10. Consequently, in view of the detailed discussion made herein above as well as provisions of law extracted above, there is no merit in the present petition and the same is dismissed. Pending applications, if any, are disposed of. Interim directions, if any, are vacated. Record of the court below, if received, be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

Since, common questions of law and facts are involved in all these petitions, same were tagged together and are being disposed of by this common judgment.

2. By way of CWP No. 10142 of 2011, filed under Art. 226 of the Constitution of India, petitioner i.e. ACC Limited, approached this court mainly praying for the following reliefs:

> "a. Direct respondents 1 to 4 to ensure free egress and ingress and facilities in the petitioner unit in Barmana, Tehsil Bilaspur, District Bilaspur, H.P. and allow transportation of its raw-material, cement and clinker in trucks/multi-axle trucks hired by them from other unions or private parties or its own trucks to the extent respondent No. 5 union is not able to supply as presently there is shortage of 480 trucks;

b. Direct respondents No.1 to 3 that respondents 5 to 7, its members, workers and employees not cause any interference or obstruction for the transportation of the petitioner product, raw-material within and outside the State of Himachal Pradesh in hired trucks or its own trucks or trucks engaged from any other source other than respondent No.5 to the extent it is not able t supply the trucks;

c. Direct the respondents 1 to 4 to maintain law and order and take preventive action for breach of peace and untoward incidents due to the acts of omission and commission on the part of the respondents 5 to 7;

d. Director respondents 5 to 7, their employees, agents, servants and members not to interfere with the Constitutional and statutory right of the petitioner to transport its products and causing any obstruction to the petitioner companies goods and finished products within and outside the State of Himachal Pradesh in the trucks hired from any source or its own trucks;"

3. Writ petition having been filed by above named petitioner came to be tagged with CWP No. 9665 of 2011-G titled Lekh Ram Verma and another v. State of Himachal Pradesh and others,(decided on 1.5.2012) and Division Bench of this court passed following order on 24.11.2011:

"The issue raised in these two writ petitions pertains to the perennial problem cropping up periodically with regard to the transportation of goods to and from ACC factory at Barmana, Bilaspur. The promise of the Company was only to provide direct and indirect employment while setting up the cement factory. It appears the oustees and other affected persons had formed a cooperative society, but the membership was limited to the people who owned trucks. There was a restriction with regard to the maximum number of trucks by the members i.e. two trucks. Subsequently, it appears the society did not grant membership to all those applicants, who also came forward with the grievance that they are also affected parties. That issue is still pending with various authorities. In the meanwhile, the company faced the serious problem with regard to the transportation of goods. According to them, in view of the disputes and also in view of the inadequate number of trucks available with the members of the society, they are not in a position to handle their work and, therefore, it is the request of the company that they may be given a free hand to engage anybody for transportation of the goods to and from the Company.

Faced with the potential threat on the request made by the company, the members submitted that they may be granted some time to sort out the disputes and according to them the disputes of all the affected parties can be settled amongst themselves. That appears to be a genuine request. The affected parties, if so advised, has to find out the solution to settle the disputes amongst themselves lest they shall not and cannot stand in the way of the work in the factory being smoothly carried out. As suggested, one month's time is granted to the oustees and the affected parties to find out a solution amongst themselves. In case any assistance is required from the Registrar, Cooperative Society, they are free to have the intervention of that Authority as well. The disputes will include the issue on new membership, number of the trucks, type of the trucks etc.

Till a resolution of the disputes is found, as above, there has to be an appropriate interim arrangement. We are informed that around 100 multi axil trucks have been purchased prior to 30th September, 2011 by some of the members. The purchase, as above, was made on the understanding that the members are free to replace their old trucks by multi axil trucks. There will be a direction to the Company and others to permit those multi axil trucks purchased by the members and provided with temporary numbers on or before 30th September, 2011 to be engaged for the transportation of the goods to and from the Company. It is made clear that no multi axil truck shall be permitted to carry load in excess of the permitted load as entered in the RC book.

There will be a direction to the RTO, Bilaspur and all the Districts through which the goods are carried and also the Superintendents of Police and all other Police personnel working in the Districts to periodically check the load to ensure that the multi axil trucks and other trucks carry the load only to the extent as entered in the RC book. To compensate the work as lost by the ordinary truck owners, the ration of two ordinary trucks to one multi axil truck shall be maintained in the matter of distribution of work. In other words, in place of one multi axil truck, two ordinary trucks shall be permitted to ply for the transportation of goods. In the case of the ordinary trucks also, they shall be permitted to carry only the load as entered in the RC book. The load that is carried by those ordinary trucks shall also be verified periodically by the Motor Vehicle Authorities and the Police, as referred to above and appropriate action shall be taken to ensure that the ordinary and multi axil trucks carry only the load to the extent permitted and as entered in the RC book.

In case after the distribution of work as above, among the multi axil trucks and ordinary trucks from amongst the members of the Cooperative Society, the Company finds that there is still work left, it is open to the company to engage the tucks owned by the affected-non-members. In the distribution of work, as above, also the ratio of 1:2 between multi axil trucks and the ordinary trucks shall be maintained.

There will be a direction to the Company to ensure that only the permitted load is put on the trucks and if not they shall also be liable for prosecution and penal consequences. In case, there is any difficulty with regard to the implementation of the orders, as above, all the parties concerned shall seek appropriate clarification from this Court only. It is further made clear that in case there is any obstruction from any quarter with regard to working arrangement, as above, there will be a direction to the Superintendents of Police of all the Districts to see that adequate and effective protection is granted to the company and the trucks plying with the load as above.

All the previous orders passed with regard to the transportation of goods to and from the ACC Barmana will stand modified to this extent.

We make it clear that this order will not stand in the way of the general body of the Society deciding to induct new members. Needless to say that the previous Resolution of the general body shall not stand in the way of the general body of the Society taking fresh decisions.

Post the case for further orders on 29th December, 2011.

All the impleadment applications are allowed and disposed of in both the writ petitions.

Authenticated copy."

4. Subsequently, other petitioners, as captioned herein above, by way of CWP's No. 7862 of 2012, 7882 of 2012 and 7901 of 2012, approached this court with almost similar relief. Main reliefs as sought in CWP No. 7862 of 2012 titled Rania Ram and others v. State of Himachal Pradesh and others, are being extracted herein below:

"i) Issue a writ of certiorari to quash proceedings dated 18-08-2012 i.e. annexure P-6 and resolution dated 31-08-2012 i.e. annexure P-7 to the extent thy debar multi-axle trucks purchased prior to 30-09-2011 which had been functioning/operating in the society in question to be no longer used in the society in question.

ii) Issue a writ of mandamus directing the respondents not to give effect to proceedings dated 18-08-2012 i.e. annexure P-6 and resolution dated 31-08-2012 i.e. annexure P-7 to the extent they debar multi-axle trucks purchased prior to 30-09-2011 which had been functioning/operating in the society in question to be no longer used in the society in question.

iii) Issue a writ of mandamus directing the respondent No.4 to permit multi-axle trucks purchased prior to 30-09-2011 which had been functioning/operating in the society in question to be used if in case the society in question does not permit the same to function/operate."

5. On 19.9.2012, this court having taken note of averments contained in CWP's No. 7862, 7882 and 7901 of 2012, passed following order:

"The Bilaspur District Truck Operators Cooperative Transport Society Ltd. Barmana has taken a Resolution dated 31.8.2012 to the effect that there shall be no use of multi axil trucks for the transportation and that the multi axil trucks purchased prior to 30th September, 2011 shall also not be permitted to operate. The petitioners in these cases have filed the writ petition aggrieved by the said Resolution. The issue has a chequered history and to some extent, we have referred the history in detailed interim order passed by this Court on 24.11.2011. It is a common order in two cases, namely, CWP No. 9665/2011 and CWP No.10142/2011. Only CWP No. 9665 of 2011 was disposed of. CWP No. 10142 of 2011 is still pending. Therefore, interim order dated 24.11.2011 is still in force. In the said order, this Court issued a direction as follows:

"There will be a direction to the Company and others to permit those multi axil trucks purchased by the members and provided with temporary numbers on or before 30th September, 2011 to be engaged for the transportation of the goods to and from the Company. It is made clear that no multi axil truck shall be permitted to carry load in excess of the permitted load as entered in the RC book."

2. As far as distribution of work, it was made clear in the order that the ratio of 1:2 between multi axil trucks and the ordinary trucks shall be maintained. Still further, it was ordered that " in case, there is any difficulty with regard to the implementation of the orders, as above, all the parties concerned shall seek appropriate clarification from this Court only." That order is still in force. As far as CWP No. 10142 of 2011 is concerned, the Society is a party to the said writ petition. Only CWP No. 9665 of 2011 was disposed of by judgment dated 1st May, 2012 reserving liberty to the Society in its General Body to take appropriate decision in accordance with law.

3. So long as the interim order, referred to above, in CWP No. 10142 of 2012 is still in force, all the parties, including the Company and the Society and Operators are bound by the said order. In that view of the matter, there will be stay of operation of the implementation of the Resolution dated 31st August, 2012 taken by the Society with regard to dis-continuance of multi axil trucks.

4. Post these writ petitions along with CWP No. 10142 of 2011 on 28th September, 2012."

6. After passing of order dated 19.9.2012, all the petitions, captioned herein above, are being heard together. Subsequently, applicant/respondent No. 5 i.e. Bilaspur District Truck Operators Cooperative Transport Society Ltd., filed CMP No. 7198 of 2015 under Rule 4, Part C of the HP High Court Writ Rules, 1997 for modification of order dated 24.11.2011, which came up for consideration before this court on 11.12.2015, when this court passed following order:

"CMP No. 7198 of 2015 in CWP No. 10142 of 2011

Heard for sometime. In this application applicant-respondent No. 5, The Bilaspur District Truck Operators, Cooperative Transport Society Limited has sought the permission to replace its existing fleet of old trucks with new multi axle trucks, in modification of the interim order passed in the writ petition on 24.11.2011 whereby the petitioner-Company has been directed to allocate temporary numbers to multi axle trucks, around 100 in number purchased by the members of the applicant-Society prior to 30th September, 2011 and to engage the same for transportation of its goods to and fro, subject to the condition that these trucks should not carry load in excess of the permitted load as per entries in the RC book. Applicant-Society intends to replace its old fleet of trucks more than 2000 in number as per list attached to the supplementary affidavit filed by Sh. Ramesh Thakur, its President on 9.12.2015.

2. This writ petition has been filed by one of the Companies i.e. ACC Limited which has installed its cement plant under the name and style 'Gagal Cement Works' at Barmana in District Bilaspur. There are two more cement plants, namely; Ambuja Cement Plant installed at Darlaghat, and Jaypee Himachal Cement Plant at Bagga, in District, Solan, H.P. The trucks engaged by Ambuja Cement Plant for transportation of its goods to and fro from Darlaghat are being plied to its destination on Shimla-Bilaspur road and connects national highway No. 21 at Nauni, a place approximately 7-8 kilometers behind Bilaspur. The trucks carrying goods from Jaypee Himachal Cement Plant are also being plied from Bagga to Nauni via Jukhala and Brahmpukhar in District Bilaspur. As a matter of fact, the trucks carrying goods from the cement plants at Darlaghat and Bagha joins each other at Brahmpukhar junction and thereafter being driven to Nauni and take diversion there to Punjab and Haryana side and other destinations. Similarly, the trucks carrying goods of the petitioner herein are also being driven from Barmana towards Punjab, Haryana and other destinations via Bilaspur. The trucks carrying goods from the petitioner Company also joins the trucks carrying goods of the two cement plants as aforesaid at Nauni. As a matter of fact, the trucks carrying goods from all the three cement plants join at Nauni and then can be seen being driven in the form of a convoy. Mostly, the drivers of the trucks due to lack of sensitization, particularly qua traffic rules, not allow the other users of the road to overtake the trucks being driven by them and as a result thereof the people traveling in public transport vehicles/private transport vehicles are forced to bear with smoke and dust being emanated by plying of these trucks. The plight of other users of the road, therefore, is becoming bad to worse particularly when the roads in the State mostly pass through hilly terrain. Therefore, the anxiety and concern of the Court is to protect the safety and comfort of other users of the road.

3. One should, therefore, not lost sight of the fact that allowing to ply multi axle trucks in such a large number on hilly terrain would obviously result in human problems multifarious in nature. This Court feels that before hearing this application any further, not only the applicant-respondent Society but also the petitioner Company as well as the respondent-State to come forward with their suggestions on the following:

i) The ways and means which can be resorted to, to ensure safe, comfortable and pollution free journey by the citizens traveling in their own vehicles, public transport vehicles and private transport vehicles.

ii) The ways and means which can be resorted to, to ease out the congestion/traffic jam on the roads being used by the trucks carrying the goods of the petitioner-Company.

iii) Uniform procedure to be followed by the applicant-Society qua engagement of Drivers efficient, sensitive and having good knowledge of traffic rules to drive the trucks and the necessity of holding workshops/seminars to impart training to them periodically, particularly to sensitize them about the problems being faced by other users of the road i.e. the people traveling in public transport vehicles/private transport vehicles.

iv) The protection of environment from pollution emanates on account of driving of the trucks in such a large number.

v) How to ensure the maintenance of the roads being used for plying the trucks carrying goods to and fro from the cement plants.

vi) The possibility of fixation of time schedule day i.e. in 24 hours to ply the trucks on the road and no entry thereof after the time so fixed is over.

vii) The construction of separate bay for being used by the trucks carrying goods to and fro from the cement plants.

Besides, the above, respondent-State also to apprise this Court about the steps, if any, taken to regulate the movement of the trucks carrying goods to and fro from the cement plants to ensure the safety and comfort of the people traveling through public or private transport vehicles and other users of the road.

List on 18th December, 2015.

The Ambuja and Jaypee Industries having its cement plants at Darlaghat and Bagga though are not party in the present writ petition, however, Mr. K.D. Sood, learned Senior Advocate who generally represents these Companies in this Court is requested to supply a copy of this order to the said Companies also and ensure that their suggestions on the above points are also placed on record on the date already fixed.

An authenticated copy to learned Additional Advocate General, Mr. K.D. Sood, learned Senior Advocate and Mr. Ramakant Sharma, learned Senior Advocate for compliance."

7. This court, after having taken note of the averments contained in the aforesaid application, formulated certain points and directed the parties concerned to place on record suggestions qua the same.

8. Today, during the proceedings of the case, learned counsel representing the parties on instructions of their respective clients, stated before this court that it has been amicably resolved inter se parties that prayer made in CMP No. 7198 of 2015 having been filed by respondent No.5, may be accepted. Mr. Ramakant Sharma, learned Senior Advocate stated that as per settlement inter se parties, old trucks in the existing fleet of the society would be permitted to be replaced by new multi-axle trucks i.e. one multi-axle truck will replace two ordinary trucks, which shall not harm or prejudice any party to the lis rather the same would help ensure the very existence and continuation of M/s Bilaspur District Truck Operators Cooperative Transport Society Ltd.

9. Mr. K.D. Sood, learned Senior Advocate, representing the ACC, states that the Company has no objection to aforesaid arrangement but M/s Bilaspur District Truck Operators Cooperative Transport Society Ltd. may be directed to strictly comply with the aforesaid agreement, because, on account of non-adherence, company shall suffer irreparable loss and injury. He also stated that all the stake-holders may be directed to do the needful within stipulated time, failing which liberty be granted to the ACC Cement Company to make alternative arrangement for transportation of cement so that no undue hardship/financial loss is caused to the company.

10. Consequently, in view of the statement made by the learned counsel representing the parties, on the instructions of their respective clients, CMP No. 7198 of 2015 in CWP No. 10142 of 2011, having been filed by the respondent No. 5, praying therein for modification of order dated 24.11.2011, is allowed and order is modified to the extent that M/s Bilaspur District Truck Operators Cooperative Transport Society Ltd. is permitted to replace its existing fleet of old trucks by means of new multi-axle trucks in the following manner, as agreed:

(a) Two ordinary trucks engaged with the Society shall be replaced by one multi-axle truck.

(b) In the cases, where one ordinary truck has been replaced by one multi-axle truck, the work to be allotted shall be reduced to half.

(c) In the case as referred to above, where one multi-axle truck has replaced one ordinary truck, option may be given to the owner/members to remove another old /ordinary truck, to maintain equal distribution of work.

11. However, it is made clear that to avoid inconvenience and financial loss to the ACC Company Limited, needful shall be done by all the stake-holders, especially M/s Bilaspur District Truck Operators Cooperative Transport Society Ltd., expeditiously within a period of two months.

12. Accordingly, in view of the above, all the petitions having been rendered infructuous, are accordingly, disposed of alongwith all pending applications.

Decided on: November 26, 2018

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 482- Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Act,1994 (Act) – Section 32 –Transfer of case- After investigating FIR lodged by petitioner, Investigating officer holding commission of offences punishable under sections 323, 341 and 504 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 and sending record to Panchayat since offences exclusively triable by it under Act- Petitioner filing petition in High Court for direction for registration of case against respondents under sections 307, 326, 341, 504, 506 and 34 Indian Penal Code, 1860. Also praying for cancelling summons issued by Gram Panchayat. Facts revealing that investigating officer had obtained medical opinion about nature of injuries suffered by petitioner- Injuries found simple in nature and not dangerous to life- Petition dismissed. (Paras 4 to 6)

For the petitioner: Mr. Sushant Veer Singh Thakur and Mr. Parshotam Chaudhary, Advocates.

For the respondents: Mr. Dinesh Thakur and Mr. Sanjeev Sood, Additional Advocates General with Mr. Amit Kumar, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No.1 to 3.
Mr. Suresh Kumar, Advocate, for respondent No.4.
None for respondent No.5.
Ms. Leena Guleria, Advocate, for respondents No. 6 and 7.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, J. (Oral)

By way of instant petition filed under S.482 CrPC, petitioner has sought direction to respondent No. 2 i.e. Superintendent of Police, Hamirpur, for registering a case against respondents No. 6 and 7, under Ss. 307, 326, 341, 504, 506 and 34 IPC. Petitioner has also prayed that summons dated 1.8.2016 issued by respondent No.5-Gram Panchayat Putdiyal, Tehsil Nadaun be cancelled/stayed and consequential proceedings arising out of FIR No. 59 dated 25.6.2016 may also be stayed.

2. In nutshell, case of the petitioner, as emerges from the record is that on 25.6.2016, he was given merciless beatings by respondents No. 6 and 7, as a consequence of which, he suffered simple as well as grievous injuries. Petitioner has alleged that respondents No. 6 and 7, who allegedly gave him beatings, have been protected by the Police as well as Medical Officer, who medically examined him. Petitioner has alleged that he suffered grievous injuries on his head, as a consequence of which he received eight stitches on his forehead, but the Medical Officer, while issuing MLC only stated that the petitioner suffered simple injuries on account of alleged beatings given by accused. Petitioner further alleged that the report of Medical Officer, Government Hospital, Hamirpur has been issued under the influence of the accused as well as Station House Officer. At the time of lodging of FIR, case under Ss.341, 323, 504, 506 and 34 IPC was registered against respondents No. 6 and 7, but while presenting Challan under S.173 CrPC, in the competent Court of law, Investigating Officer purposely and knowing fully well, placed wrong facts before the court below and has wrongly stated that case under Ss. 341, 323 and 504 IPC is made out against respondents No. 6 and 7 and same falls within the cognizance of the Gram Panchayat. In the aforesaid background, petitioner has approached this court in the instant proceedings, seeking therein direction to stay the proceedings pending before the Gram Panchayat concerned.

3. Having heard the learned counsel representing the parties and perused the reply having been filed on behalf of respondents No.1 to 3, this court finds that the FIR was lodged on the basis of statement of petitioner Shankar Dass, under Ss. 341, 323, 504, 506 and 34 IPC, but for the purpose of inserting other Sections i.e. 325 and 307 IPC, Investigating Officer sought opinion of Medical Officer, who had medically examined the injured/petitioner. Investigating Officer moved an application dated 25.6.2016 (Annexure R-1) to the Medical Officer, requesting therein to give his opinion with regard to injuries allegedly suffered by petitioner on account of beatings given by respondents No. 6 and 7. Careful perusal of opinion of the Medical Officer (Annexure R-2) clearly suggests that injuries suffered by petitioner were simple in nature and as such, there was no occasion for the Investigating Officer to incorporate Ss. 325 and 307 IPC as argued by the learned counsel representing the petitioner. Medical Officer has specifically opined that, "Injury No. (1), (2) and (3) are simple and not dangerous for live. (Page-69 of the paper-book)"

4. Similarly, this court finds that as per Schedule III provided in Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Act, 1994, (Annexure R-3), offences under Ss. 341, 323 and 504 IPC, are triable by Gram Panchayat and as such, this court sees no illegality or infirmity in the action of Gram Panchayat in as much as issuance of summons to respondents No. 6 and 7 is concerned, rather, S.32 of the Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Act, 1994, makes it mandatory that the offences, which exclusively falls within the cognizance of the Gram Panchayat, should be tried by the Panchayat only. S.32 of the Act ibid is reproduced hereunder:

> "32. Offences cognizable by Gram Panchayat.-
> (1) Offences mentioned in Schedule-III or declared by the State Government to be cognizable by a Gram Panchayat, if committed within the jurisdiction of a Gram Panchayat, and abetment of and attempts to commit such offences shall be cognizable by such Gram Panchayat.
> (2) Application for maintenance under section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), shall be heard and decided by the Gram Panchayat. A Gram Panchayat may grant a maintenance allowance not exceeding five hundred rupees per month on such application without prejudice to any other law for the time being in force in this behalf"

5. Similarly, careful perusal of statements of Shankar Dass and Kuldeep Singh, Annexures R-5 and R-6, respectively, suggests that the accused, while leaving the spot had not threatened the petitioner with dire consequences to his life. Kuldeep Singh, who happened to be the eye witness, categorically stated before the Investigating Officer that the accused persons have not threatened the petitioner with dire consequences and the petitioner (Shankar Dass) himself, in his statement recorded on 26.6.2016, stated before the Investigating Officer that the accused persons did not threaten him with dire consequences and as such, there appears to be no illegality or infirmity in the action of Investigating Officer in not incorporating the offences punishable under Ss. 506 IPC, while presenting Challan under S.173 CrPC, in the competent Court of law. Though, there are vague allegations levelled in the petition with regard to collusion of Investigating Officer and Medical Officer, who had issued the MLC, but there is no convincing evidence/material placed on record to substantiate such allegations, as such, same can not be made basis to reject the report submitted under S.173 CrPC.

6. Consequently, in view of above, this court sees no reason to entertain the present petition, which is dismissed being devoid of merit, alongwith pending applications, if any. Interim directions, if any, are vacated. Record, if any received, be sent back forthwith. Gram Panchayat concerned is directed to proceed with the proceedings.

Chandrika vs. Bhaiyalal AIR 1973 SC 2391

The Rajasthan State Industrial Development and Investment Corporation Vs. Subhash Sindhi Cooperative Housing Society Jaipur & Ors., 2013 (2) Civil Court Cases 766

For the petitioner : Mr. Romesh Verma, Advocate.

For the respondents : Mr. Dinesh Thakur, Additional Advocate General with Mr. Amit Kumar, Deputy Advocate General, for respondents No.1 and 2.

None for respondent No.3.

Mr. Sunny Dhatwalia, Advocate, for respondent No.4.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge:(oral)

By way of present petition filed under Art. 227 of the Constitution of India, petitioner, while raising an important question with regard to competence of a Gram Panchayat to adjudicate a dispute inter se two individuals with regard to encroachment over private land, has laid challenge to order dated 18.10.2016 (Annexure P-5) passed by the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Tehsil Barsar, District Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh, in Case No. 5 of 2015 and order dated 7.7.2010 (Annexure P-1) passed by the Gram Panchayat, Sour, Tehsil Barsar, District Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh.

2. For having a bird's eye view, facts in brief, as emerge from the record are that respondent No.3, Gram Panchayat, Sour, taking cognizance of a complaint having been filed by respondent No.4, to the effect that the petitioner has encroached upon certain portion of his private land, initiated proceedings for encroachment against the petitioner, under the provisions of Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj Act, 1994. Careful perusal of order dated 7.7.2010, passed by Gram Panchayat, Sour, respondent No.3, suggests that the demarcation of the land in dispute was got conducted by the Panchayat itself in the presence of the parties, wherein, allegedly, petitioner agreed to vacate the land encroached upon by him. Since, despite assurance having been given by petitioner, he failed to vacate the encroachment, Gram Panchayat, Sour passed an order dated 7.7.2010, whereby it directed the petitioner to remove Palli from the land of respondent No.4, within a period of 30 days. Perusal of impugned order referred to herein above, further reveals that the Gram Panchayat imposed a penalty of Rs. 10/- under Ss. 180 and 228 of the Act ibid.

3. Aggrieved with the passing of order dated 7.7.2010, petitioner preferred an appeal in the court of learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class Barsar, District Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh under S.67 of the Act, however, the fact remains that the same was partly allowed, whereby order dated 7.7.2010 passed by Gram Panchayat, Sour, to the extent of imposition of fine to the tune of Rs. 10/- upon the petitioner, was set aside, whereas remaining order was upheld. It is also not in dispute that against aforesaid order passed by the Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Barsar, petitioner has not filed any appeal or any other proceedings in any court of law.

4. In the year 2015, respondent No.4 filed an application (Annexure P-3) under S.71 of the Act ibid in the court of learned Sub Division Collector-cum-Sub Divisional Magistrate, Barsar, District Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh, praying therein for execution/implementation of order dated 7.7.2010 passed by the Gram Panchayat Sour, Tehsil Barsar, District Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh. Learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Barsar, vide order dated 18.10.2016 (Annexure P-5) allowed the aforesaid application and directed the Gram Panchayat concerned to execute the order dated 7.7.2010. In the aforesaid background, petitioner has approached this court in the instant proceedings, praying therein for setting aside order dated 7.7.2010 passed by Gram Panchayat Sour (Annexures P-1), order dated 4.1.2012(Annexure P-2) passed by Judicial Magistrate 1st Class Barsar in Panchayat Appeal No. 04/2010 and order dated 18.10.2016(Annexure P-5) passed by Sub Divisional Magistrate, Barsar, District Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh in Case No. 05/2015, being illegal, without any jurisdiction and contrary to the provisions of law.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record carefully.

6. Having heard the learned counsel representing the parties and perused the various provisions contained under the Act ibid, this court is persuaded to agree with the contention of Mr. Romesh Verma, learned counsel representing the petitioner that order dated 7.7.2010 (Annexure P-1) passed by Gram Panchayat Sour on the complaint of respondent No.4, is without any jurisdiction or authority. There appears to be no provision under the Act ibid authorizing the Gram Panchayat to adjudicate a private dispute of land inter se parties. At this stage, following provisions of the Act ibid, can usefully be extracted hereunder:

"11. Functions of Gram Panchayat.-

[(1) The Gram Panchayat shall perform the functions specified in Schedule-I.]the functions specified in Schedule-I.]

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act the State Government may, by general or special order, entrust to the Gram Panchayat preparation of plans and implementation of schemes for economic development and social justice [including those matters specified in Schedule-II and the Gram Panchayat shall perform such functions.]

(3) The State Government may, by general or special order, add to any of the functions of the Gram Panchayat or withdraw the functions and duties entrusted to such a Gram Panchayat, when the State Government under takes the execution of any of the functions entrusted to the Gram Panchayat, the Gram Panchayat shall not be responsible for such functions so long as the State Government does not re-entrust such functions to the Gram panchayat.

(4) The Government may, by notification and subject to such conditions as may be specified therein ,-

(a) transfer to any Gram Panchayat the management and maintenance of a forest situated in the Gram Sabha area ;

Provided that when any transfer of the management and maintenance of a forest is made under clause (a) or the transfer of any irrigation work is made under clause (c), the Government shall direct that any amount required for such management and maintenance or an adequate portion of the income from such forest or irrigation work be placed at the disposal of the Gram Panchayat.

(5) A Gram Panchayat shall have powers to do all acts necessary for or incidental to the carrying out of the functions entrusted, assigned or delegated to it and, in particular, and without prejudice to the foregoing powers, to exercise all powers specified under this Act. 1

[(11-A). Registration of cattle and maintenance of record therefor.-

(1) Head of every family shall be responsible to give or cause to be given, either orally or in writing, the details of cattle owned by his family to the concerned Pradhan or the Panchayat Secretary of the Gram Panchayat, within a period of one month from the commencement of the Himachal Pradesh Panchayati Raj (Amendment) Act, 2006, and thereafter every time as and when any change in the number of cattle takes place by any reasons.

(2) On receipt of the details of cattle under sub-section (1), the Gram Panchayat shall register cattle and shall maintain records thereof in such form as may be notified by the State Government:

Provided that the Gram Panchayat may charge registration fee at such rate as may be fixed by the Gram Panchayat.

(3) It shall be the duty of the Gram Panchayat to assist the officials or persons engaged by the Animal Husbandry Department for applying appropriate identification mark on each cattle and to maintain the record of identification.

(4) It shall be the duty of every Gram Panchayat to assist the officials or representatives of the Animal Husbandry Department in identifying the stray cattle within its jurisdiction.

(5) If any cattle with identification mark is found stray, the owner of the cattle shall be identified by the Gram Panchayat from the record maintained by it and such owner shall be liable to a fine of 2 [five hundred] rupees for the first offence and 3 [seven hundred] rupees in the event of second or subsequent offence, which shall be imposed by the Gram Panchayat.

(6) If the Gram Panchayat fails in identifying such stray cattle due to tampering with identification mark or mutilation thereof, it shall report the matter to the In-charge of the nearest Animal Husbandry Dispensary who shall lodge the stray cattle to the nearest Gosadan or Goshala.]

12. Power of removal of encroachments and nuisance.-

(1) A Gram Panchayat, on receiving a report or other information and on taking such evidence, if any, as it thinks fit, may make a conditional order requiring, within a time to be fixed in the order-

(a) The owner or the occupier of any building or land-

(i) to remove any encroachment on a public street, place or drain;

(ii) to close, remove, alter, repair, cleanse, disinfect or put in good order any latrine, urinal, water closet, drain, cesspool or other receptacle for filth, sullage-water, rubbish or refuse or to remove or alter any door or trap or construct any drain for any such latrine, urinal or water closet which opens on to a street, drain or to shut off such latrine, urinal, water closet by a sufficient roof and wall or fence from the view of persons passing by or dwelling in the neighborhood;

(iii) to cleanse, repair, cover, fill up, drain off, deepen or to remove water from a private well, tank, reservoir, pool, pit, ditch, depression or excavation therein which may appear to the Gram Panchayat to be injurious to health or offensive to the neighborhood;

(iv) to remove any dirt, dung, night soil, manure or any noxious or offensive matter therefrom and to cleanse the land or building;

(b) the owner of any wall or building which is deemed by the Gram Panchayat to be in any way dangerous, to remove or repair such wall or building;

(c) the owner or occupier of any building or property to keep his building or property in a sanitary state;

(d) the owner of any dog or other animal suffering or reasonably suspected to be suffering from rabbis or which is dangerous, to destroy or confine or cause to be destroyed or confined such dog or animal;

(e) the owner or occupier of any agricultural land to destroy harmful weeds from such land;

(f) the owner or occupier concerned to reclaim an unhealthy place;

(g) the owner or occupier of any building or land to maintain in proper repair the level and surface of any road or street passing in front of the building or through his land; and

or, if he objects so to do, to appear before it, at a time and place to be fixed by the order and to move to have the order set aside or modified in the manner hereinafter provided. If he does not perform such act or appear and show cause, the order shall be made absolute. If he appears and shows cause against the order, the Gram Panchayat shall take evidence and if it is satisfied that order is not reasonable and proper, no further proceedings shall be taken in the case. If it is not so satisfied, the order shall be confirmed or modified as it deems fit.

(2) if such act is not performed within the time fixed, the Gram Panchayat may cause it to be performed and may recover the costs of performing it from such person in the prescribed manner.

(3) Any person aggrieved by an order under sub-section (1) may file an appeal within thirty days of the passing of such order before the Sub Divisional Officer who after holding such enquiry as he may deem fit, may set aside, modify or confirm the said order and his decision thereon shall be final.

13. Power to make general orders.- A Gram Panchayat may by general order to be published in the manner prescribed, -

(a) prohibit the use of water of a well, pond or other excavation suspected to be dangerous to the public health;

(b) regulate or prohibit the watering of cattle or bathing or washing at or near wells, ponds or other excavations reserved for drinking water;

(c) regulate or prohibit the steeping of hemp or any other plant in or near ponds or other excavations within two hundred and twenty metres of the residential area of a village;

(d) regulate or prohibit the dyeing or tanning of skins within four hundred and forty meters of the residential area of a village;

(e) regulate or prohibit the excavation of earth or stone or other materials, within two hundred and twenty meters of the residential area of a village:

Provided that nothing shall be done under this clause to prevent excavations meant to be filled by the foundation of buildings or other structures;

(f) regulate or prohibit the establishment of brick kilns and charcoal kilns within eight hundred and eighty meters and pottery kilns within two hundred and twenty metres of the residential area of a village;

(g) direct that the carcasses of all animals dying within the village, except animals slaughtered for consumption shall not be disposed of within a radius of four hundred and forty metres of the residential area of the village;
(h) regulate the construction of new buildings or the extension or alterations of any existing building or the abadi;

(i) regulate with the previous permission of the Government, the parking of public vehicles;

(j) regulate such matters as may be necessary for the general protection of standing trees and trees on common land and the planting of such trees;

(k) regulate the observance of sanitation and taking curative and preventive measures to remove and prevent the spread of epidemics;

(l) regulate the maintenance of water courses meant for irrigation purposes;
(m) regulate the killing of stray dogs;

(n) regulate the slaughter of animals;

(o) prohibit beggary; (p) direct the taking of measures for the prevention of water-logging;

(q) regulate the flaying and disposal of dead animals;

(r) prohibit the sale of harmful eatables within the Sabha area; and

(s) regulate offensive and dangerous trades or practices; 1

[(t) protect public property such as sign boards, mile-stones on public roads, paths, irrigation and water supply schemes, public taps, public wells, hand pumps, community centres, mahila mandal bhawans, school buildings, Health/Veterinary/Ayurvedic Institution buildings.]

41. Extent of jurisdiction.-

(1) The jurisdiction of a Gram Panchayat shall extend to any suit of the following description if its value does not exceed two thousand rupees:-

(a) a suit for money due on contract other than a contract in respect of immovable property;

(b) a suit for the recovery of movable property or for the value there of;

(c) a suit for compensation for wrongfully taking or damaging a moveable property;

(d) a suit for damages caused by cattle trespass; and

(e) a suit under clauses (f) and (i) of sub-section (3) of section 58 of the Himachal Pradesh Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972 (8 of 1974).

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), the State Government or the prescribed authority may, by notification in the Official Gazette, extend the pecuniary jurisdiction of Gram Panchayat to five thousand rupees in respect of any or all the suits of the description mentioned in subsection (1).

71. Execution of decrees.-

(1) A decree or order passed by a Gram Panchayat shall be executed in such manner as may be prescribed. If the property of the defendant [or respondent, as the case may be,] is situated outside the jurisdiction of the Gram Panchayat passing such order or decree, it may transfer the decree or order for execution in the prescribed manner to the Gram Panchayat within whose jurisdiction the property may be situated and if there be no such Gram Panchayat then to the court of the Sub-Judge [or the Judicial Magistrate] within whose jurisdiction it may be situated and the said Gram Panchayat or the Sub-Judge 3 [or the Judicial Magistrate], as the case may be, shall execute the decree or order as if it were a decree or order passed by it or him.

[(2) If a Gram Panchayat finds any difficulty in executing a decree or order, it may forward the same to the Sub-Judge or the Judicial Magistrate concerned and the Sub-Judge or the Judicial Magistrate, as the case may be, shall than execute the decree or order as if it were a decree or order passed by him.]

(3) An order under the Himachal Pradesh Land Revenue Act, 1953 (6 of 1954), shall, as far as possible, be executed as provided in sub-sections (1) and (2). Sub-section (2) shall be read and construed as if for the word "Sub Judge" the words "Collector concerned" were substituted.

7. Careful perusal of aforesaid provisions of law, especially Ss. 11 and 12, nowhere suggests that the Gram Panchayat is competent or empowered to take cognizance of a private dispute inter se parties qua the land or immovable property falling in the territorial jurisdiction of the Gram Panchayat concerned. Though S.12 empowers a Gram Panchayat to order for removal of encroachment after receiving report or other information, but it clearly speaks of encroachment over government land/Panchayat land. Similarly, S.13 empowers a Gram Panchayat to make general orders to regulate use of water bodies, regulate watering of cattle or bathing or washing, steeping of hemp, dying/tanning of skins, excavation of earth, establishment of brick kilns, disposal of carcasses, parking of public vehicles, protection of trees, sanitation, irrigation etc. S.14 authorises a Gram Panchayat to have a check on unauthorized construction in its area. As per S.14, construction, if any, can be raised within the limits of Gram Panchayat strictly as per plan approved by the Gram Panchayat. This court, was unable to lay its hand to any provision of law in the aforesaid Act, suggestive of the fact that Gram Panchayat has power to determine rights of private parties especially encroachment over private land.

8. At this stage it would be relevant to refer to S.41, which has been otherwise reproduced herein above. Save and except under S.44, there is no specific mention, if any, with regard to kind/nature of litigation Gram Panchayat can have/entertain, while exercising powers vested in it under various provisions of law contained under the Act. As per S.41, following suits can be tried by Gram Panchayat, that too, subject to the condition that its value should not exceed Rs. 2000/-:

> "(a) a suit for money due on contract other than a contract in respect of immovable property;
> (b) a suit for the recovery of movable property or for the value there of;
> (c) a suit for compensation for wrongfully taking or damaging a moveable property;
>
> (d) a suit for damages caused by cattle trespass; and
> (e) a suit under clauses (f) and (i) of sub-section (3) of section 58 of the Himachal Pradesh Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972 (8 of 1974)."

9. Careful perusal of aforesaid provision of law i.e. S.41, nowhere provides that a suit, if any, qua dispute with regard to immovable property can be tried/entertained by a Gram Panchayat. Under S.44 of the Act ibid, Gram Panchayat has been specifically barred to take cognizance of following suits:

> "a suit for a balance of partnership account;
> (b) a suit for a share or part of a share under intestacy or for a legacy or part of legacy under a will;
>
> (c) a suit by or against the State or a public servant for acts done in his official capacity; and
> (d) a suit by or against a minor, or a person of unsound mind"

10. Argument having been raised by the learned counsel representing the respondent No.4 that since suit with regard to immovable property triable by Gram Panchayat has not been specifically excluded under S.44, it can be safely inferred that the Gram Panchayat has/had jurisdiction to entertain suit with regard to immovable property, is not at all tenable because, under S.41, legislation, while determining the extent of jurisdiction, has nowhere specifically included the suit qua immovable property. Once, suit for immovable property has not been included in the jurisdiction of the Gram Panchayat as provided in S.41 of the Act, there was no occasion for the legislation to specifically provide/mention the same, in the exclusion clause in the Act i.e. under S.44.

11. Having carefully perused the various provisions contained under the Act and heard the learned counsel representing the parties, this court is not persuaded to agree with Mr. Dinesh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General appearing for respondents No.1 and 2 and Mr. Sunny Dhatwalia, learned counsel representing respondent No.4 that the Gram Panchayat was well within its right to determine private rights of the parties, while exercising powers vested in it under the Act.

12. At the cost of repetition, it may be observed that it has been nowhere provided under the functioning of the Gram Panchayat i.e. Ss. 11, 12, 13 and 14 that the Gram Panchayat shall have the jurisdiction to adjudicate the dispute, if any, inter se parties with regard to immovable property. Leaving everything aside, this court having carefully gone through order dated 7.7.2010 (Annexure P-1), is not able to decipher, under which provision of law/Act, Gram Panchayat Sour proceeded to initiate proceedings against the petitioner. Similarly, there is no mention that for the infraction of which provision of the Act, penalty came to be imposed upon the petitioner.

13. In view of the discussion made herein above as well as provisions of law as reproduced herein above, this court has no hesitation to conclude that the Gram Panchayat under the Act ibid, had no power to adjudicate upon the private dispute inter se parties with regard to immovable property.

14. Now, the question, which remains to be decided by this court is, whether the order dated 7.7.2010, which otherwise has attained finality as far as main order is concerned, can be set aside in the present proceedings, especially when petitioner failed to lay challenge to the same, for almost eight years? Similarly, yet another question, requiring adjudication in the present proceedings is that whether the petitioner, after having availed remedy of appeal can be allowed to raise question with respect to jurisdiction/authority of the Gram Panchayat to pass the order dated 7.7.2010.

15. As has been held herein above, the Gram Panchayat Sour, had no authority or jurisdiction to determine private dispute inter se parties, with regard to immovable property as such, one thing can be safely concluded that the order dated 7.7.2010 is without jurisdiction.

16. Question, whether the order passed without jurisdiction/ authority is required to be assailed or laid challenge, is no more res integra. Hon'ble Apex Court and this court have repeatedly held in a catena of judgments that an order passed without jurisdiction is not required to be laid challenge, being a nullity in the eye of law.

17. Reliance is placed upon decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Chandrika v. Bhaiyalal AIR 1973 SC 2391, wherein it has been held as under:

> "6. It is from this Order that the present appeal has been filed by special leave. It is to be noticed that the suit had been filed in a Civil Court for possession and the Limitation Act will be the Act which will 'govern such a suit. It is not the case that U.P. Act No. 1 of 1951 authorises the filing of the suit in a Civil Court and prescribes a period of limitation for granting the relief of possession superseding the one prescribed by the Limitation Act. It was, therefore, perfectly arguable that if the suit is one properly entertainable by the Civil Court the period of limitation must be governed by the provisions of the Limitation Act and no other. In that case there would have been no alternative but to pass a decree for possession in fayour of the Plaintiffs. But the unfortunate part of the whole case is that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction at all to entertain the suit. It is true that such a contention with regard to the jurisdiction had not been raised by the defendant in the Trial Court but where the court is inherently lacking in jurisdiction the plea may be raised at any stage, and, it is conceded by Mr. Yogheshwar Prasad, even in execution proceedings on the ground that the decree was a nullity. If one reads sections 209 and 331 of the U.P. Act No. 1 of 1951 together one finds that a suit like the one before us has to be filed before a Special Court created under the Act within a period of limitation specially prescribed under the rules made under the Act and the jurisdiction of the ordinary civil Courts is absolutely barred. Section 209 so far as we are concerned reads as follows
> > "209 Ejectment of persons occupying land without title
> >
> > (1) A person taking or retaining possession of land otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of the law for the time being in force, and-
> >
> > (a) where the land forms part of the holding of a bhumidhar, sirdar or asami, without the consent of such bhumidhar, sirdar or asami, and

shall be liable to ejectment on the suit in cases referred to in clause (a) above, of the bhumidhar, sirdar or asami concerned, and shall also be liable to pay damages.

(2) To every suit relating to a land referred to in clause (a) of sub-section (1) the State Government shall be impleaded as a necessary party."

In the present case it has been held that the defendant has been re that the land is bhumidhari land and the plaintiffs are bhumidhars. taining possession of the land contrary to law being a trespasser; Therefore, the suit was of a description falling under section 209. Section 331 so far as it is relevant is as follows :

"331. Cognizance of suits, etc., under this Act.

(1)...Except as provided by or under this Act no Court than a Court mentioned in Column 4 of Schedule II shall, notwithstanding anything contained in the Civil Procedure Code, 1908, take cognizance of any suit, application, or proceedings mentioned in column 3 thereof."

Schedule II at serial no. 24 shows that a suit for ejectment of persons occupying. land without title under section 209 should be filed in the court of the Assistant Collector, First Class, which is described as the Court of Original Jurisdiction. In view of Section 331 (1) quoted above it is evident that the suit made cognizable by a special court i.e. the Court of the Assistant Collector, First Class, could not be filed in a Civil Court and the Civil Court was, therefore,, inherently lacking in Jurisdiction to entertain such a suit. it is unfortunate that this position in law was not noticed in the several Courts through which this litigation has passed, not even by the High Court which had specifically come to the conclusion that the period of limitation was the one laid down by the rules under U.P. Act No. 1 of 1951. Since the Civil Court which entertained the suit suffered from an inherent lack of jurisdiction, the present appeal filed by the plaintiffs will have to be dismissed."

18. Reliance is also placed upon judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in The Rajasthan State Industrial Development and Investment Corporation Vs. Subhash Sindhi Cooperative Housing Society Jaipur & Ors., 2013 (2) Civil Court Cases 766, wherein it has been held as under:

"8. Thus, in the instant case, the respondent-society, and its members, have to satisfy the court as regards their locus standi with respect to maintenance of the writ petition on any ground whatsoever, as none of the original khatedars has joined the society in subsequent petition.

9. In Smt. Kalawati v. Bisheshwar, AIR 1968 SC 261, this Court held:

"Void means non-existent from its very inception."

10. In State of Kerala v. M.K. Kunhikannan Nambiar Manjeri Manikoth, Naduvil (dead) & Ors., AIR 1996 SC 906, this Court held:

"The word "void" has a relative rather than an absolute meaning. It only conveys the idea that the order is invalid or illegal. It can be > avoided. There are degrees of invalidity, depending upon the gravity or the infirmity, as to whether it is, fundamental or otherwise."

> 11. The word, "void" has been defined as: ineffectual; nugatory; having no legal force or legal effect; unable in law to support the purpose for which it was intended. (Vide: Black's Law Dictionary). It also means merely a nullity, invalid; null; worthless; sipher; useless and ineffectual and may be ignored even in collateral proceeding as if it never were. The word "void" is used in the sense of incapable of ratification. A thing which is found non-est and not required to be set aside though, it is sometimes convenient to do so.
> There would be no need for an order to quash it. It would be automatically null and void without more ado. The continuation orders would be nullities too, because no one can continue a nullity. (Vide: Behram Khurshid Pesikaka v. State of Bombay, AIR 1955 SC 123; Pankaj Mehra & Anr. v. State of Maharashtra & Ors., AIR 2000 SC 1953; Dhurandhar Prasad Singh v. Jai Prakash University & Ors., AIR 2001 SC 2552; and Government of Orissa v. Ashok Transport Agency & Ors., (2002) 9 SCC 28).

19. It is quite apparent from the aforesaid exposition of law that an order passed without any jurisdiction/authority need not be laid challenge to, being a nullity in the eye of law because it would become automatically null and void, without much ado.

20. True it is that in the instant case, petitioner after having suffered order dated 7.7.2010, which was a nullity in the eye of law, filed an appeal under S.67 of the Act ibid in the court of Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Barsar, but that cannot be a ground to outrightly reject the plea having been raised by the petitioner in the instant petition that the order dated 7.7.2010 passed by the Gram Panchayat, Sour, deserves to be quashed and set aside being void because, as has been categorically held in aforesaid judgments, there is no need to lay challenge to such an order, which is passed without any jurisdiction.

21. Thus, order dated 7.7.2010 (Annexures P-1) passed by Gram Panchayat Sour, can not be allowed to sustain, being without jurisdiction. Consequently, the order dated 4.1.2012(Annexure P-2) passed by Judicial Magistrate 1st Class Barsar in Panchayat Appeal No. 04/2010 and order dated 18.10.2016(Annexure P-5) passed by Sub Divisional Magistrate, Barsar, District Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh in Case No. 05/2015 have also become null and void.

22. Though this court has no second thought about the competence and jurisdiction of a Gram Panchayat to try/entertain the suit with regard to immovable property but there is yet another aspect of the matter i.e. in the instant case, respondent No.4, after three years of passing of the order dated 4.1.2012 by Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Barsar, in the appeal having been filed by petitioner, preferred an execution petition under S. 71 of the Panchayati Raj Act, 1994, in the court of Sub Division Collector-cum-Sub Divisional Magistrate Barsar for the execution and implementation of order dated 7.7.2010 passed by the Gram Panchayat, which, in my considered view, was not maintainable because careful perusal of S.71 suggests that a decree/order passed by a Gram Panchayat is to be executed /implemented by the Gram Panchayat, within whose jurisdiction property is situate. S.71 provides that if the property of the defendant is situate outside the jurisdiction of Gram Panchayat, which passed such an order, it can transfer the order/decree for execution to the Gram Panchayat within whose jurisdiction, it may be situate. In the case at hand, it is not the case of the respondent No.4 that the order dated 7.7.2010 passed by Gram Panchayat Sour could not be executed/implemented by Gram Panchayat, Sour itself. Similarly, it is not the case of respondent No.4 that the property in dispute is/was not situate within the jurisdiction of Gram Panchayat and as such, it is not understood, how execution petition came to be filed in the court of Sub Divisional Magistrate, Barsar, which had no authority to take cognizance of the execution petition, which was otherwise triable by Gram Panchayat, Sour, which had passed the order sought to be implemented/ executed.

It has also been brought to the notice of this court that a civil suit is also pending between the private parties qua the same land.

23. Consequently, in view of the discussion made herein above, this court sees substantive force in the present petition and deems it fit to accept the same. Accordingly, the petition is allowed and order dated 7.7.2010(Annexure P-1) passed by the Gram Panchayat, Sour, Tehsil Barsar, District Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh, is quashed and set aside. Consequently, the order dated 4.1.2012(Annexure P-2) passed by Judicial Magistrate 1st Class Barsar in Panchayat Appeal No. 04/2010 and order dated 18.10.2016(Annexure P-5) passed by Sub Divisional Magistrate, Barsar, District Hamirpur, Himachal Pradesh in Case No. 05/2015 are also quashed and set aside.

24. The petition stands disposed of accordingly. All pending applications stand disposed of. Interim directions, if any, are vacated. Record, if any received, be sent back forthwith.

For the petitioner : Mr. Naveen K. Bhardwaj, Advocate.
For the respondents : Mr. Balwant Singh Thakur, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge:(oral)

Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the judgment dated 31.10.2017, passed by learned District Judge, Kullu, Himachal Pradesh in Civil Misc. Appeal No. 01/2017 having been filed by the defendants, whereby order dated 10.11.2016 passed by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Kullu in CMA No. 239-vi/2014 came to be reversed, petitioner-plaintiff (hereinafter, 'plaintiff') has approached this court in the instant proceedings filed under Art. 227 of the Constitution of India, praying therein to restore the order passed by trial court, after setting aside the judgment dated 31.10.2017, as referred to herein above.

2. Facts, as emerge from the record are that the plaintiff filed a suit for permanent prohibitory injunction, restraining the respondents-defendants (hereinafter, 'defendants') from interfering in the suit land bearing Khasra Nos. 482 and 483 situate in Phati and Kothi Kais, Tehsil and District, Kullu, Himachal Pradesh. Plaintiff also filed an application under Order 39 Rule 1 and 2 CPC, praying therein for interim relief restraining the respondents from interfering in the peaceful possession of the plaintiff and from raising construction over the suit land, till the final disposal of the suit. Learned trial Court, vide order dated 10.11.2016, directed both the parties to maintain status quo qua nature, possession and construction over land in Khata Khatauni No. 222/264 Khasra No. 483 and from encroaching over existing path over Khata Khatauni No. 200/233 Khasra No. 482, situate in Phati and Kothi Kais, Tehsil and District, Kullu, Himachal Pradesh. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the order passed by learned trial Court, defendants preferred an appeal under Order 43 Rule 1 CPC, in the court of learned District Judge, which came to be allowed vide judgment dated 31.10.2017, whereby learned District Judge, while setting aside order dated 10.11.2016 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), vacated the status quo order passed by the learned trial Court. In the aforesaid background, plaintiff has approached this court in the instant proceedings, praying therein to restore order dated 10.11.2016 passed by learned Civil Judge, after setting aside impugned judgment dated 31.10.2017 passed by the learned District Judge, Kullu.

3. Having heard the learned counsel representing the parties and perused the material available on record, this court is not persuaded to agree with the contention of Mr. Naveen K. Bhardwaj, learned counsel representing the plaintiff that the learned District Judge, while upsetting status quo order dated 10.11.2016, passed by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Kullu, has failed to appreciate the evidence adduced on record by the respective parties in its right perspective, rather, this court finds that the plaintiff concealed material facts with regard to pendency of earlier suit, while filing suit at hand, which admittedly came to be dismissed during the pendency of the present suit.

4. Similarly, this court finds that the suit land is still joint between the parties and same has not been partitioned by metes and bounds. Record further reveals that during the pendency of the application filed under Order 39 Rules 1 and 2, CPC, plaintiff moved an application under S.151 CPC, seeking therein police help, whereafter, land was demarcated by local commissioner. Status report filed by the police discloses that there is one under construction building consisting of six pillars/columns and RCC slab abutting to Pakka road. Status report further reveals that the construction material was found stacked under the slab and persons namely Prem Parkash (respondent No.1) and Deep lal (respondent No.2) were found raising construction. However, as per report, construction was raised on Khasra No. 483. On the other hand, Assistant Collector, who was appointed as local commissioner, in his report, stated that there are two under construction buildings on Khasra Nos. 483, 482, 480 and 479, one belongs to the plaintiff and other to the defendants. It has been categorically stated by the Assistant Collector in the report that both the constructions are on Abadi Deh land, which is admittedly joint between the parties.

Interestingly, aforesaid fact never came to be incorporated by the plaintiff in his plaint or application filed under Order 39 Rules 1 and 2 CPC, whereby he prayed for interim injunction against the defendants, as such, learned District Judge, while vacating status quo order passed by learned Civil Judge, rightly observed that since plaintiff has not approached the court with clean hands, he is not entitled for equitable relief of injunction.

5. In the case at hand, plaintiff who is one of the cosharers over the suit land, raised construction, whereas he has filed suit for prohibitory injunction restraining the respondents from raising construction on the vacant portion of land. Once, plaintiff himself raised construction over one portion of the land, it is not understood, how he could raise objection, if any, qua the construction on the other portion of land, by the defendants, who are admittedly co-owners of suit land to the extent of half share. Needless to say, applicant, while seeking relief of injunction is required to show that he/she has a prima facie case in his/her favour and balance of convenience also lies in his/her favour, but, in the instant case, aforesaid basic ingredients/conditions are totally missing, rather, very conduct of the plaintiff suggests that he wants to take advantage of the situation.

6. Leaving everything aside, this court finds that the plaintiff has repeatedly filed suits against the defendants on one pretext or the other but he himself, in his plaint, has admitted that the suit property is joint inter se parties and as per family arrangement, Khasra No. 483 has been given to him whereas, Khasra No. 485 has been given to the respondents. Plaintiff has further averred in the application that Khasra No. 482, over which motorable path exists, is still joint inter se parties. Record reveals that the plaintiff was not able to prove such family arrangement in the previous suits having been filed by him. Otherwise also, revenue record placed on record by the parties clearly suggests that the suit land is joint between the parties. Since plaintiff, while filing suit, suppressed material facts from the court, learned District Judge, rightly vacated the status quo order passed by the learned Civil Judge.

7. Though, this court, finds no illegality or infirmity in the impugned judgment dated 31.10.2017 passed by the learned District Judge, and the same is upheld, but, having taken note of the reply filed by the respondents to the application under Order 39 Rules 1 and 2 CPC, (para-1) wherein it has been categorically admitted that land comprising of Khasra No. 483 Khata Khatauni No. 222/264 and Khasra No. 482 in Khata Khatauni No. 200/233 situate in Phati and Kothi Kais, Tehsil and District, Kullu, Himachal Pradesh, over which motorable path is constructed, is joint, this court is inclined to modify the judgment of the learned District Judge to the extent that no construction would be carried out by either of the parties on Khasra No. 482, on which motorable road exists. Respondents in the said para of reply to application, have categorically admitted that motorable path over Khasra No. 482 has been constructed by the parties jointly, meaning thereby that factum with regard to existence of motorable path over Khasra No. 482 is not disputed by the respondents, as such, this court, while disposing of the present petition deems it fit to modify the judgment passed by the learned District Judge to the extent that the parties to the lis, shall not raise any construction of any kind, over Khasra No. 482, over which motorable path exists. Judgment dated 31.10.2017, passed by learned District Judge, Kullu, Himachal Pradesh in Civil Misc. Appeal No. 01/2017 stands modified accordingly.

8. The petition stands disposed of accordingly. All pending applications stand disposed of. Interim directions, if any, are vacated. Record, if any received, be sent back forthwith.

For the Objectors : Mr. S.C. Sharma, Mr. Dinesh Thakur and Mr. Sanjeev Sood, Additional Advocates General.
For the Respondent : Mr. B.P. Sharma, Senior Advocate with Mr. Arun Kumar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge.

Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the Award dated 16.12.2013 passed by the learned Arbitrator in respect of dispute pertaining to non-payment of bills qua deviated items to the respondent-claimant (hereinafter, 'claimant'), whereby learned Arbitrator while allowing the claim of the claimant, awarded a sum of Rs. 36,24,639/- in his favour, objectors-applicants (hereinafter, 'objectors') have approached this Court by way of objections filed under Section 34 of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act.

2. Undisputed facts, as emerges from the record are that vide letter dated 29.4.1993, work i.e. "C/O I&PH Circle office building Kasumpti, Shimla-9, (SH: Building portion only)" was awarded by the objectors in favour of the claimant, for Rs. 14,06,204/-. The time for completion of the work was six months, to be counted from the 15th day of issuuance of award letter. As per above letter, work was to commence from 14.5.1993 and was to be completed on 13.11.1993. It is also borne out from the record that the work was in fact started in April, 1994 and was completed on 15.9.1998. Claimant was paid all the bills except for the deviated items, which were to be paid after due approval of the competent authority. Claimant raised a dispute and accordingly, Superintending Engineer, Arbitration Circle, Solan, was appointed as an Arbitrator by the Chief Engineer (South) on 23.6.2007. Learned Arbitrator entered into arbitration on 3.7.2007 and after holding 18 hearings, announced the Award on 16.12.2013. Learned Arbitrator awarded Rs. 13,27,672/- for deviation on enhanced rates, and Rs. 7,14,821/- on account of prolongation charges alongwith interest at the rate of 8% on the amount of Rs. 13,47,214/- amounting to Rs. 15,62,768/- thus totaling to Rs. 36,24,639/-. In this background, the objectors have approached this court by way of instant proceedings filed under S.34 of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act (hereafter, 'Act') praying therein to set aside the Award passed by the learned Arbitrator.

3. Mr. Dinesh Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General, vehemently argued that the impugned Award is against facts on record, as such, deserves to be quashed and set aside. While referring to the findings returned by the learned Arbitrator, learned Additional Advocate General made a serious attempt to persuade this Court to agree with his contention that the same are perverse and contrary to law and facts on record as the same have been recorded in a most mechanical manner, as a consequence of which, great prejudice has been caused to the objectors. Learned Additional Advocate General further contended that since the learned Arbitrator while passing the Award ignored the material evidence adduced on record and proceeded to pass the Award completely ignoring the terms and conditions contained in the contract inter se parties, impugned Award deserves to be set aside being against public policy of India. Learned Additional Advocate General further argued that the learned Arbitrator has colluded with the claimant. It is further argued on behalf of the objectors that sufficient opportunity to lead evidence has not been granted to the objectors despite an application having been made in this regard, on which no order has been passed by the learned Arbitrator. Mr. Thakur, learned Additional Advocate General contended that the learned Arbitrator has based the Award on tampered documents i.e. agreement, which bears cuttings and manipulations, which have not been approved/initialed. It is further argued by the learned Additional Advocate General on behalf of the objectors that the deviation limit has been shown in the agreement produced by claimant as 00% whereas in the standard format of agreement, same is 25% and even the claimant himself has offered 20% deviation limit, which was withdrawn by him during negotiations. It is further argued by the learned Additional Advocate General that the learned Arbitrator has ignored Clause 12(VI) of the agreement, where there is clear provision for deviation limit of upto 50% on individual items. It is also argued by the learned Additional Advocate General that the amount of Rs. 7,14,821/- on account of prolongation charges has wrongly been awarded by the learned Arbitrator in favour of the claimant, for which otherwise there is no provision in the agreement itself, as such, learned Arbitrator has travelled beyond the agreement. Mr. Thakur further averred that the claimant has been duly compensated for prolongation since volume of work increased from initial amount of Rs. 14,06,204/- to Rs. 52,62,328/-, for which prevailing market rates were paid to the claimant hence, impugned Award being in conflict with public policy of India is liable to be quashed and set aside.

4. On the other hand, the claimant, while filing reply to the petition filed by the objectors, argued that the word, "nil" was not attested, for which the objectors themselves are responsible. It is further argued on behalf of the claimant by Mr. B.P. Sharma, learned Senior Advocate that since 19 hearings were given by the learned Arbitrator, it can not be said that sufficient opportunity of hearing has not been given to the objectors. It is admitted by the claimant that the work though was awarded on 29.4.1993, but same was started in the month of April, 1994 only and was completed on 15.9.1998, due to non-availability of the site. It is further averred that though wild allegations have been levelled against the learned Arbitrator, but he has not been arrayed as respondent in the present petition. It is further averred on behalf of the claimant that the objectors, themselves are responsible for prolongation of the work and arbitration proceedings have also been prolonged due to which, the claimant is yet to receive his dues despite more than twenty years having passed since the date of completion of work. It is averred on behalf of the claimant that volume of work had increased manifold. While controverting the averment made on behalf of the objectors that the tampered document i.e. agreement has been made basis for passing the impugned Award by the learned Arbitrator, it is vehemently argued on behalf of the claimant that the objectors have themselves supplied copy of agreement to the claimant as well as to the learned Arbitrator, and they can not come out of the same by saying that the same is tampered or manipulated one and as such, objections as filed by the objectors are liable to be dismissed.

5. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties and also gone through the record of the case carefully.

6. Before ascertaining correctness of aforesaid submissions having been made by the learned counsel for the parties vis-à-vis impugned Award passed by the learned Arbitrator, it would be apt to take note of judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Oil & Natural Gas Corporation Limited versus Western Geco International Limited (2014) 9 Supreme Court Cases 263, wherein Hon'ble Apex Court taking note of the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Oil & Natural Gas Corporation Limited versus Saw Pipes Limited (2003) 5 Supreme Court Cases 705, has held as under:-

> "34. It is true that none of the grounds enumerated under Section 34(2)(a) were set up before the High Court to assail the arbitral award. What was all the same urged before the High Court and so also before us was that the award made by the arbitrators was in conflict with the "public policy of India" a ground recognized under Section 34(2)(b)(ii) (supra). The expression "Public Policy of India" fell for interpretation before this Court in ONGC Ltd. v. Saw Pipes Ltd. (2003) 5 SCC 705 and was, after a comprehensive review of the case law on the subject, explained in para 31 of the decision in the following words: (SCC pp.727-28)
> > "31. Therefore, in our view, the phrase "public policy of India" used in Section 34 in context is required to be given a wider meaning. It can be stated that the concept of public policy connotes some matter which concerns public good and the public interest. What is for public good or in public interest or what would be injurious or harmful to the public good or public interest has varied from time to time. However, the award which is, on the face of it, patently in violation of statutory provisions cannot be said to be in public interest. Such award/judgment/decision is likely to adversely affect the administration of justice. Hence, in our view in addition to narrower meaning given to the term "public policy" in Renusagar case 1994 Supp(1) SCC 644, it is required to be held that the award could be set aside if it is patently illegal. The result would be — award could be set aside if it is contrary to:
> > (a) fundamental policy of Indian law; or
> >
> > (b) the interest of India; or

(c) justice or morality, or

(d) in addition, if it is patently illegal.

Illegality must go to the root of the matter and if the illegality is of trivial nature it cannot be held that award is against the public policy. Award could also be set aside if it is so unfair and unreasonable that it shocks the conscience of the court. Such award is opposed to public policy and is required to be adjudged void."

35. What then would constitute the 'Fundamental policy of Indian Law' is the question. The decision in Saw Pipes Ltd. (supra) does not elaborate that aspect. Even so, the expression must, in our opinion, include all such fundamental principles as providing a basis for administration of justice and enforcement of law in this country. Without meaning to exhaustively enumerate the purport of the expression "Fundamental Policy of Indian Law", we may refer to three distinct and fundamental juristic principles that must necessarily be understood as a part and parcel of the Fundamental Policy of Indian law. The first and foremost is the principle that in every determination whether by a Court or other authority that affects the rights of a citizen or leads to any civil consequences, the Court or authority concerned is bound to adopt what is in legal parlance called a 'judicial approach' in the matter. The duty to adopt a judicial approach arises from the very nature of the power exercised by the Court or the authority does not have to be separately or additionally enjoined upon the fora concerned. What must be remembered is that the importance of Judicial approach in judicial and quasi judicial determination lies in the fact that so long as the Court, Tribunal or the authority exercising powers that affect the rights or obligations of the parties before them shows fidelity to judicial approach, they cannot act in an arbitrary, capricious or whimsical manner. Judicial approach ensures that the authority acts bonafide and deals with the subject in a fair, reasonable and objective manner and that its decision is not actuated by any extraneous consideration. Judicial approach in that sense acts as a check against flaws and faults that can render the decision of a Court, Tribunal or Authority vulnerable to challenge."

7. It clearly emerge from the aforesaid judgment that the concept of "public policy" connotes some matter which concerns public good and the public interest. Similarly, award/judgment/decision likely to adversely affect the administration of justice has been also termed to be against "public policy"

8. Reliance is also placed upon a judgment passed by Hon'ble Apex Court in Hindustan Tea Company v. M/s K. Sashikant & Company and another, AIR 1987 Supreme Court 81; wherein it has been held as under:-

"Under the law, the arbitrator is made the final arbiter of the dispute between the parties. The award is not open to challenge on the ground that the Arbitrator has reached a wrong conclusion or has failed to appreciate facts.

Where the award which was a reasoned one was challenged on the ground that the arbitrator acted contrary to the provisions of Section 70 of the Contract Act, it was held that the same could not be set aside."

9. Similarly, Hon'ble Apex Court in M/s Sudarsan Trading Company v. The Government of Kerala and another, AIR 1989 Supreme Court 890, has held as under:-

> "It is not open to the court to probe the mental process of the arbitrator and speculate, where no reasons are given by the arbitrator as to what impelled him to arrive at his conclusion. In the instant case the arbitrator has merely set out the claims and given the history of the claims and then awarded certain amount. He has not spoken his mind indicating why he has done what he has done; he has narrated only how he came to make the award. In the absence of any reasons for making the award, it is not open to the Court to interfere with the award. Furthermore, in any event, reasonableness of the reasons given by the arbitrator, cannot be challenged. Appraisement of evidence by the arbitrator is never a matter which the Court questions and considers. If the parties have selected their own forum, the deciding forum must be conceded the power of appraisement of the evidence. The arbitrator is the sole judge of the quality as well as the quantity of evidence and it will not be for the Court to take upon itself the task of being a judge on the evidence before the arbitrator."

10. Reference is also made to the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in McDermott International Inc. v. Burn Standard Company Limited and others (2006) 11 Supreme Court Cases 181. The relevant paras of the judgment are reproduced as under:-

> "In terms of the 1996 Act, a departure was made so far as the jurisdiction of the court to set aside an arbitral award is concerned vis-a-vis the earlier Act. Whereas under Sections 30 and 33 of the 1940 Act, the power of the court was wide, Section 34 of the 1996 Act brings about certain changes envisaged thereunder. Section 30 of the Arbitration Act, 1940 did not contain the expression " error of law…". The same was added by judicial interpretation.
> While interpreting Section 30 of the 1940 Act, a question has been raised before the courts as to whether the principle of law applied by the arbitrator was (a) erroneous or otherwise or (b) wrong principle was applied. If, however, no dispute existed as on the date of invocation, the question could not have been gone into by the Arbitrator.
>
> The 1996 Act makes provision for the supervisory role of courts, for the review of the arbitral award only to ensure fairness. Intervention of the court is envisaged in few circumstances only, like, in case of fraud or bias by the arbitrators, violation of natural justice, etc. The court cannot correct errors of the arbitrators. It can only quash the award leaving the parties free to begin the arbitration again if it is desired. So, scheme of the provision aims at keeping the supervisory role of the court at minimum level and this can be justified as parties to the agreement make a conscious decision to exclude the court's jurisdiction by opting for arbitration as they prefer the expediency and finality offered by it.
> The arbitral award can be set aside if it is contrary to (a) fundamental policy of Indian law;(b) the interests of India; (c) justice or morality; or (d) if it is patently illegal or arbitrary. Such patent illegality, however, must go to the root of the matter. The public policy violation, indisputably, should be so unfair and unreasonable as to shock the conscience of the court. Lastly where the Arbitrator, however, has gone contrary to or beyond the expressed law of the contract or granted relief in the matter not in dispute, would come within the purview of Section 34 of the Act.
> What would constitute public policy is a matter dependant upon the nature of transaction and nature of statute. For the said purpose, the pleadings of > the parties and the materials brought on record would be relevant to enable the court to judge what is in public good or public interest, and what would otherwise be injurious to the public good at the relevant point, as contradistinguished from the policy of a particular government.

11. It is quite apparent from the aforesaid exposition of law that scope of interference by Court is very limited while considering objections having been filed by the aggrieved party under S.34 of the Act. Award passed by the learned Arbitrator can be interfered with in case of a fraud or bias or violation of principles of natural justice. Interference, if any, on the ground of 'patent illegality' is only permissible, if the same goes to the root of the case. Violation should be so unfair and unreasonable as to shock the conscience of the Court. In the judgment referred herein above, it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that what is to be constituted as 'public policy' is a matter dependent upon the transaction and nature of the statute, but the same should be so unfair and unreasonable as to shock the conscience of the Court, as has been observed herein above.

12. Similarly, there can not be any dispute, as has been repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Apex Court as well as this Court that Courts while deciding objections, if any, filed by the aggrieved party under S.34 of the Act, against the Award passed by an Arbitrator, does not sit in appeal over the findings returned by the learned Arbitrator and there can not be any reappraisal of evidence on the basis of which learned Arbitrator has passed the Award. Otherwise also, in terms of S. 34 of the Act, objections, if any, filed by the aggrieved party can be considered by the Court, if the Award is in any manner against the public policy, which certainly has to be liberally interpreted in view of the facts of the case.

13. Now, this court shall proceed to consider the facts of the instant case in light of the law discussed herein above and determine whether the impugned award is against the public policy of India as claimed on behalf of the objectors.

14. In nutshell, case of the objectors as projected and pleaded by the learned Additional Advocate General is that the learned arbitrator colluded with the claimant, as he failed to provide sufficient opportunity to the objectors to lead evidence and in this way, he mis-conducted himself, as such, award passed by the learned arbitrator, being against the public policy of India, can not be allowed to sustain. Objectors have further averred that the Award is based upon a tampered document i.e. agreement which bears cuttings and manipulations. Aforesaid assertion having been made on behalf of the objectors is not tenable in view of the record made available to this court. Careful perusal of the agreement placed on record by the claimant suggests that it was duly attested by Assistant Engineer Irrigation and Public Health, Sub Division No. 1, Shimla-9 and on each and every page, Executive Engineer has appended his signatures.

15. True it is that there are no initials on the alleged cuttings but record of the learned Arbitrator reveals that the objectors, despite sufficient opportunities, failed to place on record the original DNIT. Learned Arbitrator, while adjudicating claim Nos. 1, 2 and 4, has specifically recorded as under:

> "(A). Before adjudicating , the deviation limit of the agreement requires to be studied. As per the copy of the agreement supplied to this tribunal as well as the claimant/contractor by the respondent/EE, the deviation limit stipulated in form No.PW-8 at para (ii) at page 3 in the agreement form is nil whereas in the agreement with respondent/ EE it is 25%. The respondent/EE failed to produce the approved DNIT to this tribunal"

Learned Arbitrator has further returned the following finds under aforesaid claims:

"ADJUDICATION OF CLAIM No. 1, 2&4:

15. Both the claims 2 & 4 are identical in nature and hence have been clubbed together alongwith claim 1.

"(A). Before adjudicating , the deviation limit of the agreement requires to be studied. As per the copy of the agreement supplied to this tribunal as well as the claimant/contractor by the respondent/EE, the deviation limit stipulated in form No.PW-8 at para (ii) at page 3 in the agreement form is nil whereas in the agreement with respondent/ EE it is 25%. The respondent/EE failed to produce the approved DNIT to this tribunal

(B). The dispute regarding deviation limit has also been recorded in the Technical note (attached with the deviation statement of the case) enclosed with the Chief Engineer letter No.2934-37 dated 5-6-2008. The point 1 of the said technical note reads as under:-

"The work was awarded to Sh. Harvinder Singh Govt. Contractor for Rs.14.06.204/-. The total work executed , as per final measurements is Rs.45,68,003/- which is 224.85 % above the awarded amount against nil deviation limit as per agreement. Whereas the revised A/A & E/S accorded for Rs.68,86,275/- only during March,2008. Moreover the quantity and rates have been derived as per 25% of the deviation limit. Cutting in the deviation limit has been made in the agreement. No initial in the cutting has been made by Executive Engineer, which may clearly be mentioned alongwith actual deviation limit in the agreement".

From the above it is clear that the Chief Engineer noticed and pointed out this insertion in deviation limit's column of the contract agreement in 2008.

(C). In the course of execution of this work, drawings and design were changed as a result of which there was abnormal increase of the quantity of work to such an extent that the applicability of the rates fixed under the contract seize to have any binding effect. (Reliance is placed on the judgment dated 10-11-1995 of Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the state of U.P. Vs. Ram Nath International Construction Pvt. Ltd.) In the present case quantity has deviated to such an extent that work awarded for Rs.14.06,206/- was final as per 24th running bill for 52.88 lacs. The deviation limit in the contract has loss its relevance.

From the considerations, A, B & C mentioned above, I hold that deviation limit be considered as nil. When the deviation limit is considered Nil , the deviated, extra and substituted items become payable at market rates."

16. It is quite apparent from the bare reading of the aforesaid finding returned by the learned Arbitrator that the objectors were provided sufficient opportunity to produce and prove DNIT, so that factum with regard to tampering in Form PW-8, at para (ii), page-3 in the agreement, could be verified. Learned Arbitrator, after having perused the letter No. 2934-37 dated 5.6.2008 of the Chief Engineer, specifically concluded as under:

"The work was awarded to Sh. Harvinder Singh Govt. Contractor for Rs.14.06.204/-. The total work executed , as per final measurements is Rs.45,68,003/- which is 224.85 % above the awarded amount against nil deviation limit as per agreement. Whereas the revised A/A & E/S accorded for Rs.68,86,275/- only during March,2008. Moreover the quantity and rates have been derived as per 25% of the deviation limit. Cutting in the deviation limit has been made in the agreement. No initial in the cutting has been made by Executive Engineer, which may clearly be mentioned alongwith actual deviation limit in the agreement".

From the above it is clear that the Chief Engineer noticed and pointed out this insertion in deviation limit's column of the contract agreement in 2008."

17. After having carefully perused the reasoning recorded by the learned Arbitrator qua the aspect of tampering, if any, made by the claimant, this court finds no force in the arguments raised by the learned Additional Advocate General and same are accordingly rejected.

18. Similarly, record of the learned Arbitrator reveals that in the 16th hearing held on 30.9.2013, learned Arbitrator granted more time to the objectors to scrutinize record for dates/rates of partly paid items, while adjudicating claims No. 1, 2 and 4. Careful perusal of proceedings of 17th hearing held no 14.10.2013 in the office of learned Arbitrator, suggests that the Executive Engineer of the objector-Department failed to submit desired information in terms of proceedings of 16th hearing held on 30.9.2013, however, learned Arbitrator granted last opportunity of four weeks to do the needful.

19. Vide communication dated 11.10.2013, Executive Engineer, representing the objector-Department, in compliance of 16th hearing held on 30.9.2013, made following submissions:

"Arb. Case No. 43/2007

Subject:- In the matter of Arbitration between Shri Harbinder Singh Vot. Contractor and Executive Engineer, I&PH Division No.1, Kasumpti Shimla-9, for the work C/o IPH circle office Building at Kasumpti, Shimla-9, Agr. No.1 for 1993-94.

Sir,

In compliance to 16th hearing held on 30.09.2013 in the office of Superintending Engineer, Arbitration Circle, HPPWD Solan, the submission is made as under:

Claim No. 1, 2 & 4: - Rates claimed by the contractor are not traceable in office record hence more time is required to trace the same. However and date/rates approved of item No. 1, 2 5(b), 5(c), 5(e) 6(b)1, 6(c) 8(b), 8(c), 9, 10,11 12, 15, 21(a), 21(b), 24, 25, 32, 33(a), 37(b)(i), 37(b)(ii),38, 39 & 49 are placed at Annexure A-1. More time is required to scrutinize the record for date /rates of partly paid items.

Claim No. 7:- The claim has already been closed during 10th hearing held on 21.9.2011 and the deduction is already on record.

Claim No. 9:- The record pertaining to time extension is not traceable in the office record as the claimant/contractor never applied for extension of time.

The CD containing the defence statement is enclosed please.

Further it is requested that permission be granted to produce the following officers as witness in the case as per Chapter V-27 of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996.

20. By way of aforesaid communication, objector sought permission of the learned Arbitrator to produce officers as named in the communication dated 11.10.2013 (supra), as witnesses under Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996. However, careful perusal of proceedings of 18th hearing held on 19.10.2013, in the office of learned Arbitrator suggests that the Executive Engineer of the Objector-Department, while submitting response to the claims No. 1, 2 and 4, placed certain documents containing therein financial implications, if deviation limit is considered as zero and rates quoted by the contractor at the relevant time. Proceedings held on that day, suggest that the Executive Engineer as well as other party categorically stated on that day before the learned Arbitrator that they have nothing more to say on these claims and claims be closed for further discussion. In the aforesaid proceedings, it has been specifically recorded by the learned Arbitrator that both the parties stated that they have been given full opportunity to present their case and they have nothing more to say or add in this regard. Learned arbitrator has also recorded that the parties requested that the case be closed for further discussion and also requested that award be passed in due course of time. Proceedings held on 19.10.2013, nowhere suggest that the objectors-Department insisted during 18th hearing for accepting their prayer for examination of witnesses as named in the communication dated 11.10.2013, rather, proceedings held on 19.10.2013, clearly suggest that both the parties categorically stated before the learned Arbitrator that they have been given full opportunity to present their cases and they themselves requested to close the case for further discussion, as such, this court is not in agreement with the learned Additional Advocate General that the learned Arbitrator colluded with the claimant and purposely not decided the application having been made by the objectors for producing witnesses. This court, after having perused proceedings of 19th hearing, is convinced and satisfied that both the parties on that day were satisfied with the proceedings conducted by learned Arbitrator and they felt no necessity to lead evidence as such, representative of the objector-Department did not press his prayer for examination of witnesses, rather, he himself requested the learned Arbitrator to pass final award.

21. Having considered the facts of the case in light of the aforesaid exposition of law, this Court has no hesitation to conclude that the impugned Award, as has been assailed before this Court by way of objections under S.34 of the Act, is neither against public policy nor has been passed in violation of principles of natural justice. Perusal of the objections filed by the objectors suggests that neither there are any specific allegations that Award is against the public policy nor it has been clarified as to which finding or findings made by the learned Arbitrator is/are against the public policy, save and except general allegations that Award is against express terms of the contract, unjust, unfair and unsustainable and patently illegal.

22. In view of the detailed discussion made herein above, this Court sees no reason to interfere in the impugned Award, which otherwise appears to be based upon proper appreciation of evidence. Needless to say that jurisdiction of the Courts is limited and Award can be set aside only if it is against public policy of India, but, in the case at hand, neither any material has been placed on record, nor any arguments have been raised on behalf of the objectors to substantiate the fact that impugned Award is against public policy of India. Question of interpretation of agreement and its terms and sufficient evidence is /was well within domain of the learned Arbitrator as such, no grievance, if any, could be raised qua the same by either of the parties, as such, objections having been filed by the objectors deserve to be dismissed being unsustainable in the eye of law.

23. Consequently, in view of above, this Court sees no valid reason to interfere with well reasoned award passed by the learned Arbitrator, as such, present case is dismissed. Award passed by the learned arbitrator is upheld.

Decided on: November 30, 2018

Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 227- Civil Procedure Code, 1908, Section 151 – Police assistance- Availability – Defendants seeking police assistance in enforcing award passed by Lok Adalat which directed parties to maintain status quo qua suit property- Defendants praying such assistance for removal of lock put by plaintiff on a room- Trial Court dismissing application by holding that defendants not producing material qua their possession on date of award- Petition against- High Court remanded matter to Trial Court to decide application under S.151 of Code afresh after ascertaining factum of possession of parties. (Paras 3 to 5).

For the petitioner : Mr. Sanjeev Kuthiala, Advocate.

For the respondents : Mr. Neel Kamal Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge:(oral)

Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the order dated 16.10.2017, passed by the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No.2, Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, Himachal Pradesh, whereby an application under S.151 CPC, having been filed by the petitioner-defendant No.1 (hereinafter, 'defendant'), seeking therein police assistance to restrain the plaintiffs-respondents (hereinafter, 'plaintiffs') from causing any interference in his peaceful possession and for issuance of a direction to remove the lock allegedly put by the plaintiffs on the room possessed by the defendant, came to be dismissed, defendant has approached this court in the instant proceedings filed under Art. 227 of the Constitution of India.

2. Facts, as emerge from the record are that in a suit for declaration having been filed by the plaintiffs, Lok Adalat held on 23.11.2013, ordered the parties to maintain status quo qua nature and possession of the suit property, however, despite status quo order, plaintiffs forcibly put lock on the room in question. Since, despite repeated requests, plaintiffs failed to open the lock of the room, defendant was compelled to move the application referred to herein above, seeking therein police protection and direction to remove lock allegedly put by the plaintiffs, however, the fact remains that the application was dismissed by the learned Court below vide order dated 16.10.2017. Learned Court below, while passing order dated 16.10.2017, returned the finding that the defendant was unable to show that at the time of passing of order dated 23.11.2013, i.e. when status quo was ordered, he was in possession of the room in question.

3. Careful perusal of communication dated 31.8.2017, which has been otherwise taken note of by the learned Court below in the impugned order, suggests that till 31.7.2017, room in question was in possession of the Anganwari Centre and on 31.7.2017, same was vacated and till then rent was being paid to the defendant, as has been stated by Ms. Reena, in the aforesaid communication. Since in the aforesaid communication, Ms. Reena, has categorically stated that she did not know that who was owner of the room in question when she vacated the premises, court below ought to have afforded an opportunity to the parties to lead evidence to prove their possession. But, in the case at hand, learned Court below, without assigning any cogent and convincing reason, proceeded to arrive at a conclusion that no document has been placed on record by the defendant to prove that at the time of passing of the status quo order on 23.11.2013, he was in possession of the room in question, whereas, communication dated 31.8.2017, which has been discussed herein above suggests otherwise.

4. Consequently, in view of above, this court, without going into the merits of the order passed by learned Court below, deems it fit to remand the case back to the learned Court below to decide the application afresh. Learned Court below, while deciding the matter afresh, would frame issue with regard to possession and thereafter shall afford an opportunity to the parties to lead evidence. However, it is made clear that the entire exercise would be completed within a period of one month from the date of receipt of a copy of this judgment so that no unnecessary delay is caused in final conclusion of trial, which is hanging fire since 2014.

5. Accordingly, in view of above, order dated 16.10.2017 passed by the Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No. 2 Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, Himachal Pradesh in CMA No. 433-6 of 2017 is quashed and set aside. The petition stands disposed of accordingly. All pending applications stand disposed of. Interim directions, if any, are vacated. Record, if any received, be sent back forthwith.

6. Learned counsel for the parties undertake to cause presence of their clients on 10.12.2018, before learned Court below, on which date, learned Court below shall frame issues and afford an opportunity to the learned counsel representing the parties to lead evidence and thereafter matter would be decided by it, within the time frame set herein above.

7. Registry to send a copy of this judgment to the learned trial Court forthwith enabling it to comply with the same.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal stands directed by the aggrieved insurer/appellant herein, against the award pronounced by the Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal-I, Solan, H.P, upon, Claim Petition No. 17-S/2 of 2011, (i) whereunder, vis-a-vis, the compensation amount, as stood determined qua the claimant/respondent No.1 herein, the, apt indemnificatory liability thereof, hence stood fastened, upon, it.

2. The liability, for, liquidating the compensation amount, as, assessed under the impugned award, stands fastened, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer/appellant herein has contended with much vigour, before, this Court, that, (i) the affirmative findings recorded by the learned Tribunal, upon, the issue appertaining to the relevant mishap, being a sequel of rash and negligent manner of driving of the offending truck, by respondent No.3, rather suffering from, a, gross infirmity, (ii) given the learned tribunal concerned, mis-appraising hence the apposite evidence, as, adduced, in respect thereof. However, the afore submission, cannot be accepted, as in consonance with the pleadings appertaining to the afore issue, and, in pleading whereof, a graphic and pointed averment is reared, vis-a-vis, (a) the injured along with his mother going to a shop located at Chambaghat, for taking medicine, (b) given, the prescription slip being left at home, hence, hers making, a, telephonic call to her sister, one Sheetal, wherethrough, she requested her to come along, with, the prescription slip, and, meet them, on the main road, (c) and, thereafter Sheetal proceeding on motorcycle bearing No. HP14A-4320 towards, Chambaghat, whereat the two roads i.e. road from Police line, and, National Highway, hence, conjoin, at, a Katcha road, (d) and, also upon the afore motorcycle being stopped, on the katcha portion of the road, whereat the injured/claimant, Bharati, sister of Sheetal was standing, and, awaiting, the, handingover, to, her of a medical prescription slip, (e) and, thereat, the, offending truck bearing No. HP-68-1116, rather coming from the front side, and, striking against the motor cycle, driven by one Rakesh Thakur. Since, the claimant during the course of her examination-in-chief, has, tendered her affidavit, borne in Ex. PW3/A, affidavit whereof, carries averments, bearing, consonance, with, the afore averments, cast in the apposite petition, (f) and, during the course her cross-examination, hers remaining unscathed, (g) besides when, the, other ocular witnesses to the occurrence, PW-4, PW-5, and, PW-6 also supporting the testification rendered qua the ill fated occurrence, by PW-3, (h) significantly also when during the course of their respective cross-examination(s), their testimonies comprised in their respective examination(s)-in-chief, rather remained unshattered, (i) thereupon, with, evident inter se corroboration rather erupting inter se, the, testifications rendered by PW-3, and, by PW4 to PW-5, and PW-6, thereupon, it is to be concluded, that, the ill-fated mishap, was a sequel, of rash and negligent manner of driving, of, the offending vehicle by its driver, (j) conspicuously, when, the, FIR lodged qua the occurrence, and, borne in Ex.PW2/A, firmly echoes therein qua an incriminatory role, being fastened upon the driver of the offending truck, hence, the affirmative findings hence recorded by the learned tribunal, vis-a-vis, the afore factum, do not suffer, from any infirmity.

3. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer has proceed to contend with much vigour before this Court (i) that with, the, permit issued, vis-a-vis the offending truck, and, embodied in Ex.RW1/A, and, it remaining alive w.e.f. 25.8.2008 to 24.08.2009, hence, apparently, though, the ill-fated mishap, occurred prior thereto, and, though hence the afore permit was alive, in contemporaneity therewith, (ii) yet the mere factum of its being in vogue, in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the ill-fated occurrence, rather not befittingly rendering it, to also, engender a further inference qua the offending truck, in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the ill fated mishap also carrying, the relevant fitness certificate, (iii) whereupon, alone it was rendered both, roadworthy, and, also fit to ply on the road. He submits that hence there was a dire necessity cast, upon, the owner of the offending truck, to, place on record, the apt fitness certificate. He submits that the necessity, of, the offending truck, throughout and all times hence possessing a valid fitness certificate, to, hence render fully efficacious both the apposite permit, and, the registration certificate, is, a sequel, of, the mandatory statutory provisions, borne in Section 56, of, the Motor Vehicles Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "56. Certificate of fitness of transport vehicles.—

> (1) Subject to the provisions of sections 59 and 60, a transport vehicle shall not be deemed to be validly registered for the purposes of section 39, unless it carries a certificate of fitness in such form containing such particulars and information as may be prescribed by the Central Government, issued by the prescribed authority, or by an authorized testing station mentioned in sub-section (2), to the effect that the vehicle complies for the time being with all the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder:
>
> Provided that where the prescribed authority or the "authorized testing station" refuses to issue such certificate, it shall supply the owner of the vehicle with its reasons in writing for such refusal.
>
> (2) The "authorized testing station" referred to in sub-section (1) means a vehicle service station or public or private garage which the State Government, having regard to the experience, training and ability of the operator of such station or garage and the testing equipment and the testing personnel therein, may specify in accordance with the rules made by the Central Government for regulation and control of such stations or garages.
>
> (3) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (4), certificate of fitness shall remain effective for such period as may be prescribed by the Central Government having regard to the objects of this Act.
>
> (4) The prescribed authority may for reasons to be recorded in writing cancel a certificate of fitness at any time, if satisfied that the vehicle to which it relates no longer complies with all the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder; and on such cancellation the certificate of registration of the vehicle and any permit granted in respect of the vehicle under Chapter V shall be deemed to be suspended until a new certificate of fitness has been obtained:
>
> 1[Provided that no such cancellation shall be made by the prescribed authority unless such prescribed authority holds such technical qualification as may be prescribed or where the prescribed authority does not hold such technical qualification on the basis of the report of an officer having such qualifications.]
> (5) A certificate of fitness issued under this Act shall, while it remains effective be valid throughout India."

The afore submission addressed before this Court, has vigour, and, is supported by a judgement rendered, by the Full Bench of Kerala High Court, in MACA No.2030 of 2015, and, other connected cases, the relevant paragraphs Nos. 16 and 17, whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "16. Importance of the fitness/road worthiness of a vehicle, right from the time of registration of the vehicle, is further discernible from Rule 47 of the Central Motor Vehicles Rules 1989 [referred to as Central Rules]. The said Rule deals with application for registration of motor vehicles, which, among other things, stipulates that it shall be accompanied by various documents. Under sub-rule (1) (g), it is mandatory to produce road worthiness certificate in Form 22 from the manufacturers [Form 22A from the body builders]. On completing the formalities/procedures, 'Certificate of Registration' is to be issued in terms of Rule 48 of the Central Rules in Form 23/23A, as the case may be. The said Rule contains a proviso, insisting that, when Certificate of Registration pertains to a transport vehicle, it shall be handed over to the registered owner only after recording the Certificate of Fitness in Form 38. Validity of the Certificate of Fitness is only to the extent as envisaged under Rule 62 of the Central Rules, which mandates, as per the proviso, that the renewal of a Fitness Certificate shall be made only after the Inspecting Officer or authorised Testing Station as referred to in sub Section 1 of Section 56 MACA No. 2030 of 2015 and connected cases of the Act has carried out the test specified in the table given therein.

17. The stipulations under the above provisions clearly substantiate the importance and necessity to have a valid Fitness Certificate to the transport vehicle at all times. The above prescription converges on the point that Certificate of Registration, existence of valid Permit and availability of Fitness Certificate, all throughout, are closely interlinked in the case of a transport vehicle and one requirement cannot be segregated from the other. The transport vehicle should be completely fit and road worthy, to be plied on the road, which otherwise may cause threat to the lives and limbs of passengers and the general public, apart from damage to property. Only if the transport vehicle is having valid Fitness Certificate, would the necessary Permit be issued in terms of Section 66 of the Act and by virtue of the mandate under Section 56 of the Act, no transport vehicle without Fitness Certificate will be deemed as a validly registered vehicle for the purpose of Section 39 of the Act, which stipulates that nobody shall drive or cause the motor vehicle to be driven without valid registration in public place or such other place, as the case may be. These requirements are quite 'fundamental' in nature; unlike a case where a transport vehicle carrying more passengers than the permitted capacity or a goods carriage carrying MACA No. 2030 of 2015 and connected cases excess quantity of goods than the permitted extent or a case where a transport vehicle was plying through a deviated route than the one shown in the route permit which instances could rather be branded as 'technical violations'. In other words, when a transport vehicle is not having a Fitness Certificate, it will be deemed as having no Certificate of Registration and when such vehicle is not having Permit or Fitness Certificate, nobody can drive such vehicle and no owner can permit the use of any such vehicle compromising with the lives, limbs, properties of the passengers/general public. Obviously, since the safety of passengers and general public was of serious concern and consideration for the law makers, appropriate and adequate measures were taken by incorporating relevant provisions in the Statute, also pointing out the circumstances which would constitute offence; providing adequate penalty. This being the position, such lapse, if any, can only be regarded as a fundamental breach and not a technical breach and any interpretation to the contrary, will only negate the intention of the law makers."

(I) and, when the afore purported want of fitness certificate, vis-a-vis, the offending vehicle, imperatively in contemporaneity, to, the accident, dehors its possessing, a, valid route permit or, a, valid registration certificate, rather stands pronounced therein, hence, to constitute, a, fundamental breach of the insurance policy, (ii) thereupon, the counsel, for the the insurer espouses that, on afore anvil, he is facilitated to rear a valid and, tangible exculpatory plea.

4. Even though, the afore submission has immense vigour. However, despite, the owner not placing on record, the apt fitness certificate, vis-a-vis, the offending vehicle, (i) conspicuously, the, one issued in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the issuance of the afore permit, (ii) yet the counsel appearing for the insurance before the tribunal, who intended to therefrom, hence, derive, the apt exculpatory benefit, was rather enjoined, to, seek adduction from the records, of, the RLA concerned, the apt fitness certificate, issued in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the issuance, of the afore permit, qua the offending vehicle.

However, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer, before the learned tribunal, omitted to make the aforesaid endeavour, hence, for wants thereof, an adverse inference, is drawable against the insurer, (iii) whereupon, the insurer is estopped to rear the aforesaid contention before this Court, nor the insurer can escape, from, the apt indemnificatory liability, as, stands hence fastened, upon, it.

5. The driving licence of the driver of the offending vehicle, is, borne in Ex.R1, and, upon its perusal, it is evident qua its being valid, from 14.08.2007 to 10.05.2010, hence, the validity of the driving licence also visibly covered the period, whereat, the relevant mishap occurred. The learned counsel appearing fo the insurer has contended (i) that with RW-2, the clerk concerned of the RLA concerned, wherefrom the afore driving licence stood hence issued, rather during, the course of his cross-examination hence making an admission, that, the endorsement made thereon, vis-a-vis, the holder thereof, being authorised to drive HTV, hence not existing in the apt register maintained, in, the RLA concerned, (ii) thereupon, the afore endorsement occurring in Ex. R-1, being belied, (iii) and, thereupon, the driver concerned was not authorised, to, drive the offending vehicle. However, the afore submission cannot be accepted, (iv) as no further evidence stands adduced qua Ex.R-1, not carrying, the authentic seal(s), and, signatures of the RLA concerned, nor evidence stand adduced qua it not standing issued from the RLA concerned, (v) rather with RW-2 making a clear testification qua Ex.R-1 standing issued, from, their office. In aftermath, for want of adduction, of, the aforesaid evidence, thereupon, merely upon, the apposite endorsement, made in EX.R-1, whereunder, its holder stood hence authorised to drive a HTV, hence not occurring, in the register maintained with the RLA concerned, (vi) yet, cannot render the aforesaid endorsement hence being construable to be false. (vii) Contrarily, the afore want of, any, compatible entry therewith being borne in the apt register, can be construable to be merely a ministerial omission, wherefrom, no capital hence can be derived by the insurer.

6. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit, in the instant appeal, and, it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the impugned award, is, maintained and affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

For Respondents No.1 to 7: Mr. H.S Rangra, Advocate.
Respondents No.8 to 15 already ex-parte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

Both the aforesaid appeals are being disposed of, by a common verdict, since, they arise, from, verdict(s) rendered by the learned First Appellate Court, (i) whereunder, it upheld the verdict rendered by the learned trial Court, whereunder, the latter had declined, vis-a-vis, the plaintiff, the reliefs of permanent prohibitory injunction, (ii) besides the relief of declaration, (iii) and, rather decreed, the defendants' counter claim, for rendition of a decree, for, permanent prohibitory injunction. Reiteratedly, through RSA No.171 of 2018, and, through RSA No. 172 of 2018, as arise, from, the verdicts pronounced by the learned First Appeal Court, respectively, upon, Civil Appeal No. 25 of 2017, and, upon Civil Appeal No.26 of 2017, the plaintiff concerned, hence, a challenge, upon, the afore rendered decrees, as, rendered in affirmation, to the apt verdict, and, decree rendered by the learned trial Court.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff had filed a suit for declaration with consequential relief of injunction with respect to land bonre in Khewat No. 74/74, Khatauni No. 108/108, Khasra No.27, measuring 0-19-06 bighas, situated in Muhal Okhali/665, Illaqua Dahar, Sub Tehsil Bali Chowki, District Mandi H.P. The plaintiff's case is that the suit land is coming in his peaceful and physical possession for the last about 42 years. It is averred that the suit land has been wrongly recorded in the names of the defendants. His predecessor-in-interest, namely, Kesru was coming in possession of the suit land, who died about 42 years ago. Thereafter, his father namely Sh. Saran Dass was coming in possession of the suit land. Both of them died. At the time of death of Kesru, he was about 6 years old. |The suit land remained barren for about 8-9 years. He developed the same. His grand father was rustic villager, but his uncles were very clever. They manipulated revenue entries during settlement operation. This fact came to his knowledge in May, 2013, when the defendants claimed themselves to be the owners of the suit land. They were asked to get the revenue entries corrected but in vain. Hence the suit.

3. Defendants No.1 to 7 and 13 contested the suit and filed composite written statement,a nd counter claim, wherein they have taken preliminary objections qua maintainability, cause of action and locus standi. On merits, it is submitted that the revenue entries are correct. Sh. Kesru was not coming in possession of the suit land. Sh. Kesru had no right over the suit land. The suit land was in actual possession of Gosru and Manghru. Their possession was duly recorded in revenue record. They were conferred proprietary rights of the suit land. It is denied that the plaintiff is in continuous, peaceful and hostile possession. It is alleged that plaintiff since first week of July, 2014 has started threatening to dispossess them from the suit land in an illegal manner. It is therefore prayed that the suit of the plaintiff is liable to be dismissed and counter claim may be decreed.

4. The plaintiff filed replication to the written statement(s) of the defendant(s), as well as, written statement to the defendants' counterclaim, wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement(s) as well as of counter claim, and, re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the decree of declaration to the effect that the plaintiff is in exclusive possession of the suit land since the times immemorial and is entitled to the absolute title of ownership by way of long-long possession, as alleged? OPP.
2. Whether the plaintiff is further entitled for the decree of declaration to the effect that the defendants have got no right, title and interest over the suit land and the revenue entries existing in the name of defendants are exclusive owner in possession of the suit land are wrong, illegal, null and void and is liable to be corrected in the name of the plaintiff by declaring him to be owner in possession of the suit land, as alleged? OPP.
3. Whether the defendants are liable to be restrained from causing any interference over the suit land through a decree of permanent prohibitory injunction as a consequential relief, as prayed for? OPP.
4. Whether the plaintiff has no enforceable cause of action and right to sue against the defendants, as alleged? OPD.
5. Whether the present suit is not legally maintainable and competent against the defendants, as alleged? OPD.
6. Whether the plaintiff has no locus tandi to file the present suit against the defendants, as alleged? OPD.
7. Whether defendants/counter claimants are owner in possession of the suit land, as alleged? OPD/CC
8. Whether the defendants/counter claimants are entitled for the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, as alleged? OPD/CC.
9. Whether the defendants/counter claimants are entitled to decree of possession, as alleged? OPD/CC
10. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is not valued for proper court fees and jurisdiction, as alleged?OPD
11. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the plaintiff's/appellant's herein suit, whereas, it decreed the defendants' counterclaim. In appeals, preferred therefrom by the plaintiff/appellant herein, the latter Court hence dismissed both the appeals, and, affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the plaintiff/appellant herein, now has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeals, before, this Court, wherein he assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment(s) and decree(s), by the learned first Appellate Court.

8. Even though, a catena of verdicts pronounced by the Hon'ble Apex Court, renders, the plaintiff defacilitated, to, in the affirmative claim rendition, of, a declaratory decree qua his acquiring title, by prescription, sparked, by elapse, of, the statutorily mandated period of time, and, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number(s), (i) yet, dehors the afore bar, against, the afore plea being raised in the affirmative by the plaintiff, even evidence, adduced qua therewith, is, for the reasons ascribed hereinafter, rather both frail, and, weak. The plaintiff, though pleaded qua his grand father hence holding possession of the suit land, (ii) yet his omitting, to, voice categorically, and, with specificity, the time of commencement, of, possession thereon, by his afore predecessor-in-interest, (iii) rather his proceeding to render a testification qua his afore predecessor-in-interest, rather possessing about 70 years ago, hence government land, and, his also omitting to obviously voice rather with explicity qua his afore predecessor-in-interest, hence, holding possessing, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number, (iv) thereupon, the effect thereof, when combined, with, similar therewith testifications, rendered by the plaintiff's witnesses, who, respectively stepped into the witness box, as PW-3, and, as PW-4, (v) is, qua an inference being bolstered qua the trite canon, for the plaintiff may be, succeeding in his endeavour, of his being declared, to, acquire title to the suit land, conspicuously, by prescription, sparked, by efflux, of, the statutorily mandated period of time, (vi) rather when hence enjoined him, to, also render a clear testification qua the precise time, of, commencement of possession thereof, and, the apt possession, existing, and, remaining continuously, and, uninterruptedly hence alive, specifically vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number, (vii) whereas, the afore evidence remaining unadduced, thereupon, the afore requisite canon, hence, ingraining the principle, of, acquisition, of, title by adverse possession, remains wholly unsatisfied, (viii) with, a further corollary, that, the declaratory decree, on anvil aforesaid rather being unrenderable, vis-a-vis, the plaintiff. Contrarily, the defendants, for proving theirs assuming title, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number, hence, depending, upon, a copy of missal hakiyat bandobast jadid, borne in Ex.DW1/B, and, upon an order of mutation borne in EX.DW1/C, (ix) wherethrough, the apt title, vis-a-vis, suit kahsra number, in substitution, of the prior thereto title, vesting in the State Government, rather stood vested, on 27.05.1006, vis-a-vis, the predecessor-in-interest, of, the defendants. Conspicuously, the afore order borne in the afore exhibits hence acquires firm conclusivity, (x) given it remaining unchallenged, by the plaintiff, and, also obviously no evidence standing adduced qua in its rendition, the officer concerned, recording it, in utter disregard, to, the rules and procedures, as, appertaining therewith. The apt sequel thereof, is , qua with the defendants hence proving qua theirs validly assuming title, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra numbers, (xi) thereupon, the verdict rendered by the learned trial Court, and, affirmed by the learned First appellate Court, qua theirs being entitled, to retain the possession of the suit khasra numbers, and, concomitant therewith, rendition of a decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, is both tenable and apt.

9. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff contended, that, the concurrent pronouncement, as, made by both the learned Courts below (i) qua the defendants being entitled for possession, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number, being beyond the domain, of, pleadings borne in the counterclaim, as, reared by the defendants, hence, the afore decree being unrenderable. However, the aforesaid contention is illusory, (ii) and, it is reared, on a sheer misreading of the concurrent decrees, pronounced by the learned Courts below, (iii) whereunders, the learned courts below rather held, that, with the defendants acquiring title, vis-a-vis, the suit land, under valid entries recorded in their favour, and, borne in the revenue record, (iv) hence, on anvil thereof theirs standing entitled to retain possession of the suit land, and, thereupon theirs being entitled for possession, vis-a-vis, the suit kahsra numbers. Consequently, the defendants, cannot, as, untenably construed by the learned counsel, for the plaintiff, be construed qua theirs being not entitled, for, rendition of a decree for retention, of, possession, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number, nor hence it can be argued, that, the afore relief, is beyond the domain, of,pleadings, and, was unaffordable vis-a-vis, the plaintiff. Contrarily, the afore rendered decree qua entitlement of the defendants, to, retain possession of suit khasra numbers, and, the concomitant therewith relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, as, pronounced against the plaintiff, and, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra numbers, is well founded, upon, the pleadings apposite therewith, as stand, reared in the counterclaim, preferred by the defendants.

10. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court, have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, no substantial question of law much less a substantial question of law arise for determination in these appeals.

11. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in both the Regular Second Appeals, and, they are dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the judgements and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back forthwith.

For Respondent No.3: Nemo.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal stands directed by the claimant/appellant herein, against the award pronounced, upon, M.A.C. Petition No. 12-FTC/2 of 2010, by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-III, Solan, wherethrough, he seek enhancement of compensation, as assessed, vis-a-vis, him, (ii) whereas, respondents No.1 herein/cross-objector, also prefer cross-objections, vis-a-vis, the impugned award, whereunder, vis-a-vis, the compensation amount, as stood determined qua the claimant/appellant herein, the, apt indemnificatory liability thereof, hence stood fastened, upon, him.

2. The learned counsel appearing, for the claimant/appellant herein, has contended with much vigour (i) that with rather ample evidence existing on record, and, its making upsurgings qua the claimant/appellant herein, hence, drawing a minimum salary of Rs.7,500/- per mensem, from his avocation, as Supervisor under PW-2, factum whereof remains uneroded of its efficacy, (ii) thereupon, he has contended with much vigour before this Court, that, the learned tribunal, in, taking the per mensem income of the claimant, to stand, borne in sum of Rs.3,600/-, has committed, a, gross illegality. He further contends that the rearing, of, afore sum, of, Rs.7,500/- per mesem by the claimant, was enjoined to borne in mind, by the learned tribunal concerned, (v) whereas, the learned tribunal concerned, for want of adduction, of, documentary proof, qua therewith, rather discarding the afore apposite claim, has under-assessed, compensation, vis-a-vis, the claimants. The afore submission has vigour, given PW-2, in his testification borne in his examination-in-chief, hence, categorically, voicing, that the claimant Rakesh Thakur, being employed, with him as Supervisor, and, his earning approximately Rs.30,000/- per mensem from his avocation. Though, the factum of the claimant, earning Rs.30,000/- per mensem, remained unproved on record, yet the claimant drawing a sum of Rs.7,500/- per annum, stands proven by Ex.PW2/A, exhibit whereof comprises, a certificate issued, vis-a-vis, the claimant by PW-2. Furthermore, PW-2 in his cross-examination, makes an echoing qua his making the apposite payment to PW-2, through cheque(s), and, also the claimant concerned, renders an apt testification, in, tandem therewith, (i) hence, the afore per mesem rearing of income by the claimant, was enjoined, to be borne in mind, by the learned tribunal concerned, (ii) whereas, the learned tribunal concerned, for want of adduction, of, documentary proof, qua therewith, rather discarding the afore apposite claim, has under-assessed, compensation, vis-a-vis, the claimant. Furthermore, the counsel for the insurer, while holding PW-2 to cross-examination, has, meted an affirmative suggestion, vis-a-vis, him, qua the salary of the deceased, being comprised, in, a sum, of, Rs.7,500/- per mensem, whereto an affirmative answer stood purveyed, by PW-2, (iii) thereupon, an inference is erectable qua the insurer, also accepting the afore echoings borne, in Ex.PW2/A, (iv) thereupon, it was inappropriate for the learned tribunal concerned, to, insist qua documentary proof, being adduced, vis-a-vis, the afore rearing, of, the afore per mensem income, by the deceased, (v) thereupon, the claimant is held to be earning, the, aforesaid sum of Rs.7,500/-, per mensem from his avocation. Consequently, the loss of monthly income is computed at Rs.7500x40%= Rs.3000/-, and, loss of annual income is computed at Rs.3000x12= Rs.36,000/-. Since, the injured/claimant at the time of accident was aged 32 years, hence, after applying the apt multiplier of 16, the total loss of future income computed at Rs.36,000/- x16=Rs.5,76,000/- (Rs.Five lakhs, seventy six thousand only).

3. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the appellant has proceeded to contend, that, the learned tribunal, has, made an under-assessment of the compensation, vis-a-vis, claimant, under the heads, pain and suffering, and, future loss of amenities and discomfort etc. On an incisive perusal, and, reading of the award impugned before this Court, as also material existing on record, this Court, is, of the opinion, that, the assessment of compensation, as made, by the learned tribunal, under the various heads, is, just, and, adequate, and, does not warrant any interference by this Court. Consequently, the afore submission addressed before this Court by the learned counsel appearing for the claimant is rejected. Consequently, the appellant/claimant is held entitled to a total compensation in the hereinafter extracted manner:-

|---|---|---|
| i | Loss of Future income | Rs.5,76,000/- |
| ii | Medical Expenses | Rs.60,749/- |
| iii | Transportation Charges | Rs.10,000/- |
| iv | Attendant charges | Rs.15,000/- |
| V | Special diet | Rs.20,000/- |
| | Non Pecuniary damages | |
| i | Pain and suffer | Rs.50,000/- |
| ii | Future loss of amenities, discomfort etc. | Rs.1,00,000/- |
| | Total | Rs.8,31,749/- |

4. The owner of the offending vehicle, respondent No.1, through, cross-objections bearing No. 103 of 2018 strived, to, exculpate the fastening of liability, vis-a-vis, compensation amount, upon, him. The learned tribunal for want of insurance policy, vis-a-vis, the offending vehicle, hence fastened the apt indemnificaotry liability, upon, the owner of the offending vehicle. The aforesaid fastening, of, the indemnificatory liability, upon, the owner of the offending vehicle is inapt, (i) as, subsequent to the afore impugned award, qua the afore occurrence, hence being rendered, the, learned tribunal concerned, also pronouncing awards, upon, Claim Petition No.16-S/2 of 2011, and, upon, Claim Petition No. 16-S/2 of 2011, both reared, vis-a-vis, the alike hereat accident, (ii) and, whereunder, the apt indemnificatory liability, stood, fastened, upon, the insurer, given the insurer therein placing on record, the insurance cover issued, by the insurer, with, respect to the offending vehicle. Consequently, the insurer intentionally, for, escaping the fastening, upon it, of, the apt indemnificatory liability, rather has hereat avoided to place on record, the, apt insurance cover, hence, the fastening, of, the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the owner concerned, cannot be condoned, (iii) rather in consonance with the verdicts/awards pronounced, by this Court, upon, FAO Nos. 86 of 2017, and, upon, 85 of 2017, the, insurer shall indemnify the owner of the offending vehicle qua the liability of compensation amount, assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimant.

5. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal bearing FAO No.181 of 2018, as also, the Cross-objections No.103 of 2018, are, partly allowed, and, the impugned award is modified in the aforesaid manner. In sequel, the claimant/appellant herein is held entitled to total compensation of Rs.8,31,749/- along with interest at the rate of 9% per annum fro the date of filing of the petition, till realization thereof. The indemnificatory liability, vis-avis, the afore amount shall be borne by the insurer of the offending vehicle. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

For the Appellant: Mr. J. L. Bhardwaj, Advocate.
For Respondent No.1: Mr. Romesh Verma, Advocate.
For Respondent No.2: Mr. Vishal Panwar, Advocate.
For Respondent No.3: Mr. Bhupinder Pathania, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The claimants/appellants herein, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, they, seek enhancement of compensation, as assessed, vis-a-vis, them, under, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Shimla, H.P., upon, MAC Petition No. 12-S/2 of 2013.

2. The learned counsel appearing for the claimants/appellants herein has contended with much vigour (i) that despite the claimants hence averring, in, the petition qua their predecessor-in-interest, after, completing at 2.00 p.m., his duties, as a Safai Karamchari, on a contract basis at Rogi Kalyan Samiti, (ii) his thereafter performing part time job(s), of, sweeping, and, dish washing etc, in the cateens or hotels located at Shimla, and, his drawing therefrom per mensem salary, borne, in, a sum of Rs.4,500/-, (iii) AND also the claimant concerned, rendering an apt testification, in, tandem therewith, (iv) hence, the afore per mesem rearing of income of the deceased, was enjoined to borne in mind, by the learned tribunal concerned, (v) whereas, the learned tribunal concerned, for want of adduction, of, documentary proof, qua therewith, rather discarding the afore apposite claim, has, rather under-assessed, compensation, vis-a-vis, the claimants. The afore submission, has, merit, as pleadings apposite therewith besides testification(s), in consonance therewith, comprised in the apt affidavit borne in Ex.PW1/A, rather exist(s) on record, (vi) and, when the counsel for the insurer while holding PW-1 to cross-examination, has omitted to put apposite suggestion, to, her for rather negating, the effect(s) thereof, (viii) thereupon, an inference is erectable qua the insurer, accepting the echoings borne, in Ex.PW1/A, (ix) thereupon, it was inappropriate for the learned tribunal concerned, for insisting qua adduction, of, documentary proof, vis-a-vis, the afore rearing, of, the afore per mensem income, by the deceased, (x) conspicuously, qua his, after his, at 2.00 p.m., hence, completing his duties as a Safai Karamchari, on a contract basis, his, thereafter performing part time job(s), in, the canteens or hotels located at Shimla, (xi) wherefrom, hence he earned Rs.4,500/- per mensem, thereupon, the aforesaid sum of Rs.4,500/-, is enjoined to be added, vis-a-vis Rs.6,200/-, given the latter sum uncontrovertedly, hence, constituting the salary drawing by the deceased, from his contractual job, as, a Safai Karmachari.

3. The learned counsel appearing, for the claimants/appellant, has (a) depended upon Ex.PW1/B, issued on 24.12.2016, with graphic descriptions carried therein qua co-employees, with the deceased being ordered to be regularized w.e.f. March, 2016, and, concomitant therewith hikes in their salary, being also meted qua them, (b) and, he thereafter further contends that the afore hike in the per mensem salary of the co-employees of the deceased, being also enjoined to be bestowed, by the learned tribunal concerned, in assessing the per mensem income, of the deceased, also, thereafter, it, stood enjoined to mete hikes, towards future prospects. However, the aforesaid submission cannot be accepted, as only the income last drawn, by the deceased, from, his relevant employment, is enjoined to be recokned, and, contrarily, with Ex.PW1/B, being issued much subsequent, to the demise of the deceased, (c) and, hence its belated issuance, since the demise of the deceased, renders it to be, a, mere expectation or a remote possibility, thereupon, also no credence can be meted, vis-a-vis, Ex.PW1/B. Consequently, the per mensem income of the deceased is calculated at Rs.10,700/-.

4. The deceased, is, in the postmortem report, is reflected to be aged 48 years, at the relevant time. With the Hon'ble Apex Court, in case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, the relevant paragraph No.61, extracted hereinafter:

> "61. In view of the aforesaid analysis, we proceed to record our conclusions:-
>
> (i) The two-Judge Bench in Santosh Devi should have been well advised to refer the matter to a larger Bench as it was taking a different view than what has been stated in Sarla Verma, a judgment by a coordinate Bench. It is because a coordinate Bench of the same strength cannot take a contrary view than what has been held by another coordinate Bench.
>
> (ii) As Rajesh has not taken note of the decision in Reshma Kumari, which was delivered at earlier point of time, the decision in Rajesh is not a binding precedent.
> (iii) While determining the income, an addition of 50% of actual salary to the income of the deceased towards future prospects, where the deceased had a permanent job and was below the age of 40 years, should be made. The addition should be 30%, if the age of the deceased was between 40 to 50 years. In case the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years, the addition should be 15%. Actual salary should be read as actual salary less tax.

(iv) In case the deceased was self-employed or on a fixed salary, an addition of 40% of the established income should be the warrant where the deceased was below the age of 40 years. An addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years and 10% where the deceased was between the age of 50 to 60 years should be regarded as the necessary method of computation. The established income means the income minus the tax component.

(v) For determination of the multiplicand, the deduction for personal and living expenses, the tribunals and the courts shall be guided by paragraphs 30 to 32 of Sarla Verma which we have reproduced hereinbefore.

(vi) The selection of multiplier shall be as indicated in the Table in Sarla Verma read with paragraph 42 of that judgment.

(vii) The age of the deceased should be the basis for applying the multiplier.

(viii) Reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs. 15,000/-, Rs. 40,000/- and Rs. 15,000/- respectively. The aforesaid amounts should be enhanced at the rate of 10% in every three years. ”

expostulating (i) that where the deceased concerned, is a permanent employee, as is, the apt employment, of, the deceased, (a) thereupon, hikes or accretions, on anvil of future incremental prospects, vis-a-vis, the salary drawn by him, at the time contemporaneous, to, the ill fated mishap, from his employer, being also meteable thereto. However, before applying the mandate of the aforesaid relevant paragraph, borne in the judgment supra, it is significant to also bear in mind, the age of the deceased, (ii) since the postmortem report reflects, the deceased being aged 48 years, at the relevant time, hence with the afore extracted paragraph, mandating, of, accretions towards future incremental prospects, vis-a-vis, the salary last drawn by the deceased, being pegged upto 30% thereof, besides being tenably meteable, vis-a-vis, the apposite last drawn salary. Consequently, after meteing 30% increase(s), vis-a-vis, the apposite last drawn salary, thereupon, the relevant last drawn salary, of, the deceased, is recoknable to be Rs.13910/-, [Rs.10,700/-(last drawn salary of the deceased)+Rs.3,210/-(30% of the last drawn salary). Significantly, the number of dependents, of, the deceased, are, three, hence, 1/3rd deduction is to be visited, upon, a sum of Rs.13910/-, hence, after making, the, apt aforesaid deduction, vis-a-vis, the afore some, the per mensem dependency, comes to Rs.9,274/-. In sequel whereto, the annual dependency, of the dependents, upon, the income of the deceased, is computed, at Rs.9,274x12=Rs.1,11,288/-. After applying the apposite multiplier of 13, the total compensation amount, is assessed in a sum of Rs.1,11,288/- x13=Rs.14,46,744/- (Rs. Fourteen Lacs, forty six thousand, seven hundred forty four only).

5. However, the quantification, of damages, by the learned Tribunal in a sum of Rs.1 lacs vis-a-vis, the widow of deceased, (i) under the head, loss of consortium, (ii) and quantification, of compensation vis-a-vis, the claimants under the heads “ loss of estate and funeral charges, respetively borne in a sum of Rs.25,000/- and Rs.10,000/- is (a) in, conflict with the mandate of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in Pranay Sethi's case (supra), (b) wherein, it has been expostulated, that reasonable figures, under conventional heads, namely, loss to estate, loss of consortium vis-a-vis the widow of the deceased, and, funeral expenses being quantified only upto Rs.15,000/-, Rs.40,000/-, and Rs.15,000/- respectively. Consequently, the award of the learned tribunal is interfered, to the extent aforesaid, of, its determining compensation, under, the aforesaid heads vis-a-vis the widow of the deceased, as also, vis-a-vis the other claimants. Accordingly, in addition to the aforesaid amount of Rs.14,46,744/-, the petitioners, are, entitled under conventional heads, namely, loss to estate, loss of consortium, and, funeral expenses, sums of Rs.15,000/-, Rs.40,000/- and Rs.15,000/- respectively, as such, the total compensation to which the petitioners are entitled comes to Rs.14,11,200 + Rs.15,000/- + Rs.40,000/- + Rs.15,000/-= Rs.15,16,744/-(Rs. Fifteen lakhs, sixteen thousands and seven hundred forty four only).

6. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the claimants is allowed, and, the impugned award, is, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified. Accordingly, the claimants/appellants, are, held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.15,16,744/-, along with pending and future interest @9 %, from, the date of petition till the date, of, deposit, of the compensation amount. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted in the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. The aforesaid amount of compensation be apportioned in the manner as ordered by the learned tribunal. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The learned Rent Controller, upon, Rent Petition No.113/2 of 2010, rendered a verdict of eviction, vis-a-vis, the tenant, qua the demised premises, on proven grounds (a) of, the tenant falling, hence, in arrears of rent, w.e.f. 1.12.2007 to 14.03.2012 @ Rs.2000/- per month, (b) and, upon, the ground appertaining to the respondent/tenant, rather ceasing to occupy the demised premises, for a continuous period of two years. In, the, operative portion of the verdict, recorded by the learned Rent Controller, the hereinafter extracted, hence, apt portions, stands, borne therein:

> "In view of my findings on the issues No.1,2,3, 4 and 5 above, petition succeeds and the same is allowed and the petitioner is held entitled to recover amount to the tune of Rs.2,09,990/- i.e. arrears of rent at the rate of Rs.2,000/- per month plus statutory interest @9% per annum w.e.f. December, 2007 to 14.3.2012 and amended interest @ 12% per annum w.e.f. 15.3.2012 till today i.e. 18.3.2015, and respondent is directed to pay/deposit the aforesaid entire amount within a period of 30 days from today i.e. 18.3.2015, the date of passing of this order, falling which respondent shall be liable to be evicted from the demised premises."

The tenant being aggrieved aggrieved therefrom, hence, preferred an appeal, before the learned Appellate Authority, and, upon the apposite Rent Appeal No.13-S/14 of 2015, the learned Appellate Authority, hence, recorded a verdict, in disaffirmation, vis-a-vis, the verdict recorded by the learned Rent Controller. The landlord, being aggrieved therefrom, hence, assails the verdict pronounced by the learned Appellate Authority, upon, Rent Appeal No.13-S/14 of 2015.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case, are ,that the petitioner/landlord has instituted the rent petition seeking eviction of the respondent/tenant from the premises i.e. one shop situated in ground floor of four storeyed building which stand built on the land comprised in Khasra No.667, Sanjauli Bazar, Shimla-6, H.P. It has been pleaded by the petitioner/landlord that the demised premises is situated in Municipal Corporation area and she is the owner of the demised premises. The demised premises is non residential. The respondent is tenant over the demised premises at monthly rent of Rs.2000/-, and, it was rented out in the year 1995 to the respondent. The respondent is in arrears of rent from 1.12.2007 to 30.11.2010 at the rate of Rs.2,000/- per mensem which come to Rs.72,000/-, and, the interest at the rate of 9% per annum which come to Rs.9,990/- and total arrears of rent Rs.81,990/-. The respondent has also ceased to occupy the demised premises for a continuous period of two years prior to the filing of the present petition without any reasonable cause. The shop in question was rented out for carrying out the business of service station of vehicles to the respondent. But, no work of business of service station of vehicles has been carried out for th last two years and the demised premises are lying locked which has impaired the value and utility of the demised premises. Hence the petition.

3. The respondent/tenant, in his reply, filed to the eviction petition, has taken preliminary objections qua non existence of relationship of tenant and landlord, maintainability, estoppel etc. On merits, the respondent has admitted that the demised premises is situated in Sanjauli Bazaar, within the Municipal area. But, the respondent has denied that the petitioner is the landlord and he is the tenant of the petitioner over the demised premises. The respondent has pleaded that Sh. Rakesh Kumar was his landlord to whom the rent was paid by him. However, the respondent has admitted that the demised premises is non residential and its monthly rent is Rs.2,000/ and it was rented out to him.

The respondent has pleaded that the shop in question was taken on rent by him from Sh. Rakesh Kumar for business and he has right too run business in the demised premises. The rent of the demised premises was offered to Sh. Rakesh Kumar, who had been receiving the rent previously and the rent was even tendered to him by way of cheque through registered letter. But the register letter was not received by Rakesh Kumar for the reasons best known to him and he is not liable to pay rent alongwith interest to Rakesh Kumar. Rakesh Kumar has not intimated him about the transfer of rights/attornment of the right in favour of the petitioner. Therefore, the petitioner has no right, title or interest to claim the rent along with interest from him. The respondent has also denied that the demised premises remained locked for a continous period of 12 months, prior to the filing of the present petition without reasonable cause. But the respondent has pleaded that the demised premises never remained closed. He has some dispute and difference with Swaraj Mazda Company which has to pay about Rs. Forty lakh to him. Therefor,e his business come to stand still. He had to bear loss in business and the shop is still open and it never remained closed for continuous period of 12 months.

4. The landlord/petitioner herein filed rejoinder to the reply of the tenant/respondent herein, wherein, he denied the contents of the reply and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the petition.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck following issues inter-se the parties in contest:-

1. Whether the respondent is in arrears of rent w.e.f. 1.12.2007 to 30.11.2010 @ Rs.2,000/- per month, as alleged? OPP.
2. If issue No.1, is proved in affirmative, whether the petitioner is entitled to recover the aforesaid amount along with statutory interest as alleged? OPP.
3. Whether the respondent has ceased to occupy the demised premises for continuous period of two years, as alleged? OPP
4. Whether Rakesh Kumar is the landlord of the demised premises, if so, its effect? OPR
5. Whether the petitioner is estopped by his acts and conduct from filing the present petition, as alleged? OPR.
6. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned Rent Controller, the learned Rent Controller, hence, allowed the petition of the landlord/petitioner herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by, the tenant/respondent herein, before, the learned Appellate Authority, the latter allowed the appeal, and, reversed the order(s) recorded by the learned Rent Controller.

7. Now the landlord/petitioner herein has instituted the instant Civil Revision Petition, before this Court, for hence assailing the findings recorded, in its impugned order, by the learned Appellate Authority.

8. The statutory ground, constituted, in the rent petition, as, filed before the learned Rent Controller, and, appertaining to the entitlement, of, the landlord to seek eviction, of, the tenant from the demised premises, on anvil, of the tenant falling, within, the mischief of sub-section(5) of Section 14, of, the Himachal Pradesh Urban Rent Control Act (hereinafter referred to as the Act), (a) imperatively, for ensuring qua validity, vis-a-vis, the afore espoused ground, hence being aptly determined, (b) enjoins existence of cogent evidence, in tandem therewith being adduced by the landlord, (c) and, for, making the apt afore gaugings, this Court, is, constrained, to, ad verbatim, reproduce the phraseology thereof, sub-section (5) of Section 154 of the Act, is, cast in the hereinafter extracted phraseology:-

> "(5) Where a landlord who has obtained possession of the building or rented land in pursuance of an order under sub-section (3) does not occupy it himself or if possession was obtained by him for his family in pursuance of an order under sub-clause (iii) of clause (a) of sub-section. (3), his family does not occupy the residential building, or if possession was obtained by him on behalf of his son in pursuance of an order under clause (d) of sub-section (3) his son does not occupy it for the purpose for which the possession was obtained, for a continuous period of twelve months from the date of obtaining possession or if possession was obtained under sub-section (2) of section 15 he does not occupy it for personal use for a continuous period of3 months from the date of obtaining possession or where a landlord who has obtained possession of a building under clause (c) of sub-section (3) puts that building to any use other than that for which it was obtained or lets it out to any tenant other than the tenant evicted from it, the tenant who has been evicted may apply to the Controller for an order directing that he shall be restored to possession of such building or rented land and the Controller shall make an order accordingly."

9. Apparently, the hereinabove extracted phraseology, of, the aforesaid apt statutory ground, cast in sub-section(5) of Section 14 of the Act, (I) makes visible emergences, qua hence the landlord being enjoined to adduce cogent proof qua (a) the tenant ceasing to occupy the tenanted premises, (b) and the factum, of, afore cessor, of, occupation, of, the tenanted premises, by the tenant, enjoins eruption of clear, and, cogent proof qua hence it, rather, spanning over, a, continuous period of 12 months; (c) and the afore cessor, of, occupation, of, the demised premises, being without any reasonable cause. A deeper delving thereinto, is, necessary, for, rather garnering, the appropriate salient nuance thereof, and, thereafter this Court, is, enjoined, to mete, an, apt connotation, to, the statutory phrase "ceased to occupy", as occurs therein, and, also is hence enjoined, to, make ascription(s), vis-a-vis, the befittingly acquired connotation, by the further therein borne statutory phrase "for a continuous period of twelve months".

10. The statutory phrase "ceased to occupy" as, is, borne therein, has, a, grave, and, somber significance, (i) given the legislature, in its wisdom, in substitution, of, the coinage possession, rather engrafting therein, the afore statutory phrase, (ii) the legislative wisdom, behind engraftment, of the aforesaid statutory phrase therein, is to preclude, the tenant, to in the garb of his holding, symbolical possession, of the demised premises, and, despite, his locking the demised premises, hence, rear a ground, that, he hence yet holds rather symbolic possession, of, the demised premises, and, thereupon, is entitled, to, frustrate his eviction thereof, (iii) now given the afore legislative wisdom, existing behind, the engraftment, of, the statutory phrase "ceased to occupy", in sub-section (5) of Section 14 of the Act, (iv) thereupon, the natural eruption(s), of, the afore connotation rather, is, qua the tenant, being enjoined to adduce cogent proof, qua his, not leaving unattended, the demised premises nor his latching the demised premises, hence, reiteratedly leaving it unattended, (v) whereupon, it woud be befitting to hold qua his not holding, the, requisite animus deserendi. However, on, evident eruption, of, the afore *animus deserend*i, yet, the tenant would save his eviction from the demised premises, (vi) upon, his adducing evidence qua, a, reasonable cause besetting him, whereupon, he was led to hence fall within the statutory mischief, borne in the opening part of sub-section (5) of Section 14 of the Act, (vii) wherewithin, a, mandate, is, enshrined that, upon, his ceasing to occupy the demised premises, for, a continuous period of 12 months, rather, his being entailed to suffer, an, order of eviction, therefrom. Furthermore, the afore proven animus deserendi, of, the tenant concerned, is to occur, for, a continuous period of 12 months, and, the afore phase, of, 12 months, naturally is to be ascribed, an apt import, of it, appertaining to 12 months, hence, preceding the institution of the eviction petition, dehors, the afore import, not standing, explicitly engrafted in sub-section (5), of, Section 14 of the Act.

11. Even though, the learned counsel appearing for the landlord has contended with vigour, that, the appreciation, of the evidence appertaining, to, the afore statutory ground, of, eviction rather suffers, from, a gross infirmity. However, the afore contention rather ex-facie, lacks hence legal strength, given the proven consumption of electricity, by the tenant, vis-a-vis, the demised premises, (i) commencing from July, 2008, and, ending upto November, 2010. The afore proven consumption of electricity, by the tenant, vis-a-vis, the demised premises, acquires an aura of conclusivity, qua no cogent evidence, for dislodging, the afore proven fact, being adduced by the landlord, (ii) comprised in the afore consumption being inefficacious, (iii) and, in, the landlord rather placing on record, the, best documentary evidence, qua the door of the tenanted premises, for the afore period or 12 months, prior, to the institution of the eviction petition, rather evidently carrying locks. However, when the aforesaid evidence remained unadduced by the landlord, and, when the petition, for eviction, cast upon the aforesaid statutory ground, stood presented before the learned Rent Controller concerned, on 19.11.2010, thereupon, with this Court, ascribing the afore connotation to the statutory phrase "continuously for a period of twelve months", reiteratedly qua it appertaining, to a phase 12 months prior to the institution, of, the eviction petition, (i) thereupon, when in open discord, with the afore connotation, as, ascribed to the afore statutory phrase, (ii) the tenant rather has proven qua his consuming electricity, vis-a-vis, the demised premises, upto, November, 2010, (iii) rather begets the apt corollary qua the tenant falling outside, the mischief of sub-section (5) of Section 14 of the Act, also, his proving qua his not carrying the requisite animus deserendi, comprised in his provenly, leaving the demised premises hence unattended or his locking the demised premises.

12. Be that as it may, the learned Appellate Authority, though, framed an issue appertaining, to the learned Rent Controller, falling in grave error, in ordering the eviction of the tenant, from, the demised premises, on anvil, of his falling into the arrears of rent, yet, the learned Appellate Authority rather failed to render specific findings, vis-a-vis, the afore ground, and, hence ex-facie has committed a gross illegality and impropriety. Nonetheless, bearing in mind the afore extracted apposite portion, of the verdict, pronounced by the learned Rent Controller, besides bearing in mind the provisions, of, the apposite third proviso, occurring in sub-section (2), of, Section 14 of the Act, proviso whereof ad verbetim extracted hereinafter:-

> "Provided further that the tenant against whom the Controller has made an order for eviction on the ground of non-payment of rent due from him, shall not be evicted as a result of his order, if the tenant pays the amount due within a period of 30 days from the date of order;"

(i) this court is constrained to form a firm conclusion qua the statutory phrase "if the tenant pays the amount due within a period of 30 days from the date of order" (ii) hence carrying the apt connotation qua the tenant, for rather saving his eviction, from the demised premises, his being ejoined to liquidate, the, judicially pronounced liability, appertaining, to his falling into arrears of rent, by his not depositing, the rent before the learned Rent

Controller, rather his proceeding to make the apt payment, directly hence to the landlord concerned, (iii) the afore conclusion falls in tandem, with, the verdict pronounced by this Court in CMPMO No.156 of 2015, titled as Sanjay Kumar vs. Pushpa Devi, decided on 6th January, 2016, the relevant paragraph No.23 whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "The expression used in the third proviso is "pays" and not deposit. The Section itself does not provide for depositing the amount in the Court after passing of the orders. AS such, the only meaning which can be given to the expression "pay" and "tender" is that the rent is to be directly paid to the landlady and not deposited in the Court. At this juncture it be only observed that the Act does provide a mechanism for depositing the rent in the Court. Section 20 and 21 of the Act deal with the same. But then in the given facts and circumstances, these provisions cannot be invoked, for there was neither any tender by the tenant nor any refusal by the landlady to accept the rent. Significantly, no intimation of deposit of rent was sent to the landlady within thirty days from the date of passing of the order."

13. Be that as it may, the tenant was also enjoined to adduce evidence in tandem therewith. However, a perusal of records, omits to make an apt disclosure qua the afore manner of liquidation, of, the apt judicially pronounced liability, being hence liquidated by the tenant, vis-a-vis, the landlord. Contrarily, upon, the aggrieved tenant rearing an appeal, against, verdict, of, eviction, pronounced qua him, by the learned Rent Controller, his, through CMP No. 4-S/6 of 2015, instituted on 21.04.2015, rather hence visibly beyond the period of one month, occurring in the third proviso, to sub-section (2) of Section 14 of the Act, hence making, a successful endeavour, to purportedly mete compliance with the verdict pronounced, by the learned Rent Controller, (i) whereunder, the latter concluded qua the tenant, falling in arrears of rent, (ii) and, thereafter in the operative portion, of the verdict, it, computed the afore quantum of arrears along with interest accrued thereon, (iii) thereupon, the tenant was obliged, for, hence saving his eviction, vis-a-vis, the demised premises, and,upon, the afore ground, hence, make direct payment of the afore quantum of rent, vis-a-vis, the landlord. However, apparently, he failed to do so, thereupon, with the tenant transgressing, the mandate of the afore apt 3rd proviso, he hence stands concluded to facilitate his eviction, from, the demised premises, and, thereupon, it is concluded that, vis-a-vis, the afore statutory ground, the tenant is enjoined, to, suffer eviction, from, the demised premises.

14. The above discussion unfolds qua the conclusions arrived by both the learned Appellate Authority with respect to the tenant/respondent herein being not entitled to be evicted from the demised premises on the ground of his being ceased to occupy the demised premises continuously, for a period two months, being based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. However, the learned Appellate Authority has committed, a, gross error in its not rendering an affirmative finding on the ground of the respondent/tenant, being liable to be evicted from the demised premises, on account of his falling into the arrears of rent. .

15. In view of above discussion, the present petition is partly allowed, and, the impugned judgment rendered by the learned Appellate Authority, upon, Rent Appeal No.13-S/4 of 2015 is modified to the afore extent. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal, stands, directed by the insurer of the offending vehicle, against, the award pronounced by the Learned Motor Accident Claim Tribunal (IV), Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P, whereby, the learned Tribunal adjudged compensation, vis-a-vis, claimant. The quantum, of, compensation amount adjudged thereunder, vis-a-vis, the claimant, is, constituted in a sum of Rs.10,98,761/-,and, interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum, is, levied thereon, commencing, from, the date of petition uptill its deposit. Obviously indemnificatory liability thereof, has been fastened, upon the insurer/appellant herein. The Appellant/insurer is aggrieved therefrom, hence, has instituted the instant appeal before this Court.

2. The learned counsel appearing for the appellant/insurer, does not contest, the validity of findings rendered, upon, the issue appertaining to the relevant mishap being,a, sequel of rash and negligent manner, of, driving of the offending vehicle, by respondent No.3 herein, nor does he contest, the, validity of the findings rendered by the learned tribunal, upon, the issue appertaining to the fastening, upon, it, of the apt indemnificatory liability.

3. However, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer has with extreme tenacity, contended, that in the absence, of, the claimant placing on record, the apt disability certificate, pronouncing therein, (a) the imperative factum qua in sequel to the injuries sustained by the claimant, in, the ill-fated accident, 100% disability standing entailed, upon her person, (b) nor evidence being adduced qua hers earning any income of Rs.3000/- per mensem, from hers, performing domestic chores; (c) rather hers, on affidavit making an averment qua hers losing an academic year, in sequel, to the injuries being entailed upon her, (d) thereupon, he contends that the afore wants of peremptory evidence, for, hence, succoring, the afore computation, of, her per mensem earning, in a sum, of,

Rs.3,000/-, on anvil of it, constituting the value, of, the domestic chores performed by the claimant, (e) besides, the learned tribunal, thereafter concluding, that, given the disability suffered by her, being permanent in nature, hence also adding a multiplier of 18, to the afore figure of per mensem salary, has rather resulted in gross mis-computation, of, compensation by the learned tribunal, under the head "loss of future income".

4. The afore submission garners immense vigour (a) as the evidence on record, omits, to make a display qua any disability certificate, hence existing on record, with candid pronouncements being borne, therein qua 100% being entailed upon the claimant, thereupon, for want of the best evidence, (i) it was grossly insagacious for the learned tribunal, to conclude that, in sequel to the afore purported magnitude, of disability entailed, upon, the claimants hence permanent loss, of, income being encumbered upon him, nor it was sagacious for the learned tribunal, to, assess or compute compensation, borne in a sum of Rs.6,48,000/-, vis-a-vis, the claimant, under the head "Loss of future income". Consequently, the afore sum as assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimant under the head of "loss of future income", is, set aside.

5. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer has further contended with much vigour, that, the sum of Rs.2,25,761/- assessed under the head "medical charges", also wanting interference, (i) given the afore computation, being made on anvil, of inadmissible photo copies, of, the medical bills, (ii) given theirs being not proven from their original, rather theirs being marked. However, the aforesaid submission, cannot be accepted, given the claimant in her affidavit, borne in Ex.PW1/A, rather purveying a good, sound and tangible reason, for not producing the originals of the medical bills, explanation whereof, is, comprised in the original, of, the medical bills being burnt in a fire, which, occurred in their house, (iii) factum whereof remained unrepulsed, rendering hence the afore ascription, of, utmost tenacity thereto, being apt.

6. For the foregoing reasons, the instant appeal is partly allowed, and, the impugned award is modified to the afore extent. Consequently, the claimant is held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.4,50,761/- only, amount whereof, shall carry interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of filing of the petition till its deposit. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The Insurer of the offending vehicle, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, it, casts a challenge, upon, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal(I), Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P., upon, Claim Petition bearing RBT MACP No. 32-K/II/14/2013, whereunder, compensation amount comprised, in, a sum of Rs.20,91,528/-, and, along with interest accrued thereon, at the rate of 7.5% per annum, from, the date of petition, till realization thereof, stood, assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimants, and, the apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, was, fastened upon the insurer.

2. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer has contested (i) the returning, of, affirmative findings, upon, issue No.1, by the learned Tribunal, issue whereof, appertains, to the relevant mishap being, a, sequel of rash, and, negligent manner of driving of the offending vehicle, by respondent No.6 herein, one Munish Rai. In sequel to the afore mishap, one Sansar Chand met his end, factum whereof, stands, echoed, in, postmortem report, borne in Ex.PW5/A. The afore submission addressed before this Court, is, entirely surmisal (ii) as the only eye witness to the occurrence, who stepped into the witness box, for, lending proof qua the relevant mishap, being a sequel of rash and negligent manner, of, driving of the offending motorcycle, by respondent No.6 herein, rather, in his deposition, comprised in his examination-in-chief, hence making clear bespeakings, qua respondent No.6 herein, while being atop, on, the offending motorcycle, his driving it in a rash, and, negligent manner, (iii) and, without his adequately ensuring that the deceased, who was, at the relevant stage, attempting to cross the other side, of, the road, hence not colliding, with the afore motorcycle, whereon he was atop, (iv) rather striking his person, hence, leading to his falling onto the road, (v) and, in sequel whereof, fatal injuries, stood entailed, upon, his person. The afore evidence of PW-2, borne in his examination-in-chief, stood, not concerted, to be repulsed, by the learned counsel for the insurer, by his meteing apposite suggestions to him, while his holding him, for cross-examination, (vi) suggestions whereof stood comprised, in theirs holding echoings qua his being not an ocular witness, to the occurrence, (vii) nor suggestions stood meted to him, that given the sudden appearance thereat, of, the deceased, rather respondent No.6 herein, hence his being disabled, to, appropriately maneuver the motorcycle, and, hence, it colliding against the deceased, (viii) nor his meteing any apposite suggestion to him, qua, respondent No.6 herein, not, being negligent in driving, the, offending vehicle. The absence of meteing, of, afore suggestion(s), by the learned counsel for the insurer, while holding PW-2 to cross-examination, and, conspicuously rather when a suggestion, in, the affirmative stood put to him, by the counsel, for the insurer, while holding him, to, cross-examination, with candid disclosures, therein, qua the road, at the relevant site hence being straight, (ix) thereupon, it is to be firmly concluded that, respondent No.6 herein, had a reasonable opportunity, to, sight the arrival of the deceased, onto the road, and, also could hence mete adherence, to the standards of due care, and, caution by rather slowing down the speed of the motor cycle, and, also by applying brakes thereof, whereas, he visibly omitted, to do so. Furthermore, an affirmative suggestion, stood meted, to PW-2, qua that, there being no zebra crossing, on the road, at the relevant site, and, whereon rather the deceased could take, to, trudge, whereto, also alike reply, stood evinced, (x) and, wherefrom, also it could be garnered that in the deceased, trudging elsewhere, his rather not adhering to the standards of due care, and, caution, and, also his hence contributing to the accident. Contrarily, the, meteing, of, the afore suggestion, to, the witness concerned, by the counsel for the insurer, constrains, an inference qua the insurer, being barred to rear, the afore plea in the affirmative.

3. Be that as it may, the learned counsel for the insurer has proceeded to contend with much vigour before this Court that (i) with respondent No.6 herein holding a learner's licence, issued by RLA Dharamshala, and, with, at the relevant time, the pillion, of, the motor cycle, hence, remaining uncontrovertedly unoccupied, by a trained instructor, (ii) whereas, the occupation of the pillion, of, the motor cycle, by a trained instructor, was statutorily mandated, for enabling, the instructor to hence control or stop the vehicle, (iii) thereupon, with the mandate of Rule 3, of the Central Motor Vehicles Rules, 1989, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> “3. General.—The provisions of sub-section (1) of section 3 shall not apply to a person while receiving instructions or gaining experience in driving with the object of presenting himself for a test of competence to drive, so long as—
> (a) such person is the holder of an effective learner's licence issued to him in Form 3 to drive the vehicle;
>
> (b) such person is accompanied by an instructor holding an effective driving License to drive the vehicle and such instructor is sitting in such a position to control or stop the vehicle; and
>
> (c) there is painted, in the front and the rear or the vehicle or on a plate or card affixed to the front and the rear, the letter "L" in red on a white background Note.—The painting on the vehicle or on the plate or card shall not be less than 18 centimeters square and the letter "L" shall not be less than 10 centimeters high, 2 centimeters thick and 9 centimeters wide at the bottom:
> Provided that a person, while receiving instructions or gaining experience in driving a motor cycle (with or without a side-car attached), shall not carry any other person on the motor cycle except for the purpose and in the manner referred to in clause (b).

hence standing infracted, (i) reiteratedly given PW-2 testifying, in his cross-examination qua the pillion of the apposite motor cycle hence remaining un-occupied by any person, thereupon, the fastening, of, the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle, hence, being rendered grossly flawed.

4. However, the validity of the afore submission, would be determined, only when, this Court, comes to a conclusion, that, the driving licence(s), as, produced by respondent No.6 herein, before the learned tribunal, and, borne in Ex.RW1/A, and, in Ex.RW2/A, rather, as, contended by the learned counsel for the insurer, falling within, the prohibition, engrafted in Section 6 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "6. Restrictions on the holding of driving licences.—(1) No person shall, while he holds any driving licence for the time being in force, hold any other driving licence except a learner's licence or a driving licence issued in accordance with the provisions of section 18 or a document authorising, in accordance with the rules made under section 139, the person specified therein to drive a motor vehicle.
> (2) No holder of a driving licence or a learner's licence shall permit it to be used by any other person.

> "9. Grant of driving licence.—(1) Any person who is not for the time being disqualified for holding or obtaining a driving licence may apply to the licensing authority having jurisdiction in the area—

(a) is a habitual criminal or a habitual drunkard; or

(b) is a habitual addict to any narcotic drug or psychotropic substance within the meaning of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (61 of 1985); or

(c) is a person whose licence to drive any motor vehicle has, at any time earlier, been revoked, it may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, make an order refusing to issue a driving licence to such person and any person aggrieved by an order made by a licensing authority under this sub-section may, within thirty days of the receipt of the order, appeal to the prescribed authority.

(9) Any driving licence for driving a motor cycle in force immediately before the commencement of this Act shall, after such commencement, be deemed to be effective for driving a motor cycle with or without gear."

wherein in clause (i) to sub section (1) thereof, a mandate stands cast, upon, a seeker of the driving licence, and, also upon the licencing authority concerned, to, ensure that the apt seeker ordinarily resides or carries business, within, the jurisdiction of the apposite licencing authority, wherebefore, an application, is, instituted.

5. The initial submission, addressed by the learned counsel appearing for the insurer, on anvil, of, the mandate enshrined in Section 6 of the Act, wherein exists a statutory bar, against, respondent No.6 herein, to contemporaneously, holding two driving licences, and, (i) whereas, his holding a learner's driving licence, and, also his holding, the, afore exhibited licence(s), to, drive the offending vehicle, hence, mandate thereof, being infracted, rather is, frail, and, is founded, upon, a gross mis-perusal, of, the provisions of sub-section (1), of Section 6 of the Act, (i) wherein though there occurs, a, statutory bar against any person contemporaneously, holding, two driving licence(s), yet, the afore bar stands excepted, vis-a-vis, the apt learner's licence, (ii) licence whereof, respondent No.6 herein, rather held at the relevant time, along with his holding the afore exhibit(s).

6. Nowat, the submission, anvilled, upon, infraction, of, the mandate of clause (i) to sub-section (1) of Section 9 of the Act, hence, emerging, would assume validation, upon, adduction of evidence, by the insurer, that respondent No.6 herein, at the time of its issuance, rather not ordinarily residing or carrying business, within the territorial limits, of, the licencing authority concerned, located at Agra. The afore phrase "ordinary residence or carrying of business" by respondent No.6 herein, within, the territorial limits, of, the licencing authority located at Agra, does not, on a reading of clause (i), to, subsection (1), of, Section 9 of the Act, neither carries any restricted or tramelled connotation, nor enjoins, upon, respondent No.6 herein, to, for certain specified duration of times, to hence, reside thereat, nor also prohibits, him, to temporarily hold, a, makeshift residence, within, the territorial limits, of, the licencing authority located at Agra, nor hence rather forbids respondent No.6 herein, to seek a licence, from, the licencing authority located at Agra. Conspicuously also the afore statutory provisions, do not, contemplate perpetuity, of, residence or carrying of business, by the applicant, within the territorial limits of jurisdiction of the RLA concerned. Corollary thereof, upon, hence making a liberal connotation thereof, is, qua with the afore evidence, rather wanting, thereupon, it is to be concluded that at the time, of issuance, of the afore exhibits, by the licencing authority located at Agra, its seeker, respondent No.6 herein, may be temporarily residing, within, the territorial limits thereof, and, may be carrying temporary business thereat, hence, there appears, no, gross infraction, of, the mandate, of, clause (i) to sub-section(1) of Section 9, of, the Act. Consequently, the fastening, of, the indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer is both apt and tenable.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the appellant/insurer has contended with much vigour, before this Court, that, when uncontrovertedly, after, the retirement of the deceased Sansar Chand, he was doing agency work, and, also he was an authorised agent, for collecting, small savings from the aspirants concerned, (a) yet with there being no evidence qua his earning Rs.15,000/-, per mensem, from his afore avocation, (b) consequently, the learned counsel appearing, for the insurer has contended, that, the addition of the afore income, vis-a-vis, the last drawn income, of, the deceased, from, other proven heads, by the learned tribunal, hence, being patently, flawed. The aforesaid submission, has, no vigour, as the returns filed by the deceased, before the income tax department, return(s) whereof, occur at page 159, of, the file of the learned tribunal concerned, (c) disclose, qua the deceased rather declaring his yearly business income, borne in a sum of Rs.84,952/-, from his avocation, of his collecting small savings, from, the aspirants, given his being an authorised agent. Consequently, the assessment by the learned tribunal qua the deceased rearing an income of Rs.15,000/-, from his avocation, as an authorised agent, suffers from, a, gross illegality. Consequently, the rearing of income by the deceased from his avocation as an authorised agent, is, assessed at Rs.7000/- per month. Consequently, the total income of the deceased at the time of relevant mishap computed at Rs. 23,056/-. Significantly, the number of dependents, of, the deceased, are, four, hence, 1/4th deduction is to be visited upon a sum of Rs.23,056/-, hence, after making aforesaid apt deduction vis-a-vis Rs.23056/-, the per mensem dependency, comes to Rs.17292/-. In sequel whereto, the annual dependency, of the dependents, upon, the income of the deceased is computed, at Rs.17,292/-x12=Rs.2,07,504/-. After applying the apposite multiplier of 7, the total compensation amount, is assessed in a sum of Rs.2,07,504 x 7=Rs.14,52,528/- (Rs. Fourteen Lacs, fifty two thousand, five hundred twenty eight only).

8. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer has contested, the, computation of compensation made by the learned tribunal, upon, the dependents, of, the deceased, under heads, namely, "Loss of consortium vis-a-vis spouse/wife", comprised in a sum of Rs.1,00,000/- and under the head "Funeral charges", a sum of Rs.25,000/-, and, under the head of "transporation Charges", comprised in a sum of Rs.10,000/-, on anvil, of its being in conflict with the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, whereupon, hence, he contends that the learned tribunal has committed, a, gross error in assessing a sum of Rs. One lacs, under, the head "loss of consortium, to, petitioner No.1", and, Rs.25000/-, under, the head "Funeral Expenses" and Rs.10,000/- under the head "transportation charges". Consequently, the assessment of compensation, under, the head "funeral expenses" in a sum of Rs.25,000/-, vis-a-vis, the petitioner, is, reduced to Rs.15,000/-, as also the quantification of compensation, under, the head "loss of consortium, to, petitioner No.1", and, borne in a sum of Rs.one lac, is, reduced to Rs.40,000/-, whereas, the awarding of compensation in a sum of Rs.10,000/- , under the head of "transportation charges" is set aside. Consequently, the petitioners are held entitled to total compensation amount borne in a sum of Rs. 15,07,528/-(Rs. Fifteen lacs, seven thousand, five hundred and twenty eight only).

9. For the foregoing reasons, the instant appeal is partly allowed and the impugned award is modified to the above extent only. Accordingly, the petitioners, are, held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.15,07,528/-, along with pending and future interest @7.5%, from, the date of petition till the date, of, deposit, of the compensation amount. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted in the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. Compensation amount be apportioned, amongst the claimants as ordered by the learned tribunal. The insurer of the offending vehicle, appellant, herein shall indemnify the aforesaid liability of compensation. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The Insurer of the offending vehicle, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, it, casts, a, challenge, upon, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-IV, Kangra at Dharamshala, District Kangra, H.P., upon, MACP No. 1-D/II/2011, whereunder, compensation amount comprised, in, a sum of Rs.6,87,000/- alongwith interest accrued thereon, at the rate of 9% per annum, and, commencing from, the date of petition till realization thereof, stood, assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimant, and, the apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, was, fastened upon the insurer/appellant herein.

2. The learned counsel appearing or the appellant/insurer, does not contest, the validity of affirmative findings, rendered by the learned tribunal, upon, issue No.1, appertaining to the relevant accident, being, a, sequel of rash, and, negligent manner, of, driving of the offending vehicle, by one Ramesh Kumar, respondent No.3 herein. In sequel, to the afore mishap, injuries, were entailed, upon, the person of the claimant, and, concomitantly, the apposite claimant, stood, entailed hence with 75% disability of the apt portion of his body, disability whereof, stands, pronounced in disability certificate, borne in Ex.PW2/A.

3. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer, has contended with vigour before this Court, that with Ex.Ry and Ex. Rz, making candid display(s), (a) that, vis-a-vis, the expenditure incurred by the complainant, towards, his purchasing, hence medicines, for, enabling, his recuperation, from, the injuries, entailed upon his person, in the relevant mishap, rather standing disbursed qua him; (b) thereupon, with mark A-1 to A-207, obliviously, comprising, only the photo copies, of, the bills, reflective, of, expenses incurred for purchasing the medicines, hence, when the afore marked bills, remained rather not proven, from, originals thereof, (c) thereupon, any, inter se difference, vis-a-vis, the apposite amount(s) reimbursed to the claimant, and, the amounts comprised, in, the afore marked bills, rather not being amenable, for being ordered to be compensated to the claimant. However, for the reasons to be ascribed hereinafter, the afore submission is extremely fragile, (a) given, the afore marked exhibits, hence, making open pronouncements, qua, rather expenditure, as, incurred towards purchase, of medicines, being reimbursed to him, (b) and, with the insurer failing to adduce into evidence, the original bills qua wherewith, the apposite expenses, as, incurred by the claimant, hence stood reimbursed, vis-a-vis, him, (c) whereas, upon adduction, of, the afore bills, obviously, submitted in original, to the department concerned, by the claimant, (d) would rather make a display qua the afore marked bills, being not amongst, the originals, as submitted by the claimant, vis-a-vis, the department concerned, (e) and, when thereupon, it was open to the insurer to contend that the afore marked bills, for, want of theirs being proven, from originals thereof, hence were neither admissible nor readable, for the relevant purpose, (f) consequently, for afore wants of the counsel, for the insurer, rather beget an inference that the original(s), of, the afore marked bills, stood submitted before the department concerned, (g) and, the department concerned, within the rules hence permitting the reimbursement, of, expenses, vis-a-vis, only some medicines, rather proceeded, to, in consonance therewith, thereupon permit apposite reimbursement, vis-a-vis, the claimant, (h) and hence, it proceeding not to, reimburse expenses, towards purchase, of, some medicines, in respect whereof rules, forbid apt reimbursements, to the claimant. Corollary thereof, being qua the learned tribunal, being, competent, to, even with respect to the expenses, incurred by the claimant, towards his purchasing medicines in respect whereof, the department concerned, did not mete, apt reimbursement to the claimant, hence order, for the claimant being compensated. More so, when no evidence stand placed on record, that, the afore medicines, stood, never prescribed by the doctor concerned, for, enabling the claimant to recuperate, from, the injuries suffered by him, in, the relevant accident.

4. Furthermore, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer, has also contended with vigour, (i) that the amount of two lacs assessed, as compensation, by the learned tribunal, vis-a-vis, the claimant, assessment whereof, being towards loss of future income, arising from, (ii) the claimant losing his chances to be promoted, to the post higher than the one, he was donning, at the stage, when the disability befall upon him, also hence, suffering from, a, gross infirmity. The afore submission has vehemence, and, vigour, (iii) given though, the, claimant making the afore pleading in the afore petition, yet his not making any deposition in tandem therewith, (iv) nor his adducing any evidence comprised, in, adduction into evidence, of, the relevant record, of the department concerned, (v) with firm echoings, borne therein qua subsequent, to the entailment, of, the apt injuries, and, concomitant therewith entailment, of, disability, upon, his person, the department concerned, hence convening any DPC, (vi) and, his not being considered for promotion, to the higher post, especially given the befallment, of, a disability upon him. Consequently, the computation of compensation, borne in a sum of Rs.two lacs, under, the head "loss of future income", warrants, it being quashed and set aside.

5. Even though, the learned counsel for the insurer has also contended, that, the validity of assessment, of compensation, borne in a sum of Rs.50,000/- under the head" Special Diet", and, assessment, of, a further sum of Rs. 10,000/-, towards attendant charges, being likewise ridden with infirmity, (i) hence, he contends that the computation, of, afore amount(s) of compensation, vis-a-vis, the afore heads, being also amenable for theirs being quashed and set aside. However, the afore submission of the learned counsel appearing for the insurer, is not amenable, to acceptance, given the prolonged duration of hospitalization of the claimants, for hence his recuperating, from, the injuries beset upon his person, and, the prolonged duration, of, his hospitalization also necessarily hence enjoining his obviously, expending a sum of Rs.50,000/- towards special diet, and, a further sum of Rs.10,000/- towards attendant charges.

6. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the insurer is partly allowed, and, the impugned award, is, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified. Accordingly, the claimant, is, held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.4,87,000/- (Rs.four lacs and eighty seven thousand only), along with pending and future interest @9 % per annum, from, the date of petition till the date, of, deposit, of the compensation amount. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted in the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

For Respondent No.1: Mr. Karan Sharma, Advocate vice Mr. Tara Singh Chauhan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal stands directed, against, the award pronounced, by, the learned Commissioner, under, the Employees Compensation Act, 1923, Una, District Una, H.P., upon, ECA RBT No. 9/11.2008, whereunder, compensation amount constituted in a sum of Rs.2,36,950, along with interest, with effect, from 3.3.2002 to 25.4.2017, and, amounting to Rs.4,30,405/-, stood assessed, vis-a-vis, the successors-in-interest of deceased Dharam Pal. The apposite indemnificatory liability, was, fastened upon the insurer.

2. The instant appeal was admitted, on, 10.08.2017, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law :-

> "1. Whether the owner/insured was entitled to claim indemnification of award amount, from insurer when insured vehicle at the relevant time of accident was plied by the driver without a valid driving licence and the insured vehicle which was registered and insured for agricultural purposes, but was plied for non agricultural purposes?

2. Whether vide the impugned award, liability of payment of interest on the compensation amount with effect from 3.3.2002 till 25.04.2017, which swelled to whopping Rs.4,30,405 was incorrectly fastened upon the insurer?"

3. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer/appellant herein, does not contest, the validity of the findings, rendered by the learned Commissioner, vis-a-vis, (a) the demise of one Dharam Pal, hence, occurring, during the course of his performing, his employment under his employer. However, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer, has contended, with much vigour before this Court, (i) that, the fastening of the apposite indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer rather being grossly flawed, (ii) given, the, insurance cover embodied in Ex.RW3/C, and, in Ex.RW3/D, making trite display(s), qua the relevant offending vehicle, being issued under the farmer's package, (iii) thereupon, the ill-fated vehicle was enjoined to be plied, only, for agricultural purpose, (iv) whereas, with PW-3, the owner of the tractor concerned, during, the course of his cross-examination, acquiescing to a suggestion qua the tractor being deployed, with, a depot of, the, Indian Oil Corporation, hence for carrying debris in the trolley of the afore tractor, (v) thereupon, he contends, that, the afore manner, of, deployment, of the tractor, with, the depot of Indian Oil Corporation, and, with its, not, at the relevant time, obviously being deployed, for, the apt contracted agricultural operation(s), (vi) whereupon, breach of the terms, and, conditions of the insurance policy, also, making an evident surfacing, and, the fastening of the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer, was, hence grossly inapt.

4. Even though, the aforesaid submission, is, attractive on its facade, (a) but on an incisive and deeper reading, of, the testification, occurring in the cross-examination of PW-3, upsurgings hence erupt qua, it, rather omitting to unveil, the, trite factum, that, at the relevant time, in the trolley of the tractor, hence debris being carried therein or goods other than agricultural goods, rather being carried therein. Since, the test for determining, (b) qua whether at the relevant time, the apposite breach occurred, enjoined adduction, of, the afore firm evidence, (c) whereas, on an indepth, and, incisive reading, of the cross-examination of PW-3, it rather not emerging, (d), qua at the relevant time, or at the time, of, occurrence of the ill-fated, mishap hence involving the tractor, rather it being loaded with debris or it therein carrying non agricultural goods, (e), thereupon, it cannot be concluded, that, there hence occurs any evident palpable breach of the terms and conditions, of, the insurance policy, nor it can be concluded, that, the fastening, of, the apt indemnificatory liability upon the insurer, was, wholly flawed and erroneous.

5. Furthermore, the learned counsel appearing, for the insurer, has proceed to contend before this Court, (i) that the levying of interest on the principal amount, by the learned commissioner, and, commencing from 3.3.2002 to 25.4.2017 also warranting interference, given (a) the claimants previously availing, a, purported mis-constituted remedy, hence, before the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, and, thereafter theirs, as unfolded, by Ex.P-2,exhibit whereof, comprises an order rendered by the learned MACT concerned, (b) whereunder, the claimants were permitted, to withdraw, the MACP petition concerned, and, to avail the appropriate statutory remedy, (c) thereupon, for, the, afore omissions, on the part of the claimants, hence renders the afore levying of interest, upon, the principal compensation amount, and, ordered to commence from 3.3.2002 to 25.4.2017, being construable to be rather both unbefitting, and, in sagacious. The aforesaid submission, cannot be accepted, in view of the mandate, occurring, in Section 4A of Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

"4A. Compensation to be paid when due and penalty for default.-

(1) Compensation under section 4 shall be paid as soon as it falls due.

(2) In cases where the employer does not accept the liability for compensation to the extent claimed, he shall be bound to make provisional payment based on the extent of liability which he accepts, and, such payment shall be deposited with the Commissioner or made to the workman, as the case may be, without prejudice to the right of the workman to make any further claim.

(3) Where any employer is in default in paying the compensation due under this Act within one month from the date it fell due, the Commissioner may direct that, in addition to the amount of the arrears, simple interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum on the amount due together with, if in the opinion of the Commissioner there is no justification for the delay, a further sum not exceeding fifty per cent. of such amount, shall be recovered from the employer by way of penalty."

(a) whereunder, a, mandatory injunction, is, cast, vis-a-vis, levying, of, interest upon the principal compensation, hence being bestowable thereon,on one month elapsing, since the occurrence, and, uptil the date of deposit. The strict mandatory language, wherewithin, the aforesaid mandate, is cast, hence, renders all its apt strictest rigor, and, without any deviations therefrom, rather being efficaciously complied, nor, the afore mis-endeavours, of, the claimants, rips, the effect, of, the statutorily entailed levying of interest, vis-a-vis, the compensation amount, rather, the apt levying falls in tandem therewith. Accordingly, substantial question(s) of law are answered in favour of the respondents, and, against the appellant.

6. For the reasons recorded hereinabove, there is no merit in the instant appeal, and, it is dismissed accordingly. Consequently, the award impugned before this Court is maintained and affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal, is, directed by the convict/ accused/appellant, against, the pronouncement made by the learned Special Judge (Sessions judge), Una, H.P., upon SC/ST Case No. 2 of 2009, whereunder, he convicted, besides imposed consequent sentence, upon, the convict/accused, for, his committing offences punishable under Sections 448 IPC, and, under Section 3(1)(v), of, the Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities)Act, 1989.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are on 23.11.2000, PW-1 Waryam Singh, Complainant, through registered sale deed, had prucahsed 26/40 share (0-00-26 Hec. As also two Katcha shops situated therein) of land described in Khewat Khatauni No. 392/83, Khasra No.2934, measuring 0-00-40 hectare, FOR Pw-3. Premjit, PW1 was a member of scheduled community. His cast was Chamar. PW-1 had reconstructed and renovated the shops. RCCT roof had been laid on the shops in the year 2003-2004. Sh. Sanjiv, Nephew of PW-1, had been running a Maniary shop in one of the shops. Wooden cases of the value of Rs.40,000/- had been laid in the shops. Sh. Sanjiv had closed the shop. PW-1 had been in possession of both the shops. PW-2 Paras Ram was known to the complainant. PW-2 had been residing in the are of Amb. PW-1 had entrusted the keys of the shops to PW-2. PW-2 had been asked to look for tenants for the shops. On 6.2.2008, PW-2 had found the shops being white washed by the accused. PW-2 had contacted PW-1 and wanted to know if the shops stood sold. PW-1 had denied sale of the shops. He had rushed to business premises of the accused. The accused had been asked about the circumstances under which he had taken possession of the shops in dispute. The accused had informed PW-1 that he had purchased a portion of Khasra No.2933 abutting Khasra No.2934. The shops had been located in Khasra No.2933 at the time of demarcation obtained by the accused. As such the accused had rightly occupied the shops. PW-1 was offered Rs.20,000/- and got lost. The accused was a member of Rajput community. Hehad used foul language against PW-1. PW1 had instituted complaint Ex.PW1/A against the accused at Police Station, Amb on 8.2.2008, whereon FIR Ex.PW1/A stood registered in the police station concerned against the accused. PW15 Diwakar Sharma, Dy. S.P. and PW-13 Madan Lal, Dy. S.P. had looked into the complaint of PW-1. The police had collected pedigree tables of PW-1 and the accused person from the revenue department. Khasra No.2934 had been got demarcated. PW13 had taken into possession locks Ex.P-3 and P-4, iron rod Ex.P-5, from the accused under recovery memo Ex.PW6/A. PW-15 had taken into possession Keys Ex.P-1 and P-2 of locks from PW-2, thereafter carried and concluded all the investigation(s) formalities.

3. On conclusion of the investigation, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a report, under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was prepared, and, filed before the learned trial Court.

4. The accused/appellant herein stood charged, by the learned trial Court, for, his committing offences, punishable under Section 448 of the IPC, and, under Section 3 (1)(v), of, the Schedule Caste, and, Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 15 witnesses. On conclusion of recording, of, the prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused, under, Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was, recorded by the learned trial Court, wherein, the accused claimed innocence, and, pleaded false implication.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of conviction upon the accused/ appellant herein, for his hence committing the aforesaid offences.

6. The appellant herein/accused, stands aggrieved, by the findings of conviction, recorded, by the learned trial Court. The learned counsel appearing, for, the appellant herein/accused, has concertedly and vigorously contended, qua the findings of conviction, recorded by the learned trial Court, standing not, based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation, by it, of the material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction warranting reversal by this Court, in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, and, theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. On the other hand, the learned Deputy Advocate General has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of conviction, recorded, by the learned trial Court, rather standing based, on a mature and balanced appreciation, by it, of the evidence on record, and, theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The complainant, in support of the averments made in his complaint, borne in Ex. PW1/A, rendered a testification hence bearing consonance therewith, (i) testification whereof, apparently, is, bereft of any contradictions therewith, (ii) nor his testification unveils qua his embellishing or contradicting his previous statement recorded in writing. Likewise, PW-2 and PW-3 rendered testifications rather bearing the completest harmony therewith. Consequently, the afore rendered testifications of PW-1 to PW-3, (ii) given theirs being free, from, any taint, of, any inter se or intra se contradictions, vis-a-vis, their respective testifications, occurring in their respective examinations-in-chief or cross-examinations, thereupon, credence is to be imputed, vis-a-vis, their respective testifications.

10. However, the learned counsel appearing for the convict/appellant herein has contended with much vigour before this Court, (i) that with the disputed premises rather existing on khasra No.2933, and, vis-a-vis, the aforesaid khasra number, the convict/appellant herein assuming, a, valid title, in consonance, with the registered deed of conveyance executed in his favour, by its previous owner, (ii)and with PW-13 in his deposition, borne in his cross-examination, hence making a clear echoing qua the disputed shops, occurring on khasra number 2933, (iii) thereupon, the testifications, of, the afore PWs, acquiring no tenacity, and, hence, the accused/convict when he holds, a, valid title or interest, vis-a-vis, the shops existing on khasra number 2933, thereupon, he had the absolute right hence to assume possession thereof. Nowat, it is to be determined whether the complainant held any, possession thereof, and, whether he stood forcibly dispossessed therefrom, by the accused/convict. The afore harmonious testifications, rendered by the afore Pws, do visibly succor the charge framed, against, the convict/accused. Corroboration thereto, is, acquired, from, recovery(ies) of broken locks, Ex.P-3 and Ex.P-4, and, iron rod, Ex.P-5, effectuated under memo Ex.PW6/A. The afore memo, carryies the signatures, of, the accused, and, of, the witnesses thereto. Even if, PW-6, one of the witness thereto, has, in his testification, rendered, an echoing qua the accused, not, in his presence producing the items recovered thereunder, yet with his not denying, the occurrence thereon, of his signatures, (a) nor his making further disclosure qua his scribing, his signatures thereon, under coercion or exertion exercised upon him, by the Investigating Officer, (b) thereupon, with the statutory bar encapsulated in Section 91 and 92 of the Indian Evidence Act, rather estopping him, to depose in variance thereto, (c) thereupon, his oral deposition in contradiction, to, the recitals borne therein, and, rather with the recitals borne therein, being authored by him, hence renders, all the recitals borne therein, to carry tenacity, dehors, any, oral testification rendered in contradiction thereto. Furthermore, with hence efficacious proof standing lent, vis-a-vis, the afore memo, (d) thereupon, it is concluded that hence the accused, with, the user of iron rod, Ex.P-5, had broken the locks, Ex.P-3 and P-4, installed upon, the shutter of the disputed shop, by the complainant, (e) hence, thereupon it is concluded that the accused, had assumed, rather forcible possession of the disputed shop, (f) dehors his being owner thereof. Furthermore, with Ex.P-1 and P-2, comprising the keys of the broken locks, installed upon the shutter of the disputed shop, installation whereof thereon was made by the complainant, prior to theirs, being broken by the accused, and, keys whereof stood recovered, under memo Ex.PW2/A, (g) memo whereof stood proven by PW-2, (h) witness whereof, during the course, of, his being held, to, cross-examination by the learned defence counsel, rather stood omitted by the latter, to be, hence, meted appropriate suggestion, for, hence eliciting from him, rather echoings qua the afore memo rather being falsely prepared or the afore keys borne in Ex.P-1, and, in P-2, also not comprising the keys, of, the locks installed, on the shutter, of the disputed premises, by the complainant, (i) thereupon, it is concluded qua the accused/convict after breaking open the locks, installed, upon, the shutter, of, the disputed shop, by the complainant, conspicuously with the user of iron rod, hence his thereafter illegally assuming rather possession, of the disputed shops.

11. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court, has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner, apart therefrom, the analysis of the material, on record, by the learned trial court, hence, not suffering from any gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of germane evidence on record.

12. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal, and, it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the impugned judgment is affirmed and maintained. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Surya Kant, Chief Justice. (Oral)

The writ petition, claimed to have been filed in public interest, lays challenge to the selection of site for setting-up the Government Industrial Training Institute, which is now being run from a private accommodation at Sarahan, District Sirmaur since the year 2007.

2. The case of the petitioner is that with a view to support educational avenues for the children of their area, the residents of the petitioner's village including his brother gifted the land fully described in para 4 of the writ petition situated in Village Tikker, P.O. Sarahan, Tehsil Pachhad, District Sirmaur, whereupon the State Government sanctioned construction of Industrial Training Institute and accorded Administrative Approval to bear the expenditure of ₹ 7,14,96,000/- vide letter, dated 14th September, 2016. The foundation stone was also laid down by the then Chief Minister on 20th February, 2017. Out of the above-stated sanctioned amount, a sum of ₹ 1,46,000/- was released to Public Works Department though no construction has been started at the site.

3. The State Government subsequently decided to shift the site of Industrial Training Institute to Village Kahan on the land owned by the State Government (Revenue Department).

4. The petitioner challenges the selection of the new site on the grounds, inter alia, that the land which was gifted by residents of Village Tikker was for two institutions, namely, the Government Degree College and the Industrial Training Institute. So far as the construction of Government Degree College is concerned, a substantial part of the building already stands completed, as may be seen from the photographs attached with the rejoinder but the construction of Industrial Training Institute building is yet to start.

5. It is pointed out that the selection of site for the Government Degree College at Village Tikker was challenged in CWP No. 1307 of 2016 which was dismissed by this Court by a self-speaking order dated 22nd September, 2016. While dismissing the writ petition, this Court took cognizance of the fact that the site at Village Kahan, namely, the Government land where Industrial Training Institute is proposed to be constructed, was reported to be 'forest land' with 700 cheel trees standing on the site and in the absence of any forest clearance by the Ministry of Environment and Forest, the decision to shift the site of Government Degree College at Village Tikker was fully justified. On the same premise, it is urged that the Industrial Training Institute too cannot be constructed over the Government land at Kahan as there are 700 trees standing on the said land and it cannot be used for non-forestry purposes.

6. Respondents No. 1, 2 and 4 have filed their written statement/reply pointing out, inter alia, that in response to a letter received from Executive Engineer, Rajgarh Division, HPPWD, Rajgarh, dated 19th April, 2016, the Director, Technical Education, Vocational and Industrial Training, Himachal Pradesh, Sundernagar, made the following observations:

> "1. It will not be feasible to construct a road for providing entry to ground floor as the site is very steep and space for construction of road to ground floor entry as proposed in the proposal drawings is not available at site. It was also informed by the I.T.I. staff that the heavy machinery is to be installed at ground floor for which ground floor entry is essential to carry the workshop machinery.
> 2. Due to the steep slope of proposed site the construction of retaining walls of height 10 to 12 meters will be required for stability of the proposed building for which huge amount will be required."

7. In addition, the Principal of Government Industrial Training Institute, Sarahan, has also vide letter dated 9th March, 2018, informed that the villagers alongwith local MLA have taken a stand that the site for Industrial Training Institute proposed at Village Tikker is not appropriate and suitable and it may be shifted at some other place.

8. The written statement/reply further refers to the norms laid down by the Director General of Training, Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship, Government of India (Annexure R/7) dated 9th January, 2018, according to which an Industrial Training Institute should not be set-up in the same premises/adjoining to any other institute. The site in Village Tikker being adjoining the Government Degree College, it is averred that the above-stated norms are violated.

9. The respondents have also appended photographs of both the sites, namely, at Village Tikker as also the new site at Village Kahan, to suggest that the present site is abutting the State road and it will be very convenient for the commuting students.

10. The petitioner has filed rejoinder controverting the stand taken in the written statement/reply, as according to him, there is no violation of the norms laid down by the Director General of Training, Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship, Government of India, in case the Industrial Training Institute is set-up at Village Tikker, for the site of the Industrial Training Institute will be separate from the Government Degree College as five bighas land has been exclusively donated by the villagers for Industrial Training Institute whereas twenty bighas were donated for the College.

11. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the record.

12. Though it appears that there were pull and pressure of local politicians behind 'selection' as well as 'shifting' of the Industrial Training Institute site from Village

Tikker to Village Kahan, but ignoring these extraneous reasons, this Court is to keep in view the settled principle that the selection of site for establishment of a public institution essentially entails a policy decision and unless it is established that there is some violation of a Statute or any other binding law in force, a Writ Court would be reluctant to interfere with such policy decision.

13. The land at Village Tikker was no doubt gifted by the villagers for the establishment of two institutions, namely, Government Degree College as well as Industrial Training Institute, out of which one institute has already been set-up in that village. If the State Government, on account of the observations/objections raised by the Director, Industrial Training Institute, which are quite plausible and were raised in the year 2016 itself, has decided to shift the site without incurring any additional expenditure, for the site happens to be Government's own land, we see no reason to interfere with such decision, more so when the new site is abutting the main road, as can be seen from the photographs on record.

14. The petitioner's concern to the effect that there are '700 trees' at the site in Village Kahan or that the said land cannot be used for non-forestry purposes, surely, requires consideration.

15. Unfortunately, no specific plea has been taken in the writ petition that the subject site is a 'forest land'. Obviously, in the written statement/reply, the respondents have got no occasion to admit or controvert such plea. However, the facts regarding existence of trees at the site are referred to in the earlier decision of this Court dated 22nd September, 2016 passed in CWP No. 1307 of 2016 but we are not sure about the material to this effect placed on the record of that case.

16. There is a jamabandi for the year 2009-2010 (page 20) on record and we find therefrom that the ownership of the new site vests in the Government of Himachal Pradesh (Revenue Department), the land is banjar kadeem and is not recorded as forest land'. There is no other official document to suggest that there are '700 pine trees' at the site except that there is one 'Comparative statement of feasibility and suitability' of the land sent by Principal of Government Industrial Training Institute, Sarahan which refers to "some pine trees on the site for which NOC is required from the Forest Department". It is difficult to draw any positive inference from this document that the subject site has been declared as 'forest land' or any clearance for non-forestry purposes is required to be obtained from the Ministry of Environment and Forest. Nevertheless, we direct the official respondents that in case the new site has been notified, treated/included in the forest area/forest land, it shall not be used for non-forestry purposes unless prior permission of competent Authority is obtained. However, in case any such permission has been accorded, the official respondents shall be at liberty to proceed with the Project at the new site.

17. With these observations/directions, the writ petition is disposed of. The interim order stands modified/ vacated. Pending miscellaneous applications, if any, also stand disposed of.

For the Respondent(s): Mr. S.C. Sharma, Mr.Narinder Guleria, Additional Advocate General in Cr. Appeal No. 81 of 2017 and Mr.Anup Chitkara, Advocate with Ms.Sheetal Vyas, Advocate in Cr. Appeal No. 170 of 2017.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur, J.

These appeals, arising out of the judgment dated 27.8.2016 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Bilaspur in Sessions Trial No. 17/7 of 2014 titled State of H.P. vs. Balak Ram and others in case FIR No. 64 of 2014 dated 8.5.2014 registered at P.S.Barmana under Sections 452, 302, 326A, 201, 506 and 323 read with Section 34 IPC, are being decided together as common questions of law and facts are involved in these appeals.

2. Learned Sessions Judge, vide impugned judgment, has convicted accused Balak Ram and sentenced him to undergo imprisonment for life with fine of Rs.10,000/- under Section 302 IPC, simple imprisonment for ten years with fine of Rs.20,000/- under Section 326A IPC and simple imprisonment for three years with fine Rs.5000/- under Section 452 IPC and to further undergo simple imprisonment of six months, one year and three months for respective default in payment of fine imposed. He has been acquitted of offences punishable under Sections 201, 506 and 323 IPC after extending benefit of doubt in his favour.

3. Accused Ram Pyari and Vijay Kumar have been acquitted of all offences after giving them benefit of doubt.

4. Criminal appeal No. 81 of 2017 has been preferred by accused Balak Ram against his conviction, whereas Criminal Appeal No. 170 of 2017 has been preferred by State of H.P. against all accused assailing the acquittal of Balak Ram under Section 201, 506 and 323 IPC and that of accused Ram Pyari and Vijay Kumar under Sections 452, 302, 326A, 201, 506 and 323 read with Section 34 IPC. During course of hearing it transpired that in prayer clause of this appeal on account of typographical mistake which could not be corrected due to oversight, it has been wrongly stated that judgement passed by Special Judge, Kullu, be set-aside whereas prayer should have been for setting-aside the judgement of acquittal passed by learned Special Judge, Bilaspur.

5. Accused Balak Ram and Ram Piari are parents of respondent/accused Vijay Kumar, whereas PW4 Kamal Kumar (brother of Vijay Kumar) is their elder son. Deceased Anjana was wife of PW4 Kamal Kumar.

6. Prosecution in present case, has been launched in pursuance to lodging of an FIR No. 64 of 2016 Ext.PW21/B registered in P.S. Barmana on the basis of statement Ext.PW1/A of deceased Anjana Kumari recorded by Executive Magistrate PW1 Shashi Pal on 8.5.2014 at about 11.20 a.m in Regional Hospital Bilaspur after receiving call from police, wherein deceased Anjana Kumari had stated that she along with her husband was residing in a separate house, whereas her father-in-law, mother-in-law and brother-in-law (all accused) were residing separately and she was a teacher in Oxford School, Barmana and at about 8 to 8.45 a.m when she was getting ready for going to school, her father-in-law, mother-in-law and brother-in-law (accused persons) came from their house and started abusing her and her husband by asking to withdraw the case related to incident occurred at Dehar with threats to kill both of them for not doing so with further allegation that she was the bone of contention of all bad incidents and had her marriage not been solemnized with their son, it would not have happened and thereafter her father-in-law brought a kerosene gallon from outside and poured it on her abdomen and on her body, whereas her husband was overpowered by other two persons and her father-in-law poured entire gallon upon her, whereafter, upon her crying, he put her on fire with match-stick. At the time of pouring kerosene upon her, door was open and she was almost in veramdah. She cried continuously stating that kerosene oil has been poured and when she was put on fire, she ran outside. Whereafter, her husband put off the fire and saved her. Accused fled from the spot. She became unconscious and she did not know how she reached the hospital.

7. It is the case of prosecution that PW4 Kamal Kumar son of accused Balak Ram had solemnised love marriage with deceased Anjana Kumari belonging to a family having lower status in caste in the society than that of family of Kamal Kumar, against the wishes of his other family members and thus relations between the couple and remaining family members were strained and PW4 Kamal Kumar had also been ousted from the family and property, whereafter PW4 Kamal Kumar was living separately in an old kucha ancestral house and 5/6 days prior to the incident, he had shifted to the concrete rooms, the premises where incident happened. This premises had fallen in the share of Balak Ram on partition of the property amongst his brothers.

8 It is further case of prosecution that on 9.4.2011 couple had gone to attend the function in their relation where accused Balak Ram and Vijay Kumar along with one Joginder had started abusing the couple and had assaulted PW4 Kamal Kumar, whereupon the couple had reported the matter to the police in Police Post Dehar and in the meanwhile, assailants had also reached in Police Post and by using his influence, being an Assistant Sub Inspector in the Police Department at that time, accused Balak Ram had managed to get the couple arrested instead of them. Being aggrieved by the acts of Balak Ram and his companions along with Head Constable Incharge of Police Post, couple had preferred a private complaint under Sections 323, 357, 504, 506 and 120-B read with Section 34 IPC in the Court of Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Sundernagar, District Mandi H.P., the Court having territorial jurisdiction to try the same.

9 According to the prosecution, on the day of incident, all accused came together to pressurize the couple for withdrawal of the case and during that process, Balak Ram poured kerosene on deceased Anjana and incident had taken place, as detailed supra. Immediately, after the incident, Anjana Kumari was taken to ACC Hospital Barmana, where-from, after giving first aid, she was referred to the Regional Hospital Bilaspur. At Bilaspur she was medically examined and on finding her fit to make statement, as certified by the Doctor, her statement was recorded by PW1 and on the same day, she was referred to IGMC, Shimla, where she remained under treatment till her death on 24.6.2014.

10 After completion of investigation, prima facie finding complicity of respondents in commission of offence challan was presented in the Court and case was committed to the Sessions Court. After conclusion of trial, impugned judgment has been passed, which is under challenge in these appeals.

11 Defence of the accused is that marriage of accused Vijay was scheduled on 24 to 26th days of May, 2014 and the complainant-couple earlier residing in the old kacha ancestral house, had broken the lock of rooms, allotted to Balak Ram during partition with his brothers, and had shifted to that premises forcibly, whereupon Balak Ram had approached the police, but being a family mater, he was advised to approach the Panchayat and thereafter, his wife Ram Pyari had called Panchayat members and tried to convince PW4 Kamal Kumar to vacate the room for marriage, whereupon deceased Anjana started abusing from outside and had broken the window pane with helmet. Thereupon PW4 Kamal Kumar came outside, tried to pacify her but when he came inside, Anjana started crying "Jal-gai, Jal-gai". Whereupon accused Ram Pyari and PW4 Kamal went out and put off the fire with help of bed sheet and accused had not assaulted the couple but deceased Anjana had herself put her on fire to pressurize them.

12 Prosecution has examined 21 witnesses to prove its case. PW4 Kamal is the only eye witness of the entire incident, whereas PW2 Rajiv Kumar has witnessed the incident partially. PW3 Satya Devi, though was examined as a witness to seizure memo Ext.PW3/A whereby articles like burnt clothes, hair band and pieces of bangles were taken in possession by police during investigation from the spot, however, in her examination-in-chief as well as in cross examination, has claimed herself to be an eye witness of incident. PW2 and PW3 have been declared hostile for not supporting the prosecution version in its entirety. PW1 Shashi Pal Sharma is Executive Magistrate, who has recorded the statement of deceased in hospital, which has been treated as a dying declaration.

13 It is submitted on behalf of the State that there is ample evidence on record to convict the accused for the charged offences and thus their acquittal in respective offences deserves to be reversed and putting reliance on dying declaration Ext.PW1/A coupled with the other evidence on record including statement of PW4 Kamal Kumar it is canvassed that all of them are liable to be convicted for those offences.

14 On contrary, it is contended on behalf of the respondents that statement of deceased Anjna cannot be treated as dying declaration at all and even if it is to be considered as a dying declaration, the same is under suspicion for the reason that at the time of her medical examination concerned doctor PW5 N.K. Sankhyan has mentioned that her consent could not be signed by her due to burn injuries, whereas statement Ext.PW1/A has been alleged to have been signed by her, which is highly improbable and that PW1 Executive Magistrate Shashi Pal Sharma has put his note with respect to the opinion of doctor in front on the side of statement later on, after the note appended on the back side of the said statement, because note put by him with regard to recording of statement starts on back side of paper and in case both these notes would have been written at the same time in continuity, then the note with respect to the opinion of doctor also would have been started on the back side of paper, containing statement of deceased. It is also contended that signatures of deceased Anjana put on Ext.PW1/A does not tally with her admitted signatures on Ext.DX and Ext.DY and also other documents placed on record as Mark DA-1 and Mark DA-2. It is also canvassed on behalf of the accused that for contradiction in the statement of PW4 Kamal Kumar, story put forth by prosecution with regard to pouring kerosene and putting Anjana Kumari on fire by Balak Ram is highly doubtful.

15 It is a fact that signatures were not taken on MLC Ext.PW5/B. PW5 Dr.N.K.Sankhyan in his examination in chief has clarified the said aspect by stating that he had not taken the signatures of deceased Anjana Kumari on said MLC because she was in severe pain though she was mentally fit and endorsement on MLC in red encircle 'B' has also been recorded by him stating the same thing.

