequent judgments, Hon'ble Apex Court has categorically held that the courts with a view to ascertain the truth should be furnished with best available scientific evidence and courts may not be left to bank upon presumptions, unless science has no answer to the facts in issue. In Nandlal Wasudeo Badwaik (supra), Hon'ble Apex Court held that, "we cannot compel the appellant to bear the fatherhood of a child, when the scientific reports prove to the contrary. We are conscious that an innocent child may not be bastardized as the marriage between her mother and father was subsisting at the time of her birth, but in view of the DNA test reports and what we have observed above, we cannot forestall the consequence. It is denying the truth. "Truth must triumph" is the hallmark of justice."

13. Test of "eminent need" is definitely required to be applied by the Court while considering application, if any, for DNA profiling but such test would certainly depend upon facts and circumstances of each case. In the case at hand, plaintiff, who claims to be daughter of defendant, has filed suit for declaration that she be declared daughter of defendant. Once factum with regard to her being daughter of defendant has been specifically denied by the defendant in his written statement, plaintiff is left with no other option but to pray for DNA profiling of the defendant. In Bhabani Prasad (supra), no doubt, Hon'ble Apex Court has held that while considering prayer for DNA profiling, courts are required to consider diverse aspects including presumption under Section 112 of the Evidence Act; pros and cons of such order and the test of 'eminent need' whether it is not possible for the court to reach the truth without use of such test, but, in the case at hand, where child (plaintiff) has admittedly achieved majority and wants to ascertain her paternity, prayer having been made by her for DNA profiling ought not have been denied, while applying principle of "eminent need". S.112 of the Indian Evidence Act provides that, "the fact that any person was born during the continuance of a valid marriage between the mother and any man, or within two hundred and eighty days after its dissolution, the mother remaining unmarried, shall be conclusive proof that he is the legitimate son of that man, unless it can be shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other at any time when he could have been begotten." But, in the case at hand, since the defendant has specifically denied the factum of his being father of the plaintiff, as such, aforesaid presumption is not applicable to the facts of the present case, simply for the reason that the case as set out by the plaintiff is that she was born out of physical relation between defendant and her mother without having contracted marriage. Otherwise also valuable right of the appellant under the said direction, to prove his paternity through such DNA testing cannot be taken away by asking the appellant to be satisfied with the comparatively weak adverse inference.

14. In any eventuality, in case, the plaintiff is able to prove her case through DNA profiling, she should not be compelled to prove her case by conventional methods including oral and documentary evidence, especially when scientific test in this regard is available. No prejudice whatsoever would be caused to the defendant in case prayer made in the application is allowed, rather, result of the test would help court to adjudicate the controversy at hand in a most effective manner.

15. Consequently, in view of above discussion, the petition is allowed. Order dated 9.8.2018 passed by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Court No. VII, Shimla, Himachal Pradesh in CMA No. 1262 of 2018 in Civil Suit No. 75-1 of 2016, titled Naveeta vs. Bhagwan Singh is set aside. Application of the plaintiff is allowed. Learned Court below is directed to take further recourse in accordance with law, for getting the DNA profiling done. Parties to appear before the learned Court below on 22.7.2019. Learned counsel for the parties undertake to ensure presence of the parties on the aforesaid day before the learned Court below.

Pending applications, if any, are also disposed of.

Parbatbhai Aahir @ Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur and others vs. State of Gujarat and Another, Criminal Appeal No.1723 of 2017 arising out of SLP(Crl) No.9549 of 2016

For the petitioners: Mr. Dheeraj K. Vashisht, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Ashwani Sharma, Additional Advocates General with Mr. Sunny Dhatwalia, Assistant Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition filed under S.482 CrPC, prayer has been made on behalf of the petitioners, who happen to be husband-wife, for quashing of FIR No. 11, dated 6.8.2018, under Ss. 376 and 506 IPC, registered at Women Police Station, Una, Himachal Pradesh as well as consequential proceedings pending in the court of learned Additional Sessions Judge-II, Una, Himachal Pradesh.

2. FIR in question came to be lodged at the behest of petitioner No.2, Shivani Chauhan on 6.8.2018, who alleged that on 9.3.2018, petitioner No.1 allured her on the pretext of marriage and subsequently on 14.3.2018 solemnised marriage with her at Chandigarh in a Temple. It also emerges from the FIR that after solemnizing marriage, petitioners filed a joint petition before Punjab and Haryana High Court, for protection. Punjab and Haryana High Court disposed of the petition with a direction to the SSP, Hoshiarpur to ensure safety of lives and liberty of the petitioners.

3. FIR lodged at the behest of petitioner No.2, further reveals that she kept on living with petitioner No.1 in her matrimonial house at Mukerian but since petitioner No.2 went abroad on 4.4.2018 and certain differences cropped up between the petitioners, petitioner No.2 lodged the FIR in question, alleging therein that she was compelled/forced to solemnise marriage, against her wishes, by petitioner No.1, who after solemnization of marriage, repeatedly sexually assaulted her against her wishes. Averments contained in the petition as well as documents annexed therewith reveal that with the intervention of the elders of the family, both the petitioners have now resolved to settle their dispute amicably inter se them and as such, petitioner No.2, who is complainant, does not wish to continue with the proceedings initiated at her behest. Though perusal of compromise, Annexure P-3, reveals that both the petitioners have been residing with each other as husband-wife at Village Nangal Bihala, Tehsil Mukerian, Punjab, i.e. matrimonial house of petitioner No.2, happily, but this court solely with a view to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of the compromise placed on record caused presence of petitioner No.2 in the court, who has come present alongwith petitioner No.1 and her father, Shri Ajay Kumar. Petitioner No. 2 on oath stated before this Court that she, of her own volition, without there being any external pressure, has entered into compromise. She further stated that the FIR in question came to be lodged at her behest on account of some misunderstanding, as such, she, in terms of agreement arrived inter se parties, intends to withdraw the FIR. Petitioner No.2 further stated that she shall have no objection in case FIR No. 11 dated 6.8.2018 as well as consequential proceedings pending before learned Court below are ordered to be quashed and set aside. Her statement is taken on record.

4. Mr. Ashwani Sharma, learned Additional Advocate General, having heard statement of the petitioner No.2 fairly stated that in view of amicable settlement arrived inter se parties, no fruitful purpose will be served in case FIR lodged at the behest of petitioner No.2 is allowed to sustain.

5. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, especially the contents of the FIR, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that both the petitioners prior to lodging of FIR in question had solemnized marriage and thereafter apprehending threat to their life had approached Punjab and Haryana High Court by way of a joint petition, seeking protection.

6. Close scrutiny of FIR itself reveals that petitioner No.2, who happened to be complainant, after solemnization of marriage with petitioner No.1, resided at her matrimonial house for quite considerable time with her husband and when petitioner No.1 went abroad, petitioner No.2 apprehended that he would not come back, as such, lodged the FIR. Even averments contained in the compromise (Annexure P-3) which have been further substantiated by petitioner No.2, while making statement on oath before this court, clearly reveal that the parties have settled their dispute amicably and it appears that they are living happily as husband-wife.

7. The question which now needs consideration is whether FIR lodged under S.376 IPC can be ordered to be quashed when Hon'ble Apex Court in Narinder Singh and others versus State of Punjab and another (2014)6 SCC 466 has specifically held that power under S. 482 CrPC is not to be exercised in the cases which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society.

8. At this stage, it would be relevant take note of the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Narinder Singh (supra), whereby the Hon'ble Apex Court has formulated guidelines for accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings. Perusal of judgment referred to above clearly depicts that in para 29.1, Hon'ble Apex Court has returned the findings that power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable and where the parties have settled the matter between themselves, however, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with great caution. Para Nos. 29 to 29.7 of the judgment are reproduced as under:-

> "29. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we sum up and lay down the following principles by which the High Court would be guided in giving adequate treatment to the settlement between the parties and exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code while accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings:
> 29.1 Power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash the criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable, where the parties have settled the matter between themselves. However, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with caution.
>
> 29.2. When the parties have reached the settlement and on that basis petition for quashing the criminal proceedings is filed, the guiding factor in such cases would be to secure:

(i) ends of justice, or

(ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court.

While exercising the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C the High Court is to form an opinion on either of the aforesaid two objectives.

29.3. Such a power is not be exercised in those prosecutions which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, for offences alleged to have been committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by Public Servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender.

29.4. On the other, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and pre-dominantly civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes should be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

29.5. While exercising its powers, the High Court is to examine as to whether the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal cases would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal cases.

29.6. Offences under Section 307 IPC would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore is to be generally treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to proving the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delegate parts of the body, nature of weapons used etc. Medical report in respect of injuries suffered by the victim can generally be the guiding factor. On the basis of this prima facie analysis, the High Court can examine as to whether there is a strong possibility of conviction or the chances of conviction are remote and bleak. In the former case it can refuse to accept the settlement and quash the criminal proceedings whereas in the later case it would be permissible for the High Court to accept the plea compounding the offence based on complete settlement between the parties. At this stage, the Court can also be swayed by the fact that the settlement between the parties is going to result in harmony between them which may improve their future relationship.

29.7. While deciding whether to exercise its power under Section 482 of the Code or not, timings of settlement play a crucial role. Those cases where the settlement is arrived at immediately after the alleged commission of offence and the matter is still under investigation, the High Court may be liberal in accepting the settlement to quash the criminal proceedings/investigation. It is because of the reason that at this stage the investigation is still on and even the charge sheet has not been filed. Likewise, those cases where the charge is framed but the evidence is yet to start or the evidence is still at infancy stage, the High Court can show benevolence in exercising its powers favourably, but after prima facie assessment of the circumstances/material mentioned above. On the other hand, where the prosecution evidence is almost complete or after the conclusion of the evidence the matter is at > the stage of argument, normally the High Court should refrain from exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code, as in such cases the trial court would be in a position to decide the case finally on merits and to come a conclusion as to whether the offence under Section 307 IPC is committed or not. Similarly, in those cases where the conviction is already recorded by the trial court and the matter is at the appellate stage before the High Court, mere compromise between the parties would not be a ground to accept the same resulting in acquittal of the offender who has already been convicted by the trial court. Here charge is proved under Section 307 IPC and conviction is already recorded of a heinous crime and, therefore, there is no question of sparing a convict found guilty of such a crime".

9. Careful perusal of para 29.3 of the judgment suggests that such a power is not to be exercised in the cases which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Apart from this, offences committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by Public Servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender. On the other hand, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominantly civil character, particularly arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes may be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

10. In the case at hand, the dispute is more of a family dispute, which is between husband and wife, due to some misunderstanding. Petitioner No. 2 (wife) being under the apprehension that her husband, petitioner No.1, who had gone abroad in connection with work, would not come back, lodged FIR in question against petitioner No. 1. Otherwise there appears to be no offence committed by petitioner No. 1 against petitioner No. 2, who is his wife and as such, neither the offence in question is of mental depravity nor against the society.

11. The Hon'ble Apex Court in case Gian Singh v. State of Punjab and anr. (2012) 10 SCC 303 has held that power of the High Court in quashing of the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent power is distinct and different from the power of a Criminal Court for compounding offences under Section 320 Cr.PC. Even in the judgment passed in Narinder Singh's case, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that while exercising inherent power of quashment under Section 482 Cr.PC the Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime and its social impact and it cautioned the Courts not to exercise the power for quashing proceedings in heinous and serious offences of mental depravity, murder, rape, dacoity etc. However subsequently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Dimpey Gujral and Ors. vs. Union Territory through Administrator, UT, Chandigarh and Ors. (2013(11 SCC 497 has also held as under:-

> "7. In certain decisions of this Court in view of the settlement arrived at by the parties, this Court quashed the FIRs though some of the offences were non-compoundable. A two Judges' Bench of this court doubted the correctness of those decisions. Learned Judges felt that in those decisions, this court had permitted compounding of non-compoundable offences. The said issue was, therefore, referred to a larger bench.
> The larger Bench in Gian Singh v. State of Punjab (2012) 10 SCC 303 considered the relevant provisions of the Code and the judgments of this court and concluded as under: (SCC pp. 342-43, para 61)

61. The position that emerges from the above discussion can be summarised thus: the power of the High Court in quashing a criminal proceeding or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction is distinct and different from the power given to a criminal court for compounding the offences under Section 320 of the Code. Inherent power is of wide plenitude with no statutory limitation but it has to be exercised in accord with the guideline engrafted in such power viz; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or F.I.R may be exercised where the offender and victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no category can be prescribed. However, before exercise of such power, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime. Heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. cannot be fittingly quashed even though the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. Such offences are not private in nature and have serious impact on society. Similarly, any compromise between the victim and offender in relation to the offences under special statutes like Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity etc; cannot provide for any basis for quashing criminal proceedings involving such offences. But the criminal cases having overwhelmingly and pre-dominatingly civil flavour stand on different footing for the purposes of quashing, particularly the offences arising from commercial, financial, mercantile, civil, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony relating to dowry, etc. or the family disputes where the wrong is basically private or personal in nature and the parties have resolved their entire dispute. In this category of cases, High Court may quash criminal proceedings if in its view, because of the compromise between the offender and victim, the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal case would put accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal case despite full and complete settlement and compromise with the victim. In other words, the High Court must consider whether it would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue with the criminal proceeding or continuation of the criminal proceeding would tantamount to abuse of process of law despite settlement and compromise between the victim and wrongdoer and whether to secure the ends of justice, it is appropriate that criminal case is put to an end and if the answer to the above question(s) is in affirmative, the High Court shall be well within its jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceeding." (emphasis supplied)

8. In the light of the above observations of this court in Gian Singh, we feel that this is a case where the continuation of criminal proceedings would tantamount to abuse of process of law because the alleged offences are not heinous offences showing extreme depravity nor are they against the society. They are offences of a personal nature and burying them would bring about peace and amity between the two sides. In the circumstances of the case, FIR No. 163 dated 26.10.2006 registered under Section 147, 148, 149, 323, 307, 452 and 506 of the IPC at Police Station Sector 3, Chandigarh and all consequential proceedings arising there from including the final report presented under Section 173 of the Code and charges framed by the trial Court are hereby quashed."

12. Recently the Hon'ble Apex Court in its latest judgment dated 4th October, 2017, titled as Parbatbhai Aahir @ Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur and others versus State of Gujarat and Another, passed in Criminal Appeal No.1723 of 2017 arising out of SLP(Crl) No.9549 of 2016, reiterated the principles/ parameters laid down in Narinder

Singh's case supra for accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings. It would be profitable to reproduce para No. 13 to 15 of the judgment herein:

> "13. The same principle was followed in Central Bureau of Investigation v. Maninder Singh (2016)1 SCC 389 by a bench of two learned Judges of this Court. In that case, the High Court had, in the exercise of its inherent power under Section 482 quashed proceedings under Sections 420, 467, 468 and 471 read with Section 120-B of the Penal Code. While allowing the appeal filed by the Central Bureau of Investigation Mr Justice Dipak Misra (as the learned Chief Justice then was) observed that the case involved allegations of forgery of documents to embezzle the funds of the bank. In such a situation, the fact that the dispute had been settled with the bank would not justify a recourse to thepower under Section 482:
>
>> "…In economic offences Court must not only keep in view that money has been paid to the bank which has been defrauded but also the society at large. It is not a case of simple assault or a theft of a trivial amount; but the offence with which we are concerned is well planned and was committed with a deliberate design with an eye of personal profit regardless of consequence to the society at large. To quash the proceeding merely on the ground that the accused has settled the amount with the bank would be a misplaced sympathy. If the prosecution against the economic offenders are not allowed to continue, the entire community is aggrieved."
>
> 14. In a subsequent decision in State of Tamil Nadu v R Vasanthi Stanley (2016) 1 SCC 376, the court rejected the submission that the first respondent was a woman "who was following the command of her husband" and had signed certain documents without being aware of the nature of the fraud which was being perpetrated on the bank. Rejecting the submission, this Court held that:
>
>> "... Lack of awareness, knowledge or intent is neither to be considered nor accepted in economic offences. The submission assiduously presented on gender leaves us unimpressed. An offence under the criminal law is an offence and it does not depend upon the gender of an accused. True it is, there are certain provisions in Code of Criminal Procedure relating to exercise of jurisdiction Under Section 437, etc. therein but that altogether pertains to a different sphere. A person committing a murder or getting involved in a financial scam or forgery of documents, cannot claim discharge or acquittal on the ground of her gender as that is neither constitutionally nor statutorily a valid argument. The offence is gender neutral in this case. We say no more on this score…"
>>
>> "…A grave criminal offence or serious economic offence or for that matter the offence that has the potentiality to create a dent in the financial health of the institutions, is not to be quashed on the ground that there is delay in trial or the principle that when the matter has been settled it should be quashed to avoid the load on the system…"
>
> 15. The broad principles which emerge from the precedents on the subject may be summarized in the following propositions:
>
>> (i) Section 482 preserves the inherent powers of the High Court to prevent an abuse of the process of any court or to secure the ends of justice. The provision does not confer new powers. It only recognizes and preserves powers which inhere in the High Court;
>>
>> (ii) The invocation of the jurisdiction of the High Court to quash a First Information Report or a criminal proceeding on the ground that a settlement has been arrived at between the offender and the victim is not the same as the invocation of jurisdiction for the purpose of compounding an offence. While compounding an offence, the power of the court is governed by the provisions of Section 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The power to quash under Section 482 is attracted even if the offence is non-compoundable.

(iii) In forming an opinion whether a criminal proceeding or complaint should be quashed in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482, the High Court must evaluate whether the ends of justice would justify the exercise of the inherent power;

(iv) While the inherent power of the High Court has a wide ambit and plenitude it has to be exercised; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent an abuse of the process of any court;

(v) The decision as to whether a complaint or First Information Report should be quashed on the ground that the offender and victim have settled the dispute, revolves ultimately on the facts and circumstances of each case and no exhaustive elaboration of principles can be formulated;

vi) In the exercise of the power under Section 482 and while dealing with a plea that the dispute has been settled, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous and serious offences involving mental depravity or offences such as murder, rape and dacoity cannot appropriately be quashed though the victim or the family of the victim have settled the dispute. Such offences are, truly speaking, not private in nature but have a serious impact upon society. The decision to continue with the trial in such cases is founded on the overriding element of public interest in punishing persons for serious offences;

(vii) As distinguished from serious offences, there may be criminal cases which have an overwhelming or predominant element of a civil dispute. They stand on a distinct footing in so far as the exercise of the inherent power to quash is concerned;

(viii) Criminal cases involving offences which arise from commercial, financial, mercantile, partnership or similar transactions with an essentially civil flavour may in appropriate situations fall for quashing where parties have settled the dispute;

(ix) In such a case, the High Court may quash the criminal proceeding if in view of the compromise between the disputants, the possibility of a conviction is remote and the continuation of a criminal proceeding would cause oppression and prejudice; and

(x) There is yet an exception to the principle set out in propositions (viii) and (ix) above. Economic offences involving the financial and economic well-being of the state have implications which lie beyond the domain of a mere dispute between private disputants. The High Court would be justified in declining to quash where the offender is involved in an activity akin to a financial or economic fraud or misdemeanour. The consequences of the act complained of upon the financial or economic system will weigh in the balance."

13. Though, in the case at hand, FIR stands registered against petitioner No.1 under Ss. 376 and 506 IPC but, as has been noticed herein above, petitioner No.2-complainant is legally wedded wife of petitioner No.1 and FIR in question came to be lodged on account of misunderstanding /mis-apprehension, as such, in very strict terms, it cannot be said that offence, if any, under S.376 IPC ever came to be committed by petitioner No.1. Since petitioners are happily married and they have decided to resolve their dispute amicably, no fruitful purpose would be served in case proceedings initiated at the behest of the petitioner No.2 are allowed to continue. Moreover, the complainant has compromised the matter and she is no longer interested in carrying on with the criminal proceedings against the accused. Otherwise also, possibility of conviction in the case is bleak and remote, since complainant herself is not interested in carrying on with the criminal proceedings initiated at her behest.

14. Consequently, in view of the aforesaid discussion as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court (supra), FIR No. 11, dated 6.8.2018, under Ss. 376 and 506 IPC registered at Women Police Station, Una, Himachal Pradesh as well as consequential proceedings pending in the court of learned Additional Sessions Judge-II, Una, Himachal Pradesh are quashed and set aside. Petitioner No.1, is acquitted of the offences levelled against him in the aforesaid FIR.

15. The petition stands disposed of in the aforesaid terms, alongwith all pending applications.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Nisha Verma and another ...Petitioners
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh ...Respondent

Cr. MP (M) No. 753 of 2019
Decided on June 20, 2019

Code Criminal Procedure, 1973– Section 439-Bail– Grant of– Principles– Held, object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative– Freedom of individual cannot be curtailed for an indefinite period – Gravity of offence alone cannot be a decisive ground to deny bail– Rather competing factors are required to be balanced.(Para 8)

Cases referred:
Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta vs. CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218
Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioners: Mr. Surinder Saklani, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Sanjeev Sood, Additional Advocate General with Mr. Sunny Dhatwalia, Assistant Advocate General.
ASI Pyare Lal, I/O, Police Station Arki, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present bail petition filed under S.438 CrPC, prayer has been made on behalf of the petitioners for grant of anticipatory bail in FIR No. 29, dated 23.3.2017 registered at Police Station Arki, Solan, Himachal Pradesh under Ss. 3 and 7 of the Essential Commodities Act, and Ss. 420, 468, 471 read with S.120B IPC.

2. Sequel to order dated 27.5.2019, ASI Pyare Lal has come present with the record. Mr. Sanjeev Sood, learned Additional Advocate General has also placed on record status report prepared by the investigating agency on the basis of investigation carried out by it. Record perused and returned..

3. Mr. Ashwani Sharma, learned Additional Advocate General, on instructions from the Investigating Officer, fairly states that pursuant to order dated 1.5.2019, both the petitioners have joined the investigation and they are fully cooperating. Mr. Sharma, learned Additional Advocate General, further informs that the investigation is almost complete and at this stage, nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioners, as such, in case, this court intends to enlarge them on bail, they may be directed to make themselves available for investigation/trial, as and when asked by the Investigating Officer.

4. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, this court finds that FIR in question came to be lodged against the bail petitioners at the behest of Shri Shyam Bhatia, Inspector, Food, Civil Supplies and Consumer Affairs, Arki, Solan, who alleged that on 1.3.2017, fair price shop of the bail petitioner, Prem Chand was inspected by him, but the petitioner No.1, in whose favour fair price shop has been allotted, failed to make the record available. As per complainant, both the bail petitioners subsequently fabricated the record and also sold controlled essential items to the persons, other than the ration card holders. On the basis of aforesaid complaint having been made by the complainant, case under Ss. 3 and 7 of the Essential Commodities Act and Ss. 420, 468, 471 read with S.120B IPC came to be registered against the bail petitioners.

5. It is not in dispute that the investigation in the case is complete and nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner, as such, this Court sees no reason for the custodial interrogation of the bail petitioners, who otherwise also have made themselves available for investigation.

6. Otherwise also, guilt if any, of the petitioners is yet to be proved by the investigating agency in accordance with law, by leading cogent and convincing evidence, as such, their freedom cannot be curtailed for an indefinite period during trial. By now it is well settled that freedom of an individual is of utmost importance and same cannot be curtailed for an indefinite period, as such, this court sees no reason to keep the bail petitioners behind the bars for an indefinite period, especially for the reasons stated herein above. Both the petitioners are local residents of District Solan, and there is no likelihood of their fleeing from the justice.

7. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. It has further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "2. A fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. However, there are instances in our criminal law where a reverse onus has been placed on an accused with regard to some specific offences but that is another matter and does not detract from the fundamental postulate in respect of other offences. Yet another important facet of our criminal jurisprudence is that the grant of bail is the general rule and putting a person in jail or in a prison or in a correction home (whichever expression one may wish to use) is an exception. Unfortunately, some of these basic principles appear to have been lost sight of with the result that more and more persons are being incarcerated and for longer periods. This does not do any good to our criminal jurisprudence or to our society.

3. There is no doubt that the grant or denial of bail is entirely the discretion of the judge considering a case but even so, the exercise of judicial discretion has been circumscribed by a large number of decisions rendered by this Court and by every High Court in the country. Yet, occasionally there is a necessity to introspect whether denying bail to an accused person is the right thing to do on the facts and in the circumstances of a case.

4. While so introspecting, among the factors that need to be considered is whether the accused was arrested during investigations when that person perhaps has the best opportunity to tamper with the evidence or influence witnesses. If the investigating officer does not find it necessary to arrest an accused person during investigations, a strong case should be made out for placing that person in judicial custody after a charge sheet is filed. Similarly, it is important to ascertain whether the accused was participating in the investigations to the satisfaction of the investigating officer and was not absconding or not appearing when required by the investigating officer. Surely, if an accused is not hiding from the investigating officer or is hiding due to some genuine and expressed fear of being victimised, it would be a factor that a judge would need to consider in an appropriate case. It is also necessary for the judge to consider whether the accused is a first-time offender or has been accused of other offences and if so, the nature of such offences and his or her general conduct. The poverty or the deemed indigent status of an accused is also an extremely important factor and even Parliament has taken notice of it by incorporating an Explanation to Section 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. An equally soft approach to incarceration has been taken by Parliament by inserting Section 436A in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

5. To put it shortly, a humane attitude is required to be adopted by a judge, while dealing with an application for remanding a suspect or an accused person to police custody or judicial custody. There are several reasons for this including maintaining the dignity of an accused person, howsoever poor that person might be, the requirements of Article 21 of the Constitution and the fact that there is enormous overcrowding in prisons, leading to social and other problems as noticed by this Court in In Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons."

8. By now it is well settled that gravity alone cannot be a decisive ground to deny bail, rather competing factors are required to be balanced by the court while exercising its discretion. It has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sanjay Chandra versus Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 Supreme Court Cases 49; has been held as under:-

"The object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it can be required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The Courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that > punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty. Detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In India , it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the propose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson."

9. Needless to say object of the bail is to secure the attendance of the accused in the trial and the proper test to be applied in the solution of the question whether bail should be granted or refused is whether it is probable that the party will appear to take his trial. Otherwise also, normal rule is of bail and not jail. Apart from above, Court has to keep in mind nature of accusations, nature of evidence in support thereof, severity of the punishment, which conviction will entail, character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused involved in that crime.

10. In Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta versus CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "This Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 40, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has to be exercised with care and caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and that grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under-trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

11. The Apex Court in Prasanta Kumar Sarkar versus Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496, has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind, while deciding petition for bail:

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;

(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;

(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

12. In view of above, bail petitioners have carved out a case for themselves and as such, present petition is allowed. Order dated 1.5.2019 is made absolute subject to petitioners furnishing fresh bail bonds in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rs. One Lakh) each with one local surety in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned/trial court, besides the following conditions:

(a). They shall make themselves available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

(b). They shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

(c). They shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and (d). They shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

(e). They shall surrender passport, if any, held by them.

13. It is clarified that if the petitioners misuse the liberty or violate any of the conditions imposed upon them, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

14. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

State of H.P. …Appellant

Versus

Sh. Raj Kumar …Respondent

Cr. Appeal No. 301 of 2009
Decided on: June 20, 2019

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Section 3– Appreciation of evidence– Interested witness– Evidentiary value– Held, statements of interested witnesses cannot be brushed aside solely on ground of non-association of independent witnesses – But where complainant and accused parties are inimical, version put forth by interested witnesses cannot relied upon in absence of corroborative evidence.(Para 11)

Case referred:
C. Magesh and others vs. State of Karnataka, (2010) 5 SCC 645

For the appellant: Mr. Ashwani Sharma, Additional Advocate General.
For the respondent: Mr. Jyotirmay Bhatt, Advocate vice Mr. Avneesh Bhardwaj, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (oral)

Instant appeal having been filed by the appellant-State, lays challenge to the judgment dated 31.10.2008 passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Kinnaur District at Reckong Peo, HP in Police Challan No. 43-2 of 2006, whereby learned Court below held respondent-accused (hereinafter, 'accused'), not guilty of having committed offence punishable under Ss. 323, 451 and 506 IPC.

2. In nutshell, story of the prosecution as emerges from the record, is that on 22.6.2006, at about 7 am in Village Pangi, accused came to the roof of the house of Sartal Singh PW-1 (complainant) and gave beatings to him with Danda and at that time the accused was under the influence of liquor. Accused is stated to have caused injuries to the complainant, PW-1 on the thumb of his left hand. Matter was reported to the police. Police visited the spot and referred the injured for medical treatment. Investigation was completed and Challan presented in the competent Court of law for the commission of offences punishable under Ss. 323, 45 and 506 IPC. Learned trial Court, on being satisfied that prima facie case exists against the accused, charged him under the aforesaid provisions, to which the accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

3. Prosecution with a view to prove its case, examined as many as seven witnesses, whereas, accused in his statement recorded under S.313 CrPC denied the case of the prosecution in toto. However, accused did not lead any evidence in his defence. Learned trial Court, on the basis of evidence adduced on record by the prosecution, held that prosecution was not able to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt and accordingly acquitted him. In the aforesaid background, appellant-State has approached this Court in the instant proceedings praying therein for conviction of the accused after setting aside impugned judgment of acquittal.

4. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, vis-à-vis reasoning assigned by the learned trial Court in the impugned judgment of acquittal, this court finds no force in the arguments of Mr. Ashwani Sharma, learned Additional Advocate General that the learned Court below, while acquitting accused failed to appreciate the evidence in its right perspective, rather, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that the prosecution miserably failed to prove beyond reasonable doubt that on the day of alleged incident, accused gave beatings, if any, to the complainant, as a consequence of which, he suffered injuries.

5. PW-1 Sartal Singh deposed that on 22.6.2006 at about 7 am, accused under the influence of liquor, came to the roof of his house and gave beatings to him with Danda, causing injuries to the thumb of his left hand. On hearing his cries, Krishan Kumar, his brother and Byas Devi, came to the spot and saved him from the clutches of accused. In his cross-examination, he admitted that he and accused are brothers and there are 10-15 houses situate near the house of the complainant.

6. PW-2 Krishan Kumar and PW-3 Byas Devi, though supported the case of the complainant and stated in their examination-in-chief that the accused gave beatings to the complainant with Danda, but if cross-examination conducted on these witnesses is read juxtaposing each other, it certainly compels this Court to draw an inference that there are material contradictions and inconsistencies in their statements, as such, same could not be pressed into service by the learned Court below, while recording guilt, if any, of the accused.

7. PW-2 Krishan Kumar stated that on 21.6.2006, he was present in the house and on the next day at about 7 am, accused after coming to their roof called them “dogs” and “Thieves” and dared them to come out from the house and gave beatings with Danda to Sartal Singh. PW-3 Byas Devi stated that on hearing shouts of the accused Raj Kumar, they came out and saw that accused was giving beatings to her husband Sartal Singh. Complainant Sartal Singh and PW-2 Krishan Kumar are real brothers, who are living in common marriage with Byas Devi.

8. PW-4 Ashok Kumar is an independent witness, who was declared hostile by the prosecution. However, cross-examination conducted on this witness nowhere suggests that the prosecution was able to extract something advantageous to its case.

9. PW-5 Labh Chand stated that on 21.6.2006, he was called by Sartal Singh, who informed that the accused dismantled his house causing cracks in his house. He visited the house of Sartal Singh and noticed some cracks on the plaster of walls in the house. This witness further stated that the accused was not present on the spot. In his cross-examination, this witness admitted that the common wall of the house was found intact and no damage was caused to the house. Most importantly, this witness in cross-examination stated that parents of accused filed a case against Byas Devi (PW-3), who is common wife of Sartal Singh and Krishan Kumar.

10. PW-7, Dr. Rakesh Kumar medically examined the injured and found injuries on his person as per MLC Ext. PW-7/A. However, in his cross-examination, this witness admitted that the injuries mentioned in the MLC can be caused by fall.

11. It is not understood that when it has specifically come in the evidence especially in the statements of witnesses that there are 10-15 houses situate near the house of complainant, why prosecution failed to associate independent witnesses, more specifically when incident is of morning time i.e. 7 am. In the case at hand, all the material prosecution witnesses are related to each other as such, version put forth by them is required to be taken into consideration with utmost caution, while determining guilt, if any, of the accused. No doubt, statements, if any, made by interested witnesses cannot be brushed aside solely on the ground of non-association of independent witnesses, but, in the case at hand, where it stands duly proved that that the accused and complainant are inimical to each other and they are closely related also, version put forth by interested witnesses cannot be relied in the absence of any corroborative evidence, if any, led on record by the prosecution in the shape of independent witnesses. Leaving everything aside, statements of material prosecution witnesses clearly reveal that there are material contradictions and inconsistencies.

12. Close scrutiny of statements of the material prosecution witnesses compels this court to conclude that no reliance, if any, could be placed by the learned Court below on the statements made by prosecution witnesses, being contradictory and inconsistent with each other, as such, learned Court below rightly did not place reliance upon the same, while ascertaining guilt, if any, of the accused.

13. By now it is well settled that in a criminal trial evidence of eye-witnessrequires careful assessment and needs to be evaluated for its creditability. Hon'ble Apex Court has repeatedly held that since fundamental aspect of criminal jurisprudence rests upon well established principle that "no man is guilty until proved so", utmost caution is required to be exercised in dealing with the situation where there are multiple testimonies and equally large number of witnesses testifying before the Court. Most importantly, Hon'ble Apex Court has held that there must be a string that should join the evidence of all the witnesses thereby satisfying the test of consistency in evidence amongst all the witnesses. In nutshell, it can be said that evidence in criminal cases needs to be evaluated on the touchstone of consistency. In this regard, reliance is placed upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in C. Magesh and others versus State of Karnataka (2010) 5 Supreme Court Cases 645, wherein it has been held as under:-

> "45. It may be mentioned herein that in criminal jurisprudence, evidence has to be evaluated on the touchstone of consistency. Needless to emphasis, consistency is the keyword for upholding the conviction of an accused. In this regard it is to be noted that this Court in the case titled Surja Singh v. State of U.P. (2008)16 SCC 686: 2008(11) SCR 286 has held:-(SCC p.704, para 14)
> > "14. The evidence must be tested for its inherent consistency and the inherent probability of the story; consistency with the account of other witness is held to be creditworthy; ..the probative value of such evidence becomes eligible to be put into the scales for a cumulative evaluation."
> In a criminal trial, evidence of the eye witness requires a careful assessment and must be evaluated for its creditability. Since the fundamental aspect of criminal jurisprudence rests upon the stated principle that " no man is guilty until proven so," hence utmost caution is required to be exercised in dealing with situation where there are multiple testimonies and equally large number of witnesses testifying before the Court. There must be a string that should join the evidence of all the witnesses and thereby satisfying the test of consistence in evidence amongst all the witnesses."

14. Though, the medical evidence led on record by the prosecution, suggests that the complainant suffered injury on his thumb but there is no positive evidence adduced on record by the prosecution to connect accused with the alleged beatings, if any, given on the person of the complainant, as such, mere placing of MLC Ext. PW-7/A may not be sufficient to prove the guilt of the accused.

15. This Court also finds that all the witnesses associated by the Police in support of its case are interested witnesses, as such, version put forth by the complainant and prosecution witnesses is required to be scrutinized with utmost care and the same cannot be made basis for conviction especially when no cogent and convincing evidence has been led on record in support of the versions put forth by the complainant and other prosecution witnesses, most of whom are interested witnesses.

16. In view of above, this Court finds no reason to interfere with judgment passed by the learned trial Court, which is accordingly upheld. In result, appeal fails and is accordingly dismissed. Bail bonds furnished by accused are discharged. Pending applications, if any, are disposed of.

State of Punjab vs. Saurabh Bakshi, 2015 (5) SCC 182

For the appellant: Mr. Ashwani Sharma, Additional Advocate General.

For the respondent: Mr. G.R. Palsra, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (oral)

Instant criminal appeal having been filed by the appellant-State, lays challenge to the judgment dated 31.3.2009 passed by learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No. 2, Palampur, District Kangra, Himachal Pradesh in Criminal Case No. 366-11/2004/2002, whereby learned Court below held respondent-accused (hereinafter, 'accused'), not guilty of having committed offences punishable under Ss. 279 and 304-A IPC and Ss. 191, 192-A and 196 of the Motor Vehicles Act and accordingly acquitted him.

2. In nutshell, case of the prosecution as emerges from the record is that on 31.1.1999, at about 3.45 pm, at place 78 Miles (Aberi), accused was driving truck bearing registration No. HPK-1073. It is alleged that on the date of alleged accident, complainant Manoj Kumar alongwith his cousin Satish Kumar was going to Aberi to purchase vegetables. It is alleged that the accused was driving the vehicle in question on public way in a rash and negligent manner and hit the same against Satish Kumar, who came beneath the front tyre of the vehicle. Statement of PW-5 Manoj Kumar (complainant)(Ext. PW-5/A) was got recorded and on the basis of same, FIR (Ext. PW-1/A) was registered under the aforesaid provisions of law at Police Station Palampur. After completion of investigation, Police presented Challan in the court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class-II, Palampur, District Kangra, Himachal Pradesh, who, being satisfied that prima facie case exists against the accused, served notice of accusation upon him for the commission of aforesaid offences, to which the accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

3. Prosecution, with a view to prove its case against the accused, examined as many as eight witnesses, whereas, accused in his statement recorded under S.313 CrPC, denied the case of the prosecution in toto and claimed that at the time of alleged incident, he was not driving the truck in question and he has been falsely implicated. However, the fact remains that he did not lead any evidence in his defence.

4. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, this court finds no illegality, infirmity or irregularity in the impugned judgment of acquittal passed by learned trial Court, because, admittedly, in the case at hand, prosecution has not been able to prove beyond reasonable doubt that on the date of alleged incident, accused was driving the truck in question. Apart from above, it clearly emerges from the record that the Investigating Officer, PW-7, never conducted identification parade, if any, after lodging of complaint and it is only during trial that the complainant PW-5 Manoj Kumar as well as PW-3 Ashwani Kumar identified the accused in the court. Apart from above, there is no specific evidence led on record with regard to rash and negligent driving on the part of accused, who at the time of alleged incident, was allegedly driving the offending vehicle.

5. PW-5 Manoj Kumar, deposed that he alongwith deceased was going to Aberi to purchase vegetables on 31.1.1999. He deposed that the offending vehicle came in a high speed from Aberi side and truck driver suddenly turned the truck. He deposed that on seeing truck, he jumped for his safety but his cousin was run over by front tyre of the truck. He stated that truck was being driven by accused, who was present in the court and accused as well as cleaner fled away from the spot. He further deposed that the people gathered on the spot and pulled Satish Kumar out. In his cross-examination, this witness admitted that the Police did not get the identification parade conducted from him and further admitted that he identified the accused in the court, as he thought that he would be the driver. He further admitted that he had not got written the name of the truck driver in his statement, Ext. PW-5/A. This witness also admitted that he had not given any statement to the Police that he identified the driver and could recognize him.

6. PW-3 Ashwani Kumar was working at 78 Miles on the relevant date and time. This witness deposed that his younger brother as well as deceased Satish Kumar were walking on the side of the road. He deposed that the offending truck struck against wall and then front tyre of the truck ran over deceased Satish Kumar. He stated that he pulled out Satish Kumar from beneath the truck and took him to the hospital, where he died. This witness stated that the accident occurred on account of rash and negligent driving on the part of accused. It has also come in his evidence that accused is driver of the truck. In his cross-examination, he admitted that he did not witness the accident himself, rather he was told by PW-5 Manoj Kumar that driver of the truck had fled away.

7. PW-4 Randhir Singh runs a shop at 78 Miles. This witness deposed that on the relevant date, time and place, truck bearing registration No. HPK-1073 came from Baijnath side and suddenly turned towards right side and struck with the wall on the right side. He deposed that one boy was shouting that his brother had come beneath the truck. He also deposed that the truck driver and cleaner fled away from the spot.

8 PW-8, Dulo Ram is the owner of the offending truck. This witness deposed that he had given papers of the truck to the Police. He further deposed that he had employed one driver, who was from Nurpur and his name was Jai Mal son of Mangat Ram. He stated that the log book was taken at that time by the Police. He stated that he does not know the accused. This witness deposed that on the day of accident, Jai Mal son of Mangat Ram, resident of Nurpur was the driver, who was employed only 3-4 months back. During cross-examination he admitted that the document, Ext. PW-8/A was not written by him nor number of vehicle was written on the same.

9. PW-7 HC Nardev Singh is the Investigating Officer. He deposed that on 31.1.1999, he got recorded statement of complainant, PW-5 Manoj Kumar under S.154 CrPC, on the basis of which formal FIR, Ext. PW-1/A came to be registered. He stated that it has come in the investigation that accident took place due to rash and negligent driving on the part of the accused. In his cross-examination, this witness admitted that Manoj Kumar had not disclosed anything regarding identity of the truck driver.

10. Thus, the statements having been made by material prosecution witnesses, if read in entirety, certainly compel this court to draw an inference that there are material contradictions and inconsistencies, as such, not much reliance could be placed upon the same by the learned trial Court, while ascertaining guilt, if any of the accused. If statement of PW-5, complainant, is read juxtaposing statements of other prosecution witnesses, it completely demolishes the case of prosecution, because, it has nowhere come in the statement of PW-5 that, on first instance, truck driver or accused struck the vehicle against the wall, rather, this witness deposed that truck from Aberi side came in high speed and he, after seeing truck, jumped for safety, whereas Satish Kumar was run over by the offending truck. On the other hand, PW-3 Ashwani Kumar and PW-4 Randhir Singh have stated that, at the first instance, truck struck against wall. Similarly, if statements of these witnesses are read, they certainly suggest that no identification parade was ever got conducted by the Investigating Officer, after lodging of the FIR. Similarly, statement of PW-5 itself suggests that he, at no point of time, disclosed the particulars, if any, with regard to identify of the accused. This witness categorically admitted in his cross-examination that no identification parade was got conducted by the Investigating Officer and he identified the accused in the court only, after four months.

11. Version of PW-3 otherwise could not be taken into consideration because as per own statement of the aforesaid witness, accident did not take place in his presence, rather, he was told by PW-5 Manoj Kumar that the truck being driven by accused had crushed deceased Satish Kumar, whereafter, both, truck driver and cleaner fled away. Interestingly, in the case at hand, record reveals that after the alleged accident, Police got vehicle mechanically examined from the mechanic, who reported that there was no defect in the vehicle, but this person was never examined as a witness by the prosecution.

12. PW-7, Investigating Officer, in his statement admitted that PW-5 Manoj Kumar did not give statement with regard to identity of the accused. PW-5 Manoj Kumar, in his cross-examination categorically denied the suggestion put to him that he was deposing falsely in the court to the effect that the accused was the driver of the vehicle, but it stands duly proved on record that after lodging of complaint, no identification parade was got conducted, rather, for the first time, PW-5 identified the accused in the court. It has specifically come in the cross-examination of the PW-5 that he did not disclose the age, height and colour etc. of the driver of the vehicle. Prosecution has placed strong reliance upon Ext. PW-8/A, abstract of log book, which contains signatures of Jai Chand, but careful perusal of same depicts that it is upto 20.7.1998, whereas, accident had taken place on 31.1.1999, as such, no reliance could be placed upon the same to determine the guilt, if any, of the accused.

13. PW-8 Dulo Ram in his statement stated that he had employed one driver, who was from Nurpur and his name was Jai Mal son of Mangat Ram. It has come in his statement that on the date of alleged incident, Jai Mal son of Mangat Ram resident of Nurpur was driver in the aforesaid vehicle.

14. Though, the omission on the part of Investigating Officer to conduct identification parade of accused immediately after alleged accident is sufficient to conclude that the prosecution was unable to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused, but even otherwise, there is no specific evidence led on record by investigating agency that on the date of alleged accident, offending vehicle was being driven in a rash and negligent manner by the accused. Mere statements, if any, of prosecution witnesses are not sufficient to conclude rash and negligent driving on the part of accused, rather prosecution in this regard was under obligation to prove rash and negligent driving by leading specific evidence in this regard. Needless to say, rashness/negligence cannot be presumed rather onus in this regard is heavy upon the prosecution.

15. By now, it is well settled that specific evidence is required to be adduced on record by the prosecution to prove rash and negligent driving, if any, on the part of the accused. Mere allegations are not sufficient to hold accused guilty of having committed offence punishable under Section 279 IPC.

16. In the instant case, this Court was unable to lay its hand to specific evidence, if any, led on record by the prosecution suggestive of the fact that the vehicle at that relevant time was being driven rashly and negligently that too at high speed. In this regard, reliance is placed on judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Braham Dass v. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 406, which reads as under:

> "6. In support of the appeal, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that there was no evidence on record to show any negligence. It has not been brought on record as to how the accused appellant was negligent in any way. On the contrary what has been stated is that one person had gone to the roof top and driver started the vehicle while he was there. There was no evidence to show that the driver had knowledge that any passenger was on the roof top of the bus. Learned counsel for the respondent on the other hand submitted that PW1 had stated that the conductor had told the driver that one passenger was still on the roof of the bus and the driver started the bus.
> 8. Section 279 deals with rash driving or riding on a public way. A bare reading of the provision makes it clear that it must be established that the accused was driving any vehicle on a public way in a manner which endangered human life or was likely to cause hurt or injury to any other person. Obviously the foundation in accusations under Section 279IPC is not negligence. Similarly in Section 304 A the stress is on causing death by negligence or rashness. Therefore, for bringing in application of either Section 279 or 304 A it must be established that there was an element of rashness or negligence. Even if the prosecution version is accepted in toto, there was no evidence led to show that any negligence was involved."

17. The Hon'ble Apex Court in case titled State of Karnataka v. Satish, 1998 (8) SCC 493, has also observed as under:

"1. Truck No. MYE3236 being driven by the respondent turned turtle while crossing a "nalla" on 25111982 at about 8.30 a.m. The accident resulted in the death of 15 persons and receipt of injuries by about 18 persons, who were travelling in the fully loaded truck. The respondent was chargesheeted and tried. The learned trial court held that the respondent drove the vehicle at a high speed and it was on that account that the accident took place. The respondent was convicted for offences under Sections 279, 337, 338and 304A IPC and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment. The respondent challenged his conviction and sentence before the Second Additional Sessions Judge, Belgaum. While the conviction and sentence imposed upon the respondent for the offence under Section 279 IPC was set aside, the appellate court confirmed the conviction and sentenced the respondent for offences under Sections 304A, 337 and 338 IPC. On a criminal revision petition being filed by the respondent before the High Court of Karnataka, the conviction and sentence of the respondent for all the offences were set aside and the respondent was acquitted. This appeal by special leave is directed against the said judgment of acquittal passed by the High Court of Karnataka.

2. We have examined the record and heard learned counsel for the parties.

3. Both the trial court and the appellate court held the respondent guilty for offences under Sections 337, 338 and 304A IPC after recording a finding that the respondent was driving the truck at a "high speed". No specific finding has been recorded either by the trial court or by the first appellate court to the effect that the respondent was driving the truck either negligently or rashly. After holding that the respondent was driving the truck at a "high speed", both the courts pressed into aid the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur to hold the respondent guilty.

4. Merely because the truck was being driven at a "high speed" does not bespeak of either "negligence" or "rashness" by itself. None of the witnesses examined by the prosecution could give any indication, even approximately, as to what they meant by "high speed". "High speed" is a relative term. It was for the prosecution to bring on record material to establish as to what it meant by "high speed" in the facts and circumstances of the case. In a criminal trial, the burden of providing everything essential to the establishment of the charge against an accused always rests on the prosecution and there is a presumption of innocence in favour of the accused until the contrary is proved. Criminality is not to be presumed, subject of course to some statutory exceptions. There is no such statutory exception pleaded in the present case. In the absence of any material on the record, no presumption of "rashness" or "negligence" could be drawn by invoking the maxim "res ipsa loquitur". There is evidence to show that > immediately before the truck turned turtle, there was a big jerk. It is not explained as to whether the jerk was because of the uneven road or mechanical failure. The Motor Vehicle Inspector who inspected the vehicle had submitted his report. That report is not forthcoming from the record and the Inspector was not examined for reasons best known to the prosecution. This is a serious infirmity and lacuna in the prosecution case.

> 5. There being no evidence on the record to establish "negligence" or "rashness" in driving the truck on the part of the respondent, it cannot be said that the view taken by the High Court in acquitting the respondent is a perverse view. To us it appears that the view of the High Court, in the facts and circumstances of this case, is a reasonably possible view. We, therefore, do not find any reason to interfere with the order of acquittal. The appeal fails and is dismissed. The respondent is on bail. His bail bonds shall stand discharged. Appeal dismissed."

18. Careful perusal of aforesaid judgment clearly suggests that there cannot be any presumption of rashness or negligence, rather, onus is always upon the prosecution to prove beyond reasonable doubt that vehicle in question was being driven rashly and negligently. In the aforesaid judgment, it has been specifically held that in the absence of any material on record, no presumption of rashness or negligence can be drawn by invoking maxim res ipsa loquitur.

19. Reliance is also placed on judgment this Court in State of H.P. Vs. Manpreet Singh, 2008 (HP) 538, relevant para whereof is as under:

> "4. Legally, in a case of rash and negligent act, if the prosecution is able to prove the essential ingredients of the offence, the onus to disprove it shifts upon the respondent to show that he had taken due care and caution to avoid the accident. It is an admitted fact that said Shri Daya Ram had died in the accident caused by the respondent but still it is incumbent upon the prosecution to prove that it was the rash and negligent act of driving to conclude the rash and negligent driving of the respondent. In other words, it must be proved that the rash or negligent act of the accused was causa causans and not causa sin qua non (cause of the proximate cause). There must be some nexus between the death of a person with rash or negligent act ofthe accused. According to Rupinder Parkash (PW4) deceased was hit by the motor cycle which was in a high speed but the speed is not criteria to hold the act as rash or negligent. The respondent in his statement under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure has explained that on seeing the deceased, he had blown the horn and he (deceased) stopped on the road. As soon as he reached near him, he immediately tried to cross the road and got hit. His version has been duly corroborated by Hardeep Singh (DW1) who was a pillion rider with him. Ajay Kumar (PW1) has admitted this version that the respondent had blown the horn and Daya Ram on hearing it, had stopped for a while. In these circumstances, if a person suddenly crosses the road, without taking note of the approaching vehicle and its driver may not be in a position to save the accident, it will not be possible to hold the Driver guilty of the offence. In the instant case, the deceased knowing fully well at least the approaching vehicle stopped on hearing the horn while crossing the road but when the motor cycle reached near him, he darted before it and the > accident took place. Thus in my opinion the prosecution could not prove the offence charged against the respondent beyond reasonable doubt that the respondent was driving the vehicle rashly or negligently. Therefore, in these circumstances, the learned trial Court had rightly acquitted the respondent of the charges framed against him. As such, no interference in the impugned judgment of acquittal is called for. Accordingly the appeal is dismissed. The respondent is discharged of his bail bounds entered upon by him at any stage of the trial."

20. This Court is also fully conscious of judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Punjab versus Saurabh Bakshi 2015 (5) SCC 182, wherein it has been held that no leniency should be shown to reckless drivers. The Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as follows:-

> "25. Before parting with the case we are compelled to observe that India has a disreputable record of road accidents. There is a nonchalant attitude among the drivers. They feel that they are the "Emperors of all they survey". Drunkenness contributes to careless driving where the other people become their prey. The poor feel that their lives are not safe, the pedestrians think of uncertainty and the civilized persons drive in constant fear but still apprehensive about the obnoxious attitude of the people who project themselves as "larger than life". In such obtaining circumstances, we are bound to observe that the law-makers should scrutinize, relook and revisit the sentencing policy in Section 304-A IPC, so with immense anguish."

21. There cannot be any disagreement with the concern expressed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment with regard to carelessness /recklessness of the drivers especially under the influence of alcohol. But in the instant case, as has been discussed above, prosecution was not able to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the ill fated vehicle was being driven by accused rashly and negligently, rather, version put forth by prosecution appears to be untrustworthy in view of material contradictions in the statements of the alleged eye witnesses, and as such, this Court sees no application of aforesaid law laid down by the Apex Court in the instant case.

22. This court in State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Dilwar Singh 2017(3) Him. L.R. 1938, has held as under:

> "11. After having carefully perused statements of PW-4 and PW-7, conclusion can be safely drawn by this Court that even PW-6 and PW-8, had no occasion to witness the accident with their eyes, rather, they came at the spot after noise made by PW-7. It is not understood when PW-6 and PW-8 had not witnessed the accident, with their eyes, how they could chase offending vehicle allegedly being driven by respondent, because, at the relevant time, none of the prosecution witnesses have stated that they had disclosed registration number of offending vehicle to PW-6 and PW-8. Even PW-1 and PW-5 nowhere stated that PW-6 and PW-8 were informed by them with regard to accident especially about registration number of offending vehicle, as such, story put forth by the prosecution does not appear to be trustworthy.
> 12. At the cost of repetition, it may be stated that it has nowhere come in the statement of any of the prosecution witnesses, who had an occasion to see the accident with their eyes, that immediately after accident, they informed PW-6 and PW-8 with regard to registration number of offending vehicle as well as accused, as such, story of accused being apprehended by PW-6 and PW-8, is not worth lending any credence, because, admittedly, they had no prior knowledge with regard to involvement of offending vehicle as well as accused in the accident.

13. Leaving everything aside, this Court was unable to find anything in the statements of prosecution witnesses, from where it could be inferred that vehicle was being driven rashly and negligently that too at high speed, by the respondent, as such, this Court sees substantial force in the defence taken by the accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 CrPC that he had not struck vehicle against Shri Milkhi Ram and Kurpal Ram.

14. Evidence discussed herein above is sufficient to hold that in given facts and circumstances, two views are possible in the present case and as such present, accused is entitled to the benefit of doubt. In the present case, prosecution story does not appear to be plausible/ trustworthy and as such same cannot be relied upon. In this regard, I may refer to the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in State of UP versus Ghambhir Singh, AIR 2005 (92) SCC 2440, where Hon'ble Apex Court has held that if on the same evidence, two views are reasonably possible, the one in favour of the accused must be preferred. The relevant paragraph is reproduced as under:-

> "6. So far as Hori Lal, PW-1 is concerned, he had been sent to fetch a basket from the village and it was only a matter of coincidence that while he was returning he witnessed the entire incident. The High Court did not consider it safe to rely on his testimony because he evidence clearly shows that he had an animus against the appellants. Moreover, he evidence was not corroborated by objective circumstances. Though it was his categorical case that all of them fired, no injury caused by rifle was found, and, only two wounds were found on the person of the deceased. Apart from this PW-3 did not mention the presence of either PW-1 or PW-2 at the time of occurrence. All these circumstances do create doubt about the truthfulness of the prosecution case. The presence of these three witnesses becomes doubtful if their evidence is critically scrutinized. May be it is also possible to take a view in favour of the prosecution, but since the High Court, on an appreciation of the evidence on record, has recorded a finding in favour of the accused, we do not feel persuaded to interfere with the order of the High Court in an appeal against acquittal. It is well settled that if on the same evidence two views are reasonably possible, the one in favour of the accused must be preferred.""

23. Thus, in view of the above judgment, if on the same evidence two views are reasonably possible, the one in favour of the accused must be preferred. In the case at hand, when identity of the accused as driver of the offending vehicle at the time of accident has not been established, he deserves to be extended benefit of doubt.

24. Close scrutiny of statements of the material prosecution witnesses compels this court to conclude that no reliance, if any, could be placed by the learned Court below on the statements made by prosecution witnesses, being contradictory and inconsistent with each other, as such, learned Court below rightly did not place reliance upon the same, while ascertaining guilt, if any, of the accused.

25. By now it is well settled that in a criminal trial evidence of eye-witnessrequires careful assessment and needs to be evaluated for its creditability. Hon'ble Apex Court has repeatedly held that since fundamental aspect of criminal jurisprudence rests upon well established principle that "no man is guilty until proved so", utmost caution is required to be exercised in dealing with the situation where there are multiple testimonies and equally large number of witnesses testifying before the Court. Most importantly, Hon'ble Apex Court has held that there must be a string that should join the evidence of all the witnesses thereby satisfying the test of consistency in evidence amongst all the witnesses. In nutshell, it can be said that evidence in criminal cases needs to be evaluated on the touchstone of consistency. In this regard, reliance is placed upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in C. Magesh and others versus State of Karnataka (2010) 5 Supreme Court Cases 645, wherein it has been held as under:-

> "45. It may be mentioned herein that in criminal jurisprudence, evidence has to be evaluated on the touchstone of consistency. Needless to emphasis, consistency is the keyword for upholding the conviction of an accused. In this regard it is to be noted that this Court in the case titled Surja Singh v. State of U.P. (2008)16 SCC 686: 2008(11) SCR 286 has held:-(SCC p.704, para 14)
>> "14. The evidence must be tested for its inherent consistency and the inherent probability of the story; consistency with the account of other witness is held to be creditworthy; ..the probative value of such evidence becomes eligible to be put into the scales for a cumulative evaluation."
> In a criminal trial, evidence of the eye witness requires a careful assessment and must be evaluated for its creditability. Since the fundamental aspect of criminal jurisprudence rests upon the stated principle that " no man is guilty until proven so," hence utmost caution is required to be exercised in dealing with situation where there are multiple testimonies and equally large number of witnesses testifying before the Court. There must be a string that should join the evidence of all the witnesses and thereby satisfying the test of consistence in evidence amongst all the witnesses."

26. This Court also finds that all the witnesses associated by the Police in support of its case are interested witnesses, as such, version put forth by the complainant and prosecution witnesses is required to be scrutinized with utmost care and the same cannot be made basis for conviction especially when no cogent and convincing evidence has been led on record in support of the versions put forth by the complainant and other prosecution witnesses, most of whom are interested witnesses.

27. In view of above, this Court finds no reason to interfere with judgment passed by the learned trial Court, which is accordingly upheld. In result, appeal fails and is accordingly dismissed. Bail bonds furnished by accused are discharged. Pending applications, if any, are disposed of.

State of Himachal Pradesh …Respondent

Decided on June 24, 2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439–Regular bail– Grant of- Rape case– Held, object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative – Freedom of individual cannot be curtailed for an indefinite period– Gravity of offence alone cannot be a decisive ground to deny bail– Rather competing factors are required to be balanced- Accused 70 years old father in law of prosecutrix– No reason given for delayed filing of FIR– Nothing incriminatory material is to be recovered from him –Petition allowed– Bail granted. (Paras 5, 6 & 8)

Cases referred:
Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta vs. CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218
Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another, (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs.Central Bureau of Investigation, (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner	Mr. Ajay Kochar, Mr. Karan Singh Kanwar and Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocates.
For the respondent	Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General. ASI Manoj Kumar, I/O Women Police Station, Nahan, District Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

Sequel to order dated 10.6.2019, ASI Manoj Kumar, has come present with the record. Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, learned Additional Advocate General has also placed on record status report prepared by the investigating agency on the basis of investigation carried out by it. Record perused and returned.

2. Close scrutiny of the record/status report reveals that on 17.5.2019, victim-prosecutrix (name not disclosed), lodged a complaint at Women Police Station, Nahan alleging therein that her marriage was solemnised with the person namely Satnam Singh, in the year 2012. She further alleged that prior to her marriage, it was never disclosed that her husband was a drug addict. In the year 2014, one daughter was born from their wedlock. She alleged that prior to the birth of the daughter, bail petitioner, who happened to be her father-in-law, used to behave in an indecent manner and on one day, he touched her breasts and waist. Allegedly, in the year 2017, when husband of the victim-prosecutrix had gone to Chandigarh for some treatment, bail petitioner sexually assaulted her against her wishes. Bail petitioner, allegedly threatened the victim-prosecutrix with dire consequences in case she revealed anything with regard to aforesaid incident to any of the family members. Victim-prosecutrix further alleged in the complaint that after aforesaid incident, bail petitioner used to sexually assault her against her wishes as and when she was found alone at her residence. Allegedly in March, 2019, bail petitioner, at place Bhup Pur, again sexually assaulted the victim-prosecutrix against her wishes. She further alleged that on 18.4.2019, she was thrown out with her daughter from her matrimonial house by the bail petitioner and other family members. On the basis of aforesaid complaint having been made by the victim-prosecutrix, a formal FIR, i.e. FIR No. 19, dated 17.5.2019 came to be lodged against the bail petitioner under Ss.376, 506 and 406 IPC with the Women Police Station, Nahan, District Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh. Since 19.5.2019, bail petitioner is behind the bars.

3. Mr. Ajay Kochar, learned counsel for the bail petitioner, while referring to the record/status report vehemently argued that no case, much less a case under Ss.376, 506 and 406 IPC is made out against the bail petitioner, who is 70 years old. While referring to the initial complaint as well as statement made by victim-prosecutrix under S.154 CrPC, Mr. Kochar made a serious attempt to persuade this court to agree with his contention that since there is no plausible explanation rendered on record with regard to delay in lodging FIR, not much reliance could be placed upon the statement of victim-prosecutrix, who in fact, has concocted entire story with a view to grab the property. He further contended that since the factum with regard to illicit relationship of victim-prosecutrix with a person namely Manpreet, came to the fore, victim-prosecutrix has falsely implicated the bail petitioner. Lastly, Mr. Kochar contended that since the investigation in the case is complete and nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner, bail petitioner deserves to be enlarged on bail.

4. Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, learned Additional Advocate General, while fairly acknowledging the factum with regard to completion of investigation, contended that keeping in view the gravity of the offence alleged to have been committed by the bail petitioner, he does not deserve to be enlarged on bail. Mr. Bhatnagar, learned Additional Advocate General further contended that though there is some delay in lodging FIR, but this court cannot lose sight of the fact that being a lady, it is always difficult to make such allegations public. He further contended that in the event of petitioner being enlarged on bail, there is every possibility of his influencing the witnesses and tampering the evidence and as such, prayer made in the instant application may be rejected.

5. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record/status report, this court finds that allegedly the victim-prosecutrix was thrown out of her matrimonial house on 18.4.2019, but, interestingly, the FIR in question came to be lodged on 17.5.2019 i.e. after one month and there is no plausible explanation rendered on record for the delay. Leaving everything aside, allegations contained in the complaint suggest that first incidence of sexual assault allegedly occurred in the year 2017, but, it is not understood that why the victim-prosecutrix kept mum for almost two years because, there is nothing on record that during this period, victim-prosecutrix made any attempt to lodge complaint, if any, with the police or her relatives. Version put forth by the victim-prosecutrix that her husband despite having known aforesaid fact, failed to act, appears to be highly improbable. As per victim-prosecutrix, bail petitioner sexually assaulted her against her wishes a number of times in the year 2017 and thereafter in March, 2019, but as has been taken note here-in-above, victim-prosecutrix, who is a married lady having one daughter, cannot be expected to remain silent for such a considerable time. Bail petitioner is 70 years of age. Son of the bail petitioner, who happens to be husband of the victim-prosecutrix, is present in the court. He has refuted all the allegations made by the victim-prosecutrix.

6. Though aforesaid aspect of the matter is to be considered by the learned trial Court in the totality of the evidence collected on record by prosecution, but having perused record, coupled with the conduct of the victim-prosecutrix, this court sees no reason to let the bail petitioner incarcerate in jail, for an indefinite period during trial. Guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner is yet to be proved in accordance with law by the prosecution, as such, it would not be appropriate to curtail the freedom of bail petitioner for an indefinite period, especially when nothing remains to be recovered from him. Apprehension expressed by learned Additional Advocate General that in event of bail petitioner being enlarged, he may tamper with the evidence, can be best met by putting bail petitioner to stringent conditions, as has been fairly admitted by learned counsel for the bail petitioner.

7. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. It has further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "2. A fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. However, there are instances in our criminal law where a reverse onus has been placed on an accused with regard to some specific offences but that is another matter and does not detract from the fundamental postulate in respect of other offences. Yet another important facet of our criminal jurisprudence is that the grant of bail is the general rule and putting a person in jail or in a prison or in a correction home (whichever expression one may wish to use) is an exception. Unfortunately, some of these basic principles appear to have been lost sight of with the result that more and more persons are being incarcerated and for longer periods. This does not do any good to our criminal jurisprudence or to our society.
> 3. There is no doubt that the grant or denial of bail is entirely the discretion of the judge considering a case but even so, the exercise of judicial discretion has been circumscribed by a large number of decisions rendered by this Court and by every High Court in the country. Yet, occasionally there is a necessity to introspect whether denying bail to an accused person is the right thing to do on the facts and in the circumstances of a case.
>
> 4. While so introspecting, among the factors that need to be considered is whether the accused was arrested during investigations when that person perhaps has the best opportunity to tamper with the evidence or influence witnesses. If the investigating officer does not find it necessary to arrest an accused person during investigations, a strong case should be made out for placing that person in judicial custody after a charge sheet is filed. Similarly, it is important to ascertain whether the accused was participating in the investigations to the satisfaction of the investigating officer and was not absconding or not appearing when required by the investigating officer. Surely, if an accused is not hiding from the investigating officer or is hiding due to some genuine and expressed fear of being victimised, it would be a factor that a judge would need to consider in an appropriate case. It is also necessary for the judge to consider whether the accused is a first-time offender or has been accused of other offences and if so, the nature of such offences and his or her general conduct. The poverty or the deemed indigent status of an accused is also an extremely important factor and even Parliament has taken notice of it by incorporating an Explanation to Section 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. An equally soft approach to incarceration has been taken by Parliament by inserting Section 436A in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.
> 5. To put it shortly, a humane attitude is required to be adopted by a judge, while dealing with an application for remanding a suspect or an accused person to police custody or judicial custody. There are several reasons for > this including maintaining the dignity of an accused person, howsoever poor that person might be, the requirements of Article 21 of the Constitution and the fact that there is enormous overcrowding in prisons, leading to social and other problems as noticed by this Court in In Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons."

8. By now it is well settled that gravity alone cannot be a decisive ground to deny bail, rather competing factors are required to be balanced by the court while exercising its discretion. It has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sanjay Chandra versus Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 Supreme Court Cases 49; has been held as under:-

> "The object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it can be required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The Courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty. Detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In India , it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the propose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson."

9. Needless to say object of the bail is to secure the attendance of the accused in the trial and the proper test to be applied in the solution of the question whether bail should be granted or refused is whether it is probable that the party will appear to take his trial. Otherwise also, normal rule is of bail and not jail. Apart from above, Court has to keep in mind nature of accusations, nature of evidence in support thereof, severity of the punishment, which conviction will entail, character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused involved in that crime.

10. In Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta versus CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "This Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 40, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has to be exercised with care and caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and that grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under-trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

11. The Apex Court in Prasanta Kumar Sarkar versus Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496, has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind, while deciding petition for bail:

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;

(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;

(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

12. In view of above, bail petitioner has carved out a case for himself and as such, present petition is allowed. Bail petitioner is ordered to be enlarged on bail, subject to his furnishing bail bonds in the sum of Rs.2,00,000/- (Rs. Two Lakh) with one local surety in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned/trial court, besides the following conditions:

(a) He shall make himself available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

(b) He shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

(c) He shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and

(d) He shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

(e) He shall surrender passport, if any, held by him.

13. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses the liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

14. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

Copy dasti.

For the petitioner: Mr.Deepak Kaushal, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.
ASI Hardev Singh, I/O, Police Station Majra, Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

Sequel to order dated 18.6.2019, whereby the bail petitioner was ordered to be enlarged on bail, in the event of his arrest in FIR No. 80 of 2019, dated 13.6.2019, under Ss. 379 and 34 IPC and Ss. 41 and 42 of the Indian Forest Act, registered at Police Station, Majra, Tehsil Paonta Sahib, District Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh, ASI Hardev Singh has come present with the record. Mr. Sanjeev Sood, learned Additional Advocate General has also placed on record status report prepared by the investigating agency on the basis of investigation carried out by it. Record perused and returned.

2. Perusal of the record reveals that on 12.6.2019, Police after having received a secret information, apprehended truck bearing registration No. HP 71-1431 carrying Khair wood from Dhaula Kuan to Paonta. Driver of the truck though made an attempt to flee from the spot, but he was apprehended by the Police officials and subsequently, he disclosed his name as Ram Pal. Since driver and other occupants of the truck in question failed to produce a valid permit for carrying the Khair wood, Police took into possession the truck as well as Khair wood loaded in the same. After informing Forest Department, Police registered a case under Ss. 379 and 34 IPC and Ss. 41 and 42 of the Indian Forest Act at Police Station Majra, District Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh. Since driver and other occupants of truck during investigation disclosed that the Khair wood being transported in the vehicle was purchased from the bail petitioner, who is a government contractor, his name was included in the FIR.

3. Mr. Sanjeev Sood, learned Additional Advocate General, while fairly admitting that the petitioner has joined the investigation in terms of order dated 18..6.2019, contended that though the investigation in the case is complete and nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner but taking note of the previous record of the bail petitioner, there is every likelihood of the bail petitioner fleeing from justice or tampering with the evidence in the event of his being enlarged on bail, as such, prayer for grant of bail may be rejected. Mr. Sood, learned Additional Advocate General further contended that though no recovery is to be effected from the bail petitioner, but till date, demarcation of the land from where wood has been extracted, is yet to be carried out.

4. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, this court finds that the bail petitioner never came to be apprehended by the Police with the Khair wood being transported by other co-accused in Truck bearing registration No. HP-71-1431 and it is only on the statements of the persons apprehended on the spot to the effect that they have brought this Khair wood from the Depot being run by the bail petitioner, name of bail petitioner also came to be included in the FIR as an accused. Though, the case of the investigating agency is that the timber allegedly recovered from the vehicle in question belongs to bail petitioner and same has been cut from government land/forest, but interestingly, this Court was unable to lay its hand to any document placed on record with regard to alleged cutting of Khair wood, if any, from the Government/forest land. Demarcation is yet to be carried out by the investigating agency to establish on record that the Khair wood allegedly being smuggled in the vehicle in question was cut from the Government land/forest. Though aforesaid aspects of the matter are to be considered and decided by the learned trial Court in the totality of evidence collected on record by the investigating agency but, having taken note of the fact that bail petitioner has already joined the investigation and nothing is required to be recovered from him, this court sees no reason for his custodial interrogation. Though, in the status report, it has been stated that the bail petitioner had been indulging in such activities in the past also, but guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner in those cases is yet to be established and as such, mere pendency of case, if any, cannot be a ground at this stage for non-grant of bail.

5. Guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner is yet to be proved in accordance with law by the prosecution, as such, it would not be appropriate to curtail the freedom of bail petitioner for an indefinite period, especially when nothing remains to be recovered from him. Apprehension expressed by learned Additional Advocate General that in event of bail petitioner being enlarged, he may tamper with the evidence, can be best met by putting bail petitioner to stringent conditions, as has been fairly admitted by learned counsel for the bail petitioner.

6. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. It has further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "2. A fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. However, there are instances in our criminal law where a reverse onus has been placed on an accused with regard to some specific offences but that is another matter and does not detract from the fundamental postulate in respect of other offences. Yet another important facet of our criminal jurisprudence is that the grant of bail is the general rule and putting a person in jail or in a prison or in a correction home (whichever expression one may wish to use) is an exception. Unfortunately, some of these basic principles appear to have been lost sight of with the result that more and more persons are being incarcerated and for longer periods. This does not do any good to our criminal jurisprudence or to our society.
> 3. There is no doubt that the grant or denial of bail is entirely the discretion of the judge considering a case but even so, the exercise of judicial discretion has been circumscribed by a large number of decisions rendered by this Court and by every High Court in the country. Yet, occasionally there is a necessity to introspect whether denying bail to an accused person is the right thing to do on the facts and in the circumstances of a case.
> 4. While so introspecting, among the factors that need to be considered is whether the accused was arrested during investigations when that person perhaps has the best opportunity to tamper with the evidence or influence witnesses. If the investigating officer does not find it necessary to arrest an accused person during investigations, a strong case should be made out for placing that person in judicial custody after a charge sheet is filed. Similarly, it is important to ascertain whether the accused was participating in the investigations to the satisfaction of the investigating officer and was not absconding or not appearing when required by the investigating officer. Surely, if an accused is not hiding from the investigating officer or is hiding due to some genuine and expressed fear of being victimised, it would be a factor that a judge would need to consider in an appropriate case. It is also necessary for the judge to consider whether the accused is a first-time offender or has been accused of other offences and if so, the nature of such offences and his or her general conduct. The poverty or the deemed indigent status of an accused is also an extremely important factor and even Parliament has taken notice of it by incorporating an Explanation to Section 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. An equally soft approach to incarceration has been taken by Parliament by inserting Section 436A in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

> 5. To put it shortly, a humane attitude is required to be adopted by a judge, while dealing with an application for remanding a suspect or an accused person to Police custody or judicial custody. There are several reasons for this including maintaining the dignity of an accused person, howsoever poor that person might be, the requirements of Article 21 of the Constitution and the fact that there is enormous overcrowding in prisons, leading to social and other problems as noticed by this Court in In Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons."

7. By now it is well settled that gravity alone cannot be a decisive ground to deny bail, rather competing factors are required to be balanced by the court while exercising its discretion. It has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sanjay Chandra versus Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 Supreme Court Cases 49; has been held as under:-

> "The object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it can be required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The Courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty. Detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In India , it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the propose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson."

8. Needless to say object of the bail is to secure the attendance of the accused in the trial and the proper test to be applied in the solution of the question whether bail should be granted or refused is whether it is probable that the party will appear to take his trial. Otherwise also, normal rule is of bail and not jail. Apart from above, Court has to keep in mind nature of accusations, nature of evidence in support thereof, severity of the punishment, which conviction will entail, character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused involved in that crime.

9. In Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta versus CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "This Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 40, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has to be exercised with care and caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and that grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under-trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

10. The Apex Court in Prasanta Kumar Sarkar versus Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496, has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind, while deciding petition for bail:

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;

(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;

(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

11. In view of above, bail petitioner has carved out a case for himself and as such, present petition is allowed. Order dated 31.5.2019 is made absolute, subject to bail petitioner furnishing fresh bail bonds in the sum of Rs.20,000/- (Rs. Twenty Thousand) with one local surety in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the Investigating Officer concerned, besides the following conditions:

(a) He shall make himself available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

(b). He shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

(c) He shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and

(d) He shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

(e) He shall surrender passport, if any, held by him.

12. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses the liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

13. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

Cases referred:

Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta vs. CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218
Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner Mr.Raman Sethi, Advocate.
For the respondent Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.
ASI Satish Kumar, I/O Police Station, Dehra, District Kangra, Himachal Pradesh.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

Sequel to order dated 11.6.2019, ASI Satish Kumar has come present with the record. Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, learned Additional Advocate General has also placed on record status report prepared by the investigating agency on the basis of investigation carried out by it. Record perused and returned.