16 PW1 Shashi Pal is Executive Magistrate. There is nothing on record to establish nor it is the case of accused that he had any personal interest in the matter for intimacy with complainant party or any animosity with accused persons or was under any kind of pressure for recording a false statement. There is not even a single utterance to this effect either in suggestions in cross examination on behalf of defence or in statement of accused persons recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Further the incident had taken place between 8 and 8.45 a.m in a village, wherefrom after giving first aid at Barmana, victim was shifted to Regional Hospital, Bilaspur which took 1½ hours and she reached in Regional Hospital at 10.30 a.m. By that time, Executive Magistrate was informed by police, who consulted the matter with the then Additional District Magistrate and rushed to hospital immediately and statement of Anjana was recorded at about 11.30 a.m as evident from endorsement Ext.PW20/A of Investigating Officer on the back side of Ext.PW1/A.

17 PW4 Kamal Kumar is running a small stationery shop at Barmana. There is no evidence on record nor it is found that he or his wife were having any links with highly placed authorities/persons so as to influence the Executive Magistrate or police investigation.

18 On the contrary, it has come in evidence that accused Balak Ram retired from police department in recent past as Assistant Sub Inspector and had also remained posted in security of Hon'ble the Chief Minister of State. Therefore, possibility of connivance of PW1 with complainant party is completely ruled out in the present case. Similar is the case with respect to the opinion of the doctor and for the same reason, there is nothing on record to doubt the opinion of doctor.

19 Contention of learned counsel for the accused, that for endorsement of PW5 Dr.N.K. Sankhayan on MLC Ext.PW5/B that consent could not be signed due to burn injuries, it was impossible for deceased Anjana to put her signatures on Ext.PW1/A, is not having any force for the reason that natural behaviour of a doctor, treating a patient, is always to avoid any inconvenience and painful exertion whereever possible to avoid the same. Thus at the time of recording consent for medical examination, doctor may not have insisted for signatures keeping in view the injuries and being a doctor may have opted to avoid an act increasing pain of the injured, which was not inevitable. Whereas, at the time of recording of evidence by Executive Magistrate the situation was altogether different and at that time injured was complaining an assault upon her which was serious in nature and statement was being recorded by the Executive Magistrate and in such a situation, obtaining signature with special efforts on complaint even with utmost difficulty and undergoing the severe pain is not unnatural and/or impossible. Therefore, the plea, that the deceased could not sign on the consent on MLC Ext.PW5/B due to burn injuries and thus could not have signed her statement, is not sustainable.

20 Now the question raised by learned counsel for accused, as to whether the signatures were put by deceased herself or someone else, also requires consideration. Again, the Executive Magistrate or the doctor was having no personal interest in the matter and Executive Magistrate has categorically stated that deceased had signed herself on her statement Ext.PW1/A with his pen with further observation that some portion of signatures of Anjana Kumari seems to be in Hindi and some portion in English. PW4 Kamal Kumar, her husband, has identified her signatures with further clarification that sometimes she used to sign in that manner also. Certain documents i.e. Ext.DX, Ext.DY, Mark DA-1 and Mark DA-2 have also been relied upon by accused to prove that signatures on Ext.PW1/A are not matching with her signatures on those documents. Two documents Mark DA-1 and DA-2 have only been tendered in evidence by the Advocate only, but not proved as required in accordance with law. Further even if these documents are considered then perusal thereof reflects that signatures of deceased in Ext.DX are different from signatures at Ext.DY and further that normally a person is supposed to sign in a particular fashion, however, there are also persons who put their signatures at different times differently. As there is nothing adverse on record so as to disbelieve PW1, therefore, fact of putting signatures by deceased Anjana on Ext.PW1/A is to be believed.

21 Other plea of accused is that PW1 had inserted a note with respect to opinion of doctor on front side of page at the later point of time to establish that at the time of making statement, deceased Anjana was fit for recording her statement. It is not only the note/endorsement of Executive Magistrate PW1 Shashi Pal Sharma, but there is sufficient evidence on record to prove that at that time, Anjana was fit for making statement. In MLC Ext.PW5/B in circles A and B, PW5 Dr.N.K. Sankhayan, in unequivocal terms, has mentioned that though the patient is crying with pain, but she was conscious, well oriented to time and place, mentally fit and her vitals were normal and was fit for making statement. Besides that, on application Ext.PW5/A, moved by Investigating Officer at 10.30 a.m, PW5 Dr. N.K. Sankhayan has given his separate opinion that she was fit to give statement. Therefore, the fact that it was opined by the doctor that deceased was fit for making statement is proved on record beyond any suspicion. In such a situation, it become immaterial as to whether the note on back side was endorsed first or the note on front side or as to whether these notes were endorsed in continuation or note in front side was endorsed after endorsement of the note on back side. Moreover, no question on this issue was put to PW1 Shashi Pal Sharma, when he was cross examined in Court.

22 So far as recording of statement Ext.PW1/A according to version of deceased Anjana is concerned, that stands duly proved on record. However, veracity of said statement is a separate issue, which requires to be considered on the basis of other evidence on record. Credence of action and statement of PW1 does not make contents of statement Ext.PW1/A reliable ipso facto. Credence of testimony of deceased Anjana is to be assessed on the basis of other evidence on record.

23 PW4 Kamal Kumar, husband of deceased, is an eye witness of incident. During investigation, his statement was recorded under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. His supplementary statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was also recorded. In his deposition in Court, he has stated that his father slapped his wife and started scuffle with them and when he tried to rescue his wife, accused persons pounced upon him and thrown him on double bed and his brother caught him from neck and in the meanwhile, his father picked up a canny of kerosene and poured the same on his wife. They were crying for help and in the meanwhile his wife caught fire. He has further stated that later on, he asked his wife and she had told him that fire was put on her by his father. In his statement Ext.PW4/C recorded on 15.7.2014 under Section 164 Cr.P.C. he had stated that his wife was crying for help and at that time, his father Balak Ram, in front of him put her on fire with matchstick. In his supplementary statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Mark D-1, he has stated that his father had taken out a match box from his pocket for putting his wife on fire. But in his cross examination, he has categorically denied to have made such statement to the police. This portion of statement Mark A to A in both i.e. statement under Section 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. including supplementary statement, has been denied to have been stated by him. In cross examination, he has stated that he did not see his father igniting the matchstick with clarification that he was told by his wife that matchbox was taken out by his father from his pocket. He is noneelse but husband of the deceased. He was present at the spot. In earlier statement, he claimed that his father, in his presence and before him, had put his wife on fire. But in Court, he denied to have made such statement to the police, but claimed that this fact was informed by his wife to him. As admitted by him, the room was of 12'x18 feet dimension wherein double bed, fridge, cooler and TV on table were also kept. He was fully conscious and according to him, the kerosene oil was poured in the room and his wife was put on fire on threshold of veramdah. Initially he claimed that he was witness to the action of his father, but in deposition in Court, he disowned his statement on this count. Therefore, it creates doubt with regard to veracity of his statement.

24 Further, in his statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. he has stated that when his wife started burning thereupon she ran outside the room crying for help. Whereupon, he got himself released from clutches of his mother and brother and put off the fire by covering his wife with bed sheet. In his supplementary statement he has stated that when his wife was put on fire by his father, she was in veramdah near threshold. In Court, he has again stated that on catching fire she ran towards veramdah, possible inference whereof is that she was inside the room when she was put on fire. In cross examination also, he has categorically stated that she was put on fire inside the room and then she came outside. PW21 Inspector Prem Singh has visited the spot and prepared the site plan Ext.PW21/C on the basis of evidence available at the spot, wherein he has mentioned spot 'A' in veramdah, the place where kerosene oil was poured on deceased and place 'B' the spot inside the room whereto deceased rushed after catching fire and fire was put off by her husband. As per prosecution case as depicted in the site plan, the kerosene oil was poured in veramadah, whereas PW4, has been shifting his stand on this count. Somewhere he is stating that it was poured inside the room and somewhere he is saying that at that time, his wife was at the threshold of veramdah. Whereas spot 'A' and 'B' in site plan Ext.PW21/C none of the spots either' A' or 'B' are on the threshold of veramdah and actual spot where kerosene was found to have been poured is neither inside the room nor at threshold of varamdah but in the 'B' varamdah.

25 In his statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., in portion 'A' to 'A', PW4 Kamal Kumar has stated that his father Balak Ram put his wife on fire in front of him. Whereas, in cross examination, he has categorically stated that on asking, his wife had told him that fire she put on fire by his father. In cross examination, he has denied to have made the statement mentioned in portion 'A' to 'A'. As recorded in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., Mark 'K' now Ext.PW21/E that at about 8.30 AM when his wife was going to Barmana to attend the school, his father entered the room adjacent to the old house, where they were living. Though, he has stated that portion 'B' to 'B' in the said statement, that his father brought a gallon from outside the room and poured it on his wife, was given by him, but he had not seen his father igniting the matchstick. He has denied to have made statement recorded in portion 'C' to C that when his wife started crying for help after catching fire, then his brother Vijay Kumar and mother Ram Pyari caught and hold him as according to him, he had already been held up by them. In his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., in portion 'D' to 'D' it is recorded that at the time of incident, his cousin Sunil Kumar and Rajiv Kumar were also present at the time of incident. But in cross examination, he has denied to have made such statement. In examination-in-chief, he has stated that Rajiv and Sunil Kumar had heard their cries and he and his cousins tried to dial on 100 and 108 services for help.

26 PW4 Kamal Kumar in his cross examination has stated that there are two doors in the room and one door is towards veramdah and another opens towards back side, which were closed but not bolted and after sometime, back door was opened by one of the accused. He has further stated that accused came from front side and went away from the back door and when they entered into the room, the back door was closed and canny of kerosene was brought from back side of the door and said canny was not taken to or from his veramdah at any time during the stay of accused in his room and his wife was put on fire inside the room and then she came outside and he had extinguished the fire in veramadah.

27 Contrary to this statement of PW4, the case presented by prosecution, as noticed supra, as per site plan Ext.PW21/C, the kerosene oil was poured in the veramdah and fire was extinguished inside the room.

28 In statement Ext.PW1/A made by deceased, it is stated that accused Balak Ram brought a gallon from outside the room and poured it on deceased, whereupon she cried and Balak Ram had put her on fire and at that time, door was open and she was at a place like veramdah and she cried. First part of aforesaid statement gives an impression that kerosene was brought inside the room and poured upon the deceased but in later part, it reflects that kerosene was poured upon at a place like veramdah. However, in the last portion it is stated that deceased ran outside after catching fire. Her statement also like statement of PW4, is self contradictory and is inconsistent with regard to the manner in which deceased was put on fire.

29 PW2 Rajiv Kumar and PW3 Satya Devi were declared hostile for not lending support to the prosecution case and were subjected to cross examination by learned Public Prosecutor as well as defence counsel.

30 Law on admissibility and acceptance of and also reliance on evidence of hostile witness is well settled which has been reiterated by the Apex Court in Raja and others vs. State of Karnataka (2016)10 SCC 506 as under:-

> "32. That the evidence of a hostile witness in all eventualities ought not stand effaced altogether and that the same can be accepted to the extent found dependable on a careful scrutiny was reiterated by this Court in Himanshu v. State (NCT of Delhi) (2011)2 SCC 36 by drawing sustenance of the proposition amongst others from Khujii vs. State of M.P. (1991)3 SCC 627 and Koli Lakhmanbhai Chanabhai vs. State of Gujarat (1999)8 SCC 624. It was enounced that the evidence of a hostile witness remains admissible and is open for a court to rely on the dependable part thereof as found acceptable and duly corroborated by other reliable evidence available on record."

31 PW2 Rajiv Kumar, the son of brother of accused Balak Ram, has admitted the animosity with family of accused Balak Ram. However, for resiling from his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. he was declared hostile and was subjected to cross examination by learned Public Prosecutor. He has denied portion 'A' to 'A' of statement Mark R, now Ext.PW21/F, wherein it is recorded that accused persons were abusing and quarreling with PW4 Kamal Kumar and deceased Anjana and were asking the reason for shifting from kacha house to pucca house. He has also denied portion 'B' to 'B' wherein it is recorded that deceased was crying for help by saying that "she has been put on fire-she has been put on fire". According to his deposition, on 8.5.2014 after 8.15 a.m when he was going to drop his son in school at Barmana, he saw that accused persons coming to the room, where PW4 Kamal Kumar and his wife Anjana were residing and they were talking with Kamal Kumar and his wife inside the room and in the meanwhile, he went to Barmana to drop his son and came back after 15 minutes and saw Anjana Kumari in flames, she coming out from the room towards veramdah and crying that she was burnt. In his cross examination, PW2 has stated that when Anjana Kumari was coming from back side of house of Het Ram, accused Ram Pyari and PW4 Kamal Kumar came out of the room after opening the door and covered deceased Anjana Kumari with bed sheet and extinguished the fire in his presence and also in presence of Sunil Kumar. He had also gone to ACC hospital Barmana with deceased.

32 PW3 Satya Devi was cited as a witness to recovery of burnt pieces of clothes, hair band, hair and broken bangles vide memo Ext.PW3/A. She has admitted her signature on the said memo Ext.PW3/A, but has also stated that police did not take hair in possession from the spot in her presence. She was also declared hostile. She has admitted that articles were sealed in cloth parcel by police with seal 'A' and parcel was taken in possession vide seizure memo Ext.PW3/A and specimen of seal Ext.PW3/B was also taken on separate piece of cloth. In cross examination, she has admitted that house of accused Ram Pyari is at a distance of 1 K.m. from her house. She has also stated that on the day of incident, she was at her home and at about 7/7.30 AM accused Vijay Kumar and his mother accused Ram Pyari came to her house on scooter and told her that PW4 Kamal and deceased Anjana had broken the locks of her house and asked her )PW3) to come on the spot, whereupon she called Chinti Devi, former Pardhan of Mahila Mandal, and went to the spot and in her cross examination she has also admitted that she saw Anjana Kumari using abusive language and that she was present in old house and witnessed deceased her breaking window pane with helmet and also noticed PW4 Kama Kumarl coming out of the room and taking her to one side of house for talking with her and then going inside the room and also that she saw deceased, thereafter pouring something on her from canny and putting her on fire and starting cry for help. According to her, deceased had not poured the said liquid on her head and face, but only below the breast and thereafter PW4 Kamal Kumar came outside with blanket and he (PW4) along with Ram Pyari extinguished the fire by putting the blanket on deceased. As per her version all three accused were present on the spot and she also went to the veramadah where deceased had put her on fire and thereafter, Anjana was rushed to the hospital. She has also stated that she had also visited District Hospital, Bilaspur along with Panchayat Pardhan to see deceased Anjana and had requested the police to record herPW34) statement being an eye witness of the spot, whereupon she was asked to come to the spot and on next day, she along with Chinti Devi again went to Police Station and told that accused were wrongly arrested and were not involved in the crime and submitted a written statement to SHO Barmana whereupon SHO told them to approach Superintendent of Police Bilaspur and whereupon she went to S.P. office on 13.5.2014 and submitted her written statement Ext.DA to the Superintendent of Police which was got written through a Journalist and thereafter an officer, in the rank of Additional Superintendent of Police went to the spot and recorded her statement Ext.DB on 21.5.2014. Perusal of statements Ext.DA and Ext.DB refelcts that both these statements, by and large, are similar to the deposition of this witness in the Court. She (PW3) has categorically stated that deceased Anjana herself put her on fire in her presence.

33 PWs Chinti Devi and Sunil Kumar have not been examined to avoid repetition. There is no other spot witness examined by the prosecution.

34 As per prosecution case, filing of private complaint, by PW4 Kamal Kumar and his wife, against accused Balak Ram and Vijay Kumar along with two others is a cause for killing Anajana Kumari. For proving the filing of the said complaint, PW6 Hem Chand, a practicing Advocate at Sub Divisional Court Sundernagar, has been examined who has proved the complaint Ext.PW6/A which was taken in possession by police during investigation vide memo Ext.PW6/B. Though in cross examination, filing of Ext.PW6/A has been questioned for not bearing signatures of complainant and Advocate thereupon, however, certified copy of complaint with signatures has also been placed on record by accused themselves as Ext.DA-1 along with power of attorney Ext.DX, filed by PW4 Kamal and Anjana in the said complaint. Copy of criminal complaint Ext.PW6/A has also been proved by PW12 Naveen Kumar copyist-cum-Criminal Ahalmd of the Court of ACJM, Sundernagar. Therefore, filing and pendency of complaint preferred by PW4 Kamal and Anjana against accused Balak Ram and Vijay along with two others is duly established on record. It has also come in evidence that PW4 Kamal Kumar had married with deceased Anjana against the wishes of family and for that reason, he was ousted from the house and was residing in kacha house and had shifted to the place of occurrence 5/6 days prior to the incident. Animosity, filing of complaints and counter complaints against each other is well established on record. The animosity is double edged weapon. It can be attributed as a motive to commit alleged offence by accused and at the same time, it can also be a reason for deceased Anjana to make statement against them by implicating accused for alleged commission of offence, as claimed.

35 PW8 Dr. Pawan Rai is medical officer of Health Centre, ACC Barmana who had given first aid to Anjana Kumari. PW5 Dr. N.K. Sankhayan, as referred supra, had given medical treatment to Anjana Kumari in Regional Hospital, Bilaspur and had issued MLC Ext.PW5/B along with opinion of fitness of Anjana Kumari thereon with regard to her mental fitness to make statement and also a separate certificate Ext.PW5/A regarding fitness of Anjana Kumari to make statement on application Ext.PW5/C submitted by Investigating Officer to him. He had also examined PW4 Kamal Kumar and had issued Ext.PW5/F with opinion that injuries No. 1 to 3 on the neck of PW4 might be possible with nails and injury No. 4 during an effort to extinguish fire.

36 PW16 Dr. D.K. Sharma, Professor, Department of Surgery IGMC who is the Head of the Unit in IGMC Shimla, in which injured Anjana Kumari remained under treatment since 8.5.2014 till her death on 24.6.2014, has proved the death summary Ext.PW16/A pertaining to deceased Anjana Kumari. According to him, patient was making speedy recovery, however, on 24.6.2014 she started to develop breathing difficulties and reduced urinary output and at about 10.30 a.m the patient had become pulse less and thereafter cardio pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) was initiated, however, despite the best efforts patient could not be resuscitated and was declared dead and cause of death was SIRS and MODS (Systemic Inflammatory Response Syndrome and Multiple Organ Disfunction Syndrome).

37 PW7 Dr.Piyush Kapila Assistant Professor, Forensic Medicine, IGMC Shimla had conducted the postmortem of deceased and according to him, the deceased survived the immediate effects of the burn injuries and died due to subsequent complications of the burn injuries.

38 PW13 Satish Kumar is brother of deceased Anjana Kumari, who had witnessed the seizure of bed sheet Ext.P4 used for extinguish the fire by PW4 Kamal Kumar vide memo Ext.PW13/A.

39 PW10 LC Maya Devi had recorded rapat No. 36A Ext.PW10/A on 8.5.2014 at 9 AM in computer at the instance of SHO on the basis of telephonic information received in the Police Station that some unknown person had put a lady on fire, who was burning at village Salnoo.

40 PW9 HC Dev Dutt who was MHC at the relevant time has proved on record deposit of sealed parcels on 8.5.2014 by PW21 SHO Prem Singh in malkhana and sending of case property to RFSL Mandi through C. Kamal Dev on 12.5.2014 vide RC No. 63/14 and deposit of bed sheet Ext.P4 by PW14 ASI Lavkesh Kumar on 18.5.2014 in malkhana. He has proved the copy of malkhana register Ext.PW9/A, RC register Ext.PW9/B and RC Ext.PW9/C.

41 PW11 ASI Partap Singh had visited IGMC Shimla to get the postmortem of dead body of deceased conducted by filing application Ext.PW7/A and for receiving case summary and treatment summary of deceased.

42 PW14 Lavkesh Kumar has taken in possession bed sheet Ext.P4 vide memo Ext.PW13/A. PW15 LC Kamla Devi was MHC during leave of PW9 HC Dev Dutt and she has proved sending of parcel to RFSL Mandi through PW18 HHC Raj Kumar vide RC No. 71 of 2014 and has proved copy of RC register Ext.PW15/A.

43 PW17 C. Kamal Dev besides depositing the parcels at RFSL Mandi had also witnessed the seizure of bed sheet Ext.P4 vide memo Ext.PW13/A. PW18 has corroborated the statement of PW15 LHC Kamla Devi with regard to deposit of parcel in RFSL Mandi.

44 PW20 HC Hem Raj has collected the treatment record of deceased from ACC hospital, Barmana, Regional Hospital Bilaspur and IGMC Shimla by moving applications Ext.PW8/A, Ext.PW20/A and Ext.PW20/B.

45 PW18 Sub Inspector Ashok Chauhan has also conducted a part of investigation. As per his deposition in Court, he went to spot with Mr.Bhupinder Kanwar Additional Superintendent of Police Bilaspur where 3-4 persons were interrogated in village itself and he had also visited Sundernagar and collected copy of complaint Ext.PW6/A from PW6 Hem Chand Advocate vide memo Ext.PW6/B. He has further stated that on 24.6.2014 on receiving information of death of Anjana Kumari, PW11 HC Partap Singh was deputed to IGMC Shimla and provisions of Sections 302 and 326-A IPC were added by him in the case FIR on 15.7.2014. He got the statement Ext.PW14/C of Kamal Kumar recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. before the Magistrate and after receiving the FSL report Ext.PW19/A to Ext.PW19/D he has completed the investigation and prepared the challan and forwarded it to the Court.

46 In the beginning PW21 Inspector Prem Singh was Investigating Officer. He had moved an application Ext.PW5/A for medical examination of Anajan Kumar and after obtaining opinion from Medical Officer regarding her fitness to make statement, his telephonic information to Additional S.P. Bilaspur with regard to incident for recording of statement Ext.PW1/A of Anajana Kumari, the Executive Magistrate PW1 Shashi Pal. After receiving the said statement from PW1, he made endorsement Ext.PW21/A thereupon and sent it to the Police Station for registration of FIR, whereupon FIR Ext.PW21/B was registered. He prepared spot map of spot Ext.PW21/C and took broken bangles, burnt clothes etc. in possession vide memo Ext.PW3/A. He has deposed that statements of PW3 Satya Devi Ext.PW21/D, PW4 Kamal Kumar Ext.PW21/E and PW2 Rajiv Kumar Ext.PW21/F were recorded by him as per their version without adding or deleting anything therein. He has stated that plastic canny, having kerosene oil, was not recovered from spot and therefore, Section 201 IPC was added on 16.5.2014 and thereafter, he had proceeded on leave after handing over the investigation to PW19 ASI Lavkesh Kumar.

47 Presence of accused and PW4 Kamal Kumar along with his wife Anjana Kumari in the pucca room occupied by PW4 Kamal Kumar and Anjana at the time of alleged incident is undisputed. According to the complainant party, accused had entered their room and asked to withdraw the case filed by them in Sundernagar Court with threatening that on failure to do so, the couple would be killed. Whereas, the story put forward by accused persons is that marriage of accused Vijay Kumar was fixed on 24-26th May, 2014 and complainant couple who was residing in kacha house earlier had occupied pucca room 5/6 days prior to the incident after breaking the locks of said premises, whereupon accused Balak Ram had complained to police, but police considering it a family dispute, had advised him to settle the dispute in Panchayat as he and PW4 Kamal Kumar were father and son. Thereafter, accused Ram Pyari called the Panchayat members on the spot whereupon Anjana Devi started abusing from outside and had broken the window pane by hitting it with helmet, thereafter Kamal Kumar came out and advised her and went back to room and thereafter Anjana put herself on fire and after hearing her cries, PW4 Kamal Kumar and accused Ram Pyari came out of the roomand extinguished the fire.

48 Burning of deceased Anajna Devi after pouring kerosene oil on her body and thereafter her death on 24.6.2014 is not disputed. MLCs Ext.PW5/B and Ext.PW5/F pertaining to deceased and PW4 Kamal Kumar have not been disputed. The postmortem report Ext.PW7/B and cause of death are also not in dispute. The only disputed fact is that as per prosecution case, Balak Ram put her on fire, whereas defence of accused is that when accused persons were requesting PW4 Kamal Kumar to vacate the premises at least till the marriage of accused Vijay Kumar, Anjana Kumari herself put her on fire. For determining the cause of death, the relevant evidence on record is statement of deceased Anjana Ext.PW1/A, deposition of PW4 Kamal Kumar in Court as well as statement and supplementary statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. recorded before the Magistrate and statement of PW2 Rajiv Kumar. Though, PW3 also claimed her presence but prosecution had not relied upon her statement on that count, but cited her as a witness to the recovery/seizure of burnt clothes, hair band, hairs and broken pieces of bangles. Sunil Kumar another witness cited as a spot witness was given up being repetitive, whereas one Chinti Devi cited as a witness along with PW3 Satya Devi to memo of seizure Ext.PW3/A was also given up being repetitive, however, it has come on record that she (Chinti Devi) like PW3 Satya Devi was also pressing for recording her statement, in contrast to the prosecution case, by visiting the Police Station as well as office of Superintendent of Police, whereupon Additional SP Shri Bhupinder Kanwar had also visited the village and had interrogated certain persons on the spot.

49 As per defence, Additional S.P. had recorded statement of PW3 Satya Devi, PW Chinti Devi on 21.5.2014. However, no such statement is on record as a part of challan but accused have placed on record application Ext.DA submitted by Satya Devi to the Superintendent of Police and statement Ext.DB recorded by Additional SP on 21.5.2014.

50 There is no reference in challan with regard to investigation/interrogation carried out by Additional SP and statements recorded by him during that investigation/interrogation. PW19 Ashok Chauhan has admitted recording of statement Mark-1 of Chinti Devi and Ext.DB of Satya Devi by Additional SP on 21.5.2014. According to him, Chinti Devi and Satya Devi, at the time of recording their statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C., had not disclosed the facts as stated by them in statement Mark-1 and Ext.DB and they had told that they were related to accused Ram Pyari. It is also the case of prosecution that Additional SP had found that Chinti Devi and Satya Devi were trying to help the accused out of way. Plea of PW19 Ashok Chuhan that Satya Devi and Chinti Devi had informed him about relations with accused persons is incorrect as in her statement PW3 Satya Devi had clearly stated that she is Rajput and accused are Scheduled Caste. Further, Additional SP Bhupinder Kanwar has neither been cited nor examined as a witness despite the fact that during his investigation he had recorded statements of villagers and statements recorded by him were also not made part of challan. It was incumbent upon the prosecution to place the complete facts on record with its opinion along with reasons, but the prosecution has chosen to place on record that selective evidence only, which was suitable to their story. It creates doubt about the fair investigation.

51 Satya Devi in her statement stated that accused persons and PW4 Kamal Kumar were present in room occupied by the couple and Anjana Kumari was outside the room in veramadah where she poured the kerosene upon herself when PW4 Kamal Kumar went back after advising her. Even her statement is ignored. There is another witness PW2 Rajiv Kumar whose presence has been relied upon by PW4 Kamal Kumar. In his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., it was stated that deceased Anjana was crying that she had been burnt, whereas in Court he has categorically stated that she was crying that she had burnt. According to him, he had not witnessed the slot of incident when Anjana Devi either was put on fire or put herself on fire as at that time, he had gone to Barmana to drop his son in school. But he has categorically stated that she was crying that she had burnt (Jal gai-jal gai). In his cross examination, he has stated that she had come from back side of house of Het Ram and PW4 Kamal Kumar and Ram Pyari had come out of the room and covered her with bed sheet and extinguished the fire in his presence and in presence of Sunil Kumar. It again run to the contrary to the claim of PW4 Kamal Kumar that Anjana Kumari was put on fire inside the room and thereafter she ran outside and was followed by him after getting himself free from clutches of his mother and brother. Even according to prosecution story as also depicted in spot map Ext.PW21/C and at one place in deposition of PW4 Kamal Kumar, it has come on record that deceased Anjana Kumar was put on fire either in veramdah or on the threshold of veramadah, which is in contradiction to the claim of deceased Anjana Kumari made in her statement Ext.PW1/A. Statement of PW4 Kamal Kumar is self contradictory on this count. Therefore, it emerges from the aforesaid evidence on record is that it cannot be said with certainty that it was accused Balak Ram, who poured kerosene on Anajna Kumari and put her on fire. Even PW4 Kamal Kumar, as per his deposition in Court, is not sure about it was contrary to his earlier version claiming himself an eye witness, he has stated that this fact was told to him by his wife.

52 Conviction can be based on the solitary dying declaration also, if it is such that in the circumstances of the case it can be regarded as truthful. On the other hand, in case on account of an infirmity, it cannot be considered to be entirely reliable, corroboration would be required. (See Kushal Rao vs. State of Bombay reported in AIR 1958 SC 22 and Gopal Singh and another vs. The State of Madhya Pradesh and another reported in AIR 1972 SC 1557)

53 Putting reliance on judgment in Kushal Rao's case supra, learned counsel for the accused has submitted that a statement made by a dying person as to the cause of death, has been accorded by the Legislature, a special sanctity which should, on the principle that it was made at a time when the person making statement was in danger of losing his life, be respected, however, if there are clear circumstances on record in evidence to show that person making statement was not in expectation of death, it will have an impact not only upon the admissibility of the statement but to its weight also.

54 Reliance has also been put on behalf of the accused on a judgment of the Apex Court in Dadu Lakshmi Reddy vs. State of A.P. reported in AIR 1999 SC 3255 wherein referring the judgments viz. Tapinder Singh vs. State of Punjab reported in 1971(1) SCR 599/(1970)2 SCC 113 and Khushal Rao's case supra it has been observed that a dying declaration is neither a deposition in Court nor made on oath or in presence of accused and thus its credence cannot be tested by cross examination and in view of inherent weaknesses attached to the dying declaration it would not be justifiable to draw an initial presumption that dying declaration contains and contains only the truth and it has been reminded that a dying declaration should be subjected to very close scrutiny while testing its reliability keeping in view all relevant attending circumstances.

55 Referring the verdict of Apex Court in Uka Ram vs. State of Rajasthan reported in AIR 2001 SC 1814 it is canvassed on behalf of the accused that dying declaration is admitted on the basis of maxim, "Nemomoriturus Praesumitur Mentire" which means that the man will not meet his maker with a lie in his mouth, but before relying upon the statement the Court is obliged to rule out the possibility of statement being either the result of tutoring, prompting or conducive or product of imagination.

56 Reliance has put on C.Magesh vs. State of Karnataka (2010)5 SCC 645 wherein the Apex Court after considering its previous pronouncement in case Suraj Singh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in (2008) 16 SCC 686 has held that in criminal jurisprudence, evidence has to be evaluated on the touchstone of consistency and consistency is the keyword for upholding the conviction of an accused and therefore the evidence must be tested for its inherent consistency and the inherent probability of the story and consistency with the account of other witness has been held to be creditworthy with further observation that probative value of such evidence becomes eligible to be put into the scales for a cumulative evaluation.

57 Recently the Apex Court in Shama vs. State of Haryana reported in (2017)11 SCC 535 has stated the principles to be kept in mind always at the time of examining the dying declaration, which read as under:-

> "30. Dying declaration made by the deceased is admissible in evidence under Section 32(1) of the Evidence Act, 1872. In the absence of any kind of infirmity or/and suspicious circumstances surrounding its execution, once it is proved in evidence in accordance with law, it can be relied on for convicting an accused even in the absence of corroborative evidence but with a rule of prudence that it should be so done with extreme case and caution. (See Panchdeo Singh vs. State of Bihar reported in (2002)1 SCC 577).
>
> 31. One of the principles which is always kept in kind while examining the dying declaration is that "a man will not meet his Makr with a lie in his mouth". As aptly said by Mathew Arnold in a very old English case (see Lyre LCR in R.v. Woodcock reported in (1789)1 Leach 500 "Truch sits on the lips of a dying man". This principle is deduced from a well-known Latin legal maxim "nemo moriturus praesumitur mentire."
>
> 32. We are not impressed by the submission of the leanred counsel for the appellant when he urged that the dying declaration is bad because it was recorded by the Inspector and not by any Magistrate.
>
> 33. In our considered opinion, firstly, the law does not prescribe any format for recording dying declaration; and secondly, it also does not prescribe any specific authority to record it unless any special law or rule is enacted to that effect. No such rule was brought to the notice of the courts below and here also. On the other hand, we find that perfect working and neatly structured dying declaration at times brings about an adverse impression and creates suspicion in themind of the court since the dying declaration need not be drawn with mathematical precision.
> 34. All that the law requires is that the declarant should be in fit state of mind and be able to recollect the situation resulting in the available state of affairs in relation to the incident and the Court should be satisfied that the reliance ought to be placed thereon rather than distrust."

58 Applying aforesaid exposition of law related to dying declaration in the present case, we find, as discussed here-in-above, that it has not come in evidence on record that at the time of making statement Ext.PW1/A deceased Anjana was expecting her death imminent, rather opinion of the doctor reflects that though she was crying with pain but she was conscious, well oriented to time and place, mentally fit and her vitals were normal. None of the witnesses including PW1 Shashi Pal Sharma, PW4 Kamal Kumar and PW5 Dr.N.K.Sankhyan, has deposed to the effect that there was situation giving impression of imminent death of Anjana Kumari at the time of recording her statement Ext.PW1/A. It is also the fact that deceased expired after 47 days after incident that too as stated by PW7 Dr. Piyush Kapila, not due to immediate effect of burn injuries but due to subsequent complications of burn injuries. In these circumstances, it cannot be said to have been established by prosecution that at the time making statement Ext.PW1/A, deceased Anjana was in a state of mind that she was going to die on account of burn injuries. Therefore, Ext.PW1/A is required to be scrutinized with extreme care and caution.

59 The best evidence to corroborate her statement is deposition of PW4 Kamal Kumar. As noticed supra, testimony of PW4 Kamal Kumar is inconsistent not only with statement Ext.PW1/A with respect to the spot of pouring kerosene oil and person putting her on fire but also inconsistent with his earlier statements Ext.PW4/A, mark K-1 and Ext.PW21/E. In this regard, the site map Ext.PW21/C and testimony of Investigating Officer PW21 Prem Singh are also contrary to statement Ext.PW21/A as well as statement of PW4 Kamal Kumar. Therefore, despite finding no fault in recording the statement Ext.PW1/A, for being an inconsistent with other evidence on record, the conviction cannot be based solely on this statement as the surrounding circumstances are rendering its suspicious.

60 In view of the previous animosity and criminal litigation going on between the parties possibility of implicating the accused in a serious case cannot be ruled out.

61 It is an admitted case of parties that accused persons entered the room in possession of PW4 Kamal Kumar and his family. Statement of PW4 Kamal Kumar that accused persons had entered in his room is duly corroborated by statement of PW2 Rajiv and PW3 Satya Devi and also by defence taken by accused that they had gone to PW4 Kamal Kumar for asking to vacate the room at least till the marriage of accused Vijay Kumar. It is the case of defence that PW4 Kamal Kumar had entered the room after breaking the locks and whereupon accused Balak Ram had contacted SHO Barmana telephonically and on whose advise Ram Pyari accused had called Panchayat members on the spot and accused entered the room occupied by family of PW4 Kamal Kumar. Stand of PW4 Kamal Kumar is that accused persons had come to pressurize them to withdraw the case pending in Sundernagar Court.

62 The presence of accused on spot and entry in the room occupied by family of PW4 Kamal Kumar and also altercation taking place is also corroborated by statements of PW2 Rajiv Kumar and PW3 Satya Devi. Strained relations between the parties are undisputed and therefore, the entry of accused persons in premises in the occupation of family of PW4 Kamal Kumar cannot be said to be friendly entry.

63 Be that as it may, the fact remains that accused persons had entered the room occupied by family of PW4 Kamal Kumar either to pressurize him to withdraw the case or to vacate the room which he had occupied five days prior to the incident. In either of the eventuality, they entered the room with intention to intimidate, insult or annoy the family of PW4 Kamal Kumar and thus have committed an offence of house trespass as defined under Section 442 IPC punishable under Section 448 IPC.

64 The accused have been charged for an offence under Section 452 IPC which is an offence of higher degree than the offence under Section 442/448 IPC and therefore, they can be convicted for commission of offence under Section 442 IPC punishable under Section 448 IPC without being specifically charge sheeted for that offence.

65 In the light of aforesaid evidence, it is also proved on record that accused has also criminally intimidated PW4 Kamal Kumar and his wife and thus committed an offence punishable under Section 506 IPC.

66 So far as the charge framed under Section 201 IPC for causing disappearance of evidence of offence on the ground that kerosene canny could not be recovered by Investigating Officer from the spot is concerned, no evidence to establish the same is on record and hence the accused are rightly acquitted for an offence under Section 201 IPC.

67 For discussions here-in-above, it has not been proved beyond reasonable doubt that it was accused Balak Ram who had poured kerosene oil on deceased Anjana and put her on fire, therefore, he cannot be convicted under section 326-A IPC for causing burn or grievous hurt by using any means with intention of causing or with knowledge that he would likely to cause such injury or hurt.

68 Though, it has come in evidence of PW4 Kamal Kumar that accused Balak Ram had slapped his wife deceased Anjana and his mother and brother had over-powered him and brother had caught him from neck and in MLC Ext.PW5/F it is opined by the doctor that injuries No. 1 to 3 found on his neck may be possible with nails. However, as the veracity of PW4 Kamal Kumar with regard to manner in which incident took place, is under cloud, it cannot be said beyond doubt that these injuries were also caused by accused persons. Therefore accused are also liable to be acquitted under Section 323 IPC.

69 In view of above discussion, on the basis of evidence on record, we are of the considered view that prosecution has failed to prove charges against the accused under Sections 302, 323, 326-A and 201 IPC. However, there is evidence on record proving beyond the shadow of doubt that accused persons have committed offences punishable under Sections 448 and 506 IPC.

70 Accused persons were arrested on 8.5.2014. Accused Ram Pyari was released on bail on 20.10.2014, whereas accused Vijay Kumar remained in custody till 27.8.2016 and accused Balak Ram is in jail till date. Keeping in view the entirety of facts and circumstances and also that accused Ram Pyari is 55 years old, it would be appropriate to sentence them for imprisonment for a period they already undergone. The amount of fine imposed upon accused Balak Ram while sentencing him under Sections 302 and 326-A of Indian Penal Code, if already deposited, shall be refunded to him against proper receipt. The accused persons, however, are sentenced to pay fine of Rs 1000/- each for the commission of offence punishable under Section 448 of Indian Penal Code and Rs.3000/- each under Section 506 of Indian Penal Code.

71 Both the appeals are partly allowed in aforesaid terms. Bail bonds furnished by accused Vijay Kumar and Ram Pyari are discharged. Accused Balak Ram, if his custody is not required in any other case, shall be released from custody forthwith. Release warrant be prepared accordingly. Record of the trial Court be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.

Gorkha Ram, a convict (hereinafter referred to as the accused) is in appeal before this Court. He is aggrieved by the judgment dated 17.8.2017 passed by learned Special Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala in Sessions Case No. 41-D/VII of 2016, whereby he has been convicted for the commission of offence punishable under Section 5(m) and 5(n) of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 (hereinafter referred to as "POCSO Act" in short) and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of 10 years and also to pay a fine of Rs. 20,000/-.

2. A case, vide FIR No. 9 of 2016 dated 9.7.2016 came to be registered against the accused on the basis of an application Ext. PW-14/A made by PW-6 Komal Parihar, allegedly Health Worker in "Jagori" a NGO, PW-4 Asha, Para Legal Volunteer and one Raveena, amicus curaie to President, Child Welfare Committee Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P. A copy thereof was also forwarded to Ms. Shalini Agnihotri, Addl. Superintendent of Police, Kangra at Dharamshala. The Addl. Superintendent of Police forwarded the same to Women Police Station, Dharamshala for registration of the case against the accused. The allegations, in a nut shell, against the accused are that PW-6 Komal Parihar was apprized in the meeting of Mahila Mandal at Bhali on 25.6.2016 by some women of the village present there that the accused had been torturing mentally and physically his minor daughters after the death of his wife. The accused allegedly tried to develop physical relations with his elder daughter. In order to verify such allegations when she went on 8.7.2016 to the house of the accused, his elder daughter, the victim herein told that on that day also, she was beaten up by her father and during night time, he used to do wrong acts with her. She also came to know that cries of the minor girls could be heard every day from the house of the accused. PW-7 Rekha Devi, Aunt (Tai) of the minor girls allegedly disclosed to PW-6 Komal Parihar that the accused under the influence of liquor had been exploiting his minor daughters, mentally and physically.

3. On registration of the FIR Ext. PW-14/B, SI Kiran Bala, I.O., Women Cell, Dharamshala has conducted the investigation. On the application Ext. PW-1/A she moved, the medical examination of the victim(s) was conducted by PW-1 Dr. Manju. She issued the MLCs Ext. PW-1/B, PW-1/C and PW-1/D. The statement of the victim was recorded and photographed also vide CD Ext. PY. The statements of PW-4 Asha Ext. PW-14/C and PW-6 Komal Parihar under Section 161 Cr.P.C. were also recorded. The accused was arrested on that very day and got subjected to medical examination qua which application Ext. PW-10/A was made to the Medical Officer, Zonal Hospital, Dharamshala. The MLC is Ext. PW-10/B. The articles preserved by PW-1 Dr. Manju and PW-10 Dr. Kulbhushan Sharma, for scientific investigation were deposited with MHC Police Station Dharamshala. The site plan Ext. PW-14/D was also prepared in the presence of PW-4 Asha, LC Sonia and PW-7 Rekha Devi. In their presence, a local mattress (Khind) was also taken into possession vide seizure memo Ext. PW-4/A. The supplementary statement of PW-4 Asha Ext. PW-14/E was also recorded. Photograph Ext. PW-4/C-1 was also clicked by the I.O with her cell phone. On the demarcation given by the accused, memo Ext. PW-9/E was prepared. The photograph Ext. PW-4/C-2 was also clicked by the I.O. Site plan Ext. PW-14/E was prepared. On the same day i.e. 11.7.2016, PW-14 SI Kiran Bala has made an application with a prayer to record the statement of the victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and on the basis thereof, learned JMIC (I), Dharamshala has recorded her statement Ext. PW-5/A. The case property was forwarded to Forensic Science Laboratory for analysis. On the receipt of report of Chemical Examiner ( Ext. PX) and on completion of the investigation, report under Section 173 Cr.P.C. was filed against the accused.

4. Learned trial Judge, on appreciating the police report and documents annexed thereto and finding a case under Section 5(m) and 5(n) of the POCSO Act made out against the accused, framed charge against him accordingly. The accused, however, pleaded not guilty and claimed trial. The prosecution, as such, has produced the evidence in support of the charge so framed against the accused.

5. The material prosecution witnesses are victim of the occurrence PW-5 (name withheld), PW-4 Asha, Para Legal Volunteer, PW-6 Komal Parihar, Health Worker in “Jagori”, Raveena (not examined) and PW-7 Rekha Devi. The remaining prosecution witnesses are PW-1 Dr. Manju who has conducted the medical examination of all the three minors, including the victim, PW-10 Dr. Kulbhushan Sharma who has medically examined the accused, PW-11 Dr. Surender Kumar, Asstt. Director, RFSL, Dharamshala who has proved the report Ext. PX. PW-2 Harshvardhan Vaidya is the Chairman, Child Welfare Committee and PW-3 Ramesh Mastana is the Coordinator. The remaining witnesses are police officials, hence formal.

6. Learned trial Judge, on appreciation of the oral as well as the documentary evidence produced by the prosecution and hearing learned Public Prosecutor as well as learned defence counsel has concluded that the prosecution case against the accused stands established beyond all reasonable doubt. He, as such, has been convicted and sentenced as pointed out at the outset.

7. The legality and validity of the impugned judgment has been questioned on the grounds inter alia that there is no iota of evidence to suggest the involvement of the accused in the commission of the offence. The impugned judgment, on the other hand, is based on conjectures, surmises and hypothesis. The evidence as has come on record by way of testimony of PW-4 to PW-7 is stated to be wrongly appreciated which has resulted in miscarriage of justice to the accused. When PW-1 Dr. Manju on the basis of clinical examination of the victim she conducted had not noticed any injury on her face, chest and abdomen, in pubic region, labia majora and there being no finding of penetrative sexual assault, the findings to the contrary are stated to be not legally sustainable. PW-7 Rekha Devi allegedly is not trustworthy, being inimical to the accused as per her own admission.

In case, the victims' were being tortured physically and mentally by the accused (their father), why this witness has not reported the matter either to police or complained to the local residents. The statement of PW-5 victim, could have not been relied upon because after the registration of FIR on 9.7.2016, the accused was arrested and she remained in the custody of PW-4 Asha and PW-6 Komal Parihar. Therefore, the possibility of the victim being tutored by them cannot be ruled out. It has also been pointed out that in a case of this nature, it is not safe to place reliance on the testimony of a child witness. The prosecution, as such, is stated to have failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt, hence, the accused deserves to be acquitted of the charge framed against him.

8. Against this backdrop, while Mr. Lakshay Thakur, Advocate, learned defence counsel has sought the impugned judgment to be quashed and set aside, learned Addl. Advocate General has come forward with the version that the impugned judgment, being well reasoned and based upon cogent and reliable evidence produced by the prosecution calls for no interference.

9. The machinery has been set into motion by PW-6 Komal Parihar, who claims herself to be a volunteer of 'Jagori', a NGO. Whether any NGO, namely 'Jagori' exists and is a registered body, there is no evidence on record. As a matter of fact, in normal course, a NGO is required to be registered and acts to the knowledge and notice of the Government department, such like Women and Social Welfare and Social Justice and Empowerment which generally remains in touch with welfare of the people. Therefore, any NGO, namely 'Jagori' in existence is not at all proved.

10. The very first version qua the alleged sexual assault committed by the accused on his own daughter finds mention in the application Ext. PW-14/A submitted by PW-6 Komal Parihar, the so called Health Worker of "Jagori", PW-4 Asha, Para Legal Volunteer and one Raveena allegedly (Nyay Sakhi) an amicus curiae to Chairman, Child Welfare Committee, Kangra District. As per this document, it is PW-6 Komal Parihar, who for the first time came to know about the physical and mental harassment of the victim and her sisters by their father, the accused in the meeting of Mahila Mandal Bhali on 25.6.2016 from its members (women of village Bhali). Since the meeting of Mahila Mandal must be a regular feature during each and every month, therefore, it can reasonably be believed that PW-6 Komal Parihar was knowing the names etc. of those members of Mahila Mandal. She, however, did not disclose their names in the application Ext. PW-14/A. Therefore, it remains mystery as to who were those women of Village Bhali and members of Mahila Mandal, who disclosed the alleged mal-treatment and sexual exploitation of the victim and her sisters by the accused to PW-6 Komal Parihar. In case said PW-6 Komal Parihar was present in the meeting of Mahila Mandal on that day at Bhali, and the victims were residing in the same village, she would have met them and taken the stock of the situation at their house and verified the allegations of their mal-treatment by the accused. As per this document, PW-6 Komal Parihar went to Bhali to the house of accused on 8.7.2016. Though on the reverse of this document she allegedly informed PW-4 Asha and Raveena over cell phone and they also came to Village Bhali to the house of the accused, however, this part of the application seems to be introduced later on because the first part of the application gives a clear indication that Asha and Raveena were not there and it is rather PW-6 Komal Parihar who alone had gone to the house of the accused at Village Bhali on that day. Nothing has come in this document that the accused had been opening the trouser of the victim and used to kiss as well as lick private part of the victim. Therefore, if the contents of the application Ext. PW-14/A are believed to be true, the has victim only revealed to PW-6 Komal Parihar that her father had been beating her and doing wrong act with her during every night. This document also introduces another prosecution witness PW-7 Rekha Devi. She as per the record is none else but the wife of the step brother of the accused. She allegedly disclosed before PW-6 Komal Parihar that the accused under the influence of liquor had been exploiting his daughters physically and also mentally on each and every day. Therefore, Rekha revealed something new which the victim had not disclosed to PW-6 Komal Parihar. The application Ext. PW-14/A perhaps was closed with a request to the Chairman, Child Welfare Committee, Kangra to save all the three minor girls from their mal-treatment by initiating proceedings in accordance with law in the matter at once on its first page and as noticed supra, the second part of this application on its reverse that PW-6 Komal Parihar informed PW-4 Asha and Raveena also and that they reached at Village Bhali is an afterthought, may be with malafide intention to create false evidence.

11. PW-6 allegedly came to know about the torture and maltreatment as well as sexual abuse of the victim (PW-5) by none else but her father in a meeting of Mahila Mandal in Village Bhali from some women present there. She, however, has not disclosed the names of those women. It has also not been proved that on what date, month and time the Mahila Mandal meeting was convened. PW-6 Komal Parihar has also not disclosed the names of those women. As per the normal human conduct, had she been present in the meeting, she would have been in the knowledge of the names of those women or if not, should have tried to ascertain their names so that being a social activist, she would have been in a position to give authentic information qua the so called torturing to the authorities, including the police. She having not disclosed the names of so called women from whom she came to know about the torturing of the victim, including her sexual harassment by the accused, this part of the prosecution story seems to be false.

12. Otherwise also, on 8.7.2016 when PW-6 Komal Parihar went to the house of the victim at village Bhali and enquired from the victim about the plaster/band aid in her leg, she revealed that her father had beaten her with burning firewood when she could not manage to cook the food on account of wet firewood. Also that, on an occasion, he had assaulted her with the lid of cooker and he had been pressurizing her to cook food. Had she been beaten up and tortured, she should have stated that also in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. Therefore, the statement of PW-6 Komal Parihar, the so called volunteer of NGO, that the accused on one occasion had administered beatings to her with burning firewood and on another with lid of cooker and was also pressurizing and terrorizing her as and when found to have not cooked food by her, hardly inspire any confidence. Even nothing of the sort the victim has stated in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. Above all, when on 9.7.2016, the victim was taken to hospital after registration of the FIR and arrest of her father for medical examination, no injury could be detected on her person as is apparent from the perusal of the MLC Ext. PW-1/B. There is nothing in the statement of PW-6 Komal Parihar that the victim had also revealed that her father, the accused rubs his penis with her vagina and also kisses her vagina. As per the statement of PW-6 Komal Parihar, rather it is Rekha PW-7 who revealed that on the previous night the victim and her sisters when tortured by their father, the accused, were crying loudly. Also that, the accused had been committing the alleged immoral act with his daughter, the victim. Although, as per PW-6 Komal Parihar, she got verified the facts so disclosed by PW-7 Rekha from the victim and she admitted the same as correct. Yet, had it been so, the victim should have revealed to PW-6 Komal Parihar at that very moment when she apprized her about the alleged mal treatment and torturing at the hands of her father, the accused.

13. Now, if coming to the statement of the victim Ext. PW-5/A recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., the accused had been opening the zip of his pants and touching his Penis and tongue with her vagina. Such, however, was not her version before PW-6 Komal

Parihar on 8.7.2016 when she visited the house of the accused to meet the victims at Village Bhali. Such version of the victim in Ext. PW-5/A in the considered opinion of this Court is tutored one. Now, if coming to the statement of the victim while in the witness-box, she tells us that the accused had been rubbing his private part with her private part during night. Therefore, there are three different versions of her alleged exploitation given by the victim i.e. first as in the application Ext. PW-14/A; second in her statement Ext. PW-5/A recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and third in her statement recorded while in the witness-box as PW-5. Above all, PW-5 a minor aged approximately 9 years at the relevant time, is not expected to speak the language deployed in the statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. (Ext. PW-5/A). A girl of her age can only speak so if tutored by someone and the degree of the tutoring is also very high. According to her, two volunteers of the so called NGO were accompanying her on that day to the Court. Therefore, it is doubtful that she had made such statement voluntarily and without any undue influence. There is another aspect that the statement of the victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was got recorded on 11.7.2016 i.e. after the arrest of the accused in this case on 9.7.2016. Had she been residing in the company of her father, the possibility of tutoring her could have been ruled out. The statement, therefore, when recorded at a stage when her father was already taken into custody, the possibility of she being minor girl, could have been motivated in one way or the other being ignorant of the consequences of such statement, including that in case any such statement is made by her against the accused none else but her father, what would be the implications thereof cannot be ruled out. Any such girl cannot also be expected to understand the values of relations i.e. between father and a daughter and on being allured for petty things like sweets, toys, shoes or dress may fall prey to it and depose in a particular manner and fashion as required by the person motivating the minor to make a particular statement of his/her choice.

14. Though, as per the version of the victim in her cross-examination, she was not tutored either by PW-4 Asha or PW-6 Komal Parihar at any point of time, however, her admission that they were present in the Court the day when her statement Ext. PW-5/A under Section 164 Cr.P.C. recorded and on the day of her examination in the Court also, it can reasonably be believed that some sort of tutoring was there because otherwise a girl of tender age i.e. 10 years old on the day when appeared as a witness in the Court and approximately 9 years when allegedly assaulted mentally and physically by the accused, cannot be accepted to have an understanding to recognize the private parts like Penis or vagina or making such statement as one can expect either from an adult or at least a girl having attained the age of discretion.

15. Interestingly enough, the entire family comprising the accused, the victim and her two sisters as well as grandmother used to reside in a single room. The victim has admitted in the cross-examination that her grandmother lived with them in that very room till the arrest of her father, the accused. How, it was possible for the accused to have assaulted his own daughter that too in the presence of his mother in the manner as claimed by the prosecution is not understandable. Above all, the mother of the accused who may have thrown some light qua this aspect of the matter has not been examined as a witness by the prosecution for the reasons best known to it nor even associated also in the investigation of the case.

16. Not only this, but PW-4 Asha had also given different version qua the manner in which the accused had allegedly been assaulting the victim, as it has come in her statement Ext. PW-14/C recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that when she met the victim at Village Bhali, the latter told her that her father, the accused had been touching her private parts and simultaneously enjoying sex by way of masturbation (हस्तमैथुन) (to enjoy sex otherwise than in natural way). It was not even the case of the prosecution also nor anyone, including the victim has stated so during the course of investigation. Even PW-4 Asha has also not stated so while in the witness-box.

17. It is worthwhile to mention here that the evidence as has come on record by way of the testimony of PW-7 Rekha Devi, the aunt (Tai) of the victim is altogether contrary to the prosecution case because nothing has come during the course of the investigation of the case that the victim used to weep on the "Samadhi" of her deceased mother and that PW-7 Rekha Devi noticed injury on her private part at one occasion when she had been urinating and that on asking from the victim about the injury she revealed that her father had been kissing her private part and also inserting his finger therein. PW-7 Rekha Devi, therefore, has introduced a new story. If her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. available in the police record is seen, it has come therein that the accused in the courtyard of the house had been touching his daughters in a highly objectionable manner which looked very bad to her. She, however, said nothing of the sort when examined in the witness box as PW-7. Nothing is also there in the prosecution case that the accused had been insisting the victim to sleep with him and making his two other minor daughters to sleep separately as has come in the statement of PW-7 Rekha Devi. This witness in her cross-examination tells us that her husband was born to her father-in-law from the second marriage. Also that they have only one house in which one room is with the accused and the other with her and that the courtyard is common. They both used to quarrel with each other and the Panchayat also visited their house when the accused quarreled with her. The version of PW-7 Rekha Devi, therefore, amply demonstrates that her relations with the accused were not cordial and rather inimical. Not only this, but she tells us that her mother-in-law started residing with her only since last one month, meaning thereby that earlier she had been residing with the accused and his daughters in the same room which is in his share. Although, she denied the suggestion that she deposed falsely against the accused, yet the possibility of her doing so cannot be ruled out because after the implication of the accused in this case and removal of his daughters to shelter home, it is she who had to enjoy the house. The possibility of there being no Mahila Mandal at Village Bhali cannot be ruled out because had it been so, it is Pradhan or any other office bearer who would have been associated in the investigation of this case. The registration number of such Mahila Mandal with the Department of Women and Child Welfare would also have been obtained and produced in evidence. The close scrutiny of the statement of PW-7 Rekha Devi, therefore, renders the entire prosecution story highly doubtful.

18. Now, if coming to the statement of PW-4 Asha to the effect that she had visited Village Bhali along with PW-6 Komal Parihar on 27.6.2016, is highly doubtful as it is not recorded so in the application Ext. PW-14/A. As discussed hereinabove, she did not at all visit Village Bhali along with PW-6 Komal Parihar and the story to this effect was introduced later on as is apparent from the trend of the contents of application Ext. PW-14/A. Her version that PW-6 Komal Parihar came to know from the ladies in the meeting of Mahila Mandal at Village Bhali qua sexual exploitation of the victim being hearsay is of no help to the prosecution case. PW-4 Asha having visited Village Bhali on 8.7.2016 on being informed by the so called shop keeper that the victim and her sisters had returned to their house is also doubtful for the reasons recorded hereinabove. Who was that shopkeeper requested by them to inform that as and when the girls return to their house is not proved on record, being not examined. Above all, a different story to the effect that when they met with the victim at the house of the accused, she was found to have applied bandage on her right leg and on enquiry she revealed that her father had beaten her with burning wood, is also introduced by this witness while in the witness-box. The story of the alleged torturing of the victim on account of not cooking food is also false and concocted one. PW-4 Asha when confronted in her cross-examination admitted that nothing to the sort that they had given their cell number to the shop keeper finds mention in their statements Ext. D-1 and D-2 recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

19. PW-7 Rekha Devi referred to by PW-4 Asha in her statement has already been termed as an inimical witness for the reasons recorded hereinabove. It appears that in order to implicate the accused in this case falsely is the part and parcel of illegal designs of PW-4 Asha, PW-7 Rekha Devi and PW-6 Komal Parihar. The version of PW-4 Asha in her cross-examination that in the house comprising two rooms, in one room the accused was residing whereas in another his mother is again contrary to the factual position because as per the prosecution evidence itself, in one room the accused was residing with his mother and children whereas in another PW-7 Rekha Devi and her family. It was suggested to her by the defence that on 8.7.2016, the accused had lodged missing report of his daughters in Police Post Kotla and that he even visited Women Police Station, Dharamshala also on that day, she expressed her ignorance. Since, she has not denied the suggestion so given, therefore, such a plea raised by the accused in his defence appears to be nearer to the factual position. According to PW-6 Komal Parihar, the record of this case has not been maintained. When it has come in the statement of PW-4 Asha that the record qua the cases discovered by the volunteers of "Jagori" is being maintained, it is not understandable as to why the same was not maintained nor produced in the Court. Though, the suggestion that the record was not maintained because the victim did not disclose anything qua her sexual exploitation is denied being wrong, however, this alone seems to be the apparent reason of not maintaining the record of this case by the so called NGO "Jagori". It is quite possible that PW-4 Asha and for that matter PW-6 Komal Parihar were afraid of taking a legal action by the accused for leveling false allegations of sexual exploitation against him and as such the possibility that in order to save their skin, he has been implicated falsely in this case cannot be ruled out.

20. PW-6 Komal Parihar, the so called Health Worker, is also not dependable because on leveling of such serious allegations by the women in the meeting of Mahila Mandal at Bhali, she even did not care to ascertain the names of those women so that they could have been associated by the police during the course of investigation. Above all, such women as per her version had levelled such allegations indirectly against the accused. The story that those women disclosed about swelling of private part of one of the girl child of the accused, has come for the first time in her statement as nothing to the sort is there in the prosecution case. Since PW-7 Rekha Devi had allegedly seen injury in the private part of the victim as discussed supra, therefore, PW-6 Komal Parihar and PW-7 Rekha Devi seem to be the mastermind to frame the accused in this case falsely. Her statement that they went to the house of the accused where his daughters were not available and given their cell phone to the shopkeeper is again false as already discussed hereinabove in this judgment. As per PW-4 Asha, it is she who received the call from the so called shop keeper whereas as per PW-6 Komal Parihar, it is she who had received the telephonic call. According to her, it is she alone who had gone to Bhali as has come in Ext. PW-14/A. Meaning thereby that the prosecution story qua PW-4 Asha and Reena had also come there on the call she made is false as already discussed. The story that the victim was found to have applied bandage in her leg due to the injury she received allegedly by way of her beatings with burning wood is also discarded while discussing the evidence to this effect having come on record by way of testimony of PW-4 Asha. It is already said that the implication of the accused in this case appears to be the handy work of the trio i.e. PW-4 Asha, PW-6 Komal Parihar and PW-7 Rekha Devi, therefore, it is not desirable to refer to the evidence that Rekha informed this witness about the torturing of the victim and her sisters by the accused any further. In her cross-examination, it is admitted by PW-6 Komal Parihar that she had gone to District Jail, Dharamshala to meet the accused to know as to how his daughters have to be kept in the house, however, denied that she had arguments with the accused there. It is also denied that she told the accused to give his younger daughter to someone known to her and that in lieu thereof, she may help him in this case and also that on this heated exchanges had taken place between them is also though denied being wrong, however, when she admits her visit to the jail to meet the accused, the possibility of all this having taken place cannot be ruled out. They were informed by the shopkeeper, however, according to PW-6 Komal Parihar, his name was not known to her is surprising to note. Why she had not maintained the record of the proceedings of this case, she failed to explain. When as per her admission, all the three daughters of accused were brought to Dharamshala, their medical examination was got conducted, nothing including injury on their person was detected during such examination. She admitted that no enquiry was made from the local residents about the maltreatment of the minor girls by their father. When she tells us that all the ladies present in the meeting of Mahila Mandal were saying so, it is not understandable as to why she did not disclose so to the police during the course of investigation. When PW-7 Rekha Devi herself admits enmity with the accused and they both had been quarrelling with each other, to deny the suggestion that PW-7 Rekha Devi had given a false statement to her is contrary to the factual position.

21. Now, if coming to the medical evidence as has come on record by way of testimony of PW-1 Dr. Manju, when as per the findings she recorded in the MLC that there were no injuries on the face, chest, abdomen, pubic region and labia majora nor any active bleeding as well as hymn was intact, coupled with the factum of there being no allegation of penetrative sexual assault made, how this witness has ruled that there is possibility of unnatural sexual assault having been committed upon the victim, remained unexplained. According to her, the opinion so given was based upon physical examination of the victim, she conducted. In her cross-examination, it is admitted that there was no evidence of penetrative sexual assault having been committed upon the girls, including the victim. Even if it is believed that there was redness in labia minora, there is admission on the part of PW-1 Dr. Manju that such injury is possible in case of itching having been done by the victim herself. Therefore, such evidence is suggestive of that the redness in labia minora of the victim was not due to the sole reason of the accused rubbed or kissed her vagina and there may be other reason therefor. The possibility of the opinion is not based on subjective satisfaction of PW-1 Dr. Manju in the given facts and circumstances of this case, therefore, cannot be ruled out. The medical evidence, as such, is not suggestive of that the accused committed penetrative sexual assault upon the victim and is guilty for the commission of the offence punishable under Section 5(m) and 5(n) of the POCSO Act. It is worthwhile to mention here that the report under Section 173 Cr.P.C. was filed against the accused with a prayer to convict and sentence him for the commission of the offence punishable under Section 8 of the POCSO Act. The sentence prescribed against an offender under Section 8 of the Act is imprisonment which shall not be less than 3 years but may extend to 5 years. Learned Special Judge has, however, framed the charge under Section 5(m) and 5(n) of the POCSO Act i.e commission of penetrative sexual assault by him being father of the victim. Section 5 of the POCSO Act deals with aggravated penetrative sexual assault. It is nobody's case that the accused had committed penetrative sexual assault upon the victim because even she herself has nowhere stated either in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. (Ext. PW-5/A) or in the another while in the witness box that the accused ever penetrated his penis in her vagina. In the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of the victim recorded by the Investigating Officer, she, however, has completely ruled out the penetrative sexual assault. The allegations, as has come on record by way of her testimony that he had been opening the zip of his pants and taking out his penis and after kissing her private part (vagina) and rubbing his penis also has already been discarded being wrong because, no such statement was made by her either to the police or to PW-6 Komal Parihar till she was not in the custody of the said witness and also PW-4 Asha and also Raveena on 8.7.2016 when they allegedly visited the house of the accused and met the girls, including the victim there. FIR was registered on the next date i.e. 9.7.2016 and the accused was also arrested on that day itself. It is after that the kissing and rubbing his penis with vagina was introduced in her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. i.e on 9.7.2016 and the statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. Ext. PW-5/A, though un-dated, however, the application Ext. PW-14/F filed in the Court for recording the same on 19.7.2016. In the considered opinion of this Court, the victim was tutored after being removed from the custody of father on 8.7.2016 and the statement Ext. PW-5/A is the result thereof. Why, PW-4 Asha and PW-6 Komal Parihar conducted themselves in such a manner, though no apparent reason thereof is on record, however, plea raised by the accused in his defence as emerges from the trend of cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses that they did so because he refused to give his younger daughter to someone else at their behest and on being threatened by him to be sued on account of managed to register a case with false allegations against them seems to be nearer to the factual position. Even, PW-4 Asha has introduced a new story of masturbation while kissing and touching vagina of the victim because such allegations were not there in the application (Ext. PW-14/A) nor anyone else stated so while in the witness-box.

22. The close scrutiny of the evidence in the manner as aforesaid, amply demonstrate that the prosecution has falsely implicated the accused in this case and thereby not only tarnished the reputation of the accused, who happens to be the father of the victim, but also put a question mark on the pious relations between father and a daughter. On the other hand, the prosecution story in the opinion of this Court has been engineered and fabricated to implicate the accused in this case falsely.

23. In a case having more or less identical facts, the Apex Court in Sham Singh vs. The State of Haryana, Cr. Appeal No. 544 of 2018, decided on 21.8.2018, has held that the accused cannot subject the prosecutrix to sexual intercourse in his own house that too in the presence of his wife, children, mother and sister. Therefore, the Apex Court while setting aside the findings of conviction recorded against the accused has acquitted him of the charge under Section 376 (2) (g), 342 and 506 IPC, while arriving at a conclusion that the case was engineered and fabricated on account of enmity of the parents of the prosecutrix with that of the family of the accused, none else but her cousin. In that case also, the two families used to quarrel and like the case in hand even Panchayat was also called. In the case in hand also, the possibility of the accused having been booked falsely cannot be ruled out.

24. In a Division Bench judgment authored by one of us (Justice Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.) on 22.9.2017 in Cr. Appeal No. 31 of 2017, titled Vivek Singh vs. State of Himachal Pradesh having more or less similar allegations against the father that he has assaulted sexually his own daughter aged 2 years, it has been observed as under:

> "35. Before parting, we would be failing in our duty if not point out that overall conduct of the Investigating Agency which has implicated the accused in a false case on the basis of highly interested evidence i.e. the only statement of complainant who was not only inimical to the accused but also to other members of his family. Her mother PW-2 Chino Devi, though helped her daughter, the complainant in getting the accused booked falsely, however, unsuccessfully. Anyhow, we leave it open to high ups in police department to take steps as warranted to sensitize the officers/I.Os so that any such instance does not reoccur.

> 36. Learned trial Judge has also failed to appreciate the evidence in its right perspective and swayed only by the severity of the allegations and the alleged incident of rape with a minor below to years of age by none else but allegedly her father. Since the allegations levelled against the accused were highly sensitive having repercussions in the society as a whole, an onerous duty was cast upon learned trial Judge to have examined the given facts and circumstances of the case and also evidence available on record with all circumspection and more care and caution. Due to such an approach in the matter, pious relations between a father and daughter got tarnished. We hope and trust that in a case of this nature, the Investigators, Prosecutors and Adjudicators shall discharge their respective duties in the light of the principles we settled in this judgment and also in accordance with law. With the above observations, the appeal is finally disposed of."

25. In a case where the daughter-in-law had levelled allegations of her ravishment sexually by none else but her father-in-law, Cr. Appeal No. 96 of 2016, titled Baldev Singh vs. State of H.P., decided recently on 26.11.2018 by one of us (Justice Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.) while in Single Bench has observed as under:

> "27. .....If not shocking, it is painful to point out that in order to implicate father-in-law falsely without caring that what will be the repercussions thereof in the public at large, the FIR was registered after due deliberation to the reasons best known to the prosecutrix and her father.
>
> .....
>
> 31. Therefore, the close scrutiny of the evidence, in the manner as aforesaid amply demonstrates that the prosecutrix and for that matter her father to the reasons best known to them have implicated falsely the accused in this case and thereby if not totally destroyed the social fibre has certainly weakened it and also put a big question mark on the pious relations between a father-in-law and daughter-in-law. Additionally, the prosecution story which in the opinion o this Court has been engineered and fabricated has culminated in a discussion that a father-in-law can also assault sexually his own daughter-in-law."

26. Similar are the facts of the case in hand because PW-7 Rekha Devi is 'Bhabhi', that too not the wife of real brother but that of step brother of accused, hence may be interested in getting rid of the accused by implicating him in a false case so that she could have enjoyed his property and house also. She seems to have been assisted by PW-4 Asha and PW-6 Komal Parihar in fulfilling her illegal design.

27. We find the present also a case where the Investigating Agency has not made any effort to conduct investigation from different angle to rule out the possibility of false implication of accused before filing the report under Section 173 Cr.P.C. in the Court. The investigation rather has been conducted in a casual and routine manner to implicate the accused in this case by hook and crook. This Court, on noticing such type of faulty investigation and glaring discrepancies in some matters in the recent past though proceeded to close the same by leaving it open to the respondent-State/high ups in the Police Department to take remedial steps, including imparting training to the Investigating Officers so that only the truth and nothing beyond the truth is brought to the Court keeping in mind that if true facts alone are brought to the Court without there being any padding, improvements and discrepancies, the conviction rate may considerably increase. However, it appears that such observations either have been ignored or not given much importance and as a result thereof there is no improvement in the standard of investigation. We, therefore, now direct the respondent-State/Police Department as well as Prosecution Department through learned Advocate General, State of Himachal Pradesh to take remedial steps such as imparting training to the Investigators/Prosecutors and all other duty holders. In case the mechanism to provide the training is not available, the machinery and infrastructure available with the Himachal Pradesh Judicial Academy can be pressed into service. We feel that the training in right direction to all dutyholders can improve the standard of investigation and would facilitate to achieve the goal of fair trial, a Constitutional right of an accused.

28. The learned trial Court also seems to have swayed merely by passion in view of the involvement of the accused in a case not only heinous but also grievous in nature, however, without caring to ascertain the genuineness and authenticity of the allegations levelled against him on appreciation of the evidence with all care, caution and circumspection, otherwise may have persuaded itself to take a view contrary to the one taken in the impugned judgment. As a matter of fact, the evidence produced by the prosecution in this case has not been appreciated in its right perspective. The present rather is a case where the prosecution has failed to prove its case against the accused beyond all reasonable doubt.

29. Being so, the findings recorded against the accused are neither legally nor factually sustainable. The impugned judgment, as such, does not stand the test of judicial scrutiny, hence, deserves to be quashed and set aside.

30. In view of what has been said hereinabove, this appeal succeeds and the same is accordingly allowed. Consequently, the impugned judgment is quashed and set aside and the accused is acquitted of the charge framed under Section 5(m) and 5(n) of the POCSO Act. He presently is undergoing sentence, therefore, if not required in any other case, be set free forthwith. The release warrant be prepared accordingly. The fine amount as imposed upon the accused, if deposited, shall be refunded to him against proper receipt.

Before parting, we shall be failing in our duty if not discus and pass appropriate orders qua the fate of three minor daughters of the accused, who on account of this case and as per the record have been lodged in a shelter home. The accused, after his release from the jail, consequent upon this judgment may stake his claim qua their custody, being their father and only natural guardian. Our apprehension, however, is that he may be inimical if not against two younger daughters, at least against the elder one, the victim in this case. Therefore, in the event of the custody of his minor daughters is required by the accused, he shall file an application in this regard in the trial Court. The application, if so filed, shall be considered and decided by learned trial Judge in accordance with law after affording an opportunity of being heard to his minor daughters through Court Guardian, which is left open to be appointed by learned trial Judge. We hope and trust that in the event of the custody of the minor daughters of the accused being entrusted to him, the paramount consideration with learned trial Judge would be their welfare alone and nothing beyond it.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Managing Director, HRTC, Shimla & another .....Appellants.
Versus
Shweta Thakur & Others .....Respondents.

FAO No. 445 of 2018
Decided on: 13.11.2018

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 - Section 166- Motor accident - Claim application- Compensation- Assessment- Claims Tribunal allowing application of claimants and awarding compensation including compensation of Rs.1,00,000/- towards loss of consortium to widow and Rs.1,00000/- towards loss of love and affection to children - Appeal- Held- Tribunal wrongly awarded aforesaid sums under conventional heads- Compensation towards loss of consortium and loss of love and affection brought down in consonance with National Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ, 2700. Appeal partly allowed- Award modified (Paras 3, 8 & 9).

For the Appellants: Mr. G.S Rathour, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Ms. Devyani Sharma, Advocate, for respondents No. 1 to 4.
None for respondent No.5.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant appeal, is, directed against the award of 14.6.2017, pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal (III), Circuit Court at Amb, District Una, H.P. in M.A.C Petition No. 11 of 2016, whereunder, an apt indemnificatory liability stands fastened, upon, the appellants, to, pay compensation amount constituted in a sum of Rs.66,12,461/- alongwith interest @ 9% per annum, from the date of filing the petition till its deposit, vis-a-vis, the claimants'/ respondents No. 1,3 and 4 herein.

2. The learned counsel for the appellants, has contested the validity, of, the findings returned, upon, the issue appertaining, to, the relevant mishap being caused, by the rash, and, negligent manner, of, driving, of, the offending vehicle, by its driver/respondent No.5 herein. In making the aforesaid submission, he relies upon the testimony rendered by the driver of the offending vehicle. However, the aforesaid submission cannot be accepted, as, an ocular witness to the occurrence, one Naresh Kumar (PW-4), rather stepped into the witness box, and, has rendered an apt version, wherewithin echoings occur, qua the relevant mishap standing sparked by the rash, and, negligent manner, of, driving, of, the offending vehicle, by its driver/respondent No.5 herein. Further more, with the apt FIR proven by PW-2 Shri Saveen Kumar, rather unraveling therein, ascription, of, an apt incriminatory role vis-a-vis driver/ respondent No.3, of, the offending vehicle, thereupon the non-lodging of FIR, by, the driver of the offending vehicle also rather disables him to render a testification contradictory therewith.

3. However, the learned counsel for the appellants, submits that the assessment, of, compensation made by the learned tribunal, under the heads; loss of consortium, vis-a-vis, the widow of the deceased, and, under the head of loss of love and affection, besides, under the head funeral expenses, respectively, quantified in a sum of Rs.

1,00,000/-; Rs.1,00,000/ and Rs. 25,000/- rather falling in dis-concurrence with the mandate recorded by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case titled as National Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ, 2700.

4. The aforesaid submission has force, and, in consonance with the verdict supra, hence sum(s) of Rs. 1 lac , 1 lac and 25,000/- assessed, as, compensation under the heads "loss of love and affection", "loss of consortium" and "funeral expanses" is set aside. However, now at, the claimants are entitled to, under, conventional heads, namely, "funeral expense", and, "loss of estate" compensation amount borne in a sum of Rs. 15,000/- each and, the widow of the deceased is entitled to, under, conventional head, namely "consortium to wife", compensation amount(s) borne in a sum of Rs.40,000/-.

5. The learned counsel for respondents No.1 to 4, has also contended that the learned Tribunal has not meted, any, appropriate multiplier, upon, the figure of annual dependency, worked, vis-a-vis, the claimants. She submits that, despite, the matriculation certificate of the deceased, as, comprised in PW-6/C rather making a clear revelation qua the deceased hence being at the relevant time, aged 25 years, yet the learned Tribunal assessed his age at 26 years, and, accordingly has proceeded, to, mete an erroneous multiplier, to, the apt figure of annual dependency.

6. The aforesaid submission has vigor, and, with the age of the deceased in the extant case, and, at the relevant time, being evidently 25 years, thereupon, the compensation amount stands reworked as (a) after meteing of 50% apt increase vis-a-vis the figure of annual dependency i.e Rs.39159/- (last drawn salary of the deceased) + 19,579.5/- (50% of the last drawn salary)= Rs. 58738.8/- per month or say Rs.58700/-, thereupon the apt Annual income stands computed, as, Rs. 58700/- x 12= 7,04,400/-, (b) deducting 20 % towards income tax i.e Rs. 1,40,800/-, (c) the apposite remaining amount comes to Rs. 5,63,600/- and after deducting 1/3rd therefrom, towards personal expenses of the deceased, the, amount comes to Rs. 3,75,733/-. At the time of her death the deceased was aged 25 years, hence thereon, in consonance with the verdict of Hon'ble Apex Court in Sarla Verma and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another 2009(6) SCC 121, the proper multiplier, to be adopted, is 18. Adopting, hence, a, multiplier of 18, thereupon, the total loss of dependency, is calculated at Rs. 3,75,733 x 18 =67,63,194/-.

7. The afore re-assessing of multiplier, to, the figure of annual dependency, dehors, no appeal or cross objection being preferred by the claimants, vis-a-vis, the instant appeal preferred herebefore by the appellants stands anvilled, upon, a verdict rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court, in a judgment titled, as, United India Insurance Company Ltd. Versus Smt. Kulwant Kaur, reported in latest HLJ 2014 (HP) 174, (i) wherein a mandate is borne qua the appellate authority rather acting within ambit of apt jurisdiction, in, enhancing compensation, despite the claimants not questioning the adequacy of compensation.

8. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed and the award is modified to the extent above. Accordingly the claimants, are held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.67,63,194+Rs.40,000+Rs.15,000+ Rs.15,000 =Rs.68,33,194/- alongwith interest @ 7.5% per annum, from the date of filing of petition till realization of awarded amount. Compensation amount be apportioned amongst the claimants in the manner, as, made by the learned Tribunal.

9. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted against the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. Since the claimant/respondent No.4 herein is minor, hence the amount of compensation qua his share is ordered to be kept in the FDR drawn upon some nationalized bank till he attains majority All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

Decided on : 19.11.2018

Guardian & Wards Act, 1890 (Act)- Section 9- Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order VII Rule 11- Custody of Minor- Grant of- Territorial jurisdiction- Relevancy- Held- Only that Court has jurisdiction to pass order regarding custody of minor within whose local jurisdiction child is ordinarily residing- Trial Court ordering transfer of custody in favor of mother without first deciding objection of father whether child was ordinarily residing within its jurisdiction- Petition against- Petition allowed- Order set aside- Matter remanded with direction to Trial Court to first decide application of father filed under Order VII Rule 11 and then proceed further. (Paras 2 & 3)

For the Petitioner: Mr. Rajesh Kumar Parmar, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Ms. Anjana Khan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J (oral)

The instant petition stands directed, against, the impugned order pronounced by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Nalagarh (Exercising the Power of District Judge, under Guardian and Wards Act), District Solan, H.P., whereunder, the interim custody of the minor child namely Shivansh Yadav, was, till disposal of the main petition, ordered to be handed over to his natural guardian/respondent herein.

2. Without adverting to the merits of the case, the paramount fact, rather rests, upon, the anvil qua the petitioner herein, through casting an application before the learned Court below, hence therethrough seeking rejection of the plaint or return of the petition, to the Court holding the jurisdiction. The afore application was instituted or filed subsequent to the learned trial Court making the impugned decision upon the afore apposite application. Consequently, the learned trial Court was not enjoined to make any order thereon, before, its proceeding to make an affirmative decision, upon, Cr.M.A No. 304/6 of 2017. Conspicuously, dehors, the afore application standing filed subsequent to the impugned verdict, being recorded, the factum qua existence of a specific mandate, in Section 9 of the Guardian & Wards Act, 1890, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter, whereunder, upon ingredients thereof' being satiated, thereupon even the assumption, of, jurisdiction, upon, the apposite application, whereon the impugned order stood rendered, hence stood jurisdictionally stained.

> 9. Court having jurisdiction to entertain application -(1) If the application is with respect to the guardianship of the person of the minor it shall be made to the District Court having jurisdiction in the place where the minor ordinarily resides.
> (2). If the application is with respect to he guardianship of the property of the minor, it may be made either to the District Court having jurisdiction in the place where the minor ordinarily resides or to a District Court having jurisdiction in a place where he has property.

> (3). If application with respect to the guardianship of the property of a minor is made to a District Court other than that having jurisdiction in the place where the minor ordinarily resides, the Court may return the application if in its opinion the application would be disposed of more justly or conveniently by any other District Court having jurisdiction."

3. The learned trial Judge was hence enjoined to make discernments from the memo of parties qua, whether, the minor Shivansh Yadav, was, thereat residing or was ordinarily residing, within, the territorial jurisdiction, of, the Court located at Jhajjar. Nowat, the memo of parties, further, discloses that the minor Child, was, residing alongwith the petitioner at the matrimonial home, of, the respondent herein, and only on 11.11.2017, it stands averred in the application, qua the respondent herein, being exiled, from her matrimonial home, and, thereat the custody, of, the minor child rather being forcibly snatched from her by the petitioner herein. The afore averment, as, occurs in paragraph 3, of the petition, does prima-facie, discloses qua the minor child at the stage of meteing, of, an order upon the apposite application, rather ordinarily residing, within, the territorial jurisdiction, of, the Courts located at Jhajjar. Consequently, prima facie for jurisdictional disempowerment, the impugned order is hence quashed and set aside. The matter is remanded to th learned trial Court concerned, to, after making a decision, upon, an application, cast under the provisions of Order 7 Rule 11 CPC, to, thereafter, in case, it holds that the Court located at Nalagarh, holds jurisdiction, to, try the main petition, and, make a fresh decision, upon, the apposite application in accordance with law. The parties are directed to appear before the learned trial Court on 18.12.2018. Till a decision is rendered upon the afore petition, the petitioner shall continue to hold custody of the minor child. The learned trial Judge is censured for his making prima-facie, a, jurisdictionally void verdict.

All pending applications stand disposed of accordingly.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, J

This order will dispose of an application, cast under the provisions of Order 37 Rule 3 (5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, as, moved before this Court, by the defendants/applicants(hereinafter referred to as the "defendants"), wherethrough, they seek hence leave to defend the summary suit, instituted by the plaintiff/non-applicant (hereinafter referred to as the "plaintiff").

2. The plaintiff has instituted the instant suit, cast under the provisions of Order XXXVII, of the Code of Civil Procedure, seeking there-through, the, recovery of suit amount. An averment is embodied in the plaint, qua the plaintiff being a duly registered co-operative Society, registration whereof, is, entered at Sr. No. 687, in the apt records, maintained by the Registering Authority concerned. The plaint has been instituted by the duly authorized representative of the society. The suit has been drawn, on, anvil of cheque bearing No. 644323 of 6.6.2016, drawn on State Bank of India, Solan, embodying therein a sum of Rs. 45,50,000/-, cheque whereof, upon, its presentation before the Bank concerned, was refused to be honoured. Photocopy of the Cheque is appended with the plaint as Annexure P-3. In sequel thereto, the apt statutory notice was served, upon, the defendants. Notice whereof, is, borne in Annexure P-5, and, upon the defendants not meteing compliance thereto, a complaint embodied, in Annexure P-6, was, instituted before the Court of Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, (II), Solan. Clause (a) of Paragraph 5 of the plaint, details the amount(s) taken as loan, by the defendants, from the plaintiff.

3. Succinctly, the dishonored cheque borne in Annexure P-3, is, espoused to be carrying hence sum(s) of money arising, towards a legally enforceable debt. The plaintiff, through the instant plaint, cast under the afore provisions, has, upon Annexure P-7, Annexure whereof comprises a notice issued by the defendants, hence, reared a vehement contention, before this Court, (i) that the recitals borne therein, being, readable as admission(s) of the defendants, vis-a-vis, issuance, of, the afore dishonored negotiable instrument, borne in Annexure P-3, being towards a legally enforceable debt, hence, a verdict rather summarily decreeing the plaintiff's suit being pronounced, upon, the plaintiff.

4. When notice was served, upon the, defendants, the instant application, cast under the provisions, of, Order 37 Rule 3(5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, stood instituted before this Court, by the defendants, wherethrough, they seek leave of the Court, to, defend the suit, and, obviously espousals' contrary to the ones embodied in the plaint, stand reared therein. In paragraph 2 of the afore OMP, a contention is reared qua some borrowings, being made by the defendants, from the plaintiff society, and, the entire borrowings being liquidated, by the defendants, and, also disclosures rather holding concurrence, with, the afore averment, hence, also occur in the apt statement, of, account prepared up to 31.3.2016. A further averment is borne therein qua liquidation of the loan amount being made, either, through RTGs or through cheques, hence, per se, the defendants contest, that, the apt liquidation not occurring through cash payments. A denial is borne in afore OMP qua the amount embodied in the cheque aforesaid, being, not realizable, from, the defendants, hence, the suit being not maintainable, for, its being hence summarily decreed.

5. A contention, vis-a-vis, the suit being not maintainable, within, the ambit, of, Section 72 of the Himachal Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1968, is, also reared, conspicuously qua the condition set-forth therein, remaining un-complied with, by, the plaintiff. Further more, the afore dishonored cheque, is, contended by the defendants to be a part of a series of blank security cheques, issued, by the defendants, to, the plaintiff before March, 2016. Moreover, it is also contended, that, the issuance thereof being under pressure standing exerted, upon, one Raj Kumar Mittal, by one Chander Pal, Secretary of the Society. Also the details occurring on the back side of the cheque, are, averred to be made by the plaintiff, as such, the cheque is alleged to be forged. A cheque in addition, from one amongst, the series of blank cheques, and, carrying a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, stands contended to be presented for encashment by M/S A.R Associates, of which one Raj Kumar, is, stated to be a partner. Moreover, the defendants also aver, in, the afore OMP, qua forbidance being made upon one Chander Pal , from, making misuse of certain blank cheques, A notice is stated to be issued on 10.6.2016, whereunder, a request for returning, the, security cheques, was made. However, it is further averred that the plaintiff failed to do so, rather, he has instituted the instant summary suit.

6. The plaintiff meted reply to the application, and, contended that given the averments, made, in the summary suit, and, with the afore rendered admission, of, the defendants, rather renders the suit amount, to be an undisputed claim, and, with the extant summary suit being backed, by an apparent statutorily holistic purpose, and, also with the instant suit, hence satiating, all thereof apt statutory ingredients,(i) thereupon the espoused leave being granted to the defendants, would rather render the afore holistic statutory purpose hence being defeated.

7. In opposition to the statement of account, appended with the application, the, plaintiff has appended with its apt reply, hence Annexure R-1, annexure whereof, comprises the statement of account appertaining, to, the period from 1.4.2015 to 31.3.2017, wherethrough, rather ,the, disclosures borne in the prior thereto statement of account, ending up to 31.3.2016, hence stand negativated.

8. The defendants while meteing rejoinder to the reply furnished by the plaintiff, contended, that Annexure R-1 appended with the reply to the afore OMP, is, bereft of any vigor, and, is a false document.

9. Before proceeding to determine, the, validity of the aforesaid submissions addressed before this Court, by the learned counsel for the parties, it is deemed incumbent, to bear in mind the expostulations of law, as are enjoined to be applied thereon, for hence making a conclusion, qua, the espoused leave being accordable or refusable. The trite expostulations of law, are, embodied in a judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Case titled as Sunil Enterprises and another versus SBI Commercial & International Bank Ltd., reported in (1998)5 SCC 354, whereunder the Hon'ble Apex Court, has set forth the hereinafter extracted expostulations of law:-

> "4(e) If the defendant has no defence or the defence is illusory or sham or practically moonshine, the Court may show mercy to the defendant by enabling him to try to prove a defence but at the same time protect the plaintiff imposing the condition that the amount claimed should be paid into Court or otherwise secured."

10. The afore expostulation of law are further elaborated and reiterated, in a judgment rendered, by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case titled as State Bank of Hyderabad versus Rabo Bank, reported in (2015) 10 SCC 521, relevant paragraphs 15 to 17 whereof are extracted hereinafter:-

> "15. As regards the entitlement of a defendant to the grant of leave to defend, the law is well settled long back in the year 1949 in Sm. Kiranmoyee Dassi Vs. Dr. J. Chatterjee, AIR 1949 Cal 479, in the form of the following propositions:
>
> If the defendant satisfies the Court that he has a good defence to the claim on its merits, the plaintiff is not entitled to leave to sign the judgment and the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend.
>
> If the defendant raised a triable issue indicating that he has a fair or bona fide or reasonable defence although not a positively good defence the plaintiff is not entitled to sign judgment and the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend.
>
> If the defendant discloses such facts as may be deemed sufficient to entitle him to defend, that is to say, although the affidavit does not positively and immediately made it clear that he has a defence, yet, shows such a stage of facts as leads to the inference that at the trial of the action he may be able to establish a defence to the plaintiff s claim, the plaintiff is not entitled to judgment and the defendant is entitled to leave to defend but in such a case the court may in its discretion impose conditions as to the time or mode of trial but not as to payment into court or furnishing security.
>
> If the defendant has no defence or the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine then ordinarily the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment and the defendant is not entitled to leave to defend.
>
> If the defendant has no defence or the defence is illusory or sham or practically moonshine then although ordinarily the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment, the court may protect the plaintiff by only allowing the defence to proceed if the amount claimed is paid into court or otherwise secured and give leave to the defendant on such condition, and thereby show mercy to the defendant by enabling him to try to prove a defence.

687 and Sunil Enterprises & Anr. Vs. SBI Commercial & International Bank Ltd. (1998) 5 SCC 354].

17. An analysis of the above principles makes it clear that in cases where the defendant has raised a triable issue or a reasonable defence, the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend. Leave is granted to defend even in cases where the defendant upon disclosing a fact, though lacks the defence but makes a positive impression that at the trial the defence would be established to the plaintiff's claim. Only in the cases where the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine, the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment."

11. For apt application(s), of, the inherent apt nuance, of, the afore expostulations of law, upon, the competing espousals hence reared by the plaintiff, and, for hence validating or invaliding them, rather also enjoins eruption, of, apt material personifying qua (a) an evident bonafide defence being reared by the defendants, whereupon, the defendants being enjoined to be granted, the espoused leave to defend; (b) qua the afore rearings of defence, within, the afore expostulations being not a positive good defence; (c) rather the espoused defence being both a bonafide or a reasonable defence, to the plaintiff's claim, (d), and, with imminent inference(s) being ensuable therefrom qua, upon, the defence being put to trial, there being every likelihood of emergence, of evidence, thereupon an apt inference being erectable qua the defendants hence rearing a bonafide or a reasonable defence; (e) upon the defence being illusory or sham or practically moonshine, thereupon, the plaintiff being enjoined, to seek leave to sign the judgment, and, the defendants being dis-entitled to seek leave to defend.

12. Further more, even if the afore expostulations of law, stand satisfied by the plaintiff, and, when hence the plaintiff is enjoined to be granted, leave to sign the judgment yet, the Court may proceed to protect the plaintiff, by allowing the defence, to proceed, yet subject, to, as a measure, of, mere clemency being bestowed, upon, the defence, comprised in the directions being made, upon, the defendants, to, give an adequate security, vis-a-vis, the suit amount. Within the ambit of the afore expostulated parameters of law, this Court proceeds to determine the factum, qua, the admission, if any, of the defendants, as embodied in the notice issued by the defendants, rather hence, boosting a firm conclusion, that, the amount borne in the dishonored cheque, being an undisputed amount, (i) hence for obviating the suit being put to a procrastinated trial, upon, the apt leave being meted to the defendants, (ii) thereupon this Court rather would proceeding to grant leave, to the plaintiff to sign the judgment, (iii) also, it is enjoined to make discernments, from, the afore rendered material qua whether the defendants rather satiating the afore parameters, whereafter, this Court may proceed to grant the espoused leave to it/him/them.

13. The most pertinent documentary evidence, existing on record, whereon reliance is placed by the plaintiff-non applicant, to, contend that it carries apt admission(s), of, the defendants/applicants, is, embodied in Annexure P-7, admission whereof occurs, in, the hereinafter extracted apt paragraph, borne in paragraph 1 thereof.

"That Shri Raj Kumar Mittal my aforesaid client being partner of first two concerns and being Director of two Private Limited Companies took loan on different dates from your society and company in order to advance business of the aforesaid concerns and companies. The said loans were taken in individual capacity and also as partner of the said concerns and companies. In order to secure repayment of loans taken on different dates Shir Chander Pal Aggarwal being officials of the Society and company used to take blank cheques signed by my said client and without filling the name of the society, company or any individual. However, whatever amount is used to be taken as loan was shown in the said cheques. My client also issued blank cheques duly signed by him in his individual capacity from his saving account which were handed over to Shri Chander Pal aforesaid. Further blank stamp papers duly signed by my client as partner of the aforesaid concerns and also in his individual capacity were obtained by your society and company and handed over to Shri Chander Pal official of the society and company."

14. However, subsequent thereto a recital occurs, in Annexure P-7, that, certain blank cheques being handed over to one Chander Pal Aggarwal, and, from one amongst the afore blank cheques, a cheque carrying a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, standing presented on 9.6.2016 by one Amit Aggarwal son of Chander Pal Aggarwal, and, hence an echoing also occurs therein that the afore misdemeanor(s) of the son of Mr. Chander Pal Aggarwal, rather rendering open an inference, that the cheque at hand, being one amongst the blank chques, and, it not carrying any undisputed realisable or decreeable amounts' of money.

15. Further more, reliance is placed, upon, notice borne in Annexure P-5, issued by the counsel for the plaintiff, and, served upon the defendants, conspicuously, prior to the institution of a complaint under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, espousals borne wherein, are, in concurrence with the recitals, borne in the complaint, and, with the defendants not meteing any reply thereto, hence subsequent thereto exculpating echoings, as, are borne in Annexure P-7, being an afterthought, and, a sheer concoction, and, also not rendering hence effaced, the, effect of the afore sentence, occurring in paragraph 1 of Annexure P-7.

16. Nowat is to be gauged, the respective efficacy(s) of the afore submission imperatively, on, anvil of the afore apt expostulated parameters,.

17. The dishonored negotiable instrument is issued, on, 6.6.2016, and, the statement of account, appended with the the application, rather appertains to the period much prior thereto, in as much, as, qua 31.3.2016. Consequently prima-facie, the statement of account appended with the application, at hand, with disclosure occurring therein qua no loan amounts yet pending against the defendants rather is rendered insignificant. Also, any contest qua Annexure R-1, appended with the plaintiff/non-applicant's reply, conspicuously vis-a-vis, its authenticity may not be relevant. Contrarily when it constitutes an authenticated copy of the statement, of, account, and, when, it, hence holds proximity, vis-a-vis, issuance of the dishonored negotiable instrument, (i) and, when it assumes an enhanced aura of validity given, upon, a combined reading of the apt disclosures' made therein vis-a-vis cheque borne in Annexure P-3, and, with notice borne in Annexure P-5, and, also, (ii) when its' issuance occurs in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, issuances of cheque borne in Annexures P-3 and of notice borne in P-5 (iii) thereupon unveilings rather emerging qua inter-se congruity occurring inter-se all the aforesaid Annexures.

18. Reiteratedly, in making the aforesaid conclusion, the factum of notice, comprised in Annexure P-5, remaining un-replied, by the respondent/plaintiff, thereupon the contents thereof, do acquire an aura of validity, (i) and, further more when it is issued in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, statement of account, (ii) also, thereupon all the afore annexures acquire an alike aura of sanctity. Even though, Annexure P-7 carries therewithin, the, afore extracted apt sentence, and, with the afore Annexure standing issued, on 10.6.2016, yet the effect of the afore sentence, does rather avail an inference, that, certain borrowings, being made by the defendants, from the plaintiff, and, for liquidation thereof, the defendants issuing cheques, and, the amount borne in the cheques rather remaining un-liquidated.

19. Since the defendants hence rear a plea, that, all the liquidations hence occurring through, cheques or through RTGs mode, and, not through cash, (i) thereupon when Annexure R-1 appended with the reply, does bear proximity vis-a-vis, issuance of the dishonored negotiable instrument, (ii) thereupon, the afore sentence occurring in Annexure P-7, tantamounts to an admission qua the sums borne therein, being towards liquidation of outstanding borrowing, as, made by the defendants from the plaintiff.

20. Even otherwise the defendants prima-facie appear to raise various submissions, that, certain security cheques being issued by them to the plaintiff, and, that the figures, and, the scribings occurring therein being, not, in his/their hands. However, the defendants did not adduce any evidence qua therewith, before, the learned trial Magistrate concerned nor any disclosures stand made, in the apt testification rendered therebefore, qua the afore trite fact, hence coming under contest. The further effect thereof, is, that the espousal occurring in paragraph 2 of Annexure P-7, qua son of one Chander Pal Aggarwal, misusing a cheque for a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, comprised in his presenting it, before the Bank concerned, stands falsified, (i) besides for the reasons, that, it appertains to a period much prior to the period of issuance, of, the dishonored instruments, (ii) and, it carrying an amount lesser than the amount borne, in, the dishonored instrument, hence, also diminishes the vigor of the espousal, of, the defendants, (iii) predominantly also given despite the witnesses' concerned, of the plaintiff, while rendering testifications, before, the learned trial Magistrate concerned, hence making echoings' qua the apt statement of account being available (iv) yet the the defendants not making adduction(s) thereof before the Court, whereas the afore adduction of statements of accounts, would facilitate the Court, in, drawing an inference qua the defendants' admission being negatived or effaced, whereupon, non-adduction thereof, gives, rather strength to the afore admission.

21. Be that as it may, for all the assigned reasons, the defendants have abysmally failed, to, establish qua theirs holding a reasonable, fair and bonafide defence, and, also grossly failed, to, at this stage ,rear a ground that if the afore defence(s) are put to trial, theirs bringing forth hence evidence, (i) whereupon, an inference may be drawable of their defence, being workable or being genuine or holding sanctity, (ii) contrarily, thereupon it is to be concluded that the apt leave being refusable or unaccordable to the defendants.

22. The defendants contest qua with the apt statutory notice contemplated in Section 72 of the Cooperative Society Act, hence remaining evidently un-issued,thereupon the suit being not maintainable. However, the aforesaid contention would gather weight, upon, the the defendants rather committing misconduct of criminal breach of trust, vis-a-vis, plaintiff's funds, and, hence his/theirs misconduct touching, upon, the management and business of the plaintiff society. However the aforesaid evidence is amiss, contrarily when the defendant is a loanee, of, undisputed sums of money, thereupon, even when the statutory notice remained un-served, prior to the institution of the instant summary suit, yet, apt leave being grantable rather to the plaintiff.

23. Further more, the aforesaid defence is illusory or moonshine, and, further if given the afore expostulated condition precedents for, hence the apt leave being granted, when remain hence unsatisfied, thereupon, the, statutory holistic purpose, would rather be defeated, upon, the suit being put to the rigors, of, a procrastinated trial.

In view of the above, the application stands disposed of.

HC Ramesh Chand No. 1671, P.P City Rampur in person.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, J (oral)

The instant petition has been instituted by the bail applicant under Section 439 Cr.P.C, for his being ordered to be released from judicial custody, wherein he is extantly lodged, for his allegedly committing offences punishable, under, Section 21 of NDPS Act, registered in case FIR No. 146 of 2018 of 1.10.2018 with Police Station, Rampur Bushehar, District Shimla. H.P.

2. The investigating Officer, is, present in Court, and, has disclosed, that, Heroin carrying a weight of 9 grams, standing allegedly recovered from the conscious and exclusive possession, of, the bail applicant. The afore quantity of Heroin recovered, from, the purported conscious and exclusive possession of the bail applicant, renders it to fall within the category, of less than commercial quantity thereof, and, thereupon the rigor(s) of statutory provisions of Section 37 of the NDPS Act, are not applicable, whereupon, this Court proceeds to accord the indulgence of bail in favour of the bail applicant.

3. The learned Additional Advocate General, submits before this Court, that, the bail applicant is a habitual criminal, and, he immediately subsequent to his being an accused in case FIR No. 109 of 2018, is re-indulging in offences constituted in the instant FIR. He submits that hence given the repeated indulgence of the applicant in criminal activities, thereupon, the according of facility of bail in his favour, being not appropriate, as there, is every likelihood of his influencing the prosecution witnesses, in other cases pending against him, and, also his re-indulging in the commission of offences.

4. Even though the factum of repeated, and, successive indulgence of the bail applicant, in, criminal activities and besides the factum of criminal cases pending against him, though, is a necessary factor to be borne in mind, when according or refusing the facility of bail, to him. However, in view of the mandate enshrined in Maulana Mohammed Amir Rashadi vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another (2012) 2 SCC 382, wherein it stands enshrined, that upon strict/stringent conditions, being hence imposed, by this Court, would, rather obviate the factum of the bail applicant, hence fleeing from justice or influencing witnesses. Thereupon, in consonance therewith, imposition of stringent conditions, would also hence mitigate as well as allay, the, apprehension of the State, that, given his previous repeated indulgences in criminal activities, upon, his being granted bail,it would facilitate his abusing his bail, and, his re-indulging in criminal activities. Consequently, this Court proceeds to afford qua him the facility of bail, however, subject to the condition qua upon his re-indulging in criminal activities, it shall facilitate the respondent, to move this Court for cancellation of bail.

5. Moreover, when at this stage, no material, has been placed on record, by the prosecution, demonstrating that in the event of bail being granted to the bail applicant, there being every likelihood of his fleeing from justice or tampering with prosecution evidence, thereupon this Court is constrained to afford, the facility of bail in favour of the bail applicant.

6. Accordingly, the bail applicant is ordered to be released from judicial custody, subject to compliance by him with the following conditions:-:

1. That he shall furnish personal bond in the sum of Rs.1,00,000/- with two sureties in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the learned JMIC, Rampur Bushehar.
2. That he shall join the investigation, as and when required by the Investigating agency.
3. That he shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court or to the Police.
4. That he shall not leave India without the prior permission of the Court.
5. That he shall deposit his passport, if any, with the Police Station, concerned.
6. That in case of violation of any of the conditions, the bail granted to the petitioner shall be forfeited and he shall be liable to be taken into custody.

7. Any observation made herein above shall not be taken as an expression of opinion on the merits of the case and the trial Court shall decide the matter uninfluenced by any observation made herein above.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Surya Kant, Chief Justice.

This order shall dispose of the above captioned Appeals preferred by the Revenue, challenging a common order dated 30.11.2017, passed by the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal, Division Bench 'A' Chandigarh (hereinafter referred to as 'the Tribunal'), whereby the Tribunal has allowed the Assessee's appeals in part whereas Cross-Appeals filed by the Revenue have been dismissed in respect of the Assessment Years 2007-2008 to 2011-2012 and 2013-2014.

2. The substantial question of law sought to be raised in these Appeals is as follows:

> "Whether on the facts and in the circumstances of the case, the ITAT is right in law in holding that the income of the assessee, which was paid to the Govt. as per the bye laws of the assessee society, is not taxable, inspite of the fact that the assessee had debited such payment to its P&L Account and had claimed it as a revenue expenditure though the assessee is not registered u/s 12AA of the Act and nor its income is exempt under any of the provisions of the Act"

3. Before adverting to the question formulated above, it would be useful to give a brief synopsis of the facts. The Assessee-Society, hereinafter referred to as 'the respondent-Assessee', was registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 (hereinafter referred to as 'the 1860 Act') on 27.8.2002. The object of the Society as incorporated in its Memorandum of Association, inter alia, includes:

> "To facilitate the general public dealers carrying goods and crossing the barriers established by the State Govt. and also to diffuse awareness amongst the general public/dealers about the sales tax laws.
>
> To utilize the information technology for deeper systematic reforms in tax administration by creation of a separate entity properly geared to provide supportive role to the Department in creation of data bank (dealer wise/commodity wise, Circle wise and Barrier wise), in transmission of information and establishment of client server environment.
>
> To back up the computerization requirement of the Department of Excise & Taxation Department and for this purpose develop infrastructure therefore both in terms of software as well as hardware.

To facilitate adoption of ST-XXVI-A form in a computer friendly format and generate funds by rendering this services to the dealers so as to make it a self sustaining activity.

To carry out all such activities as are envisaged in section 20 of the Society Registration Act 1860, which are in the interest of society.

To derive optimum benefits from fully networked computerization in terms of providing computerized functioning of Multi-purpose Barriers, issuance of computerized receipts, on line networking to facilitate sharing of data between all Offices/Assessing Authorities in the Department and develop other related infrastructures incidental thereto.

The Society shall for this purpose, generate receipts in lieu of providing these services at the Multi-purposes Barriers, and utilized the same to fulfill the objectives of the Society.

And in furtherance of the above objectives:

(i) Develop, create, manage and maintain infrastructure for providing such services."

4. The primary funds of the respondent-Assessee were to be augmented by collecting the statutory levy under Section 34 of the Himachal Pradesh VAT Act, 2005 (hereinafter referred to as 'the VAT Act, 2005'), whereunder the State Government was empowered to establish check-post(s) or erect barriers with a view to preventing or checking evasion of tax under the VAT Act, 2005. Sub-Section (2) of Section 34 of the Act requires the owner or person in-charge of a goods carriage or vessel to carry with him the goods carriage record, a trip sheet or a log-book and tax invoice diary as well as a delivery note containing such particulars as may be prescribed and to produce the same before the officer in-charge of a check-post or barrier and to submit in triplicate a 'Declaration' containing particulars of the goods in the prescribed form. Initially, the cost of 'Declaration', as per Rules set-up by the Government of Himachal Pradesh was Rs.5/-. The respondent-Assessee, as may be noticed from the object of its formulation, was entrusted with the responsibility of collection of VAT at the above-stated prescribed rate and upon collection of the same, Re.1/- was to be deposited immediately in the Government Treasury and thereafter, in terms of Bye-Law 10.2 of the Society, the remaining amount had to be transferred to the State Government in 'Sales Tax' Head, after meeting out the expenditure incurred by the Society.

5. It would also be relevant to reproduce at this stage the extracts of ST-XXVI-A as prescribed in Clause 8 of the Bye-Laws of the Society read with Clause 10.2 thereof, which are to the following effect:

"8. ACCOUNT OF ST XXVI-A FORM

1. The computer generated STXXVI-A form bearing serial number shall be issued at the Barrier(s) and the E.T.O/In charge Barrier shall maintain proper account of the said forms under the supervision of concerned Assistant Excise and Taxation Commissioner of the District.

2. E.T.O./In charge barrier will deposit Rs. 1/- per form (out of the amount of Rs. 5/- per form as at present or as per rates prescribed from time to time in respect of computerized ST-XXVI-A form/services rendered)/ in the relevant receipt head of the Department as per practice hitherto fore.

3. The balance amount after depositing Rs. 1/- per form will be credited to the Funds of the Society and deposited on day to day basis in a Saving Bank Account to be opened in respect of each barrier(s) with the nearest Scheduled Bank/Cooperative Bank.

4. Keeping in view the requirement of the funds, the Executive Committee can authorize the Assistant Excise and Taxation Officer/In charge Barrier concerned to invest the amount in excess of their requirement in Short Term deposit lest there be any loss of interest.

5. Notwithstanding any thing contained above, the amount collected shall be available for being utilized in the entire State for the purposes set out and as per approval of the Governing Body.

10.2 After meeting the expenses towards the objectives for the approved purposes listed above and accounting for the liabilities accrued and projected, the surplus amount, if any, shall be deposited in the receipt head 0040 Sales Tax on yearly basis on approval of the Governing Body."

6. The respondent-Assessee, thus, has been maintaining all such multipurpose barriers in the State of Himachal Pradesh from where all goods get in or get out of the State and which are required to be declared at the multipurpose barrier as per Section 34 of the VAT Act, 2005 read with Rules 61 and 62 of Himachal Pradesh VAT Rules, 2005 (hereinafter referred to as 'the VAT Rules, 2005'). A form bearing No. ST-XXVI-A was to be issued to the person declaring the goods at a cost of Rs.5/- per form till the levy was further enhanced to Rs.10/- w.e.f. 18.5.2009.

7. As noticed above, in terms of Clause 8.2 of the Bye-Laws, the respondent-Assessee used to deposit Re.1/- per 'Declaration' with the Government Treasury out of the Rs.5/- till the year 2009 which was later enhanced to Rs.2/- after the tax amount was increased from Rs.5/- to Rs.10/- per 'Declaration'. It is also a matter of record that the respondent-Assessee applied for registration under Section 12AA of the Income Tax Act 1961 (hereinafter referred to as 'the IT Act 1961') to the Commissioner of Income Tax, Shimla, who rejected the application on 29.11.2013 holding that the activities carried out by the respondent-Assessee did not benefit the general public rather those were meant to provide the infrastructural facilities to the Excise and Taxation Department of Government of Himachal Pradesh.

8. The respondent-Assessee has, in its Income Expenditure Statements, been showing the surplus of income over expenditure. The Assessing Officer, therefore, issued notice under Section 148 read with Section 147 of the IT Act,1961 on 8.1.2014 for taxing the excess of the income over expenditure, the amount ranging from Rs.64,20,238/- (Assessment Years 2007-2008) to Rs.1,29,37,365/- (Assessment Years 2010-2011) and supplied the copy of reasons recorded for the re-opening of the cases.

9. The respondent-Assessee contested the notice(s) and its precise case was that no surplus income accrued to it as all the surplus income was payable to the State Government and therefore, it had earned no taxable income. The Assessing Officer turned down the plea and 'excess income over expenditure' was computed for the purpose of respondent-Assessee's tax liability.

10. The respondent-Assessee filed Appeal before the Commissioner, Income Tax (Appeals), who after going through its activities held that 20% of the tax amount collected and paid to the State Government could not be treated as 'income' of the respondent-Assessee, as it was paid directly to the Government Treasury. As regard to the remaining 80% of the tax collection, it was held to be a part of character of income, as according to the Commissioner, Income Tax (Appeals), the respondent-Assessee had the freedom to utilize the said amount for the objective(s) of the Society.

11. The aggrieved Assessee filed appeals before the Appellate Tribunal against confirmation of 80% of its collection as taxable income whereas the Revenue also filed Cross-Appeals against the deletion of 20% of the fee amount. The Tribunal has, vide order under appeals, dismissed the Revenues' Appeals whereas that of the respondent-Assessee's have been allowed in part.

12. The Tribunal has gone in extenso into the Memorandum of Association of the respondent-Assessee as well as the details of its background, functional requirements, operation and model, accounting structure and ultimate payment to the exchequer of the Government. It also went into the composition of the Governing Body, organizational structure, funds and operation of the accounts of the respondent-Assessee, as enumerated in its Bye-Laws and reproduced in the order(s) under appeal.

13. The Tribunal, with an intent to analyze the functioning of the respondent-Assessee viz-a-viz provisions of the VAT Act 2005, has also dwelled upon Section 34 of the said Act read with Rules 61 and 62 of the VAT Rules, 2005 framed there under.

14. The Tribunal has thus concluded that:

> "28. On a comprehensive examination of the purpose of registering the society in the name of H.P. Excise and Taxation Technical Service Agency, the organizational structure and conducting of its functions, Rules & Regulations of the society, Receipts & Payment Account of the society, details of the collections on account of tax and amounts paid to Government, relevant provisions of H.P. VAT Act 2005, Establishment of Check Posts of Barrier and inspection of goods in transit, the following points emerged as under:
> 1. The checkpost or barriers and inspection of goods in transit were established as per the HP VAT Act 2005.
>
> 2. The Assessee Society was floated to look after the affairs and tax collection at the check post and barriers.
>
> 3. The governing body of the Assessee Society consists of Chairman and six members along with a member secretary who are all from the excise and taxation department except a Technical Director from NIC and MD of Electronic Development Corporation who mainly aid in providing required information technology inputs.
>
> 4. The executive committee of the Assessee Society comprise of 8 members along with one Member Secretary who are all officials of Excise and Taxation Department.
>
> 5. The Assessee Society is involved in collection and deposit of receipts from STXXVI-A Forms.
>
> 6. Out of the collected amount 20% is paid immediately to the Government.
>
> 7. The remaining amount is kept in the short term deposits.
>
> 8. The surplus amount shall be deposited in the receipt head 0040-Sales Tax Account on yearly basis.
> 9. The accounts are audited by the IFU of the Sales Tax Department which will compile the final account the Additional Excise and Taxation Commissioner (Head Quarter) is the Authorized Signatory."

15. The Tribunal, on examination of the financial affairs of the respondent-Assessee and after going through its income and expenditure statements for the relevant Assessment Years, has further concluded that:

> "32. Thus, after going through the entire affairs of the assessee we hold that the surplus of income over expenditure also belongs to the Government which has been duly deposited in the state exchequer cannot be the income of the assessee.
> 33. Before us the assessee has submitted statement reflecting the payment of balance amount of the 80% of the fee collected has also been paid to the Treasury of the State Government.
> 34. The Assessing Officer is hereby directed to examine the Challans paid by the assessee into the Government account under the receipt head 0040 Sales Tax Account as submitted by the assessee and give due benefit for the amounts paid into the Government exchequer."

16. It is in this backdrop, coupled with a firm finding of fact to the effect that the surplus of income over expenditure of the respondent-Assessee belongs to the State Government and has been duly deposited in the public Exchequer that the question which falls for determination is-whether 80% of the balance amount duly deposited by the respondent-Assessee in the Government Treasury, after deducting the expenses incurred by it, amounts to 'taxable income' under the IT Act, 1961, more so when the respondent-Assessee is not registered under Section 12AA of the said Act?

17. We have heard Mr. Vinay Kuthiala, learned Senior Advocate, on behalf of the appellant-Revenue and Mr. Vishal Mohan, Advocate, on behalf of the respondent-Assessee at a considerable length and gone through the record.

18. It was urged on behalf of the appellant-Revenue that the respondent-Assessee is a 'juristic person' falling within the ambit of Section 2 (31) of the IT Act, 1961. The respondent-Assessee has been formed for manning all the multipurpose barriers to charge the goods which cross the barriers whether coming into or going out of the State of Himachal Pradesh. All such goods have to be declared at the multipurpose barriers in accordance with Section 34 of the VAT Act, 2005 read with VAT Rules, 2005 for which the assessee sells the 'Declaration Form' and derives 'income' therefrom.

19. The respondent-Assessee applied for exemption under Section 12AA of the IT Act, 1961 but its application was rejected as the activities that it carried out were not of general public utility but were for providing infrastructural facilities to the Excise and Taxation Department of the State of Himachal Pradesh. On this premise, it was urged that the respondent-Assessee was 'earning income' at the multipurpose barriers by sale of Forms etc., and was preparing the income and expenditure statements in which it has been showing surplus of income over expenditure in its Returns. The respondent-Assessee was depositing excess of income over expenditure in the Government Treasury for payment to the State Government and was debiting these amounts in the income and expenditure statements and claiming it as revenue expenditure. This payment, according to the learned Senior Counsel for the Revenue, is only a diversion of income and is not related to any business activity of the respondent-Assessee. He argued that under Section 14 of the Himachal Pradesh Societies Registration Act, 2006, a Society is a body corporate and a separate legal entity and in view of Section 8 of the said Act, the Society can have neither profit motive nor its profit can be distributed amongst the Members. Thus, it was apparent that the mandate of law prohibits distribution of income of the Society and the excess revenue over expenditure therefore, constitutes as 'income of the Society' and is liable to be taxed as envisaged by Section 4 read with Section 2 (24) of the IT Act, 1961.

20. Learned Senior Counsel for the Revenue relied upon CIT versus Sunil J. Kinariwala, 259 ITR 10 (SCC) wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has ruled as follows:

> "When a third person becomes entitled to receive the amount under an obligation of an assessee even before he could lay a claim to receive it as his income there would be a diversion by overriding title, but when after receipt of the income by the assesse it is passed to on a third person in discharge of the obligation of the assessee, it will be case of application of income by the assesse and not of diversion of income by overriding title."

21. Learned counsel for the respondent-Assessee, on the other hand, countered the appellant's claim urging that the concept of taxation under the IT Act, 1961 is relatable to the 'real income' which actually belongs to the Assessee.

22. In the instant case, 'statutory levy' under the VAT Act, 2005 is being collected by virtue of the powers entrusted by the State Government to the respondent-Assessee. Since the entire collection is deposited in the Government Treasury of the State after deducting the actual expenditure incurred by the respondent-Assessee, no 'real income' accrues to the Society.

23. Learned counsel has relied upon the decision in Commissioner of Income Tax Bombay City-II versus Sitadas Tirathdas, 41 ITR, 367 SC, in which Hon'ble Supreme Court has ruled that what is to be subjected for taxation is only and only real income over which the assessee possesses a right and not any other thing. He cited Somiaya Orgeno Chemicals Ltd. versus CIT, 216 ITR, 291 Bombay, where the issue considered was-whether the cess collected and kept in a separate bank-account as per the statutory order and to be utilized for a particular purpose, was 'income' in the hands of assessee? It was held that the 'statutory levy' could not be equated as the 'real income' of the assessee. Rajkot District Gopalak Co-operative Milk Producers Union ltd. *v*ersus CIT 204 ITR, 590 Gujarat, *w*as cited where the question which fell for consideration was-whether income of the project assigned to a Co-operative Society on lease and license basis and profits of which were to be paid to the State Government, could be treated as 'income' of the assessee? It was held that the entire income belonged to the Government and it could not be treated as the income of the assessee and was thus not taxable. Similarly, in Commissioner of Income Tax versus Pepsu Road Transport Corporation, 253 ITR, 303 P&H, the Court considered the question as to whether the amount forfeited by the employer out of the provident fund where it was categorically mentioned that the said amount belonged to the Trust, was income of the assessee. Invoking the concept of 'real income', the High Court held the same not to be the income of the assessee. A somewhat similar view was taken in Gujarat Municipal Finance Board versus Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax (Assessment) 221 ITR, 317 Gujarat.

24. As regard to the facts highlighted on behalf of the appellant-Revenue that the respondent-Assessee had, in its Returns of income shown surplus as payable to the Government, it was argued that the entries in the books of account cannot, by any stretch of imagination, amount to earning of the income, as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in CIT Bombay City versus Surji Ballabh Dass, 46 ITR 144.

25. On an objective analysis of the rival submissions, the question which eventually arises for determination is whether the retention of a part of the VAT collected by the respondent-Assessee till the process of determination of its actual expenditure incurred on the collection, followed by deposit of balance surplus amount in the Government Treasury for onward transmission to the State Government, can be treated as the 'real income' in the hands of the respondent-Assessee for the purpose of IT Act, 1961?

26. It is true that 'income' has not been defined in Section 2 (24) of the IT Act, 1961 but with the addition of expression 'includes', the scope and ambit of 'income' stands enlarged. Various components illustrated in the definition Clause including 'profits and gains' are part of the 'income'. In view of the comprehensive definition chosen by the Legislature, something which is not expressly included in Section 2 (24), can also form part of the 'income'. If the dictionary meaning of the word 'income' is to be logically and liberally construed, the 'income' shall include all those benefits, whether in terms of money or otherwise, which are to be taken into consideration for the purpose of payment of income tax or professional tax. None of the receipts illustrated in Section 2 (24) except 'profits and gains' have been cited or applied by the Revenue to adjudge the 'income' of the respondent-Assessee. The 'profits and gains', as ruled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in CIT versus Gold Coin Health Food (P) Ltd., (2008) 9 SCC 622 refers to positive income only.

27. The word 'profit' means the gross proceeds of a business transaction minus the costs of transaction. 'Profits' imply a comparison of the value of an asset when the asset is acquired with the value of the asset when such asset is transferred and the difference between the two values is the amount of 'profit' or 'gain' made by a person [See: Topman Exports versus CIT (2012) 3 SCC 593].

28. To say it differently, the word 'profit' connotes the idea of pecuniary gain. If there is an actual gain, its quantum or amount would not be material; but such amount would be component of 'income' in terms of Section 2 (24) (i) of the IT Act, 1961.

29. The expression 'gain', on the other hand, is not synonymous with the word 'profit', for it is not restricted to pecuniary or commercial profits only as it includes other considerations of value gained also. For example, any advantage or benefit acquired or value addition made by some activities would amount to gain, even though the activities are not profit motivated.

30. Applying these principles to the facts of the cases in hand, it may be seen that the respondent-Assessee continued to receive Rs.5/- per Form till May, 2009 out of which Re.1/- was straightaway deposited in the Government Treasury and out of the balance of Rs.5/-, only the actual expenditure incurred by it on collection process was deducted and the balance amount (80% as assessed by the authorities) was duly deposited in the Government Treasury to be paid to the Excise and Taxation Department of the State Government. In this entire process, the respondent-Assessee neither gained anything nor earned any profit. The VAT amount recovered by the respondent-Assessee was/is an entrustment of the statutory function of the State which alone is competent to levy VAT under Section 34 of the VAT Act, 2005. The respondent-Assessee thus neither created any source of income nor generated any profit or gain out of such source. The Assessee merely performs the statutory functions under the VAT Act, 2005 and collects the tax amount for and on behalf of the State and transfers such collection to the Government Treasury. Even if the tax collection remains temporarily parked with the Assessee for some time, it cannot be treated as 'income' generated by the Assessee as the said amount does not belong to it.

31. The Tribunal has thus rightly concluded that the surplus of income over expenditure, as reflected in the entries or the Returns filed by the respondent-Assessee, also belonged to the State Government which was duly deposited in the Government Treasury.

Hence, it does not partake the character of 'profit or gain' earned by the respondent-Assessee.

32. The non-registration of the respondent-Assessee, under Section 12AA of the IT Act, 1961 is inconsequential, for an occasion to seek exemption from payment of tax on the income by a Trust or Institution serving the cause of general public utility would arise only when some actual income is derived. The respondent-Assessee though is a 'juristic person' but in the absence of any income having been earned by it through 'profits or gains' within the meaning of Section 2 (24) of the IT Act, 1961, the respondent-Assessee is indeed not obliged to seek exemption under Section 12AA of the IT Act, 1961, for it does not have any taxable income.

33. For the reasons afore-stated, the substantial question of law is answered in negative against the appellant-Revenue and in favour of the respondent-Assessee.

34. As a necessary corollary, all the appeals must fail and are accordingly dismissed alongwith pending applications, if any.

State of Himachal Pradesh and another .....Respondents.

CWP No.: 912 of 2018
Reserved on: 03.12.2018
Date of Decision: 07.12.2018

Constitution of India, 1950- Articles 226 & 310 - Administrative Law-Doctrine of Pleasure- Applicability- Government appointing petitioner as Non-official member of Himachal Pradesh State Commission for Backward Classes for three years- By subsequent notification Government removing him from membership before expiry of three years – Challenge thereto- Petitioner contending that once appointed, he could not have been removed before expiry of three years- Held- Person appointed without following any selection process, cannot claim right to be heard before removal – Person who is appointed at pleasure of Government and who came to removed by same pleasure cannot claim that order of removal has been passed in breach of principles of natural justice- Such person can be removed at any time by exercising power of Doctrine of Pleasure. (Para 5)

For the petitioners: Mr. Tenzen Negi, Advocate.
For the respondents: Mr. Ashok Sharma, Advocate General, with M/s J.K. Verma, Ranjan Sharma, Ritta Goswami, Adarsh Sharma, Nand Lal Thakur and Ashwani K. Sharma, Additional Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Ajay Mohan Goel, Judge:

By way of this writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for quashing of impugned Notification dated 10.04.2018 (Annexure P-3), vide which the Department of Social Justice & Empowerment, Government of Himachal Pradesh has withdrawn the nomination of Non-Official Members of Himachal Pradesh State Commission for Backward Classes including the petitioner, in supersession of earlier Notification of the Department of even number dated 28.11.2016 with immediate effect.

2. Vide Notification dated 28.11.2016, which stands withdrawn vide impugned Notification dated 10th April, 2018, the petitioner was re-nominated as a Non-Official Member of the Himachal Pradesh State Commission for Backward Classes for a term of three years. The grievance of the petitioner is that once the respondent-Department had nominated him for another term of three years, then said re-nomination could not have been withdrawn, as has been done vide impugned Notification.

3. On the other hand, the stand of the State is that as the Non-Official Members, including the petitioner of the Commission in issue were re-nominated to the Commission by way of an administrative decision on 18.11.2016, they have no right to continue and the re-nomination was rightly withdrawn on 10.04.2018 and in fact the petitioner has gone the way he had come.

4. We have heard learned counsel for the parties.

5. It is not in dispute that nomination or re-nomination of the petitioner as a Member of the Commission was not in response to any advertisement issued by the Commission to fill up the office. Thus, both nomination as also re-nomination of the petitioner to the office in issue was at the pleasure of the Government. Besides this, as has been rightly pointed out by the learned Additional Advocate General, the issue involved in this writ petition is squarely covered by a recent judgment of this Bench in CWP No. 1135 of 2018, titled as Amit Nanda Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and another, decided on 22.11.2018. In the said judgment, this Court has categorically held that a person/appointee, who came to be appointed with out following any selection process, neither can claim that he/she be heard before he/she is removed, nor a person who is appointed at the pleasure of the Government and who came to be removed by the same pleasure, can claim that the Order of removal has been passed in breach of principles of natural justice. It has also been held that it is not necessary that such an appointee should continue for the entire period and he can be removed at any time by exercising the power of 'doctrine of pleasure'.

6. In the light of the aforesaid, the petitioner has no right to question the Notification dated 10th April, 2018, which has been issued by the State while exercising the 'doctrine of pleasure', vide which the re-nomination of the petitioner has been withdrawn. The petition is accordingly dismissed being devoid of any merit. Miscellaneous application, if any, also stand disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sandeep Sharma, Judge (oral):

Instant petition filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is directed against the order dated 22.8.2017, passed by the learned District Judge, Kullu, District Kullu, H.P, whereby two separate applications filed by the parties to the lis came to be disposed of by a common judgment, petitioner-applicant (hereinafter referred to as "the applicant"), being aggrieved and dissatisfied with passing of order dated 30.5.2014, passed by the learned Deputy Commissioner, Kullu, on the application having been made by the respondent herein, seeking therein compensation to the tune of Rs. 8 lac, on account of damage to his house and property by the applicant while laying transmission line, preferred a petition under Section 16 (3) of the Indian Telegraph Act, 199 (in short "the Act"), in the court of learned District Judge. Similarly, respondent who had earlier filed petition before the Deputy Commissioner, Kullu, and was awarded sum of Rs. 4 lac on account of damages caused to his house and property by the applicant while laying transmission line also approached the District Judge Kullu, District Kullu, under Section 16 (3) of the Act, praying therein for enhancement of compensation. Learned District Judge vide common judgment dated 22.8.2017, dismissed both the applications having been filed by the applicant as well as respondent and as a consequence thereof, order dated 30.5.2014, passed by the learned Deputy Commissioner, Kullu, H.P., came to be upheld. In the aforesaid background, applicant has approached this Court in the instant proceedings, praying therein to set-aside impugned order passed by the learned District Judge as well as Deputy Commissioner, being passed without jurisdiction.

2. Having heard parties and perused material available on record vis-à-vis reasoning recorded in the impugned orders referred herein above, this Court is persuaded to agree with the contention of Ms. Jyotsna Rewal Dua, learned Senior counsel representing the applicant that Deputy Commissioner, Kullu, had no authority whatsoever to award compensation, if any, to the respondent on account of damage to the house and property by the applicant while erecting towers and laying transmission line, while exercising power under Section 16 (3) of the Act.

3. It would be apt to reproduce Section 10 of the Act, which reads as under:

> "10 Power for telegraph authority to place and maintain telegraph lines and posts .—The telegraph authority may, from time to time, place and maintain a telegraph line under, over, along, or across, and posts in or upon, any immovable property: Provided that—
>
> (a) the telegraph authority shall not exercise the powers conferred by this section except for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained by the 1 [Central Government], or to be so established or maintained;
>
> (b) the 1 [Central Government] shall not acquire any right other than that of user only in the property under, over, along, across, in or upon which the telegraph authority places any telegraph line or post; and
>
> (c) except as hereinafter provided, the telegraph authority shall not exercise those powers in respect of any property vested in or under the control or management of any local authority, without the permission of that authority; and
> (d) in the exercise of the powers conferred by this section, the telegraph authority shall do as little damage as possible, and, when it has exercised those powers in respect of any property other than that referred to in clause (c), shall pay full compensation to all persons interested for any damage sustained by them by reason of the exercise of those powers."

Section 10 of the Act, provides that telegraph authority may from time to time, place and maintain telegraph line under, over, along, or across, and posts in or upon, any immovable property.

4. Section 16 of the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885, reads as under:

> "16. Exercise of powers conferred by section 10, and disputes as to compensation, in case of property other than that of a local authority.—
>
> (1) If the exercise of the powers mentioned in section 10 in respect of property referred to in clause (d) of that section is resisted or obstructed, the District Magistrate may, in his discretion, order that the telegraph authority shall be permitted to exercise them.
>
> (2) If, after the making of an order under sub-section (1), any person resists the exercise of those powers, or, having control over the property, does not give all facilities for their being exercised, he shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 188 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (45 of 1860).
>
> (4) If any dispute arises as to the persons entitled to receive compensation, or as to the proportions in which the persons interested are entitled to share in it, the telegraph authority may pay into the court of the District Judge such amount as he deems sufficient or, where all the disputing parties have in writing admitted the amount tendered to be sufficient or the amount has been determined under sub-section (3), that amount; and the District Judge, after giving notice to the parties and hearing such of them as desire to be heard, shall determine the persons entitled to receive the compensation or, as the case may be, the proportions in which the persons interested are entitled to share in it.

(5) Every determination of a dispute by a District Judge under sub-section (3), or sub-section (4) shall be final: Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall affect the right of any person to recover by suit the whole or any part of any compensation paid by the telegraph authority, from the person who has received the same."

Section 16 of the Act provides that if the exercise of the powers mentioned in section 10 in respect of property referred to in clause (d) of that section is resisted or obstructed, the District Magistrate may, in his discretion, order that the telegraph authority shall be permitted to exercise them, meaning thereby, in the event of dispute, if any, on account of laying of transmission line or erection of towers, authority responsible for laying transmission line would approach the District Magistrate, who in turn shall ensure that no obstruction is caused on the spot for laying the transmission line. Similarly, Section 16 (3) provides that if there is any dispute with regard to sufficiency of compensation to be paid under Section 10 clause (d), an application in this regard shall be made by either of the disputing party to the District Judge, within whose jurisdiction the property situates. Careful reading of clause 16 (3) clearly suggests that dispute with regard to sufficiency of compensation, which otherwise at the first instance is to be paid by the agency laying transmission itself, is to be determined by the District Judge only, not by the District Magistrate. Similarly, perusal of Section 16 (4) and (5) further suggests that in the event of dispute with regard to the apportionment inter-se parties qua the share of compensation, determination of the dispute by the District Judge, under sub-section (3) or sub-section (4), shall be final.

5. In the case at hand, facts as emerge are that respondent, whose property came to be used for erection of towers and laying of transmission lines by the applicant, applied to Deputy Commissioner, Kullu, HP, under Section 16 (3) of the Act, seeking therein compensation to the tune of Rs. 8 lac, who vide order dated 11.11.2013, while taking cognigence of the aforesaid application, having been filed by the respondent, directed, SDM, Kullu, to furnish report. Careful perusal of this order suggests that Deputy Commissioner referred to notification of Government of India dated 18.4.2006 issued in exercise of power conferred under Clause-(3) of Sub Section (2) of Section 176 read with sub-section (2) of Section 67 of the Electricity Act, 2006, authorizing the District Magistrate to fix compensation payable to owner by the licensee. In the aforesaid order, Deputy Commissioner also took cognigence of the judgment dated 17.3.2010, passed by the Division Bench of this Court in CWP No. 513 /2007 titled A.D. Hydro Project v. State of H.P.

6. Ms. Jyotsna, learned Senior Counsel, during arguments invited attention of this Court to the aforesaid notification, perusal whereof clearly suggests that reliance placed by the Deputy Commissioner, on the notification, is totally mis-placed. Aforesaid notification dated 18.4.2006, is issued by the Central Government. Clause 4 of the notification clearly provides that "nothing contained in this rule shall affect the powers conferred upon any licensee under section 164 of the Act." At this stage, it would be profitable to take note of Section 164 of the Electricity Act, 2003, herein below:-

"Section 164 Exercise of powers of Telegraph Authority in certain cases:

The Appropriate Government may, by order in writing, for the placing of electric lines or electrical plant for the transmission of electricity or for the purpose of telephonic or telegraphic communications necessary for the proper co-ordination of works, confer upon any public officer, licensee or any other person engaged in the business of supplying electricity under this Act, subject to such conditions and restrictions, if any, as the Appropriate Government may think fit to impose and to the provisions of the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885 (13 of 1885), any of the powers which the telegraph authority possesses under that Act with respect to the placing of telegraph lines and posts for the purposes of a telegraph established or maintained, by the Government or to be so established or maintained."

7. Careful perusal of aforesaid provision of law contained under Section 164 of Indian Electricity Act, clearly suggests that an appropriate government by order in writing for placing of electric lines or electrical plants for the transmission of electricity, confer upon any public officer, licensee or any other person engaged in the business of supplying electricity under the Act, any of the powers, which the telegraph authority possesses under that Act with respect to the placing of telegraph lines and posts, subject to conditions and restrictions, if any, as the appropriate Government, may think fit to impose and to the provisions of the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885. Bare reading of aforesaid provision of law suggests that an appropriate Government with a view to ensure smooth laying of transmission of electricity or telephone lines, may impose conditions as it may think fit and also resort to the provisions of Indian Telegraph Act, 1885.

8. Otherwise also, notification dated 23.5.2016, issued by the HP State Electricity Board suggests that it also framed similar rules under Sections 67 and 68 of the Electricity Act, 2003, which are para-materia to the Electricity Central Rules and it also contains similar conditions that nothing contained in this rule shall effect the powers conferred upon any licensee under Section 164 of the Act. Under Section 16 (3) of the Act, which has been reproduced supra, specific authority i.e. District Judge, has been prescribed for determining compensation qua the damage to the house and property by the licensee while erecting towers and laying transmission lines and as such, determination of compensation by the Deputy Commissioner, drawing strength from the notification referred herein above, is totally without jurisdiction and against the Statute, which otherwise specifically provides for the remedy.

9. In view of the discussion made herein above, this Court is persuaded to agree with Ms. Jyotsna Rewal Dua, learned Senior counsel that Deputy Commissioner Kullu, had no jurisdiction at all to determine the compensation while exercising power under Section 16 (3) of the Act, drawing strength, if any, from the aforesaid notification, Rule 3 (4) whereof clearly provides that under Section 164 of the Act, authority responsible for laying transmission lines can prescribe/formulate certain guidelines, but subject to such conditions and restrictions, if any, as the appropriate Government may think fit to impose and to the provision of the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885 (13 of 1885).

10. As far as judgment rendered by the Division Bench of this Court in CWP No. 513 of 2007 is concerned, this Court is not persuaded to agree with Mr. G.R. Palsra, learned counsel that in view of the mandate given in that judgment, Deputy Commissioner was duty bound to determine the compensation under Section 16 (3) of the Act, because bare perusal of judgment clearly suggests that petitioner therein had approached the Court in altogether different circumstances and by way of that petition, petitioner had prayed that a direction may be issued to the respondent to ensure that petitioner company is able to carry out transmission work of the time bound 192 MW Hydro Electric Power Project peacefully in spite of the objections of the owners/occupiers/any person claiming any interest on the land over which the towers are to be constructed. Petitioner therein also prayed that respondent be directed to make available to the petitioner, lands where the towers as per its approved scheme scheme/surveys are to be erected and the transmission lines are to be laid out. In the aforesaid petition, petitioner also prayed that respondent may also be directed to specify any agency/officer with which the petitioner company is required to deposit the compensation for the damage qua the land over which transmission towers of the Project is proposed to be erected. Division Bench of this Court having taken note of the pleadings adduced on record by the respective parties, held that Section 118 of the HP Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972, is not applicable in the present case and directed the State Government and authorities concerned to render helping hand to the petitioner so that developmental project is able to commence the commercial production at least by 1.6.2010. But since land owners were not allowing the company to erect towers despite readiness of the company to pay compensation, Division Bench directed the Deputy Commissioner to ensure that compensation is paid to the land owners and no unnecessary delay is caused for the enhancement of the project. Leaving everything aside, this court is in full agreement with Ms. Dua that there cannot be any direction against the statute. When Section 16 (3) specifically provides that in the event of dispute inter-se parties with regard to the compensation, it is only District Judge, who is competent to decide the dispute inter-se parties, within whose jurisdiction the property is situate. In the case at hand, as has been discussed herein above, Deputy Commissioner has wrongly determined the compensation taking cognigence of the application having been filed by the respondent under Section 16 (3), which is/was otherwise not maintainable before it and as such, order, if any, passed by it on that application cannot be allowed to sustain being passed without any jurisdiction.

11. Interestingly, in the case at hand, learned District Judge while deciding the application filed by the applicant under Section 16 (3), which otherwise is the only prescribed mode under the Act to dispute the compensation, failed to decide the specific objections raised by the applicant, rather he without deciding the question of maintainability/competence of Deputy Commissioner, to decide proceedings under Section 16 (3), proceeded to decide the application filed under Section 16 (3) by the respondent that too in the proceedings filed by the applicant under Section 16 (3), which was definitely filed against the order passed by the Deputy Commissioner. Careful perusal of impugned order passed by the learned District Judge, clearly suggests that it while deciding the application having been filed by the respondent under Section 16(3) placed sole reliance upon report which was called for by the Deputy Commissioner pursuant to application filed by the respondent, seeking therein compensation under Section 16 (3) from the SDM. It is not in dispute that respondent while prosecuting his case under Section 16 (3) before the District Judge, did not adduce on record any evidence, in support of his claim, rather reliance, if any, is/was placed upon report of the SDM, which was admittedly called for by the District Judge in the proceedings initiated by it under Section 16 (3) of the Act, which was beyond its jurisdiction. Since proceedings initiated by the Deputy Commissioner under Section 16 (3) were also beyond his jurisdiction, report, if any, called in those proceedings could not be relied upon by the District Judge while determining the compensation, if any, in the application having been filed by the respondent under Section 16(3) of the Act, that too, in the petition having been filed by the petitioner herein, laying therein challenge to order passed by the District Judge, whereby he without jurisdiction awarded sum of Rs. 4 lac as compensation.

12. Reliance is placed on judgment passed by co-ordinate Bench of this Court in case titled "Nar Singh Dass v. Union of India through Secretary (Power and Energy), GOI, New Delhi and Ors," 2013 (2) Shim.LC 879, relevant para whereof is reproduced herein below:-

> 4. In Power Grid Corporation of India Limited versus Basant Singh and others, LPA 204 of 2007, decided on 21st May, 2010, Division Bench of this Court presided over by Hon'ble the Chief Justice has considered the provisions of Indian Telegraph Act, 1885. Adverting to the provisions of Section 10 and 16, this Court holds:
>
> > "2. Under Section 10(d) it is clear that the Telegraph Authority while exercising power conferred under the Section for drawing the line or placing a post etc. it shall do as little damage as possible and in case there is any damage it shall pay full compensation to all persons interested for any damage sustained by them by reason of the drawing line or placing tower. By a separate Notification this Act has been made applicable to exercise of the powers by the appellant under the provisions of erstwhile Indian Electricity Act, 1910 read with Electricity (Supply) Act, 1948. Under Section 16 of the Indian Telegraph Act, if there is any dispute on sufficiency of the compensation, it is open to the disputing party to approach the District Judge of competent jurisdiction for adjudication regarding sufficiency of compensation. The provision reads as follows:-
> > "16(3). If any dispute arises concerning the sufficiency of the compensation to be paid under Section 10, clause (d), it shall, on application for that purpose by either of the disputing parties to the District Judge within whose jurisdiction the property is situate, be determined by him."
> >
> > 3. Under Section 10(d) of the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885 what is contemplated is the compensation for the damage caused to a property by drawing an electric/ telegraph line or placing a tower. It is not the compensation as understood under the Land Acquisition Act where the land itself is acquired. Once the land is acquired, the party from whom land is acquired ceases to be owner of the property and ownership, title and possession, after acquisition vests in the acquisitioning/ requisitioning authority. As far as the exercise of power for drawing of telegraph line or placing a tower etc. is concerned, the party is never divested of its ownership or title or possession. It is only a permissive use which is given a statutorily status. In the process, no doubt, the owner might suffer some injury. That injury is to be compensated in terms of the extent of injury like the adverse impact on the prospects of income or use of the property. It can never be land value as such since, as we have already stated above, the owner is never divested of his title, ownership or possession. But at the same time injury certainly could be there. Under Section 10(d) or in exercise of power under Section 16(3) the question only shall be as to what is the extent of injury to the property over which line is drawn or tower is placed, to be compensated in terms of money and nothing more.
> > 4. Having analysed the legal position as above, and on going through the factual position in the present case, we find that the learned District Judge has misdirected himself in granting the land value itself by way of compensation by comparing the value of the property in the vicinity. That method is to be adopted, only when the Court exercises its power under Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 for the purpose of deciding land value in a case duly referred to the Court after acquisition of the property. The power that is exercised under Section 16(3) of the Indian Telegraph Act is not akin to the power exercised by the Reference Court under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894."

13. Consequently, in view of the discussion made herein above as well as judgment relied upon, it is quite apparent that power under Section 16 (3) of the Act for determining the compensation could only be exercised by the District Judge, not by the Deputy Commissioner and as such, impugned order dated 11.11.2013 passed by the learned Deputy Commissioner Kullu, is held to be void and illegal having passed without jurisdiction. Similarly, impugned order dated 22.8.2017, passed by the learned District Judge, Kullu, also cannot be allowed to sustain in view of the detailed discussion made herein above and as such, both the orders are quashed and set-aside. However, liberty is reserved to the respondent to file appropriate proceedings, if required and desired before appropriate court of law in accordance with law for compensation. Since matter remained pending adjudication before this Court as well as courts below, plea of limitation would not be raised in case respondent approaches the appropriate court of law for redressal of his grievances, within a period of two months from the date of passing of judgment.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, J.

Respondents No. 2 and 3 i.e. Returning Officer, 32-Dharampur Constituency and Election Commission of India have filed this application for deletion of their names on the ground that they are not necessary parties to the petition.

2. It is averred that as per the statutory requirements of the election laws, an election contest is not an action at law or a suit in equity but is purely a statutory proceeding unknown to the common law and even though the applicants may be proper parties under the Code of Civil Procedure but under the provisions of the Act, they cannot be made as parties to the election petition.

3. The petitioner/non-applicant has opposed the application by filing reply wherein it is averred that respondents No. 2 and 3 being necessary parties to the litigation, their names cannot be deleted.

4. When the case came up for consideration on 20.11.2018, the petitioner sought time to file supplementary affidavit and in the supplementary affidavit so filed, it is averred that since specific averments have been made in the election petition referring to the role of respondents No.2 and 3 in paragraphs 9, 10, 11 to 14, 17 to 20, 22, 25, 26, 29, 30 to 34, therefore, they are the necessary parties.

5. Respondent No.1 has not filed reply to the application, but has supported the contents of the application and would further claim that since the petitioner despite having been afforded opportunity to delete the names of respondents No.2 and 3, has failed to do so, thereafter the election petition itself is liable to be rejected under Section 86(1) of the Act.

6. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have thoroughly gone through the contents of the application, reply and supplementary affidavit.

7. At the out-set, it needs to be observed that elections and election disputes are a matter of special nature and that though the right to franchise and right to office are involved in an election dispute, it is not a lis at common law nor an action in equity. (See: Constitution Bench decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in N.P.Ponnuswami vs. Returning Officer, Namakkal Constituency 1952 AIR (SC) 64).

8. The general rule is well settled that the statutory requirements of election law must be strictly observed and that an election contest is not an action at law or a suit in equity but is a purely statutory proceeding unknown to the common law and the Court possesses no common law power.

9. The right conferred being a statutory right, the terms of that statute have to be complied with. There is no question of any common law right to challenge an election.

10. A right to elect, fundamental though it is to democracy, is, anomalously enough, neither a fundamental right nor a Common Law Right. It is pure and simple a statutory right. So is the right to be elected. So is the right to dispute an election. Outside of statute, there is no right to elect, no right to be elected and no right to dispute an election. Statutory creations they are, and therefore, subject to statutory limitation. An election petition is not an action at Common Law, nor in equity. It is a statutory proceeding to which neither the Common Law nor the principles of equity apply but only those rules which the statute makes and applies. It is a special jurisdiction, and a special jurisdiction has always to be exercised in accordance with the statute creating it. Concepts familiar to Common Law and Equity must remain strangers to Election Law unless statutorily embodied. A Court has no right to resort to them on considerations of alleged policy because policy in such matters, as those, relating to the trial of election disputes, is what the statute lays down. In the trial of election disputes, Court is put in a straight-jacket. Thus, the entire election process commencing from the issuance of the notification calling upon a constituency to elect a member or members right up to the final resolution of the dispute if any, concerning the election is regulated by the Representation of the People Act, 1951, different stages of the process being dealt with by different provisions of the Act. (See: Jyoti Basu v. Debi Chosal, AIR 1982 SC 983).

11. The legal position is, therefore, well settled that election disputes are strictly statutory proceedings. The Representation of the People Act, 1951 is a complete Code and election disputes are strictly statutory proceedings which are to be regulated by the Act. The persons who may be joined as respondents in an election petition are governed exclusively by Sections 82 and 86(4) of the Act, which are reproduced here-in-below for ready reference:

> "82.Parties to the petition*.-A petitioner shall join as respondents to his petition -*
>
> (a) where the petitioner, in addition to claiming declaration that the election of all or any of the returned candidates is void, claims a further declaration that he himself or any other candidate has been duly elected, all the contesting candidates other than the petitioner, and where no such further declaration is claimed, all the returned candidates; and
>
> (b) any other candidate against whom allegations of any corrupt practice are made in the petition."
>
> "86 (4). Any candidate not already a respondent shall upon application made by him to the High Court within fourteen days from the date of commencement of the trial and subject to any order as to security for costs which may be made by the High Court, be entitled to be joined as a respondent.
> Explanation.- For the purposes of this sub-section and of Section 97, the trial of a petition shall be deemed to commence on the date fixed for the respondents to appear before the High Court and answer the claim or claims made in the petition."

12. The aforesaid provisions came up for consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jyoti Basu case (supra), wherein it was held that no one may be joined as a party to an election petition otherwise than as provided under Sections 82 and 86(4) of the Act. It follows that a person who is not a candidate may not be joined as a respondent to the election petition.

13. In B. Sundara Rami Reddy vs. Election Commission of India and others 1991 Supp (2) SCC 624, the Hon'ble Supreme Court categorically held that Election Commission is not to be impleaded as a respondent in an election petition as it is neither a necessary nor a proper party. It is further held that it is Section 82 of the Act which governs such situation, whereas the CPC applies only to a limited extent i.e. subject to the provisions of the Representation of the People Act. It is yet further held that the concept of 'proper party' is and must remain alien to an election dispute under the Act and only those may be joined as respondents to an election petition, who were mentioned in Sections 82 and 86(4) and no others. However, desirable and expedient it may appear to be, none else shall be joined as parties.

14. Complete answer to both the questions i.e. who are necessary parties to an election petition and what is the effect of joining of a person(s) who are not necessary parties is to found in B.S. Yadiyurappa vs. Mahalingappa and others AIR 2001 SC 4041, wherein after placing reliance on the judgments, as referred to above, it was observed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court as under:

> "2. Respondent Nos. 4 and 5 moved an interim application in the election petition praying that their names be deleted from the array of parties thereto. An application to the same effect was made by the first respondent; he also moved an application praying that the election petition be dismissed because of the impleadment of respondent nos. 4 and 5. By the judgment and order under challenge, a learned single Judge of the High Court allowed the latter application. He dismissed the election petition under the provisions of Section 86(1) of the Representation of the People Act, 1951 ("the said Act") because parties other than those mentioned in Section 82 of the said Act had been impleaded thereto.
> 3. The election petitioner is in appeal.
> 4. Our attention has been drawn to the judgment of this Court in Maraka Radhey Shyam Ram Kumar v. Roop Singh Rathore & Ors., [1964] 3 SCR 573. A Constitution Bench considered the very situation with which we arc now concerned. It noted that the foundation of the argument before it was that there had been non-compliance with the provisions of Section 82. What had happened there, as here, was this : All the parties whom it was necessary to join under the provisions of Section 82 were joined as respondents to the petition, but other respondents, in excess of the requirements of Section 82, were also Joined. The question, therefore, was did this amount to non-compliance with, or contravention of, the provisions of Section 82. Learned counsel for the appellant in that case wanted the Court to read Section 82 as though it said that the persons named therein and no others should be joined as respondents to the petition. He wanted the Court to add "and no others" to the Section. The Court found no warrant for such a reading of Section 82. It held that if all the necessary parties had been joined to the election petition, the circumstance that a person who was not a necessary party had also been impleaded did not amount to a breach of provisions of Section 82 and no question of dismissing the election petition arose. It was open to the Tribunal (or, here, the Court) to strike out the name of the party who was not a necessary party within the meaning of Section 82. The position, it was noted, would be different if a person who was required to be joined as a necessary party under Section 82 was not impleaded as a party to the petition.

5. This judgment in Maraka Radhey Shyam Ram Kumar was not noticed by the learned Single Judge in the judgment under challenge but was distinguished on the ground that it was confined to its own facts. We find it difficult to agree. This is not a judgment that is confined to its own facts but is an elucidation of the law set out in Section 82 of the said Act.

6. In Mohan Raj v. Surendra Kumar Taparia & Ors., [1969] 1 SCR 630 the same position was reiterated. It was held that in an election petition the court can strike out a party who is not necessary but, by reason of the provisions of the said Act, the power of impleadment, cannot be used if a necessary party has not been joined.

7. In Jyoti Basu & Ors. v. Debi Ghosal & Ors., [1982] 1 SCC 691, this Court dealt with Section 82 of the said Act, and it is this judgment which the High Court principally relied upon. The ratio of this judgment, is that a person who is not a candidate cannot be joined as a respondent to an election petition. The High Court, however, failed to notice that, having so held, this Court ordered the deletion of the superfluous party from the array of parties.

8. It is, therefore, clear, on the authorities of this Court, that those who are mentioned in Section 82 of the said Act must be made parties to an election petition and, if they are not, the election petition is one which does not comply with the provisions of Section 82 and must, therefore, be dismissed by reason of the terms of Section 86( 1). It does not, however, follow that if to an election patition parties other than those who are necessary parties under Section 82 have been impleaded, the election petition is one that does not comply with the provisions of Section 82 and must be dismissed. Such a petition can be amended by striking out from the array of parties those additionally impleaded."

15. Similar reiteration of law can be found in another Hon'ble three Judges Bench decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Michael B. Fernandes vs. C.K. Jaffer Sharief and others (2002) 3 SCC 521, wherein it was observed as under:

"4. ....Mr. Venkataramani then relied upon the decision of Calcutta High Court in Dwijendra Lal Sen Gupta vs. Hare Krishna Konar, A.I.R. 1963 Calcutta 218, where the question came up for consideration directly and the Calcutta High Court did observe that the Returning Officer may nevertheless in an appropriate case be a "proper party" who may be added as party to the election petition and undoubtedly, the aforesaid observation supports the contention of Mr. Venkararamani. Following the aforesaid decision, a learned Single Judge of the Bombay High Court in the case of H.R. Gokhale vs. Bharucha Noshir C. and Ors., A.I.R. 1969 Bombay 177, had also observed that the observations of Shah, J in Ram Sewak Yadav's case, AIR 1964 SC 1249 in paragraph (6) is not intended to lay down that the Returning Officer can in no event be a proper party to an election petition. But both these aforesaid decisions of the Calcutta High Court and Bombay High Court had been considered by this Court in Jyoti Basu case and the Court took the view that the public policy and legislative wisdom both seem to point to an interpretation of the provisions of the Representation of the People Act which does not permit the joining, as parties, of persons other than those mentioned in Sections 82 and 86(4). The Court also in paragraph (12) considered the consequences if persons other than those mentioned in Section 82 are permitted to be added as parties and held that the necessary consequences would be an unending, disorderly election dispute with no hope of achieving the goal contemplated by Section 86(6) of the Act. In the aforesaid premises, we reiterate the views taken by this Court in Jyoti Basu's case and reaffirmed in the latter case in B. Sundara Rami Reddy and we see no infirmity with the impugned judgment, requiring our interference under Article 136 of the Constitution. This appeal accordingly fails and is dismissed."

16. Thus, what can be taken to be settled in view of the aforesaid exposition of law when read with Sections 82 and 86(4) of the Act is that the contest of the election petition is designed to be confined to the candidates at the election and all others are excluded and, therefore, only those may be joined as respondents to an election petition, who are mentioned in Sections 82 and 86(4) and no others. The provisions of the Civil Procedure Code apply to election disputes only as far as may be and subject to the provisions of the Act and any rules made thereunder and the provisions of the Code cannot be invoked to permit which is not permissible under the Act. It is in this context that the concept of 'proper parties' is and remains alien to an election dispute under the Act.

17. Since Section 82 designates the persons who are to be joined as respondents to the petition, provisions of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908 relating to the joinder of parties stands excluded. Under the Code even if a party is not necessary party, he is required to be joined as a party to a suit or proceedings if such person is a proper party, but the Act does not provide for joinder of a proper party to an election petition. The concept of joining a proper party to an election petition is ruled out by the provisions of the Act. Therefore, the concept of joinder of a proper party to a suit or proceeding underlying Order 1 of the Civil Procedure Code cannot be imported to the trial of election petition, in view of the express provisions of Sections 82 and 87 of the Act. The Act is a self-contained Code which does not contemplate joinder of a person or authority to an election petition on the ground of proper party.

18. Now, adverting to the submissions made by Mr. Satya Pal Jain, learned senior Counsel for respondent No.1 that the election petition should be dismissed as the petitioner despite opportunity has failed to delete the names of respondents No.2 and 3, I am afraid that such contention is too far fetched and, therefore, not sustainable in the eyes of law.

19. In all the judgments cited above, it has been categorically held that the person who was not "contesting candidate" and/or "other than contesting candidate" though impleaded to the election petition, does not amount to breach of provisions of the Act and petition, therefore, cannot be dismissed on that ground. The petitioner can amend the petition by striking them out from the array of the respondents.

20. Thus, in view of the well settled proposition of law, even though, respondents No. 2 and 3 are not necessary parties and are required to be deleted from the array of the respondents. However the mere fact that their names were not deleted by the petitioner earlier, will not entail the dismissal of the election petition as this defect is otherwise curable. Accordingly, respondents No. 2 and 3 are ordered to be deleted from the array of the respondents.

21. Amended memo be filed by the petitioner within one week.

22. Accordingly, EMP No.7 of 2018 stands disposed of in the above terms.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The defendants are the appellants who aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by the learned first appellate Court whereby it has reversed the decree of learned trial Court, have filed the instant appeal.

2. One Sanehru Devi widow of Labha Ram filed civil suit No. 37/91 against Khillo Devi (present respondent) claiming herself to be the sole widow of Labha Ram. Khillo Devi appointed Shakti Chand (appellant No. 2) as power of attorney and on that authority submitted a compromise before the Lok Adalat leading to the passing of a compromise decree Ext.P1 dated 05.02.1994. The compromise decree was subsequently challenged by Khillo Devi on the ground that one day prior to the passing of the compromise decree Khillo Devi has cancelled the power of attorney executed in favour of Shakti Chand vide document Ext. PW2/A dated 04.02.1994. Therefore, he (Shakti Chand) had no lawful authority to effect any compromise on the basis of the power of attorney, which already stood cancelled. Therefore, the decree passed by the Lok Adalat on the basis of the compromise was against law and having been obtained by fraud, is liable to be set aside.

3. The learned trial Court dismissed the suit, however, the said decree and judgment was reversed by the learned first appellate Court by declaring that decree in civil suit No. 37/91 dated 05.02.1994 of the learned Sub Judge Ist Class-II, Hamirpur was a result of fraud, misrepresentation and collusion between both the defendants and resultantly the same was set aside and the defendants were prohibited from claiming any interest under the decree.

4. Aggrieved by the judgment and decree passed by the learned first appellate Court the defendants have filed the present appeal which came to be admitted on the following substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether it is open for the lower appellate court to ignore the provisions of proviso and explanation of Rule 3 of Order 23 CPC in the instant case?
2. Whether compromise and decree Ext.P1 passed by Lok Adalat on 05.02.1994 having lawfully acquired sanctity of a judicial order, was correctly accepted by the trial court?
3. Whether the provisions of Order 23 Rule 3A were illegally interpreted by the lower appellate Court resulting setting aside a compromise decree?
4. Whether the documents Ext.P4 i.e. suit No. 37/91, Ext. P1 compromise decree, Ex.P2, P3, PX, PW5/B, PW5/A i.e. written statement, written agreement as per provisions of Order 23 Rule 3 CPC judgment of Sub Judge (I) Hamirpur, written statement of Khillo Devi, copy of power of attorney by Khillo Devi in favour of Shakti Chand, respectively were legally and correctly appreciated by lower appellate Court?
5. Whether the appreciation of law and facts made by lower appellate court of the case, is patently erroneous and defective in law and procedure?

5. However during the pendency of the appeal, Shri G.D. Verma, learned Senior Advocate, for the appellant, only raised question of the maintainability of the suit in view of the specific bar contained in Section 96(3) and Order 23 Rule 3 and 3-A of the Code of Civil Procedure (for short the 'Code').

6. In addition to relying upon the aforesaid provisions, Shri G. D. Verma, learned Senior Counsel, for the appellant has placed reliance upon the following judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court:-

1. Pushpa Devi Bhagat (D) by Lr. vs. Rajinder Singh & Ors. AIR 2006 SC 2628
2. In R. Rajanna vs. S.R. Venkataswamy & Ors., 2014 (15) SCC 471

3. In Y. Sleebachen and Ors. vs. State of Tamil Nadu & Anr., 2015 (5) SCC 747.

7. On the other hand, Shri Bhupender Gupta, learned Senior Advocate, would vehemently contend that a separate suit to assail the compromise, that too, on the ground of fraud was maintainable, especially, when it is settled law that fraud vitiate all transactions. He has placed reliance upon the following judgments:-

1. Kewal Krishan vs. Shiv Kumar & Ors., AIR 1970 P&H 176.
2. S.G. Thimmappa vs. T. Anantha & Ors., AIR 1986 Kar. 1.
3. Mukhtiar Singh vs. Arjun Singh, 1993 (Suppl) CCC 81.
4. Karnail Singh & Ors. vs. Dalip Kaur & Ors., 1995 (2) CCC 588.
5. Dhan Sukh vs. Liaq Ram, 1997 (2) SLC 203.
6. Ram Kishan & Ors. Vs. Sardari Devi & Ors., 2003 (1) CCC 11.

8. Section 96(3) and Order 23 Rules 3 and 3-A of the Code of Civil Procedure, read thus:-

"Section 96(3) – No appeal shall lie from a decree passed by the Court with the consent of parties."

Section 23(3)

Compromise of suit – Where it is proved to the satisfaction of the court that a suit has been adjusted wholly or in part by any lawful agreement or compromise (in writing and signed by the parties) or where the defendant satisfies the plaintiff in respect of the whole or any part of the subject-matter of the suit, the court shall order such agreement, compromise or satisfaction to be recorded and shall pass a decree in accordance therewith (so far as it relates to the parties to the suit, whether or not the subject-matter of the agreement, compromise or satisfaction is the same as the subject-matter of the suit)

Provided that where it is alleged by one party and denied by the other that an adjustment or satisfaction has been arrived at, the Court shall decide the question; but no adjournment shall be granted for the purpose of deciding the question, unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded, thinks fit to grant such adjournment.

Explanation – An agreement or compromise which is void or voidable under the Indian Contract Act, 1872 (9 of 1872), shall not be deemed to be lawful within the meaning of this rule."

"Section 23(3-A)

Bar to suit – No suit shall lie to set aside a decree on the ground that the compromise on which the decree is based was not lawful.

9. Rule 3-A was introduced in Order 23 to give finality to litigation and to avoid multiplicity of suits by putting a bar on new suit on the ground that the agreement on which compromise decree was passed in the first suit was not lawful.

10. I find that substantial question of law is no longer res intergra in view of the authoritative pronouncement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in R. Rajanna's case (supra), wherein the precise question before the Hon'ble Supreme Court was whether the validity of a decree passed on compromise could be challenged in a separate suit as is evident from para

2 of the judgment. The appellant therein had filed a suit for declaration to the effect that gift deed dated 12.08.1982 executed by one Ramaiah was void. The suit was decreed by the learned trial Court by holding that the gift deed in question to be null and void and hence not binding on the appellant. Aggrieved by the judgment and decree, appeal came to be filed before the Hon'ble High Court of Karnataka. According to the respondent a compromise petition was in terms of Order 23 Rule 3 of the CPC filed by the parties before the Court in the said appeal settling the dispute amicably. The appellant stoutly disputed that position and asserted that no such compromise was needed nor was the same entered into between the parties and such compromise was, in fact, termed as a forged and fabricated document. The appellant denied that he ever signed any such compromise petition and asked his advocate to file the same before the Court and would allege that even so the High Court had proceeded on the basis that a comprise had indeed taken place between the parties and consequently the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial Court was set aside and the appeal filed by the respondent came to be allowed. The appellant contested before the Hon'ble Supreme court that the order passed by the High Court was a result of fraud played upon the High Court.

11. Aggrieved by the judgment and order passed by the High Court, appellant filed suit before the Additional City Civil Judge, Bangalore, in which he prayed for setting aside the compromise recorded by the High Court and the decree passed on the basis thereof. The defendant/respondent No. 1 moved an application in the said suit under Order7 Rule 11(d) read with Section 151 of the code for rejection of the plaint on the ground that the suit in question was barred by Rule 3-A Order 23 of the Code. The application was allowed and consequently the plaint came to be rejected. The Court took the view that in light of the proviso to Order 23 Rule 3 CPC inserted w.e.f. 01.02.1977, a party aggrieved of a decree on compromise had to approach the Court that passed the decree to establish that no compromise had taken place between the parties which could provide a basis for the Court to act upon the same. In doing so, the Court placed reliance upon the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pushpa Devi's case (supra).

12. After rejection of the plaint, the appellant filed miscellaneous applications before the Karnataka High Court for setting aside the compromise. It was alleged that no such compromise had taken place nor was any compromise petition was ever signed by the appellant. It was further alleged that appellant had given no instructions to his advocate for presenting any compromise petition and alleged that compromise petition was totally fraudulent and based on formed signature of the appellant apart from unauthorised, the counsel engaged by him had no authority to present or report any such compromise before the Court. The High Court of Karnataka without adverting to the provisions of Order 23 Rule 3-A CPC, dismissed the application and it was in this background that the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:-

> "7.It was after the rejection of the plaint that the appellant filed miscellaneous application IA Nos. 1 and 2 of 2011 in RFA No.223 of 1991 praying for setting aside of order dated 1st August, 1995 by which the High Court had allowed the appeal filed by the respondents and set aside the decree passed in OS No.5236 of 2005 on the basis of the alleged compromise between the parties. The appellant's case before the High Court was that no such compromise had taken place nor was any compromise petition ever signed by him. It was also alleged that the appellant had given no instructions to his advocate for presenting any compromise petition and that the alleged compromise petition was totally fraudulent and based on forged signature of the appellant apart from being unauthorised as the counsel engaged by him had no authority to present or report any such compromise before the Court. The appellant also prayed for condonation of delay in filing the application for setting aside the compromise decree passed by the High Court.

8. The High Court of Karnataka has by its orders impugned in this appeal, dismissed IA No.1 of 2011 filed by the appellant without even adverting to the provisions of Order XXIII Rule 3 CPC and in particular Rule 3A which bars a suit to have a compromise decree set aside on the ground that the compromise on which the decree had been passed did not exist or take place. The High Court appears to have taken the view that even if the compromise was fraudulent since the appellant had filed a suit for declaration he ought to pursue the same to its logical conclusion. The High Court further held that even if the plaint in the suit filed by the appellant had been rejected in terms of Order VII Rule 11(d) of CPC, the appellant ought to seek redress against any such order of rejection. The High Court has on that basis declined to consider the prayer made by the appellant for setting aside the compromise decree.

9. The precise question that falls for determination in the above backdrop is whether the High Court was right in directing the appellant to seek redress in the suit having regard to the provisions of Order XXIII rule 3 and Rule 3A of CPC.

10. Order XXIII Rule 3 and Rule 3A of CPC may at this stage be extracted for ready reference:

> "3. Compromise of suit. - Where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that a suit has been adjusted wholly or in part by any lawful agreement or compromise [in writing and signed by the parties], or where the defendant satisfies the plaintiff in respect of the whole or any part of the subject-matter of the suit, the Court shall order such agreement, compromise or satisfaction to be recorded, and shall pass a decree in accordance therewith [so far it relates to the parties to the suit, whether or not the subject-matter of the agreement, compromise, or satisfaction is the same as the subject-matter of the suit]:
>
> [Provided that where it is alleged by one party and denied by the other that an adjustment or satisfaction has been arrived at, the Court shall decide the question; but no adjournment shall be granted for the purpose of deciding the question, unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded, thinks fit to grant such adjournment.]
> Explanation - An agreement or compromise which is void or voidable under the Indian Contract Act, 1872 shall not be deemed to be lawful within the meaning of this rule."

11. It is manifest from a plain reading of the above that in terms of the proviso to Order XXIII Rule 3 where one party alleges and the other denies adjustment or satisfaction of any suit by a lawful agreement or compromise in writing and signed by the parties, the Court before whom such question is raised, shall decide the same. What is important is that in terms of Explanation to Order XXIII Rule 3, the agreement or compromise shall not be deemed to be lawful within meaning of the said rule if the same is void or voidable under Indian Contract Act, 1872. It follows that in every case where the question arises whether or not there has been a lawful agreement or compromise in writing and signed by the parties, the question whether the agreement or compromise is lawful has to be determined by the Court concerned. What is lawful will in turn depend upon whether the allegations suggest any infirmity in the compromise and the decree that would make the same void or voidable under the Contract Act. More importantly, Order XXIII Rule 3A clearly bars a suit to set aside a decree on the ground that the compromise on which the decree is based was not lawful. This implies that no sooner a question relating to lawfulness of the agreement or compromise is raised before the Court that passed the decree on the basis of any such agreement or compromise, it is that Court and that Court alone who can examine and determine that question. The Court cannot direct the parties to file a separate suit on the subject for no such suit will lie in view of the provisions of Order XXIII Rule 3A of CPC. That is precisely what has happened in the case at hand. When the appellant filed OS No.5326 of 2005 to challenge validity of the compromise decree, the Court before whom the suit came up rejected the plaint under Order VII Rule 11 CPC on the application made by the respondents holding that such a suit was barred by the provisions of Order XXIII Rule 3A of the CPC. Having thus got the plaint rejected, the defendants (respondents herein) could hardly be heard to argue that the plaintiff (appellant herein) ought to pursue his remedy against the compromise decree in pursuance of OS No.5326 of 2005 and if the plaint in the suit has been rejected to pursue his remedy against such rejection before a higher Court.

12. The upshot of the above discussion is that the High Court fell in a palpable error in directing the plaintiff to take recourse to the remedy by way of separate suit. The High Court in the process remained oblivious of the provisions of Order XXIII Rules 3 and 3A of the CPC as also orders passed by the City Civil Court rejecting the plaint in which the Trial Court had not only placed reliance upon Order XXIII Rule 3A but also the decision of the Court in Pushpa Devi's case holding that a separate suit was not maintainable and that the only remedy available to the aggrieved party was to approach the Court which had passed the compromise decree. The following passage from the decision of Pushpa Devi case is, in this regard, apposite:

> "17. ..Therefore, the only remedy available to a party to a consent decree to avoid such consent decree, is to approach the court which recorded the compromise and made a decree in terms of it, and establish that there was no compromise. In that event, the court which recorded the compromise will itself consider and decide the question as to whether there was a valid compromise or not. This is so because a consent decree is nothing but contract between parties superimposed with the seal of approval of the court. The validity of a consent decree depends wholly on the validity of the agreement or compromise on which it is made. The second defendant, who challenged the consent compromise decree was fully aware of this position as she filed an application for setting aside the consent decree on 21-8- 2001 by alleging that there was no valid compromise in accordance with law. Significantly, none of the other defendants challenged the consent decree. For reasons best known to herself, the second defendant within a few daysthereafter (that is on 27-8-2001) filed an appeal and chose not to pursue the application filed before the court which passed the consent decree. Such an appeal by the second defendant was not > maintainable, having regard to the express bar contained in Section 96(3) of the Code."

> We may also refer to the decision of this Court in Banwari Lal v. Chando Devi, 1993 1 SCC 581where also this Court had observed:
> "13.....As such a party challenging a compromise can file a petition under proviso to Rule 3 of Order XXIII, or an appeal under S. 96(1) of the Code, in which he can now question the validity of the compromise in view of Rule 1-A of Order 13 of the Code."

13. Bearing in mind the aforesaid exposition of law, more particularly, the observations made in para -10 of the aforesaid judgment, it is evidently clear that all questions with regard to lawfulness validity of the agreement or compromise as being void or voidable or where the compromise, in question, having been obtained by a fraud, duress, coercion etc., the same has to be raised before that Court which passed the decree on the basis of any such agreement or compromise. The Court cannot direct the parties to file a separate suit on the subject or no such suit will lie in view of the provisions of Order 23 Rule 3-A CPC.

14. The substantial question of law is answered in favour of the appellants. Resultantly, I find merit in this appeal and the same is allowed and the judgment and decree passed by the first appellate Court is set aside and the suit filed by the plaintiff-respondent is ordered to be dismissed as being not maintainable under the provisions of Section 96(3) and Order 23 Rule 3 an 3-A of the CPC.

15. However, before parting, it needs to be noticed that learned Single Judge of this Court in Dhan Sukh's case (supra) has taken a contrary view to the one taken by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in R. Rajanna's case (supra) and has held that a suit set aside a compromise decree on the ground of fraud and misrepresentation would still be maintainable even after insertion of Rule 3-A to Order 23 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Obviously, the view taken by the learned Single Judge is no longer good law in light of the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in R. Rajanna's case (supra).

16. Normally, the judgment of Coordinate Bench of this Court, in absence of any judgment to the contrary by Hon'ble Supreme Court or by Larger Bench of this Court would be binding on this Bench and, in case, of any difference of opinion would be required to be referred to a Larger Bench.

17. However, no such reference is necessary if the Hon'ble Supreme court has given a decision in the matter because as soon as the Hon'ble Supreme Court gives its decision, all the decisions of the High Court on the point are overruled and this legal position has been duly noticed by Hon'ble Division Bench of this Court in Samriti Gupta and another vs. State of H.P. and others, Latest HLJ 2016 (HP) 191, wherein it was observed as under:

> "13. Before parting, we may clarify that the judgment in Arti Gupta case (supra) was rendered by the Hon'ble Full Bench of this Court and would normally in absence of any judgment to the contrary by the Hon'ble Supreme Court be binding on this Bench and in case of any difference of opinion would be required to be referred to a larger Bench. However, no such reference is necessary if the Hon'ble Supreme court has given a decision in the matter because as soon as the Hon'ble Supreme Court gives its decision all decisions of the High Court on the point are overruled. (Reference in this regard is given to D. D. Basu Commentary on the Constitution of India, 8th Edition and to the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in D. C. M. vs. Shambhu, AIR 1978 SC8.)

14. Even otherwise, Article 141 of the Constitution provides that the law declared by the Hon'ble Supreme Court shall be binding on all courts within the territory of India. Therefore, once the Hon'ble Supreme Court has decided the issue by passing a reasoned order, a fortiori, the ratio decidendi declared in the said decision would be binding on all the Courts in the Country for giving effect to it while deciding the lis of the same nature. All the Courts are under legal obligation to take note of the said decision and decide the lis in conformity with the law laid down therein."

18. The appeal is disposed of in the aforesaid terms, leaving the parties to bear their own costs. Pending application(s), if any, also stands disposed of.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE VIVEK SINGH THAKUR, J.

Kanwaldeep Singh Monga & ors. ...Petitioner
Versus
Simranpreet Kaur ...Respondent

Decided on: 22.11.2018

Code of Criminal Procedure 1973- Section 482- Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 (Act)- Section 12 – Inherent Powers- Exercise of- Quashing of complaint- Husband and his relatives filing petition for quashing of complaint filed against them under Section 12 of Act on ground that respondent (Wife) is adamant and despite settlement effected between parties before Gurudwara sabha, she left along with her father and also took away her clothes, ornaments and vehicle- There is no domestic violence to her as she is residing with her parents of her own volition - Held- Wife found having already led her evidence in complaint- Petitioners to prove their defense only during trial of that complaint before Trial Court- Petition dismissed. (Paras 5 to 7)

For the petitioners: Ms. Seema K.Guleria, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Deepak Kaushal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Vivek Singh Thakur, Judge. (Oral)

Present petition has been filed for quashing and setting aside the the complaint No.14/3 of 2017 titled Simranpreet Kaur Versus Kanwal Singh Monga & ors., pending before learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sirmaur District at Nahan, H.P., under Section 12 of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005 (hereinafter to be referred as the 'Act').

2. The main ground for allowing the petition as taken in the petition is that the dispute between the parties is a matrimonial dispute and settlement whereof was tried by the petitioners, but on account of adamant attitude of respondent, it could not be settled and the respondent had willfully left the company of the petitioner No.1, as is evident from the compromise dated 26th July, 2016, arrived at between the parties before Gurudwara Shri Guru Singh Sabha, H.P. (Annexure P-2), wherein it is recorded that respondent was taken by his father on his own volition, without any pressure and with healthy mind, along with car and gold items and clothes with understanding that she will stay with her parents till the settlement of dispute. It is further case of the petitioners that as the respondent is not living with the petitioners and has left the matrimonial house at her own in July, 2016, hence there is no question of beating or abusing her or neglecting her. It is also submitted that respondent has herself proclaimed not to live in the company of the petitioner No.1 or his father and therefore, prayer in her complaint made for providing shared household is also a tactics to create pressure upon the petitioners. It is also submitted that petitioners have never neglected the respondent and are still ready to take her back to her matrimonial house and are ready to maintain her and therefore, petitioners are not liable to pay any amount as maintenance to the respondent and false allegations of keeping the 'stridhan' by the petitioners have also been made in the complaint so as to drag them in unnecessary litigation in order to pressurize them so as to succumb to her illegal demands. It is submitted by learned counsel for the petitioners that from orders dated 16th October, 2016, 16th November, 2016 and 29th November, 2016, passed by the Sessions Judge, Sirmaur District at Nahan, it is evident that during pendency of the bail application of the petitioners as recorded unambiguously in the list of articles prepared by the police during investigation of the said case, that items of 'stridhan', handed over by the petitioners to the police, were further handed over to respondent Simranpreet Kaur on supurdari. Therefore, it is pleaded that the trial Court has wrongly taken the cognizance of the case under Section 12 of the Act in the complaint filed by the petitioners.

3. On perusal of the record requisitioned from the trial Court, it transpires that the complaint was filed by the respondent on 14th March, 2017, whereafter report from Protection Officer was called upon by the trial Court and after receiving the report, notices were issued to the petitioners on 23rd March, 2017 and thereafter petitioners had appeared in the case and had defended themselves through counsel engaged by them. During pendency of the complaint, interim maintenance was also allowed in favour of respondent vide order dated 8th November, 2017. The respondent has also produced her witnesses, who were also cross-examined on behalf of the petitioners and evidence of complainant was closed on 23rd December, 2017, whereafter case was listed for recording evidence of petitioners on 15th January, 2018, on which date it was further adjourned on the request of counsel for the petitioners for recording evidence on 20th March, 2018. On 20th March, 2018, adjournment was sought on behalf of the petitioners/respondents, on the ground that they were consulting with the other advocate and case was fixed for recording evidence of the petitioners on 18th April, 2018.

4. The present petition was filed in October, 2017 and during pendency of the petition, it was considered appropriate to call for the record for adjudication of present petition.

5. Certain allegations have been levelled by respondent/ complainant in her complaint, which are being refuted by the petitioners (respondents in complaint) on the basis of certain documents. The petitioners have also levelled counter allegations. Claims and counter claims of the parties require to be proved by them in accordance with law as applicable to the proceedings in question.

6. It is admitted case of the parties that after the marriage of petitioner No.1 and respondent No.1, there were certain disputes between the parties resulting into separate living of husband and wife. Lodging of complaint by respondent against the petitioners is also undisputed and returning of articles of 'stridhan' by the petitioners as per list placed on record with this petition, has also not been refuted by the respondent/complainant. However, the documents placed on record along with this petition, are yet to be tendered in evidence before the trial Court. It is not a case where it can be said that on the basis of material before the Magistrate, ex-facie, no case was made out. There was material before the Magistrate in the shape of the report of the Protection Officer, causing issuance of notice to the petitioners. However, issuance of notice to the petitioners does not mean that allegations levelled by the respondent/complainant have been accepted by the trial Court or the same stands proved. All allegations including report of the Protection Officer are subject to proof and judicial scrutiny before the trial Court in accordance with law, for which the respondent/complainant has already led evidence and now it is turn of the petitioners to lead their evidence to rebut the same. All documents relied upon by the petitioners in present petition are required to be placed on record before the trial Court in the pending proceedings and the trial Court has to decide the case on its own merits on the basis of material produced before it. Therefore, at this stage, I find no ground for interference in the proceedings pending before the trial Court and accordingly, petition is dismissed with direction to the parties to appear before the trial Court on 26th December, 2018, on which date the trial Court shall fix the date for further effective proceedings in the matter.

7. This Court has not made any observation on merits of the case and no opinion has been expressed about allegations and counter allegations levelled by the parties against each other. Any observation made with respect to any fact in present petition shall be confined only to the adjudication of present petition and the matter shall be decided by the trial Court without influencing with any such observation made hereinbefore. The Registry is directed to return the record to the trial Court along with copy of the order immediately. Copy of order also be sent to the trial Court fax/e-mail. Petition is disposed of in aforesaid terms. No order as to costs.

Vivek Singh Thakur, J. (oral)

All these appeals arising out of the common award dated 17.07.2013 passed by learned District Judge (Forests), Shimla, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as the Reference Court) are being decided by this common judgment as the common questions of law and facts are involved therein.

2. Land Reference Petition No.24-S/4 of 2012/06, titled as Inder Singh & another vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & another; Reference Petition No.25-S/4 of 2012/06, titled as Inder Singh & another vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & another; Reference Petition No.26-S/4 of 2012/06, titled as Inder Singh vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & another; Reference Petition No.27-S/4 of 2012/06, titled as Med Ram & another vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & another; Reference Petition No.28-S/4 of 2012/06, titled as Bakshi Ram vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & another; Reference Petition No.29-S/4 of 2012/06, titled as Praveen Kumar vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & another; Reference Petition No.30-S/4 of 2012/06, titled as Inder Singh & others vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & another; Reference Petition No.32-S/4 of 2012/06, titled as Roshan Lal & others vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & another; and Reference Petition No.33-S/4 of 2012/06, titled as Kanhaya & others vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & another, arising out of Award No.32 of 2005, dated 22.01.2005 passed by the Land Acquisition Collector and Reference Petition No.31-S/4 of 2012/06, titled as Inder Singh vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & another, arising out of Award No.36 of 2005, dated 26.02.2005 passed by the Land Acquisition Collector, with respect to the land of Village Keer, Tehsil Shimla (Rural), District Shimla, H.P., were clubbed together by the Reference Court and evidence was led in one lead case i.e. Reference Petition No.24-S/4 of 2012-06, titled as Inder Singh & another vs. State of Himachal Pradesh & another.

3. Brief facts of the case are that the appellant-State has acquired the land situated in 5 Villages, namely, Nagrhi, Salana, Lagru, Keer and Sari, for construction of Salana-Sari link road, by invoking the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as the Act), after issuing Notification No.PBW-B(A) (7)-1-68/97 dated 01.11.1997, under Section 4 of the Act, last publication whereof, took place on 20.12.1997. After completing the process, Land Acquisition Collector had passed Award Nos.32 of 2005, dated 22.01.2005 and 36 of 2005, dated 26.02.2005, awarding uniform rates to the land owners of Village Keer @ Rs.30,000/- per bigha.

4. It is also noticeable that with respect to other four Villages, the Land Acquisition Collector had announced the Award during the years 2000-2001 causing the land owners of Village Keer to approach this Court by filing a CWP No.141 of 2003, titled as Inder Singh vs. State of H.P., resultantly, leading to the announcement of Award Nos.32 of 2005 and 36 of 2005 by the Land Acquisition Collector.

5. Feeling aggrieved and dissatisfied with the Awards announced by the Land Acquisition Collector, land owners had preferred Land Reference Petitions detailed hereinabove, wherein, they had examined seven witnesses to substantiate their claim. Inder Singh (PW.1), Shankar Lal (PW.4), Kanhaya Lal (PW.5), Bakshi Ram (PW.6) and Roshan Lal (PW.7) are the land owner claimants. Whereas, Bhajan Dass (PW.2) is Patwari in the Office of Land Acquisition Collector and Geeta Ram (PW.3) is Investigator Grade-II in the office of Labour Bureau, Shimla. Appellant-State had examined one witness to dislodge the claim of land owners

6. The land owners have put reliance on Award No.15/2000, dated 30.12.2000 (Ex.PW.1/B) and Award No.1/2001, dated 02.02.2001 (Ex.PW.1/D), passed by the Land Acquisition Collector with respect to acquisition of land in Villages Nagrhi and Sari, wherein, the Land Acquisition Collector, on the basis of rates determined by the District Collector, has awarded amount of compensation on the basis of classification of land and value of land was assessed as under:-

| (I) | Kuhal | Rs.10,00,000/- Per Bigha |

|---|---|---|
| (II) | Bangar-I | Rs.5,50,000/- Per Bigha |
| (III) | Bangar-II | Rs.4,40,000/- Per Bigha |
| (IV) | Bangar-III | Rs.1,40,000/- Per Bigha |
| (V) | Banjer | Rs.70,000/- Per Bigha |
| (VI) | Ghasni | Rs.30,000/- Per Bigha |

7. Ajeet Kapoor (RW.1), Assistant Engineer, HP PWD, in his examination-in-chief, has stated that the land in question is situated at a distance of 10-11 kilometers from the Highway and it was a hilly area without any remarkable development and there was no Kuhal and thus he has justified the rate of compensation awarded by the Land Acquisition Collector. In his cross-examination, he has shown his ignorance about the fact that under the same Notification issued under Section 4 of the Act, land of other Villages, namely, Lagru, Salana, Nagrhi and Sari, was also acquired alongwith the land of Village Keer. He has also expressed his ignorance about any proceeding of acquisition in the present case and also about the value of land determined by the Land Acquisition Collector with respect to Villages Nagrhi and Sari. Therefore, there is no worth in statement of this witness.

8. In the Reference Petition preferred by the land owners, it is submitted in paragraph-1 that the land in Village Keer was acquired in pursuance to Notification No. No.PBW-B(A) (7)-1-68/97 dated 01.11.1997, issued under Section 4 of the Act alongwith the land of four Villages, namely, Lagru, Salana, Nagrhi and Sari, situated in Tehsil and District Shimla, H.P. In reply to the petition, this fact has been admitted to be correct in paragraph-1 and also in paragraph-6, wherein it is stated that land of all the five Villages, namely, Keer, Lagru, Salana, Nagrhi and Sari, was acquired under the same Notification. The said fact has also been reiterated in the evidence of Inder Singh (PW.1), which is not disputed in his cross-examination on behalf of the appellant-State.

9. It is further the case of the land owners that from Shoghi to Sari first Village is Nagrhi and last Village is Sari and Village Keer is situated in between these two Villages. This fact, stated in paragraph-6 of the Reference Petition, has not been denied by the appellant-State, rather in paragraph-6 of the reply, it is stated that in other four Villages except Village Keer, there was no sale transaction during the one year prior to the issuance of Notification under Section 4 of the Act and therefore, the District Collector had approved the same rate for other four villages on the basis of Village Keer, meaning thereby the nature and potential of land of these villages, by the Land Acquisition Collector, was found to be identical. Therefore, District Collector also had determined the value of the land in other four Villages on the basis of value of land in Village Keer. Not only this, in the evidence of Inder Singh (PW.1) filed by way of an affidavit, in paragraph-6, it is specifically claimed that potential of the acquired land in Village Keer is the same as that of the land acquired in Villages Nagrhi and Sari. This fact has not been disputed in the cross-examination of this witness nor this fact has been disputed in the statement of appellant-State's witness Ajeet Kapoor (RW.1).

10. As noticed above, in Award (Ex.PW.1/B) pertaining to village Nagrhi and Award (Ex.PW.1/D) pertaining to village Sari, Land Acquisition Collector had determined the highest value of the land @ Rs.10,00,000/- per bigha. As per Section 25 of the Act, Court cannot determine the value of the land lessor than the value determined by the Land Acquisition Collector. Further, where purpose of land acquisition is common like construction of road, compensation is to be awarded on uniform rates by considering the entire land as a single unit irrespective of its classification.

11. The law awarding compensation at uniform rates when purpose of acquisition is common and acquired land is to be utilized in the same manner irrespective of its classification, is no longer res integra and it is well settled that in such a case, land owners-claimants would be entitled for compensation on uniform basis irrespective of nature, classification and category. [See: Peerappa Hanmantha Harijan (Dead) By Legal Representative and others vs. State of Karnataka, (2015) 10 SCC 469, Himmat Singh and others vs. State of Madhya Pradesh and another, (2013) 16 SCC 392; Dadu Ram vs. Land Acquisition Collector and others, (2016) 2 ILR 636 (HP); H.P. Housing Board vs. Ram Lal and others, 2003 (3) Shim.L.C. 64; Union of India vs. Harinder Pal Singh and others, (2005) 12 SCC 564; Executive Engineer and another vs. Dila Ram, Latest HLJ 2008 (HP) 1007; LAC and another vs. Bhoop Ram and others, 1997 (2) SLC 229; Smt. Gulai and etc. vs. State of H.P., AIR 1998 HP 9; G.M. Northern Railway vs. Gulzar Singh and others, Latest HLJ 2014 (HP) 775.

12. The Apex Court in Ali Mohammad Beigh and others vs. State of Jammu and Kashmir, (2017) 4 SCC 717, has held that where the land under the acquisition in different Villages is identical and similar then the rate awarded for acquiring the land in adjacent Village, for the similar purpose can be a base for determining the same value of compensation to the adjoining village.

13. In the present case nature and potential of the land and purpose of the acquisition is the same more particularly acquisition is in pursuance to the common Notification.

14. It has come in the evidence that Village Keer is in between Villages Nagrhi and Sari and in evidence produced by the land owners it has come on record that the nature and potential of the land of these Villages is same to that of village Keer and for these two Village highest rate of compensation has been determined by the Land Acquisition Collector @ Rs.10,00,000/- per bigha. Therefore, keeping in view the provisions of Section 25 of the Act and the settled position of law uniform rate is to be given. Reference Court has not committed any irregularity, illegality or perversity by awarding the same rate of Rs.10,00,000/- per bigha to the land owners of Village Keer irrespective of its nature and classification.

15. In view of the above discussion, all these appeals are dismissed and the award passed by the District Judge (Forests), Shimla, is affirmed and the respondents/land owners are held entitled for compensation for the acquisition of their land @ Rs.10,00,000/- per bigha alongwith all statutory benefits. Pending application(s), if any are also disposed of in aforesaid terms.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Vivek Singh Thakur, Judge. (Oral)

CMP No.6472 of 2018

This application has been filed on behalf of the applicant/Municipal Corporation, seeking permission to assail the award dated 8th January, 2010, passed by learned District Judge, Shimla, in Land Reference No.45-S/4 of 2006, titled as Hari Nand Versus State of H.P. and also order dated 30th December, 2017, passed in Review Petition No.2 of 2015, titled as Hari Nand Versus State of H.P. and others.

2. It is stated in the application that on passing of the impugned award, dated 8th January, 2010, the area concerned, wherein acquisition proceedings had taken place, was in direct control of the State of H.P. and therefore, reference petition was preferred against the State of H.P., wherein Municipal Corporation was not a party. After passing of the impugned award, State of H.P. had filed the Review Petition No.2 of 2015, seeking modification of the award passed by the Reference Court and this Review Petition was finally dismissed on 30th December, 2017, by this Court. During the pendency of the Review Petition, on 12th July, 2016, the entire assets and liabilities of the area concerned have vested with the applicant/Municipal Corporation and therefore, amount awarded by the impugned order is to be borne by the applicant/Municipal Corporation. After having information with regard to passing of the impugned award dated 8th January, 2010 and order dated 30th December, 2017, passed in Review Petition, the Municipal Corporation has proposed to assail the impugned award along with order passed in the Review Petition, by preferring an appeal, which ultimately caused to filing of present application along with appeal and application for condonation of delay in filing the appeal. In these circumstances, leave has been sought by the Municipal Corporation to assail the impugned award/order, passed in Land Reference Petition/Review Petition. Therefore, in these circumstances, I am of the considered opinion that after having vested with the liabilities of the concerned area, the applicant/Municipal Corporation has a right to assail the impugned judgment/order and therefore, deserves to be permitted to prefer an appeal instead of State of H.P.

3. Irrespective of the fact that Municipal Corporation was not a party before the Reference Court. But now, Municipal Corporation has entered in shoes of State of H.P. Therefore, present application is allowed and Municipal Corporation is permitted to assail the impugned judgment and order, by preferring the appeal. Application is disposed of.

CMP(M) No.889 of 2018

This application has been filed for condonation of delay in filing the appeal to assail the impugned award dated 8th January, 2010, passed by the Reference Court under Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act, in Land Reference No.45-S/4 of 2006, titled as Hari Nand Versus State of H.P. and also order dated 30th December, 2017, passed in Review Petition No.2 of 2015, titled as Hari Nand Versus State of H.P. and others.

2. It is stated in the application that on passing of the impugned award, dated 8th January, 2010, the area concerned, wherein acquisition proceedings had taken place, was in direct control of the State of H.P. and therefore, reference petition was preferred against the State of H.P., wherein Municipal Corporation was not a party. After passing of the impugned award, State of H.P. had filed the Review Petition No.2 of 2015, seeking modification of the award passed by the Reference Court. The said Review Petition was finally dismissed on 30th December, 2017, by the High Court.

3. During the pendency of the Review Petition, on 12th July, 2016, the entire assets and liabilities of the area concerned have vested with the applicant/Municipal Corporation and therefore, amount awarded by the impugned order is to be borne by the applicant/Municipal Corporation. After having information with regard to passing of the impugned award dated 8th January, 2010 and order dated 30th December, 2017, passed in Review Petition, the Municipal Corporation has proposed to assail the impugned award along with order passed in the Review Petition, by preferring an appeal, which ultimately caused filing of present application along with appeal and application for condonation of delay in filing the appeal.

4. In these circumstances, after counting the period of limitation from the date of passing the order in Review Petition, application, for condonation of 47 days delay has been filed.

5. The application has been contested by the respondents/claimants, on the ground that (a) appeal has also been filed against the order passed in the Review Petition, which is not permissible under the Law. Therefore, as the appeal itself is not maintainable, the application for condonation of delay is also not maintainable; (b) the delay is to be counted from the date of passing of the award by the Reference Court, not from the Review Petition and as both the remedies were available to the applicant/appellant i.e. filing of appeal or Review Petition against the award and predecessor of the applicant had chosen to avail remedy of Review Petition, appellant Municipal Corporation cannot be permitted to take benefit of the period spent during the pendency of Review Petition and therefore, there is inordinate delay of more than eight years in filing the appeal and thus, the application deserves to be rejected.

6. Learned counsel for the respondent has submitted that in appeal proposed to be preferred by the applicant after seeking condonation of delay, prayer for setting aside the judgment passed in review has been made and as the order of dismissal passed in Review Petition is not appealable, the application seeking condonation of delay for filing a such appeal is not maintainable and liable to be dismissed. To substantiate his contention that appeal is not maintainable against the dismissal of review petiton, he has relied upon the judgment passed by the Apex Court in Seema Mitra Versus Lotika Mitra reported in AIR 1995 MP 128, wherein it has been held that there cannot be an appeal against the rejection of review application on merits or on default. Further reliance has been put on the judgment passed by the Apex Court in Manohar Shankar Nale Versus Jaipalsing Shiviaising Rajput, reported in AIR 2008 SC 429, wherein it has been held that doctrine of merger of the order passed in Review Petition is not applicable in those cases, where Review Petition is dismissed.

7. It is true that full Bench of High Court of Madhya Pradesh in Seema Mitra's case supra, has held that there cannot be an appeal against the rejection of Review Application on merits, or on default, but with further clarification that the remedy would be only to challenge the judgment and order originally passed in Manohar Shankar Nale's case supra, the Apex Court has held that doctrine of merger will not have any application in case of dismissal of review petition, but it has not held that after dismissal of Review Petition, the aggrieved party cannot avail the remedy of assailing the impugned judgment by filing a statutory appeal. The question involved in the matter before the Apex Court in this case was relating to starting point of limitation for filing an execution petition and it was held that on rejection of Review Petition, the limitation would start from the date of passing of original judgment/order passed by the Court and not from the date of rejection of Review Petition.

8. Reliance has also been put upon the judgment passed by the High Court of judicature at Madras in Kasi Viswanathan Versus Jayalakshmi Ammal & Others, reported in 2000 3 LW 844; 2000 (0) Supreme (Mad) 874, wherein it is observed that it is not open to the applicant to seek the remedy of appeal belatedly, who has availed the alternative relief available to him by filing a Review Petition, which stands dismissed.

9. The judgment, in Kasi Viswanathan's case, on facts, is not applicable in present case as in this case the party had alternative remedies available with it to assail the impugned judgment either by filing a petition under Order 9, Rule 13 C.P.C. for setting aside the ex-parte decree or by filing a statutory appeal against the said ex-parte decree and the aggrieved party had availed one remedy by filing an application under Order 9, Rule 13 C.P.C. and in such a situation, it was held that the said party has no right to file appeal, whereas in present case, filing of Review Petition and preferring a statutory appeal against the impugned original order, are not alternative remedies, but such remedies can be available simultaneously without waiting the outcome of the another and in fact, this is the argument advanced by the respondent that instead of waiting for result of Review Petition, applicant should have also preferred a statutory appeal within the limitation period.

10. Referring the judgment passed by the Board of Revenue in State of Rajasthan Versus Shri Maharajkumar Yashwant Singh, reported in 1965 (0) RLW (RJ) 74; 1965 (0) Supreme (Raj) 90, it is contended that where the appeal has not been preferred within the limitation period and Review Petition stands dismissed, the appeal preferred against the impugned order/judgment is not maintainable being barred by limitation. This judgment has been passed by Board of Revenue and thus, it does not even have the persuasive value. However, even otherwise, on facts, this judgment is also not applicable in present case as the question involved therein was altogether different. In this case, the Review Petition, preferred by the aggrieved party after expiry of limitation period for filing appeal, was dismissed and thereafter, the appeal was preferred with a claim that the appeal is within limitation from the date of rejection of Review Petition and in such a situation, it has been held that appeal was barred by limitation. In present case, the applicant is not claiming that appeal within the limitation, but the applicant is seeking condonation of delay by filing this application.

11. The respondent has also relied upon the judgment passed by the Apex Court in Shiv Charan Singh Versus the State of Punjab & Ors., reported in (2007) 15 SCC 370; 2006(9) Supreme 350, wherein relying upon another judgment of the Apex Court in Shankar Motiram Nale Versus Shiolalsinig Gannusing Rajpur [(1994) 2 SCC 753, it has been held that an appeal filed against the rejection of application for review of judgment is incompetent and not maintainable. On facts, this judgment is also distinguishable as the appeal proposed by the applicant is not only against the rejection of Review Petition, but also against the original judgment and decree passed by the Court, against which the Review Petition has been dismissed.

12. Learned counsel for the applicant has put reliance on the judgment passed by the Apex Court in Municipal Corporation of Delhi versus Yashwant Singh Negi, reported in 2013 (5) Scale 447,wherein after dissenting from a judgment passed by the apex Court itself in Eastern Coalfields Limited Versus Dugal Kumar, reported in (2008) 14 SCC 295 and relying upon another judgments passed by the apex Court in cases Manohar S/O Shankar Nale & Others Versus Jaipalsing S/O Shiviaising Rajput & Others, reported in 2008 (1) SCC 520 and DSR Steel (Private) Limited Versus State of Rajasthan and others, reported in (2012) 6 SCC 782, it has been observed as under:-

> 4. "We find ourselves unable to agree with the views expressed by this Court in Eastern Coalfields Limited (supra). In our view, once the High Court has refused to entertain the review petition and the same was dismissed confirming the main order, there is no question of any merger and the aggrieved person has to challenge the main order and not the order dismissing the review petition because on the dismissal of the review petition the principle of merger does not apply. In this connection reference may be made to the judgment of this Court in Manohar S/O Shankar Nale and others v. Jaipalsing S/O Shivalsing Rajput and others (2008) 1 SCC 520, wherein this Court has taken the view that once the merger will have no application whatsoever. This Court in DSR Steel (Private) Limited V. State of Rajasthan and others (2012) 6 SCC 782 also examined the various situation which might arise in relation to the orders passed in review petitions. Reference to paragraphs 25, 25.1, 25.2 and 25.3 is made, which are extracted below for ready reference.

"25. Different situations may arise in relation to review petitions field before a court or tribunal.

"25.1.One of the situations could be where the review application is allowed, the decree or order passed by the Court or tribunal is vacated and the [pie] appeal/proceedings in which the same is made are reheard and a fresh decree or order passed in the same. It is manifest that in such a situation the subsequent decree along is applicable not because it is an order in review but because it is a decree that is passed in a proceeding after the earlier decree passed in the very same proceedings has been vacated by the court hearing the review petition.

25.2. The second situation that one can conceive of is where a court or tribunal makes an order in a review petition by which the review petition is allowed and the decree/order under review is reversed or modified. Such an order shall then be a composite order whereby the court not only vacates the earlier decree or order but simultaneous which such vacation of the earlier decree or order, passes another decree or order or modifies the one made earlier. The decree so vacated reversed or modified is then the decree that is effective for the purpose of a further appeal, if any, maintainable under law.

25.3. The third situation with which we are concerned in the instant case is where the revision petition is filed before the Tribunal but the Tribunal refuses to interfere with the decree or order earlier made. It simply dismisses the review petition. The decree in such a case suffers neither any reversal nor an alteration or modification. It is an order by which the review petition is dismissed thereby affirming the decree or order. In such a contingency there is no question of any merger and anyone aggrieved by the decree or order of the Tribunal or court shall have to challenge within the time stipulated law, the original decree and not the order dismissed the review petition. Time taken by a party in diligently pursing the remedy by way of review may in appropriate cases be excluded from consideration while condoning the delay in the filing of the appeal, but such exclusion or condonation would not imply that there is a merger of the original decree and the order dismissing the review petition".

13. Present case is covered by sub-para 25.3 of Yashwant Singh Negi's case, referred supra and therefore, this application for condonation of delay is not only maintainable, but also deserves to be allowed and the time spent for pursuing the remedy by way of review deserves to be excluded/condoned for filing the appeal. So far as the maintainability of the appeal against the rejection and dismissal of review petition is concerned, that shall be considered in the appeal itself. However, even otherwise, the appeal is not only against the rejection of review petition, but also against the original judgment and decree passed by the Court. Therefore, delay in filing the appeal is condoned. Appeal be registered. Application is disposed of.

For the petitioner: Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate
For the respondent: Mr. Hemant Vaid & Mr. Desh Raj Thakur, Addl. A.Gs. with Mr. Vikrant Chandel, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, J (oral)

The instant petition, has been filed by the applicant/accused, under Section 439, Code of Criminal Procedure, wherethrough, she seeks, an order, for hers being released from judicial custody, whereat she is extantly lodged, for, hers allegedly committing an offence, punishable under Sections 302, 201, read with Section 120-B of the Indian Penal Code, in respect whereof, an FIR No. 56 of 2018, of, 30.4.2018, is, registered with Police Station, Jawali, District Kangra, H.P.

2. Prior to the institution of the instant bail application before this Court, the latter had instituted an application, cast under Section 439 Cr.P.C., before the learned Additional Sessions Judge (2), Kangra at Dharmshala, H.P., and, the latter had, on 10.7.2018, recorded an order, hence dismissing her bail application. However, since then upto now, the prosecution has filed, a, report under Section 173 Cr.P.C. before the learned Committal Court concerned, and, thereafter, the bail-applicant, has been charged for committing the afore offences, (i) whereupon the afore event hence obviously constitutes a changed circumstance, since, the, rejection of the earlier bail application, by the learned Additional Sessions Judge (2), Kangra at Dharmshala, H.P., upto, the institution of the instant bail-application before this Court, (ii) whereupon it is hence rendered maintainable.

3. The principal accused, inflicted the fatal blows' upon the deceased hence purportedly, by, user of stones, and, danda, both whereof stood respectively recovered at his instance, by the Investigating Officer concerned, through respectively drawn memos (i) AND, upon the afore purported recoveries, the prosecution ascribes qua him, the role of his committing an offence, punishable under Section 302 of the Indian Penal Code. However, the bail-applicant, is also contended by the learned Additional Advocate General, to, also along with the afore, being an accessory, at, the fact, (ii) submission whereof is rested, upon, the fact, of, hers rather enabling effectuation, of, recovery of the burnt clothes, of the deceased. The alleged occurrence took place, in, the night, intervening 28.4.2018, and, 29.4.2018, and, the afore occurrence also took place in the house, jointly inherited by the bail-applicant, and, the afore principal offender, (iii) hence the learned Additional Advocate General contends, qua, hers' visibly being presumed, to be hence residing at the place of occurrence, along with her son(s), and, with hers not rearing any idea, of, alibi, hence he further contends, that, the afore submission rather gathering immense weight. However, for the reasons ascribed hereinafter, this Court negatives, his afore submission (a) the incident, occurring in the night, intervening 28.4.2018, and, 29.4.2018, being reported by the real daughter of the bail-applicant, to, the police, and, (b) in her statement, recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., hers' making clear echoings qua the bail-applicant rather unfolding to her qua the deceased, being murdered by her son ,one Matta Dass, (c) since the afore rendered statement also galvanized, the criminal machinery, and, when the daughter, of, the bail-applicant, is not residing along with the latter, rather, is residing, at her matrimonial home, (iv) hence the afore rendered statement by one Reena, encapsulating, therein the afore version, is, a palpable display, vis-a-vis, the prima facie innocence, of the bail applicant. Moreover, the effect, of, the afore inference, is qua even if the bail-applicant, has enabled the recovery, of the burnt clothes of the deceased, thereupon, no argument can be made by the learned Additional Advocate General qua hers being, an, accessory at the fact.

4. Be that as it may, even the postmortem report, vis-a-vis, the body of the deceased, rather stood, conducted on 1.5.2018, hence belatedly, since the ill-fated occurrence taking place, and, much subsequent to the afore rendered statement, recorded by the the bail-applicant, (i) hence the prosecution, has obviously precluded surfacing, of, material with respect to the timing, of occurrence or vis-a-vis the presence thereat, of, the bail applicant, (ii) whereupon all the afore inferences also acquire tenacity.

5. In summa, at this stage, the only offence prima facie ascribable, vis-a-vis, the bail applicant, is, the one embodied, in, Section 201, of, the Indian Penal Code.

6. The bail-applicant/accused is suffering judicial incarceration, for, seven months, hence bearing in mind the aforesaid factum, this Court deems it fit and appropriate, importantly, when the Investigating Officer has reported that the bail-applicant, has throughout associated herself, hence, in the relevant investigation, to, hence afford, the facility of bail in favour of the bail applicant/petitioner. Moreso, when at this stage, no evidence has been adduced by the prosecution, demonstrating, that in the event of bail being granted to the bail applicant/petitioner, there being every likelihood of her fleeing from justice or tampering with prosecution evidence, Accordingly, the indulgence of bail, is, granted to the bail applicant/petitioner, on, the following conditions:-

i) That she shall furnish personal bond, comprised in a sum of Rs. 5,00,000/- with two sureties in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the learned trial Court.

ii) That she shall join the investigation, as and when required by the Investigating agency;

iii) That she shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade her from disclosing such facts to the Court or to the Police;

iv) That she shall not leave India without the previous permission of the Court;

v) That she shall deposit her passport, if any, with the Police Station, concerned;

vi) That in case of violation of any of the conditions, the bail granted to the petitioner shall be forfeited and she shall be liable to be taken into custody.

6. In view of above, petition stands disposed of. Any observation made herein above shall not be taken as an expression of opinion on the merits of the case and the trial Court shall decide the matter uninfluenced by any observation made herein above.

Case referred:
Lin Kuei Tsan Versus Ashok Kumar Goel 2015 (suppl.) HLR 2153 (ILR, 2015 (IV) HP 504)

For the Petitioner(s) : Mr. Rajender Sharma, Advocate,
For the Respondent(s) : Mr. Ashok Sood, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

Since common question of law and facts are involved in these petitions and as the same have arisen from a common judgment, the same were taken up together for hearing and are being disposed of by a common judgment.

2. The petitioner is the tenant, who aggrieved by the order of eviction passed by the learned Rent Controller and affirmed by the learned appellate authority has filed the present revision petition.

3. Briefly stated facts of the present case are that respondent-landlady filed a petition under Section 14 of H.P. Urban Rent Control Act, 1987 (for short the Act) against the petitioner/tenant regarding the premises known as 'Violet Cottage', Below Bus Stand, Shimla, consisting of two rooms and toilet in the first floor, which was let out to the petitioner/tenant at the monthly rent of Rs. 100/-. The eviction was primarily sought on the ground that the demised premises is bonafidely required for reconstruction of entire building on old lines which could not be carried out without getting the same vacated from tenant. The building was stated to be more than hundred years and in dilapidated condition.

4. The tenant contested the eviction petition by filing reply wherein preliminary objections regarding maintainability, non-joinder of necessary parties and the premises being in good condition were raised. On merits, it was pleaded that the rate of rent was Rs.50/- per month and the demised premises were a pucca structure and fit for human habitation.

5. On pleadings of the parties, learned trial Rent Controller framed the following issues:

"1. Whether the petitioner bonafide requires the demised premises qua reconstruction, if so its effect? OPP

2. Whether the demised premises have become unsafe and unfit for human habitation, if so, its effect? OPP

3. Whether the respondent is in arrears of rent since January, 2007 and is also liable to pay interest @ 9% per annum, if so, its effect? OPP

4. Whether the petition is not maintainable in the present form?

5. Relief."

6. After recording the evidence and evaluating the same, the petitioner was ordered to be evicted from the demised premises on the ground of its having become unfit and unsafe for human habitation and bonafide requirement and on arrears of rent of Rs. 18,790/- w.e.f. 01.01.2007 to 31.03.2016. However, it was further directed that the eviction order passed would not be put to execution unless the respondent / landlady produces before executing court the building plan duly sanctioned/approved by the competent authority and it would be (shall be) open to the respondent/tenant to apply for re-entry into the building in accordance with proviso (c) Section 14 (3) introduced by the amendment Act, 2009. The petitioner/tenant was also directed to pay the arrears of rent of Rs.18,790/- to the petitioner within 30 days from the date of the order failing which the landlady was held entitled for possession of the demised premises on the ground of arrears of rent as well.

7. Aggrieved by the order of learned Rent Controller both the parties i.e. landlady and tenant filed separate appeal before the appellate authority. The appellate authority allowed the appeal filed by the landlady and the order passed by the learned Rent Controller putting the rider regarding the submission of approved site plan was set aside and the eviction petition was allowed as a whole and the tenant was ordered to be evicted from the demised premises on the ground of non-payment of rent and the building in question was required bonafidely for the rebuilding and reconstruction and rest of the findings of the learned Rent Controller were affirmed. Whereas the appeal filed by the tenant whereby he had assailed the findings of the learned Rent Controller came to be dismissed.

8. The petitioner/tenant has filed the instant revision petitions inter alia on the ground that the eviction petition filed by the landlady was not maintainable at her instance alone as it was duly proved on record that there were other co-owners of the building. It was also averred that till and so long the maps of the building had not been sanctioned by the Municipal Corporation after its rejection vide order dated 10.02.2010, the claim of the landlady could not be held to be bonafide and therefore, the learned Rent Controller had rightly placed an embargo or rider on the eviction of the tenant.

9. On the other hand, Shri Ashok Sood, Advocate, would argue that the grounds as raised by the petitioner do not fall for consideration as all these contentions already stand authoritatively decided by this Bench in Lin Kuei Tsan Versus Ashok Kumar Goel 2015 (suppl.) HLR 2153.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the records of the case.

10. As regards the question of there being other co-owners of the building, it is more than settled that even one co-owner can maintain an eviction petition unless the tenant is in a position to point out any conflict of interest inter se the different co-owners. This aspect of the matter was dealt in para -19 of the judgment [Lin Kuei Tsan's case (supra)] and it was held as under:-

> "19. Indisputably, the premises in question were owned by the landlord and his wife Kamlesh and this fact has infact been mentioned in the eviction petition, though not in so many words. Even otherwise, it is more than settled that one co-owner can maintain an eviction petition. That apart, no prejudice has otherwise been shown to have been caused to the tenant by not arraying the co-owner so as to make a grievance. It was not disputed before me that the co-owner Smt. Kamlesh is no more in the land of living and, therefore, even this objection of the tenant therefore holds no water."

11. Now, as regards non approval or non-availability of the duly sanctioned proved map, the learned counsel for the petitioner has strongly relied upon para 37 of the judgment [Lin Kuei Tsan's case (supra)], which reads thus:-

> "37. Further, this Court cannot also loose sight of the fact that it was the landlord who in order to prove and establish his bonafides had himself pleaded that he was taking steps for approval of the building plans on old lines and this was one of the considerations which weighed with the learned Appellate Authority to conclude that the need of the landlord was bonafide. Therefore, at this stage the landlord cannot be permitted to resile from his pleadings or else this would itself cast a doubt on his bonafides."

12. I am afraid this is not the ratio laid down in Lin Kuei Tsan's case (supra) and these observations were preceded with the very vital observations made in para 36, which read as under:-

"36. I have considered the aforesaid submission and I am of the considered opinion that no exception to such condition can be taken by the landlord, particularly, when the landlord has not chosen to assail these findings by filing a separate revision petition. Even otherwise this condition is otherwise just and equitable."

13. It is only in this background that this Court made the aforesaid observations in paragraph – 37, which cannot be read in isolation because the ratio of the judgment, in fact, is contained in para 26 to 28 of the judgment, which reads thus:-

"26. The question whether the requirement of sanctioned building plan is sine qua non before ordering the eviction of the tenant came up for consideration before the Supreme Court in Hari Dass Sharma vs. Vikas Sood and others (2013) 5 SCC 243 and the Hon'ble Supreme Court after discussing the case of Jagat Pal Dhawan (supra), held that under Section 14 (3) (c) of the Act, the requirement of having a duly sanctioned plan was not a condition precedent for maintaining a petition for eviction. The relevant observations of the Hon'ble Supreme Court are as follows:

"13. In Jagat Pal Dhawan v. Kahan Singh (dead) by L.Rs. & Ors. (supra), this Court had the occasion to consider the provisions of Section 14(3)(c) of the Act and R.C. Lahoti J. writing the judgment for the Court held that Section 14(3)(c) does not require that the building plans should have been duly sanctioned by the local authorities as a condition precedent to the entitlement of the landlord for eviction of the tenant. To quote from the judgment of this Court in Jagat Pal Dhawan v. Kahan Singh (dead) by L.Rs. & Ors. (supra): (SCC p. 194, para 6)

"6…….The provision also does not lay down that the availability of requisite funds and availability of building plans duly sanctioned by the local authority must be proved by the landlord as an ingredient of the provision or as a condition precedent to his entitlement to eviction of the tenant. However still, suffice it to observe, depending on the facts and circumstances of a given case, the court may look into such facts as relevant, though not specifically mentioned as ingredient of the ground for eviction, for the purpose of determining the bona fides of the landlord. If a building, as proposed, cannot be constructed or if the landlord does not have means for carrying out the construction or reconstruction obviously his requirement would remain a mere wish and would not be bona fide."

It will be clear from the aforesaid passage that this Court has held that availability of building plans duly sanctioned by the local authorities is not an ingredient of Section 14(3)(c) of the Act and, therefore, could not be a condition precedent to the entitlement of the landlord for eviction of the tenant, but depending on the facts and circumstances of each case, the Court may look into the availability of building plans duly sanctioned by the local authorities for the purpose of determining the bonafides of the landlord.

17. In fact, the only question that we have to decide in this appeal filed by the appellant is whether the High Court could have directed that only on the valid revised/renewed building plant being sanctioned by the competent authority, the order of eviction shall be available for execution. The High Court has relied on the decision of this Court in Harrington House School v. S.M. Ispahani & Anr.(2002) 5 SCC 229 and we find in that case that the landlords were builders by profession and they needed the suit premises for the immediate purpose of demolition so as to construct a multi-storey complex and the tenants were running a school in the tenanted building in which about 200 students were studying and 15 members of the teaching staff and 8 members of the non-teaching staff were employed and the school was catering to the needs of children of non-resident Indians. This Court found that although the plans of the proposed construction were ready and had been tendered in evidence, the plans had not been submitted to the local authorities for approval and on these facts, R.C. Lahoti, J, writing the judgment for the Court, while refusing to interfere with the judgment of the High Court and affirming the eviction order passed by the Controller, directed that the landlords shall submit the plans of reconstruction for approval of the local authorities and only on the plans being sanctioned by the local authorities, a decree for eviction shall be available for execution and further that such sanctioned plan or approved building plan shall be produced before the executing court whereupon the executing court shall allow a reasonable time to the tenant for vacating the property and delivering the possession to the landlord and till then the tenants shall remain liable to pay charges for use and occupation of the said premises at the same rate at which they are being paid.

18. In the present case, on the other hand, as we have noted, the Rent Controller while determining the bonafides of the appellant-landlord has recorded the finding that the landlord had admittedly obtained the sanction from the Municipal Corporation, Shimla, and has accordingly passed the order of eviction and this order of eviction has not been disturbed either by the Appellate Authority or by the High Court as the Revision Authority. In our considered opinion, once the High Court maintained the order of eviction passed by the Controller under Section 14(4) of the Act, the tenants were obliged to give vacant possession of the building to the landlord and could only ask for reasonable time to deliver vacant possession of the building to the landlord and hence the direction of the High Court that the order of eviction could only be executed on the revised plan of the building being approved was clearly contrary to the provisions of Section 14(4) of the Act and the proviso thereto."

27. Notably, the ratio of the judgment in Hari Dass Sharma's case (supra) has been repeatedly followed by this Court in Karam Chand and others vs. Jasbir Kaur and others, C.R. No. 125 of 2012, decided on 16.8.2013, Roshan Lal Bhardwaj vs. Ashok Sud and another, C.R. No. 4034 of 2013 decided on 4.10.2013, R.R.Sharma vs. Gopla and others, C.R. No. 4053 of 2013 decided on 24.10.2013, Deepak Boot House and another vs. Dr. Piyare Lal Sood, 2014 (1) Shim. L.C. 47, Janmejai Sood vs. Ram Gopal Sood, C.R. 62 of 2013 decided on 4.11.2014, Vinod Kumar vs. Varinder Kumar Sood, C.R. No. 60 of 2013 decided on 13.5.3015.

28. In view of the aforesaid exposition of law, the submission of the tenant even if assumed to be correct that the landlord does not have a sanctioned plan, holds no water as the same is not a pre-requisite for maintaining a petition for eviction.

14. Apart from the above, it would be noticed that the petitioner has been ordered to be evicted from the demised premises on the ground of its having "unfit and unsafe" for human habitation. Once that be so, then in such circumstances, the petitioner cannot be allowed to remain in occupation of the premises that too only on the ground that the building plan had not been sanctioned by the local authorities i.e. Municipal Corporation, Shimla. After all, who would be accountable and responsible in case the premises or a part thereof collapse or any other untoward incident takes place on account of dilapidated condition of the premises. The Court cannot take any responsibility by passing an order that even though the building is unfit and unsafe for human habitation, yet the same should not be demolished, which may be dangerous for the life and property of the inhabitants. Public interest demands that building be vacated forthwith so as to avoid any untoward incident in future.

15. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find no merit in these revision petitions. Consequently, the same are dismissed, leaving the parties to bear their own costs. Pending application(s), if any, also stand disposed of.

Public Service Commission as per the Recruitment and Promotion Rules 1980 as respondent No.2-department had not framed its rules at that time.

4. As a matter of fact, on coming into being The State of Himachal Pradesh in the year 1966, the posts of District Sports Officers and Coaches were under the department of Education and manned as per the rules framed by the said department. It is in the year 1982 the State Government has set up new Directorate of Youth Services and Sports (Respondent No. 2) at Shimla and the services of the District Sports Officers/Coaches stand transferred from the department of Education to the newly created Directorate. It is 1980 Rules, referred to hereinabove, remained in force and governing the service conditions of the District Sports Officers and Coaches in the newly created Directorate till 1997. It is in the year 1984/85 six posts of Coaches were created and filled up in terms of 1980 rules as aforesaid through the H.P. Public Service Commission. Initially in the department of Education there were common rules applicable to the post of Coaches/District Sports Officers, re-produced herein as under:

RECRUITMENT AND PROMOTION RULES FOR THE POST OF COACHES/DISTRICT SPORTS OFFICER IN THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, HIMACHAL PRADESH.

5. It is seen that both the Coach and District Sports Officer were placed under the same pay scale of Rs.300-25-600. However, on the revision of the pay scale while the category of the District Sports Officers placed in the pay scale of Rs.800-1400, the Coaches in the pay scale of Rs.700-1300. Therefore, when six newly created posts of Coaches were advertised by respondent No. 2 through respondent No. 3, the pay scale in the advertisement was mentioned as Rs.700-1300. The writ petitioners though were appointed as Coaches in this very pay scale, however, kept on ventilating their grievance with the respondents in this regard. In the Meanwhile, in the State of Punjab and Haryana also, while the District Sports Officers were placed in the higher grade of Rs.800-1400 the Coaches were denied the same. The Coaches, as such, have filed Civil Writ Petition No. 5036 of 1984, title Ram Phal Thakran, Wrestling Coach versus State of Haryana & Others in the High Court of Punjab and Haryana which was allowed vide judgment dated 24.7.1990. The LPA preferred by the State of Haryana was also dismissed. On the other hand, the judgment in Ram Phal Thakran's ibid was relied upon by the tat eof Punjab and Haryana High Court in CWP No. 3284 of 1992, titled Teg Singh, Kabaddi Coach and others Vs. The State of Haryana and another, decided on 18.8.1992. The State in that case went in appeal to the Apex Court by way of filing SLP No. 8045 of 1992, however, the same also met with the same fate being dismissed on 12.12.1995. In this way both judgments i.e. Ram Phal's and Tek Singh's cases supra had attained finality. As a result thereof in the State of Haryana, the District Sports Officers and Coaches came to be placed under the same pay scale of Rs.2200-4000. On creation of respondent No. 2-department, ten posts of District Sports Officers were re-designated as District Youth Services and Sports Officers and the writ petitioners who initially were recruited as Coaches also given the charge of the posts so re-designated. The support in this regard can be drawn from the tabulated information below:-

| Sr. No. | Name &Designation | Present place of posting | Transferred to | Remarks |
| 1. | Chaman Singh, DYSSO | Nahan | Solan | On request. He will relieve Sh. R.L. Jandeva, Youth Coordinator, NYK of additional charge of the post of DYSSO. |

|---|---|---|---|---|
| 2. | M.P. Vaidya, Cricket Coach | Chamba | Bilaspur | On request. He willhold the functional charge of the post of DYSSO, Bilaspur, relieving Sh. M.R. Sharma, Regional Coordinator, NYK of the additional charge of the posts of DYSSO. |
| 3. | Ved Prakash T.T. Coach | Kullu | Keylong | On administrative grounds. He willhold the functional charge of the post of DYSSO, Keylong relieving S.D.M. of additional charge of the post of DYSSO. |
| 4. | Ishwar Chaudhary, Wrestling Coach | Solan | Nahan | On administrative grounds. He will hold the functional charge of the post of DYSSO, Nahan. |
| 5. | Rajinder Dogra, Basketball Coach | Hamirpur | Una | On administrative grounds. He will hold the functional charge of the post of DYSSO, Una. |
| 6. | Kanwar Singh, Volleyball Coach | Solan | Chamba | On administrative grounds. He will hold the functional charge of the post of DYSSO, Chamba. |

6. Admittedly, the posts of District Sports Officers/Coaches were equated under the 1980 rules. The respondent-State, however, given the pay scale of Rs.800-1400 to four Coaches but denied the same to the writ petitioners who were recruited subsequently in the year 1984-85. On the other hand, respondent No. 2-department has framed its own rules namely 'The Himachal Pradesh Youth Services & Sports, Youth Organizer Class-III (Non-Gazetted), Recruitment and Promotion Rules, 1997'. The Youth Organizer in the department though had separate cadre and were under the lower pay scale i.e. Rs. 1500-2640 as compared to that of the Coaches i.e. Rs. 1640-2923 were equated thereby with the Coaches. They were also brought in the feeder category for promotion to the post of District Youth Services and Sports Officers to the extent of 50% along with the Coaches.

7. The 1980 rules came to be repealed on coming into being the 1997 rules, hereinabove. Since the petitioners were given the charge of the post of District Youth Services and Sports Officers but not paid them salary as was admissible to the holder of such posts and to the contrary junior person i.e. Youth Organizers were brought at par with them and in feeder category for promotion to the post of District Youth Services and Sports Officers, therefore, initially original application No. 2310 of 1999 was filed in the Himachal Pradesh Administrative Tribunal. On abolition of the Tribunal in the year 2008, the same was transferred to this Court. However, on re-establishment of the Himachal Pradesh State Administrative Tribunal in 2015, the same was again transferred there and registered as TA No. 633 of 2015.

8. The writ petitioners have sought a direction to quash the 1997 rules/the quota of 50% provided thereunder for promotion to the Youth Organizers against the post of District Youth Services and Sports Officers. A direction was also sought to the respondents to promote the writ petitioners against the post of District Youth Services and Sports Officers against the vacancies in existence even well before 1980 repealed rules.

9. In reply, the stand of the respondent-State was that the rules were framed by respondent No.2-department in the year 1997 and as such, original application filed in the year 1999 i.e. after two years not maintainable. Also that, petitioners who were appointed as Coaches in the pay scale of Rs.700-1300 have accepted the offer of appointment so made without raising any protest. It is also denied that the Coaches and District Sports Officers were borne on the same cadre. It is admitted that in terms of 1980 rules, the posts of Coaches/District Sports Officers were common but the appointments against each category of posts were being made separately. The petitioners, as such, were stated to be not entitled to the pay scale of Rs.800-1400 nor aggrieved in any manner by the rules framed in the year 1997.

10. Learned Tribunal on hearing learned Counsel representing the parties on both sides and also going through the record as well as taking into consideration the law laid down by the Punjab and Haryana High Court in Civil Writ Petition No. 5036 of 1984, titled Ram Phal Thakran, Wrestling Coach versus State of Haryana & others and Teg Singh & Others Versus The State of Haryana and another, CWP No. 3284 of 1992 and upheld by the Apex Court also held the Coaches entitled to pay scales/equivalence at par with District Sports Officers (re-designated as District Sports Officers) along with consequential benefits including promotion(s), if any.

11. The respondent-State though has challenged the impugned judgment, however, only on the grounds inter-alia, that 1980 rules were notified by the department of Education common for Coaches/District Sports Officers after 7-8 months of the revision of pay scale and as the pay revision has an overriding effect upon the R&P Rules so far as the pay scale are concerned, coupled with the factum of the pay scales for the post of Coaches were known to the writ petitioners, however, irrespective of it they accepted unconditionally the offer of appointment made to them, they were not justified in approaching the Tribunal at a stage when the respondent No.2-State had framed its own rules. While admitting that the 1980 Recruitment and Promotion Rules were common for District Sports Officers/Coaches, their cadre and seniority were separate. The respondent No.2-department had sent requisition to respondent No. 3 for selection of six Coaches in the pay scale of Rs.700-1300. The offer of appointment made to them was accepted unconditionally. Therefore, the judgment of Punjab and Haryana High Court in B.S. Yadav versus State of Haryana, AIR 1981 SC 561 is stated to be not applicable in this case. It is, therefore, submitted that the claim of the writ petitioners qua their entitlement to the post of District Youth Services and Sports Officers with consequential benefits w.e.f. 1997 is false and as such has been sought to be rejected.

12. Mr. Vikas Rathore, learned Additional Advocate General while arguing that the impugned judgment is not legally and factually sustainable has sought the same to be quashed and set aside, Mr. Bhuvnesh Sharma, Advocate, learned Counsel representing the writ petitioners has urged that learned Himachal Pradesh State Administrative Tribunal has rightly appreciated the facts and circumstances of this case and also the law applicable. According to Mr. Sharma, the law laid down by the Punjab and Haryana High Court in Ram Phal's case, cited supra, is squarely applicable to the facts of this case, therefore, according to him the impugned judgment call for no interference by this Court.

13. Admittedly, the posts of Coaches/District Sports Officers initially were being manned by the department of Education. The common rules for the post of Sports Coaches /District Sports Officers were framed in the year 1980. It is seen that both posts were placed under the pay scale of Rs.300-25-600 meaning thereby that both posts were common and placed under the same pay scale. It is in the revision of pay scale in the year 1984 while the District Sports Officers were placed under the pay scale of Rs.800-1400, the writ petitioners were placed under the pay scale of Rs.700-1300. In the State of Punjab and Haryana also, the common pay scales for Coaches and District Sports Officers i.e. Rs.700-1250 with selection grade of Rs.750-1400 to 20% post was revised as Rs.800-1600, however, only for District Sports Officers and not given to the Coaches. Therefore, with similar set of facts and circumstances one Ram Phal Thakran, Wrestling Coach has filed Civil Writ Petition No. 5036 of 1984 in the High Court of Punjab and Haryana. The writ petition was allowed. This judgment reads as follow:-

> "The petitioners in this writ petition, who are working as coaches in various games in the Sports Department of the State of Haryana, are claiming pay parity with the District Sports Officer working in the same department.
> The case as put forth in the writ petition is that the petitioners are working as Coaches in the Sports Department of the State of Haryana. The Coaches and the District Sports Officers formed one cadre in the department where they had joint seniority and a post of a Coach and that of the District Sports Officers are interchangeable. It has been further averred that prior to 1968 the pay scale of coaches and the district Sports Officers who formed a joint cadre was Rs. 250-500 which was revised to Rs.300-600 after 1968. Further it has been stated that with effect from 1st April, 1979 the pay scale of both Coaches and the District Sports Officers in the joint cadre was revised to Rs. 700-1250 with selection grade of Rs. 750-1450 to 20% posts of the joint cadre of the coaches and the District Sports Officers. However, vide order dated 2nd October, 1984 (Annexure P-4) the State Government had revised the grade of District Sports Officer at Headquarters from Rs. 700-1250 to Rs. 800-1600 with effect from 28th September, 1984. The grievance of the petitioners is that though the Coaches and the District Sports Officers formed one cadre; they had a joint seniority and their posts were interchangeable, yet they had been discriminated against by the State government, inasmuch as the pay scales of the District Sports Officers had been revised from Rs. 700-1250 to Rs. 800-1600, whereas the pay scale of Coaches has not been revised. According to the petitioners this action of the State Government was arbitrary and discriminatory and violative of Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India.
>
> Mr. J.L. Gupta, Senior Advocate, learned counsel for the petitioners, has submitted that since Coaches and the District Sports Officers formed one joint cadre; they had a joint seniority and their posts were interchangeable and they were getting the same pay scale as the District Sports Officers, the Government could not just revise the pay scales of the posts of District Sports Officers and not of Coaches. According to the learned counsel, the government must justify as to why while revising the pay scale of the District Sports Officers, the pay scale of coaches was not revised. He further submitted that since there was no justification to treat the
> Coaches differently than the District Sports Officers for the purpose of pay scales and there was no reasonable classification, between these two categories of Officers, the action was wholly arbitrary and violative of Article 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. There is force in the submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioners.

On the other hand, Mr. Madan Dev, learned counsel for the State, argued that with effect from 28th September, 1984, when Annexure P-4 was issued, the cadre of the District Sports Officers and that of Coaches was separated and they had a separate seniority from the said date. Taking into consideration the duties performed by the District Sports Officers, their pay scale was revised. In the written statement it has been admitted that prior to the order Annexure P-4, which was issued on 2nd October, 1984, the Coaches and the District Sports Officers had a joint seniority and they formed one cadre. It has been further stated that it was only the senior most Coach who was made the District Sports Officer and the posts were not interchangeable.

Annexure P-2 with the written statement is gradation list as it existed on January 1, 1983 in the department of Sports, Haryana, wherein I find that the first three officers in the gradation list are District Sports Officers, whereas the officers at No. 4 is a Coach, Officers at Nos. 5 and 6 are again District Sports Officers (Officers Nos. 5 and 6 have been posted officer at Headquarter), whereas No. 7 is again a Coach. From this gradation list it is apparent that it was not necessarily that the senior most coach was being appointed as District Sports Officer.

Mr. J.L. Gupta, learned counsel for the petitioners, has drawn my attention to Annexure P-3, which is an order of the State Government dated 2nd March, 1984 showing that the post of District Sports Officer and Coach was interchangeable with each other. Be that as it may, once the Coaches and the District Sports Officers formed joint cadre right prior to 1966 to 1984, the coaches and the district Sports Officers were in the same pay scale having a joint cadre and joint seniority, I find no jurisdiction not to treat the Coaches equally with the District Sports Officers for the purpose of pay scales. Once these two categories of posts were held to be equal for the purpose of revision of pay scales, then there cannot be any discrimination between them for the purpose of revision of pay scale. I may also mention that the arguments of the learned counsel for the State that since these two classes of officers perform different duties, therefore, the pay scale of District Sports Officers was revised, has no force, inasmuch as, as stated above once these two classes were joint for the purpose of seniority and pay scale, then there cannot be any discrimination between them. Otherwise also, it is the quality and the responsibility of the post which was to be seen. In no way it can be said that the Coaches were in any way inferior to the District Sports Officers regarding the nature and the quality of the work and duties. The post of a District Sports Officer is not a higher or a promotional post for the rank of a Coach. It is not the case of the respondent State that District Sports Officers started performing some different or additional duties which they were not performing prior to issue of order Annexure P-4 dated October 2, 1984.

In view of what has been stated above, this writ petition is allowed and the State Government is directed to equate Coaches with the District Sports Officers for the purpose of pay scale and the petitioners who were Coaches be granted the same revised pay scale as that of the District Sports Officers from the same date as it was granted to the District Sports Officers. The arrears of the revised pay scale shall be released within a period of three months from the date of the receipt of this order. There will be no order as to costs."

14. The judgment supra even was upheld by a division Bench of that very Court in LPA. The judgment in Ram Phal Thakran's case was followed by a Division Bench of the same High Court in CWP No. 3284 of 1992, titled Teg Singh, Kabaddi Coach and others vs. The State of Haryana and another, which was decided vide judgment dated 18.8.1992. This judgment was assailed in the Apex Court by way of filing petition for Special Leave to appeal (s) No. 8045 of 1993, title State of Haryana & another versus Teg Singh & others. However, the SLP was also dismissed meaning thereby that the judgment in Ram Phal Thakran's and Tej Singh's cases, cited supra, had attained the finality. Consequent upon the law so laid down the Coaches in the State of Punjab and Haryana were also placed under the pay scale of Rs.800-1600. The Tribunal, as such, has rightly placed reliance on the judgment cited supra. There is nothing in the grounds of appeal as to how learned Tribunal has committed any illegality or irregularity while placing reliance on the judgment in Ram Phal Thakran's and Teg Singh's cases supra. On the other hand, the submission that the Tribunal has erroneously placed reliance on the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in AIR 1981 SC 561 appear to have been made merely for rejection for the reasons that the point in issue in the present lis is covered by the judgment of Punjab and Haryana High Court in Ram Phal's case, cited supra, which even was relied upon in Tej Singh's case also and the judgment in Teg Singh's case stood affirmed in the Apex Court also.

15. Now if coming to the factual matrix, as noticed at the outset, in 1980 Recruitment and Promotion Rules Coaches/District Sports Officers had common cadre and even in the same pay scale. Hence, co-ordinate posts. Therefore, there is no justification in making provision of two different scales for these posts later on. There is no intelligible differentia justifying the provisions of two different pay scales i.e. Rs.800-1400 for the posts of District Sports Officers whereas Rs.700-1300 for that of the Coaches which initially were common and under the same pay scale in the 1980 rules. The respondent-State has, therefore, definitely discriminated the category of the writ petitioners by making provisions of lower pay scale for them. Learned Tribunal has very appropriately taken note of letter dated 17.11.1984 of the Commissioner-cum-Secretary (Youth Services and Sports) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh addressed to Director, Youth Services and Sports, Himachal Pradesh requiring thereby to upgrade the posts of Coaches in the pay scale of Rs.700-1300 as District Sports Officers in the pay scale of Rs.800-1400. Learned Tribunal has also not committed any illegality while taking note of the 1980 Recruitment and Promotion Rules and also the amendment dated 2.11.1979 well before the revision of pay scales while arriving at a conclusion that the coaches and District Sports Officers had a common cadre with an identical pay scale of Rs.300-600. The Coaches, therefore, should have not been discriminated by placing them in the pay scale of Rs.700-1300 instead of Rs.800-1400 in the subsequent revision of pay scales.

16. So far as respondents No. 4 and 5 are concerned, they had joined as Youth Organizers in the newly created department, whereas the writ petitioners were already on the cadre of Coaches, therefore, could have not been treated at par with youth organizers so far as promotion to the post of District Youth Services and Sports Officer is concerned. Not only this, but the scale of respondents No. 4 and 5 being 570-1080 subsequently revised to Rs.1500-2640 is below that of the writ petitioners i.e. Rs.1640-2925. Otherwise also, when the coaches and District Sports Officers had a common cadre, therefore, the Coaches cannot be said to be in feeder category for promotion to the post of District Youth Services and Sports Officer. Learned Tribunal has also rightly concluded that there cannot be any estoppel against the law/statute and the claim for pay scale is rather recurring cause of action, therefore, the contention to the contrary raised by respondents No. 4 and 5 on this score are not legally sustainable.

17. For all the reasons hereinabove, there is no merit in this writ petition and the same is accordingly dismissed. Consequently, the impugned judgment is affirmed. The interim order dated 8.1.2018 passed in CMP No. 8775 of 2017 will also stand vacated.

18. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stands disposed of.

Cases referred:

Devender Singh and others vs. State of Punjab through CBI 2016 (12) 87

Punjab State Wareshousing Corporation vs. Bhushan Chander and another, 2016 (13) SCC 44

For the Petitioners Mr. Jagan Nath, Advocate.

For the Respondents Mr. Vinod Thakur and Mr. Sudhir Bhatnagar, Addl. A.G., with Mr. Bhupinder Thakur Dy. A.G. for respondent No.1.
Mr. P. P. Chauhan, Advocate, for respondent No.2.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The petitioners were the office bearers of Gram Panchayat Mahadev and have sought quashing of FIR No. 66 of 2013, under Sections 447, 448, 452, 453, 380, 120-B of the IPC registered at Police Station BSL Colony and subsequent proceedings pending before the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. (I), Sunder Nagar, District Mandi, H.P.

2. The undisputed facts of the case are that one Brij Lal had moved an application to the Gram Panchayat on 18.05.2013 complaining that respondent No. 2 was not vacating his shop and not paying the arrears of rent and electricity bill. The Gram Panchayat issued notice to respondent No. 2 and having failed to put in appearance, he was proceeded exparte in those proceedings. The Panchayat in its proceedings on 06.08.2013 visited the spot and opened the lock which was affixed by respondent No. 2 on the shop and took into possession the articles which were in the shop. This led respondent No. 2 to file an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. before the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 1, Sunder Nagar, who directed the registration of FIR against the petitioners on 14.08.2013. The police after investigation filed a cancellation report taking a view that Panchayat officials/accused had acted under Section 19 of the Panchayati Raj Act, 1994 (for short the 'Act').

3. Respondent No. 2 filed objections to the cancellation report which was accepted by the learned Magistrate, who thereafter issued process against the petitioners.

4. It is vehemently argued by Shri Jagan Nath, Advocate, that the learned Magistrate has failed to appreciate the fact that the complainant i.e. respondent No. 2 illegally occupied the premises and despite several notices had not appeared before the Panchayat nor vacated the premises, therefore, no case could have been instituted against the petitioners, especially when they acted bonafidely in discharge of their official duties.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the material on record.

5. At the outset, it needs to be stated that the petitioners, at the relevant time, were officers of the Panchayat and being public servant, were entitled to the protection under Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 read with Section 197 of the Cr.P.C. (for short the Code), provided the petitioners while carrying out the act allegedly to be committed by them, were purportedly acting in the discharge of their official duties.

6. However, in the instant case, it would be noticed that the dispute before the Panchayat was with regard to arrears of rent of commercial property. The dispute, as per the record was that respondent No. 2 had not paid arrears of rent for 9 months and had not paid the electricity bill amounting to Rs.5681/- which apparently was more than Rs.2000/-. Under Section 41 of the Act, the Panchayat has jurisdiction only with respect to money suit, suit claiming compensation and damages and suit for recovery of movable property not more than Rs.2000/-. Meaning thereby, that the Panchayat has not been conferred with any power or jurisdiction to try dispute between landlord or tenant or dispute with respect to possession of commercial shop or dispute involving more than Rs. 2000/-.

7. Section 37 of the Act clearly provides that where the Panchayat has no jurisdiction, it has to return the complaint to the Magistrate having jurisdiction, therefore, once the petitioners had no jurisdiction to entertain the dispute there was no question that they could have got the shop vacated.

8. The protection afforded to public servant can only be said to be available when he acts or purport to acts in discharge of official duty, if his act is such as to lie within the scope of official duty. The question, therefore, would be that whether the act done by the petitioners was in discharge of official duty or by virtue of their office, so as to entitle them to the protection under Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 read with Section 197 of the Code, the answer to the same is obviously in the negative.

9. It is more than settled that sanction to prosecute under Section 197 of the Act is required only when the alleged act has reasonable nexus between the act done and official duty. Reference in this regard can be made to recent judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Devender Singh and others vs. State of Punjab through CBI 2016 (12) 87, wherein after taking into consideration the entire law on the subject, the principles emerged therefrom were summarized as under:

> "39. The principles emerging from the aforesaid decisions are summarized hereunder :
> 39.1. Protection of sanction is an assurance to an honest and sincere officer to perform his duty honestly and to the best of his ability to further public duty. However, authority cannot be camouflaged to commit crime.
>
> 39.2. Once act or omission has been found to have been committed by public servant in discharging his duty it must be given liberal and wide construction so far its official nature is concerned. Public servant is not entitled to indulge in criminal activities. To that extent Section 197 CrPC has to be construed narrowly and in a restricted manner.
>
> 39.3. Even in facts of a case when public servant has exceeded in his duty, if there is reasonable connection it will not deprive him of protection under section 197 Cr.P.C. There cannot be a universal rule to determine whether there is reasonable nexus between the act done and official duty nor it is possible to lay down such rule.
>
> 39.4. In case the assault made is intrinsically connected with or related to performance of official duties sanction would be necessary under Section 197 CrPC, but such relation to duty should not be pretended or fanciful claim. The offence must be directly and reasonably connected with official duty to require sanction. It is no part of official duty to commit offence. In case offence was incomplete without proving, the official act, ordinarily the provisions of Section 197 CrPC would apply.
>
> 39.5. In case sanction is necessary it has to be decided by competent authority and sanction has to be issued on the basis of sound objective assessment. The court is not to be a sanctioning authority.
>
> 39.6. Ordinarily, question of sanction should be dealt with at the stage of taking cognizance, but if the cognizance is taken erroneously and the same comes to the notice of Court at a later stage, finding to that effect is permissible and such a plea can be taken first time before appellate Court. It may arise at inception itself. There is no requirement that accused must wait till charges are framed.
> 39.7. Question of sanction can be raised at the time of framing of charge and it can be decided prima facie on the basis of accusation. It is open to decide it afresh in light of evidence adduced after conclusion of trial or at other appropriate stage.

> 39.8. Question of sanction may arise at any stage of proceedings. On a police or judicial inquiry or in course of evidence during trial. Whether sanction is necessary or not may have to be determined from stage to stage and material brought on record depending upon facts of each case. Question of sanction can be considered at any stage of the proceedings. Necessity for sanction may reveal itself in the course of the progress of the case and it would be open to accused to place material during the course of trial for showing what his duty was. Accused has the right to lead evidence in support of his case on merits.
> 39.9. In some case it may not be possible to decide the question effectively and finally without giving opportunity to the defence to adduce evidence. Question of good faith or bad faith may be decided on conclusion of trial."

10. In Punjab State Wareshousing Corporation vs. Bhushan Chander and another, 2016 (13) SCC 44, the Hon'ble Supreme Court again considered the entire law on the subject and thereafter concluded as follows:-

> "A survery of the precedents makes it absolutely clear that there has to be a reasonable connection between the omission or commission and the discharge of official duty or the act committed was under the colour of the office held by the official. If the acts, omission or commission of which is totally alien to the discharge of the official duty, question of invoking Section 197 Cr.P.C. does not arise."

11. Thus, what can be conveniently deduced from the law expounded above is that the protection given under Section 197 of the Act is to protect responsible public servants against the institution of vexatious criminal proceedings for offences alleged to have been committed by them, while they acting or purporting to act as public servant. The policy of the legislature is to afford adequate protection to public servants to ensure that they are not prosecuted for anything done by them in the discharge of their official duties without reasonable cause, and if sanction is granted, to confer on the Government, if they choose to exercise it, complete control of the prosecution. However, this protection has certain limits and is available only when the alleged act done by the public servant is reasonably connected with the discharge of his official duty and is not merely a cloak for doing the objectionable act. If in doing his official duty, the public servant acted in excess of his duty, but there is a reasonable connection between the act and the performance of the official duty, the excess will not be a sufficient ground to deprive the public servant of the protection. The question is not as to the nature of the offence such as whether the alleged offence contained an element necessarily dependent upon the offender being a public servant, but whether it was committed by a public servant acting or purporting to act as such in the discharge of his official capacity.

12. Before Section 197 can be invoked, it must be shown that the official concerned was accused of an offence alleged to have been committed by him while acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties. It is not the duty which requires examination so much as the act, because the official act can be performed both in the discharge of the official duty as well as in dereliction of it. The act must fall within the scope and range of the official duties of the public servant concerned. It is the quality of the act which is important and the protection of this section is available if the act falls within the scope and range of his official duty. There cannot be any universal rule to determine whether there is a reasonable connection between the act done and the official duty, nor is it possible to lay down any such rule. One safe and sure test in this regard would be to consider if the omission or neglect on the part of the public servant to commit the act complained of could have made him answerable for a charge of dereliction of his official duty. If the answer to this question is in the affirmative, it may be said that such act was committed by the public servant while acting in the discharge of his official duty and there was every connection with the act complained of and the official duty of the public servant. This aspect makes it clear that the concept of Section 197 does not get immediately attracted on institution of the complaint case.

13. Now, adverting to the facts of the case, it is clear that the petitioners have admittedly evicted respondent No. 2 from the premises, that too, forcibly and without any authority of law, as such the action was not only illegal but also arbitrary. The petitioners could at best have advised the aggrieved party to approach competent Court or authority to have respondent No. 2 evicted in accordance with law but could not have under any circumstance taken law in their own hands and thereby forcibly evicted him i.e. respondent No. 2 from the premises.

14. Ours is a country governed by a rule of law which applies to the State and the citizens alike. The petitioners, at the relevant time, were office bearers of the Gram Panchayat and, therefore, could not have acted arbitrarily much less high handedly according to whims and fancies like autocrats. As observed above, the country is governed by the rule of law, and to put it in the immortal words of the 17th Century Church Man and Thomas Fuller "Be you never so high, the law is above you".

15. In a system governed by the rule of law there is nothing like absolute or unbriddled power exercisable at the whims and fancies of the repositories of such powers. There is nothing like a power without any limit or constraint. The petitioners while riding high on the fuel of power failed to realize that public offices both big and small are sacrosanct. Such offices are meant for use and not for abuse and in case the repositories of such offices spoils the rule, then the law is not that powerless and would step in.

16. The petitioners being office bearers of the Gram Panchayat betrayed complete ignorance to the fact that Gram Panchayat is creation of statute and is a State within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution of India and, therefore, cannot act like a private individual, who is free to act in a manner whatsoever he likes, unless it is interdicted or prohibited by law.

17. It needs no reiteration that the State and its instrumentalities have to act strictly within the four corners of law and all its activities are governed by Rules, regulations and instructions etc.

18. In the instant case, there is no reasonable connection between the act of the petitioners and the discharge of their official duties and, therefore, they are not entitled to the protection under Section 197 of the Act as prima facie the petitioners have acted not just in excess of jurisdiction but illegally by entertaining the dispute between the landlord and tenant with respect to commercial shop and thereafter have proceeded to the spot and forcibly dispossessed the tenant (Respondent No. 2) by breaking upon the locks. Such acts do not fall within the colour of office, nor can the same be termed to have been performed in discharge of public duty.

19. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find no merit in this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed.

20. However, before parting, it is made clear that observations made herein are solely for the purpose of deciding the present lis and shall not in any way be construed to be an opinion on the merits of the case.

Reserve Bank of India and another vs. Cecil Dennis Solomon and another AIR 2004 SC 3196

V.T. Khanzode and others vs. Reserve Bank of India and another AIR 1982 SC 917

For the Petitioner: In person.

For the Respondents: Mr. Neeraj K. Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Tarlok Singh Chauhan, J.

This writ petition has been filed for the following substantive reliefs:

(i) That the impugned Circular dated 07.06.2016, Annexure P-3 may kindly be quashed and set-aside, by issuing writ of certiorari.

(ii) That sub para (2) of para 1 of impugned notification dated 28.08.2017 which fixes the date of operation of the amendment as 06.10.2017 may kindly be quashed and set-aside as petitioned in paragraph No.23 of this petition.

(iii) That the respondents may kindly be directed to re-fix the basic pension of the petitioner on the basis of 'last pay drawn' effective from 01.02.2013 and also pay commuted value of pension on that basis (last pay drawn).

(iv) That the respondent Bank may kindly be directed to refund Rs.1,14,111/- (Rupees One Lac Fourteen Thousand One Hundred Eleven) recovered from the petitioner illegally without giving any notice."

2. The petitioner retired as an Assistant General Manager from the Reserve Bank of India, Chandigarh, Office on 31.01.2013 after putting in more than 32 years of service. At the time of retirement, the total emoluments of the petitioner as per the Administrative Circular No.4, dated 09.09.2010 for the purpose of basic pension was Rs.56,750/- and, therefore, the basic pension was fixed at Rs.28,375/- (before commutation of pension). The respondent-Bank vide Circular No.7 dated 11.4.2016 revised the upward pay and allowances of its employees with retrospective effect w.e.f. 01.11.2012. The petitioner vide letter dated 27.7.2016 was asked to give the details of the pension paid/payable or recoverable and also commuted value of pension paid and payable on the basis of the revised pay and allowances. At the same time, the petitioner's last emoluments/last pay drawn was re-fixed at Rs.1,05,600/-, yet an amount of Rs.95,301/- was fixed as an average pay for the purpose of re-fixation of basic pension and payment of commuted value of pension. It is the case of the petitioner that he has been denied the benefit of full pension as laid down under Regulation 28 of the RBI Pension Regulations, 1990 (as amended in the year 2012) and had instead been relied entirely on average pay method of calculation of pension prescribed under the Regulation/ Rule No.28 read with Regulation No.2 of RBI Pension Regulations, 1990 and due to adoption of this method, the Bank has partially given the benefit of revision of pay and allowances i.e. only for three months i.e. November, December, 2012 and January, 2013 in the revised basic pension of the petitioner and his emoluments for the purpose of pension were re-fixed at Rs.95,301/- (average pay) instead of Rs.1,05,600/- (last pay drawn). Due to this average pay method of calculation of pension, the respondent-Bank has decreased the monthly gross pension of the petitioner from Rs.54,117/- to Rs.52,068/- as on 30.06.2016 and has shown a cumulative recovery of Rs.1,14,111/- as an excess amount of pension paid to the petitioner between February, 2013 to June, 2016. This amount according to the petitioner already stands recovered from him, that too, without issuing any show cause notice.

3. It was further averred that the bank has not only re-fixed the petitioner's monthly basic pension to his disadvantage, but also decreased commuted value of pension payable from Rs.9,59,183/- to Rs.7,56,351/- by application of average pay method of calculation of pension and thus denied the benefit of full pension to the petitioner. However, during the pending disposal of this writ petition, the respondent-Bank issued a notification dated 28.08.2017 thereby notified amendment to Regulation 28 relating to 'last pay drawn' to the RBI Pension Regulations, 1990. This notification in fact would have completely redressed the grievances made by the petitioner, but then the operation thereof was made prospective from 06.10.2017 and did not apply to the employees of the respondent-Bank, who retired between the period 01.11.2012 and 05.10.2017, constraining the petitioner to file the instant petition.

4. The respondents have contested the petition by filing reply wherein various preliminary objections with regard to there being no cause of action, any violation of fundamental right, no case having been made out by the petitioner for exercise of extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226, there being a disputed question of fact, maintainability, petition being misconceived etc. have been raised. Thereafter, as many as four preliminary submissions have been made. However, these need not be noticed as the contents thereof in fact have been reiterated in the reply on merits. It is averred that the petitioner's pension was calculated after taking into account the 'average emoluments' drawn by him from the month of April, 2012 to January, 2013 in terms of Regulation 2(2) and Regulation 28 of the Pension Regulations. The petitioner drew pre-revised salary for 7 months i.e. from April 2012 to October, 2012 and revised salary only for 3 months i.e. from November, 2012 to January, 2013. The benefits of the pay revision as per the instructions contained in Circular dated 07.06.2016, were given to the petitioner for the period April, 2012 to October, 2012 during which he drew pre-revised salary from the bank. Accordingly, his basic pension of Rs.28,375/- per month, which was calculated on pre-revised salary, was raised to Rs.47,651/- per month after pay revision. The revised pension of the petitioner was fixed at Rs.47,651/- and the 2/3rd pension after commutation was fixed at Rs.31,768/- with effect from February, 2013. Further, the petitioner was paid Rs.52,068/- (pension Rs.31,768 + dearness relief of Rs.20,300) in June, 2016. The pre-revised pension plus dearness relief for the month of June, 2016 was Rs.54,117/- (pension Rs.18,917/- + dearness relief of Rs.35,200/-). The decrease in the pension is on account of the increase in commuted value of pension from Rs.9,458/- to Rs.15,883/- leading to increase in total commutation value of pension by Rs.7,56,351/-. Thus, the cumulative recovery of pension from February, 2013 to June 2016 was Rs.1,14,111/-. It is denied that the respondent had re-fixed the petitioner's pension as last emoluments/last salary drawn at Rs.1,05,600/-. It was further denied that the respondent had denied the benefit of full pension as laid down under Regulation 28 of RBI Pension Regulations, 1990, but amendment in the Regulations was brought about w.e.f. 12.01.2013. The petitioner retired on 31.01.2013 and was sanctioned proportionate pension for 32 years as per the then Regulation 28 of Pension Regulations. Thereafter, as per amendment in Regulation 28 of Pension Regulations, the petitioner was given the benefit of full service w.e.f. February, 2013. It is further averred that the Central Government accorded approval to the Bank's proposal for amendment of Regulation 28 of the RBI Pension Regulations, 1990 vide letter dated 31.3.2017 according to which the rate of basic pension would be 50% of the average emoluments or the 'last pay drawn', whichever is more beneficial to the employee and the same was notified in the official gazette on 28.8.2017. Accordingly, the present method of calculation of pension of an employee is 10 months average or the 'last pay drawn', which is more beneficial to the employee. However, an Administrative Circular dated 26.10.2017 was issued by the respondents wherein in para-2, it is clearly circulated that amendment would be applicable only to the employees retiring from the Bank's service on or after October 6, 2017. However, the same will not have any effect on the pension drawn by the employees prior to October 6, 2017.

5. The petitioner filed rejoinder wherein it has been averred that the respondent-Bank should have given effect to the stipulation/prescription contained in para-5 of the RBI Pension Regulations, 1990 while issuing impugned circular dated 7.6.2016 as the Committee of CBODs in its meeting dated 5.10.2011 had already approved adoption of 'last pay drawn' method of computation of basic pension. Further, amendments to the existing Regulations of RBI Pension Regulations, 1990 are not governed by clause (j) of sub section (2) of Section 58 of the RBI Act, 1934 (for short 'Act'), but had to be dealt with in accordance with the instructions contained in Regulation No.5. It is further claimed that cut-off-date fixed vide notification dated 28.8.2017 by the respondent-Bank is arbitrary, unfair, illegal and discriminatory.

6. The respondents have filed Sur-rejoinder reiterating the averments made in the reply and in addition thereto, it has been stated that cut-off-date in the impugned notification was fixed in terms of para-7 of the proposal (memorandum submitted to CCB), wherein it is stated that with a view to restricting the financial implication, the amendments were proposed to be implemented with a prospective date so that the arrears are not required to be paid and only future liabilities are accounted for. The bank vide letter dated 19.1.2017 requested the Government of India to approve the proposal to amend Regulation 28 of RBI Pension Regulations, 1990 and the Ministry of Finance vide its letter dated 31.3.2017 accorded its approval. It has further been stated that while amending Regulations, the respondents have followed the procedure as envisaged under Section 58 of the RBI Act and accordingly Regulation 28 was amended by the Central Board of the respondent-Bank after obtaining the prior approval from the Central Government. In terms of sub section-4 of Section 58 of the RBI Act, thereafter the Regulation was published in the Gazette of India dated 6.10.2017 to be laid on the table of both the Houses of the Parliament in October, 2017.

7. I have heard the petitioner and learned counsel for the respondents and have gone through the petition alongwith the accompanying documents annexed with it and also the records of the case that was directed to be produced.

8. There can be no dispute that in matters regarding fixation of cut-off-dates, the scope of interference of the Court is extremely limited. Cut-off-date is fixed by the executive authority keeping in view the economic conditions, financial constraints and many other administrative and other attending circumstances. This is within the domain of the executive authority and the Court should not normally interfere with the fixation of the cut-off-date by the executive authority unless such order on the face of it appears to be blatantly arbitrary and discriminatory. The Government must be left with some leeway and free play at the joints in this connection. But that does not mean that the Court does not interfere even with the cut-off-date, is arbitrary or the reasons for fixing the cut-off-date, are otherwise bad in any justifiable reasons.

9. Adverting to the facts, it would be noticed that it was the respondent-Bank, who of its own had sought the amendment in the Regulation and in this context, it would be necessary to reproduce the letter dated January 19, 2017 addressed by the respondent-Bank to the Government of India wherein it had sought its approval and the same reads thus:

"RESERVE BANK OF INDIA

CO HRMD No.13440/21.01.00/2016-17 January 19,2017
Shri Sewa Ram Mehar
The Deputy Secretary to the Government of India
Ministry of Finance
Department of Financial Service
Jeevan Deep Building
Parliament Street
New Delhi – 110001.

Dear Sir,

RBI Pension Regulations, 1990 – Amendment to Regulation 28 - Rate of basic pension at fifty percent of the last pay.

At present in terms of Regulation 28 of RBI Pension Regulations, 1990 the rate of basic pension is fifty per cent of the average emoluments (i.e. average of pay drawn by an employee during the last 10 months of his/her service) subject to a minimum of Rs.3,500/- per mensem. Due to this method, the employees who retire after drawing salary partly on pre-revised scale and partly on revised scale during last 10 months of service draw basic pension at much lower rate compared to employees who retire after drawing salary on revised basic during last 10 months of service. The reduction in monthly pension depends on number of months they draw salary on revised pay scales. This has generated a lot of distress among the affected employees, several of whom have requested for review.

2. The RBI Pension Regulations have been framed on the lines of CCS (Pension) Rules, 1972. In Government pension is calculated at 50% of the emoluments of the last month or average emoluments received during last 10 months, whichever is beneficial to the employees. Accordingly, Bank vide letter DO HRMD No.2851/21.01/2011-12 dated October 11, 2011 had forwarded a proposal to amend Regulation 28 of RBI Pension Regulations, 1990 as per Annexure.

3. As this will benefit only a few employees, the financial implication will be negligible. However, it will go long way in removing an anomaly which exists today. In view of this, Government is requested to kindly consider Bank's proposal to amend Regulation 28 of Pension Regulations as above and accord approval.

Yours faithfully
Sd/-
(Ramesh Iyer)
Assistant General Manager,
Encl: As above."

10. Now, in the teeth of what is contained in para-3 of the letter (supra), it does not lie in the mouth of the respondents to claim that since there was financial implications, therefore, they granted the benefit of this amended Regulation from the date of notification i.e. 6.10.2017, without granting benefit to those employees, who retired between the period i.e. 01.11.2012 and 5.10.2017.

11. In addition thereto, it would be noticed that in response to the aforesaid letter dated 19.1.2017 seeking approval of the Government for amendment of the RBI Regulations with respect to the rate of pension at 50% of the average emoluments of last 10 months or last pay drawn, the proposal sent by the RBI was approved as such without any modification by the Government as is evident from the letter dated 31.3.2017, which reads thus:

Most Immediate

"F.No.11/1/2017-IR

Subject: RBI Pension Regulations, 1990 – Amendment to Regulation 28 – Rate of basic pension at fifty percent of the last pay.

Sir,

I am directed to refer to RBI's letter CO HRMD No.13440/21.01.00/2016-17, dated 19th Jan, 2017 and 20th March, 2017 seeking approval of the Government for amendment in RBI Pension Regulations w.r.t. the rate of basic pension at 50% of average emolument (of last 10 months) or the last pay drawn whichever is more beneficial to the employee.

2. The said proposal was examined in the Department in consultation with D/o Expenditure and it has been decided to convey the approval on the same.

3. This has the approval of competent authority.

Yours faithfully,

Under Secretary to the Government of India."

12. In addition to the aforesaid, it may be noticed that there was no contemporaneous official record placed before this Court with regard to the actual financial implications in case the amendment in the Regulation 28 of the Pension Regulations was to be brought about from 3.10.2011. Even during the course of hearing, the respondents had to candidly admit that no such data was in fact available with the Bank and therefore there was no question for placing the same before the Board etc.

13. Thus, what stand established on the record is that the reasons assigned for applying the Regulations with effect from prospective date are not borne out from the records and are further not substantiated by any contemporaneous official record. Once that be so, then the decision to enforce the amended Regulation No. 28 prospectively i.e. unilaterally rather arbitrary.

14. Lastly and more importantly, the aforesaid Pension Regulations, 1990 could be framed only under Clause (j) of sub section (2) of Section 58 of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934, which reads thus:

> "58.(2) (j) The constitution and management of staff and superannuation funds for the officers and servants of the Bank."

15. The Pension Regulations so framed were admittedly after sanction of the Central Government and as observed above, the Central Government had approved the amendment of the RBI Regulations as it is as was proposed by the respondent vide its letter dated 19.1.2017.

16. It is more settled that Regulations once framed cannot be amended or altered by administrative circular. Reference in this regard can conveniently be made to the three Judges Bench decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in V.T. Khanzode and others vs. Reserve Bank of India and another AIR 1982 SC 917, wherein it was observed as under:

> "23. Having seen that the Central Board has the power to provide for service conditions of the staff by issuing administrative circulars, the next question for consideration is whether the Staff Regulations of 1948 were issued under Section 58 of the Act. The importance of this question lies in the fact that, quite clearly, if the 1948 Regulations are statutory, they cannot be altered by administrative circulars and, in that event, the impugned circular will not have the effect of superseding them. Having considered the entire material on this subject, including the correspondence that has transpired between the Reserve Bank and the Central Government, we find it difficult to take the view that the Staff Regulations of 1948 were framed in the exercise of power conferred by Section 58. One fact which stands out in this regard is that whereas Section 58 (1) envisages the making of regulations"with the previous sanction of the Central Government", the Regulations of 1948 do not purport to have been made with such sanction. Indeed, in so far as the ex facie aspect of the matter is concerned, the Regulations of 1948 do not purport to have been made under Section 58 at all. It is true that this by itself is not conclusive because, failure to mention the source of power cannot invalidate the exercise of power, if the power is possessed by the authority which exercises it. But, the common course of the manner in which the Central Board exercises its power when it purports to do so under Section 58 is not without relevance and has an important bearing on the question under consideration. The Employees' Provident Fund Regulations of 1935, the Note Issue Regulations of 1935 the

General Regulations of 1949, the Scheduled Banks' Regulations of 1951 and the Guarantee Fund Regulations,which were all framed under section 58, contain a preamble reciting that they were framed under that section and that they were framed with the previous sanction of the Central Government. By way of illustration, we may cite the preamble of the Reserve Bank of India General Regulations, 1949, which runs thus:

> "In exercise of the powers conferred by Section 58 of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 (II of 1934) and in supersession of the Reserve Bank of India General Regulations, 1935, the Central Board of the Reserve Bank of India, with the previous sanction of the Central Government, is pleased to make the following Regulations..."

It is significant that such a recital is conspicuously absent in the Regulations of 1948. That renders it safe and reasonable to accept the statement contained in the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the Reserve Bank by Shri Shamrao Laxman Jathar Deputy Manager in the Department of Administration and Personnel to the effect that the Staff Regulations of 1948 are not statutory in character, not having been made under Section 58 of the Act of 1934. The rejoinder affidavit dated July 16, 1979 filed on behalf of the petitioners by Shri Jamnadas Gupta reiterates the contention that the Regulations of 1948 were framed under Section 58 (1) with the sanction of the Central Government. Support is sought to that contention from the correspondence annexed to the affidavit filed in support of the writ petition and the correspondence annexed to the rejoinder. Of particular importance is the statement contained in the 'Memorandum to the Central Board' dated January 21, 1949, submitted by the then Governor of Reserve Bank, Shri C.D. Deshmukh, on the subject of "Reserve Bank of India Regulations". That Memorandum contains a list of regulations which were made by the Central Board "with the approval of the Central Government". The very first item in the list is"Reserve Bank of India (Staff) Regulations". Having considered the correspondence bearing on the subject and particularly the aforesaid Memorandum, we see no reason to doubt the contention of the Bank that the Regulations of 1948 were not framed under section 58 and that they were not made with the previous sanction of the Central Government. The then Governor of the Reserve Bank of India, Shri C. D. Deshmukh, a distinguished Economist and Civilian, was perhaps justified in assuming from the correspondence that the Central Government has no objection to the proposed regulations, which explains his statement, that they were made with the "approval" of the Central Government. But, it is one thing to infer that the Regulations had the approval of the Central Government since no objection was raised by it to the making of the regulations and quite another that they were made with its previous sanction. The supplementary affidavit dated March, 1980 which was filed on behalf of the Reserve Bank by Shri Pradeep Madhav Joshi, Deputy Manager in the Department of Administration and Personnel, has dealt fully with the correspondence on the subject of previous sanction of the Central Government to the Regulations of1948. We are inclined to accept the statement contained in paragraph 9 of the said affidavit that the Memorandum of January 21, 1949 contains a "factual mistake" to the effect that the Staff Regulations, (which would include the Regulations of 1948) were made with the approval of Central Government. We therefore conclude that the Reserve Bank of India (Staff) Regulations of 1948 were not made under Section 58 of the Act and that, in fact, the Central Board had not obtained the sanction of the Central Government to the making of those Regulations."

17. Therefore, once the Central Board recommended for changes in the Pension Regulations including the cut-off-date for its implementation then sanction of the Central Government was mandatory because unless the recommendations for the amendment were approved, there is no binding force of such amendment. Reference in this regard can conveniently be made to the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Reserve Bank of India and another vs. Cecil Dennis Solomon and another AIR 2004 SC 3196, wherein it was observed as under:

> "8.... In Reserve Bank and Another v. S. Jayarajan (1995 supp(4) SCC 584) the view expressed in V.T. Khanzode and Ors. v. Reserve Bank of India and Anr. (1982 (2) SCC 7) was reiterated that the Staff Regulations are administrative in nature. The Central Board is authorized to take such administrative decisions and Central Government's approval/decision is not necessary. Therefore, if changes were to be introduced in the Staff Regulations and the Central Board takes a decision, there would not be any necessity for taking approval of the Central Government. But the position is different so far as the Pension Regulations are concerned. The said Regulations were framed with the sanction of the Central Government and are framed in exercise of the powers conferred by clause (j) of sub-section (2) of Section 58. If the Central Board recommended for changes in the Pension Regulations, sanction of the Central Government is mandatory. This aspect seems to have been lost sight by the High Court and the respondents cannot derive any advantage from the mere recommendations made by the Central Board suggesting changes to the Regulations. The Central Government has specifically dealt with the recommendations and has turned them down. Unless the recommendations for the amendment are approved, they have no binding force or application to make any claim thereon. Further, the respondents who claim that they were not claiming the benefit under the Pension Regulations could not point out any other source to which their claims could be linked. The respondents-employees were getting superannuation benefits accruing to them under the contributory provisions and gratuity schemes. The High Court was also in error in equating the case of resignation to voluntary retirement. The two are conceptually different in the service jurisprudence and different consequences would flow depending upon one or the other of the courses."

18. Thus, what is evident from the aforesaid discussion is that the respondent-Bank vide its letter dated 19.1.2017 had itself requested the Central Government to accord approval in the amendment of Regulations 28 which at the relevant time provided for basic pension of 50% of the average emoluments (i.e. average of pay drawn by an employee during the last 10 months of his/her service) subject to a minimum of Rs.3,500/- per mensem. According to the respondent by implementing this method, the employees who retire after drawing salary partly on pre-revised scale and partly on revised scale during last 10 months of service draw basic pension at much lower rate compared to employees who retire after drawing salary on revised basis during last 10 months of service. The reduction in monthly pension depends on number of months they draw salary on revised pay scales. This had generated a lot of distress among the affected employees, several of whom had requested for review. The revision was sought to be justified by the respondents on the ground that the RBI Pension Regulations had been framed on the lines of CCS (Pension) Rules, 1972 and in Government, pension is calculated at 50% of the emoluments of the last month or average emoluments received during last 10 months, whichever is beneficial to the employees.

19. It was on the aforesaid basis that the respondent-Bank had forwarded the proposal to amend the Regulation 28 of RBI Pension Regulations, 1990 so as to bring it at par or provide for pari-materia pension as was being given to the Central Government employees in terms of CCS (Pension) Rules, 1972. Evidently, this proposal was to apply to all sections of the retired employees as is evident from para-3 of the letter wherein the respondent-Bank itself had categorically mentioned that in case the amendment is carried out, then the benefit arising therefrom would be only to few employees and, therefore, the financial implication would be negligible and would go long way in removing an anomaly which exists today.

20. It is also not in dispute that the proposal of the bank was accepted as such by the Government of India without there being any modification as is evident from the letter dated 31.3.2017 (supra) wherein it was categorically observed that the proposal of the bank had been examined in the Department in consultation with D/o Expenditure and it had been decided to convey the approval on the same.

21. Once that be so, then obviously, the benefits of the amendment of the Regulations could not have been amended or altered by administrative circular. [Refer: V.T. Khanzode's case (supra]. Apart from the above, if the Central Board was of the view that the changes were required to be made in the Pension Regulations including cut-off-date for its implementation, then sanction of the Central Government was mandatory because unless the recommendations for the amendment were approved. There is no binding force of such amendment [Refer: Cecil Dennis Solomon's case (supra].

22. Indubitably, the respondent-Bank did not seek approval of the Central Government before deciding to implement the Pension Regulations from the prospective date or from a particular date. Therefore, its action is illegal and cannot therefore be withstand judicial scrutiny.

23. Accordingly, the impugned circular dated 7.6.2016 (Annexure P-3) is quashed and set-aside and resultantly, the impugned notification dated 28.8.2017 which fixes the date of operation of the amendment as 06.10.2017 is also quashed and set-aside and the respondents are directed to re-fix the basic pension of the petitioner on the basis of 'last pay drawn' effective from 01.02.2013 and also pay commuted value of pension on that basis i.e. last pay drawn. The respondent-Bank is also directed to refund Rs.1,14,111/- to the petitioner which was recovered from the petitioner illegally without giving him any notice.

24. The writ petition is disposed of in the aforesaid terms, so also the pending application(s) if any, leaving the parties to bear their own costs. Copy of judgment be sent to the petitioner free of cost on his address as given in memo of parties.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The complainant is the appellant, who aggrieved by the dismissal of his complaint under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act (for short the 'Act'), has filed the instant appeal.

2. Precisely, the case set up by the appellant is that he was an orchardist, grower and was also having his own apple forwarding agency at places Gugra, Kutwa, Dohva and surrounding areas within Tehsil Anni, District Kullu, H.P. The appellant also used to supply apple cartons, apple trays and other allied packing material to his clients on cash and credit basis. The appellant also owned commercial rope way span which connected various apple orchards with the road head so as to provide facility to the growers to carry their produce from the orchards.

3. During the apple season in the year 2011, accused-respondent No.1 purchased apple crop of various growers in villages Kutwa, Dohva and surrounding areas in Phati Buchhair, Tehsil Anni directly from orchards and thereafter the same was carried towards road head through the rope way span of the appellant. This was pursuant to a bargain entered into between the appellant and respondent No.1 wherein it was further agreed that respondent No.1 would purchase entire packing material from the appellant and thereafter forward the entire apple crop in the apple market through the forwarding agency of the appellant named and styled as "Uttam Ram Forwarding Agency, Gugra-Chowai". However, later on, the apple produce was forwarded by respondent No.1 through his personal arrangement, but the entire packing material was procured from the appellant on credit basis through an authorized agent namely Prem Chand son of Shri Kumat Ram. As per the agreement, the appellant supplied packing material to respondent No.1 and also paid a sum of Rs.2,00,000/- to him for meeting out the expenses of labour etc. which amount was not returned to the appellant.

4. Thereafter, in the month of September, 2011, accounts were finally settled between the appellant and the above named authorized agent of respondent No.1 and in terms thereof a sum of Rs.5,38,856/- was recoverable as on 12.09.2011 for the payment of which respondent No.1 issued a cheque No.942816 dated 02.10.2011 amounting to Rs. 5,38,856/-. The appellant presented the cheque for encashment, however, the same was returned by the bank for "insufficiency of funds" in the account of respondent No.1. The appellant thereafter contacted respondent No.1 over telephone, who assured him to make the payment within a few days, but to no avail. The appellant eventually presented the cheque for encashment at the Punjab National Bank, Anni, however, the same was returned unpaid for "insufficient funds" vide memo dated 11.10.2011. Thereafter, the appellant served respondent No.1 with a legal notice dated 22.10.2011 under registered cover which was sent to the official as well as home addresses of respondent No.1 and duly received by him on 27.10.2011. However, despite the receipt thereof, no payment was made, compelling the appellant to file a complaint under Section 138 of the Act.

5. The learned trial Court after recording preliminary evidence took cognizance and summoned respondent No.1. The appellant in support of its case examined three witnesses. Thereafter, the statement of respondent No.1 under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded. Respondent No.1 examined one witness HHC Ranjeet Singh as DW-1 and closed his evidence.

6. The learned trial Magistrate after recording evidence and evaluating the same dismissed the complaint by concluding that since the cheque amount was more than the amount allegedly due on the date when the cheque was presented, therefore, in terms of Section 138 of the Act, the cheque cannot be said to be drawn towards the discharge of either the whole or part of any debt or liability.

7. It is vehemently argued by Shri J.L. Bhardwaj, Advocate, for the appellant that the findings recorded by the learned Courts below are perverse and, therefore, deserve to be set aside. Whereas, Shri Vinay Kuthiala, Senior Advocate, assisted by Shri Diwan Singh Negi, Advocate, for respondent No.1, would argue that the contradictions in the evidence of the appellant were sufficient to hold that respondent No.1 has not only probabilized his defence, but proved the non-existence of consideration through the appellant's evidence. Therefore, in such circumstances, no exception can be taken to the judgment of acquittal passed by the learned trial Magistrate.

8. I have heard the learned counsel for the appellant and have also gone through the material placed on record.

9. In order to appreciate the rival contentions of the learned counsel for the parties, it would be necessary to examine Sections 118(a) and 139 of the Act and the same are reproduced as under:-

> "118. Presumptions as to negotiable instruments.-Until the contrary is proved, the following presumptions shall be made:-
>
> (a) of consideration*- that every negotiable instrument was made or drawn for consideration, and that every such instrument, when it has been accepted, endorsed, negotiated or transferred, was accepted, endorsed, negotiated or transferred for consideration;*

10. Chapter XVII containing Sections 138 to 142 was introduced in the Act by Act 66 of 1988 with the object of inculcating faith in the efficacy of banking operations and giving credibility to negotiable instruments in business transactions. These provisions were intended to discourage people from not honouring the commitments by way of payment through cheques. It is for this reason that the Courts should lean in favour of an interpretation which serves the object of the statue.

11. In M.S. Narayana Menon alias Mani versus State of Kerala and another (2006) 6 SCC 39, the Hon'ble Supreme Court while dealing with a case under Section 138 of the Act held that the presumption under Sections 118(a) and 139 were rebuttable and the standard of proof required for such rebuttal was "preponderance of probability" and not proof "proved beyond reasonable doubt" and it was held as under:-

> "29. In terms of Section 4 of the Evidence Act whenever it is provided by the Act that the Court shall presume a fact, it shall regard such fact as proved unless and until it is disproved. The words 'proved' and 'disproved' have been defined in Section 3 of the Evidence Act (the interpretation clause)....
> 30.Applying the said definitions of 'proved' or 'disproved' to principle behind Section 118(a) of the Act, the Court shall presume a negotiable instrument to be for consideration unless and until after considering the matter before it, it either believes that the consideration does not exist or considers the non-existence of the consideration so probable that a prudent man ought, under the circumstances of the particular case, to act upon the supposition that the consideration does not exist. For rebutting such presumption, what is needed is to raise a probable defence. Even for the said purpose, the evidence adduced on behalf of the complainant could be relied upon.
>
> 32.The standard of proof evidently is preponderance of probabilities. Inference of preponderance of probabilities can be drawn not only from the materials on records but also by reference to the circumstances upon which he relies.
> 41....."23.....Therefore, the rebuttal does not have to be conclusively established but such evidence must be adduced before the court in support of the defence that the court must either believe the defence to exist or consider its existence to be reasonably probable, the standard of reasonability being that of the "prudent man"."

12. Similar reiteration of law can be found in K. Prakashan versus P.K. Surenderan (2008) 1 SCC 258 wherein it was observed as under:-

> "13. The Act raises two presumptions; firstly, in regard to the passing of consideration as contained in Section 118 (a) therein and, secondly, a presumption that the holder of cheque receiving the same of the nature referred to in Section 139 discharged in whole or in part any debt or other liability. Presumptions both under Sections 118 (a) and 139 are rebuttable in nature……
> 14. It is furthermore not in doubt or dispute that whereas the standard of proof so far as the prosecution is concerned is proof of guilt beyond all reasonable doubt; the one on the accused is only mere preponderance of probability."

13. To the same effect is the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Krishna Janardhan Bhat versus Dattatraya G. Hegde (2008) 4 SCC 54 wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:-

> *"32…..Standard of proof on the part of an accused and that of the prosecution in a criminal case is different.*
> 34. Furthermore, whereas prosecution must prove the guilt of an accused beyond all reasonable doubt, the standard of proof so as to prove a defence on the part of an accused is preponderance of probabilities……
>
> 45….. Statute mandates raising of presumption but it stops at that. It does not say how presumption drawn should be held to have rebutted. Other important principles of legal jurisprudence, namely presumption of innocence as human rights and the doctrine of reverse burden introduced by Section 139 should be delicately balanced……."

14. Earlier to that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hiten P. Dalal versus Bratindranath Banerjee (2001) 6 SCC 16, compared the evidentiary presumptions in favour of the prosecution with the presumption of innocence in the following terms:-

> "22…..Presumptions are rules of evidence and do not conflict with the presumption of innocence, because by the latter all that is meant is that the prosecution is obliged to prove the case against the accused beyond reasonable doubt. The obligation on the prosecution may be discharged with the help of presumptions of law or fact unless the accused adduces evidence showing the reasonable possibility of the non-existence of the presumed fact.
> 23. In other words, provided the facts required to form the basis of a presumption of law exists, no discretion is left with the Court but to draw the statutory conclusion, but this does not preclude the person against whom the presumption is drawn from rebutting it and proving the contrary……."

15. Section 139 of the Act provides for drawing a presumption in favour of the holder and the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kumar Exports versus Sharma Carpets, (2009) 2 SCC 513 has considered the provisions of the Act as well as Evidence Act and observed as under:-

> "14. Section 139 of the Act provides that it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that the holder of a cheque received the cheque of the nature referred to in Section 138 for the discharge, in whole or in part, of any debt or other liability.

15. Presumptions are devices by use of which the courts are enabled and entitled to pronounce on an issue notwithstanding that there is no evidence or insufficient evidence. Under the Indian Evidence Act all presumptions must come under one or the other class of the three classes mentioned in the Act, namely, (1) "may presume" (rebuttable), (2) "shall presume" (rebuttable) and (3) "conclusive presumptions" (irrebuttable). The term `presumption' is used to designate an inference, affirmative or disaffirmative of the existence a fact, conveniently called the "presumed fact" drawn by a judicial tribunal, by a process of probable reasoning from some matter of fact, either judicially noticed or admitted or established by legal evidence to the satisfaction of the tribunal. Presumption literally means "taking as true without examination or proof".

18. Applying the definition of the word `proved' in Section 3 of the Evidence Act to the provisions of Sections 118 and 139 of the Act, it becomes evident that in a trial under Section 138 of the Act a presumption will have to be made that every negotiable instrument was made or drawn for consideration and that it was executed for discharge of debt or liability once the execution of negotiable instrument is either proved or admitted. As soon as the complainant discharges the burden to prove that the instrument, say a note, was executed by the accused, the rules of presumptions under Sections 118 and 139 of the Act help him shift the burden on the accused. The presumptions will live, exist and survive and shall end only when the contrary is proved by the accused, that is, the cheque was not issued for consideration and in discharge of any debt or liability. A presumption is not in itself evidence, but only makes a prima facie case for a party for whose benefit it exists.

19. The use of the phrase "until the contrary is proved" in Section 118 of the Act and use of the words "unless the contrary is proved" in Section 139 of the Act read with definitions of "may presume" and "shall presume" as given in Section 4 of the Evidence Act, makes it at once clear that presumptions to be raised under both the provisions are rebuttable. When a presumption is rebuttable, it only points out that the party on whom lies the duty of going forward with evidence, on the fact presumed and when that party has produced evidence fairly and reasonably tending to show that the real fact is not as presumed, the purpose of the presumption is over."

16. The Hon'ble Supreme Court thereafter held that the accused may adduce evidence to rebut the presumption, but mere denial regarding of existence of debt shall not serve any purpose.

17. In Rangappa versus Sri Mohan, (2010) 11 SCC 441, Hon'ble three Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court had occasion to examine the presumption under Section 139 of the Act and it was held that in the event the accused is able to raise a probable defence which creates doubt with regard to the existence of a debt or liability, the presumption may fail. It is apposite to refer to the relevant observations which read as under:-

"26*. In light of these extracts, we are in agreement with the respondent-claimant that the presumption mandated by Section 139 of the Act does indeed include the existence of a legally enforceable debt or liability. To that extent,* the impugned observations in Krishna Janardhan Bhat v. Dattatraya G.Hegde (2008) 4 SCC 54 may not be correct. However, this does not in any way cast doubt on the correctness of the decision in that case since it was based on the specific facts and circumstances therein. As noted in the citations, this is of course in the nature of a rebuttable presumption and it is open to the accused to raise a defence wherein the existence of a legally enforceable debt or liability can be contested. However, there can be no doubt that there is an initial presumption which favours the complainant.

27. Section 139 of the Act is an example of a reverse onus clause that has been included in furtherance of the legislative objective of improving the credibility of negotiable instruments. While Section 138 of the Act specifies a strong criminal remedy in relation to the dishonour of cheques, the rebuttable presumption under Section 139 is a device to prevent undue delay in the course of litigation. However, it must be remembered that the offence made punishable by Section 138 can be better described as a regulatory offence since the bouncing of a cheque is largely in the nature of a civil wrong whose impact is usually confined to the private parties involved in commercial transactions. In such a scenario, the test of proportionality should guide the construction and interpretation of reverse onus clauses and the accused/defendant cannot be expected to discharge an unduly high standard of proof."

18. Bearing in mind the aforesaid exposition of law, it can conveniently be held that in terms of Section 4 of the Evidence Act whenever it is provided by the Act that the Court shall presume a fact, it shall regard such fact as proved unless and until it is disproved. The words "proved" and "disproved" have been defined in Section 3 of the Evidence Act.

19. Applying the said definitions of "proved" or "disproved" to the principle behind Section 118(a) of the Act, the Court shall presume a negotiable instrument to be for consideration unless and until after considering the matter before it, it either believes that the consideration does not exist or considers the non-existence of the consideration so probable that a prudent man ought, under the circumstances of the particular case, to act upon the supposition that the consideration does not exist. For rebutting such presumption, what is needed is to raise a probable defence. Even for the said purpose, the evidence adduced on behalf of the complainant could be relied upon.

20. The standard of proof evidently is preponderance of probabilities. Inference of preponderance of probabilities can be drawn not only from the materials on record but also by reference to the circumstances upon which he relies. Therefore, the rebuttal does not have to be conclusively established but such evidence must be adduced before the Court in support of the defence that the Court must either believe the defence to exist or consider its existence to be reasonably probable, the standard of reasonability being that of the prudent man.

21. Now, adverting to the facts of the case, it would be noticed that respondent No.1 had raised various defences, but, the same were turned down by the learned Magistrate. However, it was only on the basis of the contradictions that too in the evidence led by the appellant himself that respondent No.1 was ordered to be acquitted.

22. As per the complaint, it was stated that 5000 empty apple cartons were sold by the complaint(appellant) to accused (respondent No.1) at the rate of Rs.40/- each. It was further averred that the total amount of carriage was Rs.1,50,000/- at the rate of Rs.30/- per box which works out to 5000 cartons which were allegedly carried from Kutwa to Gugra through rope way span of the appellant. However, in cross examination, the appellant stated that he had sold 7000-8000 cartons to respondent No.1. He further stated that he carried through his span as well as sent through his forwarding agency about 4000 apple cartons to respondent No.1.

23. Now, in case the testimony of CW-3 Prem Chand, who is claimed to be the 'Munshi' of respondent No.1, is adverted to, then it would be noticed that he stated that he purchased 5000-6000 apple cartons from the appellant out of which 2600 apple cartons were carried through the span of the appellant and also forwarded to the apple market through the forwarding agency of the appellant.

24. Now, what emerges from the evidence of the appellant are three separate and distinct versions on record regarding the number of apple cartons that were carried through the span of the appellant and forwarded through his forwarding agency. The appellant in the complaint states that the number of such cartons were 5000, however, while appearing as CW-2, he states that number of such cartons were 4000, whereas, CW-3 states that number of such cartons were only 2600.

25. Apart from the above, it would be noticed that the entire foundation of the complaint is receipt Ex.CW1/D, but then the same admittedly is not signed by respondent No.1 and has been signed by CW-3 Prem Chand and against that it has been written 'Munshi'.

26. Mr. Bhardwaj would claim that CW-3 'Munshi' had executed this receipt acknowledging that an amount of Rs.5,38,856/- was due and payable by respondent No.1. However, I find that nowhere in the complaint has CW-3 been referred to as a 'Munshi' which in common parlance is understood to be a 'secretary' or an 'assistant'.

27. 'Munshi', in fact is a Persian word originally used for a contractor, writer or a secretary and later on was used in the Mughal Empire and British India for native language teachers, teachers of various subjects especially administrative principles, religious texts, science and philosophy and also secretaries and translators employed by the Europeans. 'Munshi' could also be a scribe, clerk or an accountant, but the said term was never used for an agent. Even otherwise, the agency as defined under Section 27 of the Act was required to be established and proved by the appellant before CW-3 could in fact be held to be the agent of respondent No.1 so as to enforce the liability upon him.

28. Another contradiction in the case of the appellant is with regard to charges of carriage. As per the complaint, these charges were Rs.30/- per box, whereas, in cross-examination he admitted that in the year 2011 the charges of each box through span were Rs.15/- per box and at the time of his examination were Rs.20/-. Therefore, the trial Magistrate committed no error by concluding that the amount claimed in the complaint was much higher. Not only, there were contradictions with regard to number of cartons which were carried through the span of the appellant, even there were huge variations with respect to the the charges of carriage.

29. In Shri Vinay Parulekar versus Shri Pramod Meshram, 2008 Criminal Law Journal 2405, the learned Single Judge of the Bombay High Court held that if some material is brought on record consistent with the innocence of the accused which may reasonably be true, even though it is not positively proved to be true, the accused would be entitled to acquittal. The accused can prove the non-existence of consideration by raising a probable defence. If the accused is proved to have discharged the initial onus of proof showing that the existence of consideration was improbable or doubtful or the same was illegal, the onus will shift to the complainant who will be obliged to prove it as a matter of fact and upon its failure to prove will disentitle him to the grant of relief on the basis of negotiable instrument.

30. As repeatedly held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court the standard of proof so far as the prosecution is concerned, is proof of guilt beyond all reasonable doubt, however, the one on the accused is only mere preponderance of probability. Therefore, once the accused/respondent No.1 has probabilized his defence by showing the consideration to be improbable or doubtful, then obviously, in the given facts and circumstances, the appellant was obliged to prove the existence of consideration as a matter of fact and upon his failure to prove the same, disentitled him to the grant of relief on the basis of negotiable instrument.

31. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find no merit in this appeal and accordingly the same is dismissed. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of.

For the respondents: Mr. Bhuvnesh Sharma, Advocate for respondent No.1.
Mr. Vikas Rathore and Mr. Narinder Guleria, Addl. A.Gs with Mr. J.S. Guleria and Mr. Kunal Thakur, Dy. A.G for respondents No. 2 to 6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge (Oral)

Judgment dated 26.06.2015 passed by learned Single Judge in CWP No. 206 of 2013 is under challenge in this appeal. The controversy as brought to the Court lies in a narrow compass, as we have only to consider that the engagement of someone as Mid Day Meal Worker under the scheme, Annexure A-1 to the appeal is a service in the Government or not. However, before coming to the point in issue, it is desirable to take note of the facts, in a nut-shell.

2. The appellant (hereinafter referred to as 'respondent No.6') and respondent No.1 (hereinafter referred as the 'writ-petitioner') both belong to village Sarad Lohari Tehsil Rakkar, District Kangra, H.P. There was a vacancy of Part-time Water Carrier in Government Primary School, Sarad Dogri, Tehsil Rakkar, District Kangra, H.P. The applications to fill up the said vacancy were invited from the eligible candidates. The writ-petitioner and respondent No.6 both being eligible had submitted their applications and were interviewed on 23.3.2011 by a Selection Committee comprising S.D.O(Civil) concerned, Headmaster of the school and the President, School Management Committee. Respondent No.6 having secured 24 marks as per the criteria prescribed and also on the basis of personal interview was selected and appointed as Water Carrier in the school. The appointment letter dated 27.2.2012 is Annexure R-4 to the reply filed in the writ petition by respondents No. 1 to 5. He reported for duties on 28.2.2012, as is apparent from Annexure R-4 to the reply. Meaning thereby that since February, 2012, it is respondent No.6 who is working as Water Carrier in Government Primary School, Sarad Dogri.

3. The writ-petitioner aggrieved by the appointment of respondent No.6 had preferred CWP No. 1944 of 2012, which was disposed of by a Division Bench of this Court with liberty reserved to the petitioner to file representation before the 3rd respondent and a direction to the said respondent to decide the same after affording the opportunity of being heard to the petitioner vide judgment dated 2nd April, 2012, Annexure P-13 to the writ petition. The representation made by the petitioner was considered by the competent authority and decided vide order dated 12.09.2012, Annexure P-15 with the observations that respondent No.6 has been selected by the Selection Committee and also appointed as Part-time Water Carrier, hence it was not deemed proper to interfere with the selection and appointment. This has led in filing another writ petition (CWP No. 206 of 2013) decided vide judgment, under challenge in this appeal.

4. On hearing Mr. Shrawan Dogra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Umesh Kanwar and Mr. Harsh Kalta, Advocates on behalf of appellant-respondent No.6 and Mr. Bhuvnesh Sharma, learned counsel on behalf of respondent No.1-writ petitioner as well as Mr. Narinder Guleria, learned Additional Advocate General on behalf of the respondent-State and also going through the impugned judgment of learned Single Judge while interpreting the guidelines applicable for appointment as Part-time Water Carrier and also taking note of the factum of mother of respondent No.6, at the relevant time, was working as Mid Day Meal Worker, has concluded that in terms of Clause 7(4) of the guideline applicable for appointment as Part-time Water Carrier, it is the candidates belonging to a family of which no one is in government service alone entitled to get five marks. Learned Single Judge has construed the mother of respondent No.6 working as Mid Day Meal Worker being in Government service has held the five marks awarded to him in the capacity of a member of the family of which no member is in Government service, illegal and contrary to the scheme. We, however, are not in agreement with such interpretation given by learned Single Judge for the reason that the employment under "Mid Day Meal Worker Scheme" cannot be treated as service in Government by any stretch of imagination.

5. In view of Rule 2 (h) of CCS (CCA) Rules, the meaning of word "Government Servant" is as under:-

> "Government Servant" means a person who-
>
> (i) is a member of a service or holds a civil post under the Union, and includes any such person on foreign service or whose services are temporarily placed at the disposal of a State Government, or a local or other authority;
>
> (ii) is a member of a service or holds a civil post under a State Government and whose services are temporarily placed at the disposal of the Central Government;
> iii) is in the service of a local or other authority and whose services are temporarily placed at the disposal of the Central Government."

The definition as given to word "Government Servant" therefore makes it crystal clear that such a servant must holds a civil post under the Union or the State Government and also any local or other authority. Therefore, a mid day meal worker, who does not hold a civil post and rather is engaged under a scheme framed for the purpose of payment of the honorarium as discussed hereinabove cannot be said to have hold a civil post under the Union or State Government.

6. A Mid Day Meal Worker is engaged on payment of honorarium, which earlier was Rs.400/- per month and now Rs.1,000/-, after its revision in the year 2011. The services of Mid Day Meal Worker are required in the school only on the days when school remains open and not on holidays and also during vacations. Meaning thereby that a Mid Day Meal Worker renders services in a school only for a period less than 10 months in a calender year. Otherwise also, the engagement of Mid Day Meal Worker is under the scheme having no right or claim to seek regularization or any other benefit, admissible to a Government servant. True it is that the guidelines for appointment as Part-time Water Carrier provides for giving preference to the candidates belonging to the families of which no member is in Government/Semi-Government service. Respondent No.6, in view of discussion hereinabove and in our considered opinion, also belongs to a family from which no member is in Government service.

7. Now, if coming to the criteria regarding distribution of marks prescribed in the policy under Clause 7(iv), there is provision of awarding five marks to a candidate belonging to a family of which no one is in government service. We feel that Clause 7(3) and 4 of the guidelines reproduced in para 6 of the impugned judgment have to be read together and not in isolation. The word 'unemployed' in Clause 7(4) contemplates a candidate from whose family no-one is there in Government service.

8. We are not in agreement with the submissions made by Mr. Bhuvnesh Sharma, learned counsel that word 'unemployed' in Section 7(4) of the policy constitutes any employment and not confined to the employment with the Government, for the reason that the scheme framed either for engagement as Mid Day Meal Worker or appointment of Part-time Water Carrier are the Government sponsored schemes and any other meaning except the employment in Government service cannot be assigned words " No employees" therein. Therefore, for all the reasons hereinabove, the Selection Committee has rightly awarded five marks to respondent No.6 and being in merit, he has rightly been appointed as Part-time Water Carrier. He is working in the school for a period over six years and at this stage, otherwise also, it would not be proper to quash his appointment and order for fresh selection. Support in this regard can be drawn from the judgment of the Apex Court in

Abhay Kumar Singh and others V. State of Bihar and others, (2015) 1 SCC 90. The relevant extract of this judgment is reproduced as under:-

> "12. We have given due consideration to the rival submissions. It remains undisputed that the allegation of manipulation was duly enquired into and a finding was recorded against the appellants. Irrespective of the question whether the criteria adopted in making the selection on the basis of more height of candidates was valid, the fact remains that the appellants were held to have manipulated and got their height wrongly recorded more than their actual height. At the same time, responsibility for correct recording of the height was of the Department and after the appellants were duly selected and appointed, and were in service for four years, their termination, in facts and circumstances, would be too harsh. In these circumstances while we are not inclined to reinstate the appellants with back wages and continuity of service, we direct that the appellants be given fresh appointment as constables against available vacancies within three months from the date of receipt of a copy of this order."

9. In view of what has been said hereinabove, we allow the present appeal and quash the impugned judgment. Consequently, the writ petition is dismissed, so also the pending application(s), if any.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, Judge.

This appeal is directed against the award dated 9.5.2008 passed by learned District Judge, Bilaspur in Land Reference Petition No. 2 of 1996, whereby the claim of the appellant (hereinafter referred to as the 'petitioner') for compensation with respect to the house he allegedly constructed on the land bearing Khasra No. 87/1 by way of spending huge money though has been acquired, however, no compensation paid.

2. The petitioner claims himself to be the owner of land bearing Khasra No. 87 situated in village Baloh, Pargana, and Tehsil Sadar, District Bilaspur H.P. The dispute is qua the compensation paid to him towards the market value of the house i.e. Rs.37,90,000/-, he allegedly had constructed well before the acquisition of the land bearing Khasra No. 87. The land was acquired by the beneficiary i.e. M/s Associated Cement Corporation Limited, Gagal, Cement Works, Barmana, District Bilaspur (H.P.), respondent No.1. The Notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act' in short) was issued on 1.10.1992. The compensation of the acquired land though assessed and paid to the petitioner, however, not qua the house in dispute allegedly was in existence over the acquired land. A sum of Rs.80,00,000/- was, therefore, claimed as compensation on account of acquired house.

3. The respondents have contested the claim of the petitioner on the grounds inter-alia that the market value of the acquired land has been assessed correctly and the petitioner is not entitled to any enhanced amount of compensation. As regards, the market value of the house, it is stated that the house was constructed by the petitioner after the Notification regarding the acquisition of the land under Section 4 of the Act was issued. The petition, as such, was sought to be dismissed.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, learned reference Court below has framed the following issues:-

1. Whether the petitioner has not been paid adequate compensation in respect of the land acquired? OPP.
2. Whether the petitioner is not entitled for the compensation in respect of the alleged house, tank and wall existing on the acquired land as alleged? OPP.
3. If issue No.2 is proved in affirmative, to what amount of compensation, the petitioner is entitled? OPP.
4. Whether the court has no jurisdiction to try this case? OPR.

5. Whether the house was not in existence at the time of issuance of acquisition notice under section 4 of the Act, if so, its effect? OPR.

6. Relief.

5. Since the petitioner failed to produce any evidence to show otherwise that the market value of the acquired land assessed by the Land Acquisition Collector is on lower side, therefore, issue No.1 was decided against him. Issue Nos. 2 to 5 pertain to the alleged construction of house, tank and wall. Learned reference Court below while answering issues No. 2 and 3 against the petitioner, whereas, issue No.5 in favour of the respondents has concluded that the house was constructed well before the issuance of Notification under Section 4 of the Act, is not proved on record. He, therefore, was not held entitled to the compensation as claimed. Issue No.4 was decided as not pressed. As a consequence and recording findings on all the issues, learned reference Court below had initially dismissed the reference vide award dated 1.11.1999. The same was challenged by the petitioner in this Court in RFA No. 34/2000. A Co-ordinate Bench of this Court while taking note of the order passed in FAO No. 343/96 on 4th December, 1997 by a Division Bench of this Court holding therein that prima-facie the disputed house was in existence over the acquired land on the day when the Notification under Section 4 of the Act was issued, has remanded the case to learned reference Court below for re-determination of issue as to whether the claimant had constructed the house and therefore, was entitled to the compensation.

6. On the remand of reference petition, learned reference Court below has decided the same afresh vide award dated 9.5.2008, which is under challenge before this Court on several grounds, however, mainly that the evidence as has come on record has not been appreciated in its right perspective. The observations of this Court in the judgment passed in FAO No. 343/96 that the house in question was in existence over the acquired land on the day of its acquisition were also ignored. The judgment and decree Ext. P-A, whereby the petitioner has been declared owner of the land bearing Khasra No. 87 and also the house constructed thereon by way of adverse possession has also erroneously been ignored.

7. Mr. Bhupinder Gupta, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mrs. Poonam Gehlot, Advocate has argued that cogent and reliable evidence available on record suggesting that the petitioner had constructed the house well before issuance of Notification under Section 4 of the Act is erroneously ignored. The judgment Ext.P-A and the opinion of the Architect PW-2 Rattan Lal regarding age of the house has been misread and misconstrued. The observations of a Division Bench of this Court dated 4.12.1997 passed in FAO No. 343/96 that prima-facie house in question in existence over the acquired land has erroneously been ignored and not taken into consideration also pressed in service. Such an approach, according to Mr. Gupta, has resulted in miscarriage of justice to the petitioner.

8. On the other hand, learned Deputy Advocate General and Mr. K.D. Sood, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Rajnish K. Lall, Advocate representing the respondents while repelling the contentions raised on behalf of the petitioner have concluded that the suit was instituted in September, 1982. The same was decreed ex-parte. The petitioner had based his claim qua he being owner in possession of land bearing Khasra No. 87 by way of adverse possession and as the defendants, the true owners, failed to put in appearance despite service, therefore, he obtained the decree, which is not only ex-parte but collusive also. The same, as such, is stated to be rightly ignored. Otherwise also, the Notification under Section 4 of the Act being issued on 1.10.1992 is after few days of the institution of the suit which was allegedly instituted on 21.09.1992. The Notices Ext. R-1 to Ext. R-7 issued to the defendants in the suit, the true owners of the land bearing Khasra No. 87 to stop the construction, according to Mr. Sood, demolishes the entire case of the petitioner. The spot inspection report is dated 11.1.1999, however, nothing is there to suggest that the construction was in existence over the land in question. The judgment and decree Ext.P-A in the suit instituted by the petitioner being not only ex-parte and collusive but also procured one confer no right, title or interest qua the land bearing Khasra No.87, upon the petitioner as he is an encroacher and as such not entitled to seek declaration that he has acquired title in the land/property encroached upon by way of adverse possession in view of the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in Gurdwara Sahib V. Gram Panchayat Village Sirthala, (2014) 1 SCC 669.

9. On analyzing the rival submissions and also the evidence recorded in the reference Court below as well as the additional evidence on the directions of this Court consequent upon the order dated 24.06.2010 passed in an application under Order 41 Rule 27 of the Code of Civil Procedure (CMP No. 330 of 2010) at the very out set, it would not be improper to conclude that learned reference Court has not committed any illegality or irregularity while arriving at a conclusion that for want of cogent and reliable evidence that the petitioner had constructed the house over the acquired land well before the issuance of Notification under Section 4 of the Act is not at all proved. The judgment dated 4.12.1997 passed by a Division Bench of this Court in FAO No. 343/96 Ext.P-X2 has been heavily relied upon by learned counsel representing the petitioner. The observations in this judgment reads as follows:-

> "After hearing both sides, we are of the view that there are no merits in the appeal. Prima-facie the view taken by the learned District Judge that prior to the issue of 4(1) notification the house was constructed, appears to be correct. The conclusion in that behalf was based upon the plaint dated 25.9.1992 in a suit filed by the respondent herein against one Prem Lal in which it was specifically averred that the house in question was constructed. As Section 4(1) notification was subsequent to the filing of the aforesaid suit, we are inclined to agree with the view taken by the learned District Judge that the balance of convenience was in favour of granting interim injunction in favour of the respondent herein. We, therefore, dismiss the appeal with no order as to costs."

10. It is thus abundantly clear that the satisfaction recorded by this Court qua the existence of the house over the acquired land well before the issuance of Notification under Section 4(1) of the Act was prima-facie. Not only this, but the last para of this judgment clarifies that such observations made therein shall not be taken into consideration while deciding the main case. Therefore, it was left to the trial Court to have applied its mind in the given facts and circumstances and also the evidence available on record to record the findings as to whether the house was in existence over the acquired land well before the issuance of Notification under Section 4 of the Act or not. The judgment Ext. P-X2 is, therefore, hardly of any help to the case of the petitioner.

11. Now if coming to the copy of Khasra Girdawari Ext.P-X1 for the period August, 1987 to April, 1992. Except for April, 1992, there is no entry that over two biswas of land bearing Khasra No. 87, the house was in existence. Interestingly enough, the petitioner has neither been recorded owner nor in possession of the land bearing Khasra No. 87 in this document. Therefore, a stray entry recorded only in April, 1992 cannot be taken as a clinching proof of the construction of the house by the petitioner over the land in question before issuance of Notification under Section 4 of the Act.

12. Now if coming to the Civil Suit he filed for declaration that he has acquired title in the suit land by way of adverse possession. He being an encroacher in terms of law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Gurudwara Sahib's case cited supra was not legally entitled to seek declaration on the plea of adverse possession. In terms of ratio of this judgment, such a plea can be used as a shield and not as a sword. Therefore, had there been any evidence i.e. entries in the revenue record that he was in possession of the land in question, at the most entitled to the protection of his possession, leaving it open to the true owners i.e. the defendants in the suit to have resorted to the remedy available to them in accordance with law for seeking his eviction therefrom, being a trespasser. In the case in hand, however, he has failed to prove that he was in possession of the suit land. The judgment and decree Ext. P-A, which is not only ex-parte but appears to be collusive also cannot be believed as gospel truth to arrive at a conclusion that he is owner in possession of the suit land. Since the factum of existence of the house in the plaint remained unrebutted as the defendants opted for not putting appearance and to contest the suit and as during the course of proceedings in the reference petition, the petitioner has failed to produce cogent and reliable evidence suggesting that he is owner of the acquired and also that the house was constructed by him well before its acquisition, learned reference Court below has rightly concluded that he is not entitled to compensation with respect to the house he allegedly constructed.

13. Interestingly enough, the Notification under Section 4 of the Act was issued on 1.10.1992. As noticed supra, the suit in which judgment Ext. P-A has been rendered was instituted on 21.09.1992. Now coming to the the own testimony of petitioner, the construction work had commenced on 13.1.1980 and was completed in all respect in 1981. Had it been so, it is not known as to why entries to this effect have not been reflected either in the revenue record till April, 1992 or in the record of the Gram Panchayat, Municipality and any other authorities etc. As per his own version, he did not raise any loan for the construction of house, from where a huge amount of Rs.37,90,000/- spent by him for completion of construction. It is worth mentioning that a man of ordinary prudence would not spend such a huge amount on the construction of a house, that too, on the land of others, well before acquiring title therein. Therefore, it lies ill in the mouth of the petitioner that the construction work had commenced in the year 1980 and was completed in the year 1981. Even if any such construction was in progress, it was during the period 1994-1995, as is apparent from the perusal of notices Ext. R-1 to Ext.R-7, whereby the owners (defendants in the civil suit) were served with legal notice by none-else but the district administration that the land having been acquired, no construction be raised thereon. Reference in this regard can be made to the statement of Urmila Gian Bharti PW-3. The petitioner, as a matter of fact, is a liar and with a view to grab the money, he has laid such a false claim.

14. Now if coming to the tatima Ext. PW-2/A, no doubt, there is mention of house over the land measuring two biswas, which is a part of Khasra No. 87, however, the Kanungo and Patwari, who have prepared the same have not been examined. Who has proved the tatima Ext.PW-2/A, nothing to this effect has come on record.

15. Now if coming to the spot inspection report dated 11.1.1999. A bare perusal of the same amply demonstrate that there is no mention of so called house, found in existence on the spot nor anything to this effect recorded therein. As a matter of fact, during the spot inspection, no water and sanitary fittings were found in the said house nor were there any electricity fittings. The observations of learned trial Judge at the time of spot inspection that the house was recently constructed and not in the year 1981 as in that event the water and sanitary fittings and also the electricity fittings would have also been there, are correct and in consonance with the circumstances which were prevailing on the spot.

16. In view of the discussion hereinabove, it would not be improper to conclude that the house in question was constructed after the issuance of Notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act. The construction work continued on the spot was sought to be stopped by way of issuance of notices Ext. R-1 to Ext. R-7. The evidence produced by the petitioner is false, fabricated and engineered. The same rather show that the house in question was constructed after the issuance of Notification under Section 4 of the Act. The petitioner, as such, is not entitled even to a penny to award the compensation for the house in question what to speak of a huge amount i.e. Rs.80,00,000/- as claimed. Learned reference Court below has rightly dismissed the petition. Being so, the judgment under challenge calls for no interference by this Court and the same is rather upheld.

17. For all the reasons stated hereinabove, this appeal fails and the same is accordingly dismissed. Pending application(s), if any, shall also stand dismissed.

Hanish Mohammed ....Petitioner.
Versus
State of Himachal Pradesh ...Respondent.

Cr.MP(M) No.1647 of 2018
Date of Decision: December 17, 2018

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 438 - Pre-arrest bail - Grant-Antecedents of accused- Relevancy - Application of accused seeking pre-arrest bail rejected on finding him a previous convict and many others FIRs registered against applicant including two FIRs in that very year- Mere fact that nothing to be recovered from him in present case, irrelevant. (Paras 4 to 6)

For the Petitioner : Mr. Deepak Kaushal, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. Shiv Pal Manhans, Additional Advocate General, and Mr. R.P. Singh & Mr. R.R. Rahi, Deputy Advocates General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur, Judge (Oral)

This bail application has been filed under Section 438 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, seeking anticipatory bail in FIR No.331/18, dated 27.11.2018, under Sections 379, 120B of the Indian Penal Code, 41,42 of the Indian Forest Act & 181 of the Motor Vehicles Act, registered at Police Station, Paonta Sahib, District Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh.

2. As per the Status Report filed, the investigation is still in progress and that the petitioner is a habitual offender of committing the offences, as against him as many as 12 FIRs were lodged. Therefore, it is prayed that he is not entitled for any relief under Section 438 of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

3. It is pointed out by the learned counsel for the petitioner that out of these 12 cases, petitioner was acquitted in five cases and in two cases cancellation reports were submitted by the prosecution and three cases are still pending for trial before the Court/Gram Panchayat, whereas in one case FIR No.19/18, investigation is still in progress.

4. The details of the cases mentioned in the police report also contain the information that the petitioner was convicted in case FIR No.54/2008, under Section 379 IPC, read with Section 26 of the Indian Forest Act and was sentenced to undergo imprisonment for one year and pay fine of Rs.2,500/-, by Judicial Magistrate 1st Class (1), Paonta Sahib.

5. It is true that nothing is to be recovered from the petitioner. However, keeping in view the antecedents of the petitioner, particularly the fact that besides the present case there are two FIRs, which are found to have been registered against him during this year only, being FIRs No.202/18 and 219/18, I find that he is not entitled for grant of anticipatory bail. He is at liberty to seek regular bail, as the provisions of Section 438 Cr.P.C. are not meant for those who are habitual offenders and do not care for law and order.

6. Accordingly, the present application is dismissed, with a direction to the petitioner to surrender. He is at liberty to seek regular bail from the competent Court of law and in that eventuality the observations made by this Court, with respect to the past conduct of the petitioner, shall not come in its way, for considering his bail application, but the concerned Court shall consider the entire facts and the circumstances of the case, including the nature and gravity, and shall decide the application on its own merit, applying its independent mind.

Application stands disposed of.

(Paras 9 to 16)

For the Appellants: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Hemant Vaid and Mr. Desh Raj Thakur, Additional Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal, is, directed by the convicts/ accused/appellant, against, the pronouncement made by the learned Special Judge, Hamirpur, H.P., upon Sessions Trial No.29 of 2009, whereunder, he convicted, besides imposed consequent sentence, upon, the convicts/accused/appellants, for theirs committing offences punishable under Section 506 of the IPC, and, under Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that on 16th May, 2009, at about 9.30 p.m., a telephonic information was given by Smt. Sudesh Kumari, Pradhan, Gram Panchayat, Tal at Police Station, Sadar Hamirpur to the effect that the accused had come to her house in an inebriated condition and were abusing her. Such information was entered in the Rapat Roznamcha, and, the police party headed by H.C. Duni Chand, NO.24, left for the spot. After the police party reached the spot, H.C. Duni Chand, recorded statement of the complainant Smt. Sudesh Kumar. It was reported by her therein that on 16th May, at about 9.15 p.m., she was present alongwith her family members in her house. There is a path leading from the back side of her house. Accused Narotam Chand and Darnashi was going by that path and was calling out filthy abuses. Her husband asked him the reason for doing so. Upon it, accused Narotam Chand told her husband, "Chimbey Apni Chimbi Ko Pradhan Bana Rkha Hey". Thereafter, accused Narotam Cahnd went away to his house calling out filthy abuses. It was also reported that after some time Narotam Chand and his brother, Sunil Kumar came in their courtyard and both were under the influence of liquor at that time. Narotam Chand was carrying a Danda and Sunil Kumar was armed with Darat. Her husband told them that they were under the influence of liquor and that they should go back to their house. However, both of them said to the complainant, "Sali Randi, Chimbi Jat Ki, Apney Aap ko Bari Pradhan Banti Hey, Tujhey to Pradhan Giri Karna Sikha Dengey". Thereafter they started hurling out threats to them and told the complainant that she has one son, who will be finished by them on the next day, and they would also lay her husband to asleep, and she would become a widow. They continued calling out filthy abuses and threatening to kill them. Upon hearing noise, Gian Chand, Rangha Ram and Smt. Chanchlo Devi came to the spot and in their presence also both the accused hurled out threats to kill them and continued calling her "Chimbi" and abused her in the name of caste in order to humiliate her. Upon the aforesaid statement, FIR was registered in Police Station. The police, thereafter carried and concluded all the investigation(s) formalities.

3. On conclusion of the investigation, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a report, under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was prepared, and, filed before the learned trial Court.

4. The accused/appellants herein stood charged, by the learned trial Court, for, theirs committing offences, punishable under Sections 451, 506 read with Section 34 of the IPC, and, Section 3(1)(x) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 14 witnesses. On conclusion of recording, of, the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused, under, Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, were, recorded by the learned trial Court, wherein, the accused claimed innocence, and, pleaded false implication in the case.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of conviction upon the accused/ appellants herein, for theirs hence committing the aforesaid offences.

6. The appellants herein/accused, stand aggrieved, by the findings of conviction, recorded, by the learned trial Court. The learned counsel appearing, for, the appellants herein/accused, has concertedly and vigorously contended, qua the findings of conviction, recorded by the learned trial Court, standing not, based on a proper appreciation of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation, by it, of the material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction warranting reversal by this Court, in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, and, theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. On the other hand, the learned Additional Advocate General has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of conviction, recorded, by the learned trial Court, rather standing based, on a mature and balanced appreciation, by it, of the evidence on record, and, theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. PW-1, Joginder Singh, has, in his testification borne in his examination-in-chief, made, a communication hence bearing concurrence, with, his previous statement recorded in writing. He has thereunder ascribed qua the accused, hence, hurling abuses upon the victim, and, also echoed therein qua accused Sunil Kumar alias Sato wielding a darat in his hand, and, besides echoed qua co-accused Narotam, wielding a bamboo stick, and, theirs meteing threats to the life of the victim. Even though, in his cross-examination, conducted by the learned defence counsel, he has made minimal improvements therefrom, (i) comprised in his testifying qua his disclosing to the police, that he, at the relevant time, was closing the tap, echoing whereof, does not occur, in his previous statement recorded in writing, (ii) also though, he has proceeded to testify qua his making an echoing in his previous statement recorded, in writing qua the accused arriving, upto, the gate of his house, echoing whereof, also does not occur, in his previous statement recorded in writing, (iii) besides, he has also made a testification that the accused threatening, that, his wife should wipe out “sindoor” from her forehead because she had become a widow, testification whereof, also is not borne in his previous statement embodied in EX.DA, (iv) yet the afore improvements, made by PW-1 in his testification, borne in his examination-in-chief, vis-a-vis, Ex.DA, are obviously minimal, and, do not erode the substratum, of, the charge framed against the accused. Consequently, the afore improvements are discardable, conspicuously, when reiteratedly, the substratum of the charge, stands testified by PW-1, rather with apparent inter se visible harmony, vis-a-vis, his his testification borne in his examination-in-chief, and, his testification borne in his cross-examination, thereupon, credence is to be meted to his testification.

10. The victim, stepped into the witness box as PW-2, and, has, in her examination-in-chief, testified in concurrence, with her previous statement, borne in Ex.PW2/A, and, has also proceeded to identify darat, Ex.P-1, as stood shown to her, during, the course of her deposition being recorded in court, hence to comprise the relevant weapon of offence, seized through recovery memo, borne in Ex.PW2/B, (i) besides also during the course of her deposition being recorded, she, identified bamboo stick, to also comprise the relevant weapon, of offence, seized under memo Ex.PW2/C, (ii) and, with her deposition borne in her cross-examination, not, unraveling qua hers either improving or embellishing, upon, her previous statement borne in Ex.PW2/A, thereupon, credence is to be meted to her testification, (iii) significantly, when her deposition corroborates the testification rendered qua the occurrence, by PW-1.

11. PW-3, likewise has rendered, a, testification qua the ill-fated occurrence, bereft of any stain of improvements or embellishments, vis-a-vis, his previous statement recorded in writing, nor he has contradicted the testification (I) qua the occurrence rendered by both PW-1 and by PW-2. It appears that this witness was declared hostile, given his in his examination-in-chief, rendering an echoing qua the ill-fated occurrence, taking place during the winter season, whereas, the incident rather taking place in the month of May, whereat hence winter season, does not befall, (ii) and, thereafter the learned PP was permitted to cross-examine the afore witness. In his cross-examination, by the learned PP, he has feigned ignorance qua the occurrence taking place, on 16.5.2009, and, thereafter, he has clarified that it was about 9 or 9.30 p.m. However, merely on anvil of his feigning ignorance qua the afore factum, it yet cannot be concluded that he has rendered, an invented version qua the occurrence, given, his clarifying that he used quilt for sleeping throughout the year, (iii) thereupon, his making, a, testification qua the incident taking place in the winter season, whereas, his further in his cross-examination, conducted by the learned PP, hence, testifying qua his using fan at the relevant time, AND, his not using fan in the winter season, (iv) thereupon, the echoing made by him, in his examination-in-chief, qua the incident taking place, during, winter season, is, rendered insignificant, more so, when he has further testified, qua only one ill-fated occurrence hence taking place against victim, one Sudesh Kumari. Furthermore, with the learned defence counsel, during, the course of his conducting, the, cross-examination of PW-3 hence not meteing any suggestion, vis-a-vis, him, rather containing any echoing qua his being an invented witness qua the occurrence, (v) contrarily, with the learned defence counsel, meteing a suggestion to him, qua his statement standing recorded twice, initially on the day of occurrence, and, thereafter on the day of recovery, (vi) thereupon, hence, therefrom an inevitable sequel, rather ensues, qua the defence, acquiescing, vis-a-vis, the fact qua PW-3, making, a, previous statement qua the occurrence, to the Investigating Officer, and, it being in respect of the charge, (vii) whereupon, it is to be concluded qua the testification borne in the examination-in-chief of PW-3, being readable qua the incident, embodied in the charge, (viii) and, conspicuously when he, has, for all aforestated reasons, clarified, that, the relevant occurrence, occurred in the month of may, and only one penal misdemeanor, being, perpetrated against the victim, and, thereupon, it stands concluded qua his meteing corroboration, to, the testifications of PW-1, and, of PW-2.

12. Moreover, corroboration to the testifications of PW-1, PW-2, and, PW-3, is, meted by PW-4, who in his testification, borne in his examination-in-chief, has rendered a version qua the occurrence, bereft of any gross improvements or embellishments, vis-a-vis, his previous statement recorded in writing, (a) thereupon, with inter se corroboration being meted by all the ocular witnesses to the occurrence, rather facilitates erection, of, a firm inference qua the charges being proven against the accused, conspicuously also with PW-7 rendering a testification, vis-a-vis, the occurrence, hence, in absolute concurrence thereof.

13. Be that as it may, PW-9, who visited the spot immediately after receiving a telephonic information, and, who on reaching the spot hence recorded the statement of the complainant, borne in Ex.PW2/A, (a) has also, in his examination-in-chief rendered a testification qua his, thereat observing qua the accused being under the influence of liquor, and, theirs also manhandling him. Furthermore, with his making a communication, in his examination-in-chief, that, given the the accused causing breach of peace, hence, his arresting them under Sections 107 and 151 of the Cr.P.C., and, thereafter theirs being brought to the police station, and, being produced before the S.D.M., Hamirpur, on 17.5.2009, (b) testification whereof, borne in his examination-in-chief when remains uneroded of its efficacy, even during the course of his being subjected to an incisive cross-examination by the learned defence counsel, hence entails meteing, of, absolute sactity thereto.

14. An added momentum to the afore inference, is, mobilised by the Investigating Officer concerned, rendering a forthright testification, vis-a-vis, the validity, of drawing, of, memos, borne in Ex.PW2/B, and, in Ex.PW2/C, whereunder Ex.P-1 (darat) and Ex.P-2 (bamboo stick) hence stood respectively recovered, and, memos whereof also stand proven by PW-2, and, by PW-3. An inference qua adduction of cogent proof, in, respect of valid drawings thereof, by the Investigating Officer concerned, and, vis-a-vis, the authenticity, of, all the recitals borne therein, (a) is garnered by the memos being signed by PW-3, and, the accused, and, further Sudesh Kumar also proving, qua hers signing, the, afore memos, (b) besides hers identifying the afore exhibits, exhibits whereof stood shown to her, during, the course of her recording, her examination-in-chief, (c) preeminently also when no efficacious cross-examination is conducted, upon, either PW-2, and, PW-3, apparently qua the afore memos being not efficaciously drawn, or theirs appending signatures on blank papers, or theirs signing the afore memos, under,pressure exerted, upon, them by the Investigating Officer concerned, (d) nor with the accused denying the existence of their signatures thereon, hence, begets a sequel qua, hence efficacious proof being adduced, vis-a-vis, the valid drawing, of, the afore memos, and, qua recoveries of weapons of offence mentioned therein, hence, being validly effectuated thereunder, AND, qua hence corroboration, being meted to the testifications, rendered by the ocular witnesses to the occurrence.

15. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court, has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner, apart therefrom, the analysis of the material, on record, by the learned trial court, hence, also does not suffer from any gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation, and, non appreciation of germane thereto evidence, on record.

16. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal, and, it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the impugned judgment is affirmed and maintained. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

Date of Decision: 17th December, 2018.

Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881- Sections 138 & 139- Complaint - Presumption of consideration – Proof - Held, presumption that issued cheque was for consideration is rebuttable- Complainant alleging disputed cheque having been issued by accused to discharge 'friendly loan'- However, defence evidence revealing said cheque having been given to father of complainant, "BD" qua sale consideration of sale deed executed between "BD" and wife of accused- "BD" had registered FIR against accused and investigation of that case revealing that sale consideration stood paid by accused- Held, presumption that disputed chqeue being issued for consideration, stood discharged- Revision allowed- Conviction set aside. (Paras 9 to 12)

For the Petitioner: Mr. Peeyush Verma, Advocate.
For Respondent No.1: Mr. Hemant Vaid and Mr. Desh Raj Thakur, Additional Advocate Generals.
For Respondent No.2: Mr. O.P. Sharma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Naveen K. Dass, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The insant criminal revision petition stands directed by the accused/petitioner herein, against, the concurrently recorded verdicts, by both the learned Courts below, upon, Case No.10-D of 10/06, whereunder, the petitioner herein stood convicted, and, sentenced, for, his committing an offence punishable under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 (hereinafter referred to as the Act).

2. Briefly, the case set up by the complainant is that the accused is known to him and he is carrying on the business in main bazaar Rohru under the name and style of "Krishna Jewellers'. In September, 2005, the accused approached him for financial help and requested to give Rs.4,50,000/- for running the business and upon good faith, the said amount was given to him, which was to be paid by 31.08.2006. He also issued the cheque bearing No.383111 of 31.08.2006 for the aforesaid amount. After the expiry of the period, when the complainant asked the accused to make the payment, the matter was delayed on one pretext or other. Thereafter, the said cheque was presented for its encashment, however, it was received back dishonoured due to reason that the payment had been stopped by the accused. Thereafter, a legal notice dated 20.09.2006 was also sent to accused through registered post as well as UPC, however, in collusion with the postal authorities, he did not receive the same. Till date, any payment has not been made, as such, it is prayed that the accused be punished in accordance with law.

3. The learned trial Court, on, finding sufficient material on record, to proceed against the accused, hence, issued notice to the accused. On his appearance before the learned trial Court, notice of accusation for his committing an offence punishable under Section 138 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, stood put to him. In proof of the case, the complainant examined two witnesses. On conclusion of recording of the complainant's evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was recorded by the learned trial Court, wherein he claimed innocence and pleaded false implication. However, he has examined two witnesses in his defence.

4. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of conviction against the accused/petitioner herein.

5. The petitioner/accused is aggrieved by the judgment of conviction recorded against him, by both the learned courts below. The learned counsel appearing for the accused/respondent herein, has, concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the learned courts below, standing, not based on a proper appreciation, by them, of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation by them, of the material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction warranting reversal by this Court in the exercise of its revisional jurisdiction, and, theirs standing replaced by findings of acquittal.

6. On the other hand, the learned counsel appearing for the complainant/respondent herein, has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the learned courts below, rather standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation by them, of the evidence on record, and, theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

7. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

8. The dishonoured negotiable instrument, borne in Ex.CW1/A, embodies a sum of Rs.4,50,000/-. Since, the revisionist, does not contest, the occurrence of his signatures thereon, nor when he contests the authorship of all the scribings borne therein, (i) thereupon, the complainant, the holder of the afore cheque, hence, embodying the afore amount, is, to be rather construed to be receiving the afore dishonoured negotiable instrument, from, the revisionist, (ii) for hence, therethrough, rather ensuring, the, apt discharging(s) in whole or in part any debt or any other liability, and, ensuing from, a, commercial transaction which occurred inter se the complainant, and, the revisionist. However, the afore presumption, which stands statutorily embodied, in, the provisions borne in Section 139 of the Act, (iii) apparently, given the coinage “unless contrarily proved”, also occurring therein, renders the afore presumption, to be rather a rebuttable presumption. The provisions borne in Section 139 of the Act, stand extracted hereinafter:

> “139. Presumption in favour of holder.—It shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that the holder of a cheque received the cheque of the nature referred to in section 138 for the discharge, in whole or in part, of any debt or other liability.”

9. For determining, whether the revisionist, hence, shattering the afore presumption, an allusion to the testimony of RW-2, is, important, wherein, in his examination-in-chief, he echoes qua one Bhagwan Dass, the father of the complainant, lodging FIR No.116/2007 of 25.07.2007, wherein, (a) recitals occur, vis-a-vis, hereat dishonoured negotiable instrument, being issued by the revisionist, vis-a-vis, the complainant, (b) and, its issuance being towards liquidation, of, sale consideration, vis-a-vis, an apposite registered deed of conveyance executed inter se one Bhagwan Dass, and, the wife of the revisionist, (c) and, his making further unfoldments therein qua upon his investigating the matter, his discovering, that the entire sale consideration, being liquidated by the revisionist, vis-a-vis, the afore Bhawant Dass, (d) and, in contemporaneity with the execution of the apt registered deed of conveyance. A further reading of the last portion of the testification of RW-2, borne in his cross-examination also reveals, qua an affirmative suggestion being put to him, by the counsel for the complainant, qua the FIR being lodged, by Bhagwan Dass, and, the complainant not being the informant, wherefrom, dehors the FIR being a photo copy of the original, an inference is rearable qua (a) with, the, cheque number recited therein rather holding similarity, vis-a-vis, the cheque number borne, in, the extant dishonoured negotiable instrument, (b) thereupon, the contradictory therefrom averments, borne in the complaint, hence, visibly lose their apt efficacy. Reinforced momentum to all the afore inferences, is, garnered by factum qua neither the afore Bhagwan Dass nor the complainant adducing any evidence qua theirs instituting a civil suit, for, ensuring, the, rescinding, of, the registered deed of conveyance executed, inter se one Bhagwan Dass, and, the wife of the revisionist.

10. Be that as it may, even if the dishonoured negotiable instrument, is, issued in the name of complainant, yet, with the complainant being the son of Bhagwan Dass, (i) and, reiteratedly when a reference stands borne therein, qua, similar hereat cheque number, (ii) also with a reference being borne therein qua it being handedover to the complainant, the, son of the informant, (iii) apparently when the afore cast averment, in the FIR, remains unbelied, nor is contested by one Bhagwan Dass, (iv) thereupon, the defence reared by the revisionist qua the dishonoured negotiable instrument being purportedly issued towards, apt liquidation, vis-a-vis, the outstanding sale consideration qua the registered deed of conveyance executed inter se one Bhagwan Dass, and, the wife of the accused/revisionist, rather being cogently proven, (v) conspicuously given, even if it stood dishonoured, the, prime factum qua its issuance being towards liquidation qua any purported short fall, in the apposite sale consideration, (vi) whereas, the sale consideration appertaining to the apposite registered deed of conveyance, being effaciously proven to be liquidated, by the revisionist, to one Bhagwan Dass, (vii) thereupon, the revisionist was meritworthily hence bestowed, with a right to direct his bankers, to, upon, presenter of the cheque, hence, stop payment, vis-a-vis, its presentation. Also, the further corollary thereof, is, qua the revisionist hence shattering the afore statutory presumption attracted, vis-a-vis, the complainant, the holder, of Ex.CW1/A.

11. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned courts below have not appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned courts below rather suffers from a gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record.

12. Consequently, the instant revision is allowed and the judgments impugned before this Court are quashed and set aside. In sequel, the accused/revisionist is acquitted of the offence punishable under Section 138 of the Act. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Dharam Chand Chaudhary, J.

Convict Ajay Kumar is in appeal before this Court. He has been convicted for the commission of offence punishable under Section 302 IPC and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life and also to pay Rs. 10,000/- as fine vide impugned judgment dated 28.8.2017.

Grounds of Challenge:

2. Aggrieved by the impugned judgment, Ajay Kumar, convict has preferred the present appeal on the grounds inter alia that the findings of conviction recorded by learned trial Court are wrong and illegal. The same are based on surmises and conjectures. The contradictions, embellishments and paddings as emerge from the perusal of the evidence available on record render the prosecution story highly doubtful. The convict allegedly had no intention or knowledge of causing injuries to his mother. There being no animosity or motive to cause injuries to her is also not taken into consideration. The testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 has completely been misread, misconstrued and mis-interpreted. The plea raised by the convict in his defence that he is of unsound mind has erroneously been ignored irrespective of duly proved on record from the statement of DW-1 Dr. R.S.Dhatwalia and DW-2 Ravinder Kumar as well DW-7 Dr. R.C.Sharma and documentary evidence i.e. Ext. DW-1/A1 to Ext. DW-1/A4 and Ext. DB-1-DB-10. Learned trial Court on having come to know about the mental status of the accused during the course of trial erred legally and factually in not resorting to the procedure prescribed under Section 329 Cr.P.C. which prescribes for holding an enquiry to determine as to whether the accused at the time of occurrence was of unsound mind or not or that able to understand the nature of his defence and the evidence collected against him by the police. The failure on the part of learned trial Court to resort to such procedure has vitiated the trial as a whole. The impugned judgment, as such, has been sought to be quashed and set aside and accused acquitted of the charge framed against him.

Facts of the case:

3. The complainant herein is PW-1 Jaswant Singh. Accused is his son. He has one daughter also. Accused is married to PW-2 Madhu Bala. The complainant and his son, the accused were living together. The accused was running a shop of footwear at Ladrour bazaar in District Hamirpur. On 26.6.2015, he however, had not gone to the shop and remained on that day throughout in the house. The family had dinner at 9:30 PM and thereafter each and everyone went to their respective rooms for sleeping, however, accused came out of his room and went to that of his mother Sunita Devi, the deceased. He asked her as to whether they will purchase car for him or not. On the issue of car, he got enraged and started arguing with his mother. Each and everyone made him to understand that they will speak on the issue later and for the time being he must go and sleep but of no avail as he flared up and picked up a Darat (Sickle) lying there and assaulted the deceased thereby on her face, neck, chest and also other parts of her body. In the sudden attack, she sustained multiple injuries on her person. These acts were revealed by PW-1 Jaswant Singh to the doctor on duty in Community Health Centre Bharari, District Bilaspur where the deceased was brought in injured condition for treatment.

4. On the disclosure so made by PW-1 Jaswant Singh, the doctor on duty informed Police Station Bharari, District Bilaspur about the deceased brought to the hospital in injured condition for treatment. The police was asked to come to the hospital. The information so received was entered in daily diary vide rapat No. 46(A) dated 26.6.2015 at 22:35 hours/10:35 PM. Immediately thereafter, HC Pyare Lal (PW-21) accompanied by Constable Mukesh Kumar (PW-17) rushed to the Community Health Centre in official vehicle. The police party noticed Sunita Devi, the deceased brought there with injuries on her person for her medical treatment. In the opinion of the Medical Officer, she was not fit to make any statement. Her MLC is Ext. PW-14/B. PW-1 Jaswant Singh, the husband of the deceased was there, therefore, the I.O. HC Pyare Lal (PW-21) recorded his statement under Section 154 Cr.P.C. On the basis thereof, FIR No. 63/15 Ext. PW-17/A was recorded against the accused initially under Section 324 IPC. The deceased was shifted by HC Pyare Lal (PW-21) to District Hospital, Hamirpur for further treatment. The police officials i.e. HC Kewal Singh and lady Constable Sheetal were deputed with the deceased to District Hospital Hamirpur. The rapat rojnamcha in this regard is Ext. PW-12/C. The deceased, however, passed away on the way to I.G.M.C and Hospital. The rapat in this regard is Ext. PW-12/A. FIR initially recorded under Section 324 IPC was thereafter converted into under Section 302 IPC. The spot map Ext. PW-20/A was prepared. The wife of accused Madhu Bala had produced the Scythe Ext. P-6 used by her husband in assaulting the deceased. The same was taken in possession. The clothes of the accused he had worn at the time of occurrence were also taken into possession vide memo Ext. PW-17/C. The autopsy on the dead body of the deceased was got conducted in IGMC Shimla. The doctor PW-16 Dr. A.K. Sharma, conducted autopsy on the body of deceased vide report Ext. PW-16/B. The viscera of the deceased preserved by the doctor who conducted autopsy along with other samples lifted from the spot were sent to RFSL Mandi. The report Ext. PW-16/B reveals that blood of group “O” was available on the bed sheet and shirt of deceased Sunita Devi. The same matched with her blood sample. Human blood was also detected on the shirt of the accused, however, no blood could be detected on the trousers worn by him. Similarly, no traces of alcohol or narcotic drugs were also found present in the viscera nor in the blood and urine sample of the accused. In the opinion of the Medical Officer, the injuries on the person of the deceased could have been caused with the help of an object with sharp edges. In the opinion of the doctor, the injuries on the person of the deceased were cumulatively dangerous to life.

Crux of the Investigation Conducted:-

5. As per the further prosecution case, during the course of investigation, it transpired that accused Ajay Kumar had been insisting his parents to buy a car for him. They, however, bought a new Scooter for him. After some time, the accused again started insisting upon for providing him a Car. His mother, the deceased refused for the same. As per the prosecution story, since the accused had been considering his mother the deceased an impediment in the matter of having a Car from his father, he therefore, had not even been attending to his business in the shop at Ladrour for the last two days prior to the incident. On the fateful day i.e. 26.6.2015 also, the accused again floated his demand strongly. The deceased having been fed up with arguing continuously with the accused on this issue had retired to her bed room. The accused who had already enraged due to neglecting his demand of buying a car, ultimately lost his temper all of a sudden and as a result thereof inflicted blows with a darat on her person which he had picked up from the verandah of the house. The deceased was lying in her bed at that time. The accused had been caught hold by PW-1 Jaswant Singh, his father with the help of his daughter-in-law Madhu Bala (PW-2). The darat which had been thrown by the accused in the nearby fields was picked up by PW-2 Madhu Bala and kept in the verandah which she lateron handed over to the police.

6. On filing of the police report with such material collected by the Investigating Agency, charge under Section 302 IPC was framed against the accused. He, however, pleaded not guilty to the charge and claimed trial.

Prosecution Evidence:-

7. The prosecution in turn has examined 21 witnesses in all and also produced the documentary evidence. The material prosecution witnesses are PW-1 Jaswant Singh, father of the accused, his wife Smt. Madhu Bala (PW-2), Subhash Kumar, a neighbor (PW-3), Jagar Nath (PW-5) brother of PW-1, the complainant (Uncle of the accused), PW-7 Bishan Dass, the then Pradhan Gram Panchayat Barota, PW-8 Rattan Lal, another neighbourer, PW-9 Kirpal Singh, brother of the deceased and maternal Uncle of accused, PW-11 Sanjeev Kumar, again from neighbourhood of the accused, PW-14 Dr. Garima Thapa who had examined the deceased and given first medical aid as well as issued MLC Ext. PW-14/B. PW-15 Dr. Pankaj who had examined the accused brought there by the police vide MLC Ext. PW-15/B, PW-16 Dr. A.K. Sharma, Professor & Head, Department of Forensic Medicine, IGMC, Shimla who had conducted the post mortem vide report Ext. PW-16/B, PW-17 Const. Mukesh Kumar who went to the hospital along with IO PW-21 HC Pyare Lal on receipt of the information in the Police Station, PW-20 SI Surender Singh who had partly investigated the case and PW-21 HC Pyare Lal who is also the I.O.

8. The remaining prosecution witnesses are formal because PW-4 Manohar Lal, Jr. Engineer H.P. PWD Sub Division Bharari had prepared spot map Ext. PW-4/B on the request of the police. PW-6 HC Naresh Kumar was one of the members of the police party headed by PW-20 SI Surender Singh, the Station House Officer. PW-10 Prem Lal Patwari, Patwar Circle Barota prepared the jamabandi Ext. PW-10/B and tatima Ext. PW-10/C which were handed over to the police, PW-12 Const. Dinesh Kumar had proved the daily diary reports Ext. PW-12/A, PW-12/C and PW-12/D. Similarly, PW-13 HHC Baldev Raj had deposited the case property in RFSL Mandi vide RC No. 64/2015. PW-18 Dr. H.R. Rahi along with Dr. Sanjay had examined the deceased in the casualty department of IGMC, Shimla and declared her dead and PW-19 is HC Amar Singh who was posted as MHC at the relevant time.

The defence of the accused:-

9. The accused in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has expressed his ignorance to the incriminating circumstances which were put to him because the answer to all the questions he has given is "I do not know".

10. The defence witnesses DW-1 Dr. R.S.Dhatwalia, DW-2 Ravinder Kumar, DW-3 Bainshu Ram, Superintendent Open Air Jail, Bilaspur, DW-7 Dr. R.C.Sharma, all have stated about the mental ailment of the accused and his abnormal behavior. DW-4 Ashok Kumar and DW-5 Naveen Kumar have also deposed about the mental ailment of the accused and the treatment he had been undertaking. DW-2 Ravinder Kumar has again appeared in the witness-box as DW-6 and produced the record of this case. He has proved the copies of such record which are Ext. DB-1 to DB-10.

The conclusion drawn by the trial Court:-

11. Learned trial Court on appreciation of the prosecution evidence and also the evidence produced by the defence and holding that the plea of insanity in his defence taken by the accused is not proved on record has convicted him while holding that in a gruesome and brutal attack the accused had brutally killed his own mother and thereby committed the offence punishable under Section 302 IPC. The convict-appellant has therefore been convicted and sentenced as pointed out at the outset.

Rival Submissions:-

12. Sh. H.S. Rana, Advocate, learned counsel representing the appellant-convict has vehemently argued that on having filed an application under Section 328 Cr.P.C. at the very initial stage of the proceedings in the trial i.e. on 1.12.2015, learned trial Judge had no option except to resort to the procedure prescribed thereunder and also under Section 329 of the Code i.e. to have got the accused examined by the doctor/Psychiatrist and obtained report qua soundness of his mind or mental retardation. According to Mr. Rana, it is after obtaining such medical report, a decision as to whether the trial had to proceed further or not was required to be taken. In the event of the accused being found to be of unsound mind/mentally retarded as well as not in a position to understood his defence, would have been referred to the hospital for treatment and while closing the proceedings, dealt with in accordance with the provisions contained under Section 330 of the Code. Learned trial Judge has, however, not resorted to such procedure prescribed under the Code on filing the application under Section 328 Cr.P.C. by the accused. The withdrawal of the said application at a stage when listed for pronouncement of order, according to Mr. Rana, is not fatal to the defence because the accused at that time was of unsound mind. The withdrawal thereof, as such, is of no consequence. It was rather for the trial Court to have held enquiry to satisfy itself as to whether the accused was of unsound mind or not. The evidence, as has come on record by way of the testimony of prosecution witnesses, including PW-17 Mukesh Kumar and PW-21 HC Pyare Lal, I.O. who have deposed about the abnormal behavior of the accused when reached on the spot has been ignored intentionally and deliberately by learned trial Judge. The abnormal behavior of the accused noticed by DW-3 Bainshu Ram, Superintendent, Open Air Jail, Bilaspur and DW-2 Ravinder Kumar posted as Pharmacist in the said Jail is also erroneously ignored. Mr. Rana, has also pointed out from the statements of the father of the accused PW-1 Jaswant Singh and PW-2 Madhu Bala, wife of the accused and also other neighbours who in so many words deposed about the un-natural and abnormal behavior of the accused. The statement of DW-4 Ashok Kumar who happens to be the cousin of accused (Bua's son) has also been erroneously ignored. According to Mr. Rana, DW-1 Dr. R.S. Dhatwalia and DW-7 Dr. R.C. Sharma, Head of Department of Psychiatry, IGMC Shimla both had examined the accused, however, the evidence as has come on record by way of their respective statements is also not taken into consideration. The findings to the contrary recorded by learned trial Court are stated to be based upon hypothesis, conjectures and surmises. Mr. Rana has further pointed out that the question as to whether the defence of insanity under Section 84 IPC was available to the accused or not would have arisen had the enquiry been got conducted immediately after filing the application under Section 328 Cr.P.C. and before proceeding further in the trial, the opinion qua the mental ailment of the accused obtained from the experts/ Psychiatrists. Mr. Rana, has further urged that the provisions contained under Section 328 and 329 Cr.P.C. are mandatory in nature. Also that, on having brought to its notice that the accused was of unsound mind, learned trial Court should have proceeded to hold enquiry as per the procedure prescribed under the Sections ibid and could have proceeded further in the trial only after the receipt of the expert opinion.

13. It has, therefore, been urged that due to non-compliance of the procedure prescribed under Section 328 and 329 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the entire proceedings have vitiated and as such, no findings of conviction could have been recorded against the accused. The impugned judgment, as such, has been sought to be quashed and set aside.

14. On the other hand, Mr. Vikas Rathour and Mr. Narender Guleira, Addl. Advocate Generals, while inviting our attention to the findings recorded by learned trial Court have contended that the same being well reasoned and there being no evidence suggesting that at the time of occurrence, the accused was not sane and rather mentally disturbed call for no interference in the present appeal.

Our Findings:-

15. Since during the course of arguments, a legal question that without determining the controversy as to whether the accused was of unsound mind and suffering from mental disorder and as such, without resorting to the procedure prescribed under Sections 328 & 329 Cr.P.C. further proceedings in the trial could have not continued, therefore, before coming to the merits of the case, it is the legal question so raised deserves to be decided first.

16. Admittedly, the trial when came to be listed in the Court below on 1.12.2015, on behalf of accused learned counsel representing him had filed an application under Section 328 Cr.P.C. The said application was adjourned to 15.12.2015 for reply and consideration. Perhaps, here learned trial Judge went wrong. True it is that as per the language employed under Section 329 Cr. P.C. if it appears to the Court that the accused is of unsound mind and may also be incapable of making his defence, the factum of innocence and incapacity to make his defence is required to be tried first by way of forwarding the accused to the hospital for his medical examination and seeking the expert opinion. On consideration of the medical evidence or any other evidence as would have been produced by the prosecution and also the defence, if learned trial Judge is satisfied that the accused is of unsound mind, a finding to that effect is required to be recorded and further proceedings in the case postponed as well as to refer him to Psychiatrist or Psychologist for further treatment.

17. In case, in view of the report of the Psychiatrist, the accused is found to be of unsound mind and prima-facie no case is made out from the material available on record, the trial Court may either to discharge him or deal in the manner as provided under Section 329 Cr.P.C.

18. In such a case, the trial Court is required to postpone the trial for such period as in the opinion of the Psychiatrist or clinical Psychologist is required for the treatment of the accused. Section 329 Cr.P.C. is reproduced hereunder for the sake of convenience:

1. "If at the trial of any person before a Magistrate or Court of Session, it appears to the Magistrate or Court that such person is of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate or Court shall, in the first instance, try the fact of such unsoundness and incapacity, and if the Magistrate or Court, after considering such medical and other evidence as may be produced before him or it, is satisfied of the fact, he or it shall record a finding to that effect and shall postpone further proceedings in the case.

   1A. If during trial, the Magistrate or Court of Sessions finds the accused to be of unsound mind, he or it shall refer such person to a psychiatrist or clinical psychologist for care and treatment, and the psychiatrist or clinical psychologist, as the case may be shall report to the Magistrate or Court whether the accused is suffering from unsoundness of mind:

   Provided that if the accused is aggrieved by the information given by the psychiatric or clinical psychologist, as the case may be, to the Magistrate, he may prefer an appeal before the Medical Board which shall consist of -

   1. head of psychiatry unit in the nearest government hospital; and
   2. a faculty member in psychiatry in the nearest medical college;

2. If such Magistrate or Court is informed that the person referred to in sub-section (1A) is a person of unsound mind, the Magistrate or Court shall further determine whether unsoundness of mind renders the accused incapable of entering defence and if the accused is found so incapable, the Magistrate or Court shall record a finding to that effect and shall examine the record of evidence produced by the prosecution and after hearing the advocate of the accused but without questioning the accused, if the Magistrate or Court finds that no prima facie case is made out against the accused, he or it shall, instead of postponing the trial, discharge the accused and deal with him in the manner provided under section 330:

   Provided that if the Magistrate or Court finds that a prima facie case is made out against the accused in respect of whom a finding of unsoundness of mind is arrived at, he shall postpone the trial for such period, as in the opinion of the psychiatrist or clinical psychologist, is required for the treatment of the accused.

3. If the Magistrate or Court finds that a prima facie case is made out against the accused and he is incapable of entering defence by reason of mental retardation, he or it shall not hold the trial and order the accused to be dealt with in accordance with section 330"

19. As noticed supra, the submissions in the application under Section 328/329 Cr.P.C. filed on behalf of the accused were sufficient for learned trial Court to have recorded its satisfaction qua the necessity of seeking the expert opinion as to whether the accused was of unsound mind or not for the reason that as recorded in the zimni order dated 15.12.2015, the prosecution had not opted for filing reply to the application as per the statement made by learned Public Prosecutor at Bar and recorded so in the above zimni order. We fail to understand as to what had remained there to learned trial Judge for further consideration in the said application. We rather feel that the genesis of occurrence

i.e. assaulting of mother by a son repeatedly with lethal weapon like darat and causing multiple injuries, grievous in nature on her person itself was prima-facie sufficient to hold the enquiry as envisaged under Section 328/329 Cr.P.C. On filing the application hereinabove on behalf of the accused, learned trial Court should have ordered the enquiry to be conducted to ascertain the insanity and unsoundness of mind of the accused by resorting to the procedure which is mandatory in nature prescribed under Section 328/329 Cr.P.C. In order to ensure the fair trial, such procedure even needs to be resorted to, on oral submissions itself in order to ensure the fair trial and the accused may not be condemned unheard.

20. True it is that after hearing arguments in the application, the same was fixed for pronouncement of order on 15.3.2016 when learned defence counsel has withdrawn the same. His statement was recorded and placed on record. The withdrawal of the application, in view of the reasons recorded hereinabove, is of no consequence nor has to be construed to conclude that the accused has now no legal right to assail the impugned judgment on this count. A Division Bench of this Court in Dhani Ram vs. The State, 1982 Sim. L.C. 194, in similar circumstances as the charge against the accused was under Section 302 and 309 IPC and a similar application under Section 329 Cr.P.C. filed with a prayer to hold enquiry as to whether the accused is of unsound mind or not forwarded the accused to Chief Medical Officer, Dharamshala for examination and report, and as for want of facilities for examination of such patient in the hospital at Dharamshala, the Chief Medical Officer expressed his inability to get the accused examined and submit the report, rather while apprising the trial Court that the accused had been taking treatment from Punjab Mental Hospital, Amritsar and obtained the report from mental hospital Amritsar that the accused was sane proceeded further with the trial, has held as under:

> "12. The various orders which have been passed in the case from time to time clearly suggest that the Judicial Magistrate, Palampur, as well as the learned Sessions Judge were of the view that provisions of Section 329 Cr. P.C. had to be invoked. The order dated 20th June, 1978, of Sessions Judge clearly states that the report of the C.M.O. Dharamsala be called as to whether the appellant Is sane and capable of defending himself. The prior order of the Sessions Judge or the Additional Session Judge also indicate that proceedings under Section 329 Cr. P.C. were being taken. There can be no manner of doubt that the mistake in writing the word 'normal' instead of the word 'abnormal' in the order dated 20.6.1978 is a typographical mistake. Recording of the statement of the appellant after the passing of this order is immaterial because, according to the opinion of the learned Session Judge, the appellant appeared to be abnormal. If this is the position then under Section 329 Cr. P.C. the Session Judge had to try the fact with respect to the unsoundness and incapacity of the appellant. The Session Judge was further proceedings in the case. As we have taken the view that on 26.6.1978 it appeared to the Sessions Judge that the appellant was of unsound mind, therefore, it was the bounden duty of the Session Judge to have decide this issue after considering the medical evidence and other evidence as is required under Section 329 Cr. P.C. in the present case the Sessions Judge had failed to do so. The Session Judge has not even recorded the statement of the doctor who had examined the appellant. The order of the Session Judge dated 3.5.1979 is thus illegal and proceeding after this order are vitiated. The provisions of Section 329 Cr. P.C. are mandatory and an omission to decide the preliminary issue shall vitiate the whole trial. A similar view was taken by a Division Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in Mst. Satya Devi V. The State,[1969 Cri LJ 1424] wherein it was held that-

> "The provisions of Section 465 do not embrace an idle formality but are calculated to ensure to an accused person a fair trial which cannot obviously be afforded to an insane person and the nonobservance of those provisions must be held to convert a trial into a force. Courts must, therefore, guard against dealing with the matter of suspected sanity of an accused person in a perfunctory manner as such a course is bound to result in the trial Judge, more often than not coming to an incorrect conclusion about the sanity of the accused before him."

13. Thus, we are of the view that the trial in the present case is vitiated for the reasons that proper enquiry under Section 329 Cr. P.C. has not been held by the learned Session Judge and the learned Sessions Judge has failed to record a finding with respect to the insanity of the appellant. As the trial is vitiated, therefore, the present conviction and sentence cannot be maintained and this appeal has to be accepted.

14. The result of the above discussion is that the present appeal is accepted, the judgment of the learned Session Judge, Dharamsala, for re-trial in accordance with law. The appellant is directed to be produced before the learned Session Judge on 3rd May, 1982 and the Session Judge shall produced in the case and try to decide the case within a month."

21. It is seen that this case is on better footing as compared to Dhani Ram's case cited supra for the reason that here learned trial Court has not made any effort to go into the question of unsoundness of mind or otherwise of the accused after filing of the application under Section 328/329 Cr.P.C. and rather lingered on the same that too when no reply thereto was intended to be filed by the prosecution for a period over one year, being finally disposed of on 15.3.2016.

22. The testimony of PW-1 Jaswant Singh, the father of the accused, PW-2 Madhu Bala, the wife of the accused, PW-3 subhash Kumar, his neighbor having his house at a distance of 150 meters from that of the accused, PW-7, the Pradhan Gram Panchayat Barota, PW-8 Rattan Lal, again neighbor of the accused and PW-11 Sanjeev Kumar, again a neighbor having his house at a distance of about 200 meters from that of the accused, shows that the accused was suffering from mental ailment, hence not in a fit state of mind on the day of occurrence. He, as per the version of PW-1 Jaswant Singh and PW-2 Madhu Bala had not been attended to his business in the shop at Ladrour for the last two days. On the day of occurrence, he remained present throughout in the house. He, as per such evidence even had been undergoing Psychiatric treatment in Karmi Devi Mental Hospital, Hamirpur and IGMC Shimla for the last 10 years. According to Const. Mukesh Kumar (PW-17) who went to the place of occurrence accompanied by the I.O HC Pyare Lal (PW-21), the accused was in fury (ferocious mood) at his home and it is the people of the area who had controlled him. Also that, his behavior was violent and non-cooperative. Therefore, he had to be arrested during the same night in a case under Section 107/151, most probably to tackle the law and order situation and breach of peace on account of being in violent mood. HC Pyare Lal (PW-21) who firstly visited the place of occurrence and conducted the investigation has also stated that the accused was arrested by him in the proceedings initiated against him under Section 107/151 Cr.P.C. on that very day. He had recorded the proceedings under Section 107/151 Cr. P.C. and submitted the same to the Executive Magistrate concerned. The record of the said case was also available in the Police Station.

As per HC Pyare Lal (PW-21) also, he noticed that the conduct of the accused was furious. Though the suggestion that the father of the accused PW-1 Jaswant Singh had told him that the accused was suffering from mental ailment (insanity) has been denied by HC Pyare Lal (PW-21) as wrong. However, his admission that the accused was in ferocious mood and had to be arrested in the proceedings under Section 107/151 Cr. P.C. itself speaks in plenty about the actual and factual position. Even if such evidence having come on record after the dismissal of the application under Section 329 Cr.P.C. i.e. during the course of trial is not taken into consideration, ample material was on record by that time when the application moved showing prima-facie the abnormal behavior and conduct of the accused at the time of occurrence. Therefore, the possibility of the accused was not in a fit state of mind at the time of occurrence cannot be ruled out.

23. Interestingly enough, DW-3 Bainshu Ram, Superintendent, Open Air Jail, Bilaspur on noticing abnormal conduct and behavior of the accused continuously right from 29.6.2015, the date when he was lodged there had informed the S.H.O., Police Station Bharari vide letter dated 11.8.2015 Ext. DW-3/A about such behavior and conduct of the accused. Also that, he was sent to District Hospital, Bilaspur and IGMC, Shimla for treatment. The copy of letter Ext. DW-3/A was also sent to the father of the accused. He in turn had handed over the prescription slips Ext. DW-1/A1 to Ext. DW-1/A4 to this witness. These OPD slips pertains to Karmi Devi Mental Hospital, Hamirpur as has come in the statement of DW-1 Dr. R.S. Dhatwalia, Psychiatrist in the said hospital. Although DW-1 Dr. R.S.Dhatwalia could not recognize the accused in the Court, however, stated that the person to whom the OPD slips Ext. DW-1/A1 to Ext. DW-1/A4 pertain was likely to suffer from a major mental disorder. Since the OPD slips pertain to the ailment of the accused himself, being produced by his family members before DW-3 Bainshu Ram, Superintendent Open Air Jail, Bilaspur, therefore, such record coupled with the testimony of DW-1 Dr. R.S.Dhatwalia and DW-3 Bainshu Ram reveals that the accused was not of sound mind. Even if the statement of DW-1 Dr. R.S. Dhatwalia is ignored at this stage, in that event also, the letter Ext. DW-3/A written by DW-3 Bainshu Ram to Station House Officer, PS Bharari and to the parents of the accused leads to the only conclusion that prima-facie material qua the accused being of unsound mind had come on record well before filing of the application under Section 329 Cr. P.C. It appears that the prosecution has intentionally and deliberately withheld such material from the Court and not opted for filing reply to the application. Such illegal approach on the part of the prosecution is not at all appreciated nor is it in the interest of fair trial, a Constitutional right of the accused.

24. DW-2 is Ravinder Kumar. As a matter of fact, he was posted as Pharmacist in Open Air Jail, Bilaspur. On noticing abnormal behavior and conduct of the accused in Jail, coupled with the factum that he got himself involved in physical brawl with other inmates, he was taken to IGMC and Hospital Shimla for treatment in Psychiatric Department. It is thereafter his treatment in the said hospital, the accused came to his normal routine. The accused as to whether was taking medicine in routine manner or not at the time of occurrence would have surfaced had the enquiry been ordered to be conducted in the application under Section 329 Cr.P.C. DW-2 Ravinder Kumar has testified that the OPD slips Ext. DW-1/A1 to Ext. DW-1/A4 were supplied to the Jail authorities by the family members of the accused. The same according to him was part of record he had brought to the Court. The letter Ext. DW-3/A was sent to the SHO by the Jail authorities. The same in all probabilities, might have been received in the Police Station because the father of the accused had also received the same. Therefore, the factum of the receipt of letter Ext. DW-3/A would have also surfaced had the enquiry been ordered by learned trial Judge under Section 329 Cr.P.C.

25. DW-4 Ashok Kumar is cousin of the accused being his Aunt's son (Bua's son). On the day of occurrence itself, he had received the message of his maternal Uncle PW-1 Jaswant Singh about the necessity to take the accused to the Clinic of Dr. Dhatwalia at Hamirpur as he had broken the idols of Gods and Godesses hanging on the walls of the house on that day. According to DW-4 Ashok Kumar, the accused was under treatment of the said Hospital at Hamirpur. He, therefore, on the call received from his maternal uncle went to his house, however, noticed that his Aunt (Mami) was killed by that time. According to him, though he was present on the spot, however, not associated with the investigation of the case. DW-5 Naveen Kumar has also stated that on two occasions he accompanied the accused and his father to the hospital of Dr. Dhatwalia at Hamirpur for his check up. The mental condition of the accused allegedly had deteriorated after few days of his marriage. DW-7 Dr. R.C. Sharma is the Head of the Department of Psychiatric, IGMC & Hospital, Shimla. The accused was examined vide OPD slip Ext. DB-1 under his supervision by Dr. Ramesh his associate. The other OPD slips i.e. Ext. DB-2 to 4 and 6 to 9 according to him also pertain to the days when he was in OPD on duty. This record was also available on the day when the application under Section 329 Cr.P.C. was filed.

26. The accused was of unsound mind or not at the relevant time would have surfaced from the enquiry, had it been ordered to be conducted by learned trial Court. The procedure adopted by learned trial Court to consider and decide such application is, therefore, not as per law.

27. In view of the reasons hereinabove on filing of the application under Section 329 Cr.P.C. by the accused, the only option available to the trial Court was to have held the enquiry in accordance with the procedure prescribed thereunder for the reason that the manner in which the occurrence took place and the accused had brutally murdered his own mother prima facie shows that he was not in a fit state of mind. Otherwise also, the procedure prescribed under Section 329 Cr.P.C. is mandatory. Therefore, before proceeding further in the trial, learned trial Judge should have obtained the expert opinion qua the mental/psychological disorder, if any, of the accused by forwarding him to Psychiatrist, more particularly, when the prosecution did not opt for filing reply to the application. It is also not understandable as to what prompted learned defence counsel to have withdrawn the application. Anyhow, as noticed supra, the dismissal of the application as withdrawn cannot be construed to form an opinion that the accused is now not entitled to take such ground in the appeal. Nothing has been brought to the notice of this Court on behalf of the respondent-State that the accused never remained under treatment in Psychiatry Department of IGMC and Hospital Shimla and that he was never suffering from any mental ailment nor ever took any treatment.

28. We, therefore, find the present a fit case where from the date i.e. 1.12.2015 (the day when the application under Section 328/329 Cr.P.C. filed) onward the entire proceedings in the trial have vitiated. As a matter of fact, learned trial Judge should have first determined the question of unsoundness of mind of the accused and thereafter to proceed further in the trial. The impugned judgment which has been passed on the evidence recorded in contravention of the law is not legally sustainable. As a matter of fact, without ascertaining as to whether the accused was in a fit state of mind and in a position to make and understand his defence, no findings of conviction could have been recorded against him. The plea of insanity under Section 84 IPC if raised on behalf of the accused after determining the question ibid could have been considered during the course of further trial by the learned trial Court. The approach adopted by learned trial Judge has not only vitiated the proceedings in the trial but has taken away the legal and Constitutional right of the accused qua fair trial besides condemning him unheard.

29. For all the reasons hereinabove, this appeal succeeds on this score alone and the same is accordingly allowed. Consequently, the impugned judgment is quashed and set aside. The case, however, is remanded to learned trial Court for re-trial from the stage of holding enquiry into the facts that on the day of occurrence the accused was of unsound mind or not and thereafter to proceed further in the matter in accordance with law as per the procedure prescribed under Section 329 Cr.P.C. and in case learned trial Court ultimately arrives at a conclusion that the accused is not of unsound mind and has committed the offence while in his full senses, to proceed further against him and decide the case afresh by taking into consideration the evidence already available on record and also the evidence if any, produced by the prosecution and also the defence.

Before parting, we leave it open to learned trial Court to decide the question of release of the accused on bail during the course of enquiry to be conducted in accordance with the procedure prescribed under Section 329 Cr.P.C. and in case he is held to be of unsound mind, till his recovery from his ailment and during the period when on account of his mental disorder/ailment the proceedings in the trial are to be ordered to be suspended and resumed as and when he is cured from the ailment or otherwise, as the case may be.

| For Respondents No.2: | Mr. Anuj Gupta, Advocate. |

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The hereinafter extracted reference, was, referred, to the Industrial Tribunal-cum- Labour Court, at Shimla, for, an adjudication being rendered thereon:-

> "Whether the plea of the Principal DAV Centenary Public School, Kumar Hatti, District Solan, that Ashwani Kumar S/o Shri Hari Nand Sharma (Accountant) worker left the job of his own accord w.e.f. 1.6.2002 and without serving any notice for absenteeism and abandonment, is legal and justified? If not, to what seniority, back wages, service benefits and relief, the concerned workman is entitled to?"

Upon, the afore extracted reference, the learned Presiding Judge, Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla, meted an answer, vis-a-vis, the workman/respondent herein. The employer/petitioner herein hence being aggrieved therefrom, has, through the instant writ petition, cast a challenge thereon.

2. The workman/respondent herein, under, letter of 23.11.2000 hence stood appointed by the employer/petitioner herein, for, performing the avocation, of, an accountant. A perusal of the afore appointment letter, displays, that the initial term/tenure of appointment, against, the afore post hence being for a period of one year, and, a further recital, is, borne therein qua the service(s) of the workman/respondent herein, against the afore post, being likely to be regularized, after, expiry of the afore period or tenure, of, one year. In pursuance to the afore appointment letter, the, workman/respondent herein joined his duties, in the afore capacity, with, the petitioner herein/employer. The workman/respondent herein, hence, after completing, the, apt tenure of one year, against, the afore post, rather stood under, a, letter of 1.6.2002 hence meted an extension of two months, for, hence performing, his duties with the employer/petitioner herein, against the post of an accountant, whereagainst, he stood initially, appointed under Ex.PA.

3. However, a dispute arose inter se the workman, and, the employer, and, on failure, of, conciliation, of, the relevant dispute, rather sequelled, the hereinabove extracted reference, being made, for meteing, of, an adjudication thereon, vis-a-vis, the Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court. The learned tribunal, aptly, on meteing apt deference, to the admission, borne in the cross-examination, of RW-1 qua the workman/respondent herein, not abandoning his job, rather his quitting it, given his not being selected, in pursuance, to the culmination, of, the relevant recruitment process, standing initiated by the employer, hence naturally answered the afore extracted reference, in the affirmative, and, granted the relief of reinstatement, and, alongwith back wages, to, the workman/respondent herein.

4. Be that as it may, without faulting, the, initiation, and, culmination, of, the recruitment process(es), embarked, upon, by the employer, for hence making appointment against the post of an accountant, and, in sequel whereto, one Dhani Ram Kapil, stood selected, (a) the paramount conundrum, which is enjoined to be affirmatively rested, is encapsulated in the workman/respondent herein, given, his on the afore anvil, hence standing terminated, from, the post of an accountant, whereagainst, he stood initially appointed, and, whereafter the afore extension, stood meted to him, (ii) whereupon, hence the respondent/workman, rather, falls, within, the ambit of the coinage "retrenchment", statutorily defined in sub-section (oo) of Section, 2 of, the Industrial Disputes Act (hereinafter referred to as the Act), provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "(oo) "retrenchment" means the termination by the employer of the service of a workman for any reason whatsoever, otherwise than as a punishment inflicted by way of disciplinary action, but does not include--

(a) voluntary retirement of the workman; or

(b) retirement of the workman on reaching the age of superannuation if the contract of employment between the employer and the workman concerned contains a stipulation in that behalf; or

(bb) termination of the service of the workman as a result of the non- renewal of the contract of employment between the employer and the workman concerned on its expiry or of such contract being terminated under a stipulation in that behalf contained therein; or] (c) termination of the service of a workman on the ground of continued ill- health;]"

The afore findings rendered by this Court qua the respondent/workman standing retrenched, from, employment, by his employer, hence, also entails this Court, to determine, whether the length of service, rendered by the workman/respondent herein, under, his employer, rather falling within, the definition of Section 25-B, of the Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

25B. Definition of continuous service.- For the purposes of this Chapter,-

(1) a workman shall be said to be in continuous service for a period if he is, for that period, in uninterrupted service, including service which may be interrupted on account of sickness or authorised leave or an accident or a strike which is not illegal, or a lock- out or a cessation of work which is not due to any fault on the part of the workman;

(2) where a workman is not in continuous service within the meaning of clause (1) for a period of one year or six months, he shall be deemed to be in continuous service under an employer--

(a) for a period of one year, if the workman, during a period of twelve calendar months preceding the date with reference to which calculation is to be made, has actually worked under the employer for not less than--

(i) one hundred and ninety days in the case of a workman employed below ground in a mine; and

(ii) two hundred and forty days, in any other case;

(b) for a period of six months, if the workman, during a period of six calendar months preceding the date with reference to which calculation is to be made, has actually worked under the employer for not less than--

(i) ninety- five days, in the case of workman employed below ground ina min; and

(ii) one hundred and twenty days in any other case."

It is not controverted by the employer, nor evidence exists on record, that, the respondent herein/workman, did not render the requisite statutorily enjoined period, of continuous service, under, his employer/petitioner herein. The effect thereof, is, qua, the mandate of Section 25-F, of, the Act, begetting its apt attraction hereat, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> 25F. Conditions precedent to retrenchment of workmen.- No workman employed in any industry who has been in continuous service for not less than one year under an employer shall be retrenched by that employer until--
> (a) the workman has been given one month' s notice in writing indicating the reasons for retrenchment and the period of notice has expired, or the workman has been paid in lieu of such notice, wages for the period of the notice:
>
> (b) the workman has been paid, at the time of retrenchment, compensation which shall be equivalent to fifteen days' average pay [2] for every completed year of continuous service] or any part thereof in excess of six months; and
> (c) notice in the prescribed manner is served on the appropriate Government [3] or such authority as may be specified by the appropriate Government by notification in the Official Gazette].

(i) and, on reading, and, application whereof, it was incumbent, upon, the employer, to hence prior to dispensing with the services, of the respondent/workman, to hence mete absolute compliance, with the peremptory statutory conditions, as, stand delineated therein. However, evidence qua compliance therewith being meted, by the employer/petitioner herein, rather does not exist on record. Consequently, with, the peremptory mandate, of, the afore statutory provisions, being transgressed, thereupon, the retrenchment or disengagement or termination of services of the respondent herein/workman, by the petitioner herein/employer, is rendered both obviously faulted, and, vitiated.

5. In summa, the impugned verdict, rendered for reinstatement, in service, of the respondent herein/workman, by his employer/respondent herein, is not tainted with any vice of mis-appreciation of evidence, on record, nor is stained with any vice of gross mis-application, of, the germane applicable thereon, hence statutory principles.

6. Further more, the workman in his testimony, rendered an echoing qua, during, the period of his disengagement, his performing agricultural work, and, therefrom his rearing an income, echoing whereof remained unshattered, of, its efficacy, (i) given the employer failing to lead any evidence in rebuttal thereof, rather carrying an echoing qua the agricultural income, reared by the workman, during, the period of his disengagement or termination or retrenchment, being comprised in a sum equivalent, to the income, as, derived, by him, from his relevant employment, (ii) whereupon a firm inference, is sparked, qua the quantum of back wages assessed by the learned tribunal, vis-a-vis, the workman also not suffering from any gross fallibility.

7. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit in the instant petition, and, it is dismissed accordingly. The impugned verdict is affirmed and maintained. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

Through, the instant appeal, the appellants challenge the verdict recorded by the learned First Appellate Court, upon, Civil Appeal No. 34 of 2009, wherethrough, the learned First Appellate Court, after reversing, the verdict pronounced by the learned Civil Judge concerned, upon Civil Suit No. 201 of 1997, proceeded to make an order, of, remand to the learned trial Court, for its hence rendering a decision afresh, in accordance with law, upon, the afore civil suit.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiffs had instituted a civil suit for declaration with consequential relief of permanent injunction against defendants No.1 and 2 that they had been joint owners in possession of the land described in the plaint. The defendants No.1 and 2 had no right, title or interest over the suit land. They had been recorded in possession of the suit land vide orders dated 17.7.1984/19.6.1985 passed in case No.341/81, 343/84 and 344/84 by Assistant Collector 2nd Grade, Una. Such orders were stated wrong, illegal, void and not binding on the plaintiffs. The defendants had started interfering with the possession of the plaintiffs on the strength of such orders, w.e.f. July 1997. They had been requested not to do so, but without any result and, hence the suit for declaration and injunction. In the alternative the plaintiffs had sought relief of possession in case defendants were successful in taking forcible possession or had been otherwise treated in possession.

3. The defendants No.1 and 2 contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, they have taken preliminary objection qua maintainability,estoppel, limitation, non joinder and valuation. It had also been averred that some of the plaintiffs were minor and suit on their behalf without appointment of guardians was incompetent. On merits, the defendants had denied the ownership and possession of the plaintiffs of the suit land. The defendants had stated that they had been in possession of suit land for over 40 years prior to the institution of the suit. The possession of the defendants was open, hostile, continuous without interruption and hence adverse to the plaintiffs. The defendants had acquired rights of ownership by adverse possession. During the last settlement, Smt. Bimla Devi and other co-owners had applied for correction of entries of the books of the Collector. The settlement men had looked into the matter and had found the defendants in possession. The Assistant Collector 2nd Grade, after notice to the owners had proceeded to record the defendants in possession of the suit land vide order 17.7.1984/189.6.1985 passed in case Nos. 341/84, 343/84 and 344/84. Shri Parkash Chand one of the owners had also admitted the possession of the defendant before the A.C. 2nd Grade. The plaintiffs were bound by the orders passed by the A.C. 2nd Grade. The defendants had been in possession and hence question of their interference with the possession of the plaintiff could not arise for consideration. The suit had not been instituted by all the co-owners and hence suffered from the vice of non joinder.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs are owners in possession of the suit land? OPP.
2. Whether orders dated 7.7.84/19.6.85 allegedly passed by A.C. IInd Grade, Una in cases NO.341/84, 343/84 and 344/84 are wrong, null and void, as alleged? OPP.
3. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.
4. Whether the defendants have became owners of the suit land by way of adverse possession? OPD.
5. Whether plaintiffs are estopped by their act and conduct to file present suit? OPD.
6. Whether the suit is barred by limitation? OPD.
7. Whether suit is bad for non joinder of necessary parties? OPD.
8. Whether suit has not been properly valued for the purpose of court fee, if so, what is correct valuation of the suit property? OPD.
9. Whether suit is liable to be dismissed on the ground mentioned in preliminary objection No.8? OPD.
10. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs/respondents herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by, the plaintiffs/respondents herein, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court allowed, the, appeal, and, reversed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court, and, hence, made a order of remand, vis-a-vis, the trial Court.

7. Now the defendants/appellants herein, have instituted the instant Appeal, before, this Court, wherein they assail the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment, by the learned first Appellate Court.

8. A perusal of the order rendered on 6.12.1999 by the learned Civil Judge (Jr. Division) concerned, unfolds, qua thereunder, the, following issues being struck, upon, the contentious pleadings of the parties, at contest:-

"1. Whether the plaintiffs are owners in possession of the suit land? OPP.

2. Whether orders dated 7.7.84/19.6.85 allegedly passed by A.C. IInd Grade, Una in cases NO.341/84, 343/84 and 344/84 are wrong, null and void, as alleged? OPP.

3. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.

4. Whether the defendants have became owners of the suit land by way of adverse possession? OPD.

5. Whether plaintiffs are estopped by their act and conduct to file present suit? OPD.

6. Whether the suit is barred by limitation? OPD.

7. Whether suit is bad for non joinder of necessary parties? OPD.

8. Whether suit has not been properly valued for the purpose of court fee, if so, what is correct valuation of the suit property? OPD.

9. Whether suit is liable to be dismissed on the ground mentioned in preliminary objection No.8? OPD.

10. Relief."

However, the learned trial Court rendered, hence, answers in the affirmative, upon, issues No.7 and 9, and, obviously further answered qua hence, the, other issues rather being rendered redundant, and, thereafter it proceeded to dismiss the suit, as abated. In an appeal carried therefrom by the aggrieved plaintiff, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter, under, the impugned verdict, rather made an order of remand, vis-a-vis, the learned trial Court.

9. The apt conundrum which, is, enjoined to be put, to rest, (I) squarely rests upon attraction hereat, of, the statutory mandate embodied in Order 14, Rule 2 of the CPC, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "2. Court to pronounce judgment on all issues—(1) Notwithstanding that a case may be disposed of on a preliminary issue, the Court shall, subject to the provisions of sub-rule (2), pronounce judgment on all issues.
>
> (2) where issues both of law and of fact arise in the same suit, and the Court is of opinion that the case or any part thereof may be disposed of on an issue of law only, it may try that issue first if that issue relates to,
>
> (a) the jurisdiction of the Court, or
>
> (b) a bar to the suit, created by any law for the time being in force,
> and for that purpose may, if it thinks fit, postpone the settlement of the other issues until after that issue has been determined, and may deal with the suit in accordance with the decision on that issue."