2. Close scrutiny of the record/status report suggests that on 7.6.2019, complainant Shubham Patial got recorded his statement under S.154 CrPC alleging therein that the marriage of his elder sister (deceased Yogita) was solemnised two years back with Sahil Kashyap son of Shri Vijay Kashyap resident of Village Harmitan, Post Office Nehran Pukhar, Tehsil Dehra, Kangra, Himachal Pradesh as per Hindu rites. He alleged that though relations inter se his deceased sister and her in-laws remained good for some time after marriage, but subsequently his brother-in-law, and sister-in-law and mother-in-law of the deceased started torturing his sister for dowry. He also alleged that the deceased disclosed aforesaid factum to their mother a number of times. He alleged that on 7.6.2019, neither his brother-in-law, nor any of his family members gave any information with regard to alleged suicide committed by his deceased sister.

3. On the basis of aforesaid statement, FIR No. 77 dated 7.6.2019, was registered against bail petitioner and his family members under Ss. 304B and 498A IPC at Police Station, Dehra. As per status report/record, person namely Sahil (husband of deceased), Shikha (sister-in-law of deceased) and Sushila (mother-in-law of deceased) are behind bars since 8.6.2019, whereas, bail petitioner, who lives separately at Palampur is on anticipatory bail. Investigation in the case is complete, because as per record, only report of the RFSL is awaited and it is also not in dispute that nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner.

4. Mr. Raman Sethi, learned counsel for the bail petitioner, while referring to the record/status report, strenuously argued that no case, much less case under Ss.304B and 498A IPC is made out against the bail petitioner, because there is no specific allegation made with regard to demand of dowry, if any, made by the bail petitioner during life time of the deceased, Yogita. He further contended that bail petitioner is an employee of Punjab National Bank Metlife and on the date of alleged incident, he was not present on the spot, rather, he reached the spot after having received information from family members with regard to alleged suicide committed by deceased Yogita. Lastly, Mr. Sethi contended that since bail petitioner has already joined the investigation and nothing is required to be recovered from him, prayer for grant of bail may be accepted. Mr. Sethi stated that since bail petitioner is a local resident of Kangra, there is no likelihood of his fleeing from justice.

5. Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, learned Additional Advocate General, while fairly admitting factum with regard to completion of investigation, contended that though pursuant to order dated 11.6.2019, bail petitioner has joined the investigation but it has specifically come in the statement of the mother and brother of deceased that the bail petitioner also used to ask for dowry/money from the deceased, as such, it would be too early to conclude that no case, if any is made out under S.498A IPC.

6. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, this court finds that the there is no material available on record suggestive of the fact that on the date of alleged incident, bail petitioner was present on the spot, rather, as per own case of the prosecution, bail petitioner being an employee of PNB

Metlife, resides at Palampur. Alleged incident happened at Harmittan, which at a distance of 90 kms from Palampur. Though record reveals that brother and mother of deceased have alleged that bail petitioner also used to ask for money for sending his brother (Sohail) abroad, but such allegations are yet to be proved by investigating agency by leading cogent and convincing evidence on record. Since bail petitioner has already joined the investigation and is fully cooperating with the investigating agency, this court sees no reason to send him for custodial interrogation, especially when investigation is complete and nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner.

7. Guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner is yet to be proved in accordance with law by the prosecution, as such, it would not be appropriate to curtail the freedom of bail petitioner for an indefinite period, especially when nothing remains to be recovered from him. Apprehension expressed by learned Additional Advocate General that in event of bail petitioner being enlarged, he may tamper with the evidence, can be best met by putting bail petitioner to stringent conditions, as has been fairly admitted by learned counsel for the bail petitioner.

8. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. Decided on June 26, 2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973– Section 438-Pre-arrest bail– Grant of– Accused seeking pre-arrest bail in case registered against him for illicit felling – State resisting bail on ground that accused not revealing names of accomplices who helped him in illicit felling- Held– No eyewitness seeing accused cutting trees in forest– No explanation as how police officials came to know of illicit felling of trees by accused– No reason assigned as why complaint was not filed earlier when commission of offence by accused had come to the notice of forest officials- Bail granted subject to conditions. Cases referred:
Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta vs. CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218
Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another, (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner	Mr.Lakshay Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondent	Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General. ASI Sahab Singh, Police Station, Karsog, Mandi, Himachal Pradesh.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

Bail petitioner namely Tara Chand, has approached this Court in the instant proceedings filed under S.438 CrPC, for grant of pre-arrest bail in FIR No. 75, dated 10.5.2019 under S.379 IPC and Ss. 32 and 33 of the Indian Forest Act, registered at Police Station, Karsog, Mandi, Himachal Pradesh. Investigating Officer of the case namely ASI Sahab Singh has come present with the record. Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, learned Additional Advocate General has also placed on record status report prepared by the investigating agency on the basis of investigation carried out by it. Record perused and returned.

2. Close scrutiny of the record reveals that on 10.5.2019, complainant Shri Chatur Singh, Forest Guard, Beat Kotkosh, Forest Division Richhgi lodged a complaint with the Police Station Karsog alleging therein that on 8.5.2019, he alongwith officials of the Forest Department had gone to the Forest Beat D-234, where they found stump of a pine tree (Kail). Complainant further alleged that after inquiry from the locals, bail petitioner was found to have felled the tree, who admitted the same. On the basis of aforesaid complaint, a formal FIR, as detailed herein above, was registered against the bail petitioner.

3. Learned Additional Advocate General, on the instructions of the Investigating Officer, fairly stated that though pursuant to orders dated 13.5.2019 and 12.6.2019 passed by this Court, bail petitioner has joined the investigation but he is not disclosing names of his accomplices, who helped him in felling the tree from the forest. Learned Additional Advocate General further stated that since timber/log has not been recovered, Investigating Officer is finding it difficult to proceed further with the investigation.

4. Mr. Lakshay Thakur, learned counsel for the bail petitioner stated that pursuant to orders passed by this Court, bail petitioner has joined the investigation by making himself available for the same, but since he has been falsely implicated, there is no occasion for him to get the recovery of the timber/log effected. He further stated that the bail petitioner has been falsely implicated by Forest officials, who themselves have cut the tree.

5. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, this Court finds that though there is allegation that the bail petitioner has cut a Pine tree (Kail) from the government Forest, but there is no eye witness of the alleged incident. Moreover, it is not understood that when factum with regard to illegal felling of tree had come to the notice of the Forest officials on 8.5.2019, why they failed to lodge the complaint on the same day because, admittedly, in the case at hand, complaint came to be lodged on 10.5.2019. Though aforesaid aspects of the matter are to be considered and decided by the learned trial Court in the totality of evidence collected on record by the investigating agency, but having perused the record, this Court sees no reason for custodial interrogation of the bail petitioner, who otherwise has joined the investigation.

6. Guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner is yet to be proved in accordance with law by the prosecution, as such, it would not be appropriate to curtail the freedom of bail petitioner for an indefinite period. Apprehension expressed by learned Additional Advocate General that in event of bail petitioner being enlarged, he may tamper with the evidence, can be best met by putting bail petitioner to stringent conditions, as has been fairly admitted by learned counsel for the bail petitioner.

7. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. It has further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "2. A fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. However, there are instances in our criminal law where a reverse onus has been placed on an accused with regard to some specific offences but that is another matter and does not detract from the fundamental postulate in respect of other offences. Yet another important facet of our criminal jurisprudence is that the grant of bail is the general rule and putting a person in jail or in a prison or in a correction home (whichever expression one may wish to use) is an exception. Unfortunately, some of these basic principles appear to have been lost sight of with the result that more and more persons are being incarcerated and for longer periods. This does not do any good to our criminal jurisprudence or to our society.
> 3. There is no doubt that the grant or denial of bail is entirely the discretion of the judge considering a case but even so, the exercise of judicial discretion has been circumscribed by a large number of decisions rendered by this Court and by every High Court in the country. Yet, occasionally there is a necessity to introspect whether denying bail to an accused person is the right thing to do on the facts and in the circumstances of a case.
> 4. While so introspecting, among the factors that need to be considered is whether the accused was arrested during investigations when that person perhaps has the best opportunity to tamper with the evidence or influence witnesses. If the investigating officer does not find it necessary to arrest an accused person during investigations, a strong case should be made out for placing that person in judicial custody after a charge sheet is filed. Similarly, it is important to ascertain whether the accused was participating in the investigations to the satisfaction of the investigating officer and was not absconding or not appearing when required by the investigating officer. Surely, if an accused is not hiding from the investigating officer or is hiding due to some genuine and expressed fear of being victimised, it would be a factor that a judge would need to consider in an appropriate case. It is also necessary for the judge to consider whether the accused is a first-time offender or has been accused of other offences and if so, the nature of such offences and his or her general conduct. The poverty or the deemed indigent status of an accused is also an extremely important factor and even Parliament has taken notice of it by incorporating an Explanation to Section 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. An equally soft approach to incarceration has been taken by Parliament by inserting Section 436A in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

5. To put it shortly, a humane attitude is required to be adopted by a judge, while dealing with an application for remanding a suspect or an accused person to Police custody or judicial custody. There are several reasons for this including maintaining the dignity of an accused person, howsoever poor that person might be, the requirements of Article 21 of the Constitution and the fact that there is enormous overcrowding in prisons, leading to social and other problems as noticed by this Court in In Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons."

8. By now it is well settled that gravity alone cannot be a decisive ground to deny bail, rather competing factors are required to be balanced by the court while exercising its discretion. It has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sanjay Chandra versus Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 Supreme Court Cases 49; has been held as under:-

"The object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it can be required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The Courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty. Detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In India , it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the propose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson."

9. Needless to say object of the bail is to secure the attendance of the accused in the trial and the proper test to be applied in the solution of the question whether bail should be granted or refused is whether it is probable that the party will appear to take his trial. Otherwise also, normal rule is of bail and not jail. Apart from above, Court has to keep in mind nature of accusations, nature of evidence in support thereof, severity of the punishment, which conviction will entail, character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused involved in that crime.

10. In Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta versus CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

"This Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 40, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has to be exercised with care and caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and that grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under-trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

11. The Apex Court in Prasanta Kumar Sarkar versus Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496, has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind, while deciding petition for bail:

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;

(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;

(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

12. In view of above, bail petitioner has carved out a case for himself and as such, present petition is allowed. Order dated 13.5.2019 is made absolute, subject to the bail petitioner furnishing fresh bail bonds in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rs. One Lakh) with one local surety in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned/trial court/Investigating Officer concerned, besides the following conditions:

(a). He shall make himself available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

(b). He shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

(c). He shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and

(d). He shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

(e). He shall surrender passport, if any, held by him.

13. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses the liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

14. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Smt. Sujata Behera …Petitioner
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh …Respondent

Cr. MP (M) No. 1164 of 2019
Decided on June 28, 2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973–Section 438– Pre-arrest bail– Grant of-Circumstances– Petitioner accused of cheating, criminal breach of trust etc., praying for pre-arrest bail– Held, accused already having joined investigation– Fully cooperated with investigating officer– Nothing more is required to be recovered from her– Investigation is complete– Petition allowed– Pre-arrest bail granted subject to conditions. (Para 3)

Cases referred:
Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta vs. CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218
Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another, (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner Mr.Virender Singh Kanwar, Advocate.
For the respondent Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition filed under S.438 CrPC, prayer has been made on behalf of the bail petitioner, Smt. Sujata Behera for grant of pre-arrest bail in FIR No. 154 of 2019, under Ss. 406, 420B and 120B IPC registered at Police Station Paonta Sahib, District Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh.

2. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, states that though the Investigating Officer is not present on account of some miscommunication, but he has been telephonically informed that pursuant to order dated 21.6.2019, bail petitioner has joined investigation and she is fully cooperating. Mr. Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General further states that custodial interrogation of the bail petitioner is not required at this stage and in case, this Court intends to enlarge her on bail, she may be directed to make herself available for investigation/trial as and when directed.

3. Since bail petitioner has already joined the investigation and is fully cooperating with the investigating agency, this court sees no reason to send the bail petitioner for custodial interrogation, especially when investigation is complete and nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner.

4. Guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner is yet to be proved in accordance with law by the prosecution, as such, it would not be appropriate to curtail the freedom of bail petitioner for an indefinite period, especially when nothing remains to be recovered from her. Apprehension expressed by learned Additional Advocate General that in event of bail petitioner being enlarged, she may tamper with the evidence, can be best met by putting bail petitioner to stringent conditions, as has been fairly admitted by learned counsel for the bail petitioner.

5. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. Versus

Decided on July 1, 2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973– Section 439– Protection of Children from Sexual offence Act, 2012– Section 4– Regular bail– Entitlement– On facts, held, victim knew accused for the last one year– Earlier also, she had joined his company– Stating in her statement that accused did not do anything wrong with her and she did not want any action against him– Victim though minor, her conduct cannot be ignored altogether– No other reason to put accused behind bars for indefinite period– Petition allowed– Accused released on conditional bail. (Paras 3 & 4)

Cases referred:
Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta vs. CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218
Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another, (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner: Mr. B.L. Soni, Advocate.
For the respondent : Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.
ASI Gurbax Singh, Police Station, Dehra, Kangra, Himachal Pradesh

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition filed under S.439 CrPC, prayer has been made on behalf of the petitioner for grant of regular bail in case FIR No. 12, dated 18.1.2019, under Ss. 376 and 120B IPC and S.4 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, registered at Police Station, Dehra, District Kangra, Himachal Pradesh.

2. Though, ASI Gurbax Singh has come present, but he states that since the file relating to the investigation is lying with the District Attorney concerned, he was unable to bring the record of the case. Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, learned Additional Advocate General has, however, filed the status report, perusal whereof reveals that on 18.1.2019, victim-prosecutrix (name withheld), got her statement recorded under S.154 CrPC, alleging therein that the bail petitioner, who hails from her village, called her over the telephone and asked to meet him at Hazipur Bus Stop. On 18.1.2019, victim-prosecutrix met the bail petitioner, who was waiting for her and thereafter bail petitioner forced the victim-prosecutrix to come to Himachal for sight-seeing. Allegedly the bail petitioner took victim-prosecutrix to Chintpurni, District Una on his Scooty bearing registration No. PB-07BJ-5043 As per victim-prosecutrix, bail petitioner took her to Hotel Dawat, against her wishes, where they consumed food in a room. It is further alleged that the bail petitioner sexually assaulted the victim-prosecutrix twice against her wishes in a room of the hotel. Victim-prosecutrix, in her aforesaid statement further alleged that she requested the bail petitioner to let her go to her house but, in the meantime, Police came at the spot. On the basis of the aforesaid statement having been made by the victim-prosecutrix, a formal FIR, as detailed herein above came to be lodge against the present bail petitioner and, since then, he is behind the bars.

3. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, this court finds that the statement under S.154 CrPC came to be made by the victim-prosecutrix when both, bail petitioner and victim-prosecutrix, were apprehended by the Police at Hotel Dawat, near Chintpurni, District Una, Himachal Pradesh. Victim-prosecutrix, in her statement made under S.164 CrPC, before the Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Dehra, has categorically stated that she knew the bail petitioner for the last one year and earlier also, she had gone with him to Chintpurni. She has specifically stated in her statement that the bail petitioner has not done anything wrong with her and as such, she does not want any action to be taken against the bail petitioner.

4. True it is, that as per record, age of the victim-prosecutrix is sixteen years and consent, if any, is immaterial but, having taken note of the aforesaid glaring aspects of the matter, especially the conduct of the victim-prosecutrix, this court sees no reason to let the bail petitioner incarcerate in jail, for an indefinite period during trial. Though aforesaid aspects of the matter are to be decided by the learned trial Court, on the basis of evidence collected on record by the prosecution, but having carefully gone through the complaint as well as statement made by the victim-prosecutrix under S.164 CrPC, this court is of the view that there is no evidence worth the name, available on record, that the bail petitioner taking undue advantage of the innocence of the victim-prosecutrix, sexually assaulted her against her wishes, rather, as per own statement of the victim-prosecutrix, she having known the bail petitioner, joined his company of her own volition. Leaving everything aside, guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner is yet to be proved in accordance with law by the investigating agency by leading cogent and convincing evidence on record, as such, this court sees no impediment in accepting the prayer made in the instant application.

5. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. It has further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

Yet, occasionally there is a necessity to introspect whether denying bail to an accused person is the right thing to do on the facts and in the circumstances of a case.

Apart from above, Court has to keep in mind nature of accusations, nature of evidence in support thereof, severity of the punishment, which conviction will entail, character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused involved in that crime.

8. In Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta versus CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "This Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 40, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has to be exercised with care and caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and that grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under-trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

9. The Apex Court in Prasanta Kumar Sarkar versus Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496, has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind, while deciding petition for bail:

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;

(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;

(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

10. In view of above, bail petitioner has carved out a case for himself and as such, present petition is allowed. Bail petitioner is ordered to be enlarged on bail, subject to his furnishing bail bonds in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rs. One Lakh) with one local surety in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned/trial court, besides the following conditions:

(a). He shall make himself available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

(b). He shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

(c). He shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and

(d). He shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

(e). He shall surrender passport, if any, held by him.

It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses the liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

11. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Vijay Kumar …Petitioner.

Versus

Deputy Commissioner, Mandi and others. …Respondents.

CMPMO No. 84 of 2019
Decided on : 1.7.2019

Constitution of India, 1950 – Articles 14 & 226 – Appointment as TGT on basis of being from a BPL family – Such enlistment in BPL category being pursuant to resolution of panchayat – Challenge to enlistment –Period of limitation – Held – Scheme framed in 2013 provides period of one month for laying challenge to enlistment in BPL family before initial Authority (SDO Civil) as well as Appellate Authority (Deputy Commissioner) – Period of one month cannot be relaxed or whittled down.(Para 3)

For the Petitioner: Mr. Sanjeev Bhushan, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Abhilasha Kaundal, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr. Desh Raj Thakur, Additional Advocate General for respondents No.1 and 2.
Mr. Digvijay Singh, Advocate, for respondent No.3.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J (oral)

The petitioner was selected to the post of TGT, on anvil, of his belonging, to, a BPL family. The enlistment, of the petitioner in the BPL family, was made in pursuance,to a resolution passed by the Gram Panchayat concerned. However, the enlistment of the petitioner in the BPL family, was, challenged by one Geeta Devi, and, the said challenge was subsequently abandoned, and, thereafter the apposite challenge was carried forward by one Kanhiya Lal Sharma, on, the apposite permission being granted. The Sub Divisional Officer (Civil), Sarkaghat, upon, the afore challenge, being made, by one Geeta Devi hence, through, Annexure P-2 made a direction to the Gram Panchayat concerned, to, reconsider the inclusion/deletion of the petitioner, in the list of BPL families. The order made under Annexure P-2, was challenged by one Kanhiya Lal Sharma before the Deputy Commissioner, Mandi, and, through Annexure P-4 the latter made an order of remand, upon, the Sub Divisional Officer(Civil), Sarkaghat, for enabling the latter, to, after rehearing the contesting litigants, make a fresh decision in accordance with law. Subsequent thereto the remanding authority, under, Annexure P-5, upheld the challenge, vis-a-vis, the the enlistment, of the petitioner in the BPL family. The order made, under Annexure P-5 was challenged by the petitioner before the Deputy Commissioner, Mandi, and thereon the impugned order was rendered.

2. The learned counsel for the petitioner, has contended with much vigor before this Court, that, the guidelines appertaining, vis-a-vis, the challenge, to, the apposite enlistment in the BPL families, in Clause (v) thereof, prescribing rather a period of one month for a challenge being cast, (a) whereas apparently the afore challenge, being made beyond the period, of one month, (b) therefore, all the challenges made by one Geeta Devi, vis-a-vis, the entitlement, of the petitioner, for, enlistment in the BPL family, being, grossly time barred, and, with no compatible clause, being borne in the relevant guidelines, appertaining to condonation, of, period of delay, thereupon, all the orders were made, on a time barred motion, and, hence they are amenable for being scuttled.

3. However, the vigor of the afore submission, is, tentatively eroded by the Deputy Commissioner, Mandi, in order borne in Annexure P-4, making allusion to certain instructions issued, on 8.4.2011 wherethrough, no period of time is prescribed for a challenge, being made to the relevant/apposite enlistment of the persons concerned. Since the afore instructions, were, issued in the year 2011, and, the challenges were made subsequent thereto, hence the challenges cannot be construed, to be suffering, from any aura of invalidity. However in making the afore submission the learned counsel for the respondent, has remained, grossly unmindful to the fact, that, the relevant guidelines, alluded to by the learned counsel for the petitioner, (a) and theirs rather carrying the afore clause, prescribing a rigid period of one month, for a challenge being reared both, before the initial authority, and, before the appellate authority concerned, rather hence subsequent thereto, standing brought into force, in the year 2013 and (b) when thereafter no notification has been placed, on record by the respondents concerned, qua, the afore period of limitation, standing both whittled down or relaxed, under, a notification alike the one issued, in, the year 2011, (c) thereupon, the challenge made, to the making of Annexure P-2 by one Kanhiya Lal Sharma, before the Deputy Commissioner, Mandi, and also a challenge made on 5.4.2013 hence, are, obviously challenged beyond the period of one month, or, are outside the period of limitation prescribed in the governing thereto guidelines, as, embodied in Annexure P-7. Conspicuously when it came into force, in the year 2013. Consequently, the order impugned is declared, to be bad, in law, and, is quashed, and, set aside accordingly, and, consequent effect, thereof is that the impugned decision also looses its validity, rather, validity is acquired by Annexure P-2, and, hence the Gram Sabha concerned is directed, to, in consonance with paragraph 9 of the verdict borne in Annexure P-2, hence within four weeks, make a fresh decision, vis-a-vis, the inclusion and deletion of the petitioner herein, in, the BPL family concerned.

In view of the above, the present petition stands disposed of, alongwith all pending applications.

Cr. Appeal No. 524 of 2009
Decided on: July 2, 2019

Indian Penal Code, 1860 – Sections 279, 337 & 338 – Rash and negligent driving – Proof – Held – Onus is always upon prosecution to prove beyond reasonable doubt that vehicle was being driven rashly and negligently – No presumption of rashness or negligence can be drawn by applying principle of res ipsa loquitur. For the appellant: Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General with Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.
For the respondent: Mr. Abhishek Sood, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (oral)

Instant criminal appeal under S.378 CrPC, having been filed by the appellant-State, lays challenge to judgment dated 23.6.2009 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge (Fast Track Court), Dharamshala, District Kangra, Himachal Pradesh in Crl. Appeal No. 24-P/2007, reversing judgment of conviction dated 26.10.2007 passed in Cr. Case No. 232-II/04/2K by the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No. II, Palampur, District Kangra, Himachal Pradesh, whereby learned trial Court, while holding the respondent-accused (hereinafter, 'accused') guilty of having committed offences punishable under Ss. 279, 337 and 338 IPC, convicted and sentenced him as under:-

Section	Sentence	In default of payment of fine
279 IPC	Simple imprisonment for two	Simple imprisonment for ten months and fine of Rs.500/-	days

337 IPC	Do	Do
338 IPC	Do	Do

2. Precisely, the facts as emerges from the record are that the complainant, Phullan Devi, got her statement recorded under S.154 CrPC, alleging therein that on 4.5.1999, at about 7 pm, at Village Kandbari, accused while driving Tempo bearing registration No. HP-37-5837, in a rash and negligent manner on a public highway, crushed the foot of her granddaughter, Babita, who was standing on the roadside. As per complainant, she alongwith her granddaughter Babita had gone to fetch water from Bowli. Accused, who was driving the offending vehicle, lost control over the same and struck the Tempo against her minor granddaughter, as a consequence of which, her leg was crushed. In the said accident, Babita sustained simple and grievous injuries. On the basis of aforesaid statement under S.154 CrPC, a formal FIR, Ext. PW-7/A came to be lodged against the accused. After completion of investigation, Police presented Challan before Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.II, Palampur, who on being satisfied that a prima facie case exists against the accused, put notice of accusation to the accused for the commission of the offences punishable under Ss. 279, 337 and 338 IPC, to which the accused pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

3. Prosecution, with a view to prove its case against the accused, examined as many as seven witnesses, whereas, accused in his statement recorded under S.313 CrPC, denied the case of the prosecution in toto and claimed that at the time of alleged incident, he was not driving the vehicle in question. He further denied that he was driving the offending vehicle in a rash and negligent manner, on the relevant date, time and place. However, he did not lead any evidence in his defence.

4. Vide judgment dated 26.10.2007, learned trial Court held accused guilty of having committed offences punishable under the aforesaid provisions of law. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the impugned judgment of conviction passed by learned trial Court, accused filed an appeal before the learned Additional Sessions Judge (Fast Track Court), Kangra at Dharamshala, who vide judgment dated 23.6.2009, set aside the judgment of conviction passed by learned trial Court, consequently acquitting the accused. In the aforesaid backdrop, appellant-State has approached this Court in the instant proceedings, praying therein to set aside the impugned judgment of acquittal passed by learned first appellate Court and restoring the judgment of conviction passed by the learned trial Court.

5. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, vis-à-vis reasoning assigned by the learned first appellate Court in the impugned judgment of acquittal, while reversing judgment of conviction passed by learned trial Court, this court finds no illegality or infirmity in the judgment passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, rather, perusal of the same clearly reveals that it is based upon proper appreciation of the evidence. After having gone through the evidence led on record by the prosecution, be it ocular or documentary, this court is not persuaded to agree with Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, learned Additional Advocate General that learned Additional Sessions Judge (Fast Track Court), while recording the findings that the prosecution was not able to prove the identity of the accused, has fallen in error, because bare perusal of the statements having been made by material prosecution witnesses nowhere suggests that the identification parade of accused ever came to be conducted prior to putting up Challan in the competent Court of law. Leaving everything aside, if statement of PW-2 Phullan Devi, who happened to be the complainant, is perused in its entirety, it itself creates serious doubt with regard to presence of the accused on the spot as well as his driving of offending vehicle. In her statement recorded under S.154 CrPC, complainant stated that at the time of accident, she was fetching water from the Bowli, whereas her granddaughter Babita was standing on the roadside and suddenly one Tempo came at a high speed and crushed leg of her granddaughter, Babita. She further alleged that thereafter alarm was raised by the persons present on the spot and Tempo was intercepted. Most importantly, in her statement recorded under S.154 CrPC, complainant Phullan Devi specifically stated that she did not know the driver, however, he (driver) was a resident of her village. If aforesaid version of Phullan Devi is examined in light of her subsequent statement given in the court, as PW-2, it completely belies the story of the prosecution. Phullan Devi, while deposing as PW-2, stated that the vehicle bearing Registration No. HP-37-5837 was being driven by the accused, Baishakhi Ram present in the court, but, she was unable to explain how she came to know about the name of the accused. In her cross-examination, she admitted that she is resident of Village Kandbari but she admitted that the accused is the resident of Village Sapedu. In her cross-examination, complainant stated that her Village and the Village of accused are two different Villages and they fall in two different Panchayats. In her statement under S.154 CrPC, she had stated that the driver was resident of her village and she did not know his name, whereas, in the court, she named the accused and stated him to be a resident of other Village, Sapedu.

6. PW-1 Thola Ram deposed that in his presence, accused came driving one Tempo, which subsequently hit one girl namely Babita, who had come to the Bowli alongwith her grandmother but, in his cross-examination, this witness admitted that after the accident, driver of the Tempo had fled away from the spot and second driver had come.

7. PW-3 Jai Kishan, who happened to be the father of the injured girl, stated that he reached the spot after having heard noise of the accident. He further deposed that he saw that the Tempo bearing registration No. HP-37-5837 had crushed the foot of his daughter, Babita. This witness further stated that he took the injured in the same Tempo to the Hospital. He further stated that the accident took place due to rash and negligent driving of the accused. The statement having been made by this witness may not be relevant because he had no occasion to witness the alleged accident with his own eyes, rather, as per his own version, he reached the spot after having heard noise of the accident.

8. If the statements of the material prosecution witnesses, PW-1 to PW-3 are read in conjunction and juxtaposing each other, same create doubt with regard to correctness of the story put forth by the prosecution. As has been pointed out, complainant, Phullan Devi (PW-2), who was the first person to see the accident, was not aware with regard to the name of the accused, because, in her statement made under S.154 CrPC, she categorically stated that though the accused belonged to her village, but she did not know his name, whereas, in her statement made before the Court, she identified the accused present in the court and stated that his name was Baishakhi Ram. Aforesaid version put forth by this witness is in total contradiction with the version put forth by PW-1 Thola Ram, who categorically stated that the driver of the offending vehicle fled away from the spot after the accident and second driver had come. PW-3 Jai Kishan, who had no occasion to see the accident with his own eyes, nowhere stated that the accused was driving the offending vehicle, in which he took his daughter to the hospital. It has only come in his statement that his daughter was taken to the hospital in Tempo bearing registration No. HP-37-5837, but he nowhere stated that at that time, vehicle was being driven by accused.

9. Leaving everything aside, all these material prosecution witnesses have admitted that during investigation no identification parade of accused was got conducted by the police as such, learned Additional Sessions Judge, while reversing the judgment of conviction passed by learned trial Court, rightly held that the identify of the accused is highly doubtful.

10. Prosecution also examined owner of the vehicle Desh Raj (PW-5), who categorically stated that the accused Baishakhi Ram was not his driver. Though this witness was declared hostile, but careful perusal of the cross-examination conducted on this witness, nowhere suggests that the prosecution was able to extract anything advantageous to its case. This witness in his cross-examination stated that the log book of the vehicle was not taken into possession by the Police. He further stated in his cross-examination that the accused never remained his driver and on the date of accident, accused was not driving his vehicle.

11. Aforesaid version put forth by this material prosecution witness came to be disbelieved by the learned trial Court on the ground that this witness has deposed falsely. Learned Additional Sessions Judge, has rightly recorded that no cogent and convincing reasoning has been assigned by the learned trial Court for disbelieving the version put forth by PW-5, Desh Raj, who happened to be the owner of the offending vehicle.

12. PW-4 Subhash Chand deposed that he was driver of Tempo bearing registration No. HP-37-5837 and on 4.5.1999, he was on leave and owner of the Tempo had engaged some other person as a driver in the Tempo. He stated that he does not know, who was the driving the Tempo on the relevant day, when the alleged accident took place. This witness was declared hostile. In his cross-examination done by the learned A.P.P., this witness denied that his statement was recorded by the Police. He denied that the owner Desh Raj had employed the accused as a driver in the Tempo. He admitted that when marriage party of his brother was going, he heard the noise that foot of the child has been crushed by the Tempo.

13. PW-7 SI Om Prakash, Investigating Officer of the case deposed that on 4.5.1999, he received an information from the SDH, Palampur that some accident had taken place and accordingly he recorded statement of PW-2 Phullan Devi under S.154 CrPC. During cross-examination, this witness admitted that the complainant had not disclosed to him name of the accused but self stated that the accused Baisakhi Ram was got identified, which version is in total contradiction to the statements of other witnesses i.e. PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4. In his cross-examination, this witness further stated that the name of the accused was supplied by the witnesses. He stated that he has not taken into possession log book of the vehicle, meaning thereby, no effective steps were ever taken by the Investigating Officer to identity the accused, who allegedly at the relevant time, was driving the vehicle in question. No doubt, MLC, X-ray Films and discharge slip of the injured Exts. PX1 to PX4, reveal that Babita received simple as well as grievous injuries but, that may not be sufficient to bring home the guilt of the accused, especially when prosecution has not been able to connect the accused with the commission of the offences alleged to have been committed by him.

14. Close scrutiny of statements of the material prosecution witnesses compels this court to conclude that no reliance, if any, could be placed by the learned Court below on the same, being contradictory and inconsistent with each other, as such, learned Court below rightly did not place reliance upon the same, while ascertaining guilt, if any, of the accused.

15. By now it is well settled that in a criminal trial evidence of eye-witnessrequires careful assessment and needs to be evaluated for its creditability. Hon'ble Apex Court has repeatedly held that since fundamental aspect of criminal jurisprudence rests upon well established principle that "no man is guilty until proved so", utmost caution is required to be exercised in dealing with the situation where there are multiple testimonies and equally large number of witnesses testifying before the Court. Most importantly, Hon'ble Apex Court has held that there must be a string that should join the evidence of all the witnesses therebysatisfying the test of consistency in evidence amongst all the witnesses. In nutshell, it can be said that evidence in criminal cases needs to be evaluated on the touchstone of consistency. In this regard, reliance is placed upon the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in C. Magesh and others versus State of Karnataka (2010) 5 Supreme Court Cases 645, wherein it has been held as under:-

> "45. It may be mentioned herein that in criminal jurisprudence, evidence has to be evaluated on the touchstone of consistency. Needless to emphasis, consistency is the keyword for upholding the conviction of an accused. In this regard it is to be noted that this Court in the case titled Surja Singh v. State of U.P. (2008)16 SCC 686: 2008(11) SCR 286 has held:-(SCC p.704, para 14)
> > "14. The evidence must be tested for its inherent consistency and the inherent probability of the story; consistency with the account of other witness is held to be creditworthy; ..the probative value of such evidence becomes eligible to be put into the scales for a cumulative evaluation."

16. In a criminal trial, evidence of the eye witness requires a careful assessment and must be evaluated for its creditability. Since the fundamental aspect of criminal jurisprudence rests upon the stated principle that " no man is guilty until proven so," hence utmost caution is required to be exercised in dealing with situation where there are multiple testimonies and equally large number of witnesses testifying before the Court. There must be a string that should join the evidence of all the witnesses and thereby satisfying the test of consistence in evidence amongst all the witnesses

17. Apart from above, this court finds that there is no specific evidence led on record by the prosecution to prove rash and negligent driving, if any, on the part of the accused. While holding accused guilty under S.279 IPC, it is incumbent upon the prosecution to prove rash and negligent driving. By now, it is well settled that rashness cannot be presumed, rather, onus is heavy upon the prosecution to prove rash and negligent driving. In the case at hand, if the statements made by material prosecution witnesses, are read in their entirety, same clearly suggest that none of the prosecution witnesses have specifically stated anything with regard to rash and negligent driving. High speed alone cannot be the sole criteria to determine rashness and negligence.

18. In the instant case, this Court was unable to lay its hand to specific evidence, if any, led on record by the prosecution suggestive of the fact that the vehicle at that relevant time was being driven rashly and negligently. In this regard, reliance is placed on judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Braham Dass v. State of Himachal Pradesh, (2009) 3 SCC (Cri) 406, which reads as under:

> "6. In support of the appeal, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that there was no evidence on record to show any negligence. It has not been brought on record as to how the accused appellant was negligent in any way. On the contrary what has been stated is that one person had gone to the roof top and driver started the vehicle while he was there. There was no evidence to show that the driver had knowledge that any passenger was on the roof top of the bus. Learned counsel for the respondent on the other hand submitted that PW1 had stated that the conductor had told the driver that one passenger was still on the roof of the bus and the driver started the bus.

8. Section 279 deals with rash driving or riding on a public way. A bare reading of the provision makes it clear that it must be established that the accused was driving any vehicle on a public way in a manner which endangered human life or was likely to cause hurt or injury to any other person. Obviously the foundation in accusations under Section 279IPC is not negligence. Similarly in Section 304 A the stress is on causing death by negligence or rashness. Therefore, for bringing in application of either Section 279 or 304 A it must be established that there was an element of rashness or negligence. Even if the prosecution version is accepted in toto, there was no evidence led to show that any negligence was involved."

19. The Hon'ble Apex Court in case titled State of Karnataka v. Satish, 1998 (8) SCC 493, has also observed as under:

"1. Truck No. MYE3236 being driven by the respondent turned turtle while crossing a "nalla" on 25111982 at about 8.30 a.m. The accident resulted in the death of 15 persons and receipt of injuries by about 18 persons, who were travelling in the fully loaded truck. The respondent was chargesheeted and tried. The learned trial court held that the respondent drove the vehicle at a high speed and it was on that account that the accident took place. The respondent was convicted for offences under Sections 279, 337, 338and 304A IPC and sentenced to various terms of imprisonment. The respondent challenged his conviction and sentence before the Second Additional Sessions Judge, Belgaum. While the conviction and sentence imposed upon the respondent for the offence under Section 279 IPC was set aside, the appellate court confirmed the conviction and sentenced the respondent for offences under Sections 304A, 337 and 338 IPC. On a criminal revision petition being filed by the respondent before the High Court of Karnataka, the conviction and sentence of the respondent for all the offences were set aside and the respondent was acquitted. This appeal by special leave is directed against the said judgment of acquittal passed by the High Court of Karnataka.

2. We have examined the record and heard learned counsel for the parties.

3. Both the trial court and the appellate court held the respondent guilty for offences under Sections 337, 338 and 304A IPC after recording a finding that the respondent was driving the truck at a "high speed". No specific finding has been recorded either by the trial court or by the first appellate court to the effect that the respondent was driving the truck either negligently or rashly. After holding that the respondent was driving the truck at a "high speed", both the courts pressed into aid the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur to hold the respondent guilty.