In sub-rule (2) thereof, a clear statutory expostulation, is borne qua (a), when upon, the contentious pleadings of the parties at contest, issues both of law and facts hence being hence sparked, (b) and, conspicuously when at the stage prior to the strking of all the issues, the Court, is of a firm opinion that the suit being amenable, for disposal, only upon an issue of law,(c) appertaining to the jurisdiction of the court, (d) or the suit being barred by any law for the time being in force, (e) thereupon, the trial Court concerned, being bestowed, with a jurisdiction, to postpone the settlement of issues of fact, until, the afore issue(s) of law, are/is, meted an adjudication thereon. However, hereat, under, the afore extracted order pronounced on 6.12.1999, apparently all the issues of facts, and, of law, rather stood conjointly struck, by the learned trial Court, (f) obviously, though hence, the learned trial Court, was bestowed with the apt jurisdiction, embodied in sub-rule (2) to Rule (2) of Order 14 of the CPC, to, prior to the striking of all the afore conjoint issues, of fact, and, of law, (g) to rather proceed to strike only issue(s), appertaining to the jurisdiction of Court, and, qua the suit being barred by any law for the time being in force, (h) and, upto meteing, of, a decision thereon, the trial Court, though, was bestowed with a further valid jurisdiction, to postpone, the settlement of issues, appertaining to the contentious facts, emerging inter se the litigating parties, (i) and, when adoption of the afore course, rather would hence validate any affirmative/disaffirmative findings recorded, upon, the afore issues of law, AND, would depending, upon, conclusion being meted thereon, also hold jurisdiction, to, non suit the plaintiff or proceed to strike also issues, of, fact. However, when hereat through the order rendered, on 6.12.1999, rather conjoint issues of fact, and, of law hence stood framed, thereupon, the learned trial Court was barred, to segregate the issues of facts, and, of law, rather was enjoined to render findings, upon, all issues of facts, and, of law, than to proceed, to render findings only, upon, issues appertaining to (a) jurisdiction of the court, or (b) civil suit being barred by any law for the time being in force, render affirmative findings, (c) and, thereafter proceed, to without answering the other issues, of, fact hence non suit the plaintiff. In coming to the afore conclusion, this Court finds support, from a judgment rendered, by the Division Bench of this Court, in a case titled as Prithvi Raj Jhingta and another vs. Gopal Singh and another, reported in 2006(2) Shim. LC 441, the relevant paragraph No.9 whereof stands extracted hereinafter:-

> "9. Based upon the aforesaid reasons therefore, and in the light of legislative background of Rule 2 and the legislative intent as well as mandate based upn such background, as well as on its plain reading, we have no doubt in our minds that except in situations perceived or warranted under sub-rule (2) where a Court in fact frames only issues of law in the first instance and postpones settlement of other issues, under sub-rule (1), clearly and explicitly in situations where the Court has framed all issues together, both of law as well as facts and has also tried all these issues together, it is open to the Court in such a situation to adopt the principle of severability and proceed to decide issues of law first, without taking up simultaneously other issues for decision. This course of action is not available to a Court because sub-rule (1) does not permit the Court to adopt any such principle of severability and to dispose of a suit only on preliminary issues, or what can be termed as issues of law. Sub-rule (1) clearly mandates that in a situation contemplated under it, where all the issues have been framed together and have also been taken up for adjudication during the course of trial, these must be decided together and the judgment in the suit as a whole must be pronounced by the Court covering all the issues frame din the suit."

The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of the material on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court has not excluded germane, and, apposite material from consideration.

10. In summa, the order of remand made by the learned First Appellate Court, bears consonance, with the afore extracted trite expostulations of law, borne in the judgment (supra), thereupon, the order impugned before this Court, is well merited. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal, and, it is dismissed accordingly. The order impugned before this Court, is, affirmed and maintained. The parties are directed to appear before the learned trial Court on 28th December, 2018. The learned trial Court is directed to dispose of the apposite civil suit, within, six months from today. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back forthwith.

For Respondents No. 1 to 5: Ms. Nishi Goel, Advocate.
Respondents No.6 and 7 already ex-parte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The Insurer of the offending vehicle, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, it, casts a challenge, upon, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-II, Solan, H.P., upon, Claim Petition No. 5-NL/2 of 2009, whereunder, compensation amount comprised, in, a sum of Rs.3,34,000/- along with interest accrued thereon, at the rate of 9% per annum, commencing from, the date of petition till realization thereof, stood, assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimants, and, the apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, was, fastened upon the insurer.

2. Without delving, into, the merits of the case, and, upon the merit(s) of an espousal, reared before this Court by the learned counsel for the insurer, for, hence negating, the, fastening, of, the indemnificatory, liability, vis-a-vis, it, (i) the fact germane to the afore espousal, is, comprised in the factum of this Court, while, rendering a pronouncement, upon, FAO No. 269 of 2011, as arose herebefore, against, the award pronounced, upon, claim petition No. 5-NL/23 of 2009, titled as Surat Ram and others vs. Ramesh Kumar and others, petition whereof is alike the one, whereupon the impugned award is pronounced, (ii) rather proceeding, after accepting the owner's appeal, to hence remand the matter to the learned tribunal concerned, to render fresh decision(s), upon, the hereinafter extracted issues:-

> "2. If issue No.1 is proved in affirmative, to what amount and from whom the petitiners are entitled for compensation? OPP
> 4. Whether the vehilce in question was driven in breach of terms and conditions of policy?OPR-3"

The relevant portion of the order of remand made by this Court, upon, the afore FAO, reads as under:-

> "15. Having glance of the above discussion, the findings recorded by the Tribunal on issue No2, partly and issue No.4 are set aside and the case is remanded to the Tribunal below for recording findings afresh on the aforesaid issues. Needless to say, in order to prove issue No.2 (partly) and issue No.4, the tribunal shall afford opportunity to the driver and the owner to file replies and lead evidence. The insurer shall also be afforded opportunity to lead evidence. The Tribunal is directed to conclude the case, as above within three months from 1st July, 2016, on which date, the parties through their respective counsel are directed to cause appearance before the Tribunal."

3. A perusal of the zimni orders existing, on the file of the learned tribunal concerned, (i) reveals, that though the insurer was provided sufficient and adequate opportunities to adduce its evidence, upon, the afore issues, nonetheless, it omitted to do so. However, during the pendency of the instant appeal before this Court, the insurer, has cast an application before this Court, under, the provisions of Order 41, Rule 27 of the CPC, application whereof bears CMP No. 1922 of 2017, (ii) wherethrough, it seeks leave of the Court to adduce into evidence, the, Investigator's report, with, an echoing borne therein qua the driving licence held by the driver, of the offending vehicle, being both fake, and, unauthentic. Even though, the afore endeavour, is, belated, and remained unavailed, despite, opportunities being granted by the learned tribunal, upon its receiving the apposite petition, upon, an order of remand made, upon it, by this Court, (iii) yet when for want of leave being granted to the insurer, it would sequel an ill-consequence, of, the apt indemnificatory liability, being prima facie rather standing untenably fastened, upon, the insurer, (iv) thereupon, the granting, of, leave to place on record, the, investigator's report is imperative, hence, for ensuring the rendition of clinching findings, upon, the apt issue, (v) thereupon, the relevant document is both, just and essential for determining the relevant factum probandum. Consequently, CMP No.1922 of 2017 is allowed, in sequel, leave is granted to the insurer, to, place on record,, the, investigator's report.

4. Since, the investigator's report did not exist, on the file of the learned tribunal, given it standing placed, on record, before this Court, hence, for enabling the learned tribunal, to receive, from the contesting litigants, hence, evidence qua its validity or invalidity, it is deemed fit, to, after quashing the findings, recorded upon issue No.2 and 4, and, upon the relief clause, to remand the matter, to the learned tribunal, (i) with, a direction upon it, to, permit the adduction into evidence, of, the investigator's report, and, to enable its being proven, in accordance with law, (ii) and, to also enable the litigating parties to lead rebuttal evidence, and, thereafter the learned tribunal, is, directed to, pronounce a fresh decision, upon, the aforesaid issues. The aforesaid exercise be done within three months from today. The parties are directed to appear before the learned tribunal, on 4th January, 2019. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

All the aforesaid appeals are being disposed off, by a common judgment, as they appertain to a common incident, besides common questions of fact, and, law are involved in these appeals.

2. The owner of the offending vehicle, being aggrieved, by the impugned awards, respectively, pronounced, upon, MACT NO. 196/2015, MACT No. 195 of 2015, MACT No. 191 of 2015, and, MACT No. 192 of 2015, whereunder, the liability of compensation amount respectively assessed, vis-a-vis, the respective claimants, hence, stand fastened upon him, hence, casts a challenge, vis-a-vis, the affirmative findings recorded, upon, issues appertaining therewith, issues whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> " 4. Whether the offending vehicle was over loaded with 21 passengers at the time of the accident against its seating capacity? OPR-1
> 5. Whether the offending vehicle was being driven in violation of the Motor Vehicle Act/rules as alleged? OPR-1"

3. The insured/owner of the offending vehicle, in his endeavour to negate the findings returned, upon, the afore issues, by the learned tribunal, was enjoined to adduce clinching evidence on record, (a) in trite display qua the passengers concerned, while travelling in the ill-fated vehicle, rather being at the relevant time, hence standing carried thereon along with their goods loaded therein. However, pleadings reared in the respective claim petitions, contrarily, make a candid display qua rather the respective claimants, being aboard, the, ill-fated vehicle, for theirs paying obeisance, at, a temple, (b) also in the apt averment, borne in the apposite paragraph 24, of, the respective claim petitions, no averment is borne therein, qua theirs while being aboard, the, offending vehicle, theirs also carrying, their goods therein. The afore averred averments hence constitute, an, admission qua the claimants obviously, at the relevant time, travelling as gratuitous passengers, in the vehicle registered, as a goods carrier, (c) as evident, on a reading of the copy of the registration certificate, issued qua the offending vehicle, and, as embodied in Ex. RC, (d) thereupon, when the contract of insurance, respectively borne in Ex.RB, rather permits carrying therein of passengers along with their goods, being also borne therein, (e) thereupon, the afore averred acquiesced capacity of the passengers, constitutes a pervasive, and, deep fundamental breach, of the contract of insurance, executed, inter se, the owner, and, the insurer of the offending vehicle, (f) thereupon, the fastening of the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the owner of the offending vehicle by the learned tribunal, is both meritworthy, and, tenable.

4. Even though, this Court, has, for reason aforesaid, hence concluded qua the fastening of the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the owner of the offending vehicle rather not suffering from, any infirmity, nonetheless, in consonance with the verdicts of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Baljit Kaur, reported in (2004)2 SCC 1 as also in a case titled as Deedappa v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., reported in (2008)1 SCC (Cri) 517, the insurer company shall satisfy the award, and, shall have the right to, in accordance with law, hence recover, the, amount deposited by it, along with interest, from, the owner of the vehicle i.e. appellant(s) herein.

5. For the foregoing reasons, all the aforesaid appeals filed by the owner of the offending vehicle are dismissed. However, the awards impugned before this Court, are, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The Insurer of the offending vehicle, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, it, casts, a, challenge, upon, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shimla, H.P., upon, M.A.C.T. No. 4-S/2 of 2009, whereunder, compensation amount comprised, in, a sum of Rs.1,47,804/-alongwith costs, and, interest accruing thereon, borne in, a, the rate of 9% per annum, and, commencing from, the date of petition till realization thereof, stood, assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimant, and, the apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, was, fastened upon the insurer/appellant herein.

2. The learned counsel appearing or the appellant/insurer, (i) does not contest, the validity, of, the affirmative findings, rendered by the learned tribunal, upon, issue No.1, appertaining to the relevant accident, being, a, sequel of rash, and, negligent manner, of, driving of the offending vehicle, by one Ramesh Kumar, respondent No.2 herein, (ii) nor he casts any challenge, upon, the quantum of compensation assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimant, besides, he does not contest the disaffirmative findings rendered, upon, the apposite issue appertaining to the driver of the offending vehicle, not, possessing, a, valid and effective driving licence, at the relevant time, to hence drive the offending vehicle, (iii) rather his contest is limited to the extant qua with the contract of insurance, borne in Ex.RW1/A, being executed inter se the insurer, and, one Malkiyat Singh, and, with the afore Malkiyat Singh neither standing impleaded as a party, nor his instituting a reply to the petition, (iv) whereas, he was solitarily entitled to be indemnified by the insurer, for the injuries, sustained by the claimant, in the relevant mishap, (v) given only the afore Malkiyat Singh, being privity to the contract, of, insurance, borne in Ex.RW1/A, thereupon, rather rendered his impleadment to be both, necessary, and, imperative. However, the aforesaid submission, would, contain immense vigour, (vi) only when the insurer, had, proven that Malkiyat Singh, was a fictitious person, and, the contract of insurance, borne in Ex.RW1/A was fictitious, or stood engendered by vice, of, misrepresentation, (vii) evidence whereof, is, grossly amiss hereat, and, further when rather the further transfer, of the offending vehicle has evidently occurred subsequent, to, the occurrence, vis-a-vis, Rameshwar Singh, and, when the transfer has resulted in the apt R.C. being drawn, vis-a-vis, Rameshwar Singh, (viii) thereupon, when, at the relevant time, hence Rameshwar Singh was driving the offending vehicle, (ix) and, when he has been aptly concluded, to be holding, an effective driving licence to drive it, (x) besides, when the name of Rameshwar Singh, occurs in Ex. RW1/B, to be rather the addressee, appertaining to the insurer one Malkiyat Singh, (xi) thereupon, there was no absolute need for begetting impleadment of Malkiyat Singh, as a party to the lis, even when he was privy to the contract of insurance, rather when Ex.RW1/A stood tendered into evidence by the insurer, and, also its standing drawn, vis-a-vis, the offending vehicle, thereupon, dehors it being issued, vis-a-vis, Malkiyat Singh, rather renders the insurer, for being saddled with the liability, to, indemnify, the, compensation amount.

3. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit in the instant appeal, and, it is dismissed accordingly. The impugned award is maintained and affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

FAO No. 258 of 2012.

Decided on : 17th December, 2018.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988- Section 166 - Motor accident- Claim application- Recitals of FIR- Relevancy- Held, contents of FIR giving manner of occurrence of accident cannot be relied upon if not proved by informant. (Para 2)

For the Appellant: Ms. Devyani Sharma, Advocate.
For Respondent No. 2: Mr. Nimish Gupta, Advocate.

Respondent No.1 ex-parte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The Insurer of the offending vehicle, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, it, casts, a, challenge, upon, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Chamba, H.P., upon, MAC No. 179/2011/2010-T, whereunder, compensation amount comprised, in, a sum of Rs.1,41,000/- alongwith interest accrued thereon, at the rate of 7.5% per annum, and, commencing from, the date of petition till realization thereof, stood, assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimant, and, the apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, was, fastened upon the insurer/appellant herein.

2. The learned counsel appearing for the appellant/insurer, has, contended with much vigour before this Court (i) that, with, at the relevant time, the, claimant hence traveling as, a, gratuitous passenger, in, the offending vehicle, whereas, the contract of insurance borne in Ex. Rx, prohibiting, the carrying, upon, the offending vehicle, and, in the afore capacity, rather the claimant, (ii) thereupon, with, hence, evident fundamental breach of contract of insurance, borne in Ex. Rx, rather erupting, (iii) thereupon, the fastening of the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer being amenable for reversal. However, the aforesaid espousal is not borne, by the apt evidence existing on record, given (a) the claimant while appearing as PW-6, hence testifying, qua, at the relevant time, his trudging, at the relevant site of occurrence, and, thereat, the offending while, while being driven in a rash and negligent manner, by respondent No.1 (before the tribunal), its striking him; (b) further his testifying that in sequel thereto, his sustaining injuries, on his person; (c) the afore echoing borne in his testification, qua the ill fated occurrence, though, is contrary to the one, borne in the FIR, embodied in Ex.PW2/A, lodged at the instance of Narender Kumar, wherein, rather echoings hence supportive of the afore espousal reared, before this Court by the learned counsel for the appellant, hence, exist; (d) yet no reliance can be meted to the recitals borne in Ex.PW2/A, given, the informant thereof, one Narender Kumar not stepping into the witness box, for, hence proving the afore echoings, borne in Ex.PW2/A. The effect thereof being, the uneroded testification of the claimant, carrying therein obviously contra therewith recitals, as, borne in Ex.PW2/A, getting hence cogently proven. The corollary of the aforesaid inference, is, qua the claimant proving, that, his at the relevant time, hence, not traveling as, a, gratuitous passenger in the offending vehicle, rather his proving qua at the relevant time, his rather trudging on the road. Further, sequel thereof, is that the fastening of the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer, not being ingrained with any gross fallibility.

3. The learned counsel, appearing for the insurer, has also contended, that with the offending vehicle, not, at the relevant time, possessing the apt route permit, hence, the fastening of the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer, rather warranting interference. The afore contention, is, dispelled by the existence on record, of, a copy of route permit, borne in Ex. Z-1, and, with no evidence being adduced by the insurer, that, the afore route permit, at the time of its issuance, was not, accompanied by the apt fitness certificate, issued by the licencing authority concerned, thereupon, it is to be firmly concluded qua the fastening of the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer rather being both, apt and tenable.

4. Even though, the claimant, has admitted qua , in sequel, to his sustaining injuries on his person, his not being entailed with any disability, yet the effect thereof, is qua, it, not impairing the claim, for, compensation, as, assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimant, by the learned tribunal, (a) given its appertaining, to, the requisite expenditure incurred by the claimant towards, purchase of medicines, (b) towards special diet, and, towards services of an attendant, and, other ancillary charges, (c) and also the claim of compensation, assessed under the head of transportation charges, likewise also does not merit any interference. Moreover, the assessment of compensation, vis-a-vis, the claimant, under, the head "shock, pain suffering and discomfort", comprised in a sum of Rs.50,000/- is also just and fair. Accordingly, it also does not merit any interference.

5. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit in the instant appeal, and, it is dismissed accordingly. The award impugned before this Court is maintained and affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

(Para 4)

For the Appellants: Mr. Arvind Sharma, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Hemant Vaid and Mr. Desh Raj Thakur, Addl. A.Gs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The claimants/appellants herein, standing aggrieved, by the award pronounced by the learned Reference Court, upon, Land Reference No. 14-S/4 of 2011, hence, motioned this Court, through the instant appeal, cast under the provisions of Section 54 of the Land Acquisition Act.

2. The claimants, had, in the apposite reference petition transmitted to the learned Reference Court, by the Collector concerned, hence, projected qua theirs being entitled to compensation borne in a sum of Rs.15,000/- per sq. meter. The afore projection, stood aptly declined, by the learned Reference Court, given (a) no sale exemplar bearing proximity in location, vis-a-vis, the lands brought to acquisition, being adduced into evidence, (b) nor also any apposite sale exemplar, being tendered into evidence, for, bearing out the further trite principle(s) qua there existing proximity inter se execution thereof, and, the issuance of the notification, whereunder the claimants' land, stood, brought to acquisition.

3. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the appellants/claimants, has contended with much vigour, before this Court, (i) that the Collector concerned was enjoined to revere, the, apposite one year average market value, of, lands appertaining, to, the Halqua concerned, wherewithin, the acquired lands were located. He contends that the one year average market value, of, lands appertaining, vis-a-vis, the halqua concerned, and, as, determined by the District Collector, Shimla, hence, to stand comprised, in a sum of Rs.5,495.39 per square meter, rather comprised the just, reasonable, and, equitable parameter, for, on anvil thereof, making hence assessment, of, fair compensation, vis-a-vis, the acquired land.

4. The one year average market value, as drawn by the District Collector, Shimla, bears out, the afore submission addressed before this Court, by the learned counsel for the appellant However, the Collector concerned, had discarded the afore one year average market value of land, as determined by the District Collector, Shimla, on the ground (a) qua the sale consideration(s), appertaining, vis-a-vis, the, apposite sale exemplar(s), as, borne in the mind by him, in his making the afore computation rather also carrying therein, the, value of structure(s) existing, upon, the relevant lands; (b) thereupon, the Collector concerned, after, deducting from the sale consideration, the value, of, structure(s) existing, on the land(s) qua wherewith sale deed(s) stood executed, thereafter proceeded to assess compensation, vis-a-vis, the acquired lands, borne in a sum of Rs.4,310/- per square meter. The afore method adopted by the Collector concerned, would carry immense formidability, upon, there existing on record (a) the apt valuation report(s) prepared by the valuer(s) concerned, vis-a-vis, the apposite sale exemplar(s), (b) with, clear depictions therein, that, the value of the structure existing upon the land, qua wherewith the sale deeds stood executed, being prepared both with respect to the structure(s) as well as qua the land(s), whereon, the structure(s) existed, (c) and, therefrom it would be further decipherable qua hence obviously, the, value of the structure being or being not borne, in mind by the valuer concerned, for, hence, his obviously drawing, the, valuation report(s) qua therewith.The aforesaid evidence is abysmally lacking, thereupon, it is to be concluded, that, the Collector concerned, has arbitrarily proceeded (d) to conclude that the value of the structure(s) existing on the lands qua wherewith the apposite sale exemplar stood executed, being solitarily borne in mind, by the valuer(s) concerned, and, the lands whereon they existed, being discarded, (e) and, thereupon, the learned Collector concerned, has, further proceeded, to, arbitrarily, discard the value of the land whereon, the structure(s) existed, (f) whereas, the value of the structure as well as of the land(s), whereon they existed, were both required to be hence borne in mind, by the valuer(s) concerned, in his/their making value(s) thereof. The clinching effect thereof, (g) is that, it was grossly inappropriate, for the Collector concerned, to proceed to segregate, the apt component(s), of, the structure(s) existing on the land(s), in respect whereof, the apposite sale exemplar(s) stood executed, from, the apposite lands, whereon, they existed, (h) AND, thereupon, it appears that in consonance therewith rather the District Collector Shimla, has, apparently aptly computed the one year average value of the land, to stand borne, in a sum of Rs.5,495.30 per square meter.

5. Be that as it may, even if assumingly, the afore conclusion, may not be well rested, nonetheless, all the apposite sale exemplars, on anvil whereof, the District Collector, Shimla, hence, computed the one year average market value, of, land(s), existing in the halqua concerned, to be borne in a sum of Rs.5,495.39 per square meter, (I) when evidently appertain to the month of May, of, the year 2006, (ii) whereas, the lands of the claimants, were brought to acquisition in July, 2007, hence, after more than a year elapsing, since, the execution of the aforesaid sale exemplars. Consequently, the aforesaid elapse of time, hence, since the execution of the apposite sale exemplars, and, the issuance of the statutory notification, for bringing to acquisition, the lands of the claimants, obviously entailed some per centum of hikes being meted towards escalation, in costs or prices of lands, existing in the halqua concerned, from, Rs.4,310/- per square meter, (iii) and, the afore per centum of escalation, does also obviously, support the computation, of, one year average market value, drawn by the District Collector, Shimla, to hence stand borne in a sum of Rs.5,495.39 sq. meter.

6. For the foregoing reasons, the instant appeal is allowed, and, the market value of the acquired land, is, assessed at Rs.5,495/- per square meter, irrespective of the kind, and, nature of the land, at the time of notification, issued under Section 4 of the Act, and, on the aforesaid adjudged market value of the land, the appellants/landowners are also held entitled, to all the statutory benefits. Consequently, the impugned award is modified to the above extent only. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back forthwith.

Indian Evidence Act, 1872- Sections 64 & 65- Photocopy- Held, photocopy is not primary evidence- Contents of photocopy cannot be read in evidence unless permission to adduce its secondary evidence is sought and allowed by Court. (Para 7)

For the Appellant: Mr.Neeraj Gupta, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Prashant Sharma and Mr. Ajeet Sharma, Advocates vice to Mr. Rajiv Jiwan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal is directed, against, the impugned verdict recorded, upon, Civil Appeal No.47 of 2003, by the learned First Appellate Court, whereby, it reversed the verdict pronounced by the learned trial Court, upon, Civil Suit No.86/1 of 2001, whereunder, the latter Court, had, decreed the plaintiff's suit, for rendition of a decree, for, permanent prohibitory injunction.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff filed a suit for permanent prohibitory injunction against the defendants. It is averred that she is resident of ward No.1 near temple Shree Naina Devi Ji and is in possession of suit property. It was averred that late Shri Roshan Lal, father-in-law of the plaintiff was owner of huge property including building at different places at Shree Naina Devi Ji consisting of more than 80 rooms. Defendant No.1 had contracted second marriage which was illegal and void, and, therefore, to keep peace in the family in 1986, Roshan Lal, father-in-law of the plaintiff had given the suit property to the plaintiff, who was put in possession of the same also and continued in possession of the same. Roshan Lal died in 1998 and the plaintiff had been enjoying the suit property given in her maintenance and as a charge created against this property. It was further alleged that in March, 2001, defendants started interfering in peaceful possession of the plaintiff over the suit land and plaintiff approached the Municipal Panchayat of Shri Naina Devi Ji in which compromise was arrived at and it was agreed that the management of the suit property will remain in the hands of the plaintiff who will be entitled to all the income from the suit property and will pay allowances to her husband for his maintenance. It was further alleged that in the first week of August, 2001, defendants started interfering in possession of the plaintiff and she lodged a complaint with S.D.M. Bilaspur and in October, 2001, the defendants have again threatened to dispossess her forcibly from the suit property, hence, the suit filed by the plaintiff.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, they have taken preliminary objections qua maintainability, cause of action, estoppel and jurisdiction They also pleaded that the plaintiff was not the wife of defendant No.1. Defendants further pleaded that the plaintiff was not resident of Shree Naina Devi Ji, nor she was in possession of the suit land. The property of deceased has been inherited by defendants, whereas, the plaintiff has no right, title or interest in the suit property. It was also pleaded that the plaintiff is residing near Ghanahati, District Shimla, where she is employed as a teacher and suit property was never given to her by any person, and as such, the suit is liable to be dismissed.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for permanent injunction as prayed for? OPP.
2. Whether in alternative the plaintiff is entitled for the possession, as prayed for? OPP
3. Whether the suit was not maintainable as alleged? OPD.
4. Whether the plaintiff has no legal enforceable cause of action, as alleged? OPD.
5. Whether the plaintiff is estopped to file this suit as alleged? OPD.
6. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff/appellant herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the defendants/respondents herein before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court allowed the appeal, and, reversed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

6. Now the plaintiff/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein she assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, this Court, on 15.7.2005, admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiff/appellant against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on, the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

a) Whether the Lower Appellate Court has committed grave error of law in holding Ex.PA to be inadmissible evidence for want of production of original by ignoring the admissions made by the defendant No.1 was signatory to the Ex.PA? Was not Ex.PA material document liable to be considered for determining the controversy involved in the proceedings when defendant No.1 himself admitted the said document to be correct and also acknowledged the conditions mentioned therein?

b) Whether the Lower Appellate Court has committed grave procedural error I reversing the well reasoned findings of the Trial Court with wrong premises that such findings are based on inadmissible documents i.e. Ex. PA?

c) Whether the Lower Appellate Court has acted with material illegality and irregularity in recording the findings that marriage between the plaintiff and defendant No.1 was also void marriage when there was neither any issue nor such dispute arose from the pleadings of the parties?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 to 4:

7. The entire fulcrum of the lis, hence, engaging the parties at contest, is, squarely rested, upon, valid, and, permissible proof, being adduced by the plaintiff, vis-a-vis, the execution of Ex.PA, (i) given thereunder hers rather staking a claim for rendition of a decree, for permanent prohibitory injunction. Ex.PA is a photo copy. The recitals borne in Ex.PA, and, the signatures of all the signatories thereto, obviously, when are borne in a photo copy, thereupon, per se, the, afore obviously, is, not primary evidence, vis-a-vis, the relevant factum probandum. The further effect thereof is qua Ex.PA being inadmissible in evidence, (ii) besides all the contents thereof not carrying any probative vigour or any evidentiary worth, (iii) the afore stains gripping Ex.PA, were, however erasable, upon, the plaintiff being permitted to, upon, hers begetting satiation of the principles enshrined in Section 65, of, the Indian Evidence Act, to, adduce, hence, Ex. PA, as secondary evidence, vis-a-vis, original thereof. The records appertaining to the civil suit No. 86/1 of 2001, omit to make disclosures qua the aforesaid endeavour being recoursed by the plaintiff. Consequently, the rigor of the statutory bar, against, the afore photo copy being inadmissible in evidence, with, the further concomitant effect of all, the, recitals borne therein, being unreadable, besides not carrying any evidentiary worth rather begetting their mightiest attraction, vis-a-vis, Ex.PA.

8. However, the learned counsel appearing for the appellant/plaintiff has contended with much vigour (i) that with the defendant in his cross-examination, hence, admitting, the execution of Ex.PA, and, in his cross-examination, also his, making further echoing that it stood drawn, vis-a-vis, the suit property, (ii) thereupon, the rigor of the afore statutory bar being relaxed, and, thereupon, Ex.PA, dehors the apt recoursing being made by the plaintiff, the afore being admissible and readable in evidence. The aforesaid contention addressed before this Court by the learned counsel, for the appellant is unmeritworthy, for the reasons, (a) that a closest reading of Ex.PA, rather making a vivid, and, graphic echoing, qua Ex.PA also carrying, the, signatures, of, the Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat concerned, besides the signatures of other co-signatories thereto also existing thereon, (b) the existence of afore signatures therein, necessitated, candid apposite proof rather emanating from the Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat concerned, besides enjoined proof of signatures of all the co-signatories thereof, comprised in each of them, stepping into the witness box, for hence proving, the, existence of their valid signatures thereon. However, neither the Pradhan of the Gram Panchayat concerned nor all the signatories thereof, (c) apart from the plaintiff or one Prabhat Kumar, hence stepped, into the witness box, for hence proving, the, existence(s) thereon, of, their respective valid signatures thereon, (d) whereas, proof qua therewith was imperative, for thereafter securing clinching finding, qua Ex.PA, being free from any taint of concoctions, spuriousness, and, fictitiousness. Contrarily, non adduction of the aforesaid evidence, does, prima facie render Ex.PA, to, stand ingrained, with vices of spuriousness, and, fictitiousness, and, the further effect thereof is qua Ex.PA, hence, being neither admissible or readable in evidence nor the plaintiff being entitled to derive any capitalization therefrom.

9. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court being based, upon, a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court has not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the respondents/defendants, and, against the plaintiffs/appellants.

10. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in the instant Regular Second Appeal, and, it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the judgement and decree rendered by the learned District Judge, Bilaspur, H.P., upon, Civil Appeal No. 47 of 2003, is affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The suit filed by the plaintiff for permanent prohibitory injunction has been declined by both the learned Courts below and aggrieved thereby, he has filed the instant regular second appeal. The parties hereinafter shall be referred as 'plaintiff' and 'defendants'.

2. The plaintiff filed a suit for permanent injunction against the defendants on the allegations that he is owner in possession of land comprised in Khata-Khatauni No.20/27, Khasra Nos. 16, 17, 18, 19, 21, 22, 23, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 77, 78, 79, 80, 82, 84, 117, 118, 120, 228, 292/1, 294, 295 and 305. It was averred that the entire suit land bears apple orchard out of which about 800 plants are on bearing stage and rest of the plants are at the age of 2 to 5 years. The plaintiff had also constructed a huge building in the orchard. The defendants hail from village Gumna which is about one and half kilometres away from the suit land and Devidhar Road is situated below the suit land. The suit land has been fenced with barbed wire and wall etc. It was further averred that the village of the defendants is situated above the suit land and there are two common paths from the time of ancestors for passing far away from the suit land. One of the paths passes through the Torsa Khad and another towards Devidhar side. The defendants are using the said path since the time of their ancestors, but recently, just to approach the main road through short-cut, the defendants started creating new path through the suit land which belongs to the plaintiff and the defendants have no right, title or interest to create new path through the suit land. It was also averred that the defendants falsely reported the matter to the police and the police did not find any path at the spot. The defendants threatened to create path through the suit land, so the plaintiff filed petition under Section 107/150 Cr. P.C. in the Court of SDM, Rohru. The defendants illegally uprooted 250 plants and potato crop from the suit land and after dismantling fencing and wall around the suit land caused damage of Rs.10,000/- to the plaintiff. The defendants did not resist from their illegal acts, hence, the suit.

3. The defendants contested the suit and raised preliminary objections about competency, plaintiff not coming to the Court with clean hands, estoppel and cause of action. On merits, it was averred that the old general public path starts from 'Shiv Mandir and passes through points a, b and c which have been shown in tatima by red dots and thereafter it passes through point 'd' and reaches at point 'e' and merges in Khasra No. 158 which is public thoroughfare. The aforesaid path was being used by the defendants and other general public continuously, openly, peacefully and without any interruption to the knowledge of the plaintiff since the time of their ancestors i.e. more than 60-70 years and this right of use of the path has matured in customary right of easement and the plaintiff has got no right to obstruct and block the said path. It was further averred that there was no other path for use by the defendants for reaching their houses and agricultural fields. The ancestral path of the defendants had been blocked by the plaintiff by digging and fencing with barbed wire which is a link between the hill top situated village Gumna and 'Shiv Mandir'. The defendants averred that the matter about obstruction of the path was brought to the notice of SDM, Rohru and Tehsildar, Chirgaon, who visited the spot and found that the plaintiff has caused blockade to the old ancestral path of the defendants by digging and fencing it with barbed wire at place Bhamani and also found that this blockade is a source of chronic nuisance to the residents of village Gumna and school children and also recommended stringent action to clear the path. The local police also visited the spot and found that the plaintiff had caused blockade to the ancestral path and petition under Section 133 Cr.P.C. had been presented against the plaintiff in the Court of SDM, Rohru. The dispute was between points 'B' and 'C' i.e. Khasra Nos. 305 and 294 which were previously 'Banjar Kadim' and the plaintiff planted apple plants in February, 2004. The defendants further averred that the path via 'Todsa Khad Nullah' passes through a dense forest and is full of monkeys and other wild animals and it is not possible for school children to pass through that path and in rainy season this 'Khad' is always in spate and during winter season this path is loaded with snow for 4 months and distance of this path to village Gumna is about 5 kilometres whereas the disputed path shown in tatima is only about 1.5 kilometres from 'Shiv Temple' to Gumna village. Devidhar is about 3 kilometres ahead of 'Todsa' and for that the defendants will have to go Devidhar and thereafter to come 'Todsa' which is about 9 kilometres. The Panchayat head quarter of residents of village Gumna, School, Health Sub-Centre and Food Distribution Society are at village 'Todsa' and the disputed path is the only shortest convenient path to the defendants and other residents of village Gumna.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the following issues were framed by the learned trial Court on 07.05.2004:-

"1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of injunction as prayed? OPP.

2. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is not legally competent? OPD.

3. Whether the right of the defendants has measured as easementary right over the disputed path which has been shown in the Tatima? OPD.

4. Whether the plaintiff has obstructed the ancestral path of the defendants by digging and fencing with barbed wire, as alleged? OPD.

5. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action? OPD.

6. Relief."

5. After recording evidence and evaluating the same, the suit filed by the plaintiff came to be dismissed and the appeal filed against the same was also dismissed by the learned first appellate Court constraining the plaintiff to file the instant appeal which was admitted on 03.01.2007 on the following substantial question of law:-

"Whether the defendants had not specifically claimed the passage through the land of the appellant/plaintiff by way of easement of prescription and, therefore, the finding returned by the two Courts below that they have acquired easementary right by prescription to pass through the land of the plaintiff, is bad?

6. Looking to the nature of question as framed, it would first be necessary to refer to the pleadings of the defendants regarding "easement". This plea is contained in para-2 of the written statement which reads thus:-

"2. That the plaintiff has not come to the Court with clean hands because he has concealed the material and vital facts from this Ld. Court. That as a matter of fact the old general public path starts from Shiv Mandir and passes through point a, b and c which has been shown in spot tatima by red dots and thereafter it passes through point d and reaches at point e and merges in Khasra No.158 which is public thoroughfare. The aforesaid path being used by the replying defendants and others and other general public continuously, openly, peacefully without any interruption to the knowledge of the plaintiff since the time of their ancestors i.e. for more than 60-70 years till now and this right of use of the path has matured in the customary right of easement and the plaintiff has got no right to obstruct and block the said path under the guise of this civil suit. There is no other path, which can be used by the defendants and other general public for reaching their houses and agricultural fields. The path in dispute has been shown in the tatima of spot prepared by the Halka Patwari, which is enclosed herewith."

7. It would be evidently clear from the above that what the defendants have claimed is a customary easement of pathway. Whereas, the learned trial Court gave no specific findings regarding nature of the easement. However, it was held that the defendants were using the path since the time of their ancestors openly, peacefully and uninterruptedly and this ancestral path of the defendants had been blocked by the plaintiff by digging and fencing it with barbed wire, therefore, he was not entitled to the injunction. Whereas, the learned first appellate Court specifically held that since the defendants had been using the path as a right for the last 20 years, therefore, they had acquired easmentary right to the user of the path. Therefore, in the given circumstances, the further question that arises for consideration is whether customary easement of pathway is the same as easement by prescription.

8. This question is no longer res integra in view of the judgment rendered by this Court in Lachhi and others versus Ghansara Singh, AIR 1972 HP 89, wherein it was held that the persons claiming customary easement have not only to prove the elements required under Section 15 of the Act, but also something more, namely, that the custom set up was ancient, continuous, reasonable, certain and compulsory. For easement by prescription, it is not necessary that the user should be exclusive, but the claimant should exercise it under some claim existing in his own favour independently of all others. A customary easement embraces the needs of variable persons belonging to a class or locality while a right by prescription is always personal. It shall be apposite to refer to the relevant observations as contained in para-6 of the judgment which read thus:-

"6. Before parting with this case, however, I would like to stress the distinction which exists under law between an easement based on prescription and an easement founded on custom. The basis of every right of easement by whatsoever method it may have been acquired, is theoretically a grant from the servient-owner. It may be expressed, as is mentioned in Sections 8 to 12 of the Act, or it may be implied from the circumstances as in Section 13 of the Act. or it may be presumed from long and continued user for a certain period as in Section 15 of the Act, or it may be inferred from a long and continued practice of user by a certain class of the public in certain locality. It is then to be seen on the basis of proper evidence as to what type of easement, if any, can be claimed by the plaintiff. Persons claiming a customary easement have not only to prove the elements required under Section 15 of the Act but also something more, namely, that the custom set up was ancient, continuous, reasonable, certain and compulsory. For easement by prescription, it is not necessary that the user should be exclusive, but the claimant should exercise it under some claim existing in his own favour independently of all others. Different persons may have a right of pasture over a land, but the plaintiff can nonetheless claim a right independent of others, provided the necessary conditions are satisfied. A customary easement, as is obvious, embraces the needs of variable persons belonging to a class or locality, while a right by prescription is always personal. These observations I have made, so that the evidence is properly appreciated, while the case goes back to lower Courts."

9. Thus, it is evidently clear that the learned first appellate Court failed to understand and draw distinction between the customary and prescriptive easement and, therefore, the judgment rendered by it is palpably wrong as it proceeds on the premise as if the case set up by the defendants was one based on prescriptive easement and not customary easement. In fact, the learned first appellate Court has not understood or rather misconstrued the concept of "easement" as set up by the defendants as it proceeded to record in para 19 of the judgment that the user of the path by the defendants was open, continuous and without interruption, but has not given any specific finding with regard to custom set up being ancient, continuous, reasonable, certain and compulsory. The learned first appellate Court has failed to draw a distinction between customary right from customary easement and proceeded on the premise that easement by prescription and customary easement are one and the same things,whereas, it is not so.

10. An easement can become absolute by prescription if the following conditions are satisfied:-

(i) there must be a pre-existing easement which must have been enjoyed by the dominant owner;

(ii) the enjoyment must have been peaceful;

(iii) the enjoyment must have been as an easement;

(iv) the enjoyment must have been as of right;

(v) the right must have been enjoyed peacefully;

(vi) the enjoyment must have been for a period of 20 years and;

(vii) the enjoyment for 20 years must have been without interruption.

11. Section 15 of the Easements Act reads thus:-

"15 Acquisition by prescription. -Where the access and use of light or air to and for any building have been peaceably enjoyed therewith, as an easement, without interruption, and for twenty years, and where support from one person's land, or things affixed thereto, has been peaceably received by another person's land subjected to artificial pressure, or by things affixed thereto, as an easement, without interruption, and for twenty years, and where a right of way or any other easement has been peaceably and openly enjoyed by any person claiming title thereto, as an easement and as of right, without interruption, and for twenty years, the right to such access and use of light or air, support or other easement shall be absolute.

Each of the said periods of twenty years shall be taken to be a period ending within two years next before the institution of the suit wherein the claim to which such period relates is contested.

Explanation I. -Nothing is an enjoyment within the meaning of this section when it has been had in pursuance of an agreement with the owner or occupier of the property over which the right is claimed, and it is apparent from the agreement that such right has not been granted as an easement, or if granted as an easement, that it has been granted for a limited period, or subject to a condition on the fulfilment of which it is to cease.

Explanation II. -Nothing is an interruption within the meaning of this section unless where there is an actual cessation of the enjoyment by reason of an obstruction by the act of some person other than the claimant, and unless such obstruction is submitted to or acquiesced in for one year after the claimant has notice thereof and of the person making or authorizing the same to be made.

Explanation III. -Suspension of enjoyment in pursuance of a contract between the dominant and servient owners is not an interruption within the meaning of this section.

Explanation IV. -In the case of an easement to pollute water, the said period of twenty years begins when the pollution first prejudices perceptibly the servient heritage.

When the property over which a right is claimed under this section belongs to the [1][Government], this section shall be read as if, for the words "twenty years" the words [2]["thirty years"] were substituted."

12. Customary easement, on the other hand, is dealt with in Section 18 of the Easement Act which reads thus:-

> "18. Customary easements.- An easement may be acquired in virtue of a local custom. Such easements are called customary easements."

13. These are rights arising out of custom but unappurtenant to a dominant tenement, but the custom must be reasonable and certain. An easement belongs to a determinate person or persons in respect of his or their land. A fluctuating body like the inhabitants of the locality cannot claim an easement. Easements are private rights belonging to particular persons while customary rights are public rights annexed to the place in general and it was for this reason that the defendants instead of setting up a simple case of easement had set up the plea of customary easement.

14. However, merely because the learned first appellate Court has failed to draw a distinction between customary rights and easement, the suit of the plaintiff cannot be decreed as the learned first appellate Court will still have to consider whether the defendants have been able to prove their customary rights or not. Undoubtedly, this question can even be determined by this Court, but in case such course is adopted, then one valuable channel/right of appeal would be lost.

15. The substantial question of law is answered in the aforesaid terms.

16. In view of the aforesaid findings, the appeal filed by the plaintiff is accepted and the matter is remanded back to the learned first appellate Court to decide specifically the question regarding the customary easement on the basis of the material already placed on record. Since the suit was filed way back in the year 2004, it is expected that the learned first appellate Court shall decide the appeal as expeditiously as possible and in no event later than 15th May, 2019.

17. The parties through their respective counsel(s) are directed to appear before the learned first appellate Court on 02.01.2019. Pending application, if any, also stands disposed of.

For the respondent : Mr. Hemant Vaid Addl. A.G. with Mr. Y.S. Thakur, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (oral)

The instant petition has been instituted by the bail petitioner, under, Section 439 Cr.P.C, for, his being released from judicial custody, wherein he is extantly lodged for his allegedly committing offence(s) punishable under Sections 363, 373, 506 of the Indian Penal Code, and, Section 4 of the Protection of Children From Sexual Offences Act (POCSO), in respect whereof, FIR No. 295 of 2016 of 23.12.2016, is lodged, at Police Station Solan, District Solan, Himachal Pradesh.

2. The learned Additional Advocate General, has, apprised this Court that, both, the prosecutrix, and, her mother hence resiling, from, their respectively recorded previous statements. However, he submits that the prosecutrix, may not, be construed to resile from her previous statement, recorded in writing, before the Magistrate concerned (i) even, when, she testified qua her making, the, afore previous statement, at the behest of the police, without, her further stating that she was compelled, by the Investigating Officer, to render the afore statement, before the learned Magistrate concerned. However, the afore submission made before this Court, by the learned Additional Advocate General, is not accepted, (ii) given the prosecutrixs' testification qua hers making the afore statement under Section 164, before the learned Magistrate concerned, at the behest of the police, rather hence holding/tinges, of, it being prima facie construable, to be a tutored statement. Furthermore, when the prosecutrix was confronted, with, the affirmative report, made by the FSL concerned, upon the relevant items, sent thereat for examination, she has feigned ignorance qua collection thereof occurring at her instance, thereupon the incriminatory effect of any affirmative DNA report, made by the FSL concerned, upon, the relevant items, is visibly effaced.

3. The bail-applicant/accused is suffering judicial incarceration, for, two years, hence bearing in mind the aforesaid factum, this Court deems it fit and appropriate, (i) importantly, when the Investigating Officer has reported that the bail-applicant, has throughout associated, hence, in the relevant investigation, to, hence afford, the facility of bail in favour of the bail applicant/petitioner. Moreso, when at this stage, no evidence has been adduced by the prosecution, demonstrating, that in the event of bail being granted to the bail applicant/petitioner, there being every likelihood of his fleeing from justice or tampering with prosecution evidence, Accordingly, the indulgence of bail, is, granted to the bail applicant/petitioner, on, the following conditions:-

i) That he shall furnish personal bond, comprised in a sum of Rs. 2,00,000/- with two sureties in the like amount, to the satisfaction of the learned trial Court.

ii) That he shall join the investigation, as and when required by the Investigating agency;

iii) That he shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court or to the Police;

iv) That he shall not leave India without the previous permission of the Court;

v) That he shall deposit his passport, if any, with the Police Station, concerned;

vi) That in case of violation of any of the conditions, the bail granted to the petitioner shall be forfeited and he shall be liable to be taken into custody.

4. In view of above, petition stands disposed of. Any observation made herein above shall not be taken as an expression of opinion on the merits of the case and the trial Court shall decide the matter uninfluenced by any observation made herein above.

Constitution of India, 1950 -Article 226- Public Interest Litigation- Maintainability- Writ petitioner challenging appointment of lady as Craft Teacher on ground of her being overage on date of appointment- Held, in matter pertaining to appointment in Government service on a basic level post, writ petition in purported public interest, not maintainable-Private respondent found having requisite qualification as prescribed by Rules at time of appointment- Relaxation in age given to her as per Government policy- She also having retired after attaining age of superannuation- Petition dismissed. (Para 5)

For the petitioner Petitioner in person.
For the respondents Mr. Ashok Sharma, Advocate General with M/s. Ranjan Sharma, Adarsh Sharma and Ritta Goswami, Additional Advocate Generals for respondent/State.
Mrs. Aruna Chauhan, Advocate for respondent No. 4.
M/s Jyotirmay Bhatt and Anubhuti Sharma, Advocates for respondents No. 5 and 6.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Surya Kant, Chief Justice (Oral)

This petition has been filed purportedly in public interest challenging the question of appointment of respondent No. 5 as a Craft Teacher and obviously, seeking a writ of quo- warranto. The plea taken is that though respondent No. 5 was possessing requisite academic qualification, as provided in the Statutory Rules, on the date of her appointment, nevertheless, her appointment amounts to fraud on public exchequer as she was over age at that time.

2. Leaned Additional Advocate General states that the name of respondent No. 5 was registered with the Employment Exchange and as per the State Government Policy which is applied uniformly, the said respondent was entitled to age relaxation to the extent of period, for which her name remained registered with the Employment Exchange.

3. Record demonstrates that seven posts of Craft Teachers alongwith various other posts were advertised vide advertisement No. 2/99, dated 05.03.1999. The age limit prescribed in the advertisement was between 18 to 38 years. Respondent No. 5 also applied for the post of Craft Teacher. Her age as per her application was 40 years, 7 months and 22 days. The specific stand of the respondent No. 4 in its reply in para 4 on merit is as under:-

> "It is also submitted as per rules notified by the Commissioner-cum-Secretary (Education) to the Govt. of H.P. vide notification No. Shiksha-II-ka(4)-2/80 dated 20.04.1986, the maximum age limit for direct recruitment in case of certain persons of the teaching services in the Education Department, H.P. is not applicable namely:-

The maximum age limits prescribed in any Recruitment & Promotion Rules of the Education Deptt. shall not be applicable in the following cases if the candidate before attaining the maximum age limit prescribed for the service.

(a) is registered in any Employment Exchange set up under the Employment Exchange (compulsory Notification of vacancies-Act-1959) or

(b) is engaged as adhoc or Volunteer teacher by the State Government.

Keeping in view the above rules, the candidature of respondent No. 5 was considered which were actually not inserted in the advertisement dated 05.03.1999." [emphasis applied]

4. The petitioner fairly concedes that respondent No. 5 was appointed as Craft Teacher on 19th October, 2000, whereas the instant writ petition has been filed in the year 2012. On a further query, the petitioner informs that respondent No. 5 has already retired from service on attaining the age of superannuation.

5. Having heard the petitioner appearing in person at a considerable length, at this stage and juncture, we are satisfied that the instant writ petition in purported public interest is not maintainable in a matter pertaining to appointment in government service and that too on a basic level post like the Craft Teacher. Secondly, the fact that 5th respondent was possessing the requisite qualification as prescribed under the Rules at the time of her appointment would completely dissuade this Court from issuing a writ of quo-warranto. Thirdly, the grant of age relaxation by the competent Authority is in terms of the State Government Policy for the reason that the name of respondent No. 5 was registered in the Employment Exchange and thus the age relaxation given to her for the period for which her name remained registered with the Employment Exchange, was justified. Fourthly, assuming that there was some irregularity or illegality at the time of appointment of 5th respondent, this petition at this juncture deserves to be dismissed, for the said respondent has already retired from service on attaining the age of superannuation. We have serious doubts on the maintainability of this petition and the same is accordingly dismissed. Pending miscellaneous application also stand dismissed.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Tarlok Singh Chauhan, Judge

The appellant is the plaintiff, who after having lost before both the learned Courts below, has filed the instant appeal.

The parties shall be referred to as the 'plaintiff' and the 'defendants'.

2. The plaintiff filed a suit for specific performance of contract and in alternative for damages of Rs.36,000/- against the defendants on the allegation that the disputed land measuring 5-1 bighas comprising of Khata Khatauni No. 39/47, Khasra No. 353/324/192 situated in Chak Sarog, Paragna Parali, Tehsil Theog, District Shimla was owned by one Sehju, who was huaband of St. Radhi Devi defendant No.1. On 11.6.1987, Sehju agreed to sell the disputed land to the plaintiff for a consideration of Rs.8000/-, out of which Rs.6500/- were paid by the plaintiff to Sehju at the time of execution of the agreement to sell. It was further averred that the disputed land was allotted to Sehju by the Government of Himachal Pradesh by way of Nautor in the year 1975 and as per the terms of Nautor, Sehju was not authorised to transfer this land before the expiry of 15 years from the date of grant. For this reason, the sale deed in favour of the plaintiff was not executed on 11.6.1987 and it was agreed between the parties that Sehju shall receive the balance amount of Rs.1500/- at the time of the execution of the sale deed which was to be executed within a period of six months after the completion of the period of 15 years from the date of grant or at the time when Sehju was to notify the date of executing the sale deed to the plaintiff. However, Sehju died before executing the sale deed and the disputed land then devolved upon defendant No.1. As per the case of the plaintiff, defendant No.1 also agreed to execute the sale deed in favour of the plaintiff. However, this was not done and in fact defendant No.1 illegally and unauthorisedly executed a gift deed in favou of Shanti Devi, defendant No.3 on 3.5.1997 whereby a part of the disputed land was gifted by defendant No.1 in favour of Shanti Devi. The plaintiff came to know about this fact after he obtained a copy of jamabandi from the Pawari. It was lastly averred that the plaintiff was always ready and willing and is still ready and willing to pay the balance sale price, but it was defendant No.1 who failed to execute the sale deed. Hence the suit for specific performance in respect of agreement dated 11.6.1987 against the defendants. In the alternative, the defendants be made to pay a sum of Rs.36,000/- to him as damages on account of failure of defendant No.1 to execute the sale deed in his favour.

3. The suit was contested by the defendants by filing written statement wherein it was admitted that the disputed land was allotted to Sehju under special Nautor Scheme to landless persons in the year 1975. However, it was denied that Sehju had entered into any agreement with the plaintiff or that he had agreed to sell the disputed land in favour of the plaintiff for a consideration of Rs.8000/-. It was also claimed that Sehju was not competent to sell the land because the same was granted to him by way of Nautor. It was further averred that the agreement dated 11.6.1987 even if executed was void, illegal and inoperative and, therefore, the plaintiff was not entitled to the relief of specific performance. It was further averred that the gift deed in respect of a part of the disputed land executed by defendant No.1 in favour of defendant No.3 was lawful and valid and it was further claimed that the possession of this land had already been given to defendant No.3. Thus, the defendants prayed for dismissal of the suit.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court framed the following issues:

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the specific performance of the contract as alleged? OPP
2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for damages? OPP
3. Whether the suit is within limitation? OPP
4. Whether the gift-deed of the part of the suit land in favour of the defendant No.2 is wrong and illegal? OPP
5. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD
6. Relief.

5. After recording the evidence and evaluating the same, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit and the appeal filed against the same was also dismissed by the learned first Appellate Court vide its judgment and decree dated 28.3.2005.

6. Aggrieved by the judgments and decrees so passed by the learned Courts below, the plaintiff has filed the instant appeal which came to be admitted on 4.7.2005 on the following substantial questions of law:

1. Whether the judgment and decrees of both the Courts below are a result of complete misleading and misconstruing of the pleadings and the documentary evidence, especially Ext.P-1 and Ext.P-2?
2. When the document Ext.P-1 was held to be illegal, void and against public policy were both the courts below not under an obligation to grant appropriate relief to the plaintiff-appellant for the damages sustained by him under the said agreement to sell and the benefit derived by the predecessor-in-interest of respondent No.1, in view of the applicability of Section 65 of the Indian Contract Act. Are not the findings of both the Courts below vitiated when the entire suit of the plaintiff-appellant has been dismissed?
3. When the plaintiff-appellant had specifically assailed the execution of the Gift Deed in favour of defendant No.3 by defendant No.1 and issue No.4 was framed by the learned trial Court, was it not mandatory to return specific findings by both the Courts below as to whether the Gift Deed was valid or not, especially when the defendants had themselves pleaded that the said Gift Deed had themselves pleaded that the said Gift Deed had themselves pleaded that the said Gift Deed was executed without the delivery of possession?

4. When the plaintiff-appellant was put in possession of suit land, on the basis of agreement to sell, Ext.P-1, could the relief of injunction still be declined when only Ext.P-1 has been held to be illegal, void etc. by the two Courts without returning a specific finding regarding possession?

7. However, before answering the substantial questions of law, it needs to be noticed that during the pendency of the appeal, defendant No.1 transferred the suit land in favour of one Om Parkash on 20.10.2010 vide registration No. 462 of 2010, Book No. 1 reference No. 831/2010 vide sale deed registered in the office of Sub Registrar, Theog, District Shimla, H.P. Accordingly, said Om Parkash was ordered to be arrayeed as respondent No.4 in this appeal.

I have heard learned counsel for the parties and gone through the material placed on record.

SUBSTANTIAL QUESTIONS OF LAW NO.1, 2 & 4:

8. At the outset, it needs to be noticed that certain issues were conclusively decided against the defendants and they have not filed any appeal or cross-objections against the same. Even though, the defendants have denied the execution of the agreement dated 11.6.1987 by late Sh. Sehju, however, the same was held to have been duly established and proved on record as is evident from paras 11 to 13 of the judgment passed by learned first appellate Court. Therefore, in such circumstances, only the question that remains to be answered is qua the agreement of sale Ex.P-1 whether the same is a lawful agreement capable of specific performance or that the agreement is illegal and void being against the public policy.

9. Noticeably, both the learned Courts below held the agreement to be illegal, void and against public policy after placing reliance upon the Division Bench judgment of this Court in Chet Ram and others vs. Sawanu Ram and others AIR 1985 Himachal Pradesh 97. The facts therein were that the plaintiff had filed a suit for permanent prohibitory and mandatory injunction qua the land in dispute on the allegation that the same had been granted to defendant No.1 as Nautor, which was objected to by the plaintiff. A compromise in writing was effected between the parties on 15.12.1954, according to which the parties came in possession of the disputed land in equal shares, each party having 1/9th share. Defendant No.1 therein agreed to get a mutation sanctioned in plaintiff's favour. The plaintiffs were put in possession of the land and they did not doubt the bonafides of defendant No.1. The plaintiffs alleged that after 12.7.1964, defendant No.1 started interfering with the plaintiffs' possession, compelling them to file the suit. The defendants did not admit the plaintiffs' claim and contested the suit. They denied the execution of the agreement/compromise and further alleged that the same was void and unenforceable. Learned trial Court decreed the suit, against which the defendants filed the appeal, which was accepted by the first Appellate Court and held that the agreement dated 15.12.1954 was simply a paper transaction and was never acted upon. It was further held that the agreement was against the spirit of the nautor patta. Aggrieved, the plaintiffs filed an appeal being RSA No. 24 of 1968 before this Court. Learned Single Judge of this Court vide judgment and decree dated 16.4.1971 dismissed the appeal with costs and held that the disputed land was leased out to defendant No.1 by the Government and, therefore, defendant No.1 could not confer any rights upon the plaintiffs by any compromise. This judgment and decree was assailed before learned Division Bench of this Court in LPA No. 22 of 1971 wherein it was argued by the plaintiffs that the agreement dated 15.12.1954 was valid and binding and defendant No.1 had handed over the possession of the land to the plaintiffs. He had also contended that defendant No.1 was competent to do so and therefore, the findings rendered by the first Appellate Court and learned Single Judge of this Court were not based upon proper appreciation of law and facts. Even though he conceded that the Himachal Pradesh Nautor Rules, 1954 had the force of law in view of the decision of this Court in Som Krishan vs. State, AIR 1979 Himachal Pradesh 35.

10. It was in this factual background that learned Division Bench of this Court while dismissing the appeal held that the object of granting Nautor was to implement a policy of the Government to help certain persons who are either landless or have very little holdings and who need land for cultivation for the purposes of their 'subsistence'. Since defendant No.1 got the land as Nautor for himself for his subsistence, therefore, he was bound by the conditions of the Patta and the Nautor Rules. The purpose of granting Nautor to various persons under the Nautor Rules was a matter of policy of the Government, whereby it wanted to help certain poor and landless persons by giving them land for their subsistence. This grant was personal to the allottee and, therefore, could not be transferred in favour of the other eight persons therein as this would amount to circumventing the policy of the Government. Therefore, this action of defendant No.1 by entering into an agreement was against the public policy.

11. Here it shall be apposite to refer to the relevant observations as contained in paragraphs 12 to 17 of the judgment which read thus:

> "12. Thus according to the Nautor Rules and the conditions of the patta (Ex. D-l) the disputed land was granted to defendant 1 for 'subsistence' and he was to make it fit for cultivation within two years. In case defendant 1 failed to break up and terrace the land within two years, the grant was liable to resumption and defendant I could not claim compensation even if certain improvements had been effected by him. A combined reading of the various Nautor Rules and the conditions of the patta (Ex. D-l) clearly indicate that the object to such grant is to implement a policy of the Government to help certain persons who are either landless or have very little holdings and who need land for cultivation for the purposes of their 'subsistence'.
> 13. Defendant 1 got the land subject to the conditions incorporated in the patta (Ex.D-1) and under the Nautor Rules. The Government while granting, the nautor to defendant 1 must have kept in view the fact that defendant 1 required the land for his subsistence and it could be granted in his favour under the Nautor Rules. Now, even if the agreement dt. 15-12-1954 (Ex. PW 4/A) is admitted to be proved, still such an agreement is 'forbidden by law' and is not enforceable under Section 23, Contract Act. By this agreement defendant 1 had agreed to divide the disputed land in 9 equal shares thus keeping only one share for himself. For the remaining 8/9th share he agreed to relinquish his rights and accept the other 8 persons as owners. Defendant 1 after having got the land as 'nautor' for himself for subsistence purposes was bound by the conditions of the patta (Ex. D-l) as well as the Nautor Rules. He had no authority or right to transfer his ownership rights to third person on payment of any amount. Further, the land was given to defendant 1 for cultivation purposes only. By the agreement (Ex. PW 4/A) defendant 1 agreed that the 8/9th portion of the land would remain in the ownership of the other persons as it was their grazing

ground. 1 n other words, this land could not be utilized for cultivation purposes and was to remain a grazing ground, that is, uncultivated land. Such an agreement is clearly forbidden by law and will defeat the very object of the grant of land in favour of defendant 1. Hence the plaintiffs cannot seek the enforcement of this agreement (Ex.PW 4/A). The purpose of granting nautor to various persons under the Nautor Rules is a matter of policy of the Government. The Government wanted to help certain poor and landless persons by giving them land for their subsistence.

14. In AIR 1934 Mad 811 (Ganesh Naicken v. Arumugha Naicken) it was held that where a grant was in the nature of a gift by the Government with a specific provision that the property shall not be alienated without the consent of the Tehsildar, it was intended to be personal to the grantee. Any contract which has the effect of circumventing this policy of the Government would be opposed to public policy.

15. In the present case too, the Government granted nautor to defendant 1 with certain specific conditions. Under the conditions of the patta (Ex. EM) and the Nautor Rules, defendant 1 was supposed to break up the land and make it fit for cultivation so that he could utilise the same for his subsistence. Defendant 1 was under an obligation to allow the Government to resume this grant without any compensation even if he had made certain improvements on the same, if he failed to break up and terrace this land within two years from the date of the grant. Thus it was also a persona! grant to defendant 1. By transferring his rights of grant in favour of other 8 persons defendant 1 has in fact circumvented the policy of the Government and this action of defendant 1 is, therefore, against the public policy.

16. In view of the above discussion, the agreement dt. 15-12-1954 (Ex.PW 4/A) is unenforceable and the plaintiffs cannot be granted any relief on the basis of this agreement. We also do not find any reasons to disagree with the various reasonings given by the learned single Judge in his judgment D/-16-4-1971.

17. As a result of the above discussion, the present appeal is dismissed."

12. It is, more than settled that the Division Bench decision is binding on Single Judge and judicial comity demands that binding decision to which the attention has been drawn should neither be ignored nor overlooked. The decision of the Division Bench in Chet Ram's case (supra) is binding on this Court and, therefore, on the basis of the aforesaid exposition of law, it can conveniently be held that sale made by the grantee in violation of the conditions with regard to the utilisation of the land granted as Nautor before the expiry of the period I.e.15 years is against the public policy and, therefore, the agreement executed by grantee with the plaintiff transferring his rights were void and unenforceable. The facts of the present case are akin to those in Som Krishan's case and, therefore, fully applicable to the facts of the present case.

13. That being the factual position, obviously, therefore, the agreement executed between Sehju and the plaintiff which even though proved on record being void is unenforceable as the same is against the public policy.

14. Section 23 of the Indian Contract Act, reads as under:

> "23. - The consideration or object of an agreement is lawful, unless – it is forbidden by law; or is of such a nature that, if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law; or is fraudulent; or involves or implies injury to the person or property of another; or the Court regards it as immoral, or opposed to public policy. In each of these cases, the consideration or object of an agreement is said to be unlawful. Every agreement of which the object or consideration is unlawful is void."

15. It is more than settled that where a contract is illegal being contrary to positive law or against public policy, an action cannot be maintained to enforce it directly or to recover the value of services rendered under it or money paid on it. Therefore, the Court cannot direct the refund of money paid as part consideration. Thus, where a contract is entered into for making purchases prohibited by statute, no party can invoke the aid of a court to have such a contract carried into effect, as law will not tolerate any party to violate any moral or legal duties.

16. If money is advanced for a purchase which is either opposed to morals or law, in furtherance of an illegal transaction, such advance is not recoverable. No relief can be given when a case is based on illegality. Therefore, once the document Ex.P-1 was held to be illegal, void and against the public policy, the Courts below were not under obligation to grant appropriate relief or rather any relief to the plaintiff/appellant.

17. Thus, on the basis of the aforesaid discussion, it can conveniently be held that the judgments and decrees passed by learned Courts below are based on correct reading and construction of pleadings and the documentary evidence available on record. Accordingly, substantial questions of law No.1, 2 and 4 are answered against the appellant/plaintiff.

SUBSTANTIAL QUESTION OF LAW NO.3:

18. As this Court has already held that transaction entered into between Sehju and plaintiff to be void and against the public policy, therefore, the plaintiff had no locus standi to assail the gift deed made by defendant No.1 in favour of defendant No.3. Accordingly, substantial question of law No. 3 is decided against the appellant/plaintiff.

19. Once the agreement is against the public policy and void, therefore, the Court were not come in the aid of the plaintiff to protect his so called possession under void and unenforceable agreement.

20. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I find no merit in this appeal and the same is accordingly dismissed, so also the pending application(s) if any.

CMP NO. 449 OF 2011:

21. The appellant/plaintiff has filed this application for initiating contempt proceedings against respondent No.1 Radhi Devi on the ground that the appellant alongwith the appeal had filed application under Order 39 Rule 1 & 2 CPC which was registered as CMP No. 556 of 2005. This court while admitting the appeal on 4.7.2005 had passed an interim order in this application thereby restraining the respondents from selling, transferring, alienating or encumbering the suit land in any manner till further orders.

22. The respondents were put to notice of the appeal as well as the application. Only respondent No.1 contested the application by filing reply. However, this Court vide its order dated 10.1.2006 made the interim order dated 4.7.2005 absolute during the pendency of the appeal.

23. The respondent No.1 in utter disregard to the aforesaid orders transferred the suit land during the pendency of the appeal in favour of one Om Parkash S/o Sh. Mouji Ram.

24. Since respondent No.1 Radhi Devi against whom alone this application is directed has already died issueless on 22.5.2014 and her name has already been ordered to be deleted from the array of the respondents, therefore, this application seeking initiation of contempt proceedings against respondent No.1 has been rendered infructuous with efflux of time and is ordered to be dismissed as such.

Arbitration Case No.55 of 2017
Date of Decision : December 17, 2018

Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996- Section 34- Objections to award- Sustainability- State Government's settlement Policy providing for payment of market rate on price index mentioned in bid documents for delayed execution of work by contractor during extended period- Parties arriving at settlement and arbitrator passing award in favour of contractor on basis of calculations filed by Department- State challenging award by filing objections- Held, extended period in given cases was from 1.5.2008 till 31.12.2008- Contractor entitled for price escalation regarding work executed during this period on price index mentioned in bid documents- Award of Arbitrator granting escalation for this period not wrong- Objections dismissed- Award upheld (Paras 10 to 13 )

For the Petitioner : Mr. Shiv Pal Manhans, Additional Advocate General, and Mr. R.P. Singh & Mr. R.R. Rahi, Deputy Advocates General.
For the Respondent : Mr. Sumit Raj Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Vivek Singh Thakur, Judge

The present petition has been filed by the State of Himachal Pradesh (hereinafter referred to as appellant-department), under Section 34 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (hereinafter referred to as the Act), against the award dated 29.9.2016, passed by Arbitrator-cum-Superintending Engineer, Arbitration Circle, Himachal Pradesh Public Works Department (HPPWD), Solan, whereby in respect of Claim No.2 of respondent-claimant, claiming market rates for execution of work, after expiry of the period of contract/award, an amount of Rs.16,69,928/- has been awarded, alongwith interest claimed in Claim No.6 at the rate of 8% per annum from the date one year after submission of the final bill by the respondent-claimant to the date of award, and simple interest at the rate of 18% per annum for the period three months beyond the date of award to the actual date of realization.

2. It is undisputed that the Arbitrator has passed the award after amicable settlement of the dispute, during the pendency of arbitration proceedings before him, under the instructions issued by the Government and as per that settlement, the respondent-claimant had abandoned/ withdrawn his all other claims and had agreed for market rate for the execution of work during the extended period, in terms of the instructions issued by the Government for the said purpose.

3. For completion of record, it is relevant to record that the Engineer-in-Chief, HPPWD, vide letter No. PW-29-CTR-29-637/2015-13913-18, dated 31.12.2015 (Annexure A-2), had submitted a proposal to the Government, through the Additional Chief Secretary (PW) to the Government of Himachal Pradesh, Shimla, for determining settlement of prolongation claims, with respect to Pradhan Mantri Gram Sadak Yojna (PMGSY), of the contracts, as provided in other contracts under Clause 10CC (Price Escalation). The crux of the proposal made by the Department was as under:

(I) That in those cases where contractor(s) was deprived hindrance free site and it lead to delay in execution, for determination of price variation date of bid opening will be the base for price analysis index formula.

(II) That period for which such variation will be payable shall reckon after expiry of stipulated period and to determine this it has to be seen as for how much period the delay is on the part of department till hindrance free site was made available. Thereafter the price quarterly index payable during the execution of work period by the contractor has to be applied e.g. If out of 2 years stipulated period, the work has been completed in 4 years and out of these two years extended period of for one year the delay is on the part of department and one year the delay is on the part of contractor, then the price variation shall be available to the contractor for the period for which delay had occurred on the part of the department i.e. 1 year and for determining this price variation, the date of bid opening shall be base for the price index and the price index during the period when work has been executed shall be made the base as per clause 10 CC of Standard Bidding Document. No other formula provided under 10 cc despite non-existence of clause shall be the best available option to the department to settle such claims. However the contractor will not be entitled for price variation of stipulated period of completion as per agreement.

4. Thereafter, the matter was considered by the Government and the decision of the Government was communicated to the Engineer-in-Chief, vide letter dated 15.3.2016, whereby it was conveyed that it has been decided that price escalation be given only under the PMGSY works and only cases where the contractor has entered into litigation and approached for amicable settlement and escalation may be given as per 10 CC clause only for increase in cost of material and labour and the escalation clause for increase in cost of material and labour as provided in the bid documents for NABARD and State works be provided for PMGSY works on the same pattern.

5. In the light of the aforesaid decision of the State, amicable settlement was arrived at between the parties before the learned Arbitrator and the Department had filed calculation of market rate as considered to be payable on account of amicable settlement to the respondent-claimant. As per this calculation, the Department had calculated the claim under clause 10 CC to the tune of Rs.21,93,182/-. However, before passing the award, on re-checking in the Department, it was found that the said claim was calculated for whole period, including the stipulated completion period and the extended period, whereas the same, as per instructions dated 31.12.2015, was payable for extended period only. Therefore, the Department has re-filed the calculation of the amount to the tune of Rs.16,69,928/-.

6. The respondent-claimant had not disputed the said stand of the Department and had accepted the settlement of the dispute on the same amount and the impugned award was passed by the Arbitrator.

7. After passing of the award, a letter dated 26.9.2016 was again written to the Arbitrator by the Department that as per fresh calculation the respondent-claimant is entitled only to Rs.2,10,697/- instead of Rs.16,69,928/-. However, the said calculation was not entertained as the award had already been passed.

8. Feeling aggrieved of the aforesaid passing of the award by the Arbitrator, the State has filed the present petition.

9. It is an admitted fact on the record that the work was awarded to the respondent-claimant on 16.4.2007 and it was not completed during the stipulated period, i.e. on or before 30.4.2008, but was completed during the period extended by the appellant-department upto 31.12.2008.

10. As per formula adopted by the appellant-department of determining the price deviation for amicable settlement in disputes, like the present one, the period for which such variation will be payable shall reckon after expiry of stipulated period and for that period only for which the delay has been caused on the part of the department and no price escalation shall be permissible to the contractor where the delay is on the part of the contractor and further that for determining this price variation the date of bid opening shall be the base for price index and price index during the period when work has been executed shall be made the base as per clause 10CC of Standard Bidding Document. However, the contractor will not be entitled for price variation of stipulated period of completion as per agreement.

11. In the present case, the stipulated period had expired on 30.4.2008 and thereafter extension was granted by the department upto 31.12.2008. In view of the proposal of the department, to determine the claim of price escalation amicably, on the basis of formula adopted by the department for settlement, the plea of delay on the part of the contractor is not available to the appellant-department. Therefore, as per instructions/formula, referred supra, respondent-claimant is entitled for price escalation from 1.5.2008 to 31.12.2008 and for determining the price variation 'date of bid opening' shall be the base for the price index, meaning thereby the difference in price prevailing on the date of bid opening and the price prevailing during the period when the work had been executed will be the basis for calculating the claim of escalation in price.

12. In the present petition, appellant-department has claimed that as per the formula adopted by the State, respondent-claimant will be entitled to Rs.2,10,697/-. In the supplementary affidavit, dated 21.6.2018, filed by the petitioner-Department, this calculation has been justified by stating that the base price index is to reckon from the date when the stipulated period of completion of work ends and not from the bid opening date and on the basis of this the appellant-department has calculated the amount payable as Rs.2,10,697/-.

13. A bare reading of the formula adopted by the State as contained in letter dated 31.12.2015 (referred to supra), it is not the base price index of the last date of stipulated period of completion of work, which is to be taken into consideration for calculation of escalation in price but it is the date of bid opening which shall be the base for the price index. Therefore, present petition has been filed by the State, based on wrong calculations and under misconceived interpretation of the formula adopted by the State for amicable settlement of the claims of contractor under PMGSY works.

14. In supplementary affidavit dated 21.6.2018, it is also stated that in this case initially price variation was determined on the basis of price index on the date of bid opening and by taking into consideration the extended period and the total claim payable on account of price escalation was worked out to Rs.16,69,928/-In view of the formula adopted by the State, I find that there is no ambiguity or mistake in the formula adopted by the appellant-department, where the amount payable to respondent-claimant has been determined at Rs.16,69,928/-.

15. In view of the above discussion, present petition is dismissed alongwith pending applications filed by the State, if any, but except OMP No.274 of 2017 filed by the respondent-claimant for release of the amount in his favour.

16. Petition stands disposed of.

OMP No.274/2017

17. This application is also disposed of with liberty to the respondent-claimant to file afresh for release of the amount.

Cr.MP(M) No. 1611 of 2018
Order reserved on 6th December, 2018
Decided on :18th December, 2018

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (Act)- Section 20-Regular bail- Grant of- Held, principles that bail is a general rule and person should not be put in jail during trial, are not attracted in cases where there is reverse onus or statutory presumption with regard to commission of offence provided by Statute- Many other cases, including one under Act, pending against accused- Bail denied though recovered substance falling in intermediate category- Application dismissed. (Paras 4 to 6)

For the petitioner Mr. N.S. Chandel, Advocate.

For the respondent Mr. Shiv Pal Manhans Additional Advocate General with Mr.R.P.Singh and Mr.R.R.Rahi, Deputy Advocate Generals.
HC Sanjay No. 87 P.S. Nankhari, District Shimla.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Vivek Singh Thakur, Judge.

Petitioner has preferred this petition under Section 439 of Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred to as 'Cr.P.C.') for grant of regular bail in case FIR No. 42 of 2018 dated 3.8.2018 registered at P.S. Nankhari, District Shimla, under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act.

2 For enlarging the petitioner on bail, it has been canvassed that petitioner has been implicated falsely in the present case and further that even if the case of prosecution is believed in toto, alleged recovery of 107 grams of charas is not only lesser than commercial quantity but nearer to small quantity as provided under the Act and therefore, rigors of Section 37 of NDPS Act are not attracted in the present case and therefore, in view of right to personal liberty of petitioner, he deserves to be released on bail.

3. It is true that bail is general rule and putting a person in jail or in prison during the trial is an exception and presumption of innocence is fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence. But these principles are not applicable as such, in cases where there is reverse onus and/or statutory presumption with regard to commission of offence and therefore, such cases are to be dealt with differently keeping in view the statutory presumption and reverse onus provided under the statute. Being a basic natural right, liberty is a priceless treasure for a human being. Depriving of liberty to a person has enormous impact on his mind as well as body. But at the same time, accent on individual liberty cannot be pyramided to that extent which would bring chaos and anarchy to a society and society expects responsibility and accountability from its members and it desires that the citizens should obey the law, respecting it as a cherished social norm and attempt of an individual to create a concavity in the stems of social stream is impermissible and in such a case, the Court has a duty towards the society.

4. For consideration of a bail application, detailed examination of evidence and elaborate documentation of merits of case are to be avoided as consideration of details of the evidence is not a relevant consideration and where mere prima facie involvement of the case is apparent in a case harming the societal interest like present in nature, accused may not be permitted to be enlarged on bail for protecting his individual interest keeping in view his right to liberty.

5. Perusal of status report, filed by the State, indicates that since 2008 till date, besides present case, as many as four criminal cases were registered against the petitioner. In FIR No. 70 of 2008 dated 17.5.2008 P.S. Rampur he was tried under Section 61 of the Excise Act, though he was acquitted in this case. However another criminal case arising out of FIR No. 129 of 2009 registered under Section 61 (1) (14) of the Excise Act in P.S. Rampur is still pending consideration in the Court. Further in a case arising out of FIR No. 67 of 2010 registered in P.S. Rampur under Section 302 IPC, petitioner stands acquitted but in another case in FIR No. 202 of 2012 registered under Section 20 of the NDPS Act in P.S. Rampur he stands convicted vide judgment dated 5.1.2018 wherein he was sentenced to pay Rs.12,000/- as fine.

6. It is true that for quantity of charas recovered from the petitioner, rigors of Section 37 IPC are not applicable in the present case, however, general principles, require to be considered at the time of granting the bail as also envisaged in Cr.P.C., are to be definitely taken into consideration. Antecedents of the petitioner are also relevant factors. Present petitioner is previous convict in a case under Section 20 of the NDPS Act. No doubt, previous conviction cannot be a sole base for denying the bail to the petitioner, however, other circumstances are also not favourable to him as not only his bail application, preferred before learned Special Judge-cum-District and Sessions Judge Kinnaur at Rampur, stands rejected on 4.9.2018, but bail application preferred in this Court was also dismissed on 8.10.2018 and copies of these orders have also been placed on record so as to discuss the reason for dismissal of petitioner's earlier bail application and there is no material placed on record showing the circumstances considered at that time and change therein after that. Case is pending consideration before learned Special Judge and fixed for 21.12.2018 for checking of copy of challan and other documents supplied to the petitioner.

7. In view of above, considering the cumulative effect of entire circumstances, without entering upon the merits of the evidence and keeping in view the principles laid down by the Apex court and other factors like nature of offence and its impact on society, petitioner is not entitled for bail at this stage. Hence the petition is dismissed.

8. Any observation made herein above shall not be taken as an expression of opinion on the merits of case and shall be construed to have been made for limited purpose of deciding this application and the trial Court shall decide the matter uninfluenced, by any observation made herein above.

Decided on : 26th December, 2018

Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973- Section 439- Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (Act)- Sections 21, 35, 37 & 54- Bail- Grant of- Recovery of contraband from room- Accused seeking bail on ground that contraband was not in his actual possession- And his involvement in case not forthcoming- Held, provisions of Act put reverse onus on accused by raising certain presumptions against him and said provisions cannot be ignored - In such cases, parameters for considering bail are different- House from where recovery effected taken on rent by wife of accused- Other accused his close relatives- Applicant cannot take plea that room was not in his possession- Accused involved in another case under Act- Principle of parity also not applicable- Application dismissed. (Paras 9 to 14)

For the petitioner Mr. N.S. Chandel, Advocate with Mr. Vinod Kumar Gupta, Advocate.

For the respondent — Mr. Shiv Pal Manhans Additional Advocate General with Mr.R.R.Rahi, Deputy Advocate General.
HC Satyanam Walia No. 184 IO P.S. Dharamshala, District Kangra H.P.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Justice Vivek Singh Thakur, Judge.

Petitioner has preferred this petition under Section 439 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (hereinafter referred to as 'Cr.P.C.') for grant of regular bail in case FIR No. 169 of 2018 dated 6.9.2018 registered at P.S. Dharamshala, District Kangra, under Section 21 of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act.

2. Status report stands filed and record of the investigation has also been produced.

3. Petitioner is a co-accused in a case of recovery of 29.99 grams of herion (chitta/diacetyl morphine) from room taken on rent by accused persons in house of one Rajiv Puri, known as Gulmohar Residency situated at Gurdwara road, Dharamshala.

4. As per prosecution story, the said room was rented by its owner Rajiv Puri on 3.9.2018 to one Ruby (co-accused), who is wife of Ajay Kumar (present petitioner/accused) on monthly rent of Rs. 11,000/- per month. According to him, the room was taken on rent by Ruby introducing her as wife of Ajay Kumar whereas Aman, Amit and Babita, other co-accused, were introduced by her as her relatives, who were stated to be engaged in a business/work of shuttering.

5. On 6.9.2018 on the basis of secret information received, room rented to these persons was raided and 29.99 grams herion was recovered from a bag.

6. Co-accused Ruby and Babita respectively are wife and sister of petitioner, whereas Amit is nephew of petitioner. Co-accused Aman is a friend of these persons who are relatives of each other.

7 For enlarging the petitioner on bail, it has been canvassed that even if the prosecution case is admitted to be true as it is, there is no firm and reliable evidence on record to connect the petitioner with recovered contraband and there is nothing on record to show that the petitioner was in actual possession of recovered contraband.

8 It is further argued that commercial quantity for herion is 250 grams, whereas contraband alleged to have been recovered is far less than the commercial quantity. Further that general rule is grant of bail and not jail and presumption of innocence being a fundamental postulate of criminal jurisprudence is in favour of petitioner particularly keeping in view the fact that there is no positive evidence on record to link the bag with petitioner, from which contraband is alleged to have been recovered. It is further pointed out that co-accused Babita, Ruby and Amit have already been released on bail by learned Special Judge, Kangra, whereas bail application of the petitioner despite having been similar situated to the said co-accused has been dismissed by the Special Judge Kangra at Dharamshala vide judgment dated 24.10.2018. Therefore, bail on the ground of parity has also been pleaded.

9. While considering the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused till prove guilty, the statutory provisions of Sections 35, 37 and 54 of NDPS Act are also to be taken into consideration which provide certain presumptions against the accused by putting a reverse onus upon him to disprove that presumption and it is for the fact, which cannot be ignored, that drug addiction is increasing especially in youth day to day and persons involved in the drugs supply business are not only spoiling the life of one person, but are responsible for causing irreparable loss to the family of victim as well as to the nation and society at large and it is well settled that in such cases, the yardstick for considering the bail application is a little bit different.

10. Plea of the petitioner, that he was not found in conscious possession of recovered contraband, is to be considered on merits by the trial Court. However, at this stage, on the basis of evidence on record, it is apparent that co-accused Ruby is wife of present petitioner, co-accused Babita is his sister. The house was taken on rent by Ruby wife of Ajay Kumar and other occupants of room were close relatives of Ruby and Ajay Kumar, whereas Aman Verma is friend of Ajay Kumar. Therefore, Ajay Kumar is also a tenant in Gulmohar Residency and all of the occupants are closely related to each other and have taken one room for residing. Therefore, ex-facie it cannot be said that Ajay Kumar was not having the knowledge of herion (chitta) in his bag.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also relied upon Cr.MP(M) No. 151 of 2017 whereby the accused alleged to have been found in possession of 900 grams of charas was released on bail by the Coordinate Bench of this Court. The case of said judgment is not similar to one as in that case the bail was declined by learned Special Judge on the ground that petitioner was permanent resident of Punjab and there was every chance of petitioner for extending and threatening the witnesses and Coordinate Bench of this Court, in considering the entire facts of the case, has found that apprehension of learned Special Judge was not sustainable, whereas in present case petitioner is already involved in another case under NDPS Act and there are two similar cases against co-accused Aman who had been residing together with family and relatives of present petitioner. During his enlargement on bail in the previous case, he has repeated the commission of offence.

12. Petition for bail of petitioner, as claimed by the petitioner, has not been rejected by learned Special Judge only on the ground that another case under NDPS Act has been registered against him. But also for impact of the offence alleged to have been committed by the petitioner/accused coupled with his previous involvement in similar offence. Plea of the petitioner that he has been discriminated on the ground that other co-accused have been released on bail is not sustainable as the case of the present petitioner is different from the case of other co-accused as they were first offenders, whereas present petitioner has repeated the commission of offence after his bail in case No 310 of 2016 dated 27.12.2016, which was also under Section 20 of NDPS Act.

13. Plea raised by the petitioner that he was not found in conscious possession of contraband, is to be considered by the trial Court during trial.

14. At this stage,bail of petitioner has rightly been dismissed by Special Judge-I in the facts and circumstances of the case, as not only the petitioner has been found to be involved in case FIR No. 310 of 2016 registered under Section 20 of NDPS Act, but co-accused Aman has also been found to be accused in FIR Nos. 152 of 2016 and 29 of 2018 registered under Section 21 of NDPS Act. It is informed that next date of hearing in present case is fixed on 27.12.2018 and recording of evidence has also not started yet.

15. In view of above, considering the cumulative effect of entire circumstances, without entering upon the merits of the evidence and keeping in view nature and gravity of offence and its impact on the society and the fact that petitioner is already involved in similar case in P.S. Indora, petitioner is not entitled for bail at this stage. Hence the petition is dismissed. Needless to say that petitioner will have the right to file successive bail application before the appropriate Court at the appropriate stage, if advised so based upon circumstances.

16. Any observation made herein above shall not be taken as an expression of opinion on the merits of case and shall be construed to have been made for limited purpose of deciding this application and the trial Court shall decide the matter uninfluenced, by any observation made herein above.

For the Appellant : M/s Rupesh Kumar, Jitin Sehgal and Vipul Sharda, Advocates.
For the respondent: Mr. Rajiv Jiwan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Surya Kant, Chief Justice (Oral)

This Central Excise Appeal is directed against the Order dated 25.04.2017, passed by the Customs, Excise & Service Tax Appellate Tribunal (in short 'the Tribunal') in Appeal No. E/2577/2007, as also the Order dated 10.08.2017, whereby the appellant's Review Application against the above mentioned order has been dismissed.

2. The facts as revealed from the order dated 25th April, 2017passed by the Tribunal,are that with a view to avail exemption from payment of Central Excise under the Notification No. 50/03-CE, dated 10.06.2003 as a new Manufacturing Unit set up after 07.01.2003, the assessee in its Declaration filed on 25th November, 2004 had mentioned the goods falling under 'Sub-Head 3004', namely, 'beauty or make-up preparations and preparations for the care of skin', which are non-specific. The Adjudicating Authority declined the benefit of exemption under the aforesaid Notification, but on appeal, the Commissioner (Appeals) held that it was a case of eligibility for exemption under the Notification dated 10.06.2003of the goods manufactured and removed from the factory. The Commissioner (Appeals), however, declined exemption on 'After-Shave Lotion' which fell under 'Sub-Head 3307'.

3. Aggrieved by the order of Commissioner (Appeals) granting relief in part, both sides went in appeal before the Tribunal, which vide its order dated 25.04.2007 held that in its Declaration filed on 25.11.2004, the assessee had given description(s) of goods specified under 'Sub-Head3004'which were to be manufactured by the assessee and thus, the Commissioner (Appeals) rightly allowed the exemption, for those goods were not mentioned in the 'Negative List' of the Notification.

4. As regard to the appellant's claim to declare that they are also manufacturing exempted goods like 'Creams' under heading 3304.10.00, 'After-Shave Lotion' under Heading 3307.10.90, 'Paste' under heading 3306.10.20, 'Shaving Cream' under Heading 3307.10.10 and 'Kali Mehandi' under Heading 3305.10.90, the Tribunal found as a matter of fact that neither any Declaration was received from the assessee in the Office of Assistant Commissioner, Shimla in respect theretonor any evidence of receiving such Declaration was produced. The Tribunal further observed that even on the date of hearing, the assessee failed to lead any evidence to substantiate the plea of filing of such Declaration on '13.05.2005'. In such fact situation, when the assessee had not filed the Declaration before the first clearance of the specified goods, the Tribunal held that the assessee was not entitled to claim the benefit of exemption under Notification dated 10.06.2003 on these additional goods. Both the appeals were thus dismissed.

5. The Appellant thereafter filed Review Application pointing out,inter-alia, that there was an error apparent onthe record as the Tribunal had proceeded on the premise that the appellant filed its 2ndDeclaration on '13.05.2005', whereas the said Declaration was filed on '13.04.2005' and there was enough proof comprising original postal receipt to prove the filing of such Declaration.

6. The Tribunal nonetheless was not convinced with the aforesaid factual plea and dismissed the appellant's Review Application observing as follows:-

> "4. On perusal of the records, we find that the declaration is undated which has been reflected at page 23 and at page 24, there is postal receipt which is dated 13.04.2005. In the appeal papers, the contention of the applicant is that they have filed declaration on 13.05.2005. Admittedly, no declaration has been filed on 13.05.2005. In that circumstance, there is no mistake apparent on the face of record in the order passed by this Tribunal on 25.04.2017. Therefore, we do not find any merit in the application for rectification of mistake. Accordingly, the same is dismissed."

7. The Tribunal's original order as well as the one passed in revision, are now under challenge by the assessee through this Appeal under Section 35-G of the Central Excise Act, 1944.

8. It may be noticed at the outset that according to Mr. Rajiv Jiwan, learned Counsel for the Revenue,the instant appeal is not maintainable. He submits that the issue sought to be raised by the assessee pertains to the 'determination of the rate of duty on excise' and therefore, in view of the exception carved out under Sub Section (i) of Section 35-G read with Section 35-L (i) (b) of the Act, such an appeal is maintainable only before the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

9. Both sides have relied upon various decisions to substantiate their respective pleas re: maintainability of this appeal, especially the judgment of the Apex Court in Navin Chemicals Mfg.& Trading Co. Ltd versus Collector of Customs, reported in 1993 (68) E.L.T. 3 (S.C.).

10. Having given thoughtful consideration to the rival submissions made against or for the maintainability of the appeal before High Court, we do not deem it necessary to dwell upon the issue as to whether the instant appeal falls within the four corners of Section 35-G or it shall lie to the Hon'ble Supreme Court under Section 35-L of the Act. We say so for the reason that no appeal can be entertained even by the High Court under Section 35-G of the Act, unless it involves a substantial question of law.

11. What is thus needed to be determined firstly is - whether the instant appeal raises a substantial question of law for adjudication by this Court?

12. Learned Counsel for the appellant very strenuously urges that while deciding the Review Application the Tribunal fell into a grave error in assuming that the 2nd Declaration was filed by the appellant on '13.05.2005'or that it was not available on the record. The said Declaration was actually filed on '13.04.2005 and not on '13.05.2005' and this omission has led to denial of justice to the assessee which in itself constitutesa 'substantial question of law'. He contends that in the Grounds of Appeal taken before the Tribunal, it was repeatedly recited that the 2nd Declaration was filed on '13.04.2005' vide Postal Receipt No. 0439, original whereof was also produced but the Tribunal has mechanically dismissed the Review Application on an erroneous premise that the 2nd Declaration was claimed to be dated'13.05.2005' but no such Declaration was available in record of the Assistant Commissioner, Central Excise. Learned Counsel urges that overlooking material evidence which has sweeping effect on the merits of the case, especially when it stood proved with the aid of Postal Receipt issued in the course of official business and thus carries presumption of truth, also satisfies all ingredients of a substantial question of law for the purpose of maintainability of this appeal.

13. We are not, however, impressed by these submissions. We say so for the reason that whether the appellant filed the 2nd Declaration on '13.04.2005' or on '13.05.2005', is purely a question of fact. There is no gainsaying that an Exemption Notification ought to be construed strictly and the burden of proving its applicability lies on the assessee so as to establish that its case falls within the parameters of the exemption clause [please see : (i)Collector of Customs versus Presto Industries (2001) 3 SCC 6 and(ii) Commissioner of Customs (Import), Mumbai versus Dilip Kumar and Company & others (2018) 9 SCC 1]. Whosoever therefore seeks the benefit of exemption must always prove its admissibility. The appellant was obliged to establish that it had actually applied for the benefit of exemption under the Notification dated 10.06.2003 through 2nd Declaration filed on 13.04.2005or that such a Declaration was available in the officeof Assistant Commissioner, Central Excise. The appellant has miserably failed to discharge such onus.

14. Aplain reading of the Grounds of Appeal reveals that even the appellant was not sure about the actual date of filing of alleged 2nd Declaration, as the date of filing such Declaration claimed is'13.04.2005'whereas in the later part comprising 'Grounds of Appeal', it is stated to be dated '13.05.2005'. The Postal Receipt may be relevant to assume that a letter was sent on 13.04.2005, but it falls short to prove the contents of the letter. The appellant has thus failed to discharge the initial onus cast on it.

15. There is yet another reason for us to draw adverse inference re: filing of 2nd Declaration on'13.04.2005'.The appellant's own case is that the first Declaration dated 25.11.2004 was filed in advance well before actual commencement of the production of items falling under 'Sub-Head 3004'. It is also the assessee's own case that on getting licence from the Drug Inspector, it started manufacturing all the products together somewhere in February, 2005.If that were the truth, what prevented the appellant from claiming the benefit of exemption in advance on 25.11.2004qua other products as well. We cannot persuade ourselves to accept as to why the appellant applied for such benefit in respect of one product only when it intended or claimed to have started simultaneous production of 5-6 items in respect whereof the subsequent Declaration was statedlyfiled on '13.04.2005'.

16. Be that as it may, such like disputes are essentially questions of fact and cannot be treated as substantial question of law for the purpose of maintainability of this appeal. It is well settled that "substantial question of law" would mean—of having substance, essential, real, of sound worth, important or considerable. It is to be understood as something in contradistinction with---technical, of no substance or consequence, or academic merely [See: Boodireddy Chandraiah& others versus Arigela Laxmi& another (2007) 8 SCC 155].

17. In any view of the matter, whether a party fairly disclosed the facts or suppressed or gave selective information, too are surely questions of fact and per se does not give rise to substantial question of law [Ref:(i)Commissioner of Central Excise, Chandigarh versus Punjab Laminates (P) Ltd. (2006) 7 SCC 431;(ii)Larsen and Toubro Ltd. Versus Commissioner of Central Excise, Pune II (2007) 9 SCC 617].

18. The appeal is accordingly dismissed alongwith pending application(s), if any.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiffs instituted a suit for declaration for setting aside the revenue entries recorded, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number(s), (i) wherethrough, in substitution, of the earlier therewith consistent entries borne therein, reflecting the suit property, as Shamlat Hasab Rasab Khewat, and, theirs being shown in the column of possession, as, Mukbuja Malkan, (ii) rather the State of Himachal Pradesh, under, a mutation recorded in the year 1975, bearing No.353, stand reflected, as "Mustarka Sarkar Daulat Mandaar Va Jamindaran Shamlat Deh Hasab Rasab Khewat", (iii) and, thereafter consistent therewith entries are recorded in the revenue records, and, in respect whereof also rendition, of, a declaratory decree, for, theirs being set aside is also claimed.

2. A perusal of the plaint, reveals, qua specific averments appertaining, vis-a-vis, the afore espousal, hence, being averred in paragraph No.5 of the plaint, para whereof stands extracted hereinafter:-

> "5. That the revenue entries in the column of ownership of the jamabandi continued to be shown as "Mustarka Sarkar Daulat Mandaar Vs Jamindaran Shamlat Deh Hasab Rasab Khewat" in the revenue records. The mutation No.353 dated 26.9.1975 has been sanctioned for Mauza Pain Kuffar whereby land comprised in Khata No.69, Khatauni NO. 115 to 133, i.e. Khasra Kitta 71, the land which is earlier recorded as Shamlat deh hasab rasad khewat has been mutated in favour of Stat eof H.P. and there is reference of some order passed by Collector, Sub Division Rajgarh, Numbered as 1460/SDOC/R/75 dated 23.8.1975 in the said mutation. The said order and the mutation both have been > passed behind the back of the plaintiffs or their predecessor-in-interest or the estate right holders. Even vide the order passed on the mutation the suit land has not been mutated in favour of State of HP, however, on the last page the suit land has been detailed and in the new entry the name of Zimdaran Shamlat deh hasab rasad khewat has been deleted, however, in the column of possession entry of makbuza Khud va Muktalif has been shown, even this mutation does not create any right, title or interest in favour of the defendant State of HP, the same and subsequent revenue tries in pursuance thereof are wrong, illegal, null and void. However, in the jamabandi for the year 1977-78 certain other numbers were included along with the other above mentioned three khasra numebrs i.e. Khasra No. 641 min, 642 min, and 643 min and in an unauthorized and illegal manner some cutting has been made in the column of ownership in the jamabandi especially without any order or mutation etc., as such the cutting, the land comprised in the above mentioned 3 khasra numbers are hereinafter are mentioned as "the land in question". The land in question which is part and parcel of the suit was subsequently in the jamabandi for the year 1977-78 has been shown to be owned by State of HP, the name of estate right holders has been deleted without any notice to the estate right holders, without adopting any legal process in an arbitrary, unilateral, unjust and unfair manner. The deletion of the names of estate right holders or the khewatdars which has been carried out behind their back or without their relinquishment of their rights, title and interest is not only wrong and illegal but further does not affect the rights, title and interest of the estate right holders qua the land in question."

Defendants No.1 and 2 in their written statement, instituted to the plaint, in apt corresponding paragraph No.5, of their written statement, as, furnished to the afore paragraph, of the plaint, belied the afore averment, by hence, rearing therein, the hereinafter ad verbatim extracted contention:-

> "5. That the content of para-5 of the plaint are admitted to the extent that the column of ownership of jamabandi shown as a Mushtarka Sarkar Dolatmadar was Jamidaran Shamlat deh Hasab Rasab Khewat, it is also admitted that mutation o.353 dated 26.09.1975 sanctioned for mauza Pain Kuffar in favour of Govt. of HP vide order No. 1460/SDOC/R/75 passed by Collector, Sub Division Rajgarh. It is wrong and denied that said order was passed behind the back of plaintiff all their predecessor in interest all the state right holder. It is submitted that the order passed by the Collector Sub Division, Rajgarh was in knowledge of the plaintiffs and their predecessor as the land was allotted in Khasra No.641 and 642/2 to the people of the are who were landless through different mutation which is very much clear from the revenue record. It is wrong and denied that State of H.P. has no right, title and interest in the land in question."

3. During the pendency of the suit, before the learned trial Court, an application cast, under the provisions of Order 39, Rules 1 and 2, of, the CPC, was, preferred by the plaintiffs/applicants/petitioners herein, before it, (i) wherein, they sought relief of ad interim injunction, being pronounced vis-a-vis them, and, qua the suit land. Relief upon the aforesaid application, was declined, vis-a-vis, them, by the learned trial Court, (ii) and, the aggrieved plaintiffs, hence, preferred therefrom an appeal, before the learned District Judge, Sirmaur District at Nahan, (iii) and, the latter Court also proceeded, to render an order, bearing concurrence therewith. Now the plaintiffs/ petitioners herein being aggrieved therefrom, hence, institute the instant petition before this Court.

4. Without testing the validity of the aforesaid espousal, reared by the contesting litigants, before this Court, (i) the prime principle(s), governing the declining and affording, of, the relief of ad interim injunction to the plaintiffs, comprised in the factum, of, their existing a prima facie case, in their favour is required, to be, from, traversing through, the material, in consonance therewith, existing on record, hence prima facie proven to hence beget apt satiation. In making the afore endeavour, a, perusal of jamabandi appertaining to the year 1949, is, important, (ii) wherein, in column of ownership, a, reflection occurs qua the suit land being described therein, to bear the classification of "Shamlat Hasab Rasab Khewat", and, in the column of possession, the, plaintiffs, stand described as "Makbuja Malkan". In adjudging the effect, of, the aforesaid reflections, borne in the jamabandi, vis-a-vis, the suit land, appertaining to the year 1949, it is also deemed important to bear in the mind, the, apt statutory provisions applicable thereto.

5. Consequently, before alluding to the factual matrix, prevailing in the extant suit, it is of utmost importance, to bear in mind, the apposite provisions borne, in Section 4, of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, 1961, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> > (a) which is included in the shamilat deh of any village and which has not vested in a panchayat under the shamilat law shall, at the commencement of this Act, vest in a panchayat constituted for, such,village, and, where no such panchayat, has been constituted for such village; vest in the panchayat on such date, as a panchayat having jurisdiction over that village is constituted;
> >
> > (b) which is situated within or outside the abadi deh of a village and which is under the house owned by a non-proprietor, shall on the commencement of the shamilat law, be deemed to have been vested in such non-proprietor.
>
> (2) Any land which is vested in a panchayat under the shamilat law shall be deemed to have been vested in the panchayat under this Act.
>
> (3) Nothing contained in clause (a) of sub-section (1)and in sub-section (2) shall affect or sholl' be deemed ever to hove
>
> > (I) existing rights, title or interest of persons who though not entered as occupancy tenants in the revenue records are accorded a similar status by custom or otherwise, such as Dholidars, Bhondedars, Butimars, Bosikhuopahus, Saunjidars, Muqararidars;
> > (ii) rights of persons in cultivating possession of shamilat deh for more than twelve years without payment of rent or by payment of

> charges not exceeding the land revenue and cesses payable thereon;
> (iii) rights of a mortagee to whom such land is mortgaged with possession before, the 26th January, 1950."

(a) wherein in sub section 3 (ii) thereof, a specific mandate is engrafted, whereby, stand pointedly excluded, the diktat, hence, of, the preceding thereto provisions, rather, containing an explicit mandate, vis-a-vis, the apt vestment(s) of all rights qua lands reflected, as Shamilat Deh, in the revenue records apposite thereto, (i) besides thereunder apt preservation(s) of all rights, is, bestowed upon persons, in cultivating possession, of Shamilat Deh, for more than twelve years, without payment of rent or by payments of charges, not exceeding, the land revenue and cesses payable thereon, (ii) or in other words, the aforesaid mandate borne in clause (ii) of sub section (3) of Section 4 of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, 1961, (iii) rather excludes, the operation, of, the preceding thereto provisions, occurring, in Section 4 of the aforesaid Act, wherein rather shamlat land, is, ordained to stand vested, in the Panchayat deh, (iv) also apart therefrom, provisions analogous, to the aforesaid provisions, are, also borne in clause (d) of Section 3, of The Himachal Pradesh Village Common Lands Vesting and Utilization (Amendment) Act, No.20 of 2001, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "(d) land records as "Shamlat tika Hasab Raad Malguzari" or by any such other name in the ownership column of jamabandi and assessed to land revenue and has been continuously recorded in cultivating possession of co-sharers so recorded before 26th January, 1950 to the extent of their shares therein"

(v) wherein a specific mandate, is engrafted, qua vis-a-vis all land(s) recorded, as "Shamlat Tika Hasab Rasad Malguzari" or "by any such other" name in the ownership column, of jamabandi, and, assessed to land revenue, and, continuously recorded in cultivating possession, of the cosharers, (vi) and, with afore reflection, of, possession whereof, rather evidently existing, in the apt records, prepared prior to 26th January, 1950, (vii) thereupon, rather the mandate of preceding thereto provisions, contrarily, ordaining its/their vestment in the "panchayat deh", being hence specifically excluded besides excepted.

6. Both the aforesaid statutory provisions, for hence purveying the apt strength, to the espousal of the counsel, for the petitioner, (i) that, with theirs excluding, the mandate, and, operation, of the substantive provisions, borne respectively, in sub-section 3(ii) of Section 4, of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, and, in clause (d) of Section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Village Common Lands Vesting and Utilization (amendment) Act, No.20 of 2001, (ii) AND, whereunder, rather stand statutory excluded, hence, the prior thereto, rather explicit statutory contemplation(s), hence ordaining the vestment of shamlat land, in, the panchayat concerned, (iii) does, obviously, and, necessarily require an allusion to the evidence/material, bearing prima facie absolute tandem, with, the afore-referred apt exclusionary provisions, as, contained in the afore stated statutory provisions. The apt revenue record, is comprised, in, copies of jamabandis, as, appertaining to the suit land, and, they respectively appertain to the years 1949, 1952-53, 1956-57, 1960-61 (iv) wherein, in the column, of ownership, reflections occur, vis-a-vis, the suit land, being described, as Shamlat deh Hasab Rasab Khewat, and, in possessory column thereof, reflections occur, qua the suit land being possessed, by "Makbuja Malkan", hence the apt co-sharer therein, holding, the apposite rights, in proportion of their/his shares, hence making user thereof. The afore referred, entries borne in jamabandis, as, appertaining to the years 1949, 1952-53, 1956-57, 1960-61, are not contested nor evidence, is adduced, (v) for ripping apart, the presumption of truth, carried by them, consequently, it is to be concluded, qua the afore referred, displays occurring therein, hence, prima facie rather enjoying conclusivity, (vi) whereupon, it is to be concluded, of, with the suit land holding hence the apposite description, of "Shamlat tika hasab rasad Malguzari", hence, render it, to, fall within the ambit of coinage "or any such other name", as, is hereat borne, thereupon, the exclusionary mandate borne, in clause (d) of Section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Village Common Lands Vesting, and, Utilization (amendment) Act, No.20 of 2001, against its vestment, in the "panchayat deh" concerned, concomitantly making its evident/ prima facie surfacing, (vii) and, also the apt therewith exclusionary benefits thereof, hence, prima facie ensuing, vis-a-vis, the petitioners/plaintiffs. Moreover, the afore-referred reflections, borne in jamabandis, as, appertaining to the years 1949, 1952-53, 1956-57, 1960-61, are lent vigorous succor, by mutation bearing No.353, wherein a clear display is embodied, of despite, the suit land being reflected as, "Shamlat deh Hasab Rasab Khewat", (viii) yet, evidently, despite, the afore classification donned by the suit land, it, stood untenably vested in, the government/panchayat. Nowat, the reflections, in the apposite order, hence, attesting mutation, of, vestment, of the suit land, in the State concerned, (ix) suit land whereof, rather carries the classification of "Shamlat deh Hasab Rasab Khewat", reiteratedly renders the aforesaid factum, as, clearly borne, in the order attesting the relevant mutation, to, hence thereupon rather acquire conclusivity, (x) thereupon, the evident mantle, donned by the suit land, vis-a-vis, it being "Shamlat deh Hasab Rasab Khewat", is both obviously, and, openly, prima facie acquiesced by the respondents/State, also, hence the factum probandum, of the suit land, earlier depicted, in the jamabandis appertaining to the years 1949, 1952-53, 1956-57, 1960-61, to bear the character, of "Shamlat deh Hasab Rasab Khewat", rather also prima facie acquires corroborative vigour, as also, conclusivity. The order or mutation No.353, in pursuance whereof, also jamabandis, were, prepared subsequent thereto, hence, also carry reflections in compatibility thereof, and, in pursuance whereof, the vestment of the suit land, occurred, in the State, despite, reiteratedly it evidently, bearing, the statutory exclusionary classification, of "Shamlat deh Hasab Rasab Khewat", (xi) rather is neither at par, nor is construable to be any piece, of a valid legislation, whereunder, rather would occur, any apposite valid supplantation or amendment, vis-a-vis, the mandate of clause (ii) to sub section (3) of Section 4, of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act. In aftermath, with the provisions, borne in clause (ii), to sub section (3) of Section 4 of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, remaining hence unsubstituted, through, a valid amendment, rather carried, by the legislative assembly concerned, (xii) thereupon, with a candid diktat borne therein, especially, vis-a-vis, preservations of rights, of persons, in cultivating possession, of "shamlat land, rather, for more than 12 years, without payment of rent or by payment of charges nor exceeding the land revenue, and, cesses payable thereon", (xiii) in category whereof, both the suit land, and, the petitioners/plaintiffs, prima facie rather fall, given emphatically, with the afore jamabandis, appertaining to the suit land, for reasons aforesaid, bearing out the factum, (xiv) of, the predecessors-in-interest, of, the petitioners/plaintiffs, holding continuous cultivating possession, of shamlat land, since 1949 upto 1975, whereat mutation No.353 stood attested, (xv) thereupon, with the suit land, prima facie falling, within the ambit, of, the apposite exclusionary mandate, borne in clause (ii) to sub section (3) of Section 4 of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, vis-a-vis, the preceding thereto mandate(s), (xvi) wherein, contrarily, stand rather excepted, the lands evidently falling, within, the domain of clause (ii) to sub-section (3) of Section 4, of, the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, (xvii) and, bearing the classification of Shamlat deh, against from their vestment, in the Panchayat, (xviii) and, sequelly, hence, the lack of valid supplantation thereof, through, a valid legislative amendment, rather rendered, the apposite exclusionary mandate, borne in clause (ii) to sub Section (3) of Section 4 of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, to, both hold prima facie clout and sway, (xix) whereas, mutation bearing No.353, obviously does not, prima facie either override or benumb the operation or clout, and, the command, of the apposite exclusionary statutory provisions, vis-a-vis, the preceding thereto provisions, borne in Section 4, of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, (xx) hence renders any meteing, of, reverence thereto, to not per se clothe it with any sanctity.

7. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing. for the respondents places reliance, upon, a judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court, rendered, in a case titled as Gurbachan Singha and another vs. Gram Pancyayat and others, reported in (2000)10 SCC 594, the relevant paragraphs whereof are extracted hereinafter:-

> "1. This litigation has had a chequered history; the dispute confining to jurisdiction. The High Court has taken the view that the civil suit did not lie and that an application under Section 11 of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, 1961 will lie before the Collector of the district. In our view, the High Court was right in coming to that view especially when a question of title has been raised and Section 13 of the said Act puts a bar to the civil court determining that question. We, therefore, dispose of this appeal in letting the appellants approach the Court of the Collector under Section 11 of the said Act.
> 2. Under interim orders of this Court dated 27-11-1990 the appellants were required to deposit a sum of Rs 100 p.m. regularly. In terms of that order, the said sum was required to be depositedan the District Court. The sum thus collected be handed over to the respondent Gram Panchayat. This order would not, however, preclude the appellants from obtaining interim orders from the Collector when proceeding under Section 11 of the Act. In this manner, the appeal stands disposed of. No costs.

Wherein, Section 13, of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, alike Section 10, of the Himachal Pradesh Village Common Lands Vesting and Utilization Act, 1974, foists a statutory bar, against, the civil Court, exercising jurisdiction, over any matter, arising, from the question of title, (i) and, when in absolute alikeness or affinity therewith, provisions also occur in Section 10 of the Himachal Pradesh Village Common Lands Vesting and Utilization Act, (ii) AND when in respect whereof, the Hon'ble Apex Court, in the apt paragraphs extracted hereinabove, had, concluded of the civil courts, holding no jurisdiction, vis-a-vis, any matter falling with the domain, of the aforesaid Act, (iii) hence, no pronouncement, in the affirmative being meted, vis-a-vis, the instant lis. However, the reliance, as placed by the learned counsel appearing, for the respondents, upon, the aforesaid statutory bar, created in the apposite provisions, occurring in both, the Himachal Pradesh Village Common Lands Vesting, and, Utilization Act, and, in the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, for hence rendering, not maintainable, the extant suit, before the civil court concerned, (iv) is clearly a sequel, of his misreading, the entire statutory provisions, as, borne in both the afore referred statutes, (v) also arises from his being unmindful vis-a-vis (vi) the evident description, of the suit land, in the apt record, as "Shamlat deh Hasab Rasab Khewat, whereon, the apt exclusionary statutory provisions, as, referred hereiabove, are prima facie firmly concluded, to hence stand attracted, (vii) and, as a corollary thereof, the vestment of the suit land in the State, is, prima facie concluded to stand stained, with, vices of apt statutory infractions. The sequel of the learned counsel appearing, for the respondents, hence remaining unmindful, vis-a-vis, the afore referred conclusions, is obviously qua hence, the apt hereafter ensual, rather arising, (viii) qua with all revenue records, specifically mutation No.353, being manifestly prepared in derogation, of, the apt exclusionary statutory provisions, and, in sheer derogation, of, apposite therewith classification hence donned, by the suit land, (ix) thereupon with the apt mutation No.353 being invalidly recorded, (x) besides, its begetting open infraction, of, the mandate of the apt exclusionary provisions, borne in clause (ii) to sub-section (3) of Section 4 of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, and, in clause (d) of Section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Village Common Lands Vesting and Utilization (Amendment) Act, 20 of 2001, (xi) thereupon, unless the apt excepting relief(s), as, created in the afore referred statutes, is accepted, and, is applied hereat, (xii) thereupon, alone the solemn holistic purpose, of the apt exclusionary mandate, would be preserved, (xiii) concomitantly, for keeping alive the apt excepting mandate, thereupon, the apt statutory bar, rather hence cannot be construed, to be creating any obstruction. Contrarily, rather, the ill besides insagacious sequel, would ensue, of even invalidly made orders, anchored upon a clear lack of adherence, to the revenue records, bearing absolute incongruity, with the mandate of the apt exclusionary clauses, to the relevant inclusionary or vesting provisions, respectively, borne in clause (ii) to sub-section (3) of Section 4 of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, and, in clause (d) of Section 3 of the Himachal Pradesh Village Common Lands Vesting, and, Utilization (Amendment) Act, 20 of 2001, rather, being hence untenably validated. Corollary thereof, is that the bar, of jurisdiction, is applicable, vis-a-vis, only validly made orders, by the revenue officers, and, it being not be applicable, vis-a-vis, any invalidly made orders or orders made in blatant transgression, of, the apt excepting statutory provisions. Moreover, the judgment whereon, the learned counsel, appearing for the respondents, has, placed reliance, makes a clear display, of the Hon'ble Apex Court, affirming the view taken, by the Hon'ble High Court, (i) that, the remedy available, to the aggrieved litigant, being to cast, an application under Section 11 of the Act, before the revenue officer concerned, and, not by his canvassing, his grievance, through, his instituting, a civil suit suit. Consequently, with Section 11 of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, hence, appertaining to an interdiction, against, any preemption, against, sale of land, in shamlat deh, (ii) whereas, contrarily, hereat, there is open, gross and blatant transgression, of, the apt statutory hence excepting exclusionary mandate, vis-a-vis, the mandate, of, apt vesting provisions, (iii) thereupon, no remedy other than, for setting aside, the apposite order or for setting aside, all concurring therewith entries, as, carried in the revenue record, through, the institution of the civil suit, rather comprising, the, only remedy available, vis-a-vis, the aggrieved, and, also vis-a-vis the petitioners/plaintiffs herein.

8. In coming to the aforesaid conclusion this Court derives strength from a judgment of tis Court rendered in case titled as Chuhniya Devi vs. Jindu Ram, reported in 1991(1) Sim. L.C., 223, wherein this Court, while answering the issue, with respect to the effect of the statutory bar, existing in Section 115 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, (i) had, though rendered an answer qua the afore bar, rendering rather disempowered the civil Courts, to, exercise jurisdiction, vis-a-vis, all the orders rendered by a Revenue Officer, while, exercising hence powers vested in them under Section 104 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, (ii) rather had also proceeded to carve therein, hence, exceptions thereto, inasmuch as (iii) orders being rendered in blatant transgression of the fundamental judicial procedure; (iv) provisions of the Act had not been complied with. Even though, the afore judicial verdict, is, rendered with respect to the statutory bar, existing in H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, yet, analogous thereto provisions , do also exist in the extant Act, (v) thereupon, the trite principles, in exception therewith, as referred above, are, also applicable hereat, besides when for all reasons aforestated, there is apparent blatant transgression, by the revenue authorities (a) of the fundamental judicial procedure while attesting mutation, (b) whereunder, the proprietary rights conferred upon the State, vis-a-vis, the afore statutory provisions, (c) thereupon, the learned District Judge concerned, has prima facie erred in concluding, that, the suit is barred by statutory mandate, encapsulated in Section 10 of the H.P. Village Common Lands (Vesting and Utilization) Act, hence, thereafter, hence, has proceeded to decline the relief, to the plaintiffs.

9. Consequently, the result of the afore discussion is that triplicate principles governing the affording or declining, of, apposite relief, comprised in, (a) prima facie good arguable case being established by the plaintiffs; (b) balance of convenience being loaded vis-a-vis the plaintiffs and (c) irreparable loss or injury being, causable to the plaintiffs, in case, ad interim injunction is not granted, hence visibly begetting the apt satiation qua the plaintiffs.

10. The aforesaid discussion, unfolds, that both the learned courts below, in making, hence disaffirmative concurrent pronouncement(s) vis-a-vis the plaintiffs/petitioners herein, have omitted to revere apposite material, thereupon, both the learned Courts below have mis-appraised, and, ousted from consideration, the, relevant material.

11. For the foregoing reasons, the instant petition is allowed and orders impugned before this Court are set aside. In sequel, the parties are directed to maintain status quo qua nature and possession with respect to the suit land, till, the final disposal of the main suit, by the learned trial Court. The parties are directed to appear, before, the learned trial Court, on 26th December, 2018. However, it is made clear that the observations made hereinabove shall have no bearings on the merits of the case. No order as to costs. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records, if received, be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J (oral)

One Om Prakash, instituted a suit bearing Civil Suit No. 67-S/1 of 95/93, seeking therein rendition, of, a declaratory decree besides rendition of a decree, for, rendition of accounts. The learned trial Court, on, the relevant issue, appertaining to the parties at contest, constituting a joint hindu family AND the suit property besides' the business belonging to the joint hindu family, hence returned dis-affirmative findings thereon. The learned trial Judge also on the issue, relating, to the valid execution, of, testamentary disposition, of, one Shakuntka Devi, disposition whereof stood propounded by defendant No.1, returned affirmative findings thereon. The plaintiff, one Om Prakash, being aggrieved, by the adversial findings returned vis-à-vis him, upon issues No. 1, 9 and 10, hence, instituted RFA No. 365 of 2000 before this Court, wherein the applicants' herein also are arrayed as party(s). Consequently, with the predecessors-in-interests of applicants' herein, standing arrayed as party(s) in Civil Suit No. 67-S/1 of 95/93 besides with the applicants' herein, being also arrayed as parties in RFA No. 365 of 2000, (i) thereupon when the aforesaid, would during, the course of hearing of RFA No. 365 of 2000, hence hold the apposite opportunity(s) to contest the submissions made by the counsel representing Sh. Om Prakash, whereby he makes an effort for reversing the findings, returned by the learned trial Court, upon issues No. 1, 9 and 10, (ii) thereupon, when this Court declines relief, on, the instant application vis-à-vis the applicants', no, apparent prejudice would hence be entailed upon them.

2. Be that as it may, in the aforesaid backdrop, when apparently, no prejudice would be encumbered, upon, the applicants' in CMP(M) No. 702 of 2013, (i) thereupon with the grounds meted in the application, cast under the provisions of Section 5 of the Limitation Act, (ii) grounds whereof stand anviled, upon, the applicants' interest in litigation being not diligently protected by their court guardian, rather cannot at this stage, be held construable to be a tangible ground(s), apparently when no concrete evidence exists, for, , sustaining them. Moreso, given all the aforestated reasons, besides now at, also given theirs being arrayed as party(s) in RFA No. 365 of 2000, hence with theirs holding an opportunity, to, validate the affirmative findings returned by the learned trial Judge, upon the apposite issues No. 1, 9 and 10 vis-à-vis their respective predecessors-in-interests, also constrains this Court, to, dismiss the application.

3. In sequel, there is no merit in the instant application and the same is accordingly dismissed. However, it is clarified that, upon, hearing, of, RFA No. 365 of 2000, the applicants' in the instant application shall be given the fullest opportunity to protect their interests in litigation.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The learned trial Magistrate, under, the impugned orders, had accepted the proposals made by the Investigating Officer concerned, in his report furnished before him under the provisions of Section 173 of the Cr.P.C., proposal whereof, appertained to closure of investigation(s) with respect to the FIR concerned.

2. Since, the petitioner, through, her mother-cum-natural guardian, has belatedly concerted, to beget reversal of the impugned order, hence, she has cast the instant application, under, the provisions of Section 5 of the Limitation Act, whereby, she endeavours to seek condonation, of a delay of 198 days, as has occurred, in filing the criminal revision petition before this Court.

3. The application was contested by the respondents, by filing detailed reply(ies) thereto. The Investigating Officer in his apposite closure report instituted before the learned trial Magistrate concerned, had therein made ad nauseam, allusions to the factum of (a) the deceased complainant admitting, his handing over papers bearing his signature(s) to one Gulbir Singh Chaudhary, (b) his admitting of his opening a joint account inter se him and one Gulbir Singh Chaudhary, (c) thereupon, he recorded conclusions, of purported withdrawals of sums of money, from, the authorised joint account(s) by one Gulbir Singh Chaudhary, the authorised co-operator thereof, hence, not attracting any criminal liability(ies) vis-a-vis him, (d) any misuser of signatured paper(s) of deceased complainant, by Gulbir Singh Chaudhary, not being amenable to cogent proof, given the deceased complainant, not being alive, at the stage contemporaneous, to the Investigating Officer concerned, instituting a report, under, Section 173 of the Cr.P.C., before the learned trial Magistrate concerned, with proposal(s) therein, for closure of investigations.

4. Even if, reasons) in affirmation thereto meted by the learned Magistrate, are, may be prima facie infirm, yet the learned Magistrate concerned, (i) had, also alluded to an application moved before him by the petitioner, through, her natural guardian one Smt. Sangeeta Devi, in the latter's purportedly safeguarding(s), of, the interest, of, her minor daughter, one Jayotsana, (ii) whose interest(s), nowat, also she is pursuing being her mother-cum-natural guardian, (iii) AND imperatively had rejected all the purported apposite objections reared thereat by Mrs. Sangeeta Devi. Consequently, even if, one Sangeeta Devi was aggrieved, therefrom, she was enjoined, to, with utmost promptitude, motion this Court, for concerting reversal of the impugned order. However, she omitted to do so. Moreover, in the application at hand, she has purveyed an untenable reason, (iv) of hers, forming an opinion that the only appropriate remedy available to her, for contesting, the impugned order, was through, the mechanism of hers instituting a civil suit. The aforesaid purported reason, which debarred or precluded, the applicant to promptly move this Court, for assailing the impugned orders, is per se ridden with an aura of falsity nor hence it is acceptable. Contrarily, when she has also made a disclosure in the application at hand, of her mother, through whom, she has moved the instant revision petition also being careful and diligent in watching her interests, (v) whereas, rather a contrary thereto averment(s), of her mother being not diligent or watchful in protecting her interest in litigation, rather constituted an appropriate averment, for, her application being allowed, (vi) thereupon, with her mother-cum-natural guardian, inordinately, procrastinating in agitating the impugned orders, constrains this Court, to, conclude that delay as has occurred, in the institution of the criminal revision petition, before this Court, for assailing the impugned order, has not been satisfactorily explained, rather it is both intentional and deliberate.

5. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit in the instant petition and it is dismissed accordingly. Records be sent back forthwith.

Gurdwara Sahib Vs. Gram Panchayat Sirthala and another, (2014) 1 SCC 669

For the Petitioner: Mr. Peeyush Verma, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Vivek Singh Attri, Addl. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant petition is directed against the orders, respectively, borne in Annexure P-1 and in Annexure P-2. Annexure P-1 embodies a mandate pronounced, upon, the petitioner herein, (I) to institute a plaint before the Revenue Officer concerned, embodying therein averments bearing out its claim, of its, becoming owner, of, the suit property by adverse possession. Annexure P-1, was, appealed before the Collector Sub-division, Kandaghat. The latter under Annexure P-2, dismissed the appeal, on the short ground, (ii) of with a specific mandate occurring, in, sub-section (5) of Section 163 of the Himachal Pradesh Land Revenue Act, 1954, (hereinafter referred to as the Act), provisions whereof stands extracted hereinafter:-

> "(5) An appeal from the decree of the Revenue Officer made under sub-section (4) shall lie to the District Judge as if that decree were a decree of Subordinate Judge in an original suit."

against appeals being reared vis-a-vis orders rendered by Revenue Officer(s) concerned upon the latter exercising powers, of, Civil Court, rather in consonance, with, sub section (4) of Section 163 of the Act, theirs being, preferable only before the learned District Judge concerned. Even, if the aforesaid order is per se infirm, given (i) no decree being rendered under Annexure P-2, yet with its tacitly affirming, the orders borne in Annexure P-1, thereupon, it acquires, for, reasons assigned hereafter, an intrinsic aura of validity(ies).

2. Be that as it may, before determining the validities, of, the aforesaid orders, it is imperative to cull out the relevant germane facts thereto. Annexure P-3, comprises a show cause notice, issued by the competent officer upon the petitioner herein. Recitals occurring therein, make, a display of the petitioner herein, encroaching upon government land. The aforesaid statutory notice was replied by the petitioner herein AND therein it made echoing(s) of the noticee/petitioner herein, holding, since 1946, with an animus possedendi, evident possession of the suit property, (i) thereupon, with the apposite statutorily mandated period, of, limitation, expiring upto the initiation of proceedings under Section 163 of the Act, (ii) thereupon the noticee/petitioner herein perfecting its title as owner vis-a-vis the suit property. The afore referred reply meted by the noticee vis-a-vis the statutory notice issued, within, the ambit of Section 163 of the Act, by the Revenue Officer concerned, upon noticee/petitioner herein, (iii) makes a vivid display, of, the noticee hence asserting acquisition of title, by adverse possession vis-a-vis the suit property. Consequently, with the aforesaid assertions, made by the noticee/petitioner herein, hence falling,within the domain, of, sub section (3) of Section 163 of the Act, the further mandate(s) embodied therein, of, hence a Revenue Officer, not, below the rank of Assistant Collector 1st Grade, being enjoined, to determine the aforesaid assertions, as if he were Civil Court, (iv) hence necessarily was also rendered workable vis-a-vis the noticee/petitioner herein, besides were compliable by the Revenue Officer concerned. The pointed onslaught mounted upon the impugned orders, by the learned counsel for the noticee/petitioner herein, is (a) of the insistences, made, by the Revenue Officer concerned, upon, the noticee/petitioner herein, for, its furnishing a plaint, encompassing therein, pleadings apposite, to assertion(s) of title by way of adverse possession, by it, vis-a-vis the suit land, rather begetting visible detraction(s) vis-a-vis the mandate, of, both sub-section (3) and of sub-section (4) to Section 163 of the Act; (b) conspicuously hence beneficial working(s), of, the mandate(s) of the aforesaid provisions of law, thereupon, being rendered both nugatory besides redundant. However, for the reasons to be assigned hereinafter, the initial espousal, made, by the counsel for the noticee/petitioner herein, of, untenable insistences, being made by the Revenue Officer concerned, upon, the noticee, to, furnish an apposite plaint, embodying therein pleadings apposite to acquisition of title, by it, vis-a-vis te suit property, conspicuously, by adverse possession, IS rendered diminished of its vigour (i) by the Hon'ble Apex Court in a judgment reported in (2014)1 SCC 669, rendered in a case title as Gurdwara Sahib versus Gram Panchayat Sirthala and another, the relevant paragraphs No. 8 & 9 whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "8. There cannot be any quarrel to this extent the judgments of the courts below are correct and without any blemish. Even if the plaintiff is found to be in adverse possession, it cannot seek a declaration to the effect that such adverse possession has matured into ownership. Only if proceedings filed against the appellant and appellant is arrayed as defendant that it can use this adverse possession as a shield/defence.
> 9. However, we also find from the reading of the judgment of the High Court that the High Court has refused the injunction observing that the appellant was not entitled to the same as it is the Gram Panchayat which is the owner of the property in dispute and as the appellant is in possession without any right, it has no right to seek injunction against the Gram Panchayat. This finding is totally perverse and, in fact, unnecessary. In the first instance, there was no occasion or reason for the appellant's counsel to seek this prayer in the Second Appeal. As pointed out above, the relief of injunction had already been granted by the Civil Court and this portion of the decree had not been challenged by the respondents. Decree to this extent in favour of the appellant had attained finality. The First Appellate Court also specifically recorded this fact and observed that by not challenging the judgment and decree passed by the learned Civil Judge, the respondents accepted that the appellant was in adverse possession of the land since 13.4.1952. We, thus, clarify that observations of the High Court that the appellant is not entitled to injunction, were unnecessary and beyond the scope of the appeal." (p..673) making, a clear categorical mandate therein, of, the espousals of adverse possession, by the plaintiff, being grossly impermissible also therein an explicit mandate, is borne of the apposite Article of the Limitation Act, purveying the aforesaid empowerment(s) to the plaintiff, standing hence blunted besides becoming naturally redundant, besides unworkable emphatically vis-a-vis the plaintiff. Consequently, with the noticee/petitioner herein, striking at the insistences, made upon it, by the Revenue Officer concerned, for, furnishing an apposite plaint, containing therein pleas apposite, to its, acquiring title by adverse possession vis-a-vis the suit land, (ii) it is, obviously making a blatant open concert, to, benumb the efficacy of the verdict, of the Hon'ble Apex Court, wherein, rearing(s) of the aforesaid pleas, by the plaintiff in the affirmative, has been firmly denounced. It also appears that the noticee/petitioner herein, has, attempted to resist the aforesaid insistences, made upon it, by the Revenue Officer concerned, for, enabling it to rear the aforesaid plea in its written statement, (iii) obviously it intends to injunct the Revenue Officer concerned, to, institute a plaint for rearing therein, relief(s), for, rendition of a decree for possession, of the suit property.

3. The aforesaid contrivances are grossly untenable, the reason being (i) of the Revenue Officer concerned, upon, his issuing besides ensuring service, of, statutory notice anvilled upon Section 163 of the Act, upon the noticee/petitioner herein, being not, thereafter either insisted upon, not it can be injuncted, to, hence institute a plaint, claiming therein rendition of a decree for declaration AND rendition, of a decree for possession of the suit land, (ii) given thereupon, rather with sub-section (4) of Section 163 of the Act, making a clear express mandate, of, upon a Revenue Officer concerned, trying question(s) of title, his, drawing proceedings in a manner alike the ones drawn by a Civil Court, upon the latter's trying a Civil Suit, besides his converting itself to a Civil Court, (iii) imperatively, he is enjoined to regulate, the trial of the suit, in the manner contemplated in the Code of Civil Procedure, (iv) thereupon, if the Revenue Officer concerned, who issues a statutory notice, within the ambit of Section 63 of the Act, thereafter, insists, upon, the authority(ies) initiating apposite proceedings, under the Act, to furnish a plaint, it, would entail obviously the consequence(s) of the plaint, being enjoined to also bear court fees ad valorem vis-a-vis the market value of the suit property concerned, with a concomitant unbefitting ill consequence of (v) statutory notice losing its vigour, besides its being effaced, whereas, therefrom, the statutorily contemplated proceedings commence rather, upon, the noticee purveying reply(ies) thereto when rear, a plea of adverse possessing, is enjoined to in consonance therewith form an apposite plaint, rendering it not akin, to, a plaint. (vi) The entire exchequer being drained of money(s), merely, for affixing on the apposite plaint, court fees ad valorem vis-a-vis the values of the suit property. In aftermath, the aforesaid ill consequences are to be obviated. Moreover, if the aforesaid plea, is, enjoined to be workable vis-a-vis the petitioner herein/noticee, (i) thereupon, it would beget infraction, of, the specific bar, encapsulated in the verdict rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court, against, rearing(s) in the affirmative, of, pleas of adverse possession, for, thereupon the claimant, in the affirmative, hence, canvassing his acquiring title vis-a-vis the suit land concerned, (ii) corollary whereof, is, of, unless reverence in the absolute rigour, is, meted therewith, thereupon, it may beget infraction of the mandate of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in Gurdwara Sahib's case (supra). Consequently, also the argument of the learned counsel appearing, for the noticee/petitioner herein, that, unless its plea, is accepted, thereupon, the mandate of sub-section (3) of Section 163 of the Act would be rendered redundant, is also, of, no avail to him, (iii) given the Hon'ble Apex Court in an alike situation rendering redundant workability(ies), of, the apposite Article of the Limitation Act, whereupon, leverage is purveyed to the plaintiff concerned, to rear pleas in the affirmative, pleas whereof appertaining to acquisition of title by adverse possession. Consequently, even if negativing, the plea of noticee/petitioner herein renders redundant the mandate of subsection (3) of Section 163 of the Act, thereupon, rather all the aforesaid ill consequences would be obviated.

4. For the foregoing reasons, the instant petition is dismissed and the impugned orders are maintained and affirmed. No order as to costs. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant petition stands preferred by the aggrieved complainant, against, the pronouncement recorded on 5.9.2009, by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court, Kangra at Dharamshala, upon, Cr. Appeal No. 14-P/X/08, whereby, he set aside the orders recorded by the learned Judicial Magistrate 1st Class, Palampur, upon, Cr. Complaint No. 142-II-2005, whereby, the latter had found prima facie case against the respondents/accused for theirs committing offences punishable under Section 193, 471 and 120-B of the IPC AND had also directed for transmission, of, the criminal complaint, to, the Court of the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned.

2. The foundation of the complaint instituted by the complainant/petitioner herein, against, the respondents herein/accused, (i) is comprised in a copy of agreement, Annexure P-5, certified copy whereof, bears, mark C-10, (ii) being the one appended initially along with Civil Suit No. 123/2002, whereas, subsequent thereto, another agreement comprised in Ex. C-8, being produced before this Court and before the learned trial Court concerned, (iii) wherein, clause (7) hitherto not existing in Annexure P-5, rather found occurrence therein. Consequently, it is contended that, thereupon, the respondents/accused were intending to draw untenable leverage therefrom.

3. The learned counsel appearing for the petitioner herein has contended with vigour that with respondents herein/accused, in their reply furnished, to the show cause notice, making communications of theirs relying upon Ex. C-8, thereupon, it is per se evident therefrom, (i) of, theirs acquiescing, of theirs, surreptitiously introducing it, on the file of civil suit No. 123 of 2002, pending before the learned trial Court concerned, (ii) AND more so, after theirs removing the initially therewith appended agreement, as, borne in Annexure P-5, from, the file of the aforesaid civil suit. Consequently he contends that with the verdict impugned before this Court palpably not taking into account the aforesaid factum, thereupon, its warranting interference by this Court.

4. Before proceeding to deal with the vigour of the aforesaid arguments addressed before this Court by the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner herein, the imperative factum enjoined, to be, borne in mind, (i) is, of Civil Suit No.123 of 2002, instituted by the petitioner herein, as plaintiff against one Yashoda Devi, being dismissed on 28.08.2008, by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division) concerned, (ii) besides, of, in the aforesaid suit, an application preferred by the respondent herein, application whereof, was, cast under the provisions of Order 1, Rule 10 of the CPC, being also dismissed. (iii) AND apparently, of,the purportedly forged agreement borne in Ex. C-8, rather being appended with the aforesaid application. The apposite complaint was lodged, during, the pendency of Civil Suit No.123 of 2002. It appears, from, a perusal of the record, of, the trial judge seeking explanation(s) from the official concerned, holding legal custody, of, the record, AND on the official concerned meteing an explanation thereto, (iv) the learned trial Judge concerned, on 9.5.2003, accepting his explanation and permitting the placing(s) on record, the photo copy of the original agreement initially appended with Civil Suit No. 123 of 2002, agreement whereof is marked as Annexure C-10. Conspicuously, with the explanation, meted by the official concerned, who held the legal custody of the relevant records, hence, coming to be accepted by the learned trial judge concerned also when subsequent to 5.9.2003, the photo copy of the initially appended agreement with civil suit No.123 of 2002, also being permitted to be placed on record, besides when mark C-10, is evidently not demonstrated, to be not the photo copy of the original thereof, (iv) rather when the certified copy thereof, was supplied, to the complainant/petitioner herein AND preeminently reiteratedly also when a copy thereof, after its location by its custodian, was, hence permitted to be taken on record by the trial Judge concerned, hence, when thereupon it is acquiesced to be an undisputed copy thereof (v) thereupon, when it has not been shown, that, merely on account, of, non existence or non tenderings or lack of proof, of, the photo copy, from the original, of, the initially appended agreement, with Civil Suit No.123 of 2002, hence sequelling, dismissal, of the aforesaid suit, (vi) thereupon, it cannot be concluded that in its purported misplacing, purportedly at the instance of the respondents/accused any purported wrongful loss or gain hence occurred vis-a-vis the litigant concerned.

5. Be that as it may, as aforestated, even the Civil Suit, filed before this Court by the litigant concerned, rather came to be dismissed as withdrawn. In the aforesaid civil suit, also the purportedly forged agreement, as also, purportedly introduced, upon, the file of Civil Suit No.123 of 2002 instituted before the learned trial Court concerned, is therein, too, contended to be relied upon. However, in the face of (a) accused/respondents' application cast under the provisions of Order 1, Rule 10 of the CPC, before, the learned trial Court concerned, during, the pendency of Civil Suit No.123 of 2002, wherewith the purportedly forged agreement was appended, rather hence coming to be dismissed; (b) besides the apposite civil suit instituted by the litigants concerned before this Court also coming to be dismissed, as withdrawn, sequel(s) thereof, is that hence no benefit came to thereupon accrue vis-a-vis the accused/respondents herein.

6. Apart from the above, the effect(s) of the aforesaid purported acquiescences, emanating, from the responses, afore referred, meted, by the accused/respondents herein vis-a-vis the show cause notice, issued vis-a-vis them, (i) does not at all carry forward any inference of theirs surreptitiously, for securing any benefits, theirs introducing it, emphatically, even in the file of Civil Suit No.123 of 2002, (ii) rather the effect of the aforesaid inference is squarely countervailed, by, the factum of the subsequent agreement being evidently not borne on the file of Civil Suit No.123 of 2002, (iii) rather it being borne, on, file of a Civil Suit, whereto stood assigned, a number other than the number assigned vis-a-vis the Civil suit, under, litigation inter se the parties at contest hereat. Consequently, bearing in mind all the aforesaid trite factum, it is difficult to make any conclusion (iv) that upon anvil of the subsequent purportedly forged agreement, the respondents intending, to make, any capitalization either in Civil Suit instituted before this Court, civil suit whereof came to be dismissed as withdrawn or theirs intending, to make any capitalization therefrom, in Civil Suit No.123 of 2002 instituted, before, the learned trial Court concerned, civil suit whereof also came to be dismissed. The simple reason, for making the aforesaid inference is anvilled upon (v) that apart from, the subsequent agreement containing clause (7), whereas, clause whereof, not, existing in the earlier agreement, initially appended with Civil Suit No.123 of 2002, there, occurring no recitals in the complaint, of, its not carrying the signatures of any signatory thereto nor hence it came to be proven to be carrying the unauthentic signatures, of any, of the executants thereof, (vi) thereupon, per se, upon, the mere factum of clause (7) existing therein, clause whereof was amiss in the earlier agreement, no conclusion can prima facie be drawn of its granting, any strength, to, the espousal of the respondents herein, (vii) significantly, when only upon cogent proof, of, its unauthenticity(ies), on all fronts, an adversarial conclusion was drawable vis-a-vis the respondents herein. In aftermath, the disputed agreement dehors the aforesaid proof(s), is obviously inchoate AND premature.

7. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit in the instant petition and it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the order impugned hereat, is affirmed and maintained. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiffs/appellants herein instituted a suit for possession against the defendants. The plaintiffs' suit was dismissed by the learned trial Court. Being aggrieved therefrom, the plaintiffs' instituted an appeal before the learned First Appellate Court, thereupon, the latter Court pronounced a verdict in affirmation to the verdict pronounced by the learned trial Court. Consequently, the plaintiffs' being aggrieved therefrom, now, concert to assail it before this Court, by instituting therefrom, the instant appeal before this Court.

2. The original plaintiff's case was that he owned and possessed the land comprised in Khewat No.513 min, Khatauni No. 862, measuring 3, Kanal 2 Marla, situated in revenue Village Dharampur, District and Tehsil Una, H.P. About a year anterior to institution of the suit aforesaid, the defendant encroached upon a portion of the suit land, measuring 2 kanal which denoted by letters ABCDE in the site plan. On the aforesaid land, the defendants raised a superstructure which is denoted by letters FGHIJ and shaded in red ink in the site plan. The plaintiffs requested the defendants to deliver the vacant possession of the suit land, but they refused to oblige. Hence this suit.

3. The defendant contested the suit of the plaintiff and filed written statement, wherein, their defence was of denial of the plaintiff's allegations qua the suit land being encroached by them about a year prior to the institution o of the suit. According to the defendants, they have been in possession of the suit land for the past more than 35 years and the revenue entries showing the plaintiffs to be the owners thereof are wrong. Claiming to have constructed a cattle shed over a portion of the suit land about 30 years and a pucca Kotha and a chhaper over the remaining portion about 15-16 years ago, the defendants averred that besides these structures, they installed a Belna (sugarcane cusher) on the suit land, and that in case the plaintiffs were proved to be the owners of the suit land, they have become owners thereof by way of adverse possession.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the defendants have become owners of the suit site shown by letters ABCDE by way of adverse possession, as alleged? OPD.
2. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act and conduct to file this suit? OPD.
3. Whether the suit is not properly valued, as alleged? OPD.
4. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs/appellants herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by, the plaintiffs/appellants herein before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed the appeal and affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

6. Now the plaintiffs/appellants herein, have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court wherein they assail the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. This Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiffs/appellants, against, the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

a) Whether the estoppel can operate against law and whether a real owner can be estopped from claiming the possession of his property from a stranger having no legal title over the property?

b) Whether the judgments and decrees passed by the courts below are perverse to the evidence on record?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 and 2.

7. Uncontrovertedly, the plaintiffs are recorded owners in possession of the suit property. The defendants, resisted the plaintiffs' suit by rearing a plea of theirs becoming owners of the suit land, by way of adverse possession. However, the aforesaid plea, reared, by the defendants vis-a-vis the plaintiffs' suit, for possession, was negatived by the learned trial Court. The defendants did not agitate the dis-affirmative findings rendered by the learned trial Court, upon, the issue appertaining to theirs purportedly becoming owners, of the suit land, by way of adverse possession, thereupon, the pronouncement recorded, upon, the apposite issue No.1 by the learned trial court acquires conclusivity, hence, the defendants are estopped to rear the aforesaid plea, before this Court.

8. Both the learned Courts below, had meted deference, to the factum of the defendants, (i) to the knowledge of the plaintiffs erecting a pucca Kotha and a chhapar 16-17 years, prior to the institution of the suit. The reason for both the learned Courts below imputing credence, to the aforesaid espousal, of the defendants, hence, emanated, from, theirs placing reliance upon Ex.DW4/A, exhibit whereof comprises an application, made, by one Jaswant Singh vis-a-vis the State Electricity Board, for installation of an electricity connection in the suit property. Apparently sanction thereto, was meted, in the year 1980, by the State Electricity Board, meteings whereof are borne by the defendant Jaswant Singh, as reflected by Ex. D-1 to D-7, defraying electricity charges, to the electricity board, for his consuming electricity, for the purpose applied for. The aforesaid inference would suffer negation, in case, evidence, is adduced by the plaintiff, (i) that the sanction meted by the electricity board vis-a-vis the application made by Jaswant Singh, not, appertaining to the structure raised by the defendants, upon, the suit khasra number, (ii) upon firm evidence being adduced, of, the electricity bills not appertaining to the suit premises, besides evidence being adduced, of, no electricity meter being installed for the purpose applied for, by one Jaswant Singh. However, the aforesaid evidence is grossly amiss, (iii) thereupon, on anvil of Ex.DW4/A, it is to be concluded, (iv) of, hence the year 1980, being the apt reckonable period, for, computing the commencement(s), of, the apt period(s) of limitation, (v) for the plaintiff, to, within 12 years therefrom, period whereof, is the mandated period, under, the apposite Section 65, of the Limitation Act, hence institute a suit for possession, (vi) thereupon, the plaintiffs' suit for recovery of possession, being instituted within 12 years, elapsing from 1980, renders it to fall within limitation. Even if, no issue appertaining to limitation, stood struck, by the learned trial Court, yet on an incisive reading of issue No.2, which stands extracted hereinafter:

does bear out an inference, (vii) of, its including also the therein the issue of limitation, especially when, unless, the interdicting embargo of estoppel reared against the plaintiffs, by the defendants, has also been cogently proven, especially, for ousting, the plaintiffs, from, seeking rendition, of a decree of possession, tenable ouster(s) whereof, also obviously encompass an entwined therewith plea, of, the plaintiffs' suit being barred by limitation, "besides" reiteratedly pleas of estoppel AND, of, acquiescence(s) acquire validity only upon the period of limitation prescribed, for instituting a suit, for possession, hence evidently expiring, whereas, hereat it has not evidently expired. (viii) Imperatively, the effect, of, estoppels' arising from conscious waiver and abandonment(s), of, known rights by the aggrieved, take their fullest effect, only upon the mandated apposite period of limitation, hence, standing evidently elasped. Consequently, omissions, if any, of the learned trial Court, to strike any direct issue appertaining, to the plaintiffs' suit, being barred by limitation, is, not a gross infirmity, nor non striking thereof vitiates, the trial of the suit, (ix) importantly, when for reasons aforestated, the afore extracted apposite issue No.2, takes within its ambit, also, for the reasons aforestated, the issue appertaining to the plaintiff's suit being barred by limitation. Moreover, when thereupon no apparent prejudice has been demonstrably visited upon the defendants, rather with theirs during the trial of the suit, being evidently aware of its non striking, thereupon, they are estopped to espouse before this Court, that, non striking(s) thereof, hence, prejudicing their right(s).

9. Be that as it may, the counsel for the defendants has contended with much force before this Court that the concurrent findings, rendered upon issue No.2, warranting vindication by this Court, given, the apparent fact, of the suit property neither adjoining nor abutting, the properties of the defendants, rather it being located at some distance therefrom, hence, (a)with the defendants openly and to the knowledge of the plaintiffs' raising construction thereon; (b) AND with theirs construction, as evident, from Ex.DW4/A, being raised in the year 1980; (c) thereupon, the inevitable inference accruable therefrom, is of the plaintiffs', consciously abandoning besides waiving their claims vis-a-vis the suit land and also theirs hence standing estopped, to rear the suit against them, for seeking rendition of a decree for possession. However, the aforesaid plea is not acceptable to this Court, given this Court concluding that, all conscious, awakened waivers and abandonment(s), of, plaintiffs' claim qua the suit kahsra numbers, yet not eroding their rights, to seek reclamation of its possession, unless, the plaintiffs' suit was instituted beyond the prescribed period, of, limitation. Contrarily, with this court concluding, of, the plaintiffs' suit, being, within limitation, thereupon, all the awakened abandonment(s) and waiver(s) of claim(s), by the plaintiffs vis-a-vis the suit khasra numbers, would work, no benefits vis-a-vis the defendants, for theirs barring the plaintiffs, the recorded true owners of the suit khasra number, to seek a decree for possession of the suit khasra number..

10. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as well as by the learned trial Court being not based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, both the learned Courts below excluding germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the appellants/plaintiffs and against the defendants/respondents

11. In view of the above discussion, the instant appeal is allowed and the concurrent judgments and decree rendered by both the learned Courts below are set aside. In sequel the suit of the plaintiff is decreed AND the defendants are directed to handover vacant possession of the suit land measuring 2 kanals and as depicted in site plan Ex.P-1 being part of land measuring 3 kanals , 2 marlas, bearing Khewat No.513 min, Khatauni No.862 min, Khasra No.1747, situated in village Dharampur and District Una, H.P. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal stands directed against the concurrently recorded verdicts, of, both the learned Courts below, whereby, they dismissed the suit of the plaintiff, wherein, he claimed rendition, of, a decree to the effect that the order, of, 25.3.1997 rendered by the District Collector, Bilaspur, H.P., whereunder, he directed, for, resumption, of possession of suit land measuring 2532.02 sq. meters, being hence declared to be illegal, void, contrary to the judgment and decree pronounced by the learned Additional District Judge Bilaspur, upon Civil Appeal No. 171-B/13 of 1986/85. Being aggrieved therefrom, the plaintiff/appellant herein concerts to assail, it, by preferring an appeal before this Court.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that, the original plaintiff Sh. Mangat Ram, now represented by appellant, filed a suit for declaration, possession and mandatory injunction as against the defendant. It is averred that he filed a civil suit which was decided on 29.1.1985 by the learned Sub Judge, Bilaspur and the plaintiff was held to be tenant of the suit land. In appeal, the learned Additional District Judge, Bialspur, modified the judgment and decree to the extent that the plaintiff was held to be tenant in possession, but it was held that he cannot become owner in view of the provisions of Section 104 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act. It was further alleged that the defendant can not interfere in peaceful possession of the plaintiff except by the process of law. It was alleged that the defendant issued notice to the plaintiff for resumption of the land and the plaintiff filed the reply also. The Collector vide his order dated 25.3.1997 ordered to resume the possession of the suit land and further issued warrant of possession. It was alleged that the said order is malafide and the plaintiff cannot evicted under the law. Hence the suit filed by the plaintiff.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, he has taken preliminary objections inter alia maintainability, res judicata, cause of action and that the plaintiff had not alleged the complete facts in regard to an execution of application filed earlier in regard to the suit land. On merit, it was pleaded that the plaintiff was dispossessed on 29.3.1997 from the suit land in accordance with law and he is not entitled to any relief claimed.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court, struck, the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the order dated 25.3.1997 passed by the District Collector, Bilaspur, is wrong, illegal, null and void, as alleged? OPP
2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of possession of the suit land, as alleged? If so, in what manner? OPP.
3. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD.
4. Whether the suit is barred under Section 11 of the C.P.C.? OPD
5. Whether the plaintiff has no locus standi and cause of action to file the present suit? OPD.
6. Whether the plaintiff has been evicted from the suit land on 29.3.1997 in accordance with law? If so, its effect? OPD.
7. Whether this Court has no jurisdiction to decide the case, as alleged? OPD.
8. Whether the suit is bad for non-service of notice U/S 80 CPC, on the defendant, as alleged? OPD.
9. Whether the suit land has been improved by the defendant after dispossessing the plaintiff from it, as alleged? If so, its effect? OPD.
10. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court, dismissed the suit of the plaintiff/appellant herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the plaintiff/appellant before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed the appeal and affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

6. Now the plaintiff/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before this Court, wherein, he assails the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 30.05.2005, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiff/appellant against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

a) Whether the proceedings for termination of the tenancy was to be regulated under the provisions of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, because the learned Additional District Judge had held the plaintiff late Mangat Ram to be tenant over the land in suit, as per judgment dated 3.5.89?

Substantial question of Law No.1.

7. In sequel to a conclusive binding verdict recorded by the learned Additional District Judge, Bilaspur, upon, Civil Appeal No. 171-B/13 of 1986/85, verdict whereof borne in Ex. P-3, wherein, (i) the learned Additional District Judge concerned, made, a declaration qua the deceased plaintiff's possession, upon, the suit khasra numbers being in the capacity of a lessee, under, a lease deed executed inter se the deceased plaintiff vis-a-vis the defendant, (ii) also he in the operative part, of, Ex.P-3, injuncted the defendant/state of Himachal Pradesh, from, interfering in the possession of the plaintiff upon the suit land except by adoption of due process(es) of law, (iii) hence, thereupon, the District Collector concerned, in consonance with the apposite instrument of lease deed executed inter se the deceased plaintiff, with, the defendant/State of Himachal Pradesh, instrument of lease whereof is borne in D-2, tritely upon anvil of clause (f) thereof, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter, wherein, contemplations are held, of, the lessee on being served with one month's notice, his being entailed with an obligation, to vacate the leased property, hence, under EX.D-3, issued one month's notice upon the lessee. Clause (f) of the lease deed, comprised in Ex. D-2, is reproduced as under:-

> "(f) The lessee shall vacate the leased premises on one month's notice requiring him to do so at any time and within that period he (lessee) will have to remove his materials or structures from the land failing which he shall be liable to ejectment without any claim for any compensation."

As apparent, from, an endorsement occurring, on the second page of Ex. D-3, it was evidently served upon the lessee, AND thereafter, the authority concerned, ordered for issuance of warrants of possession vis-a-vis the suit land. In consequence(s) to valid execution, of apposite warrants, of possession, hence, possession of, the suit land was taken, from the lessee. The extant suit, of, the plaintiff, rears, a plea for setting aside the contractual notice borne in Ex. D-3 also embodies therein relief, for, setting aside the orders recorded by the Collector concerned, orders whereof are borne in Ex., D-1.

8. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the appellant has contended with vigour, (i) that the mandate, of, the learned Additional District Judge concerned, pronounced in Civil Appeal No. 171-B/13 of 1986/85, verdict whereof, is, comprised in Ex. P-3, voices a categorical declaration, of, the lessee being construed to be a "gair maurusi" upon the suit land, under, the defendant/State, (ii) whereafter, he contends that resumption(s) or reclamation(s) of, possession of the suit property, enjoined reverence being meted vis-a-vis the apposite provisions borne in the Himachal Pradesh Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972, rather than, an inapt invocation by the Collector concerned, of the afore extracted clause, borne in the instrument of lease executed vis-a-vis the suit land inter se the lessee/deceased plaintiff and the defendant/State. However, reading(s) of the operative paragraph No.11, of, the verdict pronounced by the learned Additional District Judge, Bilaspur in Civil Appeal No. 171-B/13 of 1986/85, verdict whereof borne in Ex.P-3, paragraph No.11 whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "11. In view of the foregoing discussion, I conclude that the plaintiff is in possession of the suit land as a tenant under the defendant, the State of H.P. However, it is held further that the plaintiff has not become owner of the disputed land under the provisions of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972. Consequently, the appeal is partly accepted and the judgment and decree dated 29.1.1985 passed by Shri R.K. Verma, Sub Judge, Bilaspur are modified. It is declared that the plaintiff is in possession of the disputed land as tenant under the lease dated 1.2.1965 under the defendant, the State of H.P. The defendant, the state of H.P. is restrained from interfering with the possession of the plaintiff over the disputed land except under the due process of law. Parties shall bear their own costs. The judgment and decree under appeal shall stand modified accordingly. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly."

contrarily makes a display, of, the learned Additional District Judge, Bilaspur, making, a clear echoing therein of the plaintiff not being vested with the statutory proprietary rights vis-a-vis the suit land, especially upon purported working(s), of the apposite statutory provisions vis-a-vis him, provisions whereof are embodied in the Himachal Pradesh Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972. Contrarily, a vivid declaration, is, made therein of the plaintiff's possession vis-a-vis analogous suit khasra number(s) therein vis-a-vis the suit khasra numbers herein, (i) being, in the capacity of a tenant, importantly, under an instrument of lease, of, 1.2.1965, executed vis-a-vis the suit land inter se him and the State of H.P. (ii) Furthermore, when in Ex.P-3 it is also ordained, of, the defendant/State being restrained, from, interfering in the plaintiff's possession vis-a-vis the suit land, except by its adopting due process of law, (iii) thereupon, the learned Collector concerned by invoking the aforesaid apposite clause (f), borne, in the apposite instrument of lease embodied in Ex.D-2, also hence his in consonance therewith, evidently issuing, one month's notice upon the lessee, notice whereof also stood evidently served upon the latter, as borne by an endorsement existing on the second page of Ex. D-3, (iv) thereupon, the subsequent thereto resumption, of, possession, of, the suit land, by the defendant/State of H.P., under validly executed warrants of possession, from, the lessee, cannot be, construed to be suffering from any illegality. Even if, there was any illegality, in the Collector concerned, relying upon clause (f) of Ex. D-2, thereupon, it was open for the lessee, to, adduce evidence in respect thereof, (v) especially qua the aforestated apposite clause being untenable, besides being arbitrarily invoked by the Collector concerned. However, the aforesaid evidence remains unadduced. Contrarily, the only ground reared in the plaint, for, reversing the verdict recorded by the Collector concerned, verdict whereof is borne in Ex. D-1, (vi) is of Ex. D-2, rather vesting right(s) in the lessee, for, his ejectment from the suit land, occurring only in consonance, with, the provisions borne in the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, (vii) espousal whereof, for all the reasons recorded hereianbove, are extremely frail, thereupon, with the Collector concerned, pronouncing apposite valid orders, orders whereof is borne in Ex.D-1, hence, subsequent thereto resumption of possession, of the suit land, by the defendant/State, under validly executed warrants, of, possession, from, the lessee/plaintiff, is imbued with formidable legal tenacity.

9. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as well as by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court did not exclude germane and apposite material from consideration. Consequently, the substantial question of law No.1 is answered in favour of the defendant/respondent and against the plaintiff/appellant.

10. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in the instant appeal, which is accordingly dismissed. The impugned judgments and decrees are maintained and affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiffs' suit, constituted before the learned trial Court, was, decreed by the learned trial Judge. The learned Trial Judge pronounced findings adverse vis-a-vis defendant, one, Sohan Singh, vis-a-vis the testamentary disposition of deceased testator Ranu, testamentary disposition whereof is borne in Ex.DW5/A, qua it being not proven to be validly and duly executed also the learned trial Court recorded a firm conclusion qua co-plaintiff Kamla Devi being born from the loins of deceased Ranu, from the latter's marriage with one Kanchu. The defendant being aggrieved therefrom instituted an appeal before the learned First Appellate Court. The latter Court affirmed the disaffirmative findings recorded by the learned trial Judge, upon, the issue, appertaining to the valid and due execution of the testamentary disposition executed by deceased testator Ranu, testamentary disposition whereof, is, comprised in Ex.PW5/B, whereas, it reversed findings recorded by the learned trial Court qua co-plaintiff being born, from, the loins of lions of deceased Ranu, from his marriage with one Kanchu. The learned First Appellate Court in the operative part of the judgment concluded that co-plaintiff Tishu being the brother of deceased Ranu, hence, his being to the exclusion of defendant Sohan Singh, thereupon, entitled to, on opening of succession vis-a-vis the deceased's estate, hence succeed it. Being aggrieved therefrom, the defendant/appellant herein, has instituted the instant appeal before this Court, for his concerting to beget its reversal.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiffs have filed the suit for declaration and permanent injunction with the averments that plaintiff No.1 is brother and plaintiff No.2 is daughter of Sh. Ranu Ram. Plaintiff No.1 along with said Sh. Ranu is recorded owners in possession of the land comprised in Khata No.28, Khatauni No.39, Khasra Nos. 639 and 649, measuring 8-13 bighas situate in Mouza Tiari, Tehsil, Chopal, District Shimla. Sh. Ranu Ram has died 27 years back and plaintiff No.2 was minor at that time. The defendant taking undue advantage of the illiteracy of plaintiff No.1 and minority of plaintiff No.2 prepared a forged and false Will of 23.05.1980 in the absence and without the consent of Ranu Ram and presented the same before the revenue authorities in years 1982/1984 for incorporation of the revenue entries in his favour, which was rejected on 11.11.1987 by the A.C. 1st Grade on the ground that the same be got registered under Section 40/41 of Indian Registration Act. Plaintiff No.2 had also raised objections through her brother that the "Will" was forged. The defendant slept over his right and after a gap of about nine years initiated proceedings under Section 40-41 and got the 'Will' registered, falsely in the absence of the plaintiff and that the same is forged, wrong, incorrect and contrary to the facts and liable to be set aside. The defendant along with one Murat Singh instead of perusing the "Will" preferred an application for correction of revenue entries under Section 37 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act before the A.C. 2nd Grade, Chopal on 22.03.1993, with regard to the suit land. The defendant in the proceedings admitted the status of the plaintiff No.1 as legal representative of Sh. Ranu Ram. Mutation No.471 of 14.06.1996, on the basis of "Will" is wrong, illegal and incorrect. The defendant was threatening to dispossess the plaintiff from the suit land. So, the plaintiffs have filed the instant suit.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, he has taken preliminary objections qua, maintainability, estoppel, limitation and non joinder of necessary parties. ON merits, the defendant has averred that the suit land is owned and possessed by the defendant to the extent of ½ share and the remaining suit land is in possession of Sh. Murat Singh. The entries in favour of plaintiffs are contrary. Sh. Ranu Ram executed a valid Will during his life time in sound state of mind to the knowledge of the plaintiff No.1 and the general public. The Will was probated by the defendant in accordance with the provisions of Indian Registration Act and mutation No. 471 dated 14.06.1996 was validly attested. The order of the Assistant Collector 2nd Grade was legal. Sh. Ranu along with plaintiff No.1 had left the village. Sh. Murat Singh and also filed a suit against the plaintiff in respect of half share in the suit land.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the 'Will' dated 23.5.1980 executed by the deceased Ranu in favour of defendant is forged as alleged?OPP.
2. Whether the mutation No.471 dated 14.6.1996 is wrong and incorrect, if so, its effect?OPP.
3. Whether the plaintiff No.2 is a daughter of deceased Ranu as alleged?OPP.
4. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for permanent injunction?OPP.
5. Whether the suit is within time?OPP.
6. Whether in the alternative the plaintiffs are entitled for decree of possession? OPP.
7. Whether the deceased Ranu executed the 'WILL' legal and valid will dated 23.5.1980 in favour of defendant, as alleged? OPD.
8. Whether the plaintiffs are estopped to file the suit on account of their acts of omission and commission?OPD.
9. Whether the suit is maintainable in the present form?OPD.
10. Whether the suit is bad for non joinder of necessary parties?OPD.
11. Whether the suit has not been valued properly for the purpose of Court fee?OPD.
12. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff/respondent herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the defendant/appellant before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed the appeal and partly affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

6. Now the defendant/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court wherein he assails the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission on 26.11.2007, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the defendant/appellant against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

> 1. Whether the learned Sub Judge below having held that respondent No.1 Smt. Kamla was only legal heir of late Sh. Ranu, therefore, in the absence of any appeal, on behalf of respondent No.1, Sh. Thisu, such findings cannot be reversed in appeal, as filed by the defendant, by the learned Addl. District Judge, whereby he has held that respondent No.2 was not daughter of Sh. Ranu and therefore, he had exclusively succeeded deceased Sh. Ranu?
>
> 2. Whether the findings of the trial court holding respondent No.2 as daughter of Sh. Ranu and for this reason that she is owner in possession of this land, are without legal and valid basis and in the appeal Learned Addl. District Judge below reversed those findings in the absence of any valid reason whereby respondent NO.1 has been held to be owner in possession of suit land?
>
> 3. Whether respondents have failed to lead evidence in support of their claim to be in possession of the suit land and on the contrary appellant have pleaded and proved on record that he is in possession of the suit land, therefore, decree of injunction could be passed against him and findings by both the Courts below on the point of ownership and possession of the suit land are self contradictory erroneous and illegal?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 to 3.

7. None of the substantial question of law formulated hereinabove appertain to the invalidity of the pronouncements concurrently recorded by both the learned Courts below vis-a-vis the testamentary disposition of deceased Ranu, borne in Ex. DW5/A, being not proven to be validly and duly executed, pronouncements whereof are founded, upon, want of emergence, of, evidence in satiation of apposite thereto statutory principles, enshrined in Section 63 of the Indian Succession Act. Consequently, the findings recorded by both the learned Courts below vis-a-vis Ex.DW5/A being not cogently proven to be validly and duly executed, hence, acquired binding and conclusive effect.

8. Be that as it may, with RSA No. 361 of 2007, constituted before this Court by one Kamla Devi, a co-plaintiff along with Thisu in the apposite Civil Suit, standing dismissed for want of prosecution, thereupon, the findings adversarial vis-a-vis co-plaintiff Kamla Devi recorded by the learned First Appellate Court vis-a-vis hers being, not, begotten from the loins, of, one Ranu, from the latter's marriage with one Kanchu, also acquire(s) conclusivity and binding effect. (i) Nowat, it being proven of the defendant Sohan Singh holding, no, relationship with the deceased rather with proof emanating of co-plaintiff Thisu being the brother of deceased Ranu. (ii) Besides, upon, co-plaintiff Tishu's demise occurring, during, the pendency of the instant RSA before this Court, his name being ordered to be deleted by this Court, (iii) under, orders recorded on 30.09.2016, hence, for rendering a befitting verdict, enjoin(s) an imperative allusion thereto. (iv) Readings, of the, apposite orders, unveils of the reason prevailing with this Court, for, ordering for deletion of the name of deceased Thisu, from, the array of respondents, in the extant appeal, being rested upon, the estate of deceased Thisu, being represented by surviving respondent No.2, one, Kamla, (v) hence, the benefits of the decree rendered vis-a-vis deceased respondent No.1 Thisu, obviously ought to accrue vis-a-vis respondent No.2, given the latter on the former's demise hence representing his estate. As aforestated, with both the learned Courts below, making, a firm binding pronouncement qua invalidity, of, execution of Ex.DW5/A by deceased Ranu vis-a-vis the defendant, (vi) therefrom with defendant Sohan Singh, naturally holding no locus standi vis-a-vis the estate of deceased Ranu, besides obviously vis-a-vis the suit property, rather the estate, of, co-respondent No.1, since deleted from the array of respondents, being for the reasons aforestated, now represented by respondent No.2, consequently, the benefits of the decree ought to accrue vis-a-vis respondent No.2 Kamla Devi. (vii) Dehors the infirmity, if any, in the findings returned by the learned First Appellate Court, upon, the issue appertaining to Kamla not being born, from the loins of Ranu, from the latter's marriage with Kanchu.

9. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court are based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court ahas not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. All the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the respondent(s) and against the appellant.

10. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the impugned judgment and decree rendered by the learned First Appellate Court in Civil Appeal No.150-S/13 of 2000 is affirmed and maintained. No costs. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back.

This order will dispose of an application, cast under the provisions of Order 37 Rule 3 (5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, as, moved before this Court, by the defendants/applicants (hereinafter referred to as the "defendants"), wherethrough, they seek hence leave to defend the summary suit, instituted by the plaintiff/non-applicant (hereinafter referred to as the "plaintiff").

2. The plaintiff has instituted the instant suit, cast under the provisions of Order XXXVII, of the Code of Civil Procedure, seeking there-through, the, recovery of suit amount. An averment is embodied in the plaint, qua the plaintiff being a duly registered co-operative Society, registration whereof, is, entered at Sr. No. 687, in the apt records, maintained by the Registering Authority concerned. The plaint has been instituted by the duly authorized representative of the society. The suit has been drawn, on, anvil of cheque bearing No. 644324 of 6.7.2016, drawn on State Bank of India, Solan, embodying therein a sum of Rs. 45,50,000/-, cheque whereof, upon, its presentation before the Bank concerned, was refused to be honoured, on account of " Drawer sign not as per mandate". Photocopy of the Cheque is appended with the plaint as Annexure P-3. In sequel thereto, the apt statutory notice was served, upon, the defendants. Notice whereof, is, borne in Annexure P-5, and, upon the defendants not meteing compliance thereto, a complaint embodied, in Annexure P-6, was, instituted before the Court of Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, (II), Solan. Clause (a) of Paragraph 5 of the plaint, details the amount(s) taken as loan, by the defendants, from the plaintiff.

3. Succinctly, the dishonored cheque borne in Annexure P-3, is, espoused to be carrying hence sum(s) of money arising, towards a legally enforceable debt. The plaintiff, through the instant plaint, cast under the afore provisions, has, upon Annexure P-7, Annexure whereof comprises a notice issued by the defendants, hence, reared a vehement contention, before this Court, (i) that the recitals borne therein, being, readable as admission(s) of the defendants, vis-a-vis, issuance, of, the afore dishonored negotiable instrument, borne in Annexure P-3, being towards a legally enforceable debt, hence, a verdict rather summarily decreeing the plaintiff's suit being pronounced, upon, the plaintiff.

4. When notice was served, upon the, defendants, the instant application, cast under the provisions, of, Order 37 Rule 3(5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, stood instituted before this Court, by the defendants, wherethrough, they seek leave of the Court, to, defend the suit, and, obviously espousals' contrary to the ones embodied in the plaint, stand reared therein. In paragraph 2 of the afore OMP, a contention is reared qua some borrowings, being made by the defendants, from the plaintiff society, and, the entire borrowings being liquidated, by the defendants, and, also disclosures rather holding concurrence, with, the afore averment, hence, also occur in the apt statement, of, account prepared up to 31.3.2016. A further averment is borne therein qua liquidation of the loan amount being made, either, through RTGs or through cheques, hence, per se, the defendants contest, that, the apt liquidation not occurring through cash payments. A denial is borne in afore OMP qua the amount embodied in the cheque aforesaid, being, not realizable, from, the defendants, hence, the suit being not maintainable, for, its being hence summarily decreed.

5. A contention, vis-a-vis, the suit being not maintainable, within, the ambit, of, Section 72 of the Himachal Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1968, is, also reared, conspicuously qua the condition set-forth therein, remaining un-complied with, by, the plaintiff. Further more, the afore dishonored cheque, is, contended by the defendants to be a part of a series of blank security cheques, issued, by the defendants, to, the plaintiff before March, 2016. Moreover, it is also contended, that, the issuance thereof being under pressure standing exerted, upon, one Raj Kumar Mittal, by one Chander Pal, Secretary of the Society. Also the details occurring on the back side of the cheque, are, averred to be made by the plaintiff, as such, the cheque is alleged to be forged. A cheque in addition, from one amongst, the series of blank cheques, and, carrying a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, stands contended to be presented for encashment by M/S A.R Associates, of which one Raj Kumar, is, stated to be a partner. Moreover, the defendants also aver, in, the afore OMP, qua forbidance being made upon one Chander Pal , from, making misuse of certain blank cheques, A notice is stated to be issued on 10.6.2016, whereunder, a request for returning, the, security cheques, was made. However, it is further averred that the plaintiff failed to do so, rather, he has instituted the instant summary suit.

6. The plaintiff meted reply to the application, and, contended that given the averments, made, in the summary suit, and, with the afore rendered admission, of, the defendants, rather renders the suit amount, to be an undisputed claim, and, with the extant summary suit being backed, by an apparent statutorily holistic purpose, and, also with the instant suit, hence satiating, all thereof apt statutory ingredients,(i) thereupon the espoused leave being granted to the defendants, would rather render the afore holistic statutory purpose hence being defeated.

7. In opposition to the statement of account, appended with the application, the, plaintiff has appended with its apt reply, hence Annexure R-1, annexure whereof, comprises the statement of account appertaining, to, the period from 1.4.2015 to 31.3.2017, wherethrough, rather ,the, disclosures borne in the prior thereto statement of account, ending up to 31.3.2016, hence stand negativated.

8. The defendants while meteing rejoinder to the reply furnished by the plaintiff, contended, that Annexure R-1 appended with the reply to the afore OMP, is, bereft of any vigor, and, is a false document.

9. Before proceeding to determine, the, validity of the aforesaid submissions addressed before this Court, by the learned counsel for the parties, it is deemed incumbent, to bear in mind the expostulations of law, as are enjoined to be applied thereon, for hence making a conclusion, qua, the espoused leave being accordable or refusable. The trite expostulations of law, are, embodied in a judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Case titled as Sunil Enterprises and another versus SBI Commercial & International Bank Ltd., reported in (1998)5 SCC 354, whereunder the Hon'ble Apex Court, has set forth the hereinafter extracted expostulations of law:-

> "4(e) If the defendant has no defence or the defence is illusory or sham or practically moonshine, the Court may show mercy to the defendant by enabling him to try to prove a defence but at the same time protect the plaintiff imposing the condition that the amount claimed should be paid into Court or otherwise secured."

10. The afore expostulation of law are further elaborated and reiterated, in a judgment rendered, by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case titled as State Bank of Hyderabad versus Rabo Bank, reported in (2015) 10 SCC 521, relevant paragraphs 15 to 17 whereof are extracted hereinafter:-

"15. As regards the entitlement of a defendant to the grant of leave to defend, the law is well settled long back in the year 1949 in Sm. Kiranmoyee Dassi Vs. Dr. J. Chatterjee, AIR 1949 Cal 479, in the form of the following propositions:

If the defendant satisfies the Court that he has a good defence to the claim on its merits, the plaintiff is not entitled to leave to sign the judgment and the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend.

If the defendant raised a triable issue indicating that he has a fair or bona fide or reasonable defence although not a positively good defence the plaintiff is not entitled to sign judgment and the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend.

If the defendant discloses such facts as may be deemed sufficient to entitle him to defend, that is to say, although the affidavit does not positively and immediately made it clear that he has a defence, yet, shows such a stage of facts as leads to the inference that at the trial of the action he may be able to establish a defence to the plaintiff`s claim, the plaintiff is not entitled to judgment and the defendant is entitled to leave to defend but in such a case the court may in its discretion impose conditions as to the time or mode of trial but not as to payment into court or furnishing security.

If the defendant has no defence or the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine then ordinarily the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment and the defendant is not entitled to leave to defend.

If the defendant has no defence or the defence is illusory or sham or practically moonshine then although ordinarily the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment, the court may protect the plaintiff by only allowing the defence to proceed if the amount claimed is paid into court or otherwise secured and give leave to the defendant on such condition, and thereby show mercy to the defendant by enabling him to try to prove a defence.

16. It is also noticed that the law as enunciated above, has been followed by the Courts in several cases [See also : Santosh Kumar Vs. Bhai Mool Singh, AIR 1958 SC 321, Milkhiram (India) (P) Ltd. Vs. Chamanlal Bros, AIR 1965 SC 1698, Mechelec Engineers & Manufacturers Vs. Basic Equipment Corpn., (1976) 4 SCC 687 and Sunil Enterprises & Anr. Vs. SBI Commercial & International Bank Ltd. (1998) 5 SCC 354].

17. An analysis of the above principles makes it clear that in cases where the defendant has raised a triable issue or a reasonable defence, the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend. Leave is granted to defend even in cases where the defendant upon disclosing a fact, though lacks the defence but makes a positive impression that at the trial the defence would be established to the plaintiff's claim. Only in the cases where the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine, the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment."

11. For apt application(s), of, the inherent apt nuance, of, the afore expostulations of law, upon, the competing espousals hence reared by the plaintiff, and, for hence validating or invaliding them, rather also enjoins eruption, of, apt material personifying qua (a) an evident bonafide defence being reared by the defendants, whereupon, the defendants being enjoined to be granted, the espoused leave to defend; (b) qua the afore rearings of defence, within, the afore expostulations being not a positive good defence; (c) rather the espoused defence being both a bonafide or a reasonable defence, to the plaintiff's claim, (d), and, with imminent inference(s) being ensuable therefrom qua, upon, the defence being put to trial, there being every likelihood of emergence, of evidence, thereupon an apt

inference being erectable qua the defendants hence rearing a bonafide or a reasonable defence; (e) upon the defence being illusory or sham or practically moonshine, thereupon, the plaintiff being enjoined, to seek leave to sign the judgment, and, the defendants being dis-entitled to seek leave to defend.

12. Further more, even if the afore expostulations of law, stand satisfied by the plaintiff, and, when hence the plaintiff is enjoined to be granted, leave to sign the judgment yet, the Court may proceed to protect the plaintiff, by allowing the defence, to proceed, yet subject, to, as a measure, of, mere clemency being bestowed, upon, the defence, comprised in the directions being made, upon, the defendants, to, give an adequate security, vis-a-vis, the suit amount. Within the ambit of the afore expostulated parameters of law, this Court proceeds to determine the factum, qua, the admission, if any, of the defendants, as embodied in the notice issued by the defendants, rather hence, boosting a firm conclusion, that, the amount borne in the dishonored cheque, being an undisputed amount, (i) hence for obviating the suit being put to a procrastinated trial, upon, the apt leave being meted to the defendants, (ii) thereupon this Court rather would proceeding to grant leave, to the plaintiff to sign the judgment, (iii) also, it is enjoined to make discernments, from, the afore rendered material qua whether the defendants rather satiating the afore parameters, whereafter, this Court may proceed to grant the espoused leave to it/him/them.

13. The most pertinent documentary evidence, existing on record, whereon reliance is placed by the plaintiff-non applicant, to, contend that it carries apt admission(s), of, the defendants/applicants, is, embodied in Annexure P-7, admission whereof occurs, in, the hereinafter extracted apt paragraph, borne in paragraph 1 thereof.

> "That Shri Raj Kumar Mittal my aforesaid client being partner of first two concerns and being Director of two Private Limited Companies took loan on different dates from your society and company in order to advance business of the aforesaid concerns and companies. The said loans were taken in individual capacity and also as partner of the said concerns and companies. In order to secure repayment of loans taken on different dates Shir Chander Pal Aggarwal being officials of the Society and company used to take blank cheques signed by my said client and without filling the name of the society, company or any individual. However, whatever amount is used to be taken as loan was shown in the said cheques. My client also issued blank cheques duly signed by him in his individual capacity from his saving account which were handed over to Shri Chander Pal aforesaid. Further blank stamp papers duly signed by my client as partner of the aforesaid concerns and also in his individual capacity were obtained by your society and company and handed over to Shri Chander Pal official of the society and company."

14. However, subsequent thereto a recital occurs, in Annexure P-7, that, certain blank cheques being handed over to one Chander Pal Aggarwal, and, from one amongst the afore blank cheques, a cheque carrying a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, standing presented on 9.6.2016 by one Amit Aggarwal son of Chander Pal Aggarwal, and, hence an echoing also occurs therein that the afore misdemeanor(s) of the son of Mr. Chander Pal Aggarwal, rather rendering open an inference, that the cheque at hand, being one amongst the blank chques, and, it not carrying any undisputed realisable or decreeable amounts' of money.

15. Further more, reliance is placed, upon, notice borne in Annexure P-5, issued by the counsel for the plaintiff, and, served upon the defendants, conspicuously, prior to the institution of a complaint under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, espousals borne wherein, are, in concurrence with the recitals, borne in the complaint, and, with the defendants not meteing any reply thereto, hence subsequent thereto exculpating echoings, as, are borne in Annexure P-7, being an afterthought, and, a sheer concoction, and, also not rendering hence effaced, the, effect of the afore sentence, occurring in paragraph 1 of Annexure P-7.

16. Nowat is to be gauged, the respective efficacy(s) of the afore submission imperatively, on, anvil of the afore apt expostulated parameters,.

17. The dishonored negotiable instrument is issued, on, 6.7.2016, and, the statement of account, appended with the the application, rather appertains to the period much prior thereto, in as much, as, qua 31.3.2016. Consequently prima-facie, the statement of account appended with the application, at hand, with disclosure occurring therein qua no loan amounts yet pending against the defendants rather is rendered insignificant. Also, any contest qua Annexure R-1, appended with the plaintiff/non-applicant's reply, conspicuously vis-a-vis, its authenticity may not be relevant. Contrarily when it constitutes an authenticated copy of the statement, of, account, and, when, it, hence holds proximity, vis-a-vis, issuance of the dishonored negotiable instrument, (i) and, when it assumes an enhanced aura of validity given, upon, a combined reading of the apt disclosures' made therein vis-a-vis cheque borne in Annexure P-3, and, with notice borne in Annexure P-5, and, also, (ii) when its' issuance occurs in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, issuances of cheque borne in Annexures P-3 and of notice borne in P-5 (iii) thereupon unveilings rather emerging qua inter-se congruity occurring inter-se all the aforesaid Annexures.

18. Reiteratedly, in making the aforesaid conclusion, the factum of notice, comprised in Annexure P-5, remaining un-replied, by the respondent/plaintiff, thereupon the contents thereof, do acquire an aura of validity, (i) and, further more when it is issued in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, statement of account, (ii) also, thereupon all the afore annexures acquire an alike aura of sanctity. Even though, Annexure P-7 carries therewithin, the, afore extracted apt sentence, and, with the afore Annexure standing issued, on 10.6.2016, yet the effect of the afore sentence, does rather avail an inference, that, certain borrowings, being made by the defendants, from the plaintiff, and, for liquidation thereof, the defendants issuing cheques, and, the amount borne in the cheques rather remaining un-liquidated.

19. Since the defendants hence rear a plea, that, all the liquidations hence occurring through, cheques or through RTGs mode, and, not through cash, (i) thereupon when Annexure R-1 appended with the reply, does bear proximity vis-a-vis, issuance of the dishonored negotiable instrument, (ii) thereupon, the afore sentence occurring in Annexure P-7, tantamounts to an admission qua the sums borne therein, being towards liquidation of outstanding borrowing, as, made by the defendants from the plaintiff.

20. Even otherwise the defendants prima-facie appear to raise various submissions, that, certain security cheques being issued by them to the plaintiff, and, that the figures, and, the scribings occurring therein being, not, in his/their hands. However, the defendants did not adduce any evidence qua therewith, before, the learned trial Magistrate concerned nor any disclosures stand made, in the apt testification rendered therebefore, qua the afore trite fact, hence coming under contest. The further effect thereof, is, that the espousal occurring in paragraph 2 of Annexure P-7, qua son of one Chander Pal Aggarwal, misusing a cheque for a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, comprised in his presenting it, before the Bank concerned, stands falsified, (i) besides for the reasons, that, it appertains to a period much prior to the period of issuance, of, the dishonored instruments, (ii) and, it carrying an amount lesser than the amount borne, in, the dishonored instrument, hence, also diminishes the vigor of the espousal, of, the defendants, (iii) predominantly also given despite the witnesses' concerned, of the plaintiff, while rendering testifications, before, the learned trial Magistrate concerned, hence making echoings' qua the apt statement of account being available (iv) yet the the defendants not making adduction(s) thereof before the Court, whereas the afore adduction of statements of accounts, would facilitate the Court, in, drawing an inference qua the defendants' admission being negatived or effaced, whereupon, non-adduction thereof, gives, rather strength to the afore admission.

21. Be that as it may, for all the assigned reasons, the defendants have abysmally failed, to, establish qua theirs holding a reasonable, fair and bonafide defence, and, also grossly failed, to, at this stage ,rear a ground that if the afore defence(s) are put to trial, theirs bringing forth hence evidence, (i) whereupon, an inference may be drawable of their defence, being workable or being genuine or holding sanctity, (ii) contrarily, thereupon it is to be concluded that the apt leave being refusable or unaccordable to the defendants.

22. The defendants contest qua with the apt statutory notice contemplated in Section 72 of the Cooperative Society Act, hence remaining evidently un-issued,thereupon the suit being not maintainable. However, the aforesaid contention would gather weight, upon, the the defendants rather committing misconduct of criminal breach of trust, vis-a-vis, plaintiff's funds, and, hence his/theirs misconduct touching, upon, the management and business of the plaintiff society. However the aforesaid evidence is amiss, contrarily when the defendant is a loanee, of, undisputed sums of money, thereupon, even when the statutory notice remained un-served, prior to the institution of the instant summary suit, yet, apt leave being grantable rather to the plaintiff.

23. Further more, the aforesaid defence is illusory or moonshine, and, further if given the afore expostulated condition precedents for, hence the apt leave being granted, when remain hence unsatisfied, thereupon, the, statutory holistic purpose, would rather be defeated, upon, the suit being put to the rigors, of, a procrastinated trial.

In view of the above, the application stands disposed of.

Sureshwar Thakur, J

This order will dispose of an application, cast under the provisions of Order 37 Rule 3 (5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, as, moved before this Court, by the defendants/applicants(hereinafter referred to as the "defendants"), wherethrough, they seek hence leave to defend the summary suit, instituted by the plaintiff/non-applicant (hereinafter referred to as the "plaintiff").

2. The plaintiff has instituted the instant suit, cast under the provisions of Order XXXVII, of the Code of Civil Procedure, seeking there-through, the, recovery of suit amount. An averment is embodied in the plaint, qua the plaintiff being a duly registered co-operative Society, registration whereof, is, entered at Sr. No. 687, in the apt records, maintained by the Registering Authority concerned. The plaint has been instituted by the duly authorized representative of the society. The suit has been drawn, on, anvil of cheque bearing No. 644525 of 6.11.2016, drawn on State Bank of India, Solan, embodying therein a sum of Rs. 47,00,000/-, cheque whereof, upon, its presentation before the Bank concerned, was refused to be honoured, on account of " Drawer sign not as per mandate". Photocopy of the Cheque is appended with the plaint as Annexure P-3. In sequel thereto, the apt statutory notice was served, upon, the defendants. Notice whereof, is, borne in Annexure P-5, and, upon the defendants not meteing compliance thereto, a complaint embodied, in Annexure P-6, was, instituted before the Court of Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, (II), Solan. Clause (a) of Paragraph 5 of the plaint, details the amount(s) taken as loan, by the defendants, from the plaintiff.

3. Succinctly, the dishonored cheque borne in Annexure P-3, is, espoused to be carrying hence sum(s) of money arising, towards a legally enforceable debt. The plaintiff, through the instant plaint, cast under the afore provisions, has, upon Annexure P-7, Annexure whereof comprises a notice issued by the defendants, hence, reared a vehement contention, before this Court, (i) that the recitals borne therein, being, readable as admission(s) of the defendants, vis-a-vis, issuance, of, the afore dishonored negotiable instrument, borne in Annexure P-3, being towards a legally enforceable debt, hence, a verdict rather summarily decreeing the plaintiff's suit being pronounced, upon, the plaintiff.

4. When notice was served, upon the, defendants, the instant application, cast under the provisions, of, Order 37 Rule 3(5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, stood instituted before this Court, by the defendants, wherethrough, they seek leave of the Court, to, defend the suit, and, obviously espousals' contrary to the ones embodied in the plaint, stand reared therein. In paragraph 2 of the afore OMP, a contention is reared qua some borrowings, being made by the defendants, from the plaintiff society, and, the entire borrowings being liquidated, by the defendants, and, also disclosures rather holding concurrence, with, the afore averment, hence, also occur in the apt statement, of, account prepared up to 31.3.2016. A further averment is borne therein qua liquidation of the loan amount being made, either, through RTGs or through cheques, hence, per se, the defendants contest, that, the apt liquidation not occurring through cash payments. A denial is borne in afore OMP qua the amount embodied in the cheque aforesaid, being, not realizable, from, the defendants, hence, the suit being not maintainable, for, its being hence summarily decreed.

5. A contention, vis-a-vis, the suit being not maintainable, within, the ambit, of, Section 72 of the Himachal Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1968, is, also reared, conspicuously qua the condition set-forth therein, remaining un-complied with, by, the plaintiff. Further more, the afore dishonored cheque, is, contended by the defendants to be a part of a series of blank security cheques, issued, by the defendants, to, the plaintiff before March, 2016. Moreover, it is also contended, that, the issuance thereof being under pressure standing exerted, upon, one Raj Kumar Mittal, by one Chander Pal, Secretary of the Society. Also the details occurring on the back side of the cheque, are, averred to be made by the plaintiff, as such, the cheque is alleged to be forged. A cheque in addition, from one amongst, the series of blank cheques, and, carrying a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, stands contended to be presented for encashment by M/S A.R Associates, of which one Raj Kumar, is, stated to be a partner. Moreover, the defendants also aver, in, the afore OMP, qua forbidance being made upon one Chander Pal , from, making misuse of certain blank cheques, A notice is stated to be issued on 10.6.2016, whereunder, a request for returning, the, security cheques, was made. However, it is further averred that the plaintiff failed to do so, rather, he has instituted the instant summary suit.

6. The plaintiff meted reply to the application, and, contended that given the averments, made, in the summary suit, and, with the afore rendered admission, of, the defendants, rather renders the suit amount, to be an undisputed claim, and, with the extant summary suit being backed, by an apparent statutorily holistic purpose, and, also with the instant suit, hence satiating, all thereof apt statutory ingredients,(i) thereupon the espoused leave being granted to the defendants, would rather render the afore holistic statutory purpose hence being defeated.

7. In opposition to the statement of account, appended with the application, the, plaintiff has appended with its apt reply, hence Annexure R-1, annexure whereof, comprises the statement of account appertaining, to, the period from 1.4.2015 to 31.3.2017, wherethrough, rather ,the, disclosures borne in the prior thereto statement of account, ending up to 31.3.2016, hence stand negativated.

8. The defendants while meteing rejoinder to the reply furnished by the plaintiff, contended, that Annexure R-1 appended with the reply to the afore OMP, is, bereft of any vigor, and, is a false document.

9. Before proceeding to determine, the, validity of the aforesaid submissions addressed before this Court, by the learned counsel for the parties, it is deemed incumbent, to bear in mind the expostulations of law, as are enjoined to be applied thereon, for hence making a conclusion, qua, the espoused leave being accordable or refusable. The trite expostulations of law, are, embodied in a judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Case titled as Sunil Enterprises and another versus SBI Commercial & International

Bank Ltd., reported in (1998)5 SCC 354, whereunder the Hon'ble Apex Court, has set forth the hereinafter extracted expostulations of law:-

> "4(e) If the defendant has no defence or the defence is illusory or sham or practically moonshine, the Court may show mercy to the defendant by enabling him to try to prove a defence but at the same time protect the plaintiff imposing the condition that the amount claimed should be paid into Court or otherwise secured."

10. The afore expostulation of law are further elaborated and reiterated, in a judgment rendered, by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case titled as State Bank of Hyderabad versus Rabo Bank, reported in (2015) 10 SCC 521, relevant paragraphs 15 to 17 whereof are extracted hereinafter:-

> "15. As regards the entitlement of a defendant to the grant of leave to defend, the law is well settled long back in the year 1949 in Sm. Kiranmoyee Dassi Vs. Dr. J. Chatterjee, AIR 1949 Cal 479, in the form of the following propositions:
>
> If the defendant satisfies the Court that he has a good defence to the claim on its merits, the plaintiff is not entitled to leave to sign the judgment and the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend.
>
> If the defendant raised a triable issue indicating that he has a fair or bona fide or reasonable defence although not a positively good defence the plaintiff is not entitled to sign judgment and the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend.
>
> If the defendant discloses such facts as may be deemed sufficient to entitle him to defend, that is to say, although the affidavit does not positively and immediately made it clear that he has a defence, yet, shows such a stage of facts as leads to the inference that at the trial of the action he may be able to establish a defence to the plaintiff's claim, the plaintiff is not entitled to judgment and the defendant is entitled to leave to defend but in such a case the court may in its discretion impose conditions as to the time or mode of trial but not as to payment into court or furnishing security.
>
> If the defendant has no defence or the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine then ordinarily the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment and the defendant is not entitled to leave to defend.
>
> If the defendant has no defence or the defence is illusory or sham or practically moonshine then although ordinarily the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment, the court may protect the plaintiff by only allowing the defence to proceed if the amount claimed is paid into court or otherwise secured and give leave to the defendant on such condition, and thereby show mercy to the defendant by enabling him to try to prove a defence.
>
> 16. It is also noticed that the law as enunciated above, has been followed by the Courts in several cases [See also : Santosh Kumar Vs. Bhai Mool Singh, AIR 1958 SC 321, Milkhiram (India) (P) Ltd. Vs. Chamanlal Bros, AIR 1965 SC 1698, Mechelec Engineers & Manufacturers Vs. Basic Equipment Corpn., (1976) 4 SCC 687 and Sunil Enterprises & Anr. Vs. SBI Commercial & International Bank Ltd. (1998) 5 SCC 354].
> 17. An analysis of the above principles makes it clear that in cases where the defendant has raised a triable issue or a reasonable defence, the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend. Leave is granted to defend even in > cases where the defendant upon disclosing a fact, though lacks the defence but makes a positive impression that at the trial the defence would be established to the plaintiff's claim. Only in the cases where the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine, the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment."

11. For apt application(s), of, the inherent apt nuance, of, the afore expostulations of law, upon, the competing espousals hence reared by the plaintiff, and, for hence validating or invaliding them, rather also enjoins eruption, of, apt material personifying qua (a) an evident bonafide defence being reared by the defendants, whereupon, the defendants being enjoined to be granted, the espoused leave to defend; (b) qua the afore rearings of defence, within, the afore expostulations being not a positive good defence; (c) rather the espoused defence being both a bonafide or a reasonable defence, to the plaintiff's claim, (d), and, with imminent inference(s) being ensuable therefrom qua, upon, the defence being put to trial, there being every likelihood of emergence, of evidence, thereupon an apt inference being erectable qua the defendants hence rearing a bonafide or a reasonable defence; (e) upon the defence being illusory or sham or practically moonshine, thereupon, the plaintiff being enjoined, to seek leave to sign the judgment, and, the defendants being dis-entitled to seek leave to defend.

12. Further more, even if the afore expostulations of law, stand satisfied by the plaintiff, and, when hence the plaintiff is enjoined to be granted, leave to sign the judgment yet, the Court may proceed to protect the plaintiff, by allowing the defence, to proceed, yet subject, to, as a measure, of, mere clemency being bestowed, upon, the defence, comprised in the directions being made, upon, the defendants, to, give an adequate security, vis-a-vis, the suit amount. Within the ambit of the afore expostulated parameters of law, this Court proceeds to determine the factum, qua, the admission, if any, of the defendants, as embodied in the notice issued by the defendants, rather hence, boosting a firm conclusion, that, the amount borne in the dishonored cheque, being an undisputed amount, (i) hence for obviating the suit being put to a procrastinated trial, upon, the apt leave being meted to the defendants, (ii) thereupon this Court rather would proceeding to grant leave, to the plaintiff to sign the judgment, (iii) also, it is enjoined to make discernments, from, the afore rendered material qua whether the defendants rather satiating the afore parameters, whereafter, this Court may proceed to grant the espoused leave to it/him/them.

13. The most pertinent documentary evidence, existing on record, whereon reliance is placed by the plaintiff-non applicant, to, contend that it carries apt admission(s), of, the defendants/applicants, is, embodied in Annexure P-7, admission whereof occurs, in, the hereinafter extracted apt paragraph, borne in paragraph 1 thereof.

> "That Shri Raj Kumar Mittal my aforesaid client being partner of first two concerns and being Director of two Private Limited Companies took loan on different dates from your society and company in order to advance business of the aforesaid concerns and companies. The said loans were taken in individual capacity and also as partner of the said concerns and companies. In order to secure repayment of loans taken on different dates Shir Chander Pal Aggarwal being officials of the Society and company used to take blank cheques signed by my said client and without filling the name of the society, company or any individual. However, whatever amount is used to be taken as loan was shown in the said cheques. My client also issued blank cheques duly signed by him in his individual capacity from his saving account which were handed over to Shri Chander Pal aforesaid. Further blank stamp papers duly signed by my client as partner of the aforesaid concerns and also in his individual capacity were obtained by your society and company and handed over to Shri Chander Pal official of the society and company."

14. However, subsequent thereto a recital occurs, in Annexure P-7, that, certain blank cheques being handed over to one Chander Pal Aggarwal, and, from one amongst the afore blank cheques, a cheque carrying a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, standing presented on 9.6.2016 by one Amit Aggarwal son of Chander Pal Aggarwal, and, hence an echoing also occurs therein that the afore misdemeanor(s) of the son of Mr. Chander Pal Aggarwal, rather rendering open an inference, that the cheque at hand, being one amongst the blank chques, and, it not carrying any undisputed realisable or decreeable amounts' of money.

15. Further more, reliance is placed, upon, notice borne in Annexure P-5, issued by the counsel for the plaintiff, and, served upon the defendants, conspicuously, prior to the institution of a complaint under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, espousals borne wherein, are, in concurrence with the recitals, borne in the complaint, and, with the defendants not meteing any reply thereto, hence subsequent thereto exculpating echoings, as, are borne in Annexure P-7, being an afterthought, and, a sheer concoction, and, also not rendering hence effaced, the, effect of the afore sentence, occurring in paragraph 1 of Annexure P-7.

16. Nowat is to be gauged, the respective efficacy(s) of the afore submission imperatively, on, anvil of the afore apt expostulated parameters,.

17. The dishonored negotiable instrument is issued, on, 6.11.2016, and, the statement of account, appended with the the application, rather appertains to the period much prior thereto, in as much, as, qua 31.3.2016. Consequently prima-facie, the statement of account appended with the application, at hand, with disclosure occurring therein qua no loan amounts yet pending against the defendants rather is rendered insignificant. Also, any contest qua Annexure R-1, appended with the plaintiff/non-applicant's reply, conspicuously vis-a-vis, its authenticity may not be relevant. Contrarily when it constitutes an authenticated copy of the statement, of, account, and, when, it, hence holds proximity, vis-a-vis, issuance of the dishonored negotiable instrument, (i) and, when it assumes an enhanced aura of validity given, upon, a combined reading of the apt disclosures' made therein vis-a-vis cheque borne in Annexure P-3, and, with notice borne in Annexure P-5, and, also, (ii) when its' issuance occurs in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, issuances of cheque borne in Annexures P-3 and of notice borne in P-5 (iii) thereupon unveilings rather emerging qua inter-se congruity occurring inter-se all the aforesaid Annexures.

18. Reiteratedly, in making the aforesaid conclusion, the factum of notice, comprised in Annexure P-5, remaining un-replied, by the respondent/plaintiff, thereupon the contents thereof, do acquire an aura of validity, (i) and, further more when it is issued in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, statement of account, (ii) also, thereupon all the afore annexures acquire an alike aura of sanctity. Even though, Annexure P-7 carries therewithin, the, afore extracted apt sentence, and, with the afore Annexure standing issued, on 10.6.2016, yet the effect of the afore sentence, does rather avail an inference, that, certain borrowings, being made by the defendants, from the plaintiff, and, for liquidation thereof, the defendants issuing cheques, and, the amount borne in the cheques rather remaining un-liquidated.

19. Since the defendants hence rear a plea, that, all the liquidations hence occurring through, cheques or through RTGs mode, and, not through cash, (i) thereupon when Annexure R-1 appended with the reply, does bear proximity vis-a-vis, issuance of the dishonored negotiable instrument, (ii) thereupon, the afore sentence occurring in Annexure

P-7, tantamounts to an admission qua the sums borne therein, being towards liquidation of outstanding borrowing, as, made by the defendants from the plaintiff.

20. Even otherwise the defendants prima-facie appear to raise various submissions, that, certain security cheques being issued by them to the plaintiff, and, that the figures, and, the scribings occurring therein being, not, in his/their hands. However, the defendants did not adduce any evidence qua therewith, before, the learned trial Magistrate concerned nor any disclosures stand made, in the apt testification rendered therebefore, qua the afore trite fact, hence coming under contest. The further effect thereof, is, that the espousal occurring in paragraph 2 of Annexure P-7, qua son of one Chander Pal Aggarwal, misusing a cheque for a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, comprised in his presenting it, before the Bank concerned, stands falsified, (i) besides for the reasons, that, it appertains to a period much prior to the period of issuance, of, the dishonored instruments, (ii) and, it carrying an amount lesser than the amount borne, in, the dishonored instrument, hence, also diminishes the vigor of the espousal, of, the defendants, (iii) predominantly also given despite the witnesses' concerned, of the plaintiff, while rendering testifications, before, the learned trial Magistrate concerned, hence making echoings' qua the apt statement of account being available (iv) yet the the defendants not making adduction(s) thereof before the Court, whereas the afore adduction of statements of accounts, would facilitate the Court, in, drawing an inference qua the defendants' admission being negatived or effaced, whereupon, non-adduction thereof, gives, rather strength to the afore admission.

21. Be that as it may, for all the assigned reasons, the defendants have abysmally failed, to, establish qua theirs holding a reasonable, fair and bonafide defence, and, also grossly failed, to, at this stage ,rear a ground that if the afore defence(s) are put to trial, theirs bringing forth hence evidence, (i) whereupon, an inference may be drawable of their defence, being workable or being genuine or holding sanctity, (ii) contrarily, thereupon it is to be concluded that the apt leave being refusable or unaccordable to the defendants.

22. The defendants contest qua with the apt statutory notice contemplated in Section 72 of the Cooperative Society Act, hence remaining evidently un-issued,thereupon the suit being not maintainable. However, the aforesaid contention would gather weight, upon, the the defendants rather committing misconduct of criminal breach of trust, vis-a-vis, plaintiff's funds, and, hence his/theirs misconduct touching, upon, the management and business of the plaintiff society. However the aforesaid evidence is amiss, contrarily when the defendant is a loanee, of, undisputed sums of money, thereupon, even when the statutory notice remained un-served, prior to the institution of the instant summary suit, yet, apt leave being grantable rather to the plaintiff.

23. Further more, the aforesaid defence is illusory or moonshine, and, further if given the afore expostulated condition precedents for, hence the apt leave being granted, when remain hence unsatisfied, thereupon, the, statutory holistic purpose, would rather be defeated, upon, the suit being put to the rigors, of, a procrastinated trial.

24. In view of the above, the application stands disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

This order will dispose of an application, cast under the provisions of Order 37 Rule 3 (5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, as, moved before this Court, by the defendants/applicants(hereinafter referred to as the "defendants"), wherethrough, they seek hence leave to defend the summary suit, instituted by the plaintiff/non-applicant (hereinafter referred to as the "plaintiff").

2. The plaintiff has instituted the instant suit, cast under the provisions of Order XXXVII, of the Code of Civil Procedure, seeking there-through, the, recovery of suit amount. An averment is embodied in the plaint, qua the plaintiff being a duly registered co-operative Society, registration whereof, is, entered at Sr. No. 687, in the apt records, maintained by the Registering Authority concerned. The plaint has been instituted by the duly authorized representative of the society. The suit has been drawn, on, anvil of cheque bearing No. 409125 of 6.10.2016, drawn on State Bank of India, Solan, embodying therein a sum of Rs. 45,50,000/-, cheque whereof, upon, its presentation before the Bank concerned, was refused to be honoured, on account of "Drawer sign not as per mandate". Photocopy of the Cheque is appended with the plaint as Annexure P-3. In sequel thereto, the apt statutory notice was served, upon, the defendants. Notice whereof, is, borne in Annexure P-5, and, upon the defendants not meteing compliance thereto, a complaint embodied, in Annexure P-6, was, instituted before the Court of Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, (II), Solan. Clause (a) of Paragraph 5 of the plaint, details the amount(s) taken as loan, by the defendants, from the plaintiff.

3. Succinctly, the dishonored cheque borne in Annexure P-3, is, espoused to be carrying hence sum(s) of money arising, towards a legally enforceable debt. The plaintiff, through the instant plaint, cast under the afore provisions, has, upon Annexure P-7, Annexure whereof comprises a notice issued by the defendants, hence, reared a vehement contention, before this Court, (i) that the recitals borne therein, being, readable as admission(s) of the defendants, vis-a-vis, issuance, of, the afore dishonored negotiable instrument, borne in Annexure P-3, being towards a legally enforceable debt, hence, a verdict rather summarily decreeing the plaintiff's suit being pronounced, upon, the plaintiff.

4. When notice was served, upon the, defendants, the instant application, cast under the provisions, of, Order 37 Rule 3(5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, stood instituted before this Court, by the defendants, wherethrough, they seek leave of the Court, to, defend the suit, and, obviously espousals' contrary to the ones embodied in the plaint, stand reared therein. In paragraph 2 of the afore OMP, a contention is reared qua some borrowings, being made by the defendants, from the plaintiff society, and, the entire borrowings being liquidated, by the defendants, and, also disclosures rather holding concurrence, with, the afore averment, hence, also occur in the apt statement, of, account prepared up to 31.3.2016. A further averment is borne therein qua liquidation of the loan amount being made, either, through RTGs or through cheques, hence, per se, the defendants contest, that, the apt liquidation not occurring through cash payments. A denial is borne in afore OMP qua the amount embodied in the cheque aforesaid, being, not realizable, from, the defendants, hence, the suit being not maintainable, for, its being hence summarily decreed.

5. A contention, vis-a-vis, the suit being not maintainable, within, the ambit, of, Section 72 of the Himachal Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1968, is, also reared, conspicuously qua the condition set-forth therein, remaining un-complied with, by, the plaintiff. Further more, the afore dishonored cheque, is, contended by the defendants to be a part of a series of blank security cheques, issued, by the defendants, to, the plaintiff before March, 2016. Moreover, it is also contended, that, the issuance thereof being under pressure standing exerted, upon, one Raj Kumar Mittal, by one Chander Pal, Secretary of the Society. Also the details occurring on the back side of the cheque, are, averred to be made by the plaintiff, as such, the cheque is alleged to be forged. A cheque in addition, from one amongst, the series of blank cheques, and, carrying a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, stands contended to be presented for encashment by M/S A.R Associates, of which one Raj Kumar, is, stated to be a partner. Moreover, the defendants also aver, in, the afore OMP, qua forbidance being made upon one Chander Pal , from, making misuse of certain blank cheques, A notice is stated to be issued on 10.6.2016, whereunder, a request for returning, the, security cheques, was made. However, it is further averred that the plaintiff failed to do so, rather, he has instituted the instant summary suit.

6. The plaintiff meted reply to the application, and, contended that given the averments, made, in the summary suit, and, with the afore rendered admission, of, the defendants, rather renders the suit amount, to be an undisputed claim, and, with the extant summary suit being backed, by an apparent statutorily holistic purpose, and, also with the instant suit, hence satiating, all thereof apt statutory ingredients,(i) thereupon the espoused leave being granted to the defendants, would rather render the afore holistic statutory purpose hence being defeated.

7. In opposition to the statement of account, appended with the application, the, plaintiff has appended with its apt reply, hence Annexure R-1, annexure whereof, comprises the statement of account appertaining, to, the period from 1.4.2015 to 31.3.2017, wherethrough, rather ,the, disclosures borne in the prior thereto statement of account, ending up to 31.3.2016, hence stand negativated.

8. The defendants while meteing rejoinder to the reply furnished by the plaintiff, contended, that Annexure R-1 appended with the reply to the afore OMP, is, bereft of any vigor, and, is a false document.

9. Before proceeding to determine, the, validity of the aforesaid submissions addressed before this Court, by the learned counsel for the parties, it is deemed incumbent, to bear in mind the expostulations of law, as are enjoined to be applied thereon, for hence making a conclusion, qua, the espoused leave being accordable or refusable. The trite expostulations of law, are, embodied in a judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Case titled as Sunil Enterprises and another versus SBI Commercial & International Bank Ltd., reported in (1998)5 SCC 354, whereunder the Hon'ble Apex Court, has set forth the hereinafter extracted expostulations of law:-

> "4(e) If the defendant has no defence or the defence is illusory or sham or practically moonshine, the Court may show mercy to the defendant by enabling him to try to prove a defence but at the same time protect the plaintiff imposing the condition that the amount claimed should be paid into Court or otherwise secured."

10. The afore expostulation of law are further elaborated and reiterated, in a judgment rendered, by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case titled as State Bank of Hyderabad versus Rabo Bank, reported in (2015) 10 SCC 521, relevant paragraphs 15 to 17 whereof are extracted hereinafter:-

> "15. As regards the entitlement of a defendant to the grant of leave to defend, the law is well settled long back in the year 1949 in Sm. Kiranmoyee Dassi Vs. Dr. J. Chatterjee, AIR 1949 Cal 479, in the form of the following propositions:
>
> If the defendant satisfies the Court that he has a good defence to the claim on its merits, the plaintiff is not entitled to leave to sign the judgment and the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend.
>
> If the defendant raised a triable issue indicating that he has a fair or bona fide or reasonable defence although not a positively good defence the plaintiff is not entitled to sign judgment and the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend.
>
> If the defendant discloses such facts as may be deemed sufficient to entitle him to defend, that is to say, although the affidavit does not positively and immediately made it clear that he has a defence, yet, shows such a stage of facts as leads to the inference that at the trial of the action he may be able to establish a defence to the plaintiff`s claim, the plaintiff is not entitled to judgment and the defendant is entitled to leave to defend but in such a case the court may in its discretion impose conditions as to the time or mode of trial but not as to payment into court or furnishing security.
>
> If the defendant has no defence or the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine then ordinarily the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment and the defendant is not entitled to leave to defend.
> If the defendant has no defence or the defence is illusory or sham or practically moonshine then although ordinarily the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment, the court may protect the plaintiff by only allowing the defence to proceed if the amount claimed is paid into court or otherwise secured and give leave to the defendant on such condition, and thereby show mercy to the defendant by enabling him to try to prove a defence.

> 16. It is also noticed that the law as enunciated above, has been followed by the Courts in several cases [See also : Santosh Kumar Vs. Bhai Mool Singh, AIR 1958 SC 321, Milkhiram (India) (P) Ltd. Vs. Chamanlal Bros, AIR 1965 SC 1698, Mechelec Engineers & Manufacturers Vs. Basic Equipment Corpn., (1976) 4 SCC 687 and Sunil Enterprises & Anr. Vs. SBI Commercial & International Bank Ltd. (1998) 5 SCC 354].
> 17. An analysis of the above principles makes it clear that in cases where the defendant has raised a triable issue or a reasonable defence, the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend. Leave is granted to defend even in cases where the defendant upon disclosing a fact, though lacks the defence but makes a positive impression that at the trial the defence would be established to the plaintiff's claim. Only in the cases where the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine, the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment."

11. For apt application(s), of, the inherent apt nuance, of, the afore expostulations of law, upon, the competing espousals hence reared by the plaintiff, and, for hence validating or invaliding them, rather also enjoins eruption, of, apt material personifying qua (a) an evident bonafide defence being reared by the defendants, whereupon, the defendants being enjoined to be granted, the espoused leave to defend; (b) qua the afore rearings of defence, within, the afore expostulations being not a positive good defence; (c) rather the espoused defence being both a bonafide or a reasonable defence, to the plaintiff's claim, (d), and, with imminent inference(s) being ensuable therefrom qua, upon, the defence being put to trial, there being every likelihood of emergence, of evidence, thereupon an apt inference being erectable qua the defendants hence rearing a bonafide or a reasonable defence; (e) upon the defence being illusory or sham or practically moonshine, thereupon, the plaintiff being enjoined, to seek leave to sign the judgment, and, the defendants being dis-entitled to seek leave to defend.

12. Further more, even if the afore expostulations of law, stand satisfied by the plaintiff, and, when hence the plaintiff is enjoined to be granted, leave to sign the judgment yet, the Court may proceed to protect the plaintiff, by allowing the defence, to proceed, yet subject, to, as a measure, of, mere clemency being bestowed, upon, the defence, comprised in the directions being made, upon, the defendants, to, give an adequate security, vis-a-vis, the suit amount. Within the ambit of the afore expostulated parameters of law, this Court proceeds to determine the factum, qua, the admission, if any, of the defendants, as embodied in the notice issued by the defendants, rather hence, boosting a firm conclusion, that, the amount borne in the dishonored cheque, being an undisputed amount, (i) hence for obviating the suit being put to a procrastinated trial, upon, the apt leave being meted to the defendants, (ii) thereupon this Court rather would proceeding to grant leave, to the plaintiff to sign the judgment, (iii) also, it is enjoined to make discernments, from, the afore rendered material qua whether the defendants rather satiating the afore parameters, whereafter, this Court may proceed to grant the espoused leave to it/him/them.

13. The most pertinent documentary evidence, existing on record, whereon reliance is placed by the plaintiff-non applicant, to, contend that it carries apt admission(s), of, the defendants/applicants, is, embodied in Annexure P-7, admission whereof occurs, in, the hereinafter extracted apt paragraph, borne in paragraph 1 thereof.

> "That Shri Raj Kumar Mittal my aforesaid client being partner of first two concerns and being Director of two Private Limited Companies took loan on different dates from your society and company in order to advance business of the aforesaid concerns and companies. The said loans were taken in individual capacity and also as partner of the said concerns and companies.

> In order to secure repayment of loans taken on different dates Shir Chander Pal Aggarwal being officials of the Society and company used to take blank cheques signed by my said client and without filling the name of the society, company or any individual. However, whatever amount is used to be taken as loan was shown in the said cheques. My client also issued blank cheques duly signed by him in his individual capacity from his saving account which were handed over to Shri Chander Pal aforesaid. Further blank stamp papers duly signed by my client as partner of the aforesaid concerns and also in his individual capacity were obtained by your society and company and handed over to Shri Chander Pal official of the society and company."

14. However, subsequent thereto a recital occurs, in Annexure P-7, that, certain blank cheques being handed over to one Chander Pal Aggarwal, and, from one amongst the afore blank cheques, a cheque carrying a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, standing presented on 9.6.2016 by one Amit Aggarwal son of Chander Pal Aggarwal, and, hence an echoing also occurs therein that the afore misdemeanor(s) of the son of Mr. Chander Pal Aggarwal, rather rendering open an inference, that the cheque at hand, being one amongst the blank chques, and, it not carrying any undisputed realisable or decreeable amounts' of money.

15. Further more, reliance is placed, upon, notice borne in Annexure P-5, issued by the counsel for the plaintiff, and, served upon the defendants, conspicuously, prior to the institution of a complaint under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, espousals borne wherein, are, in concurrence with the recitals, borne in the complaint, and, with the defendants not meteing any reply thereto, hence subsequent thereto exculpating echoings, as, are borne in Annexure P-7, being an afterthought, and, a sheer concoction, and, also not rendering hence effaced, the, effect of the afore sentence, occurring in paragraph 1 of Annexure P-7.

16. Nowat is to be gauged, the respective efficacy(s) of the afore submission imperatively, on, anvil of the afore apt expostulated parameters,.

17. The dishonored negotiable instrument is issued, on, 6.10.2016, and, the statement of account, appended with the the application, rather appertains to the period much prior thereto, in as much, as, qua 31.3.2016. Consequently prima-facie, the statement of account appended with the application, at hand, with disclosure occurring therein qua no loan amounts yet pending against the defendants rather is rendered insignificant. Also, any contest qua Annexure R-1, appended with the plaintiff/non-applicant's reply, conspicuously vis-a-vis, its authenticity may not be relevant. Contrarily when it constitutes an authenticated copy of the statement, of, account, and, when, it, hence holds proximity, vis-a-vis, issuance of the dishonored negotiable instrument, (i) and, when it assumes an enhanced aura of validity given, upon, a combined reading of the apt disclosures' made therein vis-a-vis cheque borne in Annexure P-3, and, with notice borne in Annexure P-5, and, also, (ii) when its' issuance occurs in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, issuances of cheque borne in Annexures P-3 and of notice borne in P-5 (iii) thereupon unveilings rather emerging qua inter-se congruity occurring inter-se all the aforesaid Annexures.

18. Reiteratedly, in making the aforesaid conclusion, the factum of notice, comprised in Annexure P-5, remaining un-replied, by the respondent/plaintiff, thereupon the contents thereof, do acquire an aura of validity, (i) and, further more when it is issued in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, statement of account, (ii) also, thereupon all the afore annexures acquire an alike aura of sanctity. Even though, Annexure P-7 carries therewithin, the, afore extracted apt sentence, and, with the afore Annexure standing issued, on 10.6.2016, yet the effect of the afore sentence, does rather avail an inference, that, certain borrowings, being made by the defendants, from the plaintiff, and, for liquidation thereof, the defendants issuing cheques, and, the amount borne in the cheques rather remaining un-liquidated.

19. Since the defendants hence rear a plea, that, all the liquidations hence occurring through, cheques or through RTGs mode, and, not through cash, (i) thereupon when Annexure R-1 appended with the reply, does bear proximity vis-a-vis, issuance of the dishonored negotiable instrument, (ii) thereupon, the afore sentence occurring in Annexure P-7, tantamounts to an admission qua the sums borne therein, being towards liquidation of outstanding borrowing, as, made by the defendants from the plaintiff.

20. Even otherwise the defendants prima-facie appear to raise various submissions, that, certain security cheques being issued by them to the plaintiff, and, that the figures, and, the scribings occurring therein being, not, in his/their hands. However, the defendants did not adduce any evidence qua therewith, before, the learned trial Magistrate concerned nor any disclosures stand made, in the apt testification rendered therebefore, qua the afore trite fact, hence coming under contest. The further effect thereof, is, that the espousal occurring in paragraph 2 of Annexure P-7, qua son of one Chander Pal Aggarwal, misusing a cheque for a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, comprised in his presenting it, before the Bank concerned, stands falsified, (i) besides for the reasons, that, it appertains to a period much prior to the period of issuance, of, the dishonored instruments, (ii) and, it carrying an amount lesser than the amount borne, in, the dishonored instrument, hence, also diminishes the vigor of the espousal, of, the defendants, (iii) predominantly also given despite the witnesses' concerned, of the plaintiff, while rendering testifications, before, the learned trial Magistrate concerned, hence making echoings' qua the apt statement of account being available (iv) yet the the defendants not making adduction(s) thereof before the Court, whereas the afore adduction of statements of accounts, would facilitate the Court, in, drawing an inference qua the defendants' admission being negatived or effaced, whereupon, non-adduction thereof, gives, rather strength to the afore admission.

21. Be that as it may, for all the assigned reasons, the defendants have abysmally failed, to, establish qua theirs holding a reasonable, fair and bonafide defence, and, also grossly failed, to, at this stage ,rear a ground that if the afore defence(s) are put to trial, theirs bringing forth hence evidence, (i) whereupon, an inference may be drawable of their defence, being workable or being genuine or holding sanctity, (ii) contrarily, thereupon it is to be concluded that the apt leave being refusable or unaccordable to the defendants.

22. The defendants contest qua with the apt statutory notice contemplated in Section 72 of the Cooperative Society Act, hence remaining evidently un-issued,thereupon the suit being not maintainable. However, the aforesaid contention would gather weight, upon, the the defendants rather committing misconduct of criminal breach of trust, vis-a-vis, plaintiff's funds, and, hence his/theirs misconduct touching, upon, the management and business of the plaintiff society. However the aforesaid evidence is amiss, contrarily when the defendant is a loanee, of, undisputed sums of money, thereupon, even when the statutory notice remained un-served, prior to the institution of the instant summary suit, yet, apt leave being grantable rather to the plaintiff.

23. Further more, the aforesaid defence is illusory or moonshine, and, further if given the afore expostulated condition precedents for, hence the apt leave being granted, when remain hence unsatisfied, thereupon, the, statutory holistic purpose, would rather be defeated, upon, the suit being put to the rigors, of, a procrastinated trial.

In view of the above, the application stands disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, J

This order will dispose of an application, cast under the provisions of Order 37 Rule 3 (5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, as, moved before this Court, by the defendants/applicants(hereinafter referred to as the "defendants"), wherethrough, they seek hence leave to defend the summary suit, instituted by the plaintiff/non-applicant (hereinafter referred to as the "plaintiff").

2. The plaintiff has instituted the instant suit, cast under the provisions of Order XXXVII, of the Code of Civil Procedure, seeking there-through, the, recovery of suit amount. An averment is embodied in the plaint, qua the plaintiff being a duly registered co-operative Society, registration whereof, is, entered at Sr. No. 687, in the apt records, maintained by the Registering Authority concerned. The plaint has been instituted by the duly authorized representative of the society. The suit has been drawn, on, anvil of cheque bearing No. 693291 of 21.7.2016, drawn on State Bank of India, Solan, embodying therein a sum of Rs. 44,58,750/-, cheque whereof, upon, its presentation before the Bank concerned, was refused to be honoured, on account of " Drawer sign not as per mandate". Photocopy of the Cheque is appended with the plaint as Annexure P-3. In sequel thereto, the apt statutory notice was served, upon, the defendants. Notice whereof, is, borne in Annexure P-5, and, upon the defendants not meteing compliance thereto, a complaint embodied, in Annexure P-6, was, instituted before the Court of Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, (II), Solan. Clause (a) of Paragraph 5 of the plaint, details the amount(s) taken as loan, by the defendants, from the plaintiff.

3. Succinctly, the dishonored cheque borne in Annexure P-3, is, espoused to be carrying hence sum(s) of money arising, towards a legally enforceable debt. The plaintiff, through the instant plaint, cast under the afore provisions, has, upon Annexure P-7, Annexure whereof comprises a notice issued by the defendants, hence, reared a vehement contention, before this Court, (i) that the recitals borne therein, being, readable as admission(s) of the defendants, vis-a-vis, issuance, of, the afore dishonored negotiable instrument, borne in Annexure P-3, being towards a legally enforceable debt, hence, a verdict rather summarily decreeing the plaintiff's suit being pronounced, upon, the plaintiff.

4. When notice was served, upon the, defendants, the instant application, cast under the provisions, of, Order 37 Rule 3(5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, stood instituted before this Court, by the defendants, wherethrough, they seek leave of the Court, to, defend the suit, and, obviously espousals' contrary to the ones embodied in the plaint, stand reared therein. In paragraph 2 of the afore OMP, a contention is reared qua some borrowings, being made by the defendants, from the plaintiff society, and, the entire borrowings being liquidated, by the defendants, and, also disclosures rather holding concurrence, with, the afore averment, hence, also occur in the apt statement, of, account prepared up to 31.3.2016. A further averment is borne therein qua liquidation of the loan amount being made, either, through RTGs or through cheques, hence, per se, the defendants contest, that, the apt liquidation not occurring through cash payments. A denial is borne in afore OMP qua the amount embodied in the cheque aforesaid, being, not realizable, from, the defendants, hence, the suit being not maintainable, for, its being hence summarily decreed.

5. A contention, vis-a-vis, the suit being not maintainable, within, the ambit, of, Section 72 of the Himachal Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1968, is, also reared, conspicuously qua the condition set-forth therein, remaining un-complied with, by, the plaintiff. Further more, the afore dishonored cheque, is, contended by the defendants to be a part of a series of blank security cheques, issued, by the defendants, to, the plaintiff before March, 2016. Moreover, it is also contended, that, the issuance thereof being under pressure standing exerted, upon, one Raj Kumar Mittal, by one Chander Pal, Secretary of the Society. Also the details occurring on the back side of the cheque, are, averred to be made by the plaintiff, as such, the cheque is alleged to be forged. A cheque in addition, from one amongst, the series of blank cheques, and, carrying a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, stands contended to be presented for encashment by M/S A.R Associates, of which one Raj Kumar, is, stated to be a partner. Moreover, the defendants also aver, in, the afore OMP, qua forbidance being made upon one Chander Pal , from, making misuse of certain blank cheques, A notice is stated to be issued on 10.6.2016, whereunder, a request for returning, the, security cheques, was made. However, it is further averred that the plaintiff failed to do so, rather, he has instituted the instant summary suit.

6. The plaintiff meted reply to the application, and, contended that given the averments, made, in the summary suit, and, with the afore rendered admission, of, the defendants, rather renders the suit amount, to be an undisputed claim, and, with the extant summary suit being backed, by an apparent statutorily holistic purpose, and, also with the instant suit, hence satiating, all thereof apt statutory ingredients,(i) thereupon the espoused leave being granted to the defendants, would rather render the afore holistic statutory purpose hence being defeated.

7. In opposition to the statement of account, appended with the application, the, plaintiff has appended with its apt reply, hence Annexure R-1, annexure whereof, comprises the statement of account appertaining, to, the period from 1.4.2015 to 31.3.2017, wherethrough, rather ,the, disclosures borne in the prior thereto statement of account, ending up to 31.3.2016, hence stand negativated.

8. The defendants while meteing rejoinder to the reply furnished by the plaintiff, contended, that Annexure R-1 appended with the reply to the afore OMP, is, bereft of any vigor, and, is a false document.

9. Before proceeding to determine, the, validity of the aforesaid submissions addressed before this Court, by the learned counsel for the parties, it is deemed incumbent, to bear in mind the expostulations of law, as are enjoined to be applied thereon, for hence making a conclusion, qua, the espoused leave being accordable or refusable. The trite expostulations of law, are, embodied in a judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Case titled as Sunil Enterprises and another versus SBI Commercial & International Bank Ltd., reported in (1998)5 SCC 354, whereunder the Hon'ble Apex Court, has set forth the hereinafter extracted expostulations of law:-

> "4(e) If the defendant has no defence or the defence is illusory or sham or practically moonshine, the Court may show mercy to the defendant by enabling him to try to prove a defence but at the same time protect the plaintiff imposing the condition that the amount claimed should be paid into Court or otherwise secured."

10. The afore expostulation of law are further elaborated and reiterated, in a judgment rendered, by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case titled as State Bank of Hyderabad versus Rabo Bank, reported in (2015) 10 SCC 521, relevant paragraphs 15 to 17 whereof are extracted hereinafter:-

> "15. As regards the entitlement of a defendant to the grant of leave to defend, the law is well settled long back in the year 1949 in Sm. Kiranmoyee Dassi Vs. Dr. J. Chatterjee, AIR 1949 Cal 479, in the form of the following propositions:
>
> If the defendant satisfies the Court that he has a good defence to the claim on its merits, the plaintiff is not entitled to leave to sign the judgment and the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend.
>
> If the defendant raised a triable issue indicating that he has a fair or bona fide or reasonable defence although not a positively good defence the plaintiff is not entitled to sign judgment and the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend.
> If the defendant discloses such facts as may be deemed sufficient to entitle him to defend, that is to say, although the affidavit does not positively and immediately made it clear that he has a defence, yet, shows such a stage of facts as leads to the inference that at the trial of the action he may be able to establish a defence to the plaintiff`s claim, the plaintiff is not entitled to judgment and the defendant is entitled to leave to defend but in such a case the court may in its discretion impose conditions as to the time or mode of trial but not as to payment into court or furnishing security.

If the defendant has no defence or the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine then ordinarily the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment and the defendant is not entitled to leave to defend.

If the defendant has no defence or the defence is illusory or sham or practically moonshine then although ordinarily the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment, the court may protect the plaintiff by only allowing the defence to proceed if the amount claimed is paid into court or otherwise secured and give leave to the defendant on such condition, and thereby show mercy to the defendant by enabling him to try to prove a defence.

16. It is also noticed that the law as enunciated above, has been followed by the Courts in several cases [See also : Santosh Kumar Vs. Bhai Mool Singh, AIR 1958 SC 321, Milkhiram (India) (P) Ltd. 17. An analysis of the above principles makes it clear that in cases where the defendant has raised a triable issue or a reasonable defence, the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend. Leave is granted to defend even in cases where the defendant upon disclosing a fact, though lacks the defence but makes a positive impression that at the trial the defence would be established to the plaintiff's claim. Only in the cases where the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine, the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment."

11. For apt application(s), of, the inherent apt nuance, of, the afore expostulations of law, upon, the competing espousals hence reared by the plaintiff, and, for hence validating or invaliding them, rather also enjoins eruption, of, apt material personifying qua (a) an evident bonafide defence being reared by the defendants, whereupon, the defendants being enjoined to be granted, the espoused leave to defend; (b) qua the afore rearings of defence, within, the afore expostulations being not a positive good defence; (c) rather the espoused defence being both a bonafide or a reasonable defence, to the plaintiff's claim, (d), and, with imminent inference(s) being ensuable therefrom qua, upon, the defence being put to trial, there being every likelihood of emergence, of evidence, thereupon an apt inference being erectable qua the defendants hence rearing a bonafide or a reasonable defence; (e) upon the defence being illusory or sham or practically moonshine, thereupon, the plaintiff being enjoined, to seek leave to sign the judgment, and, the defendants being dis-entitled to seek leave to defend.

12. Further more, even if the afore expostulations of law, stand satisfied by the plaintiff, and, when hence the plaintiff is enjoined to be granted, leave to sign the judgment yet, the Court may proceed to protect the plaintiff, by allowing the defence, to proceed, yet subject, to, as a measure, of, mere clemency being bestowed, upon, the defence, comprised in the directions being made, upon, the defendants, to, give an adequate security, vis-a-vis, the suit amount. Within the ambit of the afore expostulated parameters of law, this Court proceeds to determine the factum, qua, the admission, if any, of the defendants, as embodied in the notice issued by the defendants, rather hence, boosting a firm conclusion, that, the amount borne in the dishonored cheque, being an undisputed amount, (i) hence for obviating the suit being put to a procrastinated trial, upon, the apt leave being meted to the defendants, (ii) thereupon this Court rather would proceeding to grant leave, to the plaintiff to sign the judgment, (iii) also, it is enjoined to make discernments, from, the afore rendered material qua whether the defendants rather satiating the afore parameters, whereafter, this Court may proceed to grant the espoused leave to it/him/them.

13. The most pertinent documentary evidence, existing on record, whereon reliance is placed by the plaintiff-non applicant, to, contend that it carries apt admission(s), of, the defendants/applicants, is, embodied in Annexure P-7, admission whereof occurs, in, the hereinafter extracted apt paragraph, borne in paragraph 1 thereof.

> "That Shri Raj Kumar Mittal my aforesaid client being partner of first two concerns and being Director of two Private Limited Companies took loan on different dates from your society and company in order to advance business of the aforesaid concerns and companies. However, whatever amount is used to be taken as loan was shown in the said cheques. My client also issued blank cheques duly signed by him in his individual capacity from his saving account which were handed over to Shri Chander Pal aforesaid. Further blank stamp papers duly signed by my client as partner of the aforesaid concerns and also in his individual capacity were obtained by your society and company and handed over to Shri Chander Pal official of the society and company."

14. However, subsequent thereto a recital occurs, in Annexure P-7, that, certain blank cheques being handed over to one Chander Pal Aggarwal, and, from one amongst the afore blank cheques, a cheque carrying a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, standing presented on 9.6.2016 by one Amit Aggarwal son of Chander Pal Aggarwal, and, hence an echoing also occurs therein that the afore misdemeanor(s) of the son of Mr. Chander Pal Aggarwal, rather rendering open an inference, that the cheque at hand, being one amongst the blank chques, and, it not carrying any undisputed realisable or decreeable amounts' of money.

15. Further more, reliance is placed, upon, notice borne in Annexure P-5, issued by the counsel for the plaintiff, and, served upon the defendants, conspicuously, prior to the institution of a complaint under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, espousals borne wherein, are, in concurrence with the recitals, borne in the complaint, and, with the defendants not meteing any reply thereto, hence subsequent thereto exculpating echoings, as, are borne in Annexure P-7, being an afterthought, and, a sheer concoction, and, also not rendering hence effaced, the, effect of the afore sentence, occurring in paragraph 1 of Annexure P-7.

16. Nowat is to be gauged, the respective efficacy(s) of the afore submission imperatively, on, anvil of the afore apt expostulated parameters,.

17. The dishonored negotiable instrument is issued, on, 21.7.2016, and, the statement of account, appended with the the application, rather appertains to the period much prior thereto, in as much, as, qua 31.3.2016. Consequently prima-facie, the statement of account appended with the application, at hand, with disclosure occurring therein qua no loan amounts yet pending against the defendants rather is rendered insignificant. Also, any contest qua Annexure R-1, appended with the plaintiff/non-applicant's reply, conspicuously vis-a-vis, its authenticity may not be relevant. Contrarily when it constitutes an authenticated copy of the statement, of, account, and, when, it, hence holds proximity, vis-a-vis, issuance of the dishonored negotiable instrument, (i) and, when it assumes an enhanced aura of validity given, upon, a combined reading of the apt disclosures' made therein vis-a-vis cheque borne in Annexure P-3, and, with notice borne in Annexure P-5, and, also, (ii) when its' issuance occurs in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, issuances of cheque borne in Annexures P-3 and of notice borne in P-5 (iii) thereupon unveilings rather emerging qua inter-se congruity occurring inter-se all the aforesaid Annexures.

18. Reiteratedly, in making the aforesaid conclusion, the factum of notice, comprised in Annexure P-5, remaining un-replied, by the respondent/plaintiff, thereupon the contents thereof, do acquire an aura of validity, (i) and, further more when it is issued in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, statement of account, (ii) also, thereupon all the afore annexures acquire an alike aura of sanctity. Even though, Annexure P-7 carries therewithin, the, afore extracted apt sentence, and, with the afore Annexure standing issued, on 10.6.2016, yet the effect of the afore sentence, does rather avail an inference, that, certain borrowings, being made by the defendants, from the plaintiff, and, for liquidation thereof, the defendants issuing cheques, and, the amount borne in the cheques rather remaining un-liquidated.

19. Since the defendants hence rear a plea, that, all the liquidations hence occurring through, cheques or through RTGs mode, and, not through cash, (i) thereupon when Annexure R-1 appended with the reply, does bear proximity vis-a-vis, issuance of the dishonored negotiable instrument, (ii) thereupon, the afore sentence occurring in Annexure P-7, tantamounts to an admission qua the sums borne therein, being towards liquidation of outstanding borrowing, as, made by the defendants from the plaintiff.

20. Even otherwise the defendants prima-facie appear to raise various submissions, that, certain security cheques being issued by them to the plaintiff, and, that the figures, and, the scribings occurring therein being, not, in his/their hands. However, the defendants did not adduce any evidence qua therewith, before, the learned trial Magistrate concerned nor any disclosures stand made, in the apt testification rendered therebefore, qua the afore trite fact, hence coming under contest. The further effect thereof, is, that the espousal occurring in paragraph 2 of Annexure P-7, qua son of one Chander Pal Aggarwal, misusing a cheque for a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, comprised in his presenting it, before the Bank concerned, stands falsified, (i) besides for the reasons, that, it appertains to a period much prior to the period of issuance, of, the dishonored instruments, (ii) and, it carrying an amount lesser than the amount borne, in, the dishonored instrument, hence, also diminishes the vigor of the espousal, of, the defendants, (iii) predominantly also given despite the witnesses' concerned, of the plaintiff, while rendering testifications, before, the learned trial Magistrate concerned, hence making echoings' qua the apt statement of account being available (iv) yet the the defendants not making adduction(s) thereof before the Court, whereas the afore adduction of statements of accounts, would facilitate the Court, in, drawing an inference qua the defendants' admission being negatived or effaced, whereupon, non-adduction thereof, gives, rather strength to the afore admission.

21. Be that as it may, for all the assigned reasons, the defendants have abysmally failed, to, establish qua theirs holding a reasonable, fair and bonafide defence, and, also grossly failed, to, at this stage ,rear a ground that if the afore defence(s) are put to trial, theirs bringing forth hence evidence, (i) whereupon, an inference may be drawable of their defence, being workable or being genuine or holding sanctity, (ii) contrarily, thereupon it is to be concluded that the apt leave being refusable or unaccordable to the defendants.

22. The defendants contest qua with the apt statutory notice contemplated in Section 72 of the Cooperative Society Act, hence remaining evidently un-issued,thereupon the suit being not maintainable. However, the aforesaid contention would gather weight, upon, the the defendants rather committing misconduct of criminal breach of trust, vis-a-vis, plaintiff's funds, and, hence his/theirs misconduct touching, upon, the management and business of the plaintiff society. However the aforesaid evidence is amiss, contrarily when the defendant is a loanee, of, undisputed sums of money, thereupon, even when the statutory notice remained un-served, prior to the institution of the instant summary suit, yet, apt leave being grantable rather to the plaintiff.

23. Further more, the aforesaid defence is illusory or moonshine, and, further if given the afore expostulated condition precedents for, hence the apt leave being granted, when remain hence unsatisfied, thereupon, the, statutory holistic purpose, would rather be defeated, upon, the suit being put to the rigors, of, a procrastinated trial.

In view of the above, the application stands disposed of.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order XXXVII Rule 3(5) – Summary suit - Leave to defend – Grant of - Plaintiff society filing recovery suit on basis of cheque issued by defendant - Criminal proceedings qua dishonour of aforesaid cheque also pending before Judicial Magistrate - Defendant seeking leave to defend on ground that cheque was given towards security and writings on it are forged – Held - Court may grant unconditional leave to defend suit when defendant is able to establish that he has good triable defence – In appropriate cases, Court may grant leave to defend subject to defendant making payment in Court or otherwise securing plaintiff's claim – However, where defence put forth by defendant is illusory or moonshine then by granting leave to defendant, statutory holistic purpose of Order XXXVII Rule 3(5) would rather be defeated – On facts, defendant not found having taken plea of 'security cheque' or of 'forgery' before criminal court – Application for leave to defend declined. For the plaintiff/non-applicant: Mr. B.C Negi, Sr. Advocate with Mr. N.K Bhalla and Mr. Dalip K Sharma, Advocates.

For the defendants/applicants: Mr. P.S Goverdhan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J

This order will dispose of an application, cast under the provisions of Order 37 Rule 3 (5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, as, moved before this Court, by the defendants/applicants(hereinafter referred to as the "defendants"), wherethrough, they seek hence leave to defend the summary suit, instituted by the plaintiff/non-applicant (hereinafter referred to as the "plaintiff").

2. The plaintiff has instituted the instant suit, cast under the provisions of Order XXXVII, of the Code of Civil Procedure, seeking there-through, the, recovery of suit amount. An averment is embodied in the plaint, qua the plaintiff being a duly registered co-operative Society, registration whereof, is, entered at Sr. No. 687, in the apt records, maintained by the Registering Authority concerned. The plaint has been instituted by the duly authorized representative of the society. The suit has been drawn, on, anvil of cheque bearing No. 409422 of 6.9.2016, drawn on State Bank of India, Solan, embodying therein a sum of Rs. 45,50,000/-, cheque whereof, upon, its presentation before the Bank concerned, was refused to be honoured, on account of " Drawer sign not as per mandate". Photocopy of the Cheque is appended with the plaint as Annexure P-3. In sequel thereto, the apt statutory notice was served, upon, the defendants. Notice whereof, is, borne in Annexure P-5, and, upon the defendants not meteing compliance thereto, a complaint embodied, in Annexure P-6, was, instituted before the Court of Judicial Magistrate, Ist Class, (II), Solan. Clause (a) of Paragraph 5 of the plaint, details the amount(s) taken as loan, by the defendants, from the plaintiff.

3. Succinctly, the dishonored cheque borne in Annexure P-3, is, espoused to be carrying hence sum(s) of money arising, towards a legally enforceable debt. The plaintiff, through the instant plaint, cast under the afore provisions, has, upon Annexure P-7, Annexure whereof comprises a notice issued by the defendants, hence, reared a vehement contention, before this Court, (i) that the recitals borne therein, being, readable as admission(s) of the defendants, vis-a-vis, issuance, of, the afore dishonored negotiable instrument, borne in Annexure P-3, being towards a legally enforceable debt, hence, a verdict rather summarily decreeing the plaintiff's suit being pronounced, upon, the plaintiff.

4. When notice was served, upon the, defendants, the instant application, cast under the provisions, of, Order 37 Rule 3(5) of the Code of Civil Procedure, stood instituted before this Court, by the defendants, wherethrough, they seek leave of the Court, to, defend the suit, and, obviously espousals' contrary to the ones embodied in the plaint, stand reared therein. In paragraph 2 of the afore OMP, a contention is reared qua some borrowings, being made by the defendants, from the plaintiff society, and, the entire borrowings being liquidated, by the defendants, and, also disclosures rather holding concurrence, with, the afore averment, hence, also occur in the apt statement, of, account prepared up to 31.3.2016. A further averment is borne therein qua liquidation of the loan amount being made, either, through RTGs or through cheques, hence, per se, the defendants contest, that, the apt liquidation not occurring through cash payments. A denial is borne in afore OMP qua the amount embodied in the cheque aforesaid, being, not realizable, from, the defendants, hence, the suit being not maintainable, for, its being hence summarily decreed.

5. A contention, vis-a-vis, the suit being not maintainable, within, the ambit, of, Section 72 of the Himachal Pradesh Co-operative Societies Act, 1968, is, also reared, conspicuously qua the condition set-forth therein, remaining un-complied with, by, the plaintiff. Further more, the afore dishonored cheque, is, contended by the defendants to be a part of a series of blank security cheques, issued, by the defendants, to, the plaintiff before March, 2016. Moreover, it is also contended, that, the issuance thereof being under pressure standing exerted, upon, one Raj Kumar Mittal, by one Chander Pal, Secretary of the Society. Also the details occurring on the back side of the cheque, are, averred to be made by the plaintiff, as such, the cheque is alleged to be forged. A cheque in addition, from one amongst, the series of blank cheques, and, carrying a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, stands contended to be presented for encashment by M/S A.R Associates, of which one Raj Kumar, is, stated to be a partner. Moreover, the defendants also aver, in, the afore OMP, qua forbidance being made upon one Chander Pal , from, making misuse of certain blank cheques, A notice is stated to be issued on 10.6.2016, whereunder, a request for returning, the, security cheques, was made. However, it is further averred that the plaintiff failed to do so, rather, he has instituted the instant summary suit.

6. The plaintiff meted reply to the application, and, contended that given the averments, made, in the summary suit, and, with the afore rendered admission, of, the defendants, rather renders the suit amount, to be an undisputed claim, and, with the extant summary suit being backed, by an apparent statutorily holistic purpose, and, also with the instant suit, hence satiating, all thereof apt statutory ingredients,(i) thereupon the espoused leave being granted to the defendants, would rather render the afore holistic statutory purpose hence being defeated.

7. In opposition to the statement of account, appended with the application, the, plaintiff has appended with its apt reply, hence Annexure R-1, annexure whereof, comprises the statement of account appertaining, to, the period from 1.4.2015 to 31.3.2017, wherethrough, rather ,the, disclosures borne in the prior thereto statement of account, ending up to 31.3.2016, hence stand negativated.

8. The defendants while meteing rejoinder to the reply furnished by the plaintiff, contended, that Annexure R-1 appended with the reply to the afore OMP, is, bereft of any vigor, and, is a false document.

9. Before proceeding to determine, the, validity of the aforesaid submissions addressed before this Court, by the learned counsel for the parties, it is deemed incumbent, to bear in mind the expostulations of law, as are enjoined to be applied thereon, for hence making a conclusion, qua, the espoused leave being accordable or refusable. The trite expostulations of law, are, embodied in a judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Case titled as Sunil Enterprises and another versus SBI Commercial & International Bank Ltd., reported in (1998)5 SCC 354, whereunder the Hon'ble Apex Court, has set forth the hereinafter extracted expostulations of law:-

> "4(e) If the defendant has no defence or the defence is illusory or sham or practically moonshine, the Court may show mercy to the defendant by enabling him to try to prove a defence but at the same time protect the plaintiff imposing the condition that the amount claimed should be paid into Court or otherwise secured."

10. The afore expostulation of law are further elaborated and reiterated, in a judgment rendered, by the Hon'ble Apex Court in case titled as State Bank of Hyderabad versus Rabo Bank, reported in (2015) 10 SCC 521, relevant paragraphs 15 to 17 whereof are extracted hereinafter:-

> "15. As regards the entitlement of a defendant to the grant of leave to defend, the law is well settled long back in the year 1949 in Sm. Kiranmoyee Dassi Vs. Dr. J. Chatterjee, AIR 1949 Cal 479, in the form of the following propositions:

If the defendant satisfies the Court that he has a good defence to the claim on its merits, the plaintiff is not entitled to leave to sign the judgment and the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend.

If the defendant raised a triable issue indicating that he has a fair or bona fide or reasonable defence although not a positively good defence the plaintiff is not entitled to sign judgment and the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend.

If the defendant discloses such facts as may be deemed sufficient to entitle him to defend, that is to say, although the affidavit does not positively and immediately made it clear that he has a defence, yet, shows such a stage of facts as leads to the inference that at the trial of the action he may be able to establish a defence to the plaintiff`s claim, the plaintiff is not entitled to judgment and the defendant is entitled to leave to defend but in such a case the court may in its discretion impose conditions as to the time or mode of trial but not as to payment into court or furnishing security.

If the defendant has no defence or the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine then ordinarily the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment and the defendant is not entitled to leave to defend.

If the defendant has no defence or the defence is illusory or sham or practically moonshine then although ordinarily the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment, the court may protect the plaintiff by only allowing the defence to proceed if the amount claimed is paid into court or otherwise secured and give leave to the defendant on such condition, and thereby show mercy to the defendant by enabling him to try to prove a defence.

16. It is also noticed that the law as enunciated above, has been followed by the Courts in several cases [See also : Santosh Kumar Vs. Bhai Mool Singh, AIR 1958 SC 321, Milkhiram (India) (P) Ltd. Vs. Chamanlal Bros, AIR 1965 SC 1698, Mechelec Engineers & Manufacturers Vs. Basic Equipment Corpn., (1976) 4 SCC 687 and Sunil Enterprises & Anr. Vs. SBI Commercial & International Bank Ltd. (1998) 5 SCC 354].

17. An analysis of the above principles makes it clear that in cases where the defendant has raised a triable issue or a reasonable defence, the defendant is entitled to unconditional leave to defend. Leave is granted to defend even in cases where the defendant upon disclosing a fact, though lacks the defence but makes a positive impression that at the trial the defence would be established to the plaintiff's claim. Only in the cases where the defence set up is illusory or sham or practically moonshine, the plaintiff is entitled to leave to sign judgment."

11. For apt application(s), of, the inherent apt nuance, of, the afore expostulations of law, upon, the competing espousals hence reared by the plaintiff, and, for hence validating or invaliding them, rather also enjoins eruption, of, apt material personifying qua (a) an evident bonafide defence being reared by the defendants, whereupon, the defendants being enjoined to be granted, the espoused leave to defend; (b) qua the afore rearings of defence, within, the afore expostulations being not a positive good defence; (c) rather the espoused defence being both a bonafide or a reasonable defence, to the plaintiff's claim, (d), and, with imminent inference(s) being ensuable therefrom qua, upon, the defence being put to trial, there being every likelihood of emergence, of evidence, thereupon an apt inference being erectable qua the defendants hence rearing a bonafide or a reasonable defence; (e) upon the defence being illusory or sham or practically moonshine, thereupon, the plaintiff being enjoined, to seek leave to sign the judgment, and, the defendants being dis-entitled to seek leave to defend.

12. Further more, even if the afore expostulations of law, stand satisfied by the plaintiff, and, when hence the plaintiff is enjoined to be granted, leave to sign the judgment yet, the Court may proceed to protect the plaintiff, by allowing the defence, to proceed, yet subject, to, as a measure, of, mere clemency being bestowed, upon, the defence, comprised in the directions being made, upon, the defendants, to, give an adequate security, vis-a-vis, the suit amount. Within the ambit of the afore expostulated parameters of law, this Court proceeds to determine the factum, qua, the admission, if any, of the defendants, as embodied in the notice issued by the defendants, rather hence, boosting a firm conclusion, that, the amount borne in the dishonored cheque, being an undisputed amount, (i) hence for obviating the suit being put to a procrastinated trial, upon, the apt leave being meted to the defendants, (ii) thereupon this Court rather would proceeding to grant leave, to the plaintiff to sign the judgment, (iii) also, it is enjoined to make discernments, from, the afore rendered material qua whether the defendants rather satiating the afore parameters, whereafter, this Court may proceed to grant the espoused leave to it/him/them.

13. The most pertinent documentary evidence, existing on record, whereon reliance is placed by the plaintiff-non applicant, to, contend that it carries apt admission(s), of, the defendants/applicants, is, embodied in Annexure P-7, admission whereof occurs, in, the hereinafter extracted apt paragraph, borne in paragraph 1 thereof.

> "That Shri Raj Kumar Mittal my aforesaid client being partner of first two concerns and being Director of two Private Limited Companies took loan on different dates from your society and company in order to advance business of the aforesaid concerns and companies. The said loans were taken in individual capacity and also as partner of the said concerns and companies. In order to secure repayment of loans taken on different dates Shir Chander Pal Aggarwal being officials of the Society and company used to take blank cheques signed by my said client and without filling the name of the society, company or any individual. However, whatever amount is used to be taken as loan was shown in the said cheques. My client also issued blank cheques duly signed by him in his individual capacity from his saving account which were handed over to Shri Chander Pal aforesaid. Further blank stamp papers duly signed by my client as partner of the aforesaid concerns and also in his individual capacity were obtained by your society and company and handed over to Shri Chander Pal official of the society and company."

14. However, subsequent thereto a recital occurs, in Annexure P-7, that, certain blank cheques being handed over to one Chander Pal Aggarwal, and, from one amongst the afore blank cheques, a cheque carrying a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, standing presented on 9.6.2016 by one Amit Aggarwal son of Chander Pal Aggarwal, and, hence an echoing also occurs therein that the afore misdemeanor(s) of the son of Mr. Chander Pal Aggarwal, rather rendering open an inference, that the cheque at hand, being one amongst the blank chques, and, it not carrying any undisputed realisable or decreeable amounts' of money.

15. Further more, reliance is placed, upon, notice borne in Annexure P-5, issued by the counsel for the plaintiff, and, served upon the defendants, conspicuously, prior to the institution of a complaint under Section 138 of Negotiable Instruments Act, espousals borne wherein, are, in concurrence with the recitals, borne in the complaint, and, with the defendants not meteing any reply thereto, hence subsequent thereto exculpating echoings, as, are borne in Annexure P-7, being an afterthought, and, a sheer concoction, and, also not rendering hence effaced, the, effect of the afore sentence, occurring in paragraph 1 of Annexure P-7.

16. Nowat is to be gauged, the respective efficacy(s) of the afore submission imperatively, on, anvil of the afore apt expostulated parameters,.

17. The dishonored negotiable instrument is issued, on, 6.9.2016, and, the statement of account, appended with the the application, rather appertains to the period much prior thereto, in as much, as, qua 31.3.2016. Consequently prima-facie, the statement of account appended with the application, at hand, with disclosure occurring therein qua no loan amounts yet pending against the defendants rather is rendered insignificant. Also, any contest qua Annexure R-1, appended with the plaintiff/non-applicant's reply, conspicuously vis-a-vis, its authenticity may not be relevant. Contrarily when it constitutes an authenticated copy of the statement, of, account, and, when, it, hence holds proximity, vis-a-vis, issuance of the dishonored negotiable instrument, (i) and, when it assumes an enhanced aura of validity given, upon, a combined reading of the apt disclosures' made therein vis-a-vis cheque borne in Annexure P-3, and, with notice borne in Annexure P-5, and, also, (ii) when its' issuance occurs in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, issuances of cheque borne in Annexures P-3 and of notice borne in P-5 (iii) thereupon unveilings rather emerging qua inter-se congruity occurring inter-se all the aforesaid Annexures.

18. Reiteratedly, in making the aforesaid conclusion, the factum of notice, comprised in Annexure P-5, remaining un-replied, by the respondent/plaintiff, thereupon the contents thereof, do acquire an aura of validity, (i) and, further more when it is issued in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, statement of account, (ii) also, thereupon all the afore annexures acquire an alike aura of sanctity. Even though, Annexure P-7 carries therewithin, the, afore extracted apt sentence, and, with the afore Annexure standing issued, on 10.6.2016, yet the effect of the afore sentence, does rather avail an inference, that, certain borrowings, being made by the defendants, from the plaintiff, and, for liquidation thereof, the defendants issuing cheques, and, the amount borne in the cheques rather remaining un-liquidated.

19. Since the defendants hence rear a plea, that, all the liquidations hence occurring through, cheques or through RTGs mode, and, not through cash, (i) thereupon when Annexure R-1 appended with the reply, does bear proximity vis-a-vis, issuance of the dishonored negotiable instrument, (ii) thereupon, the afore sentence occurring in Annexure P-7, tantamounts to an admission qua the sums borne therein, being towards liquidation of outstanding borrowing, as, made by the defendants from the plaintiff.

20. Even otherwise the defendants prima-facie appear to raise various submissions, that, certain security cheques being issued by them to the plaintiff, and, that the figures, and, the scribings occurring therein being, not, in his/their hands. However, the defendants did not adduce any evidence qua therewith, before, the learned trial Magistrate concerned nor any disclosures stand made, in the apt testification rendered therebefore, qua the afore trite fact, hence coming under contest. The further effect thereof, is, that the espousal occurring in paragraph 2 of Annexure P-7, qua son of one Chander Pal Aggarwal, misusing a cheque for a sum of Rs. 9 lacs, comprised in his presenting it, before the Bank concerned, stands falsified, (i) besides for the reasons, that, it appertains to a period much prior to the period of issuance, of, the dishonored instruments, (ii) and, it carrying an amount lesser than the amount borne, in, the dishonored instrument, hence, also diminishes the vigor of the espousal, of, the defendants, (iii) predominantly also given despite the witnesses' concerned, of the plaintiff, while rendering testifications, before, the learned trial Magistrate concerned, hence making echoings' qua the apt statement of account being available (iv) yet the the defendants not making adduction(s) thereof before the Court, whereas the afore adduction of statements of accounts, would facilitate the Court, in, drawing an inference qua the defendants' admission being negatived or effaced, whereupon, non-adduction thereof, gives, rather strength to the afore admission.

21. Be that as it may, for all the assigned reasons, the defendants have abysmally failed, to, establish qua theirs holding a reasonable, fair and bonafide defence, and, also grossly failed, to, at this stage ,rear a ground that if the afore defence(s) are put to trial, theirs bringing forth hence evidence, (i) whereupon, an inference may be drawable of their defence, being workable or being genuine or holding sanctity, (ii) contrarily, thereupon it is to be concluded that the apt leave being refusable or unaccordable to the defendants.

22. The defendants contest qua with the apt statutory notice contemplated in Section 72 of the Cooperative Society Act, hence remaining evidently un-issued,thereupon the suit being not maintainable. However, the aforesaid contention would gather weight, upon, the the defendants rather committing misconduct of criminal breach of trust, vis-a-vis, plaintiff's funds, and, hence his/theirs misconduct touching, upon, the management and business of the plaintiff society. However the aforesaid evidence is amiss, contrarily when the defendant is a loanee, of, undisputed sums of money, thereupon, even when the statutory notice remained un-served, prior to the institution of the instant summary suit, yet, apt leave being grantable rather to the plaintiff.

23. Further more, the aforesaid defence is illusory or moonshine, and, further if given the afore expostulated condition precedents for, hence the apt leave being granted, when remain hence unsatisfied, thereupon, the, statutory holistic purpose, would rather be defeated, upon, the suit being put to the rigors, of, a procrastinated trial.

In view of the above, the application stands disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

During the pendency, of, Case No. 5-IV-2012, titled as Mohammad Tariq vs. Jaspal Singh, the Sub Divisional Magistrate (Urban), Shimla, pronounced orders respectively appended with the instant petition, as Annexure P-1, and, Annexure P-2. The afore annexures are impugned before this Court.

2. Uncontrovertedly, the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate (Urban), Shimla, is, seized of proceedings, as, drawn under Sections 145, 146 and Section 107, of, the Code of Criminal Procedure. On 10.10.2017, the learned Sub-Divisional Magistrate concerned, (i) answered in the disaffirmative, the, controversy appertaining to the admissibility and readability, besides, obviously the probative vigour, of, certain uncertified copies, of documents, whereon exhibit marks stood embossed. The effect, of, the afore disaffirmative pronouncements, as, made, vis-a-vis, certain uncertified copies of documents, whereon, exhibit marks stood embossed, (ii) is, obviously reiteratedly qua hence, the afore documents, under, the orders borne in Annexure P-1, rather being prematurely construed to be ripped of their vigour, and, sinew, and, theirs being discardable. The afore disafirmative pronouncement, is, omnibus in its sweep and clout, and, covers, even those uncertified copies, of, documents, though, proven through custodian of the original(s) thereof, and, whereafter, exhibits marks stood embossed thereon, (iii) whereupon, all the afore uncertified copies of documents, are, inchoately stripped of their probative vigour, hence rendering them discardable. The afore pronouncement would garner vigour, (iv) only, if there occurred specific delineation(s) in Annexure P-1, vis-a-vis, certain uncertified copies of documents, being thereat strived to be tendered into evidence, without, in simultaneity thereof, the custodian of original(s) thereof, hence stepping into the witness box. However, the afore explicit pronouncement, is, amiss in Annexure P-1, (v) whereupon, the afore disaffirmative pronouncement made vis-a-vis, certain unnamed uncertified copies of documents, whereon, exhibits marks, may stand embossed, and, in contemporaneity with the custodian of original(s) thereof, rather stepping into the witness box, being also untenably stripped of their evidentiary worth. The further sequel thereof is that (a) the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate concerned, has, at an appropriate stage, untenably rejected the probative worth, of, even, those, uncertified copies of documents, whereon, exhibits marks rather stood embossed, in sequel to the custodian(s) of original(s) thereof, hence, stepping into the witness box, and, his hence from the apposite originals, carried by him, rather proving the uncertified copies, of, documents, imperatively qua theirs being the true copy(ies), of, the original(s); (b) the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate (Urban), Shimla, at a premature stage, than, after arguments, being addressed, upon, the apposite case, has, hence prima facie untenably proceeded to discard evidence, adduced by the complainant, evidence whereof may ultimately hold some evidentiary worth, and, vigour, imperatively after considering the objections, vis-a-vis, their exhibition, raised by the opposite litigant; (c) further sequel thereof is qua the complainant's evidence, being prematurely, and, untenably foreclosed. Consequently, the afore disaffirmative pronouncement, occurring, in Annexure P-1, necessitates it being quashed and set aside.

3. Be that as it may, the afore orders, occurring in Annexure P-1 were reiterated in Annexure P-2, and, in addition thereto, despite, the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate (Urban), Shimla, on 10.10.2017, hence, ordering for service being caused or effected, upon, Cws, and, as, made returnable for 16.10.2017, (i) yet, when, on, the latter day proceedings were drawn, upon, the apposite case, he, despite the complainant's witnesses remaining not served for 16.10.2017, rather proceeded, to, in a post haste manner, and, without application of mind, forbid the tendering into evidence, of uncertified copy(ies) of certain documents, and, also refused to permit the complainant, to, emboss exhibition marks thereon, until, the afore documents, stood, verified from, the issuing person/agency. The afore pronouncement, borne in Annexure P-2, is also reiteratedly, ridden, with a grave vice of a gross fallacy, (i) given the proceedings for ensuring the stepping into witness box, of, the complainant's witnesses, being postponed, for 25.10.2017, whereat the afore uncertified copies, of, the certain documents, may, ultimately, through, custodian of original(s) thereof, have been strived to be proven, in accordance with law, for thereafter rendering them both readable, and, admissible in evidence. Contrarily, the afore portion of orders borne in Annexure P-2, has also forestalled and frustrated, the petitioner's striving, to, tender them, both admissible and readable evidence, vis-a-vis, the afore documents, with, the further concomitant effect, of, his probable chance of proving his case, being untenably baulked.

4. For all the reasons aforestated, the impugned orders are ridden with, a, gross infirmity, and, an inherent fallacy, and, are amenable for interference.

5. Even, though, the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate (Urban), Shimla, was enjoined, to, in consonance with the verdict pronounced by this Court, on 15.12.2016, upon, Cr.MMO No.203 of 2015, to, decide the proceedings expeditiously, and, before elapse of three months therefrom, (i) yet preponderantly, when, the afore orders impugned hereat are per se infirm, hence, foreclose, the, right of the complainant, to, adduce best evidence, for, proving his case, (ii) thereupon, the orders impugned hereat, when, for all the reasons aforestated, are, concluded, to, inchoately rest, the controversy, in, respect of admissibility, and, readability, of, documents, (iii) whereas, the afore pronouncement, was, only enjoined to occur, after arguments being heard, and, objections appertaining therewith, as, reared by the apposite party, also being considered, (iv) cumulatively, hence, the afore omission, when has rather gripped the impugned orders with a vice of fallibility, thereupon, the only available mechanism, for quashing the impugned orders, is, comprised in the petitioner availing the remedy prescribed, under, Section 482 of the Cr.P.C.

6. For the foregoing reasons, the instant petition, is, allowed, and, the impugned orders, borne in Annexure P-1 and P-2, are quashed and set aside. Consequently, the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate (Urban), Shimla is directed to permit the complainant to adduce his evidence, as also, to consider, in accordance with law, all the documents whereon exhibits marks are embossed, and, further the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate, Shimla is directed to only after arguments being addressed, upon, the lis, to, thereafter consider the admissibility and readability of all documents, in accordance with law. The parties are directed to appear before the learned Sub Divisional Magistrate (Urban), Shimla, on 20th November, 2018. He is also directed to complete the proceedings within three months, from, the receipt, of, the records. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records, if any, received, be sent back forthwith.

Reserved on : 4th December, 2018.
Decided on : 17th December, 2018.

Central Civil Services (Pension) Rules, 1972 - Rule 9(3)- CCS (Extra-ordinary) Pension Rules- Rule 48-B – Disability pension - Grant of – Circumstances - In earlier civil writ petition High Court setting aside order of discharge of petitioner from service on ground of disability – LPA – Division Bench modifying order and giving benefit of Rule 48-B of CCS (Extra-ordinary) Pension Rules entitling petitioner to avail full pension payable on completion of qualifying service of 33 years – Petitioner filing another petition and praying for grant of disability pension also on basis of observations of court made in contempt proceedings - Held, in Contempt petition filed earlier there was merely direction to respondents to consider his case for grant of disability pension - Respondents duly considered his case for grant of disability pension - Petitioner not found entitled to disability pension - Petition dismissed. (Paras 5-7)

For the Petitioner: Mr. Sameer Thakur, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Balram Sharma, Sr. Penal Counsel.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The petitioner seeks quashing, of, Annexure P-6, wherethrough, the petitioner's claim for meteing qua him, the, benefit of Rule 9(3) of CCS Pension Rule-1972, stood rejected, on anvil, of his disability being assessed, only, in a statutorily ineligible per centum, of, the apposite disability, inasmuch as, it being only upto 40%. The petitioner also prays, that, the pension payment order, comprised in Annexure P-7 being also ordered to be modified for bringing it, in consonance therewith, and, also espouses qua affirmative findings, being pronounced, upon, the invalidity of Annexure P-6.

2. The entire bedrock of the claim of the petitioner, and, of the respondents' claim, qua validating or invalidating, the, afore annexure (i) is grooved in a judgment of this Court rendered, in CWP No 100 of 2000, titled as Bhisham Singh vs. Union of India and another, decided, on 28th September, 2006. In the afore writ petition, this Court had quashed the order of discharge, of the petitioner, hence from, service, (ii) order whereof was rested upon the recommendations, of, the duly constituted Medical Board, hence, recording an opinion, qua, the petitioner being unfit for retention in service, (iii) concomitant sequel thereof being qua the Writ Court hence affording to the petitioner, the, hereinafter extracted reliefs:-

> "5. As a sequel to the above discussion, writ petition is allowed, impugned discharge order dated 15.5.1997 (Annexure P-12) is quashed and the following directions are issued to the respondents:-
> 1. The petitioner be treated to have continued in service upto the date when he would have completed 28 years of service, i.e. 3.5.1998, and, be paid salary and all other allowance etc. from 16.5.1997 to the said date.
> 2. On and with effect from the day next following the date on which the petitioner would have completed 28 years of service, i.e., 4.5.1998, he be treated to have voluntarily retired under the relevant provisions of Civil

> Services Pension Rules, 1972 and given the benefits of Rule 48-B and pension and retiral benefits be paid to him accordingly, from such date.
> 3. Arrears of salary, in accordance with direction No.1, and arrears of retiral benefits , in terms of direction No.2 be paid to the petitioner within three months with simple interest at the rate of 9% per annum."

3. An incisive reading of the afore extracted relief, (i) makes a forthright disclosure qua the petitioner, being directed to be treated, to have continued in service, upto, the date when he would have completed 28 years of service, (ii) and, all concomitant therewith benefits being afforded to him, (iii) and, thereafter his being treated to have voluntarily retired from service, under, the relevant provisions of CCS Pension Rules, 1972, (iv) and, his being bestowed the benefits embodied in Rule 48-B, qua pension, and, retiral benefits, hence, being ordered to be accordingly rather disbursed, vis-a-vis, him.

4. The afore rendered pronouncement, made by this Court, in CWP No.100 of 2000, stood assailed by the Union of India, before the Division Bench of this Court, by its preferring, a, LPA, and, in LPA No. 5 of 2007, whereon, the, Division Bench of this Court, declined the espoused relief to the aggrieved. Subsequently, the petitioner instituted CWP No. 3753 of 2009. Upon, the afore CWP No.3753 of 2009, the hereinafter extracted pronouncements hence occur in para 7 thereof:-

> "7. It is clear from a reading of judgment dated 28.6.2006, which is available on record as Annexure P-1, that this Court had, though set aside the order of discharge, but it was in the context that the petitioner was to be treated to have continued in service up to 3.5.1998, when he would have completed 28 years of service and by addition of 5 years qualifying service, by virtue of Rule 48-B, he would have been entitled to full pension. The order nowhere says that for granting him pension on completion of 28 years actual service, he would not be entitled to disability pension, which is otherwise permissible under CCS (Extra-ordinary) Pension Rules and various orders of the Government of India, issued under the said Rules."

An incisive reading of the afore pronouncement, makes clear emergences, that though this Court, while rendering a decision upon CWP No. 100 of 2000, hence setting aside, the order of discharge pronounced, upon, the petitioner, (a) on the ground of his being declared to be medically unfit, and, also its pronouncing the afore extracted relief qua him, yet, a peremptory mandate is also recorded therein, that, the afore reliefs earlier pronounced, vis-a-vis, the petitioner, being not per se construable, to, also render dis-entitled, the, petitioner to disability pension. However, in the concluding part, of, the verdict pronounced by this Court on 18th March, 2011, upon, CWP No. 3753 of 2009, this Court, had therein directed, the Union of India to consider, the, case of the petitioner, for grant of extra ordinary disability pension. The afore verdict remained unchalleged, by the aggrieved, hence, it acquires an aura, of, conclusivity.

5. Since, the Union of India did not mete compliance therewith, hence, a contempt petition bearing COPC No. 84 of 2012, was, instituted by the petitioner, and, upon the afore contempt petition, no adversarial order, hence stood pronounced, upon, the purported contemner, (i) and, upon execution petitions No. 9 of 2014, and, 1 of 2014, the Hon'ble Principal Bench, of, this Court, also disposed of the afore execution petition(s), with the hereinafter extracted apt observations, borne in paragraph No.5 thereof:-

> "5. This Court cannot direct execution which is not in tune with order dated 7th January, 2014, made by the learned Single Judge in COPC No.84 of 2012. Even otherwise, in terms of mandate of para 9 of order, dated 18th March, 2011, made by the Writ Court in CWP No.3753 of 2009, the respondents were to consider the case of the petitioner, which they have done and passed the consideration order, dated 10th March, 2012. It is for the petitioner to seek appropriate remedy, if still aggrieved."

6. Even though, the afore extracted paragraph No.5, of, the verdict pronounced by this Court, upon, the afore execution petitions, does unfold, qua, this Court apparently validating, the impugned annexure, yet, the last sentence, occurring in paragraph No.5 "it is for the petitioner to seek appropriate remedy, if still aggrieved", is, strived to be capitalized by the petitioner, to hence in garb thereof, hence, seek the instant remedy.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the respondents contends, (i) that a reading, of, the second sentence, as, embodied in paragraph 5 of the order rendered, by the Hon'ble Principal Division Bench of this Court, upon, the aforesaid execution petitions, being peremptorily, construable, to, hence validate the impugned annexures, and, the petitioner being precluded, to thereafter, institute the instant petition, before this Court, rather for seeking quashing, of, the impugned order(s), (ii) the afore submission, carries immense strength, given, this Court while rendering, a, pronouncement, upon, CWP No. 3753 of 2009, rather in paragraph No.7 thereof, through, rendering a peremptory mandate, upon, the respondents, to, dehors, the factum of this Court setting aside, the, apposite order of discharge, qua hence, per se, thereafter, the petitioner not being disentitled to seek disbursement qua him, of, disability pension, "if, permissible under the relevant rules, under, the various orders issued from time to time", and, even though, the afore order acquires conclusivity, for, want of its being challenged, before the Division Bench of this Court, (iii) thereupon, the last sentence, borne in paragraph No.5 of the verdict recorded, upon, the afore execution petitions, is rather not readable, to, generate, a valid cause of action, vis-a-vis, the petitioner, for hence his through the instant petition, rather casting a challenge, upon, the impugned annexures, (iv) Conspicuously, given the second sentence, occurring in paragraph No.5 of the verdict, recorded by the Division Bench of this Court, upon, afore execution petitions "even otherwise, in terms of the mandate of para 9 of order, dated 18th March, 2011 made by the Writ Court in CWP No.3753 of 2009, the respondents were to consider the case of the petitioner, which they have done and passed the consideration order, dated 10th March, 2012", thereupon, rendering, the, apposite verdict to be construable, merely, a consideration order, without any trappings, of, meteing, of, peremptory compliance therewith, (v) AND, when, the, afore order(s), stand(s) read in coagulation, with para 7 of the verdict recorded, upon, CWP No. 3753 of 2009, it rather waning, and, subsiding the effect of the purported conclusive, and, binding mandate, as, borne therein. The effect thereof being qua the Union of India being not enjoined to mete peremptory compliance therewith, (vi) given, the afore espousal not apparently falling within the domain, of the germane thereto rules, and, the relevant orders, directed to be borne in mind, by the respondents, under, a verdict pronounced upon CWP No.3753/2009. (vii) Preeminently, also when this court, upon, allowing, the writ petition, would unbefittingly render, a, verdict per incuriam, vis-a-vis, the, relevant statue, and, would also impermissibly permit the relaxing, of, the trite rule(s), qua their being no estoppel against law, and, statutory rules.

8. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit in the instant petition, and, it is dismissed accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Section 13 – Foreign judgment – When admissible in evidence ? - Held, foreign judgment pronounced by competent court of jurisdiction though conclusive in nature but will be admissible only when its certified copy along with translated copy in court language is adduced in evidence or translator is examined as witness to prove contents - Succession certificate scribed in Dutch but not accompanying with any translation in court language not admissible in absence of examination of translator - RFA allowed. (Para 7)

For the Appellant: Mr. Ajay Kumar, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Dheeraj K. Vashishta, Advocate.

For the Respondent: Mr. Vinod Gupta, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The learned trial Court, decreed, the plaintiff's suit, for a recovery of a sum of Rs.7,28,000/-, against, the defendant along with interest at the rate of 6% per annum, from, the date of institution of the suit, till realization thereof, and, with the defendant being aggrieved therefrom, hence, has instituted the instant Regular First Appeal, before this Court.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that, the plaintiff is a Dutch National with Passport No. 94699023. The plaintiff stood married to Shri Albertus Boonstra (Passport no.88738795). The plaintiff and her husband had visited India and had been staying at Sidhbari (Dharamshala). They had been in need of good residential accommodation. The defendant is stated to be owner-proprietor of house property in the area of Sokni-Da-Kot (Dharamshala). The defendant had agreed to provide/lease residential accommodation to the plaintiff and her husband for their lifetime. The plaintiff and her husband had paid a sum of Rs.6,50,000/- to the defendant. The defendant was to complete construction sought to be leased on or before 15.12.2001. The plaintiff and her husband had been requested the defendant to complete the construction within the stipulated period. The defendant had informed the plaintiff that he would perform his part of the job within the stipulated period and the plaintiff and her husband need not worry. It had been averred that the defendant did not do the construction upto 15.12.2001. The plaintiff and her husband had requested the defendant to return the amount of Rs.6,50,000/- to them. The defendant putting off the plaintiff and her husband on one pretext or the other. On 22.5.2002, the defendant had executed agreement Ex.PW1/D and had undertaken to pay the amount of Rs.6,50,000/- to the plaintiff and her husband on or before 30.09.2002. In case the defendant did not pay the amount of Rs.6,50,000/- on or before 30.09.2002, he had agreed to pay interest at the rate of 20% per annum, till payment thereof. The plaintiff and her husband had left for Germany during the end of May, 2002. In November, 2002, Shri Albertus Boonstra had died in Germany leaving behind the plaintiff as his sole legal heir. The plaintiffs pleads that the defendant did not pay the amount of Rs.6,50,000/- to the plaintiff or her husband. The plaintiff was entitled to interest @20% per annum. However, the plaintiff had restricted her claim of interest @12% per annum. A sum of Rs.78,000/- had accrued in favour of the plaintiff on account of interest from 22.5.2002 to 21.5.2003, and, hence the suit for recovery of Rs.7,28,000/-.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed separate written statement, wherein, he has taken preliminary objections inter alia non joinder. He had denied the relationship of the plaintiff with Mr. Albertus Boonstra. The death in November, 2002 of Sh. Albertus Boonstra had also been denied. The plaintiff was not legal heir of Sh. Albertus Boonstra. She was also not a Dutch National. The plaintiff or Mr. Albertus Bonstra had not paid Rs.6,50,000/- to the defendant. The defendant had not agreed to construct the house for the plaintiff or Mr. Albertus Boonstra for their live and possession thereof was not be delivered on or before 15.12.2001. The defendant had submitted that his father Shri B.K. Ghosh had been constructing a house. Much of the construction was complete when Mr. Albertus Boonstra had contacted him for hiring the house under construction. The plaintiff had figured nowhere during the negotiations for lease on rent for five years of the house by Sh. B.K. Ghosh in favour of Sh. Albertus Boonstra. The house required a sum of Rs.1 lac for completion. Shri Albertus Boonstra had suggested that he would pay Rs. One lac. Sh. Albertus Boonstra was stated doing construction work and had been knowing the job of electrical works and plumbing. Sh. Albertus Boonstra wanted expensive material like marble, granite and mosaic marble to be used in the house. He also wanted expensive electrical equipment in bathroom and kitchen. As per the negotiations, the expenditure over and above Rs. One lac was to be borne by Sh. Albertus. Sh. Albertus Boonstra was not to be charged rent for five years. The house stood completed in mid January, 2002. Shri Albertus Boonstra had taken possession of the house, having got the same completed with considerable modifications. However, after occupation of the house in January, 2002, Shri Albertus Boonstra had suddenly made up his mind to leave India, probably for health reasons. At that time, he had started pressurizing for payment of a sum of Rs. 6 lacs to him as the said amount was stated to have been spent for carrying out additional renovation and modifications etc. The defendant had not voluntarily executed agreement Ex.PW1/D, in favour of the plaintiff on 22.5.2002. Shri Albertus Boonstra had instituted a complaint of cheating, breach of trust and fraud against the defendant and his parents before the local police. The defendant and his father had been sent for by the local police. The local police had started shouting at the defendant and his father. They were sought to be booked in a case of breach of trust and fraud. The defendant and his father had denied having cheated Sh. Albertus Boonstra in any way. AT such stage, even the Superintendent of Police and Add. Superintendent of Police had reached the Police Station. They had entered into a discussion with other party. The defendant had been compelled to execute the agreement Ex.PW1/D. Immediately after the execution of the agreement, Sh. B.K. Ghosh had reported the matter to the Deputy Commissioner on 23.5.2002. The suit of the plaintiff was based on document Ex.PW1/D. Since, the defendant had not executed this document, the plaintiff was not entitled to any relief.

4. The plaintiff filed replication, to, the written statement of the defendant, wherein, she denied the contents of the written statement, and, re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the decree for Rs.7,28,000/- as alleged? OPP.
2. Whether Albertus Boonstra who claims to be one of the party to the contract has died in a foreign country? OPP.
3. Whether the plaintiff is the only legal heir to the estate of Albertus Boonstra as both the parties are Dutch Nationals, and production of judgement from a foreign court is unnecessary? OPP
4. Whether the document/agreement dated 22.5.2002 is a result of coercion exercised upon the defendant by the plaintiff in connivance with the Police, as alleged? OPD.
5. Whether Sh. B.K. Ghosh is necessary party to the present suit, as alleged? OPD.
6. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court, hence, decreed, the, suit of the plaintiff/respondent herein. Now defendant/appellant herein, being aggrieved therefrom, has, instituted the instant Regular First Appeal, before, this Court, wherein, she assails the findings recorded, in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned trial Court.

7. The learned counsel appearing for the aggrieved defendant/appellant has contended with much vigour before this Court qua the plaintiff/respondent herein, holding, no locus standi, to, on demise, of, one late Mr. Albertus Boonstra, hence institute a suit, on anvil of Ex.PW1/D, given (i) her espoused claim qua hers being the wife of the afore deceased, standing, not cogently proven, in accordance with law. He submits that any reliance placed, upon, the purported succession certificate, whereunder, the apt right to succession, vis-a-vis, the estate, of, the afore, stood bestowed, upon, the plaintiff/respondent herein, succession certificate whereof stands borne in Ex.PW1/A, and, in, Ex.PW1/B AND Ex.PW1/C, though, fall within the ambit of Section 13 of the CPC, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter, and,:-

> "13.When foreign judgment not conclusive:-A foreign judgment shall be conclusive as to any matter thereby directly adjudicated upon between the same parties or between parties under whom they or any of them claim litigating under the same title except-
> (a) Where it has not been pronounced by a court of competent jurisdiction;
>
> (b) Where it has not been given on the merits of the case;
>
> (c) Where it appears on the face of the proceedings to be founded on an incorrect view of international law or a refusal to recognise the law of India in cases in which such law is applicable;
>
> (d) Where the proceedings in which the judgment was obtained are opposed to natural justice;
>
> (e) Where it has been obtained by fraud;
> (f) Where it sustains a claim founded on a breach of any law in force in India."

were/was hence both relevant and admissible. However, he further submits that per se, thereupon, rather Ex.PW1/A to Ex.PW1/C, being not construable, to be either admissible or readable in evidence, (a) given the afore exhibits, being scribed in a foreign language, and, when, thereupon all the scribings thereon, were, enjoined to be proven, by the competent translator thereof, comprised, in, the latter's stepping into the witness, (b) whereas, the afore mode remaining unadopted by the plaintiff/respondent herein, (c) thereupon, the translated copies thereof, being construable to be neither readable nor admissible in evidence. The afore submission has immense vigour, and, for all valid reasons encapsulated therein, this Court proceeds to hold, that, the plaintiff/respondent herein, on, anvil of the afore exhibits, held no locus standi, to, on demise of one Albertus Boonstra, and, on anvil of Ex.PW1/D, hence, to institute the instant suit.

8. The above discussion, unfolds, the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned Court below being not based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned trial Court has excluded germane and apposite material from consideration.

9. In view of above discussion, the instant appeal is allowed and the impugned judgment and decree is set aside. Consequently, the suit of the plaintiff is dismissed. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant petition stands directed against the impugned order recorded by the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Bilaspur, H.P., on 26.03.2016, whereby, she allowed, the petitioner's application, constituted under Section 151 of the CPC, wherein, he sought, relief of the Deputy Commissioner Temple Trust Sh. Naina Devi Ji, Bilaspur being directed to implement orders rendered by this Court in OMP No. 392 of 1987. The genesis of the lis, is, embodied in a pronouncement recorded on 17.10.1987, by this Court in OMP No.392 of 1987, the relevant apt portion whereof stands extracted hereinafter:-

> " In view of the aforesaid agreement arrived at between the parties, it is ordered that the amounts be paid to all the Bhojkis/plaintiffs, who may be interest in receiving the amount in accordance with the scheme formulated by the Deputy Commissioner., Bilaspur. The Bhojkis/persons entitled to receive the amounts can receive these amounts under protest and defendant No.1 shall have no objection in making the payments to these persons under protest. It is clarified that receiving of the payments by such persons shall not at all prejudice their rights to the merits of the case and there payments shall be subject to the final adjudication of the case.
> It is further ordered that defendant No.1 shall maintain a record about the names of various Pujaris/Bhojkis who act in the temple on specified periods, so that the amounts payable to them or to any other Bhojaki/Pujari may be adjusted subject to the result of the suit. The amounts shall be disbursed to the various persons within a period of one week from today. The present application is disposed of accordingly."

2. A reading of the afore extracted pronouncement recorded, upon, the aforesaid OMP, brings to the fore qua disbursement(s) of relevant amounts amongst the Bhojakis, of, the temple concerned, being mandated to occur in accordance with the scheme formulated, by the Deputy Commissioner, Bilaspur. Consequently, with this Court, in, making a pronouncement upon OMP No.392 of 1987, hence meteing reverence thereto, thereupon, it is deemed incumbent to allude to the apposite scheme. The apt scheme is appended, as, Ex. P-6 in Civil Suit No. 17-1 of 95/87, and, the operative part thereof, stands, extracted hereinafter:

> "..... So I feel that equal distribution of 50% of offerings to all the Pujaris who have been recorded in the record of rights should go. This should be limited only to cash offerings, coconuts and ghee. Gold, Silver and Chunnis cannot be given to them because those offered to the deity by the pilgrims/devotees out of respect. If those are given to the Pujaris, the sentiments of the devotee who offer those to the deity will be shattered. I, therefore, order that because of the fact that they are performing Puja Archana they should be given 50% offerings of cash in equal shares. Apart from that the coconuts and Ghee should be converted into money and 50% of the total should be distributed amongst all the Pujaris. The Baridars/Pujaris have demanded the payment with retrospective effect from the date when the management was taken over by the trust. For their claim they had represented to Sh. I.K/ Suri, IAS (Ret.), the then Divisional Commissioner, Shimla Division, but before Mr. Suri decided anything they went in the Hon'ble High Court. The application of Bardar/Pujaris received by me on > the 4th March, 1987. So question of giving them their shares from retrospective effect does not arise. However, the Bridar/Pujaris had given a representation to Sh. I.K. Suri, the then Divisional Commissioner, Shimla Division. When they could not get any relief, they preferred to file a writ petition in the Hon'ble High Court. From the day they went to the Hon'ble High Court, the relief accrues to them. So, I order that they will get their share from the date they filed writ petition in the Hon'ble High Court.

> 10. With regard issue No.4, I hold that in the modern age I have discussion above, the Baridar/Pujaris have violated the Rules, and the small girls who were getting offering from the Kali Mata Temple have got no right because already the Pujaris will get offerings from deity Sh. Naina Devi Ji as per the norms I have ordered above. Another contention that the girls should be given share upto their marriage is not sustainable in the eyes of law. As a matter of fact, if that right is given that cannot be withdrawn back and that will go as dowry which is against the present social system. Their further contention was that the moment a boy attains the age of 18 years, he should be given the right of Baridari-system. Because of may discussion above, it will be unfair to create further Pujaris
> 11. This order of mine will be operative for 15 years from the date of announcement. The distribution of offerings should take place every quarter. The Assistant Commissioner (SDM Bilaspur), who is the chairman of the Temple Trust will take action as per above decisions. This order should be communicated to all the three groups of Pujaris through the Assistant Commissioner (SDM Bilaspur)."

A reading of the operative part thereof, unravels, of, its (a) containing a clear mandate, of its, operation surviving upto 15 years, period whereof being computable, from, the date of its pronouncement, pronouncement whereof, occurred, on 15.05.1987, (b) hence, within its mandate, remaining in force for 15 years, thereupon, its mandate apparently remained alive only upto May, 2002, yet thereafter evidently it without demur remained in operation, upto 4.7.2011, whereat the apposite civil suit was dismissed in default.

3. Be that as it may, Civil suit No. 117/1 of 09/87, was, dismissed for default on 4.7.2011, and, was restored on 19.05.2015. The interregnum, inter se the dismissal in default of the apposite civil suit, and, its coming to be restored, also per se comprises an apt period, wherewithin, the orders pronounced upon OMP No.392 of 1987, remained obviously hence not in force, nor were binding upon the contesting parties, to the apposite lis. Before proceeding to dwell, upon, infraction, if any, by respondent No.6 herein, the imperative fact, which is enjoined to be borne in mind, (a) is of as aforestated the longevity of the apposite scheme, whereto reverence stood meted by this Court, in making a pronouncement, upon OMP No. 392 of 1987, rather holding longevity only upto 15 years, (b) and also qua the factum, of its, in the interregnum inter se the dismissal in default of the apposite Civil Suit, and, upto its restoration, its obviously holding no force, (c) ultimately, of, the innate spirit, of, the orders rendered upon CWP No.6819 of 2014, is, also enjoined to be incisively discerned, (d) significantly, when mandate thereof is alleged to be intentionally infringed. A conjoint reading of the aforesaid factum rather would aid this Court, in coming to a conclusion qua any purported deviations or any purported intentional infringements thereof, hence emanating, whereupon alone respondent No.6 herein would hence be rendered amenable to make compliance therewith. Obviously, thereupon, it is apt for this Court, to hereinafter extract, the relevant portion of the orders, pronounced, by this Court, upon CWP No.6819 of 2014:-

"The petitioners are permitted to move an application under Order 1, Rule 10 CPC for impleadment in Civil Suit No. 117/1/2-9/87 within a period of three weeks from today. The application shall be decided by the learned Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.), Bilaspur, in accordance with law within two weeks thereafter. It is stated by the respondents appearing in this petition that they would not oppose such an application as and when moved. Sh. K.D. Sood, Sr. Advocate, submitted that the Deputy Commissioner has passed the orders in the interregnum, only when Civil Suit was dismissed in default and not it has been revived. Till the application is decided by the learned Civil Judge (Jr. Division), Bilaspur, the parties are directed to maintain status quo. Thereafter, the learned Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.), Bilaspur, shall pass the necessary orders, as warranted from time to time, in accordance with law."

A perusal of the apt underlined portion thereof, makes, ex-facie disclosure(s) of this Court making direction(s) (a) that till the Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.), Bilaspur, makes a decision upon an application cast under Order 1, Rule 10, CPC, thereupto the parties being enjoined, to maintain status quo; (b) and, after the Civil Judge (Jr. Division), proceeding to make an order upon an application cast under Order 1, Rule 10, CPC, his being enjoined to pass appropriate orders , as warranted, from time to time, in accordance with law, apt underlined portion whereof, for reasons assigned hereinafter, rather holds has immense significance. The learned counsel appearing for the respondents has contended that the parlance, gathered by the apt coinage "status quo" occurring in the orders supra, pronounced by this Court in CWP No.6819 of 2014, hence carrying, an innate import besides significance (a) of an injunction being cast upon the respondents/defendants, to continue to mete deference, to the pronouncement recorded by this Court, upon, OMP No. 392 of 1987, (b) importantly when the apposite disbursement, of, funds amongst the Bhojakis, of, the temple concerned, continued to be made in consonance therewith, upto the institution of CWP No.6819.

4. However, the aforesaid submission, is grossly off the mark, and, its vigour stands denuded, by the trite factum (a) of the apposite civil suit, during, pendency whereof OMP bearing No. 392 of 1987, stood constituted before this Court, whereupon, this Court had rendered orders supra, rather standing dismissed in default on 4.7.2011, and, it standing ordered to be restored only on 19.05.2015, Ib) whereas, CWP No.6819 of 2014, coming to be instituted, prior to, the restoration of Civil Suit No. 17/1 of 2009/1987, (c) given this Court, while, making a pronouncement upon OMP No. 392 of 1987, rather meteing deference, to, the apposite scheme, longevity whereof, was, only upto 15 years, 15 years whereof, since, its commencement on 15.5.1987, rather elapsed in the month of May, 2002, hence rendered capacitated, the defendants/respondents, to hence formulate, a new scheme, and, place it before the learned Court concerned, for enabling it, to, make a fresh pronouncement(s) in consonance therewith, besides for its being concomitantly enabled to make orders, for, extending the operation of orders rendered in OMP No.392 of 1987, (d) more so when the apt aforesaid underlined portion, of, orders pronounced upon CWP No.6819 of 2014, obviously facilitated apposite motions, being made before the Civil Court (e) especially also given its longevity, being co-terminus with the scheme, whereto, deference was meted by this Court, while rendering directions, upon, OMP No.392 of 1987. However, it appears that since the apposite Civil Suit was dismissed in default, hence, the defendants/ contemners/respondents herein, omitted to make apposite motions, before, the Court concerned, for enabling it, to, extend the operation of the orders pronounced upon OMP No.392 of 1987, (f) whereas, for extending the longevity, of, orders pronounced in OMP No.392 of 1987, besides , for, meteing apt extension(s) vis-a-vis the the mandate(s), of the apposite scheme, whereto deference stood meted, thereupon rendered imperative, casting of apposite motions before the Court concerned. Nowat, with the CWP No.6819 of 2014, for reasons aforestated, standing instituted, prior to the restoration of the Civil Suit concerned, hence, therefrom the import of the orders pronounced (supra) in CWP No.6819 of 2014, is to be marshalled. The order of status quo, directed to be maintained, by the litigating parties, is enjoined to bear a construction, of, it appertaining, to apposite prevalences therewith or qua the apposite operations, specifically appertaining to the distribution, of funds, amongst the Bhojakis, of, the temple concerned. Tritely, at the time of the apposite decision being recorded, on 29th June, 2015 in CWP No.6819 of 2014, the petitioners omitted to place on record, any material personificatory, of adherence yet being meted vis-a-vis the scheme, whereto deference was meted by this Court, while, making a decision upon OMP No.392 of 1987, (g) also when longevity thereof remained alive only upto 15 years, commencing, from May, 1987, and, force whereof hence elapsed in the month of May, 2002, whereafter its operation remain alive without any judicial order being made, yet without demur, (h) also when the apposite civil suit, given its being dismissed in default, hence remained in a state of inertia, (i) also therewithin the force of the orders, pronounced, in OMP No.392 of 1987 hence remained immobilized, (j) thereupon, hence adherence thereto being unmeteable, (k) rather omission(s) of the petitioners, to place on record any material personificatory, of, the scheme mandated to be adhered, to, by the defendants/respondents herein, under a pronouncement recorded upon OMP No.392 of 1987, specifically upto orders being pronounced upon CWP No.6819 of 2014, being the one embodied therein, besides holding clout, rather when the respondents contend, of, unprotested disbursements occurring, through a subsequently prepared scheme, (l) rather begets a conclusion of the scheme, reflected in the orders passed by this Court in the aforesaid OMP, hence not comprising the one warranting adherence being meted thereto, rather the unprotested scheme prepared subsequent, to, the dismissal of the apposite civil suit, being the one, hence, holding force and clout, at the time contemporaneous vis-a-vis this Court, making a pronouncement upon CWP No.6819 of 2014. In aftermath, with the aforesaid unprotested scheme, being the one holding prevalence, at the time contemporaneous, vis-a-vis this Court hence recording a decision upon CWP No.6819 of 2014, (m) thereupon, the status quo, ordered to be maintained by the parties, gathers the necessary implication, of, the contesting litigants, being enjoined to ensure adherence thereto, than the petitioners herein insisting upon adherence being meted vis-a-vis the orders pronounced upon OMP No. 392 of 1987, especially, when for the reasons aforestated, it held longevity for 15 years, computable from 15.5.1987 upto 14.5.2002, and, also with this Court in making a pronouncement upon CWP No. 6819 of 2014, rather empowered the learned Civil Judge concerned, to, in consonance with the apposite motions being made before him, hence render affirmative directions, empowerments whereof remained unexercised.

5. Since, for all the aforesaid reasons, the learned trial Court has rendered a fallacious conclusion(s), conclusions whereof are grooved upon an erroneous interpretation, of, an order recorded by this Court upon OMP No. 392 of 1987, rather when it was enjoined to withhold making, of, the orders impugned before this Court, (i) and, was enjoined to elicit from the Deputy Commissioner concerned, (ii) given the apparent termination, of, the longevity of the apposite scheme, an apt consensual scheme, whereafter upon considering the respective contentions of the litigating parties, it was enjoined to re-enliven the manner of apposite distribution of funds. However, the learned Civil Judge, Junior Division, Bilaspur, has, despite the apposite scheme surviving only upto 15 years, termination whereof occurred in the month of May, 2002, has made a gross mis-interpretation, of, orders pronounced, by this Court in OMP No.392 of 1987, also made an erroneous interpretation, of the pronouncement recorded, by this Court in CWP No.6819 of 2014, than, as aforestated, its, seeking an appropriate application, from, the defendants accompanied by a consensual scheme, for hence validating besides enabling the manner of distribution of funds, amongst, the Bhojakis. Consequently, the impugned order is set aside and the learned Civil Judge, Junior Division, Bilaspur is directed, to, for facilitating the distribution of funds amongst the Bhojakis, hence seek, from, the contesting parties, appropriate applications accompanied by appropriate scheme(s), whereafter, he shall pass order(s), in accordance with law.

6. For the foregoing reasons, the instant petition is allowed. In sequel, the order impugned is set aside. The parties are directed to appear before the learned trial Court on 23rd April, 2018. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiffs' suit for rendition of a decree, for declaration besides for rendition of a decree, for permanent prohibitory injunction, stood dismissed by the learned trial Court. In an appeal carried therefrom, before the learned First Appellate Court, by the plaintiffs, the latter Court allowed their appeal besides obviously reversed the trial Court's judgment and decree of dismissal of the plaintiff's suit.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiffs' filed a suit for grant of relief of declaration to the effect that the land comprised in Khata No.8, Khatauni

No.41, Khasra No.469/183, measuring 0-13 bighas, situated in revenue estate Majjat, Tehsil and District Shimla has been wrongly and illegally mutated in the ownership and possession of the defendants, vide mutation No.1181 and 1182 of 4.9.1995, because the entries of gair marussi has been recorded in favour of predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff and the said entries not binding on the rights of the plaintiffs. Further relief of permanent prohibitory injunction has been sought, restraining the defendants from interfering in the possession of the plaintiff over the suit land. It is averred that late Daya Nand, father of the plaintiffs stands recorded as one of the co-sharer in the above land. On the demise of late Daya Nand, the plaintiffs being his Class-1 heirs, succeeded to the suit land by way of inheritance. It is averred that as per jamabandi for the year 1960-61 with respect to khasra No.183, measuring 1-7 bighas, late Sh. Daya Nand was recorded as one of the co-sharer in the column of ownership and in column of possession. He vide sale deed of 29.12.1966 entered at Sr. No.170 in the office of Sub Registrar sold two biswa of land from the aforesaid khasra No.183 and two bighas and two biswa from Khasra No.178 and fifiteen biswa from the land comprised in Khasra No.181, total measuring 3 bigha and seven biswa to Sh. Roop Ram, predecessor-interest of defendants No.1 to 4 and in the regard mutation No.644 of 26.6.1968 was mutated in the revenue record. It has been averred that predecessor-in-interest of the defendants in collusion with the Halqua Patwari not only got the entries of two biswa out of Khasra No.183 so sold to him made in the revenue record, but got incorporated without any legal basis entry of thirteen biswa of more land of Khasra No.183, in his name, firstly on account of Bila Lagan Bawaja Rahain and later got changed those entries on account of Bila Lagan Bawaja Rahan without the knowledge of the plaintiff and their predecessor-in-interest. Further the defendants taking the undue advantage of wrong entries existing in the revenue record firstly got sanctioned a mutation No.1181, of 4.9.1995 of inheritance in their favour and on the same day vide mutation No.1182. The defendants thereafter started interfering in the peaceful possession of the plaintiffs over the suit land and the fact came to the notice of the plaintiffs on 20.09.1995. It is averred that the defendants recently on 8.4.1996 have threatened to alienate the suit land on the basis of wrong and illegal revenue entries existing in their favour.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, they have has taken preliminary objections of maintainability, cause of action estoppel and valuation. It is alleged that late Roop Ram was owner in possession of land as entered against khasra No.469/183 min, measuring 13 biswa and the said land was purchased by late Roop Ram. Since, the date of purchase of this land, late Roop Ram owned and possessed this 13 biswa of land as of right, continuously, openly peacefully and to the knowledge of the concerned, during his life time, upto 1979, when he died and thereafter this land became absolute property of the defendants, who are legal heirs of late Sh. Roop Ram and daughters of late Roop Ram. The entries in the revenue record contrary to this claim of the replying defendants are illegal, wrong and those are not binding upon the defendants. The suit is also stated to be bad for failure to join all the necessary parties. It is alleged that out of area of khasra No.183, late Sh. Roop Ram had already purchased 13 biswas of land as is evident from the entries carried in the jamabandi for the year 1964-1965. However out of total area of khasra No.183, measuring 1 bigha, 7 biswas, late Sh. Roop Ram purchased two biswas of more land along with land as entered against khasra No.178/1, measuring 2 bighas 10 biswa and Kh. No.181 min, measuring 15 biswas, total measuring 3 bighas, 7 biswas and the requisite mutation on the basis of registered sale deed vide mutation No.644 was entered and attested in favour of late Sh. Roop Ram on 22.11.1967. The alleged collusions have been denied. It is alleged that after the purchase of this land, neither the plaintiffs, nor their predecessors were allowed to enter upon this land and during his life time, late Sh. Roop Ram owned and possessed and occupied and enjoyed this 13 biswa of land, openly, peacefully, as of right, title and interest of any kind over any portion of this land. It is alleged that the plaintiffs have wrongly claimed the khasra No.183 as Bila Lagan Bawaja Rahain. It is alleged in the alternative, if purchase of this 13 biswa of land by late Sh. Roop Ram is not found to have been proved, though it was purchased by him prior to 1964, even then, since this area always remained during the life time of Roop Ram in exclusive ownership and possession to the knowledge of the previous owners, thereafter in possession of the defendants, hence, the defendants have become owner thereof by efflux of time.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for the decree of declaration, as alleged? OPP.
2. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, as alleged? OPP.
3. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.
4. Whether the suit is time barred? OPD.
5. Whether the plaintiffs are estopped from filing he present suit? OPD.
6. Whether the suit is not properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction? OPD.
7. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs/respondents. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by the plaintiffs/respondents herein before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court allowed the appeal and reversed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the defendants/appellants herein, have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, wherein they assail the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, on 23.07.2008, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the defendants/appellants against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

a) Whether the plea of limitation as raised by the defendants having not considered by the learned District Judge though the claim was held to be barred by limitation by trial Court, therefore, the findings of the lower appellate Court are liable to be set aside?

b) Whether the material admission on the part of late Shri Daya Nand, predecessor of the plaintiffs, belies the claim of plaintiffs inasmuch as that he admitted the claim of the respondent continuously since 1964 till his death because no challenge was thrown by him to the revenue entries and also that mutations NO.1181 and 1182 having been attested in his presence in favour of the appellants on 4.9.1995, therefore, the respondents are bound by such admissions of the deceased and they are estopped to file the suit?

c) Whether as per revenue record available on record, the subject matter of dispute could not be decided in the absence of all the necessary parties because S/Shri Shanka Lal and Kanshi Ram were recorded owners with respect to the suit land as per entries in the jamabandi for the years 1960 and 1964?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 to 3:

8. It is pertinent to mention here that upon the appeal coming up for hearing, before this Court, on 18.11.2010, this Court rendered the hereinafter extracted directions, upon, the learned First Appellate Court:-

> "The learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No.4, Shimla has framed the following issues on 13th August, 1999:
>
> i). Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for the decree of declaration, as alleged? OPP.
>
> ii). Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, as alleged? OPP.
>
> iii). Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.
>
> iv). Whether the suit is time barred? OPD.
>
> v). Whether the plaintiffs are estopped from filing he present suit?OPD.
>
> vi). Whether the suit is not properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction? OPD.
>
> vii). Relief.
>
> There is a short discussion on issue No.4 in para 7 of the judgment of the trial Court. The fact of the matter is that plaintiffs' suit was dismissed by learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Court No.4, Shimla. Respondents/plaintiffs preferred an appeal before the learned District Judge, Shimla against the judgement and decree dated 17th March, 2006 passed by the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division) Court No.4, Shimla. However, surprisingly, there is no discussion on the question of limitation. The question of limitation ought to have been considered by the learned District Judge in right earnest.
> In view of this, with consent of the parties, the matter is remanded to the first appellate Court only to give findings on the question of limitation. It is made clear that it is a limited remand. The parties shall restrict their arguments only to the issue of limitation on the date to be fixed by the learned first appellate Court. Consequently, the parties are directed to appear before the learned first appellate Court on December, 01, 2010. The learned first appellate Court shall return the findings to this Court on the limited issue, within a period of eight weeks thereafter. The records be sent back to the first appellate Court."

A perusal of the aforesaid directions, discloses that the learned first appellate Court, was, mandated to return findings, only upon the issue appertaining to the plaintiffs' suit, being barred by limitation. The learned First Appellate Court after remand vis-a-vis it, by this Court, under directions pronounced, on 18.11.2010, proceeded to, on 14.12.2010, return affirmative findings upon the issue appertaining, to the plaintiffs' suit being barred by limitation. Consequential effect thereof being, of, the effect(s) of affirmative findings prior thereto, rendered, by the learned First Appellate Court, on issues, excepting the issue appertaining to the plaintiffs' suit being barred by limitation, hence standing obviously blunted.

9. The learned counsel appearing for the defendants/appellants herein, has contended with vigour (i) that the affirmative findings rendered by the learned First Appellate Court vis-a-vis, the apposite issue appertaining to the plaintiffs' suit being barred by limitation, (ii) especially, when hence the plaintiffs are non suited or a decree of dismissal, of their suit hence stands pronounced, (iii) thereupon, the plaintiffs were enjoined, to institute a properly constituted appeal, before this Court, (iv) whereupon the preferment of cross-objections, by the plaintiffs vis-a-vis the findings recorded by the learned First Appellate Court, on, the issue appertaining to their suit being barred by limitation, are rather rendered not maintainable. For gauging the worth, of the aforesaid submission addressed before this Court by the learned counsel appearing, for the defendants/appellants, it is imperative to allude to the provisions, borne in Order 41, Rules 25 & 26 of the Code of Civil Procedure (hereafter referred to as the CPC, Provisions whereof read as under:-

> "25. Where Appellate Court may frame issues and refer them for trial to court whose decree appealed from.- Where the court from whose decree the appeal is preferred has omitted to frame or try any issue, or to determine any question of fact, which appears to the Appellate Court essential to the right decision of the suit upon the merits, the Appellate Court may, if necessary, frame issues, and refer the same for trial to the court from whose decree the appeal is preferred and in such case shall direct such court to take the additional evidence required; and such court shall proceed to try such issues, and shall return the evidence to the Appellate Court together with its findings thereon and the reasons there for within such time as may be fixed by the Appellate Court or extended by it from time to time.
> 26. Findings and evidence to be put on record—Objections to finding.- (1) Such evidence and findings shall form part of the record in the suit; and either party may, within a time to be fixed by the Appellate Court, present a memorandum of objections to any finding.
> (2) Determination of appeal—After the expiration of the period so fixed for presenting such memorandum the Appellate Court shall proceed to determine the appeal."

Since, this Court on 18.11.2010, (i) made an order, for limited remand, upon, the learned first appellate Court, and, when in compliance therewith, the learned first appellate Court recorded affirmative findings vis-a-vis the issue appertaining to the plaintiffs' suit being barred by limitation, (ii) also when the said issue, stood already struck earlier, whereas, non rendition of findings thereupon aptly constrained this Court, to given the aforesaid infirmity, hence direct the learned first appellate Court, to render findings thereon, (iii) obviously renders, the mandate rendered earlier, on 18.11.2010, to fall within the ambit of Order 41, Rule 26 of the CPC, AND, within the ambit, of, the phrase " or to determine any question of fact" borne in Rule 24 of Order 41 of the CPC, (iv) Rieteratedly, the learned first appellate Court, after, meteing compliance with the order, of, limited remand pronounced earlier by this Court, transmitted all the relevant records vis-a-vis this Court, (v) sequel whereof, is that the mandate comprised, in the second part of sub-rule (1) to Rule 26 of Order 41 of the CPC, is enjoined to obtain assured satisfaction, (vi) for enabling the learned counsel for the plaintiffs/respondents, to contend that the espousal, of the defendants'/appellants' counsel, that given the rendition of decree of dismissal of the plaintiffs' suit, arising, from its being barred by limitation, (vii) it was rather incumbent upon them, to, institute a properly constituted appeal before this Court, (viii) AND that the cross-objections preferred against the findings, rendered by the learned first appellate Court, upon, the issue appertaining to the plaintiffs suit being barred by limitation, in sequel to, on order of remand being pronounced by this Court, (ix) being of no legal consequence besides theirs being not maintainable. (x) rather contrarily, significantly being meritless. The second part of sub-rule (1) to Rule 26 of Order 41, of the CPC, is couched in the phraseology "either party may, within a time to be fixed by the Appellate Court, present a memorandum of objections to any finding" (xi) hence, it is to be guaged, whether this Court, had afforded any time vis-a-vis the plaintiffs/respondents, to, after its receiving findings, being rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, upon the issue appertaining to the plaintiffs' suit being barred by limitation, whereupon, hence evident satiation would occur vis-a-vis the nuance , of the aforesaid apt statutory phrase, (xii) upon satiation thereof being evinced, from, aforesaid orders hence existing on the file, rather would render the cross-objections being construable to be maintainable. For making the aforsaid adjudication, an allusion to the order(s), rendered by this Court, on 11.3.2011, 13.4.2011, 21.04.2011 and on 17.6.2011 is imperative, orders whereof are extracted hereinafter:-

> Mr. Ramesh Verma, learned counsel for the appellants prays for and is permitted to file objection to te findings recorded by the 1st Appellate Court, within four weeks.
> 13.04.2011
>
> Objections stand filed by the appellants. List this matter during next week.
>
> 21.04.2011
>
> Mr. Ramesh Verma, learned counsel for the appellants prays for and is granted three weeks' time to file reply to the objections filed by the respondents.
> 17.6.2011
> Mr. Romesh Verma, learned counsel for the appellants prays for and is permitted to file reply to the objection during the course of the day. List next week."

A perusal of the aforesaid extracted orders, makes vivid disclosure (I) of the counsel for the appellants, being permitted, to file objections vis-a-vis the apposite findings recorded by the learned first appellate Court, upon, the issue appertaining to the plaintiffs' suit, being barred by limitation. Upon anvil thereof, the counsel for the appellants/defendants, contends, that no permission within, the ambit of the second part of sub-rule (1) to Rule 26 of Order 41 of the CPC was granted vis-a-vis the plaintiffs/respondents, (ii) hence for want of non satiation therewith, renders the objections constituted before this Court by the learned counsel for the plaintiffs/respondents, being construable to be not maintainable. In making the aforesaid submission(s), the learned counsel for the defendants/appellants, appears, to gather strength, from, mere inadvertence(s), occurring in the aforesaid orders. Even if, the inadvertence aforesaid, occurring, in the afore extracted orders, remained uncorrected, nonetheless a reading of the orders pronounced, on 17.6.2011, rather, nails, a firm conclusion (iii) of prior thereto opportunities, granted to the counsel for the appellant rather being construable to be opportunities being granted to the counsel for the plaintiffs/respondents, dehors no corrections thereof being made. The aforesaid conclusion is strengthened by the fact, (iv) of the apt record(s) not making any disclosure(s) of the appellants/defendants, in pursuance to the orders recorded, on 11.3.2011, proceeding to, file any objections vis-a-vis the findings recorded by the learned first Appellate Court, upon the issue appertaining to the plaintiffs' suit being barred by limitation, (v) further, even otherwise with apt affirmative findings upon the apposite issue, standing recorded vis-a-vis the defendants/appellants, obviously, hence , there is no occasion, to make any conclusion, of, apposite permissions being either sought for or granted by this Court vis-a-vis the appellants. (vi) More so, when a perusal of the order, of, 21.4.2011, unveils, of, permission being granted by this Court to the counsel, for the appellants, to within three weeks' institute a reply to the objections, filed by the defendants/respondents, in pursuance whereof a reply thereto came to be filed by the defendants/appellants. Consequently, upon, the aforesaid construction(s), being, made by this Court, upon, the aforesaid orders made by this Court, also when hence the mandate of the apt second part of sub rule (1) to Rule 26 of Order 41 of the CPC, is meted satiation, (vii) thereupon, the cross-objections filed, by the learned counsel for the plaintiffs/ respondents vis-a-vis the findings recorded by the learned first appellate Court, upon, the apposite issue appertaining to the plaintiffs' suit being barred by limitation, are properly constituted, (viii) also they fall within the domain, of the apposite statutory provisions, (ix) AND the contention, of the learned counsel appearing for the defendants/appellants, of, theirs being mis-constituted, is not worthy for acceptance nor obviously it is befitting to conclude, of any enjoined necessity being cast, upon the plaintiffs/respondents, to institute a properly constituted statutory appeal, for theirs impeaching the findings recorded by the learned first appellant Court, upon, the issue appertaining to the plaintiffs' suit being barred, by limitation.

10. The jamabandi appertaining to the suit land, borne in Ex.PW1/A, makes, a disclosure (i) of khasra No.183 being in classification column thereof, hence reflected as ghasni and its carrying, an area of 1 bigha, and, 7 biswas. The co-owners thereof, are, one Daya Nand, predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs, one Shankar Lal, both of whom cumulatively hold ½ share therein, and, the third share holder thereof being one Kanshi Ram, who exclusively holds ½ share therein. Uncontrovertedly, in respect of the aforesaid khasra number, a sale deed, was, executed by the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs, namely, one Daya Nand vis-a-vis the predecessor-in-interest, of, the defendants, namely one Roop Ram, (ii) sale deed whereof, was, confined only to an area, of two biswas, of, land from amongst the total holding of 6 ½ biswas, held therein by the aforesaid Daya Nand. Uncontrovertedly, an uncontested mutation, in respect thereof, was recorded besides attested on 11.4.1967, order of mutation whereof is comprised in Ex. PW1/K. (iii) A reading thereof discloses, of, it being attested only vis-a-vis two biswas of land, from amongst 6 ½ biswas of land, held by the predecessor-in-interest, of the plaintiffs, in the undivided holding, which he held along with one Shankar Lal and one Kanshi Ram. However, mutation No.1181 recorded, on 4.9.1995, mutation whereof is comprised in Ex.PW1/J, was attested vis-a-vis 13 biswas of land qua the successors-in-interest of one Roop Ram, though vis-a-vis whom, prior thereto, a mutation comprised in Ex.PW1/K, rather stood attested. On a reading of the aforesaid order of mutation, the learned First Appellate Court, had concluded, (iv) of with one Daya Nand recording his presence, therebefore, at the time contemporaneous to its attestation, both he and on his demise, his successors-in-interest hence being barred to contest its validity. The learned First Appellate Court, upon, an analysis of both the documentary as well as oral evidence, has concluded, (v) of, with the defendants/appellants being in possession of the suit property, hence, no decree of permanent prohibitory injunction being affordable vis-a-vis the plaintiffs.

11. The merit of the aforesaid contention, has to be adjudicated by juxtaposing it vis-a-vis the propagation(s), reared by the defendants/appellants in their written statement. (i) A perusal thereof discloses, that, in respect of 13 biswas of land, qua land whereof an order of mutation comprised in EX.PW1/J, was attested , being espoused therein to stand purchased in the year 1965 by their predecessor-in-interest, namely, one Roop Ram, (ii) and of since then his being in possession thereof. The aforesaid pleadings, constituted, an admission of the defendants/appellant vis-a-vis the mode of theirs asserting acquisition, of, a valid of title thereto (iii) AND of theirs hence holding an indefeasible title vis-a-vis 13 biswas of land, besides also an admission qua the evident mechanism deployed by them, for validating the order of mutation, comprised in Ex.PW1/J. However, in support thereof, no sale deed, came to be adduced into evidence. Contrarily, the aforesaid admission, per se negate(s) the worth of any entries, existing, in any revenue record, of one Roop Ram holding, as a gair marussi, the area(s) of land, reflected in Ex.PW1/J nor any reflections occurring in Ex.PW1/J of his successors-in-interest, holding it, as gair marussi hence enjoy any aura of any truth. Contrarily ex facie any entries in negation, of, the pleadings reared by the defendants, in their written statement, render any reflection, in contradiction thereto, occurring in any order of mutation or in any revenue record, to be hence obviously negated rather they are prima facie construable to be inefficaciously and fictitiously recorded, rendering them uncreditworthy.

12. Nowat, an allusion to Ex.PW1/B is imperative, for determining the extent of lands, held, upon the suit khasra number, by the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs/respondents. As aforestated, one Dayanand cumulatively along with his brother, one Shankar held 13 biswas of land, in the undivided holdings, measuring 1-7 bighas, whereas, the entire remaining ½ share was singularly held by one Kanshi Ram, (i) hence the predecessor-in-interest, of the plaintiffs/respondents, could, make a valid alienation(s) thereof, only to the extent of 6 ½ biswas, AND, not beyond thereof. Alienation vis-a-vis 2 biswas of land, borne therein, is, for reasons aforestated, a valid alienation thereof. However, the alienation(s), of, or bestowment of rights, under, Ex.PW1/J upon the successors-in-interest, of one Roop Ram, without, the defendants/appellants propagation, (a) of their predecessor-in-interest, purchasing the aforesaid area, of, land before 1964, (b) hence, withstanding evidentiary proof, being lent in consonance therewith, was rather obviously, rendered bereft of any vigour, (c) even otherwise, the aforesaid espousal is rudderless, (d) given one Dayanand, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs, not evidently being empowered, to beyond 6 ½ biwas, of, land he validly held, in the total undivided holdings, hence make any valid alienation(s) thereof vis-a-vis the plaintiffs or their predecessors-interest, (e) unless, his brother Shankar Lal, holding along with him another 6 ½ biswas also was joined in the array of legal combatants also his successors-in-interest, were added, (f) for ensuring that the aforesaid Shankar Lal, along with Dayanand, prior to 1964, hence made valid alienation of their joint shares vis-a-vis the predecessor-in-interest of the defendants, namely, one Roop Ram. However, all the aforesaid persons remained unimpleaded in the extant suit. Consequently, for their non impleadment, it is unjust to pronounce, upon the efficacy of Ex.PW1/J, (g) especially with its comprising therein, an area of land, much beyond the alienable share in the suit property, of the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs/respondents, namely, one Daya Nand. Consequently, also the principle(s) of natural justice warranted impleadment of Shankar Lal and if deceased, his successors-in-interest. Contrarily, of his non impleadment, and, if deceased, his successors-in-interest, in the array of co-defendants, if the extant suit, renders the ill consequence of injustice being hence perpetuated, upon, the valid title held by one Shankar Lal in the suit property or on his demise, by his successors-in-interest. For obviating their befalment upon the aforesaid, Ex.PW1/j, necessitates, its being hence declared null and void.

13. Be that as it may, the plaintiffs' suit is, not, for recovery of possession, rather, is, for rendition, of a decree for declaration besides is for rendition of a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction. For rendering an efficacious decree for permanent prohibitory injunction, the peremptory requirements, (i) are of the party claiming it, being in evident possession of the suit property. With this Court negating, for reasons aforestated, the effect(s) of all the apposite thereto entries, if any, conspicuously on anvil of their omissions, to by cogent evidence hence prove the manner of acquisition by them, of, a valid title qua the area reflected in Ex.PW1/J, also this Court concomitantly hence ousting the effects of all reflections in any revenue record, in contradiction thereof, (ii) besides with this Court invalidating Ex.PW1/J, does concomitantly, upsurge a conclusion, of any title as asserted, by the defendants/appellants, qua land borne in Ex.PW1/J being not amenable to be construable to be a validly asserted claim vis-a-vis it. Though upon, a demarcation report being placed on record, a firm conclusion would be nailed qua the area, in respect whereof, Ex.PW1/J stood recorded, besides qua the relevant sites or specifically delineated spot(s), vividly depicted in the apposite tatima prepared in sequel thereto, (iii) besides would stall any inference, qua the fictitiousness, of the entries recorded in the revenue record, reflecting, the defendants/appellants as owners in possession of the suit property, whereupon hence this Court, would be barred to proceed, to, for want thereof, hence, analyze or negate the worth of oral evidence testified in rebuttal thereof by the DWs. (iv) AND, this court would rather hence conclude of the presumption of truth enjoyed by the revenue tries being dislodged.

14. The oral evidence adduced by the defendant, is comprised, in the statement of DW-1. In his statement , he rendered a testification in support of the defendants/appellants, holding, possession of the suit land. His testimony, is, lent support by DW-2 and by DW-3. Implicit reliance, was placed, by the learned first Appellate Court vis-a-vis the testification of DW-2, and, upon the testification of DW-3. Consequently, the learned Appellate Court, imputed reliance vis-a-vis the testification of DW-3, merely on the ground of his holdings, existing, in close proximity, to the suit property, (i) despite the fact, of, DW-3 not graphically disclosing, the factum of, any demarcation of the suit property, being carried in his presence, (ii) in sequel whereto, a tatima was prepared with specific earmarking(s) therein of the spot, wherein the suit land existed, besides its fixing the identity of the suit property, at its relevant site, (iii) yet despite his aforesaid omission, he firmly testified of the suit property being located upon the contentious khasra No.183. (iv) AND his testification was imputed credence. The aforesaid omissions were rather significant, especially when effect(s) thereof warranted, succor, from a valid demarcation being placed on record, in sequel whereto the precise location besides the identity of the suit property, existing, upon the relevant contentious spot would stand proven. (v) Contrarily, the aforesaid omission, carries, the further effect of the defendants/appellants' espousal, of theirs holding possession, of the contentious khasra number, being not worthy for acceptance, rather only for the aforesaid omission, the plaintiffs/appellants', contention, of theirs holding possession of the contentious portion of khasra No.183, is hence amenable for acceptance, (vi) reiteratedly given all the aforesaid omissions, negating, the defendants/appellants' espousal, rather hence, thereupon, alone, the plaintiffs/respondents proving their assertions, (vii) hence galvanises a conclusion, of, with the cause(s) of action, arising, vis-a-vis the plaintiffs/respondents, upon, the defendants/appellants making invasions in respect of the suit land, thereupon, alone the plaintiff's suit is rendered construable to fall within limitation.

15. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court are not based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court has excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. All the substantial questions of law are answered accordingly.

16. In view of above discussion, RSA No. 478 of 2007 is dismissed, whereas, Cross-objections No. 42 of 2017 are allowed. Consequently, the suit of the plaintiffs/Cross-objectors is decreed for joint possession, of the suit land along with other co-owners, and, the revenue entries showing the defendants or their predecessor-in-interest as owner/gair marusi in respect of the suit land, comprised, in Khewat No.8, Khatauni No.41, Khasra No.469/183, measuring 13 biswas situate at revenue estate Majthal, Tehsil and District Shimla and more particularly as per mutation No.1181 and 1182 of 4.9.1995 are wrong, and

,illegal and as such are declared not binding on the right, title and interest of the plaintiffs in the suit land, as one of the co-sharers in possession. The plaintiffs are further entitled to, in accordance with law, seek partition of the suit land by metes and bounds. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

Specific Relief Act, 1963 - Section 5 - Suit for possession on strength of title – Plaintiff filing suit for possession on strength of title- Defendant claiming adverse possession over suit land- Trial Court decreeing suit by holding adverse possession of defendant not proved – Decree upheld by first Appellate Court - RSA –On facts, plaintiff found having instituted suit for possession within twelve years from his dispossession – Held, possession of defendant falling short of statutory period did not mature into adverse possession – RSA dismissed – Judgments and decrees of lower courts upheld. (Paras 9 & 10).

For the Appellant: Mr. Rajnish K. Lal, Advocate vice to Mr. Sanjeev Sood, Advocate.

For Respondents: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal is directed, against, the concurrently recorded verdicts by both the learned Courts below, whereby, the plaintiff's suit for possession as well as for permanent prohibitory injunction qua the suit khasra number(s), was, hence decreed.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiffs filed a suit for possession of the site shown by letters ABCDEFGH shown red in colour in the site plan and for permanent prohibitory injunction, restraining the defendant from interfering, raising any construction, changing nature, cutting, removing or selling trees or fruit from or over the land denoted by letters MNOPQRSTU EFGHADCB shown in green colour in site plan being part of land measuring 0-03-95 hectares. It has been pleaded the suit land in coming in their possession along with other co-sharers and on some part, old abadies were existing which had fallen, but remains of which existed shown in red colour with letters IJKL in the site plan. The plaintiffs have planted Khatta, trees and bananas and that the defendant being shrewed and headstrong person, three years before illegally encroached upon by raising construction upon suit land shown as ABCDEFGH in the site land and has got himself recorded as Kabaj upon land measuring 0-02-94 hectares. In khasra Nos. 1976 and 1977, gair mumkin abadi of the defendant has been mentioned contrary to actual and factual position on the spot, for which order recording him as Kabaj has been passed at the back of the plaintiffs in collusion with settlement authorities. The plaintiffs have also though admitted possession of the defendant upon Area A to E but have claimed to be in possession of remaining land shown by letters MNOPQRSTU, EFGHADCB and rooms shown by letters IJKL in the site plan. Cause of action arose to the plaintiffs when they learnt about illegal construction and when defendant started interfering in the remaining land having collection construction material.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, they have taken preliminary objections inter alia cause of action, estoppel, maintainability, limitation, valuation, non joinder etc. On merits, claimed his abadi and cow shed upon suit land since the time of his ancestors besides stated that there was no abadi except the suit land. It is alleged that predecessors of the plaintiffs and the plaintiffs have been seeing their possession to which they never objected, thus, the plaintiffs are estopped to file the suit. Defendant further alleged ownership of suit land by adverse possession being in possession of the suit land since the time immemorial. The predecessors of the defendants had planted fruit bearing trees over the suit land 20 years back and cowshed of defendant had damaged, during rainy season. Accordingly, the defendant claimed to have become owner of the suit land by adverse possession and has resisted the suit by submitting that the plaintiffs never come in possession of the suit land in any capacity and that the order dated 2.4.1988 of A.C. 2nd Grade was passed in presence of Rattan Dev, one of the co-sharers against which plaintiffs did not prefer any appeal which has become final.

4. The plaintiffs filed replication to the written statement of the defendant(s), wherein, they denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled to the relief of injunction, as prayed? OPP.
2. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled to the relief of possession? OPP.
3. Whether the plaintiffs have got no enforcible cause of action, as alleged? OPD.
4. Whether the plaintiffs are estopped from filing this suit, as alleged? OPD.
5. Whether the suit of the plaintiff is not maintainable, as alleged? OPD.
6. Whether the suit is not within time? OPD.
7. Whether the suit has not been properly valued, as alleged? OPD.
8. Whether the suit is bad for non joinder of parties, as alleged? OPD.
9. If issue Nos. 1 and 2 are not proved, whether the defendant has become owner by way of adverse possession, as alleged? If so, its effect? OPD.
10. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiffs/respondents herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the defendant/appellant herein before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed the appeal and affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the defendant/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein he assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, this Court, on 24.07.2008 admitted the appeal instituted by the defendant/appellant against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

> 1. Whether the findings of the Court below are perverse, based on misreading of oral and documentary evidence and the statements of DW1 and DW2, the report of the Local Commissioner, Ex.DW6/A, AW1/A to AW1/C?
> 2. Whether in view of admitted allegation in the plaint that the defendant was a co-sharer and had raised construction on the land and on the proof that the appellant had raised construction on the land long before the filing of the suit, a decree for demolition of structure and possession of land and injunction could be passed?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 to 2:

8. Uncontrovertedly, in the jamabandi, apposite to the suit land, the plaintiffs are recorded as owners-in-possession thereof. For sustaining his purported unauthorised possession of the suit khasra number(s), the defendant had canvassed (i), of, his since time(s) immemorial, with an animus possidendi, being in, unbroken and uninterrupted possession, of the suit land, (ii) hence, with his possession vis-a-vis the suit land, since then, continuing, beyond the statutorily mandated period of time, especially upto, the time of institution of the plaint, thereupon, his perfecting his title thereon, by prescription. However, the aforesaid claim of the defendant is per se negatived, by his placing on record Ex.D-2. Even if, Ex. D-2, for want of any challenge being made vis-a-vis it, in the plaint, by the plaintiff, hence, acquires conclusivity, (iii) yet with its close reading, not bearing out the contention, raised in the written statement, of the defendant, of, his with an animus possidendi, through his ancestors, since time(s) immemorial, upto, the stage, of, institution of the suit, hence, holding possession of the suit land, (iv) thereupon, his possession ripening, by prescription, into absolute ownership thereto. Corollary thereof is even if any conclusivity is acquired by Ex. D-2, (v) thereupon, reliance placed thereon, by the defendant, is scuttled (vi) besides torpedoes his contention, reared in the written statement, of his since time(s) immemorial, through, his ancestors, with an animus possidendi, holding possession of the suit land, AND his, nowat, perfecting his title thereon, by prescription. Contrarily, it has to be concluded that, only, from the date of making of Ex. D-2, the defendant rather commenced his possession over the suit khasra number(s), obviously, with the suit, standing filed, within less than 11 years elapsing therefrom, (vii) consequently, thereupon, the expiring, of, the mandated period, of 12 years, since the making , of, Ex. D-2, upto the date of institution of the suit, for the defendant being empowered to successfully rear the plea, of his acquiring title by adverse possession qua the suit land rather remains uncompleted, (viii) in sequel, the defendant can not be concluded to have perfected his title by prescription, qua the suit land. Furthermore, the order comprised in Ex. D-2, does not articulate, that possession, if any, with an animus possidendi is held by the defendant, of the suit khasra number, (ix) thereupon, also the imperative rubric, of valid acquisition of title by prescription, by elapse of the statutorily mandated period of time, is also grossly amiss therein nor on its anvil, any capitalization can be garnered by the defendant, for his giving succor vis-a-vis his aforesaid plea.

9. Be that as it may, a Local Commissioner was appointed by the learned trial Court, for determining the extent of the purported encroachment, made, by the defendant upon the suit land, in sequel whereto, he furnished his report, report whereof is comprised in Ex.DW6/A. DW-6 stepped into witness box and was subjected, to a scathing cross-examination by the learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff. However, a close reading of his cross-examination conducted by the learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff rather unveils of his acquiescing vis-a-vis the affirmative suggestions, personificatory of the defendant hence holding possession of the suit land are embedded therein. The further effect thereof, is, especially, given its standing tendered by him, of hence the defendant acquiescing to his holding possession, of the suit khasra number. The consequence thereof, is, non rendition, if any, of any orders by the learned First Appellate Court, upon, an application filed before it, by the defendant for seeking appointment of a Local Commissioner, is wholly insignificant, for the reasons, (a) of the defendant not asserting any affirmative title vis-a-vis the suit land, anvilled upon any document bespeaking his making its valid acquisition, (b) rather when his claim qua acquisition of title by prescription or by adverse possession, stands, for reasons aforestated, negated, (c) thereupon, when, (i) appointment(s) of local Commissioner(s) may facilitate demarcation(s) of boundaries, of, contiguous lands, whereon, the respective land owners, hold, affirmative title vis-a-vis their respective adjoining estates, (ii) besides may be for determining, the extent of encroachments made by each upon the adjoining estates of others, whereon, each evidently hold affirmative valid title. (iii) Necessarily, hence, for want of any valid affirmative assertion, of acquisition, of title, by the defendant vis-a-vis the suit khasra number, it was not necessary, for the learned First Appellate Court, to proceed to appoint a local commissioner, for, the latter being enabled, to determine the extent of encroachment, if any, made by the plaintiff upon the purported adjoining estate(s) of the defendant, (iv) rather when the plaintiffs are owners-in-possession, of the suit land AND with the defendant failing to prove acquisition of title, thereon, by adverse possession, in sequel, his eviction therefrom is imperative, as aptly concurrently concluded, by both the learned courts below.

10. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court, have not, excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the respondents and against the appellant.

11. In view of the above discussion, the present Regular Second Appeal is dismissed. In sequel, the judgements and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are maintained and affirmed. The appellant is directed to, within two months from today, deposit, the mense profit qua the suit land before the learned trial Court. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

For the Appellant: Mr. K.S. Kanwar, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Rajesh Verma, vice to Rajinder Dogra, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiff instituted a suit, claiming therein, pronouncement, of, a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction, in respect of the suit land AND vis-a-vis the defendants. The learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff in respect of relief of permanent prohibitory injunction. The defendants being aggrieved therefrom, instituted an appeal before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court allowed the appeal, whereupon, it reversed the judgment and decree, pronounced by the learned trial Court. Being aggrieved therefrom, the plaintiff instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherein, reversal of the verdict pronounced by the learned First Appellate Court, is strived.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff is owner in possession of the land comprising in Khata Khatauni No. 156/243, total measuring 63.13 bighas, including the land comprising in khasra No.565/84, 567/84, 570/458/86, 568/456/85 and 591/92 min, measuring 1.1, 10.14, 1.0, 2.2 and 19.15 bighas respectively, situate in mauza Gangoowala, Tehsil Paonta Sahib. The plaintiff's case is that the defendant has no right, title or interest in the suit land. The defendant has his separate land which was purchased by the plaintiff in the name of defendant and his two other sons, who are residing separately. The defendant is a very quarrelsome person and is trying to occupy the suit land forcibly. The plaintiff being an old person of 80 years of age cannot resist the illegal acts of the defendant. As such, the plaintiff filed a suit for permanent injunction seeking to restrain the defendant from interfering or occupying the suit land.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, he has taken preliminary objections of maintainability and collusion. The defendant has pleaded that 12-13 years ago, the plaintiff made a family settlement of his property in order to bring peace and cordial relations between the family members and in family settlement, he has given land comprised in khasra No.591/92/1, measuring 7 bighas, khasra No.568/456/85/1, measuring 17 biswas and Khasra No. 567/84/1 measuring 7.11 bighas, total land measuring 15.8 bighas and he is in physical possession of the same. That apart, the defendant's case is that he was given one room for residence, when he was separated by the plaintiff. Apart from the aforesaid land, the plaintiff also purchased 15 bigha of land from the income of the ancestral land and the same was purchased in the name of defendant, Harjeet Singh and Gurmeet Singh about 20-25 years back. Defendant's further case is that on account of the separation from the family on account of family settlement, he on getting the land in settlement made improvements on the same and about three years back, he built a pucca house on the land allotted to him and also constructed a boundary wall. His further case is that the suit land is joint Hindu family coparcenary property of plaintiff, defendant and his two brothers. Waryam Singh, father of the plaintiff was the son of Subha. Subha had five sons, namely, Jagat Singh, Gurbachan Singh, Waryam Singh, Ran Singh, Mehar Singh and Jota Singh. Defendant's further case is that his grand father Waryam Singh, pre-deceased his father Subha. After the death of Subha, his estate qua the estate of father of plaintiff, was inherited by the plaintiff and his two brothers, being the sons of Waryam Singh vide mutation No.271, dated 11.6.1955. Apart from the land inherited by the plaintiff from his grand father Subha, he had also inherited the land from his father Shri Waryam Singh round about and prior to 1950. Thus, the entire land in the hand of the plaintiff is ancestral coparcenary property and defendant being the member of joint Hindu family as well as being coparcener has a right by birth which right had been duly admitted and accepted by the plaintiff, therefore, according to the defendant, the plaintiff effected the family settlement and gave land measuring 15.8. bighas to him. Apart from that, the plaintiff has also purchased 15 bighas of land which was purchased by him in the name of defendant, Harjeet Singh and Gurmeet Singh from joint family income as well as income from ancestral land, 20-25 years back.

4. The plaintiff/appellant herein filed replication to the written statement of the defendant/respondent wherein, the plaintiff denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the defendant is interfering in the suit land, as alleged? OPP.
2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of permanent injunction, as prayed for? OPP
3. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.
4. Whether the suit property is coparcenary property, if so, its effect? OPD.
5. Whether in a family settlement, defendant was allotted land measuring 15.8 bighas, if so, its effect? OPD.
6. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff/appellant herein qua relief, of, permanent prohibitory injunction. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the defendant/respondent herein before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court allowed the appeal and reversed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the plaintiff/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, wherein he assails the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, on 07.03.2006, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiff/appellant against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether there can be a family settlement settling a portion of the suit property in favour of the defendant without the consent of all persons having existing or future interest in the property to be settled?

2. Whether the findings of the learned District Judge are result of misinterpretation and misconstruction of the pleadings, oral and documentary evidence on record ad ignored the admissible evidence, which if considered would have resulted in opposite findings?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 and 2:

8. The plaintiff's suit, for, rendition of a decree, of permanent prohibitory injunction vis-a-vis suit land, comprised in Khata Khatauni No. 156/243 min bearing Khasra Nos. 565/84, 567/84, 570/458/85, 568/456/85 and 591/22 min, respectively measuring 1-1, 10-14, 1-0, 2-2 and 19-15 hence stood decreed by the learned trial Court. However, the suit of the plaintiff was resisted by the defendant. The resistance posed by the defendant vis-a-vis the plaintiff's suit, was embedded in (a) of the entire suit being ancestral coparcenary property, given its, in an unbroken chain, from, his immediately/preceding two ancestors, hence standing transmitted vis-a-vis the plaintiff, (b) till occurrence of dismemberment of the joint estate, the plaintiff being barred, to claim exclusivity of possession, of any portion of the suit khasra numbers nor his being entitled to seek, qua them, any decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, (c) rather the defendant, espoused in his written statement, that in pursuance to, a family settlement recorded inter se the parties at contest, the land(s) comprised in Khasra No.591/92/1, measuring 7 bighas, Khasra No.568/456/85/1, measuring 17 biswas and Khasra No.567/84/1,measuring 7-11 bighas, total measuring 15-8 bighas, being delivered to him, factum whereof being denoted in a tatima prepared by the Patwari besides his raising a residential house thereon AND constructing a boundary wall, as well as, a khurali about three feet high and twenty five to thirty feet in width and length, for his tethering cattle and for storing fodder.

9. Preceding the attestation of mutations vis-a-vis the suit land, mutations whereof are borne respectively in Ex. DC, Ex. DD, Ex. DF and Ex. DE, the suit khasra numbers, were, held as co-owners by Waryam Singh and Subha. Waryam Singh, is, the directly preceding predecessor-in-interest, of, the plaintiff AND is the grandfather of the defendant. Hence, the defendant's propagation(s) that all the suit khasra numbers, stood transmitted, in an unbroken line, from, Subha and Waryam Singh, upto Tara Singh, the latter being the last male holder of the suit property, thereupon rendered him incumbent to place on record reliable, cogent and best documentary evidence, making vivid disclosure, of (i) the suit khasra numbers denoted in the plaint, standing also specifically reflected in the apposite mutations, as stood attested in contemporaneity, with the opening(s) of succession vis-a-vis the estate(s) of the predecessor(s)-in-interest, of the parties at contest, (ii) whereupon, this Court would be enabled, to efficaciously, make apposite collations therewith, besides form a firm conclusion qua apposite analogity(s) thereof, significantly, vis-a-vis suit khasra number(s), (iii) also concomitantly this Court would be constrained, to firmly conclude that the apposite best documentary evidence, hence, unfolding, of, the suit khasra numbers, being, in an unbroken chain held by Waryam Singh and Subha, besides therefrom theirs uninterruptedly standing transmitted, upto, the third generation, generation whereof is constituted by the plaintiff, (ii) thereupon, the suit property partaking the trait and character of ancestral property, hence disabling the plaintiff, to till occurrence of dismemberment, of the joint holdings, by metes and bounds, to, seek exclusivity of possession of any portion, of the joint holdings also disabling him, to seek qua it, any decree of permanent prohibitory injunction. A closest and circumspect reading of the evidence on record comprised in the best documentary evidence, for, hence resting the aforesaid trite factum, stands, comprised in the aforesaid apposite mutations attested vis-a-vis the suit khasra numbers, rather unveils, of it being both vague and imprecise, (iv) inasmuch as therein, though occur reflections qua the area(s) of lands falling to the share(s) of the predecessor(s)-in-interest of the plaintiff, (v) yet therein the apt khasra numbers remain unreflected, (vi) in absence of denotation(s) thereof, in the apposite orders attesting mutations, orders whereof stood attested during the life time(s) of the respective predecessor(s)-in-interest of the plaintiff, it is extremely hazardous, to form any conclusion, (vii) of, therein, hence, occurring any palpable and firm analogity inter se the lands in respect whereof mutations stood attested respectively, at stages, whereat, the apposite estate(s) hence opened for succession nor hence, it is possible to firmly conclude, of, land measuring 63-13 bighas, in its entirety, dons, the trait and character, of ancestral coparcenary property.

10. Even otherwise, a perusal of jamabandi borne in Ex. PA rather marks the factum of the plaintiff being recorded therein, to be owner in possession of 63-13 bighas of land, (i) whereas, the dimensions of land(s) in respect(s) whereof mutation(s) of inheritance, stood attested, qua the apposite predecessor(s)-in-interest of the plaintiff, on theirs' respective demise(s) AND thereafter vis-a-vis the plaintiff, stands computed at 37 bighas, (ii) whereas, the suit land in its entirety measures 63-13 bighas. (iii) Naturally, hence, besides assumingly, if an area measuring 37 bighas, does partake, the trait and colour of ancestral property, (iv) AND yet as aforestated, given, even if the order attesting mutation(s) in respect thereto, omit to delineate the specific khasra numbers, in respect whereof they stood recorded, (v) nonetheless merely thereupon, the validity of the plaintiff's claim for rendition, of, a decree of injunction, may not, be a bewildering task, significantly, when an allusion to the respective pleadings, cast, respectively by the contesting parties, may ultimately, aid, this Court in clinching the substratum of the contentious claim(s), also reiteratedly when it stands embedded therein.

11. An allusion vis-a-vis of the contention raised, by the defendant, in his written statement brings forth, the imminent factum, of, existence therein, of, a precise espousal, with respect to possession, of khasra numbers 591/92/1, measuring 7 bighas, 568/456/85/1, measuring 17 biswas, 467/84/1 measuring 7-11 bighas, total measuring 15-8 bighas, being hence standing delivered to him, in pursuance to a family settlement, which occurred inter se the purported joint owners. Obviously, the validity of the aforesaid espousal, alone is to be tested, (i) for hence determining qua in respect of the aforesaid khasra numbers, of, the plaintiff holding any right, to seek a relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, (ii) or contrarily assumingly, if, the aforesaid khasra numbers, may don, the character and trait, of ancestral coparcenary property, whereupon, they may also be amenable, to recording of a family settlement inter se the joint owners concerned, (iii) besides, if, affirmative findings thereon vis-a-vis the defendants are rendered, thereupon, it is to be concomitantly fathomed, qua the validity, of, the defendant's claims, to, deprive the plaintiff, from, seeking the relief as canvassed by him, in the plaint. Tritely with the defendant's resistance to the plaintiff's suit, being restricted vis-a-vis the khasra numbers elucidated in the written statement, thereupon, vis-a-vis them alone, validity(ies) thereof is to be clinched.

12. Before proceeding to rest the aforesaid controversy, it is of utmost relevance, to allude to the reverence, meted by the learned First Appellate Court, to, the admissions made by the plaintiff AND his witnesses vis-a-vis the suit khasra numbers, hence, donning the trait and character of ancestral coparcenary property, (i) despite when, for the aforesaid reasons, the non reflections, of suit khasra numbers, in the respectively recorded orders of mutation(s), may present a hazardous task, for, this Court to firmly conclude, qua existence, of, imminent analogity inter se the suit khasra numbers vis-a-vis the ones reflected, in the respectively recorded orders of mutation, wherefrom, a further difficulty would arise, for, firmly concluding, of, the suit land, hence, being ancestral coparcenary property. The admission(s) relied, upon, by the learned First Appellate Court, for, concluding, of, all the suit khasra numbers, hence donning, the trait and colour of ancestral coparcenary property, is erroneously omnibusly drawn, it remaining wholly unmindful qua only an area of 37 bighas of land, standing received, by the plaintiff, under the apposite orders, of, mutation(s), (i) whereas, the total land comprised, in the suit khasra numbers, is comprised in an area of 63-13 bighas, (ii) also it has erupted, from gross discarding(s), by the learned First Appellate Court, of an averment, occurring in the paragraph No.2, of the plaint, of the plaintiff, out of the joint fund(s) of the family, purchasing land, in the name of defendant and his two other sons. Thereupon, the effect of the admissions, if any, was confined only vis-a-vis the pleadings cast in paragraph No.2, of the plaint and was not extendable, to the entire land, borne in all khasra numbers nor it was appropriate for the learned First Appellate Court, to conclude that the propagation of the defendant, rather fell, within an area of 37 bighas. More so, when for the reasons aforestated, lack of ascription in the relevant orders of mutations, of specific khasra numbers, in respect whereof, the apposite mutation(s) of inheritance stood attested, rather forbid any firm conclusion, as untenably drawn by the learned First Appellate Court. (iii) Moreover, when the trite resistance aforesaid, propagated by the defendant, in his written statement alone hence warrants rendition of an apt verdict thereon.

13. Be that as it may, nowat, while excluding the admission(s) made by the plaintiff and his witnesses rather confining, them to the averments made in paragraph No.2 of the plaint, thereupon, for, the purported family settlement, for its obviously securing validity, was, enjoined, to, with specificity delineate therein, those khasra numbers, in respect whereof it stood executed, (i) for hence delivery of possession of land, espoused by the defendant, in his written statement, being concomitantly construable to be in consonance thereto, whereupon, it would acquire validity and also would ultimately, non suit the plaintiff. The defendant, for proving his contention, was enjoined, to adduce firm evidence, comprised in adduction into evidence, of, the apposite tatima, prepared by the Patwari concerned besides its bearing consonance with his espousals occurring in paragraph No. 4, of his preliminary objections, embodied in his Written Statement, apposite averment whereof reads as under:-

> "4.....In the family settlement, the defendant was given land of Khasra No.591/92/1, measuring 7 bighas, land of khasra NO.568/456/85/1, measuring 17 biswas and land of khasra No.567/84/1, measuring 7-11 bighas, i.e. total land measuring 15-8 bighas, situated in mauza Gangu Wala, Jamniwala. The location of the land of the defendant has been shown in the tatima prepared by the patwari on 27.06.2003....."

However, the tatima prepared by the Patwari concerned as comprised in Ex, DG, omits to bear out, the espousal aforestated, occurring in paragraph No.4, of the preliminary objections, existing in the written statement, furnished to the plaint, by the defendant. The obvious consequence thereof, is that the staking(s) of claim(s) by the defendant vis-a-vis the khasra numbers enumerated in paragraph No.4 of the preliminary objections, existing in the written statement, hence, remaining uncorroborated, besides remained abysmally unproven. In sequel, the lands mentioned therein, even if assumingly alongwith other suit khasra numbers, don, the mantle and character of ancestral coparcenary property, yet resistance(s) for rendition of a decree, in respect thereto, cannot come to be vindicated by this Court, rather with the jamabandi apposite to the suit land, conveying, of, the plaintiff being owner in possession of the suit land, is rather to be imputed truth besides conclusivity. In sequel thereto, it has to be held that the plaintiff, is owner in possession of the suit khasra numbers, hence, he is entitled, to, the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction. However, it is clarified that if desired, the co-owners are, in accordance with law, entitled to seek, dismemberment, of the ancestral coparcenary property, by metes and bounds.

14. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court are not based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court has excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, both the substantial questions are answered in favour of the plaintiff/appellant and against the defendant/respondent.

15. In view of above discussion, the present Regular Second Appeal is Allowed. In sequel, the impugned judgment and decree rendered by the learned District Judge, Sirmaur District at Nahan, H.P. in Civil Appeal No.88/1 of 2003 is set aside, whereas, the judgment and decree rendered by the learned Civil Judge (Jr. Division), Court No.1, Paonta Sahib, District Sirmaur, H.P. in Civil Suit No.88/1 of 2003 is affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J. AND HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE AJAY MOHAN GOEL, J.

Ashutosh Sharma ....Petitioner.

Versus

Smt. Mansi Sahai and other ....Respondents.

COPC No. 709 of 2015.
Reserved on :21.03.2018.
Decided on: 12th April, 2018.

Contempt of Courts Act, 1972 –Sections 11 & 12 – Non –Compliance of Court orders - Contempt – Circumstances – High Court directing Deputy Commissioner to prepare scheme and disburse amount payable to Pujaris of temple in accordance with that – Also directing him to keep proper record of Pujaris who act in temple on specified period – Petitioners filing contempt by alleging non-compliance of said directions- On facts, Deputy Commissioner preparing scheme and directing it to be operative for 15 years only - Period of fifteen years elapsing but scheme continued without court orders- Meanwhile suit filed in High court dismissed in default- Held, during period falling between dismissal of suit (4.7.2011) and its restoration (19.5.2015), direction of High Court directing distribution of amount as per formulated scheme was not in force – It was not binding on contesting parties – There was no deliberate intentional or willful disobedience on part of respondents - Petition dismissed. (Paras 3 to 5).

For the Petitioner(s): Mr. R.K. Bawa, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Prashant K. Sharma, Advocate.

For the Respondent(s): Ms. Jyotsana Rewal Dua, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Charu Bhatnagar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Per Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

Through the instant petition, constituted under Sections 11 and 12 of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1972 read with Article 215 of the Constitution of India, the petitioners ventilate affording, of, relief, of the respondents being in consonance therewith hence dealt, (i) given theirs willfully, intentionally and deliberately omitting, to comply with the orders pronounced by this Court, in CWP No. 6819 of 2014. The genesis of the alleged infractions is embodied in a pronouncement recorded on 17.10.1987, by this Court in OMP No.392 of 1987, the relevant apt portion whereof stands extracted hereinafter:-

> " In view of the aforesaid agreement arrived at between the parties, it is ordered that the amounts be paid to all the Bhojkis/plaintiffs, who may be interest in receiving the amount in accordance with the scheme formulated by the Deputy Commissioner., Bilaspur. The Bhojkis/persons entitled to receive the amounts can receive these amounts under protest and defendant No.1 shall have no objection in making the payments to these persons under protest. It is clarified that receiving of the payments by such persons shall not at all prejudice their rights to the merits of the case and there payments shall be subject to the final adjudication of the case.
> It is further ordered that defendant No.1 shall maintain a record about the names of various Pujaris/Bhojkis who act in the temple on specified periods, so that the amounts payable to them or to any other Bhojaki/Pujari may be adjusted subject to the result of the suit. The amounts shall be disbursed to the various persons within a period of one week from today. The present application is disposed of accordingly."

2. A reading of the afore extracted pronouncement recorded, upon, the aforesaid OMP, brings to the fore qua disbursement(s) of relevant amounts amongst the Bhojakis, of, the temple concerned, being mandated to occur in accordance with the scheme formulated, by the Deputy Commissioner, Bilaspur. Consequently, with this Court, in, making a pronouncement upon OMP No.392 of 1987, hence meteing reverence thereto, thereupon, it is deemed incumbent to allude to the apposite scheme. The apt scheme is appended, as, Ex. P-6 in Civil Suit No. 17-1 of 95/87, and, the operative part thereof, stands, extracted hereinafter:

> "..... So I feel that equal distribution of 50% of offerings to all the Pujaris who have been recorded in the record of rights should go. This should be limited only to cash offerings, coconuts and ghee. Gold, Silver and Chunnis cannot be given to them because those offered to the deity by the pilgrims/devotees out of respect. If those are given to the Pujaris, the sentiments of the devotee who offer those to the deity will be shattered. I, therefore, order that because of the fact that they are performing Puja Archana they should be given 50% offerings of cash in equal shares. Apart from that the coconuts and Ghee should be converted into money and 50% of the total should be distributed amongst all the Pujaris. The Baridars/Pujaris have demanded the payment with retrospective effect from the date when the management was taken over by the trust. For their claim they had represented to Sh. I.K/ Suri, IAS (Ret.), the then Divisional Commissioner, Shimla Division, but before Mr. Suri decided anything they went in the Hon'ble High Court. The application of Bardar/Pujaris received by me on the 4th March, 1987. So question of giving them their shares from retrospective effect does not arise. However, the Bridar/Pujaris had given a representation to Sh. I.K. Suri, the then Divisional Commissioner, Shimla Division. When they could not get any relief, they preferred to file a writ petition in the Hon'ble High Court. Form the day they went to the Hon'ble High Court, the relief accrues to them. So, I order that they will get their share from the date they filed writ petition in the Hon'ble High Court.

10. With regard issue No.4, I hold that in the modern age I have discussion above, the Baridar/Pujaris have violated the Rules, and the small girls who were getting offering from the Kali Mata Temple have got no right because already the Pujaris will get offerings from deity Sh. Naina Devi Ji as per the norms I have ordered above. Another contention that the girls should be given share upto their marriage is not sustainable in the eyes of law. As a matter of fact, if that right is given that cannot be withdrawn back and that will go as dowry which is against the present social system. Their further contention was that the moment a boy attains the age of 18 years, he should be given the right of Baridari-system. Because of may discussion above, it will be unfair to create further Pujaris

11. This order of mine will be operative for 15 years from the date of announcement. The distribution of offerings should take place every quarter. The Assistant Commissioner (SDM Bilaspur), who is the chairman of the Temple Trust will take action as per above decisions. This order should be communicated to all the three groups of Pujaris through the Assistant Commissioner (SDM Bilaspur)."

A reading of the operative part thereof, unravels, of, its (a) containing a clear mandate, of its, operation surviving upto 15 years, period whereof being computable, from, the date of its pronouncement, pronouncement whereof, occurred, on 15.05.1987, (b) hence, within its mandate, remaining in force for 15 years, thereupon, its mandate apparently remained alive only upto May, 2002, yet thereafter evidently it without demur remained in operation, upto 4.7.2011, whereat the apposite civil suit was dismissed in default.

3. Be that as it may, Civil suit No. 117/1 of 09/87, was, dismissed for default on 4.7.2011, and, was restored on 19.05.2015. The interregnum, inter se the dismissal in default of the apposite civil suit, and, its coming to be restored, also per se comprises an apt period, wherewithin, the orders pronounced upon OMP No.392 of 1987, remained obviously hence not in force, nor were binding upon the contesting parties, to the apposite lis. Before proceeding to dwell, upon, the commission of contempt, if any, by the purported contemners/respondents herein, the imperative fact, which is enjoined to be borne in mind, (a) is of as aforestated the longevity of the apposite scheme, whereto reverence stood meted by this Court, in making a pronouncement, upon OMP No. 392 of 1987, rather holding longevity only upto 15 years, (b) and also qua the factum, of its, in the interregnum inter se the dismissal in default of the apposite Civil Suit, and, upto its restoration, its obviously holding no force, (c) ultimately, of, the innate spirit, of, the orders rendered upon CWP No.6819 of 2014, is, also enjoined to be incisively discerned, (d) significantly, when mandate thereof is alleged to be intentionally infringed. A conjoint reading of the aforesaid factum rather would aid this Court, in coming to a conclusion qua any purported deviations or any purported intentional infringements thereof, hence emanating, whereupon alone the purported contemners/respondents hence would render themselves amenable to face action, under the Contempt of Courts Act. Obviously, thereupon, it is apt for this Court, to hereinafter extract, the relevant portion of the orders, pronounced, by this Court, upon CWP No.6819 of 2014:-

"The petitioners are permitted to move an application under Order 1, Rule 10 CPC for impleadment in Civil Suit No. 117/1/2-9/87 within a period of three weeks from today. The application shal be decided by the learned Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.), Bilaspur, in accordance with law within two weeks thereafter. It is stated by the respondents appearing in thi petition that they would not oppose such an application as and when moved. Sh. K.D. Sood, Sr. Advocate, submitted that the Deputy Commissioner has passed the orders in the interregnum, only when Civil Suit was dismissed n default and not it has been revived. Till the application is decided by the learned Civil Judge(Jr. Division), Bilaspur, the parties are directed to maintain status quo. Thereafter, the learned Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.), Bilaspur, Shall pass the necessary orders, as warranted from time to time, in accordance with law."

A perusal of the apt underlined portion thereof, makes, ex-facie disclosure(s) of this Court making direction(s) (a) that till the Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.), Bilaspur, makes a decision upon an application cast under Order 1, Rule 10, CPC, thereupto the parties being enjoined, to maintain status quo; (b) and, after the Civil Judge (Jr. Division), proceeding to make an order upon an application cast under Order 1, Rule 10, CPC, his being enjoined to pass appropriate orders , as warranted, from time to time, in accordance with law, apt underlined portion whereof, for reasons assigned hereinafter, rather holds immense significance. The learned counsel appearing for the respondents has contended that the parlance, gathered by the apt coinage "status quo" occurring in the orders supra, pronounced by this Court in CWP No.6819 of 2014, hence carrying, an innate import besides significance (a) of an injunction being cast upon the respondents/defendants, to continue to mete deference, to the pronouncement recorded by this Court, upon, OMP No. 392 of 1987, (b) importantly when the apposite disbursement, of, funds amongst the Bhojakis, of, the temple concerned, continued to be made in consonance therewith, upto the institution of CWP No.6819.

4. However, the aforesaid submission, is grossly off the mark, and, its vigour stands denuded, by the trite factum (a) of the apposite civil suit, during, pendency whereof OMP bearing No. 392 of 1987, stood constituted before this Court, whereupon, this Court had rendered orders supra, rather standing dismissed in default on 4.7.2011, and, it standing ordered to be restored only on 19.05.2015, Ib) whereas, CWP No.6819 of 2014, coming to be instituted, prior to, the restoration of Civil Suit No. 17/1 of 2009/1987, (c) given this Court, while, making a pronouncement upon OMP No. 392 of 1987, rather meteing deference, to, the apposite scheme, longevity whereof, was, only upto 15 years, 15 years whereof, since, its commencement on 15.5.1987, rather elapsed in the month of May, 2002,hence rendered capacitated, the defendants/respondents, to hence formulate, a new scheme, and, place it before the learned Court concerned, for enabling it, to, make a fresh pronouncement(s) in consonance therewith, besides for its being concomitantly enabled to make orders, for, extending the operation of orders rendered in OMP No.392 of 1987, (d) more so when the apt aforesaid underlined portion, of, orders pronounced upon CWP No.6819 of 2014, obviously facilitated apposite motions, being made before the Civil Court (e) especially also given its longevity, being co-terminus with the scheme, whereto, deference was meted by this Court, while rendering directions, upon, OMP No.392 of 1987. However, it appears that since the apposite Civil Suit was dismissed in default, hence, the defendants/ contemners/respondents herein, omitted to make apposite motions, before, the Court concerned, for enabling it, to, extend the operation of the orders pronounced upon OMP No.392 of 1987, (f) whereas, for extending the longevity, of, orders pronounced in OMP No.392 of 1987, besides , for, meteing apt extension(s) vis-a-vis the the mandate(s), of the apposite scheme, whereto deference stood meted, thereupon rendered imperative, casting of apposite motions before the Court concerned. Nowat, with the CWP No.6819 of 2014, for reasons aforestated, standing instituted, prior to the restoration of the Civil Suit concerned, hence, therefrom the import of the orders pronounced (supra) in CWP No.6819 of 2014, is to be marshalled. The order of status quo, directed to be maintained, by the litigating parties, is enjoined to bear a construction, of, it appertaining, to apposite prevalences therewith or qua the apposite operations, specifically appertaining to the distribution, of funds, amongst the Bhojakis, of, the temple concerned. Tritely, at the time of the apposite decision being recorded, on 29th June, 2015 in CWP No.6819 of 2014, the petitioners omitted to place on record, any material personificatory, of adherence yet being meted vis-a-vis the scheme, whereto deference was meted by this Court, while, making a decision upon OMP No.392 of 1987, (g) also when longevity thereof remained alive only upto 15 years, commencing, from May, 1987, and, force whereof hence elapsed in the month of May, 2002, whereafter its operation remain alive without any judicial order being made, yet without demur, (h) also when the apposite civil suit, given its being dismissed in default, hence remained in a state of inertia, (i) also therewithin the force of the orders, pronounced, in OMP No.392 of 1987 hence remained immobilized, (j) thereupon, hence adherence thereto being unmeteable, (k) rather omission(s) of the petitioners, to place on record any material personificatory, of, the scheme mandated to be adhered, to, by the defendants/respondents herein, being vis-a-vis the one one borne in a pronouncement recorded upon OMP No.392 of 1987, and also its holding sway specifically upto orders being pronounced upon CWP No.6819 of 2014, besides its thereupto holding clout, (l) begets an inference, of, rather when the respondents contend, of, unprotested disbursements occurring, through subsequently prepared scheme(s) qua thereupon the scheme, reflected in the orders passed by this Court in the aforesaid OMP, hence not comprising the one warranting adherence being meted thereto, (m) rather reiteratedly the unprotested scheme prepared subsequent, to, the dismissal of the apposite civil suit, being the one, hence, holding force and clout, at the time contemporaneous vis-a-vis this Court, making a pronouncement upon CWP No.6819 of 2014. In aftermath, with the aforesaid unprotested scheme, being the one holding prevalence, at the time contemporaneous, vis-a-vis this Court hence recording a decision upon CWP No.6819 of 2014, (m) thereupon, the status quo, ordered to be maintained by the parties, gathers the necessary implication, of, the contesting litigants, being enjoined to ensure adherence thereto, than the petitioners herein insisting upon adherence being meted vis-a-vis the orders pronounced upon OMP No. 392 of 1987, especially, when for the reasons aforestated, it held longevity for 15 years, computable from 15.5.1987 upto 14.5.2002, and, also with this Court in making a pronouncement upon CWP No. 6819 of 2014, rather empowering the learned Civil Judge concerned, to, in consonance with the apposite motions being made before him, hence render affirmative directions, empowerments whereof remained unexercised.

5. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing, for the petitioner also contended, that with this Court, while making a pronouncement, upon, CWP No. 6819 of 2014, its further directing the Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.) concerned, to render orders as warranted, from time to time, and, with the Civil Judge (Jr. Divn.), concerned, after making an order, upon, an application cast under Order 1, Rule 10 of the CPC, hence, his/hers begetting compliance, with the apposite orders pronounced by this Court, in CWP No.6819 of 2014, and, hers/his also rendering an order, upon, an application cast before him under Section 151 of the CPC, whereunder she/he approbated, the manner of the distribution of funds, amongst, the Bhojakis of the temple concerned, in the manner ordained /mandated, in the orders recorded by this Court in OMP No.392 of 1987, (a) thereupon, also per se contempt being committed by the contemners, (b) imperatively when since the stage of the restoration of the civil suit upto the pronouncement recorded by this Court, upon the apposite CWP, they hence were enjoined to mete deference thereto, and, also make the apposite disbursement(s), in consonance therewith. The aforesaid submission is falteringly made, and, with a co-ordinate bench of this Court while pronouncing, a, decision upon, CMPMO No. 143 of 2013, for reasons stated therein hence rendering a mandate qua the parlance, borne by the apposite part, of the mandate supra recorded by this Court in CWP No.6819, (c) being, of, adherence by the litigating parties vis-a-vis, the unprotested scheme, than, in prevalence, hence, any insistence, upon, the respondents herein, for theirs adhering, to the mandate occurring in OMP, aforesaid, is per se grossly impermissible. Moreover, the defendants/respondent s herein, also tender their unconditional apology, hence purge themselves from contempt, thereupon, it appears that there is no deliberate, intentional or willful disobedience, by the defendants/respondents herein vis-a-vis the mandate recorded by this Court in CWP No.6819 of 2014.

6. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit in the instant petition which is accordingly dismissed and the respondents are discharged. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

For the Plaintiff: Mr. Rakesh Thakur, Advocate.
For the Defendants: Mr. H.S. Rana, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiffs' case in brief is that the plaintiff No.1 is a businessman, whereas, plaintiffs No.2 to 6 are joint investors with plaintiff No.1. It is pleaded that plaintiffs and the sole defendant Inder Singh entered into an agreement of sale on 22nd May, 2007, to sell the suit land @ Rs. 11,50,000/- per bigha to the plaintiffs, land whereof is comprised in Khata Khatoni NO.2/4 min, Khasra No.535, measuring 0-14 bighas, Khasra No.536 measuring 0-14 bighas, Khasra No.537, measuring 1-7 bighas, Khasra No.544, measuring 7-5 bighas, kita -4, total measuring 10 bighas, situated at village Dollowal, Hadbast No.69, Tehsil Nalagarh, District Solan, H.P. The aforesaid land was agreed to be sold, for, a consideration of Rs.1,15,00,000/-. Out of the said consideration, the defendant, in the presence of the witnesses, had also received earnest money from the plaintiffs to the tune of Rs.30,00,000/-, and, he had also assured the plaintiffs that the sale deed will be executed on or before 7.09.2007. It has been pleaded that before the expiry of the appointed date i.e. 07.09.2007, the plaintiffs requested the defendant to get the sale deed executed and registered qua the suit land, in favour of the plaintiffs. However, the sole defendant expressed his inability to execute the registered deed of conveyance, before 7.9.2007. It has been pleaded that plaintiffs along with balance sale consideration, visited, the office of Sub Registrar, Nalagarh on 7.09.2007, and, remained thereat till 4.50 P.M. However, defendant has failed to record his presence in the office of Sub Registrar, Nalagarh on the appointed day. The plaintiff No.1 got prepared, and, attested an affidavit, from, Notary Public qua his recording, his presence on 7.9.2007 in the Office of Sub Registrar, Nalagarh. Thereafter, on 8.9.2007, plaintiff No.1 personally met the defendant, and, asked him to extend the date of execution, of agreement as per his convenience, and, he assured the plaintiff No.1 that needful would be done within two days, however, till date nothing has been done, despite, several telephonical and oral messages conveyed, by the plaintiffs to the defendant. The defendant has not complied with his part of the contract, though, he has received a sum of Rs.thirty lacs as earnest money from the plaintiffs. It has been pleaded that the plaintiffs are ready and willing to, and, still are willing to perform their part of contract but the defendant has been avoiding the execution and registration of sale deed, on payment of balance sale consideration. Hence the suit.

2. That the sole defendant, namely, Inder Singh (now deceased) contested the suit, and, filed written statement, wherein he has taken preliminary objections, inter alia, locus standi, maintainability, limitation, estoppel, time being the essence of contract, suppressions of material facts etc. On merits, execution of agreement of 22.5.2007 qua the suit land is admitted. However, it is submitted that defendant entered into an agreement, with, plaintiff No.1 Sh. Ram Swaroop on 22.09.2006, for, sale of the suit land, on payment of sale consideration of Rs.1,15,00,000/-, and, only earnest money of Rs.30 lacs was given in advance and the sale deed was to be executed on or before 22.05.2007 subject to the payment of entire balance payment. It has been pleaded that plaintiff No.1 is a businessman, and, is dealing in sale and purchase of properties, and, did not come forward for the registration of the sale deed within the stipulated period, and, was not ready and willing purchaser. On 22.05.2007, Sh. Ram Swaroop again requested the defendant to give some time, and, to extend the period of agreement, and, again asked to execute other agreement, and, at that time he introduced the names of other purchasers in the agreement. Thereafter agreement to sell of 22.05.2007 was entered into plaintiff No.1, and, the defendant. As per the agreement the sale deed was to be executed on or before 7.09.2007, and, the time was made the essence of the contract. It was also mandated in the agreement, that, in case the sale deed is not executed within the fixed period, the amount of Rs.30,00,000/- paid as earnest money earlier on 22.09.2006, will be forfeited. It is submitted that the agreement was unfortunately rescinded, and, the defendant had to suffer huge irreparable loss, on account of illegal acts of the plaintiffs. It is submitted that the plaintiffs were never ready and will buyer, and, never approached the defendant for execution and registration of the sale deed till 7.9.2007 nor they had sufficient money to liquidate the entire balance payment vis-a-vis them. It is submitted that in fact the defendant went on 7.9.2007 to Sub Registrar's office, Nalagarh for execution of the sale deed, and, waited for the plaintiffs till 4.15 p.m., but none of them came there for purchase of land. To this effect an affidavit was sworn before the notary public in the presence of Sucha Singh. It is denied that the defendant was ever contacted telephonically or personally, by the plaintiffs, for the purchase of property, even after 7.9.2007, as alleged. It is submitted that it is the defendant, who, sent the notice of 12.9.2007, extending time, to the plaintiffs to execute the sale deed by 22.09.2007, and, also warned them, that, thereafter agreement shall stands cancelled/rescinded, and, the advance money paid by them shall stand forfeited. Thereafter, another notice of 25.09.2007 served upon the plaintiff informing him that the agreement stands cancelled and rescinded, and, the money paid by him to the defendant also stands forfeited.

3. The plaintiffs herein filed replication to the written statement of the defendant, wherein, they denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

4. On the contentious pleadings of the parties, this Court on 12.03.2012, struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for relief as per agreement dated 22.05.2007?
2. Whether plaintiffs are entitled for refund of Rs.30,00,000/- from the defendant, as already paid to the defendant, as earnest money? OPP
3. Whether the plaintiffs have no locus standi to file the present suit? OPD.
4. Whether the suit is barred by period of limitation? OPD.
5. Whether plaintiffs are estopped to file the suit by their own acts, deeds, acquiescences etc.? OPD.
6. Whether the time was the essence of the contract under dispute as sale deed was to be executed and registered on or before 22.05.2007 and the plaintiffs failed to perform their part despite several opportunities? OPD.
7. Whether the plaintiffs have not come to the Hon'ble Court with clean hand and has suppressed material facts? OPD.
8. Whether the plaintiffs having failed to perform their part of the contract are not entitled to the relief claimed? OPD.
9. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD.
10. Relief.

5. For the reasons to be recorded hereinafter, my findings on the aforesaid issues are as under:-

Issue No.1..... Yes.

Issue No.2..... No.

Issue No.3..... No.

Issue No.4..... No.

Issue No.5..... No.

Issue No.6..... No.

Issue No.7..... No.

Issue No.8..... No.

Issue No.9..... No.

9. Relief..... Suit of plaintiff is decreed as per the operative portion of the judgment.

Reasons for findings.

Issues No.1, 2, 6 and 8.

6. All theses issues are taken up together for discussion, as they are common in nature besides common evidence thereon stands hence adduced by the parties.

7. The initial agreement to sell, was, entered inter se plaintiff Ram Swaroop with deceased sole defendant Inder Singh, agreement to sell whereof, was, entered into inter se them, on 22.09.2006. However, thereafter the apposite hereat agreement, to sell was executed inter se the parties at contest, on 22.05.2007, agreement to sell whereof, is exhibited as Ex.PW2/D. In proof of execution of aforesaid Ex.PW2/D, the plaintiff stepped into the witness box as PW-2, and, has made a testification, in consonance, with, the averments borne in the plaint. He has in his testification, admitted, the occurrence, of his signatures in read circle 'A', in Ex.PW2/D. Since, time was the essence of the contract and the contract to sell, comprised in Ex.PW2/D, was enjoined to be consummated, on or before 7.09.2007, by execution of a registered deed of conveyance vis-a-vis the suit property, (a) hence, in proof, of the plaintiff(s) recording, on the appointed day, hence his/their presence in the office of Sub Registrar concerned, plaintiff Ram Swaroop in his tesitifcation, hence, relied upon, an affidavit borne in Ex.PW1/A, wherein, disclosures occur of his, on 7.09.2007, recording his presence before the Sub Registrar concerned, for ensuring qua the apposite deed of conveyance being registered vis-a-vis the suit khasra numbers, (b) whereas, the sole defendant, namely, Inder Singh, rather omitting to record his presence thereat, (c) on anvil thereof, the plaintiffs hence espoused, through, their counsel, of theirs, readiness, and, willingness to perform their part of contract, on the date(s) specified, in the contract of sale, borne in Ex.PW2/D, (d) whereas, the sole defendant Inder Singh, hence, omitting to record his presence, on 7.9.2007, before the Sub Registrar concerned, his thereupon personifying, his unwillingness, whereupon, a decree for specific performance of agreement to sell, comprised in Ex.PW2/D, is enjoined to be pronounced against the defendants.

8. The testification of PW-2, with respect to valid execution, and, attestation of affidavit, borne in Ex.PW1/A, is meted corroboration by PW-1. The cross-examination of PW-1, omits to make any unfoldings, of his falsifying, the recitals borne, in Ex.PW1/A, hence, it is to be concluded, of the plaintiff rather recording his presence, on 7.9.2007, in the office of Sub Registrar concerned. However, also it is to be ascertained, from, the evidence existing on record qua the defendant, as espoused by the counsel for the plaintiffs, rather failing to record his presence, on the aforesaid date, before the Sub Registrar concerned, or whether as espoused by the counsel for the defendant, the latter recording his presence, before, the Sub Registrar concerned, whereas, contrarily, the plaintiffs omitting to record their presence, before, the Sub Registrar concerned, hence, contrarily concomitantly there being unwillingness of the plaintiffs, to perform their part, of contract, comprised in Ex.PW2/D. The learned counsel appearing for the defendant(s), in making the aforesaid contention before this Court, has depended upon the testification of DW-2, (a) who in his testification borne in is examination-in-chief, has made communications, of, on the relevant date, the plaintiffs omitting to record their presence in the office of the Sub Registrar concerned, (b) and also qua subsequent thereto, notices, comprised in Ex.DW2/1, being, as depicted by Ex.DW2/2 hence standing served upon the plaintiffs, (c) and, also disclosed qua another notice comprised in Ex.DW2/3, being also on instruction(s) of his father, standing prepared by an advocate, and, its being, as displayed by receipt borne in Ex.DW2/4, hence, served upon the plaintiffs. (d) Hence, the respective probative vigours of the aforesaid exhibit(s), tendered into evidence vis-a-vis the vigour of Ex.PW1/A, is enjoined to be cumulatively assessed, for, hence gauging qua the plaintiffs or the defendant recording or not recording their respective presences, on 7.9.2007, in the office of Sub Registrar concerned. Though, in the aforesaid notices, recitals do occur of the sole defendant, Inder Singh, on the date recited therein, hence recording his presence before the Sub Registrar concerned. Nonetheless, when assessing the compatible probative vigour of the apposite recitals borne therein, vis-a-vis the recitals borne in affidavit comprised in Ex.PW1/A, (e) especially, with contents of Ex.PW1/A being corroborated by Public Notary concerned, who has testified as PW-1, and, who during the course of his cross-examination, was, rather omitted to purvey any suggestion, for, hence falsifying all the recitals borne therein, (f) whereas, Ex.DW2/1, and Ex.DW2/3, being merely notices served by the counsel for the defendant, upon, the plaintiffs, and, also with the counsel remaining unexamined, in Court, thereupon, the probative vigour of affidavit, borne in Ex.PW1/A, is, of a graver degree vis-a-vis the degree of vigour of the notices, borne in Ex.DW2/1, and, in Ex.DW2/3. (g) More so, when the defendant(s) could well have made an affidavit in respect of the recitals, borne in the respective notices, rather than his taking to issue notices, upon the plaintiffs, (h) besides even if the notices held truthful disclosure, thereupon, it was imperative upon the defendant(s) to lead into the witness box, the counsel concerned, who hence prepared, scribed or authored them. Omission of the defendant(s) to lead into the witness box, the counsel, who prepared, scribe or authored the apposite notices, rather constrains a conclusion, of all, the recitals occurring therein, being entirely invented besides contrived, only, for smothering the effect of Ex.PW1/A.

9. Be that as it may, the learned counsel, for the defendant(s) has relied, upon an admission occurring, in the cross-examination, of the plaintiff (PW-2), (i) of his not making any intimation to the defendant qua his, on 7.9.2007, hence, arriving at the office of Sub Registrar concerned. (ii) Nonetheless, the effect thereof is waned by the factum of DW-2 making, for reasons aforesaid, rather an untruthful testification, of, on the aforesaid day, contrarily his father, the sole defendant Inder Singh remaining present in the office of the Sub Registrar concerned, and, whereas the plaintiff(s) not recording his presence thereat, whereupon, it is concomitantly inferable qua his acquiescing vis-a-vis an apposite intimation vis-a-vis the relevant purpose, rather being held by him. (iii) Sequel thereof is of it, being, hence inferable therefrom of the plaintiffs being ready, and, willing to perform their part of their obligation(s) borne in Ex.PW2/D, and, the defendant derelicting to perform his part of contract, borne in Ex.PW2/D.

10. Nowat it is to be discerned, qua whether a part of the sale consideration, comprised, in a sum of Rs.30,00,000/-, as evidently paid in contemporaneity vis-a-vis the execution, of, the initially executed agreement to sell, and, with time of consummation thereof, rather standing extended, through, Ex.PW2/D, qua whether the aforesaid tenderings, of, part, of, sale consideration also being reckonable, as part, liquidation(s) vis-a-vis the agreement drawn, and, exhibited, as Ex.PW2/D. In making the aforesaid conclusion, an allusion to the testification, of, the son of deceased sole defendant Inder Singh, is imperative. He while testifying as DW-2, has, in his cross-examination rather acquiesced, to the suggestion, of, at the time of execution of the initial apposite agreement to sell, a part of the sale consideration, comprised, in a sum of Rs.30,00,000/- being tendered by the plaintiff(s) vis-a-vis his deceased father. However, yet, the learned counsel appearing for the defendant, has contended that the aforesaid testification, rendered by the son of deceased sole defendant Inder Singh, not garnering any conclusion of the part of sale consideration, tendered earlier, being also construable vis-a-vis tenderings qua agreement to sell, borne in Ex.PW2/D, (a) rather its tendering being construable, only, with respect to the prior thereto agreement to sell executed inter se the plaintiff Ram Swaroop, and, deceased Inder Singh, and concomitantly with no amount being paid, at the stage, of, execution, of Ex.PW2/D, (b) thereupon, the tenderings, of, part of sale consideration borne in a sum of Rs.30,00,000/-, purportedly, as earnest money, by the plaintiffs vis-a-vis the deceased sole defendant, enjoining, its being forfeited, and, its not being reckonable as advance or earnest money vis-a-vis Ex.PW2/D, (c) and that even if assumingly, this Court renders a decree for specific performance of contract, borne in Ex.PW2/D, thereupon, the plaintiffs being enjoined, to liquidate vis-a-vis the defendants, the entire sale consideration, comprised in a sum of Rs.1,15,00,000/-. However, the aforesaid submission, cannot be accepted, given it being admitted, in the apposite pleadings drawn by the defendant, of Ex.PW2/D being executed only for extending time(s), for the relevant purpose, as stood initially embodied, in the prior contract of sale, executed solitarily inter se plaintiff Ram Swaroop vis-a-vis the deceased sole defendant Inder Singh. If, Ex.PW2/D was hence executed for extending time, for ensuring complete execution of the apposite registered deed of conveyance vis-a-vis th suit khasra numbers, (iii) thereupon, ipso facto hence the earnest money, earlier tendered by co-plaintiff No.1 vis-a-vis the sole defendant Inder Singh, especially under a prior agreement to sell, also became, the requisite earnest money or advance, vis-a-vis the total sale consideration, (iv) besides obviously, hence, thereupon, the forfeiture clause, hence, occurring in the prior agreement of contract of sale, also stands annulled, and, the aforesaid submission is rendered rudderless, and, is rejected. Hence, issues No.1, 2, 6 and 8 are decided in favour of the plaintiffs and against the defendants.