4. Merely because the truck was being driven at a "high speed" does not bespeak of either "negligence" or "rashness" by itself. None of the witnesses examined by the prosecution could give any indication, even approximately, as to what they meant by "high speed". "High speed" is a relative term. It was for the prosecution to bring on record material to establish as to what it meant by "high speed" in the facts and circumstances of the case. In a > criminal trial, the burden of providing everything essential to the establishment of the charge against an accused always rests on the prosecution and there is a presumption of innocence in favour of the accused until the contrary is proved. Criminality is not to be presumed, subject of course to some statutory exceptions. There is no such statutory exception pleaded in the present case. In the absence of any material on the record, no presumption of "rashness" or "negligence" could be drawn by invoking the maxim "res ipsa loquitur". There is evidence to show that immediately before the truck turned turtle, there was a big jerk. It is not explained as to whether the jerk was because of the uneven road or mechanical failure. The Motor Vehicle Inspector who inspected the vehicle had submitted his report. That report is not forthcoming from the record and the Inspector was not examined for reasons best known to the prosecution. This is a serious infirmity and lacuna in the prosecution case.

> 5. There being no evidence on the record to establish "negligence" or "rashness" in driving the truck on the part of the respondent, it cannot be said that the view taken by the High Court in acquitting the respondent is a perverse view. To us it appears that the view of the High Court, in the facts and circumstances of this case, is a reasonably possible view. We, therefore, do not find any reason to interfere with the order of acquittal. The appeal fails and is dismissed. The respondent is on bail. His bail bonds shall stand discharged. Appeal dismissed."

20. Careful perusal of aforesaid judgment clearly suggests that there cannot be any presumption of rashness or negligence, rather, onus is always upon the prosecution to prove beyond reasonable doubt that vehicle in question was being driven rashly and negligently. In the aforesaid judgment, it has been specifically held that in the absence of any material on record, no presumption of rashness or negligence can be drawn by invoking maxim res ipsa loquitur.

21. Reliance is also placed on judgment this Court in State of H.P. Vs. Manpreet Singh, 2008 (HP) 538, relevant para whereof is as under:

> "4. Legally, in a case of rash and negligent act, if the prosecution is able to prove the essential ingredients of the offence, the onus to disprove it shifts upon the respondent to show that he had taken due care and caution to avoid the accident. It is an admitted fact that said Shri Daya Ram had died in the accident caused by the respondent but still it is incumbent upon the prosecution to prove that it was the rash and negligent act of driving to conclude the rash and negligent driving of the respondent. In other words, it must be proved that the rash or negligent act of the accused was causa causans and not causa sin qua non (cause of the proximate cause). There must be some nexus between the death of a person with rash or negligent act ofthe accused. According to Rupinder Parkash (PW4) deceased was hit by the motor cycle which was in a high speed but the speed is not criteria to hold the act as rash or negligent. The respondent in his statement under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure has explained that on seeing the deceased, he had blown the horn and he (deceased) stopped on the road. As soon as he reached near him, he immediately tried to cross the road and got hit. His version has been duly corroborated by Hardeep Singh (DW1) who was a pillion rider with him.

> Ajay Kumar (PW1) has admitted this version that the respondent had blown the horn and Daya Ram on hearing it, had stopped for a while. In these circumstances, if a person suddenly crosses the road, without taking note of the approaching vehicle and its driver may not be in a position to save the accident, it will not be possible to hold the Driver guilty of the offence. In the instant case, the deceased knowing fully well at least the approaching vehicle stopped on hearing the horn while crossing the road but when the motor cycle reached near him, he darted before it and the accident took place. Thus in my opinion the prosecution could not prove the offence charged against the respondent beyond reasonable doubt that the respondent was driving the vehicle rashly or negligently. Therefore, in these circumstances, the learned trial Court had rightly acquitted the respondent of the charges framed against him. As such, no interference in the impugned judgment of acquittal is called for. Accordingly the appeal is dismissed. The respondent is discharged of his bail bounds entered upon by him at any stage of the trial."

22. This Court is also fully conscious of judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court in State of Punjab versus Saurabh Bakshi 2015 (5) SCC 182, wherein it has been held that no leniency should be shown to reckless drivers. The Hon'ble Apex Court has observed as follows:-

> "25. Before parting with the case we are compelled to observe that India has a disreputable record of road accidents. There is a nonchalant attitude among the drivers. They feel that they are the "Emperors of all they survey". Drunkenness contributes to careless driving where the other people become their prey. The poor feel that their lives are not safe, the pedestrians think of uncertainty and the civilized persons drive in constant fear but still apprehensive about the obnoxious attitude of the people who project themselves as "larger than life". In such obtaining circumstances, we are bound to observe that the law-makers should scrutinize, relook and revisit the sentencing policy in Section 304-A IPC, so with immense anguish."

23. There can not be any disagreement with the concern expressed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment with regard to carelessness /recklessness of the drivers especially under the influence of alcohol. But in the instant case, as has been discussed above, prosecution is not able to prove beyond reasonable doubt that the ill fated vehicle was being driven by accused rashly and negligently, rather, version put forth by prosecution appears to be untrustworthy in view of material contradictions in the statements of the alleged eye witnesses, and as such, this Court sees no application of aforesaid law laid down by the Apex Court in the instant case.

24. This court in State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Dilwar Singh 2017(3) Him. L.R. 1938, has held as under:

> "11. After having carefully perused statements of PW-4 and PW-7, conclusion can be safely drawn by this Court that even PW-6 and PW-8, had no occasion to witness the accident with their eyes, rather, they came at the spot after noise made by PW-7. It is not understood when PW-6 and PW-8 had not witnessed the accident, with their eyes, how they could chase offending vehicle allegedly being driven by respondent, because, at the relevant time, none of the prosecution witnesses have stated that they had disclosed registration number of offending vehicle to PW-6 and PW-8. Even PW-1 and PW-5 nowhere stated that PW-6 and PW-8 were informed by them with regard to accident especially about registration number of offending vehicle, as such, story put forth by the prosecution does not appear to be trustworthy.

12. At the cost of repetition, it may be stated that it has nowhere come in the statement of any of the prosecution witnesses, who had an occasion to see the accident with their eyes, that immediately after accident, they informed PW-6 and PW-8 with regard to registration number of offending vehicle as well as accused, as such, story of accused being apprehended by PW-6 and PW-8, is not worth lending any credence, because, admittedly, they had no prior knowledge with regard to involvement of offending vehicle as well as accused in the accident.

13. Leaving everything aside, this Court was unable to find anything in the statements of prosecution witnesses, from where it could be inferred that vehicle was being driven rashly and negligently that too at high speed, by the respondent, as such, this Court sees substantial force in the defence taken by the accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 CrPC that he had not struck vehicle against Shri Milkhi Ram and Kurpal Ram.

14. Evidence discussed herein above is sufficient to hold that in given facts and circumstances, two views are possible in the present case and as such present, accused is entitled to the benefit of doubt. In the present case, prosecution story does not appear to be plausible/ trustworthy and as such same cannot be relied upon. In this regard, I may refer to the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in State of UP versus Ghambhir Singh, AIR 2005 (92) SCC 2440, where Hon'ble Apex Court has held that if on the same evidence, two views are reasonably possible, the one in favour of the accused must be preferred. The relevant paragraph is reproduced as under:-

> "6. So far as Hori Lal, PW-1 is concerned, he had been sent to fetch a basket from the village and it was only a matter of coincidence that while he was returning he witnessed the entire incident. The High Court did not consider it safe to rely on his testimony because he evidence clearly shows that he had an animus against the appellants. Moreover, he evidence was not corroborated by objective circumstances. Though it was his categorical case that all of them fired, no injury caused by rifle was found, and, only two wounds were found on the person of the deceased. Apart from this PW-3 did not mention the presence of either PW-1 or PW-2 at the time of occurrence. All these circumstances do create doubt about the truthfulness of the prosecution case. The presence of these three witnesses becomes doubtful if their evidence is critically scrutinized. May be it is also possible to take a view in favour of the prosecution, but since the High Court, on an appreciation of the evidence on record, has recorded a finding in favour of the accused, we do not feel persuaded to interfere with the order of the High Court in an appeal against acquittal. It is well settled that if on the same evidence two views are reasonably possible, the one in favour of the accused must be preferred.""

25. Thus, in view of the above judgment, if on the same evidence two views are reasonably possible, the one in favour of the accused must be preferred. In the case at hand, when identity of the accused as driver of the offending vehicle at the time of accident has not been established, he deserves to be extended benefit of doubt.

26. In view of above, this Court finds no reason to interfere with judgment dated 23.6.2009 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge (Fast Track Court), Dharamshala, District Kangra, Himachal Pradesh in Crl. Appeal No. 24-P/2007, which is accordingly upheld. In result, the appeal fails and is accordingly dismissed. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by accused are discharged. Pending applications, if any, are disposed of.

Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta vs. CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218
Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another, (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner: Mr. Ajay Shandil, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.
HC Jasbeer Singh, No. 79, I/O PP Kuthar, Police Station, Kasauli, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition filed under S.439 CrPC, prayer has been made on behalf of the petitioner for grant of regular bail in case FIR No. 28, dated 14.5.2019, under Ss. 379 and 34 IPC registered at Police Station, Kasauli, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh.

2. Sequel to order dated 20.6.2019, HC Jasbeer Singh has come present with the record. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General has also placed on record status report prepared by the investigating agency on the basis of investigation carried out by it. Record perused and returned.

3. Record made available to this Court reveals that on 30.5.2019, complainant Sanjay Garg, Contractor registered with HP PWD, lodged a complaint that his eleven drums of Charcoal have been stolen by some person from his tarring plant at Jepla. He further alleged that subsequently ten drums of Charcoal came to be recovered near Pick-up bearing registration No. HP-62-3303 at place Badlag. On the basis of aforesaid complaint having been made by the complainant, a formal FIR as detailed herein above, came to be lodged against the bail petitioner and co-accused Shiv Kumar, under S.379 read with S.34 IPC at Police Station Kasauli. Record further reveals that prior to lodging of aforesaid complaint by the complainant, Police had laid a Naka near Badlag-Chandi bifurcation and made an attempt to stop the Pick-up bearing registration No. HP-62-3303, but the driver of the said vehicle crashed the Naka and ran away with the vehicle as well as drums of Charcoal. Ultimately the Police party found the aforesaid vehicle parked at an isolated place on the link road at Chorang. Although driver and other occupant of the vehicle, unloaded the drums of Charcoal and fled away from the spot after locking the vehicle in question. On 14.5.2019, Police arrested both the accused and since then they are behind the bars.

4. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, on instructions of the Investigating Officer, fairly states that the investigation in the case is complete and no recovery is to be made from the bail petitioner. Learned Deputy Advocate General further states that the co-accused Shiv Kumar already stands enlarged on bail. While opposing prayer made in the present petition for grant of bail, Mr. Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General contends that the present bail petitioner is a habitual offender because within a period of six months, second case under S.379 IPC has been registered against him, as such, he does not deserve to be shown any leniency.

5. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, this court finds that ten drums of Charcoal came to be recovered from an isolated place near Link Road at Chorang. Though the vehicle in question was found parked near the Drums allegedly stolen by the accused, but it is not in dispute that the bail petitioner as well as co-accused were not apprehended from the spot, rather, they came to be arrested subsequently. Whether ten drums of Charcoal were stolen by the bail petitioner or not, is a question of trial and guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner is yet to be proved by the prosecution by leading cogent and convincing evidence. Vehicle allegedly used for carrying stolen drums of Charcoal belongs to another co-accused, Shiv Kumar, who stands already enlarged on bail.

6. Though aforesaid aspects of the matter are to be decided by the learned trial Court in the totality of evidence adduced before it by the prosecution, but taking note of the aforesaid glaring aspects as well as fair statement made by the learned Deputy Advocate General that the investigation is complete and nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner, this court sees no reason to curtail the freedom of the bail petitioner for an indefinite period during trial.

7. No doubt, record/status report reveals that prior to case at hand, one case was registered against the bail petitioner under S.379 IPC, but guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner is yet to be proved in that case. Moreover, there is nothing on record suggestive of the fact that the investigating agency had moved the court for cancellation of bail granted to the present bail petitioner in earlier case, as such, this court sees no impediment in accepting the prayer made in the instant application.

8. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. It has further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "2. A fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. However, there are instances in our criminal law where a reverse onus has been placed on an accused with regard to some specific offences but that is another matter and does not detract from the fundamental postulate in respect of other offences. Yet another important facet of our criminal jurisprudence is that the grant of bail is the general rule and putting a person in jail or in a prison or in a correction home (whichever expression one may wish to use) is an exception. Unfortunately, some of these basic principles appear to have been lost sight of with the result that more and more persons are being incarcerated and for longer periods. This does not do any good to our criminal jurisprudence or to our society.
>
> 3. There is no doubt that the grant or denial of bail is entirely the discretion of the judge considering a case but even so, the exercise of judicial discretion has been circumscribed by a large number of decisions rendered by this Court and by every High Court in the country. Yet, occasionally there is a necessity to introspect whether denying bail to an accused person is the right thing to do on the facts and in the circumstances of a case.
>
> 4. While so introspecting, among the factors that need to be considered is whether the accused was arrested during investigations when that person perhaps has the best opportunity to tamper with the evidence or influence witnesses. If the investigating officer does not find it necessary to arrest an accused person during investigations, a strong case should be made out for placing that person in judicial custody after a charge sheet is filed. Similarly, it is important to ascertain whether the accused was participating in the investigations to the satisfaction of the investigating officer and was not absconding or not appearing when required by the investigating officer. Surely, if an accused is not hiding from the investigating officer or is hiding due to some genuine and expressed fear of being victimised, it would be a factor that a judge would need to consider in an appropriate case. It is also necessary for the judge to consider whether the accused is a first-time offender or has been accused of other offences and if so, the nature of such offences and his or her general conduct. The poverty or the deemed indigent status of an accused is also an extremely important factor and even Parliament has taken notice of it by incorporating an Explanation to Section 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. An equally soft approach to incarceration has been taken by Parliament by inserting Section 436A in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.
> 5. To put it shortly, a humane attitude is required to be adopted by a judge, while dealing with an application for remanding a suspect or an accused person to police custody or judicial custody. There are several reasons for this including maintaining the dignity of an accused person, howsoever poor that person might be, the requirements of Article 21 of the Constitution and the fact that there is enormous overcrowding in prisons, leading to social and other problems as noticed by this Court in In Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons."

9. By now it is well settled that gravity alone cannot be a decisive ground to deny bail, rather competing factors are required to be balanced by the court while exercising its discretion. It has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sanjay Chandra versus Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 Supreme Court Cases 49; has been held as under:-

> "The object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it can be required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The Courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty. Detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In India , it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the propose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson."

10. Needless to say object of the bail is to secure the attendance of the accused in the trial and the proper test to be applied in the solution of the question whether bail should be granted or refused is whether it is probable that the party will appear to take his trial. Otherwise also, normal rule is of bail and not jail. Apart from above, Court has to keep in mind nature of accusations, nature of evidence in support thereof, severity of the punishment, which conviction will entail, character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused involved in that crime.

11 In Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta versus CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "This Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 40, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has > to be exercised with care and caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and that grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under-trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

12. The Apex Court in Prasanta Kumar Sarkar versus Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496, has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind, while deciding petition for bail:

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;

(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;

(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

13. In view of above, bail petitioner has carved out a case for himself and as such, present petition is allowed. Bail petitioner is ordered to be enlarged on bail, subject to his furnishing bail bonds in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rs. One Lakh) with one local surety in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned/trial court, besides the following conditions:

(a) He shall make himself available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

(b). He shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

(c) He shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and

(d) He shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

(e) He shall surrender passport, if any, held by him.

14. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses the liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

15. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

Cr. MP (M) No. 1161 of 2019
Decided on July 5, 2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439– Regular bail– Grant ofin a gang rape case– Prosecution objecting to grant of bail on ground of severity of offences– Held, on facts, victim herself accepted offer of one of the accused to have liquor and food with him in his house– All consumed liquor there together– Wife of accused also present in house– Highly improbable that wife of accused would sit outside room for hours together where victim was being raped– Prosecution story highly doubtful– Investigation is complete– Nothing is to be recovered from accused and there is no material suggesting that he would tamper with evidence if released on bail– Petition allowed– Accused ordered to be released on regular bail subject to conditions. Cases referred:
Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta vs.CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218
Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another, (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner	Mr. Rajiv Rai, Advocate.
For the respondent	Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General. SI Jeet Ram, Station House Officer, Police Station, Sangrah, Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

Bail petitioner, Anil Kumar, who is behind the bars since 27.3.2019, has approached this court in the instant proceedings filed under S.439 CrPC, seeking therein regular bail in FIR No. 29, dated 27.3.2019 under Ss. 376D, 342, 323 and 506 IPC, registered at Police Station Sangrah, Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh.

2. Sequel to order dated 21.6.2019, SI Jeet Ram has come present with the record. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General has also placed on record status report prepared by the investigating agency on the basis of investigation carried out by it. Record perused and returned.

3. Perusal of record/status report reveals that on 27.3.2019, victim-prosecutrix (name withheld) lodged a complaint at Police Station Sangrah, District Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh, alleging therein that on 25.3.2019, while she was going to cut grass at 2.30-3.00 pm, accused Anil, invited her to his house offering her grass and wine. It is further alleged that the victim-prosecutrix, on the askance of accused went to his house, where his wife and another accused namely Ashok Kumar were present. Wife of Anil Kumar provided food to victim-prosecutrix and thereafter all the persons present therein consumed liquor. It is alleged that wife of Anil Kumar, went to bring Biri from the nearby shop. In the meantime, bail petitioner incited co-accused Ashok Kumar to forcibly commit sexual assault upon the victim-prosecutrix. As per version of the victim-prosecutrix, bail petitioner forcibly unclothed her and pushed Ashok Kumar over her, who subsequently sexually assaulted the victim-prosecutrix against her wishes. It is also alleged that the bail petitioner and co-accused kept victim-prosecutrix in wrongful confinement for 3-4 hours. In the evening, accused allowed victim-prosecutrix to go to her house, who thereafter did not disclose incident to her family members on the same day, but, on the next day, she disclosed entire incident to her sister-in-law. FIR, as taken note herein above, came to be lodged against bail petitioner on 27.3.2019 and since then, he is behind the bars.

4. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, while fairly admitting the factum with regard to filing of Challan in the competent Court of law, contends that keeping in view the gravity of the offence alleged to have been committed by bail petitioner, he does not deserve any leniency, as such, prayer having been made on his behalf deserves to be rejected.

5. Mr. Rajiv Rai, learned counsel for the bail petitioner, while referring to the record, contends that no offence much less offence under S.376 IPC is made out against the bail petitioner, because, own statement of victim-prosecutrix clearly reveals that she, of her own volition, without there being any external pressure, joined the company of accused. He further contends that the story put forth by the victim-prosecutrix cannot be believed being highly improbable, because, as per her own statement, at the time of alleged incident, wife of the accused Anil Kumar (bail petitioner) was also present. Mr. Rai further states that there is nothing in the statement of the victim-prosecutrix that she made any attempt to raise hue and cry at the time of alleged incident, as such, story put forth by the prosecution is highly unbelievable.

6. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, especially statement of victim-prosecutrix recorded under S.164 CrPC, this court finds force in the argument of Mr. Rai that the story put forth by the prosecution is highly improbable. As per own statement of the victim-prosecutrix, she, on the askance of the bail petitioner, went to his house and thereafter consumed liquor and food with the persons present in the room. As per statement of victim-prosecutrix, wife of accused/bail petitioner Anil Kumar was also present on the spot but in the subsequent narration of events, there is no mention, if any, of wife of accused/bail petitioner, who had allegedly gone to fetch Biri. Interestingly, as per the statement of victim-prosecutrix made under S.164 CrPC, wife of the bail petitioner, after fetching Biri kept on sitting outside the room, where allegedly victim-prosecutrix was being raped by bail petitioner. Prosecution story though is yet to be proved on the basis of evidence collected on record by the investigating agency, but having perused the story put forth by the victim-prosecutrix, same appears to be untrustworthy. It cannot be accepted that a lady, whose husband is with some other lady in a room, would sit idle outside the same room, that too for 3-4 hours. Moreover, close scrutiny of the statement of victim-prosecutrix under S.164 CrPC, certainly compels this court to infer that the victim-prosecutrix, of her own volition, had come to the house of bail petitioner, that too accepting offer to have liquor alongwith the accused.

7. Though, aforesaid aspects of the matter are to be considered and decided by the learned trial Court in the totality of evidence collected on record by the investigating agency, but having noticed aforesaid glaring aspects of the matter, this court sees no reason to let the bail petitioner incarcerate in jail, for an indefinite period, especially when nothing is required to be recovered from him. Further, there is nothing to suggest that the bail petitioner, in the event of his being enlarged on bail, may tamper with the evidence or dissuade witnesses from deposing against him or flee from justice, as such, prayer made for grant of regular bail can be accepted.

8. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In India , it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the propose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson."

10. Needless to say object of the bail is to secure the attendance of the accused in the trial and the proper test to be applied in the solution of the question whether bail should be granted or refused is whether it is probable that the party will appear to take his trial. Otherwise also, normal rule is of bail and not jail. Apart from above, Court has to keep in mind nature of accusations, nature of evidence in support thereof, severity of the punishment, which conviction will entail, character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused involved in that crime.

11. In Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta versus CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "This Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 40, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has to be exercised with care and caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and that grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under-trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

12. The Apex Court in Prasanta Kumar Sarkar versus Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496,has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind, while deciding petition for bail:

- (i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;
- (ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;
- (iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;
- (iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;
- (v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;
- (vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;
- (vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and
- (viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

13. In view of above, bail petitioner has carved out a case for himself and as such, present petition is allowed. Bail petitioner is ordered to be enlarged on bail, subject to his furnishing bail bonds in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rs. One Lakh) with one local surety in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned/trial court, besides the following conditions:

> (a) He shall make himself available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

(b). He shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

(c) He shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and

(d) He shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

(e) He shall surrender passport, if any, held by him.

14. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses the liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

15. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

Sh. Jai Singh ...Petitioner
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh ...Respondent

Cr. MP (M) No. 1229 of 2019
Decided on July 5, 2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973–Section 438– Pre-arrest bail– Grant of- Circumstances– Accused involved in illicit transit of Khair wood in trucks in excess of what was permitted under transit permit seeking pre-arrest bail– State contesting petition on ground that accused was involved in commission of serious offences and demarcation of land from where Khair trees were cut, yet to be conducted– Held, on facts, custody of accused not required by investigating agency– Nothing is to be recovered from him- There is no allegation that in case of his release on bail, he will flee away or tamper with prosecution evidence– Petition allowed– Conditional bail granted. (Paras 3 to 6)

Cases referred:

Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta vs. CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218
Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another, (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner Mr. Suneet Goel, Advocate.
For the respondent Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.

ASI Rajpal, I/O, Police Station, Majra, Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition filed under S.438 CrPC, bail petitioner namely Jai Singh, has approached this court for grant of pre-arrest bail in FIR No. 95, dated 26.6.2019, under Ss. 379/34 IPC and Ss. 41 and 42 of the Indian Forest Act, registered at Police Station, Majra, District Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh.

2. Sequel to order dated 28.6.2019, whereby bail petitioner was ordered to be enlarged in the event of his arrest in the aforesaid FIR, subject to furnishing personal bonds in the sum of Rs.50,000/- with one surety in the like amount to the satisfaction of the arresting officer, ASI Rajpal has come present with the record. Mr. Sanjeev Sood, learned Additional Advocate General has also placed on record status report prepared by the investigating agency on the basis of investigation carried out by it. Record perused and returned.

3. Perusal of record/status report reveals that on 25.6.2019, Police having received an information that Trucks bearing registration Nos. HP71-2093 and NL02N-6711, carrying Khair wood are coming from Dhaula Kuan to Paonta Sahib, stopped the aforesaid trucks by laying a Naka on NH07 and recovered 2093 logs of Khair from Trucks bearing registration Nos. HP71-2093 and NL02N-6711. Though permits were produced by the occupants of vehicles, bearing Nos. 798 and 799, but on suspicion, police party contacted DFO concerned. On next day, the wood was got inspected and it was found that the Khair wood loaded in both the trucks exceeded the volume permitted in the permits and only a few of the logs were hammered. Accordingly, FIR, as detailed above, came to be registered against the bail petitioner, who in fact owned the Depot from where the Khair wood was loaded

4. Mr. Sanjeev Sood, learned Additional Advocate General, while fairly admitting that no recovery is to be made from the bail petitioner, contended that keeping in view the gravity of the offence alleged to have been committed by bail petitioner, he does not deserve any leniency, as such, prayer having been made on his behalf deserves to be rejected. Mr. Sood, learned Additional Advocate General further contended that demarcation of the land from where wood was cut, is yet to be carried out. Mr. Sood further raised an apprehension that in the event of bail petitioner being enlarged on bail, he may tamper with prosecution evidence or may dissuade the witnesses from deposing him, as such, prayed for rejection of the prayer for grant of bail. However, Mr. Sood stated that in case this court intends to grant bail to the bail petitioner, he may be imposed strict conditions so as to ensure presence of the bail petitioner during investigation and trial.

5. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, this court finds that no recovery is to be effected from the bail petitioner and as such his custodial interrogation is not required and further, no fruitful purpose will be served by keeping the bail petitioner behind the bars for an indefinite period, especially when his guilt has not been proved.

6. Though, the question with regard to involvement of the bail petitioner in the offences alleged against him is to be decided by the learned trial Court in the totality of evidence collected on record by the investigating agency, but in view of the fair statement made by learned Additional Advocate General that nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner and further that the bail petitioner has joined investigation, this court sees no reason to let the bail petitioner incarcerate the bail petitioner in jail, for an indefinite period, especially when nothing is required to be recovered from him. Further, there is nothing to suggest that the bail petitioner, in the event of his being enlarged on bail, may tamper with the evidence or dissuade witnesses from deposing against him, or flee from justice, as such, prayer made for grant of pre-arrest bail can be accepted. In any case, apprehension raised by learned Additional Advocate General can be met with by imposing stern conditions upon the bail petitioner.

7. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. It has further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "2. A fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. However, there are instances in our criminal law where a reverse onus has been placed on an accused with regard to some specific offences but that is another matter and does not detract from the fundamental postulate in respect of other offences. Yet another important facet of our criminal jurisprudence is that the grant of bail is the general rule and putting a person in jail or in a prison or in a correction home (whichever expression one may wish to use) is an exception. Unfortunately, some of these basic principles appear to have been lost sight of with the result that more and more persons are being incarcerated and for longer periods. This does not do any good to our criminal jurisprudence or to our society.
>
> 3. There is no doubt that the grant or denial of bail is entirely the discretion of the judge considering a case but even so, the exercise of judicial discretion has been circumscribed by a large number of decisions rendered by this Court and by every High Court in the country. Yet, occasionally there is a necessity to introspect whether denying bail to an accused person is the right thing to do on the facts and in the circumstances of a case.
> 4. While so introspecting, among the factors that need to be considered is whether the accused was arrested during investigations when that person perhaps has the best opportunity to tamper with the evidence or influence witnesses. If the investigating officer does not find it necessary to arrest an accused person during investigations, a strong case should be made out for placing that person in judicial custody after a charge sheet is filed. Similarly, it is important to ascertain whether the accused was participating in the investigations to the satisfaction of the investigating officer and was not absconding or not appearing when required by the investigating officer. Surely, if an accused is not hiding from the investigating officer or is hiding due to some genuine and expressed fear of being victimised, it would be a factor that a judge would need to consider in an appropriate case. It is also necessary for the judge to consider whether the accused is a first-time offender or has been accused of other offences and if so, the nature of such offences and his or her general conduct. The poverty or the deemed indigent status of an accused is also an extremely important factor and even

> Parliament has taken notice of it by incorporating an Explanation to Section 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. An equally soft approach to incarceration has been taken by Parliament by inserting Section 436A in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.
> 5. To put it shortly, a humane attitude is required to be adopted by a judge, while dealing with an application for remanding a suspect or an accused person to police custody or judicial custody. There are several reasons for this including maintaining the dignity of an accused person, howsoever poor that person might be, the requirements of Article 21 of the Constitution and the fact that there is enormous overcrowding in prisons, leading to social and other problems as noticed by this Court in In Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons."

8. By now it is well settled that gravity alone cannot be a decisive ground to deny bail, rather competing factors are required to be balanced by the court while exercising its discretion. It has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sanjay Chandra versus Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 Supreme Court Cases 49; has been held as under:-

> "The object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it can be required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The Courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty. Detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In India , it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Versus

Decided on July 8, 2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973– Section 439– Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes(Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989- Section 3(1)(s)– Regular bail– Grant of- Circumstances- Held, on facts, accused denying his involvement in commission of crime– He already having made himself available for investigation– Investigation is complete and only the vehicle owned by accused required to be impounded by police– Petition allowed– Accused granted bail subject to conditions. (Paras 5 to 7)

Cases referred:

Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta vs. CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218
Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another, (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner	Mr. Manoj Pathak, Advocate.
For the respondent	Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General. Inspector Vikas Sharma, Police Station, Rohru, District Shimla, Himachal Pradesh.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition filed under S.439 CrPC, prayer has been made on behalf of the petitioner for grant of regular bail in case FIR No. 69, dated 18.6.2019 under Ss. 341, 323 and 506 IPC and S.3(1)(s) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, registered at Police Station, Rohru, District Shimla, Himachal Pradesh.

2. Sequel to order dated 24.6.2019, Inspector Vikas Sharma, has come present with the record. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, has also placed on record status report prepared by the investigating agency on the basis of investigation carried out by it. Record perused and returned.

3. Before adverting to the factual matrix of the case, it may be noticed that on 24.6.2019, bail petitioner surrendered before this Court and thereafter, this court, after taking him into custody, released him on bail in the FIR detailed above, subject to furnishing of personal bonds in the sum of Rs.50,000/- subject to the satisfaction of learned Additional Registrar (Judicial). Vide aforesaid order, this court also directed the bail petitioner to join the investigation as and when required by the investigating agency.

4. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, on instructions of the Investigating Officer, fairly states that though pursuant to order dated 24.6.2019, bail petitioner has joined the investigation, but till date, he has not made available the Swift car bearing registration No. HP-10A-7705. However, aforesaid statement having been made by learned Deputy Advocate General has been seriously disputed by learned counsel for the bail petitioner. Mr. Manoj Pathak, Advocate, on the instructions of his client, who is present in the court, states that he owns Car bearing registration No. HP-10B-7705 and he was ready and willing to supply keys of the vehicle to the Dy.SP., but he refused to take the same.

5. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General states that investigation in the case is almost complete, save and except the recovery of vehicle in which bail petitioner alongwith other accused was traveling at the time of alleged incident.

6. Close scrutiny of the record reveals that on 18.6.2019, complainant Raman Resta, filed a complaint at Police Station, Rohru, alleging therein that on that day, at 9.30 pm, when he was going towards Samholi alongwith his friend Dinesh, his vehicle collided with another vehicle i.e. Trax Billu Badshah Rantari. Complainant further alleged that at that time, a Swift Car came on the spot and occupants of the car started hurling abuses at the complainant. Complainant specifically alleged that the occupants of the car not only abused him but also called him by his caste. On the basis of aforesaid complaint, a formal FIR, as detailed herein above, came to be lodged against the bail petitioner.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, this Court finds that the investigation in the case is complete, save and except, the car, registration number whereof has been taken note herein above, remains to be recovered from the bail petitioner, who states that at the time of alleged incident, he was neither driving the said Swift Car, nor was sitting in the same, however, he is ready and willing to hand over keys of car bearing registration No. HP-10B-7705. Since the bail petitioner has already made himself available for investigation, this court sees no reason for his custodial interrogation, as such, prayer made in the application at hand deserves to be allowed. Moreover, guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner is yet to be established on record by the prosecution by leading cogent and convincing evidence, as such, no fruitful purpose would be served in case freedom of bail petitioner is curtailed for an indefinite period during trial.

8. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. (vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

13. In view of above, bail petitioner has carved out a case for himself and as such, present petition is allowed. Order dated 24.6.2019 is made absolute, subject to bail petitioner furnishing fresh bail bonds in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rs. One Lakh) with one local surety in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the Investigating Officer concerned, besides the following conditions:

(a) He shall make himself available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

(b). He shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

(c) He shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and

(d) He shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

(e) He shall surrender passport, if any, held by him.

14. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses the liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

15. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

Parbatbhai Aahir @ Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur and others vs. State of Gujarat and Another, Criminal Appeal No.1723 of 2017 arising out of SLP(Crl) No.9549 of 2016

For the petitioner: Mr. Peeyush Verma, Advocate.

For the respondents: Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General with Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent No.1.
Mr. Arun Kumar Verma, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition filed under S.482 CrPC, petitioner has prayed for quashing of FIR No. 59, dated 26.3.2018 under Ss. 452, 427 and 506 IPC, registered at Police Station, Dhalli, Shimla, Himachal Pradesh.

2. Facts, in brief, are that FIR detailed herein above came to be lodged at the behest of respondent No.2/complainant, Smt. Urmila Devi on 26.3.2018 at Police Station, Dhalli, alleging therein that petitioner, who is otherwise related to her, trespassed into her property without there being any legal authority and thereafter caused damage to the same. After completion of investigation, Police presented Challan in the court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate Shimla and same is pending adjudication.

3. During pendency of the proceedings before the learned trial Court, petitioner and respondent No.2 have arrived at a compromise inter se them vide compromise dated 8.7.2019 (Ext. P-2).

4. On 13.5.2019, learned counsel representing the parties, while inviting attention of this Court to compromise placed on record, prayed that FIR as well as consequential proceedings pending in the learned trial Court may be ordered to be quashed and set aside in view of amicable settlement arrived inter se parties. This court, with a view to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of the compromise placed on record, directed the parties to remain present in court.

5. At this stage, Mr. Arun Kumar Verma, learned counsel for respondent No.2 also placed on record a copy of detailed compromise arrived inter se parties, to demonstrate that in light of terms and conditions of the compromise, both the parties have now mutually agreed to resolve their dispute.

6. Today, the parties have come present. Smt. Urmila Devi, respondent No.2/complainant on oath stated that she of her own volition and without there being any external pressure has entered into compromise with the petitioner, whereby she and petitioner have resolved to settle their dispute amicably inter se them. She also states that the compromise placed on record bears her signatures. She specifically stated that in view of compromise arrived inter se parties, she shall have no objection in case FIR detailed herein above is quashed and set aside alongwith consequential criminal proceedings pending in the court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Shimla. Her statement is taken on record.

7. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, having perused compromise placed on record as well as statement having been made by respondent No.2, fairly states that no fruitful purpose will be served in case FIR in question, lodged at the behest of respondent No.2 is allowed to continue, as such, prayer made in the petition for quashing the same, may be allowed.

8. The question which now needs consideration is whether the FIR at hand can be ordered to be quashed when Hon'ble Apex Court in Narinder Singh and others versus State of Punjab and another (2014)6 SCC 466 has specifically held that power under S. 482 CrPC is not to be exercised in the cases which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society.

9. At this stage, it would be relevant take note of the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Narinder Singh (supra), whereby the Hon'ble Apex Court has formulated guidelines for accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings. Perusal of judgment referred to above clearly depicts that in para 29.1, Hon'ble Apex Court has returned the findings that power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable and where the parties have settled the matter between themselves, however, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with great caution. Para Nos. 29 to 29.7 of the judgment are reproduced as under:-

> "29. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we sum up and lay down the following principles by which the High Court would be guided in giving adequate treatment to the settlement between the parties and exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code while accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings:
>
> 29.1 Power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash the criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable, where the parties have settled the matter between themselves. However, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with caution.
>
> 29.2. When the parties have reached the settlement and on that basis petition for quashing the criminal proceedings is filed, the guiding factor in such cases would be to secure:
>
> (i) ends of justice, or
>
> (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court.
>
> While exercising the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C the High Court is to form an opinion on either of the aforesaid two objectives.
>
> 29.3. Such a power is not be exercised in those prosecutions which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, for offences alleged to have been committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by Public Servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender.
>
> 29.4. On the other, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and pre-dominantly civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes should be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.
>
> 29.5. While exercising its powers, the High Court is to examine as to whether the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal cases would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal cases.
> 29.6. Offences under Section 307 IPC would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore is to be generally treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to proving the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delegate parts of the body, nature of weapons used etc. Medical report in respect of injuries suffered by the victim can generally be the guiding factor. On the basis of this prima facie analysis, the High Court can examine as to whether there is a strong possibility of conviction or the chances of conviction are remote and bleak. In the former case it can refuse to accept the settlement and quash the criminal proceedings whereas in the later case it would be permissible for the High Court to accept the plea compounding the offence based on complete settlement between the parties. At this stage, the Court can also be swayed by the fact that the settlement between the parties is going to result in harmony between them which may improve their future relationship.

29.7. While deciding whether to exercise its power under Section 482 of the Code or not, timings of settlement play a crucial role. Those cases where the settlement is arrived at immediately after the alleged commission of offence and the matter is still under investigation, the High Court may be liberal in accepting the settlement to quash the criminal proceedings/investigation. It is because of the reason that at this stage the investigation is still on and even the charge sheet has not been filed. Likewise, those cases where the charge is framed but the evidence is yet to start or the evidence is still at infancy stage, the High Court can show benevolence in exercising its powers favourably, but after prima facie assessment of the circumstances/material mentioned above. On the other hand, where the prosecution evidence is almost complete or after the conclusion of the evidence the matter is at the stage of argument, normally the High Court should refrain from exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code, as in such cases the trial court would be in a position to decide the case finally on merits and to come a conclusion as to whether the offence under Section 307 IPC is committed or not. Similarly, in those cases where the conviction is already recorded by the trial court and the matter is at the appellate stage before the High Court, mere compromise between the parties would not be a ground to accept the same resulting in acquittal of the offender who has already been convicted by the trial court. Here charge is proved under Section 307 IPC and conviction is already recorded of a heinous crime and, therefore, there is no question of sparing a convict found guilty of such a crime".

10. Careful perusal of para 29.3 of the judgment suggests that such a power is not to be exercised in the cases which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Apart from this, offences committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by Public Servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender. On the other hand, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominantly civil character, particularly arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes may be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

11. In the case at hand, the dispute is more of a civil dispute, which is between relatives due to some misunderstanding.

12. The Hon'ble Apex Court in case Gian Singh v. State of Punjab and anr. (2012) 10 SCC 303 has held that power of the High Court in quashing of the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent power is distinct and different from the power of a Criminal Court for compounding offences under Section 320 Cr.PC. Even in the judgment passed in Narinder Singh's case, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that while exercising inherent power of quashment under Section 482 Cr.PC the Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime and its social impact and it cautioned the Courts not to exercise the power for quashing proceedings in heinous and serious offences of mental depravity, murder, rape, dacoity etc. However subsequently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Dimpey Gujral and Ors. vs. Union Territory through Administrator, UT, Chandigarh and Ors. (2013(11 SCC 497 has also held as under:-

> "7. In certain decisions of this Court in view of the settlement arrived at by the parties, this Court quashed the FIRs though some of the offences were non-compoundable. A two Judges' Bench of this court doubted the correctness of those decisions. Learned Judges felt that in those decisions, this court had permitted compounding of non-compoundable offences. The said issue was, therefore, referred to a larger bench.
>
> The larger Bench in Gian Singh v. State of Punjab (2012) 10 SCC 303 considered the relevant provisions of the Code and the judgments of this court and concluded as under: (SCC pp. 342-43, para 61)
> 61. The position that emerges from the above discussion can be summarised thus: the power of the High Court in quashing a criminal proceeding or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction is distinct and different from the power given to a criminal court for compounding the offences under Section 320 of the Code. Inherent power is of wide plenitude with no statutory limitation but it has to be exercised in accord with the guideline engrafted in such power viz; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or F.I.R may be exercised where the offender and victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no category can be prescribed. However, before exercise of such power, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime. Heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. cannot be fittingly quashed even though the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. Such offences are not private in nature and have serious impact on society. Similarly, any compromise between the victim and offender in relation to the offences under special statutes like Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity etc; cannot provide for any basis for quashing criminal proceedings involving such offences. But the criminal cases having overwhelmingly and pre-dominatingly civil flavour stand on different footing for the purposes of quashing, particularly the offences arising from commercial, financial, mercantile, civil, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony relating to dowry, etc. or the family disputes where the wrong is basically private or personal in nature and the parties have resolved their entire dispute. In this category of cases, High Court may quash criminal proceedings if in its view, because of the compromise between the offender and victim, the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal case would put accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal case despite full and complete settlement and compromise with the victim. In other words, the High Court must consider whether it would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue with the criminal proceeding or continuation of the criminal proceeding would tantamount to abuse of process of law despite settlement and compromise between the victim and wrongdoer and whether to secure the ends of justice, it is appropriate that criminal case is put to an end and if the answer to the above question(s) is in affirmative, the High Court shall be well within its jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceeding." (emphasis supplied)

8. In the light of the above observations of this court in Gian Singh, we feel that this is a case where the continuation of criminal proceedings would tantamount to abuse of process of law because the alleged offences are not heinous offences showing extreme depravity nor are they against the society. They are offences of a personal nature and burying them would bring about peace and amity between the two sides. In the circumstances of the case, FIR No. 163 dated 26.10.2006 registered under Section 147, 148, 149, 323, 307, 452 and 506 of the IPC at Police Station Sector 3, Chandigarh and all consequential proceedings arising there from including the final report presented under Section 173 of the Code and charges framed by the trial Court are hereby quashed."

13. Recently the Hon'ble Apex Court in its latest judgment dated 4th October, 2017, titled as Parbatbhai Aahir @ Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur and others versus State of Gujarat and Another, passed in Criminal Appeal No.1723 of 2017 arising out of SLP(Crl) No.9549 of 2016, reiterated the principles/ parameters laid down in Narinder Singh's case supra for accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings. It would be profitable to reproduce para No. 13 to 15 of the judgment herein:

"13. The same principle was followed in Central Bureau of Investigation v. Maninder Singh (2016)1 SCC 389 by a bench of two learned Judges of this Court. In that case, the High Court had, in the exercise of its inherent power under Section 482 quashed proceedings under Sections 420, 467, 468 and 471 read with Section 120-B of the Penal Code. While allowing the appeal filed by the Central Bureau of Investigation Mr Justice Dipak Misra (as the learned Chief Justice then was) observed that the case involved allegations of forgery of documents to embezzle the funds of the bank. In such a situation, the fact that the dispute had been settled with the bank would not justify a recourse to thepower under Section 482:

"…In economic offences Court must not only keep in view that money has been paid to the bank which has been defrauded but also the society at large. It is not a case of simple assault or a theft of a trivial amount; but the offence with which we are concerned is well planned and was committed with a deliberate design with an eye of personal profit regardless of consequence to the society at large. To quash the proceeding merely on the ground that the accused has settled the amount with the bank would be a misplaced sympathy. If the prosecution against the economic offenders are not allowed to continue, the entire community is aggrieved."

14. In a subsequent decision in State of Tamil Nadu v R Vasanthi Stanley (2016) 1 SCC 376, the court rejected the submission that the first respondent was a woman "who was following the command of her husband" and had signed certain documents without being aware of the nature of the fraud which was being perpetrated on the bank. Rejecting the submission, this Court held that:

"... Lack of awareness, knowledge or intent is neither to be considered nor accepted in economic offences. The submission assiduously presented on gender leaves us unimpressed. An offence under the criminal law is an offence and it does not depend upon the gender of an accused. True it is, there are certain provisions in Code of Criminal Procedure relating to exercise of jurisdiction Under Section 437, etc.

therein but that altogether pertains to a different sphere. A person committing a murder or getting involved in a financial scam or forgery of documents, cannot claim discharge or acquittal on the ground of her gender as that is neither constitutionally nor statutorily a valid argument. The offence is gender neutral in this case. We say no more on this score…"

"…A grave criminal offence or serious economic offence or for that matter the offence that has the potentiality to create a dent in the financial health of the institutions, is not to be quashed on the ground that there is delay in trial or the principle that when the matter has been settled it should be quashed to avoid the load on the system…"

15. The broad principles which emerge from the precedents on the subject may be summarized in the following propositions:

(i) Section 482 preserves the inherent powers of the High Court to prevent an abuse of the process of any court or to secure the ends of justice. The provision does not confer new powers. It only recognizes and preserves powers which inhere in the High Court;

(ii) The invocation of the jurisdiction of the High Court to quash a First Information Report or a criminal proceeding on the ground that a settlement has been arrived at between the offender and the victim is not the same as the invocation of jurisdiction for the purpose of compounding an offence. While compounding an offence, the power of the court is governed by the provisions of Section 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The power to quash under Section 482 is attracted even if the offence is non-compoundable.

(iii) In forming an opinion whether a criminal proceeding or complaint should be quashed in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482, the High Court must evaluate whether the ends of justice would justify the exercise of the inherent power;

(iv) While the inherent power of the High Court has a wide ambit and plenitude it has to be exercised; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent an abuse of the process of any court;

(v) The decision as to whether a complaint or First Information Report should be quashed on the ground that the offender and victim have settled the dispute, revolves ultimately on the facts and circumstances of each case and no exhaustive elaboration of principles can be formulated;

vi) In the exercise of the power under Section 482 and while dealing with a plea that the dispute has been settled, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous and serious offences involving mental depravity or offences such as murder, rape and dacoity cannot appropriately be quashed though the victim or the family of the victim have settled the dispute. Such offences are, truly speaking, not private in nature but have a serious impact upon society. The decision to continue with the trial in such cases is founded on the overriding element of public interest in punishing persons for serious offences;

(vii) As distinguished from serious offences, there may be criminal cases which have an overwhelming or predominant element of a civil dispute. They stand on a distinct footing in so far as the exercise of the inherent power to quash is concerned;

(viii) Criminal cases involving offences which arise from commercial, financial, mercantile, partnership or similar transactions with an essentially civil flavour may in appropriate situations fall for quashing where parties have settled the dispute;

(ix) In such a case, the High Court may quash the criminal proceeding if in view of the compromise between the disputants, the possibility of a conviction is remote and the continuation of a criminal proceeding would cause oppression and prejudice; and

(x) There is yet an exception to the principle set out in propositions (viii) and (ix) above. Economic offences involving the financial and economic well-being of the state have implications which lie beyond the domain of a mere dispute between private disputants. The High Court would be justified in declining to quash where the offender is involved in an activity akin to a financial or economic fraud or misdemeanour. The consequences of the act complained of upon the financial or economic system will weigh in the balance."

14. Since the matter stands compromised between complainant and accused, no fruitful purpose would be served in case proceedings initiated at the behest of respondent No.2 are allowed to continue. Moreover, the complainant has compromised the matter and she is no longer interested in carrying on with the criminal proceedings against the accused. Otherwise also, possibility of conviction in the case is bleak and remote, since complainant herself is not interested in carrying on with the criminal proceedings initiated at her behest.

15. Consequently, in view of the aforesaid discussion as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court (supra), FIR No. 59, dated 26.3.2018 under Ss. 452, 427 and 506 IPC, registered at Police Station, Dhalli, Shimla, Himachal Pradesh against petitioner and consequential proceedings pending before learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Shimla are quashed and set aside. Petitioner is acquitted of the offences levelled against him in the aforesaid FIR.

16. The petition stands disposed of in the aforesaid terms, alongwith all pending applications.

For the petitioners: Mr. Peeyush Verma, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General with Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General, for respondent No.1.
Mr. Arun Kumar Verma, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition filed under S.482 CrPC, petitioners have prayed for quashing of FIR No. 25, dated 2.2.2018 under Ss. 420, 465, 467, 468 and 471 IPC, registered at Police Station, Dhalli, Shimla, Himachal Pradesh and consequential proceedings pending before learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class(4), Shimla, Himachal Pradesh.

2. Facts in brief are that FIR detailed herein above came to be lodged at the behest of respondent No.2/complainant, Smt. Urmila Devi on 2.2.2018 at Police Station, Dhalli, who alleged that petitioner No.1, who otherwise is related to her, handed over trees to petitioners No.2 and 3 for extraction of resin without any authority. After completion of investigation, Police presented Challan in the court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class (4), Shimla and same is pending adjudication.

3. During pendency of the proceedings before the learned trial Court, petitioner No.1 and respondent No.2 have arrived at a compromise inter se them vide compromise dated 8.7.2019 (Ext. P-2).

4. On 13.5.2019, learned counsel representing the parties, while inviting attention of this Court to compromise placed on record, prayed that FIR as well as consequential proceedings pending in the learned trial Court may be ordered to be quashed and set aside in view of amicable settlement arrived inter se parties. This court, with a view to ascertain the genuineness and correctness of the compromise placed on record, directed the parties to remain present in court.

5. At this stage, Mr. Arun Kumar Verma, learned counsel for respondent No.2 also placed on record a copy of detailed compromise arrived inter se parties, to demonstrate that in light of terms and conditions of the compromise, both the parties have now mutually agreed to resolve their dispute.

6. Today, the parties have come present. Smt. Urmila Devi, respondent No.2/complainant on oath stated that she of her own volition and without there being any external pressure has entered into compromise with the petitioner No.1, whereby she and petitioner No.1 have resolved to settle their dispute amicably inter se them. She also states that the compromise placed on record bears her signatures. She specifically stated that in view of compromise arrived inter se parties, she shall have no objection in case FIR detailed herein above is quashed and set aside alongwith consequential criminal proceedings pending in the court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class (4), Shimla. Her statement is taken on record.

7. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, having perused compromise placed on record as well as statement having been made by respondent No.2, fairly states that no fruitful purpose will be served in case FIR in question, lodged at the behest of respondent No.2 is allowed to continue, as such, prayer made in the petition for quashing the same, may be allowed.

8. The question which now needs consideration is whether FIR in question can be ordered to be quashed when Hon'ble Apex Court in Narinder Singh and others versus State of Punjab and another (2014)6 SCC 466 has specifically held that power under S. 482 CrPC is not to be exercised in the cases which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society.

9. At this stage, it would be relevant take note of the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Narinder Singh (supra), whereby the Hon'ble Apex Court has formulated guidelines for accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings. Perusal of judgment referred to above clearly depicts that in para 29.1, Hon'ble Apex Court has returned the findings that power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable and where the parties have settled the matter between themselves, however, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with great caution. Para Nos. 29 to 29.7 of the judgment are reproduced as under:-

On the other, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and pre-dominantly civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes should be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

29.5. While exercising its powers, the High Court is to examine as to whether the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal cases would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal cases.

29.6. Offences under Section 307 IPC would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore is to be generally treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to proving the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delegate parts of the body, nature of weapons used etc. Medical report in respect of injuries suffered by the victim can generally be the guiding factor. On the basis of this prima facie analysis, the High Court can examine as to whether there is a strong possibility of conviction or the chances of conviction are remote and bleak. In the former case it can refuse to accept the settlement and quash the criminal proceedings whereas in the later case it would be permissible for the High Court to accept the plea compounding the offence based on complete settlement between the parties. At this stage, the Court can also be swayed by the fact that the settlement between the parties is going to result in harmony between them which may improve their future relationship.

29.7. While deciding whether to exercise its power under Section 482 of the Code or not, timings of settlement play a crucial role. Those cases where the settlement is arrived at immediately after the alleged commission of offence and the matter is still under investigation, the High Court may be liberal in accepting the settlement to quash the criminal proceedings/investigation. It is because of the reason that at this stage the investigation is still on and even the charge sheet has not been filed. Likewise, those cases where the charge is framed but the evidence is yet to start or the evidence is still at infancy stage, the High Court can show benevolence in exercising its powers favourably, but after prima facie assessment of the circumstances/material mentioned above. On the other hand, where the prosecution evidence is almost complete or after the conclusion of the evidence the matter is at the stage of argument, normally the High Court should refrain from exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code, as in such cases the trial court would be in a position to decide the case finally on merits and to come a conclusion as to whether the offence under Section 307 IPC is committed or not. Similarly, in those cases where the conviction is already recorded by the trial court and the matter is at the appellate stage before the High Court, mere compromise between the parties would not be a ground to accept the same resulting in acquittal of the offender who has already been convicted by the trial court. Here charge is proved under Section 307

IPC and conviction is already recorded of a heinous crime and, therefore, there is no question of sparing a convict found guilty of such a crime".

10. Careful perusal of para 29.3 of the judgment suggests that such a power is not to be exercised in the cases which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Apart from this, offences committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by Public Servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender. On the other hand, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominantly civil character, particularly arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes may be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

11. In the case at hand, the dispute is more of a civil dispute, which is between relatives due to some misunderstanding.

12. The Hon'ble Apex Court in case Gian Singh v. State of Punjab and anr. (2012) 10 SCC 303 has held that power of the High Court in quashing of the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent power is distinct and different from the power of a Criminal Court for compounding offences under Section 320 Cr.PC. Even in the judgment passed in Narinder Singh's case, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that while exercising inherent power of quashment under Section 482 Cr.PC the Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime and its social impact and it cautioned the Courts not to exercise the power for quashing proceedings in heinous and serious offences of mental depravity, murder, rape, dacoity etc. However subsequently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Dimpey Gujral and Ors. vs. Union Territory through Administrator, UT, Chandigarh and Ors. (2013(11 SCC 497 has also held as under:-

> "7. In certain decisions of this Court in view of the settlement arrived at by the parties, this Court quashed the FIRs though some of the offences were non-compoundable. A two Judges' Bench of this court doubted the correctness of those decisions. Learned Judges felt that in those decisions, this court had permitted compounding of non-compoundable offences. The said issue was, therefore, referred to a larger bench.
>
> The larger Bench in Gian Singh v. State of Punjab (2012) 10 SCC 303 considered the relevant provisions of the Code and the judgments of this court and concluded as under: (SCC pp. 342-43, para 61)
> 61. The position that emerges from the above discussion can be summarised thus: the power of the High Court in quashing a criminal proceeding or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction is distinct and different from the power given to a criminal court for compounding the offences under Section 320 of the Code. Inherent power is of wide plenitude with no statutory limitation but it has to be exercised in accord with the guideline engrafted in such power viz; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or F.I.R may be exercised where the offender and victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no category can be prescribed. However, before exercise of such power, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime. Heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. cannot be fittingly quashed even though the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. Such offences are not private in nature and have serious impact on society. Similarly, any compromise between the victim and offender in relation to the offences under special statutes like Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity etc; cannot provide for any basis for quashing criminal proceedings involving such offences. But the criminal cases having overwhelmingly and pre-dominatingly civil flavour stand on different footing for the purposes of quashing, particularly the offences arising from commercial, financial, mercantile, civil, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony relating to dowry, etc. or the family disputes where the wrong is basically private or personal in nature and the parties have resolved their entire dispute. In this category of cases, High Court may quash criminal proceedings if in its view, because of the compromise between the offender and victim, the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal case would put accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal case despite full and complete settlement and compromise with the victim. In other words, the High Court must consider whether it would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue with the criminal proceeding or continuation of the criminal proceeding would tantamount to abuse of process of law despite settlement and compromise between the victim and wrongdoer and whether to secure the ends of justice, it is appropriate that criminal case is put to an end and if the answer to the above question(s) is in affirmative, the High Court shall be well within its jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceeding." (emphasis supplied)

8. In the light of the above observations of this court in Gian Singh, we feel that this is a case where the continuation of criminal proceedings would tantamount to abuse of process of law because the alleged offences are not heinous offences showing extreme depravity nor are they against the society. They are offences of a personal nature and burying them would bring about peace and amity between the two sides. In the circumstances of the case, FIR No. 163 dated 26.10.2006 registered under Section 147, 148, 149, 323, 307, 452 and 506 of the IPC at Police Station Sector 3, Chandigarh and all consequential proceedings arising there from including the final report presented under Section 173 of the Code and charges framed by the trial Court are hereby quashed."

13. Recently the Hon'ble Apex Court in its latest judgment dated 4th October, 2017, titled as Parbatbhai Aahir @ Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur and others versus State of Gujarat and Another, passed in Criminal Appeal No.1723 of 2017 arising out of SLP(Crl) No.9549 of 2016, reiterated the principles/ parameters laid down in Narinder Singh's case supra for accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings. It would be profitable to reproduce para No. 13 to 15 of the judgment herein:

"13. The same principle was followed in Central Bureau of Investigation v. Maninder Singh (2016)1 SCC 389 by a bench of two learned Judges of this Court. In that case, the High Court had, in the exercise of its inherent power under Section 482 quashed proceedings under Sections 420, 467, 468 and 471 read with Section 120-B of the Penal Code. While allowing the appeal filed by the Central Bureau of Investigation Mr Justice Dipak Misra (as the learned Chief Justice then was) observed that the case involved allegations of forgery of documents to embezzle the funds of the bank. In such a situation, the fact that the dispute had been settled with the bank would not justify a recourse to thepower under Section 482:

"…In economic offences Court must not only keep in view that money has been paid to the bank which has been defrauded but also the society at large. It is not a case of > simple assault or a theft of a trivial amount; but the offence with which we are concerned is well planned and was committed with a deliberate design with an eye of personal profit regardless of consequence to the society at large. To quash the proceeding merely on the ground that the accused has settled the amount with the bank would be a misplaced sympathy. If the prosecution against the economic offenders are not allowed to continue, the entire community is aggrieved."

14. In a subsequent decision in State of Tamil Nadu v R Vasanthi Stanley (2016) 1 SCC 376, the court rejected the submission that the first respondent was a woman "who was following the command of her husband" and had signed certain documents without being aware of the nature of the fraud which was being perpetrated on the bank. Rejecting the submission, this Court held that:

> "... Lack of awareness, knowledge or intent is neither to be considered nor accepted in economic offences. The submission assiduously presented on gender leaves us unimpressed. An offence under the criminal law is an offence and it does not depend upon the gender of an accused. True it is, there are certain provisions in Code of Criminal Procedure relating to exercise of jurisdiction Under Section 437, etc. therein but that altogether pertains to a different sphere. A person committing a murder or getting involved in a financial scam or forgery of documents, cannot claim discharge or acquittal on the ground of her gender as that is neither constitutionally nor statutorily a valid argument. The offence is gender neutral in this case. We say no more on this score..."

> "...A grave criminal offence or serious economic offence or for that matter the offence that has the potentiality to create a dent in the financial health of the institutions, is not to be quashed on the ground that there is delay in trial or the principle that when the matter has been settled it should be quashed to avoid the load on the system..."

15. The broad principles which emerge from the precedents on the subject may be summarized in the following propositions:

(i) Section 482 preserves the inherent powers of the High Court to prevent an abuse of the process of any court or to secure the ends of justice. The provision does not confer new powers. It only recognizes and preserves powers which inhere in the High Court;

(ii) The invocation of the jurisdiction of the High Court to quash a First Information Report or a criminal proceeding on the ground that a settlement has been arrived at between the offender and the victim is not the same as the invocation of jurisdiction for the purpose of compounding an offence. While compounding an offence, the power of the court is governed by the provisions of Section 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The power to quash under Section 482 is attracted even if the offence is non-compoundable.

(iii) In forming an opinion whether a criminal proceeding or complaint should be quashed in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482, the High Court must evaluate whether the ends of justice would justify the exercise of the inherent power;

(iv) While the inherent power of the High Court has a wide ambit and plenitude it has to be exercised; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent an abuse of the process of any court;

(v) The decision as to whether a complaint or First Information Report should be quashed on the ground that the offender and victim have settled the dispute, revolves ultimately on the facts and circumstances of each case and no exhaustive elaboration of principles can be formulated;

vi) In the exercise of the power under Section 482 and while dealing with a plea that the dispute has been settled, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous and serious offences involving mental depravity or offences such as murder, rape and dacoity cannot appropriately be quashed though the victim or the family of the victim have settled the dispute. Such offences are, truly speaking, not private in nature but have a serious impact upon society. The decision to continue with the trial in such cases is founded on the overriding element of public interest in punishing persons for serious offences;

(vii) As distinguished from serious offences, there may be criminal cases which have an overwhelming or predominant element of a civil dispute. They stand on a distinct footing in so far as the exercise of the inherent power to quash is concerned;

(viii) Criminal cases involving offences which arise from commercial, financial, mercantile, partnership or similar transactions with an essentially civil flavour may in appropriate situations fall for quashing where parties have settled the dispute;

(ix) In such a case, the High Court may quash the criminal proceeding if in view of the compromise between the disputants, the possibility of a conviction is remote and the continuation of a criminal proceeding would cause oppression and prejudice; and

(x) There is yet an exception to the principle set out in propositions (viii) and (ix) above. Economic offences involving the financial and economic well-being of the state have implications which lie beyond the domain of a mere dispute between private disputants. The High Court would be justified in declining to quash where the offender is involved in an activity akin to a financial or economic fraud or misdemeanour. The consequences of the act complained of upon the financial or economic system will weigh in the balance.”

14. Since the matter stands compromised between complainant and accused, no fruitful purpose would be served in case proceedings initiated at the behest of respondent No.2 are allowed to continue. Moreover, the complainant has compromised the matter and she is no longer interested in carrying on with the criminal proceedings against the accused. Otherwise also, possibility of conviction in the case is bleak and remote, since complainant herself is not interested in carrying on with the criminal proceedings initiated at her behest.

15. Consequently, in view of the aforesaid discussion as well as law laid down by the Hon’ble Apex Court (supra), FIR No. 25, dated 2.2.2018 under Ss. 420, 465, 467, 468 and 471 IPC, registered at Police Station, Dhalli, Shimla, Himachal Pradesh and consequential proceedings pending before learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class (4), Shimla, are quashed and set aside. Petitioner No.1 is acquitted of the offences levelled against him in the aforesaid FIR.

16. The petition stands disposed of in the aforesaid terms, alongwith all pending applications.

BEFORE HON’BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

Raj Kumar …Petitioner

Versus

State of Himachal Pradesh …Respondent

Cr. MP (M) No. 1118 of 2019
Decided on July 9, 2019

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438– Pre-arrest bail– Grant of- Circumstances– Petitioner seeking bail in case registered against him for fraud and forgery- Held, on facts, investigation is complete– Custody of accused is not required for further investigation– Pre-arrest bail granted subject to stringent conditions. (Paras 3 to 5 and 11)

Cases referred:
Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta vs. CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218
Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another, (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner	Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Senior Advocate with Mr. Ishan Sharma, Advocate.
For the respondent	Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General. ASI Dilu Ram, I/O, Police Station, Kumarsain, Shimla, Himachal Pradesh.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition filed under S.438 CrPC, prayer has been made on behalf of the bail petitioner, for grant of pre-arrest bail in FIR No.7, dated 17.1.2019 under Ss.420, 467 and 468 IPC registered at Police Station, Kumarsain, District Shimla, Himachal Pradesh.

2. Pursuant to order dated 28.6.2019, ASI Dilu Ram has come present with the record. Mr. Sanjeev Sood, learned Additional Advocate General has also placed on record status report prepared by the investigating agency on the basis of investigation carried out by it. Record perused and returned.

3. Mr. Sanjeev Sood, learned Additional Advocate General, on the instructions of the Investigating Officer, who is present in the court, fairly states that the bail petitioner has joined the investigation and is fully cooperating. Learned Additional Advocate General further states that nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner, however, in case this Court intends to grant bail to the bail petitioner, he may be put to stringent conditions to ensure that he joins the investigation as and when required by the investigating agency.

4. Since the bail petitioner has already joined the investigation and is fully cooperating with the investigating agency, this court sees no reason to send the bail petitioner for custodial interrogation, especially when investigation is complete and nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner.

5. Otherwise also, guilt, if any, of the bail petitioner is yet to be proved in accordance with law by the prosecution, as such, it would not be appropriate to curtail the freedom of bail petitioner for an indefinite period, especially when nothing remains to be recovered from him. Apprehension expressed by learned Additional Advocate General that in event of bail petitioner being enlarged, he may tamper with the evidence, can be best met by putting bail petitioner to stringent conditions, as has been fairly admitted by learned counsel for the bail petitioner.

6. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. It has further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "2. A fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. However, there are instances in our criminal law where a reverse onus has been placed on an accused with regard to some specific offences but that is another matter and does not detract from the fundamental postulate in respect of other offences. Yet another important facet of our criminal jurisprudence is that the grant of bail is the general rule and putting a person in jail or in a prison or in a correction home (whichever expression one may wish to use) is an exception. Unfortunately, some of these basic principles appear to have been lost sight of with the result that more and more persons are being incarcerated and for longer periods. This does not do any good to our criminal jurisprudence or to our society.
>
> 3. There is no doubt that the grant or denial of bail is entirely the discretion of the judge considering a case but even so, the exercise of judicial discretion has been circumscribed by a large number of decisions rendered by this Court and by every High Court in the country. Yet, occasionally there is a necessity to introspect whether denying bail to an accused person is the right thing to do on the facts and in the circumstances of a case.
> 4. While so introspecting, among the factors that need to be considered is whether the accused was arrested during investigations when that person perhaps has the best opportunity to tamper with the evidence or influence witnesses. If the investigating officer does not find it necessary to arrest an accused person during investigations, a strong case should be made out for placing that person in judicial custody after a charge sheet is filed. Similarly, it is important to ascertain whether the accused was participating in the investigations to the satisfaction of the investigating officer and was not absconding or not appearing when required by the investigating officer. Surely, if an accused is not hiding from the investigating officer or is hiding due to some genuine and expressed fear of being victimised, it would be a factor that a judge would need to consider in an appropriate case. It is also necessary for the judge to consider whether the accused is a first-time offender or has been accused of other offences and if so, the nature of such offences and his or her general conduct. The poverty or the deemed indigent status of an accused is also an extremely important factor and even Parliament has taken notice of it by incorporating an Explanation to Section 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. An equally soft approach to incarceration has been taken by Parliament by inserting Section 436A in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

5. To put it shortly, a humane attitude is required to be adopted by a judge, while dealing with an application for remanding a suspect or an accused person to Police custody or judicial custody. There are several reasons for this including maintaining the dignity of an accused person, howsoever poor that person might be, the requirements of Article 21 of the Constitution and the fact that there is enormous overcrowding in prisons, leading to social and other problems as noticed by this Court in In Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons."

7. By now it is well settled that gravity alone cannot be a decisive ground to deny bail, rather competing factors are required to be balanced by the court while exercising its discretion. It has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sanjay Chandra versus Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 Supreme Court Cases 49; has been held as under:-

"The object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it can be required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The Courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty. Detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In India , it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the propose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson."

8. Needless to say object of the bail is to secure the attendance of the accused in the trial and the proper test to be applied in the solution of the question whether bail should be granted or refused is whether it is probable that the party will appear to take his trial. Otherwise also, normal rule is of bail and not jail. Apart from above, Court has to keep in mind nature of accusations, nature of evidence in support thereof, severity of the punishment, which conviction will entail, character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused involved in that crime.

9. In Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta versus CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

"This Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 40, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has to be exercised with care and caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and that grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under-trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

10. The Apex Court in Prasanta Kumar Sarkar versus Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496, has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind, while deciding petition for bail:

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;

(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;

(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

11. In view of above, bail petitioner has carved out a case for himself and as such, present petition is allowed. Order dated 28.6.2019 is made absolute, subject to the bail petitioner furnishing fresh bail bonds in the sum of Rs.25,000/- (Rs. Twenty Five Thousand) with one local surety in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the Investigating Officer concerned, besides the following conditions:

(a) He shall make himself available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

(b). He shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

(c) He shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and

(d) He shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

(e) He shall surrender passport, if any, held by him.

12. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses the liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

13. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

Narinder Singh and others vs. State of Punjab and another, (2014)6 SCC 466

For the petitioners: Mr. Sanjeev K. Suri, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General with Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No.1 to 3.
Mr. Mohamad Aamir, Advocate, for respondents No. 4 to 8.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition filed under S.482 CrPC, petitioners have prayed for quashing of FIR No. 62, dated 10.6.2015, under Ss. 341, 147, 149, 323 and 427 IPC registered at Police Station Gagret, District Una, Himachal Pradesh, on the basis of compromise arrived inter se petitioners No.1 and 2 and respondents No. 4 to 8 (page-13 of the paper-book).

2. Having perused the contents of compromise, placed on record, this court, vide order dated 19.6.2019, summoned both the petitioners in the court so that genuineness and correctness of the compromise could be ascertained. Pursuant to order dated 19.6.2019, both the petitioners alongwith respondents No.4 to 8, who are represented by Mr. Mohamad Aamir, Advocate, have come present in court.

3. Facts, as emerge from the record are that FIR detailed herein above, came to be lodged at the behest of petitioner No.1, who alleged that on the date of alleged incident, i.e. 10.6.2015, respondents No.4 to 8 obstructed their way for no reason and thereafter gave beatings to them. On the basis of aforesaid allegations, FIR in question came to be lodged against respondents No. 4 to 8.

4. Police after investigation, presented Challan in the competent Court of law i.e. Judicial Magistrate 1st Class Court No.2, Amb, Una, Himachal Pradesh, which is pending for adjudication. During the pendency of the proceedings before court below, petitioners and respondents No. 4 to 8 mutually agreed to resolve their dispute amicably inter se them and accordingly they entered into compromise in question, which is available at page 13 of the paper book. Present petition on behalf of petitioners has been filed before this court for quashing the FIR in question alongwith consequential proceedings i.e. Cr. Case No. 160 of 2015 pending before Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.2, Amb, Una, Himachal Pradesh.

5. Both the petitioners, on oath, stated before this court that they have entered into compromise of their own volition without there being any external pressure, whereby they have resolved to settle their dispute amicably inter se them and they have no objection in case, FIR No. 62, dated 10.6.2015, under Ss. 341, 147, 149, 323 and 427 IPC was registered at Police Station Gagret, District Una, Himachal Pradesh alongwith consequential proceedings i.e. Cr. Case No. 160 of 2015, pending before Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.2, Amb, District Una, Himachal Pradesh are quashed and set aside and respondents No.4 to 8 are acquitted of the offences alleged against them.

6. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, having perused compromise placed on record as well as statements having been made by the petitioners, fairly states that no fruitful purpose will be served in case FIR in question, lodged at the behest of petitioner No.1 is allowed to continue, as such, prayer made in the petition for quashing the same, may be allowed.

7. The question which now needs consideration is whether FIR in question can be ordered to be quashed when Hon'ble Apex Court in Narinder Singh and others versus State of Punjab and another (2014)6 SCC 466 has specifically held that power under S. 482 CrPC is not to be exercised in the cases which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society.

8. At this stage, it would be relevant take note of the judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Narinder Singh (supra), whereby the Hon'ble Apex Court has formulated guidelines for accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings. Perusal of judgment referred to above clearly depicts that in para 29.1, Hon'ble Apex Court has returned the findings that power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable and where the parties have settled the matter between themselves, however, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with great caution. Para Nos. 29 to 29.7 of the judgment are reproduced as under:-

> "29. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we sum up and lay down the following principles by which the High Court would be guided in giving adequate treatment to the settlement between the parties and exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code while accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings or refusing to accept the settlement with direction to continue with the criminal proceedings:
>
> 29.1 Power conferred under Section 482 of the Code is to be distinguished from the power which lies in the Court to compound the offences under Section 320 of the Code. No doubt, under Section 482 of the Code, the High Court has inherent power to quash the criminal proceedings even in those cases which are not compoundable, where the parties have settled the matter between themselves. However, this power is to be exercised sparingly and with caution.
>
> 29.2. When the parties have reached the settlement and on that basis petition for quashing the criminal proceedings is filed, the guiding factor in such cases would be to secure:
>
> (i) ends of justice, or
>
> (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court.
>
> While exercising the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C the High Court is to form an opinion on either of the aforesaid two objectives.
>
> 29.3. Such a power is not be exercised in those prosecutions which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Similarly, for offences alleged to have been committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by Public Servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender.
>
> 29.4. On the other, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and pre-dominantly civil character, particularly those arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes should be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.
>
> 29.5. While exercising its powers, the High Court is to examine as to whether the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal cases would put the accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal cases.
> 29.6. Offences under Section 307 IPC would fall in the category of heinous and serious offences and therefore is to be generally treated as crime against the society and not against the individual alone. However, the High Court would not rest its decision merely because there is a mention of Section 307 IPC in the FIR or the charge is framed under this provision. It would be open to the High Court to examine as to whether incorporation of Section 307 IPC is there for the sake of it or the prosecution has collected sufficient evidence, which if proved, would lead to proving the charge under Section 307 IPC. For this purpose, it would be open to the High Court to go by the nature of injury sustained, whether such injury is inflicted on the vital/delegate parts of the body, nature of weapons used etc. Medical report in respect of injuries suffered by the victim can generally be the guiding factor. On the basis of this prima facie analysis, the High Court can examine as to whether there is a strong possibility of conviction or the chances of conviction are remote and bleak. In the former case it can refuse to accept the settlement and quash the criminal proceedings whereas in the later case it would be permissible for the High Court to accept the plea compounding the offence based on complete settlement between the parties. At this stage, the Court can also be swayed by the fact that the settlement between the parties is going to result in harmony between them which may improve their future relationship.

29.7. While deciding whether to exercise its power under Section 482 of the Code or not, timings of settlement play a crucial role. Those cases where the settlement is arrived at immediately after the alleged commission of offence and the matter is still under investigation, the High Court may be liberal in accepting the settlement to quash the criminal proceedings/investigation. It is because of the reason that at this stage the investigation is still on and even the charge sheet has not been filed. Likewise, those cases where the charge is framed but the evidence is yet to start or the evidence is still at infancy stage, the High Court can show benevolence in exercising its powers favourably, but after prima facie assessment of the circumstances/material mentioned above. On the other hand, where the prosecution evidence is almost complete or after the conclusion of the evidence the matter is at the stage of argument, normally the High Court should refrain from exercising its power under Section 482 of the Code, as in such cases the trial court would be in a position to decide the case finally on merits and to come a conclusion as to whether the offence under Section 307 IPC is committed or not. Similarly, in those cases where the conviction is already recorded by the trial court and the matter is at the appellate stage before the High Court, mere compromise between the parties would not be a ground to accept the same resulting in acquittal of the offender who has already been convicted by the trial court. Here charge is proved under Section 307 IPC and conviction is already recorded of a heinous crime and, therefore, there is no question of sparing a convict found guilty of such a crime".

9. Careful perusal of para 29.3 of the judgment suggests that such a power is not to be exercised in the cases which involve heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. Such offences are not private in nature and have a serious impact on society. Apart from this, offences committed under special statute like the Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by Public Servants while working in that capacity are not to be quashed merely on the basis of compromise between the victim and the offender. On the other hand, those criminal cases having overwhelmingly and predominantly civil character, particularly arising out of commercial transactions or arising out of matrimonial relationship or family disputes may be quashed when the parties have resolved their entire disputes among themselves.

10. In the case at hand, the dispute is more of a civil dispute, which is between relatives due to some misunderstanding.