Issue No.3 to 5.

11. No evidence exists on record to show that as to how the plaintiffs have no locus standi, or that as to how the plaintiff's suit is barred by limitation, as also, as to how the plaintiffs are estopped from filing the instant suit, hence, both the aforesaid issues are decided in favour of the plaintiffs and against the defendants.

Issue No.7:

12. There exists no evidence on record to show that as to how the plaintiffs have not come to this Court with clean hand, hence, issue No.7 is decided in favour of the plaintiffs and against the defendants.

Issue No.9

13. In view of my findings on Issues above, the plaintiff suit is maintainable in the present form, hence, issue No.9 is decided in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants.

Relief.

14. In sequel to findings on issues aforesaid, the suit of plaintiffs is decreed, and, a decree is hereby passed in favour of the plaintiffs, and, against the defendants for specific performance of the agreement to sell of 22.05.2007, and, the defendants are directed to, in accordance with law, within two months, from today, execute a registered deed of conveyance vis-a-vis the plaintiffs in terms of the agreement qua the suit land comprised in Khata Khatoni No.2/4 min, Khasra Nos.535, measuring 0-14 bighas, 536, measuring 0-14 bighas, 537, measuring 1-7 bighas, 544 measuring 7-5 bighas, Kita 4, total measuring 10 bighas, situated at village/mauja Dollowal, Hadbast No.69, Tehsil Nalagarh, District Solan, on payment of remaining sale consideration of Rs.85,00,000/-, as also, are directed to deliver vacant and peaceful possession, of, the suit land, to the plaintiffs. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal is directed, against, the concurrently recorded verdicts by both the learned Courts below, whereby, the plaintiffs' suit for possession of the suit land, was, hence decreed.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiffs are owners of land comprised in khata Khatauni No.22 min/31 min, Khasra No.52, measuring 1-16 bighas, situated at Mauza Kotri, Tehsil Paonta Sahib, District Sirmaur, H.P. and that their residential houses are situated on a portion of it denoted by khasra No.52/2 and that the remaining portion of land as denoted by Khasra No.52/1 was cultivable and that on the boundary of this Khasra No.51/1, there are trees of "Dheu', mango and Chakotra (citrus). As far as defendants are concerned, they have got no right, title or interest qua this land comprising Khasra No.52. Despite this, on 24.1.1999, they collected material on Khasra No.52 and forcibly constructed a boundary wall on it with the result, it was divided into two parts. In fact, such construction of boundary wall had been raised, during the night intervening 25/26.1.1999. They also constructed a thatched room and another room of wooden supports covered with a in roof and a latrine in khasra No.52, forcibly without any right, title or interest on 26.1.1999. Although, the plaintiffs had tried to stop them from occupying the aforesaid khasra number and from dispossessing them from its possession and also from raising construction, but they did not pay any heed to their request. In this way, they forcibly occupied a portion of Khasra No.52 by dispossessing the plaintiffs. On 3.2.1999, a tatima was got prepared from Patwari Illaqua and it was found that the defendants were in possession of khasra No.52/1, measuring 1-1 bighas as shown in the tatima. It was further alleged that their possession over the suit land is illegal and that of a trespasser. On 3.2.1999, the defendants had been requested to remove the structures and the boundary wall from the suit land to hand over its vacant possession to them, but they refused to do so. Hence the suit.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, they have taken preliminary objections inter alia cause of action and maintainability etc. On merits, it was denied that the plaintiffs are owner in possession of the suit land. In fact, the ancestors of the defendants had occupied the suit land on the day of 'Lohri' on 13.1.1948 and constructed a dwelling house for residential purposes thereon. They also planted trees of mangoes, Dheu, citrus etc., on the suit land and as such, since then the suit land is being possessed continuously, peacefully, openly on the spot by the defendants to the knowledge and exclusion of the plaintiffs, who have lost their title over the same and the defendants have perfected their title by way of adverse possession and became owners of the same. As far as their possession over the suit land is concerned, the plaintiffs did not raise any objection. It was further asserted that due to the passage of time, the old 'Chhaper' which was in dilapidated condition was renovated and a tine sheet was put on the roof of the same and rest of the entire house remained in old shape. The suit land was also covered with boundary wall by the defendants, which has been existing, on the spot, for the last more than 50 years. On account of its being muddy and Katcha one, it had fallen. Other allegations were denied.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether plaintiffs are entitled to the relief of possession on the basis of title? OPP
2. Whether the defendants are in adverse possession? If so, its effect? OPD.
3. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiffs/respondents herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the defendants/appellants herein before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed the appeal and affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

6. Now the defendants/appellants herein, have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein they assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, this Court, on 22.4.2008 admitted the appeal instituted by the defendants/appellants against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether the Courts below have misconstrued, misinterpreted and misapplied the oral and documentary evidence on record in returning the findings that the defendants have not acquired title on Khasra No.52/1 measuring 15 biswas, by way of adverse possession?

2. Whether the Courts below have erred in not considering admission made by Dinesh Kumar plaintiff himself and as Special attorney of other plaintiffs in the application dated 16.10.2000 along with accompanying affidavit proving the adverse possession of defendants on suit land and, therefore, the impugned judgment, decree are liable to be set aside?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 to 2:

7. Ex. P-1, exhibit whereof, is the jamabandi vis-a-vis the suit land, makes display of the plaintiffs being recorded owners of the suit land. Ex.PW2/A prepared in the year 3.2.1999, makes, a graphic disclosure, of the defendants, hence, to the extent of 15 biswas encroaching upon khasra No.52/1. However, the defendants asserted acquisition of title vis-a-vis the aforesaid portion of khasra No.52/1, (a) on anvil, of theirs through their ancestors since 1948 with an animus possidendi, holding, possession thereof, continuously upto the institution of the suit, (b) hence by elapse of the statutorily prescribed period of time, theirs acquiring prescriptive title thereof. Apparently, the propagation aforestated made by the defendants, does prima facie reveal(s) (a) of theirs through their ancestors since the year 1948, and, with an animus possidendi rather holding possession of the suit land; (b) of theirs hence continuously holding it since then upto the institution of the suit; (c) of theirs committing an overt act thereon, comprised in theirs raising a dwelling house; (d) of hence theirs overt act aforestated also being connotative, of theirs openly, to the knowledge of the plaintiffs, and, with an interest adverse vis-a-vis the plaintiff, hence holding possession thereof. Obviously, hence the aforestated contentions reared by the defendants, in their written statement, do per se prima facie satiate the apposite statutory ingredients constituted, in the apposite Article, of the Limitation Act, for theirs hence being prima facie construable to have acquired prescriptive title vis-a-vis the suit land.

8. However, apartfrom the pleadings, efficacious evidence in support thereof, is also enjoined to be adduced by the defendants. However, in proof of the aforesaid contentions reared by the defendants in their written statement, DW-1 in his cross-examination, has rather rendered an echoing, with a clear voicing therein, (i) of his denying the title of the plaintiffs over the suit land, (ii) of his rather asserting the defendants' title thereon. Alike DW-1, DW-2 rendered a testification in consonance therewith, (iii) whereupon, it is apt to conclude that the essential rubric for a plea of acquisition, of title by adverse possession, achieving success, comprised, (iv) in the litigants concerned canvassing it, also being enjoined to accept, the title of the adversary or of the landowners concerned, and, also being enjoined, to echo of possession thereof, though illegal, yet being adverse vis-a-vis the party whereagainst whom, it is asserted, (v) rather contrarily remaining wholly unsatiated. Moreover, with the purported overt act, espoused by the defendants, to be, committed by their predecessor-in-interest vis-a-vis the suit land, especially in the year 1948, contended to be comprised in theirs raising a structure upon the suit land, is belied by Ex.PW2/A, not, making any voicing in consonance therewith. Consequently, if no overt act(s) stood committed, vis-a-vis the suit land, hence, possession if any thereon, with a purported hostile animus, staked by the predecessors-in-interest of the defendants vis-a-vis the suit land, rather hence galvanizes the trite inference(s) (a) of no open adverse proclamation, vis-a-vis the suit land, hence, being made in the year 1948 by the predecessors-in-interest of the defendants, (b) nor obviously possession of the suit land, since then, upto the date of institution of the suit, being through their predecessors-in-interest, hence derived by the defendants nor obviously, the essential ingredients thereof, of, the defendants, through, their predecessors-in-interest, and, to the knowledge of the plaintiffs, uninterruptedly upto the date of the institution of the suit, further continuously, with an animus possidendi holding possession of the suit land, remain(s) satiated.

9. However, be that as it may, the learned counsel for the defendants, strived to make capitalization, from an affidavit sworn by co-plaintiff Dinesh Kumar, wherein, he has admitted (a) of the defendants holding possession of the suit khasra number since 12 years prior to the institution of the suit; (b) his making an echoing therein of the predecessors-in-interest of the defendants, one Chura Ram about 50 years ago rather planting mango trees on the suit land; (c) of an old thatched house being also purportedly raised thereon, by one Chura Ram, house whereof with elapse of time becoming dilapidated, and, it being renovated, and, tin sheets being placed, about 15 years ago, on the roof of the same, (d) for his contending that the aforesaid disclosures, efficaciously proving, the espousal of the defendants, of theirs perfecting title vis-a-vis the suit land. However, the learned counsel for the defendants/appellants has, mis-read, the import of the aforesaid echoing existing, in the affidavit, sworn by one Dinesh Kumar, and, his only focusing upon the aforesaid facets, (e) misreadings whereof, spur, from his omitting to read disclosures, borne therein, qua the apposite awakenings, of the plaintiffs qua the defendants, hence, holding possession of the suit land, being sequel of a demarcation being held, in the year 1999. The aforesaid echoing hence enhances, (f) an inference that prior to the demarcation of the suit land being held, the plaintiffs being not aware of the defendants, holding possession, of any part of the suit khasra numbers, (g) with consequential effect ,of, the plaintiffs/respondents being neither aware nor holding knowledge of the defendants/appellants or their predecessor-in-interest, holding possession of any part of the suit kahsra numbers, (h) nor it can be concluded, of, the defendants/appellants openly, to the knowledge of the plaintiffs, rather commencing, and, with an hostile animus hence possession of the suit khasra number. Contrarily, reiteratedly, when knowledge, of the aforesaid possession, stood gained, by the plaintiffs, only upon a demarcation being held, (i) besides when no entry, is borne in any revenue record, in personification, of the defendants, ever holding possession of the suit khasra number, (j) whereupon, it could be inferable of the plaintiffs, prior to the demarcation being thereat carried of the suit khasra number, being aware of the defendants/appellants holding possession of the suit khasra numbers, (j) wherefrom, it may be firmly concluded, of, thereat theirs holding knowledge, (k) hence any possession qua the suit land as, held, by the predecessors-in-interest of the defendants/appellants or by the defendants, lacks the essential element, of it, being to the knowledge of the true owner or it being held, openly or adversarially against, the interest of the plaintiffs or their predecessors-in-interest.

10. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court, have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the plaintiffs/respondents and against the defendants/appellants.

11. In view of above discussion, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is dismissed accordingly. Consequently, the judgment and decree rendered by the learned Courts below are affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The appellants herein are aggrieved, by the award rendered by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Shimla in MAC Case No.106-S/2 of 2013.

2. The victim/injured one Ajit Awasthi, expired, during the pendency of the apposite claim petition, and, on his demise, his legal representatives were ordered to be brought on record. The order recorded by the learned Tribunal on 18.12.2014, whereupon, the legal heirs of deceased Ajit Aswasthi, were, enjoined to be brought on record, especially for want of its being assailed, by the respondents, hence, has acquired conclusivity.

3. The relevant accident occurred, on 12.12.2012, whereas, the demise of victim Ajit Awasthi, occurred subsequent thereto. However, there is no evidence on record, of, the demise of victim Ajit Awasthi being a sequel of his sustaining injuries, in the motor vehicle accident concerned.

4. Be that as it may, the learned tribunal, had under the head(s) of medical expenses incurred, during the hospitalization of the victim, and, for rendition of service vis-a-vis him, by his successors-in-interest, importantly during the period of the hospitalization of the victim, determined lump sum compensation, borne in a sum of Rs.40,000/-. (i) However, the learned Tribunal for want of cogent proof, being adduced vis-a-vis, 32% permanent disability being entailed upon the injured/victim, in sequel to the injuries suffered by him, in the relevant accident, hence, refrained to determine any compensation, qua permanent loss of enjoyment of life, hence, befalling upon victim Ajit Awasthi, (ii) also, declined determination of compensation under the aforesaid head vis-a-vis victim Ajit Awasthi, (iii) reiteratedly for no evidence existing on file, of, in sequel to the disability befalling upon him, in consequence of injuries suffered by him, in the motor vehicle accident either his promotional avenues being diminished or his suffering the ill fate of demotion in service. The aforesaid reasons afforded by the learned Tribunal, from its abstaining to determine compensation vis-a-vis the legal heirs of deceased victim Ajit Awasthi, under the head of loss of enjoyment of life or for perennial trauma being entailed upon him, does withstand an incisive scrutiny of the evidence germane thereto.

5. Be that as it may, the substantial question of law, enjoining determination(s) is whether given lack of efficacious evidence existing on record, for erecting a firm conclusion qua the demise of victim one Ajit Awasthi, being a sequel to the injuries sustained by him in the motor vehicle accident concerned, (i) thereupon, whether it was befitting, for the learned tribunal concerned, to, on his demise, hence, order for his being substituted, by his successors-in-interest, (ii) besides whether hence the innate nuance, of, the maxim actio pesonalis moritur cum persona is squarely attracted heart, with a further sequel, of victim of the tort hence being solitarily entitled, to stake claim for determination of compensation, under, various head(s) and of his legal heirs or dependents, rather being disentitled to seek determination, of compensation under various heads. The aforesaid conundrum, is answered, by the learned Single Judge of the Karnataka High Court, Circuit Bench a Dharwad, in case titled as Sri Gangappa vs. Sri Mohan, decided on 28th November, 2012 bearing Misc. First Appeal No. 22719 of 2010 (MV) by relying upon a Full Bench, wherein the Full Bench arrived at the following conclusion encapsulated, at paragaph No.12 of the Full Bench's judgment:-

> "12. In the result, the Full Bench answers the question referred for its decision by the Division Bench, thus: (I) a claim petition presented under Section 110A of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939, by the person sustaining bodily injuries in a motor accident, claiming compensation for peronal injuries, as also, for compensation towards expenses, loss of income etc. (loss of estate) cannot, on such person's death occurring not as a result of consequence of bodily injuries sustained from a motor accident, be prosecuted by his/her legal representatives, but (ii) a claim petition presented under Section 110A of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939, by the person sustaining bodily injuries in a motor accident, claiming compensation for personal injuries, as also, for compensation towards expenses, loss of income etc., (loss of estate) can, on such person's death occurring as a result or consequence of bodily injuries sustained in the motor accident, be prosecuted by his/her legal representatives only in so far as the claim for compensation in that claim petition relates to loss of estate of the deceased person due to bodily injuries sustained in the motor accident."

It has been firmly pronounced therein (i) that where the demise, of the deceased is not proven to be ascribable, to injuries suffered by him, in a motor vehicle accident, (ii) thereupon, the principle of maxim actio pesonalis moritur cum persona, being attracted, and, where in his personal capacity, he institutes a claim petition for staking determination of compensation vis-a-vis him, under various heads, (iii) yet upon occurrence of his demise, during the pendency of the claim petition, rather dis-empowering the learned tribunal concerned, to order for his substitution, by his legal heirs. The aforesaid mandate, is squarely attracted hereat, given, forceful evidence existing on record, of the demise of Ajit Awasthi, standing not proven, to be a sequel of injuries sustained, by him in the relevant accident. Furthermore, the order for his substitution by his legal heirs, given, his demise occurring during the pendency of claim petition, is, contrary to the mandate supra.

6. Be that as it may, when, for the aforesaid reason, the order recorded by the learned tribunal concerned for substitution of the deceased victim, by his legal heirs, hence, acquire conclusivity nor with the respondents instituting cross-objections, or any cross-appeal, for assailing the validity, of, the assessment of compensation vis-a-vis the dependents of the deceased victim, thereupon, alone this Court, deems it not fit to interfere with the impugned award, dehors, for the aforesaid reasons, the order rendered by the MACT concerned, for substitution of the deceased victim, by his legal heirs besides determination of compensation vis-a-vis them being hence both infirm and invalid.

7. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is accordingly dismissed. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiffs' suit for rendition of a decree, for permanent prohibitory injunction besides for rendition of a decree, for mandatory injunction, stood decreed by the learned trial Court. In an appeal carried therefrom, before the learned First Appellate Court, by the defendant, the latter Court allowed his appeal besides obviously reversed the trial Court's judgment and decree.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff is owner in possession of land comprised in Khasra Nos. 39,40, 106 and 107 in Khatauni No. 2 min/3 min as per misal Hakiyat of Mauza Malandi, Pargana Chhabishi, Tehsil Kumarsain, District Shimla . H.P. It is averred that the aforesaid suit land is irrigated land and is shown as Kiar Doem in the Missal Hakiyat and it is irrigated from Danal Nullah Kuhal from time immemorial i.e. form the time of the forefathers of the plaintiff. Besides this, the plaintiff has developed khasra No.107 as an apple orchard and there is plantation of more than 25 years in age and the plants are at a fruit bearing stage since long. There is Mauza Danal Hadbast No.113 on the upper side of mauza Malandi. Both these Chaks are contiguous and both are sloppy. On the southern side of the land of the plaintiff in mauza Danal, there situates a spring comprised in Khasra No.750 and just near to the said Bowari a tiny stream (rivulet) which falls in Khasra No.760 also joins and thereafter it becomes Danal Nullah and the said nullah has been shown in revenue papers by Khasra No.741 in mauza Danal, the water of the Bowri comprised in Khasra No.750, flows down in natural way and in defined direction without any obstruction from anyone towards mauza Malandi in which the land of the plaintiff is situated and there is another tiny rivulet flowing from eastern side also joins the above said Danal nullah which has been shown by khasra No.733 in Aks Latha of mauza Danal. The water of both the rivulets flows by the side of the land of the plaintiff and there is a permanent kuhal constructed from time immemorial from point A to B ( as shown in attached site plan) to irrigate Khasra No.39 and another Kuhal from point C to D has been constructed to irrigate the land and plantation thereon comprised in Khasra No.107 in mauza Malandi. The said Kuhal (as shown in attached site plan) from point C to D was constructed by the plaintiff in the year 1975 and since then the plaintiff has been using the water of Danal Nullah and its rivulets for such irrigation continuously and without any interruption from one either in Chak Danal or in Chak Malandi, as it is the plaintiff only, who is in the use of said water exclusively. The water in said nullah which originates from Khasra No.760 is not plenty but in dry weather it reaches upto the land of the plaintiff just about an inch which is hardly sufficient for irrigating the land of the plaintiff. It is further alleged that defendant has been shown to be owner in possession of Khasra No.740 along with his brother in mauza Danal but in fact this land is in exclusive possession of the defendant as the same was allotted to him in family settlement. The land in the possession of the defendant is not ancestral property but the same was allotted to the father of the defendant by the government of H.P. under Nautor scheme. The defendant or his predecessor never cultivated this land but the defendant straightway planted apple trees thereon. Not only this, the defendant has also encroached upon some government land adjoining to his nautor land which is shown as Khasra No.739 measuring 0-31-75 hectare. In the month of June, 2002, the defendant without any legal and customary rights laid Alkathine pipe of 1 inch dia from point E to point F and diverted the water of nullah aforesaid just from the point adjacent to khasra No. 750 in Chak Danal and due to this, the defendant has diverted the natural source of water and diminished the flow of the water in the nullah which has ultimately affected the right of the plaintiff to use the water of Danal nullah for irrigation purpose. This has been done by the defendant without any permission or consent of the plaintiff and the defendant has no right to do so. The plaintiff asked the defendant to remove the pipe but the defendant is not ready and willing to do so. This has caused substantial damage to the plaintiff because not sufficient quantity of water is left in the Danal Nullah. The right of the plaintiff to use the water of Danal Nullah from point A to B and C to D in Khasra Nos. 39, 40,106 and 107 matured by way of customary easement exclusively. The right of the plaintiff has been recognized by the people of the are as the plaintiff and his forefathers have been exercising the same from time immemorial. Accordingly, the plaintiff has filed the suit with prayer to restrain, the defendant from taking or diverting the water in any quantity by laying pipe of any quality or kind, artificial or otherwise or by digging open Kuhal for any purpose from any point situated in Khasra Nos. 760, 750 and 741 which is entirely known as Danal nullah in mauza Danal and for mandatory injunction directly the defendant to remove the alkathene pipe or any other pipe from point E to F or any other type in Danal nullah upto the land of the plaintiff.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, he has taken preliminary objections of maintainability, cause of action and estoppel. On merits, it is alleged by the defendant that the defendant and other general public as well as the persons having theirs lands by the side of the nullah in question are natural and riparian users of the water from time immemorial in the area and no such Kuhal has been constructed by the plaintiff from point C to D as alleged nor the plaintiff is irrigating this land from the last 45 years from nullah in question, as alleged. As per defendant, the land of the plaintiff is barren at the spot and the plaintiff has recently planted apple plants on it. The plaintiff was not in exclusive use of the water in question, as alleged. In fact, earlier there was plenty of water and with the passage of time and continuous dry weather conditions, the flow of water has been diminished. But the plaintiff is trying to cook up a story of the user of water exclusively by him just to get the entire water to the exclusion of other owners of the land in the nearby. It is further alleged that the nautor land was sanctioned to the defendant in the year 1968-69 and thereafter crops were in that land upto the year 12-13 continuously and the apple plants are in the age of 18-25 years or so. It is further alleged that the plaintiff has nothing to do with the encroachment of Govt. Land by the defendant. The defendant has denied that he has laid the pipe of one inch dia but claimed that the pipe is only for half inch dia and moreover at least five other persons have laid down the pipes in the same source for their personal use. The defendant has further alleged that the plaintiff has started residing at the present place for the last about 15 years only and he never irrigated his land through the water source in question for he objected to the laying of the pipe and has chosen to file the suit. Lastly, it is alleged that plaintiff intends to deprive the others from their right to use the water with the help of Court.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff has been irrigating his lands through the water of Danal nullah drawn through Kuhal as depicted in the annexed site plan, from times immemorial, as amtter of customary right, as alleged? OPP.
2. If issue No.1 is proved, in affirmative, whether the defendant in the month of June, 2002 laid Alkathine pipe of one inch diameter from Point A to F and thereby diverting and diminished the aforesaid water supply of plaintiff as alleged ? OPP.
3. If issue No.1 2 proved, in affirmative whether the plaintiff is entitled to relief of mandatory injunction, as prayed for? OPP.
4. Whether the plaintiff is also entitled to the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction, as prayed for? OPP.
5. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act and conduct from filing the present suit? OPD
6. Whether the defendant has also got right to use the water of Danal nullah? OPD.
7. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff/appellant herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by the defendant/respondent herein before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court allowed the appeal and reversed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

6. Now the plaintiff/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, wherein he assails the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, on 15.05.2007, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiff/appellant against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

a) Whether there is a misreading of evidence both oral as also documentary by the learned first Appellate Court, who has also not given the reasons for reversing the findings of the trial Court?

Substantial question of Law No.1:

7. The land owned and possessed by the plaintiff is provided assured water, from, Dalan Nullah. The permanent irrigation channel since times immemorial, is, depicted in, Mark-A, to, commence, from point A to B, and, from point C to D, and, another irrigation channel has been constructed by the plaintiff to irrigate his lands borne in khasra No.107, situated in mauza Malandi. The irrigation channel, from, point C to D shown in Mark A, stands constructed by the plaintiff, in the year 1979, and, since then he has been drawing water therefrom, for his irrigating his lands. The defendant is averred in the plaint, to, in the month of June, 2002, without any entitlement in him, of, any indefeasible right, either legal or customary to lay alkathine pipe of 1 inch dia, from point E to F, (I) hence sequelling diversion of water, from Dalan nullah, (ii) with a consequential effect of hence diminishing(s) occurring vis-a-vis flow of water, onto the irrigation channels, (iii) besides with a natural consequential effect, of deprivations/diminishings occurring qua availability of water, to the plaintiff, for the latter irrigating his land(s). The defendant had contested the validity of the propagation(s) made by the plaintiff, of his holding no indefeasible right either customary or legal, for utilizing the waters of "Dalan Nullah".

8. For resting the aforesaid factum, the apt documentary material enjoining allusion thereto, is borne, in Ex.PW1/G, exhibit whereof, is a Wazib-Ul-Arz, wherein, stand embodied, the apposite rights of estate right holders, qua user of water of "Dalan Nullah". The apt portion of Ex.PW1/G is extracted hereinafter:-

> "(a) That all the right holders/owners of the land have right to take water for themselves and for the cattle and for their drinking and for irrigation.
>
> (b) That for irrigation, the right holders can create canals free of costs subject to the condition that the creation of canal does not damage the existing Kuhal for irrigation or water mill.
>
> (c) That no person can change the course of Khad/nullah without the consent of the other owners of the adjoining estate.
> (d) That no one can erect water mill in the Govt. land without the permission of the Govt."

9. A perusal of Ex.PW1/G, makes an evident display, (a) of all the estate right holders, holding a right to use water of khad/Nullah, both for drinking and irrigation purpose, (b) and each of the estate right holders, for facilitating, theirs enjoying the water(s), of Dalan Nullah, theirs holding a right to create channel(s) therefrom, (c) yet subject to theirs not damaging the existing Kuhal or water mills, (d) and, it being impermissible to the estate right holders, to, without the consent of other estate right holders, to hence change the course of the Khad/Nullah. The afore extracted apt portions, of Ex. PW1/G yet would not firmly rest the controversy, qua the defendant being an estate right holder, and, hence his holding, in the aforesaid manner, an indefeasible right, to use the waters of Dalan Nullah, for all the purpose(s) enunciated therein, (e) unless evidence surged forth, qua his satiating the indispensable condition, of his being a estate right holder, and, his land being situated in close proximity to Dalan Nullah, besides his land being situated in proximity to the water channels, constructed from the source of Dalan Nullah. The apt evidence, in respect of the aforesaid facet, is encapsulated in the testification, borne in the cross-examination of the plaintiff, who, has voiced therein, of the waters of Dalan Nullah being available, for user by land owners, for the purposes encapsulated, in Ex.PW1/G, (f) in case their lands are situated on both sides, of the source, of Dalan Nullah or on either side of course(s) of rivulets. Nowat, with PW-1 in his cross-examination making a further disclosure, of the defendant's land, being located, on either side of the course, of Dalan Nullah, thereupon, when the defendant obviously being a riparian land holder, (g) hence, all the rights embodied in Ex.PW1/G especially vis-a-vis users by him, of the waters of Dalan Nullah, are, naturally available, to be exercisable by him. Consequently, there is no merit in the contention of the learned counsel for the plaintiff, of, the defendant, not, holding any indefeasible right, either legal or customary, to use the waters of Dalan Nullah.

10. Be that as it may, the plaintiff may succeed, in securing a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction, and, a decree for mandatory injunction, in case, firm evidence, had been adduced by him, in display of the defendant, in laying an alkathine pipe, from, the source, and, upto his field, (i) his damaging the existing water channel, (ii) evidence stood adduced, of his changing the course, of, rivulet, especially without the consent of other estate right holders. Contrarily, with Ex. PW1/G, making, an explicit pronouncement of the estate right holders, being evidently entitled, to user of waters of Dalan Nullah, for both irrigation and drinking purpose, and, being also entitled to create canals, (iii) hence, with the defendant laying alkathine pipes, from, Dalan Nullah upto his house for drinking purpose, and, when its laying demonstrably does not damage the existing Kuhal, (iv) thereupon, in the defendant, laying alkathene pipe, from, Dalan Nullah, he cannot, be construed to violate the mandate of Ex.PW1/G. Furthermore, when the plaintiff's witnesses, in their respective cross-examinations, acquiesced of some other persons, also through pipes hence drawing water, from, the source of Dalan Nullah, and, who yet remained unimpleaded, rather with the plaintiff, for reasons known to him, singularly choosing to implead the defendant, does rear an inference of his suit being prima facie not bonafide. Moreover, the plaintiff has averred, of the laying of alkathene pipe, from, Dalan Nullah upto the defendant's house hence diminishing the flow of water upto his fields, yet the aforesaid averment is not validated, by Ex.PW1/G, whereunder, occurs no mandate, (i) of any, of the estate right holders, holding any right to deprive the other estate right holders, from, using the waters of Dalan Nullah, (ii) much less, his holding any right, to ensure qua upon occurrence of any deficiency in supply of water to his fields, his further holding any right to prohibit other estate right holders, from, using the water of Dalan Nullah or his holding any right to seek pronouncement, of, a decree of mandatory injunction vis-a-vis other estate right holders, if they, though laying any alkathene pipe, for feeding their fields from the waters, drawn, from the Dalan nullah, hence, reduce supply(ies) thereof, onto the lands, of the plaintiff.

11. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court being based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court has not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Substantial questions of law No.1 answered in favour of the respondent and against the appellant.

12. In view of above discussion, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is dismissed accordingly. Consequently, the judgment and decree rendered by the learned First Appellate Court in Civil Appeal No.3 of 2005 is affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiffs' suit for rendition of a decree, for permanent prohibitory injunction besides for rendition of a decree, for mandatory injunction by way of apposite demolition(s), stood decreed by the learned trial Court. In an appeal carried therefrom, by the defendant, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court allowed his appeal besides obviously reversed the trial Court's judgment and decree.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff has filed a suit for permanent prohibitory injunction and for possession by way of demolition against the defendant. It has been pleaded that he and his brothers, namely, Roshan Lal, Desh Raj, Onkar Chand and mother Smt. Rupan Devi are owner in possession over the land in suit comprised in Khata No.77, Khatoni NO.92, Khasra No.931, measuring 0 Kanal 15 Marlas, as per jamabandi for the year 1966-97 (hereinafter referred to as the suit land), situated at Tika Paplah, Tappa Mowa, Tehsil Bhoranj, District Hamirpur, H.P. It is further averred that the plaintiff, his brother and mother have exchanged the entire Khasra number with owner Shri Parkash etc., who are in exclusive possession over the land in suit and as such the plaintiff has become owner in possession this land in suit with his brothers and mother. It is alleged that defendant is stranger to the suit land, who is co-owner of the adjoining land, who has started digging the land in suit, for the purpose of raising illegal construction. The plaintiff requested the defendant several times to admit his claim qua the suit land, but all in vain, hence, the present suit has been filed. The cause of action is stated to have accrued in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendant on 27.2.2001.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, he has taken preliminary objections of maintainability, cause of action and estoppel etc. On merits, it is claimed that defendant had already constructed his house in the year 1992-93 over his own land comprised of Khasra No.932, which he purchased from Shri Kiali Ram and Rattan Chand of village Paplah to the extent of 0Kanal 15 Marlas. It is further claimed that the plaintiff has no cause of action. The suit land was being demarcated by revenue expert in the year, 1991. During course of demarcation, pucca bannas were fixed by the revenue expert and the defendant has constructed his house within less than his share. It is alleged that the plaintiff has started interference in the land of defendant comprised of Khasra No.932. The defendant has spent huge amount for the construction of his house in the year 1991 and at that time the plaintiff did not raise any objection qua the same. Therefore, on the grounds above, the dismissal of suit is sought by the defendant.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction as prayed for? OPP.
2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the relief of possession by way of demolition as prayed for? OPP.
3. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD
4. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action in the present suit? OPD.
5. Whether the plaintiff is estopped to file the present suit by his own act or conduct? OPD.
6. Whether the suit is bad for non joinder of necessary parties? OPD.
7. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff/appellant herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by the defendant/respondent herein before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court allowed the appeal and reversed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

6. Now the plaintiff/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, wherein he assails the findings recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, on 9.9.2007, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiff/appellant against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

a) Whether the impugned judgment passed by the learned First Appellate Court is the result of total misreading and mis-appreciation of pleadings and evidence adduced on record and resultant findings and conclusions are wrong and incorrect, as such, such issues are liable to be determined afresh under Section 103 CPC?

b) Whether the learned Court below has committed error of law in discarding the demarcation report (Ex. PW3/B) and thereby, the judgment and decree passed by learned trial Court in favour of appellant/plaintiff was illegally and incorrectly reversed?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 & 2:

7. The Revenue Officer concerned, in pursuance to his holding demarcation of the adjoining estates, of the parties at contest, prepared an apposite report, and, during the course of his testification tendered it into evidence, whereat, it was exhibited as Ex.PW3/B. A perusal of Ex.PW3/B, underscores, the trite factum (i) of the defendant while holding construction, upon, land owned and possessed by him, as comprised in khasra No.932, his deviating therefrom onto the land of the plaintiff, comprised in Khasra No.931. (ii) The encroachment, hence, made by the defendant upon the plaintiff's land, carries dimensions of one Karam in width and five karams in length. The learned trial Court had accepted the report of the Local Commissioner concerned, borne in Ex.PW3/B, whereas, the learned First Appellate Court discarded its legal worth. Since, the demarcation, conducted, of the adjoining estates of the parties at contest, by the demarcating officer, was, anvilled upon a musabi borne in Ex.PW3/C also with its standing conducted n the presence of the parties at contest,(iii) besides when preceding the revenue officer concerned hence holding demarcation of the adjoining estates, of the parties at contest, his from Ex.PW3/C, ascertaining the relevant fixed points, (iv) whereafter, he relayed them onto the relevant site, (v) thereupon, prima facie per se, hence, the aforesaid determinations made from the apt record, and, alsocarrying of demarcation(s) by the Revenue Officer concerned, cannot be construed, to be either flawed or faulted. (v) In original musabi, borne in Ex.PW3/C, the western dimension, of Khasra No.931 is visibly depicted to be 9 Karams, (vi) whereas, the Local Commissioner has construed the western dimension of Khasra No.931, to be rather carrying a dimension, of 6 karams. The Local Commissioner at the end of his cross-examination, has, rendered an affirmative echoing, to an affirmative suggestion, (vii) of in case, his taking the depicted dimensions in the musabi, of Khasra No.931, being 9 karams, thereupon, there would occur variation(s) in the determination, of fixed points. The aforesaid admission made by PW-3, at the end, of his testification, tacitly underscores, (viii) the factum of the aforesaid mis-derivation, of the western dimensions, of Khasra No. 931, from 9 Karams, as disclosed in the musabi borne in Ex.PW3/C, to 6 Karams, (ix) hence, per se sequelling an error in the demarcation, conducted by him of the adjoining estates of the parties at contest. Significantly, hence, the further sequel thereof, is that, the report furnished by PW-3, exhibited as Ex.PW3/B, being unwrothy of credence, nor on its anvil, any inference being derived, of hence, the defendant in raising the construction upon his land, comprised in Khasra No.932, his deviating onto the land of the plaintiff, borne in Khasra No.931. The further reason for making the aforesaid conclusion, (x) is of both PW-3 and DW2, unanimously echoing in their respective testification(s), of their existing a 'galli', separating the constructions, made by the plaintiff and the defendant, upon their respective adjoining estates. The aforesaid existence of a gali, and its rather separating, the constructions, made upon their respective estates, by the litigants concerned, also underscores, an inevitable inference, of there being a gross error, in the holding of demarcation by PW-3, (xi) besides sequelly, a gross error hence seeping into his report, borne in ex.PW3/B, rendering it to be susceptible to acceptance. Even though, PW-3 for rendering, his rather credibly construing the western dimension, of khara No.931, as 6 karams, from its denoted dimensions, of 9 Karams in the musabi, borne in Ex.PW3/C, and also has concerted to validate it, by ascribing the reason, of, old Khasra No.1495/1173 being partitioned between the co-owners, and, in the apposite partition, the western dimension(s) thereof being indicated as 6 karams, yet he omitted to adduce, any evidence in respect thereof. Even if, the aforesaid alterations, hence, occurred, in the western dimensions of old khasra number(s) upon their partition, (xii) yet all compatible alterations, were, enjoined to be depicted besides carried also in the Aks musabi, borne in Ex.PW3/C, (xiii) whereas, the aforesaid purported alterations, in the western dimensions, of unpartitioned khasra No. 1495/1173, from, its hitherto dimension(s) of 9 Karams, to 6 Karams, has visibly remained uneffected, in Aks musabi, borne in EX.PW1/C, (xiv) thereupon, the aforesaid validation concerted to be meted by PW-3 vis-a-vis his taking the western dimension of the apt khasra number, as 6 Karams from 9 Karams,, is rendered enfeebled nor is amenable to acceptance.

8. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing, for the plaintiff/appellant, has contended that with the reasons ascribed by the learned First Appellate Court, for its hence upon the aforesaid anvil, rather discarding the report of the demarcation Officer, borne in Ex.PW3/B, being visibly not in consonance with the objections, in respect thereof reared by the defendant/respondent, hence any dis-imputation of credence by the learned First Appellate Court vis-a-vis Ex.PW3/B, is not credit worthy. However, the aforesaid contention is rudderless, for the reasons (a) the defendant/appellant rather rearing objection No.3, objection whereof, directly appertains to the aforesaid error, made, by the demarcating Officer concerned, in his conducting the demarcation of the adjoining estates of the parties at contest, (b) error whereof is engendered by his drawing erroneous dimensions, of the apposite zone, of khasra No.931, (c) even if assumingly no pointed objection in respect thereof, stood raised, the courts of law are not barred, to in case evidence unfolding the aforesaid pervasive infirmity rather surges-forth, to hence, revere the infirmities nor are barred to hence invalidate the demarcation, conducted by the demarcating Officer concerned.

9. The learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff/appellant, has contended with vigour, that in case any infirmity, exists in the report furnished by the demarcating officer, yet this Court holding ample jurisdiction, to order for carrying, of, a fresh demarcation in accordance with law. However, the aforesaid submission is unacceptable, for this Court, (a) given the demarcation conducted by the Revenue Officer concerned, being evidently conducted in gross transgression(s), of denotations, in Aks musabi, of the western side of khasra No.931, being 9 Karams, and, also rather his overriding the aforesaid scribed denotations therein, of the, western dimensions of khasra No.931, and, his untenably computing them to be six Karams, (b) especially when he also, for the reasons aforestated, ascribes rather a tenuous besides a weak reason, qua facet aforesaid, (c) thereupon, in case a fresh demarcation is ordered, the dispute existing inter se the parties at contest would, yet remain unrested, (d) unless, musabi borne in Ex.PW1/C, is subjected to correction, in settlement proceedings, for hence bringing it, as testified by PW-3, in consonance with the pre-consolidation record, whereat, upon partition, of, khasra No.1495/1173, hence, alterations purportedly occurred in the western side of Khasra No. 1495/1193, from, 9 karams to six karams, besides preponderantly when awaiting corrections thereto, if any, required, and, if imperative would render any nowat demarcation, to be also susceptible to skepticism . (e) Even otherwise, the aforesaid submission made by the counsel for the appellant/plaintiff is inefficacious, for the reason, the plaintiff's suit, being merely for rendition of a decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, as also, for rendition of a decree of mandatory injunction, pointedly in respect of a cause of action, arising on 27.2.2001, whereat, the defendant purportedly started excavation work purportedly upon the plaintiff's land. However, uncontrovertedly, and, even as testified by the plaintiff, the construction(s) raised by the defendant, appertain, to the year 1992. However, in respect thereto, no trite averment is cast in the plaint, of its, existing upon khasra No.931, owned and possessed by the plaintiff. It appears, that as soon as a demarcation report, was prepared by PW-3, especially with its preparation evidently occurring prior to the plaintiff stepping into the witness box, thereupon, the latter fashioning, and, orienting his testification, in consonance therewith. However, the aforesaid oriented testification, of the plaintiff merely, for bringing it, in consonance with Ex.PW3/B, prepared earlier therewith, cannot overcome, the omissions of the plaintiff, to plead in the plaint, of constructions uncotrovertedly raised, in the year 1992, by the defendant, being raised upon khasra No.932, khasra No. whereof is owned and possessed by the defendant, more so, when no demarcation report was appended with the plaint. Obviously, hence, in case the aforesaid espousal of the counsel, for the plaintiff is accepted, it would tantamount to this Court proceeding to afford relief, on anvil, of, for reasons aforestated, of, yet an invalid demarcation report rather surging forth, also it would tantamount, to this Court, rendering a decree in respect of construction qua wherewith, no relief has been espoused in the plaint, importantly, when no application stands yet moved by the plaintiff, wherein, he weeks the leave of the court, to incorporate, in the plaint, pleadings or relief(s), in consonance with the invalid report, of the demarcating officer, whereupon, unnecessary litigation would hence spur.

10. The above discussion unfolds the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court being based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court has not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Substantial questions of law No.1 and 2 are answered in favour of the respondent and against the appellant.

11. In view of above discussion, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is dismissed accordingly. Consequently, the judgment and decree rendered by the learned First Appellate Court in Civil Appeal No.72 of 2004 is affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

BEFORE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE SURESHWAR THAKUR, J.

Dhanpat Seth and others .....Plaintiffs.

Versus

M/s Nilkamal Plastic Ltd. .....Defendant.

Civil Suit No. 69 of 2005 along with Counter Claim No. 20 of 2006.
Reserved on : 22.06.2018.
Date of Decision: 29th June, 2018.

Patents Act, 1970 – Sections 2(ja) and 64(1) - Inventive Step - Cancellation of Patent – Circumstances – Plaintiff obtaining patent with respect to device for manually hauling of agricultural produce – However, Defendant started producing device for carrying agricultural produce similar to one patented by plaintiff – Plaintiff filing suit for injunction and damages for infringement of their patent – Defendant contesting suit and filing Counter claim for cancellation of patent on account of lack of inventive step involved in plaintiff's patent – Plaintiff arguing that patent once granted is unimpeachable – Held: patent once granted is not unimpeachable – Look alike of traditional products is not an invention – On facts, patented product found similar to traditional device used for carrying agricultural produce – Mere change in size and raw materials do not make the product an invention (para 16) – Workshop improvement is not inventive step – Mere new form of known substance does not prove enhancement of efficacy– Patent canceled – Suit dismissed and counter-claim decreed. (Para 17)

For the Plaintiffs: Mr. Vinay Kuthiala, Sr. Advocate with Ms. Vandana Kuthiala, Advocate.
For the Defendant: Mr. B.C. Negi, Sr. Advocate with Mr. P.P. Singh Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiffs have filed the present suit for grant of an injunction against the defendant, given the latter infringing, the apt Patent, and, for the recovery of damages amounting to Rs.51 lacs, on account of loss, of, profit, and, for future mesne profit(s).

2. Cause of action, as disclosed in the plaint, may be summed up thus. The plaintiffs are members, of, the same family, and, plaintiffs No.2 to 7, have duly authorised plaintiff No.1, to, file the instant suit, on their behalf. The plaintiffs are partners in a registered firm under the name and style of Niovel Appliances India, but since the right to file the present suit has accrued to them in their individual capacity, the same is being filed by them jointly. It is averred that the plaintiffs have been granted patent No.195917, on, 11.07.2005, for " a device for manually hauling of agricultural produce" w.e.f. the date of their application, for, grant of patent i.e. 24.05.2002. The grant of the patent has been recorded by the patent office, Govt. of India Mumbai, in the register of patent, on, 24.8.2005. The plaintiffs have been granted the patent, for, complete specifications, design as well as the claim in respect of the device, and, the same are annexed with the plaint along with photographs and details. The defendant is a public limited company incorporated under the Companies Act 1956, and, is being sued through its Managing Director, who is also the Principal Officer of the corporation. The defendant is engaged in the business of manufacturing various plastic products. The defendant is supplying its products in various states, throughout, India including Himachal Pradesh and the plaintiffs are aggrieved by the action of the defendant in the latter infringing the apt patent granted to the invention of "A devise of manually hauling of Agriculture Produce," hereinafter referred to as the "Invented Device" for the sake of brevity. The defendant has infringed the claim of Patent as provided in the complete specification, under section 10 of the Patent Act, 1970, and, the plaintiffs are thus entitled to the relief claimed in the present suit. The defendant has infringed the patent by manufacturing, and, supplying and offering for sale, a device in accordance with the claims of Patent No.195917, in, the state of Himachal Pradesh and in other states. It is averred that the defendant was fully aware that the plaintiffs had conceptualized and visualized the development and invention of the invented device, since, 1999 but despite this the defendant covertly managed, to obtain information about the same and not only manufactured, it but sold it, without, the consent of the plaintiffs to the Govt. of H.P., as well as private parties, in the State of H.P. It is averred that the inventor of the said patent product is Mr. Dhanpat Seth. It is submitted that a device for hauling agriculture produce comprising a container of synthetic polymeric material, defined by a hollow frusto-conical body open at the top and closed at the based and tapering, from, the operative open at the top, and, closed at the based, and, tapering from the operative open top to the base, with, perforated walls said perforations being essentially quadrilateral in configuration, and, reducing in dimensions from the operative top to the base; said wall having a contour adapted to proximate the back of a human body; and removable harnessing means secured to the container in the upper perforations, said harnessing means having straps and buckle formations adapted to be irremovably secured in and around the perforations, in the said walls, and, loping means around the back and the shoulders of an individual, said straps and buckle components of the harnessing means being adjustable to permit the harnessing means to be secured to the container at varying locations on the wall of the container in the perforations, and, the loping means adapted to be adjusted to accommodate individual of different heights and body structure. It is averred that in 1999 when the inventor was in Shimla, the inventor noticed that in Himachal Pradesh the farmers and the general people were using long basket made of bamboo for carrying agricultural produce wood and other items. The bamboo baskets are locally known as Kilta. The Inventor also noticed that carrying a Kilta on the back was really painful because for securing the Kilta it was supported by a thick rope and tied to the forehead. There was no provision for laying the Kilta to the waist. On making inquiries from the hospitals, doctors and the farmers in and around Shimla, the inventor then thought of an idea of making a long basket in plastic and allied material to replace the Kilta. After development of prototype, the inventor finalized the design in consultation with orthopedic doctors. Various prototypes were taken for survey to the Horticulture Board, Govt. Departments, Cooperative Societies and the farmers in Himachal Pradesh and finally a design with the features as claimed in the said Indian Patent No.195917 hence was frozen. It is further submitted that Immediately after the presentation of the invented device in the seminar/conference, held, at Shimla on 4th April, 2002, a patent and design application for the invented device developed by the inventor, was filed on 24th May, 2002. The plaintiffs commenced commercial production of the plastic long basket/invented device. Till the time of commencement of commercial production the plaintiffs along with the inventor, have spent substantial amount towards the development costs. These include expenses towards development of mould infrastructure, samples, travelling and promotion of product etc. The formal marketing of the invented device in accordance with patent application and the design started around 15th June, 2002. The said design was registered under Design No. 189150 on 9th September, 2002. It is submitted that the plaintiff supplied the invented device w.e.f. 2002 to H.P. Govt. Corporations such as HIMFED, and, HPMC through its distributor Rohini Enterprises, Sanjauli,Shimla. It is submitted that under the mistaken impression that suppliers of long basket (kilta) were required to be empanelled with National Horticulture Board, Govt. of India, Gurgaon, before orders were placed on them, the plaintiffs submitted an application with NHB for inclusion of the name of their firm in the panel of parties, for, the purpose of supply of this item. Since, the NHB did not deliberately take any decision on the plaintiffs application for empanelment, they filed a writ petition No.208 of 2005, before, this Court and the aforesaid writ petition was disposed by this Court, on, 29.04.2005. The plaintiffs lateron came to know that some officials of the Directorate of Horticulture Govt. of H.P., in connivance with the defendant, withheld, this fact from this Court, and, that pursuant to the negotiations held in December, 2004, the Director Horticulture had already placed supply orders for plastic long basket i.e. the invented device, upon the defendant. These orders have been placed in utter violation of all the norms and the procedure to be adopted while doing so, and, the defendant has illegally, and, in glove with the officials of Directorate of Horticulture (H.P.), supplied goods worth about Rs.72 lakhs, by infringing the apt patent and has played a massive fraud, and, has subjected the state, to, a massive loss of about Rs.7 lacs, on a supply of Rs. 72 lakhs approximately. The supply order was placed on the defendant @ 282/77 per piece whereas the plaintiffs firm had quoted Rs.252/61 per piece. It has further submitted that on coming to know of this fraud, the plaintiffs firm, filed, a PIL CWP No. 732 of 2005, before this Court. In the reply filed to the aforesaid petition, the defendant admitted that it had manufactured and supplied the plastic long Basket i.e. the invented device to the Director of Horticulture, Govt. of H.P. Further defendant also admitted that it had supplied similar long baskets as the invented device worth over Rs.40 lakhs to various other parties in Himachal Pradesh. It is averred that the defendant after seeing the product of the plaintiffs which was created by the Inventor, hence copied the product and are now supplying the same in the market, after, making cosmetic changes in the product, and, are committing acts of infringement of the Patent. It is submitted that the defendant's product consists of a device comprising a synthetic polymeric material having a hollow frusto-conical body open at the top, and, closed at the based, and, tapering from the operative open top to the base. The product has perforated walls. The perforations are essentially quadrilateral in configuration and reducing in dimensions from the operative top to the base. The configuration of the wall is also contoured adapted to proximate the back of a human body. The device has removable harnessing means secured to the container having straps and buckle formations for looping the strap around the back and the shoulders of an individual, being adjustable to permit the harnessing means secured at varying locations on the container and to accommodate individuals of different heights and body structure. Sale of the defendant's products in violation of the patent rights of the plaintiff has also caused wrongful loss and damage to the plaintiffs and the plaintiffs, therefore, seek damages to the extent of Rs.51 lakhs. The plaintiffs have been subjected to massive loss by the defendant by infringing the patent and supplying the material in the State of H.P. and elsewhere. The plaintiffs have spent huge amount in the development of the invented device and would have earned over 25 lakhs as profit on the sales made by the defendant in Himachal Pradesh till date. The product of the defendant is also inferior in quality and is harming the reputation of the plaintiffs in marketing his invented device. The plaintiffs are suffering a loss of about Rs.25 lakhs on this account and will also suffer further losses, if the defendant makes any more sales by infringing the patent and the plaintiffs seek future mesne profit of Rs.1 lakh for every 1000 long baskets/copied invented device sold by the defendant in future. Hence the suit.

3. The defendant contested the suit and instituted the written statement to the plaint, wherein it has taken the preliminary objections qua maintainability, patent being wrongly obtained by the plaintiffs and being wrongly granted n contraventions of the provisions of the Patents Act and the rules framed thereunder. It is submitted that the patent is bad for want of subject matter at the first instance itself. The plaintiffs failed to define the nature of invention and to disclose the process which produces results to be aimed at. The subject matter is neither a matter of new manufacture nor art. There is no novelty or inventiveness in the subject matter of the patent as opposed to what was already known before the relevant date. Pith and essence of the alleged invention as compared to the pith and essence of traditionally known Kilta (long Basket) is identical/ similar in each respect. The device does perform the function of hauling. It is nothing but simply a long basket. The device does not produce any new result or a new article of manufacture or art than before. It is the manual function which facilitate the hauling, of, agricultural produce and storing them in bucket type device/container, and, not the device which performs the function of hauling. The plaintiff cannot claim monopoly in a simple plastic basket. It is submitted that the patent rights can be claimed, under the law, in respect of an article which is new, inventive and industrially applicable. There is nothing new or inventive in the device popularly known as Kilta. The patented device is merely an application, of, an old device known as Kilta, for, the purpose of storage or collection of inter alia agricultural produce. The utility of Kilta had traditionally been known much prior to the relevant date. The title of invention is ambiguous and misleading. The device does not constitute an invention. The subject matter of invention, so far as claimed in the complete specification, is “obvious” and does not involve any “inventive steps”. The plaintiffs have not shown to have taken any inventive step over the known devices. Any workman skilled in the art could have carried out the manufacture of Kilta using other raw material(s). The element of invention claimed by the plaintiffs on the known device is obvious to a person skilled in the art and is mere trade variant and does not constitute any inventive step within the meaning of Section 2(1)(j) (a) of the Patent Act. The invention, so far as claimed in the claims of the complete specification, was anticipated having regard to the knowledge available in India as well as in many other countries in the world, on, the relevant date. The anticipation by prior disclosure with the consent of the plaintiffs, commercial working commercial use/sale, public exhibition is admitted by the plaintiffs in the pleadings as well as the documents produced on record. The letter of 19th April, 2002, produced on record by the plaintiffs clearly establish anticipation, lack of novelty, prior publication and prior use of device in question. The defendants submit that launching of plastic Kilta in Shimla on 4th April, 2002, in the presence of Minister of Horticulture, other government officials and many leading apple growers, in, Himachal Pradesh in itself, is, sufficient to defeat the claim for the grant of Patent. The defendants crave leave to refer to the letter of 14.03.2005 issued on behalf of the plaintiffs admitting and acknowledging the availability of the device in question in the market much prior to the relevant date. The plastic basket, long as well as short were being openly manufactured, sold and offered for sale not only in the state of Himachal Pradesh but also all over India much prior to the relevant date, to, the knowledge of the plaintiffs. It is submitted that the claims made in the complete specification are not "inventions" within the meaning of the Act. As a matter of fact, a simple plastic bucket of a particular size, shape and configuration popularly known as Kilta is misdescribed as a "device" for hauling agricultural produce. There is no functional aspect of hauling in the device in question, and, the functional aspect claimed as invention, is, not the result of the device but manual hand of farmer. The utilitarian value of the plastic bucket popularly known as Kilta was already known prior to the relevant date. The traditional Kiltas were carried or capable of being carried on shoulders as well as tied to the waist. The size, shape and configuration of Kilta continues to be the same as known traditionally with frusto conical body open at the top and closed at the base with perforated walls. In any event no patent can be claimed or granted by mere change of shape, size or configuration. Mere use of different raw material for manufacture of known device does not constitute an invention. The word "haul" is defined by Oxford English Dictionary to mean (I) pull or drag forcibly, (ii) transport by Lorry, Cart, (iii) turn a ships course. It is thus clear that there is no hauling function performed by the device or manually by the farmer. It is a simple case of farmer plucking fruits from the tress and storing it in a long basket secured by belts to his body. The plaintiff have admitted that such device known as Kilta was in use prior to relevant date. The only new feature alleged to have been adopted by the plaintiffs, is, the raw material i.e. "synthetic polymeric material" replacing bamboos/wood. Synthetic polymeric material is in use as a substitute to Rubber for many years for manufacture of hollow frusto conical body like bucket, dust bins etc. The mere fact that raw material bamboo/wood as were allegedly being used for manufacture of typical device, for, hauling agricultural produce, does not, tantamount to an invention or an inventive step, within, the meaning of Section 2(1)(j)(i) of the Act. It is submitted that the raw material used by the defendant for the manufacture of their Kiltas, is, High Density Polyethylene, the technical name of which is HDP. The material used by plaintiffs is polyprophylene copolymer, the technical name thereof is PP. The limitation of PP is their low temperature bitterness which is not in case of HDP. Both material PP and HDP differ in their respective characteristics. The plaintiff cannot claim a patent in "synthetic polymeric material" at the first instance or the use thereof, as a substance, for the manufacture or sale of traditionally known device, bucket, container, used or capable of being used as storage basket.

4. It is further submitted that the defendant conceived and invented new and novel design for Kilta in 2001. The artistic drawings used as a blue print, for, the preparation of injunction mould, and, Kilta were originally created by in house design department headed by Mr. A.B.. Ambekar, during, the course of their employment with the defendant company, and, in discharge of their official duties. The said original drawings were created on 20th November, 2001, and, the same were forwarded by the defendant to Arries Stell Mould Co. Ltd. Taiwan, for designing the injection mould, as, required for the purposes, of, manufacture of Kilta. The said drawings were received by Arries Moulding Co.

Ltd., Taiwan in December, 2001, and, the work for the designing of the injection mould, commenced immediately thereafter. The designing of the injection mould was taken up by Arries Steel Mould Company Limited immediately, and, the final mould design, of Kilta, after incorporation, of, necessary technical modifications, were finalised, and, forwarded to the defendants, by Arries Steel Mould Company Limited. The technical specifications and drawings used for the purpose of manufacture of Kilta are original "artistic works" within the meaning of Copyright Act, and, the defendant, is, the owner thereof. Being the owner of copyright, the defendant has got an exclusive right, to, reproduce the artistic features thereof, in any material form, and, restrain others from committing an act of infringement. The plaintiffs have infringed defendant's copyright, in, the artistic drawings, by reproducing the same in three dimensions. No person is entitled to claim patent in a substance, resulting, in the aggregations, of, the properties of the components thereof or a process for producing such substance. The patent No.195917 is purported to have been sealed only, on 11th July, 2005, and, has not stood the test of time and scrutiny. The patent is rent. It is also submitted that the feature of belt claimed as another element of the patent specification, in itself, is not new or inventive. In any even, the mode of affixing belt to Kilta in the defendants product is entirely different. Specification belt-fitting slot has been provided in the defendant's product at the upper and the bottom portion of the device for better utility. There is no belt fitting slot provided in the specification of patent in question. It is also submitted that the this Court, does not, have either the territorial jurisdiction or the pecuniary jurisdiction, to, entertain and try the present suit. It is further claimed that the present suit has malafidely been filed by the plaintiffs with a view to scuttle legitimate competition in the market and amounts to an abuse of process of law.

5. On merits, the averments made in the plaint are denied. It is submitted that patent No.195917, has fraudulently been obtained by the plaintiffs, and, has illegally been granted by the Controller of Patent in utter breach and disregard to the provisions, of, the The Patent Act. It is submitted that the mere grant of Patent, is, not in itself sufficient to confer monopoly right in favour of the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs have miserably failed t establish the validity of the patent which is seriously disputed and challenged by the defendants. It is denied that the plastic long basket is an inventive device. There is no inventive step taken by the plaintiffs for the manufacture of plastic long basket called Kilta. Mere use of expression in the specification and the claims does not make an ordinary long plastic basket to be an inventive device. It is submitted that the baskets made of plastic are not only being manufactured by the defendants prior to the relevant date, but such like products are being manufactured and sold in India and many other countries in the world much prior to the relevant date. The manufacture of Kilta by using plastic as a raw material is nothing more than the mere workshop improvement and does not satisfy the test of inventions or an inventive steps, within, the meaning of the Patent Laws, as applicable. It is denied that Mr. Dhanpat Seth is the inventor or any invention has been made in the manufacture of plastic basket. The claims made by the plaintiffs are obvious, pre-published, pre-known, pre-used and does not constitute an invention. It is submitted that the history of creation ion of the so-called invention has got no relevance to the fact in issue. The plaintiffs have admitted that HDP as an ingredient, was, in use for the manufacture of plastic devices prior to the relevant date, and, at least in 1989. The raw material which is being used by the defendant for the manufacture of their plastic buckets/baskets, is High Density Polyethylene, the technical name of which is HDP. It is denied that the alleged inventor visited Himachal Pradesh in 1999 and discovered the people using long basket made of Bamboo. Long baskets made of bamboo for multiple usage and purposes are being traditionally used for decades by the farmers and labourer in plains as well as in hills for the transportation of material. It is submitted that the plaintiffs have again made vague statement about the persons carrying Kilta having lost their balance or rolled down from the mountain slops. It is denied that there was any mishap or a case of rolling down the mountain slopes on account of persons carrying a traditional Kilta.It is submitted that the plastic bucket/basket in small and long sizes were already manufactured and sold, in the market by large number of manufacturers, when the alleged idea of making a long basket in plastic, is, claimed to have occurred to the so-called inventor. None of the features disclosed in the Indian Patent No.195917, constitute, any infringement or inventive steps, within the meaning of the Patent Act. The plaintiffs have deliberately not disclosed the period of time when the design of the basket/device, subject matter, of Patent No.195917, was finalized or taken for service or submitted to the Government department. It is submitted that the long baskets/Kilta made of plastic material was being openly sold in the market, prior to, the date of filing the application, for the grant of Patent on 24th May, 2002. It is denied that any valid claim for patent was made on 24th May, 2002 by the plaintiffs. It is submitted that in the representation made to the National Horticulture Board, Gurgaon, the plaintiffs have themselves admitted having introduced the round basket during 2000-2001 and long basket during 2001. The plaintiffs have deliberately suppressed the entire correspondence exchanged from National Board. It is further denied that the sale of the defendant's products is in violation of the alleged patent rights, of, the plaintiff or that the same has caused any wrongful loss or damage to the plaintiff.

6. The plaintiffs herein filed replication(s) to the written statement(s) of the defendants, wherein, they denied the contents of the written statements and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

7. The defendant instituted a counter claim against the plaintiffs, for seeking cancellation, of, Patent No.195917, with, averments that the defendant company is Asia's Largest manufacture of injection moulded plastic articles since 1985. The defendant is an ISO 9001 and ISO 14001 company, and, has pioneered the business of manufacturer of wide range of furniture and material handling crates, having its factory(ies)/units at various parts of India. The defendants Nilkamal Products are self designed articles and retain its pioneer position, with, a large chunk of market share, in the industry. The defendant conceived and invented new and novel design of Kilta, in, 2001. The artistic drawings used as a blue print for the preparation of injunction mould and Kilta, were, originally created, by in house design department headed, by Mr. A.B.. Ambekar, during, the course of their employment with the defendant company, and, in discharge of their official duties. The said original drawings were created on 20th November, 2001, and, the same were forwarded by the defendant to Arries Steel Mould Co. Ltd. Taiwan, for designing injection mould, as, required, for, the purposes of the manufacture of Kilta. The said drawings were received by Arries Moulding Co. Ltd., Taiwan in December, 2001, and, the work for the designing of the injection mould, hence commenced immediately thereafter. The designing of the injection mould, was, taken up by Arries Steel Mould Company Limited immediately and the final mould design of Kilta, after incorporation necessary technical modifications, were finalised, and, forwarded, to the defendant, by Arries Steel Mould Company Limited. The technical specifications and drawings used for the purpose of manufacture of Kilta are original “artistic works”, within, the meaning of Copyright Act, and, the defendant is the owner thereof. Being the owner of copyright, the defendant has got an exclusive right, to reproduce, the artistic features thereof in any material form, and, restrain others from committing any act of infringement. The plaintiffs have infringed defendant's copyright, in the artistic drawings, by reproducing the same in three dimensions. It is submitted that the petitioner is well known manufacturer and seller of devices comprising, of, containers of various sizes, designs made by synthetic polymeric material and/or High Density Polyethylene defined by hollow frusto conical body open at the top and closed at the base with perforated walls. No person is entitled to claim, any monopoly, in a substance resulting in the aggregation of the properties of the components thereof or a process for producing such substance under the provisions of law, as applicable. The plaintiffs have obtained patent No.195917 by making false statements, claims and representations. The patent No.195917 is purported to have been sealed on 11th July, 2005. The aforesaid patent has fraudulently been obtained by the plaintiffs and it is liable t be revoked under Section 64, of, the Patents Act, 2005. The aforesaid patent was wrongly obtained by the plaintiffs, and, was wrongly granted by Controller of Patents, in, contravention of the provisions of the Patents Act, and, the rules framed thereunder. The subject matter of any claim, of, the complete specification of Patent No.195917, is, not patentable under the provisions of the Act. The patent is bad for want of subject matter, at, the first instance itself. The plaintiffs failed to define the nature of invention, and, to disclose the process, which produces results to be aimed at. The subject matter is neither a matter of new manufacture nor art. There is no novelty and inventiveness in the subject matter of the patent, as opposed, to what was already known before the relevant date. Pith and essence of the alleged invention as compared to the pith and essence of traditionally known Kilta, is, identical similar in each respect. The device does perform the function of haling. It is nothing but simply a long basket. The device does not produce any new result or a new article of manufacture or art than before. It is the manual function which facilitates the hauling, of, agricultural produce, and, storing them in bucket type device/container and not the device which performs, the, function of hauling. The plaintiff cannot claim monopoly in a simple plastic basket. It is submitted that the patent rights can be claimed, under the law, in respect of an article which is new, inventive and industrially applicable. There is nothing new or inventive in the device popularly known as Kilta. The patented device is merely an application of old device known as Kilta for the purpose of storage or collection of inter alia agricultural produce. The utility of Kilta had traditionally been known much prior to the relevant date. The title of invention is ambiguous and misleading. The device does not constitute an invention. The subject matter of invention, so far as claimed in the complete specification, is “obvious” and does not involve any “inventive steps”. The plaintiffs have not shown to have taken any inventive step over the known devices. Any workman skilled in the art could have carried out the manufacture of Kilta, using, other raw material(s). The element of invention claimed by the plaintiffs, on, the known device is obvious to a person skilled in the art, and, is mere trade variant and does not constitute any inventive step, within, the meaning of Section 2(1)(j) (a) of the Patent Act. The invention, so far as claimed in the claims of the complete specification, was anticipated having regard to the knowledge available in India as well as in many other countries in the world, on, the relevant date. The anticipation by prior disclosure with the consent of the plaintiffs, commercial working commercial use/sale, public exhibition, is, admitted by the plaintiffs, in the pleadings as well as the documents produced on record. The letter of 19th April, 2002, produced on record by the plaintiffs clearly establish anticipation, lack of novelty, prior publication and prior use of device in question. The defendants submit that launching of plastic Kilta in Shimla on 4th April, 2002, in the presence of Minister of Horticulture, other government officials and many leading apple growers in Himachal Pradesh in itself is sufficient to defeat the claim for the grant of Patent. The defendants crave leave to refer to the letter of 14.03.2005, issued, on behalf of the plaintiffs admitting, and, acknowledging the availability, of the device, in question in the market, much prior, to the relevant date. The plastic basket, long as well as short were being openly manufacture, sold and offered for sale not only in the state of Himachal Pradesh but also all over India much prior to the relevant date to the knowledge of the plaintiffs. It is submitted that the claims made in the complete specification are not “inventions” within the meaning of the Act. As a matter of fact, a simple plastic bucket, of, a particular size, shape and configuration popularly known, as, Kilta is misdescribed as a “device” for hauling agricultural produce. There is no functional aspect of hauling in the device in question and the functional aspect claimed as invention is not the result of the device but manual hand of farmer. The utilitarian value of the plastic bucket popularly known as Kilta, was, already known prior to the relevant date. The traditional Kiltas were carried or capable of being carried on shoulders as well as tied to the waist. The size, shape and configuration of Kilta, continues, to be the same as known traditionally with frusto conical body open at the top and closed at the base with perforated walls. In any event no patent can be claimed or granted by mere change of shape, size or configuration. Mere use of different raw material for manufacture of known device, does not, constitute an invention. The word "haul" is defined by Oxford English Dictionary to mean (I) pull or drag forcibly, (ii) transport by Lorry, Cart, (iii) turn a ships course. It is thus clear that there is no hauling function performed by the device or manually by the farmer. It is a simple case of farmer plucking fruits from the tress and storing it in a long basket secured by belts to his body. The plaintiff have admitted that such device known as Kilta was in use prior to relevant date. The only new feature alleged to have been adopted by the plaintiffs is the raw material i.e. "synthetic polymeric material" replacing bamboos/wood. Synthetic polymeric material is in use as a substitute to Rubber for many years for manufacture of hollow frusto conical body like bucket, dust bins etc. The mere fact that raw material bamboo/wood as were allegedly being used fr manufacture of typical device, for, hauling agricultural produce, does not tantamount, to an invention or an inventive step, within, the meaning of Section 2(1)(j)(i) of the Act. It is submitted that the raw material used by the defendant for the manufacture of their Kiltas, is High Density Polyethylene, the technical name of which is HDP. The material used by plaintiffs is polyprophylene copolymer, the technical name thereof is PP. The limitation of PP is their low temperature bitterness which is not in case of HDP. Both material PP and HDP differ in their respective characteristics. The plaintiff cannot claim a patent in "synthetic polymeric material" at the first instance or the use thereof as a substance for the manufacture or sale of traditionally known device, bucket, container, used or capable of being used as storage basket. It is submitted that thus it is apparent from the above that there is no invention in the subject matter; there is nothing new or novel; there is no method or process performed by the device and cannot be the subject matter of patent; there is no inventive step involved in the manufacture of the device; the invention claimed by the plaintiffs is obvious; and without prejudice to the above, the invention claimed by the plaintiffs, was, anticipated on the relevant date and as such the patent is liable to be revoked for the grounds enumerable under Sections 64(1)(a), (c), (d) to (I) and (q) of the Patents Act, 1970. It is submitted that this court has jurisdiction to entertain and try the present petition, as, the plaintiffs have instituted a civil suit alleging infringement, of patent No.195917 before this Court, and, that the provisions of the Patents Act, provides, that a petition for cancellation of a patent can be instituted in the Court where a suit for infringement, is, instituted for proper adjudication of controversy, between, the parties in infringement proceedings, and, in cancellation action.

8. The plaintiffs instituted written statement to the rectification petition/counter claim instituted by the defendant, wherein, they have taken preliminary objection qua maintainability, valuation for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction, cause of action suppression of material facts etc. On merits, the averments cast in the counter claim, by the defendant have been denied in toto. It is denied that the plaintiffs have obtained Patent No. 195917, by making false statements or claims. It is submitted that the patent has been granted in favour of the plaintiffs, in accordance with law, and, the same is valid. It is submitted that the patent has been granted in favour of the plaintiffs, after, complying with all the statutory requirements, and, the plaintiffs have a right to prevent a third party, from, infringing his patent. The patented article involves advance as compared to the existing knowledge, and, has economic significance, and, is not obvious to a person skilled in the art. Thus the patent in question has been validly granted in favour of the plaintiffs. It is denied that a technical advance does not tantamount to an invention or an inventive step.

9. On the contentious pleadings of the parties, this Court on 30.10.2007, struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the grant of a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction restraining the defendant from infringing Patent No.195917 in any manner whatsoever? OPP
2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to a decree for mandatory injunction directing the defendant not to infringe Patent No.195917 in any manner whatsoever, as alleged? OPP.
3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to damages on account of profits and mesne profits as prayed for?
4. Whether the goods supplied by the defendant by infringement of the Patent are liable to seizure, forefeiture and destruction? OPD.
5. Whether a plastic 'Kilta', as manufactured by the plaintiffs, can be granted a Patent? OPD.
6. Whether there exists a legal and a valid Patent of a 'Kitla' with the plaintiffs? OPD.
7. Whether the suit is maintainable in its present form? OPD.
8. Whether the suit is properly valuedfor the purposes of Court fee? OPD.

Reasons for findings.

Issues No.1 to 6.

11. All the aforesaid issues are being disposed, of by, a common discussion, given, all the aforesaid issues being common in nature besides when in proof thereof, common evidence stands adduced.

12. The plaintiffs avers qua the defendant hence infringing, the, apposite patent granted qua them, vis-a-vis, (i) a device for manually hauling of agricultural produce, (ii) device whereof, comprises a container of synthetic polymeric material defined by a hollow frusto-conical body open at the top, and, closed at the base, and, tapering, from, the operative open top, on the base, with perforated walls", (iii) infringements whereof, are contended, to be made by the defendant, comprised in its, as testified by DW-1, in his cross-examination, qua inter se the kiltas manufactured, by the defendant and, vis-a-vis the patented product, there occurring only minimal differences, in, size(s) and perforations thereof. Consequently, the counsel, for, the plaintiffs, contends, that there, hence, being an open breach, of the patent, granted, vis-a-vis, the plaintiff company, and, as embodied in Ex.PW1/C-2, hence, the contracts made upon the defendant, for supplying Kiltas, to the appropriate authority, rather visiting the plaintiffs, with pecuniary damages, hence, pecuniary compensation, borne in a sum of Rs.51 lacs, being meted vis-a-vis the plaintiffs, by an apposite decree in respect thereof, being pronounced, by this Court.

13. Be that as it may, an appeal bearing No. OA/5/2—7/PT/Num, for revocation(s) of the apposite patent, and, as preferred before the Intellectual Property Appellate Board, Chennai, is, yet awaiting pronouncement, of, an adjudication thereon. However, dehors, the pendency, of, the revocation appeal, before, the aforestated Board, this Court would yet be vested, with, the apt jurisdiction, to make a pronouncement, upon, the extant suit, (i) given the provisions, borne in Section 64(1) of the Patents Act, 1970, (hereinafter referred to as the Act), hence, bestowing a right, upon the aggrieved to either seek revocation of the grant of patent, by availment, of, the apt statutory remedy or through, a counter claim instituted, in the plaintiffs' suit, for infringement, of the apt patent. Since, the defendant, has, hereat instituted a counterclaim, wherein, it agitates the factum probandum, of, the purported patented product, not, within the ambit of the provisions, of, Section 2 (j)(a) of the Act, mandate whereof stands extracted hereinafter, hence, being an inventive step, (ii) also when they contend, of, the Kilta, supplied to the department(s) concerned, rather falling within the ambit, of clauses (d), (f), and, (p) of Section 3 of the Act, (iii) wherein, are encapsulated, the, apposite exclusionary provision(s) hence for rendering, rather inefficacious, the, validity of the patent accorded, vis-a-vis, a patentee, and, vis-a-vis, a specific product, (iv) thereupon, with the counter-claim, instituted by the defendant, hence, carrying therein, all apt contentions, falling within, the ambit, of, the provisions supra of the Act, (v) hence, this Court, dehors, the pendency of an appeal before the Intellectual Property Appellate Board, Chennai, as, preferred therebefore, by the aggrieved defendant, wherein, a challenge, is, cast to the patent granted, vis-a-vis, the apposite product, rather would hence, proceed, to, dwell upon the validities, of, the respective contentions, reared by the plaintiffs, and, by the defendant. Provisions of Section 2(ja) of the Act read as under:-

> "(ja) "inventive step" means a feature of an invention that involves technical advance as compared t the existing knowledge or having economic significance or both and that makes the invention not obvious to a person skilled in the art;"

Provisions of clause (d), clause (f) and clause (p) of Section 3, of, the Act read as under:-

> "(d) the mere discovery of a new form of a known substance which does not result in the enhancement of the known efficacy of the substance or the mere discovery of a ny new property or new use for a known substance or of the mere use of a known process, machine or apparatus unless such known process results in a new product or employs at least one new reactant.
> (f) the mere arrangement or re-arrangement or duplication of known devices each functioning independently of one another in a known way;

(p) an invention which in effect, is traditional knowledge or which is an aggregation or duplication of known properties of traditionally known component or components"

14. However, before proceeding, to make an adjudication, upon, the merits of the respective contentions, as, reared herebefore, respectively by the plaintiffs, and, by the defendant, it is also deemed imperative, to bear in mind, the provisions, borne, in sub section (4) of Section 13 of the Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "13. Search for anticipation by previous publication and by prior claim.-(1) The examiner to whom an application for a patent is referred under section 12 shall make investigation for the purpose of ascertaining whether the invention so far as claimed in any claim of the complete specification-
> (a) has been anticipated by publication before the date of filing of the applicant's complete specification in any specification filed in pursuance of an application for a patent made in India and dated on or after the 1st day of January, 1912;
>
> (b) is claimed in any claim of any other complete specification published on or after the date of filing of the applicant's complete specification, being a specification filed in pursuance of an application for a patent made in India and dated before or claiming the priority date earlier than that date.
>
> (2) The examiner shall, in addition, make such investigation [3] [] for the purpose of ascertaining whether the invention, so far as claimed in any claim of the complete specification, has been anticipated by publication in India or elsewhere in any document other than those mentioned in sub-section (1) before the date of filing of the applicant's complete specification.
>
> (3) Where a complete specification is amended under the provisions of this Act before [4][the grant of patent], the amended specification shall be examined and investigated in like manner as the original specification.
> (4) The examination and investigations required under section 12 and this section shall not be deemed in any way to warrant the validity of any patent, and no liability shall be incurred by the Central Government or any officer thereof by reason of, or in connection with, any such examination or investigation or any report or other proceedings consequent thereon."

In the afore-extracted apt provisions borne, in, sub-section (4), of, Section 13, of the Act, there occurs a statutory engraftment, (a) whereunder, the examiner, wherebeforewhom, an apt application, cast under Section 12, of the Act, for grant of patent, stands prereferred, is, thereafter rather statutorily obliged, to make investigations thereof, and, besides the apt investigations, as, carried under the substantive portion, of Section 13 of the Act or any report prepared in sequel thereto, are, statutorily per se constituted unbefittingm, to warrant, the apt validity of any patent, (ii) thereupon, upon reading(s), of, the aforestated statutory engraftment, as, borne in sub section (4) of Section 13 of the Act, in entwinement, with sub-section (1), and, with sub-section (4) of Section 64, of, the Act, (iii) wherewithin, the, aggrieved, is, bestowed, with, a right, to challenge the grant of patent, to a patentee, either by availing the apt statutory remedy/mechanism or through a counter claim, (iii) cumulatively and reinforcingly thereupon, dehors, the patent granted, to, the patentee/plaintiff company, and, as embodied in Ex.PW1/C-2, this Court would proceed, to hence dwell, upon, the aforesaid espousal(s), reared by the defendant, in its counter claim, given, conspicuously the grant of patent, embodied in Ex.PW1/C-2, not, hence per se comprising, any, unimpeachable evidence, vis-a-vis, the validity, of, the apposite patented product.

15. Even though, as aforestated, the deposition of DW-1, does tentatively bear out the contention, of, the plaintiff qua apart from the apt minimal difference(s), in the size(s), and, perforations, of, the Kilta, manufactured by the defendant, drawings whereof, are borne in Ex.DW1/E-1 to Ex.DW1/E-4, vis-a-vis, the kiltas manufactured by the plaintiffs, in respect whereof, the apt patent was granted, vis-a-vis, the plaintiffs, (a) yet per se, thereupon, it cannot be concluded, of, hence the defendant, rather infringing the apposite patent. Contrarily, this Court, is, enjoined to mete, an, appropriate adjudication, vis-a-vis, the espousal(s) reared by the defendant, in its counter-claim, (b) anchored upon the definition, of, "inventive step", borne in Section 2(ja) of the Act, (c) and, also, upon, the contention, of the defendant, grooved, in the provisions borne in clauses (d) and (p) of Section 3 of the Act, (d) and, upon ingredients, of, provisions thereof, being satiated, by adduction, of, cogent evidence, this Court, would negate the claim of the plaintiffs, (e) besides upon evidence on record, making forthright and invincible displays, of, the patented product not being an "inventive step", thereupon, also the claims of the plaintiffs, would stand obviously, hence omnibusly negated. Consequently, it is imperative, for this Court to initially, decipher, from the evidence on record, qua the patented product, constituting, an "inventive step", as, defined in Section 2 (ja) of the Act.

16. Before proceeding to search, for, the apt evidence, as may be adduced, in satiation, of all the ingredients, borne, therein, it is, of utmost significance to bear in mind the statutory connotation, ascribed in Section 2 (ja) of the Act, vis-a-vis, an "inventive step", (i) therein "inventive step" is ascribed the signification, of, a feature of an invention that under takes technical advance, as compared to the existing knowledge; (ii) or having economic significance or both; (iii) that makes invention, not, obvious to a person skilled in art. In case, the learned counsel, for the defendant/counter-claimant, hence succeeds, in establishing, that the features of the patented product, uncontrovertedly a Kilta, does not bear out, the trite fact of it being an invention, (a) given, its evidently not involving any technical advance, vis-a-vis, the existing knowledge prevailing qua it or if he establishes, that dehors its holding, any economic significance or both, (b) that even, too, a person skilled in the art, the patented product not carrying any inventive features, rather, upon, a person skilled in the art, on, sighting the patented product, his gathering, an impression, that, it carries a look alike, vis-a-vis, the traditional product, (c) thereupon, the patented product hence would not be construable to be a "inventive step", nor hence, any, replicate thereof, save and except, minimal differences, inter se both, specifically in size(s), and, in user therein, of any alternate raw material, would not hence constitute, any infringements, of the apt patented product. In the aforesaid assay, the learned counsel, appearing for the defendant, has drawn the attention, of this Court, to, the bespeakings hence occurring in the cross-examination, of, PW-3, and, as appertain to the kilta, in respect whereof, patent was granted, bespeakings whereof loudly rather echo qua the kiltas, hence being in use in the country side, since, times immemorial, (d) and, qua further acquiescence(s), also occurring, in, his further cross-examination, qua, instead of user, of, bamboo, as a raw material in manufacture thereof, the plaintiffs, using plastic, as a raw material, in manufacture of the product, in respect whereof, the plaintiffs claim a patent. The aforesaid testification, borne in the cross-examination, of, PW-3, does bear out, the, contention of the counter-claimant/defendant, that the patented product, does not display, any feature of any invention, and, also that hence no technical advance, has occurred, in, its fabrication or manufacture, vis-a-vis, the prevalent knowledge, with respect, to the patented product, (e) except, the apt inter se both hyphenated/segregable, trite factum, qua except bamboo, the hitherto used raw material, rather the patented product, hence,using plastic as a raw material. Conspicuously also, the, parlance ascribable, vis-a-vis, the statutory coinage, "technical advance", (f) is, of, the plaintiffs being enjoined to make evident display, of, apart from user, of, the aforesaid substituted substance, as, a raw material, in the manufacture of Kilta, hence any significant mechanical, automated or robotic advances, visibly occurring, (g) whereupon, the apt automated or mechanical hauling, of, agricultural produce, has substituted the manual hauling, of, agricultural produce, (h) whereas, hereat gross absence, of, the aforesaid evidence, renders the purported patent being not construable to hence secure a technical advance, vis-a-vis, traditional Kilta, nor it can be constituted to be an apt "inventive step". Furthermore, the plaintiffs also omitted to adduce any material, personificatory, of the inventive product, in respect whereof, the apt patent was granted, holding economical significance, vis-a-vis, the traditional kilta, evidence whereof, is, comprised, in, the purported inventive product holding higher economical viability, vis-a-vis, the manufacturing, of, or user of, and, longevity, of, the traditional kilta, in manufacturing whereof rather bamboo straw, is, used as a raw material. In addition, the last part, of the statutory definition, ascribed, vis-a-vis, "inventive step", qua, the purported invention, not, on its appearance, before a person skilled, in, the art, rearing any impression, in his mind, of, its obviously, holding alikeness, vis-a-vis, the traditional kilta, (i) except the user nowat therein, of, plastic as a raw material, instead of bamboo, previously used in the manufacturing, of, traditional kilta, (j) thereupon, alone, it being construable to be an "inventive step", whereas, with the aforesaid acquiescence(s), occurring, in the cross-examination of PW-3, does prima facie, make a display, of PW-3 also concomitantly, hence acquiescing, that save and apart, from user in the patented produce, a contradistinct, raw material, as, used, nowat, in the manufacture of a traditional Kilta, rather upon visual appearance of the patented product, it being obvious, qua their occurring similitude(s), and, resemblance(s), in both, the patented product, and, the traditional Kilta, (k) thereupon, the surfacing, of imperative evident non-obviousness, upon, the physical appearance, of, the patented product, before a person skilled in the art, especially, vis-a-vis, its not bearing any similitude, and, utmost resemblance, vis-a-vis, the traditional Kilta, except user therein, of, a contradistinct, raw material, rather was, indispensable, (l) imperatively for thereupon rather rendering the patented product, to be construable to be a "inventive step" whereas, evidence thereof, is, grossly amiss. Thereupon, contrarily, with, the evident imperative obviousness, of its similitude, vis-a-vis, the traditional kilta, it cannot be deemed, to be an "inventive step", qua, the traditionally manufactured Kilta. Even though, PW-3, is, not a person skilled in the art, nor hence he can make any deposition, vis-a-vis, the patented product, being an "inventive step", given, upon its obvious physical appearance before him, its not displaying any features, of, similitude or visible resemblanceness, with, the traditional kilta, save and except, the user therein, of, plastic, as a raw material, (m) yet, may tentatively render his aforesaid deposition, to be rather not rendering the patented product to be, not, hence an "inventive step". However, with the plaintiffs when hence were also enjoined, to lead into the witness box, a person skilled in the art, for enabling him, to depose, that, upon, its being visually presented before him, it being not obviously, decipherable therefrom, qua it not bearing any similitude or resemblance, with the traditional Kilta, except user therein of plastic, as, a raw material. Nonetheless, the aforesaid person skilled, in the art, omitted to be examined by the plaintiffs, hence, an adverse inference is drawable, against, the plaintiffs qua theirs acquiescing, to the factum of the patented product not being an "inventive step", given, reiteratedly, it obviously, to a person skilled in the art, upon its visual display before him, garnering an inference in his mind, qua it, rather bearing similitude, and, resemblance, with, the traditional Kilta, (l) especially when PW-3 in his deposition, borne in his cross-examination, does make a display, of upon, its physical appearance before him, its, obviously displaying similitude, and, resemblance with the traditional kilta, apart from, user therein, of, plastic as a raw material. The sequel of the aforesaid discussion, is, that the patented product, being not construable, to be a "inventive step" nor the defendant can be construed, to infringe the apposite patent, as, granted, qua the plaintiffs.

17. With, the evidence on record, hence, making a clear lucid earmarked, display, qua except for apt contradistinct user hence in the patented product, of, plastic as a raw material, the latter yet bearing similitude and resemblance, vis-a-vis, the traditional Kilta, rather hence also carries the further effect, qua, hence the mandate of clause (a) of Section 3 of the Act, rather being attracted, (i) imperatively, when the patented product, within, its ambit, is hence construable, to be, merely a discovery, of a new form, of, a known substance, inasmuch, as traditional Kilta, and,also its user within its ambit, is, further not proven to result in enhancement of the known efficacies, of, the traditional kilta, even with its possessing, any, purported orthopedic superiority, as, deposed by PW-3, vis-a-vis, the traditional kilta, deposition whereof, is, oustable, given, no orthopedic surgeon, making any apt testification. Furthermore, the deposition, existing, in the cross-examination, of, PW-3 qua Kilta being in user in the countryside, of, Himachal Pradesh, since times immemorial, and, except the user, of, plastic as a raw material, in the manufacture, of the patented product, in replacement, of, bamboo, (i) thereupon, with, there being no earmarked contradistinctivity, inter se, both qua their similitude, and, mode, of, user by the agriculturists, more so, when, for, reasons aforesaid, it is bereft, of, any technical advance, rather enjoins this Court, to, therefrom, gauge qua, hence it bearing concurrence, with, the provisions, borne in clause (p) of Section 3 of the Act, (ii) wherewithin, stands engrafted, a, mandate qua, upon cogent evidence being adduced, in satiation, of, all ingredients thereof, thereupon, the benefit, of, apt exclusionary mandate thereof, being visitable, vis-a-vis, the counter-claimant. Since, the apposite exclusion(s), vis-a-vis, the patented product, embody therein, apt exceptions, vis-a-vis, invention, (I) and, are comprised, in the purported invention, being per se traditional knowledge, (ii) or, upon the patented product, being merely a aggregation, or, a duplication, of the known component or components, (iii) thereupon, also, hence it being not construable to be an invention. Upon apt therewith voicings standing borne, in the cross-examination, of, PW-3, hence renders the patented product, to, rather fall within the opening coinage, of clause (p), borne in Section 3 of the Act, (iv) inasmuch, as, it being per se traditional knowledge, conspicuously, vis-a-vis, the known properties, of, the traditionally known component or components thereof, thereupon, the factum, of, it being an "inventive step", is negated, (v) and also thereupon, the factum of, or it being construable to be an invention, is, negated, (vi) besides when the patented product, hence merely upon user therein, of plastice, as a raw material, is, rather an aggregation or specifically, a, duplication, of, known properties of traditionally known component or components, inasmuch as, of, the known properties, of, the traditional kilta, (vii) comprised, in its alike therewith only facilitating, the hitherto also rather manual hauling of agricultural produce, (viii) and, reiteratedly when the known properties thereof, are, apparently duplicated, merely, by contradistinct user therein, of, plastic, than, of bamboo, as a raw material, (ix) hence, the replacement or substitution, of, the hitherto raw material, inasmuch, as of bamboo, by, plastic in the manufacture, of, the patented product, reinforcingly, does not either add or enhance,, the traditional knowledge, with, respect to the manufacturing, of, a Kilta.

18. Be that as it may, the aforesaid negation, of claim, of patent, vis-a-vis, the patented product, hence constrains this Court, to, attract the mandate, of sub-section 64 of the Act, and, also the compatible therewith mandate, borne in sub-section (4) of Section 13, of the Act, wherewithin, jurisdiction, is bestowed upon this Court, to test validity of grant of patent, (I) corollary whereof, is that the grant, of, patent vis-a-vis the patented product, in favour of the patentee, not, being an inventive step nor its purported infringement, if any, hence empowering the plaintiffs to claim any pecuniary damages, from, the defendant/counter-claimant.

19. In view of the above, issues No.1 to 6 are decided in favour of the defendants/counter claimants and against the plaintiffs/non-counter-claimants.

Issue No.7 and 8.

20. No evidence exists on record to show qua how the suit of the plaintiffs is not maintainable, and, qua as to how the plaintiffs' suit is not properly valued for the purposes of Court fee. Moreover, a persual of the record that the plaintiff's suit is properly valued for the purpose of court fee and jurisdiction, hence, both the aforesaid issues are decided in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendant.

Relief.

21. In sequel to findings on issues aforesaid, the plaintiffs' suit is dismissed, whereas, the counter claim instituted by the counter-claimant/defendant is decreed and the patent No.195917, titled as "A Device for Manually Hauling of Agricultural Produce" granted in favour of the plaintiff by the Statutory Authority is cancelled. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

For the Appellant: Mr. Ashwani K. Sharma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Jeevan Kumar, Advocate.

For Respondents No.1 to 4/Cross-objectors: Mr. Y. P. Sood, Advocate.
For Respondent No.5: Mr. D.S. Kainthla, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal stands directed by the aggrieved respondent/appellant herein, against the award pronounced, upon, Claim Petition No. 39-S/2 of 2010, (i) whereunder, vis-a-vis, the compensation amount, as stood determined qua the claimants/respondents No.1 to 4 herein, the, apt indemnificatory liability thereof hence stood fastened, upon, it, (ii) whereas the claimants/respondents No.1 to 4 herein/cross-objectors, also prefer cross-objections, vis-a-vis, the impugned award, whereunder, they seek enhancement, of, compensation amount.

2. The liability, for, liquidating the compensation amount, as, assessed under the impugned award, stands fastened, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer/appellat herein has contended with much vigour, before, this Court that (i) with the apposite driving licence borne in Mark-C, being testified, by the clerk concerned, of, the licencing authority located at Agra, while his rendering his deposition, in, Workmen Compensation petition bearing Case No.RBT 14/2 of 11/2010, qua the afore driving licence not standing issued from the afore licencing authority concerned, (ii) thereupon, the fastening of the apposite indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer rather being both infirm, and, frail. He strengthens his afore submission, by contending with vigour, (iii) that, with RW-2, while proving the abstract of pariwar register, embodied in Ex.RW2/A, (iv) and, with the latter exhibit hence making clear voicings qua at the time of issuance, of, the afore licence, the driver concerned being aged lesser, than, the age whereat he could be issued any driving licence, (v) and, hence thereupon, Mark-C, being wholly ridden with falsity, and, the further concomitant effect thereof being qua the owner of the offending vehicle, who, executed a contract of insurance, vis-a-vis, the insurer, per se hence not exercising reasonable care, and, diligence, dehors, the fakeness, and, unauthenticity of the driving licence, of the driver concerned, (vi) and, its, further, apt effect thereof being qua the owner of the offending vehicle, not, standing entitled to derive any benefit from decisions, of, the Hon'ble Apex Court, rendered in a case titled as National Insurance Company Ltd. v. Swaran Singh, reported in (2004)3 SCC 297, and, from a verdict rendered in a case titled as PEPSU Road Transport Corporation vs. National Insurance Company, reported in (2013)10 SCC 217. In nutshell, he contends that the apposite indemnificatory liability, vis-a-vis, the apt compensation amount, being enjoined to be fastened, upon, the owner of the offending vehicle.

3. Apparently, there is no wrangle, qua, Mark-C, being unauthentic or fake. However, the effect, of, its unauthenticity, and, fakeness, rather stands propounded in Swaran Singh's case (supra) {(2004)3 SCC 297} in para 110 thereof, para whereof stands extracted hereinafter:-

> "110. The summary of our findings to the various issues as raised in these petitions are as follows:
> (i) Chapter XI of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 providing compulsory insurance of vehicles against third party risks is a social welfare legislation to extend relief by compensation to victims of accidents caused by use of motor vehicles. The provisions of compulsory insurance coverage of all vehicles are with this paramount object and the provisions of the Act have to be so interpreted as toeffectuate the said object.

(ii) Insurer is entitled to raise a defence in a claim petition filed under Section 163 A or Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 inter alia in terms of Section 149(2)(a)(ii) of the said Act.

(iii) The breach of policy condition e.g., disqualification of driver or invalid driving licence of the driver, as contained in sub-section (2)(a)(ii) of section 149, have to be proved to have been committed by the insured for avoiding liability by the insurer. Mere absence, fake or invalid driving licence or disqualification of the driver for driving at the relevant time, are not in themselves defences available to the insurer against either the insured or the third parties. To avoid its liability towards insured, the insurer has to prove that the insured was guilty of negligence and failed to exercise reasonable care in the matter of fulfilling the condition of the policy regarding use of vehicles by duly licensed driver or one who was not disqualified to drive at the relevant time.

(iv) The insurance companies are, however, with a view to avoid their liability must not only establish the available defence(s) raised in the said proceedings but must also establish 'breach' onthe part of the owner of the vehicle; the burden of proof wherefor would be on them.

(v) The court cannot lay down any criteria as to how said burden would be discharged, inasmuch as the same would depend upon the facts and circumstance of each case.

(vi) Even where the insurer is able to prove breach on the part of the insured concerning the policy condition regarding holding of a valid licence by the driver or his qualification to drive during the relevant period, the insurer would not be allowed to avoid its liability towards insured unless the said breach or breaches on the condition of driving licence is/ are so fundamental as are found to have contributed to the cause of the accident. The Tribunals in interpreting the policy conditions would apply "the rule of main purpose" and the concept of "fundamental breach" to allow defences available to the insured under section 149(2) of the Act.

(vii) The question as to whether the owner has taken reasonable care to find out as to whether the driving licence produced by the driver, (a fake one or otherwise), does not fulfil the requirements of law or not will have to be determined in each case.

(viii) If a vehicle at the time of accident was driven by a person having a learner's licence, the insurance companies would be liable to satisfy the decree.

(ix) The claims tribunal constituted under Section 165 read with Section 168 is empowered to adjudicate all claims in respect of the accidents involving death or of bodily injury or damage to property of third party arising in use of motor vehicle. The said power of the tribunal is not restricted to decide the claims inter se between claimant or claimants on one side and insured, insurer and driver on the other. In the course of adjudicating the claim for compensation and to decide the availability of defence or defences to the insurer, the Tribunal has necessarily the power and jurisdiction to decide disputes inter se between insurer and the insured. The decision rendered on the claims and disputes inter se between the insurer and insured in the course of adjudication of claim for compensation by the claimants and the award made thereon is enforceable and executable in the same manner as provided in Section 174 of the Act for enforcement and execution of the award in favour of the claimants.

(x) Where on adjudication of the claim under the Act the tribunal arrives at a conclusion that the insurer has satisfactorily proved its defence in accordance with the provisions of section 149(2) read with sub-section (7), as interpreted by this Court above, the Tribunal can direct that the insurer is liable to be reimbursed by the insured for the compensation and other amounts which it has been compelled to pay to the third party under the award of the tribunal. Such determination of claim by the Tribunal will be enforceable and the money found due to the insurer from the insured will be recoverable on a certificate issued by the tribunal to the Collector in the same manner under Section 174 of the Act as arrears of land revenue. The certificate will be issued for the recovery as arrears of land revenue only if, as required by sub-section (3) of Section 168 of the Act the insured fails to deposit the amount awarded in favour of the insurer within thirty days from the date of announcement of the award by the tribunal.

(xi) The provisions contained in sub-section (4) with proviso thereunder and sub-section (5) which are intended to cover specified contingencies mentioned therein to enable the insurer to recover amount paid under the contract of insurance on behalf of the insured can be taken recourse of by the Tribunal and be extended to claims and defences of insurer against insured by relegating them to the remedy before regular court in cases where on given facts and circumstances adjudication of their claims inter se might delay the adjudication of the claims of the victims."

Conspicuously, in clauses (i), (iii), (iv), (v), (vi), (vii), and, in clause (x) thereof, (a) to not constitute any valid ground for the insurer, to hence exculpate its liability rather it being permissible, for the MACT concerned, to initially direct the insurer, to deposit the compensation amount, and, thereafter liberty being reserved, vis-a-vis, the insurer to recover it, under, the statutory contemplated mode enshrined in Section 174, of, the Motor Vehicles Act.

4. Nowat, the learned counsel appearing, for the insurer, depends upon the testification of RW-2, who, has proven the abstract of pariwar register embodied, in Ex.RW2/A. On a perusal thereof, it is apparent, that, the driver concerned was at the time of issuance of Mark-C, merely 14 years old, and, when, his apparent minority was ex-facie discoverable by the owner, who employed him, as, a driver upon the offending vehicle, (i) thereupon, per se, there being apparent lack of exercise, of due care and diligence by the owner, of, the offending vehicle, in engaging him as a driver thereon, (ii) hence, the apposite indemnificatory liability being fastenable, upon, the owner concerned. Since, the afore espousal, is, wholly anchored upon the afore exhibit, borne in Ex.RW2/A, thereupon, sanctity thereof, is to be gauged. However, a reading of the deposition of RW-2, comprised in his cross-examination unfolds qua the entries in the abstract, of Pariwar Register, being made in consonance, with, the apt reflections, occurring in the birth register. He has also further echoed in his cross-examination, that, at the time of recording of his deposition, his, not carrying with him the apposite birth register, given it not standing summoned. Despite RW-2, making the afore echoings, in his cross-examination, yet, the counsel for the insurer rather omitted to summon the birth register, for, ensuring qua the reflection(s) occurring in Ex.RW2/A, standing sequeled, by deference being meted, to the apposite birth register, (ii) and, wherefrom rather it was garnerable, whether the reflections, occurring in the pariwar register, stood hence borrowed therefrom, and, concomitantly, theirs hence acquiring sanctity, (iii) omission whereof, contrarily erodes, the efficacy of the submission, of the learned counsel for the insurer, that, the owner of the offending vehicle, at the time of his engaging the driver concerned, upon, the offending vehicle, his despite noticing the ex-facie minority, of, his employee, his yet engaging him thereon, (iv) and hence, his breaching the standards of due care, and, caution nor hence he can contend that the benefits, of the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Swaran Singh's case (supra), being not recourseable by him or meted qua him.

5. Further more, the expostulation of law occurring, in a judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in PEPSU Road Transport Corporation vs. National Insurance Company, reported in (2013)10 SCC 217 (i) qua it being sufficient, dehors, fakeness of the driving licence, qua, the owner per se hence being inferable, to, evidently exercise reasonable care and diligence, in engaging a person as a driver, upon the offending vehicle, inference, of, exercise, of, diligence by him being firmly drawable, upon, mere engagement thereon, as obviously he would not beget endanger to his life, upon, engaging an improficient driver, unless contra therewith best evidence, stands adduced, (ii) and, hence it not being incumbent upon the owner concerned, to, verify the genuineness, of, the driving licence, issued from the licencing authority concerned, (iii) unless, at the time of execution of contract of insurance, the insurer insists, upon, the owner to verify, the, genuineness of the apposite driving licence, issued from the licencing authority concerned. Since, the insurer has not adduced evidence, that, at the time of execution of contract of insurance, it hence insisting, upon, the owner of the offending vehicle, to verify the genuineness of the Mark-C, (iv) thereupon, when apt evidence also remains unadduced, that, at the time of engagement, by the owner of the offending vehicle, of deceased, as, a driver thereon, he was unskilled or improficient in driving the category of the vehicle, whereon he was engaged as driver, hence, it is aptly concludable, that, the fastening of the indemnificatory liability, vis-a-vis, compensation amount, by the MACT concerned, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle, is, neither erroneous nor is ingrained with any legal fallacy, rather falls within the ambit, of, verdicts supra.

6. The claimants/respondents No.1 to 4, through, the cross-objections bearing No. 10 of 2014, strived, to seek enhancement of compensation, as, assessed qua them. The learned tribunal had assessed, the, per mensem income, of, the deceased, to, stand borne, in, a sum of Rs.3300/-, and, obviously aptly discarded, the, testification rendered by PW-4 Smt. Rita Shrma, wherein, she had voiced qua her deceased husband hence earning horticulture and agricultural income, borne in a sum of Rs.45,000/- per mensem. However, in support of the afore oral testification, as, rendered, by the claimant, vis-a-vis, the per mensem income reared by the deceased, no documentary evidence stood adduced, hence, in absence of any documentary evidence qua the rearing, of any income by the deceased, from, his horticulture and agriculture crops, rather the learned tribunal aptly concluded qua the deceased, drawing an income of Rs.3300/- per mensem.

7. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the claimants, has canvassed with much vigour, before this Court, that, the non meteing of incremental hikes, vis-a-vis, the afore income, rather being ridden, with, a gross fallacy, (i) and when he anchors, the aforesaid submission, upon, the apt mandate of the Hon'ble Apex Court, as, borne in the judgement rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court, in, a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, given, it rather vindicating, monetary hikes towards future incremental prospects, vis-a-vis, any income reared, by, the self employed deceased or qua income reared from rendering services with a non governmental organization or entity, (ii) whereas, with the deceased, being self employed or being aged more than 28 years, it being incumbent, to mete 40% hikes towards, future incremental prospects. The afore submission, rather finds strength, given, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Pranay Sethi's case (supra) rather validating the meteing of hikes, vis-a-vis, future incremental prospects, even qua a self-employed deceased, being aged more than 38 years, as, the deceased hereat evidently, is. The relevant paragraphs whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "57. Section 168 of the Act deals with the concept of "just compensation" and the same has to be determined on the foundation of fairness, reasonableness and equitability on acceptable legal standard because such determination can never be in arithmetical exactitude. It can never be perfect. The aim is to achieve an acceptable degree of proximity to arithmetical precision on the basis of materials brought on record in an individual case. The conception of "just compensation" has to be viewed through the prism of fairness, reasonableness and non- violation of the principle of equitability. In a case of death, the legal heirs of the claimants cannot expect a windfall. Simultaneously, the compensation granted cannot be an apology for compensation. It cannot be a pittance. Though the discretion vested in the tribunal is quite wide, yet it is obligatory on the part of the tribunal to be guided by the expression, that is, "just compensation". The determination has to be on the foundation of evidence brought on record as regards the age and income of the deceased and thereafter the apposite multiplier to be applied. The formula relating to multiplier has been clearly stated in Sarla Verma (supra) and it has been approved in Reshma Kumari (supra). The age and income, as stated earlier, have to be established by adducing evidence. The tribunal and the Courts have to bear in mind that the basic principle lies in pragmatic computation which is in proximity to reality. It is a well accepted norm that money cannot substitute a life lost but an effort has to be made for grant of just compensation having uniformity of approach. There has to be a balance between the two extremes, that is, a windfall and the pittance, a bonanza and the modicum. In such an adjudication, the duty of the tribunal and the Courts is difficult and hence, an endeavour has been made by this Court for standardization which in its ambit includes addition of future prospects on the proven income at present. As far as future prospects are concerned, there has been standardization keeping in view the principle of certainty, stability and consistency. We approve the principle of "standardization" so that a specific and certain multiplicand is determined for applying the multiplier on the basis of age.
> 58. The seminal issue is the fixation of future prospects in cases of deceased who is self-employed or on a fixed salary. Sarla Verma (supra) has carved out an exception permitting the claimants to bring materials on record to get the benefit of addition of future prospects. It has not, per se, allowed any future prospects in respect of the said category.
> 59.Having bestowed our anxious consideration, we are disposed to think when we accept the principle of standardization, there is really no rationale not to apply the said principle to the self-employed or a person who is on a fixed salary. To follow the doctrine of actual income at the time of death and not to add any amount with regard to future prospects to the income for the purpose of determination of multiplicand would be unjust. The determination of income while computing compensation has to include future prospects so that the method will come within the ambit and sweep of just compensation as postulated under Section 168 of the Act. In case of a deceased who had held a permanent job with inbuilt grant of annual increment, there is an acceptable certainty. But to state that the legal representatives of a deceased who was on a fixed salary would not be entitled to the benefit of future prospects for the purpose of computation of compensation would be inapposite. It is because the criterion of distinction between the two in that event would be certainty on the one hand and staticness on the other. One may perceive that the comparative measure is certainty on the one hand and uncertainty on the other but such a perception is fallacious. It is because the price rise does affect a self-employed person; and that apart there is always an incessant effort to enhance one's income for sustenance. The purchasing capacity of a salaried person on permanent job when increases because of grant of increments and pay revision or for some other change in service conditions, there is always a competing attitude in the private sector to enhance the salary to get better efficiency from the employees. Similarly, a person who is self-employed is bound to garner his resources and raise his charges/fees so that he can live with same facilities. To have the perception that he is likely to remain static and his income to remain stagnant is contrary to the fundamental concept of human attitude which always intends to live with dynamism and move and change with the time. Though it may seem appropriate that there cannot be certainty in addition of future prospects to the existing income unlike in the case of a person having a permanent job, yet the said perception does not really deserve acceptance. We are inclined to think that there can be some degree of difference as regards the percentage that is meant for or applied to in respect of the legal representatives who claim on behalf of the deceased who had a permanent job than a person who is self-employed or on a fixed salary. But not to apply the principle of standardization on the foundation of perceived lack of certainty would tantamount to remaining oblivious to the marrows of ground reality. And, therefore, degree-test is imperative. Unless the degree-test is applied and left to the parties to adduce evidence to establish, it would be unfair and inequitable. The degree-test has to have the inbuilt concept of percentage. Taking into consideration the cumulative factors, namely, passage of time, the changing society, escalation of price, the change in price index, the human attitude to follow a particular pattern of life,etc., an addition of 40% of the established income of the deceased towards future prospects and where the deceased was below 40 years an addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years would be reasonable.

60. The controversy does not end here. The question still remains whether there should be no addition where the age of the deceased is more than 50 years. Sarla Verma thinks it appropriate not to add any amount and the same has been approved in Reshma Kumari. Judicial notice can be taken of the fact that salary does not remain the same. When a person is in a permanent job, there is always an enhancement due to one reason or the other. To lay down as a thumb rule that there will be no addition after 50 years will be an unacceptable concept. We are disposed to think, there should be an addition of 15% if the deceased is between the age of 50 to 60 years and there should be no addition thereafter. Similarly, in case of self-employed or person on fixed salary, the addition should be 10% between the age of 50 to 60 years. The aforesaid yardstick has been fixed so that there can be consistency in the approach by the tribunals and the courts."

8. Since the postmortem report reflects, qua the deceased being aged 38 years, at the relevant time, hence with the afore extracted paragraph, mandating, qua, accretions towards future prospects, vis-a-vis, the per mensem income of the the deceased, being pegged upto 40% thereof. Consequently, after meteing 40% increase(s), vis-a-vis, the apposite per mensem income of the deceased, (i) thereupon, the relevant per mensem income of the deceased is recoknable at Rs.4620/-, [Rs.3300/-(per mensem income of the deceased)+Rs.1320/-(40% of the per mensem income of the deceased). Significantly, the number of dependents, of, the deceased, are, two, hence, 1/3rd deduction is to be visited, upon, a sum of Rs.4620/-. Consequently, the monthly dependency, including the future hikes towards incremental prospects, is, worked out, now at Rs.3080/- (Rs.4620-Rs.1540/- (1/3rd of the income of the deceased). In sequel whereto, the annual dependency, of the dependents, upon, the income of the deceased, is, computed, at Rs.3080/- x 12=Rs.36,960/-. After applying thereon the apposite multiplier of 15, the, total compensation amount, is assessed in a sum of Rs.36,960 x 15=Rs.5,54,400/- (Rs. Five lacs, fifty four thousands and four hundred only).

9. Furthermore the learned tribunal concerned, in conflict with the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, assessed a sum of Rs. 10,000/-, under, the head "Loss of estate" a sum of Rs. 10,000/- under the head of "Funeral charges", a sum of Rs.5,000/-, under the head "Transportation Charges" and a sum of Rs. Rs.10,000/- under the head "loss of consortium, to, petitioner No.1". Consequently, the assessment of compensation, under, the head "Transportation charges" borne, in a sum of Rs. Five thousand, vis-a-vis, the claimants is set aside, whereas, quantification of compensation, under, the head "funeral expenses" in a sum of Rs.10,000/-, vis-a-vis, the claimants, is, increased to Rs.15,000/-, as also, the quantification of compensation, under, the head "loss of consortium to petitioner No.1" borne in a sum of Rs.10,000/-, is increased to Rs.40,000/-, and, further quantification of compensation under the head "Loss of Estate" borne in a sum of Rs.10,000/-, is, increased to Rs.15,000/-.

10. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the insurer is dismissed, and, the cross-objections instituted by the cross-objectors/claimants are partly allowed, and, the impugned award, is, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified. Accordingly, the petitioners, are, held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.6,24,400/- (Rs. Six lacs, twenty four thousands and four hundred only), along with pending and future interest @7.5 % per annum, from, the date of petition till the date, of, deposit, of the compensation amount. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted in the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. Compensation amount be apportioned, amongst the claimants as ordered by the learned tribunal. The share of the minor petitioner No.2 (respondents No. 2 herein), shall remain invested, in FDRs, upto, the stage of his attaining majority. However, interest accrued thereon, shall be releasable vis-a-vis his mother, only when she explains, of, its being required, for, the upkeep and benefit of the minor child. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

For Respondent No.2: Mr. Anirudh Sharma, Advocate.
Respondent No.3 to 5 already ex-parte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal stands directed by the aggrieved insurer/appellant herein, against the award pronounced, upon, Claim Petition No. 16-S/2 of 2011, (i) whereunder, vis-a-vis, the compensation amount, as stood determined qua the claimant/respondent No.1 herein, the, apt indemnificatory liability thereof, hence stood fastened, upon, it, (ii) whereas the claimant/respondents No.1 herein/cross-objector, also prefer cross-objections, vis-a-vis, the impugned award, whereunder, she seeks enhancement, of, compensation amount.

2. The liability, for, liquidating the compensation amount, as, assessed under the impugned award, stands fastened, upon, the insurer of the offending vehicle. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer/appellant herein has contended with much vigour, before, this Court, that, (i) the affirmative findings recorded by the learned Tribunal, upon, the issue appertaining to the relevant mishap, being a sequel of rash and negligent manner of driving of the offending truck, by respondent No.3, rather suffering from, a, gross infirmity, (ii) given the learned tribunal concerned, mis-appraising the apposite evidence in respect thereof, as, existing on record. However, the afore submission, cannot be accepted, as in consonance with the pleadings appertaining to the afore issue, and, in pleading whereof, a graphic and pointed averment is reared, vis-a-vis (a) qua the injured occupying, the, pillion of the motor cycle bearing No. HP-14-A-4320, (b) and, also qua upon the afore motorcycle being stopped, on the katcha portion of the road, whereat one Bharati, sister of the claimant/petitioner was standing, and, awaiting, the, handingover, to, her of a medical prescription slip, (c) and, thereat, the, offending truck bearing No. HP-68-1116, rather coming from the front side, and, striking against the motor cycle, driven by one Rakesh Thakur. Since, the claimant during the course of her examination-in-chief, has, tendered her affidavit, borne in Ex. PW2/A, affidavit whereof, carries averments, bearing, consonance, with, the afore averments, cast in the apposite petition, (d) and, during the course her cross-examination, hers remaining unscathed, (e) besides when other ocular witnesses to the occurrence, PW-3, PW-4, and, PW-5 also supporting the testification rendered qua the ill fated occurrence, by PW-2, (f) significantly also when during the course of their respective cross-examination(s), their testimonies comprised in their respective examination(s)-in-chief, rather remained unshattered, (g) thereupon, with, evident inter se corroboration rather erupting inter se, the, testifications rendered by PW-1, and, by PW3 to PW-5, thereupon, it is to be concluded, that, the ill-fated mishap, was a sequel, of rash and negligent manner of driving, of, the offending vehicle by its driver, (h) conspicuously, when, the, FIR lodged qua the occurrence, and, borne in Ex.PW1/A, firmly echoes therein qua an incriminatory role, being fastened upon the driver of the offending truck, hence, the affirmative findings hence recorded by the learned tribunal, vis-a-vis, the afore factum, do not suffer, from any infirmity.

3. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer has proceed to contend with much vigour before this Court (i) that with, the, permit issued, vis-a-vis the offending truck, and, embodied in Ex.RW1/A, and, it remaining alive w.e.f. 25.8.2008 to 24.08.2009, hence, apparently, though, the ill-fated mishap, occurred prior thereto, and, though hence the afore permit was alive, in contemporaneity therewith, (ii) yet the mere factum of its being in vogue, in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the ill-fated occurrence, rather not befittingly rendering it, to also, engender a further inference qua the offending truck, in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the ill fated mishap also carrying, the relevant fitness certificate, (iii) whereupon, alone it was rendered both, roadworthy, and, also fit to ply on the road. He submits that hence there was a dire necessity cast, upon, the owner of the offending truck, to, place on record, the apt fitness certificate. He submits that the necessity, of, the offending truck, throughout and all times hence possessing a valid fitness certificate, to, hence render fully efficacious the apposite permit, and, the registration certificate, is, a sequel, of, the mandatory statutory provisions, borne in Section 56, of, the Motor Vehicles Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> (1) Subject to the provisions of sections 59 and 60, a transport vehicle shall not be deemed to be validly registered for the purposes of section 39, unless it carries a certificate of fitness in such form containing such particulars and information as may be prescribed by the Central Government, issued by the prescribed authority, or by an authorized testing station mentioned in sub-section (2), to the effect that the vehicle complies for the time being with all the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder:
>
> Provided that where the prescribed authority or the "authorized testing station" refuses to issue such certificate, it shall supply the owner of the vehicle with its reasons in writing for such refusal.
>
> (2) The "authorized testing station" referred to in sub-section (1) means a vehicle service station or public or private garage which the State Government, having regard to the experience, training and ability of the operator of such station or garage and the testing equipment and the testing personnel therein, may specify in accordance with the rules made by the Central Government for regulation and control of such stations or garages.
>
> (3) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (4), certificate of fitness shall remain effective for such period as may be prescribed by the Central Government having regard to the objects of this Act.
> (4) The prescribed authority may for reasons to be recorded in writing cancel a certificate of fitness at any time, if satisfied that the vehicle to which it relates no longer complies with all the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder; and on such cancellation the certificate of registration of the vehicle and any permit granted in respect of the vehicle under Chapter V shall be deemed to be suspended until a new certificate of fitness has been obtained:

1[Provided that no such cancellation shall be made by the prescribed authority unless such prescribed authority holds such technical qualification as may be prescribed or where the prescribed authority does not hold such technical qualification on the basis of the report of an officer having such qualifications.]

(5) A certificate of fitness issued under this Act shall, while it remains effective be valid throughout India."

The afore submission addressed before this Court, has vigour, and, is supported by a judgement rendered, by the Full Bench of Kerala High Court, in MACA No.2030 of 2015, and, other connected cases, the relevant paragraphs Nos. 16 and 17, whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

"16. Importance of the fitness/road worthiness of a vehicle, right from the time of registration of the vehicle, is further discernible from Rule 47 of the Central Motor Vehicles Rules 1989 [referred to as Central Rules]. The said Rule deals with application for registration of motor vehicles, which, among other things, stipulates that it shall be accompanied by various documents. Under sub-rule (1) (g), it is mandatory to produce road worthiness certificate in Form 22 from the manufacturers [Form 22A from the body builders]. On completing the formalities/procedures, 'Certificate of Registration' is to be issued in terms of Rule 48 of the Central Rules in Form 23/23A, as the case may be. The said Rule contains a proviso, insisting that, when Certificate of Registration pertains to a transport vehicle, it shall be handed over to the registered owner only after recording the Certificate of Fitness in Form 38. Validity of the Certificate of Fitness is only to the extent as envisaged under Rule 62 of the Central Rules, which mandates, as per the proviso, that the renewal of a Fitness Certificate shall be made only after the Inspecting Officer or authorised Testing Station as referred to in sub Section 1 of Section 56 MACA No. 2030 of 2015 and connected cases of the Act has carried out the test specified in the table given therein.

17. The stipulations under the above provisions clearly substantiate the importance and necessity to have a valid Fitness Certificate to the transport vehicle at all times. The above prescription converges on the point that Certificate of Registration, existence of valid Permit and availability of Fitness Certificate, all throughout, are closely interlinked in the case of a transport vehicle and one requirement cannot be segregated from the other. The transport vehicle should be completely fit and road worthy, to be plied on the road, which otherwise may cause threat to the lives and limbs of passengers and the general public, apart from damage to property. Only if the transport vehicle is having valid Fitness Certificate, would the necessary Permit be issued in terms of Section 66 of the Act and by virtue of the mandate under Section 56 of the Act, no transport vehicle without Fitness Certificate will be deemed as a validly registered vehicle for the purpose of Section 39 of the Act, which stipulates that nobody shall drive or cause the motor vehicle to be driven without valid registration in public place or such other place, as the case may be. These requirements are quite 'fundamental' in nature; unlike a case where a transport vehicle carrying more passengers than the permitted capacity or a goods carriage carrying MACA No. 2030 of 2015 and connected cases excess quantity of goods than the permitted extent or a case where a transport vehicle was > plying through a deviated route than the one shown in the route permit which instances could rather be branded as 'technical violations'. In other words, when a transport vehicle is not having a Fitness Certificate, it will be deemed as having no Certificate of Registration and when such vehicle is not having Permit or Fitness Certificate, nobody can drive such vehicle and no owner can permit the use of any such vehicle compromising with the lives, limbs, properties of the passengers/general public. Obviously, since the safety of passengers and general public was of serious concern and consideration for the law makers, appropriate and adequate measures were taken by incorporating relevant provisions in the Statute, also pointing out the circumstances which would constitute offence; providing adequate penalty. This being the position, such lapse, if any, can only be regarded as a fundamental breach and not a technical breach and any interpretation to the contrary, will only negate the intention of the law makers."

(I) and when the afore purported want of fitness certificate, vis-a-vis, the offending vehicle, imperatively in contemporaneity, to, the accident, dehors its possessing, a, valid route permit or, a, valid registration certificate, rather stands pronounced therein hence to constitute, a, fundamental breach of the insurance policy, thereupon, the counsel, for the the insurer espouses that, on afore anvil, he is facilitated to rear a valid and tangible exculpatory plea.

4. Even though, the afore submission has immense vigour. However, despite, the owner not placing on record, the apt fitness certificate, vis-a-vis, the offending vehicle, (i) conspicuously, the, one issued in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the issuance of the afore permit, (ii) yet the counsel appearing for the insurance before the tribunal, who intended to therefrom, hence, derive, the apt exculpatory benefit, was rather enjoined, to, seek adduction from the records, of, the RLA concerned, the apt fitness certificate, issued in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the issuance, of the afore permit, qua the offending vehicle. However, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer, before the learned tribunal, omitted to make the aforesaid endeavour, hence, for wants thereof, an adverse inference, is drawable against the insurer, (iii) whereupon, the insurer is estopped to rear the aforesaid contention before this Court, nor the insurer can escape, from, the apt indemnificatory liability, as, stands hence fastened, upon, it.

5. The driving licence of the driver of the offending vehicle, is, borne in Ex.R-1, and, upon its perusal, it is evident qua its being valid, from 14.08.2007 to 10.05.2010, hence, the validity of the driving licence also visibly covered the period, whereat, the relevant mishap occurred. The learned counsel appearing fo the insurer has contended (i) that with RW-2, the clerk concerned of the RLA concerned, werefrom the afore driving licence stood hence issued, rather during, the course of his cross-examination hence making an admission, that, the endorsement made thereon, vis-a-vis, the holder thereof, being authorised to drive HTV, hence not existing in the apt register maintained, in, the RLA concerned, (ii) thereupon, the afore endorsement occurring in Ex. R-1, being belied, (iii) and, thereupon, the driver concerned was not authorised, to, drive the offending vehicle. However, the afore submission cannot be accepted, (iv) as no further evidence stands adduced qua Ex.R-1, not carrying, the authentic seal(s), and, signatures of the RLA concerned, nor evidence stand adduced qua it not standing issued from the RLA concerned, (v) rather with RW-2 making a clear testification qua Ex.R-1 standing issued, from, their office. In aftermath, for want of adduction, of, the aforesaid evidence, thereupon, merely upon, the apposite endorsement, made in EX.R-1, whereunder, its holder stood hence authorised to drive a HTV, hence not occurring, in the register maintained with the RLA concerned, (vi) yet, cannot render the aforesaid endorsement hence being construable to be false. (vii) Contrarily, the afore want of, any, compatible entry therewith being borne in the apt register, can be construable to be merely a ministerial omission, wherefrom, no capital hence can be derived by the insurer.

6. The claimant/respondents No.1 herein, through, cross-objections bearing No. 48 of 2017, strived, to seek enhancement of compensation, as, assessed qua her. A incisive perusal of the impugned award, reveals, that the learned Tribunal concerned, after going through material placed before it, had assessed adequate compensation, borne in a sum of Rs.7,70,000/-, vis-a-vis, the claimant/respondent No.1 herein. Moreover, when the claimant/respondent No.1 in her apposite petition, has claimed compensation, borne in a sum of Rs.8 lacs only. Consequently, the assessment of compensation, vis-a-vis, the claimant/respondent No.1 herein, by the learned tribunal concerned, in the sum aforesaid, does not suffer, from any infirmity. Consequently, there is no merit in the cross-objections.

7. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the insurer, as also, the cross-objections instituted by the cross-objector/claimant, are dismissed, and, the impugned award, is, maintained and affirmed. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

(Paras-7 to 10)

For the appellant: Mr. Adarsh Vashisht, Advocate.
For the respondent: Mr. Bhender Kumar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant appeal stands directed, against, the verdict pronounced, by, the learned First Appellate Court, whereunder, it, after partly allowing the defendant's appeal, as reared therebefore, rather hence affirmed, the decree, rendered, by the learned Civil Judge (Junior Division), Sarkaghat, District Mandi, vis-a-vis, the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, whereas it reversed, the relief of mandatory injunction, recorded, vis-a-vis, the suit property, by the learned trial Judge. The aggrieved therefrom, has, hence preferred the instant appeal, before this Court.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the parties to the suit along with other co-sharers were joint owners in possession of land comprising khewat No. 145, khatauni No. 241, khasra No. 2188, 2194 and measuring 0-06-89 hectares, situated in village Jamsai/226, Tehsil Sarkaghat, District Mandi. The defendant had purchased 9/135 share of Smt. Satya Devi of the suit land and thus he had become joint owner of the same along with the plaintiff and other co-sharers. On 12.6.1999, the defendant constructed a Dhara towards front side of khasra No. 2195/1 with a motive to occupy the best and valuable portion of the suit land. Despite fact that partition case was pending before the Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Sarkaghat. The plaintiff prayed for a decree of permanent prohibitory injunction for restraining the defendant from raising construction over the suit land till partition and for mandatory injunction directing the defendant to demolish the Dhara constructed by him.

3. The defendant contested the suit. He filed written statement, wherein he alleged that the joint land was partitioned among the co-sharers in a private partition, all the co-sharers had been coming in separate possession of their respective share since the time of private partition. The defendant had purchased share of Smt. Satya Devi and thus he become joint owner in possession of the suit land. The defendant had raised construction on a portion, which was in possession of Smt. Satya Devi. Thus, the construction was within his own share. The defendant also contested the suit on preliminary objection such as cause of action, non-joinder of necessary parties and estoppel. In nut shell the defendant refuted the case of the plaintiff and he prayed for dismissal of the suit.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the suit land is joint interse the parties? OPP.
2. Whether the defendant has raised construction over the part of suit land i.e. of plaintiff and other co-sharers to the prejudice of plaintiff? OPP.
3. Whether the construction in the form of Dhara raised in khasra No. 1995/1 and 2195/1 is liable to be demolished? OPP.
4. Whether there is no cause of action for the plaintiff to file the present suit? OPD.
5. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act and conduct to file the present suit? OPD.
6. Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder of necessary party? OPD.
7. If issue No.1 is not proved whether suit has already been privately partitioned? OPD.
8. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court, hence decreed the plaintiff"s suit. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by the defendant, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court partly allowed the appeal, and, partly affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

6. Now the plaintiff has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, wherein, she, assails the findings recorded, in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, on 7.9.2007, this Court, admitted the appeal, on, the hereinafter extracted substantial questions, of, law:-

i) Whether the learned lower appellate Court being last court of facts is right in not discussing the entire oral as well as documentary evidence as required of it in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in 2000 (5) SCC page 652?

ii) Whether the impugned judgment and decree is result of complete misreading, mis-interpretation as well as mis-appreciation of statements of PW-1, PW-3 and of document exhibit PW-3/A?

iii) Whether the impugned judgment and decree is the result of non-consideration of law laid down with respect to raising of construction by co-sharers over a best portion of land until it is legally partitioned?.

Substantial questions of law No. 1 to 3.

7. Uncontrovertedly, the apt proceedings, for subjecting, the, undivided suit property, for dismemberment by metes and bounds, are, yet pending before the revenue officer concerned. However, prior thereto, the defendant, one Amrit Lal, purchased an area measuring 46 square meters, from, one of the co-sharers, in, the undivided suit property, namely one Smt. Satya Devi. The aforesaid purchase, of, land hence, holding an area measuring 46 square meters, and, as borne in the undivided suit property, rather occurred in the year 1997. Consequently, the defendant Amrit Lal became a co-sharer, in, the suit property. However, subsequent thereto, and, prior to the institution of the suit, he raised a Dhara, upon, the apt area in respect whereof, his alienor, had exclusive possession, (a) and, as a sequel thereof, the exclusive possession, of a part, of the undivided suit property, appears to stand capitalized, by one Amrit Lal, for, his hence proceeding to raise a Dhara thereon. It is a trite canon of law, (b) qua, till dismemberment(s), of, the undivided suit khasra number hence occurs, (c) no co-owner being empowered to make any exclusive use of any part, of, the undivided suit property, except with the consent, of, other recorded co-sharers. Moreover, till dismemberment, of, the undivided suit property hence occurs, thereupon any exclusivity of possession, qua any part of the undivided property, as held by any co-owner, is, rather unamenable, for, rearing any interpretation, (d) qua, it hence rather enabling the apt co-owner to subject, it, to his exclusive use, (e) imperatively, when the trite canon, rather underlying, the jurisprudential concept of joint property, is, qua community of possession and unity of title, hence, inhereing in all the recorded co-owners, vis-a-vis, the apt undivided suit property, (i) thereupon any holding, of, any exclusivity of possession, of, any part of the undivided suit property, by any co-sharer(s) being rather construable, qua his holding constructive possession thereof, even, for other co-owners. However, the aforesaid principle may suffer some dilution, upon, existence of direct evidence, and, its hence displaying qua, under a valid private partition, the apt possession of the contested parcel of land, rather being delivered, to the co-owner concerned. However, the aforesaid evidence, does not, exist on record, thereupon the aforesaid jurisprudential principle rather inhereing, the, concept of co-ownership, hence, continues to hold its sway.

8. Be that as it may, the defendant could well proceed to raise a Dhara, on, a portion of the undivided suit property, (i) upon, his establishing, qua the area thereunderneath hence falling to his share, in, the undivided suit property, (ii) besides his also establishing, qua the Dhara as raised, also falling within his share in the undivided suit property, (iii) it not occupying the best valuable portion, of, the undivided suit land. However, for determining whether apparently, the raising of a Dhara, on the undivided suit khasra number, hence standing borne in an area, falling beyond his apt share, and, also for further determining, qua the Dhara, as raised by him, upon, a part of the undivided suit property, hence comprising, the best valuable portion, of the undivided suit property, (iv) it is imperative to bear in mind, the, statement of PW-3, wherein he has echoed, qua the portion, of the undivided suit property, whereon the defendant, has raised the apt Dhara, rather not comprising, the, best valuable portion of the undivided suit khasra number, (v) besides with firm evidence existing on record, qua, the Dhara occupying an area of 12 square meters, of, the undivided suit property, (vi) whereas with defendant Amrit Lal being apparently, a, share holder, to, the extent of 46 square meters, (vii) thereupon the Dhara as raised, may hence be concluded, to, rather occur, not, upon the best valuable portion, of, the undivided suit property, besides also a conclusion is reared qua the Dhara rather occupying an area, hence falling within the share of Amrit Lal, in, the undivided suit property.

9. In aftermath, with partition proceedings, still pending, before the revenue officer concerned, and, merely a Dhara standing raised, on, the undivided suit property, thereupon the revenue officer concerned, is, directed, to, within three months, conclude the partition proceedings. Furthermore the above discussion also brings to the fore qua hence it being not appropriate, to invalidate the declining, by the learned first appellate Court, of, a decree, of, mandatory injunction, (a) yet, given, the pendency of the partition proceedings, before the revenue officer concerned, (b) thereupon for his ensuring qua the equities, inter-se, the, co-sharers concerned, vis-a-vis, the joint suit property being not disturbed, it is also deemed fit qua, hence, the decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, as rendered, against, the defendant, rather warranting validation. The substantial questions of law are answered accordingly.

10. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned first appellate Court, has appraised the entire evidence on record, in, a wholesome and harmonious manner, apart therefrom, the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court, does not suffer, from a gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation, and, non appreciation of evidence on record.

11. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the impugned judgment, is, affirmed and maintained. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith. No order as to costs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal is directed, against, the concurrently recorded verdicts by both the learned Courts below, whereby, the plaintiff's suit for rendition, of, a decree for declaration, as well as for, rendition of a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction qua the suit khasra number(s), was, hence dismissed.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiffs have filed a suit for declaration against the defendant to the effect that the plaintiffs are the owners in possession of land comprised in Khata No.47 min, Khatauni No.71, Khasra No.232, measuring 0-04-27 HM, as per jamabandi for the year 1995-96, situated in Mohal Lodwan, Mauza Bassa, Gudialan, Tehsil Nurpur, District Kangra, H.P., and that the defendant has no right, title or interest over the suit land and the revenue entries showing the defendant as Kabaz are illegal, null and void. The plaintiffs further prayed for consequential relief for permanent injunction and in the alternative, they have prayed for the vacant possession. It is alleged that the plaintiffs purchased the suit land from Sh. Dina Nath as per registered sale deed and they are at present owners in possession of the same. It is pleaded that the defendant is a clever person and in the absence and at the back and without the knowledge of the plaintiffs, illegally got the entry in Khata Kasht recorded his name inspite of the fact that he was never in possession of the suit land. It is alleged that revenue entries were changed without following any procedure. It is further pleaded that the defendant is a forceful person and on the basis of wrong revenue entries, threatening to interfere in the ownership and possession of the plaintiffs. It is alleged that the impugned revenue entries were not in their knowledge earlier, which came in their notice in the month of April, 1998, when the defendant started threatening the plaintiffs to dispossess them and the cause of action arose to them against the respondent. Hence the suit.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, he has taken preliminary objections inter alia maintainability, locus standi, cause of action etc. On merits, the case of the plaintiffs has been denied. It is pleaded that the defendant was a tenant of original owner Dina Nath. It is pleaded that defendant is coming in possession of the suit land and on coming into force the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, he became owner of the suit land on the prescribed day. It is pleaded that the sale deed is null and void as the possession of the defendant is continuous and was never transferred to the plaintiffs. It is pleaded that the entry of the defendant as Kabaz by the settlement officials, is not correct as the entry of the defendant as Gair Maurusi has wrongly been converted into Kabaz. The other allegations of the plaintiffs have been denied.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs are the owners in possession of the suit land, as alleged?OPP.
2. Whether the revenue entries depicting the defendant to be the Kabaz over the suit land, is wrong, null and void?OPP.
3. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.
4. Whether the defendant has become the owner of the suit land, under the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act? OPD.
5. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs/appellants herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by the plaintiffs/appellant herein, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed the appeal, and, affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

6. Now the plaintiffs/appellants herein, have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein they assail the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, this Court, on 19.12.2005 admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiffs/appellants, against, the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

a) Whether the impugned judgment and decree is the result of complete misreading, misinterpretation as well as misappreciation of mutation dated 21.8.1980 Ex. P4?

b) Whether the courts below are right in granting a relief to the defendant-respondent, who neither filed any counter claim nor had challenged the entry showing him to be kabiz with respect to the suit land?

c) Whether the impugned judgment and decree is the result of non-consideration of the provisions of Section 104 of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972?

d) Whether the impugned judgment and decree is the result of complete misreading, mis-appreciation of Ext. P-1 to P-5 and Ex. PW3/A the sale dated 19.10.1981?

e) Whether the learned Courts below are right in not taking into consideration the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court reported in 1969 PLJ, page 105?

f) Whether the learned courts below are right in holding the respondent-defendant to be tenant with respect to the suit land and having become owner after coming into force of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972, more particularly when the entries showing him only kabiz having not been assailed by the respondent-defendant nor any counter claim was filed by the respondent?

g) Whether the impugned judgment and decree is the result of complete misreading, misinterpretation as wel as mis-appreciation of Ex.P-4 mutation No.259 and Ext. P-5, jamabandi for the year 1966-67?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 to7:

7. The plaintiffs, are, under a registered deed of conveyance, hence vendees, of the suit khasra numbers. The declaratory relief claimed by the plaintiffs, the vendees, under a registered deed of conveyance, executed with them by one Dina Nath, registered deed of conveyance whereof, is borne in Ex.PW3/A, is, for deletion of any entry of "Kabaz" made vis-a-vis the defendants, in the jambandi, apposite vis-a-vis some of the suit khasra numbers. The sale deed executed with respect to khasra numbers, 238, 241, 243 and 247, on anvil whereof, the plaintiffs asserted acquisition of title thereon, would acquire, an aura of validity, only upon, the contention of the defendant/respondent, one Ram Swaroop, (i) that one Dina Nath, who had executed, it, as vendor, and, whereunder whom, he was a tenant, being defacilitated to execute it, (ii) given existence of an order of mutation borne in Ex.P-4, whereby, proprietary rights were conferred upon him, rather being declared to be null and void, and, besides being invalidated by this Court. The plaintiffs, however, did not contest the legality of the recording, of the order of mutation, borne in Ex.P-4, whereby proprietary rights qua khasra Nos. 235, 236, 388 and 390, were, thereunder bestowed, upon, one Ram Swaroop. Consequently, also when a perusal of Ex.P-4, discloses that the suit khasra numbers are not borne therein, thereupon, prima facie hence the plaintiffs, may succeed in de-establishing the contention of the defendant, of his, on anvil of Ex.P-4, rather scuttling the concert of the plaintiffs, of theirs, thereupon, acquiring a valid title vis-a-vis the khasra numbers, depicted in Ex.PW3/A.

8. Be that as it may, the revenue entries borne in the relevant records, especially, in the ones, immediately prior to the execution of Ex.PW3/A, on 19.10.1981, also enjoin an allusion thereto. Allusion thereto, is imperative, for making apt discernment(s) qua whether therein, the defendant/respondent, is reflected to be a tenant vis-a-vis those khasra numbers, in respect whereof Ex.PW3/A, hence stood executed, by his landlord with the plaintiffs. Ex.D-5, is the copy of jamabandi appertaining to the year 1973-74, the inference of its appertaining vis-a-vis the aforesaid years, is apparent, from, the apposite figure(s) being scribed in red ink, and, scribings thereof, being initialed by the official concerned. Since, the scribings, in red ink, of figures 1973/74 is visibly initialed, and, also when initialing thereof, is not concerted to be belied, by any efficacious evidence being concerted to be adduced, by the plaintiffs/appellants, (i) thereupon, it is to be firmly concluded that, Ex.D-5 appertains to the year 1973-74. Nowat with the H.P. Tenancy Land Reforms Act, coming into force w.e.f. 21st February, 1974, and, with the apt statutory provisions borne therein, prescribing automatic bestowments, in contemporaneity(ies) of its coming into force, of proprietary rights, vis-a-vis any recorded tenant, under the latters' landowner, (ii) and, also with paragraph No.13 of a judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in a case titled as Tarsem Lal and others vs. Ram Sarop and others reported in AIR 2014, S.C., 2087, making candid and loud echoings in consonance with the aforesaid factum, paragraph No.13 whereof stands extracted hereinafter:-

> "13. as per the aforesaid provision, all right, title and interest including a contingent interest of a land owner other than the land owner entitled to resume land under sub-section (1) shall be extinguished and all such rights, title and interest in respect of the land in question vest in the tenant, i.e. original plaintiff, free from all encumbrances from the date the Act came into force. The Act was published in the Office Gazettee on 21st February, 1974 vide Act NO.8 of 1974. What is not in dispute is that the original plaintiff became owner of the suit land by operation of law ans continued to enjoy all the rights including the right of irrigation from the common source which was in possession of the original landlord". (p.2089)

(i) thereupon, when a perusal of Ex. D-5, makes a clear, candid reflection, of one Ram Swaroop, being recorded as a tenant under Dina Nath, the vendor of Ex.PW3/A, (ii) thereupon with attraction hereat of the mandate, of the aforesaid judgement rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Tarsem Lal's case (supra), (iii) mandate whereof, is, qua in contemporaneity vis-a-vis 1974, and, upon evident unfoldments occurring in the apt thereat revenue records (iv) of one Ram Swaroop, rather being prior thereto, hence evidently being validly recorded as tenant under one Dina Nath, thereupon, the sale deed borne in Ex.PW3/A, and, executed on 19.10.1981, would be vitiated. (v) For fathoming, any, piercing applicability hereat, of, the aforesaid verdict, a close studied perusal of Ex.D-5, rather makes clear revelations qua vis-a-vis khasra numbers, borne in Ex.PW3/A, one Ram Swaroop, defendant/respondent being depicted as a tenant, under Dina Nath, the vendor of Ex.PW3/A. Since, Ex. D-5, appertains to the year(s), immediately prior to the coming into force, of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, hence with the mandate supra, expostulated, in a judgment pronounced by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Tarsem Lal's case (supra), (vi) qua in the year 1974, dehors, any order of mutation being recorded vis-a-vis conferment of proprietary rights, upon one Ram Swaroop, his rather being entitled, to automatic conferment, of proprietary rights vis-a-vis the suit khasra number(s), (viii) hence, even if, Ex. P-4 omits to detail the suit khasra number(s), yet apt omissions of delineation(s) thereof, hence neither eroding or affecting the applicability hereat, of the mandate pronounced, by the Hon'ble Apex Court, in Tarsem Lal's case (supra). In sequel, when all the depictions occurring in Ex. D-5, rather enjoy a presumption of truth, and, with no efforts being made by the plaintiffs/appellants herein, for, eroding the presumption of truth, enjoyed by reflections occurring therein, signficantly, of Ram Swaroop, being a tenant, under one Dina Nath, (ix) hence, with conclusivity standing acquired by the entries borne in Ex.D-5, reiteratedly, thereupon, the defendant/respondent, one Ram Swaroop, did, immediately on coming into force of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, in the year 1974, hence became clothed, with automatic vestment of statutory proprietary rights, vis-a-vis all khasra numbers borne in Ex.PW3/A. Concomitant sequel thereof, being of the landowner, whereunderwhom, he was reflected to be a tenant, being subsequent to 1974, standing debarred, to execute the registered deed of conveyance, vis-a-vis khasra number(s), borne in Ex.PW3/A, and, conspicuously with Ex.PW3/A, being executed belatedly from 1974, inasmuch as, on 19.10.1981, (x) hence, with one Dina Nath, for reasons aforestated, being divested of title vis-a-vis khasra numbers, in respect whereof, he executed a registered deed of conveyance, qua the plaintiffs, (xi) thereupon, the concurrently recorded pronouncements, by both the learned Courts below of Ex.PW3/A, hence, suffering from a pervasive, vice(s) of vitiation, and, its also standing pronounced to be invalid, is not, anvilled upon any mis-appreciation or non appreciation of the relevant material on record, and, also are within the ambit of the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court, recorded, in Tarsem Lal's case (supra).

9. Further more, the reflections, if any, in the jamabandis, of any suit khasra number(s), being reflected to be possessed by defendant/respondent, and, the said entry being amenable to be scored off, (i) on anvil of its being purportedly not preceded by any valid order, rendered by the revenue officers, (ii) also does not hold any tenacity, as any simplictor entry of one Ram Swaroop, being depicted, as, Kabaj, and, made subsequent to the making(s) of Exts.D-4, D-5, and, of D-6, is per invalid (iii) and conspicuously, evidently given his therein, being, reflected in the apposite column of rent, of, all jamabandis preceding therewith, to be defraying rent to the owner, rather being unamenable to effacement, unless the making vis-a-vis him, an entry of Kabaz, is, evidently preceded by a valid apposite order, (iv) whereupon, alone the entries borne in Exts.D-4, D-5, and D-6 rather would be annulled, whereas, evidence of apposite making(s) thereof, rather is grossly amiss hereat, (v) thereupon the entries borne in Exts. D-4, D-5, and, in Ext. D-6 hence enjoy conclusivity, given no potent evidence, being adduced for hence, , eroding their probative worth. In aftermath, when all the entries borne in Exts. D-4 to D-6 also appertain, to the khasra numbers reflected in Ex. PW3/A, thereupon, all the entries borne in Exts. D4 to D-6, and, as borne in preceding therewith jamabandis, rather are to be construable to enjoy an aura of conclusivity, (vi) contrarily, any subsequent thereto entry(ies), if any, made in respect of any suit khasra numbers, wherein, the respondent/defendant, is contrarily depicted to be kabaj, hence, cannot be conferred with any aura of legality.

10. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court, have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the respondent/defendant and against the appellants/plaintiffs.

11. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in the instant Regular Second Appeal and it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the judgements and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

Specific Relief Act, 1963- Sections 34 and 38- Suit for declaration and permanent prohibitory injunction -Plaintiff filing suit for declaration and claiming its ownership by way of adverse possession-Trial court dismissing his suit but First Appellate Court allowing his appeal and decreeing suit - RSA -In previous suit, predecessor of plaintiff declared to have become owner of suit land by adverse possession- Earlier suit was against Panchayat – Judgment attaining finality -Land devolved upon State from Panchayat under legislation- Held- State of H.P just being successor to erstwhile panchayat is bound by decree passed between parties in earlier litigation – State cannot take plea that it was not party in earlier suit - First appellate court rightly appreciated evidence on record and there is no infirmity in judgment and decree passed by it- Appeal dismissed- Decree of First Appellate Court upheld. (Paras 7 & 8).

For the Appellant: Mr. Yudhvir Singh Thakur, Deputy Advocate General.

For the Respondents: Mr. Rajneesh K. Lal, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal is directed, against, the impugned verdict recorded by the learned Additional District Judge (1), Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P., upon, Civil Appeal No. 46-D/03, whereby, he reversed the verdict of the learned trial Court, whereunder, the latter hence dismissed the plaintiffs' suit, for, rendition of a declaratory decree for quashing the apposite mutation, and, consequent therewith reflections, as, carried in the revenue record apposite to the suit land.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiffs have filed a suit for declaration to the effect that they are owners in possession of the land comprised in Khewat No. 245, Khatauni No.559, Khasra Nos. 7, 35, 36, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 59, 50, 51, 53 to 62, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 74, 668, 1039 (30 lots), measuring 2-13-46 hects. Of Mohal Bagani Mauza Sidhbari, Tehsil Dharamsala, District Kangra, H.P. and the defendant has no right, title or interest in the above mentioned land and with a consequential relief of permanent injunction restraining the defendant from interfering with the suit land in any manner whatsoever. It is submitted that the plaintiffs entered in possession of the suit land as per the jamabandi for the year 1995-96. Rukmani widow of Sukh Ram had died and only the plaintiffs are her legal representatives. The aforesaid suit land, earlier was entered in the ownership of Shamlat deh in accordance with the share of the proprietors in Shamlat, i.e., entry was Hasab Rasad Malguzari and the land was recorded in possession of Smt. Radho and Smt. Isho as tenants and one Ganesha was shown as their sub-tenant. Thereafter, Sh. Sudama and others, 170 co-sharers (proprietors) executed a gift deed of 29.8.1912 in favour of Mr. Stanley Duntze Turner was entered in the possession of this land. Mr. Turner was also a co-sharer in the Shamlat area being an owner of Sidhbari Tea-Estate. Mr. Turner filed a suit for partition of Shamlat area land and in order to compromise that suit, the Zamindars of the Village Sidhbari agreed to relinquish their rights, title and interest in the suit land in favour of Mr. Turner. After the death of Mr. Turner his brother Mr. Stephon Davis Rilly Duntze Turner, became the owner and in possession of the suit land and then sold the land to Sh. Sukh Ram, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs for a valid consideration of Rs.27,000/-. Thereafter, the land mentioned above was entered in the ownership of Shamlat-deh- Hasab-Rasad-Malguzari and in possession of Sukh Ram Dass, predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs, as a tenant. It is significant to mention here that Sh. Sukh Ram Dass or Mr. Turner, never paid any rent etc., to the proprietory body or any other person with respect to the suit land. The land subsequently recorded in the ownership of Gram Panchayat an thereafter in the ownership of State of H.P., due to promulgations of various Acts of the State, but actually the plaintiffs or their predecessors-in-interest remained in possession of the suit land in assertion of their ownership rights. The plaintiffs or their predecessor-in-interest never accepted the rights of Gram Panchayat or State of H.P. The Gram Panchayat filed a suit title as Gram Panchayat Sidhbari vs. Sukh

Ram in the Court of Senior Sub Judge, Kangra at Dharamsala with respect to the suit land and this civil suit was dismissed by the learned Senior Sub Judge, Kangra at Dharamsala on 20.2.1957 and it was held that Sh. Sukh Ram Dass or his successors-in-interest had become owner of the suit land by way of adverse possession. In an appeal preferred therefrom by the Gram Panchayat Sidhbari before the High Court of Punjab State at Chandigarh, the latter Curt dismissed the appeal and it was held that Sh. Sukh Ram Dass or his successors-in-interests have become the owners of the suit land. It is submitted that the judgment of the High Court is binding upon the defendant, and the defendants/s name have wrongly been entered in the ownership column of the latest records after the passing of judgment of Hon'ble High Court. Sukh Ram died during the pendency of the earlier litigation and the plaintiffs are now the only legal heirs of Sh. Sukh Ram and Smt. Rukmani, widow of Sukh Ram had also died and the plaintiff are her only legal representatives. Hence the suit.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statements, wherein, they have taken preliminary objections qua locus standi, cause of action, maintainability, non joinder of necessary parties, time barred, valuation, estoppel etc.. On merits, it is submitted that the suit land belongs to the State of H.P. and as such plaintiffs have no right, title or interest over the same. The land in dispute was recorded in the ownership of Panchayat Deh prior to the settlement and that was vested in the State of H.P. under the H.P. Village Common Land Vesting and Utilization Act, 1974 and accordingly the land was mutated in the name of the State of H.P. The mutation in favour of the State was never challenged before the competent authority within the prescribed period. The plaintiffs have filed this uit to take advantage of wrong revenue entries and as such is required to be put to the strict proof as no presumption of truth can be attached to wrong entries. The suit land is in exclusive ownership and possession of the State of H.P. It is denied that the plaintiffs and their predecessors-in-interest ever remained in possession of the suit land. The suit land is exclusively owned and possessed by the State of H.P. The State of H.P. was never a party to the suit decided by the learned Senior Sub Judge, Kangra on 20.2.1957. Moreover, the land in suit was vested to the State of H.P. , free from all encumbrances under the H.P. Village Common Land Vesting and Utilization Act, 1974. It is submitted that the State of H.P., was never a party to first appeal No.194/57 decided by the Hon'ble Division Bench of Punjab High Court on dated 6.4.1963. Moreover, the decree, if any, passed by the Civil Court is not executable against the State being not a party to the decree.

4. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiffs are owner in possession of the suit land as per jamabandi 1995-96, as alleged? OPP
2. Whether the plaintiffs are entitled for the relief of permanent injunction against the defendant on the suit land as alleged ?OPP.
3. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action to file the present suit? OPD.
4. Whether the plaintiffs' suit is not maintainable? OPD.
5. Whether the suit of plaintiff is bad for nonjoinder of necessary parties? OPD.
6. Whether the suit is time barred? OPD.
7. Whether this Court has no jurisdiction to entertain the present suit? OPD.

8. Whether no legal notice U/s. 80 CPC was served to defendants? OPD.

9. Whether the plaintiff is estopped by his act and conduct to file the present suit? OPD.

10. Relief.

5. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court hence dismissed the plaintiffs' suit. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by the plaintiffs/respondents herein, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court allowed the appeal, and, reversed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

6. Now the defendant/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein it assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, this Court, on 16.05.2008, admitted the appeal instituted by the defendant/appellant, against, the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether the civil court can exercise the jurisdiction when there is specific bar under the H.P. Village Common Land Act, 1975 and the said act has provided the provision of appeal, revision, review etc.

2. Whether the first appellate Court and the trial Court can entertain the suit after the period of limitation.

Substantial questions of Law No.1 and 2:

7. Mr. Yudhvir Singh Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General appearing on behalf, of, the appellant/State, has, contended with much vigour (a) that the judgment, and, decree rendered, by, the Hon'ble High Court of Punjab at Chandigarh, verdict whereof, is, comprised in Ex.PW1/D, whereunder, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs was hence declared, to, by prescription, arising, from his establishing qua his, with, an animus possedendi, rather holding open, continuous and hostile possession thereof, and, to knowledge, of, the plaintiff therein, namely Gram Panchayat Sidhbari, (b) rather to hence acquire title, vis-a-vis, the suit land, except qua two khasra number i.e. Kh. Nos. 74 and 1039, (c) has been fallaciously placed reliance, by, the learned First Appellate Court, qua its also holding the apposite binding effect even, upon, the State, despite, the State of Himachal Pradesh, remaining not arrayed therein, as, a litigant, in the apposite array, of, litigating parties. Since, the binding and conclusive effect of Ex.PW1/B, is, strived to be eroded, merely, for non impleadment of the State of H.P., as a litigant, in the array of litigating parties, in the judgement, borne in Ex.PW1/D, (d) thereupon apart from the aforesaid, it is not deemed imperative, to, either dwell into or mete any adjudication, vis-a-vis, the trite factum, of, the predecessor-in-interest, of the plaintiffs, one Sukh Ram, who, is, arrayed therein, as, defendant/respondent, being or being not validly declared, to, by adverse possession hence become owner thereof, (e) invalidity whereof may arise, from, the verdict borne in Ex.PW1/D, being evidently obtained, by the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs, by his, practising suppressio veri or suggestio falsi, factum whereof remains neither pleaded nor any evidence in consonance therewith, stands adduced. Nowat, in making, a determination, in respect, of, the conclusive, and, binding effect, of Ex.PW1/D, upon, the appellant/State of H.P., on anvil, of, it being not therein arrayed as a litigant, in, the array of litigating parties, (f) the imperative factum probandum, of, a statutory contemplation, being, borne in Section 4, of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, 1961, and, its, squarely envisaging, the, vestment in the Panchayat deh concerned, of land(s) classified in the revenue Record, as, Shamlat deh, (g) hence with the Gram Panchayat Sidhbari, whereonwhom, the apposite statutory vestment, of, lands classified as Shamlat deh, was, rather to be made, (h) thereupon, when hence, the appropriate entity whereonwhom, the, apposite statutory vestment, of land classified, as, Shamlat deh, in the apt revenue record, was to be hence made, rather obviously stood arrayed, as, plaintiff/appellant, in, the verdict borne in Ex.PW1/D, (I) In aftermath, the imperative corollary thereof, being qua with the Panchayat Deh concerned, when visibly was pursuing, its, statutory cause, in, the earlier lis, especially, vis-a-vis, the statutory vestment, upon it, of, the suit kahsra numbers borne therein, all whereof, except khasra numbers 74 and 1039, hold analogity, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra numbers hereat, (i) thereupon, the mere non impleadment of the State of H.P., as, a litigant in the apposite array of litigants, in the previous lis, whereon verdict borne in Ex.PW1/D, was pronounced, would not either denude nor dwindle either the efficacy thereof, nor belittle its conclusive, and, binding effect, even upon, the State of H.P., dehors it remaining unimpleaded, as a litigant in the apposite array, of, litigants in Ex.PW1/D. Provisions of Section 4 of the Punjab Village Common Lands (Regulation) Act, 1961 stand extracted hereinafter:-

> 4. Vesting of rights in Panchayats and non-proprietors. - (1) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in any other law for the time being in force or in any agreement, instrument, custom or usage or any decree or order of any court or other authority, all rights, title and interests whatever in the land:-
> > (a) which is included in the shamilat deh of any village and which has not vested in a panchayat under the shamilat law shall, at the commencement of this Act, vest in a panchayat constituted for, such,village, and, where no such panchayat, has been constituted for such village; vest in the panchayat on such date, as a panchayat having jurisdiction over that village is constituted;
> >
> > (b) which is situated within or outside the abadi deh of a village and which is under the house owned by a non-proprietor, shall on the commencement of the shamilat law, be deemed to have been vested in such non-proprietor.
>
> (2) Any land which is vested in a panchayat under the shamilat law shall be deemed to have been vested in the panchayat under this Act.
>
> (3) Nothing contained in clause (a) of sub-section (1)and in sub-section (2) shall affect or sholl' be deemed ever to hove
>
> > (I) existing rights, title or interest of persons who though not entered as occupancy tenants in the revenue records are accorded a similar status by custom or otherwise, such as Dholidars, Bhondedars, Butimars, Bosikhuopahus, Saunjidars, Muqararidars;
> >
> > (ii) rights of persons in cultivating possession of shamilat deh for more than twelve years without payment of rent or by payment of charges not exceeding the land revenue and cesses payable thereon;
> > (iii) rights of a mortagee to whom such land is mortgaged with possession before, the 26th January, 1950."

8. Mr. Y.S. Thakur, learned Deputy Advocate General also submits (i) that with a statutory bar, standing encapsulated, in Section 10 of the H.P. Village Common Land Vesting and Utilization Act, 1975, against, any order made within the ambit of the aforesaid Act, by any revenue officer, exercising jurisdiction thereunder, being unamenable, for redressal, through a civil suit, being instituted, before the Civil Court concerned, (ii) thereupon, the exercise of jurisdiction, by both the learned courts below, upon, the extant suit, being, in open transgression, of, the mandate, of the apt statutory bar engrafted, in apt statutory provisions borne, in Section 10 of the H.P. Village Common Land Vesting, and, Utilization Act, 1975, (iii) besides the verdict pronounced by the learned First Appellate Court, being vitiated, for want of jurisdictional empowerment. However, the aforesaid contention addressed, before, this Court by the learned Deputy Advocate General, is, rudderless, (iv) especially when the apposite order, hence, vesting the suit land, in the panchayat deh concerned, is, for the trite reason, of, its making, rather arising from apt gross derogation(s), from, the conclusive, and, binding verdict, as, rendered in a previous lis, inter se the Panchayat deh concerned, and, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiffs, (v) thereupon, it acquired, an, entrenched vigour of nonest, besides voidness, (vi) hence dehors any statutory bar standing engrafted, in Section 10 of the H.P. Village Common Land Vesting, and, Utilization Act, provisions whereof are extracted hereinafter, it remained yet challengeable, by the plaintiffs, through, theirs casting hence a civil suit before the civil court concerned, (vii) conspicuously, when, the apposite bar is attractable only, vis-a-vis, orders made under apt exercise, of statutory jurisdiction, and, theirs being only afflicted, with, the vices of the imperative principle of audi alterm partem, being infringed or with vices, of, mis-appreciation or non appreciation, of admissible and relevant evidence, or qua orders which do not digress or depart, from, the apt statutory mandate nor depart or transgress, the, mandate, of, previously recorded verdicts, by any civil Court, vis-a-vis, suit khasra numbers, borne in the previous lis, and, khasra numbers whereof, hold, commonality, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra numbers hereat. Provisions of Section 10 of the H.P. Village Common Land Vesting and Utilization Act, read as under:-

> "10. Bar of jurisdiction.-Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, no order made by the Collector or the State Government or any officer authorised by it, as the case may be, shall be called in question by any court or before any officer or authority."

In other words, the statutory bar constituted, in, the apt provisions, borne in Section 10 of the H.P. Village Common Land Vesting and Utilization Act, against, the apt availment, of, a civil remedy, by the aggrieved, against any order made under the aforesaid Act, (a) is, neither attractable, vis-a-vis, any invalidly made orders, or orders made, in gross transgression, of, verdicts, pronounced by civil court, in an earlier lis, inter se, litigants, all of whom alike therewith also hold apparent commonality hereat, (b) also, when the suit khasra numbers borne therein, hold, the requisite apparent commonality, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra numbers hereat, (c) whereupon, hence with the principle of res judicata being attracted, application thereof, being enjoined, to, be made, only, by the civil courts concerned.

9. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court, has not, excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the respondents/plaintiffs, and, against the appellant/defendant.

10. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the judgment and decree rendered by the learned Additional District Judge (I), Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P. in Civil Appeal No. 46-D/03 is affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The Insurer of the offending vehicle, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, it, casts challenge, upon, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Hamirpur, H.P., upon, MAC Petition No. 86 of 2015, whereunder, compensation amount comprised, in, a sum of Rs.12,33,000/- along with interest accrued thereon, at the rate of 6% per annum, commencing from, the date of petition till realization thereof, stood, assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimants, and, the apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, was, fastened upon the insurer. The compensation amount was ordered to equally apportioned amongst the claimants, and, the amount falling to the share of minor respondents No.2, and 3, was ordered to invested in a fixed deposit, drawn in their names, in any nationalized bank, till theirs attaining majority.

2. The learned counsel appearing, for the insurance company, does not contest the affirmative findings rendered, upon, the issue appertaining to the demise of the deceased, being a sequel, of, the offending vehicle being driven in, a, rash and negligent manner by its driver, one Anil Kumar. However, the learned counsel appearing for the insurance company, has, made a serious challenge, vis-a-vis, the fastening of the apposite indemnificatory liability, upon it, and, its challenge is hinged, upon, (a) apt reading, of, the definition of "goods", borne in Section 2 (13) of the Motor Vehicles Act, definition whereof stands extracted hereinafter:

> "(13) "goods" includes livestock, and any thing (other than equipment ordinarily used with the vehicle) carried by a vehicle except living persons, but does not include luggage or personal effects carried in a motor car or in a trailer attached to a motor car or the personal luggage of passengers traveling in the vehicle;"

besides, is, hinged, upon, the provisions borne, in Section 147(1)(b) (i) of the Motor Vehicles Act, the apt provisions whereof, stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "147. Requirements of policies and limits of liability. - (1) In order to comply with the requirements of this Chapter, a policy of insurance must be a policy which-
>
> (a).....
>
> (b) insurer the person or classes of persons specified in the policy to the extent specified in sub-section (2)-
> (i) against any liability which may be incurred by him in respect of death of or bodily (injury to any person, including owner of the goods or his authorised representative carried in the vehicle) or damage to any property of third party caused by or arising out of the use of the vehicle in a public peace;"

(a) wherefrom he submits, qua the befitting connotation(s), as, acquired thereof, is, qua the necessity of the deceased, at the relevant time, not only owning the goods, as, thereat borne in the vehicle concerned, but also it being imperatively enjoined, to be, established, by cogent evidence qua at the relevant time, the relevant goods, being borne thereon, and, the mere carrying, in, the apt vehicle, of, luggage, or, personal effects, of, the deceased, being insufficient, to make any construction qua his, at, the relevant time, rather traveling in the apt vehicle, as owner thereof. Consequently, he contends that bearing in mind, the aforesaid signification, as, acquired by the statutory phrase "owner of goods", thereupon, the factum of the deceased after selling his livestock(s), his rather returning in the offending vehicle, upto the place, wherefrom, he commenced his journey, hence not rendering him amenable to be construable, to be the owner, of, goods, emphatically during the course of his performing therein, the apt return journey, (a) given no goods thereat being carried thereon, nor obviously his being construed to be owner thereof, rather his being construed to be a gratuitous passenger, whereupon, the fastening of the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer, was grossly inapt.

3. The learned counsel appearing, for, the insurer for strengthening the aforesaid espousal, has placed reliance, upon, a verdict of this Court rendered in a case titled as National Insurance Company v/s Maghi Ram and others, reported in Latest HLJ 2009 (HP) 532. The aforesaid submission, does prima facie, on, its facade, does hold some gravity, yet the vigour, of, the aforesaid espousal, is, waned by the factum (a) in the aforesaid judgment relied, upon, by the counsel for the insurer, though secure apt findings rather occur, wherethrough, this court, had, negatived the apposite owner's espousal, qua his hiring, the, offending vehicle, for enabling him to load therein, empty wooden crates, upon, the vehicle travelling upto Kalka. The aforesaid stand projected by the owner concerned, stood negatived, for reasons ascribed therein, reasons whereof, are hinged, upon, want of evidence in support thereto, thereupon, the judgment relied upon by the learned counsel, for the insurer hence cannot be capitalized by him, to make any valid projection, vis-a-vis, it propagating any binding ratio decidendi, qua, the imperative necessity, of, emphatic proof emerging qua, at, the relevant time, the apt owner being borne in the offending vehicle, as, owner of goods, or also qua in contemporaneity thereto, the, apt goods also being loaded therein. Furthermore, the effect of the aforesaid espousal, is omnibusly, negatived by a judgment of this Court, rendered in a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Kamla and others, reported in 2011 ACJ 1550, wherein, this Court while meteing deference, to, the verdict rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court, in a case tilted as National Insurance Co. Ltd. Versus Cholleti Bharatamma, reported in 2008 ACJ 268 (SC), had in paragraphs No. 8 to 11 in Kamla's case (supra), paragraphs whereof stands extracted hereinafter:-

> "8. Coming to the second plea taken by the learned counsel for the appellant that the deceased was a gratuitous passenger, a perusal of the reply filed by respondent No. 2, insurance company shows that they had only pleaded that the deceased was admittedly not employee of the insured and was traveling in the truck as a gratuitous passenger. Thus, it was submitted that the Insurance Company was not liable. Reliance was also placed upon the decision in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Cholleti Bharatamma, 2008 ACJ 268 (SC) wherein the plea was taken that the owner himself travel in the cabin of the vehicle and not with the goods so as to be covered under Section 147. However, in case the driver permits a passenger to travel in the tool box, he cannot escape from the liability that he was negligent in driving the vehicle and moreover, in a petition under Section 163-A of the Motor Vehicles Act, rash or negligent driving is not to be proved and, therefore, this decision does not help the appellant.
> 9. Learned counsel for the appellant had also relied upon the decision in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Maghi Ram, 2010 ACJ 2096 (HP), wherein a learned Judge of this Court has considered the question and had observed that the Insurance Company is liable in respect of death or bodily injury to any person including the owner of goods or his authorized representative carried in the vehicle. It was observed that it is apparent that the goods must normally be carried in the vehicle at the time of accident.
> 10. The allegations made by the petitioners in the petition as well as in the evidence were that the deceased had gone after hiring the truck with his vegetable and was coming in the same vehicle when the accident took place.The learned counsel for the claimants/respondents No. 1 to 4 had relied upon the decision of Hon'ble Punjab & Haryana High Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Urmila, 2008 ACJ 1381 (P&H) , wherein it was observed that a passenger was returning after selling his goods when the vehicle turned turtle due to rash and negligent driving. Insurance Company seeks to avoid its liability on the ground that the deceased was no longer owner of the goods as he had sold them off. It was observed that the deceased had hired the vehicle for transporting his animals for selling and was returning in the same vehicle. It was held that the deceased was not an unauthorized/gratuitous passenger in the vehicle till he reached the place from where he had hired the vehicle.

> 11. The above decision clearly applies to the present facts, which are similar to the facts of the case and accordingly, I am inclined to hold that the deceased was not an unauthorized/gratuitous passenger. No conditions of the insurance policy have been proved that the risk of the owner of goods was not covered in the insurance policy and as such, there is no substance in the plea raised by the learned counsel for the appellant, which is rejected accordingly."

(a) recorded firm findings qua, upon it, being cogently proven qua the deceased hence hiring, the, vehicle for loading therein, his livestock, for hence his selling them, and, after his effecting their sale, his returning in the same vehicle, upto the place, wherefrom, he had hired it, thereupon, the deceased, not being construable to be travelling in the apt vehicle, as a gratuitous passenger. More so, it also stands propounded therein qua, upon, there being no apt forbidding recitals, in, the apt insurance policy against the personal risk, of, the owner of the apt goods, being also insured, whereupon, would rather render tenable, the fastening, of, the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer, (b) and, whereas recitals whereof, being amiss in the apt policy, besides rather with evidence in consonance therewith, standing adduced hereat, (c) thereupon, this Court is enjoined to mete deference, to the verdict aforesaid pronounced, by this Court in Kamla's case (supra), and, hence, obviously, this Court proceeds to disconcur, with, the espousal reared, by the learned counsel appearing for the insurer.

4. The learned counsel, appearing for the insurance company, has, contended with much vigour before this Court, that, with the driving licence, of respondent No.1 Anil Kumar, as, borne in Ex. R-2, carrying recitals, vis-a-vis, its authorising, its holder to drive, Transport vehicle, LMV and MCWG, whereas, the apt R.C., borne in Ex. R-3, depicting the offending vehicle, to stand categorised, as a "Light Goods Vehicle", (a) and, when hence ipso facto, the apt driving licence, borne in Ex. R-2, authorised its holder to drive a vehicle, rather bearing the apt category of, a, transport vehicle, (b) thereupon, it was an imperative necessity, for, the apt driving licence, to hold therein the apt endorsement, vis-a-vis, its authorising, its holder, to drive the "light goods vehicle", (c) whereas, the apt endorsement, being amiss therein, (d) thereupon, with evident breaches of the terms and conditions of the insurance policy, rather surging forth, whereupon, hence the fastening of the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer, rather warranting interference.

5. However, the aforesaid submission, addressed before this Court by the learned Counsel, appearing for the insurance company, is, extremely fragile, given, various pronouncements, occurring, in Kulwant Singh and others vs. Oriental Insurance Company Ltd., 214(4) TAC 676 (SC), United India Insurance Company Ltd. vs. Madan Lal and others, 2015(2) TAC 243 (HP), Smt. Inder Kaur & Others vs. Smt. Shanti Devi & Others, Latest HLJ 2016 (H.P.) 1457 and Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Man Kumari and others, 216 ACJ 2632, and, all whereof, echo a firm view qua with the apt driving licence hence carrying reflections qua its holder being authorized to drive a "light motor vehicle", thereupon, there being no necessity, of, any PSV endorsement also being borne therein.

6. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer has not contested, the, computation of compensation made by the learned tribunal, upon, the dependents of the deceased, except, the learned tribunal concerned, in conflict with the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, assessing a sum of Rs. One lacs, under, the head " Loss of love and affection", a sum of Rs.one lac under the head of "loss of consortium, to, petitioner No.1" and Rs.25000/- under the head "Funeral Expenses". Consequently, the assessment of compensation, under, the head "Loss of love and affection" borne, in a sum of Rs. One lac, vis-a-vis, the petitioners is set aside, whereas, quantification of compensation, under, the head "funeral expenses" in a sum of Rs.25,000/-, vis-a-vis, the petitioner, is, reduced to Rs.15,000/-, as also the quantification of compensation, under, the head "loss of consortium to petitioner No.1" borne in a sum of Rs.one lac, is, reduced to Rs.40,000/-.

7. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the insurer is partly allowed, and, the impugned award, is, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified. Accordingly, the petitioners, are, held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.10,63,000/-, along with pending and future interest @7.5 %, from, the date of petition till the date, of, deposit, of the compensation amount. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted in the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. Compensation amount be apportioned, amongst the claimants in equal proportion. The shares of the minor petitioners No.2 and 3 (respondents No. 2 and 3 herein), shall remain invested, in FDRs, upto, the stage of theirs attaining majority. However, interest accrued thereon, shall be releasable vis-a-vis their mother, only when she explains, of, its being required, for, the upkeep and benefit of the minor children. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

State of H.P. ....Appellant.

Versus

Madho Ram and others .....Respondents.

Cr. Appeal No. 546 of 2008.
Reserved on: 5th July, 2018.
Date of Decision: 6th July, 2018.

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Sections 323, 324, 341 read with Section 34 – Assault and wrongful restraint – Proof - Trial court convicting accused of assaulting complainant and causing injuries to him with sharp edged weapon etc. - Appellate court allowing appeal and acquitting accused – Appeal by state – State submitting before high court that acquittal recorded by Appellate Court being result of wrong appreciation of evidence – (i) Facts revealing improvements and departures in statement of complainant on oath from statement given in FIR (ii) Independent witness resiling from his previous statement implicating accused – (iii) Recovery of weapon not being at instance of accused diminishing probative values of recovery of incriminatory article – (iv) FIR concerning said occurrence also filed by accused but not investigated by same officer – Held – Acquittal by Appellate Court based on proper appreciation of evidence on record – Acquittal upheld - Appeal dismissed. (Paras 2, 10, 11, 12 & 13)

For the Petitioners: Mr. Hemant Vaid, Addl. Advocate General with Mr. Y.S. Thakur and Mr. Vikrant Chandel, Dy. A.Gs.

For the Respondents: Mr. Kishore Pundir, Advocate vice to Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal stands directed by the State of H.P., against, the judgment rendered on 23.04.2008, by the learned Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Hamirpur, H.P., in Criminal Appeal No. 11 of 2007, whereby, he set aside the judgement of conviction, and, sentence recorded, upon, the accused/respondents herein, by the learned trial Court.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that complainant Sh. Subhash Chand, who is running a shop at Kuthera, reported the matter to the Police Station, Sadar, Hamirpur, that on 2.1.2005, at about 9.15, p.m. when he was present in his house, he heard some noise towards the house of accused Madho Ram. On hearing this noise, he started towards the house of Madho Ram, but accused Manjeet Singh met him on the way and stopped him from proceeding further and he saw accused Madho Ram and Saina Devi were beating his brother Sunil Kumar. When he questioned the accused why they were beating his brother, in the meantime, accused Manjeet Singh, who was having a darat in his hand, inflicted darat blow on the left side of his forehead. Thereafter, he raised hue and cry and other persons from the village gather there, who also witnessed the beatings by the accused. However, none of them, came to the rescue of the complainant and his brother. It was further reported that when the complainant was coming back home from the place of occurrence, he was again restrained by accused Manjeet Singh and also gave fist blows to him and threatened him to do away with his life. It was also reported that when accused Manjeet Singh stopped the complainant, again accused Madho Ram and Saina Devi gave fist blows to him. Upon this information, FIR Ex.PW1/A was registered against the accused. Thereafter, the police police completed all the codal formalities.

3. On conclusion of the investigations, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared and filed before the learned trial Court.

4. The accused/respondents herein stood charged by the learned trial Court for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 323, 324, 341, 504, 506 read with Section 34, IPC. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined six witnesses. On conclusion of recording of the prosecution evidence, the respective statement(s) of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure were recorded by the learned trial Court, wherein, each of the accused claimed innocence and pleaded false implication in the case. They also examined two witnesses in their defence.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of conviction upon the accused/respondents herein, for theirs committing offences punishable under Sections 323, 324, 341 read with Section 34 of the IPC. In an appeal preferred therefrom, by the accused/respondents herein, before, the learned Appellate Court concerned, the latter reversed the apposite findings of conviction, and, sentence recorded in the judgment pronounced by the learned trial Court.

6. The State of H.P. stands aggrieved by the findings recorded by the learned Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court concerned, findings whereof, are, in dis-concurrence vis-a-vis the judgment, of conviction recorded against them, by the learned trial Court. The learned Addl. Advocate General appearing for the appellant herein, has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal, recorded by the learned Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court concerned, standing not based on a proper appreciation by him, of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation, by him, of the material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal rather warranting reversal by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, and, theirs being replaced by findings of conviction.

7. On the other hand, the learned defence counsel has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court concerned standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation, by him, of the evidence on record, and, theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The learned Additional Advocate General has contended with vigour (a) that with the testifications rendered by the ocular witnesses qua the genesis, of, the occurrence, not, carrying, any, gross improvements, and, embellishments, vis-a-vis, their previously recorded statements in writing, hence, it was inappropriate, for the learned Appellate Court, to not, mete credence thereto, (b) and, he also placed reliance, upon, the testification rendered by PW-6, who, during the course of his examination-in-chief, has, tendered and proven, Ex.PW6/A, exhibit whereof comprises the MLC issued, vis-a-vis, injured Subhash Chand, especially, when therein he has also, with, utmost candour rather echoed of the injuries noticed by him, upon, the person of the injured, being causable, by user of "Darat", Ex.P-4. (c) he has further placed reliance, upon, apposite recovery memo borne in Ex.PW2/A, to, therefrom contend, that the findings of acquittal, recorded by the learned Appellate Court, vis-a-vis, the respondents herein, hence, warranting interference.

10. However, all the aforesaid espousal(s) addressed, before this Court by the learned Additional Advocate General, do not carry any vigour, (i) given, upon, a, close scanning of the deposition of PW-1, hence, emerging, qua his, while rendering his testification on oath, his making gross departure(s), from, his previously recorded statement in writing, apposite digressions, whereof, are comprised in (a) of, though his, in, the FIR making a echoing qua, upon, his hearing outcries emerging from, the house of accused Madho Ram, his proceeding towards the house of the accused, and, enroute his being stopped, by accused Manjeet Singh, and, thereafter his noticing, qua accused Madho Ram and accused Saina Devi, hence belabouring PW-2, one Sunil Kumar, (b) yet in open digression therefrom, he in his testification also added the name of accused Manjeet Singh, and, further ascribed qua him the incriminatory role, of his belabouring PW-2. The effect of PW-1, though omitting, to, in the FIR hence ascribe any incriminatory role, vis-a-vis, accused Manjeet Singh, qua, his being seen by him, to belabour PW-2, whereas, in blatant improvement therefrom, his, in his testification, rather attributing qua him, an incriminatory role, qua, his delivering, a darat blow on the left side of his forehead, obviously does comprise a blatant visible gross improvement, and, embellishment vis-a-vis his previous statement recorded in writing, (c) and, also hence the factum of the narrative, borne in FIR qua his noticing Madho Ram and Saina Devi, belabouring PW-2, being also concomitantly belied. Consequently, the effects thereof, being, of the embodiments, occurring in the apposite MLC being also belied. Furthermore, PW-2, has also rendered, the prosecution case to stand ingrained with a pervasive falsity, comprised in PW-2, in his testification, articulating qua his being also delivered 2-3 blows of darat, by the accused, hence, when for lending succor thereto, it was imperative, for his being subjected to medical examination, and, yet his remaining not medically examined, reiteratedly, hence, renders the aforesaid testification, to be ridden, with, a gross pervasive falsity.

11. Be that as it may, both PW-1 and PW-2 are real brothers, and, they are also evidently holding inimicality, vis-a-vis, the accused, (i) even then their purportedly interested version qua the occurrence may have carried some aura of truth, yet, with, theirs while testifying on oath, hence making the aforesaid rife contradictions, and, embellishments, vis-a-vis, their previous statements recorded in writing, does imminently surge forth, an inference qua, hence, their testifications, qua the genesis of the prosecution case, being rendered unamenable, for, meteing, of, any credence thereto, (ii) and, also with the independent ocular witness to the occurrence, reneging, from, his previous statement recorded, in writing, besides on his being declared hostile, and, hence his coming to be held, to, cross-examination by the learned APP, his not making any echoings, in, support, of, the genesis of the prosecution case, thereupon, the entire substratum, of, the genesis of the prosecution case, is capsized.

12. Nowat, the efficacy, if any, of preparation, of, recovery memo, borne in Ex.PW2/A, whereunder, darat Ex.P-4, stands recovered, not, at the instance of the accused, rather it being handed over tot he Investigating officer, by PW-1 Subhash Chand, is ipso facto, hence, for non effectuation of recovery thereof, at the instance of the accused, rather is construable, to stand eroded, of, its probative vigour. Assumingly, if veracity is to be imputed, qua the factum of Ex.P-4, being handed over by PW-1, to the police, and, also assumingly, if, all recitals apposite thereto, as, borne in Ex.PW2/A, also carry any aura of veracity, yet all the recitals in respect thereto, borne in Ex.PW2/A, are, shred of their vigour and veracity, (i) given, PW-1 making a disclosure of the darat, being taken into possession, from the spot by the police, and, thereat one Baldev, and, three other aged women,being present. The aforesaid apparent contradictions, inter se, the manner of taking into possession of Ex.P-4, as embodied in Ex.PW2/A, vis-a-vis, the one disclosed by PW-1, also renders, the recovery of Ex.P-4, to be neither efficacious nor it constitutes any evidence, of, any probative vigour.

13. Even otherwise, as deposed by DW-1, with respect to the same occurrence, an FIR borne in Ex.DW-1/A, embodying therein, commission of offences constituted under Sections 451, 323, 506, 336, of the IPC, stood, lodged with the police station concerned, by the accused herein. Hence, when investigations thereinto, were, enjoined to be carried conjointly along with investigations into the extant FIR, whereas, both remaining not conjointly investigated, thereupon, it is also concluded, qua the Investigating Officer holding skewed, and, slanted investigations, vis-a-vis, the extant FIR, whereupon, it is not deemed fit to impute sanctity, to the prosecution case.

14. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned Appellate Court, has, appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner, apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record, by the learned Appellate Court, does not suffer from any gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation, and, non appreciation of germane evidence on record.

15. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the judgment rendered by the learned Presiding Officer, Fast Track Court, Hamirpur, in Criminal Appeal No. 11 of 2007, on 23.04.2008 is affirmed and maintained. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal is directed, against, the concurrently recorded verdicts by both the learned Courts below, whereby, the plaintiff's suit for rendition, of, a decree for declaration, as well as for, rendition of a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction qua the suit khasra number(s), was, hence dismissed.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the originally, the suit was instituted by one Shri Ranjan Sharma. During the pendency of the suit, he sold the property in question to the present plaintiffs. It is pleaded that original plaintiff was owner in exclusive possession of the Khasra No 262, 264, 267, 268 and 269, measuring 211 sq. meters and Khasra No.263 measuring 195 Sq. Meters, situated in mauja Thodo. He was in joint possession alongwith proforma defendants in respect of Khasra Nos. 261 and 266, measuring 179 sq. meters situated in mauja Thodo, Tehsil Solan. Defendant Yoginder Pal purchased Khasra No.244, 245, 246 and 265 measuring 412 sq. meters in mauja Thodo. He had also purchased ¼ share out of Khasra No.263 through sale deed of 20.04.1997 from Smt. Asha Devi by fraudulent means. It was wrongly recited in the sale deed that Smt. Asha Devi was owner in possession of said land to the extent of 1/4th share. In fact, Smt. Asha Devi did not possess any portion of Khasra No.263. The legal heirs of deceased Rai Bahadur Bishamber Nath, owner of property in question, had separated their shares by way of registered document of 4.8.1936. The said document was registered with the Registrar of Bhagat Princely State. The said document was also accompanied by detailed site plan vide which the properties were divided specifically inter se the legal representatives of deceased Rai Bahadur Bishamber Nath. The allotment of properties was shown in the map specifically with the aid of different inks. Different portions of the property were allotted separately sharewise to S/Sh. Ram Nath, Amar Nath, Shyam Nath and Dr. Prem Nath, who happended to be the sons of Rai Bahadur Bishamber Nath. There was severance of joint character of the property in question inter se the sons of Rai Bahadur Bishamber Nath. Each portion came to the possession of each owner in exclusive manner and said arrangement was also executed on the spot. The aforesaid arrangement vide which the joint character of property in question was severed inter se the parties could not be reflected in the revenue record for want of Khasra numbers. Thus, the recital in the sale deed in question to the effect that Smt. Asha Devi was having ¼th share in Khasra No.263 is wrong and illegal. Taking the undue undue advantage of the wrong recital in sale deed, defendant Yoginder Pal moved an application before the Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Solan seeking the partition of property in question. On 10.09.1992 Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Solan transferred the case to the Assistant Collector 2nd Grade, Solan in order to prepare the map of partition. The summons were issued to the parties. It was reported by Process-serving Agency that two persons namely Prem Nath and Shayam Nath had died. The dead persons were sought to be served by way of publication in the newspaper. No attempts were made to implead the legal representatives of deceased respondents. Rather, the proceedings were continued against dead persons. The entire partition proceedings were carried in an illegal manner. On the basis of illegal partition, defendant Yoginder Pal staked his claim over khasra No.263/1, measuring 48 sq. meters. Defendant has tried to encroach upon the said land in an illegal manner. Defendant has tried to occupy Khasra No.263/1 measuring 48 sq. meters in mauja Thodo in an illegal manner. The partition proceedings are not tenable in the eyes of law. Hence the suit.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, they have taken prelimkinary objections qua locus standi, estoppel, maintainability etc. On merits, it is denied that plaintiffs are owners in exlcusive possession of Khasra No. 262, 264, 267, 268 and 269 measuring 211 sq. meters and Khasra No.263, measuring 195 sq. meters. It is also disputed that they are in joint possession with proforma defendants in respect of Khasra Nos. 261 and 266, situated in mauja Thodo. The property in question is joint inter se the parties. Suit land is a part of entire joint land. Replying defendant purchased Khasra Nos. 244, 245, 246 and 265, measuring 412 sq. meters. He also purchased share in Khasra No.263. It is denied that he purchased ¼ share in Khasra No. 263 vid sale deed of 20.04.1987 from Smt. Asha Devi by fraudulent means. The sale deed has been executed by deceased Asha Devi in favour of replying defendant in legal manner and recitals therein are true and correct. It is also disputed that Smt. Asha Devi was not possessing Khasra No.263. It is denied that legal heirs of deceased Rai Bahadur Bishamber Nath separated their shares and came to possession each share as owner in an exclusive manner. The document of 4.8.1936 is alleged to be false and fabricated and is the result of fraud. The document in question was not brought to the notice of any revenue officer nor its contents were made available to the revenue officer to correct the revenue record. It is denied that each co-owner came to possess his share in an exclusive manner on the spot. The property in question is jointly owned and possessed by the parties and the same is liable to be partitioned legally. Defendant preferred an application before the Assistant Collector Solan to seek its partition. The parties proceedings were conducted before the Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Solan, which the defendant came to know about certain illegalities having crept in the partition proceedings, he admitted that appeal against partition order be accepted and parties be heard in the matter afresh before the Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Solan. It is denied that any fraud was practised by replying defendant during the course of partition proceedings nor he connived with revenue officer in any manner. Smt. Asha Devi was possessing Khasra No.263 to the extent of her share and as such, she was competent to sell the same and no fraud was being payed in order to execute the sale deed. It is alleged that the property in question is joint, and partition proceedings are in progress.

4. The plaintiffs filed replication to the written statement of the defendant(s), wherein, they denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is owner in possession of the suit land, as alleged? OPP.
2. Whether the parties to the suit have become owner in possession over the suit property by way of adverse possession in pursuance of document dated 4.8.1936, as alleged? OPP
3. Whether the sale deed dated 20.04.1987 executed by Smt. Asha Devi in favour of defendant No.1 is wrong and illegal, as alleged? OPP
4. Whether the partition order of A.C. 1st Grade dated 4.9.1992, of the suit land is wrong and illegal, as alleged? OPP
5. Whether the defendants interfere in the suit land, as alleged? OPD.
6. Whether the plaintiffs are estopped to file the present suit, as alleged? OPD.
7. Whether the plaintiffs have no locus standi to file the present suit? OPD.
8. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiffs/appellants herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by, the plaintiffs/appellants herein, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed, the, appeal, and, affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the plaintiffs/appellants herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein he assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for hearing, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiffs/appellants against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

a) Whether the ld. District Judge acted with illegality in not disposing of the application and not allowing the application for additional evidence and holding that the property had vested in the State Government when the order passed under Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act had been set aside by the Com missioner, Himachal Pradesh on 16.2.2000 and affirmed by the Financial Commissioner in his judgment dated 29.4.2005 and when the matter was pending adjudication which evidence was material and relevant and necessary for determining the controversy between the parties?

b) Whether the findings of the court below that the property had vested in the State Government and transfer was hit by the provisions of Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act is vitiated for want of adjudication by the authorities in the Act and Civil Court had the jurisdiction to adjudicate the said point?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 and 2:

8. The learned first Appellate Court, had concluded, that the statutory bar, encapsulated in Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, against, any evidently proven non agriculturist, without evident prior valid statutory permission being granted, hence, not acquiring title, vis-a-vis, the suit land, even through registered deeds of conveyance, rather being attracted against the plaintiffs, and, the conclusion stood rested upon the reasons, (i) the operation of the apposite order recorded by the Collector borne in Ex.D-5, remaining not stayed. Be that as it may, during, the pendency of the instant appeal before this Court, the learned counsel appearing for the appellant, has cast an application under Order 41, Rule 27 of the CPC, application whereof, bears CMP No. 8758 of 2016, wherein, he seeks the leave of the Court to place on record, (a) Annexure A-2, carrying therein an order rendered by the Divisional Commissioner, Shimla, whereunder, he remanded, vis-a-vis, the District Collector, Solan, to, decide afresh, the apposite lis appertaining, to infraction being visited, vis-a-vis, the mandate of Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, (b) besides he has appended therewith Annexure A-3, annexure whereof, comprises a verdict recorded by the District Collector, Solan, whereunder, he ordered for vestment, of the suit property in the State of Himachal Pradesh, on anvils of sale deed Nos. 268 to 271, being evidently visited with gross infraction(s), vis-a-vis, the apposite mandate, borne in Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, (c) given prior to execution(s) thereof, no apposite statutory permission, being accorded, vis-a-vis, the alienees. Furthermore, he has appended therewith Annexures A-4 and A-5, whereunder, the operation of the order borne, in Annexure A-3, stands stayed. On anvil of the aforestated annexures, appended with the application, cast under the provisions of Order 41, Rule 27 of the CPC, the learned counsel appearing, for the appellant, has contended, (d) qua the reasons, assigned by the learned First Appellate Court, for, concluding, qua the order borne in Ex. D-5, for want of its operation being stayed, hence, its holding force and validity at the time of rendering, of, a verdict upon the apt civil appeal, per se, hence wanting, in, legal strength and vigour. Nowat, with the aforesaid disclosures, borne in Annexure A-4 and A-5, whereunder, the operation of the order recorded on 20.04.2009, was stayed, under latter orders whereof, hence, the vestment of the suit land, was ordered to be made, vis-a-vis, the State of Himachal Pradesh, given visible infraction being begotten, with, the statutory mandate, of, Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, (a) does constrain this Court to conclude, that the, leave for theirs being adduced into evidence, being both just and essential, for hence making a firm conclusion, qua whether the impugned verdict, rested upon, Ex.D-5, for want of operation thereof, being stayed, hence acquiring any valid conclusivity, and, whereunder the suit land, stood, ordered to vest, in, the State of Himachal Pradesh, hence imperatively garnering any legal strength and vigour. Reiteratedly, hence, the trite factum displayed, in, Annexure A-5, and, in Annexure A-4 qua thereunder, rather the operation of the apt order of vestment of suit land, recorded on 20.04.2009, being stayed, does strip, and, erase, the strength of the reasoning, assigned by the learned first Appellate Court, (b) for, its, concluding that with Ex. D-5, acquiring conclusivity, hence, the sequel thereto, being, of, the apt alienees of the relevant sale deeds, not thereunder, acquiring any right, title or interest vis-a-vis the suit land. Consequently, this Court does think it befitting, to, accord the apposite leave to the appellant.

9. Be that as it may, the aforesaid annexures appended with the application, bearing CMP No.8758 of 2016, as, cast before this Court, under the provisions of Order 41, Rule 27 of the CPC, are judicial verdicts, (i) obviously hence no evidence in rebuttal thereto, is, enjoined to be adduced, nor hence any opportunity is enjoined, to be accorded, for adducing any apt rebuttal evidence thereto, (ii) rather they are per se admissible in evidence, even without theirs, in adherence with the apposite mandate, hence, being tendered, into evidence, besides being exhibited, (iii) thereupon, they are permitted to be taken on record, and, are also amenable, for, theirs being read, by this Court. In other words, this Courts deems it fit, to read the aforesaid apposite verdicts, without, ordering, for the apt judicial verdicts, being, after remand of the lis vis-a-vis, the learned First Appellate Court, being permitted to be therebefore hence tendered and exhibited, thereupon, also hence, the aforesaid application is allowed, and, the apt judicial verdicts, are taken on record.

10. The effect of the hereinabove inference(s) and conclusion(s), (a) is that with the appropriate competent authority, after staying the operation, of, the order, of, vestment hence recorded on 20.4.2009, also being obviously hence seized with the apposite lis, squarely appertaining tot he necessity, of vestment, of the suit land, in, the State of Himachal Pradesh, given prior to the execution of the apposite sale deeds, purportedly no valid permission being granted, by the competent authority, to the alienees of the suit land, (b) thereupon, it has to be gauged qua whether this Court holding jurisdiction, to, proceed to pronounce, an adjudication, upon, the merits of the controversy, engaging, the parties at contest, (ii) controversy whereof, is squarely rested, upon, the suit land, for purported want of the apt alienees, prior to the execution, of the apposite sale deeds, seeking the statutory permission, rather hence warranting theirs being quashed and set aside, and, also concomitantly hence the suit land, thereupon, being ordered, to, be vested in the State of H.P. The aforesaid conundrum, can be easily settled, by alluding to the provisions, borne in Section 121-A of the H.P. Tenancy Land Reforms Act, wherein, a statutory bar, is, created against, the civil courts, exercising jurisdiction, vis-a-vis, any orders or proceedings, drawn under Chapter-11, especially by the narrated herein, statutorily contemplated authorities. Provisions of Section 121-A of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, read as under:-

> "121-A. Bar of Jurisdiction.- Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Chapter, the validity of any proceedings or orders taken or made under this Chapter shall not be called in question in any civil court or before any other authority."

The aforestated, bar, created in the hereinabove extracted provisions, of, Section 121-A of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, is, unamenable to any dilution nor is amenable, to any other conclusion, than, of the statutorily contemplated authorties, who stand vested, with, the apt jurisdiction, to make conclusive orders, qua vestment, of, lands borne in the sale deeds, when evidently prior thereto, no apposite statutory permission, is, either sought nor is granted by the competent authorities, (i) and, who reiteratedly alone rather solitarily stand vested with the apposite jurisdiction, under, an explicit apt statutory mandate, for, hence, testing the validities, of, all the orders drawn under Chapter-11, (ii) thereupon, rather the apt remedy, vis-a-vis, the aggrieved, after, a, conclusive order, being recorded by the highest echelons, in the hierarchy, of, the statutorily contemplated authorities, being the one comprised in his through, a CWP, hence casting a challenge thereto. All the aforesaid substantial question of law are answered accordingly.

11. Dehors, this Court meteing, in, the aforesaid manner hence answers to the apt formulated substantial questions of law, nonetheless, the appellants would yet be de-faciliated to claim pronouncement, of, an affirmative decree, of permanent prohibitory injunction, (i) given the suit land, provenly, at this stage remaining unpartitioned and when hence the plaintiffs/appellants being co-owners in the undivided suit property, are, thereupon prohibited to claim rendition, of, a decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, vis-a-vis, the joint suit khasra number(s), whereon, they along with the defendant(s), are, co-owners, (ii) and, with a further corollary qua each co-owner, till dismemberment of the joint estate, being estopped to exclude other co-owners, from, enjoying the suit property, (iii) salient abovesaid principle rather suffering derogation, in case relief, of, injunction, is, granted. Moreover, in conjunction therewith, dehors meteings, of, hereinabove apt answers, to the substantial questions of law, also would not at all affect the efficacy of the apt concurrent findings recorded, by both the learned courts below, whereunder, each discountenance the appellants' propagation, of, the suit property being partitioned in the year 1936.

12. The above discussion, unfolds, that all the conclusions, as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court, have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Substantial questions of law are answered accordingly.

13. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the impugned judgments and decrees are maintained and affirmed. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back forthwith.

For the Appellant: Mr. Ramakant Sharma, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Dinesh Kumar, Advocate.

For the Respondent: Mr. Hemant Vaid, Addl. A.G., with Mr. Y.S. Thakur, Dy. A.G.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal stands directed against the conviction and sentence, pronounced, upon the appellant/convict/accused, by the learned trial Court vis-a-vis the charge framed against him, for commission of offences punishable under Sections 304-A, 279, and, Section 337 of the IPC.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that on 9.8.2006 at about 5.30 p.m., when Trilochan Singh, PW-1 was returning back to his house at Rampur along with his wife Pawna and his son on his scooter bearing No. HP-31-0387 and had reached near Jhalera, a truck had come from behind rashly incoherently in a zig-zag manner and hit him from behind. He was thrown on the unmettled portion of the road while wife had also sustained grievous injuries and she had immediately died at the spot. Is son had also received multiple injuries because of the accident. As per the prosecution story the accused had fled from the spot and had been later apprehended by the people near the petrol pump on the Amb road after some time of the occurrence. When the accused was apprehended, he was thoroughly drunk. On the statement of PW-1, FIR Ex.PW1/A was registered with the police station. Thereafter police completed all the codel formalities.

3. On conclusion of investigation(s), into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was prepared, and, filed before the competent Court.

4. The accused stood charged by the learned trial Court, for, his committing offence(s) punishable under Sections 304-II, 279, 337 and Section 201 of the IPC. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 9 witnesses. On conclusion of recording of the prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313, of, the Code of Criminal Procedure, was, recorded by the learned trial Court, wherein, the accused claimed innocence, and, pleaded false implication.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, recorded findings of conviction against the accused/appellant herein.

6. The appellant/convict, stands, aggrieved by the judgment of conviction recorded against him, by the learned trial Court. The learned counsel appearing for the appellant/convict, has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court, standing not, based on a proper appreciation, by it, of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation, by it, of the material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction warranting reversal by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, and, theirs standing replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. On the other hand, the learned Additional Advocate General has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court, rather standing based, on a mature and balanced appreciation, by it, of the evidence on record, and, theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. One Pawna Kumari, who was aboard the scooter, driven by PW-1 Trilochan Singh besides her son, who was also aboard thereon, and, also PW-1, who was driving the scooter, respectively, in sequel to the injuries suffered upon their persons, in a collision occurred inter se the relevant scooter vis-a-vis the truck driven at the relevant time, by the accused hence suffered demise besides, injuries stood entailed on their persons. PW-3 has proven the MLCs, respectively borne, in Ex.PW3/b AND in Ex.PW3/C, MLCs whereof stood prepared in sequel to his examining, the injured/victims, PW-1, and, his son. PW-3 has also proven the apposite postmortem report, borne in Ex.PW3/J, wherein he ascribes, the cause of demise of deceased Pawna Kumari vis-a-vis the antemortem injuries delineated therein.

10. Furthermore, the prosecution, for proving the genesis of the occurrence, embodied in FIR, borne in Ex.PW7/A, depended upon the testifications, of ocular witnesses. The prime ocular witness vis-a-vis the relevant occurrence is PW-1, the husband of the deceased, and, who at the relevant time, was astride the scooter, as its driver. In his deposition, he has with pin pointed clarity ascribed negligence, to the accused/convict, negligence whereof is voiced by him, to be embodied, in his driving the relevant truck, in a high speed, and, in a zig zag manner, whereupon, hence, despite, the scooter being driven on the appropriate site of the road, rather the offending truck striking the scooter from behind. The testification of PW-1, embodied in his examination-in-chief, though, was concerted to be shred of its efficacy, by the defence counsel, by the latter subjecting him to an ordeal, of a rigorous cross-examination, yet, during course whereof, no elicitation occurs, (a) for hence belying the involvement, of the accused/convict in the relevant accident (b) nor also for belying the factum of the scooter being driven on the appropriate side of the road, (c) and, of the truck being driven on the inappropriate side of the road, and, it hence striking the scooter, from the rear (d) in sequel, the testification of PW-1 is to be imputed absolute credence. The testification of PW-1 is also lent corroboration, by the testification rendered by PW-2 Darshan Singh, another ocular witness to the occurrence. He in absolute tandem with the testification of PW-1, has voiced a version, wherein, he ascribes, an incriminatory role, to the accused/convict. Another ocular witness to the occurrence, PW-4, has alike PW-1, and, PW-2 lent corroboration to the genesis of the occurrence, embodied in Ex.PW7/A. Since, the tensifications of all aforesaid prosecution witnesses, is bereft of any taint or blemish of any intra se or inter se contradictions, thereupon, absolute sanctity besides credence is to be imputed, to their respectively rendered testifications.

11. Be that as it may, the aforesaid witnesses also proceeded to identify the accused, in Court. The identification of the accused in Court, by the aforesaid witnesses, is a sequel of the accused/convict hence uncontrovertedly, subsequent to the accident, rather standing apprehended near the petrol pump on the Amb road. The factum of the accused/convict being apprehended thereat, remained unbelied by the defence, nor the accused, in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., proceeded to therein hence espouse of his not driving the offending truck, rather with his in the proceedings, drawn, under Section 313 Cr.P.C., hence, meteing an answer, of his not fleeing from the spot, rather his throughout remaining present near the site of the apt collision(s), in sequel thereto, an inference is garnered qua the identification of the accused/convict in Court by PW-2, remaining unbelied besides, of, the accused acquiescing, of his, at the relevant, driving the offending truck.

12. Since, as aforestated, with the aforesaid PWs categorically voicing vis-a-vis the incriminatory role, of the accused/convict in the relevant occurrence, and, when their respectively rendered testifications, are, unblemished besides when the doctor, who conducted, the medical examination of the accused/convict, and, prepared his report, borne in Ex.PW3/G, and, with clear voicing(s) occurring therein, of the blood, and, urine samples of convict/accused, carrying therein percentum of alcohol, beyond, the permissible limit, thereupon, the testifications of ocular witnesses, wherein, they ascribe vis-a-vis the accused, an incriminatory role of his driving, the offending truck in a rash and negligent manner, obviously hence garners therefrom, an immense formidable strength.

13. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court, does not suffer, from any gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record.

14. Consequently, the instant appeal is dismissed and the judgment of conviction is affirmed and maintained. However, keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case and fact that the accused/convict/appellant is the sole bread earner of his family, hence, the sentence imposed upon the accused/appellant by the learned trial Court is modified, and, the convict/accused/appellant herein is sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment, for one year, for his committing an offence punishable under Section 304-A of the IPC, and, he shall pay a fine of Rs.2,000/- and in default of payment of fine amount, he shall further undergo simple imprisonment for three months. He further sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for three months, for his committing an offence punishable under Section 279 of the IPC, and, he shall pay a fine of Rs.1000/- and in default of payment of fine amount, he shall further undergo simple imprisonment for one month. The convict/appellant herein further sentenced to under rigorous imprisonment for three months for his committing an offence punishable under Section 337 of the IPC and to pay a fine of Rs.1,000/- and in default of payment of fine amount, he shall further undergo simple imprisonment for one month. All the sentences shall run concurrently. The period already undergone by the accused/convict/appellant herein either in police or in judicial custody is ordered to be set off, from, the sentences awarded against him. The learned trial Court is directed to henceforth promptly execute the sentence. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal is directed, against, the concurrently recorded verdicts by both the learned Courts below, whereby, the plaintiff's suit for rendition, of, a decree for declaration, qua the suit khasra number(s), was, hence decreed.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff had filed a suit for declaration and injunction claiming therein that the plaintiff is owner to the extent of half of the suit land comprised in Khata No.74, Khatauni No.172 to 177, Khasra Nos. 54, 56, 8, 10/1, 20, 61, 65, 22, 6, 7, 9, 10, 19, 21, 23, 63, 64, 31, 32, 36, 53, 55, 30, 57, 24, 25, 29, measuring 1-83-28 HM, which comes to 0-91.64 HM, situated in Mohal and Mauza Nadholi, Tehsil Nurpor, District Kangra, H.P. (hereinafter referred to as the suit land), as the land was earlier owned by his father who was in its possession. However, no final partition so far had taken place. It has been pleaded that his father never effect sale in favour of Mirchu and Moti and remained in possession of the suit land to the extent of ½ share as co-owner. When the consolidation proceedings were being conducted in the year 1982 in the area, he came to know that on the basis of mutation on 20.02.19432, his share had been mutated in the name of Mirchu and Moti, whereas, no such sale was ever effected by his father. On coming to know, of these wrong entries, he enquired about the matter and when his plea was accepted by the revenue agency the present suit was filed claiming that the entries in the record of rights are wrong and is entitled for half of the suit land and the defendants be restrained from interfering in his possession.

3. The defendant contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, it is averred that the father of the plaintiff Nanku and his co-sharer Sant Ram had sold their shares which was mutated in the name of Mirchu and Mali on 20.02.1943 vide mutation No.161. The sale on behalf of Sant Ram and Hira who were not heard of for the last more than 15 years were excluded at the time of mutation, since the sale and mutation and suit land is coming in possession of the defendants and the share of the plaintiff has been reduced to 162/972 share out of the total suit land. It has also been averred that the suit is hopelessly time barred since it has been filed after more than 50 years from date of the attestation of mutation.

4. The plaintiff filed replication to the written statement of the defendant(s), wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement, and, re-affirmed, and, re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is joint owner in possession of the suit land to the extent of half share as alleged? OPP.
2. Whether the name of defendant No.1 is wrongly recorded as co-sharer in the suit land, as alleged? OPP.
3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of permanent inunction, as prayed for? OPP.
4. Whether the suit is time barred? OPD.
5. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing this suit? OPD.
6. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the latter Court, hence, decreed the suit of the plaintiff/respondent herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the defendant No.1/appellant herein before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court, dismissed, the appeal and affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the defendant No.1/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein he assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, this Court, on 12.07.2006, admitted, the appeal instituted by the defendant/appellant, against, the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial question of law:-

a) Whether the findings of the two Courts below that Nanku had not sold any part of his one half share in te suit land in favour of Mirchu and Mali is not based on correct appreciation of evidence and is perverse?

Substantial question of Law No.:

8. The learned counsel, appearing for the appellant, has vehemently argued before this Court, by placing reliance, (a) upon, Ex. D-1, exhibit whereof is a copy of the abstract, of, rojnamacha prepared, by the patwari concerned, wherein echoings, occur of one Mirchu purchasing a portion of the suit land, from, one Mali; (b) also by his placing reliance, upon, Ex. D-2, exhibit whereof, is, a copy of rojnamacha rapat prepared, by the Patwari concerned, with a revelation occurring therein, of, a portion of the suit property being alienated by Sant, Sadhu, Hiru and Nanku vis-a-vis one Mirchu, (c) qua hence when in consonance therewith, there ex facie rather occurred, an accretion in the apt shareholdings, of, the defendant/appellant concerned, and, also a concomitant diminution, in the shareholdings, of, the plaintiff, vis-a-vis the undivided suit property, (d) thereupon, the concurrent judgments and decrees pronounced, by the learned Courts below, qua the plaintiff being entitled, to, ½ share in the undivided suit property, hence, wanting in legal strength.

9. The aforesaid submission addressed, before this Court, by the learned counsel appearing, for the appellant is repelled by (i) an admission occurring in the cross-examination of DW-2, with an echoing therein, of, one Nanku holding ½ share, as, owner vis-a-vis the undivided suit property; (ii) any sanctity, as, concerted by the learned counsel appearing for the appellant, to be imputed to Ex. D-1, and, to D-2, is apparently, shred of its efficacy, upon, a conjoint reading of aforesaid exhibits with Ex.P-4, latter exhibit whereof is an apposite order, whereunder, the apt mutation stood attested. The apposite order attesting the apt mutation, as, borne in Ex.P-4 was recorded on 20.2.1943, whereas, Ex.D-1, and, Ex. D-2, stood recorded prior thereto, inasmuch as, respectively, on 12.11.1942, and, on 9.11.1942. Since, the recitals, borne in Ex.D-1, and, in Ex. D-2 were recorded, prior to the recording, of, the apposite mutation, borne in Ex.P-4, (iii) thereupon, with the apposite order of mutation, borne in Ex.P-4, hence, enjoying a higher degree of solemnity besides evidentiary vigour vis-a-vis any apposite purported evidentiary worth enjoyed respectively, by EX.D-1, and, by Ex.D-2, (iv) and its hence also constituting the apposite order, whereto a presumption of truth, is attractable, besides whereunder, the apt vestment of title vis-a-vis the suit land upon Mirchu, is rather construable to be hence purportedly validly made, (v) whereas, apparently, its making a disclosure, of, it being recorded in the absence of one Sadhu, and, of one Hiru, whereto whose estate, one Mirchu staked a claim, given the formers' hence alienating vis-a-vis him, their share in the undivided suit property, (vi) thereupon, upon a reading, of, Ex.P-4, it evidently rather surging forth, of it, being rather rendered ex-parte, thereupon, it is per se rendered inefficacious, (vii) and, hence, also a concomitant inference is spurred of any disclosure(s), as, unilaterally, made before the Patwari concerned, by one Mirchu, disclosure(s) whereof respectively, are, borne in Ex.D-1, and, in Ex. D-2 qua, hence, any oral sale being made vis-a-vis Mirchu, by, one Sadhu, and, by one Hiru, rather, lacking, both in tenacity and probative vigour, (viii) rather it being, reiteratedly inferable, of both Ex.D-1, and, Ex. D-2, being inefficaciously prepared, and, fortifyingly no reliance being imputable thereon. (ix) Conspicuously, with the relevant aforesaid echoings, borne in Ex.P-4, remaining unshred of their efficacy (ies), by adduction, of, cogent material, in, displacement thereof, thereupon, rendering them, to enjoy conclusivity(ies). Consequently, any espousal, on anvil thereof qua hence, of, any addition in the share(s), of, Mirchu vis-a-vis the undivided suit property hence occurring, and, concomitantly, rather the share of the plaintiff, in, the undivided suit property, being hence diminished, is not, acceptable nor it can be said that the plaintiff is not entitled, to, ½ share in the undivided suit property.

10. Even though, the learned counsel appearing for the appellant, has placed reliance, upon, certain sale deeds, to contend that owing to sale(s) thereunder, of, part, of, the suit land, thereupon, the apposite accretion(s), and, concomitant diminution(s) vis-a-vis the suit property, in the respective shareholding(s) of the plaintiff, and, of, the defendant, rather obviously occurring. However, the aforesaid submission is rendered rudderless, in the apparent face, of, the vendor(s) therein, not, being either Hiru or Sadhu, rather, vendors thereof, being person(s), other than Hiru and Sadhu.

11. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court, have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial question of law is answered in favour of the plaintiff/respondent and against the appellant/defendant.

12. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in the present Regular Second Appeal and it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the judgements and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

Civil Revision No. 40 of 2017
Reserved on : 27th April, 2018.
Date of Decision: 7th May, 2018.

Code Of Civil Procedure, 1908 - Order VI Rule 17 – Amendment of pleadings – Held, Causes of action which are interconnected can be joined in one suit- Therefore, when cause of action has accrued during trial and the cause of action so accrued is interlinked and inseparable from cause of action originally pleaded in plaint , amendment may be allowed in order to avoid multiplicity of litigation - Party can be asked to file separate suit on new cause of action accrued during suit.( Para 3 )

For the Petitioner: Mr. R.K. Gautam, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Gaurav Gautam, Advocate.
For the Respondent : Mr. Bimal Gupta, Sr. Advocate with Mr. Vineet Vashisht, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiff instituted a suit, wherein, he sought rendition of a declaratory decree, for setting aside the testamentary disposition executed by one Prithi Singh vis-a-vis one Dev Kanya, also, sought a declaratory decree, of, sale deed executed, on 8.10.2009, by defendant No.2 vis-a-vis defendant No.1 also being set aside. However, during the pendency of the suit, an application cast, under the provisions of Order 6, Rule 17 of the CPC, was preferred before the learned trial Court, by the plaintiff, wherein, he sought leave of the court, to incorporate in the plaint, the hereinafter reproduced paragraph No.7-A:-

> "7A That the defendant No.1 on 27.07.2015 got the mutation of succession attested in her favour of the suit alnd on the basis of an illegal & fraudulent Will dated 28.10.1994, whereas, the deceased Dev Kanya neither executed any will nor she was competent to execute the Will of the suit land in favour of any person and at the most she could only dispose off her 1/7th share by way of Will which she disposed of by her last valid Will of 10.07.2007. The AC IInd Grade, Paonta Sahib in connivance with defendant No.1 attested the mutation behind the back of the plaintiff and other legal heirs of deceased Dev Kanya without any notice to them. And, the plaintiff only came to know hen he approached the patwari in the last week of September, 2016, for procuring the latest jamabandi of the suit land. Hence, a cause of action has arisen to the plaintiff to challenge the said succession of the suit land in favour of defendant No.1, during the pendency of this suit, the last week of September, 2016, when he came to know about the said fact and is still continuing.
> B) in the prayer clause after the words "ale deed dated 8/10/09" and before the words "executed" the words and the will dated 28.10.1994 and revenue entry/mutation on the basis of said will are to be inserted."

wherewithin, he cast averments, for setting aside, the mutation attested on 27.07.2015 vis-a-vis defendant No.1, in sequel to a Will executed qua him, on 28.10.1994, by one Dev Kanya, given Dev Kanya being incompetent to execute the apposite Will.

2. The learned trial Court, declined the apposite leave to the plaintiff, on the trite ground, (a) of, given the occurrence of demise of co-defendant No.2, one Dev Kanya, during the pendency of the apposite lis, and, her estate thereat, opening to succession, (b) thereupon, causes of action being both segregable, and, independent vis-a-vis all cause(s) of action, embodied, in the extant suit, and, (c) also assigned the further reason of the aforesaid causes of action rather being espousable, through, a separate suit. The aforesaid reasons assigned by the learned trial Court, for declining the apposite leave, upon, the apt application, are, flimsy, and, devoid of any legal strength, for the reasons (a) with the plaintiff, casting, a piercing challenge, to the succession, by co-defendant Dev Kanya, to the estate of one Prithi Singh, under, a purported testamentary disposition made in her favour; (b) with Dev Kanya, expiring ,during the pendency of the suit, whereafter, defendant No.1 vis-a-vis whom, she executed a testamentary disposition, hence, proceeding to produce it, before, the revenue officer concerned, for ensuring an apposite order, of attestation of mutation vis-a-vis her estate hence being recorded qua him, (c) thereupon, with the apposite investing, of, title vis-a-vis the suit land, upon, Dev Kanya, rather occurring under a will purportedly executed vis-a-vis her, by one Prithi Singh, and, with the aforesaid Will, being, cast a challenge through an apposite averment borne in the plaint, (d) hence, with the aforesaid challenge being made, during, the life time of Dev Kanya, and, after her demise, defendant No.1, producing, the latter's Will, for ensuring attestation of mutation vis-a-vis her estate hence being recorded in his favour, (e) hence, beget a sequel of their being no indiligence, on the part of the plaintiff, to initially, in the plaint, embodying, the aforesaid factum, conspicuously when Dev Kanya was alive thereat, and, was impleaded as co-defendant No.2 in the suit. Rather the apposite causes, of, action for a challenge being thrown, to the testamentary disposition, made by Dev Kanya vis-a-vis defendant No.1, arose only, upon, the former's demise, also, arose when it was produced, before, the Revenue Officer concerned, for attestation, of, mutation in consonance therewith.

3. The aforesaid discussion, unfolds, the trite factum of there, being the closest entwinement(s) inter se the relief canvassed initially in the plaint, pointedly, vis-a-vis the valid and due execution, of a testamentary disposition vis-a-vis Dev Kanya, by one Prithi Singh, and, also vis-a-vis the further concomitant purported disability, of Dev Kanya, to further execute a Will, vis-a-vis the estate acquired by her, from, one Priti Singh, upon co-defendant No.1. The close entwinement(s), inter se the aforesaid trite factum(s), was, hence insegregable, and, thereupon, all were concomitantly espousable, through, the plaintiff concerting to seek leave of the Court, to beget averments, in consonance therewith, in the extant suit, rather than the learned trial Court, proceeding to assign untenable and specious reasons, for theirs being segregable, from, the initially cast averments, and, reliefs in the plaint, and, hence, theirs constituting causes of action, independent, from, the ones, initially canvassed in the plaint. More so, when the aforesaid reasons, would beget the ill sequel, of promoting multiplicity(ies) of litigation, whereas, it being an underlined trite principle of law, that causes of action holding interconnectivity rather being enjoined to be joined in the same suit, rather, than the litigants concerned being driven to file separate suits, on purported untenably segregable cause(s) of action.

4. For the foregoing reasons, the instant petition is allowed and the impugned orders are set aside. Consequently, the plaintiff's/petitioner's application, cast under the provisions of Order 6, Rules 17 of the CPC, is allowed, and, he is directed to within four weeks, from today institute the amended plaint, before the learned trial Court. The parties are directed to appear, before, the learned trial Court on 23rd May, 2018. However, it is made clear that the observations made hereinabove shall have no bearings on the merits of the case. No order as to costs. All pending applications also stand disposed of . Records be sent back forthwith.

For the Petitioners : Mr. Rajiv Jiwan, Advocate.
For the Respondents: Mr. Adarsh K. Vashishta, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

One Shankar Singh, and, one Rajender Pal, instituted a suit under Section 91 of the Code of Civil Procedure, espousing therein, relief for removal of one Mahant Nand Lal, alias, Ganga Ram, from, the office of Vahetman/ Manager, of, Mandir Thakurdawara Sita Ramji situated at Village Bari Majherwan, Prgana Tiun, Tehsil Ghumarwin, District Bilaspur, H.P., and, his removal was espoused for hence ensuring, the, proper management, of, the temple, and, its funds. However, the mandate, of, clause (b) of subsection (1) of Section 91 of the CPC, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "91. Public nuisances and other wrongful acts affecting the public.---[(1) In the case of a public nuisance or other wrongful act affecting or likely to affect the public, a suit for a declaration and injunction or for such other relief as may be appropriate in the circumstances of the case, may be instituted,—
> (a) By the Advocate-General, or
>
> (b) With the leave of the court, by two or more persons, even though no special damage has been caused to such persons by reason of such public nuisance or other wrongful act.
> (2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to limit or otherwise affect any right of suit which may exist independently of its provisions."

rather rendered the suit to be maintainable, only, upon an apt leave being accorded by the civil court, and, also enjoined, its, being instituted, by two or more persons. A perusal of the order sheet, recorded by the learned trial Court, on 22.02.2005, unfolds qua the apposite application preferred therebefore, by the co-plaintiffs, being allowed, and, a reading thereof, also brings forth the factum of the trial Court also concluding qua the suit property being public property, and, the suit being instituted, by the co-plaintiffs, in a representative capacity, obviously, for the betterment, and, protection of the charitable endowment. A further reading of the order of 22.02.2005, unfolds, qua the statutory leave hence standing granted by the learned trial Court, vis-a-vis, the co-plaintiffs, also does hence underscore the factum, of, the co-plaintiffs, rather, instituting the suit, in, an apt representative capacity.

2. Further, during the pendency of the aforesaid civil suit instituted, apparently, in an apt representative capacity by the co-plaintiffs, one of the co-plaintiffs, namely one Shankar Singh hence died issueless, and, also defendant No.1 Mahant Nand Lal, hence expired, (a) thereupon, hence a prayer was made for the deletion, of, the name of co-plaintiff No.1 Shankar Singh, and, for the substitution in his place, of, the applicants, in, the array, of, co-plaintiffs, besides the applicants sought relief, for substitution, in the array, of, defendants, of, deceased co-defendant No.1 Mahant Nand Lal, by his legal heirs. Even though, the aforesaid application, was contested by the defendants, yet the learned trial Court, pronounced affirmative orders thereon. The defendants being aggrieved therefrom, hence, institute the instant petition before this Court.

3. As aforestated, the suit being instituted, in, an apt representative capacity, thereupon, for ensuring qua the holistic purpose, embodied therein, rather being not defeated nor frustrated, (i) whereas, the apt ill events qua hence its standing abated, rather would inevitably ensue, upon, the apposite motion standing declined, thereupon, it would not be sagacious for this Court, to reverse the impugned order. Consequently, the impugned order does not suffer from any illegality or impropriety. In sequel, the instant petition is dismissed, and, the order impugned before this Court is maintained and affirmed. The parties are directed to appear before the learned trial Court on 29th August, 2018. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The Insurer of the offending vehicle, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, it, casts challenge, upon, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal(I), Kangra at Dharamshala, H.P., upon, MACP(RBT) No. 58-D/II/2011, whereunder, compensation amount comprised, in, a sum of Rs.8,94,580/- along with costs, and, interest accrued thereon, at the rate of 7.5% per annum, from, the date of petition till realization thereof, stood, assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimant, and, the apposite intemnificatory liability thereof, was, fastened upon the insurer.

2. The claimant/respondent No.1, in sequel, to the rash and negligent manner, of, driving of the offending vehicle by respondent No.2 herein, sustained injuries upon her person, and, in consequence thereof, she, was entailed with 15% permanent disability, disability whereof is pronounced in the apposite disability certificate, borne in Ex.PW1/A. The counsel for the insurer, has, contended with much vehemence before this Court (a) that with the apt insurance policy, borne in Ex.RW3/B, hence, casting an interdiction against respondent No.2 herein, driving the insured vehicle, in, an inebriated condition, and, with apt therewith affirmative evidence standing comprised, in, the report of the FSL concerned, borne in Ex. RW3/C, and, it rather making bespeakings qua respondent No.1, being, at the relevant time, in, an inebriated condition, (b) thereupon, with the apt interdiction borne in Ex.RW3/B, being visibly infringed, thereupon, even if, hence valid affirmative findings, stand, recorded, upon, the issue appertaining to the claimant sustaining injuries on her person, in sequel, to the rash and negligent manner of driving, of, the offending vehicle by the respondent, (c) yet the aforesaid valid espousal, rather rendered unamenable, for, fastening, upon it, the apposite indemnificatory liability. However, the aforesaid contention is rudderless, given this Court in a decision rendered in a case titled as Khem Chand vs. Smt. Uma Devi & Ors, reported in Latest HLJ 2010 (HP)1, mandating, qua the inebriated condition, of, the driver of the offending vehicle, especially, at the relevant time, being statutorily unespousable, by, the Insurance company, as, an apt exculpatory ground.

3. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer has also contended with much vigour, that, with respondent No.2 herein, holding, at the relevant time only a learner's licence, (i) hence, he was, in contemporaneity thereto, rather enjoined to be accompanied, by a licenced driver, (ii) whereas, in contemporaneity, of, occurrence, of, the relevant mishap, his remaining unaccompanied, by a trained licenced driver, (iii) thereupon, it was unbefitting, for, the learned Tribunal, to, fasten the apposite indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer. However, it appears that the aforesaid contention is also surmisally made by the learned counsel appearing for the insurer, (iv) given there existing ample evidence on record, qua, in contemporaneity, of, the occurrence, rather respondent No.2 herein, being accompanied by his father Chattar Singh, who, at the relevant time evidently held the apt driving licence. Since, the efficacy of the aforesaid evidence, remained unconcerted to be undermined, hence the apt corollary thereof, (iv) is qua the purported infringement made by respondent No.1, comprised in his, despite only holding a learner's licence, and, his not, purportedly at the relevant time being accompanied, by a well trained licenced driver, and, hence purported apt breaches being committed by him, vis-a-vis, the insurance policy, rather being unamenable to a construction qua their being any evident transgression or breaches of the apposite insurance policy, hence, the apt fastening(s), of, the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer is construable, to be both valid and befitting.

4. The learned counsel, appearing for the insurer, has proceeded to contend (a) that the quantification of compensation made, vis-a-vis, the claimant, under the apposite heads of pain or sufferings, and, medical expenses both being excessive and exorbitant, given there existing no evidence on record, in support thereto. A sum of Rs.2 lacs, stands, awarded, under, the head “pain and suffering”, and, in making the aforesaid assessment, the learned tribunal, has, borne in mind, the factum of the claimant, remaining hospitalized w.e.f. 6.11.2010 to 12.12.2010. Consequently, the prime reason, for, assessing compensation, vis-a-vis, the claimant, under, the head “pain and sufferings”, rather ensues from hers remaining hospitalized for the aforesaid period, (b) thereupon, it was hence inappropriate for the learned tribunal to deduce therefrom, given, the aforesaid minimal period of hospitalization of the claimant, hers being entitled, to compensation in a sum of Rs.two lacs under the head “pain and sufferings”. Consequently, the aforesaid amount is reduced from Rs. Two lacs to Rs.50,000/-. The aforesaid reduction is strengthened by the fact, that, the learned tribunal, under, the head of “expenses towards conveyance and food nourishment”, rather proceeding to award a sum of Rs.50,000/-.

5. The assessment of compensation, comprised in a sum of Rs.53,380/- under the head “medical expenses” though, is in stark disconcurrence, with, the total of Exts. P-1 to P-23, yet the aforesaid factum would not constrain this Court, to reduce the compensation assessed, under the aforesaid head, (a) given the severity or gravity of the permanent disability entailed upon her, and, as stands pronounced, in, disability certificate, borne in Ex.PW1/A, (b) besides reiteratedly when the expenses incurred by the claimant, for, hers recuperating, from, the injuries suffered in the mishap, rather, are, concomitantly construable, to, borne in an amount higher, than, the one personified in Ex.P-1 to P-23, (c) hence, non adduction of bill towards medical expenses, are, construable to be a sequel of the claimant, not, maintaining all the bills, appertaining to the expenses incurred by her, towards, purchasing medicines, for treating the apt injuries. Consequently, the assessment of compensation in a sum of Rs.53,380/- under the head “medical expenses”, vis-a-vis, the claimant, is, not amenable to reduction.

6. The learned Tribunal had assessed a sum of Rs.one lakh as compensation, vis-a-vis, the claimant under the head “loss, of, future amenities, and, expectation of life”, and, the reason for making the aforesaid quantification, has arisen from Ex.PW1/A, making a clear pronouncement, of, 15% disability being entailed upon the claimant, and, it being permanent in nature besides the chances of reduction, of, the disability being bleak, (a) and, with PW-1 testifying qua the apt per centum, of disability rather perennially affecting, the capacity, of, the injured, to perform manual work, thereupon, in the learned tribunal hence assessing compensation towards loss of future amenities and expectation of life, vis-a-vis, claimant, has obviously borne in mind the aforesaid trite factum, (c) obviously, therefrom the inevitable inference, is, qua the severity and gravity of the disability, when visibly perennially affects or precludes the claimant, to enjoy to the fullest her life, besides hence the apt disability rather hampering the facile movement, of, a vital member, of her body, (d) thereupon, with, the concomitant entailment, of, pain and suffering, upon, the claimant being also perennial, besides there being, also, a, concomitant perennial, trammeling, in, the claimant hence enjoying, her, life to the fullest, (e) hence, the assessment, as, done by the learned tribunal, of compensation, under, the head "loss of future amenities and expectation of life", vis-a-vis, claimant, does not suffer from any gross error.

7. However, the learned tribunal has committed gross error while assessing compensation, of Rs.3,00,000/- vis-a-vis the claimant/respondent herein under the head of disability, rather has erroneously applied, the mandate of the Hon'ble Apex Court in a case titled as Mallikarjun v. Divisional Manager, reported in AIR 2014, S.C., 736, mandate whereof is applicable only vis-a-vis the children hence suffering disability in a motor vehicle accident. Consequently, this court proceeds to assess compensation, vis-a-vis, the claimants under the aforesaid head i.e. compensation on account of disability, on anvil (a) of, with the per mensem salary, of, the petitioner/injured, standing comprised, in a sum of Rs.36,000/- per month, (b) and, with hers as depicted in the discharge slip, being aged about 50 years, at the time of the apt occurrence, consequenlty, an apt multiplier of 13 is applicable thereon. Keeping in view, that, the permanent disability is 15%, hence, compensation under this head, is, worked out at Rs.84,240/-

8. For the foregoing reasons, the instant appeal is partly allowed and in the aforesaid manner the award impugned before this Court is modified. Consequently, the claimant/respondent No.1 herein is entitled to compensation in a sum of Rs.4,28,820/- (Rs. Four lacs, twenty eight thousand and eight hundred twenty only) with costs and interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum from the date of petition till realization thereof. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted in the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. The indemnificatory liability of the aforesaid compensation amount shall be of the insurer of the offending vehicle. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal stands directed against the award pronounced by the Learned Motor Accident Claim Tribunal (I), Solan, H.P., whereby, the learned Tribunal adjudged compensation, vis-a-vis, the LRs of deceased Palat Sahani, who met his end, in an accident caused, by the rash negligent driving of the offending vehicle, by one Tikka Ram(respondent No.6 herein). The quantum, of, compensation amount adjudged thereunder vis-a-vis the legal heirs of deceased Palak Sahni, is, constituted in a sum of Rs.17,37,000/- and interest at the rate of 7 ½% per annum, is, levied thereon, commencing, from, the date of petition uptill its deposit. Out of the aforesaid compensation amount petitioner No.1, is, held entitled to 50%, and, the remaining 50% of the compensation amount, is, ordered to be apportioned inter se petitioner No.2 to 4 in equal shares, and, their shares, are, ordered to be invested in FDR in a nationalized bank, till they attain majority. Obviously indemnificatory liability thereof, has been fastened, upon the insurer/appellant herein. The Appellant/insurer is aggrieved therefrom, hence, has instituted the instant appeal before this Court.

2.In sequel to a collision, which occurred inter se motor cycle bearing No. HP-12-8143, whereon Palat Sahni was astride as a pillion rider, and, the offending vehicle bearing No. HP-12-3104, the aforesaid Palak Sahni, hence, suffered fatal injuries. The learned Tribunal had rendered affirmative findings, upon, the issue appertaining, to, the apt collision being, a, sequel of rash and negligent driving, of, the offending vehicle, by respondent No.6 herein. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer has contested the validity, of, the aforesaid findings rendered, upon, the aforesaid issue, and, contends that the findings are amenable for reversal, (a) given, the learned tribunal rather meteing credence only, vis-a-vis, the contents, borne in the apposite FIR, borne in Ex.PW1/A, whereas, it did not constitute, the, apt substantive piece of evidence. However, the aforesaid submission falters, (b) given apart from the apt FIR borne in Ex.PW1/A, the petitioners leading into the witness box, an ocular witness to the occurrence, one Dalip Sahni, PW-4, who in his examination-in-chief, has, supported the averments borne in the claim petition, qua, the ill fated collision being a sequel of rash and negligent manner of driving, of, the offending vehicle, by respondent No.6

herein. The aforesaid rendered echoings, borne in the examination-in-chief of PW-4, though were concerted to be ridden, with an aura of falsity, by the counsel for the insurer, by his subjecting him, to, a scathing cross-examination, (c) nonetheless, even during course thereof, he was unable to elicit from PW-4, any, echoing for eroding, the veracity of the echoings, borne in his examination-in-chief, wherein, he squarely attributed negligence to respondent No.6 herein, in, the latter driving the offending vehicle, (d) and, further with aplomb, rendered echoings qua hence the apt collision rather ensuing. In aftermath, the affirmative findings returned by the learned tribunal, upon, the issue appertaining, to, the apt collision being a sequel, of, rash and negligent manner, of, driving of the offending vehicle by respondent No.6 herein, do not warrant any interference.

3. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer, has contended with much vigour, (a) that with there existing infirm evidence, vis-a-vis, the per mensem salary of the deceased, thereupon, it was unbefitting for the learned tribunal, to, compute the per mensem salary, of, deceased Palat Sahni, to be borne, in a sum of Rs.7000/-. Contrarily, he contends that the apt per mensem salary derivable by the deceased, from, his apt employment hence being computed in a figure equivalent to the one meteable, under, the apposite notification, vis-a-vis, the category appertaining, to unskilled workman, in category whereof, the deceased Palat Sahni, rather hence fell. In making the aforesaid submission, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer, has laid dependence, upon, the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in a case titled as Govind Yadav v. New India Assurance Co. Ltd., reported in 2012 ACJ 28, the relevant paragraph No.17 whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "17. A brief recapitulation of the facts shows that in the petition filed by him for award of compensation, the appellant had pleaded that at the time of accident he was working as Helper and was getting salary of Rs.4,000/- per month. The Tribunal discarded his claim on the premise that no evidence was produced by him to prove the factum of employment and payment of salary by the employer. The Tribunal then proceeded to determine the amount of compensation in lieu of loss of earning by assuming the appellant's income to be Rs.15,000/- per annum. On his part, the learned Single Judge of the High Court assumed that while working as a Cleaner, the appellant may have been earning Rs.2,000/- per month and accordingly assessed the compensation under the first head. Unfortunately, both the Tribunal and the High Court overlooked that at the relevant time minimum wages payable to a worker were Rs.3,000/- per month. Therefore, in the absence of other cogent evidence, the Tribunal and the High Court should have determined the amount of compensation in lieu of loss of earning by taking the appellant's notional annual income as Rs.36,000/- and the loss of earning on account of 70% permanent disability as Rs.25,200/- per annum.
> The application of multiplier of 17 by the Tribunal, which was approved by the High Court will have to be treated as erroneous in view of the judgment in Sarla Verma v. Delhi Transport Corporation (2009) 6 SCC 121. In para 42 of that judgment, the Court has indicated that if the age of the victim of an accident is 24 years, then the appropriate multiplier would be 18. By applying that multiplier, we hold that the compensation payable to the appellant in lieu of the loss of earning would be Rs.4,53,600/-." (p...35)

However, the aforesaid submission is not amenable for acceptance by this Court, (a) given the judgment (supra) being anchored, upon, want of any cogent corroborative evidence in respect, of the claimant therein, excepting his self serving testimony, qua his hence drawing per mensem salary, hence, borne in a sum of Rs.4000/-, (b) thereupon, the Hon'ble Apex Court being constrained to record, finding(s) qua the learned Tribunal, and, the High Court concerned, hence falling into error, in, computing the annual salary, of, the deceased therein, being borne in a sum of Rs.48,000/-, (c) rather contrarily hereat, the victim of the apt collision, suffered his demise, and, also apart from the testimony rendered, by one Meena Devi, qua the deceased Palat Sahni, drawing per mensem salary borne, in, a sum of Rs.5,000/-, the claimants also ensured the stepping into the witness box, of, the employer of deceased Palat Sahni, (c) who while stepping into the witness box has tendered into evidence his affidavit, borne in ex.PW5/A, wherein, he makes similar therewith echoings, vis-a-vis, the per mensem salary, of deceased Palat Sahni rather being Rs.5000/-, (d) and in addition to the aforesaid salary, his also paying to the deceased expenses of food, clothes and residence, (e) and, thereafter, upon, his being subjected to cross-examination, he has denied suggestions, as, put to him, by the counsel for the insurer qua his rendering, a false deposition, (f) rather only, upon, the mere factum, of, PW-5 making echoings, during, the course of his being cross-examined by the counsel for the insurer, qua his omitting to maintain records, in respect of his liquidating Rs.5,000/-, as, per mensem salary, to, the deceased. (g) Thereupon, the counsel for the insurer has contended, that, no credence is to be meted to the aforesaid testification, of, PW-5, as, occurring in his examination-in-chief. However, even the aforesaid submission is bereft of any vigour, (h) given the counsel for the insurer not thereafter contesting the factum of PW-5, holding land measuring 50 bighas, nor the counsel for the insurer, ensuring, the stepping into the witness box, of, the persons holding lands adjoining the land of PW-5, and, theirs making testification qua PW-5, not, engaging deceased Palat Sahni, as a farm labourer, (i) whereas, it constituted the best befitting evidence to erode the veracity, of the apt testification, borne, in the examination-in-chief of PW-5, the employer of Palat Sahni. Also the absence of PW-5 rather omitting to maintain the apt records qua his liquidating wages per mensem borne, in a sum of Rs.5000/- to the deceased, cannot coax any inference, holding leanings, vis-a-vis, the insurer, given non taxability of farm income, whereupon, hence no records were enjoined to be maintained by PW-5, in respect of his liquidating wages qua Palat Sahni, borne in a sum of Rs.5000/- per mensem. In aftermath, it is to be concluded that the computation made by the learned tribunal qua the deceased Palat Sahni hence drawing per mensem salary borne in a sum of Rs.7000/- inclusive of expenses of food, cloth and residence, not meriting any interference, (j) besides preeminently for all the aforesaid reasons, the reliance placed by the learned counsel appearing for the insurer upon Govind Yadav's case (supra), is, misfounded, given the mandate thereof being applicable, only, in the event, when, excepting the self serving statement of the claimants, no evidence in support thereof being adduced, whereas, reiteratedly, the apt best corroborative evidence, comprised in the testification of PW-5, the deceased's employer rather hereat visibly exists.

4. The deceased, is, in the postmortem report, is reflected to be aged 28 years, at the relevant time. With the Hon'ble Apex Court, in case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, the relevant paragraph No.59 extracted hereinafter:

> "59.Having bestowed our anxious consideration, we are disposed to think when we accept the principle of standardization, there is really no rationale not to apply the said principle to the self-employed or a person who is on a fixed salary. To follow the doctrine of actual income at the time of death and not to add any amount with regard to future prospects to the income for the purpose of determination of multiplicand would be unjust. The determination of income while computing compensation has to include future prospects so that the method will come within the ambit and sweep of just compensation as > postulated under Section 168 of the Act. In case of a deceased who had held a permanent job with inbuilt grant of annual increment, there is an acceptable certainty. But to state that the legal representatives of a deceased who was on a fixed salary would not be entitled to the benefit of future prospects for the purpose of computation of compensation would be inapposite. It is because the criterion of distinction between the two in that event would be certainty on the one hand and staticness on the other. One may perceive that the comparative measure is certainty on the one hand and uncertainty on the other but such a perception is fallacious. It is because the price rise does affect a self-employed person; and that apart there is always an incessant effort to enhance one's income for sustenance. The purchasing capacity of a salaried person on permanent job when increases because of grant of increments and pay revision or for some other change in service conditions, there is always a competing attitude in the private sector to enhance the salary to get better efficiency from the employees. Similarly, a person who is self-employed is bound to garner his resources and raise his charges/fees so that he can live with same facilities. To have the perception that he is likely to remain static and his income to remain stagnant is contrary to the fundamental concept of human attitude which always intends to live with dynamism and move and change with the time. Though it may seem appropriate that there cannot be certainty in addition of future prospects to the existing income unlike in the case of a person having a permanent job, yet the said perception does not really deserve acceptance. We are inclined to think that there can be some degree of difference as regards the percentage that is meant for or applied to in respect of the legal representatives who claim on behalf of the deceased who had a permanent job than a person who is self-employed or on a fixed salary. But not to apply the principle of standardization on the foundation of perceived lack of certainty would tantamount to remaining oblivious to the marrows of ground reality. And, therefore, degree-test is imperative. Unless the degree-test is applied and left to the parties to adduce evidence to establish, it would be unfair and inequitable. The degree-test has to have the inbuilt concept of percentage. Taking into consideration the cumulative factors, namely, passage of time, the changing society, escalation of price, the change in price index, the human attitude to follow a particular pattern of life,etc., an addition of 40% of the established income of the deceased towards future prospects and where the deceased was below 40 years an addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years would be reasonable."

expostulating (i) that where the deceased concerned, is rendering employment, in non government organization(s), as is the apt employment, of, the deceased, (a) thereupon, hikes or accretions, on anvil of future incremental prospects vis-a-vis the salary drawn by him, at the time contemporaneous, to, the ill fated mishap, from his employer, being also meteable thereto. However, before applying the mandate of the aforesaid relevant paragraph, borne in the judgment supra, it is significant to also bear in mind, the age of the deceased, (ii) since the postmortem report reflects, the deceased being aged 28 years, at the relevant time, hence with the afore extracted paragraph, mandating, of, accretions towards future incremental prospects vis-a-vis the salary drawn by the deceased, being pegged upto 40% thereof, besides being tenably meteable vis-a-vis the apposite last drawn salary. Consequently, after meteing 40% increase(s) vis-a-vis the apposite last drawn salary, thereupon, the relevant last drawn salary of the deceased is recoknable to be Rs.9800/-, [Rs.7000(last drawn salary of the deceased)+Rs.2800/-(40% of the last drawn salary). Significantly, the number of dependents, of, the deceased, are, four, hence, 1/4th deduction is to be visited upon a sum of Rs.9800/-, hence, after making apt aforesaid deduction vis-a-vis Rs.9800/-, the per mensem dependency comes to Rs.7350/-. In sequel whereto, the annual dependency, of the dependents, upon, the income of the deceased is computed, at Rs.7350x12=Rs.88,200/-. After applying the apposite multiplier of 16, the total compensation amount, is assessed in a sum of Rs.88,200 x16=Rs.14,11,200/- (Rs. Fourteen Lacs, eleven thousand and two hundred only.

5. However, the quantification, of damages, by the learned Tribunal in a sum of Rs.1 lacs vis-a-vis, the widow of deceased, (i) under the head, loss of consortium, (ii) and quantification, of compensation vis-a-vis, the off springs of the deceased, under the head, loss of care and guidance, is (a) in, conflict with the mandate of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in Pranay Sethi's case (supra), (b) wherein, it has been expostulated, that reasonable figures, under conventional heads, namely, loss to estate, loss of consortium vis-a-vis the widow of the deceased, and, funeral expenses being quantified only upto Rs.15,000/-, Rs.40,000/-, and Rs.15,000/- respectively, (iii) and, with no expostulation occurring therein vis-a-vis the compensation amount(s), being awardable, to the off springs of the deceased, especially under the head, loss of care and guidance, hence reliefs in respect thereto being impermissibly granted. Consequently, the award of the learned tribunal is interfered, to the extent aforesaid, of, its determining compensation, under, the aforesaid heads vis-a-vis the widow of the deceased, as also, vis-a-vis the off springs. Accordingly, in addition to the aforesaid amount of Rs.14,11,200/-, the petitioners, are, entitled under conventional heads, namely, loss to estate, loss of consortium, and, funeral expenses, sums of Rs.15,000/-, Rs.40,000/- and Rs.15,000/- respectively, as such, the total compensation to which the petitioners are entitled comes to Rs.14,11,200 + Rs.15,000/- + Rs.40,000/- + Rs.15,000/-= Rs.14,81,200/-(Rs. Fourteen lakhs, eleven thousand and two hundred only).

6. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the insurer is partly allowed, and, the impugned award, is, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified. Accordingly, the petitioners, are, held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.14,81,200/-, along with pending and future interest @7.5 %, from, the date of petition till the date, of, deposit, of the compensation amount. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted in the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. Out of the aforesaid compensation amount, claimant Meena Devi being the wife of the deceased shall be entitled to 50 % of the compensation amount, and, the remaining 50% of the compensation amount be apportioned in equal shares amongst the minor children of the deceased Palat Sahni. The shares of the minor children, shall remain invested, in FDRs, upto, the stage of theirs attaining majority. However, interest accrued thereon, shall be releasable vis-a-vis their mother, only when she explains, of, its being required, for, the upkeep and benefit of her minor children. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

All the aforesaid appeals are being disposed of by a common judgment, as, all arise, from, a common verdict rendered, by the learned trial Court.

2. The learned trial Court convicted the accused/convicts, namely, Jagdev Singh, Anil Kumar, Gurjeet Singh and Shayamu Yadav, for the charges framed under Section 392, and, under Section 323 of the IPC read with Section 34 of the IPC, whereas, it pronounced an order of acquittal, upon the accused, vis-a-vis, offences punishable, under Section 307 of the IPC, and, under Section 24 of the Arms Act, 1959.

3. Amongst the convicts, only Jagdev Singh, Gurjeet Singh and Shayamu Yadav, have instituted rather separate appeals therefrom, whereas, accused Anil Kumar, has not, instituted any appeal, vis-a-vis, the aforesaid order, of, conviction hence recorded against him. The learned trial Court proceeded to impose sentences of imprisonment, upon, the convicts in the hereinafter extracted manner:-

| Sr. No. | Sections | Sentence |
|---|---|---|
| 1. | 392, IPC | Each of the convicts are sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for 7 years and also to pay fine of Rs.10,000/- each. In the event of non payment of fine, the defaulting convict shall further undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year. |
| 2. | 323, IPC | The convicts are sentenced to rigorous imprisonment for six months and to pay fine of Rs.2000/- each and in the event of non payment of fine, the defaulting convict shall further undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year. |

All the sentences ordered to run concurrently.

4. Even the State of Himachal Pradesh, has not preferred any appeal against the order of acquittal, as, pronounced upon the convicts, for the charges respectively framed against the convicts, for, theirs allegedly committing offences punishable under Section 307 of the IPC, and, under Section 25 of the Arms Act.

5. The facts relevant to decide the instant case that one Harvinder Singh, complainant reported the matter to the police stating that he was owner-cum-driver of a car bearing No. Hr-01u-3717, which was being used as taxi by him. On 16.06.2012, this car had been hired by four persons, from the taxi union at Gagan Chowk, Rajpur, for the purpose of paying a visit to Mata Naina Devi Temple The taxi fare was settled at Rs.1,700/-. ON the way, these persons had taken dinner at about 11.30 p.m., in a hotel, situated a some distance short of Kiratpur Sahib. Thereafter, the journey had been resumed and at a place about two kilometers short of Naina Devi Temple, the said passengers asked the complainant to to stop the car, since they want to vomit. The complainant stopped the vehicle. Further that upon getting down, one of the passengers pointed a revolver towards the complainant and asked him to sit on the rear seat of the vehicle and told him that thereafter, the vehicle would be driven by them. The complainant was made to sit on the rear seat and the vehicle was taken by one of the said persons on the Bhakara road. After going for about 5-6 kilometers, the complainant was made to alight from the vehicle, again pointing the gun towards him. The mobile phone of the complainant bearing SIM no. 09878220792 alongwith Rs.1,000/- were snatched by the said persons and the complainant was pushed down into a gorge. The accused simultaneously kept pelting stones on him, from the road, and thereafter, took away the vehicle of the complainant. The complainant was able to get up and reach the road with great difficulty and had somehow managed to reach on foot at police post, Shri Naina Devi Ji. On the basis of these averments, the FIR was lodged and initial investigation was under taken by Inspector/SHO Shyam Chand and thereafter, by Inspector SHO/Tilak Raj, who conducting partial investigations, handed over the file to ASI Harpal Singh, for further investigations. During investigation, the IO visited the spot along with the complainant and prepared the spot map. The statement of the complainant was recorded. Thereafter police completed all the investigating formalities and arrested the accused.

6. On conclusion of the investigation, into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused, a report, under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, was prepared, and, filed before the learned trial Court.

7. The accused/convicts stood charged, by the learned trial Court, for, theirs committing offences, punishable under Section 392, 307 read with Section 34 of the IPC and Section 25 of he Arms Act. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 23 witnesses. On conclusion of recording, of, the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused, under, Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, were, recorded by the learned trial Court, wherein, the accused claimed innocence, and, pleaded false implication in the case.

8. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of conviction upon the accused/convicts, for theirs hence committing, the, aforesaid offences hence punishable under Section 392 and Section 323 of the IPC, read, with Section 34 of the IPC, whereas, it ac1uitted the accused of the offences punishable under Section 307 of the IPC, and, under Section 25 of the Arms Act.

9. The appellants herein/accused, stands aggrieved, by the findings of conviction, recorded, by the learned trial Court. The learned counsel appearing, for, the appellants herein/accused, has concertedly and vigorously contended, qua the findings of conviction, recorded by the learned trial Court, standing not, based on a proper appreciation, by it, of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation, by it, of the material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction warranting reversal by this Court, in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, and, theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

10. On the other hand, the learned Addl. Advocate General has with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of conviction, recorded, by the learned trial Court, rather standing based, on a mature and balanced appreciation, by it, of the evidence on record, and, theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

11. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

12. Primarily, the prime prosecution witness, PW-5 one Harviner Singh, upon whose complaint, comprised in Ex.PW5/A, the apposite FIR, borne in Ex.PW 13/A, was lodged with the Police station concerned, has therein made candid unfoldings, vis-a-vis, the apt penal misdemeanors being committed by the convicts/accused, (i) also, when he stepped into the witness box, he has in absolute tandem therewith rendered echoings qua the accused, whom he proceeded to identify in Court, forcibly fleeing with his vehicle, mobile phone, and, cash of Rs.1000/-, (ii) also in his testification, borne in his examination-in-chief, he has made clear articulations therein, qua the recovery, of, the vehicle, country made pistol, Ex.P-2, and, mobile phone Ex.P-4, standing effectuated at the instance of the accused. In his testification, borne in his cross-examination, he has not made any bespeakings therein, (iii) whereupon, it may be concluded qua his deposition, comprised, in his examination-in-chief, being eroded, thereupon, it is to be concluded qua his testifications, borne in his examination-in-chief, and, in his cross-examination both being apparently bereft of any rife contradictions, improvements, and, gross embellishments, vis-a-vis,his previous statement recorded in writing, (iv) and, hence, the apt probative vigour is enjoined to be imputed to his testification. In addition, when the convicts/accused omitted to repel the factum, of theirs, being identified by PW-5, in Court, also when, for reasons assigned hereafter, when the apt recoveries, stand efficaciously proven, thereupon, it is to be formidably concluded qua the prosecution, hence proving the charge(s) against the accused.

13. Be that as it may, the testification qua the genesis of the prosecution case, as, rendered by PW-5, also acquires corroboration, from, the testification rendered by PW-3, the Investigation Officer concerned, and, from the testification of PW-18, ASI Harpal Sigh, both whereof visibly hence render testifications, bereft of any gross embellishments or improvements, vis-a-vis, their respectively, recorded previous statements recorded in writing, hence, their testifications purvey the utmost corroboration to the testification, of, PW-4, thereupon an inference, is bolstered qua the prosecution, rather firmly nailing the charges against the accused.

14. Nowat, the factum of the prosecution also succeeding in proving the apt charges, acquires galvanized momentum, and, ensues from (i) co-convict Jagdev Singh making a disclosure statement, borne in Ex.PW1/A, whereon PW-1 Amarjeet Singh appended his signatures, as witness thereto, and, latter whereof rather in his testification, hence, lending candid proof qua all the recitals, borne therein, holding veracity, (ii) and, when thereafter under recovery memo, borne in Ex.PW1/B, the recovery of the apt stolen vehicle, stood effectuated, whereon also the signatures of PW-1, stand appended, latter whereof, in his testification rendered on oath, also hence, proves the veracity, of all the recitals borne therein, (iii) thereupon, with tenacious evidence hence standing adduced, for, efficaciously proving the recovery, of, the apt vehicle, as, validly effectuated thereunder, concomitantly, hence the charge framed under Section 392 read with Section 34 of the IPC against the convicts, hence stands firmly proved, besides also lends an apt firm probative vigour, to, the uneroded testification of PW-5.

15. Co-convict Anil Kumar, rendered his disclosure statement, borne in Ex.PW2/A, and, thereon, PW-2 Jarnail Singh, has appended his signatures, as a witness thereto, and, thereafter under Ex.PW2/C, recovery, of, the items borne therein, hence, stood effectuated, at the instance of convict Anil Kumar, whereon also the signatures of PW-2, as, a witness thereto, rather stand appended, (i) and, with PW-2 Jarnail Singh, in his testification on oath, making echoings, in, proof, of, apt veracities, of, all the recitals borne therein, (ii) hence, the apt sequitur thereof, is, qua the aforesaid valid recovery(ies), of, all items borne in Ex.PW2/C, hence, being cogently proven, to, stand effectuated thereunder, and, also thereupon corroboration, standing meted, vis-a-vis, the uneroded testification qua the genesis of the prosecution case, as, rendered by PW-5.

16. Furthermore, the place of occurrence was identified, under a disclosure statement, rendered by co-convict Shayamu Yadav, and, as comprised in Ex.PW4/A. PW-4 Jasbir Singh, witness thereto, in his testification, proves all the recitals borne therein, thereupon, it is to be invincibly concluded, qua the prosecution also proving the place, whereat, the occurrence took place, besides formidably proves qua the participation therein, of all the convicts. The reason for forming the aforesaid conclusion, arises, from the factum of each of the witness(es) to the above stated memos, even during the course of theirs being subjected, to, the ordeal, of, a rigorous cross-examinations, theirs yet remaining unshattered, whereupon, reiteratedly credibility is to be imputed, to their respective testifications rendered, qua, the relevant factum probandum, and, as borne, in their respective examinations-in-chief.

17. The learned trial Court had, upon, anvil of Ex.PW10/B, making disclosures qua the victim/complainant, in sequel to an assault being perpetrated, upon him, by the convicts, his being entailed with simple injuries, upon his person, hence recorded a conclusion against the accused, qua theirs committing, an offence constituted under Section 323 of the IPC read with Section 34 of the IPC. Since, the aforesaid medical evidence also bears concurrence, with, the uneroded testification, of, PW-5, thereupon, the findings of conviction recorded, upon, the co-convicts, for theirs committing offences punishable, under Section 323, IPC read with Section 34 of the IPC, are, sustainable. Consequently, the findings recorded by the learned trial qua the accused committing offences punishable under Section 392 and Section 323 of the IPC read with Section 34 of the IPC, do not, suffer from any infirmity.

18. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court, has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner, apart therefrom, the analysis of the material, on record, by the learned trial court, hence, not suffering from any gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of germane evidence on record.

19. Consequently, all the appeals are dismissed. In sequel, the impugned judgment is affirmed and maintained. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Bilaspur, had, vis-a-vis the dependents, of, deceased Dixant Sharma, who met his end in a motor vehicle accident, spurring, from the rash, and, negligent manner of driving, of, the offending vehicle, by Munnabar Shah, respondent No.2, hence, computed compensation, borne in a sum of Rs.16,95,000/-, along with interest, at, the rate of 7.5% per annum, from, the date of institution of petition, till its final realization. The indemnificatory liability thereof, was, burdened upon the insurer, of, the offending vehicle. The insurer as also the claimants, are, aggrieved by the award pronounced by the learned Tribunal, in, Claim Petition No. 5/2 of 2016, hence, they respectively instituted, the aforesaid appeals, before this Court.

2. The learned counsel appearing, for the insurer, of the offending vehicle, has, contended with vigour, that the learned tribunal has fallaciously rendered, hence, affirmative findings, upon, the issue appertaining to the the relevant collision, which, occurred inter se the motor cycle bearing No.HP-33(T)-8275, whereon the deceased was astride, as, its driver, and, the offending vehicle, bearing No. HP-02-1662, being, a, sequel of rash and negligent manner of driving of the offending bus, by Munnabar Shah, respondent No.2. He contends, that, the apt collision, which occurred, inter se, the offending bus, and, the motor cycle, whereon, the deceased was astride, as its driver, rather being a sequel, of, rash and negligent manner, of, hence its driving, by deceased one Dixant Sharma. However, the aforesaid contention, cannot be accepted, given apart, from, the apt FIR, standing registered against respondent No.2, an eye witness to the accident, PW-2 Paras Pande, in his testification, comprised in his examination-in-chief, rather proving all the incriminatory recitals, borne therein, wherein, he makes pointed articulations, bearing, concurrence with the apt recitals borne in the FIR, Ex.PW1/C, testification whereof borne in his examination-in-chief, rather remained unshattered of its efficacy, even during the exacting ordeal of his being subjected, to, an inexorable cross-examination, by the learned counsel appearing, for the insurer. The apt sequitur thereof, is, qua the affirmative findings rendered by the learned Tribunal, upon, the issue appertaining to the apt collision, being a sequel, of, rash and negligent manner, of, driving of the offending bus, by respondent No.2, rather not suffering from any apparent fallacy.

3. Be that as it may, one Nindu Shrma, the mother of the deceased, as apparent, from a perusal, of, her testimony, as placed before this Court, for its perusal by the learned counsel for the claimants, makes therein only a bald testification, unsupported by any apt befitting best corroborative evidence thereof, qua the deceased, from his purported avocation, of, his imparting private coaching(s) to students, from, his abode, his hence drawing, a, per mensem salary of Rs.15,000/-, hence, in the learned tribunal, not, meteing any credence thereto, is, rather construable, to make hence befitting, and, sagacious, apt conclusion. The learned counsel, for the insurer, further more contends, that hence the award of the learned tribunal, computing a sum of Rs.10,000/-, as per mensem salary, drawn by the deceased, on his coming, to be employed as an Engineer, rather warranting interference by this Court. However, the learned counsel appearing for the claimants, in FAO No. 75 of 2018, has contended with much vigour, that, with the deceased in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, his demise, evidently as personified by Ex.PW1/J, prosecuting his 5th semester in B. Tech Civil Engineering course, and, with PW-3 one Rakesh Kumar, rendering, a, testification qua his after completing, his B. Tech engineering course, his being deployed, as, a Junior Engineer, in the PWD department, and, his rearing a salary of Rs.17,000/- per mensem, (i) thereupon, when hence imminently, the deceased would akin therewith, rather upon his completing his engineering course, would obtain a similar employment hence in a government sector or in a semi government sector, and, would also draw a salary akin to the salary, drawn by PW-3, hence, the salary, of, the deceased was enjoined to be computed in consonance therewith, and, significantly without any deduction, therefrom being meted, as untenably meted by the learned tribunal. The veracity of Ex.PW1/J, is, not contested by the insurer. The prestige of the college, whereat, the deceased, at the relevant time, was prosecuting his studies, is also not cast any shadow of doubt. The effects thereof (i) are that deceased Dixant Sharma, on completing his engineering course, his, hence definitely securing an apt employment, either in government sector, or in a non government sector, whereupon, there being also a likelihood, of, his drawing a salary not less than Rs.17,000/- per mensem. The effect of the aforesaid inference, would be eroded, (ii) only, upon, evidence being adduced, by the insurer, comprised, in the graduates of the apt College, of Engineering, on obtaining, hence, employments in the government sector or in the non government sector, theirs drawing salary less than Rs.17,000/- per mensem. However, the aforesaid evidence is amiss, thereupon, it is concluded that deceased Dixant Sharma, would, on completing his engineering course, from, the College of Engineering, would hence definitely rather draw a salary not less than Rs.17,000/-, upon, his coming to be employed with a government agency or with a non government agency. However, keeping in view the facts and circumstances of the case, the per mensem salary of the deceased, is, presumed to be Rs.15,000/-.

4. The learned counsel appearing, for the insurer has relied, upon paragraph No. 58, of, a decision rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court, in case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, the relevant paragraph No.58 extracted hereinafter:

> "58. The seminal issue is the fixation of future prospects in cases of deceased who were self employed or on a fixed salary. Sarla Verma, 2009 ACJ 1298 (SC) has carved out an exception permitting the claimants to bring materials on record to get the benefit of addition of future prospects It has not, per se, allowed any future prospects in respect of the said category."

and has, hence, contended (i) that with, a, trite expostulation existing therein vis-a-vis, the validity(ies), of meteing, of hikes vis-a-vis the future incremental prospects qua the last salary drawn, by the deceased, being bedrocked, upon, firm evidence qua the deceased, at the relevant time, holding, a permanent job, and, his being below 40 years, (ii) thereupon, with, the extant factual scenario, rather visibly, depicting only qua the mere likelihood, of, the deceased, being employed, on his completing, the apt engineering course, from, the apt College of Engineering, hence, he cannot per se be concluded, to, with any iota, of, certitude, hence, rear an income of Rs.15,000/- per mensem, upon the concomitant, mere, likelihood, of, his gaining employment in a Government sector or in a non government sector, nor hence he can be concluded to be holding, any, indefeasible entitlement(s) qua hence any meteings, of, any hikes and accretions, towards, future prospects, upon, the aforesaid per mensem salary. (iii) Moreso, reemphasisingly, when, the aforesaid paragraph, appertains, to a scenario, where, the deceased, at the relevant time, hence, holds a permanent employment, whereas, the deceased contrarily hereat rather evidently, not, at the relevant time, hence holding, any permanent employment, either, in the government sector or in the non government sector, (iv) thereupon, render infirms, hence, any, apt meteings, of the relevant hikes, vis-a-vis, the further incremental prospects. The aforesaid submission does hold vigour, given, a clear precise expostulation, occurring in paragraph supra, of, the deceased, at the relevant stage, being enjoined to evidently, hold a permanent job, and, his (v) also his evidently drawing, therefrom, a certain income also when hence it cannot be concluded that, upon, his completing, the apt Engineering course, he, would definitely secure, a permanent job, with a government agency or with a non government agency, nor thereupon it can be hence concluded, of, his deriving any certain income therefrom, (vi) yet the apt meteing(s), do, despite haziness qua the certainity, of, his employment, and, also nebulousness, qua certainity, of, derival, of, income therefrom, rather arise, from, the imminent likelihood, of, the deceased, on completing his course, in engineering, his hence getting tan apt employment, with, a government agency, or in a non government agency, especially when the aforesaid imminence, of, all likelihood(s), is, rather axed, by the fatal accident, (vii) thereupon, renders attracted hereat, the mandate, occurring in the paragraph 59, of the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court, rendered, in Pranay Sethi's case (supra), paragraph whereof stands extracted hereinafter, (viii) conspicuously, when, hence, for all aforestated reasons, this Court, is, disinclined, to, accept the apposite herewith, all, the aforesaid submission(s), of, the learned counsel, for the insurer, AND, moreso when parity(IES) vis-a-vis apt hikes, is visited, upon, apt employment(s), both, in government, and, in non government sector. Paragraph No.59 reads as under:-

> "59.Having bestowed our anxious consideration, we are disposed to think when we accept the principle of standardization, there is really no rationale not to apply the said principle to the self-employed or a person who is on a fixed salary. To follow the doctrine of actual income at the time of death and not to add any amount with regard to future prospects to the income for the purpose of determination of multiplicand would be unjust. The determination of income while computing compensation has to include future prospects so that the method will come within the ambit and sweep of just compensation as postulated under Section 168 of the Act. In case of a deceased who had held a permanent job with inbuilt grant of annual increment, there is an acceptable certainty. But to state that the legal representatives of a deceased who was on a fixed salary would not be entitled to the benefit of future prospects for the purpose of computation of compensation would be inapposite. It is because the criterion of distinction between the two in that event would be certainty on the one hand and staticness on the other. One may perceive that the comparative measure is certainty on the one hand and uncertainty on the other but such a perception is fallacious. It is because the price rise does affect a self-employed person; and that apart there is always an incessant effort to enhance one's income for sustenance. The purchasing capacity of a salaried person on permanent job when increases because of grant of increments and pay revision or for some other change in service conditions, there is always a competing attitude in the private sector to enhance the salary to get better efficiency from the employees. Similarly, a person who is self-employed is bound to garner his resources and raise his charges/fees so that he can live with same facilities. To have the perception that he is likely to remain static and his income to remain stagnant is contrary to the fundamental concept of human attitude which always intends to live with dynamism and move and change with the time. Though it may seem appropriate that there cannot be certainty in addition of future prospects to the existing income unlike in the case of a person having a permanent job, yet the said perception does not really deserve acceptance. We are inclined to think that there can be some degree of difference as regards the percentage that is meant for or applied to in respect of the legal representatives who claim on behalf of the deceased who had a permanent job than a person who is self-employed or on a fixed salary. But not to apply the principle of standardization on the foundation of perceived lack of certainty would tantamount to remaining oblivious to the marrows of ground reality. And, therefore, degree-test is imperative. Unless the degree-test is applied and left to the parties to adduce evidence to establish, it would be unfair and inequitable. The degree-test has to have the > inbuilt concept of percentage. Taking into consideration the cumulative factors, namely, passage of time, the changing society, escalation of price, the change in price index, the human attitude to follow a particular pattern of life,etc., an addition of 40% of the established income of the deceased towards future prospects and where the deceased was below 40 years an addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years would be reasonable." (p.2721-2722)

Consequently, while, placing reliance thereon, 40% hikes or accretions, on anvil, of, future incremental prospects, qua the last salary drawn by him, from the imminent likelihood, of, his obtaining employment, in a non government agency or in a government agency, is, rather rendered hence aptly meteable, (i) especially when the deceased, is reflected, in the postmortem report, to be aged 22 years, at the relevant stage. Consequently, after meteing 40 %, increase(s), vis-a-vis, the apposite last drawn salary, thereupon, the relevant last drawn salary, of, the deceased, is recoknable to be Rs.21000/-, [Rs.15000/-(estimated salary of the deceased)+Rs.6000/-(40% of the last drawn salary). Significantly, with the deceased, being, a bachelor, 50% deduction, is to be visited, upon, a sum of Rs.21,000/-, deducted amount whereof, is, calculated at Rs.10,500/- per mensem. Consequently, the annual dependency, including, the future hikes towards the apt future incremental prospects, is, worked out, now at Rs.10,500X12=Rs.1,26,000/-.

6. The further, contention of the learned counsel appearing, for the insurer, that upon the aforesaid sum, of annual dependency, a multiplier of 13, is enjoined to be applied, is, however, rejected, for the reason, (a) that with there occurring a candid pronouncement in a case tilted as Sarla Verma vs. DTC, reported in (2009)6 SCC 121, that a multiplier of 18, is, applicable for the age groups of 15 to 21, and 21 to 25 years. Consequently, with the deceased, as depicted, by the postmortem report, Mark-A, being aged about 20 years at the relevant time, hence a multiplier of 18 is rather hereat applicable. After applying the apposite multiplier of 18, the compensation amount, is assessed in a sum of Rs.1,26,000/-x 18=Rs.22,68,000/- (Rs. Twenty two lacs and sixty eight thousand only).

7. Moreover, the learned Tribunal, has committed a gross illegality by its quantifying compensation vis-a-vis the claimants under apt conventional heads, namely (i) love and affection, and (iii) funeral expenses, in a sum of Rs.50,000/- and Rs.25,000/ respectively. Consequently, with the Hon'ble Apex Court in a verdict rendered in Pranay Sethi's case (supra), rather expostulating, that reasonable figures, under conventional heads, namely, loss to estate, and, funeral expenses being quantified, only upto Rs.15,000/- , and, Rs.15,000/- respectively, hence, the award of the learned tribunal is also interfered, to the extent aforesaid. Accordingly, in addition to the aforesaid amount of Rs.22,68,000/-, the claimants, are, entitled to assessment, of, compensation(s), under conventional heads, namely, loss to estate, and, funeral expenses, sums of Rs.15,000/-, and, Rs.15,000/-, as such, the total compensation, to, which the claimants are entitled comes to Rs.22,68,000/- +Rs.15,000/- + 15,000/-= Rs.22,98,000/-(Rs. Twenty two lacs and ninety eight thousand only).

8. For the foregoing reasons, the appeals filed by the insurer as also by the claimants are partly allowed, and, the impugned award, is, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified. Accordingly, the petitioners, are, held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.22,98,000/-(Rs.twenty two lakhs and ninety eight thousand only) along with pending and future interest @9 % per annum, from, the date of petition till the date, of, deposit, of the compensation amount. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted in the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. Compensation amount be apportioned, amongst the claimants in the hereinafter extracted manner:-

> "Petitioner No.1, being entitled to 70% amount along with proportionate interest and petitioner No.2 being entitled to 30% amount along with proportionate interest"

All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

(Paras 1 & 2)

For the Petitioner: Mr. Shivank Singh Panta, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Rahul Mahajan, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

Through the instant petition, the petitioner seeks quashing of order, borne in Annexure P-5, and, also espouses relief for quashing of orders, borne in Annexure P-8, whereunder, the apposite interim relief qua staying of operation, of order dismissal of the services, was declined, vis-a-vis, the petitioner.

2. The aforesaid apt application, was, cast during the pendency of the apt reference petition, before, the learned Industrial Tribunal-cum-Labour Court, Shimla. Apt reference whereof, stands, couched in the hereinafter extracted phraseology:-

> "Whether the demand Notice dated 12.01.2009 raised under section 2K of the Industrial Disputes Act,1947 by Sh. Ashok Kumar son of Sh. Tula Ram Malik and 9 others drivers before the management of the Oberio Cecil Hotel, Chaura Maidan, Shimla and management of Wild Flower Hall, Mashobra, Shimla with the plea that the terms and conditions of their service have been changed by the concerned management without complying with the provisions of section 9-A of the Act, ibid, is legal and justified? If not, to what wages, service benefits and relief the concerned drivers are entitled to from the concerned employer as per demand notice dated 12.1.2009."

"Whether the Demand Notice raised by Sh. Ashok Kumar son of Shri Tula Ram Malik & 9 others drivers vide demand notice dated 12.01.2009 (copy enclosed) that their employers are the management of the Oberoi Cecil Hotel, Chaura Mandan, Shimla and Management of Wild Flower Hall, Mashobra, Shimla and M/s Nova Security Prvate Ltd., Quite Office NO.14, Sector 35-A Chandigarh cannot be considered to be their employer, as alleged in the Demand Notice and is legal and justified? If yes, to what service benefits and relief the concerned drivers are entitled to as per Demand Notice dated 12.1.2009."

The aforesaid reference visibly appertains, qua a dispute holding visible contradiction, vis-a-vis, the relief espoused, in, the apt application. The effect thereof, is, qua per se, hence, the apt application, whereon the relief to the petitioner, rather stood declined, being not maintainable before the learned tribunal. The further reason for validating, the, refusal of apt relief, vis-a-vis, the petitioner, is engendered, from, (I) despite the apt relief being previously, sought for, as, an interim relief, though an earlier application, whereon, on 31.07.2014, rather the learned tribunal, declined relief to the petitioner, (ii) yet, the, petitioner subsequent thereto, in as much as, on 1.8.2015, espousing by his casting an apt application hence for rendition of a similar therewith apt relief, thereupon, the subsequent thereto, application was barred, and was not maintainable. (iii) Preeminently, with the order of dismissal recorded, upon, the earlier, application, for want of its being quashed, rendered it, to acquire conclusivity, (iv) and also with the subsequent application standing cast under the provisions of Section 9A of the Industrial Disputes Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

"9A. Notice of change.- No employer, who proposes to effect any change in the conditions of service applicable to any workman in respect of any matter specified in the Fourth Schedule, shall effect such change,--

(a) without giving to the workmen likely to be affected by such change a notice in the prescribed manner of the nature of the change proposed to be effected; or

(b) within twenty- one days of giving such notice:

Provided that no notice shall be required for effecting any such change--

(a) where the change is effected in pursuance of any [1] settlement or award]; or

(b) where the workmen likely to be affected by the change are persons to whom the Fundamental and Supplementary Rules, Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, Civil Services (Temporary Service) Rules, Revised Leave Rules, Civil Service Regulations, Civilians in Defence Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules or the Indian Railway Establishment Code or any other rules or regulations that may be notified in this behalf by the appropriate Government in the Official Gazette, apply."

(v)Provisions aforesaid, though, make trite expostulation(s) qua the employer being barred to change the terms, and, conditions, of, the service of the workman, deployed by him or by it, (vi) unless preceded by a statutory notice, (viii) AND, though stand relied upon by the applicant/petitioner, to seek, the, affording of relief upon his apt application, (ix) yet no strength can be derived therefrom by the petitioner, given theirs appertaining to the apt pre-reference stage, and, upon transgression thereof, by the employer, hence equipping the workman, to, raise an industrial dispute in respect thereof, and, on failure(s) to seek, for, an apt reference, being made by the Labour Commissioner, vis-a-vis, the Industrial Tribunal. (x) However, when the relief claimed in the application, is, openly contradistinct therewith, besides when there is no bar in the provisions, borne in Section 9A of the Industrial Disputes Act, against, the employer, qua, initiating or concluding, any, departmental inquiry, against, the delinquent employee, nor with any bar being embodied therein, against, the employer, or upon inquiry officer concerned, for, hence rendering findings against the delinquent workman, n sequel whereof, the order, of, dismissal, of, the workman from services, is, rendered, (xi) thereupon, also the mandate, of, Section 9(A) of the Industrial Disputes Act, is, unavailable for recourse by the petitioner, rendering hence, the apposite application being not maintainable, as aptly concluded by the learned tribunal.

3. Be that as it may, even if, assumingly, though the contest reared by the respondent, appertains qua the petitioner being engaged by M/s Mercury Car Rental, and, hence the order dismissing his services, rendered by M/s Nova Security Service Private Limited, hence, being infirm or invalid, thereupon, also the only efficacious alternative remedy available for recourse, vis-a-vis, the petitioner, is, comprised in his casting, an onslaught, upon, the order of dismissal, by his concerting to raise an industrial dispute in respect thereto, and, thereafter also his making strivings for qua the Labour Commissioner, rather making the apt reference, in respect thereto, vis-a-vis, the industrial Tribunal concerned.

4. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit in the instant petition, and, it is dismissed accordingly. Consequently, the orders impugned before this Court are affirmed and maintained. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No costs.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiff's suit for rendition of a declaratory decree, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra numbers, stood, affirmatively decreed by the learned trial Court, and, in an appeal carried therefrom, by, the aggrieved defendants, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court also affirmed the verdict pronounced by the learned trial Court. The defendants/appellants, being aggrieved therefrom, hence, motion this Court, through, the instant Regular Second Appeal.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff had filed a suit for declaration claiming himself to be owner in possession and with consequential relief of permanent injunction restraining the defendants from interfering over the suit land detailed in the plaint. The plaintiff further claimed that the revenue entries qua the ownership and possession over the suit land comprised Khasra No.1250 and the entries of ownership over Khasra No.1251 with defendants are wrong, illegal and collusive. The plaintiff has further claimed that the land has been carved out during settlement from old Khasra No.248 measuring 4 kanals, 19 marlas, which has been shown in the ownership of predecessor-in-interest of the defendants and in possession of the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff one Labhu as tenant and the tenancy has never been relinquished at any time thereafter, but the defendants in-connivance with settlement staff after getting bifurcation of old khasra NO.248 into suit land has also changed the entries qua possession including the owner in possession over the suit land as the plaintiff has never been dispossessed by the defendants. The plaintiff has further averred that defendant No.1 had instituted a false suit titled as Kishori Lal vs. Roshan Lal seeking declaration qua part of suit land comprised in Khasra No.1251 in which the present plaintiff being defendant filed counter claim seeking his right over the suit land, but that suit was withdrawn by defendant No.1 and thereafter the present plaintiff also withdrew his counter claim with permission to file a suit/counter claim afresh and thereafter the present suit has been filed by the plaintiff before the learned trial Court seeking declaration and injunction against the defendant qua the suit land.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, they have taken preliminary objection qua maintainability, jurisdiction and locus standi etc.. On merits, the defendants have denied any right, title or interest of the plaintiff over the suit land as the defendants have denied the possession of the plaintiff over the suit land in any capacity including tenancy as pleaded in the plaint. The defendants have further pleaded and claimed that father of the plaintiff had relinquished his tenancy rights orally in favour of the defendants during his life time and handed over the vacant possession, since then, the defendants have pleaded and claimed to be owner in possession of the suit land and has further claimed and pleaded that the plaintiff forcibly trespassed over part of suit land comprised in Khasra No.1251 in July, 1990, but the defendants have denied any tenancy of the plaintiff over the suit land. The defendants have further pleaded and claimed that the entry during settlement was found to be incorrect as the possession of the defendants was found over the suit land and thereby the proper entry has been incorporated during settlement. However, the defendants have pleaded and claimed that he name of the plaintiff in column of possession on part of the suit land being encroacher has been recorded during settlement in connivance with settlement staff as the plaintiff has trespassed over the part of the suit land after the withdrawal of the previous suit by the present defendant. The defendants have specifically pleaded and claimed that neither the plaintiff nor his predecessor-in-interest has ever remained in possession over the suit land in any capacity during the pendency and thereby have pleaded and claimed that the plaintiff has no right, title or interest over the suit land.

4. The plaintiffs filed replication to the written statement of the defendant(s), wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is tenant in possession of the suit land and has become owner of the suit land by operation of law as alleged?OPP
2. Whether revenue entries during settlement are collusive, illegal and wrong, as alleged?OPP.
3. Whether the plaintiff has trespassed in Khasra No.1251 after the withdrawal of the previous suit by defendants as alleged?OPD.
4. Whether the plaintiff was never inducted as tenant on the suit land, as alleged? OPD.
5. Whether the plaintiff has no locus standi to sue for declaration and injunction as he is not in possession of the suit land? OPD.
6. Whether the suit for declaration and injunction is not maintainable? OPD.
7. Whether the civil court has no jurisdiction to try the present suit? OPD.
8. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff/respondent herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by, the defendants/appellants herein, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed, the, appeal, and, affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the defendants/appellants herein, have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein they assail the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, this Court, on 30.10.2007, admitted the appeal instituted by the defendants/appellants, against, the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether the suit of the plaintiff seeking correction of long standing revenue entries to which presumption of truth is attached was maintainable or triable by the civil courts when relief could only has been granted by the revenue courts under Section 171 of the Himachal Pradesh Land Revenue Act?

2. Whether the suit of the plaintiff for declaration and correction of revenue entries which were admittedly made more than 15 years prior to the filing of the suit was within limitation?

3. Whether the presumption of truth attached to the long-standing revenue entries showing the defendant-appellant to be owner in possession of the property can be held to be rebutted and the inference drawn by the courts below are based on wrong assumptions not sustainable in law?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 to 3:

8. The predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff, one Labhu, is, in the apt revenue record comprised, in, the jamabandi, appertaining to the year 1953-54, borne in Ex.P-7, and, in the jamabandi, appertaining to the year 1959-60, borne in Ex.P-6, besides in the jamabandi, appertaining to the year 1967-68, EX.P-3, and, further in khasra girdwari, appertaining to the suit property, commencing from 24.10.1968 to April, 1974, khasra girdawari whereof is borne in Ex. D-5, hence, continuously recorded therein, to be, a, tenant under the defendants, vis-a-vis, the suit land. However, the efficacy of the entries borne therein, is, contested by the defendants. All the aforesaid reflections, borne, in the afore referred exhibits, do, inevitably carry, a, presumption of truth, and, upon the defendants' contest, vis-a-vis, efficacy thereof, rather achieving succession, (a) thereupon, the apt presumption of truth, as, carried by the reflections, borne, in the aforesaid exhibits, would be eroded, (b) with a concomitant effect qua the concurrent verdicts pronounced, by, both the learned Courts below, whereunder, the plaintiff's suit stood decreed, rather constraining this Court, to, reverse the apt concurrent verdicts.

9. Be that as it may, it is incumbent, upon, this Court to allude, to, evidence, as, adduced by the defendants, for, hence displacing the presumption, of, truth, garnered by the aforesaid exhibits, wherein, the predecessor-in-interest, of the plaintiff, is, reflected as, a, non occupancy tenant, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number. In the defendants' endeavour to repel, the efficacy of the presumption, of, truth, marshalled by the aforesaid reflections, borne in the exhibits aforesaid, (i) the defendants merely contend that, upon, failure of the plaintiff to adduce receipts, in display of galla being purveyed by one Labhu, to the defendant or their predecessors-in-interest, hence per se, thereupon, the presumption of truth, ascribable to the apposite entries, hence, getting eroded. However, the aforesaid espousal reared by the defendants, is, amenable to falter, (ii) given the defendants, acquiescing qua Labhu, cultivating the suit land, from about 20 to 25 years, (iii) and, also the defendants rearing a plea of the suit land being mortgaged, vis-a-vis, Labhu, (iv) and, thereafter on redemption of the suit land, rather the defendants holding possession of the suit khasra numbers. Moreover, the aforesaid plea(s), are, per se flimsy and pretextual, (v) given theirs being raised, without any contention in consonance therewith, standing embodied in the apt written statement, (vi) and, hence theirs being reared beyond pleadings, hence are, discardable, corollary whereof, is qua, an inference being bolstered qua the defendants acquiescing, vis-a-vis, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff, one Labhu, hence, holding possession, of, the suit khasra number(s). The defendants had also reared a plea qua the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff, one Labhu making oral relinquishment of his tenancy, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number(s), and, qua the defendant. Even the aforesaid plea, cannot be ascribed any tenacity, given no documentary evidence, for, hence meteing succor thereto, being adduced, rather when there exists a statutory interdiction,as, borne in Section 31 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter, against relinquishment, of, tenancy(s) qua the landowner, (vii) thereupon, the aforesaid plea also cannot be accepted, rather it gives momentum, for, erection of a firm inference, qua the defendants acquiescing, qua one Labhu holding, the, apposite capacity of, a, gair maurusi, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number(s), (viii) importantly, when as aforestated, no cogent evidence, stands adduced, even for sustaining the aforestated pretextual plea, and, as, may be comprised in the apposite therewith rapat, rather being entered by the Patwari Halqua concerned. Provisions of Section 31 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act read as under:-

> "31. Relinquishment.--No relinquishment of a tenancy shall be made by a tenant in favour of landowner. However, if a tenant wants to make a voluntary surrender of his tenancy land, the same shell be in favour of the State Government. The State Government shall have right to induct any suitable tenant or landless agricultural labourer to the relinquished land in the manner to be prescribed."

In summa, the inevitable sequel thereof, is, qua the presumption of truth ascribable to all the reflections occurring in Ex.P-3, Ex. P-6, Ex.P-7, Ex.D-5, wherein, one Labhu, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff, stands depicted, as a tenant, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number(s), hence remaining uneroded, thereupon, conclusivity is to be ascribed, vis-a-vis, the apposite reflections, borne in all the aforesaid exhibits.

10. The effect, of, ascription(s) of conclusivity, vis-a-vis the apt reflections, carried in the aforesaid exhibits, does, foist, a, duty upon this Court, to conclude qua, the, purported stay entry borne in exhibit D-2, exhibit whereof, is a copy of missal hakiyat bandobast jadid, appertaining to the year 1976-77, wherein, the plaintiff stands displayed in the apposite column, to, rather hold unathorised possession of the suit kahsra numbers, rather carrying any validity or otherwise. The aforesaid reflections carried in Ext. D-2, in case, stand, established to be authorisedly made, thereupon, given its comprising, the latest revenue record appertaining to the suit land, would, hence render them, to, enjoy preeminence, vis-a-vis, prior thereto prepared revenue records, and, also would hence rebut the presumption of truth, as, carried by all the apt entries, borne, in the aforesaid preceding therewith apt revenue records. In determining whether the purported stray entry borne in Ex. D-2, carries, any, presumption of truth or also is authorisedly made, this Court on making disinterrings, from, the apposite thereto record, has, rather failed to discover any valid order made by the competent revenue officer, in sequel, whereto, the purported stray entry, borne in Ex.D-2, stood recorded. The effect, of, want of making, of, any valid order, by any revenue officer, in sequel whereto, EX.D-2, was prepared, rather renders, all the apt reflections borne therein, hence, manifesting qua the plaintiff standing depicted as an encroacher, vis-a-vis, the suit land, being, hence construable to be unauthorisedly made, (i) hence, they does not don any mantle of any validity, sequel thereof is qua theirs being enjoined to be quashed and set aside, also hence it does not outweigh the creditworthiness, of, a;; the reflections borne in the aforesaid exhibits, wherein, Labhu, the predecessor-in-interest of the plaintiff, is depicted as, a, tenant, vis-a-vis, the suit land.

11. The learned counsel appearing for the aggrieved defendants/appellants herein, has contended with much vigour (i) that with the provisions borne in Section 171 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act (hereinafter referred to as the Act), especially the one occurring, in clauses (v) and (vi) to sub-section (2) of Section 171 of the Act, the relevant provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "171. Exclusion of jurisdiction of Civil Courts in the matters within the jurisdiction of Revenue Officers.-Except as otherwise provided by this Act-

(1).....

(2) A Civil Court shall not exercise jurisdiction over any of the following matter, namely-

(i).....

(ii).....

(iii).....

(iv) any notification direction the making or revision of a record-of-rights;

(v) the framing of a record-of-rights or periodical record or the preparation, signing or attestation of any of the documents included in sch a record;

(v-a) order regarding complete remeasurement of an estate or sub-estate under section 33A of this Act;

(vi) the correction of any entry in a record-of-rights, periodical record or register of mutation;....."

hence casting a statutory interdiction, against, the Civil Courts rather making any order for correction of any entry, borne in a record of rights, or against theirs making any order, for any correction in the register of mutation, nor hence with, the, civil court, holding any jurisdiction, to direct the framing of record of rights, whether annually or periodical, (ii) whereas, with the purported stray entry borne in Ex. D-2, appertaining, to the apt jurisdiction statutorily vested in the revenue officers concerned, and, also falling within the statutory interdiction cast, in, clauses (v) and (vi) to sub-section(2) of Section 171 of the Act, (iii) thereupon, the apt verdicts concurrently hence decreeing the plaintiff's suit rather are construable to be rendered without jurisdiction, and, hence the apt verdicts, are, amenable to suffer negation. However, the aforesaid contention reared, before this Court by the learned counsel, appearing for the defendants/appellants herein, has no foundation, as, it has been made, with his being completely unmindful, vis-a-vis, the provisions borne in Section 38, and, in Section 46 of the Act, provisions whereof also stands extraction hereinafter:-

38. Restrictions on variations of entries in records. - Entries in records-of-rights or in [periodical] records, except entries made in [periodical] records by patwaris under clause (a) of section 36 with respect to undisputed acquisitions of interest referred to in that section, shall not be varied in subsequent records otherwise than by -

(a) making entries in accordance with facts proved or admitted to have occurred;

(aa) making entries in respect of Government land in accordance with the order made by the State Government or by a Revenue Officer not below te rank of the Collector;

(b) making such entries as are agreed to by all the parties interested therein or are supported by a decree or order binding on those parties; and

(c) making new maps where it is necessary to make them.

46. Suit for declaratory decree by persons aggrieved by an entry in a record. - If any person considers himself aggrieved as to any right of which he is in possession by an entry in a record of rights or in [a periodical] record, he may institute a suit for a declaration of his right under [chapter VI of the Specific Relief Act, 1963]"

(i) whereas both the aforesaid provisions, are, be read in conjunction, with clauses (v) and (vi) to sub-section (2), of, Section 171 of the Act. Apparently, clauses (v) and (vi) to subsection (2) of Section 171 of the Act, confer an exclusive right upon a revenue officer, to, prepare the records, of rights, whether periodical or annual, and, also foist exerciseable jurisdiction, in, the revenue officer concerned, to, only initially make orders, for correction of any entry, in the records of rights or to make any order for making corrections, in the register of mutations, (ii) obviously, hence the Civil Courts, are barred to usurp the aforesaid jurisdiction, statutorily foisted under clauses (v) and (vi) to sub-section (2) of Section 171 of the Act. Nonetheless, the aforesaid simplistic conception carried by the aforesaid provisions, only, appertains, vis-a-vis, the apt jurisdiction contemplated, in, clauses (v) and (vi) to sub-section (2) of Section 171 of the Act, or in other words, it appertains to the apt jurisdiction, in respect thereto, as, exclusivity conferred upon the revenue officer concerned, (iii) yet their apt connotation, vis-a-vis, their scope and domain, as aforesaid, rather does not extend to Civil Court(s) hence being ousted to test the validity(ies) thereof nor their mandate(s) are extendable, to a construction of it overriding or benumbing, the, effect of the provisions borne, in, Section 38, and, in, Section 46 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act, (iv) rather the latter provisions are to be read in conjunction therewith, and, upon making a conjunctive reading thereof, vis-a-vis, clauses (v) and (vi) to sub-section (2) of Section 171 of the Act,(v) hence the inevitable inference therefrom, is, rather qua the exercise of jurisdiction, under, powers vested in the revenue officer under clause clauses (v) and (vi) to sub-section (2) of Section 171 of the Act, being statutorily made amenable, to face the apt test of validity(ies), upon, emergence, of, evidence qua the exercise of jurisdiction, under, clauses (v) and (vi) to sub-section (2) of Section 171 of the Act, by the Revenue officer, (vi) being not founded, upon, the facts proved on record, and, the relevant exercise of jurisdiction being not preceded by any order made by the Revenue officer concerned, and, the orders made by the revenue officer being not acquiesced, by apt interested parties or not being supported by any decree binding upon the parties. Consequently, when evidently hereat, the purported stray entry borne in Ex. D-2, does not satiate, any of the aforestated ingredients, cast in Section 38 and Section 46 of the Act, (vii) and with the latter provisions foisting a statutory right in the aggrieved, to make a challenge, upon, erroneous or false entries, as, carried in the apt revenue record, by his casting a civil suit, (viii) thereupon, obviously statutory preeminence, is, given to the verdicts, and, decrees pronounced by the Civil Courts, vis-a-vis, orders, if any, pronounced by the revenue officers, under the clauses (v) and (vi) to sub-section (2) of Section 171 of the Act, (ix) also hence the mightest clout or sway, is to be assigned, to the judgments and decrees pronounced by the civil courts, vis-a-vis, any orders initially or prior thereto, made by the Revenue Officers concerned. The effect of the aforesaid inference is qua the exclusionary provisions, depended upon, by the counsel for the appellant, and, as borne in Section 171 of the Act, are hence subject, to the provisions borne in Section 38 and in Section 46 of the Act, and, thereupon, the Civil Court(s) hence hold(s) jurisdiction to test the validity of any orders, as, initially made by any Revenue Officer, for making any entry in the record of rights, whether annual or periodical, and, concomitantly also hold jurisdiction to test the validity, of, any revenue entry(ies).

12. The learned counsel appearing for the aggrieved defendants/appellants herein, has, contended that, with the purported of stray entry borne in Ex.D-2 being effected in they year 1976-77, hence, with the suit being instituted belatedly therefrom, hence, the plaintiff's suit rather warrants, it being dismissed, it being filed beyond limitation. However, the aforesaid submission, cannot be accepted, as the apt accrual of causes of action, vis-a-vis, the aggrieved plaintiff, from the apposite entry, is not engendered, from the date of making of the entry, rather is engendered, from, the date of acquisition of knowledge, vis-a-vis, the entry, or accrual of apt causes of action qua the aggrieved, arising from, any proven overt acts, of, invasion or interference mounted, vis-a-vis, the settled rights, of, the aggrieved, upon, the suit property. Bearing in mind, the aforesaid, with the plaintiff acquiring knowledge, vis-a-vis, the invalid stray entry borne in Ex.D-2, (a) upon, prior to the institution of the extant suit, the defendants instituting a suit, wherein, they espoused relief for rendition of a declaratory decree, vis-a-vis, the suit kahsra numbers, (b) and, also with his averring, qua thereat his acquiring knowledge, vis-a-vis, the inefficacy of the purported stray entry borne, in, Ex.D-2, and, when also leads evidence in consonance therewith, (c) thereupon, the date of preparation of Ex.D-2, is, insignificant nor therefrom the apt causes of action accrue, vis-a-vis, the plaintiff, rather accrual of causes of action, vis-a-vis, the plaintiff rather hence accrue, upon, his acquiring knowledge, vis-a-vis, the inefficacy of the purported stray entry, borne in Ex. D-2. Consequently, the plaintiff's suit is within limitation.

13. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court, have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions, of law are answered in favour of the respondent/plaintiff, and, against the appellants/defendants.

14. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in the present Regular Second Appeal, and, it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the judgements and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs. Records be sent back forthwith.

Code Of Civil Procedure,1908 - Order XLI Rule 25 – Remand of suit- Procedure- Held, where Court from whose decree appeal is preferred has omitted to frame or try any issue or to determine any question of fact which appears to Appellate Court essential to right decision of suit upon merits, Appellate Court may if necessary frame issues and refer same for trial to Court from whose decree appeal is preferred and in such case, it shall direct such Court to take additional evidence required - And such Court shall proceed to try such issues and shall return evidence to Appellate Court together with its findings and reasons – On facts, documents by defendants directed to be tendered before First Appellate Court with further direction to afford an opportunity to plaintiffs to adduce rebuttal evidence if any and thereafter pronounce fresh decision - Record of RSA ordered to be retained. (Paras 9 & 10)

For the appellants: Mr. Ajay Sharma, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Ex-parte.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant appeal is directed by the aggrieved appellants, against, the, concurrently recorded verdicts, by both the learned courts below, whereby they pronounced affirmative decrees of permanent prohibitory injunction, and, of mandatory injunction vis-à-vis the suit property, and, against the defendants'.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff filed a suit for permanent injunction, restraining the defendants from forcibly ousting plaintiff from exclusive hissadari possession, digging foundations or raising any construction by arbitrary choice or from changing nature of the land measuring 8 kanals 10 marlas bearing khewat No. 801 min, khatauni No. 1131 min, khasra No. 3275 per jamabandi for the year 1980-81, situate in village Amb, Tehsil Amb, District Una, H.P. till final partition between the parties. In the alternative, prayer for mandatory injunction was also made directing the defendants to remove construction marked by letters ABCD shown in red colour in the site plan attached with the plaint in case defendants succeeded in raising construction during the pendency of the suit. It has further been submitted that the suit land is jointly owned by the plaintiff, defendant No.1 and other co-sharers but possession is with the plaintiff as hissadar. Defendant No.2 is husband of defendant No.1 whereas the other defendants are stranger having no right in the suit land. HP PWD road is stated to be abutting the suit land i.e. Hamirpur Road and thereby land is valuable one. No co-owner can use the land to his exclusive use.

3. The suit was contested by the defendants and he has filed written statement, wherein, they have taken preliminary objections of maintainability, non-joinder, mis-joinder of parties and valuation. It has been submitted that the suit land is owned by defendant No.1, plaintiff and other co-sharers but stated that plaintiff is not in its exclusive hissadari possession and defendant No.1 had purchased 10 marlas land out of suit land from one Surinder Singh and others who were co-sharers to the extent of 1/3rd share vide registered sale deed dated 9.7.1997. total area was measuring 7x13 karm abutting to the road and defendant No.1 was put in possession by the then owner and in this respect, mutation No. 4403 was also sanctioned. Earlier the suit land was owned by one Hardev Singh, Shiv Dev Singh and predecessors of Chain Singh who were in individual possession on different parcels of land and had also constructed shops over it and thereby all co-owners were entered as owners in possession. The shops fell down and the suit land became vacant as abadi plot, however, possession remained with all the co-owners individually to the extent as they were owners. Exclusive possession as hissadar was never with the plaintiff. It is also stated that partition has taken place through competent authority and in this respect, mutation No. 4441 has been sanctioned showing co-owners in their individual possession and entries showing the land to be abadi are absolutely wrong and have been made mechanically. The possession of 10 marlas of land is with defendant No.1, which has been purchased by her from Rattni Devi and the same has been shown in the site plan. Earlier vendor of defendant No.1 was in possession of shops which have fell down and now defendant No.1 has raised construction over some portion. The defendant in no way raised construction over more land than for which she was entitled nor has gone out of possession, thus, construction raised is over the land which was put in her possession by the earlier owner. Thus dismissal of the suit with costs has been prayed.

4. The plaintiff filed replication, to, the written statement, of, the defendant, wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement, and, re-affirmed, and, re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of injunction, as prayed? OPP
2. Whether plaintiff is entitled to the relief of mandatory injunction for demolition of construction marked by letters ABCD shown in red in the site plan, as alleged? OPP
3. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD.
4. Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder and mis-joinder of necessary parties? OPD.
5. Whether the suit has not been properly valued? OPD.
6. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court, decreed the plaintiff's suit. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by the defendants, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed the appeal, and, affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the defendants have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, wherein they assail the findings recorded, in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, on 13.9.2005, this Court, admitted the appeal on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions, of, law:-

i) Whether both the learned courts below erred in appreciating the provisions of law applicable, pleadings of the parties and evidence adduced by them, thereby vitiating the impugned judgments and decrees?

ii) Whether both the learned courts below mis-read and misappreciated oral and documentary evidence specifically Ex. D-6 dated 21.9.1987 on the basis of the orders of the Assistant Collector dated 9.9.1997 thereby vitiating the impugned judgments and decrees?

iii) Whether suit as laid is not competent in view of the frame of the suit and without looking into this aspect of the matter, impugned judgments and decrees as passed stand vitiated and liable to be set aside?

iv) Whether in view of the dismissal of contempt petition under order 39 rule 2-A of the code of Civil Procedure, findings now returned by courts below qua raising of construction during pendency of suit being contrary findings vitiated the impugned judgments and decrees?.

Substantial questions of law No. 1 to 4.

8. Before proceeding to answer the hereinabove extracted substantial questions of law, it is, to be borne in mind, the paramount factum qua, during, the pendency of the instant appeal, before this court, the defendants/applicants rather instituting an application before this Court, application whereof, is, cast under the provisions of Order 41 Rule 27

CPC, wherein, they hence espouse affording, of, relief, for, placing on record, certain documents, adduction whereof, being, just and essential, for, rendering clinching findings, upon, the hereinabove extracted substantial questions of law. The necessity of theirs' being adduced into evidence, is, espoused to be generated (i) by reflections' rather occurring therein, of the plaintiff, since deceased, now represented by his LRs, alienating the suit property, hence his LRs', nowat, holding no locus standi, to, validate the impugned concurrent pronouncements, nor their' holding, any, locus to press, for, their efficacious execution. Apparently, all the disclosures hence occurring in the apposite documents, in respect whereof, leave for theirs' being adduced into evidence, is, concerted, do sustain, the, espousal made before this Court, by the learned counsel for the defendants/appellants, (ii) thereupon prima facie it appears, that, in case this Court assumingly hence affirms, the, concurrently recorded pronouncements made by both the learned courts below, thereupon an untenable bestowment rather being made upon the plaintiff/ respondent, to, enforce the apt decree(s).

9. Be that as it may, if the apposite leave, is, hence deemed necessary, for being granted, to, the aggrieved appellants/ defendants, and, further since the documents, in, respect whereof leave, is, granted, to the appellants/ defendants, also, enjoins, the, further necessity, of, the apposite documents being tendered and exhibited, with a, compatible opportunity, to the plaintiff/respondent, to adduce rebuttal evidence, (i) whereas, their apposite tendering, exhibition, and, also, the, subsequent thereto, affording, of an opportunity, for adducing rebuttal evidence, to the respondent/plaintiff, may appropriately, only occur, before the learned First Appellate Court, (ii) thereupon, the matter is remanded to the learned First Appellate Court, to permit the adduction, tendering and exhibition, of, the apt documents 'AND, whereafter, it shall afford an opportunity, to the plaintiff(s) to adduce evidence, in rebuttal thereto, and, subsequently, it, shall record findings apposite, to the locus standi, of the plaintiff/respondent, and also, SHALL return findings qua hence the plaintiff's suit, for rendition of, a, decree, of permanent prohibitory injunction, and for mandatory injunction, vis-à-vis, the suit property, being, yet maintainable, and, whether the plaintiff(s)/respondent(s) nowat, hold, any locus standi, to continue, with the civil suit or to enforce the apt decree, as may, come hence to be pronounced.

10. Consequently, while exercising powers vested, in this Court, under Order 41 Rule 25 CPC, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "25. Where Appellate Court may frame issues and refer them for trial to Court whose decree appealed from.- Where the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred has omitted to frame or try any issue, or to determine any question of fact, which appears to the Appellate Court essential to the right decision of the suit upon the merits, the appellate Court may, if necessary, frame issues, and refer the same for trial to the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred, and in such case shall direct such Court to take the additional evidence required; > and such Court shall proceed to try such issues, and shall return the evidence to the Appellate Court together with its findings thereon and the reasons therefor [within such time as may be fixed by the Appellate Court or extended by it from time to time]."

the apt documents are directed to be tendered, besides exhibited, before the learned First Appellate Court (a) whereafter, the learned First Appellate Court, upon, affording an opportunity to the plaintiffs', to, adduce apt rebuttal evidence, it, shall thereafter pronounce a fresh decision, upon, issues No. 1 and 2. However, the file of the Regular Second Appeal shall be retained by this Court. After a decision is recorded by the learned First Appellate Court, upon the aforesaid issues, it shall, transmit its decision, to this Court. Obviously, any aggrieved therefom, shall be, entitled, to raise objections thereto, before this Court. The learned trial Court shall make its decision, within three months, after its receiving, the matter from this Court, and, prior thereto, it shall also ensure its ensuring prompt effectuation of valid personal service, upon, the defendants/appellants, and, upon the respondents/ plaintiff. Meteing, of, answers, vis-à-vis, the hereinabove substantial questions, of, law is hence deferred.

Records be sent back forthwith. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

For the appellant: Mr. Mr. Hemant Vaid, Addl. A.G. with Mr. Y.S. Thakur & Mr. Vikrant Chandel, Dy. A.Gs., for the appellant.
For the respondent: Mr. Lovneesh Kanwar, Advocate,

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (oral):

The instant appeal stands directed, against, the verdict of acquittal, pronounced by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Mandi, District Mandi, H.P. in Criminal Appeal No. 13 of 2005, whereunder he reversed the judgment of conviction, and, consequential imposition, of, sentence(s) upon the accused, as, recorded by the learned trial Court, vis-a-vis the offences charged.

2. Brief facts of the case are that on 13.5.1998, the Medical Officer, CHC, Ratti, telephonically informed the police at Police Station, Balh, Mandi, about the accident case whereupon Rapat Ext. PW-9/A was incorporated in the daily diary and ASI Sh. Balbir Singh, PW-9 alongwith Constable Diwan Chand, Constable Narpat Ram and Constable Amar Singh rushed to CHC, Ratti wherefrom the Investigating Officer PW-9 sent a ruqua Ext. PW-9/C to the Police Station alleging therein that on spot inspection, it was found that deceased Nihal Singh whose dead body was kept at CHC Ratti had died in an accident. It was found on spot that jeep bearing No. HP-37-0787 which was on its way from Ner Chowk to Sundernagar, left its side and went in the wrong side for a distance of 30 feet and struck against Nihal Singh in Kachha portion of the road, as a result of which Nihal Singh sustained injuries on his person and died. The driver left the jeep on the spot and ran away and the front tyre of the jeep were in wrong direction towards "dhank". The accident had taken place due to rash and negligent driving of the driver of the jeep No. HP-37-0787. On the basis of Ruqua Ext. PW-9/A, a formal FIR was registered against the accused. The post mortem of the body of the deceased was got conducted by the I.O. PW-9 at Zonal Hospital, Mandi. After post mortem, the Medical Officer PW-6 vide his report Ext. PW-6/A opined that the cause of death of deceased Nihal Singh was haemorrhage and shock resulting from head injury and intrathoracic injury. During investigation, the I.O. PW-9 prepared spot map Ext. PW-9/B and recorded the statements of witnesses. The offending jeep was taken into possession vide seizure memo Ext. PW-5/A. The I.O. PW-9 got mechanically examined the offending jeep and obtained mechanical report Ext. PW-3/A. The I.O. PW-9 also got photographs Ext. PW-4/A to Ext. PW-4/C of the offending jeep and of the spot clicked from PW-4 the negatives whereof are Ext. PW-4/D and Ext. PW-4/E. After completion of investigation, the challan against the accused was prepared and presented before the learned trial Court.

3. Notice of accusation stood put to the accused, by the learned trial Court qua his committing offences punishable under Section 279, and, under Section 304-A, of, the Indian Penal Code, to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

4. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined 9 witnesses. On closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded, wherein, he pleaded false implication. However, he did not choose to lead any evidence in defence.

5. On an appraisal of evidence on record, the learned trial Court returned findings of conviction qua the accused. However, in an appeal carried therefrom, by, the convict before the learned appellate Court, the latter Court reversed the findings of conviction, and, proceeded to acquit the accused.

6. The learned Additional Advocate General has concertedly and vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned appellate Court, standing not based, on a proper appreciation, by it, of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation, by it, of material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal warranting reversal by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, and, theirs standing replaced by findings of conviction.

7. The learned counsel appearing, for the respondent/ accused, has with considerable force and vigor contended qua the findings of acquittal, recorded by the Court below standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record, and, theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance, of, the learned counsel on either side has with studied care and incision, hence evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. PW-1 and 2, are, respectively the daughter, and, the widow of deceased Nihal Singh. The aforesaid Nihal Singh, during the course of his attempting, to, at the relevant site, hence trudge across the road, was hence rather struck by the offending vehicle, driven by the accused. In sequel to his being struck by the offending vehicle, he, is revealed/unfolded by post mortem report, borne in Ext. PW-6/A, to hence suffer his demise, reasons' whereof stand ascribed therein to arise, from, hemorrhage and shock resulting, from head and intrathoracic injuries. PW 1 and PW 2 being related to Nihal Singh, are hence interested witnesses, yet, per-se, thereupon their testifications' cannot be construed to be bereft, of, vigor, (i) unless evident gross apparent embellishments and improvements, are, made by each in their respectively recorded testifications, vis-à-vis, their previously recorded statements' in writing. However, in their respectively rendered testifications, both did not grossly contradict their respectively recorded previous statements in writing. Moreover, with another ocular witness to the occurrence, one Balbir Singh, PW-5 also rendering, a, deposition qua the occurrence, without, any gross embellishments and improvements, vis-à-vis, his previously recorded statement in writing, besides his deposition holding utmost concurrence, vis-à-vis, the testifications rendered by PW 1 and PW 2, (ii) thereupon the depositions' of all the aforestated ocular witness rather carry solemn credibility.

10. Be that as it may, this Court is also enjoined, to discover from the evidence on record, qua the defence hence succeeding, in, establishing the factum of the accused, while driving the offending vehicle, his being, at the relevant site, hence precluded from sighting, the, deceased Nihal Singh, (i) given the arrival, of the latter, at the relevant site of occurrence, being abrupt, despite when both PW 1, and, PW 2 in their respectively recorded testifications, comprised in their respective cross-examinations', rather depose qua deceased Nihal Singh, hence, walking 4-5 feet behind both of them. In making, an, endeavor to look for evidence qua, the, emergence of the deceased, at, the site of occurrence hence being abrupt, (ii) and thereupon the accused being precluded from sighting him, it is imperative to allude to the apposite therewith suggestions, meted to both PW1 and PW2, and, further to PW-5. However both PW 1, and, PW 2 meted dis-affirmative answers, to the aforestated suggestions, yet, PW-5 in contradiction thereof rather in his cross-examination, makes, articulations qua at the relevant site of occurrence, hence workshops existing, and, vehicles being stationed at the workshops, for theirs being subjected to repair(s). However, in the later part of the apt deposition, borne in his cross-examination, he has denied the suggestion, of, a truck being stationed at the relevant site, rather he has deposed qua a scooter being stationed at the relevant site.

11. The learned Additional Advocate General, on anvil, thereof, hence makes submissions, qua therefrom, it being aptly concludable, qua, it being possible for the accused, to, hence sight the appearance of the deceased, at the relevant site, (i) and, hence concomitantly, it, cannot be concluded qua the emergence of the deceased, at relevant site, being abrupt nor it can be concluded qua the accused in driving the vehicle, hence meteing adherence, with, the norms of due care and caution. However the strength of the aforestated submission, is, emaciated given, (a) PW-7, in his cross examination in contradiction therewith, rather, rendering an echoing qua in vicinity of the relevant site, a, truck being stationed, and, from its rear, the deceased Nihal Singh hence making his sudden appearance, at the relevant site wherefrom it is aptly concludable qua the accused, rather proving qua in his driving the offending vehicle, his, hence meteing adherence with the standards of due care and caution, (b) significantly also when the aforestated factum, deposed by PW-7 in his cross-examination remained not concerted to, to be repulsed by the learned APP, comprised in the latter, hence, seeking permission of the Court, to declare him hostile, and, permit him to cross-examine, PW-5, vis-à-vis, the aforestated echoings made by him, in his cross-examination, as conducted by the learned defence counsel, (c ) thereupon this Court, is, constrained to conclude qua the prosecution hence accepting, the, echoings made, by PW-7 in his cross examination. Even though, the learned Additional Advocate

General further contends with vigor, that the aforestated deposition, as, rendered by PW-7, is belied by the reflections, borne in the site plan, and, by the photographs, as, existing on record. However, the aforesaid submission addressed before this Court, is, rendered bereft of its strength, given, the preparation, and, clicking of photographs, occurring, a, day subsequent to the occurrence, and, also the preparation of the site plan rather also occurring, a, day subsequent to the occurrence.

12. A wholesome analysis of evidence on record portrays qua the appreciation of evidence as done by the learned appellate Court, not, suffering from any perversity and absurdity nor it can be said qua the learned appellate Court in recording findings of acquittal hence committing any legal misdemeanor, in as much, as, its mis-appreciating the evidence on record or its omitting to appreciate relevant and admissible evidence. In aftermath this Court does not deem it fit and appropriate qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned appellate Court hence meriting any interference.

13. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this appeal, which is accordingly dismissed and the judgment of the learned appellate Court is maintained and affirmed. Record of the learned trial Court be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J (oral)

The learned counsel for the petitioner, has, restricted, (i) his challenge, to the impugned affirmative order, recorded, by the learned District Judge (I) Mandi, H.P., upon, Civil Misc. Appeal No. 13/2016, as instituted therebefore, (ii) against, the disaffirmative orders pronounced by the learned Civil Judge (Sr. Division) Court No.1, Sundernagar, District Mandi, H.P., upon an application, cast under the provisions of Order 39 Rule 2-A

CPC, (iii) only, vis-a-vis, the observations, made by the learned appellate Court, in, the order under challenge before this Court, and, as occur in paragraph-8, being ordered be not borne in mind, by, the learned Court, of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Sundernagar, District Mandi, H.P., on, his receiving the lis, on remand. This Court, has, considered the aforesaid submissions, and, finds merit therein, whereupon the apt observations, extracted hereinafter:-

> "In the light of aforesaid rival contention raised before this Court by Ld. Counsel for the parties, I have perused the case file with care and find merit and force in the contentions of the ld. Counsel for the appellant and find no merit in the contention of the ld. Counsel for the respondent. From the close scrutiny of the record of the case file reveals that in a appeal titled as Karor Chand Katoch vs. Nirmala Katoch etc. filed in the court of Additional District Judge Mandi, H.P. who vide order dated 15.3.2013 in a CMP No. 17 of 2012 titled as Nirmala Katoch vs. Karor Chand Katoch arising out of the CMA No. 21-VI of 2012 dated 3.9.2012 has directed the parties to maintain the status quo qua the nature and possession of the suit property consisting land and structure comprised in khewat No. 108, khatauni No. 185 khasra No. 2968 measuring 1036 Sq. Mtrs, situated in muhal Sundernagar, 26/8, Tehsil Sundernagar, Distt. Mandi, H.P. Respondent No.1 Smt. Nirmala Katoch wilfully disobeyed the above status qua order parted with the part of the suit land i.e. one shop on the ground floor on dated 11.8.2014 by renting out the same to the same to the bank of India Mandi town, Distt Mandi, H.P. for installing ATM. Respondent No.2 is a Manager of the bank of India branch Mandi H.P. and is also responsible for conducting the business of bank and ATM in the suit premises. Status quo order has been specifically brought to the notice of respondent No.2 vide representation in writing dated 11.8.2014. He has been specifically requested not to violate the above order of the court i.e. by taking on rent of the suit premises and installing the ATM thereon. But respondent No.2 appears to be hand in glove with the respodnent No.1 and has ignored his request. As such, the above acts, omissions and commission of the respondents amounts to deliberate and willful disobedience and breach of the above status quo order dated 15.3.2013. Order of the ld. Addl. District Judge, Mandi dated 15.3.2013 is enclosed with the appeal. On its scrutiny, its relief clause reveals that in view of the finding given on point No.1 above, appeal is ordered to be allowed and impugned order dated 3.9.2012 passed by ld. Trial court is set aside and application is ordered to be allowed to the extent that both the parties to the application will maintain status quo qua the nature and possession of the suit property as it exists at the time of filing the suit and application till disposal of the suit on merits. Application under Order 39 Rule 2-A CPC filed on the basis of said order is dismissed by the ld. Court below i.e. without giving any opportunity of leading evidence to both the parties on merits i.e. against the settled principle of law. In view of the aforesaid position of the matter, I think it appropriate to remand the present application to the ld. Court below to decide afresh by giving opportunities to both the parties to lead evidence and decide the same on merit. So order passed by ld. Court below is not legally sustainable in the eyes of law, which requires interference of this Court. Hence this point is decided in negative."

ARE (i) given theirs' ultimately presenting, the learned Civil Judge (Sr. Division), with a fait accompli, are, thereupon ordered to be not borne in mind by the remandee Court (ii) conspicuously for obviating the afore ill-consequences, which may hence rather ensue, (iii) thereupon reiteratedly, the aforestated extracted findings, are directed to be not borne in mind, by the learned Civil Judge, while making his decision, upon, CMP193-VI of 2014.

2. In view of the above observations, the instant petition stands disposed, of, alongwith all pending applications, if any. The parties are directed to appear before the learned trial Court, on 5.9.2018.

3. Any observation made herein above shall not be taken as an expression of opinion on the merits of the case, and, the trial Court shall decide the matter uninfluenced, by any observation made herein above.

For Respondent No. 3: Ms. Megha Kapur Gautam, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The Insurer of the offending vehicle, has, instituted the instant appeal before this Court, wherethrough, it, casts, a, challenge, upon, the award pronounced by the learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Bilaspur, H.P., upon, MACP No. 6/2 of 2016, whereunder, compensation amount comprised, in, a sum of Rs.11,37,044/- alongwith interest accrued thereon, at the rate of 7.5% per annum, from, the date of petition till realization thereof, stood, assessed, vis-a-vis, the claimants, and, the apposite indemnificatory liability thereof, was, fastened upon the insurer.

2. Deceased Joginder Pal, as, unfolded by the apt postmortem report, borne in PW1/A, met his demise, in sequel, to, a road side accident. The claimants are his dependents/successors-in-interest. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer, does not contest, the validity, of, the apt affirmative findings, rendered by the learned tribunal, upon, the apposite issue appertaining, to, the demise of one Joginder Pal, rather being a sequel of rash and negligent manner, of, driving of the offending vehicle by its driver, nor he contests the fastening, of, the apt indemnificatory liability, upon, the insurer, of, the offending vehicle. However, the counsel, for the insurer has with much vigour, made a serious attempt, to rip apart the validity, of, computation made by the learned Tribunal, vis-a-vis, the per mensem slarary of the deceased, and, the apt computation appertaining therewith, is, comprised in a sum of Rs.10,000/- per mensem. The learned counsel for the insurer, has, for carrying forth his espousal, drawn, the attention of this Court, to, the testification of PW-4, the employer of deceased Joginder Pal. PW-4, during the course of his recording, his testification, has, tendered into evidence Ex.PW4/B, exhibit whereof comprises the apt salary certificate of deceased Joginder Pal, and, therein recitals occur, qua deceased rendering employment with him, from, 13.09.2015 to 1.09.2015, (a) and his being paid salary comprised in a sum of Rs.14,000/- for the month of July, 2015. However, even though, the salary certificate, at the time of, its, adduction of evidence, was without any demur, by the counsel for the insurer rather permitted to be exhibited, (b) and, per se thereupon, the afore recitals, borne therein though acquire an aura of authenticity. However, the learned counsel for the insurer, has contended (c) that with PW-4, during, the course of his thereat being subjected to cross-examination, his, qua the apt attendance register, borne in EX.PW4/C, rather making acquiescings to a suggestion put thereat, qua the attendance register not carrying against the name, of the employees concerned, their respective signatures, (d) hence, both Ex.PW4/B and Ex.PW4/C, losing their respective probative vigour. However, the aforesaid contention, cannot be accepted, (e) as in the latter part of his cross-examination, PW-4, has volunteered that his liquidating salary to the deceased, through, cheques and a compatible therewith entry being made, in, the apt pass book. Even when, the afore testification rather stands rendered by PW-4, yet the learned counsel for the insurer, for, rather ripping apart veracity thereof, omitted to make any appropriate motion, for eliciting from the bank, whereat, PW-4 was maintaining his account(s), the records appertaining therewith, nor he made endeavours for eliciting the apt pass book, (f) whereas, the elicitations of the aforesaid record, rather constituted the best evidence, for belying the aforesaid echoings, made by PW-4. The effects, of, afore omissions, are adversarial, vis-a-vis, the insurer, and, the further concomitant sequel thereof, is that, the notional income, drawn by the learned tribunal, on anvil of Ex.PW4/A, and, comprised in a sum of Rs.10,000/- per mensem, rather being both appropriate and tenable, and, warranting no interference.

3. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the insurer has canvassed with much vigour before this Court, that, the meteing of hikes constituted, in, 15%, upon, a sum of Rs.10,000/-, rather being ridden, with, a gross fallacy, (i) and when he anchors, the aforesaid submission, upon, the apt mandate of the Hon'ble Apex Court, as, borne in the judgement rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court, in, a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, given, it rather not vindicating, any meteing, of, hikes towards future incremental prospects, vis-a-vis, any self employed deceased being aged more than 50 years or when he is engaged, in a non governmental organization or entity, (ii) whereas, with the deceased, being self employed or being aged more than 50 years, it being impermissible, to mete 15% hikes towards, future incremental prospects. However, the aforesaid submission, rather falters, given, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Pranay Sethi's case (supra) rather validating the meteing of hikes, vis-a-vis, future incremental prospects, even qua a self-employed deceased being aged more than 50 years, as, the deceased hereat evidently, is. The relevant paragraphs whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "57. Section 168 of the Act deals with the concept of "just compensation" and the same has to be determined on the foundation of fairness, reasonableness and equitability on acceptable legal standard because such determination can never be in arithmetical exactitude. It can never be perfect. The aim is to achieve an acceptable degree of proximity to arithmetical precision on the basis of materials brought on record in an individual case. The conception of "just compensation" has to be viewed through the prism of fairness, reasonableness and non- violation of the principle of equitability. In a case of death, the legal heirs of the claimants cannot expect a windfall. Simultaneously, the compensation granted cannot be an apology for compensation. It cannot be a pittance. Though the discretion vested in the tribunal is quite wide, yet it is obligatory on the part of the tribunal to be guided by the expression, that is, "just compensation". The determination has to be on the foundation of evidence brought on record as regards the age and income of the deceased and thereafter the apposite multiplier to be applied. The formula relating to multiplier has been clearly stated in Sarla Verma (supra) and it has been approved in Reshma Kumari (supra). The age and income, as stated earlier, have to be established by adducing evidence. The tribunal and the Courts have to bear in mind that the basic principle lies in pragmatic computation which is in proximity to reality. It is a well accepted norm that money cannot substitute a life lost but an effort has to be made for grant of just compensation having uniformity of approach. There has to be a balance between the two extremes, that is, a windfall and the pittance, a bonanza and the modicum. In such an adjudication, the duty of the tribunal and the Courts is difficult and hence, an endeavour has been made by this Court for standardization which in its ambit includes addition of future prospects on the proven income at present. As far as future prospects are concerned, there has been standardization keeping in view the principle of certainty, stability and consistency. We approve the principle of "standardization" so that a specific and certain multiplicand is determined for applying the multiplier on the basis of age.
> 58. The seminal issue is the fixation of future prospects in cases of deceased who is self-employed or on a fixed salary. Sarla Verma (supra) has carved out an exception permitting the claimants to bring materials on record to get the benefit of addition of future prospects. It has not, per se, allowed any future prospects in respect of the said category.
> 59.Having bestowed our anxious consideration, we are disposed to think when we accept the principle of standardization, there is really no rationale not to apply the said principle to the self-employed or a person who is on a fixed salary. To follow the doctrine of actual income at the time of death and not to add any amount with regard to future prospects to the income for the purpose of determination of multiplicand would be unjust. The determination of income while computing compensation has to include future prospects so that the method will come within the ambit and sweep of just compensation as postulated under Section 168 of the Act. In case of a deceased who had held a permanent job with inbuilt grant of annual increment, there is an acceptable certainty. But to state that the legal representatives of a deceased who was on a fixed salary would not be entitled to the benefit of future prospects for the purpose of computation of compensation would be inapposite. It is because the criterion of distinction between the two in that event would be certainty on the one hand and staticness on the other. One may perceive that the comparative measure is certainty on the one hand and uncertainty on the other but such a perception is fallacious. It is because the price rise does affect a self-employed person; and that apart there is always an incessant effort to enhance one's income for sustenance. The purchasing capacity of a salaried person on permanent job when increases because of grant of increments and pay revision or for some other change in service conditions, there is always a competing attitude in the private sector to enhance the salary to get better efficiency from the employees. Similarly, a person who is self-employed is bound to garner his resources and raise his charges/fees so that he can live with same facilities. To have the perception that he is likely to remain static and his income to remain stagnant is contrary to the fundamental concept of human attitude which always intends to live with dynamism and move and change with the time. Though it may seem appropriate that there cannot be certainty in addition of future prospects to the existing income unlike in the case of a person having a permanent job, yet the said perception does not really deserve acceptance. We are inclined to think that there can be some degree of difference as regards the percentage that is meant for or applied to in respect of the legal representatives who claim on behalf of the deceased who had a permanent job than a person who is self-employed or on a fixed salary. But not to apply the principle of standardization on the foundation of perceived lack of certainty would tantamount to remaining oblivious to the marrows of ground reality. And, therefore, degree-test is imperative. Unless the degree-test is applied and left to the parties to adduce evidence to establish, it would be unfair and inequitable. The degree-test has to have the inbuilt concept of percentage. Taking into consideration the cumulative factors, namely, passage of time, the changing society, escalation of price, the change in price index, the human attitude to follow a particular pattern of life,etc., an addition of 40% of the established income of the deceased towards future prospects and where the deceased was below 40 years an addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years would be reasonable.

60. The controversy does not end here. The question still remains whether there should be no addition where the age of the deceased is more than 50 years. Sarla Verma thinks it appropriate not to add any amount and the same has been approved in Reshma Kumari. Judicial notice can be taken of the fact that salary does not remain the same. When a person is in a permanent job, there is always an enhancement due to one reason or the other. To lay down as a thumb rule that there will be no addition after 50 years will be an unacceptable concept. We are disposed to think, there should be an addition of 15% if the deceased is between the age of 50 to 60 years and there should be no addition thereafter. Similarly, in case of self- employed or person on fixed salary, the addition should be 10% between the age of 50 to 60 years. The aforesaid yardstick has been fixed so that there can be consistency in the approach by the tribunals and the courts. "

4. Since the postmortem report reflects, qua the deceased being aged 55 years, hence, the meteing of 15% increase(s) towards future incremental prospects, vis-a-vis, the apposite per mensem income of the deceased, by the learned tribunal does not suffer from any fallacy.

5. The learned counsel appearing for the insurer has contested, the, computation of compensation made by the learned tribunal, upon, the dependents, of, the deceased, under heads, namely, "Loss of consortium vis-a-vis spouse/wife", comprised in a sum of Rs.1,00,000/- and under the head "Funeral charges", a sum of Rs.25,000/-, on anvil, of its being in conflict with the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in a case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, whereupon, hence, he contends that the learned tribunal has committed, a, gross error in assessing a sum of Rs. One lacs, under, the head "loss of consortium, to, petitioner No.1", and, Rs.25000/-, under, the head "Funeral Expenses". Consequently, the assessment of compensation, under, the head "funeral expenses" in a sum of Rs.25,000/-, vis-a-vis, the petitioner, is, reduced to Rs.15,000/-, as also the quantification of compensation, under, the head "loss of consortium, to, petitioner No.1", and, borne in a sum of Rs.one lac, is, reduced to Rs.40,000/-. Consequently, the petitioners are held entitled to compensation amount under the following heads as under:

|---|---|---|
| 1. | Loss of dependency come | Rs.10,12,044/- |
| 2. | Loss of Consortium to petitioner No.1 | Rs. 40,000/- |
| 3. | Funeral charge | Rs. 15,000/- |
| | Total | Rs.10,67,044/- |

6. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the insurer is partly allowed, and, the impugned award, is, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified. Accordingly, the petitioners, are, held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.10,67,044/-, along with pending and future interest @7.5 % per annum, from, the date of petition till the date, of, deposit, of the compensation amount. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted in the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. Compensation amount be apportioned, amongst the claimants as ordered by the learned tribunal. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal is directed, against, the concurrently recorded verdicts by both the learned Courts below, whereby, the plaintiff's suit for rendition, of, a decree for declaration, as well as for, rendition of a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction, qua, the suit khasra number(s), was, hence dismissed.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the plaintiff filed a suit for declaration and injunction, to declare the relinquishment deed executed by defendant No.2 of his share in favour of defendant No.1, out of the suit land comprised in Khewat Khatauni No.373/412, Khasra No.823, 838, land measuring 10-17-9 bighas situated in Muhal Kalohad/27, Tehsil Sunder Nagar and Khewat No.52, Khatauni No.65, Khasra No.301, 303, 307, 308, 324, 325, 326, 331, 333, measuring 32-0-4 bighas, situated in Moza Jola/353, Tehsil Sadar, District Mandi, H.P. as per the jamabandi for the year 1997-98. The plaintiff aver that previously the land was owned by their father Sh. Mahant Ram, who was having six sons and one has expired. All the legal representatives have inherited the land of Sh. Mahant Ram. The plaintiff alleged that defendant No.2, illegally and against the law executed relinquishment deed of his share in favour of defendant No.1. The defendants were requested to cancel the relinquishment deed, but all in vain.

3. The defendants contested the suit, however, they had failed to within the stipulated period, file written statement to the plaint, hence their defence was struck off.

4. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court dismissed the suit of the plaintiff/appellant herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom by the plaintiff/appellant herein before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed the appeal, and, affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

5. Now the plaintiff/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein he assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, this Court, on 17.06.2015, admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiff/appellant, against, the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

a) Whether one of the legal heirs can relinquish his share in the property inherited from his father in favour of one of his legal heirs excluding the other under the Hindu Law?

b) Whether there has been mis-reading and mis-appreciation of oral as well as documentary evidence especially Ext. P-1 to P-4 and PY to PZ and on that count, the judgment and decree under challenge is vitiated, hence not legally sustainable?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 to 2:

6. Uncontrovertedly, as, borne in the jamabandis apposite to the suit land, AND, as comprised in Ex.PY, and, in Ex. PZ, the suit land is undivided inter se the co-owners. From amongst, the recorded co-owners, Guman Singh, defendant No.2 through relinquishment deeds, respectively, borne in Ex.P-1, and, in Ex.P-2, alienated/released, his share, in the joint Hindu ancestral coparcenary property vis-a-vis Milkhi Ram, co-defendant No.1. The valid execution of the aforesaid relinquishshment deeds, is not, under challenge nor any challenge, is, cast vis-a-vis their execution, hence, emanating from, any vice of fraud or mis-representation, practised, by defendant No.1 Milkhi Ram vis-a-vis co-defendant No.2 one Guman Singh. Importantly also the relinquishments made by co-defendant Guman Singh, upon, co-defendant Milkhi Ram, are, also not contended to be beyond, his share in the ancestral coparcenary property.

7. However, the learned senior counsel appearing, for the plaintiff/appellant, while placing reliance, upon, a judgment, rendered by the Hon'ble Madras High Court, in case titled as P.R. Munuswamy Naidu vs. V. Venkatesan and Ors, reported in (1997)2 MLJ 18, the relevant paragraphs No.12 to 14 whereof are extracted hereinafter:-

> "12. In N.R. Raghavachariar's Hindu Law - Principles and Precedents' - 8th Edition, (1987), at page 237, it is said thus:
>
> A coparcener can renounce his interest in the joint family estate. The renunciation does not result in a general partition of the family. Such a renunciation merely extinguishes his interest in that estate, but does not affect the status of the remaining members quoad the family property, and they continue to be coparceners as before, the only effect of the renunciation being to reduce the number of persons to whom shares would be allotted if, and when, a division of the estate takes place. A coparcener can renounce his interest only in favour of all the coparceners and when he renounces in favour of only one of them, the renunciation, enures for the benefit of even the others,...his renunciation which enures for the benefit of all the other coparceners may take the form of a gift of the entire interest of a coparcener in favour of another coparcener.
>
> 3. In Mulla 's 'Hindu Law' - 15th Edition (1982) at page 357, it is said thus:
> Renunciation or relinquishment of his share - A coparcener may renounce his interest in the coparcenary property in favour of the other coparceners as a body but not in favour of one or more of them. If he renounces in favour of one or more of them the renunciation enures for the benefit of all other coparceners and not for the sole benefit of the coparcener or coparceners in whose favour the renunciation is made. Such renunciation is not invalid even if the renouncing coparcener makes it a condition that he would be paid something towards maintenance. The renunciation or relinquishment must, of course, be genuine. If fictitious and not acted upon it would be inoperative as between the parties and partition can be claimed....

14. In a Full Bench decision of this Court reported in Chella Subbanna v. Chella Balasubbareddi : AIR1945Mad142 , it was held as follows:.

The relinquishment by one coparcener of his interest in the family estate in favour of the members of the coparcenary does not amount to an alienation; it merely amounts to an extinction of his interest in favour of the others. The gift of his interest to one of several other coparceners would not mean the extinction of that interest. It would mean an alienation of it. It is well-settled law that there cannot be such a gift to a stranger and it is now clear that there cannot be a gift to a fellow coparcener if the family is to remain undivided.

There is another Privy Council judgment which supports the proposition that there cannot be a renunciation by one member of a joint family in favour of one of several other members of the family while the family remains joint. In Vasantrao v. Anandrao 6 B.L.R. 925 one Madhawaro executed a release of his interest in the family property in favour of his father. The Bombay High Court held that the release must be treated, as being, not for the benefit of the father alone, but of the coparcenary and the shares were to be determined as though Madhawrao had died. This case went to the Privy Council as Anandrao v. Vasantrao 9 B.L.R. 595 their Lordships held that the governing principles had been rightly applied by the High Court and dismissed the appeal. At p. 497, 10th Edn. of Mayne the learned editor expresses the opinion that dicta in Pedayya v. Ramalingam I.L.R. 11 Mad. 406 and Thangavelu Pillai v. Doraiswami Pillai 27 M.L.J. 272 cannot be considered good law especially after the decision of the Privy Council in Venkatapathi Raju v. Venkatanarasimha Raju (1936) 71 M.L.J. 558 : I.L.R. 69 IndAp 307 : I.L.R. 1937 Mad. 1. It follows from what we have said that we are in full agreement with this opinion and that additional support for it is to be found in the judgment of their Lordships in Anandrao v. Vasantrao 9 B.L.R. 595. The answer which we give to the question referred is this : A member of a joint Hindu family governed by the Mitakshara law cannot give his interest in the family estate to one of several coparceners if they remain joint in estate. In such circumstances he can relinquish his interest but the relinquishment operates for the benefit of all the other members. The costs of this reference will be costs in the appeal."

(I) AND conspicuously, on anvil, of, underlined apt portions thereto, hence, rears espousals qua the apposite relinquishment deeds, respectively borne in Ex.P-1, and, in Ex. P-2, even if, they were made, by co-defendant Guman Singh, singularly vis-a-vis co-defendant Milkhi Ram, (ii) nonetheless, in compatibility, with, the apt hereinabove extracted underlined portions, of, the verdict, rendered by the Hon'ble Madras High Court, wherein it is contemplated (a) of the apposite release rather enuring, for, the benefit of the entire body of coparceners; (b) AND, with an interdiction, hence, being cast therein, against the making of any release, by one coparcener in favour of one or more of them; (c) besides upon any renunciation or release being made by a coparcener vis-a-vis one or more members of the coparcenary body, thereupon, the renunciation rather enuring, hence, for the benefit of the entire body of the coparceners, and, not for the apposite benefit of one coparcener, vis-a-vis whom, the apt release is made; (d) rather all benefits thereof hence enuring, for the benefits, of, the entire body, of, coparceners. However, the submission, as addressed, before, this Court, by the learned senior counsel appearing for the appellant (i) is sparked by gross misreading(s), of, the import, AND, of the intrinsic nuance, of the apt verdict, as, is comprised, in the apt hereinabove extracted paragraphs; (ii) the misreading, of, import thereof, arises, from the factum of the learned senior counsel appearing, for the appellant/plaintiff, focusing merely upon the underlined portions thereof, (iii) hence, making contemplations,of, an interdiction being cast, against, the coparcener making a release or renunciation vis-a-vis one or more members, of the coparcenary body, (iv) and, he also proceeds to dwell, upon, and centralize, his arguments, upon, the further contemplation occurring therein, qua, upon the apt interdiction aforestated, being infringed, thereupon, the benefit of the apt renunciation, rather enuring vis-a-vis the other members of the coparcenary body, especially, vis-a-vis whom, the apt renunciation is not made; (v) hence concomitantly, he argues that the benefit, of, the relinquishment deeds, even if, made by co-defendant Guman Singh vis-a-vis only one co-owner, namely, Milkhi Ram, thereupon, all benefits thereof also enuring vis-a-vis all other members, of the coparcenary body, including the plaintiff.

8. The misreading, by him, of the afore-referred contemplations, borne, in the apt hereinabove extracted paragraphs, hence, occurring in the verdict rendered by Madras High Court, in, P. R. Munuswamy Naidu's case (supra), (i) is, germinated, by, the mis-signification ascribed by him, to the parlance borne therein i.e. “enuring of benefits of apposite relinquishements qua the entire members, of, the coparcenary body”, (ii) even when made by the relinquisher vis-a-vis one or two members, of, the coparcenary body, and, not made vis-a-vis other members, of coparcenary body, (iii) whereas, the mis-signification ascribed thereto by him, would fade into the domain of irrelevance or insignificance, (iv) given the apposite paragraphs, of, the judgment relied, upon, by him, rather, also, ascribing, the signification vis-a-vis the phrase “enuring for the benefits of the entire body of coparceners”, qua its hence carrying, the import, of, upon occurrence, of, the apposite relinquishments, (v) thereupon, the relinquisher's share in the undivided property, to the extent, he makes, the apt, relinquishment vis-a-vis one or more members of the entire body, of, the coparcenary body, hence, concomitantly being reduced, (vi) AND, if the apt, relinquishment is made by him, of, his entire share, in the coparcenary property, thereupon, his share in the ancestral coparcenary property being extinguished besides being rendered extinct, (vii) as also, of the determinations, of, the share of other members, of the coparcenary body vis-a-vis whom the relinquishments are not made, being hence enjoined to be made, in consonance, with, the apt extinctions, of, the share of the relinquisher, (viii) who makes, the relinquishment, of his share vis-a-vis one or more members of the coparcenary body, (ix) besides reiteratedly also, the determination(s), of the shares of other members, of the coparcenary body, vis-a-vis whom, the apt relinquishment, is not made, being determined, as if, the relinquisher, is ousted, from the coparcenary body. The ascribing, by this Court, to the apt hereinabove extracted paragraphs, of, the verdict, of, Mardras High Court in P.R. Munuswamy Naidu's case (supra), qua hence, theirs rather carrying the aforesaid connotations besides significations, emerges, on a thorough, incisive, and, on an in depth analysis thereof. (x) Significantly, also, the apt contemplations occurring therein, significantly, qua, the enurings, of, benefits of the apposite relinquishment deed vis-a-vis those members of the coparcenary body, who are not executants thereof nor, are, mentioned therein, as, beneficiaries thereof, being not amenable qua imputation, of, any, signification, nor, being construable, to be carrying any import, qua, dehors theirs not being executants thereto, theirs rather deriving, all, benefits thereof, in proportion to their shares, in the coparcenary property, (xi) given any meteing, of, aforesaid significations, vis-a-vis the phrase “enures for the benefit of the members of the entire coparcenary body” rather would thereupon, hence, extinguish, besides efface the very purpose, of, the further contemplations, hence, occurring therein, wherein, courts, of, law apparently rather validate the making of the release deeds, by one coparcener vis-a-vis the other coparcener, in the coparcenary body, (xii) and, also validate the apposite releases, being made, by, the apt relinquisher, of his share, in the coparcenary body vis-a-vis one or more members of the coparcenary body, and, to the exclusion, of, the other members, of the coparcenary body.

9. In aftermath, the relinquishment deeds, when, as aforestated are provenly hence validly and duly executed, and, are shorn of any vice of fictitiousness or mis-representation, (i)thereupon, the apposite relinquishment deeds, only result in (a) elimination, of, co-defendant No.2 Guman Singh, from, the coparcenary body, in case, he has relinquished, his entire share vis-a-vis co-defendant No.1 Milkhi Ram; (b) of hence, concomitantly, with, there occurring elimination of Guman Singh, co-defendant No.2, from, the coparcenary body, thereupon, hence, thereafter, the shares, of, other members of the coparcenary body, being amenable for re-determination, in consonance with the apt relinquishment deeds; (c) co-defendant Guman Singh being barred to make, any, demand for partition, of, his share in the coparcenary property, given his renouncing his share therein, (d) whereupon, upon demand for partition being made, by member/members of the coparcenary property, the separate allocations of earmarked shares, upon, hence dismemberments, of, the undivided property, rather occurring in consonance, with, the determination of shares, made, in compatibility with the apposite relinquishment deeds.

10. Be that as it may, the relinquishment deeds, are also, made within the ambit of 8.36B of the H.P. Land Records Manual, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "8.36-B "Release" is an instrument whereby a person renounces a claim upon another person or against any specified property. It predicates the existence of a claim upon another person or against any specified property, which claim the person, executing the document renounces by a deed of release.
>
> The person in whose favour there can be a release, must possess a pre-existing right or interest in the property. A release, in law, may be effected either for consideration or for no consideration. Where one co-owner of a property, be a deed, relinquishes his right to possession and his title in favour of the other co-owner, such deed is a release deed.
> Subject to the provisions contained under section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972 and section 3 of the H.P. Transfer of land (Regulation) Act, 1968, the mutation of release shall be attested by the Revenue Officer if a co-owner relinquishes his whole or any part of his claim (share( in favour of one or the other co-owner in a joint ownership either based upon registered deed or oral agreement entered by the patwari on the basis of report made to him under section 35 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act. As mentioned under para 8.1(5) supra, the Revenue Officer cannot compel the parties to execute registered deed of Release and Settlement. Mutation can be attested on the basis of oral agreement under section 38 of the H.P. Land Revenue Act, 1954, if otherwise legal."

(i) wherein, also a clear stipulation is borne, whereby, a co-owner of undivided land, is, permitted to relinquish, his whole or any part of his share vis-a-vis one or the other co-owners, by his executing, an apposite registered deed of release. Since, the apposite relinquishment deeds, are made in consonance therewith, and, assumingly, if the argument, of, the learned counsel appearing, for the appellant, is, tentatively accepted, yet with a specific apt hereat mandate, occurring in H.P. Land Records Manual, (ii) thereupon, with a reading, of, the verdict rendered, by the Madras High Court in P.R. Munuswamy Naidu's case (supra), rather not making any clear unraveling, qua, in, compatibility vis-a-vis existence, within, the State of H.P., of, the hereinabove extracted mandate, within domain whereof, the relinquishment, of a share by a co-owner in the undivided land vis-a-vis one or the other co-sharers, is, rather permissible, also in Madras hence an alike mandate rather existing, thereupon the specific mandate extracted hereinabove also hence subsumes, the effect, if any, even if tentatively, of the aforesaid espousal, made by the counsel for the plaintiff/appellant herein, (iii) more so when mandate thereof, is, not demonstrably disclosed to be hence declared ultra vires.

11. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court, have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the respondents/defendants and against the appellant/plaintiff.

12. In view of the above discussion, the present Regular Second Appeal is dismissed. In sequel, the judgements and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

For the Petitioners: Mr. V.D. Khidta, Advocate (in all petitions).

For the Respondents: Mr. Hemant Vaid, Addl. A.G. with Mr. Yudhveer Singh Thakur and Mr. Vikrant Chandel, Dy. Advocate Generals.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

Since, common questions of facts, and, law are involved in all the aforestated petitions, hence, they are being disposed, of, by a common judgment.

2. The land of the petitioners, along with, the lands, of, other landowners concerned, was, acquired for construction, of, a helipad, at Rohru. The apposite notification, whereunder, the lands of the landowners concerned, was, brought under acquisition, was, issued on 2.9.1993. The Land Acquisition Collector concerned, rendered his award, on, 15.12.1995, and, thereunder, hence, assessed compensation vis-a-vis all the landowners concerned. The award of the Land Acquisition Collector concerned, was, assailed by the aggrieved, by theirs preferring petitions, under, Section 18, of the Land Acquisition Act, before, the Collector concerned, petitions whereof, were, thereafter hence transmitted, to the learned Reference Court, for a pronouncement, of, an adjudication thereon. The learned Reference Court, under, a rendition made on 18.1.1999, enhanced compensation amount vis-a-vis those landowners, who, had constituted the apposite reference petitions. Subsequently, the petitioners herein, whose lands, alongwith the aforesaid, were, also under a common notification, hence, acquired for construction, of a helipad at Roharu, (i) AND, who did not alike other land owners, hence contest the award pronounced by the Land Acquisition Collector, by theirs casting petitions under Section 18, of, the Land Acquisition Act, (hereinafter referred to as the Act), before, the Collector concerned, (ii) for enabling the latter, to forward them, to the learned Reference Court concerned, rather hence, on anvil, of, the mandate borne, in, Section 28-A of the Act, provisions of whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> " 28A Re-determination of the amount of compensation on the basis of the award of the Court.
> (1) Where in an award under this Part, the Court allows to the applicant any amount of compensation in excess of the amount awarded by the Collector under section 11, the persons interested in all the other land covered by the same notification under section 4, sub-section (1) and who are also aggrieved by the award of the Collector may, notwithstanding that they had not made an application to the Collector under section 18, by written application to the Collector within three months from the date of the award of the Court require that the amount of compensation payable to them may be re-determined on the basis of the amount of compensation awarded by the Court: Provided that in computing the period of three months within which an application to the Collector shall be made under this sub-section, the day on which the award was pronounced and the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the award shall be excluded.
>
> (2) The Collector shall, on receipt of an application under sub-section (1), conduct an inquiry after giving notice to all the persons interested and giving them a reasonable opportunity of being heard, and make an award determining the amount of compensation payable to the applicants.
> (3) Any person who has not accepted the award under sub-section (2) may, by written application to the Collector, require that the matter be referred by the Collector for the determination of the Court and the provisions of sections 18 to 28 shall, so far as may be, apply to such reference as they apply to a reference under section 18."

(iii) hence sought parity qua compensation determined vis-a-vis those landowners concerned, who, had instituted reference petitions, before the Collector concerned, under, the provisions of Section 18 of the Act, and, petitions whereof, were, forwarded to the Reference Court, AND, the latter thereon, hence, enhanced the compensation amount vis-avis the apt aggrieved landowners. The mandate of Section 28A, of the Act, obviously, warranted its application vis-a-vis, the scribed motions, made by the petitioners herein, before, the Collector concerned, motions whereof, were, constituted, under, Section 28A of the Act. However, the apposite motions, were belatedly made, and, the apposite delay, in, the belated endeavours of the petitioners, were concerted, to be condoned by the petitioners, by theirs instituting apposite application(s), cast under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, before the Collector concerned. The apposite application(s), cast under the provisions of Section 5, of the Limitation Act, were, as apparent, from, perusal, of, order(s) recorded on 24.05.1997 (existing at page 62 of the paper book), hence allowed, and, the apposite delay was also condoned. However, subsequently, the successor-in-office, of, the authority concerned, who, pronounced, the order of 24.05.1997, rather dismissed the application(s), cast under the provisions of Section 5 of the Limitation Act, and, obliviously also proceeded, to not, on anvil of Section 28A, of the Act, hence mete vis-a-vis the petitioners herein, the statutory benefits, of enhanced compensation, as, were bestowed, upon other aggrieved landowners, who, unlike the petitioners, had, preferred reference petitions, before, the learned Reference Court.

3. The learned counsel, appearing for the petitioners, has on anvil, of, an pronouncement, recorded by this Court, in, CMPMO No.204 of 2005, in case, titled as Vilaswati and others vs. State of H.P., pronouncement whereof, is, vis-a-vis those landowners, whose lands, were acquired, under, a notification common inter se them, and, the petitioners herein, AND, more particularly by emphasising, upon, expostulations, occurring, in paragraph No.12 thereof, paragraph whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "12. However, as noticed hereinabove, delay in the present case has been condoned by the Land Acquisition Collector. No doubt the Land Acquisition Collector did not have the jurisdiction or the power to condone delay, in view of the above stated legal position, but that order could not have been reviewed or held to be infructuous by the successor of Land Acquisition Collector, who passed the order condoning the delay, because the Land Acquisition Collector does not have be power to review his own order."

Hence has proceeded, to, espouse, (i) of, with the co-ordinate bench of this Court, hence, discountenancing, the apt reviewing(s), by, the apt successor-in-office, of an earlier affirmative order, rather made by his predecessor-in-office, upon, an application, cast under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, (ii) thereupon, he contends, that alike therewith, the orders rendered on 7.12.2004, being amenable, for, theirs being quashed and set aside, and, rather, alike therewithin, hence, directions being enjoined to be pronounced, upon, the Land Acquisition Collector concerned, to, pronounce a fresh decision, upon, the application(s) pending before him, and, as, stand constituted under Section 28-A of the Act, (iii) also he contends that with uncontrovertedly, the respondents rather implementing vis-a-vis the petitioners in CMPMO No. 204 of 2005, the pronouncement, recorded by this Court, (iv) thereupon, alike therewith, for ensuring non perpetuation, of, any discrimination inter se them, and, the petitioners herein, this Court also proceed, to make a direction, upon, the Land Acquisition Collector concerned, to bring the apposite parities, inter se the petitioners, in CMPMO No. 204 of 2005, and, vis-a-vis the petitioners herein. However, for the reasons to be assigned hereinafter, the aforesaid submission, is, unacceptable to this Court (v) given, a catena of judicial verdicts, making clear expostulations, of, the Land Acquisition Collector concerned, being wholly disempowered, to make any pronouncement, upon applications, cast before him, under the provisions, of Section 5 of the Limitation Act, (vi) thereupon, with the orders, occurring at page 62 of the paper book(s), whereunder, the predecessor-in-office of the apt Reviewing authority concerned, hence condoned the apposite delay, rather begetting visible infraction(s) vis-a-vis the apt aforesaid mandate, occurring, in a catena, of judicial verdicts, (vii) hence, befittingly constrains this Court, to, contrarily conclude that, despite, the apt review by the successor-in-office, of, the initially recorded order, rather being also beyond the domain, of his jurisdiction, (viii) nonetheless rather thereupon alone, the orders made subsequent, to, the orders occurring, at page 62, of the paper book, not constraining this Court, to, disturb, the apt thereof, hence, reviewing orders, given, theirs being also stained, with, an entrenched vice of voidness. (ix) Nor, in the garb of the purported inapposite exercise of jurisdiction of review, by, the authority, who pronounced the apt reviewing orders, (x) nor hence, in the garb of, theirs being untenable, this Court, would impute any sanctity qua the initial orders, hence, made by the apt predecessor-in-office, orders whereof occur at page 62, of the paper book, (xi) reiteratedly when the initial orders, are, made beyond the mandate of judicial verdicts, wherewithin, rather clear, candid and forthright, view is expostulated, of, no jurisdiction being foisted, in, the Land Acquisition Collector, to, condone delay(s), in the apposite motions, being made before him, by the landowners concerned, AND, concomitantly, with grave irredeemability, gripping the initial orders, by mere circumvention(s), their stain of voidness, being hence incurable. (xii) In aftermath, with the initial order, being gripped, with an apparent vice, of, statutory disempowerment, and, with the aforesaid vices, travelling continuously, upto, the stage of the successor-in-office reviewing it, also hence, the inaptly made apposite order, of, review, cannot constrain this Court, to set it aside, (xiii) reiteratedly given thereupon, this Court, condoning, the inapt exercise, of, jurisdiction, by the authority concerned, who, pronounced the initial order existing at page 62, of, the paper book. For hence avoiding, to overcome, the vices, of, nonest and voidness, gripping, the initial order(s), thereupon, concomitantly, the apt reviewing orders, are, rendered rather construable to be both redundant, besides irrelevant. (xiv) Conspicuously when unless the aforesaid construction, is placed upon the apt Reviewing orders, thereupon, the catena, of verdicts, hence, barring the apt exercise, of jurisdiction by the Land Acquisition Collector concerned, would be circumvented, (xv) nor foists any, leverage in the petitioners, to, on anvil thereof, contend that in consonance, with, the verdict pronounced, by a coordinate bench of this Court, in CMPMO No.204 of 2005, alike directions therewith, being meted upon the respondents herein, also, hence, theirs being required to be implemented, AND, rather contrarily the intially rendered orders, enjoin theirs being quashed and set aside.

4. Even otherwise, no reliance can be placed, by this Court, upon, the rendition, made, by a coordinate bench of this Court, in CMPMO No. 204 of 2005, dehors, its acquiring any conclusivity, given it remaining unassailed, before the Hon'ble Apex Curt, as also, it standing implemented, AND, besides its non implementation vis-a-vis the petitioners herein, also cannot, purportedly hence sequel any befallment, of, or any perpetuation, of, discrimination, upon, the petitioners herein, besides the tentative meritworthiness, thereof, is, blunted, for the reasons (a) given the decision recorded by this Court, in CMPMO No. 204 of 2005, whereby, it proceeded, to, after reversing the order, of review, made, by the apt successor-in-office, of, the authority, who untenably pronounced the initial void orders, (b) AND, even despite the fact that the initial orders, were, purportedly inaptly reviewed, also rather hence rid the initial orders vis-a-vis, all, the gross irredeemable entrenched stains, of, apt statutory disempowerments, (c) thereupon, rather with a coordinate bench, of this, Court, earlier hence visibly condoning the inapt initial exercise of jurisdiction, by, the apt predecessor-in-office, and, also hence rendering a verdict, clearly per incuriam vis-a-vis the apt jurisidictional interdictions, cast in a catena of judicial verdicts, (d) wherewithin, an absolute bar, is cast, against the Land Acquisition Collector, in condoning, the apposite delay, in, the belated preferment of, an application under Section 28A of the Act, (e) rather with the apposite empowerment being solitarily vested, in, the Reference Court, and, being exercisable, only upon, the apposite application(s), being referred by the Collector concerned vis-a-vis it, whereas, with the apposite transmission, not, evidently occurring hereat, also constrains this Court, to hence, dissent therefrom..

5. For the foregoing reasons, all the petitions, are dismissed. However, for meteing complete justice vis-a-vis, the petitioners, it is still open, to, the petitioners herein, to institute appropriate application(s), before, the Land Acquisition Collector concerned, who may thereafter forward them, to the learned Reference Court, for the latter, hence, in accordance with law, condoning, the delay, in, the apposite motions, being made before the Land Acquisition Collector concerned, and, on the delays being condoned, the Courts concerned/he Collector concerned shall make a pronouncement, on merits, in accordance with law. The aforesaid exercise shall be be completed within six months from today. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

For the Appellant(s): Mr. Jagdish Thakur, Advocate in FAO No. 226 of 2015.

For Respondents No. 1 & 2: Mr. Rajesh Verma, Advocate in FAO No. 226 of 2015
Mr. Tek Chand, Advocate vice to Mr. Ashok Tayagi, Advocate in FAO No. 227 of 2005.

For Respondent No.3: Mr. Tek Chand, Advocate vice to Mr. Ashok Tayagi, Advocate in FAO No. 226 of 2005.
Mr. Jagdish Thakur, Advocate, in FAO No. 227 of 2005.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The learned Motor Accident Claims Tribunal-I, Sirmaur District at Nahan, H.P., had, vis-a-vis the parents, of, deceased Kamlesh Kumar, who met his end in a motor vehicle accident, spurring, from the rash, and, negligent manner of driving, of, the offending vehicle, by Dilbag Singh, respondent No.2,hence, computed compensation, borne in a sum of Rs.16,45,000/-, along with interest, at, the rate of 9% per annum, from, the date of institution of petition, till its final realization. The indemnificatory liability thereof, was, burdened upon the insurer, of, the offending vehicle. The insurer as also the claimants, are, aggrieved by the award pronounced by the learned Tribunal in MAC Petition No. 153-MAC/2 of 2013, hence, they respectively instituted, the aforesaid appeals, before this Court.

2. The learned counsel appearing, for the insurer, of the offending vehicle, has, contended with vigour, that in the learned tribunal, hence, computing the income of the deceased, at Rs.10000/- per month, rather is ridden with a gross fallacy, arising, from the factum (a) of, his yet at the relevant time rather prosecuting his course in engineering, as reflected, in Ex.PW4/Q, at IIT college; (b) hence with his thereat, not, rearing any income nor any cogent evidence existing on record, qua, upon his completing the course, in engineering, from, the aforesaid institution, his imminently besides inevitably proceeding, to, draw a salary of Rs.10,000/- per month, (c) reiteratedly, hence, rendered the aforesaid apt computation, to be, grossly flawed, and, (d) he further contends that concomitantly, the meteing(s) of accretions/hikes, of 50%, vis-a-vis the aforesaid per mensem prospective salary, of the deceased, being also ridden, with a gross inherent legal fallacy. Furthermore, he contends that, though, the deceased, at the relevant time, was, aged 20 years, hence, upon the relevant figure, of annual dependency, a multiplier of 13, than, of 18, was applicable vis-a-vis the apt tenable figure of annual dependency.

3. The veracity of Ex.PW4/Q, is, not contested by the insurer. The prestige of the college, whereat, the deceased, at the relevant time, was prosecuting his studies, is also not cast any shadow of doubt. The effects thereof (i) are that deceased Kamlesh Kumar, on completing his engineering course, from, IIT college of Engineering, his hence definitely securing an apt employment either in government sector, or in a non government sector, whereupon, there being also a likelihood, of, his drawing a salary not less than Rs.10,000/- per mensem. The effect of the aforesaid inference, would be eroded, (ii) only, upon, evidence being adduced, by the insurer, comprised, in the graduates of IIT College, of Engineering, on obtaining, hence, employments in the government sector or in the non government sector, theirs drawing salary less than Rs.10,000/- per mensem. However, the aforesaid evidence is amiss, thereupon, it is concluded that deceased Kamlesh Kumar, would, on completing his engineering course, from, IIT College of Engineering, would hence definitely rather draw a salary not less than Rs.10,000/-, upon, his coming to be employed with a government agency or with a non government agency.

4. However, the learned counsel, for, the insurer has persisted, to, resist the tenacity of the aforesaid inference, on anvil (I) of with their existing hazy, and, nebulous evidence vis-a-vis the certainty(ies), of, rather contrarily hence the likely/possible income hence being drawn, by the deceased, upon, his completing, the, engineering course, from, IIT College of Engineering, (ii) thereupon, the apposite notification, prescribing, the minimum wages vis-a-vis the skilled category of workman, wherein, a sum of Rs.163/- per day is prescribed, rather constituting the apt tangible material, for, hence computing the per mensem salary, of, the deceased. However, the aforesaid submission also founders, for, the simple reason (iii) that the apposite notification, visibly appertaining, only, to those workman belonging, to, the highly skilled, skilled, semi skilled or unskilled apt categories, (iv) whereas, deceased Kamlesh Kumar, being not construable to be a workman nor concomitantly, hence, his being construable, to be, a highly skilled workman, nor hence his per diem wages, are, construable to stand computed, in a sum of Rs.163.79. The further reason, being (v) that an Engineer, not on any logical foundation being construable to be a workman, rather, the categorization, of, workmen, in the apposite notification, apt portion whereof, is, extracted hereinafter, respectively as highly skilled or semi skilled or unskilled workman,

| Sr. No. | Scheduled Employerment | Category of workers | Total Miimum Wages per day (in Rs.) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 5. | Engineering Industries | High Skilled | 163.79 |
| | | Skilled | 163.79 |
| | | Semi Skilled | 133.51 |
| | | Un-skilled | 130 |
| | | Clerical and Non Technical Supervisor staff | 145.32 |

Only appertaining, to, workmen, who, perform in consonance therewith the apposite task(s), (vi) AND not appertaining, to, those employees, who, render employment, in supervisory capacity(ies), as, the deceased would, on his completing, the apt course of Engineering, hence perform, (vii) unless of course evidence stood adduced that the students, who, graduated, from, IIT College of Engineering, AND, on theirs obtaining employment in the government sector or in the non government sector(s), theirs, under their respective employers, rather coming to be categorized in the highly skilled category, (viii) whereas, hereat, with the aforesaid evidence, being tritely amiss hereat, thereupon, it is to be construed, of, his on gaining employment, in a government agency or in a non government agency, his being enjoined, to, perform, apt, technical supervisory functions. Further, fortification to the aforesaid inference, is, garnered, from, the apposite notification also prescribing vis-a-vis, the clerical or non technical staff, per diem wages quantified at Rs.145.32, (ix) nowat, if, the notification intended, that the technical supervisory staff, in category whereof, the deceased would obviously fall, given his completing, the apt technical course, thereupon, it would hence make alike therewith palpable displays, in the apposite notification, especially qua the category apposite therewith. However, no category vis-a-vis, the apt technical supervisory staff, in category whereof, the deceased, upon, being employed in the government or non government agency, would hence fall, rather not occurs in the apposite notification, (xi) thereupon, it is to be concluded that all the prescriptions in the apposite notification, of, per diem wages, of, Rs.163.79, being meted, vis-a-vis the highly skilled workmen, not, obviously appertaining, to, the apt hereat hence technical supervisory staff. Contrarily, for all the reasons aforesaid, the computation of per mensem salary, of, the deceased, as made, by the learned Tribunal, is neither erroneous nor fallacious.

5. The learned counsel appearing, for the insurer has relied, upon paragraph No. 57, of, a decision rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court, in case titled as National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi and others, reported in 2017 ACJ 2700, the relevant paragraph No.58 extracted hereinafter:

> "58. The seminal issue is the fixation of future prospects in cases of deceased who were self employed or on a fixed salary. Sarla Verma, 2009 ACJ 1298 (SC) has carved out an exception permitting the claimants to bring materials on record to gt the benefit of addition of future prospects It has not, per se, allowed any future prospects in respect of the said category." (p.2721)

and has, hence, contended (i) that with, a, trite expostulation existing therein vis-a-vis, the validity(ies), of meteing, of hikes vis-a-vis the future incremental prospects qua the last salary drawn, by the deceased, being bedrocked, upon, firm evidence qua the deceased, at the relevant time, holding, a permanent job, and, his being below 40 years, (ii) thereupon, with, the extant factual scenario, rather visibly, depicting only qua the mere likelihood, of, the deceased, being employed, on his completing, the apt engineering course, from, IIT College of Engineering, hence, he cannot per se be concluded, to, with any iota, of, certitude, hence, rear an income of Rs.10,000/- per mensem, upon the concomitant, mere, likelihood, of, his gaining employment in a Government sector or in a non government sector, nor hence he can be concluded to be holding, any, indefeasible entitlement(s) qua hence any meteings, of, hikes and accretions, towards, future prospects, upon, the aforesaid per mensem salary. (iii) Moreso, reemphasisingly, when, the aforesaid paragraph, appertains, to a scenario, where, the deceased, at the relevant time, hence, holds a permanent employment, whereas, the deceased contrarily hereat rather evidently, not, at the relevant time, hence holding, any permanent employment, either, in the government sector or in the non government sector, (iv) thereupon, render infirms, hence, any, apt meteings, of the relevant hikes vis-a-vis the further incremental prospects. The aforesaid submission does hold vigour, given, a clear precise expostulation, occurring in paragraph supra, of, the deceased, at the relevant stage, being enjoined to evidently, hold a permanent job, and, his (v) also evidently drawing, therefrom, a certain income also when hence it cannot be concluded that, upon, his completing, the apt Engineering course, he, would definitely secure, a permanent job, with a government agency or with a non government agency, nor thereupon it can be hence concluded, of, his deriving any certain income therefrom, (vi) yet the apt meteing(s), do, despite haziness qua the certainity, of, his employment, and, also nebulousness, qua certainity, of, income to be derived therefrom, rather arise, from, the imminent likelihood, of, the deceased, on completing his course, in engineering, his hence getting employment, with, a government agency, or in a non government agency, especially when the aforesaid imminence, of, all likelihood(s), is, rather axed, by the fatal accident, (vii) thereupon, renders attracted hereat, the mandate, occurring in the paragraph 59, of the verdict of the Hon'ble Apex Court, rendered, in Pranay Sethi's case (supra), paragraph whereof stands extracted hereinafter, (viii) conspicuously, when, hence, for all aforestated reasons, this Court, is, disinclined, to, accept the apposite herewith, all, the aforesaid submission(s), of, the learned counsel, for the insurer, AND, moreso when parity(IES) vis-a-vis apt hikes, is visited, upon, apt employment(s), both, in government, and, in non government sector. Paragraph No.59 reads as under:-

> "59.Having bestowed our anxious consideration, we are disposed to think when we accept the principle of standardization, there is really no rationale not to apply the said principle to the self-employed or a person who is on a fixed > salary. To follow the doctrine of actual income at the time of death and not to add any amount with regard to future prospects to the income for the purpose of determination of multiplicand would be unjust. The determination of income while computing compensation has to include future prospects so that the method will come within the ambit and sweep of just compensation as postulated under Section 168 of the Act. In case of a deceased who had held a permanent job with inbuilt grant of annual increment, there is an acceptable certainty. But to state that the legal representatives of a deceased who was on a fixed salary would not be entitled to the benefit of future prospects for the purpose of computation of compensation would be inapposite. It is because the criterion of distinction between the two in that event would be certainty on the one hand and staticness on the other. One may perceive that the comparative measure is certainty on the one hand and uncertainty on the other but such a perception is fallacious. It is because the price rise does affect a self-employed person; and that apart there is always an incessant effort to enhance one's income for sustenance. The purchasing capacity of a salaried person on permanent job when increases because of grant of increments and pay revision or for some other change in service conditions, there is always a competing attitude in the private sector to enhance the salary to get better efficiency from the employees. Similarly, a person who is self-employed is bound to garner his resources and raise his charges/fees so that he can live with same facilities. To have the perception that he is likely to remain static and his income to remain stagnant is contrary to the fundamental concept of human attitude which always intends to live with dynamism and move and change with the time. Though it may seem appropriate that there cannot be certainty in addition of future prospects to the existing income unlike in the case of a person having a permanent job, yet the said perception does not really deserve acceptance. We are inclined to think that there can be some degree of difference as regards the percentage that is meant for or applied to in respect of the legal representatives who claim on behalf of the deceased who had a permanent job than a person who is self-employed or on a fixed salary. But not to apply the principle of standardization on the foundation of perceived lack of certainty would tantamount to remaining oblivious to the marrows of ground reality. And, therefore, degree-test is imperative. Unless the degree-test is applied and left to the parties to adduce evidence to establish, it would be unfair and inequitable. The degree-test has to have the inbuilt concept of percentage. Taking into consideration the cumulative factors, namely, passage of time, the changing society, escalation of price, the change in price index, the human attitude to follow a particular pattern of life,etc., an addition of 40% of the established income of the deceased towards future prospects and where the deceased was below 40 years an addition of 25% where the deceased was between the age of 40 to 50 years would be reasonable."

Consequently, while, placing reliance thereon, 40% hikes or accretions, on anvil, of, future incremental prospects, qua the last salary drawn by him, from the imminent likelihood, of, his obtaining employment, in a non government agency or in a government agency, is, rather rendered hence aptly meteable, (i) especially when the deceased, is reflected, in the postmortem report, to be aged 20 years, at the relevant stage. Consequently, after meteing 40 %, increase(s) vis-a-vis the apposite last drawn salary, thereupon, the relevant last drawn salary, of, the deceased, is recoknable to be Rs.14000/-, [Rs.10000/-(estimated salary of the deceased)+Rs.4000/-(40% of the last drawn salary). Significantly, with the deceased, being, a bachelor, 50% deduction, is to be visited, upon, a sum of Rs.14,000/-, deducted amount whereof, is, calculated at Rs.7,000/- per mensem. Consequently, the annual dependency, including, the future hikes towards the apt future incremental prospects, is, worked out, now at Rs.7000X12=Rs.84,000/-.

6. The further, contention of the learned counsel appearing, for the insurer, that upon the aforesaid sum, of annual dependency, a multiplier of 13, is enjoined to be applied, is, however, rejected, for the reason, (a) that with there occurring a candid pronouncement in a case tilted as Sarla Verma vs. DTC, reported in (2009)6 SCC 121, that a multiplier of 18, is, applicable for the age groups of 15 to 21, and 21 to 25 years. Consequently, with the deceased, as depicted, by the postmortem report, borne in Ex.PW2/A, being aged about 20 years at the relevant time, hence a multiplier of 18 is hereat applicable. After applying the apposite multiplier of 18, the compensation amount, is assessed in a sum of Rs.84,000/-x 18=Rs.15,12,000/- (Rs. Fifteen lacs and twelve thousand only).

7. Moreover, the learned Tribunal, has committed an gross illegality by its not quantifying compensation vis-a-vis the claimants under apt conventional heads, namely (i) loss to estate, and (iii) funeral expenses. Consequently, with the Hon'ble Apex Court in a verdit rendered in Pranay Sethi's case (supra), rather expostulating, that reasonable figures, under conventional heads, namely, loss to estate, and, funeral expenses being quantified, only upto Rs.15,000/-, and Rs.15,000/- respectively, hence, the award of the learned tribunal is also interfered, to the extent aforesaid. Accordingly, in addition to the aforesaid amount of Rs.15,12,000/-, the claimants, are, entitled to assessment, of, compensation(s), under conventional heads, namely, loss to estate, and, funeral expenses, sums of Rs.15,000/-, and, Rs.15,000/-, as such, the total compensation, to, which the claimants are entitled comes to Rs.15,12,000 + 15,000/- + 15,000/-= Rs.15,42,000/-(Rs. Fifteen lakhs and forty two thousands only).

8. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal filed by the insurer as also by the claimants are partly allowed, and, the impugned award, is, in the aforesaid manner, hence modified. Accordingly, the petitioners, are, held entitled to a total compensation of Rs.15,42,000/-, (Rs.fifteen lacs and forty two thousand only) along with pending and future interest @9 % per annum, from, the date of petition till the date, of, deposit, of the compensation amount. The amount of interim compensation, if awarded, be adjusted in the aforesaid compensation amount, at the time of final payment. Compensation amount be apportioned, amongst the claimants in the hereinafter extracted manner:-

> "Petitioner No.1, being entitled to 60% amount along with proportionate interest and petitioner No.2 being entitled to 40% amount along with proportionate interest"

All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

(Paras 2 & 10)

For the Appellant: Mr. Vikrant Chandel, Deputy Advocate General
For the Respondents: Mr. Nitesh Negi, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant appeal stands directed, against, the judgment rendered, on, 19.06.2009, by the learned Addl. Chief Judicial Magistrate, Dehra, District Kangra, H.P. in Criminal Case No. 17-i/2006/21-III/2006, whereby, he acquitted, the accused for his allegedly committing, an offence punishable under Sections 61(i)(a) of the Punjab Excise Act as applicable to the State of H.P (hereinafter referred to as the Act.

2. The facts relevant to decide the instant case are that on 25.7.2005, ASI Tarsem Lal along with other police personnel was present on patrolling and Naka duty near Jaur Bar and at around 6.45 p.m., accused came on the spot along with one jute bag on his head, who, on seeing the police party, after leaving the bag on the spot fled away towards jungle. The gunny bag was checked and two card boxes i.e. on containing 12 plastic bottles of country liquor "Lal Quila" and another containing 12 bottles of IMFL "Bag Piper" were recovered. Consequently, six nips i.e. three from each card box were separated for the purpose of chemical test and the nips and lose bottles were sealed with seal "T" and seal after use was entrusted to witness Pardeep Raj Singh. On inquiry, it was revealed that the person fled away from the spot was Rachhpal Singh alis Pali son of Shri Hans Raj, resident of Upper Balwal. The case property was taken in possession vide memo Ex.PW1/A in presence of witnesses. A rukka Ex.PW5/B was sent to police station Dehra through HHC Rukam Deen, on the basis of which, FIR Ex.PW2/A was registered against the accused. Thereafter the police completed all the codel formalities.

3. On conclusion of investigations, into the offence, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared, and, filed before the learned trial Court.

4. The accused stood charged by the learned trial Court, for his, committing offences punishable, under Sections 61(i)(a) of the Act. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined 5 witnesses. On conclusion of recording of the prosecution evidence, the statement, of the accused under Section 313, of, the Code of Criminal Procedure was recorded by the learned trial Court, wherein the accused claimed innocence, and, pleaded false implication.

5. On an appraisal of the evidence on record, the learned trial Court, returned findings of acquittal in favour of the accused/respondent herein.

6. The State of H.P. stands aggrieved by the judgment of acquittal recorded in favour of the accused/respondents. The learned Addl. Advocate General for the State, has concertedly, and, vigorously contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded by the learned trial Court standing not based on a proper appreciation, by it, of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation, by it, of the material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of acquittal warranting reversal by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, and, theirs standing replaced by findings of conviction.

7. On the other hand, the learned counsel appearing for the accused/respondents herein, has, with considerable force and vigour, contended qua the findings of acquittal recorded, by, the learned trial Court rather standing based on a mature and balanced appreciation, by it, of the evidence on record, and, theirs not necessitating any interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The relevant cache of liquor was recovered under memo, comprised in Ex.PW1/A. (a) All the prosecution witnesses concerned, in their respectively rendered testifications, echoed, with utmost unanimity and concurrence vis-a-vis the recovery of the apposite cache, of, liquor being made under Ex.PW1/A. (b) Along therewith each of the prosecution witnesses, in their respectively rendered tesitifcations, make apparent underscorings vis-a-vis the recovery of cache, of liquor, as, made under Ex.PW1/A, also bearing congruity therewith, at, the apposite stage of its production, in Court, (c) besides, with, the apt descriptions embodied, in Ex.PW1/A vis-a-vis the English alphabet, of seals embossed on the relevant boxes, also at the time, of production of case property in court, bearing congruity(s) therewith, (d) also the English alphabet, of, seal impression(s), as recited, in EX.PW1/A, to be embossed on the bags/boxes, apparently remaining unbroken, at the stage, of, production of the case property in Court, (e) AND, the CTL in its report comprised, in, Ex.PW5/F making, clear unrebutted echoings, vis-a-vis the sample bottles, sent to it, for analysis, containing therewithin liquor, also remaining uncontrovereted. (f) Preponderantly, the factum of the sample bottles retrieved, from, the entire cache of the liquor recovered, at the site, comprised in site plan, embodied in Ex.PW5/C, bearing analogity therewith. In aftermath, the prosecution prima facie does succeed in proving the charge against the accused.

10. Be that as it may, the paramount link, for conclusively connecting the accused vis-a-vis the recovery of cache of liquor, from, his purported conscious and exclusive possession, through, memo Ex.PW1/A, rather was comprised, in, a forthright candid evidence, being testified by the prosecution witnesses vis-a-vis the person from whose conscious and exclusive possession the cache of liquor was recovered, being a person, none other, than the accused. In establishing the trite factum probandum, the prosecution, was, faced with a uphill task, (a) given the accused being not apprehended, from, the site of occurrence rather emphatically, with, his purportedly being the person, who at the relevant time, hence was carrying a gunny bag with him, AND, his purportedly, being one, who, after sighting the police, abandoned the gunny bag and thereafter fled towards jungle, (b) thereupon, the identity of the accused, for, sustaining the charge vis-a-vis him, was enjoined to be firmly established, by, apt evidence comprised in the factum, of, the Investigating Officer, on revelations being made to him vis-a-vis the key characteristics features and traits of the accused, his thereafter holding a valid test identification parade, whereupon, the identity, of, the accused stood clinchingly established, and, thereupon his identification in Court would be efficacious. However, the Investigating Officer, in his cross-examination, has acquiesced, to a suggestion of his, not holding, the relevant test identification parade. The omission, of, the Investigating Officer, to hold the test identification parade, constrains an inference, of no apposite profile vis-a-vis the key characteristics features, and, traits of the accused, being available, with the Investigating Officer concerned. (c) With a further effect, of, the identification in court, of, the accused being extremely frail besides weak piece, of evidence, for firmly connecting the accused, with, the relevant factum probandum. Tremendous vigour qua the aforesaid inference, of the, prosecution abysmally failing, to adduce the most potent evidence, for, linking the accused hence with the charge, is, galvanized by PW-1, making a deposition, of, the identity of the accused, being revealed by a salesman, working at a liquor vend, (d) thereupon, it was incumbent, upon, the Investigating Officer, to record his previous statement in writing, with clear communications borne therein vis-a-vis the key characteristic features, and, traits of the accused, and, also the Investigating Officer concerned, was, in sequel thereto, enjoined to hold, a valid test identification parade, for enabling, the identifier of the accused to therein, hence identify the accused, whereupon, alone, the identification, of, the accused in Court, by PW-1, would gain vigour. However, neither the previous statement of the person concerned, who purportedly revealed the identity, of, the accused hence was recorded by the Investigating Officer, nor hence in sequel thereto, any valid test identification parade was carried by the Investigating Officer, besides, obviously the identifier of the accused, did not identify, the accused therein, thereupon, it cannot be concluded that the prosecution, has firmly linked the accused, in the commission of the alleged offence.

11. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner apart therefrom the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court does not suffer from a gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record.

12. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the impugned judgment is affirmed and maintained. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

Since, common question of law and facts are involved in both the aforesaid appeals, hence, both are being disposed, of, by a common judgment.

2. The landowners' land, was, acquired for a public purpose, and, the Land Acquisition Collector concerned, determined vis-a-vis the acquired lands, hence, compensation amount, comprised, in a sum of Rs.90,000/- per kanal, irrespective, of, the diverse classification, of, land(s), as, brought to acquisition. Being aggrieved therefrom, the landowners, through, the Collector concerned, hence, cast reference petition(s) under Section 18 of the Land Acquisition Act, before, the learned Reference Court, and, the latter enhanced, the amount of compensation, to, a sum of Rs.1,20,000/- per kanal, irrespective, of, contradistinct classifications, of, lands as brought to acquisition. Being aggrieved therefrom, the appellant(s) herein preferred the instant appeal before this Court, for hence begetting its reversal.

3. The learned counsel appearing, for, the appellant(s) has with much vigour contended, before, this Court that, the apposite besides tangible materials rather hence begetting satiation, of, the twin principles, enjoined to be borne in mind, by the learned reference Court, while adjudging compensation amount, principles whereof are comprised in, (a) proximity in time angle, evinced, from the execution of apposite sale exemplars, bearing proximity in time vis-a-vis the issuance of the apposite notification, AND, (b) the lands borne in the apposite sale exemplars, also, holding proximity in location angle vis-a-vis the location of the lands, as, brought to acquisition, are hence rather borne, in sale exemplars, embodied in Ex.RW1/A, and, in Ex.RW1/B, (i) AND, he further contends, that the discarding of the aforesaid, renders the impugned award(s), to be, ingrained with an inherent legal frailty. The aforesaid submission is not amenable for acceptance, by this Court, given RW-1, who tendered the aforesaid sale exemplars, into evidence, rather not during the course, of, his examination-in-chief, hence making, any, apt candid voicings qua rather satiation(s) being meted, qua the afore referred twin principles. Reiteratedly, hence, no reliance was amenable, to be placed thereon.

4. The learned counsel appearing, for, the appellant(s), has thereafter proceeded, to contend before this Court (i) that any imputation of credence vis-a-vis Ex.PW2/A, exhibit whereof, carries therein, the average annual sale price vis-a-vis Barani Abal category of land, AND, appertains to the mohal concerned, wherein, the lands brought, to acquisition, are located, is also fallible, (ii) given the preparation, of, Ex.PW2/A, occurring four years subsequent to the issuance, of, the apposite notification, and, hence it visibly being a post notification average annual sale price, appertaining, to barani abal category of land, hence no credence, is, liable to be meted thereto. However, the aforesaid submission, also, lacks vigour, as, a circumspect perusal, of, paragraph No.14 of the award(s) impugned before this Court, rather, contains a valid reason, assigned by the learned reference Court, for, imputing credence thereto, (ii) especially when the learned reference Court, has proceeded to deduct 10% for each year, commencing since 2004, upto, the year of issuance of the apposite notification, from, the average sale price, carried therein, of, barani abal category, of, land, as, embodied in Ex.PW2/A. The meteings, of, apt deduction(s), hence, also wanes, the effect, if any, qua the preparation, of, Ex.PW2/A, rather, carrying a post notification computation, of, one year average annual sale price, of, barani abal category of land. In summa, the computation of compensation, by the learned reference Court, vis-a-vis, the lands, as, brought to acquisition, is, squarely grooved besides anvilled, upon, an appropriate appreciation, of, the material on record, and, warrants no interference.