11. The Hon'ble Apex Court in case Gian Singh v. State of Punjab and anr. (2012) 10 SCC 303 has held that power of the High Court in quashing of the criminal proceedings or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent power is distinct and different from the power of a Criminal Court for compounding offences under Section 320 Cr.PC. Even in the judgment passed in Narinder Singh's case, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that while exercising inherent power of quashment under Section 482 Cr.PC the Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime and its social impact and it cautioned the Courts not to exercise the power for quashing proceedings in heinous and serious offences of mental depravity, murder, rape, dacoity etc. However subsequently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Dimpey Gujral and Ors. vs. Union Territory through Administrator, UT, Chandigarh and Ors. (2013(11 SCC 497 has also held as under:-

> "7. In certain decisions of this Court in view of the settlement arrived at by the parties, this Court quashed the FIRs though some of the offences were non-compoundable. A two Judges' Bench of this court doubted the correctness of those decisions. Learned Judges felt that in those decisions, this court had permitted compounding of non-compoundable offences. The said issue was, therefore, referred to a larger bench.
>
> The larger Bench in Gian Singh v. State of Punjab (2012) 10 SCC 303 considered the relevant provisions of the Code and the judgments of this court and concluded as under: (SCC pp. 342-43, para 61)
> 61. The position that emerges from the above discussion can be summarised thus: the power of the High Court in quashing a criminal proceeding or FIR or complaint in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction is distinct and different from the power given to a criminal court for compounding the offences under Section 320 of the Code. Inherent power is of wide plenitude with no statutory limitation but it has to be exercised in accord with the guideline engrafted in such power viz; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent abuse of the process of any Court. In what cases power to quash the criminal proceeding or complaint or F.I.R may be exercised where the offender and victim have settled their dispute would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case and no category can be prescribed. However, before exercise of such power, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the crime. Heinous and serious offences of mental depravity or offences like murder, rape, dacoity, etc. cannot be fittingly quashed even though the victim or victim's family and the offender have settled the dispute. Such offences are not private in nature and have serious impact on society. Similarly, any compromise between the victim and offender in relation to the offences under special statutes like Prevention of Corruption Act or the offences committed by public servants while working in that capacity etc; cannot provide for any basis for quashing criminal proceedings involving such offences. But the criminal cases having overwhelmingly and pre-dominatingly civil flavour stand on different footing for the purposes of quashing, particularly the offences arising from commercial, financial, mercantile, civil, partnership or such like transactions or the offences arising out of matrimony relating to dowry, etc. or the family disputes where the wrong is basically private or personal in nature and the parties have resolved their entire dispute. In this category of cases, High Court may quash criminal proceedings if in its view, because of the compromise between the offender and victim, the possibility of conviction is remote and bleak and continuation of criminal case would put accused to great oppression and prejudice and extreme injustice would be caused to him by not quashing the criminal case despite full and complete settlement and compromise with the victim. In other words, the High Court must consider whether it would be unfair or contrary to the interest of justice to continue with the criminal proceeding or continuation of the criminal proceeding would tantamount to abuse of process of law despite settlement and compromise between the victim and wrongdoer and whether to secure the ends of justice, it is appropriate that criminal case is put to an end and if the answer to the above question(s) is in affirmative, the High Court shall be well within its jurisdiction to quash the criminal proceeding." (emphasis supplied)

8. In the light of the above observations of this court in Gian Singh, we feel that this is a case where the continuation of criminal proceedings would tantamount to abuse of process of law because the alleged offences are not heinous offences showing extreme depravity nor are they against the society. They are offences of a personal nature and burying them would bring about peace and amity between the two sides. In the circumstances of the case, FIR No. 163 dated 26.10.2006 registered under Section 147, 148, 149, 323, 307, 452 and 506 of the IPC at Police Station Sector 3, Chandigarh and all consequential proceedings arising there from including the final report presented under Section 173 of the Code and charges framed by the trial Court are hereby quashed."

12. Recently the Hon'ble Apex Court in its latest judgment dated 4th October, 2017, titled as Parbatbhai Aahir @ Parbatbhai Bhimsinhbhai Karmur and others versus State of Gujarat and Another, passed in Criminal Appeal No.1723 of 2017 arising out of SLP(Crl) No.9549 of 2016, reiterated the principles/ parameters laid down in Narinder Singh's case supra for accepting the settlement and quashing the proceedings. It would be profitable to reproduce para No. 13 to 15 of the judgment herein:

"13. The same principle was followed in Central Bureau of Investigation v. Maninder Singh (2016)1 SCC 389 by a bench of two learned Judges of this Court. In that case, the High Court had, in the exercise of its inherent power under Section 482 quashed proceedings under Sections 420, 467, 468 and 471 read with Section 120-B of the Penal Code. While allowing the appeal filed by the Central Bureau of Investigation Mr Justice Dipak Misra (as the learned Chief Justice then was) observed that the case involved allegations of forgery of documents to embezzle the funds of the bank. In such a situation, the fact that the dispute had been settled with the bank would not justify a recourse to thepower under Section 482:

"…In economic offences Court must not only keep in view that money has been paid to the bank which has been defrauded but also the society at large. It is not a case of simple assault or a theft of a trivial amount; but the offence with which we are concerned is well planned and was committed with a deliberate design with an eye of personal profit regardless of consequence to the society at large. To quash the proceeding merely on the ground that the accused has settled the amount with the bank would be a misplaced sympathy. If the prosecution against the economic offenders are not allowed to continue, the entire community is aggrieved."

14. In a subsequent decision in State of Tamil Nadu v R Vasanthi Stanley (2016) 1 SCC 376, the court rejected the submission that the first respondent was a woman "who was following the command of her husband" and had signed certain documents without being aware of the nature of the fraud which was being perpetrated on the bank. Rejecting the submission, this Court held that:

"… Lack of awareness, knowledge or intent is neither to be considered nor accepted in economic offences. The submission assiduously presented on gender leaves us unimpressed. An offence under the criminal law is an offence and it does not depend upon the gender of an accused. True it is, there are certain provisions in Code of Criminal Procedure relating to exercise of jurisdiction Under Section 437, etc.

therein but that altogether pertains to a different sphere. A person committing a murder or getting involved in a financial scam or forgery of documents, cannot claim discharge or acquittal on the ground of her gender as that is neither constitutionally nor statutorily a valid argument. The offence is gender neutral in this case. We say no more on this score…"

"…A grave criminal offence or serious economic offence or for that matter the offence that has the potentiality to create a dent in the financial health of the institutions, is not to be quashed on the ground that there is delay in trial or the principle that when the matter has been settled it should be quashed to avoid the load on the system…"

15. The broad principles which emerge from the precedents on the subject may be summarized in the following propositions:

(i) Section 482 preserves the inherent powers of the High Court to prevent an abuse of the process of any court or to secure the ends of justice. The provision does not confer new powers. It only recognizes and preserves powers which inhere in the High Court;

(ii) The invocation of the jurisdiction of the High Court to quash a First Information Report or a criminal proceeding on the ground that a settlement has been arrived at between the offender and the victim is not the same as the invocation of jurisdiction for the purpose of compounding an offence. While compounding an offence, the power of the court is governed by the provisions of Section 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The power to quash under Section 482 is attracted even if the offence is non-compoundable.

(iii) In forming an opinion whether a criminal proceeding or complaint should be quashed in exercise of its jurisdiction under Section 482, the High Court must evaluate whether the ends of justice would justify the exercise of the inherent power;

(iv) While the inherent power of the High Court has a wide ambit and plenitude it has to be exercised; (i) to secure the ends of justice or (ii) to prevent an abuse of the process of any court;

(v) The decision as to whether a complaint or First Information Report should be quashed on the ground that the offender and victim have settled the dispute, revolves ultimately on the facts and circumstances of each case and no exhaustive elaboration of principles can be formulated;

vi) In the exercise of the power under Section 482 and while dealing with a plea that the dispute has been settled, the High Court must have due regard to the nature and gravity of the offence. Heinous and serious offences involving mental depravity or offences such as murder, rape and dacoity cannot appropriately be quashed though the victim or the family of the victim have settled the dispute. Such offences are, truly speaking, not private in nature but have a serious impact upon society. The decision to continue with the trial in such cases is founded on the overriding element of public interest in punishing persons for serious offences;

(vii) As distinguished from serious offences, there may be criminal cases which have an overwhelming or predominant element of a civil dispute. They stand on a distinct footing in so far as the exercise of the inherent power to quash is concerned;

(viii) Criminal cases involving offences which arise from commercial, financial, mercantile, partnership or similar transactions with an essentially civil flavour may in appropriate situations fall for quashing where parties have settled the dispute;

(ix) In such a case, the High Court may quash the criminal proceeding if in view of the compromise between the disputants, the possibility of a conviction is remote and the continuation of a criminal proceeding would cause oppression and prejudice; and

(x) There is yet an exception to the principle set out in propositions (viii) and (ix) above. Economic offences involving the financial and economic well-being of the state have implications which lie beyond the domain of a mere dispute between private disputants. The High Court would be justified in declining to quash where the offender is involved in an activity akin to a financial or economic fraud or misdemeanour. The consequences of the act complained of upon the financial or economic system will weigh in the balance."

13. Since the matter stands compromised between petitioners and respondents No.4 to 8, no fruitful purpose would be served in case proceedings initiated at the behest of petitioner No. 1 are allowed to continue. Moreover, the complainant/petitioner No.1 has compromised the matter and he is no longer interested in carrying on with the criminal proceedings against respondents No.4 to 8 Otherwise also, possibility of conviction in the case is bleak and remote, since complainant is not interested in carrying on with the criminal proceedings initiated at her behest.

14. Consequently, in view of the aforesaid discussion as well as law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court (supra), FIR No. 62, dated 10.6.2015, under Ss. 341, 147, 149, 323 and 427 IPC registered at Police Station Gagret, District Una, Himachal Pradesh alongwith consequential proceedings i.e. Cr. Case No. 160 of 2015, pending before Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Court No.2, Amb, District Una, Himachal Pradesh are quashed and set aside. Respondents No.4 to 8 are acquitted of the offences levelled against them.

15. The petition stands disposed of in the aforesaid terms, alongwith all pending applications.

Cases referred:
Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta vs. CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218

Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another, (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner — Mr. George, Advocate.
For the respondent — Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.
Shri Parmod Shukla, Dy.SP. alongwith ASI Ram Pal, I/O, Police Station, Sadar, Shimla.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of present petition filed under S.439 CrPC, prayer has been made on behalf of the petitioner for grant of regular bail in case FIR No. 105, dated 17.5.2019, under Ss.504 and 506 IPC and S.3(1)(R)(S)(U) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, registered at Police Station, Sadar, Shimla, Himachal Pradesh.

2. Sequel to previous order passed in the matter, Shri Parmod Shukla, Dy.SP., alongwith ASI Ram Pal, I/O, Police Station, Sadar, Shimla, has come present with the record. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, has also placed on record status report prepared by the investigating agency on the basis of investigation carried out by it. Record perused and returned.

3. Before adverting to the factual matrix of the case, it may be noticed that on 31.5.2019, bail petitioner surrendered before this Court and thereafter, this court, after taking him into custody, released him on bail in the FIR detailed above, subject to furnishing of personal bonds in the sum of Rs.10,000/- subject to the satisfaction of learned Additional Registrar (Judicial). Vide aforesaid order, this court also directed the bail petitioner to join the investigation as and when required by the investigating agency.

4. Mr. Kunal Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General, on instructions of the Investigating Officer, fairly states that pursuant to order dated 31.5.2019, bail petitioner has joined the investigation and his custodial interrogation is not required, however, he may be directed to join the investigation as and when asked by the Investigating Officer.

5. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the status report, this court finds that the petitioner being a local resident of address given in the memo of parties, will be available for investigation as and when asked by investigating agency. Moreover, guilt, if any, of the petitioner is yet to be proved by the prosecution by leading cogent and convincing evidence in accordance with law, as such, this court does not deem it proper to curtail the freedom of the bail petitioner for an indefinite period during trial.

6. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. It has further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

"2. A fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. However, there are instances in our criminal law where a reverse onus has been placed on an accused with regard to some specific offences but that is another matter and does not detract from the fundamental postulate in respect of other offences. Yet another important facet of our criminal jurisprudence is that the grant of bail is the general rule and putting a person in jail or in a prison or in a correction home (whichever expression one may wish to use) is an exception. Unfortunately, some of these basic principles appear to have been lost sight of with the result that more and more persons are being incarcerated and for longer periods. This does not do any good to our criminal jurisprudence or to our society.

3. There is no doubt that the grant or denial of bail is entirely the discretion of the judge considering a case but even so, the exercise of judicial discretion has been circumscribed by a large number of decisions rendered by this Court and by every High Court in the country. Yet, occasionally there is a necessity to introspect whether denying bail to an accused person is the right thing to do on the facts and in the circumstances of a case.

4. While so introspecting, among the factors that need to be considered is whether the accused was arrested during investigations when that person perhaps has the best opportunity to tamper with the evidence or influence witnesses. If the investigating officer does not find it necessary to arrest an accused person during investigations, a strong case should be made out for placing that person in judicial custody after a charge sheet is filed. Similarly, it is important to ascertain whether the accused was participating in the investigations to the satisfaction of the investigating officer and was not absconding or not appearing when required by the investigating officer. Surely, if an accused is not hiding from the investigating officer or is hiding due to some genuine and expressed fear of being victimised, it would be a factor that a judge would need to consider in an appropriate case. It is also necessary for the judge to consider whether the accused is a first-time offender or has been accused of other offences and if so, the nature of such offences and his or her general conduct. The poverty or the deemed indigent status of an accused is also an extremely important factor and even Parliament has taken notice of it by incorporating an Explanation to Section 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. An equally soft approach to incarceration has been taken by Parliament by inserting Section 436A in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

5. To put it shortly, a humane attitude is required to be adopted by a judge, while dealing with an application for remanding a suspect or an accused person to police custody or judicial custody. There are several reasons for this including maintaining the dignity of an accused person, howsoever poor that person might be, the requirements of Article 21 of the Constitution and the fact that there is enormous overcrowding in prisons, leading to social and other problems as noticed by this Court in In Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons."

7. By now it is well settled that gravity alone cannot be a decisive ground to deny bail, rather competing factors are required to be balanced by the court while exercising its discretion. It has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sanjay Chandra versus Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 Supreme Court Cases 49; has been held as under:-

> "The object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it can be required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The Courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty. Detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In India , it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the propose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson."

8. Needless to say object of the bail is to secure the attendance of the accused in the trial and the proper test to be applied in the solution of the question whether bail should be granted or refused is whether it is probable that the party will appear to take his trial. Otherwise also, normal rule is of bail and not jail. Apart from above, Court has to keep in mind nature of accusations, nature of evidence in support thereof, severity of the punishment, which conviction will entail, character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused involved in that crime.

9. In Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta versus CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "This Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 40, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has to be exercised with care and caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and that grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under-trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

10. The Apex Court in Prasanta Kumar Sarkar versus Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496, has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind, while deciding petition for bail:

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;

(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;

(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

11. In view of above, bail petitioner has carved out a case for himself and as such, present petition is allowed. Order dated 31.5.2019 is made absolute, subject to bail petitioner furnishing fresh bail bonds in the sum of Rs.20,000/- (Rs. Twenty Thousand) with one local surety in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the Investigating Officer concerned, besides the following conditions:

(a) He shall make himself available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

(b). He shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

(c) He shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and

(d) He shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

(e) He shall surrender passport, if any, held by him.

12. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses the liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

13. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

Copy dasti.

Cr. Appeal No. 49 of 2017
Reserved On : 8.7.2019
Decided on: 12.7.2019

Himachal Pradesh Prevention of Specific Corrupt Practices Act, 1983- Section 10– Indian Penal Code, 1860– Section 409– Misconduct by criminal misappropriation of government property by public servant- Proof– Trial court convicting accused, a Junior Engineer with Irrigation and Public Health department for misappropriating cement bags belonging to state government and entrusted with him on basis of recovery of such cement bags full, opened as well as empty from his house – Trial court observed that accused was supposed to take permission from department before stacking cement bags in private accommodation– Appeal against– Held, evidence on record indicates that cement bags could not have been stored in open– For storing them in private building, accommodation was required to be taken on rent, if accused had not stored cement bags in his house – His house was in close proximity of construction site -Stacking seems to be on account of his avoiding taking of accommodation on hire – No scientific evidence that cement used in construction of house of "KK' and cement recovered from house of accused were interse compatible – Breach of instruction of storing construction material only at official godown or in private accommodation with prior approval if any,was without mens rea – Appeal allowed – Conviction set aside – Accused acquitted. (Paras 9 & 10)

For the Appellant: Mr. B.B Vaid and Mr. Ajay Chandel, Advocates.
For the Respondent: Mr. Hemant Vaid, Additional Advocate General with Mr. Yudhveer Singh Thakur and Mr. Vikrant Chandel, Dy.A.Gs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J

The instant appeal is directed, against, the impugned judgment, of, 20.1.2017, rendered by the learned Special Judge, Kullu, District Kullu, H.P., wherethrough the appellant herein (for short 'accused'), stood convicted, by the learned trial Court, for, an offence punishable under, Sections 409 of IPC and Section 10 of HP.PSCP Act.

2. The brief facts of the case are that as per memorandums Ex. PW-1/D and Ex. PW-1/E of 11.1.1988, accused was given appointment as Junior Engineer on temporary basis in I&PH Department, and was posted as such in I&PH Division, Jubbal District Shimla, H.P. In the year 2009 , accused while posted as JE in I & PH Sub Division, Shamshi, was assigned the duties of inspection as well as to get carried out various works, such as construction of Life Irrigation scheme to villages Bhatgram, Tuniseri, Bashona and Bagicha, construction of pump house and chowkidar quarters etc, which work was awarded to M/S Ashadeep Construction Pvt. Ltd, Tharas, vide Agreement, Ex. PW2/E, being lowest tender and vide store indents Ex. PW-2/B, Ex.PW-2/C and Ex.PW-2/D, accused were supplied various items, including certain quantity of cement bags for carrying out the works done at the construction sites, which indents were taken into possession from Pankaj vaidya (PW-2) vide memo Ex. PW-2/A alongwith agreement of work Ex. PW-2/E by the Investigating Officer. Similarly, vide store indents Ex. PW-3/B to Ex. PW-3/G, accused were also supplied certain items including certain number of cement bags etc for carrying out the work done at the construction sites, which indents were taken into possession from chamaru Ram (PW-3) vide memo Ex. PW-3/A alongwith gate passes. As per Departmental Rules, after receipt of cement supply from the Department, accused was required to stack the cement in the store of Section Headquarters and in case of non-availability of such store, accused had to take permission from the Department to stack and store the cement in private accommodation. On 5.6.2009, vide rapat Ex. PW-13/C a secret information was received in the police station of SV & ACB, Kullu, to the effect that government supply cement, stacked by the accused in his house at Buin, was being misused. It was also informed that accused was supplying the government cement to aforesaid Kamal Kishore (PW-9) for construction of his house. On the receipt of said information, the investigation of the case was entrusted to Inspector Prem Singh (PW-24), who alongwith other police officials visited the spot. The house of the accused was searched and during search 21 full bags, one open bag and 22 empty bags of government supply cement were found in the room. On the cement bags, there was inscription of words "not for sale and only for government supply". There was also mark of ISI on the bags. The cement bags were found to have been manufactured in March, 2009. After completing all codal formalities and on conclusion of the investigation into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused, challan was prepared and filed in the Court.

3. The accused stood charged, by the learned trial Court, for his committing an offence(s) punishable, under Section 409, of, IPC, and, under Sections 13(1)(d), and, under Section 13(2), of, the P.C Act, and, under Section 10 of the H.P PSCP Act, whereto which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 25 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused, under, Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded, wherein, he pleaded innocence, and, claimed false implication. He chose to lead defence evidence, and, examined three witnesses including himself', in his defence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of conviction, against, the accused, for, an offence punishable under Section 409 IPC, and, Section 10 of HP.PSCP Act.

6. The learned counsel(s) appearing for the accused, has, concertedly and vigorously contended, qua the findings of conviction, recorded by the learned trial Court, standing, not based, on a proper appreciation of evidence on record, rather theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation, by it, of the relevant material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction, warranting reversal by this Court, in the, exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, and, theirs standing replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. The learned Additional Advocate General, has, with considerable force, and, vigour contended, qua, the findings of conviction, recorded by the Court below, standing based, on a mature and balanced appreciation, of, evidence on record, and, theirs not necessitating interference rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel, on either side, has with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The initial portion of the charge, appertaining to the appellant, stacking at his residence, some cement bags, does falter, (i) given PW-4 (Sh. Hari Prakash), the SDO, of the Division concerned, in his testification, embodied in his cross-examination, acquiescing to a suggestion, with, an echoing therein, vis-a-vis, all the places, rather surrounding the house of the accused, being safe for storing thereat, the construction material, (ii) besides, his also voluntarily echoing, that, the afore construction material, being unamenable rather for being stored at an open place, and, also making articulations qua, if the accused had not kept, the, material at his residence, thereupon, hence he would be required, to, hire some accommodation, on rent. The effect of the afore voicing, is qua, the accused not carrying the requisite mens rea, in his rather stacking, the, cement bags at his residence, for, his hence enabling their user, for, extraneous exercise, rather his afore stacking being a sequel, of, avoiding the hiring of accommodation, on rent, hence for stacking them, (i) besides stacking of the construction material, by the accused, at his residence also when arose, from, the factum, qua his residence, holding proximity to the site of construction, whereat, it was to be used, thereupon also he cannot be considered to hold the apt mens rea. The infraction, if any, vis-a-vis, the relevant instructions prescribing qua cement bags, being kept only in the godown, of, the Office concerned, though, appears to be breached. However, any breach of the afore instructions, also does not visit the accused, with the requisite mens rea, (ii) given, the afore portion of the charge, appertaining to the accused, ensuring user of the afore stacked cement bags, at his residence, by one Kamal Kishore, for, facilitating the latter, to, construct his house, also, requiring adduction of firm evidence, comprised in the apposite sample, taken from the construction made by Kamal Kishore, and, (iii) also there-along with, the samples taken, from the cement bags, stacked at the residence of the convict/appellant rather being dispatched, to, the lab concerned, (iv) for their apt comparison thereat, and, thereafter an opinion being rendered qua there being inter-se compatible matching(s). However, when the afore endevour, stood un-recoursed, thereupon it cannot, be concluded, that the accused had conspired with Kamal Kishore, in his purportedly rather ensuring the latter to use cement bags, stacked at his residence, hence, for facilitating Kamal Kishore, to, construct his house.

10. Be that as it may, even otherwise with PW-4 rendering a testification, vis-a-vis, the consumption of cement bags, issued under the relevant indents, hence, at the construction site concerned, and, with no best evidence being adduced, vis-a-vis, user(s) at the site concerned, of the afore bags, as, issued under the relevant indents rather not bearing commensuration, with user(s) thereof, at the relevant construction site, (i) thereupon also charge, if any, against the accused, that he had beyond, the proportion(s) of hence validly issued apposite indents, either stacked them at his residence, and, thereafter had ensured their user by one Kamal Kishore, for the latter constructing his house, rather also faltering.

11. For the foregoing reasons, the instant appeal, is, allowed, and, the impugned judgment of conviction, and, sentence, rendered by the learned trial Court below, is, unsustainable, and, as such are set aside. The accused stands acquitted, and, the fine amount, if any, deposited by the accused, is, ordered to be refunded to him. Bail bonds, if any, furnished by the accused are cancelled and discharged. Send down the records.

For the appellant : Mr. Lakshay Thakur, Advocate.
For the respondent :Mr. Narender Guleria, Addl. AG with Mr. Kunal Thakur, Dy. AG and Mr. Sunny Dhatwalia, Asstt. AG.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.

Appellant Mohan herein is a convict. He has been tried, convicted and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life and to pay a sum of Rs. 10,000/- as fine for the commission of the offence punishable under Section 302 of the Indian Penal Code vide impugned judgment dated 14.9.2016 passed by learned Addl. Sessions Judge (I), Kangra at Dharamshala, Circuit Court at Indora, District Kangra, H.P in Sessions Case No. 8-I/VII/2014.

2. On 17.11.2013, PW-1 Pratap Singh (hereinafter referred to as the complainant) was ploughing his fields at Village Naudan (Kudsan) and the accused engaged as labourer was manuring the fields. A lady came there and told the complainant that naked dead body is lying in the adjoining fields near Chhounch khad. The complainant went to the place where the dead body was lying. PW-18 Surjeet Singh, the Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat also came there. They both noticed that the face of dead body was crushed with stone and the injuries bled profusely. Surjeet Singh informed the police of Police Station Indora over telephone around 12:30 PM about the dead body lying in the nallah. The villagers also gathered on the spot. The dead body was identified to be that of one Shanti Devi alias Shanto wife of Bishamber Singh, a resident of Kudsan village. The deceased allegedly was living separately from her husband. She had four daughters and a son. The youngest daughter of the deceased Sushma (PW-4) was married to one Sukhdev. However, on account of being tortured by her husband, their marriage had been dissolved by a decree of divorce. The accused was working as servant of the complainant. He came to Village Mirthal and started living there with deceased Shanti Devi and PW-4 Sushma in rented accommodation. The marriage of PW-4 Sushma was solemnized with the accused later on. On 15.11.2013, the accused allegedly came to the complainant with a request to engage him as labourer on daily wage basis. Accordingly, the accused was engaged by the complainant. The complainant ploughed the fields on 16.11.2013, however, the dead body was not there on that day. Deceased Shanti Devi was seen in the company of the accused on 16.11.2013 near a shop at Bhia Indorian. She allegedly was murdered thereafter during the night intervening 16/17.11.2013.

3. Consequent upon the information received in the Police Station, the police swung into action. PW-17 SI Chain Singh has taken in hand the investigation after registration of the case vide FIR Ext. PW-12/B on the basis of the statement of the complainant Ext. PW-1/A recorded under Section 154 Cr.P.C. The photographs of the dead body Ext. PW-11/A to Ext. PW-11/P were clicked by the photographer PW-11 Roshan Lal. The inquest papers Ext. PW-17/D were prepared. The spot map Ext. PW-17/B was also prepared. A stone Ext. P-3 lying near the dead body was taken into possession and sealed in a parcel with five seals of impression “R”. The blood stained soil Ext. P-5 was also taken from the spot and sealed in a box Ext. P-6 with the impression of the same seal. Parcel Ext. P-7 was taken into possession vide recovery memo Ext. PW-2/A in the presence of Om Prakash and PW-2 Raj Kumar. The sample of the soil near the dead body was also collected and sealed with the impression of seal “R”. The same was also taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW-2/B. Witnesses Om Prakash, Raj Kumar, Sushma and Jyoti had suspected the hand of the accused in the murder of deceased Shanti Devi. PW-17 SI Chain Singh made an application Ext. PW-8/A to Medical Officer, CH Nurpur for getting the post mortem of the dead body conducted. Accused Mohan was searched, however, he had absconded. His T-shirt Ext. P-1 was taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW-1/B. The household articles of the deceased were recovered near Pir Baba Temple below a banyan tree. The same were taken into possession vide recovery memo Ext. PW-3/A and handed over to PW-6 Santosh Kumari, her daughter. The dead body was referred to Dr. R.P.Medical College Tanda by the Medical Officer CH Nurpur for seeking opinion of the forensic expert. The post mortem report issued by PW-8 Dr. Mohan Singh Medical Officer, CH Nurpur is Ext. PW-8/B. The dead body was sent to Tanda Medical College vide letter Ext. PW-8/C addressed to HOD, Forensic Department. The Dy. Superintendent of Police (Hqrs.) at Dharamshala also moved the application Ext. PW-10/A requesting thereby the HOD (Forensic Department), Medical College Tanda to conduct the post mortem of deceased Shanti Devi. Another application Ext. PW-10/B for the purpose was also moved. The post mortem was conducted by PW-10 Dr. Susheel Sharma, Asstt. Professor, Forensic Medicine Department, Dr. R.P.Medical College Tanda. He has issued the post mortem report Ext. PW-10/C. PW-10 had also handed blood in gauge, nail clips Ext. PX-1, vaginal swab Ext. PX-2 and Ext. PX-3 and articles/wearings duly sealed. The photographs Ext. P-1 to P-9 of the post mortem conducted were also taken. All the articles were handed over by PW-10 Dr. Susheel Sharma to the police vide letter Ext. PW-10/D and the same in turn were handed over to MHC, Police Station Indora for further action. The accused was arrested in this case by PW-17 SI Chain Singh on 23.11.2013. He was produced in the Court and remanded in police custody. The photographs of the accused Ext. PW-17/F-1 to Ext. PW-17/F-3 were clicked.

4. Further investigation of this case was conducted by PW-19 Insp. Balbir Chand. This witness has recorded the disclosure statement Ext. PW-2/C and on the basis thereof, the clothes (shirt Ext. P-12, Salwar Ext. P-13, koti Ext. P-14, Banyan Ext. P-15 and Kurta Ext. P-16) of the deceased concealed at Chhounch khad were produced after taking out the same from a pit. The same were taken into possession vide recovery memo Ext. PW-2/D. That spot was photographed and videographed vide photographs Ext. PW-11/H. The spot maps Ext. PW-19/A and PW-19/C were also prepared. The accused, allegedly got recovered his jean pants Ext. P-18 from the house of PW-1 Pratap Singh, the complainant. The same was sealed in a parcel and taken into possession vide recovery memo Ext. PW-2/E. The proceedings were photographed and videographed vide photographs Ext. PW-11/J and PW-11/K. The spot map Ext. PW-19/E was also prepared. One Rani Devi, Raj Kumar (PW-2) and S.I. Manohar Lal (PW-5) were also present on the spot. The articles recovered were handed over to MHC for safe custody in the malkhana.

5. The accused on 26.11.2013, made another disclosure statement Ext. PW-2/F qua identification of the place where jewellery worn by the deceased and other articles removed by him from the dead body were concealed in the presence of PW-2 Raj Kumar and S.I. Manohar Lal (PW-5). At the instance of the accused, two mobile battries Ext. P-20 and P-21, mobile Sim of Idea Ext. P-22 and that of Airtel Ext. P-23, Payal Ext. P-24, Mangal Sutra Ext. P-25, Rings Ext. P-26 and P-27, ear rings Ext. P-28, currency notes worth Rs. 40/- Ext. P-29 and photos Ext. P-30 were recovered. The place of recovery was photographed and videographed vide photographs Ext. PW-11/L to PW-11/O and CD Ext. PW-11/Q prepared. These articles were taken into possession vide recovery memo Ext. PW-2/G after the same were identified by PW-4 Sushma to be that of her mother. The accused also got recovered a pair of chappals from Chhounch khad which were taken into possession vide recovery memo Ext. PW-2/H. The chappal Ext. P-31 was also identified by PW-4 Sushma to be that of her mother. The recovery proceedings were photographed and videographed vide photographs Ext. PW-11/D and CD Ext. PW-11/Q prepared. The spot map Ext. PW-19/H of the place of recovery of jewellery and chappals was prepared. In the Police Station, all the articles were handed over to MHC for safe custody in the malkhana.

6. On 28.11.2013, PW-19 Insp. Balbir Chand had moved an application Ext. PW-9/D to Tehsildar Indora for demarcation of the spot where dead body was found lying. The demarcation was conducted on 30.11.2013 by Kanungo Ravi Kumar of Kotgarh. The report Ext. PW-9/A and the copy of Jamabandi Ext. PW-9/B along with tatima Ext. PW-9/C were supplied to the police. The case property was sent to FSL for analysis. On receipt of the reports Ext. PX-1 to PX-3 from the FSL, the same were added in the file. Certificate Ext. PW-12/C was obtained from the MHC and added in the file. On completion of the investigation, PW-19 Insp. Balbir Chand has prepared the challan and filed the same in the Court.

7. Learned Trial Judge, on going through the challan and the documents annexed therewith has found a prima-facie case for the commission of the offence punishable under Section 302 of the Indian Penal Code made out against the accused. Therefore, charge against him was accordingly framed. He, however, pleaded not guilty to the charge. The prosecution, therefore, has produced evidence in order to sustain the charge against him. The material prosecution witnesses are the complainant (PW-1 Pratap Singh), PW-4 Sushma (daughter of the deceased), PW-6 Santosh Kumari (elder daughter of the deceased) and PW-7 Ravinder Kumar (auto rikshaw driver). The other material witnesses are PW-2 Raj Kumar, a witness to the recovery of clothes of the deceased, PW-3 Bansi Lal, a witness to the recovery of ornaments etc., PW-5 SI Manohar Lal, again a witness to the recovery and PW-18 Surjeet Singh is the Pradhan of Gram Panchayat Mirthal. The Medical Officer, CH Nurpur is Dr. Mohan Singh who initially conducted the post mortem of the dead body and sent the same to Dr. R.P.Medical College Tanda for expert opinion. The expert is Dr. Sushil Sharma, Asstt. Professor Forensic Science Department, Dr. R.P.Medical College Tanda. PW-9 Ravi Kumar, Revenue Official, has supplied the demarcation report, copy of Jamabandi and Tatima of the place of recovery of the dead body to the police. PW-11 Roshan Lal is a photographer. The remaining prosecution witnesses are official witnesses, including the I.Os PW-17 SI Chain Singh and PW-19 Insp. Balbir Chand.

8. On the other hand, the statement of the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded. He has denied the incriminating circumstances appearing in prosecution evidence against him either being wrong or for want of knowledge. According to him, he is innocent and witnesses who were interested have deposed falsely against him. He, however, did not opt for producing evidence in support of his case.

9. The legality and validity of the judgment under challenge has been questioned on the grounds inter alia that without there being any iota of evidence to connect the accused with the commission of the offence, he could have not been convicted and sentenced. Nothing tangible has come on record to show that it is the accused alone and none else who has murdered Shanti Devi during the night intervening 16/17-11-2013. The evidence produced qua this aspect of the matter is stated to be not worthy of credence. Learned Trial Judge has failed to consider the well established legal principles in the criminal administration of justice that the prosecution is required to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. The prosecution evidence in the case in hand irrespective of suffering from material contradictions, improvements and omissions has erroneously been relied upon to bring the guilt home to the accused. Learned trial Court has based its findings on contradictions, surmises and hypothesis. The impugned judgment, as such, has been sought to be quashed and set aside being both against law and facts of the case.

10. We have heard Mr. Lakshay Thakur, Advocate, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the accused (appellant-convict) and Sh. Narender Guleria, learned Addl. Advocate General on behalf of the respondent-State.

11. Mr. Lakshay Thakur, Advocate has vehemently argued that the impugned judgment is not legally sustainable as the prosecution, according to him has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. The prosecution story that the deceased was lastly seen on 16.11.2013 at 8:00 PM near a shop at Mirthal has not been proved at all. The prosecution evidence, on the other hand even if believed to be true, goes to show that on 16.11.2013 accused was away from the place of the complainant (PW-1) during the period 6:00 PM to 9:30 PM and after 9:30 PM, he remained only in his house till morning. Therefore, according to Mr. Lakshay Thakur, Advocate, it was not possible for the accused to have visited Village Mirthal where PW-4 Sushma was residing in a rented accommodation with the deceased and after Sushma having left the rented accommodation on seeing the accused coming there, the latter accompanied by the deceased came to Kudson (Naudan) where he was working as labourer in the house of the complainant, that too along with household articles of the deceased and thereafter to murder the deceased also during the period of 3 ½ hours i.e. in between 6:00 PM to 9:30 PM. It has also been argued that as per the prosecution case, the deceased was not having cordial relations with her husband. They both were separate even in mess also. Therefore, according to Mr. Thakur, the possibility of the deceased was murdered by someone else and the accused being a resident of State of Bihar, hence, an outsider has been implicated in this case falsely at the behest of the prosecution witnesses none else but the public representative i.e. Pradhan, Up-Pradhan and Ward Members of the Gram Panchayat Kudson/Mirthal in order to save the real culprit from his prosecution cannot be ruled out.

12. The present, being a case of circumstantial evidence, the facts and circumstances established on record should be conclusive in nature and consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and not explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty. No such opinion according to Mr. Thakur could have been formed on the basis of the evidence produced by the prosecution in this case.

13. On the other hand, Mr. Narender Guleria, learned Addl. Advocate General appearing on behalf of the respondent-State has urged that the prosecution case against the accused stands proved beyond all reasonable doubt. According to Mr. Guleria, the accused has failed to controvert the prosecution evidence qua the deceased was lastly seen with him in the evening on 16.11.2013. The recovery of ornaments and clothes etc. of the deceased consequent upon the disclosure statements made by the accused also connect him with the commission of the offence. It has also been argued that PW-4 Sushma, the daughter of the deceased was wife of the accused. Their relations were strained and it is for this reason, the accused killed her mother, the deceased.

14. In order to appreciate the rival contentions of the parties, we have gone through the record carefully.

15. The present being not a case of direct evidence and rather hinges upon circumstantial evidence casts an onerous duty on this Court to find out the truth by separating grain from the chaff. In other words, it has to be determined that the facts of the case and the evidence available on record constitute the commission of an offence punishable under Section 302 IPC against the accused or not. However, before coming to answer this poser, it is desirable to take note of legal provisions constituting an offence punishable under Section 302 IPC. A reference in this regard can be made to the provisions contained under Section 300 IPC. As per the Section ibid, culpable homicide is murder firstly if the offender is found to have acted with an intention to cause death or secondly with an intention of causing such bodily injury knowing fully well that the same is likely to cause death of someone or thirdly intention of causing bodily injury to any person and such injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death or if it is known to such person that the act done is imminently so dangerous that the same in all probability shall cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death.

16. Culpable homicide has been defined under Section 299 IPC. Whoever causes death by way of an act with the intention of causing death or with the intention of causing such bodily injury as is likely to cause death or with the knowledge that he is likely by such act to cause death can be said to have committed the offence of culpable homicide. Culpable homicide is murder if the act by which death is caused is done with the intention of causing death. Expression "intent" and "knowledge" postulate the existence of a positive mental attitude which is of different degree. We are drawing support in this regard from the judgment of Apex Court in Jagriti Devi vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, AIR 2009 SC 2869.

17. The ingredients of culpable homicide amounting to murder, therefore, are: (i) causing death intentionally and (ii) causing bodily injury which is likely to cause death. In case the accused had motive to cause death of deceased, the eye witness count of the occurrence may not be required, however, where the motive is missing, the prosecution is required to prove its case with the help of the testimony of eye witnesses.

18. The present being a case of circumstantial evidence, the Court seized of the matter has to appreciate such evidence with all care and circumspection and rely upon only if establishes the guilt of the accused alone and rule out all possibilities leading to the presumption of innocence of the accused. The law is no more res integra as support can be drawn from the judgment of a Division Bench of this Court in Sulender vs. State of H.P., Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) 550. The relevant extract of this judgment reads as follows:

> [21] It is well settled that in a case, which hinges on circumstantial evidence, circumstances on record must establish the guilt of the accused alone and rule out the probabilities leading to presumption of his innocence. The law is no more res integra, because the Hon'ble Apex Court in Hanumant Govind Nargundkar Vs. State of M.P, 1952 AIR(SC) 343 has laid down the following principles:
>
>> "It is well to remember that in cases where the evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be in the first instance be fully established, and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. Again, the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so far complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show that within all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."
>
> [22] The five golden principles, discussed and laid down, again by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra, 1984 4 SCC 116, are as follows:
>
> (i) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must or should be and not merely 'may be' fully established,
>
> (ii) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,
>
> (iii) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,
>
> (iv) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and
> (v) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

19. Similar is the ratio of the judgment rendered again by this Bench in State of Himachal Pradesh vs. Rayia Urav @ Ajay, ILR 2016 (5) (HP) 213. The relevant text of this judgment also reads as follows:

> “[10] As noticed supra, there is no eye-witness of the occurrence and as such, the present case hinges upon the circumstantial evidence. In such like cases, as per the settled proposition of law, the chain of circumstances appearing on record should be complete in all respects so as to lead to the only conclusion that it is accused alone who has committed the offence. The conditions necessary in order to enable the court to record the findings of conviction against an offender on the basis of circumstantial evidence have been detailed in a judgment of this Court in Devinder Singh V. State of H.P, 1990 1 Shim LC 82 which reads as under:-
>
> “1. The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.
>
> 2. The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilt.
>
> 3. The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency.
>
> 4. They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved AND
>
> 5. There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.
>
> [11] It has also been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Akhilesh Halam V. State of Bihar, 1995 Supp. SCC 357 that the prosecution is not only required to prove each and every circumstance as relied upon against the accused, but also that the chain of evidence furnished by those circumstances must be so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused. The relevant portion of this judgment is reproduced here-as-under:-
> “ …………It may be stated that the standard of proof required to convict a person on circumstantial evidence is now settled by a serious of pronouncements of this Court. According to the standard enunciated by this court the circumstances relied upon by the prosecution in support of the case must not only be fully established but the chain of evidence furnished by those circumstances must be so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for as conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused. The circumstances from which the conclusion of the guilt of an accused is to be inferred, should be conclusive nature and consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and the same should not be capable of being explained by any other hypothesis, except the guilt of the accused and when all the circumstances cumulatively taken together lead to the only irresistible conclusion that the accused is the perpetrator of the crime……….”

20. This Court has again held in State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Sunil Kumar, Cr. Appeal No. 326 of 2011 decided on 15.6.2017 as under:

"13. It is more than settled that in case of circumstantial evidence, the circumstances from which inference as to the guilt of the accused is drawn, have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt and there be a complete chain of evidence consistent only that the hypothesis of guilt of the accused and totally inconsistent with his innocence and in such a case if the evidence relied upon is capable of two inferences then one which is in favour of the accused must be accepted. It is clearly settled that when a case rests on circumstantial evidence such evidence must satisfy three tests:

i) The circumstance from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn must cogently and firmly established.

ii) Those circumstances should be of a definite tendency un-erringly pointing out towards the guilt of the accused.

iii) The circumstances taken cumulatively, should form a complete chain so that to come to the conclusion that the crime was committed by the accused.

14. Equally well settled is the proposition that where the entire prosecution case hinges on circumstantial evidence the Court should adopt cautious approach for basing the conviction on circumstantial evidence and unless the prosecution evidence point irresistible to the guilt of the accused, it would not be sound and safe to base the conviction of accused person.

15. In case of circumstantial evidence, each circumstances must be proved beyond reasonable doubt by independent evidence and the circumstances so proved, must form a complete chain without giving room to any other hypothesis and should be consistent that only the guilt of the accused (See: Lakhbir Singh vs. State of Punjab, 1994 Suppl. (1) SCC 173)."

21. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1984 Supreme Court 1622, has held as under:

"150. It is well settled that the prosecution must stand or fall on its own legs and it cannot derive any strength from the weakness of the defence. This is trite law and no decision has taken a contrary view. What some cases have held is only this: where various links in a chain are in themselves complete than a false plea or a false defence may be called into aid only to lend assurance to the Court. In other words, before using the additional link it must be proved that all the links in the chain are complete and do not suffer from any infirmity. It is not the law that where is any infirmity or lacuna in the prosecution case, the same could be cured or supplied by a false defence or a plea which is not accepted by a Court.

… … … … … …

158. It will be seen that this Court while taking into account the absence of explanation or a false explanation did hold that it will amount to be an additional link to complete the chain but these observations must be read in the light of what this Court said earlier, viz., before a false explanation can be used as additional link, the following essential conditions must be satisfied:

(1) various links in the chain of evidence led by the prosecution have been satisfactorily proved.

(2) the said circumstance point to the guilt of the accused with reasonable definiteness, and

(3) the circumstance is in proximity to the time and situation."

22. Now, if adverting to the prosecution case, the accused is permanent resident of Bihar and had come to earn his livelihood. He was unmarried before his marriage with PW-4 Sushma, the daughter of the deceased. PW-4 Sushma, a divorcee had solemnized the marriage with the accused allegedly after she had given divorce to her previous husband Sukhdev. No documentary evidence has come on record to substantiate that PW-4 Sushma had divorced her previous husband Sukhdev. Anyhow, her marriage with the accused stands established on record because not only she while in the witness-box as PW-4 but PW-1 the complainant and PW-2 Raj Kumar have also stated so while in the witness-box and the accused has also admitted while answering question No. 2 of his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that he is married to PW-4 Sushma. They started living in rented accommodation hired from one Jeet Singh at Village Mirthal. This part of the prosecution case also stands proved from the testimony of PW-4 Sushma and also his answer to question No. 2 in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused as per the statement of the complainant PW-1 Pratap Singh had been working as labourer with him. He came to him on 15.11.2013 with a request to reemploy him. PW-1 Pratap Singh acceded to his request and reemployed the accused as labourer with him. PW-4 Sushma has also stated that accused was known to her as he was working with PW-1 Pratap Singh, the complainant of Village Naudan (Kudsan). No suggestion that the accused was not working with PW-1 Pratap Singh as labourer in his fields has been given either to PW-1 Pratap Singh or PW-4 Sushma. If reply to question NO. 14 in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. is seen, the accused has expressed his ignorance to the circumstances that on 15.11.2013, he went to Pratap Singh for reemployment and on 17.11.2013 at about 10 am went with PW-1 Pratap Singh for sowing fields. Had he not been working as labourer with PW-1 Pratap Singh, he should have denied such incriminating circumstances appearing against him in the prosecution evidence being wrong. His ignorance thereto leads to the only conclusion that he avoided to give correct answer to question No. 14 intentionally and deliberately. Therefore, the factum of he was engaged as labourer and working in the fields of PW-1 Pratap Singh is also proved on record.

23. The further case of the prosecution as has come in the statement of PW-4 Sushma that after about 10-15 days of her marriage with the accused he assaulted her with belt and on this she reported the matter to Surjeet Singh Pradhan, Gram Panchayat Mirthal, PW-4 Sushma in her cross-examination has expressed her ignorance as to which Pradhan she reported the matter after having been assaulted by the accused. Though, it finds corroboration from her statement and even PW-18 Surjeet Singh has also stated so while in the witness box, the matter, however, was reported to the police of Police Post Nangal Bhur (Punjab) is not proved irrespective of stated so by PW-4 Sushma and PW-18 Surjeet Singh. The same, however, is not proved beyond all reasonable doubt for want of the record of Police Post Nangal Bhur (Punjab). Since as per the version of PW-18 Surjeet Singh, the police had come to the spot and taken the accused to the Police post, the record thereof would have been available with the police. However, Investigating Officers have not made any effort to collect the same and produce in evidence. Therefore, the further case of the prosecution that due to the beatings given by the accused to PW-4 Sushma and she went to the house of her sister PW-6 Santosh Kumari at Gurdaspur is also doubtful irrespective of it is stated so by PW-4 Sushma. PW-6 Santosh Kumari has, however, not stated that after beaten up by the accused, PW-4 Sushma came to Gurdaspur to her house. She rather stated only that on 16.11.2013, the accused had a quarrel with her sister and she, therefore, had left the house only with a bag with her. Therefore, PW-6 Santosh Kumari has not stated that after the so called episode of 16.11.2013 in the rented accommodation at Mirthal, her sister PW-4 Sushma came to her at Gurdaspur though PW-4 Sushma had stated that after spending the night on the roof of the house of a Kumhar at Naudan, she went to the house of her sister at Gurdaspur. Therefore, it is also not proved beyond all reasonable doubt that on 16.11.2013 when the accused came to the rented accommodation at Mirthal, PW-4 Sushma on seeing him coming there left that place with a bag and went to Gurdaspur to the house of her sister PW-6 Santosh Kumari. The further case of the prosecution is that it is the accused and the deceased who were alone left in the house after the departure of PW-4 Sushma there from. This part of the prosecution case shall be discussed herein below in this judgment.

24. What are the incriminating circumstances appearing in the prosecution evidence against the accused find mention in para 14 of the judgment of the learned trial Court. The same read as follow:

> "14.(i).On 16.11.2013 the accused was last seen with his mother-in-law Shanti Devi in the evening.
>
> (ii). The accused used to hurl threats to Shanti Devi to do away with her life.
>
> (iii). Recovery of dead body of Shanti Devi from the field of the complainant and subsequent conduct of the accused.
>
> (iv). Recovery of clothes, ornaments and a pair of Chappals of Shanti Devi on the disclosure statement of the accused.
> (v). Recovery of weapon of offence."

25. Learned trial Judge, on appreciation of the evidence has concluded that these circumstances stand proved beyond all reasonable doubt and the chain is complete in all respects. Also that only inescapable conclusion is that it is the accused alone who had killed the deceased during the night intervening 16/17.11.2013 with stone Ext. P-3 in the fields of PW-1 Pratap Singh, the complainant. Whether the conclusion so drawn by learned trial Judge is legally and factually sustainable is a question which needs reappraisal of the given facts and circumstances and also the evidence available on record.

26. The first two circumstances can be taken up together for consideration. The evidence that the accused had been hurling threats to deceased Shanti Devi to do away with her life has come on record by way of testimony of PW-4 Sushma. According to her, the accused killed her mother as he had been hurling threats to do away with her life as she (PW-4 Sushma) had refused to live with him. This part of her testimony, however, is an improvement as nothing of the sort has come in her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and to the contrary she only suspected the hands of the accused in killing her mother as according to her, the accused had been hurling threats that he will flee away after killing someone and it will not be possible to anyone to trace him out or apprehend. The statement under Section 161 Cr.PC. of PW-4 Sushma rather gives an impression that her mother, the deceased had been insisting upon her not to abandon the company of the accused and live with him. Also that she will also to live with them. No other witness has supported this part of the prosecution case because PW-6 Santosh Kumari, another daughter of deceased, though stated that she came to know about the murder of her mother by the accused, however, without there being anything on record suggesting as to what is her source of information. Therefore, in our considered opinion, learned trial Judge is not correct in placing reliance on the sole testimony of PW-4 Sushma, which in view of the findings recorded hereinabove is otherwise also an improvement qua her earlier version.

27. Now, if coming to the prosecution case that the accused and deceased were lastly seen in the company of each other in the evening on 16.11.2013 besides the statement made by PW-4 Sushma that she left the rented accommodation at Mirthal, the moment the accused arrived there leaving behind the accused and her mother alone there, the reliance has also been placed on the testimony of PW-7 Ravinder Kumar, auto rikshaw driver. What PW-7 Ravinder Kumar tells us while in the witness-box is that he had come to Kathgarh and while going to his house in his auto rikshaw when reached near Toll Tax Barrier around 7:00 PM, one man and one lady carrying household articles hired his auto for Naudan. The lady was addressing that person as Mohan and said Mohan according to this witness was saying that his wife had left him. He dropped them at Naudan. He has also identified the accused in the Court. He admitted in his cross-examination that it was dark at that time. Therefore, it is not known as to how it can be believed that this witness had well recognized the accused and also the lady with him. Otherwise also, after a period about 2 years, as he has been examined in the Court on 24.9.2015, a person travelled in his Auto only for once that too during night time, how he could have identified him and that too in the Court. PW-7 Ravinder Kumar, therefore, seems to be a stock witness. Above all, when he has said nothing in his examination-in-chief that the accused and that lady had been quarreling in the Auto, his testimony to this effect in the cross-examination itself speaks in plenty about its veracity. Therefore, it cannot be believed by any stretch of imagination that this witness had seen the deceased in the company of the accused on that day.

28. We have already discarded the prosecution case that on 16.11.2013, on seeing the accused in the rented accommodation at Mirthal, PW-4 Sushma went therefrom to the house of her sister PW-6 Santosh Kumari being not supported by the evidence. Otherwise also, on one hand, according to PW-4 Sushma, she went to Village Naudan and spent the night on the roof of the house of a Kumhar there and in the morning (17.11.2013) went to the house of her sister at Gurdaspur. It is on the same day, they received the call that the dead body of their mother is lying in the fields in naked condition. At what time, she reached in the house of her sister that too when her sister Santosh Kumari has not said anything qua she having come there while in the witness-box as PW-6 renders the prosecution story that on leaving the rented accommodation by PW-4 Sushma, it is only the accused and her mother, the deceased who alone were left there is highly improbable.

29. Interestingly enough, PW-1 has stated in his examination-in-chief that on the previous day he had seen the deceased and the accused in the shop at Bhia Indorian. However, for want of date and time of his seeing both of them at Bhia Indorian, which he has not mentioned in his statement, such version of this witness being absurd and vague, takes us to nowhere nor it is possible to form an opinion that he had seen the deceased and the accused in the company of each other at Bhia Indorian. It is again interesting to note that as per the version of PW-1 Pratap Singh, he suspected that the accused killed Shanti Devi during the night intervening 16/17.11.2013 and thrown her dead body in his field thereafter. Nothing to this effect has, however, come in his statement Ext. PW-1/A recorded under Section 154 Cr.P.C. His suspicion, therefore, is nothing but merely an afterthought. Otherwise also, when cross-examined, it is stated by him that on previous day (on 16.11.2013), the accused was with him, however, stated voluntarily that he had not been with him in between 6:00 PM to 9:30 PM on 16.11.2013 and after 9:30 PM during the night intervening 16/17.11.2013 till morning he was in his house throughout.Therefore, even if the version of PW-1 Pratap Singh that the accused was not in his house between 6 to 9:30 PM on 16.11.2013 is believed, in that event also, it cannot be said by any stretch of imagination that during his absence for about 3 ½ hours from the house of PW-1 Pratap Singh, he could have visited the rented accommodation of PW-4 Sushma, allowed his wife PW-4 Sushma going away from there, picking the household articles and having come to Mirthal bus stand with Shanti Devi (deceased), hired the auto rikshaw there and came to Naudan (Kudson), it is thereafter he murdered the deceased and not only made her nude but also removed her jewellery and left the dead body along with the so called weapon of offence, the stone Ext. P-3. All this was not possible for the accused to have done within the short period of 3 ½ hours when he was absent from the house of the complainant. Had the deceased been assaulted by him on her head with stone Ext. P-3, it was somewhat natural for her to have struggled to save herself from him and even would have raised alarm also because the place of occurrence is the field of PW-1 Pratap Singh which for want of the evidence to the contrary can reasonably be believed to be nearby the house of PW-1 Pratap Singh. In view of the absence of the accused from the house of PW-1 Pratap Singh for a short duration i.e. from 6:00 PM to 9:30 PM, he would have not taken the risk to kill her because of the apprehension of being seen by someone as till 9:30 PM, the people normally do not sleep. It is for this reason also in that the spot map Ext. PW-17/B of the place of recovery of the dead body, the distance of village/house of complainant has not been mentioned though his pump house and Jai Shankar Stone Crusher in existence nearby the place of recovery do find mention therein.

30. The existence of the pump house and in that very field, the orange trees and in the adjoining field crop of sugarcane shown lead to the only conclusion that the house of PW-1 Pratap Singh, the complainant or village was also situated nearby. Therefore, there is no iota of evidence to show that it is the accused alone and none else who has killed deceased Shanti Devi. He, to our mind, seems to be falsely implicated in this case.

31 As per the prosecution evidence, the relations of deceased Shanti Devi were not cordial with her husband Bishambar Dass. Athough PW-2 Raj Kumar while in the witness-box has stated that the deceased had been living with her husband in the same room, however, according to him, they both were having their food separately. Similar is the statement of PW-4 Sushma because according to her also though her parents were residing under the same roof, however, maintaining separate kitchens. In her cross-examination, she has admitted that the relations of her parents are strained. It is unbelievable that husband and wife residing under the same roof/room are separate in mess. On the other hand, as per the statement of PW-1 Pratap Singh, the deceased was living separately from her husband. Anyhow, it is satisfactorily proved from such evidence produced by the prosecution itself that the relations of deceased and her husband were not cordial. Said Bishambar Dass, the husband of the deceased, though was associated in the investigation of the case i.e. at the state of alleged recovery of the clothes/ornaments is one of the signatories to the recovery memo Ext. PW-2/H. The prosecution, however, has not examined him as a witness in the Court, may be under the apprehension of he was to be exposed by learned defence counsel during the course of cross-examination qua his relations with his wife, the deceased. Such an approach on the part of the prosecution also renders the prosecution story qua the murder of the deceased by the accused is highly improbable. On the other hand, the possibility of she was murdered by someone else and there may be hand of Bishambar Dass, her husband cannot be ruled out.

32. Therefore, in view of the appraisal of the evidence hereinabove, neither the prosecution story that the deceased was seen lastly in the company of the accused is proved nor that it is the accused who has murdered her in the field of PW-1 Pratap Singh, the complainant during the night intervening 16/17-11.2013. The findings to the contrary recorded by learned trial Judge, therefore, deserves to be quashed and set aside.

33. Now, if coming to the 4th and 5th circumstances i.e. recovery of clothes, ornaments and a pair of chappal of Shanti Devi allegedly on the disclosure statement made by the accused again, there is no grain of truth therein for the reason that disclosure statement Ext. PW-2/C allegedly has been made by the accused while in custody in the Police Station. The witness thereto is PW-2 Raj Kumar, who is none else but the husband of Rani Devi, the Pradhan of Gram Panchayat Kudson (Naudan), the area where the dead body of deceased was lying in the field. Nothing has come in the statement of PW-2 Raj Kumar, a witness to the disclosure statement Ext. PW-2/C as to whether he was present in the Police Station at the time when the accused has made the alleged disclosure statement. In what connection he had gone there again nothing has come in his statement. As a matter of fact, in order to prove the disclosure statement, the person having witnessed the same must also state the purpose of his visit to the Police Station. Nothing of the sort has come in his statement. The reading of his statement rather gives an impression that on 17.11.2013, when he came to know that the dead body of Shanti Devi was lying in the field of PW-1 Pratap Singh, he also went there and witnessed the recovery of jean pants, T-shirt of the accused and stone Ext. P-3. The disclosure statements Ext. PW-2/C and Ext. PW-2/F as well as the recoveries consequent upon that were effected on that very day i.e. 17.11.2013, however, he has not stated that on 24.11.2013, when disclosure statement Ext. PW-2/C and on 26.11.2013 when disclosure statement Ext. PW-2/F was recorded, he was in the Police Station in connection with some work there or otherwise called by the police. The disclosure statements Ext. PW-2/C and Ext. PW-2/F, both have, therefore, been not proved to be made by the accused in the Police Station while in custody.

34. It has been held by the apex Court in Geejaganda Somaiah vs. State of Karnataka, 2007(9) SCC 315, that a confession made by an accused to a Police Officer under Section 25 of the Indian Evidence Act cannot be proved against him. Similarly, the confession made by the accused under Section 26 of the Evidence Act while in custody cannot also be proved against him. However, the disclosure statement made under Section 27 of the Evidence Act relates distinctly to the facts thereby discovered and may be proved against the accused. The statement made under Section 27 of the Act leading to the discovery of facts exclusively in the knowledge of the maker and if such facts ultimately discovered in consequence of the statement so made, some guarantee should be there that the information was true and therefore, the same can be relied upon in evidence. Such link evidence is not proved in the case in hand because it is not proved at all that the statements were recorded in the Police Station in the presence of PW-2 Raj Kumar at a stage when the accused was in police custody. Being so, the recovery of kameez Ext. P-12, salwar Ext. P-13, sweater Ext. P-14, banyan Ext. P-15 and dupatta Ext. P-16 consequent upon the disclosure statement Ext. PW-2/C is highly doubtful. No doubt, the same were taken into possession vide recovery memo Ext. PW-2/E in the presence of PW-2 Raj Kumar and also Rani Devi and PW-5 SI Manohar Lal. Rani Devi has, however, not been examined. PW-5 SI Manohar Lal, though has appeared in the witness-box, however, being a police official, it is not safe to place reliance on his testimony particularly when the disclosure statement Ext. PW-2/C has not been made by the accused in the manner as claimed by the prosecution.

35. Now, if coming to the disclosure statement Ext. PW-2/F, discussed hereinabove made by the accused and recovery of mobile battries Ext. P-20 and P-21, mobile Sim (Idea) Ext. P-22, Airtel Sim Ext. P-23, Payal Ext. P-24, Mangal sutra Ext. P-25, rings Ext. P-26 and Ext. P-27, ear rings Ext. P-28, currency notes worth Rs. 40/- Ext. P-29 and photos Ext. P-30, the same is also not proved in accordance with law because when the disclosure statement Ext. PW-2/F itself is not proved in accordance with law, the recovery of the articles hereinabove and the question of recovery of the above articles on the basis thereof does not at all arise. The recovery of the chappal Ext. P-31 is also not proved. PW-4 Sushma, one of the witnesses to the recovery memo Ext. PW-2/H has only supported the prosecution case qua recovery of ornaments and chappal of the deceased and not qua the other articles such as battries and mobile Sims etc. Another witness to this memo, Bishambar Dass (husband of the deceased) has not been examined by the prosecution to the reasons best known to it. Otherwise also, the place(s) of recovery as per the site plans Ext.

PW-17/B and Ext. PW-19/A are near and around the place of recovery of the dead body shown in the site plan Ext. PW-17/B. These articles were recovered on 24.11.2013 and 26.11.2013, respectively, hence after 7-8 days of the recovery of the dead body. It was expected from the I.O. to have inspected the area near and around the place of recovery of the dead body to have some clue about the occurrence and had it been so done, these articles kept in open could have otherwise been traced. Therefore, had the investigation been conducted in a fair manner, the I.O. would have come in contact with these articles.

36. Similarly, the recovery of jean pants Ext. P-18 of the accused pursuant to the so called disclosure statement Ext. PW-2/E is also not proved as nothing in the presence of PW-2 Raj Kumar on that day has come on record. The recovery of the domestic articles mentioned in the memo Ext. PW-3/A i.e. quilt, mat, blanket, shawl and old clothes, allegedly that of the deceased is also of no help to the prosecution case for the reason that the same were recovered from an open place i.e. beneath banyan tree at Panjbir Baba temple Kudsan. PW-3 Bansi Lal, a witness to the recovery memo Ext. PW-3/A has admitted that these articles were that of the deceased, is not known to him. Also that, such articles are generally available everywhere.

37. In a similar case where the disclosure statement made and discovery of articles from an open area like the case in hand made after more than ten days, the Apex Court in Mani vs. State of Tamil Nadu, 2009(17) SCC 273, has held as under:

> "20…………..This was nothing but a farce of discovery and could never have been accepted particularly because all the discovered articles were lying bare open barely 300 feet away from the body of the deceased Sivakumar. Even this witness had to admit that he never enquired as to in whose name the house of Mani stand. He claims that P.W.14 had done the same whereas P.W.14 is completely silent about such investigation. It is, therefore, obvious this discovery could have never been accepted by both the courts below & both the court have completely ignored this vital admission. It need not be stated that where the discovery of the relevant articles have been made from the open ground though under the bush, that too after more than 10 days of the incident, such discovery would be without any credence. It does not stand to any reasons that the concerned investigating officer did not even bother to look hither and thither when the dead body was found. We are, therefore, not prepared to accept such kind of farcical discovery which has been relied by the courts below without even taking into consideration the vital facts which we have shown above.
> 21. The discovery is a weak kind of evidence and cannot be wholly relied upon on and conviction in such a serious matter cannot be based upon the discovery. Once the discovery fails, there would be literally nothing which would support the prosecution case. …………"

38. Similar is the ratio of the judgment of the apex Court in Vijay Thakur vs. State of Himachal Pradesh, 2015(1) SCC (Cri.) 454 = 2014(Sup.) Him. L.R. 2308, which reads as follows:

> "12. Coming to the alleged disclosure of the appellant Vijay Kumar, a discovery of jacket (Exhibit P-5) is attributed to him. This recovery was sought to be proved from the statement of PW-23, who has said that appellant Vijay Kumar had made a disclosure statement that he had kept the jacket in his house and the statement was recorded as Exhibit PW-3/C. However, in his cross-examination, he has admitted that document Exhibit > PW-3/C was prepared 10-15 minutes prior to the recovery of clothes and he was not there when recovery was effected. He had seen the clothes when they were with the Police. Therefore, recovery of jacket on the disclosure statement made by accused Vijay Kumar also becomes doubtful. In such circumstances, it would be too risky to convict these two appellants solely on the basis of alleged disclosure, which recovery is also shrouded with elements of doubts. As already discussed above, there is no other circumstance which relate these two appellants to the commission of the offence."

39. In view of the well established legal principles, the prosecution case qua recoveries having been effected pursuant to the disclosure statements made by the accused is also not proved in accordance with law.

40. If coming to the recovery of T-Shirt Ext. P-1, vide memo Ext. PW-1/B, stone Ext. P-3, sample of soil Ext. P-5, box Ext. P-6 vide recovery memo Ext. PW-2/A, no doubt, the same is supported by PW-3 Bansi Lal, one of the attesting witnesses to Ext. PW-1/B and PW-2 Raj Kumar to the memo Ext. PW-2/A, however, the recovery so made cannot be used against the accused when it is not proved that he has murdered the deceased with stone Ext. P-3.

41. Therefore, the recovery of clothes, ornaments and chappals and weapon of offence etc. made in this case is also of no help to the prosecution.

42. The last and 5th circumstance is the recovery of dead body of Shanti Devi and the so called subsequent conduct of the accused. The dead body of deceased in naked condition is not proved from the field of PW-1 Pratap Singh, the complainant for the reason that the lady who firstly has seen the dead body lying there has not been associated with the investigation of the case nor cited as witness. Though, as per the statement of PW-1 Pratap Singh in his cross-examination that lady is sister-in-law of Surjeet (PW-18), he, however, expressed his inability to tell her name. According to him, they call her by nickname "Gole". As a matter of fact, it is the said lady, would have substantiated this aspect of the case more effectively and judiciously. She, however, has not been examined by the prosecution to the reasons best known to it. Therefore, the story of the dead body lying in the field of the complainant PW-1 Pratap Singh is also doubtful. No doubt, it is stated so by PW-1 Pratap Singh, the complainant and PW-2 Raj Kumar and the spot map Ext. PW-17/B has also been relied upon by the police, however, the non-examination of the lady who had informed PW-1 Pratap Singh about the dead body lying in his field casts doubt on the prosecution story in this regard. Therefore, the recovery of the dead body in the manner as claimed by the prosecution is also not proved beyond all reasonable doubt.

43. In order to substantiate its case qua subsequent conduct of the accused, reliance has been placed by the prosecution on the statement of PW-1 Pratap Singh, the complainant. No doubt, PW-1 Pratap Singh has stated so that on coming to know about the dead body of Shanti Devi lying in his fields, the accused ran away. Even if it is believed to be so and that the accused having murdered the deceased during the night intervening 16/17-11.2013 and thrown her dead body in the nearby fields, firstly he would have run away from that place and secondly not come to the field of PW-1 Pratap Singh for working there. A mere sentence in the statement of PW-1 Pratap Singh is not sufficient to arrive at a conclusion that the accused had absconded on hearing about the dead body of Shanti Devi lying in the fields. He, being an outsider seems to have been framed falsely to save the real culprit and the police having failed to trace out any clue about the real culprit.

44. The medical evidence in the form of post mortem report Ext. PW-8/A and Ext. PW-10/C and also the statements of Dr. Mohan Singh (PW-8), Medical Officer, CH Nurpur and PW-10 Dr. Susheel Sharma, Asstt. Professor, Department of Forensic Medicine, Dr. R.P. Medical College, Tanda reveal that the cause of death of Shanti Devi (deceased) was the injuries ante mortem on her skull caused by forceful impact of some blunt weapon. The stone Ext. P-3 as per such evidence available on record can be the weapon of offence. However, nothing tangible has come on record to suggest that it is the accused who inflicted such injuries on her person intentionally and deliberately and knowing fully well that the same are likely to cause her death. The reports received from Forensic Science Laboratory Ext. PX-1 to PX-3 reveal that blood stains were on the clothes of the deceased Shanti Devi, however, no semen could be detected thereon. The blood sample was found to be human blood of group "B". No blood, however, was detected on the jean pants and T-shirt of the accused. Therefore, such scientific investigation conducted is also not suggestive of that the accused has murdered the deceased.

45. The evidence as has come on record by way of statements of official witnesses also does not connect the accused with the commission of the offence. Otherwise also, such evidence could have been used as a link evidence had the prosecution been otherwise able to bring guilt home to the accused, hence need not to be discussed any further.

46. In view of the discussion hereinabove, we are satisfied that the present is a case of sketchy evidence against the accused. Whatever evidence having come on record by way of statements of PW-1 Pratap Singh, PW-2 Raj Kumar and PW-4 Sushma cannot be relied upon against the accused as they are interested witnesses. The evidence as has come on record by way of their respective testimony is otherwise also inconsistent and contradictory in nature. They even have improved their previous version. Learned trial Court, as such, has not appreciated the evidence available on record in its right perspective and to the contrary recorded its findings on the basis of conjectures and surmises. Such an approach has certainly resulted in miscarriage of justice to the accused. He has been convicted while placing reliance on highly inadmissible evidence. The impugned judgment, as such, is neither legally nor factually sustainable.

47. Consequently, this appeal succeeds and the same is accordingly allowed. The accused is acquitted of the charge under Section 302 IPC framed against him. The accused is serving out the sentence. He be set free forthwith, if not required in any other case, however, on verification of his antecedents i.e. name, parentage, permanent residential address in the State of Bihar and on his furnishing personal bond in the sum of Rs. 25,000/- with one surety in the like amount to the satisfaction of learned trial Judge. The bonds so executed shall, however, remain in force for a period of six months. The Registry to prepare the release warrants accordingly. The amount of fine, if already deposited, be refunded to the accused against proper receipt.

Prasanta Kumar Sarkar vs. Ashis Chatterjee and another, (2010) 14 SCC 496
Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation, (2012)1 SCC 49

For the petitioner — Mr. G.S. Rathour, Advocate.
For the respondent — Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

Bail petitioner, Gaurav Thakur, who is behind bars since 23.12.2018, has approached this court, in the instant proceedings filed under S.439 CrPC, for grant of regular bail in FIR No. 367, dated 23.12.2018 under S.21 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, registered at Police Station, Sadar, Solan, Himachal Pradesh.

2. Close scrutiny of the record/status report made available to this Court reveals that on 23.12.2018, police, after having received information /complaint from the Director, Shoolini University, Solan, apprehended bail petitioner with 6.94 grams of Heroin. Record further reveals that prior to reaching of the police on the spot, College Authorities had actually caught the bail petitioner, who was roaming in the premises of the college without there being any authority. College Authorities suspecting credentials of the bail petitioner asked him to give his search. In the alleged search contraband as detailed above, was recovered. Subsequently, the Police weighed the contraband and found same to be 6.94 grams. After completion of necessary codal formalities, Police lodged FIR, detailed herein above, against the bail petitioner, on 23.12.2018, and since then, he is behind the bars.

3. Mr. Sanjeev Sood, learned Additional Advocate General, while acknowledging the factum with regard to completion of investigation, contended that though at this stage, nothing is required to be recovered from the bail petitioner, but keeping in view the gravity of the offence, alleged to have been committed by the bail petitioner, he does not deserve any leniency. Mr. Sood, learned Additional Advocate General further contended that as per investigation, bail petitioner had gone to Shoolini University with a view to sell narcotics to the students of the College and as such, he does not deserve to be enlarged on bail.

4. Mr. G.S. Rathour, learned counsel, while refuting the aforesaid contention/ submission made by learned Additional Advocate General, contended that the recovery, if any, fo the contraband is highly doubtful because, admittedly, in the case at hand, bail petitioner was apprehended by College authorities and not by the Police. Mr. Rathour further contended that the bail petitioner has been falsely implicated because the bail petitioner, who is a young person of 24 years of age, had gone to Shoolini University to meet his friends. Lastly Mr. Rathour, contended that though there is no evidence to conclude that the bail petitioner was carrying narcotics alongwith him, but even if story of the prosecution is presumed to be correct, bail petitioner is entitled to bail keeping in view the quantity of contraband allegedly recovered from him.

5. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the material available on record, this court is not in agreement with Mr. Rathour, learned counsel for the bail petitioner that there is nothing on record to suggest that the bail petitioner was apprehended carrying 6.94 grams of Heroin on the date of alleged incident, because statements having been made by witnesses associated by the Police reveal that the bail petitioner was found roaming in the College premises without any authority and subsequently, he admitted his guilt and begged for pardon. Though recovery in the case at hand, never came to be effected by the Police, but it would be too early to conclude at this stage that recovery, if any, of the contraband is vitiated on account of non-compliance of various provisions of the Act ibid.

6. Leaving everything aside, this court having taken note of the fact that the bail petitioner has already suffered for more than seven months and there is nothing to suggests that he has been earlier indulging in such activities, sees no reason to let the bail petitioner incarcerate in jail for an indefinite period during trial. Moreover, quantity allegedly recovered from the bail petitioner is an 'intermediate' quantity and as such, rigours of S.37 of the Act ibid are not attracted to this case. Though aspects with regard to compliance of various provisions of the Act ibid, while conducting search of bail petitioner are to be considered and decided by the court below in the totality of evidence to be collected on record by investigating agency, but for the reasons stated above, this court sees no reason to curtail the freedom of the petitioner for an indefinite period, moreover, when nothing has been placed on record to demonstrate that the bail petitioner is a drug peddler and earlier also some case was registered against him.

7. Moreover, guilt, if any, of the petitioner is yet to be proved by the prosecution by leading cogent and convincing evidence in accordance with law, as such, this court does not deem it proper to curtail the freedom of the bail petitioner for an indefinite period during trial.

8. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Criminal Appeal No. 227/2018, Dataram Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Anr decided on 6.2.2018 has held that freedom of an individual can not be curtailed for indefinite period, especially when his/her guilt is yet to be proved. It has further held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the aforesaid judgment that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

> "2. A fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is the presumption of innocence, meaning thereby that a person is believed to be innocent until found guilty. However, there are instances in our criminal law where a reverse onus has been placed on an accused with regard to some specific offences but that is another matter and does not detract from the fundamental postulate in respect of other offences. Yet another important facet of our criminal jurisprudence is that the grant of bail is the general rule and putting a person in jail or in a prison or in a correction home (whichever expression one may wish to use) is an exception. Unfortunately, some of these basic principles appear to have been lost sight of with the result that more and more persons are being incarcerated and for longer periods. This does not do any good to our criminal jurisprudence or to our society.

3. There is no doubt that the grant or denial of bail is entirely the discretion of the judge considering a case but even so, the exercise of judicial discretion has been circumscribed by a large number of decisions rendered by this Court and by every High Court in the country. Yet, occasionally there is a necessity to introspect whether denying bail to an accused person is the right thing to do on the facts and in the circumstances of a case.