5. For the foregoing reasons, there is no merit in the instant appeals, and, they are dismissed accordingly. The impugned award(s) are maintained and affirmed. No costs. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

Himachal Pradesh Urban Rent Control Act, 1987- Section-5 - Statutory enhancement on contractual rent-- Principles – Applicability- Held, principles contained in Act regarding enhancement in rental permissible on contractual rent being based on reasonableness and good conscience can be extended to premises located in non- urban areas - Landlord can not seek exorbitant enhancement in rent even if there is no stipulation prohibiting such increase in rent deed ( Para 11)

For the Appellants: Mr. Hemant Vaid, Addl. A.G. with Mr. Vikrant Chandel, Dy. A.G.

For the Respondents: Mr. Sanjeev Kuthiala, Advocate with Ms. Garima Kuthiala, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The plaintiff's suit for recovery of arrears, of, rent was partly decreed by the learned trial Judge, and, in an appeal preferred therefrom, by the aggrieved plaintiff, before, the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court, rather modified the verdict pronounced by the learned trial Court, upon, Civil Suit No. 262/1 of 2002. Consequently, the defendants being aggrieved therefrom, hence motion this Court through the instant regular second appeal.

2. The subject matter of the present suit, is, recovery of arrears of rent along with interest with regard to rented out building of the plaintiff, situated at place Diggal, w.e.f. March, 1997 to February, 2002. It is averred that in the year 1987, the plaintiff has rented out his building to defendant No.2 @ Rs.750/- per month. The rent of the aforesaid building was assessed by the H.P.P.W.D. authority for a period of five years. The period of five years has expired in the year 1992. Thereafter, the H.P.P.W.D. department again reassessed the rent @ 912/- per month for a period of five years, w.e.f., the year 1992-1997. As per the plaintiff, further five years agreement is to be made on the basis of reassessment. Defendant No.2 requested the H.P.P.W.D. authorities to reassess the rent of the building vide letter dated 22.7.1999, for five years. The Executive Engineer, H.P.P.W.D., Nalagarh reassessed the rent @3015/- per month from March, 1997 to February, 2002. The Executive Engineer informed the defendants with regard to reassessment of rent and the copy of the same is also forwarded to the plaintiff. The plaintiff requested the defendants to pay reassessed rent @ Rs.3015/- per month, w.e.f. March, 1997. The defendants did no pay any heed to pay the reassessed rent. The defendants have paid an amount of Rs.912/- per month, w.e.f., March, 1997 to February, 2001 and the balance amount of Rs.2103/- per month as rent w.e.f. March, 1997 to February, 2001 is to be paid. The defendants have also not paid any rent from March, 2001, to February, 2002 and as such the defendants are in arrears of rent to the tune of Rs.3015/0- per month w.e.f. March, 2001 to February, 2002, and as such the defendants are arrears of rent to the tune of Rs.1,16,019/-. According to the plaintiff he issued legal notices to the defendants through his counsel under Section 80 CPC, but despite the service, the defendants have not paid any heed to pay the rent to the plaintiff.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, the have taken preliminary objections qua the plaintiff being entitled to rent at the rate of Rs.1003/- per month w.e.f. February, 1997 to July 2001, the plaintiff filed the present suit with dishonest motive as he has misled the H.P.P.W.D. authorities to assess the rent of additional accommodation on 12.06.2001 w.e.f. February, 1997 (retrospectively) which was taken in possession by the defendants in August, 2001. The plaintiff was requested by the defendants to execute the lease deed w.e.f. February, 1997 for a period of five years. On merits, it is admitted that the building of the plaintiff has been hired for the purpose of running Girls ITI at Diggal @ Rs.750/- per month in the year, 1987, for a period of five years with the agreement of 10% enhancement of rent for every subsequent five years period. The rent was enhanced to Rs.912/- from Rs.750/- in the year 1992 for next five years i.e. 1992 to 1997. Similarly in the year 1997 with 10% enhancement, the rent will be reckoned to be Rs.1003/- for next period of five years, excluding the additional area taken in the month of August, 2001. It is averred that the defendants were paying the rent amount regularly to the plaintiff but the plaintiff has failed to execute the lease deed inspite of repeated requests of the defendants. Moreover, he is receiving the payment of rent. It is further averred that the plaintiff dishonestly and in connivance with the H.P.P.W.D. department got the rent of his building assessed on 12.06.2001 at Rs.3015/- per month, w.e.f. 1997 to 2002 (retrospectively) by including even that area which was taken over by the defendant in august, 2001. It is pertinent to mention here that there is no additional area till July, 2001 and therefore, the plaintiff is entitled to rent at the rate of Rs.1003/- per month till July, 2001 plus rent of additional accommodation taken by the defendants w.e.f. August, 2001 subject to assessment of rent by P.W.D. department. It is also pleaded that initially only the area of accommodation was 1050 sq. meters and additional area of 72.63 sq. meters was taken in August, 2001. In fact, the plaintiff with dishonest intention had got the rent of the building reassessed at Rs.3015/- w.e.f. March, 1997 to February, 2002 by including even that area which was taken in possession by the defendant in August, 2001. The alleged assessment was got done by the plaintiff on the back of defendants by misrepresentation and in connivance with the P.W.D. department, which is not binding upon the defendants. As per the defendants, the plaintiff ha sno cause of action.

4. The plaintiff filed replication to the written statement of the defendant(s), wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the rent was to be increased as per assessment made by HPPWD after every five years? OPP.
2. Whether the defendants are in arrears of rent, if so, to what amount? OPP
3. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to interest at the rate of 12% per annum? OPP
4. Whether the suit is bad for non joinder of necessary parties?OPD.
5. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court partly decreed the suit of the plaintiff/respondent herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by the plaintiff/respondent herein before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court allowed the appeal, and, modified the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the defendants/appellants herein, have instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal before this Court, wherein they assail the findings recorded, in its impugned judgment, and, decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, on 6.11.2009, this Court, admitted the appeal instituted by the defendants/appellants, against, the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on, the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

a) Whether in absence of any agreement/rent deed, learned lower appellate Court has committed error in law in relying the assessment made by Public Works Department authorities in determining the monthly rent of the premises that too retrospectively?

b) Whether the learned lower appellate Court has misread and misinterpreted the material evidence on record?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 and 2:

8. The learned trial Judge, has, upon, Civil Suit No. 262/1 of 2002, rendered a decree against the defendants, whereunder, they are held to be in arrears of rent w.e.f. March, 1997 to 31.07.2001 @ Rs.91/- per month, i.e. Rs.4,823/-, and, further the defendants were held to be in arrears of rent w.e.f. 1.8.2001 to February 2002 @ Rs.2103/- per month, i.e. Rs.14,721/, and, interest @6% per annum, was mandated to accrue thereon, and, was ordered to arise from the date of the suit, till, realization thereof.

9. The aforesaid verdict was not assailed by the defendants, rather was assailed by the plaintiff, (i) on the ground that in the decree rendered by the learned trial Court, the latter proceeding to untenably reduce the apposite enhancement/accretions, vis-a-vis, the contractual rent, from 300 per centum, enhancements whereof may be accurable, upon, the contractual rate of rent, after elapse, of, every five years, (ii) on the ground, given even, if, the aforesaid enhancements/accretions,remaining not specifically recited, in the relevant documents, yet, the apt non reciting rather standing subsumed, by marked apt acquiescence, of, the defendants, and, no evidence contrary thereto hence standing adduced, (iii) whereas, the aforesaid prime factum hence standing not appraised by the learned trial Court.

10. The learned first Appellate Court, in the impugned verdict, decreed, in entirety the plaintiff's suit w.e.f. March 1997 to February, 2002, and, declared the plaintiff, to, stand entitled, to enhanced rent computed at Rs.1,16,019/- along with interest at the rate of 12% per annum. Even though, the learned first appellate Court has not apparently erred in concluding (i) while rejecting, the defendant's espousal qua the plaintiff's purported claim, along with apt accretions/enhancements thereon, rather appertaining, to, the newly added accommodation, vis-a-vis, the hitherto demised premises, and, addition whereof occurred in the year 2001, especially, when as aptly concluded, there existing no befitting apt documentary evidence, for, meteing succor thereto.

11. Be that as it may, the learned first Appellate Court, has apparently, faltered and has committed, a, grave fallacy (a) in concluding, of, the plaintiff being entitled to even exorbitant increases, and, enhancements, vis-a-vis, the contractual rate of rent, (b) given there occurring no recital contrary therewith in the apt contract of tenancy, executed inter se the plaintiff and defendants. The reason for making the aforesaid conclusion is sparked by the factum (a) even if the demised premises are assumingly, not proven to stand located in an area, whereto the provisions, of, the H.P. Urban Rent Control Act, are applicable, yet the prescription(s), ordained therein qua the landlord being entitled, to increases/enhancements, vis-a-vis, the contractual rent, in a per centum, restricted upto 10%, and, the apt enhancements, hence, occurring after every three years; (b) nonetheless, the aforesaid statutory prescriptions, held in the H.P. Urban Rent Control Act, when are reasonable, hence, are enjoined to be meted appropriate apt solemnity, rather than the learned First Appellate Court, untenably, proceeding to discard, the, statutory efficacy thereof, (c) merely on the anvil, of, no apt forbidding recitals, rather existing in the apt contracts, against, the levying, of, 300 per centum enhancements/increases, vis-a-vis, the contractual rent, upon, the demised premises, and, vis-a-vis, the defendants. Moreso, when, upon, accepting the aforesaid reasoning, would beget, infraction, of, the mandate, of, the prescriptions, borne in the H.P. Urban Rent Control Act, (d) especially when thereupon, the, solemn elements of good conscience, and, reasonableness, as stand embodied therein, would suffer negation, (e) rather hence with there being no estoppel against statute(s), whereas, this Court would in validating exorbitant increases, working against statute(s) render hence inapt increases applicable, vis-a-vis, even the demised premises, nor hence, the factum, of, defendants without demur, earlier making attornments, of, unconscionable, and, exorbitant increases, would render themselves, to, hence make legally binding acquiescences, vis-a-vis, the attorning, of, exorbitant enhancements/increases, in, the contractual rent.

12. The above discussion, unfolds, the fact that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court being not based upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court has excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, substantial questions of law No.1 and 2 are answered in favour of the appellants and against the respondents.

13. In view of above discussion, the instant appeal is allowed. In sequel, the judgement and decree rendered by the learned First Appellate Court upon Civil Appeal No. 1-NL/13 of 2008 is set aside, whereas, the judgment and decree rendered by the learned trial Court, upon, Civil Suit No. 262/1 of 2002 is affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

For the Plaintiff: Mr. Dinesh Bhanot, Advocate.
For the Defendants: Mr. Y.P Sood, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, J

The instant civil suit has been preferred, for, rendition, of a decree of specific performance of agreement, and, in the alternative, for, rendition, of, a decree qua possession of the suit property, besides, for pronouncement, of, a decree for pecuniary damages quantified in, a, sum of Rs.30 lacs alongwith @18% p.a., also, for rendition of a decree qua permanent prohibitory injunction, as well as, a decree qua mandatory injunction.

2. The brief facts of the case, are, that a Brick kiln named, and, styled, as, "M/S Sada Shiv Bricks Company", situated at village Ratyor, Tehsil Nalagarh, District Solan, H.P. with lease hold land, measuring 65 Bighas, comprised in Kh/Kht No. 451/592, 93 bearing Khasra No. 2044, 1999, 1994, 1997, 1998, 1995,1996 and 1992, as, entered in the Jamabandi for the year 2001-02 (for short "suit property"), is, owned by Garibu, and, under a lease agreement, the soil of the land, is, covenanted to be utilized, for, manufacturing bricks, and, longevity, of, the lease aforesaid executed inter-se the aforesaid company, and, owner thereof, was, up to 30.9.2006. The suit property, as averred in the plaint also includes licence (No. SLN/Bricks/114), Chimney, labour huts, tools equipments, frames and 15 wooden trolleys, and, the suit property,is, also averred in the plaint, to be, including 15 lacs baked, and, 10 lacs unbaked bricks. The plaintiff avers, of his, purchasing through, an agreement of 29.9.2007, the aforesaid brick kiln, from, its sole proprietor Shri Ashok Kumar Jindal alongwith, all the appendages, except the prepared bricks, and, charcoal present on the spot, and, the same also included, all, the frames and huts etc. alongwith all the lease rights. The plaintiff also avers, of, the brick kiln being free from all encumbrances, and, the possession of the same, being taken on the date of aforesaid agreement by the plaintiff. The plaintiff further avers, of, his operating the brick kiln smoothly, and, his rearing handsome returns therefrom. It is further averred by the plaintiff, qua, defendants becoming avaricious, of, the sudden upsurge, in the commercial activity in the area, and, improvement in the business prospects, hence, started sending feelers to the plaintiff, to, sell the said brick kiln, and, owing, to, persistent persuasion of the defendants, the, plaintiff agreed, to on 22.8.2008, hence sell the suit property, to the defendants, alongwith the stock of bricks about 15 lacs, and, about 10 lacs unbaked bricks besides the labour huts, frames, chimney and other equipments alongwith lease rights, for, a total consideration of Rs. 33,75,000/- only. It is further averred by the plaintiff that the relevant agreement was reduced into writing, and, was executed inter-se the plaintiff, and, the defendants, and, come to be attested, on 22.8.2008. At the time of execution of the relevant agreement, the defendants are averred, to, tender to the plaintiff, a, sum of Rupees 9 lacs, and Rs. One lac, in cash, and, Rs. 1 lac by way of two cheques, of Rs. 50,000/- each, payable at HDFC Bank, however, the same could not be en-cashed, as the same, were wrongly drawn and two fresh cheques, were, issued by the defendants, for, a sum of Rs. 50,000/-, each payable in the personal account of the plaintiff, AND, as such, a sum of Rs. 10 lacs, was, received as earnest money by the plaintiff, from, the defendants, and, the defendants further undertook, to pay the second installment of Rs. 10 lacs before 21.11.2008. It is further averred, that, the balance amount of Rs.13,75,000/-, was, to be tendered by the defendants, before 21.1.2009, and, the plaintiff was to transfer the lease, of land, in favour of the defendants, after, clearing of the total consideration of Rs.33,75,000/- on 21.1.2009 by the defendants, to the plaintiff. It stands further averred of the defendants failing to pay the second installment, of, Rs. Ten lacs, to the plaintiff, before 21.11.2008. Since the defendants failed, to, pay the second installment, of, Rs. Ten lacs to the plaintiff, and, hence as per, the terms of the agreement, the, earnest money of Rs. Ten lacs paid, to, the plaintiff on the date of agreement i.e. 22.8.2008, stood forfeited to the plaintiff, and, the agreement stood cancelled and revoked. The plaintiff instead of proceeding, with, the forfeiture of the earnest money rather gave a chance, to the defendants, to perform their part, of the agreement, and, extended the date, by 21.1.2009. It is further averred, in the plaint, that physical possession, of, the Brick kiln aforesaid alongwith licence (No. SLN/Bricks/114), Chimney, labour huts, tools equipments, frames and 15 wooden trolleys, AND, the suit property also stands averred to be including 15 lacs baked and 10 lacs unbaked bricks, all whereof were, handed over to the defendants by the plaintiff, vis-a-vis the date of drawing of agreement i.e 22.8.2008, alongwith the lease land qua which the lease is valid from 1.10.2005 to 30.9.2016, as, per the lease deed so executed, by its owner Shri Garibu, in, favour of the above brick kiln. The said brick kiln is averred, to be, free from every encumbrances. In terms of the agreement, the plaintiff also handed over the licence No. SLN/Bricks/114 of the Brick kiln, alongwith, the other relevant documents, on the date of agreement, to the defendants. Further more it is averred, that it being agreed mutually, between, the parties that, the price of raw as well a burnt bricks, being computed later, and, as such, the same was to be paid, by the defendants to the plaintiff, and, after counting, the same. It is further been averred, that, the defendants despite having been delivered possession of the suit property, on the date of the execution of the agreement to sell i.e 22.8.2008, and, theirs having dishonestly, sold, the stock of 15 lacs baked bricks, for, a price of Rs. 25 lacs, and, further having sold 10 lacs unbaked bricks, after baking them by utilizing the coal, from the stock and the fire wood, from the stock of the brick kiln, further for a sum of Rs. 18 lacs, and, having failed to honor the terms, of, the agreement, thereupon their being thus liable to pay, for, the 15 lacs baked and 10 lacs, unbaked bricks @ 1450/ and 300/- per thousand respectively, alongwith a sum of Rs. 3 lacs for the price of stock of the coal, fire wood. The defendants being further liable to pay for the labour huts, and, other equipments/tools i.e. 16 wooden trolleys valuing Rs. 8,000/- chimney valuing Rs. 1 lac, and, other tools valuing Rs.20,000/- and Rs. 40 lacs, as, the defendants disposed, of, the stock of the bricks, coal, wood and other articles of the kiln. Thereafter, the defendants, have, abandoned the brick kiln. That the plaintiff, has, meticulously performed, his part of the obligation as per the terms, of the agreement including, obtaining the dissolution, of, the previous partnership and further offered his sincere assistance to the defendants for carrying out the terms of the agreement, but, the defendants, have intentionally avoided, to, with a malafide intention, honour the agreement, and, its terms. That the plaintiff has been throughout ready and willing his part of the agreement, and, is still ready to perform his part. That under the foregoing circumstances, it is amply clear that the defendants, have utterly failed to perform their part of the agreement, and, the defendants, are, liable for the penalty of the forfeiture, of, the earnest money of Rs. 10.00 lacs paid to the plaintiff, at the time, of the execution of the agreement. It is further averred, in the plaint, that, not only this, the plaintiff, even, after all this happened, showed generosity, and, laxity to the defendants, and served a legal notice upon the defendants dated 13.1.20009, calling upon them to pay the entire balance amount of Rs. 23,75,000/- on or before the last date i.e 21.1.2009, stipulated in the agreement, alongwith, the interest @ 18% per annum on the amount of second installment of Rs. 10 lacs, amount whereof, the defendants was supposed to pay to the plaintiff, on or before 21.11.2008. However, the defendants neither paid the balance amount nor they turned up on 21.1.2009, in, the office of Sub Registrar Nalagarh, for, the execution of sale deed, whereas, the plaintiff, remained, in the Office of the learned Sub Registrar Nalagarh, on that day, through out its course, and, kept on waiting for the defendants. Thereafter the plaintiff, at last, when the defendants did not turn up, got his affidavit sworn, and attested, before, the learned sub Registrar Nalagah. The cause of action accrued in favour of the plaintiff, on 21.1.2009, and, as such, the suit is within limitation. The plaintiff is entitled, to, a decree for specific performance, of, the agreement dated 22.8.2008, by theirs making payment of Rs.33.75 lacs to the plaintiff, as, amount of Rs.10 lacs, paid as advance, to the plaintiff, standing forfeited, on account of the default, act and conduct of the defendants, the plaintiff , is, also entitled to receive, an amount of Rs. 33.75 lacs, since the plaintiff has been ready and willing to perform his part of the agreement, dated, 22.8.2008 but the defendants have abandoned, the kiln after removing 15 lacs bricks, from suit property, and, thus have committed a clear breach of the terms of the agreement, and, in case the defendants, are, not interested, in, the performance of their part of the agreement or want to rescind the same, in that event, the, plaintiff is further entitled to claim damages for the loss of baked and unbaked bricks, coal fuel, wood stock, chimney labour huts, tools, and, equipments to the extent of Rs.30 lacs by way of alternative relief. The plaintiff also avers in his plaint that no other suit on the same or similar ground is pending or decided by any Courts of law. It is also averred in the plaint that the present Court has jurisdiction to try the present suit. It is further averred that the value for the purpose of Court fee and the jurisdiction is Rs. 33.75 lacs, hence the present suit.

3. The suit was contested by the defendants, and, they have filed written statement, wherein, they have taken preliminary objections qua maintainability, estoppel, non-joinder of necessary parties, and, the suit is not properly valued, for the purposes of Court fee, and, jurisdiction. On merits, it is submitted, that, the plaintiff never purchased the suit property, and,document of 29.9.2007, is, a General Power of Attorney, executed by Mr. Ashok Jindal, in, favour of the plaintiff, which is not legally valid, as, the same is not registered, under, the Provisions of the Indian Registration Act. It is also contended in the written-statement, that, the defendants were persuaded, and, induced by the plaintiff to enter into an agreement to sell with respect to brick kiln with him. It is also contended that the quantity of bricks, as, mentioned by the plaintiff, were, not available on the spot. It is further contended that the plaintiff did not disclose to them the true facts about his rights, title and interest, in, the brick kiln. The defendants in their written-statement, admitted, that an agreement, for an amount of Rs.33.75 lacs was reduced, into writing between the parties on 22.8.2008, with, an understanding, that, the cost of material amounting, to, Rs.12 lacs, will be, the part of this sale consideration, and, the same will be paid after the plaintiff will get the lease transferred, in, the name of the defendants, and, the agreement was also entered into with the bonafide belief, that the plaintiff, is, competent, to, enter into a contract, his having title over the suit property. But the plaintiff failed to get the lease of land transferred in the name of the defendants , and, also failed to induct, the, defendants as partners in the firm. It is also admitted, that, a sum of Rs.10 lacs, was, paid by the defendants to the plaintiff. However, a sum of Rs. 10 lacs was wrongly taken, by the plaintiff, despite, the fact of his being aware qua his not holding title over the suit property, and, the plaintiff intentionally withheld the true facts. It is further not denied that a sum of Rs. 10 lacs was to be paid on or before 21.11.2008, but the same was not paid to the plaintiff , as he has not performed his part of, the apt, obligation fastened, in, the agreement, hence, the defendants were not required to pay the second, and, third installments as alleged. Since the contract was vitiated on account of fraud, the plaintiff, is, not entitled to claim forfeiture of Rs. 10 lacs received by him, and, on the contrary, the plaintiff, is liable to repay, a sum of Rs. 20 lacs being the double amount of the part of the sale consideration, received by him on 22.8.2008, as per the terms of the agreement. It is also admitted by the defendants, that, possession of the suit property, was, handed over to them on 22.8.2008. It is further averred, that, defendants were not handed over 15 lacs baked and 10 lacs unbaked bricks. It is further averred that the licence, which was valid up to 31.3.2009, was handed, over to the defendants alongwith chimney and damaged labour huts. However, no tools and equipments were handed over to them. It is further averred that lease land has been taken over the land owners to whom it belonged, because, the plaintiff has failed to get the licence of the brick kiln, renewed, and the land owners have after leveling the same started cultivating the same. It is denied, that the defendants sold the stock of 15 lacs baked bricks for price of Rs.25 lacs, and, further sold 10 lacs unbaked bricks, after, utilizing coal and fire wood, from, the stock for further amount of Rs.18 lacs. It is also denied that the defendants have failed, to, honour the terms of the agreement and are also liable to pay for the aforesaid baked, and, unbaked bricks at the rate of Rs. 1450/- and Rs. 300/- per thousand, respectively. The defendant on the other hand alleged, that, there were only one lac raw bricks bricks whereof are badly damaged, and, besides them, there were about ten lacs baked bricks, on, the spot. It is also averred by the defendants, that they were always ready and willing to perform, their part of the agreement, but on account of the defect in the title, of the plaintiff, the agreement became unenforceable. It has also been admitted by the defendants, that, the plaintiff had sent a legal notice to them. In reply to the same the plaintiff, was, asked to perform his part of the agreement, before, receiving the remaining sale consideration. The suit is alleged to be barred by limitation. The remaining averments made in the plaint are denied by the defendants and thus they pray for dismissal of the suit.

4. The plaintiff filed replication to the written statement of the defendants wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, this Court, on, 25.11.2010, struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the plaintiff is owner of the brick kiln subject matter of agreement dated 22.8.2008? OPP
2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the specific performance of the agreement dated 22.8.2008 and is entitled to payment of Rs.33.75 lacs from the defendants, as alleged? OPP

4. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to recover a sum of Rs.30 lacs from the defendants on account of the price of 15 lacs baked and 10 lacs unbaked bricks, chimney, labour, huts, coal, frames, fire wood and utensils etc, as alleged? OPP
5. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to forfeit a sum of Rs. 10 lacs as alleged? OPP
6. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to possession of the suit property mentioned in para-1 of the plaint? OPP
7. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction? OPP
8. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to relief of mandatory injunction? OPP
9. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD
10. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing the suit as alleged? OPD
11. Whether the agreement dated 22.2.2008 is a result of misrepresentation and fraud practiced by the plaintiff over the defendants and the agreement is void? OPD
12. Whether the suit has not been properly valued for the purpose of Court fee and jurisdiction? OPD
13. Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder of M/s Sada Shiv Brick Company and its partners? OPD
14. Relief.

REASONS FOR FINDINGS

ISSUES NUMBER 1 TO 11 and 13.

7. Since, issues aforesaid are interconnected, thereupon they are amenable, for theirs' being, hence, cumulatively decided.

8. An agreement, to, sell in respect whereof, a decree of specific performance, is, espoused to be renderable, by this Court, is, comprised in Ex. P-1/A. It is executed inter-se the plaintiff, and, the defendants. The date of execution thereof, is, 22.8.2008. Apparently, it is un-controverted, that, the possession of the suit land, is, with the defendants. Prior to the relevant contract, of sale executed, inter-se, the plaintiff and the defendants, and, as, unraveled by Ex.DA, one Ashok Jindal, proprietor of the brick kiln, hence, thereunder rather constituting the plaintiff, as, his General power of Attorney, for, all the purpose(s), as, embodied therein. The aforesaid exhibit, is, not proven to be either revoked, or, cancelled pointedly at, the time contemporaneous, to, the subsequent thereto execution, of, agreement, of, 22.8.2008, agreement whereof, is borne in Ex.P-1/A. However, the relevant agreement of sale borne, in, Ex.P-1/A, as, apparently executed inter-se the plaintiff, with, the defendants, is, not under any apposite authorization, hence, bestowed upon him, under Ex.P1/E, contrarily rather Ex.P1/E visibly omits to empower him, to, execute Ex.P-1/A, in his individual capacity, as, owner of the Brick kiln. However, the plaintiff, espouses, of his holding possession, right, title and interest, to, rather independently, hence execute Ex.P-1/A, in respect of the suit property, with, the defendants, espousal whereof, is, rested upon Ex. P-1/E, sworn by one Ashok Jindal, on 28.9.2007, (i) whereas with Ex. DA, whereunder, the plaintiff stands constituted as, a, General Power of Attorney, of, one Sh. Ashok Jindal, (ii) thereupon, it appears, that, the apposite propagation reared by the plaintiff, qua, his on anvil of Ex.P-1/E, rather holding, an independent right, to, execute Ex.P-1/A, being hence falsified, (iii) rather when though Ex.DA, stood, executed, in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the execution of the apt affidavit, it hence, rather acquires both truth besides veracity, and, when thereunder, the plaintiff was constituted, by one Shri Ashok Jindal, as the apt General Power of Attorney,(iv) hence, subsequent thereto, execution of the relevant agreement inter-se the plaintiff, and, the defendants, rather in his individual capacity,AND, as, owner thereof, besides, his on anvil thereof, making an espousal, of his holding right, title and interest, to rather make, it, in respect of the suit property, (v)obviously being gripped, with an entrenched taint, of, vitiation, hence arising from his visible disability, to, execute it, and, his further concomitant disability, to, also thereafter hence execute a registered deed of conveyance, in, his individual capacity, with, the defendants (vi) Moreso when, the, General Power of Attorney as embodied in Ex.DA is not proven by any cogent evidence, to hence stand cancelled. In aftermath, rendition of a decree for specific performance, is un-renderable, vis-a-vis, the plaintiff.

9. In conjunction with the aforesaid inference, this Court also bears in mind, qua, one Garibu hence executing a lease agreement, with M/S Sada Shiv Bricks Company, and, the longevity, of the aforesaid lease agreement, being up to 30.9.2016, (i) thereupon while therewith conjoining, the aforesaid trite factum, begets an inference of any representation, by the plaintiff, of, his being owner of the afore-referred brick kiln, hence to acquire tenacity, reiteratedly enjoined its adduction, into evidence (ii) given only upon, the apposite afore-stated lease deed, being adduced into evidence, and, hence its making unfoldment(s) qua all the rights', being preserved therein, vis-a-vis, one or more partners thereof, to, bestow rights as owner, upon, the plaintiff (iii) or unless any rights standing exclusively embodied therein, vis-a-vis, one Ashok Jindal, one of the partner(s), of the afore-referred firm, to, induct the plaintiff, as a sub-lessee rather would alone give leverage qua empowerments,if any, vis-a-vis the apt factum, being validly bestowed upon, the plaintiff, (iii) whereas non-adduction into evidence of the apposite lease deed, executed inter-se Garibu and afore-referred partnership firm, rather constrains an inference of one Ashok Jindal though inducted by Garibu, only as a lessee, vis-a-vis, the land whereon, the aforesaid Brick kiln was installed, yet, his being interdicted, to, contrary therewithin, hence create any interest vis-a-vis the suit property, larger than the one, wherewith he stood vested, in the soil, whereon the raw material, for hence operating the brick kiln, rather was existing. Reiteratedly, the apt tendering(s) besides exhibition, thereof by the litigants' concerned, was, imperative for, hence, enabling this Court, to, therefrom rather fathom, qua any rights, to induct sub lesses', being reserved therein to be conferable, by, one Ashok Jindal. Also reiteratedly, omission(s) thereof rather also foreclose, an adverse inference, against the plaintiff, qua it not containing, any recital, whereby any authorization was conferred or bestowed upon the apt authorized, partner(s) of M/S Sada Shiv Brick company, for selling, the suit property, to the plaintiff. Apart therefrom, even if the aforesaid, omission, has sequelled the drawing, of an adverse inference vis-a-vis the plaintiff, it was yet curable by the plaintiff, by his concerting to add, in, the array of co-defendants, one Ashok Jindal, and other partners of the firm hence, carrying the aforesaid nomenclature, (iv) thereupon, for, rather enabling him/them, to, file the apposite written-statement(s), besides, for enabling him/them, to, contest the veracity of execution, of the apposite affidavit, (v) especially when, on, anchor thereof he/they may concert, to, rip apart, the, efficacy of subsequent thereto, hence, execution of the apposite power of attorney, (vi) besides, his/theirs stepping into the witness box, was, hence imperative, for lending succor, vis-a-vis, the apt therewith pleadings, and, for the drawing of an inevitable firm conclusion, vis-a-vis, the tenacity hence acquired, by subsequent thereto affidavit, executed on 22.8.2008, by one Ashok Jindal, (vii) dehors non adduction ,of, the apt lease agreement, executed, inter-se, one Ashok Jindal with Garibu, demonstrative qua whether any rights being therein preserved therein, vis-a-vis, one Ashok Jindal, for the latter proceeding, to bestow or confer power, if any, upon the plaintiff, hence, to execute a valid contract of sale, with, the defendants. All the aforesaid, omissions', also constrain this Court, to, draw an adverse inference qua the plaintiff, rather not holding, any, absolute right title, and, interest in the suit property, hence his being disabled, to, execute the sale agreement, with the defendants nor his thereafter being empowered to execute a registered deed of conveyance, reiteratedly hence, the, decree for specific performance, as claimed by him, is unrenderable vis-a-vis him.

10. Be that as it may, accentuated vigor vis-a-vis the aforesaid inference, is, galvanized, by the plaintiff, while being subjected, to, cross-examination by the learned counsel, for the defendants, his acquiescing qua the relevant brick kiln (a)being owned by one Ashok Jindal (b) it being run under a partnership deed (c) the apt licence being also in the name of the firm (d) it not being sold to him by the firm. Further more, he also acquiesces therein, of, it being sold to him by Ashok Jindal, under a Power of attorney executed, in his favour. The effect of the aforesaid acquiescence(s), is, of thereupon there being hence a peremptory obligation, rather hence cast upon the plaintiff, to, place on record, the partnership deed, and, with the lease deed, especially, when it was executed inter-se Garibu, with a partnership firm, and, also with the apt license stood issued by the competent authority, vis-a-vis, the partnership firm. However, none of the aforesaid documents, were adduced into evidence, thereupon vigor, if any, of the affidavit, whereunder, one Ashok Jindal, one of the partners of the partnership firm, vis-a-vis whom, one Garibu executed a lease deed, whereunder the apt conferment, is bestowed, upon the plaintiff, rather is omnibously denuded. More so, when there, is, no reference in the apposite affidavit, of, one Ashok Jindal, holding, the apposite authorization, from, other co-partners of the partnership firm, to, sell, the suit property vis-a-vis the plaintiff, besides, when obviously one Ashok Jindal, did not, hence hold any apt authorization, to, bestow all the apt rights, title and interest, as, owner, rather upon the plaintiff. The further concomitant sequel thereof, is, that, hence with a clear pronounced, disability hence forbidding the plaintiff, to, execute the sale agreement, with the defendants, thereupon his being disabled, to claim rendition of a decree, of specific performance, vis-a-vis, the suit property.

11. Apart therefrom, the, apposite licence, vis-a-vis, the afore nomenclatured brick kiln, held longevity only up to March, 2009, whereafter, the licence remained un-renewed, (i) thereupon, as afore-stated, with the apposite licence being issued rather in the name, of, the partnership firm, and, the latter remaining un-arrayed, as, a party to the lis, (ii) thereupon, it would be grossly improper, for this Court, to, also pronounce a direction, upon, an un-arrayed litigant, to, ensure renewal of the apposite licence. Want whereof, rather begets an apt corollary qua hence, this Court, being constrained, to, pronounce a decree of specific performance qua the firm, for it, in, consonance with the apt contract of sale, hence, rather executing, a, registered deed of conveyance, with, the defendants, whereas, for all the aforesaid reasons, it held the apposite singular besides apt empowerment, to execute it, AND also held the apt legal capacity to execute a registered deed of conveyance, vis-a-vis, the suit property, with the defendants.

12. In support of the, claim, for rendition of a decree, for pecuniary damages, the plaintiff was enjoined, to, adduce potent evidence qua the number of baked, and, unbaked bricks, lying on the suit property, tritely at the time contemporaneous, vis-a-vis, delivery of possession, of the suit property, by the plaintiff vis-a-vis the defendants, in respect thereof, the plaintiff has depended, upon, Ex. PW-2/A proven by PW2. However, no credence can be imputed thereto, given PW-2, in his cross-examination, upon, an apposite affirmative suggestion, being put to him, of stock and sale register, bill books and other account books, being maintained at the brick kiln, his rendering, his apt acquiesces thereto, (i) thereupon with the aforesaid, hence, constituting the best documentary evidence in respect of, qua at the time contemporaneous, to, execution of P-W-2/A, whereat, the possession of the suit property, was, delivered to the plaintiff, the afore-stated stock rather existing thereat, (i) contrarily, withholding thereof, generates, drawing of an adverse inference, against, the plaintiff, (ii) besides with PW-2 also making deposition, comprised, in his cross-examination, of Ex.PW-2/A, not, carrying any date wise reflections, besides its not carrying, his signatures, thereupon it appears, of his surmisely preparing, it,without his tallying and collating, all entires borne therein, vis-a-vis, the entries occurring in afore-referred best documentary evidence, as comprised in stock, sale register, bill books, and other accounts books, maintained at the aforesaid kiln, wherein entries were made on a day to day basis. Consequently, any claim for rendition of a decree, for computing, in consonance with Ex.PW-2/A, of pecuniary charges vis-a-vis the plaintiff, cannot be accepted All issues are accordingly decided.

Issue No. 12

13. Since the averments existing in the plaint make an evident display of the suit being properly valued for the purpose of Court fee and jurisdiction, hence this issue is accordingly decided in favour of the plaintiff, and, against the defendants.

Relief:

14. In view of the above, the present suit is dismissed, alongwith, all applications, if any. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. No costs.

(Paras 10, 12 & 14)

For the Appellant: Mr. Anoop Chitkara, Advocate.
For the Respondent: Mr. Hemant Vaid, Additional Advocate General.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (oral).

The instant appeal is directed against the judgment rendered on 10.3.2017, by the learned Special Judge, Kullu, Himachal Pradesh, upon, Sessions Trial No. 23 of 2011/74/2016, whereby the appellant stands convicted, AND, is consequently sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment, for eight years AND to pay a fine of Rs. 80,000 /-, for commission of an offence punishable under Section 20 of the Narcotic Drugs & Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as 'NDPS Act') AND in default of payment of fine, he is sentenced to suffer simple imprisonment for six months.

2. Brief facts of the case are that on 27.11.2010, a police party consisting of ASI Jai Lal (PW-7), HC Mahender Singh, C. Nikhil Kondal (PW-3) and C. Devender Prashad had gone for patrolling from Police Post, Patlikuhal. When the party was on way from Parahari to Damchin, through jungle, at 11:45 AM, and reached Thachi Rongpul, accused was noticed coming towards Damchin side having a green coloured rucksack in his right hand. On seeing the police party, accused turned back and tried to escape. He was apprehended on the basis of suspicion of having some illegal object in the rucksack, being carried by him. On inquiry, accused disclosed his name and address. The accused could not explain satisfactorily about the contents in the rucksack. IO sent C. Nikhil Kondal to bring independent witnesses, but no witness was found available. Thereafter, C. Nikhil Kondal and HC Mahender were associated to witness the proceedings. I.O., in the presence of witnesses, apprised the accused about his legal right to be searched either before a Magistrate or a Gazetted Officer. He consented to be searched by the police present at the spot vide memo, Ext. PW3/A, but nothing illegal was found in his possession. Thereafter, the rucksack Ext. P-2, being carried by the accused was checked. In it, another blue coloured bag containing stick shaped Charas Ext. P-5, was found wrapped in polythene wrappers, Ext. P-4. The recovery of Charas was weighed and found to be 800 gms, which was repacked in same fashion and then sealed along with rucksack, Ext. P-2, in cloth parcel, Ext. P-1, with eight seals of seal impression T'. NCB form in triplicate were filled by the I.O., one of which, is, Ext. PW2/C. He also drew sample of seal 'T' on cloth pieces, one of which is Ext. PW3/D and seal, after use, was handed over to C. Nikhil Kondal (PW-3) for safe custody. The parcel of case property taken into possession vide memo, Ext. PW3/C. Copy of seizure memo was supplied to the accused, free of cost. Thereafter, I.O. prepared rukka, Ext. PW3/E and handed over same to C. Nikhil Kondal (PW-3) with a direction to carry the same to P.S. Manali, for the registration of the case and on receipt of the same. Inspector, Om Chand (PW-6), who was officiating SHO on that day in the police station, registered FIR, Ex. PW3/F, by putting his endorsement on the ruqua and handed over the case file to C. Nikhil Kondal with a direction to hand over the same to I.O. at the spot. IO prepared the spot map Ext. PW7/A, and also recorded the statements of witnesses under Section 161 Cr. P.C., as per their version. The accused was apprised about the grounds of arrest and thereafter, arrested vide memo, Ext. PW7/B, and information, qua his arrest, was given to his relative. On the completion of the proceedings at the spot, accused along with case property, was brought to Police Station, Manali and produced before officiating SHO/SI (PW-5) vide Rapat Ext. PW5/A. SI Om Chand resealed the parcel, Ext. P-1 with four seals of "O". He also filled relevant columns of NCB I form, Ext. PW2/C, and put facsimile of seal "O" thereon. He also drew sample of seal "O" Ext. PW6/A, and deposited the case property, i.e. parcel, Ext. P-1, containing 800 grams of Charas, along with sample seals "T" and "O" from NCB I form, in triplicate, and other documents with MHC of police station vide rapat, Ext. PW5/B, who entered the same in Register No. 19 of Malkhana at Sr.No. 672, the abstract of which is, Ext. PW2/A, and deposited the same in Malkhana. The case property remained in his safe custody. On 28.11.2010, after filling column No. 12 of NCB I form, PW-2 sent parcel, Ext. P-1 along with NCB forms, samples seal "T" and "O" as well as other relevant documents to FSL, Junga, vide docket, PW2/B, through, C. Jiwa Nand (PW-4) vide R.C., Ext.PW2/D, who deposited the same in FSL Junga and obtained the receipt on R.C. and then on his return to the police station, deposited the same with the MHC (PW-2). On 28.11.2010, Investigating Officer prepared special report, Ext. PW1/A, and submitted the same before the then SDPO Manali, who after making his endorsement on the special report, handed over the same to his Reader, HC Sher Singh (PW-2), who entered the same in the relevant register, the abstract and as per analysis, the contents of exhibit were opined the extract of cannabis and sample of Charas.

3. On conclusion of the investigations, into the offences, allegedly committed by the accused, a report under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure was prepared, and, filed before the learned trial Court.

4. The accused was charged for committing, an offence punishable, under Section 20 of the ND & PS Act. In proof of the prosecution case, the prosecution examined seven witnesses. On conclusion of recording of prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused, under Section 313 Cr.P.C., was, recorded by the trial Court, wherein he made disclosures qua his false implication. He did not lead any defence evidence.

5. On an appraisal of evidence on record, the learned trial Court, recorded findings of conviction against the accused/appellant herein.

6. The accused/appellant, is, aggrieved by the judgment of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court. The learned Counsel appearing, for the accused/appellant has concertedly, and, vigorously contended qua the findings of conviction recorded by the learned trial Court, standing not based, on a proper appreciation, by it, of the evidence on record, rather, theirs standing sequelled by gross mis-appreciation, by it, of the material on record. Hence, he contends qua the findings of conviction being reversed by this Court, in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction, and, theirs being replaced by findings of acquittal.

7. On the other hand, the learned Additional Advocate General, has with compatible force and vigor, contended that the findings of conviction recorded by the learned Court below, standing, based on a mature and balanced appreciation of evidence on record, and, theirs not necessitating interference, rather theirs meriting vindication.

8. This Court with the able assistance of the learned counsel on either side, has, with studied care and incision, evaluated the entire evidence on record.

9. The Investigating Officer concerned, through, recovery memo borne in Ext. PW3/C, effectuated from the conscious and exclusive possession of the convict, recovery, of, Charas weighing 800 gms. In sequel to recovery(s) of the aforesaid quantum of contraband, standing effectuated, from the purported conscious and exclusive possession, of, the accused person, the Investigating Officer concerned, prepared NCB form, form whereof stands comprised in Ext. PW2/C “wherein” revelations occur, of, his “embossing upon” the bulk parcel(s) comprised in Ext. P-1 , eight seals of English Alphabet “T” (ii) also echoings occur in Ext.PW5/A, of, thereafter Ext. P-1 standing re-sealed, by the SHO concerned, at the Police Station concerned, with four seals, carrying English Alphabet “O”. The aforesaid exhibit containing therein “the” Charas, exhibit whereof stood seized under Ext.PW 3/C (iii) “from the” purported conscious and exclusive possession, of, the accused “stood” under a road certificate comprised, in Ext.PW-2/D, hence sent for analysis to the FSL concerned. The FSL Junga purveyed its report thereon, report whereof is comprised in Ext.PW6/B, wherein it recorded a firm opinion, of, the contents enclosed in the aforesaid bulk parcel “sent to it” for analysis, holding ingredients of Charas. Apart therefrom, the prosecution for establishing the charge, to which the accused stood subjected to, relied upon the depositions' of, official witnesses.

10. The learned Additional Advocate General, has contended, that, with the FSL concerned receiving "in an untampered condition" the bulk parcel, comprised in Ext. P-1, recovery whereof stood effectuated, "through" memo comprised in Ext.PW3/C "from the" purported conscious and exclusive possession of the accused, (i) also with the FSL concerned in its report rendered in respect of, contents enclosed therein, report whereof is comprised in Ext. PW6/B "unveiling" the trite factum of "its" containing Charas, hence "ought to" constrain this Court, to affirm the findings of conviction recorded upon the accused. He contends that with the apposite NCB form, comprised in Ext. PW2/C (ii) holding complete connectivity "with" the road certificate besides with the seizure memo, comprised in Ext. PW3/C, AND, also with the report of the FSL concerned, comprised in Ext. PW6/B (iii) importantly "in respect" of all the relevant descriptions vis-à-vis all seal impression(s), initially embossed thereon "at" the relevant site of occurrence, by the Investigating Officer (iv) also in respect "of" description(s) of all the re-embossed/resealed "seal" impression(s) thereon, "by" the SHO concerned, (v) "ultimately", with the prosecution witness(es), to whom the case property stood shown in Court, theirs' thereat categorically "voicing", of, the case property "holding absolute analogity" with respect, to, all the apt description(s), in respect thereof, respectively, held in NCB form Ext. PW2/C, road certificate Ext.PW-2/D, AND, with the report of FSL, comprised in Ext.PW 6/B", (vi) thereupon the judgment of conviction returned upon the accused hence warranting affirmation. The learned counsel appearing for the accused, has contended with much vigor, that the relevant intra se connectivity(s)/congruity(s) interse the seizure of bulk parcel "through" Ext. PW3/C, "from" the purported conscious and exclusive possession of accused/appellant, vis-à-vis all the aforesaid relevant descriptions (vii) "not" standing efficaciously proven vis-à-vis the case property "at the stage of its" production in Court. He espouses that the relevant interse lack of analogity(s) in respect of description(s), of all seal impression(s) embossed thereon, at the stage when it stood seized, under memo Ext. PW3/C (viii) and also at the stage when it stood resealed, by the SHO concerned besides in respect of all the apposite seal impression(s), displayed in the report of the FSL, comprised in Ext.PW 6/B vis-à-vis the ultimate stage, of its production, in Court, whereat it stood shown to the prosecution witnesses, (ix) "is aroused" by the factum of (a) the Public Prosecutor concerned "at" the stage, of, the prosecution witness(es) concerned, standing shown, "in Court" the relevant case property "his" not adducing before the trial Court, the relevant abstract, of, the Malkhana Register, with portrayal(s) therein (x) that at the time of its standing retrieved, from, the Malkhana concerned, by its Incharge, the latter in contemporanity thereof, recording in the relevant register, apposite entries in respect thereof (xi) the Public Prosecutor concerned at the time, of production of the case property in Court, for its hence being shown to the prosecution witnesses concerned "their not" making any communication(s) therebefore, that "it" stood delivered to him, by an authorized official. (xii) However, the aforesaid submission, does not obtain any strength. (xiii) "Significantly" when a close discernment, of, the depositions', of, the material prosecution witnesses' "unveil", that the learned defence counsel "during" the course of holding them to cross-examination, (xiv) his thereat "omitting to" put apposite suggestion to them, in respect of the apposite bulk parcel borne in Ext.P-1, seizure whereof occurred, through, memo comprised, in Ext. PW3/C "not" standing related, to the apposite subsequently therewith prepared NCB Form, comprised in Ext.PW-2/C, (xv) AND vis-à-vis road certificate comprised in Ext.PW-2/D, AND vis-a-vis the report, of the FSL comprised in Ext.PW 6/B "(xvi) "intra se un-relatability whereof", arising from their occurring apparent intra se incongruity(s), with respect to all the apposite description(s), of all seal impression(s), drawn thereon vis-à-vis the ones embossed, on, Ext.P-1 AND vis-à-vis all the apposite display(s) borne in NCB form, embodied in Ext.

PW2/C. (xvii) Even though, the learned defence counsel "at" the stage, of production of Ext.P-1 in Court "had" an opportunity to decipher, from, the case property "occurrence of" any apparent mis-descriptions AND also want of any intra se congruity(s) inter se, all the aforesaid exhibits vis-à-vis bulk parcel Ext.P-1 also when the learned defence counsel thereat, held the best opportune moment, to hence make/the relevant unearthings, with respect, to, lack of all purported intra se incongruities interse the aforesaid exhibits vis-à-vis Ext.P-1 (bulk parcel) (xviii) "yet/his" failing to thereat put apposite suggestion(s) to the prosecution witness "in respect of" any lack of intra se analogity(s) erupting inter se the relevant echoings, made in bulk parcel borne in Ext.P-1, seizure whereof occurred "through" memo Ext.PW-3/C, AND respectively vis-à-vis NCB Form borne in PW2/C, road certificate Ext.PW-2/D AND the report of the FSL comprised in Ext. PW6/B" (xix) "significantly" with respect to all seal impression(s) embossed upon Ext. P-1 hence standing displayed or not displayed, in all the aforesaid memos. Consequently, his omitting to hence make any apposite unearthings, from PWs', at the relevant stage, especially with respect to lack of any intra se interse analogity(s), with, respect to all relevant description(s) borne thereon, (xx) conspicuously with respect to all seal impression(s) borne thereon vis-à-vis all seal impression(s) borne, on all memos, prepared subsequently thereto, (xxi) hence begets an inference, of, the defence acquiescing, to recovery of Charas, occurring "through" Ext.PW3/C, also its conceding, of, recovery of the relevant contraband, hence occurring, from, the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused, also thereupon an inference is galvanized, of, bulk parcel Ext.P-1, at, the imperative stage of its production in Court, hence standing efficaciously proven, to stand recovered from the site of occurrence, from, the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused.

11. This Court has with great circumspection dwelt, upon, the efficacy of the aforesaid submission(s), also has traversed, through, the entire evidence apposite thereto. Importantly, with the case property bearing the signatures of the accused; b) besides, of, the prosecution witnesses concerned ; c) importantly, with its bearing absolute concurrence(s) interse all the embossed seal impressions thereon, vis-à-vis, those borne in the relevant memos, d) thereupon, with, each of the prosecution witnesses' aforesaid, to whom the case property stood shown, in Court (ii) hence also in tandem therewith rendering testification(s) with absolute unanimity, of its, thereat bearing concurrence(s), on all the aforesaid fronts, vis-à-vis the apposite therewith recital(s) borne in memo comprised in Ext. PW3/C, whereunder its recovery(s) stood effectuated.(iii) thereupon, does reinforce the abovestated conclusion, of, upon its production in Court, its evidently holding all apt concurrence(s) with the connected therewith memos.

12. Furthermore, the sample seal taken, on piece(s) of cloth, bearing Ext. P-1, holds the signatures of the accused, as also of witnesses thereto, even Exhibit PW3/C holds the signatures of the accused, as well as of all the official witnesses thereto, (i) besides sample seal cloth parcel Ext. P-1 holds the signatures of the accused and of the witnesses thereto. (ii) With occurrence of all aforesaid signatures thereon, especially when the learned defence counsel, has not, made any attempt for ripping apart authenticity(s) thereof (iii) also his failing to make attempts, in respect of the signatures, of the accused being obtained under compulsion or under duress, also, boosts an inference of his conceding vis-à-vis the truth of all the recitals occurring therein. (iv) Conspicuously, therefrom, it is to be concluded of his omitting to, make endeavour(s) in respect of the relevant item(s) of contraband, recovered under Ext. PW 3/C, being unrelated to bag Ext.P-1. (v) Omission(s) of aforesaid endeavour(s) also negate the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant, of, the relevant recovery being bereft of any sanctity, theirs being sequelled by sheer contrivance, deployed by the Investigating Officer concerned, for thereupon his falsely implicating the accused.

13. At this stage, the learned counsel appearing, for the appellant/convict, submits (i) that with PW-3 and PW-7, in their respective deposition(s), borne in their respective cross-examination(s), hence making vivid disclosure(s) qua availability of a thickly inhabited locality in proximity, to, the site of occurrence, (ii) besides despite their, availability in proximity at the site of occurrence, yet the Investigating Officer concerned, making no concerted efforts, for associating them in the relevant proceedings, (iii) thereupon his omission(s) being hence both deliberate and intentional, for only smothering the truth of the prosecution case.

14. The force of the aforesaid submission, is blunted, (a) by evidently no apposite suggestion(s), being put to each of them by the learned defence counsel, while holding them to cross-examination qua (b) of the Investigating Officer concerned, rearing any animosity or inimicality vis-à-vis the accused, hence his omitting to join independent witnesses', in the relevant proceedings. (i) Absence of purveying of the aforesaid suggestion(s) vis-à-vis the police witnesses', by the learned defence counsel, while subjecting them, to cross-examination, (c) contrarily begets an inference, of, the mere non-association(s), in the relevant proceedings, by the Investigating Officer, of independent witnesses, though, evidently available in proximity, to, the site of occurrence, (ii) rather not emanating, from, the Investigating Officer concerned, hence concerting to smother the truth of the prosecution case, nor his omissions are construable to be either deliberate or intentional.

15. The non-association of independent witness(es), despite, their evident availability, in proximity to the site of occurrence, would assume significance, (i) upon the defence efficaciously establishing, existences, of, deep pervasive snags, in all the link evidence(s), embodied in the NCB form, prepared at the site of occurrence, upto the FSL, concerned, purveying an affirmative opinion, upon, the apposite seizure, qua contents thereof being Charas,(ii) besides the defence bringing forth cogent evidence, of theirs' being apparent lack of connectivity, interse, the case property, at the stage of its production in Court, vis-à-vis, the one, which stood recovered, under, seizure memo borne in Ext. PW3/C. (iii) However, with all the evident apt linkages appertaining vis-à-vis the recovery(s), of, the case property, under memo Ext. PW3/C, from, the conscious and exclusive possession of the accused, upto an affirmative opinion being recorded thereon, by the FSL, (iv) besides thereafter, upon, its production, in Court, rather hence being cogently proven, to, occur in an untampered unbroken chain AND its bearing absolute concurrence(s), with recovery(s) thereof, effectuated under memo Ext. PW3/C, (v) also with all apt linkages, in respect, of, all the evident concurrence(s) vis-à-vis all the seal impression(s) borne, on, the relevant forms prepared at the site of occurrence, vis-à-vis the ones borne on the case property, upon, its production in Court, (vi) thereupon, given evident omission(s) of the aforesaid snags, in the prosecution case, hence, did not, at all render the prosecution case, to falter merely for the Investigating Officer concerned, failing to associate independent witnesses', in the relevant proceedings.

16. For the reasons which have been recorded hereinabove, this Court holds that the learned trial Court has appraised the entire evidence on record in a wholesome and harmonious manner, apart therefrom, the analysis of the material on record by the learned trial Court, does not, suffer from any gross perversity or absurdity of mis-appreciation and non appreciation of evidence on record. The impugned judgment is affirmed and maintained.

17. However, the learned counsel for the appellants/convicts, makes a prayer, at this stage, for reducing the sentence of imprisonment imposed upon the appellants/convicts. He submits that the aforesaid submission hence being amenable to acceptance, given the convict, being a young person, and, his hence being enabled to reform himself. The aforesaid submission is accepted. The sentence of imprisonment imposed, upon, the appellant/convict is reduced, from, eight years' rigorous imprisonment to, two years' rigorous imprisonment. Sentence of fine, imposed upon the appellant/convict is, reduced from Rs. 80,000/- to Rs. 40,000/- each. In default of payment of fine, he shall further undergo simple imprisonment for three months. The period of detention already undergone by him, is ordered to be set off, from the sentence of imprisonment imposed upon him.

18. Consequently, the sentence(s) of imprisonment and of fine, imposed upon the convict, is to the extent above, hence, modified. Records be sent back forthwith.

For the Plaintiffs: Mr. Rahul Mahajan, Advocate, for the plaintiff.

For the defendants : Mr. R.K. Bawa, Senior Advocate with Mr. Prashant Chaudhary, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Per Sureshwar Thakur, Judge

The instant suit has been filed by the plaintiff, wherein, it, seeks recovery of Rupees one crore, along with interest @ 12% per annum, from the date of filing of the suit, uptill realization of the claim, (i) claim whereof is embedded in the defendants, rather, wanting in making the apposite supplies vis-à-vis the plaintiff(s), (ii) thereupon the latter being hence rendered disabled, to commission a new plant, besides it being deterred to market better quality glazed papers, (iii) wherefrom, the plaintiff would have secured a remunerative price higher than the one which it fetched, from, the market, vis-à-vis the paper manufactured by it.

2. The plaintiff has averred in his plaint that Mr. S.K. Aggarwal has been duly authorized vide Board resolution to file, institute, sign, swear affidavit, to take any action for recovery of money/damages, to, file and to file this case, prosecute and to engage counsels. Vide order No. CPW 373:00-01 of 6.7.2000, the defendants made an offer for manufacturing, of M/s frames fabricated weighing approximately 10 to 11 tones @ Rs. 28/- per KG ex-works. The defendants had agreed to deliver the said MS frames fabricated, by the end of September, 2000, and, 30% advance payment was asked for. The plaintiff, vide acceptance letter dated 10.7.2000, accepted the said offer made by the defendants, for, manufacturing the MS frame fabricated. It was submitted in the acceptance offer that workmanship and the dimensions should, be as per the drawings supplied, by the plaintiff, and, any error or discrepancy would be rectified by the defendants. A cheque was also given to the defendants amounting to Rs. 1,00,000/-, as advance for execution of the work order. On the basis of acceptance of offer of the plaintiffs, the defendants started execution of work qua offer of 6.7.2000. The plaintiffs constantly asked the defendants to supply them with the MS frame fabricated, but the defendants tried to evade the issue. Thereafter, vide letter of 16.9.2002, the drawings for MS frame fabricated were again sent to the defendants, for quick execution of the work qua MS frames fabrication, however, the defendants did nothing, rather the defendants refused to entertain any visits or calls made by the plaintiff. On 28.5.2005, the defendant wrote a letter to the plaintiff, that, they have started the work of item Nos 2, 3 and 4, as shown in letter dated 28.5.2005, however, nothing was done, and, on 27.9.2005, another letter was issued by the defendants, wherein the defendants started raising baseless issues in order to avoid the job assigned to them for supplying of MS Frames. The defendants raised the immaterial issue that the plaintiff should not insist for machining. Again on 8.11.2005, the defendants wrote letter to the plaintiff, wherein, they still raised the issue of machining, whereas the plaintiff at the time of his accepting the offer, made on 6.7.2000, and had clearly submitted that they wanted finishing of the parts as per the drawing. On 25.1.2006, a meeting was held between the authorized representatives of the plaintiff and of the defendants in minutes of meeting, wherein it was specifically brought out that in respect of drawing No.PM, 2/06/272, PM-2/06/224 and PM-2/06/225, the drawings would be positively, got ready, by 30th January and, the material can be lifted by 1.2.2006, and, in respect of drawing No. PM-2/06/229, the said work would be completed by 15th of March, 2006, however, defendants failed to honour the aforesaid commitment and the plaintiff have no other option but to fax a message on 1.2.2006, regarding non-fulfillment of the commitment as per the minutes of the meeting. Further a letter on 9.2.2006 was also issued to the defendants requesting it to complete all the jobs assigned to them. The defendants on 18.2.2006, in total breach of minutes of meeting, sent the material as per the drawings No.PM-2/06/272, PM-2/06/224 and PM-2/06/225. The defendants were guilty, of not, adhering to the schedule wherewithin the job had to be completed, and, also violated the minutes of meeting. Thereafter again on 29.4.2006, the plaintiff wrote a letter to the defendant that only material qua drawing No. PM-2/06/272, PM-2/06/224 and PM-2/06/225 have been received, but material qua drawing No. PM 2-06/229 , SH 1, 2 and 3 had not been received. It was further pointed out that new project has been held up and financial losses are being suffered as a result of breach of contract in not supplying MS Frame. The defendants were asked to make good the losses. The defendants on 1.5.2006 assured that the material will be delivered by the end of May 2006. The defendants were to provide MS Frame (Fabricated) on which the calander rolls had to be placed which would have improved the quality of the paper by smoothening, glazing and shining. It is further averred in the plaint that the time was the essence of the contract and, the defendants failing to adhere to the time schedule. It is further averred of plaintiff sufferring loss and damages, as, it could not commission the new plant, and, also put in the market better quality glazed paper, fetching more price(s). It is further averred that the defendants are liable to damages for non delivery of MS (Frame) fabricated i.e. goods, hence prayed for rendition of decree of Rupees one Crore along with interest @ 12 % per annum from the date of filing, of the suit till payment is made.

3. The suit of the plaintiff, is contested by the defendants, by instituting written statement, to the plaint of the plaintiff. By way of written statement, the defendants, submit, that the defendant was made an offer, for fabrication of press frames parts of 5/6 metric tons @ Rs. 28/- per Kg, on the terms that the excise duties will be charged Nil at the time of delivery, and SCT @ 4% will be charged against submission of Form-C for availing concessional Tax as per Standard Trade Practices. It is averred that it is, nowhere mentioned, in the acceptance letter of 10.7.2000, that the quantity would be 10 to 11 tons, and, the acceptance letter is silent, about the finished material and machining. The plaintiff had to supply the remaining drawings, as stated in the letter of 10.7.2000, but failed to do so. The plaintiff has suppressed the fact that vide fax message/letter, of 10.8.2000, the plaintiff himself wrote to the defendants qua the drawings submitted vide letter of 10.7.2000, being cancelled, and, requested/instructed that, the defendants may not start work till the fresh drawings of press frames part and, dispatched/sent to the plaintiff. However, the plaintiff did not submit the drawings to the defendants, from 16.7.2000 till 16.9.2002, and, the fact of the matter, is that the plaintiff himself slept over the matter. It is further averred that vide letter of 10.8.2000, the plaintiff had requested the defendants, not, to start the work till fresh drawings of press frames parts, are submitted to the defendants, whereas the defendants had already started fabrication work, asked by the plaintiff regarding fixation of gun metal bush or MS Bush. The defendant requested the plaintiff, to, inform the defendants, so as to enable, the defendants to proceed with the work. On 16.9.2002, the plaintiff sent some drawings, for fabrication work, to the defendant, and, the defendant, on 9.10.2002 wrote to the defendant, that the defendant would supply the material at the old rate of Rs. 28/- per KG upto the value of Rs. 3,00,000/- It is further contended in the written statement, that, the plaintiff himself had not submitted the drawings to the defendant for a period of about 5 years. The plaintiff did not, despite several communications, reply to the query raised by the defendants. The defendants submits that the plaintiff admits that from 6.7.2000 till 28.5.2005, the plaintiff did not care to, ask the defendant, as to whether, the work so entrusted was completed or not and even otherwise, the clarifications regarding the discrepancies, of the drawings, was not made available by the plaintiff. Defendants were time and again writing, and representing, to the plaintiff regarding discrepancies in the fresh drawings submitted on 16.9.2002 by the plaintiffs, and, requested the plaintiff to clarify the discrepancies or depute someone who could clarify the technicalities of the drawings. It was only the defendants, who, deputed his representatives to visit the plaintiff's factory, however on visiting the plaintiff's factory, it was found that there was no trained staff in the plaintiff's factory, and, there was no one who could assemble the second hand imported machinery, which the plaintiff had purchased, for construction of the factory. It was informed, to, the defendants' representative that there was no expert or qualified engineer, who could clarify the technicalities of drawings. The defendant on 3.8.2005, wrote, to the plaintiff that in terms of the earlier letter dated 19.5.2005, no inspection engineer has inspected the ready material till date, and, as such requested the plaintiff to depute their Inspector to inspect the ready material. The defendants, on 16.9.2005, again wrote to the plaintiff that none from the side of the plaintiff had inspected the ready material. The plaintiff on 17.8.2005, deputed his representative for inspection. Surprisingly, the plaintiff raised one new issue, and, stated that the press frames fabricated by the defendants should be machined, which, was neither offered nor accepted in the order. However, on 8.11.2005, the defendant clarified that the machining work would be done as per the plaintiff's drawings, and costs thereof would be paid by the plaintiff.

4. On 25.1.2006, a new settlement/agreement /order/understanding, was entered, between the plaintiff and the defendants, with an understanding, that, the first lot of material approximately two metric ton would be ready by 30th of January, 2006, and the plaintiff would lift the material by 1st of February, 2006. The balance approximately 4 metric ton would be fabricated, after the lifting of the first lot, by the plaintiff, and, would be completed by the 15th of March, 2006. Even when the defendant sent their proforma invoice of ready material to the plaintiff for enabling them to make the payment qua stock ready for lifting, yet the plaintiff did not make the payment and rather requested the defendant that the payment would be made, after receipt, of material, at the factory site of the plaintiff. The plaintiff did not make the payment despite several requests. Despite that, the defendant delivered the finished goods as ordered by the plaintiff. It is further averred that the defendants had violated the terms and conditions, on the basis of the offer of the defendants, of 6.7.2000. The defendants and the plaintiff entered into a fresh understanding on 25.1.2006, and, the plaintiff did not fulfill the terms and conditions thereof. It is averred that there is no violation of terms and conditions of order, on behalf of the defendants, and, they are not liable for the any loss and damages, as claimed by the plaintiff.

5. The claim set up by the defendants is refuted by the plaintiff by filing rejoinder to the written statement of the defendants.

6. On the pleading of the parties, the following issues were framed on 2.4.2008:

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to a decree as prayed for in the plaint? OPP
2. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to interest @ 12% from the date of filing till payment? OPP
3. Whether the suit is barred by limitation? OPD
4. Whether the suit does not disclose any cause of action? OPD
5. Whether the suit is not filed by authorized and competent person? OPD
6. Whether the suit is neither competent nor maintainable on account of suit lacking complete, true and correct facts and particulars' if so its effect? OPD
7. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing the suit on account of his act and conduct? OPD

c) Relief.

Reasons for findings

Issue No. 1 and 2

8 In proof of the averments cast in the plaint, one S.K. Aggarwal, the authrorized representative of the plaintiff Company, stepped into the witness box. During the course, of, his examination-in-chief, he tendered Ext. P-1, exhibit whereof, embodies the minutes, of, meeting of the Board of Directors of the plaintiff-Company, whereby he stands authorized to sign, file, verify all documents, pleading, application, affidavits etc., and, to depose as witness in Courts of law. Ext. P-2 comprises the offer made by the plaintiff, to the defendants, for fabricating MS frames, with theirs hence carrying the weights mentioned therein, besides at the rate(s) enunciated therein. The contents of Ext. P-2 are admitted by the parties at contest. However, though subsequent thereto, certain communication(s) embodied in Ext. P-3, in Ext. P-4, in Ext. P-5 and in Ext. P-6, also occurred interse the plaintiff, and, the defendant, and, communication(s) whereof, appertain to the year 2000, (a) communications whereof are relied upon by the plaintiff, especially, for sustaining its espousal, of despite, the plaintiff making repeated, persistent reminders, upon, the defendants, to make the relevant supplies, yet the latter omitting to mete apposite compliance(s) therewith. (b) However, the effect of communication(s) if any, made interse the plaintiff, and, the defendants, rather are stripped of their probative vigour, given PW-1, during the course of his cross-examination, while meteing reply(s) to Court query(s), his making vivid disclosure(s) therein, of, ( c) only on 28.5.2005, the plaintiff, establishing the relevant contact with, the defendants, and prior thereto, the plaintiff establishing telephonic contact(s), vis-à-vis the defendants, with respect to the execution of the apposite orders. (d) However, even the factum of, prior to 28.5.2005, the plaintiff purportedly maintaining telephonic communication(s), with the defendants, for hence beseeching the latter to execute, the orders placed upon it, by the plaintiff, is not credible, (e) given PW-1 not placing on record the apposite telephone bills or any other befitting documentary evidence, in respect of the plaintiff, prior to 28.5.2005, hence establishing telephonic contact, with the defendants, whereupon the latter were requested, to execute the orders placed upon it, by the plaintiff. The aforesaid inference also enhances a further inference, of, (f) the plaintiff derelicting, since the year 2000, to 28.5.2005, for ensuring, qua the defendants' executing the relevant orders, hence a further concomitant inference is engendered, of, time being not the essence of the contract.

9 Be that as it may, dehors the aforesaid inference(s), the existence on record, of Ext. P-8, exhibit whereof, comprises, a communication made by the defendants, vis-à-vis the plaintiff, and, its circumspect reading, unveiling, of, the defendants proceeding to execute the work orders, in respect of certain items, and, theirs assuring early execution, of unexecuted items, only after, hence inspection, being done, of the completed items, (a) yet the communication(s) borne, in Ext. P-8, appear to, as divulged by Ext. P-9 and Ext. P-10, Ext. P-11 and Ext. P-12, rather remained unheeded, (b) whereupon an inference is erectable of rather derelictions hence emanating, on the part of the plaintiff, even despite the defendants' executing part of the orders, and, after their inspections' by the plaintiff, theirs assuring delivery(s) thereof, vis-à-vis the plaintiffs, and, theirs also assuring qua thereafter theirs completing the execution, of unexecuted work(s).

10. Contrarily, as divulged by Ext. P-10, and, by Ext. P-11, the plaintiff, rather made insistence(s), upon, the defendants, to make finished machining, despite, the insistence aforesaid, being beyond the scope of contract, and, being also technically unfeasible, (a) yet the defendants enjoined upon the plaintiff to supply vis-à-vis them, the apposite drawings, for hence enabling them, to completely execute the finished machining. Further more, it appears that even though under Ext. P-3, the relevant drawings were purveyed, by the plaintiff, to the defendants, (b) however, through Ext. P-15 and Ext. P-16, the counsel for the plaintiff, has strived, to raise a contention, of the defendants not facilitating the lifting of the ready material, appertaining to drawings No. DM-2/06/222, DM-2/06/224 and DM-2/06/225, (c) yet, effect thereof, is effaced by Annexure P-14, exhibit whereof is signed by the authorized representatives, of the parties at contest, wherein, a graphic disclosure occurs, of the readiness of the defendants, to get the requisite material/items, ready on 30.1.2006, (d) and, it also carries recitals' of, the remaining material, being put to manufacture, only after, the lifting(s) of the initially manufactured lot, (e) besides an assurance is meted therein, of the entire work being completed by 15.3.2005. Subsequent thereto, the defendant dispatched, a tempo containing 6 pieces of Leavers Ex-Yamuna Nagar, to Kala-Amb, wherewith the following documents were also dispatched:

a) Invoice No. 92/E/05-06, dated 18.2.2006 for Rs. 47173, against supply of above material;

b) Packing List No. 65/E/05-06, dated 17.2.2006

c) G.R.No. 4055, dated 17.02.2006 of M/s Raj Laxmi Transport Company.

d) Delivery Challan Cum Invoice No. 00119, dated 17.2.2006.

11. Consequently, it is apparent that under Annexure P-6, the defendants had meted compliance with the recital(s) borne in Ext. P-14. Since, for the reasons aforesaid, time was not essence of the contract, and, with the plaintiff, as apparent, from the recorded signatured minutes of an apposite meeting, rather displaying acquiescing(s), besides permitting, the defendants to complete the fabrication of items, (a) thereupon it is befitting to infer of the plaintiff, condoning, the apposite delay, hence it being not open for the plaintiffs to contend, that on account of any purported delay(s), purportedly, ascribable to the defendants, any pecuniary loss or damage(s), rather being visited upon the plaintiff. Though, it is averred in the plaint, that, if the requisite items were fabricated within time, by the defendants, thereupon the plaintiff would be facilitated, to commission its new plant, and, would also be enabled to, hence ensure production of superior quality glazed papers, and, thereafter would be assured to fetch higher remunerative price(s) vis-à-vis the finished product, than, the price hitherto fetched by it, purportedly in respect of inferior quality paper. However, in respect thereto, there is no firm testification, nor any firm documentary cogent evidence stand adduced, evidence whereof may be comprised, in the books of accounts, maintained by the plaintiff, with vivid portrayals therein, qua the plaintiff continuing, to manufacture paper, at its old plant, (b) and, with further portrayal(s) therein, that since the year 2000, whereat the apposite order, was placed by the plaintiff upon the defendants, up to the year 2006, the plaintiff, for want of delivery of apposite fabrication(s), by the defendants, being hence precluded, to commission its new plant, thereupon pecuniary damages, for purported dereliction(s) or purported non-compliance(s) by the defendants comprised, in theirs not fabricating the items, being hence entailed upon the defendants. Also, the plaintiff omitted, to adduce photographic evidence, pointedly appertaining to the year 2001 to 2006, with specific delineation therein, of the plaintiff, for want of apposite fabrications, by the defendants, rather being hence precluded to commission, its new plant, rather the plaintiff manufacturing paper, at its old plant. Since the aforesaid, comprised the best documentary evidence, yet it has been visibly suppressed, thereupon the plaintiff's contention, of theirs, for, non-supply of the apposite items, within time, (a) being precluded to commission its new plant, b), and, of theirs being precluded, to fetch higher remunerative price, vis-a-vis the finished product, than, the hitherto price fetched by it, (c) conspicuously also when only, from the aforesaid suppressed material, disclosures would occur qua the plaintiff manufacturing glazed or unglazed paper, is thereupon omnibusly blunted, (d) The further inference, which is engendered therefrom, is of the plaintiff also failing to prove the apposite derelictions or non-compliance(s), by the defendants, nor any pecuniary damages as claimed against the defendants, being amenable to be decreed Since, the defendants in his cross-examination, accepted his receiving a sum of Rs. 1,00,000/- as an advance payment, and, has also deposed that Rs. 47,000/- is the outstanding balance, yet has deposed that material worth therewith, has been purchased. (e) Nonetheless, when he has not produced any evidence vis-à-vis materials being purchased, from, the aforesaid outstanding amount, thereupon it is befitting, to decree the plaintiff's suit only vis-à-vis a sum of Rs. 47,000 alongwith interest @ 12% per annum, up to its realization, being hence defrayable by the plaintiffs, vis-à-vis the defendants.

12. Consequently, issues No. 1 and 7 are decided in favour of the defendants and against the plaintiff.

Issues No. 3, 5 and 7

13. It has not been shown by the defendants as to how the suit is barred by time and as to how the suit is not filed by authorized person and as to how the plaintiff is estopped from filing the suit on account of his act and conduct, hence for want of evidence in regard aforesaid, issues No. 3, 5 and 7 are decided in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants.

Issues No. 4 and 6

14. In view of my findings on the aforesaid issues, neither the plaintiff can maintain the instant suit nor he has any cause of action to file the instant suit. Consequently, both these issues are decided in favour of the defendants and against the plaintiff.

Relief

15. In sequel to findings on issues aforesaid, the suit of the plaintiff is partly decreed, vis-à-vis a sum of Rs. 47,000 alongwith interest @ 12% per annum from the date of institution of suit, up to its realization. Decree-sheet be prepared accordingly. The parties are left to bear their own costs. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

| For the Petitioners: | Mr. Y. P. Sood, Advocate. |
| For Respondents No. 1 & 2: | Mr. Hemant Vaid, Addl. Advocate General with Mr. Y.S. Thakur, Dy. .G. |
| For Respondents No.3 to 6: | Mr. Arush Matlotia, Advocate. |

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The petitioners herein, who, are legal heirs of one Riharu Ram, through, the instant petition hence cast a challenge, upon, the validity of the orders, borne in Annexure P-5, whereunder, the authority concerned hence rescinded, the allotment of land, made vis-a-vis, one, Riharu Ram in the year 1978, while its exercising powers under the Himachal Pradesh Village Common Lands Vesting and Utilization Scheme, 1975 (hereinafter referred as the scheme of 1975).

2. All the averments, made, by the petitioners, in their petition, stand contested by the respondents, by the latter meteing(s) reply(ies) thereto. The respondents in their reply, rather validate the orders, borne, in Annexure P-5, whereas, contrarily, the counsel for the petitioner, vehemently contended qua it being ingrained, with, a pervasive gross illegality.

3. Apparently, upon, civil suit No. 25 of 2001, wherein, one Riharu Ram, qua whom grant of land, was made, under, the aforesaid scheme, stood arrayed as co-defendant No.2 also wherein, the State of Himachal Pradesh, was impleaded as a party in the array of co-defendants, a pronouncement of dismissal of the plaintiff's aforesaid suit hence emanated, on 29.08.2003, from, the learned Senior Sub Judge, Kangra at Dharamshala. The aforesaid verdict, was challenged, before the learned Appellate Court, by the aggrieved plaintiff, one, Rikhi Ram, and, significantly no challenge thereon was cast, by the State of Himachal Pradesh, (a) thereupon with no material being placed on record in personification, of, the concurrent verdict(s) hence dismissing, the suit of, one, Rikhu Ram, rather standing reversed in a second appeal, instituted before this Court(s), (b) thereupon conclusivity, besides finality is to be bestowed, upon, the concurrent verdicts recorded, upon, Civil Suit No. 25 of 2001. The apt portion of the concurrent verdicts, occurring in paragraph No.32 of the verdict pronounced, by the learned trial Court in C.S. No. 25 of 2001, is extracted hereinafter:

> "32. So the bare perusal of section 3 of the Act clearly provides that the suit land which vested in the Panchayat Deh earlier vested in State Govt. of H.P. free from all encumbrances. Thus, the suit land was legally transferred from ownership of Panchayat Deh to State Govt. of H.P. . Hence this issue is decided against the plaintiff in favour of defendants."

4. The aforesaid paragraph, does make, a vivid disclosure, of the learned trial Court, making, a conclusion qua, hence, a legal transfer of ownership, occurring, from Panchayat Deh, to the State of H.P., besides in apt portion of paragraph No.33, the apt portion whereof stands extracted hereinafter:-

> "33. Therefore, under these facts and circumstances of the case the land bearing Khasra No.606/2, measuring 0-07-14 hects. Was legally allotted in favour of defendant No.2, Riharu vide mutation No.65 dated 27.6.1978, Ex.P-6 and similarly the land bearing Khasra No.606/1, measuring 0-03-06 hects. Was legally allotted by State of H.P. in favour of defendant No.3, Roshan Lal vide mutation No.68 dated 27.6.1978, Ex.P-7. So keeping in view entire facts and circumstances of the case, the allotment of suit land by State of H.P. in favour of defendants No.2 and 3 is legal and valid allotment under the provisions of H.P. Village Common Lands (Vesting and Utilization) Act, 1974....."

a firm conclusion, is, recorded of a valid allotment, being made vis-a-vis one Riharu, by the authority concerned, while, its, exercising the apt powers under the scheme.

5. The effects of the aforesaid conclusivity(ies) being hence acquired, by the verdict rendered in Civil Suit No.25 of 2001, is of thereupon, respondent No.1, being now estopped to rather contend, that the afore referred conclusion(s), being either being ill-founded or infirm. The reasons, for forming the aforesaid conclusion, arises, from the further factum, (a) the authority pronouncing, Annexure P-5, and, it thereunder hence annulling, the grant, its, rather proceeding to take into consideration, certain apposite material both germane, and, apposite vis-a-vis the mandate, of, the proviso occurring in Section 2(c), (b) conspicuously, despite, the insertion of the proviso thereto, visibly occurring prior to the institution of the suit, and, also despite, respondent No.1 herein, evidently arrayed as co-defendant No.1, in the aforestated civil suit, (c) AND, obviously, despite, its, holding awareness vis-a-vis it, though rather was enjoined, by the mandate of Order 2, Rule of the CPC, provisions whereof, stand extracted hereinafter, to hence in consonance therewith, rear pleas for invalidating the grant, made, vis-a-vis one Riharu, whereas apparently, it, not previously rearing the aforesaid plea, (d) thereupon the apposite non rearings thereat, now, estopped the authority concerned to pronounce Annexure P-5, (e) given its hence untenably invalidating the concurrent pronouncements, made by civil court(s). Provisions of Order 2, Rule 2 of the CPC read as under:-

> "2. Suit to include the whole claim.- (1) Every suit shall include the whole of the claim which the plaintiff is entitled to make in respect of the cause of action; but a plaintiff may relinquish any portion of his claim in order to bring the suit within the jurisdiction of any Court.
> (2) Relinquishment of part of claim—Where a plaintiff omits to sue in respect of, or intentionally relinquishes, any portion of his claim, he shall not afterwards sue in respect of the portion so omitted or relinquished.
> (3) Omission to sue for one of several reliefs—A person entitled to more than one relief in respect of the same cause of action may sue for all or any of such reliefs, but if he omits except with the leave of the court, to sue for all such reliefs, he shall not afterwards sue for any relief so omitted."

(e) Even when respondent No.1, was not arrayed as a party therein, nonetheless, its, palpable omission(s) to earlier in its written statement, furnished, vis-a-vis Civil Suit No.25 of 2001, rather rear them therein, also hence bars, respondent No.1, to make any espousals, for validating the orders borne, in Annexure P-5. Reiteratedly, hence, with conclusivity being acquired vis-a-vis the aforesaid apt paragraphs of the judgment recorded, by the learned trial Court, upon, Civil Suit No.25 of 2001, thereupon, the authority concerned, was, disabled to pronounce Annexure P-5, and, also was hence interdicted, to, infract the mandate thereof, besides, was, forbidden to go behind the decree, rendered by the Civil Court(s) concerned. Nowat with authority, in pronouncing, Annexure P-5, hence, visibly going behind the conclusive, and, binding verdict recorded by the civil Courts, has thereupon transgressed the trite expostulation of law, of, judgments and decrees recorded by Civil Courts, being binding, upon, the statutory authority, and, despite theirs 'operating', as, res judicata besides operating, as statutory estoppel, (a) whereupon though, hence, it stood, disabled, to subsequent thereto, rather untenably proceed, to reverse the mandate recorded, in the conclusive judgment, and, decree pronounced by civil court(s) concerned. Apparently when hence the aforesaid trite expostulation of law is infringed, thereupon, this Court obviously deprecates, the apposite infringement, made, by the authority concerned, who pronounced Annexure P-5.

6. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the respondents, contend with vigour (i) that when, on a harmonious reading, of the provisions borne in clause 4, and, in clause 5 of the scheme of 1975, clauses whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "4. 4. Enquiry preparation of statement of land available for allotment. - When application is made under paragraph 3 or when the Tehsil Revenue Officer suo-moto initiates proceedings under the proviso of paragraph 3, he shall after giving the persons seeking allotment or being considered for allotment, an opportunity of being heard and after making such summary inquiry as he may consider necessary, prepare a statement for Revenue estate, indicating-
> (1) particulars of each eligible person;
>
> (2) the land, if any, owned or held by such person;
>
> (3) the area which can be allotted to such person under the Act; and
>
> (4) the revenue estate or estates for which such person indicates preference for allotment of land in case no area is available for allotment in the revenue estate where he holds land.
>
> 5. Procedure for allotment of land from the allotable pool. - (1) After the procedure prescribed in paragraph 4 has been followed, the Tehsil Revenue Officer shall prepare a list of all eligible persons for each revenue estate in such a manner that the persons who do not own any land and the persons who own or hold less than one acre of land are placed according to the area possessed by each in an ascending order.
> (2) The Tehsil Revenue Officer shall also prepare a list of Khasra Numbers (with area) of the land comprised in the allotable pool area available for allotment in a revenue estate mentioning such numbers in the numerical order. Where there are killas and rectangles, the numerical order of the rectangle shall be observed first and then of killas in each rectangle.

> (3) The record of each case alongwith the lists referred to in sub-paras (1) and (2) above shall be forwarded to the Collector who shall proceed to allot the land to eligible persons in the following order of reference:-
>
> (a) member of Scheduled castes/Scheduled tribes, ex-servicemen, freedom fighters and Ex-INA personnel, covered under the Government of India scheme and also those freedom fighters who have been awarded commendation certificates by the State Government.
> (b) Landowners or tenants whose holdings as a result of implementation of section 104 of the Himachal Pradesh Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972 are reduced below one acre;"

hence apparent unfoldings rather emerge of the apposite enshrined eligibility criteria, innately borne therein, hence being constituted in (a) the aspirant concerned, for eligibising himself, for the apposite grant, being hence made vis-a-vis him, his evidently, at the stage contemporaneous to the grant, apparently not, holding any land or holding, land, less than one acre; (b) whereupon alone his being construed to be landless. The learned counsel appearing for the contesting respondents, hence, espoused, (i) that with the father of the original grantee, being evidently alive, at the stage contemporaneous, to the grant besides when he thereat, held, land measuring 34-1 bighas, (ii) and, thereafter, on his demise, the grantee along with his brother, both, in equal shares, evidently inheriting the estate of their predecessor-in-interest, (iii) hence, the salutary purpose, of the grant being made vis-a-vis a person, who, at the relevant stage, being either landless or holding, land, less than one acre, being visibly hence scuttled. The aforesaid contention reared by the counsel, for the contesting respondents, cannot be validated, for the reasons ascribed hereinafter, (a) the introduction of hereinafter extracted proviso vis-a-vis the substantive provisons borne, in, clause (dd) to Section 2 of the Act, rather occurring, in the year 1987, provisions whereof reads as under:

> "Provided that a person whose father is alive and whose annual income from all sources exceeds Rs.3,000/- shall not be deemed to be a landless persons; and
> (d) "landowner" means a person having a share in the shamilat land as recorded in the land records and includes a panchayat;
>
> (dd) other eligible person means a person;
>
> (i) who, holding land for agricultural purposes less than an area whether as an owner or a tenant, earns his livelihood principally by manual labour on land and intends to take the profession of agriculture and is capable of cultivating the land personally;
>
> (ii) whose father is not alive; and
>
> (iii) whose annual income from all sources does not exceeds Rs.3,000/-;
> and shall not include a person who holds a share or a portion of an estate jointly owned and cultivated by two or more persons;"

(b) AND also assumingly, if the original grantee's father, was alive at the time contemporaneous to the grant, and, also when evidently, he thereat held an area of land, for hence, de-elibilising the allottee, to seek allotment, under, the scheme, (c) thereupon, the relevant scheme, especially at the apposite stage, was also enjoined to contain a clear explicit loud mandate, of hence, the original grantee being dis-entitled, to seek the making, of, the apposite grant. However, at the time contemporaneous to the grant, obviously, hence, there was no explicit, disabling apposite mandate aforestated, hence occurring in the relevant scheme, whereunder the grant was made vis-a-vis, the original grantee, (d) rather when the apposite proviso, with a loud communication borne therein, whereunder, the apt legal disability was incurred, upon, the original grantee against his seeking grant, upon evident apposite prevalence thereat, of, an apposite disability, comprised in, his father being alive or the grantee's annual income, from, all sources exceeding Rs.3,000/-, when, as aforestated stood inserted, therein, through an amendment carried subsequent thereto, in the Act, thereupon, hence, begets inference, of, (e) of the legislature explicitly intending, qua only, in the year 1987, the aforesaid disability being created, vis-a-vis the apposite grantee, and, its omitting to create, it, at the time of the apposite grant, being made, vis-a-vis the grantee. The contention of the learned counsel, for the contesting respondent, qua the aforesaid disability, yet, prevailing at the time of grant, is, obviously unamenable to acceptance nor hence it can be concluded, that even if the original grantee's father, was alive at the time contemporaneous to the grant, (f) AND evidently, also with the latter holding land, land whereof on his demise, being likely to be inherited by the original grantee, as has evidently occurred hereat, thereupon, also per se hence the original grantee, would not render himself to be hence encumbered with the apposite disability. Also assumingly, if the aforesaid prohibition is to be concluded, to, exist/occur at the time contemporaneous to the grant, thereupon, the right, title or interest, if any, inhering in the grantee, vis-a-vis the estate of his father, would, only be construable to be a mere spes successionis or an obstructed heritage, (g) apparently when any contrary thereto inference would tantamount, to rearing a untenable inference, of the predecessor-in-interest, of the original grantee being untenably concluded, to stand forestalled, to execute any testamentary disposition vis-a-vis his estate, whereunder, he may ultimately, chose, to disinherit the original grantee. The aforesaid conclusion may stand blunted, by evident material rather existing on record, in display of the predecessor-in-interest, of the original grantee, rather holding land, carrying the trait(s) of ancestral coparcenary property, and, hence thereupon the acquisition thereto, by the grantee vis-a-vis the estate of his deceased father, being a mere fait accompli, besides thereupon alone the contentions reared, by the counsel for the contesting parties, would hold grave solemn vigour. However, the aforesaid material is not existing on record, thereupon, this Court is led to conclude, with reinforced vigour, of, despite the father of the original grantee, surviving, at the time contemporaneous to the grant, and, his holding an area of land, beyond the prescribed limit, for hence de-eligibilising the grant being made vis-a-vis his son, not per se attracting, the rigour of, any prohibitive clause existing therein, rather, the apt thereat prevalent clauses being merely hence a spes sucessionis, of, the grantee vis-a-vis the estate of his father, whereupon, the rigor, of, the purported disability also cannot be encumbered upon the grantee.

7. Furthermore, vigour vis-a-vis the aforesaid conclusion, is also gathered by the factum of this Court, for reasons aforestated, concluding, that with the legislature only, through an amendment made in the year 1987, creating the aforesaid eligibility, and, when hence the aforesaid eligibility, also, hence, is concluded, to be not existing at the relevant stage, (i) thereupon, the mere factum of the father of the grantee being alive, at the time of the apposite grant, is wholly unworthwhile. The Hon'ble Apex Court, in a judgement, rendered, in a case titled as Commissioner of Income Tax (Central)-1, New Delhi vs. Vatika Township Private Limited reported in (2015)1 SCC 1, relevant paragraph No.28 whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "31. Of the various rules guiding how a legislation has to be interpreted, one established rule is that unless a contrary intention appears, a legislation is presumed not to be intended to have a retrospective operation. The idea behind the rule is that a current law should govern current activities. Law passed today cannot apply to the events of the past. If we do something today, we do it keeping in view the law of today and in force and not tomorrow's backward > adjustment of it. Our belief in the nature of the law is founded on the bed rock that every human being is entitled to arrange his affairs by relying on the existing law and should not find that his plans have been retrospectively upset. This principle of law is known as lex prospicit non respicit : law looks forward not backward. As was observed in Phillips vs. Eyre, (1870)LR 6 QB, a retrospective legislation is contrary to the general principle that legislation by which the conduct of mankind is to be regulated when introduced for the first time to deal with future acts ought not to change the character of past transactions carried on upon the faith of the then existing law."

has made candid expostulation, therein, that the apposite disability clause or the apt prohibition clause, holding prospective force, rather than retrospective force, unless, by explicit mandate, retrospectivity hence stands bestowed vis-a-vis the apposite disability clause. However, when hereat the insertion, of, the apposite proviso aforestated, occurred in the year 1987, hence, subsequent, to the apposite grant, and, when no explicit retrospectivity is bestowed thereto, rather hence renders open an inference, of, attraction((s) of the mandate, of, apposite proviso, being vis-a-vis only those grants made subsequent to 1987, and, all disabling, fettering effects thereof, being unattractable vis-a-vis any grant made prior thereto, especially in the year 1978.

8. For the foregoing reasons, the instant petition is allowed and the order impugned before this Court, borne in Annexure P-5, is quashed and set aside. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.

Indian Succession Act, 1925 - Section 63 – Will – Proof - Plaintiff filing suit and challenging Will executed by his grand-father 'BR' in favour of defendants on grounds of fraud and misrepresentation – Trial court dismissing suit and appeal of plaintiff also dismissed by first appellate court – RSA - Facts showing father of plaintiff 'S' dying before 'BR' – Mother of plaintiff thereafter eloping with some other person – Plaintiff brought up by his maternal-uncle – 'BR' looked after and maintained by defendants – Marginal witness 'GN' duly supporting due execution and attestation of Will by 'BR' – Defendants performing final rites of deceased – Plaintiff even not attending final rites of 'BR' - Plaintiff failing to show as how will is vitiated by other vices - Held, no ground to interfere with concurrent finding of facts made out – RSA dismissed – Judgments and decrees of lower courts upheld. ( Paras 8-11)

For the Appellant: Mr. Balram Sharma, Advocate.

For the Respondents: Mr. K.S. Kanwar, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal is directed by the aggrieved plaintiff against the concurrent verdicts pronounced by both the learned Courts below, whereunder, both dismissed the plaintiff's suit for declaration, for, setting aside, the, Will executed by deceased Bhup Singh qua his estate, vis-a-vis, the defendants.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the Sh. Lesh Ram plaintiff has filed suit for declaration with a consequential relief of possession averring therein that late Sh. Bhup Singh was grand father of the plaintiff, who was the joint co-owner in possession to the extent of 1/8th share out of the land comprised in Khewat No.25, Khatauni No.38, Khasra Nos. Kitta 6 measuring 30-2-1 bighas, situated at Mohal Tihri No. HB 408, Illaqua Uttarsal, Tehsil Sadar, District Mandi, H.P. It has been averred that the father of the plaintiff one Sobha Ram, was the only son of Sh. Bhup Singh, who had pre-deceased the grand father of the plaintiff. The grandfather of the plaintiff was having his property in Mhal Sairi, Sub-Tehsil Aut and mohal Tihri, Tehsil Sadar, Mandi, H.P. He had already disposed of his property of Mohal Sair during his life time. The father of the plaintiff had died when the plaintiff was about three years old and after the death of the his father Sobha Ram, the mother of the plaintiff eloped with some other person and settled at some other place, while the plaintiff was brought up by his maternal grand father. It is further pleaded that when the plaintiff attained majority, he was granted Nautor land measuring 0-4-0 bighas in Mohal Sairi, Sub-Tehsil Aut, upon which the plaintiff had constructed his residential house and is residing along with his family there. The grand father of the plaintiff was having knowledge about the plaintiff, but he did not call him to his house nor honoured him despite the fact that the plaintiff was the only legal heir of his grand father, entitled to inherit him after his death. It is further pleaded that the grandfather had died at village Tihri on 9.9.2005 and on getting information of his death the plaintiff went to Tihri, performed the funeral ceremonies of his grandfather. It is further pleaded that after performing ceremony of his grand father, the plaintiff took possession of the suit land of his grandfather but the defendants on 15.9.2005 forcibly dispossessed the plaintiff and disclosed that the deceased had bequeathed he suit land in their favour and they are owners of the suit land. It is further pleaded that the defendants claimed that the deceased has executed will in favour of the defendants. It is further pleaded that after going through the said Will No. 202 of 22.8.1994, it is revealed that the Will is the result of mis-representation undue influence, coercion, fraud and deception practised by the propounder upon the testator. It is further pleaded that the Will is a forged, faked and fictitious document, having been procured by the defendants after exercising their undue influence, coercion, mis-representation of facts etc. which is also shrouded with suspicious circumstances and the suit land is the ancestral joint Hindu Family and coparcenary property devolved upon the testator from his ancestors. It is further pleaded that the deceased was not competent to alienate the same being ancestral coparcenary property.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statements, wherein, they have taken preliminary objections qua maintainability and limitation. On merits, it is pleaded that the Bhup Singh was owner in possession to the extent of 1/8th share of the land. It is further pleaded that the Will No.202 of 22.8.1994 is correct and is not the result of mis-representation, undue influence coercion, fraud and deception. It is further pleaded that the deceased has executed Will with his free consent and in good state of health in the presence of the marginal witnesses. It is further pleaded that the defendants are owners in possession of the suit land.

4. The plaintiff filed replication to the written statement of the defendant(s), wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the suit land is joint Hindu Family Ancestral and coparcenary property, as alleged? OPP.
2. Whether the Will dated 22.081994 executed by Bhup Singh, predecessor in interest of the plaintiff in favour of the defendants is valid Will, as alleged? OPD.
3. Whether the Will dated 22.08.1994 is null and void, as alleged? OPD.
4. Whether the plaintiff is entitled for the relief of possession of the suit land, as alleged? OPP.
5. Whether the suit barred by limitation, as alleged? OPD.
6. Whether the suit is not maintainable? OPD.
7. Whether the plaintiff has not approached the court with clean hands, if so its effect? OPD.
8. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court hence dismissed the plaintiff's suit. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by the plaintiff/appellant herein, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed the appeal, and, affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the plaintiff/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein it assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, this Court, on 4.5.2009, admitted the appeal instituted by the plaintiff/appellant, against, the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

a) Whether the impugned Will is the result of mis-representation, unde influence, coercion, fraud, and deception practised by the propounder and the findings to the contrary are illegal, which has result in the miscarriage of justice?

b) Whether the alleged Will is shrouded with suspicious circumstances as it contains wrong recitals?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 and 2:

8. The learned counsel appearing for the plaintiff/appellants has contended with much vigour, (i) that the registered testamentary disposition executed by deceased Bhup Singh, vis-a-vis, his estate qua the defendants, being a sequel of fraud and mis-representation. However, even though the aforesaid contention is embedded, upon, averments in consonance therewith, standing, embodied in the plaint, (ii) yet the plaint omits, to, with specificity, rather adumbrate the manner, of, vices, of, fraud, mis-representation and deception, being practised, upon, the deceased testator one Bhup Singh by the beneficiaries of his testamentary disposition, (iii) nor cogent evidence stand adduced qua, in, the deceased testator, rather executing his registered testamentary disposition, borne in Ex.DW1/A, his executing it, under, a pretext of his rather executing a document other than a Will. Consequently, want of casting of pleadings with specificity, vis-a-vis, the defendants rather practising vices, of, fraud, mis-representation, upon, the deceased testator, and, also want of evidence in display, of execution of Ex.DW1/A, rather being arising, from his being pretextually beguiled, to emboss his thumb impression upon Ex.DW1/A, thereupon, begets conclusion qua the aforesaid vices purportedly permeating, the, executing of Ex.DW1/A, rather remaining not cogently proven.

9. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the aggrieved plaintiff/appellant, has contended with much vigour before this Court, (a) that there occurring gross mis-appraisal, of, the evidence on record, by both the learned Court below, (b) in both making a concurrent conclusion qua Ex.DW1/A, being proven to stand validly and duly executed, by its executant. However, the aforesaid submission is also wanting vigour, (c) given the scribe of Ex.DW1/A, visibly a registered testamentary disposition, one Bhagirath, DW-3, rather making clear articulations, in his deposition, qua at the behest of deceased testator, his scribing all the recitals occurring in Ex.DW1/A, on, 22.08.1994, (d) besides, he has proceeded to testify qua thereafter his reading over and explaining to the deceased testator, all the contents thereof, whereafter, the deceased testator, after comprehending contents thereof, hence proceeding to in his presence, and, in the presence of the marginal witnesses thereto, append his thumb impression thereon, and, whereafter, the marginal witnesses, vis-a-vis, Ex.DW1/A, also in the presence, of, the deceased testator hence, proceeding to emboss their respective signatures thereon. The aforesaid testification of PW-3, the scribe of Ex.DW1/A, remains unrebutted, even during the course of his being subjected, to, a scathing cross-examination, (e) consequently, credence is to be imputed to his testification borne in his examination-in-chief. Corroboration to the testification of DW-3 is meted by DW-4, one Geeta Nand, the apt marginal witness to Ex.DW1/A, who, in concurrence with the deposition of DW-3, has rendered, a, deposition qua the deceased testator, in his presence, and, in the presence, of, the, other marginal witness to Ex.DW1/A, embossing his thumb impression(s) thereon, and, thereafter both DW-4 and other marginal witness thereto, also in the presence , of, the deceased testator, rather appending their respective signatures thereon. He has also testified qua one Amar Singh Verma, who testified as DW-2, also in the respective presences, of, the executant of Ex.DW1/A, and, in the presence of the other marginal witnesses thereto, hence, proceeding to endorse his signature thereon, as an identifier of the deceased testator, (f) and, prominently has testified qua throughout the course of the recitals being scribed by DW-3, upon, Ex.DW1/A, and,upto the complete execution, of Ex.DW1/A, DW-3 remaining present also the executant and both marginal witnesses thereto remaining present. The afore referred testification by DW-4, the marginal witness, remains uneroded, vis-a-vis, its efficacy, even during, the course of his being subjected, to, a scathing cross-examination, hence, his testification, in corroboration, to the testification, of, the scribe of Ex.DW1/A, is to be meted credence.

10. The effect of the concurrent corroborative testification(s) being rendered by the aforesaid witnesses, (i) is qua the propounders of Ex.DW1/A efficaciously proving hence all the enjoined statutory parameters, borne in Section 63 of the Indian Evidence Act, (ii) parameters whereof, are comprised in, theirs being enjoined to prove qua the deceased testator appending his signatures or thumb impression(s), upon, the relevant testamentary disposition, in the presences of the marginal witness, and, each of the marginal witnesses also in the presence, of, the deceased testator thereafter proceeding, to make the relevant embossings, of, their signatures or thumb impressions, upon, the apt testamentary disposition. Corollary thereto, especially when no evidence has been adduced, qua the deceased testator not being possessed, of, a sound disposing state of mind, rather, with all the aforesaid witnesses deposing qua the deceased testator appending his thumb impression upon Ex.DW1/A, after his understanding, all the recitals borne therein, (iii) rather engenders a firm inference qua the execution of Ex.DW1/A being free from any stains of it being not voluntarily executed by deceased testator, nor his in contemporaneity of his executing Ex.DW1/A, his being entailed with any mental disability not it can be concluded qua the execution of Ex.DW1/A, being a sequel of any active fraud or mis-representation or deception being exerted upon the deceased testator, by the beneficiaries thereof or by the marginal witnesses thereto. Preeminently, it hence is to be concluded qua the execution of Ex.DW1/A being not the result of the deceased testator being pretextually beguiled to execute it. Furthermore, the effect of the aforesaid conclusions, is, qua the counsel for the plaintiff, rearing mis-founded pleas qua the execution of Ex.DW1/A being sequel of fraud and mis-representation. Contrarily with DW-2, who is a practising advocate at District Courts Manadi, making a clear voicing in his testification qua after the execution of Ex.DW1/A, the latter exhibit being carried to the office of Sub Registrar concerned, whereat, also the deceased testator, had, proceeded to in the presence of the Sub Registrar, hence append his thumb impressions thereon, underneath the signatured, and, signed endorsement made by the Sub Registrar concerned, with voicings therein, qua all the recitals occurring therein, being readover and explained to the deceased testator, and, making of the apt endorsements rather ensuring from, his ensuring qua the deceased testator, and, whereat DW-2, the identifier of the deceased testator had also proceeded to emboss his signature, rather marshals an inference qua execution of Ex.DW1/A standing proven to be validly and duly executed. The aforesaid inference gathers immense strength from the factum of the relevant endorsement, being not attempted to be rid of its efficacy, by cogent rebuttal evidence, being adduced by the plaintiff.

11. Nonetheless, the counsel for the plaintiff has contended that with the plaintiff casting averment in the plaintiff, averments whereof read as under:-

> "(a). That in the Will, the testator has no son and daguther and his wife had also died. No reference in the wil has been given of his pre-deceased son Sobha Ram and of the plaintiff, who is grand-son of the deceased testator;
> (b) The defendants are described to be nephews of the deceased, but they are not in any manner related with the deceased and are strangers;

> (c) The bequeathed property, i.e. suit land, is the ancestral joint Hindu Family and co-parcenary property devolved upon the testator from his ancestors, who merely the custodian and Karta of the said Joint Hindu Family and ancestral, coparcenary property and was not legally competent to alienate the same in any form and manner in recognition of the right of inheritance of the plaintiff, by virtue of his birth in the said Family;"

thereupon, it was incumbent upon the propounders of Ex.DW1/A, to, render tangible explication qua therewith, whereas, no tangible explanation being meted qua the hereinabove extracted apt suspicious circumstances, hence, surrounding the execution of Ex.DW1/A, thereupon, no credence is to be meted to the testification, rendered by the marginal witnesses or to the testifications of DW-2 and DW-3. The aforesaid submission, does carry some weight, especially when the propounders of Ex.DW1/A, are, not related to the deceased testator, rather appeared to be mis-recited in Ex.DW1/A, to be his nephew, (i) yet he efficacy of the aforesaid submission, is waned, in the face of disinheritance of the plaintiff, a close relative of the deceased testator, hence emanating, as testified, by DW-5 Joginder Pal, the then Up Pradhan, of, Gram Panchayat Tihri, from, the deceased testator being maintained and looked after, by the defendants, whereas, the plaintiff neither maintaining nor tending to the needs of the deceased testator, (ii) besides when he also renders a candid and clear testification qua the plaintiff not attending, the, funeral of the deceased testator, (iii) furthermore, with his also testifying qua even the last rites of the deceased testator being performed by the defendants, and, when, the aforesaid testification is rendered by a person, who holds his abode in close proximity to the abode of the deceased testator, (iv) besides with his aforesaid testification remaining uneroded, even during, the course of his scathing cross-examination, thereupon, the voicings borne in his examination-in-chief, acquire immense vigour, and, all also hence categorically spell out the reasons, prevailing upon the deceased testator, for bequeathing his estate, vis-a-vis, the defendants, and, qua also hence the deceased testator, rather taking to disinherit the plaintiff. Consequently, this Court concludes qua the defendants rather succeeding, in, dispelling all the suspicious circumstances hence surrounding the execution of Ex.DW1/A, in sequel, it stands concluded, that, the defendants hence cogently proving, the, due and valid execution of Ex.DW1/A, by the deceased testator.

12. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as well as by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court, as well as, the learned trial Court, have not, excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the respondents/defendants, and, against the appellant/plaintiff.

13. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in the instant appeal and it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the concurrent judgment(s) and decree(s) rendered by both the learned Courts below are affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

For the petitioner: Mr. Satyen Vaidya,Sr. Advocate with Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate.

For the respondent: Mr. Devashish Bhoruha, Advocate with Mr. Aditya Singhal and Mr. D.S. Verma, Advocates.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, J :

The instant petition, is, directed against, the, award pronounced, by, the learned Arbitrator, whereunder, he allowed the respondents' claim, comprised, in a sum of Rs. 1,00,30,984/-, along with 10% interest accruable thereon, for, a period from three months, after, the last import of equipment in January, 2012, till, the date, the pronouncement, of, the award. The afore sums, stood, awarded towards reimbursement of, apt, custom duty, on the imported equipment/items, made by the respondent herein.

2. The learned counsel for the petitioner, has, contended with much vigor before this Court, that the impugned award, suffers from a grave fallacy, given its standing ingrained, with, a, vice of breaching, the, fundamental policy of Indian law. He submits that the fundamental policy of Indian law, upon, breach whereof, being made by the Arbitrator, hence renders, the award to falter, stands encapsulated in a judgment, rendered in case titled Associate Builders vs. Delhi Development Authority (2015)3 SCC 49, wherein, the Hon'ble Apex Court, has, split the aforesaid head, in, three categories (i) compliance with statute and judicial proceedings, (ii) need for judicial approach, (iii) compliance with natural justice. The relevant paragraph, occurring, at, paragraphs 17, 19, 28 and 29, therein, are, extracted hereinafter:-

> "17. It will be seen that none of the grounds contained in sub-section (2) (a) of Section 34 deal with the merits of the decision rendered by an arbitral award. It is only when we come to the award being in conflict with the public policy of India that the merits of an arbitral award are to be looked into under certain specified circumstances.
> 19. When it come to construing the expression "the public policy of India' contained in Section 34 (2)(b) (ii) of the Arbitration Act, 1996, this Court in ONGC ltd. v. Saw Pipes Ltd. Held : (SCC pp. 727-28 & 744-45, paras 31 & 74)
>
> > "31. Therefore, in our view, the phrase 'public policy of India' used in Section 34 in context is required to be given a wider meaning. It can be stated that the concept of public policy connotes some matter which concerns public good and the public interest. What is for public good or in public interest or what would be injurious or harmful to the public good or public interest has varied from time to time. However, the award which is, on the face of it, patently in violation of statutory provisions cannot be said to be in public interest. Such award/judgment/decision is likely to adversely affect the administration of justice. Hence, in our view in addition to narrower meaning given to the term 'public policy' in Renusagar case it is required to be held that the award could be set aside if it is patently illegal. The result would be- award could be set aside if it is contrary to:
> >
> > (a) fundamental policy of Indian law; or
> >
> > (b) the interest of India; or
> >
> > (c ) justice or morality, or
> >
> > (d) in addition, if it is patently illegal.
> >
> > Illegality must go to the root of the matter and if the illegality is of trivial nature it cannot be held that award is against the public policy. Award could also be set aside if it is so unfair and unreasonable that it shocks the conscience of the court. Such award is opposed to public policy and is required to be adjudged void.
> >
> > In the result, it is held that:-
> >
> > (A) (1) The court can set aside the arbitral award under Section 34 (2) of the Act if the party making the application furnishes proof that:
> >
> > (i) a party was under some incapacity, or
> >
> > (ii) the arbitration agreement is not valid under the law to which the parties have subjected it or, failing any indication thereon, under the law for the time being in force; or

(iii) the party making the application was not given proper notice of the appointment of an arbitrator or of the arbitral proceedings or was otherwise unable to present his case; or

(iv) the arbitral award deals with a dispute not contemplated by or not falling within the terms of the submission to arbitration, or it contains decisions on matters beyond the scope of the submission to arbitration.

(2) The court may set aside the award:

(i) (a) if the composition of the Arbitral Tribunal was not in accordance with the agreement of the parties,

(b) failing such agreement, the composition of the Arbitral Tribunal was not in accordance with Part I of the Act,

(ii) if the arbitral procedure was not in accordance with:

(a) the agreement of the parties, or

(b) failing such agreement, the arbitral procedure was not in accordance with Part I of the Act.

However, exception for setting aside the award on the ground of composition of Arbitral Tribunal or illegality of arbitral procedure is that the agreement should not be in conflict with the provisions of Part I of the Act from which parties cannot derogate.

(c) If the award passed by the Arbitral Tribunal is in contravention of the provisions of the Act or any other substantive law governing the parties or is against the terms of the contract.

(3) The award could be set aside if it is against the public policy of India, that is to say, if it is contrary to:

(a) fundamental policy of Indian law; or

(b) the interest of India; or

(c) justice or morality; or

(d) if it is patently illegal.

(4) It could be challenged:

(a) as provided under Section 13 (5); and

(b) Section 16 (6) of the Act.

(B)(1) The impugned award requires to be set aside mainly on the grounds:

(i) there is specific stipulation in the agreement that the time and date of delivery of the goods was of the essence of the contract:

(ii) in case of failure to deliver the goods within the period fixed for such delivery in the schedule, ONGC was entitled to recover from the contractor liquidated damages as agreed;

(iii) it was also explicitly understood that the agreed liquidated damages were genuine pre-estimate of damages;

(iv) on the request of the respondent to extend the time-limit for supply of goods, ONGC informed specifically that time was extended but stipulated liquidated damages as agreed would be recovered;

(v) liquidated damages for delay in supply of goods were to be recovered by paying authorities from the bills for payment of cost of material supplied by the contractor;

(vi) there is nothing on record to suggest that stipulation for recovering liquidated damages was by way of penalty or that the said sum was in any way unreasonable;

(vii) in certain contracts, it is impossible to assess the damages or prove the same. Such situation is taken care of by Section 73 and 74 of the Contract Act and in the present case by specific terms of the Contract."

28. In a recent judgment, ONGC Ltd. v. Western Geco International Ltd. This Court added three other distinct and fundamental juristic principles which must be understood as a part and parcel of the fundamental policy of Indian law. The court held: (SCC pp. 278-80, paras 35 & 38-40)

"35. What then would constitute the 'fundamental policy of Indian law' is the question. The decision in ONGC does not elaborate that aspect. Even so, the expression must, in our opinion, include all such fundamental principles as providing a basis for administration of justice and enforcement of law in this country. Without meaning to exhaustively enumerate the purport of the expression 'fundamental policy of Indian law', we may refer to three distinct and fundamental juristic principles that must necessarily be understood as a part and parcel of the fundamental policy of Indian law. The first and foremost is the principle that in every determination whether by a court or other authority that affects the rights of a citizen or leads to any civil consequences, the court or authority concerned is bound to adopt what is in legal parlance called a 'judicial approach' in the matter. The duty to adopt a judicial approach arises from the very nature of the power exercised by the court or the authority does not have to be separately or additionally enjoined upon the for a concerned. What must be remembered is that the importance of a judicial approach in judicial and quasi-judicial determination lies in the fact that so long as the court, tribunal or the authority exercising powers that affect the rights or obligations of the parties before them shows fidelity to judicial approach, they cannot act in an arbitrary, capricious or whimsical manner. Judicial approach ensures that the authority acts bona fide and deals with the subject in a fair, reasonable and objective manner and that its decision is not actuated by any extraneous consideration. Judicial approach in that sense acts as a > check against flaws and faults that can render the decision of a court, tribunal or authority vulnerable to challenge.

> 38. Equally important and indeed fundamental to the policy of Indian law is the principle that a court and so also a quasi-judicial authority must, while determining the rights and obligations of parties before it, do so in accordance with the principles of natural justice. Besides the celebrated audi alteram partem rule one of the facets of the principles of natural justice is that the court/ authority deciding the matter must apply its mind to the attendant facts and circumstances while taking a view one way or the other. Non-application of mind is a defect that is fatal to any adjudication. Application of mind is best demonstrated by disclosure of the mind and disclosure of mind is best done by recording reasons in support of the decision which the court or authority is taking. The requirement that an adjudicatory authority must apply its mind is, in that view, so deeply embedded in our jurisprudence that it can be described as a fundamental policy of Indian law.
>
> 39. No less important is the principle now recognized as a salutary juristic fundamental in administrative law that a decision which is perverse or so irrational that no reasonable person would have arrived at the same will not be sustained in a court of law. Perversity or irrationality of decisions is tested on the touchstone of Wednesbury principle of reasonableness. Decisions that fall short of the standards of reasonableness are open to challenge in a court of law often in writ jurisdiction of the superior courts but no less in statutory processes wherever the same are available.
>
> 40. It is neither necessary nor proper for us to attempt an exhaustive enumeration of what would constitute the fundamental policy of Indian law nor is it possible to place the expression in the straitjacket of a definition. What is important in the context of the case at hand is that if on facts proved before them the arbitrators fail to draw an inference which ought to have been drawn or if they have drawn an inference which is on the face of it, untenable resulting in miscarriage of justice, the adjudication even when made by an Arbitral Tribunal that enjoys considerable latitude and play at the joins in making awards will be open to challenge and may be cast away or modified depending upon whether the offending part is or is not severable from the rest."
> 29. It is clear that the juristic principle of a "judicial approach" demands that a decision be fair, reasonable and objective. On the obverse side, anything arbitrary and whimsical would obviously not be a determination which would either be fair, reasonable or objective."

A reading of the afore extracted paragraphs, as, appertaining to, the (i) necessity of compliance, by the learned Arbitrator, with, statute(s), and, judicial precedents, (ii) unfolds qua the learned Arbitrator, being, enjoined to mete adherence, to, verdict(s), pronounced by the Hon'ble Apex Court, and, upon an evident breach thereof, making upsurgings, his award being hence rendered amenable for interference. Furthermore, the head, appertaining to, the, necessity of the arbitrator, maintaining a dedicated judicial approach, hence enjoins him, to, act (a) bereft of caprice, (b) bereft of arbitrariness, rather enjoins him, to, act in a fair, reasonable and objective manner rather for ensuring that his decision is not seen, to, stand actuated by any extraneous consideration, (c) under, the head appertaining to compliance with principle, of, natural justice, the learned Arbitrator, is, enjoined to mete adherence, to, the principles of audi-alteram-partem.

3. Be that as it may, the afore extracted paragraphs, borne, in, the judgment supra, rendered, by the Hon'ble Apex Court, and, cullings therefrom, the, afore trite principles, would not per-se hence coax this Court, to, make an inference (i) qua the award under challenge before this Court, rather warranting interference, (ii) unless the learned counsel for the petitioner further demonstrates, from, the material or the evidence, existing on record, qua, the arbitrator evidently not hence meteing adherence, to, the afore principles.

4. In making an endeavor, to, render, a, determination, whether, the, afore extracted principles, hence stand meted compliance by the learned Arbitrator (i) it is deemed important to allude, to, the material existing on record, (ii) and, to the relevant apt portions, of, the contractual obligations, cast under the relevant contract, (iii) besides to all materials' appertaining qua meteing, of, compliance or non compliance hence therewith, (iv) wherefrom, it would be rather fathomable qua the arguments addressed before this Court, by the learned counsel for the petitioner, being merit worthy or otherwise. The relevant clauses, of, the contract, respectively borne in 14.2, and, in 21.4, are, extracted hereinafter:-

> "14.2 Notwithstanding GCC Sub-Clause 14.1 above, the Employer shall bear and promptly pay all customs and import duties as well as other local taxes like e.g., a value added tax (VAT), imposed by the law of the country where the site is located on the plant specified in Price Schedule No.1 and that are to be incorporated into the facilities.
> 21.4 Customs Clearance
> The Contractor shall, at its own expense, handle all imported materials and contractor's equipment at the point(s) of import and shall handle any formalities for customs clearance, subject to the Employer's obligations under GCC Sub-Clause 14.2, provided that if applicable laws or regulations require any application or act to be made by or in the name of the Employer, the Employer shall take all necessary steps to comply with such laws or regulations. In the event of delays in customs clearance that are not the fault of the contractor, the contractor shall be entitled to an extension in the Time for completion, pursuant to GCC Clause 40."

5. A reading of clause 14.2, occurring, in the relevant contract, (i) enjoins upon the employer to bear all, the, liabilities, arising from levy of custom duty, on, the imported equipment, (ii) also the employer is enjoined to bear all liabilities, arising, from imposition, of, local tax, including value added tax (VAT), upon the relevant materials. Though, a, reading of the afore clause, does unveil, qua, the afore liabilities, being, enjoined to be contractually borne, by the employer, (iii) nonetheless the afore clause, borne in 21.4, is, also to be read in conjunction with clause 14.2, and, on, a, conjoint reading thereof, and, when a reading of the latter clause, vividly displays, qua an apt contractual obligation rather standing cast, upon, the contractor to at its expense, rather handle all the imported equipment/items, yet, the afore initial employers' contractual obligation, is under clause 21.4, hence, contractually made subject thereto.

6. Reiteratedly, a conjoint reading of, the, afore clause 14.2, and, of clause 21.4, (i), and, apparently with the latter clause rather carrying the coinage, "subject to the employer's obligations under GCC sub-clause 14.2," thereupon reiteratedly enjoins, a, conjoint reading of clause 14.2, and, of clause 21.4 (ii) besides with, the, existence, of, a further proviso, rather in clause 21.4, and, it explicitly making it incumbent upon the employer, to, in consonance with the apt laws, and, regulations, hence make any application or to do any act, (iii) hence marshals', an, inference, qua, the liability appertaining, to discharge, of, all custom duties, upon, the, imported equipment, though, standing initially fastened, upon, the employer, yet, the afore initial fastening, of, all the afore liabilities, upon, the employer, rather not disobliging, the contractor, to, at its own expenses, (iv) hence handle all relevant imported material, and, imported equipment, rather it being, contractually obliged, to handle all formalities, appertaining to custom clearance, (v) discharge, of, contractual obligation whereof, being subject to the employers' afore initially fastened, contractual obligation, given the existence, of, a proviso in clause 21.4, (vi) wherewithin rather a contractual obligation, stands cast, upon, the employer to within the ambit, of apt laws and regulations, hence make an application or to do any act, (vii) whereupon the employer stands obligated, to, vis-a-vis, all expenses incurred by the respondent, appertaining to custom clearance rather, in consonance therewith hence mete the apt compliance(s). It appears that the salutary and holistic purpose behind, the, afore proviso, is, to ensure that in case, the employer is entitled to apt exemption(s), (vi) thereupon it, with utmost discharge and expedition, hence obtaining the apposite exemption(s), from, the department concerned, and, to thereafter incontemporanity with the import, of, items and equipment(s), rather purvey it to the contractor, for hence its being facilitated, to handle all formalities, as, appertaining to custom(s) clearance, without, it, bearing the expenses, appertaining therewith.

7. Even though, the afore contractual obligation fastened upon the contractor, respondent herein, vis-a-vis, its bearing all expenses qua handling of, the, relevant imported equipments, and, also its being obliged, to, handle all formalities appertaining, to, customs clearance, though, stood evidently meted compliance, by the respondent, (i) thereupon meteings, of, compliance by the contractor, vis-a-vis, the afore contractual obligation(s), when also for all reasons' afore stated, rather encumbered the employer, whereupon whom, the initial contractual obligation qua therewith, hence stood fastened, to, in consonance with, clause 21.4, (ii) whereunder the latter was obliged, to, in consonance with, laws and regulations, hence make any application or to do any act for the relevant purpose, to, hence mete apt compliance therewith, (iii) consequently, the respondent was entitled to insist, upon, compliance being made by the petitioner, with, the proviso borne in clause 21.4. The compliance, as enjoined to be made, by the petitioner, with the afore proviso, occurring in 21.4, of, the apt contract, appertains to its entitlement, vis-a-vis, exemption(s) on payment of custom duty(s), upon imported material, for ensuring completion of the project, by the respondent herein. There is no wrangle inter-se the contesting litigants, qua, the apt exemption certificate, standing not purveyed to the respondent herein, importantly incontemporanity, to, the occurrence, of, import, of, material/equipment(s), by the respondent herein, (i) whereupon it may hence have saved all expenses qua bearing, of, custom duties, at the point of import, (ii) thereupon, since as aforestated, all the afore relevant expenses, appertaining to levy of custom duty, were evidently borne by the respondent herein, (iii) thereupon the petitioner herein, to make a successful espousal, before this Court qua the afore liabilities being not amenable, for being fastened upon it, (iv) was rather enjoined, it to adduce material and evidence hence personificatory, qua its purveying, the, afore exemption certificate, at the apposite stage, to, the respondent herein.

8. Contrarily, certain e-mails existing at page 101, and, at page 102, reveal (i) that the respondent, had made the requisite requisitions, upon, the petitioner herein, and, communication whereof evidently, stands, received by the petitioner herein, (ii) besides the factum qua the apt exemption certificate, standing not purveyed by the petitioner herein, vis-a-vis the custom departments, at the relevant time, is, also borne from a communication, as, occurring at page 250, of the paper book, (iii) whereunder the request addressed by the respondent herein, to, the custom department, for, hence purveying the apt refund of custom duty, vis-a-vis, it, rather sequelled, a, communication, as, occurring at page 266, of the record, from the customs' department, qua, the exemption certificate being enjoined to be submitted incontemporanity, of, import, of, equipment/ items, vis-a-vis, the custom department, whereupon, its, apt entitlement(s) rather would secure leverage, (iv) conspicuously, hereat, with, the apt exemption standing not purveyed incontemporanity, vis-a-vis, the import, of, materials/ equipments to the respondent herein, (v) thereupon, the claim qua refunding of expenses, as, incurred by the respondent, towards custom duty, at the point of import, hence thereunder stood rather declined, by the custom department.

9. The afore discussion(s) bring to the fore, the, trite factum, (i) qua given the apt exemption certificate, standing not evidently purveyed, to the respondent herein, by the petitioner herein, conspicuously incontemporanity, with, the import of goods, and, import of equipment and materials, as, made by the respondent herein, for hence executing, the project, (ii) and, when evidently the respondent herein in consonance with the contractual obligations, was enjoined to bear all expenses, in respect thereof, (iii) and, when as aforestated, in consonance with the afore apt recitals, occurring in the contract, the employer was enjoined to be fastened with the liability, to reimburse the apt expenses, vis-a-vis, the respondent herein, (i) given the initial liability appertaining therewith standing contractually fastened upon the employer, (ii) thereupon the awarding of afore sums of rupees, vis-à-vis, the respondent herein, by the learned arbitrator, does not suffer from any illegality, nor it can be said that the relevant contractual proviso hence stands mis-appreciated (iii) besides also cannot be said, that, the relevant material has been rather mis-appreciated or discarded, nor it can be said, that, all the afore alluded principles of law, occurring in the afore verdict(s), rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court, stand meted satiation nor hence any interference is warranted in the impugned award. Contrarily, when in a case reported in Sutlej Construction Ltd. vs. Union Territory of Chandigarh (2018) 1 SCC 718, and, in a case reported in Navodaya Mass Entertainment vs. J.M. Combines (2015) 5 SCC 698, a, view stands encapsulated qua when the afore view taken by the learned Arbitrator, is, both proper and reasonable, thereupon the view taken by the learned Arbitrator, hence enjoining meteing, of, deference thereto, (iv) whereupon also it is rather not deemed fit, for, this Court, to substitute its view, vis-a-vis, the afore correct view taken by the learned Arbitrator, and, further corollary thereof, is qua, it being not deemed fit to substitute the correct view taken by the learned Arbitrator, with the view if any, of this Court.

10. In view of the above discussion, I find no merit in this petition, which is accordingly dismissed and the award of the learned Arbitrator, is maintained and affirmed. Pending application if any also stand disposed of.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge (oral)

The plaintiffs' suit, for, rendition of a decree, for, permanent prohibitory injunction vis-a-vis the suit land, and, vis-à-vis the defendant, was, concurrently decreed, by both the learned Courts below, whereas, the defendants' counter claim, for rendition, of a decree of mandatory injunction, for, dismantling the dhara raised thereon, was also concurrently dismissed, by both the Courts below.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that vide agreement to sell of 21.12.1998 the plaintiff has agreed to purchase the land measuring 4 biswas out of the total land measuring 1956.94 sq. mtr. comprised in Khasra No. 160 Mauza Kasumpti Junga, Shimla. The plaintiff has paid Rs. 40,000/- to the predecessor-in-interest of the defendant. The predecessor-in-interest of the defendant at the time of entering into agreement has given the possession of the land measuring 4 biswas to the plaintiff on the spot as would be depicted by the agreement and in lieu of this, the predecessor-in-interest of defendant fenced his plot land measuring 4 biswas on the spot. The defendants has agreed to get the sale deed registered in the name of the plaintiff as and when he will become the owner of the land as comprised in Khasra No. 160. The predecessor-in-interest of the defendant died on 21.7.2002 and thereafter right regarding the mutation regarding non-occupancy tenant is believed to be transferred in favour of the defendant and who in turn tried to grab the land which the plaintiff had agreed to purchase by removing the barbed wire through which 4 biswas of land agreed to be purchased has been fenced. Defendant tried to block the passage which goes to the plot of the plaintiff.

3. The suit is contested by the defendant by filing written statement taking preliminary objection that the suit is not maintainable and the plaintiff is estopped from filing the present suit on account of his own acts, deeds, that the suit is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties, that no cause of action ever accrued in favour of the plaintiff and that there is no privity of contract between the plaintiff and the defendant to file the present suit. The case of the defendant is that the agreement of 21.12.1998 executed in between the predecessor in interest of the defendant late Sukh Ram and the plaintiff is conditional agreement and the same is void ab-initio and is not binding against the rights of the defendant. It is contended that the plaintiff never remained in possession of the property agreed to be sold by the predecessor-in-interest vide agreement dated 21.12.1998. The defendant is in exclusive and physical possession of the suit land. It is admitted that after the death of late Sh. Sukh Ram, land in question was recorded in the name of defendant vide mutation No. 206. That the plaintiff never remained in possession of the land but after trespassing over the property of the defendant succeeded in raising a tin sheet dhara approximately 10'x12' feet on land comprised in Khasra No. 160 and for that the defendant is hereby filing counter claim for the demolition of the same.

4. The defendant has also filed the counter claim. The defendant alleged that the predecessor-in-interest of the defendant late Sh. Sukh Ram recorded in possession of the land comprised in Khasra No. 160, 161 and 162, Khata khatauni No. 159 min/202, measuring 2004-86 meters, situated at Mauja Kasumpti Junga, Tehsil and District Shimla, H.P The State of H.P, is recorded as owner of this land. The predecessor-in-interest of the defendant late Sh. Sukh Ram died on 24.6.2002 and mutation No. 206 of inheritance was entered in his favour. The plaintiff on the basis of agreement dated 21.12.1998 alleged to have been executed by late Sukh Ram is trying to interfere in the possession of the land of the defendant comprised in Khara No. 160, 161 and 162. The plaintiff recently on 5.10.2000 raised Tin sheet Dhara, measuring 10x12 feet approximately on a portion of the land comprised in Khasra No. 160, after trespassing the land possessed by the defendant. The plaintiff has no right, title or interest in the suit property and the agreement of 21.12.1998 is null and void and is not binding against the rights of the defendants.

5. The plaintiff has filed the reply to the counter claim taking the preliminary objections that the counter claim is not competent neither maintainable, that the counter claim as filed by the defendant is not only based on false grounds and if the record of the case filed by the predecessor-in-interest of defendant through defendant is seen then it will become manifest clear on record of the case that since from the time of agreement to sell the plaintiff are in exclusive possession of the suit property. On merits the plaintiff also denied the averments contained in the counter claim. The case of the plaintiff is that vide agreement of 21.12.1998, executed between the plaintiff and the defendant, the plaintiff is in exclusive possession of the land and the possession of the same land was delivered to the plaintiff by the predecessor-in-interest of the defendant on the date of agreement, as such the question of interference in possession of the defendant over the suit land does not arise. The defendant is not in the possession of the suit land as such the plaintiff cannot be restrained by way of permanent prohibitory injunction. The defendant filed the replication thereto and re-affirmed the allegations contained in the counter claim and denied the averments contained in the written statement.

6. On the pleadings of the parties, the following issues were framed on 2.4.2004:

1. Whether the plaintiff is entitled to the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction as prayed ? OPP
2. Whether the suit is not maintainable in the present form? OPD
3. Whether the plaintiff is estopped from filing the present suit due to his own acts, deeds, conduct, admissions, and omissions? OPD
4. Whether the suit is bad for non-joinder of necessary parties? OPD
5. Whether the plaintiff has no cause of action to file the present suit? OPD
6. Whether there is no privity of contract between the plaintiff and defendant? OPD
7. Whether the defendant is entitled for the relief of permanent prohibitory injunction? OPD
8. Whether the defendant is entitled for the relief of mandatory injunction? OPD
9. Relief.

7. The plaintiff's suit, for, rendition, of, a decree of permanent prohibitory injunction vis-à-vis the suit land, and vis-a-vis the defendant, was, concurrently decreed, by both the learned Courts below, whereas, the defendants' counter claim, for rendition, of a decree of mandatory injunction, for dismantling the dhara, raised thereon, was also, concurrently dismissed, by both the learned Courts below. The aggrieved defendant instituted, an appeal, before the learned first appellate Court, and, the later proceeded, to affirm the judgment and decree, pronounced by the learned trial Court. Consequently, the defendant is aggrieved therefrom.

8. Now the defendant/appellant herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein he assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, this Court, on 31.5.2007, admitted the appeal, instituted by the defendant/appellant against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

1. Whether a permanent prohibitory injunction granted to plaintiff where the subject matter of the suit is immovable property and without mentioning a specific description of the property sufficient to identify it as provided under Order 7 Rule 3 CPC in the plaint or even filing any revenue record identifying the land is questioned.
2. Whether an agreement to sell can be said to be proved in accordance with law without examining the deed writer or at least one witness of the agreement?
3. Whether the learned First Appellate Court and learned Lower Court has jurisdiction or is empowered to hold a plaintiff party as a sub tenant under H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, 1972 without any pleadings of the plaintiff for such relief or any notification form State of Himachal Pradesh regarding such conferment of sub-tenancy?

Substantial questions of law No. 1 to 3.

9. The apt agreement borne in Ext. P-1, was, executed interse the plaintiff, and, the predecessor-in-interest, of, the defendant. The valid and due execution, of, Ext. P-1, is proven by PW-2, who, in his testification, has unequivocally, deposed of, its standing executed interse the plaintiff, and, the predecessor-in-interest, of, the defendant. He has also proven the occurrence, of, his signatures, in Circle "B", drawn in Ext. P-1. However, the afore rendered testification of PW-2, in respect, of, valid execution of Ext. P-1 by the predecessor-in-interest of the defendant, though was concerted, to be ripped, vis-à-vis its efficacy, by the learned counsel for the defendant, while subjecting PW-2, to an ordeal of an exacting cross examination, yet, nothing emanated from him, for hence belying, the, testification rendered by PW-2, in his examination-in-chief, wherein he has lent rather efficacious proof vis-à-vis the valid, and, due execution, of, Ext. P-1. The effect, of, hence cogent proof being adduced vis-à-vis, the apt valid execution thereof, by the predecessor-in-interest of the defendant, also garners fortified force, from, an admission hence occurring in the cross-examination of the defendant, qua Ext. P1 hence standing executed interse the plaintiff, and, the predecessor-in-interest, of, the defendant. Consequently, it is to be firmly held, qua, cogent proof standing adduced vis-à-vis, the, valid execution, of Ext. P-1, interse the plaintiff, and, the predecessor-in-interest of the defendant.

10. Be that as it may, a perusal of Ext. P-1, underscores (i) of the predecessor-in-interest, of, the defendant hence contracting to sell the suit land, vis-a-vis the plaintiff (ii) , and also a clear depiction(s) occurs therein, of, his receiving, a, sale consideration, comprised in a sum of Rs. 40,000/-, from the plaintiff, and, qua in contemporanity vis-à-vis its execution, the, possession of the suit land being delivered to the plaintiff. The factum, of handing over possession, of, the suit property, at, the time contemporaneous, to the execution of the Ext. P-1, also gathers strength, from, the unrebutted deposition, rendered by DW-1, Junior Engineer, working with the Municipal Corporation, Shimla, wherein he has echoed, of, proceeding(s) for raising, of, unauthorized construction, upon the suit land by the plaintiff, hence being subjudice before the Municipal Corporation, Shimla. However, the aforesaid unrebutted testification, rendered by DW-1, has also to be construed, with, the trite factum, of, the Jamabandi, apposite to the suit land, depicting, in its column of ownership, qua the State of Himachal Pradesh, being owner thereof, (ii) whereas, in the column of possession, the predecessor-in-interest, of the defendant, is, recorded to be holding possession thereof, significantly as "Gair Marusi". As aforestated, nowat, with Ext. P-1 hence being concluded to be proven to be validly executed, and, with the imperative condition, occurring therein, of, the apt readiness and willingness of parties thereto, to, execute, a, registered deed of conveyance, at a stage, when title as owner vis-à-vis the suit property, is bestowed upon one Sukh Ram (iv) and, with, the aforesaid preemptory condition(s), for, hence facilitating the execution, of, a registered deed of conveyance, interse the plaintiff, and, the predecessor of the defendant, rather evidently remaining unsatiated, (v) thereupon for want of satiation, of, the apposite condition precedent, hence rendered, unamenable, for execution, the registered deed of conveyance, vis-à-vis the suit property. The effect of the suit land, hence being evidently owned, by the State of Himachal Pradesh, and, the predecessor-in-interest, of, the defendant, one Sukh Ram, who, executed Ext. P-1 vis-à-vis the suit property, with, the plaintiff, standing recorded in the apt column of possession, to be a "gair Marusi", under the State of H.P., hence directly impinges upon, the validity of espousal(s) made by the plaintiff (i) for rendition of, a, decree of permanent prohibitory injunction, AND vis-a-vis the validity, of attraction(s) hereat, of, the provisions borne, in, Section 53-A, of, the Transfer of Property Act, provisions whereof stands extracted hereinafter:

> "53A Part performance: Where any person contracts to transfer for consideration any immoveable property by writing signed by him or on his behalf from which the terms necessary to constitute the transfer can be ascertained with reasonable certainty, > and the transferee has, in part performance of the contract, taken possession of the property or any part thereof, or the transferee, being already in possession, continues in possession in part performance of the contract and has done some act in furtherance of the contract, > and the transferee has performed or is willing to perform his part of the contract,
>
>
>
> then, notwithstanding that where there is an instrument of transfer, that the transfer has not been completed in the manner prescribed therefore by the law for the time being in force, the transferor or any person claiming under him shall be debarred from enforcing against the transferee and persons claiming under him any right in respect of the property of which the transferee has taken or continued in possession, other than a right expressly provided by the terms of the contract;
> Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the rights of a transferee for consideration who has no notice of the contract or of the part performance thereof."

(iii) And espousal(s) qua given, the statutory coinage, occurring, in Section 2 (17) of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, also including therewithin, a sub-tenant, thereupon dehors non-attraction, hereat of, the mandate of Section 53-A, of, the Transfer of Property Act, rather the plaintiff being construable to be a sub-tenant, under, the recorded "gair marausi" especially vis-a-vis the suit land.

11. Initially, this Court is enjoined, to, fathom, the validity of the espousal, of, the counsel for the defendant, qua attraction hereat, vis-à-vis, the, mandate borne, in Section 53-A of the Transfer of Property Act, (i) wherein stands contemplated the doctrine of part performance, (ii) doctrine whereof is espoused to be attractable hereat, and hence arises, from, the entire sale consideration, contemplated in Ext. P-1, purportedly being, at the time of its execution rather being liquidated, by the plaintiff, vis-a-vis the predecessor-in-interest, of, the defendant, and also, in contemporanity thereof evident possession, of, the suit property, being delivered vis-à-vis the plaintiff, hence reiteratedly the completest satiation vis-à-vis its mandate, being evidently begotten. However, for the reasons to be assigned hereinafter, the mandate of the aforesaid provisions, do not beget, their apt attraction hereat a) given the gravamen or the trite groovings, of, the statutory contemplation(s), borne in Section 53-A, of the Transfer of Property Act, being, of the apt contract of sale, evidently executed interse, the executants thereof, being not beyond the ambit of law rather it being within the ambit of law. However, when the contract of sale, occuring in Ext. P-1 rather embodies, a, condition precedent, and, only upon satiation thereof, the apt registered deed of conveyance would come into being or (iii) in other words, unless the condition precedent achieved, the fullest satisfaction, thereupon alone the contract, of sale was amenable, for its completest performance. Furthermore, (b) with evidently herebefore, the apt condition precedent remaining unsatiated, besides when, at the time contemporaneous, to, the execution of Ext. P-1, a specific mandate is, borne, in the proviso vis-à-vis Section 104, of, the Himachal Pradesh, Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, proviso whereof stands extracted hereinafter:

> "Provided that nothing contained in this section shall apply to such land which is either owned by or is vested in Government under any law, whether before or after the commencement of this Act, and is leased out to any person."

And imminently when proviso aforesaid was, in contemporanity vis-à-vis its execution, hence in force thereat, and, with a statutory bar, standing encapsulated therein, against, conferment of proprietary rights vis-à-vis non-occupancy tenants', under the State of H.P., (i) and, with the aforesaid apposite condition precedent rather perse, openly and candidly, being militative vis-à-vis the proviso, thereupon an inference, is engendered, of, the apt contract of sale borne in Ext. P-1, being contrary, to, the mandate of, the proviso apt vis-à-vis Section 104 of the Act, (ii) besides, as a natural corollary hence with no alienable title, rather at the apposite stage, hence vesting in the predecessor-in-interest of the defendant, contrarily his being rather visibly incapacitated, to, execute Ext. P-1 with the plaintiff, (i) nor also hence, with, the fulcrum of Section 53-A, of, the Transfer of Property Act, being rested, upon, an agreement to sell, rather being within the ambit of law, and, not beyond it, (i) whereas apparently, with Ext. P-1 being beyond the ambit of law, thereupon the ingredients, of, the provisions, borne in Section 53-A of the Transfer of Property Act, are not attractable hereat AND hence any apt defrayment, of, sale consideration(s) in, contemporanity, to, the execution of the Ext. P-1, is, wholly insignificant, besides, any delivery of possession, in contemporanity thereof, is also legally unworthwhile.

12. The learned counsel for the plaintiff, has argued, that the provisions of Section 43 of the Transfer of Property Act, are, however attracted vis-à-vis the facts at hand. The aforesaid contention is also unworthy, of merit, for the reason a) the trite canon hence embodied therein rather remaining evidently unsatiated, vis-a-vis execution of Ext. P-1, significantly, qua its execution being spurred by vices of fraudulence or erroneous representation , (i) especially nor also the predecessor-in-interest, of the defendant, though, at the apposite stage being visibly dis-empowered to execute it, with, the plaintiff, his rather hence not making, any, erroneous representation vis-à-vis his apposite empowerment, given the occurrence therein, of, the apt untenable condition precedent, (ii) besides, with, the aforesaid imperative ingredients obviously remaining unpleaded. nor evidence in satiation thereof, being adduced, (iii) whereas rearing, of, pleadings, in, consonance therewith, besides adduction of evidence in satiation thereof, rather was imperative, for hence attracting its clout, and, mandate. Further more, also when clear recital(s), are, borne therein qua upon apt acquisition of proprietary rights , by the predecessor-in-interest, of, the defendant, vis-à-vis the suit property, his, contractually obliging himself, to, execute, the, registered deed of conveyance, with, the plaintiff also does dis-empower, the plaintiff to contend, of Ext. P-1, being infected with vices of fraudulence or erroneous representation(s) , (iv) also he cannot contend, of, statutory benefits thereof, being accruable vis-à-vis him, nor is he hence amenable, for, being construed to be vis-à-vis the recorded owners of the suit land, as a "gair marusi" thereunder nor also it can be said, of, the trite ingredient existing therein, of his, being a transferee in good faith, for consideration, hence, begetting satiation, importantly, with the apt aforesaid untenable condition precedent, rather being visibly borne therein.

13. The learned counsel for the plaintiff, has also concerted, to validate the impugned judgment, on score of the definition of "tenant" occurring in Section 2 (17) of, the HP Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, also including, a, sub tenant. He contends, that, the plaintiff being hence construable to be a sub-tenant vis-à-vis the suit land. The aforesaid submission, is wholly mis maneuvered, as neither pleadings apposite thereto, are, borne in plaint nor evidence in satiation thereto exist, nor any apt therewith application stood instituted, by the plaintiff before the Revenue Officer concerned, nor in sequel thereto, any apposite order for, the plaintiff being incorporated, as a sub-tenant, under the predecessor in interest, of the defendant being, stood hence rendered.

14. Consequently, the sumum bonum, of, the aforesaid discussion, is, that with the state of Himachal Pradesh, being owner of the suit property, and, with predecessor-in-interest of the defendant, being recorded a "Gair Marusi" thereon, thereupon till the unauthorized dhara raised thereon, is dismantled under a valid order, made, by the statutory authority concerned, thereupto plaintiff, shall retain the possession, of the suit property. For meteing the ends of justice, the plaintiff, is directed to release a sum of Rs. 40,000/- vis-à-vis the defendant, and also dehors the above, it is also open, for the parties to make apt motions before, the revenue Officers concerned, vis-à-vis the plaintiff, being incorporated, in the relevant record(s), as a sub-tenant, vis-à-vis the suit land.

15. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court, being not based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court, have excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the appellant/defendant, and, against the respondent/plaintiff.

16. In view of the above discussion, the present Regular Second Appeal is allowed. In sequel, the judgments and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are set aside, and, the suit of the plaintiff is dismissed. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

For Respondent: Mr. Bhupender Gupta, Senior Advocate with Ms. Rinki Kashmiri, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

---

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant appeal is directed, against, the concurrently recorded verdicts by both the learned Courts below, whereby, the plaintiff's suit for rendition, of, a decree for permanent prohibitory injunction qua the suit khasra number(s), was, hence decreed.

2. Briefly stated the facts of the case are that the suit land is recorded to be jointly owned and possessed by one Shri Ranjan Sharma, Smt. Asha Devi and others and the plaintiff has purchased the share of Smt. Asha Devi in the suit land, which is joint property of its owners and after purchasing the share of Asha Devi, the plaintiff moved an application for partition of the joint land in the Court of Assistant Collector 1st Grade, Solan, which was allowed and mutation No. 1102 was attested in pursuance thereof. However, such partition proceedings were challenged in an appeal before the Court of Sub Divisional Collector and in appeal the partition proceedings have been set aside and case of partition has been remanded back to the court of A.C. 1st Grade, Solan. Defendants No.1 to 4, have purchased ¼ share in the suit land vide sale deeds No.268 and 271 of 23.05.1995, though, the defendants No.1 to 4, are non agriculturists. The suit land is recorded to be jointly owned and possessed except 195 Sq. meters which has been separately shown only on account of partition which partition has already been set aside and as such revenue entries qua khasra No.2654/263, 2655/263 and 2553/263, measuring 195 sq. meters are wrong, illegal and suit land is still joint. The defendants No.1 to 4 have filed a civil suit against the plaintiff seeking injunction so as to restrain the plaintiff from raising construction on the land comprising Khasra No.2553/263, measuring 48 sq. meters on the plea that there was some family settlement, whereas, no such family settlement has taken place between the parties and the said family settlement is result of concoction and fabrication and even such family settlement has not been acted upon. Defendants No.1 to 4 have no right, title or interest to change nature, raise construction or cut trees from the suit land and even regarding the sale deeds on the basis of which the share in the suit land was purchased by defendants No.1 to 4, the proceedings under Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act were initiated by the State of H.P., in the court of District Collector, Solan, as the defendants No.1 to 4 are non agriculturists and under the provisions of the aforesaid Act they could not have purchased the share in the suit land and the share purchased by defendants No.1 to 4 have been confiscated in favour of the State of H.P. by the District Collector, Solan, but in appeals the cases have been remanded back. The defendants are now threatening to raise construction the suit land forcibly despite protest of the plaintiff.

3. The defendants contested the suit and filed written statement, wherein, they have pleaded that the suit is liable to be stayed under section 10 of the CPC, as the matter in issue is also directly and substantially in issue in a previously instituted suit pending in the court of learned Sub Judge 1st Class, Solan, which suit is for declaration and permanent injunction for declaring the sale deed vide which the plaintiff has purchased the share in the suit land from Smt. Asha Devi pertaining to land comprising khasra No. 263/1 to be illegal, void as the suit land is owned and possessed by defendants No.1 to 4 on the basis of a registered document of 4.8.1936 which has been acted upon throughout by the parties and their predecessors and said Smt. Asha Devi was having no share in the land comprising in khasra No.263/1. It has been averred that the suit land has been completely partitioned between the predecessors of the parties on the basis of document dated 4.8.1936 accompanied by tatima duly signed by the predecessors of the parties. It has been stated that the plaintiff has purchased firstly 412 sq. meters of land, comprising Khasra No. 244, 245, 246 and 265 which shown in the possession of Smt. Asha Devi but lateron he got a fraudulent sale deed registered qua Khasra No.263 which had been challenged in the previous suit as Smt. Asha Devi was having no title in the land comprising Khasra No.263. It is also averred that the partition which was got fraudulently by the plaintiff by filing proceedings against the dead person has been set aside and the same is pending in the court of A.C. 1st Grade, Solan. It has been stated that the defendants are exclusive owners in possession of the land purchased by them through the sale deeds Nos. 268 to 271 dated 23.5.1995 and it is denied that the defendants are non agriculturists. It is also denied that the suit land is joint. It is admitted that a civil suit has been filed by the defendants No.1 to 4, against the plaintiff which is pending before the learned Sub Judge 1st Class, Solan. It is denied that the deed of partition is manipulated and fabricated document and that question of violation of H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act has no bearing on the present suit which is under consideration before the Collector Solan. It is denied that the defendants are causing any damage to the suit land and threatening to raise construction but stated that during July, 2000 on account of rains the retaining wall of Red Cross road collapsed causing the partial collapse of the house of the defendants regarding which letter was written to the Municipal Committee, Solan but no action was taken by M.C. Solan and thus the defendants had to repair the collapsed retaining wall as it was causing extensive damage to the property of the defendants.

4. The plaintiff filed replication to the written statement of the defendant(s), wherein, he denied the contents of the written statement and re-affirmed and re-asserted the averments, made in the plaint.

5. On the pleadings of the parties, the learned trial Court struck the following issues inter-se the parties at contest:-

1. Whether the defendants No. 1 to 4 have no right, title or interest to change the nature and to raise the construction over the suit land, as alleged?OPP.

2. Whether the suit is to be stayed under Section 10 CPC, as alleged? OPD.

3. Whether the defendants are owners in exclusive possession of the land purchased by them through sale deeds No.268, 269, 271, 271 of 23.5.1995?OPD

4. Whether the parties and their predecessors-in-interest had completely partitioned their properties through registered document dated 4.8.1936 accompanied by tatima, as alleged? OPD.

5. Relief.

6. On an appraisal of evidence, adduced before the learned trial Court, the learned trial Court decreed the suit of the plaintiff/respondent herein. In an appeal, preferred therefrom, by, the defendants/appellants herein, before the learned First Appellate Court, the latter Court dismissed, the, appeal, and, affirmed the findings recorded by the learned trial Court.

7. Now the defendants/appellants herein, has instituted the instant Regular Second Appeal, before, this Court, wherein he assails the findings, recorded in its impugned judgment and decree, by the learned first Appellate Court. When the appeal came up for admission, this Court, on 13.08.2007, admitted the appeal instituted by the defendants/appellants against the judgment and decree, rendered by the learned first Appellate Court, on the hereinafter extracted substantial questions of law:-

a) Whether the findings of the court below on issue NO.2 that the suit was not liable to be stayed in view of the fact that RSA No.385 of 2006, Vinay Kumar vs. Yoginder Pal, arising out of civil suit No.24/1 of 1994 of the court of Civil Judge Senior Divisions being pending in the High Court and the trial and decision of the courts below has vitiated?

b) Whether in view of the fact that RSA No. 385 of 2006 being pending in the High Court, the findings that it was not open to the trial court and the District Judge to go beyond the adjudication made in civil suit No.241/1 of 1994 are sustainable when in view of the provisions of Section 10 of the CPC, the suit was liable to be stayed?

c) Whether in view of the fact that the proceedings for resumption under Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act having not been concluded and the defendant being the lawful owner in possession of the property could be precluded from repairing the same?

d) Whether the decree for mandatory injunction could be granted in favour of the plaintiff from restraining the appellants from repairing the property?

Substantial questions of Law No.1 to 4:

8. Civil suit No.241 of 1994, inter se, all herebefore also hence analogous parties, was, apparently instituted prior to the institution of the extant suit, before the learned trial Court. Except the factum of the earlier suit, espousing relief, for rendition of a declaratory decree qua the suit property embodied therein, it, carries thereon suit land, hence, holding analogity vis-a-vis the extantly litigated suit property, and, also excepting the factum, qua, hereat the solitary relief of injunction being asked, for, the lis engaging the parties at contest in the earlier civil suit, and, the extant suit, is, similar.

9. Be that as it may, the aforesaid apt salient analogity, inter se, the previous suit, and, vis-a-vis, the extant suit, (a) except qua the earlier suit, being for rendition, of, a declaratory decree, and, the extant suit being cast, for rendition of a decree for injunction, (b) thereupon, the spirit, vis-a-vis, provisions, borne, in Section 10 of the CPC, is enjoined to be fulfilled, (c) wherewithin a specific interdictory mandate, is encapsulated, against any court proceeding to try a suit, when evidently prior thereto, an apt suit carries, therewithin, an, alike therewith subject matter, or the matter in issue therein, is directly and substantially, in issue, in the subsequently instituted suit, (d) AND the explicit interdictory mandate, borne therein, also essentially requires satiation being begotten, qua (e) of the earlier suit, carrying therewithin a subject matter, directly and substantially, in issue, in the latter suit, as well; (f) causes of action evidently erupting, in contemporaneity with the institution, of, the earlier suit, remaining palpably unembodied therein, whereupon, the further mandate of Order 2, Rule 2 of the CPC, against, the institution of, a, subsequent suit, vis-a-vis, causes of action, hence, erupting, in contemporaneity, vis-a-vis, the institution, of, the earlier suit, would, hence begets its apt attraction. The provisions of Section 10 CPC, and, of, Order 2, Rule 2 of the CPC read as under:-

> "10. Stay of suit: No Court shall proceed with the trial of any suit in which the matter in issue is also directly and substantially in issue in a previously instituted suit between the same parties, or between parties under whom they or any of them claim litigating under the same title where such suit is pending in the same or any other Court in India having jurisdiction to grant the relief claimed, or in any Court beyond the limits of India established or continued by the Central Government and having like jurisdiction, or before the Supreme Court."
> Provisions of Order 2, Rule 2 CPC reads a under:-
>
> "2. Suit to include the whole claim
>
> (1) Every suit shall include the whole of the claim which the plaintiff is entitled to make in respect of the cause of action; but a plaintiff may relinquish any portion of his claim in order to bring the suit within the jurisdiction of any Court.
>
> (2) Relinquishment of part of claim- Where a plaintiff omits to sue in respect of, or internationally relinquishes, any portion of his claim, he shall not afterwards sue in respect of the portion so omitted or relinquished.
> (3) Omission to sue for one of several reliefs- A person entitled to more than one relief in respect of the same cause of action may sue for all or any of such reliefs; but if he omits, except with the leave of the Court, to sue for all such reliefs, he shall not afterwards sue for any relief so omitted."

Nowat, with the apt statutory mandate(s), hence cast in the provisions, borne in Section 10 of the CPC, and, in Order 2, Rule 2 of the CPC, (i) thereupon, it has to be disinterred, from, readings of the earlier instituted plaint, and, of the extant suit, qua, whether both carry similar causes of action, or, matter(s) in issue, in both hold graphic commonality, or, the matters directly and substantial, in issue, in both suits, also hold commonality, (ii) upon making the apposite guaging, from, the apt pleadings, it is evident that the earlier suit bearing Civil Suit No. 241/1 of 1994, was, cast for rendition of a declaratory decree, (iii) whereas, the extant suit, is cast for rendition of decree for permanent prohibitory injunction, (iv) and, when the relief, for permanent prohibitory injunction is espousable, as, and when the purported jeopardising invasions or infringements, vis-a-vis, the rights of the aggrieved plaintiffs, upon, suit khasra No.263, hence, commence, by evident overt acts, standing committed thereon, by the defendants, (v) thereupon, when the subsequent suit, carries a relief contradistinct, vis-a-vis, the reliefs, espoused in the earlier suit, (vi) in sequel, when the matter hereat, was never directly or substantial in issue in the earlier suit, (vii) thereupon, it has to be invincibly concluded, that hence, with, the indispensable ingredients, cast in Section 10 of the CPC, not visibly begetting their apt satiation(s), conspicuously, with no evident display hence emerging, of the matters, directly or substantially, in issue, in both suits, being visibly alike, (viii) thereupon, the Court, seized with the latter suit, being not enjoined to stay, the, further proceedings thereon, (ix) even when RSA No. 385 of 2006, as arose from the verdict pronounced in the earlier suit, was, pending adjudication, and, whereon, a, verdict, stands pronounced by this Court, on 6.7.2018. Besides the purported infringements or invasions, upon, the rights of the plaintiff, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra number, when hence apparently occur, subsequent, to the institution of the earlier suit, and, when the apt invasions are proven to be committed, in, apt derogation of the rights of the plaintiff, hence, any non incorporations thereof,, in the earlier suit, of, the relief of injunction, also does not attract, the, embargo constituted under Order 2, Rule 2 of the CPC, thereupon, the extant suit is rendered maintainable.

10. Be that as it may, the learned counsel appearing for the defendants/appellants herein, has contended, that, upon a valid partition of the suit khasra number hence occurring on 4.8.1936, whereunder, the dismemberment of the hitherto suit property, rather occurred, and possession of parcels, of, the dismembered suit property, was handed over to the hitherto co-owners, (i) yet with the evidence on record making a clear demonstration, of the apt purported partition standing not cogently proven, to hence occur, (ii) hence, on anvil thereof, the defendants, cannot contend that the suit property is validly partitioned nor they can contend, that till a valid partition, occurs of the suit khasra numbers, theirs alike other co-owners, holding any compatible rights, except, with apt consent, to, hence make user thereof. Furthermore, when rather proceedings, vis-a-vis the subsequent partition, vis-a-vis, the suit khasra numbers has yet evidently remained un-consummated, thereupon, for want of culmination, of the partition proceedings, it is deemed fit, to, conclude qua the suit khasra number(s) remaining yet unpartitioned, (i) thereupon, till occurrence, of, dismemberment, of the joint estate, none of the co-owners, in the joint land, hence, holds any right to change the nature, of any portion, of the joint estate, except with the consent of the other co-owners, nor can attempt to change the nature of the suit land, by concerting to raise any construction thereon.

11. So far as the contention of the learned counsel appearing for the defendants/appellant qua the proceedings, for, resumption of the land under Section 118 of the H.P. Tenancy and Land Reforms Act, pending adjudication, before the revenue Courts is concerned, the civil court, has no jurisdiction to embark, upon the legality of the aforesaid proceedings initiated, against, the defendants. Moreover, till the conclusion of the aforesaid proceedings before the revenue Courts concerned, the defendants are co-owners along with the plaintiff, vis-a-vis the suit land, and, without the consent of the plaintiff, the defendants have not right to change the nature of the suit land.

12. The above discussion, unfolds, that the conclusions as arrived by the learned first Appellate Court as also by the learned trial Court, being based, upon a proper and mature appreciation of evidence on record. While rendering the findings, the learned first Appellate Court as well as the learned trial Court, have not excluded germane and apposite material from consideration. Accordingly, the substantial questions of law are answered in favour of the respondent/plaintiff, and, against the appellants/ defendants.

13. In view of the above discussion, there is no merit in the present Regular Second Appeal, and, it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the judgements and decrees rendered by both the learned Courts below are affirmed and maintained. Decree sheet be prepared accordingly. All pending applications also stand disposed of. No order as to costs.

Records be sent back forthwith.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

An inquiry conducted by the Assistant Registrar Cooperative Societies, Hamirpur, vis-a-vis various charges of misconduct imputed qua the delinquent/respondent No.5, sequelled adversarial findings against him. The adversarial findings, recorded by the Inquiry Officer, in his report of 16.04.2012, appertain to his embezzling the funds of the society besides his interpolating the records of the society. On receiving the inquiry report, the Managing Committee of the petitioner society, rendered, on 15.03.2003, an order, for the dismissal of the services, of respondent No.5. Preceding, the rendition of the aforesaid order, by the Managing Committee, of the petitioner society, a show cause notice was served upon respondent No.5, copy whereof is appended, as Annexure P-2, with the extant petition, wherafter, as borne on a perusal of Annexure P-3, respondent No.5 meted reply thereto, wherein, he urged, of, no penalty being imposable upon him. However, in Annexure P-3, he did not unveil, the trite grounds, whereupon, he concerted to assail the findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer, rather he proceeded to, in paragraph No.2, of Annexure P-3, merely make a communication, of, the inquiry report prepared on 12.04.2012, not recording findings, of inculpation vis-a-vis any serious mis-conduct, hence, the extant inquiry report being misconceived. The delinquent/respondent No.5, being aggrieved, by the order rendered by the Managing Committee, of the petitioner-society, hence, preferred an appeal therefrom, before the Additional Registrar (Administration) Cooperative Societies, H.P.. Appeal whereof, came to be registered as appeal No.263 of 2013, (i) thereon, the Appellate Authority, ordered, for the reinstatement in service of respondent No.5 herein and also proceeded to quash resolution No.4 of 22.2.2013, (ii) besides reserved liberty, to the Managing Committee, to impose upon respondent No.5, any penalty, excepting penalty(ies) of his dismissal or termination from service. The society concerned is aggrieved therefrom, hence, has preferred the instant petition before this Court.

2. The reasons which prevailed upon the Appellate Authority, for, rendering the impugned order, are harboured upon (a) the order imposing penalty, upon, the delinquent/respondent No.5, lacking in legal sanctity, given its being rendered without preceding thereto, any opportunity of being heard standing afforded to the delinquent. However, the aforesaid reason is per se flimsy, especially when preceding the order of dismissal from service, being, pronounced upon the delinquent/respondent No.5, by the Managing Committee of the Society concerned, (b) it was, as aforestated, rather preceded by a show cause notice, borne in Annexure P-2, being served upon him, (c) notice whereof was replied under Annexure P-3 by respondent No.5. Since, the show cause notice issued vis-a-vis respondent No.5, stood appended, with, copy of resolution No.4 of 11.06.2012 and with a copy, of, inquiry report, (d) besides obviously when thereunder intimation was made vis-a-vis delinquent/respondent No.5, to show cause against the imposition vis-a-vis him, of, penalty of dismissal from service, given the incriminatory findings being recorded against him by the Inquiry Officer vis-a-vis the apposite charges of grave misconduct.

Consequently, issuance besides evident service of show cause notice, borne in Annexure P-2, upon the delinquent official, (e) does mete, the necessary compliance, with the principles of natural justice nor obviously it was open for the Appellate Authority, to conclude that for purported want, of the delinquent official concerned, being heard by the disciplinary authority concerned, (f) nor any show cause notice being served upon him, the resolution rendered by the society concerned, whereby, his services were ordered to be dismissed, hence, wanted in legal sanctity.

3. Added vigour to the aforesaid conclusion, is garnered by the factum, of, the delinquent official concerned, meteing his reply tot he show cause notice, wherein, he omitted to spell out the reasons or his grounds, of, disconcurrence with the adversarial findings recorded vis-a-vis him, by the Inquiry Officer concerned. The omission(s) aforesaid rather are grave and contrarily, render open an inference, of the delinquent official concerned, waiving his right, AND also, of, his rather in an inappropriate manner canvassing, his agitations vis-a-vis the adversarial findings recorded vis-a-vis him, by the Inquiry Officer. Further effect thereof, is that the Appellate Authority, has wandered astray, in concluding, of, no compliance vis-a-vis principles of natural justice standing meted, by the Society concerned, (ii) conspicuously with there occurring no specific mandate, in the apposite statute or the Rules framed thereunder, whereupon the Managing Committee of the Society concerned, stood enjoined, to, preceding its imposing penalty, hence afford a personal hearing to the delinquent official concerned. Even otherwise, the aforesaid succinct reply furnished, by the delinquent official concerned vis-a-vis the show cause notice served upon him, does negate, any espousal of respondent No.5, (iii) of the adversarial findings recorded vis-a-vis him by the Inquiry Officer concerned, being not anvilled upon any evidence or theirs arising from the inquiry officer concerned mis-appreciating, the relevant evidence besides his omitting to appreciate the relevant evidence, germane to the articles of charge, (iv) also, the Appellate Authority, without, delving into the crucial factum, of any misdemeanour standing purportedly, conducted, by the Inquiry Officer concerned, arising, from his misappreciating evidence or his not appreciating the relevant evidence germane to the articles of charge, was, rather precluded, to merely on purported non compliance, by the disciplinary authority, with the principles of natural justice, (v) hence, render any conclusion, that the penalty of dismissal from service, imposed, upon the delinquent in pursuance to adversarial findings recorded against him by the Inquiry Officer, rather merited interference. Moreover, the reasons ascribed, by the Appellate Authority, for, interfering with the order imposing penalty of dismissal, from, service upon the delinquent official, by the competent disciplinary authority, is anvilled upon a charge, bearing similarity with the articles of charge(s), whereon, adversarial findings were recorded by the Inquiry Officer, rather hence pending adjudication before the Additional Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, (vi) thereupon, no reliance being amenable to be placed upon the report furnished, by the Inquiry officer concerned. However, the aforesaid reason is per se specious, especially when no evidence has been placed on record, demonstrative, of, any Court of competent jurisdiction, restraining the Inquiry Officer concerned, from, holding a domestic inquiry against the delinquent official concerned, even when the hereat articles of charge(s), purportedly bore, similarity vis-a-vis charges, framed against the delinquent official, by the competent court of criminal jurisdiction. Consequently, it was not open, for the inquiry officer, to await for rendition of a verdict, by the competent court of criminal jurisdiction, upon, charges vis-a-vis the one(s) in respect whereof, adversarial findings stood recorded by the Inquiry Officer against the delinquent official, adversarial findings whereof stood validly accepted, by the disciplinary authority concerned nor hence the Inquiry report acquires any stain of any want, of, jurisdictional competence vis-a-vis its author. On receiving the inquiry report, the Managing Committee of the petitioner society, rendered, on 15.03.2003, an order, for the dismissal of the services, of respondent No.5. Preceding, the rendition of the aforesaid order, by the Managing Committee, of the petitioner society, a show cause notice was served upon

4. a grThe Appellate Authority has also committed ave error, On receiving the inquiry report, the Managing Committee of the petitioner society, rendered, on 15.03.2003, an order, for the dismissal of the services, of respondent No.5. Preceding, the rendition of the On receiving the inquiry report, the Managing Committee of the petitioner society, rendered, on 15.03.2003, an order, for the dismissal of the services, of respondent No.5. Preceding, the rendition of the aforesaid order, by the Managing Committee, of the petitioner society, a show cause notice was served upon aforesaid order, by the Managing Committee, of the petitioner society, a show cause notice was served upon in, after its interfering, with the order imposing penalty of dismissal, from service upon the delinquent official, by the disciplinary authority concerned, its making a direction, upon it, to except imposing a penalty of dismissal from service or termination from service upon him, impose any other penalty. The aforesaid order is in dire contradiction, with earlier therewith aforesaid reasons, (i) wherein rather the Appellate Authority, proceeded to untenably interfere with the adversarial findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer vis-a-vis the delinquent official/respondent No.5. Be that as it may, given the severity of the proven misconduct against the delinquent official/respondent No.5 AND the necessity of existence of perennial, of, trust in him by the society concerned, being a sine qua non, for securing the continuity in service of the delinquent official/respondent No.5, (ii) thereupon, the magnitude of the proven misconduct against the delinquent official, has naturally eroded the trust and confidence, of, the society concerned, in the delinquent official, whereupon, it was grossly improper for the Appellate Authority, to order for retaining, the delinquent official concerned, in service.

5. The learned counsel appearing for respondent No.5, has contended with much vigour, before, this Court that given the mandate, of, the apt portion of the hereinafter extracted sub-rule (3) of Rule 43, of the rules framed under the Himachal Pradesh Cooperative Societies Act, 1968:-

> "Unless other wise provided in the bye-laws, or in the terms of his appointment and subject to the provisions of Section 72 of the Act, any officer of the Society appointed by the managing committee may be removed from his office by the managing committee, subject to approval of the Registrar."

(i) it was imperative, for, the managing committee concerned to receive the concurrence, of, the Registrar concerned, before it proceeded, to impose penalty of dismissal upon him, (ii) whereas, the Registrar concerned, not, meteing his concurrence vis-a-vis the proposal of the society concerned, for dismissing respondent No.5, from service, (iii) thereupon, the mandate of sub-rule 3 of Rule 43, of the Rules framed under the Act aforesaid, is infringed, (iv) whereupon, the order of dismissal from service of the delinquent official hence warrants interference. Significantly, the omission aforesaid in the apt rules, is to safeguard against interference(s) by the apt statutory authority(ies) with renditions, of, the aforesaid order, especially when its per se taking force, is imperative for ensuring elimination of errant official(s) vis-a-vis whom graHowever, in making the aforesaid submission, the learned counsel appearing for respondent No.5, has remained unmindful to the factum, of, sub-rule (3) providing, for, the general body of the society concerned, being the solitary repository, of, jurisdiction, for ordering for removal, from service of the delinquent official concerned, upon the apposite charges standing proved, (v) yet the proposal for removal, from service, to acquire validity, is enjoined, prior to its making, hence meted concurrence by the Registrar of the Cooperative Societies concerned. (vi) However, the peremptoriness, of, compliance with the aforesaid statutory requirement, arises, only when the apt proposal, is vis-a-vis removal from service, of, the errant official concerned, (vii) whereas, with the society concerned, extantly, ordering for dismissal, from service of the errant official concerned, (viii) obviously, hence, when the parlance, borne by the phrase "dismissal from service" is contradistinct, from, the parlance borne by the phrase "removal from service", (ix) and with the phrase "dismissal from service", not, occurring in the apt sub-rule (3) of Rule 43 of the rules, framed, under the Act, (x) thereupon, no peremptory compliance is enjoined to meted thereto, nor it was incumbent upon the disciplinary authority, to, prior to is ordering, for dismissal from service, of the errant official, to hence seek the concurrence of the Registrar of the Cooperative Societies.ve charge(s) of moral turpitude, stand, evidently proven, hence rendering him to lose the trust of the Society.

6. For the foregoing reasons, the instant petition is allowed and the order rendered by the Additional Registrar (Administration) Co-operative Societies, H.P. at Shimla in Appeal No.264/13 on 24.7.2013 is set aside. All pending applications also stand disposed of.

For the Petitioner: Mr. Dalip K. Sharma, Advocate.

For Respondents No. 1: Mr. Hemant Vaid, Addl. Advocate General and Mr. Y.S. Thakur, Dy. A.G.

For Respondents No.2 to 5: Mr. Satyen Vaidya, Senior Advocate with Mr. Vivek Sharma, Advocate.

The following judgment of the Court was delivered:

Sureshwar Thakur, Judge.

The instant criminal revision stands directed, against, the orders recorded on 17.03.2016, by the learned Sessions Judge, Solan, camp at Nalagarh in Case No.7 NL/7 of 2013, whereunder, he discharged the accused vis-a-vis the offences constituted under Section 306 read with Section 34 of the IPC.

2. The learned counsel appearing, for, the petitioner has with much fervor and vehemence, hence, argued before this Court, that the impugned order, is, wanting in legal vigour, (a) especially when the material existing, on record, does prima facie, make, displays of offences being committed, by the accused under Section 306 read with Section 34 IPC, (b) thereupon, rather the learned Sessions Judge concerned, was enjoined to frame, charges, against the accused, under, the aforesaid penal provisions, rather than to discharge them. The learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, has, in support of his submission(s), hence, has placed reliance, upon, certain material existing, on record, material whereof, is, comprised in a suicide note, suicide note whereof stands opined by the FSL concerned, to be authored, by the deceased, contents whereof reads as under:

> "(1) Vipal Vohar, Kaml Chandel, G.M. Sahab, Harender , merit maut ka karan hai, jisme meri koi galati nahi hai.
> (2) Gain Singh, Vishavnath ka jhagra hua koi action nahi liya Kamal Chandel ne.
>
> (3) G.M. Sahab aur Susheel Ka Jhagra hua to koi action nhi liya.
> (4) Harender ka jhagra hua mere sath hus to turant ation liye, H.R. department apne bandi ka paksh lete hai.".

therein revelations occur (a) of one Vipual Vohar, Kamal Chandel, G.M., and, one Harender, hence, instigating the deceased, to commit suicide; (b) on a scuffle occurring inter se Gain Singh, and, one Vishavnath, no action being taken, by one Kamal Chandel, (c) and, on a scuffle, occurring, inter se G.M., and, one Susheel, also no action being taken, (d) whereas, in a scuffle, ensuing inter se the deceased, and, one Harender, prompt action being taken, against both, by the apt ccused. (e) with Vishavnath in his statement recorded under Section 161, of, the Cr.P.C., rendering corroboration thereto, and, also the brother of the deceased, in his statement recorded under Section 161, Cr.P.C. meteing corroboration thereto, (f) thereupon, immense vigour, being acquired by the suicide note, and, hence the learned Sessions Judge concerned, was enjoined to charge the accused, for the offences committed, under Section 306 read with Section 34 of the IPC.

3. For determining, the vigour of the aforesaid contention, addressed before this Court, by the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, it is imperative to bear in mind, the provisions borne in Section 107, of, the IPC, provisions whereof stand extracted hereinafter:-

> "107. Abetment of a thing.—A person abets the doing of a thing, who—
>
> First — Instigates any person to do that thing; or

> Secondly —Engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to the doing of that thing; or
> Thirdly — Intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing."

and upon prima facie satiation thereof hence emerging, thereupon, this court, would be constrained, to, reverse the orders pronounced, by the learned Sessions Judge concerned. The intricate besides the gravest nuance, borne in the afore extracted provisions, occurring in Section 107 of the IPC, and, meteing (s), of, satiation(s) vis—vis ingredients thereof, importantly by the afore referred material, is also imperative, is of, (a) the mens rea of the accused, to actuate or prompt, the deceased to commit suicide, (b) intentional aiding, by any act or illegal omission(s) by each of the accused, in the act, of, the deceased, hence, committing suicide.

4. Nowat, bearing in mind, the innate subtle nuance, of, the afore extracted provisions occurring in Section 107 of the IPC, and, blending them vis-a-vis the contents, of, the suicide note, (a) wherein incriminatory ascriptions are made by the deceased vis-a-vis the accused, comprised, in the accused, taking prompt action against him, and, one Harender, upon a scuffle occurring inter se him and the latter, (b) whereas, theirs omitting to take an alike action against other employees, cannot per se rear any inference of, (c) thereupon, the accused/employers, of, the deceased carrying in their respective minds, the imperative peremptory mens rea, of, hence theirs goading and prompting or instigating the deceased, to commit suicide, (d) nor also it can be said that the disciplinary action visited, by the accused, upon, one Harender, and, upon the deceased, (d) and, the omission(s) on the part of the employers, to not visit, any, alike action, upon other derelicting employees also constituting or holding therewithin elements, of, theirs intentionally aiding by any purported willful commission(s) or omission(s), in hence, the deceased, rather committing suicide nor it can be held, of, theirs purportedly instigating the deceased to commit suicide. Even though, the suicide note, is, prepared in proximity to the deceased committing suicide, and, hence the imperative principle of proximity inter se its preparation, and, the ultimate act, of the deceased hence committing suicide, is, thereupon satiated, (e) yet in garb of the suicide note, importantly, when the peremptory ingredients aforesaid, for enabling criminal inculpation(s), of, the accused vis-a-vis the commission of suicide, by the deceased, remains, rather grossly unsatiated by the apt suicide note, hence no firm inference qua prima facie, the order impugned, warranting reversal can be hence erected, (f) rather it appears, of, the deceased therein only ventilating, grievance(s), against, the disciplinary authority concerned. Even though, any disciplinary measure(s) initiated by the disciplinary authority concerned vis-a-vis the delinquent employee(s), (g) may, when is accompanied by prima facie, gross entrenched malafide(s) on the part of the employers, besides is entwined with vice(s) of intentional harassment, and, maltreatment, of, the deceased/errant official, concomitantly, thereupon, may grip, the disciplinary action initiated, against the employee, by the disciplinary authority, to be vitiated, (h) also hence an inference would spur, of its initiation, carrying the requisite mens rea, of, hence it being intentional also it fostering, the deceased, to, commit suicide. However, hereat, there is no material placed, on record, (i) qua in the visiting, of, disciplinary measures, against, the deceased, by the disciplinary authority, it carrying, any element, of, it being prima facie gripped with entrenched intentional malafides or malice, and, only, for perpetuation, of, harassment and illtreatment upon him, (ii) or its initiation being spurred, for ensuring, despite no material existing on record, in personification, of, his proven derelictions, hence, his victimization, or wreaking founded vendetta upon the deceased. In absence of the aforesaid material, it appears, of the disciplinary measures, visited, upon the deceased, by his employer being founded, upon, sound and tangible material, and, hence being free, from, any trait(s) of intentional apt mens rea, (ii) more so, when one Vishavnath, in his statement recorded under Section 161 of the Cr.P.C., metes corroboration thereto. Since, Harender also was meted punishment alike the one meted to the deceased, whereas, apparently with Harender rather not taking, the ultimate step of his committing suicide, whereas, rather only, the deceased taking the ultimate step, of committing suicide, and, with Harender also being arrayed as an accused, (iii) whereas, upon a reading of the aforesaid statement, the aforesaid Harender along with the deceased, was, equally responsible, for, the scuffle which ensued inter se them, (iv) thereupon for the proven misdemeanor, committed by the deceased, in respect whereof, he was meted a minimal punishment, it appears rather that, he has taken the ultimate step, of his committing suicide, commission, of, suicide whereof,by him, appears to be a step in dis-concurrence with the proven misdemeanor, and, also is disproportionate vis-a-vis the minimal punishment meted upon him. The effect, of Harender, not taking the ultimate step to commit suicide, whereas, he alike the deceased, was meted an alike punishment, also reiteratedly hence begets an inference, qua the legality of the disciplinary action visited, upon, both by the disciplinary authority, besides eliminates any inference, of, any rearing(s) of any disciplinary measures, vis-a-vis both, rather carrying entrenched vice(s), of, victimization or vendetta, reared against both, by the employer nor the visiting of disciplinary action, by the disciplinary authority, upon, both is gripped, with the apt incriminatory mens rea, nor thereupon, any inentional actuatory instigation, stood, purveyed to the deceased.

5. Even though, the brother of the deceased, has, in his statement recorded under Section 161 of the Cr.P.C., hence has made echoings, therein, of given the perenniality, of, perpetration, of maltreatment or illtreatment, upon the deceased by the latter's employer, hence, carrying a traumatic effect on his psyche, hence, leading him to commit suicide. However, the statement of the brother, of, the accused, is recorded, with a year elapsing, since, the deceased committing suicide, thereupon, the belated recording of the statement, of, the brother of the deceased, hence engenders an inference of it, hence, carrying stains of invention or concoction, rendering it to be unbelieveable, (i) and even otherwise, with, the suicide note authored, by the deceased rather holding proximity, with the commission, of, suicide by the deceased, thereupon, with its holding a degree, of, purported evidentiary worth higher vis-a-vis, the evidentiary worth, of, the belatedly recorded, statement of the brother of deceased, (ii) AND with this Court, negating the effect of the suicide note, thereupon, also the statement of the brother of the deceased, is ridden of its apt evidentiary worth, if any.

6. The aforesaid inference, derived, by this Court marshals immense strength, and, vigour from a judgment, of the Hon'ble Apex Court, rendered, in a case titled as Sate of Kerala and others vs. Unnikrishnan Nair and others, reported in (2015)9 SCC 629, the relevant paragraph No.9 to 17 whereof are extracted hereinafter:-

> "9. To appreciate the rivalised submissions in the obtaining factual matrix, it is necessary to understand the concept of abatement as enshrined in Section 107 IPC. The said provision reads as follows:-
>
> "107. A person abets the doing of a thing, who –
>
> First – Instigates any person to do that thing; or
>
> Secondly – Engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to the doing of that thing; or

Thirdly – Intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing.

Explanation 1. – A person who, by wilful misrepresentation, or by wilful concealment of a material fact which he is bound to disclose, voluntarily causes or procures, or attempts to cause or procure, a thing to be done, is said to instigate the doing of that thing.

Explanation 2 – Whoever, either prior to or at the time of commission of an act, does anything in order to facilitate the commission of that act, and thereby facilitates the commission thereof, is said to aid the doing of that act."

10. The aforesaid provision was interpreted in Kishori Lal v. State of M.P, (2007)10 SCC 797, by a two-Judge Bench and the discussion therein is to the following effect:- (SCC p.799, para 6)

> "Section 107 IPC defines abetment of a thing. The offence of abetment is a separate and distinct offence provided in IPC. A person, abets the doing of a thing when (1) he instigates any person to do that thing; or (2) engages with one or more other persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing; or (3) intentionally aids, by act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing. These things are essential to complete abetment as a crime. The word "instigate" literally means to provoke, incite, urge on or bring about by persuasion to do any thing. The abetment may be by instigation, conspiracy or intentional aid, as provided in the three clauses of Section 107.Section 109 provides that if the act abetted is committed in consequence of abetment and there is no provision for the punishment of such abetment, then the offender is to be punished with the punishment provided for the original offence. "Abetted" in Section 109 means the specific offence abetted. Therefore, the offence for the abetment of which a person is charged with the abetment is normally linked with the proved offence."

11. In Analendu Pal Alis Jhantu v. State of West Bengal, (2005)2 SCC 659 dealing with expression of abetment the Court observed:-

> "The expression "abetment" has been defined under Section 107 IPC which we have already extracted above. A person is said to abet the commission of suicide when a person instigates any person to do that thing as stated in clause Firstly or to do anything as stated in clauses Secondly or Thirdly of Section 107 IPC. Section 109 IPC provides that if the act abetted is committed pursuant to and in consequence of abetment then the offender is to be punished with the punishment provided for the original offence. Learned counsel for the respondent State, however, clearly stated before us that it would be a case where clause Thirdly of Section 107 IPC only would be attracted. According to him, a case of abetment of suicide is made out as provided for under Section 107 IPC."

12. As we find from the narration of facts and the material brought on record in the case at hand, it is the suicide note which forms the fulcrum of the allegations and for proper appreciation of the same, we have reproduced it herein-before. On a plain reading of the same, it is difficult to hold that there has been any abetment by the respondents. The note, except saying that the respondents compelled him to do everything and cheated him and put him in deep trouble, contains nothing else. The respondents were inferior in rank and it is surprising that such a thing could happen. That apart, the allegation is really vague. It also baffles reason, for the department had made him the head of the investigating team and the High Court had reposed complete faith in him and granted him the liberty to move the court, in such a situation, there was no warrant to feel cheated and to be put in trouble by the officers belonging to the lower rank. That apart, he has also put the blame on the Chief Judicial Magistrate by stating that he had put pressure on him. He has also made the allegation against the Advocate.

13. In Netai Dutta (supra), a two-Judge Bench, while dealing with the concept of abetment under Section 107 I.P.C. and, especially, in the context of suicide note, had to say this: (SCC p.661, paras 6-7)

> "6. In the suicide note, except referring to the name of the appellant at two places, there is no reference of any act or incidence whereby the appellant herein is alleged to have committed any wilful act or omission or intentionally aided or instigated the deceased Pranab Kumar Nag in committing the act of suicide. There is no case that the appellant has played any part or any role in any conspiracy, which ultimately instigated or resulted in the commission of suicide by deceased Pranab Kumar Nag.
> 7. Apart from the suicide note, there is no allegation made by the complainant that the appellant herein in any way was harassing his brother, Pranab Kumar Nag. The case registered against the appellant is without any factual foundation. The contents of the alleged suicide note do not in any way make out the offence against the appellant. The prosecution initiated against the appellant would only result in sheer harassment to the appellant without any fruitful result. In our opinion, the learned Single Judge seriously erred in holding that the First Information Report against the appellant disclosed the elements of a cognizable offence. There was absolutely no ground to proceed against the appellant herein. We find that this is a fit case where the extraordinary power under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is to be invoked. We quash the criminal proceedings initiated against the appellant and accordingly allow the appeal."

14. In M. Mohan (supra), (2011)3 SCC 626, while dealing with the abatement, the Court has observed thus: (SCC p.638, paras 44-45)

> "44. Abetment involves a mental process of instigating a person or intentionally aiding a person in doing of a thing. Without a positive act on the part of the accused to instigate or aid in committing suicide, conviction cannot be sustained.
> 45. The intention of the Legislature and the ratio of the cases decided by this court are clear that in order to convict a person under section 306 IPC there has to be a clear mens rea to commit the offence. It also requires an active act or direct act which led the deceased to commit suicide seeing no option and this act must have been intended to push the deceased into such a position that he/she committed suicide."

15. As far as Praveen Pradhan (supra), (2012)9 SCC 734, is concerned, Mr. Rao, has emphatically relied on it for the purpose that the Court had declined to quash the F.I.R. as there was a suicide note. Mr. Rao has drawn out attention to paragraph 10 of the judgment, wherein the suicide note has been reproduced. The Court in the said case has referred to certain authorities with regard to Section 107 I.P.C. and opined as under: (SCC p.741, paras 18-19)

"18. In fact, from the above discussion it is apparent that instigation has to be gathered from the circumstances of a particular case. No straight-jacket formula can be laid down to find out as to whether in a particular case there has been instigation which force the person to commit suicide. In a particular case, there may not be direct evidence in regard to instigation which may have direct nexus to suicide. Therefore, in such a case, an inference has to be drawn from the circumstances and it is to be determined whether circumstances had been such which in fact had created the situation that a person felt totally frustrated and committed suicide. More so, while dealing with an application for quashing of the proceedings, a court cannot form a firm opinion, rather a tentative view that would evoke the presumption referred to under Section 228 Cr.P.C.

19. Thus, the case is required to be considered in the light of aforesaid settled legal propositions. In the instant case, alleged harassment had not been a casual feature, rather remained a matter of persistent harassment. It is not a case of a driver; or a man having an illicit relationship with a married woman, knowing that she also had another paramour; and therefore, cannot be compared to the situation of the deceased in the instant case, who was a qualified graduate engineer and still suffered persistent harassment and humiliation and additionally, also had to endure continuous illegal demands made by the appellant, upon non-fulfillment of which, he would be mercilessly harassed by the appellant for a prolonged period of time. He had also been forced to work continuously for a long durations in the factory, vis-à-vis other employees which often even entered to 16-17 hours at a stretch. Such harassment, coupled with the utterance of words to the effect, that, "had there been any other person in his place, he would have certainly committed suicide" is what makes the present case distinct from the aforementioned cases considering the facts and circumstances of the present case, we do not think it is a case which requires any interference by this court as regards the impugned judgment and order of the High Court."

16. We have quoted in extenso from the said judgment and we have no hesitation in stating that the suicide note therein was quite different, and the Court did think it appropriate to quash the proceedings because of the tenor and nature of the suicide note. Thus, the said decision is distinguishable regard being had to the factual score exposited therein.

17. Coming to the case at hand, as we have stated earlier, the suicide note really does not state about any continuous conduct of harassment and, in any case, the facts and circumstances are quite different. In such a situation, we are disposed to think that the High Court is justified in quashing the proceeding, for it is an accepted position in law that where no prima facie case is made out against the accused, then the High Court is obliged in law to exercise the jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Code and quash the proceedings. [See V.P. Shrivastava v. Indian Explosives Limited and Others]

18. Before parting with the case, we are impelled to say something. Mr. Bhushan, learned counsel appearing for the respondent No. 1 & 2 has drawn our attention to a facet of earlier judgment of the High Court wherein it has been mentioned that at one time the deceased was pressurised by some superior officers. We have independently considered the material brought on record and arrived at our conclusion. But, regard being had to the suicide note and other > concomitant facts that have been unfurled, we are compelled to recapitulate the saying that suicide reflects a "species of fear". It is a sense of defeat that corrodes the inner soul and destroys the will power and forces one to abandon one's own responsibility. To think of self-annihilation because of something which is disagreeable or intolerable or unbearable, especially in a situation where one is required to perform public duty, has to be regarded as a non-valiant attitude that is scared of the immediate calamity or self-perceived consequence. We may hasten to add that our submission has nothing to do when a case under Section 306 IPC is registered in aid of Section 113A of the Evidence Act, 1872.

> 19. In the result, we do not perceive any merit in the appeal and the same stands dismissed accordingly."

Furthermore the aforesaid inference also gathered strength, from, a pronouncement recorded, by the Hon'ble Apex Court, in case titled as Netai Dutta vs. State of W.B., reported in (2005)2 SCC 659.

7. For the reasons aforesaid, the material as discussed hereinabove, does not prima facie, withstand the test, of, the ingredients borne, in the apposite provisions borne in Section 107 of the IPC, thereupon, no prima facie case, is made out, against the accused, for the commission of offence(s), punishable under Section 306 of the IPC read with Section 34 IPC. Consequently, there is no merit in the instant petition and it is dismissed accordingly. In sequel, the impugned order is affirmed and maintained. All pending applications also stand disposed of. Records be sent back forthwith.