4. While so introspecting, among the factors that need to be considered is whether the accused was arrested during investigations when that person perhaps has the best opportunity to tamper with the evidence or influence witnesses. If the investigating officer does not find it necessary to arrest an accused person during investigations, a strong case should be made out for placing that person in judicial custody after a charge sheet is filed. Similarly, it is important to ascertain whether the accused was participating in the investigations to the satisfaction of the investigating officer and was not absconding or not appearing when required by the investigating officer. Surely, if an accused is not hiding from the investigating officer or is hiding due to some genuine and expressed fear of being victimised, it would be a factor that a judge would need to consider in an appropriate case. It is also necessary for the judge to consider whether the accused is a first-time offender or has been accused of other offences and if so, the nature of such offences and his or her general conduct. The poverty or the deemed indigent status of an accused is also an extremely important factor and even Parliament has taken notice of it by incorporating an Explanation to Section 436 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. An equally soft approach to incarceration has been taken by Parliament by inserting Section 436A in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973.

5. To put it shortly, a humane attitude is required to be adopted by a judge, while dealing with an application for remanding a suspect or an accused person to police custody or judicial custody. There are several reasons for this including maintaining the dignity of an accused person, howsoever poor that person might be, the requirements of Article 21 of the Constitution and the fact that there is enormous overcrowding in prisons, leading to social and other problems as noticed by this Court in In Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons."

9. By now it is well settled that gravity alone cannot be a decisive ground to deny bail, rather competing factors are required to be balanced by the court while exercising its discretion. It has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Sanjay Chandra versus Central Bureau of Investigation (2012)1 Supreme Court Cases 49; has been held as under:-

"The object of bail is to secure the appearance of the accused person at his trial by reasonable amount of bail. The object of bail is neither punitive nor preventative. Deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment, unless it can be required to ensure that an accused person will stand his trial when called upon. The Courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction, and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and duly found guilty. Detention in custody pending completion of trial could be a cause of great hardship. From time to time, necessity demands that some unconvicted persons should be held in custody pending trial to secure their attendance at the trial but in such cases, "necessity" is the operative test. In India , it would be quite contrary to the concept of personal liberty enshrined in the Constitution that any person should be punished in respect of any matter, upon which, he has not been convicted or that in any circumstances, he should be deprived of his liberty upon only the belief that he will tamper with the witnesses if left at liberty, save in the most extraordinary circumstances. Apart from the question of prevention being the object of refusal of bail, one must not lose sight of the fact that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of former conduct whether the accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the propose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson."

10. Needless to say object of the bail is to secure the attendance of the accused in the trial and the proper test to be applied in the solution of the question whether bail should be granted or refused is whether it is probable that the party will appear to take his trial. Otherwise also, normal rule is of bail and not jail. Apart from above, Court has to keep in mind nature of accusations, nature of evidence in support thereof, severity of the punishment, which conviction will entail, character of the accused, circumstances which are peculiar to the accused involved in that crime.

11. In Manoranjana Sinh alias Gupta versus CBI, (2017) 5 SCC 218, Hon'ble Apex Court has held as under:

"This Court in Sanjay Chandra vs. Central Bureau of Investigation (2012) 1 SCC 40, also involving an economic offence of formidable magnitude, while dealing with the issue of grant of bail, had observed that deprivation of liberty must be considered a punishment unless it is required to ensure that an accused person would stand his trial when called upon and that the courts owe more than verbal respect to the principle that punishment begins after conviction and that every man is deemed to be innocent until duly tried and found guilty. It was underlined that the object of bail is neither punitive nor preventive. This Court sounded a caveat that any imprisonment before conviction has a substantial punitive content and it would be improper for any court to refuse bail as a mark of disapproval of a conduct whether an accused has been convicted for it or not or to refuse bail to an unconvicted person for the purpose of giving him a taste of imprisonment as a lesson. It was enunciated that since the jurisdiction to grant bail to an accused pending trial or in appeal against conviction is discretionary in nature, it has to be exercised with care and caution by balancing the valuable right of liberty of an individual and the interest of the society in general. It was elucidated that the seriousness of the charge, is no doubt one of the relevant considerations while examining the application of bail but it was not only the test or the factor and that grant or denial of such privilege, is regulated to a large extent by the facts and circumstances of each particular case. That detention in custody of under-trial prisoners for an indefinite period would amount to violation of Article 21 of the Constitution was highlighted."

12. The Apex Court in Prasanta Kumar Sarkar versus Ashis Chatterjee and another (2010) 14 SCC 496, has laid down the following principles to be kept in mind, while deciding petition for bail:

(i) whether there is any prima facie or reasonable ground to believe that the accused had committed the offence;

(ii) nature and gravity of the accusation;

(iii) severity of the punishment in the event of conviction;

(iv) danger of the accused absconding or fleeing, if released on bail;

(v) character, behaviour, means, position and standing of the accused;

(vi) likelihood of the offence being repeated;

(vii) reasonable apprehension of the witnesses being influenced; and

(viii) danger, of course, of justice being thwarted by grant of bail.

13. In view of above, bail petitioner has carved out a case for himself and as such, present petition is allowed. Bail petitioner is ordered to be enlarged on bail subject to his furnishing fresh bail bonds in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- (Rs. One Lakh) with one local surety in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the trial court/Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned, besides the following conditions:

(a) He shall make himself available for the purpose of interrogation, if so required and regularly attend the trial Court on each and every date of hearing and if prevented by any reason to do so, seek exemption from appearance by filing appropriate application;

(b) He shall not tamper with the prosecution evidence nor hamper the investigation of the case in any manner whatsoever;

(c) He shall not make any inducement, threat or promises to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him/her from disclosing such facts to the Court or the Police Officer; and

(d) He shall not leave the territory of India without the prior permission of the Court.

(e) He shall surrender passport, if any, held by him.

14. It is clarified that if the petitioner misuses the liberty or violates any of the conditions imposed upon him, the investigating agency shall be free to move this Court for cancellation of the bail.

15. Any observations made hereinabove shall not be construed to be a reflection on the merits of the case and shall remain confined to the disposal of this petition alone.

The petition stands accordingly disposed of.

Cr. Revision No. 205 of 2019
Decided on July 18, 2019

Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 –Section 14– Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2016 – Rule 10 (6) – Presentation of final report in petty or serious offences –Time period - Juvenile Justice Board (Board) returning final report to investigating agency on ground of not having been filed within statutory period– Petition against– Held, Rule, 10 (6) of Rules provides that final report in petty or serious offences by investigating agency should be filed before Board within period of two months from date of receipt of information except in those cases where it was reasonably not know that person involved in an offence was a child– But even in such cases, application is required to be filed before Board seeking extension of time– No reason given by police for delay caused in filing final report– Order of JJB's is not illegal– Petition dismissed. (Para 4)

For the petitioner: Mr. Sanjeev Sood and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Additional Advocates General with Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General, for the petitioner.
For the respondent: Nemo.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of instant criminal revision petition filed under Section 102 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (in short "the Act"), challenge has been laid to order dated 3.10.2018, passed by the learned Principal Magistrate, Juvenile Justice Board, Solan, District Solan, HP, in Criminal Misc. Application No. 17-4 of 2018, under S.379 read with S.34 IPC, whereby final report submitted by the concerned police station has been returned being not in consonance with the law.

2. Case under aforesaid provisions came to be registered against the respondent-accused (in short "the accused") on 10.12.2016, vide FIR No. 321, dated 10.12.2016 registered at Police Station, Baddi, Solan, Himachal Pradesh.

3. As per Rule 10 (6) of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Model Rules, 2016, final report after investigation of the case is required to be filed by the Investigating Agency before the Juvenile Justice Board at the earliest and in any case, not beyond the period of two months from the date of information to the police. Since in the case at hand, final report came to be filed before Juvenile Justice Board after the prescribed period of two months, Juvenile Justice Board vide impugned order dated 3.10.2018, returned the final report to the concerned Police Station. In the aforesaid backdrop, State has approached this Court in the instant proceedings, praying therein to set-aside impugned order dated 3.10.2018 and to punish the accused in accordance with law.

4. Having heard learned Additional Advocate General and perused material available on record vis-à-vis reasoning assigned by the Juvenile Justice Board while passing impugned order dated 3.10.2018, this Court is not persuaded to agree with Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, learned Additional Advocate General that learned court below, while passing impugned order has failed to appreciate the facts as well as law, rather this Court finds that though final report after lodging of FIR was prepared much before the prescribed period of two months, but same came to be filed before the Juvenile Justice Board after nineteen months of lodging of FIR. Rule 10 (6) clearly provides that final report by the Investigating Agency should be filed before the Juvenile Justice Board at the earliest and in any case not beyond the period of two months from the date of information to the police, save and except in those cases where, it was reasonably not known that the person involved in the offence was a child, but even in such like cases, application is required to be filed before the Juvenile Justice Board seeking extension of time. In the case at hand, it is not the case of the prosecution that the delay in presenting the final report occurred on account of the fact that it was not reasonably known to the prosecution that the accused involved in the offence was a child.

5. The words "in any case not beyond the period of two months" used in Rule 10 (6) clearly suggest that provision contained under Rule 10 (6) is mandatory and same is to be scrupulously adhered to. No cogent and convincing reasons came to be assigned by the Investigating Agency in support of delay in presenting the final report, which admittedly came to be filed after nineteen months of lodging of FIR. Since Juvenile justice Act, 2016 and Rules framed thereunder are special enactment, learned court below while returning the final report to the police concerned, rightly observed that procedure provided under the Code of Criminal Procedure would not prevail upon the special enactment.

6. Consequently, in view of the above, this Court finds no illegality and infirmity in the impugned order passed by the court below and as such, same is allowed and upheld, therefore, present petition fails and dismissed accordingly.

For the Respondent-State: Mr. Hemant Vaid and Mr. Desh Raj Thakur, Additional Advocate Generals with Mr. Yudhveer Singh Thakur and Mr. Vikrant Chandel, Deputy Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J

The instant appeals are directed against the judgment of 1.11.2017, rendered by the learned Additional Sessions Judge-I, Kangra at Dharamshala, District Kangra (H.P), in Session Case No. 8-I/VII/2015, whereby, the learned trial Court convicted, and, sentenced the appellants/accused to (a) undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of two years, and, to pay a fine of Rs.2,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of three months, for commission of offence, punishable under Section 452 readwith Section 34 of the IPC, (b) undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of two years, and, to pay a fine of Rs.2,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of three months, for commission of offence, punishable under Section 365 readwith Section 34 of the IPC, (c) undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of twenty years, and, to pay a fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of one year, for commission of offence, punishable under Section 376D readwith Section 34 of the IPC.

2. Brief facts of the case are that the husband of the prosecutrix was working as a labourer at Lali stone Crusher, Dhangu-Mazra Road. The prosecutrix was residing with her husband, and, a three years old son in a quarter near the Lali stone crusher. On 24.3.2015 at about 7.00-8.00 P.M. accused Shiv Singh alias Lambu, Rakesh and Pankaj, who were working at Pathania Stone Crusher came to the quarter of the prosecutrix, and, consumed liquor with the husband of the prosecutrix, and, left after about half an hour. At about 11.00-11.30 P.M when the prosecutrix, her husband, and, their son, were sleeping, the accused persons entered the quarter of the prosecutrix and gagged her mouth and lifted her from her bed and took her to a quarter that was lying vacant and raped her one by one. The prosecutrix tried to raise alarm but the accused Shiv Singh alias Lambu gagged her mouth. After committing rape, the accused persons lifted the prosecutrix, and, left her near her quarter. The prosecutrix informed her husband, who took her to Saroj, the chowkidar of the stone crusher. Saroj informed the police, and, accordingly police came at Lali Stone Crusher, where the statement of the prosecutrix under Section 154 of Cr.P.C was recorded by ASI Mohinder Kumar. On the basis of the said statement, formal FIR was registered, and, on conclusion of the investigation, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, final report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and presented in the Court.

3. The accused persons were charged by the learned trial Court, for, theirs having committed offences punishable, under, Sections 452, 365, and, under section 376-D readwith Section 34 of IPC, to, which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 26 witnesses. On closure of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused, under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, were recorded, wherein, they pleaded innocence and claimed false implication. They did not choose to lead, any evidence in defence.

5. On appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of conviction against the accused/appellants.

6. The accused/appellants are aggrieved by the recording of judgment of conviction, and, consequent therewith sentence, imposed, upon them, by the learned trial Court. The learned counsel(s) appearing for the appellants/accused have concertedly, and, vigorously contended, that, the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court, standing, not based on a proper appreciation by it, of, the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation, by it, of the material on record. Hence, they, contend that the findings of conviction, being reversed by this Court, in, exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, and, theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. On the other hand, Mr. Hemant Vaid, learned Additional Advocate General, has, with considerable force and vigour, contended that the findings of conviction, recorded by the learned Court below, standing, based on a mature and balanced appreciation, by it, of the evidence on record, hence, theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. Ms. Sheetal Vyas, learned Counsel for the appellants, has made a fervent espousal before this Court, that, the appellants/accused, rather proving their non-participation, in the relevant incriminatory occurrence, given (a) the testimony of the prosecutrix being not credible (b) lack of it being confidence inspiring, (c) hers failing to, during the course of recording, of her deposition in Court, hence identity the accused/appellants, (d) and, hers during the course of her cross-examination, by the learned PP concerned, upon, hers being declared hostile, rather acquiescing to, a, suggestion, put thereat, to her, by the learned PP, vis-a-vis, hers not disclosing the names of convicts/accused, to be the persons, who had allegedly perpetrated hence forcible sexual intercourse rather upon her, (e) the DNA expert after making analysis of the vaginal swabs', of the prosecutrix, sent thereat, for, comparison, hence with the blood grouping(s) of the accused/convicts, also omitting to render any firm opinion therein, vis-a-vis, upon, his making the requisite comparison, with the vaginal swabs of the prosecutrix with the blood grouping of co-accused Pankaj, hence qua his participating, in, the relevant sexual encounter, (f) thereupon, the deposition of the prosecutrix, even if it, may acquire any credibility rather its credibility being eroded by the afore non-echoings, vis-a-vis, co-accused Pankaj.

10. This Court, has, read the testification recorded by the prosecutrix, and, it is apparent, on, an incisive reading, of the testimony of the prosecutrix, comprised both in her examination-in-chief, and, in her cross-examination, vis-a-vis, the defence propagating rather the plea of absolute denial, and, it not propagating the plea qua sexual intercourse(s) which occurred, inter-se, the prosecutrix and the accused, hence, being a sequel of, any, valid consent, if any, purveyed to each, hence, by the prosecutrix, consequently, it is to be fathomed from the testification rendered by the prosecutrix, vis-a-vis, the afore alluded submission, rather carrying any weight or tenacity. Further more, the defence(s) espousal, vis-a-vis, the non-participation of the accused, in, the relevant penal misdemeanors, is bedrocked, upon, qua given prevalence of darkness, at the relevant time, thereupon, there being rather misidentification of the accused, hence, by the prosecutrix, the effects whereof are (a) qua the accused, hence being forbidden, to, espouse qua there being any valid consent being meted to them, by the prosecutrix, for theirs perpetrating sexual intercourse(s) upon her (b) also given the numerical number(s) of the accused, hence theirs' being rather enabled to overpower, the prosecutrix, besides obviously theirs holding the physical capacity, to, benumb any resistive, and, obstructive postures, of the prosecutrix, vis-a-vis, their penal misdemeanors, (c) thereupon, an inference is sparked qua it being wholly inconsequential, qua omission(s), of occurrence(s), of, injuries either on the person of the prosecutrix, or, upon the accused, nor hence, from the afore omission(s), any concomitant sequel can be begotten, qua the prosecutrix meteing any valid consent to the accused. Upon a wholesome reading of the testimony, of the prosecutrix, hence, with a keen discerning mind,this Court is of the view, that the afore espousals, made before this Court, by the learned counsel for the appellants, being also legally frail, given (a) a perusal of the statement, recorded by the learned Judicial Magistrate concerned, in proceedings, drawn, under Section 164 of Cr.P.C, of the prosecutrix, rather making unveiling(s) qua hers making clear disclosure(s) therein, vis-a-vis, the names of all the co-accused, and, also it revealing qua hers naming them, as, the alleged offender(s), in, the relevant inculpatory occurrence, (b) and, with PW-20 (Niranjan Singh) also while stepping into the witness box hence proving the statement of the prosecutrix, as, embodied in Ex. PW-1/D, wherein reiteratedly, the names, of, all the convicts/accused rather are borne (c) besides his also testifying, in his examination-in-chief, vis-a-vis, his after explaining, and, reading, to the prosecutrix, all the contents borne therein, hence thereafter, the prosecutrix, appending her thumb impression(s), in red circle 'A', upon, PW-1/D, (d) furthermore, his also testifying qua the prosecutrix, being identified, by the Investigating Officer. In addition with his, in his testification, embodied in his examination-in-chief, proving his appending a certificate, comprised in Ex. PW-20/D, with a clear echoing borne therein, vis-a-vis, rather with the fullest volition, the prosecutrix, making a statement embodied in Ex. PW-1/D hence before him, (e) and, though he was also subjected, to, an exacting cross-examination, by the learned defence counsel, however, the learned defence counsel rather failing to mete any suggestion to him, vis-a-vis, the thumb impression(s) borne in Ex. PW-1/D, rather not belonging to the prosecutrix, (f) nor, any apposite suggestion standing thereat put to her, vis-a-vis, the validity of the certificate appended with PW-1/D, (g) and, rather the afore certificate carrying, an apt narration, qua the prosecutrix, making with her fullest volition hence a statement before him, against the convicts/accused, (h) cumulative effect(s) whereof, is, rather an inference standing sparked, vis-a-vis, hence the afore testification, obviously belittling the creditworthiness, if any, of the prosecutrix, to, while stepping into the witness box hence fail, to, during the course of her examination-in-chief, rather identify the accused, (j) nor also her mere oral deposition, comprised in her cross-examination, vis-a-vis, hers not naming the accused, in her previous statement recording in writing, also not either outweighing or countervailing, the deposition, of PW-20, vis-a-vis, the prosecutrix volitionally rather making the apposite statement, borne in Ex.PW-1/D, (k) and, nor thereupon, the validity of his certificate embodied in Ex. PW-20/D, becomes belied, as, any oral deposition, of the prosecutrix in detraction, to the proven recitals, borne in Ex. PW-1/D, and, in certificate Ex. PW-20/D, is, statutorily barred, through, the statutory estoppal created, under Sections 91, and, 92 of the Indian Evidence Act, for hence for any credit being assigned thereto.

11. Reiteratedly, when she has failed, to deny her signatures, occurring in the certificate, consequently also, for all the afore reasons, the testification of the prosecutrix, is rendered both inspiring, and, creditworthy, and, the learned trial Court, has not committed any error in convicting and sentencing each, of the accused, for, terms of imprisonment, carried in the order sentencing each of them. Further more, the prosecutrix in her testimony, comprised in her, examination-in-chief, has rendered communication(s) therein, vis-a-vis, hers' making her previous statement, borne in Ex. PW-1/A, and, also on hers being declared hostile, given hers, during the course of her examination-in-chief rather failing to identify the accused, in Court, (a) and also hers' rather acquiescing to a suggestion put thereat, to her, by the learned PP concerned, vis-a-vis, hers' appending her thumb impression(s), upon, Ex. PW-1/B (b) wherethrough(s) rather certain incriminatory items, vis-a-vis, the inculpatory occurrence, hence stood recovered, and, upon, the afore items, as, carried in a sealed parcel, and, upon the embossed thereon seals, being ordered to be broken, and, upon theirs being shown, to her in Court, hers' rather admitting qua all the items, as, enclosed therewithin, hence comprising the onces, embodied in Ex. PW-1/B, (c) and, there onwards hers also admitting qua hers' making a statement, under, Section 164 of Cr.P.C, before the learned Magistrate concerned, and, thereafter hers' also acquiescing, to, a suggestion put thereat to her, by the learned PP, vis-a-vis hers, therein, disclosing the names of accused Rakesh, Pankaj, and, one Lambu, to be the person(s), who, perpetrated sexual intercourse upon her person, and, when the afore factum, is, supported by the best scientific evidence, borne in the apposite SFSL report, comprised in Ex. PW-7/D, (d) and, with the learned defence counsel, while subjecting her to cross-examination, meteing, suggestion to her, vis-a-vis, hers' disclosing names of the persons, who, perpetrated sexual intercourse upon her, and, whereto, she meted an affirmative suggestion, (e) hence filliping an inference qua the defence acquiescing, vis-a-vis, the veracities, of, recitals carried, in, her earlier statement borne in Ex. PW-1/D wherewithin a narration is borne, vis-a-vis, the names of the accused, and, whereto also, as, a natural corollary, the, apposite veracity(ies) is/are acquired , thereupon, the factum, of hers' failing to identify, the, accused in Court, is wholly effaced, and, no benefit therefrom, can be drawn, by the defence.

12. Though the testification recorded by PW-20, has been concluded by this Court, to, negate the effect, of all the afore espousals, addressed by the learned counsel for the accused, and, upon the afore conclusion, standing conjoined, with the report of FSL, embodied in Ex. PA, proven by PW-26 (Dr. Arun Sharma), and, with a perusal of Ex. PA, making a palpable disclosure, qua the sample parcel received thereat, for, the requisite comparison(s) rather carrying therein narration(s), vis-a-vis, the seals being rather, in, an unbroken condition, and, with the proven conclusions, as, embodied therein, rather unveiling, qua the expert concerned, after making the matching(s), of, blood grouping, of the convicts Rakesh Kumar, and, Shiv Singh, with the vaginal swabs of the prosecutrix, his, making a categorical opinion qua the blood grouping(s) of the afore convicts/accused rather matching with the blood groupings, of, semen, hence occurring in the vaginal swabs of the prosecutrix, (a) thereupon, the effect of the afore pronounced unscathed conclusion(s), as, recorded, in Ex.PW-7/B, proven by PW-26, efficaciously nail the charge, against the accused Rakesh Kumar, and, also against accused Shiv Singh.

13. However, even when there is no firm conclusion against accused Pankaj, (i) nonetheless, the afore extracted conclusion, also rather making an echoing, qua the participation, of persons, other than the afore being not overruleable, and, with the Doctor concerned, who prepared report comprised, in Ex.PW-7/B, also making a testification qua the participation, of persons, other than, the afore being not overruleable, (a) thereupon dehors any firm conclusion, at par with co-accused Rakesh, and, Shiv Singh, being not made in Ex. PW-7/B, vis-a-vis, co-accused Pankaj, thereupon, also no conclusion can be formed, vis-a-vis, the afore convict Pankaj, holding no incriminatory role, in the penal occurrence, (b) conspicuously, when cogent evidence has been adduced vis-a-vis the valid authoring(s) of Ex. PW-20/D, and, of Ex.PW-1/D.

14. In summa, with the best scientific evidence, hence nailing the charge against the accused, thereupon, it has concomitant effects, of it benumbing the effects, if any, of frailty, if any, gripping, the, testification, of, the prosecutrix.

15. A wholesome analysis of the evidence on record, portrays that the appreciation of evidence, as, done by the learned trial Court, not suffering from any perversity and absurdity nor it can be said that the learned trial Court, in recording findings of conviction, has committed any legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence, on record or its omitting to appreciate the relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court does not deem it fit, and, appropriate that the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court merit any interference.

16. In view of the above discussion, we find no merit in these appeal(s), which are accordingly dismissed and the judgment of the learned trial Court is maintained and affirmed. Records of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

For the Appellant: Mr. Pushpender Verma, Advocate, vice counsel.
For the Respondent-State: Mr. Hemant Vaid and Mr. Desh Raj Thakur, Additional Advocate Generals with Mr. Yudhveer Singh Thakur and Mr. Vikrant Chandel, Deputy Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J

The instant appeal is directed against the judgment of 23.3.2017, rendered by the learned Special Judge-II, Chamba, District Chamba, H.P., in FN/NDPS Act/429/2015, whereunder, the learned trial Court hence convicted, and, sentenced the appellant/accused to (a) undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of ten years, and, to pay a fine of Rs.1,00,000/- and in default of payment of fine to further undergo simple imprisonment for a period of 2½ years , for commission, of, an offence, punishable under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substance Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'the NDPS Act').

2. The brief facts of the case are that on 18.6.2015 around 9.15 P.M HC Virender Singh (PW-11) alongwith HC Tej Singh (PW-2), HHC Mohd. Aslam (PW-1), C. Sanjay Kumar No. 145 and C Sanjay Kumar No. 327, in government vehicle bearing No. HP 48-1220 driven by C Mehar Dutt proceeded towards Ind nalla and Koti. Around 9.45 p.m. they reached at Ind Nalla and laid the nakka there. They checked 3-4 vehicles uptill 10.25 P.M. At the same time, a person came down from the pakdandi towards Ind Nalla having one carry bag on your right hand. On seeing the police party, he tried to flee away from the spot and ran towards chamba aside. On the basis of the suspicion, he was nabbed. Thereafter his credentials were inquired on which he disclosed his name to be Kewal Krishan R/o village Malie, Tehsil Churh, District Chamba. The multi coloured carry bag on which crystal brilliant was written was checked. On opening the carry bag, brown colored half sleeve hood, and, a black coloured polythene bag came out. On opening the black coloured polythene bag, hard substance in the shape of round sticks were found. On checking the black coloured hard substance with the help of drug detection kit it was found to be cannabis/charas. On weighment, it was found to be 1 killo 674 grams. Thereafter the police commenced the investigation, and, on conclusion of the investigation, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, final report was prepared and presented in the Court.

3. The appellant/accused stood charged, for, his having committed offence punishable, under Section 20 of the NDPS Act, by the learned trial Court, to, which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 12 witnesses. On closure of the prosecution evidence, the statement of the appellant/accused, under, Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was recorded, wherein, he pleaded innocence, and, claimed false implication. He did not choose to lead, any evidence in defence.

5. On appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of conviction against the appellant/accused.

6. The accused/appellant, is, aggrieved by the recording of judgment of conviction, and, consequent sentence imposed upon him, by the learned trial Court. The learned vice counsel appearing for the appellant/accused has concertedly, and, vigorously contended, that, the findings of conviction, recorded by the learned trial Court, standing, not based on a proper appreciation by it, of, the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation, by it, of the material on record. Hence, they, contend that the findings of conviction, being reversed by this Court, in, exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, and, theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. On the other hand, Mr. Hemant Vaid, learned Additional Advocate General, has, with considerable force and vigour, contended that the findings of conviction, recorded by the learned Court below, standing, based on a mature and balanced appreciation, by it, of the evidence on record, hence, theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The learned vice counsel for the appellant, has submitted qua the depositions of the official witnesses, being not credible, hence for, assigning any credit thereto, and, moreso, when no independent witnesses stood associated in the relevant seizure, as, stood made, at the site of occurrence.

10. However, the afore submission addressed, before this Court, by the learned counsel for the appellant, has no tenacity, (a) unless the depositions', of the official witnesses concerned, are, ridden with, a, gross taint, sparked by there existing no apt corroborative inter-connectivities, inter-se, the seizure of the contraband, made at the site of occurrence, from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused, and, imperatively, upto the production of case property, before the learned trial Court, (b) and the afore inter-connectivities hence appertaining to the number(s), and, description(s), of the seal impression(s), embodied in the seizure memo, borne in PW-1/C, and, thereafter echoed in NCB form, borne in PW-9/A, abstract of malkhana register, borne in Ex. PW-10/C, and, in the report of FSL, borne in Ex. PZ, (c) wherein rather a categorical enunciation, is, borne qua the sample sent, to it, for examination rather containing therewithin hence charas. Preeminently, the afore inter-connectivities, stand cogently established, from the stage, of the seizure being made, from, the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused, upto, the production of case property in Court, whereupon, there is no enjoined necessity cast upon the Investigating Officer, to, associate any independent witness, in the relevant seizure(s). Further more, any omission on the part of the Investigating Officer, to, associate any independent witnesses in the relevant seizure, would not perse constrain any conclusion from this Court, qua, the Court, may hence not assigning any credit, vis-a-vis, the testifications' of the official witnesses concerned. In the afore endeavor, and, for the reasons to be assigned hereinafter, this Court is of the view, that, there was no enjoined necessity, upon, the Investigating Officer, to, associate in the relevant exercise, any independent witnesses thereto, as, the relevant inter connectivities, inter-se, the seizure made from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused, through, an apt seizure memo comprised in Ex. PW-1/C, rather surviving upto the production of the case property in Court, and, the apt synonymity rather appertaining to the number(s), and, description(s), of, seal impressions embossed thereon, and, upon the afore exhibits. The recovery of the relevant item, of contraband, was made, from the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused, through memo, borne in Ext. PW-1/C, whereon, the uncontested signatures of the accused stand borne, and, hence the estopping statutory principles, engrafted in the provisions of Section 91 and 92 of the Indian Evidence Act, bar the accused to contest the voicing(s), borne therein, unless the hereinafter alluded apt interconnectivities, do not emerge, at the stage of production of the case property in Court (a) AND also in contemporaneity, vis-à-vis, the afore seizure, standing effectuated, by the Investigating Officer concerned, from, the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused, rather NCB form, borne in Ext. PW-9/A, stood also drawn, (b) wherein reflections are cast, vis-à-vis, 5 seal impressions each, on the bulk, and, the sample parcels, hence carrying English alphabet "T", standing embossed thereon, and, whereon, the uncontested signatures of the accused stand borne, and, hence the estopping statutory principles, engrafted in the provisions of Section 91 and 92 of the Indian Evidence Act, bar the accused to contest the voicing(s), borne therein, unless, the hereinafter alluded apt interconnectivities, do not emerge, at the stage of production of the case property in Court (c) the Station House Officer concerned, upon receiving the seized contraband, at the police station concerned, also embossed thereon 3 re-sealing(s) seal impressions rather carrying English alphabet "N". The afore seizure(s) was/were, deposited in the Mallkhana concerned. Subsequent thereto, under road certificate, borne in Ext.PW-8/D, the seized contraband, stood dispatched, to the FSL concerned, for the latter, hence making an apt opinion thereon. All the afore exhibits, carry narratives therein, vis-à-vis, the description(s), and, number(s), of the seal impressions, embossed, respectively upon the bulk, and, upon the sample parcels, and, all the afore visibly carry interse compatibility(ies), and, synonymity(ies). Furthermore, the FSL concerned, upon receiving, the case property, has, in its report, embodied, in Ext. PZ, made echoing(s) therein rather bearing compatibility, vis-à-vis, the afore facet(s), as narrated in the afore-referred exhibits, (d) and has also rendered, an opinion, qua the parcel sent to it, for analysis, carrying therein rather all the ingredients, of, Charas, (e) and thereafter, echoing(s) are also borne therein, qua the FSL concerned, after extracting, the ingredients/contents, as stood carried in the sample parcel, sent to it, for analysis, and, upon, thereafter its making an opinion thereon, rather, it subsequent thereto, re-inserting the ingredient(s) in the cloth parcel, and, it embossing thereon, the, seal impression(s), of, the FSL. The charge would be concluded, to be, efficaciously proven by the prosecution, (f) upon each of the prosecution witnesses concerned, wheretowhom, the case property(ies), stood shown in Court, hence in their respective testification(s), making clear/candid echoing(s), qua the relevant congruities, and, similarities, interse, the number(s), and, description(s) of the seal impressions, as stand echoed, in the afore exhibits, also existing, emphatically upon, the case property, upon, its production in Court. However, at the time of production, of the case property in Court, and, thereat its being shown, to the prosecution witnesses concerned, though, as aforestated, the relevant connectivities, stand echoed, by the prosecution witnesses concerned, (g) and, when thereat, the accused persons stood also represented, by the defence counsel,(h) hence when the learned defence counsel, rather thereat held the opportune moment, to, on sighting the case property, hence make therethrough(s) decipherment(s), and, discerning(s), vis-à-vis, the afore congruities, or compatibilities, being amiss therein (j) or not, rather, visibly even at the afore stage, the learned defence counsel, did not, either object to the production, or exhibition, of the case property in Court, (i) nor thereafter proceeded to make any strivings, to elicit, from the prosecution witnesses concerned, any echoing(s), qua the relevant connectivities, (k) not existing(s), nor the learned defence counsel endeavored, to, hence ensure qua the Court making any observation, during, the course of recording, of the testification(s), of the prosecution witnesses', concerned, qua the aforestated relevant compatibilities, and, interconnectivities, interse the bulk, and, seal parcels, and, appertaining to the number(s), and, description(s), of, 3 seal impressions, carrying English alphabet, "N", narrated in Ext.PW9/C , (l) rather not emerging, at the stage of production, of the case property, in Court. In sequel to the afore, an inference is sparked, qua the learned defence counsel, rather acquiescing qua the relevant apposite congruities, and, connectivities, emerging interse, the, number(s) and description(s), of the seal impressions, carrying thereon English alphabet "T", and, as stood embossed, on the samples, and, bulk parcels, and, qua wherewith, a synonymous narrative, is, carried in Ext. PW-9/A, hence at the imperative stage, of production of case property in Court.

11. A wholesome analysis of the evidence on record, portrays that the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned trial Court, not suffering from any perversity and absurdity, nor, it can be said that the learned trial Court, in recording findings of conviction, has committed any legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence, on record or its omitting, to appreciate, the, relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court does not deem it fit, and, appropriate that the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court, hence, merit any interference.

12. In view of the above discussion, we find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed, and, the judgment of the learned trial Court is maintained and affirmed. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SANDEEP SHARMA, J.

State of Himachal Pradesh .... Appellant
Versus
Kamal Kumar .....Respondent

Cr. Appeal No: 240 of 2009
Date of Decision No. 25.06.2019

Indian Penal Code, 1860– Sections 279 and 338– Rash and negligent driving– Proof– Appeal against acquittal of accused by State – Prosecution case being that accused by his rash driving dashed his car against cycle of victim and caused grievous injuries to him– On facts– Held – Offending car was on ascend– Injured was moving his cycle by standing on paddles– Cycle was being driven in zig-zag manner and all of sudden he turned it towards right– And hit against car coming from behind – Allegations of rash driving on part of accused not proved – Appeal dismissed – Acquittal upheld (Para 8)

For the Appellant : Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar & Mr. Sanjeev Sood, Additional Advocate Generals, with Mr. Kunal Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.
For the Respondent: Mr. Anup Rattan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge (oral):

Instant Criminal Appeal having been filed by the appellant-State, is directed against the judgment of acquittal dated 24.4.2009, passed by learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Dehra, District Kangra, Himachal Pradesh in Criminal case No. 391-I/2003/164-II/2004, whereby learned trial Court held respondent (hereinafter referred to as the 'accused') not guilty of having committed of offences punishable under Sections 279 and 338 of IPC and accordingly acquitted him.

2. In nutshell, the case of the prosecution as emerge from the record is that on 14.8.2003, at around 10:20 A.M, Nitin Sharma was riding on cycle and complainant namely, Shruti Vaid was going on foot and when they reached near 'Robin Cinema Chowk', at Nehran Rukhar, one Maruti car bearing registration No. HP-19-8298 being driven by the accused came from Dhaliara side in a high speed and hit cycle of Nitin Sharma from the back side, as a consequence of which, he fell down on the road and sustained serious injuries. The driver of the offending car stopped the vehicle at a distance of 50-60 feet and many people came on the spot. The accident in question allegedly occurred on account of the rash and negligent driving of the accused. The matter was reported to the police by the complainant, Shruti Vaid vide her statement made under Section 154 Cr.P.C., Ex.PW11/B, on the basis of which, formal FIR Ex.PW11/C came to be registered against the accused. After completion of the investigation, police presented the challan in the Court of learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Dehra, District Kangra, Himachal Pradesh, who being satisfied that a prima-facie case exists against the accused, put notice of accusation to him for the commission of offence punishable under Sections 279 and 337 IPC, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

3. Prosecution with a view to prove its case examined as many as thirteen witnesses, whereas accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. denied the case of the prosecution in toto. However, he did not lead any evidence in his defence.

4. Learned trial Court on the basis of the evidence collected on record by the prosecution, held accused not guilty and accordingly acquitted him vide judgment dated 24.4.2009. In the aforesaid background, appellant-State has approached this Court in the instant proceedings, seeking conviction of the accused after setting aside the impugned judgment of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court.

5. Having heard learned counsel representing the parties and perused the evidence adduced on record by the prosecution vis-a-vis reasoning assigned by the learned court below while passing the impugned judgment of acquittal, this court is not in agreement with Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, learned Additional Advocate General that learned trial Court while ascertaining the guilt, if any, of the accused failed to appreciate the evidence in its right perspective, as a consequence of which, erroneous findings have come to the fore, rather this Court having carefully perused the evidence led on record by the prosecution has no hesitation to conclude that prosecution has failed to prove beyond reasonable doubt that on the date of alleged accident, vehicle in question was being driven rashly and negligently by the accused, so as to endanger human life. Interestingly, in the case at hand, most of the independent witnesses have turned hostile and they have not supported the case of the prosecution.

6. Complainant, Shruti Vaid (PW-13) deposed that on 14.8.2003, at around 10:30 AM, she was coming to Bus stand Nehran Pukhar on foot and Nitin Sharma, who suffered injuries was coming on his cycle. She further deposed that Nitin Sharma was riding on the cycle on his left side and in the meanwhile, one car bearing registration No. HP-19-8298 being driven by the accused came there and hit the cycle, as a consequence of which, Nitin fell down on the road. She further stated that accident in question occurred due to the fault of the driver of the car, but interestingly she nowhere specifically stated that accident in question occurred on account of the rash and negligent driving of the accused. In her cross-examination, she admitted that the place where accident took place was on the ascend. Though, she denied that Nitin was riding on the cycle by negotiating it to left and right side, but she admitted that she did not disclose the name of the accused to the police. She admitted the suggestion put to her that if the car had hit the cycle from back side then she would have also received injuries.
